intro duction

An effective logo speaks directly and instantly. A logo, unlike a multi-page brochure or even a poster, must deliver the goods with minimal means. Well designed logos deliver the message and the essence of the business they represent. A letterhead system allows the designer a wider breadth of possibilities: clever printing techniques and the use of paper distinguish the most unique and dynamic systems.

In making this book, we opened hundreds of envelopes and sifted through countless submissions: in them we discovered the diverse range of logos, letterheads, envelopes, business cards, disk stickers, and packaging labels that fill this book with thoughtful and sophisticated work.

We probably could have filled the whole book with Art Chantry's handcrafted and streetwise logos. Avoiding digital means entirely, Chantry proves once again that good design is about good ideas, not the latest computer program.

Carlos Segura integrates [T-26]'s artistic and contemporary typefaces with traditional letterpress techniques to create well-crafted and dynamic letterhead pieces.

Hornall Anderson Design Works delivered an array of work for creative and professional services that incorporated a classic and refined use of typography and imagery.

We received submissions from all over the world—and found that sensitive typography, more than anything else, distinguishes a good logo or letterhead from a bad one. In the original printed material, the various weights and rich textures of the papers satisfied the sense of touch, as well as design challenges. Through embossing, die cutting, and letterpressing, the featured designers celebrated the letterhead as an object passed from one person to another.

We hope you find inspiration in this collection of fresh new work from many of today's best creatives.

– Chris Reese & Clifford Stoltze
Stoltze Design

Stoltze Design was established in Boston in 1984 by Clifford Stoltze. Over the past fifteen years, the multi-dimensional studio has evolved into a ten-person team of creative and business personnel. Preferring not to specialize, the studio has worked with a diverse group of clients, ranging from the software to the entertainment industry, including Fidelity Investments, Lotus, Nokia, Houghton Mifflin, Capitol Records, and Lego toys. An avid music enthusiast, Clif Stoltze is also a partner in the Boston-based independent record label, Castle von Buhler, designing all of the packaging as well as co-producing some of the projects. This has led to assignments for record labels as diverse as Matador and Windham Hill. Stoltze Design's work includes identities, collateral, publications, packaging, and website design.

Recognized for their innovative design solutions and expressive typography, Stoltze has received numerous awards from national design organizations some of which include the American Institute of Graphic Arts (AIGA), the American Center for Design, the Society of Publication Designers (SPD), and the Type Directors Club.

Published work appears in Graphic Design America, Graphis Annual Reports, Typographics 2 Cybertype and most recently in Communication Arts, Print magazine, and in a June 1998 How magazine article, and CD Design: Breaking the Sound Barrier. Exhibited internationally in shows, Stoltze's work is also in the permanent collection of the Cooper Hewitt, National Design Museum.
