

SAN FRANCISCO PUBLIC LIBRARY

3 1223 03184 0151

A Dictionary of Slang and Unconventional English

The standard reference work on slang
Now completely revised, updated, and enlarged Seventh Edition, two volumes in one

By Eric Partridge

“The standard reference work”

“The indispensable authority”

“A masterly performance”

When, in 1937, the first edition of Eric Partridge's Dictionary of Slang and Unconventional English appeared, it was immediately proclaimed a masterpiece, drawing highest praise from virtually everyone who reviewed it.

“A tremendous job,” said The New York Times reviewer. “I venture to say his dictionary will be known as the standard reference work for English slang.”

“Accurate, intelligent, and full, it is the only work on its subject that is any longer worth having, and it will probably remain the indispensable authority for years to come,” speculated The Nation.

In the Saturday Review of Literature, H. L. Mencken remarked, “As one who has gone a-faring, in his day, through the damp and difficult catacombs of lexicography, I can testify that Eric Partridge's new ‘Dictionary of Slang and Unconventional English’ represents a really sickening amount of labor. . . . It is a serious

(Continued on back flap)

JAN 21 1980

SAN FRANCISCO PUBLIC LIBRARY

3 1223 03184 0151

A DICTIONARY OF SLANG AND UNCONVENTIONAL
ENGLISH

BY THE SAME AUTHOR

EIGHTEENTH-CENTURY ENGLISH ROMANTIC POETRY.

THE FRENCH ROMANTICS' KNOWLEDGE OF ENGLISH LITERATURE.

SHAKESPEARE'S BAWDY: A LITERARY AND PSYCHOLOGICAL ESSAY AND A COMPREHENSIVE GLOSSARY.

ORIGINS: A SHORT ETYMOLOGICAL DICTIONARY OF MODERN ENGLISH.

ENGLISH: A COURSE FOR HUMAN BEINGS.

ADVENTURING AMONG WORDS: ESSAYS UPON LANGUAGE IN GENERAL AND ETYMOLOGY IN PARTICULAR.

FROM SANSKRIT TO BRAZIL: ESSAYS UPON LANGUAGE.

USAGE AND ABUSAGE: A GUIDE TO GOOD ENGLISH.

THE CONCISE USAGE AND ABUSAGE.

NAME THIS CHILD: A DICTIONARY OF GIVEN OR CHRISTIAN NAMES.

THE 'SHAGGY DOG' STORY: A STUDY AND A SELECTION.

YOU HAVE A POINT THERE: A GUIDE TO PUNCTUATION AND ITS ALLIES.

SLANG TO-DAY AND YESTERDAY: A HISTORY AND A STUDY.

A DICTIONARY OF CLICHÉS: With an Essay.

SWIFT'S POLITE CONVERSATION: A COMMENTARY EDITION, with introduction and extensive notes.

A FIRST BOOK OF QUOTATIONS.

CHAMBER OF HORRORS: A GLOSSARY OF BRITISH AND AMERICAN OFFICIAL ENGLISH, by 'Vigilans'; introductory essay by Eric Partridge.

A DICTIONARY OF THE UNDERWORLD

British and American; 16th-20th Centuries

Done upon historical principles, it forms a companion to A Dictionary of Slang and is a sizeable book. It deals with the cant, or underworld language, of the entire British Empire as well as with that of the United States of America: Criminals, Crooks, Racketeers; Beggars and Tramps; Commercial Underworld; Drug and White-Slave Traffics.

ERIC PARTRIDGE

A DICTIONARY OF SLANG
AND UNCONVENTIONAL
ENGLISH

Colloquialisms and Catch-phrases
Solecisms and Catachreses Nicknames
Vulgarisms
and
such Americanisms as have been naturalized

SEVENTH EDITION

Two volumes in one

VOLUME I: THE DICTIONARY

VOLUME II: THE SUPPLEMENT

MACMILLAN PUBLISHING CO., INC.

NEW YORK

To the memory of

THE LATE

ALFRED SUTRO

(SAN FRANCISCO)

OF LOVELY THINGS

AND LITERATURE

LEADING TO KNOWLEDGE

AND

TRUE FRIEND

427.9 P25d 1970

Partridge, Eric,
194-1979.
A dictionary of slang
and unconventional
words. 1970]

SAN FRANCISCO PUBLIC LIBRARY

81-30J

© 1961, 1967, 1970 by Eric Partridge

All rights reserved. No part of this book may be reproduced or transmitted in any form or by any means, electronic or mechanical, including photocopying, recording or by any information storage and retrieval system, without permission in writing from the Publisher.

MACMILLAN PUBLISHING CO., INC.
866 THIRD AVENUE, NEW YORK, N.Y. 10022

Printed in the United States of America
Library of Congress catalog card number: 79-136481

Originally published in two volumes
VOLUME I: THE DICTIONARY
VOLUME II: THE SUPPLEMENT

1st edition, 1937
2nd edition, enlarged, 1938 3rd edition, much enlarged, 1949 4th edition, revised, 1951
reprinted 1953, 1956
5th edition
supplement much enlarged, 1961
6th edition
supplement revised and enlarged, 1967
7th edition
supplement revised and enlarged, 1970
reprinted 1972, 1974, 1976, 1978, 1980

PREFACE

THIS dictionary, at which I have worked harder than (I hope, but should not swear) I shall ever work again and which incorporates the results of a close observation of colloquial speech for many years, is designed to form a humble companion to the monumental Oxford English Dictionary, from which I am proud to have learnt a very great amount.

A Dictionary of Slang and Unconventional English, i.e. of linguistically unconventional English, should be of interest to word-lovers; but it should also be useful to the general as well as the cultured reader, to the scholar and the linguist, to the foreigner and the American. I have, in fact, kept the foreigner as well as the English-speaker in mind; and I have often compared British with American usage. In short, the field is of all English other than standard and other than dialectal.

Although I have not worked out the proportions, I should say that, merely approximately, they are:

Slang and Cant	50%
Colloquialisms	35%
Solecisms and Catachreses	6½%
Catch-phrases	6½%
Nicknames*	1½%
Vulgarisms	½%

(By the last, I understand words and phrases that, in no way slangy, are avoided in polite society.) For the interrelations of these classes, I must refer the reader to my Slang To-day and Yesterday: a Study and a History, where these interrelations are treated in some detail.

The degree of comprehensiveness? This may best be gauged by comparing the relevant terms in any one letter (I suggest a 'short' one like o or v) of either The Oxford English Dictionary and its Supplement or Farmer and Henley's Slang and its Analogues with the terms in the same letter here (including the inevitable Addenda). On this point, again, I have not worked out the proportions, but I should guess that whereas the O.E.D. contains † roughly 30% more than F. & H., and F. & H. has some 20% not in the O.E.D., the present dictionary contains approximately 35% more than the other two taken together and, except accidentally, has missed nothing included in those two works. Nor are my additions confined to the period since ca. 1800, a period for which—owing to the partial neglect of Vaux, Egan, 'Jon Bee', Brandon,

'Ducange Anglicus', Hotten, Ware, and Collinson, to the literally complete neglect of Baumann and Lyell, and the virtually complete neglect of Man- chon, not to mention the incomplete use made of the glossaries of military and naval unconventional terms—the lexicography of slang and other uncon- ventional English is gravely inadequate: even such 17th-18th century dictionaries as Coles's, B.E.'s, and Grose's have been only culled, not used thoroughly. Nor has proper attention been given, in the matter of dates, to the various editions of Grose (1785, 1788, 1796, 1811, 1823) and Hotten (1859, 1860, 1864, 1872, 1874): collation has been sporadic.

For Farmer & Henley there was only the excuse (which I hasten to make for my own shortcom- ings) that certain sources were not examined; the O.E.D. is differently placed, its aim, for uncon- ventional English, being selective—it has omitted what it deemed ephemeral. In the vast majority of in- stances, the omissions from, e.g., B.E., Grose, Hotten, Farmer & Henley, Ware, and others, were deliberate: yet, with all due respect, I submit that if Harman was incorporated almost in toto, so should B.E. and Grose (to take but two examples) have been. The O.E.D., moreover, has omitted certain vulgarisms and included others. Should a lexicographer, if he includes any vulgarisms (in any sense of that term), omit the others? I have given them all. (My rule, in the matter of unpleas- ant terms, has been to deal with them as briefly, as astringently, as aseptically as was consistent with clarity and adequacy; in a few instances, I had to force myself to overcome an instinctive repug- nance; for these I ask the indulgence of my readers.)

It must not, however, be thought that I am in the least ungrateful to either the O.E.D. or F. & H. I have noted every debt* to the former, not merely for the sake of its authority but to indicate my profound admiration for its work; to the latter, I have made few references—for the simple reason that the publishers have given me carte blanche permission to use it. But it may be assumed that, for the period up to 1904, and where no author or dictionary is quoted, the debt is, in most instances, to Farmer & Henley—who, by the way, have never received their dues.

It has, I think, been made clear that I also owe a very great deal to such dictionaries and glossaries as those of Weekley, Apperson; Coles, B.E.,

*I am keenly aware that, in these, the Dictionary is woefully defective.

†For the period up to 1904, when F. & H. was completed.

*Often, indeed, I have preferred its evidence to that on which I came independently.

Grose; 'Jon Bee', Hotten; Baumann, Ware; Manchon, Collinson,* Lyell; Fraser & Gibbons, and Bowen.

Yet, as a detailed examination of these pages will show, I have added considerably from my own knowledge of language-byways and from my own reading, much of the latter having been undertaken with this specific end in view.

But also I am fully aware that there must be errors, both typographical and other, and that, inevitably, there are numerous omissions. Here and now, may I say that I shall be deeply grateful for notification (and note) of errors and for words and phrases that, through ignorance, I have omitted.†

Finally, it is a pleasure to thank, for terms§ that I might well have failed to encounter, the following lady and gentlemen:

Mr J. J. W. Pollard, Mr G. D. Nicolson, Mr G. Ramsay, Mr K. G. Wyness-Mitchell, Mr G. G. M. Mitchell, Mr A. E. Strong, Mr Robert E. Brown (of Hamilton), all of New Zealand; Mr John Beames, of Canada; Mr Stanley Deegan, Mrs J. Litchfield, Mr H. C. McKay, of Australia; Dr Jean

Bordeaux, of Los Angeles. From Great Britain: Mr John Gibbons (most unselfishly), Mr Alastair Baxter (a long, valuable list), Mr Julian Franklyn (author of This Gutter Life), Mr John Brophy, Professor J. R. Sutherland, Mr J. Hodgson Lobley, R.B.A., Mr Alfred Atkins, the actor, Major-General A. P. Wavell, C.M.G., Commander W. M. Ross, Major A. J. Dawson, Mr R. A. Auty, Mr Allan M. Laing, Mr R. A. Walker, Mr G. W. Pirie, Mr D. E. Yates, Mr Joe Mourant, Mr Hugh Milner, Sgt T. Waterman, the Rev. A. K. Chignell, the Rev. A. Trevellick Cape, Mr Henry Gray, Mr E. Unné, Mr Malcolm McDougall, Mr R. B. Oram, Mr L. S. Tugwell, Mr V. C. Brodie, Mr Douglas Buchanan, Mr Will T. Fleet, Mr Fred Burton, Mr Alfred T. Chenhalls, Mr Digby A. Smith, Mr George S. Robinson (London), Mr Arthur W. Allen, Mr Frank Dean, Mr M. C. Way, Mr David MacGibbon, Mr A. Jameson, Mr Jack Lindsay, Mr 'David Hume' (of 'thriller' fame), Mr J. G. Considine, the Rev. M. Summers, Mr C. H. Davis, Mr H. E. A. Richardson, Mr J. Hall Richardson, Mr R. Ellis Roberts, Mr George Baker (who has a notable knowledge of unconventional English and no selfishness), Mr F. R. Jelley, Mr Barry Moore, Mr H. C. Cardew-Rendle, Mr Norman T. McMurdo, Mr R. H. Parrott, Mr F. Willis (Sheffield), Mr E. C. Pattison (of A Martial Medley), and, for introducing me to the work of Clarence Rook and the early work of Edwin Pugh, Mr Wilson Benington.

E. P.

LONDON; November 11, 1936.

*Professor W. E. Collinson's admirable Contemporary English. A personal speech record, 1927 (Leipzig and Berlin), is mentioned here for convenience' sake.

†With information on their milieu and period, please! This applies also to omitted senses of terms and phrases that are already represented in this work.

§The number of terms so gleaned is approximately one-eighth of the number found in the course of 'ad hoc' reading (outside the dictionaries and glossaries, bien entendu).

PREFACE TO THE FIFTH EDITION

THE new matter, which runs to some 100,000 words, has been incorporated with the Addenda of the second, third, fourth editions to form one vocabulary—a Supplement to the first edition, published in February, 1937. The earlier matter (first-fourth editions) has been revised; the corrections, when not mere 'literals' (duly listed before the dictionary proper), are included in the Supplement which now comprises Volume II.

The Supplement consists mainly of new words and phrases. Of these the most important section is the slang of World War II; next in importance, however, comes the slang first recorded in this, the fifth, edition.

The first-recorded matter covers many centuries and countries. Besides indicating many earlier datings and a few old terms, gathered by my generous correspondents from all over the world and by myself from extensive reading done during the past ten or eleven years, it is (I like to think) notable in two fields: that of the Dominions, whence various good fellows have largely enriched my own researches; and the fascinating area of catch-phrases, in which—although aided by others—I have undertaken much ad hoc work, for I felt that the earlier editions were deficient. My readings of catch-phrases are still necessarily incomplete, but no longer are they grossly inadequate.

Among my numerous helpers, all of whom I warmly thank for their patience and generosity, there are a few whose names could not be omitted from even the most cavalier and perfunctory list: Sidney J. Baker, author of The Australian Language and The Drum; Harold Griffiths, of New Zealand; Mr Douglas Leechman and Professor F. E. L. Priestley, of Canada; Colonel Albert F. Moe, of Arlington, Virginia; and, in Britain, Laurie Atkinson (well-informed and scholarly)—Julian Franklyn, author of The Cockney and A Dictionary of Rhyming Slang—Wilfred Granville, whose Sea Slang of the Twentieth Century is so very unfortunately out of print—and Albert Petch of Bournemouth, tireless gleaner and tenacious rememberer.

March 30, 1960.

E. P.

CONTENTS

PREFACE v

PREFACE TO THE FIFTH EDITION vi

NOTES TO EDITIONS and A NOTE ON ARRANGEMENT viii

ABBREVIATIONS AND SIGNS ix

ABBREVIATIONS, Supplement xi

CORRIGENDA xii

VOL. I: A DICTIONARY OF SLANG AND UNCONVENTIONAL ENGLISH 1-974

VOL. II: SUPPLEMENT 975-1528

NOTE TO SECOND EDITION

HEARTY thanks must be—and readily are—given to the following gentlemen for notice of errors and omissions:—Dr W. P. Barrett; Colonel Bates; Mr Wilson Benington; Mr John Brophy; Lieut.-General Sir J. R. E. Charles, K.C.B.; Dr M. Clement, M.D.; 'Mr J. J. Connington', very generously; Mr B. Crocker; Mr James Curtis, author of that masterly underworld novel, The Gilt Kid; Mr Brian Frith; M. François Fosca; Mr Julian Franklyn (a very valuable list); Mr David Garnett; Mr G. W. Gough; Mr Robert Graves; illegible signature (Jewish terms); Mr Harold James; Mr Gershon Legman; Mr J. Langley Levy; Mr Jack Lindsay; Dr E. V. Lucas; Mr David MacGibbon; Mr H. L. Menchen; Mr Hamish Miles; Mr George Milne; Mr Raymond Mortimer; Mr Robert Nott; Dr C. T. Onions, C.B.E.; Mr H. D. Poole; Mr Vernon Rendall (notably); Mr Basil de Sélin-court; Mr Kazim Raza Siddiqui (Lucknow); Mr G. W. Stonier, most generously; Professor J. R. Sutherland; the leader-writer in The Times (Feb. 15, 1937) and the reviewer in The Times Literary Supplement; Mr Evelyn Waugh; Major-General A. P. Wavell, C.M.G. (extensively); Professor Ernest Weekley; Mr Wilfred Whitten. These gentlemen have, in the aggregate, contributed about one-third of the new terms (and senses) incorporated, in this new edition, into the already existing Addenda: and it is more by good luck than by good management that my own contribution amounts to so much as two-thirds; I admit, however, that I looked hard for the luck.

E. P.

July 9, 1937.

NOTE TO THIRD EDITION

AFTER an interval of eleven years, with the fertilizing influence of the war, there has been a considerable increase of material, especially in the combatant services. Both the new words, and the additional matter affecting the older material, have been incorporated into the Addenda—a supplement that brings together, in this one section, not only the Addenda of the second edition (1938) but also the entirety of the later, and of the later-discovered, material. To mention every single person that has helped me, in one degree or another, would be almost impossible, but I must particularize the kindness of Mr Sidney J. Baker and Lieut. Wilfred Granville, R.N.V.R., without whose published and unpublished works these Addenda would be so very much poorer; for the new South African matter, I am indebted to the four correspondents that supplied me with South African cant for A Dictionary of the Underworld, where, by the way, the curious will find a much fuller treatment of such cant terms as are included in A Dictionary of Slang and many not there included, this applying especially to terms of American origin. Of Service contributors, one of the most valuable has been Sgt-Pilot F. Rhodes (to quote his rank in September, 1942); Sgt Gerald Emanuel (letter of March 29, 1945) vies with him; and Flying-Officer Robert Hinde and Wing-Commander Robin McDouall have been most helpful. My best Army contributor has been Lieut. Frank Roberts, R.A., now a master at Cotton College. Nor may I, without the grossest discourtesy, omit the names of Mr F. W. Thomas (of The Star); the late Professor A. W. Stewart (widely known as 'J. J. Connington', writer of detective novels); and, above all, Mr Albert Petch (of Bournemouth)—three loyal helpers. Also, at the eleventh hour, I have received a valuable set of pellucid and scholarly notes from Mr Laurie Atkinson.

E. P.

July 31, 1948.

NOTE TO FOURTH EDITION

A few corrections have been made.

June 14, 1950.

E. P.

A NOTE ON ARRANGEMENT

There are two main systems of arranging words in a dictionary. The strictly alphabetical; the 'something before nothing'. No system is wholly satisfactory; the arrangements* in the 'O.E.D.', in 'Webster' and, to compare small things with great, the present dictionary are open to severe criticism—severe but unreasonable. No arrangement is, for no arrangement can be, perfect.

Here, the 'something before nothing' system has been adopted—for the simple reason that it is the most suitable to a dictionary of this kind. Thus A.B. precedes abaddon, but it also precedes Aaron. Perhaps an example is more illuminating: a; A.A. of the G.G.; A.B.; A.B.C.; A.B.C., as easy as; a-cockbill a-crash of, go; A.D.; a-doing of; a.f.; A from a windmill; Al; Aaron; abaa; abaddon; abaht. Further, all come (or come-) terms, beginning with come, including come it, come out, come the . . ., and ending with come Yorkshire, precede comedy-merchant. Terms that are spelt both as two words (e.g. cock-tail) and as one (cocktail) present a difficulty. I give them as, e.g., cock-tail, and at, e.g., cocktail insert a cross-reference: to scholars, some of these precautions may seem mere foolishness, but there are others to be considered.

*An examination of any ten consecutive pages in these three works will show the recalcitrance of the English (and American) vocabulary—with its 'analytical' phrases—to the rigidity, and the desirability, of lexicographical principles, however sound those principles may be.

ABBREVIATIONS AND SIGNS

abbr.	.	.	.	abbreviation, or shortening; abbreviated, abridged
adj.	.	.	.	adjective
adv.	.	.	.	adverb
after	.	.	.	after the fashion of; on the analogy of anon.	.	.	.	anonymous
app.	.	.	.	apparently
Apperson	.	.	.	G. L. Apperson, English Proverbs and Proverbial Phrases , 1929
B. & P.	.	.	.	Brophy & Partridge, Songs and Slang of the British Soldier, 1914-1918 (3rd ed. 1931)
Barrère & Leland	.	.	.	Barrère & Leland, A Dictionary of Slang, Jargon, and Cant , 1889-90
Baumann	.	.	.	Heinrich Baumann's Londonismen , 1887
B.E.	.	.	.	B.E.'s Dictionary of the Canting Crew , ca. 1690. (Better dated 1693-99)
Bee	.	.	.	'Jon Bee', Dictionary , 1823.
Bowen	.	.	.	F. Bowen's Sea Slang , 1929
Brandon	.	.	.	Brandon's Glossary of Cant in 'Dueange Anglicus'
c.	.	.	.	cant, i.e. language of the underworld
C.	.	.	.	century; as C. 18, the 18th century
c. and low	.	.	.	cant and low slang
ca.	.	.	.	about (the year . . .)
cf.	.	.	.	compare
C.O.D.	.	.	.	Concise Oxford Dictionary
Coles.	.	.	.	E. Coles, Dictionary , 1676
coll.	.	.	.	colloquial(ism)
Collinson	.	.	.	W. E. Collinson, Contemporary English , 1927 c.p.	.	.	.	a catch-phrase
d.	.	.	.	died
Dawson	.	.	.	L. Dawson's Nicknames and Pseudonyms , 1908
dial.	.	.	.	dialect; dialectal(ly)
Dict.	.	.	.	Dictionary
D.N.B.	.	.	.	Dictionary of National Biography
'Dueange Anglicus'	.	.	.	his The Vulgar Tongue , 1857
ed.	.	.	.	edition
E.D.D.	.	.	.	The English Dialect Dictionary , by Joseph Wright
e.g.	.	.	.	for example
Egan's Grose	.	.	.	See 'Grose' below.
Eng.	.	.	.	English
esp.	.	.	.	especially ex	.	.	.	from; derived from
F. & Gibbons	.	.	.	Fraser & Gibbons, Soldier and Sailor Words and Phrases , 1925
F. & H.	.	.	.	Farmer & Henley's Slang and its Analogues , 7 vols., 1890-1904
fig.	.	.	.	figurative(ly)
fl.	.	.	.	flourished (floruit)
Fowler	.	.	.	H. W. Fowler's Modern English Usage , 1926
Fr.	.	.	.	French
gen.	.	.	.	general(ly); usual(ly)
Ger.	.	.	.	German
Gr.	.	.	.	Greek
Grose	.	.	.	Grose's Dictionary of the Vulgar Tongue (1785, 1788, 1796, 1811, 1823). Hence, Egan's Grose = Egan's ed. of Grose, 1823. Grose, P. = my annotated reprint of the 3rd ed.
G.W.	.	.	.	The War of 1914-18
H.	.	.	.	J. C. Hotten, The Slang Dictionary , 1859, 1860, etc.
ibid.	.	.	.	in the same authority or book
id.	.	.	.	the same
i.e.	.	.	.	that is

imm.	.	.	immediately
Irwin	.	.	Godfrey Irwin, American Tramp and Underworld Slang , 1931
It.	.	.	Italian
j.	.	.	jargon, i.e. technical(ity)
Jice Doone	.	.	Jico Doone, Timely Tips to New Australians , 1926
L.	.	.	Latin
Lewis	.	.	W. J. Lewis, The Language of Cricket , 1934
Lex. Bal.	.	.	The Lexicon Balatronicum , or 4th ed. of Grose, 1811
lit.	.	.	literal(ly)
literary	.	.	literary English, i.e. unused in ordinary speech
Lyell.	.	.	T. Lyell's Slang, Phrase and Idiom in Colloquial English , 1931
Manchon	.	.	J. Manchon's Le Slang , 1923
M.E.	.	.	Middle English
mod.	.	.	modern
Morris	.	.	E. E. Morris, Austral English , 1898
n.	.	.	noun
n.b.	.	.	note carefully
ob.	.	.	obsolescent; cf. †
occ.	.	.	occasional(ly)
O.E.	.	.	Old English; i.e. before ca. 1150
O.E.D. (Sup.)	.	.	The Oxford English Dictionary (Supplement) on	.	.	on the analogy of
Onions	.	.	C. T. Onions, A Shakespeare Glossary , ed. of 1919
opp.	.	.	opposite; as opposed to
orig.	.	.	original(ly)
Pettman	.	.	C. Pettman, Africanderisms , 1913
pl.	.	.	plural; in the plural
Port.	.	.	Portuguese
ppl.	.	.	participle; participial prob.	.	.	probable, probably pron.	.	.	pronounced; pronunciation
pub.	.	.	published
q.v.	.	.	which see!
resp.	.	.	respective(ly)
s.	.	.	slang
sc.	.	.	supply!; understand!
S.E.	.	.	Standard English
Slang	.	.	My Slang To-Day and Yesterday , revised ed., 1935
Smart & Crofton	.	.	B. C. Smart & H. T. Crofton, The Dialect of the English Gypsies , revised ed., 1875
S.O.D.	.	.	The Shorter Oxford Dictionary
sol.	.	.	solecism; solecistic
Sp.	.	.	Spanish
s.v.	.	.	see at
temp.	.	.	in or at the time of Thornton	.	.	R. H. Thornton's American Glossary , 1912
U.S.	.	.	The United States of America; American
v.	.	.	verb. Hence, v.i. , intransitive; v.t. , transitive Vaux	.	.	J. H. Vaux's 'Glossary of Cant, 1812', in his Memoirs , 1819 vbl.n.	.	.	verbal noun
vulg.	.	.	vulgar(ism). See Preface
W.	.	.	Ernest Weekley's Etymological Dictionary of Modern English
Ware	.	.	J. Redding Ware's Passing English , 1909
Words	.	.	My Words, Words, Words! , 1933
Yule & Burnell	.	.	Yule & Burnell, Hobson-Jobson , revised ed., 1903

— (before a date)	. known to exist then and presumably used some years earlier ¹
+ (after a date)	. in significant first use then, but still extant † obsolete; cf. ob.
= equal(s); equal to; equivalent to > become(s); became
* before a word	. a cant term

¹ A date, unpreceded by 'ca.', signifies that this is the earliest discovered record; it is well to bear in mind, however, that in slang, cant, colloquialism, catch-phrase, and solecism, the first use goes back, generally a few, occasionally many, years earlier.

ABBREVIATIONS, Supplement

Cross-references (unless specifically to Dict.) are to terms within this volume.

- Atkinson = Laurie Atkinson, typescript glossary mostly of Forces' slang, received June 1, 1948. And, 1959, a glossary of general slang, received in March.
- B., 1941, 1942, 1943, 1945, 1953 = Sidney J. Baker, New Zealand Slang, 1941; Australian Slang, 1942; Australian Slang, 3rd ed., 1943; The Australian Language, 1945; Australia Speaks, 1953.
- B. & L. = Barrère & Leland's A Dictionary of Slang, Jargon and Cant, 1889 (A-K)—1890 (L-Z).
- Bebbington (, John) = letter, March 12, 1949.
- Berrey = Lester V. Berrey, 'English War Slang', in The Nation (U.S.A.) of Nov. 9, 1940.
- Blaker = Richard Blaker, Medal without Bar, 1930.
- Boxiana = Pierce Egan, Boxiana, 4 vols., 1818–24.
- Franklyn (, Julian) = various communications (1945–59);
- Franklyn, Rhyming = his Dictionary of Rhyming Slang, 1960.
- Gilderdale = Michael Gilderdale, 'A Glossary for Our Times', in The News Chronicle, May 22 and (= Gilderdale, 2) May 23, 1958.
- Granville = Wilfred Granville, A Dictionary of Naval Slang, typescript, 1945 (invaluable). And many later communications.
- H. & P. = J. L. Hunt & A. G. Pringle, Service Slang, 1943.
- Jackson = C. H. Ward Jackson, It's a Piece of Cake, 1943.
- Leechman = Douglas Leechman, numerous communications, especially in 1959.
- MacArthur & Long = Alex. MacArthur & H. Kingsley Long, No Mean City, 1935.
- Marples = Morris Marples, Public School Slang, 1940.
- Marples (2) = Morris Marples, University Slang, 1950.
- Matthews = W. Matthews, 'London Slang at the Beginning of the XVIII Century' in Notes and Queries, June 15, 22, 29, 1935.
- Mayhew = Henry Mayhew, London Labour and the London Poor, 3 vols., 1851.
- Moe = Albert F. Moe, Colonel (ret'd) U.S. Marine Corps, communication of April 26, 1959.
- Nevinson, 1895 = H. W. Nevinson, Neighbours of Ours, 1895.
- Norman = Frank Norman, Bang to Rights, 1958. The richest non-lexical source-book since James Curtis's The Gilt Kid, 1936.
- P-G-R. = Partridge, Wilfred Granville, Frank Roberts, A Dictionary of Forces' Slang: 1939–1945, published in 1948.
- Partridge, 1945 = Eric Partridge, A Dictionary of R.A.F. Slang, 1945 (Jan.).
- Petch = Albert B. Petch, numerous communications made during 1945–57.
- Pugh = Edwin Pugh, The Cockney at Home, 1914.
- Pugh (2) = Edwin Pugh, The Spoilers, 1906.
- Richards = Frank Richards, Old-Soldier Sahib, 1936.
- Sessions = Session Paper of the Central Criminal Court, 1729–1913.
- Shaw = Frank Shaw, many notes.
- Sinks = Anon., Sinks of London Laid Open, 1848.
- Spy = C. E. Westmacott, The English Spy, 1825; vol. II, 1826.
- 'Taffrail' = 'Taffail', Carry On, 1916; esp. the article entitled 'The Language of the Navy', orig. published not later than 1915.
- The Pawnshop Murder* = John G. Brandon, The Pawnshop Murder, 1936.
- Underworld* = Eric Partridge, A Dictionary of the Underworld (British & American), 1949.

To several other correspondents, I owe much; their material being, in the main, corrective or modificatory or supplementary, they are not mentioned above. Especially, Dr David Aitken, Mr N. T. Gridgeman, Professor F. E. L. Priestley, Dr D. Pechtold and Mr C. A. Roy.

CORRIGENDA

(Pages 1-974)

- 2, abo. Read 'mid C. 19-20' and 'Australian coll.'
- 18, article of virtue. For 'virgins' read 'virgin'.
- 19, aste. For second line read 'Perhaps ex It. asta, auction'.—atcha! For 'C. 20' read 'from ca. 1860'.
Ex Hindustani accha, good.—Atkins. Read: 'See tommy, 4'
- 24, back of Bourke. In line 3, read 'north-western N.S.W.'
- 26, bag of rations. Read 'domineer-ing'.
- 27, baked. For '1850' read '1910'.
- 28, balaam. For '1826' read '1818'.
- 31, bang goes saxpence!: see Addenda, s.v. saxpence...
- 38, batty. 'Batta' should be 'bhatta'. 45, bell, ring the, line 2: read 'strength-testing'.
- 49, Bess o' Bedlam. The period should be 'C. 17—early 19'. See esp. Jack Lindsay's Tom o' Bedlam.
- 50, bevie, bevry. Read bevie, bevvy.
- 54, bint. In Arabic bint has no lit. meaning other than 'daughter'.
- 56, bit of cavalry. For '1825-80' read '1825-1915'.—bit of sticks. For 'corpse' read 'eopse'.
- 59, Black Hole, the, sense 2, line 2. The date, obviously, should be 1757!
- 75, boiled. For 'C.20' read 'from ca. 1875; orig. among Australian gold-diggers'.
- 76, bolo. In Hindustani bolo the bat would rather mean 'speak the matter (or words)'.
- 79, bookmaker's pocket should be book-maker's...
- 81, booze the jib should read 'booze one's (or the) jib or tip; also booze up the jib'.
- 91, break the neck of. For '1860' read '1810'. 98, brunch. Current at Cambridge in 1893: Arnold Wall.
- 102, bug, v. 3. For 'bug over' read 'bug over'.
- 106, burn, adj. See Addenda.
- 107, bum-fodder. Sense 1 goes back to ca. 1700.
- 108, bundabust. 'A tying, a binding' should be 'a tying and binding'. The word also means 'revenue settlement'; often spelt bundobust.
- 110, buoy, round the. Read buoy, go round the.
- 115, buttered bum. In sense 2, read 'mid-C. 17-20'.
- 132, cat, v., line 1. Read 'C. 18'.
- 137, chai. In line 3, read 'char'.
- 140, charwallah should have been printed char-wallah.
- 145, cheesy-hammy... Read... topsides.
- 150, chootah. Ex Urdu chota, small.—chop. Ex Hindi chhap, lit. a print, hence a seal or band.
- 153, chuck a dummy, line 1. 'To', not 'A'.
- 169, cold tea. The later limit should be 1910.
- 180, coppers, hot. Ignore both the entries and see hot coppers.
- 183, cottage, 2. For 'ca. 1900-12' read 'from ca. 1900; slightly ob'.
- 189, crate. Read '1914'.
- 191, eol. 1, line 1. For 'dia.' read 'dial'.
- 206, dance, v. 2. The date should be 'ca. 1650'. The term appears in Randle Holme's Armory, 1688.
- 220, Digby duck should come between dig up and digger; dig out after should follow dig out.
- 221, dine museum. Obviously Ware meant 'tenth'.—222, dip, v., l. 3. Read 'thy lands'.
- 223, dipped in wing should be dipped in the wing.
- 227, do it. Add ': C. 19-20'.
- 233, domino-thumper. For 'Barrière' read 'Barrère'.—donkey P, who stole the. The period should be 'ca. 1835-1910'.
- 235, doolally..., line 5. Read 'See also...'
- 238, down on, put a. For '1840' read '1800'.
- 248, dumpling-dépôt. For 'Conington' read 'Connington'. 254, eclipse. Read 'manipulation'.
- 258, equality Jack. For dating, read 'since ca. 1810'.
- 276, fine ham... For '(-1934)' read ': C. 20'.
- 277, finnif. B. & L. defines finnup ready as 'a five-pound note'.
- 287, flip, n., 3. Read 'A (short)'.
- 292, flying dustman. Read: See Addenda.—296, forget, l. 2. Read 'lapse'.
- 304, frosty face. For '1890' read '1910'.
- 313, gamaliel, lines 2-4. Read 'Ex the name of several rabbis famous in the first two or three Christian centuries'. (There was a confusion with Gallio).—327, gibber, l. 2. Read 'Pron. ghibbher'.
- 332, glass-work. For '1880' read '1905'.—Glesca Kulies should be Glesca Keelics.
- 358, grubby. The later limit should be 1920.
- 363, gutsy. For 'courage' read 'courageous'.
- 364, guy, n., 6. See Addenda.

- 365, h.o.p., on the. Add 'From ca. 1880'.
- 367, Hairyfordshire. In l. 2, the f is missing.
- 372, hang it out, line 4. For '2' read '3'.
- 373, hanky-spanky. Supply a period after '1880'.—For 'Hans Corvel's ring' read '... Carvel's...'
- 383, hearty, line 5. For '1920' read '1910'.
- 386, hell and high water should immediately precede hell and spots.—389, Read hey-gammer-cock . . .
- 390, firstline. For 'late' read 'mid': the term occurs in Verdant Green.—high-flyer, 5, the later date should be 1910.
- 394, Hobson Jobson. For 'Mohammedan wailing cry' read 'Shia (or Shia-Mohammedan) wailing cry'.
'Wailing cries are forbidden in Muslim religion' (Kazim Raza Siddiqui).—398, col. 2, l. 1: '(low)'.
- 412, how's your poor feet dates from the Great Exhibition of 1851: witness J. Leech's sketches.
- 415, hunger. The period, obviously, should be C. 14–15.
- 421, impot. Change '1890' to '1880'.
- 426, invade. Read intercrural.
- 433, col. 2, jan. 'Murk-All' should be 'Mark-All'.
- 435, jay, last line. Read 'easy'.
- 436, jerk the cat. The references should be to cat, shoot the.
- 436, jerry, n., 4. The period should be: ca. 1840–1900.
- 438, Jew's harp, l. 2. For 'blowing' read 'humming'.
- 444, Jollies, the. Extant in war of 1939–45.
- 447, jumboism. Delete last sentence.
- 448, jungli. Ex Urdu; jungli means, lit., 'belonging to jungle', hence uncouth or uncultured.
- 448, juwaub. In Hindustani also does it mean 'refusal' and 'dismissal'.—449, kath, line 4, read 'Alpers'.
- 458, klep, v. Delete the period after 'Ex'.
- 456, king. For second '2', read '3'.
- 463, knuckled. For 'handsome' read 'hand-sewn'.
- 471, lattice. Delete this reference.
- 476, left, be or get. Read '1890'.—leg on. 'Burns', not 'Bruns'.
- 477, length of one's foot. The reference should be to foot, know the length of one's.
- 480, lie nailed to the counter. The reference should be to the entry at '[nab, to bite gently', p. 548.
- 491, long lie (following long, adv.) should follow long legs, p. 492.
- 503, madam. For '4' read '3'.
- 505, main-brace, splice the. See Addenda.
- 506, make, on the. 'Adopted'.
- 512, line 1: insert comma after 'horse-dealer'.
- 513, May. For 'Occ. Mays' read 'In C. 20, always Mays'.
- 529, monkey-coat. Insert hyphen before jacket.
- 539, muck-train. The date should be 1850–90.—In col. 2, both at head of page and at entry, mug-fog should be mud-fog.
muckin. Not makkhn but makkhan.
- 540, mud-picker, 1: the earlier date should be 1885.—mud-pipes: see Addenda.
- 543, munming-booth. For 'late C. 19-' read 'mid-C. 18-'.
- 567, noffigur. Not 'Keltner' but 'Kettner'.—572, nothing to write home about, l. 2: read 'usual'.
- 580, oh. Not in Dict. but in Addenda are the following to be found:—oh, after you !; oh, dummy !; oh, swallow yourself !—Read ogging ot (not of) tekram.
- 586, old tots should be Old Tots.
- 590, 3rd entry should read 'ooja-ka-piv or ooja-ka (or cum)-pivvy'.
- 601, pal, n. In line 9, for 'ex' read 'cf.'
- 606, parentheses is out of position: it should come on p. 605, between Paree and parenthesis.
- 606, Parlyaree, l. 10: read parlare.
- 609, pastry. For '1917' read '1885'; before 'Manchon' insert 'Barrère & Leland; '.
- 610, Paul's pigeon. For ca. '1550–1750' read 'from ca. 1550'.
- 616, pen, 3. The earlier date should be 1870.
- 617, penny loaf, l. 2. Read 'prefer'.
- 622, phenomenon. 'Crumbles' should be 'Crummles'.
- 630, pill, v., 2. Earlier date: 1885.
- 632, pink, adj., 3: 'Bloody'.—pints round: this should be on p. 633, between pintle-smith and pinurt pots.
- 635, Piss-Pot Hall. Read 'Clapton'. At end of page, read 'King Henry the Fifth, II, ii'.
- 643, poddy, fat; delete this line.
- 649, poot. 'I cannot find any such Hindustani word. Probably it is Oriental beggars' version of some European word' (K. R. Siddiqui).
- 661, proggins. See Addenda.
- 665, puckerow. Properly the Hindustani word (which means 'scize' or 'hold') cannot be compared with the Maori (which means 'broken' or 'crushed').
- 671, pusserpock, 2. See Addenda.
- 685, Ralph, 2. The date should be 1810.
- 688, rat-trap. Sense 1 survived until the end of the century.
- 692, red face, have a. Also take a r.f. to oneself and dating from before the G.W.
- 701, rivets. The earlier date should be 1875. Extant: in, e.g., J. Curtis, You're in the Racket Too, 1937.
- 705, roosting-key should be roosting-ken.
- 708, roughing. For 'scragging' read 'ragging'. See Addenda.
- 712, 'Rugby School slang': insert bracket at end of entry and see the note at Oxford -er in Addenda.

- 721, sahib. 'In Arabic and Urdu "sahib" is a respectful address to all and not confined to Europeans only, though always used for Europeans' (Siddiqui).
- 724, sam l, upon my. For 'See preceding entry' read 'See sam, stand'.
- 725, sandbag, n. In line 3, 1820 should obviously be 1920.
- 727, sargently. Read 'So gently'.—738, screw-thread . . . For 'spiral' read 'helical'.
- 749, shakes, the. Sense 3 goes back to ca. 1880.
- 772, sitting-room, l. 2. Read 'slightly'.
- 776, skitting-dealer. For 'C. 19' read 'C. 18'.—skittles. In last line, read, 'Pagett'.
- 779, slant, v. In line 1, '1899' should read '1890'.
- 780, slater, line 2. Read 'less'.
- 791, snarl. The dating should read: from ca. 1860.—791, snavel, 2. Read: since ca. 1810.
- 792, sneezes. In line 4, for '—ins.—' read 'quite'. Something very odd happened here!
- 794, snooty. In line 4, read 'that' for 'preceding'.
- 795, col. 1, l. 3. Read 'arm-chair'.
- 803, sowcar. Ex Hindustani sahukar, a native banker, esp. one doing business on a large scale. Most Hindu bankers are misers, hence the meaning of sowcar.
- 806, spec, 4. Alter date to 'mid-C. 18–20'.
- 807, col. 2, spirrib should be sperrib.—spess: remembered in 1879 (Professor Arnold Wall).
- 809, spill the beans, line 4. Read Bellona.
- 811, splice, v., 3. For '1903' read '1897'.
- 813, spoffy. In line 2, for '3' read '2'.
- 824, standing bridge should be standing budge.
- 827, steaming. For '1903' read '1897'.
- 837, straight-up. Also as exclamation. Dating since ca. 1905. Elaboration of synonymous straight.
- 838, strawer, 2. For '1903' read '1890'.
- 839, strides. In line 1, read '1890' for '1904'.
- 840, strike-me-blind. For '1904' read '1890'.—stringer. Ditto.
- 842, stuff, n., 5. For 'C. 20' read 'late C. 19–20', and for '1904' read '1890'.
- 847, Sunday clothes. Add: From ca. 1880.
- 851, swan-slinger. For '1904' read '1890'.
- 853, sweat one's guts out. For 'Lyell' read 'Barrère & Leland'.
- 862, take the biscuit. For '1923' read '1890'.—take care of dowb should be . . . Dowb.
- 869, In col. 1, line 3, for teeg read tayg.
- 870, tekelite, 2. For 'Robert' read 'Roger'.
- 883, tickler, 6, l. 3. Read '1903–ca. 1910'.
- 898, too many for. For 'Juggers' read 'Jaggers'.—For tools, fixed . . . read tools, fined . . .
- 899, top, over the. Read 'See top, go over the'.
- 906, trampler. The dating should be 1605–50.
- 907, traverse. For 'cart, traverse the' read 'cart, walk the'.
- 910, triple tree. Randolph, 1634.
- 915, tumbler, 4. For '1904' read '1890'.—tng, line 5. Read 'work'.
- 924, ultray. See Addenda.
- 931, very. Read 'sentence'.
- 933, voker. In line 2, for 'the orig.' read 'a debased'. Perhaps voker is a mere misapprehension for rokker (rocker).
- 937, waltz Matilda. Prob. since 1880; song ex phrase.—wanky. See Addenda.
- 941, waunds! Type adrift!
- 943, weenie. In line 4, for 'C. 20. F. & H., 1904' read 'late C. 19–20. Barrère & Leland'.
- 945, Westphalia. '1904' read '1890'.
- 951, whip, n., 2. For '(—1904). F. & H.' read '(—1890), Barrère & Leland'. And for whip-sticks, ditto.
- 952, whisky jack, l. 3. Read 'grey jay'.
- 953, whistle and ride: For '(—1904). F. & H.' read '(—1890), Barrère & Leland'.
- 954, white-horsed in: ditto.—white stuff is earlier recorded in Barrère & Leland.
- 974, col. 1, line 4. The semi-colon should be a colon.

A GHOST WORD

At end of F, on p. 309, I list fye-buck (cf.—on p. 99—buck, n., 6: fye buck should read syebuck) with meaning 'sixpence'. But Parker has syebuck, with the long s, which I genuinely misread, not misapprehended, as fye buck; F. & H.'s error may also have arisen from poor reading and not from ignorance. For this, I have to thank the erudite 'wordman', the late Gerald Hatchman.

A DICTIONARY OF SLANG AND UNCONVENTIONAL ENGLISH

A

a, 'a. Sol. and dial. for has, have (e.g. "I would a done it, if . . ."): C. 18-20; earlier S.E. By way of ha', which in C. 15-17 was S.E., coll. or dial. thereafter.—2. Of: esp. in kinda, sorta: see kinder, sorter.—3. An: sol. mostly London (—1887). Baumann.—4. Superfluous, therefore catachrestic, of C. 19-20, as in 'No more signal a defeat was ever inflicted'. Fowler.—5. 'a, an-, not or without, should be prefixed only to Greek stems . . . [amoral], being literary is inexcusable, and non-moral should be used instead,' Fowler.—6. Superfluous or, rather, intrusive in vv.: sol.: C. 19-20. 'He's the party as had a done it.' Cf. of, v. Esp. with present peppy.: see, e.g., quotation at a-doing of.

A.A. of the G.G. (or Gee-Gee). The Institute of the Horse and Pony Club, which was founded in 1930. Sir Frederick Hobday, in The Saturday Review, May 19, 1934. Lit., the Automobile Association of the Gee-Gee (or horse).

A.B. An able-bodied seaman (—1875); coll. by 1900. Chambers's Journal, No. 627, 1875.

A.B.C. An Aerated Bread Company's tea-shop: from ca. 1880; coll. by 1914.—2. At Christ's Hospital, C. 19, ale, bread and cheese on 'going-home night'.

A B C, (as) easy as. Extremely easy or simple to do: C. 19-20. Adumbrated in 1595 by Shakespeare's 'then comes answer like an Absey booke'. Always coll.

a-cockbill. Free; dangling free; nautical coll. (—1887). Baumann; Bowen.

a-crash of, go. To assault (a person): low coll. (—1923). Manchon.

A.D. A drink: male dancers' coll. (—1909) inscribed on dance-programmes; ob. Ware.

a-doing of. Doing: sol.: mid-C. 19-20. (D. Sayers, 1933, 'I arst you wot you was a-doin' of.') a.f. Having met with (come across) a 'flat', who has, to the speaker's advantage, laid his bets all wrong: the turf (—1823); † by 1870. 'Jon Bee.'

A from a windmill or the gable-end, not to know. To be very ignorant, or illiterate: coll.: resp. C. 15, C. 19-20 (ob.). See also B from . . .

A1. Excellent, first-class: first of ships (Lloyd's Register); then of persons and things, Dickens, 1837. U.S. form: A No. 1. Variants, A1 copper-bottomed (Charles Hindley, 1876), now ob.; A1 at Lloyd's (from ca. 1850); first-class, letter A, No. 1 (—1860). H., 2nd ed.—2. A commander of 900 men: Fenian coll. > j.: ca. 1865-90. Erroneously No. 1. (A lower officer was known as B.)

Aaron, in c., a cadger; the Aaron, a captain of thieves. ? C. 17-19. Cf. abandannad, a pickpocket.

abaa. A non-unionist; hence, adj.: silly. Proletarian (—1903). F. & H., revised.

A

abaddon. A thief turned informer: c.: late C. 19-20; ob. ? a pun on a bad 'un and the angel Abaddon.

abaht. Cockney for about: sol.: C. 19 (? earlier)—20. See -ah-.

abandannad. A thief specializing in bandanna handkerchiefs: c. (—1864). H., 3rd ed. There is perhaps a pun on abandoned—2. Hence, any petty thief: c.: late C. 19-20; virtually †.

abandoned habits. The riding dresses of demi-mondaines in Hyde Park: ca. 1870-1900.

abber. At Harrow School, an abstract or an absit: from 1890's. Oxford -er.

abess (1782 +), Lady Abbess (—1785). The keeper of a brothel: late C. 18-19. A procuress: C. 19. Ex Fr. abbesse, a female brothel-keeper. Cf. abbot and see esp. F. & H. Peter Pindar, John Wolcot (d. 1819):

So an old abess, for the rattling rakes,
A tempting dish of human nature makes, abbey lubber. A lazy monk: ca. 1538-1750: coll. >, by 1600, S.E.—2. A lazy, thriftless person: nautical, ca. 1750-1900.
And dresses up a luscious maid.

abbot. The husband, or the preferred male, of a brothel-keeper (see abess): C. 19. Cf. the old S.E. terms, abbot of misrule, abbot of unreason, a leader in a disorderly festivity.

Abbott's Priory. The King's Bench Prison: ca. 1820-80; ? ex Sir Charles Abbott, Lord Chief Justice, 1818. Likewise, Abbott's Park, the rules thereof. 'Jon Bee.'

abdominal. An abdominal case: medical coll.: C. 20. (A. P. Herbert, Holy Deadlock, 1934.)

abdominal crash. An aeroplane smash; a heavy fall: Air Force: from 1916. F. C. Gibbons. On gutser.

Abdul. A Turkish soldier; collectively, the Turks: military coll.: from 1915. B. & P. Ex frequency of Abdul as a Turkish name.

abear. Except in dial., it is, in C. 19-20, a sol. or perhaps only a low coll. for 'tolerate', 'endure', after being S.E. Ex O.E. sense, to carry.

abel-w(h)ackets. See able-w(h)ackets.

Aberdeen cutlet. A dried haddock: from ca. 1870. By F. & H. denoted familiar, but definitely s. Ob. Cf. Billingsgate pheasant and Yarmouth capon.

aberuncator. Incorrect for averruncator (instrument for lopping): from ca. 1860. O.E.D.

abide. To abye (pay, atone for): catachrestic: ca. 1585-1720. O.E.D. By confusion of form and sense. Cf. the C. 15 abite for abye.

Abigail. A lady's-maid: from ca. 1616, though not recorded fig. till 47 years later: coll. >, by 1800, S.E. Ex the Bible. In Beaumont & able-w(h)ackets, wrongly abel-w(h)ackets. A nautical card-game in which every lost point—or game—entails a whack with a knotted handkerchief (Grose, Smyth): coll.: from ca. 1780; † by 1883: witness Clark Russell's nautical dictionary.

Fletcher, Fielding, Smollett; coll. from ca. 1700. Now outmoded literary.

[-able, -ible: when to use which. See Fowler.]

Abney Park, to have gone to. To be dead: proletarian London (— 1909); very ob. Ware. Ex Abney Park Cemetery.

abnoxious. Incorrect for obnoxious: mid C. 17 (?—18). O.E.D.

abo, Abo. An aboriginal: Australian: late C. 19–20, orig. journalistic. Jice Doone. Cf. aboliar, q.v.

aboard of, fall. To meet (a person): nautical coll. (— 1887). Baumann.

aboliar (or A-); properly abo-liar. A regular writer on Aborigine lore or of Aborigine stories: s. (from ca. 1910) >, by 1925 coll. and by 1936 virtually j. It is a coinage of The Sydney Bulletin, which, by the way, also coined Billjim and Maori-land. Cognate, and from the same mint, is aboriginality, a (preferably original) contribution to Aborigine lore: Australian coll.: C. 20. Gen. in pl., in which shape it heads a column in The Bulletin.

abominable. A late C. 19–20 sol., or jocular coll., for abdominal; esp. in abominable pains.—2. Very unpleasant: coll., from ca. 1860: the same with the adv. (-bly). Cf. the S.E. senses and:

abominate. To dislike 'intensely', i.e. very much: from ca. 1875. Coll.

aboriginality. See aboliar.

about, the other way. (Fig.) precisely the contrary: gen. in reference to a statement just made. Coll., from ca. 1860.

about one, have something. 'To show character or ability'; to be, in some undefined or intangible way, charming or, perhaps because of some mystery, fascinating: coll. (and dial.): from ca. 1890 (? earlier). E.D.D. (Sup.), 'That fellow has something about him, I must admit.' Cf. the analogous use of there's something to (a person or a thing).

about proper. An illiterate variant of proper, adv.: q.v.

about right. Correct; adequate. Frank Smedley, 1850. Coll.; post-G.W. prefers about it.

[about that, approximately that, is S.E. verging on coll.]

about the size of it. Approximately (right): from ca. 1870, coll.; ? orig. U.S.

About Turn. Hébuterne, a village in France: Western-Front military: G.W. F. & Gibbons.

above board. Openly; without artifice or dishonesty. Coll. verging on, and occ. achieving, S.E. Ex position of hands in card-playing for money. Earliest record, 1608 (Apperson).

above oneself. Too ambitious or confident, not by nature but momentarily: C. 20.

above par. In excellent health, spirits, money in hand, mild drunkenness. All from ca. 1870, ex stocks and shares at a premium. Cf. below par.

abrac; Abrac. Learning: ca. 1820–50. 'Jon Bee', 1823. Corruption of Arabic or abbr. of abracadabra.

Abraham. "A clothier's shop of the lowest description": chiefly East End of London and ex the Jewish name; ca. 1870–1920.—2. The penis: low: late C. 19–20; ob. Whence Abraham's bosom, the female pudend.

Abra(ha)m, sham. See Abra(ha)m-sham.

Abra(ha)m-cove or -man. A pseudo-madman seeking alms; a genuine lunatic allowed on certain days to leave Bethlehem Hospital (whence bedlam beggar) to beg. The term flourished most ca. 1550–1700, A cove being, however, unrecorded in C. 16; this sense > archaic only ca. 1830; ex Luke xvii (Lazarus); described by Awdelay, Harman, Shakespeare, Massinger, B.E., Grose.—2. Also, in late C. 18–19, a mendicant pretending to be an old naval rating cast on the streets. Cf. abram, q.v.—3. (Only Abram man.) A thief of pocket-books: c. (— 1823); † by 1870. 'Jon Bee.'

Abra(ha)m-sham. A feigned illness or destitution: C. 19. Ex sham Abra(ha)m, to pretend sickness (— 1759), in C. 19 mainly nautical and often do Abra(ha)m; also—see Abraham Newland—to forge banknotes, † by 1840.

Abraham Grains (or g-). A publican brewing his own beer: c.: late C. 19–20.

Abraham Newland. A banknote, ex the Bank of England's chief cashier of 1778–1807: ca. 1780–1830; Scott uses it in 1829. H., 2nd ed. (1860), records the c.p. (? orig. the words of a song), sham Abraham you may, but you mustn't sham Abraham Newland. Cf. a bradbury, q.v.

abraham (or abram) work. Any sham or swindle, esp. if commercial: mid-C. 19–20; ob. As adj. abra(ha)m = spurious, as in c. abraham suit, false pretences or representations: C. 19.

Abrahamer. A vagrant: low (— 1823); † by 1900. 'Jon Bee', who defines Abrahamers as 'a lot, or receptacle full of beggars, half naked, ragged, and dirty': an ambiguous set of words.

Abraham's balsam. Death by hanging: C. 18 low. Punning S.E. Abraham's balm (tree).

Abraham's willing. A shilling: rhyming s. (— 1859). H., 1st ed.

abram. A malingerer: C. 19–20 nautical; ob.—2. As adj., c.: mad, C. 16–17; naked, C. 17–18, this latter developing ex auburn corrupted, for (as in Shakespeare) abra(ha)m, later abram-coloured, = auburn, hence fair. Cf. the abrannoi (naked) of Hungarian Gypsy (V. Sackville-West, Knole and the Sackvilles, 1922).—3. For sham Abram, see Abra(ha)m-sham.

abram cove. 'A Naked or poor Man, also a lusty strong Rogue', B.E.; the latter being of the 17th Order of the Canting Crew: c.: C. 17–early 19. Cf. abram, 2.

Abram man. See Abraham-man.—Abram-sham. See Abraham-sham.—abram work. See abraham work.

abridgements. Knee-breeches. ? Nonce word: Bulwer Lytton's play, Money, 1840.

abroad. In error, wide of the mark (Dickens); earlier (Pierce Egan, 1821), all abroad, with additional sense of 'confused'; all abroad is, in the former sense, now ob. From ca. 1860; both coll.—2. Also, (of convicts) transported: ca. 1830–90.—3. At Winchester College, C. 19, (come) abroad meant to return to work after being ill.

abroaded. Living on the Continent as a defaulter from England: Society, 1860–90.—2. Sent to a penal settlement whether at home or in the Colonies: police, ca. 1840–80. Cf. abroad.—3. In c., imprisoned anywhere: ca. 1870–1920.

abs. At Winchester College in C. 19, now ob.: absent; to take away; to depart (quickly). Ca. 1840, abs a tolly, to put out a candle; late C. 19–20, to extinguish a candle demands tue

'notion' dump it. To have one's wind absed, is to get a 'breather' or 'winder'.

abscotchalater. See absquatulate.

[absence in its Eton sense (a roll-call) is now j., but it may orig. have been s.: see esp. 'Eton slang', § 1.]

absent without leave. (Of one) having absconded: from ca. 1860.—2. In c., escaped from prison: id.

absence without leave, give (one). To discharge (one) suddenly from employment: from ca. 1820; ob. 'Jon Bee.'

absent-minded beggar. A soldier: semi-jocular coll.: 1899–1902. Ex Kipling's poem.

absentee. A convict: semi-euphemistic coll.: ca. 1810–60.

abso-bloody-lutely. The most frequent of the bloody interpolations, as not fucking likely is of the fucking interpolations: C. 20.

absolute, on the. On the granting of the decree absolute: divorce-agency coll.: C. 20. (A. P. Herbert, Holy Deadlock, 1934).

absolutely! Certainly! Coll. intensification of 'yes': C. 20.

absolutely true. Utterly false: Society: ca. 1880. Ware. Ex title of book.

absorb. To drink (liquor): v.t. and i.: C. 20, as in 'He absorbs a lot, you know!'

absquatulate. To depart, gen. hastily or in disgrace. Anglicized ca. 1860, ob. by 1900; orig. U.S. (1837). Thornton; H., 1st ed. An artificial word: perhaps on abscond and squat, with a L. ending. Hence absquatulating, -ize, -ation, -ator, not very gen.; and abscotchalater*, one in hiding from the police.—2. V.t., rare: to cause to do so: 1844 (O.E.D.). abstropelous. A C. 18–mid-19 variant of obstropelous.

absurd is coll. in its loose, Society usage: from ca. 1920. D. Mackail, Greenery Street, 1925, 'Besides, caveat emptor and—generally speaking—don't be absurd.'

abthain, abthane. A superior thane: catachrestic: C. 16–20. (Correctly, an abbey.) O.E.D.

Abyssinian medal. A button showing in the fly: military: ca. 1896–1914. Ware. Ex the Abyssinian War (1893–6). Cf. Star of the East.

Ac, the. The Royal Academy: artists': from ca. 1870; slightly ob. Ware.

academic nudity. 'Appearance in public without cap or gown', Ware: Oxford University (— 1909); † by 1921.

academician. A harlot: ca. 1760–1820. Ex academy, a brothel: c. of late C. 17–18. B.E., Grose. In C. 19, academy = a thieves' school: cf. Fagan in Oliver Twist. But in late C. 19–20, academy is also a hard-labour prison and (— 1823) its inmates are academicians. Bee.

academics. (University) cap and gown: from ca. 1820; ob. Coll. rather than s.; the j. would be academicals.

Academite. 'A graduate of the old Royal Naval Academy at Portsmouth': nautical coll.: from ca. 1870; ob. Bowen.

Academy. See academician.—2. (Academy) Abbr. Academy-figure, a 'half-life' drawing from the nude: artists', C. 20.—3. A billiard-room: ca. 1885–1910. Ware, 'Imported from Paris'.

Academy, the. Platonism and Platonists: from the 1630's: academic s. >, in G. 18 university coll. >, by 1830, philosophic j. The other four of the chief schools of Greek philosophy are The Garden acater. A ship chandler: nautical coll. C. 19–20; ob. Bowen. A survival of † S.E. acatur, a purveyor: ex Fr. acheteur, a buyer.

(Epicureanism), The Lyceum (Aristotelianism), The Porch (Stoicism), and The Tub (Cynicism): same period and changes of status. Fowler.

acause. A sol. for because; now rare except in dial.: C. 18–20.

accedence, accidence. Occ. confused: C. 16–20. O.E.D.

access. A C. 19–20 sol. for excess. Pronunciation often ax-sess.

accessary, -ory. Often confused: C. 19–20. Fowler.

accident. An untimely, or accidental, call of nature: coll.: 1899. O.E.D. accident-maker. A report dealing with accidents and disasters: London journalists' (— 1887): † by 1920. Baumann.

accidentally on purpose. With purpose veiled: c.p.: C. 20.

accidentally. Accidentally: sol.: late C. 19–20.

accommodation house. A brothel; a disorderly house; from ca. 1820, now ob. Coll. 'Jon Bee.'

according, adv. A C. 20 sol. (earlier, S.E.) for accordingly. Esp. in and the rest according. Cf.:

according, that's. A coll. abbr. of the cautious that's according to, i.e. dependent on, the circumstances. (Not in the sense, in accordance with.)

according to Cocker. Properly, correctly. From ca. 1760, ex Edward Cocker (d. 1675). The U.S. phrase (partly acclimatized in England by 1909: Ware) is according to Gunter, a famous mathematician: the C. 19 nautical, according to John Norie, the editor of a much-consulted Navigator's Manual.

account, go on the. To turn pirate, or buccaneer (— 1812). Coll., †. Scott.

account for. To kill: from ca. 1840 (Thackeray, 1842). Sporting coll. >, by 1890, S.E.

accounts, cast up one's. To vomit: C. 17–19. In C. 20, rare; by 1930, †. Dekker; Grose. A nautical variant, C. 19–20: audit one's accounts at the court of Neptune.—2. In c., to turn King's evidence: mid-C. 19–20; ob.

accrue chocolate. 'To make oneself popular with the officers': naval: C. 20; ob. Bowen.

accumulator. (Racing) a better carrying forward a win to the next event: from ca. 1870.

accur(re), occur. Often confused: mid-C. 16–18. O.E.D. (Properly, accur = to meet.)

ace. A variant of ace of spades, 1.—2. A showy airman: Air Force coll., 1918; ob. F. & Gibbons. Ex the lit. S.E. sense, a crack airman.

ace of spades. A widow: C. 19.—2. The female pudend: low: mid-C. 19–20. F. & H., 'Hence, to play one's ace and take the Jack (q.v.) = to receive a man'.—3. A widow: low (— 1811); † by 1890. Lex. Bal.—4. A black-haired woman: proletarian (— 1903). F. & H., revised ed.

ace of, within an. Almost: C. 18–20: coll. >, by 1800, S.E. 'Facetious' Tom Brown, 1704. Orig. ambs- or ames-ace.

achage. Jocularly coll.: an aching state: C. 20. After breakage (S.O.D.).

achronical, -ycal, and derivative adv. Incorrect for acronyc(h)al, -ly: C. 17–20. O.E.D.

acid, come the. To exaggerate: exaggerate one's authority; make oneself unpleasant; endeavour to shift one's duty on to another: military: from ca. 1910. F. & Gibbons.

Acid Drop, the. Mr. Justice Avory: legal nickname: C. 20. (The Saturday Review, March 9, 1935.)

acid on, put the. To ask for a loan: Australia, New Zealand: C. 20. Jice Doone. Punning S.E. acid test.

ack! No!, as the refusal of a request: Christ's Hospital, C. 19. Cf. Romany ac!, stuff!

Ack; Beer; Don.—A, B, D Company: military coll.: from 1914. Ex signalese. Cf.:

ack emma. A.m.: military: from 1915. Ex signalese for these two letters.

ack over tock. See arse over turkey.

'ackin' corf. A hacking cough: 'pseudo-vulgarly in jest' (— 1927); i.e. coll. when jocular, illiterate when serious. Collinson.

ackman, c., is a fresh-water thief: mid-C. 18–19. Corruption of arkman, q.v. F. & H. adduces also ack-pirate and ack-riff.

acknowledge the corn, v.i. Admit, acknowledge (Sala, 1883); ob. Ex U.S. (— 1840), to admit failure or outwitting. See esp. Thornton.

acorn, a horse foaled by an. The gallows; gen. as ride a horse . . ., to be hanged: c.: late C. 17–mid-19. Motteux, Ainsworth. Cf. three-legged or wooden mare, qq.v.

acquaintance, scrape (an). To make acquaintance. Coll.: Farquhar, 1698, 'no scraping acquaintance, for Heaven's sake'.

acquire. To steal: coll.: C. 20. Not a euphemism, for it is used jocularly.—2. Occ. confused with (en- or) inquire and require: C. 17–20. O.E.D. acre, knave's. A mid-C. 16–early 17 variant of weeping cross, q.v. See also beggar's bush for a very pertinent quotation.

Acres, Bob Acres. A coward, esp. if boastful. Ex a character in Sheridan's Rivals, 1775. Coll., †.

acrobat. A drinking-glass: music-hall (— 1903). F. & H., revised. Punning tumbler.

acromatic. Incorrect for achromatic (late C. 18–20) and acroamatic (C. 17–20). O.E.D.

across, come. To meet with accidentally: mid-C. 19–20: coll., > S.E., not literary, in C. 20.—2. come across (with it)! Confess!, speak out!; hand it over!: post-G.W. Ex U.S. See also come across, 1.

across, get, v.t. Irritate or offend (a person): C. 20; coll.

across, put it. See put it across.

acrost. Across: sol., mostly London (— 1887); also dial. Baumann.

act of parliament. (Military) small beer perforce supplied free to a soldier: late C. 18–early 19. Grose.

Acteon. A cuckold: C. 17–18. B.E., Grose.—2. To cuckold: late C. 17–early 18. B.E. Coll. Ex legend of Diana and Acteon.

acting dicky. A temporary appointment: naval (— 1903); ob. F. & H., revised. On acting-order.—2. (Often a.D.) A man acting in the name of an enrolled solicitor: legal (— 1903). Ibid.

acting dish. A dish resembling an old favourite; acting rabbit-pie is made of beef: naval: C. 20. Bowen. Ex acting officer.

acting lady. An inferior actress: ironic theatrical coll.: 1883, Entr'acte (February); † by 1920. Ware. Mrs. Langtry's social-cum-theatrical success in 1882 caused many society women to try their luck on the stage; mostly with deplorable results.

acting rabbit-pie. See acting dish.

acting the deceitful. (Theatrical.) Acting: C. 19. Duncombe.

acting the maggot, vbl. n. and ppl. adj. Shirking work: (mostly Anglo-Irish) bank-clerks' (— 1935).

active citizen. A louse: low (— 1811); † by 1890. Lex. Bal. Cf. bosom friend.

actor's Bible, the. The Era: theatrical coll.: ca. 1860–1918. Ware. A fling at sacred matters prompted by the sensation caused by Essays and Reviews.

actressy. Characteristic of an actress; theatrical or somewhat melodramatic in manner: coll.: late C. 19–20. (Edward Shanks, The Enchanted Village, 1933.)

actual, the. Money, collectively, esp. if in cash: mid-C. 19–20. At this word, F. & H. has an admirable essayette on, and list of English and foreign synonyms for, money. In 1890 there were at least 130 English, 50 French synonyms.

ad. An advertisement: printers' coll.: 1854 (Dickens); in C. 20, gen. Occ. advert, rarely adver.

ad lib. A coll. abbr. of ad libitum, as much as one likes: C. 19–20.

adad! An expletive: coll.: ca. 1660–1770. Prob. ex egad!

Adam. A bailiff, a police sergeant: C. 16–17. Shakespeare.—2. In mid-C. 17–19 c., an accomplice: with tiler following, a pickpocket's assistant. Coles, 1676; B.E.; Grose.—3. A foreman: workmen's (— 1903); ob. F. & H., revised.

Adam; adam. (Gen. in passive.) To marry: c.: 1781, G. Parker, "What, are you and Moll adamed?" "Yes . . . and by a rum Tom Pat too"; † by 1850. Ex Adam and Eve.

Adam and Eve. To believe: rhyming s. (— 1914). F. & Gibbons.

Adam and Eve on a raft. Eggs on toast: mostly military: C. 20. Ibid. Cf.:

Adam and Eve wrecked. Scrambled eggs: id.: id.: Ibid.

Adam and Eve's togs. Nudity: proletarian London (— 1909); slightly ob. Ware. Cf. birth-day suit.

Adam tiler. See Adam, n., 2.

Adam's ale. Water. Coll. C. 17–18; jocular S.E. in C. 19–20, but now outworn. Prynne. The Scottish equivalent is Adam's wine (— 1859): H., 1st ed.

adaption. Adaptation: C. 19–20: S.E. until C. 20, when gen. considered sol.

add. To come to the correct or wished-for total: coll.: 1850, Dickens. O.E.D. Sup.

added to the list. I.e. of geldings in training; hence, castrated. Racing s. (— 1874). H., 5th ed. Orig. a euphemism.

addel. See addle.

Adders. Addison's Walk: Oxford University: late C. 19–20. By 'the Oxford -er'.

addition. Paint or rouge or powder for the face: ca. 1690–1770. Mrs. Centlivre: 'Addition is only paint, madam.' Society s. addle; often spelt addel. Putrid drinking water: nautical: late C. 19–20. Bowen. Ex addled.

addle cove. A fool; a facile dupe: late C. 18–19. On addle-head or -pate.

Addle (or Addled) Parliament. The Parliament of 1614: coll. nickname. O.E.D.

addle-plot. "A Martin Mar-all", B.E.; a spoilsport: coll.: late C. 17–18.

addlings. 'Pay accumulated on a voyage or during a commission': nautical, esp. naval: late C. 19–20. Bowen.

addressed to. (Of a missile, esp. a shell) aimed at: military: 1915; ob. F. & Gibbons.

a-deary me! Dear me!: lower-class coll. (— 1896) and dial. (— 1865). E.D.D. adjective-jerker. A journalist: literary: late C. 19–20; ob. Cf. ink-slinger.

[Adjectives used as advv. unrecognized in S.E. are, according to the extent of the offence, either sol. or coll. In the approximate period 1670–1820 they were undoubtedly coll.: e.g. mighty, monstrous, tolerable.]

adjoin. A sol. for enjoin: C. 19–20.

adjutant's gig. (Military) a roller, esp. that of the barracks: ca. 1870–1914.

adjutant's nightmare. 'A confidential Army Telephone Book: Army Officers': 1916–18. B. & P., 'Very complicated and frequently revised'.

Adkins's Academy. A certain London house of correction: c. (— 1823); † by 1860. 'Jon Bee.'

administer (a rebuke or blow). To give, deal: mid-C. 19–20: jocular coll. >, by 1900, S.E.

admiral. In C. 17–early 18, a S.E. variant of admirable: in C. 19–20 a sol. Occ. ammiral, which is also a sol. for admirable.

admiral, tap the. (Nautical) to drink illicitly: mid-C. 19–20; ob. H., 3rd ed. (at tap). Cf. suck the monkey.

admiral of the blue. A publican; a tapster: ca. 1730–1860. (In C. 17, the British Fleet was divided into the red, white, and blue squadrons, a division that held until late in C. 19.)

admiral of the narrow seas. A drunk man vomiting into another's lap: nautical: late C. 18–mid-19. Grose, 2nd ed.

admiral of the red. A wine-bibber: C. 19, mainly nautical. Cf.:

admiral of the white. A coward: mid-C. 19–20; ob. Never very much used.

admirals of the red, white, and blue. Bedizened beadles or bumbles: C. 19.

Admiral's Regiment, the. The Royal Marines: military: mid-C. 19–20; ob. Also Globe-Rangers, Jollies, Little Grenadiers.

Admiralty ham. Any tinned meat: naval: late C. 19–20. Bowen.

admiration. Abbr. note of admiration, admiration-mark (written !): coll.: C. 20, mainly printers', publishers', authors': rare.

ado, dead for. Dead and done with: C. 16–17; coll. > S.E.

ado, once for. Once for all: C. 17; coll. > S.E. (Like preceding, S.O.D.)

adod! A C. 17 oath: coll. Cf. bedad, egad.

adonis. A kind of wig: ca. 1760–1800: coll. bordering on S.E. Cf. Adonis (1765 +), a beau. (O.E.D.)

adonize. (Of men) to adorn one's person: C. 17–19. Society s. that > Society j.

adorable, said H. A. Vachell late in 1933, 'is a much debased word; a diabolical twin of "deavie"': upper and upper-middle class: from ca. 1925.

adore. To like (very much): mid-C. 19–20; (mostly Society) coll.

adrift. Harmless (C. 17); discharged (C. 18–19); temporarily missing or absent without leave (mid-C. 19–20); wide of the mark, confused (C. 20: coll.). Nautical. B.E. has 'I'll turn ye adrift, a Tar-pharse, I'll prevent ye doing me any harm'; Bowen records the third sense.

'Ads. God's: a coll. minced oath occurring in combination (Adsbody, adsheart): late C. 17–early 19. Congreve, Smollett, O.E.D.

Adullamites. As a political nickname, recorded as early as 1834, but made current in 1866 for a group of seceding Liberals; by 1870, any obstructionists of their own party. Soon coll., now historical. (Cf. cave, q.v.) Ex a reference by Bright to 1 Samuel xxii. 1, 2. O.E.D., W.

adventure(s), at (all). At random, wholly at risk: coll. >, by 1600, S.E.; late C. 15–18. Caxton, Berners, Locke. (O.E.D.)

Adversity Hume. Joseph Hume, politician (1777–1855). 'Owing to his predictions of national disaster' in the 1820's. Dawson.

advert. See ad.

advertisement conveyancers. Sandwich men: London society: ca. 1883–5. Ware. Coined by Gladstone and ridiculed by Society.

advertising. Given to seeking publicity—and using it. C. 20; coll. As in 'He's an advertising (sort of) blighter.' Abbr. self-advertising.

Adzooks! A coll. expletive or oath: mid-C. 18–mid-C. 19. I.e. God's hooks > 'd's hooks > ads-hooks > Adzooks. Cf. 'Ads, q.v.

æger. A medical certificate; a degree taken by one excused for illness (1865): coll. >, by 1890, j. Ex ægrotat (— 1794), the same—though always j. ærate is incorrect for aerate: late C. 19–20. Fowler.

aeriplane. See areoplane.

afear'd. Afraid: C. 16–20: S.E. until early C. 18, then dial. and coll.; in C. 20, sol. Lit., afear'd, terrified, ex † afear. Also 'feard.

affair. Of things, esp. buildings, machines: coll. from ca. 1800, C. 20 S.E. Gen. with a preceding adj. or a sequent adj. phrase. E.g. 'The house was a crazy affair of old corrugated iron'.

affair of honour. A duel resulting in an innocent man's death: ca. 1800–70. Coll.

affect and effect are often confused: mid-C. 17–20. Rarely affective, effective: C. 20. Occ., however, affection—even infection—was, in late C. 14–mid-C. 16, confused with † effectation. (O.E.D.)

affidavit men. Professional witnesses ready to swear to anything: late C. 17–18. (Cf. knights of the post, q.v.) B.E., Grose.

affigraphy. See affygraphy.

afflicke, a thief, is either c. or low: C. 17. Rowlands, in Martin Mark-all. But see flick.

afflicted. See inflicted.

afflicted. Topsy: coll.: mid-C. 19–20; ob. Orig. euphemistic.

afflictions. Mourning clothes and accessories: chiefly drapers', mid-C. 19–20; ob. Hence, mitigated afflictions, half-mourning.

affygraphy, to an. Exactly; precisely. In an affygraphy, immediately. Mid-C. 19–early 20. Sol. H., 3rd ed., 1864; Ware. Perhaps a confusion of affidavit and autobiography.

afloat; with back teeth well afloat. Drunk: from late 1880's; ob.

afore and ahind (ahint), before and behind resp., have, since ca. 1880, been either low coll. or perhaps rather sol. when they are not dial.

after-dinner, or afternoon(s), man. An afternoon tippler: resp.: C. 19–20, C. 17–19: coll. verging on S.E. Overbury, Earle, Smythe-Palmer.

after four, after twelve. 4–5 p.m., 12–2 p.m.: C. 19 Eton; the latter is in Whyte Melville's Good for Nothing. Perhaps rather j. than coll.

after the Lord Mayor's show (comes the shit-cart). A G.W. military c.p. addressed to a man just back from leave, esp. if in time for an imminent 'show'. B. & P.

after you, partner! After you!: a coll. c.p. (— 1927). Collinson. Ex cards, esp. bridge.

after you with the push! A London street c.p. addressed with ironic politeness to one who has roughly brushed past: ca. 1900–14. Ware.

afternoon! Good afternoon!: coll.: mid-C. 19–20. Cf. day! and morning!

afternoon buyer. One on the look-out for bargains: provincial coll. (— 1903). F. & H., revised.

afternoon farmer. A procrastinator: s. only in non-farming uses. Mid-C. 19–20, ob. H., 3rd ed.

afternoon man. See after-dinner man.

afternoon tea. Detention after 3 p.m.: Royal High School, Edinburgh (— 1903).

afternoonified. Smart: Society, esp. in London: 1897–ca. 1914. Ware quotes an anecdote.

afters. The second course, if any; thus 'Any afters?' = 'Any pudding?': military: C. 20. F. & Gibbons.

against. Against (i.e. for) the time when: low coll. when not dial.: mid-C. 19–20. J. Greenwood, 'If I don't get the breakfast ready against Jim comes in' (Baumann).

against (the) collar. In difficulties; at a disadvantage: ca. 1850–1900.

against the grain. Unwilling(ly), unpleasant(ly): mid-C. 17–19, coll.; in C. 20, S.E. Ray, Swift, Dickens. (Apperson.)

Agamemnons, the Old. The 69th Foot Regiment, now the Welch: military: C. 19–20; ob. F. & Gibbons, 'From their service with Nelson on board H.M.S. Agamemnon, 1793–5'.

agardente. 'Fiery spirits . . . smuggled on board in the Mediterranean': naval coll.: mid-C. 19–20. Bowen. Ex Sp. agua ardiente, brandy.

agate. A very small person: late C. 16–17; coll. > S.E. Ex the tiny figures cut on agate seals.

agen; agin (esp. the government). Against; in late C. 19–20, sol.; earlier, S.E. These are Southern forms of the † again, against. (W.)

agent. One in charge of the job; esp. an 'outside' (not an office) man: Public Works' coll. (— 1935).

-agger. Mostly in Charterhouse words. E.g. combinaggers, a combination suit (esp. of football attire). From ca. 1890. A. H. Tod, 1900. On '-er, the Oxford', q.v. This prefix is very common in Oxford -er words, e.g. Jaggers. See also 'Harrow Slang' and cf. -ugger, q.v.

aggerawator, rarely agg(e)ravator; occ. hagrer-wa(i)ter or -or. A well-greased lock of hair twisted spirally, on the temple, towards either the ear or the outer corner of the eye; esp. among costermongers: ca. 1830–1910. For a very early mention, see Dickens's Sketches by Boz; Ware. Cf. beaucatchers, Newgate knockers.

Aggie. Any ship named Agamemnon: naval: C. 19–20. Bowen.—2. Miss Agnes Weston, the philanthropist: nautical: late C. 19–20; ob. Ibid.

Aggie, see. To visit the w.c.: schools': mid-C. 19–20.

aggravate, to annoy, verges on catachresis: mid-C. 19–20. Fowler.

aggravation. A station: rhyming s.: C. 20. F. & G.

aggregate, v.t. to amount, in aggregate, to: 1865 (O.E.D.): coll. >, by 1920, S.E. agility, show one's. (Of women) in crossing a stile, in being swung, to show much of the person: ca. 1870–1914. Perhaps a pun on virility.

agin. See agen.

agitate, v.t. To ring (a bell): jocular coll.; from ca. 1830.

agitator. A bell-rope; a knocker: ca. 1860–1900. Ex preceding.

agolopise. See ajolopise.

*agony. Difficulty, problem; story one has to tell: c.: from ca. 1930. James Curtis, The Gilt Kid, 1936. Ex Conway Training Ship s.: late C. 19–20. Masefield.—2. A newly joined young officer nervous or confused in command: military (not officers'): 1915; ob. F. & Gibbons.

Agony. Agny, near Arras: military in G.W. Richard Blaker, Medal without Bar, 1930. This, like many other G.W. place-names, will eventually disappear.

agony, pile up (or on) the. To exaggerate. Ex U.S. (Haliburton, 1835: O.E.D.); anglicised ca. 1855. In C. 20, coll.; the former, now rare.

agony-bags. Scottish bagpipes: English (not Scottish) Army officers': from ca. 1912.

agony column. The personal column in a newspaper's advertisements (first in The Times). Laurence Oliphant, in Piccadilly, 1870; W. Black, 1873. Coll. by 1880.

agony in red. A vermilion costume: London society: ca. 1879–81. Ware. Ex Aestheticism.

agony-piler. (Theatrical) an actor of sensational parts: ca. 1870–1910.

agony-waggon. A medical trolley: military: 1916–18.

agree like bells. Explained by the fuller form, a.l.b., they want nothing but hanging: coll. verging on (proverbial) S.E.: 1630, T. Adams; 1732, Fuller; ob. in C. 20. Apperson. Cf. the C. 18–20 (ob.) agree like pickpockets in a fair.

agreeable ruts of life, the. The female pudend: low 'superior' (— 1903); ob.

agricultural. See cow-shot. Prob. influenced also by mow, n. and v., in cricket j. aground. At a loss; ruined: C. 18–20. Coll. > in C. 19, S.E.

ah for ou, ow, is typical of Cockney, as in tahn for town; also Cockney for aw as in brahn for brown. See the quotation at bruvver and the entries at i, 'v for th', 'v for w', and 'w for v'.

ah, que je can be bete! How stupid I am: 'half-society' (Ware): ca. 1899–1912. Macaronic with Fr. je, I, and bête, stupid.

ahind, ahint. See afore.

Aiglers, the. The 87th Foot Regiment; from ca. 1881, the 1st Battalion of the Royal Irish Fusiliers: military: from early C. 19; ob. At Barossa, in the Peninsular War, they captured the eagle (Fr. aigle) of a French Regiment.

Ailsa. Glasgow & South-Western [Railway] Deferred Ordinary Stock (A. J. Wilson): Stock Exchange (— 1895). Ailsa being a Scottish Christian name.

aim. The person that aims: coll.: from ca. 1880. Cf. S.E. shot.

ain't. Sol. for am, or is or are, not. Swift, 1710. As = are not, also dial.; as = am or is not, mainly Cockney. Cf. a'n't, q.v.—2. Sol. for has not, have not: C. 19–20; esp. London. 'I ain't done nothing to speak on,' Baumann.

air, give the. See give the air.

air, go (straight) up in the. 'To get angry, excited' (Lyell): coll.: C. 20.

air, hot. See hot air.

air, in the. (Of news, rumours) generally known or suspected, but not yet in print: C. 19 coll., C. 20 S.E.; likely to happen: 1920 +, coll.; uncertain, problematic, remote or fanciful: C. 19 coll., C. 20 S.E.

air, on the. (Wireless telegraphy) on the 'wireless' programme; if applied to a person, it often connotes that he—or she—is important, or notorious, as news or publicity. Resp. 1927 (O.E.D.) and 1930: coll.; by 1935, verging on S.E.

air, take the. To go for a walk: coll. > S.E.: C. 19–20. Also, make oneself scarce: coll.; from ca. 1880.

air and exercise. A flogging at the cart's tail: c.: late C. 18–early 19. Grose.—2. In C. 19 c., penal servitude.—3. Ca. 1820–40, 'the pillory, revolving', Bee.

air-flapper. A signaller: military: C. 20. F. & Gibbons.

air-hole. 'A small public garden, gen. a dismally converted graveyard': London society: 1885–95. Ware ascribes it to the Metropolitan Public Gardens Association.

air-pill. A bomb dropped from an aeroplane: military: 1916; ob. F. & Gibbons.

air-man-chair. A chairman: music-halls': ca. 1880–1900. Ware. By transposition of ch and the duplication of air; a variation on central s.

air-merchant. A balloon-officer; a flying man: military: 1917: F. P. H. Prick van Wely, 'War Words and Peace Pipings' in English Studies, 1922.

air one's heels. To loiter, dawdle about: mid-C. 19–20: s. >, by 1900, coll.

air one's pores. To be naked: C. 20. Cecil Barr, Amour French for Love, 1933.

air one's vocabulary. To talk for the sake of talking or for that of effect: coll.: from ca. 1820. Ob airey. See airy.

airing. (The turf) a race run with no intention of winning: ca. 1870–1914.

airing, give it an. An imperative = take it away!; coll.; from ca. 1890. Also, be quiet!: C. 20.

airoplane, occ. aerioplane. Aeroplane: sol. spelling: from ca. 1910. Cf. airyplane and areo-plane.

airs, give oneself. To put on 'side' or 'swank': coll. in C. 18, then S.E. Fielding.

airs and graces. Faces (cf. C. 19 'rhymed' Epsom races): rhyming s.: C. 20.

airy, occ. airey. The area of a building: sol.: 1694, The London Gazette (O.E.D.). airy-fairy. As light or dainty as a fairy: coll., now verging on S.E.: 1869, W. S. Gilbert. Ex Tennyson's airy, fairy Lilian. O.E.D. (Sup.).

airyplane. Aeroplane: sol.: from ca. 1912. Cf. areoplane, q.v.

airyvated, ppl.adj. Excited; worked-up: low: from ca. 1931. J. Curtis, The Gilt Kid, 1936. Ex:—2. Aerated: sol.: C. 20.

Ajax. A jakes, a water-closet: late C. 16–18. A spate of cloacal wit was loosed by Harington's tract, The Metamorphosis of Ajax, 1596.

ajolopise; more correctly agolopise. To apologise: non-aristocratic, jocular perversion: C. 20.

Ak. A variant of Ack, q.v. (Philip Macdonald, Rope to Spare, 1932.)

ak dum. At once: military: late C. 19–20. F. & Gibbons. Ex Hindustani ek dam.—2. A German notice-board: 1916–18. Ibid. Ex the caption Achtung!, beware.

ak dum and viggery! At once!: rare: from 1919. A combination of ak dum, 1, and (corrupted) iggri. I.e. ex two Army phrases, the former from Hindustani, the latter from Arabic!

Akerman's hotel. Newgate prison. 'In 1787,' says Grose, 'a person of that name was the gaoler, or keeper.' † by 1850.

Akeybo. As in 'He beats Akeybo, and Akeybo beats the devil': proletarian (— 1874); ob. H., 5th ed. Cf. Banaghan, Banagher, q.v. Akeybo, however, remains an etymological puzzle. Is there a connexion with Welsh Gypsy ake tu!, here thou art! (a toast: cf. here's to you!): Sampson.

akka. An Egyptian piastre: Regular Army's: from ca. 1920. Ex the slang of Egyptian beggars: piastre corrupted.

alacompain. Rain: rhyming s. (— 1859); ob. H., 1st ed. Also alla-, ali-, eli-. Cf. France and Spain.

alas, my poor brother! A coll. c.p. of the 1920's. Collinson. Ex a famous Bovril advertisement.

Albany beef. North American sturgeon: nautical: mid-C. 19–20. Bowen. Ex that town.

albert. Abbr. Albert chain: from ca. 1884; coll. till ca. 1901, then S.E. Ex the name of the Prince Consort of Queen Victoria.

Albertine. 'An adroit, calculating, business-like mistress': aristocratic: ca. 1860–80. Ware. Ex the character so named in Dumas the Younger's Le Père Prodigue.

Albertopolis. Kensington Gore, London: Londoners': the 1860's. Yates, 1864; H., 1874, notes it as †. Ex Albert Prince Consort, intimately associated with this district.

albonized. Whitened: pugilistic, ca. 1855–1900. 'Ducange Anglicus', 1857. Ex L. albus, white. Cf. ebony optic, q.v.

alcalde and alcaide are sometimes confused mid-C. 18–20. O.E.D.

alderman. A half-crown: c.: from 1830's; ob. Ex its size. 'Ducange Anglicus', 1857: Brandon, 1839.—2. A long pipe (= churchwarden): ca. 1800–50.—3. A turkey, esp. if roasted and garnished with sausages: late C. 18–early 20; variant alderman in chains. George Parker, ca. 1782, says it is c.—4. Late C. 19 c., precisely a 'jemmy': see citizen. The Daily Telegraph, May 14, 1883.—5. A qualified swimmer: Felsted School: ca. 1870–90. Ex the Alders, a deep pool in the Chelmer.

alderman, vote for the. To indulge in drink: ca. 1810–50. Cf. Lushington, q.v., and:

alderman in chains. See alderman, 3.

Alderman Lushington. Intoxicants: Australian, ca. 1850–1900. Ex Alderman Lushington is concerned, He is drunk: a c.p. of ca. 1810–50. Vaux.

aldermanity. The quality of being an alderman; a body of aldermen. From ca. 1625; in C. 19–20, S.E. Aldermanship is the regular form, aldermanity a jocular variant, a cultured coll. after humanity.

alderman's pace. A gait slow and solemn: C. 17 coll. > S.E. Cotgrave; Ray.

Aldgate, a draught or bill on the pump at. A bad bill of exchange: late C. 18–19 commercial. Grose, 1st ed. (at draught).

ale-draper. An ale-house keeper (implied in 1592): jocular coll. >, by 1750, S.E. † by 1850.

This jocular term actually occurs in the burial-entry of a Lincolnshire parish register of the C. 18.

ale-head wind, beatin(g) up against an. Drunk : nautical : late C. 19–20. I.e. 'tacking all over the place', esp. the pavement.

ale-knight. A drunkard; a boon companion (1575) : C. 16–17 : coll. > S.E.

ale-spinner. A brewer; a publican. C. 19.

ale-stake. A tippler : coll., C. 17–18. In S.E. ale-stake = ale-pole, a pole serving as an ale-house sign.

Alec. See smart Alec.

alecie, alecy. Lunacy; intoxication : Lyly, 1598. Cited as an example of pedantic nonce-words, it may be considered s. because of its derivation, after lunacy, from ale + cy. (N.B. : despite a subconscious belief to the contrary, culture and/or pedantry do not prevent a word from being s. or coll. ; indeed, culture and pedantry have their own unconventionalisms.)

ales. (Stock Exchange) the shares of Messrs S. Allsopp & Sons : from ca. 1880. Also slops. (A. J. Wilson.)

ales, in his. In his cups, or rather his tankards of ale (ale orig. synonymous with beer) : C. 16–17 ; coll. Shakespeare.

Alex. Alexandria (in Egypt) : military (1915) ex Anglo-Egyptian (late C. 19–20). E.g. in F. Brett Young, Jim Redlake, 1930.

Alexander. To hang (a person) : Anglo-Irish coll. : ca. 1670–1800. Ex the merciless way in which Sir Jerome Alexander, an Irish judge in 1660–74, carried out the duties of his office. F. & H., revised.

Alexandra limp. The limp affected, as a compliment to the Princess of Wales, by Society ca. 1865–80. Coll. Chamber's Journal, 1876. Cf. Grecian bend, q.v.

'alf a mo'. A tooth-brush moustache : Australian military : 1916–18.

'alf a mo', Kaiser ! A c.p. of 1916–18. F. & Gibbons. Ex a recruiting poster thus headed.

Alfred David, Affidavy. Affidavit : sol. resp. 1865, Dickens (and again, ca. 1880, Harry Adams in a music-hall song), and C. 19–20. Occ. mid-C. 19–20, after Davy. Cf. david and davy, qq.v.

Algerine. (Theatrical) one who, when salaries are not paid, reproaches the manager. Also, an impecunious borrower of small sums. Ca. 1850–1900. Perhaps ex the U.S. sense : a pirate (1844).

Algie, -y. Generic for a young male aristocrat (esp. if English) : coll. : from ca. 1895. See my Name This Child, 1936.

alias and alibi are, in late C. 18–20, occ. confused. —2. alias = otherwise (not in the legal sense) is a loose, coll. deviation from the S.E. sense : C. 19–20.

Alice. An imitation tree (serving as an observation-post) in the Fauquissart sector : G.W. military. F. & Gibbons.

alike . . . or. Alike . . . and : catachrestic : C. 19–20. See quotation at dry smoke.

alive, look. (Gen. in imperative.) To make haste : coll. : 1858, T. Hughes, '[He] . . . told [them] to look alive and get their job done', O.E.D.

alive and kicking ; all alive. Very alert and active. Coll. : from ca. 1852 : see all serene.

aliveo. Lively ; sprightly : (low) coll. : late C. 19–20. Ex all aliveo. J. Storer Clouston, 1932, 'Mrs. Morgan considered herself quite as aliveo and beaufal as these young chits with no figures.'

all, and. See and all.

all a-cock. 'Overthrown, vanquished', Ware : proletarian (— 1909). Ware thinks that it derives either ex knocked into a cocked hat or ex cock-fighting.

all a treat. 'Perfection of enjoyment, sometimes used satirically to depict mild catastrophe', Ware : London street coll. (— 1909).

all abroad. See abroad.

all afloat. A coat : rhyming s. (— 1859). H., 1st ed.

all alive. (Tailors') ill-fitting : ca. 1850–1910.

all alive. See alive and kicking.

All-Aloney, the. The Cunard liner Alaunia : nautical : C. 20. Bowen.

(all) along of. Sol. for 'solely because of' : C. 19–20. Cf. along of.

all arms and legs. See arms and legs.

all at sea. At a loss ; confused : C. 19–20 ; coll. from ca. 1890. Cf. abroad, q.v.

all brandy. (Of things) excellent, commendable : non-aristocratic : ca. 1870–1910.

all callao (or -io). Quite happy : nautical : late C. 19–20 ; ob. Bowen. Prob. ex Callao, the Peruvian sea-port, to reach which must be a comfort and a relief.

all cando. All right : naval : late C. 19–20. Ibid. ? all canned-o.

all-clear. An all-clear signal : coll. : from 1918. Often fig. ; orig. in respect of hostile air-craft.

all cut. Confused ; upset ; excited : military : C. 20. F. & Gibbons.

all dick(e)y with. See dicky, adj.

all dressed-up and nowhere to go ! A c.p. : from ca. 1915 ; ob. Collinson. Ex 'a song by Raymond Hitchcock, an American comedian'.

all-fired. Infernal ; cursed. Orig. (1835) U.S. ; anglicised ca. 1860. Thornton. Euphemises hell-fired.—2. Hence the adv. all-firedly : U.S. (1860), anglicised ca. 1870 ; ob.

all fours, be or go on. To proceed evenly. C. 19–20 coll.

all gay ! The coast is clear : C. 19 c. Cf. bob, adj.

All Hallows. The 'tolling place' (? scene of robbery), in Prigging Law (lay) : c. of ca. 1580–1630. Greene, 1592.

all hands and the cook. Everybody on the ship : nautical coll. : mid-C. 19–20. Bowen. The cook being called on only in emergency.

all-hands ship. A ship on which all hands are employed continuously : nautical coll. : mid-C. 19–20. Bowen.

all hands to the pump. A concentration of effort : C. 18–19 ; ob. by 1890. Coll. rather than s.

all harbour light. All right : orig. (1897) and mostly cabbies' rhyming s. ; ob.

all his buttons on, have. To be shrewd, alert, and/or active : London proletariat : ca. 1880–1915. Ware.

all holiday at Peckham. A mid-C. 18–19 proverbial saying = no work and no food (pun on peck) ; doomed, ruined. Grose, 3rd ed.

all-hot. A hot potato : low (— 1857) ; † by 1900. 'Ducange Anglicus', 1st ed.

all-in. An all-in assurance policy : insurance-world coll. : from ca. 1927.

all in, adj. (Stock Exchange) depressed (of the market) : coll. : mid-C. 19–20 ; opp. all out. These are also terms shouted by dealers when prices are, esp., falling or rising.—2. Hence, in C. 20, all in (of persons, occ. of animals) = exhausted.—3. 'Without limit or restriction', C. J. Dennis :

Australian coll.: C. 20. Cf. S.E. nuance, 'inclusive of all'.

all in a bust. See bust, all in a.

all in fits. (Of clothes) ill-made: mid-C. 19–20: tailors'.

all in the seven. See seven, all in the.

all jaw (like a sheep's head). Excessively talkative; eloquent. From ca. 1870; ob. Variant, all mouth: ca. 1880–1910.

all kiff. All right, all correct: military (— 1914) >, by 1920, fairly gen. F. & Gibbons; Manchon. Perhaps ex all k'rect = O.K.; prob. ex Fr. s. kif-kif.

all legs and wings. (Of a sailing vessel) overmasted: nautical: late C. 19–20; ob. Bowen.

all Lombard Street to ninepence, to a china orange. Heavy odds: coll.: 1819 +, — 1880 respectively. The former is †; the latter slightly ob. Cf. bet you a million to a bit of dirt!, q.v.

all my eye (and Betty Martin.) Nonsense! 'All my eye is perhaps the earliest form (Goldsmith has it in 1768), although it is clear that Grose's version—that's my eye, Betty Martin—'was already familiar in 1785. . . . Cf. the Fr. mon œil!', Grose, P. The Betty Martin part, despite ingenious, too ingenious, hypotheses (esp. that sponsored by 'Jon Bee' and silently borrowed by H.: 'a corruption . . . of . . . Oh, mihi, beate Martine'), remains a mystery. It is, however, interesting to note that Moore the poet has, in 1819, all my eye, Betty, and Poole, in Hamlet Travestied, 1811, has that's all my eye and Tommy; this problematic tommy recurs in like Hell and Tommy (W.) Cf. the next two entries.

all my eye and (my) elbow. A London elaboration of the preceding: 1882; † by 1920. Ware, 'One can wink with the eye and nudge with the elbow at once'; he also points to the possibility of mere alliteration. Cf.:

all my eye and my grandmother. A London variant (— 1887) of the preceding; ob. Baumann. Cf. so's your grandmother!, which, in late C. 19–20, expresses incredulity: gen. throughout England.

all nations. A mixture of drinks from all the unfinished bottles: late C. 18–early 19. Grose, 1st ed.—2. A coat many-coloured or much-patched: C. 19.

all-night man. A body-snatcher: ca. 1800–50. See esp. Ramsay, Reminiscences, 1861.

all of a dither. Trembling, shivering, esp. with fear. A phrase app. first recorded, as 'unconventional', in 1917, but existing in Lancashire dial. at least as early as 1817.

all of a doodah. Nervous: C. 20. See doodah. —2. Hence, esp. 'of an aeroplane pilot getting nervous in mid-air': Air Force: from 1915. F. & Gibbons.

all of a heap. Astounded; nonplussed: C. 18–20; coll. by 1800. In Shakespeare, all on a heap.

all of a piece. 'Awkward, without proper distribution or relation of parts': low coll. (— 1909); slightly ob. Ware.

all of a hough, or huh. Clumsy; unworkmanlike: tailors', ca. 1870–1914.—2. Lopsided: ex Somerset dial., from ca. 1855. H., 1st ed.

all one's own. One's own master: London apprentices': ca. 1850–1905. Ware.

all out. Completely: from ca. 1620; coll. > S.E. by ca. 1750.—2. Of a big drink, ex drink all out, to empty a glass, C. 17–19, coll.—3. In error: C. 19–20.—4. (The turf) unsuccessful: ca. 1870–1900.—5. (Stock Exchange) improving, cf. all in, q.v. for period and status.—6. Exhausted: athletics, ca. 1880–1900; then gen.—7. In post-G.W. athletics coll. it also means exerting every effort, as indeed it has done in gen. use since the early 1890's; by 1930, S.E. (O.E.D.).

all over, adj. Feeling ill or sore all over the body: coll.: 1851, Mayhew, who affords also the earliest English instance of all-overish.

all over grumble. Inferior; very unsatisfactory: London proletarian: 1886, The Referee, March 28, 'It has been a case of all over grumble, but Thursday's show was all over approval'; ob. (Ware.)

all over oneself. Very pleased; over-confident: C. 20, esp. in the Army. Lyell.

all over red. Dangerous: ca. 1860–1920. Ware. Ex the railway signal.

all-over pattern. A pattern that is either very intricate or non-recurrent or formed of units unseparated by the 'ground': coll. from ca. 1880.

all over the shop. Ubiquitous (G. R. Sims, 1883); disconcerted (1887); confused, untidy (C. 20).

all over with, it is. (Of persons) ruined; disgraced; fatally ill or mortally wounded: from ca. 1860; coll. soon S.E. Cf. the L. actum est de. (S.O.D.)

all-overish. Having an indefinite feeling of general indisposition or unease: from ca. 1840: coll. Perhaps ex U.S., where it is recorded as early as 1833 (Thornton).

all-overishness. The state of feeling 'all-overish' (q.v.): from ca. 1840; coll. Early examples in Harrison Ainsworth (1854) and John Mills (1841).

all present and correct. See correct, all . . .

all poshed up. See all spruced up.

all profit. See profit, all.

all right! Yes!, agreed!; you needn't worry! C. 19–20; coll. As adj. and rare adv., all right is S.E.

all right, a bit of. See bit of all right.

all right, all right. A coll. emphasising of all right: C. 20. (D. Sayers, Murder Must Advertise, 1933, 'She's a smart jane all right, all right.') all right up to now. Serene, smiling: a c.p., mainly women's: 1878–ca. 1915. 'Used by Herbert Campbell . . . in Covent Garden Theatre Pantomime, 1878', Ware, who adds that it is derived ex 'ençointe women making the remark as to their condition'.

[all round. Versatile; adaptable, whether at sport or in life (James Payn, 1881); of things, or rents, average (1869: O.E.D.). S.E. bordering on coll.]

all round my hat. Indisposed: ca. 1850–1900. As an exclamation (1834–ca. 1890) = nonsense! Hence, spicy as all round my hat (ca. 1870–1900), sensational: 1882, Punch.

all-rounder. A versatile or adaptable person, esp. at sport (— 1887); coll. >, by 1910, S.E.—2. A collar of equal height all round and meeting in front (Trollope, 1857), unfashionable by ca. 1885, rarely worn after 1890.

all saints. See mother of all saints (Bridges, 1772).

all serene. Correct; safe; favourable: c.p., now ob. Dickens, 1853: 'An audience will sit in a theatre and listen to a string of brilliant witticisms, with perfect immobility; but let some fellow . . . roar out "It's all serene", or "Catch 'em all alive, oh!" (this last is sure to take), pit, boxes, and gallery roar with laughter.' In 1901, Fergus Hume used the rare variant, all sereno (O.E.D.)

all-set. (Of a rogue, a desperate character) 'ready to start upon any kind of robbery, or other mischief', Bcc, 1823: low or perhaps c.—2. Ready; arranged in order; comfortable: coll.: from ca. 1870. Ex the all set?—ready!—go used in starting those athletic races in which the starter does not employ a pistol.

all Sir Garnet. See Sir Garnet.

all smoke, gammon and pickles or spinach. All nothing, i.e. all nonsense: ca. 1870–1900.

all sorts. Tap-droppings ('Jon Bee', 1823); cf. alls, all nations.

all souls. See mother of all souls.

all spice, all-spice. A grocer: mid-C. 19–20; ob. The S.E. sense, aromatic herb, goes back to the early C. 17.

all spruced up—poshed up—togged up. Smartened up, esp. to meet someone: C. 20: resp. coll., s. (not before 1915), and s. (late C. 19–20); the second was orig. military. (F. & Gibbons.)

all-standing, sleep, or, gen., turn in. 'To turn in with one's clothes on': nautical coll.: late C. 19–20. Bowen; Lyell.

all t.h. Good; correct. Tailors' A1, all right: ca. 1860–1910.

all that, and. See and all that and cf.:

all that sort of thing, which has long been S.E., was regarded by 'Jon Bee' (see at warblers), 1823, as coll.

all the go. Genuine; thoroughly satisfactory; esp. in demand, fashionable (see go): C. 19–20; ob.

all the way down. Completely suitable or suited: coll., ca. 1850–1910. Lit., from top to toe.—2. Hence, as adv.: excellently. A coll. of late C. 19–20. Manchon.

all the way there. A variant, ca. 1860–90, of all there, q.v. H., 3rd ed.

all the world and his wife. See wife, all the . . .

all there. Honest, reliable (— 1860); ready-witted (1880); sane (late C. 19–20). H., 2nd ed.; Lyell.

all to pieces. Collapsed, ruined: C. 17–20 coll.—2. Out of form or condition: C. 19–20, ob.—3. (Of a woman) confined: mid-C. 19–20. All three esp. with go.

all to smash. Utterly (Cuthbert Bede, 1861); ob.—2. Ruined, bankrupt, mid-C. 19–20. H., 1st ed. Perhaps ex Somersetshire dial.

all togged up. See all spruced up.

all up (with). Of things, projects: fruitless, ruined: lato C. 18–20. Of persons: bankrupt, utterly foiled, doomed to die: C. 19–20, as in Dickens's 'all up with Squeers'. Rarely up alone.

all-up. An 'easy'; a rest: Public Schools': C. 20. Desmond Coke, The School Across the Road, 1910.

all upon. See upon, 2.

All Very Cushy. The (now Royal) Army Veterinary Corps: military: 1915; ob. F. & Gibbons. See cushy, comfortable.

all very large and fine. A c.p. indicative of ironic approval: coll.: 1886; slightly ob. Ex 'the refrain of a song sung by Mr. Herbert Campbell' (Ware): cf. all right up to now.

allacompain. See alacompain.

allee samee. All the same: 'pidgin' (— 1883). Ware.

allegiance. See alliance.

alleluia lass. A Salvation Army girl: London proletarian: 1886; ob. Ware.

alleviator. A drink. Coined by Mark Lemon in the 1840's. Ob.

all(e)y. A marble of medium size: C. 18–20 schoolboys' coll. > S.E. Defoe has it. Perhaps ex alabaster.—2. A go-between: proletarian (— 1909); virtually †. Ware derives ex Fr. aller, to go.

alley! See ally!

Alley, the. Coll. abbr. of Change Alley, London, 'the scene of the gambling in South Sea stocks', early C. 18.

alley, toss in the. To die: Australian (— 1916). C. J. Dennis. Ex marbles.

alleied. Gone away; dead: military: 1915; ob. See ally!

Alleyman. A German: military: late 1914–15. B. & P. Ex Fr. Allemand. See Fritz and Jerry.

alliance, allegiance. Occ. confused: from late C. 16. Cf. allegation, alligation: C. 17–20. O.E.D.

allicholly. Melancholy: jocular coll. or deliberate s. in Shakespeare's Two Gentlemen of Verona: punning ale + melancholy.

alligator. See halligator.—2. One who, singing, opens his mouth wide: ca. 1820–50. Bee.

alligator pear. An avocado pear: South African coll. (— 1892). By corruption. Pettman.

allow. Weekly pocket-money: Harrow School, C. 19–20; ob.

alls. Short for all nations (tap-droppings), q.v.; ca. 1840–1914.—2. Also, ca. 1850–1900, a workman's term—the American equivalent is, or used to be, bens—for his tools.

Allslops. Allsopp & Sons' ale: not upper-classes': from ca. 1900. It had a slump in quality at one time; the name has unjustly stuck.

allus. Sol. for always: mostly London: C. 18–20.

ally or alley! Go away!; clear off!: military: from 1915. Fr. allez-(vous en). Often ally at the toot, be off quickly. (F. & Gibbons.)

Ally Slopers' Cavalry. The Army Service Corps: military: from 1914. Ex Ally Slopers, that buffoon who named a pre-War comic paper. Also, occ., Army Safety Corps, also ex the initials: 1915–18. F. & Gibbons; B. & P.

almanach. The female pudend: low: late C. 19–early 20.

almighty. Great(ly), might(ily). A U.S. coll. never properly acclimatised in Great Britain and now ob. De Quincey, 1824: 'Such rubbish, such almighty nonsense (to speak transatlanticé) . . .'

almighty dollar, the. Wealth: coll. (— 1876) ex U.S. (1836). Probably coined by Washington Irving, after Ben Jonson's almighty gold, though the first printed record does not occur in Irving's work. In England the phrase is always satirical, nor is it yet S.E.: and frequently it connotes the (supposed) American devotion to and absorption in money-making.

almond rocks. Socks: rhyming s.: late C. 19–20. Sinco 1914 among soldiers: Army rocks. B. & P.

almonds. Abbr. of almond rocks. P. P. Rhyming Slang, 1932.

aloft. Dead: C. 18–20; ob. Also coll. is go aloft, to die: Dibdin's Tom Bowling, 1790, contains the verses, Faithful below, Tom did his duty,

And now he's gone aloft.

At aloft. F. & H. has a fascinating synonymy for 'to die'; see too the essay on euphemisms in Words! Cf. alow and aloft, q.v.

alone, go. To be experienced, wary, and alert: ca. 1800–25.

along, get. An imperative = go away!: coll.; C. 19–20. Ordinarily, get along is S.E. and = get on, move along.

along of. Owing to. In C. 19–20, except in dial., it is sol., but in C. 16–17 it was indubitably S.E.—2. With, as in 'Being friendly along o' you': sol.: mid-C. 19–20. Baumann. Ex dial.

along-shore boys. Landsmen: nautical coll. (—1823); † by 1910. Egan's Grose.

along with. A coll. weakening of with: late C. 19–20. C. Williams, The Greater Trumps, 1932, 'Her engagement to—her understanding with—whatever... she had along with this young Henry Lee fellow—had hardened her.'

alonger. Along of: sol. form (—1887), mostly London. Baumann.

aloud, used fig., is coll.: mid-C. 19–20. (The O.E.D. record: 1872.)

alow and aloft. 'Below decks and aloft'; nautical coll.: mid-C. 19–20. Bowen.—2. Hence, 'dead and alive', i.e. lethargic, dull: nautical: late C. 19–20; ob. Ibid.

Alps, over the. See over the Alps.

alright. An erroneous form of all right: late C. 19–20. Fowler.

Alsatia (the Higher). Whitefriars. Alsatia the Lower, the Mint in Southwark, London. C. of ca. 1680–1800; afterwards, historical. From early in C. 17 until 1697, when both liberties or asylums or sanctuaries were suppressed, these were the haunts of bankrupts, fleeing debtors, gamblers and sharks. In Shadwell's comedy, The Squire of Alsatia—the first record of the term—occurs the illuminating: 'Who are these? Some inhabitants of Whitefriars; some bullies of Alsatia.' Alsatia = Alsace, a 'debatable ground' province. In C. 18–19 Alsatia meant any asylum for criminals, any low quarter, while squire of Alsatia synonymised a sharper or a 'shady' spendthrift. Besides Shadwell's play, consult Scott's Fortunes of Nigel, Macaulay's History at I, iii, E. Beresford Chancellor's Annals of Fleet Street, and M. Melville Balfour's historical novel, The Long Robe.

Alsatia phrase. A term in s. or, esp., in c.: Swift, 1704; † by 1750. Coll. very soon S.E.

Alsatian. Pertaining to 'Alsatia'; criminal; debauched: c. of late C. 17–18; then historical. Whence the n.—2. Abbr. Alsatian wolf-dog: from 1925; coll. almost imm. S.E. (A. wolf-dog itself—see the S.O.D.—dates only from 1924.)

also ran, an. A nonentity: mostly Australian (—1916) >, by 1918, gen. C. J. Dennis; Collinson. Ex horse-racing.

alt, in. Haughty: coll.: 1748, Richardson; † by 1820. (Apperson). Ex altitude.

alta(or e or u)ma(or e)l(l). All together; altogether (adv.): late C. 17–18. N., the total of a bill, an account: C. 18. Adj., nautical, esp. of s. and j.: C. 18. Since the adv. and the n. are always, so far as I can discover, spelt alta(or e)me(or a)l(l) and F. & H. derives them from Dutch altemal (modern Dutch allemaal)—Hexham, 1658, 'Al-te-mael, Wholly, or All at once',—and since the O.E.D. derives the adj., always spelt altumal, from altum (mare) + al, the two forms and derivations suggest, indeed they almost necessitate, two distinct origins.

altar. 'Master's desk in old Lower Senior Room': Bootham School: late C. 19–20. Anon., Dict. of Bootham Slang, 1925. Ex the shape.

alter. Unpleasant; e.g. 'We had an alter parade this morning': military (not officers'): from ca. 1930. Perhaps ex (—1898) Hampshire dial. alteration and (—1898) Berkshire dial. altery, (of weather that is) uncertain, tending to rain. (E.D.D.)

alter the jeff's click. To make a garment regardless of the cutter's chalkings or instructions: tailors' (—1903). F. & H., revised.

altham, C. 16 c., a wife; a mistress. Whence(?) the c. adj. autem, q.v.

altifrontal, adj. High-brow: 1932; somewhat pejorative, 'Is he intelligent?—Oh, very altifrontal, I'd say.' London authors', reviewers', and publishers'.

altitude, grabbing for. (Occ. in other tenses.) Becoming very angry: aircraft engineers': from ca. 1932. The Daily Herald, Aug. 1, 1936.

altitudes, in the (or his, my, etc). In elevated mood (coll.: Jonson, 1630); drunk (ca. 1700). Both were † by 1840. Cf. elevated.

altocad. An oldish paid member that in the choir takes alto: Winchester College, from ca. 1850.

altogether and all together are often confused: mid-C. 19–20. The former = entirely, on the whole. Fowler.

altogether, the. The nude: coll.: 1894, Du Maurier (Ware). I.e. the altogether (wholly) naked.

altogethery. Drunk: Society: 1816, Byron; † by 1930. Ware. Ex altogether drunk.

'Am and Tripe, the. H.M.S. Amphritrite: naval: C. 20. Bowen.

amachoor. A coll. written form of amateur, which, after all, is thus pronounced by the majority. (D. Sayers, Murder Must Advertise, 1933.)

amazingly. Very: coll.; from ca. 1790. Maria Edgeworth, 'She speaks English amazingly well for a Frenchwoman.' O.E.D.

ambassador. A sailors' trick upon new hands: mid-C. 18–19. Grose, 1st ed. In a King-Neptune form, King Arthur.—2. See:

ambassador of commerce. A commercial traveller: coll.: late C. 19–20; ob. Baumann. In C. 20, often ambassador.

Ambassador of Morocco. A shoemaker: ca. 1810–30. Lex. Bal. Punning morocco (leather).

amber, shoot the. See shoot the amber.

ambi, ambitious. 'Zealous, with a view to personal advantage; also foolishly zealous, asking for more work, etc., etc.', John Masefield, in the Conway, 1933. Conway Training Ship s., from ca. 1880.

ambi(or o)dexter. A double-dealing witness, lawyer or juror: C. 16–19; coll.; S.E. after 1800.—2. Any double-dealer: from ca. 1550, coll.; by 1880 S.E.

ambish. Ambition: from ca. 1925. E.g. Garnett Radcliffe in The Passing Show, Jan. 27, 1934.

ambrol. A naval corruption of admiral: late C. 17–18. B.E.

ambs-ace, ames ace. Bad luck: M.E.—C. 19.—2. Next to nothing: C. 17–18. Lit. the double ace; and soon coll.—3. Within ambs-ace, almost: late C. 17—early 19, coll. in C. 18–19.

amen-chapel. 'The service used in Winchester School [sic] upon Founder's Commemorations, and certain other occasions, in which the responses and Amens are accompanied on the organ', E.D.D., 1896.

amen-curler. A parish clerk: late C. 18–19. Grose, 1st ed. A C. 18 variant: amen-clerk. A mid-C. 19–20 variant, amen-bawler (Mayhew, 1851). Cf. amen-snorter and amen-wallah.

amen-snorter. A parson. Rare in England, frequent in Australia (ca. 1880–1900).

'amen' to everything, say 'yes' and. To agree to everything: coll.: late C. 18–mid-19. Grose, 3rd ed. Cf. amener, q.v.

amen wallah. A chaplain's clerk: C. 19–20. In G.W. occ. the chaplain himself. Cf. amen-curler, q.v.

amener. An assiduous assenter: C. 19–20; ob. (Amen, the concluding word.)

[amercy for God have mercy was orig. coll. and is still far from 'literary'.]

American shoulders. A coat cut square to give the appearance of broadness. From ca. 1870; at first, tailors' j., but s. by 1890.

American tweezers. A burglar's instrument for opening doors: from ca. 1870; orig. c. H., 5th ed.

Americans. American stocks and shares: Stock Exchange coll. (mid-1880's) >, by 1910, j. (O.E.D.) amidships. On the solar plexus; in or on the belly. Nautical: C. 18–20.

Aminidab, Aminadab. A Quaker: C. 18–early 19; derisive. Ned Ward, 1709; Grose.

ammedown. Hand me down (v.), or hand-me-down (adj.): poorest London low coll. (— 1909). Ware.

ammo. Ammunition (n. and adj.): military: C. 20.—2. Hence, amos, ammunition boots, the ordinary Army boots: from 1915. F. & Gibbons.

ammunition. Toilet paper: C. 19–20; ob. Cf. bum-fodder, q.v.

ammunition leg. A wooden leg: military: C. 19. (Ammunition = munition.)

ammunition wife. (Gen. pl.) A harlot: nautical: ca. 1820–70. Egan's Grose; Bowen. Cf. gunpowder and hot stuff.

among(st) other things or among(st) others is gen. illogical for 'along with, or in addition to, other things'. This catachresis, however, seems to have been consecrated by long usage.

amorosa. A wanton: ca. 1630–1720: Society, mainly. It. word, never acclimatised.

amoroso. A (male) lover: ca. 1615–1770; chiefly Society. An It. word never properly anglicised.

almost, a'most. Almost: London sol. (— 1887). Baumann.

amourette. A trifling love affair or, esp., amour: ca. 1860–1914: Society coll. Directly ex Fr.; cf. C. 17 S.E. amoretts, dalliance.

amours, in. In love: gen. followed by with (some person): ca. 1725–1800: Society s. > coll. > S.E.

amp. An amputation: medical students' (— 1933). Slang, p. 190.

ampersand. The posterior(s). '&' used to come at the end of nursery-book alphabets: hence the hinder parts. Ca. 1885–1914. The lit. sense is about a century old. Ex and per se—and, i.e. '& by itself = and'.

amputate one's mahogany or timber. To 'cut one's stick'; to depart, esp. depart quickly: from the 1860's; ob. 'Ducange Anglicus', 1857. There is a rich synonymy for rapid departure; see F. & H., also my Slang.

amuse, in late C. 17–18 c., is to throw dust, pepper, snuff, etc., in the eyes of the person to be robbed; an amuser is one who does this. B.E.

amy. 'A friendly alien serving in a man-of-war': naval: ca. 1800–60. Bowen notes that in the old days there were many foreigners serving in the British Navy. ? a mutilated blend of enemy man or simply an adoption of Fr ami, a friend.

an'. A sol. pronunciation of and; it is also dial. C. 15–20.—2. See a, 4.

anabaptist. A pickpocket that, caught in the act, is ducked in pond or at pump: late C. 18–early 19. Grose, 1st ed.

anagogical, applied to persons, is catachrestic: from ca. 1840. O.E.D.

anan. 'What do you say, Sir?' in reply to an order or remark not understood: naval: C. 18. Bowen. Perhaps anon corrupted.

anatomical. Bawdy: sexual: artists': from ca. 1920. E.g. 'anatomical stories, jokes, humour, wit'.

anatomy. An extremely emaciated—or skinny—person: late C. 16–20. (Low) coll. Cf. atomy, q.v.

ancestral home. Merely home: jocular coll.: C. 20: university and Society.

anchor, swallow the. To settle down—above all, to loaf—on shore, esp. if one is still active: nautical: late C. 19–20. Ware.—2. To surrender or yield: c.: from ca. 1919. George Ingram, Stir, 1933.

anchor, bring one's arse to an. To sit down: nautical: late C. 18–mid 19. Grose, 2nd ed. Cf.:

anchor (oneself), come to an anchor. To halt; sit down, rest; sojourn. Coll., C. 18–20.—2. Hence anchor, an abode or a place of residence: C. 19–20 coll. At first nautical, both v. and n. soon > gen.

anchor to the windward of the law, let go an. To keep within the letter of the law: nautical: late C. 18–mid 19. Grose, 3rd ed.

anchors. Brakes: busmen's: from ca. 1929. The Daily Herald, Aug. 5, 1936.

ancient mariner. A sea-gull: nautical: C. 19–20. Sea-gulls are 'supposed to possess the souls of dead sailormen', Bowen. Cf. Coleridge's Ancient Mariner.

ancient mariners. At Oxford, an occasionally-rowing group or crew of dons; at Cambridge, any graduates that, still associated with the university, continue to row. From ca. 1880; ob. Ware quotes The Daily News of Nov. 7, 1884.

-and. In coll. names of drinks, of which cider-and, 1742, is the earliest.

—and —. Between adjs., and either is intensive, as in hot and hot (very hot), in the † pure and —, and in rare and some other adj. (very —); or it gives a familiar tang, as in nice and hot (nicely hot, hence pleasantly hot): both usages are coll., the former of C. 19–20, the latter of C. 18–20.—2. The familiar note occurs also in adv. phrases, as (I hit him) good and hard: coll.: mid-C. 18–20.—3. Of its coll. presence between two vv., there are two examples: try and (e.g. do something); go and (do something): see these two phrases.

and all. As well: lower-class coll. tag implying a grumble: from ca. 1860. Cf. S.E. usage.

and all that. And all the rest of it: S.E. in ordinary usage: since 1929, however, it has had a coll. connotation owing, in part, to such book-titles as Good-Bye to All That, 1966 and All That.

(and) don't you forget it! A e.p. orig. U.S. (— 1888) adopted in England ca. 1890. An almost pointless intensive.

and he didn't! A tailors' c.p. implying a discreditable action: ca. 1870–1920.

and 'how! 'Rather!': an American c.p. anglicised by 1933. The Western People (Balling), Nov. 11, 1933.

and no error or mistake! See mistake, and no.

and no mogue ! A tailors' implication of slight incredulity = 'that's true?' From ca. 1880. Mogue is an etymological puzzle, as are so many s. terms.

and no whistle. Another tailors' implication: that the speaker is actually, though ostensibly not, spaking of himself. Ca. 1860-1900.

and so forth and so fifth. See fifth.

and so he died; and then she died. These Restoration-drama tags verge on c.pp.: See Dryden, ed. Summers, I, 419.

and so she prayed me to tell ye. An almost meaningless c.p. (with slight variations) rounding off a sentence: ca. 1670-90. E.g. in Duffett's burlesque, 'The Mock-Tempest,' 1675.

and the rest ! A sarcastic retort or comment: from ca. 1860. The implication is that something has been omitted.

and things. See things, and.

and welcome ! And you're welcome to it; I'm glad (to let you have it, etc.): coll., non-aristocratic: late C. 19-20. Manchon.

and which. See which.

Andrew. A gentleman's servant: coll. > S.E.: 1698; Congreve; † by 1800. Because a very common name.—2. In full, Andrew Millar. A ship, esp. of war: rhyming s. (— 1864); ob.—3. Hence, a revenue cutter; Australian smugglers': ca. 1870-1900. But this, like sense 2, may abbr. Andrew Miller's (or -ar's) lugger, 'a king's ship and vessel', 1813 (sca cant), a phrase † by 1880.—4. Abbr. Andrew Millar, 2; always the Andrew.

Andrew Mack. H.M.S. Andromache: naval: C. 20. Bowen.

Andrew Makins, (stop your). (Stop your) goings-on or fooling: Anglo-Irish: C. 20. Is there an allusion to merry Andrews?: cf. the Essex and Sussex Andrew, a clown.

Andrew Millar. See Andrew, 2.—2. The Royal Navy: hence, any Government department: naval: mid-C. 19-20; ob. Bowen.

Andy Cain. Rain: rhyming s.: late C. 19-20. P. P., Rhyming Slang, 1932.

Angel. A harlot plying near the Angel at Islington: low Cockney (— 1909). Ware. Cf. Sluker.

angel. A sandwich-man; C. 20 c. Ex wings, the boards. Jennings, Tramping with Tramps, 1932.—2. In C. 20 theatrical s., angel is any outsider that finances the production of a play.—3. (Gen. pl.) A wireless rating in the Royal Navy: naval: from ca. 1923. Ex wings on badge. (Bowen).—4. The 'boy who fetches Reeve's meat at breakfast': Bootham School: C. 20. Anon., Dict. of Bootham Slang, 1925.

angel, flying angel. A ride astride a person's shoulder (James Greenwood, 1880): ca. 1860-1900.

angelaltogether. A confirmed drunkard. Mainly West Indian: ca. 1876-1914.

angel face. A boyish(-looking) probationary flight-officer: Air Force: 1915; ob. F. & Gibbons.

angel-maker. A baby-farmer: proletarian: 1889; ob. Ware, 'Because so many of the farmed babies die'. Probably ex the Fr. faiseuse des anges.

angelic, Angelica. An unmarried girl. The former ca. 1810-50, the latter ca. 1850-1900. Moncrieff in Tom and Jerry, 1821, speaks of 'the angelics at Almack's'.

angel's food. Strong ale: ca. 1575-1620. Harrison's England, II, viii.

angel's foot-stool. A sail carried over the moon-sail by American clippers: nautical coll: mid-C. 19-20; ob. Bowen.

angel's gear. Women's clothes: nautical: mid-C. 19-20; ob. Baumann.

Angels of Christ. The Army Ordnance Corps: military: G.W. (B. & P.)

angel's oil. Money employed in bribery. Variant, oil of angels. C. 17. Punning angel, the small gold coin struck in 1465. angel's suit. Coat and waistcoat made in one, with trousers buttoned thereto. Tailors', ca. 1870-1885. 'Neither garment nor name was extensively adopted,' F. & H.

angel's whisper. See whisper, angel's.

angler. A pilferer that, with a hooked stick, steals from open windows and doors: mid-C. 16-early 19. Harman, B.E., Grosc. Cf. area sneak, hooker, starrer.—2. A hook: c. of ca. 1580-1620. Greene.

Anglican inch. 'The short square whisker . . . so much affected by the Broad Church party': ritualistic clergy's: 1870; very ob. Ware.

angling cove. A receiver of stolen goods: C. 19 c. In C. 18-early 19 c., angling for farthings is begging, with cap and string, from a prison window. Grose.

Anglos. The shares of the Anglo-American United, with which 'the dogs' (q.v.) were amalgamated: from ca. 1890; Stock Exchange. A. J. Wilson, Stock Exchange Glossary, 1895, defines it, however, as 'Anglo-American Telegraph Company [shares]'.

angry boy. A blood: late C. 16-17. Greene; Beaumont & Fletcher.

Angry Cat, the. The French battleship Henri IV at the Dardanelles in: 1915: naval. Bowen.

Anguagela. Language: central s. (— 1909); ob., as all central s. is. Ware.

angular party. A gathering or social group odd in number: coll., from ca. 1870; ob.

Animal. The Elephant and Castle Station: London Railway passengers': ca. 1860-1910. Ware.—2. The Animal. 'A disguised, or flippant, reference amongst boon companions to the tavern, used in common when the sign is zoological . . . but more esp. referring to the Elephant and Castle . . .; until (1882) this place was exceptionally dubbed "Jumbo"', Ware.

animal, go the whole. A U.S. phrase adapted by Dickens as go the extreme animal, by Sala as . . . entire . . . A C. 19 variant on the U.S. go the whole hog.

animal, mere. 'A very silly fellow', B.E.: late C. 17-18 coll. Wycherley.

animal spirits. Liveliness of character, (gen. considerable) vivacity of manner and action, a healthy animalism: coll.; from ca. 1810. Jane Austen.

ankle, have sprained one's. To have been seduced (cf. Fr. avoir mal aux genoux): late C. 18-20; ob. Grosc, 1st ed.

ankle-biters. Trousers hussar-fashion: lower classes' (— 1923). Manchon.

ankle-bone. A crawfish: nautical: late C. 19-20; ob. Bowen.

ankle-beater. A boy specialising (ca. 1820-80) in driving, to the slaughter-yard, the animals purchased by the butcher. To avoid the damaging of flesh, only the beasts' ankles were touched. Also known as a penny-boy.

ankle-spring warehouse. The stocks: Anglo-Irish c.: ca. 1780-1830.

Annie Laurie. A lorry: rhyming s. (of an unusual kind): military: G.W. (B. & P.)

Anna Maria. A fire: rhyming s.: 1892, 'Pomes' Marshall, Sporting Times, Oct. 29.

annas of dark blood, have at least two. To be of mixed parentage: Anglo-Indian coll. (— 1886). Yule & Burnell. Cf. coffee-colour, q.v.

Anne's fan, properly Queen Anne's fan. Thumb to nose and fingers outspread; intensified by twiddled fingers or by addition of other hand similarly outspread: late C. 18–19. Now cock a snook at a person.

Annie. See Asiatic Annie.

Annie's Bar. 'A place of comfort and refreshment leading off the Members' Lobby' (in the House of Commons): Parliamentary coll.: C. 20. Time and Tide, June 1, 1935.

Annie's room (up) in. A military c.p. reply to a query concerning someone's whereabouts: military, slightly pre-G.W. The original implication being that he was 'a bit of a lad'. Cf. hanging on the barbed wire.

annihilate. To direct a withering glance at; reprimand severely: coll.: C. 20.

anno domini. Late middle, or old, age (1885); old ('extremely old' is B.C.); the passage of the years (however young one is after early adulthood): from ca. 1910. Coll. Ware, 1909, "He must be very anno domini, mustn't he?" "A.D.? my dear fellow, say B.C.""; B.C. is virtually †. Cf. anno domini ship, an old-fashioned whaler: whaling: from ca. 1880; ob.

annual. A holiday taken once a year: coll. (— 1903). F. & H., revised.

anodyne necklace. A halter: mid-C. 18–early 19. Goldsmith, 1766; Grose, 2nd ed. (In C. 17 simply necklace). One of numerous synonyms. In C. 18 also a supposedly medicinal amulet.

anoimt. To beat well, to thrash: C. 17–20; ob. Adumbrated in M.E. anoimt a (or the) palm. To bribe: C. 16–18. Cf. grease the palm.

anoimted. Depraved, worthless, pejoratively ulter: late C. 18–19; ? mainly Anglo-Irish. H., 3rd ed. Prob. ex anoimt, q.v.

anonyma. A demi-mondaine, esp. if a high-flyer. Ca. 1860–79, then less common; rare in C. 20. Sala, 1864, 'Bah! There are so many anonymas nowadays.'

another, you're. See you're another.

another acrobat. Another drink: punning tumbler. Ca. 1870–1900.

another guess; another guess sort of man. (A) 'fly' (man): C. 19. Perhaps ex another gates, but prob. direct from U.S.

another point, (steward)! Make that drink stronger!: nautical: from ca. 1860. The Glasgow Herald, Nov. 9, 1864. Cf. the north drinking-terms.

anser. See goose.—answer is a lemon. See lemon, the answer is a.

a'n't. Am not: coll.: C. 19–20.—2. Sol., when not dial., for 'is not', 'are not', or, as occ., 'has not': C. 18–20. Cf. ain't.

antagonise, v.i. To compete; strive to win: sporting coll. (— 1887); † by 1920. Baumann.

ante up. To hand over, surrender (a thing): military: from not later than 1915. F. & Gibbons. Ex U.S. poker j.

antem. Prob. a misprint for autem, q.v.

Ant(h)ony, cuff or knock. To knock one's knees together in walking: late C. 18–19. Grose, 1st ed. Variant, cuff Jonas.—2. Ant(h)ony Cuffin, a knock-kneed man: C. 19.

Anthony; St. Anthony's pig; antony pig. The smallest pig in a litter: late C. 16–20; ob. Coll. by 1750. St. Anthony the hermit was the patron of swineherds. Apperson.

anti. Erroneous for ante (before): mod. English.—2. A person opposed to a given opinion or party; one by nature a rebel, an objector: coll. (1889) >, by 1920, S.E. Ex the adj. (O.E.D.)

anti-gugger. 'A straw or tube . . . for sucking liquor out of casks or bottles': nautical coll.: C. 20. Bowen.

Anti-Hope, the. The clipper Antiope, 'a very unlucky ship': nautical: late C. 19–early 20. Bowen.

anti-tempus. Anti-tetanus; anti-tetanus serum: military sol.: from 1916. (Van Wely.)

antics. Tactical exercises: naval coll.: C. 20. Bowen. Also steam antics.

antidote. 'A very homely woman', B.E.: jocular: late C. 17–mid 18. Against lust.

antimony. Type: printers' (— 1890). F. & H., 'Antimony is a constituent part' of the metal.

antipodean. With everything topsy-turvy: from ca. 1850. Orig. jocularly pedantic S.E., then jocularly coll.

Antipodes, the or her. The female pudend: late C. 19–20.

antiquarianise. To play at being an antiquary: C. 20; coll.

antiquated rogue. An ex-thief; an out-of-date thief: ca. 1660–1730. At the angle formed by three linguistic regions: c., j., and S.E. Only in B.E.

Antonio. A Portuguese soldier: military. G.W. Also Tony. (B. & P.)

Antony. See Anthony.

anty. Sugar: military: C. 20. F. & Gibbons. Possibly ex the sweetness of gifts from Anty or Auntie.

any. At all: s. (and dial.): late C. 19–20. Kipling, 1890, 'You don't want bein' made more drunk any' (E.D.D.).

any, I'm not taking (— 1903) or having (from ca. 1895). Not for me!; 'not for Joe!': c.p. Hence in ordinary constructions. The earlier form occurs in J. Milne, Epistles of Atkins, 1902.

Any Bloody (occ. Blooming) How, the. H.M.S. Howe, 'which always steered like a dray': naval: C. 20. Bowen. Ex:

any how, anyhow. Indifferently; badly: coll. (— 1859).

any of these men here? A military c.p. (from ca. 1910) by a wag that, imitating a sergeant-major at a kit-inspection, continues, 'Knife, fork, spoon . . . ?' B. & P., 'Sometimes the reply would be given: "Yes, he is," whereupon the wag or a third party would ask, "Who is?" to which the retort was "A*se-holes."

any old (e.g. thing). Any . . . whatsoever: U.S. (ca. 1910) anglicised ca. 1914. W. J. Locke, 1918, 'Mate, Bill, Joe—any old name.' O.E.D.

anyhows. Anyhow: sol., esp. London (— 1887). Baumann.

anyone is incorrect for either any one (of . . .) or any (pronoun): C. 20. E.g. E. Phillips Oppenheim, The Bank Manager, 1934, 'Mr. Huit . . . did not . . . summon anyone of the clients who were waiting to see him?'

any more for any more? Does anyone desire a second helping?: military mess-orderlies' c.p.: 1915; ob.

any racket. A penny faggot: rhyming s., ca. 1855-1910. H., 1st ed.

any road. See road, any.

anything, as or like. Very; much. The as form, C. 16-20; ob.; the like, C. 19-20. Coll.

anything! so help me. God help me!: euphemistic coll., non-aristocratic (— 1923). Manchon.

anything else but. See nothing but.

anythingarian. A person of no fixed or decided views: from ca. 1707, when coined by Swift; whence anythingarianism, defined by Kingsley in 1851 as 'modern Neo-Platonism'. Coll., soon S.E.; ob.

anything. Anything: sol., as are nothink, somethink. C. 16-20.

anyways. In any case: dial. and sol.: 1865, Dickens (O.E.D.) Ex anyway.

anywhere down there! A tailors' c.p. when something is dropped on the floor: ca. 1860-1910.

anywheres. Anywhere: sol.: late C. 19-20. Cf. anyways, q.v., and somewheres.

Anzac. A member of the Australian and New Zealand Army Corps on Gallipoli: military coll. (April 26, 1915—the day after the landing) >, by 1919, S.E.—2. Loosely, any Australian or New Zealand soldier serving in the G.W.: coll.: from late 1918.

Anzac poker. See kangaroo poker.

Anzac shandy. Beer and champagne: New Zealand soldiers': 1915-18.

Anzac wafer. A large (hard) Army biscuit: New Zealand soldiers': 1915-18.

apartments to let. (With have) brainless; silly: from early 1860's. H., 3rd ed.; ob.—2. In C. 18, descriptive of a widow.

ape, if applied pejoratively to a person, tends in C. 20 to rank as a low coll. Cf. baboon.

ape, make anyone his. To befool: C. 17-19 coll. Variant, put an ape into one's hood or cap.

'apenny bumper. 'A two-farthing omnibus ride': London streets': ca. 1870-1900. Ware.

'apenny-lot day. 'A bad time for business': costers' (— 1909); ob. Ware. Because on such a day, the sales total $\frac{1}{2}d$.

apes in hell, lead. To be an old maid: C. 16-20; ob. 'Euphuës' Lyly was one of the first to record the phrase; Gascoigne was app. the first. Apperson.—Whence, ape-leader, an old maid: mid-C. 17—early 19. Brome: Grose. (O.E.D.)

ape's paternoster, say an. To chatter with cold. Recorded by Cotgrave in 1611. For the quaint proverbs and proverbial sayings connected with the ape, see esp. G. L. Apperson's English Proverbs, 1929.

apes. First mortgage bonds of the Atlantic and North-Western Railway: Stock Exchange, ca. 1870-1914.

apiary and aviary are occ. confused: late C. 17-20.

apiece. For each person: coll.; C. 19-20. (S.E. when applied to things.)

apoplectic. Choleric; violent-tempered. C. 20; coll.

apostles. 'The knight-heads, bollards and bitts of a sailing-ship': nautical: mid-C. 19-20; ob. Bowen. Why?

apostles, manœuvre the. To rob Peter to pay Paul: mid-C. 18-20; ob. Grose, 2nd ed.

Apostles, the (Twelve). The last twelve on the degree list: Cambridge University: late C. 18-19. Ex post alios, after the others, is H.'s suggestion. Variant, the chosen twelve.

Apostle's Grove, the. St. John's Wood district, London: 1864. H., 3rd ed. Variant, the Grove of the Evangelist: H., 5th ed., 1874. Ex the numerous demi-mondaines living there ca. 1860-1910. Ob.

apostle's pinch. A pinch of a very indelicate nature: low: C. 20.

apothecaries' Latin. Law Latin, dog Latin: late C. 18—early 19 coll. Grose, 1st ed.

apothecary, talk like an. To talk nonsense: mid-C. 18—early 19: coll. Grose, 1st ed.

apothecary's bill. A long bill: mid-C. 18—early 19. Grose, 1st ed.

appalling. Objectionable; ugly; noticeable, marked: coll. (Society and middle class); C. 20.

appallingly. Very: C. 20; coll.

Appii, the. The Three Tuns, a noted Durham inn: Durham University (— 1903). F. & H., revised. By a misreading of Acts xxviii. 15.

apple and pears. An early form of apples and pears, q.v. 'Ducange Anglicus', 1857.

apple-cart. The human body. Grose, 2nd ed., 1788, has 'down with his apple-cart; knock or throw him down': cf. H., 1st ed., 1859, "'down with his applecart," i.e. upset him. North[ern].' In upset the apple-cart there seems to be a merging of two senses: body and, in dialect, plan; originating app. ca. 1800, this phrase > coll. ca. 1850. In 1931, thanks largely to G. B. Shaw's play, The Apple Cart, it was admitted into S.E. though not into literary English. For fuller information, see F. & H., O.E.D., W., and Apperson.

apple-cart, upset the old woman's; upset the apple-cart and spill the gooseberries (or peaches). Variants, dating from ca. 1880, of upset the apple-cart: see preceding entry. F. & H.

apple-dumpling shop. A woman's bosom: late C. 18-19. Grose, 2nd ed. Cf.:

apple-monger, apple-squire; apron-squire. A harlot's bully. Coll., respectively C. 18, C. 16—early 19, late C. 16-19. Perhaps ex apple, a woman's breast. Cf. preceding entry.

apple-pie bed. A bed short-sheeted: late C. 18-20; coll. by 1830; S.E. by 1880. Grose, 2nd ed., defines it as 'A bed made apple-pye fashion, like what is termed a turnover apple-pye'.

Apple-Pie Day. That day on which, at Winchester College, six-and-six was, C. 19, played. On this day, the Thursday after the first Tuesday in December, apple-pies were served on 'gomers', in College, for dinner. F. & H.

apple-pie order. Perfect order, impeccable precision (Scott, 1813): coll. >, by 1900, S.E.

apple-squire. A male bawd: orig. (— 1591), o. Grenc. See also apple-monger.

Appleby?, who has any lands in. A c.p. addressed to 'The Man at whose Door the Glass stands Long' (B.E. at landlord): late C. 17—mid 18. (Cf. parson Mallum and parson Palmer.) Perhaps orig. of cider.

apples. Testicles: low: C. 19-20. Cf. nutmegs. —2. See apples and pears.

apples and pears. Stairs (— 1859). 'Ducange Anglicus,' 1st ed., and H., 1st ed., have apple and pears. Ware records, for 1882, the abbr. apples, which has never > gen.

apples swim, how we! What a good time we have! C. 17-20; ob. Clarke, 1639; Ray, 1678; FitzGerald, 1852. (Apperson.) Another unsolved etymological conundrum.

appro, on. Coll.: abbr. on approbation or approval (things), from ca. 1870 (H., 5th ed.); on approbation (persons): from ca. 1900.

apree la gare; appray la guerre. Sometime, or never: military c.p.: 1916-18. Ex Fr. après la guerre, after the war.

April gentleman. A man newly married: coll.; C. 16-17. Greene. Ex the popularity of marriages in April.

apron and gaiters. A bishop; a dean: coll. (- 1913). Arthur H. Dawson's Dict. of Slang.

apron-rogue. A labourer, an artisan: C. 17 coll. (In C. 17 S.E., apron-man.)

apron-squire. See apple-monger.

apron-string hold or tenure. An estate held only during a wife's life: late C. 17-19 coll. Ray, 1678, 'To hold by the apron-strings, i.e. in right of his wife' (Apperson).

apron-strings, tied to (or always at) the (or a woman's). Dangling after a woman, C. 18; under petticoat government, C. 18-20.

apron-up. Pregnant: lower and lower-middle class coll.: C. 19-20; ob. Because modest women tend, in pregnancy, to use their aprons as 'disguise'.

apron-washings. Porter: proletarian (- 1903); ob. F. & H., revised. Ex brewers' porters' aprons.

aproner. A shopkeeper: ca. 1650-1720; coll. During the Civil War, a Roundhead. On the other hand, aproner (ca. 1600-40) = a barman, a waiter.

'appy dossier. See dossier.

aqua pompaginis (or pump-). Apothecaries' Latin for water from the well: C. 18-early 19. Harrison Ainsworth, drawing heavily on Egan's Groser, uses the term several times.

aquarius. 'Controller of evening bath "set"': Bootham School s. (late C. 19-20) verging on j. Anon., Dict. of Bootham Slang, 1925.

aquatics. A game of cricket played by the oarsmen; the playing-field used by them: Eton; mid C. 19-20.

ar! Ah!: low coll.: C. 19-20. Manchon. I.e. ah with 'r' rasped.

Arab, city Arab, street Arab. A young vagrant; a poor boy playing much in the streets. Coll >, by 1910, S.E.: respectively - 1872, 1848, ca. 1855.

Arabs; Arab merchants. 'The Indian merchants and shopkeepers in Natal are locally, but erroneously known by these designations. They are chiefly Mohammedans and are also known as "Bombay merchants";' Pettman: from early 1890's.

arbor vitæ. Lit., the tree of life, i.e. the penis: late C. 18-20; ob. Grose, 3rd ed. Pedantic.

'Arbour!, our. A Melbourne c.p. at Sydney's expense: C. 20. Sydneyites being apt to boast about their very beautiful harbour; in retaliation they gibe at Melbourne's rather smelly river, the Yarra: see Yarra.

Arbroath! A Scottish sporting c.p. (from Sept. 6, 1885) to anyone boasting. Because on Sept. 5, 1885, Dundee Harp defeated Aberdeen Rovers by 35-0 and sent a telegram to their great rivals Arbroath, 'You can't beat this', to which Arbroath, having the same day defeated Bon Accord, in a Scottish Cup Tie, by 36-0, replied, 'Can't we?' Athletic News Football Annual, 1935-6.

arch-cove or rogue. As c., the leader of a gang of thieves: from ca. 1600 to 1800. The latter as s., a confirmed rogue, from ca. 1650; playfully, C. 18-19. In c., arch = principal; confirmed; extremely adept. Arch-doll or doxy, however, is the wife of an arch-cove: Grose, 2nd ed.

archdeacon. Merton alc, stronger brew: Oxford University, C. 19-20; ob.—2. The Archdeacon, H.M.S. Venerable: naval: C. 20; Bowen. Ex that dignitary's 'style'.

archduke. A comical or an eccentric man: late C. 17-18. Grose, 3rd ed. Perhaps suggested by the Duke in Measure for Measure.

Archer up! (He, etc., is) safe; or, bound to win: London c.p.: 1881-6. Ex the famous jockey, Fred Archer, who (d. 1886) sprang into fame in 1881.

archideclynne; archiemander. Incorrect for architricline (C. 15), archimandrite (late C. 16-20). O.E.D.

Archibald. The air-bump over the corner of the Brooklands aerodrome next to the sewage-farm: aviation: ca. 1910-14. Ex youth's fondness for bestowing proper names on inanimate objects. W. Whence perhaps Archie, v.

Archibald, certainly not! No!: c.p. of ca. 1913-20. Ex a music-hall song having this refrain. (F. & Gibbons.)

Archie. An anti-aircraft gun: occ., such a gunner: military: from 1915. Perhaps ex Archibald, but cf.:

Archie; gen. archie, v.t., gen. in passive. To shell (an aviator and his 'plane when they are) in the air: military aviation: from 1915. Prob. ex Archibald, q.v. W.

archiemander. See archideclynne.

ard. Hot, both of objects and of persons or passions: C. 17-early 19 c. Ex Fr. ardent.

ardelio(n). A busybody: C. 17; coll. Never properly acclimatised. Florio; Burton. Ex L. ardelio ex ardere, to be zealous.

ardent. Spirituous liquor: Society: 1870; † by 1920. Ware. Abbr. ardent spirits.

are we down-hearted? A military c.p. of the G.W. (for variant and elaboration, see B. & P., p. 194); orig (ca. 1906) political but soon gen.

area-sneak. A sneak haunting areas in order to thief (Vaux, 1812; Dickens, 1838). Coll.; S.E. by 1880 at latest. For a lengthy list of English and Continental synonyms for a thief see F. & H.

aren't; arnt. Resp. coll. and sol. for are not: C. 18-20.—2. Sol. for am not, is not.—3. Have not: sol.: C. 19-20. I.e., 'an't = han't = haven't'.

areoplane. An aeroplane: sol.: from ca. 1912. By -ero- > -reo. Cf. airoplane and airyplane.

arer. A Cockney term of ca. 1900-15, as in Warc's quotation, 'We are, and what's more, we can't be any arer', i.e. more so.

'arf. 'Alf, i.e. half: Cockney sol.: C. 19-20. Esp. in 'arf a mo (or tick): late C. 19-20. Ware.

'arf-and-'arf. Ale and porter mixed equally: Cockney; from ca. 1830. Cf.:

arfartanarf. Drunk: Cockney (- 1909); ob. Ware. Lit., half, half, and half; applied orig. to one who has had many an arf-and-arf, q.v.

arg. To argue: low (- 1903). F. & H., revised.

argal; argol-bargol. In Shakespeare, argal = therefore: obviously corrupted from ergo. Argol-bargol, unsound reasoning, cavilling,—as v., to bandy words,—is of the C. 19-20 (ob.) and seems to be echoically rhyming after willy-nilly, hocus-pocus, etc. Moreover, The Times, in 1863, used argal as = quibble, and Galt, forty years earlier, employed the adj. argol-bargolous, quarrelsome; argy-bargy (— 1887) is mostly Scottish. Note, however, that argle, to dispute about, dates from ca. 1589.

argol. Incorrect for botanic archil or orchil: mid-C. 18–20; ob. O.E.D.

argot. 'A term used amongst London thieves for their secret . . . language', H.: c. (— 1859); † by 1920. The Fr. argot, properly cant, loosely slang.—2. For its misuse as = 'slang', see introductory chapter of Slang: 1843, The Quarterly Review, 'Some modern argot or vulgarism'.

argue the leg off an iron pot. To be, on one occasion or many, extremely argumentative: coll.: from ca. 1880. Also argue a dog's tail off: coll. (— 1903). F. & H., revised.

argue the toss. 'To dispute loudly and long': low: from ca. 1910. B. & P.

argufy. To signify: mid-C. 18–20: low coll. and dial. Smollett, 1751. Ex argue on speechify.—2. Hence, to pester with argument: id.: 1771, Smollett; ob.—3. Hence, v.i., to argue, wrangle: id.: 1800, Maria Edgeworth. The commonest sense.

argy-bargy. See argal.

arico vein. A varicose vein: C. 19–20 sol.; ob. Ware. Influenced by haricot (beans).

Aristippus. Canary wine: C. 17: Middleton, 'rich Aristippus, sparkling sherry'. Ex the hedonistic Greek philosopher.

aristo. An aristocrat: dated by the O.E.D. Sup. at 1864, but perhaps rather from ca. 1790 and perhaps influenced by Fr. s.

aristocrat. A 'swell', a 'toff': C. 19–20; coll., but at no time at all gen.

aristocratic vein. (Gen. pl.) A blue vein: theatrical coll. (— 1909); ob. Ware. Cf. S.E. blue blood.

Aristotle. A bottle: rhyming s.: late C. 19–20; ob. The Evening News, Aug. 19, 1931.

ark. See arkman.—2. A barrack-room chest: military coll. (— 1903); ob. A survival ex S.E.

ark, be (or have come) out of the. To be very old, or very stale: coll.: C. 20. Lyell, 'Good Heavens! This cheese must have come out of the Ark!'

ark and win(n)s. A sculler; a row-boat; c.: late C. 18–mid 19. Grose, 1st ed. See arkman.

ark-floater. An aged actor: C. 19. Ex Noah's ark—floats, the footlights.

ark-pirate. A thief 'working' navigable rivers: nautical c. (— 1823); † by 1900. Egan's Grose.

arkman. A Thames waterman: C. 18–19; c. or low. Ark, a boat, is not c. except perhaps ca. 1750–1850. Thence ark-ruff(ian), a fresh-water thief: c.; C. 18–mid 19. A New Canting Dict., 1725.

arks. A sol. pronunciation (— 1874) of ask. H., 5th ed. Cf. arst, az.

Arleens. Orleans plums: Cockney coll. Recorded by Baumann, 1887.

arm, as long as one's. Very long: coll.; late C. 19–20.

arm, chance one's. See chance your arm!

arm, make a long. To stretch one's arm after something: from ca. 1880; coll.

arm, under the. (Of a job) additional: tailors' (— 1903). F. & H., revised.—2. No good: tramps' c. (— 1935). Also under the crutch.

Arm-in-Tears; Armintees. Armentières: military: from late 1914. Immortalised in that lengthy, scabrous, humorous song, Mademoiselle from Armintees (for which, see esp. B. & P.).

arm-pits, work under the. To avoid being hanged, to commit only petty larcenies: c.: C. 19. Vaux, 1812.

arm-props. Crutches: coll.: from ca. 1820; † by 1910. Moncrieff, 1821.

arm the lead. 'To fill a small cavity with tallow to bring up a sample of the bottom' when sounding the depth: nautical: mid-C. 19–20: coll. >, by 1900, J. Bowen.

armadillo scout. An aeroplane introduced by Armstrong-Whitworth in 1918: Air Force s. verging on j.; † by 1925. F. & Gibbons.

armado. Incorrect for armada: C. 16–17. Shakespeare, Comedy of Errors, III, ii.

Armintees. See Arm-in-Tears.

armour, be in. To be pot-valiant: late C. 17–18. B.E. Cf. Dutch courage and perhaps the C. 17 proverbial armour is light at table (Apperson).

armour, fight in. To use a 'French letter': ca. 1780–1840. Grose, 1st ed.

arms and legs (all). Weak beer: without body. C. 19–20.—2. Hence, weak tea: military: C. 20. F. & Gibbons.

arm's length, work at. To work at a disadvantage; clumsily: coll. > S.E.; C. 19–20; ob.

arms of Murphy, in the. Asleep: low (— 1903). F. & H., revised. I.e. Morpheus.

Army rocks. See almond rocks.

Army Safety Corps. See Ally Sloper's Cavalry.

Army Service Cunts. The A.S.C.: infantrymen's pejorative: G.W.

arnt. See aren't.

arra. See arrow.

arrah! An Anglo-Irish expletive of emotion, excitement: coll.: late C. 17–20.

array. To thrash, flog; afflict; disfigure, befoul: ironically or jocularly coll.: late C. 14–16. Cf. dress down, dressing down.

arrect. Sol. for aret, to impute (C. 14–17): C. 15–16. (O.E.D.)

arrest. Either sol. or catachrestic for wrest: late C. 16–20.

arri! An exclamation of astonishment or vexation: Midland Districts of South Africa: coll.: from early 1880's. Ex Hottentot aré, Pettman.

arrival. An enemy shell arriving—and bursting—in the English lines: military coll.: from 1915. B. & P. Cf. theirs.—2. A landing of the completest mediocrity: Royal Air Force's: from 1932.

arrow. Sol. for ever a, any: mid-C. 18–20; slightly ob. Fielding; Smollett, 1771, 'I now carries my head higher than arrow private gentlewoman of Vales.' Occ. arra: C. 19–20.

'Arry and 'Arriet. A typical costermonger and his, or any, coster lass; hence, any low-bred and lively (esp. if not old) man and woman. Popularised by Milliken. From ca. 1870; coll. Whence 'Arryish, 'costermongerish', vulgarly jovial: coll.; from ca. 1880. Also, 'Arry's worrier, a concertina: Cockney: 1885; ob. Ware.

ars musica. The 'musical arse', i.e. the podex: late C. 18–19. Grose, 1st ed. Punning the L. for musical art.

arse. Posterior; buttocks. Until ca. 1660, S.E.; then a vulg. Ca. 1700–1930, rarely printed in full: even B.E. (1690) on one occasion prints as 'ar—', and Grose often omits the r, while Frederic Manning (d. Feb., 1935) was in Jan., 1930, considered extremely daring to give its four letters in his magnificent War-novel, Her Privates We.

arse, v.t. To kick (C. 19–20), to dismiss, esp.

from a job (G.W.): s.—2. arse off, v.i., to depart, late C. 19–20 s.

arse, anchor one's. A C. 19–20 variant of anchor, bring . . ., q.v.

arse!, ask my. I don't know!: low: mid-C. 19–20. Manchon. See also ask mine . . .

arse, grease a fat sow in the. See grease . . .

arse, hang an or the. To hold or hang back; to hesitate timorously: C. 17–20 coll.; ob.

arse!, so is my († mine). A low c.p. of incredulity or contempt: C. 17–20. Jonson.—Also kiss † mine or my arse!: C. 18–20. Swift.

arse, thickest part of his thigh is nearest his. See hamdudgeon.

arse about, v.i. To fool about, waste time: C. 20 s. In late C. 18–19, (v.i.) to turn round: a vulgarism.

arse and shite through his ribs, he would lend his. A c.p. applied to 'anyone who lends his money inconsiderately', Grose, 2nd ed.: ca. 1780–1860.

arse-cooler. (Women's dress, C. 19) a bustle.

arse-crawler or -creeper. A sycophant: low coll.: late C. 19–20.

arse-foot. A penguin: (nautical) coll. (— 1598); Florio, Goldsmith; † by 1880. Because its feet are placed so far back.

arse from one's elbow, not to know one's. To be very ignorant: lower-classes: late C. 19–20.

arse-holes (to you)! A low contemptuous interjection: late C. 19–20. Ex arse-hole, a vulgarism for the anus: C. 19–20.

arse if it was loose, he would lose his. A c.p. 'said of a careless person', Grose, 2nd ed.: ca. 1780–1860; but in a more gen. form C. 16. Nowadays we say . . . head . . .

arse off. See arse, v.

arse off, tear one's. To work furiously: low (— 1923). Manchon.

arse on . . . See handbox.

arse over turkey. Head over heels: low: late C. 19–20. In military s., esp. officers', it >, in 1916, ack over tock: which suggests an original arse over top.

Arse-ups, the. The 4th Battalion of the N.Z. Rifle Brigade: New Zealand military in G.W. Ex the shape of the battalion shoulder-patch.

arse upwards. In good luck; luckily; coll.: C. 17–20. Esp. rise with one's . . . (Ray.)

arse-worm. 'A little diminutive Fellow', B.E.: late C. 17–18.

-arsed. Having a — arse: C. 16–20; see arse, n., for status. Heywood, 1562 (bare-arst); Cotgrave. O.E.D.

arser. A fall on one's behind: mostly hunting and turf: C. 20. E.g. Evelyn Waugh, A Handful of Dust, 1934, 'You just opened your bloody legs and took an arser.'

arsmetry. A late C. 16–early 17 sol. (after geometry) for † arsmetik, arsmetric or -ck, arithmetic. (O.E.D.).

arst. Asked: a C. 18–20 sol. Cf. arks and ax, qq.v.

arsty! Slowly!; slow down!: Regular Army: late C. 19–20. (B. & P.) Ex Hindustani ahisti. Opp. jildy.

arsy-varsy, adv. Head over heels, esp. with fall, C. 18–20; adj., preposterous, topsy-turvy, mid-C. 17–19. Ex varsy, a rhyming addition, properly versy, L. versus (turned), and coll.

arter. After: a C. 17–20 sol. Cf. arst.

arterial. Abbr. arterial road: 1931: coll.—soon, prob., to be S.E.

artesian. Beer made in Australia: Australian: ca. 1880–1914.

artful dodger. A lodger: rhyming s. (— 1857). 'Ducange Anglicus'.—2. An expert thief: ca. 1864–1900, perhaps ex the character in Oliver Twist.

artful fox. A box: music-hall rhyming s.: 1882; † by 1916. Ware.

Arthur, King. See ambassador. Grose, 1st ed.

artic. Arctic: sol.: late C. 19–20.

artichoke. See hearty choke.

artichoke ripe. To smoke a pipe; rhyming s.: ca. 1855–80. H., 1st ed.

article. A girl, a woman: ca. 1810–70. Lex. Bal.—2. Contemptuous of any person: from ca. 1856; coll. 'Ducange Anglicus', 1st ed. Ex 'its common use in trade for an item of commodity, as in the phr[ase] "What's the next article?" of the mod. shopkeeper', E.D.D.

article, the (very). The precise thing; the thing (or person) most needed. Coll. From ca. 1850. Trollope.

article of virtue. Virgins: ca. 1850–1914. Punning virtue, (objets de vertu).

articles. Breeches, trousers; C. 18–19. Grose, 2nd ed.—2. In c. of 1780–1830, a suit of clothes.

artillery, esp. the heavy. 'Big wigs'; convincing or very important reasons: coll.; from late 1916; ob.

artilleryman. A drunkard: low (— 1903); † by 1919. F. & H., revised. Ex noisiness.

artist. A person; 'chap', 'fellow': from ca. 1905. Cf. merchant, chap, customer.—2. the Artists. The Artists' Rifles: military coll.: C. 20.

arty. Artistic; esp. spuriously or affectedly artistic in practice, theory, or manners: coll.: C. 20. Cf.:

arty-and-crafty; arty-crafty. Artistic but not notably useful or comfortable: coll.: resp. 1902 and ca. 1920. (O.E.D.)

-arv- for -ath-, as in farver (father) and rarver, and for -arth, as in farver (farther), is typical of Cockney.

Arvernus. A frequent error for Avernus, esp. in C. 20. (Virgil, facilis descensus Averno.)

ary. Ever a (of which it is a corruption); any . . . whatsoever: a C. 19–20 sol. Perhaps imm. ex arrow, q.v.

as. Relative pronoun = that; who, which. In C. 18–20, sol.; previously, M.E. onwards, S.E. (It survives also in dial.)—2. As conjunction = that. (Variant as how.) See how, as.

— as —. Very —; e.g. drunk as drunk, very drunk: coll.: mid-C. 19–20. Perhaps ex — as can be.

as . . . as they make 'em. Utterly; very. Esp. with bad, drunk, fast, mad. From ca. 1880. Coll.

as ever is. A (mostly lower classes') coll. c.p.-tag, emphasising the preceding statement: C. 20. D. Sayers, Unnatural Death, 1927, 'This very Whitsuntide as ever is'. Ex dial. (— 1898): E.D.D.

as how. See how, as.

as such. See such, as—as that. See that, as. Cf. as how (at how, as).

as (he, I, etc.) used to was. As (he, I, etc.) used to be: c.p.: C. 20. Somerset Maugham, Cakes and Ale, 1930, 'I'm not so young as I used to was.'

as why? Why is that? Why?: sol.: 1742, Fielding. (O.E.D.)

as you were. 'Used . . . to one who is going too fast in his assertions' (— 1864); post-War, 'Sorry! my mistake.' Coll. Ex Army.

ash-cat. A fireman in the Merchant Service: nautical, esp. naval: late C. 19–20. Bowen.

ash cookie. A ne'er-do-well: South African coll. (— 1913). Ex ash cookie, a dough cake 'roasted in the ashes of a wood fire' (Pettman), itself ex Dutch koek, a cake.

ash-plant. A light cane carried by subalterns: military coll.: 1870; ob. Ware. Ex its material.

Ashes, the. 'The symbolical remains of English cricket taken back to Australia' (S.O.D.): 1882. Also win, regain or recover, or lose the Ashes, to win or lose a series of test matches (from the English point of view): 1883 (W. J. Lewis). Coll.; in C. 20 S.E.

Asia Minor. Kensington and Bayswater (London, W.8 and W.2), ex the large number of retired Indian-Civil servants there resident ca. 1860–1910: London: ca. 1880–1915.

(Asiatic) Annie. 'A Turkish heavy gun at the Dardanelles': military: 1915. F. & Gibbons.

asinigo, occ. assinigo. A little ass: C. 17.—2. A fool: C. 17–18. Shakespeare has 'An Asinico may tutor thee; Thou . . . Asse.' Ex Sp. (O.E.D.)

ask another! Don't be silly!: Cockney c.p. addressed to one who asks a stale riddle: 1896; ob. Ware.

ask boggy. An evasive reply: nautical mid-C. 18–19. Sea-wit, says Grose, for 'ask mine a-se'. Cf. Boggy, q.v.

ask for it. To incur foolishly; be fooled unnecessarily, ludicrously: coll: C. 20; the O.E.D. (Sup.) dates it at 1909, but it is at least four years older. Cf. buy it.

ask mine, (in C. 19–20) my, arse! A low coll. evasive reply: mid-C. 18–20; orig. nautical. Grose, 2nd ed. Cf. the C. 20, 'God knows, (for) I don't.'

ask out. To invite to (an) entertainment: coll.: from late 1880's. O.E.D. (Sup.).

asker. A beggar: euphemistic s.: 1858, Reade; ob. E.D.D.

askew. A cup: c. of ca. 1550–1650. Harman. ? etymology. Prob. an error for a skew.

asking, not you by your. A c.p. reply (late C. 18–early 19) to 'Who owns this?' Cf. the late C. 19–20 none the better for your asking (health).

asking!, that's. I.e. when you shouldn't, or when I shouldn't reply: coll. c.p.: late C. 19–20.

aspect. (A look of) ardour; hence, impudence: Hatton Garden district (London): C. 20. Ware. Ex It. aspetto!

aspidestr(i)a. Incorrect for aspidistra: mid-C. 19–20. (O.E.D.)

Aspinall. Enamel: coll. (— 1909). Ware. Ex the inventor of an oxidised enamel paint. The v. is S.E.

aspro, take the. See take the aspro.

Asquith. A French match: military of G.W. Ex Asquith's too-famous 'Wait and see': such matches often failed to light.

ass. A compositor: journalists', ca. 1850–1900. Variant, donkey.—2. A very stupid or ignorant person: formerly S.E.; in C. 20, coll. (N.B., make an ass of is going the same way).—3. Arse: dial. and late coll.: C. 19–20. This is the gen. U.S. pronunciation, as in Tess Slesinger's The Unpossessed, 1934 (London, 1935).

ass about. To fool about: schoolboys' (— 1899) >, by 1910, gen. (O.E.D.) Cf. ass, 3: q.v.

assassin. An ornamental bow worn on the female breast: ca. 1900–14. Very 'killing'.

Assayes, the. The 74th Foot Regiment; from ca. 1881, the 2nd Battalion of the Highland Light Infantry: military coll.: from 1803 (Battle of Assaye), for them a notable year.

assig. An assignment, an appointment: ca. 1680–1830. B.E.

assinego. See asinigo.

assinate. To insinuate: sol.: 1742, Fielding (O.E.D.). Rare in late C. 19–20.

assoil, assoilment. Catachrestic for soil (to sully; defilement): C. 19–20. (O.E.D.)

assy. Asphalt: schoolboys': C. 20.

ast. To ask: sol.: C. 19–20.

astard-ba. Bastard: low: C. 20. James Curtis, The Gilt Kid, 1936. By transposition.

astarrakan. Astrachan (fur): jocular Cockney: late C. 19–20. Ware.

aste. Rare c. for money: early C. 17. Nares. Ex asti, old It. c. for the same.

astonish me!, you. Well, that's pretty obvious, isn't it!: ironic c.p.: from ca. 1920.

astonisher. An exclamation mark: book-world's: from ca. 1925.

astrologer. See conjuror.

astronomer. A horse that carries its head high: C. 19. In C. 18 called a star-gazer.

'at. That (chiefly as pronoun): sol.: C. 19–20. Francis D. Grierson, Murder at Lancaster Gate, 1934, "'Mr. Croggs?' . . . "'At's my name, Guv'ner.'" at that. See that, at.

at the high port. At once; vigorously; unhesitatingly; very much: military; from ca. 1925. I.e. in fine style.

atch. To arrest; tramps' c. (— 1923). Manchon. Ex Romany (?): but it may abbr. atchker, q.v.

atcha! All right!: military: C. 20.

atchker. To arrest: central s. (— 1923) on catch. Manchon.

ate. Sol., esp. Cockney, for eaten: C. 19–20. 'He's ate it all,' Baumann.

atfler. See hatfler.

Athanasian wench. 'A forward girl, ready to oblige every man that shall ask her', Grose. Ca. 1700–1830. Variant, quicunque vult (whosoever desires)—the opening words of the Athanasian Creed.

Athenæum; gen. the A. The penis: cultured (— 1903); very ob. F. & H., revised. Perhaps ex Athenæum, an association of persons meeting for mutual improvement.

Athie. The Athenæum; printers' (— 1887); † by 1920. Baumann.

-ation, as used in humorous neologisms, verges on the coll. E.g. hissation, a hissing.

Atkins. See Thomas Atkins.

Atlantic ranger. A herring: coll.: from ca. 1880; ob. Variant, sea-rover.

atmospherics. A coll. abbr. of atmospheric disturbances ('wireless'): 1928 +; by 1935, almost S.E. Hence, fig., an irritable or quarrelsome or highly strung atmosphere: 1932 +.

atomy. A very small, a small thin, a small deformed person: late C. 16–19. Coll. by 1700; from mid-C. 19, S.E.; slightly ob. Ex anatomy, q.v. (variant ot(t)omy)—confused prob. by atom atrocious. Very bad; execrable; very noticeable: coll.; from ca. 1830.—2. Adv. in -ly: 1831, Alford, 'The letter had an atrociously long sentence in it', F. & H., revised.

(W). Shakespeare: 'Thou atomy, thou! . . . you thin thing.' Sala: 'A miserable little atomy, more deformed, more diminutive, more mutilated than any beggar in a bowl.'

atrocious. A bad blunder; an offence against good taste, manners, or morals. 1878. (O.E.D.)

attaboy! Go it!: U.S. (— 1917); anglicised in 1918. F. & Gibbons. The O.E.D. and Collinson derive it from that's the boy!, but possibly it represents at her, boy!, where her is sexless; prob., however, it is a corruption of the exclamatory U.S. staboy recorded by Thornton.—2. Hence, an approbatory exclamation, from ca. 1931, as in D. Sayers, Murder Must Advertise, 1933, "'Picture of nice girl bending down to put the cushion in the corner of the [railway] carriage. And the headline [of the advertisement]? 'Don't let them pinch your seat.' " "Attaboy!" said Mr. Bredon [Lord Peter Wimsey].' attache case. Incorrect for attaché case: C. 20. E.g. frequently in Miles Burton's thriller, To Catch a Thief, 1934.

attack. To address oneself to; commence. From ca. 1820, coll.; after ca. 1860, S.E. due to Gallic influence.

attackted. Attacked: sol.: C. 19 (prob. earlier)—20. Rarely written. Cf. drownded.

attend to. To thrash: coll.; from ca. 1800. Cf. L. animadvertere.

attest. See detest.

attic; occ., not before ca. 1850, and now ob., attic-storey. The head: pugilistic (— 1823). 'Jon Bee'; H., 1st ed. By 1870 (Dean Alford), gen. Cf. upper storey, q.v.—2. Esp. (be) queer in the attic, weak-minded; rarely, mad: from ca. 1870. H., 5th ed. In C. 20, occ. (have) rats in the attic (Lyell). Ex.—3. Orig. (— 1859), queer in the attic = intoxicated: pugilistic; † by 1890. H., 1st ed.—4. The female pudend (attic only): low (— 1903); ob. F. & H., revised.—5. Top deck of a bus: busmen's: from ca. 1920. The Daily Herald, Aug. 5, 1936.

attorney. A goose or turkey drumstick, grilled and devilled: punning devil, a lawyer working for another: 1829, Griffin, 'I love a plain beef steak before a grilled attorney'; ob. (Attorney as a legal title was abolished in England in 1873).—2. In c., a legal adviser to criminals: late C. 19–20, ob.

Attorney-General's devil. A barrister doing a K.C.'s heavy work: ca. 1860–1920. Ware.

atween, atwixt. Between, betwixt: sol., mostly London (— 1887). Baumann.

au reservoir! Au revoir. Orig. U.S., adopted ca. 1880. In C. 20 often au rev.

auctioneer, deliver or give or tip (one) the. To knock a person down: ca. 1860–1930. Sala, 1863 (deliver); H., 5th ed. (tip). 'Tom Sayers's right hand was known to pugilistic fame as the auctioneer' (Sayers, d. 1865, fought from 1849 to 1860, in which latter year he drew, miraculously, with Heenan); Manchon.

audit. Abbr. audit ale, a brew peculiar to Trinity College, Cambridge, and several other Cambridge and Oxford colleges; made orig. for drinking on audit days: mid-C. 19–20; coll. verging on S.E. Ouida, 1872.

audit one's accounts. See accounts.

Aug. See Feb.

ought. Nought—the eypher: C. 18–20 sol. Cf. ought.

aujence. Audience: sol., esp. Cockney: late C. 19–20. G. R. Sims, Anna of the Underworld, 1916, 'The sportin' gents in the aujence'.

auld case or gib. An elderly man: Glasgow coll. (— 1934). Ex gib, a tom-cat.

Auld Hornie. The Devil. Mainly Scottish: C. 18–20, ob. Ex his horn. For accounts of the Devil's names, see Weekley's Word and Names, 1932, and Words!, 1933.—2. The penis: Scots (— 1903) A pun on horn, a priapism.

Auld Reekie. Orig. the old-town part of Edinburgh: late C. 18–ca. 1860. Then the whole city. Lit., 'Old Smoky'; cf. the Great Smoke, London. Coll. from ca. 1890.

auly-auly. (Winchester College) a game played ca. 1700–1840 in Grass Court after Saturday afternoon chapel. A collective game with an india-rubber ball. Supposedly ex haul ye, call ye, but, in view of Winchester's fame in Classics, prob. ex Gk. αὐλή, a court or a quadrangle.

aunt. A procuress, a concubine, a prostitute: C. 17–ca. 1830. Mine (or my) aunt, as in Grose. 1st ed. Shaperear, Summer songs for me and my aunts,

While we lie tumbling in the hay.

2. Also, at Oxford and Cambridge Universities, a students' name for 'the sister university': C. 17–18. Fuller, 1755.—3. A children's coll. for a non-related woman (cf. uncle): C. 19–20. Cf. the U.S. usage (an aged negress as addressed by a child) and see auntie.

aunt, or auntie, go to see one's. To visit the w.e.: euphemistic, mostly women's: from ca. 1850. Cf. Mrs. Jones, which is occ. Aunt Jones (H., 5th ed.).

aunt, my. See my aunt.

aunt!, my; my sainted aunt! A mild exclamation: coll.: resp. from late 1880's and ca. 1920. O.E.D. (Sup.).

aunt had been my uncle, if my. See uncle.

Aunt Maria. The female pudend: low (— 1903). F. & H., revised.

Aunt Sally. A wicket-keeper: cricketers' jocular coll.: 1898. (W. J. Lewis.)

aunt's sisters. Ancestors: London middle-class (— 1909); virtually †. Ware. By pun.

Aunt Voss. The Vossische Zeitung (famous Ger. newspaper): 1915, The Daily Mail, Dec. 22. (Van Wely.)

auntie, aunty. Coll. form of aunt: from ca. 1790. Also, like uncle, used by children for a friend of the house: C. 19–20.—2. A 12-inch gun: military: 1915; ob.—3. See aunt, go to see one's.

aurev! Au revoir: from ca. 1920. Galsworthy, The White Monkey, 1924. Cf. au reservoir.

Aussie, occ. Aussey. Australia: from ca. 1895. An Australian: from ca. 1905. Both coll. and orig. Australian; popularised by G.W. In 1914 +, also adj. Cf. digger, dinkum.

Aussieland. An occ. variant, C. 20, of Aussie, sense 1. Rare among Australians.

Austin Reed service, I suppose?,—just a part of the. Included in the service, I presume?; all free?: a c.p. of 1936 based on a slogan (1935–) of the well-known men's clothiers.

Australasian, n. and adj. (An inhabitant) belonging to Australasia: no longer—since ca. 1925—used of either an Australian or a New Zealander. Cf. the fate of Anglo-Indian.

Australian flag. A shirt-tail rucked up between trousers and waistcoat: Australian, ca. 1870–1910.

Australian grip. A hearty hand-shake: Australian, ca. 1885–1914; coll.

autem, a church, mid-C. 16–18 c., is the parent of many other c. terms, e.g. autem bawler, a parson; autem cackler, a Dissenter or a married woman; autem-cackle tub, a Dissenters' meeting-house or a pulpit; autem dipper or diver, a Baptist or a pick-pocket specialising in churches; autem gog(g)ler, a pretended prophet, or a conjuror; autem jet, a parson; autem prickear, see autem cackler; autem quaver, a Quaker; and autem-quaver tub, a Quakers' meeting-house or a desk therein. Perhaps via antem, an anthem.

autem, adj. Married, esp. in the two c. terms, autem cove, a married man, and autem mori, a married woman: C. 17–18. Perhaps ex altham (q.v.), a wife.

author-baiting. Summoning an unsuccessful dramatist before the curtain: theatrical, ca. 1870–1900.

authodox; unauthodox. Such occ. errors for orthodox, unorthodox, as would be impossible to anyone with an elementary knowledge of Greek or with even a moderately sensitive ear.

auto. Abbr. automobile: 1899; coll.; S.E. by 1910 but never gen. Ex Fr. (S.O.D.)

autom, autum. Variants of autem, q.v.

automatic. Abbr. automatic revolver: C. 20; coll. > S.E. Esp. in G.W.

autumn. (The season or time of) an execution by hanging: low: mid-C. 19–20; ob. H., 2nd ed. avadavat. Incorrect for amadavat: 1777, Sheridan. Yule & Burnell.

avast! Hold on! Be quiet! Stop! Nautical: C. 17–20; coll. >, by late C. 19, S.E. Prob. ex Dutch hou'vast, hold fast.

avaunt, give the. To dismiss (a person): late C. 16–early 17. Shakespeare. Ex avaunt!, be off! (C. 15 +).

avec. Spirits: Western Front military: 1917–18. F. & Gibbons. Ex Fr. café avec (coffee with—gen., rum).

avenue. Possibility, as in explore every avenue, to try all possible means: C. 20; mainly political, journalistic, and commercial: soon > coll.; perhaps soon to > S.E.

average man, the. The ordinary person: C. 19–20; coll. > S.E. Cf. the man in the street (s.v. street).

avering. A boy's begging naked to arouse compassion: c.: late C. 17–early 18. Kennett, 1695, has also go a-vering. ? ex aver, to declare (it) true.

avert, evert, revert. Occ. confused: C. 16–20. (O.E.D.)

aviary. See apiary.

avoidupois. Obesity: jocular coll.; late C. 19–20.

avoidupois lay. The thieving of brass weights from shop counters: late C. 18–mid 19 c. Grose, 2nd ed.

avuncular relation or relative. A pawnbroker: facetiously coll., ca. 1860–1900. Sala, in 1859, speaks of pawnbroking as avuncular life.

awake. To inform, let know: from mid-1850's; ob. 'Ducange Anglicus', 1st ed.

awaste. A c. form of avast as in bing avast, q.v.

away. Erroneous for way: C. 17–18. Hakluyt, Smollett. O.E.D.—2. In imperatives, e.g. say away, it gives to the phrase a coll. tinge: C. 17 (? earlier)—20. Galsworthy, 1924, 'Baise [kiss] away!'—3. To depart: theatrical: ca. 1905–14.

Ware. Ex melodramatic away!—4. In prison: low London (— 1909). Ware. By euphemism.

aweer. Aware: London sol. or, rather, Cockney low coll. (— 1887). Baumann.

awful, esp. a penny awful. A 'penny dreadful', a blood-and-thunder tale. Ca. 1860–1900.—2. (awful.) Offal: Cockney sol. (— 1887). Baumann.

awful, adj. A catch-intensive. Apparently C. 18 Scottish, then U.S. (see Bartlett), and ca. 1840 adopted in England. Lamb, 1834: 'She is indeed, as the Americans would express it, something awful.' Coll., as is the adv. awful(ly) = very: mid-C. 19–20. In 1859 occurs awfully clever; Punch satirised it in 1877 in the phrase, 'it's too awfully nice'; P. G. Wodehouse, 1907 (see frightfully); Lyell, 1931, 'We had awful fun at my brother's party.' Cf. Society's post-G.W. use of grim for 'unpleasant'. F. & H.: O.E.D.

awful place, the. Dartmoor Prison: c. dating from the late 1890's.

awfully. See awful, adj.

awright. See orright.

awhile for a while is catachrestic when while is purely a n.

'Awkins. A severe man; one not to be trifled with: Cockney: ca. 1880–1900. Ware. Ex Judge Sir Frederic Hawkins, reputed to be a 'hanging' judge.

awkward. Pregnant: euphemistic: late C. 19–20; ob. F. & G., revised. Cf. bumpy.

awkward squad. Recruits, esp. a segregated group of recruits, commencing to learn to drill or having their drill improved: naval and military, from ca. 1870; coll. by 1890; j. by G.W.

awls and be gone, pack up one's. To depart for good: (low) coll. (— 1756). Prob. awls is a corruption of all, as Manchon suggests.

awry, tread the shoe. To fall from virtue: C. 16–20, ob.; coll.; then, in C. 18–20, S.E. Cf. in S.E. take or make a false step.

ax(e). To ask. Down to ca. 1600, S.E.; since then, sol. (Cf. arks, arst, qq.v.) Chaucer: 'If any fellow have neede of sapiens [= wisdom], axe it of God.'—2. To reduce (expenses) by means of 'the axe': 1923. Coll.; S.E. by 1925. (S.O.D.) Cf.: axe, the. Reduction of expenses, mainly in personnel, in the public services: 1922.—2. A body of officials (quis custodiet ipsos custodes) effecting these reductions: 1922. Coll.; both S.E. by 1925. See:

axe, the Geddes. That reduction of public-service expenses which was recommended in 1922 by Sir Eric Geddes, who aimed at the size of the various staffs. Recorded in 1923: coll.: by 1925, S.E. and historical.

axe, where the chicken got the. See chicken got . . .

axe after the helve, send the. (Better, send the helve after the hatchet.) To take a further useless step; send good money after bad. Coll.; from C. 16; in C. 19–20, rare but S.E.

axe in the helve, put the. To solve a doubt. Coll.; from C. 16; ob. Like the preceding, proverbial.

axe (or axes) to grind. An ulterior motive, gen. selfish. Coll., orig. (— 1815) U.S., adopted ca. 1840. At first of politics, it soon widened in applicability; by 1850, moreover, it had > S.E.

ax(e)-my-eye, an. A very alert fellow: cheap-jack's, ca. 1850–1910. Hindley.

axle-grease. See grease, n., 5.

Ayrshires. Glasgow and South-Western Railway shares: Stock Exchange from ca. 1880.

B

b. A bug: coll.; from ca. 1860. Also b flat: 1836 (F. & H., revised). Ex the insect's initial letter and appearance.—2. In c., abbr. blue, q.v.—3. See 'A1', 2.

b. and s. ; B. and S. Brandy and soda: Whyte-Melville, 1868: s. >, ca. 1890, coll. The b is occ. separable, as in 'Give me some B in my S', Baumann, 1887.

B.A. Buenos Aires: nautical coll.: late C. 19—20. W. McFee, The Beachcomber, 1935.

B.B. Gen. pl. B.B.'s. A bluejacket: naval: C. 20. F. & Gibbons. Ex 'British Blue', with a non-drawing-room pun.—2. Bloody bastard: C. 20.

B.B.A. Born Before Arrival: medical students': C. 20. (Slang, p. 189.)

B.B.C. The British Broadcasting Corporation (founded ca. 1924): coll.; by 1933, S.E.—2. Any broadcasting corporation: 1933 (The Daily Telegraph, early Aug.); coll.

B.B.C., the. The 2.10 a.m. freight express train from London to Wolverhampton: railwaymen's: from ca. 1929. The Daily Telegraph, Aug. 15, 1936. It passes through Basingstoke, Birmingham and Crewe. Cf. the Bacca, q.v.

b.c. A person bringing a wholly inadequate action for libel: from ca. 1870. Ex the bloody cat of an actual lawsuit. †.

B.C. See anno domini.

B.C. play. A Classical drama: theatrical: 1885; very ob. Ware. I.e. before Christ.

b.f. A frequent C. 20 coll. (rare before G.W.) euphemising of bloody fool. Lyell.

b flat. See b, 1.

B from a battledore, or, rarely, from a broomstick or, very gen., from a bull's foot, not to know. To be illiterate, extremely ignorant: resp. mid-C. 16—17, C. 19, C. 15—20. A battledore was an alphabet-hornbook. For the first phrase and the third, see esp. Apperson's English Proverbs and Proverbial Phrases. Also not to know great A from a battledore or (great) A from a bull's foot.

B.H. A bank holiday: non-aristocratic coll.: 1880; ob.—2. Bloody hell: 1928 (O.E.D. Sup.). Also bee aitch.

B.I.D. Brought In Dead (to the hospital): medical students': C. 20. Cf. B.B.A.

b.k.'s. 'Military officers in mufti, when out on the spree, and not wishing their profession to be known, speak of their barracks as the B.K.'s', H., 3rd ed: military (— 1864); ob.

b.n. Bloody nuisance. C. 20.

B.N.C. Brasenose College, Oxford: from ca. 1840: coll. >, by 1900, j. Cf. Brazen Nose College, you were bred in, q.v.

B.P. The British Public: theatrical (1867) >, by 1910, gen. coll. Ware.—2. See Bups.

B.P.N. A Bloody Public Nuisance: C. 20. Cf. B.F.

b.r. or B.R. A bedroom steward, in the First Class: nautical: C. 20. Bowen.

b.s. A euphemism for bull-shit, q.v.: from ca. 1910.

b.t.m. A coll. domestic euphemism for bottom (posterior): late C. 19—20.

ba-ha. Bronchitis: tailors': from the 1890's; slightly ob. By deliberate slurring.

baa-baa. A sheep: nursery coll.: C. 19—20.

Ex the sheep's bleat. Cf. bow-wow, cock-a-doodle (-doo), moo-cow, quack-quack.

baa-baa (black sheep), go. To bar the favourite: race-course s. (— 1932). Slang, pp. 242, 246. There is, further, an allusion to the nursery rhyme.

Baa-Baas, the. The Barbarian Rugby Football team: sporting: from ca. 1924.

baa cheat. A sheep: c.: C. 18. Anon., Street-Robberies Consider'd (ba cheat), 1728. Lit., 'baa'-thing.

baa-lamb. A lamb (cf. baa-baa, q.v.): nursery coll.: C. 19—20.—2. (with capitals) H.M.S. Bdrham: naval: C. 20.

baal! See bale!

baas. A master, a manager, a head man of any sort: South African coll.: 1785, Sparrman, A Voyage to the Cape of Good Hope . . . from 1772 to 1776. Ex Dutch baas, master, foreman. Pettmann.—2. The term of address to the skipper of a Dutch ship: nautical coll.: C. 19—20. Bowen.

Bab, the. The Straits of Bab-el-Mandeb: nautical: C. 17—18. W.

baba. A coll., gen. a child's, variant of papa: C. 19—20. In late C. 16—17, bab.—2. In Anglo-Indian coll., a child. Ex Turki baba influenced by our baby. Yule & Burnell.

babbie, babby, vocative. Baby: coll.: late C. 19—20. Ex C. 16—20 dial.

babbler; babbling brook. A cook: C. 20: resp. military, ex the latter; and gen. rhyming s. B. & P.

babe. The latest-elected member of the House of Commons: opp. father of the house. Parliamentary coll.: from ca. 1870.

babe, kiss the. See kiss the babe.

babe in the wood. A criminal in the stocks or the pillory: late C. 18—early 19. Grose, 1st ed.—2. In C. 20, the pl. = dice.

babe of grace. Bee defines the pl. as 'sanctified-looking persons, not so': fast society: ca. 1820—40.

babes. A gang of disreputables that, at an auction, forbear to bid against the bigger dealers; their reward, drinks and/or cash. From ca. 1860 ob. H., 2nd ed. Cf. knock-outs, q.v.

Babies; Baby Wee-Wees. Buenos Aires Water Works shares: Stock Exchange: from ca. 1870. The shorter ex the longer, which combines an acrostic with a pun on Water Works and wee-wee (urination).

babies' cries. A variant of baby's cries, q.v.

baboon. Fig. for a person: like ape, this is in C. 20 considered low coll.

Babsky. A wind-swept part of Liverpool: Liverpool: 1886. Ware. I.e. Bay o' Biscay.

baby. A twopenny bottle of soda-water: public-house: ca. 1875—1900. Ware.—2. A girl; sweetheart: U.S. (ca. 1910), adopted ca. 1930.—3. 'The R.N.A.S. small Sopwith aeroplane in the early days of the War': naval: 1914—16. Bowen.

baby, the. A diamond-mining sifting machine: Vaal River coll. (— 1886); ob. Ex Babe, its American inventor. Pettman, who notes baby, to sift ground with this machine: from mid-1880's.

Baby Act, plead the. To excuse oneself as too inexperienced: from ca. 1900; ob. Ex.—2. 'To plead minority as voiding a contract': coll.:

from late 1890's. Ex the plea of infancy in its legal sense.

baby and nurse. 'A small bottle of soda-water and two-pennyworth of spirit in it': public-house: ca. 1876-1900. Ware. Cf. baby, q.v.

baby bunting. See bunting.

baby crying, the. The bugle-call to defaulters: military: late C. 19-20; ob. F. & Gibbons. Cf. angel's whisper, 1.

baby-farmer or -stealer. A male or a female courtier or lover of one much younger, very young: C. 20.

baby-maker. The penis: euphemistically jocular: late C. 19-20; ob.

baby- or baby's-pap. A eap: (mostly underworld) rhyming slang: ca. 1855-1900. 'Ducange Anglieus', 1857.

baby-snatcher. One who marries a person much younger: jocular coll. (- 1927). Collinson.

baby spot. See Moving-Picture Slang, §3.

Baby Wee-Wees. See Babies.

babylon(it)ish. C. 19 Winchester College for a dressing-gown: ex Babylon(it)ish garment.

baby's cries. Eyes: rhyming s.: from ca. 1920. A. Hyder, Black Girl, White Lady, 1934.

baby's head. Meat pudding: naval: C. 20. F. & Gibbons, 'Suggested by its smooth, round appearance.'

baby's public-house. The female breast: proletarian: 1884, The Referee, Oct. 5. Ware.

Bacca, the. The express goods-train carrying tobacco (including cigarettes) from Bristol to London: railwaymen's: from ca. 1910. The Daily Telegraph, Aug. 15, 1936. Cf. The Biscuit, the Flying Pig, the Leek, the Magic Carpet, the Sparagras, the Spud; also the Early Bird, the Early Riser, the Farmer's Boy, the Feeder, and the Mopper Up. These railwaymen's nicknames were recognised as official in the G.W.R.'s Guide to Economical Transport, issued in August, 1936.

bacca, bacco, baccy. Tobacco: low coll.: 1858; 1860; 1833, Marryat. (O.E.D.) Cf. backer.—2. Hence bacca, more gen. baccy-box, the mouth; the nose: low (- 1923). Manchon.

bacca-pipes. Whiskers curled in ringlets (- 1880; † by 1890).

baccare !; backare ! Go back, retire ! Ca. 1540-1680. Heywood; Udall; Lyly; Shakespeare, 'Baccare ! you are marvellous forward'; Howell, 1659. (Apperson.) Jocular on back: perhaps Latinised or Italianised back there. (O.E.D.)

Bacchus. A set of Latin verses written on Shrove Tuesday at Eton: ? C. 18-early 19: coll. at Eton College. Ex the verses there written, on that day, in praise or dispraise of Bacchus. Anon., Etoniana, 1865.

bacco, baccy, baccy-box. See bacca.

bach. A bachelor: in U.S. in 1850's; anglicised ca. 1900. Ware prefers bach. Cf.:

bach, oee, batch, v. To live by oneself, doing one's own work; orig. like a bachelor. Ex U.S.; anglicised ca. 1890. Cf. the n.

bachelor !, then the town bull is a. A semi-proverbial c.p. retort incredulous on a woman's alleged chastity: mid-C. 17-18. Ray, 1678; he does not, however, restrict it to either women or chastity.

bachelor's baby. An illegitimate child: coll., mid-C. 19-20. Whiteing, 1899, Ray, ca. 1670, and Grose, 1788, have bachelor's (or batchelor's) son.

bachelor's fare. Bread, cheese, and kisses:

C. 18-19. Swift, ca. 1708 (published 30 years later). 'Lady. . . . Some ladies . . . have promised to breakfast with you . . . ; what will you give us ? Colonel. Why, faith, ruadam, bachelor's fare, bread and cheese and kisses'; Grose, 3rd ed.

[back. To support by a bet, was perhaps orig. (C. 17) coll., but O.E.D. and S.O.D.—rightly, one suspects—treat it as always S.E.]

back, on one's. Penniless; utterly puzzled: late C. 19-20. Nautically, on the bones of one's back: Bowen.

back, ride on one's. To fool or deceive a person, esp. successfully: coll.: C. 18-19.

back and belly. All over: C. 18-19 familiar coll. Keep one b. and b., C. 18-19 coll.; adumbrated in C. 16.

back and fill. See backing and filling.

back-biters, his bosom friends are become his. A punning c.p. (cf. bosom friend, q.v.) of ca. 1700-1840. Swift, ca. 1708; Grose, 1st ed.

back-breaker. A person setting, or a thing being, a task beyond normal endurance: C. 18-20 coll. The adj., back-breaking, gen. goes with job or work.

back-breakers. 'Old-fashioned ship's pumps': nautical: late C. 19-20. Bowen. A special application of the preceding.

back-chat. A variant of back-talk, q.v.: 'A slang term applied to saucy or impertinent replies', Pettman: South African (- 1901) and (? hence) Australian.

back-cheat. A cloak: C. 18-early 19: c.

back-cloth star. An actor or actress that plays up-stage, thus forcing the others to turn their backs to the audience: theatrical (- 1935).

back door, a gentleman or an usher of the. A sodomist: mid-C. 18-20, ob. Grose, 1st ed. Hence back-door work, sodomy. Cf. backgammon-player.

back-door trot. Diarrhœa: from ca. 1870; orig. dial. Cf. Jerry-go-nimble.

back-door trumpet. A mid-C. 19-20 variant of ars musica, q.v.

back down, often a square-back-down. An utter collapse; complete surrender of claims: from early 1880's: coll. >, by 1920, S.E.—2. A severe rebuff: from ca. 1890.

back down. To yield, to retire: from ca. 1880: coll. >, by 1910, S.E. Ex U.S. (1849: O.E.D.).

back-ender. 'A horse entered for a race late in the season', F. & H.: racing coll.: ca. 1889. Ex back-end, the last two months of the horse-racing season.

back-hair part. A role 'in which the agony of the performance at one point in the drama admits of the feminine tresses in question floating over the shoulders': theatrical: 1884; ob. by 1920, † by 1930. Ware.

back-hairing. 'Feminine fighting, in which the occipital locks suffer severely', Ware: London streets' (- 1909).

back-hand. To drink more than one's share: ca. 1850-1910. In G. A. Lawrence's best novel, Guy Livingstone, 1857, it occurs as a vbl. n., back-handing.—2. back-hand ! Get out of the way: ships' stokers' c.p.: C. 20.

back-handed. Indirect; unfair: from ca. 1815: coll. >, by 1880, S.E. Dickens, 1865, has a back-handed reminder. Cf. back-hander, 3, q.v.

back-handed turn. An unprofitable transaction: Stock Exchange, ca. 1870-1914.

back-hander. A drink either additional or out of turn: coll.: ca. 1850–1900. Ex:—2. A blow with the back of the hand: coll. >, by 1870, S.E.: 1836, Marryat; Farrar.—3. Hence, a rebuke: ca. 1860–1900 (e.g. in Whyte-Melville): coll. >, by 1900, S.E. Cf. back-handed, q.v.

back is up.—Sir, I see somebody has offended you, for your. A jeering c.p. addressed to a hump-backed man: ca. 1780–1850. Grose, 1st ed. See back up, adj.

back-jump. To enter (e.g. a house) by a back door or window: c. from ca. 1855. H., 1st ed. Ex:—2. A back window: c. (— 1812). Vaux. Because one jumps from it in escape.

back-mark. See back-marked.—2. Hence, to outdistance (easily): sporting: 1928 (O.E.D., Sup.).

back-marked, be. To have one's athletic handicap reduced: late C. 19–20 coll., ob. Rare in active voice.

back number. (Of a person) a 'has been': coll.: U.S. (1890: O.E.D. (Sup.)) anglicised ca. 1905; by 1935, S.E. Prob. ex the back numbers of periodicals.

Back Numbers, the. The 28th Foot, in late C. 19–20 the Gloucestershire Regiment: military: C. 19–20. Ex the sphinx worn, as distinction for services at the Battle of Alexandria, 1801, on both the back and the front of the helmet until 1881. F. & Gibbons.

back of, break the. See break the neck or back of.
back o' the green. Behind the scenes: theatrical and music-halls': ca. 1880–1910. Ware, with reference to the green curtain and in imperfect rhyme on scenes.

back of Bourke. The farthest distance known: Australian c.p.: C. 20. Bourke being a town in south-western New South Wales.

back of one's neck, talk through (rarely out of) the. To talk nonsense: from ca. 1920. Ex talk through one's hat.

back of the hand down. Bribery: from ca. 1890; ob. (J. Milne, The Epistles of Atkins, 1902.)

back out. To retreat from a difficulty or unpleasantness: 1818, Scott: coll. >, by 1860, S.E. Ex lit. sense.

back pedal! Steady!; tell that to the marines!: c.p.: from ca. 1910. Collinson. Ex cycling.

back-racket. A tu-quoque: coll.; C. 17–18. Ex the S.E. sense, 'the return of a ball in tennis', S.O.D.

back-row hopper. A sponger affecting taverns haunted by actors: theatrical (— 1909): virtually †. Ware.

back-scratching. (A) flogging: naval: late C. 19–early 20. Bowen. (As sycophantic flattery, it is S.E.)

back-scuttle. Same as back-slang it, q.v.: c. of C. 19.—do or have a back-scuttle, to possess a woman a retro: low: mid-C. 19–20.

back-seam, be (down) on one's. To be out of luck, unfortunate. Tailors' (— 1887). Baumann; Whiteing, 1899. Cf. back, on one's, q.v.

back seat, take a. To retire; yield; fail. Orig. (1863) U.S.; anglicised ca. 1880: coll. >, by 1920, S.E. (Thornton.)

[Back-slang dates from ca. 1850. Slang, pp. 276–7.]

back-slang it. To go out the back way: ca. 1810–1910: low; prob. orig. c. Vaux; H., 1st ed. Cf. back slum.—2. In Australia, ca. 1850–1905, to seek unoffered lodging in the country.

Morris. Perhaps ex Vaux's second sense:—3. To go a circuitous or private way through the streets in order to avoid meeting certain persons: c. of ca. 1810–50. Vaux.

back slum. A back room; the back-entrance of a building. 'Thus, we'll give it 'em on the back slum, means, we'll get in at the back door', Vaux, 1812: c. >, ca. 1870, low. Cf. back-jump and back-slang it.

back slums. In C. 20, S.E. for very poor urban districts, but orig. (— 1821) s. for residential area of criminals and near-criminals.

back-staircase. A woman's bustle: ca. 1850–1900. (Bustle occurs in 1788: S.O.D.)

back-stall. In C. 19–20 ob. c., an accomplice covering a thief. Cf. stall, q.v.

back-strapped. (Of a ship or a boat) 'carried back into an awkward position by the tide and held there': nautical coll.: mid-C. 19–20. Bowen.

back-talk. Impudence; verbal recalcitrance. Esp. as no back-talk! From ca. 1870; coll. Cf. back-chat. Ex dial.

back teeth underground, have one's. To have eaten one's fill; to have them awash or under water = to be drunk. Both are jocular (— 1913) and ob. A. H. Dawson.

back the barrer (i.e. barrow). To intervene unasked: low Australian (— 1916). C. J. Dennis.

back-timber. Clothing: C. 17–18; coll.

back-to-backs, the. Mean, small, thickly set, parallel-ranged houses in slums and mining towns. C. 20; coll.

back-tommy. Cloth covering the stays at the waist: tailors': late C. 19–20.

back or backs to the wall. Hard pressed: C. 19 coll., C. 20 S.E. In C. 16–18 with at for to.

back up. To be ready to help, chiefly in games: coll. (in C. 20, S.E.): from ca. 1860.—2. Winchester College, from ca. 1870: to call out, e.g. for help.

back up, adj. Annoyed, aroused. One's back to be up, to be annoyed, C. 18–19 coll.; put or set one's back up, to be, or to make, annoyed, C. 18–20 coll.: from ca. 1800 both phrases tended to be considered as S.E. though not literary. Since ca. 1870, get one's back up, to become or to make annoyed, is the gen. form: this, however, has always been coll. Cf. back is up, q.v.

backare! See baccare!

backed. Dead: late C. 17–early 19. Perhaps = set on one's back; B.E. and Grose, however, explain as 'on six men's shoulders', i.e. carried to the grave.

backer, back(e)y. Tobacco: low coll.: 1848, Dickens (backer). E.D.D. Cf. bacca.

backgammon-player. A sodomist: mid-C. 18–early 19; cf. back door, gentleman of the.

backgammoner. The same: ca. 1820–80. 'Jon Bee.'

background. Retiring; modest: coll.: 1896, 'A reticent, background kind of lover', O.E.D. I.e. keeping in the background.

backhanding, n. Giving gratuities: lower classes': C. 20. Ex the motion of the donor.

backing and filling, vbl. n. and adj. Irresolute, dilatory, shifty; shiftiness, irresolution: coll.: from ca. 1840. Ex nautical j. In Barham's use, 'moving zigzag', the orig. sense lingers. Bowen adds the sense, 'lazy': nautical: ca. 1850–1900.

backings-up. The ends of half-burnt faggots: Winchester College, C. 19.

backs to the wall. See back to the wall.

backsheesh, -shish; baksheesh, ba(c)kshee. See bakshee (the latest form).

backside. The posteriors: C. 16–20. Always S.E., but ca. 1870–1914 a vulgarism. See Slang, p. 138.

backward, ring the bells. To give the alarm: ca. 1500–1890; coll. > S.E. Cleveland, Scott. Ex the practice of beginning with the bass when the bells were rung.

backward in coming forward. Shy; modest: jocular coll. (semi-c.p.): C. 20.

backward station. 'In the old Coastguard Service one that was considered most undesirable, frequently on account of its distance from a school': coastguardsmen's coll.: C. 19. Bowen.

backwards, go. To go to the w.c.: C. 20; very ob. F. & H., revised.

backwards, piss. To defecate: low: late C. 19–20; ob. Ibid.

backy. A shop-mate working behind another: tailors', from ca. 1870; ob.—2. See backer.

backyard, two feet one. See two feet one backyard and cf. boats.

bacon. See bacon, save one's.

bacon, a good voice to beg. A c.p. derisive of an ill voice: late C. 17–18. B.E.

bacon, bring home the. See bring home . . .

bacon, pull. To put one's fingers derisively to one's nose: mid-C. 19–20.

bacon, save one's. To escape narrowly: late C. 17–20; coll. from ca. 1750. A. Behn, 1682, 'I go [to church] to save my bacon as they say, once a month' (Apperson). Perhaps from the days of heretics burnt at the stake; A New Canting Dict. (1725), however, says that in this phrase, bacon 'in the Canting Sense, is the Prize, of whatever kind, which Robbers make in their Enterprizes'. (Cf. the 1934 advertisement slogan, 'Breakfast on Shredded Wheat and save your bacon'.) bacon-faced. Full-faced: late C. 17–19. Recorded first in Otway.

bacon-fed. Fat; greasy: coll.: late C. 16–19. Occurring in Shakespeare.

bacon-slicer. A rustic: coll.: mid C. 17–early 19. Urquhart, 1653.

bad. Difficult; esp. in bad to beat, as in Hawley Smart's Post to Finish, 1884: coll. Ob.

bad, adv. Badly: sol.: C. 18 (? earlier)–20. Cf. badder, q.v.

bad, go to the. To be ruined; become depraved. From ca. 1860; coll. >, ca. 1910, S.E. Early users are Miss Braddon and 'Dagonet' Sims. Ex to the bad, in deficit.

bad, not. Rather or (patronisingly) quite good: upper (hence, derivatively, middle) classes' coll.: from ca. 1860 (Ware); the O.E.D. (Sup.) example at 1835 is prob. isolated and perhaps inoperative.

bad, not half. Fairly good: coll.: from late 1890's. Cf. not half.

bad, taken. Taken ill: (low) coll.: late C. 19–20. On taken short.

bad, to the. In deficit. The O.E.D. quotes an example in 1816. Coll.

bad bargain. A worthless soldier (gen. preceded by King's or Queen's): C. 18–20; coll. from 1800. Grose, 1st ed.—2. Hence, since ca. 1860 (without King's or Queen's), any worthless person: coll.

bad cess to! Evil befall . . .! Anglo-Irish coll.; from ca. 1850 (S.O.D. records it at 1859). Prob. ex cess = assessment, levy, rate(s); but perhaps abbr. success.

bad egg. A rascal; a scoundrel; worthless fellow. Orig. (1853) U.S.; anglicised ca. 1860. Thornton, '. . . The κακόν κόρακος κακόν ὦν of the Greeks.'

bad form. Vulgar; rude; unaccepted of Society: Society s.: from ca. 1860, according to Ware. Ob., not done superseding it. In C. 20, b.f. > coll. Punch, 1882 (an Eton boy to his hale old uncle): '. . . Energy's such awful bad form, you know!', F. & H. Ex horse-racing.

bad ha(lf)penny. A ne'er-do-well: from ca. 1850. Ex the c.p., it is a bad halfpenny, said by one who, having failed, returns as he went: ca. 1810–50: Vaux.

bad hat. A rascal: from ca. 1880. Besant, 1883; Galsworthy, 1924, 'If that young man's story's true, we're in the hands of a bad hat.' In The Daily Telegraph of July 28, 1894, G. A. Sala, citing Sir William Fraser's Words on Wellington, suggests that the phrase what a shocking bad hat, which > a c.p., was coined by the Duke in the 1830's: this rests on hearsay. Sala continues, 'The catchword soon lost its political associations, and after a few years, was merged in the purely imbecile query, "Who's your hatter?"' which was † by 1900. Ware thinks that bad hat was, prob., Irish in origin, 'the worst Hibernian characters always wearing bad high hats (caps are not recognised in kingly Ireland)'. Cf. bad lot and see hat †, what a shocking bad and, for an anticipation, see queer nob.

bad job. See job.

bad lot. A person of—often worse than—in-different morals: coll.: Thackeray, 1849. Ex auctioneering. Cf. bad egg, bad hat, bad 'un, qq.v.

bad mark. See 'mark, bad or good'.

bad match twist. Red hair and black whiskers:

hairdresser's, from ca. 1870; †.

bad shilling, a. One's last shilling: proletarian (—1909); slightly ob. Ware.

bad shot. A poor guess (—1844; Kinglake in Eothen). In C. 20, coll.

bad slang. Spurious curiosities: circus, from ca. 1870. Hindley, 1876.

bad smash. Counterfeit coin: c.: C. 20. David Hume.

bad 'un. Same as bad hat, q.v.: mid-C. 19–20.

bad young man. See good young man.

badder, baddest. Once S.E., but in C. 18–20 sol., for worse, worst.

badders. Something (event, news, etc.) bad or unpleasant: from ca. 1925. (Evelyn Waugh, A Handful of Dust, 1934.) 'The Oxford -er.'

Baden-Powell. A trowel: workmen's rhymings.: late C. 19–20. John o' London's Weekly, June 9, 1934.

badge. A brand in the hand: C. 18 c.

badge, he has got his. He has been branded on the hand: c. of ca. 1720–1840. A New Canting Dict., 1725.

badge-cove. A parish-pensioner: C. 18–early 19. A New Canting Dict., 1725.—2. In C. 16–18, a licensed beggar. Both low; prob. c.—at first at any rate.

badger. Nautical (occ. with -bag): Neptune in equatorial ceremonies: C. 19.—2. Schoolboys': a red-headed person: C. 19–20, ob.; at Wellington, late C. 19, a 2nd XV Rugby player.—3. In c., a river-thief that, after robbing, murders and throws his victim into the river: ca. 1720–1830. A New Canting Dict., 1725. Hence perhaps:—4, in

C. 19 c., a common harlot.—5. A brush: artists': late C 19–20.—6. In Australia often, though ever less, used catachrestically for a bandicoot, rock-wallaby, or, esp. in Tasmania, a wombat: C. 19–20. Morris.

badger. To tease; persecute. Perhaps s. when used by the dramatist O'Keeffe in 1794, but very soon coll.; S.E. by 1860. Perhaps ex lit. draw the badger; cf.:

badger, overdraw the. To overdraw one's banking account: ca. 1840–1914. Hood.

badger-bag. 'Neptune and his court in the ceremony of crossing the Line': nautical: mid-C. 19–20. Bowen. See badger, n., 1.

badger-box. A very small dwelling, like an inverted V in section: Tasmanian coll.: ca. 1870–1915. Proceedings of the Royal Society of Tasmania, Sept., 1875. Ex badgers' 'dwellings'. Morris.

badger-legged. With one leg shorter than the other: coll.: from ca. 1700; ob. Cf. the earlier semi-proverbial badger-like, one leg shorter than the other (Howell, 1659). Ex the erroneous belief that a badger has legs of unequal length.

badges and bull's eyes. Badges and medals: military: Oct., 1899; † by 1915. Applied (says The Daily Telegraph, Dec. 21, 1899) by General Gatacre to the officers' badges, etc., because they offered so splendid a mark for Boer bullets. (Ware.)

badgy. An enlisted boy; badgy fiddler, a boy trumpeter: military: ca. 1850–1905. F. & Gibbons. Either because he was a nuisance or because he was bullied or persecuted.

Badian. A Barbadian: ca. 1860 + in the West Indies. Cf. Bim.

badly. Much; greatly: with such vv. as need, want, require, miss: coll.; from ca. 1850.

badminton. A cooling drink, esp. a claret-cup: Disraeli (1845), Whyte-Melville (1853), Ouida (1868). Coll. >, by 1870, S.E.; ob.—2. In boxing slang, ca. 1860–90, blood. H., 3rd ed. Cf. claret. Ex the Duke of Beaufort's seat of that name. The former sense has suggested the latter.

baffaty. Calico: drapery-trade s. (— 1864); ob. H., 3rd ed. Ex S.E. baft, bafta(h), baffeta.

bag. Milk: Westminster School, C. 19–20.—2. See bags, 1.—3. A pot of beer: printers' (— 1887). Cf. bag, get one's head in a, q.v.

bag. To obtain for oneself, esp. anything advantageous: Mortimer Collins, 1880, but also for at least a decade earlier.—2. To catch, take, or steal (1818): a common school term, Farrar using it in 1862.—3. To beget or to conceive: C. 15–17. All three senses, coll.

bag, empty the. To tell everything; close a discussion: coll., C. 18–19.

bag, get or put one's head in a or the. To drink: printers' and sailors': from middle 1880's. The Saturday Review, May 14, 1887. See bag, n., 3.

bag, give the. To deceive: C. 16–17, coll., as are the senses, to give (a master) warning, to abandon (a thing): late C. 16–17; in C. 18, give (one) the bag often = to slip away from (a person), while in late C. 18–19 the phrase came to mean dismiss (cf. give the sack). In C. 17–18 receive the bag = get the sack, be dismissed; coll. But give the bag to hold = to engage one's attention with a view to deceive: late C. 17–19: coll. >, by 1800, S.E.

bag, in the bottom of the. In reserve; as a last resource: mid-C. 17–18: coll. >, by 1750, S.E. Cf. C. 20 out of the bag.

bag, let the cat out of the. To disclose a secret or a trick: from ca. 1750: coll. >, by 1840, S.E. Wolcott, Mrs. Gaskell.

bag, put one in a. To have the upper hand of C. 17–18 coll. Fuller.

bag, put one's head in a. See bag, get one's head.

bag a brace. See brace.

bag and baggage. Entirely; leaving nothing. Esp. of departure. Coll. >, by 1800, S.E. C. 16–20. Orig. dignified military j.

bag and bottle. Food and drink: mid-C. 17–18 coll. Eachard's Observations, 1671.

bag and wallet, turn to. To become a beggar: late C. 16–17 coll. Hakluyt.

bag of, a. Enough; plenty of: military: C. 20. F. & Gibbons. Possibly suggested by the next. Cf. bags of.

bag o(f) beer. A quart of beer: proletarian (— 1909); † by 1930; ob., indeed, by 1916. Ware, 'This once stood for "pot o' four 'arf an' 'arf"', reduced to "[pot o'] four 'arf'", and thence to, "bag o' beer".'

bag of bones. A very thin person: Dickens, 1838: coll.: in C. 20, S.E.

bag o(f) moonshine. Nonsense: C. 19–20; ob. Lower-class coll. Cf. moonshine.

bag of mystery. See bags of mystery.

bag of nails, squint like a. To squint very badly: late C. 18–mid-19. Grose, 2nd ed., 'I.e. his eyes are directed as many ways as the points of a bag of nails.'

Bag of Nails, the. The Bacchanals: a tavern in Pimlico (London): ca. 1770–1830. Grose, 3rd ed. (Folk etymology.)

bag of rations. A fussy, too zealous, or domineering superior: military: 1915–18. F. & Gibbons. Ex the noise it made when agitated.

bag of tricks, the; or the whole b. of t. Every expedient: C. 19–20. Ex the fable of the Fox and the Cat (O.E.D.)—2. Penis and testicles: low: mid-19–20.

bag on the bowline. To drift off a course: nautical coll.: mid-C. 19–20. Bowen. Cf. baggy, adj.

bag-thief. See bagger.

baggage. A saucy young woman: Davenant, 1672; coll. by 1700. A worthless man: C. 16–17. A harlot or a loose woman: Shakespeare, 1596; coll. by 1660; † by 1800. Rubbish, nonsense: C. 16, e.g. in Gascoigne.

baggage, heavy. Women and children: late C. 18–19 (Grose, 2nd ed., records it); cf. Fr. pas de bagage en train de plaisir.

bagger, bag-thief. One who, in stealing rings, seizes the victim's hand: late C. 19—early 20 c. Ex Fr. bague, a ring.

bagging. Food taken between meals: provincial s. rather than dial., C. 18–19. In Lancashire dial., from ca. 1880, high tea.

baggonet. See bagonet.

baggy. (Gen. pl.) A rating in the old naval troopers: military: ca. 1860–1900. Bowen, 'On account of their uniform trousers.'

baggy, adj. (Of clothes, esp. trousers at the knee) unduly stretched: coll. (1858) >, by 1910, S.E.

bagman. A commercial traveller: S.E. in C. 18 (— 1765) and until ca. 1850, when it > pejorative and coll.—2. A bag-fox: sporting (1875). O.E.D.

[bagnio. A brothel: C. 17–18: coll., or perhaps rather S.E. (See O.E.D.)] bagonet; also baggonet, rarely bagnet. In C. 19–20, sol. (but in C. 17–18, S.E.) for bayonet; it was often heard among the Tommies in 1914-18. In late C. 17-early 18 s., however, it meant, B.E. tells us, a dagger.

bagpipe. A long-winded talker: C. 17-19; Carlyle has it. Coll.—2. As v., to indulge in a sexual practice that even F. & H. says is 'too indecent for explanation': late C. 18-19. Grose, 1st ed., has recorded the synonymous huffle: neither word occurs in later edd.

bags. Trousers: 'Cuthbert Bede', in Verdant Green, 1853. A low variant, from ca. 1860 but ob., is bum-bags. Oxford bags, very wide-legged: from 1922. Ca. 1870-1910, go-to-meeting bags, (a man's) best clothes, and 1850-90, howling bags (H., 1st ed., Introduction): trousers very 'loud' in pattern or colour(s).—2. Buenos Aires Great Southern Railway Bonds: Stock Exchange: from ca. 1885.—3. See bags of.—4. See bags, mount the.

bags ! ; bags I ! That's mine ! Schoolboys' from ca. 1860. Cf. bar, fain, pike. On illiterate says I.—2. Hence, I bags first go (innings): from not later than 1897, likewise schoolboys'. Collinson.

bags, have the. To be of age; have plenty of money: mid-C. 19-20: coll.; ob. Variant, have the bags off: H., 1st ed.

bags, mount the ; over the bags. (To climb) over the trench parapet—made of sandbags—in order to attack the enemy: military s. (1915) >, by 1917, coll. Cf. over the top.

bags, rough as. Extremely uncouth; very 'tough': Australian, G.W. +. Jice Doone.

bags, take the. To be hare in hare-and-hounds: athletic, coll.: from ca. 1870.

bags I ! See bags !

bags of. Much, plenty; many. E.g. 'bags of time'. C. 20. B. & P.; Lyell. Cecil Litchfield entitled his first, and wittily funny, novel: Bags of Blackmail. Cf. bag of, a.

bags of, have the. See bags, have the.

bags of mystery. Sausages and saveloys: from ca. 1850, says Ware. H., 3rd ed.; Whiteing, No. 5, John Street, 1899. Rare in the singular.

bagsy. Unshapely: Glasgow coll. (— 1934). I.e. with as much delicacy of shape as a bag.

bail ! See bale !

bail, to give leg. To run away from: coll.: from ca. 1770; ob. Scott in Guy Mannering. Occ. varied in C. 19 as take leg bail and give land security.

bail up. To demand payment, money, or other settlement from: Australian, from ca. 1878. Esp. Morris. Ex earlier lit. use: (of a bushranger) to hold up,—which (— 1864) was, by Cockneys, adopted, in the imperative, to mean 'Stop!': H., 3rd ed.

bailed man. (Gen. pl.) One who had bribed the Press Gang for his immunity: nautical coll.: mid-C. 18-mid 19. Bowen.

bailer. A ball that, on being bowled, hits the bails: cricket; the O.E.D. records it for 1881. Coll. >, by 1900, S.E.

bait; esp. a rousing bait or bate, a great rage (Eton). Anger; rage: from mid-1850's. Mayhew, 1857 (E.D.D.); Anstey's Vice Versa, 1882. University and esp. Public School. Perhaps a back-formation ex baited, harassed or tormented.—2. See Scotch bait, Welsh bait.—3. Food: railwaymen's, esp. of those on a Pullman-provided train: from ca. 1920. The Daily Herald, Aug. 5, 1936. Ex fish-bait.

bait-land. A port where refreshments can be procured: C. 18-19, nautical, † by 1867.

bak. See buck, n., 11; also v., 2.

bake. The head: a C. 20 military corruption of boco, 1. F. & Gibbons.—2. A fiasco; a useless act: low and military: C. 20. Frank Richards, Old Soldiers Never Die, 1933, 'I found a stretcher-bearer already attending to Smith . . . and he informed me that it was a bloody bake, as Smith had stopped it through the pound.' With bake, cf. Fr. four, an utter failure theatrically; pound is pound of lead, rhyming s. for 'head': late C. 19-20 (cf. lump of lead).

bake, v. To rest, lie down: Winchester College, C. 19. Whence († by 1890), bakester, a sluggard. Cf. also baker and baking-leave, q.v.

bake it. To refrain from visiting the w.c. when one should go there to ease the major need: low: late C. 19-20.

bake one's bread. To kill (a person): C. 14-19; coll. > S.E.

bake-out. The disinfection of clothes in an oven: c.: from ca. 1920. Michael Harrison, Weep for Lycidas, 1934. Sc.: of lice.

baked. (Of persons) exhausted: ca. 1790-1850, coll.—2. only half baked, half-witted: coll.: from ca. 1860; ob. H., 2nd ed.

baked dinner. Bread—which is baked: c.: from ca. 1860; virtually †. Ex a joke played on newcomers to prison.

baker. A cushion; any seat. Winchester College, C. 19. Whence († by 1890) baker-layer, a fag carrying from hall a prefect's cushion.

baker (or Baker) !, not to-day. A lower-classes' c.p. addressed to a man paying unwelcome attentions (to a woman): 1885-ca. 1915. Ware. Ex housewives' reply to a baker and also ex a soldier named Baker paying undesired court to a young lady: see Baker's Light Bobs.

baker, spell. To attempt something difficult: C. 18-19 coll. From old spelling books, where baker was gen. the first dissyllabic word.

baker-legged, baker-kneed. C. 17-18, C. 18-19 coll.: knock-kneed.—2. Effeminate: C. 17-18.

baker's dozen. Thirteen counted as twelve; loosely, fourteen so counted: late C. 16-20: coll. >, by 1800, S.E. Florio, Fielding, Scott, et alii. Cf. devil's dozen, q.v.—2. 'Grimly used for a family of twelve and another', Ware: proletarian coll. (— 1909). ? 'another on the way'.—3. The Baker's Dozen. The 13th Hussars: military: mid-C. 19-20. F. & Gibbons.

baker's dozen, give one a. To thrash vigorously: mid-C. 19-20; ob. H., 2nd ed.; Manchon. Cf. what for, q.v.

Baker's Light Bobs. The 10th Hussars: military: from ca. 1870; ob. The reference is to Valentine Baker (1827-87), who commanded them—and developed their efficiency to an extraordinary degree—in 1860-72. He was both a practical and a theoretical authority on cavalry tactics. (D.N.B.)

baking. Very hot: with weather or day. Coll.: from ca. 1850.

baking leave. Permission to sit in another's study: from ca. 1885, Winchester College. Prior to this date: permission to rest. baking place: a sofa. Ex bake, v: q.v.

bakshee (C. 20 only), backshee; ba(c)ksheesh (most gen. form), buckshee, bucksheesh, buckshish. A tip; gratuity. Near-Eastern and Anglo-Indian; from ca. 1750. Popularised by the British Army in India and Egypt, esp. in G.W., though it was fairly gen. even by 1800. The forms in -ee are the more coll. Ex the Persian (thence Arabic, Urdu and Turkish) word for a present. See esp. the O.E.D. and Yule & Burnell.—2. Occ. as v.t. and v.i.: coll.: from ca. 1880. (O.E.D.)—3. (Likewise ex sense 1.) Adj. and adv., free, costing nothing: late C. 19–20: orig. and mainly military.—4. Hence additional; unexpected: military: C. 20. For senses 3, 4, see esp. F. & Gibbons; B. & P.—5. A light wound: military, esp. New Zealanders': in G.W.

bakshee (gen. buckshee) king. A paymaster: military: C. 20. F. & Gibbons. Ex the preceding.

bakshee lance-Jack. A lance-corporal: military (esp. Australians' and New Zealanders'): in G.W.

bala. 'Low, mean, or senseless talk', Bee: rare London: ca. 1820–50. Cf. Cornish bal, loud talking.

balaam. (Journalistic) 'padding' kept in standing type: Scott, 1826; slightly ob. A strange perversion of the Biblical Balaam and his ass.

balaam-basket. (Journalistic) the receptacle for type representing padding. Also, the basket for rejected contributions (1827). Both senses are slightly ob. Ex preceding.

balaclava. 'A full beard': ca. 1856–70. Ex the beards worn by those soldiers who were lucky enough to return from the Crimea. Ware.

Balaclava day. (Military) a pay-day. 'Balaclava, in the Crimean War (1854–6) was the base of supply for the English troops; and, as pay was drawn, the men went . . . to make their purchases', F. & H. † by 1914.

balance. The remainder: in England, orig. (ca. 1864) a sol. ex U.S. (1819: Thornton), but accepted by English business men ca. 1870 and > very gen. s. by 1880; not yet acceptable to culture—though it might, in 1937, be considered as having attained the rank of coll. Blackwood's Magazine, April, 1875, 'Balance, long familiar to American ears, is becoming so to ours.' See esp. O.E.D., F. & H., Thornton, and S.O.D.

balb. To manoeuvre (an enemy 'plane) into a bad position: Air Force: 1918. F. & Gibbons. Ex U.S. balb, to 'get round' a person. Possibly connected with Balbus, who 'was building a wall' (cf. next).

Balbus. A Latin prose-composition (book): school coll. From the textbook of Dr. Arnold (d. 1842): recorded in 1870, † by 1920. Cf. the preceding.

bald. See bladder of lard. Cf. bald as a coot: coll.: late C. 13–20. Apperson.

bald-coot. An elderly or old man that, in gambling, is plucked: fast life (— 1823); † by 1890. 'Jon Bee', Dictionary of the Turf.

bald-faced stag. A bald-headed man: from ca. 1860; ob. H., 3rd ed. Cf. stag.

bald-headed. (Of a ship in square-rig) 'with nothing over her top-gallants'; (of a schooner) 'without top-masts': nautical: mid-C. 19–20; ob. Bowen.

bald-headed, go (at) it. To be impetuous or whole-hearted in an action. Orig. (— 1850) U.S.; anglicised ca. 1900. Perhaps a perversion of Dutch balddadig, audacious (W.).

bald-headed butter. Butter without hairs: trade (— 1909); ob. Ware.

bald-headed hermit. The penis: 'cultured': late C. 19–20; ob.

bald-headedly. The coll. adv. (1920, W. J. Locke: witness O.E.D. Sup.) corresponding to bald-headed, go at it, q.v.

bald-rib. A thin bony person: jocularly coll.; from ca. 1620. Ex S.E. sense, 'a joint of pork cut nearer the rump than the spare-rib', S.O.D.

balderdash. A nonsensical farrago of words: from ca. 1660; coll. by 1700; S.E. by ca. 1730. Prob. ex earlier (late C. 16–17) sense, 'froth'.—2. As adulterated wine, late C. 17–18, the term presumably never rose above coll. See O.E.D. and Grose, P., for other, i.e. S.E., senses.

baldober, baldower. A leader; a spokesman: C. 19–20, ob., c. Ex German c.

balductum. Nonsense; verbal farrago: late C. 16–17. Orig. (and S.E.) a posset.

bale; baal; bail. No!: Australian 'pidgin' (— 1870). Ex Aborigine. Cf. cabon. Morris.

bale up. See bail up.

Balfour's maiden. A battering ram: Parliamentary, 1889; † by 1920. Ex the Irish elections of 1888–9, when Mr. Balfour was Secretary. Coined by Sir Wm. Harcourt.

balk. See baulk and baulk, in; also miss, give a.

Balkan tap is a Salonican Front variant (1915–18) of doolally tap (q.v.). B. & P.

ball. A prison ration of food, esp. the six ounces of meat; also, a drink. Both are mid-C. 19–20 c.; the former occurs in Brandon, 1839.

ball, open the. To begin: from ca. 1810: coll.; in C. 20, S.E. Byron; The Eton Chronicle, July 20, 1876. (O.E.D.)

ball, take up the. To take one's due turn in conversation, work, etc.: coll. >, by 1900, S.E.; from ca. 1840. (O.E.D.)

ball and bat. A hat: rhyming s. (— 1914). F. & Gibbons.

ball at one's feet, have the. To have something in one's power: coll. >, by 1880, S.E.; from ca. 1800. Occ. and earlier, before one.

ball before the bound, catch or take the. To forestall, anticipate opportunity: coll. >, by 1800, S.E.; from ca. 1640. (O.E.D.)

ball is with you, the. It is your turn; it is 'up to' you: coll. >, by 1910, S.E.; from ca. 1850; slightly ob. (O.E.D.)

ball-keeper. A fag looking after cricket-, footballs: C. 19, Winchester College.

ball of fire. A glass of brandy: ca. 1820–60. Egan's Grose. Ex sensation in throat: for semantics, cf. fire a slug, q.v.

ball of lead. Head: rhyming s., mostly and orig. (— 1914) military. F. & Gibbons.

ball o(f) wax. A shoemaker: C. 19. Ex the wax used in shoemaking.

ball rolling, or up, keep the. To keep an activity, a conversation, going: coll. >, by 1840, S.E.; from ca. 1780. (O.E.D.) Set the ball rolling therefore = to begin, start a thing going: same period. Cf. open the ball, where however the ball = a dance.

ball under the line, strike the. To fail: coll.: mid-C. 16–17. Ex (royal) tennis. Apperson.

ball-up. A kick-about at Association football: Charterhouse: C. 20.

ballad-basket. A street singer: C. 19. In C. 19, a street singer sang mostly ballads, which, now, are much less popular; basket has perhaps been suggested by the synonymous 'street pitcher'.

ballast. Money: from ca. 1850, orig. nautical. Whence (— 1890; now ob.) well ballasted, rich.

ballast-shooting. 'The strictly prohibited sailing-ship practice of dumping ballast overboard at the end of a voyage, to the detriment of the fairway': nautical coll.: late C. 19–20; ob. Bowen.

ballahou. 'A term of derision applied to an ill-conditioned slovenly ship', The Century Dict.: nautical: from ca. 1885. ? etymology: not impossibly ex ballyhooly, q.v.

Ballambangjang, Straits of. Straits as imaginary as they are narrow: nautical coll. (— 1864); slightly ob. H., 3rd ed.

Ballarat lantern. See lantern, Ballarat.

balley. See bally, v.

ballock; now gen. bollock. A testicle; gen. in pl. A very old word, S.E. until ca. 1840, then a vulg. Cf.:

ballocks. A parson: late C. 18—early 19. Grose, 2nd ed. Often as ballocks the rector.—2. Nonsense: late C. 19—20. Now gen. bollocks. Cf. balls, all, and cods, qq.v.; very rarely with all. Cf. also boloney.

ballocky. A bluejacket: naval: C. 20. F. & Gibbons. Ex:

Ballocky Bill the Sailor. A mythical person commemorated in a late C. 19—20 low ballad and often mentioned, by way of evasion (cf. up in Annie's room), by the soldiers in the G.W.; he is reputed to have been most generously testieled. Pronounced and occ. spelt bollicky. Cf., as perhaps partially operative, dial. ballocky, bollocky, left-handed, or, hence, clumsy.

Baloo; Ballyhooly. Bailleul: Western Front military coll. and s.: late 1914—18. It was an attractive town. Cf. Pop.—2. Whence, a trip to Balloo, a pleasure trip: military coll.: 1916—early 18. F. & Gibbons.

balloon. 'A week's enforced idleness from want of work', Ware: tailors' (— 1909); ob. Ex Fr. bilan.

balloon go up?, when does the; also the balloon goes up (at such a time). When does it happen?; it happens at: 1915, orig. military; slightly ob. Cf. zero hour, q.v. (B. & P.)

balloonatic. A man handling a naval kite-balloon: naval: 1915; ob. Punning lunatic. (Bowen.)

balloon-juice. Soda-water: 'public-house, 1883', Ware; † by 1930. Ex gaseousness.—2. Whence balloon-juice lowerer, a total abstainer: ca. 1884—1920. Ware.

ballooning. Jockeying of the prices of stocks: Stock Exchange (— 1890, ob.).

balls; all balls. Nonsense (— 1890). In Feb., 1929, it was held to be obscene; by 1931 it had > permissible in print. Low coll. For semantics, cf. ballocks, 2, and boloney (orig. U.S.), qq.v., also the U.S. nerts (as an interjection). See esp. Allen Walker Read, Lexical Evidence from Folk Epigraphy, 1935 (Paris; privately printed).

balls, bring through. To collect footballs to be blown up: Winchester College, from ca. 1850.

balls of, make (a). To spoil; do wrongly (— 1890). Low.

balls on. See do one's balls on.

balls to you! Rats to you!: low: late C. 19—20. (Cf. balls, q.v.) Manchon.

balls-up. To make a mess or a blunder of; to confuse inextricably; misunderstand wholly; do altogether wrongly: low: C. 20. Cf. U.S. ball-up and (also for balls-up) the somewhat rare ball, to clog, gen. of a horse getting its feet clogged with balls of clay or snow.

ballum rancum. A dance at which all the women are harlots; Grose, 2nd ed., adds, 'N.B. The company dance in their birthday suits': from ca. 1780 (Grose, 1st); † by 1900. Cf. buff ball, q.v. Ex ball, a testicle.

bally; gen. balley. To depart (speedily): London traders' (— 1909); virtually †. Ware. Cf. hop it, polka, skip, waltz, qq.v.

bally, adj. A euphemism for bloody. From 1884, says Ware (1909) who classifies it as sporting s. and quotes from The Sporting Times, April 11, 1885. W., after F. & H. (revised), suggests ex Ballyhooly truth; cf. blighter, blinking, blooming. See my Words!

ballyhoo. An abbr. (orig—ca. 1913—U.S.) of, and from ca. 1925 more gen. than, ballyhooly (though cf. next entry): s. >, by 1930, coll.; now verging on S.E. 'The now recognised term for eloquence aimed at the pocket-book', The Times Literary Supplement, July 19, 1934.

ballyhoo of blazes. 'The last word of contempt for a slovenly ship': nautical: C. 20. Bowen. Perhaps ex ballahou, 'a West Indian schooner with foremast raking forward and mainmast aft' (Bowen).

ballyhooly. Copy-writers' or politicians' exaggeration; 'advance publicity of a vulgar or misleading kind' (H. G. Le Mesurier): from ca. 1910; coll. by 1925. Abbr. Ballyhooly truth, a ca. 1880—85 music-hall tag perhaps ex whole bloody truth (W.). —2. See Baloo.

Ballylana, drunk as. Very drunk: Anglo-Irish coll.: late C. 19—20. Perhaps rather Ballylannan.

Ballymena(s). Belfast and Northern Counties Railway shares: Stock Exchange (— 1895). A. J. Wilson, Stock Exchange Glossary. Ex Ballymena, the urban district and market town 11½ miles north of Antrim (Bartholomew's Gazetteer).

bally-rag. See bully-rag.

balm. A lie (— 1820; † by 1900). Duncombe. Variant of bam, n.: q.v.

balmedest balm. 'Balm in the extreme', Ware: proletarian London (— 1909); virtually †.

balmy. (Always the b.) Sleep. Dickens in The Old Curiosity Shop, 1840: 'As it's rather late, I'll try and get a wink or two of the balmy.' Prob. suggested by balmy slumbers (Shakespeare), balmy sleep (Young): F. & H., revised.—2. An idiot: low: C. 20. Ex:

balmy; perhaps more correctly barmy. Adj.: anything from stolid to manifestly insane; gen., just a little mad. Henry Mayhew, 1851. Whence balmy cove, a weak-minded man. Perhaps ex S.E. balmy, soft, but see also barmy: the latter form prob. suggested the former.

balmy stick, put on the. To simulate madness: low (— 1923). Manchon. Ex preceding.

baloney, or -ie. See bolon(e)y.—Baloo. See Berloo.

balsam. Money: late C. 17—18, c.; C. 19—early 20, s. B.E.; Grose; Ware, prob. wrong in stating that it was 'orig. confined to dispensing chemists'. Ex its healing properties.

Baltic Fleet. 'The Fourth Division of the Home Fleet for some years before the War, when the smallness of the nucleus crews reminded scamen of Rozhdestvensky's ill-fated squadron', Bowen.

balum rancum. See ballum rancum. (The spelling in 4th, 5th edd. of Grose.)

bam; bamb (C. 18). A hoax; an imposition: Dyche's Dictionary (5th ed.), 1748. Ex:—2. As v.i., to sham, be in jest (— 1754); v.t., hoax (in print, 1738), a sense that was current as early as 1707. Abbr. bamboozle, q.v.

bamblusterate. Noisily to hoax or to confuse: rare: C. 19. Ex bam + bluster.

bamboo backsheesh. A blow evoked by impudent begging for money: Anglo-Indian: from ca. 1850; ob. Sec bakshee.

bamboozle. To hoax, deceive, impose upon (both v.t. and v.i.): Gibber, 1703. To mystify (1712). Swift in 1710: 'The third refinement . . . consists in the choice of certain words invented by some pretty fellows, such as banter, bamboozle, country-put, and kidney, some of which are now struggling for the vogue, and others are in possession of it.' In late C. 18—mid 19 naval s., it meant 'to deceive an enemy by hoisting false colours' (Bowen). As n., Gibber, 1703; bamboozling (1709) is much more frequent and occurs also as adj. (— 1731). bamboozable, easily deceivable, is a late (1886) development, and so is bamboozlement (1855): these two were never s. but have never quite risen to S.E. Etymology still a mystery; prob. ex a c. word of which no record is extant; perhaps ex banter corrupted, or rather, perverted; W., however, suggests an interesting alternative.

bamboozler. A hoaxer, an imposer on others (1712).

bambosh. Humbug; a hoax(ing): 1865: rare and ob. Prob. ex bam + bosh, qq.v.

ban. A Lord-Lieutenant of Ireland: Irish: C. 18–20; ob. Ware, 'Bedad, one ban or anoder, 'tis the same man.' Perhaps punning ban, a curse or edict, and banshee, the precursor of sorrow, as Ware suggests.

Banaghan, beat. To tell a (too) marvellous story: orig. and mostly Anglo-Irish coll.: late C. 18–20. Grose, 1st ed.; The Passing Show, Jan. 21, 1933, has the variant, beat banagher.

banagher. To bang. I find no record earlier than F. & H. (1890), which says 'old'. App. † by 1900. Prob. a word heard by Farmer in his youth and possibly a reduction from beat Banaghan or, from ca. 1840, Banagher (or banagher): this phrase, however, suggests that banagher may be a development of bang, to strike violently, a view supported by the fact that the most usual form is this bangs Ban(n)agher, an Irish proverbial saying, with which cf. beat creation, for Banagher is a village in King's County (W.). banana l, have a. A low c.p., expressive of contempt: C. 20; ob. Ex a popular song (Collinson). —2. Perhaps ex the popular song, 'I had a banana With Lady Diana,' the phrase to have a banana with meant, ca. 1905–30, to coit with (a woman).

Bananaland; Bananalander. Queensland; a native of. Australian coll. (— 1887); slightly ob.

bananas l, yes, we have no. See yes, we . . .

Banbury. A loose woman: low London: 1894, The People, Feb. 4; † by 1920. Ware. By association with hot-cross buns and '(jam-)tarts'.

Banbury story (of a cock and bull). 'Silly chat', B.E.: late C. 17—early 19. Cf. the C. 19 dial. Banbury tale and see Grose, P. banchoot, beteechoot. A coarse Anglo-Indian term of abuse: late C. 18–20; ob. Lit., pudend. Yule & Burnell. In late C. 19–20, gen. barnshoot, q.v.

banco. Evening preparation, superintended by a monitor: Charterhouse: from ca. 1832. Tod, Charterhouse, 1900, p. 81. Cf. toy-time and, for origin, the legal in banco.

band, beat the. See beat the band.—band, follow the. See follow the band. Cf.:

band-party, the. Members of the Church of England: military: late C. 19–20; ob. F. & Gibbons. See also follow the band.

band played l, and then the. The fat is in the fire: c.p.; ca. 1880–1910. Cf. good night! and Kipling's 'It's "Thank you, Mister Atkins", when the band begins to play' (1892). Also then the band began (to play): C. 20; ob. D. Coke, Wilson's, 1911.

bandage-roller. A sick-bay rating: naval: late C. 19–20. Bowen. Cf. Linseed Lancers.

Bandagehem, Dosinghem, Mendinghem; or Bandage-'em, etc. Jocular names for three hospital stations in Flanders: military: 1915–18. F. & Gibbons. On such names as Ebblinghem.

bandan(n)a. A silk (in C. 20, also cotton) handkerchief, with white or yellow spots left in the coloured base: coll. in C. 18 India, but there accepted ca. 1800, in England in 1854 (Thackeray), as S.E.

bandbox, (orig. that is) my or mine arse on (Bce, in) a! That won't do!: a late C. 18—mid 19 c.p. Grose, 1st ed. Ex the inadequacy of bandbox as a seat.

bandboxical. Like, or of the size of, a bandbox: coll.: 1787, Beckford, 'Cooped up in a close, bandboxical apartment', O.E.D.; slightly ob. On paradoxical.

banded. Hungry: c. or low: 1812, Vaux; H., 1st ed. Cf. bands, wear the, q.v. (With band or belt tightened round one's middle.) bandicoot, miserable as a. See miserable . . .

bando! Make (the rope) fast: coll., Anglo-Indian; whence London docks (— 1886). Direct ex Hindustani bandho. Yule & Burnell.

bandog. A bailiff or his assistant: late C. 17–18. B.E. Ex lit. sense, a fierce mastiff watch-dog: ex band, a fastening.—2. Also late C. 18—early 19, a bandbox: either sol. or jocular.

bandog and Bedlam, speak. To speak in a rage, like a madman: late C. 16–17 coll. Dekker. Cf. preceding entry, 1.

bandok. See hundook.

Bandons. Shares in the Cork, Bandon and South Coast Railway: Stock Exchange coll. (— 1895). A. J. Wilson in his Stock Exchange Glossary.

bandore. A widow's head-dress (the Fr. bandeau corrupted): ca. 1690–1750: orig., perhaps S.E.; by 1785 (Grose) coll. if not s. Note that the O.E.D.'s two examples occur in very light works and that B.E. has it. (The other sense, a banjo (itself a corruption of bandore), has a different etymology and was always S.E.)

bands, wear the. To be hungry. C. 19: c. or low. Vaux. Cf. banded.

bandstand. 'A circular gun-platform on a warship': naval: late C. 19–20. Bowen.—2. A cruet: naval and military: C. 20. F. & Gibbons, 'From its shape.'

bandy. A sixpence: mid-C. 19–20 (ob.); c. and low s. H., 1st ed. Because easily bent: cf. bender and cripple.

bandy. To band together: '— 1818', says O.E.D.; but B.E. (? 1690) has it = 'follow a faction': so that, in C. 18, it was probably—until ca. 1760, at any rate (for Grose does not give it)—either s. or coll.

bang. A blow (— 1550). If on a thing, S.E.; if on a person, still coll. (as in a bang on the nose).—2. A sudden movement, (unexpected) impetus, as in C. 18–20 with a bang. Coll.—3. 'The front hair cut square across the forehead' (1880), ex U.S.

(O.E.D.): a sense that rapidly > S.E., though the v. (1882) is even yet hardly S.E.—4. A lie: s. (1879, Mercedith) >, by 1910, coll.; ob. Cf. bang-word, a swear-word: coll.: C. 20. O.E.D.—5. A piece of sexual intercourse; whence a female in the act: have a bang, be a good bang: low: C. 20. Cf. etymology of fuck.

bang, v. To strike. If the object is a thing, it is S.E.; if a person, coll. (—1550).—2. To outdo: from ca. 1805: coll.—3. (Rare) to have sexual intercourse (v.t. and with a woman): C. 20.—4. Loudly or recklessly to offer stock in the open market, with the intention of lowering the price if necessary: Stock Exchange: from ca. 1880. Often as vbl. n., banging.

bang, adj. Afraid, frightened: Midland and Western Districts of South Africa: coll. (—1899). Ex Dutch bang, afraid. Pettman.

bang, go full. To go at full speed or as quickly as possible: coll. (—1923). Manchon.

bang alley; bangalay. The timber of Eucalyptus botrioides: Sydney workmen's: late C. 19–20. Morris. Ex Aborigine.

bang Banagher. See Banagher.

bang-beggar. A constable (—1865): orig. and mainly Scots. E.D.D. Ex Northern dial.

bang goes saxpence! A jocular c.p. applied to any small expense incurred, esp. if on entertainment or with a light heart: from ca. 1880. Popularized by Sir Harry Lauder; obviously Scottish in origin. Here, bang suggests abruptness: W.

bang-Mary. A 'bain Marie': kitchen sol. (—1909) verging on coll. Ware. Cf. bummaree, n., 2.

bang-off. Immediately: coll.: C. 19–20. Ex detonation.

bang-out, v. To depart hurriedly and noisily: C. 19–20, ob. Adv., entirely and suddenly: C. 19–20.

bang-pitcher. A drunkard: C. 17–18; coll. Clarke, 1639. Cf. toss-pot.

bang-straw. A thrasher: ? orig. and mainly dial.: late C. 19–20, ob. Grose, 1785, adds: 'Applied to all the servants of a farmer'.

bang-tailed. (Esp. of horse) short-tailed: T. Hughes, 1861. Coll. rising to S.E. The n., bang-tail, is recorded for 1870 by the O.E.D., which considers it S.E.

bang through the elephant, have been. To be thoroughly experienced in dissipation: low London (—1909); virtually †. Ware refers it to elephant = elephant's trunk, drunk; but cf. rather elephant, see the, and bang up to the Elephant, qq.v.

bang-up. A dandy: in fast life (—1811); † by 1920. Lex. Bal.; 1882 in Punch. Ex the adj.:—2. First-rate: Lex. Bal., 1811; Vaux, 1812, implies that it may, slightly earlier, have been (the certainly synonymous) bang-up to the mark; the Smiths in Rejected Addresses, 1812: † by 1910, except in U.S. Cf. slap-up, q.v. Prob. echoic; but perhaps, as Ware suggests, influenced by Fr. bien used exclamatorily. The form banged-up was later and less used.—3. V.t., make smart, as, passively, in the third of William Combe's Tours.

bang-up prime. An intensive of bang-up, 2: 1811, Lex. Bal.; † by 1890.

bang-word. See bang, n., 4.

bang up to the Elephant. 'Perfect, complete, unapproachable', Ware: London: 1882–ca. 1910. With reference to the Elephant and Castle Tavern, long the centre of South London public-house life.

bangalay. See bang alley.—banged-up. See bang-up.

banged up to the eyes. Drunk: mid-C. 19–20, ob. banged to rights, be. To be caught 'on the job' or in possession of stolen property: c.: C. 20. (David Hume.) Lit., defeated utterly. Cf. dead to rights, 2.

banger. A notable lie: from ca. 1810; † by 1900. Cf. thumper, q.v.—2. One who 'bangs': Stock Exchange (—1895). A. J. Wilson's Glossary. Ex bang, v., 4.—3. See stick and bangers.

Bangers, the. The 1st Life Guards: military C. 19–20; ob.

bangies. See bangy.—banging. See bang, v., 4.

banging, adj. Great: coll.: Grose, 2nd ed. (1788), has a fine banging boy, but the O.E.D.'s quotation from Nashe (1596) may be a genuine anticipation of both the 'great' and the 'overwhelming' sense. One of the many percussive adjj. that are coll. Cf. thumping.—2. In C. 19, a banging lie.—3. Also, C. 19 coll., overwhelming, as in a banging majority.

bangle. (Gen. pl.) A hoop round a made mast: nautical: late C. 19–20; ob. Bowen.

bangs Ban(n)agher and Ban(n)agher bangs the world, that. A mid-C. 19–20 variant of this bangs Ban(n)agher, beat Banaghan (etc.): see banagher.

bangster. A braggart: mid-C. 16–18 coll. verging on S.E.—2. Whence, victor: id.: Scott, 1820; now † except in dial. (mostly Scottish).

bangy. Brown sugar: Winchester College, C. 19; ex Bangalore. Adj., brown, whence bangies, brown trousers; both, from ca. 1855, Winchester College; Bangy Gate, that gate 'by Racquet Court, into Kingsgate Street' and 'a brown gate from Grass Court to Sick House Meads' (F. & H.): id.; ibid.

banian or banyan. The skin: nautical: late C. 19–20; ob. Ware.—2. A lounging-jacket or short dressing-gown: at the R.M.A., Woolwich, in the 1860's. E.D.D. Ex S.E. sense.

banian- or banyan-days. Days on which sailors eat no flesh: nautical: indirectly in Purchas, 1609; directly in Ovington, 1690. In C. 19 (now rare), the term > fairly gen., e.g. in Lamb and Thackeray. Ex the Banians, a Hindu caste or class of traders, who eat not of flesh.

banian (or banyan)-party. 'A picnic party from a man-of-war': naval: mid-C. 19–20. Bowen. Ex preceding. Cf. banzai party, q.v.

banister; bannister. A baluster: 1667 (O.E.D.): sol. until mid-C. 18, then S.E. By a corruption of the earlier baluster: see W. banjo. A bed-pan: ca. 1850–1910. Like the next sense, ex the shape.—2. In Australia, C. 20: a shovel; hence, in G.W., an entrenching tool.—3. Banjo. See ring, v., 6. Hence, in Australia, all Pat(t)ersons are Banjo: C. 20.

banjoey. A banjoist: London society: 1890's. Ex banjoist + joey, a clown. Ware, 'Said to be a trouvaille by the Prince of Wales [King Edward VII], who brought banjo orchestras into fashion, being a banjoey himself.'

bank. A lump sum; one's fortune: C. 19–20 coll., ob. An extension of C. 16–18 S.E. bank, a sum or amount of money.—2. The Bank, in C. 19 c., is Millbank Prison.

bank, v. In C. 19–20 c.: to purloin; put in a safe place; go equal or fair shares.

bank-note. A piece of toilet paper: Bootham School (—1925). Anon., Dict. of Bootham Slang.

bank, go to the. To go to the Labour Exchange : workmen's : from ca. 1924.

Bank of England Team. Aston Villa Football Club : Northern sporting : from mid-Dec. 1935. Ex the very large fees paid out by this club to get such players as might save it from relegation.

bank on. To anticipate as certain : from ca. 1880 : coll. >, by 1910, S.E. To consider as safe as money in the bank : cf. safe as the Bank of England.

bank up, v.i. and t. To complete, almost to excess : North Country coal districts' coll. (— 1896). Ware. Ex 'building up a huge fire'.

banker. A river running flush—or almost flush—with the top of its banks : Australian (— 1888). Coll. by 1890 and 'accepted' by 1900—if not before.—2. See bawker.

Banker Chapel Ho. Whitechapel ; hence, vulgar language : East London (— 1909) ; virtually †. Ware, 'A ludicrous Italian translation—Bianca, white ; cappella, chapel . . . Anglicisation entering in, the first word got into "Banker" and the second back into "Chapel", with the addition of the rousing and cheery "oh!"

bankers. Clumsy boots or shoes : C. 19, † by 1890.

Bankers' Battalion, the. 'The 26th (Service) Battalion of the Royal Fusiliers, raised early in 1915 mainly from Bank Clerks and Accountants' : military coll. : 1915–18. F. & Gibbons.

bankrupt cart. A one-horse chaise : ca. 1785–95 and very sectional. Grose, 2nd ed., 'Said to be so called by a Lord Chief Justice, from their being so frequently used on Sunday jaunts by extravagant shopkeepers and tradesmen.'

bankruptcy list, to be put on the. To be completely knocked out : pugilistic : ca. 1820–60. Egan, Randall's Diary, 1823.

Bankside ladies. Harlots, esp. of the theatrical quarter : coll. : C. 17. Randolph, 1638. In 1721, Strype 'explains' : 'The Bank-Side where the Stews were' (O.E.D.). bannister. See banister.

bannock. A hard ship's-biscuit : nautical catachresis : late C. 19–20. Bowen.

bant. To follow a special dietary for the reduction of obesity : from 1865 ; soon coll. Ex banting, such a dietary (1863), devised by W. Banting, a London cabinet-maker : a word coll. by the next year, S.E. by 1870, but now slightly ob.

[Bantams, the, as a military term, is S.E. ; not, as so often asserted, s. nor even coll.]

banter. Ridicule, esp. if wantonly merry or supposedly humorous. B.E., 1690 : 'a pleasant way of prating, which seems in earnest, but is in jest, a sort of ridicule'. In 1688 it was s., but in C. 18 it came gradually to mean harmless raillery and by 1800 it attained S.E. Ex :

banter, v. Ridicule, make fun of (1667, Pepys) ; in C. 18, prob. ca. 1750, it lost both its sting and its s. associations and > S.E.—2. As = to cheat, deceive, impose on, it was current only ca. 1685–1820. B.E. Etymology problematic ; but if—as Swift, in 1710, says—it 'was first borrowed from the bullies in White Friars', then it is perhaps a perversion of † S.E. ban, to chide.

banterer, bantering. The agent and action of banter, v. : q.v.

bantling. A bastard, lit. a child conceived on a bench and not in the marriage-bed : late C. 16–17 and, in this sense, certainly not lower than coll. But = a child, a brat, it was (see B.E. and Grose) s. in late C. 17–18.

banyan. See banian.—banyan-days and -party. See banyan-days and -party.

banzai party. Naval men going ashore on a spree. The same as a hurrah-party, for banzai is Japanese for hurrah, 'the phrase dating from the British Navy's enthusiasm for anything Japanese during the Russian war' (1904–5) ; ob. Bowen.

baptise. Esp. of wine, to dilute : C. 17—early 19. Healey, Theophrastus, 1636. Cf. christen.

baptist. 'A pickpocket caught and ducked', Bee : ca. 1820–50. Ex anabaptist, q.v.

bar. A slice of bread : Bootham School : C. 20. Anon., Dict. of Bootham Slang, 1925.—2. One pound sterling ; orig., a sovereign : c. : late C. 19–20. (Edwin Pugh, The Cockney at Home, 1914.) Direct ex Romany ; the gypsies' bar prob. derives ex Romany bauro, big or heavy—cf. Gr. βάρυς.

[bar, to exclude, prohibit, object to, and bar, prep. = except, have always (from C. 16, C. 18 resp.) been S.E., though not quite literary since ca. 1880 : they are idiomatic, not pedantic, and here they are noted only as a corrective to F. & H. Note, however, that W. considers bar, to cold-shoulder, to be university s. ; also, the Public Schools' sense, 'to dislike (intensely)', may be s. : late C. 19–20 : see quotation at rag, v.t.]

Bar, the. Marble Bar, a township in N.W. Australia : Australian coll. : from ca. 1910. Ion L. Idriess, Flynn of the Inland, 1932.

bar-keep. A bar-keeper : coll. : late C. 19–20. Abbr. bar-keeper.

bar-rabble. A pre-arranged 'famine', q.v. : Bootham School : late C. 19–20.

[bar sinister. See Fowler.]

bar-stock, be on the. To carry 'the daily supply of liquor from the store-room to the bar' : (liners') nautical coll. : C. 20. Bowen.

baragan tailor. A rough-working tailor : tailors', ca. 1870–1914. Ex barragan, a kind of fustian.

barb, v.t. To clip or shave gold. Ben Jonson in The Alchemist. C. 17 c. Ex to barber.

Barbados. To transport to (formerly, the) Barbados : coll. >, by 1700, S.E. : ca. 1650–1850.

barbar. A scholarship candidate from another school : Durham School : late C. 19–20. Ex L. barbarus, a stranger, a barbarian. Cf. ski, q.v.

barbed wire, hanging on the (old). See hanging . . .

barber. A thick faggot ; any large piece of timber : Winchester College, C. 19–20.

barber, v. See barberise.

barber, that's the. A street saying of ca. 1760–1825 signifying approbation. Grose, 1st ed. Cf. such almost meaningless c.p.p. as all serene, get your hair cut, how's your poor feet, have a banana.

barber-monger. A fop : coll., C. 17–18. Shakespeare. Frequently visiting the barber.

barberise ; also barber. Act as a deputy in the writing of (a task or an imposition) : University and Public School : ca. 1850–80. 'Cuthbert Bede', 1853. Ex tradition of a learned barber so employed.

barberiser. A deck-planing machine : nautical : C. 20. Bowen. Because it 'shaves' so delicately.

barber's block. See block, barber's.

barber's cat. A weak, sickly-looking, esp. if thin, person : from ca. 1860 ; ob. H., 3rd ed. Ware suggests that it is a corruption of bare brisket, q.v. at bare-bones.—2. A loquacious, gossipy, or tale-bearing person : mostly military : late C. 19–20. F. & Gibbons.

barber's chair. A harlot, 'as common as a barber's chair' (Grose). From ca. 1570; † by 1890. See e.g. Burton's Anatomy and Motteux's translation of Pantagruel. (The whole phrase = very common, fit for general use.)

barber's clerk. A person overdressed: from ca. 1830 (ob.), esp. among mechanics and artisans. The term occurs in Dickens. Cf. barber-monger, q.v.—2. Hence, A well-groomed scaman not much use at his job: nautical: mid-C. 19–20; ob. Bowen.

barber's knife. A razor: C. 18—early 19: coll. verging on (? achieving) S.E. barber's knock. 'A double knock, the first hard and the second soft as if by accident', F. & H. revised: ca. 1820–60. Bee.

barber's music. Harsh, discordant music (—1660); † by 1800. Coll. bordering on S.E. (A cittern was provided by the barber for his waiting customers.)

barber's sign. Penis and testicles: low: late C. 18–19. Grose, 2nd ed., explains this scabrous pun: see Grose, P.

Barclay Perkins. Stout: Cockney (—1909); virtually †. Ware. Ex the brewers, Barclay, Perkins & Co.

bard (or bar'd) dice. See barred dice.

bare-bone(s). A skinny person: coll.; late C. 16—early 19.

bare-brisket. The same: proletarian: C. 19–20; ob. Suggested by preceding.

bare-bum. A dinner-jacket, as opp. to tails, the full-dress evening coat. Australia: C. 20; low.

bare navy (or N.). The rigid scale of preserved rations, without fresh meat or supplementaries: naval: late C. 19–20. Bowen.

Barebone's Parliament. The Little Parliament (120 members nominated by Cromwell and sitting July–Dec. 1653): coll. nickname. Ex Praise-God Barbon, one of its members. (O.E.D.)

bargain, beat a or the. To haggle: ca. 1660–1700. Coll. >, almost imm., S.E. Killigrew, Pepys. O.E.D.

bargain, Dutch. See Dutch bargain.

bargain, make the best of a bad. To combat a misfortune: from ca. 1790; coll. till ca. 1840, then S.E. Boswell, 'According to the vulgar phrase, "making the best of a bad bargain"', O.E.D. But the phrase is found as early as 1663 (Pepys) with market († by 1850), as 1680 (L'Estrange) with the rarer game († by 1800); in C. 20, we often say best of a bad job. Apperson.

bargain, sell a. To befool; as in Shakespeare and Swift, who, however, uses it of a specific "sell" practised at Court. † by ca. 1750. Coll. See esp. Onions's Shakespeare Glossary, Grose, 2nd ed., and F. & H. revised.

barge. Printers': either a 'case' in which there is a dearth of the most useful letters or a receptacle for 'spaces' if formes are being corrected away from 'case'. Perhaps j. rather than s.: from ca. 1870; ob. H., 5th ed.—2. Little cricket: Sherborne School: late C. 19–20. Prob. ex clumsiness of the stump used as a bat.—3. See barges.—4. A dispute: low: late C. 19–20. Ex barge, v., 1.—5. A crowd, a mellay: Scottish Public Schools': C. 20. Ian Miller, School Tie, 1935.

barge, v. Speak roughly or abusively to: ca. 1850–1920. Albert Smith, 1861, 'Whereupon they all began to barge the master at once'. Prob. ex bargee.—2. Whence, at Charterhouse and Uppingham, to hustle (a person): late C. 19–20.—3. Hence (?), gen. barge about: to move, or rush, heavily (about): late C. 19–20. W. Ex a barge's clumsy motion. Cf. the next three entries.—3. To push or knock: Public Schools': late C. 19–20. P. G. Wodehouse, Tales of St. Austin's, 1903, 'To him there was something wonderfully entertaining in the process of "bargeing" the end man off the edge of the form into space, and upsetting his books over him.'

barge-arse. A person with a rotund behind: low: ca. 1870–1910. Whence barge-arsed, which Mr. Aldous Huxley would prob. define as cacopygous.

barge in, v.i. To intrude; to interfere, esp. if rudely or clumsily: C. 20. Manchon. Cf.:

barge into. To collide with: orig. Uppingham School (—1890). In C. 20, gen., and often = meet, encounter esp. if unexpectedly. Cf. barge (v., 2), barge in.

barge-man. (Gen. pl.) A large, black-headed maggot of the kind that, formerly, infested ship's biscuits: nautical: mid-C. 19–20; ob. Bowen.

barge-mate. The officer taking command of a ship when notabilities visited it: naval: ea. 1880–1920. Bowen.

barge-pole. The largest stick in a faggot; hence any large piece of wood. Winchester College, from ca. 1850; †. Cf. barber, n.—2. A window-pole: Bootham School: C. 20. Anon., Dict. of Bootham Slang, 1925.

barge-pole, wouldn't touch with (the end of) a. One person thus indicates that he will have nothing to do with either another person or, it may be, a project: coll.: late C. 19–20. Cf. not touch with a pair of tongs.

bargee. A lout; an uncultivated person: Public Schools' coll.: 1909, P. G. Wodehouse, Mike.

barges. Imitation breasts: proletarian: ca. 1884–90. Ware adds: 'Which arrived from France, and prevailed for about four years . . . From their likeness to the wide prow of canal-barges'.

barishnya. 'An unmarried girl, character not guaranteed. A Murmansk Expeditionary Force term': 1919. F. & Gibbons. Ex Russian.

bark. An Irish person: C. 19. See Barks.—2. The human skin: from ca. 1750; in C. 18, dial.—3. A cough: from ca. 1870; coll., as is the vbl.n., barking, (a fit of) coughing (—1788: see Grose at Barkshire).

bark, v.t. Scrape the skin off: from ca. 1850, e.g. in Tom Brown's Schooldays.—2. V.i. To cough: from ca. 1880.—3. 'To sit up at night to watch the fire when camping out in the open veld', Pettman: South African: 1873, Boyle, To the Cape for Diamonds. Ex a dog's barking.

bark at the moon. To agitate, or to clamour, uselessly: C. 17–20. Coll.; S.E. in C. 19–20. With against for at, C. 15–17; S.E. after 1550, having been coll.

bark off, take the. To reduce in value; as in Dickens, 1849. (Take the skin off.)

bark up the wrong tree. To be at fault in an attempt, an aim, a method; follow a false scent; deal with the wrong person. Orig. U.S. (—1833); anglicised ca. 1890, but less in Britain than in Australia and New Zealand. Coll. rather than s. Ex a dog hunting a racoon.

barker. A pistol: Scott (1815), Dickens, Charles Kingsley. Variation of c., and earlier, barking iron.—2. (Nautical) a lower-deck gun on a ship of war: ca. 1840–90. (O.E.D.)—3. One who, standing in front of shops or shows, attracts the attention of passers-by (there are still several in the Strand): B.E., 1690; Dyche's Dictionary, 1748, and Grose, 1785; coll. by 1800, S.E. by 1850. Cf. bow-wow shop, q.v.—4. A noisy brawler: Caxton, 1483; † by 1660 in England, but extant in U.S. in C. 19.—5. (University) a noisy, assertive man; also, favourably, a great swell: C. 19.—6. A sheep-drover's assistant, deputising a dog: Greenwood, Outcasts of London, 1879.—7. A person with a nasty cough: from ca. 1880.—8. One who 'barks' as at bark, v., 3, q.v.: 1873. Pettman.—9. A sausage: lower classes' and soldiers': C. 20. Ex that once excessively popular song, 'Oh vare, and oh vare, is my leedle vee dog? Oh vare, oh vare, is he gone?' F. & Gibbons.

barkey. A little bark: coll.: from ca. 1840, Barham (O.E.D.).—2. Hence, a vessel well liked by its crew: as expressed by that crew: mid-C. 19–20, ob. Bowen.

Barking Creek, have been to. To have a bad cough: a ca. 1820–50 variant of Barkshire, 2, q.v. Bee.

barking irons. Pistols: late C. 18–early C. 19 c.; recorded by Grose, 1785.—2. In the Navy, ca. 1830–70, large duelling pistols.

Barkis is willing. An indication of a man's willingness to marry; later, to do anything. Coll. Ex the character in David Copperfield, 1849–50.

Barks. The Irish: either low or c. To judge by the anon. No. 747, in use ca. 1845, but prob. much earlier. Cf.:

Barkshire. Ireland: C. 19.—2. Also, late C. 18–19, as in Grose, 2nd ed., 'A member or candidate for Barkshire; said of one troubled with a cough, vulgarly styled barking'; ob.

barley broth. 'Oil of barley', i.e. strong beer: 1785, Grose; † by 1860.

barley-bun gentleman. A rich gentleman eating poorly and otherwise living in a miserly way: coll.: C. 17. Minsheu.

barley-cap. A tippler: late C. 16–17. E. Gilpin, 1598.—2. Have on, or wear, a barley-cap, to be drunk, a drunkard: late C. 16–17 coll.

barmy. Very eccentric; mad: mid-C. 19–20. Ex barmy, full of barm, i.e. yeast. Cf. the (mainly Yorkshire) proverbial saying, his brains will work without barm, Ray, 1670; Burns, 1785, 'My barmish noddle's working fine' (O.E.D.); Ware, 1909, notes the variant barmy in the crumpet. The E.D.D. remarks, 'frothing like barm [yeast], hence, full of ferment, flighty, empty-headed'. Cf. balmy, q.v.—2. Hence, a mad or a very eccentric person: non-cultured: from ca. 1880. Also in dial. (E.D.D.) barn. A public ball-room: London: ca. 1892–1915. Ware derives ex Highbury Barn, a 'garden ball-room'; possibly ex barn dance. Cf. Barner, q.v.

barn, a parson's. 'Never so full but there is still room for more', Grose, 2nd ed.: C. 18–early 19 coll. whence the C. 19 Dorsetshire big as a parson's barn.

barn-door. A target too big to be missed; coll.: late C. 17–20; hence barn-door practice, battues in which the game can hardly escape.—2. A batsman that blocks every ball: from ca. 1880; ob. Cf. stonewaller.

barn-door savage. A yokel: ca. 1880–1910. F. & H., revised. Ex dial.

barn-mouse, bitten by a. Tipsy: late C. 18–early 19. Grose, 2nd ed.

barn-stormer. A strolling player: theatrical (—1859). H., 1st ed. Coll. by 1884 (O.E.D.'s date), S.E. by 1900.—2. barn-storming, ranting acting, must also have long preceded the earliest O.E.D. record (1884). They frequently performed and stormed in barns: see, e.g., Hugh Walpole's Rogue Herries.

Barnaby dance. To move quickly or unevenly: C. 18–19 coll. Ex 'Barnaby, an old dance to a quick movement' (Grose, 2nd ed.) popular in C. 17. Barnaby, it seems, was a dancing jester.

barnacle. A too constant attendant; an acquaintance keeping uncomfortably close to one: from ca. 1600; coll.—2. One who speaks through his nose: ca. 1550–1660.—3, 4, 5, 6. In † c., there are at least four senses:—A pickpocket: (? C. 18–) C. 19; a good job easily got: late C. 17–18 (B.E.); a gratuity given, at horse-sales, to grooms: late C. 17–18; a decoy swindler: late C. 16–early 17: Greene, Dekker.—7. 'A senior officer who hangs on to the job to which his juniors hope to be appointed': naval: late C. 19–20. Bowen.

barnacled, ppl. adj. Wearing spectacles: from ca. 1690; coll.

barnacles. Spectacles: in mid-C. 16–17, gen. coloured; in C. 18–19, any spectacles: coll. Prob. ex barnacle, a powerful bit for horse or ass (as in Wyclif, 1382), for these old spectacles pinched the nose considerably.—2. In c. (late C. 17–18: B.E.), fetters.

barnard. The (gen. drunken) man acting as a decoy in Barnard's Law (lay): c.: ca. 1530–1630. Anon., Dice Play, 1532; Greene; Dekker. Occ. bernard.

barnard's law. 'A drunken cosinage by cards', Greene: c.: ca. 1530–1630.

barndook. See bundook.

Barner, barner. 'A "roaring" blade, a fast man of North London', Ware, who derives it ex 'Highbury Barn, one of those rustic London gardens which became common casinos': North London: ca. 1860–80. Cf. barn, q.v.

Barneries. The Adelphi Stores, The Strand, London: London: 1887, The Referee, Feb. 20; † by 1910. Ex Miss Barnes, the proprietress. Ware.

barnet! Nonsense: ca. 1800–80, Christ's Hospital. ? cf. barney, 3.

Barnet Fair. The hair: rhyming s., orig. (—1857) thieves'. 'Ducange Anglicus.' In C. 20, often Barnet.

Barney. The invariable Australian nickname (C. 20) of men surnamed Allen. Ex Barney Allen, a famous and very wealthy Australian bookmaker.

barney. A jollification, esp. if rowdy; an outing: from late 1850's; ob. H., 1st ed. ? ex Barney, typical of a noisy Irishman (cf. paddy, anger: W.).—2. ? hence, crowd: low s. or c. (—1859). Ibid.—3. Humbug, cheating: low (1864). H., 3rd ed. This sense may have a different origin: cf. 'come! come! that's Barney Castle! . . . an expression often uttered when a person is heard making a bad excuse in a still worse cause', recorded in the Denham Tracts, 1846–59, Apperson, whose other two Barney proverbs suggest that the ultimate reference is to 'the holding of Barnard Castle by Sir George Bowes during the Rising of the North in 1569', E. M. Wright, Rustic Speech, 1913.—

4. Hence, an unfair sporting event, esp. a boxing match (— 1882): ob.—5. 'Eyewash' (1884+).—6. A quarrel; a fight; grafters' (— 1934). Philip Allingham. Prob. ex sense 1.

barney, adj. Unfair, pre-arranged: Bell's Life, Jan. 3, 1885, '... barney contests have been plentiful'. Ex the n., 4 and 5.

Barney Dillon. A shillin(g): Scots rhyming s.: C. 20. (The Daily Telegraph, March 8, 1935.)

Barney's. 'St. Barnabas, a noted "high" church': Oxford University: late C. 19–20. Collinson.

Barney's bull, like. Extremely fatigued or (physically) distressed: a low c.p. of late C. 19–20, esp. among Australians. Often was added either bitched, buggered, and bewildered or well fucked and far from home: these two phrases occ. stand by themselves.

barnshoot. 'A corruption of the Hindustani word bahinchut. A vile and unforgivable insult in India, this word is a piece of gentle badinage in England,' George Orwell, Down and Out in Paris and London, 1933. Earlier banchoot, q.v.

Barnwell ague. Venereal disease: ca. 1670–1850. Ray, 1678. Apperson.

baron. An Army commander; military: 1915; ob. F. & Gibbons. Ex his power and importance.

Baron George. A stout man: South London: ca. 1882–1915. Ware derives it ex 'a Mr. George Parkes, a portly theatrical lessee in S. London, who came to be called Baron George; e.g. "He's quite the Baron George!"' baronet. A sirloin of beef: Fielding, Tom Jones, 1749. Ex earlier baron of beef. This baronet, jocular, was never much used; † by 1800.

barpoo, go. To lose one's nerve or even one's head; to crash: Air Force: 1916. F. & Gibbons. Perhaps a blend of 'barmy', 'potty', and 'loopy'.

barrack. See barracking.—Barrack. Berwick: nautical coll.: C. 18–20. E.g., a Barrack master was the captain of a Berwick smack carrying 'passengers down the East Coast before the days of steam' (Bowen).

barrack-hack. A woman attending garrison balls year after year: from ca. 1860; ob.—2. A soldier's trull: from ca. 1850; coll. At this word, F. & H. has a long list of English, French, Italian and Spanish synonyms for a prostitute.

barracking. Banter, chaff; noisy jeering at either visiting or native cricket or football teams that offend the spectators, esp. at Sydney and Melbourne; not, as the S.O.D. says, 'so as to disconcert players', but merely to demonstrate and emphasise the spectators' displeasure; Australian (— 1890), coll. by 1897. The v., jeer at, interrupt clamorously, appears to have arisen ca. 1880 as a football term, which, in its sporting sense, it remained until ca. 1896; barrack for, however, has always (— 1890) meant to support, esp. to support enthusiastically. A barracker, noisy interrupter, is not recorded before 1893; as a supporter, not before 1894. The various words were adopted in England ca. 1920, though they were known there as early as 1900. Either ex Aboriginal borak (n., chaff, fun), as the author of Austral English and the S.O.D. editors contend, or ex costermonger Cockney barrakin, barrikin, gibberish, a jumble of words (— 1851), as W. suggests, or else, as I hold, from barrikin influenced by borak.

barracks. The marines' quarters aboard: naval coll.: mid-C. 19–20. Bowen.

barracoota, -cota. An inhabitant of Hobart, Tasmania: Australian nickname (— 1898); ob. Ex the name of an edible fish. Morris.

barrage. An excessive number or quantity: military: 1917; ob. Ex the myriad shells fired during a barrage.

barrakin. See barrikin.

barred cater tra(y) or trey. (Gen. pl.) False dice so made that the four (quatre) and the three (trois) were seldom cast: c. of ca. 1600–50. Dekker; Taylor (1630).

barred dice. Card-sharpers' tampered dice: late C. 16–17 c. Greene (barddice).

barrel. A nickname for a round-bellied male: coll.: C. 20.

barrel-fever. Ill health, disease, caused by excessive drinking: late C. 18–20; ob. Grose, 3rd ed., 'He died of the barrel fever'.

barrel of treacle. Love: low London: 1883; † by 1920. Ware. Ex its sweetness.

barrel the better herring, never a. Nothing to choose between them: coll.: from 1530's; slightly ob. Bale, ca. 1540; Jonson, 1633; Fielding, 1736; FitzGerald, 1852. Apperson. Obviously ex the fish-markets.

barrel tinter. Beer: Yorkshire s., not dial.: 1851, Tom Treddlehoyle, Trip to Lunnan. E.D.D.

Barrell's Blues. (Military) the Fourth Foot Regiment; since ca. 1881, the King's Own Royal Regiment (Lancaster). From its blue facings and its colonel of 1734–49, the celebrated General Wm. Barrell.

barrener. A cow not calving for a given season, i.e. for a year: farming coll. > S.E.: from ca. 1870.

barrer. To convey (a 'drunk') homo on a barrow: either low Cockney or c.: ca. 1870–1915. Ware.

barres. (Gaming) money lost but not yet paid: C. 17–early 19. Ex bar.

barrikin; occ. barrakin. Gibberish; a farrago of words; jargon: Cockney's: Henry Mayhew, 1851; ob. Of the prob. Fr. original (baragouin) H., 1st ed., rather aptly remarks that 'Miège calls it "a sort of stuff"', for Frenchmen still say Je ne puis rien comprendre à ce baragouin. Cf. bar-racking, q.v.

barring. For sure, certainly, indubitably: tailors': C. 20. The Tailor and Cutter, Nov. 29, 1928, 'A powerful shiner, barring'. Abbr. barring none.

barring-out. (Schools) the shutting of the door against a master: from ca. 1700; coll.; S.E. by ca. 1840. Notable instances in Swift and Tennyson.

barrister's. A coffee-house affected by thieves: c.: late C. 19–early 20. Ex 'a celebrated host of this name', Ware.

barrow-bunter. A female costermonger: coll.: mid-C. 18–19; ob. by 1890. Smollett, 1771.

barrow-man. A costermonger: C. 17–19; S.E. by 1700.—2. A man under sentence of transportation: ca. 1810–50. Lex. Bal., 'Alluding to the convicts at Woolwich, who are principally employed in wheeling barrows full of brick or dirt'.

barrow-tram. An ungainly person: C. 19. Lit., b.-t. = the shaft of a barrow (C. 16–19).

barrow wallah. A big man (occ., thing); chota wallah, a little man (loosely, thing): Regular Army coll.: late C. 19–20. B. & P. Direct ex Hindustani.

bart. A harpoon: C. 19. Bowen, 'More used by the sword-fishermen than the whalers'. Perhaps an abbr. of the † Westmorland bartle, the large pin in the game of ninepins (E.D.D.).—2. Jocular coll., esp. in address (as in Galsworthy, The White Monkey, 1924), for a baronet, which it abbr. in superscriptions, Bart being much more frequent, formal and polite than Bt.

barter. A half-volley at cricket: Winchester College, from ca. 1835; there too, the v. = to swipe (1836) and hitting barthers (— 1890), practice at catching. All, orig. coll., soon > S.E. See F. & H., as well as Mansfield's and Adams's books on the College (1870, 1878 resp.); also W. J. Lewis, who, in his admirable lexicon, The Language of Cricket, 1934, derives it from Robert Barter: 'He entered Winchester College in 1803, and held the post of Warden from 1832 till 1861'; 'He was renowned for his half-volley hits'.

Bartholomew baby. A gaudily dressed doll (1670), a tawdrily dressed woman (1682): the former, coll., soon S.E., the latter always s. Both † by 1850 or so.

Bartholomew(-Boar-)Fig. A fat man: late C. 16–17. Roasted pigs were a great attraction at Bartholomew Fair (West Smithfield, London, 1133–1855): see esp. Jonson's Rabelaisian comedy, Bartholomew Fair, 1614.

Bart's. St. Bartholomew's Hospital, London: orig. (from ca. 1880) medical students'.

base Trojan. A term of abuse: late C. 16–early 17. Shakespeare, Henry V.

base wallah. A soldier employed behind the lines; orig. and esp. at a Base: military coll.: 1915–18. F. & Gibbons. See wallah; and C. E. Montague's Honours Easy. The New Zealanders preferred base-walloper.

baseball. 'Small, insignificant. [Orig. and mainly U.S., "1880 on".] Sometimes heard in Liverpool. Suggested by the small size of the ball in question', Ware: as Liverpool s., it dates ca. 1890–1915.

basengro. A shepherd: tramps' c. (— 1923). Manchon. Ex Romany, in which -engro (man) is a frequent suffix.

bash, to strike with a crushing blow (— 1790), is S.E. in the North, only just S.E.—if not, rather, coll.—in the South. The same is true of the n. (from ca. 1800); certainly neither is dignified. In c., however, it = to beat heavily with the fists only: C. 19–20. Vbl.n., bashing. The origin is obscure: but prob. it is either echoic or, as W. suggests, a blend of bang + smash, or, again, a thickening of pash. Whence:

bash, be on the. To be a prostitute: c.: C. 20. Prob. suggested by batter, on the: q.v.

bash into. To meet (a person) by chance: low: from ca. 1920. James Curtis, The Gilt Kid, 1936. Cf. S.E. strike.

basher. A prize-fighter: low. Also, but in c., a professional thug. From ca. 1860.—2. A tin receptacle holding treacle: naval: ca. 1850–1900. Bowen.—3. A boater (hat): Bedford School: C. 20. Cf. hard-hitter.

Bashi-Bazouk. A ruffian; mildly, a rascal: from ca. 1870; ob. Orig. a Turkish irregular soldier (from ca. 1850).—2. A Royal Marine, 'a name that appears to have been bestowed when Phipps Hornby took the Fleet up the Dardanelles in 1877', Bowen; virtually †.

basil. A C. 18–20 sol. for bezel, esp. in jewellery.—2. A fetter on one leg only: c.: late C. 16–18. Greene.

Basing, that's. A card-playing c.p., of mid-C. 17–18, applied when clubs are turned up trumps. Ex Basing House, captured in the Civil War while the inmates were playing cards. By a pun: 'Clubs were trumps when Basing was taken.' F. & H. revised.

basinite. A hot-water fag: Charterhouse: C. 19. A. H. Tod.

basket! A cry directed, in cock-pits, at persons unable, or unwilling, to pay their debts: C. 18. Such persons were suspended in a basket over the cock-pits (Grose).—2. Hence basketed, left out in the cold, misunderstood, nonplussed: late C. 18–19.—3. Stale news: tailors': late C. 19–20. Perhaps ex waste-basket.—4. Occ. used jocularly as a euphemism for bastard (in the vocative): from ca. 1930.

basket, be brought or go, to the. To be imprisoned: C. 17–18 coll.

basket, left in the. Rejected; abandoned: mid-C. 19–20: coll. >, by 1890, S.E. Barham (O.E.D.). Like the worst fruit.

basket, pick of the. The best: from ca. 1870; coll. >, by 1910, S.E.

basket, pin the. To conclude, settle: mid-C. 17–18 coll. Osborn, ca. 1659.

basket-making. Sexual intercourse: mid-C. 18–early 19. Grose, 1st ed.

basket of chips, grin like a. To grin broadly: late C. 18–mid-19, coll. Grose, 2nd ed. Cf. smile like . . . chips, an old Shropshire saying.

basket of oranges. A pretty woman: 'Australian, passing to England', says Ware: late C. 19–early 20. Ex basket of oranges, 'a discovery of nuggets of gold in the gold fields': Australian miners' coll.: late C. 19–20; ob.

basket-scamblor. One who lives on charity: C. 17–18; coll.

basketed. See basket!

Bass. Bass's ale (1849); almost imm. coll.; in C. 20 S.E. 'Cuthbert Bede.'

basset, make a. To blunder: racing (— 1932). Slang, p. 245.

basso. A shoal: nautical coll.: C. 19. Bowen. Perhaps ex Staffordshire bassiloe, the mound of earth at or near the edge of a pit (E.D.D.).

bastard. A fellow, chap, man, with no pejorative connotation: coll.: C. 20, chiefly Australian, perhaps ex U.S.; see esp. Grose, P., and cf. the colourless use of bugger, q.v.—2. Fig of a thing, an incident, a situation: low coll.: C. 20. James Curtis.

bastardly gullion. A bastard's bastard: (Lancashire dial. and) low coll.: late C. 18–early 19. Grose, 2nd ed. Cf. bell-bastard, q.v.

baste. To thrash: from ca. 1530. In C. 16, coll.; thereafter, S.E., though far from dignified.

baste-up. A half-wit; an objectionable fellow: tailors': C. 20. E.g. in The Tailor and Cutter, Nov. 29, 1928. Ex tailors' j., wherein it = half-made.

Bastile. A workhouse: low (mostly vagrants'). from ca. 1860; esp. in the North. H., 3rd ed. Ex its short-lived S.E. sense (a prison) comes steel, q.v.—2. Early in C. 19, among criminals, Bastile was applied as a nickname to Coldbath Fields Prison, demolished ca. 1890. (Warc.)

basting. A thrashing: in Shakespeare and till ca. 1660, coll.; then virtually S.E. Grose records it as give (a person) his basting(s).

bat. A prostitute favouring the night: C. 17– early 19.—2. Pace: from ca. 1800; dial. >, ca. 1870, s. Prob. ex dial. bat, a stroke.—3. A spoken language (orig. that of India): military: late C. 19–20. Ex Hindustani for speech, word. Only in bolo or sling or spin the bat, q.v.—4. A batman: military: C. 20; but it > gen. military only in G.W.—5. A drinking bout; esp. go on the bat, on the spree: Canadian (ex U.S.): late C. 19–20.—6. Price; come the bat, to mention the price: grafters' (—1934). Philip Allingham. Perhaps ex scenscs 2 and 3.

bat, carry (out)—occ. bring out—one's. To outlast others; finally to succeed: coll.: from ca. 1870. Ex a batsman not out at cricket; the lit. sense 'goes back to the less luxurious days when the man "out" left the bat for the next comer', W.

bat, off (rarely on) one's own. Without assistance; independently: coll. >, by 1880, S.E. (Sydney Smith, 1845.) Also ex cricket.

bat, sling or spin the. See sling the bat.

bat and wicket. A ticket: rhyming s.: C. 20. B. & P.

bat-boat. 'An unusual type of Sopwith seaplane': naval: 1915–18. Bowen. Cf. batman.

bat-fowl, v.t. and i. To swindle; victimise the simple or the inexperienced: from ca. 1585. Greene. Very little later were its pure derivatives, bat-fowler, a swindler, confidence trickster, and the vbl.n., bat-fowling. All † by 1840. Ex the nocturnal catching of birds by dazzling them and then batting them with a stick.

bat-mugger. An instrument for rubbing oil into cricket bats: Winchester College, ca. 1860–1910.

bat out of hell, go like a. To go, esp. fly, extremely fast: Air Force coll.: from 1915. F. & Gibbons.

batch. A dose or bout of liquor: late C. 18—early 19. Grose, 2nd ed. Prob. ex dial.: ? cf. batch, a quantity of things (e.g. bottles).

batch, v. See bach, v.—batchelor's fare. See bachelor's fare.

batchy. Silly; mad: military: late C. 19–20. Lyell. Perhaps ex Hindustani.

bate. See bait.

Bate's Farm or Garden, occ. preceded by Charley. Coldbath Fields Prison: C. 19 c. Partly ex a warder's name. Whence:

Bates' farm, feed the chickens on Charley. To be put to the treadmill: c. of ca. 1860–90. Ex preceding.

Bath, give the Order of the. To duck: from ca. 1890. Punning; cf. give the Order of the Boot.—see order.

Bath, go to. To become a beggar: mid-C. 17–19. Bath, being fashionable, attracted many vagrants. As, ca. 1830–1930, an injunction, often with addition of and get your head shaved: stop!, go away!, 'dry up, you're cracked!' In addition to beggars, Bath drew lunatics, who were 'supposed to benefit from the waters' of this noted spa (W.).

bath-mat. (Gen. pl.) 'The flooring of wooden battens laid over the mud of trenches': military: 1915; slightly ob. F. & Gibbons.

bathing machine. A 10-ton brig: sailors', ca. 1850–1900.—2. Whence, a four-wheeled cab: London busmen's: ca. 1890–1915.

Bathing Towel. Lord (earlier, General) Baden-Powell: from ca. 1875. Also, from 1900, B.P.

batman. In S.E., a 'muleteer' of bat-horses; hence, a cavalry officer's servant. In G.W. it was applied to any Army officer's servant (the practice has survived): a coll. that had by 1932 attained unto S.E.—2. A third-term cadet avoiding duty by acting as personal servant to a petty officer: Worcester Training-Ship coll.: C. 20. Bowen.—3. A sycophantic private: military coll.: 1915; ob. B. & P.

batner. See battener.

bats. A pair of bad boots: c. or low s.: ca. 1855–1930. H., 1st ed.; Manchon.

bats, adj. Very eccentric; mad, to any degree: C. 20. Ex bats in the belfry.

Bats, Captain. George Ransley, notable Kentish smuggler of the 1820's: ca. 1820–40, then historic. Bowen, 'From his readiness to employ batmen, or armed bullies, to protect his runs from the Coast Blockade men'.

bats in the belfry, have. To be very eccentric; mad, to any degree: late C. 19–20.

batt. A battalion: military coll.: late C. 19–20. B. & P.

batta. See batty, n.

battalion. A gang of criminals: C. 18 c.

[battels. Account(s) for provisions: j.; not s. nor coll. as implied by F. & H.]

batt(e)ner. An ox: mid-C. 17–18 c. Coles, 1676; B.E. Beef tending to batten (fatten).

batter. Wear and tear: C. 19–20 coll. 'He can't stand the batter,' H., 1864.—2. A variant of butter, n., sense 2.—3. See batters.

batter, (go) on the. (To walk the streets) as a harlot, to be debauched; to be on a riotous spree: from late 1830's; ob. H. Rodger, 1839 (O.E.D.); H., 1st ed.; Whiteing, 1899. Presumably cognate with U.S. bat (1848); cf. bait, q.v.

batter through. To struggle through (e.g. a part): proletarian: C. 19–20; ob. Ware. Abbr. batter one's way through.

battered. Given up to debauchery: from ca. 1860: †. Cf. go on the batter.

battered bully. A late C. 17—early 18 term combining two senses of battered, thus: 'an old well cudgell'd and bruised huffing fellow', B.E.: low coll.

batterfang, battyfang. (Lit. and fig.) to batter, maul: ca. 1630–1830, then dial. The former was S.E., the latter (C. 18–20) is a sol.

batters. Defective type: printers': 1880 (O.E.D.) coll. >, by 1910, j. Ex batter, 'a bruise on the face of printing type'.

Battersea. See simples, go to Battersea to be cut for the.

Battle-Axe Company, the. The 'J' Coast Battery of the Royal Artillery: military coll.: from 1809, when its predecessors (the 43rd Company, 7th Battalion, R.A.) received, for services at the capture of Martinique, a trophy consisting of a French battle-axe. F. & Gibbons.

battle-bag. A big rigid airship designed to operate with the Fleet: naval: 1915; ob. Bowen.

battle-bowler. A steel shrapnel-helmct: military: 1915. F. & Gibbons.

Battle of the Nile. A 'tile', a hat: rhyming s. (—1859); ob. H., 1st ed. Occ. battle (—1874).

battle-royal. A vehement quarrel, a vigorous fight: from ca. 1690; coll. >, by 1840, S.E. Ex medieval jousting between two sides each commanded by a king (S.E.); also cock-pit j.

battle the watch. 'To do one's best against difficulty. To depend on one's own exertions': nautical coll.: mid-C. 19–20; slightly ob. Bowen battledore. See B from a battledore, not to know.—Cf. battledore-boy, one learning his alphabet: late C. 17–mid-18: coll. or, rather, S.E. Here, however, battledore is abbr. battledore-book, a horn-book.

Battling 'Ells (or L's), the. The "L" Class of destroyers: naval coll.: G.W. (F. & Gibbons.)

Battling Third. The 3rd Destroyer Flotilla of the Harwich Force: naval coll.: G.W. F. & Gibbons, 'Noted for its part in the action off Heligoland, in August, 1914'.

battlings. (Public schools') a weekly allowance of money (— 1864). Either coll. or j. Mostly at Winchester, where used from before 1859: E.D.D.

battner. See battener. (Coles spells it batner.)

batty. Wages, perquisites: coll.: orig. (Hook, 1824), batta, ex Hindustani; in India it properly meant (late C. 17–20) subsistence money, extra pay on campaign, then pay for Indian service. Yule & Burnell.

batty, adj. Mad: C. 20, esp. among soldiers. Cf.—perhaps ex—bats in the belfry.

batty-fang. To beat: coll.: C. 19–20, ob. Also, in C. 17–19, batter-fang. Prob., to hit and bite; Ware's 'evidently battre à fin' is presumably a joke.

baub. See bob, s'help me.—baubee. See bawbees.—baubles. See bawbles.—baudye. See bawdy.

baulk. (Winchester College) a false report: from ca. 1850. Hence sport a baulk, to circulate one.—2. (Gen.) a mistake: mid-C. 19–20, ob. A survival of balk, baulk, C. 15–18 S.E. for a mistake or blunder.

baulk, give the miss in. See miss in baulk.

baulk (balk), at. To avoid: coll.: 1908 (O.E.D. Sup.). Semantics: 'jib at'.

baulk (or balk), in. Checked; at a loss: coll.; from ca. 1880. Ex billiards.

baulker. Frequently spelt bawker, q.v.

'baw-baw', quoth Bagshaw. You're a liar: semi-proverbial c.p. (— 1570); † by 1700. Levins; Nashe. Ex baw-baw!, indicating contempt or derision; Bagshaw, prob. for the jingle. F. & H. revised.

bawbees. Money; cash. C. 19–20. In singular, coll. for a halfpenny, a 'copper': late C. 17–20, as in B.E.

bawbles. (Properly but rarely baubles.) Human testicles: late C. 18–early 19. Grose, 3rd. Earlier, e.g. in Shakespeare, bauble = the penis; this is prob. S.E.

bawbard. Larboard: nautical coll.: C. 18–19. A corruption of larboard (Bowen); prob. influenced by Fr. babord.

bawcock. A fine fellow, gen. derisively: Shakespeare's Henry V; † by 1700, though resuscitated by Ainsworth in 1862. Coll.; ex Fr. beau coq.

bawd. A procurer or—as always after 1700—a procuress. In C. 14–16, S.E.; in C. 17–18, coll.; in C. 19–20, literary. In C. 18–19 occ. a female brothel-keeper. Prob. abbr. bawdstrot (O.E.D.).

bawdy bachelor. A 'confirmed' bachelor: late C. 17–19, low coll. B.E. (But how hard he falls!)

bawdy banquet. Whoremongering: C. 16; not recorded before Harman, 1567. ? c.

bawdy basket. In mid-C. 16–17, c.; in C. 18, ob. s.; † by 1840. A seller—gen. female—of obscene literature, ballads, pins, tape, but living mostly by theft. Harman, B.E., Grose. Ex the bawdy books carried in the basket.—2. A harlot: this rarer sense (late C. 16–17) is indubitably s.

bawdy-house bottle. A very small one: late C. 17–18: low coll. B.E., Grose.

bawdy-ken. A brothel: c. or low s.: ca. 1810–60. Bee (at bodikin).

bawd(y) physic. A saucy fellow: ca. 1560–90: c. or low. Awdeley.

bawker. A cheater at bowls: late C. 16–early 17 c. Greene. (= baulker.) At least once it is misspelt banker (Greene, at beginning of 2nd Cony-Catching).

bawl. 'To suck or swallow': East End of London c. (— 1933). George Orwell, Down and Out.

bawl out. A C. 20 and perhaps catachrestic variant of bowl out, q.v.

Bawra. The British Australian Wool Realisation Association: Australian coll.: from 1922. See the editor's Australia and New Guinea, 1937, at 'Commerce', § 12.

Bay, the. Port Elizabeth: South African coll.: from ca. 1870. Ex Algoa Bay, on which the town stands. Pettman.

Bay fever. 'A term of ridicule applied to convicts, who sham illness, to avoid being sent to Botany Bay', Lex. Bal.: coll.: ca. 1810–60. Cf.:

Bay of Condolence. 'Where we console our friends, if plucked, and left at a nonplus', Egan's Grose, 1823: Oxford University: ca. 1820–40.

baywindow. A belly protuberant through either pregnancy or obesity: mid-C. 19–20.—2. Hence, and ex the baywindows of clubs: talk imitative of that of clubmen: artisans' (— 1935).

Bayard of ten toes. One's feet. Esp. ride B. . . toes, to walk. Coll. in late C. 16–early 18, then dial. (ob.). Breton, Fuller, Grose. Breton's use in Good and Bad, 1616, tends to show that the phrase had been current long before that. Ex Bayard, a horse famous in medieval romance. Apperson.

Bays. Shares in the Hudson's Bay Company: Stock Exchange coll. (— 1895). A. J. Wilson, Stock Exchange Glossary.

Bays, the. The 2nd Dragoon Guards: military coll.: 'from 1767 when the regiment was first mounted on bay horses', F. & Gibbons.

Bayswater captain. A sponger: ca. 1879–1910; mostly London. Because so many of these club parasites resided in Bayswater, W.2. Cf. turnpike sailor.

bazaar. A shop; a counter: c.: ca. 1830–80. 'Ducange Anglicus.' Ex (and cf.) S.E. sense ex Hindi—ultimately Persian bazar, a market.

bazaar, v.t. To rob; gen. as bazaar'd: Society: 1882–ca. 1915. Ware derives it ex 'the extortion practised by remorseless, smiling English ladies at bazaars'.

bazaar (or B.), in the. In the (money-)market; to be bought; procurable: Anglo-Indian coll. of late C. 19–20. Thus, in Richard Blaker, Here Lies a Most Beautiful Lady, 1935, an Indian Army officer says, 'Garstein seems to think that Johnnie's oil shares are as good as anything in the Bazaar at the moment.' Ex the importance that the bazaars have in life in India.

Bazaar Motor-Vans. The French village, Autos Bazaars: military: G.W. (F. & Gibbons.)

[bazaar rumour, doubtful news, is Army coll. (1882; † by 1920) that imm. > S.E.; but perhaps it was always S.E.]

bazooker. A thing, esp. if mechanical (e.g. a motor-car): low: C. 20. (R. Blaker, Night-Shift, 1934.) An artificial word: cf. ooja-ku-piv.

be. Am: when not dial., it is sol.: C. 18-20. Dibdin, 'I be one of they sailors' (Baumann).—2. By (prep'n): low coll. verging on sol.: mid-C. 19-20. Ex dial.

be damned. See damned, be.

be good! A c.p. 'au revoir': from ca. 1912. B. & P. Often be good and, if you can't be good, be careful!

be gorra! See begorra!—be jabers! See jabers!, be.—be there. See there, be.—be yourself! See yourself!, be.

beach, be or go on the. To be or become a beach-comber: coll.: late C. 19-20. Cf.:

beach, on the. Ashore, whether on leave or having retired from the sea: nautical: mid-C. 19-20. Bowen. Also be beached, to be 'put out of employment': naval: late C. 19-20. [F. & Gibbons.

beach-cadger. A beggar favouring seaside resorts: ca. 1860-1910: coll.

beach-comber. A (disreputable) fellow haunting the sea-shore for odd jobs (Blackwood's Magazine, 1847). Coll.; from ca. 1870, S.E.; perhaps, as Thornton implies, orig. U.S.—2. A river boatman: nautical: from ca. 1860; ob.—3. A sea-shore thief: ? c.: from ca. 1865.—4. 'A yachting tourist', Ware: nautical: ca. 1890-1915.

beach-men. 'West African surf men and interpreters': nautical coll. verging on S.E.: late C. 19-20. Bowen.

beach-tramper. A coastguardsman: nautical: ca. 1880-1910. Baumann.

bead-counter. A cleric, religious recluse, or worshipper: coll.: C. 19. Malkin, 1809. Ex the use of the rosary in the Roman Catholic communion.

beached, be. See beach, on the.

Beachy Bill. A Turkish heavy gun at Gallipoli: military: 1915. B. & P.

beadle. A blue roquelaure; esp. to fly or sport a beadle, to wear one: c.: ca. 1820-50. Egan's Grose. Prob. because beadies often wore a blue jacket.

[beagle. A spy, man-hunter: despite F. & H., it is S.E.]

beagle-ball. (Gen. pl.) A meat rissole served in the Royal Naval College, Dartmouth: there: late C. 19-20. Bowen.

beak. A magistrate: C. 18-20. In C. 16-17, the form was beck, the meaning a constable (a sense lingering till ca. 1860); also it was c., as beak itself was until ca. 1850, since when the most frequent use has been up before the beak, on trial by a magistrate; in the G.W. this phrase = before the orderly officer. See esp. Grose, P.—Hence, 2, in schools (esp. Eton and Marlborough), from ca. 1880, an assistant master.—3. The nose: Thackeray, The Newcomes, 1854. (Very much earlier in dial.: see the E.D.D.) See esp. Grose, P.; Manchon, 1923, notes keep your beak up!, don't lose heart!: lower classes'. All senses prob. ex Fr. bec, a beak.—4. See beaker.

beak, v. Late C. 16—early 17 c. as in Rowlands, 1610, 'What maund doe you beake, what kind of begging use you?' (O.E.D.).—2. To bring (a male-factor) before a magistrate: low (—1887). Baumann, who rightly implies that it is used mostly in the passive. Ex beak, n., 1.

beak, strop one's. (Of the male) to coit: low: late C. 19-20; ob.

beak-gander. A judge in the higher courts: from ca. 1870; ob. (Gander = old man.)

beaker, occ. abbr. to beak. A fowl. C. 19-20 c. as is (—1839: Brandon) the derivative beak(er)-hunter, a poultry-yard thief.

beaksman. A constable: C. 18-19 c. Ex beak, 1, q.v. Cf. beck.

beam, broad in the. (Of a person) broad-seated: C. 19-20; orig. nautical.

beam-ends. The buttocks: Marryat, 1830; Cuthbert Bede, 1853. Cf. next.

beam-ends, on one's. Utterly exhausted: nautical: ca. 1830-80. Marryat.—2. In a difficulty (Dickens, 1844); short of money (H. Mayhew). Coll. Ex a vessel in imminent danger of capsizing.

beamy old buss. Any very broad ship: nautical coll.: mid-C. 19-20. Bowen. Ex the broad herring buss or smack; cf. broad in the beam.

bean or bien. A guinea coin: prob. c.: ca. 1800-40; a sovereign: low: ca. 1840-1900. (The guinea coin ceased in 1813 to be struck.) In pl., money, esp. cash: from late 1850's. H., 1st ed. ? ex Fr. bien, something good.—2. The head: late C. 19-20. Ex shape (very approximate!). Whence:—3. (Gen. old bean, q.v.) A man, chap, fellow: C. 20. Manchon.—4. A 'beano' (sense 2): rather rare (—1923). Manchon.

bean, not have a. Esp. I haven't a bean, I'm penniless: late C. 19-20. (C.O.D., 1934 Sup.) Cf.:

bean, not worth a. Of very little value: from C. 13; coll. since ca. 1400.

bean, old. See old bean.

bean-belly. A Leicestershire man: mid-C. 17-19. Adumbrated in C. 15. Leicestershire has for centuries produced an abundance of beans.

bean-cod. 'The Iberian type of small craft with sharp lines and a stream raking aft from the water-line': nautical: C. 19-20; virtually †. Bowen. Ex shape.

bean-feast. A jollification: C. 20. Orig. (1806) an annual feast given to workmen by their employers. (Tailors as early as 1890 applied bean-feast to any good meal.) Hence bean-feaster, ca. 1883-1900, a participator in such an annual feast.—2. The act of kind: low: C. 20; ob.

bean-pole or -stick. A tall thin man: coll. (? ex dial.) > almost S.E.: from ca. 1830.

bean-tosser. The penis: low: late C. 19-20; ob.

beaner. A chastisement: proletarian, mostly London (—1909); ob. Ware. Ex beans, give, q.v.

beano. Orig. (—1898) an annual feast: printers'.—2. From ca. 1897 (see Ware), a jollification. Ex bean-feast, perhaps (via lingua franca) influenced by Sp. bueno or It. buono, good. Cf. bingo, q.v.

beanpea. An effeminate youth: ca. 1875-1915. Ware. Ex a case of two youths, B. and P., tried by Lord Cockburn (d. 1880).

beans. See bean.

beans, abstain from. To take no part in politics: not very gen. (—1923); ob. Manchon.

beans, full of. Vigorous; energetic; in high spirits: from ca. 1870. H., 5th ed. (at full of beans). Cf. beany, q.v.

beans, give. To chastise; defeat severely (—1890). Kipling.—2. get beans, be chastised.

beans, like. Excellently; forcibly: from ca. 1860; ob.

beans, spill the. See spill the beans.

beans make five (white ones), know how many. To be alert: Galt, 1830; adumbrated in Shelton's know how many numbers are five, 1612. Apperson.

beans in a or one blue bladder, three blue. Noisy and empty talk: late C. 16-18. Origin obscure: even Nares failed to discover it.

beany. Vigorous; spirited: from ca. 1850. Cf. full of beans (see beans): beans being great energy-makers.—2. Hence, in good humour: from ca. 1860.

bear. At first (ca. 1700), stock sold in the hope of a fall: either S.E. or j. Then (— 1744) the speculator for a fall, as in Foote, Colman, Scott; the term > coll. only ca. 1900, Peacock having, in 1860, written: 'In Stock Exchange slang, bulls are speculators for a rise, bears for a fall.' See the chapter on commercial slang in my Slang. The orig. phrase was prob. sell the bear-skin, such bargainners being called bear-skin jobbers, in reference to the proverb, 'to sell the bear's skin before one has caught the bear'. Hence, sell a bear, to sell what one does not possess: C. 18 coll.—2. The pupil of a private tutor: late C. 18—mid-C. 19. See bear-leader.—Also, 3, a very gruff person: C. 18-20 coll. Notably used by Lord Chesterfield.—4. 'A matted stone or shot, or a coir mat filled with sand, dragged over the deck to clean it after the fashion of a holystone' (Bowen): nautical coll.: mid-C. 19-20; ob. Ex ob. S.E. bear (bere), a pillow-case.

bear, v.i. To speculate for a fall in prices: Stock Exchange, from ca. 1840, as is the v.t. sense, to effect or manoeuvre a fall in the price of (a stock or commodity). This term > j., and by 1930 it was considered S.E.

bear, play the. To behave rudely and roughly: late C. 16-17: coll. >, by 1600, S.E.

bear a bob. To lend a hand: nautical and gen.: C. 19-20; ob. Imperative: look alive!: nautical, C. 19-20.

bear-garden discourse (or language) or jaw. 'Rude, vulgar language', Grose, 1st ed.: late C. 17—early 19. With discourse or language, coll.; with jaw, s. Ray, 1678, has 'He speaks Bear-garden'. Apperson.

bear, it would bite or have bit you, if it were or had been a. A semi-proverbial c.p. applied, as B.E. phrases it, to 'him that makes a close search after what lies just under his Nose': C. 17-18. Draxe, 1633; Swift. (Apperson.)

Bear-Leader, the. Boswell (1740-95), because he 'led' Johnson (Ursa Major): late C. 18.—2. Wm. Gifford, the 'bearish' critic (1757-1826): early C. 19. (Dawson.)

bear-leader. A travelling tutor in the days of the Grand Tour: Walpole, 1749; Thackeray, 1848; H., 1874. Coll. in C. 19; † by 1880. He likes 'cubs' into shape: W.

bear one's blushing honours . . . See thick upon one.

bear-pits, the. The empty and barred yards outside the 'zeros' [w.c.'s]: Bootham School: C. 20. Anon., Dict. of Bootham Slang, 1925.

bear-play. Rough and noisy behaviour: apparently not recorded before 1883. Coll., soon S.E.

bear-up. The act of pursuing a woman: coll.: U.S. >, by 1900, Australian; rare. H. Lawson (O.E.D. Sup.).

bear to the stake, go like a. To 'hang an Arse', B.E.: coll.: C. 15—early 19. Lydgate, ca. 1430: Florio; Defoe; Scott. (Apperson.)

bear up, v. To support in a swindle (— 1828); ob. by 1900. Hence bearer-up, such a supporter.—Hence, 2, v.i., to 'log-roll': 1883, The Referee, Dec. 2.—3. Have courage: coll., C. 17; S.E. thereafter, though the imperative, bear up!, has a coll. tang.

bear with, play the. To play the deuce with: dial. (— 1881) >, by 1889, coll.; ob. O.E.D. (Sup.).

beard, make a man's. To outwit or trick him: coll.: C. 15-16.

beard, to one's. To a person's face; frankly; openly: coll. (in C. 20 S.E. and archaic); from ca. 1780.

beard-splitter. A frequenter of prostitutes, an enjoyer of women: late C. 17—early 18; B.E. and Grose. Cf. U.S. low s. or c. beard-jammer.—2. Also, the penis: C. 18-19.

bearded cad. A College porter conveying luggage from station to school: Winchester College, ca. 1850-1910.

beard without a razor, make a man's. To behead: coll.: ca. 1520-1700.

beardie, -y (or B.). A Christian Israelite: a Victorian (Australia) nickname: 1875. O.E.D. (Sup.). A sect that let its hair grow.

beärgered. Drunk: low coll. (— 1859); ob. by 1910. H., 1st ed.; Ware.

bearing, vbl.n. Acting as a speculating 'bear': from ca. 1860, Stock Exchange.

bearings, bring one to one's. To cause to see reason: late C. 18-20 coll., orig. (— 1785) nautical, as Grose, 1st ed., indicates.

bearish. Indicative of, natural to, or tending to, a fall in prices: Stock Exchange; from ca. 1880.

bears?, are you there with your. There you are again!; so soon? James Howell, 1642; Richardson, 1740; Scott, 1820. †.

bear's paw. A saw: rhyming s., mostly workmen's: late C. 19-20. John o' London's Weekly, June 9, 1934.

bearskin-jobber. A seller of 'bear' stock (— 1726); money market; ob. by 1750. See bear.

beast. Anything naturally unpleasant or momentarily displeasing, as a beast of a day (Baumann, 1887): coll.: from ca. 1860.—2. A youth that, having left school, goes to Cambridge to study before entering the University: Cambridge University; from ca. 1820; very ob.—3. A bicycle: youths': ca. 1870-90. Ware.

beast, drink like a. To drink only when thirsty: late C. 18-19. Grose, 2nd ed. Contrast S.E. drink like a fish.

beast with two backs. 'A man and woman in the act of copulation', Grose; gen. with make (the), as in Shakespeare's Othello. † by 1830 and prob. never gen. s.

beastie. A coll. and endearing form, orig. Scottish, of beast: gen. only since ca. 1890.

beastly. Unpleasant; bad (however slightly): coll.; in C. 20, the adj. verges on S.E., while the adv. has definitely remained coll. Cf. awful, terrible. From ca. 1850, as is the adv., which = very. Anstey, 1882, has feeling beastly; The Daily Telegraph, 1865, 'he was in good health . . . looked almost "beastly well"': but adumbrations appear in Barclay, 1509, Dekker in 1611, in Johnson, 1778, and in Dickens, 1844.

beasty. See bheestie.

beat. A normal round (as of prostitute or policeman): G. A. Stevens, 1788; sphere of influence:

The Saturday Review, 1862. In both senses, coll. for some forty years, then S.E. but not literary.—2. Hence, one's 'lady friend': naval seamen's: late C. 19–20. Bowen.—3. A newspaper 'scoop': journalistic: from ca. 1925. (Richard Keverne, The Man in the Red Hat, 1930.)

beat. Exhausted: from ca. 1830. Often dead beat.—2. Baffled, defeated: coll.: from ca. 1840.

beat, get a. (Constructed with on.) To obtain an advantage (over): from ca. 1850; ob. In c., the term implies secret, shady, or illicit means.

beat, have (a person). To be superior to, to have the better of: from ca. 1910.

beat, off the. Out of the usual routine: Australian coll. (—1916). C. J. Dennis. See beat, n.

beat a carpet, couldn't. Ineffective; weak; or of a very 'poor' boxer: late C. 19–20; coll.

beat daddy-mommy. To practise the elements of drum-beating: C. 18 military.

beat goose or (nautical) the booby. To strike the hands across the chest and under the armpits to warm one's chilled fingers: coll.: from ca. 1880. (O.E.D.) Earlier, cuff or beat Jonas. Jocularly varying beat oneself.

beat it. (Of criminals) to run away: mostly New Zealand: C. 20. Ex U.S. coll. beat it (to depart). Cf. the coll. beat the hoof of C. 17–18.

beat it ? !, can you. Well, I'm dashed ! damned ! etc. Coll.: C. 20.

beat it while the beating's or going's good. To depart at once or without trouble: C. 20 coll.: ? ex U.S.

beat one's way through the world. To push oneself ahead: from ca. 1860: coll.

beat the band. To be remarkable, superior, startling: C. 20. Esp., That beats the band.—2. Whence, to beat the band, greatly, excessively, utterly, as in the Tommies' translation of the Hymn of Hate: "'Ate of the 'art and 'ate of the 'and,' 'Ate by water and 'ate by land,' 'Oo do we 'ate to beat the band ? [England !]' (W.). Cf. the prototype, to bang banagher (see banagher).

beat the hoof. To walk: late C. 17–18. In Anthony Wood's Athenæ Oxonienses, 1691.

beat the road. To travel by rail without paying: low, mostly U.S. (—1890).

beat the streets. To walk up and down: C. 19–20: coll. till ca. 1890, then S.E.

beat up the quarters of. To visit unexpectedly, very informally: coll.: 1741, Richardson (O.E.D.); Ware (the shorter form). From ca. 1891, gen. just beat up. Ex S.E. sense, 'to disturb'.

beaten out. Impoverished: in very severe straits: H. Mayhew, 1851; coll.; ob.

beater. The decoy in a swindle: c. of ca. 1585–1620. Greene. Ex fowling.—2. A foot: low: late C. 19–20; ob. Manchon. Cf.:

beater-cases. Boots: in late C. 18—early 19, c.; then low s. Nearly † in 1859, quite † by 1890. Grose, 2nd ed. Succeeded, in mid-C. 19, by trotter-cases.

beating the bush. The inveigling of a prospective victim: c. of ca. 1585–95. Greene.

beau-catcher. See bow-catcher.

beau-nasty. 'One finely dressed, but dirty', Grose, 2nd ed.: late C. 18—early 19.

beau-trap. A sharper, neatly dressed: late C. 17–18. B.E.—2. A loose pavement-stone, overlying water: late C. 18—early 19. Grose.—3. A fop outwardly well dressed but of unclean linen, body, habits: late C. 18—early 19.

beaucoup; often spelt bokoo. Plenty of; many; military: late 1914–18, then as survival. E.g. beaucoup beer or cigarettes. Direct ex Fr. (B. & P.)

beaut. (Rarely of persons.) A 'beauty': non-aristocratic: C. 20. Ex U.S.

beautiful. An adj. applied coll. by a person to anything that he likes very much: mid-C. 19–20. Cf. sweet.

beatify. To beatify: catachrestic: C. 17–20; rare after 1800. (O.E.D.)

beauty, be a. Gen. he's a beauty !, you're a beauty, i.e. a person very clumsy or not to be trusted or relied on: coll.: from ca. 1880. Baumann. Ex ironic use of lit. sense.

beauty, it was a great. It was a fine sight: coll.: ca. 1520–1600. Berners, 1523 (O.E.D.) Cf.:

beauty of it, that's—occ. that was—the. That is the feature affording the greatest pleasure or keenest satisfaction: coll.: 1754, Richardson, 'That's the beauty of it; to offend and make up at pleasure', O.E.D.

beauty sleep. Sleep before midnight, supposedly conducive to good looks and health: Frank Smedley's first notable novel, Frank Fairleigh, 1850: coll. >, by 1910, S.E.

beaver. In the sense of hat, always—despite F. & H.—S.E.—2. As a beard, hence a bearded man, decidedly s.: a passing term and pastime of the middle 1920's. Collinson.—3. Hence, a no-score at skittles: from ca. 1926; ob. 'When the nought is chalked up, people sometimes draw a face in the circle and attach a beard or "beaver" to it,' Brian Frith in a letter to myself, Feb. 24, 1935.—4. As 'snack', see bever.—5. A warning: military: from ca. 1910. B. & P.

beaver, cock one's. To assume a swaggering air: C. 17, as in that strange Cambridge Platonist, Henry More, in 1642. Coll.

beaver, in. In tall hat and non-academical attire: ca. 1820–60: university.

beaver-tail. 'A feminine mode of wearing the back-hair . . . loose in a . . . net . . . which fell . . . on to the shoulders.' Ex resemblance to 'a beaver's flat and comparatively shapeless tail', Ware, who classifies it as middle-class of ca. 1860–70.

bebee; beebie. A lady: Anglo-Indian coll. (—1864). H., 3rd ed. By 1886 (Yule & Burnell), no longer applied to ladies: in fact, in late C. 19–20 military, it = a bed-mate (Manchon). Ex Hindustani bibi, a lady.

becalmed, the sail sticks to the mast,—I am. 'My shirt sticks to my back,' Grose, 1st ed., adding: 'A piece of sea wit sported in hot weather': a nautical c.p. of mid-C. 18—mid-19.

beck. A constable; a beadle: c.: mid-C. 16–17. Harman. See beak, 1.

beck, v. To imprison: (? C. 18)—C. 19 c.; rare. Reade in his greatest novel, 1861.

beckets !, hands out. Hands out of your pockets!: nautical: C. 19–20; ob. Bowen. A becket is a nautical loop or bracket.

Becky. Mary Wells, actress (fl. 1780–1810) Ex her part in O'Keeffe's comedy, The Agreeable Surprise. (Dawson.)

become to be + p.ppl. To become: catachrestic: C. 20. E.g. 'He became to be known as a most reliable person.' By confusion of become (e.g. known) and come to be (e.g. known).

[becos is a foolish spelling employed by those who think it represents a sol. : becos is a S.E. pronunciation; one of two that are recognised to be equally correct. In short, it rivals often in ineptitude.]

bed, get up on the wrong side of the. See wrong side.—bed, more belongs to marriage than . . . See legs in a bed.

bed, go up a ladder to. To be hanged: mid-C. 18—early 19: low s. verging on c. 'In many country places', says Grose, 1st ed., 'persons hanged are made to mount up a ladder, which is afterwards turned round or taken away; whence the term, "turned off".'

[bed-bug. The entry in the first edition was based on my foolish misapprehension of two passages in James Curtis's The Gilt Kid, 1936.]

bed of guns. A ship over-gunned: jocular naval coll.: C. 19–20; ob. Bowen.

bed one has made, lie or sleep in the. To abide (patiently) by one's actions: from ca. 1850; coll. > proverbial >, by 1850, S.E. Hanway, 1753 (O.E.D.). By fig. extension of make a bed, to put it in order.

bed with a mattock, put to, often amplified with and tuck'd up with a spade. Dead and buried: C. 18—early 19. From ca. 1830, the form was gen. put to bed with a pickaxe and shovel, while C. 19–20 dial. prefers put to bed with a shovel.

bed-fag(g)ot. A hussy; a harlot: coll.: C. 19–20; ob. (Not a Society term.) H., 3rd ed. Ex fugot as part of firewood. Cf. warming-pan, q.v. But bed-sister, -piece, and -presser may be S.E.

bed-house. A house of assignation where beds may be had for any period desired: C. 19 coll.

bed in one's boots, go to. To be very drunk: low coll.: late C. 19–20.

bed-post, between you and me and the. Between ourselves: coll.: 1830 (O.E.D. Sup.); Bulwer Lytton, 1832. Variants with post, as in Dickens, 1838—door-post, from ca. 1860—gate-post, id.,—gate, C. 20.

bed-post or -staff, in the twinkling of a. Immediately: resp. from ca. 1830 (ob.), and ca. 1670–1850 (Shadwell, 1676). Prob. ex its well-known use as a ready and handy weapon: O.E.D.

bed-presser. See bed-fag(g)ot.—2. A dull, heavy fellow: coll.: late C. 19–20; ob.

bed-sitter. A bed-sitting room: s. (from ca. 1890) >, ca. 1930, coll. Collinson. Oxford -er.

bed-staff, in the twinkling of a. See bed-post, in . . .

bed-work. Lit., work that can be done in bed; hence, very easy work: coll.: late C. 16–18. Shakespeare, in Troilus and Cressida.

bedad! An Anglo-Irish coll. asseveration: 1710, Swift; 1848, Thackeray, "Bedad it's him," said Mrs. O'Dowd,' O.E.D. Lit., by dad or (cf. begad, q.v.) by God.

bedaubed all over with lace. A 'vulgar saying of any one dressed in clothes richly laced', Grose, 1st ed.: mid-C. 18—mid-19.

bedder. A college servant: Cambridge University; from ca. 1870.—2. A bed-room: Oxford University (1897); ob. O.E.D. (Sup.). Cf. bed-sitter, q.v. Also, in C. 20, at certain Public Schools: witness Desmond Coke, The House Prefect, 1908.

Bedford go. A rich chuckle: taverns': ca. 1835–60. Ex Paul Bedford, the actor. Ware.

Bedfordshire. Bed: C. 17–20, ob.; coll. Middleton, 1608, 'You come rather out of Bedfordshire; we cannot lie quiet in our beds for you'; Cotton; Swift; Hood E. V. Lucas, 1927.

(Apperson.) Cf. blanket fair, cloth market, land of nod, sheet alley. These simple witticisms (cf. Gutter Lane) are mostly old.

Bedlam, like. Confused, noisy, unreasonable, all to a 'mad' extent: coll.; late C. 18–20. Ex the famous London lunatic asylum.

bee, put on the; v.t., put the bee on. To ask for a loan or a gift of money: c.: from ca. 1930. James Curtis, The Gilt Kid, 1936. For semantics, cf. the corresponding v., sting.

bee aitch. See b.h.

bee fool. A b— fool (see b.f.): 1926, Galsworthy, The Silver Spoon.

bee in a treacle-pot. See busy as . . .

bee in one's or the head or bonnet, have a. To have queer ideas, be eccentric: C. 17–20; adumbrated in 1553 (Apperson); ob. Have an obsession: C. 20. A variant: one's head is full of bees, C. 16–20: this, however, also = one is (very) 'anxious' or 'restless' (Heywood; Franklin, 1745); † by 1900. Apperson.

bee-line, make or take a. To go direct: coll.; orig. (— 1830) U.S.; anglicised ca. 1870; in C. 20, S.E.

beebec. See bebec.

Beecham's (pills). Bills, placards, etc., showing that one is an ex-soldier: tramps' c. (— 1935). Rhyming s. on bills.

beef. Human flesh, as in put on beef, put on weight: from ca. 1860. Coll.—2. Hence, in pejorative address, e.g. you great beef, you!: coll.: late C. 19–20; ob.—3. Strength; effort: nautical (— 1863): whence beef up!, try harder,—also coll.—4. The male member: C. 19–20; ob.—5. Cat's meat: Clare Market, London: ca. 1870–1900. Ware.—6. A shout; a yell: theatrical: from ca. 1880; ob. Ware suggests, as genesis: bull—bellow—beef. Cf., however, beef!, q.v.—7. See beefs.

beef, v.t. To shout, yell: theatrical: from ca. 1880; ob. Ware. Cf. beef, n., 6, and beef!—2. Hence, v.i., to 'grouse': military: C. 20. Manchon.—3. V.t. To hit, punch: low: C. 20. (A. Hyder, Black Girl, White Lady, 1934).—4. See beef it.

beef! Stop thief: c. >, by 1870, low s.: ca. 1810–1910. Vaux, 1812. (See esp. Grose, P.)

beef, be dressed like Christmas. Dressed in one's best: from ca. 1870; ob. Ex a butcher's shop on Christmas Eve.

beef, be in a man's. To wound him with a sword: late C. 18—early 19. Grose, 1st ed. Cf.:

beef, be in a woman's. To have intercourse with a woman: late C. 18—mid-19 (Grose, 2nd ed.). Contrast preceding entry and cf. do or have a bit of beef, take in beef, low for women in coitu: C. 19–20.

beef or hot beef, cry or give. To set up a hue and cry: c.: C. 18–20, ob. Grose, 1st ed. Occ. whiddle beef.

beef, dressed like Christmas. Clad in one's best: proletarian: from ca. 1860.

beef, make. To decamp: C. 19 c. Cf. amputate, q.v., and beef, cry.

beef!, more. Work harder: nautical coll.: mid-C. 19–20. Cf. beef up!

beef, take in. See beef, be in a woman's.

beef, whiddle. See beef, cry.

beef a bravo. To lead the applause: music-halls': from ca. 1880; ob. Ware. Ex beef, v.: q.v.

beef à-la-mode. Stewed beef: commercial London (— 1909); ob. by 1915, † by 1920. Ware.

beef-boat. See beef-trip.

beef-brained. Dull-witted: C. 17, coll. Felt-ham, 1627. Cf. beef-witted.

beef-head. A blockhead: coll., C. 18-early 19. Unrecorded before 1775. Whence beef-headed (- 1864): H., 3rd ed.

beef-heart. (Gen. pl.) A bean: low: late C. 19-20. B. & P. Rhyming on fart: ex the effect of (peas and) beans.

beef into it, put some. (Gen., imperative.) To try or work hard: coll.: C. 20. Cf. more beef! and beef up!, q.v.

beef (it), v. To eat heartily: C. 19 coll.; orig. dial., then East End Cockney.

beef it out. To declaim vociferously: Australian (- 1916). C. J. Dennis.

beef one's way (through). To force one's way (through): Rugby football coll.: C. 20.

beef-stick. The bone in a joint of beef: military: ca. 1870-1910.

beef-trip; beef-boat. 'The service of supplying the Fleet with food'; the ships therein engaged: naval coll.: G.W. Bowen.

beef to the heels (or, in C. 20, knees), like a Mullingar heifer. (Of a man) stalwart, (of a woman) 'fine': mostly Anglo-Irish: mid-C. 19-20.

beef-tugging. 'Eating cook-shop meat, not too tender, at lunch-time', Ware: City of London, mostly clerks' (- 1909); ob.

beef up. See beef, n., 3.

beef up! Pull especially hard!, 'put some beef into it': nautical (- 1903).

beef-witted. Doltish: coll. verging on S.E.: late C. 16-20; ob. (Cf. beef-brained.) As in Shakespeare's Troilus and Cressida. Whence beef-wittedness (- 1863).

Beefeaters. The Yeomen of the Guard: from ca. 1670. Also of the Warders of the Tower of London: C. 18-20. Coll. ex S.E. beef-eater, a well-fed servant.

beefiness. Solid physique: coll., orig. (- 1859) at Oxford.

beefment, on the. On the alert: c. (- 1903). F. & H. Cf. beef!, q.v.

beefs. Ordinary Shares in the Eastman Company: Stock Exchange (- 1895). A. J. Wilson, Stock Exchange Glossary.

beefy. Thick, esp. of hands or ankles (- 1859); obese, fleshy (- 1860); stolid (1859): coll., all three senses.—2. Lucky (- 1874). H., 5th ed.

Beelzebub's Paradise. Hell: C. 19-20 literary coll.; ob. Ex St. Matthew x. 25 and xii. 27 (F. & H.). Heywood, in his Proverbs, 1546, had used Beelzebub's bower.

been. Sol. for has (or have) been; was, were; went. C. 17-20.—2. See bene.

been and (done). A tautological elaboration, indicative of surprise or annoyance, of the second participle: illiterate coll.: 1837, Dickens, 'See what you've been and done,' O.E.D. Cf.:

been and gone and done it, I (etc. have or he (etc.) has). A jocularly coll. emphasised form of I have (etc.) done it, with esp. reference to marriage. C. 20. Ware. Ex illiterate speech (gorn and done it or as in preceding entry): cf. P. G. Wodehouse, Tales of St. Austin's, 1903, 'Captain Kettle had, in the expressive language of the man in the street, been and gone and done it.' This elaboration is peculiarly reminiscent of veni, vidi, vici, which is a rhetorical amplification of vici.

been in the sun. Drunk. Variant been standing too long in the sun; cf. have the sun in one's eyes, be tipsy. Of these the first is C. 18-20 and recorded in Grose, the other two are C. 19-20.

been there. (Of women) having sexual experience: C. 19-20. (Of men) experienced; shrewd: anglicised ca. 1900 ex (- 1888) U.S. Both senses are coll., and rare except when preceded by has or have.

beenship. See beneship.

Beer. See Ack.—2. See:

Beer. Burton-on-Trent: railwaymen's: from ca. 1920. The Daily Herald, Aug. 5, 1936. So much beer is brewed there.

beer, v. To drink beer; to become intoxicated: coll.; ca. 1780-1850, as in Peter Pindar.

beer, do a. To take a drink of beer: coll. (- 1880). See do a beer, a bitter.

beer, in. Drunk: C. 19-20. A coll. that, ca. 1880, > S.E. Cf. in liquor.

beer, on the. On a bout of drinking: lower-class coll. (- 1909). Ware. More gen., on the booze.

beer, small, n. and adj. (Something) unimportant, trifling: C. 17-20, coll. Shakespeare in Othello: 'To suckle fools, and chronicle small beer'. Hence think no small beer of oneself, have a good opinion of oneself, as in De Quincey (? earliest record), 1840.

Beer and Bible Association. Licensed victualers' leaders ('many of whom were strong High Churchmen', Dawson) and Conservatives leagued to resist a measure introduced by moderate Liberals in 1873. The Morning Advertiser, earlier known as The Gin and Gospel Gazette (it artfully backed beer as well as the Bible), was thereupon called The Beer and Bible Gazette. The B. and B. terms were ob. by 1882.

beer and skittles, not all. Not wholly pleasant: coll. from ca. 1860; by 1930 almost S.E.

beer-barrel. The human body: C. 19-20, coll.; ob. Cf. bacon and:

beer-bottle. 'A stout, red-faced man': London streets' (- 1909); ob. Ware.

beer-drink. A gathering of aborigines to drink 'Kaffir beer': South African coll.: from the 1890's. Pettman.

beer-eater. A mighty drinker of beer: 1887, The Referee, Aug. 21; ob., except in the Army. Ware.

beer o(h). A c.p. cry among artisans exacting a fine for some breach or omission: ca. 1850-1900. Ware.

beer-slinger. A drinker, esp. if frequent, of beer: from ca. 1870.

Beer Street (or beer street). The throat: low (- 1909); ob. Cf. Gutter Lane.

beerage. See beeroocracy. (Ca. 1880-1900.)

beeriness. Near-intoxication: coll. from ca. 1865. Ex S.E. beery (1859: H., 1st ed.).

beeroocracy. Brewers and publicans: coined in either 1880 or 1881. This might be described as pedantic coll.; the likewise coll. beerage, which, esp. as beverage and peerage, was much neater and much more viable, had app. > † by 1909 if not, indeed, by 1900 (Ware's testimony being ambiguous).

beery buff. A fool: rhyming s. on muff: C. 20.

Bees (the B.). The Brentford 'soccer' team: sporting: C. 20.—2. bees. See be in...

bees and honey. Money: rhyming s.: from not later than 1892. E.D.D.

bees, his head is full of. To be very anxious, fanciful, restless: coll.: ca. 1540-1850. Apperson.

bee's knee, not as big as a. Very small; gen.

applied to a tiny piece of anything: late C. 18–20: coll. (ob.) and dial. verging on S.E. Locker-Lampson, 1896. Apperson.

bee's knees, the. The acme of perfection, beauty, attractiveness, skill, desirability, etc.: from ca. 1930. Only this year (1936) I heard a girl described as 'a screamer, a smasher, a—oh! the bee's knees'. Cf. the cat's pyjamas.

bees-wax. Soft, inferior cheese: c. or low s.: Moncrieff, in Tom and Jerry, 1821; ob.—2. Whence (?), a bore: gen. as old bees-wax: ca. 1850–1900.

bees-waxers. Football-boots: Winchester College, from ca. 1840.

bees-wing, old. A nickname for a genial drinker: from ca. 1870; gen. in address. Ex the film in long-kept port wine.

beestie. See bheestie.

beetle, as deaf or dull or dumb as a. Extremely deaf, dull, or dumb: coll. verging on S.E.: resp. C. 18–19, C. 16–17, and C. 17–18. This may refer to the implement, not the insect.

beetle-case. A large boot or shoe: ca. 1850–1900.

beetle-crusher. A large, esp. if flat, foot: from ca. 1840 and popularised by Leech in Punch. In this sense, no longer gen. after 1880, beetle-squasher was an occ. variant.—2. A large boot or shoe (— 1869): in G.W. an Army boot. 'The blue-jacket's name for a Marine's boots, never his own', Bowen.—3. (Military) an infantryman: from ca. 1885; cf. the more usual mud-crusher.

beetle-crushing. Solid of tread: coll., from ca. 1870. Anon., Anteros, 1871.

beetle off. To fly straight in departure: Air Force: 1915. F. & Gibbons, 'As a beetle flies'. Since the War, beetle about, to wander about actively, as frequently in John Brandon's The One-Minute Murder, 1934, and beetle off, to depart, as in Denis Mackail's Summer Leaves, 1934.

beetle-squasher. See beetle-crusher.

beetle-sticker. An entomologist: from ca. 1870; perhaps coll. rather than s., H., 5th ed.

beetles. Colorado mine stocks: Stock Exchange (— 1887).

beetle's (or beetles') blood. Stout (the drink): Anglo-Irish (— 1935). Ex the colour and the consistency.

beetroot mug. A red face: London streets': ca. 1870–1915. Prob. coined by Charles Ross, that creator of Ally Sloper, who was 'a humorist of the more popular kind' (Ware).

beezer. A nose: from late 1920's; ? orig. U.S. C.O.D., 1934 Sup. Perhaps ex boco + sneezer.

before for until is catachrestic: throughout Mod. E.

before the wind. Well-placed, prospering, fortunate: coll.: from ca. 1840; orig. nautical.

before you bought your shovel! A tailors' c.p. implying that something has been done, or thought of, before: C. 20. Cf.:

before you came (or come) up! See came up . . . Elaborations were 'fore you listed, before you had a regimental number or your number was dry (or up) or you knew what a button-stick was or you was breeched or you nipped, also before your bollocks dropped or you lost the cradle-marks off your arse; or when your mother was cutting bread on you or while you were clapping your hands at Charlie (Chaplin) or when you were off to school (with tags); or I was cutting barbed wire while you was or were cutting your teeth. B. & P. The prototype is the proverbial saying (Fuller, 1732), your mamma's milk is scarce out of your nose yet: Apperson. There is also a Shakespearian anticipation: see at nails on one's toes.

beforehand with the world. Having a reserve of money: from ca. 1640; coll.; in C. 19 S.E.; C. 20, archaic.

beg (a person) for a fool, an idiot or an innocent. To consider, set down as a fool; from ca. 1580: coll. >, ca. 1700, S.E.; in C. 19–20, archaic. (O.E.D.)

begad! An exclamation, gen. in support: coll.: 1742, Fielding (O.E.D.). Ex by God!

begarra! An occ. variant of begorra(h)!, q.v.

beggar. A euphemism for bugger: whether n. or v. E.g. in I'll be beggared if . . ., I swear I won't . . . : C. 19–20.—2. (N. only.) Playfully coll.: from ca. 1830; cf. scamp.—3. A man, chap, fellow: from ca. 1850.

beggar boy's ass. Bass (the drink): rhyming s.: late C. 19–20. P. P., Rhyming Slang, 1932. Often abbr. to beggar boy's. (There is a curious connexion between P.P.'s volume of rhyming s. and that dict. which had been published only the year before: J. Phillips's Dict. of Rhyming Slang.)

beggar on the gentleman, put the. To drink beer after spirits: mid-C. 19–20, ob. H., 5th ed. A variant of churl (up) on the gentleman.

beggar-maker. A publican: late C. 18—early 19, coll. Grose, 1st ed., where also beggar-makers, an ale-house: an entry that should, I think, read beggar-maker, etc., for the singular is all that is necessary.

beggared if. See beggar, 1.

beggarly. Mere: coll.; C. 19–20. E.g. 'He gave the rescuer a beggarly five.'

beggars. Cards of denomination 2 to 10: coll., C. 19–20; ob.

beggar's benison. 'May your prick and (your) purse never fail you': low: C. 18—early 19. Grose, 1st ed. Cf. best in Christendom, both ends of the busk, and the sailor's farewell, qq.v.

beggars' bolts or bullets. Stones: coll., resp. late C. 16–17, late C. 18—early 19 (as in Grose, 1st ed.).

beggar's brown. Scotch snuff: coll.: C. 19–20; ob. Orig. and mainly Scottish. It is light brown in colour.

beggar's bush, go (home) by. To be ruined: late C. 16–19; in 1564, Bullein has a rare variant, thus: 'In the ende thei go home . . . by weepyng cross, by beggars barne, and by knave's acre,' Apperson. Beggars have always, in summer, slept under trees and bushes; in winter, if possible, they naturally seek a barn.

beggar's plush. Corduroy or perhaps cotton velvet: late C. 17–18 coll. The London Gazette, 1688.

beggar's velvet. Downy matter accumulating under furniture: C. 19–20, ob.; coll. Cf. sluts' wool.

begin to, not to. 'Not to (do something)' emphasised; to be in no way; fall short of being or doing: coll.: U.S. (1842: Thornton), anglicised ca. 1860. E.g. an ill-disposed person might say, 'This does not begin to be a dictionary.'

begin (upon). To attack, either physically or verbally: coll.: ca. 1825, Mrs. Sherwood, 'All the company began upon her, and bade her mind her own affairs.'

begorra(h)! By God: Anglo-Irish coll.: C. 19–20. By corruption. Cf. be jabbers!

[begun (in the preterite). Began: sol., in gen. opinion. This begun, though objectionable, is not strictly incorrect.]

behalf of, on. In behalf of, i.e. in the interest of: catachrestic: late C. 18–20. As the O.E.D. remarks, 'to the loss of an important distinction'; see also Fowler.

behave oneself. To behave with propriety: coll.: mid-C. 19–20. (O.E.D.)

Behemoths, the. The 3rd Battle Squadron of the Grand Fleet: naval coll.: 1914–18. F. & Gibbons. Orig. it comprised eight battleships of the King Edward VII Class. Cf. Wobbly Eight.

behind. The posterior; the rear part of a garment. The first record is of 1786. The O.E.D. and the S.O.D. designate it as coll. and low: in 1933, however, was it not on the borderline between coll. and S.E., and nearer the latter? Certainly it was no longer low: it lost that stigma ca. 1930. See Slang.—2. At Eton and Winchester Colleges, ca. 1850–1914, a back at 'soccer': coll. > j.

behind chests. 'Dark nooks on the orlop deck': The Conway: from ca. 1875. Masefield's history of that training-ship.

behind oneself, be. To be late, a long way behind, far from 'up to the minute': non-aristocratic coll.: 1896; slightly ob. Ware.

behindativeness, have (e.g. a deal of). To have a (big) dress-pannier: Society: 1888–ca. 1905. Ware.

behave. Incorrect for behove: ca. 1470–1550. Malory. (O.E.D.)

Beilby's ball (where the sheriff plays the music is added in Grose, 3rd ed.), dance at. To be hanged: late C. 18–early 19: prob. orig. c. Grose, 1st ed. It is not known who Mr. Beilby was; perhaps a notable London sheriff. But Beilby's is more prob. a personified and punning perversion of bilboes, fetters; F. & H. infers that it implied an Old Bailey hanging.

bejan, occ. baijan. A freshman at the Universities of Edinburgh (where † by 1880), Aberdeen, St. Andrew's. From ca. 1640: s. only in C. 17, then j. Ex the bec jaune of the Sorbonne, where the term was certainly s.

bekos. A variant of becos, q.v.

bel-shangle. (Perhaps) a buffoon: prob. c.: late C. 16–early 17. Kemp, 1600. ? bell-jangler.

belay. To speak, esp. if vigorously: nautical: from ca. 1790; ob. Dibdin, 'My timbers! what lingo he'd coil and belay.' (O.E.D.).—2. To stop, gen. belay that yarn!, we've had enough of that story: nautical (— 1823). Egan's Grose; Smyth. Cf.:

belay there! Stop! Nautical: from ca. 1860. Cf.:

belaying-pin soup. Rough treatment of scamen by officers, esp. in sailing-ships: nautical: late C. 19–20; ob. Bowen.

belch. Beer, esp. if inferior and therefore apt to cause belching: from ca. 1690; ob. B.E. One recalls Sir Toby Belch, a jolly blade, but he, I surmise, avoided poor beer. Cf. swipes.

belch, v.i. To eructate: C. 11–20: S.E. until mid-C. 19, then a vulgarism.

belcher. A blue handkerchief white- or, occ., yellow-spotted (Lex. Bal., 1811); from ca. 1860, loosely, a handkerchief of any base with spots of another colour. Soon > coll., and from ca. 1875 it has been S.E. Ex the boxer Jim Belcher (d. 1811).—2. A (gen. hard) drinker of beer: C. Hindley, 1876, but prob. in use at least twenty years earlier: circus and showmen's s., which is nearer c. than to s.—3. A thick ring: 1851, Mayhew; ob. o.

belfry, the. The head: see bats in the belfry.

Belgeek. A Belgian: military coll.: late 1914–18. F. & Gibbons. Ex Fr. Belgique, Belgium.

Belgians! give it to the. C.p. advice to a man complaining about his food or clothing or inquiring what to do with some superfluity: New Zealand soldiers': 1916–18.

Belial. Balliol College: Oxford, ea. 1870–1914.

believe, you wouldn't. You would not, or you would hardly, believe it: low coll.: mid-C. 19–20. Dorothy Sayers, Murder Must Advertise, 1932, 'The edges of the steps get that polished you wouldn't believe.'

believe you, I. Yes! Coll. (— 1835, when employed by Dickens); ob. Cf. the much later c.p., I believe you, my boy!, q.v.

bell. A song: C. 19 tramps' c. (— 1859). H. 1st ed. Abbr. bellow.

bell, v. To run away with (a marble): school-boys', ea. 1850–1910.

bell, ring one's own. To blow one's own trumpet: coll. verging on S.E.: C. 19–20; ob. Cf. who pulled your chain?, q.v. at chain.

bell, ring the. To win (v.i.), be the best: coll.: 1928 (O.E.D. Sup.). Either ex a weight-testing machine (O.E.D.) or ex the bell rung by a shot hitting the bull's-eye at a shooting-gallery.

bell, sound as a. In excellent health, of unimpaired physique: coll., C. 19–20.

bell-bastard. The bastard child of a bastard mother: C. 19 West Country. Why the bell? Cf. bastardly gullion.

bell, book and candle. Jocular coll. for the accessories of a religious ceremony: C. 19–20; coll. > S.E. Ex a medieval form of excommunication, these nn. occurring in the final sentence.

bells go rotten. See rotten, bells go.

bell-rope. A man's curl in front of the ear; cf. aggravator. Punning bell and bells. Low (— 1868); ob.

bell-shangle. See bel-shangle.

bell the cat. To undertake something dangerous: from ca. 1720, coll.; S.E. by 1800.

bell-tongue. See bel-tong.

bell-top. A membrum virile unusually large-headed; gen. as adj., bell-topped, occ. -knobbed. C. 19 (?–C. 20). F. & H. designate it as 'harlotry'.

bell-topper. A silk hat: W. Kelly, Life in Victoria (Australia, 1859); G. A. Sala, 1885: coll. by 1900.

bell-wether. Leader of a mob: C. 15–20; coll. >, by 1750, S.E. Ex 'a flock of sheep, where the wether has a bell about its neck', Grose.—2. 'A clamorous noisy man', B.E.: s. in C. 17–early 19, coll. in C. 15–16.

beller-croaker. Ravishingly beautiful: non-educated: ca. 1860–85. A corruption of Fr. belle à croquer, which 'lasted into 1883, in English Society', Ware.

bellerer cake. 'Cake in which the plums are so far apart that they have to beller (bellow) when they wish to converse', Ware: schools' (— 1909); ob.

bellers. See bellows.

bellibone. A smartly dressed girl: low (— 1923). Manchon derives it ex Fr. belle et bonne.

bellied. Stuck fast: Tank Corps coll., applied to a tank under-caught by, e.g., a tree-stump: 1917–18. F. & Gibbons.

bellower. A town crier: late C. 18–early 19. Grose, 2nd ed.

bellows; illiterately, bellers. The lungs. Recorded for 1615, but that was a fig. use; as s., C. 18-20. Cf.:

bellows away!; bellows him well! An adjuration to a boxer not to spare his opponent, i.e. to make him pant for wind: boxing: ca. 1820-70. 'Jon Bee', 1823.

bellows to mend, have. (Of a horse) to be broken-winded; hence, of a man: mid-C. 19-20. 'Cuthbert Bede' in Verdant Green.

bellowsed. Transported as a convict: ca. 1820-60. Cf. (to) lag, q.v.

belly. A blow in 'the wind': boxing, from ca. 1810; ob.—Hence, 2, a sentence of transportation for life: c. of ca. 1810-60. Lex. Bal., 1811; Vaux, knap (i.e. nap) a bellowser.

bellows down. The last peal of chapel-warning: Winchester College, ca. 1840-1900. Bells go single was the second of the warning-noticees. See the works of Mansfield and Adams.

belly, his eye was bigger than his. 'A saying of a person at table, who takes more on his plate than he can eat', Grose, 2nd ed.: mid-C. 18-mid-19.

belly-ache. A pain in the bowels. Since ca. 1840 it has been considered both coll. and low, but orig. (— 1552), and until ca. 1800, it was S.E.

belly-ache, v. Grumble, complain, esp. querulously or unreasonably: ex U.S. (— 1881), anglicised ca. 1900: coll., somewhat low.

belly and wipe my eyes with it, I could take up the slack of my. I am very hungry: a nautical c.p. frequent on ships where rations are inadequate: late C. 19-20.

belly-band. A cholera belt: military: from 1915. F. & Gibbons.

belly-bound. Costive: coll.: from ca. 1660 and gen. of horses.

belly-bumper or -buster, get a. To be got with child; whence belly-bump, to coit. Low: C. 19-20.

belly-can. A tin vessel that, shaped like a saddle, is easily secreted about the body: used for the illicit conveyance of beer and holding about four quarts: political, 1889 +, but ob. by 1900.

belly-cheat. An apron: ca. 1600-1830: c. or low s. Compounds with cheat, earlier chete, a thing, an article, are all either low s. or e.—2. Also: food: c.: C. 17. Fletcher, 1622.—3. (Cf. sense 1.) A pad designed to produce a semblance of pregnancy: e. (— 1823); † by 1900. 'Jon Bee.'

belly-cheer. Food: late C. 16-early 19; slightly earlier (— 1549), gratification of the belly. V., to feast heartily or luxuriously: C. 16-17. Orig. these terms were S.E., but in the later C. 17 the v., in C. 18-19 the n., were coll. The vbl.n., belly-cheering, meant eating and drinking: C. 18-19 coll.

belly-flop, do a. See the next.—2. To drop down as a shell approaches: military: 1916; ob. B. & P.

belly-flopping. Sectional rushes by attacking troops advancing at the crouch and flopping down at intervals: military coll.: 1916-18. F. & Gibbons.

belly-friend. A hanger-on: C. 17-18, coll. verging on S.E.

belly-full, bellyful. A thrashing: late C. 16-19; c.g. in Nashe, Chapman, Pepys. In the sense of a sufficiency, the word has, since ca. 1840, > coll. simply because it is considered coarse.—(Of a woman) have a— or have got her—bellyful, to be with child: low: late C. 18-mid-19. Grose, 3rd ed.

belly-furniture. Food: C. 17 coll., as in Urquhart's Rabelais; cf. belly-timber.

belly-go-firster. (Boxing) an initial blow, given—as such a blow was once so often given—in the belly. C. 19. 'Jon Bee', 1823.

belly-gut. A greedy, lazy person; gen. of a man: coll.: C. 16-18.

belly-hedge. (Shrewsbury School) a steeplechase obstruction belly-high and therefore easily jumped: from ca. 1850.

belly-paunch. A glutton: mid-C. 16-17, coll. verging on S.E.; cf. belly-gut.

belly-piece. A concubine, a mistress, a harlot: coll.: C. 17.—2. Also, an apron (cf. belly-cheat): late C. 17-18; coll. It occurs in that lively, slangy play, Shadwell's Bury Fair.

belly-plea. An excuse of pregnancy, esp. among female prisoners. C. 18-early 19, coll. Defoe, in Moll Flanders, 1721: 'My mother pleaded her belly, and being found quick with child, she was respited for about seven months'; Gay, in The Beggar's Opera; Grose.

belly-ruffian. The penis: ? C. 17-19: low (? coll. rather than s.). F. & H.

belly thinks . . . See throat is cut, my belly thinks my.

belly-timber. Food: from ca. 1600. In C. 17, S.E.; then coll. In C. 19 s.; in C. 20, an archaism. Butler's use tended to make it ludicrous. (O.E.D.)

belly-up, adj. and adv. Of a pregnant woman: C. 17-18, low.

belly-vengeance. Sour beer: C. 19. Since ca. 1870, it is mainly dial. Cf.:

belly-wash. Thin liquor, rinsings: coll.: late C. 19-20. Manchon.

bellyful, fight for a. I.e. 'without stakes, wager, or payment', Bee: pugilistic: mid C. 18-20; very ob.

belong. To 'be rightly a member of (club, coterie, household, grade of society, etc.)': U.S. coll., partly anglicised by 1935. C.O.D., 1934 Sup.

belongings. Goods, possessions: coll., from ca. 1800.—2. Relatives: Dickens, 1852; coll.; ob.

below the belt, adv. and adj. Unfair(ly): from ca. 1870; coll., in C. 20 S.E.

below the waist. Too bad; esp. nothing below the waist, good or shrewd: tailors': C. 20. E.g. The Tailor and Cutter, Nov. 29, 1928.

belsh. Incorrect spelling of belch, n., q.v. B.E. belswagger. A bully; blustering fellow: coll.: Greene, 1592; Dryden, 1680; Grose. † by 1830.—2. A womaniser; a pimp: C. 18. Ash's Dictionary distinguishes by spelling the former bellyswagger, the latter as belswagger.

belt. A hit, blow, punch. 'He caught me an awful belt on the ear.' From ca. 1895. Ex the v.: cf. belting, q.v.

belt, give (a person) the. To dismiss or reject: low: from ca. 1925. James Curtis, The Gilt Kid, 1936.

belter. A harlot: 'old', says F. & H. (revised); but when? She 'punishes' one's purse. Cf. belinker, q.v.

belting. A thrashing, whether punitive or pugilistic: mid-C. 19-20: coll. verging on S.E.—2. A busy period: busmen's: from ca. 1930. The Daily Herald, Aug. 5, 1936. Opp. convalescence, q.v.

belinker, n. and v. A thrashing, to thrash. Coll.: ? C. 19. F. & H. Perhaps a pun on belt, thrash with a belt.

beltong, bell-tongue. Incorrect for biltong: C. 19-20. O.E.D.

bemean (oneself). To lower oneself: sol: mid-C. 17-20. Ex demean + mean. O.E.D.; W. bemused (with beer). In C. 18—mid-19, S.E., as in its originator, Pope; ca. 1860 it > a fashionable phrase and genuinely s.; ob. in C. 20.

ben. A coat, C. 19, ex benjamin; a waistcoat (— 1846), ex benjy. Both ob.—2. (Theatrical) a benefit performance: from ca. 1850. H., 1st ed. Cf. stand ben, to stand treat (— 1823); † by 1900. Bee.—3. In c., a fool: late C. 17–18. B.E., Grose. ? ‘a good fellow’: see bene.—4. A ‘tara-diddle’: Society: ca. 1880–1914. Ware: ben ex Ben ex Ben Tro ex Ben Trovato ex Benjamin Trovato ex se non è vero—è Benjamin (for ben) trovato, if it isn’t true it’s nonetheless felicitous.

ben, adj.; gen. bene; often bien. Good: c.: mid-C. 16—early 19. Ex L. bene, well (adv.), or Fr. bien. Harman, B.E., Grose. Cf. at bene.

ben, stand. See ben, n., 2.

ben- or bene-bowsie. Drunk (esp. with good wine): c.: C. 17–18. Jonson. Ex bene bowse (see bene).

ben cull, C. 19; ben cove, C. 17–18. Both c.: for a friend or a companion. See ben and bene, bene also being found, in same sense, with cove and, less often, cull.

Ben Flake or ben-flake. A steak: thieves’ rhyming s.: from ca. 1855. ‘Ducange Anglicus’, 1st ed. (Rhyming s. may have been invented by criminals.)

Ben Tro and Ben Trovato. See ben, n., 4.

benar. Better. Benat: best. The former in Coles, but prob. both are C. 17–18; c. See bene.

bench-winner. A dog successful at many dog-shows: Society: 1897, The Daily Telegraph, Feb. 11; ob. Ex the exhibits being placed on benches.

bench-points. ‘Classified physical advantages’: London: ca. 1900–15. Ware. Ex show animals. Cf. preceding.

[bencher. A frequenter of public-houses: despite F. & H., it is S.E.]

bend (mid-C. 18–20); bend to (mid-C. 19–20). To drink hard: Scots; ob. Alan Ramsay; lexicographer Jamieson; memoirist Ramsay. O.E.D., ‘Perhaps “to pull, strain” in reference to pulling or straining a bow . . . ; or “to ply, apply oneself to”.’

bend, above one’s. Beyond one’s ability: coll. from ca. 1860; ob. H., 3rd ed. Earlier U.S. (1848, Cooper). Perhaps above one’s bent.

bend, Grecian. The body bent forward in walking: a Society vogue of ca. 1872–80. The term long outlasted the craze and is now but moribund.

bend, on a. A-drinking; on a spree: U.S. (1887) anglicised ca. 1890. Also on the bend; see sense 2 of:

bend, on the. Crooked, underhand: coll. from ca. 1850; ob. Cf. crooked.—2. The same as the preceding entry: 1891, Kipling (O.E.D. Sup.). Prob. ex on a bender: see bender, 4.

bend, round the. See round the bend.

bend of (f) the filbert. A bow, a nod: low London: ca. 1860–1900. Ware. See filbert.

bender. A sixpence: late C. 18–20, ob.: c. >, by 1820, low s. Parker, Life’s Painter of Variegated Characters, 1789; Dickens, 1836; Whyte-Melville, 1869. (Because easily bent.) ‘Ducange Anglicus’, 1857, defines it as a shilling; prob. in error.—2. The arm: C. 19–20, ob.: cf. the C. 17–18 medical use of the term for a flexor muscle.—3. Hence, the elbow: late C. 19–20; ob. Ware.—4. A drinking spree: orig. (1827), U.S.; anglicised ca. 1895. Cf.

bend, on a (q.v.), and Ramsay’s and Tannahill’s bender, a hard drinker. Thornton.—5. In certain Public Schools, a stroke of the cane administered to a boy bending his back: from ca. 1870.—6. General schoolboys’, ca. 1870–1910: ‘the bow-shaped segment of a paper kite’. Blackley, Hay Fever, 1873.—7. A ‘tall’ story: nautical: late C. 19–20. Cf. the next two entries.

bender! I don’t believe it!; as a c.p. tag, I’ll do no such thing: c. (— 1812); † by 1890. Vaux. Cf.:

bender, over the. Exaggerated, untrue; often as an exclamation of incredulity. Cf. over the left (shoulder). C. 19–20, ob.—2. (Of a partridge) before Sept. 1st; (of a pheasant) before Oct. 1st: poachers’ (— 1909). Ware.

bendigo. A rough fur cap: ca. 1845–1900. Ex the Nottingham prize-fighter, Wm. Thompson (1811–89), nom-de-guerre’d Bendigo, whose first challenge dates 1835 and who afterwards turned evangelist: see Weckley’s Romance of Words.

bending. See catch one bending.—2. A severe parade conducted by a N.C.O. to tire out the men: military: from ca. 1920. Also a sweating.

bends, the. Diver’s paralysis or, more accurately, cramp: pearl-fishers’: C. 20.

bene, bien. In c. as n., tongue: C. 16–18, prob. by transference ex the adj.:—2. Good, with benar, better, and benat, best: mid-C. 16—early 19. Variant ben, q.v., and even bien. E.g. ben(e), bowse, booze, etc., excellent liquor.

bene (or bien), on the. Well: expeditiously. As in B.E.’s pike on the bene (there spelt bien), run away quickly. C. of late C. 17–18.

bene darkmans! Good night! Mid-C. 16–18: c. See darkmans; contrast lightmans, q.v.

bene feaker. A counterfeiter of bills: late C. 17–18: c. Bene here = skilful. See feaker.

bene feaker of gybes. A counterfeiter of passes: late C. 17–18: c. B.E. See gybe.

bene, or bien, mort. A fine woman or pretty girl; hence, a hostess. C. 16–18: c. Revived by e.g. Scott. See mort, mot, a woman, a girl.

benedick. Sol. (? for see Fowler) for benedict, a newly married man: C. 17–20.—2. Also, C. 19, sol. for a bachelor.

Benedict, benedict. Any married man: catachrestic: mid-C. 19–20. In New Zealand, contests between married and single men are described as being between bachelors and benedicts. (Properly, a newly married man, esp. if a ‘confirmed’ bachelor.)

beneficence, -ficiency, -ficient. Erroneous for beneficence, -ficiency, -ficient: mid-C. 16–20. O.E.D. benefit. A fine job or a fine time: coll. (— 1933). O.E.D. (Sup.).

benefit, take the. I.e. of the insolvent debtor’s Act: coll. (— 1823); † by 1890. Bee.

ben(e)ship. Profitable: worshipful: mid-C. 16–18 c. Harman.—2. Hence adv., beneshiply, worshipfully: C. 17–18. Ex bene, 2, q.v.

benevolence. ‘Ostentation and fear united, with hopes of retaliation in kind hereafter’, Bee, 1823: Society: ca. 1820–40.

benfeaker. A variant of bene feaker, q.v.

Bengal blanket. The sun; a blue sky: soldiers in India: mid-C. 19–20; very ob. Cf. blue blanket, q.v. (Ware.)

Bengal light. (Gen. pl.) An Indian soldier in France: military: 1915–18. B. & P.

Bengal Tigers. The Seventeenth Foot Regiment, from ca. 1881 the Leicestershires: military, from ca. 1825. Ex 'badge of a royal tiger, granted for services in India from 1804-23', F. & H. They were also, from the facings, called The Lily-Whites.

bengi. An onion: military, from ca. 1860. Perhaps cognate with Somerset benge, to drink to excess; cf. binge.

bengy. See benjy.

benish, occ. bennish. Foolish: late C. 17-18 c. B.E. See ben.

benison, beggar's. See beggar's benison.

benjamin or Benjamin. A coat (from ca. 1815), whence upper benjamin (1817), a greatcoat. Peacock in Nightmare Abbey: 'His heart is seen to beat through his upper Benjamin.' Borrow in Lavengro: 'The coachman . . . with . . . fashionable Benjamin'. The word may have begun as c.; in C. 20, ob. Perhaps, as Brewer suggests, ex the name of a tailor; more prob. on joseph, q.v.—2. At Winchester College, from ca. 1860, a small ruler. I.e. Benjamin small in comparison with Joseph.—3. A husband: Australian pidgin-English (—1870). Chas. H. Allen, A Visit to Queensland, 1870. Morris. Cf. Mary, q.v.

Benjamin Trovato. See ben, n., 4.

benjo. A riotous holiday: nautical: late C. 19-20; ob. Perhaps ex beano + bender, 4; Ware suggests derivation ex buen giorno (? via Lingua Franca).

benjy. A waistcoat: c. > low (—1821); ob. Haggart. Ex benjamin, 1.—2. Hence, a waistcoat-maker: tailors': mid-C. 19-20.—3. Nautical (perhaps ex dial.: see E.D.D.), C. 19: a straw hat, low-crowned and broad-brimmed.

benly, rare adv. Well: c.: ? mid-C. 18-early 19. Baumann. Perhaps abbr. beneshiply.

bennish. See benish.

bens. Tools: workmen's: late C. 19-20. ? ex ben, n., 2, q.v.

benship. See beneship.

bent. Broken (esp. if fig.): C. 20. Either dysphemistic ex such phrases as (e.g. I) bend but do not break or evolutionary ex any bent object, esp. a coin. B. & P.

bent on a splice, be. To be on the look-out for a wife: nautical: from ca. 1860; ob. Smyth. Perhaps punning spliced, married.

beong; occ. beonck. (Costers') a shilling: mid-C. 19-20. H., 1st ed. Ex bianco (lit. white), a silver coin. It. via Lingua Franca. Whence bimp, q.v.

[beray, wrongly bewray. To defile, be foul: C. 16-20, ob. 'Old cant', says F. & H.; it is merely old S.E.]

bereavement lurk. The pretended loss of a wife as a pretext for begging: c. (—1875). Ribton-Turner, Vagrants and Vagrancy. See lurk and contrast dead lurk. O.E.D.

berk. A fool: c.: from ca. 1930. J. Curtis, The Gilt Kid, 1936. By abbr. ex:

Berkeley. The puerum muliebre: C. 20. Abbr. Berkeley Hunt, a cunt.—2. In the pl., and from ca. 1875,—never, obviously, with Hunt—it denotes a woman's breasts; F. & H. adduce Romany berk (or burk), breast, pl. berkia.

Berloo or Baloo. Bailleul: military: G.W.; ob. (B. & P.)

Bermondsey banger. A man prominent in the society of the South London tanneries: Cockney (—1909); † by 1930. Ware, 'He must . . . be prepared . . . to fight at all times for his social belt.'

Bermoothes. See Bermudas.

Bermuda Exiles, the. The Grenadier Guards: ca. 1895-1914. In 189-, a portion of this regiment was, to expiate insubordination, sent to the West Indies. F. & H. revised.

Bermudas, Bermoothes. A London district (cf. Alsatia, q.v.) privileged against arrest: certain alleys and passages contiguous to Drury Lane, near Covent Garden, and north of the Strand: Jonson, The Devil's an Ass (1616): 'Keeps he still your quarter in the Bermudas.' Grose and Ainsworth are almost certainly in error in referring the term to the Mint in Southwark. In C. 17, certain notable debtors fled to the Bermuda Islands, says Nares.

Bermudian. A wet ship: naval coll.: C. 19. Ex 'the Bermudian-built 3-masted schooners in the Napoleonic wars': they 'went through the waves instead of rising to them' (Bowen).

bernard. See barnard.

berry. (Gen. pl.) £1 (note): from ca. 1931. K. G. R. Browne in The Humorist, May 26, 1934. Prob. ex U.S. monetary sense.

berry, get the. (Of an action) to be hissed: theatrical: C. 20. Collinson. Like synonymous get the rasp, it obviously derives ex get the raspberry.

Bert. Albert on the Western Front: military: late 1914-18. F. & Gibbons.

Bertha (bertha); also big Bertha. Nicknames of any one of the long-range German guns that, in the summer of 1917, shelled the back areas on the Western Front and, in 1918, Paris: mid-1917-18: military > gen. In Ger., die dicke Bertha. Ex Bertha Krupp of Essen. W.; B. & P.

Berthas. Ordinary stock of the London, Brighton and South Coast Railway Company: Stock Exchange from ca. 1885. The Rialto, March 23, 1889.

Berwicks. The ordinary stock of the North Eastern Railway: Stock Exchange (—1890).

beside the lighter. In a bad condition: late C. 17-18. B.E. Perhaps the lighter going out to a ship proceeding to the convict plantations. Cf. book, beside the.

besognio. A low, worthless fellow: coll.: ca. 1620-1840. Pronounced and often spelt besonio. Ex It. bisogna via S.E. beso(g)nio, a raw soldier.

besom, jump the. To go through a mock marriage: ca. 1700-1820. Manchon implies its survival into C. 20. Cf. broomstick (jump the), q.v. bespattered. A coll. euphemism, ca. 1918-30, of bloody. Manchon.

bespeak-night. (Theatrical) a benefit performance: from the mid-1830's; ob. Ex bespeak, to choose, arrange, the actor's friends choosing the play. Often abbr. to bespeak (as in Ware).

bess. A burglar's tool: see betty.—See brown bess (or Bess).

Bess o' Bedlam. An insane beggar: C. 18-early 19. Scott in Kenilworth: 'Why, what Bess of Bedlam is this, would ask to see my lord on such a day as the present?'

best. To worst; get the better of: coll. (—1859), as in H., 1st ed., and in Charles Hindley's best-known book, A Cheap Jack.—2. Hence, to cheat, as in Hindley, 'His game was besting everybody, whether it was for pounds, shillings, or pence,' 1876. Cf. bester, q.v.—3. Hence as in best the pistol, to get away before the pistol is fired: athletics: 1889, The Polytechnic Magazine, July 7.

best, get one's money at the. 'To live by dishonest or fraudulent practices': c. (—1812); † by 1890. Vaux.

*best, give. See give best.

best, not in the. Not in the best of tempers: coll.: from ca. 1890.

best, — of the. Of £1 notes; thus, five of the best, £5: C. 20. Collinson.

best, one of the. A 'good fellow', i.e. a good companion: Society: from ca. 1920.

best bib and tucker, gen. one's, occ. the. (Rarely of children's and only loosely of men's) best clothes: U.S. (1793: O.E.D. Sup.), anglicised in Lancashire dial. ca. 1870, in coll. ca. 1880; ob.

best foot or leg foremost, put one's. To try hard: coll. >, by 1850, S.E.: foot from late C. 16, leg from late C. 15; ob. Apperson.

best in Christendom, to the. A toast very popular ca. 1750–80 (cf. beggar's benison and both ends of the busk, qq.v.). Grose, 1st ed. Sc. cunt.

best leg of three, the. The penis: low: late C. 19–20; ob.

*best mog. The cat-skin or coney fur worn by a bookie's wife when he has been very successful: C. 20 racing c.

best of a bad bargain (etc.). See bargain, best . . .

best of a Charley, the. 'Upsetting a watchman in his box', Egan's Grose: ca. 1820–40.

best part, best thing, etc. The best part, thing, etc.: coll.: late C. 19–20. (R. Knox, 1933, 'He'd been here best part of three weeks.') best the pistol. See best, 3.

*bester. A swindler; a 'smart Aleo' criminally or illicitly: orig. (— 1859), c.; then low. H., 1st ed.; Mayhew. Ex best, q.v.

bestest, adj. Best: sol. (and dial.): C. 19–20. E.D.D. Cf. betterer, q.v.

bestial. 'Beastly', objectionable, disappointing: from ca. 1910; slightly ob. Ernest Raymond, A Family That Was, 1929.

bet I, you. Certainly: ? orig. (ca. 1870) U.S., anglicised ca. 1890.—2. You betcha (or betcher), you bet your (e.g. boots): U.S. phrases anglicised ca. 1905.

bet levels, you devils! A bookmakers' c.p. (— 1932). See Slang, p. 241.

*bet on top. A bogus bet laid, pour encourager les autres, by a pal of the bookie. The bookie's clerk places the bet 'on top', not in the body of the betting book. Often abbr. to on top. C. 20 racing c.

bet you a million to a bit of dirt! A sporting c.p. indicative of 'the betting man's Ultima Thule of confidence', Ware: ca. 1880–1914. Cf. all Lombard Street to a China orange.

bet your boots or life or bottom dollar! Orig. (resp. 1868, 1852, and 1882) U.S.; anglicised ca. 1910, 1880, 1890 resp., largely owing to the writings of Bret Harte and Mark Twain. Thornton; Ware.

betcha, betcher; you betcha (or betcher). See bet, you, 2.

bête noir. A common error (mid-C. 19–20) for bête noire, pet aversion.

beteeshoot. See banchoot.

bethel the city. To refrain from keeping an hospitable table; to eat at chop-houses: C. 18. Ex Bethel, one of the two Sheriffs of London elected in 1680.

*Bethlehemites. Christmas carol-singers: late C. 18–early 19 c. Grose, 3rd ed. Ex Bethlehem, frequent in carols.

betide. To betoken or bode: catachrestic: late C. 18–20. Cowper. (O.E.D.)

Betsy. The inevitable nickname of anyone surnamed Gay: late C. 19–20. Ex the old song. Bowen considers it to have been orig. naval. Cf. Dusty. better. More: a sol. in C. 19–20, though S.E. in C. 16–18. E.g. Dickens, 1857: 'Rather better than twelve years ago.'—2. With had omitted, as in 'You better mind what you say!': coll., orig. (1845) U.S., anglicised ca. 1910. O.E.D. (Sup.).

better half. A wife: coll. from ca. 1570. In C. 16–18, my better half and seriously, in C. 19–20, a, or anyone's, b. h., and jocularly.

better hole or 'ole. See hole, better.

better never than come in rags! I.e. in poverty (see rag, a farthing): a c.p. retort to better late than never: ca. 1820–50. 'Jon Bee.'

better than a dig in the eye with a blunt stick or than a kick in the pants (or up the arse). Better than nothing; by meiosis, very much better than nothing or than a set-back: resp. mid-C. 19–20 (ob.) coll., C. 20 s., and C. 20 low s. Contrast:

better than a drowned policeman. (Of a person) very pleasant, attractive, good or expert: c.p.: ca. 1900–15. (J. B. Priestley, Faraway, 1932.)

betterer. Better: sol.: C. 19–20. Cf. worserer, q.v.

betterish. Somewhat better or superior: coll. (— 1888); verging on S.E.—but ugly!

bettermost. Best: (somewhat low) coll. (— 1887). Baumann.

betting, often corrupted to getting, round. The laying of odds on all the likely horses: from ca. 1860; ob. H., 3rd ed. Whence bettor round, such a better, as in 'Thormanby', Famous Racing Men, 1882.

betting lay, the. Betting on horses: turf (— 1887). Baumann.

betty, occ. bess. A picklock (instrument): mid-C. 17–19. Orig. c.; the form bess († by 1880) remained c. For betty, much the commoner, see Head's English Rogue, Coles, B.E., Ned Ward, Grose, and Henry Mayhew; for bess, B.E. and Grose. Cf. jemmy and jenny, qq.v., and see esp. Grose, P.—2. Also (cf. molly), a man assuming a woman's domestic duties: C. 19–20; coll. Cf. betty, v.—3. Miss, as a title: Bootham School: late C. 19–20. Anon., Dict. of Bootham Slang, 1925.

betty, v. Fuss, or potter, about: coll.: from ca. 1850; slightly ob.

*betty I, all. It's all up! C. 19 c.; opp. it's all bob, see bob. (This kind of pun (Betty and Bob) is not rare in c.)

Betty Martin. See all my eye (and Betty Martin). betwattled. Astounded, bewildered; berayed: late C. 18–early 19. Grose, 1st ed.

between. For a catachrestic usage, common in late C. 19–20, see the quotation at Trades Union.

between hell and high water. See hell and high water, between.

between the flags. On the actual race-course: sporting (— 1865); ob.

between wind and water. See water, between wind and.—between you and me (and . . .). See bed-post.

betwixt and between. Intermediate(ly); indecisive(ly); neither one thing nor the other: adv. and adj. Coll.: from ca. 1830. 'A betwixt and between fashionable street', Marryat. (O.E.D.)

bever; often beaver; occ. bevir, etc. etc. Orig. S.E. and in C. 19–20 mainly dial., but as used at Eton and as bevers at Winchester College for afternoon tea—a sense recorded by B.E.—it is s. See in my Words! the essay entitled 'The Art of Lightning Work'. Ex L. bibere, to drink, in the Old Fr. form, beivre, this is one of the most interesting words in the language. Cf. bivvy and beverage, qq.v.—2. Hence, as v.: C. 17—early 19.

beverage. 'A Garnish money, for any thing', B.E.; Grose adds that it is drink-money—cf. the Fr. pourboire—demanded of any person wearing a new suit; in gen., a tip. Coll.: late C. 17–20; † by ca. 1820, except in dial.

bevie, v.; gen. bevvy. To drink: Parlyaree, esp. among grafters: late C. 19–20. (Philip Allingham, Cheppjack, 1934.) Ex:

bevie, bevry. A public-house: mid-C. 19–20 Parlyaree. Seago, Circus Folk, 1933.—2. Beer; loosely, any drink: military and theatrical: late C. 19–20. F. & Gibbons. Either ex sense 1 or ex beverage.

bevie-homey. A drunken actor: theatrical: C. 20. Ex bevie, 2.—2. Any drunkard: grafters': C. 20. Philip Allingham (bevvy omee).

bevir. See bever.

beware. Any drinkable: low s., from ca. 1840. Mayhew in that mine of Cockney and low s., London Labour and the London Poor, 4 vols., 1851–61, says in vol. iii: 'We [strolling actors] call breakfast, dinner, tea, supper, all of them "numy-are"; and all beer, brandy, water, or soup, are "beware".' Numyare (? a corruption of It. mangiare, to eat) and beware (cf. bever, beverage, and bivvy) are Lingua Franca words employed in Parlyaree, the s. of circuses, showmen, and strolling actors: see Slang, section on the circus.

bewer. A girl: c. (—1845): rare and ob. See No. 747, p. 416. ? Ex. Romany or dial.—2. Hence, a tramp's woman: tramps' c. (—1935).

bewray. Incorrect for beray, to disfigure, befoul: C. 17–20. So beurayer. O.E.D. bexandebs. Easy-going young Jewesses in the Wentworth Street district: East London: late C. 18–20; ob. Ware. Ex Beck (Rebecca) + Deb (Deborah).

beynd. Behind: sol. (—1909). Ware (at bad shilling).

beyond, be (a person). To pass the comprehension of: coll.; from ca. 1800. Jane Austen.

beyond the beyonds. 'The absolute outside edge', 'the limit': Anglo-Irish: from ca. 1910.

bheestie, -y. A water-bearer: from ca. 1780: Anglo-Indian coll. >, by 1850, j. Ex Urdu bhisti, but prob. by a pun on Scots beastie, a little beast. (In C. 18, often spelt beasty; in C. 19 beestie.) Yule & Burnell.

b'hoi. 'A town rowdy; a gay fellow', Thornton: ex U.S. (1846), anglicised—almost wholly in the latter sense—ca. 1865. (Cf. g'hal.) Ex Irish pronunciation. (O.E.D.)

bi-cennoctury. The 200th performance: theatrical catachresis: ca. 1870–1915. Ware.

bianc. A shilling: c. and Parlyaree: late C. 19–20. It. bianco, white.

Bianca Capella. (Gen. pl.) A 'White Chapeller' (cigar): East London: 1886, The Referee, June 6; † by 1920. Cf. Banker Chapel Ho, q.v.

bias, on the. Illicit: dishonourable; dishonest: dressmakers' (—1909). Cf. on the cross (at cross).

bib, nap a or one's. To weep: c. or low s.; late C. 18–20; ob. G. Parker, 1789; Vaux; Egan. Lit., to take one's bib in order to wipe away one's tears.

bib-all-night. A toper: C. 17, coll. (Bib, to tipple.)

bib and tucker, best. See best bib . . .

bibe. A bringer of bad luck: Anglo-Irish (—1935). Corruption of an Irish word.

bible. Nautical: 'a hand-axe; a small holystone [sandstone employed in the cleaning of decks], so called from seamen using them kneeling': Admiral Smyth in his valuable Sailors' Word Book, 1867. C. 18–20; ob. The holystones were also named prayer-books. For nautical s. in gen., see Slang.—2. Lead wrapped round the body by those who 'fly the blue pigeon'; what they stow in their pockets is a testament: c.: late C. 18—mid-19. G. Parker, 1789.—3. ? hence: in mid-C. 19–20 c. (vagrants'), a pedlar's box of pins, needles, laces, etc.

bible, v. Implied in bibler, bibling.

bible, that's. That's true; that's excellent: C. 19–20 (ob.), coll. Cf. S.E. Bible oath.

Bible-banger. A pious, esp. if ranting person: late C. 19–20. Cf. Bible-pounder.

bible-carrier. One who sells songs without singing them: c. (vagrants'): ca. 1850–1915. H., 1st ed.

Bible class, been to a. 'With two black eyes, got in a fight': printers' (—1909). Ware. Prob. suggested by the noise and excitement common at printers' chapels.

Bible-clerk. (Winchester College) a prefect appointed to full power for one week; he reads the lessons in chapel. From ca. 1850: see esp. Mansfield and Adams: coll. soon > j. (In S.E., an Oxford term.)

bible (or B.) leaf. (Gen. pl.) A thin strip of blubber ready for the fry-pot: whalers': coll.: late C. 19–20. Bowen. Ex leaves preserved by being kept in the family Bible.

Bible-mill. A public-house; esp., noisy talking there: London proletarians': ca. 1850–1910. Ware, 'An attack upon Bible classes.'

Bible-pounder. A clergyman, esp. if excitable: coll., C. 19–20. Cf. bible-banger and the next two terms:

Bible-punching. A sermon; religious talk: C. 20. (E.g. in Michael Harrison, Spring in Tartarus, 1935.) Cf.:

Bible-thumper. A pious seaman: nautical coll.: mid-C. 19–20. Bowen. Cf. Bible-banger.

bibler, bibling. Six cuts on the back: the former ca. 1830–60, the latter from ca. 1860. Winchester College: see Adams, Mansfield, and Blackwood's Magazine, 1864, vol. xc. A bibler, later bibling, under nail: a pillory-process before the cuts were administered. The bibling-rod, a handle with four apple-twigs twisted together at the end: invented by Warden Baker in 1454; † by 1890.

bice and a roht or a half. Odds of $2\frac{1}{2}$, i.e. 5 to 2: C. 20 racing c. John Morris.

bid stand, bid-stand, bidstand. A highwayman: coll.: late C. 16–? 18. Ben Jonson. For the philology of highwaymen, see Words!

biddy. A chicken: coll.: late C. 16—early 19; then dial. Occ. chick-a-biddy.—2. A young woman (ex Bridget): C. 18—early 19, as in Grose, 1st ed.—3. Any woman: C. 19, as in O. W. Holmes, Guardian Angel, 1869.—4. At Winchester College, see:

bidet or biddy. A bath. Also, though this is S.E. as bidet, coll. as biddy, defined thus by Grose: 'A kind of tub, contrived for ladies to wash themselves, for which purpose they bestride it like a little French pony or post horse, called in French bidets, as also is this toilet accessory.—2. See:

biddy-biddy; biddybid. The burr named in Maori piripiri: New Zealand coll. (— 1880). By the process of Hobson-Jobson.—2. Hence, gen. as biddy, to rid of burrs: 1880. Morris.

'Bidgee, the. The Murrumbidgee River: Australian coll.: mid-C. 19–20.

bien. See bean, ben and bene.

bienly. Excellently: c.: late C. 18—early 19. Grose, 2nd ed. See bene.

biff. A blow; (? orig. U.S., anglicised) ca. 1895. Prob. an abbr. and emaciated form of buffet (W.). —2. Slightly earlier as v., gen. v.t.: to hit resoundingly, sharply, abruptly, or crisply. E.g., 'I'll biff him one if he's not careful.' Echoic or as in sense 1.—3. Gen. biff round, to go round: from ca. 1930. E.g., Will Scott in The Humorist, 1934.

biffin. An intimate friend: from ca. 1840; virtually †. Ex a kind of apple. Cf. ribstone and pippin, qq.v., and the C. 20 old fruit.

big. Great; important: coll.; from ca. 1570. On the verge of S.E. is this humorous substitute for great as in Shakespeare's 'I Pompey am, Pompey surnam'd the big', O.E.D.

big, go; go over big. See go big.

big, look. To attempt an impressive manner: coll., C. 16–19. E.g. in Shakespeare's Winter's Tale.

big, talk. To boast, talk pretentiously: from ca. 1650; coll. verging on S.E. Smollett, 1771: 'The squire affected . . . to talk big.'

big as bull-beef. See bull-beef, big as.

big-bellied. Far gone in pregnancy: Addison, 1711. Coll.: ob.

Big Ben. The clock in the tower of the Houses of Parliament, Westminster: coll. (— 1869). Ex Sir Benjamin Hall, under whose Commissionership of Works it was constructed in 1856–7.

big Bertha. See Bertha.

big bird, get or give the. To be hissed; to hiss. Theatrical; cf. give the goose and be goosed. From ca. 1860. H., 3rd ed. See goose and bird, n., 5. —2. Ware, however, notes that ca. 1860–1910, the phrase also = 'to be appreciatively hissed for one's performance in the role of villain'.

big bug. An important person: orig. (1830: O.E.D. Sup.) U.S.; anglicised ca. 1880. Prob. ultimately ex C. 18 bug, a person of considerable importance (?).

big country. Open country: hunting coll. (— 1890). F. & H.

big dig. A reprimand made by a C.O.: military coll.: from ca. 1920.

big digger. At cards, the ace of spades (cf. diggers): from ca. 1850; ob.

big dog. A chucker-out: coll.: from ca. 1870. 'He was "big-dog" to a disorderly house', Good Words, June 1884. O.E.D.

big drink. The ocean, esp. the Atlantic: Miss Braddon, 1882. (In U.S., from 1846, the Mississippi.)

big, or long, drink. Liquor from a long glass: C. 19–20, coll.; in C. 20, indeed, almost S.E.

big getter. A 'teller of the tale' in a grand and genteel manner: C. 20 c. 'Stuart Wood', Shades of the Prison House, 1932.

big gun. A person of note: orig. (— 1900) U.S.; anglicised ca. 1910.

big head. The morning-after feeling (— 1880):

coll. Get a or the b.h., to become intoxicated: from ca. 1870.

big, or large, house. The workhouse: among the indigent (— 1851). Mayhew. In the U.S., a prison.

Big Lizzie. H.M.S. Queen Elizabeth: naval: C. 20. Bowen.

big loaf and little loaf. A political c.p. used by Liberals during the fiscal controversy ca. 1906. Collinson.

big mouth. A tale-teller; an informer: low Glasgow (— 1934).

big noise. An important person: from ca. 1907 (in U.S.). Popularised in England in G.W.

big number. (Gen. pl.) A brothel: Parisian Englishmen's: ca. 1820–1910. Ex 'the huge size of the number on the swinging door, never shut, never more than two or three inches open', Ware. Possibly in part, also, a pun on bagnio.

big one or un. A notable person: coll., ca. 1800–50; cf. big gun and pot and wig.

big people. Important people: coll.: from ca. 1855; slightly ob. Trollope.

big pond. The Atlantic: (prob. ex U.S. and anglicised) ca. 1880; cf. big drink.

big pot. A person of consequence; a don: Oxford, ca. 1850–60. Thence, solely the former and in gen. use. Perhaps pot, abbr. potentate. Ware implies that, ca. 1878–82, it had, in the music-halls, the special sense of 'a leader, supreme personage'.

big shot. A gang-leader; a notorious gangster: U.S., anglicised as coll. in C. 20. Prob. on big gun and big noise.

big side. (Rugby and other Public Schools') the bigger boys combining in one game or sport; the ground used therefor. Whence b.-s. run, a paper chase in which all houses take part. C. 19–20; ob.

big smoke (or B.S.), the. See Smoke, Big.

big stuff. Heavy shells: military coll.: late 1914–18, and after. F. & Gibbons.

big talk. Pompous, or sesquipedalian, speech: (— 1874) coll.

big triangle, the. 'The old sailing-ship tramping route—from U.K. to Australia with general cargo, on to the West Coast of S. America with coal from Newcastle, N.S.W., and then home with nitrates': from ca. 1860 (now ob.): nautical coll. >, by 1880, j. big wig. A person of high rank or position or money. It occurs in Ned Ward early in C. 18, but it > gen. only ca. 1840. Whence big-wigged, consequential (Carlyle, 1851), big-wiggery, a display of pompousness or importance (Thackeray, 1848),—and big-wiggism, pomposity, pretentiousness (George Eliot): all three being coll. at first, then soon S.E.—though seldom employed.

big Willie. See Willie.

big word. A word of many syllables or much pretentiousness: coll. (— 1879) rising to S.E. In the pl., pomposity: from ca. 1850; in C. 20 almost S.E., though rarely used.

bigger and better. A jocular coll., as in bigger and better babies: from ca. 1924. Ex the Coué vogue of 1923 with its self-adjurations to grow 'better and stronger', etc.

biggin. A woman's coif: a late C. 17–18 cataphrisis recorded by B.E. Properly a serjeant-at-law's coif (also a night-cap, a hood for the head).

bike. Abbr. bicycle: from ca. 1890. Since G.W., coll. Cf. trike.

bil. A late C. 17–mid-18 c. abbr., recorded by B.E., of bilboa.

bilayutee pawnee. Soda-water: Anglo-Indian coll. (— 1886). See parnee.

bilbo(a). In C. 16–17, S.E.: a sword noted for the excellence of its temper and made orig. at Bilbao in Spain. Hence, in late C. 17–18 (in C. 19, archaic), coll.: the sword of a bully. Congreve in the Old Bachelor: ‘Tell them . . . he must refund—or bilbo’s the word, and slaughter will ensue.’

Bilboy’s ball. See Beilby’s ball. (Grose, 1st ed.)

bile. The pudenda muliebria: so says F. & H., but I suspect that there is a confusion with bite, q.v. —2. A C. 19–20 sol. for boil, n. and v., though for the n. bile was once S.E. bile yer can! A sarcastic c.p. retort: proletarian Glasgow (— 1934).

bilge. Nonsense; empty talk: Public Schools’ (from ca. 1906) >, in 1919, gen. Desmond Coke, The House Prefect, 1908, ‘Let’s go . . . This is awful bilge’; Lyell; R. Blaker, Night-Shift, 1934, referring to 1920, ‘“Bilge” was the polite word, current in those days for the later “tripe”.’ Ex bilge-water.

bilge-cod. Fish served at dinner on Fridays: Conway s.: from ca. 1890. Masfield.

bilge-water. Bad beer: coll.: C. 19–20. Ex the bad water collecting at the bottom of a ship.

bilin’, billing. Boiling: sol. Esp. in the whole bilin’ or biling. See boiling, the whole. Baumann.

bilious. Bad, ‘rotten’, as e.g. ‘in bilious form’: Society: from 1930. (Graham Shepard, Tea-Tray in the Sky, 1934.)

biliously. The corresponding adv.: id.: id. (Ibid.) bilk. A statement or a reply devoid of truth or sense: ca. 1630–1800. Perhaps a thinned form of balk. —2. A hoax, humbug, or imposition (— 1664); ob.—Hence, 3. A swindler or a cheat, as in Sheridan, ‘Johnny W[i]lks, Johnny W[i]lks, thou greatest of bilks’, 1790. Adj., wrong, misleading, senseless: C. 18. Ex cribbage and = balk.

bilk, v. To deceive, cheat; defraud, fail to pay; elude, evade: all these coll. senses (B.E. is prob. wrong in considering the word to be c.) arose in Restoration days and all had > S.E. by 1750. Grose, 1st ed., ‘Bilking a coachman, a box keeper, or a poor whore, was formerly among men of the town thought a gallant action.’ Cf. the n.

bilk the blues. To evade the police: c. or low s.: from ca. 1845; ob.

bilk the schoolmaster. To gain knowledge—esp. by experience—without paying for it: 1821, Moncrieff’s Tom and Jerry: coll.; ob.

bilker. A cheat(er), swindler: s. (1717: O.E.D. Sup.) >, ca. 1800, coll.; now almost S.E. Likewise bilking, vbl.n. (— 1750), was almost S.E. by 1850; bilker is now, except in its abbr. form bilk, rather ob.

Bill. See Billy.

bill. A list of boys due to see the headmaster at noon, as in Brinsley Richards, Seven Years at Eton, 1876; also of those excused from ‘absence’. At Harrow School, names-calling: from ca. 1850. —2. In c., a term of imprisonment: from ca. 1830. Always with long or short. —3. A variant of bil, q.v. (A New Canting Dict., 1725.)

Bill Adams. Euphemistic for *b*r* all, nothing or extremely little: military: G.W. Cf. Fanny Adams. (B. & P.)

bill at sight, pay a. To be, by nature, apt to enter into sexual intercourse: ca. 1820–1910. Egan’s Grose, 1823.

Bill Bailey. A jocular c.p. form of address: ca. 1900–12. Collinson. Cf. would you . . .

bill brighter. A small faggot used for lighting coal fires: from ca. 1840 ex Bill Bright, a servant extant at least as late as 1830: Winchester College (see Mansfield).

Bill Harris. Bilharziasis (or -osis): Australian military: late 1914–16. By ‘Hobson-Jobson’.

bill in the water, hold one with (his). To keep (him) in suspense: ca. 1570–1700. Coll.

Bill Jim; occ. Billjim. An Australian: Australian: from ca. 1912. Ex the frequency of those two hypocoristic forms of William and James.

Bill Massey’s. N.Z. army-boots: New Zealand soldiers’: in G.W. Ex the late Wm. Massey, who was the N.Z. War Minister.

bill on the pump at Aldgate. See Aldgate.

bill of sale. Widow’s mourning clothes, esp. her hat: late C. 17–19 († by 1890) B.E. Cf. house (or tenement) to let.

bill up. To confine (a soldier) to barracks: military coll. (— 1890). Esp. as:

billed up. Confined to barracks: in the Guards’ regiments, ca. 1860–1915.

billor, billing-boy. A boy distributing advertisements (bills): commercial coll. (— 1887). Baumann.

billet. A post, a job: from ca. 1880; coll. In c., get a billet = to get a soft job in prison: late C. 19–20.

billet, every bullet has its. Every bullet must land somewhere, and only those die in battle who are marked by fate for such a death. Coll. from ca. 1695. Wesley in his Journal, June 6, 1765—I quote the O.E.D.—‘He never received one wound. So true is the odd saying of King William, that “every bullet has its billet”.’ The phrase is anticipated by Gascoigne, 1575, ‘Every bullet hath a lighting place’; cf. Smollett’s ‘Every shot has its commission, d’y’e see’ (Apperson). In the G.W. many soldiers pessimistically assumed that the phrase implied a loading of the dice against them.

billiard-block. One who, for ulterior motives, suffers fools and other disagreeables with apparent gladness: Mrs. Gore, Mothers and Daughters, 1831. † Society s.

billiard slum. In Australian c. of ca. 1870–1910, false pretences. Here, slum = trick, dodge, game. Go on the b.s., to practise such trickery. Ex:—give it (to) ’em on the billiard slum, to impose on them with that swindle which is termed a ‘mace’ (q.v.): c. of ca. 1810–70. Vaux, 1812.

billicock. See billycock.

billioo !, go to. Go to blazes!: New Zealanders’ (— 1935). Cf. billy-o.

billikin. A small tin can used as a kettle: coll.: 1926 (O.E.D. Sup.). Ex billy-can.

billing-boy. See billor.

Billingsgate. Foul language; vituperation: Commonwealth period; coll. > S.E. by 1800. Gayton, 1654, ‘Most bitter Billingsgate rhetoric’ (Apperson). The language used at the Billingsgate fish-market was certainly ‘strong’. See esp. O.E.D. and F. & H.—2. Whence, a person foul-mouthed or vituperative: ca. 1680–1830.

Billingsgate (it). To talk coarsely; to vituperate (a person): (— 1678) coll.; † by 1850. In C. 19–20, talk Billingsgate, also coll.

Billingsgate fish-fag, no better than a. Rude; uncouth: C. 19–20 coll.; ob.

Billingsgate pheasant. A red herring: from ca. 1830; ob. Cf. Atlantic ranger.

Billio. See billy-o.—Billjim. See Bill Jim.

Bill(y). Shakespear; esp. spout Bill(y): (low) coll. (— 1887). Baumann. Ex William Shakespeare.—2. (Billy.) Abbr. silly Billy: coll.: late C. 19–20.

billy. A silk pocket-handkerchief: ca. 1820–1900: c. (Scottish says 'Ducange Anglicus', citing Brandon, 1839) or low. Other C. 19 styles and fancies in handkerchiefs—several of the terms survive—were the belcher, bird's-eye wipe, blood-red fancy, blue billy, cream fancy, king's man, Randal's man, Water's man, yellow fancy, yellow man: qq.v.—2. A truncheon (— 1874). H., 5th ed. Ex U.S.—3. In Australia and derivatively, but less, in New Zealand, the can that serves the bushman as both kettle and tea-pot: s. (ca. 1850) >, by 1880, coll.; billy-can (— 1892) is rarer and more urban than a rural term. Morris.—4. In c., billy is stolen metal: mid-C. 19–20. Implied in H., 1st ed. Cf. billy-hunting.—5. The removal or shifting of a marble: schoolboys': late C. 19–20.—6. Abbr. billycock (hat): coll. (— 1887). Baumann.—7. Abbr. billy-goat: coll.: C. 20.—8. See billy with, play.

Billy, Our. The Duke of Clarence, son of George IV: ca. 1820–40. The Creevey Papers.

billy (or B.), whistling. A locomotive: coll.: late C. 19–20. Manchon. Cf. puffing billy, q.v.

Billy Barlow. A street clown, a mountebank: from ca. 1840; † by 1920. Ex an actual character, the hero of a slang song. Such a clown is also called a Jim Crow (by rhyming s. with saltimbanco) or a saltimbanco.

Billy Blue. Admiral Cornwallis (1744–1819): naval nickname: late C. 18–early 19. He 'always kept the Blue Peter flying when weather drove him to shelter from the blockade of Brest' (Bowen) in 1795. 'His various nicknames among the sailors, "Billy go tight", given on account of his rubicund complexion, "Billy Blue", "Coachee", and "Mr. Whip", seem to show that he was regarded with more of affection than reverence' (Encyclopædia Britannica).—2. Unless the usually dependable Dawson errs, also Lord Admiral St. Vincent (1735–1823): from ca. 1790; long †.

Billy Bluegum. A native bear (coala or koala): Australian coll.: C. 20.

Billy born drunk. 'A drunkard beyond the memory of his neighbours', Ware: low London: 1895, The People, Jan. 6; very ob.

billy-boy. (Sailors') a two-masted vessel resembling a galliot, the fore-mast square-rigged. Coming mostly from Goole, they are also called Humber keels. From ca. 1850; coll.

billy-button. A journeyman tailor: from ca. 1840.—2. In rhyming s., mutton (— 1857). 'Ducange Anglicus.'

billy buz(z)man. A thief specialising in silk pocket- and neckerchiefs: ca. 1830–1900 c. See billy, sense 1, and buzman.

billy-can. See billy, 3.

billy-cock. A low-crowned, wide-brimmed felt hat: coll. (— 1862). In Australia, the hat so named is made of hard, not soft felt, and its brim is turned up: coll. (— 1880). The word may be a phonetic development from the C. 18 bully-cocked (Amherst's Terra Filius, 1721); but the hats were, in precisely this style, made first for Billy Coke, a Melton Mowbray sportsman, ca. 1842—though admittedly this derivation smacks of folk-etymology.

billy-doo. A billet-doux, a love-letter: C. 18–20; coll.

billy-fencer. A marine-store dealer: c.; from ca. 1840; ob. See the two words.

billy-fencing shop. A shop receiving stolen precious metal: c. (— 1845); ob.

Billy-go-tight. See Billy Blue.

billy-goat. A male goat: coll.: 1861, Peacock (O.E.D.).—2. Hence (— 1882) the s. scns, a tufted beard.

billy-goat in stays. An effeminate officer: naval: ca. 1870–85, when many young 'swells' wore stays. Ware.

billy-ho. See billy-o.

billy-hunting. Post-1820, ob. c. for collecting and buying old metal: ex billy, sense 4. Also, going out to steal silk handkerchiefs: same period: ex billy, sense 1.

billy-o (or oh) or occ. billy-ho, like. With great vigour or speed: mid-C. 19–20. The Referee, Aug. 9, 1885, 'It'll rain like billy-ho!' Perhaps ex the name used euphemistically for the devil.

Billy Puffer or B.p. or b.p. A name given to the early steamers by seamen: ca. 1840–1920. Bowen, 'Compare Puffing Billies on land.'

billy-roller. 'A long stout stick . . . used . . . to beat the little ones employed in the mills when their strength fails', Mrs. Trollope, Michael Armstrong, 1840. (The O.E.D. records at 1834.) See, too, Ure's Dict. of the Arts, vol. iii, 1875. Coll., †. Cf. billy, a truncheon.

Billy Ruffian. H.M.S. Bellerophon: naval: C. 20. Bowen. By 'Hobson-Jobson'.

Billy the Butcher. The Duke of Cumberland (1721–65). Ex his cruelty when suppressing the Jacobite rising after the battle of Culloden, 1746. His sobriquets were the Bloody Butcher and the Butcher of Culloden. Dawson.

Billy Turniptop. An agricultural labourer: from ca. 1890; virtually †. The Daily Telegraph, July 10, 1895. (Ware.)

Billy Wells. A big gun or its shell: military: late 1914–18. F. & Gibbons. Ex Bombardier Wells, the English heavy-weight boxer. Cf. Jack Johnson, q.v.

billy with, play. To play the deuce with: coll.: late C. 19–20. (R. Knox, The Body in the Silo, 1933.) See also billy-o.

Bim (or Bimm); Bimshire. A Barbadian (cf. Badian); the island of Barbados, which is also (— 1890) called Little England: coll.: mid-C. 19–20. Perhaps ex vim, as suggested in Paton's Down the Islands, 1887.

bime-by. By-and-by: dial. (— 1839 and) Cockney sol. (— 1887). Ex U.S., where recorded in 1824 (O.E.D. Sup.). Baumann.

Bimm. See Bim.

bimp. A shilling: C. 20 vagrants' c. See beong.

bimster. 'A rope's end used in the training ships for punishment purposes': naval: late C. 19–20. Bowen. Perhaps beamster, something applied to the 'beam' or rump: but cf. bim (Addenda).

bin. Been: in C. 19–20, sol. except in dial. Earlier, a S.E. variant.

bin. A trousers-pocket: c., and low: from ca. 1920. J. Curtis, The Gilt Kid, 1936. One dips thereinto.

bind. A depressing or very dull person, task or duty: Royal Air Force: from ca. 1920. (Cf. binder, 4.) Ex:

bind, v. To weary, bore a person: Royal Air Force: from ca. 1920. Cf. binder, 4. 'Jack? Oh, he binds me solid!'

binder. An egg: late C. 19–20 c. >, by 1910, low. Ware. Cf. the † S.E. medical sense of binder: Anything causing constipation.—2. A meal, esp. a good, satisfying one: New Zealanders': C. 20.—3. See tiddley and binder.—4. A bore (person): Royal Air Force: from ca. 1920. Ex bind, v. Cf. bind, n.

binder, go a. To eat a meal: New Zealanders' (esp. tramps'): from before 1932. See binder, 2.

bindle. A notable 'howler': Dulwich College (—1907). Collinson. Origin? Perhaps a blend: ? hungle + swindle.

bing or byng. Gen. bing a-vast. To go: c. of mid-C. 16–early 19. Scott has b. out, in Guy Mannering, and b. avast, in Nigel. Perhaps of Romany origin.

bing-bang. Echoic for a repeated heavy impact or a continued banging: coll.: from ca. 1910. (O.E.D. Sup.) Prob. at first a nursery word evoked by the excitement arising from 'playing soldiers'.

binge. A drinking bout: Oxford University (—1889). Barrère & Leland. Hence, in G.W., 'an expedition, deliberately undertaken in company for the purpose of relieving depression, celebrating an occasion or a spasm of high spirits, by becoming intoxicated' (B. & P.); also as v. Food often, music and singing sometimes, form part of a 'binge'. More an officers' than a private soldiers' word. Perhaps ex bingo, q.v.; or ex dial. v. binge influenced by bingo, the latter being the more prob., for binge, a heavy drinking-bout, exists in dial. as early as 1854 (O.E.D.).—2. See:

binge, have a; haul off and take a binge. To (go away to) get a sleep: nautical: ca. 1880–1910.

binge a cask. 'To get the remaining liquor from the wood by rinsing it with water': nautical coll.: C. 19–20. Bowen. Ex binge, to drench: see binge. Also bull the (or a) cask, q.v.

bingey. See bingy.

Bingham's Dandies. (Military) the 17th Lancers: from ca. 1830; slightly ob. Its colonel of 1826–37, Lord Bingham, insisted on well-fitting uniforms. Earlier, the 17th Lancers were called the Horse Marines, q.v., and from ca. 1870 the Death or Glory Boys.

binghi. See bingy.

bingling. A combination, barberly and verbal, of bobbing and shingling: coll.: middle 1920's. Collinson.

bingo. In late C. 17 (as in B.E.) and in C. 18, c.; in C. 19 (as in Tom Brown at Oxford), s.; ob. Spirituous liquor, esp. brandy. Perhaps b, (cf. b. and s.) + stingo, q.v., or ex binge, to soak, steep, after stingo (see Grose, P.). The word occurs notably in Fighting Attie's Song, in Lytton's Paul Clifford. The O.E.D. dates it at 1861.—2. Whence bingo boy and mort, male and female dram-drinker: c. of late C. 17–early 19.

bingo club. 'A set of Rakes, Lovers of that Liquor' (brandy), B.E.: late C. 17–18 c.

bingo mort. See bingo, 2.

bingy; bingey; or, as The Sydney Bulletin, keeping closer to the Aboriginal, spells it, binghi. Stomach, belly: Australian: C. 20. Dictionaried in Webster, 1926.

bingy, adj. (Of butter) bad, ropy; cf. vinnied. Largely dial. (—1857); as s., ob.

binnacle word. An affected, a too literary word, which, says Grose (1785), the sailors jeeringly offer to chalk up on the binnacle. † by 1890.

binned, be. To be hanged: London: 1883–ca. 1910. Ware, 'Referring to Bartholomew Binns, a hangman appointed in 1883.'

bint. A girl or woman; a prostitute,—in which role the female was often called saida [sah-ee-da] bint, lit. 'a "Good-day!" girl': among soldiers in Egypt: late C. 19–20, but esp. in G.W. Direct ex Arabic.—2. Hence, the bint, the man playing 'a female part in a Divisional Concert Party or Troupe': military: 1916–18. F. & Gibbons.

biockey. Money: Anglo-Italian, esp. in London: mid-C. 19–20. Ex It. baioocchi, 'browns'.

bionet. B.E.'s variant of bagonet, q.v.

bioscope. (A drink of) brandy: ca. 1910–14. The more a man drinks, the more 'moving pictures' he sees.

birch broom. A room: rhyming s. (—1857). 'Ducange Anglicus'.

birch-broom in a fit, like a. (Of a head) rough, tousled: C. 19; e.g. in Hindley's Cheap Jack, 1876.

Birchen or Birchin(g) Lane, send one to. To flog; ex birch, to thrash: coll.: ? C 17–18. An allusion to Birchin Lane, London. Cf.:

birchen salve, anoint with. To cane; thrash: C. 16–17 coll. Tyndale. (O.E.D.)

Bird; always the Bird. The Eagle Tavern: theatrical: ca. 1840–85. Ware, 'General Booth of the Salvation Army bought it up (1882).'

bird. 'The foole that is caught', Greene: c. of ca. 1585–1600.—2. A prisoner: New Zealand military: 1915–18. Ex cage, a detention-camp. Prob. ex earlier cage, a prison, is:—3. Prison. Rare except as do bird, to 'do time', and in bird, in prison. C. 20 c. Edgar Wallace in The Mind of Mr. J. G. Reader; David Hume.—4. Collectively, previous convictions: c. (—1935). David Hume.—5. As the bird, a hissing of an actor: theatrical (1883; ob.); cf. big bird, goose, qq.v. Actors used to say 'The bird's there.' Ware. Ex the hissing of a goose.—6. A man, a chap; esp. in old bird (1853). O.E.D. (Sup.). Cf. downy bird, q.v.—7. A troublesome seaman: nautical: late C. 19–20. Bowen.—8. (A) bird, a girl: from ca. 1880. A sweetheart: military: from ca. 1890. A harlot: from ca. 1900. The last two nuances may represent a survival ex early S.E., but more prob. they have arisen independently.—9. See bird, give the.

bird, v. To thieve, steal, seek for plunder: late C. 16–17. Cf. black-birding.

bird, big. See big bird.

bird, funny. An occ. variant of bird, queer, q.v.: late C. 19–20. Baumann.

bird, give (one) or, hence, get the. To dismiss (a person), send him about his business; to be so treated: late C. 19–20. Ex the theatre: see bird, n., 5.—2. In Australia, give the bird is to treat with derision: from before 1916. C. J. Dennis.

bird, like a. See the like a . . . entry.

bird, little. An unnamed informant or, rarely, informer: (—1833) coll. >, by 1890, S.E.—though far from literary.

bird, old. See bird, n., 6.

bird, queer. A strange fellow: C. 19–20; coll. See queer, quire bird.

Bird and Baby, the. A mid-C. 18–early 19 facetious version of the Eagle and Child (inn). Grose, 1st ed.

bird-cage. (Women's dress) a bustle: ca. 1850–1900.—2. A four-wheeled cab: ca. 1850–1910.—3. (Racing) The Newmarket race-course paddock where the saddling is done (—1884); ob.—4. In G.W., a compound for prisoners; cf. cage.—5. A point occupied by a sniper: military: G.W. (B. & P.).—6. The Birdcage, 'the elaborately entrenched position, north of Salonika, constructed in 1916 to serve as a final stronghold': Eastern troops' for rest of the War. F. & Gibbons.

Bird-Catchers, the. The Royal Irish Fusiliers, since 1811; the 1st Royal Dragoons and the Scots Greys, since 1815 (Waterloo): military. F. & Gibbons. Ex the capture of French eagles: cf., therefore, Aiglers.

bird-lime. A thief: C. 18, e.g. in Vanbrugh.—2. Time: rhyming s. (—1857). 'Ducange Anglicus', 1st ed.—3. In G.W.: a recruiting sergeant; ob.

bird-lime!, come off the. Tell that to the marines!: low (—1923). Manchon.

bird-man. An aviator: coll.: ca. 1908–18. O.E.D. (Sup.).

bird-mouthed. Apt to mince matters: from ca. 1600; coll. > S.E. by 1700; ob.

bird of passage. A person never long in one place: C. 19–20: coll.; in C. 20, S.E.

bird-seed. Sweets; chocolates: military: C. 20. F. & Gibbons, 'Something nice for the "Bird"': see bird, n., 8, 2nd nuance.

bird-spit. A rapier: coll.: ca. 1600–1820.

bird-witted. Wild-headed, inattentive; inconsiderate; gullible: ca. 1600–1890; coll. till ca. 1800, then S.E. B.E., Grose. (O.E.D.)

birdie. A hole done in one under the bogey figure: golfing coll.: from ca. 1920. O.E.D. (Sup.). Cf. eagle.

bird's-eye. Baumann, 1887, records it as a variant of:

bird's-eye wipe. A silk handkerchief with eye-like spots: from ca. 1820; ob. Also bird's-eye fogle: low. Adumbrated in Pepys's Diary (bird's-eye hood); app. first in Egan's Grose, 1823.

birds of a feather. Rogues of the same gang: late C. 17–18; e.g. in B.E. Ex late C. 16–20 S.E. sense, persons of like character, mainly in the proverb birds of a feather fly (1578; long †) or flock (1607) together, as esp. in Apperson.

birds with one stone, kill two. To manage to do two things where one expects, or has a right to expect, to do only one: from ca. 1600; coll. till ca. 1700, when it > S.E.

birk. A house; back s. on crib, q.v. H., 1st ed., 1859.

Birreligion. The (political) import of Augustine Birrell's Educational Bill of 1906: political; now only historical. Collinson.

birthday suit, in one's. Naked. Smollett, Humphry Clinker, 1771: 'I went in the morning to a private place, along with the housemaid, and we bathed in our birth-day soot.' Increasingly less used in C. 20 owing to the supremacy of in the altogether. Prob. suggested by Swift's birthday gear, 1731—cf. the rare birthday attire (1860): both of which are prob. to be accounted ass. O.E.D. (Sup.).

Biscuit, the. The 10.30 p.m. express goods-train carrying biscuits from Reading to London: railwaymen's: from ca. 1910. The Daily Telegraph, Aug. 15, 1936. Cf. the Bacca, q.v.

biscuit; occ. a dog-biscuit. A brown mattress or palliase: military: 1909. Collinson; B. & P. Ex shape, colour, and hardness.

biscuit, take the. See take the biscuit.

biscuit and beer. To subject to a biscuit and beer bet, a swindling bet of a biscuit against a glass of beer: low London: ca. 1850–1910. Ware.

Biscuit Factory, the. The Reading Gaol (closed down a few years ago): early C. 20 c. (It adjoined Huntley & Palmer's factory.) Cf.:

Biscuit Men, the. Reading Football Club ('soccer'): sporting: C. 20. See preceding; cf. Toffee Men.

bish. A bishop: C. 20; rare before G.W.—2. A mistake: Seaford Preparatory School: from ca. 1925.

bishop. A fly burnt at a candle: late C. 16–mid-17. Florio. Cf. bishop, v., 1.—Cf. 1, b, 'a mushroom growth in the wick of a burning candle': late C. 16–19.—2. A warm drink of wine, with sugar and either oranges or lemons: Ned Ward in The English Spy, that work which, at the beginning of C. 18, held an unflattering but realistically witty mirror up to London. Ob. by 1890 after being coll. by 1750, S.E. by 1800.—3. 'One of the largest of Mrs. Philips's purses [cundums], used to contain the others', Grose, 1st ed.: low: late C. 18—early 19.—4. A chamber-pot: C. 19–20, ob.—5. At Winchester College, ca. 1820–1900, the sapling that binds a large faggot together; cf. dean, q.v.

bishop, v. Burn, let burn: coll., C. 18–20. Ex the C. 16–20 (ob.) proverbial sayings, 'The bishop has put his foot into the pot' or 'The bishop hath played the cook', both recorded in Tyndale.—2. To use deception, esp. the burning of marks into the teeth, to make a horse look young (—1727, R. Bradley, The Family Dict.): v.t. ex a man so named, and often as vbl.n., bishoping. Coll. by ca. 1780, S.E. by ca. 1820.—3. To murder by drowning: from 1836, when one Bishop drowned a boy in order to sell the body for dissecting purposes: the irrepressible Barham, 'I burk'd the papa, now I'll bishop the son.' F. & H. describes it as † in 1890, but the S.O.D. allows it currency in 1933.—4. In printing, bishop the balls, to water the balls: 1811, Lex. Bal.; ob.

bishop! (rarely); oh bishop! A c.p. used in derision on the announcement of stale news: the 1890's: Conway Training Ship. Masfield.

bishop, do a. See do a bishop.

bishop hath blessed it!, the. A c.p. of C. 16 applied 'when a thing speedeth not well' (Tyndale, 1528).

bishoping. The performing of a bishop's duties: coll.: 1857, Trollope. (O.E.D.)—2. See bishop, v., 2.

Bishops, the. The Bishop Auckland 'soccer' team: sporting: C. 20.

bishop's finger. A guide-post: C. 19. Halliwell. Cf. finger-post, a parson.

bishop's sister's son, he is the. He has a big 'pull' (much influence): ecclesiastical c.p.: C. 16. Tyndale, 1528.

bishop's wife, as in what, a bishop's wife? eat and drink in your gloves? A semi-proverbial c.p. of mid-C. 17—early 18. Ray, 1678. 'This is a cryptic saying', remarks Apperson; prob. it = 'You're quite the fine lady (now)!'

biskiwits, biskwitz. Prisoners of war in Germany: military: 1915–18. B. & P. Ex the Ger. for the maize biscuits sometimes obtainable from the canteen in prison camps Bismarcker, bismarquer, to. Cheat, esp. at cards or billiards: ca. 1866–1900. In 1865–6, Bismarck, the German Chancellor, pursued a foreign policy that rendered indignant a large section of European thought. The bismarquer form shows Fr. influence.

bisque, give (someone) fifteen, etc., and a. To defeat very easily; 'leave standing'. Coll.: from ca. 1880; ob. Ex tennis.

bit. In C. 16–early 19 c., with variant bite, money; in C. 19 c., bit also = a purse.—2. The silver piece of lowest denomination in almost any country: C. 18–19.—3. Any small piece of money: coll., C. 19–20, ob.—4. A fourpenny-bit (1829): still so called in 1890, though joey was much commoner.—5. The smallest coin in Jamaica: Dyche, 1748.—6. A term of imprisonment: c. (–1869) > low.—7. A girl, a young woman, esp. regarded sexually: low coll.: C. 19–20. Cf. piece, q.v.—8. In such phrases as a bit of a fool, rather or somewhat of a fool, the word is coll.; from ca. 1880. Baumann.—9. Coll. also in the adv. phrases a bit, a little or a whit, late C. 17–20; not a bit, not at all, from ca. 1749 (Fielding); and every bit, entirely (–1719).—10. Likewise coll. when it = a short while, either as for, or in, a bit or simply as a bit: from ca. 1650. Walton; Wm. Godwin, in his best work (Caleb Williams), 'I think we may as well stop here a bit.' (O.E.D.)

bit, past ppl. of bite, v., 1: q.v. 'Robb'd, Cheated or Out-witted', B.E. bit, do a. See do a bit.

bit, do one's. See do one's bit.

bit-faker or bit-turner-out. A coiner of bad money: C. 19–20 c.; the latter †. Vaux. Whence bit-faking, vbl.n., counterfeiting. See bit, n., 1.

bit his grannam. See bite his grannam.

bit-maker. A counterfeiter (–1857), ob.: low, perhaps even c.

bit of all right, a (little). Something excellent; a pretty or an obliging female: C. 20. Manchon; Freeman Wills Crofts, Mystery in the Channel, 1931, 'This looked a bit of all right.' Cf. bit of 'tout droit', q.v.

bit o(f) beef. 'A quid of tobacco; less than a pipeful. A . . . reference to tobacco-chewing staying hunger', Ware: low: ca. 1850–1910.

bit of; bits of. (Cf. bit, n., 8.) When used affectionately or depreciatively, it is a coll., dating from late C. 18. Anderson, Ballads, 1808, 'Oor bits o' bairns' (E.D.D.).

bit o(f) blink. A drink: tavern rhyming s. (–1909): ob. Ware.

bit of blood. A high-spirited or a thoroughbred horse: 1819, Tom Moore; slightly ob.

bit o(f) bull. Beef: C. 19. Like the preceding entry, s. verging on coll.

bit of cavalry. A horse: ca. 1825–80. Moncrieff, 1821.

bit o(f) crumb. 'A pretty plump girl—one of the series of words designating woman imm. following the introduction of "jam" as the fashionable term (in unfashionable quarters) for lovely woman', Ware: from ca. 1880; ob. Cf. crummy, 1, q.v., and bit of grease.

bit o(f) dirt. A hill: tramps' c. (–1935).

bit of doing, take a. To be difficult to do: coll.: late C. 19–20.

bit of ebony. A negro or a negress: C. 19–20, coll.

bit of fat. An unexpected advantage, esp. (cf.

bunce) if pecuniary: C. 19–20; cf. fat, n.—2. Whence have a bit of fat from the eye, to eat 'the orbits' of a sheep's eyes—a delicacy (Ware, 1909).

bit of fluff. The same as bit of muslin, q.v.: C. 20.

bit of gig. Fun; a spree: c. (–1823); very ob. Egan's Grose.

bit o(f) grease. (Not derogatory.) A stout and smiling Hindu woman: Anglo-Indian military (–1909). Ware. Cf. bit of crumb, q.v.

bit of grey. 'An elderly person at a ball or a marriage . . . to give an air of staid dignity': Society: ca. 1880–1910. Ware. Ex grey hair.

bit of haw-haw. A fop; London taverns': ca. 1860–1914. Ware. Ex haw! haw!

bit of hard (or stiff). A penis (erectus): low: C. 19–20.

bit of it!, not a. No; not at all; you're wrong: coll.: late C. 19–20.

bit o(f) jam. Something easy; a pretty, esp. if accessible, girl; prob. from ca. 1850, though Ware dates it at 1879. Cf. tart, jam; and see bit of crumb.

bit of leaf. Tobacco: mid-C. 19–20 c.; ob. J. Greenwood, 1876.

bit of (one's) mind. Gen. with give. One's candid, unfavourable opinion: coll.; from ca. 1860.

bit o(f) muslin. A (young) girl, esp. if a prostitute: ca. 1873; ob. H., 5th ed. (a bit of stuff); Whiteing, 1899, 'She's a neat little bit o' muslin, ain't she now?' Cf. skirt and bit of fluff.

bit of mutton. A woman; gen. a harlot: C. 19–20, ob.; perhaps coll. rather than s.

bit o(f) pooh. Flattery, 'blarney'; courtship: workmen's (–1909); almost †. Ware. Ex pooh!, nonsense!

bit o(f) prairie. 'A momentary lull in the traffic at any point in the Strand . . . From the bareness of the road for a mere moment, e.g. "A bit o' prairie—go"', Ware: London: ca. 1850–1914. Cf. S.E. island.

bit o(f) raspberry. An attractive girl: from ca. 1880; very ob. Ware. On bit of jam, q.v.

bit o(f) red. A soldier: coll.: late C. 18–19. Ware. Ex colour of jacket.

bit of skirt. A girl; a woman: coll.: from ca. 1900; esp. military, Australian, New Zealand.

bit of snug. The act of kind: low: late C. 19–20; ? ob.—2. The penis: id.: id.

bit o(f) soap. A charming girl—though frail: low London: 1883–ca. 1914. Ware.

bit of sticks. A corpse: sporting, from ca. 1860; ob.

bit of stiff. Money not in specie; a bank or a currency note; a bill of exchange: from ca. 1850. Lever. Whence do a bit of stiff, to accept a bill of exchange or a post-dated cheque.—2. See bit of hard.

bit o(f) stuff. An overdressed man: low (–1874). H., 5th ed.—2. A (young) woman; mid-C. 19–20; ob. Cf. Marryat's piece of stuff, 1834, and bit of muslin, q.v.

bit of 'tout droit', a. A 'bit of all right', q.v.: Anglo-French (–1923); ob. Manchon. Ex the bogus Fr. un petit morceau de tout droit.

bit o(f) tripe. A wife: rhyming (!) s. (–1909); virtually †. Ware. Cf. trouble and strife.

bit off, a. See off, a bit.

bit on, (have) a. (To lay) a stake: racing: 1894, George Moore.—2. As adj., a bit on = drunk: low: C. 19–20; ob. ? cf. bite one's grannam, q.v.

bit the blow. See bite the blow.

bit of wood in the hole, put a. See wood in it!

bit you?, what's. See what's bit you?

bitch. A lewd woman: S.E. from origin (— 1400) to ca. 1660, when it > coll.; since ca. 1837 it has been a vulg. rather than a coll. (In C. 20 low London it = a fast young woman.) As coll.: e.g. in Arbuthnot's John Bull and Fielding's Tom Jones.—2. Opprobriously of a man: in C. 16, S.E.; in C. 17–18, coll., as in Hobbes and Fielding.—3. Tea: Cambridge University, ca. 1820–1914. E.D.D. Prob. ex stand bitch.—4. The queen in playing-cards, mainly public-house; from ca. 1840. Cf. butcher.—5. A male harlot: c.: C. 20. James Curtis, The Gilt Kid, 1936.

bitch, v. Go whoring; frequent harlots: from Restoration times to ca. 1830: coll. Ex bitch, n., 1.—2. To yield, cry off, from fear: coll. verging on S.E.: C. 18–early 19. Ex a bitch's yielding.—3. V.t., to spoil or bungle: from ca. 1820: coll. 'Jon Bee', 1823. Prob. a thinned form of botch: W.

bitch!, I may be a whore but can't be a. A low London woman's c.p. reply on being called a bitch: late C. 18–mid-19. Grose (1st ed.), who prefaces it with: 'The most offensive appellation that can be given to an English woman, even more provoking than that of whore, as may be gathered from the regular Billingsgate or St. Giles answer', etc. Cf. the C. 18 proverbial saying, the bitch that I mean is not a dog (Apperson).

bitch, stand. To preside at tea or perform some other female part: late C. 18–early 19. Grose, 1st ed.

bitch booby. A rustic lass: mid-C. 18–early 19; military (Grose, 1st ed.). Cf. dog booby, q.v.

bitch of, make a. A variant of bitch, v. 3: low: C. 20.

bitch party. A party composed of women: from ca. 1880. Orig. (ca. 1850) a tea-party: Cambridge and Oxford. Ex bitch, n., 3.

bitch-pie!, go to hell (where you belong) and help your mother to make a. A c.p. elaboration of go to hell!: mid-C. 18–20; ob. Grose, 2nd ed., 1788; Manchon.

bitch the pot. To pour out the tea: undergraduates: late C. 18–mid-19. Ware.

bitched, buggered, and bewildered. See Barney's bull.

bitches' wine. Champagne: from ca. 1850. Cf. cat's water.

bite. The female pudend: (prob.) c.: late C. 17–early 19, as in B.E. ('The Cull wapt the Mort's bite, i.e. the Fellow enjoyed the Whore briskly') and Grose; perhaps ex A.-S. byht, the fork of the legs, a sense recurring in Sir Gawayn, vv. 1340, 1349.—2. A deception, from harmless to criminal: Steele, 1711; ob. by 1890, † by 1920.—Hence, 3. A sharper; trickster: c. or low s. > gen. s.: late C. 17–early 19, as in B.E., Fielding, Smollett.—Hence, 4. A hard bargainer: C. 19.—? hence, 5. Any person or thing suspected of being different from, not necessarily worse than, what appearances indicate: C. 19–20 coll., ob.—6. (Cf. sense 4.) A Yorkshireman: from late 1850's, though recorded in Cumberland dialect as early as 1805; ob.; at first, pejorative. H., 1st ed.—7. In c., C. 16–early 19: money; cash. It occurs as late as John Davis's novel, The Post Captain, 1805. Cf. bit, 1, q.v.

bite, v. To steal; rob: late C. 17–early 19 c. B.E.—2. Deceive, swindle: orig. (— 1669) c., but by 1709, when Steele employs it in the Tatler, it is clearly s.; except in the passive, † by ca. 1870.—3. To 'take the bait': C. 17–20 coll.—4. To drive a hard bargain with: C. 19–20 coll. Implied in 'Jon Bee', 1823.—5. (Of a book, a MS.) to impress or appeal to: publishers': from 1935. Thus a publisher might say to his 'reader': 'So it didn't bite you, after all?'

bite! Sold! done! tricked you! Only ca. 1700–60. Swift makes a male character, in reply to a young woman's 'I'm sure the gallows groans for you', exclaim, 'Bite, Miss; I was but in jest.' 2. At Charterhouse, C. 19–20: cave!—3. At the Blue-Coat School: give it to me!: 1887, Baumann.

bite a blow; gen. to have bit the blow. To have 'accomplish'd the Theft, plaid the Cheat, or done the Feat', B.E.: c. of late C. 17–18.

bite in the collar or the cod-piece?, do they. A c.p. of late C. 18–early 19. 'Water wit to anglers', says Grose, 3rd ed.

bite me!, frost; (dog) bite my ear! A lower-classes' cry of astonishment (— 1923). Manchon.

bite (up) on the bit or the bridle. To be reduced in circumstances: C. 14–20: coll. verging on S.E.; in C. 19–20, mainly dial. Gower, ca. 1390; Latimer; Smollett. (Apperson.)

bite one's, or the, ear. To borrow money from: since ca. 1850. In C. 19, c.: in C. 20, low.

bite one's grannam, gen. as to have bit one's grannam. To be very drunk: late C. 17–18. B.E.

bite one's hips. To regret something: tailors', ca. 1850–1910.

bite one's name in. To drink heavily; tipple: low: C. 19–20; very ob.

bite one's, or the, thumb. To make a contemptuous gesture; v.t. with at. Coll.: C. 16–18.

Shakespeare, in Romeo and Juliet: 'I will bite my thumb at them: which is a disgrace to them if they bear it.'

bite the tooth. To be successful: c.: late C. 19–20. Ware, 'Origin unknown.'

bite up, n. A disagreeable altercation: tailors', ca. 1840–1920; as is biting up, grief, bitter regret.—2. (bite-up.) A meal; refreshments. Also v., to eat, occ. as bite up a hole. Tailors': C. 20. E.g. in The Tailor and Cutter, Nov. 29, 1928.—3. V.i., to grumble; a grumbling or a complaint: id.: id.

bitebite. See bitytite.

biter. A sharper; late C. 17–18 c. Cotton.—2. A hoaxer: from late C. 17 coll. passing to S.E.; except in the biter bit, † by ca. 1870.—3. In mid-C. 18–early 19 lows., 'a lascivious, rampant wench', Grose (q.v.).

bites, when the maggot. At one's own sweet will: coll.; from late C. 17; very ob. L'Estrange.

biting you. See what's bit you?

biting up. See bite up, 1.

bits of. See bit of.

bitt. A variant of bit, 1.

bitten. See bite, v.

bitter. (A glass of) bitter beer: coll.: 'Cuthbert Bede', 1856, '... to do bitters, ... the act of drinking bitter beer'. After ca. 1880, coll.

bitter-ender. One who resists or fights to the bitter end: coll.: mid-C. 19–20. O.E.D. (Sup.).

bitter oath, e.g. take one's. To swear solemnly: low: ca. 1850–1910. Ware. Corruption of better oath (as, e.g., by God! is 'better' than by hell!, the devil!, etc.).

bittock. A distance or a period of uncertain length; properly, a little bit. Orig. (— 1802), dial.; but from ca. 1860, also coll.

bitwise. Little by little: coll.: from the 1890's; very ob.

bitty. A skeleton key: c.: late C. 19–20. Ex bit, a piece of mechanism.

bitytite; biteëtite (or bite-etite). Hunger: (low) East London: ca. 1890–1915. Ware. Ex bite on appetite. Cf. drinkitite, q.v.

bivvy. Dial. and Cockney (? ex L. bibere via Lingua Franca) for: beer, esp. in shant o(f) bivvy, a pot or a quart of beer. In Cockney since ca. 1840.—2. (Occ. bivy). A temporary shelter: military: 1915. Ex:—3. A bivouac: military: from ca. 1900.

bivvy, v. To halt for the night: military: from ca. 1910. Ex n., 3.—2. Hence, to put up anywhere: military: from 1916. F. & Gibbons.

bivvy-sheet. A waterproof sheet: military: from 1914. F. & Gibbons.

biz. Business. Orig. (1865) U.S.; anglicised ca. 1880: it appears in The Saturday Review, Jan. 5, 1884, in Baumann, and in the 'comic strip', Ally Sloper, on Aug. 17, 1889.

biz, good! Excellent!: C. 20. Lyell. Ex good biz, profitable business or transaction (— 1889).

Bizzy; Busy. Bismarck: from ca. 1880; ob. Baumann. On Dizzy.

blab, a; blab, to. An indiscreet talker; to talk indiscreetly, also v.t. C. 16–20. Until ca. 1660, S.E.; thereafter, the v. is coll., the n. (see esp. Grose, P.) is almost s. Likewise blabber and † blabberer, in the same senses, were orig. S.E., but from ca. 1750 coll. Blabbing, tale-telling, indiscreet talk, has always been coll. rather than S.E., except perhaps in C. 20: from ca. 1600. Wesley.—2. A synonym of juice-meeting (q.v.), but † by 1925. Anon., Dict. of Bootham Slang, 1925.

black. A poacher working with a blackened face: s. or coll.: C. 18. F. & H.—2. A black-mailer: c.: C. 20. Cf.:

black, v. In C. 20 c., to blackmail. Whence the black, blackmail; at the black, on the blackmail 'lay'; put the black on, to blackmail; pay black, to pay blackmail; and blackening, vbl.n., blackmail-(ing):—Edgar Wallace, passim.

black, adj. See table-cloth.

Black Agnes. Agnes, the heroic Countess of Dunbar (ca. 1312–69). Ex her dark complexion. Dawson.

black-a-moor, black Moor. (Gen. unhyphenated.) Recorded in 1547; † in S.E. senses. In C. 19–20 used as a nickname and as a playful endearment (cf. Turk): essentially coll. Also adj. As in black-avised, the a is prob. euphonic and to be compared with the nonsensical but metrically useful -a in jog-trot verses.

black and tam. An Oxford undergraduette: Oxford University: late 1921–ca. 1925. Ex the black gown and the tam o'shanter affected at that period, with a pun on the Black and Tans (q.v.). W.

black and tan. Porter (or stout) mixed equally with ale: from ca. 1850: c. (vagrants') >, by 1900, gen. low s. Ex resp. colours.

Black and Tans. The men who, in 1921, assisted the Royal Irish Constabulary. Ex their khaki coats and black caps, the nickname coming the more readily that, near Limerick, is the famous Black and Tan Hunt. (Weekley, More Words Ancient and Modern.)

black and white. Night; to-night: c. rhyming s.: late C. 19–20.—2. As in a pennyworth of b. and w., of tea and sugar: Glasgow lower classes': from ca. 1920. MacArthur & Long, No Mean City, 1935.

black and white, in. Written or printed; hence, binding. Late C. 16–20, coll. Cf. black on white, which, C. 19–20, only very rarely applies to writing and tends to denote the printing of illustrations, hence printed illustrations.

black army, the. The female underworld: low (— 1923). Manchon.

black arse. A kettle; a pot: late C. 17—early 19. B.E.; Grose, 2nd ed. From the proverb, 'the pot calls the kettle black arse', the last word has disappeared (pudoris causa).

black art. An undertaker's business: from ca. 1850; undertakers'.—2. In late C. 16–19 c., lock-picking. Greene; Grose.

black as the Earl of Hell's riding-boots or waist-coat. (Of a night) pitch-dark: resp. naval and nautical: resp. ca. 1900–25 and 1880–1910. Bowen.

black-bagging. 'Dynamitarding': journalistic coll.: 1884–ca. 1910. Ware. Ex the black bags in which the explosive so often was carried.

black-ball. To exclude (a person) from a club: late C. 18–20: coll. >, ca. 1830, S.E. Ex the black ball indicative of rejection.

black-balling. Vbl.n. of preceding term.—2. Stealing, pilfering: nautical: ca. 1850–1910. It originated on the old Black Ball line of steamers between Liverpool and New York: a line infamous for the cruelty of its officers, the pilfering of its sailors.

black beetles. The lower classes: coll.: ca. 1810–50. Moncrieff, 1821.

black bird. An African captive aboard a slaver: nautical (— 1864): this sense is rare.—2. Gen., a Polynesian indentured labourer, virtually a slave: nautical (— 1871); soon coll. See esp. the anon. pamphlet entitled Narrative of the Voyage of the Brig 'Carl', 1871.

black-bird, v. To capture Negroes and esp. Polynesians: nautical (— 1885). The term > S.E. soon after this branch of kidnapping ceased. Whence black-birding, vbl.n., such kidnapping (— 1871), and adj. (— 1883).

blackbird and thrush. To clean (one's boots): rhyming s. (on brush): 1884, Barrett, Navvies. E.D.D.

black(-)bird catching. The slave-trade: nautical (— 1864). Displaced by black-birding (1871).

black-birders. Kidnappers of Polynesians for labour (— 1880); quickly coll.; by 1900, S.E.

black-birding. See black-bird, v., and black-bird catching.

black books, in one's. Out of favour. Late C. 16–20 coll. In C. 19–20 gen. regarded as S.E.

black box. A lawyer: either c. or low s.: ca. 1690–1860. B.E.; Grose; Duncombe's Sinks of London, 1848. Ex the black boxes in which he deposits clients' papers.

black boy. A parson: C. 17—early 19. Cf. black-coat.

black bracelets. Handcuffs: (? late C. 18–19). E.g. in Harrison Ainsworth's Jack Sheppard.

black cattle. Parsons: mid-C. 18–20; ob. Whence black-cattle show, a gathering of clergymen: C. 18–19.—2. Lice: C. 19–20; ob.

Black Charlie. Sir Charles Napier (1786–1860), British admiral. Dawson.

black (or scab) coal. 'Coal imported from abroad or dug by blacklegs during the stoppage' caused by the General Strike of May 1926: 'Trade Unions' coll., often revived. Collinson.

black coat. A parson: from ca. 1600; coll.; ob.

Black Cuffs, the. (Military) the Fifty-Eighth Foot, from ca. 1881 the 2nd Battalion of the Northamptonshires: C. 19–20. Ex the facings, which have been black since 1767.

black cutter. A service cutter for the use of Dartmouth naval cadets: naval coll. verging on j.: late C. 19–20. Bowen.

black diamond. A rough person that is nevertheless very good or very clever: ca. 1800–75. Displaced by rough diamond, q.v.—2. The Black Diamond. Tom Cribb (1781–1848), the great boxer. Dawson, 'From his occupation as a coal-porter.'

black diamonds. Coals: from ca. 1810: c. until ca. 1840, then s.; by 1870, coll. Vaux, 1812; Various, Gavarni in London, 1848; H., 3rd ed.—2. 'Talented persons of dingy or unpolished exterior': ca. 1860–1900. H., 3rd ed. Superseded by rough diamond.

Black Dick. Admiral Howe (1726–99), who, tradition says, smiled only when a battle was imminent: naval: ca. 1770–1820. Bowen.

black dog. A counterfeit silver coin, esp. a shilling: ca. 1705–30. (Black had long before been applied to base coins.)—2. Ill-humour: coll., from ca. 1825; ob. Scott.

black—occ. blue (— C. 18)—dog, blush like a. I.e. not at all: hence, to be shameless: mid-C. 16–18; coll. Gosson, Swift.

black dog (sitting) on one's back, have (got) a. To be depressed: coll.: late C. 19–20; ob. Lyell.

black doll. The sign outside a dolly shop, q.v. Dickens, Sketches by Boz, 1835. Ob. if not †.

black donkey, ride the. To cheat in weight: 'rosters': late C. 19–20.—2. To sulk, be ill-humoured or obstinate: mid-C. 19–20; ob. Ex a donkey's obstinacy; black merely intensifies.

black eye, give a bottle a. To empty a bottle (of spirits): late C. 18–mid. 19. Grose, 2nd ed.

black-faced mob. A gang of burglars who, blackening their faces as a disguise, trust to violence rather than skill: c. (— 1845); ob.

black fly. Pejorative for a clergyman: ca. 1780–1850. Grose, 2nd ed. Esp. in relation to farmers, who, on account of the tithes, dislike clergymen more than they do insect pests.

black friars!; Blackfriars! Beware! look out!: mid-C. 19–20 c. 'Ducange Anglicus', 1st ed.

Black Friday. A gen. examination: school-boys': C. 17. Cf. Black Monday.—2. May 10, 1886, when Overend, Gurney & Co.'s bank suspended payment; ob.

black gentleman, the. The devil: C. 17–mid-19: coll. verging on familiar S.E. Dekker. Also the black man: mid-C. 19–20; ob. Meredith.

black gown. A learned person: C. 18; coll.

black guard, later blackguard. A scoundrel, esp. if unprincipled: from ca. 1730; > coll. ca. 1770, S.E. ca. 1830. At first this was a collective n.: in C. 16–17, the scullions of a great house; in late C. 16–17, the Devil's body-guard; in C. 17, the camp-followers; in C. 18, a body of attendants of black dress, race, or character, or the underworld, esp. the shoe-blackening portion thereof. A collective adumbration of the sense, 'a criminal, a scoundrel', occurs in a MS. of 1683: '... of late a sort of vicious, idle, and masterless boys and rogues, commonly called the black-guard...' Two notable derivatives are:—blackguard, v. To act the blackguard (— 1786); S.E. by 1800, but long †. Treat as a blackguard, revile (1823 +); S.E. by 1850. (S.O.D.) And: blackguard, adj., blackguardly; vile. From ca. 1750; S.E. by 1800. Smollett, 1760: 'He is become a blackguard gaol-bird'; Byron, 'I have heard him use language as blackguard as his action.' For this interesting word—the early senses are all coll. rather than s., and all became S.E. thirty to fifty years after their birth—see an admirable summary in the S.O.D., a storehouse in the O.E.D., a most informative paragraph in Weekley's More Words Ancient and Modern, and a commentary-lexicon in F. & H.

black-hand gang. A forlorn-hope party; a party of trench-raiders: military: 1916–18.—2. Hence, bombers or stretcher-bearers: military: 1917–18. (Cf. suicide club.) F. & Gibbons.

black hat. A new immigrant: Australian: ca. 1885–1905. Morris. Perhaps ex the bowler so common among Englishmen, so rare among Australians. Cf. pommy, q.v.

Black Hole, the. Cheltenham: from ca. 1870; ob. Ex the number of former residents of India, esp. officers and civil servants, who go to live there.—2. A place of imprisonment, 1831, whence the famous Black Hole of Calcutta (1856).—3. Whence, from ca. 1870, a punishment cell, and from ca. 1890, the guard-room: military.

Black Horse, the. The Seventh Dragoon Guards, ex the regimental facings and their (at one time) black horses; occ. abbr. to The Blacks: from ca. 1720; slightly ob. Temp. George II, The Virgin Mary's Guard; from ca. 1880, Strawboots.

black house. A business house of long hours and miserable wages: ca. 1820–1900, trade.

black incher. A black bull-ant: Australian children's: C. 20. Opp. red incher, q.v.

Black Indies. Newcastle: ca. 1690–1830; in B.E. and Grose. But in C. 19–20 (ob.), among seamen, it means Shields and Sunderland as well (Bowen).

black is . . . See black's my eye.

black jack. A leathern drinking-jug: late C. 16–20, ob.; > coll. ca. 1700, S.E. ca. 1800.—2. Black Jack. The Recorder of London: c. of ca. 1810–30. Lex. Bal., 1811.—3. Black Jack. John Philip Kemble (1757–1823), English tragedian: late C. 18—early 19. Ex his black hair, worn long, and his dark complexion. (Dawson).—4. At Winchester College, C. 19, a leathern beer-jug holding two gallons.—5. A (small) black portmanteau: London bag-makers' and -sellers': mid-C. 19—early 20. Ware.

black job. A funeral; also adj. Ca. 1850–1920. Yates, 1866. Cf. black art, 1.

black joke. The female pudend: late C. 18—early 19. Grose, 2nd ed.

black-leg, usually as one word. A turfswindler: Parsons, Newmarket, vol. ii, 1771. 'So called perhaps from their appearing generally in boots, or else from game cocks, whose legs are always black', Grose, 1st ed.; W., however, suggests—more pertinently—that it is 'a description of the rook'.—2. Whence, any sharper: 1774. Colman, Man of Business. Perhaps ex black-leg(s), a disease affecting the legs of sheep and cattle (1722, S.O.D.).—3. (Ex 1 and 2.) Pejorative for a workman willing to continue when his companions have gone on strike (1865): S.E. by 1900.—4. Hence, fig., any non-participator (1889); coll. by 1920. (All senses: partly O.E.D.)

black-leg, v. (Tailors') to boycott a fellow-tailor: ea. 1870–1910.—2. V.i., or as black-leg it, to return to work before a strike has been settled: from ca. 1885; coll.; S.E. by 1920.

black-leggery. Swindling: Maginn, 1832; coll.; S.E. by 1850, but never very common.

black man, the. The Devil. See black gentleman.

blackman choke, enough to make a. See choke.

black man's, blackmans. The dark; night: a C. 17–18 c. variant of darkmans, q.v. Jonson.

black Maria. A prison van, for the conveyance of prisoners. From ca. 1870: orig. c.; by 1902, s.; by 1930, coll. H., 5th ed.; Ware. Occ. sable Maria († by 1920). By personification.—2. A gun that ejects a shell emitting a dense cloud of smoke (1915); the shell or its burst (Oct. 1914): military. Ex sense 1. F. & Gibbons, 'The Germans, curiously, had a similar term, "Schwarze Maria", for our heavy shells.'

black (or B—) Monday. The Monday on which, after the (esp. summer) holidays, school re-opens: from ca. 1730: 'What is called by school-boys Black Monday', Fielding, Tom Jones; P. G. Wodehouse, A Prefect's Uncle, 1903, 'There is nothing of Black Monday about the first day of term at a public school. Black Monday is essentially a private school institution.' Contrast bloody Monday, q.v.—2. The Monday—it often is a Monday—on which the death-sentence is executed: from ca. 1840.

black mouth. A slanderer: from ca. 1640; ob. Coll., passing in C. 19–20 to S.E. B.E. has it as the corresponding adj.

black mummer. An actor habitually unkempt and unclean: ea. 1820–90. Bee.

black muns. Late C. 17–18: 'hoods and scarves of alamide lutestring', Grose. B.E. gives as c., which it may be; muns = face.

black neb. A person with democratic sympathies, orig. and esp. with France: ea. 1790–1800.

black nob. A non-unionist; a blackleg: from ca. 1870; ob. Punning blackleg. (Trade.)

black pan. Remains of cabin food, 'in certain steamers regarded as the perquisite of the firemen who come off watch at 8 p.m.': nautical: C. 20. Bowen. Because gathered together into a large black pan.

black pope (or B.P.), the. The Superior-General of the Jesuits: Roman Catholics' nickname (— 1877). O.E.D. (Sup.).

black pot. A toper: late C. 16–19. Ex black pot, a beer mug. (The S.O.D. is, I think, wrong to ignore F. & H.'s pre-1818 (= Scott) examples, indecisive though they be.)—2. A Eurasian apothecary in an Army hospital in India: Indian Army (not officers'): from ca. 1890. Frank Richards, Old-Soldier Sahib, 1936.

Black Prince. The devil: ca. 1590–1700, coll. The eldest son of Edward III was so named in 1563, for reasons as yet undiscovered.

black psalm, sing the. To weep: mid-C. 18–early 19. Grose, 1st ed., 'A saying used to children.' Cf. neck-verse.

Black Rod. Gentleman Usher of the Black Rod: C. 17–20, coll.

black Sal or Suke(y). A kettle: low: mid-C. 19–20; ob.

black Saturday. A Saturday on which, because of advances received, there is no wage to take: mid-C. 19–20, workmen's. Cf. dead horse, q.v.

Black Sea Cat, the. 'H.M. paddle frigate Terrible, on account of her activity during the Crimean War': naval: ca. 1855–80. Bowen.

black shark. An attorney: mostly naval: ca. 1820–60. 'Jon Bee.'

black sheep. Mild for a scapegrace, a 'bad lot': from ca. 1790; coll.; in C. 20, S.E. though not literary. Perhaps (W.) ex 'Ba! Ba! black sheep'.—2. A workman refusing to join in a strike: ca. 1860–1900. H., 2nd ed.—3. As v., Winchester College, to 'jockey', get above: C. 19.

black ship. One of the 'teak-built ships from Indian yards in the days of the East India Company': nautical: mid-C. 18–mid-19. Bowen.

Black Shirt. A Fascist: 1923 +. Coll. passing rapidly into S.E. Orig. a translation of the It. (S.O.D.)

black-silk barge. A stout woman that, frequenting dances, dresses thus to minimise her amplitude: ball-room (— 1909); † by 1920. Ware. Cf. barges.

black-spice racket. The stealing of tools, bag and soot from chimney-sweepers: c.: (? C. 18–) early C. 19. Lex. Bal.

black spy. The devil: late C. 17–18 c. and low. B.E.

black squad. A stokehold crew: nautical coll.: late C. 19–20. Bowen.

black strap. Pejorative for thick, sweet port: coll.: late C. 18–19; variant, black stripe. Ex strap, wine, C. 16.—2. A task imposed as punishment on soldiers at Gibraltar, late C. 18–early 19: military (Grose, 1st ed.).—3. Molasses: C. 19–20 (ob.): naval. Bowen. Ex sense 1.—4. The hospital in a ship of war: naval: late C. 18–mid-19. Bowen. Cf. sense 2.—5. (Gen. pl.) One of 'the specially made strong bags used for removing pilfered cargo from a ship'; nautical (either low or c.): mid-C. 19–20. Bowen.

black teapot. A negro footman: lower class: C. 19–20; ob.

Black Tom. Thomas, Lord Fairfax (1612–71): mostly military, he being a notable general. Dawson.

Black Tom Tyrant. Sir Thomas Wentworth (1593–1641): nickname given by the Scots in 1740. Ibid.

black velvet. Stout and champagne mixed: public-house s., mostly Anglo-Irish: C. 20. Ex its colour and its smoothness.

Black Watch, the. The Royal Highlanders: military: from ca. 1725: s. >, by 1800, coll. >, by 1881, S.E. Ex their dark tartan.

black whale. An Antarctic right-whale: nautical coll.: mid-C. 19–20. Bowen.

black-work. Funeral-undertaking (1859, G. A. Sala, Gaslight and Daylight). Cf. black art, 1, and black job.

blackamoor's teeth. Cowrie shells: C. 18, coll.

blackberry swagger. A hawker of tapes, shoelaces, etc.: c. or low s.: ca. 1850–1910. H., 1st ed.

Blackbirdy. J. M. W. Turner (1775–1851), the artist. Dawson.

blackee, blackey. See blacky.

Blackford-block, -swell, -toff. A person (gen. male) well-dressed on occasion: London: ca. 1890–1910. 'Blackford's is a well-known . . . tailors' and outfitting establishment which also lets out evening and other garments on hire', F. & H. (revised).

Blackfriars! See black friars!

Blackfriars Buccaneers. 'The London division of the Royal Naval Volunteer Reserve, whose headquarters have been at Blackfriars for many years past', Bowen, 1929: naval: C. 20.

blackguard. See black guard.

blacklead. A blacklead pencil: coll. (— 1927), not very gen. Collinson.

blackleg. See black-leg.—blackmans. See black man's.

Blacks. See Black Horse.

black's his, my or your eye, say. To accuse; reprimand: C. 15–20, ob.; coll. A mid-C. 18–19 variant was say black is the white of your eye, as in Smollett (Apperson). Note, however, that black's the white of my eye is 'an old-time sea protestation of innocence' (Bowen).

blacksmith's daughter. A key (— 1859); esp. in dial. (which has also blacksmith's wife), lock and key, padlock.

blacksmith's shop. 'The apron of the unpopular Cunningham's patent reefing topsails in the mid-19th century', Bowen: nautical: at that period.

Blackwall, have been to. To have a black eye: Cockney: ca. 1865–85.

Blackwall fashion. (To conduct a sailing-ship) 'with all the smartness and ceremony of the old Blackwall Frigates. On the other hand it was frequently applied to a seaman who did not exert himself unduly': nautical: C. 19. Bowen.

Blackwall navy (or N.). Ships of the Union Castle Line: late C. 19–20: nautical. Bowen. Ex London as base and the ships' grey hulls.

blacky; occ. blackey, blackee, blackie. A black man: from ca. 1810; coll.; occ. as a nickname. Moore, 1815; Thackeray, 1864. Cf. darky. (O.E.D.)

blad. A sheaf of specimen pages or other illustrative matter: booksellers' and publishers' (— 1933). Slang, p. 181. Ex S.E. blad, a fragment.

bladder. A very talkative, long-winded person: from ca. 1578; coll. >, by 1800, S.E.; ob. by 1900.

bladder of fat. A hat: rhyming s.: C. 20. B. & P.

bladder of lard. A bald-headed person (— 1864); low. H., 3rd ed. Ex bladdered lard. Cf. the app. later semi-proverbial bald as a bladder of lard (Apperson).

bladderdash. Nonsense: low: late C. 19–20; slightly ob. Corrupted balderdash.

blade. A 'good fellow', or simply a man: from ca. 1859 (H., 1st ed.). Ca. 1750–1860, a sharp fellow: coll. Late C. 16–early 18, a roisterer, a gallant: S.E. The earliest sense appears in Shakespeare, the second in Goldsmith, and the latest in Dickens. Cf. Fr. une bonne épée, a noted swordsman: W.

Blades, the. Sheffield Football Club: sporting: from ca. 1920. Ex the knife-factories of Sheffield.

blag. To snatch a watch-chain right off: C. 20 c. Charles E. Leach. Perhaps ex Yorkshire dial. blag, to gather blackberries, itself ex Yorkshire blag, a blackberry.

blag. To wheedle; persuade into spending money: low, esp. among grafters: C. 20. Philip Allingham, Cheapjack, 1934. Perhaps cognate with blah.

blah, n. and adj. Nonsense; silly or empty (talk); deliberately wordy, insincere, window-dressing (matter): 1927, esp. among publishers and journalists. From U.S., where it existed in 1925. Cf. blurb, q.v. Perhaps ex Fr. blague, but more prob. ex Ger. s. Blech, nonsense, there being millions of Germans in 'the States'. More prob. still is derivation ex Scottish and Irish blaflum, nonsense, idle talk; Ulster has the variant blah flah.

blah. Mad: 1928, A. E. W. Mason, The Prisoner in the Opal. By confusion of gaga and the preceding; but see go blah.

blah-blah. An occ. form of blah, n.

blame it! Euphemistic for damn it!: coll. Cf. blamenation, damnation. C. 19–20; ob.

blamed. A coll. pejorative (= 'blinking', 'blanky'): non-aristocratic: late C. 19–20. Ex U.S.

Blanco. The inevitable nickname of all men surnamed White: naval and military: C. 20. F. & Gibbons. Not ex Blanco White, poet and theologian (d. 1841), but ex 'Blanco', that white accoutrement-cleanser which came on the market in 1895.

blandander. To tempt blandishingly, to cajole: coll.: 1888, Kipling; ob. By rhyming reduplication on the stem of blandish. O.E.D. (Sup.).

blandander. To bletcher; talk nonsense: low: from ca. 1930. James Curtis, The Gilt Kid, 1936. Perhaps ex blather and blarney.

blandiloquence. Smooth or flattering speech or talk: mid-C. 17–20; ob. The O.E.D. considers it S.E.; W., s.; perhaps it is a pedantic coll. Blount, 1656. Ex L. for 'bland speech'.

blank, blanked. Damn; damned. From ca. 1850. 'Cuthbert Bede.' Most euphemisms are neither s. nor coll., but blamenation and blank(ed) are resp. s. and coll.; cf. the remark at blast! and see blankety.—2. See blinkers!, blank your.

blanked. Topsy: military: 1915; ob. F. & Gibbons. Ex Fr. vin blanc, white wine. Also blonked.

blanker. A discharge-certificate with one corner removed to indicate bad conduct: naval: late C. 19–20. Bowen.

blanket. The coating of blubber in a whale: nautical coll.: mid-C. 19–20. Bowen.—2. See blankets.

blanket, (born) on the wrong side of the. Illegitimate: from ca. 1770; coll.; from ca. 1850, S.E. Smollett.

blanket, lawful. A wife: from ca. 1800; coll.

blanket, wet. A spoil-sport: coll. (— 1830); in C. 20, almost S.E. Spencer.

Blanket Bay. The nautical form (late C. 19–20: Manchon) of blanket fair. Cf.:

blanket-drill. An afternoon siesta: Regular Army: late C. 19–20. B. & P. blanket fair. Bed: coll.: C. 19–20, ob. Cf. Bedfordshire, sheet alley, cloth market.

blanket hornpipe. Sexual intercourse: from ca. 1810; ob. Lex. Bal. Cf. the C. 17 S.E. blanket-love, illicit amours.

blanket stiff. A tramp that never utilises the casual wards: C. 20 c. ? ex U.S. blanketeer. See hot blanketeer.

blankets. (Extremely rare in singular.) 'The 10's in a pack of cards: military: from 1915. F. & Gibbons. Ex the rolling of blankets in tens for convenience of transport.

blankety; blanky. Damned; accursed: coll. (mostly and prob. orig. American): from ca. 1880.

Ex blank, q.v., the 'blank' being the dash ('—') beloved of prudes and printers.

blarmme! Blimey!: Cockney (— 1887). Baumann. Cf.:

blarmed, adj. 'Blamed', confounded (e.g. thing): Cockney (— 1887). Baumann.

blarney. Honeyed flattery, smooth cajolery (— 1819); coll. Grose, 1785, records a sense rather more grave: 'He has licked the Blarney stone; he deals in the wonderful, or tips us the traveller'; ibid, 'To tip the Blarney, is figuratively used for telling a marvellous story, or falsity.' In the 3rd ed. he adds: 'Also sometimes to express flattery.' Ex a stone in the wall of Castle Blarney, Ireland, the kissing of which—'a gymnastic operation', W.—is reputed to ensure a gift of cajolery and unblushing effrontery. Cf.:

blarney, v.i. and v.t. To cajole; flatter grossly: coll., ex the n. Southey in 1803 (O.E.D.). The vbl.n. blarneying is fairly common, blarneyer much less so.

blarneyfied. Adj., blarneyed: 1830, Fraser's Magazine, 'No balderdash of blarneyfied botheration' (O.E.D.). blarsted. See blasted.

blasé. Satiated with pleasure. From 1819 until ca. 1860, s., but ca. 1860–1900 coll.; thereafter S.E. Byron uses the term, but its popularity came ca. 1840–4, when two versions of the Fr. farce, L'Homme Blasé, were played on the London stage.—2. Hence, conceited; pretentious: Charterhouse: from ca. 1910.

blase. A conceited or pretentious person: Charterhouse: from ca. 1910. Ex blasé, 2. Hence:

blase, v. To be conceited; put on 'side': Charterhouse: from ca. 1910.

blashy. Esp. a blashy day, wretched weather: nautical coll. (— 1887) ex dial. blashy, gusty, rainy (1788). Baumann.

blast. To curse and swear (intransitively): coll. >, in late C. 19, S.E.: from ca. 1850, in gen. use (orig. military); foreshadowed in C. 17.

[blast! A curse. Oaths, unless they consist of words already s. or coll., are often neither s. nor coll. though they verge on the latter.]

blast, at (or in) full. (Hard) at work: coll.; from ca. 1860; now bordering on S.E. Ex the lit. sense (— 1800).

blasted. As a euphemism for bloody, it has no place here, but as a low expletive adj., violently coll. and = 'execrable', it is in point. From ca. 1740. (Cf. the ensuing pair of entries.) The spelling blarsted is superfluous: nobody except a rustic, i.e. in dial., so draws out the a—and even then the spelling should be, not blarsted but blaasted.

blasted brimstone. A harlot: ca. 1780–1830. Grose, 1st ed. Cf.:

blasted fellow. An abandoned rogue: ca. 1760–1830; cf. Chesterfield's 'the most notorious blasted rascal in the world', in a letter of Jan. 8, 1750.

blat. To talk much: s. (— 1923) ex C. 18–20 dial. blate, bleet, to roar, to talk wildly. Manchon.

blater. A sheep: C. 18–mid-19 c. Lytton. A corruption of bleater. See bleating.—2. A calf: c.: mid-C. 18–19. Grose, 2nd ed.

blather. See blether.—blatherskite. See blether-skate.

blatter. (Gen. in passive.) To strike, assault: Glasgow: C. 20. Prob. ex dial. blatter (gen. blather), to splash or befoul.

Blayne's Bloodhounds. (Military) the Eighty-Ninth Foot, from ca. 1881 the 2nd Battalion of the Royal Irish Fusiliers: from 1798, during the Irish Rebellion. Blayne was their colonel: and they excelled in tracking the rebels. Also known as The Rollickers, for they bore themselves jovially, swaggeringly.

blaze a trail. Lit., S.E. and orig. (— 1737) U.S. Fig., C. 19–20: coll. at first but soon S.E. and soon anglicised.

(blaze away and) blaze away! Look sharp! Work hard! Later (cf. fire away!) go ahead! Coll.: from ca. 1825 in the indicative and from ca. 1850 as an adjuration. Ex the rapid firing of cannons and rifles.

blazer. A (light) sports jacket: 1880. Orig. the bright scarlet jacket of the Lady Margaret Boat Club of St. John's College, Cambridge. Coll.; in C. 20, S.E. Punch in 1885: 'Harkaway turns up clad in what he calls a blazer, which makes him look like a nigger minstrel out for a holiday.'—2. A bomb-ketch; a mortar-boat: naval: C. 19. Bowen.

blazers. Spectacles: Cockney (— 1887); ob. Baumann. Ex the sun therefrom reflected.

blazes. The bright clothes of flunkeys: ex the episode of Sam Weller and the 'swarry' in Dickens's Pickwick Papers. Ob. Cf.:

blazes! A forcible exclamation: from the 1830's. Ex the flames of hell.

blazes, drunk as. Exceedingly drunk: from ca. 1860. Perhaps not from blazes! (q.v.) but a folk-etymology corruption of drunk as blazers, ca. 1830–60, a phrase arising from a feast held in honour of St. Blaize, blazers being the participants. See F. & H.

blazes, go to. To depart hastily; to disappear melodramatically: cf. the adjuration, go to blazes! and to († the) blazes (e.g. with it)! From the mid-1830's. Also in such phrases as that in 'He consigned me to blazes.' See blazes!

blazes, how or what or who the?! An intensive coll. interrogation; c.g. in Dickens, 1838, 'What the blazes is in the wind now?' (O.E.D.), and ibid, 1836, 'How the blazes you can stand the head-work you do, is a mystery to me.' See blazes!

blazes, like. Vehemently; with ardour. From ca. 1840; coll. As in Disraeli's Sybil, 'They . . . cheered the red-coats like blazes.' See blazes!

Blazes, Old. The devil: from ca. 1845; ob. Cf. blazes!, q.v.

blazing. A coll. intensive adj. (gen. euphemistic; e.g. for bloody), as in a blazing shame: from ca. 1830.—2. Hence, (of a money-market that is) exceptionally active and good: Stock Exchange coll.: C. 20.

bleached mort. A very fair-complexioned girl: mid-C. 18–early 19 c. Grose, 1st ed. (Cf. the C. 20 peroxide blonde.) Prob. ex the mort lay last night a-bleaching, 'the wench looks very fair to Day', A New Canting Dict., 1725.

bleacher. A maid-servant: Glasgow (— 1934). blear the eyes of. To hoodwink, deceive, trick: C. 14–19; coll. > S.E. by C. 16. Chaucer, Shakespeare, Scott. Cf. throw dust in the eyes. (O.E.D.) bleat. A grumble: naval: late C. 19–20. Bowen. Cf.:

bleat. To complain, grumble; to lay information: from ca. 1560. This pejorative implies either feebleness or cowardice or an unpleasant readiness to blab.

bleater. A victim of sharp or rook: c.: C. 17– early 19. Dekker. Grose.—2. A sheep: c.: C. 17—early 19. Brome. Cf.:

bleating, in C. 17—early 19 c., is an adj.: sheep; as in bleating cull, a sheep-stealer; bleating prig or rig, sheep-stealing; bleating cheat = a sheep.—2. Among the lower classes, a euphemism for bloody: C. 20. Manchon.

bleed. Blood, 'as "She'll have his bleed"—usually said of a woman who is rating her husband', Ware: proletarian (mostly London): from ca. 1800. Cf. bleeding, q.v.

bleed, v. To extort, overtly or covertly, money from: late C. 17—20, coll.—2. V.i. part (freely) with money: from ca. 1660, coll. in C. 19; ob.; little used since ca. 1850. Dryden, 1668, 'He is vehement, and bleeds on to fourscore or an hundred; and I, not willing to tempt fortune, come away a moderate winner of two hundred pistoles.'—3. In printing, a book bleeds when the margin is so cut away that portions of the printed matter are also removed: from ca. 1870: s. > coll. > j. But since ca. 1920 (also bleed off), one bleeds a book-jacket when the colours are made to run over, i.e. appear to continue beyond the edges.—4. To let out water: nautical: late C. 19—20. F. & H., revised.—5. Hence, to let (cask, etc., of e.g. wine) fall in order to steal the escaping liquor: c.: C. 20. Manchon.

bleed a buoy. 'To let the water out': nautical coll. (now verging on j.): mid-C. 19—20. Bowen.

bleed off. See bleed, v., 3.

bleed the monkey. (Naval) to steal rum from the mess tub or monkey. C. 19. Cf. suck the monkey and tap the admiral.

bleeder. A spur: low: C. 19—20; ob. Vaux.—2. A sovereign: C. 19—20 sporting, ob.—3. A notable duffer: university s., ca. 1870—1910. Hence, gen., = a bloody fool, ca. 1880—1914.—4. Hence (owing to the influence of silly bleeder), a fellow, a man: from ca. 1890; mainly Cockney. Clarence Rook, The Hooligan Nights, 1899. See essay, 'The Word Bloody', in Words! Cf. bleeding, q.v.—5. A person whose blood does not coagulate properly: medical coll.: C. 20. (As a person suffering from hæmophilia, bleeder is S.E.)

bleeding. A low coll. intensive adj. of little meaning: its import is emotional, not mental. (Rarely used as a euphemism for bloody.) From ca. 1857 (O.E.D. Sup.). Besant & Rice in Son of Vulcan, 1877, 'When he isn't up to one dodge he is up to another. You make no bleeding error.' Cf. bleed (n.) and bleeder, qq.v.

bleeding cully. An easy victim; a ready parter with money: late C. 17—late 19 c. Grose, 1st ed. Ex. bleed, v., 2.

bleeding new. Quite new; fresh: mid-C. 18—20, ob.; coll. Grose, 3rd ed. Ex fish, which do not bleed when stale.

[Blends. See Slang, pp. 279—80.]

Blenheim Pippin, the. Lord Randolph Churchill: political nickname: 1883, Entr'acte, April 7. Punning that variety of apple; Lord Randolph, a son of the Duke of Marlborough (whose family seat is Blenheim, near Oxford), was 'diminutive' (Ware).

bless my (or me) soul! See soul!, bless my.

bless oneself. Ironical for curse: from ca. 1600; coll. After ca. 1800, S.E. 'How my Lord Treasurer did bless himself', Pepys in his diary, April 1, 1665. Also, to bless another: to reprimand, scold, curse, curse at, sweat at him: coll. > S.E.; C. 19—20.

bless oneself with, not a (penny, shilling, etc.) to.

Penniless: from ca. 1550: coll. till ca. 1800, then S.E. Dickens has it. 'In allusion to the cross on the silver penny . . . or to the practice of crossing the palm with a piece of silver', S.O.D. In fact a proverbial phrase, recorded in 1540, runs: not a cross [coin] to bless oneself with (Apperson).

bless one's stars. To consider oneself lucky: coll. (— 1845). Hood.

blessed, blest. As euphemism, S.E.; as irony, coll.: C. 19—20. Cf. bless oneself. But blessed if I do = I certainly won't, is 'pure' coll.; from ca. 1880.

blessing. A small surplus of goods given by a huckster: late C. 18—19; coll. Grose, 2nd ed. Extant in dial.—2. A bottle of whisky given to the pilot as he left a ship: nautical coll.: C. 19. Bowen.

blather, occ. blather. Vapid or noisy talk; voluble nonsense: coll. from ca. 1840. The term is ex Scottish and Northern dial. and was orig. (M.E.)—and still is—a v. Blather is the earlier form, but its use in coll. English is owing to U.S. influence. Edward Yates, in Broken to Harness, 1864: 'There's a letter . . . from Sir Mordaunt . . . promisin' all sorts of things; but I'm sick of him and his blather.' W. Clark Russell, 1884: 'Mrs. O'Brien was blathering about the pedigree of the O'Briens.' The Pall Mall Gazette, May 3, 1886: 'Havelock's florid adjurations to his men, the grim veterans of the 78th, bluntly characterised as blather.' Hence blethering, vbl.n. and adj., in exactly corresponding senses: dial. >, ca. 1860, coll.

blethering. A variant of blithering, q.v.: coll.: from ca. 1914. O.E.D. (Sup.).

bletherskate, occ. blatherskite. The former is the Scottish, the latter the American form: orig. (C. 17), Scottish dial.; > popular in U.S. in 1860's and coll. in England ca. 1870.

blew. To inform on, expose: mid-C. 19—20, ob. H., 1st ed. Cf. blow upon.—2. To cause to disappear; spend, waste: from ca. 1850: gen. of money, as in blew one's screw, squander one's wages or salary. ? ex idea of sending into the sky (W.). The Sporting Times, better known as The Pink Un, June 29, 1889:

'Isabel and Maudie knew the Turf and all its arts—

They had often blewed a dollar on a wrong 'un—
And Isabel one evening met a mug from rural parts, An attenuated Juggins, and a long 'un.'

blew, adj. An † form of blue, q.v.

blew it. To inform to the police: c. (— 1839); ob. Brandon.

blewed. See blued.

blick. See 'Westminster School slang'.

bli'me! See blimy! (C. J. Dennis.)

blig. A town boy: schoolboys': C. 20. Ex Northern dial. Ex dial. blig, a blackguard, a cad (E.D.D.).

bliged. Obligated: Cockney coll. (— 1887). Bau-mann.

blighted. Euphemistic for bloody: coll.: C. 20. Manchon.

blighter. A contemptible person (rarely of a woman): from ca. 1896. A euphemism (perhaps on blithering) for *b*gger*: W.—2. A 'Jonah' actor: theatrical (1898); ob. Ware.—3. A chap, fellow: C. 20; ex jocular use of primary sense.

Blighty. England; home: military: recorded by O.E.D. (Sup.) for 1915, but in use in India for at least five years earlier. Ex Hindustani bilayati (Arabic wilayati), foreign, esp. European.—2. Hence, a wound taking one home: military: from 1915. Occ. blighty boy (1916).—3. Adj., as in Blighty leave, furlough to England: military: from 1916. See esp. O.E.D. (Sup.), B. & P., and Yule & Burnell (at blatty, an early form).

Blighty!, roll on. 'When this bloody war is over, | Oh! how happy I shall be': a military c.p. of 1916–18. (Manchon.)

Blighty bag. A small stuff-bag issued at the Casualty Clearing Stations, where soldiers were deprived of their kit and so had nothing in which to carry personal belongings: military: 1915–18. F. & Gibbons. Ex their 'manufacture' in Blighty.

Blighty hut. (One's) home: military: 1917–18. Cf. Blighty, 2.

Blighty touch, have the. To be lucky: military: 1916–19. Cf. Blighty, 3.

blim(e)y, occ. blimy! Abbr. Gorblimy (God blind me)!: mostly Cockney: late C. 19–20. Barrère & Leland.

blimey, adj. Sentimental; (likewise esp. of songs) sentimental and popular: theatrical, music-halls': from ca. 1920. Maurice Lincoln, Oh! Definitely, 1933.

blimp. 'A small non-rigid dirigible airship': 1915: military s. rapidly > coll., then j. Invented by Horace Shortt (O.E.D. Sup.; B. & P.).

blind. The night time: C. 19 coll.—2. A pre-text: from ca. 1660. In C. 18, coll.; thereafter, S.E.—3. Among printers, from ca. 1870, a paragraph mark, ¶: ex the filling-up of the 'eye' of the reversed P.—4. A (very) drunken bout: from ca. 1912. Ex blind drunk.—5. See blind baggage (Addenda).

blind. To curse: soldiers' > gen.: from the late 1880's. Kipling:

'If you're cast for fatigue by a sergeant unkind, Don't grouse like a woman, nor crack on, nor blind.'

Ex such curses as blind your eyes!—2. To go heedlessly, esp. of a motorist recklessly speeding: 1923 (O.E.D. Sup.).—3. To cheat (a person): c. or low: ca. 1815–40. (O.E.D. at nail, v., § 8, c.)

blind, adj. In liquor; tipsy: C. 17–18 c. (Cf. the S.E. blind-drunk.) The c. term has, in C. 20, > slang, popularised during the G.W.—2. See table-cloth.—3. See blind ten.

blind, go (it). To enter uninformed or rashly into an undertaking: U.S. (1848) anglicised ca. 1900. Prob. ex poker.

blind, when the devil is. Never: from ca. 1650, ob.; coll. Howell, Scott.

blind alley. The puerum muliebre: low: C. 19–20.

blind as a brickbat. Lit. and fig., exceedingly blind: coll. verging on S.E.: Dickens, 1850. Ex the C. 17–20 S.E. blind as a bat. Cf. the idiomatic blind as a beetle, as a buzzard, as a mole.

blind buckler. A wooden plug that, for use with hawse-pipes, has no passage for the cable: nautical coll. verging on j.: late C. 19–20. Bowen.

blind cheeks. The posteriors: late C. 17–20, ob.; after ca. 1800, coll. Recorded first in B.E., who adds 'Kiss my Blind-cheeks, Kiss my Ar—'; Grose, 2nd ed., has 'Buss blind cheeks; kiss mine a-se.' Cf. —blind Cupid. The same: low: ca. 1810–60. Lex. Bal.

blind drunk. Very drunk: from ca. 1830: coll. >, ca. 1890, S.E. Disraeli in Sybil, 1845: 'Hang me if I wasn't blind drunk at the end of it.' Cf. blind, n., 4.

blind eye. The podex: low: C. 18–20; ob. Cf. blind cheeks.

blind guard. A guard-post invisible from the central watch-house (and therefore popular): coastguardsmen's coll.: C. 19. Bowen.

Blind Half Hundred (occ. Hundredth), the. The Fiftieth Regiment of Foot: from ca. 1881 the 1st Battalion of the Royal West Kents. H., 3rd. ed., says ex the ophthalmia common in the Egyptian campaign, 1801. Hence, from ca. 1890 in the game of house, '50'. The regiment was also known as The Dirty Half-Hundred, q.v., and The Gallant Fiftieth, q.v.

blind harper. A beggar that, counterfeiting blindness, plays the harp or the fiddle: late C. 17–18 c. B.E.; Grose.

blind Hookey. A great risk: non-aristocratic (—1909); ob. Ware, "Oh, it's Blind Hookey to attempt it." From a card game.

blind man (occ. officer, reader). One who deals with 'blind', i.e. imperfectly or indistinctly addressed, letters: from ca. 1864. S. > coll. > j. (S.O.D.)

blind man's holiday. Night, darkness: late C. 16–17. From 1690, the gloaming: early examples occur in B.E. and Swift. Coll.; in late C. 19–20, S.E.

blind monkeys to evacuate, lead the. A C. 19–20 (ob.) coll., implicative of a person's inability to do any worth-while job. Apparently from ca. 1840 and in reference to the Zoological Gardens: see H.

blind roller. A single, unexpected big sea in calm weather: nautical coll.: mid-C. 19–20. Bowen.

blind side. The weakest, most assailable side: Chapman, 1606. Coll.; S.E. in C. 19–20.

blind swiping. See swiping.

blind ten, twenty, thirty. 10, 20, 30 (etc.) in the game of house: military: C. 20. B. & P. Ex the noughts: having only one '0' or eye.

blinded with science. A c.p. applied to brawn defeated by brains: Australian and New Zealand: C. 20.

blinder. 'A huge, curling wave' before the pre-1913 deepening of the channel at Durban: mostly Durban: late C. 19–early 20. Pettman.—2. See poodler.

blinder, take a. To die: mid-C. 19–20 c.; ob. I.e. take a blind leap in, or into, the dark.

blindo. A drunken spree or bout: low: ca. 1860–1910. Cf. wido.—2. Hence, tipsy: military: C. 20. F. & Gibbons.—3. A sixpenny piece: C. 20 vagrants' c. Cf. broad, n.

blindo. To die: ca. 1860–1910. Military: perhaps on dekko, q.v., and cf. blinder, take a.

blink. A light: c. of ca. 1820–70. Egan's Grose.—2. See bit of blink.—3. A cigarette-stump: military: C. 20. F. & Gibbons. It caused one to do so in smoking it.

blink, like a. Immediately; in but a moment: coll.: C. 20. E. Phillips Oppenheim, The Strange Boarders of Palace Crescent, 1935, 'Must have died like a blink.' Prob. on like winking or in a flash.

blink-fencer. A seller of spectacles: mid-C. 19–20 (ob.) c. H., 1st ed. Ex blinks = blinkers; see blinks, 1, and fence(r). blinker. The eye (1816, ob.); pl., spectacles: coll. > S.E.: from ca. 1730.—2. A hard blow in the eye: C. 19.—3. A blackened eye: Norwich s.

(— 1860); †. H., 2nd ed.—4. A chap, fellow: late C. 19–20 dial. > C. 20 s. Cf. blighter, bleeder, and blinking, prob. its effective origin.

blinkers!, blank your eyes!: jocularly euphemistic (— 1890); ob. See blinker, 1.

blinking. A verbal counter, indicating mild reprobation or mere excitement: from ca. 1890. 'Prob. for blanking, euphemism for bleeding, with vowel thinned as in bilk', W.

Blinking Sam. Dr. Samuel Johnson (1709–84). Dawson.

blinko. An amateur entertainment—gen. held at a 'pub'. C.: from ca. 1870; ob. Perhaps because it makes one blink; in form, cf. blindo.

blinks. A pair of spectacles: c. (— 1845); ob.—2. One who blinks: a coll. nickname: C. 17–20.

blip. 'To switch an aeroplane engine on and off': Air Force: from 1915. F. & Gibbons. Blend ex blink up; or a perversion of flip.

blip-o! A derisive cry at a boat's coxswain colliding with anything: Worcester training-ship: late C. 19–20. Bowen.

blister. 'The anti-torpedo bulge in a man-of-war': naval: C. 20. Bowen.—2. An objectionable person: Public Schools': C. 20. Ian Hay, The Lighter Side of School Life, 1914. Prob. ex Northern Ireland, where it has been in use from before 1898 (E.D.D.). Semantically it is to be compared with blistering, q.v. blister, v. To punish moderately; to fine: proletarian: from 1890; ob. Ware.—2. To thrash: C. 20; ob. A. H. Dawson.

blister it, them, etc. Blast it, them!: euphemistic coll.: 1840, H. Cockton.

blistering. A euphemism for bloody: coll.: C. 20. Manchon.

blitherer. A silly fool: coll.: C. 20. (P. G. Wodehouse, Mike, 1909.) Ex:

blithering (gen. with idiot). Volubly nonsensical; hence merely 'arrant': coll. (1889) >, by 1930, S.E. (O.E.D. Sup.) 'Thinned form of . . . blether, with vowel perhaps suggested by drivelling', W.

blizzard. A sharp or stunning blow; an overwhelming argument, a severe reprimand. Coll.: orig. (— 1830), U.S.; anglicised ca. 1875, but ob. by 1930. See esp. F. & H.

blizzard collar. A woman's high stand-up collar: Society: 1897, The Daily Telegraph, Jan. 16; † by 1920. Ware, 'Suggestive of cold weather'.

bloak. See bloke.

bloat. 'A drowned body. (2) A drunkard. (3) A contemptuous term applied indiscriminately to anybody', A. H. Dawson: ? error for bloater. Late C. 19–20.

bloated. A lower-classes' euphemism for bloody: C. 20. Manchon.

bloated aristocrat. Any man of rank and wealth: coll.; from ca. 1850, though adumbrated in 1731. Thackeray, 1861: 'What a bloated aristocrat Thingamy has become since he got his place!' In C. 20 the term is bloated plutocrat, which when used seriously is S.E.; when jocularly, coll.

bloater. A B.E.8 aeroplane: Air Force: late 1914–15. F. & Gibbons.

bloater, mild. A little dandy, a dandy of no account: low: C. 20. Manchon.

bloater, my. My darling; my man: low: C. 20. Ibid.

blob. A 'duck's egg': cricket: coll.: 1898, says Ware; 1934, W. J. Lewis, 'From the cipher 0 placed against his name on the score-sheet'; ultimately ex blob, a blot, a shapeless mass.—2. A glass of beer: military; C. 20. F. & Gibbons.—3. Patter or beggars' tales: vagrants' c. (— 1861). Mayhew. Cf.

blob, v. To talk, esp. if indiscreetly; to 'patter': from ca. 1850; c. Same period: on the blob, by talking (Mayhew, 1851). Ex blab.

blob, get a. To make no score: cricketers' coll.: 1905, Norman Gale (W. J. Lewis). Ex the n. Also make a blob, 1903 (O.E.D. Sup.); used fig., to make nothing, it is likewise coll.: from ca. 1905.

blob, on the. See blob, v.

block. A person either stupid or hard-hearted: C. 16–20; coll. until ca. 1660, then S.E. Early examples are offered by Udall (in Ralph Roister Doister), Shakespeare, Jonson. Cf. deaf, dull, etc., as a block.—2. The head: C. 17–20. Shirley, ca. 1637. See also block, lose the.—3. In Scottish c., a policeman: recorded for 1868 (Ware), but prob. from ca. 1860.—4. 'The young lady of fine shape who in the mantle department tries on for the judgment of the lady customer', Ware: linen-draper's coll.: C. 20.

block, v.t. Have intercourse with a woman: C. 20, low.—2. See blocking.—3. See block a hat.—4. (Usually block a pub.) To occupy, or remain, long in: non-aristocratic (— 1909). Ware, 'Gen. said of a sot'.

block, a chip of the same or (same) old. Of the same character; with inherited characteristics. Coll.: C. 17–20. In a sermon, Sanderson, 1627: 'Am I not a child of the same Adam, a vessel of the same clay, a chip of the same block with him?' (O.E.D.)

block, barber's. The head: from ca. 1820; in Scott.—2. Also, an over-dressed man (— 1876, ob.). Both ex the wooden block on which barbers displayed a wig.

block, do in the; occ. do one's block. See block, lose the.

block, do the. To promenade: 1869, Marcus Clarke: Melbourne s. >, by 1890, gen. Australian coll. Ex the fashionable block of buildings in Collins Street between Swanston and Elizabeth Streets. Morris.—2. Hence, on the block, promenading thus: Australian coll.: 1896, The Argus, July 17.

block, lose (or do in) the; occ. do one's block. To become angry, excited, diffident: Australian (— 1916). C. J. Dennis, who has also keep the block, to remain dispassionate.

block, off one's. Panicky; crazy; occ., angry: late C. 19–20. F. & Gibbons. See block, n., 2.

block a hat. 'To knock a man's hat down over his eyes', H., 3rd ed.: from ca. 1860. Perhaps ex block, the head.

block and fall. Irritably drunk: Anglo-Irish: C. 20.

block-house. A prison: ca. 1620–1840, but not gen. before late C. 18. (B.E. considers it to be c.) Earlier, S.E.: a fort; cf. G.W. usage.

block-ornament, blocker. A small piece of inferior meat displayed on a butcher's block: coll.: from ca. 1845; slightly ob.—2. A queer-looking person: from ca. 1860; †.

block with a razor, cut a. (Often blocks for a block.) To try in a futile or incongruous way: coll. Goldsmith, 1774. Ob.

blocker. A bowler hat: mainly stores and hatters': C. 20. (John Brophy, Waterfront, 1934.) —2. See block-ornament.

blocking. (Parliamentary) the preventing or postponing of a bill being passed, esp. of its being voted-on after 12.30 at night: 1884; coll. > j. > S.E. (S.O.D.)

bloke; in mid-C. 19, occ. bloak. Occ. contemptuous; occ. a term of address among sailors. A man; a chap, fellow (— 1839). Until ca. 1860, c.; until ca. 1900, low. Pre-1870 examples: Brandon (in 'Ducange Anglicus'), Mayhew, Sala, Kingsley, Ouida, Miss Braddon, James Greenwood. Also, 2, a lover ('Sally and her bloke', Ware): from ca. 1880. And, 3, in C. 20 Navy, a man's (passive) male; 4, in late C. 19—early 20 universities, an 'outsider', a book-grubber, as Ware notes. Perhaps ex Dutch blok, a fool, or (via Romany) ex Hindustani, loke, a man; Weekley thinks that it derives ex Shelta (Irish tinkers' c.). Note, however, the slightly earlier gloak, q.v.: though, of course, gloak may well derive ex Shelta.

bloke, the. The commander of one's man-of-war: naval: late C. 19–20. Bowen.

bloke with the jasey, the. The judge: c. or low s. (— 1874). H., 5th ed. Ex bloke, 1.

blondie or -y. A blonde girl: non-aristocratic and non-cultured coll.: from ca. 1925.

blone. A corruption of blowen, q.v. (Egan's Grose.) blonked. See blanked.

[blood, by itself or in combination with God's, Christ's, in oaths: all † by 1900.]

blood. A fast or a foppish man: C. 16—early 19, coll. Now literary and archaic.—2. University and Public Schools': a senior held to be a setter of fashion and manners: from ca. 1880.—3. Hence, a passenger favourably regarded: ships' stewards': C. 20. Bowen.—4. Money: coll.: C. 18–19.—5. A wall-flower: low, mostly London: late C. 19–20; slightly ob. Ware. Cf. bug, n., 3: likewise ex the colour.—6. A 'penny dreadful': naval (— 1909). Ware.—7. Hence, any 'thriller': gen. public: from ca. 1918.—8. A third-class shot: military: late C. 19–20; ob. F. & Gibbons.—9. A blood orange: fruiterers' and grocers' coll.: late C. 19–20.

blood, v. Deprive of money: ca. 1860–1910. Hawley Smart, 1884. Cf. bleed.

blood, adj. Fashionable; distinguished: Public Schools': late C. 19–20. P. G. Wodehouse, Mike, 1909, 'You might think it was the blood thing to do to imitate him.' Ex blood, n., 2.

blood, in and out of. Vigorous, weak. C. 19–20 hunting s. ex hunting j.

blood, young. (C. 20 political.) A youthful and vigorous member of a party.

blood and entrails (more gen., guts). The red ensign: nautical: late C. 19–20. Bowen.

blood and guts alderman. A pompous man; a man with a large 'corporation': C. 19.

Blood-and-Iron. Bismarck: a coll., journalistic nickname (— 1887); virtually †. Baumann. Ex his doctrine.

blood and 'ouns ! I.e. God's blood and wounds: C. 18–19.

blood and thunder. A mixture of port wine and brandy: ca. 1860–1910. Ex colour and effect, resp. (The phrase was orig. an oath.)

blood and thunder tales. Low-class, sensational, over-adventurous fiction: ? orig. U.S.; in England from ca. 1885. Coll. Cf. awfuls, penny dreadfuls, shilling shockers.

blood ball. 'The butchers' annual hopser [sic], a very lusty and fierce-eyed function': London trade: late C. 19–20; virtually †. Ware. Cf. bung ball, q.v.

blood-boat. A tally-boat: naval: late C. 19–20. Ex high prices charged.—2. A particularly hard sailing ship with a brutal afterguard: nautical coll.: mid-C. 19–20. Bowen.

blood-curdler or -freezer. A thrilling, esp. a 'creepy' narration or incident: coll., from ca. 1870. Cf. blood-and-thunder tales, shilling shocker, thriller, and blood, n., 6 and 7.

blood for blood. In kind: tradesmen's, esp. in purchase and payment; from ca. 1780; ob. Grose, 2nd ed. (With deal.)

blood for breakfast ! (, there's). A naval c.p. (late C. 19–20) in reference to the admiral's or captain's morning temper if it is bad. Bowen.

Blood-Hole, the. A Poplar theatre specialising in melodrama: East London: ca. 1880–1914. Ware.

blood on the bullet. A musketry-instructors' c.p. intimating that a bullet should, if possible, have a fleshy billet: 1915; ob. F. & Gibbons.

blood or beer ! A London streets' jocular c.p. = fight or pay for such refreshment!: ca. 1900–15. Ware.

blood-red fancy. A red silk handkerchief (— 1839, ob.): boxing world. Brandon.

blood-stained. A C. 20 (mainly post-G.W.) facetious alternative, rarely euphemistic, for bloody, adj.

blood-sucker. A lazy fellow involving his shipmates in additional work: nautical coll. (— 1867). Smyth.

Blood-Suckers. The Sixty-Third Regiment of Foot, now—and since ca. 1881—the 1st Battalion of the Manchester Regiment: military: from ca. 1860; ob.

blood-worm. A sausage; esp. a black pudding: proletarian London: ca. 1850–1910. Ware.

bloody, adj. A low coll. intensive, orig., and still occ., connoting detestation: from ca. 1810. Lex. Bal., 1811, 'A favourite word used by the thieves in swearing, as bloody eyes, bloody rascal'; Egan, 1823, added: 'Irish'. During the G.W., an adj. of all work, often used with a splendid disregard for congruity. Ex and cf.:

bloody, adv. (In mid-C. 17–18, gen. bloody drunk.) Also a low coll. intensive; = very. C. 17–20, but respectable till ca. 1750. In C. 17, there was an undertone of violence, in early C. 18 (cf. blood, n., q.v.) of high but roistering birth: from ca. 1750, neutral ethically and socially, but (until ca. 1920, at least) objectionable aesthetically. Only since the G.W. has it, in post-1800 days, been at all gen. written in full. There is no need for ingenious etymologies: the idea of blood suffices. For both adj. and adv., see F. & H., O.E.D., Weekley's Adjectives and his Words Ancient and Modern, Robert Graves's Lars Porsena in the revised ed., and esp. my Words!; the last contains a 2,000-word essay on the subject.—2. It is often inserted, as in abso-bloody-lutely, hoo-bloody-rah, not bloody likely: C. 20. Manchon.

bloody back. A soldier: pejorative: late C. 18—early 19. Grose, 1st ed. Ex the scarlet uniform.

bloody carpet bags of, make. To mutilate, e.g. with a razor: imported (— 1909) into Liverpool from U.S.; ob. Ware. Many carpet bags are red.

Bloody Claverse. Graham of Claverhouse, Viscount Dundee (1643–89). Dawson.

Bloody Eleventh. The Eleventh Regiment of Foot, now—and since ca. 1881—the Devonshire Regiment: military: C. 19–20, ob. Ex. the bloody battle of Salamanca in the Peninsular War; they had already suffered heavily at Fontenoy. Dawson.

bloody end to me !; I wish my bloody eyes may drop out if it is not true !; God strike me blind ! 'Thieves' oaths recorded in Egan's Grosc, 1823.

bloody flag. That single red flag which is the signal for close action: naval: C. 19–20; ob. Bowen.

Bloody Forty (or b.f.), the. A criminal gang infesting the Liverpool Docks in the 1850's: nautical coll. It was 'broken up by Captain Samuels of the Dreadnought' (Bowen).

bloody jenny. An uncooked sheep's head: ca. 1810–1914. Vaux, 1812; H., 1st ed. Also known as a sanguinary James and a mountain pecker.

Bloody King's. That red-brick church (St. Mary's the Less) in Barnwell which resembles King's College Chapel in architecture: Cambridge University: late C. 19–20. Cf. Bloody Mary's.

Bloody Mackenzie. Sir G. Mackenzie (1636–91), a lawyer bitter against the Covenanters. Dawson.

Bloody Mary. Queen Mary of England (d. 1558). Ex the persecutions she allowed. (This nickname soon > an historical and theological counter, a mere sobriquet of 'the Swan of Avon' type.)

Bloody Mary's. 'The red-brick church, St. Paul's, resembling St. Mary's in Cambridge, the University church', F. & H. revised: Cambridge University: late C. 19–20.

bloody (or B.) Monday. The first day of vacation, set aside for the detention and punishment of offenders: schoolboys' (orig. Winchester): ca. 1670–1770. O.E.D. Contrast black Monday.

Bloody Pirates. A good-natured South-Seas nickname for Burns, Philp & Co., the big steamship firm of the Pacific: C. 20. Punning B.P.'s, as they are also called.

bloomer. A mistake: Australian and English (— 1889). Barrère & Leland. Perhaps a 'blend' of bloom and error.

bloomeration. Illumination: London illiterate: 1897; ob. and, prob., never gen. Ware.

blooming. (Occ. euphemistic—cf. bleeding—for bloody.) A mild intensive adj. and adv.; cf. bally, blinking. The S.O.D. dates the earliest instance at 1882; the usage was foreshadowed early in C. 18. Its popularity in the 1880's was owing largely to Alfred G. Vance, the comic singer.

Bloomsbury Birds. 'Hot-spirited recusants', the disciples of 'corner-miching priests': London ecclesiastical circles: ca. 1630–90. Hacket (whose phrases they are).

bloss, blowse. A wench; a low harlot: the former certainly c. always, the latter prob. a c. word at one period. These senses date from late C. 17. Prob. ex blowse, 2, q.v., but not impossibly abbr. blossom. Cf. blower, q.v.—2. 'A Thief or Shop-lift', B.E.: c. of late C. 17—early 19. Prob. an extension of sense 1.

blossom-faced, bloated; blossom-nose, a tippler: lower classes': mid-C. 19–20; ob.

blot one's copy book. A C. 20 coll.: to make a mistake, a faux pas, a bad impression. Ex elementary school.

blot the scrip. To put in writing: mid-C. 17–18; prob. c. Hence blot the scrip and jark it, to stand engaged; be bound for anyone: late C. 17–18 c. Jark = a, or to, seal.

blotto. Drunk: from ca. 1905. P. G. Wodehouse, of a drunken man, 'He was oiled, boiled, fried, plastered, whiffled, sozzled, and blotto.' Ex the porousness of blotting-paper, possibly suggested or influenced by Romany molto, intoxicated.

blouser. 'To cover up, to hide, to render nugatory', to mislead: ca. 1880–1914. Ex the Fr. workman's blouse. Ware, 'Probably in an anti-Gallican spirit'.

blow. In c., goods, esp. in bite the blow: late C. 17–18. B.E., Grose.—2. A shilling: ca. 1870–1910, low.—3. A spree, drunken frolic: Oxford and Cambridge, ca. 1800–70.—4. A breathing-space: coll., C. 19–20. Cf. get a blow, to get a breath of fresh air, or a considerable exposure to wind: from ca. 1890; coll.—5. A copulation: from the man's standpoint: C. 20. Perhaps ex:—6. A harlot: c. or low s. (— 1823); † by 1890. Egan's Grosc. Abbr. blowen.—7. A warning. secret information: c. (— 1926). O.E.D. (Sup.). Ex blow, v., 2.—8. (Also cold blow if esp. windy.) A taxi-cab rank: taxi-drivers': from ca. 1925. Ex the food or the rest one can get there.—9. A smoke; esp., a cigarette: c.: from ca. 1920. James Curtis, The Gilt Kid, 1936.

blow, v. To fume, storm, speak angrily: C. 16–20, coll. (O.E.D.) In later C. 19–20 the term, in its first two nuances, has, after nearly a century of obsolescence, been revived by contact with Australia and America, where, as 'to boast', it had—and has—a second life.—2. To inform, give information (v.t. absolute, in B.E., but gen. with up or upon, later on): from ca. 1570; S.E. till ca. 1660, coll. till C. 19, then s. 'D—n me, if I don't blow . . . I'll tell Tom Neville,' Leigh Hunt. (S.O.D.)—3. The euphemistic blow (me!) is also used as a low jocular coll. = to curse, swear at (often with past tense blowed), v.i. and v.t.: 1835, Marryat, 'If I do, blow me!' (O.E.D.). Occ. blow me tight!, † by 1920; blow me up!, current ca. 1780–1830 (George Parker), blow it!: mid-C. 19–20 (cf. blast it!).—4. Spend, lose money: see blew.—5. University, occ. as go on the blow: to indulge in a spree: C. 19.—6. Winchester College, C. 19–20: to blush (a corruption or a variant of blue, q.v.).—7. In C. 20 c., to go away, esp. if quietly and quickly.—8. Also, v.i., to 'blow the gaff' (v.t. with to): c.: C. 20. Wallace, Room 13. Cf. sense 2.—9. To open (a safe) by the use of powder: c.: late C. 19–20. James Spenser, 1934.

blow ! Go away !: lower classes' (— 1935). Ex blow, v., 7.

blow a cloud. To smoke a cigar or a pipe: coll., verging on S.E.: late C. 18–19. Tom Moore, 1819. (In late C. 17–18, raise a cloud = to smoke a pipe.)

blow a tank. To dynamite a safe: post-G.W. New Zealand c.

blow-along, roll-along tub. A full-lined sailing ship: clipper-ship sailors' coll.: mid-C. 19–20 ob. Bowen.

blow-book. A book containing indelicate pictures: C. 18, coll. The Post Man, June 8, 1708.

blow great guns. To blow a violent gale: from ca. 1840; coll. Hugh Miller. Occ. b.g.g. and small arms, †.

blow hot and cold. To vacillate; be treacherous: mid-C. 16–20; coll. till ca. 1800, then S.E.

blow-in. To arrive; enter (v.i.); come. blow-in on (a person), to visit. Coll.; C. 20. From U.S.A. blow (in) a bowl. To be a confirmed drunkard : C. 16 (? early 17); coll. Barclay, 1515. (O.E.D.)

blow in one's pipe. To spend money : low : ca. 1870–1920. Cf. blow, v., 4.

blow it ! ; blow me (tight) ! ; blow me up ! See blow, v., 3 ; for 1st, see also blew it.

blow off my last limb (or wind) ! I swear that's true : nautical (— 1923). Manchon.

blow off steam. To work, talk, swear, etc., hard, as a 'safety-valve' : from ca. 1830 ; coll. Marryat.

blow off the line. To lose in a contest : military : G.W. (F. & Gibbons.)

blow off the loose corns. 'To Lie now and then with a Woman', B.E. : late C. 17–mid-18 ; c. Cf. blow the groundsels, q.v.

blow one's bazoo. To boast, 'show off' : ca. 1870–1910. Ex Dutch bazu = bazuin, trumpet.

blow one's hide out. To eat heavily : low coll. (— 1857) ; ob. 'Ducange Anglicus.'

blow-out. A heavy meal : from ca. 1820. Bee, 1823 ; Scott, 1824.—2. V., blow oneself out : Barham, 1837 ; H., 1874, 'Sometimes the expression is, "blow out your bags"'.—2. In c., to steal (something) : late C. 19–20 ; ob.

blow sky high. To scold, or blame, most vehemently : ? orig. U.S. and anglicised ca. 1900.

blow the gab or gaff. To reveal a secret : in C. 18, c. (as in Grose, 1st ed.) ; then, always with gaff, low s., as in Marryat.

blow the grampus. (Nautical) to throw cold water on a man asleep on duty : C. 19–20 ; ob.

blow the groundsels. To 'lie with' a woman on the floor : C. 17–18 ; c. In B.E. blow-off on . . .

blow-through, have a. (Of a man) to coit : low : C. 20.

blow together. To make in a slovenly way : tailors' : from ca. 1850 ; ob.

blow-up. A discovery, disclosure : coll. : late C. 18–early 19. Grose, 2nd ed.—2. A scolding : from ca. 1839. More gen. (1839) blowing-up. Ex :—3. V., to scold : 1827, Lytton, but prob. earlier.—4. A quarrel (temporary) : from ca. 1880.—5. To accost (a person) : 'New Zealanders' : C. 20. Ex sense 3.

blow upon. To betray : C. 15–19, coll. To make public : C. 17–19. To discredit : C. 17–19, coll.

blowed, be. Euphemistic when blowed = damned ; otherwise, low coll. From the mid-1830's. Dickens, 1836, 'You be blowed.' Cf. blow, v., 3 : q.v. N.B. : in late C. 19–20, blowed is, except in this phrase, considered sol. for blown.

blowen ; blowin(g). A woman, esp. a harlot : c. : resp. late C. 18–19 (Grose, 2nd ed.) and late C. 17–early 19 (B.E.). Borrow, in his Romano Lavo-Lil, says : 'Signifying a sister in debauchery . . . the Beluñi of the Spanish Gypsies'.

blower. A boaster ; a very talkative person. Australian (and U.S.) : from ca. 1860 ; ob.—2. In late C. 17–18 c., a mistress ; a whore, as in Coles, 1676. In C. 19 c., a girl : pejoratively opp. to jomer, q.v. A variant of blowen, q.v. Brandon.—3. A pipe : low (— 1811) ; † by 1890. Lex. Bal.—4. The Blower, the Dolphin (public-house) : low : ca. 1820–50. Bee.—5. In C. 20 c., a telephone. Charles E. Leach.—6. Hence, a telephone or a telegraph for the transmission of racing news : low (— 1935).

blower and striker. A hard officer ; esp., a 'bucko' mate : nautical : late C. 19–20. Bowen.

blowhard. A boaster : Australian : 1880. In U.S. (1855 ; ob.), an adj., whence prob. the n.—2. Whence, a blustering officer, of no use with his fists : sailing-ship scamen's : from ca. 1885. Bowen.

blowing, vbl.n. Boasting : from ca. 1860. Trollope in Australia and New Zealand, 1873, 'A fine art much cultivated in the colonies, for which the colonial phrase of "blowing" has been created'.—2. See blowen.

blowing marlin-spikes(, it's). (It is) a full gale : nautical coll. : mid-C. 19–20. Bowen. I.e. the gale is strong enough to lift a marlin-spike (or almost).

blowing of a match, in the. In a moment : coll., mostly London (— 1887) ; ob. Baumann.

blowing-up. See blow-up, 2.

blown in !, look (or see) what the wind has. See who has arrived ! : jocular coll. : C. 20.

blowsabella. A country wench : C. 18 ; coll. Suggested by the character in Gay's poem, The Shepherd's Week. Cf. blousalinda, which likewise has a coll. savour.

blowse, blowze. A beggar's trull ; a wench : late C. 16–18 : either c. or low s. Chapman in All Fools. Cf. bloss, q.v.—Cf. 2, a slatternly woman : C. 16–18.

blub. To weep, esp. of children : mid-C. 19–20. Ex to blubber.—2. Also, to wet with weeping : coll. : 1804, Tarras (O.E.D.). Ex equivalent blubber.

blubber. The mouth : in C. 18–early 19, c. ; then (but in C. 20 ob.), s. A New Canting Dict., 1725 ; Grose, 1st ed.—2. A woman's breasts : low : late C. 18–20, esp. in sport blubber, to expose the breasts. Grose, 2nd ed.

blubber, v. To weep effusively, noisily : C. 15–20. Until ca. 1800, S.E. ; then coll. Smollett, Scott. (Gen. pejorative.) blubber and guts. Obesity : C. 19–20, ob. ; low. Cf. :

blubber-belly. A fat person : C. 19–20, low coll. ; ob. Cf. preceding entry.

blubber-head(ed). (A) foolish (person) : C. 19–20, ob. Mostly nautical.

blubber-hunter. A whaling-ship : pejorative nautical coll. : mid-C. 19–20. Bowen.

blucher. Winchester College : a prefect in half power : ca. 1830–1915. Also, a non-privileged cab plying at railway stations : ca. 1850–1900. Ex the Prussian field-marshal, who arrived somewhat late at the Battle of Waterloo.

bludge. To use a bludgeon : 1924, Galzworthy, The White Monkey.

bludgeon business. See swinging the stick.

bludgeoner. A harlot's bully ; a bawdy-house chucker-out : c. (— 1852) ; ob. Also, in late C. 19–20, bludger.

bludger. A thief apt to use a bludgeon, i.e. violence : c. ; from ca. 1850. H., 1st ed.—2. See bludgeoner.

[blue. This word, in the S.E., coll., and s. of C. 18–20—it is rare before ca. 1700—plays a protean and almost intangible part, for it expresses a gamut of opinions and emotions. For an excellent gen. introduction on the subject, see F. & H. at blue.]

blue. The Blue Squadron : from ca. 1700 ; orig. naval and coll. ; in C. 19, gen. and S.E. See the note at admiral of the blue.—2. A 'blue stocking' : 1788, Mme. D'Arblay ; after ca. 1800, coll. Byron, in Don Juan : 'The Blues, that tender tribe, who sigh o'er sonnets'; 'Cutnbert Bede': 'Elizabeth, the very Virgin Queen of Blues'. Hence blue = female learning; † by 1900: Byron, 'a twilight tinge of blue'.—3. A scholar of Christ's Hospital: abbr. blue-coat boy: from ca. 1820; †.—4. A policeman: from ca. 1835. Cf. blue bottle and boy, man in blue, etc.—5. A compromise between the half-pint and the pint pot: public-house, ca. 1870–1900.—6. Gen. get Don's blue. Fig. for election to an Oxford or Cambridge team in a major inter-university sport or competition: mid-C. 19–20: soon coll.; in C. 20, S.E. The Oxford colours are dark, the Cambridge light, blue.—7. (Gen. pl.) A bluejacket: nautical coll.: mid-C. 19–20; ob. Bowen.

blue, v. Blush: early C. 18. At Winchester College in C. 19. Swift, in The Tatler, 'If a Virgin blushes, we no longer cry she blucs'.—2. To spend, waste: mid-C. 19–20, see blew.—3. Pawn, pledge: ca. 1850–1920. H., 1st ed.—4. To miscalculate; bungle; ruin: 1880 (O.E.D.).—5. Cf. the C. 20 racing c. use of blue as v.i. to mean: lose on a race. The bookie's clerk accordingly marks the book B. (John Morris). Cf. cop.—6. In mid-C. 19 gen. c., to steal; plunder.

blue, adj. (Of women) learned, literary: from ca. 1780; coll. In C. 19–20 (ob.), S.E. Lever, in Harry Lorrequer, 'She was a . . . very little blue—rather a dabbler in the "ologies" than a real disciple'.—2. Obscene: from late 1830's (cf. blueness): coll. by 1900. Perhaps ex the blue dress of harlots (F. & H.), perhaps ex La Bibliothèque Bleue, a series of French books (H), perhaps simply in contrast to brown.—3. Gloomy, low-spirited: from ca. 1850, coll.: cf. look blue, in a blue funk.—4. Drunk: Australian: from ca. 1920. Perhaps ex the resultant 'blue devils'.

blue, a bolt from the sky. Something (gen. unpleasant) wholly unexpected (—1888); coll. till C. 20, when S.E.

blue, burn it. See burn it blue.

blue, by all that's. Decidedly! Gen., however, a euphemism for 'by God!': coll.: from 1830's; ob. ? ex parbleu = par Dieu.

blue, in the. Gone astray, gone wrong; having failed, a failure: military: C. 20. F. & Gibbons. Perhaps = 'gone off into the blue haze of the horizon'.—2. Hence, in a 'deserted place far away and difficult of access': coll. (—1931). Lyell.—3. (Also ex sense 1.) In debt; in a 'fix': Australian: from ca. 1927.

blue, look. To be confounded, astonished, disappointed: coll.: late C. 16–20, coll.—2. See blue, till all look, 2.

blue, make the air. To curse; to use obscene or blasphemous language: mid-C. 19–20.

blue, men in. (Singular rare.) The police: coll.: from ca. 1870; ob. Cf.:

Blue, Royal Regiment of Foot-Guards. See blues, 4.

blue, till all is. To the utmost, the limit; for an indefinite time: perhaps orig. U.S. (1806); ob. Admiral Smyth refers to a ship reaching deep, i.e. blue, water.—2. In drinking: till one becomes drunk, as in Barham; till all look or seem blue is a C. 17 (?–18) variant.

blue, true. Faithful(ness): C. 17–20, coll. Foreshadowed ca. 1500. In C. 17, of Scottish Whigs; in C. 19–20, of strong Tories.

Blue and Buff. A literary nickname, ca. 1880 + for The Edinburgh Review (d. 1929).

Blue and Orange. The nickname of the Loyal and Friendly London club of the 1740's. Grose.

blue and white, gentleman in. A policeman: coll.: ca. 1860–1900.

blue-apron. A tradesman: C. 18–19, coll. > S.E. Amherst, Terræ Filius, 1726.

blue as a razor. Extremely blue: late C. 18—early 19. Grose, 2nd ed., pertinently suggests blue as azure.

blue-back. One of the old privately prepared charts: nautical coll.: C. 19–20; ob. Bowen. Contrast:

blue-backs. Orange Free State paper money: ca. 1860–1900. Thus F. & H.

blue-backs. See, however, bluebacks.

blue-belly. A policeman: c. (—1909). Ware. Cf. blue, n., 4.

blue bill. Winchester College: a tradesman's bill sent to the pupil's home: C. 19–20, ob. Ex the colour of the envelopes gen. used.

blue billy. A blue handkerchief white-spotted: low; boxing: from the 1830's; ob. Brandon, 1839.

blue-book. See 'Westminster School slang'.

blue blanket. The sky: C. 18–20 coll.; ob. Defoe in his History of the Devil. Cf. Bengal blanket, q.v.—2. 'A rough overcoat made of coarse pilot cloth', H., 2nd ed.: coll.: ca. 1860–90.

blue boar. A venereal chancre: late C. 18–19, low. Grose, 2nd ed. Perhaps ex the Blue Boar Tavern, in the 'Latin Quarter' of the London of ca. 1750–1850.

blue board. A C. 20 variant of the preceding.

blue boat. (Gen. pl.) A skiff for the use of cadets at Dartmouth: naval coll.: late C. 19–20. Bowen. Cf. black cutter, q.v.

blue bottle. A beadle, a policeman: coll.: 1597, Shakespeare. Little used in late C. 17–18, but repopularised ca. 1850.—2. A serving man: coll.: C. 19. Scott, G. P. R. James. Cf. blue-apron.

blue boy. A chancre: C. 18–19, low. Cf. blue boar.

blue boys. (Rare in singular.) The police: James Greenwood, 1883. Ob.

blue breeches !,—by my eyes, limbs, and. See Eyes and Limbs, the.

blue butter. Mercurial ointment, against parasites: (Cockney) coll.: from ca. 1870; ob. H., 5th ed.

Blue Cap. A Scotsman: ca. 1590–1800; coll. > S.E. Cf. the S.E. blue bonnet and contrast:

Blue Caps, the. The Dublin Fusiliers: military: 1857 (Indian Mutiny); slightly ob. Ware. Occ. Neill's Blue Caps, ex their gallant colonel killed at Lucknow. (F. & Gibbons.)

blue coat. A blue-coated soldier: C. 16–17. In C. 19, occ. for a sailor. Coll. usages.—2. A policeman: C. 17–20, ob.; And—3. Also, a serving man: C. 17–18.

blue-cross gas. German sneezing-gas: military coll.: 1917–18. B. & P. Ex the mark on the shell.

blue dahlia. Something rare or unheard of: coll. (—1888) >, almost imm., S.E. Cf. Robert Hichens's The Green Carnation, 1894, and blue roses, 1885 (The Daily News, June 25).

blue damn, (I don't care a). A slightly evasive curse: coll. (—1909); ob. Ware's semantics are rather far-fetched: prob. ex blue, adj., 2.

blue devils. Low spirits: from ca. 1780: coll. >, by 1850, S.E. Grose, 1st ed.; Cowper has Mr. Blue Devil. Ex blue devil, a baleful demon,—Hence 2, delirium tremens: from ca. 1822: coll. >, by 1880, S.E. Scott and Cobbett. Cf. blues, 3.—3. The police: ca. 1845–1905. Cf. blues, 4.—4. the Blue Devils, the French Chasseurs Alpins: military coll.: 1915–18. F. & Gibbons. Ex their blue uniforms.

blue duck. A rumour, esp. if baseless: New Zealand soldiers': in G.W. Semantics: quack! quack!

blue-eyed boy. A pet, a favourite: coll. (— 1914) >, by 1930, S.E. F. & Gibbons. The allusion is to innocence: cf. (mother's) white-haired boy, q.v.

blue fear. Extreme fright: ca. 1870–1900; coll., rare. R. L. Stevenson. Cf. blue funk, q.v.

blue fire. Adj., sensational: from ca. 1870; mainly theatrical. Post-1920, however, it is fairly usual and, in its gen. use, coll. > S.E. Ex a blue light used on the stage to create a weird effect; cf. S.E. blue light.

blue flag. A publican: mid-C. 18—early 19. Grose, 1st ed. Esp. in hoist the b.f., become a publican.

blue funk. Extreme fear (— 1856). Thomas Hughes popularised it.

blue-funk school. A coll. form of the blue-water school, q.v.: its opponents': from ca. 1906. Collinson.

Blue-Funneller (or b.-f.). An Alfred Holt steamer: nautical coll.: C. 20. Bowen.

blue glasses, see through. 'To see things from a wrong—generally depressed—point of view': coll. (— 1931). Lyell.

blue-handled rake. 'The railing and steps leading to the platform of a fair-booth stage': late C. 19–20. Ware.

Blue Horse, the. The Fourth Dragoon Horse: military: late C. 18–20; ob. Ex its facings of 1746–88.

blue it. See blew it.

blue jack (or Jack). Cholera morbus: nautical (— 1909). Ex colour of skin (Ware). On yellow jack.

blue light. An order for money (during a temporary shortage) on the N.A.A.F.I. issued by a military unit: from 1924 or 1925. (With thanks to Major-General A. P. Wavell, C.M.G.)—2. A sanctimonious seaman: nautical: late C. 19–20. Bowen. Contrast:

blue lights. A naval gunner: naval: late C. 19–20. Bowen.

blue marines (or B.M.), the. The Royal Marine Artillery before they were amalgamated with the Light Infantry: naval coll.: C. 19. Bowen.

blue Monday. A Monday spent, away from work, in dissipation: from ca. 1880; ob.

blue moon. A rarely-recurrent (event or) period: coll. (— 1859). H., 1st ed. Ex:

blue moon, once in a. Extremely seldom: coll.: C. 17–20. Till a blue moon occurs in 1860, and the phrase is adumbrated as early as 1528 (Roy & Barlowe). Apperson.

blue murder, cry. See blue murders.

blue murder, like. With great rapidity, esp. if hastily or in a panic: 1914 (O.E.D. Sup.). Ex:

blue murder(s). Cries of terror or alarm: a great noise, horrible din: from late 1850's; coll. H., 1st ed. Gen. as cry b. m. Cf. the Fr. morbleu, which, however, = mort (de) Dieu.

Blue Nose. A Nova Scotian: coll.; orig. (1830) U.S., anglicised ca. 1840. Thornton. Ex the extreme cold of the Nova Scotian winter.

blue o'clock in the morning, at. 'Pre-dawn, when black sky gives way to purple': London streets': 1886, The Daily News, Oct. 12; ob. Rhyming on two o'clock (Ware).

blue paper, fly. See fly blue paper.

blue peter. (Cards) the signal for trumps at whist: coll. > j.: ca. 1860–1905.—2. Also fig. in its coll. use, as in Byron, for immediate departure.

blue pigeon. (Nautical) the sounding-lead: from ca. 1820.—2. In mid-C. 18–19 c., blue pigeon is roofing-lead; hence, b.-p. flyer is a stealer of lead from houses and churches. Grose, 1st ed.

blue pigeon, fly the. To steal roof-lead and lead pipes from house and church exteriors: mid-C. 18–19 c. Cf. blue pigeon, 2, q.v.

blue pill. A bullet: C. 19. Cf. the American blue whistler and blue plum.—2. A mercury pill against syphilis: c. (— 1887); ob. Baumann.

blue plum(b). A mid-C. 18–19 c. term for a bullet. Grose, 1st ed.; Harrison Ainsworth, 1834. Grose has the following phrases: surfeited with a blue plumb, 'wounded with a bullet', and a sortment (i.e. an assortment) of George R—'s (i.e. Rex's) blue plumbs, 'a volley of ball, shot from soldiers' firelocks'.

blue ribbon. Gin: low: mid-C. 19–20; ob. Cf. satın, q.v.

blue-ribbon faker. A blatant upholder of abstinence from liquor: London streets': 1882–ca. 1914. Ware.

blue pugaree. (Gen. pl.) A military policeman: New Zealander soldiers': 1915–18. Ex the distinctive colour of their hat-bands.

blue-ribboner or -ribbonite. A tectotaller: coll. verging on S.E.: from ca. 1880. Ware. The blue ribbon worn by certain tectotallers is recorded in 1878 (S.O.D.).

blue ruin. Gin; esp., bad gin: from ca. 1810; ob. Lex. Bal., Keats, T. Moore, Lytton, Sala. Cf. (its prob. 'offspring') blue ribbon and blue tape.

blue shirt at the mast-head, (there's) a. (There is) a call for assistance: nautical: late C. 19–20. Bowen. Ex the blue flag then flown.

blue skin. A Presbyterian: C. 18—early 19. Blue is the Presbyterian colour; 'Hudibras' Butler speaks of 'Presbyterian true blue'.—2. In the West Indies: a half-breed of black and white: C. 19–20, ob.—3. In late C. 18—early 19, any 'person begotten on a black woman by a white man', Grose, 2nd ed. Cf.:

blue squadron, (belonging to the). (Of) mixed blood, white with Hindu: India, C. 19. In late C. 18—early 19, of anyone with 'a lick of the tar brush', Grose, 3rd ed. See the note appended to admiral of the blue.

blue stocking. A literary or a learned lady (— 1790). The adj. began to be applied in the 1750's to the frequenters of Montagu House, London, where literary and cognate talk replaced cards. Both n. and adj. were coll. by 1810, S.E. by 1820; both are ob. Ex the blue worsted stockings affected by Benjamin Stillingfleet, a near-poet, who was a shining light of the Montagu House assemblies—by Admiral Boscawen dubbed the Blue Stocking Society. See esp. the O.E.D.

Blue Stocking Parliament. The 'Little Parliament' of 1653: coll., ca. 1653–1700. Ex their puritanically plain clothes.

blue stone. Gin or whisky so inferior that it resembles vitriol, which in Scottish and Northern dial. is called 'blue stone'. Ca. 1850–1900.

blue tape. Gin: ca. 1780–1850; perhaps o.

Grose, 2nd ed. Cf. blue ruin and sky blue, the latter in Grose, 3rd ed.

Blue Un, The. The Winning Post: sporting (— 1909); ob. Ware. Ex its colour, adopted to distinguish it from The Pink Un's.

blue unction. A blue ointment used to exterminate body-lice: military: from 1915. B. & P. Ex unguent.

blue-water school. Those who believe that naval offence is Britain's best defence: 1905. S. > coll. >, by 1914, S.E.

bluebacks. 'The notes of the Transvaal Government issued in 1865. The impecunious condition of the Transvaal at the time made these notes very much less than their face value. Cf. the American term "Greenbacks",' Pettman. (These notes lapsed before 1884, the term was ob. by 1900.) Ex their colour. Occ. blue-backs.

blued, occ. blewed. Drunk: low: C. 19–20; ob. This word perhaps influenced screwed and slewed.

bluely, come off. To have ill success, bad luck: coll.; ca. 1650–1840. Urquhart.

blueness. Indecency: literary s.; not much used. Carlyle, 1840. Ex blue, adj., 2.

bluer. See 'Harrow slang'.

blues, the. See blue, n., 2 and 7.—2. Despondency; low spirits. Apparently Washington Irving was, in 1807, the first to abbr. blue devils, q.v.—3. Delirium tremens: from ca. 1850 but never very gen.—4. The police: see blue, n., 4: from ca. 1835. 'Sometimes called the Royal Regiment of Footguards Blue,' H., 5th ed.: ca. 1870–90.—5. The Royal Horse-Guards: C. 17–20. Ca. 1690–1780, gen. the Oxford Blues, to distinguish them from King William the III's Dutch troops, also called the Blues.

bluey. In mid-C. 19–20 c., lead: ex blue pigeon, q.v. H., 1st ed.—2. In New Zealand C. 20 c., a summons. Ex the blue paper on which it comes.—3. A bushman's, esp. a sundowner's, bundle, usually wrapped in a blue blanket: Australian (— 1888); in C. 20, coll. Esp. in hump bluey, in C. 20 often hump one's bluey, to go on the tramp (— 1890). Morris. Cf. swag.—4. In Tasmania, a 'smock-coat' shirt or blouse worn in wet districts (1891, ob.). Ibid.—5. A nickname for a red-headed man: from ca. 1890, esp. in Australia and New Zealand.

bluey-cracking. The stealing of lead from building-exterior: c. (— 1845); ob.

bluey-hunter. An habitual stealer of lead roofing and piping: mid-C. 19–20 c. Cf. blue-pigeon flyer, s.v. blue-pigeon.

bluff. A considerable assurance adopted to impress an opponent: orig. (— 1848) U.S., anglicised ca. 1870: cf. the v. Coll.; in C. 20, S.E.—2. In low s., an excuse: a sense firmly grounded in England—see Mayhew's London Labour—as early as 1851: this sense may, perhaps, not come from the U.S.

bluff, v.i. and v.t. To impress, intimidate, make an excuse; bluff off, to frighten away by bluffing; bluff out of, to frighten out of. Orig. (1850): (Thornton), U.S.; anglicised as a coll., in the early 1860's or even the late 1850's, for H., 1859, makes no comment on the American origin of either n. or v.; in C. 20, S.E. The American usage, for both n. and v., perhaps derives from the Restoration senses, bluff, to blindfold (as in Ray) and look bluff, look big (as in B.E.); but see bluffing and W. at bluff.

bluff, call one's. To challenge a person, with implication of showing up his weakness: coll.: C. 20. From U.S.A.

bluff the rats. To spread panic: low (— 1923). Manchon.

bluffer. In c. of mid-C. 17–early 19, 'a Host, Inn-keeper or Victualler', B.E.; Coles, 1676. Prob. ex dial. bluff, to hoodwink.—2. An imposer that relies on an assumed appearance and speech: from ca. 1885; coll.—3. A bosun: nautical: ca. 1840–1914.

bluffing. Vbl.n., 'imposing on another with a show of force, where no real force exists: a phrase taken from the game of poker', Thornton, who records it for U.S. at 1850. Anglicised, as coll., ca. 1880.

blug. An earlier form († by 1925) of oickman, q.v.: Bootham School. Anon., Dict. of Bootham Slang.

buggy. A jocular, therefore s., not—except among purists or prudes—a euphemistic twisting of bloody: 1877. The O.E.D. (Sup.) remarks: '[A] pretended infantile pronunciation of bloody'. Hence, blugginess (1894: ibid.).

blunderbuss. A stupid, or ignorant, clumsy fellow: from ca. 1690; coll. verging on, perhaps achieving, S.E.; ob. Ex the weapon's unwieldiness.—2. Also, ca. 1680–1800, a noisy and truculent talker: coll. Ex the noise of its report.

blunk. A squall; a period of squally weather: dial. (— 1790) >, by 1820, nautical coll. Bowen. Dial. has a v. blunk, which is cognate with blench (E.D.D.).

blunt. Money, esp. cash (— 1714); orig. c.; ob., except among tramps as the blunt. John Hall; Grose (2nd ed.), Moncrieff, Dickens (in Oliver Twist), Punch (1882). Etymology doubtful: perhaps, indeed prob., ex the blunt rim of coins; perhaps, however, ex John Blunt, chairman of the South Sea Company; or perhaps, despite its surface improbability, ex the Fr. blond (cf. brown, a half-penny), as H. and F. & H. maintain.—2. Whence in blunt, out of blunt, rich, poor: C. 19. Bee.

Blunt Magazine. A bank; esp. the Bank of England: low: ca. 1820–60. Bee. Ex blunt, 1.

blunted. In possession of money: rare; ca. 1850–90. Gen. well-blunted. Ex blunt, q.v.

blunty. A variant of the preceding. 'Jon Bee', 1823.

blurb. A publishers' recommendation of a book: on the jacket, or in the front, of the book itself. Orig. U.S. (? 1923), anglicised in 1924. Coll.; after 1933, S.E., but rarely heard beyond the world of books. Perhaps ex blurred effect; perhaps a corruption of splurge. Cf. blah, q.v.

blurry. A slurring, gen. euphemistic, of bloody: from not later than 1910. B. & P.

blurt! Pooh! A fig. for!: late C. 16–(? only early) 17: coll. Lyly. Cf. the derisive c.p., blurt, master constable!: C. 17. Middleton. O.E.D.; Apperson.

blurt, v. To let or cause an escape of anal wind: C. 20; low coll.

blush. See black dog.

blushing. Bloody: euphemistic coll.: C. 20. Manchon.

blushing honours. See thick upon one.

blusteration. Bluster; a blustering: dial. (— 1803) >, ca. 1860, coll. (O.E.D.)

bly. 'A burglar's oxy-acetylene blow lamp': c. (— 1933). George Orwell, Down and Out in Paris and London. By telescoping blow and oxy.

bly !; bly me. Reduced forms of God blimey, Godblimey: low: late C. 19–20. Ware.

bly-hunker. A horse: vagrants' c. (— 1845); †. ? ex blinker.

Blyti. See Blightly.

bo. (In vocative) mate: U.S. (— 1905), partly anglicised ca. 1918. Perhaps ex (you) hobo, but see esp. Irwin.

bo or boo to a goose, say or cry; occ. to a battle-dore. To open one's mouth; to talk, speak: gen. in negative. Coll.; from ca. 1580 bo-peep. Sleep: rhyming s.: C. 20. B. & P.—2. (Bo-Peep.) Boescheppe on the Western Front: military in G.W. W. H. L. Watson, Adventures of a Despatch Rider, 1915.

bo-peep, play at. In turn to hide and appear in public; to keep watch: late C. 18–early 19. Grose, 2nd ed. Ex the game.

boa-constrictor. An instructor: naval: late C. 19–20; virtually †. F. & Gibbons. Ex his 'fascinating' eye.

board. A picture sold in the streets: C. 20 vagrants' c.—2. A sideboard: furniture-dealers' coll.: late C. 19–20. The Spectator, June 7, 1935.—3. A railway signal: railwaymen's: from the 1880's. Tit-Bits, Nov. 1, 1890, notes the synonymous stick.

board, v. To accost: C. 16–20. In Surrey and Shakespeare, S.E.; but from ca. 1660, coll., as in Vanbrugh's False Friend, 'What do you expect from boarding a woman . . . already heart and soul engaged to another?' In C. 19–20, much more definitely nautical in flavour: before 1800, the Fr. aborder, to approach, accost, impressed rather by its Gallicism than by its nauticism.—2. ? hence, to borrow money from (a person): military (— 1890); ob. F. & H.

board, above. See above board.

board, get the. To receive the right-away signal: railwaymen's: from ca. 1927. The Daily Herald, Aug. 5, 1936.

board, keep one's name on the. To remain a member of one's College: Cambridge coll.: from ca. 1850. In C. 20, S.E.

board, on the. (Tailoring) enjoying all the privileges and perquisites of a competent workman: ca. 1850–1920. Perhaps j. rather than s.

board, sail on another. To behave differently: C. 16–early 17; coll.

board, sweep the. To win all the prizes; obtain every honour: coll.: from ca. 1830. Ex the card-game senses, take all the cards, win all the stakes: S.E., C. 17–20.

board, under. Deceptively: C. 17–18; coll. Cf. above board, q.v.

board in the smoke. (Nautical) to take by surprise: C. 19. Ex the lit. usage of boarding a ship under cover of broadside-smoke.

board job. A sandwich-man's job: C. 20 c. Ex the board he carries.

Board-man. See boardman, 2.

board of green cloth. A card table: C. 19–20; a billiard-table: C. 18–20. Coll.; ob.

board-work. See boardman.

boarder-bug. A boarder at school: schoolboys': from late C. 19. Collinson. Opp. day-bug, same period.

boarding house or school. A prison; house of correction: c.; ca. 1690–1840. B.E.; Grose. Hence, boarding scholars, 'Bridewell-birds', B.E.

boardman. A standing patterer, who often carried a board with coloured pictures: c. (vagrants'): ca. 1840–1900. The practice was, by Cockneys, called board-work.—2. (Or Board-man.) A school-attendance inspector: London coll. (— 1887); ob. Baumann.

boards. Playing cards: C. 20 c. Edgar Wallace in The Mixer, 1927.

boards, the. The stage; theatre: from ca. 1770: coll. till ca. 1880, then S.E.

boat, always the boat. The hulks; or any public works or prison: c.; ca. 1810–95. Mayhew. Ex convict-hulks.

boat, v. To transport (convicts): ca. 1800–60.—2. To sentence to penal servitude: ca. 1870–1910. Both are c. In the latter sense, get the boat or be boated = to receive a severe sentence: H., 5th ed.

boat, be in the same. I.e. in the same position or circumstance(s): coll., from ca. 1850, though anticipated in late C. 16; in C. 20, S.E.

boat, good. A soldier spending freely among poorer comrades: military: ca. 1890–1915.

boat, have an oar in another's or every. To meddle, be a busybody: from mid-C. 16; ob. Coll. till ca. 1600, then S.E.

boat, miss the. To be too late: nautical coll.: C. 20. Bowen.

boat, push out the. To pay for a round of drinks: naval: late C. 19–20. Bowen. Contrast push the boat out, q.v., at push.

boat, put on the. To deport; as adj., deported: low: late C. 19–20.

boat, sail in the same. To act together: coll.; from late C. 16; in C. 19–20, S.E.

boats. Large boots: middle-class jocular: C. 20. Cf. carts and two feet . . .

boatswain-captain. A naval captain thoroughly competent as a seaman: naval coll., contemptuously used by the envious: C. 19. Bowen.

boaty. Fond of, addicted to, boating: coll.: 1886 (O.E.D.). Cf. horsey.

bob. A man, a fellow: coll.: from ca. 1700; ob. Cf. Jack and Tom, Dick and Harry, the commonness of the name giving rise to a generic sense. Cf. sense 3, where, however, the idea may be that of bobbing in, out, and up; also dry and wet bob (see bob, dry).—2. A shilling: from ca. 1810. In 1812 Vaux records it in his Flash Dict. Origin obscure: perhaps abbr. bobstick, q.v.; Weekley suggests ex Robert, cf. joey, q.v.—3. In c., a shop-lifter's assistant: late C. 17–19. Cf. sense 1.—4. Gin: C. 18.—5. At Winchester College, C. 19: a large white beer-jug, holding about a gallon.—6. See bob, s'help me.

bob, v.; occ. as bob out of. To cheat, trick. Late C. 17–19 c. C. 14–16, S.E.; C. 17, coll. Ex Old Fr. bober, to befool.

bob, adj. Lively, pleasant, 'nice': C. 18–20; ob. Cibber, 1721. Coll.—2. In c., safe; esp. in all is bob; late C. 17–early 19. Cf. betty, all: q.v.

bob ! Stop ! Enough !: Society, ca. 1880–1900. Ex gen. bob it !, drop it ! (— 1864).

bob !, all is. See bob, adj., 2.

bob !, bear a. Be quick ! Look lively: coll., from ca. 1860; ob. Ex bear a bob (lit., a refrain), join in the chorus.

bob, dry. Incomplete coition: applied to the man: ca. 1660–1930. Rochester; Grose; F. & H. (revised). Ex dry bob, a blow that leaves the skin intact.—2. See :

bob, dry and wet. At Eton College, one who concentrates resp. on land games and sports and on boating, swimming, (recently) water-polo. Dry bob occurs in Disraeli's Coningsby: the terms would therefore seem to date from ca. 1835; they were coll. by 1875, S.E. by 1900.

bob, give the. To dismiss: C. 17, coll. (In S.E., give the bob = to befool, impose on.)

bob, light. A soldier in the light infantry, artillery, etc.; coll.; from ca. 1840. Here, as in dry and wet bob, bob abbr. Robert, so common a name that it > generic for a man, a fellow; cf. Jack, Joe, Dick, etc.

bob (or, in Ware, baub)!, s'help me. As an oath, euphemistic (bob = God). It is s. only when, as in 'Jon Bee' 1823, in Barham, 1837, and in James Payn, 1880, it is virtually or actually an asseveration (= 'you may be sure') made jocularly. 'The word . . . comes from Catholic England, and is "babe"—meaning the infant Saviour,' Ware. Now s'help, s'elp, is often, deliberately or otherwise, pronounced swelp (q.v.) and among the middle and upper classes, after ca. 1890, it is always spoken in jest.

bob, shift one's. To move, go away: mid-C. 18–20; ob. Grose.

bob, wet. See bob, dry.

bob-a-day gunner or guns. A temporary gunnery-officer: naval: C. 20. F. & Gibbons; Bowen. He draws an additional shilling a day.

bob a nob. Almost a c.p.: a shilling a head. Ca. 1820–1910. Bee; H., 3rd ed., records in this form, which is correct; F. & H. as bob a nod, which I believe to be an error.

bob around. To go quickly from place to place: coll.; from ca. 1860. Cf. bob, shift one's.

bob cull. A 'good fellow', pleasant companion: late C. 18–19 c. See bob, adj., and cull.

bob-down man. An anti-aircraft sentry: military coll.: 1915–18. F. & Gibbons. His warning caused men to take cover.

bob groin. See groin.

Bob, Harry, and Dick. Sick, esp. after drink: rhyming s.: 1868; virtually †. Ware.

bob ken; bowman ken. 'A good or well Furnished House, full of Booty, worth Robbing; also a House that Harbours Rogues and Thieves', B.E.: c.: late C. 17–early 19.

bob (or Bob) my pal. A girl: rhyming s. on gal. From ca. 1855; ob. 'Ducange Anglicus', 1857.

bob-tack. Cleaning-wherewithal; brass polish: military: C. 20. F. & Gibbons. Perhaps ironically ex bob, adj., 1; see also tack.

bob-tailor. 'A cruiser-sterned merchant ship': nautical: late C. 19–20. Bowen.

bob up. To appear; to return, as in 'he's always bobbing up'. C. 20, coll.

bob(b)ajee. A cook: Regular Army coll.: mid-C. 19–20; ob. F. & Gibbons. Ex Hindustani bawachi.

bobber. A fellow-workman; mate, chum: dial. (— 1860) >, by 1870, coll. and by 1885, s. Ex lit. sense.—2. A spurious pl. of bob, a shilling, as in two bobber, a two-shilling piece, though this (ca. 1880–1910) may conceivably be due to the Oxford -er.—3. A tale-bearer: military: C. 20. F. & Gibbons. Ex bobbing along to become one.

bobbery. A noise; disturbance; squabble. From ca. 1800: Kenney has it in his comedy, Raising the Wind, 1803; Punch honoured it in 1879. Ex Hindi Bap re l, Oh, father: often employed to express grief or surprise. Since ca. 1890 it has been little used except among soldiers and others with experience of India; current among the Tommies in the G.W. See also bubbery.

bobbery-pack. A heterogeneous squadron: naval: ca. 1820–90. Bowen, 'Borrowed from the sportsmen ashore'.

bobbing-bastard. A disappearing-'man' target: marksmen's: C. 20.

bobbing-drill. Target practice: military: C. 20. F. & Gibbons. Orig. and esp. at a disappearing target.

Bobbing John. The Earl of Mar: a nickname: 1715. Ex political behaviour. O.E.D.

bobbing on. Anticipating, expecting (something unpleasant): military: C. 20. F. & Gibbons. E.g. 'He's bobbing on a court martial'.

bobbish. 'Clever, smart, spruce', Grose, 2nd ed.: ca. 1785–1820. Ex bob, 'a light, rebounding movement'.—2. Hence, in good health and/or spirits: implied in 1813; ob. except as pretty bobbish.—Adv., bobbishly: 1813, Scott (O.E.D.); ob.

bobble. A confused movement of water: nautical coll.: from the 1870's. Ex:

bobble, v.i. To move with frequent or continual bobbing: coll.: 1812, W. Tennant (O.E.D.). A frequentative of bob.

bobbles. Testicles, gen. a man's: sol. for baubles (but cf. bobble): C. 19–20; ob.

bobbly. Jerky, jumpy: coll.: 1909 (O.E.D. Sup.). Ex bobble, q.v.—2. (Esp. of trousers) 'loose and undulating'; baggy: coll.: 1921 (ibid.).

bobby. A policeman (— 1851). Ex Mr., later Sir, Robert Peel (cf. peeler), mainly responsible for the Metropolitan Police Act of 1828. F. & H. points out that, long before 1828, Bob = the beadle = 'a guardian of a public square or other open space'.—2. Hence, at Oxford and Cambridge, ca. 1860–90, the proctors were called bobbies.

Bobby Atkins. An occ., coll. variant of Tommy Atkins: ca. 1900–14. Ware.

bobby-dazzler. 'A top much longer and narrower than the ordinary kind': Midlands: C. 20. R. Aubrey Thompson in The Observer, March 3, 1935. A s. elaboration of bobby dazzler, a dazzling thing or person: dial. (— 1866): E.D.D. Perhaps euphemistic for bloody dazzler.

bobby(-)horse. A chink-backed horse: vagrants' c. (— 1845); ob.

bobby-twister. A burglar or thief that, on being pursued or seized, uses violence: mid-C. 19–20 (ob.): c. Ex bobby, a policeman.

bobby's labourer. A special constable: such constables' in 1868. Ware. See bobby, 1.

bobby's job. A safe job; an easy one: military coll.: 1915–18. F. & Gibbons. A hit at the military police.

Bobs. Lord (General) Roberts: Society (1900) > gen. (lato 1900); ob. As Bob for Robert, so Bobs for Roberts. (Ware.)

Bob's horse, with nobody to pay the reckoning,—off, like. To decamp with all money, furniture and personal effects: nautical: from 1830's; ob. Dana.

bobstay. 'The frenum of a man's yard', Grose, 2nd ed.: mid-C. 18–20 (ob.); low coll.

bobstick. A shilling's worth (— 1789). Orig. c., then low s.; † by 1860. George Parker; Monerief, 1821. Whence perhaps bob, n., 2, q.v.,—but then what is the origin of bobstick?

bobtail, bob-tail, bob tail. A lewd woman, lit. one with a lively pudend: coll.: C. 17–18. B.E., Grose. Cf. wag-tail.—2. A contemptible fellow: C. 17, perhaps coll.—Cf. 3. A eunuch; an impotent man: C. 17–18; ex bob = cut short (cf. a bobtail horse) and tail = male member.—4. A partridge: vendors of game: late C. 18–early 19. Grose, 3rd ed. Ex its short tail.—5. A dandy wearing a pointed tail-coat: early C. 19: mostly proletarian. Ware.

bobtail, -tag, rag and; or tag-rag and bob-tail. The rabble (— 1659); coll. in C. 18, S.E. thereafter: the common herd (of any social class): C. 19–20. Pepys has it first, but it was doubtless used earlier.

Boche. N., then also adj.: German, esp. a German soldier: from 1914; not much used by the British soldiers. Direct ex Fr. slang, where the word (from ca. 1870) is of uncertain origin: see esp. Words 1, p. 221.

boco, boko. The nose. Orig. (ca. 1820) pugilistic, but gen. by 1873. Prob. ex beak; but if coco-nut (also, in U.S., simply coco or, erroneously, cocoa) existed some years before its earliest record, then perhaps boco derives ex beak + coco. Ware thinks that it may derive ex Grimaldi's tapping his nose and exclaiming c'est beaucoup: cf. sense 3.—2. Nonsense: ca. 1870–1910; etymology uncertain. Punch, Sept. 25, 1886: 'Lopsided Free Trade is all boko.'—3. (G.W. +, chiefly military.) Much: Tommy's version of Fr. beaucoup. Cf. Sussex dial. sense, a good haul of fish.

boco-smasher. A rough: low London: late C. 19–early 20. Ware. Ex boco, 1.

Bodder. The Bodleian Library: Oxford University: from the late 1890's. Dorothy Sayers in The Passing Show, March 25, 1933. Ex Bodley, q.v.: see '-er, the Oxford'. bod(d)eration. An early C. 19 form of botheration (see bother).

Bodger. The inevitable nickname of all men surnamed Lees: late C. 19–20: mostly naval and military. F. & Gibbons.

bodier. (Boxing) a blow on the side; loosely, on breast or belly: ca. 1820–1914. Bee.

bodies. 'The foot guards, or king's body guards', Grose, 1785; † by 1890.

bodikin. A contraction of bawdy ken, a brothel: c.: ca. 1820–50. Bee.

Bodikin(s). See [body].

bodkin. (Sporting) one who sleeps in a bed only on alternate nights: ca. 1850–1900. Ex the next entry.—2. A midshipman's dirk: joocular naval coll.: C. 19–20; ob. Bowen.

bodkin, ride or sit. C. 19–20; adumbrated in Ford, 1638, and occurring in 1798 as to bodkin alone; ob. To be wedged between two others when there is, altogether, room for only two. Coll. Ex bodkin, to make, as it were, a bodkin of.

Bodley, the. The Oxford University Library: from ca. 1870; coll. Cf. Bodder, q.v.

[body appears, from ca. 1530, as part of many ancient oaths. E.g. Bod(i)kin(s), a little body.]

body. A person: in C. 19–20, either a sol. or a facetious coll. In dial., however, its usage is serious and respectable.

body-line work. Unfair or dishonest work or play: coll.: 1933. Ex the body-line cricket controversy, which began in Dec., 1932. See esp. Slang, p. 234.

body-lining. Bread: drapers' (— 1909). Ware. Ex their trade.

body-louse, brag or brisk or busy as a. Very brisk or busy: coll.; resp. late C. 16–17, (the gen. form) mid-C. 17–20, mid-C. 17–19.

body-slangs. Fetters: C. 19 c. (See slang.) Vaux, 1812.

body of divinity bound in black calf. A parson: mid-C. 18–early 19. Grose, 2nd ed.

body-snatcher. A bailiff: mid-C. 18–early 19: perhaps c. Grose, 1st ed.—2. A member of a ship's police force: nautical: mid-C. 19–20; ob. Bowen.—3. A policeman: ca. 1840–1900, low.—4. A resurrectionist (— 1812), ob.: coll.; after ca. 1850, S.E. Vaux, 1812. Body-snatching > a trade ca. 1827.—5. An undertaker: from ca. 1820; ob. Bee, 1823.—6. A cat-stealer (— 1859), † by 1900.—7. A cabman: London streets': ca. 1840–60. Ware. Ex his habits.—8. A stretcher-bearer: military: C. 20. F. & Gibbons. Also in pl., the Army Medical Corps.—9. Occ., a sniper: military: G.W. (Ibid.)

Boers. A coll. form of Boer brandy, i.e. brandy manufactured in South Africa: 1884, The Queens-town Free Press, June 22 (Pettman). Cf. Cape smoke, q.v.

bog, often bogs. Abbr. bog-house, q.v., a privy: from ca. 1840; orig. either printers' or Public Schoolboys' s.; in C. 20, coll.—2. In c. (? ever in the singular), the land-reclaiming works at Dartmoor: from ca. 1860; ob.

bog, v. To ease oneself, evacuate: from ca. 1870: s. >, ca. 1920, low coll. Baumann. Ex preceding or possibly ex:

bog, go to. 'To go to stool', Lex. Bal., 1811: low.

bog-house. A privy: from ca. 1670; low coll. Head in The English Rogue; B.E.: Ned Ward; Grose. Ex the ca. 1550–1660 S.E. boggard.

Bog-land. Ireland: late C. 17–20, ob. Coll., orig. and mainly joocular. Cf.:

Bog-Lander. An Irishman: coll.: from ca. 1690; ob. B.E., Grose. Ireland is famous for rain: cf. bog-trotter and Urinal of the Planets.

bog-Latin. Spurious Latin: late C. 18–20, ob.; coll. Grose, 1st ed. ? an Irish perversion of dog Latin.

bog-orange. A potato: C. 18–20, ob.; coll. So many potatoes come from Ireland.

bog-shop. A ca. 1840–1910 low variant of bog-house (q.v.).

Bog-Trotter. A wild Irishman (cf. Bog-Lander): coll.: from ca. 1680. Ex the numerous bogs in Ireland: cf. bog-lander, q.v.—2. Earlier, ca. 1660–90, 'Scotch or North Country Moss-troopers or Highway Men', B.E. (cf. Camden): coll.—3. From ca. 1720, however, the term > a nickname for any Irish person whatsoever. Bailey's Dictionary.—3. (b.-t.). One who goes often to 'the bogs': C. 20. Manchon.

bog-trotting. A pejorative adj. applied to Irishmen, esp. if uncouth: from ca. 1750; coll. Employed by Goldsmith and Thackeray.

bogee or bougie. To force (a mixture of cement and water) into the required position by means of compressed air: Public Works' (— 1935). Ex the medical sense of bougie.

bogey. See bogy.

boggle-de-botch, boggledybotch. A bungling; a 'mess': coll. (— 1834); ob. Maria Edgeworth, 1834. Ex boggle, a, or to, bungle, and botch, to do, or make, clumsily.

boggy. (Gen. of a child) diarrhoea: schoolboys': late C. 19–20. Ex bog, n., 1.

boguer. A clumsy sailing-ship: nautical coll.: mid-C. 19–20. Bowen. ? bogger.

bogus. Sham; spurious; illicit. Orig. (— 1840) U.S. and = counterfeit (ex instrument, thus named, for the uttering of base coin). Acclimatised ca. 1860 in England, where it > coll. ca. 1900, S.E. ca. 1930. As W. remarks, ‘calibogus, “rum and spruce beer, an American beverage” (Grose [1st ed.]) suggests a parallel to balderdash’; but, as F. & H. (revised) remarks, bogus may be cognate with bogy; the editor proposes derivation ex bogy on hocus-pocus. See esp. the O.E.D., F. & H., and Thornton. Cf. scamp, snide, qq.v.—2. Hence, unpleasant; dull; silly: Society: from ca. 1929. Evelyn Waugh, Vile Bodies, 1930, “Oh, dear,” she said, “this really is all too bogus.”

bogy. See ask bog(e)y.—2. A landlord: from ca. 1860; ob. Perhaps orig. bogy-man. Ex Bogy, Old, q.v.—3. In C. 20 c., a detective or a policeman (Charles E. Leach); also, 4, a stove for heating.—5. A mistake, a blunder: military: C. 20. F. & Gibbons.—6. Bog(e)y. The inevitable nickname of men surnamed Harris: (naval and) military: late C. 19–20. Ibid.—7. A bath: Queensland and Northern Territory coll. (C. 20.) An Aboriginal word.—8. ‘One who spoils one’s game or interferes with one’s pitch’: grafters’: C. 20. P. Allingham, Cheappack, 1934. Also known as a nark.

bogy, adj. Sombre of tint or colour: studio s., ca. 1870–1910.

bogy (or bogey), go. To become prophetic; be or become gifted with second sight: actors’ and music-hall performers’: C. 20. E.g. Christine Jope-Slade in The Passing Show, Feb. 24, 1934.

Bogy (or Bogey), Old. The devil: from ca. 1820. Soon coll.; now ob. Barham. Occ. without old. But a comparison with ask bogy, q.v., suggests that this sense, which precedes by thirty years that of a goblin, a person to be dreaded, may be fifty years earlier than 1820. It is true that bogle, the presumed and prob. orig. of bogy, antedates bog-house by 160 years or so, yet the indelicate sense of ask bogy provides a not-to-be-ridiculed possibility both of ask bogy’s derivation from bog-house and even of an esoteric connexion between ask bogy, bog-house, and Bogy.

boil. To betray: ca. 1600–50; ? orig. c. Rowlands; Middleton & Dekker. (O.E.D.)

boil down. To condense: orig. (— 1880) journalistic coll.; but S.E. in C. 20.

boil one’s lobster. To leave the Church for the Army: mid-C. 18–early 19: military. (Lobster: a soldier.)

boil over. To fly into a rage: coll., from ca. 1850; in C. 20, S.E.

boil your head!, go and. A proletarian injunction not to be silly: C. 20. (Compton MacKenzie, Water on the Brain, 1933). Occ. go away and boil yourself!

boiled. Boiled beef or mutton: coll., since ca. 1840. Dickens, 1848, ‘A great piece of cold boiled’ (O.E.D.).

Boiled Bell (or b.-b.). Port Glasgow: nautical, esp. by Greenock men: mid-C. 19–20. Bowen, ‘The reference is to a traditional bell . . . painted so much that it would not ring’; the paint had to be boiled off. Cf. Gilted Gabbar.

boiled dog. ‘Side’: New Zealanders’: from ca. 1910. Perhaps on boiled shirt.

boiled lobster. See lobster, boiled.

boiled over, ppl. adj. (Of a market) that has been good but has had a set-back: Stock Exchange: C. 20. Ex a kettle that has boiled over.

boiled owl, drunk as a. Extremely drunk: from the early 1880’s. Why? Ware thinks that it may be a corruption of drunk as Abel Boyle.

boiled rag, feel like a. ‘To feel excessively limp’, or unwell: coll.: C. 20. Lyell. Also . . . (piece of) chewed rag or string, which is less respectable.

boiled shirt. A dress-suit shirt: C. 20, coll. Ex U.S., where it orig. (— 1854) signified any white linen shirt. (Uncultured Americans rather like the pronunciation, and spelling, biled.)

boiled stuff. Collectively for harlots: ca. 1580–1630; as in Shakespeare’s Cymbeline. Prob. extremely rare outside of Cymbeline.

boiler. Abbr. pot-boiler, q.v.—2. At Winchester College, until ca. 1910, a four and sixpenny boiler was actually a large, plain coffee-pot used for heating water, from, not the price but the amount of milk they held; and a τὸ πᾶν boiler—lit. a whole-lot boiler—was a large saucepan-like vessel in which water for bidets (q.v.) was heated.

Boilers or Brompton Boilers. The name given orig.,—since ca. 1873 it has been applied to the Bethnal Green Museum (likewise in London),—to the Kensington Museum and School of Art (now the Victoria and Albert Museum), because of the peculiar form of the buildings and also because of their sheet-iron roofs. H., 2nd ed., 1860.—2. (Only as boilers.) At the Royal Military Academy, from ca. 1880, boiled potatoes, greasers being fried potatoes: the Oxford -er.

boiling. A discovery, a betrayal: c. of ca. 1600–59. Ex boil, q.v.

boiling, the whole. The whole lot: 1837, Marryat. Common also in U.S. (the boiling, 1796: O.E.D. Sup.). Ex boiling, a quantity of food boiled at the one time: cf. S.E. batch (W.). Also cf. the whole shoot.

boiling point, at (the). About to fly into a rage: from ca. 1880; coll. Adumbrated by Emerson.

bokay. Bouquet: a sol. spelling and pronunciation, esp. Australian (— 1916). C. J. Dennis.

boke. The nose: a late C. 19–20 c. variant of boco, q.v.

boko. See boco.—boko-smasher. See boco-smasher.—bokoo. A variant of boco, 3.

bold as a miller’s shirt. Explained by its frequent appendage, which every day takes a rogue by the collar. Coll.: C. 18–early 19.

bold as brass. Presumptuous; shameless: from ca. 1780; coll. George Parker; Thackeray, 1846, ‘He came in as bold as brass’; Weyman, 1922. Apperson. Cf. brass, 2.

bold boat. A seaworthy ship: nautical coll.: mid-C. 19–20. Bowen has also a bold hawse, ‘said of a ship when her hawse pipes are well out of the water’. Both phrases verge on j.

Bold Fifteenth, the. The 15th Hussars: military coll. now verging on S.E.: C. 19–20. F. & Gibbons.

bolser. See bowler.

boldrumpious. Presumptuous: late C. 19–early 20. Ex bold + rumpus + the -tious of presumptuous: E.D.D. bollicky. See ballocky (n.).—Bollicky Bill. See Ballocky Bill the Sailor.—bollocks. See ballock and ballocks, 2.

bolly. At Marlborough College: pudding, esp. if boiled; from ca. 1860; ob. Cf. the North Country boily, gruel. Both, prob., ex Fr. bouillie.

Bolo. A Bolshevik: military (North Russian campaign, 1918). ? partly on Bolo Pasha, shot in April, 1918, for carrying out, in France (bold fellow !), 'pacifist propaganda financed from Germany', W. Cf.:—2. A spy: id., id. Same origin. F. & Gibbons.

bolo, v. To speak; esp. bolo the bat, to speak the language, and therefore = slang (or spin) the bat: Regular Army: late C. 19–20. F. & Gibbons. Ex Hindustani.

Bolo House. The Air Ministry's Headquarters at the Hotel Cecil: Air Force: 1918. Ibid. Ex Bolo Pasha: see Bolo, 1.

boloney; incorrectly baloney. Nonsense; 'eye-wash'. Of this U.S. word, anglicised by 1931 (thanks to the 'talkies'), Dr. Jean Bordeaux—in a private letter—writes thus: 'Used since at least 1900 in U.S.A., especially around New York, to mean "buncombe" or "a poppycock story"'. It appears in songs of 1900, and [the word boloney as a corruption of Bologna sausage] probably dates back twenty years earlier because there was a music-hall song, "I Ate the Boloney" popular in the late 70's, early 80's. . . . There is much to uphold belief that the sausage origin has merit, on analogy that it's a mixture of ground-up meat and then you stuff the casing. Hence, mix up a tale and stuff the auditor.' Yet, at the risk of appearing too sceptical, I must declare my disbelief in that origin and my opinion that 'It's (or that's) all boloney'—the usual form—is exactly synonymous with 'That's all balls', the etymology of boloney being the Gipsy peloné, testicles: cf. the U.S. nerfs! and ballocks, 2 (q.v.), and see balls.

Bolshie; Bolshy. (All senses are coll.) A Bolshevik: 1920. Any revolutionary: 1933. Jocularly of an unconventional person: 1924 or 1925. Also adj.: same dates for the corresponding senses. The word Bolshevik (a majority socialist) seems to have been first used in 1903. See the S.O.D. for an admirable summary. Cf. Bolo, q.v.

bolster-pudding. A roly-poly pudding: non-aristocratic: late C. 19–20. Ex shape.

bolt. The throat: early C. 19; mainly Cockney. Moncrieff in Tom and Jerry. Perhaps ex † bo(u)lt, a flour-sieve.—2. A rupture, gen. incompletely honourable, with a political party: coll.: orig. (—1840) U.S.; accepted in England as a coll., ca. 1860.

bolt, v. To escape; depart hastily: C. 17–20. In C. 17 S.E.; ca. 1710–80, coll.; ca. 1780–1870, s.; then coll., then in C. 20, again S.E. In Moncrieff and Barham it is wholly s.; the latter having 'Jessy ransack'd the house, popp'd her breeks on, and when so | Disguis'd, bolted off with her beau—one Lorenzo'.—2. V.t., to eat hurriedly, without chewing; gulp down: coll.: from ca. 1780. Grose, 1785; Wolcot, 1794; Dickens, 1843. With the speed of a bolt.—3. To break with a political party (bolt from): orig. (1813) U.S., anglicised ca. 1860 as a coll. and in C. 20 considered S.E. Thornton.

bolt, butcher and. A political c.p. applied contemporaneously to the Egyptian policy of 1884–5. Baumann.

bolt, get the. To be sentenced to penal servitude: c.; from ca. 1840. Influenced by boat, n. and v.

Bolt-Hole, the. The Channel Islands, where the income-tax is low: political coll.: from ca. 1920. Collinson. Ex a rabbit's bolt-hole.

Bolt-in-Tun, go to the. To bolt, run away: c.; from ca. 1810; †. Vaux. Ex a famous London inn. A play on the v. bolt, q.v. Also, as c.p., the Bolt-in-Tun is concerned (Vaux): † by 1890.

bolt of it, make a shaft or a; gen. a bolt or a shaft. To risk this or that issue; accept a risk: ca. 1590–1750; coll. >, by 1660, S.E. Shakespeare; Fuller. (Apperson.)

Bolt Street, turn the corner of. To run away: low coll.: from ca. 1880; ob. Baumann. Ex make a bolt for it.

bolt the moon. To depart with one's goods without paying the rent: C. 19–20; ob.

bolter. In c., one who, for fear of arrest, hides in his own house: C. 18. Dyche, 1748.—2. One restive under authority: coll.: from ca. 1850; ob. Cf. Fr. rouspéteur.—3. One who leaves his political party: coll.: orig. (1812) Thornton) U.S.; anglicised ca. 1870 as a coll.; in C. 20 almost S.E. bolter of the Mint, or of White Friars. One who may peep out but does not, for fear of arrest, venture abroad. Prob. orig. c.: ca. 1690–1800. B.E., Grose.

boltsprit, bowsprit. Late C. 17–18, C. 19–20 (ob.) resp.: the nose. Until ca. 1770, low. Shadwell; B.E., 'He has broke his Boltsprit, he has lost his Nose with the Pox.'

bolus. An apothecary; a physician: late C. 18–20, ob. Ex bolus, a large pill. Grose, 2nd ed.

boman. A gallant fellow: c.: C. 17–18. See quotation at pop, n., 3. Prob. ex beau man. Also as adj.

boman ken. A variant of bowman ken: see bob ken.

boman prig. An expert thief: c.: late C. 17–early 19.

bomb, drop a. Cause a very unpleasant or painful surprise: 1919 +; coll. Ex bomb-dropping in G.W.

bomb-dodger. One who, during the G.W., lived out of London to escape the air-raids: coll.: 1916–18. F. & Gibbons.

bomb-proof job. A safe job, i.e. one at the Base: military: 1916–18. B. & P. Hence, bomb-proofer, a man holding such a job. Cf. U.S. bomb-proof, a Southerner who did not join the Confederate Army (Thornton).

bomb-proofer. 'A man given to scheming methods of evading duty on dangerous occasions': military: 1916–18, hence as a survival. F. & Gibbons. Ex bomb-proof, q.v. for 2.

Bomb-Proofs, the. The 14th Foot, since 1881 the Prince of Wales's Own West Yorkshire Regiment: military: mid-C. 19–20; ob. F. & Gibbons, 'From the immunity from casualties when in the trenches before Sebastopol'.

Bomb Shop, the. The (formerly Hendersons') very interesting bookshop at 66, Charing Cross Road, London, W.C.2: it offers a notable display of advanced belles-lettres and, esp., political writings. G. H. Bosworth's novel, Prelude, 1932, at p. 227. I myself first heard it so described by the proprietor early in 1928, but it has enjoyed this distinction since ca. 1924.

bomb the chat, gen. as vbl.n. To practise trickery or plausible deception; to 'tell the tale'; to exaggerate: military: C. 20. F. & Gibbons. Origin? Prob. supplied by the variant bum the chat (B. & P.). Also bum one's load.

Bombardier Fritz; occ. pom(me) Fritz. Fried potatoes: military: G.W. A corruption, by 'Hobson-Jobson', of the Fr. pommes de terre frites.

Bombay duck. That Indian fish which, alive, is called the bummalo, whence, by the Law of Hobson-Jobson, the present anomaly (cf. Welsh rabbit): at first (C. 18) coll.; by 1890 S.E. Cordiner in his C. 18 Voyage to India. W.

Bombay Ducks. The Bombay regiments of the East India Company's forces: C. 18-early 19.

Bombay merchant. See Arabs.—Bombay Toughs. See Old Toughs.

Bombay oyster. A glass of milk containing a double dose of castor-oil: training-ships': late C. 19-20. Bowen.

Bombay Rock. Bombareck in India: nautical: 1812, Morier. Yule & Burnell.

bombing the chat. See bomb the chat.

boombo. See bumbo.

bom'deer. A bombardier: military coll. (— 1887); † by 1920. Baumann.

bomp on. To get one's unemployment-card stamped: dockers': from ca. 1930. The Daily Herald, late July or early Aug., 1936. Prob. echoic: bomp = bump.

bon. Good; excellent; very acceptable: military coll.: G.W., and after. Also tray bon (Fr. très bon).—2. Hence, bon drop, a goodly portion (of, e.g., sleep); bon for the bust, good to eat; bon souly (Fr. bonne santé!), good health, good luck! F. & Gibbons; B. & P. The reverse was no bon.

bona. A girl; a belle: C. 19-20, ob.; low, prob. a reminiscence of bona-roba. Cf. dona(h).

bona, adj. Good; pleasant, agreeable: theatre and circus s., from ca. 1850. E.g. in Thomas Frost's Circus Life, 1875, and Edward Seago's Circus Company, 1933. Cf. bono.

bona roba, bona-roba. A harlot, esp. a showy one: late C. 16-early 19; in C. 18-19, archaic and S.E. Shakespeare, Jonson, Cowley, Scott. Ex It. buona roba, lit. a fine dress.

bonable. Abominable: a C. 16 (? later) sol. O.E.D.

bonanza. A stroke of fortune; a prosperous enterprise. Orig. (1847) U.S., a rich mine—perhaps ex an actual Nevada mine. Accepted in England as a coll., ca. 1895, and as S.E., ca. 1910. Ultimately, via the Sp. bonanza, prosperity, cx L. bonus, good.—2. Hence, in Glasgow (— 1934), money very easily obtained.

bonce; occ. bonse. The head: schoolboys': from ca. 1870. Ex bonce (— 1862), a large marble. Ware.—2. Hence, a hat: Cockney's: C. 20; ob. Edwin Pugh, The Cockney at Home, 1914.

bone. A subscriber's ticket for the Opera: London: C. 19; † by 1887 (Baumann). Ex Fr. abonnement, subscription.—2. (Always the bone.) The thin man: London: 1882-ca. 1910. Ware.

bone, v. To seize, arrest; rob, thief; make off with. From ca. 1690; until ca. 1830 (witness B.E., Dyche, Grose (2nd ed.), Vaux), cx. As s., it appears in Dickens, 1838, and Miss Braddon, 1861, and it had a great life in the G.W.: see Words! and cf. make, nab, win. 'Perhaps from the dog making off with the bone', W.

bone, adj. Good; excellent: c.; from ca. 1850; ob. Mayhew, 1851. Ex Fr. bon or It. buono. Opp. gammy, q.v. Cf. bona and bono.

bone, dry or hard as a. Free from moisture: coll. (— 1833) >, by 1890, S.E.

bone-ache. Venereal disease, esp. in men: late C. 16-17; coll. verging on S.E. Nashe, Shakespeare.

bone-baster. A staff or cudgel: coll.: late C. 16-mid-17.

bone-box. The mouth: late C. 18-20, low. Grose, 1st ed. Contrast bone-house.

bone-breaker. Fever and ague: lower classes': late C. 19-20; ob.

bone-cleaner. A servant: late C. 19-20; ob. Cf. bone-picker, 1.

bone-crusher. A large-calibre rifle: sporting; from ca. 1850; ob. Stanley's Livingstone, 1872.

bone-grubber. A scavenger and seller of bones from refuse-heaps and -tins: coll.; from ca. 1850, the word occurring in Henry Mayhew. Cf. the C. 18 grubber.—2. A resurrectionist: ca. 1820-60.—3. Hence, anyone having to do with funerals; esp. a mute: from ca. 1860; ob. Sala, 1863.

bone-house. The human body: coll., from ca. 1860; ob.—2. A charnel-house: from ca. 1820; ob.—3. A coffin: coll.: from the 1790's; † by 1890.

bone in any one's hood, put a. To cut off his head: C. 16-early 17; facetious coll.

bone in the mouth, carry a. (Of a ship) to make the water foam before her, 'cut a feather': nautical coll.: C. 19-20; ob. Bowen prefers bone in her teeth.

bone in the throat, have a; occ. leg, arm, etc. C. 16-20, coll., the throat form (app. † by 1800), occurring in Udall, 1542, the arm in Torriano, 1666, the leg in Swift, ca. 1708 (printed 1738): a humorous excuse; a feigned obstacle. Apperson.

bone-lazy. Extremely indolent: coll.: from 1890's. Ex lazy-bones on S.E. bone-idle.

bone-orchard. A cemetery: lower classes': C. 20. B. & P. Cf. bone-yard.

bone-picker. A footman: late C. 18-19, coll. in the latter. Grose, 3rd ed. Because frequently he has to eat leavings.—2. A collector and seller of bones, rags, and other refuse from the streets and garbage-tins: from ca. 1850: coll >, by 1910, S.E. Ruskin, Crown of Wild Olives, 1866.

bone-polisher. A cat-o'-nine tails (1848); its wielder (1857): nautical. (O.E.D.)

bone-setter. A horse hard in the riding; a rickety conveyance: mid-C. 18-early 19. Grose, 1st ed.; Moncrieff. Ironical pun on bone-setter, a surgeon. Cf. bone-shaker.

bone-shake. To ride one of the early bicycles: ca. 1867-1910.

bone-shaker. The early bicycle: from 1865 or 1866. The first bicycle to be cranked and pedalled was ridden in Paris in 1864; England followed suit most enthusiastically. These old bicycles lacked indiarubber tyres and were very heavy; as late as 1889 a 'safety roadster' weighed 36 pounds, but as early as 1870-1 'the low, long bone-shaker began to fall in public esteem'. Cf. bone-setter, q.v.

bone-shop. A workhouse: lower classes' (— 1909); slightly ob. Ware.

bone-sore or -tired. Very idle: coll., now verging on S.E.: from 1880's. Ex dial. Cf. bone-lazy, q.v.

bone the sweeter the meat, the nearer the. See meat, the nearer.

bone with, pick a. (Occ. bones.) To have an unpleasant matter to settle with someone: coll.: mid-C. 16-20.

bone-yard. A cemetery: Canadian: late C. 19-20. B. & P. Cf. bone-orchard.

boner. A sharp blow on the spine: Winchester College, mid-C. 19-20; ob. Adams, Wyke- hamica.—2. Hence, a bad mistake: C. 20. (The Passing Show, Dec. 9, 1933, 'Poor Carol . . . She made a boner to-night . . . Ronnie was simply livid.').—3. See boners.

boner nochy ! Good night !: Clerkenwell (London), which contains many Italians: late C. 19–20. Ex the It. for 'good-night !', though nochy more closely resembles Sp. noche. Ware.

boners. A form of punishment: Charterhouse: † before 1900. A. H. Tod, Charterhouse, 1900. Cf. boner, 1.

bones. Dice: C. 14–20; coll. in C. 14–15, thereafter S.E.—2. Bones played castanet-wise (—1590): coll., but very soon S.E.—3. A player of the bones: from ca. 1840; coll.—4. The human teeth: C. 19–20; ob.—5. A surgeon: C. 19; abbr. sawbones.—6. The examination in osteology: medical students' (—1923). Manchon.—7. (Stock Exchange) the shares of Wickens, Pease & Co., also the First Preference shares of North British 4%: ca. 1880–1914; cf. bonettas.—8. Something very good, orig. tasty; almost an adj.: from ca. 1880; ob. Coll. Tupper. (O.E.D.) Prob. = L. bonus, good.

bones, be on one's. To be (almost) destitute: non-aristocratic: C. 20. Galsworthy, The White Monkey, 1924, 'Give us a chance, constable; I'm right on my bones.' Ex emaciation. Cf. ribs, on the, 2.

bones !, by these ten. A coll. asseveration: late C. 15–early 17. Shakespeare. An allusion to one's fingers (cf. by this hand I witness). Cf. the late C. 16 exclamation bones a (or of) me (or you) !

bones, feel a thing in one's. To have an idea; feel sure: coll.; 1875 (O.E.D. Sup.); by 1910, S.E. Ex be in one's bones, to be felt as certain: itself S.E. verging on coll.

bones, make no. To hesitate not; make no scruple: C. 16–20; coll. Udall, Greene, Wycherley, Thackeray. In C. 15–16 the more gen. phrase was find no bones (in the matter): this,—along with without more bones, without further obstacle, delay, discussion (late C. 16–19),—would indicate that the reference is to bones in soup or stew.

bones, sleep on. See sleep on bones.

bones of, be upon the. To attack: late C. 17–18, low. L'Estrange (d. 1704): 'Puss had a month's mind to be upon the bones of him, but was not willing to pick a quarrel.'

bonettas. (Stock Exchange) the 4% Second North British 2nd Preference stock: ca. 1880–1914.

Boney. Bonaparte: ca. 1800–21; before, 'the Corsican Ogre'; after, historical, then legendary. Most British people still know whom Boney nicknames. Sidney Rogerson, in Introduction to his notable War book, Twelve Days, 1933.

Boney Cobbett. Wm. Cobbett (d. 1835), from bringing back to England the bones of Thomas Paine (d. 1809). Dawson.

boney-fide. See bonyfide.

bony, drunk, in the anon. Street-Robberies Consider'd, 1728, is prob. a misprint for bousy, 'boozy'.

bonfire. A cigarette: military: G.W. (F. & Gibbons.)

bong. A variant of bon, q.v.

bong-tong, adj. Patrician: sol., esp. Australian (—1916). C. J. Dennis. I.e. bon-ton.

bongo-boosh. 'A tasty morsel' (of anything): military on Western Front: 1915–18. F. & Gibbons, 'A perversion of the Fr. bonne bouche'.

Boniface. The landlord of an inn or a country tavern: C. 18–20, ex the bonny-faced, jovial innkeeper in Farquhar's lively comedy, The Beaux Stratagem, 1707. The first record, however, of the generic use is not until 1803, and by 1850 the term was considered S.E.

bonjer. A 'duck': cricketers': 1934, 'Patsy' Hendren, Big Cricket, 'If I had landed a bonjer'. Perhaps ex bon jour !—but prob. not. (Notes and Queries, Oct. 13, 1934.)

bonk. A short, steep hill: circus s.; from ca. 1840; ob. C. Hindley, Adventures of a Cheap Jack, 1876. Adopted from dial. (In S.E., † form.)

bonk, v. To shell: military: 1915–18. Gen. in passive; prob. ex plonk, q.v. (B. & P.)

bonner. A bonfire: Oxford undergraduates': from late 1890's. 'Oxford-er.' Perhaps in allusion to 'Bishop Bonner, who certainly lit up many bonfires—Smithfield way', Ware.

bonnet, bonneter. —1812, —1841 resp., both c. in origin: a gambling cheat or decoy; a decoy at auctions. Possibly 'a reminiscence of Fr. deux têtes dans un bonnet, hand and glove', W.—Cf. 2, a pretext or a pretence: Vaux, Flash Dict., 1812; orig. e.; † by 1890.—3. A woman (cf. petticoat, skirt): ca. 1870–1900; coll.

bonnet, v. Act as a decoy (see the n.); cheat; illicitly puff: C. 19–20, low; ob.—2. To crush a man's hat over his eyes: coll. (1837; ob.); Dickens often uses the word; vbl.n. not uncommon either.—3. See bonnet for.

bonnet, have a bee in one's. See bee in . . .

bonnet, have a green. To go bankrupt: C. 18–19; coll. Ramsay,—in fact it is mainly Scottish. Ex the green cap formerly worn by bankrupts.

bonnet-builder. A milliner: coll. (—1839); ob. Jocular.

bonnet for. To corroborate the assertions of, put a favourable construction on the actions of: c. of ca. 1810–70. Vaux. Cf. bonnet, v., 1.

bonnet-laird. A petty proprietor: Scots coll.: ca. 1810–60. 'As wearing a bonnet, like humbler folk', F. & H. (revised).

bonnet-man. A Highlander: coll. verging on S.E.: C. 19. Cf. kiltie.

bonneter. A decoy (see bonnet, n.).—2. A crushing blow on the hat: ca. 1840–1910.

bonnets so blue. Irish stew: rhyming s. (—1859); ob. H., 1st ed.

bonny-clabber, -clapper, -clatter, -clab(b)o(r)e. Sour butter-milk: coll.: C. 17–18. Jonson, 1630; B.E. Ex Irish baine, milk + claba, thick: E.D.D.

bono. Adj., good: Parlyaree: from ca. 1840. Via Lingua Franca. Cf. bona.

bono-Johnny. An Englishman: London's East End (—1890) and 'pidgin' English (—1909). Barrère & Leland; Ware. Ex preceding. As it were 'honest John (Bull)'.

bonse. See bonce.—bonser. See bonza.

bonus. An additional dividend (—1808); money received unexpectedly or additionally: from ca. 1770. Both senses were orig. money-market s.; by 1830, coll.; by 1860, S.E. Bonus is mock-Latin for bonum, a good thing. Cf. bunce, q.v.

bony. See boney.

bonyfide, boneyfide. Bona-fide: sol., or low coll., mostly Cockney (—1887). Baumann.

bonza; occ. bonser or bonzer; loosely, bonzo. Anything excellent, delightful: Australian: C. 20. Perhaps ex bonanza. Also adj. Cf. boshita.

boo to a goose. See bo to a goose.

boobies' hutch. More gen. booby's hutch, q.v.

booh. A booby, a fool, a 'soft' fellow; hence loosely, a fellow : U.S. (— 1912), anglicised in 1918. Collinson. (O.E.D. Sup.).—2. (the b.) A detention-cell; prison : military, G.W. +. Ex booby-hutch.

booby, beat the. See beat the booby.

booby-ack. A bivouac : military : C. 20. B. & P.

booby-hutch. A dug-out : military : G.W. +. Ex :—2. In late C. 19—early 20 c. or low, a police station, a cell.—3. In late C. 18—early 19, it meant a one-horse chaise or a buggy. Also a leather bottle. (Grose, 2nd ed.)

booby-trap. A practical joke of the jug-of-water-on-top-of-door kind : coll. (— 1850); after ca. 1890, S.E.—2. Hence, a bomb left behind by the Germans to catch the unwary : military coll. : 1917–18. See esp. F. & Gibbons.

booby's hutch. A barracks' drinking-point open after the canteen closes : military : ca. 1860–1910. Ware, 'Satire . . . upon the fools who have never had enough'. Cf. booby-hutch, 1.

boodle. Bribe(ry), illicit spoils, political perquisites, profits quietly appropriated, party funds,—all these are boodle. Orig. (1858 : Thornton) U.S.; anglicised ca. 1890; in C. 20, coll. Hence, money in general, with no reference to the illicit : coll.; orig. (— 1888) U.S.; > gen. in England ca. 1900, but this sense has remained s. Etymology obscure : W. suggests Dutch boedel, estates, effects.—2. A stupid noodle : ca. 1860–90. Kingsley, 1862 (O.E.D.). Perhaps a corruption of noodle.

booget. An itinerant tinker's basket : c. of ca. 1560–1640. Harman. Perversion of † S.E. budget, a bag or wallet.

boohoo; boo-hoo. To weep noisily : coll. : from 1830's. Barham. Echoic.

book. (Sporting.) A bookmaker's arrangement of his bets on a given day's racing or other 'bookmaker-able' competition. (The bookmaker tries so to arrange his bets that he will be unlikely to lose.) Coll. : from ca. 1830; in Henrietta Temple, 1837, Disraeli, 'Am I to be branded because I have made half a million by a good book?' Hence, a betting-book : from ca. 1850; coll. Both senses have, since 1900, been j.—2. A libretto : C. 18–20, coll.; the words of a play : from ca. 1850; coll.—3. The first six tricks at whist (— 1890), at bridge (— 1910) : these coll. terms soon > j.—4. A bookmaker : Australian (— 1916). C. J. Dennis. Abbr. bookie, q.v.

book, v. Engage (a person) as a guest : coll. (1872 : O.E.D.).—2. To pelt with books : school-boys' (— 1909). Ware.—3. To catch (a person) wrong-doing : Public Schools' : from ca. 1895. P. G. Wodehouse, The Pot-hunters, 1902, 'If he books a chap out of bounds it keeps him happy for a week.'—4. To understand, 'get the hang of' : Public Schools' : from late 1890's. Ibid, 'There's a pane taken clean out. I booked it in a second as I was going past to the track.'

book, beside the. (Utterly) mistaken : from ca. 1670; ob. Coll. >, by 1700, S.E. Walker, 1672 (Apperson). Cf. beside the lighter, q.v.

book, bring to. Cause to show authority, genuineness; investigate; hence, detect : coll., C. 19–20. Orig., to ask chapter and verse for a statement.

book, by (the). In set phrases : late C. 16–20; brig. coll. but soon S.E. Shakespeare, 'You kisse by th' booke.'

book, drive to the. To make (someone) give sworn evidence : C. 15–18; coll. soon S.E.; cf. book, bring to, q.v.

book, know one's. To come to a decision; see one's potential advantage : coll.; from ca. 1880; ob. book, let run for the. (Of a bookmaker) not to bet against a horse : from ca. 1870. H., 5th ed.

book, out of one's. Mistaken(ly) : C. 16–17; coll. soon S.E. Latimer.

book, speak like a. To talk excellent sense : informatively, accurately : coll.; from ca. 1840; prob. from U.S., where 'talk like a book' occurs as early as 1829.

book, suit one's. To be opportune, very suitable : coll. (— 1851) >, by 1890, S.E. Prob. ex betting.

book, take a leaf out of a person's. To follow his (gen. his good) example : C. 18–20; coll. till C. 20, when S.E.

book, without. Late C. 17–20; occ. without his book. Without authority; from memory. Orig. coll., soon S.E.

book-boy. A native 'shipped in certain ships on the West African trade to help the officers tally cargo' : nautical coll. verging on j. : late C. 19–20. Bowen.

book-chambers. See books, 2.

book-form. Theoretical form, at first of horses; coll. (— 1880); in C. 20, j. in racing, S.E. elsewhere.

book-holder. A prompter : theatrical (— 1864); ob. by 1890, † by 1920.

book-keeper. 'One who never returns borrowed books', Grose (2nd ed.), who speaks feelingly : coll.; late C. 18—early 19. Punning one who keeps accounts.

book-maker, bookmaker. A professional taker of the odds at races of any sort. (Contrast with the professional punter, who deposits money, i.e. backs a horse, with the bookmaker and who bets only on certain races.) He keeps a book (lays the odds) and operates from a stand on the course or from an office. (— 1862) coll.; by 1880, S.E. See esp. O.E.D. and F. & H.—Hence a bookmaker's pocket (a sporting coll.), a breast-pocket, inside the waistcoat, for notes of high denomination : from ca. 1850.

bookmaker's pocket. See book-maker (at end).

book-pad, v.t. and i. To plagiarize : pedantic after foot-pad : ca. 1680–1730. (O.E.D.)

book-work. Oxford and Cambridge : memorisable matter in mathematics : ca. 1845–90 as s.; then coll., by 1910 S.E., for any 'swottable' learning.

booka. Hungry : Regular Army : late C. 19–20. F. & Gibbons. Ex Hindustani bhukha.

booked, ppl. adj. Destined; caught; disposed of. Coll. (— 1839), orig. low. Brandon, Hood, Jas. Payn. Cf. book, v.—2. Hence, in for trouble : coll. : C. 20. Lyell, 'Third time you've been late this week. You're booked all right, my boy, when the Manager comes in.'

bookie. See booky.

bookri. Out of line, crooked; wrong : military : C. 20. F. & Gibbons. Perhaps a perversion of crooked.

books. A pack of cards : C. 18–20. Mrs. Centlivre; H. Cf. devil's books.—2. Winchester College usages :—The prizes presented, C. 19, to the 'Senior' in each division at the end of 'half' : sixth book, fifth book, and—ceasing to exist ca. 1865—fourth book; up at books, from ca. 1880 up to books, in class; book-chambers, a short lesson without a master; get or make books, to make the highest score at any game.

books, get or make. To make the highest score : coll. (—1890); slightly ob.

books (or cards), get one's. To be paid off: Public Works' coll.: from ca. 1924. On being paid off, a workman receives his insurance-card.

books, in a person's good or bad. In favour, or disfavour, with him: coll.; C. 19–20. In C. 16–18, the phrase was in or out of a person's books: coll. > S.E., though Grose has it.

books, plant the. 'To place the cards in the pack in an unfair manner', Lex. Bal.: c. of ca. 1810–70.

books, shut the. To cease from business operations: coll. (—1858); ob.

Booksellers' Row. Holywell Street: book-world coll.: ca. 1850–80. See also Row, the.

booky, often bookie. (In all such words, the -y form is preferable.) A bookmaker: sporting s.: 1881, says Ware; in C. 20, coll. See Slang at pp. 241–7 for a dialogue in bookies' s.—2. A bouquet: low coll., mostly Cockney (—1887). Baumann.

booky, adj. Bookish: from ca. 1880; coll. Presumably from U.S., where used as early as 1833: Thornton.

boom. A rush of (esp. commercial) activity; effective launching of any goods or stocks; vigorous support of a person. Orig. (—1875) U.S.; anglicised as a coll. ca. 1883, S.E. in C. 20. Baumann. Ex:

boom, v.i. and t. To go, set, off with a rush, at first of a ship, then in commerce, then in publicity. In its fig. and mod. senses, orig. (1850) U.S.; accepted as coll. in England ca. 1885, in C. 20 S.E. Perhaps ex some such phrase as 'a ship comes booming', 'she comes with all the sail she can make' (Sea Dict., 1708): W. On this word n. and v. see esp. F. & H. and Thornton.

boom off, top one's. To start: nautical (—1860); ob. H., 2nd ed., has—erroneously, I believe—tip one's boom off. (In Marryat, 1840, boom off is v.t., to push off with a pole.)—2. top your boom! See top . . .

boom-passenger. A convict on board ship: nautical, ca. 1830–60. Convicts were chained to, or took exercise on, the booms.

boom the census. To get a woman with child: jocular coll.: C. 20; ob.

boomer. A propagandist: C. 20 coll. One who booms an enterprise: coll., from ca. 1890. Orig. U.S. (—1885).—2. In Australia, a very large kangaroo, esp. if a male; in its earliest spelling (1830), boomah. Soon > coll. Ex boom, v.—3. Whence, anything very large: coll.: 1885; slightly ob. Morris.

booming. Flourishing; successful. Coll., in England from ca. 1890; orig. (—1879) U.S. Cf.:

boomlet. A little boom: Stock Exchange coll.: from mid-1890's; Ware dates it at 1896. (By 1920, S.E., as the O.E.D. (Sup.) shows.) Cf.:

boomster. One who booms stock: money-market coll. (1898) >, by 1930, S.E. Ware. Ex U.S.

boon-companion. A drinking(-bout) companion; 'a good fellow': 1566, Drant: coll. >, by C. 18, S.E. Whence boon-companionship, Nashe, 1592; in C. 18–20, S.E. boorish, the. Illiterate speech: C. 17. Shakespeare.

boord(e). See borde. — boose. See booze. — boos(e)y. See boozy.

boost. Vigorous support; 'push up'. Orig. (1825) U.S., anglicised ca. 1865; in C. 20, coll. Ex the v.—2. Hence, in G.W. military: an attack (cf. push), a raid, a heavy bombardment. F. & Gibbons.

boost, v. To support vigorously; 'push' enthusiastically, significantly. Orig. (1825), U.S.; anglicised ca. 1860. In C. 20, coll. and, like the n., applied, since 1929, chiefly to publishing—and authorship. Thornton. Origin obscure: ? ex boot + hoist.—2. Hence, to support without reason: naval: C. 20. F. & Gibbons.

booster. One who 'boosts' (see boost, v.): U.S. coll. (—1909) >, by 1912, English coll. verging now on S.E.—2. Hence, 'one who by false or misleading statements bolsters up a case': naval: C. 20. F. & Gibbons. (O.E.D. Sup.)

boot. Money; an advance on wages: tailors' and shoemakers'; late C. 19–20. Ware; The Tailor and Cutter, Nov. 29, 1928.—2. (Gen. pl.) The float of a sea-plane: aviators': from 1933. The Daily Telegraph, Feb. 19, 1935.

boot, v. To thrash; punish with a strap: military, C. 19–20; ob. At first with a jack-boot.—2. To kick, e.g. 'I booted him good and hard': coll.: from ca. 1880.—3. Hence (gen. boot out), to dismiss, get rid of: 1902 (O.E.D. Sup.).—4. To kick (the ball) exceedingly hard: football coll. (1914: O.E.D. Sup.). (Vbl.n., booting, in all four senses.)—5. V.i. and t, to borrow (money) on account: tailors': C. 20. Ex boot, n., 1.

boot, give or get the. To dismiss; be dismissed: s. (1888, Rider Haggard) >, by 1920, coll. (O.E.D. Sup.). Cf.:

boot, give or get the order of the. To dismiss or to expel; to be dismissed: C. 20: s. >, by 1930, coll. An elaboration of the preceding; cf. the order of the bath.

boot, put in the. 'To kick a prostrate foe', C. J. Dennis: mostly Australian (—1916). See also boot in.—2. To shoot: military rhyming s.: from ca. 1915.

boot-brush. A rough beard: jocular (—1927). Collinson.

boot-catch(er). An inn servant that pulls off guests' boots: C. 18—early 19. The longer form, the more gen., is in Swift and Grose.

boot-eater. A juror who would rather 'eat his boots' than find a person guilty: 1880; ob. Coll.

boot in, put the. A variant (likewise v.i.) of boot, put in the. Both > v.t. with into for in.

boot is on the other leg, the. The case is altered; the responsibility is another's: coll.; C. 19–20, ob.

boot-jack. A general-utility actor: theatrical (—1895). Ex a boot-jack's usefulness. (O.E.D. Sup.)

boot-joe. Musketry drill: military: mid-C. 19—early 20. Why?

boot-legger. A dealer in and distributor of contraband liquor in the U.S.; orig. (—1919) U.S., anglicised ca. 1927 as coll.; 1932 +, S.E. From the old days when spirits, in flat bottles, was carried on the leg to the Red Indians: in this connexion, the word appears in U.S. as early as 1890 (O.E.D. Sup.). Whence boot-legging, the sale and distribution of illicit liquor in the U.S. See, e.g. James Spenser's Limey, 1933, and Godfrey Irwin's American Tramp and Underworld Slang, 1931.

boot-lick. To toady (to); undertake 'dirty' work (for): coll. Ex U.S. (1845), anglicised in the 1890's.

boot-licker. A toady; a doer of 'dirty' work: coll. (— 1890). The U.S. form is boot-lick.

boot-neck. A Royal Marine: naval: mid-C. 19–20; ob. Bowen; F. & Gibbons, 'From the tab closing the tunic collar'. Cf. leather-neck.

boot out. See boot, v., 3.

boot serve for either leg, make one. To speak, rarely to act, ambiguously: C. 16–17; coll. > S.E.

booth. A house, as in heave a booth, rob a house: mid-C. 16–19 c.

booth-burster. A noisy actor: from ca. 1870; ob. Cf. barn-stormer and:

booth-star. A leading actor (or actress) in a booth or a minor theatre: theatrical coll. (— 1909); ob. Ware.

booting. See boot, v.

boots. The youngest officer in a mess: military: late C. 18–20. Grose, 1st ed.—2. A servant, gen. a youth, affected to the cleaning of boots: late C. 18–20; from ca. 1820, coll.; post-1850, S.E.—3. See lazy, smooth and sly boots, where boots = a fellow.—4. See boot, n., 2.

boots !, bet your. See bet your boots.

boots, buy old. To marry, or keep, another's cast-off mistress: C. 18–19; coll. Cf. boots, ride in a person's old, q.v.

boots, go to bed in one's. See bed in . . .

boots, have one's heart in one's. To be much afraid: C. 19–20, coll. In C. 17–18, wish one's heart . . .

boots, in one's. At work; still working; not in bed. Gen. with die. Coll. mid-C. 19–20. In S.E., die in one's boots or shoes is to be hanged.—2. Very drunk: late C. 19–20; ob.

boots, like old. Vigorously, thoroughgoingly: coll., C. 19–20. Lit., like the devil. Variant with as: Miss Bridgman, 1870, 'She's as tough as old boots' (O.E.D.).

boots !, not in these; not in these (trousers) ! Certainly not!: c.pp., resp. of ca. 1867–1900 and C. 20 (ob.). Quotations Benham; Collinson.

boots,—over shoes, over. Adj. and adv.: recklessly persistent: coll., ca. 1640–1820.

boots, ride in (a person's) old. 'To marry or keep his cast-off mistress', Grose, 2nd: late C. 18–mid-19. Cf. boots, buy old, q.v.

boots to, put the. To leap on (a person) with one's spiked boots: Canadian lumbermen's: C. 20. (John Beames.) Cf. put in the boot.

booty. Playing booty: C. 17–18. See:

booty, play. To play falsely; covertly to help one's apparent opponent: C. 16–19. Until ca. 1660, c.; then s. merging into coll.; from ca. 1790, S.E. As in Dekker, Fielding, Scott, Disraeli.

booty-fellow. A sharer in plunder: see preceding entry. C. 17–early 19. Coll.

booze (C. 18–20), rarely booz (late C. 17–18); boose (C. 18–20); bouze (C. 16–20, as is, also, bouse); bowse (C. 16–20); bowze (C. 18). (The O.E.D.'s quotation of ca. 1300 prob. refers to a drinking vessel.) Drink, liquor: c. (— 1567) until C. 19, then low s.; in C. 20, coll. Harman, B.E., Bailey, Grose. Ex v., 1, q.v.—2. Hence, a draught of liquor: late C. 17–20. Implied in B.E.—3. (Also ex sense 1.) A drinking-bout: 1786, Burns: low s. >, by ca. 1850, gen. s. > by 1900, coll.

booze, etc., v. To drink, esp. heavily; tippie: (in C. 14, S.E.; it reappears as c. in mid-) C. 16–20: status thenceforth as for n. Harman, Nashe, B.E., Colman, Grose, Thackeray. Perhaps ex Dutch buizen (low Ger. busen) to drink to excess: W.—

2. Hence booze (etc.) it, mostly C. 17, always c., and v.t., C. 17–20, e.g. in Harington.—3. V.t. To spend or dissipate in liquor: mid-C. 19–20. Often booze away (c.g. a fortune).

booze, on the. On a prolonged drinking bout: low (— 1889) >, by 1910, coll. (O.E.D. Sup.)

booze-fencer or -pusher. A licensed victualler: low London: from ca. 1880; ob. Ware.

booze-fighter. A notable drinker; a drunkard: Australian (— 1915) and American (— 1916).

booze-shunter. A beer drinker: orig. (— 1870), railwaymen's: from ca. 1870, gen. public-house; slightly ob. Ware.

booze the jib. (Nautical) to drink heavily; tippie: 1837, Marryat (O.E.D.); ob.

boozed, etc., ppl. adj. Drunk: C. 19–20, low. P. Crook, in The War of Hats, 1850, 'Boozed in their tavern dens, | The scurril press drove all their dirty pens.'

boozed-up. A C. 20 variant of the preceding.

boozer, etc. A drunkard (— 1611): low. Cotgrave, Wolcot, Thackeray.—2. A public-house: chiefly Australian and New Zealand (— 1914); also (1895) English c. and low s. The People, Jan. 6, 1895; Charles E. Leach, in On Top of the Underworld, 1933, 'Guv'nor, the "diddikayes" are "ramping" a "tit" in the "spruce" there; they're "three-handed"; a "nose" told me in the "boozer"; there's nobody "screwing", as they don't think the "busies" are "wise"; come along quick with the "mittens".' boozing, etc., vbl.n. Heavy drinking; guzzling: C. 16–20, low. Until ca. 1660, c. Harman, Nashe, Head, G. Eliot.—2. Also, adj.: C. 16–20: same remarks. Addicted to drink.

boozing cheat. A bottle: c.; C. 17–18 (? earlier). See cheat.

boozing-glass. A wine-glass; a tumbler: c.; C. 17–early 19. Baumann.

boozing ken. A drinking den; an ale-house: c.; mid-C. 16–mid-19.

boozington; or, in derisive address, Mr. Boozington. A drunkard: Australian c.; ca. 1860–1910. Prob. after lushington.

boozy, etc. Drunken, esp. if mildly; showing the marks of drink: C. 16–20, ob.; low. Skelton, in his famous poem of the drunken Eleanor, 'Droupy and drowsie, | Scurvy and lousie, | Her face all bowsie'; Dryden, in his Juvenal, 'Which in his cups the bowsy poet sings'; Thackeray, in The Book of Snobs, 'The boozy unshorn wretch'. (The earliest spellings of the booze group are in -use, -uze; the -oze form seems not to occur before C. 18.)

bor, gen. in vocative. Mate, friend: on the borders of dial. (Eastern counties of England), Romany (properly ba), and provincial s.: C. 19–20. E.D.D.; Smart & Crofton; Sampson. Cf. Middle High Ger. bur.

borachio. A drunkard: coll.: late C. 17–early 19. B.E. (as boracho); Grose. Also, perhaps earlier, as noted by B.E., a skin for holding wine: coll. Ex It. or Sp. The Parlyaree form is borarco.

borak. See '2' in:

borak, poke. To impart fictitious news to a credulous person; to jeer. V.t. with at. Australian (— 1885), ex a New South Wales Aborigine word; it had, by 1923, so spread that Manchon classifies it simply as military and nautical. (Perhaps, though not prob., the origin of to barrack, barracker, qq.v.) In G.W. +, borak was occ. corrupted, jocularly, to borax.—2. borak, banter, fun, occurs independently in 1845. Morris.

borarco. See borachio.—borax. See borak.—bord. See borde.

bord you! (Properly, no doubt, board you.) C. 19. Nautical, in drinking: my turn next!

bord(e)*. In c. of mid-C. 16–18, a shilling. Harman. Perhaps ex bord, a shield.—2. Whence half borde, a sixpence.

bordeaux. Blood: boxing, ca. 1850–1910. Cf. badminton and esp. claret, q.v.

bordello. A brothel: late C. 16–18; coll. (bordel is S.E.) Grose, P.

bore. Ennui (1766); 2, a boring thing, an annoyance (1778). Prob. ex next entry.—3. A wearying, an uncongenial, person (—1785): Grose. Until ca. 1820, the second and third senses were coll., thereafter S.E.; the first hardly outlived the C. 18; the rare sense, 4, a bored, a listless person, arose in 1766 and soon died (O.E.D.). Of the third, Grose remarks that it was ‘much in fashion about the years 1780 and 1781’; it again > fashionable ca. 1810.

bore, v. To weary a person (1768); coll. In C. 19–20, S.E. Perhaps ex bore, an instrument for boring; cf. A.-S. borian, to pierce. (Its athletic sense is j.)—2. To annoy: Bootham School coll. (—1925). Anon., Dict. of Bootham Slang, 1925.

Borealis. Abbr. Aurora Borealis: late C. 18–20: coll. >, by 1850, S.E.

born call. Sound reason: Australian coll. (now rare): 1890, Mrs Campbell Praed, The Romance of a Station. E.D.D.

born days, in (all) one's. In one's lifetime; ever: coll.: 1742, Richardson.

born in a mill. Deaf: coll.: ca. 1570–1700. Whetstone, 1578; Ray, 1678. (Apperson.) I.e. deafened by the noise of a mill working at top speed.

born under a threepenny halfpenny planet, never to be worth a groat. Extremely unsuccessful: C. 17–19; coll.

born weak. Nautical, of a vessel: weakly built. From ca. 1850; ob.

born with a silver spoon in one's mouth. Born wealthy or very lucky: coll. >, by 1840, S.E.: C. 18–20. In C. 17, penny.

borned. Born: sol.: C. 19–20.

Boro-Onions. ‘Boronians’, i.e. the people of the Borough of Southwark: ca. 1820–40. Bee.

borough-monger. A rabbit: rare Scottish: C. 19. E.D.D. borrow. To steal: jocularly coll.: from ca. 1880.

borrow, on the, adj., adv. Cadging. C. 20; coll.

borrow trouble. To seek trouble; to anticipate it unnecessarily or very unwisely: coll.: from the 1890's.

Bos. Bosanquet (see bosie): cricketers' nickname: 1900. Lewis.

bos-ken*. A farm-house: mid-C. 19–20 vagrants' c. Mayhew, 1851. Ex L. bos, an ox; ken, a place or house. Cf.:

bos-man*. A farmer: mid-C. 19–20 c. (vagrants'). Ex Dutch. Etymology disputable, but cf. bos-ken.

bosky. See ‘Westminster School slang’.

Bosch(e). See Boche, for which these two forms are erroneous.

bose. Abbr. bo'sun, itself an eligible slurring of boatswain. Both are nautical, the former dating from (?) the late C. 19, the latter from (?) the late

C. 18. The former is often used in addressing that link between officers and deck-hands.

Bosey. See bosie, Bosie.

bosh. Trash; nonsense: 1834. Coll. after ca. 1860. Ex Turkish (for ‘empty’, ‘worthless’); popularised by Morier's Ayesha and later novels.—2. Hence, as interjection: nonsense!: 1852; coll. after ca. 1870. Dickens in Bleak House.—3. In vagrants' c., a fiddle: see bosh-faker.—4. Butterine; oleomargarine; similar substitutes for butter: lower official English (—1909); ob. Ex sense 1.—5. Wabash Railroad preferred shares: Stock Exchange (—1895). A. J. Wilson, Stock Exchange Glossary.

bosh, v. To spoil; mar: 1870; ob. Ex bosh, n., 1.—2. Hence, to humbug, make fun of (—1883), as in Miss Braddon's Golden Calf.—3. Cut a dash: coll.; from ca. 1709; †. Ex Fr. ébauche, via English bosh, an outline or rough sketch (—1751); †). S.O.D., O.E.D.

bosh, adj. Inferior; ‘wretched’ (e.g. bosh boots): from ca. 1830; ob. Baumann. Ex n., 1. Cf. boshy.

bosh-faker*. A violin-player: vagrants' c.; from ca. 1850. In Roman, bosh is a violin; the use of faker as = maker is unusual.

bosh up. To go bankrupt: C. 20. Manchon. Ex bosh, v., 1. boshman. The same as bosh-faker: low or c. (—1865). O.E.D. (Sup.).

boshta, boshter. Like bosker, a variant of bonza, q.v. C. J. Dennis.

boshy, adj. Trashy; nonsensical: coll. (—1882; slightly ob.) Ansty in Vice Versa. Cf. bosh, n., 1.

bosie, Bosie; bosey (or B.). A ‘googly’ (ball or bowler): Australian cricketers' coll.: 1912–ca. 1921. Ex B. J. T. Bosanquet, who demonstrated the googly in Australia early in 1903 (W. J. Lewis), in which year googlie (or -y) first occurs: s. >, by 1910, coll. >, by 1930, S.E.

bosken. Incorrect for bos-ken, q.v., as bosman perhaps is for bos-man.

bosker. A variant of bonza, q.v. C. J. Dennis.

boskiness. Fuddlement; state of intoxication: from ca. 1880; ob. Coll. Ex:

bosky. Dazed or fuddled; mildly drunk: 1730, Bailey; F. & Gibbons; ob. Possibly dial., and perhaps ex bosky, wooded, bushy; though it ‘may be perverted from Sp. boquiseco, dry mouthed’, W., who, however, acutely adds that ‘adjs. expressive of drunkenness seem to be created spontaneously’.—2. Thorough, as in a bosky beano: low: C. 20. Manchon.

bosom friend. A body-louse: C. 18–20. In proverbial form as no friend like to a bosom friend, as the man said when he pulled out a louse, Fuller, 1732 (Apperson). Cf. back-biters, q.v. An alternative form is bosom chum: military: late C. 19–20, F. & Gibbons.

Bosphorescence. ‘The dazzling rather than sound finance of European banks in Turkey,’ ca. 1900–7: journalistic of that period. Sir Harry Luke, An Eastern Chequerboard, 1934. A blend of Bosphorus + phosphorescence.

boss. A fat woman: ca. 1575–1650: coll. Lyly. Ex boss, a protuberance.—2. A master, owner, manager; leader; a ‘swell’: in these senses, orig. (1806), U.S.; anglicised ca. 1850. In England the term has a jocular undertone; in Australia and New Zealand, it lacks that undertone. Ex Dutch baas, master.—3. (Gen. with political.)

'The leader of a corrupt following', Thornton: coll., orig. (— 1908) U.S. and still applied rarely to politics outside of the U.S.—4. A short-sighted person; one who squints: mid-C. 19–20, ob. ? ex Scots boss, hollow, powerless.—5. Hence (?), a miss, mistake, blunder: C. 19–20, ob. Cf. boss, v., 2.

boss, v. To be the master or the manager of; control, direct. Orig. (1856) U.S.; anglicised ca. 1870, as in The Athenæum, March 9, 1872, 'A child wishing to charge his sister with being the aggressor in a quarrel for which he was punished, exclaimed, "I did not boss the job; it was sister"'.—2. To miss, v.t. and i.; to bungle; to fail in an examination: schoolboys' s. in the main: from ca. 1870. Baumann; Manchon. Perhaps ex boss-eyed (W.); cf. boss, adj., 3.

boss, adj. Chief, principal: orig. (1840) U.S.; anglicised ca. 1875.—2. Pleasant; excellent; champion. Orig. (— 1888) U.S.; anglicised ca. 1895, but never very gen.—3. Short-sighted: Christ's Hospital (— 1887). Baumann. Abbr. boss-eyed. Cf. boss, v., 2.

boss, have a. To have a look: schoolboys': from ca. 1899. Collinson. Cf. boss-eye (d).

boss-cockie. A farmer employing labour and himself working: Australian (— 1898). Ex and opp. cockatoo, q.v. Morris.

boss-eye. One who squints or has an injured eye: from ca. 1880; ob. In a broadside ballad of ? 1884. Cf. boss, n., 4. Imm. ex:

boss-eyed, adj. With one eye injured; with a squint: from ca. 1860. H., 2nd ed.; Baumann, 1887, notes the variant bos-eyed. Perhaps on † boss-backed, hump-backed: W.—2. Hence, lopsided; crooked: C. 20. C.O.D., 1934 Sup.

boss-shot. A bad aim: see boss, n. and v., (to) miss. Ca. 1870–1914; extant in dial. Cf. boss, n., 4, and boss-eyed.

boss up. To manage or run (a house, its servants); to keep in order; act as the 'boss' over: servants' coll.: C. 20. E.g. in F. Brett Young's The Cage Bird and Other Stories, 1933.

boss up! Take care!: South African coll.: from ca. 1890. Ex Cape Dutch pas op!, look out. Pettman aligns Ger. passen sie auf!

bossers. Spectacles: ca. 1870–1910. Prob. ex boss-eyed, q.v.

bosso. A look or glance: low: C. 20. Margery Allingham, Look to the Lady, 1931. Perhaps orig. a squint; if so, then prob. ex boss-eyed on dekko.

bossy, adj. Over-fond of acting as leader or of giving orders: late C. 19–20. Ex (— 1882) U.S.: cf. boss, n., 2, and v., 1, qq.v.

Boston Tea-Party. The throwing of (chest) tea into Boston (Mass.) harbour by American patriots—the 'casus belli' of the War of American Independence: s. soon > coll.; in C. 19–20, historical S.E. See esp. A Covvey of Partridge, 1937.

Boston wait. (Gen. in pl.) A frog: jocular coll. (— 1769); † by 1850, except in dial.—and even there, now virtually †. (O.E.D.)

bostruchizer; occ. -yzer. A small comb for curling the whiskers: Oxford University: ca. 1870–80. H., 5th ed. Prob. ex Gr. βόστρυχος, a ringlet.

bo'sun. See bose.

bot. See bot-fly.—2. A germ: New Zealand medical: from ca. 1928. Perhaps ex the bot(-fly), which, in horses, lays eggs that are said to penetrate into the animal when they hatch.—3. Hence, a tubercular patient: id.: from ca. 1929. Cf. bots biting, q.v.

bot-fly. A troublesome, interfering person: Australian: C. 20. In G.W. +, often abbr. to bot. Ex the bot-fly, which in hot weather greatly troubles horses. Cf. botty, q.v.

botanical excursion. Transportation, orig. and properly to Botany Bay, Australia: c.; ca. 1820–70. 'Jon Bee.' Cf. sense 3 of:

Botany Bay. 1. Worcester College, Oxford (1853); 2, a portion of Trinity College, Dublin (1841). The former in 'Cuthbert Bede', Verdant Green, the latter in Lever, Charles O'Malley. Because of their distance from (a) other colleges, (b) the rest of the college, the reference being to Botany Bay in New South Wales—so far from England.—3. Inc., penal servitude: ca. 1790–1900. Ex the famous penal settlement (1787–1867) at that place. Cf. botanical excursion and next two entries.—4. 'The Rotunda of the Bank; the Jobbers and Brokers there being for the most part those who have been absolved from the house opposite', Bee: London commercial: ca. 1820–50.

Botany Bay, go to. To be transported as a convict: euphemistic coll.: ca. 1810–60. Baumann.

Botany Bay fever. Transportation; penal servitude. Ca. 1815–60. (Egan's Grose.)

Botany-beer party. 'A meeting where no intoxicants are drunk': Society: ca. 1882–1910. Ware.

botch. A tailor: mid-C. 18–19. Grose, 2nd ed. Abbr. botcher. Cf. snip, q.v. (In Whitby dial., a cobbler.)

both ends of the busk! A late C. 18—early 19 toast. Grose, 3rd ed. Ex the piece of whalebone stiffening the front of women's stays. Cf. best in Christendom, q.v.

both sheets aft. With both hands in his pockets: nautical: late C. 19–20. Bowen.

bother, v. (The n. is gen. considered as S.E.) To bewilder (with noise); confuse, fluster: mostly Anglo-Irish: ca. 1715–1850. Perhaps ex pothier, but perhaps ex Gaelic (see J. J. Hogan, An Outline of English Philology, 1935).—2. Hence, to pester, worry: from ca. 1740. V.i., to give trouble, make a fuss: from ca. 1770. All senses are coll., as is botheration (1800), the act of bothering, a petty annoyance. Both bother and botheration are used as exclamations. O.E.D.—3. I'm or I'll be bothered is a disguised form of swearing (see bugger, v., 1): coll.: prob. from the 1860's.

Bother, General. Botha, the Boer general: from late 1899; ob. He made himself a general nuisance, though he was an excellent general.

Botherams (-ums). The nickname of a latter-C. 18 convivial society. Grose (Botherams).—2. (Rare in singular.) Yellow marigolds: agricultural (— 1909); ob. except in a few localities. Ware. They are 'difficult to get rid of'.

botheration. See bother, 2.—botherment. Variation of botheration: coll.: mid-C. 19–20; ob. (O.E.D.) bothered!, I'm or I'll be. See bother, 3.

bots, botts, the. Colic; belly-ache. From ca. 1770; coll. when not, as usually, dial. Orig., an animal disease caused by maggots.

bots biting?, how are the. How are you?: New Zealand medical: from ca. 1929. See bot, 2, 3. bottle, v.i. To collect money for, e.g., a 'chanter': vagrants' c.: C. 20.—2. V.t., to fail: Public Schools': C. 20. Alec Waugh, Public School Life, 1922.

bottle, not much. Not much good: grafters' c.p.: from ca. 1910. Philip Allingham, Cheapjack, 1934. Ex bottles, no, q.v.

bottle, on the. (Reared) by means of the feeding-bottle: coll. in C. 19; S.E. in C. 20.

bottle, over a. In a sociable way: from ca. 1770: coll.; in late C. 19–20, S.E.

bottle, turn out no. To fail: sporting: from ca. 1870; ob. Baumann.

bottle-ache. Drunkenness; delirium tremens: mid-C. 19–20; ob. F. & H.

bottle and glass. The posterior: low rhyming on arse: C. 20. B. & P. bottle-arse; bottle-arsed. (A person) 'broad in the beam': low coll.: late C. 19–20; ob.—2. (bottle-arsed only.) See:

bottle-arsed, adj. (Printers' concerning type) thicker at one end than at the other: coll.: ca. 1760–1910; in C. 20, of type wider at the bottom than at the top.—2. See preceding.

bottle-boy. An apothecary's assistant; a doctor's page: coll.: from ca. 1855; slightly ob.

bottle-head, n. and adj. (A) stupid (fellow): the n., ca. 1654; the adj. (variant, as in Grose, bottle-headed), ca. 1690. Coll.; in C. 19–20, S.E. but archaic.

bottle-holder. A second at a boxing-match (1753; in C. 20, ob.); coll. Smollett in Count Fathom, 'An old bruiser makes a good bottle-holder.'—2. Hence, a second, backer, supporter, adviser (—1851): coll. Punch in 1851 had a cartoon of Palmerston as the 'judicious bottle-holder', for he gave much help to oppressed states; bottle-holder > his nickname. Whence bottle-holding: journalistic, ca. 1860–1900, for support, backing.

bottle-nose. A person with a large nose: (low) coll.: late C. 19–20.

bottle of brandy in a glass. A glass of beer: ca. 1885–1905. It didn't deserve a longer life.

bottle of cheese. A drink of Guinness: public-houses' (—1935).

bottle of smoke, pass the. To countenance a white lie: coll.: Dickens, 1855: ob. (O.E.D.) bottle of spruce. Twopence: rhyming s. on deuce, two. (—1859; ob.) H., 1st ed.—2. Nothing; almost nothing; (almost) valueless: non-aristocratic: late C. 18—mid-19. Ware. Ex spruce beer, which was inferior.

bottle of water. A daughter: rhyming s. (—1931).

bottle-screws. Stiff, formal curls: coll., ca. 1800–40. Succeeded by corkscrews.

bottle-sucker. Nautical, ca. 1850–1914: an able-bodied scaman, b.s. being humorously expanded.

bottle-tit or -tom. The long-tailed tit, from the shape of its nest: coll., from ca. 1845.

bottle-up. To keep, hold back: C. 17–20, coll.; restrain (feelings): C. 19–20, also coll. (Military) enclose, shut up: C. 19–20; coll., but S.E. in C. 20.

bottle-washer. Often head cook and b.w. A factotum: jocular coll.: 1876, C. Hindley, 'Fred Jolly being the head-cook and bottle-washer'.

bottled. 'Arrested, stopped, glued in one place': low coll.: 1898; ob. Ware, who considers that it partly arises from the bottling-up, in Santiago, of the Spanish fleet by the U.S. squadron.

Bottled Beer. Alex. Nowell (ca. 1507–1602), English ecclesiastic. Dawson.

bottled belly-ache. Cheap beer: C. 20; tramps' c.

bottled-up, be. To be fully engaged and therefore unable to accept any further engagements: low (—1887); ob. Baumann.

bottler. A collector of money for a band, a singer, an instrumentalist on the street: tramps' c. (—1935). Cf. nobber.

bottles. Barrett's Brewery and Bottling Co.'s shares: Stock Exchange, ca. 1880–1914.

bottles, no. No good; useless: low (—1923). Manchon. Prob. ex bottle, not much, q.v.

bottling, n. Persuading onlookers to put money in the hat: showmen's: C. 20. P. Allingham, in The Evening News, July 9, 1934. Cf. bottler, q.v.

bottom. The posteriors: 1794, Dr. Darwin: coll. See Slang, p. 138. Ex lit. sense, as prob. is:—2. Capital, property: C. 17, coll.—3. Stamina, 'grit': 1747; ob. Captain Godfrey, in The Science of Defence, was apparently the first to use the term in print, thus: '... Bottom, that is, wind and spirit, or heart, or wherever you can fix the residence of courage'. Little used after 1855, pluck taking its place. Semantically: that on which a thing rests, or that which is at the base, is dependable.—4. Spirit poured into a glass before water is added: coll.; from ca. 1850, Trollope having it in 1857, Theodore Martin as a v. in 1854.

bottom, at (the). In reality: coll. in C. 18, S.E. in C. 19–20.

bottom, stand on one's own. To be independent: C. 17–20; coll. till ca. 1800, then S.E.; cf. the proverbial let every tub stand on its own bottom: C. 17–20.

bottom dollar. See bet your boots.

bottom drawer(, get together one's). Of a girl, (to prepare her) trousseau: coll. (—1927). Collinson.

bottom facts. The precise truth: coll., from ca. 1890, but not much used. Orig. (—1877) U.S. (Thornton.)

bottom of, be at the. To be the actual, not merely the supposed, author or source of: coll. in C. 18, S.E. in C. 19–20. Steele has the equivalent be at the bottom on't.

bottom of a woman's 'tu quoque', the. 'The crown of her head', Grose, 3rd ed.: late C. 18—early 19. See tu quoque.

bottom on to (gold). To strike: Australian coll. (—1926). Jice Doone.

bottom out, tale of a tub with the. 'A sleeveless frivolous Tale', B.E.: coll.: late C. 17—mid-18. Cf. the title of Swift's masterpiece.

bottom out of, knock the. To overcome, defeat; expose (the fallacy of). Orig. (—1900) U.S.; anglicised ca. 1905 as a coll.

bottom-wetter. See wet bottom.

bottomer. In drinking, a draught or a gulp that empties the glass or tankard: C. 19–20; coll.

bottomless pit. The female pudend: late C. 18—early 19. Grose, 2nd ed. (In S.E., hell: cf. Boccaccio's story about 'putting the devil in hell'.)—2. Bottomless Pit. Pitt the Younger (d. 1806). Dawson, 'In allusion to his remarkable thinness'.

Bottomley's Own. The 12th Londons: 1916–17. Because this regiment, which had been in camp for some time at Sutton Veny and Longbridge Deverill, was suddenly despatched to the front as the result of Horatio Bottomley's article (in John Bull) on Armies Rotting in England. By the way, they pronounced it Bumley's, in accordance with a very famous and presumably apocryphal story about Bottomley calling on a Cholmondeley (pronounced Chumley).

botty. An infant's posteriors: orig. and mainly nursery. Mid-C. 19–20; coll. H., 5th ed. Ex bottom.

botty, adj. Conceited, swaggering: at first, and still chiefly, racing s. (— 1860) and dial. (see the E.D.D.). H., 2nd ed. Lit., troubled with the botts (parasitic worms). Cf. bot-fly, q.v.

Bouguereau quality. Risky effeminacy: art-world coll. (1884) >, by 1910, j.; ob. Ware notes that this Fr. painter (1825–1905) excelled in delicate presentation of the—mostly feminine—nude.

[bough. A gallows, despite F. & H., is S.E.—2. See heave.]

boughs, up in the. Much excited; in a passion. Coll.; late C. 17—early 19. B.E., Grose; the former has the variant a-top of the house. (Extant in dial.)

boughs, wide in the. See bows.—bougie. See bogee.

boufer. A C. 18 variant of buffer, a dog. C. Hitchin, The Regulator, 1718.

boule. 'A conversation in which anyone may join'; Charterhouse: ca. 1860–1910. A. H. Tod. Ex Gr. βουλή, a council.

Boulogne. A wounded man, desirous of getting to England but going no farther than Boulogne: military coll.: 1916–18. B. & P.

bouman. A companion or friend, a 'pal'; also as term of address: Dublin lower classes': from ca. 1910. Perhaps cf. bouman, 2.

bounce. A boastful lie, a pretentious swagger: coll. >, by 1800, S.E. (archaic in C. 20): Steele, 1714, 'This is supposed to be only a bounce.' Ex † bounce, the loud noise of an explosion.—2. Hence, an exaggeration: coll. (— 1765); as in Goldsmith, Whyte-Melville.—3. Impudence: coll.; from ca. 1850: as in Blackwood's Magazine, May, 1880, 'The whole heroic adventure was the veriest bounce, the merest bunkum!' Adumbrated in Ned Ward in 1703 (Matthews). Ex senses 1, 2.—4. A boaster, swaggerer: from ca. 1690; as in B.E.—5. Hence, a flashily dressed swindler: from ca. 1800: low. Vaux. All these five senses are practically †; the only operative extant one being that wholly C. 20 bounce = a bluffer, esp. if constitutional, regular, or persistent.—6. Cherry brandy: low: from the 1890's. Prob. ex its exhilarating effect.—7. A big dog-fish: nautical: late C. 19–20. Bowen. Ex its bounding ways.—8. A perquisite, an illicit surplus: military: C. 20. F. & Gibbons.—9. Dismissal; esp. get or give the bounce: mostly military: from ca. 1910. Ibid.

bounce, v.i. and t. To bluster, hector; boast; bully; scold: C. 17–20; ob. Coll.; but all except the last > S.E. ca. 1750.—2. V.i. and (with out of) t., to lie (†), cheat, swindle: from ca. 1750. Footc, 1762, 'If it had come to an oath, I don't think he would have bounced.' Cf. the n., senses 4, 5, qq.v.—3. To scold severely: coll. (— 1888). Cf. sense 1 of the n.: semantically, 'blow up'. O.E.D.—4. To bluff (a person): military: late C. 19–20. F. & Gibbons.—5. To coit with (a woman): low: late C. 19–20. F. & H. (revised).

bounce, give it to 'em upon the. To escape from the police, even to extract an apology from them, by assuming an appearance of respectability and importance: c. of ca. 1810–60. Vaux.

bounce, on the. ('In continual spasmodic movement': S.E.: C. 18–19. Hence:) Lively; ca. 1850–1900; coll.—2. Hence, since ca. 1850: as a, by attempting a bluff; by rushing one.—3. Hence, 'on the spur of the moment. At the critical moment': military: 1914; ob. F. & Gibbons.

bounceable, bouncible. Prone to boast; bump-tious: ca. 1825–1910; coll. Samuel Warren, 1830; 1849, Charles Dickens, who, eleven years earlier, uses the coll. adv. bounceably. Cf. n., 1, and v., 1.

bouncer. A bully, swaggerer, blusterer: late C. 17–19; coll. B.E., Dyche. Ex bounce, v., 1.—2. A cheat, swindler; also (— 1839), a thief operating while bargaining with a shopkeeper (Brandon): from ca. 1770; †; perhaps orig. c. Extant, however, is the nuance, a professional beggar: Cockneys': 1851, Mayhew; ob. E.D.D.—3. A liar: coll.; ca. 1755–1900, as in Footc's comedy, The Liar. Hence, a lie, esp. a big lie: from ca. 1800; coll.; ob.—4. Anything large (cf. bouncing): coll.: late C. 16–20; ob. Nashe, 1596, 'My Book will grow such a bouncer, that those which buy it must be faine to hire a porter to carry it after them in a basket.'—5. Naval, ca. 1860–1914: a gun that 'kicks' when fired.—6. In c., a harlot's bully: C. 19–20, ob.—7. A 'chucker-out': public-house s. (1883, The Daily News, July 26) >, by 1910, coll. Warc. Perhaps orig. U.S. bounceful. Arrogant; domineering: Cockney coll.: ca. 1850–90. Mayhew. Ex bounce, n., 1, 3.

bouncible. See bounceable.

bouncing. N., a good scolding (— 1885): coll. O.E.D. Cf. bounce, v., 3.

bouncing, adj. Big rather than elegant; lusty, vigorous; mid-C. 16–20; coll., but after ca. 1700, S.E.—2. Of a lie: C. 19, coll. Cf. a thumping lie.

bouncing ben. A learned man: c. (— 1864); †. H., 3rd ed.

bouncing buffer. A beggar: c. of ca. 1820–60. Ainsworth, 1834 (E.D.D.).

bouncing cheat. A bottle: c. of ca. 1720–1830. A New Canting Dict., 1725; Grose, 1st ed. Ex the noise of drawn corks.

bound, I dare or will be. I feel certain: certainly: coll.; from ca. 1530; the dare form being rare after ca. 1800.

bounded, ppl. passive. Catachrestic for bound, bounden: late C. 16–20. O.E.D.

bounder. A four-wheeler cab, a 'growler': ca. 1855–1900.—2. (University) a dog-cart: ca. 1840–1900.—3. One whose manners or company are unacceptable: Cambridge University, from ca. 1883. Lit., one who bounds 'offensively' about.—4. Hence, a vulgar though well-dressed man, an unwelcome pretender to Society, a vulgarly irrepressible person—gen. a man—within Society: from ca. 1885.

bounetter. A fortune-telling cheat: C. 19 c., mostly vagrants'. Brandon, 1839. Prob. a Gypsy corruption of bonneter.

boung. See bung, n., sense 3.—boung-nipper. See bung-nipper.

bourne(e). A realm, domain: catachrestic: C. 19–20. O.E.D.

Bournemouth. The Gaiety Theatre: theatrical: late 1882–mid-1883. Warc. That theatre was icy that winter; Bournemouth is much affected by the weak-chested.

bous(e), bouz(e); bousy, etc. See booze.

'bout. A coll. abbr. of about: almost S.E. in C. 13–18; but, esp. in words of command, e.g. 'bout turn, it is mainly naval and military: C. 19–20.

bouz. A variant of boozy, q.v.

bow. (Boating, competitive or otherwise) the rower sitting nearest to the bow: coll.: from ca. 1830.

bow, by the string rather than by the. By the most direct way: late C. 17-18; coll. > S.E. (O.E.D.)

bow, draw the long. To exaggerate; lie. From ca. 1820; coll. Byron.

bow, shoot in another's. To practise an art not one's own: C. 17-18; coll. soon > S.E.

bow, two or many strings to one's. With more resources than one, with an alternative: coll. > S.E.; from ca. 1550. In C. 19-20, gen. in reference to suitors or sweethearts. Ex archery.

bow and arrow. A sparrow: rhyming s.: late C. 19-20. B. & P.

bow-catcher. A kiss curl: ca. 1854-1900. H., 2nd ed; Ware. Corruption of beau-catcher, which is a variant form.

bow-hand, (wide) on the, adv. and adj. Wide of the mark; inaccurate: C. 17-18; coll. soon > S.E.

Bow Street. The orderly room: military: from ca. 1910. B. & P. Ex the famous London police-station.

bow up to the ear, draw the. To act with alacrity; exert oneself: coll.; from ca. 1850; ob.

bow-window. A big belly. From the 1830's. Marryat, 1840. Ex shape.

bow-windowed. Big-bellied: from the 1840's. Thackeray in Pendennis. Ex preceding.

bow-wow. A dog: jocular and nursery coll.: from ca. 1780. Grose, 1st ed.; 1800, Cowper, 'Your aggrieved bow-wow'. Ex the bark. Cf. moo-cow, etc.—2. A lover, a 'dangler': mainly in India; from ca. 1850. Ex his 'yapping'.

bow-wow! You gay dog!: coll.: C. 20. Manchon.—2. See wow-wow!

bow-wow mutton. Dog's flesh: ca. 1780-1890. Grose, 1st ed. Ware, 1909, '(Naval) [Mutton] so bad that it might be dog-flesh'.

bow-wow shop. A salesman's shop in, e.g. Monmouth Street: late C. 18-early 19. Grose, 2nd ed., 'So called because the servant [at the door] barks and the master bites'.

bow-wow word. An echoic word: from ca. 1860. Academic coll. (coined by Max Müller) >, by 1890, S.E. The (always S.E.) bow-wow theory is that of human speech imitating animal sounds.

bow-wows, go to the. To go to 'the dogs'; jocular coll.: 1838, Dickens. (O.E.D. Sup.)

bowd-eaten. (Of biscuits) eaten by weevils: dial. (where gen. bould) and nautical coll.: mid-C. 19-20. Bowen.

bowl; gen. bowl-out. A discovery, disclosure: c.: C. 19. Ex cricket.

bowl a gallon. To do the hat-trick: cricketers' at Eton: ca. 1860-90. Lewis. Thus, the bowler earned a gallon of beer.

bowl (or try) for timber. To propel the ball at the batsmen's legs: cricketers' coll.: ca. 1890-1914. Ware, 1909, remarks, 'Discountenanced in later years—rather as a waste of time than with any view of repression of personal injury'. An interesting sidelight for the great cricket controversy begun late in 1932.

bowl out. To overcome, defeat, get the better of: from ca. 1810. Ex cricket.—2. In c., gen. in passive, to arrest, try, and convict: C. 19-20. Vaux.—3. For the n., see bowl.

bowl over. To defeat, worst; dumbfound (—1862). Ex skittles. Another variant (Dickens's) is bowl down, 1865.

bowl the hoop. Soup: rhyming s. (—1859); ob. H., 1st ed.

bowla, but gen. in pl. (bowlas) or in pl. used as singular. A round tart made of sugar, apple, and bread: ca. 1820-1900; coll. Mayhew, 1851 ? ex the Anglo-Indian bowla, a portmanteau.

bowled. (Winchester College) 'ploughed' in an examination. C. 19-20, †. Cf. cropped.

bowler (1882); bowler-hat (1861); occ. bolier (—1890). A stiff felt hat; fairly low in the crown and gen. black: coll. In its etymology, it was long regarded as a bowl-shaped hat, but it almost certainly derives ex the name of a London hatter (W.: Words and Names). Dates: O.E.D.

bowler, be given one's. To be demobilised: military: late 1918-19. F. & Gibbons. I.e. a civilian bowler in exchange for one's 'battle-bowler'.

bowler hat, be given a. To be sent home or 'sacked': military: 1915-18. B. & P.

bowles. Shoes: ca. 1850-1910. H., 1st ed. ? ex bowl-shaped.

bowman, excellent, adept; mostly bowman prig, 'an eminent Thief . . . a dexterous Cheat', A New Canting Dict., 1725: c. of ca. 1720-1840. ? beau (fine).—2. Whence bowman, n., a thief: c. (—1823); † by 1890. Egan's Grose. Perhaps cf. bouman.

bowman, all's. All's safe: c.; from ca. 1820; † by 1890. Cf. bob.

bowman kem. See bob ken.

bows, wide in the. 'With wide hips and posteriors', Lex. Bal., where, as in Egan's Grose, bows is spent boughs: nautical coll.: ca. 1810-70.

bows under, (with). Having too much work to do: nautical coll.: late C. 19-20. Bowen. Ex a ship labouring in a heavy sea.

bowse, bowser, bowsy, etc. See booze, etc.; but—bowse, v. To haul hard, is nautical coll.: C. 19-20. Bowen. Perhaps cognate with dial. bouse, to rush, as the wind.

bowse, in. In trouble: nautical coll.: mid-C. 19-20. Bowen. Perhaps cf. dial. bouse, the recoil of a gust of wind against a wall (E.D.D.).

bowsprit. The nose: see boltsprit. Bowsprit in parenthesis, have one's, to have one's nose pulled: C. 19, orig. nautical (officers').

bowyer. (Lit., a bowman: C. 15+.) An exaggerator; a liar: mid-C. 18-early 19. Grose, 1st ed. Cf. bow, draw the long.

bowze, etc. See booze, etc.

box. A small drinking-place: late C. 17-18; coll. B.E. Cf. the mod. Fr. boîte.—2. In C. 19 c., a prison cell.—3. (the box.) 'A fielding position between point and the slips': cricketers' s. (1913) >, by 1920, coll. >, by 1930, S.E.—but ob., for the gully is much more gen. Lewis.—4. (the box.) A coffin; esp. put in the box: military coll.: late C. 19-20. F. & Gibbons.—5. 'A safe of the old-fashioned kind': c.: late C. 19-20. James Spenser, Limey Breaks In, 1934, 'It is easy to rip off the back.'

box, v. To take possession of, 'bag': Winchester School, from ca. 1850; ob.—2. Overturn in one's box, in reference to a watchman or a sentry (—1851, ob.); esp. box a charley, cf. charley.—3. To give a Christmas box: coll.: from ca. 1845; ob.—4. In C. 19 racing c., esp. as box carefully: (of a bookie) to see that one's betting liabilities do not exceed one's cash in hand.—5. V.t., 'to manipulate the figures of returns, esp. musketry returns, for purposes of deception': military: C. 20. F. & Gibbons.—6. To mix (two flocks or herds): Australian pastoral coll.: from ca. 1870. (R. D. Barton, Reminiscences of an Australian Pioneer, 1917.)

box, be in a. To be cornered; in a fix: coll., C. 19–20, ob. Prob. ex:

box, in a or the wrong. Out of one's element, in a false position, in error. Coll., mid-C. 16–20. In C. 16, Ridley, Udall (J. not N.); later, Smollett, Marryat. 'The original allusion appears to be lost; was it to the boxes of an apothecary?', O.E.D.

box, on the. On strike and receiving strike pay: workmen's, mainly in North England: ca. 1880–1910.

box !, the. Prepare for battle: naval coll. (— 1823); † by 1870. Egan's Grose.

box about, box it about. To drink briskly: C. 17–18. B.E. Cf. the C. 19–20 S.E.

box-getter, -getting. A stealer, stealing, from tills: C. 20 c. Charles E. Leach.

box Harry. To take lunch and afternoon-tea together: commercial travellers'; ca. 1850–1910. H., 1st ed. Ex:—2. To do without a meal: from ca. 1820. 'Jon Bee', 1823.

box-hat. A tall silk hat: lower class s. (— 1890) verging on coll.

box-irons. Shoes: ca. 1780–1830; c. George Parker, 1789.

box-lobby loungers. A 'fast' London coll. of ca. 1820–60; thus in Bee, 1823, 'The ante-room at the Theatres is frequented by persons on the Town of both sexes, who meet there to make appointments, lounging about.'

box of dominices. The mouth: mid-C. 19–20.

box of minutes. A watch; a watchmaker's shop: ea. 1860–80. H., 3rd ed.

box on. To keep fighting; hence, to continue doing anything important or strenuous: Australian: C. 20.

box open, box shut ! A soldier's c.p. indicating that though he was offering cigarettes, 'the donor's generosity was limited by hard circumstance' (B. & P.); G.W.

box the compass. To answer all questions; to adapt oneself to circumstances: orig. and mainly nautical; coll.; mid-C. 18–20. Smollett, 1751, 'A light, good-humoured, sensible wench, who knows very well how to box her compass'. Ex the nautical feat of naming, in order, backwards, or irregularly, the thirty-two points of the compass.

box the Jesuit and get cockroaches. To masturbate: mid-C. 18–19. Grose, 1st ed., 'a sea term'. An unsavoury pun on cock and a too true criticism of nautical and cloistered life.

box-up. A mix-up; confusion; muddle: mostly military: C. 20. Coll. Sidney Rogerson, 1933. Perhaps on mix-up.

box-wallah. A native pedlar, gen. itinerant: Anglo-Indian coll.; from ca. 1820.—2. Hence, pejoratively, a European commercial man: Anglo-Indian (— 1934). C.O.D., 1934 Sup.

boxed. (Of a book) impounded by Library Committee: Charterhouse: late C. 19–20. A. H. Tod.

boxer. A gratuity; esp., to the 'ringie' (in two-up) from the winning betters: New Zealand and Australian (— G.W. +). ? ex Christmas box. 2. Earlier, a stiff, low-crowned felt hat: Australian (— 1897). The Argus, Jan. 9, 1897. Morris. Cf. hard-hitter.—3. A tall hat: ca. 1880–1910. E.D.D.

boxing-out. A bout of boxing: U.S. >, before 1909, Australian coll.; † by 1920. Ware.

boy. A hump on a man's back: lower class, from ca. 1800. Whence him and his boy, a hunchback (H., 5th ed.).—2. In India, hence South Africa and Australia: a native servant: C. 17–20; coll. 'Influenced by Telugu bōyi, Tamil bōvi, a caste who were usually palankeen bearers', W.—3. (Often the boy.) Champagne: from ca. 1880; ob. Punch, 1882, 'Beastly dinner, but very good boy. Had two magnums of it.'—4. See b'hoy.—5. In C. 20 c., and gen. in pl.: a prisoner. Cf. boys, q.v.—6. (Also the boyo.) Always the boy, the penis: late C. 19–20.

boy, my or old. A term of address: coll., though sometimes it is, clearly, familiar S.E.: C. 17–20. Shakespeare, Richardson.

boy, old (with the). One's father: late C. 19–20. One's business chief, 'governor': C. 20. The devil: C. 19–20, jocular. All now coll., though s. at their inception.

boy, yellow. See yellow boy.

boy Jones, the. A secret, or unnamed, informant: a virtual c.p., mostly London: mid-C. 19. Ex an inquisitive boy that wormed his way several times into Buckingham Palace. See esp. Horace Wyndham, Victorian Sensations, 1933.

boy with the boots, the; the nailer; Old Nick. The joker in a pack of cards: Anglo-Irish: late C. 19–20. Ex his effectiveness.

boyno ! A friendly valediction or, ecc., greeting: nautical (— 1909); slightly ob. Ware. Ex or via Lingua Franca for 'good'.

boyo. (Gen. vocative.) Boy: late C. 19–20. This -o is an endearment-suffix. Ex Anglo-Irish boyo, 'lad, chap, boy' (E.D.D.).—2. See boy, 6.

boys; always the boys. The fraternity of book-makers and their associates: racing: from ca. 1850.—2. The lively young fellows of any locality: from ca. 1860; coll. Cf. lads of the village.

Boys, Angry or Roaring. A set of young bloods, noisy-mannered, delighting to commit outrages and enter into quarrels, in late Elizabethan and in Jacobean days. Greene, Tu Quoque, 'This is no angry, nor no roaring boy, but a blustering boy'. Coll.; since ca. 1660, S.E. and merely historical. Cf. Mohawks.

Boys of the Holy Ground. Bands of roughs frequenting the less reputable parts of St. Giles, London, ca. 1800–25. Moore, Tom Crib's Memorial, 1819.

boysie. A term of address to a boy or, rarely by father, to son of any age whatsoever: coll., mostly Australian: C. 20. Isabel Cameron, Boysie, 1929; Christina Stead, Seven Poor Men of Sydney, 1934. Cf. boyo, 1, and dial. boykin.

Bozzy. Boswell: from ca. 1780. See Bear-leader, the. For the form, cf. Dizzy.

brace. Two 'noughts' in a match: 1912. But bag a brace, to be twice dismissed for 0, occurs as early as 1867; the ob. brace of ducks in 1891. All are s. >, by 1920 at latest, coll.

brace, face and. To bluster, domineer; be defiant: C. 16: coll. Skelton; Latimer, 'Meu . . . woulde face it and brace it and make a shewe of upryght dealyng,' O.E.D. Cf. brace (up), brace oneself.

brace—or couple—of shakes, in a. In a moment; almost immediately: from ca. 1830. Barham, Ouida. Egan's Grose, 1823, has '[in a] brace of snaps. Instantly' and classifies it as nautical.

brace tavern, the. Late C. 18—early 19 only; low: 'a room in the S.E. corner of the King's Bench, where, for the convenience of prisoners residing thereabouts, beer purchased at the tap-house was retailed at a halfpenny per pot advance. It was kept by two brothers of the name of Partridge, and thence called the Brace, Grose, 2nd ed.

brace up. To pawn stolen goods, esp. at a good price: C. 19–20 c.; ob. Vaux. Ware suggests that it may derive from Fr. c. braser as in braser des faffes, to fabricate false papers.

bracelet. A handcuff: from ca. 1660. Always low; in C. 17–18, prob. c.; ob.

bracer. A tonic: C. 18–19. 'What you need is a bracer.' The medical sense, which was S.E., has long been †; as another word for a strong drink (cf. tonic, q.v.), a coll., from ca. 1860: ex U.S. (1825: O.E.D. Sup.).

brack. A mackerel: nautical: late C. 19–20. Bowen. Ex Isle of Man dial.

bracket-face(d). Ugly: late C. 17–early 19. B.E.; Grose. Whence:

bracket-mug. An ugly face: C. 19.

brad. See Bradbury.

brad-faking. A mid-C. 19 corruption of broad-faking, q.v. H., 1st–3rd edd.

bradbury, occ. abbr. to brad. A Treasury note; esp. a £1 note: 1915; ob. (These notes, by the way, were hardly artistic.) Ex Sir John Bradbury, the Secretary of the Treasury, which circulated the 10s. and £1 notes from late 1914 until November, 1928, when the nation's note issue was consolidated in the Bank of England; the Treasury's notes ceased to be legal tender on July 31, 1933. See the third leader and the City Editor's note, The Daily Telegraph, Aug. 1, 1933. Cf. Fisher, q.v.

brads. Money; copper coins. From ca. 1810 (Vaux recording it in 1812); low until ca. 1860, by which date the 'copper' sense was †. Prob. ex the shoemakers' rivets so named.—2. Cigarettes: military: C. 20. F. & Gibbons. For semantics, cf. coffin-nail.

brads, tip the. To be generous with money; hence, be a gentleman: ca. 1810–40; low.

bradshaw. The complete time-table to the trains of Great Britain: from ca. 1845; soon coll.; in C. 20 S.E. Abbr. Bradshaw's Railway Guide.—2. Hence, a person very good at figures: middle-class coll. (—1909); almost †. Ware. Ex that Manchester printer who in 1839 published the first railway time-table, in 1841 issued the first monthly railway-guide. (W.) 'O mighty Bradshaw, speaker of the thunderous line': from an unpublished and unpublisible ode.

brag. A braggart; 'A vapouring, swaggering, bullying Fellow', B.E.: late C. 17–20. After ca. 1800, S.E.—2. In c., a money-lender; a Jew: C. 19–20. Ex his exorbitant demands.

braggadocia, -io. Three months' imprisonment to reputed thieves, who prob. boast that they can do it 'on their heads': c.; ca. 1850–70. Dickens in Reprinted Pieces, 1857.

Braggs. See Old Braggs.

Brahma. 'Something good. Also a flashily dressed girl': Regular Army: late C. 19–20. F. & Gibbons. Ex Brahma, the Hindu deity: the idols being often bejewelled. Hence brama, q.v.—2. See Bramah knows.

brain, bear a. To be cautious; have a brain, i.e. some intelligence: C. 16–early 19; coll. soon > S.E. Skelton.

brain, have on the. Be obsessed by, crazy about: mid-C. 19–20. Coll. in C. 19, then S.E.

brain-canister. The head: pugilistic: ca. 1850–85. H., 3rd ed. On:

brain-pan. (As skull, S.E.) The head: C. 17–20, ob.; after ca. 1730, coll. Skelton, Dekker, Scott.

brain-storm. The same as brain-wave but with the connotation of a more sustained mental effort: from ca. 1925; now verging on coll. Ex the S.E. sense, 'a succession of sudden and severe paroxysms of cerebral disturbance' (Dorland, 1901: O.E.D. Sup.).

brain-wave. A sudden, esp. if a brilliant, idea: from ca. 1914; since 1933, coll. Ex telepathy.

brains. The paste with which a sub-editor sticks his scissors-cuttings together: printers' (—1887); slightly ob. Baumann.

brains, beat, break, cudgel; drag; busy, puzzle one's. To think hard, in order to understand or to contrive: C. 16–20, except break († by 1800): all coll.; but all, since ca. 1860, S.E.

brains, have some guts in one's. To be knowledgeable: late C. 18–early 19: coll. Grose, 3rd ed.

brains, pick or suck someone's. To elicit information, knowledge, 'brain-wave', and utilise it (without permission). Coll. (—1838), very soon S.E. Lytton.

brains as guts, if you had as much. (Gen. followed by what a clever fellow you would be!) A c.p. addressed to a person fat and stupid: ca. 1780–1820. Grose, 2nd ed.

brains on ice. See have one's brains on ice.

brainy. Clever: coll.; late C. 19–20; now verging on S.E. Ex U.S. (—1873) and, even now, more typically U.S. than English.

brake. A tutor: Public Schoolboys' (—1933). Perhaps suggested by coach.

brake, set one's face in a. To assume a 'poker' face: coll.; C. 17. Ex brake, 'a framework intended to hold anything steady' (O.E.D.). Variants with looks, vizard, etc. Chapman in that fine, ranting tragedy, Bussy D'Amboise, 1607, 'O (like a Strumpet) learn to set thy looks | In an eternal Brake.'

brama. A pretty girl: c.: from ca. 1922. James Curtis, The Gilt Kid, 1936. Ex Brahma, q.v.

Bramah knows: I don't. A euphemism (!) for God knows! I don't!: ca. 1880–1910. More correctly Brahma.

bramble. A lawyer: mainly Kentish, hence and partly Cockney, s.: ca. 1850–1914.

bramble-gelder. An agriculturist: chiefly Suffolk, but occ. heard elsewhere: mid-C. 19–20; ob. H., 3rd ed.

bran. A loaf: coll., ca. 1830–1910. Dickens in Oliver Twist. Ex bran-loaf.

bran-faced. Freckled: mid-C. 18–early 19: coll. Grose, 2nd ed. Cf. christened by a baker.

bran mash, bran-mash. Bread soaked in tea or coffee: military, from ca. 1870; ob.

bran-new. I.e. brand-new (earlier, fire-new): a C. 19–20 sol., heard on the lips of those who persist in saying Welsh rarebit.

branco- is incorrect for branchio-: mid-C. 19–20. O.E.D. branded ticket. A discharge-ticket recording a crime, esp. a serious one: nautical coll.: ca. 1830–1925. Cf. blanker.

brandy, all. See all brandy.

brandy and Fashoda. Brandy and soda: Society: Oct. 1898–early 99. Ware. Ex 'the discovery of the Fr. captain, Marchand, at Fashoda'.

brandy blossom. A red-pimpled nose: coll. (— 1887). Baumann. Ex b.b., a pimple that, on the nose, is caused by drink, esp. by brandy.

brandy-face. A drunkard: late C. 17—early 19. Cotton, ca. 1687, 'You goodman brandy-face'. Whence:

brandy-faced. Red-faced, esp. from liquor: from ca. 1700. Grose; Sala, 'brandy-faced viragos'.

brandy is Latin for (a) goose, later fish. The former (ob.), from late C. 16; the latter (†), from ca. 1850. Coll. Mar-Prelate's Epitome, 1588; Swift; Marryat. (Apperson.) Brewer has thus neatly stated the semantic equation: 'What is the Latin for goose? (Answer) Brandy. The pun is on the word answer. Answer is the Latin for goose, which brandy follows as surely and quickly as an answer follows a question.' Concerning fish, Mayhew tells us that the richer kinds of fish produce a queasy stomach, restored only by a drink of brandy. Cf.:

brandy is Latin for pig and goose. Halliwell, 1847: 'An apology for drinking a dram after either'. Coll.; extremely ob. A variant on the preceding entry.

Brandy Nan. Queen Anne of England: early C. 18. Dawson, 'From her fondness for spirits'.

brandy pawnee (occ. pahnee). Brandy and water. India and the Army: coll. From ca. 1810. Thackeray, 1848, 'The refreshment of brandy-pawnee which he was forced to take'. See pawnee.

brandy-shunter. A too frequent imbiber of brandy: non-aristocratic: from ca. 1880; ob. Ware. On booze-shunter, q.v.

brass. Money. In late C. 16—17, S.E.; in C. 18, coll.; thereafter, s. Mrs. Gaskell; Miss Braddon, 'Steeve's a little too fond of the brass to murder you for nothing.' H., 5th ed., "'Tin'" is also used, and so are most forms of metal.' Cf. brass up.—2. Impudence; effrontery. Adumbrated by Shakespeare, but popularised by Defoe in The True Born Englishman, 'a needful competence of English brass'. Also in Farquhar, North, Goldsmith, T. Moore, Dickens. Coll.; in C. 19—20, S.E. Prob. suggested by slightly earlier brazen-face.—3. A confidence-trick betting-system: c. C. 20. Charles E. Leach, in On Top of the Underworld, 1933.—4. Abbr. of brass-nail, q.v.: from ca. 1920. Philip Allingham, Cheapjack, 1934.

brass along. To go gaily and/or impudently ahead: from ca. 1918. (R. Blaker, Night-Shift, 1934.) Ex brass, 2.

Brass Before and Brass Behind. The Gloucestershire Regiment: military: late C. 19—20. F. & Gibbons. By a pun on Back Numbers, q.v.

brass-bound and copper-fastened. (Of a lad) dressed in a midshipman's uniform: nautical; mid-C. 19—20; ob.

brass-bounder. A midshipman; a premium apprentice: nautical: late C. 19—20. Bowen. Ex preceding.

brass-face. An impudent person: coll.: ca. 1820—60. 'Jon Bee.' Ex brass, 2.

brass farthing. A farthing—or less. Coll.: mid-C. 17—20; S.E. after ca. 1850.

brass-hat. A high-ranked officer: military and, in C. 20, naval: 1893, Kipling. Ex 'gilt ornamentation of his cap' (O.E.D. Sup.). See esp. B. & P.

Brass Heads, the. The 3rd Bombay European—now the Leinster—Regiment: military: 1858, when they excellently endured the sun in Sir Hugh Rose's campaign in Central India. F. & Gibbons.

brass-knocker. Broken victuals: scraps of food: vagrants' c. (— 1874); ob. H., 5th ed. ? ex the hardness, or possibly, via India, ex Hindustani basi khana, stale food; it affords an interesting comment on Yule & Burnell's brass-knocker.

brass monkey. See monkey, cold enough . . .

brass-nail. A prostitute: c.: C. 20. Rhyming s. on tail. (Also among grafters: Philip Allingham.) brass-neck. Impudent: military: C. 20. F. & Gibbons, 'A brass-neck lie'.

brass off, v.i. To grumble: military: C. 20. F. & Gibbons. Perhaps ex part brass-rags.

brass-plate merchant. An inferior middleman in coal: ca. 1840—1920; mainly London. Mayhew.

brass-plater. 'A man of the merchant class': from ca. 1920. (O.E.D. Sup.) Ex preceding.—2. (brass- or door-plater.) A doctor: C. 20. Manchon. Ex the brass name-plate at his door.

brass-rags. See part brass-rags.

brass tacks, get down to. To come to, to face, realities; to consider the practical aspect: coll.: U.S. (1903), anglicised by 1910: O.E.D. (Sup.). (In U.S., there is the variant . . . brass nails.) I suspect, however, that brass tacks may have arisen before C. 20 and be rhyming s. for facts.

brass up. To pay (up), gen. v.i.: C. 20. In Feb., 1917, subscriptions to the War Loan were solicited in Nottingham (and elsewhere) by brass up legending the tramcars (W.). The term is more gen. in the North and the Midlands than in the South.

brasser. A bully: Christ's Hospital, C. 19—20; ob. Ex brass, 2.

brassy. Impudent; shameless: coll. (— 1576); S.E. after 1800; in C. 20, ob. Wolcot, i.e. Peter Pindar, 'Betty was too brassy.' Cf. the S.E. usages.

brat. Brother; 'one behaving in a manner not befitting his years': Bootham School: late C. 19—20. Anon., Dict. of Bootham Slang, 1925.

bratchet. A little brat: endearing or pejorative coll.: from ca. 1600; ob. by 1900.

brattery. A nursery: pejorative coll.: from ca. 1780. Beckford, 1834, 'The apartment above my head proves a squalling brattery.' (O.E.D.)

brave. A bully; assassin: late C. 16—17, coll.; thereafter S.E.; ob. by 1850, † by 1890.

Brave Fifteenth, the. The 15th Hussars: C. 19—20: military coll. now verging on j. and obsolescence. F. & Gibbons, 'From an old regimental song—"The Brave Fifteenth"'.

bravo. 'A mercenary Murderer, that will kill any body,' B.E.; Steele, 'dogged by braves'. Late C. 16—18, coll.; thereafter S.E.; by 1930 slightly ob.

brawn. Strength as opp. to brains: coll., C. 19—20.

brawn, hawk one's. (See the quotation at bruvver.) To be a male prostitute (i.e. a man offering his 'charms' to women); to be a passive homosexual for money: low (esp. Cockneys'): C. 20.

brayvo, Hicks! Splendid!: music-halls' and minor theatres': from ca. 1830; ob. by 1910; † by 1930. Ware, 'In approbation of muscular demonstration. . . . From Hicks, a celebrated . . . actor . . . , more esp. "upon the Surrey side" . . . [In late C. 19—early 20] applied in S. London widely; e.g. "Brayvo Hicks—into 'er again.'" Cf:

brayvo, Rouse. Splendid!; well done!: East London c.p. (— 1909); † by 1914. Ware. Ex 'the name of an enterprising proprietor of "The Eagle" . . . ; a theatre . . . in the City Road'. A very successful, though unauthorised, presenter of Fr. light opera, esp. 'all the best of Auber's work' (Ware).

brazen-face. A brazen-faced person: late C. 16–20, ob.; coll. till ca. 1800, then S.E.

[brazen-faced, impudent. Given by B.E. as either s. or coll., and by F. & H. as coll. It is, however, doubtful if this C. 16–20 word has ever been other than S.E.]

Brazen Nose College, you were bred in. You are impudent: c.p.: C. 18. Fuller. A pun on brazen-face and Brasenose College, Oxford.

brazil, as hard as. Extremely hard: from ca. 1635. Coll. till 1700, then S.E.; ob. Either ex Brazil-wood or, much less prob., ex brazil, iron pyrites. (S.O.D.) breach. A breach of promise: 1840, Dickens: coll. now verging on S.E. (O.E.D. Sup.)

bread I, as I live by. As true (or sure) as I stand here!: coll.: late C. 19–20. Manchon.

bread, in bad. In a disagreeable situation: mid-C. 18–mid-19: coll. Grose, 3rd ed. Here, bread = employment. Cf.:

bread, out of. Out of work: coll., mid-C. 18–early 19. Grose, 3rd ed.

bread and boo. Bread-and-scrape: nursery coll. (— 1923). Manchon.

bread and butter. A livelihood: coll., from ca. 1840. Ex U.S. (1820: Thornton).—2. A gutter: rhymings s.: late C. 19–20. (The Evening Standard, Aug. 19, 1931).—3. An app. cryptic term that resolves itself into an abbr. of bread and butter letter, q.v. Such shortenings are beloved of Society.

bread-and-butter, adj. Boyish, girlish, esp. schoolgirlish, as in a bread-and-butter miss: coll.; from ca. 1860.

bread and butter letter. A letter thanking one's recent hostess: Society: anglicised, as a coll., ca. 1905 ex U.S. Occ. abbr. to bread and butter: from ca. 1925.

bread and butter of mine, no. No business of mine; no potential profit for me: coll.: from ca. 1760; ob.

bread and butter squadron (or with capitals). The Mediterranean Squadron: naval: late C. 19–20. Bowen. Because it is 'cushy'.

Bread and Butter Warehouse. The Ranelagh Gardens of C. 18–early 19. In reference to their debauchery,—cf. Joseph Warton's Ranelagh House, 1747,—bread-and-butter fashion being a mid-C. 18–20 c.p. descriptive of human coition. Grose, 3rd ed.

bread and butter wicket. A wicket extremely easy for batsmen: cricketers' coll.: 1887. Lewis.

bread and cheese. Adj., ordinary; inferior; stingy: coll.: late C. 17–19. B.E.—N., plain fare or living: late C. 16–20, coll. > S.E. by 1700.

bread and cheese in one's head, have (got). To be drunk: mid-C. 17–mid-18; coll. and proverbial. Ray, 1678. (Apperson.)

bread and jam. A tram: rhyming s.: C. 20. B. & P.

bread and meat. The commissariat: military, from ca. 1850; ob. in G.W.; †.—2. Hence, bread-and-meat man, an officer in the A.S.C.: military (— 1909); † by 1920. Ware.

bread and pullet. Just bread: jocular (— 1913). A. H. Dawson. With pun on pull it.

bread and salt, take. To curse and swear: C. 20. Manchon.

bread-artist. An artist working merely for a living: art: from 1890's; very ob. A variation of pot-boiler with a pun on bred.

bread-bags. Anyone in the victualling department: Army, Navy: mid-C. 19–20; ob. H., 3rd ed.

bread-barge. The distributing tray or basket of biscuits: nautical, C. 19–20; ob.

bread-basket. The stomach: from ca. 1750. Foote, 1753, 'I let drive . . . , made the soup-maigre rumble in his bread-basket, and laid him sprawling.' Cf. bread-room, dumpling-dépôt, porridge-bowl, and victualling-office: all pugilistic.

bread buttered on both sides. Great or unexpected good fortune: coll.; mid-C. 17–20. Ray, 1678; Lockhart. (Apperson.)

bread-crumbs! A naval c.p. (C. 20) uttered by the senior subaltern officer in the gun-room: an 'order for all junior midshipmen to put their fingers in their ears to avoid conversation unfitted for their youth' (Bowen).

bread is buttered, know on which side one's. To seek one's own advantage: C. 16–20: coll.; in C. 19–20, S.E. Heywood, Cibber, Scott, Vachell. (Apperson.)

bread out of one's mouth, take the. To spoil or destroy a person's livelihood; to remove what another is on the point of enjoying. From ca. 1700; coll. till C. 19, then S.E.

bread-picker. A junior's nominal office at Winchester College: C. 19. Evidently ex some old fagging-duty connected with bread.

bread-room. The stomach: 1761, Smollett; † by 1860. Cf. bread-basket and victualling-office.

bread-room Jack. A purser's servant: nautical: mid-C. 19–20; ob.

bread. Portions or helpings of bread: coll.: ca. 1860–1910.—2. (Breads.) Shares in the Aerated Bread Company: Stock Exchange (— 1895). A. J. Wilson, Stock Exchange Glossary.

break. Money collected by friends for a prisoner's defence or for his assistance when he leaves prison: c.: from ca. 1870; ob. J. W. Horsley.—2. (Gen. bad break.) A mistake, blunder, faux pas. C. 20, coll. Ex U.S. By itself, break, esp. in U.S. (— 1827), usually means a piece of good luck: cf., however, Thornton.—3. A continuous or an unbroken run or journey: railwaymen's coll.: 1898. O.E.D. (Sup.). Prob. ex a break at billiards.

break, v. To 'cut' (a person): middle-class (— 1909); † by 1920. Ware. Abbr. break away from.—2. To leave the employment of (a person); to discharge (an employee): tailors': C. 20. E.g. The Tailor and Cutter, Nov. 29, 1928, both senses.

break, do a. To depart hastily: Australian (— 1916). C. J. Dennis. Cf. S.E. break-away.

break a lance with. To enjoy a woman: C. 19–20. Coll. Eligible only when jocular, otherwise a mere S.E. euphemism. Ex S.E. sense: to enter the lists against.

break a straw with. To quarrel with: jocular coll.: C. 17–18. Florio's Montaigne. (O.E.D.)

break-bulk. A captain that appropriates a portion of his cargo: C. 17–20, ob.; coll. till ca. 1700, then S.E. Ex S.E. to break bulk, to begin to unload.

break-down. A measure of liquor: Australian, ca. 1850–1910.—2. A noisy dance: coll., orig. U.S., anglicised in Edmund Yates, 1864; from ca. 1880, also coll., a convivial gathering: in C. 20, both senses are S.E. and, by 1930, ob. Also, from ca. 1870, as v., to dance riotously, be boisterously convivial, and adj., riotously dancing, noisily convivial.

break down, v. To make lighter: C. 20. New Zealand c.—2. See n., 2.

break (e.g. it) down to. To tell (a person) something: tailors': C. 20. E.g. The Tailor and Cutter, Nov. 29, 1928.

break-neck. A ball that, with a very big break, takes a wicket: cricketers': ca. 1850–80. Lewis.

break one's back. To become bankrupt: coll., C. 17–18, as in Shakespeare's Henry VIII. To cause to go bankrupt: C. 17–20, coll., as in Rowley, 1632; and in H., 3rd ed.; and in Baring-Gould's The Gamecocks, 1887. (Apperson.)

break one's duck. See duck, the cricketing n.

break one's leg. See broken-legged.—break one's shins against. See Covent Garden rails.

break out again. To do again something that is unpleasant or ridiculous: C. 20, coll. Perhaps a development ex:

break out in a fresh place. To commence a new undertaking; assume (lit. or fig.) a different position: ? orig. U.S. and anglicised ca. 1905.

break-pulpit. A noisy, vigorous preacher: late C. 16–17; coll.

break shins. To borrow money: C. 17–20; ob. In C. 17–18, c. (as in B.E.). Cf. bite the ear.

break square(s). To depart from or to interrupt the usual order; do harm. It breaks no square, it does not matter, was proverbial. From ca. 1560; coll. till ca. 1620, then S.E. The proverb is ob., the phrase †. Apperson.

break-teeth words. Words hard to pronounce: late C. 18–early 19: coll. Grose, 2nd ed. Cf. jaw-breaker, q.v.

break the balls. To begin: sporting, from ca. 1870; ob. In billiards j., the phrase = to commence playing.

break the ice. To begin; get to know a person. From ca. 1590. Coll.; by 1800, S.E. Nashe, Shirley, Dickens. (Apperson.)

break the back of. See break the neck of.

break the neck, occ. the back, of. To have almost completed; to accomplish the major, or the most difficult, part of any undertaking. From ca. 1860; in C. 19, coll.; in C. 20, S.E.

break up, break-up. (As v., idiomatic S.E.) The end of a school-term, or of any performance. From ca. 1840: coll. soon > S.E.

breakfast, think about. To be absorbed in thought: coll.: late C. 19–20; ob. E. C. Bentley, Trent's Last Case, 1913, 'He was thinking about breakfast. In his case the colloquialism must be taken literally: he really was thinking about breakfast.'

breakfuss. Breakfast: London low coll.: mid-C. 19–20. See quotation at against.

breaking one's neck for a (drink, etc.), be. To long for a (drink, etc.): coll.: late C. 19–20. Perhaps ex to (be willing to) break one's neck for the sake of . . .

breaking-up of the spell. 'The nightly termination of performance at the Theatres Royal, which is regularly attended by pickpockets of the lower order', Vaux: c. of ca. 1810–80. Here, spell = spell-ken, a theatre.

breaky-leg. A shilling: ca. 1835–70. Brandon, 1839.—2. Strong drink: from ca. 1860; ob. H., 2nd ed. Ex its effects.

breamy !, that's. That's bad !: a military c.p. of C. 20. F. & Gibbons. ? = 'That's fishy.'

breast fleet, belong to the. To be a Roman Catholic: late C. 18–early 19. Grose, 1st ed. Ex the crossing or beating of hands on the breast.

breast of, make a clean. To confess in full. From ca. 1750: coll. till ca. 1800, then S.E.

breast up to. To accost: (low) Australian (— 1916). C. J. Dennis.

breast work. The caressing of a woman's breasts: C. 20, somewhat pedantic and seldom heard. Punning breastwork, a defensive fieldwork breast-high.

breath strong enough to carry (the) coal, with a. Drunk: U.S., anglicised ca. 1905; virtually †. Ware.

breathe again. To be and feel relieved in mind: C. 19–20, anticipated by Shakespeare; coll. > S.E. 'Phew! we breathe again.'

breather. A breathing-space; a short rest: C. 20: coll., now verging on S.E.—2. A tropical squall: nautical: late C. 19–20. Bowen.

breech, gen. in passive. To flog, be flogged on the breech: in C. 16–18, coll. if not S.E.; in C. 19–20, schoolboys' s., ob. Tusser, 'Maiden, up I beseech yee | Least Mistres doe breech yee'; Massinger, 'How he looks! like a school-boy that . . . went to be breech'd.'—2. In C. 20 c., to steal from the back trouser-pocket.

breech makes buttons, one's. See buttons, one's . . .

breeched. Rich; in good case: e.: from ca. 1810; ob. Vaux. Cf. bags (off), have the, q.v., and Fr. déculotté, bankrupt.

breeches. Trousers: coll. and jocular (also in dial.): from ca. 1850. In S.E., brecches come no farther than just below the knee.

breeches, wear the. (Of women) to usurp a husband's authority, be 'boss'. From ca. 1550, though the idea is clearly indicated in C. 15. Coll. until ca. 1700, when it > S.E. Nashe, 1591, 'Diverse great stormes are this yere to be feared, especially in houses where the wives weare the breeches.'

Breeches Martyrs. W. O'Brien and several other Irish M.P.s, imprisoned in 1889. Dawson adduces that they 'refused to put on the prison dress'.

breeches-part. A role in which an actress wears male attire: theatrical (— 1865); ob.

breeching. A flogging: in C. 16–18, S.E.; in C. 19–20 (ob.), schoolboys' s.

breed-bate. A causer or fomentor of bate, i.e. strife: late C. 16–20; ob. Coll. >, by 1620, S.E. Shakespeare, 'No tel-tale, nor no breede-bate', 1598.

breeding. Parentage: low coll.: ca. 1597–1620. Shakespeare. Ex primary S.E. sense. O.E.D.

breeding-cage. A bed: low: ca. 1860–1920. W. E. Henley, in an unpublished ballad written in 1875, 'In the breeding cage I cops her, | With her stays off, all a-blowin'! | Three parts sprung . . .'

breef. See brief, sense 3.—briefs. See briefs.

breeks. Orig. dial. (esp. Scottish) form of breeches. Since ca. 1860, coll. for trousers, very rarely for breeches. Baumann.

breeze. A disturbance, row, quarrel, tiff: coll., from ca. 1780. Grose, 1st ed.; T. Moore.—2. A rumour; a gossip whisper: coll.: 1879, Stevenson (O.E.D.); ob.—3. See breeze up.

breeze. To boast: military: mid-C. 19–early 20. F. & Gibbons. Cf. blow in same sense.

breeze (along). To move or go quickly: from ca. 1920. Cf.:

breeze in. To arrive unexpectedly: from ca. 1920. On blow in.

breeze in one's breech, have a. To be perturbed: coll.: C. 17. Beaumont & Fletcher; Ray. A breeze is a gadfly. Apperson. Whence breeze, n., 1, q.v.

breeze up or vertical, have the. To 'have the wind up', which it deliberately varies: 1916: orig. and mainly military. Whence:

breezer. A rest: military: C. 20. F. & Gibbons. Cf. breather, 1, q.v.

breezy. Afraid: c.: from ca. 1918. Charles E. Leach. Ex G.W. soldiers' s.—2. Short-tempered: s. (— 1931) verging on coll. Lyell. Apt to 'blow up'.

breffus, brekfus(s). Breakfast: sol., esp. Cockney (— 1887). Baumann. Cf.:

brekker. Breakfast. From late 1880's. By elision of fast and collision of break and the Oxford -er, though—admittedly—it looks rather like a child's slurring of breakfast: cf. preceding entry.

brevet-wife. 'A woman who, without being married to a man, lives with him, takes his name, and enjoys all the privileges of a wife', F. & H. Coll.: ca. 1870–1914.

brew, n. See buroo.—2. 'Drink made on the spot': Bootham School: late C. 19–20. Anon., Dict. of Bootham Slang, 1925. Ex:—3. A study-tea: certain Public Schools': mid-C. 19–20. Cf.:

brew, v.i. To make afternoon tea: Marlborough and hence other Public Schools: mid-C. 19–20, ob. Hence brewing, the making thereof.—2. V.i., to have afternoon tea: at certain other Public Schools: late C. 19–20.

brewer, fetch the. To become intoxicated: from ca. 1840; ob. Cf.:

brewer's fizzle. Beer; ale: 1714, Ned Ward, The Republican Procession; † by 1800, and never common. (W. Matthews.)

brewer's horse. A drunkard. Late C. 16–20; ob. Shakespeare, 1597, Falstaff speaking, 'I am a peppercorn, a brewer's horse'; Halliwell, 1847. In late C. 19–20, mainly dial. Often in semi-proverbial form, one whom (a) brewer's horse hath (or has) bit. Cf.:

brewery, cop the. To get drunk: low: from ca. 1860; ob. Ware.

brewising. See bruising the bed.

Brian o' Lynn, occ. o' Linn. Gin: rhyming s. (— 1857, ob.). 'Ducange Anglicus.'

briar, properly brier. A brier-wood pipe: coll., from ca. 1870; now virtually S.E. Ware.

briar-root. 'A corrugated, badly-shaped nose': proletarian (— 1909); ob. Ware. Ex a briar-root pipe.

brick. A loyal, dependable person (orig. only of men); 'a good fellow': 1840: s. >, ca. 1890, coll. Barham, 'a regular brick'; Thackeray, 1855, 'a dear little brick'; George Eliot, 1876, 'a fellow like nobody else, and, in fine, a brick'. Prob. ex the solidity of a brick; a fanciful etymology is Aristotle's τετραγώνος ἄνθρωπος, a man worthy of commemoration on a monumental stone.—2. A misfortune, piece of hard luck: Public Schools': 1909, P. G. Wodehouse, Mike. Cf. v., 1.—3. A piece of bread; bread: Charterhouse: late C. 19–20.—4. A mella; a 'terrific' scrum: ibid.: C. 20.

brick, v. Gen. that's bricked it, that's spoilt it, that's the end of it: 1923, Manchon; slightly ob. Ex next entry.—2. V.t., to push, 'barge into' (a person): Charterhouse: C. 20. Cf. n., 4.

brick, drop a. Make a faux pas, esp. of tact or speech: (— 1923), now verging on coll. Manchon. Perhaps ex dropping a brick on someone's toes.

brick, like a; like bricks; like a thousand (of) bricks. The second seems to be the oldest form (Dickens, 1836; Barham); the third to have been orig. (1842) U.S. Vigorously, energetically, thoroughly, very quickly, with a good will. Coll. >, by 1890, S.E.—2. But swim like a brick is the coll. opp. (— 1927) of S.E. swim like a fish. Collinson.

brick walls, make. To eat one's food without masticating it: lower classes': late C. 19–20.

brickduster. A dust-storm: Sydney (— 1880); coll. See brickfielder.

Brickdusts, the. (Military) the Fifty-Third Regiment of Foot, which, from ca. 1881, has been the King's Shropshire Light Infantry. Ex its brick-red facings. Also called The Old Five-and-Three-pennies (ex its number and the daily pay of an ensign).

bricked. Smartly or fashionably dressed: late C. 16–mid-17: ? orig. c. Greene.

brickfielder. (Less often brickduster; cf. (southerly buster.) A Sydney coll. for a cold dust- or sand-storm brought by southerly winds from nearby brickfields and sand-hills. Ca. 1830–90. But from ca. 1860, and predominantly from ca. 1890, the word has meant a severe hot wind, with dust or without. The change in meaning was caused largely by the disappearance, ca. 1870, of the brickfields themselves. Morris's Austral English gives an excellent account of the word.

brickish. Excellent; 'fine', 'jolly': 1856, A. Smith (O.E.D.). Ex brick, n., 1: q.v.

bricklayer. A clergyman. From ca. 1850; ob. Perhaps ex the part played by ecclesiastics in architecture. For interesting suppositions, see F. & H. bricklayer's clerk. A lubberly sailor: nautical: ca. 1820–1925. Cf. strawyarder.

bricks. A sort of pudding: Wellington College, from ca. 1870; ob.—2. See brick, like a. bricks and mortar. A heavy style of acting: theatrical (— 1935).

bricky. A bricklayer or his assistant; coll. (1883). O.E.D.—2. Hence, a low fellow: schoolboys': from ca. 1895. Collinson.

bricky, adj. Fearless; adroit; like a 'brick' (q.v.): 1864; perhaps orig. schoolboys'; slightly ob. (O.E.D. Sup.) Cf. brickish.

bride and groom. A broom: rhyming s.: late C. 19–20. B. & P.

bridge. (Cards) a cheating trick by which a particular card is located, and made operative in the cut, by previously imparting to it a slight curve; that curve produces an almost imperceptible gap in the resultant pack. From ca. 1850; after ca. 1870, j. Mayhew, Lever, Yates. Vbl.n., bridging.—2. Hence (?) an absentee from a meeting: printers': from ca. 1880; very ob. Ware.—3. In New Zealand post-G.W. c., a look, a glance.

bridge, v. To betray the confidence of. Variant: throw over the bridge: c. or low s. (— 1812); † by 1900. Vaux.

bridge, a gold or a silver. An easy and attractive means of escape: late C. 16–20; ob. Coll. > S.E. in C. 17.

bridge, beside the. Astray; off the track: C. 17-18; coll. Culpepper, 1652. (O.E.D.) bridge of anyone's nose, make a. To push the bottle past him, so that he misses a drink. Coll.: mid-C. 18-early 19; then dial. Grose, 2nd ed.

bridge-ornament. (Gen. pl.) An executive officer: nautical engineers': late C. 19-20. Bowen. Opp. educated trimmer, q.v.

bridge-telegraph. A boy standing at the engine-room sky-light and repeating the captain's orders: London river-steamers': ca. 1850-1910. Bowen.

bridges and no grasses. (A meeting, a pact, that is) secret: printers': from ca. 1880; ob. Ware.

bridges, bridges! 'A cry to arrest a long-winded story': printers': from ca. 1880; ob. Ware, 'Prob. corruption of [Fr.] "abrégeons—abrégeons" . . . Anglicised'.

bridgeting. The plausible acquisition of money from Irish servant girls, for political—or allegedly political—purposes: 1866; ob. Ware. Bridget (Biddy), a Christian name very gen. in Ireland.

bridle-cull. A highwayman: low or c.: ca. 1740-1800. Fielding. See cull.

Bridport or Brydport dagger, stabbed with a. Hanged. The Bridport dagger is a hangman's rope, much hemp being grown round Bridport. Mid-C. 17-early 19; coll. Fuller; Grose's Provincial Glossary; Southey.

brief. A ticket of any kind; a pocket-book: from ca. 1850. In C. 19, c.; in C. 20, low s. (In the late C. 19-20 Army, it signifies a discharge certificate; and in C. 20 c., a convict-licence.) Ex its shortness. Hence briefless, ticketless.—2. In late C. 19-20 c., a false reference or recommendation.—3. Often spelt breief and always preceded by the: a cheating-device at cards: late C. 17-18.—4. (Cf. sense 2.) A letter: proletarian: mid-C. 19-20. Ware.—5. A furlough-pass: military: C. 20. B. & P.—6. A bank- or currency-note: bank-clerks', mostly Anglo-Irish: C. 20.—7. Hence (?), a cheque: c. (—1933). George Ingram.—8. A fig. bias: c. (—1933). Ibid.

brief, get one's. To obtain one's ticket-of-leave: c.: late C. 19-20.

brief for, hold no. Not to support, defend, actively sympathise with (a person): coll.: from ca. 1910. (O.E.D. Sup.)

brief-jigger. A ticket-office, esp. at a railway-station: c. (—1850).

brief-snatcher. A pocket-book thief: c.: mid-C. 19-20. See brief, 1.—2. Also, vbl.n., brief-snatching.

briefless. Ticketless: from ca. 1870. Low in C. 20; earlier, c.

Briefless, Mr. An advocate without brief: coll., mostly London (—1887); ob. Baumann.

briefs. 'Jockeyed' playing-cards: C. 18-20; low, if not indeed c. Occ. breefs. Cf. brief, 3.—2. Very short women's-knickers: feminine coll.: from 1932 or 1933. In Books of To-Day, Nov., 1934, C. G. T. writes feelingly, in the poem entitled Too Much of Too Little: "I'm bored to tears with 'scanties', | I'm sick to death of 'briefs', | Of specialists in 'panties', | And combination chiefs.'" Cf. neathie-set, q.v.

brier. See briar.

briers, in the. In trouble: C. 16-18; coll. Briers, vexation(s), is S.E., C. 16-20, ob.

brieze. A sol. spelling of breeze: from before 1887. Baumann.

brig, the. Punishment-cells: naval, mostly American: mid-C. 19-20. Bowen. Often in the Dutch brig.—2. The Brig. The pilot-steamer at the mouth of the Hughly: nautical coll.: late C. 19-20. Ibid.—3. As in brig's po-juggler. In military s., the Brig, one's or the Brigadier-General, dates from late C. 19.

brigdie. A basking shark: C. 19 nautical coll. ex Scots dial. (—1810). Bowen; E.D.D.

brigh. A pocket, esp. a trousers-pocket: c. (—1879); ob. ? ex breeks.

Brigham. Inevitable nickname for anyone surnamed Young: late C. 19-20. Bowen. Ex the Mormonite.

bright. A dandy, fop, finical fellow: Society: ca. 1760-80. O.E.D. Cf. smart.

bright in the eye. Slightly drunk: from ca. 1870: s. till C. 20, then coll.; ob. (Lyell).

bright specimen, a. A silly, foolish, rash, stupid, bungling person. (Always complementary to the verb to be.) Coll. (—1888).

bright-work juice. Liquid metal-polish: Conway cadets': from ca. 1895. John Masefield, The Conway, 1933.

Brighton A's. Deferred ordinary shares in the London, Brighton & South Coast Railway: Stock Exchange coll. (—1895) >, by 1910, j. (A. J. Wilson, Stock Exchange Glossary.)

Brighton bitter. A mixture of mild and bitter beer sold as bitter: public-houses' (—1909); ob. Ware. Cf.:

Brighton tipper. 'The celebrated staggering ale', Dickens, 1843. Coll., ca. 1830-70.

Brightons. Shares in the London, Brighton & South Coast Railway: Stock Exchange coll. (—1895) >, by 1910, j. A. J. Wilson's glossary.

brig's po-juggler. A brigade (lit., the Brigadier's) orderly officer: Australian military: 1915-18.

brim. A harlot: late C. 17-mid-19. B.E.; Bailey. Cf. sense 3.—2. A termagant; an angry, violent woman: from ca. 1780.—3. In late C. 19-20 c., a fearless harlot. Abbr. brimstone.

brim, v. (Of a man) to have intercourse; v.t., with. C. 17-18, sporting. B.E. Ex the copulation of boar with sow.

brimmer. A hat with a brim, esp. if big: mid-C. 17-early 18; coll. at first, then S.E.—2. A variant of brim, 1, q.v.: c. of ca. 1820-50. Bee.

brimstone. A virago, a spitfire: from ca. 1700; coll. verging on S.E.; ob. by 1890. "Oh, madam," said the bishop, "do you not know what a brimstone of a wife he had?" Bishop Burnet, 1712.—2. Also, a harlot: from ca. 1690. B.E. Both ex brimstone, sulphur, which is notably inflammable.

Brimstone; Brimstone Spurgeon. Charles Haddon Spurgeon, the great preacher (1834-92); ob. Baumann. Because he spoke so eloquently of the fires of Hell.

brimstone and treacle. Flowers of sulphur and dark treacle: domestic coll.: from ca. 1880. Collinson.

briney or briny, the. The sea: coll. (1856). Whyte-Melville in Kate Coventry. Cf. Dick Swiveller's use of the mazy and the rosy: W.—2. Hence, do the briny, to weep: low: mid-C. 19-20; ob. 'Cuthbert Bede'; Baumann. See main, turn on the.

bring. To steal: ca. 1820-60. Bee, who cites a v.i. sense: 'Dogs are said "to bring well", when they run off with goods for their masters.'

bring down the house, bring the house down. To be heartily applauded (— 1754). Coll. until ca. 1895, then S.E. 'His apprehension that your statues will bring the house down', The World, 1754; 'Why, it would . . . bring down the house,' 'Cuthbert Bede', 1853.

bring-'em near. A telescope: nautical: late C. 19–20. Bowen.

bring home the bacon. To succeed in a given undertaking: 1924, P. G. Wodehouse (O.E.D. Sup.).

bring in. (Of a jury) to find, e.g. guilty. Coll. (— 1888). 'The jury brought her in not guilty.'

bring up, v.i. and t. To vomit: coll.; from ca. 1830.

briny, the. See briney.

bris-à-bris, brise-à-bise. Incorrect for brise-bise, a net or lace curtain for the lower part of a window: from 1920. O.E.D. (Sup.).

brisby. A coll. form (1923) of brise-bise: see bris-à-bris. Ibid.

brisk as a bee or as a bee in a tar-pot. (C. 18–20, latterly dial.), as in Fielding, and brisk as bottled ale (C. 18), as in Gay. Very lively: coll. Apperson. Cf. body-louse, q.v.

brisk up (occ. about) To enliven or animate: coll.: 1864. Dickens. O.E.D.

brisket. The chest: low Australian (— 1916). C. J. Dennis. Significantly cf.:

brisket-beater. A Roman Catholic: late C. 18–19. Grose, 1st ed.; H., 2nd–5th edd. Cf. breast fleet, craw-thumper, and brisket, q.v.

brisket-cut. A punch on the breast or collar-bone: pugilistic: ca. 1820–50. Bee.

bristler; gen. pl. A (better-class) motor-car commandeered, in that Spanish civil war which commenced in July, 1936, by the combatants, who therein rush about the streets and shoot indiscriminately all such persons as come within range: among the English colony in Spain: 1936, The Times, Aug. 6.

bristles, bristle dice. C. 19, C. 16–19 resp.; perhaps c. Dice falsified by the insertion of bristles. Bristles occurs in Scott's novel of the underworld, The Fortunes of Nigel.

Bristol. A visiting-card: Society: ca. 1830–1914. Ware, 'From the date when these articles were printed upon Bristol—i.e. cardboard'.

Bristol man. 'The son of an Irish thief and a Welch where', Lex. Bal.: low: ca. 1810–50. Because both of those worthies would geographically tend to drift to Bristol.

Bristol milk. Sherry; esp. rich sherry: from ca. 1660; coll. till ca. 1800, then S.E. Prynne, Fuller, Grose, Macaulay. Ex the large quantities of sherry imported, in C. 17–18, into England by way of Bristol.

Bristol stone. Sham diamond(s): C. 17–18. In S.E., to this day, the term Bristol diamond or gem or stone denotes a transparent rock-crystal found in the limestone at Clifton, that beautiful outer suburb of Bristol.

Brit. See Britt, 2.

britches. Breeches: sol. (mostly U.S.): mid-C. 19–20. Ex careless pronunciation.

British. Shares in the North British Railway: Stock Exchange coll. (— 1895) soon > j.; now only historical. A. J. Wilson's glossary.

British champa(i)gne. Porter: ca. 1810–40. Lex. Bal. Cf. English burgundy.

British constitution, unable to say. Drunk: coll.: late C. 19–20; ob.

British Museum religion. Anglican ceremonialists advocating the precise following of medieval uses: ecclesiastical pejorative coll.: ca. 1899–1902.

British official, n. and adj. Unreliable (news): military coll.: Oct. 1915–June 1918. Before and after these dates, official communications were trustworthy and regarded as such. See esp. B. & P.; cf. bulletin, q.v.

British roarer. The heraldic lion: non-aristocratic: from ca. 1880; ob. Ware.

British treasury note. A blanket: New Zealand soldiers': in G.W. Ex thinness of many Army blankets.

Briton, a. A good fellow; a staunch friend; a loyal, helpful person. Coll.: from ca. 1890.

Brits's violets. See violets, Brits's.

Brit(t), the. The Britannia Theatre: Cockney: ca. 1860–1910.—2. (As Brit.) A Briton: coll.: C. 20.

Britannia is a frequent error for Britannia: C. 18–20.

bro. Brother: Charterhouse: C. 20. Cf. the Yorkshire and Lancashire broo.

broach claret. To draw blood: boxing: from ca. 1820; ob.

broad. A 20-shilling piece: low: C. 19. Manchon. Whence, prob., broads, 2, q.v.—2. See 'Moving-Picture English', § 3.

broad, adj. Alert; 'knowing': late C. 19–20; ob. Suggested by wide, q.v.

Broad, the. Broad Street, Oxford: Oxford undergraduates': from the 1890's. Collinson.

broad and shallow, adj. Middle-way: applied to the 'Broad' Church, as opp. to the 'High' and 'Low' Churches: coll.: ca. 1854; ob. Cf. high and dry and low and slow.

broad-arse(d). (A person) 'broad in the beam': low coll.: late C. 19–20.

broad as it's long (or long as it's broad), it's as. It makes no difference; it comes to the same thing either way. From the 1670's; in C. 19–20, S.E. Ray, 1678; 'Hudibras' Butler. (Apperson.)

Broad-bottoms. The coalition ministry of 1741 was called the Broad Bottom: '... the reigning cant [i.e. vogue] word, ... the taking all parties and people, indifferently, into the ministry', Walpole. A similar ministry in 1807 was described as the Broad Bottoms. Both were coll.; in histories, however, they are S.E.: cf. Rump, the.

broad-brim. A Quaker: 1712, ob.; coll. The Spectator, Fielding. Ex the Quakers' broad-brimmed hats.—2. Ca. 1840–90, any quiet, sedate old man. H.—3. Hence broad-brimmed, Quakerish; sedate: from ca. 1700; coll.; ob.

broad-brimmer. A broad-brimmed hat: coll.: ca. 1855–1900.

broad-cooper. A brewers' negotiator with publicans; he is an aristocrat among 'commercials'. Brewers, ca. 1850–1914. H., 3rd ed.

broad cove. A card-sharper (— 1821; † by 1920): c. See broads.

broad-faker. A card-player; esp., a card-sharper: C. 19–20 e.

broad-faking. Card-playing, esp. if shady; also three-card trickery: c.; from ca. 1855. H., 2nd ed., erroneously gives it as brad.

broad-fencer. A 'correct card' seller at horse-races: c.; from ca. 1850. H., 1st ed.

broad-gauge lady. A large-hipped woman: railway officials' (ca. 1880) >, by 1884, gen.; † by 1900. Ware.

broad in the beam. See beam, broad in the.

*broad-man. A card-sharper: C. 20 c. Edgar Wallace, Again the Ringer, 1929. Ex broadsmán.

*broad mob, the. 'Broadsmen': c.: late C. 19-20. David Hume.

*broad-player. An expert card-player, not necessarily a sharper; c. (- 1812); ob. Vaux.

*broad-pitcher. A man with a three-card-trick 'outfit': c.: from the 1860's. B. Hemyng, Out of the Ring, 1870.

Broad-Stripers. Royal Marine Artillery: naval: C. 19. Bowen. Opp. Narrow-Stripers.

broadcast is incorrect as the past tense of (to) broadcast on the wireless; the past ppl. is either broadcast or broadcasted.

*broads. Playing cards: c. from ca. 1780; ob. George Parker, Vaux, Ainsworth, Charles E. Leach. Whence broadsmán.—2. Money in coin: c. or low (- 1923). Manchon.

*broads, fake the; work the broads. To issue counterfeit coin; to play dishonestly at cards: both low verging on c. (- 1923). Manchon.

*broads, fake the. See also fake the broads.

*broadsmán. A card-sharper: from ca. 1850: c. H., 2nd ed., Charles E. Leach. Ex broads, q.v. Cf. broad-man.

broady. Cloth: coll., somewhat low: from ca. 1850. Mayhew. Ex broadcloth.—2. Hence, in c., anything worth stealing: from before 1890.

*broady-worker. A seller of vile shoddy as excellent and, esp., stolen material: ca. 1845-1914; c.

Brobdignag(ian). Sol. for Brobdignag(ian), as in Swift, 17:6: from ca. 1730. Disraeli.

brock. Catagorically for a beaver: late C. 14-early 17. O.E.D.—2. A dirty fellow, a 'skunk': late C. 16-19; coll. verging on S.E. Ex brock, a badger.

brock, v. To bully; tease: Winchester College: mid-C. 19-20, ob. Ex —2. To taunt; to chaff: ibid.: ca. 1800-1850. Wrench. Perhaps ex Ger. brocken.

Brock's benefit. Very lights, star-shells, etc., over the front line: military: 1915-18. F. & Gibbons, 'From the annual firework display at the Crystal Palace'.

brockster. (Winchester College): a bully: a persistent teaser: mid-C. 19-20.

brodrick. The peaked cap worn by the British soldier: from ca. 1902: military s. >, by 1925, coll. >, by 1930, j. Ex St. John Brodrick, Secretary for War (1900-3). W.—2. Brodrick or little Brodrick, a soldier of inferior physique: military coll.: 1903-ca. 1914. Ex his lowering of the standard. (O.E.D. Sup.)

broganeer, broganier. 'One who has a strong Irish pronunciation or accent', Grose, 1st ed.: coll.: latish C. 18-early 19. Ex brogue.

brogues. Breeches: Christ's Hospital, C. 19-20; ob. Coll. rather than s., for in mid-C. 19 S.E. it meant either hose or trousers.

broiler. A very hot day: from ca. 1815: in C. 20, S.E. Cf. roaster, scorcher.

broke. Bankrupt; very short of money. Often —e.g. in N. Kingsley, 1851—dead or —e.g. in G. R. Sims, 1887—stone broke. Coll.; from ca. 1820. (In S.E., C. 15-18.) A form of broken now † in S.E. but gen. enough as a sol. Cf.:

broke to the world. Penniless: from ca. 1915. An elaboration of the preceding.

broken feather in one's wing, have a. To have a stain on one's character: C. 19-20, ob.; coll. verging on S.E. Mrs. Oliphant in Phoebe, 1880.

broken her leg at the church-door, she hath. From a hard-working girl she has, on being married, become a slattern: coll. and (mainly Cheshire) dial. Apperson. Contrast the phrases at broken-legged.

broken-kneed. Of a girl or woman seduced: C. 18-20; ob.; coll. Ex farriery. Cf. ankle (sprain one's) and:

broken-legged, ppl. adj. Seduced: C. 17-20; ob. Coll. More gen. is the semi-proverbial coll. form, she hath broken her leg (occ. elbow) above the knee. Beaumont & Fletcher, Cibber, Grose. Cf. the C. 19-20 Craven dial. he hath broken his leg, of 'a dissolute person on whom a child has been filiated', and contrast broken her leg (as above).

broker. A pedlar or monger: pejorative: late C. 14-18; S.E. till C. 17, when it > coll.—2. In late C. 16-early 17 c., a receiver of stolen goods. Greene in 2nd Cony-Catching.—3. broker; gen. dead-broker; occ. stony-broker.. A person either ruined or penniless: coll.: from ca. 1890.

brokered, be. To suffer a visitation by the brokers: lower classes': from 1897; ob. Ware.

broolly. An umbrella: from ca. 1873; in C. 20, coll. H., 5th ed., 1874; Punch, June 6, 1885. F. & H.: 'First used at Winchester, being subsequently adopted at both Oxford and Cambridge Universities'.

broolly-hop. A parachute jump: Royal Air Force's (- 1932). Slang, p. 259. Also as v., with frequent vbl.n., broolly-hopping, 1934, The Daily Express, June 27.

bromide. A commonplace person or saying; a cliché: U.S. (1906), anglicised by 1909; by 1930, coll. E.g. C. E. Bechofer Roberts, in The Passing Show, June 16, 1934, 'Bassett occasionally put in a booming bromide.' Ex bromide, 'a dose of bromide of potassium taken as a sedative' (O.E.D. Sup.).

bromidic. Of the nature of a 'bromido' (q.v.): U.S. (1906) anglicised ca. 1910; now coll. (Ibid.)

Brompton Boilers. See Boilers.

Brone(h)o. The inevitable nickname of men sur-named Rider (Ryder): military: C. 20. Cf. Buck q.v., and:

bronco-buster. A breaker-in of broncos, coll., U.S. (1880's) anglicised by 1897. O.E.D. (Sup.).

bronze. A cheat, deception, humbug: ca. 1815-60. Blackwood's, No. 1, 1817. Cf. brass, impudence.—2. Also as v.t.: same period. Likewise O.E.D.

broody. Very thoughtful and taciturn; sullenly silent, with the implication of hatching a plan; in the Army, lethargic, slack, sleepy: coll.: C. 20. F. & Gibbons. Ex fowls inclined to sit, a C. 16-20 S.E. sense. (Earlier in dial.)

brooks. (A pair of) trousers: South African coll. (- 1913). Ex Dutch. (Pettman.)

Brooks of Sheffield. This conveys a warning to be careful as to names: middle classes' c.p.: ca. 1850-1910. Ware. Ex David Copperfield, where David is thus referred to by Mr. Murdstone.

broom. A warrant: C. 18-19, coll.; mainly dial. Also, the puenda muliebris: C. 19-20, low; whence broomstick, the male member. Cf. C. 19-20 Scottish besom, a low woman.

broom, v. (gen. broom it). To depart; run away: low: late C. 18-19. Moncrieff, 1821. Suggested by sweep away.

broom-squires. Mainly Gypsy squatters that, esp. in the New Forest, earn a living by making brooms out of heath: C. 19-20; after ca. 1900, S.E.

broom up (at the mast-head), she carries the. She's a whore: a seaport c.p. of ca. 1820-90. Bce. Ex that broom which, attached to the mast-head, signified that a ship was sold.

broombee. See brumbie.

broomstick. A rough cricket bat, of one piece of wood. Coll.; from ca. 1870; ob.—2. A worthless bail: C. 19 low. Vaux.—3. See broom, n.—4. A rifle or shot-gun: Canadian (—1909); ob. Ware.

broomstick, enough to charm the heart of a. Very charming: ironic coll. (—1887); ob. Baumann.

broomstick, jump (over) the; hop the broomstick; marry over the broomstick. The first, C. 18-20; the second and third, C. 19-20: all coll. and ob. Though unmarried, to live as man and wife: in reference to the pretence-marriage ceremony performed by both parties jumping over a stick. The ceremony itself = a broomstick wedding. Cf. besom, jump the, and Westminster wedding.

broseley. A pipe, esp. in cock a broseley, smoke a pipe. Ca. 1850-80. Broseley, in Shropshire, is—or was—famous for its 'churchwardens'.

brosier, brozier. A boy with no more pocket-money: Eton College: from ca. 1830; ob. Ex Cheshire brozier, a bankrupt. Cf. gen. coll. brozied, ruined, penniless, bankrupt: late C. 18-early 19.

brosier, brozier, v. To clear the table or the larder of: Eton: mid-C. 19-20, ob. Rev. W. Rogers, Reminiscences, 1888. Ex brosier, n.; cf.:

brosier- or brozier-my-dame, v. and n. (To make) a clearance of the housekeeper's larder: Eton College: from ca. 1835.

broth. Breath: low: late C. 19-20.

broth, in lunatic's. Drunk: 1902, The Daily Telegraph, June 20; ob. Cf.:

broth, take one's. To drink (liquor): mid-C. 18-mid-19 nautical. Grose, 3rd ed. (s.v. capsize). Cf. preceding entry.

broth of a boy, a. A real, an essential boy: coll.; Byron in Don Juan, 1822. Orig. and mainly Anglo-Irish. Ex the effervescence of broth; or perhaps rather 'the essence of manhood, as broth is the essence of meat', P. W. Joyce.

brother blade. A fellow-soldier; one of the same trade or profession (cf. brother chip): coll.: C. 19-20, ob.—2. In mid-C. 17-18, brother of the blade, a swordsman, hence a soldier. Coll. B.E., Grose, Ainsworth.

brother bung. A fellow-publican: London taverns: from ca. 1880. Ware.

brother chip. A fellow-carpenter: C. 18. In C. 19-20, one of the same calling or trade: as in Clare's Poems of Rural Life, 1820. Mainly provincial. Coll.

brother of the angle. A fellow-angler; an angler: from ca. 1650; ob. Coll. > S.E. Walton.

brother of the blade. See brother blade, 2.

brother of the brush. An artist: coll.: late C. 17-20.—2. A house-painter: C. 19-20.

brother of the bung. A brewer; a fellow-brewer. Coll.: late C. 18-20, ob. Grose, 1st ed. Cf. bung, n., and brother bung.

brother of the buskin. A (fellow-)player, actor: late C. 18-20 coll., ob. Grose, 1st ed.

brother of the coif. A serjeant-at-law: C. 18-19 coll. Addison, Grose. Ex coif, a close-fitting white cap formerly worn by lawyers, esp. serjeants-at-law.

brother of the gusset. A pimp, a procurer, a whoremaster: late C. 17-19; coll. B.E., Grose. Cf. placket.

brother of the quill. An author: late C. 17-20 coll. B.E.; Martin's Dict. (2nd ed.), 1754.

brother of the string. A fiddler; a musician: coll., late C. 17-20, ob. B.E. brother of the whip. A coachman: coll., mid-C. 18-20. The World, 1756.

brother smut. Gen. in ditto, brother (rarely sister smut): the same to you!; you too: mid-C. 19-20 coll. H., 5th ed. Cf. pot calling the kettle black.

brother starling. A man sharing another's mistress: late C. 17-early 19. B.E., Grose.

brother-where-art-thcu. A drunk man: late C. 19-20. Manchon, '... Qui cherche toujours son camarade en lui demandant où es-tu?'

Broughtonian. A boxer: coll.: ca. 1750-1800. Grose, 1st ed. Ex Broughton, the champion of England ca. 1730-5.

Broughton's mark. See mark, n., 7.

brown. A halfpenny; a 'copper': from ca. 1810; low until ca. 1830. Vaux, 1812; Barham, 'The magic effect of . . . crowns Upon people whose pockets boast nothing but browns'.—2. Porter, whereas heavy brown = stout: Corcoran's The Fancy, 1820. Both, C. 19.—3. Twopenn'orth of whiskey: Mooney's, The Strand, London (—1909); † by 1920. Ware.

brown, v. To do perfectly; hence, to worst: from ca. 1870, †. Abbr. do brown.—2. Understand: from ca. 1830; ob.—3. To fire indiscriminately at: 1873: coll. >, by 1910, S.E. Ex brown, into the; see sense 2. (O.E.D. Sup.)

brown, adj. Alert (to), familiar (with). From ca. 1820; J. Bee, Picture of London, 1828.

brown, do. To do thoroughly; hence, to worst; to cheat. From ca. 1830; gen. as done brown, completely swindled. Barham, 'We are all of us done so uncommonly brown.' There is an anticipation in 'Ha! browne done!' in the anon. John Bon, ca. 1600. In U.S., do up brown: see Thornton.—2. do it brown, to prolong a frolic or a spree, to exceed sensible bounds: from ca. 1850; ob.

brown, into the. (Shooting) at the brown stripe on the side of an antelope; the brown is also applied to a moving herd of springbucks. South African coll.: 1898, G. Nicholson, Fifty Years in South Africa. (Pettman.) Ex:—2. fire into the brown, i.e. 'into the midst of a covey instead of singling out a bird': coll. (1871) >, by 1910, S.E.—3. Hence, fig.: 1885: coll. >, by 1910, S.E. (Likewise O.E.D. Sup.)

brown, roast. See roast brown.

brown Bess. A harlot: C. 17, coll.—2. The old regulation flint-lock musket: coll., C. 18-19. Recorded first in Grose, 1st ed., but prob. used much earlier; brown musquet occurs in 1708. Ex the brown stock, the frequent browning of the barrel, and the soldier's devotion to the weapon: cf. the G.W. soldier's best friend, a rifle, and the Ger. Braut, the soldier's bride.—3. In rhyming s.: yes (—1859); ob. H., 1st ed.

brown Bess, hug. To serve as a private soldier: ca. 1780-1850; coll. Grose, 1st ed. See brown Bess, 2.

brown cow. A barrel of beer: C. 18-early 19: coll.

brown creatures. Bronchitis: lower classes' (—1923). Manchon.

brown George. A loaf of coarse brown bread prob. munition-bread: late C. 17—early 19: orig. naval and military s., then gen. coll. Randle Holme; Grose.—2. Also, a hard, coarse biscuit: late C. 18—19: coll. Smyth.—3. Hence, ca. 1780—1850, a brown wig: coll. in C. 19.—4. Hence also, an earthenware jug, orig. and gen. brown: from ca. 1860; soon coll. and, in C. 20, S.E. Hughes, Tom Brown at Oxford. (The O.E.D. gives all four senses as always S.E., but the very name almost proves a s. or coll. birth.)

brown hat. A cat: rhyming s.: late C. 19—20. B. & P.

brown Janet. A knapsack: nautical: mid-C. 19—20, ob. In dial. as early as 1788 (E.D.D.).

brown Joe. Rhyming s. for 'no!' (Cf. brown Bess, yes!) From ca. 1855; ob. H., 1st ed.

brown madam. (Variant Miss Brown.) The monosyllable: late C. 18—early 19; low. Grose, 2nd ed.

brown off. To become tired of: Royal Air Force: from ca. 1920; slightly ob. Perhaps = S.E. get rusty.

brown-paper men. Low gamblers: c. of ca. 1850—1900. H., 1st ed. They play for pence or 'browns'.

brown-paper warrant. A warrant for boatswains, carpenters, etc., granted and cancellable by the captain: naval: C. 19. Bowen. Ex colour thereof and in allusion to the uses to which brown paper is put.

brown polish. A mulatto: late C. 19—20; ob. Ware. Cf. Day and Martin, q.v.

brown salve! A term indicative of surprise coupled with understanding: ca. 1850—70. H., 1st ed.

brown talk. Very 'proper' conversation: coll., from ca. 1700; ob. Cf. brown study, C. 16—20, serious thoughts, in C. 20 an idle reverie.—B.E., by the way, considered it as either s. or coll. for 'a deep Thought or Speculation'. Contrast blue, immoral.

brown to, v.t. To understand, to 'twig': low (—1909); ob. Ware, 'Prob. from a keen man of this name'; H., 2nd ed., records it as an Americanism.

Brown Un, The. The Sporting Times: sporting: ca. 1870, when its colour was brown. See Pink Un.

browed-off. Depressed; disgusted; having given up hope: Royal Air Force: from ca. 1920; slightly ob. Ex brown off, q.v.

brownie, brownny. The polar bear: nautical: coll.: mid-C. 19—20.—2. An Australian coll., dating from the 1880's: 'Cake made of flour, fat and sugar, commonly known as "Brownny"', E. D. Cleland, The White Kangaroo, 1890. Morris.—3. A copper coin: ca. 1820—1910. 'John Bee', 1823. Ex brown, n., 1.—4. (Gen. pl.) A cheap cigarette—three for a 'brown' or halfpenny: 'lower London' (Ware): ca. 1896—1915.—5. A trout: anglers' coll.: from ca. 1925. O.E.D. (Sup.).—6. (Gen. pl.) A Land Army girl worker: coll.: 1916—18. F. & Gibbons, 'From their being garbed in brown'.—7. Hence (likewise gen. pl.), a girl-messenger in a Government office: coll.: 1919. Ibid., 'From the brown overalls when on duty.'

browse. To idle; take things easily: Marlborough and Royal Military Academy, C. 19—20; ob. Whence:

browse, adj. Idle; with little work. Marlborough and R.M.A.; C. 19—20; ob.

Broy hounds. Irish Free State special tax-collecting police: I.F.S.: from ca. 1925. On bloodhounds ex the name of their first Chief.

brozier. See brosier.

bruffam. A brougham: society: ca. 1860—1910. Ware. A pronunciation-pun, for whereas brougham is pronounced broom, the surname Brough is pronounced Bruff.

bruise, v. To fight; box: pugilists', C. 19—20, ob. Anticipated in Fletcher, 1625, 'He shall bruise thee a month.'

bruise along. To pound along: hunting: from ca. 1860. Cf. (hunting) bruiser.

bruise-water. A broad-bowed ship: nautical coll.: mid-C. 19—20; ob. Bowen.

bruiser. A prize-fighter; 1744 (Walpole). In C. 19—20, coll., as in S. Warren, 1830, 'a scientific . . . thorough-bred bruiser'.—Hence, 2, any person fond of fighting with the fists; a chucker-out: C. 19—20, coll.—a sense implicit in Walpole's use of the term.—3. A reckless rider: hunting: 1830; cf. bruise along and bruising, adj.—4. In c., a harlot's 'fancy man' or bully: mid-C. 19. Cf. bouncer.—5. 'An inferior workman among chasers' (of metal): trade coll. (—1788); ob. Grose, 2nd ed. Ex his rough workmanship.

bruising. Fighting with the fists: C. 19—20, coll. Ex C. 18—20 (coll. after 1800) sense: boxing, as in Smollett, 1751, and Thackeray, 1855, 'bruising . . . a fine manly old English custom'. Ca. 1800—30, boxing was not only popular but fashionable.

bruising, ppl. adj. (Given to) pounding along or reckless riding. Hunting: from ca. 1870. Ex bruise along, q.v. Cf. bruiser, 3. bruising-match. A boxing-match: from ca. 1790; coll. till ca. 1850, when it > S.E.

bruising or brewing the bed. Fouling the bed: low: late C. 18—early 19. Grose, 1st ed., 'From brevies, or browes, oatmeal boiled in the pot with salt beef.'

brum. A counterfeit coin: C. 18—20; in late C. 17, counterfeit groats. Abbr. Brummagem, q.v.—2. A spur: coll., 1834 + but now †.—3. Almost anything, but esp. jewellery, that is counterfeit or worthless: from ca. 1870; e.g. in The Daily Telegraph, July 9, 1883.—4. Copper coins minted by Boulton & Watt, at their Birmingham works (—1787); †, except historically.—5. (Brum.) A native of Brummagem, Birmingham: from ca. 1870.—6. (Brum.) Birmingham itself: from ca. 1860.—7. See Brums.

brum, adj. Not genuine; counterfeit; trashy: from ca. 1880; rather rare. Lit., made at Bum (Birmingham).—2. Hence, at Winchester College: mean; poor; stingy: 1883 (E.D.D.). Ex Brum(magem), or ex L. bruma, winter, or—the traditional College explanation—ex L. brevissimum, the shortest (thing). Wrench, however, adduces Kentish dial. brumpt, bankrupt, penniless.

brumbie or brumby; occ. broombee, brumbee. A wild horse: Australian coll. Orig. (ca. 1864) in Queensland, but gen. by 1888 as we see by Cassell's Picturesque Australasia, of that date. The word appears in Kipling's Plain Tales from the Hills. Perhaps ex Aborigine booramby, wild. Morris, thus: The Illustrated Tasmanian, June 13, 1935, however, in a convincing article on 'Wild "Brumbies"', states that the term arose in the second decade of C. 19 in New South Wales and that the term derives ex Major Wm. Brumby, who, from Richmond, went to Australia early in C. 19; he was a keen breeder of horses, and many of his young horses ran more or less, finally quite, wild. (The Brumby family now lives in Tasmania.)

Brummagem. Birmingham: from ca. 1860; except as dial., low coll.—2. Base money: in late C. 17–early 18, counterfeit groats; C. 18–20, any counterfeit money, esp. of copper, as in Martin's Dict., 1754, and in Southey's fascinating farrago-'omnibus', The Doctor. Ex the local spelling, which was—and still often is—phonetic of the local pronunciation. Brummagem = Bromwicham (after Bromwich) a corruption of Brimidgeham, the old form of Birmingham. (W.) Faked antiques, etc., are still made at Birmingham.—3. Hence, a spur: from ca. 1830; ob.

Brummagem, adj. Counterfeit; cheap and pretentious: coll.; 1637, 'Bromedgham blades' = inferior swords. Ca. 1690, B.E., 'Bromigham-conscience, very bad [one], Bromigham-protestants, Dissenters or Whiggs [see the O.E.D.], Bromigham-wine, Balderdash, Sophisticate Taplash.' The C. 20 connotation is that of shoddiness or of showy inferiority: as such, it is coll. See the n.

Brummagem buttons. Counterfeit coin, esp. of copper (— 1836); ob. Cf. Brummagem.

Brummagem Joe. Joseph Chamberlain (1836–1914). Ex his adopted city. Dawson.

Brummagem Johnson. Dr. Samuel Parr (1747–1825). Dawson, 'He imitated the manner of Dr. Johnson.' Perhaps rather a sobriquet than a nickname.

brummish. Counterfeit; doubtful; inferior: coll.: from ca. 1800; slightly ob. Cf. brum.

Brums. London and North Western—formerly London and Birmingham—Railway stock. Stock Exchange: from ca. 1880. Cf. brum, n., 5, 6.—2. Tawdry finery: Australian (— 1916). C. J. Dennis. Ex brum, n., 3, q.v.—3. the Brums. The Birmingham Football Club ('soccer'): sporting: late C. 19–20.

brunch. Breakfast and lunch in one: university s. >, ca. 1930, gen. coll.: C. 20. Cf. tinner.

brush. A hasty departure: coll.: C. 18–19; in the latter, coll. Fielding in Tom Jones.—2. He who departs hastily: c. (— 1748); † by 1850. Dyche.—3. A house-painter: mid-C. 19–20; ob. H., 3rd ed. Cf. brother of the brush, q.v.—4. A small dram-drinking glass: public-houses' (— 1909); slightly ob. Ex resemblance of its outline to that of a house-painter's brush (Ware).—5. A generic term for women: Australian c. (— 1935). Ex the pubic hair.

brush, v. To depart hastily; run away. Late C. 17–20, ob. In C. 17, c. or low; in C. 18, s. then coll. Post-1800, coll. and then S.E. 'Sergeant Matcham had brush'd with the dibs', Barham. Also brush along or off: C. 19 (Bee).—2. To flog: Christ's Hospital, C. 19–20.

brush, at a or at the first. At first; immediately: coll.: C. 15–18.

brush, brother of the. See brother of the brush.

brush, buy a. To run away: c. of ca. 1670–1830. Also, C. 19–20 (s., not c.), show one's brush (Manchon). Cf. brush, n. and v.

brush and lope. To depart hastily, to decamp: late C. 18–mid-19: c. Grose, 1st ed. Lit., to depart and run. See brush, v., 1.

brush one's coat for him. To thrash (cf. dust one's jacket): coll.: ca. 1660–1820. Bunyan.

brush up. To revive one's knowledge of: coll.: C. 20; by 1933, thanks to the Brush Up Your (e.g.) French series of books, S.E.

brush up a flat. To flatter, 'soft-soap' a person: C. 19–20, low.

brush with, have a. To fight with a man, lie with a woman: mid-C. 18–20, ob. Grose, 1st ed.

brusher. A full glass: ca. 1690–1830. B.E., Grose.—2. A schoolmaster: C. 19–20. Prob. abbr. bum-brusher, q.v.; cf. brush, v., 2.

brusher, give. To depart with debts unpaid; e.g. 'He gave them brusher': Australian-bush s. (— 1898). Ex brusher, a small and lively wallaby. Morris.

Brussel sprouts. Brussels sprouts: sol. contemporaneous with the correct term.

Brussels. A variant (from ca. 1920) of, and ex, carpet, n. (I.e. Brussels carpet.)

brute. One who has not matriculated: Cambridge University, C. 19. Prob. ex S.E. brute.—2. A term of reprobaton: coll., from ca. 1660. 'The brute of a cigar required relighting', G. Eliot.

bruvver. See -uvver. A little-known Army song (1914–18, and after) runs: 'Why should we be pore? | My bruvver 'awks 'is brahn; | Why should we be pore? | My sister walks the tahn. | Farver's a bit of a tea-leaf, | Muvver's a West-End 'ore, | An' I'm a bit of a ponce meself— | Why should we be pore?' which is reminiscent of Villon.

bry or Bry. Abbr. Brian o' Lynn, q.v.: 1868, says Ware.

Bryant and Mays. Stays: rhyming s.: C. 20. B. & P. Cf.:

Bryant & May's chuckaway. (Gen. pl.) A girl working in that firm's match-factory: East London: 1876; ob. by 1910, † by 1920. A chuckaway is a lucifer match; such match-making used to be unhealthy.

Brydport. See Bridport dagger.—Bryan o' Lynn. See Brian o' Lynn.

B's. Members of the Patriotic Brotherhood, or Irish Invincibles: Fenian: 1883; † by 1920. Ware.

bub. Strong drink, esp. malt liquor: from ca. 1670; ob. C. until ca. 1820, then low. Head. Often as bub and grub, food and (strong) drink. Either echoic or ex L. bibere, to drink; Dr. Wm. Matthews says: abbr. of bubble.—2. A brother, rare, C. 18; C. 19–20, (mostly U.S.) a little boy. Perhaps ex Ger. bube, boy (w.).—3. A woman's breast, C. 19–20; rare in singular and not very frequent in this abbr. form: see bubby.—4. 'One that is cheated; an easy, soft Fellow', B.E.: late C. 17–19; c. until ca. 1810. Abbr. bubble, q.v.

bub, v. To drink: C. 18–19; c. until ca. 1820, then low. Prob. ex bub, n., 1.—2. To bribe; cheat: C. 18–early 19; rare; low, as in D'Urfey, 1719, 'Another makes racing a Trade . . . And many a Crimp match has made, | By bubbing another Man's Groom.' Ex bubble, v. Cf. bub, n., 4.

bub, humming. Strong beer or ale: ca. 1820–90. Bee. See bub, n., 1.

bubber. A hard drinker; a toper. C. 17–late 18: c. in C. 17, then low. Middleton, B.E., Grose. Cf. bub, n., 1, and v., 1.—2. A drinking-bowl: c.: late C. 17–early 19. B.E., Grose.—3. A stealer of plate from taverns and inns: c. of ca. 1670–1830. Head, Grose. Cf. sense 1.

bubbery. Senseless clamour; 'a wordy noise in the street': low (— 1823); † by 1900. Bee. A corruption of bobbery, q.v.

bubbing. Drinking, tipping: ca. 1670–1830; low. Cf. bub and bubber.

bubble. A dupe; a gullible person: ca. 1668–1840. Sedley, Shadwell, Swift ('We are thus become the dupes and bubbles of Europe'), Fielding, George Barrington (who left England 'for his country's good'). Coll. >, ca. 1800, S.E. Cf. and presumably ex:

bubble, v. To cheat, swindle; delude, humbug; overreach: coll., but S.E. after ca. 1800: 1664, Etherege; Dryden; Fielding, 'He . . . actually bubbled several of their money'; Sheridan; McCarthy the historian, 1880, 'the French Emperor had bubbled [Cobden]'. Also bubble (a person) of, out of, or into: 1675, Wycherley. Perhaps ex bubble, 'to cover or spread with bubbles' (O.E.D.); more prob. via 'delude with bubbles' or unrealities, as W. proposes.

bubble, bar the. 'To except against the general rule, that he who lays the odds must always be adjudged the loser; this is restricted to betts laid for liquor', Grose, 2nd ed.: drinking: late C. 18–early 19. Punning bubble, a deception, + bib (or bibber) as a drinking term.

bubble and squeak. Cold meat fried with potatoes and greens, or with cabbage alone. Coll. From ca. 1770: Grose, 1st ed., being the first to record it in a dictionary; it occurs, however, in Bridges's Homer, 1772. After ca. 1830, S.E.; Lytton has it in My Novel. Ex the sound emitted by this dish when cooking. Cf. bubbling squeak, q.v.

Bubble and Squeak. Sir Walter Wynne, 5th baronet (fl. 1793). Dawson.—2. Thos. Sheridan, scholar. Ibid.

bubble and squeak, v. To speak: rhyming s.: (?) mid-C. 19–20. Everyman, March 26, 1931.

bubble-bow or -boy. A lady's tweezer case: ca. 1704–60: s. > coll. Pope. (= beau-befooler.) O.E.D. bubble buff. A bailiff: C. 17. Rowlands.

bubble company. A dishonest firm: coll. passing to S.E., C. 19–20. Adumbrated in C. 18: see Martin's Dict., 2nd ed., 1754. 'Bubble . . . a name given to certain projects for raising money on imaginary grounds': the South Sea Bubble was semantically responsible.

bubbleable. Gullible: temp. Restoration. Rare: coll.

bubbled, ppl. adj. Gulled, befooled, deluded. Coll., late C. 17–20; ob. Defoe:

Who shall this bubbled nation disabuse, While they, their own felicities refuse?

bubbler. A swindler: ca. 1720–1830: coll. > S.E. by 1770. Pope. (O.E.D.)

bubbling, adj. Cheating: ca. 1675–1750. Wycherley. (The n. is late—1730—and S.E.)

bubbling squeak. Hot soup: military: mid-C. 19–20; ob. Cf. bubble and squeak.

bubbly, often the bubbly. Champagne: from ca. 1895. Also bubbly water: C. 20.—2. Grog: naval: C. 20. Bowen.—3. A look-out posted by those playing Crown and Anchor (etc.): naval: C. 20. Ibid.

bubbly Jock. A turkey cock. Orig. (—1785) Scottish; but well acclimatised in England by 1840; Thackeray and Beant & Rice use it. Grose, 1st ed. Either it is ex the turkey's 'bubbly' cry or it is an early rhyming synonym (see Slang, p. 274).—2. Hence, a stupid boaster: C. 19.—3. Hence, a conceited, pragmatical fellow; a prig; a cad: from ca. 1860; ob. G. A. Sala, 1883.

Bubbly Jocks, the. Some Scottish regiment that

F. & H. (revised) does not name: military: late C. 19–early 20. F. & Gibbons, however, defines it as the Scots Greys and derives it from bubbly Jock, 1, ex the colour.

bubbly water. Sec bubbly.

bubby. A woman's breast. Rare in singular. Late C. 17–20; S.E. till late C. 18, then dial. and low. D'Urfey, in 1686, 'The Ladies here may without Scandal shew | Face or white Bubbies, to each ogling Beau.' Congreve, in the Old Bachelor, 'Did not her eyes twinkle, and her mouth water? Did she not pull up her little bubbies?' Either ex bub, to drink, or semantically ex a milk-needing babe's bu bu!; for the latter possibility, see the congruous matter in Weckley's delightful baby-talk essay in Adjectives and Other Words.

bube. Syphilis: late C. 17–early 19 c. B.E. Ex S.E. bubo, which Coles, 1676, perhaps wrongly classifies as c. even though he applies his c. bubo to 'pox', his S.E. bubo to 'a large fiery pimple'.

Buck. A nickname for all men surnamed Taylor: orig. nautical: late C. 19–20. Bowen. Prob. ex 'Buck' Taylor, a popular member of Buffalo Bill's cowboy team visiting England in 1887.

buck. A forward, daring woman: rare, perhaps only c.: ca. 1720–30.—2. Likewise coll., a man of spirit and gay conduct: ca. 1700–1805. Grose, 2nd ed., has buck of the first head, 'a blood or choice spirit', a notable debauchee; prob. ex like a buck of the first head, which, in Ray, 1678, means little more than pert or brisk (Apperson). 'A large assembly of young fellows, whom they call bucks', Fielding, 1752.—3. A dandy: from ca. 1805, ob. by 1887, now merely archaic: coll. > S.E. Thackeray in Vanity Fair, 'A most tremendous buck.' Cf. masher, dude, swell.—4. A cuckold: ca. 1770–1820. Abbr. buck(s) face, q.v.—5. An unlicensed cab-driver: ca. 1850–1905. Also, same period, a sham fare, a hanger-about at omnibus-stands.—6. A sixpence: C. 19–20, ob.; gen. with a preceding sum in shillings, as three and a buck. Prob. abbr. fyebuck, q.v.—7. A large marble: schoolboys', ca. 1870–1910.—8. In British Guiana (1869), a native Indian of South America: coll. rather than s. (Cf. the U.S. usage.) Australians apply buck nigger to any big man of very dark race: C. 20.—9. Grose, 1st ed., 1785, has 'buck, a blind horse': this is rare, but hardly disputable: presumably s.: late C. 18–early 19.—10. A small dealer in the service of a greater (a 'stock-master'): Cockney (—1887). Baumann.—11. Conversation: 1895, Mrs. Croker. Ex Hindustani bak. Also bukh (O.E.D. Sup.).—12. Hence, tall talk, boasting, excessive talk: military: C. 20. F. & Gibbons.—13. Hence, impertinence, impudence: Bootham School (—1925). Anon, Dict. of Bootham Slang.

buck, v. To falsify—an account or balance-sheet: commercial, from ca. 1870; ob. Cf. cook, sense 4.—2. (Also bukh, bukk; Manchon spells it bak.) To chatter; talk with egotistical superabundance: Anglo-Indian coll.: 1880. Ex Hindustani bakna. Yule & Burnell. (Cf. buck, n., 11.) Whence buck-stick, a chatterer (—1888).—3. Also, v.i., to object, be reluctant (v.t. with at): coll., from ca. 1890; mainly Australia and New Zealand.—4. In C. 20 c., to fight against, withstand. Perhaps ex S.E. buck off.

buck, adj. Handsome: Winchester College; C. 19. Wrench. Ex buck, a dandy.

buck, go to. A low coll. of C. 18, as in A New Canting Dict., 1726, 'She wants to go to buck, . . .

of a wanton Woman, who is desirous of Male-Conversation.'

buck, old. A term of address: from ca. 1830; ob. by 1915 but not yet quite †. Cf. old horse.

buck, run a. To poll an invalid vote: late C. 18-early 19; orig. and mainly Anglo-Irish. Grose, 2nd ed. Cf. buck, n., 9; perhaps, however, a pun on run amuck.

buck a (blessed) hurricane or a town down. Resp. — 1870, — 1881, both ob., Australian coll.: (of a horse) to buck furiously. A. C. Grant: Bush Life in Queensland, 1881, at I, 131, for both.

buck against. To oppose violently: coll. (— 1909). Ex U.S. Cf. buck, v., 3.

buck bail. 'Bail given by a sharper for one of the gang', Grose, 2nd ed.: late C. 18-early 19; c. and low. In F. & H., misprinted b.-bail.

Buck Brummell. The beau: Eton nickname. Dawson.

buck-doctor. A Government veterinary surgeon: coll. of South African Midlands: late C. 19-20. Ex early attention to lung-diseased goats. Pettman.

buck down. To be sorry; unhappy. Winchester College, from ca. 1860; ob. Cf. bucked.

buck face, buck's face. A cuckold: late C. 17-early 19. B.E.

buck-fat. Goat-lard: Cape Colony coll. (— 1902). Pettman. Cf. buck-doctor.

buck-fever. The nervous excitement of a young sportsman when out shooting: South African coll.: 1892, Nicolls & Eglinton, The Sportsman in South Africa. Pettman.

buck fitch. An old lecher or roué: late C. 17-early 19. B.E., Grose. Fitch = fitchew = polecat.

[buck-jump, in its various senses and forms, is S.E. There is a tendency to regard it as coll. or even s., perhaps because of its Australian or, less prob., American origin. See Morris.]

buck of the first head. See buck, n., 2.

buck one's stumps. To get a move on (lit., stir one's legs): Conway Training Ship (— 1891). Masefield.

buck-shot. A settlers' term for granulated lava (always imbedded in a sandy alluvium): New Zealand s. (— 1851) > coll. Morris.

buck the horse. To make trouble in prison by resisting warders, etc.: C. 20 c.

buck the tiger. To gamble heavily: U.S. (from ca. 1862), anglicised before 1909; ob. Ware.

bucktooth. A large tooth that projects: from ca. 1750; in C. 18-19, S.E.; in C. 20, coll.

buck up. Orig. (— 1854), v.i. and t., to dress up. Ex buck, a dandy. Then, 2, from ca. 1860, to make haste, or—esp. in the imperative—to become energetic, cheerful. Also, 3, from ca. 1895, to encourage, cheer up, or refresh ('A spot of b. and s. bucked him up no end'); and as v.i., to be encouraged; esp. in buck up!

bucked. Tired: Uppingham, from ca. 1860; ob. Contrast buck up.—2. Encouraged, elated; cheered, cheerful: from ca. 1905. Cf. buck up, 3.

buckee. A variant of buckie. (The Tailor and Cutter, Nov. 29, 1928.)

buckeen. A bully: coll., Anglo-Irish: late C. 18-early 19. In S.E., 'a younger son'. Ex buck after squireen.

bucker. A porpoise: nautical: mid-C. 19-20. Bowen. Ex its jumps into the air.

bucket, v. To deceive, cheat, swindle, ruin: from ca. 1810; until ca. 1830, c. or low. Vaux, Scott.—2. To ride (a horse) hard: from ca. 1850:

coll.; in C. 20 j. Often as vbl.n., bucketing (Whyte-Melville, 1856).—3. In rowing: to take the water with a scoop; swing the body; hurry unduly the body's forward swing: from ca. 1869; coll.; in C. 20 rather j. than coll. (Besant & Rice, 1876.)

bucket. A glass of spirits: low Ayrshire: 1870, John Kelso Hunter, Life Studies of Character, 'A rest for two-three minutes, and a bucket the piece wad be acceptable.' In the E.D.D. (Sup.), it is classified as c.: but I doubt this.

bucket, give the. (With indirect object.) To dismiss from one's employment: coll. (— 1863). Cf. (give the) sack.

bucket, kick the. To die: late C. 18-20. Grose, 1785; Wolcot, 'Pitt has kicked the bucket', 1796. Prob. ex the beam or yoke from which, as in Norfolk, pigs are hung; bucket in this sense is C. 16-20 S.E.

bucket, passive. A patient listener: C. 20. Manchon. Making no complaint as bilge and slush are poured into it.

bucket about. To oscillate: coll. (— 1923). Manchon. Prob. ex rowing j. bucket afloat. A coat: rhyming s. (— 1874); †. H., 5th ed. Often contracted to bucket, now †. The term current in C. 20 is I'm afloat, q.v. Soldiers use bucket and float (B. & P.).

bucket of beer. A pint of beer: public-house s., mostly Anglo-Irish: C. 20.

bucket shop. An unauthorised office for the sale of stocks: orig. (? 1881), U.S., anglicised ca. 1887; Ware prob. errs when he dates its English use as early as 1870. In C. 19, coll.; C. 20, S.E. Ex bucket, 'the vessel in which water is drawn out of a well' (Johnson) or ex bucket, to swindle, or ex the bucket into which falls the recording-tape or 'ticker'.

bucketing concern. The vbl.n. of bucket, v., 1, q.v.: c. of ca. 1810-80. Vaux.

bucketsful, coming down. Raining heavily: coll.: late C. 19-20.

buckhorse. A blow, or a smart box, on the ear: coll.; from ca. 1850, ex Buckhorse, actually John Smith, a celebrated pugilist, who would, for a small sum, allow one to strike him severely on the side of the head. Often as vbl.n., buckhorsing: see Blackwood's Magazine, 1864, vol. II, the Public Schools' Report—Westminster.

buckie. A refractory person: coll., when not, as gen., Scottish: C. 18-19; ob., except among tailors, who, in late C. 19-20, use it also of a bad tailor or of a shoemaker.

buckling. Washing sails: nautical coll.: mid-C. 19-20. Bowen. Ex a technical process in bleaching.

Buckinger's boot. The monosyllable: ca. 1740-95. Ex Matthew Buckinger, a daft limbless fellow married to 'a tall handsome woman', Grose, 3rd ed.

buckish. Foppish, dandyish: from ca. 1780. Until ca. 1870, S.E.; then coll.; ob. Mme D'Arblay's Diary, at 1782; Wolcot; George Parker; Combe; George Eliot.—2. (Of persons) in good spirits, in excellent fettle: from ca. 1912. Ex buckish, (of horses) inclined to buck. O.E.D. (Sup.).

buckle. A fetter; gen. in pl.: coll., C. 17-early 18. E.g. in Egan's Grose.—2. buckle (my shoe). A Jew: rhyming s.: C. 20. B. & P.

buckle, v. To be married: late C. 17-19, extant as vbl.n., buckling. Marry, v.t.: C. 18-20. Both are coll.; the former in Dryden, 'Is this an age to buckle with a bride?', the latter in, e.g.

Scott, 'Dr. R., who buckles beggars for a tester and a dram of Geneva.'—2. In c. and low s., v.t., to arrest: mid-C. 19–20 (ob.); gen. in past ppl. passive. H., 5th ed.

buckle and bare thong, come (or be brought) to. To be stripped of—to lose—everything: coll.: ca. 1550–1850, though extant in dial. Apperson.

buckle(-)beggar. A celebrator of prison, hence of irregular, marriages; a hedge-priest. Coll. Late C. 17–early 19. Orig. and mainly Scottish. Cf. couple-beggar.

buckle-bosom. A constable: C. 17: coll. Mabbe's trans. of Guzman d'Alfarache. (O.E.D.)

buckle down. To settle down: mid-C. 19–20: coll.

buckle-hammed. Crooked-legged: C. 17: coll. Gaule, 1629, 'Buckle-hamm'd, Stump-legg'd, Splay-footed'. (O.E.D.)

buckle-hole (of one's belt), be reduced or starved to the last. To be near death by starvation: Cockney coll. (— 1887). Baumann.

buckle my shoe. See buckle, n., 2.

buckle of the girdle (or, C. 19, belt), turn the. To prepare to fight: coll. (Cromwell, 1656, 'an homely expression'): late C. 16–19; extant in dial. Ex the turning of the buckle to the back, so that the belly be not injured thereby.

buckle to, v.i. Set to with a will, apply oneself energetically (1712). Coll. A development from buckle, v.i., to grapple, as in Butler, 'He with the foe began to buckle', 1663.—2. V.t., understand: C. 19.

Bucklebury. Euphemistic (— 1923) for buggery. Manchon. Ex the Berkshire locality.

Buckley, who struck? A c.p. used, in C. 19, to irritate Irishmen. Origin obscure—though H., 5th ed., offers a plausible and amusing story.

Buckley's (chance). A forlorn hope: Australian: from ca. 1875. C. J. Dennis. 'Buckley was a declared outlaw whose chance of escape was made hopeless', Jice Doone. (There have been many other explanations.)

bucko. (Pl. -oes.) A swashbuckling, domineering, or blustering man; occ. as term of address; swagger or bluster: nautical (— 1909). Ex buck, n., 2, + o. O.E.D. (Sup.).—2. Hence, corresponding adj.: nautical (— 1924). Ibid.

buckra. A white man: orig. (1794) in negro talk; then, since ca. 1860, among those Britons who live in the wilder parts of the British Empire. Coll. ex Calabar backra, master. (W.)

buckra, adj. (ex the preceding). Genuine: West Indies coll.: C. 20. A. Hyder, Black Girl, 1934.

buck's face. See buck face.—buckshee. See bakshee(sh).

buckshot rule. A political coll. for the upholding of government only, or chiefly, by a constabulary armed with rifles. Orig. applied to the Ireland of 1881. Buck(-)shot is large shot.

buckskin. An American soldier during the Revolutionary war; also, ca. 1820–60, a native American. Ex U.S. sense (1755 +): a Virginian.

bucksome. Happy; in good spirits: a C. 19 survival, at Winchester College, of C. 17–18 'buck-som, wanton, merry', B.E. Bucksome is from buck (up), q.v., and influenced by buxom, of which, need I say?, B.E.'s bucksom is merely a variant spelling and nowise related to buck.

buckstick. A braggart: Anglo-Indian coll. (— 1924). O.E.D. (Sup.). See buck, n., 12.—2. See buck, v., 2.

bud. A débutante: society (— 1913); † by 1930. A. H. Dawson.

bud, nip in the. To check or ruin a project in its beginnings: from ca. 1840; coll. passing, in late C. 19, into S.E. The † crush in the bud occurs as early as 1746.

[bud sallogh in Grose, 1st ed., is ineligible.]

Buddoo. An Arab: Eastern Fronts: military in G.W. (B. & P.) Cf. Abdul, a Turk.

buddy. An American term of address (lit., brother): mid-C. 19–20; partially anglicised by 1914.—2. A chum; a recruit: military: from ca. 1914. F. & Gibbons. Ex sense 1.

budge; 'or sneaking budge', Grose, 1st ed. A sneaking thief: c. or low s.: from ca. 1670. Head; Coles, esp. of cloaks; Fielding, in Amelia. † by 1850.—2. A thief's accomplice, esp. one who hides in a house to open the door later: c.: C. 18.—3. Liquor: c. (— 1821); †. A perversion of bub, n., 1, or booze.

budge, v. To depart: low: mid-C. 18–19. Grose, 1st ed. Cf. S.E. budge, to move however slightly.—2. To inform; 'split': low (— 1859); ob. by 1890; † by 1920.

budge, sneaking or standing. A thief's scout or spy: c.: late C. 18–19.

budge a beak(e). To decamp; to flee from justice: C. 17 (early): c. Beak = a constable.

budge and snudge. A housebreaker and his assistant; such burglary: ca. 1670–1800; c.

budge kain. A public-house: Scottish c. (— 1823); † by 1900. Egan's Grose. Cf. budge, n., 3. Presumably kain = ken.

budger. A drunkard: C. 19 c. Ex budge, n., 3, q.v. budgerree. Good; excellent. Australian, from ca. 1800. Recorded as early as 1793 and 'dictionaried' in 1796. Ex Port Jackson Aborigine dial. Morris.

budget, open one's. To speak one's mind: C. 17–early 18: coll.

budging ken. A public-house: C. 19 c. Hence, cove of the b.-k., a publican. Ex budge, n., last sense.

budgy. Drunk: low (— 1874). H., 5th ed. Ex budge, n., 3.

budmash. A rascal; a thief: Regular Army: late C. 19–20. F. & Gibbons. Ex Hindustani badmash.

Buenos Aires. The Royal Crescent at Margate: the 1880's.

Buenos Aires, go or take the road to. To become a prostitute, esp. by way of a procurer's offices: coll. rather than merely euphemistic: C. 20. Ex the Fr.

bufa. See buffer, 1.

bufe. A dog: mid-C. 16–18 c. Harman. Ex its bark. Cf. buffer, 1, q.v., and bugher, an 'anglicised' representation of the Scottish bugher pronounced properly bu'ha, loosely buffer: cf. the correct pronunciation of Scottish words like Benachie (approximately Ben-a-he).

bufe-nabber, -napper. Mid-C. 17–early 19, C. 19 c.: a dog-stealer. B.E.; Grose.

bufe's nob. A dog's head: c. (— 1785); † by 1900. Grose, 1st ed.

buff. The bare skin: coll., C. 17–20; ob. except in stripped to the buff (C. 19–20). Chapman, 1654, 'Then for accoutrements you wear the buff.' Ex the colour.—2. A man; a fellow; often as a term of address (A New Canting Dict., 1725): coll.: ca. 1700–1830. Kersey's Dict., 1708; Smollett, in Roderick Random, 1748. Cf. buffer, sense 2.—3. A variant of bufe, q.v.: C. 18. Cf. buff-knapper.—4. (Buff.) A member of the Royal Antediluvian Order of Buffaloes, which, founded in or about 1875, aims at promoting universal brotherhood: 1879: coll. >, by 1910, S.E. (O.E.D. Sup.)

buff, v. To strip oneself, often as buff it. From ca. 1850; ob. Mayhew. Ex buff, n., 1; perhaps imm. ex buffing the dog.—2. To maintain a statement; swear to a person's identity (buff to); inform on. If absolutely, buff it: 'Do you buff it?' From ca. 1880. Vaux. (Cf. U.S. sense: Thornton.). Perhaps ex to buffet or to bluff.—3. To polish with a buff: coll. in metal trades from ca. 1880. O.E.D.—4. See buffing the dog.

buff, in. Naked: C. 17–20. At first s., then coll. Dekker, 'I go . . . in buff.' Already ob. by 1890. See buff, n.

buff, stand. To bear the brunt; endure without flinching. V.t. with to or against. Coll.: from temp. Restoration; ob. by 1850, † by 1890. Cf. buff, v., and S.E. be a buffer, buffer state. Butler, in Hudibras's Epitaph, ca. 1680: 'And for the good old cause stood buff | 'Gainst many a bitter kick and cuff'; Fielding; Dyche's Dict.; Scott.

buff and blue, or blue and buff. The Whig party: ca. 1690–1830: political coll. Ex its former colours.

buff-ball. C. 19–20; ob.; c. and low. Greenwood, In Strange Company, 1880: 'The most favourite entertainment at this place is known as buff-ball, in which both sexes—innocent of clothing—madly join.' Cf. ballum rancum and buttock-ball.

buff-coat. A soldier: ca. 1660–1900: coll. >, by 1700, S.E. Cf. Bufs.

Buff Howards, the. The 3rd Foot—from 1881 the East Kent—Regiment: military s. (ca. 1740) >, by 1800, coll. F. & Gibbons. Ex its colonel of 1738–49 (Thomas Howard) and the colour of its facings. Contrast Green Howards.

buff-(k)napper. A dog-stealer: c.: C. 18—early 19. A New Canting Dict., 1725.

buff nor baff, say neither. To say nothing at all: coll.: late C. 15–17. A C. 16–19 variant is not to say buff to a wolf's shadow. Here, buff, like baff, is prob. echoic. (O.E.D.) buff-stick. An orderly man: Regular Army: C. 20. F. & Gibbons. Ex the polishing instrument so named.

buff to the stuff. To claim stolen property: late C. 19–20 c. Ware. See buff, v., 2.

buffalo. A buffalo-robe: Canadian and U.S. coll.: 1856 (O.E.D.).

Buffalo Bill. W. F. Cody (1845–1917), American scout and showman popular in England ca. 1885–1900. Ex his exploits in killing buffaloes for the Government. (Dawson.)

buffalo boy. A negro comic: music-halls' (—1909); ob. by 1920, † by 1930. Ware.

buffer. A dog: in mid-C. 16—early 19 c.; after ca. 1830, low; ob. The C. 16–17, occ. the C. 18, spellings are bufe (q.v.), bufa, buffa. Lover, in Handy Andy, 1840: 'It is not every day we get a badger . . . I'll send for my "buffer" . . . spanking sport'.—2. In late C. 17–18 c., 'a Rogue that kills good sound Horses only for their Skins', B.E.—3. A man, in C. 19 often, in C. 20 gen., as old buffer. Recorded in 1749; Barham; Anstey, 'an old yellow buffer'. Perhaps ex buff, the bare skin, but cf. dial. sense, a foolish fellow.—4. One who, for money, takes a false oath: C. 19. Cf. to buff, 2nd sense.—5. A boxer: mostly Anglo-Irish: ca. 1810–50. Lex. Bal., 1811; Tom Moore in Tom Crib's Memorial, 1819, 'Sprightly to the Scratch both Buffers came.' Cf. S.E. buffet.—6. A boatswain's mate: naval: mid-C. 19–20. II., 3rd ed. It was he who, in the old days, administered the 'cat'.—7. A pistol: early C. 19. Scott, 1824. Cf. barker.—8. An innkeeper, says Grose, 1st ed. Perhaps an error, perhaps a variant of bluffer, 1. q.v. If authentic, then it is prob. c. of ca. 1780–1830.

buffer-lurking. Dog-stealing: C. 19 c.

buffer-nabber. A dog-stealer: c. (—1823); ob. Egan's Grose. See buffer, n., 1.

buffer's nab. A false seal, shaped like a dog's head (nab = nob), to a false pass. Late C. 17–18 c. B.E. Cf. bufe's nob.

buffing the dog. The practice of killing such stolen dogs as are not advertised for, stripping them of their skins (cf. buff, n., 1 and v., 1), which they sell, and giving the flesh to other dogs: c. (—1781); app. † by 1860 or so. G. Parker, 1781. Prob. ex buff, n., 1.

buffle. A fool: mid-C. 16–18; coll. >, by 1720, S.E. Ex Fr. buffle, a buffalo, and abbr.:

buffle-head. A fool; an ignorant fellow: mid-C. 17–18; coll. till ca. 1700, then S.E. Whence:

buffle-headed. Foolish: stupid: late C. 17–19; coll. until ca. 1750, then S.E.

Bufs. The Third Regiment of Foot (now, and since 1881, the East Kent Regiment). Also the old Bufs (—1806), the young Bufs being the 31st Regiment, raised in 1702. From ca. 1740, ex its 1737–49 colonel, it was called the Buff Howards, a name that, in C. 19, yielded to the old name, the Bufs. The regimental facings were buff-coloured. See Tinsley's Magazine, April, 1886. N.b., the Ross-shire Bufs = the old 78th Regiment (now, and from 1881, the 2nd Battalion of Seaforth Highlanders).

buffy. Drunk: from ca. 1859; ob. H., 1st ed.; Yates, 1866, 'Flexor was fine and buffy when he came home last night.' Perhaps a corruption of budgy, q.v., or ex bevy, q.v.

bufft. Either a decoy (buffet) or a bully: late C. 16 c. Greene.

bug. Anglo-Irish, mid-C. 18–19: an Englishman. Grose, 1st ed. Ex bugs, introduced, Irishmen say, into Ireland by Englishmen.—2. In c., a breast-pin: mid-C. 19–20; ob.—3. (Gen. pl.) A wall-flower: low London (—1909). Ware. Cf. blood, n., 4.—4. See big bug.—5. An electric-light bulb: Bootham School (—1925). Anon., Dict. of Bootham Slang, 1925.—6. A school 'blood': certain Public Schools: late C. 19–20. Ian Hay, 'Pip', 1907.

bug, v. To exchange 'some of the dearest materials of which a hat is made for others of less value', Grose, 1st ed.: late C. 18—early 19: hatters'.—2. To bribe: late C. 17–19 c.; cf. bug the writ, q.v. Whence vbl.n., bugging, the police's taking of bribes not to arrest: late C. 17–19 c. B.E.—3. Also, to give; hand over (bug over): c. (—1812): †. Vaux.—4. To obtain shadily from: c. or low: C. 20. John G. Brandon, Th' Big City, 1931, 'Supposin' one of them [harlots] bugs a bloke for a few Brads in a taxi . . .' Semantics: sting as an insect does.

bug-blinding. A bout of whitewashing: military, from ca. 1870; ob.

bug-hunter. An upholsterer: late C. 18–19. Grose, 2nd ed.—2. A robber of the dead: mid-

C. 19-20: c. or low s. H., 1st ed.—3. One who collects as an entomologist: coll.: 1889 (O.E.D.). —4. A robber of drunken men's breast-pins: c.: from ca. 1860.

bug-hutch. 'A small hut or sleeping place': military: 1915; ob. F. & Gibbons. Cf. booby-hutch.

bug in a rug, snug as a. See snug as . . .

bug-juice. Treacle: at the Borstal Institution at Portland: C. 20.—2. See juice, bright-work entry. —3. Ginger ale: ca. 1870-1910, low.—4. Whiskey: Canadian (and U.S.): C. 20. (John Beames.) bug-letter. A letter in stereotyped form: typists' (— 1935).

bug-shooter. A volunteer (soldier): schools' and universities': ca. 1898-1914. Ware.

bug the writ. (Of bailiffs) to refrain from, or postpone, serving a writ, money having passed: c.: late C. 18-early 19. Grose, 1st ed.

bug-trap. A small vessel; a bunk: nautical: from ca. 1890. Because easily overrun with cockroaches. (O.E.D. Sup.)

bug-walk. A bed: low; ca. 1850-1930. H., 3rd ed.

bugaboo. A sheriff's officer; a weekly creditor: C. 19 c. Egan's Grosc. Ex lit. sense.

buggah. A variant, rare in C. 20, of sense 2 of: bugger. In c., a stealer of breast-pins from drunks: C. 19. Ex bug, n., 2.—2. A man: fellow; chap: low coll.; 1719, D'Urfey. In S.E. (C. 16-20), a sodomite. In low coll. and in dial., as in the U.S., the word has no offensive connotation whatsoever: cf. the remark at pakeha, q.v., and the gradual and complete decolorisation of bastard, q.v., and of Fr. bougre, as in C. 19-20 un bon bougre, a good chap. But also as a pejorative: disagreeable person of either sex; an unpleasant, very difficult, or dangerous thing, project, episode, circumstance, as in G.W. 'It's a bugger making a raid on a wet night.' In 1929, still an actionable word if printed (Norah James: Sleeveless Errand); in 1934, no longer so (R. Blaker: Night-Shift; Geoffrey Dennis: Bloody Mary's). See also bugger, not a. Ex L. Bulgarus, a Bulgarian: the Albigenian heretics were often perverts. O.E.D.; E.D.D.; and the introduction to B. & P.

bugger, v. To spoil; ruin; check or change drastically: from ca. 1880; in 1914 +, badly wounded, done for. In the G.W. the Tommy and his Colonial peers were often heard to say, 'Well, that's buggered it.' Doubtless a development from the S.E. sense, to commit sodomy with. The past ppl. passive, buggered, occurs in expletive phrases, e.g. 'Well, I'm buggered!', damned; 'you be buggered!' (cf. 'bugger you!'), go to the devil!—2. V.i. and t., to cheat at cards: c. or low: late C. 19-20; ob.—3. See bugger about.

bugger! A strong expletive: latish C. 19-20. Manchon.

bugger, not a. Not at all, as in not care a bugger: low coll.: C. 20. Geoffrey Dennis, 1934.

bugger about, v. Potter about; fuss; act ineffectually; waste time on a thing, with a person. Hence, bugger about with, to caress intimately; interfere with (person or thing). C. 20: coll. rather than s.; in Australia more than in Britain.

bugger all. A low variant of damn all, q.v.

bugger up. To spoil, ruin; nullify: low: late C. 19-20. Cf. bugger, v., 1.

bugger you! A strong expletive: low (— 1887). Baumann.

buggered. See bugger, v., 1, latter part.

buggerlugs. An offensive term of address: mainly nautical: late C. 19-20. (J. Brophy, Waterfront, 1934.)

buggery. (In S.E., sodomy: like bugger and to bugger, it is the correct legal term: see O.E.D. and S.O.D.) In unconventional English, in two phrases: (all) to buggery, completely, destructively, ruinously: C. 20. 'In G.W., 'Our batteries shelled poor old Jerry to buggery'; Manchon.—2. like buggery: either vigorously, cruelly, vindictively; or, as an expletive, certainly not! From ca. 1890.

buggly, v.t. To exchange, to swap: military: C. 20. F. & Gibbons. ? ex Hindustani.

bugher; occ. as in Coles, 1676, bughar. A dog, esp. if a mongrel or given to yelping or barking: ca. 1670-1820: orig. c., then low. Cf. buffer, 1, and see bufe.

bugs. A dirty seaman: nautical: late C. 19-20. Bowen. Cf. bug-trap.—2. Bacteria; bacteriology: medical students' (— 1933). Slang, p. 191.

build. (Of clothes) make, cut, tailoring: coll.: from ca. 1840. 'Cuthbert Bede', Verdant Green, 1853; Punch, Jan. 10, 1880, in the delightful contribution on The Spread of Education. Cf. build up, q.v.

build a chapel. To steer badly: nautical: C. 19-20, ob.

build up. 'To array in good clothes, for trade purposes': c.: late C. 19-20. Ware. Cf. build, q.v.

built by the mile . . . See cotton-box.

built that way. (Gen. in negative.) Like, such a person as, that; of such a nature or character. Orig. (— 1890), U.S.; anglicised ca. 1900 as a coll.

bukh. See buck, n., 11, and v., 2.—bukk. See buck, v., 2.

bukra, adv. To-morrow: mostly New Zealanders': in G.W.; and diminishingly afterwards. Ex Arabic for 'to-morrow'.

bulchin. Lit., a bull-calf. A term of contempt or endearment to boy, youth, or man: coll., ca. 1615-1830.—2. B.E. has it for a chubby boy or lad: coll., C. 17-18. Also as bulkin (late C. 16-17) and, in Grose, bull chin.

Bulgarian atrocities. Varna and Rutschuk Railway 3% obligations: ca. 1885-1914: Stock Exchange.

bulge. 'Bilge', q.v.: from ca. 1922. Manchon. Cf. Austin Reed's clever advertisement, 1935, of a waistcoat that doesn't bunch up (Talking bulge). Prob. of jocular origin via nautical j.

bulge (on a person), get the. To obtain an advantage: U.S. (1860), partly anglicised ca. 1890; ob. Ware; Manchon; O.E.D. (Sup.). Whence:

bulge on, have (got) the. To have the advantage of: 1903, P. G. Wodehouse, Tales of St. Austin's, 1903.

bulger, n. and adj. (Anything) large. Coll. (— 1859); ob. H., 1st ed.

bulgine. An engine: nautical: mid-C. 19-20; ob. An old shanty has: 'Clear the track, let the bulgine run.' Bowen.

bulk, a thief's assistant, late C. 17-mid-19, is certainly c. as is bulk and file (pickpocket and his jostling accomplice): Coles, 1676.—2. bulker, the same and of same period, is prob. c.: but bulker, a low harlot, if c. in late C. 17, > low s. in mid-C. 18. Lit., one who sleeps on a bulk or heap.

bulker. See preceding entry. B.E.—bulkin. See bulchin.

bulky. A police constable: Northern c. or low: C. 19-20; ob. The Edinburgh Magazine, Aug., 1821.

bulky, adj. Rich, generous; generously rich. Winchester College, C. 19-20. Opp. brum.

bull. False hair worn by women, ca. 1690-1770. B.E.—2. Abbr. bull's-eye, a crown piece: c.: late C. 18-19.—3. C. also (— 1860: H., 2nd ed.) is the sense: a ration of beef; and (3, a), the C. 20 one, ex U.S.: a policeman.—4. In † S.E., a ludicrous jest, a self-contradictory statement. But in C. 19-20, a ludicrous inconsistency unnoticed by its perpetrator and often producing an unintentional pun. Irish was not added until ca. 1850, about which time the coll. > S.E. Henry Kingsley, in one of his two best novels, Geoffrey Hamlyn, 1859: 'the most outrageous of Irish bulls'. ? suggested by cock and bull story.—5. In the money market (opp. to bear), a speculator for a rise: from ca. 1840. Orig. (1714) a speculation for a rise. At first, in either sense, s.; but by 1880, 1740 resp., coll. In C. 20, the more modern sense is S.E.—6. Coll., lower classes, from ca. 1850, 'a "bull" is a teapot with the leaves left in for a second brew', G. R. Sims, in How the Poor Live, 1887.—7. At Winchester College, from ca. 1873 but now ob., cold beef, esp. at breakfast (cf. sense 3.).—8. Abbr. John Bull: ca. 1825-1900, coll.—9. Abbr. bull's-eye, the centre of the target; hence, a hit there. From ca. 1870; in C. 20, coll. Military and marksmen's.—10. A broken-winded horse: low: late C. 19-20.—11. A small keg: nautical: C. 19-20.—12. Abbr. bull-shit, q.v.—13. the Bull. Lord Allenby: military nickname: G.W. (F. & Gibbons). Ex his physique and his blunt simplicity.—14. Milk: Bootham School: C. 20. Anon., Dict. of Bootham Slang, 1925.

bull, v. To have intercourse with a woman (cf. the C. 17-early 19 proverb, 'who bulls the cow must keep the calf'): low coll., C. 18-20.—2. To befool, mock: C. 16-17. To cheat: C. 17-18. Both nuances coll.—3. (Stock Exchange) v.i. and t., try to raise the price (of): from ca. 1840; coll. after 1880; in C. 20, S.E.—4. V.i., to toil; to struggle: Canadian, esp. lumbermen's: C. 20. John Beames.—5. See bull the cask.

bull-a-bull; bullybul. Poroporo (a flowering shrub): New Zealand: 1845 (Morris).

bull and cow. A 'row', disturbance: rhyming s. (— 1859). H., 1st ed. Recorded also in that excellent modern glossary of rhyming s.: 'Rhyming Slang' . . . An authentic compilation by P.P., 1932.

bull at a (five-barred) gate, like a. Furiously; impetuously; clumsily: coll.: late C. 19-20, coll.

bull-bait. To bully; hector. Dickens in Great Expectations, 1860. ? a nonce-word.

bull-beef; occ. bull's-beef. Meat, esp. if beef: C. 16-20, ob.; low coll. Adj., fierce, haughty, intolerant: C. 18, coll.

bull-beef, big as. Stout and hearty; very big; big and grim: coll.: late C. 17-18; thereafter, dial. W. Robertson, 1681; Motteux, 1712. Apperson. Cf.:

bull-beef, eat. To become strong; fierce, presumptuous: late C. 16-19. Gosson, 1579.

bull-beef, like. Big and grim; esp. with bluster and look. C. 17-19; coll. B.E., Wolcot. See bull-beef, big as.

bull-beef !, sell yourself for. Often preceded by go and. A C. 19 coll.: run away !; don't be silly ! H., 3rd ed.

bull-beef, ugly as. Very ugly indeed. C. 18-19 coll. Ex bull-beef, big as.

bull by the tail, trust one as far as one could fling a. I.e. not at all: coll.: 1853, Reade; ob.

bull-calf. A big hulking or clumsy fellow: mid-C. 18-early 19; coll. Grose, 1st ed.

bull chin. See bulchin.

bull-dance. A dance with men only: nautical: mid-C. 19-20; ob. Smyth. Cf. bull-party, stag-dance.

bull-dog. A sheriff's officer: late C. 17-early 19: coll. Farquhar, 1698.—2. A pistol: late C. 17-19: coll. Cf. barker and buffer. Farquhar, 1700, 'He whips out his stiletto, and I whips out my bull-dog'; Scott, 1825.—3. (Naval) a main-deck gun, C. 19-20; ob. If housed or covered, it is a muzzled b.-d.—4. A sugar-loaf: early C. 19; low, perhaps c.—5. A university (Oxford or Cambridge) proctor's assistant: from ca. 1810; coll. Lockhart, in 1823, 'Long-forgotten stories of proctors bit and bull-dogs baffled.' See also proctor's dogs. Cf. buller.—6. A member of Trinity College, Cambridge: C. 19; † by 1890.

Bull Dog Corps, the. The 6th Army Corps: occ. military nickname: 1915-18. F. & Gibbons. Ex the Corps sign: a bull-dog.

bull-dose or -doze. A severe flogging, as is bulldozing, which also = violent, esp. if political, coercion. Orig. (— 1876), U.S., anglicised ca. 1881 as a coll. Ex:

bull-doze, v. To flog severely; hence coerce by violent methods, esp. in politics. Orig. U.S., anglicised ca. 1880 as a coll. Hence bull-dozer, an applier of violent coercion. Lit., to give a dose strong enough for a bull; W., however, thinks there may be some connexion with † Dutch doesen, to strike violently and resoundingly.

bull(-)finch. A fool; a stupid fellow: coll., C. 17-18.—2. In hunting, a high quickset hedge that, with a ditch on one side, is too—or almost too—difficult for a horse to jump. From ca. 1830; by 1890, S.E. G. Lawrence in Guy Livingstone, 'an ugly black bull-finch'. Perhaps a perversion of bull-fence. Whence:

bull-finch, v.i. To leap a horse through such a hedge: from ca. 1840; coll.—2. Hence bull-finner, a horseman that does, or is fond of doing, this: coll., from ca. 1850. Also, such a hedge: coll. (1862).

bull-flesh. Boastfulness; swagger: coll.: 1820; † by 1890. F. & H.

bull-head. A stupid fellow: C. 17-18; coll. Cf. S.E. bull-headed, impetuously.

bull in a china shop, like a. Clumsily: coll. (— 1841), verging, in C. 20, on S.E. Marryat. Perhaps suggested by cow in a cage, q.v.

bull in trouble. A bull in the pound: c. (— 1823); † by 1890. Egan's Grose.

bull-jine. A locomotive: nautical; from ca. 1850; ob. Perhaps ex U.S. Punning engine: hengine, hen-gine or -jine. Also bulgine, q.v.

bull money. 'Money extorted from or given by those who in places of public resort have been detected in flagrante delicto with a woman, as a bribe to silence', F. & H.; low coll., from ca. 1870; ob.

bull-nurse. A male attendant on the sick: nautical: ca. 1840-1900. The Graphic, April 4, 1885, 'Years ago (it may be so still) it was the sailors' phrase . . .'

bull-party. A party of men only: C. 19-20; ob. C. 19. Cf. bull-dance.

bull-point. An advantage; a (point of) superiority: coll.: C. 20. O.E.D. (Sup.). Why?

bull-puncher. Both a variant of cow-puncher and an abbr. of bullock-puncher. Australian: from ca. 1870; ob. C. H. Eden, My Wife and I in Queensland, 1872.

bull-ring. A training-ground, at a base, notorious for severity of the drill and surly insensibility of the instructors: military: from 1915. B. & P., 'From Spanish bull-fights . . . The most notorious was at Etaples.'

bull-shit. Nonsense; empty talk; humbug-(ing): mostly Australian, C. 20; ? ex U.S. Often abbr. to bullsh or bulsh (mostly Australian and New Zealand) and bull (naval: C. 20. Bowen).

bull the (or a) barrel or cask. To pour water into an empty rum cask and, after a sensible interval, to drink the intoxicating resultant: nautical (— 1824); ob. If the officers, to keep the wood moist, used salt water, even the ensuing salt-water bull was sometimes drunk. One speaks also of bulling a teapot; cf. bull, n., 6.

bull-tit. A horse with broken wind: c., mostly vagrants': ca. 1830–80. Cf. roarer.

buller. An Oxford bull-dog (q.v.): C. 20. Manchon. Oxford -er.

bullet. A 'small aeroplane, introduced in 1915 by Vickers': Air Force coll. nickname; † by 1919. F. & Gibbons.

bullet, get and give the. To be dismissed and to dismiss, resp. Get the b. seems to be the earlier: from ca. 1840 and recorded in Savage's Dict. of Printing, 1841; get the instant bullet is to be discharged on the spot. Shake the bullet at one (from ca. 1850): to threaten with dismissal. Ex the effectiveness of a bullet.

bullet has its billet, every. See billet, every bullet has its.

bullet-head(ed), n. and adj. Dull or foolish (person): coll.: C. 17–18. Cf. the S.E. and the U.S. senses.

bullet with (e.g. my) name on it, there is (was, etc.) a. A military c.p. in reference to chances of death in action: 1915–18.

bulletin, false as a. Inaccurate; false: coll., ca. 1795–1820, when, according to Carlyle, it was a proverbial saying: cf. British Official in the G.W.

bulley. See bully, n., 6.

bulfincher. See bull-finch, v.

bullish. (Stock Exchange) aiming at or tending to a rise in prices: from ca. 1880; coll.; in C. 20, S.E. 'Bullish about cotton', 1884 (S.O.D.). Ex bull, n., 5.

bullock. A cheat at marbles: schoolboys', ca. 1840–1910. Notes and Queries, Nov. 3, 1855.—2. A Royal Marine artilleryman: ca. 1820–90.—3. Hence, any Royal Marine: likewise naval: late C. 19–20. Bowen.—4. A bushman: Australian: ca. 1870–1900; very rarely, bullock-puncher, from ca. 1870, being much commoner: a bullock-driver.

bullock, v. To bully, intimidate: coll.; from ca. 1715. M. Davies, 1716; Fielding; Foote; Grose. Since ca. 1900, dial. only.—2. See bullock's horn.

bullock-and-file. A 'buttock-and-file' (sec at buttock and tongue): c.: late C. 18–mid-19. Baumann. A fusion of bulk-and-file and buttock-and-file. More prob. Baumann's misreading.

bullock-puncher. A bullock-driver: Australian, from ca. 1870; coll. Cf. bull-puncher.

bullock's heart. A fart: rhyming s. (— 1890).—2. 'A single . . . order to print, of two hundred and fifty copies only, the lowest paying number in the scale of prices . . . Not a "fat" but a "lean" job, hence the comparison to a bullock's heart, which, unless suffering from "fatty degeneration", is the essence of leanness', Jacobi in Barrère & Leland, 1890: printers': from the 1880's.

bullock's horn. To pawn: rhyming s. (— 1874); often abbr. to bullock. H., 5th ed.—2. Also = in pawn, ca. 1870–1910; occ. abbr. to bullocks, which is extant.

bullock's liver. A river: rhyming s.: late C. 19–20. B. & P.

bullocky. A bullock-driver: Australian, from ca. 1888. At first s., then coll. Also, as in Boldrewood's Colonial Reformer, 1890, an adj. Cf. bullock, n., 4.

bulls. Counterfeit coin: low or perhaps c. (— 1923). Manchon. Cf. bull, n., 2.

bull's-eye. A crown piece: late C. 17–early 19: c. B.E.; Grose. Cf. bull, n., 2.—2. A globular sweetmeat of peppermint: from ca. 1820; coll. until ca. 1850, when it > S.E. Hone's Every-Day Book, 1825.—3. A bull's-eye lantern: coll. (— 1851); in C. 20, S.E.—4. (South Africa) a small dark cloud, red-hearted, frequently seen about the Cape of Good Hope and supposed to foretell a storm; the storm so portended. Recorded, the cloud in 1753, the storm in 1849: coll. by 1870, S.E. by 1900. O.E.D.—5. A small, thick, old-fashioned watch: C. 19. F. & H. (Smaller than a 'turnip', q.v.)—6. See badges and bull's-eyes.

bull's-eye villas. The small open tents used by the Volunteers at their annual gathering: ca. 1870–1914.

bull's feather, give or get the. To cuckold or be cuckolded: C. 17–early 19; coll. Nares quotes a C. 17 song entitled The Bull's Feather, and Richardson uses it in Clarissa Harlowe. Cf. the Fr. se planter des plumes de bœuf and the C. 16–early 19 variant wear the bull's feather (as in Grose, 1st ed.).

bull's foot. See B from a battledore.

bull's noon. Midnight: low: 1839; very ob. and mainly provincial.

bull's-wool. The dry, tenuously fibrous 'inner portion of the covering of the stringy-bark tree', Morris: Australian, esp. Tasmanian (— 1898): coll.—2. Hence, esp. in Tasmania, a youth with a mop of bushy hair: C. 20.

bullsh. See bull-shit.

bully. A protector and exploiter of prostitutes: from ca. 1690; coll. until ca. 1750, then S.E. B.E.; Defoe in his Jure Divino, 1706, 'Mars the celestial bully they adore, | And Venus for an everlasting whore.' Ex the S.E. C. 16–17 sense of sweetheart.—2. Companion, mate: from ca. 1820: nautical (and dial.).—3. In Eton football, a scrimmage (cf. Winchester College hot): recorded in 1865, it has since ca. 1890 ranked as a coll. and it may now be considered S.E.—4. Abbr. bully-beef or corruption of Fr. bouilli: pickled or tinned beef: 1883: coll. in C. 19, S.E. in C. 20.—5. A C. 20 South African juvenile coll. name for the bird more properly known as a yellow seed-eater (serinus sulphuratus). Pettman.—6. 'The lappet of a King's scholar's gown', Ware: Westminster School: late C. 19–20. Ex its wearer, a good fellow.

bully, adj. First-rate, 'champion', splendid: Canada, Australia, and New Zealand, from ca. 1860, ex U.S. 'The roof fell in, there was a "bully" blaze', Meade's New Zealand, 1870. Ex the late C. 17–18 S.E. bully, worthy, admirable, applied only to persons.

bully about the muzzle. 'Too thick and large in the mouth', Ware: dog-fanciers': 1883, Miss Braddon.

bully-back. A brothel's hully and chucker-out; a bully supporting another person: C. 18-early 19. Amherst, 1726, 'old lecherous bully-backs', and Grose, who describes some of this scoundrel's wiles and duties. Occ. bully-buck. Also as v.

bully-beef. (Cf. bully, n., fourth sense.) In the Navy, boiled salt beef; in the Army, tinned beef. Bully may be the earlier form, bully-beef an elaboration after bull-beef. From ca. 1884. Coll. till ca. 1900, then S.E.

bully-beggar. A sol. form of bull-beggar, which may itself be a corruption of bugbear. C. 18-early 19.

bullybul. See bull-a-bull.

bully-cock. One who foments quarrels in order to rob the quarrellers: c. or low s.: late C. 18-early 19. Grose, 1st ed.—2. A low, round, broad-brimmed hat: see billy-cock.

bully fake. A piece of luck: low London: ca. 1882-1915. Ware. Ex bully, adj. (q.v.) + fake, an action.

bully fop. A brainless, silly, talkative fellow, apt to hector: ca. 1680-1800. B.E. describes as c., but I very much doubt it.

bully for you!, capital!, reached England ca. 1870 after having, in 1864-6, enjoyed a phenomenal vogue in the U.S. It has seldom been heard since the G.W.

bully huff-cap. A hoasting bully, a hector: coll.: C. 18. More gen.: bully-huff, late C. 17-18, as in Cotton and B.E.

bully-rag, occ. bally-rag. To intimidate; revile; scold vehemently: from late 1750's, Thomas Warton employing it in his Oxford Newsman's Verses, 1760. Coll. (and dial.), as is the derivative vbl.n., bully-, occ. bally-, ragging, recorded first in 1863 but doubtless used a century earlier. Etymology obscure: perhaps, semantically, to 'make a bully's rag of' (a person).

bully-rock or -rook. A boon companion: late C. 16-early 18: coll., as in Shakespeare.—2. Ca. 1650-1720, c., then low s. for a hired ruffian or 'a hoisterous, hectoring fellow', Martin's Dict., 1754. The rock form is not recorded before 1653 and may be in error for rook. B.E. has -rock, but B.E. contains a few misprints—some of which have been solemnly reproduced by other writers.

bully ruffian. A highwayman that, in attacking, uses many oaths and imprecations: late C. 17-18. B.E., Grose.

bully the troops!, don't. A military c.p. 'rebuke to anyone talking too loudly or too much': from ca. 1910. F. & Gibbons.

bully-trap. A mild-looking man the match of any ruffian: mid-C. 18-early 19. Grose, 1st ed.—2. In late C. 17-early 18 c., a sharper, a cheat. B.E.

bully up. To hurry, gen. in imperative: Up-pingham School: mid-C. 19-20; ob.

bulrush, seek or find a knot in a. To look for—or find—difficulties where there are none: late C. 16-18; coll. till ca. 1700, then S.E.

bulsh. See bull-shit.

bum. The posteriors: dating from M.E.; not abbr. bottom, which, in this sense, dates only from C. 18; proh. echoic: cf. It. bum, the sound of an explosion. Shakespeare, Jonson, Swift. This good English word began to lose caste ca. 1790, and ca. 1840 it > a vulg. and has been eschewed.—2. Abbr.

bum-bailiff: ca. 1660-1880 (but extant in Anglo-Irish for a sheriff's assistant): coll. Butler, 1663, 'Sergeant Bum'; Ned Ward, in The London Spy, 'The Vermin of the Law, the Bum.'—3. A child's, and a childish word, for a drink, drink!: coll., C. 16-17.—4. A birching: public schools', C. 19; cf. the C. 17-18 v., to strike, thump.—5. A beggar; a cadger: C. 20; ex U.S. See hobo; cf. v., 3.—6. See bum ball.

bum, v. To arrest: late C. 17-18. Ex bum, n., 2.—2. To serve with a county-court summons. C. 19-20; ob.—3. To beg (v.t. and i.), esp. as a tramp: low coll.: C. 20; ex U.S.—4. To boast: low (esp. in Glasgow): C. 20. Cf. bum the chat, lit. to boast about the thing.

bum, adj. Inferior, bad; reprehensible; dishonest: from ca. 1917: s. >, by 1930, coll.; orig. (1880's), U.S. Ex bum, n., 5.

bum. A coll. contraction of by my: ca. 1570-90. Edwards, 1571, 'Bum broth, but few such roisters come to my years.' O.E.D.

bum, on the. A-begging: C. 20. Ex U.S. See bum, n., 5.

bum, toe—occ. hoof—one's. To kick one's behind; 'chuck out'. Low coll.: from ca. 1870.

bum-bags. Trousers: low; from ca. 1855. See bags, n., 1. Prob. ex Warwickshire dial. (1840: E.D.D.).

bum-bailiff or baily. 'A bailiff of the meanest kind', Johnson. Recorded in 1601 (Shakespeare), it was coll. in C. 17, S.E. in C. 18-19; in C. 20, archaic. Blackstone considered it a corruption of bound bailiff, but prob. the term comes ex the constant and touching proximity of hailff to victim.

bum ball (1870); less gen. bum (1867). A cricketers' catachresis for a bump(-)ball. Lewis.

bum-bass. A violoncello: low coll.: late C. 18-19. Samuel Pegge in Anonymiana, 1809.

bum-baste. To beat hard on the posteriors: mid-C. 16-17. In C. 18-19 coll., to beat, thrash. From ca. 1860, dial. only. Cf. baste, q.v.

bum-beating, vbl.n. Jostling: C. 17; coll. Beaumont & Fletcher in Wit without Malice.

bum-boat. A scavenger's boat: C. 17-early 18: coll.—2. A boat carrying provisions or merchandise to ships lying in port or at some distance from the shore: s. (— 1769) > coll. >, by 1880, S.E.

bum boozier. A desperate drinker: theatrical (— 1909); ob. Ware.

bum-boy. A catamite: low coll.: late (? mid-) C. 19-20.

bum-brusher. A schoolmaster; an usher. From ca. 1700. Tom Brown, 1704; The New London Magazine, 1788, '... that great nursery of bum-brushers, Appleby School'; Blackwood's Magazine, Oct., 1832. Cf. slay-bottom.

bum card. A marked playing-card: ca. 1570-1620: gaming c., revived in C. 20. Northbrook, Treatise against Dicing, 1577; Rowlands, 1608.

bum-charter. Prison bread steeped in hot water: c. of ca. 1810-50. Vaux, 1812.

bum clink. Inferior beer: Midland Counties s., from ca. 1830; ob. (Clink, a ringing sound.) Cf. clink.

Bum Court. The Ecclesiastical Court: a low nickname: ca. 1540-90. O.E.D. Perhaps ex the members' long sessions on their backsides (see bum, n., 1.)

bum-creeper. 'One who walks bent almost double', F. & H. revised: low: late C. 19-20.

bum-curtain. (Cambridge University) a very short gown: 1835; †. Esp., until 1835, the Caius College gown; after that date, esp. the St. John's gown. See Charles Whibley's delightful Three Centuries of Cambridge Wit, 1889.

bum-feag(u)e, -feagle, -feg. To thrash, esp. on the posteriors: jocular coll.: late C. 16–early 17.

bum-fiddle. The posteriors: late C. 17–early 19, low. Cotton, Grose, Southey. For the pun, cf. ars musica. Fletcher, 1620, has 'bum-fiddled with a bastard', i.e. saddled with one: but bum-fiddle, v., is also used to mean: use as toilet paper: and dates from ca. 1550. The derivative bum-fiddler, † a fornicator, is C. 17 and rare. O.E.D.

bum-fidget. A restless person: C. 18–19, low coll.

bum-fighter; -fighting. A whoremonger; coition: low coll.: C. 18. D'Urfev, 1719.

bum-fodder. Trashy literature: from ca. 1720; S.E. till ca. 1800, then coll.; † by 1890. The Scots' Magazine, April, 1753.—2. Toilet paper: from ca. 1659; recorded by B.E. and Grose. Often, in C. 19–20, abbr. to bumf, q.v.

bum-freezer. An Eton jacket: C. 19–20, low. Cf. bum-perisher, q.v.

bum-jerker. A schoolmaster: low: C. 19–20; very ob. Malkin, 1809.

bum one's load. To lounge in the canteen while one waits for a comrade to come and pay for one's drink: military (— 1923). Manchon.

bum-perisher and -shaver. A short-tailed coat; a jacket. Cf. bare-bum, bum-curtain.

bum-roll. The C. 17 coll. equivalent of a bustle or dress-improver. Jonson in the Poetaster. Cf. bird-cage and cork rump.

bum-shop. A brothel; the pudendum muliebre: low: mid-C. 19–20; ob.

bum-suck; often bumsuck. V.i., to toady: coll.: late C. 19–20. Ernest Raymond, The Jesting Army, 1930.

bum-sucker. A toady, lick-spittle; a sponger, hanger-on. C. 19–20, low coll.

bum the chat. See bomb the chat and bum, v., 4.

bum-trap. A bailiff: mid-C. 18–early 19. Fielding in Tom Jones. Perhaps the origin of traps, police. Ex bum, n., 2, q.v.

bum up. To compliment (a person): military: from ca. 1925.

bumble; bumbler. A blunderer; an idler: resp. late C. 18–mid-19, mid-C. 19–20.—2. (Only bumble.) Hence, a beadle: first in Dickens's Oliver Twist, as a person's name, and then, 1856, any beadle: coll., soon S.E., as was bumbledom, stupid and pompous officiousness, 1856 +.

bumble. To fornicate: Restoration period. E.g. in Dryden's The Kind Keeper. Cf. bum-shop.

bumble and buck. The game of crown and anchor: military: 1915; ob. B. & P. (For an excellent and very interesting account of this game, see Stephen Graham, A Private in the Guards, 1919.)

bumble-crew. Corporations, vestries, and other official bodies: from ca. 1860; coll.

bumble-jar. A harmonium: naval: C. 20. Bowen. Cf. hum-box, q.v.

bumble-puppy. Family, i.e. inexpert, whist (— 1884): coll.; ob.—2. Also, ca. 1800–80, a public-house version of the ancient game of trouble-in-madame: coll. H. bumbles. Horses' blinkers: Northern coll., C. 19–20.

bumbo; occ. bombo. The female pudend: mid-

C. 18–19, West Indian; orig. a negroes' word. Grose, 1st ed.—2. A drink composed of rum, sugar, water, and nutmeg (Smollett, 1748: earliest record), or of brandy, water, and sugar. (Grose.) A Northern variation was made with gin. † by 1920; coll. passing to S.E. Cf. It. bombo, a child's word for a drink (S.O.D.), but prob. ex bum, childish for drink, after rumbo, q.v. (W.) N.B.: in America, it was occ. called mimbo and was there made of rum, hot water, and sugar (see W. E. Woodward, Washington, 1928); the same drink is served to-day as grog américain in certain cafés in Paris.

bumf. A schoolboys' and soldiers' abbr. of bum-fodder, toilet paper: mid-C. 19–20. Hence, from ca. 1870, paper: hence, the Wellington College bumf-hunt, a paper-chase. In G.W. +, chiefly among officers: 'orders, instructions, memoranda, etc., especially if of a routine nature, e.g. "snowed under with bumf from the Division"', B. & P.

bumf, v.i. and t. To crib by copying another's work: Charterhouse: late C. 19–20. Ex bumf, paper.—2. Hence, v.i., to listen to or butt in on the conversation of others: Charterhouse: C. 20.

bumfer. A boy given to cribbing from another's work: Charterhouse: late C. 19–20. Ex bumf, v., 1.

bumkin. 'A burlesque term for the posteriors.' C. 17. Nares, well-read lexicographer. Lit., a little bum: see bum, n., 1.

bummaree. A Billingsgate fishmarket middleman (— 1786): coll. till ca. 1800, when it > S.E. Etymology obscure; perhaps ex S.E. bottomry (1622): cf. Fr. bomerie, bottomry. Cf. the v.—2. A bain-marie: cooks' (— 1909). Ware. Cf. bang-Mary, q.v.

bummaree, v.i. and t. To retail fish on a large scale: mid-C. 19–20, coll. >, by 1900, S.E. Hence, vbl.n., bummareeing (it), such retailing: G. A. Sala, 1859. Ex preceding.—2. 'To run up a score at a newly opened public-house': ca. 1820–80. (E.D.D.)

bummer. A bum-bailiff: ca. 1670–1810.—2. A severe pecuniary loss: racing: ca. 1870–1914.—3. A beggar, a sponger, a loafer: orig. (1856), U.S.; anglicised ca. 1870. ? ex Ger. bummler, an idler; a tramp; esp. in C. 20, a beggar tramp.—4. A bombardier: military: C. 20; ob. F. & Gibbons.—5. An officer's batman: military: from 1916. Ibid.

bumming. A thrashing: schools, esp. Wellington College, C. 19–20; ob.—2. Vbl.n., loafing, sponging: from ca. 1895, orig. U.S.

bumming the chat. A variant of bombing the chat (see bomb . . .). F. & Gibbons.

bummy. (Cf. bummer.) A corruption of bum-bailiff, q.v.: C. 18–19.

bump. A human faculty: coll.: from ca. 1820. Ex bump, a cranial prominence as in phrenology: (1815) likewise coll., though in C. 20 almost S.E.

bump, v. To touch an opposing boat and thus win the race: Oxford and Cambridge. The intransitive is make a bump. From 1826. At first coll., but by 1870 both forms were S.E. The vbl.n., bumping (Thackeray, 1849) soon > S.E.; cf. bumping race, S.E., †.—2. A c. variant (from ca. 1915) of U.S. bump off, to murder (1910: O.E.D. Sup.). Wallace.—3. To meet; to accost aggressively: low Australian (— 1916). C. J. Dennis.—4. To shell (v.i. and t.): military: 1915; ob. F. & Gibbons. Ex the noise and the impact.

bump, feel (a person's). To know what he is thinking: coll. (— 1923). Manchon.

bump!, give your head a. Pull yourself together!; look lively!: military: C. 20. F. & Gibbons.

bump off. To kill, destroy, criminally: an Americanism anglicised by 1933. See, e.g. David Esdaile's article in The Daily Mirror, Nov. 18 of that year.

bump-supper. A supper to celebrate a college boat's success in Sloggers or Toggers, Mays or Eights: Cambridge, Oxford. From ca. 1860; coll. until C. 20, then S.E.

bumper. A full glass: from ca. 1660: in C. 18, coll.; thereafter S.E.—2. A crowded house: theatrical (1839, Dickens).—3. Anything very large: coll.: from ca. 1859. Cf. corker, thumper, whacker, whopper. (O.E.D.)—4. A bumping race: Oxford and Cambridge Universities: 1910. O.E.D. (Sup.). Perhaps ex:

Bumpers, the. The Bumping Races at: Shrewsbury School: late C. 19–20. Desmond Coke, The Bending of a Twig, 1906. On Sloggers and Toggers, qq.v.

bumping. Large: coll.: from ca. 1860; somewhat ob. Cf. bumper, 3.

bumping on the bottom. (Of market prices) that have reached their lowest level: Stock Exchange (— 1935). Ex boating.

bum(p)kin. See bumkin.

bumpology, bumposopher. The 'science' of cranial 'bumps'; one learned therein: jocular coll.: 1834, 1836. O.E.D.

bumps!, now she; what ho, she bumps! Excellent!; splendid!: coll.: resp. ca. 1895–1910, from ca. 1905. The former in F. & H. revised. Prob. ex boating.

bumpsie, -sy. Drunk: coll.: C. 17. Tarleton's Jest, 1611 (Halliwell). 'Apt to bump into people' is a possible suggestion as to origin.

bum's rush, get or give the. To be kicked out, or to kick out: low: C. 20. E.g. in John G. Brandon, The One-Minute Murder, 1934.

bumptious. Self-assertive: coll.; from ca. 1800. Mme. D'Arblay, Dickens. Other senses, S.E.: the same applies to bumptiousness (Hughes, 1857) and bumptiously (M. Collins, 1871). Prob. ex bump, a sudden collision or a dull heavy blow, on some such word as fractious. (O.E.D.)

Bums, Cherry. (Military) the 11th Hussars. C. 19–early 20. Ex their cerise trousers; but cf. cherubim.

bumsuck. See bum-suck.

bun. A familiar coll. for the squirrel: from late C. 16.—Perhaps hence, 2, a coll. endearment: C. 17–19. Cf. bunny, 3.—3. In C. 17–19, the puerum muliebrem (cf. Grose, 2nd ed., 'To touch bun for luck; a practice observed among sailors going on a cruise'), ex the Scottish and Northern dial. sense the tail of a hare, hence, in Scottish, the 'tail' of a person.—4. A familiar name for a rabbit: coll.: late C. 18–20. Grose, 3rd ed. (Not merely dial. as the O.E.D. implies.) Abbr. bunny.—5. A harlot: Glasgow (— 1934). Prob. ex sense 3.

bun or cake, take the. To obtain first honours; 'beat the band'. While cake is orig. U.S.; anglicised ca. 1885, take the bun is an English derivative: from the early 1890's. Also take the biscuit, hence take the Huntley and Palmer. In Australia, ca. 1895–1905, capture the pickled biscuit.

bun-feast or -fight. A tea-party: late C. 19–20 coll. Cf. crumpet-scramble, muffin-worry.

bun-house, over the. On public assistance: dockers: from ca. 1930. The Daily Herald, late July or early Aug., 1936. As if getting food from the bakery.

bun for luck, touch. The C. 18–19 (? †) nautical practice of effecting an intimate caress (bun, 3) before going on a (long) voyage.

bun-puncher or -strangler. A teetotaller: military: late C. 19–20; ob. Resp. Frank Richards and F. & Gibbons. Ex preference of buns to beer.

bun-struggle or -worry. A tea-party for sailors or soldiers: military and naval: from ca. 1870. In C. 20, the struggle form is ob. Cf. tea-fight.

bun-wallah. A variant of bun-puncher. F. & Gibbons. Cf. char-wallah.

bunce (the predominant C. 19–20 spelling), bunse, bunt(s). Money: C. 18–early 19. D'Urfeys spells it buns. In mid-C. 19–20 it = (costermongers') perquisites; profit; commission; Mayhew spells it bunse and bunts. In C. 20, almost coll. and still = profit, but more esp. and gen. an unexpected profit or commission or receipt of money. Mayhew pertinently proposes derivation ex sham L. bonus, q.v.—2. At Edinburgh High School (— 1879), he who, when another finds anything, cries bunce! has a traditional, though ob., claim to the half of it: whence stick up for your bunce = claim one's share, stand up for oneself.

buncer. A seller on commission: from ca. 1860. † by 1930.

bunch. A group or gang of persons: from ca. 1905: s. >, by 1936, coll. (C.O.D., 1934 Sup.)

bunch. To abandon (esp. a job): Canadian: from ca. 1910. Perhaps orig. of a group of men leaving in a bunch: cf., however, Warwickshire dial. bunch, v.i., to hurry away (E.D.D.).

bunch, best of the. The best of them all, 'the lot': C. 20; coll.

bunch of fives. The hand; fist: pugilistic (— 1823). Egan's Groser; Lytton, 1847; Charles Reade, Punch, 1882, 'his dexter bunch of fives'. Cf. fives.

bunch of snarls. See snarls.

bunco. See bunko.—buncombe. See bunkum.

bund. A dam; a dyke: Anglo-Indian coll.; from ca. 1810.—2. An embanked (sea-shore) quay: Anglo-Chinese (— 1875). Ex Persian.

bundabust. Preparations; preliminary arrangements: Regular Army: late C. 19–20. F. & Gibbons. Ex Hindustani band-o-bast, a tying, a binding.

bunder-boat. A boat used either for communicating with ships at anchor or for purely coastal trade: on the Bombay and Madras coast. Anglo-Indian coll. (— 1825). Ex Hindi bandar, a harbour, ex Persian. As for bund, see Yule & Burnell.

bundle. A considerable sum of money: racing coll.: C. 20. Cf. packet. O.E.D. (Sup.).—2 A wife: naval. See bundle-man.—3. A fight: workmen's (— 1935) and criminals (— 1936).

[bundle, v., and bundling, vbl.n., in reference to the semi-sexual sleeping custom, long †, of Wales and New England, first recorded in 1781, are, despite H. and F. & H., clearly S.E.]

bundle, drop one's or the. To surrender; abandon hope; become frightened: Australian (— 1914). C. J. Dennis. Prob. abbr. drop one's bundle and run.

bundle-man. A married seaman: lower-deck: nautical: from ca. 1890. Frazer & Gibbons. 'Apparently suggested by the small bundle tied up with a blue handkerchief which married seamen in a Home Port usually take ashore with them when going on leave.'

bundle of ten. Army blankets, because rolled in tens: military: late C. 19–20. F. & Gibbons.—2. A packet of ten cigarettes: id.: C. 20. Ibid. Cf. blankets, q.v.—3. The tens in a pack of cards: id.: id. Ibid.

bundle off. To send away hurriedly: from ca. 1820; coll.; from 1880, S.E.

bundle-tail. A short lass either fat or squat: late C. 17–18. B.E.

bundook; occ. bandook or barndook; even, says Manchon, bundoop. A rifle; earlier, a musket; earlier still, cross-bow. Ultimately ex the Arabic banadik, Venice, where cross-bows were made. (Native Egyptians still call Venice Bundookia.) The Regular Army stationed in India used the term as early as C. 18, and in the G.W. it > fairly common. In the Navy, a big gun (C. 20. Bowen). Yule & Burnell; B. & P. Whence:

bundook and spike. A Regular Army term, from ca. 1850, for rifle and bayonet. See the preceding entry.

bung. A brewer; a landlord of a 'pub', esp. in sporting circles; (nautical) a master's assistant superintending the serving of grog. From ca. 1850; all senses ob. Hence, bung-ball, the annual dance held by the brewers: London trade (—1909). Ware.—2. In c. of mid-C. 16–early 19, a purse. Harman, Greene, Grose. Cf. A.-S. and Frisian pung, a purse (O.E.D.).—3. Hence, in c. or low s. of late C. 16–17, e.g. in Shakespeare, a cutpurse. Hence bung-knife, late C. 16, is either a knife for purse-slitting or one kept in a purse.—4. (Also bung-hole.) The anus: low: late C. 18–20.—5. Only in tell a bung, to tell a lie: schoolboys' (—1887); ob. Baumann. Perhaps the corruption of a noted liar's surname.—6. Cheese: military: C. 20: military. Ex its costiveness. Also bung-hole and bungy. F. & Gibbons.

bung, v. Gen. as bung up, to close up the eyes with a blow: C. 19–20 coll., esp. among boxers. But in C. 16–early 18, S.E., and applicable to mouth, ears, etc., and fig.—2. Often as bung over, to pass, hand (over), give; (not before C. 20) to send (a person, e.g. into the Navy; or a thing, e.g. a letter to the post): coll. Shakespeare, Beaumont & Fletcher.—3. To throw forcibly: dial. (—1825) >, ca. 1890, s. Echoic: O.E.D. (Sup.).—4. To deceive with a lie: C. 19. Cf. cram, stuff.

bung, adj. Drunk; fuddled: a Scottish low coll.: C. 18–20; ob. Ramsay. ? 'bung-full'.

bung, adv. Heavily; 'smack': coll.: late C. 19–20. Esp. (go, etc.) bung into. Kipling.—2. Precisely, absolutely: coll.: C. 20. Manchon, 'He's bung in the fairway.'

bung, go. To explode, go to smash: from ca. 1860; ob.—2. Hence, mainly in Australia, slightly in New Zealand, to fail, esp. to go bankrupt: from ca. 1880: prob. influenced by go bong or bung, to die, a 'pidgin' phrase (—1881) ex East Australian aborigine adj. bong, bung, dead: cf. Humpty(-)Bong, lit. the dead houses, a suburb of Brisbane. Morris.

bung-ball. See bung, n., 1.

bung-eyed. Drunk; fuddled: low: mid-C. 19–20, ob. Mayhew. Ex Scottish bung, tipsy.—2. Hence, cross-eyed: low: from ca. 1860; slightly ob.

bung-ho! Au revoir!; occ., good-bye!: from ca. 1925. (D. Sayers, 1933, 'Cheerio, Mary dear.

Bung-ho, Peter.) Perhaps on cheer-ho.—2. Also as an upper-class toast: 1928, D. Sayers, The Unpleasantness at the Bellona Club. Perhaps with a reference to the bung of liquored casks.

bung in it, put a. See put a bung in it.—bung-hole. See bung, n., 4 and 6.

bung-juice. Beer; porter. C. 19–20 (ob.) c. Ex bung, a stopper for casks.

bung-nipper. A cutpurse. In mid-C. 17–18, c.; in C. 19 low s. Ex bung, n., 2.

bung off. To depart: from ca. 1905. John G. Brandon, 1931, 'He . . . bunged off, respected by everyone.' Cf. pop off.

bung one's eye. To drink heartily: mid-C. 18–early 19. Hence, to drink a dram: late C. 18–early 19. Grose, 2nd ed. I.e. till one's eyes close.

bung-starter. Nautical: (a) the captain of the hold; (b) an apprentice serving in the hold. Both (—1867) are ob.

bung up and bilge free. Everything aboard in excellent order: nautical: late C. 19–20. Bowen. Ex proper storing of barrels.

bung upwards, adv. On his face; prone: late C. 18–19 (orig. brewers'). Grose, 2nd ed. Suggested by arse upwards, q.v., or by bung-hole, the anus.

bunga, bungy. Punga (the stem of the black fern): New Zealand coll.: mid-C. 19–20. Morris.

bungaloid, adj. Infested with bungalows; esp. in bungaloid growth after fungoid growth. Coll. quickly promoted to S.E.; from ca. 1926.

bungalow, top of the bleeding. See top of the house.

bungaree or -rie. A public-house: low: ca. 1870–1920. Ware. Ex bung, n., 1.

Bungay! go to. Go to hell! C. 19; mostly dial. Bungay is a township in East Suffolk; it has vestiges of a castle built by that aristocratic family, the Bigods.

Bungay fair and broke(n) both his legs, he's been to. He's drunk; he got drunk: C. 19 coll. Cf. preceding entry and breaky-leg.

bungery. A tavern: mostly London (—1909); ob. Ware. Cf. bung, n., 1. Also bungaree, q.v. bungie; bungy. A typist's eraser: typists' (—1935). Cf. dial. bungy, anything short and thick.

bungie-bird. Pejorative for a friar: late C. 16–early 17. Cf. Greene's Friar Bacon and Friar Bungay. (O.E.D.)

bungler. 'An unperforming Husband', B.E.: C. 17–18; coll.

bungole. A frequent New Zealand military corruption of bung-hole: in G.W.

bungs. A ship's cooper: mid-C. 19–20 nautical. Bowen. Also Jimmy Bungs.

bungy. See bung, n., 6, bunga and bungie.

bungy man. A physical-training instructor; naval: C. 20. Bowen. Ex india-rubber man.

buniony. Lumpy in outline: art: 1880; ob. Ware. Ex 'a union breaking up the "drawing" of a foot'.

bunjie or -jee. An officer instructor of physical training: naval: C. 20. F. & Gibbons.

bunk. Nonsense: abbr. bunkum, q.v. C. 20, ex U.S.—2. The sisters' sitting-room at the end-entrance to a hospital ward: nurses': late C. 19–20.

bunk, v. To decamp: from early 1890's: orig. low; in C. 20, near-coll. The Referee, Feb. 16, 1885.—2. Hence, to absent oneself from: from ca. 1890. R. H. Mottram, 1934, 'I'll bunk my class and take you for a walk.'—3. At Wellington College: to expel; ca. 1870–1915.—4. bunk (it), to sleep in a bunk: coll. Orig. and mainly U.S.: anglicised ca. 1886.

bunk, do a. To depart hastily: from ca. 1865. Cf. bunk, v., 1.

bunk, do a. See also do a bunk.

Bunk, the. Head Office: busmen's, esp. in London: from ca. 1930. The Daily Herald, Aug. 5, 1936. A comfortable billet.

bunk in with. To 'share a bivvy or a funk-hole' with (another soldier): Canadian military coll.: from 1914. B. & P. Ex bunk, v., 4.

bunked, be or get. To be expelled: Shrewsbury School: late C. 19–20. Desmond Coke, The Bending of a Twig, 1906. Ex bunk, to depart. Cf. bunk, v., 3.

bunker. Beer: ca. 1850–1910. H., 3rd ed. ? ex bona aqua or ex coal-bunker, from which one 'coals up'.—2. A feast in a low lodging-house: low (— 1887). Baumann. Perhaps ex sense 1.

bunker-cat. A low-class fireman: Canadian nautical: late C. 19–20. Bowen.

bunker-plate with spanner. A tin of sardines with patent opener: naval: C. 20. F. & Gibbons.

bunkered, be. To be in a situation difficult of escape: coll.: 1890 (O.E.D. Sup.) Ex golf. Cf. stymied.

Bunkey Boo. General Sir J. M. S. Bunker: military: C. 20. F. & Gibbons. Anecdotal.

bunko. (Of persons) shifty; disreputable: seaports' (esp. Liverpool), from ca. 1905, ex U.S. Cf.:

bunko-steerer. A swindler, esp. at cards: orig. (— 1876), U.S.; anglicised ca. 1895, but never at all gen. Ex bunko, occ. bunco, a swindling card-game or lottery.

bunkum or buncombe. In England from ca. 1856; ex U.S. (— 1827). In C. 19, coll.; in C. 20, S.E. and rarely spelt buncombe. Talk, empty or 'tall'; humbug; claptrap; insincere eloquence. G. A. Sala, 1859: '... "bunkum" (an Americanism I feel constrained to use, as signifying nothingness, ineffably inept and irredeemably fire-perforated windbaggy, and sublimated cucumber sunbeams...)' Ex Buncombe County, North Carolina. See esp. Thornton, O.E.D., S.O.D.

bunky. Awkward; badly finished: Christ's Hospital, C. 19–20; ob.

bunnick (up). To settle; dispose of; thrash: Cockney: ca. 1880–1914. Punch, July 17, 1886, 'We've bunnicked up Gladsting' (Gladstone); Baumann. Perhaps cognate with bunker (in bunkered, q.v.).

bunny. A rabbit: in C. 17 s., then coll. The S.O.D. records at 1606; B.E. has it.—2. In C. 20, an occ. variant of rabbit, a very poor player of any given game.—3. Also, C. 19–20, a nickname, as for H. W. Austin, England's most classical lawn tennis player since the Dohertys.—4. The female pudend: C. 18–20. D'Urfey, 1719. Diminutive of bun, 3, q.v.

bunny-grub. Green vegetables: Cheltenham College: mid-C. 19–20. Cf. grass and:

bunny's meat. The samo: nautical: late C. 19–20. Bowen.

buns, bunse. See bunce.

bunt. An apron: late C. 18–early 19. Grose, 2nd ed. Ex the S.E. bunt, the bag- or pouch-shaped part of a net or a sail.—2. See bunce. Ca. 1850–1900. Mayhew.

bunt, v. Knock; butt; 'to run against or jostle', Grose, 2nd ed. Except when used of animals, this (— 1788) is coll. and dial. Perhaps ex butt + bounce (or bunch), as the O.E.D. suggests.

bunt fair. Before the wind: nautical coll.: late C. 19–20. Bowen.

bunter. A low, esp. a low thieving, harlot: from ca. 1700. Ned Ward, 1707, 'Punks, Strolers, Market Dames, and Bunters'; Goldsmith, 1765. In this sense until ca. 1900. Perhaps ex bunt; i.e. a sifter of men, not of meal.—2. Derivatively, ca. 1730–1900, any low woman. Attributively in Walpole's Parish Register, 1759, 'Here Fielding met his bunter Muse.'—3. (Semantically, cf. sense 1.) A gatherer of rags, bones, etc.: from ca. 1745. Dyche's Dict., 1748; Mayhew.—4. A woman that, after a brief sojourn, departs from her lodgings without paying: ca. 1830–1900. Mayhew. Too early to be ex bunk, to depart; cf. senses 1 and 3.

bunting. A coll. endearment, esp. as baby bunting: from ca. 1660. Perhaps ex Scottish buntin.

bunting time. Late C. 17–mid-18, coll.: 'when the Grass is high enough to hide the young Men and Maids', B.E. Cf. bunt, v., q.v.

bunting-tosser; occ. bunts or buntin(g). A signaller: naval (1905); ob. (O.E.D. Sup.) Ware, 'Signals are small flags made of bunting.'

buntling. (Gen. pl.) A petticoat: late C. 17–early 19 c. B.E. Ex bunt, n., q.v.

bunts. See bunce and bunting-tosser.

buntuck. A New Zealand soldiers' variant of bundook (q.v.): in G.W.

Bunty. The inevitable nickname of any short man: military: late C. 19–20. F. & Gibbons. Ex dial. (and U.S.) bunty, short and stout.

buoy, round the. (To have) two helpings from a dish: nautical: C. 20.

bup. See:

bupper. Bread and butter: children's, whence lower classes': C. 19–20. By 'infantile reduction', says Ware, who notes the occ. abbr. bup.

Bups; B.P. (General) Baden-Powell: 1900 (Ware).

Burberry or -bury. Burbure in France: military in G.W. (F. & Gibbons.)

burble. To talk continuously with little pertinence or sense: C. 20. Cf. the C. 16–17 S.E. burble, to make a bubbling sound.

Burdon's Hotel. Whitecross Street Prison: o. ca. 1850–1910. Ex a Governor named Burdon.

burerk. See burick.

Burford bait. See take a Burford bait.

burg. A town; a city: coll., U.S. partly anglicised (thanks to the 'talkies') by 1932. C.O.D., 1934 Sup. Ex Ger.

Burglar. (Gen. pl.) A Bulgarian: military: in G.W. (F. & Gibbons.)

burgoo, burgue. Oatmeal porridge: from ca. 1740; in C. 19, coll.; in G.W., military s. Marryat, Sala. In G.W., the Tommy preferred the latter pronunciation, the Australians the former: the 'Aussies', moreover—prob. on a rhyming-s. basis—occ. used it loosely for stew (stoo). Ex burghul, Turkish for wheat porridge. Whence:

burgoo-eater. A Scottish seaman: nautical: late C. 19–20. Bowen.

burick, occ. burerk. At first (— 1812), a prostitute, a low woman: c. Vaux. From ca. 1850, a lady, esp. if showily dressed: low. Mayhew, 1851. From ca. 1890 the word has increasingly meant, chiefly among Cockneys, a wife, 'old woman'. The etymology is obscure; but burick may perhaps be found to derive ex the Romany burk, a breast, pl. burkaari, or to be a corruption of Scots bure, a loose woman, recorded by E.D.D. for 1807.

burke. To dye one's moustaches: military, ca. 1870–80. Dyed for uniformity, the semantic key being burke, to smother, as did the celebrated criminal executed in 1829. (Burke, to hush up, from ca. 1840, was at first a coll. development from its natural meaning, to strangle or suffocate, which arose in 1829.)

burn, in c., = to cheat, swindle: C. 17–18. (Extant in dial.) Cf. burn the ken, q.v.

burn, one's ears. To feel that somebody is speaking of one: coll.; from ca. 1750, but in other forms from C. 14 (e.g. Chaucer).

burn (a hole) in one's pocket. Of money and gen. preceded by money: to be eager to spend one's money, a definite sum often being mentioned. Coll.; 1768, Tucker, concerning children, 'As we say, it [money] burns in their pockets', O.E.D.

burn-crust. A baker: mid-C. 18–20; jocular, coll. rather than s. Grose, 1st ed.

burn daylight. Lit., have a light burning in the daytime, hence to waste the daylight. At first (ca. 1587), coll.; soon S.E. Shakespeare, in Romeo, 'Come, we burn daylight.' Apperson.

burn-fire. A C. 18–19 corruption, either sol. or catchphrase or dial.: a bonfire.

burn it blue. To act outrageously (?): C. 18. Swift in Stephen and Chloe. (O.E.D.)

burn my breeches, like dash my wig!, is a jocular oath. Both are in Moore's Tom Crib.

burn one's or the candle at both ends. To work early and late, or to work early and pursue pleasure till late, in the day. From ca. 1650. Coll. > S.E. by 1800. Ex the Fr. phrase recorded in England as early as Cotgrave.—2. (Only . . . the . . .) To be very wasteful: coll.: mid-C. 18–20. Smollett. (Apperson.)

burn one's fingers. To incur harm, damage by meddling. From ca. 1700. Coll. > S.E.

burn oneself out. To work too hard and die early. C. 19–20 coll. > S.E. by 1900.

burn the ken. To live at an inn or lodging-house without paying one's quarters: C. 18–early 19: c. A New Canting Dict., 1725; Grose, 1st ed. Cf. burn the town.

burn the parade. To warn for guard more men than are necessary and then excuse the supernumeraries for money—ostensibly to buy coal and candles for the guard: mid-C. 18–early 19, military. Grose (Captain and Adjutant of Militia), 1st ed.

burn the planks. To remain long seated. Coll. verging on S.E.: from ca. 1840; ob. Carlyle. (O.E.D.)

burn the Thames. To do something very remarkable: coll.: Wolcot, 1787; ob. A jocular variation of set the Thames on fire.

burn the town. (Of soldiers and sailors) to leave a place without paying for one's quarters: late C. 17–18. B.E. Cf. burn the ken, q.v.

burn the water. To spear salmon by torchlight. From ca. 1800; s. > coll. by 1850, S.E. by 1890.

burn you! Go to hell!: (low) coll. (— 1887); ob. Baumann. Ex dial., where it occurs as early as 1760 (E.D.D.). burned, burnt, ppl. adj. Infected with venereal disease. Late C. 16–20, ob.; coll. Shakespeare's pun in Lear, 'No heretics burned, but wenches' sultors'; B.E., 'Poxt, or swingingly Clapt'. Cf.

the mid-C. 18–early 19 sailors' 'be sent out a sacrifice and come home a burnt offering', of catching a venereal disease abroad (Grose, 1st ed.).

burner. A card-sharper: C. 18 (? earlier) o. Ex burn, q.v.—2. A sharp blow or punch: c.: C. 19. Baumann. Ex the tingle it causes.—3. See:

burner, burning. A venereal disease: the latter (coll. > S.E.) from ca. 1750; the former (s. > coll.) from ca. 1810 (Lex. Bal.) and ob.

burner of navigable rivers, be no. To be a simple or a quite ordinary person: mid-C. 18–early 19. Grose, 2nd ed. Cf. burn the Thames.

burning, vbl.n. Smoking: training-ships': late C. 19–20. Bowen.

burning, adj. A coll. euphemism (— 1923) for bloody; ob. Manchon.

burning shame. 'A lighted candle stuck into the private parts of a woman', Grose, 1st ed.: low: mid-C. 18–early 19. Punning the stock phrase.—2. 'Having a watchman placed at the door of a bawdy-house, with a lantern on his staff, in the daytime, to deter persons from going in and out', Egan's Grose: low: ca. 1820–40.

burnt, n. See spots on burnt.—2. Adj. See burned.

burnt cinder. A window: rhyming s. (— 1914) on winder.

burnt offering. See burned.—2. Food, esp. meat, that has been allowed to burn: jocular coll.: late C. 19–20.—2. Roast meat: naval: C. 20. Bowen.

buero or brew. An employment-exchange: Public Works' coll.: from ca. 1924. I.e. bureau.

bur(r). A hanger-on, a persistent 'clinger': late C. 16–20; until ca. 1750 (B.E. has it) it was coll., then it > S.E.; slightly ob.

bur(r), v. To fight; scrimmage; 'rag'. Marlborough College: mid-C. 19–20, ob.

burp-pump. The old manual bilge-pump: nautical coll.: mid-C. 19–20; ob. Bowen. Because it so often 'stuck'.

burra, adj. Great, big; important, as burra sahib. Chiefly in India: from ca. 1800.

burra beebee. A lady claiming, or very apt to claim, precedence at a party: Anglo-Indian: recorded in 1807; ob. In Hindi, lit. great lady. Yule & Burnell.

burra khana. Lit., big dinner, it = a great, gen. a solemn, banquet: Anglo-Indian (— 1880).

burra mem. The chief lady at a station: Anglo-Indian (— 1903). Lit. burra, great, + mem, white lady. See mem and mem-sahib; cf. burra beebee.

burrow. To hide; live secretly or quietly. From ca. 1750. Coll. in C. 18, then S.E. The S.O.D. quotes 'to burrow in mean lodgings', Marryat.

burst. A burglary: c. (— 1857); ob. 'Ducange Anglicus'.—2. A 'spree'; a hearty meal. Esp. on the burst, on the spree: Blackwood's, 1880; Praed, 1881, in Policy and Passion. Coll.—3. (Sporting) a spurt (— 1862): coll. >, by 1900, S.E.—4. Hence (?), the 'outpour of theatrical audiences about [11 p.m.] into the Strand'; London police: 1879; ob. Ware.

burst, v. To drink, v.t. with pot, cup, bottle, etc.: coll.: from ca. 1850; †.—2. To spend extravagantly: from ca. 1890. See burst, v., 3.

burst at the broadside. To break wind: drinkers': ca. 1670–1850. Ray. (Apperson.)

burst him (her, etc.)! Confound him: low coll. (— 1887); ob. Baumann.

burst one's crust. To break one's skin: boxers': ca. 1800–80. Ware.

burst up. To be greatly perturbed, angered, excited: coll.; late C. 19–20; ob.

burst. Burst (past tense and ppl.): since ca. 1800, dial. and, other 'ise, sol.

buster. Bread: low (— 1857); † by 1920. 'Ducange Anglicus'.—2. An exhausting physical effort: coll.; rather rare. Recorded in 1851. O.E.D.—3. (Racing) a heavy fall, 'cropper': from ca. 1860; ob.—4. (Australia) a violent gale from the south, esp. at Sydney: from ca. 1870; coll.; rare for (southerly) buster.—5. See buster.

Burton-on-Trent. The rent one pays: rhyming s.: from ca. 1880. P. P., Rhyming Slang, 1932. Often abbr. to Burton.

bury a moll. C. and low: to run away from a mistress: from ca. 1850. H., 1st ed. Perhaps suggested by dial. (— 1847) burying-a-wife, 'a feast given by an apprentice at the expiration of his articles', Halliwell.

bury a Quaker. To defecate, evacuate: orig. and mainly Anglo-Irish: from ca. 1800. F. & H., at bury, gives a long list of synonyms.

bury the hatchet. (In C. 14–18, hang up the hatchet.) To swear peace, become friendly again. Ex U.S. (ca. 1784), anglicised ca. 1790 as a coll. that, in C. 20, has > S.E.; Wolcot uses it in 1794. Ex a Red Indian custom. (Apperson.)

bus. Abbr. business: in the theatrical sense. From ca. 1850. (Pronounced biz.)—2. Abbr. omnibus: from 1832. In C. 20, coll. On March 13, 1935, by the edict of the London Transport Board, bus > the standard word (to the exclusion of omnibus); pl. buses. (Fowler considered busses 'sure to come'.) Harriet Martineau, Dickens, Thackeray, Black the novelist.—3. (A) dowdy dress: society: 1881; † by 1920. Ware. I.e. a dress suited only to that conveyance.—4. Enough! stop!: Anglo-Indian coll. (— 1853). Ex Hindi bas. Yule & Burnell.—5. An aeroplane: 1913 (O.E.D. Sup.).—6. A motor-car (or even a motor-bike: Lyell): not among mechanics, says Richard Blaker: from ca. 1920. Cf. sense 2.

bus, v. Also bus it. To go by bus: coll.; 1838 (O.E.D.).

bus! See bus, n., 4.

bus, miss the. To lose one's opportunity: coll.: from ca. 1915. C. J. Dennis.

bus-bellied Ben. An alderman: East London: ca. 1840–1910. Ware. Ex tendency to corpulence.

bus-napper and b.-n.'s kinchin. See buzz-napper.

bush. Either any or some special so-named tavern where a 'pigeon' is plucked: c. of ca. 1585–95. Greene.—2. The cat-o'-nine-tails: c.: from ca. 1890. O.E.D. (Sup.).

bush or bush it. To camp in the bush: from ca. 1885; not much used.—2. be bushed, be lost in the bush (— 1856); hence, 3, to be lost, at a loss: from ca. 1870; all three are Australian coll. Both voices occur in B. L. Farjeon's In Australian Wilds, 1889. With sense 3, cf. the early C. 19 c. bushed, penniless, destitute.

bush, beat or go about the. To go deviously (fig.): coll., from ca. 1550; the latter † by 1850; the latter S.E. in C. 20.

bush, go. To go wild: Australian coll.: C. 20. Ion L. Idriess, Lasseter's Last Ride, 1931, 'Most of their camels "had gono bush".'

bush, take to the. To become a bushranger: Australian coll.: ca. 1835–90.

bush baptist. A person of uncertain religion: Australian and New Zealand (— 1910) mostly; but orig. English, it being used by soldiers in the Boer War—witness J. Milne, The Epistles of Atkins, 1902.

bush-cove. A gypsy: c. (— 1823); † by 1900. 'John Bee', 1823, says, 'From their lodging under hedges, etc.'

bush lawyer. A layman fancying he knows all about the law—and given to laying it down: Australian coll.: from early 1890's. H. G. Turner, 1896 (Morris). See also lawyer.

bush-ranger. A convict, later anyone, living on plunder in the Australian bush: recorded in 1806: coll. soon > S.E. Now usually bushranger.

bush-scrubber. 'A bushman's word for a boor, bumpkin, or slatternly person': Australian coll.: 1896. Morris. Ex the scrub, whence such a person may be presumed to have come.

bush-whacker. Australian, ex U.S.: an axeman, feller of trees, opener of new country; hence, in C. 20, one who lives in the (more remote) country districts. The orig. sense has > S.E., the latter remains Australian coll.

bushed. See bush, v., 2. Cf. Bushy Park, at.

bushed on, vbl. adj. Pleased; delighted with. C. 19.

bushel and peck. The neck: rhyming s.: late C. 19–20. B. & P. bushel bubbly. A woman with large, full breasts: low: mid-C. 18–19. Grose, 1st ed. Ex bushel, a large quantity, + bubby, a woman's breast.

bushy. A dweller in 'the bush' or remoter country districts: Australian coll.: from late 1890's.

Bushy Park. A lark (lit. and fig.): rhyming s. (— 1859). H., 1st ed.—2. The female pubic hair: low: from ca. 1860. Hence, take a turn in Bushy Park, to possess a woman.

Bushy Park, at; in the park. Poor: c.: from ca. 1810; virtually †. Vaux.

Business. Busenes in France: Western Front military in G.W. (F. & Gibbons.)

business. Sexual intercourse: C. 17–18, coll. Taylor the Water Poet, 1630, 'Lais . . . asked Demosthenes one hundred crownes for one night's businesse'.—2. (Theatrical) dialogue as opp. to action: S.E., late C. 17–early 18; but from ca. 1750, as in The World, 1753, and Scott, in 1820, it has meant by-play and as such it is coll.—3. A matter in which one may intervene or meddle: late C. 17–20; coll.—4. In deliberately vague reference to material objects: coll.: 1654, Evelyn; 1847, Leigh Hunt, 'A business of screws and iron wheels'. Cf. affair. O.E.D.—5. A difficult matter: coll.; from ca. 1840. Carlyle, 'If he had known what a business it was to govern the Abbey . . .', 1843.

business, do one's (for one), v.i. and t. To kill; cause death of. From ca. 1660; S.E. until ca. 1800, then coll.

business, mean. To be in earnest: coll.: 1857, Hughes (O.E.D.).

business, mind one's own. To abstain from meddling in what does not concern one. Coll. From ca. 1860; earlier, S.E. (O.E.D.). business, send about one's. To dismiss, send packing, just as go about one's business = to depart. In C. 17–18, the latter, S.E.; in C. 19, both coll.; in C. 20, both S.E.

business end, the. The commercial part of a firm's activities: coll.: late C. 19–20. From na.

1910, this use of end has been extended: thus one can speak of the selling and the buying end of a retail business.—2. The part that matters: coll.: C. 20. E.g. the business end of a sword is the point or the blade. Ex:

business end of a tin tack, the. The point of a tack: U.S. (— 1882), anglicised in 1883 (The Daily News, March 27). Ware. Cf. get down to brass tacks.

busk. To sell obscene songs and books in public-houses; whence busking, such occupation, and busker, such vendor. Orig.—prob. the 1840's, though not recorded till the '50's—vagrants' and always low. Mayhew, London Labour and the London Poor, vols. I and III. Prob. ex C. 18–20 S.E. busk, to go about seeking, influenced by a corset-busk; cf. nautical busk, to cruise as a pirate.—2. Hence, 'to perform in the street': grafters': C. 20. P. Allingham, Cheapjack, 1934.

busk !, both ends of the. See both ends . . .

busker. A man that sings or performs in a public-house: c. (— 1859). H., 1st ed. Cf. busk q.v.—2. Hence, an itinerant: c. or low s. (— 1874). H., 5th ed.

Busky. A frequent nickname of men surnamed Smith: naval and military: late C. 19–20. F. & Gibbons.

busnack; gen. as vbl. n. To pry; to interfere unduly, be fussy: naval: late C. 19–20; ob. Prob. ex the buzz of a fly. Whence buzz-nagger, q.v.

buss. A variant of bus, n., 2. H., 1st ed.

buss. A scholarship or bursary: Aberdeenshire s., not dial.: 1851, Wm. Anderson, Rhymes, Reveries and Reminiscences. E.D.D. (Sup.). Perhaps because as pleasant as a kiss.

buss-beggar. A harlot, old and of the lowest: low coll.: C. 17–19.—2. Specifically, 'an old superannuated fumbler, whom none but' beggar-women 'will suffer to kiss them', Grose, 1st ed.: low coll.: C. 18—early 19.

burst. Sol. for burst, n. and v. Apparently unrecorded in England before 1830, Dickens being one of the earliest sources: Oliver Twist (busting, adj.); Nicholas Nickleby, 'His genius would have busted'; Martin Chuzzlewit, 'Keep cool, Jefferson . . . don't bust'; Two Cities, 'Bust me if I don't think he'd been a drinking!'

burst, n. A frolic, spree, drinking-bout: esp. as go on the burst, orig. (— 1860) U.S., acclimatised ca. 1880. Cf. burst.—2. In c., a burglary: ca. 1850–1910. See also burst, n., 1.

burst, v. To bust; explode: sol. except when jocularly deliberate. Dickens, 1838.—2. To put out of breath: from ca. 1870. E.g. in Taking Out the Baby, a broadside ballad of ca. 1880.—3. In c. (occ. as burst), to rob a house, v.t., rarely v.i.; also, v.i., to inform to the police, whence the vbl. n., busting. Both C. 19–20, the latter ob.—4. To degrade a non-commissioned officer: military coll.: late C. 19–20.

burst ! Dash it !: New Zealanders': C. 20. Also bust it ! Cf. bust me, q.v.

burst, all in a. Very excited: lower classes' (— 1923). Manchon.

burst, do a. To break into a place: C. 20 c. Charles E. Leach. Cf. bust, v., 3.

bust-maker. A womaniser; a seducer. Low coll.: C. 19. Ex the bosom's enlargement in pregnancy and punning the S.E. sense.

bust me ! A mild oath: non-aristocratic: 1859, Dickens. Also bust it !, bust you (or yer) !

bust up. (Or hyphenated.) A great quarrel, 'row', or excitement: 1899, Kipling: coll. now on verge of S.E. (O.E.D. Sup.)

busted, or gone bust. Ruined: coll.: late C. 19–20. Lyell.

buster, burster. A small new loaf; a large bun. Until ca. 1850, the form is gen. burster; after, buster. Burster occurs in Moncrieff's Tom and Jerry, buster in H., 1st ed., and Hindley's Cheap Jack. Ob.—2. (Buster only:—) Anything of superior size or astounding nature: orig. (— 1850), U.S., anglicised ca. 1859 (witness H., 1st ed.), e.g. in Dickens's Great Expectations.—3. In c., a burglar: ca. 1845–1910.—4. A spree, rarely except in in for a buster, determined on or ready for a spree: orig. U.S.; from ca. 1858 in England (cf. bust, n.); ob.—5. Hence, a dashing fellow: low: from ca. 1860; ob.—6. (Australian) a southerly gale with much sand or dust, esp. at Sydney: coll., from ca. 1880. Much earlier and more gen. as southerly buster. Cf. brickfielder.—7. A piece of bread and butter: schoolboys': C. 20. Cf. sense 1. Gen. in pl.—8. (Gen. buster.) 'A very successful day or season': grafters': from ca. 1880. Philip Allingham, Cheapjack, 1934. Ex sense 2. buster, a. Adv. Hollow; utterly: low: ca. 1885–1910. See quotation at molrowing.

buster, come a. To fall, or be thrown, heavily from a horse: coll.: Australian (— 1888).

buster, old. See old buster.—busters. See buster, 7.

bustle. A dress-improver. Recorded in 1788 and presumably coll. for a few years before becoming S.E., as in Dickens, Miss Mitford, Trollope.—2. Money: from ca. 1810. At first c., but fairly gen., low s. by ca. 1860; ob. Vaux, Hotten.

bustle, v. To confuse; perplex: coll., from ca. 1850. Cf. the transitive S.E. senses.

Busy. See Bizzy.

busy, occ. busy fellow. A detective: c.: C. 20; mostly American. Edgar Wallace's crime stories; Charles E. Leach.

busy, get. To become active: coll.: U.S. (1905), anglicised by 1910. O.E.D. (Sup.).

busy as a bee in a treacle-pot. Very busy: coll. (— 1923). Manchon.

busy as a hen with one chick. Anxious; fussy; ludicrously proud: C. 17–20 (ob.); proverbial coll. Shirley, 1632; Grose.

busy as the devil in a high (in mid-C. 19–20, often in a gale of) wind. In a great flurry: low coll.: from ca. 1780; ob. Grose, 2nd ed.

busy-sack. A carpet-bag: coll.: from ca. 1860; ob. H., 3rd ed. Cf. American grip-sack.

but, for that, after it is not unlikely, impossible, etc., is sol.: from ca. 1660.—2. but, expressing 'mere surprise or recognition of something unexpected', as in 'I say ! but you had a narrow escape,' 'Excuse me ! but you have smut on your nose,' is coll.: from ca. 1850.—3. For the conjunctive but that generates a redundant negative (for but properly = that . . . not), see Fowler.—4. When placed at the end of a sentence, as however often is, but is coll. verging on sol.: C. 20. E.g. 'I didn't do it but !'

but . . . however, where either but or however (not both) is needed, is catachrestic: mid-C. 19–20. Fowler.

but what. In e.g. 'I don't know but what . . .', = but that. Coll.: C. 19–20; earlier, S.E. (Fowler.)

butch. To be a butcher, act as or like a butcher. In late C. 18—early 19, S.E.; thereafter, and still, dial.; but in non-dial. circumstances it is, from ca. 1900, coll. (cf. buttle, q.v.): so too with the vbl.n. butching.

butcha. A baby, a young child: Anglo-Indian (— 1864). H., 3rd ed.; Manchon. Ex Hindustani.

butcher. The king in playing-cards. Orig., ca. 1850, and, though ob., still mainly public-house s. Cf. butch, n., 4.—2. Stout (the drink): public-houses': from ca. 1890. Ware. Butchers are often fat.—3. In G.W., ex C. 19 c.: a medical officer.—4. A slop-master: artisans': ca. 1850–1900. Mayhew.

butcher! Mid-C. 18—early 19, nautical and military: a jocular comment (on need of bleeding) when a comrade falls down. Grose, 1st ed.

butcher about. To make a din; humbug or fool about. Wellington College: late C. 19–20, ob. Perhaps a euphemism for bugger about.

butcher and bolt. See bolt, butcher and.

butchering, adj. and adv. Far; much; great(ly); low: from ca. 1870; ob. E.g. 'a butchering sight too forward' (J. Greenwood). Cf. bloody and other violences. Baumann.

butcher's. See butcher's hook.

butcher's bill. The casualty list of a battle, esp. of those killed: coll. (— 1881). Occ. for the monetary cost of a war: coll. (— 1887). If this term, in either sense, is employed sarcastically and indignantly, it is then, for all its cynicism, rather S.E. than coll.

butcher's dog, be or lie like a. To 'lie by the beef without touching it; a simile often applicable to married men', Grose, 2nd ed. Low coll.: late C. 18—early 19.

butcher's (hook). A look: rhyming s.: late C. 19–20. B. & P.—2. (Adj.) Angry: Australian rhyming s.: C. 20. On crook and gen., as sense 1, in abbr. form.

butcher's horse by his carrying a calf so well, that must have been a. A c.p. jest at the expense of an awkward rider. So Grose, 2nd ed.; Ray, in English Proverbs, 2nd ed., 1678, gives it in a slightly different form. Coll.: C. 17–20; ob.

butcher's jelly. Injured meat: lower classes': 1887, The Standard, Sept. 24 (E.D.D.). butcher's meat. Meat had on credit and not yet paid for: late C. 18–19 jocular punning the S.E. sense of the phrase. Grose, 3rd ed.

butcher's mourning. A white hat with a black mourning hat-band: from ca. 1860; ob. H., 3rd ed. Apparently ex butchers' distaste for black hats.

[butler-English. 'The broken English spoken by native servants in the Madras Presidency . . . thus I telling = "I will tell"; I done tell = "I have told; done come = "actually arrived" . . . Masters as well as servants used it: C. 18–20; ob. by 1903. Yule & Burnell.]

butler's grace. A 'thank-you' but no money: coll.: 1609, Melton; † by 1700. Apperson.

butt. A buttock; also the buttocks: low coll. in C. 19–20 after being, in C. 15–17, S.E. (Also dial. and U.S. coll.)

butt in. To interfere; interrupt: v.i. V.t., butt into, rare. From ca. 1895; coll. >, by 1920, S.E.

butt-notcher. A sniper: military: 1915–18. F. & Gibbons. Ex the tally of his victims kept by notches on his rifle-butt.

butteker. A shop: late C. 18–19. Prob. ex Fr. boutique or Sp. bodega. Cf. buttiken, q.v.

butter. An inch of butter: C. 18–19 Cambridge. E.g. in pl., 'Send me a roll and two butters.' Grose who, in 2nd ed., corrects the Oxford of the 1st.—2. Fulsome flattery, unctuous praise, 'soft soap'. From ca. 1820; coll. Blackwood's Magazine, 1823, 'You have been daubed over by the dirty butter of his applause.' Cf. the slightly earlier buttering-up.

butter, v. In c. and low, to increase the stakes at every game or, in dicing, at every throw: ca. 1690–1840. B.E.; Grose.—2. Flatter, or praise, unctuously or fulsomely. Coll.; from late C. 19. Congreve, in the Way of the World, 1700: 'The squire that's buttered still is sure to be undone.' Coll.; S.E. by 1850.—3. 'To cheat or defraud in a smooth or plausible manner', A New Canting Dict., 1725: c.: C. 18.—4. To whip; from ca. 1820; ob. Gen. as buttered, past ppl. passive.—5. To miss (a catch): cricket: 1891. Lewis. Ex butter-fingers.

butter and cheese of, make. To humbug; bewilder: C. 17; coll. Cf. Gr. τυφένειν. (O.E.D.)

butter-and-eggs. 'The feat of butter-and-eggs consists in going down the [frozen] slide on one foot and beating with the heel and toe of the other at short intervals,' Macmillan's Magazine, Jan., 1862. Coll. Cf. knocking at the cobbler's door, q.v.—2. A popular, i.e. (when not sol.) coll., name for flowers of two shades of yellow, esp. toadflax and narcissus: from ca. 1770. (S.O.D.)

butter-and-eggs trot. A short jig-trot: coll.; mid-C. 18—early 19. Ex market women's gait. Grose, 3rd ed.

butter-bag or -box. A Dutchman: C. 17—early 19. Dekker and B.E. have the latter, Howell the former. ? ex Holland as a formerly important butter-producing country, or rather ex 'the great quantity of butter eaten by people of that country', Grose, 1st ed.

butter-boat, empty the. To lavish compliments; also, to battle. Coll.; from early 1860's. A butter-boat is a table vessel in which one serves melted butter.

butter-box. A full-lined coasting brig: nautical coll., orig. (— 1840) U.S.; anglicised ca. 1850; ob. Bowen.—2. A Dutch ship or seaman: nautical coll.: C. 19–20; ob. Ibid. Cf. butter-bag, q.v.—3. See 'Fops' in Addenda.—4. See 'Regional names' in Addenda.

butter-churn. A turn (on the stage): music-halls' rhyming s. (— 1909). Ware.

butter-coloured beauties. 'A dozen or so pale yellow motor-cabs' appearing in 1897: London: 1897. Ware. Cf. margarine messes.

butter dear, don't make. A jape addressed to patient anglers: mid-C. 18—early 19. Grose. The origin of the phrase is (fortunately, I suspect) obscure.

butter-fingered. Apt to let things, esp. (1841) a ball, slip from one's hand: coll. Meredith in Evan Harrington. Ex:

butter-fingers. One who lets things, esp. a ball, slip from his grasp. Coll.; Dickens, 1837; Hood, 1857, 'He was a slovenly player, and went among the cricket lovers by the sobriquet of butter-fingers.'

butter-flap. A trap, i.e. a light carriage: rhyming s. (— 1873). Ob.—Also (— 1859), but † by 1870, a cap. H., 1st ed. Cf. baby pap.

butter-mouth. A Dutchman: pejorative coll.: mid-C. 16–19. Cf. butter-bag, q.v.

Butter-Nut. A soldier in the Southern Army in the American Civil War: 1863 and soon anglicised. Ex the brownish-grey uniform.

butter one's bread on both sides. To be wasteful. Coll.; from ca. 1660.

butter-print. A child, esp. if illegitimate: Fletcher, 1616; † by 1800. Cf. buttercup. (O.E.D.)

butter-queen and -whore. A scolding butter-woman: coll.; resp. C. 17 (H. More), late C. 16–18 (Nashe, T. Brydges).

butter-slide. A very slippery ice-slide: children's coll.: late C. 19–20. Collinson.

butter the fish. To win at cards: from ca. 1920. Manchon.

butter upon bacon. Extravagance; extravagant; domestic coll. (— 1909). Ware.

butter-weight. Good measure: ca. 1730–1900. Coll. Swift, 1733, 'Yet why should we be lac'd so strait? I'll give my monarch butter-weight.' (O.E.D.) Ex b.-w., formerly 18 (or more) ounces to the pound.

butter when it's hot, it will cut. Of a knife that is blunt. Coll. from ca. 1860.

butter will stick on his bread, no. He is always unlucky: C. 17–19; coll. B.E.; Scott. With cleave: C. 16–17.

butter would not melt in one's mouth, (look) as if. (To seem) demure. Coll. from the 1530's; Palsgrave (O.E.D.), Latimer, Sedley, Swift, Scott, Thackeray. In reference to women, Swift and Grose add: yet, I warrant you, cheese would not choke her, the meaning of which must be left to the reader who will look at cheese.

buttercup. A child. A pet name: coll. Mrs. Lynn Linton, 1877. From ca. 1865; ob.

buttered bun(s). A mistress: ca. 1670–90, as in W. Cullen, 1679, in reference to Louise de Quérouaille.—2. (In C. 19–20 only buttered bun.) A harlot submitting sexually to several, or more, men in quick succession: late C. 17–20; slightly ob. B.E.; Grose, 1st ed., 'One lying with a woman that has just lain with another man, is said to have a buttered bun.'—3. (buttered bun.) 'A Man pretty much in Liquor', A New Canting Dict., 1725: low: ca. 1720–60.—4. See 'Dupes' in Addenda. Matthews, however, may err in distinguishing it from sense 3.

butterfly. A river barge: nautical; from ca. 1870; ob. Ironical.—2. The reins-guard affixed to the top of a hansom cab: cabmen's, from ca. 1870; ob. Coll.; in C. 20, S.E.

butterfly boat. A paddle (esp. if excursion) steamer: nautical: mid-C. 19–20. Bowen. Ex the 'wings'.—2. Hence, a cross-Channel leave boat (esp. Southampton–Le Havre): military: 1915–18. F. & Gibbons.

buttering-up. Fulsome flattery or praise: coll., ca. 1815–60. Tom Moore, 1819, 'This buttering-up against the grain'.

buttery. Addicted to excessive flattery: from ca. 1840; coll. passing to S.E. Cf. butter, v., 2.—2. The adj. to butter-fingers, q.v.: cricketers' coll.: 1864. Lewis.

buttery Benjie. A Scottish Universities s. synonym for bejan, q.v.: from ca. 1840; ob.

buttiken. A shop: c. (— 1857); † by 1890. 'Ducange Anglicus.' While ken = a place, butti prob. = Fr. boutique.

[buttie in Collinson is Northern dial. rather than coll. (A piece of bread and butter.)] butting. An obscure C. 16 endearment: coll. Sketon. Perhaps cognate with bunting.

buttinski. An inquisitive person: Australian (— 1926) and English (— 1933). Jice Doone. Ex U.S. pun on butt in.

buttinski, v.i. To interrupt, esp. when one's presence is undesired: New Zealand soldiers': 1915.

buttle. To act or serve as a butler: in C. 20 coll. Earlier, dial. Cf. † suttle ex suller.

buttock. A low whore: ca. 1660–1830: c. Head, Shadwell, B.E., Grose.

buttock and tongue. A shrew. C. 18–19. ? punning c. buttock and twang (late C. 17–early 19), a common prostitute but no thief (also a down buttock and sham file, Grose, 1st ed.) and perhaps glancing at c. buttock and file (late C. 17–early 19: B.E.), a prostitute that is also a pickpocket; if in the latter c. phrase sham is inserted before file, the sense of the former c. phrase is obtained.

buttock and trimmings. See rump and dozen.

buttock-ball. A dance attended by prostitutes. Low coll.: late C. 17–early 19. Tom Brown, 1687. Cf. ballum-rancum. See buttock.—2. Human coition: late C. 18–early 19. Grose, 1st ed. Here the reference is doubly anatomical.

buttock-banqueting. Harlotry: coll.: C. 16–early 17.

buttock-broker. A procuress; the proprietress or manager of a brothel; a match-maker. Late C. 17–early 19; low. B.E., Grose. In the first two senses, buttock = a harlot, in the third a cheek of the posteriors.

buttock-mail. A fine imposed for fornication: Scottish pejorative coll.: C. 16–19. Lyndesay, Scott.

buttocking-shop. A low brothel: low: C. 19. Lex. Bal. Also buttocking-ken: c.: C. 19.

button. A shilling: good, ca. 1840–1900; counterfeit, from ca. 1780; orig. c., then low; †. Grose, 1st ed. Cf. Brummagem buttons.—2. An illicit decoy of any kind: from ca. 1840; c. and low. Mayhew.—3. A baby's penis: low: C. 19–20.

button, v. Decoy, v.t.; v.i., act as an enticer in swindles. From ca. 1840; ob. C. and low. Cf. button, n., 2.

button, have lost a; be a button short. To be slightly crazy: proletarian: late C. 19–20; ob. F. & H., revised.

button, not to care a (brass). Not to care at all. Coll.: C. 15–20. Cf. rap.

button, take by the. To button-hold. C. 19–20. Coll., soon S.E. button-boy. A page: coll.; from ca. 1875. Cf. boy in buttons.

button-bung. A button thief: 'old', says F. & H.; prob. C. 17.

button-bu(r)ster. A low comedian: theatrical, from ca. 1870; ob. It is the audience that suffers.

button-catcher. A tailor: mostly nautical: from ca. 1870; ob. Cf. snip.

button-hole. Abbr. button-hole flower(s) or bouquet. Recorded in 1879. Coll.—2. The female pudend: low: mid-C. 19–20. Hence button-hole worker, working, penis, coition, and button-hole factory, a brothel, a bed.

button-hole, v. To button-hold, i.e. to catch hold of a person by a button and detain him, unwilling, in conversation. Orig. (— 1862) coll., in C. 20 S.E. and displacing button-hold.

button-hole, take one down a; occ. take a b.-h. lower. To humiliate; to de-conceit: coll.: from late C. 16. Shakespeare.

button-holer. A tedious detainer in conversation: C. 20; coll., soon to > S.E.—2. A button-hole flower: coll. App. first in Punch, Nov. 29, 1884 (O.E.D.).

button loose, (have) a. (To be) silly, crazy, slightly mad: military: C. 20. F. & Gibbons. Ex buttons on one, q.v.

Button-Maker, the. King George III: London nickname: ca. 1765–1800. Ware.

button on, have a. To be despondent; temporarily depressed. Tailors', from ca. 1860; ob.

button on to. To get hold of (a person), to button-hole (him); to cultivate (his) company: 1904, Charles Turley. Perhaps ex buttonhole (v.) + cotton on to.

button-pound. Money, esp. cash: provincial s., ca. 1840–1900. Extant in dial., whence prob. it came.

button short, be a. See button, have lost a. button up. To refrain from admitting a loss or disappointment: coll.; from ca. 1890. Ex U.S. stock-broking (1841).

buttoner. A decoy (see button, v.): c. >, ca. 1870, low; from ca. 1839. Ob. Brandon; Blackwood's Magazine, 1841; Cornhill Magazine, 1862.

buttons. A page: coll.: 1848, Thackeray. Ex numerous jacket-buttons. Cf. boots.—2. The warden or superintendent: work-houses' (—1887). Baumann.

buttons, boy in. A page: from ca. 1855; coll. until C. 20, when S.E. buttons!, dash my. A coll. and often jocular exclamation of surprise or vexation: ca. 1840–1914. (O.E.D.)

buttons, have a soul above. To be, actually or in presumption only, superior to one's position: coll.: C. 19–20. Adumbrated in Colman, 1795, luminous in Marryat and Thackeray.

buttons, it is in one's. One is bound to succeed: coll.: late C. 16–18. Shakespeare, 1598, 'Tis in his buttons, he will carry 't.' O.E.D.

buttons, one's arse or breech makes. Also make buttons (C. 17–19). To look or be sorry, sad, in great fear: coll.; mid-C. 16–early 19. Gabriel Harvey, captious critic, laborious versifier, and patterning prosateur; playwright Middleton; Grose, 3rd ed., 'His a-se makes buttons,' he is ready to befoul himself through fear; in Ainsworth's Latin Dict., 1808, we find his tail maketh buttons (O.E.D.). Apperson. Ex buttons, the excreta of sheep.

buttons (on or on one), not to have all one's. To be slightly mad; weak-minded. Mid-C. 19–20; ob. H., 2nd ed. In dial. the affirmative form, indicative of great shrewdness, is common.

buttons on, put one's. To 'bet one's shirt' on; hence, to trust absolutely in: military (—1923). Manchon.

butty. A comrade, a mate; a policeman's assistant (†). Coll. and dial.: from ca. 1850. Henry Kingsley, 1859. Either from mining, where butty = a middleman, or from Romany booty-pal, a fellow workman, or, most prob., ex Warwickshire butty, a fellow servant or labourer (Rev. A. Macaulay, History of Claybrook, 1791). See esp. O.E.D., F. & H., and Words! at 'Terms of Address'; also Irwin.

buvare. Any drinkable: Parlyaree and low: from ca. 1840. Cf. beware, q.v.

buxie. An occ. variant of baksheesh, q.v.

Buxton limp. 'The hobbling walk of invalids taking the waters': Society, esp. at Buxton: 1883–ca. 1890. Ware. On Alexandra limp, q.v.

buy. A purchase; an opportunity to purchase: Stock Exchange coll.: from ca. 1925. In Time and Tide, Sept. 8, 1934, 'Securitas' writes thus: '[Anglo-Dutch rubber] looks . . . one of the soundest of the solid buys, as opposed to the exciting gambles, in the market.'

buy, v. To incur, hear, receive, be 'landed with' (something unpleasant) with one's eyes open or very credulously: C. 20. Cf. ask for it.—2. To wangle (something): military: 1915; ob. F. & Gibbons.

buy a brush. See brush, buy a.

buy a prop! The market is flat (with no support): Stock Exchange, ca. 1880–1900.

buy a pup. See pup, buy a.

buy a white horse. To squander money: nautical: late C. 19–20. Bowen. Ex the fleeting splendour of a 'white horse' wave.

buy and sell. To betray for a bribe: coll. verging on S.E.: C. 18–19.—2. To be far too clever for (a person): coll.: C. 20.

buy, on the. Actively buying: commercial coll.: 1929; earlier in U.S.A. (O.E.D. Sup.)

buy it!, I'll. Tell me the answer or catch: c.p.: from ca. 1905. Ex buy, v., 1, q.v.

buy money. To bet heavily on a favourite: racing: C. 20. Ex the short odds. (O.E.D. Sup.)

buy one's boots in Crooked Lane and one's stockings in Bandy-Legged Walk. To have crooked or bandy legs: a mid-C. 18–early 19 c.p. Grose, 3rd ed.

buy one's thirst. To pay for a drink: U.S., anglicised in 1884; virtually † by 1909. Ware.

buy oneself out. To get oneself discharged: Australian c.: 1932, The Melbourne Age, April 29. Ironic.

buyer. A 'fence', a receiver: C. 20 c. Charles E. Leach.

buz(z). A parlour and a public-house game, in which the players count 1, 2, 3, 4, etc., with buz(z) substituted for seven and any multiple thereof: coll., then, by 1900, S.E. From ca. 1860; ob. Miss Allcott, Little Women, 1868.—2. (Gen. the buzz.) In c., the picking of pockets: late C. 18–early 19. Cf. buzz, v., 2.—3. A rumour: naval coll.: late C. 19–20. Bowen. Ex ob. S.E. buzz, a busy or persistent rumour.

buz(z), v.t. Drain (a bottle or decanter) to the last drop. Coll.: late C. 18–19. Germ in Grose, 1785; clearly in The Gentleman's Magazine, 1795; Moneriff; Thackeray. ? booze, corrupted. See buzza. In C. 19, to share equally the last of a bottle of wine, when there is not a full glass for each person.—2. V.i. and t., to pick pockets: from ca. 1800: c., then—ca. 1860—low. Whence the late C. 18–19 c. terms, buz(z)-man, buz(z)-gloak, buzz-bloke or -cove, and buzz-napper, a pickpocket.—[buzz, v.] 3. To cast forcibly, throw swiftly: coll.: 1893, Kipling, 'Dennis buzzed his carbine after him, and it caught him on the back of his head' (O.E.D. Sup.).—4. To pass by, esp. buzz the bottle: University: C. 20.—5. Often buzz off. To depart; esp. to depart quickly: from ca. 1905. Edwin Pugh, The Cockney at Home, 1914.

buzz-box. A motor-car: from ca. 1930. (The Passing Show, May 12, 1934.)

buz(z)-faking. Pocket-picking. C. 19 c. Ware has buz-faker.

buz(z)-gloak. See buzz, v., 2.

buz(z)-man. See buzz, v., 2.—2. More gen., however, an informer: c. (— 1864). H., 3rd ed.

buzz-nagger. A too talkative person: military: C. 20. F. & Gibbons.

buz(z)-nappers' academy. A school for the training of thieves: late C. 18—mid-19 c. George Parker, 1781; see, e.g., Oliver Twist.

buz(z)-napper's kinchin. A watchman: late C. 18—early 19 c. Grose, 2nd ed.

buzz off. See buzz, v., 5. An occ. variant is buzz away.

buzz-wag(g)on. A hydro-glider, 'attaining a high speed with an aeroplane engine and propeller': naval: 1916. Bowen.—2. A motor-car: 1923, Manchon.

buzza. An early form of to buzz, sense 1: late C. 18 only. Grose, 1st ed.: 'To buzza one is to challenge him to pour out all the wine in the bottle into his glass, undertaking to drink it', i.e. the whole of the wine, 'should it prove more than the glass would hold; commonly said to one who hesitates to drink a bottle that is nearly out'. In the 3rd ed., he adds: 'Some derive it from bouze all, i.e. drink it all.'

buzzard. A stupid, ignorant, foolish, gullible person: C. 14—19, extant in dial. B.E. gives as s., S.O.D. as S.E.; prob. it wavered between coll. and S.E. before it > dial. Often, in C. 18—20, in form blind buzzard. Ex buzzard, a useless hawk.

buzzed, be. To be killed: military: late 1914; ob., F. & Gibbons. Ex the buzz of a bullet.

buzzer. A whisperer of scandal and gossip: C. 17—18; coll. Shakespeare.—2. A pickpocket: from ca. 1850; c. and low; ob. Cf. buz-napper. Ex buzz, v., 2.—3. A motor-car: non-aristocratic: 1898 (Ware); † by 1920.—4. A signaller by Morse: military coll.: from ca. 1910. F. & Gibbons.—5. A wireless rating: naval: from ca. 1922. Bowen.

buzzing. Pocket-picking: c. (— 1812). Vaux. See buzz, v., 2.

buzzy. Crazy: ca. 1880—1914. F. Brett Young, in Jim Redlake, 1930, 'Ladylike poses and high-class music and scenery that sends you buzzy' (a description of Russian ballet). Lit., making one's head buzz.

[by occurs in many oaths, strong or (e.g. by golly) mild, blasphemous or ludicrous or innocuously senseless. Although many of these are neither s. nor coll., some of the funny or witty ones are coll. or s.: c.g. by the jumping Moses, by the living jingo, by my bootlaces. The psychology of oaths is akin to that of s., but that fact does not make an oath necessarily s. See Words !; also Slang; also, esp., Robert Graves, Lars Porsena, 1927.]

by (properly agential) is in C. 20 used more and more for the merely instrumental with; it is a pity that this useful distinction—L. a(b) and cum—is disappearing.—2. In South African coll.: late C. 19—20. E.g. 'He is by', he is in, 'the house.' Ex Dutch bij, by, with, in. Pettman.

by and by. Presently; soon. C. 16—20; coll., but S.E. (though not dignified) after ca. 1700.

by the by(e). Incidentally. In conversation only. C. 18—20; coll. > S.E. So, too, by the way.

by the wind. In difficulties; short of money: C. 19—20 (ob.), nautical.

by-blow. A bastard: late C. 16—20; coll. till ca. 1800, then S.E. Robert Browning, 'A drab's brat, a beggar's bye-blow'. Cf.:

by-chop. A bastard: C. 17—18; coll. Ben Jonson. Cf.:

by-scape. A bastard: mid-C. 17; coll. verging on S.E. Cf.:

by-slip. A bastard: late C. 17—18; coll. soon > S.E. 'Ungracious by-slips', Hacket, 1693, in the Life of Williams, one of the great biographies.

bye! or 'bye! Good-bye!: C. 20 coll. Henry Handel Richardson, in The New Statesman and Nation, March 31, 1934.

bye-bye. A sound made to induce sleep in a child: coll.: C. 17—20. Hence go to bye-bye, orig. an imperative, > go to sleep, fall asleep; go to bed: C. 19—20; coll. In C. 20, often go (to) bye-byes.

bye-bye! Good-bye! C. 18—20; coll. Recorded in 1709.

bye-byes! Good-bye! But go to bye-byes is to go to sleep. C. 20. Both occur, e.g., in H. A. Vachell, Martha Penny, 1934.

bye-commoner. One who mistakenly thinks he can box: pugilistic: ca. 1820—50. 'Jon Bee', 1823. Ex commoner, 2.

by(e)-drink or -drinking. A drink, gen. stronger than tea, at other than meal-times. From ca. 1760; coll., but S.E. in C. 19—20; ob.

bymeby. See bimeby.

Byng boys, the. The Canadian troops: Canadian military: 1917—18. Ex Lord Byng, commanding them in 1917, and 'The Bing Boys Are Here', a very popular revue. F. & Gibbons; B. & P.

byte. See bite, of which it is a frequent C. 17—18 spelling.

C

C or c. Abbr. of racing c. cop, v., q.v.—2. But with the c is put against that horse of which, besides the favourite, bookies should be careful: C. 20.

C.B. A confinement to barracks: military j.: >, in C. 20, also coll. Ex Confined to Barracks.

C.H. A conquering hero: coll.: Nov., 1882; † by 1915. Ware. Ex the frequent playing, to soldiers returned from the Egyptian War, of 'See the Conquering Hero Comes.' (Like hero in the G.W., C.H. soon > derisive among the soldiers.)

C.M.A.R. (, the). The Royal Army Medical Corps, the reversed initials representing 'can't manage a rifle': a jocular c.p. of 1915—18. F. & Gibbons.

c.o.d. (or C.O.D.), a or that's a. A military c.p. applied to a heavy gun just fired: 1915—18. F. & Gibbons. I.e. 'there would be the deuce to pay'—cash on delivery—when the shell landed.

c.p. or C.P. A euphemistic abbr. (— 1923) of cunt-pensioner, q.v. Manchon.

C.-T. See cock-teaser.

C.T.A. The police: circus and showmen's: from ca. 1860. Origin?

C3. Inferior; highly unfit: coll.: 1915+. Ex the G.W. classification of physical fitness, C3 being the lowest.—2. A 'bradbury' (q.v.): military (esp.

Australian) in G.W. Ex the emaciated figure of St. George.

ca'-canny. Adj., applied to an employee's policy of working slowly, 'going slow'. Coll., recorded in 1896 and, since 1918, considered as S.E. Ex Scottish; lit., call shrewdly, i.e. go cautiously.

ca sa or ca-sa. See casa, 1.

cab. Abbr. cavalier influenced by Sp. caballero: ca. 1650-1710. Coll. (S.O.D.).—2. Abbr. cabriolet, a public carriage, two- or four-wheeled, seating two or four persons, and drawn by one horse, introduced into England in 1820, the term appearing seven years later, at first s., then soon coll., then by 1860 S.E. Occ., a cab-driver (1850, Thackeray: O.E.D.). Also, from ca. 1910, an abbr. of taxi-cab: coll.; comparatively rare.—3. A brothel: ca. 1800-50. Lex. Bal.: 'How many tails have you in your cab? i.e. how many girls have you in your bawdy house?' Prob. ex cabin.—4. (Universities' and Public Schools') from ca. 1850 as in 'Cuthbert Bede', Verdant Green, 1853: 'Those who can't afford a coach get a cab,'—one of this author's best puns—'alias a crib, alias a translation'. Ex cabbage, n., 5, q.v.—5. The second gig of the Conway: Conway Training Ship s., in the 1890's. Masefield.

cab; gen. cab it, v. To go by cab: coll.; from ca. 1830; Dickens has it in Pickwick Papers; ob.—2. (Schoolboys') to use a crib: from ca. 1855. Like the corresponding n., ob. by 1930. Ex cabbage, v., 2.—3. To pilfer: schoolboys' (—1891); ob. Perhaps ex Scots: see E.D.D.

cab-moll. A harlot professionally fond of cabs and trains: low; ca. 1840-1900.

Cabal. The English ministry of 1672: Clifford, Arlington, Buckingham, Ashley, and Lauderdale; coll. nickname. Ex Cabal as applied by Pepys in 1665 to the junto of the Privy Council: itself ex cabal, intrigue: ex Hebrew. W.

cabbage. Pieces of material filched by tailors; small profits in the shape of material. After ca. 1660, coll.; by 1800, S.E. Randolph, 1638; Dyche, 1748; Grose, 1st ed.; Cobbett, 1821. Perhaps ex garbage: see O.E.D. and F. & H. Cf. hell.—2. A tailor: late C. 17—early 19. B.E.—3. A late C. 17 mode of dressing the hair similar to the chignon: coll., ca. 1680-1720, as in the anon. Mundus Muliebris, 'Behind the noddle every baggage | Wears bundle "choux"', in English cabbage.—4. A cigar, esp. if inferior: coll.: from ca. 1840, ob. Punch's Almanack, Aug. 12, 1843, punningly: 'The cigar dealers, objecting to their lands being cribbed, have made us pay for the cabbage ever since.'—5. A translation or 'crib': from ca. 1850; schoolboys'; ob.—6. The female pudend: C. 19-20, ob. Cf. greens.—7. (The Cabbage.) The Savoy Theatre: 1881; slightly ob. Ware.—8. A 'chap' or 'fellow': ca. 1750-70. Johnson, 1756, in the Connaisseur (quoted by O.E.D.), 'Those who . . . call a man a cabbage, an odd fish, and an unaccountable muskin, should never come into company without an interpreter.' Suggested by the Fr. mon chou (as endearment).

cabbage, v. To purloin: orig. and mainly of tailors: from ca. 1700; soon coll. and by 1800 S.E.; Arbuthnot, in John Bull, 1712.—2. (Schoolboys') to 'crib', from ca. 1830, recorded 1837: this precedes the n. cabbage, whence cab, a 'crib'. Vbl.n., cabbing: pilfering; cribbing: C. 19-20; ob.

cabbage-contractor. A tailor: low (perhaps c.): C. 19. Ex cabbage, n., 1.

cabbage-garden patriot. A coward: political coll.: 1848-ca. 1910. Ware. William Smith O'Brien (1803-64) led, in the summer of 1848, a pitiable insurrection in Ireland; his followers having fled, he successfully hid for several days in a cabbage-patch.

Cabbage Gardens, the. Victoria (Australia): Australian nickname: from ca. 1920.

cabbage-gelder. A market gardener; a green-grocer: late C. 19-20; ob.

cabbage-head. A fool: coll.: from ca. 1660. A broadside ballad of ca. 1880: 'I ought to call him cabbage-head, | He is so very green.' In F. & H., a synonymy.

cabbage-leaf. An inferior cigar: from ca. 1840; ob. Cf. cabbage, n., 4.

cabbage-looking. See green as I'm cabbage-looking, not so.

Cabbage Patch, the. 'That little triangle of grass behind the Admiralty Arch which they call the Cabbage Patch': London vagrants': C. 20. James Curtis, The Gilt Kid, 1936.

cabbage-plant. An umbrella: c.: ca. 1820-60, Egan's Grose, where also summer cabbage.

cabbage-stump. A leg: C. 19-20; gen. in pl. Cf. drumstick.

cabbage-tree. A hat, large, low-crowned, broad-brimmed, made from cabbage-tree leaves: Australia: from ca. 1850; †. Morris.

cabbage-tree mob; cabbagites. Roughs: Australian, ca. 1850-80. Ex their cabbage-palm hats. This word gave way to larrikin(s), q.v. Lt.-Col. G. C. Mundy's Our Antipodes, 1852. Morris.

cabbager. A tailor: C. 19-20; ob. See cabbage, n., 1 and 2.

cabbagites. See cabbage-tree mob.

cabber. A cab-horse: 1884; coll. The Times, Oct. 27, 1884. (O.E.D.)

cabbie, cabby. A cab-driver: coll.; from ca. 1850. Smedley, 1852, in Lewis Arundel; Yates, in Broken to Harness. Ex cab, n., 2.

cabbing. (Vbl.n. ex cab, v., 2.) The use of a crib: esp. at Shrewsbury School. See notably Desmond Coke's wholly admirable school-story, The Bending of a Twig, 1906.

cabin-cracker, -cracking. A thief breaking into a ship's cabins; the act or action: nautical (—1887). Baumann.

cabin-window, through the. (Of an officer obtaining his position) entirely through influence: naval officers': late C. 19-20. Bowen. Opp. hawse-pipe, q.v.

Cabinetable. Fit to belong to the Cabinet: political and journalistic coll.: 1896 (O.E.D. Sup.).

cabble. Abbr. telegram: coll.: 1883; in C. 20 virtually S.E.—2. V.i., seldom t., to send a telegram by cable: recorded for 1871: coll., but almost imm. S.E. (S.O.D.)

cable, slip one's. See slip one's cable.

cable-hanger. An illicit catcher of oysters: C. 18-20; coll.; ob. Defoe in his Tour Through Great Britain.

cable has parted, one's. One dies: nautical coll. (—1887). Baumann.

cable home about, nothing to. Unimportant, ordinary, unexciting: Australian coll., G.W.+. Cf. nothing to write home about, the more gen. locution.

cabman's rest. A female breast; gen. in pl.: rhyming s., from ca. 1870.

cabobbled, ppl. adj. Perplexed; confused: nautical, C. 19–20, ob. Perhaps an intensive (see ker-) of bubble, to deceive; the word occurs also in dial. which has bobble, a ground swell of the sea (E.D.D.).

cabon. Much: Australian (orig. and mainly Queensland) 'pidgin' (— 1872). Chas. H. Allen, A Visit to Queensland and her Goldfields, 1872. Morris. Ex Aborigine.

caboodle, the whole. The whole lot (persons or things): orig. (1848), U.S., anglicised ca. 1895. Prob. via U.S. the whole kit and boodle (kit and being slurred to ca), ex English kit (see sense 2) and U.S. boodle, 'a crowd' (Thornton), itself perhaps ex Portuguese cabedal, 'a stock, what a man is worth': W.

caboose. A kitchen: tramps' c.: mid-C. 19–20. Ex caboose, a ship's galley.—2. A small dwelling: Australian (— 1916). C. J. Dennis.—3. A prison ashore: nautical: late C. 19–20; ob. Bowen.

cacafuego. A spitfire; braggart; bully: C. 17–early 19. Until ca. 1680, S.E.; ca. 1680–1750, coll.; then s. Fletcher; Phillips's Dict.; B.E.; Grose. Its descent in the wordy world was due to its lit. meaning, shit-fire, for ca. 1750 it began to be considered vulgar.

cacagogue. Incorrect for caccagogue (an ointment): C. 19–20. O.E.D. cackle. Jon Bee's spelling of cackle.

cack, n. and (rare) v. (To void) excrement. Orig. S.E.; in late C. 19–20 dial. and low coll. Among children, often as a semi-interjection, cacky. Ex L. cacare; prob. echoic.

cack-handed. Left-handed; hence, clumsy: C. 20. ? ex preceding term; perhaps rather a corruption of Scottish car-hand.

cackle. Idle talk. Without the it is S.E.; with inseparable the, it is coll., as in Punch, Sept. 10, 1887, 'If a feller would tackle | A feminine fair up to Dick, | He 'as got to be dabs at the cackle.' C. 19–20. Ex:—2. (As for sense 3: cackle.) The patter of clowns: from ca. 1840.—3. Hence, the dialogue of a play: from ca. 1870. Cf. v., 2.

cackle, v.i. To reveal secrets by indiscreet or otherwise foolish talk: late C. 17–20 c. and low; ob. B.E.—2. The v. corresponding to n., 2 and 3: theatrical: same periods.

cackle !, cut the. 'Shut up!': late C. 19–20. Occ. in other moods, esp. in cut the cackle and come to the osses, which, however, = to get down to business (e.g. D. Sayers, Unnatural Death, 1927).

cackle, up to the. See up to the cackle.

cackle-berry. (Gen. pl.) An egg: Canadian: late C. 19–20. Ex U.S. Cf. hen-fruit.

cackle-chucker. (Theatrical) a prompter: from ca. 1860; ob.

cackle-merchant. (Theatrical) a dramatic author: from ca. 1860; ob.

cackle-tub. A pulpit: c. > low; from ca. 1850. H., 3rd ed.; Musgrave, Savage London, 1888. Cf. tub-thumper.

cackler. A blabber: coll., C. 18–20. Other senses, S.E. Bailey's Dict.—2. A showman with a speaking part: from ca. 1840. In C. 20, loosely, an actor. Dickens.—3. A fowl (— 1673); orig. c.; by 1730, low; in C. 20, almost coll. and certainly ob. Hence, cackler's ken, a hen-roost; a fowl-house: 1788, Grose, 2nd ed.

cackling cheat or chete. A fowl: c.: ca. 1550–1830. Harman, Grose.

cackling-cove. An actor: theatrical: from ca. 1830. H., 3rd ed. Lit., talking or talkative man. Also called a mummery-cove.

cackling fart. An egg: c.: late C. 17–18. Coles, 1676; B.E. Cackling here = cackler's.

cacks. Children's shoes: c. (— 1923). Manchon. Ex dial. (— 1897: E.D.D.).

cad. At Oxford and certain Public Schools (esp. Eton), from ca. 1820, a townsman: pejoratively. † by 1918. Hone. Abbr. caddie, cadet (i.c. cadet): W.—Hence, 2, an ill-bred, esp. if vulgar, fellow: from ca. 1835; ob. Since ca. 1900, a man devoid of fine instincts or delicate feelings. Coll. Kingsley, Thackeray, Anstey.—3. A passenger taken up by a coachman for his own profit: coll., from ca. 1790; † by 1870.—4. An omnibus conductor: coll., ca. 1832–70. Hood, Dickens, Mayhew.—5. An inferior assistant or an assistant in a low association: coll., ca. 1834–1900. Theodore Hook.—6. A messenger, errand-boy: coll., ca. 1835–1914, as in Hood, 'Not to forget that saucy lad | (Ostentation's favourite cad), | The page, who looked so splendidly clad'.—7. A familiar friend; a chum: ca. 1840–1900; coll.

cad-catcher. A picture 'painted to attract the undiscriminating', The Artist, Feb. 1, 1882 (O.E.D.): art s. >, by 1890, coll; ob. Cf. pot-boiler, q.v.

cadator. A beggar pretending to be a decayed gentleman: low or c.: late C. 17–early 18. Not in O.E.D., but in Ned Ward and Tom Brown. Ex L. cadere, to fall.

cadaver. A bankrupt; a bankruptcy: U.S. (— 1900) anglicised, in commerce, ca. 1905: coll. Ware.

[caddee. A thief's assistant or abettor: c. according to Baumann, but S.E. according to O.E.D.]

caddie, caddy. 'A bush name for a slouch hat': Australian (— 1898). Morris. Perhaps a corruption of cady, q.v.—2. (Caddie.) The Academy literary weekly: printers' (— 1887); † by 1920. Baumann. Cf. Athie, q.v.

caddish. Offensively ill-bred: from ca. 1860 (recorded, 1868); coll. Shirley Brooks in Sooner or Later, Mrs. Lynn Linton in Patricia Kemball. In C. 20 it tends to mean glaringly deficient in moral and/or aesthetic delicacy.

Cade, the. Burlington Arcade: Society, from ca. 1870; ob.

cadey. See cady.

cadge. The act or the practice of begging: low coll., from ca. 1810. Vaux. ? ex catch.—2. A message: low Glasgow (— 1934).

cadge, v. To go about begging: from ca. 1810.—2. V.t., to beg from (a person): low (— 1811). Lex. Bal.—Also, 3, beg, obtain by begging: recorded in 1848. Low coll. N. and v. are recorded in Vaux's Flash Dict., 1812, and since ca. 1880 the words have occ. been used jocularly and inoffensively. Perhaps imm. ex Dutch, ultimately ex Fr. cage, a wicker basket carried on back of cadger (pedlar) or his pony: W. For a synonymy, see F. & H.

cadge, do a. See do a cadge.

cadge-cloak or -gloak. A beggar: C. 18–early 19. Bamfylde-Moore Carew. See gloak.

cadger. A beggar, esp. if whining: from ca. 1820; low coll. (But in Scots as early as 1737: see E.D.D.) Egan's Grose, where wrongly classified as c.—2. Whence, a genteel, despicable 'sponger': coll.; from ca. 1880. A transitional use occurs in James Greenwood's The Little Ragamuffins, 1884. For synonymy, see F. & H.

cadging. Esp. cadging-bag and cadging-face. Vbl.n., abject begging; 'sponging'. Coll.; recorded in 1839 (Brandon), but prob. much earlier. Henry Kingsley, James Greenwood.—2. Applied esp. to 'cabmen when they are off the ranks, and soliciting a fare': ca. 1855–1900. 'Ducange Anglicus.'

cadi. An occ. and, by 1930, † variant of cady.

cads on castors. Bicyclists: ca. 1880–5. The Daily News, Sept. 10, 1885. (Ware.)

cady; oec. cadey or kadi. A hat. From ca. 1885. (Recorded in Lancashire dial. in 1869: see E.D.D.) Walford's Antiquarian, April, 1887: 'Sixpence I gave for my cady, | A penny I gave for my stick.' Perhaps ex Yiddish; perhaps, however, a corruption of Romany stadi, a hat, itself prob. ex Modern Gr. σκιᾶδι (Sampson). Cf. caddie, q.v.—2. Hence, a Kilmarnock or Balmoral cap worn by Scottish regiments: military: C. 20; esp. in G.W. (F. & Gibbons).—3. Hence also, a straw hat: New Zealanders': from ca. 1920.

caff. A café: low: from ca. 1920. James Curtis, The Gilt Kid, 1936.

[caffan is erroneous in B.E. and repeated by Grose and Egan, for cassam, cassan, i.e. cheese. Owing to the old-fashioned long s.]

Caffre's lightener. See Kaffir's lightener.

cag. A quarrelsome argument; gossip: nautical: from ca. 1870, slightly ob. Bowen; F. & Gibbons. Ex.

cag, v. 'To irritate, affront, anger': school-boys': 1801, Southey (E.D.D.).—2. And as early as 1811 (Lex. Bal.) it = to render sulky, ill humoured. Prob. ex dial.

cag, carry the. To be vexed or sullen: low: 1811, Lex. Bal. Cf. preceding.

cag-mag. See cagmag.

cage. In C. 16–17, S.E. (as in Shakespeare) and = a prison. In C. 17–19, low if not indeed c., in C. 20 low and ob., for a lock-up. In G.W., esp. as bird-cage, a compound for prisoners. At cage, F. & H. has a list of synonyms, English, French, German, Spanish, and Italian, for a prison.—2. A dress-improver: coll.; from ca. 1850; †. Cf. bird-cage.—3. A bed: ca. 1860–1900. Abbr. breeding-cage, q.v.—4. (The Cage.) the Ladies' Gallery in the House of Commons (—1870). London Figaro, June 10, 1870.—5. (cage.) A military tender covered with netting against bombs: Anglo-Irish: from 1916; ob.

cagg, n. and v. reflexive. (A vow) to abstain from liquor for a certain period: mid-C. 18–early 19 military. Grose, 1st ed. Perhaps cognate with cag, v.: thus, to vex or mortify oneself by abstinence from liquor.

caggy. Unfit to eat: dial. and low coll., now † as latter: 1848, Marryat. O.E.D. Ex:

cagmag; cag-mag. (Of food, esp. meat) odds and ends, scraps, refuse. From ca. 1810; ob. Coll. ex dial. Lex. Bal., 1811. Mayhew, London Labour, 'Do I ever eat my own game if it's high? No, sir, never, I couldn't stand such cag-mag.' Also as adj., tainted, inferior (—1860); ob. Origin obscure: but prob. the term derives ex cag(g)-mag(g), an old goose (see Grose, 2nd ed.).—2. Hence, gossip, idle talk: Cockney coll.: from ca. 1880. Manchon. (Also in dial.)

cagnas. Barracks: Canadian military: G.W. Ex a Fr. Army term via the French Canadians; orig. an Annamite word. F. & Gibbons; B. & P.

Cain, raise. To make a disturbance, a din; to quarrel noisily. Orig. (ca. 1840), U.S., anglicised ca. 1870. App. euphemistic for raise the devil (W.). Cf. raise hell and Tommy and cane upon Abel.

Cain and Abel. A table: rhyming s. (—1857). 'Ducange Anglicus', 1st ed., classifies it as c., but it very soon > gen. Cockney.

Cainsham smoke. The tears of a wife-beaten husband: C. 17–18; coll. Dunton's Dict. Etymology obscure: presumably topographically proverbial.

cairn, add a stone to someone's. To honour a person as much as possible after his death: coll.; C. 18–19. Ex a Celtic proverbial saying, recorded by traveller Pennant in 1772.

cake, cakey. A fool, gull, or blockhead: late C. 18–20, ob. In C. 19–20, coll. Grose, 1785; J. R. Planché, 'Your resignation proves that you must be | The greatest cake he in his land could see!'; Mrs. Henry Wood. From either the softness of some cakes or the flatness of others: in either case, a pun.—2. At Christ's Hospital (cake only), C. 19–20, ob., a stroke with a cane.—3. (cakey only.) Half-witted: Glasgow (—1934). Ex Northern and Midland dial. (—1897: E.D.D.). Cf. batchy for the semantics.

cake, v. (Christ's Hospital) to cane: C. 19–20, ob.

cake, get one's share of the. To succeed: coll., C. 17–18. Cf.:

cake, take the. To carry off the honours; be the best; (theatrical) 'fill the bill': coll., from ca. 1880. Ex U.S. In C. 20, also = be impudent, a piece of impudence: coll. 'The allusion is not to a cake walk', as Thornton suggests, for cake-walk is later; perhaps 'a jocular allusion to Gr. πυρραμῶς, prize of victory, orig. cake of roasted wheat and honey awarded to person of greatest vigilance in night-watch', W. See also bun, take the, and biscuit, take the.

cake and has paid (her) a loaf, the devil owed (her) a. A great instead of a small misfortune has befallen her. Coll.: C. 17–19. B.E.

cake is dough, one's. One's project, or one's business, has failed: mid-C. 16–20: coll. Becon, 1559; Shakespeare; B.E.; Hardy. The S.O.D., app. misled by Nares, says †, but this is incorrect, though the phrase may—only may—be ob. A Scottish variant (Ramsay, 1737) is one's meal is dough (E.D.D.).

cake-walk. 'A raid or attack that turns out to be unexpectedly easy': military coll.: 1914; ob. B. & P. Ex that easy-motivated pre-War dance.—2. Money very easily obtained: Glasgow coll. (—1934).

Cakes, Land of. Scotland: C. 18–20; coll.

cakes, like hot. Very quickly, promptly; esp. sell or go like . . . Orig. U.S., anglicised ca. 1888.

cakes and ale. Pleasant food; good living: coll., from ca. 1570. Shakespeare, 1601, 'Dost thou think, because thou art virtuous, there shall be no more Cakes and Ale?'

cakey. See cake, n., 1.

cakey-pannum fencer. A street seller of pastry: C. 19 c. See pannam.

Cal. Abbr. Calcraft, the common hangman: ca. 1860–70.

calaboose, n. and (rarely) v. Prison, esp. a common gaol. Nautical ex Spanish via (1797) U.S. Dana, 1840, has the Sp. form, calabozo.

calcography. Incorrect for chalcography: late C. 17–20. O.E.D.

calculate, v. Think, believe, expect, suppose; intend. Coll., anglicised ca. 1870 ex U.S. (—1812) usage. John Galt in Laurie. (Thornton.)

Caleb Quotem. A parish clerk; jack of all trades. Coll., ca. 1860–80. From a character in The Wags of Windsor.

calendars, give out. To issue unemployment cards prior to dismissing employees: workmen's (—1935).

caleys. Ordinary stock(s) of the Caledonian Railway: Stock Exchange, from ca. 1880.

calf. A meek, harmless, (and occ.) brainless person: C. 16–20. S.O.D. gives as S.E., but it is surcly coll.?! Hamilton Aidé, Morals and Mysteries, 1872, 'She had a girlish fancy for the good-looking young calf.'

calf, slip or cast the or one's. (Of women) to have a miscarriage; to suffer abortion: C. 17–18: facetiously coll. Pepys.

calf !, you are a. You do weep a lot, don't you !: e.p. (—1923). Manchon. Perhaps influenced by the Fr. tu pleures comme un veau.

calf-bed. Bovine parturition: jocular after child-bed: Southey, 1822. Rare.

calf-clingers. Very close-fitting trousers, i.e. pantaloons: ca. 1830–1914. James Greenwood, The Little Ragamuffins, 1884.

calf in the cow's belly, eat the. To anticipate unduly: mid-C. 17–20 proverbial coll.; ob. Fuller; Richardson in Clarissa Harlowe. (Apperson.)

calf-lolly. An idle simpleton: coll., mid-C. 17–18. Urquhart. Cf. calf and lo(blo)lly.

calf-love. A youthful and romantic attachment: coll.; from ca. 1820; in C. 20, S.E.

calf-sticking. The selling of worthless, on the pretence that they are smuggled, goods: c.; ca. 1850–1920.

calf-, cow-, and bull-week. Coll., ca. 1830–80. The 1st, 2nd, and 3rd week before Christmas: among operatives, who, during this period, worked hours increasing in length in each successive week, until in bull-week they had extremely little time free. The Echo, Dec. 4, 1871.

calf's head. A very stupid fellow: late C. 16–early 19; coll.

calfskin, smack. To swear on the Bible: low: mid-C. 19–20; ob. Baumann.

calfskin fiddle. A drum: late C. 18–early 19. Grose, 1st ed.

calibash. A New South Wales farmers' term (ca. 1860–1900), thus in R. D. Barton's Reminiscences of an Australian Pioneer, 1917: 'In those days . . . everyone [on the station] was paid by orders, "calibashes" we used to call them, drawn on himself by the person paying. The townships all followed the same system.' Prob. ex some Aborigine word.

calicate is incorrect for calycate. O.E.D.

calico. Thin, attenuated; wasted. Coll.: C. 18–20; ob. N. Bailey, Colloquies of Erasmus, 1725; Sala, 1861.

calico ball. A cheap public dance: ca. 1860–1915; coll. The rare adj. calico-bally, derivatively = somewhat fast, occurs in a ca. 1890 ballad, The Flipperty-Flop Young Man. Calico hop, heard occ. in England, is the U.S. version.

calicot. A 'cad' (sense 2): trade: ca. 1885–1910. Ware. Ex coll. Fr. calicot, a counter-jumper.

calidity. Incorrect for callidity: C. 17. O.E.D.

California or Californian. Gen. in (-ns) pl. A gold piece: from ca. 1860; ob. by 1915; now almost †. H., 3rd ed. Ex the gold-fields rush (1849) and wealth of California.

Californian. A red, a hard-dried, herring: from ca. 1850; ob. Actually, Scottish herrings, the name coming from the Californian gold-discoveries. Cf. Atlantic ranger.

calix, calyx. 'Distinct (but cognate) words, though now usually confused by writers on botany', W.

calk. See caulk.—2. To throw: Eton College, C. 19–20, ob.

calkes. 'Illiterate spelling of calx', O.E.D.

call, n. The time when the masters do not call 'absence': Eton coll.: C. 19–20.

call, v. To beg through (e.g. a street): c.: mid-C. 18–20. Bamfylde-Moore Carew, 'I called a whole street.' Ex the v.i., to call, to call at a house to beg: which is S.E.—2. (Nearly always in passive.) Abbr. call to the bar: legal: from ca. 1830. Dickens in Sketches by Boz.—3. To blame: lower classes' coll.: late C. 19–20. 'Don't call me, sir, if I'm a bit clumsy at first.' Ex call down, q.v., or call names.

call, have the. To be in the most demand: from ca. 1840; coll.; by 1880, S.E.

call a go. See call it a day.

call down. To reprimand: late C. 19–20; coll. Cf. † S.E. call down, to denounce.

call in. (At makes it v.t.) To visit a place incidentally: coll.: from ca. 1700.

call it a day. To state one's decision to go no further, do no more; rest content, e.g. with one's gain or loss. Occ. call it a night, if night lends point to the location, as in James Spenser, Limey Breaks In, 1934, 'There were at least sixty pounds [£60] there, and I quickly collared the lot and called it a night.' C. 20; coll. Perhaps ex low call a go, to change one's stand, alter one's tactics, give in: mid-C. 19–20. H., 1st ed.: itself prob. ex cribbage.

call it eight bells ! A nautical c.p. serving as an excuse for a drink before noon, before which hour it is not etiquette to take liquor: C. 20. Ware.

call of, within. Near. From ca. 1700: coll. soon S.E.

call one for everything under the sun. To abuse thoroughly, vilify vigorously: coll.: late C. 19–20. Cf. the C. 17–early 19 (then dial.) call, to abuse, vilify.

call one's bluff. See bluff, call one's.

call sir and something else. To address as sirrah; hence, to speak contemptuously to: coll.: ca. 1660–1800.

call the game in. To cease doing something; to admit one has had enough: New Zealand coll.: from ca. 1912.

call upon, have a. To have the first chance of or with. Orig. (—1888) U.S.; anglicised ca. 1895, but never very gen. Coll.

calla. Incorrect for the white arum (Ethiopian lily): 1870. O.E.D.

Callao painter. An evil-smelling gas arising from sea at that port: nautical coll.: late C. 19–20. Bowen.

calle. A cloak; a gown: e. of ca. 1670–1840. Colcs; B.E. Ex ?

callindger. A calendar: sol.: C. 19–20.

calling. Begging, esp. as a tramp: tramps' o. (—1935). Ex calling at houses. Cf. call, v., 1.

[calloh. The correct form of kollah.]

callous. Ineorrect for calius: mid-C. 17–20. O.E.D.

Calm-Laylas, the. The Egyptian Labour Corps: military: 1914–18. Ex kam laya, kam yom! (how many nights, how many days), 'the droning chant of the men leading camels on the march' (F. & Gibbons).

calp (C. 19) or kelp (C. 18–19). A hat: ca. 1750–1850. John Poulter. Cf. calpac(k), a Turkish and Tartar felt cap (recorded 1813); any oriental or exotic cap. (S.O.D.)

Calvert's Entire. The Fourteenth Foot: from ca. 1835 to ca. 1880. Sir Harry Calvert was its Colonel in 1806–26 and, when Adjutant General, he had three entire battalions maintained. The name was suggested by the earlier (from ca. 1770) Calvert's entire, which, as in Tomlinson's Slang Pastoral, 1780, meant liquor, esp. if malt, Calvert being a maker of malt liquors.

calves gone to grass. Spindle shanks, meagre calves. Late C. 17–20 (ob.); coll. Ray, 1678, 'His calves are gone down to grass.' A late C. 18–19 variant is veal will be cheap, calves fall (Grose, 2nd ed.).

calves' heads, there are many ways of dressing. I.e. of doing any, but esp. a foolish, thing. C. 19–20; ob.

calves' heads are best hot. A jeering apology for one who sits down to eat with his hat on: coll.; C. 19–20.

calves' (or even calves) liver. Calf's liver: a frequent eating-house catachresis: mid-C. 19–20.

calx. (Eton College) the goal line in football. Not recorded before 1864. Ex the L. word.

calyciform. Incorrect for caliciform, as calycle is for calicle: late C. 18–20. O.E.D.

cam. A camisole: C. 20. Also cami, cammy. Cf. com, 3, q.v.

Cam roads. 'Retreat to Cambridge by way of a change,' Egan's Grose: Oxford University: ca. 1820–40.

Camarhas, the. The 79th—from 1881 the Cameron—Highlanders: military: C. 19–20. Ex Old Cia Ma Tha (lit., old how-are-you), the nickname of its first colonel, Sir Alan Cameron. F. & Gibbons.

Camberwell Death-trap, the. The Surrey Canal: Camberwell (London): ca. 1870–1900. Ware. Ex the number of children that, playing on its crumbling banks, were drowned there.

Cambridge fortune. A woman without substance: late C. 17–early 19. B.E. Like White-chapel fortune, it is scabrous, Grose defining: 'A wind-mill and a water-mill'. These objects, here indelicately punned, being in the C. 18 very common in Cambridgeshire.

Cambridge (occ. Cambridgeshire) oak. A willow: mid-C. 18–20 coll.; ob. Grose, 1st ed. Willows abound in the Fen district.

Cambridgeshire camel. A native of, one long resident in, Cambridgeshire: mid-C. 17–mid-19. Fuller, 1662; Grose in his Provincial Glossary. Ex stilt-walking in the Fens. Apperson.

Cambridgeshire, or fen, nightingale. A frog: C. 19–20. Ex the dykes and canals so common in that county. Cf. Cape nightingale.

Cambridgeshire oak. See Cambridge oak.

Camden Town. A 'brown', i.e. a halfpenny: rhyming s. (— 1859). H., 1st ed.

came up! Come up!: London cabmen to their horses: ca. 1890–1915. Ware.

came (often come) up, before you. Before you joined up: military c.p. by an experienced to bumptious young soldier: 1916–18. B. & P. See also at before you came up.

camel. A giraffe: South African coll., esp. among hunters: mid-C. 19–20. Pettman.—2. See camels.

Camel Corps, the. The infantry: jocular military of 1915–18. Because they were so heavily laden. B. & P.

camel night. Guest night on a warship: naval: late C. 19–20. Bowen. Why? Perhaps because, on that night, one did not 'get the hump', for lucus a non lucendo etymologies are fairly common in s.

camel wallah. A native camel-driver: military coll.: G.W. (F. & Gibbons.) See wallah.

cameleon. See chameleon (B.E.).

cameleopard. A giraffe: a South African sol. (— 1913). Pettman. Cf. camel, q.v.

camelia. A frequent mistake (C. 18–20) for camellia: cf. fuschia for fuchsia.

camelier. A member of the Camel Corps proper: Australian military: 1916–18. On muleteer. But also camellia, ex the flower.

camel's complaint. The 'hump', low spirits. From ca. 1870; ob.

camels. (Very rare in singular.) Sopwith scouting aeroplanes used at sea: naval: 1915. Bowen.—2. Turkish, or Egyptian, cigarettes: New Zealand soldiers': in G.W. Ex their odour.

camera obscura. The posterior (— 1900): facetious. Perhaps ex U.S.

Cameronians. The 26th Regiment of Foot, British Army (now the 1st Battalion of Scottish Rifles). C. 18–20 military coll.: ? ob. Ex Richard Cameron, whose religious followers espoused the cause of William the Third.

comesa, camisa, camiscia, camise, kemesa. A shirt or a shift: c.; ca. 1660–1880. Ex Sp. camisa. Cf. commission.

cami. Abbr. camisole: from ca. 1900; shop and women's. Also cammy and cam. Cf.:

cami-knicks. Abbr. cami-knickers (1915): from ca. 1917; shop and women's.

camisa, camiscia. See comesa.

camister. A clergyman: c. (— 1851). Ex L. camisia, an alb, after minister; cf., however, canister, 3.

camouflage. Disguise; pretence, 'eye-wash': ex military j., itself ex Parisian s. camoufle, a person's description by the police (i.e. standard-French signalement), and camoufler, to disguise. Also as v. 'Naturalised with amazing rapidity early in 1917', W. G. B. Shaw, 'I was in khaki by way of camouflage,' The Daily Chronicle, March 5, 1917 (W.). For its military senses, see, e.g., B. & P.

camp. To sleep or rest in an unusual place or at an unusual time (— 1893): Australian coll.—2. Hence, 'to stop for a rest in the middle of the day', Morris: idem: 1891. Occ. as a n.—3. To prove superior to: Australian: 1886, C. H. Kendall; very ob. Morris. Perhaps ex † S.E. camp, to contend, and camping, warfare.

camp, adj. Addicted to 'actions and gestures of exaggerated emphasis . . . Prob. from the Fr.', Ware; pleasantly ostentatious or, in manner, affected: London streets' (— 1909) >, by 1920, Uranian. (Perhaps rather ex the C. 19–20 dial. camp or kemp, uncouth, rough: see esp. the E.D.D.—2. Whence, objectionable; (slightly) disreputable; bogus: Society: from ca. 1930.—

3. Effeminate: theatrical (— 1935) and Society (— 1933). M. Lincoln, Oh! Definitely, 1933. Ex sense 1.

Camp, the. Sydney: ca. 1790–1830.—2. Hobart: ca. 1830–50. Both Australian coll.

camp, go to. To go to bed; lie down to rest: Australian coll., from ca. 1880. Also have a camp, to rest for a while. Cf. camp, v., 2.

camp, take into. To kill. From ca. 1880, orig. U.S.; ob. (Mark Twain.)

camp-candlestick. An empty bottle; a bayonet: late C. 18–early 19. Military. Grose, 2nd ed.

camp-stool brigade. The early waiters outside a theatre, etc.: coll., from ca. 1880.

campaign coat. A late C. 17 mode in men's dress; orig. military and S.E.; then loosely and coll.; the word > † ca. 1750.—2. In C. 18 c., a tattered cloak worn to move compassion. A New Canting Dict., 1725.

campaniloger. Incorrect for campanologer: C. 19–20. O.E.D.

Campbell's academy. The hulks. Ca. 1770–1820; c., then low. A Mr. Campbell was the first director. George Parker, 1781; Grose.

campo. A playground or playing field: schools': C. 17. O.E.D. Ex in campo.

can back, take the. See take the can back.

Can (the C.). H.M.S. Canopus: naval: early C. 20. Ware.—2. (can.) A reprimand: nautical: late C. 19–20. Bowen. See carry the can.—3. (can.) A barman: a Lambeth term, dating from ca. 1890. Clarence Rook, The Hooligan Nights, 1899.

can, in the. See 'Moving-Picture Slang', § 6.

can do. I can (do it); can you (do it)?: 'pidgin': mid-C. 19–20.—2. Hence, all right!: military: late C. 19–20.

can I help you with that? A non-aristocratic c.p. (1895; ob.) implying 'I'd like some of that.' Ware, 'When said to the fairer sex the import is different.'

can it! Be quiet! Stop talking: from ca. 1918; ex U.S. can you say uncle to that? A dustmen's c.p. (— 1909), in which say uncle = 'reply'. Ware notes that the c.p. answer is yes—I can. Perhaps there is a pun on dust-bins.

Canack. See Canuck.

canader. A Canadian canoe: Oxford undergraduates' (— 1909); ob. Ware. By 'Oxford-er'.

canadoe. A drink from a can: rare: C. 17 jocular coll. Histrion-Mastix, 1610, 'And now, my maisters, in this bravadoe, | I can read no more without Canadoe. | Omnes. What ho! some Canadoe quickly!' (O.E.D.) ? can + d'eau, macaronic for a can of water, the water being eau de vie.

Canady. Canada: sol.: C. 19–20.

canaller. One who works or lives on a canal-boat (1864); a canal-boat (1887): coll.: mostly U.S. (O.E.D.) canakin. A variant of canniken, -kin, q.v. Coles's spelling.

Canaries, the. Norwich City 'soccer' team: sporting: late C. 19–20. Ex yellow jerseys.

canary; occ. in senses 1–4, canary-bird. An arch knavish boy, a young wag: late C. 17–18. B.E.—2. A gaol-bird: c. and low: mid-C. 17–20; ob. Head. Recorded in Australia, 1827–90, of a convict. Peter Cunningham, 1827, says: ex the yellow clothes they wear on landing: Morris.—3. A mistress: C. 18–early 19, ex c. sense, a harlot.—4. A guinea: C. 18–early 19; from ca. 1830, a sovereign: ob. Ex its yellow colour: cf. yellow boy, q.v.—5. A written promise of a donation or a subscription: Salvation Army: 1882. Coined by General Booth ex the colour of the demand-slips. (The semantics of the senses 1–5: resp. liveliness, cage, nos. 3–5 colour.)—6. Also a sol., orig. malapropistic as in Shakespeare's Merry Wives of Windsor, for quandary.—7. In c. (— 1862), a thief's female assistant. Cf. crow, q.v.—8. A 'chorus-singer amongst the public—gen. in gallery': music-halls: 1870; ob. Ware.—9. 'An ideal hip-adornment', actually a modified cod-piece: costermongers' dress and term: 1876. Ware notes that it has some connexion with the 'nightingale' of Boccaccio's sprightly story.—10. 'Any soldier wearing a yellow brassard' (e.g. a gas-instructor): military: 1915–18. F. & Gibbons.

canary-bird. See preceding, senses 1–4. cancer, catch or capture a. (Rowing, university) 'catch a crab'. Coll., ca. 1850–1900. Hood in Pen and Pencil Pictures, 1857. Ex L. cancer, a crab.

candidate. To stand as a candidate. (Vbl.n. and adj., candidate.) Coll.: from ca. 1880. Not common.

candle, not able or fit to hold a, followed by to. Not fit to be compared with; 'not in the same street' (q.v.). From ca. 1640; a coll. that was S.E. by 1800. Developed from the affirmative form of the phrase (to help as a subordinate): C. 15–18 and S.E.

candle, sell or let by inch of. To sell or let, hence to do anything, under fantastic or trivially precise conditions. Coll.: from ca. 1650; S.E. after ca. 1750. Ex an auction at which bids are received only while a small piece of candle remains burning. (Variant: by the candle.)

candle, the game is not worth the. Of any activity not worth the cost or the trouble: coll., from ca. 1550; in C. 18–20, S.E. Ex the playing of cards.

candle at both ends, burn one's or the. See burn one's candle.

candle-ends, drink off or eat. Lit. and fig., thus to express devotion while drinking a lady's health: ca. 1590–1640. The O.E.D. gives as S.E., but this is prob. because its users are Shakespeare, Fletcher, Ben Jonson: orig., it was prob. coll.

candle-keeper. (Winchester College) A privileged senior not a prefect: C. 19–20, ob.

candle-shop. 'A Roman Catholic chapel, or Ritualistic church—from the plenitude of lights', Ware; Low Churchmen's (— 1909).

candle-stick. A candidate: Winchester College, from ca. 1840. Ob. For this and for candle-keeper, see Mansfield's and Adams's books on the College.—2. Gen. in pl., a fountain in Trafalgar Square, London, W.C.2: from ca. 1840; ob. Mayhew.—3. In pl., bad, small, or untunable bells: 'Hark! how the candlesticks rattle,' Grose, 1st ed.: mid-C. 18–early 19.

candle to the devil, hold or set a. To be actively evil: C. 19–20, coll.; the earlier sense (mid-C. 15–18), with before instead of to, is to placate with a candle, i.e. to treat the devil as a saint. The two senses tend to overlap.

candle-waster. One who studies, one who dissipates, late at night: coll.: late C. 16–20; rare after C. 17. Shakespeare in Much Ado about Nothing.

candles, see. See see stars.

candy. Drunk: mid.-C 18—early 19. Rare outside of Ireland. Grose, 1st ed.

candy(-)man. A bailiff, process-server: Northern, from 1844; ob. Ex an 1844 army of ejectors among whom were a few 'candy-men' or hawkers of sweets; the term spread rapidly.

candy-slinger. A vendor of toffee that he has pulled into wisps: grafters': C. 20. Philip Allingham, Cheapjack, 1934.

cané. A thieves' 'jemmy', q.v.: C. 20 c. Charles E. Leach.

cane, v. (Gen. in passive.) To punish (e.g. with C.B.): military: G.W. (F. & Gibbons).—2. To damage considerably, to shell heavily: id.: id. (Ibid.).—3. Hence, to treat badly, e.g. a motor-car: from 1918.

cane upon Abel. A stout stick stoutly laid about a man's shoulders: late C. 17—early 19 coll. B.E. Cf. raise Cain and Cain and Abel.

caniculars. Doggerel verses: jocularly pedantic coll.: 1872. Ex L. canis, a dog. O.E.D. canine. A dog: jocular coll.: from 1869; oh.

canister. The head: from ca. 1790; mainly pugilistic; ob. Moncrieff, 1821, 'I've noh'd him on the canister.'—2. See canister-cup.—3. A clergyman; a preacher: London streets' (—1909). Ware proposes derivation ex a preacher surnamed Kynaster (or even Kynaston ?); more proh. a corruption of canister, q.v.

canister-cap. A hat: from ca. 1820. Ca. 1870 it was abhr. to canister.

canned. Tippy: C. 20 c. and low s. Charles E. Leach. A G.W. military variant was canned up (F. & Gibbons).

cank; in C. 17, occ. canke. Dumb: from ca. 1670: c. >, in C. 18, s.; >, in early C. 19, dial.; † hy 1885. Coles, 1676; B.E.; Grose. Extant in dial. is cank, to gabble, chatter, gossip.

cannaken, -kin. An occ. variant of canniken, -kin, q.v.

cannibal. C. 17—18 coll.: 'a cruel rigid Fellow in dealing', B.E. Ex lit. S.E. sense.—2. (Cambridge University) a College's second boat that beats, i.e. 'bumps', its first, or a third that beats its second: from ca. 1880. Earlier (—1864), a training boat for freshmen, i.e. a boat racing in 'sloggers'; also its rowers. In the former sense, cannibalism is punned-on, while in the latter cannot-pull is jocularly corrupted.

canniken, cannikin. The plague: c. of ca. 1670—1820. Coles, 1676; Holme; B.E. ? etymology: perhaps cognate with S.E. canker.

cannon. A round heef-steak pudding: low (—1909). Ware. Ex resemblance to small cannon ball.

can(n)on, adj. Drunk: c. (—1879). ? abhr. cannoncd*, mod. s. 'shot'. Cf. Ger. er ist geschossen.

cannon ball. A nickname (1852—ca. 1880) for an irreconcilable opponent of free trade. Gen. in pl. The Saturday Review, Oct. 30, 1858.—2. A human testicle: likewise gen. in pl.: from ca. 1885.

cannot (gen. can't) seem to. Seem (to be) unable to; he apparently unable to; cannot, apparently: coll. (and catachresis): C. 20. Thus Kathleen Norris in The Passing Show, Dec. 6, 1933, 'I must be nervous this afternoon. I can't seem to settle down to anything.' Careless thinking, perhaps via I cannot, it seems, do (something or other) and I don't seem to be able to.

canoe, paddle one's own. To be independent.

Orig. (1828) U.S., anglicised ca. 1875: coll. (O.E.D. Sup.)

canoe it. To travel, or go, in a canoe: coll.: from ca. 1880 in U.S., soon adopted in England.

canoer. A canoe: Oxford undergraduates' (—1909). Ware. By 'Oxford-er'. Cf. canader, q.v.

canœuvre. 'A low manœuvre or essay at deception', Bee: rare London: ca. 1820—50.

canoneer. One skilled in canon law, i.e. a canonist. Ca. 1640—1800: jocular coll. after cannoneer. Baxter, 1659, 'We turn this Canon against the Canoneers.' (O.E.D.)

canoodle, v.t. and i. Fondle; hill and coo. Coll. Orig. (—1859) U.S., thoroughly anglicised by G. A. Sala in 1864. Perhaps ex canny, gentle, on firkytoodle; hut cf. the Somersetshire canoodle, a donkey, which may be noodle (fool) intensified.—2. Also as n., though canoodling (Sala, 1859) is more gen.—3. To coax: from ca. 1870; oh.—4. At Oxford University, ca. 1860—70, to propel a canoe. By a pun on canoe.—4. To make off: C. 20; oh. Manchon.

canoodler. A persistent hiller and cooer. From ca. 1860. See canoodle, 1.

canooser, -zer. Sol. (—1887) for connoisseur. Baumann.

canpacs (or C-.). Shares in the Canadian Pacific Railroad: Stock Exchange (—1895). A. J. Wilson, Stock Exchange Glossary.

[Cant is the 'secret' speech of the underworld. This word cant dates from ca. 1700—canting is much earlier—and was long contemptuous and almost coll., as is the v., which dates from ca. 1600; likewise canter, canting. See my Slang; Grose, P.; O.E.D.; F. & H.; and Weekley.]

cant. In c. (vagrants'), both food (—1860) and (—1839) a gift (see cant of togs).—2. (Pugilistic) a blow: coll.; from ca. 1750. Ex S.E. sense: a toss, a throw.

cant, v. In c., v.i. and t.: to speak; to talk: mid-C. 16—19. Harman.

can't. Abhr. cannot, the C. 20 form of can not: coll.; C. 18—20.

cant a slug into your bread(-)room! Drink a dram! Nautical: mid-C. 18—early 19. Grose, 2nd ed.

can't be did! See did, 3.

cant of dobbin. A roll of ribbon: c.: ca. 1810—60. Vaux. See Dobbin.

cant of togs. A gift of clothes: beggars' c. (—1839). Brandon. Ware shrewdly remarks, 'The mode of hegging for clothes affords a word to describe the present or benefit gained by canting.'

can't see a hole in or through a ladder. Of a person very drunk. From ca. 1855. 'Ducange Anglicus', 1st ed. Sometimes, and at least as early as 1882, . . . a forty-foot ladder (Ware).

can't see it! I don't see why I should!; no!: non-aristocratic coll. (—1909). Ware.

can't show itself (or oneself) to. To be inferior to: lower classes': 1880; oh. Ibid.

can't you feel the shrimps? Don't you smell the sea? Cockney c.p.: 1876; oh. Ih.

Cantab. A member of the University of Cambridge: coll., first in Coventry's 'amusing novel, Pompey the Little, 1750. Ahhr. Cantabrigian.

cantabank. A common or inferior singer of hallads: from ca. 1840; coll. Earlier, S.E. for a singer upon a platform. Ex It. cantambanco.

cantankerous. Cross-grained, ill-humoured; acridly self-willed; quarrelsome. Coll.: ? coined by Goldsmith in She Stoops to Conquer, 1772; Sheridan, The Rivals. Perhaps, says O.E.D., ex M.E. contak, contention, after cankerous; H., 3rd ed., suggests a corruption of contentious; W. thinks that the word may be of Irish formation (as suggested by O.E.D.).—2. Also, adv. with -ly, abstract n. with -ness.

canteen. A public-house: South African coll., prob. at first military: from ca. 1830. Pettman.—2. Hence, canteen-keeper, the proprietor of one: 1832.

canteen eggs. A gas attack: military: 1917–18. 'The age of eggs used at the canteen was not guaranteed' (F. & Gibbons).

canteen-keeper. See canteen.

canteen medal. A beer stain on one's tunic: military: from ca. 1875.—2. A good-conduct medal: military: late C. 19–20. F. & Gibbons. Many of those who wore it were hard drinkers—but they had even harder heads.

canteen merchant. One who serves in the ship's canteen: C. 20: Conway Training Ship. Masefield.

canteen rat. 'An old soldier who constantly hangs about by the canteen, in order to be treated': military coll.: C. 20. B. & P.

canteen stinker. A cheap cigarette: military: 1915–18. F. & Gibbons.

canteen wallah. A man addicted to beer: military coll.: late C. 19–20. B. & P. canter. See canting crew.

Canterbury. 'A sort of a short or Hand-gallop', B.E.: C. 17–18. Abbr. Canterbury gallop, cf. C. pace, trot, rate, etc. [Whence canter, v. recorded in 1706, n. (an easy gallop) in 1755. S.O.D.]

Canterbury tale or occ. story. A story long and tedious: from ca. 1540; at first coll., but soon S.E. Latimer, 1549; Turberville, 1579; Grose, 1st ed. (Apperson.) Ex the long stories told by pilgrims proceeding to Canterbury.

canticle. A parish clerk: mid-C. 18–early 19. Grose, 1st ed. The parish clerk led the congregation's singing. Cf. amen-curler.

canting crew, the. Criminals and vagabonds, the canters (C. 17–18): C. 17–19: coll. In B.E.'s title, 1690; Hindley's James Catnach, 1878.

Canuck, occ. Canack, K(a)nuck. A Canadian: in England, from ca. 1915. Orig. (1855) a Canadian and American term for a French Canadian, which, inside Canada, it still means. Etymology obscure: perhaps Canada + uc (uq), the Algonquin n.-ending; W., however, proposes, I think rightly, ex Canada after Chinook.—2. Hence, a Canadian horse (or pony): coll.: U.S. (1860) >, ca. 1920 anglicised. (O.E.D. Sup.)

canvas, receive the. To be dismissed: C. 17, coll. Shirley in The Brothers. Cf. get and give the bag or the sack, qq.v.

canvas-climber. A sailor: coll.: late C. 16–17. Shakespeare in Pericles.

canvastown. A mushroom town: coll., from ca. 1850; Dickens, 1853.—Hence, 2, the Volunteer Encampment at Wimbledon (not since ca. 1905) or Bisley where the National Rifle Association meets.

canvass, cold. See cold-canvass.

canvas(s)ens. (Nautical) a sailor's canvas trousers: coll., C. 19–20, ob.

cap. The proceeds from an improvised collection (cf. to send round the cap or hat, C. 19–20 coll.), esp. for a huntsman on the death of the fox: ca. 1850–1914. Abbr. cap-money, S.E. and extant.—2. At Westminster School, the amount collected at 'play and 'election' dinners.—3. (Gen. in pl.) Abbr. capital letter: coll., orig. printers' (—1900), then publishers' and authors'.—4. In c., a false cover to a 'cover-down' or tossing-coin: ca. 1840–80. H., 3rd ed.—5. A synonym for c. sense of bonnet, n. (q.v.): c.: ca. 1810–50. Vaux.—6. (Only in vocative.) Captain: coll.: lato C. 19–20. Ware, 1909, 'Common in America—gaining ground in England'.

cap, v. (University and Public School) to take off one's cap or hat in salutation of: late C. 16–20, ob. Coll., S.E. by 1700. '... To cap a fellow', Gradus ad Cantabrigiam, 1803.—2. In c., to take an oath: late C. 17–early 19. B.E.; Grose.

cap, not to have come back for one's. (Of an aviator) to have been killed: military: 1918. Manchon.

cap, put on one's considering or thinking. To think, take time to think: coll., from ca. 1650.

cap acquaintance. Persons only slightly acquainted: C. 18–early 19; coll. Grose.

cap after it, fling or throw one's. To do something that is no longer of use, esp. when a project or a business is past hope. Coll.: late C. 17–19. B.E.

cap at, cast one's. 'To show indifference to, give up for lost': C. 16–17; coll. In proverbial form: cast one's cap into the wind.

cap at, set one's. (Of women only) to try, and keep trying, to gain a man's heart—or hand. Coll., from ca. 1770. Goldsmith, Thackeray. Ex navigation: cf. Fr. mettre le cap sur (W.).

cap-badge. A piece of bone (in, e.g., a stew): military: from ca. 1910. F. & Gibbons.

cap be made of wool, if his or your. As sure as his cap is made of wool, i.e. indubitably: C. 17–18; coll.

cap for. See bonnet for: c.: ca. 1810–40. Vaux.

cap on nine hairs(, with his). Jaunty or jovial, the cap being worn at an extreme angle: naval: late C. 19–20. Bowen.

cap, or cast, one's skin. To strip naked: C. 19–20 (ob.) c.

cap set, have one's. Variant: have (enough) under one's cap. To be drunk: coll.: C. 17–18. Cf.:

cap-sick. Intoxicated: coll.: C. 17 (? 18). H. Hutton's anatomisation of folly, 1619. (O.E.D.)

cap the quadrangle. C. 18 university: (of undergraduates) 'to cross the area of the college cap in hand, in reverence to the Fellows who sometimes walk there', Grose, 2nd ed.

capabarre. 'The looting of naval stores, mentioned in Marryat' (Bowen): naval coll.: C. 19. Semantics: 'by curtailment'.

cape. To keep a course: nautical coll.: C. 19–20. Bowen.

Cape, the. The Cape of Good Hope: coll. > S.E.; from ca. 1660.—2. Hence, Cape Town: 1828 (Pettman); † by 1850.—3. And Cape Colony: coll.; from ca. 1845.—4. And even, likewise coll. (—1913), South Africa in gen. Pettman.

Cape Cod turkey. Salt fish: ? mainly nautical (—1874). H., 5th ed. On Bombay duck, q.v.

Cape doctor, the. A strong S.E. wind: Cape Colony coll.: C. 19–20. 'In the earlier days . . . when the Cape was used by Anglo-Indians as a sanatorium, they were wont to term these winds the Cape Doctor and they still retain the name,' Pettman, 1913.

Cape Flyaway. Imaginary land on the horizon : nautical coll. : C. 19–20. Bowen.

Cape Horn, double. See double Cape Horn.

Cape Horn fever. Malingering in bad weather : sailing-ship seamen's : mid-C. 19–20. Bowen.

Cape Horn rainwater. Ruin : nautical : late C. 19–20 ; slightly ob. Bowen.

Cape nightingale. A frog : South African coll. : from ca. 1880. H. A. Bryden, Kloof and Karoo, 1889. Cf. Cambridgeshire nightingale.

Cape of Good Hope. Soap : rhyming s. (— 1914). F. & Gibbons.

Cape smoke. 'A brandy manufactured in nearly all the vine-growing districts of the Colony', Pettman : South African coll. : 1848, H. H. Methuen, Life in the Wilderness. Described in 1879 as 'a poison calculated to burn the inside of a rhinoceros'. Pettman. It is of a cloudy colour.

Cape Stiff. Cape Horn : nautical : mid-C. 19–20. Bowen. Because, to a sailing ship, it was stiff work to beat round it.

Cape Turk, not to have rounded. See Turk, not to . . .

capella. A coat : theatrical, C. 19–20, ob. Direct ex It.

capeovi. Sick, ill : costermongers', from ca. 1860 ; ob. Cf. capivvy.

caper. A dodge, device, performance : coll., orig. (— 1851) low. The London Herald, March 23, 1867, '“He'll get five years penal for this little caper,” said the policeman.' Ex the S.E. senses and cf. play the giddy goat, for ultimately caper is the L. caper, a goat.—2. Whence, a chorister boy ; a ballet-girl : low : mid-C. 19–20 ; ob. Mayhew (O.E.D.).

caper, v.i. To be hanged : late C. 18—mid 19. Wolcot (E.D.D.). Prob. ex cut a caper upon nothing, q.v.

caper, flying. An escape from prison : c. (— 1923). Manchon.

caper-corner-ways. Diagonally : nautical coll. : C. 19–20. Bowen. Presumably caper is a corruption of cater, four.

caper-cousin. Incorrect for cater-cousin : C. 17–20. O.E.D.

caper-merchant. A dancing master : mid-C. 18–19. Grose, 1st ed. ; H., 5th ed. Cf. hop-merchant.

caper (up)on nothing, cut a ; occ. cut capers . . . Like cut caper sauce, = to be hanged : low coll., C. 18–19. Hanging has many synonyms, some much grimmer than these.

caperdewsie, occ. caperdochy (as in Heywood, 1600) or cappadochio. Stocks ; a prison. Low : late C. 16–17.

capital. Excellent : coll., from ca. 1760 ; S.E. after ca. 1820. Often as exclamation. Ex capital, important. Cf. the tendency of awful.

capital, work. To commit a capital offence : c. or low ; from ca. 1830 ; † by 1920.

capital out of, make. To turn to account. From ca. 1850 ; coll. almost imm. S.E.

capitation drugget. Cheap and inferior drugget : coll., late C. 17–18. Ex the capitation tax on this clothing-material. B.E.

capi, capivvy. Sol. for balsam copaiba, a popular remedy for gonorrhœa. From ca. 1850.

capivvy, cry. To be persecuted to death, or near to it : sporting s., from ca. 1840 ; ob. Orig. a hunting term, as in Surtees, Handley Cross, 1843.

cap'n. Captain : coll. : mid-C. 19–20. Baumann. Cf. capting.

capon. A red herring : from ca. 1640. Orig. jocular S.E., it > coll. ca. 1700. Cf. Yarmouth capon, q.v.

capot me ! A coll. imprecation : mid-C. 18—early 19. Footc. Ex capot, to 'score off'. O.E.D. cappadochio. See caperdewsie.

capped, be. 'To be checked by strong currents' : nautical coll. : mid-C. 19–20. Bowen.

capper. (Auctioneers') a dummy bidder at an auction : from ca. 1870.

capricornified. 'Hornified', cuckolded : mid-C. 18—early 19. Grose, 1st ed.

caprification. Artificial fertilisation : catachrestic : from 1830's. O.E.D.

capron hardy. An impudent fellow : coll. ; ca. 1450–1630. Awdelay.

caps. Capitals (letters of alphabet) : printers' j. >, by 1920, authors' and typists' coll. Manchon.

caps, pull. (Only of women) to wrangle in unseemly fashion : from ca. 1750 ; ob. if not † ; coll. Colman, 1763, 'A man that half the women in town would pull caps for' ; Scott, 1825, 'Well, dearest Rachel, we will not pull caps about this man.'

capsize, v.t. To overturn, upset : orig. nautical s. (witness use by Dibdin and Grose, 2nd ed.), prob. ex Sp. cabazar (— 1788) ; S.E. by 1820.

capstan, the. A punishment whereby the arms were outstretched on a capstan-bar and a weight suspended from the neck : naval coll. : C. 17—early 18. Bowen.

capstan-step. The time or beat kept by the old ship's fiddler for capstan work : nautical : C. 19. Bowen.

captain. A familiar and/or jesting term of address : coll. ; C. 17–20. Shakespeare. Cf. U.S. judge.—2. In C. 18, a prosperous highwayman, a gaming or a bawdy-house bully : both low, the latter perhaps c.—3. Money, esp. in the captain is not at home, I have no money : C. 18—early 19. Dyche.—4. A glandered horse : knackers' s., from ca. 1830.

Captain Armstrong. A dishonest jockey : from ca. 1860. More gen. in phrase, come Captain Armstrong, to 'pull' a horse and thus prevent him from winning : from ca. 1850. Turf. Sporting Life, Nov. 5, 1864.

Captain Bates ?, been to see. A 'how-d'ye-do' to one recently released from gaol : c., then Cockney : late C. 19–20. 'Captain Bates was a well-known metropolitan prison-governor,' Ware.

Captain Bow-Wow. A famous Clyde passenger-boat skipper : C. 19. Bowen. He used a dog as a makeshift fender.

Captain Cook ; Cooker or cooker. Orig. (— 1879), a wild pig ; hence (— 1894), 'a gaunt, ill-shaped, or sorry-looking pig', E. Wakefield : New Zealand ; slightly ob. Morris. Pigs were introduced into New Zealand by Captain Cook.—2. (Captain Cook.) A book : rhyming s. : late C. 19–20. B. & P.

Captain Copperthorn's crew. All officers ; a crew in which everyone wishes to be captain : mid-C. 18–19 ; nautical. Grose, 1st ed.

Captain Cork. A man slow in passing the bottle : C. 19–20, ob. ; military.

Captain Crank. The leader of a group of highwaymen : C. 18—early 19.

Captain Grand. A haughty, blustering man : C. 18–19 ; coll. Cf. furioso.

Captain Hackum. (Hack'em.) A fighting, blustering bully. Ca. 1600–1850. B.E., Grose.

captain is at home or come, the. Menstruation proceeds: late C. 18—early 19; low. Grose, 3rd ed. Punning catamenia.

captain lieutenant. Meat half-way between veal and beef: military: late C. 18—19. Grose, 2nd ed. Ex the brevet officer, who, receiving lieutenant's pay, ranks as a captain. (The rank was abolished before 1893.)

Captain MacFluffer, as in take C.M. badly. (To have a bad bout of) loss of memory on the stage: theatrical (— 1909); ob. Ware. An elaboration of fluff, n., 2, and v., 3, qq.v.; the Mac may pun the Scottish mak, to make,—whence MacFluffer is, lit., a 'fluff'-maker.

Captain Podd. An C. 18 nickname for a puppet-showman. Grose, 3rd ed.

Captain Queernabs. An ill-dressed or shabby man: late C. 17—early 19. In C. 17—mid-18, either c. or low s. B.E.

Captain Quiz. A mocker: C. 18; coll. Amplifying quiz.

Captain Rag. Edmund Smith, the English poet (1672—1710), now completely forgotten. Dawson.

Captain Sharp. An arrant cheat; a huffing, sneaking, cowardly bully: late C. 17—early 19. B.E.—2. Hence, a gamesters' bully: mid-C. 18—early 19. Grose, 1st ed.

Captain Swosser. A blustering naval officer: non-aristocratic coll. (— 1882); ob. Ware. Ex 'a character of Marryat's'.

Captain Tom. The leader of a mob; the mob itself: late C. 17—early 19. B.E., Grose.

captain's cloak, the. The 36th Article of War: naval: C. 20. Bowen. It relates to powers of punishment.

captain. Captain: low coll.: C. 19—20. Baumann. Cf. cap'n.

capture the pickled biscuit. See bun, take the.
captured a sugar-boat !, they (occ. we) must have. A c.p. explaining the issue of a liberal ration of sugar: New Zealanders': in G.W.

caput. The monitors' big study in a School house: Sherborne: mid-C. 19—20. Desmond Coke, Wilson's, 1922. Ex L. caput, head: cf. the relationship of block, head, to block-house.—2. (Also kaput, kapout.) Finished; no more: military: 1915; ob. Ex Ger. kaputt, done for, ruined, insolvent. Used similarly to napoo, q.v. F. & Gibbons; my Words!

car it. To go by car (of whatever sort the context indicates): coll.: from ca. 1860.

carachou. Good: among prisoners of war in Germany: 1914—18. Direct ex Russian. (B. & P.)

caravan. A dupe; a man swindled: late C. 17—18. C. and low. Ethercgc, in The Man of Mode, 'What spruce prig is that? A caravan, lately come from Paris.' Perhaps ex caravans frequently robbed.—2. ? hence, a large sum of money: late C. 17—18 c. B.E. Cf. cargo, 2.—3. A railway train carrying people to a prize-fight: from ca. 1845; boxing. Prob. ex its length: cf., however, Blount, 1674, 'Of late corruptly used with us for a kind of waggon to carry passengers to and from London' (W.). caravan, v. To have or hold a picnic: prob. sol. (— 1923) for or ex carnival. Manchon.

caravansera. A railway station: ca. 1845—1900; boxing. Ex caravan, 3.

carbon. A carbon copy (opp. to the top) of a typewritten MS. or sheet thereof: coll.: C. 20: authors' and typists'.

carbonado. To cut, hack: late C. 16—17. Coll. soon S.E. Shakespeare.

carbuncle face. A red, large-pimpled face: coll.: late C. 17—18. B.E., Grose.

card. A device; expedient: from ca. 1700 (but cf. card, that's a sure); ob. by 1900. Frances Brooke, in Lady Julia Mandeville.—2. A 'character', an odd fellow: from ca. 1835. Dickens, 1836; The Card, a novel (1911) by Arnold Bennett. 'It may be an extension of the metaphorical good card, sure card, etc., or . . . an anglicised form of Scottish caird, tinker (cf. artful beggar, etc.)': W. Often with downy, knowing, queer.—3. (the card.) The correct number, price, or thing, the 'ticket': from ca. 1850, coll. Mayhew. Perhaps ex the correct card of racing.—4. A troublesome rating: naval: late C. 19—20. Bowen. Ex sense 2.

card, v. To torture with a loom-card: from ca. 1550; coll., passing to S.E. In C. 19, an Irish political diversion. The Scots Observer, 1889, 'to card a woman's hide'. Ob. The n. is carding.—2. To fix on a card: trade coll.: from ca. 1880. O.E.D.

card, a cooling. Anything that cools enthusiasm: ca. 1570—1750; coll. Ex an obscure card-game.

card, a leading. An example or precedent: coll.; C. 17—19. B.E.

card, one's best. A last resort; more gen., one's best plan or action. Coll.: C. 19—20.

card, speak by the. To speak precisely, most accurately. Coll.: C. 17—20; S.E. in C. 19—20. Shakespeare in Hamlet, 'We must speak by the card, or equivocation will undo us.'

card, that's a sure. That's a safe device or expedient, or one likely to bring success; also of such a person. C. 16—20; coll. Thersites, an Interlude, ca. 1537; B.E.

card-con(ey)-catching. Swindling: c.: late C. 16. Greene. (O.E.D.) See cony-catching.

card of ten, brag or face it out with a. To assume a bold front: ca. 1540—1700; coll. Ex cards; a card of ten pips being none too high.

cardiagraphy. Cardiography: incorrect: from ca. 1870. O.E.D.

cardinal. Mulled red wine: from ca. 1860. In Tom Brown at Oxford.—2. Gen. in pl., a shoeblack. From ca. 1880; † by 1915. Cf. city red.

cardinal, adj. Carnal, esp. in cardinal sin: mid-C. 16—20 sol. Shakespeare jocularly uses cardinally for carnally. Vice versa, carnal is sol. for cardinal, esp. in the carnal points: C. 16—20.

cardinal is come, the. A variant of captain is . . ., q.v. Grose, 3rd.

Cards. Adrian Quist, the Australian lawn-tennis player (fl. 1932—), who is very fond of bridge.

cards, a house of. An unsafe project or circumstance: from ca. 1800; coll. soon S.E.

cards, get one's. To be dismissed: busmen's: from ca. 1925. James Curtis, The Gilt Kid, 1936. I.e. one's employment-card.

cards, get one's. See also books, get one's.

cards, have or go in with good. Reasonably to expect success: late C. 16—18: coll., > S.E. in C. 17.

cards, on the. Possible; almost probable. Coll. >, by 1880, S.E.; gen. from 1849, when popularised by Dickens; in use earlier, being adumbrated by Smollett in 1749. Opp. to out of the cards, which lasted only ca. 1810—70. Perhaps ex cartomancy (O.E.D.).

cards . . . , play one's. With badly, well, etc. To act clumsily, cleverly, etc. From ca. 1640; coll., soon S.E.

cards, show one's. To disclose one's power or plans: from ca. 1580; coll. soon S.E.

cards, throw up (or down) one's. To abandon a project, a career, etc. From late C. 17; coll.

Cardwell's men. Ca. 1869-90, military coll.: officers promoted not by purchase but on merit (and still, inevitably, by influence). Edward, Viscount Cardwell (1813-86) was in 1868 appointed Secretary for War; he thereupon reorganised the British Army. (D.N.B.)

care a pin, farthing, rap, a damn, three damns, a tinker's curse, a fig—not to. These phrases are all coll., resp. — 1633, 1709, 1800, 1785, 1760, 1830, 1850; in C. 20, the first three and the last one are all S.E. There are others: e.g. . . . a button, a chip, a cent (mostly U.S.).

care-grinder, gen. preceded by vertical. The treadmill: c.; ca. 1860-1900.

care if I . . . , I don't. I am disposed to . . . From ca. 1840; coll., now on verge of S.E.

care if I do, I don't. Yes, all right. Orig. (— 1870), U.S., anglicised ca. 1900. (Gen. in acceptance of a drink.)

careening; careened. Physic-taking; forced to take physic: naval: ca. 1820-60. Bee. Ex lit. S.E. sense.

careful. Mean in money matters: coll.: from ca. 1890.

carfindo. A ship's carpenter: naval: C. 19. F. & Gibbons. Perhaps a corruption of carpenter influenced by dial. carf, a notch in wood.

cárgo. Contemptuous for a person: C. 17; coll. Ben Jonson. Perhaps ex Sp. cargo (S.O.D.).—2. Money: c. and low, late C. 17-18. B.E. For semantics, cf. caravan, 2, q.v.—3. (Winchester College) a hamper from home: from ca. 1840; ob.

cargo, despatch one's. To ease oneself (of the major need): euphemistic, yet rather objectionable (— 1923). Manchon.

cargo (or C.) Bill. A R.N. Reserve officer serving in the Navy: naval: ca. 1870-1914. Bowen. Before the G.W. he used to be considered a 'passenger'.

Carl the caretaker's in charge! This is a quiet sector (of the line)!: military c.p.: 1915-18 (Western Front). This imaginary German was occ. called Minnie's husband (see minnie) or Hans the grenadier (ex the bombing-parties). F. & Gibbons.

Carlo Khan. Charles James Fox. Ex his magnificence. (Dawson.) Cf. Young Cub.

Carmagnole. A French soldier: ca. 1790-1800. Burns uses it of Satan. Ex the Fr. revolutionary song. (S.O.D.) carmine. Blood: sporting (— 1860); † by 1900. Chambers's Journal, 1860. Cf. ruby and claret.

carnal. Sol. for cardinal: mid-C. 16-20. See also cardinal.

carnardine. Incorrect for carnadine: C. 17-20. O.E.D.

carney, carny. Seductive flattery; suave hypocrisy. From ca. 1820; coll. (See carneying.) More common as v.t. and i.:

carn(e)y, v. To coax, wheedle insinuatingly: coll. (— 1811) and dial. ? ex It. carne, flesh. Cf. the n. and the next two entries.

carn(e)y. Sly; cunning, artful: low and military (— 1914). F. & Gibbons. Ex the n.; cf.:

carney, come the. To speak or act flatteringly: low (— 1923). Manchon. Ex carney, n.

carneying, ppl. adj. Wheedling, coaxing, insinuating, seductively flattering, suavely hypocritical: from ca. 1830. Coll. Mayhew; R. L. Stevenson, 1884, 'the female dog, that mass of carneying affectations'. This and its radical prob. come ex L. caro, carnis, flesh (cf. S.E. carnal and c. carnish, meat), via It. carne and after blarney.

carnish. Meat: C. 19-20 c. Ex Lingua Franca ex It. Hence carnish-ken, a thieves' eating-house or 'prog-shop'. North Country.

carny. See carney.

caroon. In low Cockney and Parlyaree: a crown (piece). Ca. 1845-1915; surviving in medza caroon, half a crown. Perhaps ex It. corona, perhaps merely crown mispronounced; Sampson's note at kuruna suggests a Gypsy origin (cf. Romany koóróna).

carousel. Incorrect for carousal: C. 18-20. (O.E.D.)

carpenter scene. Comic dialogue, in front of the curtain, while elaborate sets are being erected: theatrical: ca. 1860-95. Ware.—2. The raising of the curtain: theatrical (— 1923). Manchon.

carpenter's herb. 'Erroneously, bungle and yarrow': C. 18-20. O.E.D. Properly, self-heal.

carpet. A prison sentence or term of three months: C. 20 c. Charles E. Leach; Slang, p. 243.

carpet, v. To reprimand: coll.: recorded in 1840, H. Cockton's once famous novel, Valentine Vox. Ex carpet, walk the, q.v.

carpet, bring on the. To bring (a matter) up or forward for discussion: from ca. 1720; coll. till C. 19, when S.E. Lit., bring on the table (before the council, etc.), for carpets 'covered tables and beds before they were used for floors': W.

carpet, walk the. To be reprimanded: from ca. 1820; coll. John Galt. Ex 'servants . . . summoned into the "parlour" for a wiggling', W.

carpet-bag recruit. (Military) a recruit worth more than what he stands up in: from ca. 1875. Cf. the U.S. adj., carpet-bag, and n., carpet-bagger: see Thornton.

carpet-dance. An (informal) drawing-room dance: Society coll. (1877); ob. Ware.

carpet-knight. Prior to 1800 the stress is on the boudoir; after, on the drawing-room (see carpet-man). A stay-at-home soldier: from ca. 1570; coll.; in C. 19-20, S.E. Etymologically, 'one knighted at court, kneeling on the carpet before the throne, instead of on the battlefield', W.

carpet-man or -monger. A frequenter of ladies' boudoirs and carpeted chambers: late C. 16-17; coll. The occupation is carpet-trade: late C. 16-17, coll.—2. (Carpet-man only.) A naval officer promoted by influence: naval: late C. 19-20. Bowen.

carpet-road. A level, well-kept road: coll.: late C. 17-18. B.E.

carpet-slippered bugger. 'A heavy shell passing far overhead, therefore with but a faint noise': military: 1915; ob. B. & P. Also carpet slipper, a shell passing silently, esp. if of the naval high-explosive type: the two words, therefore, are virtually synonymous.

carpet-swab. A carpet bag: from ca. 1835; coll. Barham in his poem, Misadventure at Margate.

carpeting. A scolding: coll.: from ca. 1870; ob. Ex carpet, v., q.v.

carping. Carking: catachrestic: late C. 16-20. O.E.D. carriage, Her Majesty's. See Queen's bus.

carriage-company. People—orig. merchants and tradesmen—having their own carriages: coll. > S.E.; from ca. 1830; ob. Thackeray, 1855, 'No phrase more elegant . . . than . . . "seeing a great deal of carriage-company"'. (O.E.D.) carried. Married: rhyming s. (—1909); ob. Ware.

carrier, in (? late C. 17—)C. 18—early 19 c., is a criminal band's spy or look-out. A New Canting Dict., 1725.

carrier pigeon. (Racing) a person running hither and thither with 'commissions'. From ca. 1850. In C. 20, however, it is also racing s. for a thief, according to Manchon: but I suspect an error here. —2. In c., a victimiser of lottery-office keepers: mid-C. 18—early 19. G. Parker, 1781.

carriion. A harlot: C. 18—19.—2. The human body: C. 19—20; pejoratively indicated in C. 17, = low coll.

carriion-case. A shirt; a chemise. Low: C. 19—20; ob.

carriion-hunter. An undertaker: ca. 1780—1850. Grose, 1st ed. Carriion = corpse was S.E. of ca. 1760—1900. Cf. cold cook.

carriion-row. A place where inferior meat is sold: ca. 1720—1800. Swift.

carrogh. Incorrect for curragh, coracle. O.E.D. carrot!, take a. A low and insulting c.p. (—1874); ob. H., 5th ed. Orig. said to women only and of a scabrous implication: contrast have a banana!, the C. 20 innocent phrase that soon came, in certain circles, to be used obscenely. Cf. the ob. French Et ta sœur, aime-t-elle les radis?

carrot-nob. See carrots. — carrot-pated. See carrotty.

carrots. Red hair: coll.: Wesley père seems to have been, in 1685, the first to print the term, as B.E. was the first to record it of a red-haired person; as the latter, a rather uncouth nickname, with the C. 20 variant, carrot-nob (Manchon).

carrotty. Having red hair: from ca. 1740; coll. >, by 1880, S.E. Smollett in Roderick Random, Thackeray in the Newcomes. Mark Lemon, the mid-Victorian humorist, noted of the Greeks that all the Graces were Xáριται. Earlier was carrot-pated (B.E.), likewise coll. (Often misspelt carrotty.)

carry. The distance for which an occupied stretcher is, or has, to be carried: Royal Army Medical Corps coll. in G.W.—and since. Philip Gosse, Memoirs of a Camp-Follower, 1934.

carry a (great) stroke. To have, wield much influence: ca. 1640—1800; coll. > S.E.

carry an M under one's girdle. See girdle, ne'er an . . .

carry coals. To endure, put up with an insult or an injury: late C. 16—17: coll. >, by 1620, S.E. Shakespeare, in Romeo and Juliet, 'Gregory, o' my word, we'll not carry coals.'

carry corn. To behave well in success: mid-C. 19—20, gen. as ' . . . doesn't carry corn well'. Ex the behaviour of corn-fed horses. Doubtless adopted from dial. (E.D.D. records it for 1845) and at first mainly rural.

carry dog. See dog, put on.

carry-knave. A low harlot: C. 17—18; coll. Taylor the Water Poet.

carry Matilda. See Matilda.

carry me out and bury me decent(ly)! An exclamation indicative of the auditor's incredulity or, occ., displeasure: coll.; from ca. 1780. After

ca. 1870, gen. abbr. to carry me out! Post-1850 variants, all † by 1930, were carry me out and leave me in the gutter, carry me upstairs, carry me home, and whoa, carry me out: cf. let me die and good night!, qq.v. (Ware.)

carry on. To behave conspicuously; frolic; flirt. Coll.: from ca. 1850. Whyte-Melville, 1856, 'Lady Carmine's eldest girl is carrying on with young Thriftless.' Prob. nautical in origin: ex carrying on sail. See carryings-on.—2. To endure hardship; show quiet and constant fortitude: a C. 20 coll. popularised by the G.W. An imperative, orig. a military order, then (1917) = go ahead!, continue!, esp. continue as you are now doing. Cf.:

carry on or carry under. A c.p. slogan employed by old sailing-ship captains, 'whose creed was to clap on sail regardless of risk' (Bowen): C. 19—20; ob. Cf.:

carry on, Sergeant-Major! Go ahead; Oh, you do that!; I've finished, you can do as you like: military (rarely among officers) c.p.: from 1915. B. & P., 'Often a lazy or incompetent officer's evasion, [it] was originally the Company Commander's order to his S.M.'

carry out one's bat. See bat.

carry-tale. A tale-bearer: ca. 1570—1840; coll. in C. 16, then S.E.

carry the banner. To tramp the road; be a tramp: vagrants' c., C. 20.

carry the can. To be reprimanded: naval: late C. 19—20. Bowen. Prob. suggested by carry the keg, q.v. In the form carry the can back it means, since ca. 1920 in the R.A.F.: to be made the scapegoat; to do the dirty work while another person gets the credit.

carry the keg. A c. pun on cag, carry the, q.v.: 1812, Vaux; † by 1890. Whence distiller, walking, q.v.

carry the stick. Applied to the operation whereby a woman, in conversation, robs a well-dressed elderly, or drunk, man, and her male associate, masquerading as a detective, makes a fuss and enables her to depart. Scottish thieves': ca. 1860—1920. The London equivalent, same period, is to trip up.

carrying three red lights. Drunk: nautical: C. 20. Bowen, 'From the "Not under Control" signal'.

carryings-on. Conspicuous behaviour; frolics; flirtation: from ca. 1840; coll. G. A. Sala, 1859. A much earlier coll. sense is: questionable proceedings, as in Butler, Hudibras, 'Is this the end | To which these Carryings-on did tend?' Cf. goings-on.

carsey. A C. 19—20 c. variant of case (q.v.), a house, a den, a brothel.—2. A place: grafters': C. 20. Philip Allingham.

cart. A race-course: racing-men's: ca. 1855—70. 'Ducange Anglicus', 1st ed. ? connected with correct card, q.v.—2. The upper shell of a crab: coll. and dial. (—1850). H., 2nd ed.—3. A bed: Regular Army's: mid-C. 19—20; ob. F. & Gibbons.—4. Hence, a bunk: ships' stewards': from ca. 1919.—5. See carts.

cart, v.t. To defeat, surpass, do better than: Oxford and Cambridge University: from ca. 1850; † by 1934. Esp. as we carted them home, defeated them badly. Cf. the next entry.—2. To arrest: low Glasgow (—1934). Alastair Baxter; Alex. MacArthur & Kingsley Long. Gen. in the passive.—3. To hit vigorously at cricket: Public Schools':

from ca. 1890. V.i. in P.G. Wodehouse, A Prefect's Uncle, 1903 : v.t. in Id., Tales of St. Austin's, 1903.

cart, in the. Wrong; in the wrong; in a 'fix'. Esp. as put in the cart, to deceive, trick, embarrass, incommode seriously, as a jockey his owner. Racing and gen. from ca. 1865. Occ. as carted or as in the box. 'Perhaps goes back to the cart in which criminals were taken to execution', W.—2. In the know: from ca. 1870. The Referee, April 1, 1883.—3. (Oce. as on the tail-board), it is applied to the lowest scorer: gaming, mid-C. 19–20. Cf. sense 1.

cart, walk the. To walk over the course: racing, from ca. 1870. In 'Ducange Anglicus', 1857, the form is traverse the cart.

cart away, occ. off or out. To remove: coll., C. 19–20.

cart before the horse, set or put. To reverse the usual order, whether of things or of ideas. From ca. 1500; a coll. that, in C. 17, > S.E.

cart-grease. Bad butter, then any butter: from ca. 1875. Cf. cow-grease.

cart-wheel. Variant coach-wheel. Both gen. abbr. to wheel. A crown piece: low: from ca. 1855. 'Ducange Anglicus', 1st ed.—2. A broad hint: C. 19.—3. turn cart-wheels, to execute a series of lateral somersaults (the arms and legs resembling wheel-spokes): from ca. 1860; coll.; in C. 20, S.E. Earlier (ca. 1840–75), do a Catharine wheel, q.v.

Cartholic. See Catholic.

carts. A pair of shoes: mid-C. 19–20; ob. Hotten explains by Norfolk cart, a crab's shell; Ware refers it to the noise made by a labourer walking heavily. Cf. boats and two feet . . ., qq.v.

carty. Of the build and/or breed of a cart-horse: 1863; coll. (O.E.D.) In C. 20, rare.

carve up. To swindle an accomplice out of his share: C. 20 c. Charles E. Leach.—2. Hence, a carve-up is any swindle: lower classes' (—1935).—3. The amount of money left by a will: C. 20. (M. Harrison, Spring in Tartarus, 1935.) Cf. cut up rich (or warm).

Carvel's ring. The puerum muliebri: mid-C. 18—early 19: low coll. Ex a scabrous anecdote, for which see the (sometimes legally) inimitable Grose (1st ed.).

carver and gilder. A match-maker: from ca. 1820; ob. Egan's Grose.

carving knife. A wife: military rhyming s. (—1914). F. & Gibbons. Much more gen. is trouble and strife.

casa, ca-sa, or ca. sa. A writ of capias ad satisfaciendum. Legal coll.: late C. 18–20; ob.—2.

casa, case. A house, a brothel, c., C. 17–20, leads to C. 19–20 c. and low s. case-house, a brothel, and late C. 18–18 c. and low s. case vrow, a harlot attached to a particular bawdy-house.—3. The case form, in C. 19, also means a water-closet. Ex It. casa.

casabianc. The last of anything, esp. of cigarettes: naval and military. Mid C. 19–20. Bowen; B. & P. Ex Casabianca, the boy hero of Mrs. Hemans.

casalty (boy). See casualty, n. and adj. It is a sol. form.

cascade. A trundling and gymnastic performance: theatrical, from ca. 1840; ob.—2. Beer: in Tasmania, then slightly on the Australian continent: from ca. 1880. Ex the cascade water from which it was made: the firm that, at Hobart, makes it is known as the Cascade Brewery Company.

cascade, v. To vomit: low coll., from ca. 1780. Smollett's 'She cascaded in his urn', 1771, is only analogous; Grose, however, has it (2nd ed.).

case. A bad crown-piece: c. and low, ca. 1835–1900. Brandon. Hence, the sum of five shillings: C. 20 low. Prob. ex Yiddish caser.—2. An eccentric person, a 'character', a 'cure'. Orig. (—1833) U.S., anglicised ca. 1850. H., 1st ed.—3. The female pudend: C. 17 (e.g. in Fletcher's The Chances).—4. An unfortunate matter, end, as in 'I fear it's a case with him': from ca. 1864.—5. The certainty to fall in love: from ca. 1870, as 'it's a case with them.' Miss Braddon, in To the Bitter End, 1872.—6. A love-affair: schoolgirls', from ca. 1860; ob. H., 2nd ed.—7. A 'love-affair' between two boys: Public Schools': C. 20.—8. See casa, 2.—9. Hence, occ., a water-closet: c. or low s. (—1864). H., 3rd ed.—10. In C. 20 racing e., a fool, a 'mug'. Wallace in The Twister.—11. (Westminster School) the discussion by 'seniors' and 'upper election' of a thrashing, likewise the tanning itself: from ca. 1860; ob.—12. That which is, in the circumstances, to be expected: coll. (—1924). O.E.D. (Sup.).—13. Often very loosely and unnecessarily used: C. 19–20. (See esp. Fowler; Sir Arthur Quiller-Couch also has written with effective and, one hopes, effectual causticity on the subject.)

case, v. In C. 20 e., to report (a prisoner) for slackness; punish with solitary confinement.—2. To spoil; delay inevitably: c. (—1934). James Spenser, 1934, 'Well, this cases things for a while. We'll have to lie low.'

case. Abbr. in case (= to ensure against the possibility, or the fact, that): coll.: from ca. 1890.

cased up with, be. To live with (a woman, esp. one's mistress): c.: C. 20. James Curtis, The Gilt Kid, 1936.

case-fro. Variant for case-vrow. B.E.

case-hardened. 'Tough'; of one who is a hard case: both coll., the latter (orig. U.S.) from ca. 1860, the former from ca. 1700 and S.E. by 1800.

case-keeper. The keeper of a brothel: (? C. 19.) C. 20 c. See casa, 2.

caseo. A C. 20 variant, in c., of casa, n., 2. J. Curtis, The Gilt Kid, 1936.

case of crabs. A failure: coll., ca. 1870–1920. ? ex catch a crab.

case of pickles. An incident, esp. if untoward; a break-down, -up. Coll.; from ca. 1870. † by 1920.

case of stump, a. (E.g. he is) penniless. Coll.: ca. 1870–1900. Cf. stumped.

case-ranging. An inspection of houses with a view to robbery: c. (—1923). Manchon. See casa, 2.

cases, get down to. To 'get down to brass tacks'; talk seriously: lower classes': C. 20. James Curtis, The Gilt Kid, 1936.

case-vrow, C. 18–19; case-fro, late C. 17–18. See casa, 2. The vrow is Dutch for a woman, the fro indicates German influence thereon.

casein(e). 'The correct thing'; punning the cheese, q.v. Rare. † by 1900. Charles Kingsley in a letter of May, 1856. (The -ine form is incorrect.)

caser. A crown-piece; the sum of five shillings: c. (—1874). In C. 20, the same, but low racing. Ex Yiddish.

casey; occ. cassoy. Cheese. C. 19–20 c. Cf. cassam, cash, caz, qq.v. Ex L. caseus.

cash; cass. Abbr. cassam, cassan, cheese: c.: late C. 17–19 (B.E.); C. 18–19. See also caz.—2. An Accountant Officer on duty: naval: C. 20. Bowen. (Only as cash.)

cash, equal to. Of undoubted and indubitable merit. Coll.: from ca. 1840; orig. (— 1835) U.S.

cash, in; out. Having plenty of: no: money. (In cash occurs in Thackeray.) Coll.: from ca. 1840.

cash a dog. (Gen as vbl.n.) To cash a cheque against non-existent funds: bank-clerks' (esp. Anglo-Irish): C. 20.

cash a prescription. To have a prescription made up. Coll.: from ca. 1880; ob.

cash in. To succeed, esp. financially: coll.: from ca. 1920. Ex cash in, to clear accounts, terminate a matter.—2. To die: coll.: C. 20. Ex:

cash (or hand in, or pass in) one's checks. To die: orig. (— 1860), U.S., anglicised ca. 1875. Checks = counters in the game of poker. Cf. peg out.

cash up, v.i. and t. Settle a debt; pay: from ca. 1830; ob. Barham; Dickens, in Martin Chuzzlewit; Sala, 'They'll never cash up a farthing piece.'

cashied-in. Dead; killed: military: C. 20. F. & Gibbons. Ex cash in, 2, q.v.

Cashels. Great Southern and Western of Ireland railway stock: money-market, from ca. 1878; ob. The line had, at first, no station at Cashel.

cashier. To deprive of one's cash: late C. 16—early 17. Shakespeare—? elsewhere.

cash. A (small) brougham: ca. 1853–1900; Society. Less gen. than pill-box.

cash, bull the. See bull the cash.

Cass, the. The Casino, a low-class music-hall at Manchester (on the site now occupied by the Manchester Social Club); also known as Mr. Burton's Night School, because run by a Mr. Burton: mostly Maneunians': ca. 1890–1910. John o' London's Weekly, Oct. 13, 1934.—2. (cass.) See cash.

cassam, cassan, cassom, casson, casum. Cheese: mid-C. 16–20 c. The earliest and commonest form is cassan; cash, an abbr., appears in C. 17; casum in C. 18. See casey, cash, and caz. Cf. the cas of Romany.

cast. Very drunk: Anglo-Irish (— 1935).

cast, at the last. At one's last chance or shift: c. 1450–1750; coll. > by 1600, S.E. Ex dicing.

cast, give a. To assist: waggoners' and estuary-sailors' coll.: mid-C. 19–20. H., 5th ed.

cast an optic. To look: sporting (— 1909); slightly ob. Ware.

cast beyond the moon. To make wild guesses: coll. soon > S.E.: from ca. 1540; ob. Heywood.

cast-iron horrors. See horrors, in the cast-iron.

Cast Iron Sixth, the. The 6th City of London Rifles: military: C. 20. F. & Gibbons. Ex endurance in training on Salisbury Plain.

cast(-)me(-)down. Cassidony, i.e. French lavender: sol.: ca. 1580–1800. Gerard, in his famous Herbal (1597), speaks of the 'simple people' who 'doc call it Caste me downe'.

cast-off. A discarded mistress: coll.: from ca. 1800.—2. In pl., landsmen's clothes: nautical: C. 19–20.—3. Also, any discarded clothes: coll.; C. 19–20.

cast stones against the wind. To work in vain: C. 17–18; coll. soon > S.E.

cast up one's accounts. See accounts.

Castalian (of the Muses) and Castilian (of Castile) are occ. confused: C. 17–20.

caste is occ. misused for cast: mid-C. 19–20. Fowler.

castell. To see, look: early C. 17; perhaps c. or coll., its history being problematic. Recorded in Rowlands, Martin Mark-All, 1610. ? ex castle as a vantage-point.

caster. See castor.—2. A cast-off or rejected person, animal, or thing: from ca. 1850; coll.—3. In mid-C. 16–18 c., a cloak. Harman.

Castieu's Hotel. The Melbourne gaol: Australian c. of ca. 1880–1910. Ex a man's name.

castle. Abbr. castle in Spain or the more gen. and English castle in the air: coll., C. 19–20.

Castle, the. Holloway Prison: c.: late C. 19–20. James Curtis, The Gilt Kid, 1936.

Castle of St. Thomas. 'The Penitentiary in St. Thomas's parish, where the frail part of the Oxford belles are sent under surveillance', Egan's Grose: Oxford University: ca. 1820–40.

castle-rag. A 'flag', i.e. a fourpenny piece: rhyming s. (— 1859); † by 1914. H., 1st ed.

castor; occ. caster. A hat, orig. of beaver's fur: in C. 17—early 18, S.E.; ca. 1760–1810, coll.; then s. Entick's London, 1640; Martin's Dict., 2nd ed., 1754; Moncrieff's Tom and Jerry, 1821; H., 1st–5th edd. (1859–74).

castor-oil artist or merchant. A surgeon; a physician: military: from ca. 1905. F. & Gibbons; B. & P. Cf.:

Castor-Oil Dragoons, the. The Royal Army Medical Corps: military: from ca. 1905; ob. F. & Gibbons.

casual. A casual ward in a hospital; an occasional workman, pauper, visitor, etc.: coll.; resp. from ca. 1850 and from ca. 1820. Bee, 1823, notes it of a boarder in a lodging house.

casual, adj. Uncertain, undependable, happy-go-lucky, slightly careless and callous: coll., from ca. 1880 (S.O.D. records for 1883). In the 1930's, on the verge of S.E.—2. Confused with causal: late C. 16–20. Cf. casuality confused with causality: C. 17–20. O.E.D. casualty. A casualty, a person wounded or killed. Sol.: from 1899.—2. See casual, adj., 2.

casualty. A casual labourer: Londoners' coll.: ca. 1850–1910. Mayhew, London Labour, II, 'The "casuals" or the "casualties" (always called amongst the men "cazzelties")', E.D.D. Hence casualty boy, q.v. casualty, adj. Casual: Londoners' coll.: mid-C. 19–20; ob. Mayhew, 1851, 'Red herrings, and other cas'alty fish'. Ex the dial. adj. casualty, for which see the E.D.D. casualty boy. 'A boy who hires himself out to a costermonger', E.D.D.: London coll.: ca. 1850–1910. Mayhew. Often casalty boy.

Cat. See Cat Street.

cat. A harlot: C. 16–19; in C. 19, ob.; by 1850, †. Lyndesay, 1535, in his satire on wantons; B.E.; Dyche; Grose. This sense of cat is due to Dutch influence.—2. Abbr. cat o' nine tails: apparently first in 1788, in Falconbridge's African Slave Trade: coll.; by 1820, S.E.—3. In C. 20 c., punishment by the 'cat'.—4. Abbr. tame cat, q.v.—5. The female pudend: coll., C. 19–20; otherwise pussy, cf. Fr. le chat.—6. Related is mid C. 19–20 (ob.) c. sense, a lady's muff (see muff). Brandon, 1839.—7. Also c. (— 1812), a quart pot, a pint pot being a kitten. It is implied by Vaux's cat and kitten rig.—8. A landlady in lodgings (rooms or boarding house): from ca. 1820; ob.

Peake in his comedy, Comfortable Lodgings, 1827.—9. See Cheshire cat.—10. Abbr. (— 1935), esp. among actors, cf. cat and mouse, q.v.

cat, v. To vomit: late C. 8–20: low coll.; in C. 20, mainly dial. Grose, 1st ed. Cf. cat, shoot the, q.v.

cat, do a. See do a cat.

cat, flying. See flying-cat.

cat, free a. To steal a muff: c. (— 1864). H., 3rd ed. See cat, n., 6.

cat, grin like a Cheshire. See Cheshire cat.

cat, not room enough to swing a. Cramped for space; very small: coll. >, in late C. 19, S.E.: from ca. 1770. Smollett.

cat, old. 'A cross old woman', Grose, 1st ed.: coll.: mid-C. 18–20.

cat on hot bricks, like a. See hot bricks.

cat l, s'elp (or s'help) the. A variant of bob, s'elp me, q.v.: low (— 1890); ob. F. & H. See also swelp.

cat, shoot the. To vomit: C. 19–20; coll. Lex. Bal., 1811; Marryat in The King's Own, 1830, 'I'm cursedly inclined to shoot the cat.' A C. 17–18 variant, jerk the cat; a C. 17–20 ob. variant, whip the cat, as in Taylor the Water Poet, 1630.

cat, sick as a. Vomiting; very sick indeed: coll.: mid-C. 19–20. Lyell.—2. Hence, extremely annoyed: s. (— 1931) now verging on coll. Ibid.

cat, whip the. To indulge in a certain practical joke: C. 18–19; coll. In C. 17–18, draw or pull someone through the water with a cat, as in Jonson's Bartholomew Fair, 1614, in B.E., and in Grose: for an explanation of the origin of the phrases, see Grose.—2. (Orig. of tailors), to work at private houses: coll.; from ca. 1785; ob. Grose, 2nd ed.—3. To cry over spilt milk: Australian coll. (— 1916). C. J. Dennis.

cat?, who ate or stole the. A c.p. against pilferers: C. 19–20, ob.; coll. Perhaps ex an actual incident.

cat?, who shot the. A stock reproach to the Volunteers: from ca. 1850. Extant in O.T.C.'s.

cat and dog life, lead a. (Of married couples) to be constantly quarrelling: coll., from ca. 1560. B.E. has agree like Dog and Cat.

cat and I'll kill your dog, you kill my. An exchange of (the lower) social amenities: C. 19–20; coll. Cf. Scottish ca' me, ca' thee.

cat-and-kitten hunting or sneaking. The stealing of quart and pint pots (see cat, n., 7): c. (— 1859); ob. H., 1st ed.

cat and kitten rig. The ca. 1810–50 form (Vaux) of the preceding.

cat and mouse. A house: rhyming s. (— 1857); ob. 'Ducange Anglicus', 1st ed.

Cat and Mouse Act. 'The Prisoners (Temporary Discharge for Ill-health) Act of 1913 to enable hunger-strikers to be released temporarily': 1913, Punch, July 23. O.E.D. (Sup.).

Cat and Mutton lancers. Militia: East London: 1870; † by 1920. Ware. They often drilled on Cat and Mutton Fields.

cat-burglar. A burglar that nimbly enters houses from the roof: from ca. 1919: coll.; S.E. by 1933. Cf. garreteer and dancer.

cat-faced. Ugly: low coll. (North of England): mid-C. 19–20. H., 3rd ed. Its original, cat-face, a pejorative n., may be dial.

Cat Fleet, the. 'The First Battle Cruiser Squadron of the Grand Fleet': naval: ca. 1900–21. Bowen. It included the Lion and the Tiger.

cat-harping fashion. Nautical, late C. 18–19: 'Drinking cross ways, and not as usual over the left thumb', Grose, 1st ed. Ex catharpin-fashion, q.v.

cat has kittened in one's mouth, to feel as if a. To 'have a mouth' after being drunk: from ca. 1600; coll. Field in his indelicate play, Amends for Ladies, 1618. Cf. Fr. avoir la gueule de bois.

cat-heads. Nautical, C. 18–20: the paps. Ex the S.E. sense.

cat in hell without claws, no more chance than a. A late C. 18–mid-19 c.p. applied to 'one who enters into a dispute or quarrel with one greatly above his match', Grose, 3rd ed. Cf. icicle's chance in Hades, not an, q.v.

cat in the pan, turn. To change sides, from self-interest; bc a turncoat. Coll.: from — 1384; ob. E.g. in Wyclif; Bacon's Essays; an anon. song entitled The Vicar of Bray (ca. 1720); Scott in Old Mortality. Whence cat in (the) pan, a turncoat or traitor. Perhaps ex cake in the pan, i.e. a pancake: which is often turned.

cat jumps, see, occ. watch, how or which way the. To observe the course of events: coll.; from ca. 1820. Scott; Lytton. Cf. sit on the fence.

cat-lap. Thin beverage, esp. tea: coll.: from ca. 1780. Grose (1st ed.), Scott, Miss Braddon.

cat laugh, enough to—or it would—make a. (It is) extremely funny, droll, ludicrous: coll.: 1851, Planché; 1898, Weyman. Apperson.

cat-market. Many persons all speaking at the one time: coll.; C. 19–20.

cat-match. A bowling match in which a dishonest expert is engaged with bad players: late C. 17–18 c. B.E.

cat-meat pusher. A street vendor of cooked horse-flesh: Cockney (— 1909). Ware. He sold it from a barrow.

cat-nap. A short sleep had while sitting: coll.; from ca. 1850.

cat-o'-nine-tails. A nine-lashed scourge, until 1881 employed in the British army and navy; since, though decreasingly, for criminals. From ca. 1670. From ca. 1700, coll.; from ca. 1780, S.E. In Head's The English Rogue; Vanbrugh, in The False Friend, 'You dread reformers of an impious age, | You awful cat-a-nine tails to the stage'; Smollett in Roderick Random.

cat on testy dodge, a. 'A ladylike beggar worrying ladies at their houses for money—if only a sixpence (tester)', Ware: c. of ca. 1870–1914.

cat out of the bag, let the. See at bag.

cat-party. A party of women only: coll., C. 19–20. Also cats' party: sporting (— 1888); slightly ob. Cf. bitch- and hen-party.

cat-skin. An inferior make of silk hat: 1857, Hughes; ob. by 1900, † by 1920. (O.E.D.) Cf. rabbit-skin.

cat speak (and a wise man dumb), enough or able to make a. Astounding: coll.: late C. 16–20, ob. D'Urfey, 1719, 'Old Liquor able to make a Cat speak'; Dickens elaborates. The man addition appears in 1661, in a form that shows D'Urfey to be repeating a proverb: 'Old liquor able to make a cat speak and a wise man dumb': a proverb implicit in Shakespeare's Tempest, I, ii, 'Open your mouth', etc., and in one—perhaps an earlier—Shirburn Ballad, 'Who is it but loves good liquor? 'Twill make a catte speake.' (Apperson.) cat-stabber. An Army clasp-knife; a bayonet: military: C. 20. F. & Gibbons; B. & P.

cat-sticks. Thin legs: late C. 18-mid-19: coll. Grose, 1st ed. ? ex trap-sticks.

Cat Street. St. Catherine's Street: Oxford undergraduates': late C. 19-20. Collinson. Orig. Cat.

cat up. A variant of cat, v.: late C. 19-20.

cat-walk. A 'brick-paved pathway, usually one brick (nine inches) wide, laid down across farm fields in Flanders': military: late 1914-18. F. & Gibbons.

cat with laughter. To laugh 'fit to burst': low (- 1923). Manchon. See cat, v.

cat-witted. Obstinate and spiteful: coll.: ca. 1660-1930. Contrast the dial. senses: scatter-brained, silly, conceited, whimsical.

[Catachresis. Most of those catachrestic usages—incorrectnesses, confusions, vaguenesses of sense—of the C. 16-mid-19 which appear in these pages are taken from the O.E.D.: this is not to say that I was ignorant of all or even most of them; but since it was the O.E.D. which reminded me of the catachreses that I knew, I wish to 'render unto Caesar'. Nevertheless, I have added a certain number that are not to be found in the O.E.D., nor in Webster.—See also 'Solecism', where I animadvert upon the interesting fact that an illiterate mistake is stigmatised as a solecism (or, in certain dictionaries, as a vulgarism), but a literate mistake is palliated as a catachresis.]

[Catacombs, the. This name for the great multi-cellular dug-out in Northern France is ineligible, despite a frequently held opinion.]

catacency. Incorrect for catalempsy, catalepsy: C. 16. O.E.D.

catamaran. 'An old scraggy woman', Grose, 3rd ed.: from not later than 1791. Whence the soon prevailing nuance: a cross-grained person, esp. if a woman; a vixenish old woman: coll. (- 1833). Marryat; Thackeray, in The Newcomes, 'What an infernal tartar and catamaran!' ? a corruption of cat o' mountain (as in Fletcher's The Custom of the Country, 1616), which, in U.S., has, since ca. 1830, meant a shrew.

cataphract. A cataract: catachrestic: late C. 16-mid-17. O.E.D.

cataract. A black satin scarf worn by 'commercials' for the surface and effect it offers to jewellery: ca. 1830-70. Ware.

catastrophe. The tail, the end. Late C. 16-early 19, jocular coll., as in Shakespeare, (Falstaff:) 'I'll tickle your catastrophe.'

catawamp(ous); occ. catawamptious. Avid; fierce, eager; violently destructive: orig. U.S.; almost imm. anglicised by Dickens in Martin Chuzzlewit. The adv. (-ly) appeared notably in England in Lytton's My Novel, 1853. Perhaps, says W., suggested by catamount.

catawampus. Vermin and insects, esp. the stingers and biters. From ca. 1870; Mortimer Collins, 1880, '... catawampuses, as the ladies call them'. Ex preceding.

catch. A person matrimonially desirable: coll.; anticipated by Dryden's 'The Gentleman had a great Catch of her, as they say,' and Jane Austen's 'on the catch for a husband', the term > gen. only ca. 1830-45. (S.O.D.)—2. In c., C. 17-19, a prize, a booty.

catch, v.i. To become pregnant: coll., mostly lower classes': late C. 19-20.

catch, no. Unwelcome, profitless; difficult: coll.: C. 20. Lyell. Prob. ex catch, n., 1.

catch (rarely cut) a crab. In rowing, to mull one's stroke, esp. by jamming the oar in the water as if a crab had caught it. Coll.: late C. 18-20; after G.W., S.E. Grose, Marryat, Hood.

catch a Tartar. Unexpectedly to meet one's superior; be hoisted by one's own petard. Late C. 17-20: coll. till ca. 1850, then S.E. Dryden, Smollett, Fanny Burney. For semantics, see Tartar.

catch bending. To catch (a person) at a disadvantage: jocular coll.: C. 20. P. G. Wodehouse, Psmith in the City, 1910; Lyell. Esp. in a c.p., don't let me catch you bending (ob.). A person bending is in a favourable position to be kicked.

catch-bet. A bet made to inveigle the unwary: low coll.; from ca. 1870. H., 5th ed.

catch club, a member of the. A bailiff or his assistant: late C. 18-early 19: jocular coll. Grose, 2nd ed.

catch cocks. To obtain money on false pretences: military c., late C. 19-20; ob. Ware, who notes that the vbl.n. is cock-catching.

catch 'em (all) alive-o! A c.p. of ca. 1850-80. Orig. a fisherman's phrase, but by 1853, if not a year or two earlier, it had a tremendous vogue. Its intent was to raise a smile, its meaning almost null.

—2. (Gen. without the '-o'). A fly-paper: from ca. 1855; ob. Mayhew; Dickens in Little Dorrit. —3. A small comb (cf. louse-trap): ca. 1860-1910. H., 3rd ed.—4. The female pudend: low: from ca. 1864: ob.

catch-fake. The doubling of a rope badly coiled: nautical coll.: late C. 19-20. Bowen. I.e. a faked 'catch'.

catch-fart. A footman or a page: late C. 17-19. B.E., Grose.

catch it. To be scolded, reprimanded; castigated: coll.; from ca. 1830. Marryat, Jacob Faithful, 1835, 'We all thought Tom was about to catch it.'

catch me!; catch me at it! I'll do no such thing! Coll.: from ca. 1770. Mrs. Cowley, Galt, Dickens ('"Catch you at forgetting anything!"' exclaimed Carker').

catch on. Coll.: to join on, attach oneself to: coll.: from ca. 1884.—2. To 'take', be a success: from ca. 1886: coll.—3. To understand, grasp the meaning or significance, apprehend: orig. (- 1884), U.S., anglicised ca. 1888: coll.

catch, occ. get, on the hop. To surprise; find unprepared. From ca. 1861: oll. The Chickaleary Cove, a popular song—the famous Vance its singer: 'For to get me on the hop, or on my 'tibby' drop, | You must wake up very early in the morning.'

catch on the rebound. See rebound.

catch one bending. See catch bending.

catch one's death of cold. To get a severe chill: coll., from ca. 1870.

catch meself on, gen. in imperative. V.i., to pull oneself up or together; recover one's common sense: lower classes' coll.: C. 20.

catch out. To detect in a mistake or a misdoing: 1815, Jane Austen: coll. >, by 1900, S.E. Ex cricket; cf. bowl out. (O.E.D. Sup.) catch-penny. A penny 'gaff' (show or exhibition); a broadsheet describing an imaginary murder. Coll.: ca. 1820-1910. Other senses are S.E.

[catch-pole, despite F. & H., is not 'eligible'. It occurs by the way, in Langland.]

catch the bird. To have a short sleep: nautical: late C. 19-20. Bowen.

catch the wind of the word. Quickly to apprehend (cf. catch on): orig. Irish. C. 19–20; ob.

catch the zig. To get 'done'; 'buy a pup': C. 20 racing c. John Morris: see Slang, p. 243.

catch up. To interrupt, 'pull up', correct (a person): from ca. 1840; coll. till ca. 1900, then S.E. Dickens, in Barnaby Rudge, 'You catch me up so very short.'

catched. Caught: S.E. >, by 1800, sol.

catchee. Pidgin English for catch, as havee for have: C. 18–20.

catcher. In ball-games, a catch; esp. knock up a catcher, q.v.: coll.: C. 20.

catcher, knock up a. See also knock up a catcher.

catching harvest. A dangerous time for a robbery on account of congested roads: coll.: C. 18–mid-19. A New Canting Dict., 1725.

catchup (ca. 1690), catsup (1730). Incorrect, via slovenly pronunciation, for ketchup. O.E.D.; W.

catchy. Attractive, esp. if vulgarly so: 1831: coll., as orig. were the senses: soon popular (e.g. of a tune), from ca. 1830, and tricky (as of examination questions), from ca. 1884. But from ca. 1890 all three meanings have been S.E. (S.O.D.)—2. Inclined to take an (esp. undue) advantage: (—)1859. H., 1st ed.—3. Spasmodic: coll.: U.S., 1872; England, 1883. O.E.D.—4. Merry: Scots coll.: 1804, Tarras, O.E.D. catechi. Catechism(-lesson): Public Schools': late C. 19–20. (E. F. Benson, David Blaize, 1916.)

category. Inferior; second- or third-rate: military coll.: late 1915–18. F. & Gibbons, 'This is a category sort of road.' Ex the 1915–18 military j. category man, a man pronounced unfit for front-line service or for very heavy service elsewhere.

caterpillar. An illicit or an illegal liver-by-his-wits: late C. 16–17: orig. c., then s., then almost S.E.—2. Whence, a soldier: mid-C. 18–early 19. Grose, 2nd ed.—3. A ladies' school a-walking: Society: 1848; † by 1920. Ware. Cf. crocodile, 2, q.v.

caterwaul, v. To make sexual love: late C. 16–20 (ob.): coll. until ca. 1700, then s. The vbl.n. caterwauling is more gen. Nashe; Congreve; Smollett, concerning the servant-maids in Humphry Clinker, '... junketting and caterwauling with the fellows of the country'.

catever, n. and adj. (A) queer (affair), (a) bad or inferior (thing). Low and Parlyaree: from ca. 1840. The spelling is various. Ex It. cattivo, bad.

catgut-scraper. A fiddler: late C. 17–20; ob.; coll. Ned Ward, Wolecot, Mayhew.

Catharine Puritans. (Cambridge) members of St. Catharine's Hall: ca. 1860–1914. Punning Gr. καθαίρειν, to purify. Cf. Doves.

Catharine or Catherine wheel, do a. To do a lateral somersault, a 'cart-wheel': coll., ca. 1850–1900.

catharpin fashion. 'When People in Company Drink cross, and not going about from the Right to the Left', B.E.: drinkers': late C. 17–18. Ex Gr. κατὰ + πίνειν, to drink. The early form of cat-harping-fashion, q.v.

cathedral. A high hat: Winchester College, C. 19–20.

cathedral, adj. Old-fashioned; antique. Coll.: late C. 17–early 19. B.E., Johnson, Grose.

Catherine Hayes. A drink made of claret, sugar, and nutmeg: ca. 1858–1890; Australian. Prob. ex the Irish singer so popular in Australia. Frank Fowler, 1859.

Catherine wheel. See Catharine wheel.

Catholic. Incorrectly, by Anglicans, pronounced cartholic ca. 1870–1910. John Gibbons (private letter, 1/5/35). Catholic for Roman Catholic is a catachresis noticed as early as 1676 by Elisha Coles, whose English Dict. has not received the attention it deserves.

catolla, catelier. A noisy fellow, either prating or foolish—or both. Early C. 19. Pierce Egan used it of a foolish betting man (1825).

cats. Atlantic Seconds: Stock Exchange, ca. 1875–85.

Cat's. (Cambridge) St. Catharine's Hall: from ca. 1870. (Oxford) St. Catherine's Society: from 1900—i.e. thirty-two years before the Non-Collegiate Delegacy attained St. C. S.—and often as St. Cat's. Hence, Cat's man: a member of either college.

cats, fight like Kilkenny. To fight even unto mutual destruction: coll.: C. 19–20.

cats and dogs, rain. To rain hard: coll.: Swift adumbrated this coll. in 1710 and employed it in 1738 (date of printing; written ca. 1708); Shelley; Barham. C. 19 humorists often added and pitchforks and shovels.

cat's face. A 'worker wanted' notice in the window: tailors': C. 20. E.g. The Tailor and Cutter, Nov. 29, 1928.

cat's foot, live under the. To be hen-pecked: coll.: late C. 17–19. Ray, 1678; Grose; Spurgeon. (Apperson.)

cat's head. The end of a shoulder of mutton: Winchester College, from ca. 1830; ob. Cf. dispar, q.v.

cat's meat. The human lungs: low coll.: from ca. 1820. Egan's Grose. Ex the 'lights' of animals, a favourite food of cats.—2. 'Small pieces of mutton and bacon . . . skewered on a stick and boiled', Pettman defining bobbetjes: South African (— 1913).

cat's neck, who shall hang the bell about the. Who will take the risk? C. 17–18 coll.: = bell the cat, q.v.

cats of nine tails of all prices, he has. A late C. 18–early 19 low c.p. applied to the hangman. Grose, 3rd ed. (at cart).

cat's party. See cat-party.

cat's paw. A dupe: late C. 18–20; coll. until ca. 1820, then S.E. Cat's foot was so used a century earlier.

cat's pyjamas, the. Anything very good, attractive, etc.: American (— 1920) anglicised by 1923 but † by 1933. Cf. the bee's knees.

cat's water. Gin: low: mid-C. 19–20. H., 1st ed. Cf. bitches' wine and esp. the semantic determinant, old Tom.

cat's whisker. A thin wire for establishing contact on a crystal (wireless) set: from ca. 1920; ob.

cat's whiskers, the. A variant of the cat's pyjamas (see above): 1927, Dorothy Sayers in Unnatural Death; virtually †.

catskin. See cat-skin.

Catskin Earls. The three senior earls in the House of Lords: Parliamentary; from ca. 1860. The etymology is obscure: see F. & H.

catso. The male member: C. 17–early 18. Also, same period, a scamp, rogue, 'cullion'. The former sense, recorded in 1702, precedes the other by six years. Also an exclamation with later form gadso. Ex the It. cazzo, the membrum virile, the word has, in its different senses, several very English parallels.

catsoo'd. Drunk (1915-18); ex catsoos, a drink of beer at an estaminet (1914-18), the price—in the early days of the War—being quatre sous, approximately 2d. F. & Gibbons.

catsup. See catchup.

catting, vbl.n. 'Drawing a Fellow through a Pond with a Cat', B.E.: late C. 17-19; coll. Cf. cat, (whip the), q.v.—2. A vomiting: C. 19-20, low: see cat, (shoot the).—3. Running after harlots and near-harlots: coll.: late C. 17-early 19. See cat, n.

cattle, a pejorative fairly strong in C. 16-18, fairly mild (as in kittle cattle = women) in C. 19-20, applied to human beings: Gosson, 1579, 'Poets, and Pipers, and suche peevish Cattel'; Shakespeare, in As You Like It, of boys and women; Evelyn, '... concubines, and cattell of that sort'; G. R. Sims, in The Dagonet Ballads, 'Queer cattle is women to deal with.' Strictly, S.E.; but the contemptuous usage makes the term analogous to coll. It is the etymological kinship with chattels which prompted,—perhaps rather it determined,—the contempt. Note, too, that in the late C. 17-early 18, the word was wholly coll. in the sense recorded by B.E.: 'Cattle, Whores, Sad Cattle, Impudent Lewd Women', with which cf. Evelyn's phrase, preceded as it is by a reference to 'Nelly', i.e. Nell Gwynn. In C. 18-early 19, sad cattle also meant gypsies, while in c. black cattle = lice; in C. 19 low coll., small cattle = vermin, lice (Baumann).

cattle-racket. A system of plunder: Australian coll.: ca. 1850-1900. Ex a wholesale plunder in cattle in New South Wales, app. in the 1840's. Morris.

catty. Spiteful and sly: gen. of women: from ca. 1885: coll. >, by 1910, S.E. Cattish, S.E. in the same sense, occurs a few years earlier. (S.O.D.)—2. Agile, smart; skilfully careful: Canadian (esp. lumbermen's) coll.: C. 20. John Beames.

caucus as a pejorative was, at first (say 1878-90), so close to being coll. as makes no difference. Its other senses, ex the U.S., have always been S.E. For this interesting and significant word see esp. the O.E.D., Thornton, Weckley, S.O.D. caudge-pawed. Left-handed: coll. and dial.: mid-C. 17-20; ob. B.E., Grose. Cf. cack-, car- and caw-handed, also lefty and maul(e)y.

caudle of hemp-seed, or hempen caudle. Hanging: jocular coll.: late C. 16-early 17. The latter in Shakespeare.

caul, be born with a. To be born lucky: coll.: C. 17-20, ob. Ben Jonson; Dickens.

cauli. Cauliflower: coll.: late C. 19-20. (Time and Tide, April 20, 1935.)

cauliflower. A clerical wig modish temp. Queen Anne; hence, v.i. and t., to powder a wig: both soon †.—2. Whence, 'any one who wears powder on his head', Bce: ca. 1820-40.—3. The female pudend: C. 18-19. See Grose (1st ed.) for a witty, broad, and improbable origin.—4. The foaming top to (e.g. a tankard of) beer: from ca. 1870, ob. Ex Scots, where recorded as early as 1813: E.D.D. Contrast the Fr. un bock sans faux-col.—5. In pl., the 47th Regiment of Foot (after 1881, the North Lancashires): military: from ca. 1840. Ex its white facings. Known also as the Lancashire Lads.—6. Short for cauliflower ear: coll.: from ca. 1925.—7. A goods-engine drawing waggons laden with cauliflowers and other green-stuff that had come from the Channel Islands: railwaymen's: late C. 19-early 20.

caulk or caulking. A (short) sleep: nautical; from ca. 1820. Marryat. Perhaps ex:—2. A dram: nautical; from ca. 1800. Semantics: 'something to keep out the wet' or 'the damp'.

caulk, v. To sleep, esp. if surreptitiously: nautical; from ca. 1835. Cf. n., 1.—2. V.t., to cease, 'shut up': nautical, from ca. 1880. W. Clark Russell (O.E.D.). Ex the lit. sense.—3. Also nautical: to copulate with: from ca. 1840. Cf. the M.E. cauk, (of birds) to tread, ex L. calcare.

caulk my dead-lights! Damnation: nautical (— 1887). Baumann. Cf. damn my eyes!

caulk up. To stamp, with one's spiked boots, on (a man): among Canadian lumbermen (playful little fellows): C. 20. John Beames.

caulker; occ. misspelt cawker. Nautical: a dram: from ca. 1805; e.g. in Charles Kingsley. Cf. caulk, n., 2, and perhaps v., 1.—2. Anything incredible; esp. a lie: from ca. 1860. H., 3rd ed.; Clark Russell's Jack's Courtship. Perhaps influenced by corker. Cf. crammer: O.E.D.

causal. See casual, adj., 2.—causality. Idem.

cause. 'A particular local organization, enterprise, mission, or church', O.E.D.: religious coll. (— 1893) >, ca. 1920, S.E. Ex make common cause (with).

'cause. Because. In mid-C. 16-early 17, S.E.; ca. 1640-1780, coll.; thereafter, sol. (and dial.).

'cause why? or! Why; the reason why; the reason. In C. 14-16, S.E.; 17-18 coll.; 19-20 dial. and, elsewhere, increasingly sol. As for 'cause alone, the pronunciation, as a sol., varies from caws through coz and cuz, to even case.

Caustic Barebones. Thos. Bridges (fl. 1759-75), the dramatist and parodist. Dawson.

caution. A person or a thing wonderful, unusual, or, esp., odd, eccentric: coll.: anglicised by Whyte-Melville in 1853 (Digby Grand; again in Good for Nothing) ex U.S. (— 1835). I.e. one with whom caution should be employed.—2. Hence, at Oxford, from 1865, a 'cure', a 'character'; and this has, in England, been the predominant usage, likewise coll.

cautions, the four. A mid-C. 18-early 19 c.p., explained thus by Grose, 1st ed.: 'I. Beware of a woman before.—II. Beware of a horse behind.—III. Beware of a cart sideways.—IV. Beware of a priest every way.'

cavalier. To play the cavalier, escort a lady: coll. >, by 1890, S.E.: ca. 1860-1910.

cavalry. Sol. for calvary, esp. in G.W. + among Tommies and ex-service men, in the sense of an open-air, life-size representation of the Crucifixion. (In Fr., calvaire).—2. A very French moustache: military (— 1923). Manchon.

cavalry curate. A curate that, in a large parish, rides a horse in the discharge of his duties: from early 1890's: coll. >, by 1920, S.E.; slightly ob. (O.E.D. Sup.)

cavaulting, cavolting. Sexual intercourse: c. or low s.: C. 17-early 19. Whence cavaulting-school, a brothel: late C. 17-early 19 (B.E.). Ex Lingua Franca cavolta, riding and 'horsing', q.v.; ex Low L. caballus, a horse. Cf. cavorting.

cave. (Political) a small group of politicians seceding, on some special bill or cause, from their party; the secession: 1866. (Cf. Adullamites.) Orig. cave of Adullam—see 1 Samuel, 22. 1-2.—2. Coll. abbr. Cavalier: ca. 1647-81. A. Brome, in Songs, 1661.

cave, v.i. See cave in, 1.

cave ! Schoolboys'. ? first at Eton College, for 'beware !' Direct ex the L. word. From ca. 1750 (?).

cave-dwellers. Brutal atavists: Society coll.: 1890; ob. Ware. Cf. cave-man, q.v.

cave in, v.i. To yield, esp. when further opposition is futile or impossible; occ. cave. With in, coll.; without, s. Anglicised ca. 1855 ex U.S. (— 1840) ex East Anglian dial., as is the v.t., to break down, smash, bash in: anglicised ca. 1885; but cf. the S.E. cave (C. 16–20), to hollow (out), and cave in, to subside concavely (late C. 18–20)—2. (Political) to form a 'cave', a cabal: ca. 1880–1900.

cave-man. A 'he-man', a rough and virile fellow: coll.: from ca. 1895. Hence cave-man stuff, rough treatment: C. 20. Cf. sheik, q.v.

cave of antiquity. 'Depôt of old authors', Egan's Grose: Oxford University: ca. 1820–40. More prob., Cave of Antiquity, the Bodleian Library.

cave out (Gen. ppl. adj., caved out.) To come to an end, be finished: coll. anglicised (— 1909) ex U.S. 'From the metal ceasing in a tunnel', Ware.

caves is the Winchester College pronunciation of calves (of the legs). Wrench.

cavey. See cavy.

caviar(e). The obnoxious matter 'blackened out' of foreign periodicals by the Russian Press Censor: from ca. 1888. St. James's Gazette, April 25, 1890, uses caviar(e) as a v.t. In Tsarist days, irreligious or socialistic matter; temp. Soviet, powerfully religious or insidiously capitalistic opinions. The word, a good example of literary s., is ob.

cavish. See cavy.

cavolting. See cavaulting.

cavort. To prance (of horses); make a horse prance. Hence, to frisk, lit. and fig. Anglicised ca. 1900 ex (— 1834) U.S.; coll.—rather low coll.—after ea. 1918. 'Perhaps cowboy perversion of curvet', W.

cavy; cavey. A Cavalier: coll.: ca. 1645–70 (O.E.D.). Whence adj., cavish, 1664.

caw-handed, late C. 17–20 (B.E.); caw-pawed, late C. 18–20; both ob. Awkward. In dial., caw is a fool, whence caw-baby, an awkward or timid boy: E.D.D. Cf. caudge-pawed, q.v.

cawfin. 'A badly found ship: marine: 1876, the date at which Samuel Plimsoll (d. 1898) finally got 'the Plimsoll line' incorporated in law; ob. A corruption, or rather a Coekney pronunciation, of coffin.

cawker. See caulker.

caxon, caxton and Caxton, (theatrical) a wig, C. 19–20, ob., is perhaps a corruption, after Caxton the printer's name, of † caxon, which = an old weather-beaten wig, says Grose (1st ed.), but 'a kind of wig', says S.O.D.; the latter gives it as S.E.—as prob. it was.

caz, in C. 19 c., is cheese. As good as caz, easy to do, a 'sure thing'. Vaux. Cf. (the) cheese.

caze. The female pudend: C. 19–20, ob.

cazzelty. See casualty, n.

cedar. In late C. 19–20 c., a pencil. Obviously ex the wood of that tree. Cf. East Anglican cedar-pencil, a lead pencil (E.D.D.).—2. A pair-oared boat, canvasless, in-rigged, easily upset: Eton, C. 19–20, ob.

cee. A small quantity of beer: C. 17–18, university s. > S.E. Cf. cue, q.v.

celebrate, v.i. To drink in honour of an event or on; hence, to drink joyously: C. 20; coll. Ex S.E. celebrate (e.g. an occasion).

Celestial. A Chinese: from ca. 1860: coll.; by 1880, S.E.—if jocular, for otherwise the word is pure journalese, which has been described as 'not the language written by journalists but that spoken by politicians'.—2. A jocular coll. applied to a turned-up nose: from ca. 1865. It points to heaven. Cf. star-gazer, q.v.—3. See Celestials, 2.

celestial poultry. Angels: low coll.: from ca. 1870; virtually †.

Celestials. The 97th Regiment of Foot, which in 1881 became the West Kents: military: from ca. 1830. Ex its sky-blue facings.—2. (Rare in singular; celestials.) Occupants of the gallery: 1884, The Referee, Oct. 5; ob. Ware. On the gods.

cell. Incorrect (C. 17) for caul, as cellaform (mid-C. 19–20) is for celliform. O.E.D.

cellar-flap. A dance performed within a very small compass: low coll. (— 1877); ob.

cellarous. Of, in, belonging or natural to a cellar. The jocular intention of Dickens's word—in The Uncommercial Traveller, 1860—makes it a coll., which, since it has not been seriously adopted, it remains.

cellars. Boots: London streets' (— 1909); ob. Ware. Opp. garret, the head.

cellier. An unmitigated lie: ca. 1681–1710; coll. Ex the impudently mendacious Mrs. Elizabeth Cellier of the Meal Tub Plot, 1680. In The Pope's Harbinger, 1682, '... a modern and most proper phrase to signify any Eggregious Lye'. See, e.g., the anon. pamphlet The Tryal and Sentences of Elizabeth Cellier, for Writing . . . A Scandalous Libel Called Malice Defeated, 1680.

'cello. Abbr. violoncello: from ea. 1830. Coll. >, by 1910, S.E. cemetery (or C.), the. The Dogger Bank: fishermen's coll.: C. 19—early 20. Bowen. So many 'come to grief there every winter'.

ensorium. An † incorrectness for the biological and psychological sensorium. O.E.D.

cent per cent. A usurer: coll.: C. 17–19. Cf. sixty per cent.

Centipedes, the. The 100th Foot Regiment: military: late C. 19–20. Ware. Ex the insect.

centipees. See sank.

centrals (or C-). Shares in the New York Central Railroad: Stock Exchange coll. (— 1895). A. J. Wilson, Stock Exchange Glossary.

centre of bliss. Coll. verging on S.E.: from ea. 1790: pudendum muliebre.

[Centre slang: see Slang, pp. 277–8.]

centrifugal (tending outward) and centripetal (tending toward the centre) are often—naturally enough!—confused by those who have no Latin: C. 18–20.

centuary. Century: a frequent spoken, occ. written sol.: C. 19–20.

centurion. One who scores 100 or over: cricketers' coll.: from ca. 1885; ob. The Graphic, July 31, 1886.

century. £100: the turf: from ca. 1860.—2. 100 runs or more: from ca. 1880: coll. >, by 1900, S.E. The Graphic, Aug. 11, 1883.

Century White. John White (d. 1645). Ex his First Century of Scandalous Malignant Priests. (Dawson.)

cephaleonomancy. Incorrect for cephalonomancy, the pretended art of divination by the boiling (occ. the broiling) of an ass's head: mid-C. 17–20. O.E.D.

'cept. Except: low, when not childish, coll.: C. 19-21. Baumann. (Also in dial.)

cert. Abbr. certainty: from mid-1880's (still mainly sporting): s. >, by 1915, coll. Often a dead cert. The Man of the World, June 29, 1889, 'Pioneer is a cert. for the St. James's.'

Cert or Certif, the Higher (School) and the School. The Higher School Certificate; the (lower) School Certificate: C. 20: Cert, mostly Public Schools'; Certif mostly other schools', and teachers'.

certain sure, for. Absolutely; with certainty; unhesitatingly: (rather illiterate) coll.: mid-C. 19-20. (Dorothy Sayers, Have His Carcase, 1932, 'We're all agreed, for certain sure, as deceased come to his death by cutting of his throat.') certainty. (Gen. in pl.) A male infant: printers': from ca. 1860. Cf. uncertainty.

certainty, a dead. A horse, etc., supposed to be certain to win; a thing sure to happen. Coll.: 1859 +. Cf. the S.E. moral certainty.

cess. See bad cess to.—2. In South African coll. (from ca. 1860), 'an expression of disgust in common use, occasionally elaborated into "pooh-gaciss"', Pettman. Ex Cape Dutch sis or sies employed in the same way.

cession and cessation are occ. confused: C. 19-20. O.E.D.

c'est la guerre! A military c.p. by way of excuse, apology: 1915-18. Anon., C'est la Guerre: Fragments from a War Diary, 1930. Ex the Fr. explanation ('It's the war, don't you know!') of any deficiency.

*chafe, v.t. To thrash: from ca. 1670; ob. Prob. orig. c. Coles, 1676; B.E. Cf. Fr. chauffer and (to) warm.

*chafe-litter. In mid-C. 16-early 17 e., a saucy fellow; cf. baud physic.

chafer, v. To copulate: low coll.: C. 19-20, ob. For etymology, cf. chauvering.

chaff. Banter, ridicule; humbug: coll. Clearly in The Fancy, vol. I, 1821, but perhaps anticipated in 1648. For etymology, see to chaff.—2. (Christ's Hospital) a small article: from ca. 1860. Perhaps ex chauffer, haggling, influenced by chattel.

chaff, v. To banter, lightly rail at or rally, 'quiz'. S.O.D. dates at 1827, but cf. chaffing-crib and F. & H.'s extremely significant C. 17 example from the anon. ballad entitled The Downfall of Charing Cross: like the n., it > gen. only ca. 1830. Prob. ex chafe, to gall, fret, irritate.—2. Cf. the c. sense of ca. 1820-50: 'to blow up [i.e. to boast]; to talk aloud', Egan's Grose, 1823.—3. (Christ's Hospital) v.t., to exchange, esp. small articles. From ca. 1860. W. H. Blanch, Blue Coat Boys, 1877.

chaff, adj. Pleasant; glad: Christ's Hospital, from ca. 1865. Occ. chaffy.

chaff! Interjection indicative of pleasure, joy. Christ's Hospital, from ca. 1865.

*chaff-cutter. A slanderer: e. of ca. 1840-90. Ex:—2. A knowing and plausibly talkative person: c. (— 1823); † by 1860. Egan's Grose. Cf. chaff, v., 2.

chaffer. A banterer; a joker at the expense of others: coll.; from ca. 1850. Mayhew, 'She was . . . the best chaffer on the road; not one of them could stand up against her tongue.'—2. The mouth: Moncrieff, 1821; David Carcy, in Life in Paris, 1822, 'For there you may damp your chaffer in fifty different ways.' ? etymology.—3. An Arctic whale, an Arctic grampus: nautical coll.: mid-

C. 19-20. Bowen. Ex Shetlands chaffer, the round-lipped whale.

chaffing-crib. A man's 'den'; the room where he receives his intimates. Moncrieff in Tom and Jerry, 1821. Low coll.; † by 1900.

chaffy. Full of banter, ridicule, or badinage: mid-C. 19-20: coll. >, by 1890, S.E.; rare.—2. See chaff, adj.

chaff. 'Chafed': see chafe.

chai. Tea. In C. 17, among merchants and in middle-class society, cha was occ. used in England; in C. 19, revived among soldiers as chai, it > s. Ex Chinese.

chain?, who pulled your. Who asked you to interfere?: a (low) c.p.: from ca. 1910; ob. Ex the noise resultant on pulling a w.c. flushing-chain.

chain-breaker. An under-vest or singlet: military: from ca. 1920. Formerly, those men taking part, as principals, in a strong-man act, wore only a vest.

*chain-gang. Jewellers; watch-chain makers: c.; from ca. 1860; ob.—2. 'A special set of stewards to help cope with a spate of passengers': nautical: C. 20. Bowen. Punning a convicts' chain-gang.

chain-lightning. Potato-spirit: lower London: 1885, The Daily News, Dec. 22; † by 1920. In U.S. as early as 1843 of any raw whiskey. Ex its effect: 'poisonous to a degree. Smuggled chiefly', Ware.

Chain-Locker, the. The old Board of Trade office close to the Tower: C. 19.—2. The Registry-General of Shipping: C. 20. Bcth nautical. Bowen.

chain-smoke, v.i. To smoke (esp. cigarettes) incessantly: C. 20: coll. >, by 1935, S.E. Ex S.E. chain-smoker.

chain up! 'Shut up!': low (— 1923). Man-chen. Ex chain up that dog!

Chainy Tenth, the. The 10th Hussars: military: from the mid-1820's. F. & Gibbons. Ex the chain-pattern belt 'of the officers' uniform introduced in 1820'.

chair, call a. To appoint a president 'at a tavern-party, when discussion ensues', Bee: public-house: ca. 1820-60.

chair, put in the. To fail to pay (a person): cab-drivers', ca. 1860-1900. The Social Science Review, vol. I, 1864.

chair, the. The electric chair (for criminals): coll.: U.S., anglicised by 1931. C.O.D., 1934 Sup.

chair-bottomer. A cane-plaiter of chair-bottoms: proletarian coll. (— 1887) >, by 1920, S.E. (Baumann.)

chair days. Old age: Society coll.: 1898, Sir E. Arnold; virtually †. Ware.

chair-marking. To write, not figure, the date in, or heavily to endorse, a cab-driver's licence, as a hint of the holder's undesirability: cab-owners', from ca. 1885. The Pall Mall Gazette, Sept. 15, 1890.

chair-warmer. A physically attractive woman 'who does nothing on the stage beyond helping to fill it', Ware: theatrical: C. 20; ob.

chal. A man, fellow, chap (the feminine is chai, chie): Romany; in C. 19-20 used occ. in low coll. Its ultimate origin is unknown: see esp. Sampson at chal. Cf. pal, much more gen.

C(h)aldees, C(h)aldese. To trick, cheat, impose upon. Butler, 'He . . . Chow's'd and Caldes'd you like a blockhead,' Hudibras, II. Ca. 1660-1720; coll. ? ex Chaldees = an astrologer.

chalk. A point in one's favour: coll., from ca. 1850, ex the S.E. sense of a score chalked up in an ale-house. Edmund Yates, 1864.—2. A scratch, more gen. a scar: nautical, ca. 1830–1915. Marryat in Poor Jack.

chalk, v. To make (a newcomer) pay his footing: nautical, ca. 1840–1900.—2. In C. 18–19 c., to strike or slash, esp. a person's face. Cf. chalker, 2, q.v.—3. See chalk off, chalk up.

chalk, adj. Unknown; hence, incompetent. Whence chalk-jockeys, jockeys unknown or incompetent or both. Racing: ca. 1870–90. See Addenda.

chalk, able to walk a. Sober: coll. (orig. nautical or military): from ca. 1820. Scots, line for chalk. See also walk the chalk.

chalk, by a long. By much: from ca. 1840; coll. C. Brontë in The Professor. Slightly earlier is by long chalks, as in Barham, while by many chalks appears ca. 1880, as in 'the best thing out by many chalks', Grenville Murray, 1883. Often with beat, and in C. 20 gen. in the negative. Ex 'the use of chalk in scoring points in games', W.

chalk, give (someone) a. To beat, defeat, or swindle: low (— 1923). Manchon.

chalk against, n. and v. (To have) 'an unsettled misunderstanding or grudge', Ware: lower classes: mid-C. 19–20; ob. Ex chalking a debt against a name.

chalk down. See chalk out.

Chalk Farm. An arm: rhyming s. (— 1857). 'Ducange Anglicus', 1st ed. In 1914–18, the Tommy preferred false alarm.

chalk head. A person smart at figures: coll., from ca. 1850. Punch, 1856.—2. Hence, a waiter, rarely so called outside of London. Punch, 1861.

chalk is up, one's. One's credit is exhausted: public-house coll. (— 1887); ob. Ex chalk up.

chalk it up! Just look at that!: coll. (— 1923). Manchon ('Regarde-moi ça!').

chalk marquis. A sham marquis: lower classes' (— 1909); very ob. Ware, 'Never applied to any other title than this. [Prob. ex] some forgotten pun or play upon a name.' See chalk, adj.

chalk off, v.t. To 'observe a person attentively so as to remember him': c. (— 1857); † by 1920. 'Ducange Anglicus', 1st ed.—2. (Gen. in passive.) To rebuke: Glasgow (— 1934).

chalk out, occ. down. To mark out a course of action or conduct: from ca. 1570. Coll. in C. 16, thereafter S.E. (Contrast H. with F. & H. and with S.O.D.)

chalk up, occ. chalk. To consider in a person's favour: coll., from ca. 1890. Ex the S.E. sense, C. 16–20, to put to one's account, orig. by chalking the (usually, drinking) score on a wall. Cf. challik it oop, q.v.

chalk your pull! Hold on!; steady!: printers' (— 1887). Baumann.

chalker. A London milkman: ca. 1850–1900. Ex the addition of chalky water to milk. Cf. cow with the iron tail.—2. Gen. in pl. One who, at night, slashes the face of innocent citizens: a C. 18 Irish practice; cf. mohock. Coll. whence chalking, 'the amusement [so] described', Grose, 1st ed.

chalking him in. 'The steward's action of drawing a chalk line round any Western Ocean passenger who sits in the captain's chair, the penalty for which is a drink for every steward in the saloon': nautical coll.: late C. 19–20. Bowen.

chalks, by. An Australian coll. variant (ca. 1880– 1910) of chalk, by a long. Boldrewood, 1888, in the best of the bushranging novels. Ex Cumberland dial. E.D.D.

chalks, make. (Often as vbl.n., making chalks.) To be punished standing on two chalk lines and bending one's back: the Royal Naval School at Greenwich: ca. 1840–1900.

chalks, walk or stump one's. To move or run away; make one's departure. From ca. 1840; perhaps orig. U.S., for Haliburton uses it in 1840 and De Vere includes it in his Americanisms, yet H., F. & H., and S.O.D. say nothing about U.S.; cf. notably the evidence of the E.D.D. Bowen notes that walk one's chalks and walk Spanish, in late C. 19–20 nautical, = to desert. The origin is obscure: F. & H. notes a fanciful theory; perhaps the phrase derives ex the walking of a chalked line.

chalks on, give. To be (much) superior to: late C. 19–20. Frank Richards, Old Soldiers Never Die, 1933, 'We all admired the Adjutant very much: he could give us all chalks on at swearing.'

Chalky. A frequent nickname of men surnamed White: naval and military: late C. 19–20. Cf. Blanco, q.v.

challik it oop! Put it to my credit (esp. in a tavern): theatrical c.p. (— 1909) introduced, presumably, by some dialectal (? Nottinghamshire) comedian; ob. Ware.

cham or chammy. Pronounced sham: whence many puns. Abbr. champagne. All the Year Round, Feb. 18, 1871. Cf. bubbly.

cham, v. To drink champagne: from ca. 1875. †.

chamber-day. 'A day at the beginning of each half when "chambers" [the bed-rooms of scholars] were open all day for the re-arrangement of their occupants' (E.D.D.): mid-C. 19–20: Winchester s. verging on j. N.b., one says in (not in the) chambers.

Chamber of Horrors. The Peeresses' Gallery in the House of Lords (contrast cage, 4): Parliamentary, from ca. 1870. Ex the room so named at Madame Tussaud's. Cf. senses 3, 4.—2. A sausage; gen. in pl. From ca. 1880. Cf. bag of mystery.—3. 'Room at Lloyd's (Royal Exchange) where are "walled" notices of shipwrecks and casualties at sea', Ware: City of London: late C. 19–20.—4. 'The corridor or repository in which Messrs. Christie (King Street, St. James's) locate the valueless pictures that are sent to them from all parts of the world as supposed genuine old masters', Ware: Society (— 1909).—5. A family album: workmen's (— 1935).—6. See House of Corruption in Addenda.

[chambering, chamberer. Sexual indulgence, a loose fellow: despite F. & H., prob. always S.E.]

chambers. See chamber-day.

chameleon diet. A very meagre diet: hence, nothing to eat: late C. 17–18; coll. B.E. chamming. Indulgence in champagne: from ca. 1875. Ob.

champ. A champion: coll.: from ca. 1915. Cf.:

champ up. To chew (up); eat up: (low) coll. (— 1887); ob. Baumann. Ex horses eating.

champagne shoulders. Sloping shoulders: Society: ca. 1860–80. Ware, 'From the likeness to the drooping shoulder of the champagne bottle as distinct from the squarish ditto of the sherry or port bottle'.

champagne weather. Bad weather: ironic Society coll.: ca. 1860–1910. Ware:

champagner. A courtesan: music-halls': ca. 1880–1912. Ware. Ex the champagne formerly so frequently drunk by these perfect ladies.

champeen. An Australian variant (— 1915), e.g. in C. J. Dennis, of:

champion. Excellent; arrant: coll., from the 1890's. Esp. predicatively, as 'That's champion!' Ex such phrases as champion fighting-cock, champion pugilist.—2. Also adv.: coll.: late C. 19–20.

champion slump of 1897, the. The motor-car: London, 1897–ca. 1910. Ware alludes to the unsuccessful début of the motor-car in 1896–7. Cf. butter-coloured beauties.

chance, v.t. To risk, take one's chances of or in: coll.; from ca. 1850. Esp. chance it, used absolutely.

chance, main. By itself, the main chance occurs as early as 1597 in Shakespeare and notably in 1693, in Dryden's translation of Persius: 'Be careful still of the main chance, my son. An eye to the main chance appears first in Jonson's play, The Case is Altered, 1609, it is often preceded by have (a variant is stand to the main chance, 1579), and it may have originated in the game of hazard. Orig. = the most important issue or feature or possibility, it has, in C. 19–20, very rarely meant other than the chance of profit or advantage to oneself. Prob. always coll. (except in C. 20, when it is S.E.), though the O.E.D. hints a c. complexion.

chance, on the, adv., adj. (Acting) on the possibility of or that. Orig. (ca. 1780) coll.; by 1830, at latest, S.E.

chance, stand a fair, good, etc. To be likely to do, (with of) to get. From ca. 1790; still of a coll. cast though virtually S.E. since ca. 1880.

chance, take a. To risk it, esp. if the chance is a poor one: C. 19–20; coll. in C. 19, S.E.—though not yet dignified—in C. 20. Cf.:

chance, take one's. At first, C. 14–19, S.E., to risk it; from ca. 1800, to seize one's opportunity: coll. till ca. 1860, then S.E.

chance child. An illegitimate child: from ca. 1838; coll. till C. 20, then S.E. and somewhat archaic.

chance it, and. A C. 20 variant and derivative of the next: lower classes' coll.

chance the ducks, and. Come what may, as in 'I'll do it and chance the ducks.' A pleonastic c.p., from ca. 1870; ob. Recorded in H., 5th ed., and Northall's Folk Phrases, 1894. Cf.:

chance your arm! Chance it!, try it on!: coll., orig. tailors': from ca. 1870; ob. Among soldiers, chance one's arm meant 'to take a risk in the hope of achieving something worth while', from the late 1890's, the implication being the loss of one's stripes; the phrase, however, prob. arose ex boxing. The variant, chance one's mit, belongs to C. 20. B. & P.; O.E.D. (Sup.). Cf. preceding entry.—2. Hence, make an attempt: late C. 19–20: tailors'.

chancellor of the exchequer. Jocularly coll.: C. 20: the one who holds the purse-strings.

chancellor's egg. A day-old barrister: legal: late C. 19–20; ob. Ware.

chancer. A liar; also, an incompetent workman, or one too confident of his ability: tailors' >, as to nuance 1, military by 1914: from ca. 1870: coll.

chancery, in. Fig. from ca. 1835: coll. In parlous case, an awkward situation. Lit., pugilistic:

the head under an opponent's weaker arm to be punched with his stronger: from ca. 1815 and as in Moore's Tom Crib's Memorial, 1819.

chancet or chanct; chanst. A sol. for chance: mostly Cockney, Australian (and American): since when?

chancy; occ. chancey. (Seldom of persons) unsure, uncertain, untrustworthy: coll.: 1860. George Eliot. (In C. 16–18 Scottish, lucky. S.O.D.) Chanciness, coll., is rare.

chandler-ken. A chandler's shop: c. (— 1812); † by 1890. Vaux.

chaney-eyed. One-eyed; rarely and †, glassy-eyed. Low coll.: from ca. 1860; ob. Chaney = chiny, China, china, or Chinese, hence with small eyes or eyes like those of a China doll.

change, v.t. and i. To 'turn', curdle (e.g. milk): coll. and dial.: from ca. 1830.—2. V.i., to change one's clothes: coll.; C. 17–20.

change, give. To 'pay out', punish: coll.: from ca. 1860. Gen. v.t., e.g. 'I gave him his change.'

change, give no. Absolute or ('he gave me no change') v.t.: to give no satisfaction, esp. to reveal nothing. Coll., from ca. 1890.

change about or over, v.i. To change or be changed in position, circumstances, or post: coll.; the former from ca. 1840 (Dickens, 1844), the latter from ca. 1860.

change about one, have all one's. To be clever, esp. to be quick-witted. Coll., from ca. 1880.

change artiste, quick. (Music-halls) one who changes costume for successive songs or scenes: from ca. 1870. Coll. in C. 19, S.E. in C. 20.

change bags. Knickerbockers for football, flannel trousers (? orig. grey) for cricket: Eton College, from ca. 1855; ob.

change foot. To play the turncoat: coll.: ca. 1600–1750.

change on, put the. To mislead, deceive. Dryden, 1677, 'By this light, she has put the change upon him!'; Congreve, Scott. Coll., from ca. 1660; † by ca. 1900.

change one's note or tune. The former from ca. 1700, the latter from ca. 1570: coll. To alter one's behaviour, professed opinion, speech, expression.

change out of, get no. To receive no satisfaction from; fail to learn from. C. 20, coll. Cf. give no change.

change out of, take one's or the. To take the equivalent of a thing; be revenged upon a person. Coll.: from ca. 1825. John Wilson, 1829; Whyte-Melville, 1854; Henry Kingsley, on several occasions. Often exclamatory, to the accompaniment of a blow, a neat retort, a crisply decisive act: take your change out of that!

change over. See change about.

changes, ring the. To change a better article for a worse (coll.), esp., 2, bad money for good (orig. c. >, ca. 1830, low s. > by 1869, gen. s. >, ca. 1900, coll.): from ca. 1660, ca. 1780 resp. Smollett has 'ringing out the changes on the balance of power'. In C. 20 it also, 3, = to adopt different disguises in rapid succession and with baffling effect. Ex bell-ringing; in sense 2, there is a pun on small change for larger coin (W.).

Channel-fever. Homesickness: nautical: mid-C. 19–20. Bowen. I.e. the English Channel.

Channel-groping. Cruising in home waters: naval: late C. 19–20. Ibid.

Channel-money. Subsistence-money paid to sailors waiting on a ship in dry dock : nautical coll. : late C. 19–20. Ibid.

chanst. See chanacet.

chant. Any distinguishing mark on personal effects. Vaux.—2. A person's name or address. Ibid.—3. A song sung in the street. Ibid. (at chant).—4. An advertisement in newspaper or hand-bill. All ca. 1810–90 ; c. >, except sense 4, low s. ca. 1850. For senses 1, 2, 4, the semantics are that these things proclaim a person's identity.

chant, v. To talk ; sing songs in the street : c. and low, often as chaunt : from ca. 1840, ob. Mayhew, 'A running patterer . . . who also occasionally chaunts'.—2. To sell (a horse) by fraudulent statements : c. and low : from ca. 1810. The English Magazine, 1816. Prob. 'sing the praises of'.—3. Orig. c., then low, from ca. 1800 : to mark a person's name, initials, etc., on clothes, plate, etc. †. Vaux. I.e. to proclaim his identity. Cf. chant, n., 1, 2, 4.—4. To be advertised for : c. of ca. 1810–90. Vaux. Cf. n., 4.—5. V.i., to swear : sporting : 1886–ca. 1914. Ware.—6. V.t. In vagrants' c. of C. 20, thus in W. A. Gape, Half a Million Tramps, 1936, 'To "chant" this town,' i.e., to sing in it for alms.

chant, tip (one) a queer. To give a false address to : c. of ca. 1810–90. Vaux. See chant, n., 2.

chanter, chaunter ; often horse-cha(unt)er. A horse-dealer that sells by fraudulent representation : from ca. 1817. Moncrieff, Dickens, Thackeray, Henley. Often horse-chanter.—2. In vagrants' c., a street patterer : ca. 1830–1900.

chanter(-)cull. A contemporaneous c. variant of chanter, 2 : Ainsworth, 1834.

chant(e)y. See shanty.

chanting, chaunting, vbl.n. The dishonest sale of a horse by the concealment of its condition or temper and/or by bishoping, q.v. From ca. 1818. Often horse-cha(unt)ing.—2. In c., street ballad-singing : ca. 1818–1900.

chanting ken. A music-hall : late C. 19–20 o. Ken = a house or a place.

[Chants. Certain military chants and stock dialogues verge on c.p.p. : borderline cases, like the indubitable chants, have been omitted as ineligible ; they may be consulted, passim, in B. & P., pp. 193–7, 220–1, 263–72.]

chap. A 'customer', a fellow. From ca. 1715 ; coll. In C. 20, rarely (unless prefaced by old) of an old or 'oldish' man. (Abbr. chapman ; ex the C. 16–early 18 sense, extant in dial., a buyer, a customer.) Grose, 'an odd chap' ; Byron ; Scott ; Thackeray ; Mrs. Henry Wood, 'You might give a chap a civil answer.' In post-War days, often used by and of girls among themselves. Cf. customer, merchant, qq.v., and the Scottish callant.—2. A male sweetheart : non-aristocratic coll. (—1887). Baumann. Doubtless ex dial., where recorded before 1850.—3. A sailor : proletarian coll. (—1887) ; ob. Ibid.

chap, v.t. To chaperon : from ca. 1921. D. L. Murray, The English Family Robinson, 1933, 'Mrs. M. would chap. us if you're so fussy.'

Chapel ; only as the Chapel. Whitechapel : Cockneys' : mid-C. 19–20. Warc. Cf. Ditch, 1, and Chapel, adj.

chapel ; chapel of ease. A water-closet : from ca. 1860. H., 3rd ed. Cf. the S.E. meaning and the Fr. cabinet d'aisance.

chapel, v. (Of a don, gen. the Dean) to order (an undergraduate) to attend chapel twice daily for a specified period : university, passing to coll. and S.E. : from ca. 1845.

Chapel, adj. Of Whitechapel (London) : Cockneys' : mid-C. 19–20. Ware.

chapel, keep a. To attend chapel once : university, passing to coll. and j. : from ca. 1850.

chapel-folk. Nonconformists as opp. to Episcopalians (esp. Anglicans) : a snobbish coll. ; from ca. 1830.

chapel of ease. See chapel, n. chapel of little ease. A police station ; detention cell : c. (—1871) ; ob. Cf. chapel, n.

chaperon. 'The cicisbeo, or gentleman usher, to a lady', Grose, 3rd ed. : mid-C. 18–early 19 coll.

[chaperonee, chaperonless, chaperonship, are perhaps coll.—see the O.E.D.—but they much rather belong to semi-facetious journalese. They date from ca. 1884.]

chapped, chapt. Thirsty : from ca. 1670. Ob. by 1930. Orig. c. : from ca. 1820, low. Head.

chapper. The mouth : low London (—1909). Ware, 'From associations with chaps, chops, and cheeks' ; cf., however, chaffer, 2.

chapper, v. To drink : low London (—1909) ; ob. Ware. Ex the n.

chappie ; occ. chappy. Coll., from ca. 1820. At first = little fellow, but from ca. 1880 it = chap, esp. as a term of address with old, my good or dear, etc., or as = a man about town ; G. A. Sala, in The Illustrated London News, March 24, 1883, 'Lord Boodle, a rapid chappie always ready to bet on everything with everybody.' As a Society term it flourished in the '80's (Ware).

chappow. A raid : Anglo-Indian : from ca. 1860. Mayne Reid. Ex a Pushtoo word.

chappy. For the n., see chappie.—2. Talkative : a late C. 17–mid-18 coll. I.e. given to using his chaps, chops, jaws.

chaps me that ! (Galt's chapse is incorrect.) I claim that : Scottish children's coll. : mid-C. 19–20. Ex chap, to choose, bespeak. Cf. bags I, q.v. O.E.D.

chapt. See chapped.

chapter, to the end of the. Always ; to the end ; until death : coll. : from ca. 1840. Occ. used in C. 20, in facetious endings to letters : cf. to the last drop, till hell freezes, for ever—and after.

char. Abbr. charwoman : from ca. 1875 : coll. Cf. charlady and S.E. chore.—2. In late C. 19–20 military : tea. In post-War days, vagrants' c. Ex cha, a S.E. form (C. 16–19).

char, chare, v. To come in to do the cleaning work in a house, shop, office, or institution. The S.O.D. records for 1732 ; in the C. 18, the meaning was simply, to do odd jobs. Coleridge, of all people, uses the word in 1810 in its mod. sense. Vbl.n., charing or charring, C. 19–20.

charwallah. A teetotaller : military (Regular Army) : C. 20. Frank Richards, Old Soldiers Never Die, 1933. Ex char, n., 2, and wallah. Cf. bun wallah and wad-shifter.

chara. A lower classes' abbr. (1927, F. E. Bailey : O.E.D. Sup.) of char-à-banc. Also charrie, -y (1926 : ibid.). Cf. :

charabang (ch-pron. tch). Sol., from ca. 1835, for char-à-banc (since 1918 gen. spelt charabanc). Occ. charrybong (ch-pron. sh). The Fr. is char à bancs.

character. An eccentric or odd person : coll. : Goldsmith, 1773, 'A very impudent fellow this ! but he's a character, and I'll humour him' ; Lamb, who was himself one. From ca. 1870, an odd person of much humour or wit: likewise, coll.

character academy. 'A resort of servants without characters, which are there concocted', F. & H., revised ed. (at academy): c.: late C. 19–20.

charactered. Branded on the hand; 'lettered', q.v.: C. 18—early 19, low if not indeed at first c. A New Canting Dict., 1725; Grose, 2nd ed.

charades. 'The Christmas play performed at Bootham': Bootham School coll.: late C. 19–20. Anon., Dict. of Bootham Slang, 1925.

chare, char(r)ing. See char, v.

charge. A prisoner brought up for trial on a charge or accusation: from late 1850's. Sala.

charge, take. (Of a thing) to get out of control: coll.: 1890. (O.E.D. Sup.)

Charing Cross (pron. Crosse). A horse: rhyming s. (— 1857). 'Ducange Anglicus', 1st ed.

chariot. An omnibus: c.; from ca. 1850; almost †. Whence chariot-buzzing (H., 1st ed.), pocket-picking in an omnibus; cf. the neater Fr. argotic faire l'omnicroche.

charity-bob, the. 'The quick, jerky curtsey made by charity school-girls', a curtsy rapidly vanishing as long ago as 1883: coll.: ca. 1870–1915. Ware.

charity sloop. A 10-gun brig: naval coll. during Napoleonic wars. Bowen, 'Officially rated as sloops for the benefit of their commanders'.

charlady. Jocularly coll. for a charwoman: since the 1890's.

Charles James. Theatrical: late C. 19–20. As in 'Once I happened to mention to [a] manager . . . that my children would like to see the pantomime he was producing. "Right you are, old man," he said, "give me a ring any time and I'll see there's a Charles James for them." It took me some moments to realise that he meant a box, and I suppose that no one unacquainted with the peculiarities for [?] rhyming slang would have realised it at all. Thus is Charles James Fox preserved in the memories of the people—an honour which so far as I am aware has never been conferred on any other politician': Edward Shanks in John o' London's Weekly, Dec. 8, 1934.

Charles O'Malley's Own. The 14th Hussars: an occ. military nickname of ca. 1842–80. F. & Gibbons. Ex Lever's novel (Charles O'Malley, 1841), 'in which the hero figures as an officer of the regiment'.

Charles William. The dummy man in life-boat exercises: Dartmouth R.N. College: C. 20. Bowen.

charley, charlie; or with capitals. A night watchman: from ea. 1810. Vaux, 1812; Hood, 1845. † by 1900, except historically. Etymology unknown; but prob. ex the very common Christian name.—2. A small, pointed beard: coll.: from ca. 1830. Hook, 1841. Ex Charles I.—3. With capital C, a fox: from ca. 1850; coll. Hughes in Tom Brown's Schooldays.—4. (Tailors') the nap on glossy cloth: from ca. 1865 (ob.); also 5, a round-shouldered figure or person: from ca. 1870 (ob.).—6. See charlies.—7. (Also old Charley.) An infantryman's 'pack': military: C. 20; ob. Hence, little (or young) Charley, his haversack. A hunchback used to be said to 'carry his little brother Charley on his back' (F. & Gibbons).—8. The inevitable nickname of anyone surnamed Beresford: naval: C. 20. Ex Charlie B., Admiral Lord Charles Beresford. (Bowen.) And of any man surnamed Peace: military: C. 20. F. & Gibbons. Ex the notorious murderer.

Charley (or Charlie) Chaplin. An officers' moustache, about half an inch in extent: military: 1915. B. & P. Ex the moustache affected by the great comedian.—2. The village of Camblain Châtelain: military in G.W. Ibid.

Charley Chaplin's Army Corps. The Canadian Casualty Assembly Centre, at Shorncliffe, England: Canadian military in G.W. (B. & P.)

Charley Freer. Beer: sporting rhyming s. (— 1909); † by 1930. Ware.

charley-ken. A watchman's (post or) box: c.: ca. 1810–50. Vaux. See charley, 1.

Charley Lancaster. A 'han'kercher' = handkerchief. Rhyming s. (— 1857). 'Ducange Anglicus', 1st ed.

charley-man. A variant (ca. 1820–40) of charley, 1. 'Jon Bee.'

Charley Noble. The galley funnel: naval: mid-C. 19–20; ob. Bowen. Ex a Commander Noble (ca. 1840), who insisted that the cowl of the galley funnel be kept bright. (F. & Gibbons).

charley-pitcher. A prowling sharper: e., from ea. 1855. Sala; Besant & Rice. In C. 20, low; ob. Etymology doubtful; perhaps via Charley[a] pitcher.

Charley Pope. Soap: Cockney and military rhyming s. (— 1914). F. & Gibbons.

Charley Prescott. A waistcoat: rhyming s. (— 1857). 'Ducange Anglicus', 1st ed.

Charley Wag, play the. To play truant: from ca. 1865. Charles Hindley, 1876. Henley, in 1887, ellipsed the phrase to Charley-wag, but he created no precedent.

charleys or charlies. (Always in pl.) The paps of a woman: from ca. 1840. ?etymology, unless on analogy of fanny, q.v.; if, however, the term was orig. c., it may derive ex Romany chara (or charro), to touch, meddle with, as in Smart & Crofton. (Ware suggests origin in the opulent charms displayed by the mistresses of Charles II). Hence occ. Bobby and Charley.—2. Thick twine-gloves: Winchester College, ca. 1850–80. Introduced by a Mr. Charles Griffith.

charlie. See charley.

charm. (Always pl.) A woman's breasts: C. 18–20. Until ea. 1840, S.E.; then coll. and, very soon, s. as in 'flashes her charms', displays . . . ? ex Fr. appas.—2. In singular, late C. 16–18 c. for a picklock. Greene; Grose. Cf. S.E. moral suasion.

charming wife. A knife: rhyming s. (— 1914). F. & Gibbons. Contrast trouble and strife.

charms. See charm, 1.

charms, bunch of. A girl, esp. if attractive: coll.: C. 20.

charring. See char, v.—charry. See chara.

charter. To bespeak or hire, esp. a vehicle: from ca. 1865: coll. Ex to charter a ship.

[Charterhouse s. is dealt with by A. H. Tod in his handbook, Charterhouse, 1900; all terms noted by him, and many others (owed to the kindness of Mr. David MacGibbon), are defined in the course of the present work. Cf. the entries at 'Eton', 'Harrow' 'Westminster' and 'Winchester'.]

Charterhouse, sister of the. A great talker, esp. in reply to a husband: C. 16 coll. Tyndale, referring to the monks, says in 1528, 'Their silence shall be a satisfaction for her.' The foundation (1384) of this benevolent institution allows for women as well as men—Brothers and Sisters of Charterhouse.

charver. A sexual embrace: theatrical (orig. Parlyaree): late C. 19–20. See chauvering and: charver, v. To despoil; to interfere with and spoil (one's business): grafters': late C. 19–20. Philip Allingham, Cheapjack, 1934. Ex the Romany for 'to copulate with (a woman)'. Hence: charvered, ppl.adj. Exhausted, tired out: id.: id. Ibid. Cf. the low fucked in the same sense.

chase me, girls! An Edwardian c.p. expressive of high male spirits. B. & P.

chase yourself! Oh, go away!: Australian s. (— 1915) now verging on coll. C. J. Dennis. Cf. buzz off! and go and play trains!

chaser. A drink taken immediately after another: coll.: C. 20. Esp. a 'tot of spirit taken after coffee; small quantity of water taken after drinking neat spirits (also fig.)', C.O.D., 1934 Sup.

chasing, vbl.n. The exceeding of a stated amount, or standard, of production: workmen's, from ca. 1880; s. tending to coll. Rae's Socialism, 1884.

chassé. To dismiss: Society, ca. 1845–1900. Thackeray, 1847, 'He was chasséd on the spot'; Yates, 1868. Ex Fr. chasser, to chase away, though perhaps imm. ex dancing j.

chaste though chased. A middle-class c.p. of ca. 1900–27. Too pedantic ever to have > very gen.

chat. As free-and-easy talk, always S.E., C. 16–20.—2. The female pudend: C. 19–20, ob. Ex the Fr. word. Cf. cat and pussy.—3. The truth; 'the correct thing', 'the ticket' (? coll.): from ca. 1815. Moore.—4. The subject under discussion; the point: coll. (ob.): 1848, Lover (E.D.D.); Trollope, 1862, 'That's the chat as I take it.'—5. In mid-C. 19–20 Parlyaree, a thing, an object; anything.—6. Impudence, in C. 20 as back chat: ca. 1870–1900 (chat is extant in dial.): coll.—7. G.W. +, a search for lice. Ex chat(t), a louse: see chatt.—8. A seal (to a letter): e. of ca. 1810–60. Egan's Grose. Gen. in pl.—9. A house: c. (— 1879); ob. Ex cheat, q.v.—10. Also chate, chatt, often in pl.: the gallows: mid-C. 16–18 c.

chat, v. More frequent as v.i. than as v.t.; more correct spelling, chatt. To search for lice: from ca. 1850 to G.W., low and perhaps c.; in G.W. +, so gen. as to > a coll. for de-louse. Vbl.n., chatting, has since 1914 been much used and occ. responsible for obvious puns. (In Gavin Douglas's Aeneis, chat may = to hang.)—2. To address tentatively; to 'word': Australian (— 1916). C. J. Dennis.

chat-hole. A hole made by convicts in a wall so that they can talk: c.: from ca. 1870.

chat up, v.i. Variant of chat, v.: military: G.W.

chate. See chat, chatt, cheat.

Chateau Dif. The Stock Exchange: brokers' (— 1909); virtually †. Punning the Château d'If and diff(s), 'differences' on settling days. (Ware.)

Chatham and Dover. Over; as v., give over: London public-houses' rhyming s. (— 1909). Cf.:

Chatham rat. A seaman from the Medway depot: naval: late C. 19–20. Bowen. Rats abound there.

chati. A louse: New Zealanders': C. 20. Ex chat; prob. by Maori influence: see koota.

Chats. Shares in the London, Chatham and Dover Railway (now part of the Southern Railway). Stock Exchange, from ca. 1875; †.—2. The inevitable nickname of anyone surnamed Harris: lower classes' and naval: late C. 19–20. Bowen.—3. (chats.) Articles of clothing: Glasgow (— 1934). Ex chat, n., 5.

chatsby. Anything the name of which one has forgotten: theatrical (— 1935). Ex chat, n., 5, on thingummy.

chatt, in C. 20 gen. chat, before G.W. rarely in singular. A louse: late C. 17–20. Orig. c., from ca. 1830 s., but very gen. only in G.W. +. B.E., Grose, H. Prob., as Grose suggests, ex chattels = live stock (q.v.) or chattels = movable property. Synonymy in F. & H.; cf. crabs, gentleman's companions, German ducks.—2. In pl., dice: C. 19 low.—3, 4. See chat, n., 8, 10.

chatta. An umbrella: Anglo-Indian coll.: from ca. 1690. (Yule & Burnell.)

chatte. An occ. variant of chate, the gallows: see chat, n., 10.

chatter-basket. A prattling child: esp. among nurses: orig. dial., coll. since ca. 1850. Much less gen. are the variants chatter-bladder (low), chatter-bones (mainly U.S.), chatter-cart. Cf.:

chatter-box, mod. chatterbox. Grose, 1st ed.: 'One whose tongue runs twelve score to the dozen'. Coll. till 1880, then S.E. Dickens, The Old Curiosity Shop. On the C. 16–17 sauce-box.

chatter-broth. Tea: the drink and the party: late C. 18–19. Grose, 1st ed. Cf. scandal-broth and the jocular S.E. chatter-water, which is very ob.

chatter-cart. See chatter-basket.

chatteration. Persistent or systematic chattering: from 1862 (O.E.D.). Perhaps rather a pedantic jocularity than a coll.

chatterer. A blow,—esp. if on the mouth,—that makes the recipient's teeth chatter: pugilistic: from ca. 1820; † by 1919. 'Peter Corcoran', i.e. the poet Reynolds, 1827. Cf.:

chatterers. The teeth: o.: C. 19–20; ob. Egan's Grose. Cf. grinders.

chattering. 'A blow given on the mouth', Egan's Grose: c. of ca. 1820–60. Ex its effect.

chattering-box. A dissenting chapel: Oxfordshire s. (— 1905), not dial. E.D.D. (Sup.).

chattering-broth. Tea: provincial (mostly Staffordshire) s., not dial.: from before 1897. E.D.D. chattermag. Chatter (1895); a chatterbox (C. 20); to chatter (1909): coll. Cf. mag, v. O.E.D. (Sup.).

chattery. Cotton or linen goods or, occ., separate article: c. (— 1821); ob. Haggart.

chatting, vbl.n. To chat, v., q.v.

chattry-feeder. A spoon: C. 19 c. Brandon. (Orig. and mainly at Millbank Prison.) chatts. See chatt.

chatty. A pot—esp. if porous—for water: Anglo-Indian coll.: from ca. 1780.—2. A filthy man. Abbr. chatty dossier (see dossier). Ca. 1810–80: low.—3. Among sailors, it survives as 'any seaman who is dirty or untidy, or careless in his appearance' (Bowen).—4. (Chatty.) The inevitable nickname of anyone surnamed Mather: nautical and lower classes': late C. 19–20. Bowen, 'From a celebrated character in naval fiction . . . whether the uncomplimentary meaning applies . . . or not'.

chatty. Lousy: low until G.W.: from ca. 1810. Vaux, 1812. A G.W. jest ran: 'He's a nice chatty little fellow.' Ex chatt, 1.

chatty but happy. (Of a ship) 'not very smart in appearance': naval c.p.: C. 20. F. & Gibbons. See chatty, adj.

chauki. See chokey.—chaunt. See chant.

chaunt the play. To expose and/or explain the ways and tricks of thieves: ob. c.; from ca. 1845.

chaunted, properly chanted. Celebrated, hence famous. Lit.: in street ballads. Reynolds in his boxing verses, The Fancy. Reynolds (not to be confused with the prolific serial-writer) was the latest-comer of the great 'pugilistic' trio of 1815-30: Tom Moore, Pierce Egan, J. H. Reynolds.

chaunter. See chanter.

chaunter cove. A newspaper reporter: c. from ca. 1840. Contrast chaunting cove.

chaunter-cull. A writer of street ballads, carols, songs, last dying speeches, etc., for ad hoc consumption; gen. to be found in a 'pub'. Not recorded before George Parker, 1781, but prob. existent from ca. 1720. C.; ob. by 1890, † by 1900.

chaunter upon the leer. C. and low, ca. 1830-70: an advertiser. (By itself, chaunter is c. for a street singer, C. 18-19: see chanter.)

chaunting cove. A dishonest horse-dealer: o. of ca. 1820-90. Egan's Grose. See chanting.

chauvering. Sexual intercourse: Lingua Franca (?) and low: from ca. 1840. Whence the low chauvering donna or moll, a harlot. Cf. charver, q.v. Etymology obscure: but there is perhaps some connexion either with Fr. chauffer, to heat, with S.E. chafe, and with Northern dial. chauve, to become heated, to rub together or, more prob., with Romany charvo (or charva,-er), to touch, meddle with.

chav(v)y. A child: Parlyaree: from ca. 1860. Ex Romany chavo or chavi.

chaw. A yokel: from ca. 1850. Thomas Hughes. Abbr. chaw-bacon, q.v.—2. The process of chewing; a mouthful (e.g. a quid of tobacco). From ca. 1740: orig. S.E.; from ca. 1860, either a low coll. or a sol. or—see E.D.D.—dial. for chew.—3. A trick, a hoax: University, ca. 1870-1900. Cf. a bite, q.v.—4. See 'Eton slang', § 2.

chaw, v. To eat, or chew, noisily: C. 16-20. Until ca. 1850, S.E., then either low coll. or sol.—2. To bite: from ca. 1870. Kipling in The Scots Observer, 1890 (in a poem called The Oont), 'And when we saves his bloomin' life, he chaws our bloomin' arm.'—3. (University) to deceive, hoax, impose upon: ca. 1869-1914. Cf. bite, v.—4. To defeat, overcome: coll. (— 1887). Baumann.

chaw-bacon. A yokel: coll.; from ca. 1810. Lex. Bal.; Whyte-Melville in General Bounce.

chaw(-)over. To repeat one's words to satiety: low coll. (? ex Yorkshire dial.); from ca. 1820.

chaw the fat. A naval variant (late C. 19-20) of chew the fat, q.v. (Bowen.)

chaw(-)up. To destroy, smash, 'do for': from ca. 1840, mainly U.S. Dickens.

chawer. One who chews, esp. if roughly (— 1611): orig. S.E.; in C. 19-20, low coll. Cotgrave. Rare. The same applies to the C. 16-20 chawing, chewing, (fig.) rumination.

chaws. Sexual intercourse: low coll.: from ca. 1860; ob. Cf. chauvering.

chay, pron. shay. A sol. for chaise, as in post-chay. From ca. 1702. Mackenzie, 1771, 'The pleasure of keeping a chay of one's own', O.E.D.

cheap, dirt or dog. The former from ca. 1835 (Dickens in Oliver Twist, 1838); the latter from ca. 1570 (Holinshed has it) and † by 1840. Coll. In C. 20, occ. cheap as dirt (Lyell).

cheap, feel. In ordinary sense, S.E., though not literary. In s., to feel ill after a bout of drinking: from ca. 1880; ob. Hence, cheapness: late C. 19-20.

cheap, on the. Cheaply; economically. Coll.; from the late 1850's. H., 1st ed.

cheap and nasty. Either lit. or = pleasing to the eye, inferior in fact. From ca. 1830: coll. >, by 1890, S.E. The Athenæum, Oct. 29, 1864, '... or, in a local form, "cheap and nasty, like Short's in the Strand", a proverb applied to the deceased founder of cheap dinners'; this gibe no longer holds good.

cheap and nasty bargain. An apprentice: nautical officers': late C. 19-20. Bowen. Ex preceding.

cheap as dirt. See cheap, dirt.

cheap beer. 'Beer given by publicans at night-time to officers': policemen's (— 1909). Ware.

cheap-tripper. One who goes on cheap trips: coll.; from ca. 1858. James Payn.

cheapness. See cheap, feel.

cheaps, the. A cheap edition, as of a 7s. 6d. novel re-issued at 3s. 6d. Publishers', booksellers', and bookbinders': from ca. 1910; since ca. 1930, coll.

Cheapside, come at it, or home, by (way of). To buy a thing cheap: mid-C. 18-19; coll. Grose, 2nd ed. Variant: get it by way of Cheapside.

cheat, occ. chate, chete, etc., is a mid-C. 16-19 c. word—gen. = thing, article—appearing in many combinations, e.g. belly-cheat, an apron, and quack-ing-cheat, a duck: in only a very few instances has this term penetrated English proper even to the extent of becoming s. Harman; Grose. Etymology obscure. The unprecedented pl. means the gallows: cf. chat, n., last sense. (As a sham sleeve, it is S.E.)

cheat the worms. To recover from a serious illness: proletarian coll. (— 1887). Baumann.

cheatee. One who is cheated: coll.; from ca. 1660, very rare in C. 18, revived in C. 19.

cheating law. Card-sharping: late C. 16—early 17 c. Greene.

cheats. Sham cuffs or wristbands: c. and low, late C. 17—early 19.—2. In Randle Holme's Armoury, 1688, a showy, fur-backed waistcoat. (See also note on cheat.)

check, get one's. To receive one's discharge, esp. from a medical board: military coll.: 1916-18. F. & Gibbons.—2. To be killed: military: late 1914-18. Ibid.

check, take. To be offended: coll. verging on S.E.: ca. 1660-1780. (O.E.D.) Ex dogs at fault.

check it up or check up. To enter a theatre with another person's discarded pass-out check: theatrical and theatre-goers' (— 1909); ob. Ware.

checker. An inspector: busmen's coll.: from ca. 1925. The Daily Herald, Aug. 5, 1936.

checks, hand in one's. See cash one's checks.

chee-chee. Of mixed European and Indian parentage. An adj. deriving from a Hindi exclamation = fie!—2. As a n., the minced English of half-breeds; the half-breeds as a class. Both date from ca. 1780: best classified as an Anglo-Indian coll. Yule & Burnell.

cheek. Insolence to an elder or superior: coll.: from ca. 1830; recorded in Marryat's Poor Jack, 1840, a locus exemplifying give cheek = to cheek, q.v.; George Moore, The Mummer's Wife, 1884, 'If he gives me any of his cheek, I'll knock him down.' Cf. lip.—2. Audacity, effrontery, assurance: coll.: from ca. 1850. Mayhew, of doctors: 'They'd actually have the cheek to put a blister on a cork leg.' Cf. face.—3. A share: from ca. 1820: low coll. Esp. in 'where's my cheek?' and the set phrase, to one's own cheek, all to oneself, as in 'Jon Bee', 1823, and Lever's Charles O'Malley, 1841.—4. See cheeks.—5. A cheeky lout: 'London schools' (— 1887); † by 1920. Baumann.

cheek, v. To address saucily: from ca. 1840: coll. Mayhew, Dickens. Occ., though † by 1920, to cheek up. Commonest form: give cheek; v.t. with to.

cheek, have the. To be insolent or audacious enough (to do something): coll.: mid-C. 19–20. Cf. have the face (or front).

cheek-ache, get or have the. To be made to blush; to be ashamed of what one has done: artisans' and tailors' from ca. 1860; ob.

cheek it. To face it out: coll.: 1851, Mayhew (O.E.D.); 1887, Baumann (cheek it out). Ex cheek, v., q.v.

cheeker. One who speaks or addresses others impudently: 1840 (O.E.D.): coll. Rare in C. 20. Ex cheek, v.

cheekiness. Impudence; cool confidence; audacity; tendency to 'give cheek'. Coll., recorded in 1847; Aytoun & Martin; Trollope in The Three Clerks. Ex cheek, n., 1. cheekish. Impudent; saucy: coll., ca. 1850–1900. Mayhew.

cheeks. The posteriors: coll., from ca. 1750. Grose, by implication. Cf. blind cheeks. When, in 1928–30, dresses were the soul of wit, London clubmen heard, prob. ex the Stock Exchange, the rhyme, 'If dresses get any shorter,' said the flapper with a sob, 'There'll be two more cheeks to powder, a lot more hair to bob', sometimes known as The Flapper's Lament.—2. A jeering, insulting interjection: ca. 1860–80. H., 3rd ed.

cheeks and ears. A fanciful name for a head-dress not long in fashion: coll.: C. 17. It occurs in The London Prodigal, 1605.

cheeks near cunnyborough !, ask. (Cf. cheeks, 1.) Ask my arse! Mid-C. 18–early 19 low London c.p. used by women only. See cheeks; cunnyborough = cunny = cunt. Grose, 1st ed.

Cheeks the Marine. Mr. Nobody. A character created by Marryat, who conscientiously popularised it: Peter Simple, 1833. Fifty years later, Clark Russell, in his nautical glossary, defined the term as 'an imaginary being in a man-of-war'. By 1850 there had arisen the now ob. tell that to Cheeks the Marine = tell that to the marines, q.v. Prob. ex cheeks, 1, q.v.

cheeky. Saucy, impudent, insolent, 'cool'. 'Ducange Anglicus', 1857; Henry Kingsley, 1859. Ex cheek, n., 1, 2.

cheeky new fellow. See new fellow.

cheer, give (one) the. To bid a person welcome: proletarian coll.: from ca. 1870; ob. Baumann.

cheer o ! See cheerio !

cheerer. 'A glass of grog, or of punch', Bee: public-house coll.: ca. 1820–80. Ex its effect. (The term occurs in Scots as early as 1790: E.D.D.)

cheerio ! cheero ! A parting word of encouragement; in drinking, a toast: coll.: resp. 1915 and ca. 1910. The former is rather more familiar, less aristocratic, esp. after G.W. See esp. B. & P. and O.E.D. (Sup.). Cf. cheery-ho !—2. Hence, adj. (from ca. 1919), mostly upper-class in use, as in Dorothy Sayers, Clouds of Witness, 1926, "'He seemed particularly cheerio . . .', said the Hon. Freddy . . . The Hon. Freddy, appealed to, said he thought it meant more than just cheerful, more merry and bright, you know.' Ob.

cheers ! Often three cheers ! A coll. expression of deep satisfaction or friendly approval: from ca. 1905.

cheery. Cheerful, lively: C. 17–20. Also, apt to cheer or enliven: C. 18–20, ob. On the borderline between coll. and S.E.; Johnson considered it a ludicrous word—it is certainly unnecessary beside cheerful.

cheery-ho ! A post-G.W. variant of cheerio !

cheese. An adept; a smart or a clever fellow: Public School and university: ca. 1860–1900. Ex the cheese, q.v.—2. See cheese, the.

cheese, v.t. Very rare except in cheese it !, be quiet !: low from ca. 1855; previously c. (— 1812), when also = run away ! Vaux. Ex cease.

cheese, believe or persuade or make believe that the moon is made of. To believe firmly, or to cause another to believe, something astounding or impossible or absurd; hence, to be a fool, to be fool another. Frith, ca. 1529; Wilkins the philosopher; Ainsworth the lexicographer. Coll.; in C. 18–20, S.E. Apperson.

cheese, hard. In comment or exclamation: bad luck! From ca. 1870; coll. and dial.

cheese, howling. An overdressed dandy or 'blood': Cambridge University, ca. 1860–1895. Prob. ex the next; cf. cheese, n., 1.

cheese, the. The fashion; the best; 'the correct thing'. Recorded in The London Guide in 1818, apparently soon after the birth of this phrase, which seems to have > gen. only ca. 1840. Barham; Reade, 1863, a character, concerning marriages, saying 'I've heard Nudity is not the cheese on public occasions.' Prob. ex the Urdu chiz, a thing (see Yule & Burnell; F. & H.); but see caz. Cf. the derivative the Stilton.

cheese and crust ! A proletarian perversion and evasion (— 1909) of Jesus Christ !; ob. Ware.

cheese-cutter. A prominently aquiline nose: from ca. 1870; ob. H., 5th ed.—2. The large, square peak of a cap: whence cheese-cutter caps. Ca. 1870–1910.—3. A peaked 'full-dress' cap: Conway Training Ship: from ca. 1895; ob. Masfield, The Conway, 1933.—4. In pl., bandy legs: from ca. 1860; ob.

cheese it ! See cheese, v.—2. Occ. = cave !, q.v.: low: late C. 19–20. F. & Gibbons.

cheese-knife. A sword: military; from ca. 1870. Cf. toasting-fork.

Cheese(-)mongers, the. The First Life Guards: from ca. 1788; ob. 'Come on, you damned Cheesemongers!' was heard at Waterloo. Ob. Also, from before 1890, called the Cheeses. The real 'etymology' is obscure: perhaps many tradesmen > officers.

cheese-toaster. A sword: coll.: ca. 1770–1913: military. Grose, 1st ed.; Thackeray. Cf. in Shakespeare, Henry V, II, i, 8–11 (Oxford edition). In G.W. +, a bayonet. Cf. cheese-knife and toasting-fork. F. & H. gives the synonymy.

cheeser. An eructation: low coll.: C. 19–20, ob.—2. 'A strong smelling fart', Lex. Bal., 1811; ob.—3. A chestnut: Cockney's: late C. 19–20.

Cheeses and Kisses. Mrs. Missus: rhyming s. (— 1931).

Cheeses, the. See Cheese-mongers.—2. cheeses, make. (Schoolgirls') the making of one's dress and petticoat, after a rapid gyration of the body and a quick sinking to the ground or floor, spread into a cheese-like form. Hence, to curtsy profoundly. Coll.; from ca. 1855. Thackeray, De Quincey, Besant & Rice. Ex Fr. faire des fromages: even Littré records it.

cheesing rows(, three). (Three) rousing cheers: C. 20. A deliberate Spooncrism.

cheesy. Showy, fine (opp. dusty): coll.; from mid-1850's. Surtees in Ask Mamma. Ex the cheese, q.v., at cheese, the.

cheesy-hammy-eggy-topside. A savoury popular with those who have sailed with Chinese cooks: (nautical) officers': late C. 19–20. Cheese and ham with an egg on top.

[chef. A ship's cook: jocular naval coll. on the border-line of jocular S.E.: C. 20. F. & Gibbons.]

cheild (pron. che-ild). A derisively coll. C. 20 pronunciation, esp. with my, of child: in ridicule of the agonies of the transpontine drama. Infrequent before G.W., common in military fun, fairly gen. since.

chello. A variant of jillo = jildi.

Chelsca, get. To obtain the benefit of Chelsea military hospital: military, mid-C. 18–early 19. Grose, 3rd ed.

Chelsea College. See Lombard Street.

chemist, the. A medical officer: military: late 1914–18, and later. F. & Gibbons.

chemmy. The game of chemin de fer: coll.: from ca. 1920.—2. See -y, 2.

chemozzle. An occ. variant of shemozzle, q.v.

Chent. Incorrect for Kent: 1676, noted by Coles.

Chepemans. Cheapside Market: C. 17 c. See -mans.

cheque, have seen the. To have exact knowledge: coll., from ca. 1870; ob.

cheque, little. See little cheque.

cheque, pass in one's. An Australian variant (—1916), e.g. in C. J. Dennis, of cash (or hand in) one's checks, q.v.

Cher, the. The River Cherwell: Oxford undergraduates': late C. 19–20. Collinson.

cheri or Cheri. A charming woman: Society: ca. 1840–60. Ware, 'From Madame Montigny, of the Gymnase, Paris. Her stage name remained Rose Cheri. She was a singularly pure woman, and an angelic actress. Word used by upper class men in society . . . to describe the nature of their mistresses.' (? rather chérie.)

cherpin. A book: c. of ca. 1840–1900. Anon., No. 747. Etymology?

cherrilet, cherrylet. Gen. in pl. A nipple: late C. 16–17. Sylvester, 'Those twins . . . Curled-purled cherrilets'. On the border-line between coll. and S.E.

cherry. A young girl: c., latter half of C. 19. Cf. cherry-pie and cherry-ripe.

cherry-bounce. Cherry-brandy: coll.; from ca. 1790; but in Robertson's Phraseologia Generalis, 1693, as cherry-bouncer. Cf. the S.E. sense, brandy and sugar.

Cherry-Breeches or -Bums. See Cherubims.

cherry-colour(ed). Either black or red: in a common card-cheating trick: low coll.: from ca. 1850. Cf. Grose's cherry-coloured cat, a black one.

cherry-merry. Merry; convivial; slightly drunk: coll. (—1775). Perhaps the same as Middleton's kerry merry. ? cheery corrupted; but cf. chirping-merry, q.v.—2. (Anglo-Indian) a present of money: coll.: from ca. 1850. H., 3rd ed. Cf.:

cherry-merry bamboo. A thrashing: Anglo-Indian, from ca. 1860; ob. H., 3rd ed. Lit., a present of bamboo: see cherry-merry, 2.

cherry nob. (Very rare in singular.) Military policemen: military: C. 20. F. & Gibbons, 'From their red cap covers'. More gen. red caps.

Cherry-Pickers. See Cherubims.—2. (cherry pickers.) Inferior seamen: nautical: late C. 19–20. Bowen.

cherry-pie. A girl: from ca. 1870; ob. Cf. o. cherry.

cherry-pipe. A woman: low rhyming s. on o. cherry-ripe, a woman. From ca. 1880; ob.

cherry-ripe. A Bow Street runner: C. 18–early 19. Ex the scarlet waistcoat.—2. A footman dressed in red plush: from ca. 1860; ob.—3. A pipe: rhyming s. (—1857). 'Ducange Anglieus', 1st ed.—4. In c., a woman: from ca. 1840. Cf. cherry.—5. Nonsense: rhyming s. (on tripe): C. 20.

cherry-ripe! A way of ealling ripe cherries! Coll.: from ca. 1600. Herrick.

cherry-tree class. Two British battleships of a tonnage reduced by Washington, the U.S. capital: post-G.W. Bowen, 'Because they were cut down by Washington', the cherry-tree hero of the truth.

cherub. See cherubims, 3.

Cherub Dicky. Richard Suett (d. 1805), a comedian. Dawson, 'Originally a choir-boy at Westminster Abbey'.

cherubim, singular, and cherubims, pl., are in C. 19–20 sol. or low coll. whenever they are not dial. Dickens has the former in Dombey and Son, 1848.

cherubims. Peevish children: late C. 18–early 19; coll. Facetiously allusive to 'To Thee cherubim and seraphim continually do cry' in the Te Deum. Grose, 1st ed.—2. (Military) the 11th Hussars: from ca. 1813. From their cherry-coloured trousers. Cherry-Pickers, because some of their men were captured when on outpost duty in a Spanish orchard. By low jocularly, Cherry-Bums. Also Cherry-Breeches. Cherubs, says the S.O.D., 'in early Christian art . . . were app. coloured red'.—3. Chorister, mod. choir, boys: from ca. 1850; ob. Also cherubs. Perhaps ex the Te Deum verse.

cherubims (or -ins), in the. Unsubstantial; 'in the clouds': C. 16–17; coll.; rare. Udall.

Cheshire cat; often cat. An inhabitant of Cheshire: coll. nickname (—1884). Ware (at webfoots). Ex:

Cheshire cat, grin like a. To laugh, or smile, broadly. Pejorative coll.: from ca. 1770. Wolcot, 'Lo, like a Cheshire cat our Court will grin!'; Thackeray; 'Lewis Carroll' in Alice in Wonderland. In C. 19 one often added eating cheese, chewing gravel, or evacuating bones. Origin still a mystery. I surmise but cannot prove cheeser, a cat very fond of cheese, a cheeser having > a cheeser cat > a Cheshire cat; hence grin like a Cheshire cat would = to be as pleased as a 'cheeser' that has just eaten cheese. Or the development might be cheeser: Cheshire-cheeser: Cheshire cat.

Cheshire, the. 'The cheese', 'the correct thing', perfection: ca. 1870–1900. Ware.

chessy. Characteristic of good play at chess: coll.: 1883. O.E.D.

chest, chuck a. See chuck a chest. Cf.:

chest, chuck out one's. To pull oneself together; stand firm: coll.: from ca. 1860; ob. The C. 20 sense (likewise coll.) is to make oneself appear manly, to show confidence. An occ. variant, throw a chest.

chest, get it off one's. 'To deliver a speech; express one's feelings', C. J. Dennis: (mainly) Australian s. (C. 20) >, by 1930, coll.

chest, over the. See gun, over the.

chest and bedding. A woman's breasts: nautical (— 1785); † by 1900. Grose, 1st ed. (at kettle drums).

chest-plaster. A young actor: theatrical: 1883—ca. 1890. A satirical description by the older actors: 'From the heart-shaped shirt-front worn with a very open dress-waistcoat, and starched almost into a cuirass . . . (See Shape and Shirt.)' Ware.

chestnut. Abbr. chestnut-coloured horse: coll.: from ca. 1840.—2. A stale story or outworn jest. Coll., 1886 +, ex slightly earlier U.S. Perhaps ex 'a special oft-repeated story in which a chestnut-tree is particularly mentioned', W. (cf. O.E.D. quotation for 1888); perhaps ex roast chestnuts (cf. done brown).—3. In pl., bullets: military of G.W., but not very gen. F. & Gibbons. Cf. Fr. châtaignes.

Chestnut Troop, the. 'A' Battery, Royal Horse Artillery: 1793: military coll. >, in late C. 19, j. F. & Gibbons. Ex colour of the horses.

chestnuts. See chestnut, 2.

chesto!, chest-o! 'Request to anyone to get off a chest lid, so that the chest may be opened', Masefield. Conway Training Ship: from ca. 1880.

chesty. Weak in the chest; of tuberculosis or pneumonia: coll.: C. 20. (O.E.D. Sup.)

chete. See cheat.

Chev. A Chevrolet: motorists' coll.: from ca. 1925.

[cheval de retour. An old offender: occ. found in English books of ca. 1850–90; never used by the underworld, rarely by the police.]

Chevalier Atkins. A journalistic coll. variation, ca. 1895–1910, of Tommy Atkins. Ware.

chevisa(u)nce. Enterprise (esp. if chivalrous); prowess: catachrestic: 1579, Spenser. O.E.D.

chevoo. See shevoo.

Chevy Chase. A face: rhyming s. (— 1859); † by 1914, except as abbr., chevy or chivvy. H., 1st ed.; Manchon.

chew. A quid of tobacco: low coll.; from ca. 1840.

chew it over is an Australian variant (— 1916) of chew the fat.

chew the balls off. To reprimand severely: military: C. 20.

chew the cud. To be very thoughtful: coll., from ca. 1860.—2. To chew tobacco: from ca. 1845.

chew the fat or rag; in C. 20, occ. chew the grease (Manchon). To grumble; resuscitate an old grievance: military: from ca. 1880. Brunlees Patterson, Life in the Ranks, 1885. In G.W. there was a tendency to distinguish, thus: chew the fat, 'to sulk, be resentful'; chew the rag, 'to argue endlessly or without hope of a definite agreement', B. & P. Moreover, in the C. 20 Navy, chew the fat additionally = 'to spin a yarn' (Bowen).

chew the mop. A variant (from ca. 1920) of chew the rag, to argue: military.

chew up. (Gen. in passive.) To reprimand, to 'tell off': mostly military: C. 20. F. & Gibbons. chewed rag or string. See boiled rag.

chewed up, be. To be very nervous and/or off colour: from ca. 1920. (G. Heyer, Why Shoot a Butler?, 1933.)

chewing her oakum. (Of a wooden ship) beginning to leak, the caulking being bad: nautical: mid-C. 19–20; ob. Bowen.

chewre. To steal: c.: C. 17–18.

chi-a(c)k, -hike, -ike. See chiike.

chic. Skill, dexterity, esp. in the arts; finish, style; elegance: coll.: from ca. 1855. Ex the Fr. Lever; Yates, 1866, 'A certain piquancy and chic in her appearance'.—2. 'Style': artists' coll.: late C. 19–20.

chic, v. 'To chic up a picture, or to do a thing from chic = to work without models and out of one's own head': artists' s. (— 1891) verging on coll. F. & H. Ex preceding term.

chic, adj. Elegant, stylish: from late 1870's: coll. after ca. 1890. (Not so used in Fr.)

chice(-am-a-trice). Nothing; no good: low and vagrants': C. 19. Egan's Grose has both forms and implies that the term was orig. Yiddish. Prob. ex Romany chichi, nothing, and the source of shicer, q.v.

chick. A child: whether endearment or neutral term. From M.E. onwards. Coll. almost S.E.—2. Anglo-Indian coll. (— 1866): abbr. chickeen, a Venetian coin (= 4 rupees). Esp. in 'I'll buy you a chick.'

chickabiddy. A young girl: orig. (— 1860) costers'. Ex the nursery name for a chicken often employed as an endearment (— 1785) for a child. Grose, 1st ed. The -biddy may orig. have been birdy: W.

chickaleary cove. An artful fellow: costers'; from ca. 1860. The C. C. was one of the famous Vanec's songs ca. 1869. Prob. chick = a bird, leary = suspicious, alert, wide-awake: cf. downy bird, q.v.

chicken. C. 17–18 coll., 'a feeble, little creature, of mean spirit', B.E. Whence the † hen-hearted and chicken-hearted, adj., and chicken-heart, a coward, also coll.—2. A child (C. 18–20, coll.), chick being more usual.—3. In (— 1851) c., a pint pot: cf. cat-and-kitten sneaking, q.v.—4. A fowl of any age; the chicken, fowls collectively: coll.: C. 19–20. O.E.D. (Sup.).

chicken, no. Elderly. From ca. 1700: coll. Swift, '... Your hints that Stella is no chicken'; Fielding; Walpole; Sala, 'I am no chicken.'

chicken, that's (gen. your). That's your concern: coll. (— 1931). Lyell. Now gen. that's your pigeon.

Chicken, the. M. A. Taylor, a noted barrister (d. 1834). Dawson, 'From his allusion to himself in his maiden speech (1785) as but "a chicken in the profession of the law".'

chicken-butcher. A poulterer; also, anyone shooting very young game. Coll.: late C. 18–20; ob. Grose, 2nd ed. In C. 20 Glasgow, chicken-choker.

chicken-feed. Small change: Canadian (and U.S.): C. 20. (John Beames, Gateway, 1932.)

chicken-fixing. See gilguy.

chicken-food. Blancmange: naval: late C. 19–20. Bowen.

chicken got the axe, where the. I.e. 'in the neck'; severely, disastrously, fatally: a c.p. dating from ca. 1896; slightly ob. W. Cf. where Maggie wore the beads.

chicken-hammed. Bandy-legged: mid-C. 18–19 coll. Grose, 1st ed.

chicken nabob. A man returned from India with but a moderate fortune: late C. 18–early 19 coll. Grose, 2nd ed.

chicken-perch. A church: rhyming s.: late C. 19–20. B. & P.

chickens before they are hatched, count one's. Unduly to anticipate a successful issue. C. 16–20; coll. till C. 19, then S.E. Gosson, 1579; 'Hudibras' Butler, its populariser. Cf. L. ante victoriam canere triumphum.

chickery-pokery. See jiggery-pokery.

chicko, n. and adj. (A) very young (person, esp. a soldier): military: C. 20. B. & P. I.e. a mere chicken.

chicot. Verminous: military: 1916-18. B. & P., 'From the French ill-success with hitchy-koo'.

Chidley Dyke. The line between Cheltenham and Southampton Docks: railwaymen's: C. 20; ob. Known to the passengers as the Pig and Whistle Line. chie, occ. chai. See chal.

chief (the chief). The Chief Engineer, or, loosely, the First Mate: nautical coll.: mid-C. 19-20.—2. A Petty Officer, etc.: naval: C. 20. Bowen.—3. (chief.) A—gen. jocular—form of address: coll.; from ca. 1880. Partly ex sense 1. Esp. in O.K., chief (post-G.W.): see O.K.

chief buffer, the. The Chief Boatswain's Mate: naval: late C. 19-20. Bowen.

chief housemaid, the. A 1st lieutenant, R.N.: naval: C. 20. Ibid. Ho is 'responsible for the cleanliness and good order of the ship'.

chief muck of the crib. 'A head director in small affairs', Bee: low: ca. 1820-80. Cf. Lord Muck.

chife. An occ. variant of chive: see chive-fencer. Grose, 1st ed. As is chiff (Lex. Bal.).

chigger. A variant of gigger or jigger, esp. as a private still. 'Jon Bee', 1823.

chiike, occ. chy-ack (or chiack) and chi-hike; rarely chi-ak. A street (orig. costers') salute; a hearty word of praise heartily spoken. From ca. 1855; low coll. H., 1st ed.; The Chickaleary Cove, where it is spelt chy-ike. Echoic. Etymology? Perhaps a corruption or perversion of chuck, v., 6 (n.b. esp. chuck a jolly).—2. Whence, in Australia, a jering call, a piece of 'cheek': from ca. 1880. Cf.:

chiike, chy-ack, v. To hail; praise noisily. Low coll.; from ca. 1855.—2. Among tailors: to chaff ruthlessly: from ca. 1865.—3. Whence, in Australia, to 'check', of which it is a corruption: from mid-1870's. Morris.—4. V.i., to make a 'row', a din: low coll.: from ca. 1880. O.E.D. (Sup.).

chiike with the chill off, give. To reprimand, scold, abuse. From ca. 1866; ob.

child, eat a. 'To partake of a treat given to the parish officers, in part of commutation for a bastard child', Grose, 1st ed. Mid-C. 18-mid-19 (coll.).

child, this. Oneself; I, me: coll.; orig. (— 1850) U.S., anglicised ca. 1890. At one time—before 1927, at any rate—there was a c.p.: not for this child. (Collinson).

childer. Children: in C. 19-20, low coll. when not dial.

Childers. A holding in 2½% Consols redeemable in 1905: Stock Exchange from 1884, when Mr. Childers originated this stock in an 'attempt to reduce the interest on the whole of the Three per Cent. Debt' (A. J. Wilson, Stock Exchange Glossary, 1895); † by 1906, except historically.

children's shoes, make. To be fooled, mocked, depreciated: coll.: C. 17-19. Mrs. Centlivre.

child's play. Something very easy to do: coll. >, by 1880, S.E.; from ca. 1839, but dating from late M.E. in form child's, or childer, game.

chill, v.t. and i. To warm (a liquid). Coll.; from ca. 1820. Dickens, in Boz, 'A pint pot, the contents . . . chilling on the hob'. Abbr. take the chill off, also coll.

chill off, with the. A comment or exclamation indicative of dissent or depreciation or disbelief. Coll.; from ca. 1840. Cf. over the left.

chillum. (Anglo-Indian, from ca. 1780) a hookah, the smoking thereof, a 'fill' of tobacco therein: coll. rather than s. The orig. and proper meaning is that part of a hookah which contains the tobacco. Ex Hindi chilam.

Chilly Charley. Charles Clark (1806-80), topographer and satirist. Dawson.

Chiltern Hundreds, accept the. 'To vacate a favourable seat at the alchouse', Bee: public-house: ca. 1820-60. Punning S.E. sense.

chimbl(e)y, chimley. A chimney: (dial. and sol.: C. 18-20.

chime. In c., to praise, esp. highly; puff; canoodle mercenarily: C. 19.

chime in, v.i. To join harmoniously in conversation, etc.: from ca. 1830; coll. soon S.E.

chime in with. To be in entire (subordinate) agreement with: from ca. 1820; coll. soon > S.E.

chimley. See chimbley.—chimmy. See the more gen. shimmy. (A. S. M. Hutchinson, 1908.) chimney. One who smokes (esp. a pipe) a great deal: from ca. 1880; coll.

chimney-chops. A negro: coll.; late C. 18-mid-19 pejorative. Grose, 1st ed.

chimney-pot. The tall silk hat worn by men, also (long †) a riding-hat for women. Coll.; from ca. 1865. Abbr. chimney-pot hat. Cf. bell-topper, stove-pipe.

chimney-sweep(er). The aperient more gen. known as the black draught: ca. 1850-1900. H., 3rd ed. Cf. custom-house officer.—2. A clergyman: from ca. 1870; ob. Cf. clergyman = a chimney-sweep.

chimozzle. A variant (recorded in 1900) of shemozzle.

chimp. A C. 20 coll. abbr. of chimpanzee; orig. among the keepers at the Zoo.

chin. A talk: American s. (— 1914) anglicised ca. 1920. (O.E.D. Sup.) Ex:

chin, v. To talk, esp. if loquaciously or argumentatively: orig. (— 1880), U.S.; anglicised ca. 1890. From ca. 1920, also chin-chin. Vbl.n., chinning, a talk.—2. To hit (a person): low: from ca. 1910. Orig. on the chin, and esp. in Glasgow.

chin, up to the. Deeply involved; extremely busy. Coll.; from ca. 1860.

chin-chin! A salutation; in C. 20, a c.p. toast. This Anglo-Chinese term dates from late C. 18, but it > popular, outside of China, only in G.W., though it was general in the Navy in late C. 19 and, by 1909, common in 'club society' (Ware). Chinese ts'ing-ts'ing, please-please. (W.)—2. Hence also v., to greet: 1829, Yule & Burnell. Whence chin-chin joss.—3. See chin, v., 1.

chin-chin joss. Religious worship: pidgin-English (in Chinese ports): mid-C. 19-20. Ex preceding + joss, an idol. Yule & Burnell.

chin-chopper. A blow under the chin: boxing, from ca. 1870; ob.

chin-music. Conversation; oratory. Adopted ca. 1875 (Besant & Rice, 1876) ex U.S. where popularised by Mark Twain. Note, however, that Berkshire dial. had it as early as 1852 (E.D.D.).

chin-strap, come in on one's. 'To finish a march or a carrying party so fatigued that (fig.) only the chin-strap kept the body upright', B. & P.: military coll.: 1914.

chin-wag. Officious impertinence: ca. 1860–1900. H., 3rd ed.—2. Whence, talk, chatter: from ca. 1875. Punch, in 1879: 'I'd just like to have a bit of chin-wag with you on the quiet.'

chin-wag, v.i. To talk: C. 20. Ex chin-wag, n., 2.

china; chiner. (In C. 20, often old china.) A pal, a mate: abbr. china plate, rhyming s. (from ca. 1890): C. 20, esp. in G.W.

China!, not for all the tea in. Certainly not!; on no account: Australian coll.: from the 1890's.

China-bird. (Gen. pl.) A naval man serving on the China Station: naval: C. 20. Bowen.

China orange. See all Lombard Street.

China Street. Bow Street (London): c.: ca. 1810–50. Vaux. Ex proximity to Covent Garden and its oranges.

China Tenth, the. The 10th Hussars: military: 1810; slightly ob. In that year the Prince Regent was its colonel; hence it was handled as carefully as valuable china. F. & Gibbons.

Chinaman. A left-hand bowler's leg-break: cricketers': from ca. 1905. Ex the manner of Chinese script, right to left.

Chinaman's copy. An exact copy, including mistakes and emendations: typists' coll. (— 1935).

Chinaman's shout. 'Dutch treat', q.v.: Australian: C. 20.

Chinas. Eastern Extension Australasian and China Telegraph shares: Stock Exchange, ca. 1885–1914.

chince. See chinese.

Chincha dung-boat. A sailing ship engaged in the guano trade from the Chincha islands: nautical coll.: C. 20. Bowen.

Chinee. A Chinese: coll.; orig. and mainly U.S.; anglicised ca. 1870. Cf. chink, 3.

chiner. See china.

Chinese compliment. A pretended deference to, and interest in, the opinion of another when actually one has fully made up one's mind: from ca. 1880; coll. soon S.E.

Chinese Rolls-Royce. A Ford car: Royal Army Service Corps's: G.W., and after; ob. F. & Gibbons. Ex Chinese as a pejorative: cf. preceding entry.

chink. Money, esp. in coins. In pl., either coin (collective) or ready cash: only the latter sense (C. 16–20) has always been coll. After ca. 1830, chinker is very rarely used, chink taking its place. Shrewdly honest Tusser, 'To buie it the cheaper, have chinks in thy purse'; Jonson.—2. The female pudend: low coll., C. 18–20.—3. (Chink.) A Chinese: mainly Australian; from ca. 1890. Cf. Chinkie and John (abbr. John Chinaman).—4. Prison: Devonshire s.: 1896, Eden Phillpotts in Black and White, June 27 (E.D.D.). Ex lit. S.E. sense of chink, a hole, on s. clink, prison.

chinkers. Money, esp. in coin. Coll.; from ca. 1830. Sir Henry Taylor, 1834; Baumann in his Slang Ditty prefacing Londonismen, 1887. Derivatively developed from chink(s) and likewise echoic.—2. In C. 19–20 c., handcuffs joined by a chain.

Chinkie. A Chinese: Australian; from ca. 1880; ob. A. J. Boyd, Old Colonials, 1882. Morris. By perversion of Chinaman. Cf. Chink (at chink, 3). chinner. A grin: Winchester College: ca. 1885–1900. Wrench.

chinning, vbl.n. See chin, v.

chinny. Sugar: Regular Army's: late C. 19–20. F. & Gibbons. Ex Hindustani chini.

chingua soldi. (Properly cinqua s.) Fivepence: theatrical and Parlyaree from ca. 1840. Ex It. via Lingua Franca.

chinese. A chance: a Winchester College deliberate corruption: C. 19–20. Wrench (chince).

chintz. A bed-bug: ca. 1880–1900. G. A. Sala, in The Daily Telegraph, Aug. 14, 1885. Ex the association of chintz with bedrooms.

chip. A child: late C. 17–early 19. B.E.; Grose. Cf. block, chip of the old, q.v.—2. A sovereign: from ca. 1870. Miss Braddon in Phantom Fortune.—3. A slight fracture; a piece chipped off: coll.; from ca. 1870.—4. In C. 20 racing c., a shilling—the coin or its value.—5. With not to care, a chip = at all; C. 16–20, ob.; coll. > S.E. by 1600.—6. See chips.—7. A rupee: Regular Army's: late C. 19–20. Cf. sense 4, prob. a derivative.

chip, v. To 'cheek', interrupt with (gen. deliberate) impertinence: Australia and New Zealand; from ca. 1890. E.g. in C. J. Dennis. Perhaps ex the 'flying-off' of wood-chips; cf. chip at, q.v.—2. Hence, to chaff, in any way whatsoever: C. 20. (R. Keverne, The Havering Plot, 1928, 'Gurney chipped him in a friendly way'.)

chip, brother. Orig. a 'brother' carpenter, then anyone of the same trade or profession. Cf. chips, q.v. Often = brother smut. Coll.; from ca. 1810. Lex. Bal.

chip at. To quarrel with; to criticise adversely: coll.: from ca. 1800. Cf. chip, v., and the U.S. phrase, with a chip on one's shoulder. Cf.:

chip at, have a. To make fun of, to chaff: coll. (— 1923). Manchon.

chip in, v.i. To join in an undertaking; contribute a share; interpose smartly in a conversation, discussion, or speech: orig. (ca. 1870) U.S.; anglicised ca. 1890. Perhaps ex chips, 5.—2. Hence, to interfere: C. 20. F. & Gibbons.

chip in broth, pottage, porridge. Resp. C. 17–early 19, late C. 17–18, late C. 18–20 (ob.); all coll. for a thing or matter of no importance. The Church Times, June 25, 1880, 'The Burials Bill . . . is thought . . . to resemble the proverbial chip in porridge, which does neither good nor harm' (O.E.D.).

chip of the same or old block. See block.

chipper. Well, fit; lively. Coll.; orig. (1837) U.S., anglicised ca. 1880. Cf. Northern dial. kipper.

chipperow. See chub-a-row!

chipping. Vbl.n. (Ex to chip, q.v.) Impudence; the giving of 'cheek': Australian: from ca. 1890.—2. The action of giving a tip: C. 20. Manchon. Prob. ex chips, 3.

Chippy. The inevitable nickname of a man surnamed Carpenter: mostly military: late C. 19–20. F. & Gibbons. Ex chips, 1.

chippy, adj. Unwell, esp. after liquor: cf. Fr. gueule de bois: from ca. 1870. Ex cheap, feel, q.v.—2. Apt to be impudent: coll. (— 1888). O.E.D. Cf. chip in, q.v.

chippy chap. A bluejacket of carpenter's rating: naval: late C. 19–20. F. & Gibbons. Cf. Chippy. Ex:

chips. A carpenter: esp. in Army and Navy; from ca. 1770; in C. 20, coll. Grose, 1st ed.; Clark Russell. Cf. the C. 17–19 proverb, a carpenter is known by his chips (Apperson).—2. Hence, in the Army of late C. 19–20, a Pioneer sergeant. F. & Gibbons.—3. Money: from ca. 1850. H., 1st ed.

Cf. sense 5.—4. (At Wellington College) a kind of grill, from its hardness: C. 19–20, ob.—5. Counters used in games of chance: orig. (— 1880) s., soon coll. (? ex U.S.). chirography. Incorrect when = chorography: C. 17–20. O.E.D. chiromancer. See conjuror.

chirp. To sing: coll.; C. 19–20.—2. In c., to talk; hence (— 1864), to inform to the police. H., 3rd ed.

chirper. A singer: C. 19–20, coll.—2. A glass or a tankard: from ca. 1845. Meredith in Juggling Jerry, 1862, 'Hand up the chirper! ripe ale winks in it.'—3. The mouth: C. 19–20.—4. One who, gen. as member of a gang, haunts music-hall doors, tries to blackmail singers, and, if unsuccessful, enters the auditorium and hisses, hoots, or groans: music-halls', ca. 1887–1914.

chirpiness. Liveliness; cheerfulness; pleasing pertness: coll., from ca. 1865.

chirping-merry. 'Very pleasant over a Glass of good Liquor', B.E.; convivial: late C. 17—early 19; coll. Either the orig. of cherry-merry, q.v., or its explanation. (The Lancashire dial. form is cheeping-merry.) Grose, 1st ed., adds: 'Chirping glass; a cheerful glass, that makes the company chirp like birds in spring.'

chirpy. Cheerful; lively: coll., from ca. 1835. Justin McCarthy; Besant.

chirrup. To cheer or hiss at a music-hall according as a singer has paid or not: coll.: from ca. 1888; ob. Cf. chirper, 4, and chirrupe.—2. Vbl.n., chirruping (The Pall Mall Gazette, March 9, 1888) suggests Fr. chantage.

chirrupe. An additional glass of liquor: public-house coll.: ca. 1820–80. 'Jon Bee', 1823.—2. A blackmailing hisser, occ. applauder, at a music-hall: coll. 1888. James Payn in an article, March 17, and The Pall Mall Gazette, March 6, 1888. See chirrup, v.

chirrupy. Cheery; lively; 'chirpy'. Coll.: from ca. 1870. Burnand, 1874 (O.E.D.); but in U.S. at least as early as 1861 (O.E.D. Sup.).

chise; occ. chis. A variant of chiv(e), n. and v.: c. of ca. 1820–40. Bee. Cf. chiser.

chisel. To cheat: from ca. 1800. Prob. orig. dial., it > gen. only ca. 1840. Mayhew, who spells chissel; Sala, who prefers chizzle; also chizzel; even chuzzle. Hence the old conundrum, 'Why is a carpenter like a swindler?—Because he chisels a deal.' Chiseller and chiselling are natural but infrequent derivatives.

chiser, chiver. Variants (ca. 1820–40) of chiv(e), a knife: c. 'John Bee', 1823. Cf. chise.

Chiswick. See 'Westminster School slang'.

chit. A letter or a note: used by Purchas in 1608, while its orig., chitty (still in use), is not recorded before 1673: Anglo-Indian coll.; since G.W., virtually S.E., esp. as = note, written authorisation, pass, an invoice.—2. Hence, an order or a signature for drinks in clubs, aboard ship, etc.: Society, ex India; from ca. 1875; coll.—(3. As a very young or an undersized girl, always S.E., but as a pejorative for any girl or young woman it has a coll. flavour.) chit-chat. Light and familiar conversation; current gossip of little importance. C. 18–20; coll., by 1760 S.E. By alteration-reduplication.

chitterlings. Shirt frills: C. 16–19: s. > coll., then—the frills going out of fashion—S.E. Lit., a pig's (smaller) entrails. Cf. frill.—2. Hence, the human bowels: mid-C. 18–19. Grose, 1st ed., 'There is a rumpus among my chitterlins, i.e. I have the cholick.'

chitty. An assistant cutter or trimmer: tailors': from ca. 1870; ob.

chitty-face. One who, esp. a child, is pinched of face, C. 17. In C. 18–19, baby-face. A pejorative. Extant in dial., mainly an adj. in -d. S.O.D. ranks it as S.E., but the authors' and the recorders' names connote coll.: Munday, 'Melancholy' Burton, B.E., A New Canting Dict. (ca. 1725), Grose (1st ed.), H.

chiv, chive. See chive-fencer.—2. The face: low Australian (— 1916). C. J. Dennis. Ex chivvy as at Chevy Chase.

chiv, v. See chive-fencer.—2. Whence, to smash a glass in one's face: C. 20 c. Vbl.n., chivving. Charles E. Leach, On Top of the Underworld, 1933.

chivalry. Sexual intercourse: late C. 18–19: low: ex Lingua Franca. Cf. cavaulting, chauvering, horsing, and:

chivarl(e)y. Human coition: C. 19 low. See preceding entry.

chive-fencer. One who 'fences' or protects murderers from arrest: c. (— 1909) Ex:—2. A street hawker of cutlery: costers': from ca. 1850. See fence(r); chive (or chiv)—of Romany origin—is C. 17–20 c. for a knife, a file, a saw; Romany and c. for to stab, to cut or saw (through), to 'knife': mid-C. 18–20 (Grose, 1st ed.).

chiver. An occ. variant (— 1887) of chive, esp. as v. (see chive-fencer). Baumann.

chivey. A knife: nautical ex Romany: from ca. 1890. Cf. preceding entry.—2. (Also chivy, chivvy.) A shout, greeting, cheer, esp. if rough or chaffing; a scolding. Coll.; a corruption of chevy with sense deflected. From ca. 1810 (Lex. Bal.) and pronounced chivvy.—3. In c., the face, with further variant chevy: from ca. 1860; ob. Cf. sense 4 of:

chiv(e)y, chivvy, v. To run, go quickly, as in Moncrieff's Tom and Jerry, 1823, 'Now, Jerry, chivey! . . . Mizzle! . . . Tip your rags a gallop! . . . Bolt!' Perhaps ex S.E. Chevy Chase.—2. To chase round (— 1830), as in H. Kingsley's Austin Elliot, 'The dog . . . used to chivy the cats.'—3. Hence, to make fun of, 'guy', worry: from ca. 1850. All coll.—4. In c., to scold: C. 19–20.

chiving lay. The robbing of coaches by cutting the rear braces or slashing through the back of the carriage: mid-C. 18—early 19 c. Grose, 2nd ed.

chivvy. See Chevy Chase.—2. See senses 2 and 3 of chiv(e)y, chivvy.—3. As a term of address, 'old chap': lower classes' (— 1923). Manchon. Perhaps ex chivvy, a face: cf. old top.—4. The chin: military in Boer War. J. Milne, The Epistles of Atkins, 1902.

chivy. Adj., relating to the use of the knife as a weapon: C. 19–20 (ob.) c. E.g. chivy duel, a duel with knives.

chizzel or chizzle. See chisel.—Chloe. See drunk as Chloe.—choak; choakee; choaker. See choke; choker; chokey.

choc. (Gen. in pl.) Abbr. chocolate: C. 20; since 1934, almost coll.

chock. To hit a person under the chin: Cockney coll.; from ca. 1860. A semi-dial. variant of chuck (under the chin).

chocker, gen. old chocker. A man. Not, like codger, a pejorative. Cockney coll.; from ca. 1860. Ex preceding.

chocks, pull the. See pull the chocks.

chocolate without sugar, give (a person). To reprove: military (— 1785); † by 1890. Grose, 1st ed.

choice !, you pays (yer or) your money and you takes (yer or) your. A C. 20 c.p. = you take whatever you choose. Ex the cry of showmen.

choice riot. A horrid noise: streets': ca. 1890–1915. Ware.

choice spirit. The S.E. sense began with Shakespeare, but in C. 18 s., the term meant 'a thoughtless, laughing, singing, drunken fellow', Grose, 1st ed.

choke. Prison bread: low: from ca. 1880; ob.

choke, enough to make a black man. (Of medicine, food) extremely unpalatable: Cockney coll. (— 1887); ob. Baumann.

choke away, the churchyard's near ! (Cf. churchyard cough.) A late C. 17–early 19 c.p. jocular admonition to anyone coughing. Ray, 1678; Grose, 3rd ed.

choke, chicken: more are hatching. A similar C. 18–early 19, then dial., Job's comforting. Swift; Grose, 3rd ed. (Apperson.)

choke-dog. Cheese: low coll.; orig. and mainly dial. From ca. 1820; ob.

choke off. To get rid of a person; put a stop to a course of action: coll. (— 1818) >, by 1890, S.E. (O.E.D.)

choke-pear. A difficulty; a severe reproof; a 'settler' (†); a gag (†): from C. 16. Ex the instrument of torture (so named from an unpalatable kind of pear) so called. Coll. > S.E. by 1700; first two senses, archaic.

choke you ?, didn't that ; it's a wonder that didn't choke you ! C.p. comments on a bare-faced or notable lie: C. 19–20. Cf. the C. 17–18 semi-proverbial 'If a lie could have choked him, that would have done it' (Ray).

choke your luff ! Be quiet: nautical: mid-C. 19–20; slightly ob. Bowen.

chokee. See chokey.

choker. A cravat; orig. a large neckerchief worn round the neck. Often white choker, q.v. First record, 1848, Thackeray (Book of Snobs): 'The usual attire of a gentleman, viz., pumps, a gold waistcoat, a crush hat, a sham frill, and a white choker'.—2. A high all-round collar: from ca. 1868.—3. A garrotter: from ca. 1800; coll. Cf. wind-stopper.—4. In c., a cell; a prison: from ca. 1860; rare. See chokey.—Also, 5, a halter, the hangman's rope: C. 18–19.—6. A notable lie; a very embarrassing question: low: late C. 19–20; slightly ob. Ware; Manchon. Ex its supposed effect on the perpetrator.—7. A cigarette: military: 1915. F. & Gibbons. Prob. suggested by gasper.

chokered. Wearing a choker, q.v. The London Review, April 7, 1866; O.E.D. records it at 1865.

chokey, choky; rarely cho(a)kee or chauki. A lock-up; a prison. In Anglo-Indian form C. 17, and adopted in England ca. 1850. Michael Scott has it in his Cruise of the Midge, 1836; Besant & Rice. Ex Hindustani chauki, lit. a four-sided place or building: Yule & Burnell.—2. Hence, imprisonment: from ca. 1880; rare.—3. G.W. +, a detention-cell, occ. a guard-room, ex the (— 1889) c. sense, a dark cell. Hindi chauki, a shed. Cf.

Queen's Chokey.—4. Derivatively, a prison dict of bread and water (1884).

choking (or cold) pie (or pye). 'A punishment inflicted on any person sleeping in company: it consists in wrapping up cotton in a case or tube of paper, setting it on fire, and directing the smোক up the nostrils of the sleeper,' Grose, 3rd ed.: coll. (— 1650); ob. by 1860; † by 1890. Howell's edition (1650) of Cotgrave's Dict.

choky. Having a gen. tendency or a momentary feeling of choking: from ca. 1855; T. Hughes, 'To feel rather choky', 1857. Cf. the early and S.E. senses, which are, in C. 20, almost coll.: apt to choke the eater; suffocating. O.E.D.

chol(l)ic(k), -e; cholicky. Incorrect for colic, colicky: C. 17–20. O.E.D.

chonkey(s). A mincemeat, baked in a crust and sold in the streets: low coll.: mid-C. 19–20; ob. H., 1st ed. Etymology obscure: perhaps ex some noted pieman (Ware).

choom; properly, but less gen., chum. A term of address much used by the Australian and New Zealand soldiers to an unknown English (not Welsh, Scottish or Irish) soldier: 1915–18. Ex chum, n., 1.

choops ! Be quiet, silent! Anglo-Indian and military: C. 19–20. See chubaree for etymology and the gen. C. 20 form.

choose. To wish to have; want: low coll.: from ca. 1760. In C. 20, almost S.E. choosey. Fastidious; given to picking and choosing: low coll.: C. 20. James Curtis, The Gilt Kid, 1936.

chcotah. Small; unimportant: Anglo-Indian: C. 19–20. Gen. chota or choter.

chop. In mid-C. 18–early 19 boxing s., a blow with the fist. Grose, 3rd ed.

chop, adj. In 'pidgin', C. 19–20: quick.

chop as in first-, second-chop, first- or second-rate or -class, rank or quality. Anglo-Indian and -Chinese coll., ex Hindi chhap, a brand. The attributive use is the more gen. and dates from late C. 18: thus Thackeray, 'A sort of second-chop dandies'. Yule & Burnell, whence no chop (see chop, no).

chop, v. (The barter-exchange senses are S.E.)—2. To eat a chop: ca. 1840–1900. Mrs. Gore, 1841, 'I would rather have chopped at the "Blue Posts"'.—3. To eat (a human being), gen. in passive: West Africa, from ca. 1860; ob. But, simply as 'to eat', it is current, with corresponding n., 'food'. Either ex † chop, to devour, or suggested by chopsticks. W.—4. In c., to speak, as in chop the whiners, to say prayers: C. 18–19. Cf. chop up, q.v.—5. Esp., however, to do, or speak quickly: e.: C. 17–18.

chop, no. Inferior, insignificant, objectionable: coll.: from mid-1880's; ob. (O.E.D. Sup.)

[chop and change, v. and n., is, despite F. & H., S.E. in all senses. See O.E.D.]

Chop-Back. (Gen. pl.) A Hastings fisherman: nautical: C. 18–20; ob. Bowen, 'From an old-time incident in a fight with Dutch traders'. Also Hatchet-Back, for the same grim hand-lopped reason: E.D.D. (Sussex nicknames.)

chop by chance. 'A rare Contingence, an extraordinary or uncommon Event', B.E.; coll.: late C. 17–18; never very gen.

chop-chop ! Quickly; immediately: pidgin; from ca. 1860. James Payn. Prob. ex Cantonese dial.—2. Also as v., to make haste.

chop-church. In C. 16—early 17, S.E.; in late C. 17—18, coll.; in C. 19, archaic S.E.: an unscrupulous dealer or trafficker in benefices.

chop-logs. A C. 16—17 coll. perversion of chop-logic.

chop up. To hurry through, esp. in c. chop up the whiners, to gallop through prayers: late C. 17—19. B.E. chopped hay. Knowledge imperfectly assimilated: coll. (— 1923). Manchon. Ex the stables.

chopper. 'A blow, struck on the face with the back of the hand', Moore in Tom Crib's Memorial, 1819. Pugilistic; ob. Occ. in coll. form, chopping blow.—2. A sausage-maker: tradesmen's: from ca. 1860.

chopper or button on, have a. To feel depressed: printers', from ca. 1850; ob. See also button on, have a.

chopping. (Of girls) vain and ardent; sexually on-coming: late C. 19—20; ob. Coll. Ex the S.E. sense. Cf. the idea in Fr. avoir la cuisse gaie.

chopping-block. In boxing, an unskilled man that yet can take tremendous punishment. From ca. 1830: coll.

chops. The mouth: C. 18 coll. Cf. S.E. senses.

chops, down in the. Depressed; melancholy; sad. Coll.: from ca. 1820; rare in C. 20, when the form (as occ. from ca. 1850) is down in the mouth, with sense of dejected.

chops, lick one's. To gloat: coll. in C. 17—18; S.E. thereafter, but hardly literary.

chops of the Channel, the. The Western entrance to the English Channel: nautical coll.: C. 19—20. Bowen.

chores, do. To 'char' (q.v.), do the cleaning work of a house: from ca. 1745: coll. when not dial. More gen. in U.S.

chortle. To chuckle gurglingly or explosively. Coined by 'Lewis Carroll' ex chuckle + snort (Through the Looking Glass, 1872) and soon popular, e.g. in Besant & Rice, 1876. For a while considered coll., but by 1895 definitely S.E. See my Slang at Portmanteau Words.—2. Hence, to sing: 1889, The Referee, Dec. 29, 'Chortle a chansonette or two'.—3. Hence, chortle about or over, to praise excessively: 1897, The Daily Telegraph, March 31 (Ware).

chosen pals or pells. Highwaymen robbing in pairs, esp. in London: c.: mid-C. 18—early 19. Grose, 2nd ed. See pal, n.

Chosen Twelve, the. See Apostles.—choter wallah. See barrow wallah. Cf. chootah, q.v.

chounter. 'To talk pertly, and (sometimes) angrily', B.E.; late C. 17—18. ? ex chant influenced by counter; or is it not rather cognate with Devon dial. ppl. adj., chounting (the v. is unrecorded) = 'taunting, jeering, grumbling', E.D.D., which quotes it at 1746 ?

chouse. A swindle, hoax, humbug, imposition: from ca. 1700; ex chouse (= chiaus), a S.E. term of perhaps Turkish orig., the etymology remaining a partial mystery. From ca. 1850 at Eton and, as we see in R. G. K. Wrench, at Winchester, a shame, as in 'a beastly chouse', or an imposition, whence (— 1864) chouser, a 'sharp' lad. See O.E.D., Yule & Burnell, F. & H., and W.

chouse, v. To cheat; deceive; impose on: coll., from the 1650's; ob. Pepys, May 15, 1663, 'The Portugalls have choused us, it seems, in the Island of Bombay'; the anon. Hints for Oxford, 1823; Scottish Public-School a. at least as late as 1884. Cf. diddle. Vbl.n., chousing.

chouser. See chouse, n.

chout. An entertainment: East-End Cockney, ca. 1855—1910. H., 2nd ed. Etymology slightly problematic: ? a perversion of shout; or rather an adaptation of E. Anglican and Norfolk chout, a frolic or a merry-making (see E.D.D.).

chovey. A shop: costers': from ca. 1835; ob. Brandon, 1839; H., 1st ed. Whence man-chovey, a shopman, and Ann-chovey, a shop-woman. ? etymology, unless a corruption of casa (perhaps on chokey).

chow. Food: from ca. 1870, mainly nautical ex 'pidgin'. Abbr. chow-chow, q.v.—2. Talk; 'cheek': theatrical, from ca. 1870; ob.—3. (Chow.) In Australia, a Chinese (— 1882). Morris. Prob. ex sense 1.

chow, v. To talk much; grumble: theatrical; from ca. 1870. Cf. n., 2, and:

chow! An Anglo-Italian coll. (esp. in London) salutation: mid-C. 19—20. Ex It. ciao (coll. for schiaivo), at your service.

chow, have plenty of. To be very talkative: theatrical; from ca. 1875.

chow-chow. Food of any kind (now chow); from ca. 1860; cf. S.E. senses. H., 3rd ed.—2. Also, chit-chat: from ca. 1870. H., 5th ed. Ex 'pidgin', where, lit., a mixture. See esp. Lady Falkland's Chow-Chow, 1857; ed. by Prof. H. G. Rawlinson, 1930.

chow-chow. To gossip, to chat: late C. 19—20. Manchon. Ex the n., sense 2.

chow-chow, adj. In Anglo-Indian coll., from ca. 1870:—Assorted, general, as in chow-chow cargo or shop; very good, very bad (as context shows), esp. when preceded by No. 1.

chow-chow chop. In Anglo-Chinese from ca. 1890: coll. rather than s. 'The last lighter containing the sundry small packages to fill up a ship', S.O.D.

chow-chow water. Eddies in the sea: Eastern nautical: late C. 19—20. Bowen, 'From the term used by Chinese pilots': cf. chow-chow, adj., q.v.

chow-up. A hot argument; a quarrel, a squabble: military: C. 20. F. & Gibbons. Ex chow, n., 2.

chowdar. A fool: from ca. 1860. Anglo-Chinese, says H., 5th ed.; but is it not an abbr. of the dial. chowder-headed, i.e. jolter-headed ?

Chrisake. Christ's sake: sol.: C. 19—20.

Christ-killer. A Jew: proletarian and military ca. 1850—1915. Mayhew; Ware.

christen. To call by the name of, give a name to: coll., from ca. 1640; in C. 20, almost S.E.—2. To change the markings on a watch: from ca. 1780 (G. Parker, 1781); orig. c.; not low s. until ca. 1850, as in H., 1st ed. (1859), and in Doran's Saint and Sinner, 1868. (Equivalent C. 19—20 c. is church.) Vbl.n., christening, late C. 18—20.—3. To add water to wines or spirits; any light liquor with a heavier: from ca. 1820. Scott, 1824, 'We'll christen him with the brewer (here he added a little small beer to his beverage).' Cf. drown the miller.—4. To souse from a chamber-pot: from ca. 1870. A school and college ceremony that is on the wane; but youth finds a chamber-pot symbolically ludicrous and emblematically important.—5. To celebrate (a meeting, a purchase, a removal, etc.): late C. 19—20. F. & H.

christened by a baker. ('He carries the bran in his face,' i.e. he is) freckled. Grose. Coll.: mid-C. 18—early 19.

christened with pump-water, he was. He has a red face. Coll.; mid-C. 17—early 18. Ray.

christening, be out in one's. To be in error: proletarian coll. (— 1887). Baumann.

christening-wine. The 'champagne' used in launching ceremonies: nautical: mid-C. 19—20; ob. Bowen.

Christer. An exclamation mark: authors' and typists': C. 20. Ex exclamatory Christ!

Christian. A 'decent fellow'; a presentable person. Coll. In Shakespeare's Two Gentlemen of Verona, 1591, and until ca. 1840, it meant merely a human being, not an animal, the mod. sense beginning, as so many mod. senses have begun, with Dickens (see Slang).—2. Ca. 1805—40, the term = a tradesman willing to give credit. Lex. Bal.—3. The adj. (of a person, 1577: humane; of a thing or action, 1682: civilised, respectable) follows the same course. (O.E.D.)

Christian compliments. 'A cough, kiked heels, and a snotty nose', Grose, 3rd ed.: C. 18—19. Grose meant to write Christmas—see his reference at compliments and his MS. addition to the B.M. copy of the 1st ed.; the 2nd ed. has 'Christmass compliments. A cough', etc.

Christian pony. The chairman, or president, of a meeting: mid-C. 18—mid-19. Anglo-Irish. Grose, 2nd ed.

Christianable. As befits, fit for, a Christian: coll.: 1920. O.E.D. (Sup.).

Christians. Members of Christ's College, Cambridge: from ca. 1870.

Christians Arise. A Turkish big gun (or its shell) at the Dardanelles: military: 1915. F. & Gibbons. Ex:—2. (C. a.) The reveille bugle-call: military: from ca. 1910. Ibid.

Christmas, christmassing. Holly and mistletoe serving as Christmas decorations: from ca. 1820, 1840. Dickens, the former; Mayhew, the latter. S.O.D. says it is nursery slang, F. & H.—coll. (The latter, I think).—2. Something special to drink at Christmas time: Australian coll.: late C. 19—20.

Christmas, v. To 'provide with Christmas cheer': very rare: late C. 16—17. Adorn with decorations for Christmas: from ca. 1825. Celebrate Christmas: from ca. 1806. All three senses, coll. See 'The Philology of Christmas', in Words!; also O.E.D.

Christmas! A mild, euphemistic expletive: late C. 19—20. Ware; A. P. Herbert, Holy Deadlock, 1934. It is an evasion of Christ!

Christmas beef. See beef, dressed like Christmas.—Christmas compliments. See Christian compliments.

Christmas box. A Christmas present: low coll. (and dial.): from ca. 1860.

Christmas Eve. To believe: rhyming s.: C. 20. P. P., Rhyming Slang, 1932. Less gen. than Adam and Eve.

Christmas-tree order, in. In heavy marching order: military: 1915: ob. F. & Gibbons. Ex the soldier's appearance when he had full pack up, itself military coll. of C. 20. Sailors preferred Christmas-tree.

Christmassing. See Christmas, n.

Christmas(s)y. Pertaining to, looking like, Christmas: coll.: from ca. 1880. Baumann.

Christys. A coll. (in C. 20, S.E.) abbr. of Christy(s) minstrels (— 1873): Ruskin, in 1875, was app. the first to use the term in print. Ex one George Christy of New York.

chromo. Abbr. chromolithograph, -ic: coll.; 'in use shortly after 1850', O.E.D.

chronic. Unpleasant; objectionable; unfair; 'rotten'. (Rarely of persons: in same senses; hence, formidable, excellent: C. 20. Manchon.) Late C. 19—20, ex the S.E. sense, acute (pain), inveterate (c. complaint). Ware, recording it for 1896, defines chronic rot as 'despairingly bad'. Whence:

chronic, something. Badly, severely, most objectionably: lower classes': C. 20.

chronometer. A watch, however small: coll., either jocular or pretentious: C. 20.

chrony. A C. 17 variant of crony, 1.

chrysant. A chrysanthemum: coll.: from ca. 1890. (R. H. Mottram, Bumphrey's, 1934.) Also chrysanth (C. 20), as in The Passing Show, Jan. 20, 1934. Cf. 'mum.

chub. An inexperienced person, esp. a callow youth: C. 17—18. B.E.—2. A blockhead: ca. 1600—1850; coll. Ex the short, thick river fish, whence also chubby, plump, S.E. (despite H.).

chub! An abbr. (military: C. 20: B. & P.) of: chub-a-row or chubarrow!; chuprow!; occ. chipperow! 'Shut up!': military, esp. the Regular Army's (resp. s., coll. s.): mid-C. 19—20. F. & Gibbons. Ex Hindustani chuprao.

chubbingly. A late C. 17—early 18 c. variant of S.E. chubby. B.E., s.v. bulchin.

chubby or dumpy. A short, squat umbrella: coll.: 1925. Collinson.—2. Chubby is the nickname, since ca. 1920 among cricketers, of Maurice Tate.

chuck. A coll. endearment: C. 16—20, but ob. by 1800. ? ex chick.—2. Food of any kind, but esp. bread or meat (— 1850): orig. c., but popularised in G.W. ? origin: cf. next 3 senses, esp. sense 5, and senses 7—9. Perhaps such food as one can chuck about without spoiling it.—3. Scraps of meat (cf. block ornaments): from ca. 1860.—4. A particular sort of beefsteak: from ca. 1855; ob.—5. A measure for sprats: Billingsgate, from ca. 1840. Otherwise a toss; cf. next.—6. A toss, jerk, or throw: coll.; from ca. 1840.—7. Sea biscuit: nautical, from ca. 1840. (As for the next two senses) cf. 2—4.—8. (Military) mealy bread: from ca. 1855.—9. A schoolboy's treat: Westminster School: from ca. 1855. H., 2nd ed.—10. Abbr. chuck-farthing, a national sport: from ca. 1710: coll.—11. See chuck, get the.

chuck, v. In c., to eat (— 1876). Hindley's Cheap Jack. App. later than and ex the n., 2nd sense.—2. As to toss, to throw with little arm-action, it has always been S.E., but as throw in any other sense, it is low coll. of C. 19—20.—3. (Pigeon fanciers') to despatch a pigeon: coll., then j.; from ca. 1870.—4. To spend extravagantly (— 1876): coll., as is the gen. late C. 19—20 form, chuck-away.—5. To abandon, dismiss, discharge (from gaol): (v.i.) give up (in C. 20, occ. = go back on an invitation that one has accepted): often varied as chuck up: from ca. 1860. Whence chuck it up!, in C. 20 gen. chuck it! = drop it! stop (talking, etc.)!—6. Also, in low coll., chuck often = do, perform (e.g. chuck a jolly, to begin bantering, chaffing, to support heartily, noisily): the sense and the connotation of all such phrases will be obvious from the definition of the 'complementary' nouns.—7. V.i., to be sexually desirous : late C. 18-mid-19. Grose, 3rd ed. Perhaps suggested by chuck, n., 1.

chuck, do a. See do a chuck.

chuck, get or give the. To be dismissed, to dismiss : from ca. 1880 ; low coll.—2. Hence, of a proposal for marriage or a courtship : from ca. 1920. E.g. in Dorothy Sayers, Clouds of Witness, 1926, 'I got the chuck from Barbara and didn't feel much like bothering about other people's heart-to-hearts.'

chuck, hard. A long or a difficult flight : pigeon fanciers' : from ca. 1875 ; in C. 20 j.—2. Ship's biscuit : nautical : late C. 19-20. C.O.D., 1934 Sup. See chuck, n., 7, and cf. hard tack.

chuck a chest. To 'tell the tale' : C. 20 vagrants' c. Prob. ex :—2. 'To throw forward the chest, as though prepared to meet the world' : streets' : late C. 19-20. Warc.—3. Whence, 'to attempt to exercise undue authority', 'throw one's weight about' : military : C. 20. F. & Gibbons. Cf. chuck out one's chest, q.v. at chest . . .

chuck a curly. To malingering : military, from ca. 1870 ; ob. Curly = a writhing.

chuck a dummy. A faint on parade : military, from ca. 1890. Ex chuck the dummy, q.v.—2. Hence, 'to report sick without reasonable cause' : military : C. 20. F. & Gibbons.—3. To lie down in the boxing ring : military (—1935).

chuck a jolly. (Costermongers') from ca. 1850 : see chuck, v., 6.

chuck a shoulder. To give (a person) the cold shoulder : costers' (—1909). Ware.

chuck a stall. To attract someone's attention while a confederate robs him : c. : from ca. 1850. H., 2nd ed. See stall.

chuck [oneself] about or into. To move or act quickly, vigorously (—1860) : coll. The into phrase also (—1880) = fall into.

chuck-barge. 'Cask in which the biscuit of a mess is kept. Also equivalent to [fig.] bread-basket,' Ware : naval : late C. 19-20. Cf. chuck, n., 2.

chuck-bread. Waste bread : late C. 19-20 vagrants' c. Ware.

chuck-farthing. A parish clerk : late C. 17-early 18. B.E. Ex a character in the Satyr against Hypocrites.

chuck her up! In cricket, the fielding side's expression of delight : coll. : from ca. 1875.

chuck-hole. A coll. variant for the game of chuck-farthing : from ca. 1830 ; ob.

chuck in, v.i. To challenge : boxing ; from ca. 1820. Ex the old throwing a hat into the ring. Also, to compete. † by 1914.

chuck-in, have a. To try one's luck : ca. 1860-1914 ; sporting.

chuck it! See chuck, v., 5.

chuck off, to employ sarcasm ; chuck off at, to banter or chaff: Australian (—1916). C. J. Dennis.

chuck one's hand in. To refuse to do, or stop doing, something : orig., military : C. 20. F. & Gibbons. Ex cards.

chuck one's weight about. To 'show off' ; orig. military (—1909). Ware.

chuck out. To eject forcibly (—1880) ; to discard (thing or plan), from ca. 1910. Coll.—2. Hence, jocularly, to cause to leave : from ca. 1915.

chuck out hints. To hint (v.i.) : low coll. (—1887). Baumann.

chuck out ink. To write articles : journalists' (—1909) ; ob. Ware.

chuck over. To abandon (e.g. a sweetheart) : low coll. (—1887). Baumann.—2. Hence, n. : late C. 19-20.

chuck seven. To die : low : late C. 19-20. (John G. Brandon, West End, 1933.) A dice-cube has no '7'.

chuck the dummy. To feign illness ; esp. to simulate epilepsy : c. (—1890). Whence chuck a dummy, q.v.

chuck-up. A salute : military : from not later than 1915. F. & Gibbons, 'From the act of throwing up the hand to the forehead in saluting'.

chuck-up, give (a thing) the. To abandon it, to send it 'to the devil' : low coll. (—1923). Ex chuck up as at chuck up the sponge, 2.

chuck up the bunch of fives. To die : boxers' (—1909). Ware.

chuck up the sponge. See sponge.—2. Hence chuck up (often corrupted, says H., 5th ed., to jack up), to abandon : coll. : from ca. 1860.

chuckaboo. A street endearment : mid C. 19-20. Ware. Cf. :

chuckaby. A C. 17 endearment : coll. So is chucking. O.E.D. Cf. chuck, n.

chuckaroo. A boy employed about a regiment : coll. among soldiers in India (—1886). A corruption of Hindustani chhokra, a boy or youngster. Yule & Burnell.

chuckaway. See Bryant & May's chuckaway.

chucked. Slightly drunk : from ca. 1880. †. Cf. screwed.—2. Disappointed ; unlucky ; 'sold'. From ca. 1870 ; ob., except among artists, who, from late C. 19, apply it to a picture refused by the Academy. Cf. that delightful ca. 1879 ballad, Chucked Again.—3. Abbr. chucked out, forcibly ejected : see chuck out.—4. In c., amorous ; 'fast' : from ca. 1800. Ex chuck, v., 7.

chucked or chucked up, be. To be acquitted or released : c. ; from ca. 1860.

chucked all of a heap. Fascinated ; infatuated : London proletarian (—1909). Warc.

chucked-in. Into the bargain ; for good measure. Coll. ; from ca. 1875. Punch, Oct. 11, 1884, 'Arry at a Political Picnic, reproduced in Baumann's Londonismen.

chucked up. See chucked, be.

chucker. In cricket, either a bowler apt to throw the ball or a defaulting player. Both are coll. and both date from ca. 1880, the latter † and, post-1918, replaced by quitter.

chucker-out. A man, often ex-pugilist, retained to eject persons from meetings, taverns, brothels, etc. : low coll. (—1880). The Saturday Review, March 31, 1883.

chucking-out. Forceful ejection (see preceding entry) : from ca. 1880. Occ. (1881 +) an adj., esp. in chucking-out time, closing time at a 'pub'.

chuckler. Anglo-Indian coll. : a native shoe maker. From ca. 1750. Ex Tamil.

chucks. A naval boatswain : nautical : late C. 19-20. Bowen.

chucks! Cave! Schoolboys' ; from ca. 1850. H., 3rd ed. Perhaps cf. shucks!

chucky. A coll. endearment (cf. chuck, n., 1) : from the 1720's ; ob. except in dial.—2. A chicken or a fowl : late C. 18-20 ; coll.

chuff. Impudent : low coll. (—1923) ex dial. chuff, happy (—1860). Manchon ; O.E.D.

chuff it! Be off! Take it away! Coll. : ca. 1850 ; ob. H., 1st ed. Perhaps ex chuff as a term of reproach.

chugar(r)ow ! A corruption of chubarrow ! or a contraction of chuck (or even shut) your row ! : low : C. 20.

chul(l) or chullo ! Hurry ! Military and Anglo-Indian, from ca. 1800. In C. 20, gen. chello or, in G.W., jillo or jildi. Hindi chullo, go along. Sala, in The Illustrated London News of June 19, 1886, says 'In Calcutta chul is a word that you may hear fifty times a day'; and n.b. Yule & Burnell.

chul(l), v. To succeed; be satisfactory: of things or plans, as in 'It won't chul,' i.e. answer, do. From ca. 1860. Etymology obscure; but perhaps suggested by chull !

chum; in C. 18, occ. chumm. First recorded in 1684—Creech's dedication, 'To my chum, Mr. Hody of Wadham College'—this term seems at first to have been university s., which it remained until ca. 1800; a contemporaneous sense was 'a Chamber-fellow, or constant companion', B.E. Almost immediately the term came to mean, also, an intimate friend and, in C. 18, a mate in crime: cf. college chum, q.v. Either s. or coll. in C. 17–18, it has in C. 19–20 been coll. Perhaps by abbreviation and collision of chamber-fellow or -mate: cf. the Fr. chambrée (a roomful of people, oneself included) and Grose's camerade. Cf. mate, pal, sorry, and the U.S. buddy. See Terms of Address, in Words 1–2. On the Conway Training Ship, from ca. 1880 or a few years earlier, chum denoted anyone junior, new chum a newly joined cadet (Masefield, The Conway, 1933).—3. In Australia, a chum is an English immigrant: from ca. 1890. It represents new chum, a newcomer—esp. from England: this term dates from (–) 1839, while old chum, an experienced settler, antedates 1846 (C. P. Hodgson, Reminiscences of Australia); the latter has never, after ca. 1880 (see Morris), been much used. This use of new and old comes ex that, 4, in prisons for newcomers and old hands: c. (– 1812); † by 1900. Vaux.—5. See choom.

chum, v. To live together: from ca. 1730 (Wesley); coll., as is the rare C. 19 v.t., put as a chum (Dickens in The Pickwick Papers).

chum, long-eared; long-faced chum; long-haired chum. A mule; a horse; a girl: military: the third is the original (the 1890's); the others are of C. 20. B. & P.; F. & Gibbons.

chumm. See chum, n.

chummage. The practice of rooming together; more gen., money made, in several very different ways, from such practice: coll.: 1837, Dickens. Hence, chummage-ticket.—2. Among prisoners in gaols, garnish, footing: low s. verging on c. Orig. a London term (– 1777). Howard's State of Prisons in England and Wales; Grose (1st ed.).—3. See jury, chummage, and conter.

chummery. Friendship; friendliness: rooms shared with a friend: coll., from ca. 1870; never very gen.; ob., except in India, where it = 'a house where European employces of a firm . . . live together' (Lyell). Besant & Rice.

chumming or chumming-up. Same as chummage, esp. as to garnish, footing: C. 19.—2. In C. 20, the forming of a friendship: coll.

chummy. A chimney-sweep's boy: from ca. 1835. Ob. by 1865, † by 1900. Dickens; Thackeray; Mayhew, in vol. II of London Labour, ' . . . Once a common name for the climbing boy, being a corruption of chimney'.—2. A coll. diminutive of chum = friend, 'pal'. Perhaps coined by Gilbert, 1864, in the Bab Ballads.—3. A low-crowned, felt hat: ca. 1858–1900 H., 2nd ed. A friendly, comfortable piece of head-gear.—4. In Australia a post-1895 variant of new-chum (q.v.), an English newcomer: cf. chum, n., 3, q.v.

chummy, adj. Friendly, intimate; sociable: coll.: from ca. 1880. Besant.—2. (Of a motor-car) affording comfort and space for three or four persons: coll.: 1922. Hence as n. (likewise O.E.D. Sup.).

chummy ships. Ships whose crews are 'friends': nautical coll.: late C. 19–20. Bowen. See chummy, adj.

chump. (S.E. or coll. > S.E. in sense of a block-head).—2. The head; occ. the face: from ca. 1860. Esp. in off one's chump, very eccentric; mad to almost any degree. H., 3rd ed.; 'Master . . . have gone off his chump, that's all', Besant & Rice, 1877.—3. A variant of chum = friend; ca. 1880–1920. Punch, Oct. 11, 1884.

chump, get or provide one's own. To earn one's own living: c.: ca. 1860–1914. See esp. that prison classic, Five Years' Penal Servitude, anon., 1877, not to be confused with James Greenwood's Seven Years' Penal Servitude, 1884.

chump, or chunk, of wood. No good: rhyming s. (– 1859). Also, a 'chump' or fool, ca. 1870–1900.

Chumps Elizacs. Champs Elysées: 'London, Five Pounder Tourists' 1854, on', Ware.

chumpy. Eccentric; idiotic; insane. Ca. 1870–1914. Ex off one's chump.

chunk. A thick solid piece or lump cut off anything (esp. wood or bread): coll. and dial.: mid-C. 17–20. Ray's Country Words, 1691. App. ex chuck (O.E.D.).—2. 'Among printers, a journeyman who refuses to work for legal wages', Grose, 2nd ed.: late C. 18–early 19. Cf. flint and dung among tailors.—3. A School Board officer: ca. 1870–1910.

chunk of wood. No good: rhyming s., contemporaneous variant of chump of wood, q.v.

chunky. Thick set. From ca. 1870; coll. Ex U.S. (1776). Thornton.

[chupatty, representing an object for which no English word exists, is ineligible; but:]

chuprassy, in civilian use (– 1865) a messenger, in military usage, an Indian orderly (from ca. 1880), is Anglo-Indian coll., direct ex Hindi chaprasi, the wearer of a chapras or badge.

chuprow. See chub-a-row.

church. Illicitly to disguise a watch by changing its 'innards': c.: from ca. 1835; gen. as church a yack. Brandon, 1839. Cf. christen, q.v.

church, go to. To get married: coll.; from late C. 16. Shakespeare, 1599, 'Counte Claudio, when meane you to goe to Church?'

church, talk. To talk 'shop': coll.; from ca. 1850; ob.

church-by-hand. 'An emergency or makeshift performance of Divine Service on board ship on Sunday, when the regular service cannot be held': naval: from ca. 1914. F. & Gibbons.

church-folk. Members of the Church of England as opp. to 'chapel folk', Dissenters. From ca. 1870; coll. (Other senses, S.E.) church parade. The walk-and-talk after church on Sunday mornings: coll.: from ca. 1870. Cf. prayer-book parade, q.v.

church-piece. A threepenny bit: Society (– 1909); ob. Ware.

church-service. A church-service book, i.e. one containing the Common Prayer, the lessons, the psalms in metrical version, etc. : low coll. (— 1859). Sala. (O.E.D.).

church-work. Work that proceeds very slowly : coll. ; from ca. 1600. Ex church-building.

churchify. To render 'churchy' (q.v.) : 1843, Miall (O.E.D.) : coll. >, by 1900, S.E.

churchiness. The being 'churchy', q.v. : from ca. 1880 : coll. >, by 1900, S.E.

churchwarden. A long-stemmed clay pipe : from ca. 1855 ; coll. Hood, 1857, 'Hang a churchwarden by my side for a sabre.' Churchwardens affected this ob. instrument. Cf. alderman, yard of clay.

churchy. 'Redolent' of the Church ; obtrusive in religious observance. Coll. : from ca. 1860.

churchyard clock, as many faces as a. (Of a man) unreliable : naval : ca. 1860–1910. F. & Gibbons.

churchyard cough. A severe cough : coll. : late C. 17–20. B.E. Mainly jocular.

churchyard luck. The death of a child in a large, poor family : proletarian coll. (— 1909). Ware.

churl upon a gentleman, put a. To drink malt liquor immediately after wine : late C. 16–early 19. Coll. after ca. 1700. Esp. Apperson.

chury. A knife : c. of ca. 1810–60. Vaux. Cf. chivey, n. ; prob., however, a misprint.

chuzzle. See chisel.—chy-ack or -ike ; chyacke. See chiike.

cicisbeo. A ribbon-knot attached to hilt of sword, neck of walking-stick, etc. : ca. 1770–1820 : Society. (S.O.D. gives as an unassimilated Italianism, but this usage of the word is slangy.) Ex the C. 18–20 sense, imported direct from Italy : a married woman's recognised gallant or 'servente'.

-cide, -icide. A suffix denoting -murder or -murderer. Often used in jocular coll. by the cultured, as in time's-cide, a fribble or a pastime, and the happier warricide, a pacifist. This sort of thing easily > pedantic or otherwise objectionable, and should be Fowlericided.

cider-and. Cider with something else (esp. if liquid) : C. 18–20 ; ob. Coll. Fielding in Joseph Andrews, 'They had a pot of eider-and at the fire.' Cf. hot with.

cig. A cigar : ca. 1885–1900. Barrère & Leland.—2. From ca. 1890, a cigarette. P. G. Wodehouse, Not George Washington, 1907. Earliest record : 1895, W. Pett Ridge, Minor Dialogues.

cigaresque. Well furnished with cigars ; smoking or 'sporting' a large or very expensive cigar. A jocular coll. (1839), in C. 20, almost S.E., after picturesque or picaresque.

Cilicia(n) and Sicilia(n) are still often confused, as they have been since ca. 1600.

cinch, v.t. (In Canada, as in the Northern States of America, the c is hard ; in England, as in the Southern States, it is soft ; in other parts of the British Empire, it varies.) 'Corner', get a grip on, put pressure on : orig. (1875), U.S., anglicised ca. 1900, though never gen. But it's a cinch!, the screw is on!, it's as good as a certainty, has, during and since the G.W., been better received. F. & Gibbons. Ex cinch, a tight girth (Sp. cincha).

cinder. Any strong liquor mixed with water, tea, lemonade, etc. (— 1864) ; ob. H., 3rd ed., 'Take a soda with a cinder in it.'—2. A running track : abbr. cinder-path or -track : coll. : from ca. 1880. Occ. cinders.—3. A window : thieves' rhyming s. : C. 20. James Curtis, The Gilt Kid, 1936.

cinder, yours to a. See yours to a cinder.

cinder-garbler. A female servant : late C. 18– early 19. Grose, 1st ed., adds : 'Custom House wit'. Cf. :

cinder-grabber. A female drudge : C. 19–20 ; ob. Ex preceding entry. Cf. slavey.

cinder-knotter. A stoker : naval (— 1909) ; ob. Ware.

cinder-sifter. A woman's 'hat with open-work brim, the edge of which was turned up perpendicularly' : Society : ca. 1878–1912. Ware.

cinderella. Abbr. Cinderella dance, one ceasing at midnight : from ca. 1880 : coll. >, by 1900, S.E.

cinders. See cinder, 2.

cine. (Pronounced sinny.) In compounds, it = cinema, cinematographic : 1928 (O.E.D.) : coll. >, by 1935, S.E. owing to its frequency as a trade abbr.

cinema. Cinematograph, -graphie : coll. (1910) >, by 1920, S.E. (O.E.D. Sup.) Cf. preceding entry.

[Cinema slang : see 'Moving-Picture Slang'] cinerascens. Incorrect for cinerescens : C. 19–20. O.E.D. (Sup.).

cinquantier. An old 'hand' or 'stager' : ca. 1600–1800. Pedantic ; ex Fr. cinquante, 50.—2. A 'gamester and scurrilous companion by profession' : ca. 1600–60. (O.E.D.)

cinque and sice, set at. 'To expose to great risks, to be reckless about' (O.E.D.) : ca. 1530–1720 : s. > coll. > S.E. Cf. at sixes and sevens.

circle train. A London underground train : London coll. : 1887, Baumann.—2. In C. 20, an Inner Circle train on the Metropolitan Line : coll.

circlers. Occupants of the dress-circle : theatrical (— 1909). Ware.

circling boy. A 'rook', a swindler, a gambler's or a thief's decoy : C. 17 c. Jonson. Cf. run rings round, q.v. at rings round.

circs. Circumstances : trivial coll. : from ca. 1880. Baumann. Prob. orig. commercial.

circumbendibus. A roundabout way (lit.) : coll. : from 1681 (Dryden) ; ob. Ex bend + L. circum, around, + L. dative and ablative pl., -ibus.—Whence, 2, a long-winded story : coll. : from ca. 1780. Grose, 1st ed.

circumference. The waist of a large, fat person : coll. : C. 20. Cf. girth.

circumlocation office. A Government Office ; any roundabout way of doing things. Coined by Dickens in Little Dorrit, 1857. Derisively coll. ; S.E. by 1900.

circumsession. Catachrestic for theological circuminsession : mid-C. 17–20. O.E.D.

circus. A noisy and confused institution, place, scene, assemblage or group of persons : coll. : American anglicised ca. 1895.—2. A raiding-party that moves from sector to sector : military : 1917. Also travelling circus. O.E.D. (Sup.).—3. An aeroplane squadron : military : 1917. B. & P. and, esp., F. & Gibbons. The most famous was Richthöfen's.—4. Artillery s., from 1914, as in R. Blaker, Medal without Bar, 1930 : 'Cartwright rode at the tail of the firing battery with "the circus"—G.S. wagons, mess-cart, water-cart and the odd bicycle-pushers.'—5. Any temporary group of persons that, housed together, are working at the same task, e.g. at an encyclopædia (for the masses rather than the classes) : coll. ; 1932.

Circus, Kaffir. See Kaffir Circus.

circus cuss. A circus rider : c. : from ca. 1850. ? abbr. customer.

cirrhous, cirrhus. Incorrect for cirrous, cirrus : C. 18–20. O.E.D.

ciss ! See cess !—Cissie, -y. See Sissie, -y.

cit. Abbr. citizen: pejorative coll.; from ca. 1640; ob. by 1830, and in C. 20, S.E. Rarely applied, in a city, to others than tradesmen; in the country, to other than (gen. non-aristocratic) townsmen born and bred. 'The cits of London and the boors of Middlesex', Johnson (S.O.D.). Citess, ca. 1680–1750, is rare.

citizen. A wedge for opening safes: c.: from ca. 1860. Whence, citizen's friend, a wedge smaller than a citizen, itself smaller than an alderman; larger still, though only occ. used, is a lord mayor. The tools are used in the order of their size; the terms are ob.

Citizens, the. The Leicester, or the Manchester, City 'soccer' team: sporting: from the 1890's. (The former occurs in The Observer, Oct. 29, 1933.)

citt. A C. 17–early 18 variant (e.g. in B.E.) of cit, q.v.

City. (Always the City.) The district, or the business men therein, round the Exchange and the Bank of England: from ca. 1750; coll. till ca. 1800, then S.E. Abbr. the City of London, orig. the part within the old boundaries. Contrast la Cité in Paris.

City, something in the. In lit. vagueness, obviously S.E.; but, pointedly coll. from ca. 1890, it denotes a shady financier, a nondescript and none too honest agent, and esp. a criminal or even a burglar. Ware.

City College. Newgate: c. (— 1791); † by 1890. Grose, 3rd ed. Cf. college, q.v.

City of the Saints, the. Grahamstown: South African coll. nickname of ca. 1865–90. Pettman.

City Road Africans. Harlots of that quarter: London streets': ca. 1882–1910. Ware.

City sherry. Four-ale: East London: ca. 1880–90. Ware. Ex colour (1).

city stage. The gallows: C. 18–early 19. (Once in front of Newgate, London, 'E.C.4'.)

civet. C. 18–19, low coll.: puendum muliebri.

civet-cat. A person habitually using civet perfume: C. 18; orig.—Pope, 1738—S.E., it soon > coll. and quickly ob.

civies, civvies. Civilian clothes: military: mid-C. 19–20. Barrère & Leland; F. & Gibbons. (The officers' word is S.E. mufti.)

civil reception, a house of. A bawdy house: mid-C. 18–early 19. Grose, 1st ed.

civil rig. In vagrants' c., C. 19–20 (ob.), an attempt to obtain alms by extreme civility. Rig, a trick.

civilian. Any person, esp. a man, that is not a criminal: C. 19–20 (ob.): c. civility money. A tip claimed by bailiffs for doing their duty with civility: C. 18–early 19; orig. coll., it was S.E. by 1880. Motteux, 1708, 'four Ducats for Civility Money'.

civvies. See civies.

civvy, civy. (As in civies, the former i is, in either spelling, short), adj. Civilian, esp. with life or clothes. C. 20. Cf. the famous G.W. song, 'When I Get my Civ(v)y Clothes on, Oh how Happy I Shall Be': see B. & P.—2. Also, a civilian: coll.: orig. (1895), military. H. W. Nevinson, Neighbours of Ours.

civvy kip. A real bed as opp. a shake-down: military: 1915. F. & Gibbons. See civvy, 1.

—ck for —ct is frequent in sol., prob. from time almost immemorial: as in effeck and respeck (often spelt respec').

clack. As chatter, gossip, S.E.; as tongue, coll.: late C. 16–20; ob. Greene, 'Haud your clacks, lads.' As 'a prattler or busybody' (Dyche), coll.: C. 17–early 18.—2. A loud talk or chat, coll.: from ca. 1810; ob. James Payn, 1888, 'The old fellow would have had a clack with her.' Esp. in cut your clack !, 'shut up !': late C. 19–20 (Manchon).—3. The v. is S.E. The word is echoic.

clack-box. The mouth: C. 19.—2. A persistent chatterer: C. 19–20, ob. Both have a dial. tinge. Ex the S.E. sense, the container of a pump's clack-valve. Cf.: clack-loft. A pulpit: late C. 18–20; ob. Grose, 2nd ed. Cf. hum-box.

clacker. A person, esp. a soldier, delighting to spread rumours: mostly military: C. 20. F. & Gibbons. Ex clack, 3.

clagger. A duff made of flour and slush: nautical: late C. 19–20. Bowen. Ex dial. clag, to adhere.

claim. To steal: latter C. 19–20 c.; ob. Cf. convey, win, scrounge, souvenir.—2. To arrest; gen. in the passive: c. (— 1935). David Hume.

claim, jump a. To seize, or gain possession of, fraudulently. Lit., S.E. ex U.S.; but fig. it is a coll. anglicised ca. 1880.

claimed. Under arrest. See claim, 2.

clam. One who says extremely little or is excessively secretive: coll.: C. 20. (The U.S. sense is, a close-fisted person.)

clank. In c., a pewter tankard: C. 19; late C. 17–18 (B.E.), a silver one. Hence, rum clank, a double tankard, as in B.E., who also records clank-napper, a stealer of silver tankards.

clanker. A notable lie, cf. clinker: ca. 1690–1840. B.E.; Grose, 1st ed. Ex the noise of heavy metal: cf. clank, q.v., and clanker, silver plate, C. 17–18 c.

clanker-napper. A thief specialising in silver plate, esp. tankards: late C. 17–early 19 c. Cf. clank-napper (see clank).

clans, a or the gathering of the. Any considerable, or indeed inconsiderable, gathering-together of people, gen. of the same or similar character or pursuit or purpose. From ca. 1890: coll., by 1933 S.E. Ex Scottish warfare of C. 16–18.

clap. Gonorrhœa: late C. 16–20; S.E. until ca. 1840, then low coll. Respectably: 'They sing, they dance, clean shoes, or cure a clap'—almost the sole instance in Johnson's formal works (this occurs in London, an admirable satirical poem, 1738) of a monosyllabic sentence. Ex Old Fr. clapoir.

clap, v. To infect with gonorrhœa: from ca. 1650. S.E. until ca. 1840, then low coll.—2. Catachrestically for clip (to embrace) and clepe (to call): C. 15, C. 17 resp. O.E.D.—3. To take, seize: low (— 1857); ob. 'Ducange Anglicus', 1st ed. Ex clap one's hands on.

clap, in a. Immediately; occ., instantaneously. Coll.; from ca. 1630; ob.

Clap-em. See Clapham.

clap eyes on. To see, esp. unexpectedly or finally: coll.; Dickens, 1838.

clap in, v.i. To come or go decisively; enter vigorously; put oneself forward: coll.: ca. 1600–1780. Marvell, 1672, 'Hearing of a vacancy with a Noble-man, he clap'd in, and easily obtained to be his Chaplain' (O.E.D.).

clap of thunder. A glass of gin: coll.; ca. 1810–40. Cf. flash of lightning.

clap on, v.i. To 'set to'; apply oneself energetically: coll.; from ca. 1850. Surtees (O.E.D.).

clap on the shoulder, n. and v. (An) arrest for debt. C. 18 (? also C. 17) coll. Grose, 1st ed.

clap-shoulder. A bailiff or a watchman: rare coll.; C. 17—early 19. Adj. in Taylor the Water Poet. The gen. form is shoulder-clapper.

Clapham (or Clap-'em), he went out by Had'em and came home by. 'He went out a-wenching, and got a clap,' Grose, 1st ed.: mid-C. 18—early 19 c.p. Punning clap, n.

clapper. The tongue (human); esp. that of a very talkative person: coll.: 1638, H. Shirley; H., 1st ed. O.E.D.—2. In C. 20 c., ob. by 1932, a sandwich-man's boards.—3. A study ventilator: Shrewsbury School coll.: from ca. 1880. (Desmond Coke, The Bending of a Twig, 1906.) Ex the noise it makes as it is being closed.

clapper-claw. To thrash soundly and crudely: late C. 16—early 19. Coll. B.E., Grose. Lit., to scratch noisily.—2. Hence, to revile: late C. 17—20; ob. coll. almost S.E. (O.E.D.).

clapper-doggon or, more correctly, -dudgeon. A beggar born, a whining beggar; also as an insult. Mid-C. 16—19: c. till ca. 1800, then low s. with an archaic tinge. Harman; Jonson; Ned Ward; Sala. ? lit., one who assumes ('claps on') grief, indignation, distress. Or, as O.E.D. suggests, clapper + dudgeon, the hilt of a dagger.

clapster. A frequent sufferer from clap (q.v.); a very loose man. C. 19—20; low coll.

clar. In piece-work, to earn as much as possible: factory-workers': 1932. (Slang, p. 181).

Claras. Caledon an Railway stock: money market: from ca. 1880; ob.

Clare Market Cleavers. Butchers of that district: London coll.: ca. 1850—1900. 'The glory of Clare Market . . . was practically gone in '98,' Ware (whom see for an excellent account).

Clare Market duck. 'Baked bullock's heart stuffed with sage and onions—which gave a faint resemblance to the bird', Ware: London: ca. 1850—1900. See the preceding.

Clarence. Like, though less than, Cuthbert, apt to be used as a jocular coll.: C. 20. See my Name This Child, 1936.

claret. Blood: from ca. 1600 (Dekker, e.g. in The Honest Whore, 1604). From ca. 1770, mostly in boxing 'circles' (e.g. in Moore's Tom Crib's Memorial, 1819). Ex the colour. Cf. badminton and bordeaux. Hence:

claret, tap one's. To draw blood: from ca. 1770; pugilistic. Grose, 1st ed.

claret-christening. The first blood that flows in a boxing match: pugilistic (— 1923). Manchon. See claret.

claret-jug. The nose: pugilistic; from ca. 1840; ob. Ex claret, q.v.

clargy. Clergy: sol. (— 1823). 'Jon Bee'; Baumann. Cf. sarvice.

clargyman. A rabbit: provincial, esp. Cheshire, s. (— 1898), not dial. E.D.D.

Clarian. A member of Clare, Cambridge University: from ca. 1850. Charles Whibley, witty Augustan, embalms it in Cap and Gown as 'stuke-struck Clarians'. Without the pun on clarian, the term would obviously not be unconventional.

Clarkenco. The Fourth Party in the House of Commons: political: late June—July, 1885. A telescoping of Mr. Edward Clarke and Co., as it was also called (The Referee, July 19, 1885). Ware.

clashy. Anglo-Indian (coll. rather than s.) for a native sailor or tent-pitcher, loosely for a labourer, a 'low fellow': late C. 18—20. Ex Urdu.

class. Distinction; sheer merit: athletics and, slightly, the turf: from ca. 1850: coll. 'He's not class enough,' 'There's a good deal of class about him': he is not good enough; pretty good. Cf. classy, q.v., and:

class man. A 'prisoner who has passed out of the first stage', George Ingram, Stir, 1933: c.

class, no. Without distinction or merit: lower classes' coll.: 1897, 'Soldiers! Why, soldiers ain't no class.' Ware. Ex preceding.

class, take a. (Oxford) to take an honours degree: mid-C. 19—20: coll. >, by 1880, S.E.

classic. Excellent, 'splendid': from ca. 1880: coll. Ex burlesque S.E. sense: 'approved, recognised "standard"', O.E.D. classy. Stylish; fashionable; smart; well-turned-out: from ca. 1890: coll., lower middle class downwards. Cf. class, q.v.

[clater in Manchon is an error or, more prob., a misprint for clatter.]

clattery, adj. Clattering: coll.: from ca. 1880. O.E.D. (Also in Yorkshire dial.: E.D.D.)

claw. A stroke of the cat-o'-nine-tails: (— 1876) c.; ob.

claw me and I'll claw thee. The C. 17—early 19 form of the C. 16 claw me, claw ye and the C. 20 scratch my back and I'll scratch yours: coll.

claw off. Severely to defeat or thrash: late C. 17—19, low coll., as is the sense, venerably to infect. B.E.—3. Also, to scold: same period and kind. Oee. c. away. Cf. earlier S.E. senses.

claw-back. See claw-poll.

claw-hammer (coat). The tail coat of full evening dress: coll.; from 1869 in U.S. (Thornton); anglicised in 1879 (O.E.D.). (The coat is gen. omitted.) Ex a claw-hammer.

claw-poll, more gen. claw-back. A toady: coll., resp. C. 16—17, C. 16—19. Both S.E. after 1600.

[claws, in one's. In a person's power or possession: jocular of oneself, pejorative of another: late C. 16—20: S.E. till C. 20, then virtually coll.]

claws for breakfast. Punishment with the cat-o'-nine-tails: (— 1873) c.; ob. James Greenwood, In Strange Company. Cf. claw.

clay. Abbr. clay-pipe: coll.: from ca. 1860. Calverley in the Ode to Tobacco.

clay, moisten or wet one's. To drink: from ca. 1700: coll. verging on S.E. In C. 19—20 also soak. Addison in The Spectator, 'To moisten their clay, and grow immortal by drinking'. Cf. S.E. mortal clay.

clay-brained. Very dull-witted: coll. >, by 1700, S.E.; late C. 16—20, ob. Shakespeare.

clean, v.i. To change one's clothes: naval: late C. 19—20. Bowen, 'Even "clean into dirty clothes" is permissible.'

clean, in several senses as adj. and adv. is almost coll., as in clean off his head.—2. But as 'expert, clever', it is wholly c. (— 1811); † by 1890. Lex. Bal.

clean, come. To tell, or confess, everything: U.S.; anglicised ca. 1920. Dorothy Sayers, The Five Red Herrings, 1931, 'I'll come clean, as they say. I'd better do it at once, or they'll think I know more than I do.'

clean I, keep it. See keep it clean!

clean and polish—we're winning the war. A military c.p., by the ranks condemnatory of 'spit and polish' (q.v.): 1915—18. F. & Gibbons. Cf.:

clean as a button-stick. (Of a soldier) smart in appearance: military coll.: C. 20. F. & Gibbons. A button-stick was a device for polishing buttons.

clean as a pig-sty(, as). An Anglo-Irish ironic c.p. applied to a dirty house: late C. 19-20.

clean gone. Quite 'cracked'; mad: coll.: C. 20. Manchon.

clean leg up, give (one) a. To help him (esp. to obtain a job): non-aristocratic coll. (-1887); slightly ob. Baumann. Ex giving a person assistance over a fence.

clean one's front. See front, clean one's.

clean out. To deprive of money, gen. illicitly: orig. low, verging on c.: from ca. 1810. Vaux, 1812; Dickens, in The Old Curiosity Shop, 'He was plucked, pigeoned, and cleaned out completely.'—2. Ca. 1840-70, to thrash.

clean potato. The right, occ. the 'correct', thing, esp. morally: coll.: from ca. 1870; ob.

clean ship. A whaling ship returning whale-less to port: whalers' coll.: late C. 19-20. Bowen.

clean-skins. (Rare in singular.) Unbranded cattle. Australia (-1881): coll.; in C. 20, S.E. Morris.

clean straw. Clean sheets: Winchester College, ? C. 16-20; ob. 'Before 1540 the beds were bundles of straw on a stone floor,' F. & H. The same meaning is extant at Bootham School: see Anon., Dict. of Bootham Slang, 1925.

clean the board. To clear the board, etc., of all it contains; make a clean sweep: coll. (-1884). O.E.D.

clean up. To acquire (something) as profit or gain: coll.: C. 20; U.S., anglicised by 1910. O.E.D. (Sup.).

clean wheat, it's the. I.e. the best of its kind: coll., ca. 1865-1910. Cf. A1.

cleanie. One's best girl: military: from ca. 1919. Perhaps a blend of clean + clinah.

clear. (Exceedingly) drunk: c. and low: from late 1680's; † by 1890. B.E.; Vanbrugh, The Relapse, 'I suppose you are clear—you'd never play such a trick as this else.' Cf. clear as mud.

clear, in the. With no evidence against one; innocent, or app. so: c.: C. 20. (The Passing Show, May 26, 1934.)

clear, the coast is. The w.c. is at your disposal: euphemistic c.p. (-1923). Manchon. Ex the fig. S.E. sense.

clear an examination paper. To answer all the questions: coll. (-1893). On the analogy of clear a dish, eat all its contents. O.E.D. clear as mud. Anything but clear; confused: coll.: from ca. 1890.

clear crystal. White spirits, esp. gin; loosely, brandy and rum. From ca. 1860; ob.

clear decks. To clear the table after a meal: nautical coll.: mid-C. 19-20. Bowen.

clear grit. (Canada) a member of the Canadian Liberal Party: ca. 1880-1900. The Fortnightly Review, May, 1884. Ex U.S. clear grit, the real thing.

clear off or out. To depart: from ca. 1830. The S.O.D. gives it as S.E., but in C. 19, at least, the term had a coll. taint, perhaps because it was used slightly earlier in U.S.—e.g. Neal, in Brother Jonathan, 1825, had 'Like many a hero before him, he cleared out.' Monetarily, clear out is gen. S.E., but as 'clean out', q.v., or 'ruin', it is coll. (-1850), as in Thackeray's Pendennis.

clear-out, have a. To defecate: a low coll. (-1923). Manchon.

clearing-out at custom-house, n. and adj. Easing (or eased) of an encumbrance: nautical: ca. 1820-60. Egan's Grosc.

cleave, v.i. To be wanton (said of women only): C. 18-early 19; low. The two opp. meanings of cleave—due to independent radicals—are present in this subtle term. A New Canting Dict., 1725; Grose, 1st ed.

cleaved. See cloven.

cleaver. A butcher: coll.: C. 18-19. Ex the butcher's cleaver or chopper.—2. In late C. 18-early 19 low s., a forward woman; a wanton. Grose, 2nd ed. See preceding entry.

cleavin(g). Boastful: Clare Market, London: ca. 1850-1900. Ex Clare Market Cleavers, q.v.

cleft. The female pudend: coll., C. 17-20. Ex the earlier S.E. (in C. 19-20, dial.) sense: the body's fork. In late C. 19-20 usage, as much euphemism as coll.—2. Adj. See cloven.

cleft stick, in a. In a very difficult position. from ca. 1700; coll. in C. 18; in C. 19-20, S.E.

clem. To starve: C. 20 vagrants' c., ex dial.—2. In C. 20 circus s. (perhaps ex U.S.), a fight.

clencher. See clinch.—clenchpoop. See clinchpoop.

clergyman. A chimney-sweep: C. 19. Cf. chimney-sweep.

clergyman or clerk, St. Nicholas's. See at Nicholas.

[Clergyman's diction in the Church of England. The following passage, caustically true of many clerics, occurs in Ernest Raymond's Mary Leith, 1931 (Part I, ch. iii): "All," when Mr Broadley was in high emotional state, showed a strange tendency to become "ull"—"Brethren, shall we ull now rise and sing a hymn"; the holy Apostles, on the crest of the wave of very strong feeling, changed most distinctly into "Thy holy Apareels, O Lord"; and at times—at really stirring times—"Lord" enriched and strengthened itself into something very like "Lorder". This passage is preceded by an equally pertinent one on cleric clichés.] clericals. A clergyman's dress: coll.; from ca. 1860. Cf. academicals.

clerk. To impose upon; swindle: c. and low coll.: C. 18-early 19. A New Canting Dict., 1725; Grose, 1st ed. Ex ignorance's suspicion of learning.—2. To act as a clerk: C. 19-20; coll. The vbl.n., clerking, occurs in C. 17, the ppl. adj. in mid-C. 16. Lamb, in 1834, 'I am very tired of clerking it.' (O.E.D.)

clerk of the works. 'He who takes the lead in minor affairs', Bee: public-house: ca. 1820-50. Punning S.E. sense.

clerks, St. Nicholas's. See Nicholas.

clerk's blood. Red ink: coll.: C. 19-20, ob. Charles Lamb.

clever. "At first a colloquial and local word", S.O.D.; it still is coll. if = 'cunning' or 'skilful' and applied to an animal or if = 'well', 'in good health or spirits' (mid-C. 19-20). Esp. not too clever, indisposed in health; the health sense is common in Australia and New Zealand.—2. Convenient, suitable: coll.: ca. 1750-1820.—3. 'Nice'; generally likable or pleasant: coll.: from ca. 1730; ob.—4. (Of persons) well-disposed, amiable: coll.: ca. 1770-1830, extant in U.S. Goldsmith, 'Then come, put the jorum about, | And let us be merry and clever' (O.E.D.).—5. (Of planks, etc.) steady: Australian: from ca. 1910. Prob. ex sensu l.

clever boots. Gen. as a comment: a clever, occ. a sly, person. C. 20. Perhaps ex clever shins, q.v.

clever Dick. The same: schools' (—1887); mostly London. Baumann. Cf.:

clever shins. A person sly to no, or little, purpose: schools', ca. 1870–1910. Baumann. Cf. sly-boots.—2. Hence, more gen., a C. 20 coll. variant of clever boots. Manchon.

cleyme; occ. clyme or cleym. An artificial sore: ca. 1670–1830: c. Head; B.E. furnishes an excellent account of this boggar's device. ?etymology, unless ex cly, to seize.

click. A blow, a punch: boxing; from ca. 1770; ob. except in dial. Grose, 1st ed.; Moore, in Tom Crib's Memorial, 'clicks in the gob'. (The wrestling term is j.)—2. A clique; a 'push' (Australian sense): Australian (—1914). C. J. Dennis.—3. A successful meeting with an unknown member of the opposite sex: G.W. +. Much rarer than the corresponding nuance of the 4th sense of the v.—4. Hence, a girl; a sweetheart: Glasgow (—1934) click, v. 'To stand at a shop-door and invite customers in', Dyche, 1748. C. 18–early 19. Ex:—2. In c. and low, to seize: late C. 17–mid-19. B.E., Grose.—3. In printers' s., from slightly before 1860, 'A work is said to be "clicked" when each man works on his lines, and keeps an account thereof.' O.E.D. (Sup.).—4. In 1914 +, orig. military, 'to do a drill movement with a click'; 'to click for a fatigue or a duty (i.e. to be put down for one)'; (of a man) 'to click with a member of the opposite sex', i.e. get off with one, also absolutely as in 'He's clicked',—hence (a sense that Collinson misses), to be successful, to have a piece of very good luck (with variant 'he's clicked for something') and v.t. as in click a Blighty, to get a 'Blighty' wound (F. & Gibbons); (of a woman) to become pregnant, also to 'meet' a man, though the latter is gen. in form, click with (a fellow). 'In all these senses', says Collinson in 1926, and the remark holds good, 'the word is still not uncommon'. Ex the click one hears when a small mechanical object falls into position, or when a key is turned. Cf., however, Scots cleek in (or up) with, to take up with (a person): E.D.D.

click, one's ears go back with a. (Gen. his ears went . . .). An † 'near' c.p. indicative of pleasure manifested at good news: military: from not later than 1915. F. & Gibbons.

clicker. A shop-keeper's tout: late C. 17–19. Ned Ward in The London Spy: 'Women here were almost as Troublesome as the Long-Lane clickers.'—2. A foreman shoemaker apportioning leather to the workmen: orig. (C. 17) s., soon j.—3. In printing, from ca. 1770, a foreman distributing the copy: soon j.—4. In C. 18–early 19 c., one who shares out the booty or 'regulars', q.v.—5. A knockdown blow: boxing, from ca. 1815; ob.—6. One who, once or, esp., often, meets successfully with an unknown person of the opposite sex: G.W. +; ex to click, 4. clicket. Sexual intercourse: c. or low coll.; late C. 17–18. Gen. as be at clicket. B.E., Grose. Ex the S.E. term, applied to foxes.

clickety click. (In the game of House) 66: military: C. 20. F. & Gibbons. By rough-and-ready rhyming.

clicking, vbl.n. Success; 'getting off' with a girl: from ca. 1915. See click, v., 4. Cf. P. G. Wodehouse's The Clicking of Cuthbert, 1922.

clickman toad. A watch: late C. 18–early 19. Perhaps orig. dial. Ex clicking sound. Whence—2. A West-Countryman: s. (—1788) and dial.; † by 1890. Grose (2nd ed.), who tells an amusing anecdote.

clie. See cly, n.

client. A person, a fellow or chap: military: from ca. 1912. F. & Gibbons. Suggested by customer.—2. Hence, client for Rouen, a 'venereal': military: 1915. B. & P.

clift. To steal: mid-C. 19–20; ob. H., 2nd ed. ? ex have in a cleft stick.

cligh. See cloy, v.

climacteric, climateric, climatic are occ. confused: C. 19–20. (O.E.D.)

climb, on the, adj. and adv. By 'cat'-burglary: c.: C. 20. James Curtis, The Gilt Kid, 1936.

climb down. To abandon a position, an assertion or boast: from mid-1880's: coll. >, by 1910, S.E.

climb the Mountain of Piety. To pawn goods: late C. 19–20; ob. Cf. Fr. mont de piété.

climb the rigging. To lose one's temper: naval: late C. 19–20. Bowen. Cf. hit the roof and rear up.

climb the three trees with a ladder. To ascend the gallows: c.: late C. 18–early 19. Grose, 2nd ed. Ex the three pieces of a gallows.

climb Zion. 'To rush up the fo'c'sle, chased by armed seniors', Masfield: Conway Training Ship, from ca. 1890.

clinah. See cliner.

clinch. A prison cell: mid-C. 19–20 c. (ob.): H., 3rd ed. Hence get, or kiss, the clinch or clink, to be imprisoned.

clinch. A great lie: C. 19–20; ob.; coll. Cf. corker.—2. A conclusive statement or argument: coll.; 1804 (O.E.D.).

clinchpoop, occ. clenchoop. A lout: coll.; ca. 1570–1640.

cliner; occ. clinah. A girl: Australian: C. 20. C. J. Dennis. Ex Yiddish: cf. cobber, 2, q.v.

cling-rig. See clink-rig.

clinger. A female dancing very close to her partner: from ca. 1890.

clink. A prison in Southwark, London: C. 16–17. In C. 18–20, any prison, esp. if small; a lock-up; a detention cell, this last nuance dating only from ca. 1880 and being mainly military (cf. clinch, q.v.); from 1919, occ. school s. for detention. Barclay, 1515; Marryat, 1835, 'We've a nice little clink at Wandsworth.' Echoic from the fetters (see clinkers).—2. Money (cf. chink): Scottish coll. rather than dial.: from the 1720's. Ramsay, Burns, Hogg. Also, a coin: mostly military: from ca. 1870. Frank Richards, Old-Soldier Sahib, 1936.—3. Very inferior beer: from ca. 1860; ob. Sala. Cf. bum-clink.

clink, v. To put in prison: from ca. 1850. Also see clinch.

clink, kiss the. To be imprisoned. Low: late C. 16–early 19. A C. 19 c. variant, get the clinch.

clink-rig; occ. corrupted to cling-rig. The stealing of (esp. silver) tankards from public-houses: c.; ca. 1770–1880. Ex clank, q.v.

clinker. In c. of ca. 1690–1830, a crafty, designing fellow. B.E.—2. In c. C. 18–19, any kind of chain.—3. A hard, or smartly delivered blow: from ca. 1860; boxing. Thackeray. Ex S.E. clink, a quick, sharp blow.—4. A person or thing of excellent quality : sporting s. (ca. 1860) >, ca. 1900, coll.—5. A notable lie : mid-C. 19–20; ob.—6. Abbr. (— 1923) of next. Manchon.—7. A prisoner : military : 1914 or 1915; ob. F. & Gibbons. Ex clink, n., 1.

clinker-knocker. A naval stoker : nautical, esp. naval : late C. 19–20. Bowen.

clinkers. Fetters : c. and low; late C. 17–early 19. B.E. Echoic; cf. clink.—2. 'Deposits of faecal or seminal matter in the hair about the anus or the female pudendum', F. & H.; low coll., from ca. 1830. Cf. clinkers in one's . . . and the S.E. sense, a hot cinder.

clinkers in one's bum, have. To be restless; uneasy. Low coll., from ca. 1840.

clinkerum. A prison; a lock-up : C. 19. Clink influenced by clinkers, 1.

clinking. First-rate; remarkably good : from ca. 1855 : coll.; esp. in racing and games. The Sporting Times, March 12, 1887, 'Prince Henry must be a clinking good horse.'

clip, a smart blow, has a coll. 'look', but it is genuine S.E. The corresponding v., however, is coll., late C. 19–20, and is always in forms clip a person one or clip a person on (the gen.) ear.

clip, v. To move quickly; run : coll., from ca. 1830. Michael Scott in Tom Cringle's Log, 1833. Until ca. 1844, rarely of anything but ships.—2. See preceding entry.

clipe. To tell tales : schools', ca. 1860–1900. Cf. Chaucer's clepe, to speak of, and O.E. clipian, to call, to name.

clipper. A splendid or very smart specimen of humanity or horseflesh : orig. (— 1835), U.S., anglicised ca. 1845. Thackeray, 1848. Ex clipper, any fast-moving ship or (from ca. 1830) the special kind of vessel; as horse, influenced by Dutch klepper (W.).—2. See 'Rogues' in Addenda.

clipping. (Of pace) very fast, 'rattling' : coll. : 1845, Punch (O.E.D. Sup.). Cf. clipper.—2. Hence, excellent; very smart; dashing showy : from ca. 1855. H., 1st ed.; Thackeray, Philip, 'What clipping girls there were in that barouche.' Ex (to) clip. Adv. in -ly.

clique, v.i. and t. To act as, or form, a clique : coll. : from ca. 1880.

cliqu(e)y. Pertaining to or characterised by cliques : from ca. 1875, though recorded in 1863 for U.S. (O.E.D. Sup.) : coll. for a decade, then S.E.

clo. Clothes : low (mostly Cockney) coll. pronunciation, chiefly in the street cry, clo ! old clo ! : C. 19–20. Baumann.

cloak. A watch-case : C. 19 c. Ainsworth.

cloak, Plymouth. See Plymouth cloak.

cloak-father. 'A pretended author whose name is put forth to conceal the real author', O.E.D. : coll. : ca. 1639–1700. Fuller. The O.E.D. cites as S.E., but surely not ?

cloak-twitcher. A thief specialising in cloaks : C. 18–early 19 : c. A New Canting Dict., 1725; Grose, 1st ed.

clobber ; occ. clobber. Clothes : from ca. 1850 ; at first, old clothes but from ca. 1870 also new ; among soldiers in G.W., one's (full) equipment. Chiefly Jewish, Cockney and C. 20 Australian. Prob. ex Yiddish (kilbr). (W. H. Davies, 'the super-tramp', considers it to be c.) clobber, v. See clobber up, 2.

clobber at a fence, do. To sell stolen clothes : c. ; from ca. 1855.

clobber out. An occ. C. 20 variant (Manchon) of sense 2 of :

clobber up. To patch, 'transform' (clothes). Orig. a cobbling device. From ca. 1850.—2. To dress smartly, v.t. and reflexive : from ca. 1860. W. E. Henley. Also, occ. (gen. in passive), clobber : not before ca. 1880.

clobberer. A transformer of old clothes : from ca. 1855. Ca. 1880 it > j. The Times, Nov. 2, 1864. Cf. clobber up, 1.

clobber. See clobber, n.

clock. A watch : C. 19–20 c. and low. (In C. 16–18, S.E.) If of gold, a red c. ; if of silver, a white c. : gen. abbr. to a red, a white, 'un.—2. A face : from ca. 1870, ex U.S. Cf. dial.—3. A dynamite bomb : London : 1880's. Ex a topicality of the dynamite scare at that time. Warc.—4. A taxi-meter : taxi-drivers' : C. 20 ; by 1930, coll.

clock, v.t. To time by a stop-watch : from ca. 1880 : sporting s. >, ca. 1910, coll. ; now verging on S.E.

clock, know what's o'. See o'clock.

clock-calm. (Of the sea) dead-calm : nautical coll. : late C. 19–20. Bowen. Ex a clock's shiny face.

clock in (or on), off (or out). To sign the time book on arrival or departure : from ca. 1905 ; coll. >, by 1930, S.E. Factory and office phrases.

clock-setter. A busybody, a sea lawyer : nautical (— 1890) : Century Dict. Ex :—2. One who tampers with the clock to shorten his hours : nautical coll. : from ca. 1880.

clock stopped. No 'tick', i.e. no credit. Tradesmen's c.p. : from ca. 1840 ; now rare, but not ob.

clocking. Very fast time, esp. in athletics and racing : 1888 ; coll. ; ob. (O.E.D.)—2. 'The objectionable and mischievous practice . . . of hitching the bell-rope or a separate cord round the "flight" of the "clapper", while the bell is "at rest", in order to pull the "clapper" against the bell, with the frequent result of cracking the latter' : bell-ringers' s. (— 1901) >, by 1920, coll. Rev. A. Earle Bulwer, A Glossary of Bell-Ringing, 1901.

clod. (Gen. pl.) A copper coin : non-aristocratic (— 1914). F. & Gibbons. Among Cockneys, a penny (The Evening News, Jan. 20, 1936) ; also among grafters (Allingham, Cheapjack, 1934). Prob. ex both the colour and the weight.

clod, gen. v.i. To shell heavily : military : 1915. F. & Gibbons, 'Suggested by the heaving up of the earth as shells burst on impact'.

clod-crusher. A clumsy boot (gen. pl.) : coll. : from ca. 1850. Cf. beetle-crusher.—2. Hence, a large foot (gen. in pl.) : coll. ; from ca. 1860.—3. Also, a heavy walker : coll. ; from ca. 1870.

clod-hopper. A clumsy boor : coll. : C. 18–20, ex the C. 17–18 sense, ploughman. After ca. 1800, S.E.—2. Gen. in the now more usual form :

clodhopper. A street dancer : c. (— 1933). George Orwell, Down and Out in Paris and London.

clod-pate, clod-poll or -pole. A dolt : C. 17–20, ob. ; coll. ; S.E. after ca. 1750. Like the preceding, in B.E., though the O.E.D. and S.O.D. say nothing of their almost certainly coll. origin and beginnings.

cloddy. Aristocratic in appearance : proletarian : late C. 19–20. Ex well-formed or cloddy bull dogs ('low to the ground, short in the back, and thickset', clods and stickings. Skilly: paupers', from ca. 1840; ob.

The Daily Telegraph, Nov. 13, 1895). Ex dial. cloddy, thick set, full-fleshed like a bull. Ware; E.D.D.)

cloister-roush. At Winchester College, 'a kind of general tournament', Mansfield. Dating from early C. 19, † by 1890.

cloke. See cloak.

Clottie; Cloots. The devil: Scots coll. (and Northern dial.): from the 1780's. Burns has both; Barham (Clottie). Ex cloot, a division of a hoof; the devil has a cloven foot. (O.E.D.)

close in. Shut up: C. 14-17; coll. soon S.E.

close as God's curse to a whore's arse or as shirt and shitten arse. Very close indeed: mid-C. 18-early 19 c.p. or proverb. Grose, 1st ed.

close as wax. Miserly; stingy; secretive: from ca. 1770: coll. till mid-C. 19, then S.E. Cumberland, 1772; Charles Reade. (Apperson.) Cf. the S.E. close-fisted (C. 17-20, regarded by B.E. as coll.

close call. A near thing; an incident almost fatal: coll.: U.S. (1880's) anglicised in late 1890's. (O.E.D. Sup.)

close file. A secretive or uncommunicative person: c. or low, from ca. 1820; ob. File (cf. blade) = a man.

close mouth. A disreputable establishment or resort: C. 20. Scottish c.

close one's dead-lights. To 'bung up' one's eyes: nautical: ca. 1820-1910. Egan's Grose.

close thing. A narrow escape; an even contest. Coll. > S.E.: late C. 19-20. Cf. close call.

Closh. Collective for Dutch seamen: mid-C. 18-early 19. Grose, 1st ed. Ex Dutch Klaas, abbr. Nicolaas, a favourite Christian name in Holland.—2. Hence, a seaman from the Eastern counties of England: nautical: mid-C. 19-20. Bowen.

cloth. One's profession: C. 17-19; coll. > S.E. in C. 18. Esp. the cloth: the Church; clergymen: C. 18-20; coll. Swift, 1701; Dickens, 1836, of another profession, 'This 'ere song's personal to the cloth.'—2. Also, from ca. 1860 and coll., the office of a clergyman.

cloth, cut one's coat according to the. To act in sane accordance with the circumstances; esp., to live within one's means. Mid-C. 16-20. Coll. till C. 18, then S.E.

cloth in the wind, shake (occ. have) a. To be slightly drunk: nautical; from ca. 1830; ob.

cloth is all of another hue, the. That's a very different story: proverbial coll.: C. 15-17. Cf. horse of another colour.

cloth market. (Or with capitals.) Bed. Late C. 17-19: coll. (gen. with the). Ray, 1678; Swift. (Apperson.) Cf. Bedfordshire.

clothes-line, able to sleep (up)on a. Capable of sleeping in difficult place or position; hence, able to rough it, to look after oneself. Coll.; from ca. 1840.

clothes-pegs. Legs: rhyming s.: late C. 19-20. B. & P.

clothes-pin I am, that's the sort of. That's me! That's my nature. (Of men only; cf. hair-pin.) Coll.; from ca. 1865.

clothes sit on her like a saddle on a sow's back, her. A late C. 17-mid-18 c.p. applied to an ill-dressed woman. (B.E.)

clothing-crusher. A 'ship's policeman superintending the mustering of kits': naval: C. 20. Bowen.

cloud. Tobacco smoke. Late C. 17-early 19 (cf. blow a cloud). B.E. gives it as tobacco, but his example shows that he means either tobacco being smoked or, more prob., tobacco smoke.

cloud, under a. As = out of favour, or in difficulties other than monetary, S.E.; as = in disgrace, coll. in C. 16-17, then S.E.

cloud-cleaner. Nautical of mid-C. 19-20 (ob.). 'An imaginary cloud jokingly assumed to be carried by Yankee ships', Clark Russell.

cloud-compeller. A smoker, esp. of tobacco: from ca. 1860: jocular-pedantic >, ca. 1880, coll. (Like cloud-assembler, this is a Homeric epithet for Zeus.)

clouds, in the. Fantastic; fanciful; metaphysical. Also as adv. In C. 17, coll.; then S.E.

cloudy. In disgrace or disrepute; 'shady': coll.: 1886, Stevenson (O.E.D.); ob. Cf. murky.

clout. A heavy blow: M.E. onwards. S.E. until ca. 1850, when it > low coll. and dial.; indeed it was far from literary after ca. 1770 (see Grose).—2. A handkerchief (unless of silk): the S.O.D. implies that this is S.E., but Jonson's Gipsies, B.E., John Hall's Memoirs, Fielding's Jonathan Wild, Grose (edd. of 1785-1811), Brandon, and H. tend to show that, from ca. 1600, it was low coll. verging on e.—3. A woman's 'sanitary': low coll., C. 19-20, ob.

clout, v. To strike (a person) heavily: M.E. onwards; S.E. until ca. 1850, when it > low coll. and dial. Cf. sense 1 of the n.—2. Hence, to do eagerly, despatch vigorously: mostly military: C. 20. F. & Gibbons, 'That fellow clouted six eggs this morning for his breakfast.'—3. To seize; to steal: New Zealanders': C. 20. For semantics, cf. c. sense of ding, q.v.

clout, wash one's face in an ale. To get drunk: coll. (jocular): C. 16-17.

clout-shoe, clouted shoe. A yokel; a boor: ca. 1580-1750: coll. Cf. Spenser's Colin Clout.

clouter. A pickpocket; one specialising in handkerchiefs: c. (—1839); ob. Brandon.—2. Vbl.n., clouting.

clouting. A thrashing or a cuffing: see clout, v.—2. In C. 20 c., the carrying, by a woman shop-thief, of rolls of silk or cloth between her legs. Charles E. Leach. Cf.:

clouting lay. The stealing of handkerchiefs from people's pockets: late C. 18-19 c. Grose, 2nd ed. Occ. abbr. to clouting (Vaux).

clouts. A woman's underclothes, from the waist down. Also, her complete wardrobe. Low coll.: C. 19-20; ob.

clove. A sol. form of cloven: C. 19-20. Baumann. Cf. drove for driven.

cloven, occ. cleaved or cleft. Ppl. adj., spuriously virgin: C. 18-early 19. A New Canting Dict., 1725; Grose, 1st ed. Cf. cleft, n., q.v.

clover, in. (Gen. with be or live.) In great comfort; luxuriously; in pleasant and most welcome safety or security: C. 18-20: coll. >, in late C. 19, S.E. Ex cattle in clover.

clow. (Pronounced clo.) A box on the ear: Winchester College: C. 19. Perhaps on the auditory analogy of bout—bow, lout—low, as F. & H. suggests. Also, v.t.

clows. (Gen. as pl.) A rogue: late C. 17-18 c. B.E., Grose. Perhaps cognate with:

cloy, cloye. A thief; a robber: C. 18-early 19 c. Cf.:

cloy, cligh, cly, to steal, is—like its derivatives—c., not s.: C. 17—early 19. Cf. C. 16–17 S.E. cloyne, cheat or grab.

cloyer. A thief habitually claiming a share of profits from young sharpers: C. 17 c.—2. Also in c., the less specialised sense: a thief, a pickpocket: mid-C. 17—early 19. B.E.

club. The membrum virile: low: C. 19.—2. A very thick pigtail: coll.; 1760–1920; S.E. after ca. 1800.—3. Short for benefit club: coll.; from ca. 1880. To be on the club is to receive financial help from a benefit club.—4. (the Club.) Blackheath Rugby Football Club: sporting coll.: late C. 19–20.—5. An illicit drinking-den: Glasgow lower classes': C. 20. MacArthur & Long, No Mean City, 1935.

club, v. (Of an officer) to get one's men into an inextricable position by confusing the order: from ca. 1805: coll. > S.E. by 1890. Thackeray, Whyte-Melville.

* club-fist. A man rough and brutal: late C. 16–17; coll. > S.E. by 1620.

club-land. The social district of which St. James's (London) is the centre: coll.; from ca. 1870.

clubbability. The possession of qualities fitting a person to be a member of a club: coll.: from ca. 1875.

clubs are trump(s). Brute force rules, or is to rule, the day: coll. in C. 19–20; S.E. in late C. 16–18. Punning the card-suit.

clump. A heavy blow, gen. with the hand: mid-C. 19–20: coll. (mostly Cockney) and dial.—2. Incorrect for a clamp: C. 19–20. (O.E.D.)

clump, v. To hit heavily: mid-C. 19–20: coll. and dial. The ppl. adj. clumping = heavily walking.

clumper. A thick walking boot: coll., from ca. 1875. Ex clump, an additional half-sole.—2. A heavy hitter: C. 19–20: coll. Ex clump, v.

clumperton. A countryman; a yokel; C. 16—early 19; coll.

clumping. See clump, v.

clumsy cleat. A wedge of wood against which a harpooner, for steadiness, braced his left knee: whalers' coll. verging on j. Bowen.

clumsy Dick. An awkward and/or clumsy fellow: non-aristocratic coll. (—1887); ob. Baumann.

clush. Easy, simple; 'cushy': c.: from ca. 1840; ob. by 1880, † by 1900. Etymology?

clutch, put in one's. To fall silent: motorists' (ca. 1920) > gen. by: 1928, Galsworthy, Swan Song. Ex motoring.

clutch-fist. A miser: C. 17–20; coll. till ca. 1800, then S.E. Adj., clutch-fisted, as in B.E.

clutching hand, the. Jocularly coll., C. 20: greed. On the verge of S.E.—2. A quartermaster-sergeant: military: G.W. Prob. ex a lurid film so named. F. & Gibbons.—3. A D.H.6 aeroplane: Air Force: 1917–18. F. & Gibbons: a de Havilland used 'as an elementary training machine'.

clutter. A crowded confusion, a mess or litter: in C. 17—early 19, S.E.; then coll. and dial. A variant of clotter (ex clot). Whence:

clutter, v. To litter confusedly and abundantly: ca. 1670–1840, S.E.; now coll. and U.S. (S.O.D.)

cly. A pocket; a purse; money: c., ? and low: late C. 17–19. Indubitably c. is the late C. 17—early 19 sense, money. B.E., Dyche, Grose. So is file a cly, late C. 17–18, to pick a pocket. As mid-

C. 16–18 v., to seize, take, to pocket, to steal: o., ? and low. See cloy, n. and v.

cly, fake a. See fake a cly.

cly-faker. A pickpocket: c. (—1812); ob. Vaux.—2. Hence the vbl.n., cly-faking (—1851); ob.

cly off. To carry off, away: C. 17 (? 18) c. Brome in his Jovial Crew.

cly the gerke or jerk. To receive a whipping, a lashing: c. of ca. 1550–1850. See jerk.

clye. A C. 16–17 variant of cly.—clyme. See clyme.

clyster-pipe. A doctor: C. 17.—2. An apothecary: C. 18—early 19. Both senses are low coll., the latter in Grose. Ex S.E. for a syringe.

c'm. Come (only in the imperative): sol., esp. Cockney: C. 19–20. John G. Brandon, The One Minute Murder, 1934, 'C'm on and git it over.'

co. (Also coe.) A shortening of cofe or (q.v.) cove.—2. Co. or coy, so pronounced, is a sol. for company: late C. 19–20. Esp., . . . and Co., and the rest of them: coll.: from ca. 1880.—3. co-, where used jocularly, is either pedantic or coll., according to circumstances.—4. in co; esp. act in co, to be leagued together: coll. (—1823); ob. 'Jon Bee'.—5. A co-respondent: mostly Society (—1923). Manchon.

co, and. And the rest; et cetera: naval: from ca. 1912. Hamish Maclaren, The Private Opinions of a British Blue-Jacket, 1929, 'Sor some nise eyelands and come after spisse knut mags [spice, nutmegs] and co—some times purls'.

co-ed. Co-educational: coll.: from ca. 1920. Prob. suggested by the American co-ed, a girl at a co-educational school or college.

co-op; co-op store. A co-operative store: the longer form, early 1870's; the shorter, early 1880's. Also a co-operative society: from early 1890's. O.E.D. (Sup.).—2. Hence, on the co-op, on the co-operative principle: from ca. 1910: like the others, it is coll. Ibid.

coach. A private tutor: at first (1848, says S.O.D.) a university word, orig. Cambridge; s., says Frank Smedley in Frank Fairleigh, 1850; but very soon coll. If not connected with a college, he was, until ca. 1880, known as a rural coach.—2. As a trainer of athletes (1885), a coll. now almost S.E. Whichever of cab, a 'crib' (q.v.), and coach is the earlier, that one presumably suggested the other: since cab comes ex cabbage, q.v., the earlier is prob. cab.

coach, v. To travel, go, in a coach: coll.: C. 17–20; ob. Occ. with it.—2. To prepare (a pupil), teach him privately: from ca. 1848; s. soon coll., orig. university, as in Thackeray.—3. To train athletes: from ca. 1880; coll.—4. V.i., to read or study with a private tutor: from ca. 1849; s. > coll.

coach-fellow, occ. -companion. A companion, fellow worker, mate: jocularly coll.: ca. 1590–1800. Shakespeare, in the Merry Wives, 'You, and your Coach-fellow Nim'.

coach-wheel. A crown piece: late C. 17–20; ob. Grose. In late C. 17–19, fore c.-w., half a crown; hind c.-w., a crown. B.E.

coach-whip. A Navy pennant: nautical: from ca. 1890. Cf. duster, q.v.

coachee, coachie, coachy. A coachman: late C. 18–20; ob. Coll. Thomas Moore, 1819, in Tom Crib's Memorial, in form coachee. See -y.—2. (Coachee.) See Billy Blue.

coaches won't run over him, the. He is in gaol: coll. (— 1813); † by 1900. Ray, 1813 (Apperson). Cf. where the flies won't get at it (see flies).

coaching. Private instruction (actively or passively): from ca. 1845. Coll.—2. (Rugby School) a flogging: C. 19; ob. by 1891.—3. The obtaining of high auction-prices by means of fictitious bidders: commercial (— 1866); ob. O.E.D. coachy, adj. Resembling a coach-horse: coll. (— 1870). O.E.D.—2. Concerned with coaches or coach-driving: from ca. 1880; coll.

coachy, n. See coachee.

coal, money: see cole.—2. A penny: grafters': C. 20. P. Allingham, Cheapjack, 1934.

coal and coke. Penniless: rhyming s. (on broke): C. 20.

coal-box. A chorus: music-hall, ca. 1850–1915. Mark Lemon in Up and Down London Streets.—2. A German shell that, of low velocity, bursts with a dense cloud of black smoke; esp. a 5·9: military: Oct. 1914. B. & P. Cf. black Maria.

coal-chisel. Incorrect for cold chisel: C. 18–20. (P. MacDonald, R.I.P., 1933.)

coal-heaver. A penny, in the game of Crown and Anchor: military (and naval): C. 20. F. & Gibbons. Ex its colour.

Coal-Heavers, the. The Grenadier Guards: military: mid-C. 18–20. F. & Gibbons. Ex officers letting out soldiers to civilian employers. In C. 19–20, also the Coalies.

coal-hole, a. Work down in the coal-hole, often given as punishment to a working hand: Conway Training Ship: from ca. 1890.

coal-sack. Cul-de-sac: sol. (— 1909). Ware.—2. (Gen. pl.) A dark patch of cloud near the Milky Way: nautical: mid-C. 19–20. Bowen.

coal-scuttle (bonnet), n. and adj. A poke bonnet: from ca. 1830; ob., the fashion being outmoded by 1880—if not earlier. Dickens, in Nicholas Nickleby, '... Miss Snevellici ... glancing from the depths of her coal-scuttle bonnet at Nicholas'.

coal up. To eat (heartily): stokers' (— 1909); slightly ob. Ware.

coal-whipper. A dock coal-heaver: nautical: C. 19. Bowen, 'Unloading . . by jumping off a staging in the days of primitive equipment'.

coaler. A coal-heaver: coll. (— 1887) verging on S.E. Baumann. Cf. coaly.

coaley, coalie. See coaly and Coal-Heavers.

Coalies, the. See Coal-Heavers, the.

coaling or coally. (Of a part) effective, pleasant to the actor: from ca. 1850, ob. Also, fond of, partial to: ca. 1870–1910, e.g. Miss Braddon in Dead Sea Fruit. Theatrical.

coals, blow or stir the. To cause trouble between two parties: coll.; resp. C. 17–20, C. 16–18; ob. Both soon > S.E.

coals, call or fetch or haul over the. To call to task; reprimand; address severely: coll., resp. C. 19–20, late C. 16–18, late C. 18–20. Ex the treatment once meted out to heretics. See also haul, v., 2.

coals, carry no. To be unlikely to be imposed on, swindled, or tamely insulted: coll.: C. 16–19. B.E., whose definition is somewhat more racy. A C. 16–17 variant, as in Skelton, is bear no coals.

coals, let him that hath need blow the. 'Let him Labour that wants,' B.E.; also, stop no man from working. Coll. and proverbial: C. 17–18.

coals !, precious. See precious coals !

coals, take in one's (or one's winter). To catch a venereal disease: nautical, C. 19.

[coals of fire on the head of, heap : to return good for evil: has always, because of its Biblical connexion, been S.E.]

coals to Newcastle, carry. To do something ludicrously superfluous: late C. 16–20, being coll. till ca. 1830, then S.E. Heywood, Fuller, Scott. (Apperson.)

coaly, coaley, coalie. A coal-heaver or -porter: from ca. 1860. Mayhew.

Coast, the. The bank of the River Paraguay: coll., among Englishmen in S. America: C. 20. C. W. Thurlow Craig.

coast ; coaster. To loaf, a loafer, about from station to station: Australian coll. (— 1890); ob. Morris.

coast is clear, the. See clear, the coast is.

coaster. See coast.—2. (Or C—.) A white man living on the Gold Coast: coll.; late C. 19–20.

coat, v. To reprimand, esp. of a warder reprimanding a prisoner: C. 20 c. coat, baste or coil or pay a person's. To beat him: C. 16–18: coll. Cf. dust one's jacket.

coat . . ., cut one's. See cloth.

coat, get the sun into a horse's. To allow a horse to rest from formal racing; hence, (of a trainer) to save oneself trouble: racing, from ca. 1880; †. The Standard, June 25 or 26, 1889: a forensic speech by Sir Charles Russell.

coat, turn one's. To desert one's cause or party: mid-C. 16–19: coll. >, by 1800, S.E.

coat, wear the King's. To serve as a soldier: from ca. 1750; coll. till C. 19, when S.E.; in C. 20, archaic. Cf. wear the King's uniform.

coat and badge. To cadge: military rhyming s.: C. 20. B. & P.

coating, vbl.n. Giving a prisoner's history: c. (— 1935). David Hume. I.e. fitting him up nicely.

coax. One who coaxes, or is skilled in coaxing: coll.: from ca. 1860. Ouida (O.E.D.).

coax, v. To hide a dirty or torn part of one's stocking in one's shoes: mid-C. 18–early 19; coll. Grose, 2nd ed.—2. Hence, to deface or alter (a service-certificate): nautical: mid C. 19–20. Bowen.

cob. A chignon: coll.: ca. 1865–1914.—2. (Winchester College, ca. 1870–1930) a hard hit at cricket. Ex cob, v., 1.—3. In c., a punishment cell: from ca. 1860; ob. Perhaps cognate with:

cob, cobb, v. To strike, esp. on the buttocks with something flat (gen. a hand-saw, says Hotten): nautical (— 1769). Marryat in the King's Own: 'Gentlemen, gentlemen, if you must cobb Mrs. Skrimmage, for God's sake let it be over all,' i.e. with no clothes raised. Prob. echoic.—2. Hence, to humbug, deceive: coll., C. 19–20, ob., perhaps influenced by cod.—3. To detect, catch: school-boys', C. 19. A variant of cop, v.: q.v.

cob o' coal. Unemployment relief: workmen's rhyming s. (on dole): from ca. 1925. John o' London's Weekly, June 9, 1934.

cob on, have a. To be annoyed: ships' stewards' (— 1935). Perhaps ex dial. cob, to strike, or the game of cob-nuts.

Cobb, by. By coach: Australian coll.: from 1870's; slightly ob. Morris. The Cobb who started a system of coaches long before 1860 was an American.

cobber. A great lie: C. 19–20, ob. Cf. thumper.—2. A friend, comrade, companion: Australians': C. 20. A trustworthy correspondent (a writing man) tells me that he heard it among racing-men of the lower sort in the year 1900. Ex Yiddish chaber, a comrade (cf. cliner). Dr Thomas Wood, Cobbers, 1934. See Words !, pp. 27–8.

cobbing, vbl.n. To cob, v., 1.

cobble. To detect; catch: schoolboys': C. 19. Ex to cob, 3.

cobble-colter. A turkey, late C. 17–18 c., was resuscitated by Disraeli in Venetia, his most picturesque novel. Cobble = gobble.

cobbler. A drink of wine mixed with lemon-juice, sugar, and ice, gen. taken through a straw: coll.; from ca. 1840; ex U.S. ? short for sherry-cobbler; cf. cobbler's punch; perhaps, however, 'as patching up the constitution', W.—2. The last sheep to be shorn: Australian: from ca. 1890. Ex the cobbler's last. Morris.—3. A ball: grafters': late C. 19–20. (P. Allingham, Cheappack, 1934.) Prob. ex cobblers (q.v.), abbr. cobblers' stalls (or curls), low rhyming s.

cobblers. Testicles (human): c.: C. 20. James Curtis, The Gilt Kid, 1936.

Cobblers, the. The Northampton Association Football Club: sporting: late C. 19–20. The News Chronicle, Dec. 27, 1934, caption, 'Cobblers Yield a Point.' Boots and shoes are made in profusion at Northampton.

cobbler's door, knock at the; give the cobbler's knock. In sliding or, less often, in skating, to rap the ice in series of three taps with one foot while one moves rapidly on the other. This rapping is occ. called the postman's knock. Dickens in Pickwick Papers. Coll.; from ca. 1820.

cobbler's marbles. Sol. for cholera morbus, itself catachrestic for malignant or Asiatic cholera: from ca. 1860; ob.

cobbler's punch. See punch, cobbler's.

Cob's body (by). In oaths, a coll. corruption of God's body: C. 18. (O.E.D.)

cobweb, in late C. 17–early 18, seems to have been coll. for transparent or flimsy: B.E. cites cobweb cheat, a swindler easily detected, and cobweb pretence.

cobweb in the throat, have a. To feel thirsty: coll.: from ca. 1830.—2. Hence, cobweb throat, a dry throat after drinking liquor: late C. 19–20; ob. A. H. Dawson's Dict. of Slang, 1913.

cocam. An occ. form of cocum, q.v.

cochineal dye. Blood: pugilistic; ca. 1850–1910. 'Cuthbert Bede', 1853: 'He would kindly inquire of one gentleman, "What d'ye ask for a pint of your cochineal dye?"' For semantics, cf. bordeaux and claret.

cock. The penis: 1730, says S.O.D., but F. & H.'s example from Beaumont & Fletcher's scabrous play, The Custom of the Country, seems valid. Always S.E. but since ca. 1830 a vulg. Prob. ex cock, a tap.—2. A plucky fighter; hence, a coll. term of appreciation or address. Massinger, in 1639, has 'He has drawn blood of him yet: well done, old cock.'—3. As chief or leader, despite the coll. tang of cock of the walk, the school, etc., it has, since 1800 in any case, been S.E., the term arising in early C. 15.—4. A horse not intended to run or, if running, to win: racing; from ca. 1840; ob.—5. In boxing, a cock = out, senseless, as in 'He knocked him a regular cock' or simply '... a cock', where the term > an adv: ca. 1820–1920, but ob. by 1900.—6. A fictitious narrative sold as a broadsheet in the streets: low coll., recorded by Mayhew in 1851 but prob. in use as early as 1840; † by 1900. From ca. 1860 it derivatively meant any incredible story, as in The London Figaro, Feb. 1, 1870, 'We are disposed to think that cocks must have penetrated to Eastern Missouri.' Prob. ex cock and bull story.—7. In c., abbr. Cockney, cockney.—8. Among printers, a cock ensues when, in gambling with quads, a player receives another chance by causing one or more of the nine pieces to fall, not flat as desired but, crosswise on another: from ca. 1860, ob. by 1920.—9. Among tailors, from ca. 1840, a good cock is a good, a bad cock a bad workman.—[10. In ancient oaths, cock = God.—] 11. See old cock.—12. See cocks.

cock, v. To smoke (v.t.): C. 19. Cf. Broseley.—2. To copulate with, but gen. in the passive: low coll., C. 19–20, ob. Whence vbl.n., cocking, and cf. (with) a cock in her eye: sexually desirous.—3. To see, examine; speak of: gen. as cock it: tailors', from ca. 1850; ob.—4. See cock it over.

cock. Adj. ex the n., 3: chief; foremost: coll.; from ca. 1660; ob. Etherage, in The Man of Mode, 'The very cock-fool of all those fools, Sir Fopling Flutter'.

cock-a-bully. The gray (fish): New Zealand coll. (—1896). Morris. A corruption of the Maori name, kokopu.

cock-a-doodle. A 'donkey-drop' (q.v.): school-boys': ca. 1880–1910. Ex its 'high note'.

cock-a-doodle broth. Beaten eggs in brandy and water: 1856; very ob. (Very strengthening.)

cock-a-doodle(-doo). Nursery and jocular for a cock: C. 18–20. Echoic ex its crow (1573, O.E.D.)

cock-a-hoop (incorrectly -whoop). From ca. 1660: coll., in C. 20 S.E.: in C. 17–early 19, 'upon the high Ropes, Rampant, Transported' (B.E.), but only predicative or complementary; ca. 1830 it > an ordinary adj. Ex the earlier set (the) cock on (the) hoop or, as in Shakespeare, set cock-a-hoop, which Ray explains by the practice of removing the cock or spigot, laying it on the hoop, i.e. on the top, of a barrel, and then drinking the barrel dry.

cock-a-loft. 'Affectedly lofty', O.E.D.: coll.: from ca. 1860; ob. Ex cock-loft.

cock a snook. See cock snooks.

cock-a-wax; occ. cock-o-wax. A cobbler: ca. 1800–50. Lit., a fellow working with wax.—2. Hence, anyone familiarly addressed: ca. 1860–1900: coll. H., 3rd ed. Ex cock, n., 2. Variant lad o(f) wax.

cock-ale. A strong ale: 'pleasant drink, said to be provocative', remarks B.E.: coll.; ca. 1680–1830. Ned Ward; Grose.

cock-alley. Also c.-hall, -inn, -lane, -pit, and Cockshire. All low coll.: C. 18–20, the second and the third being †, the fifth and sixth ob. Pudendum muliebri.

cock-and-breeches. A sturdy boy, a small but sturdy man: low coll.: from ca. 1830; ob.

cock-and-bull story. In this form from ca. 1700; as story or tale of a cock and a bull from ca. 1608: coll., passing ca. 1850 to S.E. At first, a long rambling tale, then (C. 18–20) an idle, silly or incredible story. John Day in Law Tricks, Sterne in Tristram Shandy, Mrs. Henry Wood in Henry Ludlow. Cf. the Fr. coq-à-l'âne.

cock and hen. A £10 note: thieves' and low rhyming s.: from ca. 1870. Slang, p. 243.—2. Hence, ten: C. 20. B. & P.—3. (Gen. cockern.)

A pen : rhyming s., esp. grafters' : C. 20. Philip Allingham, Cheappjack, 1934.

cock-and-hen. (Gen. with club, occ. with house.) Adj. : admitting both sexes, for the once or constitutionally : coll. ; from ca. 1815. Moore in Tom Crib's Memorial.

cock and (by) pie !, by. A mild oath : coll. : mid-C. 16–mid-19. Thackeray. Perhaps Cock, God + pie, a Roman Catholic ordinal. (O.E.D.)

cock-and-pinch. The beaver hat affected by dandies of ca. 1820–30 ; † by 1900. Coll. (Cocked back and front and pinched up at the sides.)

cock-bawd. A man keeping a brothel : ca. 1680–1830 : low coll. B.E., Grose.

cock-billed. With yards crooked as a sign of mourning : nautical : late C. 19–20. Bowen. Cf. a-cock bill.

cock-brain. A silly light-headed person : late C. 16–18 ; coll. Adj., cock-brained.

cock-catching. See catch cocks.

cock-chaffer or -teaser. A girl or a woman permitting—and assuming—most of the intimacies but not the greatest : low coll. (the latter term is far the commoner) : c.-c., C. 19 ; c.-t., C. 19–20.—2. Also low coll. is c.-c. = the pudendum muliebre, C. 19–20, while, 3, in c. of ca. 1860–90, it = the tread-mill ; the latter (H., 2nd ed.) is unhyphenated.

cock-eye. A squinting-eye : recorded in 1825 ; cock-eyed, squinting : Byron, 1821. Both are coll. (O.E.D.)—Hence, 2, cock-eye and cock-eyed, from ca. 1895, = crooked ; inaccurate ; inferior. Lit., like a 'tilted' eye.

cock-eyed. See cock-eye, 2.—2. Topsy : from ca. 1930. Maurice Lincoln, Oh ! Definitely, 1933.

cock-eyed Bob. A thunderstorm off N.W. Australia : Western Australian (—1894), hence pearl-ers' (—1929). Morris ; Bowen. Applied also to a violent wind-storm off this coast, as in Ion L. Idriess, Flynn of the Inland, 1932.

cock-fighting, beat. To be very good or delightful ; to excel : coll., C. 19–20, though foreshadowed in Gauden's Tears of the Church, 1659.

cock-hall. See cock-alley.

cock-hoist. A cross-buttock : late C. 18—early 19 : coll. till C. 19, then j. Grose, 2nd ed.

cock-horse. Elated, cock-a-hoop, in full swing : ca. 1750–1870 ; coll. Ex (ride) a cock-horse, a child's improvised horse.

Cock Inn. The female pudend : low : C. 19–20 ; ob. Cf. Cupid's Arms and see cock-alley.

cock it ! There it is ! ; that's done it ! ; gone ! : lower classes' (—1923). Manchon.

cock it over (a person). To 'boss', to impose on : coll. (—1923). Manchon. Ex cock, n., 3.

cock-lane. See cock-alley. Grose, 1st ed.

cock-linnet. A minute : rhyming s. (—1909). Ware.—2. A dapper lad : East London (—1909). Ibid.

cock-loft. The head : mid-C. 17–18 ; coll. Fuller, 1646 (Apperson). Lit., a garret ; cf. the proverbial all his gear is in his cock-loft and garret and upper storey.

cock-maggot in a sink-hole, like a. Very annoyed or peevish : proletarian coll. (—1887) ; slightly ob. Baumann.

cock-o-wax. See cock-a-wax.

cock one's chest. The naval equivalent (—1909) of chuck a chest, q.v. Ware.

cock one's toes (up). To die : from ca. 1860 ; slightly ob. H., 3rd ed. Cf. the much more gen. turn up one's toes.

cock-pimp. A supposed, rarely an actual, husband to a bawd ; i.e. a harlot's bully : late C. 17–18 coll. B.E.

cock-pit, cockpit, the. A Dissenters' meeting-house : late C. 18—early 19. Grose, 1st ed. (at pantile-house).—2. The Treasury ; the Privy Council : a London coll. ; from ca. 1870. Ex an old Whitehall cockpit.—3. See cock-alley.

cock-quean. A man concerning himself unduly in women's affairs : either a sol. or a jocular perversion of cotquean : ca. 1830–80.

cock-robin. A soft, easy fellow : coll. : from ca. 1690 ; ob. B.E. ; Grose ; Montagu Williams, Leaves of a Life, 1890.

cock-robin shop. A small printery : printers', from late 1850's ; ob. H., 1st ed.

cock-shot. Anything set up as a target ; a shot thereat : coll. : resp. ca. 1840, 1880. O.E.D.

cock-shut. Twilight (also an adj.) : coll. > S.E. > dial. Recorded in 1598, 1594 : 'perhaps the time when poultry are shut up', S.O.D.

cock-shy. Coll. ; in C. 20 verging on and by 1930 being virtually S.E. Cock-throwing and similar games : mid-C. 19–20. Mayhew.—2. A free 'shy' at a target : from mid-1830's.—3. The missile : rare and ob. : from late 1830's.—4. The target (lit. or fig.) : 1836.—5. A showman's cock-shy 'booth', etc. : from late 1870's. O.E.D.—6. cock-shying : see 1 and 2 : late 1870's. O.E.D.

cock-smitten. Enamoured of men : low coll., C. 19–20.

cock snooks or a snook. To put one's fingers derisively to nose : coll. ; late C. 19–20.

cock-sparrow. A barrow : rhyming s. : late C. 19–20. J. Phillips, Dict. of Rhyming Slang, 1931.

cock-stand. A priapism : a vulg. : C. 18–20.

cock-sucker. A toady : low coll. : C. 19–20. Mostly (? orig.) U.S.

cock-sure. Feeling quite certain (from ca. 1660) ; dogmatically sure of oneself (from ca. 1750). Coll. till ca. 1890, then S.E. Semantics obscure ; perhaps ex the action of a cock or water-tap ; perhaps a euphemism for God-sure (W.),—cf. cock for God in oaths.

cock-tail. A harlot : low coll. ; C. 19–20, ob.—2. A person of energy and promptness but not a 'thoroughbred' : from ca. 1855 ; coll. Ex racing j.—Hence, 3, a coward : coll. ; from ca. 1860.—4. A whisked drink of spirits, occ. wine, with bitters, crushed ice, etc. : orig. (1809), U.S. ; anglicised ca. 1870 ; popularised in England during the G.W., when it > S.E. In senses 3 and 4, the usual spelling is cocktail, which, in C. 20, is the only spelling of sense 4.

cock-tail, -tailed, adj. Unsoldierly ; guilty of 'bad form' : military, ca. 1880–1914. Either ex the n., 2nd and 3rd senses, or ex turn cocktail, i.e. to cock the tail, turn, and run.

cock-teaser. See cock-chaffer. Often, as Manchon (1923) mentions, euphemistically abbr. to C.-T.

cock the eye. To wink ; leer ; look incredulous or knowing : from ca. 1750 : coll. until ca. 1800, then S.E. Smollett, in Peregrine Pickle, 1751, 'He . . . made wry faces, and, to use the vulgar phrase, cocked his eye at him.' (Cock an eye is merely, to glance.) Cf. cock the nose, (S.E. for) to turn it up in contempt.

cock-up. (Of a schoolmaster or monitor) to beat ; whence vbl.n. cocking-up : Charterhouse : C. 20.

cock-up. (Printers') a superior, i.e. a superior letter, as the o in N°; from ca. 1860.

cock (up) one's toes. To die: c. and low; from early C. 19. 'Fancy' Reynolds.

cock won't fight, that. That won't do! That's a feeble story! Tell that to the marines! From the 1820's †: coll. Scott, St. Roman's Well, 1824 (E.D.D.). Ex the cock-pit.

cockalorum, occ. cockylorum. A very confident little man: coll.: 1715. Often as slightly contemptuous vocative. As adj., self-confident or -important: 1884 +. Ex cock, a leader (see cock, n., 2, 3), pseudo-L. orum; cf. cock-a-doodle-doo (W.). cockalorum (jig), hey or high. A coll. exclamation: from ca. 1800; ob. Prob. ex an old song-refrain.—As a schoolboys' game (leap-frog), S.E.

cockatoo. A small farmer: orig. in the wool districts and by the big squatters: from ca. 1863. (In C. 20, always cocky.) Australian: coll. Henry Kingsley in Hillyars and Burtons, 'The small farmers contemptuously called cockatoos'. Perhaps ex the crowding of cockatoos on new-sown corn.—2. Also as adj.—3. In C. 20 Australian c., a scout that gives warning of a policeman's approach.

cockatoo, v. To be a (small) farmer: coll. (—1890). Boldrewood. Morris. Ex n., 1.

cockatoo fence. A fence made by a small farmer: Australian coll. (—1884). Boldrewood in Melbourne Memories. Morris.

cockatoocer. A 'cockatoo' (sense 1): Tasmanian: ca. 1850–80. Morris.

cockatrice. A harlot; a kept woman: late C. 16–18. Coll. Ben Jonson in Cynthia's Revels; Marston in his most famous work, The Malcontent: 'No courtier but has his mistress, no captain but has his cockatrice'; Taylor, 1630; Killigrew.—2. A baby: coll.: C. 18–19. Resp. ex the fascination of the fabulous monster's eye, and the egg from which it was fabulously hatched.

cockchafer. See cock-chafer, 3.

cocked hat, knock into a. To damage very considerably (things, persons, and fig.): coll.; from ca. 1850. Orig. (1833; Thornton), U.S. An officer's cocked hat could be doubled up and carried flat.

cocked-hat club. 'The principal clique amongst the members of the Society of Antiquaries.' At their meetings, a cocked hat lies before the president: ca. 1860–90. H., 3rd ed.

cocker. A foreman: tailors': from ca. 1860.—2. A coll. Cockney term of address, dating from ca. 1870; ob. Clarence Rook, The Hooligan Nights, 1899. An extension (influenced by cocky, 3) of S.E. cocker, a supporter of cock-fighting.

Cocker, according to. See at according to Cocker.

cockern. See cock and hen, n., 3. cookie. See cocky, 1, 3.

cookies' joy. Treacle: Australian: late C. 19–20. See cocky, 5. cockily. In a cocky manner: coll.; from ca. 1860.

cockiness. Conceit; undue self-assertion: coll.: from early 1860's.

cocking. Pert; impudent: ca. 1670–1830; coll. The Spectator, 1711, 'The cocking young fellow'.

cocking a chest like a half-pay admiral. Putting on 'side': naval: late C. 19–20. Bowen.

cocking-up. See cock-up.

cockish. 'Wanton, uppish, forward', B.E.: C. 16–20: coll. > S.E. ca. 1800. As = lecherous it is applied gen. to women and, except in dial., it > ob. ca. 1860.

cockles. (Always in pl.) Labia minora: C. 18–20; low coll. Play at hot cockles—see Northall's English Folk-Rhymes—is, in addition to its S.E. sense, feminam digitis subagitare: C. 18–20, low coll., ob.

cockles, cry. To be hanged: late C. 18–mid-19: low. Grose, 2nd ed. Ex the gurgling of strangulation.

cockles of the heart, rejoice, warm, tickle the. To please mightily, cheer up: coll.; from ca. 1669. Eachard, in his Observations, 1671, 'This contrivance of his did inwardly rejoice the cockles of his heart.' The S.O.D. mentions the proposed derivation ex the similarity of a heart to a cockle-shell and that ex cardium, the zoological name for a cockle; F. & H. refers to Lower's once famous Tractatus de Corde (A Treatise of the Heart), 1669, where the term cochlea is used. The first is the likeliest.

cockloche. (Apparently =) a foolish coxcomb: C. 17. ? ex Fr. coqueluche.

cockney or Cockney, n. and adj. (One) born in the city of London: 1600 +. Coll. till ca. 1830 and nearly always pejorative. Orig. and until ca. 1870, 'born within the sound of Bow-bell', B.E. Ex cockney = a milksop, earlier a cockered, i.e. pampered, child, a sense that developed from (?) cock's eggs, small eggs. The full history of this fascinating word has not yet been written, but see esp. O.E.D., Sir James Murray in The Academy of May 10, 1890; also W. and Grose, P. For an account of Cockney 'dialect', see Slang, pp. 149–59. See also 'Cockney speech' in Addenda.

Cockney-shire. London: C. 19–20, ob.; coll.

Cockkoolu. See mounseer.

cockpit mess. Eating one's meals in the cockpit with a marine sentry at hand—a punishment in the old training ship Britannia: naval: late C. 19–early 20. Bowen.

cockroach. A very small pearl-fishing boat: pearl-fishers' (—1935). Because cockroach-infested.

cockroaches, get. See box the Jesuit.

cocks. (In trade, applied to) anything fictitious: ca. 1860–1910. Ex cock, n., 6.—2. Hence, esp., con-coctions: pharmacutists' (—1909). Ware.—3. At Charterhouse (school), a gen. lavatory: from ca. 1860; ob. Ex the taps over the wash-bowls. See esp. A. H. Tod, Charterhouse, 1900.

cock's egg, give one a. To send on a fool's errand, esp. on April the First. Coll.: rare before C. 19, and ob. in C. 20. Cf. pigeon's milk, strap oil, and see All Fools' Day in Words!

cock's tooth and head-ache, I live at the sign of the. A late C. 18–early 19 c.p. answer to an impertinent inquiry where one lives. Grose, 3rd ed.

Cockshire. See cock-alley.

cocksy, coxy. Pert; impudent; bumptious: 1825: (mostly schoolboys') coll.; in C. 20 S.E. Ex cocky after tricksy. For second spelling, cf. coxcomb ex cock's-comb.

cocktail. See cock-tail.

cocky. An endearment: coll.: from ca. 1680; ob., except among Canadians and Cockneys. Ex (old) cock.—2. Adj., very pert; saucily impudent; over-confident: 1768: coll. (cf. cocking). Hughes in Tom Brown's School-Days, 'It seems so cocky in me to be advising you.'—3. A low coll. form of address, ex cock, and presumably a chance-revival of cocky as an endearment: from ca. 1850.—4.

Brisk, active, as applied to the money market: Stock Exchange, ca. 1860–1910.—5. Abbr. cockatoo, q.v., a small farmer in Australia: from ca. 1880 (Sala speaks of it in 1887) and very gen., often non-pejorative, in C. 20.

cockylorum. See cockalorum.

cockyolly bird. Dear little bird: nursery and pet term (coll.): from ca. 1830.

cocky's joy. See cockies' joy.

coco-nut (here, as in S.E., erroneously cocoa-nut); sol., coker-nut. The head: mainly boxing: from ca. 1830. Ainsworth. Cf. boco, q.v., and U.S. coco(a).

cocoa for coco dates from an error in Johnson's Dict.; moreover, as used for the earlier cacao, cocoa was orig. (C. 18) erroneous. W.—2. A schoolboys' perversion of toko, q.v.: late C. 19—early 20. Ware.

cocoa. To say; say so: c. rhyming s.: C. 20. James Curtis, The Gilt Kid, 1936, 'I should cocoa.'

coco(a)-nut, have no milk in the. To lack brains; to be silly, even mad. From ca. 1850. See coco-nut.

coco(a)-nut, that accounts for the milk in the. A c.p. rejoinder on first hearing a thing explained: ca. 1860–1910. Ex 'a clever but not very moral story', H., 5th ed. See coco-nut.

cocum(-am), cokum, kocum. Ability, shrewdness, cleverness; that which is seemly, right, correct; luck, advantage: rather low (— 1851). Mayhew in London Labour; The Flippity Flop Young Man, a ballad, ca. 1886.—2. A sliding scale of profit: publishers', ca. 1870–1914. Ex Yiddish c. kochem, wisdom. Cf.:

cocum, fight or play. To be cunning, wary, artful, esp. if illicitly: from late 1830's. Brandon, 1839; H., 1st ed. Likewise, have cocum, to have luck or an advantage; be sure to succeed. Perhaps cognate with Ger. gucken, to peep or pry into; but see preceding entry.

cod. The scrotum: from M.E.; S.E., but in C. 19–20 a vulg. Ex O.E., M.E., S.E. and dial. sense, a pod.—2. In pl., a sol. for testicles: also from M.E.—3. In c., a purse; whence cod of money = a large sum: late C. 17—early 19. B.E.—4. A fool: from ca. 1690; ob. Perhaps ex cod's head, also a fool: B.E. has both.—5. A friend, a 'pal': from — 1690, B.E. giving 'an honest Cod, a trusty Friend'. Abbr. codlin(g), says F. & H. with reason.—6. (Often as codd) a pensioner of the Charterhouse: Charterhouse, ca. 1820–1905. Thackeray in The Newcomes. Perhaps ex codger.—7. A drunkard; a drinking bout: tailors' (— 1909). Warc. Cf. n., 4, and cod, v., 2.

cod, v. To chaff; hoax; humbug; play the fool: v.t. and i.: from ca. 1870. H., 5th ed. Ex cod., n., 4.—2. To go on a drinking or a womanising spree: tailors'; from ca. 1870; ob.—3. In C. 18 c., to cheat.

cod, on the. Drinking heavily: tailors': late C. 19–20. Cf. cod, n., 7.

cod-banger. A gorgeously arrayed sailor: Billingsgate (— 1909). Ware. Cod arc banged on the head when wanted for market.

cod-hauler. A ship, or a man, from Newfoundland: nautical: mid-C. 19–20. Bowen. Ex the fisheries there.

cod-heids. Boots (or shoes) burst at the toes: Glasgow proletarian (— 1934).

cod-piece or collar? do they bite in the (with slight variations). 'A jocular attack on a patient angler by watermen, &c.', Grose, 1st ed.: a mid-C. 18—early 19 c.p. Cod(-)picce: fore-flap of a man's breeches, C. 16–18.

Cod Preserves, the. The Atlantic Ocean: nautical: from ca. 1840; ob.

cod-whanger. A man engaged in fish-curing in Newfoundland: nautical: late C. 19–20. Bowen. Cf. cod-hauler.

coddam, coddem, coddom. A public-house and extremely elementary guessing-game played with a coin or a button: from ca. 1880; coll. I.e. cod'em.

codder. One very fond of hoaxing or chaffing: from ca. 1860. Ex cod, v., 1.

codding, vbl.n. Chaff, humbug; fooling; nonsense: from ca. 1860.

coddle. One who is coddled or who coddles himself: coll.; (— 1830, when used by) Miss Mitford in Our Village. O.E.D.

coddom. See coddam.

coddy. 'A temporary foreman over a stevedore's employees': nautical: late C. 19–20. Bowen. He 'cods' 'em along.

coddy-moddy. A young gull: nautical: mid-C. 19–20. Bowen.

codge. A repair; to repair: tailors' (— 1935). Much earlier in dial.; perhaps a perversion of botch.

codger; occ. coger. (Whimsically pejorative of) an old man: low coll.: 1756. Gen. with old, as in Colman's Polly Honeycomb, 'A clear coast, I find. The old codger's gone, and has locked me up with his daughter'; Smollett; Barham.—2. During the approximate period 1830–1900, it occ. = a fellow, a chap. Dickens. ? ex cadger.

codling. A raw youth: ca. 1600–1750; coll. In late C. 18—early 19 (cf. C. 19–20 ob. pippin), a familiar term of address; an endearment.

codcity. Gullibility: printers': 1874; ob. Ware. Ex cod, n., 4, and v., 1.

Codrington's Manors; Mostyn's Hunting District; Somerset Range. 'The three packs of hounds contiguous to Oxford': Oxford University: ca. 1820–40. Egan's Grose.

cods. See cod, n., 2.—2. (Cf. ballocks, q.v.) A curate: mid-C. 18—early 19 low. Grose, 1st ed. Often as cods the curate.—3. The Bookseller, Nov. 4, 1871: 'The Cods and Hooks were the Whigs and Tories of Dutch William's land.'—4. With variant cod's; a mid-C. 16—early 18 perversion or corruption of God's.

cod's eyes and bath-water. Tapioca pudding: Charterhouse: C. 20.

cod's-head. A fool: ca. 1560–1850. (Dunton in his ironically titled Ladies' Dict., 1694.) In mid-C. 19–20 (ob.), as cod's-head and shoulders. Both forms are coll. Perhaps the source of cod = a fool.

cod's head and mackerel tail, (with). A sailing ship with the greatest beam well forward: nautical: mid-C. 19–20; ob. Bowen.

cod's opera. A smoking concert: tailors': C. 20.

coe. See co, 1.

coëbacy. Incorrect for celibacy: C. 17. O.E.D. Cf. cælo- for cælo-.

cofe. An early variant of cove, q.v. (E.g. in B.E.) Likewise coff: C. 16.

coffee-and-b. Coffee and brandy: night-taverns': 1880; ob. Ware.

coffee-colour. (Applied to persons) of mixed parentage: Anglo-Indian coll. (— 1886). Yule & Burnell. Cf. annas of dark blood, q.v.

coffee-house. The puendum muliebre: low: late C. 18–19. Ex the popularity of coffee-houses in late C. 17–18.—2. A water-closet (variant coffee-shop): late C. 18–20, ob. Grose, 3rd ed.

coffee-house, -houser, -housing. To gossip during a fox-hunt, esp. while the huntsmen wait for hounds to draw a covert; one who does this; the act of doing this: sporting: from ca. 1875. Hawley Smart, in Play or Pay, ch. iv, 1878, speaking of horses: '... A hack, just good enough to do a bit of coffee-housing occasionally'. F. & H.; O.E.D. (Sup.).

coffee-mill. The mouth: ca. 1800–70. Moncrieff, 'Come, come, silence your coffee-mill.'—2. A marine engine: nautical: late C. 19–20. Bowen.

coffee-milling, vbl.n. 'Grinding', working hard. Dickens, 1837. Aytoun & Martin's 'coffee-milling care and sorrow' illustrates c.-m. as a v., to thumb one's nose at. Both ca. 1830–1900.

coffee-pot. One of the former small tank-engines of the Midland Railway: railwaymen's: late C. 19–20; ob.

coffee royal. 'The first mug of coffee in the morning under sail': nautical: late C. 19–20. Bowen.

Coffee Ship, the. H.M.S. Raleigh: naval: early C. 19. Captain Tryon, who perished in the Victoria, established a canteen on board. (Bowen.)

coffee-shop. See coffee-house, 2.

coffee-whack. See whack, n., last sense.

coffin, the. A large box wherein, under a tarpaulin, an outcast may sleep: gen. price, fourpence. Post-War c. Orwell.

coffin-brig. An overweighted 10-gun brig: naval: early C. 19.—2. Hence, any unseaworthy vessel: mid-C. 19—early 20. Likewise, Bowen.

coffin-nail. A cigarette: from ca. 1885; in G.W. and after, occ. nail. Often in form of e.p., another nail in one's coffin. Cf. gasper.

coffins. The Funeral Furnishing Company's shares: ca. 1880–1915: Stock Exchange.

cog. Money; esp. a piece of money: C. 16—mid-18 c., mostly gamblers'.

cog, v. To cheat, wheedle; beg: C. 16—mid-19. Orig. either dieing s. or gen. coll.: cf. B.E.'s cog a dinner, 'to wheedle a Spark out of a dinner'. The S.O.D., like the O.E.D., considers wholly S.E. Perhaps ex cog, a wheel.—2. Hence, v.i., to cheat by copying from another: Scottish Public-Schools': mid-C. 19—early 20.—3. V.i., to agree well with another, as cog with cog: C. 19; coll. (Running like cogs).—4. 'In school slang, to chastise by sundry bumpings or "coggings" on the posteriors for delinquencies at certain games,' E.D.D., 1898.

cog over. To crib from another's book: school-boys', C. 19. Cf. cog, v., 2.

coger. See codger—cogey. See cogney.

cogage; cogidge. Paper; writing paper; a newspaper: Regular Army coll.: mid-C. 19–20. F. & Gibbons. Ex Hindustani kaghaz.

cogging, the cogging of dice, may orig. (— 1532) have been e. or low s. G. Harvey in Four Letters.

cogman. A beggar pretending to be a shipwrecked sailor: e.: C. 19. Bowen.

cognomen. A name: sol.; from ca. 1850. A corruption of S.E. senecs.

cogue (occ. cog) the nose. To take, hot, a good strong drink: nautical; C. 19–20; ob. Ex cogue, to drink brandy, drink drams.

cogney. Drunk: ca. 1820–60. 'Jon Bee', 1823. Ex cogue, a dram. It is recorded in Staffordshire dial., as cogy, in 1816: E.D.D.

coif. Incorrect when used for quach, a cup. O.E.D.

coigne. Money: printers' (— 1909). Ware, A play upon coin and coigne or coin, or quoin, a wedge'.

coil up one's cables or ropes. To die: nautical: mid-C. 19–20. Bowen; F. & Gibbons. Ex slip one's cable.

coin, post the. (Cf. post the coal.) To deposit money for a match: for a bet: sporting, ca. 1840–1900.

coin money. To make money both easily and quickly: from ca. 1860: coll. Cf.:

coiny. Rich: coll.: from ca. 1890. Cf. preceding and tinny. (O.E.D. Sup.)

coke. Cocaine: c. and low; orig. U.S. (ca. 1910), anglicised ca. 1920. Esp. in Edgar Wallace's novels. Hence, cokey, a cocaine-addict: anglicised, as c., ca. 1920. E.g. in John G. Brandon, The One Minute Murder, 1934.

coke, v. Catachrestic when applied to wood: C. 19–20. O.E.D.

coke, go and eat. Oh, run away! Pejorative coll.: ca. 1870–1920. F. & H. cites as a variant, *go and sh*t cinders*.

Coke upon Littleton. A mixed drink of brandy and text (a red Spanish wine): ca. 1740–1800. Ex the famous legal text-book. (O.E.D.)

coker. A lie: ca. 1670–1830; c. > low s. Coles, 1676; B.E.; Grose (= caulker, q.v.). Cf. caulker, corker: undetermined cognates.—2. C. 19–20 sol. for coco, esp. in coker-nut.

coker-nut. See coco-nut.—2. In pl., 'Well-developed feminine breasts': low London (— 1909). Ware.

cokes. A fool, a simpleton: ca. 1560–1700. B.E. indicates that the term was first used at Bartholomew Fair and in plays; it is almost certainly (despite O.E.D.) either s. or coll., orig. at least. Perhaps ex cockney.

cokey. See coke, n.

cokum. An occ. variant of cocum, q.v.

col. A Parlyaree form of cole, or coal, money. see cole.

colcher; occ. colsher. A heavy fall; esp. come a colcher: dial. (— 1888) >, by 1893, coll. O.E.D. Ex dial. colch, colsh, a fall.

(Colchester) weaver's beef (of). Sprats: coll., mainly Essex: mid-C. 17—mid-19. Fuller, 1662; J. G. Nall, 1866. (Apperson.)

Colchester clock. A large, coarse oyster: from ca. 1850; ob. A Londonism.

colco pari? How much, what price?: among British soldiers on the Salonika Front: 1915–18. Direct ex Bulgarian. (F. & Gibbons.)

cold. Ignorant: from ca. 1920. Will Scott, in The Humorist, Feb. 10, 1934: 'You don't want to start cold.' Ex the disadvantage implied in cold, have a person, q.v.

cold, have a bad. To be in debt. A very bad cold indicates a rent-unpaid departure: ca. 1850–1920. Mostly a Londonism.—2. Gen., however, is the sense, to have gonorrhœa: C. 19–20.

cold, have or have got (a person). To have him at one's mercy or badly beaten: C. 20. Prob. ex U.S.

cold, leave. To fail to impress or convince or please: coll.: C. 20. 'My dear fellow, that leaves me cold.' Cf. the Fr. cela me laisse froid (F. & Gibbons).

cold, leave out in the. To neglect (a person); to ignore him: from ca. 1860: coll. >, by 1890, S.E.

cold, the matter will keep. The matter may rest without harm or loss: coll.; ca. 1660–1800. B.E. cold at that, you will catch. A c.p. or proverbial form of advice or warning to desist: coll.: mid-C. 18–early 19. Grose, 2nd ed.

cold blood. A house with an off-licence only: from ca. 1858 (ob.): licensed victuallers' and public-houses'. H., 2nd ed.

cold-blooded. (Of a person) having a slow circulation: coll. (— 1893). O.E.D.

cold blow. See blow, n., 8. Specifically, the Cold Blow is Euston: taxi-drivers': C. 20. (The Evening News, Jan. 20, 1936.)

cold burning. A private punishment by the pouring of water down a man's upraised arm so that it comes out at his breeches-knees: mid-C. 18–early 19; military (rank and file). Grose, 1st ed.

cold by lying in bed barefoot, he (or she) caught. A mid-C. 18–early 19 c.p. applied to a person fussy about his health. Grose, 2nd ed.

cold-canvass. 'Breaking in with just your visiting-card. Best thing to do is to use your intros. first, and leave the cold-canvass until you've found your feet,' Michael Harrison in Spring in Tartarus, 1935: insurance s. verging on coll.: C. 20.

cold coffee. A hoax: Oxford University, ca. 1860–1910. H., 3rd ed. Because cold coffee is, except in very hot weather, a poor drink.—2. Bad luck; misfortune: from ca. 1860; ob. H., 3rd ed. Variant, cold gruel.—3. A snub or other unkindness in return for a proffered kindness: nautical, then gen.: from ca. 1870; ob. H., 5th ed.—4. Beer: artisans': ca. 1874–1920. Ware.

cold comfort. Articles that, sent out on sale or return, or on approval, are returned: tradesmen's: from ca. 1870.

cold cook. An undertaker: from the 1720's. Grose, 1785; H., 1860. Whence:

cold cook's shop or cookshop. An undertaker's premises: from ca. 1830.

cold cream. Gin: from ca. 1860. The Comic Almanack, 1864. Cf. cream of the valley.

Cold Creams, the. The Coldstream Guards: military (— 1909). Ware.

cold enough . . . See brass monkey.

cold feet, get or have (got). To become, to be, discouraged, afraid: coll.: 1904 (O.E.D. Sup.). The U.S. cold-footer has not 'caught on' in England.

cold four. Inferior beer (four ale): public-houses' (— 1909). Ware.

cold iron. A sword: coll., ca. 1690–1800. B.E., who adds: 'Derisory Periphrasis'.

cold meat. A corpse: from ca. 1780. Grose, 2nd ed.; Moore, in 1819, 'Cold meat for the Crown'.

cold-meat box. A coffin: from ca. 1820. 'The Pitcher' in The Sporting Times, Aug. 3, 1889.

cold-meat cart. A hearse: ? earlier than 'Peter Corcoran' Reynolds in The Fancy, 1820. Cf.:

cold meat of one, make. To kill: prob. from ca. 1820 (cf. preceding entry). Dickens, in Pickwick, causes a game-keeper to say to a bad shot, 'I'm damned if you won't make cold meat of some of us!' Cf. cook one's goose.

cold-meat ticket. An identity disc: military: G.W. (B. & P.; F. & Gibbons.) Because it served to identify the corpse.

cold-meat train. Any train plying to a cemetery: from ca. 1860.—2. Also, however, the last train by which officers can return to Aldershot in time for their morning duties: from ca. 1870. H., 5th ed.; R. M. Jephson in The Girl He Left Behind Him, 1876. Properly a goods train, it pulled one ad hoc carriage, called the larky subaltern.

cold north-wester. A bucket of sea-water poured over a new hand, by way of initiation: sailing ships'; mid-C. 19–20; ob. Bowen.

cold pickles. A corpse: medical students'; from ca. 1840.

cold pie (pye). See choking pie.

cold pig. The 'empties', i.e. empty packing-cases, returned by rail to wholesale houses: commercial travellers', from ca. 1870; ob.—2. In c., a corpse (cf. cold meat); a person robbed of his clothes: from ca. 1850.

cold pig, v. From ca. 1830: coll. Same meaning as:

cold pig, give. To awaken by sluicing with cold water or by pulling off the bed-clothes: s. passing to coll. Grose, 2nd ed.; J. R. Planché; Thackeray. From ca. 1750 in this form (now ob.); but from ca. 1600–1750, the form is give a cold pie: see choking pie.

cold shivers, the. A fit of trembling: coll.; from ca. 1840.

cold shoulder of mutton. A mid-Victorian s. variant of the S.E. cold shoulder in its fig. sense.

cold storage. Cells; prison: low and military: C. 20. B. & P.

cold tea. Brandy: a coll. of ca. 1690–1820. B.E. (Esp. among women.) Also see tea.

cold tongue. A senior's lecture or long reprimand: naval: ca. 1840–1900. Bowen.

cold-water army. The generality of teetotallers: coll.: from ca. 1870; ob. Cf. water-waggon.

cold without. Spirits mixed with cold water without sugar: coll.; from ca. 1820. Barham; Bulwer Lytton, 1853, 'I laugh at fame. Fame, sir! not worth a glass of cold without.'

Coldstreamers. The Coldstream Guards: from ca. 1670: coll. verging on S.E. (O.E.D. Sup.) Cf. Nulli Secundus Club, q.v.

cole, much more frequent than coal, though the latter (money = coal = the fuel of life) is prob. correct, is money collectively; there is no pl. From ca. 1670; it was c. until ca. 1730; in C. 20 rarely used except among Cockneys and soldiers, and at no time has it been applied to "futures" such as bills, promissory notes, bonds. Head, 1673; Grose. (For alternative etymologies, see coliander and cf. cabbage, n., 1, for cole = cabbage; possibly ex foreigners' pronunciation of gold as göl.)

cole, tip the. Hand over money: c. then low: ca. 1660–1830. A C. 18–20 variant is post the cole (coal) or the coin.

[cole-prophet, though in Awdeley, is S.E.: see esp. Apperson.]

cole (gen. coal) up! They're paying out!; there's a pay-parade!: military: late C. 19–20. B. & P. Ex cole.

colfabi(a)s. A water-closet at Trinity College, Dublin: from ca. 1820. Latinised Irish.

coliander or coriander (-seed or seeds). Money: c.: from ca. 1690. B.E. Possibly the orig. form of cole, q.v.

Colinderies. The Colonial and Indian Exhibition held in London in 1886. A fairly gen. term. Current only in late 1886, 1887, and for a year or two later. Prob. suggested by the telegraphic address, Colind. Ware.

*coll. A C. 18 variant of cull: c. Harper, 1724, 'I Frisky Moll, with my rum coll.'—2. College ale: 1726, Amherst; † by 1800. O.E.D.—3. College: schoolboys': late C. 19–20. Collinson. Also as adj., e.g. in coll-chap.

collah carriage. A railway carriage filled with women: nigger minstrels': ca. 1880–1900. Ware, 'Collah being Yiddish for young girls'.

collapse. To 'cave in'; suddenly lose courage: coll.: from ca. 1860.

*collar, n. See collar and cuff. Philip Allingham, Cheapjack, 1934.

collar, v. To appropriate; steal: 1700. Leman Rede in Sixteen-String Jack; Dickens in Bleak House.—2. To seize: from early C. 17: coll. till ca. 1680, then S.E. though somewhat loose and undignified.

collar, against the. (Working) against difficulties—or the grain: from ca. 1850: coll. till ca. 1890, then S.E. collar, in; out of. In: out of: employment. Coll.; from ca. 1850. Ex the stable.

collar, put to the pin of the. Driven to extremities; at the end of one's resources. A coll. phrase ex hard-pulling horses: ca. 1850–1910.

*collar and cuff. An effeminate: c., and—esp. among grafters—low: from ca. 1920. Philip Allingham, Cheapjack, 1934. Rhyming s. on puff, n., 2. Often abbr. to collar.

collar and elbow, n. The Cornwall and Devon style of wrestling: coll.: from ca. 1820.

collar-day. Execution day: late C. 18—early 19; low. Grose, 2nd ed. Ex the hangman's noose.

collar (or get) the big bird. To be hissed: theatrical: from ca. 1840; ob.

collar-work. Severe, laborious work: coll. from ca. 1870; in C. 20, S.E. Ex an uphill pull—all collar work—for horses.

collared. Unable to play one's normal game; 'funky': C. 19–20, mostly gaming.

collared up. Kept hard at work, close to business: coll.; from ca. 1850; ob.

collarology. The discussion, by tailors, of coat-collars: tailors' jocular coll.: 1928, The Tailor and Cutter, Nov. 29. Cf. shouldology, sleeveology.

colleckers, colleckers. Terminal examinations with interviews: Oxford, from ca. 1895. Ex collections.

colle'ct. 'A gathering (in line) for an official purpose': Bootham School: late C. 19–20. Anon., Dict. of Bootham Slang, 1925.

collect, v. To retrieve (objects) from a place: coll.: 1875. O.E.D. (Sup.).—2. Hence, to call for a person and then proceed with him: C. 20 coll. 'I'll collect you at Selfridge's and we'll tea at the Corner House.'—3. V.i. and v.t., to receive (something as) one's deserts: Australian (— 1916). C. J. Dennis.—4. To receive one's salary or wages: coll.: from ca. 1920.

collector. A highwayman; occ., a footpad: late C. 18—early 19. Grose, 1st ed.

*college. A prison: this gen. sense arose ca. 1720, the orig. sense (C. 17) being Newgate, as indeed it remained until ca. 1800, when, too, from c. the term > low s. 'Welcome to the college, gen'l'mem,' says Sam Weller in Dickens.—2. (Often preceded by New) the Royal Exchange: late C. 17–18: c. B.E.—3. (Gen. the college.) The workhouse: poor people's: late C. 19–20. Ware.

*College, King's. See King's College.

college, ladies'. A brothel: C. 18—early 19; low.

*college chum, collegian, collegiate. The first, C. 19 and not very gen.; the second, C. 19–20, as in Dickens; the third, the commonest, from ca. 1660: the first and the third were c. before they > low s.: A prisoner (orig. of Newgate, the City College).—2. (Only collegiate.) A shopkeeper to a prison: c.: late C. 17—early 19. B.E.; Grose.

*college-cove. A turnkey: c. (— 1823); † by 1890. Egan's Grose. See college, 1. colleger. The square cap worn at universities: the mortar-board. University and Public School: from ca. 1880. Cf. the S.E. senses.

collegers. See colleckers.—collegian, collegiate*. See college chum.—collek(k)ers. See colleckers.

colli-mollie. See colly-molly.

collie shangle. A quarrel: Society: 1884. Popularised by Queen Victoria ex Scotch.

colligence. Incorrect for † colligance: C. 17. O.E.D.

Collins. A letter of thanks sent by departed guest to hostess: 1904: coll. >, by 1930, S.E. Ex the Collins of Jane Austen's Pride and Prejudice. O.E.D. (Sup.) Cf. bread-and-butter.

collogue. To confabulate: from ca. 1810 (Vaux, 1812; Scott, 1811): coll., perhaps whimsical. The earliest sense, to wheedle or flatter, v.i. and v.t., may possibly be coll.—it is hard to be dogmatic with C. 16–17 words—as Nashe's and Rochester's usage and B.E.'s recording seem to indicate. ? ex Gr. λόγος, a word, influenced by colloque (or colloquy) and colleague.

colloquials. Familiar conversation: Society: ca. 1890–1910. Ware.

colly-molly; colli-mollie. Melancholy, of which it is a C. 17 jocular perversion. Nares. Cf. sole(m/on)choly.

colly-wobbles. A stomach-ache: coll.; from ca. 1820. Egan's Grose, 1823; 'Cuthbert Bede'. Ex colic. Cf. the Australian wobbles, a cattle-disease from eating palm-leaves.

Colney Hatch. A match: rhyming s.: late C. 19–20. B. & P.

Colonel, the. Abbr. Colonel Bogey (golf): coll.: C. 20.

Colonel Grogg. Walter Scott: 'so called by his youthful associates' (Dawson). Ex his martial tastes.

Colonel Peerless's Light Infantry. N.Z. soldiers working at the base at Etapes: New Zealand military: latter half of G.W. Ex Colonel Peerless, the medical officer in charge.

Colonial goose. 'A boned leg of mutton stuffed with sage and onions': Australian (— 1898); ob. Morris. Ex predominance of mutton as bushman's diet.

Colonial oath !, my. An Australian variant (late C. 19–20) of my oath !, q.v. at oath !, my. Cf. Henry Lawson's story, 'His Colonial Oath', in While the Billy Boils, 2nd series.

Colonies, the. Australia and New Zealand: Merchant Service coll.: C. 19–20; slightly ob. Bowen.

colory. See coloury.

colosh. Golosh: a. 19–20 sol. or incorrectness.

colour. A coloured handkerchief: sporting, chiefly boxing: from ca. 1840; ob. Adumbrated in Pierce Egan; Mayhew.

colour-chest. A locker for signal-flags: naval coll.: C. 19. Bowen.

colour, off. Exhausted; debilitated; indisposed: from ca. 1860; coll.

colour of a person's money, see the. To see his money; esp., to be paid. Coll.; from ca. 1710. Dickens. (O.E.D.)

colour one's or the meerscham. To > red-faced through drink: from ca. 1850; ob.

colour with, take. Ostensibly to ally oneself with: from ca. 1700; coll. > S.E. > †.

coloured on the card. With a jockey's colours inserted on a specific-race card: racing; from ca. 1870; †.

coloury; occ. colory. Coloured; two-coloured: coll.; from ca. 1850. C. Brontë. (O.E.D.)—2. Hence of such colour as shows good quality: commercial coll.: from ca. 1880. Ibid.

colquarron. The neck: late C. 17—early 19 c. B.E. Prob. Fr. col, neck + c. quarron, body.

colsher. See colcher.

colt. A barrister attending on a serjeant-at-law at his induction (1765): legal, †. (S.O.D.)—2. A life-preserver, a 'neddy' (q.v.): a weapon affected by thieves and law-keepers: c. and low; from ca. 1850.—3. In c., a man (esp. an inn-keeper) that hires horses to highwaymen, thieves or burglars (B.E.); also, 4, a lad newly initiated into roguery: late C. 17—early 19.—5. One acting as a jurymen for the first time: ca. 1860–90. H., 3rd ed.—6. A professional cricketer in his first season: coll.; from ca. 1870. Ex coll in bowls.

colt, v. To make a newcomer pay his 'footing': late C. 18–20; coll. Ex colt, a very old term for an inexperienced or a newly-arrived person. Whence the † collage: such a fine.

colt veal. Very red veal: coll.: late C. 17—early 19. B.E.; Grose. Because 'young', fresh.

colting. A thrashing: C. 19 coll. Ex coll, to beat with a colt, which is S.E. colt's tooth, have a. To be fond of youthful pleasures; to be wanton: late C. 14–19: coll. till ca. 1790, then S.E.; †. Chaucer; Greene, 1588; Fletcher (the dramatist); Walpole; Colman. Ex the lit. sense, one of a horse's first set of teeth. (Apperson.)

Columbine. A harlot: theatrical; from ca. 1845; ob. Ex Harlequin's mistress.

Columbus. A failure: theatrical; from ca. 1870; †.

column, dodge the. See dodge the column.—column-dodger. Ibid.

column of blobs (or lumps). Column of route: jocular military: from ca. 1899. B. & P. columns. 'Rows of words, written vertically from a dictionary, as a punishment': Bootham School coll.: late C. 19–20. Anon., Dict. of Bootham Slang, 1925.

com. A commercial traveller: 1884, G. R. Sims in The Referee, Dec. 28 (Ware).—2. A comedian: theatrical (—1887). The Referee, July 27, that year. (Ware).—3. (com or comb, more gen. combies (q.v. at combie) or com(b)s.) A woman's combination (C. 20, in -s): C. 20. George Baker in Ebenezer Walks with God, 1931. Cf. combie, 2.—4. Commission in the agential or ambassadorial, not the pecuniary, sense: sporting: from ca. 1860; slightly ob. (Reginald Herbert, When Diamonds Were Trumps, 1908.) comb and brush. 'Lush', n. and v.: rhyming s. (—1909); ob. Ware.

comb-brush. A lady's maid: ca. 1749–1820; coll. (? > S.E.). Fielding.

comb cut, have one's. To be humiliated; hence, down on one's luck. Coll. soon > S.E.; from ca. 1570. Middleton. Cf. Scott's 'All the Counts in Cumberland shall not cut my comb.' But be comb-cut, to be mortified or disgraced, has always been coll. (—1860); ob. H., 2nd ed. Ex cock-fighting.

comb one's head. To scold: C. 18–19. A C. 19–20 variant, esp. as to rebuke, is comb one's hair.—2. With the addition of with a joint or three-legged stool, it means—as sometimes it does in the shorter form—to beat, thrash. Shakespeare, 1596, 'Her care should be, | To combe your noddle with a three-legg'd stoole.'

comb the cat. To run one's fingers through the cat-o'-nine tails in order to separate the tails: nautical and military; ca. 1800–95.

combie. (Pron. com-bē.) Abbr. combination-room, the fellows' common room: Cambridge University, from ca. 1860, ob.—2. A woman's combination(s): from ca. 1870: Women's, nursery, and shop. Cf. com, 3.

combine. A combination of persons, esp. in commerce: orig. (ca. 1887) U.S., anglicised ca. 1910: coll. till ca. 1930, when it > S.E.

combined chat. A bed-sitting room: theatrical (—1935). Prob. ex chat, n., 5.

comboman. 'The name given in Central Australia to a white man who associates with native women', The Times Lit. Sup., May, 1934, in a review of Conrad Sayce's novel, Comboman, 1934: coll.: from ca. 1925. I.e. a 'combination' man.

combs. See com, 3.

come. The low n., noted by Manchon (1923); corresponding to, and ex, sense 1 of:

come. (Occ. come off.) 'To experience the sexual spasm' (F. & H.): low coll.: C. 19–20. Considered coarse, but it was orig. a euphemism and, in C. 20, how, if the fact is to be expressed non-euphemistically, could one express it otherwise with such terse simplicity?—2. To perform; practise: coll., recorded in 1812 (Vaux) but prob. from ca. 1800.—3. To play a dodge, a trick (v.t. with over): 1785; coll. Greenwood, in Tag, Rag, and Co, 1883, 'We ain't two . . . as comes that dodge.'—4. To act the part of: O.E.D. records it at 1825: coll. or s.: cf. come the old soldier, q.v.—5. To attain to, achieve: from ca. 1885: dial. and coll.—6. To experience, suffer, as in come a cropper: this onco coll. usage is now S.E. where the 'complement' is S.E.—7. See come it.—8. Came: sol.: C. 19 (? earlier)—20. E.g. 'He come home yesterday.'—9. To become; esp. in come(s) of, happen(s) to: non-cultured Canadian (and U.S.) coll.: late C. 19–20. E.g. in the novels by John Beamcs.

come, to. C. of ca. 1810–50, as in Vaux, 1812: 'A thief observing any article in a shop, or other situation, which he believes may be easily purloined, will say to his accomplice, I think there is so and so to come.'

come about (one). To circumvent: C. 18; coll. Mentioned by Johnson.—2. To have sexual intercourse with: C. 19–20 (ob.); coll.: said of men by women.

come a colcher. See colcher.—come a cropper. See come, 6, and cropper.

come across. To be agreeable, compliant; v.t. with with, to agree to; give, yield; lend: from ca. 1919. Ex U.S.—2. See also across, come, 2.

come again ! Repeat, please ! C. 20 : ? ex U.S.

come-all-over-queer, n. A je ne sais quoi of discomfort: low coll.: late C. 19–20.

come and have a pickle! 'An invitation to a quick unceremonious meal', Warc: Society: 1878–ca. 1910.

come and have one!; come and wash your neck! Come and have a drink!: resp., gen. coll. (from ca. 1880) and nautical s. (from ca. 1860). Warc. Cf.:

come and see your pa! Come and have a drink! C.p.: ca. 1870–1910.

come-at-able. Approachable; accessible: 1687 (S.O.D.); coll. till ca. 1900, then S.E.

come back. To fall back, lose position: sporting; from ca. 1880; ob.

come-back, make (occ. stage) a. To succeed after (long) retirement: (orig. sporting) coll.: from ca. 1920.

come-by-chance. A person or thing arriving by chance; a bastard. Coll.: from ca. 1760.

come clean. To give no trouble to the police when one is arrested; to confess. C. 20 c.

come Cripple-gate. To attempt to hoodwink officers: nautical: C. 19–20; ob. Bowen. Ex the tricks of crippled beggars.

come-day, go-day with (a person), it's. He's extravagant: military: ca. 1890–1915. Ware.

come dish about. A C. 18 drinking c.p. Ned Ward, 1709. (W. Matthews.)

come-down. A social or a financial fall or humiliation or pis-aller: from ca. 1840; coll. till C. 20, when S.E.

come down, v. To give, subscribe, or lend money (or an equivalent): from ca. 1700, perhaps ex late C. 17 c. come it, to lend money. V.t. with with, from a few years later: coll. The v.i. in Steele's play, The Funeral; Thackeray's Pendennis. The v.t. in Gay's Beggar's Opera: 'Did he tip handsomely?—How much did he come down with?'—2. See down, be.

come down (up)on (a person) like a ton of bricks. To scold, blame, reprimand severely: coll.; from ca. 1850.

come grass. To 'turn copper', i.e. to become an informer, or to involve a confederate in trouble: c.: C. 20. David Hume. Ex grass, a policeman.

come home. (Of lost gear) to be restored to its proper place; (of an anchor) to drag: nautical: late C. 19–20. Bowen.

come in if you're fat! A C. 18 c.p. Swift, ca. 1708, 'Who's there? . . . come in, if you be fat' (Apperson). A thin person is prob. more expensive to entertain.

come in on one's chin-strap. See chin-strap.

come it. To cut a dash; to move (lit. and fig.) fast: coll. (— 1840); ob., except in Glasgow, where it = to 'talk big'. Cf. go it. Thackeray, 'I think the chaps down the road will stare . . . when they hear how I've been coming it.'—2. To inform the police, disclose a plan, divulge a secret: c. (— 1812). Vaux; H., 1st ed.—3. To tell lies: low: ca. 1820–80. Bee, 1823.—4. To show fear: pugilistic, ca. 1860–1910. H., 3rd ed.—5. To succeed, manage: ex U.S., anglicised ca. 1895; coll., ob.—6. To lend money: c.: late C. 17–19. B.E.—7. A late C. 19–20 variant (low; military) of come the old soldier. F. & Gibbons.—8. To 'try it on': Glasgow (— 1934).

come it as strong as a horse. (Of a criminal) to turn King's evidence: c. of ca. 1810–50. Vaux, who cites the synonymous be coming all one knows. Elaborations of come it, 2, q.v.

come it as strong as mustard. An intensive of come it, q.v., esp. in sense 3, or of come it strong, q.v.: low: ca. 1820–90. 'Jon Bee', 1823.

come it over or with. To get the better of: s., > coll. by 1900: from ca. 1840.

come it strong. To go to extremes; exaggerate; to lie: coll.; from ca. 1820. 'Jon Bee', 1823; Dickens in Pickwick; Barham; Thackeray. Cf. make it hot and see come it as strong as mustard.

come it with. See come it over.

come of. See come, v., 9.

come off, v.i. To pay: coll.: ca. 1580–1750. Variant of come down, q.v.—2. (Gen. of the man.) To experience the sexual orgasm: see come, v., 1.

come off it. See:

come off the grass! Not so much 'side'! Don't exaggerate, or tell lies! Ex U.S.; anglicised ca. 1890. In C. 20, often abbr. to come off it! or even come off!

come-on guy. He who gets hold of the 'mug' for a gang of 'con men' (confidence-tricksters): c.: from ca. 1920. James Curtis, The Gilt Kid, 1936.

come on, my lucky lads!; come on, you don't want to live for ever! These two c.p.p., which were sometimes spoken together, were the C.S.M.'s or R.S.M.'s cries to his men the moment before the jump-off for an attack: military: in G.W. See, e.g., the description of the great attack in Hugh Kimber's very arresting novel, Prelude to Calvary, 1933.

come on, Steve! A (mainly Cockney) c.p. adjuration that one should hurry: from ca. 1925. Ex the fame of Steve Donoghue as jockey.

come out. (Of girls) to make one's début in Society, gen. by being presented at Court: from ca. 1780; a coll. that, ca. 1840, > S.E.—2. Abbr. come out on strike: coll. at first; since G.W., S.E.: from ca. 1890.

come out strong. To express oneself vigorously or very frankly: coll.; from ca. 1850. Cf. S.E. come out with, to utter, and coll. come it strong.—2. To be generous: 'Public Schools': from ca. 1890. P. G. Wodehouse, The Pothunters, 1902, "I'm a plutocrat." "Uncle came out fairly strong then?" "Rather. To the tune of one sovereign, cash."

come over. (Cf. come it over, q.v.) To cheat; trick; impose on: C. 17–20: until ca. 1750, S.E., then coll. From ca. 1860, gen. get over; in C. 19–20, occ. come it over.—2. With faint, ill, queer, sick, etc., to become suddenly faint, etc.: coll.; from ca. 1850.—3. In C. 20 New Zealand c., to admit an offence: cf. come clean, q.v.

come over at. To excite passion in (a person of the other sex): U.S., partly anglicised by: 1928, A. E. W. Mason, The Prisoner in the Opal.

come over on a whelk-stall, (have). To be 'dressed to the nines': costers' (— 1909). Ware.

come round. To persuade; make a deep impression on; influence: coll.; from ca. 1830. Thackeray, in Vanity Fair, 'The governess had come round everybody . . . had the upper hand of the whole house.'

come souse. To fall heavily: boxing: from ca. 1815. Tom Moore, 1819.

come the acid. See acid.—come the bag. An occ. variant of come the old bag, q.v.

come the artful. To try to deceive: coll.: from ca. 1840.

come the bat. See bat, n., 6.

come the don. See come the nob.

come the double. To take more than one's due or share: C. 20: orig. military. F. & Gibbons

Esp. to try, unfairly, to obtain a second helping of food.

come the gypsy. To attempt to cheat or defraud: coll.; from ca. 1840. Cf. the two come the old . . . entries.

come the heavy. To affect a much superior social position: from ca. 1860.

come the lardy-dardy. To dress oneself showily: from ca. 1860. Mostly London.

come the nob (occ. the don). To put on airs: from ca. 1855; ob. Mostly lower classes'.

come the old bag or man or soldier. (V.t. with over.) To bluff; to shirk; to domineer: late C. 19–20: resp. low, gen., and military. Manchon (bag); F. & Gibbons (the other two). Ex:

come the old soldier. V.t., over. To wheedle; impose on: coll.: from (? —) 1825. Scott, in St. Ronan's Well, 'He has scarce the impudence . . . [Otherwise,] curse me but I should think he was coming the old soldier over me.' The idea is adumbrated in Shadwell's Humours of the Army: 'The Devil a farthing he owes me—but however, I'll put the old soldier upon him.'—2. See preceding entry.

come the Rothschild. To pretend to be rich: ca. 1880–1914; coll.

come the sergeant. To give peremptory orders: from ca. 1855; coll.

come the spoon. To make love, esp. if sentimental: from ca. 1865.

come the Traviata. In (harlots') c., to feign phthisis: C. 19; † by 1891. La Traviata is a Verdi opera, in which the heroine is a consumptive prima donna, based, of course, on La Dame aux Camélias.

come the ugly. To make threats; from ca. 1870; coll.

come through a side door. To be born out of wedlock: coll.: from ca. 1860; ob. In a ca. 1880 broadside ballad, The Blessed Orphan.

come to grief. See grief.

come-to-Jesus collar. A full-dress collar: Canadian: C. 20. Because affected by revivalist preachers.

come to stay. (Adj. phrase.) With the quality of—possessing—permanency. Gen. as (it) has come to stay. Orig. (— 1888), U.S.; anglicised ca. 1895. Coll.; by 1933, S.E.

come to that ! In point of fact !, since you mention it !: lower classes' coll. (— 1923). Manchon. 'Come to that, it was nothing special !'

come to the heath. To give or pay money: c. of ca. 1810–40. Vaux suggests that there is a pun on tipping + Tiptree Heath (a place in Essex).

come to the mark. 'To abide strictly by any contract . . . ; to perform your part manfully . . . ; or to offer me what I consider a fair price . . .', Vaux: c. of ca. 1805–80. Whence the S.E. come up to the mark.

come to, or up to, time. In boxing, to answer the call of 'time !'; hence, in sporting circles, to be ready, to be alert. Whyte-Melville, M. or N., 1869.

come tricks. See come, 3.

come undone, unput, unstuck. To fall to pieces, lit. and fig.; to experience disaster: coll. (orig. naval and military): from late 1914.

come up. (Of favourites) to win: C. 20: racing c.

come up !, before you. See came up, before you.

come up and see me some time ! A c.p.: from 1934. Ex a 'gag' of Mae West's.

come up smiling. To smile though (esp. if heavily) 'punished': boxing; from ca. 1860.—2. Hence, to face defeat without complaining or flinching: coll.; from ca. 1870. John Strange Winter, in That Imp, 1887, 'And yet come up smiling at the end of it'.

come up to (the) scratch or the chalk. See scratch.

come Yorkshire over. See Yorkshire.

comedy-merchant. An actor: ca. 1870–1914. (Merchant, q.v., = chap, fellow, man.)

comether on, put one's or the. To coax, wheedle; influence strongly: Anglo-Irish coll. (? dial.): from ca. 1830. Ex come hither.

comf(a)ble. See comforable.

conflogisticate. To astound, or puzzle sorely: nautical (— 1923). Manchon. Cf.:

comfoozled. Overcome; exhausted. Rare; ? ca. 1830–1900. Perhaps coined by Dickens, when, in The Pickwick Papers, he makes Sam Weller say: 'He's in a horrid state o' love; reg'larly comfoozled, and done over with it.' Like the preceding term, it is an artificial facetiousness.

comforable. Comfortable: sol. (— 1887). Baumann. Also comfable: C. 19–20.

comfort. (Gen. with to do, occ. with that . . .) A cause of satisfaction: C. 19–20 coll.; earlier, S.E.

comfortable. Tolerable: coll. (— 1720) — 2. 'Placidly self-satisfied': coll.; 1865. (S.O.D.) comfortable importance or impudence. A wife: also a mistress virtually a wife: late C. 17–20; ob. B.E. Cf. Fr. mon gouvernement.

comfy. Comfortable: coll. (orig. Society): from ca. 1830. Prob. influenced by cosy.

comic, n. A comic periodical: coll.; S.O.D. records it for 1889.—2. A music-hall comedian: coll.: from ca. 1920.

comic cuts. See cuts, comic.

comic business. Flying: Air Force: 1915. F. & Gibbons.

comic-song faker. A writer of comic songs; music-halls': ca. 1880–1910. Ware.

comical, n. A napkin: ca. 1870–1910. (Mostly proletarian.)

comical, adj. Strange, queer, odd: 1793 (S.O.D.); coll.

comical farce. A glass: rhyming s.: late C. 19–20; ob. The Evening Standard Aug. 19, 1931.

comical, be struck. To be astonished: low coll. from ca. 1870; ob.

coming. (Gen. of women) forward; wanton: C. 17–20; coll. till ca. 1850, then S.E. Fielding.—2. Sexually capable: C. 18–19; low coll.—3. Pregnant: coll.; C. 17–18.

coming ! Directly ! In a minute ! Coll.: from ca. 1700. Cf. coming ?, so is Christmas, said, C. 18–20, to a slow person.

coming all one knows, be. See come it as strong as a horse.

coming over . . . See pin out.

coming up in the next bucket. A variant of up in Annie's room (see Annie's . . .). Ex mining.

comma-hound. A proof-reader: publishers' and authors': from ca. 1930.

commandeer. To gain illicit possession of, gen. by pure bluff: coll.: Boer War +. Cf. S.E. scense.

commandments, the ten. The finger-nails or 'claws' of a person, esp. of a woman; from ca. 1540; ob.

Commem. Commemoration Day or Week: universities': late C. 19–20. (Collinson.)

commend me to. Give me preferably, by choice: coll.; from ca. 1710. (Orig. of persons; post-1850, things.)

commercial. In c., a thief or a tramp that travels considerably: ca. 1855-1914.—2. Abbr. commercial traveller: from ca. 1850: coll.; in C. 20 S.E.

commercial legs. Legs unfitted for drill: recruiting sergeants': late C. 19-20; ob. Ware.

commish. Abbr. commission, a percentage on sales: from ca. 1895.

commissariat. The pantry: jocular coll.; from ca. 1915. Popularised by the G.W.

commission. A shirt: mid-C. 16-early 19 c. Harman. Ex It. camicia. See comesa and mish.

commissioner. A book-maker: from ca. 1860. Little used since ca. 1890.

commissioner of Newmarket Heath. A foot-pad: late C. 16-17. Nashe.

commister. A rare variant (H., 1st ed.) of camister (q.v.), a clergyman.

committal, adj. Compromising; involving, committing; rashly revelatory: coll.: 1884, Punch. Ex non-committal. O.E.D.

commo. A communication trench: military: Nov., 1914. B. & P. For the shape, cf. ammo, q.v. commodity. The puerum muliebre: coll.; late C. 16-19. Shakespeare, in King John, 'Tickling commodity; commodity—the bias of the world.'—2. Occ., but only in c., a whore: late C. 16. Greene.

common. Common sense: lower classes': C. 20. J. Curtis, The Gilt Kid, 1936, 'Use a bit of common'.

common bounce. 'One using a lad as a decoy to prefer a charge of unnatural intercourse': low, orig. perhaps c.: from ca. 1850; ob. in s.

Common Garden. A C. 17-19 facetious variant of Covent Garden.

common garden gout. Syphilis: late C. 17-18. B.E. Ex Covent Garden after common-(or-)garden.

common jack. A harlot: military; C. 19-20, ob.

common-roomed, be. To be brought before the head of a college: University coll. (— 1886).

common sewer. A drink; a taking or 'go' of drink: from ca. 1860; ob. H., 2nd ed. Ex sewer = a drain.—2. A cheap prostitute: low: from ca. 1870; ob.

commoner. An ordinary harlot: late C. 16-early 19; coll. > S.E. by 1660.—A regular but mediocre boxer: pugilistic: ca. 1820-50. Bee.

commoner-grub. A dinner given, after cricket matches, by 'commoners' to 'college': Winchester College: C. 19, † by 1890. (A 'commoner' is not on the foundation.)

commonney. A clay inarble: schoolboys', ca. 1830-1900. Dickens.

commons, house of. A privy: C. 18-early 19; coll. The S.E. form is common house.

commonsensical. Possessing, marked with, common sense: coll.; from ca. 1870. 'The commonsensical mind' occurs in Fraser's Magazine, Sept., 1880. After nonsensical; the S.E. term being common-sensible.

communicator. A bell: jocularly coll.; from ca. 1840. Esp. in agitate the communicator.

communiqué. A communiqué: sol.: C. 20. Very gen. in G.W. communist. Ca. 1916 it > coll. for any lawless person; since 1926 it has taken a very secondary place to bolshie.—2. In the 1870's, a frequent sol. for a supporter of the Paris Commune (1870). O.E.D. comp. A compositor: printers': from ca. 1865. Tit-Bits, July 31, 1886, 'Applications for work from travelling comps are frequent.' Cf. ass, donkey, galley-slave, qq.v.

company, see. To live by harlotry; esp., and properly, in a good way of business: low: from the 1740's; ob. John Cleland, 1749; Grosz, 1st ed.

company (with), keep, v.i. and v.t. To court; to pay court to, or be courted by: low coll. (— 1861).

compete; gen. I'll compete. I'm available; I'll do it if you like: schoolgirls': from ca. 1920; ob.

competition wallah. A competitioneer, i.e. one who enters the Indian Civil Service by examination: the competition and the name began in 1856: Anglo-Indian coll. The wallah is ex Urdu wala = Arabic walad = L. -arius, signifying a 'doer', 'maker', 'actor'.

compile. In cricket, to make abundantly, score freely to the extent of, as in 'England compiled 480 (runs).' S.O.D. records it for 1884. complaining. 'The creaking of a ship at sea': nautical coll. verging on S.E.: C. 19-20. Bowen.

compleat. Apt to be used as a jocularly archaic coll. by the pedantically, the affectedly, or the ever-so-facetiously cultured, esp. in the book world: from ca. 1880. Ex Izaak Walton's The Compleat Angler; e.g., in Oliver Onions's The Compleat Bachelor, 1901. Complete, obviously, has not the same antique connotation.

complement, -ary. See compliment.

complet; gen. pronounced complee. Complete; finished: soldiers': 1915-18. Direct ex Fr. See finni.

complex. An obsession, esp. in inferiority complex (excessive modesty): from 1910 but not at all gen. till ca. 1919: orig. coll., but by 1936 verging on S.E. Ex Jung's—not Freud's—psychology, the term properly meaning 'a group of ideas associated with a particular subject' (S.O.D.). See esp. Collinson, pp. 106-7.

compliment, -ary. In C. 19-20, sol. for complement, -ary. C. 19-20. The reverse is, in that period, rather rare.

compo. A monthly advance of wages: nautical coll.: from ca. 1850. Prob. ex compo, j. for a composition paid by a debtor (see O.E.D.).—2. Whence, in G.W.: pay: military coll.

comprador. In India, but † by 1900, a house-steward; in China, a butler: coll.: from C. 16. The Portuguese comprador, a purchaser.

compree? or ! (Do you) understand? or !: military coll.: G.W. I.e., Fr. compris, understood. F. & Gibbons.

compulsory. That irregular kind of football which is now called run-about: Charterhouse coll.: ca. 1850-90. A. H. Tod.

compy-shop. A truck-shop: workmen's coll. ca. 1850-1900. Ex company-shop.

coms. See com, 3.

comsah. A military variant (1916-19) of oojah (q.v.) on Fr. comme ça, like that, in that way. B. & P.

con. Abbr. confidant, 1825; conundrum, 1841; conformist, 1882; Constitutional, 1883 (Ware); contract, 1889; construe, n. (1905). All except the last are rare in C. 20. O.E.D.—2. A previous conviction: late C. 19-20 c. Charles E. Leach.—3. A convict: low (— 1909). Ware.—4. Abbr. con camp, q.v.

con, v. To rap with the knuckles: Winchester College, C. 19–20; ob. Ex the much older n., perhaps cognate with the Fr. cogner. Wyckhamists, pre-1890, traditioned it ex Gr. κόνδυλος, a knuckle.—2. In C. 20 c., to subject to a confidence trick.—3. In late C. 19–20 c., abbr. of convict.—4. To construe: Charterhouse: late C. 19–20.

con camp. A convalescent camp: military coll.: 1915. B. & P. Occ. abbr. to con.

con-game, -nian. A confidence trick, trickster: C. 20 (slightly earlier in U.S.): c. >, by 1910, low.

Conan Doyle. Boil: rhyming s.: from ca. 1895. P. P., Rhyming Slang, 1932. Sir Arthur Conan Doyle achieved fame with the Adventures of Sherlock Holmes, 1892, a fame that was reinforced by The Memoirs of Sherlock Holmes late in 1893.

concaves and convexes. A pack of cards devised for sharpening: from ca. 1840; ob. Low and c. concern. Any object or contrivance: somewhat pejorative; from ca. 1830; coll., in 1930's verging on S.E.—2. The male or female genitals: from ca. 1840; s., whereas thing is perhaps more euphemistic than unconventional.

concerned. Often used in c. periphrasis or c.p.: late C. 18–19. See e.g. Alderman Lushington, Bolt-in-Tun, Mr. Palmer.—2. (Occ. with or in drink.) Intoxicated: from ca. 1680; S.E. till ca. 1860, then coll. Ob.

concert. See consort.

concert grand. A grand piano suitable for concerts: coll. (—1893) >, by 1920, S.E. (O.E.D.) concertina. A collapsible wire-entanglement: military: 1916. B. & P.

concertize. 'To assist musically in concerts', Ware: musicians' coll.: 1885.

conchers. Cattle, either tame or quiet—or both: Australians': from ca. 1870. † by 1912 and ob. by 1896.

conchie. See conchy.

conchologize. To study conchology; collect shells: coll.: 1855, C. Kingsley. O.E.D.

conchy; gen. conchie; occ. conshie or -y. (Pron. ko'nshē.) Abbr. conscientious objector, i.e. to military service: 1917. See esp. George Baker's arresting, yet delicate, autobiography, The Soul of a Skunk, 1930.

concurrents. Incorrect for concurrence: ea. 1600–40. O.E.D.

concuss. (Gen. in passive.) To produce cerebral concussion (in a person): C. 20. Prob. without reminiscence of, or allusion to, the S.E. sense, to injure by concussion: it is almost certainly a semi-jocular abbr. of concussion.

condemn. To curse, swear at: C. 20. Ex the euphemistic condemn it!, damn it!

condiddle. To purloin, steal: coll.; ca. 1740–1860; extant in dial., where it arose. Scott in St. Ronan's Well, 'Twig the old connoisseur . . . condiddling the drawing.' Ex diddle, a, and to, cheat.

condition. See delicate condition.

condog. To concur: coll.: ca. 1590–1700; almost S.E. by 1660. -dog puns -cur.

Condolence. See Bay of Condolence.

condom is a variant of cundum.

conduit. The two Winchester senses (a water-tap, a lavatory)—see Wrench—are, now, almost certainly j.; but orig. (? ca. 1850) they may have been s.

Condy. Condy's fluid: coll.: 1886 (O.E.D. Sup.).—2. Condy's crystals: coll.: C. 20.

coney and its compounds: see cony, etc.

confab. A talk together, or a discussion, esp. if familiar: coll.; 1701 (S.O.D.). 'In close confab', Wolcott, 1789. Ex confabulation. Also as v.: from ca. 1740: not much used. Richardson.

confect. Counterfeited: late C. 17–18 c. B.E., Grose. O.E.D. considers it S.E.; perhaps it is c. only as confeck (Coles, 1676).

confectionary. Incorrect for confectionery: mid-C. 18–20. O.E.D.

confess. Confession, as in go to confess: Roman Catholic: from ca. 1890.

confess and be hanged! A proverbial c.p. equivalent of You lie!: late C. 16–17. Lit., be shrived and be hanged!

[confidence dodge, game, trick; confidence man. Orig. (ca. 1880), these terms were perhaps coll.—witness F. & H.—but they very soon > S.E. Cf. con man, q.v.]

confirmable, confirmation, were, in C. 16, often confused with conformable, conformation. O.E.D.

confiscate. To seize as if with authority: from ca. 1820; coll. until C. 20, when, for all its looseness, the word is S.E.—2. Hence confiscation, 'legal robbery by or with the sanction of the ruling power', O.E.D.: from ca. 1865; coll. till C. 20, when S.E.—3. And confiscatory, adj. to 2: coll.: 1886 (O.E.D.).

confiscate the macaroon. An elaboration (ca. 1918–24) of take the cake. W.

confiab is a New Zealand (esp. military) corruption of confab, q.v.: C. 20.

confiabberate. To upset, worry, perturb (gen. as past ppl. passive). Ca. 1860–1920.

confiabberation. A confused wrangle; an 'awful din'. Ca. 1860–1930. One of the half-wit jocularities so fashionable ca. 1840–1900, c.g. absquatulate, spiflicate, more popular in the U.S. than in the British Empire, which did but adopt them.

confloption. An unshapely or twisted thing, a distorted representation or grotesque figure: jocular (—1887); ob. Baumann. Perhaps a perversion of contraption. Contrast the dial. senses: flurry, confusion (E.D.D.).

conflummox is an intensive of flummox, v.: from ca. 1860; virtually †.

confound it! A coll. expletive: C. 19–20. Cf. sense 1 of:

confounded. Inopportune; unpleasant, odious; excessive. This coll., like awful, beastly, is a mere verbal harlot serving all men's haste, a counter of speech, a thought-substitute. From ca. 1760. Goldsmith, in The Vicar of Wakefield, 'What are tythes and tricks but an imposition, all confounded imposture.' From ca. 1850 its emotional connotation has been brutalised by association with confound it! = damn it!—2. Hence confoundedly, very: coll.: C. 18–20.

congee-house. See conjee-house.

congenital. Abbr. congenital idiot: C. 20 coll. (Not among 'the masses'.)

conger. An association of London bookseller-publishers that, ca. 1680–1800, printed and sold books as a close corporation, a none-too-generous 'combine': late C. 17–early 19: coll. >, by 1750, S.E. >, by 1830, historical. See esp. B.E. Prob. (pace the O.E.D.) ex the conger or sea-eel, a lengthy, unpleasant creature.—2. Whence, to enter into such an association: coll. (—1785); † by 1823. Grose, 1st ed.; Egan's Grose.

congraggers. A variant of congratters, q.v. (D. L. Murray, The English Family Robinson, 1934).

congrats. An occ. variant of the next. Anthony Hope, The Dolly Dialogues, 1894, 'Dear old Dolly, —So you've brought it off. Hearty congrats.'

congratters. Congratulations, gen. as an exclamation: C. 20. Ex the preceding by Oxford-er.

[congrument is one of those numerous ghost-words which are 'founded' on a misprint—esp. on a misprint in a dictionary. O.E.D. (As they are hardly eligible here, I record extremely few of them.)] conimbrum. Incorrect for conundrum: C. 17. O.E.D.

conish. Genteel; fashionable: low (? also, or orig., c.); ca. 1800–40. Perhaps = 'tony' and a corruption from the ton, q.v.

conish cove. A gentleman: Scottish c. of ca. 1820–50. Egan's Grose.

conjee- or congee-house. A lock-up: military coll. (in India mostly): from ca. 1830. Ex Tamil kañji; congee—the water in which rice has been boiled—being a staple food of prisoners in India. Yule & Burnell.

conjobble. To arrange, settle; discuss; v.i., to chat together: 1694; ob.: coll. (O.E.D.)

conjoin. Occ. confused with enjoin: mid-C. 16–early 17. O.E.D.

conjugal. Conjugal rights: C. 20 cultured s. >, by 1930, coll.

conjurer, -or. A C. 17–18 sol. for all 'Astrologers, Physiognomists, Chiromancers, and the whole Tribe of Fortune-tellers', B.E. Chiefly among the ignorant.—2. The evidence tends to show, however, that these terms were also employed in c. to = either a magistrate, a judge, or as for cunning man, q.v. See also fortune-teller.

conjurer (-or), no. One lacking brains and/or physical skill: coll. > S.E.; from ca. 1660.

conk. The nose: low: 1812, Vaux; H. Cockton, in Valentine Vox, 1840, 'Oh! oh! there's a conk! there's a smellier!' Prob. ex conch, L. concha: cf. L. testa (a pot, a shell) = head.—2. 'A spy; informer, or tell-tale': c. of ca. 1810–40. Vaux, who shrewdly relates it to sense 1: cf. nose, an informer.—Hence 3, a policeman: low: ca. 1820–1910.—4. A blow on the nose: low: from ca. 1870; ob.—5. Hence, any blow on the body: from ca. 1920. See konk in Addenda.

conk, v.; gen. conk out. To fail, break down, esp. of an engine, a machine; to die: aviation s. (1918) >, by 1921, gen. coll. Ex:

conked(, be). Dead, to die; (of an engine) to stop, be stopped: aviation s. (1917) >, by 1920, gen. coll. Prob. ex conquered(, be). For this and conk, see esp. B. & P. and O.E.D. (Sup.).

conker. A blow on the nose: from ca. 1820; ob. (But conkers, the game, is S.E.)

conk(e)y. Having a large nose: from ca. 1815. 'Waterloo' Wellington was, post-1815, often called 'Old Conky' from his large nose. Cf. dook, 3, q.v.—2. Hence, 'nosey', inquisitive: from ca. 1840. Cf. bowsprit, beak, nozzle; for synonymy, see F. & H.

Connaught Rangers, the. The 88th Foot Regiment in the British Army: military coll. (— 1864) >, by 1890, j. H., 3rd ed.

connect, v.i. To understand: C. 20. Ex telephones.

connect with. In boxing, from ca. 1920, to hit. John o' London, Feb. 4, 1933.

conner. Food: Regular Army's: late C. 19–20. B. & P. Ex Hindustani.

connotation, connote; denotation, denote. Often confused: C. 19–20.

conny wobble. Eggs and brandy beaten up together: Anglo-Irish, C. 18–19.

conqueror. (As in play the conqueror.) A deciding game: games coll.: from ca. 1870. Cf. decider, q.v.

conscience. An association, gen. in a small company, for the sharing of profits: theatrical: ca. 1870–1900.

conscience, in (all). Equitably; in fairness or in reason: coll.; from ca. 1590. Swift. A mid-C. 16–17 variant is of (all) conscience. (O.E.D.) conscience-keeper. 'A superior, who by his influence makes his dependents act as he pleases', Grose, 2nd ed.: coll.: late C. 18–mid-19.

conscionary. Incorrect for concionary: C. 17. O.E.D. consent. Incorrect for concent, a harmony in music: late C. 16–17. O.E.D. conservatory roof. The transparent, streamlined roof fitted over the cockpit of a high-speed aeroplane: aviation: from 1934. The Daily Telegraph, Feb. 9, 1935.

consequence, of. As a result; by inference: low coll., C. 19–20; earlier, S.E. (O.E.D.)

conservative. A conservative. Jocular, ex Gilbert & Sullivan's opera Iolanthe, 1882, but popularised (as a coll.) only in C. 20.

conshie, -y. Less correct than conchie, conchy, q.v.

conshun's price. Fair terms or price: Anglo-Chinese; from ca. 1850; ob. H., 3rd ed. Ex conscience.

considerable amount of concerted action. Conspiracy: Parliamentary: 1883. Mr. Herbert Gladstone, asked to withdraw 'malicious conspiracy', substituted this phrase; the younger Conservatives took it up for a few months.

considerable bend, go on the. To engage in a bout of dissipation: from ca. 1880; cf. bender, 3.

considering, adv. If one considers everything, takes everything into account: coll.; from ca. 1740. Richardson, 'Pretty well, sir, considering' (O.E.D.).

consimile. Consimile († adj.): sol.: C. 16. (O.E.D.)

consign. To send, wish, as in consign to the devil: coll., from ca. 1900.

consolidate, v.i. To make sure of a job, to make good one's advances to a girl: military coll.: 1916. Ex military j., 'to take measures for holding a captured position to meet a counter attack', F. & Gibbons.

consols. Abbr. consolidated annuities: (1770) in C. 18, Stock Exchange s.; then gen. coll.; finally (from ca. 1850) S.E. The consolidation of all Government securities into one fund took place in 1751.

consonant-choker. One who omits his g's and slurs his r's: ca. 1870–1910.

consort. 'Constantly confused in form and sense with concert', W.: C. 17–20.

constable, outrun—occ. overrun—the. To go too fast or too far (lit. and fig.), as in an argument (Butler's Hudibras, I, 1663): coll.; † by 1850.—2. Hence, mid-C. 18–20, to change the subject; fall into debt (Smollett, in Roderick Random; Dickens): coll. >, ca. 1880, S.E.; very ob.

constant screamer. A concertina: non-aristocratic: ca. 1860–1915. Ware.

constician. A member of the orchestra: theatrical; from ca. 1875; †.

constipated. Slow to part with money: from ca. 1925.

constituter. The 'Oxford -er' form of the next: Oxford undergraduates': from late 1890's. Ware.

constitutional. A walk taken as exercise (for the good of one's constitution or health): coll.: recorded by S.O.D. in 1829. Smedley, 1850, 'Taking my usual constitutional after Hall'; 'Cuthbert Bede', 1853.

constitutionalize. To take a walk for health: coll.; from ca. 1850. Like its origin, constitutional (q.v.), it is a university term, app. arising at Cambridge.

consumer. A butler: Anglo-Indian; from ca. 1700. Semi-jocular on consumah.

contact. A contact: sol.: late C. 19–20. Like-wise impack for impact.

contact. An acquaintance(ship); a connexion: both with a view to business or self-interest: coll., from ca. 1930, ex commercial j. (— 1925); prob. ex U.S., where the v. is frequent. Fast verging on S.E., at least the near-S.E. of trade.

[contango is so technical that it must rank as j; s., however, in its slapdash formation. Ex continue. 1853.]

contemporary. Contemporary: sol. (very frequent): late C. 19–20.

contemptible and contemptuous are occ. confused: C. 19–20. Fowler.

Contemptibles, Old. The Regular Army and Reserves sent to France as an expeditionary force in 1914: late 1915: military coll. >, by 1918, S.E. Ex the Kaiser's alleged 'General French's contemptible little army'. F. & Gibbons; O.E.D. (Sup.).

content. Dead: C. 18–early 19; c. and low. A New Canting Dict., 1725; Grose, 1st ed. I.e. content in death.

contentation and contention are occ. confused: C. 17. O.E.D. conter. See jury, chummage, and conter.

context. To discover, or approximate, the sense of a badly written word from the context: printers' and typists' coll. (— 1909) >, by 1925, S.E. Ware.

continent, adj. and adv. On the sick list: Winchester College, C. 19–20. See also the entry at Winchester College slang.

continental, not worth a; not care (or give) a. To be worth nothing; care not at all. Orig. (— 1869) U.S.; anglicised ca. 1895. In allusion to continental money, a worthless American currency note of ca. 1775–8. Thornton. Cf. dam.

continual, continuous. To confuse these is, in C. 20, to commit catachresis.

continuando, with a. For days on end; for a long time. Often preceded by drunk. Coll.: ca. 1680–1750. B.E.

continuations. Trousers, for they continue the waistcoat: from ca. 1840. Whyte-Melville, 1853. (Cf. dittoes, inexpressibles, unmentionables.) Ex continuations, gaiters (as continuing knee-breeches: O.E.D.). continue for continue (adj.); contoise for coin-tise (heraldry). Errors noted by O.E.D.

contour-chasing, n. and adj. (Of an aeroplane) 'flying very low, and as it were following the slopes and rises of the ground': Air Force: 1915. F. & Gibbons.

contours. The curves of a woman's body: C. 20: jocular coll. Ex contour as in the S.O.D.'s quotation from Scott: 'The whole contour of her form . . . resembled that of Minerva.'

contra. 'A novel "not passed" by Form-master': Bootham School: C. 20. Anon., Dict. of Bootham Slang, 1925. I.e., L. contra, against.

contra prep. 'Preparation at the end of term, when "contras" are allowed': id.: id. Ibid.

contract. An undertaking; esp. it's a bit of a contract, a rather difficult job: coll.: U.S. (ca. 1880) >, ca. 1890, anglicised. O.E.D. (Sup.).

contract, mess up the. To spoil, ruin, bungle anything whatsoever: military coll.: 1914. F. & Gibbons.

contraption. A contrivance, device; small tool or article: dial. (1825: E.D.D.) >, ca. 1830, U.S. coll. (Thornton) and, ca. 1850, English coll. Perhaps ex 'contrivance' + 'invention'.

contra'ry. Adverse, inimical, cross-grained, unpleasantly capricious: from ca. 1850: coll. Prob. influenced by the Scottish contrair(y).

contrection. Incorrect for contrectation: mid-C. 16–mid-17. O.E.D.

control fortune. Not a euphemism but a c. term: to cheat at cards: C. 19–20; ob.

conundrum is s. in that sense, a pun, play on words, which arose at Oxford in 1644 or 1645; in C. 18 coll.; ob. by 1800, † by 1830. Prob. ex a lost parody of a scholiast phrase. Tom Brown, Ned Ward. W. notes the similarity of panjandrum.— 2. A sausage: non-aristocratic (— 1923). Manchon. Suggested by mystery.

convalescence. A slack period: busmen's: from ca. 1930. The Daily Herald, Aug. 5, 1936. Opp. belting, 2. convenience. A water-closet; chamber-pot: C. 19–20; orig. euphemistic, after ca. 1918 a mildly humorous coll. (In C. 17–18 c., with variant -cy, a wife or a mistress.)

conveniency. A mistress; primarily, however, a wife: c. and low: late C. 17–early 19. B.E. Cf.:

convenient. A mistress; also, a harlot: c. and low: ca. 1670–1830. Etherege, 1676, 'Dorimant's convenient, Madam Loveit'; Shadwell; B.E.; Grose. Cf. comfortable importance.

convenient, adj. Handy, i.e. conveniently situated or placed: coll.: 1848. Thackeray.

conversation, a little. Cursing and/or swearing: C. 20; ob. Ware, 1909. Cf. language, q.v.

Conversation Cooke. Wm. Cooke (1766–1824), journalist and author of Conversation, a poem. Dawson.

Conversation Sharp. Richard Sharp (d. 1835), a critic and conversationalist. Ibid.

convey. To steal: mid-C. 15–20. Shakespeare: 'Convey, the wise it call.' Orig. euphemistic; but in mid-C. 19–20 decidedly coll. in its facetiousness.

conveyance, a theft, C. 16–20; conveyancer, a thief, C. 18–19; conveyancing, thieving, swindling, from ca. 1750; conveyer, a thief, esp. if nimble (see Shakespeare's Richard II), late C. 16–20. In C. 19–20, all these are coll. and more or less jocular, though conveyance and conveyer were ob. by 1890, † by 1920.

convincing. Effective; notable; journalistic s. > j.: C. 20. In literary and art criticism, it was displaced, ca. 1929, by significant.

Convocation Castle. 'Where the . . . heads of colleges . . . meet to transact and investigate university affairs', Egan's Groser: Oxford University: ca. 1820-40. Punning Convocation.

cony, coney. 'A silly Fellow', a simpleton: from ca. 1590, archaic after 1820; coll. Greene, B.E., Groser. Cf. the C. 20 s. use of rabbit. (Variant, Tom cony.) Whence:

cony-catch, to cheat, trick, deceive: c. and low: late C. 16-18. Greene; Shakespeare, in The Taming of the Shrew, 'Take heed, signor Baptista, lest you be conny-catched in this business.' Ex:

cony-catcher. A deceiver; trickster; sharper: c. and low; ca. 1590-1840. John Day, Robert Greene, Walter Scott.

cony-catching. Trickery; cheating; swindling: c. and low: late C. 16-early 19. Shakespeare, Middleton, Ned Ward; the locus classicus, however, is Greene's series of pamphlets on cony-catching: and very good reading they are (see Dr. G. B. Harrison's reprints in the Bodley Head Quartos and my Slang, pp. 46-7). Cf. gull, warren.—2. As adj., cheating, swindling: late C. 16-17. Greene.

cony-dog. One who assists in cheating or swindling: c.: late C. 17-18. B.E.

coo! indicates astonishment or disbelief: mostly lower classes' coll.: from ca. 1890. Prob. ex good gracious (or Lord)!: cf. the frequent coo lummy!

cooee, cooey. (The ee sound long drawn out.) The Australian black's signal-cry, adopted by the colonists. Recorded in 1790—see esp. Morris—it has, since ca. 1840, been the gen. hailing or signalling cry. Coll. > S.E. As early as 1864, H. can say that it is 'now not unfrequently [sic] heard in the streets of London'. E. S. Rawson, In Australian Wilds, 1889, 'the startling effects of Jim's cooee'.—2. The v.i. dates from 1827—or earlier.

cooee, within. Within hail; hence, within easy reach. From ca. 1880; coll.

cook. To manipulate, tamper with; falsify: coll.; recorded in 1636 (S.O.D.). Smollett, 1751, 'Some falsified printed accounts, artfully cooked up, . . . to mislead and deceive'. H., 5th ed., 'Artists say that a picture will not cook when it is excellent and unconventional and beyond specious imitation'.—2. To kill, settle, ruin, badly worst: from ca. 1850. Mayhew. Cf. cook one's goose and cooker.—3. (Of persons) to swelter in the heat: coll.; from ca. 1860.

cook-house official. A military variant of latrine rumour, q.v.: G.W. (B. & P.)

cook of the grot. A mess-orderly: naval officers' (— 1925). F. & Gibbons.

cook one's goose. To ruin; defeat; kill: from ca. 1850. 'Cuthbert Bede', 'You're the boy to cook Fosbrooke's goose'; Trollope, 1861, 'Chaldicotes . . . is a cooked goose.' Cf. do brown and settle one's hash. (At this phrase, F. & H. gives an excellent synonymy of 'do for' in its various senses.)

cook-ruffi(a)n. A bad or bad-tempered cook: ca. 1690-1830; c., then low. B.E. Prob. ex the proverbial saying recorded by Ray in 1670, cook-ruffian, able to scold the devil in (or out of) his feathers (Apperson).

cooked. Exhausted, ruined, killed: late C. 19-20. Manchon. Ex cook one's goose.

cooker. A decisive or a fatal act, a 'settler' or 'finisher': low (— 1869,) ob. O.E.D. Cf. cook. v., 2, and cook one's goose.—2. See Captain Cook.—

3. A Gurkha knife: military: G.W. Ex the native name, kukri. F. & Gibbons.

cookie, cooky. A cook, but rarely of a man: coll.: from ca. 1770.—2. A harlot: Glasgow (— 1934).

cookie-shine. A tea-party: jocular coll.: ca. 1863-80. Reade. Ex cookie, a small cake. O.E.D.

Cookies, the. The 55th (or Coke's) Rifles. Regular Army in India: C. 20. F. & Gibbons.

cooking-day. 'Twenty-four hours devoted to Bacchus': naval (— 1909); ob. Ware. Ex special allowance of grog to the cook (Bowen).

cook's-galley yarn. A (wildly improbable) rumour: naval: C. 20. Bowen. Cf. latrine rumour, q.v.

Cook's guide; C. tour, tourists. He who conducted, those who took part in a tour of the trenches by officers and N.C.O.s of an incoming battalion or by visitors: military jocular coll.: 1915-18. F. & Gibbons.

Cook's (or Cooks') Own, the. The Police Force: ca. 1855-90. Mayhew, ca. 1860 (see Slang, p. 93). On names of regiments and ex police predilection for cooks.

cook's warrant. A surgical operation, esp. if amputation: nautical (— 1887); ob. Baumann.

cool. A cut-purse: late C. 16-early 17 c. Greene in 2nd Cony-Catching.

cool. (Esp. with fish or hand.) Impertinent, impudent, audacious, esp. if in a calm way: from ca. 1820; coll. till ca. 1880, then S.E. The same with the adv. coolly.—2. Stressing the amount in a large sum of money: from 1728 (S.O.D.); coll. Fielding, in Tom Jones, 'Mr. Watson . . . declared he had lost a cool hundred, and would play no longer'.—3. At Eton College, clear, effective, as in cool kick: mid-C. 19-20. Cf.:

cool, v. To kick hard and clear: Eton College: mid-C. 19-20.—2. In back s. (— 1857), look. 'Ducange Anglicus'; H., 1st ed. Thus cool him! is a costers' warning to 'look out' for the policeman.

cool as a cucumber, adj. and adv. Cool(ly) and calm(ly): from ca. 1700; coll. Gay, Scott, De Morgan. The C. 17 form was cold as cucumbers, as in Fletcher.

cool crape. A shroud: C. 18-early 19: low. A New Canting Dict., 1725. Ex c.-c., 'a slight Chequer'd Stuff made in imitation of Scotch Plaid [sic]', B.E. Hence, be put into one's cool crape, C. 18, is to die.

cool lady. A female camp-follower that sells brandy: late C. 17-early 18. B.E. Ex:

cool Nant(e)s or Nantz. Brandy: ca. 1690-1830; coll. B.E., Groser. Ex the city of Nantes.

cool one's coppers. To quench the morning thirst after over-night drinking: from ca. 1860; coll. T. Hughes in Tom Brown at Oxford.

cool one's heels. To be kept standing; esp. waiting: from ca. 1630; coll. > S.E. by 1700. A slightly earlier form was hoofs, applied lit. to soldiers.

cool tankard. (Like cool crape-lady—Nantes, it may be, but rarely is, spelt with a hyphen.) 'Wine and Water, with a Lemon, Sugar and Nutmeg', B.E. Coll.: late C. 17-18; in C. 19-20 (ob.), S.E.

cooler. A woman: late C. 17-early 19: low (? orig. c.). B.E., Groser. Ex the cooling of passion and bodily temperature ensuing after sexual intercourse.—2. Ale, stout, or porter taken after spirits (even with water): from ca. 1820. Pierce Egan's Tom and Jerry. Cf. dampener.—3. A heavy punch: boxers' (— 1823); † by 1900. 'Jon Bee.'—4. A prison: orig. (— 1884) U.S.; anglicised, in c., ca. 1890; generalised, esp. as a detention cell, to s. in G.W.

coolie, cooly. 'A common fellow of the lowest class': from ca. 1800, orig. nautical.—2. Hence, a private soldier (— 1859); † by 1900. H., 1st ed.

Coolie Christmas. The Moharram as observed by the Indian immigrants: Natal coll.: C. 20. The Graaf Reinet Advertiser, May 2, 1902. Pettman.

coolieing, go. To hawk vegetables and/or fruit: South African coll. (— 1913). Pettman.

coolth. Coolness: S.E. >, ca. 1890, jocular coll. (O.E.D. Sup.)

cooly. See coolie.

coon. A man, esp. if sly and shrewd. Ex U.S., anglicised by Punch in 1860.—2. A negro: ex U.S. (— 1870), anglicised ca. 1890. Ex racoon. (Thornton.)

coon, a gone. A person in serious, or indeed in a hopeless, difficulty: orig. U.S. (— 1840), anglicised ca. 1860. H., 2nd ed. Origin doubtful: perhaps ex racoon after Scottish gone corbie. Calverley.

coon's age, a. A very long time, the racoon being notably long-lived: ex U.S. (— 1845), anglicised ca. 1870 but now ob. (Thornton.)

coop. A prison: c. (— 1866); ob. James Greenwood in Dick Temple. Cf.:

cooped-up. In prison: low; from ca. 1690. B.E. Cf. coop, q.v.

cooper. Stout half-and-half, i.e. stout with an equal portion of porter: coll.; from ca. 1858. H., 2nd ed. Ex the coopers of breweries.—2. A buyer or seller of illicit spirits; a ship engaged in such contraband: nautical coll.: from ca. 1880. Ex S.E. senses.—3. In C. 20 vagrants' c., a casual ward to be avoided. Ex sense 2 of:

coopered. Made presentable: coll.: 1829 (Scott). O.E.D. Prob. ex horse-co(o)per.—2. Illicitly tampered with; forged; spoiled; betrayed, ruined: c. and low, esp. the turf: from ca. 1850. Mayhew. The other parts of the verb are rare. Cognate with scuppered, q.v. (In vagabondia, denoted by the sign ∇: H., 2nd ed.)

coopering. The vbl.n. corresponding to cooper, 2: the practice of such sales: nautical: mid-C. 19–20. Bowen.

Cooper's ducks with, be. To be all over with: London butchers' (— 1902); slightly ob. Apperson from Notes and Queries. Presumably of anecdotal origin.

coopetty-coop. Money: naval: C. 20. F. & Gibbons note an anecdotal origin.

coor. To whip: Scottish c. of ca. 1810–80. Haggart's Life, 1821. Prob. ex S.E. coir.

coorse. A sol. form of course: C. 19 (? earlier)—20. Baumann.

ccoshy. A sleep: military: G.W. Ex Fr. coucher. F. & Gibbons.

coot. A simpleton: orig. (1794), U.S.; anglicised ca. 1850. Gen. as silly coot or old coot. Thornton. Ex the common coot's stupidity.—2. Hence, a person of no account: contemptuous Australian (— 1916). C. J. Dennis.—3. See cootie, whence it derives.

coota. An occ. form of cootie.

cooter. See couter.

cooter goosht. Bad food: Regular Army's: late C. 19–20. F. & Gibbons. Ex the Hindustani for 'dog's meat'.

cootie. A body-louse: nautical (C. 20) >, by 1915, at latest, military. Ex Malayan for a dog-tick. Moreover, kutu is common throughout Polynesia for any kind of louse: see, e.g. Tregear's Mangareva Dict. See Words !, revised ed.

cooty. Lousy: military (ex naval): C. 20. Ex cootie or coot, 3.

cop. A policeman (— 1859); abbr. copper. H., 1st ed.—2. An arrest, as in It's a (fair) cop (spoken by the victim): from ca. 1870: low (? orig. c.). (In Cumberland dial. it = a prison. E.D.D.) Ex cop, v., 4.—3. A vocation or a job: Australian (— 1916). C. J. Dennis. Cf.—4. Whence or cognately, an easy matter, gen. as be no cop: see cop, be no. In the Boer War, an English soldier wrote, 'We are going to a place called Spion Kop; and I don't think it will be much of a "kop" for our chaps',—it wasn't. (J. Milne, The Epistles of Atkins, 1902.)

cop, v. Catch, capture: from ca. 1700, S.O.D. recording at 1704.—2. Hence, to steal: low: mid-C. 19–20. E.D.D.—3. In mid-C. 19–20, it also = take, receive, be forced to endure, as in cop it (hot), to be scolded, to get into trouble,—cop the bullet, get the sack,—cop the needle, become angry. The C. 20 cop out is a variant of cop it hot. In G.W., cop it = to die, while cop a packet = to be wounded, gen. severely.—4. As = arrest, imprison, perhaps as = steal, it was orig. (C. 19) c.; in C. 20, low.—5. In racing c., C. 20, if a 'bookie' wins on a race, he has 'copped'; and his clerk accordingly marks the book with a C. John Morris.—6. See prop, v., 2. The word derives 1—prob. ex L. capere. 2—via the Old Fr. caper, to seize. 3—whence the C. 17 S.E. cap, to arrest: cap to cop is a normal argotic change. Whence copper, q.v.

cop ! Beware ! Take care ! Anglo-Indian: mid-C. 19–20; ob. H., 3rd ed. ? ex cop, v., 3.

cop, be no (or not much). Of a task: to be difficult; of an object: valueless. From ca. 1895. See cop, n., 4, and cf. it's no catch, which is earlier.

cop a dark 'un. See dark 'un, cop a.

cop a flower-pot. A Cockney synonym (by rhyming s.: C. 20) of cop it hot (see cop, v., 3). A news-vendor, in late Sept., 1935, said of Mussolini: 'He will cop a flower-pot if he goes on like this' (The New Statesman and Nation, Sept. 28, 1935).

cop a mouse. To get a black eye: artisans' (— 1909). Warc.

cop it (hot). See cop, v., 3.

cop on the cross. Cunningly to discover guilt: late C. 19–20 c.

cop out. See cop, v., 3.—2. Also, to die: military in Boer War and, occ., later. J. Milne, Epistles of Atkins, 1902.

cop the brewery, the curtain. See brewery, cop the, and curtain, cop the.—cop the bullet, needle, sack. See cop, v., 3.

copbusy. To hand the booty over to a confederate or a girl: c. (— 1839); ob. Brandon.

cope. 'An exchange, bargain; a successful deal': low: from ca. 1840; ob. Carew, Autobiography of a Gipsy, 1891. Prob. independent of the same word recorded, for C. 16–17, by the O.E.D. (?*)copestmate. An accomplice: late C. 16—early 17 c. or low s.; T. Wilson, 1570; Greene. Cf. the S.E.

cuppa dah ! Catch this !: military: C. 20. F. & Gibbons. Ex cop there !

copper. A policeman, i.e. one who 'cops' or captures, arrests: orig. theatrical: from 1850's.—2. A penny or a halfpenny: from ca. 1840. In pl., coll. for halfpennies and pennies mixed. 'Still used of the bronze which has superseded the copper coinage', O.E.D., 1893.—3. In C. 20 c., an informer to the police. Cf. sense 1.

copper, v. To inform against; cause to be arrested: C. 20 c. Edgar Wallace, Room 13.

copper, catch. To come to harm: C. 16–17; s. > coll. Palsgrave. (O.E.D.)

copper, come or turn. To inform the police: C. 20 c. Charles E. Leach; David Hume. Cf. copper, v.

copper, worth one's weight in burnt. Of little worth: coll. (—1887); slightly ob. Baumann. (In copper instead of in gold.)

copper-captain. A pretended captain: from ca. 1800 (? orig. U.S.); coll. > S.E. copper-clawing. A fight between women: London streets: from ca. 1820; ob. Ware suggests cap-a-clawing.

Copper-Face. Oliver Cromwell, whose sobriquet was the copper-nosed saint. Dawson. Cf. Old Noll.

copper-house. A police-station: c.: C. 20. James Curtis, The Gilt Kid, 1936. Ex copper, a policeman.

copper-man. A policeman: Australian c.; ca. 1870–1910. Ex copper, n., 1.

copper-nose. The red, pimply, swollen nose of habitual drunkards: coll.; from early C. 17; B.E. records the adj. copper-nosed, which until ca. 1660 was S.E. copper-rattle. (Irish) stew: naval (—1909); ob. Ware. Ex the noise made by the bones in the pot.

copper-show. A copper-mine: Australian (—1916). C. J. Dennis.

copper-slosher. One apt to 'go for' the police: 1882. Ware.

copper-stick. The membrum virile: low: C. 19–20; ob. Analogous is C. 19 coral branch.—2. From ca. 1880, a policeman's truncheon.

copper-tail. A member of the lower classes: Australian: late 1880's.

copper-tailed. See silver-tail.

copper-top. A red head; often as nickname: mostly Australian (—1916). C. J. Dennis.

coppers, clear one's. To clear one's throat: 1831, Trclawney (O.E.D.). Cf.:

coppers, cool one's. See cool one's coppers.

coppers, hot. See hot coppers.

coppers, hot. The hot, dry mouth and throat ensuing on excessive drinking: coll., from ca. 1840.

copper's nark. A police spy or informer: c.; from ca. 1860. Henley. Nark = spy.

copper's shanty. A police-station: low: ca. 1890–1916. Ware.

copy, a tufted fowl; adj., crested: dial. (—1880) >, by 1885, coll. Ex dial. cop, the top of anything. O.E.D.

copus. A drink of wine or beer imposed as a fine in hall: Cambridge University, C. 18–19. Johnson derives ex episcopus (cf. bishop, q.v.); H. ex hippocras.

copy(-)cat. A child given to copying others' work: elementary schools.—2. Also a person annoyingly given to repeating or imitating others. Both, C. 20 coll.

copy of (one's) countenance. A pretence, hypocrisy; sham, humbug: from ca. 1570; coll. passing in C. 17 to S.E. In Westward Ho, a play of 1607: 'I shall love a puritan's face the worse, whilst I live, for that copy of thy countenance.'

copy of uneasiness. 'A copy of writ in any court', Bee: ca. 1820–40.

copybook, blot one's. To spoil one's record: coll.: C. 20.

cor. God, as a low expletive: C. 19–20. Via Gor.

coral-root. Incorrect for coralwort: mid-C. 19–20. O.E.D.

coram. A quorum: a late C. 16–17 sol. Nashe, Shakespeare.

Coras. The stocks and shares of the Caledonian Railway: Stock Exchange: from ca. 1885. On the analogy of Doras, q.v. A. J. Wilson, 1895; The Daily Telegraph, June 5, 1935.

corbiculum. Incorrect for corbicula: C. 19–20. O.E.D. Cf. cordialgic for cardialgic, ibid.

'cordin'. According; accordingly: low coll. (—1887). Baumann.

corditer. A sporting team from the Excellent: naval: C. 20. Bowen. Because 'hot stuff'.

Cordle, Lord and Lady. Two finely bedecked canaries sitting in a little carriage: London street-performers' coll. nickname (—1887). Baumann.

corduroys. (A pair of) corduroy trousers: from ca. 1780; coll.; in C. 20, S.E.

core, v.i. To pick up small articles in shops: ca. 1810–60. Vbl.n., cor(e)ing. Perhaps ex Romany cor, to steal (Sampson).

corfee. A sol. pronunciation of coffee: centuries old, esp. among Cockneys. A corfee(-)house cut is a cheesemongers' term (—1909) for 'the back of bacon, without bones, and exceptionally used by coffee-house keepers', Ware.

coriander (seed). See coliander.

coring mush. A boxer; a fighter: c.: C. 20. James Curtis, The Gilt Kid, 1936. Ex Romany koor, to strike, to fight: the Romany kooromengro is, lit., a fight-man. For the second element, see mush, n., last sense.

Corinth. A brothel: C. 17–19; coll. >, by 1800, S.E. The ancient Greek city was noted for its elegance and modernity, also for its licentiousness.

Corinthian. A rake: late C. 16–18; coll. soon S.E., as is the adj.—2. A dandy, hence a fashionable man about town: ca. 1800–50; coll. > S.E., precisely as swell, which was in vogue by 1854, > S.E. One of the characters in Pierce Egan's Life in London is Corinthian Tom.

cork. Incorrect for calk, v. (late C. 18–20) and n., a sharp point on a horse-shoe: C. 19–20. O.E.D. (Sup.).—2. A bankrupt: ca. 1870–1900. H., 5th ed. Ex his lack of 'ballast'.—3. In Scottish coll., from ca. 1830, a small employer; a foreman. (O.E.D.).—4. See corks.—5. A workman bringing a charge against his fellows: workshops' (—1909). Ware derives ex caucus.

cork, draw a or the. In boxing, to draw blood: from ca. 1815; ob. Cf. tap one's claret.

cork and water. Any bottle of medicine: Bootham School: late C. 19–20. Anon., Dict. of Bootham Slang, 1925. Cf.:

cork-and-water club. Old scholars at Oxford University: id.: id. Ibid.

cork-brained. Foolish, light-headed: C. 17–20; coll.; S.E. after ca. 1820. In B.E. as corky-b.

corked. (Of wine) tasting of cork: coll. (—1864); ob.; H., 3rd ed.—2. Very drunk: C. 20. Lyell.

corker. Something that ends an argument or a course of action; anything astounding, esp. a great lie. Recorded for 1837; app. orig. U.S. (O.E.D.);

s. >, by 1920, coll. Cf. caulker, settler, whopper, and esp. put the lid on (W.).

corker, play the. (Of persons) to be unusual, exaggerated, eccentric; in university and Public School, to make oneself objectionable. From ca. 1870. Anstey in Vice Versa.

corking. Unusually large, fine, good: from early 1890's: mostly U.S., s. >, by 1930, coll. App. ex corker, q.v., on the model of other percussive adjj. (whacking, whopping, etc.). O.E.D. (Sup.).—2. Hence, semi-adv., as in 'A corking great thing' (Manchon, 1923).

corks. A butler: from ca. 1860. H., 3rd ed. Cf. chips, a carpenter.—2. Money: nautical and military; from ca. 1858. H., 2nd ed. Ex the floating property of corks.

corks! A lower classes' coll. interjection: not recorded before 1926, but heard by the writer in late 1921. Either a corruption, prob. euphemistic, of cock's as in cock's (God's) body (O.E.D. Sup.), or an abbr., as I think, of corkscrew!, q.v. corkscrew. A funnel on the early ships of the General Steam Navigation Company: nautical: late C. 19—early 20. Bowen. Ex the black and white bands painted spirally.

corkscrew! An evasion of God's truth: low London (— 1909). Ware. Cf. cheese and crust.

corkscrowing. The uneven walk due to intoxication: from ca. 1840; coll., as is corkscrew, to move spirally (1837). Dickens: 'Mr. Bantam corkscrewed his way through the crowd' (S.O.D.).—2. corkscrew out. To draw out as with a corkscrew: coll.: 1852, Dickens (O.E.D.). corkscrews. Abbr. corkscrew curls: coll.; from ca. 1880. Displaces bottle-screws.

corky. Frivolous; lively; restive: from ca. 1600: coll.; ob. Contrast the S.E. senses.

corky-brained. A coll. variant (C. 17–19) of cork-brained, q.v.

corn, a great harvest of a little. Much ado about nothing: coll.; C. 17—early 19.

corn, carry. See carry corn.

Corn, the. The Cornmarket, Oxford: Oxford undergraduates': late C. 19–20. Collinson.

corn in Egypt. Plenty, esp. of food: coll. (in C. 20, S.E.); from ca. 1830.

[cornage. For its catachresis in law, see the O.E.D.]

corned. Drunk (— 1785). Grose. Cf. pickled and salted for semantics. Not, as often supposed, an Americanism, as, however, have corns in the head (to be drunk) may possibly be. In dial., corny.

Corned Beef Island. A Corporation housing-estate: urban: from ca. 1925. 'Like bully-beef tins' (Allan M. Laing).

corned dog. Bully beef: military: C. 20. F. & Gibbons.

corned with oneself, be. (Very) well pleased with oneself: tailors': from ca. 1920. E.g. in The Tailor and Cutter, Nov. 29, 1928.

cornelian tub. A sweating-tub: late C. 18—early 19 coll. Grose, 3rd ed.

corner. A money-market monopoly with ulterior motives. From the 1850's. Coll. >, by 1900, S.E. (Thornton).—2. The corner = Tattersall's subscription rooms: mid-C. 19–20, †; sporting. It is more than sixty years since 'Tatts' was near Hyde Park Corner.—3. Also, Tattenham Corner on the Derby course at Epsom: sporting, from ca. 1870.—4. In o. (— 1891), a share; the chance of a share in the proceeds of a robbery.

corner, v. Drive into a fig. corner: ex U.S. (1824), anglicised ca. 1840: coll.—2. Monopolise a stock or a commodity: from the mid-1830's in U.S. (whence, too, the corresponding n.) and anglicised before 1860.

corner, be round the. To get ahead of one's fellows by unfair or dishonest methods: from ca. 1860.

corner-boy. A loafer: Anglo-Irish coll.: from ca. 1880; but recorded in U.S. in 1855 (Thornton). Prob. suggested by corner cove, q.v. Cf. corner-man.

corner, hot. See hot corner.

corner-cove. A street-corner lounge or loafer: coll.; from ca. 1850. Mayhew.

corner-creeper. An underhand and furtive person: coll.; ca. 1560–1720; S.E. after 1600.

corner-man. A loafer: coll., from ca. 1880 (recorded in 1885). Replacing corner-cove, q.v.—2. An end man, 'bones' or 'tambourine', in a negro-minstrel or an analogous show: from ca. 1860; ob. H., 3rd ed.

cornerer. A question difficult to answer: coll. (— 1887). Baumann. Ex corner, v., 1.

cornering. The practice of corner, v., 2; q.v.

corney. See corny-faced.

cornichon. A 'muff' (e.g. at shooting): Society 1880—ca. 1886. Ex Fr. Ware.

Cornish duck. A pilehard: trade: from ca. 1865; ob. Cf. Yarmouth capon.

corns and bunions. Onions: rhyming s.: late C. 19–20. B. & P.

corns in the head, have. To be drunk: drinkers' (— 1745); † by 1860. Apperson.

cornstalk (or C.). A New South Welshman of European descent: coll.: from ca. 1825. Later (ca. 1880), and loosely, any Australian of the Eastern states. Peter Cunningham, 1827, 'From the way in which they shoot up'; rather, ex tendency to tall slimness. (Morris.)

cornuted. Cuckolded: late C. 17–18; coll. B.E. Ex a cuckold's horns. Cf.:

Cornwall without a boat, send (a man) into. To cuckold him: ca. 1565–1830. Painter, Palace of Pleasure, 1567; Halliwell. Punning † corn(e), a horn, (in fortification) hornwork. Apperson. Cf. cornuted.

corny-faced. Red and pimply with drink: ca. 1690–1830. B.E. Cf. corned.

coroner. A heavy fall: from ca. 1870; ob. I.e. one likely to lead to an inquest.—2. The Coroner was the nickname applied, ca. 1870–1900, to Dr. E. M. Grace, 'W. G.'s' brother.

corp. (Very rare as non-vocative.) Corporal: military coll.: C. 20. B. & P. Cf. sarge.—2. A corpse: nautical: late C. 19–20. Edwin Pugh, A Street in Suburbia, 1895; H. Maclaren, The Private Opinions of a British Blue-Jacket, 1929. Recorded in dial. as early as 1775: E.D.D.

corp out. To die: low (— 1923). Manchon. Prob. ex corpse, v., 2, after conk out, q.v.

corporal and four, mount a. To masturbate: low; late C. 18–20, ob. Grose, 1st ed.

Corporal Forbes or the Corporal Forbes. Cholera Morbus: Regular Army (esp. in India): from 1820's. Shipp's Memoirs, 1829. Yule & Burnell.

Corporal John. Marlborough, perhaps the greatest of British generals: orig. (ca. 1700), military; in mid-C. 18–20, only historical. Dawson.

corporation. A prominent belly: from ca. 1750; coll. C. Brontë, in Shirley, 'The dignity of an ample corporation'. Influenced by S.E. corpulent.

corporation's work, freeman of a. 'Neither strong nor handsome': c.p. of ca. 1780-1820. Grose, 1st ed. (Not very complimentary to corporate towns.)

corps commanders. (Singular very rare.) 'That species of lice with the Corps H.Q. colours, red and white', M. A. Mügge, The War Diary of a Square Peg, 1920: military: 1915; ob.

corpse. A horse entered in a race for betting purposes only: the turf, from ca. 1870.

corpse, v. To blunder (whether unintentionally or not), and thus confuse other actors or spoil a scene; the blunderer is said to be 'corpsed': theatrical: from ca. 1855; ob. H., 1st ed.—2. To kill: low; recorded in 1884. Henley & Stevenson in Deacon Brodie. Ex dial.

corpse lights. Corposants (St. Elmo's fire): nautical coll.: mid-C. 19-20. Bowen.

corpse-provider. A physician or a surgeon: from ca. 1840; ob.

corpse-reviver. Any powerful, refreshing drink: C. 20; ex a specific U.S. mixed drink.

corpse-ticket. A contemporaneous variant of cold-meat ticket, q.v. (F. & Gibbons.)

corpse-worship. A marked profusion of flowers at funerals: clubmen's: ca. 1880-1900. Ware says that 'this custom, set by the Queen at the mausoleum (Frogmore) immediately after the death of the Prince Consort [in 1861], grew rapidly . . . Finally, in the '90's, many death notices in the press were followed by the legend, "No flowers".'

corpus. Corpse: (dial. and) sol.: C. 19-20. (D. Sayers, The Nine Tailors, 1934.) Cf. corp, 2.

correct. The correct number or quantity; esp. in (up) to correct, (up) to the correct or specified number, etc.: military coll.: 1916. B. & P.

correct, all present and. All correct: coll.: from ca. 1918. R. Knox, Still Dead, 1934, "'Is that all present and correct?" "Couldn't be better."' Ex the military phrase (applied by a sergeant-major to a parade).

correct card, the. The right thing to have or do; the 'ticket': from ca. 1860, ex lit. racing sense. Often written k'rect card.

corro'boree, corro'bbery. A large social gathering or meeting (— 1892). Perhaps ex:—2. A drunken spree: nautical: late C. 19-20. Ware. Ex:—3. A fuss, noise, disturbance (— 1874). Ex the lit. senses (Australian); properly a Botany Bay aboriginal word.

corroboree, v. To boil (v.i.); to dance. Australia: from ca. 1880; ob. For v. and n., see Edward Morris's neglected dictionary, Austral English, 1898.

corruption, occ. in pl. Natural sinfulness, 'the old Adam': 1799; coll. until C. 20, when archaic S.E. (S.O.D.)

corruscate, corruscation. Incorrect for coruscate, coruscation: C. 17-20. O.E.D.

corsey. Reckless (betting or gambling): sporting coll.: 1883; ob. Ware. Ex Fr. corsé.

Corsican, the. Something unusual: sporting; ca. 1880-1913. Coined by F. C. Burnand (1836-1917), playwright and editor of Punch.

corybungus. The posterior: boxing; ca. 1850-1900. Etymology?

'cos. Because: coll.: C. 19-20. Baumann. Better spelt 'cause.

cosey. A late C. 19-20 variant of carsey = casa, case: qq.v.—2. Ware, however, notes that, in the London slums, it is (from before 1909) 'a small, hilarious public-house, where singing, dancing, drinking, etc., goes on at all hours'. Prob. influenced by S.E. cosy.

cosh. A life-preserver, 'neddy', i.e. a short, thin but loaded bludgeon, in C. 20 occ. of solid rubber; also (rare before C. 20) a policeman's truncheon. From ca. 1870: orig. c., then low. H., 5th ed; Edgar Wallace passim. Prob. ex Romany.—2. With the, one who uses a cosh: C. 20 c.

cosh, v. To strike with a cosh; esp. thus to render unconscious: late C. 19-20 c. Ex the n.—2. Hence merely, to hit: Cockneys': C. 20.

cosh-carrier. A harlot's bully: c. (— 1893). E.D.D. Ex cosh, n., 1. Hence, cosh-carrying: C. (— 1896): O.E.D. (Sup.).

coshier, n., see kosher.—2. In late C. 19-20 c., one who uses a cosh, q.v.—3. A policeman: Berkshire s. (— 1905). E.D.D., Sup.—4. V.i., to talk familiarly and free-and-easily: coll.: from ca. 1830. Cf. Scottish cosh, on intimate terms, ex cosh, snug comfortable.

cosier. An inferior seaman: naval: C. 19. Bowen. Ex the † S.E. cosier, -zier, a cobbler.

cosma. Incorrect for chasma, a chasm: late C. 16-17. O.E.D.

cos. A blow, a punch: hatters' (— 1909). Perhaps ex cosh + goss, q.v. Ware.

cossack. A policeman: from late 1850's. H., 1st ed.; The Graphic, Jan. 30, 1886, 'A policeman is also called a "cossack", a "Philistine", and a "frog".' All three terms are †.

coskid. A 'runner', i.e. a running messenger: Anglo-Indian coll.: late C. 17-20. Ex Arabic. (S.O.D.) coskie. A swimming costume: Australian: from ca. 1919. Origin?

cost. To be expensive: coll.: from ca. 1916. Norah Hault, Youth Can't Be Served, 1933, 'Them things cost these times.' Abbr. cost a lot of money.

costard. The head: jocularly coll. (— 1530). Palsgrave (O.E.D.); Udall in Ralph Roister Doister; Shakespeare; B.E.; Grose; Scott. Ex costard, a large apple. Cf.:

coster. Abbr. (— 1851) costermonger (C. 16), orig. costard-monger, at first a seller of apples, then of any fruit, finally of fruit, fish, vegetables, etc., from a barrow. Cf. costard, q.v., and barrow-man, q.v.

costering. Costermongering: from ca. 1850; ob. Mayhew, 1851 (O.E.D.); H., 1st ed.

costermonger Joe. 'Common title for a favourite coster': commercial London (— 1909). Ware.

costermongering. 'Altering orchestral or choral music, especially that of great composers': musical: ca. 1850-1910. Ware. Ex Sir Michael Costa's adaptations of Handel.

costive. Niggardly: late C. 16-20; coll., in C. 20 S.E. and rare. Cf. constipated.

cot. Abbr. cotquean, a man meddling with women's work and affairs: coll.: late C. 17-18. B.E. Extant in dial.

cot, on the. 'A man of a bad character, trying to amend his ways—i.e. in a moral hospital, so to speak': military: late C. 19-early 20. F. & Gibbons.

cotch. Except in dial., a sol. for catch: C. 19-20. In facetious usage, however, it is to be ranked as a coll.

cots. The shoe-strings of monitors: Christ's Hospital, ca. 1780-1890. Charles Lamb. Ex cotton.—2. God's, in coll. oaths: C. 16—mid-18 (O.E.D.)

cotso. A variant of catso, q.v.

Cots(w)old lion. A sheep: mid-C. 15—mid-19. Ex the sheep-fame of the Cotswolds. Anon., ca. 1540; 'Proverbs' Heywood; Harington in his Epigrams. Cf. Essex lion, Cambridgeshire nightingale. (Apperson.)

cottage. Abbr. cottage piano: (— 1880) coll. > j. —2. A urinal: ca. 1900–12. Ware.—3. Hence, any lavatory: theatrical: from ca. 1910.

Cottagers, the. Fulham Football Club ('soccer'): sporting: 1910, P. G. Wodehouse, Psmith in the City. They often play at Craven Cottage, London.

Cotterel's salad; Sir James (Cotter's or) Cotterel's salad. Hemp: Anglo-Irish, C. 18—early 19. Grose, 1st ed. A baronet of that name was hanged for rape.

cotton, v.i. Prosper; hence, agree together: coll.; the former (†), from ca. 1560; the latter, from ca. 1600. In an old play (1605), 'John a Nokes and John a Style and I cannot cotton.' The primary sense ('prosper') may arise ex 'a fig. sense of raising a nap on cloth', W.—2. Hence, with to, 'get on' well with (a person), take kindly to (an idea, a thing): from ca. 1800; coll. Barham, 'It's amazing to think, | How one cottons to drink!'

Cotton, leave the world with one's ears stuffed full of. To be hanged: Newgate c. of ca. 1820–40. 'Jon Bee', 1823. Ex the name of the Newgate chaplain, by a pun.

cotton-box. An American ship, bluff-bowed, for carrying cotton: nautical: C. 19. Bowen, 'The old clipper men used to speak of them as being built by the mile and sawn off in lengths when wanted.'

cotton in their ears, die with. A variant of Cotton, leave the world with one's ears stuffed full of.

cotton-lord, occ. -king. A wealthy manufacturer of, dealer in, cotton: 1823. Coll. >, by 1880, S.E. Cf. cottonocracy, Cottonopolis.

cotton on, v.i.; v.t. with to. To form, or have, a liking or fancy (for a thing, plan, person): coll.: C. 20. Ex cotton, 2. (O.E.D. Sup.)—2. To understand: from ca. 1910. C.O.D., 1934 Sup.

cotton-top. A loose woman preserving most of the appearances: ca. 1830–80. Ex stockings cotton-topped, silk to just above the ankles.

cotton up. To make friendly overtures; v.t. with to. Both coll.; from ca. 1850. See cotton.

cotton-wool, wrap in. To cosset, coddle: coll.; from ca. 1870; now almost S.E.

cottonocracy. Cotton magnates as a class: coll.: 1845. (S.O.D.) Cf.:

Cottonopolis. Manchester: from ca. 1870: coll. H., 5th ed. Cf. cotton-lord and Albertopolis.

cottons. Confederate bonds: from ca. 1870; Stock Exchange. Ex the staple of the Southern States, U.S.A.

Cotzooks! A coll. corruption of God's hooks (pails on the Cross): early C. 18. O.E.D.

couch a hog's head. Lit., to lay down one's head, i.e. to lie down and sleep: C. 16–17 c.; in C. 18, low. Recorded in Harman, B.E., Scott (as an archaism). Occ. cod's head.

couch a porker. A variant of the preceding: c.: (?) C. 18.

cough-drop. A 'character'; a quick courter or 'love'-maker: low coll.: 1895, The Referee, "Honest John Burns" . . . objects to being called "a cough drop". Ware postulates '1860 on'.

cough-lozenge. A mishap; something unpleasant; esp. in that's a cough-lozenge for (somebody): a virtual c.p. of 1850–60. Cf. preceding.

cough slum. See slum, cough.

cough up. To disclose: from C. 14, now ob. (not, as the S.O.D. says, †); S.E. in C. 14–17; coll. in C. 19–20.—2. To pay, v.i. and t.: from ca. 1895.—3. (Likewise ex sense 1.) To produce, hand over: C. 20; perhaps orig. U.S. coughing Clara. A heavy gun: military: late 1914. F. & Gibbons. Ex its report as heard from the Front.

couldn't speak a threepenny bit, I (etc.). I was unable to speak: London streets' (— 1909). Ware.

Coulson. A court jester: a coll. nickname (— 1553) soon > allusive S.E. Ex a famous fool so named. (O.E.D.: at patch.)

coulter-neb. The puffin: nautical: C. 19–20; ob. Bowen. Ex its sharp beak.

council and counsel are often misused one for the other: C. 18–20.

council-houses. Trousers: rhyming s.: from ca. 1925. Michael Harrison, Weep for Lycidas, 1934. Cf. round the houses.

council of ten. The toes of a man with in-turned feet: ca. 1858–90. H., 2nd ed.

councillor of the pipeword court. A pettifogging lawyer: coll.; ca. 1750–1850. Ex Court of Pie-powers, dealing summary justice at fairs; Fr. pieds poudreux.

counsellor. A barrister: Irish c. (— 1889) and dial. (— 1862). Ex Scots (C. 19–20). E.D.D.

count. A man of fashion: ca. 1840–60; coll. Cf. dandy, swell, toff.

count, out for the. (Often preceded by put.) Ruined; dead: from ca. 1880. Ex boxing.

count, take the. To die: from ca. 1890. Also ex boxing.

Count Eclipse. Dennis O'Kelly (d. 1787), owner of that now almost mythical racehorse Eclipse (b. 1764). Dawson.

count noses. To count the Ayes and Noes: Parliamentary: from ca. 1885; ob.

counter. An inferior officer of a counter or prison: C. 17. O.E.D. counter-hopper. A Londoners' coll. variant (ca. 1850–1910; Mayhew, 1851) of the next. E.D.D.

counter-jumper. A shopman: coll.: 1831, an American example (O.E.D. Sup.); S. Warren, 1841 (O.E.D.); H., 2nd ed.; G. A. Sala, 1864, 'He is as dextrous as a Regent Street counter-jumper in the questionable art of "shaving the ladies".' Baumann, 1887, and Manchon, 1923, have counter-skipper: † by 1930.

counterfeit crank. A sham-sick man: mid-C. 16–18: mostly c. Burton's Anatomy.

countermine. Incorrectly for countermure: ca. 1590–1740. O.E.D.

counterstrafe. To 'strafe' (q.v.) in retaliation: artillerymen's and infantry officers': 1916. B. & P.

counting-house. Countenance (n.): non-aristocratic, non-cultured: ca. 1870–1910. Ware.

country, go to the; in the country. See go to the country.

country, the. The outfield: from early 1880's: cricket s. >, by 1910, coll., now verging on S.E. Lillywhite's Cricket Companion, 1884 (O.E.D.). But country stroke appears as early as 1872. Also country catching (1888), c. field(sman) in 1890's. (W. J. Lewis.)

country, up the. See up, adj.

country-captain. A very dry curry, often with a spatch-cocked fowl; Anglo-Indian: coll.: from ca. 1790.—2. Also (—1792, †), the captain of a country-ship, q.v.

country cousin. A dozen: rhyming s. (—1909). Ware.—2. In pl., monthly courses: euphemistic (—1923). Manchon. See relations.

country-crop, in Manchon, is an error for county-crop, q.v.

country Harry. A waggoner: mid-C. 18—early 19 c. Grose, 2nd ed.

country-put. 'A silly Country-Fellow', B.E.: coll.; late C. 17—early 19. See put, n.

country-ship. A vessel owned in an Indian port: Anglo-Indian coll. (—1775); country-boat occurs as early as 1619. (Yule & Burnell.)

country with (one), be all up the. To be ruin, or death, for: coll. (—1887); virtually †. Baumann.

country work. Work slow to advance: coll. (—1811); ob. Lex. Bal.

county, adj. Wrapped up in the affairs of county Society; apt to consider such society to be the cream of the social milk; very much upper-middle class. Coll.: from ca. 1880.

county-court. To sue a person in a county court: coll.: from ca. 1850.

county-crop. Abbr. county-prison crop. Hair cut close and as though with the help of a basin: a 'fashion' once visited on all prisoners: ca. 1858—1910. H., 2nd ed.—2. Hence, county-cropped: 1867, J. Greenwood (O.E.D.).

couped up. B.E.'s spelling of cooped-up, q.v.

coupla. Couple of: U.S., anglicised ca. 1905: (low) coll. D. Sayers, 1934, 'He'd had nothing to eat . . . for a coupla days.'

couple, a. A couple of drinks: coll.: late C. 19—20. Richard Keverne, Menace, 1935, 'Stopped at the "Swan" for a couple'.

couple-beggar. A hedge priest: coll.: C. 18—19. Swift, in Proposal for Badges to the Beggars; prob. the earliest record; Lever, in Handy Andy. Cf. buckle-beggar.

couple of(f) doorsteps. A sandwich: low: C. 20. F. & Gibbons. Ex doorstep, q.v.

couple of flats. Two bad actors: theatrical: ca. 1830—80. Ware. A pun on the two scene-screens.

coupled. Incorrect for cupolaed: C. 17. O.E.D.

coupling-house. A brothel: C. 18—19; low coll.

coupon. (Political) a party leader's recommendation to an electoral candidate: 1918. Collinson. The term soon passed from s. to j.; thence, ca. 1930, to S.E. The coupon election was that of 1918 (Great Britain).

courage, Dutch. See Dutch courage.—courber*. See curber.

course. A C. 17—20 incorrect spelling of coarse. E.g. in B.E.—2. Abbr. of course, as in Course I did it or Course! (What do you suppose? !): late C. 19—20 coll. Baumann.

course with (a person), take a. To hamper him, follow him closely: coll.: mid-C. 17—early 19. B.E. Ex coursing.

court. To sue in a court of law: from ca. 1840: coll. Cf. county-court.

court card. 'A gay fluttering Fellow', B.E.; a dandy: coll.: ca. 1690—1800, then dial.

court cream; court element; court holy bread; court holy water; court water. Fair but insincere speeches, promises: C. 17—18 the first; the others being C. 16—18. All are coll., as, orig., was the C. 17—18 court promises. (O.E.D.)

court martial. (Gen. hyphenated.) To try by court martial: from ca. 1855; coll.

court noll, court noll. A courtier: coll., pejorative; ca. 1660—1680. In C. 17, S.E.

court of assistants. Young men to whom young wives, married to old men, are apt to turn: a late C. 18—early 19 facetious coll. punning the S.E. sense. Grose, 2nd ed.

court of guard. Sol. for corps de garde: late C. 16—early 19. O.E.D.

court tricks. 'State-Policy', B.E.: coll.; mid-C. 17—18.

court water. See court cream.

cousin. A trull: c.; —1863. S.O.D.—2. In late C. 16 c., a (rustic) 'pigeon'. Greene.

cousin Betty. A half-witted woman: mid-C. 19—20; ob.; coll. Mrs. Gaskell, in Sylvia's Lovers, '... Gave short measure to a child or a cousin Betty'.—2. Also, a strumpet: C. 18—mid-19: c. and, latterly, low s. 'Jon Bee.'

cousin Jan or Jacky. A Cornishman: coll. and dial.: from ca. 1850.

cousin the weaver or, as in Swift and Fielding, dirty cousin. Prefaced by my, these two terms—the latter much the more gen.—were, in late C. 17—18, pejorative forms of address: coll.

cousin Tom. A half-witted man: in C. 18 if a beggar, in C. 19 of any such unfortunate, though not applied to a person of standing.

cousin trumps. One of the same occupation or, occ., character: mainly, like brother smut, as a familiar tu-quoque. Coll.; C. 19.

couta. A rare form of couter.—2. A barracouta (fish); Australian coll.: late C. 19—20.—3. Hence, a Southern Tasmanian (gen. the word is used in the pl.): Northern Tasmanians' nickname: C. 20. These fish being plentiful in Southern Tasmania.

couter, occ. cooter. A sovereign: perhaps orig. c., certainly always low and mainly vagrants' and Cockney: from ca. 1835. Brandon, 1839; Snowden's Magistrate's Assistant, 1846 (O.E.D.); H., 1st ed.; James Payn in A Confidential Agent, 1880. Ex Romany kotor, a guinea.

cove. A man, a companion, chap, fellow; a rogue: from ca. 1560. In C. 16 often cofe. In C. 16—18, c.; still low. Harman, B.E., Grose; Dickens, in Oliver Twist, 'Do you see that old cove at the book-stall?' Prob. cognate with Romany cova, covo, that man, and, as W. suggests, identical with Scottish cofe, a hawk (cf. chap ex chapman).—2. Hence, in Australia, the owner, the 'boss', of a sheep-station: ca. 1870—1910. This sense owes something to:—3. the cove (or Cove), 'the master of a house or shop', Vaux: c. of ca. 1800—70. Cf. next entry but one.

cove of (the) dossing-ken. The landlord of a low lodging-house: C. 19 o. Cf.:

cove of the ken, the. 'The master of the house', Egan's Grose: c. of ca. 1820—70. Ex cove, 3.

Covent Garden. A farthing: rhyming s. on arden (—1857). 'Ducange Anglicus.'

Covent Garden abbess. A procuress: C. 18—early 19. The Covent Garden district, in C. 18, teemed with brothels. See esp. Beresford Chancellor's Annals of Covent Garden; Fielding's Covent Garden Tragedy; and Grose, P. Cf. Bankside ladies and Drury Lane vestal.

Covent Garden ague. A venereal disease: late C. 17—early 19. Ray, 1678; Grose, 1st ed. Cf.

Drury Lane ague, and see Covent Garden abbess and Covent Garden rails.

Covent Garden lady. A variant (ca. 1800–30), noted in 1823 by Bee, of:

Covent Garden nun. A harlot: mid-C. 18–early 19. Grose, 1st ed. Cf. nun and Drury Lane vestal.

Covent Garden rails, break one's shins against. To catch a venereal disease: low: late C. 18–early 19. Grose, 2nd ed. Cf. Covent Garden ague.

Coventry, gone to; or he (she, etc.) has gone to Coventry. He doesn't speak (to me, to us, etc.) nowadays: tailors': late C. 19–20. Ex:

Coventry, send one to. To ignore socially: mid-C. 18–20; orig. military. Coll., > S.E. ca. 1830. Origin uncertain: perhaps ex Coventry Gaol, where many Royalists were imprisoned during the Civil War (see e.g. Clarendon's History of the Rebellion, VI, § 83). Lytton, in Alice, 'If any one dares to buy it, we'll send him to Coventry.' Cf. the County Antrim go to Dingley couch, the Ulster send to Dingley-cootch, and see esp. the O.E.D. and Grose, P.

cover. A pickpocket's assistant: c.: from ca. 1810. Vaux. Cf. stall, q.v. Ex:

cover, v.t. and i. To act as a (thief's, esp. a pickpocket's) confederate: from ca. 1810: c. and low. Vaux.—2. To possess a woman: low coll.: C. 17–20. Urquhart's Rabelais, 1653. Ex stallion and mare. Cf. tup.

cover, at the. Adj. and adv., applied to a pickpocket cloaking the movements of the actual thief: c.: from ca. 1840. Charles E. Leach. See cover, n.

cover-arse gown. A sleeveless gown: Cambridge University, ca. 1760–1860.

cover-down. A false tossing-coin: c.: C. 19; † by 1891. See cap, n., last sense.

cover-me-decently. A coat: ca. 1800–50. Moncrieff in Tom and Jerry.

cover-slut. Apron, pinafore: coll.; C. 17–20, now archaic.

covered waggon. A fruit tart: Conway Training Ship (– 1891). Masfield.

coverer. An occ. † variant (Egan's Grose, 1823) of cover, n.

covert-feme. Dryden's facetious manipulation of the legal feme covert: he uses under covert-feme of a man under his wife's protection. Cf. Dickens's jocular application of coverture in Sketches by Boz.

covess. A woman: late C. 18–mid-19. George Parker, Lytton. Ex cove, 1, q.v.

covetise (†) and covetous were, in C. 14–16, often written the one for the other. O.E.D.

covey. A man: low: from ca. 1820; ob. Pierce Egan, 1821; Dickens in Oliver Twist, 'Hullo, my covey! what's the row?' Diminutive of cove, q.v.

covey (of whores). 'A well fill'd Bawdy-house', B.E.; late C. 17–early 19: coll.

covorly. Incorrect for cavally (a fish): mid-C. 19–20. O.E.D.

cow. A woman: in C. 18–20, low coll. Earlier, hardly opprobrious; Howell, in 1659, speaks of that proverb which, originating temp. Henry IV, runs, 'He that bulls the cow must keep the calf.'—2. A harlot: C. 19–20; ob.—3. (Sporting) £1000: from ca. 1860. Cf. pony, monkey.—4. Milk: Canadian: late C. 19–20. B. & P. Also, in C. 20, Australian: Ion L. Idriess, 1931.—5. (Always either a cow or, more strongly, a fair cow.) A (very) despicable person or an objectionable one; a (most) unworthy act; an obnoxious thing: C. 20 Australian and hence N.Z. (C. J. Dennis.) Esp. (even of a man), a fair cow.—6. A member of the chorus: theatrical (– 1923). Manchon. Cf. sense 1.—7. A tramp's woman: tramps' c. (– 1935). Cf. sense 2.

cow, sleep like a. (Of a married man) 'i.e. with a * at one's a-se', Grose, 1st ed., who quotes the quatrain, 'All you that in your beds do lie, | Turn to your wives and occupy; | And when that you have done your best, | Turn arse to arse, and take your rest'; for a variant here unquotable, see Grose, P. A mid-C. 18–mid-19 low coll.

cow and calf. To laugh: rhyming s. (– 1859); ob. H., 1st ed.

cow-baby. A faint-hearted person: coll.; from ca. 1590. In C. 19–20, dial.

cow-bridges. 'The fore and aft gangways in the waists of old men-of-war, before the days of completely planked main decks', Bowen: naval: C. 19.

cow climbed up a hill!, there was a. You're a liar!: c.p.: C. 20. F. & Gibbons.

cow-cocky. A dairy-farmer: Australian: from ca. 1890. See cocky, n., 5.

cow come home, till the. C. 17–18 coll. See cows come home.

cow-cow, v.i. and t. To be in a rage; to scold, reprimand severely: Anglo-Chinese; mid-C. 19–20. H., 3rd ed.

cow-cumber, cawcumber. Cucumber: sol. in mid-C. 19–20; S.E. in C. 16–early 19. Dickens. (It is fairly gen. in dial.)

cow-(occ. bushel-, sluice-)*c*nted*. Low coll. pejorative applied to a woman deformed by child-bearing or by harlotry: C. 19–20.

cow died of, the tune the old. See tune the old cow . . .

cow-feed. Salad; raw vegetables: naval and military: C. 20. F. & Gibbons.

cow-grease or -oil. Butter: coll.: mid-C. 19–20. In C. 19, gen. cow's-grease ('Ducange Anglicus'). Cf. cow-juice, q.v.

cow-gun. A heavy naval gun: naval s. (from ca. 1900) >, by 1915, coll. O.E.D. (Sup.).

cow-handed. Awkward: late C. 18–19 coll. Grose, 1st ed.

cow-heart. Either jocular or pedantically sol. for coward: C. 19–20 (? earlier). Prob. suggested by:

cow-hearted. 'Fearful or Hen-hearted', B.E.; coll., verging on S.E.: mid-C. 17–20, ob. Cf. preceding.

cow-hitch. A clumsily tied knot: nautical (– 1867). Smyth. As in cow-gun and cow-handed, the idea is of unwieldiness.

cow-hocked. Thick-ankled; large- or clumsy-footed. Coll.; mid-C. 19–20.

cow-horn. A brass mortar on shipboard: naval: late C. 19–20; ob. Bowen. A perversion of coe-horn.

cow in a cage, as comely (or nimble) as a. Very ungainly or clumsy: coll.: 1399, Langland; 1546, Heywood; 1678, Ray; 1732, Fuller. Apperson. Cf. bull in a china shop.

cow-juice. Milk: coll.; late C. 18–20. Grose, 3rd ed.; heard on the Conway Training Ship (– 1890), says Masfield. (Cf. sky-juice.) Esp. opp. tinned cow.

cow-lick. 'A peculiar lock of hair, greased, curled, brought forward from the ear, and plastered on the cheek. Once common amongst costermongers and tramps.' F. & H.; H., 2nd ed., has it. Coll. >, by 1900, S.E. (First used in late C. 16, prob. of a fashion different from that of the costers.) Cf. aggerawater.

cow-oil. See cow-grease.

cow-pad. A third-term cadet employed in keeping the petty officers' quarters clean: Training Ship Worcester: late C. 19–20. Bowen.

cow-quake. A bull's roar: coll., mostly Irish and dial.: C. 19–20.

cow-shooter. A 'deerstalker' hat, worn by seniors: Winchester College, C. 19.

cow-shot. A flat, scooping leg-stroke made by a batsman down on one knee and hitting against the flight of the ball: cricketers' s. (1904) >, by 1930, coll. Lewis. A more clumsy shot, made by a standing batsman, is termed an agricultural one: coll.: from ca. 1930.

cow-turd. A piece of cow-dung: late C. 15–20: S.E. until C. 19, then a vulgarism. (O.E.D.)

cow-with-the-iron-tail. (Gen. without hyphens.) A pump, i.e. water mixed with milk: jocular coll.: from ca. 1790.

cowan. A sneak, eavesdropper, Paul Pry; an uninitiated person; from ca. 1850. Ex free-masonry, certainly the last nuance and perhaps the others. Ex Scottish cowan or kirwan, a rough stone-mason; or, less prob., Gr. κύων, a dog.

cowardise. Incorrect for cowardous: late C. 16. O.E.D.

coward's castle or corner. A pulpit, 'six feet above argument': coll.; C. 19–20, ob.

cowle. Almost any document of a promissory or warranty nature, e.g. lease, safe-conduct: Anglo-Indian, from late C. 17.

cows-and-kisses. (But occ. unhyphenated.) The 'missus': wife or mistress (of house); any woman. Rhyming s. (— 1857). 'Ducange Anglicus'.

cow's baby, occ. babe. A calf: late C. 17–20; coll. B.E., Grose.—2. Hence, ca. 1820–60, 'any lubberly kind of fellow', Bee, 1823.

cow's calf. In racing c., C. 20: ten shillings, in coin, currency note or value. Rhyming on half (a sov.).

cows come home, till the. An indefinite time; for ever: mostly Canada, Australia, New Zealand: coll.: mid-C. 19–20. Ex U.S. (1824: Thornton); orig. (1610), English, as till the cow come home (O.E.D.).

cow's courant. A 'gallop and sh-[t]e', Grose, 2nd ed.: low coll.: late C. 18–early 19. Courant = coranto, a quick dance.

cow's grease (H., 1st ed.). See cow-grease.

cow's-spouse. A bull: late C. 18–mid-19. Grose, 3rd ed. Prob. spouse rather than wife by rhyming association: cf. bubbly jock.

cow's thumb, to a. Mid-C. 17–20, ob.; coll. 'When a thing is done exactly, nicely [i.e. fastidiously], or to a Hair', B.E.: is this ironical?

cowsh. An Australian and New Zealand variant (— 1914) of bullsh (see bull-shit).

cowson. A variant of 'son of a bitch'; applied also to things: c., and low: C. 20. James Curtis, The Gilt Kid, 1936. Prob. ex cow, 2.

cox. Abbr. coxswain: from ca. 1880; coll.—2. The same applies to the v. (t. or i.).

coxcomb. The head: jocular coll., punning cock's comb; late C. 16–19. Shakespeare. Cf. S.E. senses. See esp. Weekley's More Words Ancient and Modern.

Coxey's army. A 'rag-time' army: Canadian military in G.W. (B. & P.) Adopted from U.S.

coxy. See cocksy.

coxygeal. Incorrect for coccygeal: C. 19–20. O.E.D.

coy or Coy. See co, 2.

coyduck. To decoy, v.t., rarely v.i.: C. 19–20, coll. and dial. Prob. ex coy-duck = decoy-duck, and not, as Farmer ingeniously suggests, a blend of conduct and decoy.

coyote. The puendum muliebre: C. 19. (Cf. cat, pussy.) Lit., the barking-wolf of the U.S.

coz. Abbr. cousin: used either lit. or to a friend: coll.; late C. 16–early 19. Shakespeare.

cozier. See cosier.

cozza. Pork: cheapjacks' and costers'; from ca. 1850. Charles Hindley, 1876. Origin?

crab. A decoy at auctions: low, C. 19–20, ob.—2. Abbr. crab-louse, a human-body louse, esp. and properly one of those unpleasant vermin which affect the pubic and anal hair: low coll., from ca. 1800. In B.E.'s day, crab-louse itself was coll.—3. See crabs.—4. The action, or an instance, of finding fault: coll.: from ca. 1890. (O.E.D. Sup.) Ex crab, v.—5. A drawback: coll.: from ca. 1910.—6. A midshipman: naval: late C. 19–20. Bowen.—7. A type of aeroplane (Avro 504K) used for the training of novices: Royal Air Force: from ca. 1920. Because it is slow and esp. because of its well-splayed and much-braced under-carriage.

crab, v. To 'pull to pieces', criticise adversely: low s. >, ca. 1840, gen. s. >, ca. 1870, coll.; from ca. 1810. (Vaux.) Occ. as v.i.: mid-C. 19–20. Cf. the S.E. senses, to oppose, irritate, and the C. 19–20 c. sense, to expose, inform on, insult, spoil. Vbl.n., crabbing.

crab, catch a. See catch a crab.—crab, land. See land crab.

crab, throw a. A v.i. form (c. of ca. 1810–40) of crab, v. Vaux.

Crab and Winkle Line. The railway line between Tollesbury and Kelvesdon in Essex: railwaymen's: C. 20. Ex the crabs and periwinkles on the Essex coast.

crab-fat. Whale-oil for frost-bite: military: 1916. B. & P. As though against lice.

crab grenade. A flat, oblong German hand-grenade: military: 1915; ob. B. & P.

crab lanthorn. A peevish fellow: late C. 18–early 19 coll. Grose, 1st ed. Cf. crab wallah.

crab-louse. See crab, n., 2.

crab-shells. Boots, shoes: from ca. 1780, perhaps orig. c., for in c. crabs = feet. Grose, 1st ed.; Mayhew, 'With a little mending, they'll make a tidy pair of crab-shells again.' Cf. trotter- or trotting-cases.

Crab Street, in. 'Affronted; out of humour', Vaux: c. (— 1812); † by 1890. A pun on crabbed. Cf. Queer Street.

crab wallah. An evil man: Regular Army's: late C. 19–20. B. & P. Cf. crab lanthorn and see wallah.

crabber. A fault-finder: coll.: C. 20. Ex crab, v.: q.v.

crabs. In c., shoes: ca. 1810–50. Also feet: from ca. 1840. Abbr. crab-shells.—2. In gaming, esp. at hazard, a throw of two aces, 'deuce-ace' (cf. deuce, the): from ca. 1765: Lord Carlisle, 1768; Barham. Whence:

crabs, come off or turn out or up (a case of). Of things: to be a failure, unfortunate. C. 19–20.

crabs, draw. See draw crabs.

crabs, get. To receive no money: c. (— 1923). Manchon. Perhaps ex crab, n., 2: ? cf. Fr. low s., recevoir peau de zébie.

crabtree comb. A cudgel: jocular coll.: late C. 16–19.

crack. Abbr. crack-brain, a crazy or soft-headed person: coll.; C. 17–18. Dekker, Addison.—2. A harlot: ca. 1670–1820: orig. c., then low. D'Urfey, 1676 (O.E.D.); B.E.; Farquhar, 'You imagine I have got your whore, cousin, your crack'; Vanbrugh; Dyche, Grose. ? ex crack, the female genitals: low, C. 16–20.—3. A lie (the mod. form is cracker): ca. 1600–1820; coll. Goldsmith, 'That's a damned confounded crack.' Whence, prob., the coll. sense, a liar: C. 17.—4. In mid-C. 18–19 c., a burglar or a burglary: whence—both in Vaux—cracksmán; and the crack, a (—1812) variant of (the) crack lay.—5. Any person or thing—though very rarely the latter in C. 20—that approaches perfection: coll.; from ca. 1700 for persons, from ca. 1630 for things (cf. the adj.).—6. Hence esp. a racehorse of great excellence: from ca. 1850. E.g. in those very horsey publications, Diogenes, 1853, Derby Day, 1864, and From Post to Finish (1884), the third by Hawley Smart, the less popular Nat Gould of the '80's and '90's.—7. Cf. the crack, the fashion or vogue: ca. 1780–1840: fashionable world, as rendered by Pierce Egan, his cronies and his rivals. Grose, 2nd ed. Cf. crack, adj.—8. A crisp and resounding blow: coll.; S.O.D. records for 1838. Ex the crack of a whip or a shotgun.—9. Dry firewood: c., 'gypsy', and low: from ca. 1840 (recorded in Mayhew in 1851). Ex the crackling sound it emits when burning.—10. 'A narrow passage [or alley] of houses': London proletarian (— 1909). Ware.—11. See half a crack. Like caroon, crack is prob. a mere corruption or perversion of crown.—12. See 'Fops' in Addenda. Ex sense 5.

crack, v. To boast, brag: C. 15–20, ob. S.E. till ca. 1700, then coll. and dial. Burton in his Anatomy: 'Your very tradesmen . . . will crack and brag'.—2. To fall into disrepair; into ruin: C. 17–19 coll. Dryden.—3. To collapse; break down (v.i.): sporting, from ca. 1870.—4. To break open, burgle: c. and low: from ca. 1720. Dickens in Oliver Twist, 'There's one part we can crack, safe and softly.' Esp. in crack a crib, to break into a house, likewise c. and low.—5. Wholly c.: to inform; v.t. with on: ca. 1850–1910.—6. To drink (cf. crush): late C. 16–20: coll. Gen. with a quart or a bottle. Shakespeare in the 2nd Henry IV, 'By the mass, you'll crack a quart together'; Fielding and Thackeray (a bottle).—7. V.i., a variant of crack along, q.v.: coll.: mid-C. 19–20. (O.E.D.)—8. V.i., to fire (a rifle, shotgun, etc.): v.t., with at. Coll.; from ca. 1870.—9. In cricket, from ca. 1880, to hit (the ball) hard.—10. To smite (a person): Australian: late C. 19–20. E.g. 'He'll crack you one'; C. J. Dennis.

crack, adj. First-class; excellent: from ca. 1790; coll. Esp. of regiments, riflemen, and athletes. Thackeray, 1839, 'Such a crack-shot myself, that fellows were shy of insulting me.' Cf. crack, n., 5, 6.

crack, fetch a. See fetch a crack.

crack, in a. Instantaneously: coll.: from ca. 1720. Byron, 1819, 'They're on the stair just now, and in a crack will all be here.'

crack, must have been sleeping near a. See sleeping near a crack.

crack a boo. 'To divulge a secret; to betray emotion', C. J. Dennis: low Australian (— 1916).

crack a bottle. See crack, v., 6.

crack a crib. See crack, v., 4.

crack a crust. To make a living; rub along. Superlatively, crack a tidy crust: coll., from ca. 1850. Mayhew, 'Crack an honest crust'; H., 1874, 'A very common expression among the lower orders'.

crack a Judy, a Judy's tea-cup. (Cf. the U.S. use of Jane, any girl.) To deprive a maid of her virginity. C. 19–20, low, ob.

crack a ken or a swag. To commit a burglary: c.; the former, C. 18; the latter C. 19–20, ob.

crack a whid. To talk: C. 19–20 (ob.) c. Vaux; Hindley's Cheap Jack. See whid.

crack along or on. V.i., to make great speed. V.t., crack on or out, to cause to move quickly, often with connotation of jerkily. Both coll., recorded in 1541. In C. 19, the adv. is often omitted. (S.O.D.)

crack-brain(ed), -headed, -skull, nn. and adj. Indicative of craziness: all coll. quickly > S.E.; C. 16–19. Here crack = cracked.

crack-fencer. A seller of nuts: low or c.; from ca. 1850; † by 1900. H., 1st ed.

crack-halter, -hemp, -rope, nn. and adj. A gaol-bird; a good-for-nothing 'born to be hanged'. All coll. passing rapidly to S.E.: the first and second, C. 16–17; the third, C. 15–early 19. Gascoigne and Dekker, c.-halter; Shakespeare, c.-hemp; Massinger and Scott, c.-rope.

crack hardy. To endure patiently, suppress pain or emotion; in low Australian, to keep a secret: C. 20. C. J. Dennis.

crack-haunter or hunter. The membrum virile: low, C. 19–20. Cf. crack, n., 2, 3.

crack-hemp. See crack-halter.

crack into (reputation, repute, fame, etc.). To render (famous, etc.) by eulogy: coll. (— 1892); ob.

crack-jaw. Difficult to pronounce: coll.: from ca. 1870. Miss Braddon.

crack-lay, the. House-breaking: from ca. 1785; ob.; c. Grose, 2nd ed.

crack on, v.i. See crack along.—2. To pretend; esp. pretend to be ill or hurt: ? orig. military: from the 1880's, if not earlier. See the Kipling quotation at blind, v.

crack (or break) one's egg or duck. To begin to score: cricket; from ca. 1868.

crack-pot. A pretentiously useless, worthless person: coll.: from ca. 1860.

crack-rope. See crack-halter.

crack the bell. To fail; muddle things, make a mistake; ruin it: Cockneys' (— 1909); slightly ob. Ware.

crack the monica. To ring the bell (to summon a performer to reappear): music-halls': ca. 1860–90. Ware.

crack-up. To praise highly: coll.; from ca. 1840. James Payn, 'We find them cracking up the country they belong to.' Orig. (1835: Thornton), U.S.—2. V.i., to be exhausted; break down, whether physically or mentally: from ca. 1850; coll. Cf. cracked.

cracked. Ruined; bankrupt: from early C. 16; S.E. in C. 16–17, rare in C. 18, coll. in C. 19, ob. then † in C. 20. Mayhew, who has the more gen. cracked up.—2. Crazy: C. 17–20; S.E. until ca. 1830.—3. (With variant cracked in the ring) deflowered: C. 18–20, low, perhaps coll. rather than

s.—4. Penniless; ruined: low — 1860); ob. H., 2nd ed.

'cracked in the right place', as the girl said (occ. preceded by yes! but). A C. 20 low c.p. in reply to an insinuation or an imputation of madness, eccentricity, or rashness. Heard in 1922; but older.

cracked-up. See sense 1 of cracked.

cracker. A lie; a (very) tall story: C. 17–20, ob.: coll.—2. In C. 18, a pistol. Smollett.—3. A very fast pace, a large sum, a dandy, and analogically: from ca. 1870. The Daily News, Nov. 1, 1871, 'The shooting party, mounting their forest ponies, came up the straight a cracker.'—4. A heavy fall; a smash: from ca. 1865; ob.—5. (The mod. sense, a thin, crisp biscuit, may derive ex the C. 17–18 c. and low cracker, a crust, as recorded by B.E.; cf. the early C. 19 c. sense, 'a small loaf, served to prisoners in jails', Vaux).—7. Leather, gen. sheepskin, trousers: South African coll. (— 1833). Pettman.—8. In mid-C. 17–early 19 c., the backside (as in Coles and B.E.).—9. In C. 20 c., and gen. in pl., prisoners that are insane or epileptic or suicidal or injured in head and spine.—10. (Gen. pl.) A cartridge: New Zealanders: from ca. 1910.

cracker-hash. Pounded biscuit with minced salt meat: nautical coll.: mid-C. 19–20. Bowen.

crackers. See cracker, 9 and 10.

crackers, adj. Crazy; mad: lower classes': C. 20. Ex:—2. get the crackers, to go mad: id.: late C. 19–20. F. & Gibbons.

crackey. See crikey.

crackiness. Extreme eccentricity; craziness: coll.: from ca. 1860; ob.

cracking. Boasting. Burglary. See crack, v., resp. 1, 3.

cracking, adj. Very fast; exceedingly vigorous (— 1880): slightly ob.

cracking, get. See get cracking.

cracking a (tidy) crust. See crack a crust.

cracking tools. 'Implements of house-breaking', Egan's Groser: c. (— 1823) >, by 1860, low; ob.

crackish. (Of women only) wanton: late C. 17–early 19; coll. B.E. Ex crack, n., 2.

crackle, crackling. The velvet bars on the hoods of 'the Hogs', or students of St. John's, Cambridge: from ca. 1840. Cf. Isthmus of Suez, a covered bridge at the same college: ex L. sus, a pig.

crackmans, cragmans. A hedge: C. 17–early 19. c. Rowlands; B.E.; Grose. See -mans. Perhaps ex a hedge's cracks or gaps.

cracksman. A house-breaker (see crack, v. 4): from ca. 1810; orig. c. Vaux, Lytton, Barham, Dickens. The most famous of fictional cracksmen is Hornung's Raffles.—2. Hence, the membrum virile: from ca. 1850.

cracky. See crikey.

-cracy. -rule, -power, -government. Often, in C. 19–20, used in humorous or sarcastic coll.: as, e.g. in beerocracy, cartocracy, dollarocracy, mobocracy.

Craddock brick. A man of the Craddock district and town: South African nickname (— 1871). Pettman.

craft. A bicycle: youths': ca. 1870–80. Ware. (Bicycles were still a novelty).—2. sweet craft, a woman: nautical: C. 20. Manchon.

crag. See scrag.—cragmans. See crackmans.

crag, long. A long purse: Aberdeen, either c. or low: late C. 18–mid-19. Shirrefs, 1790 (E.D.D.). Perhaps because a long purse (vaguely) resembles a long neck.

crail capon. 'A haddock dried unsplit': nautical: mid-C. 19–20. Bowen.

cram. A lie, cf. the more frequent crammer. From ca. 1840. Punch, 1842, 'It soundeth somewhat like a cram.'—2. Hard, 'mechanical' study (gen. for an examination), both the action and the acquisition: coll.; from ca. 1850.—3. A 'crib', an aid to study: university and school; from ca. 1850. 'Cuthbert Bede' in Verdant Green.—4. A coach or private tutor: from ca. 1855. Dutton Cook, in Paul Foster's Daughter, 1861, 'I shall go to a coach, a cram, a grindstone.'—5. (Of a crowd) a crush or jam: coll.: 1858, Dickens. (S.O.D.) cram, v.i. and t. To tell lies; to ply, hence to deceive, with lies. From ca. 1790 (recorded 1794, in The Gentleman's Magazine). Ex the idea of stuffing, over-feeding with lies.—2. To prepare oneself or another hastily, gen. for an examination (cf. the n., 2–4): coll., from ca. 1800: university and school. Gradus and Cantabrigiam.—3. To urge on a horse with spur and/or knee and/or hand or reins: sporting, from ca. 1830.—4. To coit with (a woman): low: mid-C. 19–20. For semantics, see sense 1: cf. stuff in its sexual sense.

cram-book. A book used for cramming, q.v.: coll.; from ca. 1855. O.E.D.

cram-coach. A tutor that 'crams' pupils for examinations: coll.; from ca. 1880. (O.E.D.)

cram-paper. A list of prospective answers to be 'crammed' for examination: coll.: from ca. 1875.

crammable. Capable of being mechanically learnt or soullessly prepared: coll.: from ca. 1865. O.E.D.

crammed, ppl. adj. (Of a person or a lesson) hastily prepared for an examination: coll.: from ca. 1835.

crammer. A liar: from ca. 1860. Cf. cram, n. and v.—2. A lie (cf. id.): from ca. 1855. H. C. Pennell, Puck on Pegasus, 'I sucked in the obvious crammer as kindly as my mother's milk'; Trollope, 1880.—3. One who prepares students, pupils, for examination (cf. coach, grinder): from ca. 1810; coll. Maria Edgeworth in Patronage.—4. A pupil or student 'cramming' for an examination (like the preceding, ex cram, v., 2): coll., rare; from ca. 1812.

crammer's pup. (Gen. pl.) The pupil of a 'crammer' (sense 3): military (— 1923). Manchon.

cramming, vbl.n. The act of studying, less often of preparing another, for an examination: coll.; from ca. 1820. 'Aspirants to honours in law . . . know the value of private cramming,' Punch, 1841; Herbert Spencer, 1869.—2. As adj., from ca. 1830. Southey.

cramp. Prayer; to pray: Bootham School: late C. 19–20. Anon., Dict. of Bootham Stang, 1925. Ex the cramped position.

cramp, the. S.E. cramp: C. 19–20; coll.

cramp-dodge. Simulated writer's cramp: school-boys' coll., mostly London (— 1887). Baumann.

cramp in the hand. Niggardliness; 'costiveness': C. 19–20, ob.; coll.

cramp one's style. See style, cramp one's.

cramp-rings. Fetters: from ca. 1560; c. in C. 16–17, c. and low in C. 18. Harman, Dekker, Coles, Grose. Ex the S.E. sense, a gold or silver ring that, blessed on Good Friday by the sovereign, was considered a cure for falling sickness and esp. for cramp.

cramp-word. 'Crack-jaw' word; a word either very hard for the illiterate to pronounce or for most to understand: from ca. 1690: coll. B.E.; Dyche; Mrs. Cowley, 'Cramp words enough to puzzle and delight the old gentleman the remainder of his life'; Combe.—2. A sentence of death: C. 18—early 19 c. Dyche.

cramped. Hanged; derivatively, killed: c. and low: C. 18—19. A development from † S.E. cramp, to compress a person's limbs as a punishment.

cramping-cull. The hangman: c.: C. 18—early 19. Cull = man. Semantic.

cramps. See Venetian cramps.—cranch. See craunch.

crane. To hesitate at an obstacle, a danger: from ca. 1860: coll. >, by 1890, S.E. Ex hunting j.

craner. One who hesitates at a difficult jump: hunting coll.; from ca. 1860.

cranium. Jocular coll.; from ca. 1640: the head. In S.E. it is an anatomical term.

crank. Gin and water: late C. 18—early 19. Grose, 1st ed. Perhaps ex crank, pert, lively, exceedingly high-spirited, which may itself in C. 17—18, after being S.E. in C. 16, have been coll. (see B.E.), just as in C. 19 it > coll.—2. A person odd, eccentric, very 'faddy', mildly monomaniacal: orig. (— 1881), U.S., anglicised ca. 1890; in C. 20, coll. Prob. ex cranky, q.v.—3. In mid-C 16—18 c., a beggar feigning sickness or illness; also, the falling sickness. Harman. Ex Ger. krank, ill. Cf. counterfeit crank.

[crank. (Nautical) easily capsized: from late C. 17: despite F. & H., rather j. than unconventional.]

crank-cuffin. A vagrant feigning sickness. C. 18 c. Ex crank(e).

crank of, be a. See cranky, 2.—cranke. See crank, n., 3.

cranky. Crotchety; eccentric; slightly mad (rare): from ca. 1850; coll. >, by 1900, S.E. H., 1st ed. Cf. the S.E. and c. senses of crank, n. and adj.—2. Hence, cranky on, like a crank of, is C. 20 coll.: enthusiastic about, 'mad on'. Manchon.

cranny. The puendum muliebre: low coll.; C. 19—20; ob. Whence cranny-hunter, its male opponent.—2. A half-caste: Anglo-Indian coll.: mid-C. 19—20. Ex cranny as applied, orig. and mainly in Bengal, to a clerk writing English, itself ex Hindustani karani. Yule & Burnell.

cransier. Incorrect for creancer: long †. O.E.D.

crap or crop. Money: from ca. 1690. B.E. Orig. either c. or dial.; in C. 19 either s. or dial. Cf. dust for origin.—2. In c., C. 19, gallows: cf. to crop, to harvest. Vaux. Ex crap, v., 2.—3. (Printers') type that has got mixed; 'pie': from ca. 1850 (crap only).—4. A defecation: low coll.: mid-C. 19—20. Esp. do a crap. Ex:

crap, v. To defecate, evacuate: low coll.: mid-C. 18—20. ? cf. crop, v.i., to take in the harvest.—2. In c., however, it = to hang: from ca. 1780. G. Parker. Cf. crop.

crape it. 'To wear crape in mourning': coll.: late C. 19—20. O.E.D.

crapping-casa, -case, -castle, or -ken. A w.-c.: low: C. 18—20 for all except -castle, which is C. 19—20; as croppin-ken, however, it occurs in Coles, 1676. Ob.—2. The third, in hospital, = a night-stool: C. 19.

crapple-mapple. Ale (?): Perthshire s.: from ca. 1880. Charles Spence, Poems, 1898 (E.D.D., Sup.).

crappo. A type of improvised French trench-mortar, somewhat like a toad: military: 1915—18. F. & Gibbons. Direct ex Fr. Army s. crapaud.

crash. Entertainment: C. 17 (? 18): S.E. or coll. Nares.—2. In C. 16, revelry: S.E.—3. (Theatrical) the machine that produces 'thunder'; this or any analogous noise: from ca. 1870; ob.

crash, v.i., occ. t., of an aeroplane: to come (bring) down, gen. violently, out of control: G.W. + (not heard, I believe, in 1914); at first coll., but almost imm. S.E. Its fig. use is coll. (— 1931). Lyell, 'He . . . slipped up on a piece of orange peel and crashed.'—2. Cf. the late C. 17—early 19 c. crash, to kill. B.E. Prob. ex North Country dial. crash, to smash.

crash-dive. 'The sudden submersion of a submarine on being surprised, or in imminent danger of being rammed': naval coll.: 1915. F. & Gibbons.

crash one's fences. To make mistakes: sporting, esp. hunting, coll.: late C. 19—20.

crasher. A person or thing exceptional in size, merit or, esp., beauty: coll.: from ca. 1908. A. E. W. Mason, The Dean's Elbow, 1930, 'Miss Lois . . . is considered . . . rather a crasher. . . . Not what I should call homey, but a crasher.'—2. A lie: Cheshire s. (— 1898). E.D.D.

crashing bore. A very tedious or tiresome person or, occ., thing: coll.: from ca. 1915. Anthony Berkeley, Panic Party, 1934, 'It's a crashing bore . . . to think of those dim cads knocking us for six like this, but . . . it's no use getting strenuous about it.' Ex aviation. Cf. crushing, q.v.

crashing-cheats. The teeth: ca. 1560—1830. Until ca. 1750, c.; then low. Lit., crunching-things.—2. In mid-C. 16—early 17 c., fruit.

-crat, -ocrat. The same remark as at -cracy.

crate. A British aeroplane: Air Force: 1916. B. & P. By dysphemism.

crater, crat(h)ur. See creature.

crathe. Incorrect for crach, i.e. cratch: long † O.E.D. craunch; occ. cranch. What can be craunched: coll.: from ca. 1870. A variant of crunch (v.). O.E.D.

craw. The human stomach: C. 16—20: pejorative coll. > S.E. (ob.). Whence craw-thumper, a Roman Catholic: from ca. 1780. Cf. brisket-beater. Grose, 1st ed.—2. Also, jocularly, a cravat falling broadly over the chest: coll.: ca. 1780—1830.

crawfish. To withdraw unreservedly from an untenable position: New Zealand soldiers' in G.W. The crayfish swims backwards.

crawl. A workman given to currying favour with foreman or employer: tailors'; mid-C. 19—20.

crawl, do a. See do a crawl.

crawl home on one's eye-brows. To return (esp., home) utterly exhausted: military coll. (1915) >, by 1919, gen. Lyell. Cf. chin-strap, q.v.

crawl with. To be alive, or filled, with: military coll. (1915) >, by 1920, gen. coll. F. & Gibbons; Lyell. On be lousy with.

crawler. A cab that leaves the rank to search for fares; this the driver does by coasting the pavement at a very slow pace: coll.; from ca. 1860. Rarely applied to taxis.—2. A contemptible sycophant: coll.; from ca. 1850. The Evening News, Sept. 21, 1885, 'The complainant call her father a liar, a bester [q.v.], and a crawler.'—3. A louse, a maggot, a nit: coll.: ca. 1790—1830 (O.E.D.). Cf. creeper, 4.

crawling on one's eye-brows. Exhausted, tired out: military: late 1914. F. & Gibbons.

crawling on you?, what's. See what's bit you?
crawly. Having, or like, the feeling of insects a-crawl on one's skin: coll.: 1860. Cf. S.E. creepy.

crawly-mawly. Weakly; ailing: mid-C. 19–20 (ob.) coll. H., 3rd ed. Rhyming reduplication ex crawl. Adopted from Norfolk dial. of mid-C. 17–20.

cray. A crayfish: (low) Australian (— 1916).
 C. J. Dennis.

crayfish. A 'crawler'; a contemptible schemer:
 New Zealanders': in G.W.

crayt(h)ur or craychur. See creature.

crazy. Very eager (for or about, or to do, something): coll.: from the 1770's. (O.E.D. Sup.) crazy-back; crazy Jack. Baumann. 'whom the O.E.D. has unfortunately overlooked) defines, resp., as närrischer Fant, a silly coxcomb, affected 'puppy', and verrücktes Weibsbild, a crazy or a droll hussy: I know neither of these terms (London

 s. of ca. 1880–1910), but I suspect that, by a printer's error, the definitions have been transposed.

creak in his shoes, make one. To make him smart for it, give him a devilish bad time: London coll. (— 1887); ob. Baumann. (Creaking shoes are often painful.)

cream. 'Father-stuff', as Whitman has it: low coll., C. 19–20. Hence, cream-stick, the membrum virile: C. 18–20, low coll.

cream (or green) cheese, make one believe the moon is made of. To humbug; impose upon: coll.; C. 19–20. Cf. bamboozle.

cream fancy (billy). A handkerchief, white or cream of ground but with any pattern. From ca.
 1830: mostly sporting. Brandon. Cf. belcher.

cream-ice jack. (Gen. pl. and c.-i.-J.) A street seller of ice-creams: London streets' (— 1909).
 Ware, 'Probably from Giacomo and Giacopo', common It. names, most such vendors being Italians.

cream jugs. Charkof-Krementschug Railway bonds: Stock Exchange, from ca. 1885; †.—2.
 The paps: low (— 1891).

cream of the valley. (Cf. cold cream.) Gin: coll.
 (— 1858); ob. Mayhew in Paved with Gold.
 Prob. suggested in opp. to mountain dew, whiskey.
 Occ. cream of the wilderness (1873; O.E.D.), ob.

cream-pot love. Love pretended to dairymaids for the sake of cream: late C. 17–early 19 coll.
 Ray, 1678; Grose, 1st ed. I.e. cupboard-love.

Creams. Abbr. Cold Creams, q.v. Ware.

cream-stick. See cream.

creamy. First-class, excellent: coll.; from ca.
 1880; slightly ob. Baumann.

crease. To kill (a person): c.: C. 20. James Curtis, The Gilt Kid, 1936. The word is proleptic.

creased. Fainted; knocked unconscious: military: C. 20. F. & Gibbons. Perhaps on curl up, 2. creases. Watercress: sol. when not a London street-cry, which latter is coll.: (? mid-)C. 19–20.

 Baumann, 1887.

create, v.i. To make a fuss, a 'row': from ca.
 1910 (frequent among soldiers in G.W.). Ex create a disturbance or fuss.

creation!, that beats or licks. That's splendid, incomparable: ex U.S. (1834); anglicised ca.
 1880; the licks form has never quite lost its American tang.

creature, often crater, crat(h)ur, all with the. In late C. 16–18, any liquor; in C. 19–20, whiskey, esp. Irish whiskey, though Bee, I think wrongly, applies it specifically to gin. Coll. Shakespeare,

'I do now remember the poor creature, small beer.'
 Cf. S.E. creature-comfort.—2. See brown creatures.

credentials. The male genitals: jocular coll. ex commerce: from ca. 1895.

creek. 'Division between blocks of changing-room lockers; division between beds': Bootham School: late C. 19–20. Anon., Dict. of Bootham Slang, 1925.

creek mat. A bedside mat: id.: id. Ibid.

creeme. To slip or palm something into another's hand(s): coll. in late C. 17–18, dial in C. 19–20 (ob.): ? orig. dial. B.E. ? ex the smoothness of cream.

creel. The stomach: Scottish: C. 19–20.
 E.D.D. Cf. bread-basket.

creep, v.i. To escape: c.: from ca. 1930.
 James Curtis, The Gilt Kid, 1936.

creep, at the, adj. and adv. Applied to robbing a place while people are there: C. 20 c. Charles E.
 Leach.

creep away and die! Go away!, 'get out!':
 non-aristocratic c.p. (— 1923). Manchon.

creeper. A cringer; a cringing lick-spittle:
 C. 17–20; coll. Cf. crawl, crawler.—2. A hack journalist; 'penny-a-liner': from ca. 1820; † by 1890.—3. A paying pupil to a Ceylon tea-planter: Ceylon: from ca. 1890; ob. Yule & Burnell (at griffin).—4. A louse: low coll.: mid-C. 17–20.
 O.E.D. Cf. crawler, 3.—5. See creepers. The feet: C. 19–20 (ob.); coll. Cf. lickers, tramps.

creeping, vbl.n. Men and women robbing together: late C. 16–early 17 c. Greene.

creeping Jesus. A person given to sneaking and whining: ca. 1818 (O.E.D. Sup.); in C. 20, esp.
 Australian.

creeping law. Robbery by petty thieves in suburbs: late C. 16–early 17 c. Greene. See law.

creeps, the. The odd thrill resulting from an undefined dread: coll.: 1850, Dickens (E.D.D.) Occ. (now ob.) cold creeps. Cf. cold shivers. Edmund Yates, in Broken to Harness, '... In the old country mansions ... where the servants ... commence ... to have shivers and creeps.' (The singular is rare.)

creepy. Given to creeping into the favour of superiors or elders: schoolboys': late C. 19–20.

cremona. A krum(m)horn or cromorne: sol.: mid-C. 17–20. O.E.D.

creosotic, incorrect for cresotic; crepan for trepan.
 O.E.D.

crest(s). The shield or arms of a college or a city:
 sol.: C. 19–20.

crevice. The puendum muliebre: coll.; C. 19– 20. Cf. cranny.

[crew, when—in C. 16–20—used derogatively of a set or a gang, is almost, not—despite B.E. and Grose—quite coll. after ca. 1660; before 1600 it is almost c., as in Greene's Cony-Catching pamphlets.]

Cri, the. The Criterion (theatre, restaurant) at Piccadilly Circus: from ca. 1880.—2. Abbr. crikey, q.v.

crib, do a. See do a crib.

crib. In C. 17–early 18 c., food; provender.
 This sense is extant in dial.: E.D.D.
 Brome.—2. Abbr. cribbage: coll.; from ca. 1680.
 —3. (For origin, cf. sense 4.) An abode, shop, lodgings, public-house: from ca. 1810; orig. c., then low. Vaux; Dickens, in Oliver Twist, 'The crib's barred up at night like a jail.'—4. A bed: from ca. 1820; c., then low. Maginn's Vidocq:

'You may have a crib to stow in.' Ex dia. sense (—1790), a child's cot: E.D.D.—5. Hence, a 'berth', a situation, job: 1859, H., 1st ed.—6. A plagiarism: from ca. 1830; coll.—7. A literal translation illicitly used by students or pupils: coll.: from ca. 1825.

crib, v. To pilfer; take furtively: from ca. 1740. Dyche's Dict., 5th ed., 1748; Foote, 1772, 'There are a brace of birds and a hare, that I cribbed this morning out of a basket of game.'—2. (For crack a crib, see crack, v., 4.—3. To plagiarise: coll.: 1778 (S.O.D.).—4. To use a 'crib', q.v.: from ca. 1790; coll.—5. To cheat in an examination: coll.; from ca. 1840. Punch, 1841 (vol. I), 'Cribbing his answers from a tiny manual . . . which he hides under his blotting paper'.—6. To beat (a person) at fisticuffs: London streets': ca. 1810–40. Tom Cribb defeated Belcher in 1807.—7. Hence, to thrash: low: from ca. 1840. Ware.—8. V.i., to grumble: military: late C. 19–20. F. & Gibbons. Prob. a back-formation ex cribbiter, q.v. In all senses, the vbl.n. cribbing is frequent.

crib, fight a. To pretend to fight: pugilistic (—1791). Grose, 3rd ed. Ex the bear-garden.

crib-biter. A persistent grumbler: coll.; from late 1850's; ob. H., 2nd ed. Ex the S.E. sense of a horse that, suffering from a bad digestion, bites its crib, i.e. manger.

crib-cracker. A burglar: low (? orig. c.): from ca. 1850. G. R. Sims, 1880.—2. Vbl.n., crib-cracking, in Punch, 1852.

Crib-Crust Monday. See Pay-Off Wednesday.

cribbage. The action of cribbing (v., 3, 4); what is cribbed: rare coll.; from ca. 1830. Punning cribbage, the game.

cribbage-face(d), n. and adj. (A person) with a face pock-marked and therefore like a cribbage-board: from ca. 1780; ob. Grose, 1st ed. Cf. rolled on Deal beach.

cribbage-peg. (Gen. pl.) A leg: rhyming s. (—1923). Manchon.

cribber. One who uses a crib (n., 6): from ca. 1830; coll.—2. A grumbler: military; from ca. 1860. Prob. ex crib-biter, q.v.

Cribbeys or Cribby Islands. Blind alleys, hidden lanes, remote courts: late C. 18—early 19. Grose, 1st ed. Ex the Carribbee Islands, of which little—and that little unprepossessing—was known in C. 18, and gen. applied to the western quarter of the Covent Garden district.

cribbing. Food and drink: C. 17 e. Brome.—2. Also see crib, v., at end.

cricket, it's (that's, etc.) not. It's unfair: 1902 (S.O.D.), but adumbrated in 1867 (see Lewis): coll., almost imm. > S.E.

Cricket Quarter. Summer Quarter (i.e. term): Charterhouse coll.: mid-C. 19–20. A. H. Tod, Charterhouse, 1900.

cricket-ball. A hand-grenade of the shape and volume of a cricket-ball: military coll.: 1915–18. F. & Gibbons. It was used only in 1915 and it 'had to be lighted with a match' (Frank Richards).

cricketess. A cricketress: sol.: 1866. Lewis.

crik(e)y; occ. crick(e)y or crack(e)y, the latter mostly American; also by crikey. Orig. an oath (Christ), but by ca. 1835 merely an exclamation of surprise, admiration, etc. Barham, 'If a Frenchman, Superbe!—if an Englishman, Crikey!' Cf. the ob. criminy, in the same usages (Farquhar, 1700) and jiminy, q.v. These terms are either s. or coll., according to the philologists' point of view.

crim con. Abbr. criminal conversation, adultery. From ca. 1770, orig. legal; then, by 1785, coll.; then—from ca. 1850—S.E. Grose, 1st ed.

crimea. A (long or fierce-looking) beard: proletarian: 1856; very ob. Ware. Ex the hairiness of Crimean 'veterans'.—2. See fusilier.

crimes!; crimine or criminy! Variants (mid-C. 19–20; late C. 17–20) of crikey or jiminy. Farquhar, 1694, 'Oh! crimine!' (E.D.D.; W.).

crimp. To play foul: low s. or c.: ca. 1690–1750. B.E. Ex:

crimp, play. To play foul: low coll.: ca. 1660–1800. D'Urfey, Grose.

crimping-fellow. 'A sneaking Cur', B.E.: low coll.: late C. 17–18.

crimson dawn. See red Biddy.

crinckam, crincum. See crinkum.

crinkle-pouch. A sixpence: late C. 16—early 17: coll.

crinkum, crincum; occ. crinkom, C. 17, and crinckam, C. 18. A venereal disease: C. 17–18. O.E.D. crinkum-crankum. The puerum muliebre: ca. 1780–1870. Grose, 3rd ed. Ex the S.E. sense (cf. crinkle-crinkle), a winding way. Cf. crinkums, q.v.—2. In pl. (crinkum-crankums), tortuous handwriting: coll. (—1887); ob. Baumann.

crinkums. A venereal disease: C. 17—early 19. B.E. Cf. crinkum and crinkum-crankum.

crinoline. A woman: ca. 1855–95. Cf. petticoat, skirt.

Cripes! Christ!: low: late C. 19–20. Also by cripes! Cf. crikey, q.v.

cripple. A sixpence (—1785); ob. in C. 20. Grose, 1st ed. Ex its aptness to be bent. Cf. bender.—2. A clumsy person; a dull one: coll.; mid-C. 19–20.—3. (Wellington College) a dolt: mid-C. 19–20.—4. A lobster minus a claw: nautical coll.: late C. 19–20. Bowen.

cripple!, go it, you. An ironic, often senseless, comment on strenuous effort, esp. in sports and games; wooden legs are cheap was often, but since G.W. is seldom, added. Coll.; C. 19–20. Thackeray, 1840.

cripple-stopper. A small gun for killing wounded birds: sporting coll. (—1881). O.E.D.

Cripple-gate. See come Cripple-gate.

criq. Brandy: Canadian: C. 20. F. & Gibbons. Ex French-Canadian.

crisp. A bank or a currency note: from ca. 1850; cf. soft.

crisp, adj. New, interesting: from ca. 1920; slightly ob. Manchon.

crisp, talk. To say disagreeable things: coll. (—1923). Manchon.

Crispin. A shoemaker: from ca. 1640; orig. coll., by 1700 S.E.; rare in C. 20. Hence St. Crispin's lance, an awl, and Crispin's holiday, every Monday: both late C. 17–19 coll. Ex Crispin, the patron saint of shoemakers.

crit. A critic: C. 18 coll. (? coined by Fielding). O.E.D.

cro'-Jackeyed. Squinting: nautical: mid-C. 19–20. Bowen. Ex work aloft.

croak, in c., means both to die and to kill; also (ob.) a 'last dying' speech: C. 19–20. Vaux (to die); Egan, 1823 (to hang); H., 1st ed., the n. sense: hardly before ca. 1850. Ex the death-rattle. Both senses appear also in dial.

croaker. In mid-C. 17–18, c. for a groat; in C. 19, s. for a sixpence. B.E. Perhaps a pun—suggested by cripple, 1—on groat.—2. A beggar: low: from ca. 1835. Brandon, 1839; H., 1st ed. Ex his complaints.—3. A dying person, a doctor, a corpse: the second being c. and low s., the first low coll., and the third (H., 2nd ed.) low s.: mid-C. 19–20. Hence, a beast killed to save it from dying: 1892 (O.E.D.).—5. A pronounced and persistent pessimist: from ca. 1630; coll. until ca. 1700, when it > S.E. Whence, prob., senses 2, 3.—6. (Gen. pl.) A potato: Anglo-Irish (— 1923). Manchon. Also croker. Possibly cognate with dial. croke, dross, core of fruit.

croaker's chovey. A chemist's shop: C. 19–20 low. Cf. crocus-chovey, q.v.

Croakumshire. Northumberland: mid-C. 18–19. Grose, 1st ed. Ex that county's defective r.

croakus. See crocus.

croby. 'Orig. a crust; later, a piece of bread and butter'; † and superseded by "bar", q.v., says the anon. Dict. of Bootham Slang, 1925. Cf. crug and cruggy, qq.v.

croc. A file of school-boys or, much more gen., -girls walking in pairs: from ca. 1900; mostly school s. Abbr. crocodile, orig. university s. (— 1891), now coll.—2. Also, of course, the crocodile itself: coll.: rare before C. 20.

crock. A worthless animal; a disabled person or (in C. 20 rarely) a 'duffer': from ca. 1879; coll. Either ex broken earthenware (1850) or the Scottish crook, an old ewe or (1879) a broken-down horse (S.O.D.).—2. Hence, a boy or a man that plays no outdoor games: Public Schools' coll.: from ca. 1890. P. G. Wodehouse, St. Austin's, 1903.—3. A bicycle: youths': ca. 1870–80. Ware. Because a 'bone-shaker'?—4. A chamber-pot: Bootham School: C. 20. Anon., Dict. of Bootham Slang, 1925, adds 'crook rolling . . . A common practice in bedrooms.' Abbr. crockery.

crook up. To get disabled; break down; fall ill: from ca. 1890. Common in G.W. Ex preceding.

crocketts. A kind of makeshift cricket: Winchester College, C. 19–20. (R. G. K. Wrench.) Hence:

crocketts, get. (At cricket) fail to score: from ca. 1840; Winchester. See Winchester College Slang, § 2. crocodile. A (gen. and orig. girls') school walking, two by two, in file (— 1870): coll. In C. 20, S.E. The very rare v. occurs in 1889. (O.E.D.).—2. A support of a plank serving as a seat: Conway Training Ship (— 1891). Maschfield.

crocus. See crocus metallorum.

crocus-chovey. A doctor's consulting-room; a surgery: mid-C. 19–20 c. H., 3rd ed. See chovey. Ex:—2. A chemist's shop: c. (— 1791). B. M. Carew, quoted by E.D.D.

crocus (metallorum); in C. 19–20 occ. croakus. A surgeon or a doctor (esp. a quack): low (— 1785); ob. Grose, 1st ed.; Mayhew. Prob. ex croak after hocus-pocus, though the O.E.D. mentions a Dr. Helkiah Croke and Coles has crocus Martis, a chemical preparation of iron, and crocus veneris, one of copper. Cf. croaker, by which also the old scientific term crocus was prob. suggested in this sense. At first, naval and military.—2. (Always crocus.) Among grafters, it bears the above-mentioned senses; also, a herbalist, a miracle-worker. Philip Allingham, Cheapjack, 1934. For gen. information, see, in addition, Neil Bell, Crocus, a novel of the fairs, 1936.

crocus-pitcher. An itinerant quack: mid-C. 19–20 c.

crocus-worker. A seller of patent medicines: c., and Petticoat Lane traders': late C. 19–20.

crocussing rig. The practising of itinerant quackery: mid-C. 19–20 c.; ob.

croker. See croaker.—crokus. See crocus (metallorum).

crome. The hook used by an 'angler' (q.v.): late C. 16 c. Greene, in The Black Book's Messenger.

crommel. Incorrect for cromlech: mid-C. 19–20. O.E.D.

crone. A clown: from ca. 1850; mostly Parlyaree. Prob. clown corrupted.

cronk. (Of a horse) made to appear ill in order to cheat its backers: from the 1880's: racing s. >, by 1890, gen. Ex Ger. krank, sick, ill. Morris.—2. Hence, unsound; dishonestly come by: from ca. 1890. The (Melbourne) Herald, 1893, July 4. Both senses are Australian. Cf. crook, adj.

crony. 'A Camerado or intimate friend', B.E.: from 1650; university s. till ca. 1750, then gen. coll. Pepys, 'Jack Cole, my old schoolfellow . . . a great crony of mine' (S.O.D.). Perhaps crony was Cambridge University's counterpart to the orig. Oxford chum. Its C. 17 variant chrony indicates the etymology: Gr. χρόνιος, contemporary, ex χρόνος, time. W. cites an instance for 1652.—Whence, 2, in c. or low s., an accomplice in a robbery: C. 18—early 19. A New Canting Dict., 1725.—3. In C. 17–18, a tough old hen. B.E.—4. A Dumfriesshire c. term (C. 19–20) for a potato. The E.D.D. cites the derivative crony-hill, a potato-field.

crook. A sixpence (— 1789): low; ob. by 1860, † by 1914. Ex crook-back, q.v.—2. A swindler, a thief; a professional criminal: orig. (1886) U.S., anglicised ca. 1895 as a coll.; by 1920, S.E. Perhaps ex crook, on the; cf., as W. suggests, Fr. escroc.

crook, v.t. To steal: either c. or low s. (— 1923). Manchon. Ex get on the crook: see crook, on the.

crook, adj. Ill: Australian: C. 20. Prob. ex cronk, q.v., via crooked.—2. See crook, go. To give way to anger; to express annoyance: Australian: from ca. 1905. Prob. ex crook, adj.—2. Hence the c.p., have you read the (or, more gen., that) little red book; if the man thus addressed looked interrogatively, one added that little red book, 'Why Go Crook?' Ca. 1910–20.

crook, on the. Dishonestly, illegally, illicitly; leading a life of crime: in England before 1874 (? first used in U.S.) and, there, perhaps orig. c. H., 5th ed. Prob. suggested by (on the) straight: cf., however, on the cross.

crook-back. A sixpence (— 1785); † by 1900. Grose, 1st ed. Cf. bender, cripple, crook.—2.

Crook-Back. Richard III of England (C. 15).

crook (occ. cock) one's or the elbow (occ. little finger). To drink (not of water): ex U.S. (1830: Thornton), anglicised ca. 1875: coll. Besant & Rice, 1877.

crook one's elbow and wish it may never come straight. With the required pronominal adjustment, this phrase lent efficacy to an oath: late C. 18—early 19 low coll. Grose, 2nd ed.

crooked. Dishonestly acting (of persons), handled or obtained (things): mostly Australian; from before 1864. H., 3rd ed., 'A term used among dog-stealers, and the "fancy" generally, to denote anything stolen'; 'Rolf Boldrewood' speaks of 'a crooked horse'.

crooked, adv. Illicitly, in a criminal manner; furtively: c.: (?) mid-C. 19–20. James Curtis, The Gilt Kid, 1936, 'Sold crooked'.

crooked as a dog's hind leg. See dog's hind leg.—Crooked Lane. See buy.

crookshanks. A coll. nickname for a man with bandy legs: 1788, Grose, 2nd ed. Cf. the surname Cruikshanks.

crooky. To walk arm in arm; v.t., to court (a girl): coll.: mid-C. 19–20; ob. H., 2nd ed.

crool. Cruel: sol.: C. 19 (? earlier)–20. Also in crool the pitch.

Crop. 'A nick name for a Presbyterian', Grose; 'one with very short Hair', B.E. Resp. mid-C. 18–early 19 and late C. 17–early 18 coll.—2. crop, money, see crap, n., 1.—3. crop, to hang, to defecate, is a variant of c. crap, v., 1 and 2. Cf.:

crop, be knocked down for a. 'To be condemned to be hanged', Lex. Bal.: c. of ca. 1810–50.

Crop the Conjuror. 'Jeering appellation of one with short hair', Grose, 1st ed.: late C. 18–early 19 coll. Cf. Crop, 1.

croph. A Frenchman: nautical (— 1887); † by 1920. Baumann. Ex Fr. crapaud, a toad: cf. frog, q.v.

croppen, croppin: see crapping casa.—2. The tail of beast or vehicle: C. 18–early 19: c. A New Canting Dict., 1725; Grose, 1st ed.

cropper; esp. come, or go, a cropper. A heavy fall, fig. and lit.: from the late 1850's; coll. H., 3rd ed.; Trollope, 1880, 'He could not . . . ask what might happen if he were to come a cropper.' Ex hunting.

croppie. A variant of croppy, 2, q.v.—croppin. See croppen.—croppin-ken. See crapping casa.

cropped, to be. Fail in an examination, be sent down at a lesson: Winchester College: mid-C. 19–20. Ex (to) crop + cripple.

croppy or Croppy. An Irish rebel of 1798, when sympathy with the French revolutionaries was shown by close-cut hair: orig. coll., soon historical—therefore S.E.—2. Also, an ex-gaolbird: low (— 1857). 'Ducange Anglieus.'

crops, go and look at the. To visit the w.-c.: mid-C. 19–20; ob. Ex agriculture. Cf. pluck a rose.

cross, gen. with the. Anything dishonest: from early C. 19; c. >, by 1870, low s. Opp. to the square as crooked is opp. to straight. Vaux; Trollope in The Claverings.—2. Esp. a pre-arranged swindle: c. (— 1829).—3. Also, a thief: c. from ca. 1830. (The term occurs mostly in compounds and phrases; these follow the v.)

cross, v. To bestride a horse: jocular coll.; from ca. 1760; ob. (S.O.D.).—2. Hence, to have intercourse with a woman: from ca. 1790.—3. To play false, v.t. and (rarely), i.; to cheat: low: C. 19–20. Egan's Grose.—4. In the passive, be crossed, mid-C. 19 university s. meant to be punished, e.g. by loss of freedom: 'Cuthbert Bede' in Verdant Green, 1853; H., 3rd–5th edd. Ex the cross against one's name.

cross, adj. Out of humour, temporarily ill-tempered: coll.; from ca. 1630.—2. Dishonest; dishonestly obtained: c.: from ca. 1810. Vaux. Ex cross, n.

cross. Adv., unfavourably, adversely; awry, amiss: from ca. 1600; S.E. till ca. 1840, then coll. (S.O.D.)

cross, come home by weeping. Finally to repent: C. 18–early 19 coll.

cross, on the. Dishonest(ly), illegal(ly), fraudulent(ly): from ca. 1810; orig. c. Vaux; H., 1st ed.; Henry Kingsley; Ouida, 1868, in Under Two Flags, 'Rake was . . . "up to every dodge on the cross".' See cross, n., 1.

cross, play a. Act dishonestly; esp. in boxing, to lose dishonestly: ca. 1820–1920.

cross as the devil. A late C. 19–20 coll. variant, or perhaps rather intensive, of:

cross as two sticks, as. Very pceevish or annoyed: coll.: from ca. 1830. Scott, 1831; Pinero, 1909. (Apperson.) Perhaps ex their rasping together, but prob. ex two sticks set athwart (W.).

Cross-Belts. The 8th Hussars: C. 18–early 20. 'The regiment wears the sword belt over the right shoulder in memory of the Battle of Saragossa [1700] where it took the belts of the Spanish cavalry,' F. & H.

cross-bite, cross-biting. A deception, trick(ery), cheat(ing): from ca. 1570; c. > s. > coll. > S.E. > †, the same applying to the slightly earlier v. Marlowe, G. Harvey, Prior, Scott, Ainsworth.—2. In late C. 16–18 c., 'one who combines with a sharper to draw in a friend', Grose; also v.

cross-biter. A swindler, cheat, hoaxer: late C. 16–early 18; c. > s. > coll. > S.E.

cross-biting law. 'Cosenage by whores', Greene: late C. 16–17 c. Greene. See law.

cross-boy. A crook, a dishonest fellow: Australian c. (— 1890). Ex cross-chap. (O.E.D. Sup.)

cross-built. (Of persons) awkwardly built or moving: coll.: ca. 1820–70. Bee.

cross-buttock. An unexpected repulse or rebuff: coll. (— 1864). H., 3rd ed. Ex a throw in wrestling.

cross-chap, -cove, lad, -man, -squire. A thief. C. 19–20 c.; -squire is †. Varied by lad, etc., of the cross. (See also the separate entries at cross-cove and cross-man.)

cross-country. Abbr. cross-country runner: athletics, C. 20; not gen.

cross-cove. A swindler; a confidence trickster: c. (— 1812); ob. Vaux.

cross-cove and mollisher. A man and woman intimately associated in robbery: (— 1859); c.; ob. H., 1st ed. See cross, n.; mollisher: ex moll, q.v., ? after demolisher.

cross-crib. A thieves' and/or swindlers' lodging-house or hotel: c.; from ca. 1810. Vaux; H., 1st ed.; Baumann (misprinted -crip). Ex crib, n., 3.

cross-drum. A thieves' tavern: c.: from ca. 1840. See drum.

cross-eye(s). A person with a squint: coll.; from ca. 1870.

cross-fam or -fan. (Also n.) To rob from the person, with one hand 'masking' the other: c.: from ca. 1810. Vaux. See fam and fan.

cross-girl. A harlot that, specialising in sailors, gets all the money she can from the amorous and then bilks them by running away: c. (— 1861); ob. Mayhew.

cross I win, pile you lose. A C. 17 form of heads I win, tails you lose.

cross-in-the-air (or without hyphens). A rifle carried at the reverse: amateur soldiers': ca. 1880–1914.

cross-jarvey (-jarvis, Baumann) with a cross-rattler. 'A co-thief driving his hackney-coach', Bee: c.: ca. 1820–90. See cross, adj., 2.

cross-kid, occ. -quid. To cross-examine: c. (— 1879). Ex kid, to quiz.

cross-kiddle. To cross-examine: c. (— 1879); ob. Horsley (cited by F. & H. at reeler).

cross-lad. See cross-chap.

cross-legs. A tailor: low: ca. 1850–1910. Baumann.

cross-life man. A professional criminal, esp. thief: c. (— 1878); ob.

cross-man. A thief; a swindler; confidence man: c. (— 1823). Bee; H., 3rd ed. See cross, n. cross me (or my) throat! Cross my heart!; i.e., honestly!: a c.p. coll. interjection: C. 20.

cross-mollisher. A female cross-cove, q.v.: c. (— 1812); ob. Vaux.

cross-patch. A peevish person: late C. 17–20; coll. B.E. Cf. the old nursery rhyme: 'Cross-patch, | Draw the latch, | Sit by the fire and spin.' Here, patch is a fool, a child (W.). In late C. 19–20, occ. cross-piece: Manchon.

cross-squire. See cross-chap.

cross-stiff. A letter: c.; from ca. 1860; ob.

cross, or go over, the Alps. To go to Dartmoor Prison: C. 20 c.

cross the damp-pot. To cross the Atlantic: tailors'; from ca. 1860; ob.

cross the Ruby. To cross the Rubicon: 'Fast World, early 19 cent.' (Ware). Punning ruby, port wine.

crosser. An arranger of or participator in a dishonest act: sporting: from ca. 1870.

crossish. Rather bad-tempered or peevish: coll.: from ca. 1740; rare and ob. O.E.D. crotcheteer. 'A patron of crotchets': Society: ca. 1880–1900. Ware.

Crouch-Back. Edmund, Earl of Lancaster (C. 13). Dawson.

Croucher, the. Jessop, the mighty hitter: cricketers' nickname: from ca. 1895.

crow. Gen. as a regular crow. A fluke; unexpected luck: from ca. 1850. Ex billiards; prob. the Fr. raccroc.—2. In c., with corresponding v., a confederate on watch; if a female, often canary. From early 1820's. 'Jon Bee', 1823.—3. A clergyman: late C. 18–20; ob. Ex black clothes.

crow, v. To bend (rails) for the two-foot or 4' 8" light-railway tracks: Public Works' (— 1935).—2. V.i., to act as a 'crow' (n., 2): c.: from ca. 1840. 'No. 747', The Autobiography of a Gipsy, 1891 (E.D.D.).—3. Corresponding to crow, n., 2; v.i.: c.: late C. 19–20. W. A. Gape, Half a Million Tramps, 1936.

crow, a regular. A great success: lower classes' (— 1923). Manchon. Cf. crow, n., 1.

crow, no carrion will kill a. A coll., semi-proverbial saying applied to gross eaters, tough persons: C. 17–18.

crow a pudding, give or make the. See pudding, give the crow a.

crow-bait. A scraggy, esp. if old, horse: among Englishmen in South America: from ca. 1895. C. W. Thurlow Craig.

crow-eater. A lazy person (ex the eating habits of crows): Australia, South Africa: from ca. 1875.—2. (Gen. in pl.) A South Australian: from the 1890's. Crows are very numerous in that State.

crow-fair. An assemblage of clergymen: late C. 18–19; coll. Grose, 1st ed. Ex their black clothes.

crow in a gutter, strut like a. To be over-proud: late C. 16–19; coll. Fulke; Spurgeon. (Apperson).

crow to pluck (in C. 15, pull; rarely pick) with anyone, have a. To have an unpleasant or embarrassing affair to settle: from C. 16; coll. till C. 18, when it > S.E. Shakespeare, 'Hudibras' Butler, Scott. The phrase 'suggests animals struggling over prey', W.

Crowbar Brigade, the. The Irish Constabulary: Anglo-Irish: 1848; ob. Ex 'crowbar used in throwing down cottages to complete eviction of tenants', Ware. Whence:

crowbar landlord. One who resorts to such methods: Anglo-Irish: ca. 1850–90. Ware.

crowd. A company of people; set, 'lot': Colonial (ex U.S.), from ca. 1870.—2. In G.W., a military unit: cf. mob and push.

crowd, may—might—will—would pass in a. Is just average: coll.: C. 20. An elaboration is pass in a crowd with a push (D. Sayers, The Nine Tailors, 1934). Cf. there are worse in gaol, q.v.

crowder. A full theatre or 'house': theatrical: from ca. 1870; ob.

crowdy-headed Jock. See Jock, 1.

crown; always the crown. The sergeant-major: military coll.: C. 20. F. & Gibbons. Ex the badge of a crown on his sleeve.—2. The school tuck-shop: Charterhouse: C. 19–20. (A. H. Tod, Charterhouse, 1900.) Perhaps ex the old Crown Inn.—3. The school pavilion: Charterhouse: late C. 19–20. (Ibid.)

crown, v. To put a chamber-pot on a man's head: Australian universities', C. 20.—2. In c., to inspect a window with a view to burglary: C. 19–20; ob.—3. To hit (a person) on the crown: low: C. 20. George Ingram, Stir, 1933.

crown and feathers. The female genitals: low: C. 19–20.

crown-office. The head: late C. 18–early 19. Grose, 1st ed. Cf.:

crown-office, in the. Tipsy: late C. 17–18. B.E. Cf. preceding.

crownation. Coronation: sol., C. 17–20; rare after ca. 1920.

crowner. Coroner: in M.E. and early Mod.E. (e.g. in Shakespeare's Hamlet), it is S.E.; then dial. and either coll. or sol., in C. 20 gen. the latter: esp. crowner's quest, a coroner's inquest (Manchon).—2. A fall on the crown of one's head: sporting: from ca. 1860. Whyte-Melville.

crow's-foot. In c., the Government broad arrow: from ca. 1870; ob.

crow's-nest. 'Small bedroom for bachelors high up in country houses, and on a level with the tree-tops', Ware: Society: mid-C. 19–20; ob. Ex nautical S.E.

cruel, cruelly, adj., adv. Hard, exceeding(ly): resp. since M.E. and C. 16: S.E. until C. 19, then coll. Pepys, July 31, 1662, 'Met Captain Brown . . . at which he was cruel angry'. The early history of the coll. cruel(ly) significantly parallels that of the adv. bloody.

cruel the pitch. To frustrate (a plan, etc.); to interfere greatly with one's schemes or welfare: C. 20. Ex cricket.

cruelty-van (or booby-hutch). A four-wheeled chaise: from ca. 1850; † by 1910.

crug. Food: from ca. 1820. Prob. ex crug (Christ's Hospital) bread: late C. 18–19; Lamb, 'a penny loaf—our crug'.—2. (Ibid.) a Christ's Hospital boy, esp. old boy: from ca. 1830.

cruganaler, crugnailer. (Christ's Hospital) a biscuit given on St. Matthew's Day: C. 19–20.

Either ex crug and ale (see crug) or punning hard as nails.

cruggy. Hungry: C. 19–20; Christ's Hospital. Ex crug, q.v.

cruiser. A harlot: C. 19–20, ob. One that cruises the streets.—2. In c., a beggar: late C. 17–early 19. B.E. Ex habit of 'cruising about'.—3. A highwayman's spy: c.: C. 18–early 19.

crumb. A pretty woman: military; from ca. 1830; † by 1914.—2. Plumpness: from ca. 1840. Dickens. Cf. crummy.—3. See crums.

crumb and crust man. A baker: coll.; from ca. 1840.

crumbles. A set of mishaps causing one person to be blamed: nautical: late C. 19–20. Bowen.

crumbs. See crums.

crumbs, pick (in C. 16, gather up one's). See pick up one's crumbs.

crummy. Plump; esp. (cf. bit of crumb, q.v.) of a pretty woman that is full-figured, large-bosomed: from early C. 18, as is, 2, the c. sense, rich: both ex crumby (bread).—3. Lousy: from ca. 1840; perhaps orig. c., then Cockney (see H.), then low and military (certainly very common in G.W.); then, ex the Army, among tramps—see Jennings, Tramping with Tramps, 1932. Hence, the c. crummy doss, a lice-infested bed. ? ex a louse's vague resemblance to a small crumb.—4. Hence, dirty, untidy: nautical: mid-C. 19–20. Bowen.

crummy! A C. 20 low variant of criminy (crikey)! Cf. crums, 2.

crump. In late C. 17–early 19 c., one who helps litigants to false witnesses. B.E. Cf. crimp and crimping fellow, qq.v.—2. A hard hit or fall: Winchester College, from ca. 1850. S.E. crump, to hit briskly, the S.O.D. quoting 'We could slog to square-leg, or crump to the off,' 1892.—3. Hence, a 'coal-box', i.e. a 5-9 German shell or shell-burst; occ. of heavier guns: military: 1914; ob. B. & P. Hence:

crump, v.t. To shell with heavy guns: military: 1915; ob. Ibid.—2. The v. quoted at crump, n., 2, is considered by F. & H. and the E.D.D. to be s.

crumper. A hard hit or blow: from ca. 1850: coll. Cf. crump, 1, q.v.—2. Whence, a great lie (cf. thumper): from ca. 1880: schoolboys'. Miss Braddon. (O.E.D.)

crumpet. The head: late C. 19–20; ob. Cf. onion, turnip, and F. & H., s.v., for synonymy. Esp. barmy (or dotty) in the crumpet, crazy, mad: Manchon.—2. A term of endearment: lower classes': from late 1890's. (O.E.D. Sup.)

crumpet-face. A face covered with small-pox marks: mid-C. 19–20, ob.; coll. H., 5th ed. Cf. cribbage-face, q.v.

crumpet, get a. (Of a man) to copulate in a specific instance: c.: C. 20. James Curtis, The Gilt Kid, 1936.

crumpet-scramble. A tea-party: from ca. 1860: coll. Derby Day, 1864, 'There are men who do not disdain muffin-worries and crumpet-scrambles.' Cf. bun-fight.

crumpler. A cravat: from ca. 1830; coll.—2. A heavy fall: circus and music-halls' and, in C. 20, hunting: from ca. 1850, as in 'Guy Livingstone' Lawrence's Hagarene, 1874, and H. A. Vachell's Moonhills, 1934. Cf. crusher, 3, for semantics.

crums; occ. crumbs. (Extremely rare in singular.) Lice: low (—1923). Manchon. App. a back-formation ex crummy, 3.—2. As an exclamation, it is synonymous with crummy!: mostly boys': C. 20. Will Scott, in The Humorist, April 7, 1934, 'Crumbs, mater, shove a sock in it! What tripe!'

crunchiness; crunchy. Fit(ness) for crunching or being crunched: coll.: from ca. 1890. O.E.D. (Sup).

crupper. The human buttocks: jocularly coll., from late C. 16. Ex a horse's rump.

crush. A large social gathering, esp. if crowded: from ca. 1830; coll. Whyte-Melville, 1854; H. D. Traill, in Tea Without Toast, 1890, 'And we settled that to give a crush at nine | Would be greatly more effectual, and far more intellectual, | Than at six o'clock to, greatly daring, dine.'—2. Hence (in the Army) a military unit: late C. 19–20. Cf. crowd, mob, push.—3. Hence, a set, a group: coll.: from ca. 1919. E.g. Shakespeare—and That Crush, by Richard Dark and Thomas Derrick, 1931.—4. An infatuation; a strong liking or 'fancy' for a person: U.S. (1914), anglicised in 1927. Esp. have a crush on. Ex crushed on, q.v.—5. Hence, the person for whom one has a 'crush': from ca. 1927. (O.E.D. Sup.) crush, v.t., with bottle, cup, pot, quart. Drink: late C. 16–19; coll. Greene, 1592 (a pottle of ale); Shakespeare (a cup of wine); Scott (a quart). Cf. burst, crack.—2. To decamp, run away: c. (? > low s.): from ca. 1860. H., 3rd ed. Cf. amputate and esp. crush down sides.—3. See crush the stir.

crush down sides. To run away, esp. to a place of safety; also, to keep a rendezvous: Northern c.; from ca. 1850. H., 3rd ed.

crush the stir. To break out of prison: late C. 19–20 c. See (to) crush, 2, and stir.

crushed on. Infatuated with: Society: 1896; almost †. Suggested by mashed. Ware.

crusher. A policeman: from ca. 1840. Thackeray; Punch, 1842; Sala. ? ex the size of his feet. ('He needs 'em big; he has to stand about for hours,' a friend, 1933.) Cf. flattie, flatty, q.v.—2. Any thing or person overwhelming or very large or handsome: coll.: from ca. 1840. Thackeray of a woman, 1849. Cf. whopper and crushing, qq.v.—3. A heavy fall: sporting coll. (—1887); ob. Baumann. Cf. crumpler, 2.—4. A ship's corporal: naval (—1909). Ware. Ex sense 1.

crushing. First-rate; excellent; very attractive: coll.; from ca. 1855; ob. H., 1st ed. Cf. crusher, 2, q.v., and crashing bore.

Crusoe. 'The great French ironworks at Creuzot': workers in iron (—1909). Ware. Punning Robinson Crusoe.

crust; occ. upper crust. The head: from ca. 1870. Cf. crumpet, q.v.—2. Impudence, 'cheek': from early 1920's. P. G. Wodehouse, 1924 (O.E.D. Sup.) ? ex face as hard as a crust.

crustily. Peevishly, snappishly: coll.: C. 18–20. Bailey's Dict.

crusty beau. Late C. 17–early 19; coll.: 'One that lies with a Cover over his Face all Night, and uses Washes, Paint, etc.', B.E.; Grose.

crusty-gripes. A grumbler: low coll., mostly London (—1887); slightly ob. Baumann. Cf. belly-acher.

crutch, under the. See arm, under the, 2.

crutches are cheap! (Cf. wooden legs are cheap and see cripples.) An ironic comment on strenuous physical effort, esp. in athletics: mid-C. 19–20; ob.

crutie or -y. (Gen. pl.) A recruit: naval (— 1923). Manchon. Cf. rooky.

cry. A crowd of people: pejorative coll. >, by 1660, S.E.: late C. 16–18. Shakespeare, in Coriolanus, 'You common cry of curs.' Ex hunting j. for a pack of hounds.—2. A fit of weeping: coll.: from ca. 1850.

cry, v.i. To weep: C. 16–20; coll. >, by 1700, S.E.; except in dignified contexts, where it still is indubitably coll. and where weep is requisite.

cry! A libidinous good wish at nightfall; an exclamation indicative of 'surprise of a satiric character': London lower classes' (— 1909). Ware: 'Shape of Carai—probably introduced by English gypsies passing from Spain'. Cf. caramba.—2. An abbr. of crikey: low: mid-C. 19–20. Ware.

cry, or call, a go. To desist; give in. (With connotation: wisely and humorously.) Coll. (— 1880); the post-War call it a day is displacing it. Ex cribbage, where cry a go = pass in bridge.

cry and little wool, great (occ. much). A proverbial c.p. abbr. 'Great cry and little wool', as the Devil said when he sheared the hogs. Much ado about nothing. From ca. 1570.

cry carrots and turnips. To be whipped at the cart's tail: C. 18 c.

cry cupboard. To be hungry: coll.; from ca. 1660. Swift in Polite Conversation, 'Footman. Madam, dinner's upon the table. Col[onel]. Faith, I'm glad of it; my belly began to cry cupboard.' See also cupboard, one's guts cry.

cry off. To back out of an engagement or project: from ca. 1700; coll. > S.E. by 1800.

cry, the less you'll piss!, the more you. See piss, the less . . .

cry where. To impute a fault, ascribe blame: coll.: ca. 1660–1800. Apperson.

cryptogamia. Incorrectly as a pl.: C. 19–20. O.E.D.

Crystal Palace, H.M.S. The Royal Naval Division dépôt at the Crystal Palace: naval: G.W.—2. Crystal Palace Army, the. The R.N.D.: id.: id. Likewise in F. & Gibbons.—3. C-P, the. 'The huge iron mine superstructure at Loos, [captured] on Sept. 25, 1915': military: 1915–18. Ibid.

cu, cue. A cucumber: Covent Garden coll.: C. 20. (The Daily Telegraph, June 7, 1935.) Pl.: cues.

cub. An awkward, uncouth, uncultured or unpoised youth: from ca. 1600; prob. coll. at first; soon S.E.—2. In late C. 17–early 19 c., a tyro gamester. B.E.—3. At St. Thomas's Hospital, ca. 1690–1740, a surgeon's assistant; a coll. soon > official j. (O.E.D.)

cube. A cubicle: at certain Public Schools, e.g. Charterhouse: C. 20.

cubic. A Cubist painting: art coll.: from ca. 1921. See quotation at Prime, the.

Cubit, the; & punishment by the cubit. The tread-mill: low (— 1823); † by 1890. Bee, 'Cubit being the inventor's name.' Cf. Cubitopolis.

Cubitopolis. The Warwick and Eccleston Square districts of London (S.W.1): ca. 1860–80. H., 3rd ed. Edmund Yates in Land at Last, 1866. So named by Lady Morley after Cubitt the large-scale building contractor. Also called Mesopotamia.

cuckold the parson. To 'sleep' with one's wife before she is: coll. (— 1791); † by 1890. Grose, 3rd ed.

cuckoldshire, cuckold's-row. Cuckoldom: facetious coll.; C. 16–17. Likewise, in C. 16–18, Cuckold's Haven or Point, a point on the Thames below Greenwich, was humorously used, with various verbs, to indicate cuckolding or being cuckolded. (O.E.D.)

cuckoo. A fool: from late C. 16: coll. Shakespeare in 2 Henry IV, 'O' horseback, ye cuckoo.' In C. 19–20 gen. as the, or you, silly cuckoo.—2. A cuckold: late C. 16–18; coll. > S.E. Shakespeare. Prob. ex the Fr. cocu, a cuckold.—3. The penis: schoolboys, C. 19–20, ob. Perhaps a perversion of cock.—4. A person: 1924, Galsworthy; slightly ob. Prob. ex sense 1 Cf.—5. 'A torpedo-dropping aeroplane': naval: from ca. 1914. Bowen.

cuckoo, v. See cuckoo'd.

cuckoo, adj. Mad, senseless, distraught: U.S., anglicised in early 1920's. Ex cuckoo, n., 1.

cuckoo, lousy as a. Extremely lousy (lit. sense): military coll.: 1915. B. & P. Cf. the Yorkshire saying, as scabbed as a cuckoo: E.D.D.

cuckoo'd, be or, gen., get (all). To be or become very lousy: military: 1916. Ibid. Ex preceding.

cuckoos. Money: C. 17. ? c. Perhaps because the cuckoo sings and money talks.

cuckoo's nest. The puendum muliebre: C. 19–20.

cucumber. A tailor: late C. 17–early 19. B.E., Grose. Cf.:

cucumber-time. The dull season: mid-July to mid-Sept. Tailors': late C. 17–20; ob. B.E.: 'Taylors Holiday, when they have leave to Play, and Cucumbers are in season.' Cf. the Ger. die saure Gurken Zeit, pickled-gherkin time, and the saying tailors are vegetarians, which arises from their living now on cucumber and now on 'cabbage', q.v.

cu. A chew of tobacco: until ca. 1870, S.E., now dial. and coll., quid being much more usual.

cud, adj. Attractive, cosy; comfortable: Winchester College: 1st half C. 19. Wykehamistically deprived ex kudos.—2. Hence, pretty: ibid.: mid-C. 19–20. (R. G. K. Wrench.)—3. At Christ's Hospital, mid-C. 19–20: severe. Baumann. Prob. ex cuddy, adj., q.v.

cuddie. A variant of cuddy, q.v. (Egan's Grose.)

cuddle-cook. A policeman: C. 20; mostly, lower classes'. Cf. Cook's Own, q.v.

cuddleable. Cuddlesome: coll.: from mid-1920's. O.E.D. (Sup.).

cuddling. Wrestling: esp. among devotees of wrestling and boxing: C. 19–20, ob.

cuddy. A nickname for a donkey: coll.: from ca. 1710. ? ex Cuthbert.—2. (Cuddy) Admiral Collingwood of Napoleonic Wars fame: naval. Bowen.

cuddy, adj. (Of a lesson) difficult: Christ's Hospital, mid-C. 19–20, ob. Perhaps ex cuddy, a stupid chap: cf. preceding.—2. Hence cuddy-biscuit, a small hard biscuit.

cuddy-jig. The capers of a landsman endeavouring to keep his balance: nautical: mid-C. 19–20. Bowen. Ex cuddy, n., 1.

cuddy-leg. A large herring: (mostly Scots) nautical: late C. 19–20. Ibid.

cuds, cuds(h)o. In expletives, a corruption of God's: ca. 1590–1750: coll. (O.E.D.) cue. A small quantity of bread; occ. of beer. As cu (q.v.) from C, so cue from Q (q = quadrans = a farthing). A university s. term that > S.E.: late C. 16–18. The S.O.D. quotes a 1605 text: 'Hast thou worn Gowns in the university . . . ate cues, drunk cees?' Cf. cee.—2. See cu.

cue, v. To swindle on credit: c.: from ca. 1860. ? ex Q. = query.

cue-bite, v.i. To speak too soon on one's cues: theatrical (— 1935).

cuerpo, in. 'Without the cloak, so as to show the shape of the body,' S.O.D. Ex the Spanish for body, this phrase was presumably gallants' j. of C. 17: its unconventional use appears, C. 18, in the sense: without any clothing, naked, as in Smollett (coll.).

cuff; often old cuff. A (foolish) old man: coll.; ca. 1610–1820. ? ex cuffin, mid-C. 16–18 c. for a fellow, chap, itself prob. cognate with cofe = cove.—2. Perhaps hence, a religious or a religious-seeming man: tailors'; C. 19–20 ob.

cuff Anthony. See Anthony.—cuff or beat Jonas. See beat the booby.

cuff of, up the. In the good graces of: tailors': late C. 19–20.

cuff(-)shooter. A beginner: theatrical; from ca. 1870. Ex his display of linen.

cuff the logs. To be a riverman (river lumberman): Canadian coll.: C. 20. John Beames.

cuffen. A C. 16 variant of cuffin, q.v. at cuff.

cuffer. A lie; an exaggerated story: military: from ca. 1870. Cf. thumper.—2. Hence, any story, a yarn: from mid-1880's. (O.E.D. Sup.)

cuffers, spin. To tell tall stories; yarn. From ca. 1870. Ex cuffer, a fist.

cuffin. See cuff, n., 1.—Cuffin-quire. See queer cuffin.—cuffing (C. 17). See cuff.

cui bono? Properly, to whose advantage?; wrongly, to what purpose?: mid-C. 19–20. W., 'attributed by Cicero to Lucius Cassius'.

cuirass. Same as cure-ar-se, q.v.: late C. 18. Grose, to the B.M. 1st ed. copy, has added the term with the note, 'Quasi cure-a-se', but contrary to his gen. practice with these MS. addenda, he did not include it in the 2nd ed.

Culdee. Incorrect when applied to the Church of Iona: late C. 17–20. O.E.D.

cule. Abbr. reticule: c. (— 1859); ob. H., 1st ed., implies it in culling, q.v.

culing. See culling.

culiver. Incorrect for caliver: mid-C. 18–20. O.E.D.

cull, cully. In C. 17 c., a constable. A deviation from:—2. In C. 17–18, c. for a fool, esp. a dupe; in C. 19–20, though anticipated in C. 17 as cully, low s. for a man, companion, mate, partner: in C. 17–18, however, cull tended to mean any man, fool or otherwise, cully 'a fop, fool, or dupe to women' (Grose), as in Congreve's 'Man was by nature woman's cully made' (The Old Bachelor, 1693): cull dates from ca. 1660, cully from ca. 1664. For etymology, see culls (cf. ballocks, a parson); but perhaps ex † S.E. cullion; less prob. ex the Continental Gypsy radical for a man.—3. See rum cull.

cull, bob and curst. Resp. 'a sweet-humour'd Man to a Whore, and who is very Complaisant . . . An ill'natur'd Fellow, a Churl to a Woman', B.E.: c.: late C. 17–early 19. See cull, 2.

culling, or culing. Stealing from carriage seats: c. or low; from the mid-1830's. Brandon; H., 1st ed. Ex reticule. culls. Testicles: low coll., C. 16–17. Ben Jonson. Abbr. cullions, the same.

cully. See cull. In late C. 19–20, often as a Cockney, also as a low, term of address to a man; also, 2, a 'pal': military: C. 20. B. & P.

cully-gorger. A theatre-manager (cf. rum cull); a fellow actor: from ca. 1860: theatrical; † by 1930. H., 3rd ed. Ex cully (see cull, cully) + gorger, a 'swell'.

cully-shangy. Sexual intercourse: low; C. 19. Cully ex culls, shangy, ex?

culminate. To climb a coach-box: ca. 1780–1870; Cambridge University.

culp. 'A kick, or blow; also a bit of any thing,' B.E.: late C. 17–early 19 low coll. (later dial.). Prob., as Grose (2nd ed.) suggests, influenced by mea culpa.

culty-gun. The membrum virile: low: C. 19. Ex L. cultellus, a knife.

culver-headed. Feebly foolish: coll. ex dial.: C. 19. H., 3rd ed. A culver is a dove, a pigeon, whence 'pigeon', an easy gull for the 'rook'.

cum used facetiously for 'with' or 'plus' is coll.: from ca. 1860.

cum-annexis. One's belongings, esp. one's wife and children: West Indies, from ca. 1850; ob. Ex an official land-transfer location affected at Demerara.

cum-div. Abbr. cum dividend: Stock Exchange s. > j.; from ca. 1875. (Of a purchaser of stocks or shares getting the benefit of the dividend.)

cum grano. A coll. abbr. of cum grano salis (with a grain of salt): from ca. 1850.

cummer, kimmer. A female intimate, acquaintance, or 'fellow' or 'chap'. Orig. and still good Scots, these words have, in late C. 19–20, occ. been familiarly used by Sassenachs in these senses and thus > coll. H., 5th ed. Ex Fr. commère.

cummifo. 'Comme il faut': lower class coll.: 1889, The Referee, April 28. (Ware.)

cumsha(w). A present; a bribe: Anglo-Chinese 'pidgin': from ca. 1835. Ex Chinese for 'grateful thanks'.—2. Unexpected or additional money: nautical: mid-C. 19–20. Bowen.

cund. To say or determine which way (a shoal of fish) is going: nautical coll. verging on j.: mid-C. 19–20. Smyth; Bowen. Ex cund (gen. cond), to direct (a ship).

cundum. A ca. 1665–1820 form of a safety-sheath (cf. French letter), ex the name of its deviser, a colonel in the Guards. In 1667 those three aristocratic courtiers, wits and poets, Rochester, Roscommon and Dorset, issued A Panegyric upon Cundum. (Coll. rather than s.)—2. 'A false scabard over a sword,' Grose, 2nd ed.: late C. 18–early 19: military.—3. (Likewise ex sense 1.) 'The oil-skin case for holding the colours of a regiment,' ibid.: id.: id.

cunning. Quaintly interesting, pretty, attractive: orig. (— 1854) U.S.; anglicised ca. 1880, but never very gen. (O.E.D.) Cf. clever, q.v.

cunning as a dead pig. Stupid: coll.: ca. 1705–50. Swift. (Apperson.)

cunning man. 'A cheat, who pretends by his skill in astrology, to assist persons in recovering stolen goods,' Grose, 1788: c.; † by 1850.

cunning shaver. A sharp fellow, orig. illicitly: mid-C. 17–20, ob.; coll. B.E. See shaver.

Cunningberry (or -bury). A variant (ca. 1820–50), recorded by 'Jon Bee', of.:

Cunningham; often Mr. Cunningham. Ironical coll. for a simple fellow: mid-C. 18–early 19. Grose, resp. 2nd and 1st ed.

cunny. The putendum muliebre: low coll.; C. 17–20. Influenced by L. cunnus, it is actually an † form of cony, a rabbit. Cf. pussy.

cunny-haunted. Lecherous: C. 18–20, ob.; low coll. Ex preceding term.

cunny-hunter. A whoremonger: C. 17—early 19; low. Punning cunny = con(e)y.

cunny-thumbed. Given to closing his fist, as a woman does, with the thumb turned inwards under the first three fingers: low coll.; late C. 18–20. Grose, 1st ed. Ex cunny, q.v.—2. C. 19–20 school-boys': given to shooting a marble as a girl does. Other sex tests are these: an object thrown at a woman's shins or knees causes her to close her knees; at her genitals, to open her legs, whereas a man closes his; at her chest, to protect her breasts. A man walks from the hips; a woman (unless an impenitent hiker or an athletic champion) usually from the knees. In threading a needle, a man holds the needle stationary and advances the thread towards the eyelet, whereas a woman directs the needle on to the stationary thread,—a difference that has originated a psychologico-physiological riddle. Apart from her voice, hair and breasts, a woman masquerading as a man is apt to forget that the proportionate breadth of the shoulders and esp. the hips, as well as the contour of the legs from hip to knee, are different in a man. In short, she would do well to wear long full trousers, for, in addition, her knees are much less bony, much more rounded, than a man's.

cunny-warren. A brothel: low (—, 1785); † by 1930. Grose, 1st ed.

cunt. (In back s., tenue, the e being intruded for euphony.) The female pudend. In one form or another, it dates from M.E.; ex a Teutonic radical corresponding to the L. cunnius (It. cunno, conno), itself related to cuneus, a wedge. Owing to its powerful sexuality, the term has, since C. 15, been avoided in written and in polite spoken English: though a language word, neither coll., dial., c., nor s., its associations make it perhaps the most notable of all vulgarisms (technical sense, bien entendu), and since ca. 1700 it has, except in the reprinting of old classics, been held to be obscene, i.e. a legal offence, to print it in full; Rochester spelt it en toutes lettres, but Cotgrave, defining Fr. con, went no further than 'A woman's, &c.', and the dramatist Fletcher, who was no prude, went no further than 'They write sunt with a C, which is abominable', in The Spanish Curate. Had the late Sir James Murray courageously included the word, and spelt it in full, in the great O.E.D., the situation would be different; as it is, neither the Universal Dict. of English (1932) nor the S.O.D. (1933) had the courage to include it. (Yet the O.E.D. gave prick: why this further injustice to women?)—2. (Cf. Romany mindj or minsh, the pudend; a woman.) In C. 19–20 it also means woman as sex, intercourse with a woman, hence sexual intercourse. (It is somewhat less international than fuck, q.v.) See esp. Minsheu; the Introduction to B. & P.; Grose, P.; Lady Chatterley's Lover; A. W. Read, Lexical Evidence, 1935.

cunt !, silly. A low pejorative address or reference to a person: late C. 19–20. In 1914–18, the soldiers applied the term, with or without this or some other epithet, to material objects.

cunt-hat. A felt hat: low (— 1923). Manchon. There is a double pun: see hat and note 'felt'.

cunt-itch and -stand. Active physical desire in women: vulgarism: resp. C. 18–20, C. 19–20.

cunt-pensioner. A male-keep; also, the man living on a woman's harlotry or concubinage: low coll. or perhaps rather a vulg.: C. 19–20; slightly ob. Often, in C. 20, euphemistically abbr. to c.p.

cunt-stand. See cunt-itch.

cunt-struck. Enamoured of women: C. 18–20; either a vulg. (more correctly, I think) or a low coll. Cf. cock-smitten, q.v.

cunting. Adj., expressive of disgust, reprobation, violence: late C. 19–20.

Cunts in Velvet. The Criminal Investigation Department: military (—1914).

cup such cover, such; or such a cup(,) such a cruse. 'Implying similarity between two persons related in some way,' O.E.D. Coll.; both ca. 1540–1700.

cup and can. Constant associates: ca. 1540–1830; coll. >, by 1600, S.E. Gen. as merry as cup and can, or be cup and can. Ex the cup's being filled and replenished from a can. (Apperson.)

cup-and-saucer player. A player in a comedy by T. W. Robertson (d. 1871), a pioneer of 'slick' yet natural and workmanlike society-drama: theatrical, ca. 1866–90.

cup and wad. Tea and a bun in canteen or Y.M.C.A. or Church Army hut: military: G.W. (F. & Gibbons.)

cup even between two parties, carry one's. To favour neither of them: coll., C. 17—early 19. B.E.

cup man, cup-man. A toper: coll. > S.E.; ca. 1830–1900.

cup of comfort or of the creature. Strong liquor: late C. 17–20; slightly ob. B.E. See also creature.

cup o(f) tea. A consolation: proletarian, gen. ironic: C. 20; slightly ob. Ware, 'Probably suggested by a cup of tea being "so very refreshing"'. —2. one's cup of tea = what truly suits one; even one's ideal, one's mate: coll.: from ca. 1920. (Michael Harrison, Weep for Lycidas, 1934.) Cf. ticket, be a person's: q.v.

cup-shot. Tipsy: late C. 16—early 19; coll. >, by 1660, S.E. Fuller in The Holy War, 'Quickly they were stabbed with the sword that were cup-shot before.' Cf. shot, adj.

cup too low, a. Applied to one who, in company, is silent or pensive: late C. 17–18; coll. B.E. The phrase is extant in dial.

cup too much, have got or had a. To be drunk: mid-C. 17–19; coll. Ray, 1678 (Apperson). Cf. the preceding phrase.

cup-tosser. A juggler: C. 19; coll. Brewer suggests ex Fr. joueur de gobelets. —2. Whence, 'a person who professes to tell fortunes by examining the grounds in tea or coffee cups', H., 3rd ed.: from ca. 1860; very ob.

Cupar justice. Hanging first and trying afterwards: C. 18—mid-19; Scots coll. >, by 1810 or so, S.E. In 1706, A. Shields refers to 'Couper Justice and Jedburgh Law' (see Jeddart law). Cf. Halifax law, Lydford law, and lynching.

cupboard, the. The sea: nautical: late C. 19–20. Bowen. Ex Davy Jones's locker.

cupboard, one's guts cry. One is hungry: low coll.: C. 18—mid-19. Grose, 2nd ed.

cupboard love. Interested affection: C. 18–20; coll.; S.E. after ca. 1820. 'A cupboard love is seldom true.' Hence cupboard lover, C. 19–20, rare.

cupboardy. 'Close and stuffy': Cockneys' coll.: late C. 19–20. Ware.

Cupid. A harlot's bully-lover: C. 19–20, ob.; low.—2. With variant blind Cupid, 'a jeering name for an ugly blind man', Grose, 1st ed.: mid-C. 18—early-19 coll.—3. See Pam (Palmerston).

Cupid's Arms or Hotel. See hotel.

Cupid's whiskers. Sweets with mottoes on them: coll.: late C. 19–20. Collinson.

Cupid, blind. See Cupid, 2.

Cupper. One of the inter-collegiate matches played for a cup: Oxford undergraduates': C. 20. The Oxford-er.

cups, in one's. While drinking (rare in C. 20); intoxicated. From ca. 1580: coll. (as in Nash and Shadwell) until ca. 1720, then S.E.

cur, turn. To turn informer or King's evidence: c.: mid-C. 19–20; ob. Baumann.

cur-fish. Small dog-fish: nautical: late C. 19–20. Bowen.

curate. Late C. 19–20 coll.: 'A small poker, or tickler (q.v.), used to save a better one; also a handkerchief in actual use as against one worn for show. The better article is called a rector. Similarly when a tea-cake is split and buttered, the bottom half, which gets the more butter, is called the rector, and the other, the curate,' F. & H.

curate's delight. A tiered cake-stand: from ca. 1890. (Michael Harrison, Weep for Lycidas, 1934.)

curb. A thief's hook: c.: late C. 16–18. Greene, Grose.

curb. To steal, esp. with a hook; gen. v.i.: late C. 16–early 18 c. Greene.—2. In C. 19 c., to strike.

curber. A thief that uses a hook: late C. 16–18 c. Rowlands.

curbing. An abbr. of the following term. Greene.

curbing law. The practice of illegally hooking goods out of windows: late C. 16–18 c.

curbstone-broker. A guttersnipe: from ca. 1865; ob. In U.S., an illicit street-broker. (Kerb- is the more gen. spelling in C. 20.)

curbstone-sailor. A harlot: from ca. 1830. Cf. cruiser.

curby hocks. Clumsy feet: rather low: ca. 1850–1910. (See hocks.)

curdler. A blood-curdling story or play; a writer thereof: coll. (— 1887); ob. Baumann. Cf. thriller.

cure. An eccentric, an odd person (1856); hence, a very amusing one (— 1874). First printed in Punch, though 'he' has 'no mission to repeat | The Slang he hears along the street'. Perhaps abbr. curiosity or, more prob., curious fellow; popularised by an 1862 music-hall song. (O.E.D.)

cure-arse. A late C. 18–19 low coll.: 'a dyachilon plaster, applied to the parts galled by riding', Grose, 3rd ed. Cf. cuirass, q.v.

curio. Abbr. curiosity: from ca. 1850 (at first among travellers); coll. till ca. 1880, then S.E. curiouser and curiouser. Ever more strange: coll.: late C. 19–20. Adopted ex Lewis Carroll. curiosity. An odd person: ca. 1840–70: coll. Displaced by cure, q.v.

curious, do. To act strangely: low coll.: mid-C. 19–20; ob.

Curjew. (H.M.S.) Courageous: nautical sol. (— 1788). Grose, 2nd ed.

curl. See curle.—2. (Gen. pl.) A human tooth 'obtained by the body-snatchers': c. (— 1823); † by 1860. 'Jon Bec.'

curl, make (a person's) hair. To cause one to shudder, to frighten: coll. (— 1931). Lyell. (Contrast curl one's hair.) A low variant (late C. 19–20) is make one's liver curl.

curl, out of. Indisposed; vaguely ill at ease: coll.: mid-C. 19–20. Ex the hair. Hence, go out of curl, to collapse, as in Galsworthy, The White Monkey, 1924.

curl one's hair. To chastise; scold, vituperate: C. 19–20 coll.; ob.

curl paper. Toilet paper: either coll. or euphemistic: C. 19–20; ob.

curl up. To fall silent, 'shut up': from ca. 1860; ob.—2. (Sporting.) To collapse: coll.: from ca. 1890.

curle. Clippings of money: late C. 17–18 c. B.E. Semantic.

curled darlings. Military officers: Society: 1856–ca. 60. Ware, who, noting that 'the Crimean War . . . once more brought soldiers into fashion', refers to 'the waving of the long beard and sweeping moustache'.

curls. See curl, 2.

curly. A cane: Conway Training Ship: from ca. 1885. Mascfield.—2. (Curly.) The inevitable nickname of men with curly hair: coll. (— 1851). Mayhew.

curly-murly. A fantastic twist, esp. curl.: ca. 1720–1830. Also adj.: mid-C. 19–20: coll.

currant-cakey. Shaky: rhyming s.: C. 20. P. P., Rhyming Slang, 1932.

currants and plums. A threepenny piece: rhyming s. (— 1859) on thrums, q.v. H., 1st ed.

currency. N. and, occ., adj. of a person born in Australia, one of English birth being sterling: Australians': from ca. 1825; † by 1914. P. Cunningham, 1827; Charles Reade in 'It is Never Too Late to Mend'. Morris.

curry-and-ricc navy. The Royal Indian Marine: naval: late C. 19–20; ob. Bowen.

curry one's hide. To beat a person: coll.: C. 18–early 19. Ex S.E. curry in this sense.

curse, not to care or be worth a. I.e. extremely little: from M.E. onwards; coll. S.O.D. supports curse = cross (A.-S. cerse) but notes that damn in this sense is very early. Prob. cross > curse under the influence of damn; nevertheless, see dam. Langland has 'Wisdom and witt now is worth not a kerse.' Whereas not worth a rush or a straw have > S.E., not worth a curse has remained coll. because of its apparent meaning. Also tinker's curse.

curse flashes. To swear vigorously: Regular Army coll.: C. 20. Frank Richards, Old Soldiers Never Die, 1933. Perhaps on curse like hell.

curse of God. A cockade: coll.; early C. 19. Cf.:

Curse of Jesus. The Clipper ship Chersonese: late C. 19–20. By 'Hobson-Jobson'. Bowen, 'Always very hard on her crew'.

curse of Scotland. The nine of diamonds: from 1710. Coll. > S.E. in C. 19. Orig. problematic. Grose, 1st ed. The various theories are as interesting as they are unconvincing: see H., 5th ed., and W. cursetor, cursitor. A vagabond: from ca. 1560; coll.—2. In mid-C. 18–early 19 c., 'broken petty-fogging attorneys, or Newgate solicitors', Grose, 1st ed. Ex L. currere, to run. Cf. the S.E.

[Cursing and swearing is, in its cause and its processes, akin to s. and coll.: see my Slang; for the gen. subject of cursing and swearing, see Ernest Crawley's thoughtful and suggestive book, Oath, Curse, and Blessing, 1934, and Robert Graves's Lars Porsena, revised in 1935. Curses, oaths, asseverations and other exclamations that are s. or coll.—and perhaps a few that are neither s. nor coll.—appear in the present work.]

curtail, curtal. A thief that cuts off pieces from unguarded cloth, etc., or from women's dresses; C. 18 e. Also, a thief wearing a short jacket; C. 16-17 e.

curtain, cop the. 'To gain so much applause that the curtain is raised for the performer to appear and bow': music-halls' (ca. 1880) >, by 1890, theatres'. Ware. Cf. curtain-taker.

curtain-lecture. A reproof, or lengthy advice, given in bed by a wife to her husband: from ca. 1630; orig. coll.; by 1730, S.E. The occ. curtain-sermon was † by 1900. (Apperson.)

curtain-raiser. A one-act play to 'play in the house': orig. (-1886) theatrical s.; by 1900, coll.; by 1920, S.E. Ex Fr. lever de rideau.

curtain, take a. See take a curtain.

curtain-taker. 'An actor even more eager than his brethren to appear before the curtain after its fall': theatrical: 1882. Ware. Cf. curtain, cop the.

curtains. 'A [soldiers', esp. officers'] name given to one of the first modes of wearing the hair low on the military forehead (1870). The locks were divided in the centre, and the front hair was brought down in two loops, each rounding away towards the temple. The hair was glossed and flattened', Ware. Ca. 1870-85.

curtal. A species of vagabond and thief: mid-C. 16-18 c. Ex his short coat. See curtail.

-cus, like -ibus and -orum, is a favourite suffix in mock-Latin words, which (e.g. circumbendibus) tend to have a (frequently jocular) coll. flavour. For this by-way, see esp. H. W. Fowler's stimulating, masterly, and remarkable Dict. of Modern English Usage, s.v. Spurious Latin.

cuse. Weekly order; (a book containing) the record of marks in each division. Winchester College: C. 19-20, ob. Ex classicus paper, the master's term.

cush. A cushion in: billiards coll.: C. 20. O.E.D. (Sup.). Cf. cushing.

cush, v.; cusher. C. 20 variants of cosh and coshier, qq.v.

cushing. A cushion: C. 16-20; S.E. till C. 18, then incorrect; in C. 19-20 sol.

cushion. To hide, conceal: c.: mid-C. 19-20, ob. H., 3rd ed. Ex S.E. sense, to suppress.

cushion, beside the. Beside the mark: coll.: late C. 16-early 19, verging on S.E. Ex billiards, a game played in England since C. 16. Cf. miss the cushion.

cushion, deserve a or the. To have done his duty and therefore deserving of rest (of a man to whom a child has been born): coll.: mid-C. 17-early 19. Ray, 1678.

cushion, miss the. To miss the mark; to fail; coll. (-1529); app. † by 1700. Skelton; Clarke, 1639. (Apperson.)

cushion-cuffer, -duster, -smiter, and -thumper. A elergyman, esp. a violent preacher: coll.: the first, ca. 1680-1750; the second, ca. 1720-1820; the third, from ca. 1840 but ob.; the fourth, ca. 1640-1900. Thackeray, 1843. 'For what a number of such loud nothings . . . will many a cushion-thumper have to answer.'

cushionmong. Accouchement: Cockney sol. (-1887); slightly ob. Baumann.

cushmawaunee! Never mind: among soldiers and sailors with Indian experience: mid-C. 19-20; ob. H., 3rd ed.

Cusby. La Cauchie, a town near Arras: military G.W. (F. & Gibbons.)

cushy. Easy, safe: of a job, task, or post. Not dangerous: of a wound (cf. Blighty, q.v.). S.O.D. records this military s. at 1915, but, to judge both from its possibly Hindustani origin (khush, pleasure) or its, to me, more prob. Romany one (kushio, good), and from report, it was used in the Indian Army some years before the G.W. (It is not impossibly a slurring of cushiony or an extension of dial. cushie, soft, flabby.)

cuss. As a coll. exclamation orig. (-1872) U.S. and partly anglicised ca. 1900, it euphemises curse! —2. A person; gen., a man: coll.; both senses ex U.S. (-1848), anglicised ca. 1880. Ex customer, perhaps influenced by curse.

cussed. A low coll. form of *curse*d, anglicised ca. 1882.

cussedness. Cantankrousness (persons); contrariness (things). Coll.: ex U.S. (from ca. 1850), anglicised ca. 1885. Baumann. The fourth general 'law' is, 'The cussedness of the universe tends to a maximum.'

cussin. A man: c. (-1887); virtually †. Baumann. Ex cuss, 2.

custom, it's an old (orig. Southern). In 1935 this, in the Southern form, > a c.p.; it is a line from a popular song. By the end of the year, and in fact by October, other words had begun to be substituted for Southern. In The Evening News of Jan. 4, 1936, we read of the man who, on being upbraided by his wife for kissing a girl in a square in London, W.2, explained that 'It's an old Bayswater custom'.

custom of the country. 'A bribe given to port officials to avoid delays': nautical coll.: mid-C. 19-20. Bowen.

customer. A man; chap, fellow: coll.; from late C. 16 but not common before 1800; gen. with queer or ugly. Cf. chap, merchant, artist, and Scottish callant, qq.v.

custom(-)house goods. 'The stock in trade of a prostitute, because fairly entered', Grose, 2nd ed.: mid-C. 18-early 19 low coll.

custom(-)house officer. A cathartic pill: mid-C. 19-20; ob. H., 2nd ed. Also customs.

Cut; always the C. The New Cut, a well-known plebeian street near Westminster: London coll. (-1887). Baumann.

cut. A stage, a degree: coll. from ca. 1815; S.O.D. records in 1818; Dickens uses in 1835, (of a house) 'I really thought it was a cut above me.'—2. A refusal to recognise, or to associate with, a person: from ca. 1790. The cut(-)direct (later dead cut) occurs ca. 1820.—3. A snub or an unpleasant surprise: coll.; ca. 1850-1910.—4. (Theatrical) an excision, a mutilation of the 'book' of a play: C. 18-20. Sheridan in the Critic, 'Hey . . .!—what a cut is here!'; The Saturday Review, April 21, 1883, 'Some judicious cuts.'—5. the cut: see cut, adj. C. 19.—6. See cuts.—7. A share: Australian and New Zealand coll.: late C. 19-20.

cut, v. To talk; speak; make (of words): in mid-C. 16-early 19, c.,—cut bene, e.g. is to speak gently; from ca. 1840 (? low) s. as in Thackeray's Pendennis, '[He] went on cutting jokes at the Admiral's expense.'—2. Ignore or avoid (a person); abandon (a thing, a habit): from ca. 1630; coll. Samuel Rowley, in The Noble Soldier, 'Why shud a Souldier, being the world's right arme [Be cut thus by the left, a Courtier?] Vbl.n., cutting. With this usage, cf. 3, the university (orig. s., then coll., now almost S.E.) cut lecture or hall or chapel, to absent oneself from these duties (-1794).—4.

Move quickly; run: coll.; from ca. 1840. Earlier forms—all S.E.—are cut away (Cotton, 1678), cut off, and cut over (Lambarde's Perambulation of Kent; Nashe). Dickens, in Little Dorrit, 'The best thing I can do is to cut.' A C. 19 variant is cut it, q.v. After ca. 1860, the gen. form is the orig. nautical cut and run (lit., cut the cable and sail away); cut one's lucky (— 1840) being lower down the social scale, as also is (— 1823) cut one's stick (Egan's Grose): with the last, cf. amputate one's mahogany, the idea being that of cutting a staff for one's journey (W.); in gen., however, cf. U.S. cut dirt (1833): 'tho horse hoofs make the dirt fly', Thornton.—5. (Theatrical) to excise: C. 18–20. See n., 4.—6. Excel (cf. cut out, q.v.): coll.; from ca. 1840. Whyte-Melville, in 1853, has cut down.

cut, adj. Topsy: from ca. 1670. Head; B.E. Cf. Punch, 1859, 'He goes on the Loose, or the Cut, or the Spree.' Whence a deep cut or cut in the back (or leg), very drunk, late C. 17—early 19 (B.E.), and a little cut over the head, slightly drunk, late C. 18—mid-19 (Grose, 1st ed.): cf. cut one's leg, q.v.

cut! See cut it, 2.

cut a bosh or a flash. To cut a figure: mid-C. 18—early 19: c. See bosh.

cut a caper. To play a trick or prank; behave extravagantly or noisily: from late C. 16; coll. till ca. 1700, when it > S.E.

cut a dash or shine or splash. To make a display, a notable figure; be very successful, prominent: resp. early C. 18–20, C. 19–20 (orig. U.S.), C. 19–20: coll., the first being now S.E. Here, cut = make, do, perform. Cf. cut a bosh, q.v.

cut a dido. To 'cut a dash': naval: ca. 1835–60. Ex cut up didoes, with a pun on H.M. corvette Dido, very smart, of the 1830's. Bowen adds: 'The term was also applied to a sailing vessel tumbling about in a confused sea.'

cut a (e.g. fine, poor) figure. To make a . . . appearance: from ca. 1760; coll. until ca. 1890, then S.E. Lever in Harry Lorrequer, 'He certainly cut a droll figure.' The earlier, more dignified phrase is make a figure.

cut a finger. To break wind: low (— 1909). Ware. Cf. the Somersetshire cut the leg, to give off a foul smell (E.D.D.).

cut a shine or splash. See cut a dash.

cut a stick. To desert: naval: from ca. 1830. Bowen. Cf. cut, v., 4.

cut a tooth or one's (eye-) teeth. To become 'knowing', wide-awake: from ca. 1820: coll.; in C. 20, S.E. though hardly dignified. After ca. 1870, occ. cut one's wisdom teeth. See also cut one's eye-teeth, have.

cut above, a. See cut, n., 1.

cut and come again. Abundance, orig. of 'Meat that cries come Eat me,' B.E.: late C. 17–20; coll. Swift, Wm. Combe.—2. Whence, the female pudend: C. 19–20; low.

cut and run. Depart promptly; decamp hurriedly: coll. (— 1861). Ex nautical j.

cut(-)away. A morning coat: from ca. 1845: coll.; in C. 20, S.E. (As adj., recorded in 1841, says the S.O.D., but anticipated in Jon Bee's description, 1823, of a dandy.)

cut bene whids. To speak fair: c., as in B.E.: mid-C. 16–18. See whids. Variant with benar, q.v.

cut capers on a trencher. To dance within a very small compass: ca. 1850–1910; coll., mostly Cockney; cf. cellar-flap.

cut dead (— 1826) is a variant of to cut, v., 2, q.v.

cut fine. To reduce to a minimum, esp. in cut it fine, to leave a very small margin of money, space, or time: mid-C. 19–20: coll. >, by 1900, S.E.

cut for the simples. See simples, be cut for the.

cut in, v.i. To intrude; interpose briskly into a game or a conversation: from ca. 1820; coll. till ca. 1870, then S.E. Thackeray, 'Most injudicious', cut in the Major.—2. Whence the n.: same period and promotion. Often written cut-in.

cut in the back or leg. See cut, adj.

cut into. (Winchester College) orig. to hit with a 'ground ash'; hence, to correct in a manner less formal than tunding, q.v.: C. 19–20, ob.

cut it. To run, move quickly: C. 19–20; coll. See v., 4.—2. Interjection: cease! or be quiet! Also as cut!, cut that!, in C. 20 cut it out! From ca. 1850; coll. H., 1st ed.

cut it fat. To make a display; cut a dash; show off; from ca. 1830. Dickens, 1836, 'Gentlemen . . . "cutting it uncommon fat"'; Baumann, 1887. In the Dickens quotation, the sense of the whole phrase is perhaps rather, 'come it (too) strong'. Cut it too, or uncommon, fat, is indeed a separate phrase = overdo a thing; now ob.

cut it out! See cut it, 2.

cut it short! Make your story, or account, shorter! Coll.: C. 19–20. Dickens.

cut mutton with. To partake of someone's hospitality: coll.; from ca. 1830.

cut no ice; gen. that cuts no ice! That makes no difference, has no effect, is of no importance: orig. (1896), U.S.; anglicised ca. 1913. Thornton; O.E.D. (Sup.).

cut of one's jib. General appearance: orig. and still mainly nautical: from ca. 1820. Robert Buchanan, 1881, 'By the voice of you . . . and by the cut of your precious jib.'

cut of the simples. See simples, be cut for the.

cut off without a shilling. A late C. 19–20 jocular coll. variant of the S.E. phrase.

cut one's cable. An occ. variant (— 1931) of cut the painter, 2. Lyell.

cut one's cart. To expose his tricks: (— 1851) c.; ob. Mayhew.

cut one's coat according . . . See cloth.—cut one's comb. See comb cut.—cut one's lucky or (perhaps orig. c., as Egan states) stick. See cut, v., 4, the latter ex the cutting of a staff before one begins a journey.

cut one's leg, have. To be drunk: late C. 17—mid-18. Ray, 1678 (Apperson). Cf. cut, adj.: q.v.

cut one's eye. To become suspicious: c.: from ca. 1840. Cf. cutty-eye.

cut one's eye-teeth, have. To be alert or 'knowing': low (— 1864). H., 3rd ed. See also cut a tooth.

cut one's own grass. To earn one's own living: c.; from ca. 1860; ob. Cf. get one's own chump, s.v. chump.

cut one's painter. See cut the painter.—cut one's stick. See cut, v., 4.

cut out. To find, put in the way of: late C. 17–19; coll. 'I'll cut you out business, I'll find you Work enough,' B.E.—2. To supersede, outdo, deprive of an advantage: C. 18–20; coll. till ca. 1860, then S.E.; orig. nautical, but very early of sexual (or analogous) rivalry, as in R. Cumberland, Wheel of Fortune, 1779.—3. In Australia (— 1874), to detach (an animal) from the herd: orig. coll.; soon S.E.—4. To steal (esp. service stores): naval: late C. 19–20. Bowen. Ex senses 1, 2.

cut out of. To deprive of; destroy one's participation in, chances of getting: C. 17-20, ob.; coll., as in B.E.'s 'Cut another out of any business, to out-doe him far away, or excell, or circumvent.'—2. To cheat out of: C. 18-20; coll.

cut over the head. See cut, adj.

cut queer whids. To speak offensively; use foul language: mid-C. 16-early 19: c.

cut quick sticks. To depart hastily: C. 19-20; ob. Cf. cut, v., 4.

cut that! See cut it.—cut the cackle. See cackle, cut the.

cut the line or rope or string. To cut a long story short; to cease from keeping a person in suspense: c.: from ca. 1810, 1860, 1810, resp. Vaux.—2. (Only cut the line.) To cease work for the time being: printers' (—1909). Ware. Referring to a line of type.

cut the, occ. one's, painter. To depart; decamp; depart in secret haste; to desert: orig., still mainly, nautical. From ca. 1840.—Hence, 2. To die: nautical: from ca. 1850. Bowen. Cf. aloft.—3. Cut a person's painter, to send away, get rid of, render harmless: ca. 1660-1840. B.E.

cut the rope or the string. See cut the line.

cut the rough (stuff). To cease doing or saying something obnoxious to another: Australian and New Zealand (lower classes), then military) coll.: C. 20. I.e. cut out, desist from.

cut throat. (More gen. with hyphen.) A butcher (lit.): C. 19-20, ob.—2. A dark lantern: coll.: ca. 1770-1840.—3. A game of bridge with three players only: coll. (—1900).

cut under, v.t. To undersell, the gen. C. 20 form being undercut. From ca. 1870; coll. at first, S.E. since ca. 1895. L. Oliphant in Altiora Peto: 'Ned was all the time cutting under us by bringing out some new contrivance.'

cut up. To depreciate, slander; criticise very adversely: from ca. 1750; coll. till ca. 1800, then S.E. Goldsmith, 1759, 'The pack of critics . . . cutting up everything new.' Cf. the sense, to mortify, which is gen. in the passive, to be vexed, hurt, dejected: from ca. 1790; coll., in C. 20 almost S.E.—2. In the passive, to be in embarrassed circumstances: coll.; ca. 1800-70.—3. To turn up, become, show (up): coll.; ? late C. 18, certainly C. 19-20; ob.—4. To plunder, rob; to divide plunder: from ca. 1770; c. till ca. 1880, then (as in G. R. Sims's How the Poor Live) low.—5. To leave a fortune by will, v.i. (v.t. with for): from ca. 1780. Gen. with big, large, fat, rich or well. Grose, 1st ed.; Disraeli, in The Young Duke, "You think him very rich?" "Oh, he will cut up very large", said the Baron.' This 'likenes the defunct to a joint' (of meat), W.—6. To behave: coll.; from ca. 1850. Hughes, in Tom Brown's School Days, 'A great deal depends on how a fellow cuts up, at first.' Cf.: cut up nasty, q.v.—7. To conduct (a contest) dishonestly: sporting: from ca. 1920. Prob. ex sense 4 (O.E.D. Sup.).

cut up didoes. See didoes, cut up.

cut up nasty, rough, rusty, savage, stiff, ugly, etc. To be quarrelsome, dangerous: coll.; the gen. phrase dates from ca. 1825. Dickens has rough in 1837, Thackeray savage in 1849, and stiff in 1856; nasty is the latest of those mentioned: hardly before 1900. Semantically similar to cut, v., 5, q.v.—2. In a race, cut up rough, badly, etc., signifies to behave badly, unfairly: from ca. 1880; orig. and gen. of horses.

cut up well. To look well when naked; be an attractive bed-fellow: in the language of (?) love: from ca. 1860; ob.—2. See also cut up, 5.

cutcha, kutchha. Makeshift; inferior; spurious; bad: Anglo-Indian and hence military; coll.; recorded in 1834, but in use in C. 18 (see French quotation in Yule & Burnell). Ex Hindi kachcha, raw, uncooked, hence rural, hence inferior, etc. Opp. pukka. (S.O.D.)

cutcher(r)y. A court-house; business office: coll.; Anglo-Indian, from early C. 17. Ex Hindi kacheri, a hall of audience. (S.O.D.)

[cute, says Manchon, is a n. = 'acuteness'. I doubt its existence. Perhaps confused with cutie, q.v.]

cute, 'cute, adj. 'Sharp, witty, ingenious, ready', Dyche, 1748: coll.: from ca. 1730. Foote has the adv. cutely in 1762, Goldsmith 'cuteness (rare) in 1768.—2. Cf. the U.S. cute, used of things (—1812), anglicised ca. 1850, esp. by schoolboys. Cf. the U.S. cunning.

cutey. See cutie.

Cuthbert. From 1917 (ob.), a government employee or officer shirking military service. Perhaps, says W., 'suggested by music-hall song on "Cuthbert, Clarence and Claude"'. Coined by 'Poy'. See my Name This Child.

cutie; occ. cutey. A smart girl; loosely, any (young) girl: U.S. (—1921) partly anglicised ca. 1930 owing to the 'talkies'. Ex cute, q.v. (O.E.D. Sup.)

[cutler's law. Pickpocketry: ? late C. 16-early 17: ? c.—cutler's poetry. Wretched verse: ? coll.: ? C. 19.]

cuts. Scissors. small cuts: button-hole scissors. Tailors': from ca. 1850.—2. Persons no longer friends: orig. schoolboys' (—1871); rare, but coll., in C. 20. (O.E.D.) Ex cut, v., 2, or n., 2.—3. In expletives, a corruption of God's: C. 17-18.—4. A humorous seaman: late C. 19-20. Bowen. Ex S.E. comic cuts.—5. Shorts, esp. football shorts: Charterhouse: late C. 19-20. Prob. ex S.E. cut short.

cuts, comic. Admiralty intelligence reports; G.H.Q. communiqués: naval and military: 1915-18. Bowen.

cuts, have. To be excited: nautical: late C. 19-20. Bowen.

cutter, swear like a. I.e. violently: C. 19-20. Ex mid-C. 16-early 19 c. cutter = a robber, a bully.

cutter's mainsail. 'Corvus', says Bowen without explanation: nautical: mid-C. 19-20. Perhaps the black guillemot: see E.D.D. at cutty, 2.

cuttee. See cutty, 2. Baumann, 1887. (A rare form.)

cuttie. See cutty, 2.

cutting. Underselling; keen competition: (—1851); coll. > S.E.; in C. 20, undercutting. Cf. sense 2 of the adj.—2. Disowning or avoiding a person: see cut, v., 2.

cutting, adj. Blood-curdling (story, play, etc.): low coll., mostly London (—1887). Baumann. Perhaps ex cut to the heart or the quick.—2. Cutting prices; underselling: coll.: 1851, Mayhew. (O.E.D.)

cutting-down. 'Cutting the claws of an unpopular shipmate's hammock and letting him down on deck': nautical coll.: mid-C. 19-20. Bowen.

cutting-gloak. A rough apt to use the knife in a quarrel: c.: ca. 1810-50. Vaux, 1812; Egan's Grose, 1823.

cutting-out party. A predatory gang of cadets, esp. in the officers' pantry: Conway Training Ship (— 1891); ob. Masefield, The Conway, p. 113. Also, elsewhere, as Bowen shows.

cutting-shop. A manufactory of cheap, rough goods: ca. 1850–1900; coll. H., 3rd ed.

cuttle, a knife, in C. 16–18 low or coll.; cf. the c. cuttle-b(o)ung, C. 16–18, a knife for cutting purses.

cutty. Abbr. cutty pipe: (— 1727) coll.: in C. 19–20, S.E. Cf. nose-warmer. Cutty is a mainly dial adj. = curtailed.—2. A coll., often humorous, semi-nickname for a testy, or esp. a naughty girl: from ca. 1820. Mostly in Scotland: see esp. the E.D.D. Often cuttie.—3. A black guillemot: (dial. and) nautical coll.: C. 19–20. Bowen.

cutty-eye, v.i. To look, gaze, suspiciously: late C. 18–early 19 c. Grose, 2nd ed. V.t. with at.

cutty-eyed. Looking suspiciously; suspicious-looking: C. 19–20 (ob) c.

cutty-gun. A Scottish variant of cutty, 1: mid-C. 19–20; ob. Bowen.

cutzooks! An early C. 18 variant of gadzooks! O.E.D. Cf. cuts, 3.

cuz. A workman free of the 'chapel': printers' coll. > j.: from ca. 1720; ob. Bailey. Ex coz.

cycle. Abbr. bicycle or tricycle: from ca. 1880: coll. till C. 20, then S.E.; the same applies to the corresponding v.i.

cycling fringes. 'Especially prepared forehead-hair to be worn by such women bikers as had not abjured all feminine vanities': 'cyclists' coll.: 1897–ca. 1907. Ware.

cyclophobist. A hater of circulars: literary: 1882, The Daily News, Jan. 6. Ware.—2. Whence a hater of cyclists: 1897, The Daily Telegraph, Dec. 9. (Both are ob.)

cymbal. A watch: mid-C. 19–20 c.; ob. 'Ducange Anglicus.' Cf. ticker.

Cyprian. A prostitute: adumbrated long before, this term as used temp. Regency and George IV was fashionable s.; now rare, archaic S.E. Ex the Cyprian (goddess), Venus.

D

—d is frequently omitted in illiterate speech: prob. since centuries ago. E.g. frien (or fren) for friend; and even in the past tense (preterite) of vv.

d or dee. A penny: coll.; from ca. 1870; ob. except at Charterhouse: cf. fa'd' and ha'd, qq.v. Ex the abbr. for penny, penco; d = L. denarius, a rough equivalent of a penny. Hence, be on the two d's, to get the minimum pay: military: late C. 19–early 20. Manchon.—2. A detective: from ca. 1840. (In c., any police officer whatsoever.)—3. A damn, hence an oath; esp. as big d. Coll.: popularised in Gilbert & Sullivan's H.M.S. Pinafore, 1877, 'What, never use a big, big D?', though Dickens, in 1861, has 'with a D'.—4. See d-.

'd. Had: coll.: 1741, Richardson, I'd, etc. (O.E.D.) Like the next it is pronounced ud.—2. Would: coll.: C. 17–20. Slightly earlier as 'ld (or ld, † by 1800), which is rare in late C. 19–20, though it might well be preserved to distinguish it from 'd, 1.

d.a. or d.a.'s. The menstrual flux: from ca. 1870. Abbr. domestic affliction(s).

d. and d. Drunk and disorderly: police and, in C. 20, gen.; from ca. 1870. Cf. stropolous.

d.b. Damned bad: theatrical coll. (— 1909); ob. Ware.

d.c.m. (or D.C.M.). A district court-martial: military coll.: C. 20. Punning the decoration.

D.I.O. See damme! I'm off.

d.m.t. A jam roll: Conway Training Ship cadets': ca. 1890–1914. Masefield. Ex 'dammtart'.

d.s.c. A decent suit of 'civvies': military: late 1918–19. F. & Gibbons. Punning D.S.C., a military decoration.

D.T., The. The Daily Telegraph: orig. (— 1873) journalistic, then gen.; † by 1920, and ob. by 1905.—2. d.t., from ca. 1858; d.t.'s, from ca. 1880: low, post-War neutral, coll. abbr. of delirium tremens ('sometimes written and pronounced del. trem', H., 5th ed.; no longer so pronounced). G. R. Sims, 1880, and J. Payn, 1887, both use d.t.

d.t. centre. A minor club: literary: ca. 1880–1900. Ware.

d.v. Doubtful—very: theatrical (— 1909); ob. Ware.—2. Divorce: Society: ca. 1895–1915.

Another pun on the abbr. of Deo volente (if God so wishes). Ware.

da. A family and a child's abbr. of dada: coll. (— 1850).

da-erb. Bread: back s. (— 1859). H., 1st ed.

da da! Good-bye!: mainly nursery coll.: late C. 17–mid-18. Cf. ta-ta, q.v. O.E.D. Origin?

dab. An adept or expert; 'dabster', q.v.: late C. 17–20: orig. c.; by 1740, low; by 1830, coll. Chesterfield, in letter of Aug. 17, 1733, 'Known dabs at finding out mysteries.' In C. 18, it has, in c., the sense, expert gamester (Dyche), while in C. 17–early 18 c. it means an 'expert exquisite in Roguery', esp. in form rum dab, q.v. In C. 19–20, esp. among schoolboys. † ex dab, to strike crisply, as the S.O.D. suggests, or ex L. adeptus, as H. proposes and I believe.—2. A bed: from ca. 1810; c. or low. Vaux; Moncrieff in Tom and Jerry. † origin and etymology. If any other example of back slang were recorded before 1850, I would postulate bed > deb > dab: prob., however, the term is a semantic development ex C. 18–20 S.E. dab, a flattish mass (e.g. of butter dabbed on something else). Certainly, however, dab is a variant for deb as back s. for a bed, in H., 1859.—3. Cf. the rare C. 18–early 19 coll. sense, a trifle.—4. In C. 19–20 c., the corpse of a drowned outcast woman: from ca. 1850. Ex dab, a small, flat fish.—5. A pimp; esp. a bawd: c.: late C. 19–20. Manchon. Prob. ex sense 1.—6. A flat fish of any kind: London street coll.: C. 19–20. H., 1st ed. Cf. sense 4.—7. See dabs, 2.

dab, adj. Clever; skilful or skilled; expert; very conversant. (Gen. with at or in.) C. 18–20, but never very common: in C. 19–20, coll. Ex dab, n., 1.—2. Bad: in back slang: from the 1850's. Diprose, London Life, 1877. Esp. dab tros, a bad sort: occ. used as an adj.

dab down. To hand over; pay; 'shell out': coll., C. 19–20. Cf. Yorkshire dabs doon, immediate payment (E.D.D.).

dab in, have a, v.i. To have a 'go': late C. 19–20. (J. Milne, The Epistles of Atkins, 1902.)

dab in the dook. A tip (lit., a pat on the hand): low and military: C. 20. B. & P.

dab it up (with). To pair off (with a woman); arrange or agree to lie with her: c. >, by 1820, low; from ca. 1810. Vaux.—2. 'To run a score at a public-house', Egan's Grose: public-house coll.: ca. 1820-60.

dab !, quoth Dawkins when he hit his wife on the arse with a pound of butter. A mid-C. 18-mid-19 c.p. applied to impacts. Grose, 1st ed.

dab tros. A bad sort: back s. (— 1859). H., 1st ed. See dab, adj., 2. Cf.:

dabbeno. A bad one, esp. a bad market: back s. (— 1859). H., 1st ed. Cf. dab, adj., 2.

dabs. A rare abbr. of dabster: coll., mostly London (— 1887); slightly ob. Baumann.—2. (Extremely rare in the singular.) Finger-prints: c. (— 1935). David Hume.

dabster. A 'dab', q.v.; an expert: from ca. 1700; s. >, by 1850, coll. >, in late C. 19, mainly dial. Ex dab, n., 1, q.v.

dace. Twopence. Late C. 17-19; c. and low. B.E. A corruption of deuce.

dacey. Of native Indian origin: Anglo-Indian coll. (— 1876). Ex Hindi des, country. (O.E.D.)

dacha-saltee. Tenpence; a franc: from ca. 1850; Parlyaree and c. H., 1st ed.; Reade, The Cloister and the Hearth. Ex It. dieci soldi via Lingua Franca. Cf. dacha-one, eleven(pence).

dad, dada, dadda. The first from before 1500, the others from before 1680: coll. for father. Prob. ex child's pronunciation of father: cf., however, Sampson at dad. James I styled himself Charles I's 'Dear Old Dad'.—2. In Australia, at first coll. but soon official, dad is the name given, esp. in Anzac Day celebrations, to the fathers of those men who served with the Australian Force during the War. Cf. digger, 2.—3. In oaths and asseverations, God: coll.: 1678, Otway. In mid-C. 19-20, dial. and U.S. O.E.D.

dad-dad, mum-mum; or daddy-mammy. A tyro's practice on a drum: military; from ca. 1760. Grose.

daddle. The hand; fist. From ca. 1780: low. The S.O.D. says dial.: this it may orig. have been, but its use by and temp. Grose (1st ed.), George Parker, and Tom Moore indicates that it was common in London. ?etymology: cf. paddle. F. & H. gives synonymy. Cf. also flipper.

dad(d)ler. A farthing: low, esp. Cockney: C. 20. Perhaps a corruption of diddler.

daddy. Diminutive of dad, q.v.: father: coll. from ca. 1500.—2. A stage-manager: theatrical; from ca. 1850. H., 1st ed.—3. The superintendent of a casual ward: from ca. 1860: coll.—4. The man who, at a wedding, gives away the bride: ca. 1860-85. H., 2nd ed.—5. The person 'winning' the prize at a mock raffle, faked lottery: from ca. 1860; c. then low. H., 3rd ed.

dadler. See daddler.

dado. (round the dining-room). A (knitted) abdominal belt: military, 1914+. Ex the die-shaped part of a pedestal (W.).

dads. An old man: c.: C. 18. Anon., Street-Robberies Consider'd, 1728. A perversion of dad. The -s indicates either familiarity or affection, or both: cf. ducks for duck (the endearment).

dad's will. Parental authority: Oxford University: ca. 1820-40. Egan's Grose.

daff; daffy. Coll. abbr. of daffodil: mid-C. 19-20. Cf. mum, 2.

daffy (loosely daffey); Daffy's Elixir. Gin: from ca. 1820; ob. 'Corcoran' Reynolds, 1821; Leman Rede, 1841. Ex a very popular medicine advertised as early as 1709, ca. 1860 called soothing syrup (applied also to gin) and in 1891 known as tincture of senna.—2. A large number of telegrams for delivery: Post Office telegraph-messengers' (— 1935).—3. See daff.

daffy, adj. Slightly mad; soft in the head: dial. (— 1884) >, by ca. 1895, s. Ex Northern dial. daff, a simpleton. O.E.D. Sup.

daffy-down-dilly. A dandy: ca. 1830-80. Leman Rede in Sixteen-String Jack.

daff-man. To refuse (a person) peremptorily or vigorously or to take no notice of him: tailors': 1928, The Tailor and Cutter, Nov. 29. Lit., to render daff.

daffie. A daff person: coll.: from ca. 1870. (O.E.D.) Ex daff. (Slightly earlier in dial.)

dag. A 'hard case'; a wag; a 'character': Australia, thence New Zealand: from ca. 1890. Prob. ex dagen, q.v.—2. See dags, 2.

dag at, be a. To be extremely good at: from the middle 1890's: Australians'; hence, by 1920, New Zealanders'. Ex preceding.

dag up, v.i. To smarten oneself for guard or parade: military: C. 20. F. & Gibbons. Prob. ex dagging sheep.

dagen, c. for an artful criminal or near-criminal, itself ex c. dagen or degen (q.v.), a sword.—2. See dags.

Daggarramereens. The Diego Ramirez Islands (E. of Cape Horn): nautical: mid-C. 19-20. Bowen. By 'Hobson-Jobson'.

dagged. Tipsy: (— 1745) this term, perhaps orig., > solely, dial. ca. 1800. Ex dial. dag, to sprinkle. (O.E.D.)

dagger-ale. Inferior ale: late C. 16-17. Ex The Dagger, a low tavern fl. 1600 in Holborn. Cf.:

dagger-cheap. Very cheap: C. 17-18; coll. and archaic after ca. 1660. Bishop Andrewes, 1631, '[The devil] may buy us even dagger-cheap, as we say.' Lancelot Andrewes, d. in 1626. See preceding.

daggle-tail. A slattern; 'a nasty dirty Slut': from ca. 1560; coll. till ca. 1700, when it > S.E.; ca. 1830 it > dial. and low coll. Cf. draggie-tail.

Dago. One of Latin race, but rarely of a Frenchman: ex U.S. (— 1858)—though anticipated in 1832; anglicised ca. 1900: coll. In C. 17, Diego (James) was a nickname for a Spaniard. See Words 1 and O.E.D. (Sup.).

dags. A feat, piece of work. 'I'll do you(r) dags', i.e. 'something you can't'; (among school-boys) 'do dags', play foolhardy tricks. Coll.; from ca. 1850. H., 1st ed. F. & H. proposes the A.S. daeg, the O.E.D. darg, one's task, as the origin; ? a perversion of dare or darings (W.).

dags, on the. On furlough (as opp. a few days' leave): naval: late C. 19-20. Bowen. Prob. ex the preceding.—2. Cigarettes: military: C. 20. F. & Gibbons. Perhaps ex dial. dag, the stem-end of a branch, the big end of a faggot (E.D.D.): cf. fag ex fag-end.

daily. A daily maid-servant: from ca. 1920: coll., now verging on S.E. (O.E.D. Sup.)—2. See Moving-Picture Slang, p. 6.

daily-bread. A wage-earner; the working head of the house: from ca. 1890.

daily dozen, one's or the. Physical exercises, on rising in the morning: coll.: from ca. 1924.

daily eye-wash. An official Army communiqué : military : 1915 ; ob. It was heavily censored. See eye-wash.

Daily Levy, The. The Daily Telegraph : ca. 1860–1900. Ex Joseph Moses Levy, who, in 1856, took it over from its founder (1855), Colonel Sleight, and made it London's first penny newspaper.

Daily Liar, The. The Daily Mail : jocular (not slanderous) : C. 20. Perhaps ex Cockney Dily Mile.

Daily Mail, n. Tail : rhymings. : C. 20. B. & P. dairs. Small unmarketable fish : nautical coll. : C. 19–20 ; ob. Bowen. Ex † dial dairns, the same.

Daily Wail (occ. Whale), The. The Daily Mail : jocular : from ca. 1910.

dairy or dairies. The paps ; hence sport, later air, the dairy, expose the breast : low, from ca. 1780. Grose, 2nd ed. Cf. charlies, charms, milky way, and, in rhyming s., cabman's rests, and :

dairy arrangements. The female breasts : low (— 1923). Manchon. Ex preceding.

dairy on, get the. To see : notice (a person) : low s., perhaps orig. c. : from ca. 1910. Charles E. Leach, On Top of the Underworld, 1933. Origin ?

daisies. A pre-1879 abbr. of daisy roots, q.v. : boots.

daisies, turn up one's toes to the. To die : coll. (— 1842). Barham. Cf. push up daisies and grin at the daisy-roots. Hence :

daisies, under the. Dead : from ca. 1860 ; ob. In G.W. and after, gen. pushing up daisies.

daisy. N. (and, in England, a rare adj., 1757), an excellent or first-rate person or thing : the n. came ex U.S. (— 1876) and was anglicised ca. 1890 ; Kipling used it in his poem, Fuzzy Wuzzy.

daisy, pick a. To defecate in the open air ; also, to retire to urinate. Mostly women's ; from ca. 1860 ; orig. a euphemism ; in C. 20, coll.

daisy-beaters. Feet ; the singular is very rare. C. 19. Cf. creepers.

daisy-cutter. A horse that hardly raises its feet from the ground : coll. : late C. 18–19. Grose, 1785.—2. Hence, any horse : C. 19–20 ; ob. Scott, Charles Reade.—3. In cricket, a ball that keeps very low after pitching, esp. on being bowled : coll. (1863) ; cf. sneaker. F. & H. and Lewis.—4. A German shell that, on impact, burst instantaneously and scattered its fragments very close to the ground : New Zealanders' : in G.W. Cf. grass-cutter, q.v.

daisy-kicker. A horse : c. and then low : from ca. 1770 ; ob. Cf. preceding.—2. The ostler of an inn, esp. a large inn : from ca. 1770 ; ob. Both are in G. Parker's View of Society, 1781 ; the second in Grose, 1st ed.

daisy-pusher. A fatal wound : military : 1916. B. & P. Ex :

daisy-pushing. Dead : military : 1915. F. & Gibbons. See also daisies, under the.

daisy recruits. (A pair of) boots : rhyming s. : ca. 1855–70. H., 1st ed. Cf. :

daisy roots. Boots : rhyming s. (— 1874). H., 5th ed. I have never heard the singular used. Often abbr. to daisies. Cf. the preceding term, which is less viable.—2. Hence, shoes : mostly grafters' : C. 20. Philip Allingham.

daisyville, deuseaville. The country : c. and (?) low : resp. C. 19 and mid-C. 17–early 19. Coles, 1676.

[dak, dawk. (In India) any arrangement for, or method of, travelling by relay ; the letter-post.

Recorded in C. 14, the word, though unnecessary, has become Anglo-Indian ; j. rather than coll. Hence, dak bungalow, a guest-house or a road-route (— 1853). See dawk.]

dakma. To silence : c. ; rare in England and perhaps ex U.S. : C. 19.

Daily the Tall. Mrs. Grace Dalrymple Eliot (d. 1823), friend of George IV when Regent. Dawson.

dam. 'Damage' (q.v.) : university : ca. 1900–15. Ware.

dam, not be worth or care a. (See care a pin.) Mid-C. 18–20 ; coll. Prob. ex a small Indian coin ; cf. curse, q.v. See esp. Yule & Burnell, W., and Grose, P. The twopenny dam is said to have been rendered fashionable by Wellington. Manchon.

dam of that was whisker, the. A c.p.—coll. and dial.—applied ca. 1675–1810 to a great lie. Ray, 1678 (Apperson). Is it possible that whisker may orig. have been whisper ? See also whisker, the mother . . .

damage. Expense ; cost : from ca. 1750 ; S.O.D. records it at 1755. Byron, 'Many thanks, but I must pay the damage.' Prob. ex damage(s) at law. In late C. 19–20, gen. as what's the damage?, jocularly varying the much earlier what's the shot? W. damaged. Tipsy : from ca. 1865. Cf. screwed.

damager. A manager : theatrical : ca. 1880–1912. Ware. By sarcastic perversion.

damask. To warm (wine) : late C. 17–early 19. B.E. has 'Damask the Claret, Put a roasted Orange flasht smoking hot in it' ? The 'warmth' of damask, 'a rich silk fabric woven with elaborate designs and figures' (S.O.D.).

damber. A man belonging to a criminal gang : c. : mid-C. 17–18. Coles, 1676 ; B.E. Cf. dimber ; perhaps suggested by :

damme, or dammy, or damme (or -y)-boy. A profane swearer (gen. the single word) : coll. ; ca. 1610–1820. From mid-C. 17–early 18 (the hyphenated term), 'a roaring mad, blustering Fellow, a Scourer of the Streets', B.E. ; this latter is possibly c. (Perhaps damme! is itself coll.)

dame. A house-master not teaching the Classics : Eton College : mid-C. 19–20.—2. A girl ; a sweetheart : Glasgow : from ca. 1932. Ex U.S., via the 'talkies' ; nevertheless, the U.S. prob. derived this usage from Scots, where dame, a girl, appears as early as 1790 (Shirrefs, Poems) : E.D.D. damfool ; occ., jocularly, damphoole or -phule. A damned fool : coll., n. and adj. : from, resp., ca. 1880 and ca. 1895. (O.E.D. Sup.) Whence :

damfoolishness. Damned foolishness : coll. : late C. 19–20.

damme !, I'm off. (Often D.I.O.) A men's c.p. of late C. 18–early 19, satiric of initials on cards of invitation, etc. Grose, 3rd ed.

dammit, as (e.g. quick or soon) as. Exceedingly (quick, soon) : coll. : C. 20. I.e. as saying damn it! Cf. :

dammit, (as) near as. Very nearly indeed : coll. : C. 20. (F. Grierson, Mystery in Red, 1931.)

damn'. Damned : coll. : late C. 18–20. Cf. damn the . . ., q.v., and see damned.

damn, not be worth or care a. The form and etymology preferred by the O.E.D. : see dam.

damn a horse if I do ! A strong refusal or rejection : coll. : ca. 1820–60. 'Jon Bee', 1823, shrewdly postulates origin in damn me for a horse if I do.

damn all. Nothing: coll.: from ca. 1915. A bowdlerisation of fuck all. B. & P.

damn the (e.g. thing) can (or could) one (e.g. find). Not a (thing) can one (find): a coll. form of not a damned thing can one (find): somewhat rare (— 1887). Baumann.

damn well. Certainly; assuredly: coll.: late C. 19–20. E.g. Winifred Holtby, 1934, “These things are not in our hands”, said the doctor . . . “Then they damn well ought to be!” swore the merchant, appalled by the thought of all the money he had spent unavailingly.”

damnably. Confounded; objectionable: late C. 16–20; S.E. till ca. 1800, then coll. or a vulgarism.

damnably. In degraded usage, very, exceedingly: C. 19–20 coll. or vulgarism. Cf. preceding.

damnation, adj. and adv. From ca. 1750: damned; excessive(ly), very. Coll. (S.O.D.)

damned. An adj. expressive of reprobation or of mere emotional crudity or as an ever-weakening intensive (cf. bloody): late C. 16–20; S.E. till ca. 1800, then coll.—2. Adv., damnably; hence, very: mid-C. 18–20; S.E. till ca. 1850, then coll. In both senses, one tends to use damned before a vowel, damn before a consonant.

damned, be. Used in intensive phrases: see smart as be damned and the like paragraph.

damned soul. A Customs House clearing clerk: from late 1780's. Grose, 2nd ed. Ex a belief that he has sworn never to make true declarations on oath.

damp. A drink: Dickens in Pickwick; not very gen. elsewhere. Gen. give oneself a damp, or something damp.—2. Also, rather rare v. reflexive (— 1862), whence prob.:

damp one's mug. To drink: low: from ca. 1860; slightly ob.

damp(-)pot. The sea; esp. the Atlantic: tailors': from ca. 1855.—2. A water-pot: tailors' coll.: late C. 19–20.

damp the sawdust. To drink with friends at the opening of a new tavern: licensed victuallers': from ca. 1860.

damper. In e., damper, after ca. 1860 gen. displaced by lob, is a till: C. 19. H., 2nd ed.—2. A spoil-sport, ‘wet blanket’: coll.: from ca. 1815; in C. 20, rare.—3. A sweating employer, a ‘last-ouncer’: tailors': from ca. 1860.—4. Ale or stout taken after spirits (and water): from ca. 1820, † by 1930.—5. A snack between meals: coll. and dial.: from ca. 1780; slightly ob. Grose, 1st ed.; Maria Edgeworth. See ‘The Art of Lightening Work’ in Words!, p. 47, and cf. snack, snap, tiffin, and esp. bever.—6. A suet pudding preceding meat: schoolboys': C. 19–20, ob.—7. (Australia and New Zealand) a kind of bread, unleavened and baked in ashes: orig. (ca. 1825) coll. but by 1910 accepted as S.E. Peter Cunningham, 1827.—8. A lunch- or, more gen., dinner-bill: Society: 1886–ca. 1915. Ware notes the Fr. s. douloureuse and quotes Theodore Hook, ‘Men laugh and talk until the feast is o'er; | Then comes the reckoning, and they laugh no more!’

damphool, -phule. See damfool.

damps. Denver & Rio Grande Railroad preference shares: Stock Exchange (— 1895). A. J. Wilson, Stock Exchange Glossary. A pun on the river mentioned.

Dams (or d.). Defensively armed merchant-ships and those connected with them: naval: 1915; ob. Bowen.

damsel. A hot iron used to warm a bed: contrast a Scotch warming-pan, q.v. The S.O.D. records it at 1727. Orig. it was undoubtedly either coll. or s., but by 1800 it had > S.E.; cf. the Fr. moine.—2. A girl, any girl: as employed in society and in the universities, post-G.W., the term has a facetious and coll. flavour.—3. A skate (fish): North Sea fishermen's: C. 19–20; ob. Bowen.

damson-pie. Abuse; a slanging match. Either coll. or dial.: Birmingham and ‘the black country’: from ca. 1865; ob. William Black, in Strange Adventures of a House Boat, 1888. The variant damson-tart occurs a year earlier (O.E.D.), but rather in the sense: profane language. Punning damn!

Dan. The inevitable nickname of anyone sur-named Coles: coll.: late C. 19–20. Bowen.

Dan Tucker. Butter: rhyming s. (— 1859), the rhyme being, as often, merely approximate. H., 1st ed.

dance. A staircase; a flight of steps: c. (— 1857); †. ‘Ducange Angliens.’ Abbr. dancers, q.v.

dance, dance upon nothing (in a hempen cravat), dance the Paddington frisk or the Tyburn jig. To be hanged: low. The first, C. 19–20, the second C. 18–20, but both ob.; the third, late C. 17–19. Paddington refers to Tyburn. Hence, the dance (up)on nothing, like the dance of death, = hanging, C. 19–20. Hood, in Miss Kilmansegg, ‘The felon . . . elopes | To a caper on sunny greens and slopes | Instead of the dance upon nothing.’—2. Among printers, from ca. 1850, type is said to dance when, the forme being lifted, letters fall out.—

3. dance Barnaby, see Barnaby.

dance, lead (rarely give) a person a. To cause needless or excessive worry or exertion: from ca. 1520; coll. >, by 1900, S.E.

dance barefoot. Applied to a girl whose younger sister marries before her: coll.; ca. 1590–1800. (O.E.D.) Cf. the Yorkshire dance in the half-pick, ‘to be left behind as a bachelor, on a brother's marriage’, E.D.D.

dance, fake a. See fake a dance.

dance the stairs. To break into a flat or an office; do quick a ‘job’: C. 20c. Charles E. Leach.

dance to a person's whistle, pipe, etc. To follow his lead; unquestioningly obey. Coll. >, by 1700, S.E.; from ca. 1560.

danceable. Fit to dance with: coll.: 1860, Wilkie Collins (O.E.D.).—2. (Of a tune) suitable for a dance: coll.: from ca. 1890 (ibid.).

dancer. A ‘cat’ burglar: C. 19 c. Cf. garreter and dancing-master.

dancers. Stairs; a flight of steps: from ca. 1670; until ca. 1840, e.; then low s. or archaic c. Head; B.E.; Grose; Lytton. The term, oce. heard in G.W. and since, is ob. Because one ‘dances’ down them.—2. (Also Merry Dancers) the Aurora Borealis: coll. > S.E., though in C. 20 mainly dial.: 1717. (S.O.D.)

dancing-dog. (Gen. pl.) A dancing man: from ca. 1880; ob. Ware, ‘A satirical title applied . . . when dancing began to go out.’ It again became popular ca. 1905 and ca. 1919.

dancing-master. A species of Mohock temp. Queen Anne: coll. See esp. The Spectator, No. 324 (1712). This dandy-rough made his victims caper by thrusting his sword between their legs.—2. The hangman: late C. 17–early 18; perhaps orig. c.—

3. In c., a 'cat' burglar: ca. 1860–1900. H., 3rd ed. Cf. dancer. Also called a garreter (H., 3rd ed.).
—4. A boxer continually 'dancing about': pugilistic (— 1923). Manchon.

dand. Abbr. dandy, a fop: ca. 1870–1900: perhaps more dial. than s. Hardy. (O.E.D.)

dander. Anger; a ruffled temper: coll.; orig. (— 1832) U.S., though perhaps ex English dial. as H. implies; (? re-)anglicised ca. 1860. Thackeray, in Pendennis, 'Don't talk to me . . . when my dander is up.' The S.O.D. proposes derivation either ex dander = dandruff or ex dunder = ferment; the latter is preferable. But I suggest that the Romany dander, to bite,—dando, bitten,—may solve the problem. Whence dandered, angry, ruffled, anglicised ca. 1880 but never gen.

Dandies, the. The London Rifle Brigade: military: from ca. 1862. F. & Gibbons. Ex their smart appearance at the Hyde Park reviews.

dandification. The act or state of making look or looking like a dandy: coll., 1825 +. Ex:

dandify. To make resemble, give the style of, a dandy: coll.; from ca. 1820. Whence the ppl. adj. dandified.

dandi. See dandy, 5.

dandiprat; occ. dandyprat(t). A person physically, socially, or morally very insignificant: from ca. 1550; coll. till C. 19. The anon. play Lingua, 1580; Scott, 1821. Ex the C. 16–18 sense, a small coin worth $1\frac{1}{2}d$.

dando. A heavy eater; esp. one who cheats restaurants, cafés, hotels, etc.: from ca. 1840; † by 1920. Coll. Ex a 'seedy swell' so named and given to bilking. Thackeray; Macaulay, 1850, in Journal: 'I was dando at a pastry cook's.'

dandy; gen. the d. 'The ticket'; precisely the thing needed, esp. if fashionable. S.O.D. records it at 1784; dandy, fop, occurring only four years earlier (? ex dandiprat), was perhaps s., or at the least coll., until ca. 1830.—2. Anglo-Irish, a small drink or 'go' of whiskey (— 1838); ob.—3. Anything first-rate; also adj.: orig. (1794: Thornton), U.S., anglicised ca. 1905.—4. In the West Indies, with variant dandy fever, the coll. name for dengue fever: 1828. (O.E.D.)—5. dandy, dandi. Anglo-Indian (coll. rather than s.) for a boatman on the Ganges; from ca. 1680. And for: a small hammock-like conveyance carried by two men; from ca. 1870.—6. In c., a bad gold coin (— 1883). Ex the modicum of pure gold.

dandy grey russet. A dirty brown: mid-C. 18—early 19 coll. Grose, 1st ed. Cf. dial. dandy-gorussset.

dandy horse. A velocipede: Society: ca. 1820–40. 'Jon Bee.'

dandy-master. The head of a counterfeiting gang (— 1883): c.

Dandy Ninth, the. The 9th (Service) Battalion of the Royal Scots: military: 1915. F. & Gibbons. 'Pride of the proud city are the . . . 9th Royal Scots, or Edinbro Highlanders, a territorial battalion, and the only kilted one in the regiment', R. J. T. Hills, Something About a Soldier, 1934.

dandyfunk. Pounded biscuit mixed with water, fat, and marmalade, then baked: nautical: late C. 19–20. Bowen. Prob. ironic.

dandypratt. See dandiprat.

dangle in the Sheriff's picture-frame. To be hanged: (c. or) low: late C. 18—early 19. Grose, 1st ed.

dang. A curse, a damn: late C. 19–20. Ex:

dang, v. To damn (e.g. dang me!): euphemistic dial. (from ca. 1790) >, ca. 1840, coll. O.E.D.

dangle-parade. A 'short-arm' inspection: New Zealand soldiers': G.W. Cf. dingle-dangle.

dangler; dangling. An emotional friendship between two boys: schoolboys': C. 20.

danglers. A bunch of seals: c. (— 1859): ? ex U.S.—2. Testicles: low: mid-C. 19–20.

dangling. See dangler.

danna. Human ordure: C. 18–19 c. Hence danna-drag, the night-man's cart, C. 19 c. (Vaux), and danna-ken, the C. 18 c. form of the C. 19–20 dunnekin, which, orig. c., > s. and then, ca. 1900, low coll. and which, early in C. 19, pervaded dial.

Dansker. (Gen. pl.) A Dane: nautical coll.: C. 19–20. Bowen. I.e. Danish Dansker, the same. Cf. Shakespeare's use.

dant. A profligate woman; a harlot: C. 16–17. Ex the Dutch, it is almost certainly c. or, at the least, low s. (Halliwell.)

dantiprat. A variant (C. 17) of dandiprat, q.v.

dap. To pick up; to steal, esp. luggage: C. 20 c. Perhaps ex S.E. dab, v., or do up.

daps. Slippers: Regular Army's: late C. 19–20. B. & P. Perhaps cognate with dial. dap, to move quickly and lightly (E.D.D.).

darbies. As handcuffs (from ca. 1660), prob. orig. s., certainly soon coll.; but as fetters (from ca. 1670) always, though rare, s., ob. by 1860. Marryat, in Japhet, 'We may as well put on the darbies, continued he, producing a pair of handcuffs.' Ex a rigid form of usurer's bond called Father Derby's, or Darby's bands.—2. Sausages: C. 19–20, ob. Ex ?

darbies and joans. Fetters coupling two persons: from ca. 1735, ex Darby and Joan.

darble. The devil: a coll. corruption, i.e. orig. a sol., of Fr. diable. From ca. 1850. H., 1st ed.

darby. See darbies.—2. Ready money: from ca. 1675; orig. c., it > low ca. 1780; † by ca. 1850. B.E.; Estcourt, in Prunella, a play (? 1712), 'Come, nimbly lay down darby; come, pray sir: don't be tardy.' For etymology, cf. darbies.—3. A wholly c. sense is the mid-C. 19–20 one, a thief's 'haul'.

darby roll. A gait that results from the long wearing of shackles: from ca. 1820. 'Jon Bee', 1823. Orig. a c. or a police term, it > low gen. s., never very common and now ob. Cf.:

darby's dyke. The grave; death: C. 19 low, prob. orig. c.: cf.:

darby's fair. The day on which a prisoner is removed from one prison to another for trial: C. 19 low. Cf. darbies and darby roll.

dard. The membrum virile: C. 17–18; low, perhaps c. Ex Fr. dard, a dart.

dare. A challenge; act of defiance: from late C. 16; S.E. till late C. 19, when it > coll.

dark. Any person, place, thing not impregnated with Recordite principles: ecclesiastical: ca. 1855–80. H. Perhaps ex darkest Africa.

dark, get the. To be confined in a punishment cell: c.: from ca. 1880.

dark, keep it. Say nothing about it; gen. imperative. From ca. 1856; coll. 'Ducange Anglicus', 1857; Dickens, 1861 (O.E.D.). Prob. ex the long †, keep a person dark, i.e. confined in a dark room, as madmen formerly were; cf. the treatment of Malvolio in Twelfth Night.

dark as a pocket. Extremely dark: merchant-servicemen's: late C. 19–20; ob. Ware.

dark (occ. black) as Newgate knocker. See Newgate knocker, black as.

dark as the inside of a cow. (Of a night) pitch-black: nautical: from ca. 1880. Cf. dark as a pocket.

dark cull(y). A married man with a mistress that he visits only at night: C. 18—early 19 c. A New Canting Dict., 1725; Grose, 1st ed.

dark horse. A horse whose form is unknown to the backers but which is supposed to have a good chance: the turf; from ca. 1830. Disraeli, 'A dark horse . . . rushed past the grand stand in sweeping triumph,' 1831. Variant, from ca. 1840, dark un.—2. Hence, a candidate or competitor of whom little is known: from ca. 1860; in C. 20, coll.

dark house. The coll. form of dark-room, one in which madmen were kept: ca. 1600–1850.

dark it. (Esp. in imperative.) To say nothing, to 'cut it out': tailors': 1928, The Tailor and Cutter, Nov. 29.

dark-lantern. 'The Servant or Agent that Receives the Bribe (at Court),' B.E.: ca. 1690–1770.

dark-lantern man, the. St. John of the Long Parliament. Ex his gloomy looks. (Dawson.)

dark 'un, cop a. To be put on over-time in the winter: dockers': from ca. 1920. (The Daily Herald, late July or early Aug., 1936.)

darkened. Closed (eye): pugilistic (— 1857); ob. 'Ducange Anglicus.'

Darkies. Generic for the Coal-Hole, the Cider Cellar, the Shades: ca. 1850–80. (These were places of midnight entertainment in or near the Strand.) Ware.—2. See darky, 3.

darkman. A watchman: c.: C. 18. Anon., Street-Robberies Consider'd, 1728. Independent of darkmans, for lit. it is a man working in the dark, i.e. at night.

darkmans. Night; twilight: mid-C. 16–19 c. Harman, B.E., Scott. Occ. darkman. I.e. dark + man(s), q.v.

darkman's budge. A nocturnal housebreaker's day-plus-night assistant: c.: late C. 17–18. B.E.

darkness, child of. A bell-man: c.: late C. 17—early 18. B.E.

darks, the; darky. The night; occ. twilight: low; mid-C. 18–20, ob. G. Parker, 1789 (darkey).

darky, darkey. See darks.—2. A dark lantern: ca. 1810–1910; either low or c. Vaux.—3. A negro: coll.: orig. (1775: Thornton), U.S.; anglicised not later than 1840.—4. A white man with a dark skin: a generic nickname, from ca. 1880.—5. The inevitable nickname of men surnamed Smith: military: late C. 19–20. F. & Gibbons. Prob. at first a Gypsy nickname. Also, ironically, of men surnamed White (The Observer, Sept. 20, 1936).—6. A beggar that pretends to be blind: c. (— 1831). Mayhew.

darling in post-G.W. society use as a term of address for even a comparative stranger is rightly considered s., though by 1933 it had > j.

Darling shower. A dust-storm: Darling-River vicinity (Australia): coll. (— 1898). Morris.

Darlo. Darlinghurst, Sydney: Sydneyites': from ca. 1920. See -o, coll. and s. suffix.

darn, darnation, darned. A coll. form of damn, damnation, damned. ? orig. dial.; in C. 19–20, mostly U.S. and euphemistic.

darning the water. 'Ships manœuvring backwards and forwards before a blockaded port': nautical: C. 19. Bowen. Ex darning socks.

dart. In boxing, a dart-like, i.e. straight-armed blow: from ca. 1770; ob.—2. In Australia, idea, plan, scheme; ambition (— 1887). Also, particular fancy, personal taste: from ca. 1894. Ex the idea of a 'darting' or sudden thought. (Morris.) Cf.:

Dart, the Old. See Old Dart, the.

darter. Daughter. When not dial., this is sol.; from C. 16 (? earlier).

Dartmoor crop. Short-cut hair: military: 1915; slightly ob. Ernest Raymond, The Jestings Army, 1930.

dash. A tavern waiter: ca. 1660–1830. B.E. Either ex his dashing about or ex his adding to drinks a dash of this or that.—2. For cut a dash, see cut.—3. A gift; a tip: West Africa: from ca. 1780. Also v.: C. 19. Ex dashee, a native word: in fact, dashee, n. and v., is the earlier, C. 18 only, form of this 'Negrish' term (O.E.D.).—4. An attempt, esp. in have a dash at: coll. (— 1931). Lyell. Cf. have a cut or smack at.

dash, v.i. To cut a dash; coll.; from ca. 1780.—2. (brewers and publicans) to adulterate: from ca. 1860. The Times, April 4, 1871, in leader on the Licensing Bill, '[The publicans] too often . . . are driven to adulterate or dash the liquor.'

dash! An expletive: coll. always, but euphemistic only when consciously used as an evasion for damn!, which orig. it represented: from ca. 1810. Ex the dash in d—n. The most frequent variants are dash my wig(s)!, ca. 1810–80, and dash it all!, from ca. 1870.

dash, do one's. 'To reach one's Waterloo,' C. J. Dennis: Australian (— 1916).

Dash!, s'elp me. A rather illiterate euphemistic coll. variant (— 1923) of s'elp me God! Manchon.

dash my buttons! See buttons.—dash my wig(s)! See dash!

dash off; dash out. To depart with a dash; come out with a dash: coll.: late C. 18–20. Ex dash, v., 1. (O.E.D.)

dash on, have a. To bet heavily and/or wildly: the turf; from ca. 1865, ob.

dashed, dashedly, adj., adv. Euphemistic coll. for damned, damnably: from ca. 1880. See dash! (O.E.D.)

dasher. One who cuts a dash; esp. a showy harlot: from ca. 1790; coll. Dibdin, 'My Poll, once a dasher, now turned to a nurse,'—2. A brilliant or dashing attempt or motion: coll. (— 1884); ob. O.E.D.

dashing. A daring or brilliant action; a showy liveliness in manner, dress, gen. behaviour: coll.: ca. 1800–95.

dashing, adj. Fond of 'cutting a dash', making a show: from ca. 1800; coll. till C. 20, when S.E.

dashy. 'Dashing', adj.; coll.; from ca. 1820 (perhaps after flashy); never very common and now ob.

data. Datum: incorrect as phenomena and strata are, in the singular, for phenomenon and stratum: rare before C. 20.

date. An appointment, esp. with a member of the opposite sex: coll.: from ca. 1905. Ex U.S. Cf. date up, q.v.—2. See date!, you.

date, v.i. To show its period, decade, year, etc., as in 'Fashion in dress dates so terribly'. Also, to be or become superseded, go out of fashion, quickly, as in 'Topicalities date so quickly.' Both senses are coll., somewhat cultured or, occ., snobbish, and arose ca. 1900: ex the v.t. sense, likewise coll. (1896: O.E.D. Sup.), to set definitely in a period, e.g. 'The War dates one so!'—2. V.t., to caress a posteriori: low: C. 20. 'Etymology' legally unexplainable, but fairly obvious.

date, up to. Coll. as = (brought) up to the relevant standard of the time (—1890); almost S.E.

date I, you. Well, you are a queer fish!: non-cultured (—1923). Manchon. Origin?

date up. (Gen. in passive.) To fill the time of (a person) with appointments: from ca. 1930; orig. U.S. Ex date, n.

datholite. Incorrect for datolite ('a borosilicate of calcium'): C. 19–20. O.E.D.

datoo. 'A westerly wind in the Straits of Gibraltar and Western Mediterranean': nautical coll.: mid-C. 19–20. Bowen. ? ex Arabic.

daty. Soft-headed; sun-struck: military: C. 20. F. & Gibbons. By perversion ex the dial. dateless (knocked) unconscious, stupefied, foolish, crazy (E.D.D.).

daub. An artist: low coll.: mid-C. 19–20. H., 3rd ed. Ex daub, a bad painting.—2. A bribe: either c. or low s.: C. 18. A New Canting Dict., 1725. Ex:

daub, dawb, v. (Vbl.n., daubing.) To bribe, gen. v.i.; low, perhaps orig. c.; ca. 1690–1850. B.E. Cf. grease a person's palms.

David, david; davy. An affidavit: the former, C. 19–20; the latter from ca. 1760. In O'Hara's play, Midas, 1764, 'I with my davy will back it, I'll swear.' A facetious variant is Alfred David or Davy, q.v. Also as oath in 'so help me Davy, gen. rendered "swelp my Davy"', H., 5th ed., the purer form occurring in H., 2nd ed. (1860).—2. David Jones, see Davy.

David (or Davy)!, send it down; often send it down, David, send it down! A military c.p. apropos of a shower, esp. if likely to cause a parade to be postponed: C. 20. F. & Gibbons; B. & P. (Wales has a notoriously wet climate; David, the Welsh patron saint.) New Zealanders and Australians say send her down, Hughie!

David Jones; David Jones's locker. See Davy Jones's locker.

David's (later Davy's) sow, (as) drunk as. Beastly, or very, drunk: coll.; from ca. 1670. Shadwell, 1671. In Bailey's Erasmus, 1733, 'When he comes home . . . as drunk as David's sow, he does nothing but lie snoring all night long by my side.' Origin obscure, but presumably anecdotal. (Apperson.) Also drunk as a sow: see sow.

Davy, Davy Jones, Old Davy; David Jones. The spirit of the sea: nautical; from ca. 1750, Smollett being, in Peregrine Pickle, the first to mention it in print. Davy Jones is the orig. form, David Jones is recorded by Grose in 1785, Old Davy occurs in Dibdin in 1790, Davy arises ca. 1800. ? Jonah > Jonas > Jones, the Davy being added by Welsh sailors: such is W.'s ingenious and prob. etymology, perhaps suggested by Davy Jones's locker, q.v.—2. See David.

Davy Debet or Debt. A bailiff: coll. verging on S.E.: ca. 1570–90. Gascoigne. Apperson, 'Debt personified'.

Davy Jones's(s), later Davy's, locker. The sea, esp. as an ocean grave: nautical. Apparently not recorded before Grose, 1785, and then as David Jones's locker.

Davy Jones's natural children. Pirates; smugglers: nautical, C. 19. (Mostly officers'.)

davy-man. That member of the crew of a ship captured by a privateer who was left aboard in order to swear an affidavit as to her nationality: naval coll.: C. 19. Bowen.

Davy putting on the coppers for the parson(s). A nautical comment on an approaching storm: from ca. 1830; ob. This implies the sailors' belief in an arch-devil of the sea; cf.:

Davy's dust. Gunpowder: from ca. 1830; ? orig. nautical. Ex Davy = the devil.

Davy's locker. See David Jones's locker.—Davy's scw. See David's sow.—dawb. See daub.

dawg. A s. > coll. variation of dog, q.v.: late C. 19–20. Whence, perhaps orig. and certainly for the most part Australian, put on dawg, to put on 'side', to behave arrogantly: C. 20. C. J. Dennis.

dawk, or dak, travel. To travel by relays, esp. in palanquins: Anglo-Indian (cf. dak bungalow, an inn, occ. a shelter-house, on a dak route); from ca. 1720; coll. >, by 1860, S.E. Ex Hindi.

daxie, daxy. A dachshund: coll.: 1899 (O.E.D. Sup.).

day! Good day!: coll.: mid-C. 19–20. Cf. afternoon!, morning!, evening!, and night! used in precisely the same voice- and manners-sparing way.

day, call it a. See call it a day.—Day, the. A variant of der Tag, q.v.

day, day! Good day!; good-bye!: C. 17–18 coll.; somewhat childish.

Day and Martin. A negro: ca. 1840–1910. Ware, 'Because D. & M.'s blacking was so black.' Cf. brown polish, q.v.

day-bug. A day-boy: schoolboys': late C. 19–20. Ware. Cf. night-flea.

day-mates. The mates of the various decks: naval coll.: C. 19. Bowen.

daylight. A glass not full: university, ca. 1825–80. Ex the S.E. sense for the space between rim and liquor; the toast-tag, No daylights or heel-taps is still occ. heard.—2. For burn daylight, see burn.—3. A space between a rider and his saddle: from ca. 1870.—4. See daylights.

daylight in the swamp! Time to get out of bed!: Canadian c.p.: C. 20.

daylight into one (coll.) or, both s., the victualling department or the luncheon reservoir, let or knock. To make a hole in, esp. to stab or shoot, hence to kill: in gen., from ca. 1840; but let daylight into one is low coll. recorded by the O.E.D. for 1793. In U.S., make daylight shine through (a person) occurs as early as 1774 (Thornton). Cf. cook one's goose, settle one's hash.

daylights. The eyes: from ca. 1750. Esp. in the pugilistic phrase, darken one's daylights. Fielding, 'D—n me, I will darken her daylights'; Grose, 1st ed.

day's pack(, the). Defaulters' punishment: military: C. 20. F. & Gibbons. Abbr. pack-drill.

dazzle with science. To out-box; fig., to defeat by sheer brains: coll.: C. 20.

dazzler. A showy person, esp. a woman; a brilliant act: from ca. 1835.—2. A dazzling blow (—1883). O.E.D.—3. See bobby dazzler.

de- is often used in a s. or coll. sense or connotation, as in de-bag, q.v.

deacon. 'Boy who collects bread plates for replenishment': Bootham School: late C. 19–20. Anon., Dict. of Bootham Slang, 1925. Cf. angel, 4, q.v.

deacon, v. This U.S. word, implying illicit or fraudulent treatment, or behaviour, has not 'caught on' in the British Empire, except slightly in deacon off, to give (a person) the cue: late C. 19–20. Cf. to doctor (O.E.D.).

dead. Abbr. dead certainty: racing, from ca. 1870; ob.

dead, adj. (rarely) and adv. (often), has a coll. tinge that is hard to define: this unconventionality may spring from one's sense of surprise at finding so grave a word used to mean nothing more serious than incomplete, inferior, or than very, directly, straight, etc. See the ensuing phrases. It is, however, doubtful if dead drunk and analogous terms were ever, despite one's subjective impression, coll.: their antiquity is a hindrance to accurate assessment. The dead phrases may be spelt with or without a hyphen.—2. Dead easy: c.: from ca. 1920. James Curtis, The Gilt Kid, 1936.

dead, on the. Off liquor, teetotal: military: late C. 19–early 20. F. & Gibbons. Prob. on the dead t.t.

dead!, you'll be a long time. Enjoy yourself while you can and may!: a late C. 19–20 c.p. Cf. the C. 18 proverbial there will be sleeping enough in the grave (Apperson).

dead against. Strongly opposed to: from ca. 1850. Coll. >, ca. 1890, S.E. but not literary.

dead alive, dead and alive. (Of persons) dull, mopish, cf. deadly lively, q.v.: C. 16–20: S.E. till mid-C. 19, then increasingly coll.—2. Hence of things, esp. places: dull, with few amusements, little excitement ('a dead-and-alive hole'): coll.; from ca. 1850; now S.E.

dead amiss. Incapacitated, as applied to a horse: the turf: ca. 1860–1910. H., 3rd ed.

dead and done-for look, have a. To look most woe-begone, wretched: coll. (— 1887). Baumann.

dead! and (s)he never called me 'mother'! A C. 20 c.p. satiric of melodrama, whence, in point of fact, the phrase is drawn. E.g. Christopher Bush, The Case of the April Fools, 1933.

dead as a door-nail, a herring, Julius Caesar, mutton, a tent-peg. Quite dead. All coll. orig.; all except the first still coll. The door-nail phrase occurs as early as 1350 and is found in Piers Plowman,—it was S.E. by 1600; the herring, C. 17–20, e.g. in Rhodes's Bombastes Furioso, 1790; the mutton, from (—) 1770; the other two are C. 19–20, though tent-peg has since ca. 1910 been rare. Origins: door-nail is perhaps the striking plate of a door-knocker; a herring dies very soon after capture; Julius Caesar is deadlier than Queen Anne; mutton is by definition the flesh of a dead sheep; a tent-peg, like a door-nail, is constantly being hit on the head. Dial. has the synonyms: dead as a hammer, maggot, nit, rag, smelt (E.D.D.).

dead beat. A worthless idler, esp. if a sponger as well: orig. (— 1875) U.S., anglicised ca. 1900 and now verging on coll.—2. In Australian s. (— 1898), a man down on his luck or stony-broke. Morris.—3. Meat: rhyming s. (— 1914). B. & P.—4. Adj., completely exhausted: from ca. 1820; coll. Pierce Egan in Tom and Jerry, 'Logic was . . . so dead-beat, as to be compelled to cry for quarter.'

dead bird. A certainty: Australian: from ca. 1895; slightly ob. Morris, 'The metaphor is from pigeon-shooting, where the bird being let loose in front of a good shot is as good as dead.'

dead broke. Penniless; occ., bankrupt or ruined: coll.: from ca. 1850.

dead cargo. Booty less valuable than had been expected: C. 18–20, ob.; c. A New Canting Dict., 1725; Grose, 1st ed.

dead cert, certainty. See cert and certainty.

dead cinch. An intensive of cinch (q.v.) in sense of 'dead cert'. Collinson.

dead earnest, in. In S.E., most earnest(ly); as coll., undoubtedly, in very truth: from ca. 1870.

dead eyes for square? Shall I pass at divisions (examinations)? Conway Training Ship: from ca. 1890; ob. Masefield.

dead-eyes under. (Of a ship) listing heavily: nautical: mid-C. 19–20. Bowen. Graphically proleptic.

dead finish, the. The extreme point or instance of courage, cruelty, excellenc, endurance, etc.: Australian coll. (— 1881). O.E.D. (Sup.). Prob. ex finish, n., 1.

dead frost. A fiasco, complete failure: theatrical; from ca. 1875. Rare in C. 20, when a complete frost is preferred and used over a much wider range.

dead give-away. A notable indication, or revelation, of guilt or defect: from ca. 1860.

dead gone. Utterly exhausted or collapsed: coll.; from ca. 1870.

dead head. One who travels free, hence eats free, or, esp., goes free to a place of entertainment (of. paper): coll.: orig. U.S. (1849: Thornton), anglicised ca. 1864. The Daily Telegraph, May 21, 1883, '“Lucia di Lammermoor” is stale enough to warrant the most confirmed deadhead in declining to help make a house.' Whence v., and dead-headism. Orig. of 'passengers not paying fare, likened to dead head (of cattle), as opposed to live stock', W.

dead heat. A race in which two (or more) competitors—animals or men—reach the goal simultaneously: from ca. 1840 (Tom Hood); coll. > S.E. by 1880.

dead horse. Work to be done but already paid for, work in redemption of a debt; hence, distasteful work. Often as work for a or the dead horse, C. 17–20, or draw or pull a . . ., the former C. 19–20, the latter C. 17–18. Cartwright, 1651; B.E., who implies the use of a dead horse as also = a trifle. Coll. In Australia, work off the dead horse.—2. (West Indies) a shooting star: from ca. 1850. Ex a native Jamaican belief.

dead horse, flog a or the. To work to no, or very little, purpose; make much ado about nothing; cry after spilt milk. Coll.; from ca. 1840.

[dead letter and dead-lock, the former in F. & H., the latter in H., have, prob., always been S.E.] dead lights. The eyes: nautical; from ca. 1860.

dead-lock. A lock hospital: Cockneys': 1887; slightly ob. Ware.

Dead Louse. The Daedalus ship of war: late C. 18–mid-19 nautical. Grose, 2nd ed. Also Dead Loss (Ware at Fiddler).

dead low. (Of an atmosphere) absolutely still: nautical coll.: C. 19–20. Bowen.

dead lurk. Robbing a house during divine service: c. and low (— 1851); ob. Mayhew.

dead man. (Very rare in singular.) An empty bottle or pot at a drinking-bout or the like: late C. 17–20; orig. military. B.E. Cf. the later dead marine.—2. A loaf charged for but not delivered, or smuggled away by a baker's man to his master's prejudice: bakers', from ca. 1760. Grose, 2nd ed.—3. Hence the † sense, a baker (— 1860).

dead man, get a fart of a. Applied to anything extremely improbable: low coll.: ca. 1540–1720. Heywood, 1546; Robertson, 1681. (Apperson.)

dead man's lurk. The extorting of money from a dead man's relatives: c.: from ca. 1850. See lurk.

dead marine. An empty bottle at or after a carouse: orig. nautical; from ca. 1820.

dead meat. A corpse: from ca. 1860. Cf. cold meat, croaker, pickles, stiff un.

dead men. Empty bottles: see dead man, 1.—2. Among tailors, misfits, hence a scarecrow, lit. and fig.: from ca. 1840.—3. Reefs and gasket-ends carelessly left hanging: nautical: mid-C. 19–20. Bowen.

dead men's shoes, waiting for. Expecting inheritances: C. 16–20: coll.; S.E. after ca. 1700. Phineas Fletcher, 'Tis tedious waiting dead men's shoes.'

dead nap. A thorough rogue: provincial low s., C. 19–20, ob. Cf.:

dead nip. An insignificant project turning out a failure: provincial s., C. 19–20, ob.

dead number. 'The last number in a row or street; perhaps the end of the street': Cockneys': late C. 19–20; ob. Ware.

dead oh !; deado. Adv., in the last stage of drunkenness: naval; from ca. 1850.

dead on, dead nuts on. Clever at; extremely fond of; hence, at first ironically, very inimical towards. Coll.; from, resp., ca. 1865 and 1870. Cf. the earlier nuts on, q.v.

dead one. See dead un.

dead-oner. A fatal casualty: military: 1915; ob. B. & P. Occ. corrupted to deadomer.

dead pay. Money drawn by 'widows' men' (q.v.): naval coll.: mid-C. 19–20. Bowen.

dead set. A persistent and pointed effort, attempt; esp. such an attack. From ca. 1720. C. >, in the 1770's, s. or coll. (low). A New Canting Dict., 1725, 'Dead Set, a term used by Thieftcatchers when they have a Certainty of seizing some of their Clients, in order to bring them to Justice.' The Globe, Nov. 2, 1889, 'Certain persons . . . are making a dead set against the field sports of Britain.'

dead soldier. A C. 20 military variant of dead marine, q.v. B. & P.

dead sow's eye. A button-hole badly made: tailors': from ca. 1840; ob.

dead struck. (Of actors) breaking down very badly in a performance: theatrical; from ca. 1860; ob.

dead swag. In c., booty that cannot be sold: C. 19–20. Cf. dead cargo.

dead to rights. Adv., certainly, undoubtedly; absolutely. ? orig. U.S.; in England from ca. 1895, but never gen. and now ob. Cf. to rights, q.v.—2. In the (criminal) act: c. and low: late C. 19–20. James Spenser, Limey Breaks In, 1934, 'I had been caught "dead to rights", as the crooks say.' Cf. banged to rights.

dead to the wide. See wide, to the.—2. dead to the world. See world, dead to the.

dead un (or 'un). In C. 19–20 c., an uninhabited house.—2. A half-quartern loaf: from ca. 1870.—3. A horse that will be either scratched, 'doped', or 'pulled' (cf. safe un, q.v.): the turf, from ca. 1870. H., 5th ed.; Hawley Smart in Social Sinners, 1880.—4. A bankrupt company: commercial: late C. 19–20. Ware. Cf. cadaver.

dead with. See seen dead with.

dead yet, not. Very old: a theatrical c.p. (1883; ob.) applied to 'an antique fairy' (Ware).

deader. A funeral: military: ca. 1865–1910.—2. A corpse: from ca. 1880. Conan Doyle.—3. Be a deader also = to be (very recently) dead: late C. 19–20.

deadly. Excessive; unpleasant; very dull (gen. of places): from mid-C. 17; coll. Cf. awful, grim.—2. Adv., excessively; very: coll.; from late C. 16. The S.O.D. records deadly slow at 1688, deadly dull at 1865.

deadly-lively, adj. and adv. Alternately—or combining the—dull (or depressing) and the lively; with forced joviality, esp. to no purpose: coll.: 1823, 'Jon Bee'. Cf. dead alive.

deadly nevergreen(s). The gallows: late C. 18—early 19. Grose, 2nd ed.

deadomer. See dead-oner.

deady. Gin (— 1812): Tom Moore, 1819. The S.O.D. says: 'Distiller's name'; F. & H.: 'From Deady, a well-known gin-spinner.' Ob., except in U.S. dead-eye.

deaf as the mainmast. Exceedingly deaf: nautical coll.: C. 19–20. Bowen.

deaf one (or 'un). A cooked fig.: military: from ca. 1912. S. Rogerson, Twelve Days, 1933. Figs gen. cause a soft stool.

deaf un, turn a. Not to listen: late C. 19–20 c. Charles E. Leach. (I.e., ear.)

deal, a. A lot (of . . .): coll.; from C. 16. 'Pregnantly for a good or great deal, etc.', O.E.D.—2. Hence, adv., much: coll.: mid-C. 18–20.

deal, do a. To conclude a bargain: coll.; late C. 19–20.

deal, wet the. To drink to the conclusion of a bargain(ing): coll.; from ca. 1860. Hindley, in A Cheap Jack, 'We will wet the deal'.

deal it out (to). To deal out punishment (to a person): Australian coll. (— 1916). C. J. Dennis.

deal of glass about, there's a. A person or a thing is showy; first-rate, 'the ticket'. ? ex large show-windows. From ca. 1880; ob.

deal of weather about, there's a. We're in for a storm: nautical coll.: mid-C. 19–20. Ware.

deal suit. A coffin, esp. if parish-provided: coll.: from ca. 1850. Cf. eternity box and the Fr. paletot sans manches.

dean. A small piece of wood tied round a small faggot: Winchester College; from ca. 1850. Cf. bishop, n., 3.

deaner, occ. denar, deener, or dener. A shilling: from ca. 1835; orig. tramps' c.; in C. 20, racing and low. Common in Australia. Brandon; H., 1st ed.; The Times, Oct. 12, 1864. Prob. ex Fr. denier or Lingua Franca dinarly.—2. (Deaner.) Dean of a college: Oxford undergraduates' 1899, The Daily Telegraph, Aug. 14.

dear !; o(h) dear ! Mild coll. exclamations (cf. dear me !, q.v.): resp. C. 19–20, late C. 17–20. O.E.D. Perhaps oh dear ! = oh, dear God or Lord; dear is an abbr. of oh dear !

Dear Joy. An Irishman: coll.: late C. 17–20; ob. B.E.; Grose. Ex a favourite Irish exclamation. Cf. dear knows !: C. 19–20: coll.: Northern Ireland and English provinces: abbr. the dear Lord knows ! Cf. quotations in Thornton.

Dear Little Innocents; Devil's Later Issue, the. The Durham Light Infantry: military in Boer War. J. Milne, The Epistles of Atkins, 1902.

dear me ! A mild exclamation: coll.: from ca. 1770. Perhaps ex It. Dio mi (salvi) !, God save me ! (W.) In dial. there are at least thirteen synonyms: E.D.D.

dear Mother. I am sending you ten shillings—but not this week. A lower classes' and military c.p. of C. 20. B. & P.

dearee. A C. 18 variant of dearie. (O.E.D.)

dearest member. The membrum virile. From ca. 1740: orig. literary and euphemistic; from ca. 1870, jocular and coll.

dearie, deary. A low coll. form of address used by women: late C. 18–20.

deary me! Slightly more sorrowful or lugubrious than dear me! (q.v.): coll. (? orig. dial.): from ca. 1780. O.E.D.

death, done to. Too fashionable; trite: coll. (— 1887) >, by 1910, S.E. Baumann.

death, dress to. To dress oneself in the extreme of fashion: coll.; from ca. 1850. Cf. dress to kill and (q.v.) killing.

death, like. (Or, much later, like grim death.) Very firmly or resolutely: coll.; from ca. 1780.

death, sure as. Absolutely certain: from ca. 1760: S.E. >, ca. 1800, coll.

death drop. Butyl chloride, a very powerful drug: C. 20 c.

death hunter, later death-hunter. One who, to newspapers, supplies reports of deaths: from ca. 1730. Footc.—2. A seller of last dying speeches: from ca. 1850; coll.; ob. by 1895, † by 1910. Mayhew.—3. Robber of an army's dead (— 1816): ob. by 1860, † by 1890.—4. An undertaker: late C. 18–20. Grose, 1st ed.—5. Anyone else engaged in, living by, funerals: from ca. 1870; ob. H., 5th ed.—6. An insurance agent: mostly lower classes' (— 1934).

death on. (With to be.) Very fond of; clever or capable at dealing with: orig. (— 1847) U.S.; anglicised ca. 1875. (Cf. dead (nuts) on, nuts on.) In U.S. (1842: Thornton), it also = fatal to—a sense anglicised ca. 1890.

Death or Glory Boys. The 17th Lancers: military coll.: late C. 18–20. F. & Gibbons, 'From their badge, a death's head with the words "Or Glory."' Cf. Bingham's Dandies and Horse Marines, qq.v.

death's head upon a mop-stick. 'A poor, miserable, emaciated fellow,' Grose, 1st ed.: late C. 18—early 19.

deb. A débutante in society: coll. from ca. 1919; prob. ex U.S. See esp. Dorca Stanhope's series, 'The Débutante Market' in Time and Tide, July, 1934; Michael Harrison, Weep for Lycidas, 1934, 'The usual dreary deb-parades they have in the country.'

deb, v. A G.W. term belonging to a certain English division, spreading to the other divisions of the same corps, and derived from the name of its commander, reputed to do this: (Of a general) to delay the zero hour of his attack until after the zero hours of the troops on his flanks and thus to ensure the safety of his flanks.

de-bag. An Oxford and (less) Cambridge term, from ca. 1890: to remove the 'bags' or trousers of (an objectionable fellow student).

debater. A debating society: Oxford undergraduates': C. 20. The Oxford-er.

debblish. A penny: South Africa: from ca. 1870.

deboo. A début: sol. spelling: from ca. 1885.

debs. Debenture stock: Stock Exchange (— 1896).

debus, (loosely debuss), v.i. To get out of a bus or any motor transport: military s. (1915) >, by 1918, coll. Opp. embus(s). Hence, a debussing point was the place at which the men left the vehicles. F. & Gibbons.

decamp. To camp (v.i.): catachrestic: late C. 17—mid-18. O.E.D.

deccncies. 'Pads used by actors, as distinct from actresses, to ameliorate outline,' Ware: theatrical coll.: late C. 19–20.

decent, decentish. Passable; fairly good or agreeable; tolerable; likable. Senses 1–3 arose ca. 1700 (the form in -ish ca. 1814) and, in C. 19–20, are S.E. The fourth sense is orig. and still Public-Schoolboyish (esp. in decent fellows).

decider. (Gen. the d.) The winning set from even, i.e., the 3rd or 5th: lawn tennis coll.: from ca. 1925. Occ. in other games, e.g. cards. Cf. conqueror, q.v. Ex racing, when a decider is a heat run off after a dead heat (O.E.D.).

decimate. Catachrestically as almost = annihilate: orig. and mostly journalistic: late C. 19–20. Esp. in literally decimated. Ex 'L. decimare, to put to death every tenth man of unit, as punishment for mutiny, etc.', W. The same applies to decimation. deck. A pack of cards: late C. 16–20; until ca. 1720, S.E. (Shakespeare has it in the third King Henry VI); then dial. and, until ca. 1800, coll.; very gen. in U.S. In C. 20 England, it is confined, more or less, to the underworld.—2. In Anglo-Indian coll., a look, a peep: C. 19–20. Variant dekh. Cf. dekk, q.v.—3. See decker, 3.—4. A landing ground: Royal Air Force: from ca. 1915. Orig. among R.N. aviators.

deck, go off the. To leave the ground: Air Force: 1915. F. & Gibbons. Perhaps at first of naval planes.

deck, on the. Penniless; destitute: c.: from ca. 1925. James Curtis, The Gilt Kid, 1936. Prob. suggested by equivalent on the floor.

deckle is, in C. 20, gen. considered a misspelling of deckle in d. edge (uncut edge of a sheet of paper).

decker. A deck-hand: from ca. 1800: coll. >, by 1850, S.E.—2. A deck-passenger, from ca. 1865. coll. (O.E.D.)—3. (Decker.) One who lives in 'the Deck' or Seven Dials district of London (W.C.) costers': late C. 19–20; ob. Ware.

deckie. Same as decker, 1: coll.: from ca. 1910. O.E.D. (Sup.).

declare off, v.t. To cancel (an arrangement, a match, etc.); v.i., to withdraw, arbitrarily or unsportingly. Both coll.; from the late 1740's. Fielding; George Eliot, 'When it came to the point, Mr. Haynes declared off.' (O.E.D.)

decoct. Bankrupt: C. 16; either pedantic or affectedly facetious coll. Lit., thoroughly cooked, i.e. done to a turn. Cf. the C. 17 decoctor.

decolly. Décolleté(e): sol.; late C. 19–20. Cf. neggledigee.

Decomposition Row. Rotten Row, London: London Society s., ca. 1860–70. The Literary Gazette, April 12, 1862.

decoy-bird or -duck. A swindling-decoy: C. 17–20; low coll.; S.E. after ca. 1790.

decus. A crown piece: late C. 17–19. Ex the L. motto, decus et tutamen on the rim. Shadwell; Scott, 'Master Grahame . . . has got the decuses and the smelts.' B.E. cites as c., as it prob. was for some years.

dee. See d.—2. In c., a pocket-book: from ca. 1835; ob. Brandon; H., 1st ed. Orig. Romany.

dee'd. Damned: C. 19–20. Barham (O.E.D.).

Dee-Donk. A Frenchman : Crimean War, when, by the way, the French soldiers called the English I say's, precisely as the Chinese mob once did (see Yule & Burnell). Cf. Wee-Wee, q.v.

'deed. Abbr. indeed : coll. : mid-C. 16–20. Since ca. 1870, mostly Scottish.

deeker. 'A thief kept in pay by a constable,' Haggart in his Life, 1821 : Scottish c. : †.

deener. See deaner.

deep. Sly; artful : from ca. 1780. Punch, 1841, 'I can scarcely believe my eyes. Oh ! he's a deep one'; a deep one is defined by Grose (2nd ed.) as 'a thorough-paced rogue'. Ex the C. 16–20 S.E. sense, profoundly crafty.

deep end. See end, go off the deep.

deep grief. Two black oyes : ca. 1875–1900. Jocular on full mourning.

deep-sea fisherman. A card-sharper on an ocean-liner : C. 20 c. Charles E. Leach.

deep-sinker. The largest-sized tumbler; the drink served therein : Australian coll. : 1897, The Argus, Jan. 15. Ex deep-sinking in a mining shaft. Morris.

deer-stalker. A low-crowned hat, close-fitting and gen. of felt (— 1870); coll. soon > S.E.

deer-stalking, vbl.n. Running after women : jocular (— 1923). Manchon. By pun on dear.

deevie, -vy; dev(e)y. Delightful, charming : 1900–ca. 1907, H. A. Vachell speaking of it in 1909 as †. A perversion of divvy, 4, q.v. O.E.D. (Sup.) records also the adv. in -ily.

deezee, the. The Deceased Wife's Sister Bill : political : 1907; ob. Collinson. A portmanteau word.

defamation. Deformation : sol., as is deformation for defamation. C. 19–20.

deferred stock. Inferior soup : ca. 1860–1900; in the City (see City). The body or solid part of soup is stock.

deffly. Deftly : in C. 18–20, sol.; in C. 16–18, permissible. (O.E.D.)

deficient. A person mentally deficient; also adj. C. 20; much less common than mental as adj.

definite. Dogmatic : late C. 19–20; coll. (Of persons only.—2. Definitive : catachrestic : C. 20.

definitely !; oh, definitely. Yes !; certainly : coll. : C. 20, esp. from ca. 1920 and non-proletarian. Notably (the clergyman in) Sutton Vane's arresting play, Outward Bound, 1924, and, satirically, A. A. Milne, Two People, 1931 (pp. 328–29), and Maurice Lincoln's novel, Oh ! Definitely !, 1933.

deformity. Difformity († S.E., want of uniformity or of conformity) : C. 16–19 : catachrestic. O.E.D.

degen, occ. degan; dagen. In lato C. 17–early 19, c. for a sword. B.E.—2. A sense that, prob. after knowing blade, engendered that of an artful fellow : C. 19 low. Cf. dag, q.v. Etymology ?.

degommy. (Of officers) removed from command because of failure or incompetence : military : late 1914; ob. F. & Gibbons. Ex Fr. dégommé, lit. of gum removed from silk fabrics. Cf. unstuck, q.v.

degree, to a. To a serious, though undefined, extent : coll. : from ca. 1730.

degrees, have taken one's. To have been imprisoned in an 'academy' or gaol : c. : ca. 1820–50. 'Jon Bec.'

degrugger. A degree : Oxford undergraduates' : from ca. 1895. For the form, cf. memugger and testugger. (Ware.)

dekh. See deck, 2, and cf.:

dekho; gen. dekko, n. (esp. take a dekko) and v. To see; to, or a, glance. Vagrants' (— 1865), ex Romany dik, to look, to see (Sampson). In Army, esp. in G.W., common since ca. 1890, via Hindustani.

del. trem. See D.T., 2.

delegate. A person seeking an advance : bank-clerks' (esp. Anglo-Irish) : from ca. 1923.

delerious. Incorrect for delirious : C. 18–20. O.E.D.

Delhi Spearman, the. The 9th Lancers : military : from the Indian Mutiny; ob. F. & Gibbons.

delible. Useless; incompetent : Army officers' : 1916. F. & Gibbons. Cf. degommy.

delicate. A false subscription-book used by a pseudo-collector of alms, etc. : mid-C. 19–20; c. and low. H., 3rd ed.—2. In c. alone (— 1845), a begging-letter.

delicate condition (late C. 19–20) or state of health (1850, Dickens), in a. Pregnant : euphemistic coll. (O.E.D. Sup.)

delighted ! Certainly !; with pleasure ! : C. 19–20; S.E. worn, in C. 20, to coll.

deliver the goods. See goods, the.

dell. In mid-C. 16–early 19 c., a young girl; but in C. 17–early 19 low s., a young wanton, a mistress (cf. doxy). Harman, Jonson, B.E., Grose, Ainsworth. Etymology ?.

delo diam. See delo nammow.

delo nam o' the barrack. In late C. 19–20 c., the master of the house. Barrack = house, while delo nam, in back s., = old man.

delo nammow. An old woman : back s. (— 1874). H., 5th ed. Earlier, dillo namo, q.v. There is also delo diam, an old maid (Ware).

delog. Gold : in back s. (— 1873). Hotten. Earlier dlog, q.v.

Delphi. The Adelphi Theatre : theatrical coll. : 1851. Mayhew; Ware.

delude. See elude.

delve it. To work head down (as in digging) and sewing fast : tailors' : from ca. 1865.

dem. See demn.

demand the box. To call for a bottle : nautical : from ca. 1820; ob. Egan's Grose.

demander (or demauder) for glimmer (or glymmar). A pretended victim of fire : C. 16–18 c.

demi-. In facetious neologism and practice, often either coll. or near-coll., though rarely so used before C. 19.—2. As n., gen. pl., a convalescent; a person half-fit : military (officers') : 1915. F. & Gibbons.

demi-beau. See sub-beau.

demi-doss. A penny bed : vagrants' and low; ca. 1870–1914.

demi-rep. A woman whose general reputation or, esp., chastity is in doubt. First recorded in Fielding's Tom Jones, 1749, '... Vulgarly called a demi-rep; that is . . . a woman who intrigues with every man she likes, under the name and appearance of virtue . . . in short, whom everybody knows to be what nobody calls her.' By 1800, coll.; by 1840 (except in the occ. variant demi-rip) S.E.; by 1900, ob. Ex reputation.

dem. See demn.

demme !, a coll. variant of damn !, is recorded by O.E.D. for 1753.

demn; dem. From late C. 17 in 'profane' usage; the latter the gen. form in C. 19–20. Orig. euphemisms; but rather are they jocular coll. when facetious, esp. in derivatives demd (earlier demn'd) and demnition (as in demnition bow-wows, 'coined' by Dickens in Nicholas Nickleby). These three terms have all been popularly revived by the Baroness d'Orczy in her Scarlet Pimpernel romances.

demo. A (political) demonstration: political: from ca. 1930. James Curtis, The Gilt Kid, 1936.

demob. To demobilise: 1919. Gen. in passive.

demon, n. and adj. applied to 'a super-excellent adept'. Coll.; from ca. 1882. The demon bowler = Spofforth, less fast but more skilful than Larwood; the demon jockey = Fred Archer, who, fl. 1880's, holds several records still unapproached even by Steve Donoghue and Gordon Richards: See esp. the article by Sidney Galtrey ('Hotspur') in The Daily Telegraph of Oct. 7, 1933. Cf. wizard as adj.—2. A policeman: Australian c., from ca. 1875; ob.—3. Cf. the C. 20 Australian and New Zealand c. or low sense (rarely in singular): a detective. Cf.:—4. An old hand at bushranging arrived from Tasmania (Van Diemen's Land): Australian: ca. 1870–1900. Ware.

demonstrate. To make a fuss, 'go off the handle'; exercise one's authority: 1916 +, esp. among ex-service men. Ex its (— 1830) technical sense, to make a military demonstration. Perhaps suggested by create, q.v.

demonstration. An instance of the preceding: military coll.: 1916. B. & P.

demure as a(n) old whore at a christening, as. Extremely demure: late C. 18–20: coll. Grose, 2nd ed.

demy. An illicit die (i.e. dicing): C. 16–17 c. > s. Greene.—2. A urinal: Bootham School: C. 20. Anon., Dict. of Bootham Slang, 1925. Because it provides for only one of the two 'physical needs'.

demy-rep. See demi-rep.

den. A small lodging or, esp., room in which one—gen. a male—can be alone: from ca. 1770: coll. >, by 1900, S.E. Cf. snuggery.—2. the Den. New Cross, London: C. 20.

dena; denar, dener: see deaner.—denarli: see dinarl(e)y.

dennis. A small walking-stick: C. 19. App. unrecorded before 1823 (Bee).—2. (Dennis.) A pig: nautical: mid-C. 19–20. Gen. in address (Dennis). Hence, hullo, Dennis!, an insulting or derisive nautical c.p. of late C. 19–20; ob. Ware.

denotation, denote. See connotation, connote.

dental. Abbr. dental student: university coll.: from ca. 1905.

dented. See dinted.

dentify. An identity (person, not abstraction): sol. (— 1887). Baumann.

deolali tap. See doolally tap. Also deolalic tap.

dep. A deputy, esp. a night porter at a cheap lodging-house: low (— 1870). Dickens, in Edward Dröod, 'All man-servants at Travellers' Lodgings is named Deputy'.—2. In C. 20 c., a deputy-governor of a prison, esp. at Dartmoor.—3. At Christ's Hospital, C. 19–20, a deputy Grecian, i.e. a boy in the form imm. below the 'Grecians'.

depends, it (all). Perhaps! Coll.; late C. 19–20.—2. Also, when depend is used elliptically with the following clause and it = 'to depend on it', it is coll. (1700). S.O.D.

depose. See at dissolute.

depperty. A deputy: a mainly Cockney sol. (— 1887). Baumann.

deprave. Often confused with deprive: late C. 16–early 18. O.E.D.

depress, the. The financial crisis that began in U.S. in late 1929 and hit England in Jan., 1930: orig. (1931), U.S.; anglicised in 1933.

der Tag. 'Any much-desired date or goal': Army officers': 1915–18. B. & P. Satiric of the German phrase = 'the day when we Germans come into our own'.

derack; deracks. A pack of cards; in pl., the cards themselves; military back s.: late C. 19–20. F. & Gibbons. Thus, card > drac > derack, and s is added.

derby. See darby.—2. Derby dog. The homeless dog that, at Epsom, is sure to appear on the course as soon as it has been cleared for the Derby: mid-C. 19–20: coll. >, by 1890, S.E. (The race was founded in 1780 by the 12th Earl of Derby).—3. derbies. See darby.—4. A Derby recruit: military coll.: 1916; ob. F. & Gibbons.

derby, v. To pawn: sporting: late C. 19–early 20. Ware derives from: the pawning of watches being excused on the grounds of their being lost or stolen at Epsom on Derby Day.

Derby crack, a. An outstanding race for the Derby: Cockney (— 1887). Baumann.

Derby Dilly. A section of the Tory party, so nicknamed in 1835. They followed Lord Stanley, afterwards Earl of Derby. (Dawson.)

Derby Kelly. Belly: rhyming s. (— 1900) B. & P. Gen. abbr. to Derby Kell.

dern, derned. See darn. Also durn, durned.

derrey. An eye-glass: c.: from ca. 1860; ob.

derrey, take the. To quiz, ridicule: tailors', ca. 1850–1900.

derrick. The gallows; hangman. As v., to hang. Orig. (1600) coll.; by 1800, S.E. Ex Derrick, the name of the public hangman ca. 1598–1610. Cf. Jack Ketch.—2. Hence, a workhouse: tramps' c. (— 1935).—3. The membrum virile: low: C. 19–20.

derrick, v.i. 'To embark on a disreputable cruise or enterprise': nautical: mid-C. 19–20. Bowen. Ex the n., sense 1.

derry. To dislike or have a 'down' on (a person): Australian and New Zealand: from ca. 1905. Ex derry on, q.v.

Derry-Down Triangle. An Irish nickname for Castlereagh, the Irish member for Londonderry, who, during the troubles of 1796–98, caused Irish backs to be 'tickled at the halberts', Bee: ca. 1800–30.

derry on, have a. To have a 'down' on: Australian: from ca. 1895. Morris derives ex the comic-song refrain hey derry down derry; but also operative is the dial. deray, uproar, disorder, itself ex Old Fr. desroi, derroi, confusion, destruction (E.D.D.) In C. 20, as e.g. in C. J. Dennis, derry is often used separately for: an aversion; a feud.

dersay, I. I dare say; perhaps: Cockney sol. (— 1887). Baumann.

derwenter. A released convict: ca. 1880–1900: Tasmanian. Boldrewood. Ex the penal settlement on the banks of the River Derwent, Tasmania.

derzy. A tailor: Regular Army coll.: late C. 19–20. F. & Gibbons. Ex Hindustani darzi. Also, occ., dhirzi.

describe and descry were often confused ea. 1570–1780. O.E.D.

desert. A ladies' club: Society: 1892–ca. 1915. Ware, 'From the absence [?] lack] of members.'

desert, swing it across the. To scheme one's way into hospital; hence, to malingering: Egyptian Expeditionary Force: 1915-18. F. & Gibbons. See swing it.

deserve a (or the) cushion. See cushion, deserve a. desolate. Dissolute: sol.; C. 18-20.

despatchers, dispatchers. False dice with two sets of numbers and no low pips: low; perhaps orig. c.: from mid-1790's. The Times, Nov. 27, 1856. They soon 'despatch' the unwary. Cf. dispatches.

desparado, Incorrect for desperado: C. 17. Cf. desperancy, incorrect for desperacy: C. 17-early 19. O.E.D.

desperate, desperately, adj. and adv. Both from early C. 17 in loose sense of 'awful(ly)'. Coll.; the adv.—esp. as an intensive (= extremely, very)—remaining so, the adj. having, ca. 1750, > S.E. desperately mashed. Very much in love: ca. 1882-1910. Cf. dash, q.v.

dessay. Dare say: daresay: sol.: C. 19-20. E.g. Milward Kennedy, The Murder of Sleep, 1932, 'I dessay he's forgotten Mr. Churt's 'erc.'

destiny. One's fiancé (rarely fiancée): from ca. 1910: middle-class coll.

dessicate. A frequent error for desiccate: late C. 16-20.

detail, but that's a! or a mere detail! In the 1890's, the former was 'a current phrase' humorously making light of something difficult or important; the latter is the more gen. post-War form: a c.p. > coll. >, by 1930, S.E.

detachment. Incorrect for (legal) attachment: C. 18. As are detainor, -our, for (legal) detainer: C. 17-18. O.E.D.

deten. Detention: school coll.; late C. 19-20.

detest, attest, protest and testify were, mid-C. 16-early 17, occ. confused. O.E.D. detrimental. An ineligible suitor, also (and orig.) a younger brother to an heir to an estate: from ca. 1830.—2. Hence, a male flirt: from ca. 1850. All three nuances are Society slang, slightly ob. by 1920. 3. In C. 20, a male pervert: coll.

Detrimental Club. The Reform Club: Society; late C. 19, rarely in C. 20.

deuce; occ. deuse, C. 17-18; dewce, C. 17; dewse, C. 18; duce, C. 17-19 (O.E.D.). Bad luck, esp. in exclamations (e.g. the deuce!): from ca. 1650. Hence, perdition, the devil, esp. in exclamations (e.g. the deuce take it!): from ca. 1690. Cf. its use as an emphatic negative (e.g. the deuce a bit!): from ca. 1710. These three senses are very intimately linked; they derive either from old Fr. deus, L. deus, or from the deuce (Ger. das daus) at cards: cf. deuce-ace, a throw of two and one, hence a wretched throw, hence bad luck.—2. Whence also the two at dice or at cards (mostly among gamblers); and 3, twopence (mostly among vagrants and Dublin newsboys): both low and dating from ca. 1680. No. 3 is in B.E. as duce, q.v.

deuce, go to the. To degenerate; to fall into ruin: coll.; from ca. 1840.

deuce-a-vil(l)e. See daisyville.

deuce and ace. (A) face: rhyming s.: late C. 19-20. F. & Gibbons.

deuce and all, the. Much, in a violent or humorous sense: coll. (—1762). Sterne. (O.E.D.)

deuce to pay, the. Unpleasant consequences or an awkward situation to be faced: from ca. 1830; in C. 20, coll. Thackeray, 1854, 'There has been such a row . . . and the deuce to pay, that I'm inclined to go back to Cumtarty.'

deuce (or devil) with, to play the. To harm greatly; send to rack and ruin: from ca. 1760; in C. 20, coll.

deuced. (Of things) plaguy, confounded; (persons) devilish; (both) excessive. Also as adv. From ca. 1774. Mme D'Arblay (O.E.D.); Michael Scott, in The Midge, 1836, 'Quacco . . . evidently in a deuced quandary.' Ex deuce, q.v.

deuced infernal. Unpleasant: Society: ca. 1858-70. H., 1st ed., Introduction (jeuced . . .).

deucedly. Plaguily; extremely: coll.; from ca. 1815. Thackeray. (O.E.D.)

deuces. In racing c., from ca. 1860: odds of 2 to 1.

deuse. See deuce.

deuseaville. See daisyville. Hence deuseaville-stampers, country carriers: late C. 17-18 c. B.E.—deus(e)wins. Twopence: 1676, Coles: c.

devast(itat)ion; devastor. Incorrect for devastation, devastator. O.E.D.

devastating has from ca. 1924, been Society s., as in 'Quite too devastating, darling.' Cf. journalistic use. E. F. Benson, Travail of Gold, 1933, 'The banal epithets of priceless and devastating just fitted her.'

devey. See deevie.

devil. The errand boy in a printery—perhaps orig. the boy that took the printed sheets as they issued from the press: (—1683) orig. printers' s., by 1800 printers' j. and gen. coll.; by 1900, S.E. Punch in 1859 spoke of 'the author's paradise' as 'a place where there are no printers' devils'.—2. In law, a junior counsel that, gen. without fee, does professional work, esp. the 'getting-up' of cases, for another: from ca. 1850; in C. 20 considered as S.E.—3. Hence, a person doing hack work (often highly intelligent and specialised work) for another: from ca. 1880; coll.; after ca. 1905, S.E. 'I'm a devil . . . I give plots and incidents to popular authors, sir, write poetry for them, drop in situations, jokes, work up their rough material,' G. R. Sims, 1889.—4. A (firework) cracker: from ca. 1740; coll. till ca. 1800, when it > S.E. Hence, perhaps, the C. 19-20 coll. sense, a piece of firewood, esp. kindling, soaked in resin.—5. A grilled chop or steak seasoned with mustard and occ. with cayenne: late C. 18-20; coll. soon S.E. Grose, 2nd ed., defines it as a broiled turkey-gizzard duly seasoned and adds, 'From being hot in the mouth.' Cf. attorney.—6. Gin seasoned with chillies: licensed victuallers and then public-house in gen.; from ca. 1820. G. Smeaton, Doings in London, 1828.—7. (Fighting) spirit, great energy, a temper notable if aroused: coll.: from ca. 1820.—8. A sandstorm, esp. a sand spout: military (India and Egypt; by 1890, South Africa); from ca. 1830. In C. 20, S.E.—9. Among sailors, any seam difficult to caulk: (? C. 18), C. 19-20.—10. See devil himself.

devil, v. To act as 'devil' to a lawyer: from ca. 1860.—2. To do hack work: from ca. 1880. In C. 20, both senses are S.E. See devil, n., 2 and 3.

devil, a or the, followed by of a(n). An intensive of no very precise meaning: coll.; from ca. 1750. Esp. in a, the devil of a mess, row, man, woman. Michael Scott, 1836, 'A devil of a good fight he made of it.'—2. Also, the devil (without of) is used intensively as a negative, as in 'The devil a thing was there in sight, not even a small white speck of a sail,' Michael Scott in The Midge.

devil, American. A piercing steam whistle employed as a summons: workmen's, ca. 1865-1910. The Manchester Guardian, Sept. 24, 1872.

devil, go to the. To fall into ruin : late C. 18–20 ; but the imprecation go to the devil ! dates from C. 14.

devil, hold a light or candle to the. See candle.

devil !, how or what or when or where or who the. An exclamation indicative of annoyance, wonder, etc. : the second, from M.E. and ex Fr. que diable ! ; the others C. 17–20 : coll. The first occurs in Pope, the second in Garrick, the fifth in Mrs. Cowley.

devil, little or young. A coll. term of address, playful or exasperated : C. 17–20.

devil, the. See devil, a.—devil, young. See devil, little.

devil, play the. To do great harm ; v.t., with. Coll. from ca. 1810 ; earlier, S.E. Egan, 1821, 'The passions . . . are far from evil, | But if not well confined they play the devil.'

devil a bit says Punch, the. A firm though jocular negative : ca. 1850–1910 ; coll. (Without says Punch : from ca. 1700.)

devil among the tailors, the. (Gen. preceded by there's.) A row, disturbance, afoot : late C. 18–20, ob. ; coll. Perhaps ex a tailors' riot at the performance of The Tailors : a Tragedy for Warm Weather. Cf. cucumber time, q.v.

devil (and all) to pay, the. Very unpleasant consequences to face : C. 15–20 ; coll. Swift in his Journal to Stella, 'Supposed,' says the S.O.D., 'to refer to bargains made by wizards, etc., with Satan, and the inevitable payment in the end.'

devil and baker. A C. 20 coll. allusion to the proverbial pull or haul devil, pull baker !, said of a contest of varying fortunes, C. 17–20.

devil and ninepence go with (her, etc.) !, the. A semi-proverbial coll. : C. 18. T. Brown (— 1704), 'That's money and company.' (Apperson.) In C. 19–20 (ob.), with sixpence for ninepence.

devil and Tommy. See Tommy, hell and.

devil and you'll see his horns or tail, talk of the. Applied to a person that, being spoken of, unexpectedly appears : coll. proverbial, C. 17–20.

devil beats or is beating his wife with a shoulder of mutton, the. 'It rains whilst the sun shines,' Grose, 3rd ed. : semi-proverbial coll. : late C. 18–mid. 19.

devil by the tail, pull the. To go rapidly to ruin ; to take an undue risk ; to be at one's last shift. Coll. ; from ca. 1750.

devil-catcher or -driver. A parson : late C. 18–early 19. Grose, 1st ed. See also devil-dodger.

Devil Dick. Richard Porson, the scholar (d. 1808) : very combative. (Dawson.)

devil-dodger. A clergyman, esp. if a ranter : late C. 18–20. Lackington, 1791.—2. (Cf. holy Joe.) A very religious person : mid-C. 19–20. 'Dueange Anglieus.'—3. Also, a person that goes sometimes to church, sometimes to chapel (— 1860) ; ob. H., 2nd ed. Variants of sense 1 : devil-catcher (rare), -driver or -pitcher, and -scolder, all slightly ob. Cf. snub-devil.

devil doubt you, the. (Often with addition of I don't : which explains it.) A proletarian c.p. of late C. 19–early 20. Ware.

devil-drawer. A sorry painter : ca. 1690–1830 : coll. B.E. ; Grose.

devil go with you and ninepence or sixpence. See devil and ninepence.

devil himself, the. A streak of blue thread in the sails of naval ships : mid-C. 18–early 19 nautical. Grose, 1st ed.

devil is blind, when the. Never ; most improbably. Coll. : mid-C. 17–20 ; ob. Cf. blue moon.

devil-may-care. Reckless ; spiritedly free and easy, with connotation of real or assumed happiness. ? before Dickens in 1837 : coll. ; in C. 20, S.E.

devil may dance in his pocket, the. He is penniless : C. 15–early 19 coll. Because there is no coin with a cross on it : no coin whatsoever.

devil-on-the-coals. A small, very quickly baked damper : from ca. 1860 : Australian rural coll. : >, ca. 1900, S.E. The Rev. A. Polehampton, Kangaroo Land, 1862 (Morris).

devil-pitcher, -scolder. See devil-dodger.

devil take . . . ! Followed by me, him, etc. Variants of take are fetch, fly away with, send, snatch. Exclamations of impatience, anger. Coll. : C. 16–20 ; earlier in other forms.

devil to pay. See devil (and all) to pay, the.

devil to pay and no pitch hot, the. See pay and . . .

devil's (occ. the old gentleman's) bed-post(s) or four-poster. At cards, the four of clubs, held to be unlucky : coll. ; from ca. 1835. Captain Chamier, The Arethusa, 1837. Cf. :

devil's bedstead, the. The thirteenth card of the suit led : whist players' coll. (— 1887). Baumann.

devil's bones, teeth. C. 17–20, C. 19 : coll. : dice. Etherege, 1664, 'I do not understand dice . . . hang the devil's bones !' Cf. :

devil's books, the. Playing cards : C. 18–20, ob. ; coll. till ca. 1810, when it > S.E. Swift, 1729, 'Cards are the devil's own invention, for which reason, time out of mind, they are and have been called the devil's books.' Also, ca. 1640–1720, the devil's prayer-book, likewise coll. (Collinson.)

devil's claw(s). The broad arrow on convicts uniforms : c. : from ca. 1850 ; ob.—2. 'A split hook to catch a link of chain cable' : nautical coll verging on j. : mid-C. 19–20. Bowen.—3. A cable-stopper on a sailing ship : id. : id. Ibid.

devil's colours or livery. Black and yellow : coll. : mid-C. 19–20, ob.

devil's daughter. A shrew : coll. : mid-C. 18–20 ; from ca. 1820, mainly dial. Grose, 3rd ed., 'It is said of one who has a termagant for his wife, that he has married the Devil's daughter, and lives with the old folks.'

devil's daughter's portion. A mid-C. 18–early 19 c.p. applied—on account of their impositions on sailors and travellers—to Deal, Dover, and Harwich ; Helvoet and the Brill. Grose, 1st ed. (q.v.).

devil's delight, kick up the. To make a din, a disturbance : from ca. 1850 ; in C. 20, coll. Whyte-Melville in General Bounce.

devil's dinner-hour, the. Midnight : artisans' : late C. 19–20 ; ob. Ware, 'In reference to working late.'

devil's dozen. Thirteen : coll. ; ca. 1600–1850. From the number of witches supposed to attend a witches' sabbath. Cf. baker's (q.v.), printers' and long dozen.

devil's dust. Shoddy, which is made from old cloth shredded by the devil, a disintegrating machine : (— 1840, when Carlyle uses it) ; coll. recognised as S.E. by 1860. Popularised by a Mr. Ferrand in the House of Commons on March 4, 1842, when, to prove the worthlessness of shoddy, he tore a piece of devil's dust into shreds.—2. Gunpowder : military ; from ca. 1870 ; ob. Hawley Smart in Hard Lines, 1883.

devil's guts, the. A surveyor's chain : mid-C. 17–early 19 ; rural. Ray, 1678 ; Grose, 1st ed., 'So called by farmers, who do not like that their land should be measured by their landlords.'

devil's horns off, enough wind to blow the. A very strong wind: nautical: mid-C. 19-20. Baumann.

devil's in Ireland!, as sure as the. A coll. asseveration (— 1823); ob. 'Jon Bee.'

Devil's Later Issue. See Dear Little Innocents.

devil's livery. See devil's colours.

devil's luck and my own (too), the. No luck at all: lower and middle classes' coll.: late C. 19-20. Ware. Cf. devil's own luck, q.v.

devil's own, adj. Devilish; very difficult or troublesome or unregenerate, as e.g. in devil's own dance or business. Coll.: C. 19-20.

Devil's Own, the. (Abbr. The Devil's Own Connaught Boys.) The 88th Foot: military: from ca. 1810. The name is supposed to have been given by General Picton in the Peninsular War, when the 88th were devils in battle—and in billet.—2. (Only as the Devil's Own.) The Inns of Court Volunteers: bestowed by George III in 1803 (F. & Gibbons). Ex the personnel (see devil, n., 2). Mark Lemon, in his Jest Book, 1864, gives a fanciful etymology: '... lawyers always went through thick and thin.' Cf. Devil's Royals, q.v. devil's own boy. A young blackguard; a notable 'imp of the devil': coll.; C. 19-20, ob.

devil's own luck. Extremely bad, more gen. extremely good, fortune: C. 19-20; coll.

devil's own ship. A pirate: coll.; C. 19.

devil's paternoster, say the. To grumble: C. 17-18; coll. Terence in English, 1614.

devil's picture-gallery, the. A pack of cards: coll.: late C. 19-20; ob. Collinson.

devil's playthings, the. Playing cards: C. 19-20, ob.; coll. Cf. devil's books, q.v.

devil's prayer-book, the. See devil's books.

Devil's Royals, the. The 50th Foot, from 1881 the Royal West Kent Regiment: military: 1809, when at Vimiera, 'they charged a French column of five regiments with seven guns and routed it', F. & Gibbons.

devil's smiles. April weather; alternations of sunshine and shower: C. 19-20, ob.; coll.

devil's tattoo. An impatient or vacant drumming on, e.g. the table, with one's fingers, with one's feet on the floor. Coll.; after ca. 1895, S.E. Scott, Lytton, Thackeray.

devil's teeth. Dice: coll. (— 1860); ob. H., 2nd ed. Cf. devil's bones.

Devil's Wood. Delville Wood, 'the scene of terrific fighting in the Battle of the Somme': military: (later) 1916. F. & Gibbons.

devilish, adv. Much, very: from early C. 17: coll.; in C. 19-20 almost S.E. Grose cleverly satirises its use. Orig. it had the force of the C. 20 hellish (adv.).

devils, blue. See blue devils.

deviltry. A coll. form of devilry: not gen. among the educated. From ca. 1850 in England, influenced by U.S.; orig. and, except in facetious use, still mainly dial.

devor. A plum cake: Charterhouse, from ca. 1875. Ex the L.

devotional habits. Applied to a horse eager, or apt, to go on his knees: the stables (— 1860); ob. H., 2nd ed.

devy. See deevie.

dew. Whiskey; oos., punch: Anglo-Irish: 1840, Lever (E.D.D.). Abbr. of mountain-dew, whiskey.

dew-beaters. Pedestrians out before the dew has gone: coll.: mid-C. 17-19. Hackett's Life of Williams.—Whence, 2, the feet: c.: late C. 18-20, ob. Grose, 1st ed.; Scott.—3. In C. 19 c. and (?) low: boots, shoes. Variants: dew-dusters, -treaders: mid-C. 19-20 (ob.): Baumann.

dew-bit. A snack before breakfast: mid-C. 19-20; ob.; coll. Cf. dew-drink, q.v.

dew-clap. Incorrect for dewlap: C. 16. O.E.D.

dew-drink. A drink before breakfast, as to farm labourers before they begin a non-union day's harvesting. Coll.: mid-C. 19-20. Like dew-bit, more gen. and early in dial. H., 3rd ed.

dew on, (have) got a. (To be) sweating: miners': C. 20. The Daily Herald, Aug. 11, 1936.

dew o' Ben Nevis. Whiskey: taverns': C. 20. Ex a specific whiskey. (Ware.)

dewce. See deuce.

dewitted, be. To be murdered by the mob, as were the brothers De Witt, Dutch statesmen, in 1672: from ca. 1685; coll. till ca. 1720, then S.E. Cf. lynch.

dews. See deuce, 2. Esp. in dews wins, twopence.—dewse. See deuce, 1.

dewse-a-vyle. Cf. deuseaville and see daisyville.

dewskitch. A thrashing, esp. a sound one: (— 1851, ob.) vagrants' c., and low s.

dexter. (On the, belonging to the) right: facetiously coll. ex heraldry. From ca. 1870; in C. 20, rare in England, very gen. in U.S., esp. in sport (e.g. baseball). Atkin in House Scraps (a humorous ballad of the Stock Exchange), 1887: 'His "dexter ogle" has a mouse; | His conk's devoid of bark.'

dhirzi. See derzy.

dhobi, dhoby; sometimes anglicised as dobie, dobey, dobee. A native washerman: Anglo-Indian coll.: C. 19-20. Ex Hindi dhōb, washing. Among C. 20 Regular Army soldiers as among post-1840 Europeans resident in India, occ. loosely of any washerman or -woman. (Not to be confused with dhoti, the Hindu loin-cloth.)—2. Hence as v.i. and v.t., gen. in form dobeying (vbl.n.), clothes-washing: nautical: mid-C. 19-20. Bowen.

dhobi wallah. A variant, late C. 19-20, of sense 1 of the preceding.

dhoop. Incorrect for doob (an Indian grass): C. 19-20. O.E.D.

diagram. (Facetious or) sol. for: diaphragm. C. 19-20.

dial. The face: low: from ca. 1830. Orig. dial-plate: Lex. Bal., 1811. (Cf. frontispiece, esp. clock.) Variant, dial-piece.—2. In c., a thief or a convict hailing from Seven Dials, (now part of W.C.1), London: ca. 1840-90.

dial, turn the hands on the. To disfigure a person's face: ca. 1830-1910; low.

dial-piece, -plate. See dial, 1.—alter one's dial-plate. To disfigure his face: 1811.

dialectal (of dialect) and dialectical (of dialectics) are, C. 19-20, often confused.

[Dialogues verging on c.pp.: see note at Chants.]

Dials, the. The Seven Dials district, noted in C. 18-19 for being 'lousy' with low criminals: coll.: C. 19-20. Baumann. (Between Charing Cross and Oxford Street.)

diametrically. Incorrect for diametrically. O.E.D.

Diamond Coates. See Romeo.

diamond-cracking. Work in a coal mine: C. 19-20; cf. black diamonds.—2. In Australian c., from ca. 1870: stone-breaking.

Diamond Dinks, Square Dinks, Triangle Dinks, the. The 2nd, 1st, 3rd Battalion of the New Zealand Rifle Brigade: N.Z. military in G.W. The 4th is the Arse-Ups, q.v. Ex the shapes of the shoulder-patches.

dibble. In C. 17, a moustache (?).—2. The membrum virile: low coll.; C. 19–20. Ex the gardening instrument.—3. An affectionate form of devil: C. 19–20; affected by lovers.

dibble-dabble. An irregular splashing; noisy violence; rubbish: mid-C. 16–20: coll. till C. 19, then dial. By reduplication of dabble. O.E.D.

dib(b)s. Money: from ca. 1810. H. & J. Smith, 1812 (O.E.D.). Prob. ex dibstones, a children's game played with sheep's knuckle-bones or with rounded pebbles.—2. A pool of water: nautical coll.: mid-C. 19–20. Bowen. Ex Scottish dib.—3. Fists; esp. use one's dibs: C. 20. (George Ingram, Stir, 1933.) Cf. origin of sense 1.

dice. The names of false dice are orig. c. and few > s. The terms, q.v. separately, are: bristles, cinques, demies, deuces, direct contraries, fulhams, gord(e)s, graniers, langrets, sices, and trays or treys. See also such terms as bar(re)d, cater, flat, long, ventage.

dice, box the. To carry a point by trickery: legal; from ca. 1850.

dichrotal, dichrotism. Incorrect for dicrotal, dicrotism: from mid-1860's. O.E.D.

Dick. A man; lad, fellow. As in Tom, Dick and Harry (see Words I, pp. 70–1): late C. 16–20. Ex Richard. (Coll. rather than s.)

dick. A dictionary; hence, fine words: from 1860 in U.S., and in Britain from ca. 1870. H., 5th ed. Cf. Richard (Snary).—2. An affidavit: recorded in 1861 (Dutton Cook, in Paul Foster's Daughter). See dick, up to.—3. A riding whip: from ca. 1860; H., 3rd ed. ? etymology.—4. The membrum virile: military, from ca. 1860. In 1915 +, though ob., D.S.O. facetiously = dick shot off. Perhaps suggested by either derrick or, less prob., creamstick.

dick, v.t. and i. To look, peer; watch: North County c.: from ca. 1850. H., 3rd ed. Ex Romany: cf. dekkio.

Dick, clever. A smart, esp. a too smart fellow: lower classes' coll. (— 1923). Manchon.

dick in the green. Inferior; weak: c.: ca. 1805–1900. Vaux. Cf. dickey, adj.

Dick, in the days or reign of Queen. Never: coll.: from ca. 1660; ob. (Cf. devil is blind, when the; blue moon; month of Sundays.) Grose, 3rd ed., however, mentions that that happened in the reign of Queen Dick was applied to 'any absurd old story'; cf. Dick's hatband, q.v.

dick, money for. Money for nothing: military (— 1914). F. & Gibbons.

dick, swallow the. To use long words; esp. to use them without knowledge of their meaning. Coll.: from ca. 1870. See dick, n., 1.

dick, take one's. To take an oath: from ca. 1861. See dick, n., 2.

dick, up to. Artful, knowingly wide-awake; also, up to the mark, excellent: from ca. 1870. J. Greenwood, Under the Blue Blanket: 'Aint that up to dick, my biffin?' As in the preceding term, dick abbr. declaration: cf. davy for affidavit (W.).

dick shot off. See dick, 4.

dicked in the nob. Silly; insane: low: ca.

1820–60. Egan's Grose. Perhaps ex queer as Dick's hatband.

dickeen! See dickein!

dickens (also dickins, C. 17–18; dickings, C. 19; dickons, C. 18–19, O.E.D.), the, rarely a. The devil, the deuce, esp. in exclamations: late C. 16–20; perhaps coll. Shakespeare, Urquhart, Gay, Foote, Sims; C. Haddon Chambers, 'What the dickens could I do?' In origin a euphemistic evasion for devil; either an attrition from devilkin (S.O.D.) or ex Dicken or Dickon (W.). Cf. dickein!, q.v.

dicker. A dictionary: C. 20. By the 'Oxford-er'. Cf. dick, 1.

Dick(e)y. The second mate: nautical: mid-C. 19–20. Bowen. See sense 6 of:

dickey, dicky. A worn-out shirt: ca. 1780–1800; c. or low. G. Parker. H.'s extremely ingenious tommy (ex Gr. τόμην) perversely changed to dicky won't quite do.—2. Hence (— 1811) a sham, i.e. a detachable, shirt-front: low > respectable s. > coll., by 1900 > S.E. Lex. Bal.—3. A woman's under petticoat (— 1811): coll.; †—4. A donkey, if male: late C. 18–20; coll., ? orig. dial. John Mills, 1841. Lex. Bal., 'Roll your dickey; drive your ass'.—5. A small bird: mostly children's coll.; from ca. 1850. Abbr. dicky-bird.—6. A ship's officer in commission, gen. as second dickey, second mate: nautical (— 1867).—7. A swell = London, ca. 1875–95. ? ex up to dick.—8. The membrum virile: schoolboys': from ca. 1870. Ex dick, n., 4.—9. An affidavit: lower classes': from ca. 1865. Ex dick, n., 2. (Manchon.)

dickey, dicky, adj. In bad health, feeling very ill; inferior, sorry; insecure; queer: from ca. 1790; low at first. See dickey with.—2. Smart: London: ca. 1875–1910. ? ex up to dick. Cf. dickey, n., 7.

dickey-, gen. dicky-bird. A small bird: coll.: ca. 1845. Barham (O.E.D.).—2. A harlot: from ca. 1820. In the broadside ballad, George Barnwell, ca. 1830. Often as naughty dick(e)y-bird.—3. A louse: low: from ca. 1855; ob.—4. Gen. in pl., a professional singer: from ca. 1870; ob. Prob. influenced by dial. dicky-bird, a canary (E.D.D.).

dick(e)y-diaper. A linen-draper: ca. 1820–70. Bee. Lit., a fellow who sells diapers.

dick(e)y dido. A complete fool; an idiot: mid-C. 19–20 (ob.): lower classes'. Baumann.

Dick(e)y Dirt. A shirt: rhyming s.: late C. 19–20. F. & Gibbons.

dick(e)y domus. A small 'house' or audience: theatrical: from ca. 1860; ob. Ex dick(e)y, adj., 1, and L. domus, a house or home.

Dick(e)y flurry. 'A run on shore, with all its accompaniments': nautical: late C. 19–20. Bowen. See dickey, adj., 2.

dick(e)y flutter. A bet: military: C. 20. F. & Gibbons. See dickey, adj., 1.

dick(e)y lagger. A bird-catcher: from ca. 1870; low. Ex lag, to seize.

dick(e)y leave. Absence without leave: military (— 1914). F. & Gibbons. Ex dickey, adj., 1.

dick(e)y run. A naval variant of dick(e)y flurry, q.v.: same period. Bowen.

Dick(e)y Sam. A native, occ. an inhabitant, of Liverpool: from ca. 1860; coll. ex Lancashire dial. H., 3rd ed., 1864; The Athenæum, Sept. 10, 1870, 'We cannot even guess why a Liverpool man is called a Dickey Sam.'

Dick(e)y Scrub. A variant of the nickname Heigh-Ho, q.v.

dick(e)y with, all. (Rare, except in dial., in the absolute use exemplified in Thackeray, 1837, 'Sam . . . said it was all dicky.') Queer; gone wrong, upset, ruined; 'all up with'. From ca. 1790. Grose, 3rd ed. Poole, in Hamlet Travestied, 1811: 'O, Hamlet! 'tis all dickey with us both.' Moore; Barham. Origin?

dickin, dicken! 'A term signifying disgust or disbelief,' C. J. Dennis: Australian: C. 20. Sometimes dickin on!, stop that, it's too much to believe, it's disgusting. Ex the dickens!

dickings, dickins, dickons. See dickens.

Dick's hatband. A makeshift: proletarian and provincial: C. 19–20; ob. Ware. Ex:

Dick's hatband, as . . . as. Any such adj. as queer relates the second as. An intensive tag of chameleonio sense and problematic origin, mid-C. 18–early 19; surviving in dial., as in the Cheshire 'All my eye and Dick's hatband.' Grose, 2nd ed; Southey. (Apperson.) In C. 19, occ. as queer as Dick's hatband, that went nine times round and wouldn't meet.

dicksee. See dixie.

dicky. See dickey, n. and adj., all senses.

dictionary, up to. Learned: coll.: C. 19.

did, does (or do) omitted: see 'Present infinitive'. —2. Occ., in sol. speech, did is inserted tautologically before ought: C. 19–20. E.g., Dorothy Sayers, Have His Carcase, 1932, 'I did ought to have spoke up at the time.' —3. (did.) Done: sol.: C. 19–20. Esp. in C. 20 jocular c.p., (it) can't be did, which is very ob.

diddeys. A C. 18 variant (Grose, 2nd ed.) of:

diddies. The paps: low; from ca. 1780. Grose, 2nd ed. (as above). A corruption of titties.

diddle. Gin: from ca. 1720; in C. 19, low, but orig. c. Grose, 1st ed.; Mayhew in Paved with Gold. Prob. ex tipple. —2. The sound of a fiddle: C. 19–20 (ob.), low coll. O.E.D. —3. A swindle: low; from ca. 1840, ex the v. Punch, Sept. 5, 1885, 'It's all a diddle.' Ex v., 1.—4. Among school-boys, the penis: from ca. 1870. ? an arbitrary variation on piddle.

diddle, v. To swindle; 'do'; 'do for', i.e. ruin or kill: from ca. 1803 (S.O.D. recording at 1806). Moore; Scott, 'And Jack is diddled, said the baronet.' Ex Jeremy Diddler in Kenney's Raising the Wind, 1803.—2. To trifle time away (v.i.): from ca. 1827, ob.; coll.—3. To shake (v.t.): coll., perhaps orig. dial.: late C. 18–20, ob. as coll. —4. Hence, to copulate with: low coll. or s.; C. 19–20.—5. To toddle: rare (—1923). Manchon.

diddle-cove. A publican: c. (—1858). Ex diddle, gin.

diddle-daddle. Nonsense; stuff and nonsense: coll.; from ca. 1770.

diddler. A sly cheat, a mean swindler; a very artful dodger; occ., a constant borrower. Coll.; from ca. 1800. Cf. Jeremy Diddler: prob. ex dial. duddle, to trick (W.).

diddling. Sly, petty cheating or meanly sharp practice; chronic borrowing. Coll.; from ca. 1810. Ex the v., 1. diddlum, adj. Dishonest; illicitly manipulated: low, esp. grafters': C. 20. Philip Allingham, Cheappack, 1934, "'It's these ruddy diddlum machines wot's done it," he said.' I.e. diddle 'em.

diddlum buck. The game of crown and anchor: military: from ca. 1880. (F. & Gibbons.)

diddly-pout. The puendum muliebre: low; from ca. 1860. ? rhyming s. on spout.

diddums! Did you (or did he, etc.) then!: nursery coll., in consoling a child: late C. 19–20. Manchon. And see esp. Norah March's excellent article entitled 'Away with all the "Diddums" Jargon' in The Evening Standard, May 28, 1934. By perversion of did you (or he).

diddy. See diddies.—diden. See did'n.

didek(e)i. A gypsy: c.: C. 20. George Orwell, Down and Out in Paris and London, 1933. Ex Romany didakeis, half-bred gypsies (Smart & Crofton).

did'n; diden. Didn't: sol.: C. 19 (? earlier)—20. Time and Tide, Nov. 24, 1934, 'Ran right into the back of 'er, diden 'e?'

dido. Rum: military (mostly Regular Army): C. 20. B. & P. Perhaps ex didoes . . ., q.v.

dido, cut a. A naval variant (C. 20) of the next. F. & Gibbons.

didoes, cut up (occ. one's). To play pranks: orig. (from ca. 1830) U.S.; anglicised in the 1850's; slightly ob. H., 1st ed. Etymology?

didyer. Did you: sol.: C. 19–20. Via did yer.

die. (Gen. pl.) A last dying speech; a criminal trial on a capital charge: low: ca. 1850–70. H., 1st ed.—2. See die of it.

die by the hedge. (Or hyphenated.) Inferior meat: provincial coll. (? orig. dial.); C. 19–20, ob.

die dunghill. See dunghill, die.

Die(-)Hards, the. The 57th Regiment of Foot, now the Middlesex Regiment (British Army): military, from 1811. Supposed to arise ex the colonel's words at bloody Albuera, 'Die hard, my men, die hard.' F. & H.; F. & Gibbons.

die in a devil's or a horse's nightcap; one's shoes (later boots); like a dog; on a fish-day. To be hanged: coll. All four were current in late C. 17–18; the first and second survived in early C. 19. The second, with boots and owing to U.S. influence, has since ca. 1895 meant, to die in harness, at work.

die like a rat. To be poisoned to death: C. 17–18; coll. In C. 19–20, S.E. and of a blunted signification. Like the preceding set of phrases, it is in B.E.

die (of it), make a. To die: coll.: C. 17–20; ob. Cotgrave, 1611.

died of wounds. A military c.p. of the G.W. = hanging on the barbed wire and up in Nellie's room.

Diet of Worms, be or have gone to the. To be dead and buried: ca. 1710–1820. Addison, Grose. (Cf. Rot-his-bone.) When Luther attended the Diet at Worms in 1521, many thought that he would meet the fate of Huss.

Dieu et mon droit (pronounced dright), Fuck you, Jack, I'm all right. An occ. variant (—1914–15) of fuck you, Jack, I'm all right, q.v.

diff. A difference, esp. in 'That's the diff': coll., orig. Stock Exchange: from ca. 1870. Ware, 'There is a great diff between a dona [a woman] and a mush. You can shut up a mush (umbrella) sometimes.' different. Special, unusual, recherché: (1912, Canfield) >, by 1935, coll. O.E.D. (Sup.).

different, adv. Differently: from ca. 1840, sol.; earlier S.E. Kingsley (in dialogue).

different ships, different long-splices. A coll. nautical variation, mid-C. 19–20, of the landsman's different countries, different customs. Bowen.

differential. A coll. (now almost S.E.) abbr. of differential gear(ing): from ca. 1910.

diffs. Monetary difficulties: theatrical: from ca. 1870; ob. Ware. Contrast diff, q.v.

dig. In boxing, a straight left-hander delivered under the opponent's guard: from ca. 1815; used by Tom Moore in Tom Crib's Memorial, 1819. (As = any sharp poke, S.E.) Cf. such terms as auctioneer, biff, corker, floorer, nobbler, topper.—2. A(n intensive) period of study: school coll. (— 1887); slightly ob. Baumann, 'He had a dig at his Caesar er hat seinen Cäsar geochst.' Cf. dig away.—3. Dignity: 'elegant' lower middle-class: from ca. 1890. Prob. ex infra dig, q.v. Ware.—4. Abbr. digger, 2, but not heard before 1915.

dig, v. To live, lodge: from ca. 1900. Ex diggings, q.v.

dig, on. On one's dignity: schoolboys' (— 1909). Ware. Cf. infra dig.

dig a day under the skin. To shave every second day: from ca. 1870; ob.

dig about, give (a person) a. To mock or chaff: lower classes' (— 1923). Manchon.

dig away, v.i. To study hard: school coll. (— 1887); slightly ob. Baumann. Cf. dig out, 2, q.v.

dig in the grave. A shave: military rhyming s.: C. 20. F. & Gibbons. As v.: gen. rhyming s.: from ca. 1880. Everyman, March 26, 1931.—2. The spade in Crown and Anchor: military rhyming s.: from ca. 1910. B. & P.

dig (oneself) in. To secure one's position: coll.: from 1915. Ex trench-warfare.

dig (a person) out. Esp. dig me out, call for me, 'tear me from lazy loafing in the house': Society: ca. 1860–1910. Ware. Cf. diggings.

Digby duck. (Gen. pl.) A dried herring: Nova Scotian and nautical: late C. 19–20. Bowen. Prob. on Bombay duck, q.v.

dig up. To look for, to obtain, both with connotation of effort and/or difficulty: U.S. (late C. 19) >, ca. 1910, anglicised. Ex mining.—2. To depart, make off: low: late C. 19–20. Manchon.—3. To tidy up (v.i.): military: C. 20. F. & Gibbons.—4. To work hard: nautical: late C. 19–20. Bowen. Cf. dig away, q.v.

dig out after. To try hard to get (something): lower classes' (— 1923). Manchon.

digger. The guard-room: military (— 1909); slightly ob. Ware, 'Short for "Damned guard-room."—2. A common form of address—orig. on the gold fields—in Australia and New Zealand since ca. 1855, and esp. common in G.W. +. (Rarely applied to women, except jocularly).—3. In 1915–17, a self-name of the Australian soldier and the New Zealand soldier. Prob. revived, ex sense 2, by those who 'shovelled Gallipoli into sandbags', for this sense appears to have arisen after April 25, 1915 (Anzac Day). Beyond the two relevant Forces, however, only (late 1915 +) the Australian soldier was thus named. B. & P. (In post-War Australia and New Zealand, Digger is the official name for a man that served in the War. Cf. dad, 2.) Cf. Aussie and dinkum, n.—4. See the next two entries.

digger, up the. 'Up the line'; in the trenches: military: G.W. F. & Gibbons. Prob. up the jigger (where jigger = gadget or thingummy) influenced by diggings.

diggers. Spurs: late C. 18–20, ob. Grose, 1788. Cf. persuaders.—2. In cards, the spades suit: from ca. 1840. Cf. diggums and big digger.—3. The finger-nails: low: from ca. 1850: more gen. in U.S. than in the British Empire.

diggers' delight. A wide-brimmed hat made of felt: from ca. 1880; ob.

digging, n. Kneeling down to pray in dormitory at night: Shrewsbury School: from ca. 1880. Desmond Coke, The Bending of a Twig, 1906.

diggings. Quarters, lodgings, apartment: coll.; orig. U.S. (1838), anglicised in late 1850's. (In S.E., diggings, gold-fields, and digger, a miner, date from the 1530's.) H., 1st ed.; Clark Russell, 1884, 'You may see his diggings from your daughter's bedroom window, sir.'

diggums. A gardener: provincial coll. or s.: C. 19–20.—2. In cards (cf. diggers), the suit of spades: from ca. 1840.

diggy. 'Inclined to give sly digs': coll.: C. 20. O.E.D. (Sup.).

digital. A finger: facetiously and pedantically coll.; from early Victorian days.

dignity men. (Extremely rare in singular.) 'The higher ranks and ratings of coloured seamen': nautical: late C. 19–20. Bowen. Ex the dignity of brief office.

digs. Abbr. diggings, q.v.: from ca. 1890. Ex Australian; common in theatrical s. before becoming gen.—2. Prayers: Shrewsbury School: from ca. 1880. Desmond Coke, as at digging, q.v.

diject. Incorrect for deject. O.E.D.

dike, dyke. A w.-c.: (low) coll.: mid-C. 19–20. Ex S.E. sense, a pit. Hence, do a dike, to use the w.-c.

dikk; dikk-dari. Worry; worried: Anglo-Indian coll.: from ca. 1870. Ex Hindustani dik(k), vexed, worried. Yule & Burnell.

dikkop, play. To try to deceive as does a plover (Dutch dikkop) when, as one approaches its nest, it simulates a broken wing: South African coll.: C. 20. Glanville, The Diamond Seekers, 1903. (Pettman.) dilberries. Impure deposits about the anus or the pudend: low: C. 19–20. Lex. Bal. Cf. clinkers.

dilberry-bush. The hair about the pudend: low: mid-C. 19–20. Cf.:

dilberry-maker. The fundament: low (— 1811); ob. Lex. Bal.

dildo. An imagic substitute for the membrum virile; a penis succedaneus. C. 17–20; orig. coll.; in C. 19–20, S.E. 'Hudibras' Butler's Dildoïdes; Grose. Perhaps ex It. diletto, delight, hence this sexual substitute (cf. dildo-glass, a cylindrical glass), perhaps ex dildo, 'a tree or shrub of the genus Cereus' (S.O.D.). See Grose, P.

dildo, v. To exchange sexual caresses with a woman: coll.; ca. 1630–1820. Ex preceding.

dile. Sol. for dial, 1, q.v.

diligent like the devil's apothecary, double. Affectedly diligent: coll.: mid-C. 18–early 19. Grose, 2nd ed.

dilirious, dilirium. † errors for delirious, delirium. O.E.D.

dill. Incorrect dilse, the Scottish form of dulse: mid-C. 19–20. O.E.D.—2. Distilled water: pharmaceutical chemists' (— 1909). Ware.

dillo-namo. An old woman: back s. (— 1859). H., 1st ed. Later, dello nammow, q.v.

Dilly, the. The Piccadilly Saloon: ca. 1850–60. Later, the Pic.—2. Piccadilly (the London Street): c.: C. 20. James Curtis, The Gilt Kid, 1936.

dilly. A coach: coll.; ca. 1780–1850. 'The dillies', Grose, 1st ed., remarks, 'first began to run in England about the year 1779,' but (see O.E.D.) in France by 1742. Ex diligence. 'The Derby dilly, carrying | Three Insides,' Frere, 1789.—2. From ca. 1850: a night cart; ob. by 1910, † by 1930. H., 5th ed.—3. A duck: coll.; from ca. 1840, ex the call to a duck.—4. A coll. abbr. of daffodilly: 1878 (S.O.D.).

dilly, adj. Delightful: ca. 1905–25. O.E.D. (Sup.). Cf. divvy, 4, and deevie.—2. Foolish; half-witted: Australian (—1916). C. J. Dennis. Perhaps ex dippy + silly; but more prob. ex Somersetshire dilly, queer, cranky (1873: E.D.D.).

dilly-bag. A wallet; a civilian haversack: Australian coll.: from ca. 1885. In C. 20, often used by women for a small shopping-bag or for a general-utility purse-bag. In G.W., the Diggers occ. employed it as a facetious variation on ditty-bag for the small linen bag issued in hospitals for toilet and sentimental oddments. Ex dilli, a basket; dilli preceded dilly-bag by forty years. Morris.

dilly-dally. A doubling of dally: orig. (? Richardson in Pamela) coll.; S.E. by 1800. 'Prob. in coll. use as early as 1600,' O.E.D.—2. Also as coll. adj. (—1909). Ware.

dim. Unimportant, undistinguished; colourless, insipid. (Persons only.) Oxford University: ca. 1927–34. Evelyn Waugh, Decline and Fall, 1928, 'Who's that dear, dim, drunk little man?'; J. C. Masterman, An Oxford Tragedy, 1933, 'The dim little research fellow with clumsy manners and no conversation.' Suggested by sub-fusc, q.v.—2. Hence, dull, silly, stupid: Society: 1931; ob. A. A. Milne, Two People, 1931 (in sense: dull, boring). See the quotation at crashing bore. Cf. opaque, q.v.

dim-mort, in B.E., is, I believe, a misprint for dimber mort, q.v. at dimber.

dimback. A louse: military: C. 20. F. & Gibbons. Ex its dim-coloured back.

dimber. Pretty, neat; lively: low, prob. orig. (—1671), c.; † by 1840, except in dial. Whence the late C. 17–19 (perhaps always c.) dimber-damber, leader or captain of criminals or of tramps, as in Head, B.E., and Ainsworth's Rookwood; dimber cove, a handsome man, a gentleman (as in B.E.); and dimber mort, a pretty girl (presumably in B.E.: see dim-mort).—2. Moreover, dimber-damber has become a Cockney adj.: C. 19–20; ob.: 'smart, active, adroit' (Ware).

dime museum. 'A common show—poor piece': theatrical: 1884–ca. 1900. Ware, 'From New York which has a passion for monstrosity displays, called Dime Museums—the dime being the eighth of a dollar.'

dimensions, take. To obtain information: police s.: from ca. 1880; ob. Ware.

dimmock. Money: c. (—1812) >, by 1860, low. Vaux; H., 2nd ed. Hence, flap the dimmock, to display one's cash. Either ex dime = a tithe or ex dime = an American coin of 10 cents (minted ca. 1785).

[din, despite B.E., is not c.—nor otherwise eligible.]

din-din. Dinner; hence, any meal; food: nursery coll.: late C. 19–20. In a certain house I know, one woman invites her baby to 'din-din', another calls 'din-din!' to her cats.

Dinah. A favourite girl or woman; a sweetheart: Cockney (—1890). Dona(h) corrupted.

dinahs. Edinburgh and Glasgow Railway ordinary stock: Stock Exchange: from ca. 1870.

dinarlee (or -ly); dinali (or -y), etc. Money: from ca. 1845; low Cockney and (orig.) Parlyaree. Esp. in nantee dinarlee, [I have] no money. Mayhew in his magnum opus. Ex It. or Sp. (ultimately L. denarii) via Lingua Franca: the gen. view. Possibly, however, through the Gypsies ex the Arabic and Persian dinar (itself ultimately ex L. denarius), the name of various Eastern coins.

dincum. A rare variant of dinkum.

dine out. To go without a meal, esp. dinner: mid-C. 19–20; coll., 'among the very lower classes', says H., 5th ed. Cf. go out and count the railings, dining out, and:

dine with Duke Humphrey. To go dinnerless (cf. dine out): late C. 16–20; ob. Coll. till ca. 1820, then S.E. In Pierce Penniless, Nashe writes: 'I . . . retired me to Pauls [St. Paul's], to seeke my dinner with Duke Humfrey'; Smollett; All the Year Round, June 9, 1888. Prob. ex the Old St. Paul's Church part known as Duke Humphrey's Walk; Humphrey, Duke of Gloucester, Henry IV's youngest son. See esp. the O.E.D. and F. & H. Cf.:

dine with St. Giles and the Earl of Murray. A Scottish coll. variant (C. 18–20; ob.) of the preceding. The Earl was buried in St. Giles' Church. W.

diner. The C. 20 racing c. form of deaner, q.v.

dines !, by God's. A coll. oath of late C. 16—early 17. Perhaps ex dignesse. O.E.D.

ding, v.t., to strike, seems to have a coll. savour: actually, however, it is either S.E. (archaic in C. 19–20) or dial.—2. To ding a person is to abandon his acquaintance, or to quit him: ca. 1810–60, low. Vaux. Ex:—3. As to snatch, to steal, to hide, it is C. 18–19 c. (Capt. Alexander Smith, A Thieves' Grammar, 1719), whence ding, a thief that, to avoid detection, throws away his booty. Grose, 2nd ed.—4. As = dang, a euphemism, mostly U.S.—5. Occ. confused with din, n.: mid-C. 18–20. O.E.D.

ding, knap the; take ding. To receive property just stolen: c. (—1812); † by 1870. Vaux.

ding, upon the. On the prowl: c.: C. 19. Bee.

ding-boy. 'A Rogue, a Hector, a Bully, Sharper,' B.E.: late C. 17–18 c. Cf. ding, 3, q.v.

ding-dong. As adj. and adv., despite F. & H., it has always been S.E.—2. In (—1859) rhyming s., a song: ob. by 1910, except as theatrical.

ding-fury. Anger: either dial. or provincial s.,—a discrimination sometimes impossible to make. C. 19–20; ob.

ding the tot! Run away with the lot! Rhyming s.: from ca. 1870; low.

ding (something) to (a pal). To convey to a friend something just stolen: c. (—1812); † by 1870. Vaux.

dingable. Worthless; easily spared: c. (—1812) >, by 1840, low; † by 1900. Vaux. Ex ding, 2.

dingbat. An officer's servant: Australian army; 1914. Apparently ex dingo + batman. B. & P.—2. 'A swab for drying decks': naval: from not later than 1915. F. & Gibbons. Perhaps ex the now mainly dial. ding to strike, dash down, move violently,—bat as in brickbat.

dingbats. Eccentric; mad, gen. slightly: Australian military: ? before 1914. Perhaps a fanciful adaptation of the Fr. dingot, same meaning: cf. dingo, almost certainly ex Fr. dingot, itself (according to Dauzat) ex dingue, dengue fever. But, prob., imm. ex:—2. the dingbats. Delirium tremens: Australians' and New Zealanders': C. 20; ob.—3. Hence, madness: id.: from ca. 1905; ob.

dinge. A picture, esp. a painting: Royal Military Academy: from ca. 1870; ob. Ex dingy.—2. Black (colour); generic for Negroes: from ca. 1930. Michael Harrison, Weep for Lycidas, 1934. Ex dinginess. Cf. dingy Christian, q.v.

dinge. To render dingy: from ca. 1820: coll. (ob.) and dial. Ex dingy. O.E.D.

dinge. See ding, 3. (Grose, 1788.)

dingers. Cups and balls: jugglers', from ea. 1840. Ex the sound.

dinges or dingus. What-do-you-call-it; what's-his-name: South African s. verging on coll.: late C. 19–20. Fossicker's 'Kloof Yarns' in The Empire, Aug. 27, 1898. Ex Dutch ding, a thing: cf., therefore, thingummy.

dingey. See dingy Christian.

dinghy. A small rowing-boat, esp. for pleasure: from ca. 1830; orig. Anglo-Indian coll.; from ca. 1870, S.E. Ex Hindi dengi, a river-boat. (S.O.D.)—2. Dengue: low and military sol.: C. 20. B. & P.—3. (Dinghy.) The inevitable nickname of men surnamed Reed (Read, Reid): naval and military: late C. 19–20. F. & Gibbons.

dingle. Hackneyed; used up: Society, ea. 1780–1800. The Microcosm (No. 3), 1786. ? ex dinged, battered.

dingle-dangle. The membrum virile: low; from ca. 1895. The term occurs in a somewhat Rabelaisian song. Ex d.-d., a dangling appendage.

dingo. Slightly insane: British Army, 1915 +; ob. Cf. dingbats, q.v.

dingy is, in C. 20, considered incorrect for dinghy, q.v.—2. Dengue: military s. verging on coll.: C. 20. F. & Gibbons.

dingy Christian. A mulatto; anyone with some negro blood: mid-C. 18–mid-19. Grose, 1st ed.

dingus. See dinges.

dining out. (Of a seaman) undergoing punishment, esp. cells: naval: late C. 19–20. Bowen. See also dine out.

dining-room. The mouth: low: from ca. 1820; ob. 'Jon Bee', 1823.

dining-room jump. See jump, n.

dining-room chairs. The teeth: low: from ca. 1820. Bee. Ex dining-room.

dining-room post. Sham postmen's pilfering from houses: late C. 18–19; low or c. See esp. Grose, 2nd ed.

dinkum, occ. dincum. Work, toil: Australian: 1888, Boldrewood, 'An hour's hard dinkum'; ob. Ex Derbyshire and Lincolnshire dial.; cognate with Gloucestershire ding, to work hard: i.e. dincum, -kum, is prob. a perversion of dinging, with which cf. dink, to throw, toss, a variant of S.E. ding, to strike. (E.D.D.)—2. See Dinkums.

dinkum, adj. (Often fair dinkum, occ. square dinkum.) Honest; true, genuine; thorough, complete: Australian: C. 20. C. J. Dennis. Perhaps ex dinky, adj., q.v.; but actually dinkum prob. derives ex fair dinkum, for in Lincolnshire dial. we find fair dinkum, fair play, before 1898; the E.D.D. derives it ex Lincolnshire dinkum, an equitable share of work.

dinkum oil, the. The truth: Australian: from ca. 1910. C. J. Dennis. Ex dinkum, adj.; cf. the straight wire, q.v.

Dinkums, the. (Rare in singular.) Those soldiers who had been on Gallipoli; also, hence, the 1st Australian Division: Australian military: 1916; ob. B. & P. Ex dinkum, adj.

dinky. A mule: military: C. 20. F. & Gibbons. Prob. ironically ex:

dinky. Neat, spruce; small and dainty: coll. (from ca. 1870) ex dial. dinky, itself ex Scottish dink, feat, trim, neat, as in Burns.

dinky-die. A variant (—1914) of dinkum, adj. Jice Doone.

dinky doo. The number 22 in the game of House: military rhymings.: C. 20. F. & Gibbons.—2. 'Thingummy': C. 20.

Dinner Bell, the. Edmund Burke (d. 1797). His long speeches interfered with M.P.s' dinners. Dawson.

dinner-set. The teeth: low: from ca. 1870. Cf. dining-room chairs.

Dinny Hayes, let loose; Dinny Hayes-er. To punch; a punch, esp. a mighty punch: Australian: C. 20. Ex a noted pugilist. John G. Brandon, Th' Big City, 1931, 'In New South [Wales] you just hauled off and spread the troublesome bloke on the floor with a Dinny Hayes-er.' Ibid., the other phrase.

dinoxide. Dioxide: incorrect form: mid-C. 19–20. On binoxide. O.E.D.

dinted, occ. dented. Damaged; wounded, injured; greatly diminished: of persons, reputations, or fortunes: facetious coll.; from ca. 1910.

dip. In c., with corresponding v. (1817), a pick-pocket, 'pick-pocketing' (from ca. 1850). Cf. dive*, diver, qq.v.—2. Abbr. dip-candle: orig. coll., soon S.E.: from ca. 1815. Barham, 'None of your rascally dips.'—3. A pocket inkstand: Westminster School, C. 19–20, ob.—4. A tallow chandler: C. 18–early 19. Cf. sense 2.—5. A hit at, esp. a continuous hard hitting of, the bowling: cricketers': C. 20. Neville Cardus, Good Days, 1934, 'After Macartney reached 200 in something like the time the average cricketer takes to score seventy, he waved his bat toward the pavilion, and signalled; "What do you want, Charles?" asked A. W. Carr: "a drink?" "No . . . I want a heavier bat; I'm going to have a 'dip'." One of the Nottingham bowlers, overhearing . . . , nearly fainted.' (Macartney—it was in 1921—went on to score 345 in 3 hours 55 minutes.)—6. Dripping (in cookery): (low) coll.: mid-C. 19–20. (Neil Bell, Andrew Otway, 1931.)

dip, v. To pawn: mid-C. 17–20; coll. Ex the C. 17–20 S.E. sense, to mortgage, esp. lands, as in Dryden ('Never dip thyl ands'). The Spectator; Thackeray; B.E. has dip one's terra firma.—2. In the passive, to get into trouble; be involved in debt: e.: from ca. 1670.—3. See n., 1.—4. To fail in an examination; more gen. be dipped: naval: late C. 19–20. Ex 'the salute of dipping the ensign,' Bowen. Cf.—5. To lose (e.g. a good-conduct badge), forgo (one's rank): naval: late C. 19–20. Same origin. Bowen.

Dip, the. A cook's shop that, in C. 18–early 19, was situated 'under Furnival's Inn' (Grose, 2nd ed.) and frequented by the lesser legal fry.

dip into. (Gen. with pockets.) To pick pockets: from ca. 1810.

dip one's beak. To drink: C. 19–20; low. (Cf. moisten one's whistle.) B.E.: 'He has dipt his Bill, he is almost drunk': low: late C. 17–early 19; extant in Cornish dial.

dip(t) stick. A gauger: C. 18–19.

diplomatal is a dictionary-error for diplomatical. O.E.D.

dipped, be. See dip, v., 2, 4.

dipped in wing. Worsted: C. 19-20, ob.; coll. Perhaps ex bee's-wing, q.v.

dipped into one's (gen. my) pockets, it or that has. That has involved me in considerable expense: coll. (-1887); slightly ob. Baumann. Perhaps ex dip into, q.v.

dipper. A pick-pocket: mid-C. 19-20; orig. c., then low. Cf. diver.—2. An Anabaptist or a Baptist: the S.O.D., recording at 1617, considers it S.E., but—witness B.E. and Grose—it was prob. coll. until ca. 1820.

dipper (is) hoisted(, the). (There is) a strict rationing of water: nautical: C. 19-20. Bowen, 'From the old sailing ship custom of hoisting the dipper to the truck after the water has been served out to prevent men stealing more than their regulation pint.'

dipping. Pick-pocketry: c. from ca. 1855. See dip, n., 1.

dipping-bloke. A pick-pocket: mid-C. 19-20; orig. c., then low. See dip, n., 1.

dippy. Extremely eccentric or foolish; mad: from ca. 1910. Not impossibly ex Romany divio, mad, a madman (Sampson); cf., however, dipso, q.v.—2. Delirious: medical students' (-1933). Slang, p. 191.

dips. A grocer: s. > coll.: C. 19-20; ob. Cf. 3.—2. The purser's boy: nautical: from ca. 1870. Ex:—3. The purser himself: from ca. 1830; nautical. Marryat. Ex dip-candles.—4. Dough-boys: Australian coll.: mid-C. 19-20.

dipso, n. Abbr. dipsomaniac, a confirmed drunkard: C. 20: cultured s. >, by 1930, coll.

diphtheria. Frequent error for diphtheria: C. 19-20, as is diphthong for diphthong.

dire. Objectionable; (very) unpleasant: from ca. 1920 (non-proletarian). Georgette Heyer, Why Shoot a Butler?, 1933. Cf. ghastly, q.v. direct O. A wireless operator employed directly by the shipowners: nautical: from ca. 1924. Bowen.

directly. Conjunction, as soon as, the moment after: 1795: coll. R. H. Froude; J. H. Newman; Buckle. Abbr. directly that (or when). O.E.D.

dirk. The membrum virile: C. 18-20; orig. Scottish, then low jocular coll.

dirt. Brick-earth: late C. 17-20; coll.—2. Money: orig. (-1890), U.S.; anglicised ca. 1900. Cf. dust.—3. Shells: military: 1915. B. & P., 'Jerry put over a lot of dirt last night.' For semantics, cf. the soldiers' clod (v.) and shit (n.).—4. 'A mean speech or action,' C. J. Dennis: Australian (-1916). Perhaps ex:

dirt (occ. mud), cast, fling, or throw. (V.t. with at.) To be vituperative, malicious: from ca. 1640: coll. till ca. 1800, then S.E. Seldom (throw); Ned Ward ('Fling dirt enough, and some will stick'); 'John Strange Winter' (throw mud).

dirt, do (a person). To play him a mean trick: C. 20: mainly Australian. This is the chief use of dirt, 4, q.v. Cf. dirty, do the.

dirt, eat. To submit to spoken insult, degrading treatment: coll. (in C. 20, S.E.); from late 1850's. H., 3rd ed.

dirt?, what's the. What's the scandal, hence the news?: Society: from ca. 1932. (Evelyn Waugh, A Handful of Dust, 1934.)

dirt-baillie. An inspector of nuisances: Scottish (s., not dial.): C. 19-20.

dirts, the. 'The dirty', a mean trick: from ca. 1926. Anthony Weymouth, Hard Liver, 1936. On bats and pots.

dirty. A boy with a dirty mind: schoolboys': late C. 19-20. Geoffrey Dennis, Bloody Mary's, 1934.

dirty, do the. To play a mean trick (on a person); coll., from ca. 1912; now verging on S.E. Here, dirty = dirty trick. (O.E.D. Sup.)

dirty a plate. See foul a plate.

dirty acres. An estate in land: mid-C. 17-20; coll. till ca. 1820, then S.E.—still facetious. B.E.

dirty beau. Coll.: ca. 1680-1810: 'a slovenly Fellow, yet pretending to Beauishness', B.E.

dirty dishes. Poor relations: coll.; C. 19-20; ob. Somewhat low.

dirty-drunk. Exceedingly drunk: coll., mostly Anglo-Irish: C. 20. (Cf. dirty drunken dribbler, a person that spills his drinks: S.E. verging on coll.)

Dirty Half Hundred. The 50th Regiment of Foot (the 1st Battalion Royal West Kent): from ca. 1810. Lever, in Charles O'Malley. Ex a Peninsular War incident: the soldiers, during a battle, wiped their brows with their black facings. Or rather, as in Napier's account of Vimiera: 'With faces begrimed with powder as black as their own lapels they came tumbling down on Laborde's division with a fearful war-cry.' Cf. Blind Half Hundred, q.v., and contrast Dirty Shirts.

dirty hougher. See hougher, dirty.

dirty left or right. A formidable left or right fist: Australian (-1916). C. J. Dennis.

dirty puzzle. 'A sorry slattern or Slut,' B.E.: low coll.: ca. 1680-1830.

Dirty Shirt Club. The Parthenon (a public-house) in Regent Street, London: ca. 1860-70. Ex its unwashed frequenters. H., 1864. Cf.:

dirty shirt march. The sauntering of male slumdom before, on the Sunday morning, it dresses for the midday meal: coll.; from ca. 1870; ob.

Dirty Shirts. The 101st Regiment of Foot, now the 1st Battalion Munster Fusiliers: from 1857: military. They fought gallantly in their shirt-sleeves at Delhi in that year.—2. It seems that the 2nd Munster Fusiliers had won the same nickname early in the century.

dirty work at the cross-roads. Coition, or lesser amorous intimacies, with a woman: C. 20. Ex the (-1900) sense, foul play, which often takes place at cross-roads. The pun is better unstressed.

dirzi, dirzy. See derzy.

dis. Disrespect: semi-jocular (-1923). Man-chon.—2. See sense 2 of:

dis; sometimes diss. (Gen. v.t.) To distribute (type): printers' (-1889). Barrière & Leland.—2. Hence, occ., as n.

dis, ppl. adj. Disconnected: signallers': from ca. 1910.—2. Hence, go dis, to go crazy: from ca. 1919. Lyell.

disab(b)illy. See dishabbilly.

disaster. A piastre: Australian and New Zealand soldiers' (Eastern front): 1915-18. By rhyme and pun—the coin being of low value.

disception. Rare error (late C. 15-mid-16) for disceputation. O.E.D. discomfit and discomfort were occ. confused in late C. 14-17. O.E.D.

discourse. To yaw-off on both sides: nautical: late C. 19-20. Bowen. I.e. discourse, with a pun on divagation in spoken discourse.

discret. A catachrestic spelling of that very technical adj. discrete. (In C. 16, discreet was occ. used thus, but that hardly confers archaism.

discuss. To eat, drink: jocular coll.: 1815, Scott. Discussion, the consumption of food or drink does not follow until ca. 1860. (S.O.D.) disgorge, v.i. and t. To pay up: coll.; C. 19–20. Ex the S.E. sense, to surrender something wrongfully appropriated.

disgruntled. Offended; chagrined; ill-humoured (temporarily): late C. 17–20. The S.O.D. records as S.E., but (witness B.E. and Grose) perhaps coll. in C. 17–18.

disguised. Drunk: s. or, perhaps rather, coll.: late C. 16–20; ob. In C. 18–20, the gen. form (almost S.E., by the way) is disguised in liquor. Massinger, in The Virgin Martyr, 'Disguised! How? Drunk!' Goldsmith, of a handwriting in She Stoops to Conquer, 'A damned up and down hand, as if it was disguised in liquor.' Clark Russell, 1884, '... A third mate I knew, slightly disguised in liquor.' Ex the C. 16–20 disguise, to intoxicate with liquor. (Then, disguise, intoxication, is rare and rather S.E. than coll.) disguised public-house. A workmen's political club: political: ca. 1886–1900. Ware.

disgusting. Unpleasant; silly: Society: from ca. 1920. Denis Mackail, Greenery Street, 1925, "'You can have a Russian bath—if you know what that is.'" "Don't be disgusting," said Felicity—just to be on the safe side." Cf. filthy, foul.

dish. An act of 'dishing': 1891, Sir W. Harcourt (O.E.D.). Ex:

dish. To cheat; baffle completely; disappoint, 'let down'; ruin. From ca. 1798: and see dished up. The Monthly Magazine, 1798; Moore; Moncrieff, 1821, 'I have been dished and doodled out of forty pounds to-day'; Disraeli, 1867, coined the famous dishing the Whigs. Ex meat being well cooked (done) and then served (dished): exactly analogous is done brown; cf. also cook one's goose and settle one's hash (W.).

dish, have a foot in the. To get a footing; have a share or interest in: coll. (—1682). † by 1800. Bunyan. Ex a pig in his trough. (O.E.D.)

dish, have got a. To be drunk: coll.: ca. 1675–1750. Ray. (Apperson.)

dish-clout. A dirty and slatternly woman: late C. 18–20; coll. Grose, 1st ed.

dish-clout, make a napkin of one's. To marry one's cook; hence, to make a misalliance: from ca. 1750; ob.; a coll. of the proverbial kind. Grose, 3rd ed. Earlier (—1678) as make one's dish-clout one's table-cloth (Ray): Apperson.

dish-jerker. A steward: nautical: late C. 19–20. Bowen.

dish-water, dull as. A late C. 19–20 coll. variant of ditch-water, dull as. Collinson.

dish-wrestler. A dish-washer: low: from ca. 1925. James Curtis, The Gilt Kid, 1936.

dish out. To distribute (food) equally or decorations indiscriminately: military coll.: 1914. B. & P.

dis(h)ab(b)illy, n. Undress: which is pardonable. Adj., undressed: which is ludicrous. From ca. 1700; ob. Ex Fr. (en) déshabillé.

dished. (Of electrotypes) with letters having their centre or middle lower than their edge: printers': from ca. 1880.

dished up, be (whence dish, v.), is recorded by Grose, 2nd ed., for 'to be totally ruined'. In C. 20 displaced by be dished: see dish.—2. 'To be attended to in the sick bay' (Bowen): nautical: mid-C. 19–20.

disincommode erroneously blends discommode and incommode: C. 17. O.E.D. dislogistic. Incorrect for dyslogistic: C. 19–20. O.E.D.

dismal ditty. A psalm sung by a criminal just before his death at the gallows: ca. 1690–1820: (perhaps orig. c., then) low, passing to low coll. B.E., Dyche, Grose.

dismal Jimmy. Mid-C. 19–20 coll., as in H. A. Vachell, The Vicar's Walk, 1933, 'Shown in his true colours, as a dog-in-the-manger, a spoil-sport, a wet blanket, a dismal Jimmy.'

dismals (, esp. in the). Low spirits: from ca. 1760; coll. till ca. 1840, then S.E. Ex M.E. in the dismal.—2. Mourning garments: ca. 1745–1830: coll. (S.O.D.) L. dies mali, unpropitious days.

Dismember for Great Britain. 'The last political nickname given to Gladstone. About the time of the Home Rule Bill'; Society: 1886–early 87. Ware. (Gladstone supported Home Rule for Ireland.)

dispar, disper. A portion (cut in advance) of a leg or a shoulder of mutton (cf. cat's head): Winchester College: from ca. 1830; ob. See esp. Mansfield's School Life at Winchester College, 1870, at p. 84. Prob. ex to disperse or perhaps disparate in the sense of unequal, or it may be a direct adoption of L. dispar.

dispatch. (Despatch is the inferior spelling.) V.t., to dispose quickly of food and/or drink: from ca. 1710: coll. Addison. O.E.D.

dispatches; des-. False dice: from ca. 1810; low, perhaps orig. c. Vaux. Cf. des-, dispatchers, q.v., and doctors.—2. In C. 18–early 19 legal: a mittimus. A New Canting Dict., 1725; Grose, 1st ed.

disper. See dispar.

dispose. See dissolute.

disremember. To fail to remember: Anglo-Irish coll., C. 19–20; dial. and sol., mid-C. 19–20; fairly common in U.S., mid-C. 19–20.

dissecting job. Clothes requiring much alteration: tailors': from ca. 1870.

diss. See dis, v.

dissolute and desolate are often confused by the ignorant: C. 16–20 sol. Less illiterate persons frequently stumble at dissimulate and simulate, while what we used to call the lower-middle class tends to err with dispose and depose.

distaff, have tow on one's. To have trouble in store, ex the sense of having work awaiting one, in hand: ca. 1400–1800. Coll. >, by 1600, S.E.

distiller. One easily vexed and unable to conceal his annoyance: Australian c.: ca. 1840–90. Ex English c. walking distiller, the same: 1812, Vaux. See carry the keg.

distinctive is often misused for distinct and distinguished: late C. 19–20. Fowler.

distracted division. 'Husband and wife fighting', Egan's Grose, 1823; † by 1860.

distress, flag of. See flag of distress.

districts (or D-). Shares in the District Railway: Stock Exchange coll. (—1895) >, by 1920, j. (A. J. Wilson, Stock Exchange Glossary.)

district, on the. (Of a student) doing his midwifery course, which involves the care of the parturient poor in his hospital's district: London medical students' (—1933). Slang, p. 191.

dit. See dite.

ditch. To throw away: nautical: from ca. 1870. (Bowen.) Ex Ditch, the, 2. Cf. ditched, q.v.

Ditch, the. Shoreditch: Coekney coll.: mid-C. 19–20. Ware. An inhabitant thereof: Ditcher.—2. the d., the sea; the D., the Atlantic: coll.: from ca. 1860.—3. Calcutta: Anglo-Indian (—1886); Ditcher, a Calcutta-ite. Ex the Mahratta Ditch. Yule & Burnell.

ditch-water, as dull as. Extremely dull: from ca. 1800; coll. till ca. 1880, then S.E.

ditch-water, clear as. Fig., far from clear: coll.: late C. 19–20. Manchon.

ditched. At a loss; nonplussed: coll.: from ca. 1890.

ditched, be. To get into trouble, be abandoned: Canadian and English c. (mainly vagrants): C. 20. Orig. U.S.; ex being thrown into a ditch from a moving train.

Ditcher. See Ditch, 1 and 3.

dit(e), not care a. A C. 20 coll. derivative of not care a doil (ineligible here). O.E.D. (Sup.).

dither. See all of a dither.—2. dithers, trepidation; (an access of) nervous shiverings: from ca. 1860: coll. (orig. dial.). H., 2nd ed. (Hence adj., dithering.) Perhaps ultimately ex shiver, via dider.

dither, v.i. To be very nervous on a given occasion; to hesitate tremulously or bewilderedly: coll. when not dial.: from ca. 1880. Ex dither, n., 2.

ditto. The same: coll. when not used strictly in the way of business: late C. 17–20. Cf. ditto(e)s.

ditto(-)blues. A suit of clothes made of blue cloth: Winchester College: C. 19–20, ob.

ditto, brother smut. See brother smut.

dittoes, better dittos. A suit all of one colour and material: C. 19–20. Until ca. 1860, the gen. form is suit of dittos, which the S.O.D. records, as suit of ditto, as early as 1755. James Payn, 1882: 'He was never seen in dittos even in September.' In C. 19, occ. applied to trousers only. Both senses, imm. they > gen., are coll.; orig. tailors' s.

ditty. (Gen. in pl.) A fib; a long circumstantial story or excuse. Coll. (mostly Australian and New Zealand): late C. 19–20. Ex dial.: E.D.D.

ditty-bag. A small bag used by sailors for their smaller necessities and sentimentalities: from ca. 1860. Orig., according to H., 3rd ed., and F. & H., coll.; in C. 20, S.E. ? ex dilli: see dilly-bag.

div. A stock-and-share dividend: Stock Exchange: from ca. 1880.

dive. A place of low resort, esp. a drinking-den: coll.: orig. (ca. 1880) U.S., anglicised ca. 1905, though it was fairly well known considerably earlier (e.g. in The Referee, May 10, 1885). Ware. Many 'dives' were, still are, in cellars or, at least, in basements.—2. A variant of diver, 2, q.v.

dive, v.t. and i. To pick pockets: from ca. 1600; ob. In C. 17, e.; then low s. Ben Jonson: 'In using your nimbles [i.e. fingers], in diving the pockets.'

dive for a meal (esp. dinner). To go down into a cellar for it: coll.: late C. 18–mid-19. Grose, 1st ed. Cf. dive, n., 1, q.v., and diver, 3.

dive in the dark. An act of coition: C. 19–20; low.

dive into one's sky. To put one's hand(s) in one's pocket(s); esp. to take out money. C. 19–20, ob.; low.

dive the twine. Gen. dived . . ., applied to a school of fish that, 'surrounded by a purse-seine net drops down through the net and escapes before it can be . . . closed' (Bowen): Grand Banks fishermen's coll.: late C. 19–20.

diver, rarely dive. (Diver only.) He who, assisting a 'curber' (q.v.), sends in a boy to do the stealing: late C. 16–early 17 c. Greene, Dekker.—2. A pickpocket: from ca. 1600; c. till ca. 1800, then low. Gay's The Beggar's Opera has a character named Jenny Diver. Baumann, 1887, 'Smashers and divers and noble contrivers.' Cf. dip.—3. One who lives in a cellar: low: late C. 18–mid-19. Grose, 1st ed. Cf. dive, n., 1.—4. See divers.—5. 'A liner's boatswain in charge of the wash deck party': nautical: late C. 19–20. Bowen (the diver).

divers. The fingers: C. 19–20; low. Cf. pickers and stealers. Cf. the U.S. c. term, diving hooks, appliances for picking pockets (late C. 18–19: Thornton).

divers and diverse are often confused: C. 19–20. Orig. they were identical.

divest. Catachrestic for vest or invest: C. 17. O.E.D.

divi. See divvy, 2.

divide the house with one's wife. To turn her out of doors, 'give her the key of the street': mid-C. 18–19. Grose, 1st ed.

divident(e). Incorrect for dividend: C. 16–17.—divination for divinity: C. 17. Both, O.E.D.

divine. Pleasant: 'nice': Society: from ca. 1920. Evelyn Waugh, Decline and Fall, 1928; The Daily Mirror, Nov. 1, 1933. Cf. marvellous.

divine punishment. Divine service: naval: 1869 (or a few years earlier); ob. Warc.

diviners († by 1921); divvers. Divinity Moderations: Oxford undergraduates: from ca. 1898. (Oxford-er.) Ware.

diving-bell. A basement, esp. a cellar, tavern. Cf. dive, q.v. From ca. 1885. This term may, however, be rather older and hence constitute the germ whence sprang the U.S. dive.—2. 'A sailing-ship that was very wet and plunged badly': nautical: C. 19. Bowen. Ex S.E. nautical sense.

divolve. Incorrect for devolve: C. 15–20. O.E.D.

divot-digger. An inexperienced and/or clumsy golfer: Australian (—1935).

divvers. See diviners.

divvies. See sense 2 of:

div(v)y. A division: military: from ca. 1880, esp. in G.W. As in 'the 29th Divvy', which served on Gallipoli, 1915.—2. (Also divi: 1897, O.E.D.) A share; a dividend (—1890): coll.—3. Also as v.i. and t., with variant divvy up: from ca. 1880.—4. As an adj., divine: from late 1890's; † by 1921. Cf. deevie, q.v.

dixie, dixy. An iron pot, esp. as used in the Army, for boiling tea, rice, stew, vegetables, etc. Popularised by soldiers, who adopted it (—1879) ex Urdu.—2. Also, the small, lidded can that, forming part of a soldier's equipment, is used for tea, stew, etc. Both senses were orig. s. or coll., but they soon > j., then S.E. and of gen. usage, which last they attained ca. 1917 or 1918. (In Frank Richards, Old Soldiers Never Die, the word is spelt dicksee.)—3. Dixie is the nickname, from ca. 1926, of W. R. Dean, who, for Everton in 1927–28, made a record in the English League (Association football): 60 goals in 39 games.

Dizzy; occ. Dizzie. The nickname given, ca. 1840, to Disraeli. Cf. Pam.—2. Whence dizzy, a clever man; esp. in quite a dizzy: middle classes: ca. 1870–1914. Warc.

dizzy. 'A man easily flustered': military: C. 20. F. & Gibbons.

dizzy, adj. Astounding: from ca. 1895. I.e., apt to render dizzy (O.E.D. Sup.). Cf. dizzy limit.

dizzy, get. See get dizzy.

dizzy age, (of) a. Elderly: near-Society: ca. 1860-1900. Ware, 'Makes the spectator dizzy to think of the victim's years.'

dizzy limit, the. The utmost: C. 20. Mostly Australian. C. J. Dennis. (It makes one dizzy.)

dlog. Gold: back s. (-1859). H., 1st ed.

More gen. delog, q.v.

d'n (care or know). Don't: low coll. (-1887). Baumann. But d'n know is nearly always written dunno (likewise in Baumann); d'n being pronounced dun, with which cf. the ud of 'd in its brevity and in its lightness of stress.

Do. Either of the Doherty brothers, the famous lawn-tennis players fl. 1897-1906.

do. A swindle, a fraud; a trick: from ca. 1810; perhaps coll. Dickens, in Boz, 'I thought it was a do, to get me out of the house.' Ex do, v., 1.-2. Action, deed, performance, business, event; (a) success. In C. 17-18, S.E., but from ca. 1820, coll., esp. in make a do—a success—of it, which dates back to Mayhew, 1851, or a little earlier.—3. A joke: middle classes': ca. 1900-15. Ware.—4. An entertainment, a social function: C. 20. In The New Statesman and Nation, Sept. 23, 1933, we hear of 'a famous West Indies cricketer, who speaks perfect English' (Constantine, no doubt) being puzzled by the phrase, a slap-up do, applied to a tea. The puzzlement was admittedly caused more by the slap-up than by the do, though the juxtaposition may also have been partly the cause. In this sense do obtained in dial. as early as 1820.—5. An attack; an offensive: military: 1915; slightly ob. by 1930. B. & P.—6. In pl., a share: esp. fair doo's (or do's), q.v.

do. Does: sol.: throughout mod. English among the illiterate.—2. do or does omitted: see 'Present infinitive.'

do, v. To swindle, cheat: from ca. 1640. Kenney, in that amusing play, Raising the Wind, 'I wasn't born two hundred miles north of Lunnun, to be done by Mr. Diddler, I know.' Hence, to deceive, trick, without illegal connotations: C. 19-20.—2. In c., v.t. to utter base coin or 'queer' (q.v.): from ca. 1810. Vaux.—3. To give a bad time, punish: boxing: ca. 1815-1900. Earlier, to defeat. Grose, 3rd ed., mentions that Humphreys, writing from the boxing ring, said: 'Sir, I have done the Jew' (Mendoza). Cognate is 3, b,—to kill: low: 1823, Bee; † by 1890. Cf. do for, 3.—4. Visit, go over, as a tourist or as a pleasure-seeker: coll.; from ca. 1850. Shirley Brooks, 1858, in the Gordian Knot, 'I did Egypt, as they say, about two years back.'—5. With the amiable, polite, heavy, grand, genteel, etc., do is coll., the exemplar being Dickens's do the amiable in Boz.—6. See the senses implicit in done, done-for, done-over, done-up, qq.v.—7. To suffice (that'll do me), to answer its purpose: ? orig. (1846: Thornton), U.S., anglicised ca. 1860.—8. Hence, to please, meet the requirements of (a person): late C. 19-20. E.g. 'You'll do me!'—9. Moreover, do, like chuck, cop, get, 'is a verb-of-all-work, and is used in every possible or impossible connection' (F. & H.): this shows very clearly in the following set of phrases in do a . . ., where the status is s. or coll. according with the nature of the n.—10. To arrest: c.: C. 20. James Curtis, The Gilt Kid, 1936.

do a beer, a bitter, a drink, a drop, a wet. To take a drink of something stronger than milk or water, the domestic trio (coffee, cocoa, tea), or soft drinks. Do here = drink; it dates from ca. 1850. All, orig. s., are, except do a wet, coll. in C. 20. Cf. do a meal, to eat a meal: same period and status.

do a bill. To utter a bill of exchange: commerce; from ca. 1830. Barham, Thackeray.

do a bishop. To parade at short notice: military, C. 19. Perhaps ex a full-dress parade turned out, at short notice, for a chaplain-general.

do a bit. To eat something: coll.; from ca. 1850.—2. (Of men) to possess, have, a woman: low coll.; from ca. 1860.—3. The cricket sense is ineligible.

do a bit of stiff. To draw a bill: low commercial: from ca. 1850; ob.

do a bunk, a guy, a shift. To depart hastily or secretly: from ca. 1860. The second, orig. c.; the commonest, the first.

do a bunk, a shift. To ease nature: low; from ca. 1865.

do a bust. See bust, do a.

do a cadge. To go begging: low coll.: from ca. 1820. See cadge, n. and v.

do a cat. To vomit: low: from ca. 1840. Cf. cat, shoot the (q.v.).

do a chuck. To effect an ejection; to depart. Low: from ca. 1850; ob.

do a crawl. To cringe: coll.: late C. 19-20.

do a crib. To burgle: c. then, in C. 20, low: from ca. 1840.

do a doss. To go to sleep: low: from ca. 1850. Cf. doss, q.v.

do a drink (or drop). See do a beer.

do a duck. See duck, do a.

do a fluff. To forget one's part: theatrical: from ca. 1850.

do a Garbo, a Gaynor. See Garbo and Gaynor.

do a get. See get, do a.

do a grind, a mount, a ride, a tread. To have sexual intercourse (of men): low: from ca. 1860.

do a grouse. To go a-seeking women: low: C. 19.—2. In C. 20, to grumble.

do a guy. (See do a bunk, a guy . . .)—2. Among workmen, to absent oneself, without permission, from work: from 1865.—3. In c., to make an escape: from ca. 1860. In C. 20, low. Ex sense 1.—4. See guy, do a, 1.

do a job. To commit a crime: C. 20 New Zealand c.

do a knee-trembler. See do a perpendicular.

do a meal. See do a beer.

do a mike or a mouch. To go on the prowl: from ca. 1860; low.—2. In C. 20, also to depart: low.

do a moan. To growl: naval (-1909); ob. Ware.

do a mount. See do a grind.

do a nob. To make a collection: circus, showmen's: from ca. 1845.

do a perpendicular or a knee-trembler. To have sexual intercourse while standing: low: from ca. 1860; the former, ob.

do a pitch—a rush—a snatch. See pitch—rush—snatch.

do a push. To depart; esp. to run away: c. (-1865); ob.—2. See push, do a.

do a ride. See do a grind.

do a rural. To ease oneself by the wayside: low: from ca. 1860; ob.

do a scrap. To have a fight: from ca. 1840.

do (one) a shot. To outwit; to swindle: South African coll. (— 1890). Occ. do (one) a shot in the eye. Pettman.

do a shift. See do a bunk (both senses).

do a sip. To make water: back slang on piss: from ca. 1860; ob.

do a smile. See smile, n. (a drink).—do a snatch. See snatch, do a.

do a spread or a tumble. To lie down to a man: low coll.: from ca. 1840.

do a stagger. To walk: Oxford University: from ca. 1918. Cf. stagger, v.

do a star pitch. To sleep in the open (à la belle étoile): low theatrical: from ca. 1850. Cf. hedge square, q.v.; and:

do a starry. To sleep in the open: C. 20 c.

do a tread. See do a grind.

do a treat. See treat, a.

do an alley. To depart; to hurry away: military: 1915; ob. F. & Gibbons. Ex Fr. aller, to go.

do as I do. An invitation to drink: ca. 1860–1910: coll.

do brown. See brown, do, 2.

do down. To cheat or swindle: from the 1890's. Cf. do, v., 1.—2. Hence, get the better of: coll.: from ca. 1908.

do for. To ruin, destroy; wear out (person or thing) entirely: coll.; from ca. 1750. Fielding (O.E.D.).—2. To attend to or on, as a landlady or a char for a lodger, a bachelor: orig. S.E.; since ca. 1840, coll.—3. In c., to kill: from ca. 1850; in C. 20, low. Cf. do, v., 3, b.—4. To convict: c.: from ca. 1850. H., 1st ed.

do gospel. To go to church: low coll.: from ca. 1860.

do it. To be in the habit of doing—or gen. ready to do—it, i.e. to have physical intercourse. As an evasion, euphemistic; otherwise, coll.

do in. To kill: late C. 19–20. Cf. do for, 3.—2. Hence, to denounce to the police: low (— 1914). A. Neil Lyons (quoted by Manchon).—3. To defeat: Australian: C. 20. C. J. Dennis.—4. To spend (recklessly, utterly): Australian (C. 20: Dennis) ex English sporting (1886: Ware).—5. To despatch, dispose of; to spoil completely; to cancel; jocularly, to eat, to drink: from ca. 1920. In The News Chronicle of Aug. 30, 1935, there is this advertisement of Gaymer's cider: 'Guy Fawkes, my name is, | Famous for plottin', | And as it's Gaymer's | I'll do the lot in'.—6. To exhaust (a person): coll. (— 1931). Lyell.

do it away. To dispose of stolen goods: c.: from ca. 1810. Vaux. Cf. fence, v.

do it brown. See brown, do, 2.

do it fat (or fine). To act the fine gentleman: low (— 1923). Manchon.

do it now! A commercial c.p. (— 1910; ob.). Collinson. Ex a business slogan.

do it up. See do up, 2.

do it up in good twig. (See do up, 2.) To live comfortably by one's wits: low: C. 19–20; ob.

do-little sword. A midshipman's dirk, indicative rather of authority than of violence: naval: mid-C. 19–20. Bowen.

do-more. A small raft, made of two logs: Canadian lumbermen's: later C. 19–20. Because a riverman can do more on two logs than on one log: John Beames do on one's head, with the left hand, while asleep, etc. To do easily: coll.; from ca. 1880. A variant is, do on the b.h., i.e. on the, or one's, bloody head.

do one's balls on. (Of a man) to fall utterly in love with: low coll.: late C. 19–20.

do one's bit. In late C. 19—early 20 c., to serve a sentence. Ware.—2. In G.W., to serve in Army or Navy: ex the late C. 19–20 coll., do one's share, to help a general cause. In the Boer War, a soldier wrote of his fellows, 'They all do "their bit" well' (J. Milne, The Epistles of Atkins, 1902).

do one's block. See block, lose.

do one's business. To kill: C. 18–20, low coll. (Fielding, Thackeray, Reade), as is the sense (from ca. 1850), to evacuate, defecate.—3. To have sexual intercourse with a woman (one's = her): low; from ca. 1860.

do one's dash. See dash, do one's.—do one's luck. See luck.

do one's money. To lose all one's money: mostly Australian and New Zealand: C. 20.

do one's nut. To lose one's head: lower classes' and military: C. 20. F. & Gibbons.

do one's stuff. To act as one intends; perform one's social task: an Americanism anglicised along with know one's stuff (to be alert, competent) by 1931. E.g. David Esdaile in The Daily Mirror, Nov. 18, 1933; A. P. Garland, in The Passing Show, June 16, 1934, 'The spring sun shone brightly, and larks were doing their stuff overhead.'

do oneself well. See do well.

do over. Knock down; persuade; cheat, ruin: low coll.; from ca. 1770. Parker, Dickens.—2. In C. 19 c., to search the pockets of; c. frisk.—3. To seduce; also, to copulate with: low; mid-C. 19–20, ob. H., 5th ed.

do Paddy Doyle. See Paddy Doyle.

do proud. To flatter, act hospitably or generously towards: coll.; from ca. 1830.

do reason or right. To honour a toast: coll.; C. 19–20, ob.

do savage rabbits. See savage rabbits.

do svidanya! Au revoir!; goodbye! 1919: military coll. (expedition in North Russia). F. & Gibbons. Ex Russian.

do the aqua. To put water in one's drink: public-houses': mid-C. 19–20. Ware. L. aqua, water.

do the dirty. See dirty, do the.

do the downy. To lie in bed: from ca. 1840. 'Cuthbert Bede', 1853, 'This'll never do, Gig. lamps! Cutting chapel to do the downy.' C. balmy, q.v.

do the (e.g. religious) dodge (over). 'To pretend to be religious and so seek to obtain some favour' (from a person): coll. (— 1931). Lyell.

do the graceful. To behave gracefully or fittingly: non-aristocratic coll.: from ca. 1880. Ware.

do the handsome, occ. the handsome thing. To behave extremely well (in kindness, money, etc.) to a person: coll.; from ca. 1840.

do the High. To walk up and down High Street after church on Sunday evening: Oxford University, ca. 1850–90. H., 5th ed.

do the polite. To exert oneself to be polite; to be unusually polite: coll.: 1856 (O.E.D.).

do the swag. To dispose of stolen property: c.: from ca. 1840. Cf. fence and do it away.

do the trick. To gain one's object: from ca. 1810: c. >, by 1830, s. >, by 1860, coll. Vaux.—2. Hence, (of a man) to perform effectually the act of kind; (of a woman) to be devirginated: both low coll., from ca. 1840.

do time. To serve a sentence in prison: from ca. 1870; c. till C. 20, when s. > coll. H., 5th ed.; The Cornhill Magazine, June, 1884, 'He has repeatedly done time for drunks and disorderlies, and for assaults upon the police.'

do to death. To do frequently and ad nauseam: coll.; C. 18-20.

do to rights. To effect or achieve satisfactorily; to treat (a person) well: proletarian: mid-C. 19-20. Ware.

do up. To use up, finish; disable, wear out, exhaust; ruin financially: coll.: from ca. 1780; ob.—2. To accomplish one's object: coll.: C. 18-19.—3. In C. 19-20 (ob.) c., to quieten, gen. in done up, silenced.

do-ut-des. Selfish persons: Society: 1883-ca. 1905. Ware. A pun on L. do ut des, I give in order that you may give.

do well. To treat, entertain, well: from ca. 1895. Esp. do oneself well (in food and comfort). O.E.D. (Sup.).

do while asleep; do with the left hand. See do on one's head.

do with . . . , (I) could. I would very much like to have: coll. (—1887). Baumann. By mciosis.

do without, able to. To dislike (esp. a person): late C. 19-20. Ex Yorkshire dial. 'Well, I could do without him, you know.'

do yer feel like that? A satirical, proletarian c.p. addressed to any person engaged in unusual work or to a lazy one doing any work: late C. 19-20; ob. Ware.

do you hear the news? See news?, do you hear the.

do you know? An almost expressionless coll. tag: 1883-ca. 1890. It > gen. in 1884 owing to its adoption by Beerbohm Tree in The Private Secretary. Ware.

do you sav(v)ey? Do you know: middle classes': ca. 1840-90. Ware. Cf. do you know and don't you know.

do you see any green in my eye? D'you think I'm a fool? What do you take me for? A c.p.: from ca. 1850. Cf. the Fr. je la connais, sc. cette histoire-là.

do you to wain-rights. An intensification of do to rights, q.v.: East London c.p. of ca. 1874-1915. Ex murderer Wainwright. (Ware.)

doash. In late C. 17-early 19 c., a cloak. B.E., Grose. Etymology?

doasta. Adulterated spirit, esp. if fiery, served in sailors' lodging-houses: nautical: late C. 19-20. Bowen. ? ex Hindustani.

dobbin. A sorry horse: coll.; C. 19-20. Ex the S.E. sense, an ordinary draught horse. (Variant dobin).—2. Ribbon: c. and low: mid-C. 18-19. Hence dobbin-rig, the stealing of ribbon: late C. 18-20 (ob.) c. Grose, 3rd ed.

dobbs. Pork: military: late C. 19-20. F. & Gibbons. Origin?

dobee, dobey, or dobie. See dhobi.

dobra. Good: military: 1919. In North Russia and Murmansk: ex Russian. F. & Gibbons.

doc. A coll. abbr. of doctor, in address and narrative: from ca. 1850; app., orig. U.S.—2. Hence, any sick-bay rating, esp. in address: naval: C. 20. Bowen.—3. See doctor, 7.

doccy. See doxy.

dock. Orig. (1586-1610), as in Warner and Jonson, prob. c. in its C. 19-20 S.E. sense, an enclosure for prisoners on trial in a law-court. (O.E.D.)—2. Hospital; chiefly in dock. Late C. 18-20: orig. nautical; in C. 20, coll. Grose, 1st ed.—3. Among printers, the weekly work-bill or 'pole': from ca. 1860; ob.

dock, v. To deflower (a woman); hence, to 'have' a woman: from ca. 1560; ob. by 1800, † by 1840. Prob. orig. c.; certainly always low. Harman, Middleton, B.E., Grose. (Gen. with the dell, q.v.) F. & H. proposes Romany dukker, to ravish; but the S.E. dock, to curtail, with an implied reference to tail (q.v.), is obviously operative.—2. At Winchester College, C. 19-20, ob., to scratch or tear out or, as in R. G. K. Wrench, to rub out; to knock down.—3. To take from (a person) part of his wages as a fine: dial. (ca. 1820) >, by 1890, coll. O.E.D. (Sup.).

dock, go into. To be treated for a venereal disease: late C. 18-20, ob; nautical. Grose, 1st ed.

dock, in dry. Out of work: coll.: from ca. 1927. O.E.D. (Sup.).

dock-pheasant. A bloater: nautical: late C. 19-20. Bowen. Cf. Billingsgate pheasant.

dock - shankers. 'Dock - mates': nautical (—1823); † by 1870. Egan's Grose, where, I surmise, the real meaning is, companions in a venereal hospital.

dock-walloping. Perambulating the docks to look at ships: nautical: late C. 19-20. Bowen.

dock to a daisy, (as like as) a. Very dissimilar: coll. (—1639); † by 1800. Apperson.

docked smack smooth, be. To have had one's penis amputated: nautical: mid-C. 18-19. Grose, 1st ed.

docker. A dock labourer: from ca. 1880; coll. till ca. 1895, then S.E.—2. A brief from the prisoner in the dock to counsel: legal; from ca. 1890.

docket, strike a. To cause a man to become bankrupt: legal and commercial j. > coll. > S.E.: ca. 1805-60.

dockets, play the game of. See play the game of dockets.

docking. 'A punishment inflicted by sailors on the prostitutes who have infected them with the venereal disease; it consists in cutting off all their clothes, petticoat, shift and all, close to their stays, and then turning them out into the street', Grose: low coll.; ca. 1700-1850.

docking herself. (Of a ship) taking the mud and forcing a position for herself: nautical coll.: late C. 19-20. Bowen.

dockyard-crawl. The rate of work in the Royal dockyards: naval: late C. 19-20. Bowen. Cf. Government stroke, q.v.

dockyard-horse. An officer better at office-work than on active service: naval; from ca. 1870.—2. (Gen. pl.) A man drawing stores for a (naval) ship: naval: late C. 19-20. Bowen.

dockyarder. A skulker, esp. about the docks: nautical; from ca. 1860. The U.S. equivalent is dock-walloper. Cf. strawyarder.

Docs, the. The Duke of Cornwall's Light Infantry: military: C. 20. F. & Gibbons.

doctor. A false die: Shadwell, 1688, constitutes the earliest record. Until ca. 1740, c.; then low; in C. 20 ob., very ob. Fielding, in Tom Jones, 'Here, said he, taking some dice out of his pockets, here are the little doctors which cure the distempers of the purse.' Ex a doctor's powers. Hence, late

C. 17—early 19 (as, e.g. in B.E.), put the doctor(s) upon, to cheat a person with loaded dice.—2. An adulterant, esp. of spirits (see Grose, 1st ed., 1785), but also of food, e.g. bread: among bakers (says Maton in Tricks of Bakers Unmasked), alum is called the doctor. O.E.D. records it at 1770.—3. Brown sherry: licensed victuallers', C. 19–20, ob.: because a doctored wine.—4. Earlier (— 1770), milk and water, with a dash of rum and a sprinkling of nutmeg: † by 1880.—5. The last throw of dice or ninepins: perhaps orig. c.: C. 18–19, mostly among gamblers.—6. The headmaster: Winchester College, from ca. 1830.—7. (Occ. doc.) A ship's cook: nautical, also up-country Australian: recorded by S.O.D. at 1860, but the evidence of H. shows that it must, among Englishmen, have been current some years earlier; it existed in the U.S. as early as 1821 (Thornton). Ex food as health-insurer.—8. A variant of Cape doctor, q.v.; always the doctor (or Doctor): 1856 (Pettman). But it is recorded for the West Indies as early as 1740 (O.E.D.).—9. A broker dealing specifically with overdue vessels: nautical and commercial s. (late 1890's) >, by 1920, coll. O.E.D. (Sup.).—10. See doctors.—11. Pill No. 9 in the Field Medical Chest: military: from 1914. Because so frequently prescribed.—12. Hence, 9 in the game of House: military: 1915. F. & Gibbons, as is sense 11.—13. A synonym of punisher, 3 (q.v.), as also is gentleman, 2.

doctor, v. Confer a doctorate upon, make a doctor ('philosophy', not medicine): from ca. 1590; now very rare, yet not quite a ghost-word.—2. To treat, give medicine to, of a doctor or as if of a doctor: from ca. 1730.—3. Hence, to practise as a physician (— 1865).—4. To adulterate; tamper with; falsify: from ca. 1770. Now coll.—5. Hence, to repair, patch up; revise extensively, distort a literary work, a newspaper article: C. 19–20. (Thus far, S.O.D.).—6. To 'dope' (a horse): sporting: from ca. 1860; little used after ca. 1910, dope being the fashionable word.—7. 'To undergo medical treatment': coll.: from ca. 1880. All these senses are coll., though the fourth and the sixth had orig. a tinge of s.—8. 'To prepare the warriors, by certain "medicines" and incantations, for war,' Pettman: South African coll.: from ca. 1890. Ex witch doctor.

Doctor Brighton. Brighton: Society coll. (from ca. 1820) >, ca. 1895, gen. coll. Ware. I.e., Dr. Bright 'Un.

Doctor Cotton. Rotten: rhyming s.: C. 20. P. P., Rhyming Slang, 1932. Also Dolly Cotton and John Cotton.

Doctor Doddypoll. See doddypoll.

doctor draw-fart. An itinerant quack: C. 19–20, ob.: low coll.

Doctor Foster. 9 in the game of House: military: C. 20. Dr. Foster occurs in a nursery rhyme; '9' is connected with pills ('number nine'), hence with medical officers. Cf. doctor, n., 12.

doctor (in one's cellars), keep the. Habitually to adulterate the liquor one sells: licensed victuallers', then public-house's: coll.; from ca. 1860. H., 5th ed.

Doctor Inkpot. John Standish, a C. 16 Archdeacon of Colchester. Dawson. 'Writer of tracts.'

Doctor Jim. A soft felt hat, wide-brimmed: lower classes: 1896—ca. 1914. Ex Dr. Jameson's, 'Africander felt' (Ware). Whence Jimkwm, Jimmunt.

Doctor Johnson. The membrum virile: literary:

ca 1790–1880. Perhaps because there was no one that Dr. Johnson was not prepared to stand up to.

doctor on one, put the. To cheat, orig. with false dice and, orig. perhaps, c.: late C. 17–20; ob. B.E. doctor ordered, just what the. See just what.

doctored, ppl. adj. Adulterated; patched-up (fig.); falsified: C. 18–20, coll. See doctor, v., 4.

doctors. Counterfeit coin: c. (— 1923). Manchon. Prob. ex doctor, n., 1.

doctor's curse, gen. preceded by the. A dose of calomel (— 1821): coll.; ob. O.E.D.

doctor's shop. The number 9 (cf. number nine, q.v.) in the game of House: military: C. 20. F. & Gibbons. See doctor, n., 12.

doctor's stuff, occ. (C. 19–20) doctor-stuff. Medicine: coll.: from ca. 1770. 'He could not take Doctor's stuff, if he died for it.' (O.E.D.) doctors upon, put the. See doctor, n., 1.

dod. A low coll. (†) and dial. interjection: from ca. 1670. Orig. a deformation of God. (S.O.D.)

dodder. 'Burnt tobacco taken from the bottom of a pipe and placed on the top of a fresh plug to give a stronger flavour,' F. & H.: mid-C. 19–20, Irish. Cf. S.E. dottle.

dodderer. A meddler; a fool. (In S.E., a tottering, pottering old man.) C. 19–20, ob.; mostly Cockney. Variant, doddering old sheep's head.

doddies. A selfish person: proletarian: ca. 1890–1915. Ware. A corruption of do ut des (man), q.v.

doddipool. See doddypoll.

doddle. Money very easily obtained: Glasgow (— 1934). Cf. klondyke.

doddy, or hoddy-doddy ('all head and no body'). A simpleton, an idiot: mostly Norfolk and orig. and mainly dial.: C. 19–20.

doddypoll. A M.E. and C. 15–18 nickname for a doll, a fool; extant in dial. In late C. 16—mid-17, occ. Doctor Doddypoll. Apperson. Ex dod, to lop, poll, clip, and poll, the head. Cf. preceding.

dodge. A shrewd and artful expedient, an ingenious contrivance: from ca. 1830; coll. in C. 20. Dickens in Pickwick: "'It was all false, of course?'" "All, sir," replied Mr. Weller, "reg'lar do, sir; artful dodge." (Ex the corresponding v., which, like its derivative, dodger, is S.E., though the latter has a slightly coll. tinge.)

dodge, on the. Engaged in something dishonest: coll.: C. 20. O.E.D. (Sup.)

dodge Pompey. To steal grass: Australian: from ca. 1920. Pompey personifies the Law. Ex:—2. To avoid work on shipboard: naval (pre-G.W.) >, by 1918 at latest, gen. nautical. Bowen.

dodge the column. To shirk one's duty: military: 1899 (Boer War). See esp. B. & P.—2. Whence, (column-) dodger: military: 1914.

Dodger. Whysall (d. ca. 1930), the all-England cricketer.

dodger. See dodge.—2. A dram, a 'go' of liquor: from ca. 1850. H., 1st ed.—3. A shirker, malingerer: military: late C. 19–20. B. & P.—4. In C. 20 c., a half-sovereign; ob. Ex its elusiveness.—5. A mess-deck sweeper: naval: late C. 19–20. Bowen. He thus avoids other duties.—6. A very frequent nickname of men surnamed Green: military: C. 20.—7. A good-conduct badge: military: C. 20. Ironical: cf. canteen medal, q.v. F. & Gibbons.—8. A sandwich: military (— 1914), because the meat therein dodges the consumer? (Ibid.)—9. A clergyman, a priest: c. and low: mid-C. 19–20. Mayhew, London Labour, vol. IV, 1861. Abbr. devil-dodger, q.v.

dodgy. Artful: (low) coll. (— 1887); slightly ob. Baumann. See dodge.

dodipol. See doddypoll.

dodo. A stupid old man: Society: late C. 19–20 (ob.); coll. Ex the extinct bird. Cf.:—2. Scotland Yard: journalists': 1885–ca. 1890. Ware.

dodsey. A woman: e.: late C. 18–early 19. Grose, 2nd ed. Prob. a corruption of doxy.

doee. See doeee.

doer. One who cheats another: from ca. 1840; ob. O.E.D.—2. A 'character'; an eccentric or very humorous fellow: Australian; from ca. 1905.

does, fair. See fair doo's.

does it? A sarcastically intonated coll. retort: from ca. 1870; ob.

does your mother know you're out? A e.p. of sarcastic or jocular implication: from 1838, says Benham in his Book of Quotations. Punch, 1841; The Sun, Dec. 28, 1864. F. & H., s.v., gives a very interesting list of such sapient phrases: all of which will be found in these pages.

does your mother want a rabbit? A e.p. of the 1890's and pre-War C. 20: non-aristocratic. B. & P. Ex the question of itinerant rabbit-vendors.

doesn't (or don't) give much away. Yield(s) few—or no—advantages; very keen: coll.: from ca. 1880. Ware.

doey. See dooley.

[dog, when used of a person whether contemptuously or playfully, is considered by F. & H. to be coll., by the S.O.D. to be S.E.: the latter is, I think, in the right.]

dog. Abbr. dog-watch: nautical: from ca. 1890.—2. In the West Indies, a copper or a small silver coin, with variant black dog: (— 1797) nautical. (O.E.D.)—3. God: in coll. oaths: C. 16. O.E.D.—4. See dog, put on.—5. See dogs.—6. Soap: Bootham School: C. 20. Anon., Dict. of Bootham Slang, 1925.—7. A cigarette-end: c.: C. 20. M. Harrison, Spring in Tartarus, 1935.—8. A beggar-searcher for cigarette-ends: c.: C. 20. Michael Harrison, Weep for Lycidas, 1934.

dog. To post (a student) for examination on the last day: Oxford University (— 1726); † by 1800. Amherst. O.E.D.—2. V.i. To have sexual connexion on all fours, i.e. like a dog: C. 19–20 low.

dog, an easy thing to find a stick to beat a. 'It costs little to trouble those that cannot help themselves,' B.E.: mid-C. 17–18 coll.

dog, blush like a blue. See blush.—dog, cash a. See cash a dog.

dog,—fight bear, fight. To fight till one party is overcome: C. 16–20 coll.; ob. Aphra Behn, Scott.

dog, he (she) worries the. A c.p. directed at a visitor whose approach repels even the house-dog: lower-middle classes' (— 1909); ob. Ware.

dog, put on; occ. carry dog. To put on 'side': coll.: from ca. 1914. (O.E.D. Sup.) Cf. doggy, adj., 1.

dog, try it on the. See try it on the dog.

dog along. To fare tolerably, passably: Canadian coll.: C. 20. John Beames.

dog a swim. See swim, give one's dog a.

dog and bonnet. The lion-and-crown badge of the King's Own Scottish Borderers: military: C. 20. F. & Gibbons.

dog and cat, agree like. See cat and dog.

dog and maggot. Biscuits and cheese: Regular Army's: C. 20. B. & P.

dog at it, (an) old. Expert; habituated: coll.; C. 16–19. Nashe. The mod. form is an old dog for a hard road.

dog away one's time. To idle it away: Cockney (— 1887); slightly ob. Baumann.

dog-basket. 'The receptacle in which the remains of the cabin meals were taken—or smuggled—forward' in sailing ships: nautical: C. 19. Bowen.

dog before its master, the. A heavy swell preceding a gale: nautical e.p.: late C. 19–20. Ibid.

dog-biscuit. An Army mattress: military: late C. 19–20; ob. F. & Gibbons. Ex colour and shape. Also biscuit.

dog bite my ear! See bite me!

dog biting dog. Applied to one actor's adversely criticising another's performance: late C. 19–20 theatrical.

dog-bolt. A coll. term of contempt: mean wretch. C. 15–17, later use being archaic. (S.O.D.) dog booby. An awkward lout; a clodhopper: late C. 18–early 19 military. Grose, 1st ed.

dog-buffer. A dog-stealer that kills all dogs not advertised for, sells the skins, and feeds the other dogs with the carcasses: c.: late C. 18–19. Grose, 2nd ed.

dog-cheap. Exceedingly cheap: coll. (C. 16–20), F. & H.; S.E., S.O.D.: prob. the latter.

dog-collar. A 'stand-up' stiff collar, esp. a clergyman's reversed collar: from late 1860's; slightly ob. Grenville Murray, 'The dog-collar was of spotless purity.' Whence:

dog-collar brigade, the. The Clergy: Glasgow: C. 20.

dog-drawn. Said (low coll.) of a woman from whom a man has, in the act, been forcibly removed: C. 19–20; ob.

dog-end. A cigarette-end: vagrants' c.: from ca. 1920. James Curtis, The Gilt Kid, 1936.

dog-fancier. A receiver of stolen dogs and restorer of the same to their owners—for a fee: c. (— 1861). Mayhew.

dog-fat. Butter: military: C. 20. B. & P.

dog-fight. An Air Force coll. (1915) >, by 1930, S.E., as defined, implicatively, by P. C. Wren, in The Passing Show, Aug. 18, 1934, 'But best sport of all was a dog-fight, an all-on-to-all scrap between a flight of British Bristol Scouts and a bigger flight of Fokkers, everybody shooting-up everybody, a wild and whirling mêlée from which every now and then someone went hurtling down to death in a blaze of smoke and fire.'

dog-gone, dog gone. Coll. euphemism for and 'fantastic perversion of God-damned' (W.): U.S.; anglicised ca. 1860. H., 3rd ed.—2. Devoted: lower classes' (— 1909); ob. Ware.

dog-hole. A mean or a disgusting dwelling-place: coll.: from ca. 1570; ob.

dog in a blanket. A roly-poly pudding: coll.: mostly nautical: from ca. 1850. Sala.

dog in a doublet. 'A daring, resolute fellow', Grose, 3rd ed. C. 16–early 19 coll. Ex German hunting-dogs, protected, in a boar-chase, with a leather doublet.

dog in a doublet, a (mere). 'A mean pitiful creature', Northall: coll. (1577); now dial. Cf.:

dog in a doublet, proud as a. Exceedingly proud: coll.: late C. 16–17. Apperson.

dog in shoes, like a. Making a pattering sound: Anglo-Irish coll., C. 19–20.

[dog in the manger, like a, may orig. have been coll.: C. 16–20.]

dog is dead ?, whose. Variant, what dog is a-hanging ? What is the matter ? C. 17–20 coll.; ob. Massinger, 'Whose dog's dead now | That you observe these vigils ?' (O.E.D.)

Dog Lane. Friargate, York: Bootham School nickname: late C. 19–20. Anon., Dict. of Bootham Slang, 1925.

dog-Latin. Bad Latin; sham Latin. Cf. apothecaries' or bog or garden or kitchen Latin: from ca. 1600; coll. >, by 1820, S.E.

dog laugh, enough to make a. Extremely funny: coll.: C. 17–early 19. Pepys; Wolcot. (Apperson.) Cf. cat laugh, enough to make a.

dog-leech. A quack: C. 16–18 coll. (In S.E., a veterinary surgeon.)

dog-nap. A short sleep enjoyed sitting: coll.; from ca. 1850. Cf. cat-nap. The variant dog-sleep is S.E.

dog-nose. See dog's nose.

dog on anyone, walk the black. A punishment inflicted on a prisoner by his fellows if he refuses to pay his footing: c.: late C. 18–mid-19. Grose.

dog on it ! An expletive affected, ca. 1860–90, by boys. Perhaps euphemistic for God damn it !

dog out in, not fit to turn a. (Of weather) abominable: coll. (– 1887). Baumann.

dog-shooter. A volunteer: C. 19 military then gen.—2. At the Royal Military Academy (– 1889), a cadet who, unable or unwilling to become an engineer, joins a class in another branch. Ob.

dog-stealer. A dog-dealer: jocular coll. (– 1854). Whyte-Melville.

dog that bit you, a hair of the. A drink taken to counteract drunkenness; a drink the same as another's the night before: coll. (– 1546).

dog-throw. The lowest throw at dice (cf. deuce): coll. (– 1880), verging on S.E. (O.E.D.).

dog to hold, give one the. To serve a person a mean trick: coll. (– 1678); † by 1800. Ray, 1678. Cf. holding the baby. (Apperson.) Cf.:

dog-trick. A mean or 'dirty' action, trick: C. 16–19 coll. B.E.

dog-vane. A cockade: nautical: from ca. 1785; ob. Grose, 2nd ed.; songster Dibdin. Ex the S.E. sense.

dogged. Adv., very, excessively: mainly sporting (– 1819), prob. ex dial., where only is it extant. Perhaps the orig. of the U.S. dog-gone.

dogged as does it !, it's. Perseverance and pluck win in the end: a coll. c.p. dating from the mid-1860's.

dogger. A professional hunter of dingoes: Australian coll.: C. 20. The dingo is often described as a wild dog.—2. A dog: by 'the Oxford-er': from ca. 1910. (H. A. Vachell, Martha Penny, 1934.)

dogger, v. To cheat; sell rubbish: Charter-house; from ca. 1860.

doggery. Manifest cheating: coll.: from ca. 1840; ob. Cf. S.E. dog's trick.

doggers. See dog's lady.

doggie, doggy. A pet name (coll.) for a dog: from ca. 1800.—2. In coal-mining, a middleman's underground manager (– 1845). Disraeli in Sybil.—3. (Esp. a cavalry) officer's servant: military: mid-C. 19–20; ob. Ware.—4. 'All round upright collar': London youths' (– 1909); ob. Ware.

Cf. dog-collar.—5. An officer assisting an admiral at his work; 'a midshipman regularly attending a captain or flag officer': naval: from ca. 1910. Ex faithfulness to duty. O.E.D. (Sup.); Bowen.

doggo, lie. To make no move(ment) and say nothing; to bide one's time: C. 19–20. Prob., 'like a cunning dog' (W.). The -o suffix is common in s.

doggy, adj. Stylish; smart, whether of appearance or of action: from ca. 1885. Ex a sad dog, a bit of a dog. Now, 'just a little too gay and dashing,' Denis Mackail, 1934.—2. N.: see doggie.—3. (Of Latin) debased: coll.: 1898 (O.E.D. Sup.). Ex dog Latin.

dogs. (Always pl.) Sausages: low: from ca. 1860. Ex reputed origin. Cf. bags of mystery.—2. Newfoundland Land Company's shares: ca. 1870–90; Stock Exchange.—3. the dogs, a greyhound race-meeting: coll.: 1929. (The Dog-Racing Bill is of 1928.) O.E.D. (Sup.).

dogs, go to the. To go to ruin; to lead an extremely dissipated and foolish life. C. 16–20; coll. till ca. 1680, then S.E.

dogs, rain cats and. See cats.

dog's body. Pease pudding: nautical (– 1851). Clark Russell.—2. Any junior officer, R.N.; esp. a midshipman; hence, pejoratively, of any male: naval (>, by 1920, gen.): late C. 19–20; F. & H.; F. & Gibbons.

dog's bottom. A facetious term of address: from ca. 1930.

dog's breakfast. A mess: low Glasgow (– 1934).

dog's dinner, like a. Stylishly: low coll.: C. 20. James Curtis, The Gilt Kid, 1936, 'The geezer that was with her was dolled up like a dog's dinner with a white tie and all.'

dog's dram. A spit into his mouth and a smack on his back: mid-C. 18–early 19 low. Grose, 1st ed.

dog's face. A coll. term of abuse: coll. > S.E.; from ca. 1670; ob.

dogs have not dined, the. A c.p. to one whose shirt hangs out at the back: mid-C. 18–early 19. Grose, 1st ed. (See Slang, p. 274.)

dog's hind leg, crooked as a. Very crooked (lit. only): coll.: late C. 19–20. Apperson.

dog's lady or wife; doggess; puppy's mamma. 'Jocular ways of calling a woman a bitch,' Grose, 3rd ed.; coll.: late C. 18–mid-19.

dog's leg(s). The chevron(s), 'designating non-commissioned rank, worn on the arm, and not unlike in outline to the canine hindleg,' Ware: military: late C. 19–20.

dog's lug. A small bight in a sail's lee-ropes: nautical: from ca. 1880. A characteristic variant on dog's ear, nautical j.

dog's match of it, make a. To do the act of kind by the wayside: low coll.: C. 19–20; cf. to dog.

dog's meat. 'Anything worthless; as a bad book, a common tale, a villainous picture, etc.', F. & H. Coll.: from ca. 1820. Ex lit. sense.

dog's nose. Gin and beer mixed: low (– 1812); ob. Vaux. Oec. dognose ('Ducange Anglicus'; Baumann).

dogs of war on (so-and-so) ! A gun-room or a ward-room c.p. = eject him (if possible): naval: C. 20. Bowen.

dog's paste. Sausage—or mince-meat: low coll.: from ca. 1850. Cf. dogs.

dog's portion. A lick and a smell, i.e. almost nothing: late C. 18–20 (ob.) coll. In late C. 18–19 occ. applied to a distant admirer of women. Grose, 2nd ed. Cf. dog's soup.

dog's rig. Sexual intercourse, to exhaustion, followed by back-to-back indifference: mid-C. 18–19: low. Grose, 2nd ed. Cf. dog's match.

dog's soup. Water: mid-C. 18–20 (ob.) coll. Grose, 1st ed. Cf. fish-broth.

Dog's Tail. The constellation of the Little Bear: nautical: from ca. 1860.

dog's vomit. Meat and biscuits cooked together as a moist hash: nautical: late C. 19–20. Bowen.

dog's wife. See dog's lady.

dogun or D-. A Roman Catholic: Canadian: late C. 19–20. Possibly ex that very Irish surname, Duggan.

doing. A thrashing; a severe monetary loss: lower classes' coll. (— 1909). Ware. Ex dial. doing, a scolding: which in C. 20 is coll.

doing I, nothing. 'Certainly not!' in retort to a dubious or unattractive offer or an amorous invitation: from late 1890's. In 1927, a schoolgirl, writing on Queen Elizabeth, said, 'Philip of Spain asked her hand in marriage, but she replied: "Nothing doing!"' Ex there's nothing doing, no business being done.

Doin' It. Doingt, near Péronne: military: G.W. (F. & Gibbons.)

doings, in the. In the guard-room: military: from ca. 1914. F. & Gibbons. Ex:

doings, the. The thing (any thing); esp. what is at the moment needed or otherwise relevant: from ca. 1912. Perhaps ex the U.S. usage, the materials for a meal (1838): Thornton. See esp. F. & Gibbons and B. & P. Cf. gadget, oija-ka-piv.

dol. A dollar: lower classes' (— 1909). Ware.

doldrum. A dullard: a drowsy or a sluggish fellow (— 1812). O.E.D. Ex:

doldrums. Low spirits; dullness: from ca. 1805; coll. till ca. 1890, then S.E. James Payn, 1883, 'Serious thoughts . . . which she stigmatised . . . as the doldrums.' Ex dull on tantrum: W.

dole. A trick, a stratagem: Winchester College: from ca. 1830. A development (though prob. straight from L. dolus) of the † S.E. sense, guile, fraud.

dole, go on the. To receive unemployment benefit: s. (ca. 1925) >, by 1930, coll.

dolefuls. Low spirits: coll.; from ca. 1820. Miss Braddon. Cf. dismals.

dolifier. One who contrives a trick: Winchester College; ex dole, q.v.

doll. A lady: Cockneys' (— 1864); † by 1900. Mayhew, 'If it's a lady and gentleman then we cries, "A toff and a doll!"' (O.E.D.) Because well dressed.

doll, Bartholomew. See Bartholomew.

doll, mill. To beat hemp in prison: c.: mid-C. 18–early 19. Grose, 1st ed.

doll up, v.i. and reflexive. To dress oneself very smartly: mostly Australian: C. 20. Whence dolled-up, dressed 'to death'.

dollar. A five-shilling piece; five shillings: C. 19–20 coll. ex U.S. ex C. 16–17 S.E. Hence half-dollar or half a dollar, half a crown.

dollar, holy. See holy dollar.—dollar groin*. See groin.

dollars to buttons, it's. It is a sure bet: coll.: American >, before 1909, English. Ware.

dollars to doughnuts. Long odds: low coll.: from ca. 1920. James Curtis, The Gilt Kid, 1936.

dollop. A lot; the whole dollop, the whole lot, esp. sum (— 1812): coll., †. Vaux.—2. A lump, esp. if 'formless' or clumsy: low coll., or perhaps a vulgarism, ex dial. (— 1812). S.O.D. W. compares Norwegian dolp, a lump.

dolloping. The selling of goods at a ridiculously low price: cheapjacks' (— 1876). C. Hindley. dollops of. 'Heaps' of; 'lots' of: coll. (— 1923). Manchon.

dolly. A mistress: C. 17–early 19.—2. Also (— 1843), 'any one who has made a faux pas', Punch, 1843. Cf. the C. 17 S.E. doll-common, a harlot; in C. 17–early 18 coll., surviving as dial. dolly also bore this sense, plus that of a slattern.—3. A pet, i.e. a coll., name for a child's doll: from late C. 18.—4. A piece of cloth serving as a sponge: tailors', from ca. 1850.—5. A binding of rag on finger or toe: coll. and dial. (— 1888). O.E.D.—6. The membrum virile: low: C. 19–20, ob.—7. A 'donkey-drop' (q.v.): cricketers' (1906), as is 8, the sense (1926), a slow, easy catch. Lewis.—9. The inevitable nickname (Dolly) of all men surnamed Gray or Grey: C. 20. Ex the famous song, Dolly Gray.—10. See Moving-Picture Slang, § 4. (Also Dolly.) All ex doll, which in S.E. has a corresponding term for the first four.

dolly. Perhaps only in dolly pals, dear friends or companions: c.: C. 19. Possibly a perversion of dear suggested by dolly, n., 1.—2. Adj., silly; foolish: from ca. 1850; ob. Dickens, 'You wouldn't make such a dolly speech,' where, however, the term may = babyish.

dolly-catch. The original (1895) of dolly, n., 8. E.D.D.

Dolly Cotton; John Cotton. Rotten: rhyming s.: from ca. 1890. Everyman, March 26, 1931.

dolly-man, pitchy-man. A Jew: Anglo-Irish, esp. in the West: late C. 19–20. Prob., dolly-man derives ex dolly-shop, pitchy-man ex a huckster's pitch.

dolly-mop. A harlot: coll. (— 1833). Marryat. But in Cockney (— 1855, †), an 'amateur' prostitute. Mayhew.—2. Also, a badly dressed maid-servant: ca. 1858–1905. H., 1860.

dolly-mopper. A womaniser, esp. if a soldier: military (— 1887); ob. Baumann. Ex preceding term, 1.

dolly-shop. An illegal rag-and-bone shop or pawn-shop: from ca. 1840: c. > low coll. Mayhew; 'No. 747' (reference to 1845).—2. A fence's, i.e. a receiver's parlour: c.; late C. 19–20.

dolly-worship. The Roman Catholic religion: Nonconformists' (— 1909). 'From the use of statues, etc.', Ware.

Dollymop. See dolly-mop, 1.

[dolt-head; doltish. B.E. errs greatly in classifying these S.E. terms as c.]

-dom. Some of the C. 20 jocularities, e.g. Galsworthy's *devil-may-care*dom, verge on the coll. W.

dome. The head: coll.; 'common', says F. & H. in 1891. Its C. 20 use is gen. regarded as U.S. (Not in Thornton.)

dome-stick. A servant: sol., or, when deliberate, jocular coll., †. (— 1891.) Obviously suggested by the C. 17–18 spelling of domestic. Cf. dram a tick.

doment. A variant of do, n., 3: dial and (†) low coll.: from 1820's. O.E.D.

domerar. See dommerar.

domestic afflictions. The menstrual period: coll.: from ca. 1850.

domin(i)e-do-little. An impotent old man: mid-C. 18—early 19 coll. Grose, 2nd ed.

Dominion, the. Canada: C. 20; coll. ? abbr. dominion par excellence.

domino. A knock-out blow: also as v.; from ca. 1870. H., 5th ed. Cf. domino with (q.v.) Ex: —2. As an exclamation, it expresses completion—of a punishment in the Victorian Army and Navy (1864, H., 3rd ed.); among 'bus-conductors to signify 'full up' (— 1882); ob. All these senses are coll. ex the game of dominoes.—3. See dominoes.

domino-box. The mouth: from ca. 1820; orig. low, in C. 20 inelegant and ob. Bee, 1823. Contrast box of dominoes (see under).

domino-thumper. A pianist: from ca. 1880; ob. Barrière & Leland.

domino with, it is (or it's). It's the end of; there is no hope for: C. 20. Ex dial. (1854): "“Domino,” which the winner of a game of dominoes calls as he plays his last piece,” E.D.D.

dominoes. (Never singular.) The teeth, esp. if discoloured (contrast ivories): from ca. 1820. Cf. domino, q.v.—2. The keys of a piano: from ca. 1880; ob. Hence:

dominoes, box of. A piano: from ca. 1880. See preceding.

dominoes, sluice one's. To drink: low (— 1823). Moncrieff in Tom and Jerry, Act II, scene 6. Cf. dominoes, 1, and domino-box, qq.v.

dom(m)er or -er; dummerer. A beggar pretending to be deaf and dumb: mid-C. 16–18. Harman.—2. Also, ca. 1670–1750, a madman. Coles, 1676. Both are c.

Don. See Ack.

don. An adept, a 'swell' or 'toff'; a pretentious person: coll.; from ca. 1820. In C. 17–18 S.E. a distinguished person. Ex the Spanish dons as is 2, the English university coll. use, a fellow of a college: from ca. 1660; orig. pejorative. (O.E.D.) —3. (Gen. pl., and always D.) A Spaniard; a Portuguese: nautical: C. 19–20. Bowen, 'A more polite term than Dagoes but not applied to other Latins.'

don, adj. Expert, clever; excellent: from ca. 1860; ob. H., 2nd ed. Ex the preceding.

Don Caesar spouting. 'Haughty public elocution': Society: ca. 1850–1900. Ware.

Don Peninsula. The world, the 'geographical' range, of the dons: Oxford University, ca. 1820–40. Egan's Grose.

don rags. A synonym of collekkers, q.v.: Oxford undergraduates': C. 20.

dona, donah (mostly in sense 2), donna, doner, rarely donnay. A woman; esp. the lady of the house: from the 1850's: Cockney and Parlyaree. H., 1st ed. Ex It. or Sp. via Lingua Franca.—2. Hence, in Australia, from ca. 1890: a girl; a sweetheart. 'Never introduce your dona(h) to a pal' has long been an Australian c.p.

dona Highland-flinger. A music-hall singer: rhymings. (— 1909). Ware.

dona Jack. A harlot's bully: lower classes' (— 1909). Ware.

donaker. A cattle-stealer: C. 17—early 18; c.

Donald. A glass of spirituous liquor, esp. whiskey: Scottish: 1869, Johnston, Poems (E.D.D.).

Doncaster-cut. A horse: coll (— 1529); † by 1600. Skelton. (Apperson.) Doncaster famous for horses.

donderkop. In address, blockhead: South African coll. (— 1897). Lit., dunderhead. Pettman.

done. See do, v.—2. Did: sol.: C. 19–20.

done brown. See brown, done.

done, have one's drum. To have one's house searched by detectives: c.: C. 20. See drum, n., 2.

done, it isn't. It is bad form: coll.: from late 1870's. (O.E.D. Sup.). An upper-class counter, this. Hence, in C. 20, the done (correct) thing.

done-for. Exhausted; cheated; ruined; in c., robbed, convicted to prison, or hanged: (—) 1859: see do for. The c. done for a ramp = convicted for stealing (H., 1st ed.).

done-over. Intoxicated: C. 19–20.—2. Possessed carnally (only of women): C. 18–20; ob.—3. In c., same as done: see do-over.

done to death. See death, done to.

done to the wide; done to the world. Utterly exhausted, defeated, or baffled; ruined: from ca. 1908: s. now verging on coll.

done-up. 'Used up, finished, or quieted': coll. (— 1859). H., 1st ed.—2. 'Ruined by gaming, and extravagances,' Grose, 1st ed. ('modern term', he adds): ca. 1780–1860.

doner. See dona. And:

doner. One who is done for, ruined, fated to die: lower classes': C. 20. Ernest Raymond, The Jest-ing Army, 1930.

dong. To strike; to punch: New Zealanders' and Australians': C. 20. Perhaps ex the dong emitted by a bell when struck; perhaps a blend of ding + dot.

donk. A donkey: mostly Australian: C. 20.

donkey. A compositor (cf. pig): printers' (— 1857). Variant moke.—2. A sailor's clothes-chest: nautical: from ca. 1860.—3. A blockhead, a fool: coll., from ca. 1840.—4. Even for an ass, donkey was orig.—ca. 1780—coll. and remained so for some fifty years.' Cf. donkey dick, q.v. Perhaps ex Duncan or Dominic: W.

donkey!, a penny (or twopence or threepence) more and up goes the. A (low) London c.p. expressing derision (— 1841): coll.: ex a street acrobat's stock finish to a turn; ob.

donkey, ride the. To cheat with weights and measures: c.: C. 19. 'Ducange Anglicus.' Vbl.n., donkey-riding.

donkey, ride the black. See ride . . .

donkey, talk the hindleg off a. See talk . . .

donkey, whack one's own. To be occupied, or preoccupied, with one's own affairs: lower classes' coll. (— 1923). Manchon.

donkey?, who stole the. Sometimes another person added, the man in or with the white hat: this latter represented also the occasion: ca. 1835–70. Ex an actual incident.

donkey dick. An ass: ca. 1780–1820. A variant of donkey, which is prob. ex Duncan. Grose, 1st ed. From early C. 19, dick(y) came to be used by itself.

donkey-drops. In cricket, from ca. 1887, slow round-arm bowling. A. G. Steel, 1888; the Hon. E. Lyttelton, in his Cricket, 1890. (Lewis.) Also dolly (see n., 7).

donkey-frigate. A 28-gun ship (between a frigate and a sloop): naval: C. 19. Bowen.

donkey has of Sunday, have as much idea (of it) as a. To be wholly ignorant: Cockney (— 1887); ob. Baumann.

donkey in one's throat, have a. To have phlegm there: Cockney (— 1887); slightly ob. Baumann.

donkey's breakfast. (Orig. a man's) straw hat : Cockneys' : 1893 ; slightly ob. Ware.—2. A bundle of straw for a bed : nautical (— 1901). O.E.D. (Sup.).—3. Hence, a straw mattress : nautical : C. 20. Bowen.

donkey's ears. A shirt-collar with long points, already old-fashioned in 1891 : s. or coll. : ca. 1870–1900.—2. A variant, dating from just before G.W., of :

donkey's years. A long time : suggested by the sound of donkey's ears, when illiterately pronounced donkey's yeers, and the length of a donkey's ears : from ca. 1900.

donna and donnay. See dona(h).—donneken. See dunnaken. (Bee's spelling.)

donovan. (Gen. in pl.) A potato : Anglo-Irish : from ca. 1860. Cf. murphy. Ex the commonness of the surname.

don's or dons' week. The week before a general holiday ; esp. a week out of work before it : tailors' : from ca. 1860 ; ob.

Dons, the. The Wimbledon 'soccer' team : sporting : from ca. 1920.

don't. Do not : coll. : from ca. 1660.—2. As n., a reiteration of don't, a prohibition : from ca. 1890 : coll.—3. Also, done it : coll. : early C. 18. Swift. See Slang, p. 66.—4. And : does not : from ca. 1720, but sol. only since ca. 1840.

don't bother me now, (for) my hands are wet ! A military c.p. of the G.W. Ex the weary impatience of harassed mothers. (B. & P.)

don't bully the troops ! A military c.p. (C. 20) to an excessive or noisy talker. B. & P.

don't care a Pall Mall, (I). (I) don't care a damn : clubmen's : 1885–ca. 1890. Ware. Ex The Pall Mall Gazette's articles entitled 'The Maiden Tribute' in July, 1885.—Pall Mall, a 'gal' or girl.

don't dynamite ! Don't be angry ! : non-aristocratic c.p. of 1883–ca. 1900. Ware, 'Result of the Irish pranks in Great Britain with this explosive.'

don't fear ! See don't (you) fear !

don't know who's which from when's what, (I). (I, etc.) don't know anything about it : lower classes' c.p. : 1897–ca. 1905. Ware.

don't let me catch you bending ! See catch bending. (Collinson.)

don't look down, you'd soon find the hole if there was hair round it ! A drill-sergeant's c.p., on the fixing of bayonets : late C. 19–20. B. & P. Cf. you're slower . . .

don't lose your hair ! 'Keep your hair on !' : non-aristocratic : from ca. 1860 ; ob. Ware.

don't make a Judy Fitzsim(m)ons of yourself. See Judy Fitzsim(m)ons.

don't make me laugh (—I've cut my lip) ! A c.p. of C. 20. Collinson. The latter part is very ob.

don't mention that. A c.p. : ca. 1882–84, as the result of a libel case (Ware). Ex don't mention it !, q.v. at mention.

don't mind me ! Proceed : c.p., gen. ironio : C. 20. I.e. 'Go ahead—don't mind me !'

don't-name-'ems. Trousers : jocular coll. ; from ca. 1850 ; † by 1930. Cf. innominables.

don't seem to. Be incapable of ; as in 'I don't seem to see it' : coll. (— 1909). Ware.

don't sell me a dog ! Don't deceive me ! : Society : ca. 1860–80. Ware.

don't think !, I. I do think so ! : middle and lower classes' : from ca. 1880. Cf. not half !

don't turn that side to London ! A c.p. of condemnation : non-aristocratic (— 1909). Ware, 'From the supposition that everything of the best is required in the metropolis.'

don't (you) fear ! Take my word for it ! ; certainly not ! : coll. : mid-C. 19–20. Baumann. Cf. never fear ! (q.v. at fear, never).

don't you forget it ! See and don't you forget it !

don't you know. As you well know ; please understand ! : coll. (— 1887) Baumann, 'Sehr gebräuchlicher Zusatz' (a very frequent tag). In C. 20, almost meaningless except as a vague palliative. Cf. do you know, q.v., to which it may orig. have been an offset.

don't you wish you may get it ? A c.p. of ca. 1830–50 = I don't like your chance ! or I don't think ! Barham ; Punch, 1841, 1844.

doo-da or dooda(h), all of a. Excited : from late 1914. Ex the echoic refrain doo-da, doo-da, doo-da day, prob. on all of a dither.

doo flicker. 'Any mechanical tool, instrument, or gadget' : Canadian military : 1915. B. & P. Cf. :

doo-hickey. 'An airman's term for any small, detachable fitting' : 1915 ; slightly ob. F. & Gibbons. Of fanciful origin.

doocid. An affected, also a Cockney, variation of deuced. Manchon. As :

dood is of dude. Ibid.

doodle. A noodle : coll. ; from ca. 1620. Ford ; Grose ; Cobden, 1845, 'The Noodles and Doodles of the aristocracy.'—2. (Gen. of a child) the penis : mid-C. 18–20. Grose, 1st ed.

doodle, v. To make a fool of ; cheat : from ca. 1820. Moncrieff, 'I have been . . . doodled out of forty pounds to-day.' In C. 20, rare except in dial.

doodle-bug. A small, cheap car : motorists' (— 1935).

doodle-dasher. A man indulging in self-abuse : C. 19–20 low ; ob.

doodle-doo, gen. preceded by cock a. A child's or a childish name for a cock : C. 17–20 coll. Grose.

doodle-doo man. A cock-breeder or -fighter : C. 18–19 ; cockpit s.

doodle-sack. The puendum muliebre : mid-C. 18–20 ; ob. Grose, 2nd ed. In S.E., a bagpipe : this origin, like so many in C. 18, is crudely anatomical.

doeee, occ. doee ; doee. Two, as in doeee saller, two pence : Parlyaree : mid-C. 19–20. It. due soldi.

doeey, doey. Always large do(o)ey, a large cup of tea : orig., and mainly, carmen's : from ca. 1920. Ex the notice : tea 1d., large do., 2d.

doofer. Half a cigarette : workmen's (— 1935). Ex do for now, suffice for the present.

doog. Good : back s. (— 1859). H., 1st ed. Whence :

doogheno. A good one. doogheno hit, one good hit, i.e. a bargain, a profit. Back s. (— 1859). H., 1st ed.

dook. See dukes.—2. A sol. pronunciation of duke : C. 19 (? earlier)—20.—3. A huge nose : lower classes' : from ca. 1840 ; ob. Ware. Ex the Duke of Wellington's nose : cf. conkey, q.v.—4. An upper-form boy : Public Schools' ; late C. 19–20. See nondescript.

dook-reading. Palmistry : grafters' : late C. 19–20. Philip Allingham, Cheapjack, 1934.

dookie ; dukey. An unlicensed theatre ; 'penny gaff' ; theatrical : from ca. 1860 ; ob. Perhaps ex a gaff-proprietor with a large nose : cf. duker and dook, 3. (Ware.)

dookin, dookering. Fortune-telling: gypsies', thence criminals': from ca. 1835. Brandon; H., 1st ed. Ex Romany dukker, to tell fortunes. Moreover, dookering among grafters means specifically '[going] around from door to door telling fortunes': Philip Allingham, Cheapjack, 1934.

dookin-cove. A fortune-teller: low: from ca. 1850. See cove and dookin.

dooks. (Extremely rare in singular.) The hands. More gen. dukes, q.v.

doolally (or doolali) tap. Off one's head; mad: Regular Army. late C. 19–20. F. & Gibbons. Ex Deolali, a sanatorium in Bombay, and Hindustani tap, fever. Since ca. 1920, often abbr. to doolally. (See a so the Addenda.)

doolie. An ambulance: Anglo-Indian coll.: C. 18–20. Ex the S.E. sense, a litter or a rudimentary palanquin (C. 16+). Yule & Burnell.

dooly, doolay. Milk: military: 1914; ob. Ex Fr. du lait. (F. & Gibbons; B. & P.) door, up to the. See up to Dick.

door and hinge. 'Neck and breast of mutton, a joint which bends readily amongst the cervical vertebrae,' Ware: Cockney's: mid-C. 19–20.

door-knob. A 'bob' (shilling): rhyming s.: late C. 19–20. B. & P.

door-knocker. A ring-shaped beard: proletarian: 1854–ca. 1915. Ware. (Also adj.)—2. A Nordenfelt machine-gun (used by the Boers): military in Boer War. J. Milne, The Epistles of Atkins, 1902. Ex the noise.

door-mat. A heavy beard: 1856–ca. 1882. Cf. crimea, q.v.—2. Hence, says Ware, 'by 1882 . . . applied to the moustache only, probably because about this time the tendency to shave the beard and wear only a very heavy moustache became prevalent'.

door-nail. See dead as a door-nail.—door-plater. See brass-plater.—door-step. See doorstep.

doorer. A doorsman or barker at an auction sale: London coll.: from the 1880's. Answers, Dec. 12, 1891 (E.D.D.).

dooring. Incorrect for door-ring. O.E.D.

[doorsman. One who, at shop or place of amusement, invites the public to enter: from ca. 1855. By F. & H. considered as coll., by O.E.D. as S.E. Cf. barker.]

doorstep. A (gen. thick) slice of bread and butter: low (—1885). Cf. couple of doorsteps, q.v.

doojie's joy. A poor specimen: Conway cadets: from ca. 1885. John Masefield, The Conway, 1933. Origin?

doo's. See fair doo's.

dooshman. An enemy: Regular Army: late C. 19–20. B. & P. Ex Hindustani.

dop. Alcoholic drink in gen.: South African coll.: C. 20. Ex dop, the native name for Cape brandy. O.E.D. (Sup.).

dope. A drug: 1889. Also, in C. 20, an anæsthetic: medical students'.—2. Drugging: from ca. 1900.—3. Adulterated liquor: Australian (—1916).—4. Fraudulent information: 1901. Hence, 5, any information: from ca. 1910. All coll. ex U.S., where orig. of any thick lubricant or absorbent (S.O.D.); itself ex Dutch doopen, to dip: W.—Whence, 6, a fool, a bungler: military: 1915 (F. & Gibbons), though perhaps ex Cumberland dial. (1867: O.E.D.), and, 7, 'news bulletin sent by wireless' (Bowen): nautical: from ca. 1925.—8. A heavy drinker: Australian: from ca. 1912. Ex sense 3.

dope, v. To take drugs: from ca. 1890; by 1920, coll. Ex n., 1.—2. To 'doctor' or drug a person or a race-horse: from ca. 1900. Ware. Both senses were orig. U.S. The vbl.n. is frequent.

dope out. To discover, ascertain, comprehend: U.S. (1906, O. Henry) anglicised ca. 1917. Cf. dope, n., 5.—2. 'To work out; get hold of': U.S. (1906), partly anglicised by 1934 owing to the 'talkies'. O.E.D. (Sup.); C. W. Thurlow Craig, Paraguayan Interlude, 1935.

dopey. A beggar's trull: low: mid-C. 18—early 19. Grose, 1st ed.—2. The podex: C. 18.—3. A drug-addict: c. and low: from ca. 1920. E.g. in John G. Brandon, The One-Minute Murder, 1934.

dopper. 'A heavy blanket overall once much favoured by North Sea fishermen' (Bowen): nautical coll. verging on j. Ex Norfolk dial. dopper, a thick woollen jersey.

dopy, adj. Dull, lethargic, half asleep (lit. and fig.): C. 20; earlier in U.S. Ex dope, n., 1.—2. Stupefying: 1925, Edgar Wallace. (O.E.D. Sup.)

dor. Permission to sleep awhile: Westminster School: C. 17—early 19. Ex L. dormire, to sleep.—2. A dormitory: school s. (—1920). O.E.D. (Sup.). Cf. dorm.

Dora. The Defence Of the Realm Act: 1914. Orig. s., soon coll.; by 1920, S.E. and considered as officialdom's equivalent of Mrs. Grundy.

doras or Doras. The A shares of the South-Eastern Railway Deferred Ordinary Stock, the capitals being transposed: Stock Exchange: from ca. 1880; > † in 1915.

dorbie. An initiate: Scots Masonic: from ca. 1850. Hence the dorbies' knock, a masons' signal-rap. Ex dorbie, a stonemason, a builder.

dorcas. A sempstress, esp. in a charitable cause: coll.; from ca. 1880. Ex the S.E. Dorcas society, D. basket, ex Dorcas in Acts, ix, 36.

dorm. A dormitory: schools': late C. 19–20. Cf. dor, 2.

dormie. See dormy.

dormouse. Incorrect for dormeuse: C. 18. O.E.D.

dormy; occ. dormie. A dormitory: at certain Public Schools, e.g. Rossall: late C. 19–20. Desmond Coke, The House Prefect, 1908.

Dorothy, n. and, gen., adj. Rustic love-making: Society: late 1887–ca. 1890. Ex a musical comedy (1887–88) so named. (Ware.)

dorse. See doss.

dorse, v. To knock down on to the back: boxing: ca. 1810–80. Wilson, 1826. (O.E.D.)

dorse, send to. Knock out: boxing, ca. 1820–70. See doss.

do's, fair. See fair doo's, and do, n., 6.

dose. A burglary: C. 18–19 c. A New Canting Dict., 1725; Grose, 1st ed.—2. A term of imprisonment, esp. one of three months' 'hard': mid-C. 19–20 c. H., 2nd ed. Cf. moon, stretch. ? ex:—3. A defeat: boxing, C. 19–20, ob. Tom Moore, 1819.—4. As much liquor as one can hold—or somewhat more than is good for one: coll.; from ca. 1850. Cf. take a grown man's dose, a great deal of liquor.—5. (? hence,) a venereal infection: low coll.; from ca. 1860.—6. A rare mistake for doash, q.v.: Grose's m.s. note to the B.M. 1st ed.) dose, v.; gen. be dosed. To infect venereally: low: from ca. 1870. Ex n., 5. Cf.:

dose, cop a. A phrase corresponding to dose, n., 2 and esp. 5: low: from ca. 1870. Manchon.

dose of salts, like a. Very quickly; esp. go through (something) like . . . : low, mostly Australian: C. 20.

dose of the balmy, have a. To sleep: coll.; C. 19–20, ob. See balmy.

dosh. A 'bivvy' (1914); hence, a funk-hole (1915): Canadian military. B. & P. Ex doss, q.v. Dosinghem. See Bandagehem.

doss (not before C. 19); (after ca. 1850, rarely) dorse. A, and to, sleep; lodging, to lodge; a bed. All implying extreme cheapness and/or roughness: late C. 18–20; vagrants', C. > ca. 1890, gen.s. G. Parker, 1789; Mayhew. Presumably imm. ex † dorse, doss, back; ultimately ex L. dorsum, the back. (Cf. dorse, v.)—2. Hence, to 'hang the time out', to loaf: telegraph-messengers' (1935).

doss, do a. See do a doss.

doss-house. A very cheap lodging-house: low: from ca. 1880. On doss-ken.

doss-down, n.; doss down, v. A late C. 19–20 variant of the preceding. Lyell.

doss-ken. The same: c.; from ca. 1800. Cf. dossing-ken, q.v.

doss-man. The keeper of a cheap lodging-house: low: from ca. 1825.

doss-money. The price of a night's lodging: low: from ca. 1870.

doss out. To sleep in the open air: low (—1923). Manchon.

doss-ticket. A ticket for a night's lodging: tramps' (—1887). Baumann.

dosser. A frequenter of doss-houses: low: from ca. 1865. Whence (h)appy dosser, a homeless vagrant creeping in to sleep on chairs, or in passages or cellars: low (—1880). Sims in How the Poor Live. Presumably ex happy but just possibly ex haphazard.—2. Hence, a tramp: tramps' c.: C. 20.—3. The dosser: the father of a family: from ca. 1885; ob. He who provides the doss.

dossers' hotel. A casual ward: tramps' c.: C. 20. F. Jennings, Tramping with Tramps, 1932.

dossing-ken or -crib. (Cf. doss-house, doss-ken.) A cheap lodging-house: c.: the former — 1838; the latter — 1851. See doss.

dossy. Elegant; smart: from ca. 1885. ? ex dosser, the ornamental cloth used to cover the back of a(n imposing) seat; or ex D'Orsay, for in Society, ca. 1830–45, one spoke of a man as 'a D'Orsay' (a perfect gentleman)—ex the Comte D'Orsay (Ware). do't. Do it: Society coll. of early C. 18. Scourged by Swift (see Slang, p. 66).

dot. A ribbon. Hence, dot-drag, a watch-ribbon: C. 19 c. Haggart, 1821.

dot, v. To strike, gen. in form dot (a person) one, and esp. in sense 'give a black eye' (Ware): from the middle 1890's. W. Pett Ridge, 1895, Minor Dialogues; C. J. Dennis has dot (one) in the eye, to punch (a person) in the eye.

dot, off one's. A variant (—1923) of dotty, 2, Manchon. Prob. ex Yorkshire dial.: 1890. (E.D.D.).

dot, on the. (Constructed with be.) On the spot: Canadian: from ca. 1920. John Beames. Cf. on the dotted line.

dot, the year. A date long ago: coll.: late C. 19–20. Lit., 'the year 0'. Esp. as in 'Ganpat', Out of Evil, 1933, 'He's been in every frontier show [battle or skirmish] since the year dot.' Cf. 'I reckon he was born in the year dot, that 'orse was,' W. Pett Ridge, Minor Dialogues, 1895.

dot and carry, or go, one. A person with a wooden or a shorter or a limping leg. The mid-C. 18—mid-19 form is go; the C. 19–20, carry. Coll. Grose, 1st ed.; Barham. Also as v.—2. An inferior writing or arithmetic master: late C. 18—early 19. Grose, 2nd ed. Ex an arithmetical process.

dots. Money: from ca. 1880. Collective-pl. synonyms are numerous.

dots on, put. To bore, to weary: orig. (1915 or 1916), military; slightly ob. Prob. ex dot one's 'i's's.

dotted line, sign on the. To sign; jocular coll.: from ca. 1925. Ex the instructions on legal and official documents.

dotter. A penny-a-liner; a reporter: from ca. 1870; ob.

dotties man. A greedy or selfish man: proletarian: ca. 1885–1915. Warc. See doddies.

dotty. Weak; dizzy: sporting and gen. (—1870); ob. Esp. dotty in the pins, unsteady on one's legs. Perhaps ex dodder, v.—2. Hence, idiotic; (a little) mad: from ca. 1888.—3. As n., a low harlot's fancy man: c. (—1891).

doubite. A street: ca. 1800–70 c. Matsell. More U.S. than Eng. Origin ?

double. A trick: esp. in C. 18–19 tip, C. 19–20 give the double, to run away from one's creditors, then, from ca. 1850, to escape; and in put the double on, to circumvent (—1870).—2. An actor playing two parts; also v. (from ca. 1800 and soon S.E.): theatrical (—1825).—3. Repetition of a word or sentence: printers'. from ca. 1870.—4. In c. a street-turning: from ca. 1870.—5. (Gen. a double.) Two score: fisheries' coll.: late C. 19–20. Bowen. Ex double, a basket containing from three to four dozen fish.

double, v. For the theatrical sense, see n, 2.—2. See double up.—3. To double one's effort or speed (v.i.): coll.: from ca. 1885.

double-ace poker. See kangaroo poker.—double, come the. See come the double.

double act, do the. To get married, be married: low (—1923). Manchon. Prob. ex run in double harness.

double-arsed. Large-bottomed: low coll. or a vulgarism: C. 19–20.

double back. To go back on an action, statement, opinion: coll.: mid-C. 19–20. Ex doubling back on one's tracks.

double-banked. 'Sleeping two in a cabin': nautical coll.: late C. 19–20. Bowen. Ex a rowing-boat double-banked.

double barrel. A field or opera glass: from ca. 1880; ob. Traill.

double-barrelled. Applied to a harlot natural and unnatural (see fore-and-after): low: from ca. 1860.—2. Also to any person both normal and abnormal in sex: from ca. 1900.

double-bottomed. Insincere: coll.: C. 19–20; ob.

double-breasted feet, occ. double-breasters. Club feet: coll.: from ca. 1850; ob.

double-breasted water-butt smasher. A well-developed man; an athlete: Cockneys': ca. 1890–1914. Ware.

double Cape Horn. To be made a cuckold: nautical: late C. 18—mid-19. John Davis, The Post Captain, 1805. Ex horns attributed to cuckolds. (R. H. Case's ed. of the novel; 1928.)

double-cross or -double. Winning, or trying to win, after promising to lose a race: sporting: from ca. 1870. The v. is double, double-cross, or put the double on, the last v.t. only: from ca. 1870.—2. Later, double-cross, etc., is much used by criminals for betrayal (n. and v.) in a criminal transaction: from ca. 1885: see passim, Edgar Wallace's detective novels.

double-crosser. The agent of the preceding: rare before C. 20.

double-cted. Sexually large: low coll. or vulg.: from ca. 1800.

double dash! Emphatic 'dash it!': Cockney (—1887); ob. Baumann.

double-decker. A ship having two above-water decks: from ca. 1870.—2. A tramcar or 'bus with seats on top as well as below: from ca. 1895. Both coll., the latter ex U.S.

double-diddied or -dugged. Large-breasted. N., double dugs. C. 19–20: tho n. is low coll.; double-diddied, low s.; double-dugged, low coll.

double-distilled. (Esp. of a lie) superlative: coll.: from ca. 1870; ob.

double-drummer. A particularly noisy kind of cicada: Australian children's: C. 20. Cf. floury baker.

double Dutch. See Dutch, talk. Cf.:

double Dutch coiled against the sun. Unintelligible; nonsense: nautical: from ca. 1840.

double-ender. A skeleton key with a ward at each end: c.: mid-C. 19–20; ob. 'No. 747.'

double event. Simultaneous syphilis and gonorrhoea (mcn), or defloration and conception: low: from ca. 1870.—2. A glass of whiskey and a glass of beer: public-houses' (esp. in Glasgow): C. 20.

double figures, go into. To have 10 children at the least: lower classes' coll. (—1923). Manchon.

double finn. A £10 note: low (? orig. c.): from ca. 1870. See finn and:

double finnip (etc.). The same: c. (—1839). Brandon. See finnif.

double guts, n.; double-gutted, adj. (Of a) person large-paunched: low coll.; from ca. 1820.

double-headed. (Of a train) with two engines, one at the front and the other at the back: late C. 19–20: railwaymen's coll., now verging on S.E. double-header. A coin with two heads: low coll.: from ca. 1875.

double-hocked. Having extremely thick ankles: low: from ca. 1860.

doubleintenders. 'Knock-down blows—labial or fistful', Ware: non-aristocratic (—1909); virtually †.

double jug(g). The backside: late C. 17–19. Cotton; Grose, 3rd ed.—2. In pl., the posteriors: C. 17–20, ob. 'Melancholy' Burton.

double lines. Ship-casualty or casualties: nautical: from ca. 1870. H., 5th ed. Ex the manner of their entry at Lloyd's.

double-mouth(ed). (A person) large-mouthed, n. and adj.: coll.: C. 19–20.

double, on the. (Of doors, gates) double-locked: c.: C. 20. George Ingram, Stir, 1933.

double on, put the. See double-cross.

[Double passives, nearly always clumsy, and often cacophonous, are on the border-line between reprehensible catachresis and mere stylistic infelicity. See esp. Fowler.]

double-ribbed. Pregnant: low coll.: C. 19–20.

double scoop. 'Hair parted in centre, and worn low—gave way to the quiff', Ware: military: ca. 1890–95.

double-shotted. (Of a brandy, or whiskey, and soda) containing twice the usual proportion of alcohol: coll.: from ca. 1860.

double shuffle. A hornpipe step in which each foot is shuffled, rapidly and neatly, twice in succession: coll.; from ca. 1830, esp. among costermongers. Dickens.—2. Hence a trick, a piece of faking: from ca. 1870.

double-shung. (Of men) excessively equipped sexually: C. 19–20 (ob.): low. ? double-slung.

double slangs. Double irons or fetters: c. (—1812); ob. Vaux.

double-sucker. Abnormally developed labia maiora: low: from ca. 1870.

double thumper. An 'outsize' in lies: from ca. 1850: coll.

double-tide work. Extra duty: C. 19–20: coll., orig. coastguardsmen's >, by 1880, gen. nautical. Bowen.

double-tongued squib. A double-barrelled gun: coll. G. W. Reynolds, 1864. Ob.

double up. To cause to collapse (v.i. sense is rare): boxing (ca. 1814). Moore, 'Doubled him up, like a bag of old duds.'—2. To pair off, e.g., in a cabin (rare as v.i.): coll.: 1837 (O.E.D.). H., 2nd ed. Occ. simply double.

Double X's, the. The 20th Foot Regiment, since 1881 the Lancashire Fusiliers: military: C. 19–20; ob. F. & Gibbons. Ex the figure XX.

doubler. A punch on side or belly: boxing: from ca. 1810. 'Peter Corcoran', 1821, 'A doubler in the bread-basket.'

doublet. A precious stone endorsed with glass: in C. 15–17, it was S.E.; then it > c.—2. See iron d. and stone d., a prison.

doubty. Doughty: incorrect form: C. 15–18. O.E.D.

douce. See douse.

doudon. A short, fat woman: non-aristocratic (—1923). Manchon. Perhaps cognate with the Wiltshire doudy, stunted in growth (E.D.D.).

Douglas with one eye and a stinking breath, Roby. The breech: nautical: mid-C. 18–19. Grose, 1st ed.

dough. Pudding: Public Schools', C. 19–20.—2. Money: U.S. (—1851), then (from ca. 1880) Australia, then—ca. 1895—Britain. (Thornton.)

dough, one's cake is. See cake is dough.

dough-baked. Deficient in brains: coll.: from late C. 16; in late C. 19–20, dial. Wycherley, 1675, 'These dow-baked, senseless, indocile animals, women.' Cf. half-baked.

dough-cock. A half-wit aboard as seaman: nautical: late C. 19–20. Bowen.

dough-nut. (Gen. pl.) A Carley life-saving float: nautical: C. 20. Bowen. (Cheerful!)

Doughboy. An American infantryman: U.S. coll. (1867), anglicised ca. 1917. Thornton; O.E.D. (Sup.), 'In allusion to the "large globular glass buttons of the infantry uniform" in the American civil war.'—2. (d-) A punch in the face: low: from ca. 1919. G. Ingram, Stir, 1933, has it in its usual form: give (a person) a doughboy.

doughy. A baker: coll. (—1823). Bee; H., 3rd ed. Cf. chips, dips.—2. Hence, the nickname of any man surnamed Baker: naval and military: late C. 19–20. F. & Gibbons.

doughy, adj. (Of complexion) pale or pasty: coll.: from ca. 1860; ob. Ware. Cf. underdone.

doughy-nosed. (Of a seaman) in love: nautical: late C. 19–20. Bowen.

douse, dowse. To put, esp. down or (of a candle, lamp, etc.) out: low coll.: C. 18–20, chiefly in douse the glim, put out the light. Scott, Reade.—2. N., rare, except in douse on the chops, a blow on the jaw: low: C. 17–19. Grose.

douser, a heavy blow; dousing (dowsing), a thrashing: resp. late C. 18–19 (Grose, 2nd ed.), C. 19. Both, low coll.

Dove. A member of St. Catharine's College, Cambridge: C. 19–20; ob. Suggested by Puritan, q.v. See Whibley in Cambridge Wit.

dove, soiled. A high-flying harlot: from ca. 1870; coll. Dove = purity.

dove-tart. A pigeon pie: coll.: from ca. 1850; ob. 'Cuthbert Bede'.

dove-cote. 'The quarters allotted to officers' wives on . . . the old Indian troopships': military: late C. 19—early 20. F. & Gibbons.

Dover, Jack of. A sole: late C. 14–17: coll.; then, in C. 18—early 19, dial. Chaucer. Dover is famed for its soles. (Apperson.)

Dover Castle boarder. A debtor compelled to sleep within the rules of the Queen's Bench Prison: debtors': ca. 1850–81,—the prison was demolished in 1881. Ex the Dover Castle, the most prominent tavern in that district. Ware.

Dover waggoner!, put this reckoning up to the. (Gen. addressed to a landlord.) Score this up against me: a c.p. of ca. 1820–40. Bee, 'The waggoner's name being Owen, pronounced owing'.

Dovercourt beetle. A heavy mallet: nautical: mid-C. 19–20. Bowen. By a pun.

Dovers. Shares in the London and Dover Railway: Stock Exchange coll. (now only historical): late C. 19–20. A. J. Wilson, Stock Exchange Glossary, 1895. Dover A's were gen. called Doras.

dowdying. A drastic practical joke practised in C. 18 by one Pearce, nicknamed Dowdy ex the burden, dow de dow, of one of his songs. Grose, 1st ed.

dowlas. A draper. Coll.; from late C. 18. Ex the towelling so named; popularised by Daniel Dowlas, a character in Colman's The Heir at Law.

dowling. A compulsory game of football: Public Schools (— 1871); ob. Ex the Gr. word for (a slave, or that for) to enslave. Desmond Coke, The Bending of a Twig, 1906, of the game as it is played at Shrewsbury School: 'Any number from three hundred down (or up) can play a dowling; but it often happens that in reality some half-a-dozen punt the ball from end to end, while all the rest troop after it, like soldier-slaves round the great warriors of Ilium. And dowling is compulsory.' Cf. the quotation at Skyte.

down. Alarm; suspicion; discovery: c.; ca. 1810–1900. Vaux.—2. Hence there is no down, there is no risk; all's safe.—3. A tendency to be severe towards: coll. (— 1893). S.O.D. Ex down on, be, 2. But cf. —4. A prejudice against, hostility towards: Australian coll.: from ca. 1850. W. J. Dobie, Recollections of Port Phillip, 1856 (Morris). Ex sense 1.—5. See Downs.

down, v. To trick; circumvent: C. 19–20 coll.—2. The sense, to bring, put, throw, or knock down, is—despite F. & H.—S.E., but down a woman, physically to prepare her for the act, is definitely low coll. if not s., from ca. 1850: cf. up, v.

down, adv. (often with adj. force). Esp. with to be: depressed; in low spirits: coll.: C. 17–20. Ben Jonson, 'Thou art so downe upon the least disaster.' (O.E.D.)—2. Wide-awake; suspicious; aware: low (? orig. c.): Vaux, 1812. Often with to, as in 'Down to every move,' Smedley, 1850. Cf. up to, aware of.—3. See:

down, adj. 'Engaged in fagging in the cricket field, etc. (Peculiar to College)': Winchester College coll.: from ca. 1860. Wrench.

down, preposition. See 'Westminster School slang'.

down, be or come. To be 'ploughed' in a university examination: Australian coll.: 1886; ob.

down, up or. See up or down.

down a pit, be. To be greatly attracted by a role: theatrical: from ca. 1860; †.

down along. (Sailing) coastways down the English Channel: nautical coll.: mid-C. 19–20. Bowen.

down among the dead men. Dead drunk: ca. 1850–1900. 'Cuthbert Bede', 1853.

down as a hammer (see also hammer, down as a) or as a tripper. To be alert, wide-awake: c.: ca. 1810–40. Vaux. Elaborations on down, adv., 2.

down buttock and sham file. See buttock and tongue.

down(-)hills. Dice cogged to run low: late C. 17—early 19: c. > low s. B.E. Cf. up-hills.

down on or upon, be. To be aware of, alertly equal to: from ca. 1790.—2. Hence, to pounce upon, treat harshly: s. (— 1860) >, by 1900, coll. H., 2nd ed.—3. See down upon.

down on (more gen. upon) one, put a. To inform on a person: from ca. 1840. Vaux.

down on the knuckle. See knuckle, down on the.

down pin, be. To be indispoused; depressed: C. 19. Extant in dial. Ex skittles.

down south, esp. with go or put. (Of money) to go or be put in one's pocket, hence to be banked: from ca. 1890.

down the banks, get. To fail: Anglo-Irish coll. (— 1909). Ware, 'Probably the outcome of life amongst the bogs.'

down the Lane and/or into the Mo. (To take a stroll) in the Drury Lane district: Central London Cockneys': ca. 1850–1910. Mo derives ex the long-disappeared Mogul Music Hall. (Ware.)

down the road. Vulgarly showy: coll.: (— 1859); ob. H., 1st ed.; Sala, 'A racing and down-the-road look.' Ex Mile End Road, says Ware.

down the wind. See weather, go up the.

down to, drop. To learn a person's designs or character: c. (— 1812); ob. Vaux. Cf. drop to and:

down to, put (a person). To apprise one (of something); explain it to him: c. (— 1812); very ob. Vaux. See down, adv., 2.

down to dandy. Artful; excellent: low: from ca. 1860; ob. Cf. up to dick.

down to it, get. See get down to it.

down to one, drop. To discover a person's character or designs: coll.: from ca. 1840.

down to something, put one. To explain; prime; let into the 'know': from ca. 1830.

down to the ground. Thoroughly; extremely well: coll.: from ca. 1865. Miss Broughton, 'Suited me down to the ground,' 1867. (O.E.D.) In C. 16–17 S.E., up and down.

down upon (occ. on) a person, be. To scold, reprimand severely: coll.: from ca. 1810. Scott, 'We should be down upon the fellow . . . and let him get it well.'—2. See down on, be and put a.

down upon oneself, be or drop. To be melancholy: ca. 1810–60. Vaux.

downer. A sixpence: from ca. 1835. Brandon, 1839; Whyte-Melville. Ex Romany tauno, little one. Cf. tanner.—2. A knock-down blow: boxing; from ca. 1815; ob. Moore, 1819.—3. A heavy fall: the turf (— 1923). Manchon.—4. A bed: tramps' c. (— 1935). Either ex down (cf. synonymous feather) or ex get down to it.

downish. Somewhat dejected: coll.: ca. 1670–1800.

downright, the. Begging, esp. as a tramp: tramps' c.: C. 20. Whence:

downright, on the. On the tramp, 'on the road': tramps' c. (— 1932). F. Jennings, Tramping with Tramps.—2. As in:

downrighter. A destitute person that, quite openly, goes in for begging: c.: C. 20. W. H. Davies in a review by him in The New Statesman, March 18, 1933. Ex preceding.

Downs. Shares in the Belfast & County Down Railway: Stock Exchange (— 1895). A. J. Wilson, Stock Exchange Glossary.

Downs, the. Tothill Fields Prison: c.: from ca. 1850; ob. Mayhew.

downstairs. Hell: C. 19 coll. Barham, 'Downstairs . . . old Nick.'

downy. An artful fellow: ca. 1820–80. Pierce Egan; H., 5th ed. See the adj. Perhaps associated with downy bird (W.), but imm. ex down on, be, 1: q.v.—2. A bed: from ca. 1850; ob. Trollope, 'I've a deal to do before I get to my downy.' Ex the down mattress.

downy, adj. Artful; very knowing: from ca. 1820. Moncrieff, 1823, 'You're a downy von'; Dickens; H. J. Byron, the dramatist. Ex down, n., 1. Cf. downy, n.—2. Fashionable: ca. 1855–90. 'Ducange Anglicus.'

downy, do the. See do the downy.

downy bird or cove. A clever rogue (— 1875, — 1821 resp.). In pl., gen. the downies. Egan; Leman Rede, 'the downiest cove'; Greenwood. The bird form was suggested by a bird's down (cf. downy-bit), but the downy is ex down, n., sense 1.

downy bit. A half-fledged wench: low: from ca. 1830; ob.—2. An attractive young girl: low: from ca. 1880.

downy earwig. A sympathetic person: c. (— 1932). F. Jennings, Tramping with Tramps.

downy flea-pasture. A bed: from ca. 1800. Cf. bug-walk.

downy. A lot; much: low; from ca. 1850; ob. H., 1st ed. Prob. ex the S.E. word.

dowse. See douse.

dowser. A douceur: sol.: mid-C. 18–20; ob. Grose, 3rd ed.

doxe, doxey, doxie. See doxy.

doxology-works. A church, a chapel: from ca. 1870; ob. Cf. gospel-shop and preaching-shop, qq.v.

doxy; also doxey, C. 17–19, and doxie or doxey, C. 17; occ. doccy, C. 16, and doxe, C. 16–17 (O.E.D.). In mid-C. 16–18 c., a beggar's trull, a female beggar. Harman, B.E., Grose. Prob. ex Dutch docke, a doll: cf., therefore, dolly. W.—2. Hence, in late C. 16–20 (ob.), a mistress, a prostitute. Chapman, Dunton, Grose.—3. Hence, in C. 19 low s., esp. in London and among patterers, a wife. Mayhew. (Dial. takes up two analogous ideas: a sweetheart (— 1818); app. later a slattern or (pejoratively) an old woman. E.D.D.) This doxy lends point to the quotation in:—4. doxy, opinion: coll.; 1730. "Orthodoxy, my Lord," said

Bishop Warburton . . ., "is my doxy,—heterodoxy is another man's doxy." (S.O.D.)

Doyle, do Paddy. See Paddy Doyle.

Dozen, Old; gen. the . . . The 12th Foot—from 1881 the Suffolk—Regiment: military: C. 19–20. F. & Gibbons.

dozen, talk (occ. run) nineteen to the. To talk very fast: from ca. 1850; coll. till C. 20, then S.E. Reade (talk), 1852; Sala (run), 1860. O.E.D. Cf.:

dozen, talk thirteen to the. To talk in the air, wildly, incoherently, without sense: coll. (— 1923). Manchon. Ex preceding.

dozenth. Twelfth: coll.; from ca. 1710. (Hence, the rare half-dozenth.) Cobden, 'Let me repeat it—if for the dozenth time.' (O.E.D.)

dozing-crib. A bed: low (? c.): mid-C. 19–early 20. Cf. kip, q.v.

Dr. Brighton; Dr. Jim; Dr. Johnson. See Doctor Brighton . . .

drab. Poison; medicine: low (— 1851). Ex Romany, where drabengro (the suffix -engro = a man) is a doctor: see esp. Smart & Crofton and Sampson.—2. Despite F. & H., drab, a whore, a slattern, is S.E., as is the v.

drabbit! Abbr. (G)od rabbit! An old, mainly dial., expletive. Cf. drat it!

drabby. An Indian transport-driver: Regular Army coll.: late C. 19–20 Ex Hindustani.—2. Hence loosely, any transport-driver: military: 1915. B. & P.

d'rac, drac. (Gen. in pl.) A card: back s. in C. 20 c. Charles E. Leach, On Top of the Underworld, 1933. Also derac(k).

drach (pron. dräk). A drachma: among the English colony in Greece: late C. 19–20. T. B. Marle, Candid Escort, 1936, "Can you give me five drachs?" he asked.

draft on Aldgate pump. A spurious banknote; fraudulent bill: ca. 1730–1850. Fielding, who notes it as 'a mercantile phrase'; Grose; Bee. Also at Aldgate.

drag. A late C. 18–19 four-horse coach, with seats inside and on top. (In C. 20, a break.) Orig. s. or coll., as Moore's Tom Crib, Reynolds's The Fancy, and Lever's Harry Lorrequer (1819, 1820, 1839) clearly show; it > S.E. ca. 1860. (In C. 17–18 S.E., also a cart or waggon, whence the robbery senses.)—2. In late C. 19–20 c., a van. Leach.—3. A chain: C. 19 c.—4. A street or a road (— 1851): low, mostly Cockney. Mayhew.—5. The robbing of vehicles: c., ca. 1780–1830. G. Parker, 1781. Now van-drag, q.v. Hence done for a drag, convicted for such robbery, and go on the drag (Grose, 1st ed.), to embark on, or to practise, such robbery: same period. But, from ca. 1850 (ob.), go on (or, more gen., flash) the drag, is to wear women's clothes for immoral purposes (in drag, thus dressed): low if not c.—6. A trick or stratagem: C. 19–20, ob.; low.—7. Three months' imprisonment: c. (— 1851). Henry Mayhew; Charles E. Leach. Now rather three moon.—8. Its hunting senses are j.—9. An obstacle: coll. (— 1887). Baumann, 'That's where the drag is.'—10. 'Petticoat or skirt used by actors when playing female parts. Derived from the drag of the dress, as distinct from the non-dragginess of the trouser', Ware: theatrical (— 1887). Perhaps rather ex go on the drag (see drag, n., 5). Also as adj.—11. An arrest that the criminal considers is unjustified: c. (— 1935). David Hume. Perhaps ex sense 9.—12. A harrow: Canadian coll.: late C. 19–20.

drag, v. To rob vehicles: c. of ca. 1810-50. Vaux.—2. To arrest: c.: C. 20. Edgar Wallace, passim.—3. V.i. and t., to take a portion of the stakes in a gambling game as a reserve for future play: Australian and New Zealand: C. 20.

drag, in the. See 'dragged or dragged out'.

drag, on the. See drag, n., 5.—2. 'On the off-chance of attracting the attention of a customer': low or c.: from ca. 1840. 'No. 747.'—3. (Of Flying Squad cars) on patrol: c.: from ca. 1927.

drag, put on the. To go slowly, ease off. Put the drag on a person, to apply pressure, esp. to make him ease off or cease. Coll.: mid-C. 19-20.

drag-cove. A carter: C. 19, mainly Cockney and orig. c. Vaux.

drag-lay. The practice of robbing vehicles: late C. 18-early 19 c. Also the drag.

drag on, put the. See drag, put on the.

drag-sneak. A practised robber of vehicles: c.; late C. 18-19. Parker, Mayhew.

drag the pudding. To 'get the sack' just before Christmas: tailors': from ca. 1870; ob.

dragged. Late for duty: military: late C. 19-20; ob. F. & Gibbons. See sense 2 of:

dragged or dragged out. Physically exhausted: coll.; from ca. 1860; ob.—2. (Only dragged.) Behindhand with one's work: tailors': C. 20. Also be in the drag.

dragged, be. To be returned to a convict prison to serve the rest of one's sentence: c.: C. 20. Edgar Wallace, Mr. Reeder, 1925.

dragged up. (Rare in other tenses.) Ppl. adj., educated, nurtured, brought up: from ca. 1690. Orig. Society s., B.E. remarking: 'As the Rakes call it'; in C. 19-20 coll.

dragger. A vehicle thief: c.: late C. 18-20. George Parker; Charles E. Leach. Ex drag, n., 5.—2. A fishing-boat using the otter trawl: Canadian nautical coll.: C. 20. Bowen.

dragging. The practice of robbing vehicles: c.: C. 19. See drag, v.

dragging lark. The practice of stealing from motor-cars: c.: from ca. 1910. James Curtis, The Gilt Kid, 1936.

dragging-time. 'The evening of a country fair day, when the young fellows begin pulling the wenches about', H., 3rd ed.: provincial coll. (—1864).

draggel-tail. 'A nasty dirty Slut,' B.E.: coll.: late C. 17-mid-19. See (anatomical) tail and cf. daggle-tail, q.v.—2. Hence, a low prostitute: mid-C. 19-20; ob. H., 5th ed.

dragon. A sovereign: ca. 1825-90; low. Ex the device. Maginn.—2. A wanton: C. 17-19 coll. Fletcher. Cf. St. George.

dragon, blind. A chaperon: middle and upper classes' (—1923); ob. Manchon.

dragon, water the. To urinate: low: C. 18-20; ob. Perhaps suggested by dragon-water, a popular C. 17 medicine.

dragon (up)on St. George. See riding Saint George.

dragoon it. To occupy two branches of one profession: coll.: mid-C. 18-19. Grose, 2nd ed. Ex Army: orig. a dragoon was a mounted infantryman armed with a carbine (cf., in Boer War and G.W., the Australian and New Zealand light horse).

dragsman. A coachman: coll.: from ca. 1810; in C. 20 S.E., ob. Egan.—2. A vehicle-thief: c., ca. 1810-1900. Vaux; Mayhew. Less gen. than drag-sneak.

drain. A drink: coll.; from ca. 1835. Dickens in Boz. Hence do a drain (cf. wet), to take a drink. Both, ob.—2. Gin: ca. 1800-80. Lex. Bal. Ex its urinate property.—3. The puddendum muliebre; low: C. 19-20.

drain-pipe(s). Macaroni: (mostly London) school-children's (—1887). Baumann.

drainings. A ship's cook: nautical: ca. 1830-1910. Cf. slushy. (Bowen.) Cf.:

drains. A ship's cook: nautical: late C. 19-20; ob.

drake; gen. in passive. To duck (a thief) in a pond: c.: ca. 1810-50. Vaux.

dram, dog's. See dog's dram.

dram-a-tick. A small glass of liquor served on credit: a late C. 18-early 19 punning coll. suggested by the C. 17-18 spelling of dramatic. Grose, 1st ed. Cf. dome-stick.

drammer. See drummer.

drank. (Past ppl.) drunk: from ca. 1830, sol.; earlier, S.E.

drap. 'A nasty sluttish whore', Egan's Grose: low: ca. 1820-50. A perversion of drab.

drapery miss. 'A girl of doubtful character, who dresses in a striking manner': non-aristocratic coll.: ca. 1870-1915. Ware. Ex the S.E. sense explained by Byron in a note to XI, 49, of Don Juan. Cf. dress-lodger, q.v.

drat! A mild expletive; occ. drat you, him, etc.; drat it!, curse it! Coll.: from ca. 1815; dratted, from ca. 1840. Dickens, 'Drat you, be quiet! says the good old man'; Mrs. Henry Wood, 'That dratted girl.' Ex (G)od rot!: cf. Gad for God (W.). draught. A privy: C. 17-18. Coll., F. & H.; S.E., says the O.E.D. with reason.—2. A feeling of nervousness or vague fear: military (1918) >, by 1920, gen.; ob. Lyell. On wind up.

draught on the pump at Aldgate, a. See draft and Aldgate.

draughty. Nervous; (vaguely) afraid: military (1918) >, by 1920, gen.; ob. Lyell. Ex draught, 2, q.v.: cf. windy in the same sense.

draw. A drawn game: from ca. 1870; orig. coll.; in C. 20, S.E.—2. In cricket, a stroke made with the bat's surface inclined downwards: from ca. 1860.—3. An attraction, whether newspaper article or a game, a play or a preacher: from ca. 1880; coll.—4. A person, from ca. 1810, or a thing, a decade later, employed to draw out (q.v.) a person.—5. One so 'drawn': from ca. 1885. (O.E.D.) draw, v.i. To attract public attention: coll.; from ca. 1870. Hawley Smart, 'He usually kept "his show" running as long as it would draw'; by 1900, virtually S.E.—2. V.t. To elicit information from: coll., 1857, Reade (S.O.D.). More gen. draw out, q.v.—3. Flatter, tease, inveigle into vexation; hence, make game of: coll. From ca. 1859. Thackeray, 'The wags . . . can always, as the phrase is, "draw" her father, by speaking of Prussia.'—4. In low coll., the sense in dog-drawn, q.v.—5. In c., to rob, pick the pockets of; steal: C. 19-20. Vaux. Also draw (one) of, rob him of: ibid.

draw blanks. To fail; be disappointed: coll., C. 19-20, ob. In S.E., draw a blank. Ex lotteries.

draw-boy. A superior article offered at a very low price: trade: mid-C. 19-20, ob. H., 3rd ed.

draw (a person's) cork. To cause his nose to bleed: pugilistic (—1823); † by 1900. Egan's Grose.

draw crabs. 'To attract fire from the enemy artillery by exposing oneself on ground under observation' (B. & P.): military: 1915. Ex crabs, body lice.

draw-fart, occ. preceded by doctor. An itinerant quack: low coll.: C. 19.

draw for. To borrow money from, as in 'She drew him for a dollar': coll.; C. 19–20, ob.

draw it mild! (Rare in other moods.) Expressive of derision; incredulity; supplication: coll.: 1837, Thackeray (O.E.D.); Punch, 1841; Barham; Martin & Aytoun. ? ex public-houses; cf. Barham's 'A pint of double X, and please to draw it mild,' W.

draw-latch. A thief, esp. from houses: in C. 14–15, S.E.; ca. 1560–1740, a member of an order of rogues (B.E.); in mid-C. 18–early 19, any house-robber (Grose, 1st ed.). The sense 'loiterer' is S.E.

draw of. See draw, v., 5.

draw off. V.i., to throw back the body in order to hit the harder: orig. (ca. 1860) pugilistic s.: in C. 20, gen. coll. H., 3rd ed. Cf. the nautical haul off.—2. V.t., with variant draw one's fireworks, to cool a man's ardour by lying with him: a low, woman's term: C. 19–20; ob. Cf. cooler.

draw out. To cause to talk, give an opinion; elicit information: coll.; from ca. 1775. Cf. draw, v., 2. Ex drawing a badger (W.).

draw plaster. To angle for a man's intentions: tailors'; from ca. 1850; ob.

draw straws; or one's eyes draw straws. To feel sleepy: coll. in late C. 17–early 19, then dial. Swift, in Polite Conversation, No. 3. (Esp.) Apperson; but see also straws, draw.

draw teeth. To wrench the handles and knockers from street doors: ca. 1840–70. Orig. and chiefly medical students'. (Gen. as vbl.n. drawing teeth.)

draw the bow up to the ear; draw (or pull) the long bow. See bow.—draw the cork. See cork. Cf. tap the claret.

draw the King's or Queen's picture. To manufacture counterfeit coins: from ca. 1780; c. Grose, 2nd ed. (1788). After ca. 1860, perhaps s. In C. 20, ob.

draw the line at tick. (Of a woman) to be virtuous: serio-comics', esp. lady singers' (—1909); ob. Ware, 'A covered allusion to the textile fabric used for the covering of beds and mattresses.'

draw wool or worsted, v.t. and i. To irritate; to foment a quarrel: tailors': C. 19–20; ob.

drawed. Drew; drawn: sol. in mid-C. 19–20. Baumann. The pronunciation drore for draw, as is drawing, is mainly Cockney, though it occurs in gen. illiteracy.

drawer, out of the top. See top drawer, out of the.

drawer-on. An appetiser (not of drink, which has puller-on): coll., other senses being S.E.: C. 17–20, ob.

drawers. (Only in pl.) Stockings, esp. if embroidered: c.: mid-16–18. Harman, Head, Grose. The origin? Perhaps it is because one draws them on and off.

drawing; dror(r)ing. A sol. (spoken rather than written): C. 18–20. Also in drawing-room.

dread! Drat!, as in 'Dread the fellow!': Cockney (—1887); ob. Baumann.

dreadful. A sensational story, article, print: coll.; from ca. 1884; ob. Earlier and more gen., penny dreadful, q.v. Cf. awful and shocker.

dreadful, adj. Very bad, objectionable, etc., etc., etc.: coll.: from ca. 1860.

dreadful, as adv., was in C. 17–early 19 S.E.; since, sol. (O.E.D.) dreadfully. Very: coll.; from ca. 1600. Cf. awfully, bloody, terribly.

dreadnought. A male pessary: low: from 1908.—2. A very high, stiff corset: low: from ca. 1909; ob.

dreadnoughts. (Like the preceding, ex the battleship.) Close-fitting (gen. thick) woollen or flannel female drawers: from 1908; low.

Dreado. H.M.S. Dreadnought: naval: early C. 20. Bowen.

dream, a. A very delightful or agreeably odd person: coll.: C. 20, chiefly among either the nation's youth and girlhood or romantic women. (As applied to things, even lovely dresses, it is S.E.)—2. See wet dream.

dredgerman. A sham dredger-man, actually a thief: (—1857); ob. See esp. Dickens's 'Down with the Tide,' in Reprinted Pieces. (Dickens's knowledge of unconventional English is very extensive, almost irreproachable.)

dredgy. A drowned sailor's ghost: nautical: late C. 19–20. Bowen. Because his corpse runs, or had run, the risk of being brought up by a dredge.

dreffle; gen. drefful. Dreadful: (Cockney) sol. (—1887). Baumann.

dress. At Winchester College, the players that come next in order after six or fifteen: because they attend matches ready to act as substitutes: from ca. 1850.

dress, more often dress down. To beat, thrash; hence, scold severely: coll.; from ca. 1660. Mrs. Centlivre, 'I'll dress her down, I warrant her.' I.e. to 'set to-rights', W.

dress a hat. To practise a concerted robbery, from employers and by employees: low (—1864); ob. See esp. H., 3rd–5th edd.

dress-fencer. (A tramp or pedlar that is) a seller of lace: c.: C. 20. 'Stuart Wood', Shades of the Prison House, 1932. dress for the part. To be hypocritical: theatrical (ca. 1870) >, ca. 1880, Society coll. Ware.

dress-house. A brothel: from ca. 1820; ob. Implied in Bee. Cf.:

dress-lodger. A woman lodged, boarded, and (gen. well) dressed by another, whom she pays by prostitution: from ca. 1830; ob. Social-reform Kidd, 1836. Cf. drapery miss, q.v.

dress to death (later to kill) or within an inch of one's life. To dress ultra-smartly: coll. (—1859). H., 1st ed.

dressed like Christmas beef. See beef. (Cf. mutton dressed as lamb.)—dressed to (or up to) the knocker (or nines). See knocker and nines.—dressed up like a sore finger. See sore finger.

dressing, gen. dressing-down. A thrashing; a severe scolding or reprimand: coll.; from late 1760's. Jane Austen, 'I will give him such a dressing.'

dressy. Fond of dress: 1768.—2. Very smartly dressed (—1834).—3. Of clothes, extremely fashionable: 1818. All three—the first appears in Goldsmith—were orig. coll., but a generation later they were S.E. (O.E.D.) drift. To go, walk: mostly Public Schoolboys' and Society coll. (from ca. 1905) now verging on S.E. (Collinson.)

drill. To entice by degrees: c.: late C. 17-mid-18. B.E. Ex the patience exercised in drill, or that in using a drill.

drill a hole in. To shoot a person with a rifle, also—in G.W.—with a machine-gun: from ca. 1830. The p.ppl. passive drilled, without complement, occurs in Marryat's Peter Simple. Both are coll.

drilling. 'Punishment by way of waiting, applied to needlewomen who make errors in their work,' Ware: workpeople's (— 1885); ob.

drily. A mildly erroneous spelling of dryly: C. 18–20.

drink, n. See big drink and cf. Thornton at drink.

drink, v. To supply with drink (water or stronger): coll.: from ca. 1880. (O.E.D.)

[Drink, a drink, drinks; invitations to drink—and the responses; the chief alcoholic drinks; tipsy: synonymies, in unconventional English, of all these may be found admirably set forth in F. & H. at drinks (esp.), drunk, elbow-crooker, flesh and blood, gallon distemper, Gladstone, lush, pistol, and razors. And see passim my Words! at 'Euphemism and Euphemisms' and at pp. 128–30, 137, 176.]

drink hearty! A coll. nautical toast of mid-C. 19–20.

drink like a fish. See fish, drink like a.

drink like a funnel. A C. 19 variant (Apperson) of the preceding.

drink till one gives up one's halfpenny; only in past tense. (He) drank till he vomited: low: ca. 1675–1770. Ray. (Apperson.)

drink with the flies, n. and v. See Jimmy Woodser.—Drinking Parliament. See Drunken P—.

drinkitite. Thirst, but on the drinkitite is 'on the drink': East London (— 1909); ob. Ware. Cf. bite-etite.

drinks. Medicine: hospital nurses' (— 1933). Slang, p. 191.

drinks on, have the. To have (a person) at a disadvantage: lower classes' (— 1923). Manchon.

drip. Nonsense: from ca. 1920. For semantics, cf. bilge and S.E. drivel.—2. Hence, from ca. 1925, v.i., to talk nonsense.

dripper. A venereal gleet: late C. 17–early 19: low coll. B.E. dripping. A cook, esp. a bad one: from ca. 1860; ob. H., 3rd ed. Cf. slushy.

dripping tight. Completely drunk: lower classes' (— 1923). Manchon. I.e. 'soused'; an intensive of tight, 5.

driss. An occ. form of driz, q.v.

drive. A blow; a kick: coll.; from ca. 1850. Henry Kingsley.—2. Energy: coll.; from ca. 1905. By 1930, virtually S.E.

drive a quill. 'To work in an office', C. J. Dennis: Australian coll. (— 1916). Ex the lit. S.E. sense (to write), recorded 120 years earlier.

drive to the last minute. To protract or defer as late as possible: coll.; from ca. 1880.

drive French horses. To vomit: mid-C. 19–20; ob. Ex the hue donc! of French carters.

drive oneself to the wash. To drive in a basket-chaise: C. 19.

drive pigs to market. See pigs to market, drive one's.

driver. One who compels his employees to do more work for the same wages: s. (1851, Mayhew) >, by 1900, coll. (O.E.D.)—2. A captain notorious for crowding-on all possible sail: nautical coll.: mid-C. 19–20; ob. Bowen.

driver's pint. A gallon: late C. 19–20 (ob.): military.

driz. Lace. Hence driz fencer, a seller of lace; a receiver of stolen lace, hence of other material. C.: from ca. 1810. Vaux, Mayhew. Occ. driss.

driz(-)kemesa. A lace shirt: c. of ca. 1830–70. Ainsworth, Rookwood, 1834, 'And sported my flashest toggery . . . My thimble of ridge, and my driz kemesa', E.D.D. drizzerable. Unpleasantly damp: C. 20. A. H. Dawson's Dict. of Slang, 1913. A blend of drizzling + miserable.

Drogheda Light Horse, the. The 18th Hussars: military: C. 19–20; ob. F. & Gibbons. Ex its first colonel, Lord Drogheda, who died in 1819.

drogy. A hydrographer in the Navy: naval: C. 20. Bowen.

dromack(k)y. A harlot: North of England s.; ca. 1830–1900. Ex (a strolling actress that used to play the part of) Andromache.

drome. An aerodrome: 1914: coll. >, by 1930, S.E. (O.E.D. Sup.)

dromedary. A (bungling) thief; hence, 2, a burglar: resp., late C. 17–18 c., C. 18 c. or low s. Also, in sense 1, purple dromedary, late C. 17–18 c. In C. 19–20 dial. (ob.), as in C. 16–17 S.E., a dull or stupid person. Ex the dromedary's ungainliness.

drommerars, -ers. See dommerar.

droops, the. A sinking or droopy feeling; lassitude: coll.: from ca. 1912. A London underground-railway advertisement of 1935 ran: 'Down those mid-morning "droops" with tea. You'll be better for a cup at 11 a.m.'

drop, or rather the drop. Same as drop-game, q.v. Vaux, 1812.—2. A receiver of stolen goods: c. (— 1915). O.E.D. (Sup.).—3. A tip to a docker: nautical: C. 20. Bowen.—4. Hence, a tip: transport-workers' (— 1935) and underworld's (— 1936), the latter in J. Curtis, The Gilt Kid.

drop, v. To part with; give: from ca. 1670; low.—2. Hence (1849), to lose, esp. money.—3. V.i., to understand: low (— 1909). Ware. Abbr. drop to, q.v.—4. To get rid of (a person): New Zealand c. (— 1932).

drop, give one the. To give him the slip: coll.; C. 18. Mrs. Centlivre. (O.E.D.)

drop, the new or, in C. 19, last. 'A contrivance for executing felons at Newgate, by means of a platform, which drops from under them,' Grose, 2nd ed.: ca. 1780–1900; coll.

drop a brick. See brick, drop a.

drop a cog. To practise the drop-game, q.v.: late C. 17–early 19 c. B.E. See esp. Borrow's Romano Lavo-Lil (at ring-dropping).

drop a turd or one's wax. To defecate: low coll.: C. 18–20; C. 19–20 (ob.) drop across. To scold severely: from ca. 1925. Lyell. Perhaps by confusion of S.E. drop across, to meet casually, and drop on, to scold or accuse.

drop anchor. To pull up a horse: the turf: from ca. 1860; ob.—2. Also, but gen. with one's, to sit down; settle down: orig. nautical; C. 19–20 coll.

drop-cove. A specialist, C. 19–20 c., in the 'drop-game', q.v. Vaux.

drop-dry. Water-tight: nautical coll. (— 1887): in C. 20, S.E. Baumann.

drop down to. See down to, drop.

drop-game. The letting fall a coin, pocket-book, etc., in order to cheat the innocent person picking it up; the piece so dropped is a cog. C. 19– 20 (ob.) c. The gen. mid-C. 19–20 term is ring-dropping or fauney rig.

drop in one's or the eye, have a. To be slightly tipsy: from ca. 1690; coll. B.E.; Swift, 'You must own you had a drop in the eye, for . . . you were half-seas over.' Cf. dial. drop in the head.

drop—or hang, slip, or walk—into. To attack; later, to criticise adversely. From ca. 1850; coll. The first, the most gen., prob. began in pugilism, where it means to thrash; the second is rare and †; the third is almost confined to physical aggression (including that of coition) and was orig. nautical; the fourth is common.

drop it! Stop! Esp., stop talking or fooling. Coll. (— 1854). Whyte-Melville.

drop of gens, a. See gens.

drop off the hooks. To die: coll. (— 1857); ? orig. nautical. 'Ducange Anglicus.'

drop on. To call on, or 2, to scold or accuse, a person without warning; 3, to thrash (cf. drop into): the first, coll.; the second, low; the third, pugilistic. All from ca. 1850. ? cf. the U.S. get the drop on; certainly cf.:

drop on, have the. 'To forestall, gain advantage over', orig. and esp. 'by covering with a revolver': (U.S. and) Australian (— 1894). Morris: cf. get the drop on in Thornton.

drop on to or, loosely, onto. A variant—prob. the imm. origin of—drop on. 'Ducange Anglicus,' 1857.

drop one's bundle. See bundle, drop one's.

drop one's flag. To salute; hence, fig. to lower one's colours, to submit: coll. (orig. nautical); from ca. 1840.

drop one's leaf. To die: coll.; from ca. 1820. Egan's Grose. Ex the autumnal fall of leaves. Cf. hop the twig.

drop one's leg. (Of a woman) to curtsy: lower classes' (— 1923). Manchon. Prob. suggested by make a leg.

drop short. To die: coll.: from ca. 1820. ? ex drop short in one's tracks, or is this latter, as I suspect, much more recent?

drop-shorts. Field artillery: military, mostly Australian and (naturally!) infantrymen's: 1915. Ex the shells occ. dropped short by one's own artillery.

drop the cue. To die: billiard-players' (— 1909). Ware. Cf. drop off the hooks.

drop the main toby. To leave the highroad; turn off the main road: mostly vagrants': mid-C. 19–20. H., 1st ed. See toby.

drop the scabs in. To work button-holes: tailors': from ca. 1850; ob.

drop to. To come to understand a plot or plan, a man or his (bad) character: late C. 19–20: s. >, by 1920, coll. Ex drop down to (q.v. at down to, drop). Cf. tumble to, q.v.

dropped on. Disappointed: tailors': C. 19–20; ob.

dropper. A specialist in the drop-game, q.v.: late C. 17–19 c. B.E.—2. In late C. 17–18 c., also a distiller: B.E. at rum dropper.

dropping. A beating, thrashing, pugilistic or other: Royal Military Academy, ca. 1850–80.—2. Bribery: c.: C. 20. E.g. in Edgar Wallace, Room 13, 1924.

dropping member. The membrum virile, esp. if gonorrhoea'd: C. 19 low.

drops, fond of one's. Addicted to liquor: Cockney coll. (— 1887). Baumann. Ex fond of a drop, which is familiar S.E.

dropsy. A request to pay what is owed (esp. in money): low (— 1935). Ex the effects of dropsy and perhaps with reference to drop on, q.v. Cf. :—2. Salary: theatrical (— 1935).—3. Bribery: grafters': C. 20. Philip Allingham, Cheapjack, 1934. Cf. drop, n., 3, 4, and v., 1.

drored. See drawed.—dror(r)ing. See drawing.

drouthy. Hesitant, wavering: Scottish (— 1884). Ware.

drove. Driven: in late C. 18–20, a sol.

drown the miller. See miller.

drownd, to drown; drowned, drowned: sol.; C. 18–20. (Earlier, a S.E. variant.) Cf. gound.

Drowning Flotilla. 'The Flanders Flotilla in the German submarine service, on account of its heavy casualties': naval: 1917; ob. Bowen.

[drub, despite B.E. and Grose, has, I think, never been other than S.E., precisely as, despite F. & H., to drug and a drug in the market are S.E.]

drudge. A cabin-boy: nautical coll.: late C. 19–20. Bowen.

drug-store cowboy. (Gen. in pl.) A tyro cowboy, esp. one of those who carry a revolver dangling from a loose belt to somewhere near the knee: South American white men's derisive coll.: from ca. 1910 (C. W. Thurlow Craig, Paraguayan Interlude, 1935).

drugs. Pharmacology: medical coll.: late C. 19–20. Slang, p. 192.

drum. In c., a road, highway, street: from ca. 1840. Ex Romany drom (itself ex Gr. δρόμος), a road.—2. A building, house, lodging, or (in C. 20) a flat: c. and low (— 1859). H., 1st ed.; Charles E. Leach.—3. Hence, a cell: c.: late C. 19–20. Ware.—4. (Ex flash drum), a brothel: low: from ca. 1900.—5. Among tailors, a small workshop (hence, in C. 20, occ. a workman): from ca. 1870.—6. In Australia, from ca. 1860, a bundle of clothes carried on tramp: ob. by 1897, † by 1910. Hence, hump one's drum, to go on tramp: likewise †. Wm. Stamer, Recollections of a Life of Adventure, 1866 (Morris). Cf. bluey and swag, qq.v.—7. The ear: pugilistic: ca. 1860–1900. H., 3rd ed. Abbr. drum of the ear.

drum, v. To obtain, esp. custom(ers), by solicitation: from ca. 1840; coll. Cf. U.S. drummer, a 'commercial'.—2. In C. 20 c., drum (a place) is to ring or knock to ascertain if it is occupied. Charles E. Leach. Hence a drummer is a woman that does this, or that gets a job as a servant in a house some months before her man robs it; drumming, robbery by these means.

drum and fife. Wife: military rhyming s.: late C. 19–20. Everyman, March 26, 1931.

drum, empty as an old. Extremely hungry: (mainly Cockney) coll. (— 1885); slightly ob. Baumann.

drum, follow the. See follow . . .

drum, tight as a. Extremely drunk: C. 20. An elaboration on tight. For drunk as a drum, see wheelbarrow.

drum-up. A drink of tea; the making of tea: tramps' c. (— 1932). F. Jennings, Tramping with Tramps. Ex:

drum up. To make tea, esp. by the roadside: tramps' c. (— 1864) > also, by 1914, military s. 'No. 747'; B. & P. Loosely, in C. 20, to cook a meal. Ex Romany drom, the highway.—2. Hence (†), to collect: military: from ca. 1915. F. & Gibbons.

drummerdairy. A dromedary: Cockney sol. (— 1887). Baumann.

drumbelo. A late C. 17—early 19 coll. variant of S.E. drumble, a dull, heavy fellow. B.E.; Grose.

drummer. A horse with irregular fore-leg action: the turf: late C. 18–19. Grose, 1st ed. Ex the flourishes of a kettle-drummer.—2. A rabbit: late C. 19–20, ob.—3. In c., a thief that, before robbing, drugs his victim: from ca. 1855; ob. H., 1st ed.—4. A trousers-maker: tailors': from ca. 1860.—5. See drum, v., 2.

drummer-up; drumming-up. The agential and the vbl.n. of drum up, 1; esp. among labourers on public works, the man that makes tea for the gang; the making of tea: C. 20.

drumming. See drum, v., 2.

Drummond. An infallible scheme, certain event: low: ca. 1810–50. Vaux. Ex the banking-house of Drummond & Co.

drummy. A sergeant-drummer: military: ca. 1870–1905. F. & Gibbons.

Drum's entertainment. See Jack Drum's . . . drums, pair of. Trousers: tailors': from ca. 1860.

drumstick. The membrum virile: C. 19–20 low; ob.—2. In Madras Presidency, a pod of the horse-radish tree: coll. (— 1885).—3. See drumsticks.

drumstick-cases. Trousers: low: C. 19. Ex:

drumsticks. The legs: s. >, by 1840, coll.: Foote, 1770, 'What, d'ye think I would change with Bill Spindle for one of his drumsticks?' Orig. of a fowl's leg.

drunk. A debauch: coll.: from ca. 1860.—2. A tipsy person: coll.: from ca. 1880.—3. A charge of being drunk (and disorderly): from 1883. (The various drunk(en) similes—Grose (3rd ed.), e.g., has drunk as a wheelbarrow—are recorded passim: see the key-nn. For a short synonymy, see F. & H. at drunk, and Apperson.)

drunk, on the, adj. Drinking continually for days: low coll.: from ca. 1870.

drunk to see a hole in a ladder, too. See hole in a ladder.—drunk with a continuando. See continuando.

drunkard, be quite the gay. To be somewhat tipsy: coll.: ca. 1870–1900.

drunkard, come the. To pretend tipsiness; rarely, to be tipsy (†): coll.; from ca. 1860.

Drunken Barnaby. Richard Brathwait (d. 1673), that poet who, in 1638, published Drunken Barnaby's Journal.

drunken-chalks. Good conduct badges: military: ca. 1870–1910. Cf. canteen medal, q.v.

Drunken (or Drinking) Parliament. The Scottish Parliament that met (after the Restoration) on Jan. 1, 1661: coll. nickname. (O.E.D.)

Druriolanus. Drury Lane Theatre: theatrical: ca. 1885–1910. On Coriolanus and with reference to Augustus Harris's nicknames Augustus Druriolanus and the Emperor Augustus.

Drury Lane ague. A venereal disease: mid-C. 18—early 19. Grose, 1st ed. Cf. Covent Garden ague, q.v., and cf.:

Drury Lane vestal. A harlot: mid-C. 18—early 19. Grose, 1st ed. In the C. 18, though little after ca. 1760, this district was residentially infamous. Cf. Covent Garden nun and C.G. vestal.

Drury-Laner, feel like a. To be indisposed: late C. 19–20. Perhaps, orig., ill from dissipation.

druv, v. Drove: (mostly Cockney) sol.: C. 19–20. Mayhew, 1861; Baumann. Cf. drove, q.v.

dry as . . . See the key-nn.; Apperson has all—or most—of the phrases.

dry-bang, -baste, -beat, -rub. To beat severely: (pace O.E.D.) coll.; C. 17–18.

dry bath. 'A search [of a prisoner] when stripped': c.: C. 20. George Ingram in his prison-novel, Stir, 1933.

dry-blower. A gold-miner (s.), esp. one who dry-blows gold instead of sluicing it (coll.): Australian: C. 20.

dry-bob. A cricketer, at Eton College: see bob.—2. A smart repartee: C. 17–18 coll.—3. Coition without (male) emission: mid-C. 18–19 low. Grose, 1st ed. dry boots. A dry humorist: late C. 17—early 19 coll. B.E.; Grose, 1st ed. Cf. sly boots.

dry ducking. A man's suspension by a rope to just above the water: nautical coll.: mid-C. 19–20. Bowen.

dry fist. A niggard: C. 17–18 coll. Adj., dry-fisted.

dry flogging. 'Corporal punishment with the clothes on': nautical (esp. naval) coll.: mid-C. 19–20. Bowen. Cf. dry ducking.

dry guillotine, the. Severe imprisonment; esp. imprisonment at Cayenne, most malarious: journalistic coll.: ca. 1860–80. Ware.

dry hash. A 'bad egg'; ne'er-do-well; loafer: Australia, ca. 1870–95.—2. 'A baked pudding made of corned beef, tinned salmon, or anything else that comes in handy': mid-C. 19–20: nautical coll. >, by 1930, S.E.

dry in. A c. or low s. variant (— 1923; slightly ob.) of dry up, v., 2. Manchon.

dry land! You understand! Rhyming s. (— 1859); ob. H., 1st ed.—2. For dryland sailor, see turnpike sailor.

dry lodging. Accommodation without board: lodging-house keepers', from ca. 1870. H., 5th ed. Cf. S.E. dry, without strong liquor; but imm. ex Scots dry lodgings (Galt, 1823: E.D.D.).

dry nurse. A junior that, esp. in the Army and Navy, instructs an ignorant superior in his duties: coll.: mid-C. 19–20; ob. H., 3rd ed. Ex the S.E. sense.

dry room. A prison: c.: C. 19–20, ob.

dry-rot. See rot, n.—dry-rub. See dry-bang.

dry scrub; scrubber. A marker's signalling of a 'magpie', the disk being rapidly moved up and down in front of the target: Regular Army (not officers'): from ca. 1920.

dry-shave. To deceive, befool, humbug (a person): lower classes' (— 1923). Manchon. Prob. on drub reputed = dry rub.

dry smoke. A South African coll. as in Parker Gilmore, Days and Nights in the Desert, 1888, 'In his mouth was stuck a short pipe, out of which he was taking, in colonial parlance, a dry smoke—that is, it was alike destitute of fire or tobacco.' Pettman.

dry straight. To turn out all right (in the end): coll.: from mid-1890's; ob. O.E.D. (Sup.).

dry-up. A failure (cf. esp. frost): theatrical: mid-C. 19–20; † by 1918.

dry up, v. Cease talking, notably in the imperative: s. >, by 1930, coll.: from ca. 1864. Ex U.S. (— 1855). Rider Haggard, 1888, 'He . . . suddenly dried up as he noticed the ominous expression on the great man's brow.' Ex 'the figure of the "babbling" fountain', W.—2. In c. of ca. 1850–1910, to decamp, take to one's heels. Baumann.

dry-walk, gen. -walking. A moneyless soldier's outing: military: ca. 1860-1914. (Dry, liquorless, is a U.S. import.)

d's, on the two. On twopence a day: military: ca. 1870-1910. Ex d., pence.

d'see. Do you see? Cockney coll. (— 1887). Baumann. Ex d'ye see.

duay. Mine; my own. Hence, come the duay, to over-exercise one's authority. Military: 1915-18, but not very gen. F. & Gibbons derives it ex Dieu et mon droit.

dub. A key, esp. a master or skeleton key: c.: late C. 17-mid-19. B.E. Ex the v.—2. A mediocre player: lawn tennis (— 1923); ob. Manchon. Perhaps cognate with Yorkshire dubber-head, a doll, but imm. ex:—3. (Also dub-dub.) A complete failure: military: G.W., and after. F. & Gibbons.—4. See dubs.

dub, v. To open: mid-C. 16-18; (by confusion with dup), to close, gen. in form dub up (Vaux): early C. 19 c. Prob. ex Walloon adouber, to strike, tap. W.

dub, strike upon the. To rob (a house): c.: late C. 17-early 19. B.E. See dub, n. 1.

dub at a knapping jigger. A turnpike keeper: (? late C. 18) early C. 19 c. Vaux. Jigger, door or gate: and see jigger.

dub-cove. A turnkey, gaoler, as is dubsman, occ. abbr. dubs: c. of (? late C. 18-)C. 19. Vaux; the last in Henley.

dub lay. The robbing of houses by picking the locks: late C. 18-early 19 c. Grose, 2nd ed. B.E. has 'We'll strike it upon the dub, . . . we will rob that place'.

dub o' the lick. 'A lick on the head', Grose, 2nd ed.: late C. 18-mid-19: low coll.

dub up. To 'fork out'; pay: s. (— 1823), now verging on coll. Bee. Developed from dub, v.—2. See dub, v.

dubash. An interpreter; a commissioner: Anglo-Indian; from late C. 17. The former sense was † by 1902; the prevailing C. 20 one being, a European's native servant. Ex Hindi dobashi, a 'two-language man'. Yule & Burnell, 1903.

dubber. The mouth; tongue: C. 18-19 c., as, in late C. 17-19, is the sense, 2, a picklock thief (B.E.).—3. In Anglo-Indian coll., more properly dubba, a leather bottle or skin bag: from late C. 17.

dubbs. See dubs, 2.

dubby. Blunt; dumpy: dial. (— 1825) >, by 1870, coll. O.E.D. (Sup.).

duberous (1818); dubersome (1837). In doubt; dubious: (low) coll. and dial. O.E.D.

Dublin dissector. A cudgel: medical students', ca. 1840-1900. Punch, 1841.

Dublin packet, take the. To run round the corner: (— 1859) coll.; ob. Punning doubling.

Dublin packet, tip (a person) the. To elude openly; give the slip quickly: c. (— 1812) >, ca. 1840, low, † by 1900. Vaux.

dubs. A jailer: c. (— 1789); ob. Abbr. dubsman.—2. (Also dubbs.) Money, esp. if of copper: c. (— 1823); † by 1870. 'Jon Bee.' Ex dub, a fraction of a rupee.

dubs, adj. Double: Winchester College; from ca. 1830; ob.

Dubs, the. The Royal Dublin Fusiliers: military: late C. 19-20.

dubsman. A turnkey. See dub-cove.

ducat. See ducket.

ducats. Money, cash: theatrical (— 1853), ob. Earlier, gen. coll.: 1775. (S.O.D.) Prob. ex Shakespeare's Shylock. Cf. the use of shekels.

duce, i.e. deuce, q.v., is twopence: c.: late C. 17-18. B.E. Moncrieff.

ducer, the. The second steward in a liner: nautical: C. 20. Bowen. Ex duce = deuce, two.

duchess. A woman of an imposing presence: from ca. 1690. B.E. Contrast dutch.—2. 'A woman enjoyed with her pattens on, or by a man in boots, is said to be made a duchess,' Grose, 1st ed.; † by 1890.

duchess,—'hell !' said the. See 'hell !' said the duchess'.

Duchess, ring up the; I must ring up the Duchess. These two c.p.p., applicable to resolution of a doubt or to settlement of a problem, arose in Jan., 1935, ex the play Young England: orig. and mainly London Society: ob.

duchess, the. The mother or the wife (the old duchess) of the person addressed: proletarian: resp. — 1909 and — 1923; ob. Ware; Manchon.—2. A living lay-figure: silk trade: from ca. 1870; ob. Ware.

duchessy, adj. Like a duchess (— 1887); abounding in duchesses (— 1870): coll. (O.E.D.)

duck. A decoy; C. 19 coll. Abbr. decoy-duck.—2. A bundle of meat-scraps: low coll. (— 1864). H., 3rd ed. Cf. faggots.—3. A coll. endearment: from ca. 1590. Shakespeare. Hence, in admiration, as is the adj. ducky. Leman Rede, 1841, 'Oh, isn't he a duck of a fellow?'—4. A soldier (gen. in pl.) of the Bombay Presidency: Anglo-Indian: from ca. 1800. Later, any official in the Bombay service. Ex Bombay duck, q.v.—5. A metal-cased watch: 'cheapjacks': ca. 1850-1914. Hindley.—6. The face, as in make a duck, make a grimace: Winchester College: ca. 1860-1920. In cricket, however, make a duck, or duck's egg, is to score nothing, while save (— 1877) or break (— 1900) one's duck, is to score at least one run (Lewis): duck occurs in 1868, duck's egg in 1863, and duck-egg in 1868 (O.E.D.).—7. Cf. the Anglo-Irish duck (for dinner), nothing to eat: late C. 19-20.—8. Abbr. lame duck, q.v.: from ca. 1780. Grose, 1st ed.

duck. To avoid; to neglect to attend (e.g. a meeting): coll.: C. 20. (E. Shanks, The Enchanted Village, 1933.)

duck, do a. In e., to hide under the seat of a public conveyance so as to avoid paying (— 1889); but in gen. coll., to depart hurriedly (— 1900).

duck !, Lord love a. A mild proletarian expletive (— 1923). Manchon.

duck, make a. See duck, 6.

duck-disease; duck's disease. 'Shortness of leg', O.E.D. (Sup.) (the Army explained it differently); a nickname (Duck's Disease) for any very short man: (low) coll.: from ca. 1910.

duck egg. See duck, 6.

duck, fake the. See fake the duck.

duck-footed, adj. Walking with toes turned inwards: coll.: C. 19-20; ob. But duck-legged, with very short legs, is S.E.

duck-fucker. The man looking after the poultry on a warship: mid-C. 18-early 19; nautical. Grose, 1st ed.

duck in a thunderstorm. See dying duck.

duck of diamonds. A superlative of the admiring duck, 3: coll.; from ca. 1850; ob.

duck-pond. A canvas bathing-place for cadets: naval (— 1909); ob. Ware.

duck-shover, -shoving. A cabman who is guilty of breaking the rank and thus unfairly touting for custom; this extremely reprehensible practice; Melbourne: ca. 1869-1895. Morris. 2. (d.-shoving.) Hence (?), an evasion of duty: military: late C. 19-20. F. & Gibbons.

duckboard is military j., except when (ex its arrangement of colours) it = a Military Medal ribbon (1916: B. & P.); but duckboard-glide, an after-dark movement along a trench, and duckboard harrier, a messenger, are military s. of 1917-18. It and he had to use the duckboard track. F. & Gibbons.

ducker. In diving, a header: sporting (- 1923). Manchon. Ex ducking one's head in water.—2. the Ducker is the swimming-pool at: Harrow School: late C. 19-20. J. Fischer Williams, Harrow, 1901. Ibid. I.e. duck + 'the Oxford-er'.

ducket. Any ticket; esp. a raffle-card or a pawnbroker's duplicate: c. and low (- 1874); ob. H., 5th ed. A corruption of docket. Also ducat.

duckey. See ducky.

duckie. See ducky.

ducking, go. To go courting: low coll.: from ca. 1850; ob. Ex duck, 3.

ducking-money. Money exacted from a sailor the first time he went through the Strait of Gibraltar: naval coll.: C. 19. Bowen.

ducks. Aylesbury Dairy Company shares: Stock Exchange: from ca. 1880; ob. Aylesbury (Buckinghamshire) is 'especially noted for the rearing of ducks,' Encyclopædia Britannica.—2. A variation of ducky, 2, mostly in address: C. 20. James Curtis, The Gilt Kid, 1936.

ducks, fine weather for. See fine weather . . .

ducks and drakes with, later of. To squander money or potential money: from late C. 16; coll. till C. 19, then S.E. Chapman, 'Be like a gentleman . . . make ducks and drakes with shillings.'

duck's bill. 'A tongue cut in a piece of stout paper and pasted on at the bottom of the tympan sheet', F. & H.: printers'; from ca. 1860; ob. Ex shape.

duck's breakfast. A drink of water with nothing to eat: csp. New Zealanders': C. 20. Cf. Irishman's dinner.

duck's disease. See duck-disease.

duck's egg. See duck, 6; break one's duck's egg occurs in 1867 (Lewis).

ducks in the pond. A term in the game of House: military: from ca. 1920. The Evening News, Nov. 21, 1935.

ducky; duckie, adj. Expressive of admiration (see duck, 3): coll.; from ca. 1830.—2. N., an endearment, thus a variant of duck, 3: from ca. 1815; coll. The former solely, the latter mainly, a woman's term.

dud. A delicate weakling (†); person without ability and/or spirit: orig. Scottish (- 1825), Jamieson speaking of 'a soft dud'; (?) used in U.S. in 1870; rare by 1896; resuscitated in G.W., from sense of an unexploding shell, hence of any very inferior or unsuitable object. In 1916 +, an adj.: e.g. 'a dud show', a poor entertainment. These terms have prob. been influenced by the C. 17-20 dial. dudman, a scarecrow, but the word may derive ultimately ex Dutch dood, dead (W.).—2. See duds.

dud(d)-cheats. Clothes and household effects: c. (- 1725); † by 1830. A New Canting Dict. Cf. duds, 1, 2, q.v.

dudder or whispering dudder, dudsman, and duffer (q.v.). A pedlar of supposedly smuggled wares: late C. 18-early 19; the first two being c., the third also c. but only at first. Grose, 2nd ed. Ex duds, q.v.—2. One who passes off harmless powder as cocaine or morphia: Australian (esp. Sydney) c. (- 1931).

dude. A swell, fop: orig. (1883) U.S. and almost imm. anglicised; coll. till ca. 1918, when it > S.E. The derivatives dudine, a female nasher, and dudette, dudinette, a young girl aping the belles, did not catch on in England. Where the etymology is a mystery, but the occasion known to be the Aesthetic craze of ca. 1882-7, it is perhaps permissible to guess at dud (q.v.) influenced by attitude, the semantic transition being aided, maybe, by the dial. v.i. dud, to dress.—2. Light; a light: either low s. or tramps' c. (- 1923). Manchon. Ex Romany.

duddering rake. 'A thundering Rake . . . one devilishly lewd', A New Canting Dict., 1725: C. 18-early 19. See duddering r.

duddery. A clothier's booth: C. 17-early 19 low coll. Cf. the dial. senses.

duds. Clothes: mid-C. 16-17 c. (Harman, Head); in C. 18-20, low (Grose, Trollope). Ex C. 15 dudde, cloth, a cloak; cf. duddery, q.v.—2. In C. 16-20 coll., occ. rags or old clothes.—3. The sense 'portable property' is, orig. in mid-C. 17-18, English c., but in C. 19-20 it is mainly U.S. 'standard'.

duds, sweat. To pawn clothes: C. 19-20 c.

dudsman. A seller of so-called contraband clothes: c.; (? late C. 18)-early C. 19. Cf. dudder, q.v.

due for the hammer or the shillelagh. An Anglo-Irish c.p. (C. 20) applied to a person about to be dismissed or to a team about to be beaten.

[due to, because of, is objected to by many purists, but the O.E.D. and W. support it; moreover, the purists' preference, owing to, is, semantically, an exact equivalent.]

dues, the. Money: orig. (- 1812) c.; by 1860, coll.; by 1890 ob. Vaux; Ainsworth.

duey. Twopence: circus s. via Parlyaree: mid-C. 19-20. Baumann. Cf. duce.

duff. No good; inferior: Glasgow: late C. 19-20. Cf.:

duff, gen. preceded by the. The selling of actually or supposedly smuggled goods: late C. 18-early 19 c.—2. Food: nautical coll.: late C. 19-20. (A. E. W. Mason, The Dean's Elbow, 1930.) Ex the specific S.E. sense.

duff, v. To sell inferior goods, esp. clothes, pretending they are stolen or smuggled: orig. (- 1781) c.; by 1860, low.—2. Hence, to make old clothes appear new by manipulating the nap: coll.; from ca. 1835.—3. To alter the brands of stolen horses or, esp., cattle (- 1869); hence, to steal cattle by changing the brands: Australian s. > coll.; ob. Carton Booth in Another England, 1869; Boldrewood, The Squatter's Dream, 1890.—4. V.i. and t. To be a duffer (no good); to be a duffer at: ca. 1880-1915. Ware. Ex duffer, 4.

duff, man at the. A seller of certain goods (see duff, n., 1: C. 19 c. Cf. duffer, 1).

duff days. Thursday and Sunday, when that pudding appeared at the gun-room's dinner: naval coll.: C. 19. Bowen. Cf.:

duff night. Guest night on a warship: naval officers': late C. 19-20. Bowen. Cf. preceding.

duff out of. To cheat or rob (a person) of: from ca. 1860; ob. Cf. duff, v., 1, 3.

duffer. A seller of pretended stolen or smuggled goods: mid-C. 18–19; orig. c.; by 1860 low and slightly ob. Grose, 1st ed.; Colquhoun, 1796, in Police of the Metropolis, 'A class of sharpers . . . duffers'; Dickens; Thackeray.—2. A pedlar; a hawker, esp. of women's clothes: low coll.: from late C. 18; ob.—3. A 'renovator' of inferior goods, esp. clothes: low coll.; from ca. 1850.—4. A worthless object, esp. counterfeit coin: low s. (—1875); ob. Also, a person of no ability (—1842), a dolt (from ca. 1870): both coll.—5. A female smuggler: C. 19 nautical.—6. Ca. 1820–50, a professional cheater of pawnbrokers: low if not e.—7. In Australia, a cattle-stealer (or illicit brander): s. > coll.; from ca. 1870, though unrecorded before 1889.—8. An unproductive mine-claim: Australian coll. (—1861). H. Finch-Hatton, Advance Australia, 1885. Cf. shicer, q.v. (O.E.D.; S.O.D.; Morris.).

duffer- or duffing-fare. A person driving in a cab to oblige the driver: London cabmen's: ca. 1900–10. Ware.

duffer out. (Of a mine) to become unproductive: Australia (—1885); coll. > j. by 1910.

duffing. The practice of selling worthless goods as valuable: low > coll.; from ca. 1850. See duff, n. and v., and duffer, 1, 2.—2. In Australia, thieving of cattle (gen. preceded by cattle): s. (—1881) > coll. by 1900.

duffing, ppl. adj. Inferior or counterfeit but offered as superior or genuine (—1851); of a person selling such goods (—1862).—2. Dull, stupid; foolish: from ca. 1880; rare in C. 20.

duffing-fare. See duffer-fare.

duffy. A ghost or spirit: West Indies, chiefly among the negroes (—1864). H., 3rd ed. ? ex Davy Jones.—2. A quartern of gin: London: ca. 1820–50. Bee. Ex daffy. But perhaps a misprint.

Duffo. A Devonport bluejacket or ship: naval: late C. 19–20. Bowen. By 'telescoping'. dufter. An orderly room: military (Regular Army): late C. 19–20. F. & Gibbons. Ex Hindustani daftar, an office.

dug-out. An over-age officer back in service: military: 1912 (O.E.D. Sup.). Because dug-out of his retirement. See esp. B. & P.—2. Hence, adj.: 1915. E.g. dug-out king, one who kept to his dug-out (Australian: 1916), and dug-out disease, 'chronic fear of death and danger which kept those, whose rank permitted any choice, safe in their dug-outs' (gen.: 1917).

dugs, of a woman's breasts or nipples, has, since ca. 1880, been a vulg., though it is permissible in S.E. if used as a strong pejorative.

duke. A handsome man, esp. if of showy appearance: gen. as rum duke (B.E.): late C. 17–early 18 e.; 2, hence (see rum), 'A queer unaccountable fellow', Grose, 1st ed.: c.: late C. 18–early 19; often as rum duke.—3. Gin: ca. 1850–80; a below-stairs term.—4. A horse: cabmen's; ca. 1860–1910.—5. In c. also, a burglary, a robbery: from ca. 1840; ob. The first and second are derivable from the idea of aristocracy; the third is etymologically problematic; the fifth comes prob. ex Romany (cf. ácokin).—6. See dook, 2 and 3, and dukes.

Duke. An occ. abbr. of Duke of Kent. P. P., Rhyming Slang, 1932.

Duke Humphrey. See dine with Duke Humphrey.

Duke of Fife. A knife: rhyming s.: late C. 19–20. F. & Gibbons.

Duke of Kent. Rent: rhyming s.: 1932, P. P., Rhyming Slang.

duke of limbs. An ungainly fellow, esp. if tall: coll.: mid-C. 18–mid-19. Grose, 1st ed.

duke o(f) Seven Dials. 'Satirical peerage bestowed upon any male party dressed or behaving above or beyond his immediate surroundings': proletarian London: ca. 1875–1900. Ware. Seven Dials was a very poor quarter.

Duke of York. To talk: to walk: rhyming s. (—1859 the latter, —1873 the former).—2. A storm trysail: nautical: from ca. 1880.—3. A cork: rhyming s.: from ca. 1890. The Evening Standard, Aug. 19, 1931.

Duke of Yorks. Forks: rhyming s. (—1874); ob. H., 5th ed.—2. Hence, fingers; hence hands; hence dukes, q.v.

duker. The proprietor of a large nose: streets': ca. 1840–70. Ware. See dook, 3.—2. A lighter of a special type operating in the Mersey and Manchester Ship Canal: nautical: late C. 19–20. Bowen. Why?

dukes, often, esp. in C. 20, pronounced dooks. Hands; fists: low (—1874). Ex preceding term. For such abridgements and similar ingenuity, see Slang at 'Oddities' and Words! at 'Rhyming Slang'.

dukes, grease the. V.i., to practise bribery; but the v.t. with of is much more gen.: low (—1877). Horsley, Jottings from Jail.

dukes, put up the. To prepare for fisticuffs: orig. low s.; in C. 20, low coll. From ca. 1880.

Duke's, the. The Argyll Rooms in Windmill Street: London: ca. 1860–1900. Ware. Ex Duke of Argyll.—2. The Duke of Wellington's, now the West Riding, Regiment: military: not before 1853; ob. F. & Gibbons.

dukess. A duchess: sol.: C. 19–20. Cf. dook, 2.

dukey. See dookie.

Dukie. (Gen. pl.) A boy of the Duke of York's Royal Military School: coll.: C. 20. O.E.D. (Sup.).

dukking. See dookin.

dulay; dupan. Milk; bread, resp.: military: 1914; ob. B. & P. I.e. Fr. du lait, du pain, (some) milk, (some) bread.

dulcamara. A quack doctor: cultured coll.: ca. 1845–1910. Ex a character in L'Elisir d'amore, by Donizetti, who adopts the mediaeval L. name for the herb gen. called bittersweet.

dulcerate, -ation. Incorrect for dulcorate, -ation: C. 16–17. O.E.D.

Duleep. Duleepsinhji: cricketers': from 1925, when he first played for Cambridge. 'To cricketers he liked to be known as "Smith"' (Who's Who in World Cricket, 1934).

dull in the eye. Tipsy: coll.: from ca. 1840; ob.

dull-pickle. A heavy, dull, stupid fellow: late C. 17–18 coll. B.E.

Dull Street, live in. I.e. in a dull quarter: coll. (—1887) verging on S.E. Baumann. Cf. Queer Street.

dull-swift. A stupid fellow; a sluggish messenger: coll.: mid-C. 18–early 19. Grose, 1st ed.

dullmajor. 'An interpreter in British prisoner of war camps in Germany': 1915–18. By 'Hobson-Jobson' ex Ger. Dolmetscher. F. & Gibbons.

dully. A dull person: coll.: 1883 (O.E.D.). Cf. stupid.

dum tam. A bunch of clothes carried on his back, but under his coat, by a beggar: North Scottish c.: C. 19. E.D.D., 'This seems to be a cant phrase denoting that although this is carried as beggars carry their children, it is mute.'

dumb. Stupid; dull; silent: S.E. ca. 1530-1650; (? revived) in U.S. as s.,—Thornton records it for 1843; anglicised, likewise as s., ca. 1920. See quotation at marvellous.

dumb arm. A maimed one: coll.: late C. 18-early 19. Grose, 1st ed.

dumb-cow. To brow-beat or cow: Anglo-Indian coll. (—1886). Prob. ex Hindustani dhankana, to chide or threaten, via the process of Hobson-Jobson. Yule & Burnell.

dumb-fogged, -foozled, ppl. adj. Confused, puzzled, confounded: coll.; from ca. 1860; ob.

dumb glutton. The puendum muliebri: mid-C. 18-19 low (Grose, 1st ed.) as is the synonymous dumb squint, C. 19. Hence feed the dumb glutton, mid-C. 18-19, or the dummy, C. 19-20 (ob.), to have sexual intercourse.

dumb insolence. Breaking wind on parade: military: 1916. F. & Gibbons. Ex military j. for 'silent insolence'.

dumb peal. A muffled peal: bell-ringers' coll. (—1901). Rev. H. Earle Bulwer's Glossary.

dumb scraping. 'Scraping wet decks with blunt scrapers': nautical coll.: late C. 19-20. Bowen.

dummy sparkler. A silent match: c.: mid-C. 19-20. 'No. 747.'

dumb-waiter. An elevator: rhyming s., mostly workmen's: from ca. 1920. John o' London's Weekly, July 9, 1934.

dumb watch. 'A venereal bubo in the groin', Grose, 1st ed.: mid-C. 18-early 19: low.

dumbfound. To perplex; put to confusion; silence: from ca. 1650; coll. until ca. 1800, then S.E.—2. Also, to beat soundly, thrash: ca. 1660-1820, as in B.E.'s 'I dumbfounded the sawey Rascal.' After confound.

dumby. A variant, prob. the original, of dummy, 1. (Bee, 1823.)

dumfugled, adj. Dumbfounded: Cockney sol. (—1887); ob. Baumann.

dummacker. A knowing person; an astute one: ca. 1850-1910. H., 2nd ed. ? ironically ex dial. dummock, a blockhead.

dummee. A variant (Lex. Bal.; Egan's Grose) of dummy, 3, q.v.

dummerer. See dommerar. — dummie. Bee's spelling of dummy, n., 3.

dummock. The posteriors: low: C. 19-20; ob. Perhaps ex Romany dumo, the back (Sampson), + ock as in bittock.

dummy. A deaf-mute: coll.; from late C. 16. Ex dumb.—2. A person notably deficient in ability or brightness: coll.; from ca. 1795.—3. In c., a pocket-book: from ca. 1810. Vaux. (Not in Grose, 1st, 3rd edd.)—4. A dumb-waiter: from ca. 1850.—5. An actor or actress that does not speak, a 'super': theatrical; ca. 1870-1920.—6. A makeshift, substitute, or rudimentary bill: Parliamentary s.; from ca. 1860.—7. In Australia, the grip-car of a Melbourne tram: coll.: ca. 1893-1905. Morris. Ex Dummy, the Northumberland dial. nickname for a colliery carriage: 1843 (E.D.D.).—8. A loaf of bread: c. (—1909). Ware, 'Probably from the softness of the crumb'; cf. sense 3.

dummy, chuck a; chuck the dummy. See the two relevant entries at chuck.

dummy(-daddle) dodge. Pocket-picking under cover of a sham or 'dummy' hand or 'daddle': c. of ca. 1850-1900.

dummy-hunter. A pickpocket specialising in 'dummies' or pocket books: c.: ca. 1810-1910. Vaux.

dummy run. A practice evolution: naval coll.: C. 20. Bowen.

dump. A small coin or sum of money: Australian coll. and s. resp.; 1827, ca. 1840. Both ob. by 1895, † by 1910. Ex a small coin, worth 1s. 3d., called in as early as 1823 (Morris).—2. A button: c. (—1859). App. only in dump-fencer, q.v. Ex sense 1.—3. In 1915 +, orig. military, a place: ex the j. sense, a place where war material, old or salvaged, is stored, for the most part in the open, hence a refuse heap, itself ex dump, v.—4. Hence, a hotel: tramps' c. (—1923). Manchon.—5. Hence, a lodging-place or residence; a cache of stolen goods: New Zealand c. (—1932).

dump, v. To throw or set down heavily; let fall heavily: ex U.S. (—1830), anglicised ca. 1870 as a coll. that, ca. 1900, > S.E. Cf. the M.E. domp, to fall heavily,—whence dump perhaps on thump. W.—2. Hence, esp. in G.W. and after, to put, set, place, no matter how.—3. At Winchester College, to extinguish, as in 'dump the tolly', i.e. the candle: mid-C. 19-20. (E.D.D.) dump, not to care a. To care little or not at all: coll.; from ca. 1800. Ex a metal counter.

dump-fencer. A button-seller: ca. 1855-1910: low, perhaps c. H., 1st ed. For fencer = seller, cf. driz-fencer. See dump, n., 2.

Dumpies, the. The Nineteenth Hussars: from ca. 1860; ob. Ex the smallness of the men when the regiment was raised in 1859: cf. the S.E. Bantams of the G.W.—2. Also, for similar reasons, a nickname of the 20th Hussars and the 21st Lancers: from ca. 1870; ob. F. & Gibbons.

dumplin(g). A short, thick-set man or woman: from ca. 1610: until ca. 1800, coll.; then S.E.; now ob. Cf. Norfolk dumpling, an inhabitant of Norfolk, ex the prevalence of apple and, esp. plain, suet dumplings.

dumpling-depôt. The stomach: C. 19-20; ob. Cf., and after, bread-basket. J. J. Conington, The Castleford Comundrum, 1932, "'This telegram produced some sensation?' " "... It did. Fair took 'em in the dumpling depot.'" dumplin(g) on, have a. To be with child: proletarian (—1909); ob. Ware.

dumpling-shop. The human paps: lower classes: C. 19-20; ob.—2. A variant (—1923) of dumpling-depôt. Manchon.

dumps, the. A fit of melancholy; depression: C. 16-20; S.E. until ca. 1660, then coll., esp. when preceded by in. The Spectator, No. 176 (1711), 'when I come home she is in the dumps'.—2. Money: from ca. 1835; ob. Barham speaks of suicide 'for want of the dumps'. Ex dump, n., 1.

dummy. See chubby.

dun. A creditor importunately asking for what is his: from ca. 1628; orig. coll.; in C. 19-20, S.E. Wycherley, 'insatiable ... duns'. Possibly ex a stock name of the John Doe, Tommy Atkins type, as W.'s analogy from the Paston Letters seems to show.

dun, v. To persist in trying to get what is due to one: from ca. 1626; in C. 19-20, S.E.; before, coll. Killigrew, 'We shall be revenged upon the rogue for dunning a gentleman in a tavern.' Prob., despite recorded dates, ex the n.

dun, adj. See scruff, n.

Dun Cow, the Old. The River Clyde, a steamer driven on the Gallipoli shore in April, 1915: naval and military: 1915. Ex the wooden horse at the siege of Troy, 'whose site could be seen from her decks'. (Bowen.)

dun is the mouse, gen. dun's the mouse. A c.p. quibble made when done is mentioned, a mouse being dun-coloured; when spoken urgently it connoted 'keep still!' Ca. 1580-1640. A later C. 17 form is dun as a mouse, which, implying no warning, prob. arises from the confusion of s = is or as (or, though not here, has). (Apperson.)

dun territory. 'Circle of creditory to be had', Egan's Grose: Oxford University: ea. 1820-40.

dunagan. An early C. 19 variant (Egan's Grose) of dunnaken, q.v.

dunaker. A stealer of cattle, esp. of cows: late C. 17-early 19 c. B.E. Variants, dunnocker, donnaker. Ex dunnock, q.v.

duncarring. Homosexuality: late C. 17-early 18. B.E. Prob. ex a person's name.

dunch. To dine at lunch-time: cultured middle class's: from ca. 1929; very ob. Somerset Maugham, Cakes and Ale, 1930, 'Verbs that you only know the meaning of if you live in the right set (like "dunch")'.

Dundalks. Shares in the Dundalk Steam Company: Stock Exchange coll. (- 1895) soon > j. (A. J. Wilson's glossary.)

dundering rake. This (B.E., ca. 1690) is almost certainly the correct spelling of Grose's duddering rake, q.v. Dunder is a variant of the mainly Scottish dunner, to thunder.

[dunderhead and its variants have, despite H. and F. & H., always been S.E.]

dundrearies. A pair of whiskers that, cut sideways from the chin, are grown as long as possible: from Sothorn's make-up in Our American Cousin (see the next entry); the fashion was antiquated by 1882, dead by 1892. This coll. term (1858) survives. Cf. Piccadilly weepers.

dundreary. A stammering, silly, long-whiskered dandy: coll.; from 1858, the year of Tom Taylor's once famous comedy, Our American Cousin, in which Lord Dundreary appears; hence, from ca. 1860, a foppish fool. The former †, the latter ob.

dunegan. An early C. 19 variant of dunnaken. Lex. Bal.

dung. A workman at less than union wages: C. 19; in C. 20, merely historical.—2. Mid-C. 19-20, also a 'scab'.—3. Ca. 1760-1840, a journeyman tailor satisfied with regulation wages, Grose, 1st ed. With the last, contrast flint, q.v., and cf. scab, q.v.

dung-cart or -fork. A yokel; a country bumpkin: coll.: C. 19-20; ob.

dung-drogher. A guano ship: nautical coll.: late C. 19-20. Bowen.

dungaree, adj. Low, coarse, vulgar: Anglo-Indian: from ca. 1830; ob. Ex the coarse blue cloth and the name of a disreputable Bombay suburb.

dungaree-settler. A poor settler in or of Australia: Australian coll.: ca. 1840-70. Anon., Settlers and Convicts, 1852 (Morris). Ex clothing himself, wife and family in clothes made of dungaree.

dunghill, die. To die contrite or cowardly; esp. to repent at the gallows: coll.; ca. 1755-1830. (O.E.D.)

dunna. See dunno.

dunnage. Clothes; baggage: nautical: from ca. 1850. Mayhew. Cf. duds. Ex the S.E. sense, matting or brushwood used in packing cargo (W.). dunnage-bag. A kit-bag: naval: late C. 19-20. F. & Gibbons.

dunnaken or -kin; dunneken or -kin; dunnyken or -kin; dunagan, -egan. A privy: late C. 19-20; c. >, by 1860, low coll. In C. 17-18, dannaken: orig. c., then low s.: see danna. Whence do a d., to visit one: low: late C. 19-20. Manchon. (The form dunnakew, in B. M. Carew, 1791, is prob. a misprint.) dunnaken-drag. A night-cart: ca. 1820-60. Egan's Grose. Cf. danna-drag at danna.

dunnaw. See dunno.—dunneken or -kin. See dunnaken.

dunner. An importunate creditor: from ca. 1690; coll. till C. 19, then S.E.; in C. 20 somewhat archaic. B.E. Dunning, vbl.n., coming late is S.E.

dunnick-drag. A variant pronunciation of danna-drag (q.v. at danna). Vaux.

dunno. Do not know: sol.: C. 19-20. Often dunno!, I don't know. Occ. dunna or dunnaw. See also d'n.

dunnock. A cow: (? C. 17,) C. 18-early 19 c. Grose, 2nd ed. ? ex dun, adj.: the dun cow is famous and serves as a title to a satire by Robert Landor.

dunnyken or -kin. See dunnaken.

dunop. A pound (gen. sterling): back s., from ca. 1865. Dnuop > dunop, for the sake of euphony. See Words!, article 'Rhyming Slang'.

duns. 'Tradesmen dealing with a ship or its crew': nautical: late C. 19-20. Bowen. They have the impudence to ask for their money.

duo. A duodenal ulcer: medical students': from ca. 1920.

dup. To open: mid-C. 16-18 c.; now dial. Harman, Head. Elisha Coles, 1676, defines it as 'to enter [the house]'. Not do up but do ope(n).

dupan. See dulay.

durance. A prison: coll.; ca. 1690-1750. B.E. (Unrecorded by O.E.D., this sense gives added point to in durance vile.)

duration, for the; rarely the duration. For a very long time indeed: military: from 1915. Early in the G.W., one enlisted for four years or the duration of the war. B. & P.

Durham man. A knock-knee: late C. 18-early 19 coll. Grose, 3rd ed.: 'He grinds mustard with his knees: Durham is famous for its mustard.'

duria. Fire: C. 19 c. 'Ducange Anglicus', 1857. ? cf. Romany dugilla, lightning.

duritike. Incorrect for diuretic: C. 16. O.E.D.

durn, durned. Variants of darn, darned: low coll.: C. 19-20. Freeman Wills Crofts, Mystery in the Channel, 1931, 'It's durned strange they didn't tell you themselves, without your comin' to me abaht it.'

durra, dhurra. Indian millet: Anglo-Indian coll.: from late C. 18.

durrynacker. A female lace-hawker, gen. practising palmistry 'on the side'. Vbl.n., durry-nacking. Mayhew: mid-C. 19-20 c.; ob. Ex Romany dukker, to tell fortunes: cf. dookin, q.v.

durzee. A variant of derzy, q.v.

dusodile. Incorrect for dysodile: C. 19-20. O.E.D.

dust. Money: coll.: from ca. 1600. Esp. in down with one's or the dust, to pay, as in Fuller, 1665. 'The abbot down with his dust, and glad he escaped so, returned to Reading.' Prob. abbr. gold-dust.—2. A disturbance, 'row', esp. in kick up a dust, cause a 'shindy': from ca. 1750; s. until ca. 1890, then coll. (Raise a dust is S.E. and more lit.)

dust, v. To blind (fig.); befool, as in dust the public: Stock Exchange; from ca. 1814; ob. Abbr. the S.E. dust the eyes of.—2. dust or dust off (or out), v. To depart hurriedly: in C. 17 S.E.; in C. 19 U.S.s., whence C. 20 English s.

dust-bin. A grave: from ca. 1850; ob.

dust (a ship) down. To sweep her decks: nautical: late C. 19–20. Bowen.

Dust Hole, the. The Prince of Wales's Theatre in Tottenham Court Road: theatrical, from ca. 1840–1900. (The theatre, which, ca. 1830–50, accumulated its sweepings under the pit while it was still the Queen's Theatre, moved in the late '80's.)—2. Sidney Sussex College, Cambridge: ca. 1860–85. H., 3rd ed.

dust in the eyes, have. To be sleepy: cf. draw straws and the dustman is coming. Coll.: (? C. 18.) C. 19–20; ob. (throw dust in the eyes, like bite the dust, is S.E.)

dust it away, gen. in imperative. To drink about, esp. quickly: late C. 17–18: coll. (pace the O.E.D.).

dust off. See dust, v., 2.

dust one's cassock, coat, doublet, or jacket, with for him (her) occ. added. To thrash; † criticize severely. Coll.: the first and third, C. 18, Smollett; the second, late C. 17–early 19, but anticipated in Tusser's 'What fault deserves a brushed cote'; the fourth and sole extant, from late C. 17, as in Farquhar, Barham.

dust out. See dust, v., 2. dust-up. A variant of dust, n., 2: C. 19–20. Ware.

duster. A sweetheart (female): tailors': from ca. 1850; ob.—2. (Also the red duster.) A red ensign: nautical: from ca. 1895. Cf. coach-whip.

dustie. See dusty.

dusting. A thrashing; (nautical) rough weather: both from late C. 18.

dustman. (Esp. be a dustman.) A dead man: late C. 18–early 19. Grose, 1st ed.—2. Sleep personified, esp. in the dustman's coming, used chiefly to children: coll.; from ca. 1820; ob. Egan's Grose.—3. A gesticulatory preacher, apt to raise the dust: 1877, Blackmore (O.E.D.).—4. A naval stoker: naval: late C. 19–20. Bowen.

dustman's bell, the. Time for bed: nursery coll.: from ca. 1840. See preceding entry, sense 2. Ware.

dustman's hat. A slouch-hat of much the same shape as a dustman's: coll.: early C. 20. Collinson.

dustoor(y). Commission as 'rake-off'; doucour; bribe: Anglo-Indian, the shorter form, ca. 1680–1830; then, mainly, the longer. Largely displaced by ba(c)kshee(sh).

dusty; dustie. A dustman: Cockney (—1887). Baumann. Cf. posty.—2. 'A ship's steward's assistant—probably because this hard-worked official looks it': naval (—1909). Ware.—3. A nickname for any man named Miller: late C. 19–20. Because a miller is gen. dusty.—4. A C. 20 variant of dustman, 2. Manchon.

dusty, none or not so. Good (cf. not so or too bad): from ca. 1854. Smadley, in Harry Coverdale, 'None so dusty that—eh? for a commoner like me.' Ex much earlier S.E. dusty, mean, worthless. Cf. mouldy.

dusty-bob. A scavenger: coll.: ca. 1850–1910.

dusty boy. A steward's assistant: naval: late C. 19–20. Bowen. Cf. dusty, 2 and 3.

dusty-nob or poll. A miller: coll.: C. 16–17 the latter; C. 17–18 the former (rare). Cf. dusty, 3.

dusty pup. A 'dirty dog': Australian coll.: from ca. 1920; ob.

[Dutch. Both n. and adj. were, in C. 17–early 18 (owing to trade rivalry and naval jealousy) very opprobrious or derisive; the coll. sense endured throughout C. 18, some of the following phrases becoming S.E. in C. 19; but the few terms or phrases coined in C. 19 have remained s. or coll. See esp. 'Offensive Nationality' in Words! and Grose, F., s.v. Dutch.]

dutch; esp. my old dutch. A wife: from ca. 1885; mostly Cockney and esp. costermongers'. Prob. coined by Albert Chevalier, who explained it by the resemblance of 'the wife's' face to that of an old Dutch clock: cf. dial, q.v. (I used, with W., to consider it an abbr. of duchess, but Chevalier, I now feel tolerably certain, is right.)

Dutch, beat the. To do something remarkable: coll. (—1775). Esp. in C. 19–20 that beats the Dutch, that beats everything, that's 'the limit', it's hardly credible.

dutch, do a. To desert; run away; abscond: military and Cockney: from ca. 1870; ob. Ware.

dutch, old. See dutch.

Dutch (or double Dutch or Dutch fustian or High Dutch), talk. To talk a foreign tongue, or gibberish. The third, used by Marlowe, may never have > coll. or gen.; High, ca. 1780–1860; Dutch is C. 19–20 (ob.); double Dutch (H., 1st ed.), easily the commonest since ca. 1860. All are coll. A humorous variant for linguistic dexterity is the ca. 1870–1900 to talk double Dutch backwards on a Sunday.

Dutch auction or sale. A mock auction or sale; either at 'nominal' prices, esp. after the goods have been offered at a high price: coll.; mentioned in 1872 as 'the old Dutch auction', hence presumably much earlier. H. has it in 1864.

Dutch bargain, i.e. one-sided: coll.; from ca. 1650. With variant wet bargain, it also means a business transaction concluded with a drinking together.

Dutch brig, the. 'Cells on board ship or in the naval prisons': naval: mid-C. 19–20. Bowen.

Dutch build. (Of a person having) a thick-set figure: coll.: mid-C. 19–20; ob. Baumann.

Dutch caper. A light privateering-ship, esp. if Dutch: naval: ca. 1650–1720. Bowen.

Dutch cheese. A bald-head(ed person): low Cockney: 1882–ca. 1915. Ware, 'Dutch cheeses are generally made globular.'

Dutch clock; old D.c. A wife: almost imm. abbr. to dutch, q.v.; † by 1900.—2. A bed-pan: from ca. 1880; ob.

Dutch comfort. 'Thank God it is no worse,' Grose, 2nd ed.: coll.; from ca. 1787. A C. 19 variant is Dutch consolation (H., 1st ed.).

Dutch concert or medley. Where everyone plays or sings a different tune: the former (Grose, 1st ed.) from ca. 1780, the latter C. 19–20 (ob.) and gen. of voices only. Coll.

Dutch consolation. See Dutch comfort.

[Dutch courage, courage induced by drink, has prob. been always S.E. So too, I think, Dutch defence, a sham one (Fielding).]

Dutch feast. 'Where the entertainer gets drunk before his guests', Grose, 1st ed.: coll.; ca. 1780–1880. Cf. Dutch treat.

Dutch gleek. Drinks: ca. 1650–1870. Gayton, 1654.

Dutch have taken Holland, the. A C. 17–early 18 form of Queen Anne's dead.

Dutch medley. See Dutch concert.

Dutch nightingale. A frog: 1769, Pennant (O.E.D.): jocular coll. >, by 1840, dial.; ob. Cf. fen nightingale.

Dutch oven. The mouth: boxers' (– 1923). Manchon.

Dutch palate. A coarse palate, lit. and fig.: coll.: ca. 1675–1800.

Dutch party. See Dutch treat.

Dutch pegs. Legs: rhyming s. (– 1923). Manchon.

Dutch pink. Blood: 1853, 'Cuthbert Bede'. O.E.D. (Sup.). Ex the pigment so named.

Dutch pump. A punishment entailing vigorous pumping to save drenching or, occ., drowning: nautical coll.: late C. 17–early 19. Bowen.

Dutch reckoning. A lump account, without particulars: ca. 1690–1800: coll. > S.E. Cf. altamal(l), likewise in B.E.—2. Among sailors (– 1867), 'a bad day's work, all in the wrong', Smyth.

Dutch red. A highly smoked Dutch herring: nautical coll.: late C. 19–20. Bowen.

Dutch row. 'A got-up unreal wrangle': Cockney coll. (– 1909); ob. Ware remarks that, even in his day, it was rarely heard.

Dutch sale. See Dutch auction.

Dutch treat. An entertainment at which each pays his share: coll.; from ca. 1875. Thornton records it for Iowa in 1903; in U.S.A. one finds also Dutch lunch and D. supper, while D. party is common to both England and U.S. in C. 20. Cf. Dutch feast.

Dutch uncle, talk to a person like a. I.e. severely. Coll.; from ca. 1830. Ex the Dutch reputation for extremely rigorous discipline and the gen. idea resident in patruæ verbera lingua and Horace's ne sis patruus mihi, the particular idea in Dutch baas = boss = master; (ship's) captain.

Dutch widow. A harlot: coll.; ca. 1600–1750. Middleton, 1608, 'That's an English drab, sir.'

Dutch wife. A bolster: from ca. 1880; ob. Ex the S.E. sense, an open frame used for resting the limbs in bed.

dutchess. See duchess.

Dutchie. A Dutchman; occ. a German (see Dutchman): allusive and nick-nominal: mid-C. 19–20 coll.

Dutchman. A German; 'any North European seaman except a Finn': nautical coll.: mid-C. 19–20. Bowen. (So too in U.S.) Ex earlier S.E.—2. A piece of quartz somewhat resembling an uncut diamond: South African diamond-diggers' (– 1913). Pettman. Perhaps ex the next entry. —3. The champagne of Deutz & Gelderman: middle-classes': ca. 1870–1910. Ware.—4. (Gen. pl.) The 'mark' made by a drop of rain on still water: children's (– 1923). Manchon. For semantics, cf. dutch, q.v.

Dutchman if I do I, I'm a. Certainly not! Coll.; from ca. 1850. Earlier (1837) is I'm a Dutchman, i.e. I'm somebody else: a coll. equivalent for disbelief; Reade, 'If there is . . . gold on the ground . . ., I'm a Dutchman.'

Dutchman's anchor. Anything that, esp. if needed, has been left at home: nautical: from ca. 1860. Bowen, 'From the Dutch skipper who explained after the wreck that he had a very good anchor but had left it at home.'

Dutchman's breeches (occ. breeks). Two streaks of blue in a cloudy sky: nautical coll. (– 1867). Smyth. Sailors gen. use it in form, enough to make a pair of breeches for a Dutchman.

Dutchman's Cape. Imaginary land on the horizon: nautical coll.: mid-C. 19–20. Bowen.

Dutchman's drink. One that empties the pot: coll.; from ca. 1860. Cf.:

Dutchman's headache, the. Drunkenness: coll. (– 1869); virtually † by 1920. (Apperson.)

Dutchmen. See Dutchman, 4.

Dutchy; Dutchie. See Dutchie.

duty. 'Interest on pawnbrokers' pledges': respectable lower classes' (– 1909). Ware, 'Evasive synonym'.

dwell. A pause: sporting coll. (– 1887); ob. Baumann.—2. A firmness in the market: Stock Exchange coll. (– 1923). Manchon.

dye. See die.

d'ye, d'you. Do ye, do you?: coll.: C. 19–20. Cf. d'see, q.v.

d'ye want jam on both sides? A military c.p. (1914; ob.) imputing unreasonableness. B. & P. More gen., what do you want—jam on it?

dying duck in a thunderstorm, look like a. To have a ludicrously forlorn, hopeless, and helpless appearance: coll., orig. rural: from ca. 1850. (Ware.)

dying man's dinner. Something edible or potable snatched, opportunity favourable, when a ship is in peril and all hands at work: nautical: late C. 19–20; slightly ob. Bowen.

dyke. See dike.

dynamite. Tea: middle classes': 1888–9. Ex Irish-American dynamiters' evasive term (The Daily News, Feb. 4, 1888). Ware. Cf. dynamiter.

dynamite, adj. (Of persons) violent, brutal, drastic, autocratic, powerful, expert—all or each to an alarming degree; (of things) extremely dangerous or sudden. Coll., from ca. 1914. Cf.:

dynamiter. Any violent person: ca. 1882–90. Ware. See dynamite, n.

dynasty of Venus, the. 'Indiscriminate love and misguided affection', Egan's Grose: Oxford University: ca. 1820–40.

d'you feel like a spot? See how will you have it? (For d'you, see d'ye.) dyspepsia. Delirium tremens: military hospitals' (– 1909); Ware.

dyspepsy. Dyspepsia: uncultured Canadian coll.: late C. 19–20. (John Beames, Gateway, 1932).

E

e, intrusive. In illiterate speech, e is frequently inserted before an r preceded by a consonant (esp. by a double consonant): prob. from time almost immemorial. E.g. musheroom, umberella.—2. Sometimes an indication of exasperation, as in Ker-rist for Christ: see kerwallop.—3. Used for -a-, it is a mark of Cockney: C. 19–20. E.g. fem(i)ly.—4. In illiterate speech, it is also substituted for i, as in ef (if); for o, as in ev (of); and for u, as in sepose for suppose—see esp. the works of W. Pett Ridge. It is, in fact, the vowel to which illiteracy tends to reduce all vowel-sounds.—5. See the remark at efink.

'e-. See h- and 'ee.

E.C. women. Wives of City men: snobbish Society: ca. 1881–1900. Ware. From the London postal district designated East Central.

'e dummo where 'e are! A c.p. of the 1890's. Quotations Benham (cited by Collinson).

'e knows. A c.p. punning Eno's advertisements: from ca. 1905. Also Eno's, q.v.

E.P. or e.p. An experienced playgoer: theatrical: late C. 19–early 20. Ware.

each other as a nominative is sol. (— 1893): 'occasionally heard', notes Henry Bradley, who cites 'We know what each other are doing.'—2. But each other for one another, never reprehensible in U.S., is—more's the pity, say the logical—losing that catachrestic stigma which resulted partly from the fact that its indiscriminate use occ. leads to ambiguity.

eagle. The winning gamester: late C. 17–18 c. B.E. (Cf. the coll. > S.E. golf term).—2. Chicken: R.N.C., Dartmouth: C. 20. Bowen.

eagle-hawking. The plucking of wool from dead sheep: Australian 'bush' (— 1898). Morris. Ex this habit of the Australian eagle-hawk.

Eagle-Takers. The 87th Foot, British Army: so named after Barossa, 1811, when they captured a French eagle. Moreover, its colours bear an eagle laurel-wreathed. See also Aiglers, Faugh-a-Bal-lagh Boys and Old Fogs, alternatives.

eagled. Punished by being spread-eagled: nautical: C. 19–20; ob. Bowen.

'Eaps, Eeps. Ypres: military: G.W. (B. & P.) ear, on one's. In disgrace: U.S., anglicised by 1909. Ware.

ear, send away with a flea in one's (or the) ear. See flea in one's ear, send away with a.

ear-biter; ear-biting. A persistent borrower; borrowing: see bite one's ear, than which the two terms are slightly later.

ear-hole, on the. Cadging (esp. money): military: C. 20. F. & Gibbons. Cf. earwig, v.

ear-swing. An unemployed docker dunning his working mates for a loan: nautical: C. 20. Bowen.

Earl Beardie. Alex. Lindsay, 4th Earl of Crawford (d. 1454), a great fighter. Dawson.

Earl of Cork. The ace of diamonds: Anglo-Irish (— 1830) coll. Carleton, 'Called the Earl of Cork, because he's the poorest nobleman in Ireland'.

Earl of Mar's Grey Breeks. The 21st Foot, British Army: military: C. 18–19, but † by 1890. Ex the colour of the breeches and the orig. title, The Earl of Mar's Fuzileers.

Earl of Murray. See dine with St. Giles.

early. Keeping early hours; rising early: coll. (— 1893) >, by 1920, S.E. (O.E.D.) early, rise or wake or get up very. To be wide-awake, ready, astute: rise, C. 18; the other two C. 19–20, with get up the commoner in C. 20. Orig. coll.; in C. 20, S.E. Swift.

early, small and. See small and early.

Early Bird, the. An express goods-train carrying provisions, through the night, to London: railway-men's: from ca. 1920. The Daily Telegraph, Aug. 15, 1936. Cf. the Early Riser.

early riser. An aperient: mid-C. 19–20 coll. Cf. custom-house officer.—2. 'A sharp, business-like person': coll.: U.S. >, ca. 1895, anglicised. Ware. Ex early, rise, q.v.

Early Riser, the. A fast freight train running to London: from ca. 1920. (It arrives early in the morning.) The Daily Telegraph, Aug. 15, 1936.

early-turner. A performer taking his 'turns' early in the programme, hence before the more fashionable part of the audience has arrived: music-halls' coll. (— 1909). Ware.

early worm. One who searches the streets at dawn for cigar and cigarette stumps: coll.: from ca. 1870; ob. Ex S.E. sense. Baumann. earn. To 'find' or 'win', i.e. to steal; get by looting: naval and military: G.W. +. Cf. make, q.v. F. & Gibbons.

earnest. A share of the booty: mid-C. 17–18 c. Head; B.E. Cf. S.E. senses.

ears. 'Small advertisements appearing on each side of the title of the first page of a periodical' (including newspapers): copy-writers' s. (from ca. 1924) >, by 1930, coll. Alfred T. Chenhalls.

ears, tickle (a person's). To flatter: coll. (— 1931). Lyell.

ears are (or were) worth, it's (or it'd be) as much as one's. It is, would be, very risky for him: coll.: from ca. 1860.

ears back or put back!, get your. Get your hair cut: military c.p.: C. 20 F. & Gibbons.

'eart!, 'ave an. See heart!, have a.

earth. An early variant of erth (q.v.), three. H., 1st ed.

earth-bath, take an. To be buried. By itself, earth-bath = a grave. C. 19 low. Lex. Bal.

earth-stoppers. A horse's feet: ca. 1810–80. Moncrieff, 1823. Alluding to those who stop up foxes' carths.

earthed, be. (Of an aeroplane) to be brought down against its pilot's wish: Air Force coll.: 1915. F. & Gibbons. Ex a fox carthed.

earthern. Incorrect for earthen: C. 18–20; now rare. O.E.D.

earthly, no; not an earthly. No chance whatsoever: coll.: resp. 1899 (Ware); 1907 (O.E.D. Sup.).—2. no earthly is also an abbr. of no earthly good: coll.: from ca. 1920. Galsworthy (cited by Collinson). Sc. chance.

earwig. A private and malicious prompter or flatterer: coll. > S.E. in C. 18: ca. 1610–1880. Scott.—2. In C. 19 c. or low s., a clergyman. 'Ducange Anglicus', 1857.

earwig, v. To prompt by covert assertions; whisper insinuations to; rebuke privately: C. 19–20; S.E. in the latter. Marryat, 'He earwigs the captain in fine style.' Ex n., 1. The vbl.n. ear-wiggling is more frequently used than the v.

ease. To rob of, steal from: coll.: C. 17–20; in C. 17, jocular coll.; in C. 18, c.; in late C. 19–20, S.E. Jonson, 'Ease his pockets of a superfluous watch'.

ease oneself. To ejaculate seminally: coll.: C. 18–20. Somewhat euphemistic.

ease up! Steady!: coll. (— 1923). Manchon. Lit., slacken your pace!

east and south. The mouth: rhyming s. (— 1857). 'Ducange Anglicus.' After ca. 1895, north and south. Occ., ca. 1880–1900, sunny south. east and west. Breast: rhyming s. (— 1923). Manchon.

East Country ship. A ship trading in the Baltic: nautical coll.: mid-C. 19–20. Bowen.

East of the Griffin. (In) East London: London coll.: 1885, The Referee, Oct. 11; very ob. Ware, 'Outcome of the city Griffin on his wonderful pedestal replacing Temple Bar'.

East (or e.) roll. A slow, gradual roll without jerks: nautical coll.: late C. 19–20. Bowen.

easterling. 'Erroneously used by early antiquaries for sterling . . . the English silver penny of the Norman dynasty.' W.

Easterns. Shares in the Great Eastern Railway: Stock Exchange coll. (— 1895) >, by 1910, j. (A. J. Wilson's glossary.)

eastery. Private business: cheapjacks' (— 1876); ob. Hindley in his classic 'editing' of cheapjack life.

Eastralia. Eastern Australia: Australian coll. (— 1898); virtually †. Morris. On Westralia.

easy. A short rest, esp. as take an easy: coll.; from ca. 1880.

easy, v.i. To dispose oneself suitably to the sexual embrace: low coll.; from ca. 1900.

easy, adv. Without difficulty: in C. 19–20, coll. where not sol.; earlier, S.E.—2. Comfortably; at an easy pace, e.g. in take it easy; without severity, as in let one off easy. Coll. (— 1779). Cf. the Irishism be easy!, don't hurry!

easy, honours. Honours divided: coll. (1884: O.E.D.) >, by 1920, S.E. Ex cards.

easy, make. To gag; to kill: mid-C. 18–early 19, low if not c. Grose, 1st ed. For the latter sense, quiet was occ. preferred.

easy a bit! Don't hurry!: coll. (— 1923). Manchon. Cf. easy, adv., 2.

easy as damn it or kiss my a*se or my eye or pissing the bed, as. Extremely easy: coll.: first, second, and third, C. 19–20; fourth, C. 18–20 (ob.). The polite variant and original of the second is (as) easy as kiss my hand, 1670, Cotton (Apperson). Cf. Shakespeare's 'easy as lying' and Ray's (1678) easy as to lick a dish. Easy as an old shoe and as falling off (a chair, a log, etc.) were orig. dial., not earlier than 1800.

easy does it! Take your time: coll.; from ca. 1840; ob.

easy mort. Mid-C. 17–18 c.: 'a forward or coming wench', B.E.

easy over the pimples or stones! Go slow! Be careful! Coll.: from ca. 1870. The former ex the barber's shop, the latter ex driving on bad roads.

[Easy Street, in, prosperous, is rather S.E. than coll.]

easy virtue. 'An impure, or prostitute', Grose, 1st ed.: from ca. 1780: s. >, by 1820, coll. >, by 1900, S.E. Cf. the S.E. easy, compliant.

eat coke; eat crow. See coke; crow.

eat. To enjoy enthusiastically: theatrical: from ca. 1932. John G. Brandon, The One-Minute Murder, 1934, 'The audience were, in theatrical parlance, literally eating this scene.'—2. To worry; sorely puzzle: from ca. 1919. P. MacDonald, R.I.P., 1933, 'But I don't think that's what's eating you.' See what's biting you? and cf. dial eat oneself, to be very vexed (E.D.D.).

eat a child. See child, eat a.

eat a fig. To break into a house: s. rhyming imperfectly on (crack a) crib: from ca. 1855; ob. c. H., 1st ed.

eat a sword, eat iron. To be stabbed: C. 16: coll.

Eat-Apples, Eatables; Eetap(s). Etaples in France: military: G.W.

eat bull-beef. See bull-beef, eat.

eat like a beggar man and wag one's under jaw.

'A jocular reproach to a proud man', Grose, 1st ed.: late C. 18–mid-19: coll. c.p. eat more fruit! A c.p. of ca. 1927–34. Collinson. Ex the trade slogan.

eat one's boots, hat, head. Gen. as I'll or I'd eat my . . ., hat being the commonest and earliest (Dickens, 1836). A coll. declaration.

eat one's head off. To be idle; cost more than its, or one's, keep. Orig. (— 1736) of horses; then of servants (— 1874); finally (— 1920) of other employees. O.E.D.; F. & H. eat one's terms, occ. dinners. To go through the prescribed course of study for admission to the bar: a legal coll. (— 1834). Ex the eating of a few meals each term at an inns of court. (O.E.D.)

eat the wind out of a ship. To get nearer the wind than another ship is: nautical coll.: late C. 19–20. Bowen. Cf. wipe (a shooter's) eye.

eat up. To massacre (a man and his family) and confiscate his property (1838); hence, to vanquish in tribal battle (1859): coll. Pettman. Prob. ex a Zulu metaphor. In late C. 19–20, gen. = to ruin, hence to be much too strong or too skilful for another.

eat vinegar with a fork. See fork, etc.—Eatables. See Eat-Apples.—eaten a stake. See swallowed a stake.

eatings. Board, meals, food: proletarian: C. 19. Ware.

eats. Food: C. 20 coll. Cf. eat, M.E., a meal, and C. 11–early 17, food, both S.E.

eau. Incorrect for ea, a canal: mid-C. 19–20. Confused with Fr. eau. O.E.D. eautybeau. Beauty: music-hall transposition (— 1909); ob. Ware.

ebb-water. Lack of money: late C. 17–18. B.E. says it is c.; perhaps it is, rather, low s. or low coll.

ebenezer. In fives, a stroke that so hits 'line' as to rise perpendicularly: Winchester College. ? a Biblical reference or ex Ebenezer, coll. (1856) >, by 1890, S.E., a Nonconformist chapel (a term that —cf. bethel—is S.E. j. as used by Dissenters themselves). See also Addenda.

ebony. A negro: coll.: ca. 1860–1910. Abbr. son of ebony (1850).—2. (Gen. Old Ebony.) The publisher of Blackwood's Magazine; the periodical itself. Ca. 1860–1900. Ex the colour of its cover.

ebony, bit or piece of. A variant (— 1923) of ebony, 1. Manchon.

ebony optic. A black eye; e.o. albonized, the same—painted white: C. 19. 'Ducange Anglicus.'

eccer. (Pronounced ekker.) Exercise: Oxford undergraduates': late C. 19–20. 'Oxford -er.' (Ware.)

ecclesiastical brick. A holystone: nautical, mostly officers': late C. 19–20. Bowen. By elaboration.

-eck. Sol. for -ect, as in rejeck: C. 19–20. Cf. ol' for old (or as in tol', told).

eclipse. In gaming, a fraudulent manipulation of a die with the little finger: late C. 17–18, c.

ecliptical. Elliptical: a late C. 16–17 sol. Fuller. (O.E.D.).

eclogue. Dialogue(, conversation, discourse): sol., C. 17. (O.E.D.) Cf. the C. 17 errors of eclude for exclude, edention for edentation (ibid.).

ecod. A mild oath (cf. edad and edod): coll.: C. 18–19. ? ex egad, itself C. 17–20 (ob.).

ecstasy is an astonishingly frequent misspelling among those who should know better.

ed. Editor: only in compounds, as city-ed: C. 20 journalistic. Cf.:

ed (or ed.), the. The editor: journalists' and authors' coll.: C. 20. Neil Bell, Winding Road, 1934.

eddicacion. See edication.

edgabac. Cabbage: back s. (— 1859). H., 1st ed.

Edgarism. Atheism; loosely, agnosticism: clubmen's: 1882. Ex Edgar, 'the villain-hero' of Tennyson's prose play, The Promise of May. (Ware.)

edge! Run away!, be off!: c. (— 1886); ob. Ware. A deviation from S.E. edge (away).

edge, outside. See outside edge.

edge, short top. A turned-up nose: tailors': from ca. 1860.

edge, side. Whiskers: tailors' s.: from ca. 1860, as is:

edge, stitched off the: likewise tailors': (of a glass) not full.

edge 'em. To commence drawing a crowd: market-traders' (e.g., Petticoat Lane): C. 20.

edge of nothing, the thin. A coll. c.p. (— 1931) applied 'when people are very crowded and there is hardly room to sit' (Lyell). Esp. sit on the thin edge of nothing.

edge off, or, v.t., out of. To slink away; to desist gradually: coll.: from ca. 1860. Cf. the S.E. usages, whence it naturally develops.

edge on, have (got) an. To be impudent; put on 'side': Public Schools': C. 20. P. G. Wodehouse, 1903, 'Doesn't it strike you that for a kid like you you've got a good deal of edge on?' Contrast:

edge on, have the. To have a slight advantage over: Canadian coll.: C. 20. John Beames. Ex U.S. edge up. (Gen. in imperative.) To move quickly: Glasgow (— 1934).

edgenaro. An orange: back s. (— 1859). H., 1st ed.

edgeways, not able to get a word in. To find oneself unable to take part in a conversation or discussion: coll.; from ca. 1870; earlier and S.E., edgewise.

edication, edickation, eddication. Education: sol.: C. 19–20.

edify. Edifice: a C. 16 sol., for which there is the excuse that it occurs only in the pl. (O.E.D.)

edition, first, second, etc. One's first, second, or other child: journalists', authors', and publishers'

s. fast becoming a gen. bookish coll.: from ca. 1890. (There is prob. a further pun on addition.)

Edna. The inevitable nickname of men sur-named May: military (and naval): C. 20. F. & Gibbons. Ex Edna May, the actress.

edod! Rare coll. variant of adod!: late C. 17–early 18. O.E.D. educated trimmer. An engineer officer: nautical, esp. executive officers': late C. 19–20. Bowen. Opp. bridge ornament.

ee; 'ee. Ye: coll. abbr. (— 1775); ob. Sheridan, 'Hark ee, lads' (O.E.D.).

-ee. Often to humorous, occ. to coll. effect (imitative of legal terms) as in kickee, the person kicked: from ca. 1860. Somewhat pedantic.

eekcher. Cheek: central s.: from ca. 1880. Ware.

eel-skin(s). Very tight trousers: ca. 1820–60. Bulwer Lytton, 1827, 'a . . . gilt chain . . . stuck . . . in his eel-skin to make a show'.—2. A very tight dress: Society coll.: ca. 1881–90. Ware.

e'en. Even (= just, nothing else but) 'prefixed' to vv.: mid-C. 16–19 coll.; in C. 20, dial. Richardson, 1741. 'E'en send to him to come down.' (O.E.D.)

eenque; eetswe. Queen; sweet: transposed or central s.: from ca. 1870. Ware.

Eeps. See 'Eaps.—Eetap(s). See Eat-Apples.

-eer is often jocular, occ. coll. as profiteer was at first (1915).

Eff, the; the Effy. The Effingham Saloon, an East-End music-hall, fl. 1864.

effect, effectation, effective. See affect.

effluvia is occ. used ignorantly as a singular (effluvium): mid-C. 17–20. Cf. data.

effort. 'Something accomplished involving concentration or special activity': from ca. 1870: S.E. >, by 1930, coll., esp. in that's a pretty good effort (C. 20). O.E.D. (Sup.); C.O.D. (1934 Sup.).—2. A 'thingummy'; an interjection: Bootham School (— 1925). Anon., Dict. of Bootham Slang, 1925.

Effy. See Eff.

efink. A knife: back s. (— 1859). H., 1st ed. E- is a common initial letter in back-s. words, for it ensures euphony.

etter. A theatre thief: c.; from ca. 1860; ob. H., 3rd ed. Perhaps after (the 'goods') perverted.

egad! A mild oath ('prob. for ah God', W.): C. 18–20 (ob.); coll. Slightly earlier igad; occ. egod (C. 18). O.E.D.

egg. A person: coll., esp. in good egg and, as exclamation, good egg!, late C. 19–20, and a bad egg, a person (rarely a thing) that disappoints expectation: from early 1850's.—2. Abbr. duck's egg: cricketers': 1876. Lewis. See duck, n., 6.—3. An aerial bomb: military: 1916.—4. A submarine mine: naval: 1916. Bowen.

egg, old. See old egg.

egg, sound. See sound egg.

egg-box. A box for table napkins: Bootham School: late C. 19–20. Anon., Dict. of Bootham Slang, 1925.

egg in that!, there's an. That's worth the trouble!: semi-proverbial coll. (— 1923). Manchon.

Egg-Market, the. The Falkland Islands: whalers': ca. 1830–1910. Ex swarming sea-fowl. Bowen.

Egg-Shells. H.M.S. Achilles: naval: C. 20. Bowen. By 'Hobson-Jobson.'

egg-trot. A coll. abbr. of egg-wife's trot, a gentle amble: ca. 1680–1900. Ex her pace when riding to market.

eggs, teach one's grandmother to roast, more gen. suck. To inform or lecture one's elders, superiors, or intellectual betters: coll.: from ca. 1700. Earlier forms are teach one's dame or grandame (grannam) to spin or to grope ducks (or a goose) or to sup sour milk. (Apperson.)

Eggs-a-Cook. Egyptians: Australian military: 1915–16. See:—2. Australian soldiers: a self-name, 1915–18. B. & P. Ex 'their being as "hard-boiled" as the eggs vended'—with this cry—'by the Egyptian hawkers'.—3. The 3rd Australian Division: Australian soldiers': 1917; ob. Ex the colour-patch.

eggs (a penny, and four of them addle or rotten), come in with five. To interrupt fussily with worthless news or an idle story: coll.: ca. 1540–1880.

eggs are, be, or is eggs, as sure as. Undoubtedly; certainly: coll.: the first two, late C. 17–18 (e.g. Otway); the third from (—)1772. The last perhaps, as A. de Morgan suggested, influenced by X is X, the logician's statement of identity. (Apperson.)

eggs are cooked!, the. Everything's done!; that's done it!; his number is up!: New Zealanders': from ca. 1910.

eggs for one's money, be glad to take. Gladly 'to compound the matter with Loss', B.E.: semi-proverbial coll.: C. 17–18. Shakespeare, 1610 (Apperson).

egham, staines and windsor. A private coachman's three-cornered gala hat: coll.: ca. 1870–1900. Ex a once-famous business firm.

ego, often with capital. Myself; yourself; herself, himself: jocular coll. (—1824); ob.—2. (ego!) See quis?

egod! See egad.

Egypt. Bread: military: C. 20; ob. F. & Gibbons. Perhaps ex corn in Egypt.

Egyptian charger. A donkey: mostly London: ca. 1820–50. Bee. Perhaps ex its frequent use by Gypsies.

Egyptian Hall. A ball: rhyming s. (—1859). H., 1st ed.

eh? What's that (you say)? coll.: C. 19–20. (O.E.D.'s earliest record is for 1837.)

eccespie. Pieces: transposed or central s.: from ca. 1860.—2. Hence, money: from ca. 1880. Ware.

Eiderdown. Ouderdon on the Western Front: military in G.W. (W. H. L. Watson, 1915.)

eight, one over the. One drink too many; hence, slightly drunk: military (>, by 1925, gen.): from not later than 1914. F. & Gibbons; Lyell. Eight beers being considered permissible.

eight eys, I will knock out two of your. A mid-C. 18–early 19 Billingsgate fishwives' c.p. 'The other six, as Grose, 2nd ed., enumerates them, are the two 'bubbies' (q.v.), the belly (prob. implying the navel), 'two pope's eyes' (? the anal and urinal orifices), and 'a  eye' (? what): by the 'pope's eyes' he perhaps means rump and anus, while by the asterisks he almost certainly understands the sexual aperture.

eighteenmo. Octodecimo: book-world coll.; 1858. Ex 18^{mo}, the abbr. form. (S.O.D.)

eighteenpence. Common sense: rhyming s.: C. 20. James Curtis, The Gilt Kid, 1936, 'He did not know Maisie had all that eighteenpence.' Also in P.P., Rhyming Slang, 1932.

eighter. An 8-ounce loaf: c., mostly prisoners': from ca. 1870.

Eiley Mavourneen. A non-paying debtor: commercial (—1909); ob. Ware. Ex that song by F. W. Crouch, in which occur the words, 'It may be for years, and it may be for ever.'

either, either of + n. with a pl. v.: catachrestic: C. 19–20. Ruskin, 1874 (O.E.D.); Freeman Wills Crofts, Mystery on Southampton Water, 1934, 'This was not to say that during those wearing days either of them were idle.'—2. Catachrestic, too, is either (sing. n.) or (sing. n.) with a pl. v., as in Thirlwall, 1833, 'Religious rites by which either Thebes or Eleusis were afterwards distinguished', O.E.D.—3. Often either is used illogically, as twice in this short passage (from G. D. H. & M. Cole, Superintendent Wilson's Holiday, 1928): 'He might have either been hidden in the vicinity or taken away, probably by car, to some distance. For traces either of burial or transport by road one would have to search by daylight.' To impute pedantry to a person indicating such lapses is to abdicate both logic and subtlety, or, at the least, both clarity and nuance.—4. See Addenda.

ek dum. See ak dum, 1. Thus in Richard Blaker, Here Lies a Most Beautiful Lady, 1935, of an Indian Army officer: "'We'll go ek dum,'" said the Major.'

ekame. A 'make', i.e. a swindle: back s. (—1859). H., 1st ed.

ekker. An exercise (scholastic task): Public Schools' and universities' (orig. Oxford): from ca. 1890. 'The Oxford -er.'

ekom. A 'moke', i.e. donkey: likewise back s. (—1859). H., 1st ed.

elastic. Stretchable without permanent change of shape or size: coll. (in C. 20, almost S.E.): from ca. 1780.

elbat. See helbat.

elbow, crook the. See crook. App. lift the elbow is not recorded before 1916 (O.E.D. Sup.).

elbow, knight of the. A gamester: coll.: ca. 1750–1840.

elbow, shake the. To play dice: coll.: from ca. 1690; ob. Vanbrugh, 'He's always shaking his heels with the ladies'—i.e. dancing—'and his elbows with the lords'; Scott in Nigel.

elbow?, who is at your. A late C. 17–18 c.p. caution or warning to a liar. B.E. Cf. watch your step!

elbow-crooker. A hard drinker: coll.; mid-C. 19–20; ob. Cf. pot-walloper.

elbow-grease. Hard manual labour: coll. (—1639). Clarke's Paræmiologia Anglo-Latina; Marvell; B.E., 'A derisory Term for Sweat'; Grose; George Eliot, 'Genuine elbow-polish, as Mrs. Poyser called it.' Cf. the Fr. huile de bras or de poignet (recently de coude), the primary sense being that of vigorous rubbing.

elbow in the hawse, (there's) an. A nautical coll. applied to a ship that, 'with two anchors down swings twice the wrong way, causing the cables to take half a turn round one another', Bowen: mid-C. 19–20.

elbow-jigger or -scraper. A fiddler: coll.: from ca. 1820; ob. Egan's Grose.

elbow-shaker, -shaking. A gamester; gaming, adj. and n.: coll.: the first from early C. 18, the second (—)1718; the third, C. 19–20, ob.

elbows, out at. (Of an estate) mortgaged: coll.; C. 18–early 19.

Elchi. See Eltchi.—elch(er)wer. See helcherwer. elderly jam. An ageing woman: lower classes': ca. 1880–1915. Ware.

eldest, the. The first lieutenant: naval s. verging on coll.: C. 19. Bowen. Contrast the old man, the captain.

electrify. Violently to startle: from ca. 1750; coll. till ca. 1850, when it > S.E. Burke; Barham.

elegant. 'Nice': coll. verging on s.: C. 18–early 19. Cf. fair, adj., 1 (q.v.).—2. Hence, first-rate, excellent: coll.; from ca. 1840; ob. Prob. owing to influence of the U.S., where it was so used as early as 1765 (Thornton). As a jocular Irishism, it is spelt ilgant: mid-C. 19–20. Cf. nice.

Elegant Extracts. The 85th Foot (British Army) on being remodelled in 1812 with officers chosen from other regiments: military; ob. Ex Vicesimus Knox's and others' elegant-extract anthologies so popular ca. 1760–1820.—2. At Cambridge University, those students who, though 'plucked', were given their degrees: from ca. 1850; ob. H., 3rd ed. Cf. gulf.

elephant. A (large) corrugated-iron shelter: military: late 1916. A baby elephant is a small shelter. F. & Gibbons.—2. Hence, a (small) dug-out reinforced with corrugated iron: military: 1917. B. & P. elephant, bang through the; elephant, bang up to the. See bang.

elephant, cop the. To be tipsy: low (— 1923). Manchon. Ex elephant's trunk, q.v.

elephant, see the. To see the world; gain worldly experience: coll.; orig. (ca. 1840), U.S., anglicised ca. 1860. H., 2nd ed.; Laurence Oliphant; ob.—2. (Gen. to have seen the elephant.) To be seduced: from ca. 1875; ob. Cf. Fr. avoir vu le loup.

Elephant and Castle. Hell, as in 'How the Elephant and Castle!': rhyming s. (castle being pronounced caste'll): C. 20.

elephant dance. The double shuffle or 'cellar-flap', q.v.: ca. 1870–1910.

elephant trunk. An occ. variant of elephant's trunk, q.v. The Evening Standard, Aug. 19, 1931.

elephanter. Incorrect for elephanta: mid-C. 19–20. O.E.D. elephants. See elephant's trunk.

elephant's ear. Sweet, 'a liliaceous plant bearing a single . . . leaf, resembling an ear': Queens-town (South Africa) juvenile coll. (— 1913). Pettman.

elephant's trunk. Drunk: rhyming s.; from ca. 1855. H., 1st ed. By 1873, often abbr. to elephant's or elephants. Cf. process in china (plate), q.v.

elevate. To render slightly drunk; gen. in p. ppl. passive used as an adj.: from ca. 1700; in C. 18, S.E.; then coll. Dickens, 'Except when he's elevated, Bob's the quietest creature breathing.'

elevation. Slight tipsiness: coll.; from ca. 1820. Scott.—2. Opium (— 1850); ob.—3. Whence, a 'pick-me-up': coll.: mid-C. 19–20; now mostly dial. O.E.D.

elevator. A crinolette: Society: 1882–ca. 1900. Ware.

eleven-a-side. A tiny moustache affected by subalterns: Army officers': 1915; ob. Collinson. I.e. eleven hairs on each side of the nose: ex cricket.

elevens !, by the. A jocular expletive: coll.:

(? coined by) Goldsmith, 1773; †. O.E.D. Prob. punning heavens!

elevenses. Morning tea: C. 20 coll. ex C. 19–20 dial. Dorothy Sayers, Murder Must Advertise, 1932, 'He goes out for his elevenses.' I.e. at eleven o'clock. Cf. dial. eleveners.

elf. Little: c.: late C. 17–mid-18. Street Robberies Considered. Ex elf, a dwarf.

eliminate. To kill (a person): jocular coll.; from ca. 1915.—2. Catachrestically for isolate, hence for 'deduce': mid-C. 19–20. O.E.D. The same applies to elimination.

Ellenborough Lodge or Park or Spike. The King's Bench: ca. 1810–50. Ex Lord Chief-Justice Ellenborough (d. 1818), fl. 1802–18 in that office.

Ellenborough's teeth. The chevaux de frise around the King's Bench Prison wall: c.; ca. 1810–50. See preceding entry.

Ellersby. The London School Board: London: from ca. 1870; very ob. Cf. Elsie and:

Ellessea. The London Society of Compositors: printers' (— 1909). Ware.

Elliot-eye. 'An eye splice worked over an iron thimble': naval coll.: late C. 19–20. Ex Admiral Elliot, its introducer into the Navy. Bowen.

ellum; hellum. Sol. pronunciations of elm, helm: C. 19–20.

Elocution Walker. John Walker (1732–1807), lexicographer and teacher of elocution. Dawson.

elpa. See helpa.

elrig. A girl: back s. (— 1859). H., 1st ed.

else's, as in somebody else's: coll.; from ca. 1660. Pepys.

Elsewicks. Shares in Armstrong, Mitchell & Co.: Stock Exchange coll. (— 1895). A. J. Wilson, Stock Exchange Glossary. Ex their 'scene of operations'.

Elsie. East London College: London University undergraduates': C. 20; ob. since 1934, when renamed Queen Mary College.

El(t)chi, Eltchee, the Great. Sir Stratford Canning, Lord Stratford de Redcliffe (d. 1880): coll.: from ca. 1860; ob. Ex the name given him by the Turks. Ex Turkish ilchi, ambassador. W.

elude, delude, and illude are often used, sol., one for another: the same applies to their corresponding adj. and nn.: C. 19–20.

elycampane, occ. elecampane. See allacompan. (Moncrieff, 1823.)

em. Them: coll. from ca. 1880; earlier, S.E. though not, since ca. 1840, literary. Baumann.

emag. Game; trick; dodge: back s. (— 1873). Ware dates it 1870.

embroidery. Exaggerations; fancy-work manipulations of or additions to the truth: coll.; from ca. 1885. The corresponding v. is C. 17–20 S.E.

embus. The opp. to debus, q.v.: s. (1915) rapidly > coll. and j. Loosely, embuss.

Emden?, didn't you sink the. An Australian Army c.p. (1915–18) contemptuous of arrogance or too good a 'press'. F. & Gibbons. The Australian cruiser Sydney destroyed the German cruiser Emden in 1914 at Cocos Islands.

emergency crew. A crew that, of men immune from the press gang, worked a ship for the real crew while danger threatened: nautical coll.: mid-C. 18–mid-19. Bowen.

eminent, -ency, and imminent, -ency, have, in C. 17–20, often been confused: hence sol.—The same applies, with some excuse, to emigrant and immigrant.

emit. Time: back s.: late C. 19–20.

Emma !, whoa. See whoa, Emma !
emma gee. A machine-gun(ner): military: 1915. Ex signalese, emma being m. Cf. pip emma, tock emma, qq.v. B. & P. Cf.: emma pip. (Gen. pl.) A military policeman: military: 1915.

emmanuensis. Incorrect for amanuensis: late C. 17–mid-18. O.E.D.

emmies. Shares in the Electrical and Musical company: Stock Exchange; from ca. 1930. The Daily Telegraph, Nov. 18, 1933.

emperor, drunk as an. 'Ten times as drunk as a lord', Grose, 3rd ed.: late C. 18–early 19. Cf. the allusive bloody drunk: see bloody.

Emperor's Chambermaids, the. The 14th Hussars: military: 1813, ex a chamber-pot captured at Vittoria. F. & Gibbons.

Empress pidgin. Discussion with Queen Victoria: naval: 1876–1901. Ware.

empty. Unpossessed of the riches reported: c.: C. 18. A New Canting Dict., 1725.

empty, get the. To be dismissed: Cockneys' (— 1887). I.e. get the empty sack. (Baumann.)

empty bottle. A fellow-commoner: Cambridge (— 1794); † by 1870. Cf. fellow- and gentleman-commoner.

empyric(k). Incorrect for empiric: mid-C. 16–17. Cf. enarrable for innarable: late C. 15–early 16. O.E.D.

emshee. An occ. corruption of imshee, q.v.

Emsib. The Eastern Mediterranean Special Service Intelligence Bureau: military coll.: 1915–18. F. & Gibbons.

en is sol. for -ing, as in shillen: C. 19–20. 'How you getten on?', Time and Tide, Nov. 24, 1934.

enarrable. See empyric(k).

eclipse (C. 17) is perhaps a nonce-error for eclipse. O.E.D. encumbrances. Children: coll.: from ca. 1830.

end. See business end.

end, at a loose. With nothing particular to do: coll.; from ca. 1900. Orig., without occupation or employment.

end, fly off the deep. See fly off the handle.

end, go (in) off the deep. To get very excited or passionate: military (— 1918) > gen. by 1921, when The Times Literary Supplement, Dec. 22, has 'He never, to use the slang of the moment, "went in off the deep end"' (O.E.D. Sup.); now verging on coll. F. & Gibbons. Ex leaping from a diving-board into the water at the deep end of a swimming-bath.—2. See quotation at take a toss.

end, no, adv. Immensely; no end of, a great number or quantity of. The former is s., the latter coll.: the former dates from ca. 1850, the latter from ca. 1620. (O.E.D.)—2. Hence, no end of a fellow, a 'capital' fellow, 'one of the best': coll.: C. 20. Lyell.

end of The Sentimental Journey. The female pudend: low coll.; C. 19–20; ob. Sterne's witty novel ends with a significant '—'.

end-on. Straight; standing on or showing its end: coll., C. 19; S.E., C. 20.—Be end-on: to have a priapism: low coll.: C. 19–20.

end up, get. To rise to one's feet: Australian (— 1916). C. J. Dennis.

end up, keep one's. To rub along; maintain one's status, reputation, etc. From the late 1870's: coll. >, by 1910, S.E. Ex cricket.

endeca is incorrect for hendeca in endecasyllable, etc. O.E.D.

ender. A performer inferior to even an 'early-turner', q.v.: music-halls' coll. (— 1909). Ware.

ends, at loose. Neglected (of persons), (of things) precarious: coll.; from ca. 1860; ob. (Cf. end, at a loose, q.v.) Orig. nautical, of an unattached rope. W.

ends up, all. Easily: coll.: from ca. 1920. (O.E.D. Sup.) With a play on anyhow.

enemy, the. Time; the clock, watch, etc.: coll.; esp. as how goes . . . ? or—ob. in C. 20—what says . . . ? Dickens in Nicholas Nickleby, 1839. Hence kill the enemy, to pass time; ob.

engaged ring. Engagement ring: coll., mostly London (— 1887). Baumann.

engine. A sewing-machine: tailors': C. 20. E.g., The Tailor and Cutter, Nov. 29, 1928.

engineer and stoker. (Gen. pl.) A broker: rhyming s.: C. 20. J. Phillips, A Dict. of Rhyming Slang, 1931.

England's umbrella. Ireland: jocular coll. (— 1923). Marchon. For semantics, see Urinal of the Planets.

English. A key-translation, a crib: Winchester College s. verging on coll.: C. 19–20. Wrench. Ex English, to translate into English.

English burgundy. Porter: mid-C. 18–19. Grose, 1st ed. Cf. British champagne.

English cane. An oaken plant; ? a cudgel: late C. 17–mid-18. B.E.

English manufacture. 'Ale, Beer, or Syder', B.E.: late C. 17–18: coll.

English pluck. Money: proletarian (— 1909); virtually †. Ware.

enif, adj. Fine: back s. (— 1859). H., 1st ed.

enin. Nine: back s. (— 1859). H., 1st ed. Enin gen, nine shillings; enin yanneps, ninepence.

enjoy, followed by the infinitive (e.g. 'enjoy to do something'), is either low coll. or sol. (— 1864). The O.E.D., which points out that to use enjoy with an object denoting something not pleasant (as in enjoy poor health) is catachrestic: C. 19–20.

eno. One: back s. (— 1859). H., 1st ed.

enob. Bone: back s.: late C. 19–20. Ware.

enoptomancy. Incorrect for enoptromancy (divination by the mirror): mid-C. 19–20. O.E.D.

Eno's. He knows: derivative: C. 20. Punning Eno's Fruit Salt. Also 'e knows.

enough for anything after an adj. = either that adj. preceded by very or, gen., to satisfy anyone, in all conscience. Coll.: mid-C. 19–20. E.g. 'G.K.C. is witty enough for anything, don't you think?'

enough to . . . See the key-nn. or -vv.

enquire (for inquire) is a hybrid form, but, though rightly frowned on by purists, it is not yet considered as indubitably catachrestic.

ensign-bearer. A drunken man; a drunkard. Esp. one with a very red face: late C. 18–early 19. Grose, 2nd ed. (It serves as a flag.)

enthuse. To be enthusiastic; speak enthusiastically: (mostly jocular or semi-jocular) coll.: orig. (— 1880), U.S.; anglicised ca. 1900. Cf. the U.S. sense (1859: Thornton), 'to kindle into enthusiasm'.

enthuzimuzzy. Enthusiasm: Society: ca. 1870–1900. Ware.

entrance-fee. Just enough money to order one drink at the canteen: military: from ca. 1910. B. & P.

envelope. To put (a note, a letter) into an envelope: coll.: 1857, De Morgan (O.E.D.). Rare and ob.

ephemeris is occ. used incorrectly for ephemera: C. 19–20. O.E.D.

epip. A pipe: back s.: from ca. 1865.

Epsom races. A pair of braces: rhyming s. (— 1857). ‘Ducange Anglicus.’—2. Also, ca. 1850–1900, faces, now ‘rhymed’ airs and graces.

Epsom salts. Coll., from ca. 1870, for Epsom salt.

equality (or E-) Jack. An officer treating those under him as equals: naval coll.: ca. 1810–70. Marryat, 1836.

equally as for equally or as (e.g. in ‘Stoke-hold is equally as correct as stoke-hole’) is ‘illiterate tautology’: C. 19–20. Fowler.

equipped, equipt. Rich; well-dressed: o.: late C. 17–18. B.E.; Grose, 1st ed.

-er is coll. when, in the game known among school-children as ‘conquerors’, one speaks of e.g. a niner, nine chestnuts ‘conquered’.—2. Illiterate for -ow, as in medder, q.v. Co-extensive with Mod. English.—3. See ‘Oxford -er, the’.—4. Illiterate for a, as in Isabeller, and for of, as in ‘A pint er beer’.—5. Coll. when agential as in pea-souper: mid-C. 19–20.

‘Erb. A wag; also in address to a person of name unknown to the speaker: Cockney and military: C. 20. F. & Gibbons. I.e. Herbert.

erf. (Gen. pl.) An egg: military coll.: late 1914–18. F. & Gibbons. I.e. Fr. œuf. Also oof (B. & P.).

Eries. Sharks in the New York, Lake Erie, and Western Railroad: Stock Exchange coll. (— 1895) >, by 1910, j. (A. J. Wilson’s glossary.)

erif. Fire: back s. (— 1859). H., 1st ed.

eriff. A rogue ‘just initiated, and beginning to practice’, Grose, 1st ed.: C. 18–early 19 c. Recorded first in A New Canting Dict., 1725. Ex the sense, a canary (bird) two years old, for canary (bird) itself = a rogue.

erk. A lower-deck rating: nautical: late C. 19–20. Bowen. Perhaps ex dial. irk, to grow weary, or from ‘officers’ impatient ‘They irk me, these —!’ See also irk. It is, in the aircraft engineering trade, the s. term for an aircraftsman: ? since 1916. The Daily Herald, Aug. 1, 1936. Prob. by telescoping.

errand, send a baby on an. To undertake a probable failure: coll.: mid-C. 19–20; ob.

error, and no. See mistake, and no.

ersatz girl. A temporary sweetheart; a prostitute: prisoners-of-war s.: 1916. Ex Ger. Ersatz, a substitute.

erth. Three: back s. (— 1859). Hence, erth-pu, ‘three up’, a street-game; erth sith noms, three months’ imprisonment; erth gens, three shillings; erth yan(n)eps, three pence. Also earth.

eruscation. An ignorant error for coruscation: C. 17. On the other hand, erythism is merely an incorrect spelling of erethism. O.E.D.

-ery is a frequent suffix in s. and coll., esp. in C. 20 and at schools and universities. Cf. Hunnery, q.v.

esclop. A policeman: back s. (— 1859). H., 1st ed. The c is never pronounced, the e gen. omitted: hence the well-known slop.

Eska, on Egyptian service, is the military nickname of mensurnamed Moffatt: C. 20. Ex Arabic.

esma! Listen: Eastern Expeditionary Force coll.: 1915–18. F. & Gibbons. Direct ex Arabic.

Espysay. The Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals: coll.: from ca. 1880. Ware. Cf. Ellersby.

-esque is an often jocular, occ. coll. ending, as in cigaresque, q.v. The same applies to -ess, as, e.g., in parsoness.

esroch. A horse: back s. (— 1859); H., 1st ed. The c is added for naturalness. Occ. esroph.

-ess. Sec -esque.

esses emma. A sergeant-major: military signalese: 1914. F. & Gibbons.

Essex calf. A native of Essex: coll.: from ca. 1570; ob. G. Harvey, 1573; A. Behn; Apperson. Cf.:

Essex lion. A calf: from late 1620’s (ob.): coll. ‘Water Poet’ Taylor, 1630. Grose. (Apperson.) Essex being noted for its calves. Cf. Cotswold lion, Rumford lion, qq.v., and: establish a funk. ‘To create a panic—invented by a great bowler, at cricket, who enlivened this distinction with some cannon-ball bowling’: Oxford University (— 1909); † by 1920. Ware. Cf. bowling for timber.

Essex stile. A ditch: coll.: C. 17–19. Camden, 1605; Grose, 1st ed. Ex the predominance of ditches over stiles in Essex. (Apperson.)

estacade. Incorrect for estocade: C. 18. O.E.D.

esuch. A house: back s. (— 1873); c for o. Cf. esroch, q.v.

esurient is catachrestic when, as from ca. 1820, used as = gastronomic. O.E.D.

-et for -ut. See shet.—2. For -at, as in ketch for catch: sol.: C. 19–20. See also e, 4.

et cetera; etc. Catachrestically insulting when applied to persons: mid-C. 19–20. (Publishers sometimes put etc. at the end of an incomplete list of authors.)—2. For its slovenly use, see the astringent, invaluable Fowler.—3. A bookseller: c.: early C. 18. Street Robberies Considered. (Prob. ex booksellers’ habit of short-titling books in their catalogues.)

eternal. Infernal; damned: in C. 19–20, (dial. and) low coll.; C. 17–18, S.E. Cf. U.S. tarnal.

eternity-box. A coffin: late C. 18–20; ob. Grose, 2nd ed.

[Eton slang. A. Clutton-Brock, Eton, 1900, writes thus: ‘There are not many slang terms in common use at Eton. . . . At Winchester to “furk” (Latin furca, a fork)¹ means to expel. At Eton [it] is used only in connection with the wall game, and means to extract the ball out of the “bully” by a particular process. The player who performs this process is called the furker. Many . . . words peculiar to Eton are based on the “Lucus a non lucendo” principle; . . . call over is termed “absence” because every one has to be present. . . .

2. The most common slang term at Eton . . . is “scug”; this is primarily a term of abuse. It does not mean “cad”, like “lout” at Rugby, or “chaw” at Harrow. . . . It has various elusive meanings, ranging from a person of no account to one of dirty appearance, unpleasant habits, and undignified behaviour. . . . “Grub” at Eton is called “sock” [q.v.], and confectioners’ shops are “sock shops”. To work hard is to “sap” (Lat. sapio, to be wise?), and a “sap” is too often a term of abuse. To kick behind is to “fit”, and to kick on the shins is to “slick”. “Cheek” is [at Eton] “nerve”. When a boy is eaned by his fag-master or any other boy in authority he is “worked off”.

¹ Both R. Townsend Warner and R. G. K. Wrench, however, derive—and correctly derive—the Winchester sense from an Old English word.

[For "pop", see that term; an excellent account of that institution occurs in this book by Clutton-Brock.]

3. The origin of . . . "wet-bobs" and "dry-bobs" is . . . unknown. That of the word "tug" is disputed. A tug is the oppidan word for a collegier, and is said to be derived from the Latin "gens togata", the "gowned race". A more probable explanation is that the word originally meant a certain waste part of the mutton on which the collegier was supposed to live. [Cf. Charles Lamb's "gag" and "gag-eater", which once had the same meaning at Christ's Hospital.] Abbreviations are usually unfashionable at Eton [whereas at Charterhouse they are very general], and are considered the mark of a boy fresh from a private school. Thus, no one may say "ma" or "mi" for major or minor. An elder brother speaks of his younger brother as his "minor", and a younger of his elder as his "major". Cf. 'Harrow slang'.]

-ette, often jocular, is occ. coll., as in munitionette. Very rare before 1850.

euphemism and euphuism are sometimes used one for the other: mid-C. 19-20: catachrestic.—2. For euphemism itself, see Slang and the essay in Words!

Euro. The Europa battle-ship: naval (— 1909); †. Ware.

Europe on the chest. Home-sickness: military: ca. 1880-1915. Ware.

Evans, Mrs. 'A name frequently given to a she cat, owing, it is said, to a witch of the name of Evans, who frequently assumed the appearance of a cat', Grose, 1st ed.: coll.: mid-C. 18-mid-19.

evaporate. To run away: coll.: from ca. 1850. Dickens, 'The young man, looking round, instantly evaporated.' Ex S.E. sense, to disappear.

evatch. To have: back s. (— 1874). H., 5th ed. Instead of 'un-English' evah.

*eve. A hen-roost: C. 18-early 19 c. Extant, though ob., in dial. Prob. ex S.E. eaves.

evening wheezes. False news: lower classes' (— 1909); ob. Ex the lying rumours once more freely spread than nowadays. Ware.

evens, in. In even time (esp. of the 100 yards run in 10 seconds): late C. 19-20: athletics coll. >, by 1910, j.—2. do evens, to go at 20 miles per hour: cyclists' coll.: C. 20.

event, quite an. Something important, significant, or unusual: C. 20 coll.

ever in the best, greatest, worst ever. The best, etc., that has ever been: coll.: anglicised ca. 1930 ex U.S.

ever?, did you. (Self-contained.) Have you ever seen, or heard, such a thing?: coll.: mid-C. 19-20. O.E.D. (Sup.).

ever, seldom or. Seldom if (indeed) ever; seldom or never: sol.: C. 18-20.

ever a(n), e'er a(n). Any: in C. 19-20 (ob.), low coll.; earlier, S.E.

ever is (or was), as. A coll. tag, orig. intensive, as in 'Bad riding as ever was', 1708. Now approximately = 'mark you' (parenthetic) and, mostly, rather illiterate. O.E.D. (Sup.).

ever so. Ever so much, as in thanks ever so!: mostly proletarian: from ca. 1895. Edwin Pugh, Tony Drum, 1898, "'But I like you ever so," she faltered.'

ever since Adam was an oakum boy. Very old: naval coll.: C. 20. F. & Gibbons.

Ever Sworded, the. The 29th Foot, since 1881 the Worcestershire, Regiment: military: mid-C. 18-20; ob. F. & Gibbons. Ex a custom resulting from a massacre in 1746.

ever the, adv. At all; any: e.g. 'Ever the richer', preceded by negative, = no richer. Coll.; from ca. 1620. O.E.D.

Evergreens, the. The 13th Hussars: military. C. 19-20. Ex their motto viret in æternum. (F. & Gibbons.)

everlasting knock, take the. To die: sporting: 1889, The Referee, March 10.

everlasting shoes. The feet: coll.: from ca. 1870. H., 5th ed.

*everlasting staircase. The treadmill: from ca. 1835; ob. Ca. 1850-90, occ. Colonel Chesterton's everlasting staircase, ex its improver. Brandon; H., 1st ed.

Everton toffee. Coffee: rhyming s. (— 1857). 'Ducange Anglieus.'

every day and in every way, to which is often added I shall get better and better. A c.p. of ca. 1923-6. Ex Couéism.

every man Jack; every mother's son. Absolutely everyone: coll.; the former, from ca. 1840, e.g. in Dickens; the latter, C. 14-20, e.g. in Shakespeare, Scott. (Apperson.)

every time. On every occasion; without exception: coll., U.S. (1864) anglicised by 1880. O.E.D. (Sup.).—2. Hence, every time!, certainly!; I should just think so!: coll.: C. 20.

every which way. In every manner or direction: jocular coll., orig. (1840) U.S.; anglicised ca. 1910. Perhaps ex confusion caused by every way (in) which.

everybody or everyone followed by they (them, their). See their.

everything, in the predicate, = (something) very important, is coll.; from ca. 1870. E.g. 'Bring the money; that's everything!'

everything in the garden's lovely! All goes well!: a C. 20 c.p., now ob. Ex:

everything is lovely. See goose hangs high.

everything is nice in your garden! 'A gentle protest against self-laudation': 1896-ca. 1910. Ware supports with an anecdotal origin.

Eve's custom-house. The female pudend: late C. 18-19. Grose, 2nd ed., '... Where Adam made his first entry.' Contrast custom-house officer.

*evesdropper. A thief lurking about doors and watching his opportunity: c. (— 1725); † by 1800. A New Canting Dict.—2. A robber of hen-roosts: mid-C. 18-early 19 c. Grose, 1st ed. Ex eaves.

evethee. See hevethee.

evidence, v., as a mere synonym of show, is catachrestic: mid-C. 19-20. Fowler.

evif. Five: back s. (— 1859). H., 1st ed. Also ewif.

*evil. In late C. 18-early 19 c., a halter. Grose, 2nd ed.—2. In C. 19 s., matrimony; a wife. Lex. Bal.

evlenet. Twelve: back s. (— 1859). H., 1st ed. Naturally evlenet, looking un-English, was changed.

evolute. Incorrect for involute: C. 19-20. O.E.D.

*ewe, or white ewe, gen. preceded by the. An important, because very beautiful, woman in a band of rogues, a criminal gang: c.: late C. 17-18. B.E.; Grose, 1st ed.

ewe dressed lamb fashion, an old. An old woman dressed like a young girl: late C. 18-19: coll. Grose, 1st ed. In C. 19-20 the usual form is mutton dressed up to look like lamb; orig. and mainly Cockney.

ewe lamb. A uhlan: military: in G.W. ewe-mutton. An elderly harlot or amateur prostitute: C. 19-20; ob.

ewif. A variant of evif, five; ewif being more euphonious.

ex. Exhibition; gen. the Ex, some specific exhibition, such as the Earl's Court Exhibition in 1899: late C. 19-20. (Ernest Raymond, A Family That Was, 1929.)

Ex, His. His Excellency (the Governor-General): Australian: C. 20.

exactly! Certainly! excellent! Coll.: from ca. 1865. W. S. Gilbert, in Bab Ballads, 1869, "I'm boiled if I die, my friends", quoth I, | And "exactly so", quoth he' (O.E.D.).

exagonal. Incorrect for hexagonal: C. 17. O.E.D.

exalt. To exult: catachrestic: C. 19-20.

exalted. (Other forms, very rare.) Ppl. passive, hanged: coll.: C. 19. Michael Scott, 1836.

exam. Examination: school s. >, in C. 20, gen. coll.; from ca. the middle 1870's. James Payn, 'I read all about it for my exam.', 1883.

examina. See 'Winchester College slang', § 3. exasperate or hexasperate. To over-aspirate one's h's: from ca. 1850; ob. 'Cuthbert Bede', 1853.

exceedings. 'Expenditure beyond income': Oxford University coll. (- 1909); ob. Warc.

Excellent's ulster. An oilskin: the (naval) Gunnery Schools', hence gen. naval: ca. 1840-90. Bowen.

Excellers, the. The 40th Foot, from 1881 the South Lancashires: C. 19-20 (ob.) military. Ex XL'ers.—2. Occ., the 12th Battalion, the London Regiment, formerly the 40th (XL) Middlesex Rifle Volunteers. F. & Gibbons.

except as a conjunction: see Fowler. To be avoided, except in archaic writing.

exceptionable and exceptional arc, C. 19-20, frequently confused, as were, in late C. 14-17, exception and acceptation. O.E.D. See also Fowler.

excite!, don't. Keep cool!: coll. (- 1934). C.O.D. (1934 Sup.). I.e. don't excite yourself.

exciting, adj. Excellent; amusing, pleasant; unexpected: coll.; from ca. 1880.

excruators. Very tight boots, esp. with pointed toes: coll.: from ca. 1865; ob.

excursioner, -ist. An excursion-agent: coll.; from ca. 1890.

excuse! Pardon me!; do not be offended: South African coll. (- 1906). Watkins, From Farm to Forum, at that date. Ex Dutch influence. (Pettman.) execute. To cane: Public Schools' jocular coll.: late C. 19-20. Ian Hay, 'Pip', 1907.

execution day. Washing day; Monday: late C. 17-20 (ob.): low coll. B.E. Ex hanging clothes on the line.

exes. Expenses: coll. (- 1864). H., 3rd ed.—2. Those who were once something else: coll.; from ca. 1820. Tom Moore, 'We x's have proved ourselves not to be wise.'—3. See tommy and exes.

exes (or exis) to fere. Odds of 6 to 4: racing c.: C. 20. For exes, see exis; fere is four corrupted.

exhibition of oneself, make an. To show oneself in an unfavourable light: coll.; from ca. 1880.

exis. Six; esp. in exis-ewif gen, 6 × 5 shillings, 30s., and exis-ewif yanneps, 6 + 5 pence, 11d. Back s. (- 1859). H., 1st ed.—2. See exes to fere.

Exmas. Christmas: (low) coll.: late C. 19-20. (M. Harrison, Spring in Tartarus, 1935). Ex Xmas.

expect = to suppose or surmise and followed by a that, i.e. an immediately dependent noun-, clause has, since ca. 1870, been coll. when not dial.; in C. 16-early 19, S.E. expectible. Incorrect for expectable: C. 17-20. The O.E.D., which notes also the rare form of expecting for expected.

expecting, adj. With child: lower classes' coll.; from ca. 1870. Baumann.

expended. Killed: nautical: mid-C. 18-early 19. Grose, 1st ed. Ex bookkeeping accounts.

expensive. Wealthy, sumptuous; exceedingly or distinctively stylish: from ca. 1920: s. >, by 1930, coll. Cf. extensive, q.v.

experience does it. A mid-C. 19-20 coll. rendering of experientia docet, (lit.) experiment teaches. Originated by Mrs. Micawber in David Copperfield.

explosion. The birth of a child: low: from ca. 1865; ob.

extensive. Showy; given to, or actually, displaying wealth, fine clothes, conversational ability or effectiveness: (-)1859; ob. H., 1st ed. (Introduction).

extinguish. To reduce (an opponent) to silence: from ca. 1890, coll.; earlier (1878), S.E. extinguisher. A dog's muzzle (- 1890). The Standard, May 12, 1890.

extra. Dull, boring: from ca. 1929; ob. A. A. Milne, Two People, 1931.

extracted. Included in the list of elegant extracts, q.v. H., 3rd ed. Ob.

Extradition Court. The Second Justice-room at Bow Street: London legal and political: 1883, The Daily News, April 10. Ex the numerous extradition cases there tried.

extrumps or ex(-)trumps. Extempore; without preparation (of a lesson): Winchester College, from ca. 1860.

exudation. Percolation: catachrestic: late C. 18-20. O.E.D.

[-ey for -y or -ie is unnecessary, and often incorrect, in diminutives. See esp. Fowler.]

eye. A place where tradesmen (orig. and esp. tailors) hide stolen material: 'Called hell, or their eye: from the first, when taxed with their knavery, they equivocally swear, that if they have taken any, they wish they may find it in hell; or alluding to the second protest, that what they have over and above is not more than they could put in their eye,' Grose, 1st ed. (at cabbage): trade: mid-C. 18-mid-19.—2. Incorrect for nye: C. 15-mid-18. O.E.D.

eye, all in the. All nonsense, humbug: ca. 1820-80. Cf. Betty Martin, q.v.

eye, be a sheet in the wind's. To be slightly drunk: nautical: 1883, Stevenson (O.E.D.). Gen. abbr. to be a sheet in the wind.

eye, glad. See glad eye.

eye, have a drop in the. See drop in one's eye.

eye, in the twinkling of an. See bedpost.

eye, lick the (or one's). To be happy, joyous: lower classes' (- 1923). Manchon.

eye!, mind your. Be careful! From ca. 1850, low coll.; earlier, S.E.

eye!, my or all my. See Betty Martin and cf. eyes!, my.

eye, pipe the; or put (the) finger in (the). To weep: derisive coll.; the former, C. 19-20; the latter, C. 16-early 19 (Grose, 3rd ed.).

eye, to have fallen down and trod(den) upon one's. To have a black eye: mid-C. 18–early 19. Grose, 2nd ed. (at eight eyes).

eye, wet an or the. To drink: from ca. 1830; ob. eye-brows. See eye-lashes.

eye-glass weather. See hey-glass weather.

eye-glassy. Characteristic of the wearers of monocles: coll.: 1871, Meredith.—2. Hence, haughty, supercilious, haughtily contemptuous: coll.: 1907. O.E.D. (Sup.).

eye-hole. See garter-hole.

eye in a sling, have an; with one's. (To be) crushed or defeated: proletarian coll. (—1909). Ware.

eye-lashes or -brows, hang (on) by the. To be extremely persevering, tenacious, esp. in a difficulty: coll.; from ca. 1850. The gen. ca. 1770–1850 form is hang by the eye-lids, applied to a dangerous position.

eye-limpet. An artificial eye: ca. 1875–1900.

eye of another shooter, wipe the. "To kill game that he has missed" (S.O.D.): sporting: from ca. 1885.

eye-opener. The membrum virile: C. 19–20 low; ob.

eye out of register. An inaccurate eye: printers' (—1887). Baumann. Ex printers' j. out of register.

eye peeled or skinned, keep one's (best). To be wary: coll.: U.S. (1852; Thornton), anglicised in late C. 19. Cf. fly, wido, up to snuff.

eye(-)sight, nearly lose one's. To obtain an unexpectedly and very intimate view of a member of the opposite sex: coll.; from ca. 1860.

eye-teeth, draw (a person's). To make him less sure of himself: C. 20. Manchon. Cf.:

eye-teeth, have (cut) one's. To be experienced, prudent: coll.: C. 18–20. Apperson.

eye-wash. Something done, not for utility but for effect: coll. (—1884); prob. orig. military. C. T. Buckland, in Sketches of Social Life in India, 1884, 'Most officers of any tact understand the meaning of eye-wash' (O.E.D.). See esp. B. & P. Cf. daily eye-wash, q.v.

eye-water. Gin (—1823); ob. C. >, by 1850, low. Egan's Grose; H., 1st ed.; Whyte-Melville; Judy (an 1880's rival of Punch), Aug. 4, 1886, 'He imbibed stupendous quantities of jiggered gin, dog's nose, and Paddy's eye-water.'

eyeful, take an. 'To have a good look' (v.t., at): coll.: C. 20. F. & Gibbons.

eyes, googoo. See googoo eyes.

eyes!, my. An exclamation indicative of surprise: ca. 1835–1910. Dickens, in Oliver Twist, 'My eyes, how green! . . . Why a beak's a mad'g'strate.'

Eyes, the Old. The Grenadier Guards: military: C. 19–20; ob. F. & Gibbons.

Eyes and Limbs, the. 'The foot guards were formerly so called, by the marching regiments, from a favourite execration in use among them, which was, damning their eyes, limbs, and blue breeches,' Grose, 1st ed.: app. ca. 1720–60.

eyes are set, one's. One is drunk: coll.: C. 17. Shakespeare. O.E.D. (See also eyes set.) eyes draw straws, one's. See both draw straws and straws, draw.

eyes out, cry one's. To weep long and bitterly: coll.; from ca. 1705. Swift, 'I can't help it, if I would cry my Eyes out.'

eyes peeled or skinned, keep one's. See eye peeled.

eyes set (in one's or the head), have or be with one's or the. To be drunk: C. 17–18 coll. Shakespeare, 'O he's drunke . . . his eyes were set at eight i'th morning.'

Eyeties. Italians: military: G.W. (F. & Gibbons.) Ex the sol. pronunciation Ey(e)italian.

F

f for th is a mark of Cockney, as in fanks for thanks, fing for thing; cf. v for th, as in farver.—2. But f or ff for v is a characteristic of Welsh English. See esp. Fluellen in Henry V.—3. See f in Addenda.

F.A. or sweet f.a. See Fanny Adams, 2.

F.C.'s. False calves: theatrical coll. (—1909). Ware, 'Paddings used by actors in heroic parts to improve the shape of the legs'.

f.h.o.!; f.h.b. Family hands off! (sometimes explained as family hold off!); or, family hold back!: middle-class domestic coll. c.p. indicating that a certain dish is not to be eaten by members of the family at a meal where guests are present: mid-C. 19–20.

f sharp. A flea: from ca. 1860; ob. H., 3rd ed.; Lyell, "F" being the initial letter, and "sharp" because of the bite'. Cf. b flat, q.v.

face. A grimace: coll.: from ca. 1600 (S.O.D.). Shakespeare.—2. Great confidence, insolent boldness; impudence: from ca. 1530: coll. till C. 18, then S.E. Face is a principal character in Jonson's The Alchemist.—3. Credit, esp. in push one's face, to obtain credit by bluff or bluster: coll.: from ca. 1760. Goldsmith. Cf. U.S. run—or travel on—one's face, to go upon credit.—4. A contemptuous term of address: orig. and mainly Cockney: from ca. 1875. Cf. face-ache and features.

face, square. See square face.

face-ache. A C. 20 jocular term of address. Cf. face, n., 4. Prob. because the sight of the person addressed makes one's face ache with laughing. Cf. S.E. face-ache, neuralgia.

face but one's own, have no. To be penniless: prob. ex the gamblers' sense, to hold no court cards: late C. 18–early 19. Grose, 1st ed.

face-entry. Freedom of access to a theatre: theatrical (—1874); ob. H., 5th ed. Cf. face, 3, q.v.

face-fungus. Moustaches; esp. beard; or both: jocular: C. 20. (D. Sayers, The Nine Tailors, 1934.) face like a sea-boot. An expressionless face: nautical coll.: late C. 19–20. Bowen.

face-making. Sexual intercourse: mid-C. 18–early 19. Grose, 1st ed. Cf. making feet for children's stockings.

face the knocker. To go begging: tailors': from ca. 1875.

face the music. To cope bravely with an unpleasant emergency: orig. (1850) U.S., anglicised ca. 1880. Coll.; post-War, S.E. Perhaps ex acting on the stage.

face-ticket, have a. To be so well known to the janitors that one is not asked to present one's ticket: British Museum Reading Room coll. (— 1909). Ware.

facer. A glass full to the brim: late C. 17—early 19: c. >, by 1800, low coll. B.E., 'A Bumper without Lip-room'.—2. A blow in the face: pugilistic coll.: from ca. 1810; ob. Lex. Bal.—3. Hence, a sudden check or obstacle: coll.; from ca. 1825. Thackeray, 'In . . . life every man must meet with a blow or two, and every brave one would take his facer with good humour.'—4. Hence, a problem: coll.: mid-C. 19—20.—5. A dram: Anglo-Irish: mid-C. 19—20. H., 3rd ed.—6. A glass of whiskey punch: from ca. 1870; ob. H., 5th ed.

faces, make. To beget children: C. 18—early 19.—2. (make faces at.) To deceive, disappoint, or verbally attack a friend: c.; ca. 1870—1920.

facey. A workman facing another as he works: tailors'. Hence, facey on the bias, one not directly in front, and facey on the two thick, a workman just behind one's vis-à-vis. From ca. 1870.

facias. See fieri facias.

facings, go or be put through one's. To be reprimanded or to show off: military s. > gen. coll.: from ca. 1865. In C. 20, S.E. facings, silk. Beer-stains on the garments being made or altered: tailors': from ca. 1870. Ex watered silk. Cf. canteen-medal.

fact. Factor: catachrestic: very rare before the crime-novel craze (from ca. 1922). E.g., A. Fielding, Death of John Tait, 1932, 'Altogether she was a strange fact in the case.'

Factory, the. Old Scotland Yard: c. of ca. 1860—90. 'No. 747.'

facty. Full of facts: coll. but never very gen.: from ca. 1880. 'A "facty" [newspaper] article', The Pall Mall Gazette, Nov. 2, 1883. O.E.D.

facty. Impudent, insolvent: C. 17—20; coll. till C. 19, then dial. Ex face, n., 2.

fa'd., fa-d., fa-dee, far-dce. A farthing: Charter-house: from ca. 1870. Cf. ha'd.

fad-cattle. Easily accessible women: C. 19. Cf. cattle; faddle, to toy.

faddist, fadmonger. One devoted to a public or private fad: coll.; from ca. 1880. Vbl.n., fad-mongering.

faddle. To toy or trifle: coll. in C. 19; † by 1890, except in dial. Hence, n., a busybody; also an affected and very effeminate male. The v. arose ca. 1680 (orig., to caress a child); the n. ca. 1800, though the sense, triflery, foolery, 'bosh', hardly before 1850.

faddy. Full of fads: coll.: from ca. 1820. Mrs. Sherwood, 1824. Ex dial. (O.E.D.)

fade away! Go away: smart s. (— 1913); ob. by 1920, † by 1930. A. H. Dawson's Dict. of Slang.

fadge. A farthing: late C. 18—19 c. Grose, 3rd ed.; Duncombe, Sinks of London, 1848.

fadge, v. To suit; fit: late C. 16—19. Succeed: from ca. 1600. Both coll. The former in Nashe, Shakespeare, B.E., Horace Walpole; the latter in Cotgrave, Borrow, Nares: 'Probably never better than a low word; it is now confined to the streets.' Esp. in it won't fadge, it won't do or serve.—2. fadge with, to tolerate (a thing), agree or rub along with a person, is C. 17—early 18 and rather S.E. than coll.

fadger. A glazier's frame; a 'frail': glaziers'; from ca. 1860. H., 3rd ed. In C. 20, j. Ex fadge, v., 1.

fadoodle. A mere nothing, a useless trifle: lower classes' (— 1923). Manchon. Perhaps ex fuddle on flapdoodle.

fag. Cf. fag, stand a good: possibly this phrase + fag, hard work, drudgery, weariness (1780: O.E.D.), being a schoolboys' perversion of fatigue (W.), led to:—2. A boy doing menial work for one in a higher form: schoolboys' s. (— 1785) >, by 1850, gen. coll. Grose, 1st ed.; Thackeray (of a young drudge in a painters' studio). Prob. ex fag, v., 1, but, despite the dates, perhaps ex fag, v., 2.—3. Eatables: Christ's Hospital, from ca. 1800. Leigh Hunt, in his Autobiography, 'The learned derived the word from the Greek phago.'—4. See fag, stand a good.—5. A cigarette; orig., an inferior cigarette (only from ca. 1915, any cigarette): from ca. 1887. Abbr. fag-end and ? orig. military. 'Cuthbert Bede', in 1853, speaks of 'the fag-ends of cigars' (S.O.D.).

fag, v. In c., to beat, thrash: late C. 17—19; after ca. 1830, low coll. B.E., Grose.—2. (? hence.) V.t., to have (a boy) as one's fag: schoolboys': from ca. 1785; ob. Grose, 2nd ed.—3. V.i. (Ex n., 2.) To do menial jobs for a schoolfellow higher up in the school: from ca. 1805: schoolboys' s. >, by 1860, gen. coll. In C. 20, both the n. and its derivative are, in this sense, gen. regarded as, therefore are, S.E.

fag, stand a good. Not to become easily tired: late C. 18—19: coll. Grose, 3rd ed. Hence, fag, anything that causes weariness; toil: coll. (— 1780). Hence, from ca. 1880, a wearisome thing; a bore.

fag-end man. A collector—for a living—of cigarette-ends: lower classes' (— 1923). Manchon.

fag out. To serve as a fag; esp. in cricket, to field: from ca. 1840: coll., schoolboys', orig and esp. at Winchester College. Lewis.

fagged out. Exhausted: coll. (— 1785). Grose. Perhaps ex dial. fag, to exhaust oneself in toil, and fagged out, frayed.

fagger, figger or figure. A boy thief that, entering by a window, opens the door to his confederates or even hands the booty out to them: c. (— 1785); ob. Grose, 1st ed.; whereas figger (Grose, 1st ed.) arose in late C. 18, figure, its derivative, is of C. 19—20.

faggery, fagging. Serving as a fag, q.v., in a school: schoolboys'; from ca. 1850, 1820, resp. De Quincey in his autobiographical sketches, 1853, 'Faggery was an abuse too venerable and sacred to be touched by profane hands.'

fagging. A beating, thrashing, thumping: low: not recorded before 1775, but prob. used as early as 1700. Ex c. fag, to beat.—2. See faggery.

fag(g)ot. A 'baggage'; a pejorative applied to a woman (— 1600), also—gen. preceded by little—to a child (— 1859): low coll., the former in C. 20 being dial.—2. A rissole: low coll.; from ca. 1850. Mayhew. Also, butcher's oddments or 'stickings' (? hence the name): low coll. (— 1859). H., 1st ed.—3. A man mustered as a soldier but not yet formally enlisted: late C. 17—19. B.E. Hence, a man hired to appear at a muster or on a muster-roll: C. 18—19. Grose, 1st ed. Both nuances are military; the latter, also naval.

fag(g)ot, v. In C. 17—19, to bind, truss, i.e. as sticks in a faggot. Prob. coll.; never, despite

B.E., was it j.—2. C., however, is the sense, to garotte: late C. 19–20. Manchon.—3. In low s., v.t. and i., to copulate (with); to frequent harlots: C. 19. Ex faggot, n., 1.

fag(g)ot-briefs. A bundle or bundles of dummy briefs carried by the briefless: legal (— 1859). Sala, 'Pretend to pore over faggot briefs'. Ob.

fag(g)ot-master. A whoremonger: low; from ca. 1825; ob. Cf. faggot, v., 3.

fag(g)ot-vote. 'A vote secured by the purchase of property under mortgage, or otherwise, so as to constitute a nominal qualification', F. & H.: political coll. (1817, C.O.D.), ob. by 1920; S.E. by 1840. Gladstone, Nov. 25, 1879. Perhaps ex faggot, n., 3. Hence fag(g)ot-voter.

fag(g)oteer. Same sense, period, and status as faggot-master, q.v.

fag(g)otty. Incorrect for faggoty: mid-C. 19–20. O.E.D.

fail. To report a candidate as having failed in an examination: from ca. 1880; coll. till ca. 1920, then S.E.

fain I !; fains !; fain it !; fainits ! A call for a truce; a statement of opposition: schoolboys': from ca. 1810. See also faynights! Prob. a corruption of fen I, ex fend; or possibly ex claim(s) I ! or feign. Cf. bags(I), its opposite. The earliest forms are fen I, q.v., and fin or fingy, qq.v.

faints, the. A tendency to faint: coll.: from ca. 1890.

fair; always the fair. 'A set of subterranean rooms in the Fleet Prison', Lex. Bal.: c.: ca. 1810–50.

fair, adj. 'Nice': coll. verging on s.: C. 17. In C. 18, the word was elegant. See Slang, p. 28.—2. Undoubted, complete, thorough: dial. (— 1872) >, by ca. 1885, s. (O.E.D. Sup.). See fair cop and (at cow) fair cow.

fair, adv. 1. Fairly: coll.: C. 19–20.—2. Completely: dia. (1859: E.D.D.) >, in the 1880's, coll.

fair, see. To ensure fair play by watching: coll.: Dickens, 1837. Ob. (O.E.D.) fair cop, it's a. It's a clear arrest: c.: late C. 19–20. Ware.

fair cow, a. See cow, 4.

fair dinkum. See dinkum.

fair doo's or doos or does or do's. A fair deal; justice; just proportion: military (ca. 1912) >, by 1920, gen. B. & P. Ex Yorkshire dial (1865: E.D.D.).

fair-gang, the. Gypsies: coll.; from ca. 1830; ob. by 1900, † by 1919. From their frequenting fairs in gangs or communities. Prob. a corruption of faw-gang, itself ex Faa, a Scottish-Gypsy surname (O.E.D.).

fair herd. A good attendance of strangers: Oxford University: 1883, The Daily News, June 13; ob. (Ware.) fair itch. Utter imitation: low (— 1909); ob. Ware.

fair rations. Fair dealings; honesty: sporting: from ca. 1875.

fair roebuck. 'A Woman in the Bloom of her Beauty', A New Canting Dict., 1725: c.: C. 18. Ex fair roebuck, a roebuck in its fifth year.

fair speech I, you have made a. A late C. 17–18 c.p. 'in derision of one that spends many words to little purpose', B.E.

fair thing. A wise proceeding, a clear duty, justice; enough, esp. in a fair thing's a fair thing. Coll.: C. 20. C. J. Dennis, 1916.

fair trade, -trader. Smuggling; a smuggler: nautical (— 1887). Baumann; Bowen.

fair-weather friend. One who writes only once a year and that in summer-time: Anglo-Irish: C. 20.

fair wind, give (something) a. To pass (e.g. the salt): nautical: late C. 19–20. Bowen.

fairing. Cakes (or sweets) bought at a fair; esp. gingerbread nuts: coll. when not dial.: from mid-C. 18. (O.E.D.) fairish. Fairly large: coll. (— 1865).—2. As adv., in a pleasant manner; to a fair degree: coll., 1836. (S.O.D.). Both perhaps orig. dial.

fairy. 'A debauched, hideous old woman, especially when drunk': proletarian (— 1909); ob. Ware.—2. A catamite: U.S., anglicised ca. 1924. Irwin; M. Lincoln, 1933; O.E.D. (Sup.).—3. A fair-headed girl: New Zealanders' nickname: C. 20.

fairy light. A Very light: military: 1916. By jocular perversion. F. & Gibbons.

fairy story or tale. A 'hard luck' tale: low s. verging on tramps' c.: C. 20.

fairybabe. Incorrect for fear-babe, a bugaboo: C. 17. O.E.D.

[faith is, in C. 14–19, often used exclamatorily and expectively, by itself or in combination.]

faithful, one of the. A drunkard: C. 17 coll. The Man in the Moon, 1609.—2. A tailor giving long credit: late C. 18–19, either c. or low or c. > low. Grose, 1st ed. Hence, his faith has made him unwhole, too much credit has bankrupted him: Grose, 1st ed.

Faithful Durhams. The 68th Foot Regiment, from 1881 the Durham Light Infantry: military: traditionally from 1772; ob. F. & Gibbons.

faithfully. With obligating assurances: from late C. 16; coll. 'He promised faithfully to send the book the next day,' O.E.D.

faitor. See fater.

fake. An action, esp. if illegal; a dodge; a sham (person or thing): from ca. 1825: low. James Greenwood, 1883, 'Naming the house in [this] ridiculous way was merely a fake to draw attention to it.' For etymology, see the v., though it may abridge fakement.—2. Anything used in illicit deception or manufacture: 1866 (O.E.D.). Hence:—3. A mixture for making a horse safe (cf. dope): ca. 1870–90. H., 5th ed. Cf. dope, n.—4. (Ex senses 1, 2.) A gadget; a 'thingummy': Cockneys': from ca. 1890. Clarence Rook, The Hooligan Nights, 1899.

fake, v. To do anything, esp. if illegally or with merely apparent skill or ability; to cheat, deceive, devise falsely; tamper with; forge; 'dope' (a horse); to steal. In c. and then, by ca. 1880, in low s., a verb of multiple usage: gen. only from ca. 1830 (cf. however, fake away), though doubtless used in c. as early as 1810, Vaux recording it in 1812. Vbl.n., faking. Perhaps ex L. facere, to do, influenced by faire as understood in Fr. c., but more prob. ex Ger. fegen, (lit.) to sweep, itself in extensive s. use (W.): cf. feague (q.v.), which is either cognate or the orig. form.—2. To hit: Parlyaree: C. 20. Edward Seago, Circus Company, 1933.—3. V.i. To hurt, as in 'It fakes like hell!': low s. or c. (— 1923). Manchon. Prob. ex:—4. V.t., to hurt: c. (— 1812). Vaux. Ex sense 1, possibly influenced by ache. Cf. fake oneself, q.v.—5. See fake up.

fake a cly. To pick a pocket (see cly): c.; from ca. 1810; ob. Vaux.

fake a curtain. 'To agitate the act-drop after it has fallen, and so perhaps thereby induce a torpid audience to applaud a little, and justify the waiting actor to "take a curtain"', Ware: theatrical: 1884.

fake a dance, step, trip. To improvise a step when, in dancing, one has forgotten the correct one: theatrical: from ca. 1860. Cf.:

fake a line. To improvise a speech: theatrical: from ca. 1860.

fake a picture. 'To obtain an effect by some adroit, unorthodox means': artistic coll.: from ca. 1860. Ware.

fake a poke. To pick a pocket: c.: late C. 19-20. The People, Sept. 6, 1896. (Ware.)

fake a screeve. To write a (begging) letter: c.; from ca. 1810. Vaux.

fake a screw. To make a false or a skeleton key: C. 19-20. Ibid.

fake a step or trip. See fake a dance.

fake away! Go it! Splendid—don't stop! C., perhaps only 'literary': ca. 1810-1900. Vaux. See fake, v.

fake one's pin. See fake oneself.

fake one's slangs. To file through fetters: c.; from ca. 1810; ob. See slangs. Vaux.

fake oneself. To disfigure or wound oneself: C. 19 c. Cf. S.I.W. Cf. fake one's pin, to 'create' a sore or wounded leg: likewise c. Ibid.

fake out and out. To kill (a person): c.: C. 19. Vaux, 1812.

fake-pie. A pie containing 'left-overs': straitened Society: 1880; ob. Ware.

fake the broads. To 'stack' the cards; to work a three-card trick: c.; from ca. 1840.

fake the duck. To adulterate drink; to swindle, cheat: c.; from ca. 1830; †.

fake the rubber. To stand treat: c.; from ca. 1850; ob. H., 3rd ed.

fake the sweetener. To kiss: c.: ca. 1840-1900. See sweetener.

fake up; occ. simply fake, v.t. and reflexive. To paint one's face: theatrical; from ca. 1870; ob.—2. To adapt for the theatre: theatrical (—1887). Baumann.—3. To falsify: mid-C. 19-20. Ibid.

faked; occ. faked-up. Spurious; counterfeit: low coll.; from the 1850's. H., 1st ed. See fake, v.

fakeman-charley. See sense 4 of:

fakement. A counterfeit signature (—1811), hence a forgery; a begging letter, a petition (—1839).—2. A dishonest practice (—1838); hence, any trade, action, thing, contrivance (—1857).—3. Small properties, accessories: theatrical; from ca. 1875. The first senses, c.; the second group, low; the last, s. The term derives prob. ex fake, n., 1.—4. (Cf. sense 1.) Also fakeman-charley. A private mark of ownership: c.; from ca. 1810; ob. Vaux; H., 1st ed.

fakement-chorley. Ware's variant of fakeman-charley: see last sense of fakement.

fakement-dodge; -dodger. The practice of writing begging letters; the beggar or impostor employing this 'dodge': c.: mid-C. 19-20; ob. Mayhew.

faker. A maker, or a faker, of anything: low (—1688). Randle Holme. Cf. the U.S. faker, 'a street-vendor of gimcracks, &c.', Thornton.—2. In c., a thief (—1851); in C. 20, a pickpocket. Borrow, in Lavengro, 'We never calls them thieves here, but prigs and fakers.'—3. A jeweller: c. (—1857). 'Ducange Anglicus.'—4. A circus performer, esp. rider: circus, from ca. 1875. Baumann (fakir).—5. A harlot's 'fancy man': low (—1891); ob.

fakes and slumboes. Properties; accessories: theatrical: from ca. 1880; †.

faking. Vbl.n., corresponding with all senses of fake, v., q.v.: low s. > coll.; (—)1845.

fakir. See faker, 4.

fal. A girl: rhyming s. (1868) on gal; ob. Ware.

falderals (or -ols). Silly ideas: coll. (—1923). Manchon. Ex falderal, a trinket, a trifle; imm. ex dial. sense: an idle fancy.

fall, v. To conceive a child: coll.: C. 19-20; ob.—2. In c., to be arrested (—1883).—3. Hence, to go to prison; e.g. fall for three years: c.: C. 20. 'Stuart Wood', 1932.—4. (Prob. also ex sense 2.) To fail: c. and low s.: from ca. 1910. James Curtis, The Gilt Kid, 1936.

fall, have a bad or good or lucky. To have a piece of bad, or good luck; make a (bad) strike: coll. (—1887); ob. Baumann.

fall across. To meet (a person) unexpectedly: from ca. 1885; coll. till C. 20, then S.E.

fall down (on). To make a bad mistake or error (in or at): s. >, ca. 1935, coll.: U.S. (ca. 1870) anglicised ca. 1910. Often with on. (O.E.D. Sup.)

fall-downs. Fragments of cookshop puddings; collected, they are sold cheaply. Cockney: C. 19. Ware.

fall for. To be greatly attracted by (esp. a member of the other sex): U.S. (ca. 1910), anglicised ca. 1920; by 1935, coll.

fall in. To be quite wrong: coll.; from ca. 1900.

fall in the thick. 'To become dead drunk . . . Black beer is called thick, so is mud': low (—1909). Ware.

fall of the leaf, (at) the. (By) hanging: low or c.: ca. 1780-1840. George Parker.

fall through. To be unable to keep, or to go back on, an appointment: coll.: 1924, Galsworthy.

fallen away from a horse-load to a cart-load. Grown fat: a late C. 18-mid-19 c.p. Grose, 3rd ed.

false alarms. Arms (of body): military rhyming s.: late C. 19-20.

false hereafter. A dress-improver or bustle: Society: ca. 1890-1900.

fam; occ. famm (B.E.) or fem. The hand: low, orig. c.: from ca. 1690; † by 1870. ? abbr. famble, q.v.—Hence, 2, a ring: c. of ca. 1770-1850.

fam, v. To handle: C. 19-20 (ob). c. Vaux. Hence fam a donna, to caress a woman intimately; fam for the plant, to feel for the valuables.

fam-grasp. A hand-shaking: c.: late C. 18-19. Ex the v.t., late C. 17-19. The v. also = to agree, or to come to an agreement, with a person, a sense recorded by Coles in 1676. Lit., to grasp by the 'fam' or hand.

fam-lay. Shop-lifting, esp. of jewellery by one with viscous hands: c.: mid-C. 18-19. Grose, 2nd ed.

fam-snatcher. A glove: low: ca. 1820-60. Pierce Egan may have coined it.

fam-squeeze. Strangulation: C. 19 c. Contrast fam-grasp, q.v.

fam-struck. Baffled in a search; handcuffed: C. 19 c. fambely, famberly, fambly. Sol. for family: esp. Cockney: C. 19-20. Baumann (famberly).

famble. The hand: mid-C. 16-20 c. Harman, B.E., Grose, Hindley. Prob. ex famble, to fumble (O.E.D.).—2. Hence, a ring: C. 17—early 19 c. Shadwell.

famble-cheat. A ring: mid-C. 17—18 c. Coles; B.E.; Duntun.—2. A glove: mid-C. 17—early 19 c. Coles.

fambler. A glove: C. 17 c. Rowlands.—2. A seller of 'brum' rings (rarely famble): late C. 17—18 c.

fambling-cheat. (Lit., a hand-thing;) a ring: mid-C. 16—17 c. Harman; Rowlands.

fambly. See fambely.

familiar way, in the. Pregnant: jocular coll. (—1891), punning in the family way. Ob.

familiars. Lice: C. 19—early 20. Facetiously ex S.E. sense, a familiar spirit.

family, the. The underworld of thieves: mid-C. 18—19; c.: Bamfylde-Moore Carew, 1749. Cf. family-man.

family, hands off! See f.h.o.!

family head. 'An elaborate figure head of several figures': nautical: mid-C. 19—20. Bowen.

family hotel. A prison: coll.; ca. 1840—1900. Punch, Jan. 31, 1857, 'In a ward with one's pals, | Not locked up in a cell, | To an old hand like me it's a family hotel.'

family-man. A thief: c. (—1788); ob. In pl., occ. family people. Ex family, q.v.—2. Also, a 'fence': mid-C. 19—20 c. family of love. 'Lewd Women, Whores', B.E.; esp. a company thereof, Grose, 1st ed.: late C. 17—20 (ob.).

family people. A c. (—1812) variant of family, the, q.v. Vaux; H., 1st ed.

family(-)plate. Silver money: jocular coll.; from ca. 1850.

family(-)pound. A family grave: from ca. 1870.

family-woman. A female thief: c. (—1812). Vaux. On family-man.

famine. Lack of bread at meals: Bootham School: late C. 19—20. Anon., Dict. of Bootham Slang, 1925.

famm. See fam, n.

famous. Excellent; 'capital': coll.: from the 1790's. Southey, "But every body said," quoth he, "That 'twas a famous victory" (O.E.D.). Influenced by:

famously. Excellently: 'capitally': coll.; from ca. 1600. Shakespeare, Lytton. (O.E.D.)

fan. A waistcoat: c.; ca. 1835—1900. Brandon; Snowden, Magazine Assistant, 3rd ed. ? ex its spread.—2. An enthusiast, orig. of sport: ex U.S. (—1889), anglicised ca. 1914; by 1930, coll. Abbr. fanatic.—3. Ca. 1680—1720, a fanatic: jocular coll. gen. spelt fann or phan. (O.E.D.)

fan, v. To beat, whip; be-rate: low coll.: late C. 18—20. Now esp. fan with a slipper. Grose, 1st ed.—2. In c., to search a person, or his clothes: from ca. 1850. Mayhew. Cf. frisk, q.v.—3. Esp. to search illicitly (a man) for watch or wallet: c.: C. 20. Charles E. Leach.

fan-qui. See fanqui.—fan-tail. See fantail.

[Fanciful odds in betting. See Burlington Arcade to a smock-shop, Lombard Street to a China orange, Pompey's pillar to a stick of sealing-wax, Waterloo Bridge to a deal plank, etc.]

fanter. (Always the f.) The boxing world (from ca. 1810); boxers collectively (—1820): coll.; by 1900, S.E.; somewhat ob. Pierce Egan, 'The various gradations of the Fancy hither resort, to discuss matters incidental to pugilism.'—2. A 'best girl': lower classes' (—1923). Manchon. Abbr. fancy piece.

fancy, v. To have a (too) high opinion of oneself, of another, or of a thing: coll.: from ca. 1860.—2. In the imperative, either as one word (fancy!) or two words (fancy that!) or preceding a phrase (e.g. 'Fancy you being in plus fours!'), it expresses surprise: coll.: ? earlier than 1834, when (O.E.D.) Medwin has 'Fancy me boxed up in the narrow vehicle.'

fancy(-bloak or) bloke. A sporting man: coll.; from ca. 1850; ob. by 1920. H., 1st ed. Ex fancy, n., q.v.—2. A fancy-man, q.v.: from ca. 1835. Brandon.—3. Hence, any woman's favourite male: from ca. 1880.

fancy frigate. A warship notable for smartness—but gen. 'very uncomfortable to live in': naval coll.: late C. 19—20; ob. Bowen.

fancy-girl. Same as fancy-woman, 2: 1930, A. P. Herbert (O.E.D. Sup.).

Fancy Greens, the. The 36th Foot, from 1881 the Worcestershire Regiment: military: C. 19—20; ob. F. & Gibbons, 'From the pea-green facings previously worn'.

fancy Joseph. A harlot's 'boy' or bully (see fancy-man): C. 19 low. Either with an allusion to Joseph and Potiphar's wife or an amplification of joe, a male sweetheart.

fancy-lay. Pugilism: low (—1819): ob. by 1890, † by 1918. Tom Moore. See lay.

fancy-man. (Cf. fancy-bloke and f. Joseph.) A harlot's protector and/or lover; her husband: low (—1821). Egan, 'Although "one of the fancy", he was not a fancy man.' Ex:—2. A sweetheart: from ca. 1810: low s. >, by 1860, coll. Vaux.—3. A male keep: low (—1811); ob. Lex. Bal. Cf. sense 2.—4. Rarely a pugilist; often a follower of pugilism: but seldom used in the singular: from ca. 1845; ob. by 1900; † by 1920. In all senses, fancy is either a corruption of Fr. fiancé or, much more prob., ex the fancy, q.v. Notable synonyms of sense 1: mack, ponce, and prosser, qq.v.

fancy piece. A harlot: low (—1823). Egan's Grose. In C. 20, occ. of a man's favourite girl or woman, respectable or otherwise.

fancy religion. Any religion other than C. of E., R.C., and Presbyterian: naval and military: from the 1890's or earlier. Bowen.

fancy woman. A temporary mistress; a kept woman: low coll. (—1850). Cf. fancy-man, 3.—2. In C. 19—20, a man's favourite female—often jocularly: low s. >, by 1860, coll. Vaux. Cf. fancy-man, 2.

fancy-work, take in. To make extra money by prostitution, 'do the naughty for one's clothes': low (—1891). F. & H. The pun is best left unexplained; cf. fancy-man, 1, 2.

fandangle. A fantastic or ludicrous ornament; foolery; nonsense: coll.: from ca. 1880. W. considers it an arbitrary deformation of fandango, ? after (new-)fangle(d).

fang-chovey. A dentist's 'parlour': low; from ca. 1850. Fang, a tooth; chovey, a shop. Also, fang-faker, a dentist: same comments.

fann. See fan, n., 3.

fanning. A thrashing: late C. 18—19. See fan, v., 1.—2. In c., stealing: mid-C. 19—20. See fan, v., 2, and cf. cross-fanning, q.v.

fanny. The female pudenda; the pudend: low; from ca. 1860 (perhaps much earlier). Variants, seldom used, are fanny artful and fanny fair.

Perhaps ex Fanny, the 'heroine' of John Cleland's Memoirs of Fanny Hill, 1749, the English classic of the brothel, as La Fille Elisa, 1877, or perhaps rather La Maison Tellier, 1881, is the French and Bessie Coter, 1935, the American; the English novel, it may be added, is by far the most 'actionable'.—2. A can for liquor: naval: C. 20. F. & Gibbons; Bowen. Ex Fanny Adams, 1.—3. (Fanny.) The inevitable nickname of men surnamed Fields: military: C. 20. F. & Gibbons. Ex Fanny Fields, the music-hall actress.—4. (Fanny.) A member of the First Aid Nursing Yeomanry: military: 1914. B. & P.—5. (Fanny.) The cricketers' or footballers' nickname for Frederick Walden, capped for England at 'soccer' in 1914; retired from cricket in 1927. Ex Fanny; anyone small and neat (or dainty): late C. 19–20.—6. Talk; eloquence: c.: from ca. 1910. See right fanny and fanny, put up the.—7. Esp. a grafter's sales-talk: grafters': from ca. 1920. Allingham.

fanny, v.i. To 'tell the tale': market-traders' (e.g. Petticoat Lane): C. 20. Cf.:

fanny, put up the. 'To explain the working of a job to other criminals to induce them to come in' (David Hume): c.: from ca. 1930. Perhaps ex sense 6; perhaps ex sense 1,—for semantics, cf. bullshit.

Fanny Adams. Tinned mutton: naval (— 1889) >, ca. 1900, also military. Barrère & Leland; esp. B. & P. Ex Fanny Adams, a girl that, ca. 1812, was murdered and whose body, cut into pieces, 'was thrown into the river at Alton in Hampshire' (O.E.D. Sup.). Cf. Harriet Lane.—2. Hence, F.A., nothing at all, often sweet F.A.: military: 1914. Euphemising fuck all, 'bugger all', (absolutely) nothing. B. & P.

Fanny Blair. The hair: rhymings. (— 1859); †. H., 1st ed. A c. and U.S. variant of Barnet fair.

Fanny Nanny (or n.). Nonsense: nautical: late C. 19–20. Prob. a reduplication on the hypocoristic shape of the first syllable of fantastic: cf. fantod, q.v.

Fannys, the. (Members of) the First Aid Nursing Yeomanry Corps, founded in 1909: military coll. F. & Gibbons.

fanqui, fan-qui. A European: Anglo-Chinese: from ca. 1860; ob. H., 3rd ed. Lit., a foreign devil.

fant. See phant.

fantadlins. Pastry: ca. 1860–70: ? Cockney. H., 3rd ed.

fantail, fan-tail. A 'sou'-wester' of the kind affected, in C. 19, by coal-heavers and dustmen: from ca. 1850; ob. H., 1st ed; J. Greenwood in Dick Temple, 1877. Abbr. fan-tail hat, which must date from early C. 19.

fantail-boy. A dustman: low: ca. 1820–50. 'Jon Bee', 1823. Cf. preceding.

fantailer. A person with a tail-coat much too long for him: ca. 1820–50. 'Jon Bee.'

fantastically dressed. 'With more rags than ribbons', Grose, 3rd ed.: ironic coll.: late C. 18–early 19.

fanteague, on the. On the spree or 'loose': low: ca. 1875–1900.—2. Cf. fanteague or fantique, dial. and coll. for a fuss, commotion, excitement, passion; a vagary; a joke, a 'lark': from ca. 1830. Dickens, 1837. Ex fatigue (see E.D.D. at fantiqued), or perhaps ex frantic after fatigue (the rare variant fantique occurs—see O.E.D.—in 1825).

fantee or fanti, go. To run amok: orig. and mainly British West Africa (— 1917). Ex the S.E. sense, to go native, Fantee being the name of a Gold Coast tribe.

fanteeg, fantigue. See fanteague, 2.

fantod. A fad; a faddy naval officer: these senses are prob. S.E.—2. the fantods,—Galsworthy 1928, has the very rare singular,—restlessness, restless inquietude; esp. give (a person) the fantods, make him restless, uneasy, hence (in C. 20) nervy: U.S. (1885) anglicised ca. 1905. Imm. ex fantad, a fad, on Kentish fantod, restless; ultimately ex fanteague (q.v.) or fantasy. (O.E.D. Sup.)

fantosceny. A sol. form of fantoccini: C. 19–20. (O.E.D. Cf. dial. fanty sheeny.) far-away. In pawn: lower classes': 1884; ob. Ware, 'From a song'.—2. Hence (— 1909), to pawn: likewise ob. Ware, 'I far-awayed my tools this blessed day—I did !'

far(-)back. An inferior workman; hence, an ignorant fellow: tailors', from ca. 1870. Ex an apprentice's position at the back of the work-room.

far-dee. See fa'd.

far-keeper. An eye: Northumberland s. (— 1899), not dial. E.D.D. Ex keek = peek = peep, look.

far(enough) if . . . , I'll be. I'll certainly not (do so and so): Sheffield (low) coll.—not dial.: from ca. 1880. O.E.D.

far off. Preposition = far from. Coll.; from ca. 1860.

faradiddle. Bee's spelling (1823) of taradiddle, q.v.

farcidrama. Any light piece that fails: theatrical: 1885–ca. 90. Ex Ashley Sterry's name for H. J. Byron's posthumous half-finished comedy . . . The Shuttlecock, which was a 'frost'. Ware.

farden. A farthing: Cockney: from ca. 1840. (Also in dial.) Cf. Covent Garden.

farcing, farsing. The picking of locks: c.: late C. 16–early 17. Greene's 2nd Conny-Catching, 1592. ? forcing.

fare-croft. A cross-Channel Government packet-boat: nautical: ca. 1840–90. Bowen.

farfara. Incorrect for fanfare: C. 17. O.E.D.

farger. A false die: c.: late C. 16–early 17. Perhaps a perversion of forger.

Farinaceous City or Village, the. Adelaide: Australian coll. nickname: ca. 1870–1910. A. Trollope, 1873 (Morris). Wheat is the chief export of South Australia. Cf. Holy City, q.v.

farm. A cheap establishment for pauper children (— 1869); for illegitimate children (— 1874). Also v. (— 1838). Coll. soon > S.E. See esp. Dickens, Oliver Twist, ch. ii.—2. In c., a prison hospital. Hence, fetch the farm, to be ordered hospital diet and treatment. From ca. 1875.

farmer. A countryman; a clod-hopper: London coll. (— 1864); ob. by 1915, † by 1920. H., 3rd ed.—2. An alderman: low or c. (— 1848); prob. †.—3. See farm, 1, with its v.: coll. (— 1869) > S.E. ca. 1900, though gen. as baby-farmer.—4. Gen. be a farmer, to be off duty: nautical: from early 1880's. (O.E.D. Sup.) Ex the purely imaginary joys of a farmer's life.—5. Hence, an inferior seaman: nautical: from ca. 1890. Bowen.—6. A hare: Kentish s. (— 1878). E.D.D. Ex its affection for the land.

Farmer White. J. C. White, the Somerset and England cricketer: cricketers': from 1931. He is also a farmer.

Farmer's Boy, the. An express goods-train carrying provisions to London: railwaymen's: from ca. 1920. The Daily Telegraph, Aug. 15, 1936. Cf. the Feeder.

farsing. See farcing.

fart. An anal escape of wind, esp. if audible: C. 13-20: S.E., but in C. 18-20, a vulgarism, as is the v. Chaucer, Jonson, Swift, Burns. In 1722, there appeared the 10th edition of the anon. author's pamphlet (I saw it listed in a bookseller's catalogue in 1933) The Benefit of Farting Explain'd, 'wrote' in Spanish [!] by Don Fart in Hando, Translated into English by Obadiah Fizzle.—2. Hence, a symbol of contempt: C. 17-20. Crowne, 1685, 'A fart for your family' (O.E.D.).—3. Hence, a contemptible person (cf. silly cunt): low coll.; from ca. 1860.—4. Also in not care or give a fart for, not worth a fart: the former, C. 17-20 (earlier set not . . .); the latter, C. 19-20.

fart, let a brewer's. (Occ. followed by grains and all.) To befoul oneself: low: late C. 18-mid-19. Grose, 2nd ed. Cf. the late C. 18-19 low coll., not to trust one's arse with a fart, to have diarrhoea (ibid.).

fart about. To dawdle; to waste time; play about: low coll., late C. 19-20. Ex dial.

fart-catcher. A footman or a valet (he walks behind): mid-C. 18-19: low. Grose, 1st ed.

fart-daniel. The puendum muliebre: low: C. 19. Obscure: I surmise that fart = farth, alleged to = a litter of pigs, and that daniel—cf. Antony pig—is the youngest pig (see E.D.D. at daniel and farth), hence that this strange term is orig. dial. (not in E.D.D.); it may, however, be merely a misprint for fare-daniel, dial. for a sucking pig that is the youngest of a litter.

fart-sucker. A parasite: low: C. 19-20; ob.

farthing, not to care a brass. Not to care at all: coll. >, by 1890, S.E.: from ca. 1800. Earlier, without brass. (James II, debasing the coinage, issued brass farthings, halfpence, and pence.) farthing-faced chit. A small, mean-faced, insignificant person: Cockney (— 1909); ob. Ware.

farthing-taster. 'Lowest quantity of commonest ice-cream sold by London . . . itinerant . . . vendors': Cockneys': ca. 1870-1914. Ware.

fartick, fartkin. Diminutives of fart, q.v.: C. 19; low coll.

farting-crackers. Breeches: late C. 17-18: o. B.E. Cf. cracker, q.v. farting-trap. A jaunting car: Anglo-Irish: C. 19-20; ob.

fartleberries. Excrement on the anal hair: late C. 18-19: low. Grose, 1st ed. Cf. farting-crackers.

flash one's beard. To get annoyed or exasperated: Scottish coll (? dial.): 1789, Davidson (E.D.D.); Manchon. Cf.:

fashy, fashee. Angry: military: G.W.+. (Cf. Scottish fash.) Ex Fr. fâché. (F. & Gibbons.)

fast. A farce: New Zealanders', esp. soldiers': 1915. A sol.

fast, v. To be short of money: ca. 1850-1900. 'Ducange Anglicus.' Cf.:

fast, adj. Short of money: coll. but orig. and mainly dial.: C. 19. Perhaps semantically = bound fast.—2. Dissipated; 'going the pace': coll. in C. 18, S.E. in C. 19-20.—3. Impudent: low coll.: ca. 1870-1900. Don't you be so fast! = mind your own business!—4. As in I'm fast, my watch is fast: coll. (— 1887) >, by 1900, familiar S.E. Baumann; O.E.D.

fast and loose, play (orig. at). To be inconstant; variable; inconsistent: C. 16-20. Coll. till ca. 1700, then S.E. G. Harvey, Ncd Ward, Dickens. Ex the game now—though even this is ob.—known as prick-the-garter, and played with a string or a strap.

fast-fuck. A rapid or a standing coition: harlots': C. 19-20.

fast(e)ner. A warrant for arrest: late C. 17-early 19 c. B.E.; Grose, 1st ed.

fastidious cove. A fashionable swindler: London: 1882-1915. Ware.

[fastness, a bog, is, by B.E. and Grose, 1st ed., treated as s. or coll.; prob. S.E.]

fat. In c., money: C. 19. More gen. in U.S. than in Britain.—2. 'The last landed, inned or stow'd of any sort of Merchandize whatever, so called by the several Gangs of Water-side Porters, &c.': late C. 17-early 19. B.E., Grose.—3. Hence, among printers, composition in which, e.g. in dictionaries and esp. in verse, there are many white spaces, these representing profit (— 1788). Grose, 2nd ed.—4. Hence (theatrical), a good part; telling lines and situations: from ca. 1830. The Referee, April 15, 1888, 'I don't want to rob Miss Claremont of her fat, but her part must be cut down.' Cf. grease.—5. In journalism, a notable piece of exclusive news: from ca. 1890 (S.O.D.).—6. A lower-class nickname for a fat person (gen. a man): late C. 19-20. Cf. fatty.

fat, adj. Rich: esp. with cull: late C. 17-early 19 c. ex C. 16 S.E.—2. Hence, in C. 19-20, abundant, profitable, very large, e.g. profits, income, takings. Also ironical, a fat lot, not much: from ca. 1860. H., 3rd ed.—3. Good: Australian (— 1890): coll. The revival of a C. 17 S.E. usage.

fat, bit of. Something profitable: see fat, n., 3, 4: C. 19-20.—2. Coition with a stout female: low: from ca. 1850; ob.

fat, cut it. See cut it fat.—fat, cut up. See cut up.

fat as a hen in the forehead or as a hen's forehead. Very thin: meagre: coll.; the former, from ca. 1600, is in Cotgrave and Swift, but rare after 1820, when the latter, now ob., > gen. (Apperson.)

fat-arsed. Broad-bottomed: C. 19-20 coll. Cf. barge-, broad-, and heavy-arsed, the third in Richard Baxter's Shove to Heavy Arsed Christians, i.e. slow, dull ones.

fat burnt itself out of the fire, the. (And in other tenses.) The trouble blew over: lower classes' coll. (— 1909). Ware, 'Antithesis of "All the fat's in the fire".'

fat-cake. 'A ridiculous name sometimes applied to Eucalyptus leucoxylon': Australian s. or coll. (— 1898); ob. Morris cites Maiden's Useful Native Plants.

fat cock. A stout elderly man: jocular: from ca. 1850; ob. A 'double-sucker', q.v.

fat cull. See fat, adj., 1. In B.E. and Grose.

fat-face. A term of derision or abuse: coll.; 1741, Richardson. (O.E.D.) fat-fancier or -monger. A man that specialises in fat women: low: the former, C. 19-20; the latter, C. 19.

fat flab. A slice from the fat part of mutton-breast: Winchester College: from ca. 1860; ob.

fat or full-guts. A fat man or woman: low coll.: late C. 16-20, C. 19 resp. Shakespeare, 'Peace, ye fat guts, lie down' (O.E.D.).

fat-head. A fool: from ca. 1840: coll. (As a surname, C. 13.)

fat-headed; -pated, -skulled, -brained, -thoughted, -witted. Dull; slow; stupid. All coll.: resp. C. 18-20; C. 18-19; C. 18-19; C. 19; C. 19; C. 16-19, but soon S.E. Shakspeare has fat, slow-witted.

fat is in the fire, (all) the. It has failed; (C. 19-20 only) that's done it, it's all u.p.: coll.: the first sense from ca. 1600 (. . . lies in the fire, C. 16; cast all the gruel in the fire, Chaucer), as in Dekker; the second and third in Henry James, G. B. Shaw. Apperson.—Cf. and then the band played! and good night!

fat Jack of the bone-house. A very fat man: coll.; ca. 1850-1910.

fat lot, a. Always in actual or virtual negative, which = nothing; very little: coll.: 1899, Cutcliffe Hyne, 'Shows what a fat lot of influence . . . Congo has got' (O.E.D. Sup.); now verging on S.E.

fat one or un. A particularly rank breaking of wind; a 'roarer' (Swift): low: C. 19-20, ob.

fate. One's fiancé or fiancée: late C. 19-20; jocular coll.

fater, fator, faytor. In C. 17, a member of the Second Rank of the Canting Crew: in C. 18-early 19, a fortune-teller: both c. In C. 16-early 17 S.E., a cheat or impostor. Prob. ex Anglo-Fr. faiseur. See Grose, P.

father. A 'fence' or receiver of stolen property: c.: mid-C. 19-20; ob. H., 1st ed. Prob. suggested by uncle, a pawnbroker. Cf. father's brother. —2. A master shipwright: nautical: C. 19. Bowen.—3. An admiral commanding a squadron: naval: C. 20. Ibid.

father !, go to. Go to hell!: c.p.: late C. 19-20; virtually †. Ex a music-hall song ('father' being dead). Prob. suggested by go farther and ask father.

father of a —, the. A severe; esp. father of a hiding (or licking), a very severe thrashing: coll.: from ca. 1890. Cf. 'For three fardins I would take it from ye an' give ye the father an' mother of a good soun' blachin' in Scumas MacManus, The Leadin' Road to Donegal, 1895 (E.D.D., Sup.).

Father Derby's or Darby's hands. See darbies.

father-in-law. A step-father: mid-C. 16-20: S.E. until C. 19, then catachrestic and dial. (O.E.D.) fatherhood. The having a certain, or the one, father: catachrestic: 1846. O.E.D. fatherly. 'A talk from a master (not necessarily a reprimand)': Bootham School: C. 20. Anon., Dict. of Bootham Slang, 1925.

father's brother. A pawnbroker: jocular: from ca. 1850. Cf. father.

fati-gu'ed. A jocular pronunciation of fatigued; fati-gu'e is less gen. C. 20. Occ. fattygew(ed). Perhaps orig. derivative of dial. pronunciation: see, e.g., the E.D.D.

fatness. Wealth: s. > coll.: C. 19; in C. 20, ob.—very ob.

fatted for the slaughter, being. A military c.p. of 1916-18 applied to men training hard during a so-called 'rest'. F. & Gibbons. Cf. fattening . . .

fator. See fater.

fatten-up. To write a telling part: theatrical: from ca. 1875. See fat, n., 4.

fattening for the slaughter. A 'rest', i.e. a period out of the line: jocular military: 1917; ob. B. & P.

fatty. A jocular epithet, endearment, or nickname for a fat person: coll.; C. 19-20.

fattygew(ed). See fati-gued.

fat(t)yimus, fat(t)yima. A fat man, woman resp.: facetious or endearing: ca. 1860-1900. Too artificial to last.

Faugh-a-Ballagh Boys. The 87th Foot, in late C. 19-20 the Royal Irish Fusiliers: military: from 1811. Ex Fag an Bealach, Clear the Way, the regimental march. Also Aiglers and Old Fogs. (F. & Gibbons.)

faulk(e)ner. (Cf. the spelling of fast(e)ner.) One that decoys others into dicing or card-playing; also a juggler: late C. 17-18 c. B.E. Perhaps ex falconer, via † fawkenner.

fault, at. At a loss: orig. (1833), hunting s.; coll. by 1850, S.E. by 1870. (O.E.D.)—2. In fault: sol.: from ca. 1870.

faults. An incorrect pl., as in 'Where this happens, it is their own faults,' 1738. O.E.D.

fauney. See fawney.

favour. 'To deal gently with; to ease, save, spare': C. 16-20, S.E. till ca. 1790, then coll. and dial. (S.O.D.)—2. 'To resemble in face or features': orig. (early C. 17), S.E.; since ca. 1820, coll. and dial. (O.E.D.)

favourite vice. One's usual strong drink: clut or man-to-man's: ca. 1880-1915. The Daily News, Oct. 6, 1885, 'When the bottles and the cigar-case are to the fore, even a bishop may enquire of you, with a jovial smile of born companionship, What is your favourite vice?' (Ware). Replaced by poison.

fawn(e)y, occ. forn(e)y, rarely faun(e)y. A ring (hence fawnied, adj., ringed); ring-dropping (see fawney-dropping): the former low, the latter c.: late C. 18-19. Parker, 1781.—2. Also, though rare, a 'ring-dropper': late C. 18-early 19 c. Parker, 1781.—3. Ex sense 1 is U.S. phony, illicit, sham, spurious, counterfeit: familiarised in England ca. 1930. Prob. fawney derives ex Irish fáinne, a ring.

fawney, go on the. To practise fawney-dropping, q.v.: late C. 18-19 c.

fawney-bouncing. Selling rings for a supposed wager: c.: mid-C. 19-20; ob. See esp. H., 1st ed. A fawney-bouncer is one who does this.

fawney-dropper. A ring-dropper: see next entry. C. 19 c. Cf. money-dropper.

fawney-dropping or -rig (or -rigging: 'No. 747'). C.: C. 19, late C. 18-19 resp. Grose, 2nd ed., 'A fellow drops a ring, double gilt, which he picks up before the party meant to be cheated, and to whom he disposes of it for less than its supposed, and ten times more than its real, value.' See fawney.

fawn(e)y-fam'd or -fammed; fawnied. 'Having one or more rings on the finger', Vaux: c.: ca. 1810-60.

fawn(e)y man. A pedlar of bogus jewellery: tramps' c.: C. 20. Frank Jennings, 1932.

fawney-rig. See fawney-dropping.—fawny. See fawney.

fay appears in C. 14-19 coll. verging on S.E. expletives. † form of faith.—2. See quotation at Noras: ? meaning.

faynights. A late C. 19-20 variant of fainits!, q.v. at fains! Collinson.

faytor. See fater.

fazz. Grease: Post Office telegraph-messengers' (esp. in London); from before 1935.

feager (properly feaguer) of loges. A beggar with forged papers: C. 17 c. Rowlands. Cf.:

feague. To 'ginger up', esp. a horse (gen. by enlivening but ugly 'fundamental' means): late C. 18-early 19: low. Grose, 1st ed. Ex S.E. senses: beat; overcome, esp. by trickery: themselves ex Ger. fegen. Whence fake, q.v.: a form anticipated by C. 17 variant feak, to thrash.

feaguer. See feager.

feak. The fundament: low: early C. 19. Lex. Bal. Perhaps ex feague.

feaker. See faker.

fear. To frighten: since ca. 1870, coll.; earlier, S.E. Also common in dial.: C. 19-20.

fear, for. Short for for fear that or lest: coll.: from ca. 1840.

fear!, never. No danger, or risk, of that!: coll.: ? earliest in Bulwer Lytton, 1838 (O.E.D.). Cf. don't you fear!, q.v.

fear!, no. Certainly not! Coll.: from ca. 1880. Cf. never fear.

feard. See afeard.

fearful, fearfully. Adj., adv.: a coll. intensive (cf. awful, terrible): from ca. 1880. Earlier in dial. D. Mackail, Greenery Street, 1925, 'I say, you're looking most fearfully fit.'

fearful frights. 'Kicks, in the most humiliating quarters': lower classes: ca. 1890-1914. Ware.

fearnought. 'A drink to keep up the spirits. 1880', S.O.D.; ob.

fearsome. Timid: sol. when not dial.: from ca. 1860.

feastings even. Incorrect for Fastens E(v)en: Scottish and Northern. O.E.D.

feat. An exclusive piece of news: journalistic: adopted, in the early 1930's, from U.S.A. Abbr. (special) feature.

feather. The female pubic hair: either coll. or euphemistic: C. 18-19. Prior, Moore. Perhaps ex S.E. feather, (of a cock) to tread.—2. 'The wave made by a submarine's periscope': naval coll.: 1916. Bowen.—3. A bed: tramps' c.: C. 20. W. H. Davies in The New Statesman, March 18, 1918. Abbr. feather and flip, the same: rhyming s.: late C. 19-20. (Philip Allingham, Cheapjack, 1934.) On kip.

feather and flip. See feather, 3.

feather, high or low in the. With one's oar well or badly held while out of the water: sporting: from ca. 1870. Andrew Lang, Ballad of the Boat Race, 1878. Ex the S.E. feather an oar.

feather, in (full). Rich: coll.: from ca. 1860. H., 2nd ed.; Mrs. Henry Wood, 1871, 'Clanwaring, in feather as to cash . . . , was the gayest of the gay.'—2. In full dress: coll.: from ca. 1865. H., 5th ed.—3. Elated: from ca. 1870. Earlier in high feather: ca. 1815-70. Moore, 1819, 'The swells in high feather'.

feather, Jack with the. (Variant, a plume of feathers.) A trifling person: coll.: late C. 16-17.

feather, ride a. To be a jockey weighing less than 84 lb.: ca. 1810-1900; sporting coll.

feather, show the white. To show oneself a coward: orig. (— 1842) coll.; S.E. by ca. 1895. A cross-bred game-cock has a white feather in the tail.

feather-bed and pillows. A fat woman: low: ca. 1850-1910. Ex feather, q.v., and pillow, a large breast.

feather-bed lane. A rough road or lane: coll.: late C. 17-20; ob. B.E.; Grose, 1st ed.

feather-bed soldier. A persistent, expert whore-monger: C. 19: coll. Cf. carpet knight.

feather-driver. A quill-driver, a clerk: coll.; late C. 16-17. Literary s.

feather in one's mouth, having (or with) a. 'Capable of showing temper, but holding it in': nautical: late C. 19-20; ob. Ex that foam at a ship's cut-water 'which shows there either has been, or will be, dirty weather' (Ware).

feather one's nest. To enrich oneself with perquisites, licit and/or illicit; to amass money: C. 16-20; coll. till ca. 1830, then S.E. Greene, Vanbrugh, G. Eliot.

feather to fly with, not a. 'Plucked': universities: late C. 19-20; ob. Ware.

feathers. Money: wealth: c. or low: ca. 1855-1905. 'Ducange Anglicus'.—2. (the feathers.) Bed: from ca. 1880; very ob.

feature, n. and v., in newspapers and films, is s. (>, by 1925, cinematic coll.) if simply = either a part, or to present (prominently). U.S. (ca. 1897), anglicised ca. 1905. (O.E.D. Sup.)

features. A satirical term of address: ca. 1900-14. Ware. Cf. face and face-ache.

feaze. To harm; to trouble: Canadian: C. 20. Ex English dial.

Feb. February: coll.: C. 20. Ex the abbr. The only other months thus treated (so far!) are January, as Jān, and, rarely, August, as Aug (org).

feck. To discover a safe method of robbery or cheating: C. 19 c. Duncombe, 1848. Ironically ex feckless or, more prob., a corruption of feak = fake, q.v.

fed to the back teeth. An intensive variant, dating from ca. 1910, of the next. Occ. fed up . . . or fed to the wide. (Manchon.)

fed-up. Bored: disgusted; (with) tired of: orig. military, possibly ex the Boers (witness Pettman): from ca. 1899. G. W. Steevens (d. 1900), 'We're all getting pretty well fed-up with this place by now.' Cf. Fr. en avoir soupé. W. In the G.W., a military c.p. ran, fed-up, fucked up, and far from home.

feed. A meal; an excellent meal: coll.: both from ca. 1805. Ex the stables. Bulwer Lytton, in Paul Clifford, 'He gave them plenty of feeds.'—2. Same as, and ex, feeder, 3: theatrical: from mid-1920's. J. B. Priestley uses it in 1929 (O.E.D. Sup.).

feed, v. To take food: M.E.-C. 20. Of animals, S.E.; of persons, coll. since ca. 1850.—2. In football, to back, v.i. and t.: from ca. 1880: coll. >, in C. 20, j. > S.E. Ex rounders.—3. In the theatre, to supply (the principal comedian) with cues: from ca. 1890.—4. In the universities, to 'cram': C. 18-19.—5. To bore or disgust: from ca. 1910. Cf. fed-up, its prob. origin.

feed, at. At meal; eating: coll.: from ca. 1880, The National Observer, 1890, vol. V, 'Statesmen at feed'. The C. 20 prefers at one's feed.

feed, be off one's. To have no appetite: from ca. 1830; s. > coll. ca. 1870. Michael Scott; Reade, 'No, doctor; I'm off my feed for once,' 1873. Variant with oats.

feed a part. (Theatrical.) To fill it out with small speeches or incidents (— 1892); ob. (O.E.D.)

feed the fishes. To be sea-sick: coll. (— 1884).—2. Hence, though rarely, to be drowned: from ca. 1890.

feed the press. To send 'copy' to the composers slip by slip: journalistic (— 1891); ob.

Feeder, the. A G.W.R. express goods-train connecting 'several important services' carrying provisions to London: railwaymen's: from ca. 1919. The Daily Telegraph, Aug. 15, 1936. Cf. the Bacca, q.v.

feeder. In c., a silver spoon; any spoon: late C. 18-20; ob. Grose, 2nd ed. Hence feeder-prigger, a spoon-thief ('Jon Bee').—2. In university s., a 'coach': mid-C. 18-early 19. Goldsmith: 'Mr. Thornhill came with . . . his chaplain and feeder,' 1766.—3. 'Actor or actress whose part simply feeds that of a more important comedian': theatrical coll.: 1800; ob. Ware.

feeding. Tiresome; boring; disgusting: from ca. 1910. Ex feed, v., 5; cf. fed-up, q.v.

feeding-birk. A cookshop: c.: late C. 19-20. Ware, "Birk" being possibly a corruption of "barrack".

feeding-bottle. A woman's paps: low coll. C. 19-20; ob.

feek. See feke.

feel. To take liberties with (one of the opposite sex): low coll.: C. 18-20.—2. V.i., with infinitive, to feel, imagine, that one does: low coll. (— 1836); ob. (O.E.D.) Cf. feel like, q.v.

feel cheap. See cheap, feel.

feel like. To have an inclination for a thing or—esp. in form feel like doing—to do something: from ca. 1870, orig. (— 1855), U.S.: coll. A 1933-4 trade-slogan ran: 'A. I feel like a Guinness.—B. I jolly well wish you were!'

feel like a boiled (or chewed) rag, or like nothing on earth. See resp., boiled rag and nothing on earth.

feel one's oats. See oats, feel one's.

feel one's own man. To feel (quite) oneself, i.e. fit or normal: coll.; from ca. 1910. Cecil Litchfield in Baffles.

feel the collar. To perspire while walking: stable coll. (— 1909). Ware.

feel the draught. To be gravely inconvenienced; esp., to be hard put to it financially: 1925 (O.E.D. Sup.).

feel the shrimps. See can't you feel the shrimps?

feele. A girl; a daughter; loosely, a child (H., 1st ed.). In pl., occ. = mother and daughter. Low Cockney: from ca. 1840. Ex It. figlia, via Lingua Franca. In Parlyaree, often feelier (Seago, 1933). Cf. dona(h), q.v.

feeler. A tentative question, comment, or device: from ca. 1830; coll. till ca. 1890, then S.E. Tait's Magazine, Sept., 1841, 'The Times is putting out feelers on the corn-law question.'—2. The hand: c. (— 1877); ob. Cf. famble.

feelier. See feele.

feet P, how's your poor. A c.p. rampant in 1862, nearly † in 1890.

feet, officer of. An infantry officer: military: ca. 1750-1830. Grose, 1st ed. Cf. foot-slogger, q.v.

feet-casements. Boots; shoes: low: from ca. 1840; ob. by 1920. Cf. trotter-cases.

feet for children's stockings, make. To beget children: low coll.: mid-C. 18-early 19. Grose, 1st ed.

feet uppermost, lie. To receive a man sexually: low coll.: C. 19-20; ob. Cf. have a good look round.

fegary, figary; flagary. A whim; a prank: coll.; ca. 1600-1850. Vagary corrupted.

fegs. A late C. 16-18, now dial., expletive: faith distorted; cf. gay.

feint. A pawnbroker: o.: ca. 1830-70. † punning S.E. feint and c. fence.

feke. Methylated spirits: c. (— 1932). See the next entry. Also finish (and finish-drinker).

feke-drinker. A drinker of methylated spirits in either water or beer: c.: from ca. 1920. His life 'is a short one, and most of it he passes in prison in a terrible reaction', T. B. G. Mackenzie in The Fortnightly Review, March, 1932. Presumably feke = fake, faked.

Felix. A man that stands another a drink: military: late C. 19-20; ob. F. & Gibbons.

fell. Fallen: sol.: C. 19-20, and prob. much earlier. Baumann.

fell a bit on. To act craftily or underhandedly: tailors': from ca. 1850; ob. Fell, in tailors' j., = to stitch down (a wide edge) so that it lies smooth.

fell-and-didn't. A person lame-walking: tailors': from ca. 1840.

fella(h); feller. A coll. pronunciation, the former somewhat affected and aristocratic, and form of fellow: resp. C. 20 and from ca. 1870. Esp. young fella(h)—or feller—me lad, jocular vocative: C. 20. (O.E.D. Sup.) Winifred Holtby, Truth Is Not Sober, 1934, 'Among the things a Fella does, correct grammar is not necessarily included' (1931).—2. See:

feller in 'pidgin', esp. in that of the South Seas and of Australia, is a tautological perennial—of no, or little, meaning and frequent use. Thus, in Ion L. Idriess, Lasseter's Last Ride, 1931, we find: "'How much you want longa these feller spears?' inquired Taylor"; a black gin defining a pair of well-worn corsets as 'that feller belly leggings'; and 'The [Australian] natives have no idea of counting. Any number above four they describe as "big feller mob".'

fellow. As a male person it is S.E. of M.E.—C. 20; as 'chap' it is coll. (— 1711). Note my dear or good fellow and what a fellow!—2. A sweetheart: coll.: late C. 19-20.—3. Jocularly, C. 19-20, of animals: coll.

fellow, a. One; anybody; even, myself: coll.: from ca. 1860. Hughes, 1861. (O.E.D.) In C. 20, esp. post-War, occ. used of themselves by would-be mannish girls.

fellow, old. A familiar, gen. affectionate, term of address: coll.: C. 19-20.—2. In some English schools it = a former member of the school (— 1844); ob. (O.E.D.) fellow-commoner. An empty bottle: Cambridge (— 1785); ob. by 1900. Grose, 1st ed. The Oxford term was gentleman commoner. Contrast empty bottle, q.v.

fellow-feeling. A ceiling: rhyming s.: late C. 19-20. B. & P.

felon. Felony: c.: C. 18. A New Canting Dict., 1725; Grose. The term had existed in this sense in C. 14. See also dose, 1. felonious. Thievish: (somewhat low) coll.: mid-C. 18-20.

feloosh. Moncy: coll. among soldiers with service where Arabic is spoken: C. 20. Direct ex Arabic.

felt. A hat made of felted wool: coll. until ca. 1600, then S.E. Dekker; Moncrieff, 1823, 'Don't nibble the felt, Jerry.' (Caution: perhaps always S.E., even when, as occ. in C. 17, used of any hat whatsoever.)

fem. See fam, n.

female, a woman, has long been pejorative: in C. 20 it has a coll. hue.

feme. In C. 16-early 17 a coll., jocular in this survival of Anglo-Fr. legal usage, for a woman. (S.O.D.)

fen. A harlot; esp. a very low one: late C. 17—early 19.—Hence, 2, a procuress: C. 18—early 19. Both are c.; B.E., Grose, 1st ed. Prob. ex † fen, mud, filth.—3. A 'fence' (see n., 1): c.: late C. 17—18. B.E. (not at fen).

fen! An early (— 1815) variant of or alternative to fains, q.v.; esp. at marbles. Cf. also fin, and finjy that or you, Winchester College and Christ's Hospital resp. As a gen. term of protest or warning it has the † variant fen live lumber! (— 1877). Note F. & H. at fains!, fen, fin, and finjy!; and, here, see fains! Perhaps ex fend.

fen-nightingale. A frog; occ. a toad: coll.: from ca. 1860; ob. H., 3rd ed. Cf. Cambridgeshire nightingale, q.v.

fence. A purchaser or receiver, and/or a storer of stolen goods: late C. 17—early 19 c.; then low; then, in C. 20, increasingly gen. B.E., Dyche, Grose, Dickens. Cf. billy-fencer and father. For etymology, see the v., 1.—2. A place where stolen goods are received or purchased, and/or stored: from ca. 1700. Always c. Cf. dolly-shop, fencing-crib.

fence, v.i. To purchase or receive, and/or store, stolen goods: c. (— 1610). Rowlands, Martin Mark-All.—2. V.t. To spend (money): late C. 17—18: c. Coles, 1676; B.E. Both n. and v., 1, derive ex S.E. fence = defence, while fence, v., 2, is prob. a deliberate derivation from v., 1.—3. To sell: c. (— 1839). Brandon.

fence, over the. (Of a person) unashamed, scandalous; greedy; very unreasonable: New Zealanders' coll. variation (late C. 19—20) of S.E. beyond the pale. Perhaps ex local rules for cricket.

fence, sit (up)on the. (Rarely ride, occ. be.) To be neutral, waiting to see who wins: orig. political s., ex U.S. (— 1830), anglicised ca. 1870; in C. 20, coll.

fence-shop. A shop where stolen property is sold: low coll.: from ca. 1780; ob. G. Parker.

fencer. A tramp; gen. with a defining term (as in driz-fencer), a(n) itinerant hawk: vagrants' c.: C. 19—20.—2. A receiver of stolen goods: c. > low: from ca. 1690; ob. B.E.—3. A horse that runs well near the barrier: the turf (— 1923). Man-chon.

fences, crash one's. See crash one's fences. Cf. rush one's fences.

fencing. The 'profession' of purchasing or storing stolen goods: orig. (ca. 1850), c.; in C. 20, low.

fencing-crib, C. 19—20, -ken, late C. 17—early 19. A place where stolen property is purchased or hidden: c. The former, Ainsworth; the latter, B.E.

fencing-cully. A broker or receiver of stolen goods: mid. C. 17—early 19. Coles; B.E.; Bailey; Grose, 2nd ed. See fence, n., 1.

fend off. To take: New Zealand c. (— 1932). I.e. fend a thing off from another, i.e. for oneself.

Fenian, a. Threepence-worth of Irish whiskey and cold water: taverns': either from 1867, when the Fenians Allen, Larkin and O'Brien ('the Manchester Martyrs') were hanged for the murder of Police Sergeant Brett; or from 1882, when three Fenians were hanged—and therefore grew cold—for the murder of Cavendish and Burke in the Phoenix Park, Dublin. Also three cold Irish: which likewise was ob. by 1910, † by 1920. Ware.

feoffer, feoffo(u)r. Incorrectly for feoffee: C. 15—early 17. O.E.D.

fer. Far. A sol., only in pronunciation.—2. For: C. 18—20. Cf. ter for to.

ferdegew. A C. 16 (? later) sol.: farthingale. (O.E.D.)

fere. See exes to fere.

Ferguson, you can't lodge here(, Mr.). A London c.p., ca. 1845—50. (Ex the difficulties experienced, in 1845, by a drunk, not a drunken, Scotsman named Ferguson, in getting lodgings.) In denial or in derision.

Feringhee. A foreigner: Anglo-Indian: from ca. 1630. From ca. 1880, contemptuous. Ex the C. 10—20 Oriental, esp. the Persian and Arabic, hence also the Hindi adaptation of Frank, the -ee representing the ethnic suffix -i. (W.)

ferk!; ferking. See furk!, furking.—2. A variant of the Winchester firk, q.v. (R. G. K. Wrench.)

ferm(e). A hole: C. 17—18: c. Dekker, Grose, 1st ed.—2. Occ. a cave, a prison. Ex Fr. fermer.

fermedy or formerly beggars. All beggars that lack sham sores: c.: late C. 17—18. B.E. Prob. ex Fr. fermé, closed, shut.

fernan bag. A small 'ditty bag' for tobacco and such trifles: nautical: C. 19. Bowen. Origin obscure; quite irrationally, I suspect a connexion with Pernambuco: cf. the † S.E. Fernanbuck, (of) Brazil.

Fernleaves. New Zealanders; esp. N.Z. soldiers: military coll.: 1915. F. & Gibbons. Ex the badge of the N.Z. soldiers.

ferret. A dunning tradesman, esp. on 'young Unthrifths': c.: late C. 17—early 19 c. B.E.—2. Whence, a pawnbroker: c.: C. 18—early 19. A New Canting Dict., 1725.—3. A barge-thief: late C. 19—20 c. F. & H.

ferret, v.t. To cheat: c.: late C. 17—mid-19. B.E.; Grose, 1st ed. Ex the idea of sharpness. Cf. n., 1.

ferreting. (From the male angle) the act of kind: ex the method of hunting rats and rabbits with a ferret. C. 19—20; ob.

ferricadouzer. A knock-down blow: orig. pugilistic (— 1851); ob. Mayhew. Ex It. fare cadere, to fell, + dosso, back, prob. via Lingua Franca.

ferrup(s) appears in C. 17—19 exclamations; from ca. 1830, dial. ? echoic.

fess. To confess; own up: coll.: C. 19—20. More gen. in U.S. than in England.

fess, adj. Proud: schoolboys': C. 19—20; ob.

festive. 'Loud; fast; a kind of general utility word', F. & H.: ca. 1870—1910. Cf.:—2. (Of a new boy) 'who has not learnt his duty to his superiors and seniors', A. H. Tod: Charterhouse (— 1900). Hence festivity, cheekiness. Cf. fess, adj.

fetch. A success: coll.: C. 19.—2. A likeness—ex the S.E. sense, an apparition—as in 'the very fetch of him': coll.: from ca. 1830. (As = a trick or stratagem, S.E.)

fetch, v. (As = to attract greatly, S.E. though not dignified.)—2. To deal (a blow), make (a stroke or other movement): M.E.—C. 20: S.E. till C. 19, then coll.—3. To obtain a summons against (a person): coll.; from ca. 1840. Cf. fetch law of.—4. To go to (a certain prison), e.g. fetch Pentonville: c.: C. 20. 'Stuart Wood', Shades of the Prison House, 1932. Also, more gen., to attain to, get access to: coll.: from ca. 1875. See farm, 2; G. Ingram, Stir, 1933, 'A few tried to "fetch" the Asylum by feigning insanity.' Ex the sense in nautical j.: to arrive at.—5. (Of a pump) to empty the bilge: Conway cadets' coll.: from ca. 1860. John Masefield, The Conway, 1860. Prob. an abbr. of fetch the water up.

fetch a circumbendibus. Make a detour: C. 19–20; ob.

fetch . . . a crack. To strike (a person): (? low) coll.: 1853, Dickens (E.D.D.). fetch a howl. To weep noisily; cry out: low coll.: C. 19–20. (Fetch = utter, however, is S.E. as in fetch a groan or a sigh.)

fetch a lagging. To be imprisoned; serve one's term: C. 19–20 c.; ob. (By itself, fetch, to get, is S.E.) fetch . . . a stinger. To strike (gen. a person) heavily: coll.: from ca. 1860.

fetch away. To part; separate: coll.: from ca. 1850; ob. 'A fool and his money are soon fetched away,' F. & H.

fetch law of. To bring an action against: coll. (— 1832). Ob. (O.E.D.) Cf. fetch, v., 3.

fetch down. To bring down by blow or shot: coll.: from ca. 1700.—2. To force down (prices, value): coll.; from ca. 1840.

fetch the brewer. See brewer.—fetch the farm. See farm.

fetching. Attractive: from ca. 1880: coll. until ca. 1925, then S.E. not yet literary.

fetid waistcoat. See waistcoat, 2.

fettle, in good or proper. Drunk: coll.: ca. 1875–1920.

few, a good. A fair number: coll. (and dial.): from ca. 1860. (O.E.D.) Cf.:

few, (just) a. Adv., much, greatly; decidedly, certainly: a. > coll.: from ca. 1760; ob. Dickens, in Bleak House, 'Mr. Smallwood bears the concise testimony, a few.' Cf. rather!, the U.S. some, and the Fr. un peu, which last may be the source.

few pence short in the shilling, a. A c.p. = 'silly'; half-witted; (slightly) mad: C. 20.

ff for v. See 'f for th', 2.

fi. Five: sol.: C. 19–20. Manchon. As in fi-pence.

fi-fa. Abbr. feri facias, a legal writ: legal: C. 18–20. Cf. feri facias, q.v.

fi-fi. See fi-fie.

fi-heath. A thief: back s. (— 1859). H., 1st ed. By euphonic manipulation.

fiasco. A fiancé; occ., a fiancée: jocular coll.: from ca. 1920. Cf. finance.

fib. A trifling falsehood: early C. 17–20; a lie: C. 17–20. Coll. Perhaps ex † fible-fable (on fable): W.—2. A liar: coll. (— 1861); an isolated pre-C. 19 instance occurs in C. 16 (O.E.D.). H. Kingsley, in Ravenshoe, "Oh! you dreadful fib," said Flora.—3. A blow: low coll. or s.: from ca. 1814 (O.E.D.), when boxing was at its palmyest. Ex fib, v., 3, 4.

fib. To tell a trivial lie: late C. 17–20. Dryden. Prob. ex fib, n., 1, q.v. Hence, 2, to tell a lie: in C. 18, chiefly among children (Johnson). Congreve, 1694, 'You fib, you baggage, you do understand, and you shall understand.—3. To beat, thrash, strike: mid-C. 17–18 c.; Head, Coles.—Hence, 4, in C. 19 pugilism, v.t. and i., to punch in rapid repetition. Southey, 1811; Thackeray ('My boy; fib with your right'). Origin obscure: but cf. possibly fake, v., and certainly job, v.

fibber. A liar, orig. small, soon great or small: coll.: from ca. 1720.

fibbery. The telling of lies: from ca. 1850; ob. coll. 'Ducange Anglicus.'

fibbing. The telling of lies: coll.; from ca. 1740. Fielding.—2. In pugilism, C. 19, a rapid pummelling; a sound beating. Tom Moore. See fib, v., 4.

fibbing-gloak. A boxer: c.: early C. 19. Vaux. See fib, v., 4. Gloak, a man.

fibbing-match. A prize-fight: c.: C. 19. Vaux. Ex fib, v., 4.

fice or foyse. 'A small windy escape backwards, more obvious to the nose than ears', Grose, 2nd ed.: late C. 18–19; low coll. Earlier, S.E., esp. as fist.

fid. A quid of tobacco: late C. 18–20 (ob.): nautical. Grose, 2nd ed. (Collinson's fid, a true derivative, is ineligible, being a mere personal 'neologism'. Ex fid, an oakum-plug for the vent of a gun.

fiddle. A sharper, occ. as old fiddle: C. 18–early 19. Ex fiddle, v., 2, q.v.—2. A watchman's or policeman's rattle: low: ca. 1820–50. Moncrieff.—3. A sixpence (cf. fiddler, 3): from ca. 1850.—4. The female pudend: low: from ca. 1800. Cf. strum, v.—5. One-sixteenth of £1: Stock Exchange: from ca. 1820; ob.—6. A writ to arrest: late C. 17–early 19 c.: B.E.; Grose, 1st ed. Cf. face the music.—7. A whip: low: mid-C. 19–20 (ob.). 'Ducange Anglicus.'—8. 'A piece of rope and a long crooked nail' for the picking of oakum: prison c. (— 1877).—9. An exasperating task or job: lower classes' coll. (— 1923). Manchon. Ex fiddling job.

fiddle, v. To play the fiddle: M.E.—C. 20: S.E. till ca. 1820, then coll.—2. To cheat: C. 17–20; S.E. until ca. 1800, revived by the underworld ca. 1840. Mayhew.—3. Hence, to make a living from small jobs done on the street (cf. S.E. sense, to trifle): mid-C. 19–20; ob. H., 1st ed.—4. To punch: pugilistic: ca. 1830–1900.—5. (In C. 19–20, gen. with adv. about) to play about intimately with, to caress familiarly, a woman, v.t. (with in C. 19–20): C. 17–20: coll. In this sense 'to play as on a fiddle' is prob. cognate with 'fiddle, fidget with the hands', which 'may belong . . . to Old Norse fila, to touch with the fingers', W.—6. To drug (liquor): c. (— 1899). Clarence Rook, The Hooligan Nights. Perhaps ex sense 2.

fiddle, fit as a. Excellent; in good health, condition, form: coll.; from ca. 1610. Beaumont & Fletcher; J. Payn. Cf. the dial. as fine as a fiddle.

fiddle, get at the. To cheat: low and/or commercial: late C. 19–20.

fiddle, hang up the. To desist, esp. from an enterprise: coll.; from ca. 1870.

fiddle, have a face as long as a. To look dismal, extremely depressed: coll.; C. 18–20.

fiddle, have one's face made of a. To be irresistibly attractive or charming: coll.; from ca. 1660. Smollett, Scott.

fiddle, play first (ob.) or second fiddle. To occupy an important, esp. the most important, part or to have but a secondary place: coll.: from ca. 1770. Dickens, 'Tom had no idea of playing first fiddle in any social orchestra,' 1843.

fiddle, Scotch and Welsh. See those adjj.

fiddle, second. An unpleasant job: tailors': ca. 1870–1915.

fiddle-back. 'A chasuble having a fiddle-shaped back': coll.: late C. 19–20. O.E.D. (Sup.).

fiddle-bow. The penis: cf. fiddle, n., 4. Low: from ca. 1830; ob.

fiddle-de-dee !, fiddle-faddle !, fiddlestick(s) ! Coll. interjections of resp. C. 18-20 (ob.), C. 17-early 19, C. 17-20 (ob.).

fiddle-face. A wizened-faced person: dial. and coll.: ca. 1850-1900. H., 1st ed. Prob. ex:—2. One with a long, unhappy face: coll.: late C. 18-20; ob. Hence adj. fiddle-faced. Cf.:

fiddle-headed. Plain; ugly: nautical: from ca. 1840. Cf. fiddle-face, q.v.—2. Empty-headed: coll., first (O.E.D.) recorded in 'You fiddle-headed brute !' (to a horse), Whyte-Melville, 1854.

fiddle-strings, fret oneself to. See fret . . .

fiddle when one comes home, hang up one's. To be merry or witty abroad, but not at home: coll.: C. 19-20. Ex the C. 18-20 synonymous Derbicism hang the fiddle at the door.

fiddler. A sharper or a cheat: low: C. 19-20; ob. Ex fiddle, v., 2.—2. A prize-fighter, esp. one who jumps about a great deal: pugilistic: ca. 1830-1910. Ex fiddle, v., 4.—3. A sixpence: low (— 1853); † by 1920. H., 1st ed. Prob. ex fiddler's money, q.v. (Whence fiddle, sixpence.)—4. Also a farthing: ca. 1855-1900. H., 1859.—5. A capstan-house: nautical (— 1874); very ob. H., 5th ed. Because, on some ocean-going ships, it was the only place where passengers were allowed to smoke and because, while the sailors worked the capstan-bars, 'a man sometimes played on the fiddle to cheer them at their toil'.—6. (Fiddler.) The French racehorse, Fille de l'Air; cf. Potato (or -er), the French horse, Peut-Être: both, sporting: first decade, C. 20. Ware.—7. A 'wangler', a constant schemer or contriver: c.: C. 20. Anon., Dartmoor from Within, 1932. Perhaps ex fiddle, n., 8, influenced by v., 2.—8. A trumpeter: a bugler: military: late C. 19-20; ob. F. & Gibbons.

fiddler's bitch, drunk as a. Extremely tipsy: lower-class coll.: mid-C. 19-20. (A. Hyder, Black Girl, 1934.)

fiddler's fare. Meat, drink, and money: coll.: ca. 1780-1850. Grose. Cf. fiddlers' pay.

Fiddler's Green. The traditional heaven of sailors, esp. of those who die ashore: from ca. 1820: nautical coll. Marryat, in Snarley-Yow:

'At Fiddler's Green, where seamen true,
When here they've done their duty,
The bowl of grog shall still renew,
And pledge to love and beauty.'

Bowen defines it as 'a place of unlimited rum and tobacco'.

fiddler's money. All small change, esp. sixpences: coll.: mid-C. 18-early 19; since, dial. In C. 18, each couple paid 6d. 'for musick at country wakes and hops', Grose, 1st ed. Cf.:

fiddler's pay. 'Thanks and wine', B.E.: ca. 1660-1750: coll. Cf. preceding entry. In C. 16-early 17, fiddler's wages, which gen. = thanks (without even the wine): likewise coll.

fiddlestick. A spring saw: Scottish c.: ca. 1820-1910. Egan's Grose.—2. The male member: C. 19-20, ob.; low. Cf. fiddle-bow.—3. A sword: late C. 16-17 jocular. Shakespeare.—4. Substituted for another word in jocular derision (hence coll.), as in "He won a patriot's crown," said Henry. "A patriot's fiddlestick," replied Bill.' C. 19-20. In this last sense, often (though not in C. 20) replaced by fiddlestick's end, q.v. fiddlestick, not to care a. To care not a whit: coll.: from ca. 1800.

fiddlestick's end(s). Nothing: late C. 18-early 19: coll. Grose, 2nd ed. Cf. fiddlestick, 4.

fiddling. A livelihood from odd street-jobs; esp. the selling of matches in the streets (M. Harrison, Spring in Tartarus, 1935): low coll. (— 1851). Cf. fiddle, v., 3, q.v.—2. In low s. (— 1850), buying very cheaply and selling at a good price.—3. In c. esp. among gamesters, gambling: mid-C. 19-20; ob. 'Ducange Anglicus.'

fiddad, fid-fad. A 'fuss-pot', an habitual fusser; a fiddling trifle: coll.: from ca. 1750; ob. Goldsmith, 1754, 'The youngest . . . is . . . an absolute fid-fad.'

fidge. Fidgeting (habit, action); fidgetiness: C. 18-20.—2. A fuss: C. 19. Likewise coll. (when not dial.).—3. A fidgety person: coll. or dial. (— 1884). S.O.D. Also in phrase, be in a fidge, to be restless, fidgety. The term derives ex fidge, to fidget.

fidibus. A paper spill: cultured coll. (— 1829); ob. Ex C. 17 Ger. students' s. O.E.D., W.

fidlam- (or fidlum-)ben, late C. 18-19 (Grose, 1st ed.); -cove, C. 19. A general thief: c. Cf. fiddle, n., 1, and St. Peter's son.

fie-fie, occ. fi-fi. Of improper character (persons): coll.; from ca. 1810.—2. Hence, a woman of damaged repute: ca. 1820-1900.—3. Smutty, indecent: cultured coll.; from ca. 1860. ? begun by Thackeray, referring to Paul de Kock's novels.

fie-for-shame. The female genitals: school-girls': from ca. 1820. Cf. money.

field. 'To support, take care of in swimming': Winchester College: mid-C. 19-20. Wrench. Perhaps ex fielding at cricket.

field, crop the. To win easily: horse-racing: from ca. 1870; ob. (Double pun.)

Field-Grey. A German soldier: coll.: 1914. Ex the colour of his uniform (feldgrau). See esp. W. F. Morris's exciting War novel, Bretherton: Khaki or Field Grey?, 1929.

Field-Lane duck. A baked sheep's-head: late C. 18-19. Grose, 1st ed. Ex a low London thoroughfare leading from the bottom of Holborn to Clerkenwell and, for the greater part, demolished ca. 1870.

field of wheat. A street: rhyming s.: late C. 19-20; rare. (G. H. McKnight, English Words, 1923.)

field-running. The building of 'rickety houses rapidly over suburban fields': builders': ca. 1860-1910. Ware. Cf. the ease with which tongue-in-cheek barbarians (financiers, they call themselves) evade, and the cynicism with which Governments allow them to evade, the strictures on 'ribbon-development' in the 1930's.

fielder. One who backs the field, i.e. the rest, against the favourite: from ca. 1850. Also, a bookmaker: ca. 1865-90. The turf. Cf.:

fielding. The laying of odds against the favourite: horse-racing (— 1874); ob. H., 5th ed.

fields of temptation. 'The attractions held out to young men at the university', Egan's Grose: Oxford University: ca. 1820-40.

fierce. Objectionable, unpleasant; difficult, very inconvenient: from ca. 1920. From U.S., where it dates from ca. 1905. Richard Keverne, Artifex Intervenes, 1934, 'A rather fierce, night-clubbish woman'. Ex:—2. Exceptional in some way: U.S., anglicised ca. 1910. A. E. W. Mason, The Dean's Elbow, 1930, "'Such a one!" "A regular comic." "Fierce, I call him."' feri facias, to have been served with a writ of. Have a countenance habitually red: late C. 16–20; in C. 16–17, legal; in 18–19, gen.; in 20, † except in legal s.—and even there it is decidedly ob. (Cf. fi-fa, q.v.) Nashe, Dryden, Grose, H. Ex the English pronunciation of the L. phrase (lit., cause to be done!), with a pun on fiery face.

fiery furnace has that (got) to do with you? what the. What the hell, etc.: euphemistic (— 1923); ob. Manchon.

fiery lot. A fast man: coll.: ca. 1880–1900. Cf. hot stuff.

fiery snorter. A red nose, snorter being a nose: from ca. 1870; ob.

ff. Fifteen, in calling lawn-tennis scores: (trivial) coll.: from ca. 1890.—2. Also of time: coll.: C. 20. (E. F. Benson, David of King's, 1924, “Where and when?” “Two fiff. Our ground”.)

fiffer. A waistcoat workman: tailors’: from ca. 1860.

fifteen-puzzle. a. Confusion; incomprehensibility: coll.: middle-class coll.: ca. 1880–90. Ex a type of puzzle (movable cubes) very fashionable in 1879. Ware.

fifteen years of undetected crime. (Applied to) the long service and good-conduct medal: naval (ca. 1895) >, by 1910, also military. Bowen.

fifteener. A book printed in C. 16: bibliographical coll.: 1830. In C. 20, S.E.

fifth, and so forth and so. And so on: c.p.: C. 20; ob. Punning fourth.

fifth rib, dig or hit or poke one under the. To hit hard; dumbfound: coll. (— 1890). Ex C. 17–19 S.E. smite under the fifth rib, i.e. to the heart.

fifty-fifty, adv. Equally; adj., equal: coll., orig. U.S.; anglicised resp. ca. 1914, 1920. I.e., on a basis of 50%. (O.E.D. Sup.)

fig, occ. fig of Spain. A contemptuous gesture made by thrusting the thumb forth from between the first two fingers: whence not to care or give a fig for a person (see curse, dam(n), straw, etc.). In C. 16–17 often as fico. Coll. Shakespeare, ‘Fico for thy friendship’.—2. The pudendum muliebre: C. 19–20 (ob.) low. Semantically connected with the gesture.—3. See fig, in full.—4. A coin (value unknown) issued by a counterfeiter: c. (— 1798). O.E.D. Also fig-thing.

fig, v. To ginger (a horse): C. 19–20; stables’. ‘Jon Bee’, 1823. Ex feague, q.v.—2. In c., mid-C. 16–18, v.i., to steal. Cf. feague and fake.—3. The same (late C. 19–20) as its original:

fig, give (a person) the. To defy with contemptuous gesture (see fig, n.): from late C. 16; ob.

fig, in full. In full dress: s. >, ca. 1880, coll.: from ca. 1840. Hughes, ‘Where we go in full fig of cap and gown’, 1861. Perhaps ex feague (v.); perhaps fig-leaf; prob. abbr. figure.

fig-boy. A pickpocket: c. of ca. 1550–1620. O.E.D. Ex fig, v., 2.

fig-leaf. A small apron worn by women: from ca. 1870; ob. H., 5th ed. Ex the fencing protective pad.

fig out, v.t. and reflexive. To dress in one’s best: coll.; from ca. 1820; ob.

fig-thing; occ. figthing. See fig, n., 4.

fig up. To restore, reanimate, enliven: coll. (— 1819). T. Moore, ‘In vain did they try to fig up the old lad.’ Ex fig, v., 1.

figaries. Roguery; pranks: low coll., mostly London (— 1887). Baumann. Ex the very gen. dial. form of vagaries.

figaro. A barber: cultured: from ca. 1860; ob. H., 3rd ed. Ex the popularity of the opera, Le Nozze di Figaro.

figdean. To kill: c. of ca. 1810–80. Lex. Bal. ? ex Fr. figer.

figger, figure. See fagger and cf. diver.—2. A Levantine trading-ship or trader, orig. from Smyrna only: nautical: mid-C. 19–20. Bowen. Ex the staple fig.

figging-law or occ. figging-lay. Pocket-picking: c. of C. 16–early 19, C. 18–early 19. Ex fig, v., 2.

figgins. See figs.

figgy-dowdy and -duff. A boiled fruit-pudding: nautical coll.: mid-C. 19–20, the former being used orig. and mainly by West Country seamen. Smyth (-dowdy); Bowen (both). Cf. Shropshire dial. figgetty-dumpling, a boiled pudding made with figs.

fight. A party, as in tea-fight: coll.; from ca. 1870. Cf. worry.

fight a bag of shit, not be able to. To be no good at fisticuffs: low Australian coll.; from ca. 1905. More gen., not to be able to fight one’s way out of a paper bag: id.: C. 20.

fight or play cocum. See cocum.

fight in silver. To fight in silver spurs: cock-fighting coll. (— 1823). Bee.

fight one’s way out of a paper bag, unable to or can (or could) not. See fight a bag . . .

fight space with a hairpin. To attempt the impossible: Oxford University coll.: 1882–ca. 1914. Ware.

fight the old soldier. See old soldier, fight the.

fight (or buck) the tiger. To play against the bank, orig. and esp. at faro: U.S. (fight, 1851; buck, late C. 19), anglicised ca. 1900, but never wholly acclimatised. Thornton.

Fighting Brigade, the. See Old and Bold, the.

fighting cove. A pugilist, esp. one travelling with fairs: low; mostly tramps’ (— 1880).

fighting drunk. Quarrelsome tipsy: coll.; from ca. 1890.

Fighting Fifteenth. The 15th Hussars: military coll.: traditionally from 1760, ex their exploits at Emsdorff. F. & Gibbons.

Fighting Fifth, the. The 5th Foot Regiment, in late C. 19–20 the Northumberland Fusiliers: military coll.: from ca. 1810; ob. Also The Old Bold Fifth and Lord Wellington’s Body Guard, both from ca. 1811; also The Shiners, from 1764. Cf. Fighting Fours and Fighting Ninth.

Fighting Fitzgerald. George Fitzgerald, a C. 18 swashbuckling dandy and duellist. Dawson.

Fighting Fortieth. The Prince of Wales’s Volunteers, before 1881 the 40th Foot Regiment: military coll.: mid-C. 19–20. F. & Gibbons, ‘Dating from the Sikh Wars of 1843 and 1848’.

Fighting Fours, the. The 44th Foot Regiment: military coll. (— 1881). Ware.

Fighting Mac. General MacPherson of the R.A.M.C.: English R.A.M.C.’s nickname for him in G.W. (Philip Gosse, Memoirs of a Camp-Follower, 1934.)

Fighting Ninth, the. The 9th Foot, from 1881 the Norfolk Regiment: military coll.: C. 18–20; ob. Also The Holy Boys: from ca. 1810.

Fighting Parson, the. See Parson Bate.

figtist. A fighter: jocular coll.: 1877, The Daily News, Oct. 8 (O.E.D.); ob.

figs; occ. figgins. A grocer: coll.: from ca. 1870. Ex his commodities.

fig's end. A c.p. replacing another word: cf. fiddlestick's end and nothing. Coll.; C. 17-18. Shakespeare.—2. Also, same period, as exclamation.

figure. A price; value; amount to be paid: coll.; from ca. 1840. In C. 20, S.E. Sala, 1883, 'The "figure" to be paid to Madame Adelina Patti for her forthcoming season'.—2. (Esp. in no figure.) The female breasts and buttocks: coll.; from ca. 1870. The post-War term is curves.—3. A person untidy or, in appearance, grotesque (quite a figure, such a figure, etc.): coll., 1774. (O.E.D.)—4. See fagger.

figure, v. In billiards (— 1891), to single out or 'spot'.—2. App. only as figure on, as in The Gentleman's Magazine, 1773, 'His antagonist . . . figured on him . . . at . . . whist, about £200,' i.e. totalled against him: non-proletarian; † by 1900. O.E.D.

figure, cut a. See cut a figure.

figure-dancer. One who alters the face value of banknotes, cheques, bills, etc.: late C. 18-19: c. Grose, 2nd ed. Ex S.E. sense, a performer in a figure-dance.

figure-fancier. One who prefers his 'women' to be large: low: ca. 1870-1910. Ex figure, n., 2.

figure-head. The face: nautical: from 1840 (in Marryat).

figure-maker. A wench: low; from ca. 1875. Ex figure, n., 2.

figure of fun. An oddity: coll.: from ca. 1810; slightly ob. Cf. figure, n., 3.

figure on. See figure, v., 2.

figure, occ. number, six. 'A lock of hair brought down from the forehead, greased, twisted spirally, and plastered on the face', F. & H. C. of ca. 1840-95. Mayhew, 'Hair . . . done in figure-six curls'. Cf. aggravator, q.v.

filbert. A very fashionable man about town: Society: ca. 1900-20. Popularised by the song about 'Gilbert | The filbert, | Colonel of the Nuts'. See nut.—2. The head, as in:

filbert, cracked in the. Slightly—or very—eccentric; crazy: Cockney: from ca. 1880; ob. Baumann.

filch. A hooked stick or staff wherewith to steal: c.: C. 17-18. Fletcher, 1622 (O.E.D.). Abbr. filchman, q.v. Grose gives variant filel: almost certainly a misprint for filer, q.v.—2. Something stolen: C. 17-20, increasingly rare.—3. A thief: more gen. filcher: from ca. 1770. Ex the v.—4. See filch, on the.

filch, v. To steal; pilfer; rarely, rob: c. in mid-C. 16-early 18, then low s.: in late C. 19-20, low coll. Awdelay. Possibly ex filchman; perhaps, however, cognate with file, q.v.—2. To beat, strike: c.: mid-C. 16-17. Cf. fib, v.

filch, on the. On the watch for something to steal: c. (— 1877). Anon., Five Years' Penal Servitude, 1877. Cf. bum, on the, q.v.

filcher. A thief, esp. an angler, q.v. In mid-C. 16-18, c.; then low; in C. 20, low coll. See filch, n., 2, and v., 1.

filching, vbl.n. Theft, thieving, robbery: mid-C. 16-20; c. until C. 18, low until ca. 1850.

filching cove, mort. A male, female thief: late C. 17-18: c. B.E., Grose.

filchman. A thief's hooked staff or stick: c.: mid-C. 16-17; cf. filch, n., 1. Awdelay, Head. The man is prob. -man, -mans, the c. suffix.

file; occ. foyl- or file-cloy. A pickpocket:

mid-C. 17-19 c. Head; B.E. Cf. bung-nipper and bulk, q.v.—2. Hence, a man, a chap; orig. a very cunning one: low (— 1812). Vaux; Dickens. Often in combination, e.g. old file, an elder. Ob. The word may derive ex the tool; perhaps, however, it is connected with Fr. filou, a pickpocket: cf. also Fr. lime sourde (O.E.D.).

file, v. To pick pockets; to pick the pockets of; occ., to cheat: c.: late C. 17-19 B.E. Cf. n., 1, and Fr. filouter.

file-cloy: C. 17-18; in C. 18 file-cly: whence file, n., 1, q.v. Cf.:

file-lifter. Also a pickpocket: c. of ca. 1670-1800. Cf. file, n., 1.

file on to. To grab; take: Canadian (— 1932). John Beames. Perhaps ex military j.

filel. The same as filch, n., 1: q.v. as to form.

filer. A pickpocket: c. of ca. 1670-1800. Rare. Ex file, v. (O.E.D.)

filing-lay. Pickpocketry: C. 18-19 c. Fielding. Ex file, v.

fill, give (a person) a. To put on the wrong scent; to deceive: c. (— 1909). Ware.

fill a gentleman's eye. (Of a dog) to have thoroughly good points: sporting, esp. dog fanciers': from ca. 1870. Ware.

fill one's pipe. To be able to retire from work: coll.: ca. 1810-1910. Egan, 'According to the vulgar phrase, to fill their pipe'.

fill the bill. To 'star': theatrical: ca. 1880-1910. Ex bill, a programme; fill refers to the large letters 'featuring' the star performer (W.).—2. Hence (? ex U.S.) to be effective, very competent, and, now †, to be a whopping lie: coll.; from ca. 1885.

fillaloo. A din, an uproar: lower classes' (— 1923). Manchon. A perversion of hullabaloo. In dial. (— 1892) as filliloo or fillyloo: E.D.D.

filler. A large coal, used in filling-out a sack with illicit intent: c. of late C. 16-early 17. Greene, A Notable Discovery, 1591.

fillet of veal. A house of correction: c. (— 1857); † by 1900. 'Ducange Anglicus.'

fillbrush. To flatter; praise insincerely, ironically: coll.: ca. 1860-90. H., 2nd ed. ? ex filly, q.v.

Fillin Jim. See Phil and Jim.

filling at the price. Satisfying: coll.; from ca. 1840; ob. London Figaro, May 28, 1870, concerning baked potatoes. Perhaps ex Dickens's remark about crumpets in Pickwick, ch. xlv.

fillip, give nature a. See give nature a fillip.

fillup(pe)y. Satisfying: ca. 1840-80. Cf. filling at the price.

filly. A girl; a wanton: from early C. 17. Etherage, 'Skittish fillies, but I never knew 'em boggle at a man before'.—2. In C. 19-20 c., a daughter. Ex Fr. fille; cf. feele, q.v.—3. 'A lady who goes racing pace in round dances': ball-rooms' (— 1909); virtually †. Ware.

filly and foal. 'A young couple of lovers sauntering apart from the world': proletarian (— 1909); ob. Ware.

filly-hunting. A search for amorous, obliging, or mercenary women: C. 19-20 low.

filchman. A C. 16 variant (a misspelling) of filchman, q.v.

filter. A synonym (— 1927; very ob.) of trickle, q.v. Collinson. Cf. ooze.

filth. A harlot: late C. 16-17 coll. > S.E. and dial. Shakespeare.

filthily. Very: C. 20. (G. Heyer, Death in the Stocks, 1935, 'He was filthily offensive.') Ex:

filthy. A C. 20 coll., pejorative and intensive adj., applied e.g. to an entertainment, holiday, present, etc., etc. Ian Hay, 'Pip', 1907; Collinson. Cf. foul. It occurs in Devonshire dial. as early as 1733 (E.D.D.) in the sense: excessive. Cf. the Oxfordshire 'I be in a filthy temper' (E.D.D., Sup.; 1905).

filthy, the. Money: from ca. 1875. Abbr.:

filthy lucre. Money: jocular coll. (in C. 20, S.E.) from ca. 1870.

fimble-famble. A poor excuse or an unsatisfactory answer: coll.: C. 19. Ex the ideas implicit in S.E. famble, fimble, and fumble.

fin. An arm; a hand: nautical > gen.: late C. 18-20. Grose, 1st ed (one-finned, having only one arm); Dickens; Thackeray. Tip the fin, to shake hands: from ca. 1850; slightly ob.—2. Abbr. (occ. finn) of finnup, q.v.—3. Variant of fen!, q.v. Cf. fains and finny.

final. The latest newspaper-edition on any given day: from ca. 1920: coll., now verging on S.E. C.O.D. (1934 Sup.).

[Final numbers. In Royal Air Force coll., from ca. 1915, 'it is usual to allude to aircraft by the final numbers of their Service registry—thus "K 1833" would be known in the Squadron as "33" to all and sundry. Nicknames and so on are rarely bestowed,' writes an R.A.F. officer.]

finals. (Orig. at Oxford.) The last of a series of examinations, esp. that for the B.A., B.D., B.E., or B.Sc. Coll.: from ca. 1894. Grant Allen. (S.O.D.)

finance. A fiancé, esp. if rich: jocular cultured; also Society s.: from ca. 1905. ? ex U.S. Cf. fiasco, q.v.

financial. In funds: Australian: C. 20. Jice Doone, to be a financial member, to have paid one's due subscription.

find. A mess of three or four upper-form boys, breakfasting or teaing in one another's rooms in turn. Hence, find-fag, a younger boy attending to a 'find's' wants. Harrow: late C. 19-20; ob.—2. A person worth knowing, a thing worth having: C. 20 coll.—3. See find, a sure.

find, v. To suffer from, feel to an unpleasant extent (esp. the temperature): coll. (ob.) and dial. in C. 19-20; formerly, S.E. (O.E.D.)—2. To steal: military, G.W.+-. Cf. earn, win; also make. Perhaps reminiscent of the C. 16-18 proverbial find things before they are lost. Cf. Ger. finden in military s.; note, too, that Cæsar uses invenire thus in his Gallic Wars.

find, a sure. A person, occ. a thing, sure to be found: coll.: 1838, Thackeray. O.E.D.

find a pie. To find a person willing to make a small loan or to offer a drink: theatrical: C. 20. See pie.

find cold weather. To be ejected: public-houses' (—1909); ob. Ware. Cf. give (a person) the key of the street.

find it. To back a winner: turf c.: C. 20. Slang, p. 245.

finder. A thief, esp. in a meat-market: c., from ca. 1850. H., 1st ed.—2. A waiter: university, esp. Gonville & Caius College, Cambridge: C. 19.

fine. A punishment, esp. imprisonment: Hence, v., to sentence: c.: C. 19-20 (ob.). Lex. Bal. A revival of C. 16-18 S.E.

fine, v. To confine: sol.: C. 19-20. Lex. Bal. (at pear-making).—2. See preceding entry.

fine, adj. Very large: coll., from ca. 1830. (Cf. wee little.) Often followed by big, large, etc. (O.E.D.)

fine, cut. See cut it fine. Also run it fine: from ca. 1890: likewise coll. (O.E.D.)

fine and large, all very. A coll. c.p. comment expressing admiration or, more gen., incredulity or derision. Popularised by a music-hall song much in vogue 1886-8.

fine as a cow turd stuck with primroses. Very fine; always satirical. Coll. (low): late C. 18-early 19. Grose, 2nd ed. Perhaps suggested by:

fine (occ. proud) as a lord's bastard. Richly dressed or lodged: mid-C. 17-18 coll.; semi-proverbial. (Apperson.)

fine as fivepence or fip(p)ence. Very fine; 'all dressed up': coll.: from ca. 1560. Wycherley, 'His mistress is as fine as fippence, in embroidered sattens.' Ex that coin's brightness. Cf. neat as ninepence. Dial. (see Apperson) has some picturesque variants; coll. English, grand for fine.

fine day for the (young) ducks. An exceedingly wet day: C. 19-20, ob. The C. 20 prefers great weather for ducks. Coll.

fine days, one of these. Some day; in the vague future: coll.: from ca. 1850. ? a development ex the C. 19 proverb, one of these days is none of these days, influenced by the Fr. un de ces beaux jours. In C. 19, occ. mornings.

fine(-)drawing. The sly accomplishment of one's (gen. illicit) purpose: tailors': from ca. 1860; ob. Very delicate stitching being almost invisible.

fine ham-an'-haddie! All nonsense: Glasgow (—1934). Cf. gammon and spinach.

fine madam. A woman above her station: pejorative coll.: from ca. 1800.

fine twig, in. Finely, splendidly: low (—1812). Vaux. (See gammon the twelve).

fine weather for ducks. (Very) wet weather: coll.: 1840, Dickens (Apperson).

fine words butter no parsnips! A sarcastic comment on fine-sounding statements or promises: coll. (C. 20, S.E.); from ca. 1750. C. 17 variants are fair words, or those words, and mere praise, etc.

finnee; occ. finni (q.v.) or finny or finnee. 'Done for'; no more (of supplies): military: late 1914. Ex Fr. fini. Cf. finish, q.v. B. & P.

finnee (etc.) kapout (or kaput). 'Napoo' or 'finnee', qq.v., but much less gen.: military: 1916. Via Fr. Army s. ex Fr. capot (W.) or ex L. caput, the head. B. & P., 'In surrendering to the French, Germans would often say, "Kamarade, pas kapout," i.e. Don't shoot, don't kill me! To which the answer was often, perhaps, "Fini kapout." Dauzat gives: "Capout: tué... véritable mot passe-partout, qui signifie tour à tour 'fini, abîmé, cassé, tué.'" finger. Abbr. finger and thumb, q.v.: 1868, says Ware.—2. 'An eccentric or amusing person,' C. J. Dennis: low Australian (—1916). Why?—3. A 'term of contempt for man or woman', George Ingram: c. (—1933). Cf. sense 2 and the dial. finger of scorn, a contemptible fellow (E.D.D.).—4.

[fineering, vbl.n. (The v. is very rare.) The ordering of specially made goods and the subsequent refusal to take them unless credit be allowed: C. 18. Goldsmith. Perhaps rather unassimilable than coll. Ex Dutch fineeren, to amass riches.]

Hence (?), an official: busmen's: from ca. 1930. The Daily Herald, Aug. 5, 1936.

finger. To caress a woman sexually: low coll.; from ca. 1800. Cf. feel.

finger, a bit for the. An extremely intimate caress, the recipient being a woman: C. 19 low.

finger and thumb. A road: c. rhyming on Gypsy drum, q.v.: late C. 19–20.—2. Also (—1859), rum: gen. rhyming s. H., 1st ed. 'Ducange Anglicus', 1857, records it as finger-thumb, a form soon > rare.

finger-fuck. V.i. (of women only) to masturbate. Vbl.n. in -ing. C. 19–20 low coll.

finger in (the) eye, put. See eye, pipe the.

finger-post. A clergyman: late C. 18–20. Grose, 2nd ed. He points out the way to heaven, but does not necessarily follow it himself. 'Do as I say, not as I do.'

finger-smith. A midwife: C. 19–20; low. Vaux.—2. In c., a thief, a pickpocket (—1823); ob. Egan's Grose.

finger-thumb. See finger and thumb, 2.

fingers are made of lime-twigs, (e.g.) his. He is a thief: coll.: late C. 16–mid-18. Harington, 1596; Bailey, 1736. Apperson.

finfy or finjy! An exclamation of protest: Winchester College: from ca. 1840. Cf. and see fin, fen, and esp. fains.

fini. A rare variant of finee.—finif*, finip. See finnif and finith.

finish. The 'end' of a person by death; social, professional, physical ruin: low coll.; from ca. 1820. Cf. finish!, q.v.—2. See Finish, the, 2.—3. See feke.

finish. To kill; exhaust utterly, render helpless: from ca. 1600; S.E. until ca. 1830, then coll. Cf. settle.

finish! I'm (or he's, etc.) done-for!; that's the end of it!: orig. (1915) military. Possibly influenced by finee, q.v.; cf. finish, n.

Finish, the. A Covent Garden (opp. Russell St.) coffee-house (Carpenter's, says Bee) at which those making 'a night of it' finished very early in the morning: late C. 18–early 19. Grose, 3rd ed.—2. Hence (without the and uncapitalised), any such house of entertainment: C. 19. Thackeray.

finish-drinker. See feke.

finished, be. To have finished (v.t. or absolute): loose coll.: C. 20.

finisher. Something constituting, a person administering, the final or decisive blow or touch: coll. (orig. pugilistic): from ca. 1815.

finith or finif. Five; e.g. finith to fere, (odds of) 5 to 4: racing c.: C. 20. Of same origin as finnif, q.v.

finitive. In mid-C. 16–mid-17, misused for 'of the frontier' and 'final'. O.E.D.

finjy. See finfy.

fink. See I don't think!

finn. See finnif.—finned. See fin, n., 1.—finnee. See finee.

finni. See finee. Dorothy Sayers, The Five Red Herrings, 1931, 'I says, finni? meaning, is that O.K.? complet? 'ave yer done?'

fin(n)if, -ip, -uf(f), -up; occ. derivatively finny, finn, fin; in C. 20, occ. finnio (Chas. E. Leach). A £5 note, hence double finnif (etc.) = a £10 note, and ready finnif (etc.) = ready money. C.: from ca. 1835; in C. 20, often heard in low racing s. Brandon (1839); Snowden, Magazine Assistant, 1846 (O.E.D.). Ex Ger. fünf, five, via Yiddish.

finny. See finee.

finn, put out one's. To bestir oneself: C. 15 (? —C. 16); coll. Paston Letters. (O.E.D.)

finuf or finup. See finnif.

fi'pence, fippence. Five pence: coll.: C. 17–20. Cf. U.S. *fi*p.

fi(p)penny. A clasp knife: Australian c.: ca. 1860–1910. Ex England, where recorded by Vaux in 1812. O.E.D.

fire. Danger; on fire, dangerous: C. 19 c.

fire, v. To dismiss; expel: orig. (—1885), U.S.; anglicised ca. 1905, though (says Ware) reaching England in 1896. Punning discharge (W.).

fire, catch on. To catch fire: either sol. or coll. (—1886). O.E.D.

fire, like a house on. See house on fire, like a.

fire, pass through the. To be venereally infected: C. 19–20 (ob.); low.

fire, set the Thames on. (Gen. ironically or in sarcastic negative.) To be very able or clever. Coll.: late C. 18–20. In late C. 19–20, S.E. Foote, Jane Austen, Pinero (1915). See esp. Apperson and W.

fire a gun. To introduce a subject unskilfully, late C. 18–19; lead up to a subject: C. 19. Coll. ? ex military s. Grose, 2nd ed.

fire a shot. (Of the man in coitu) to have an emission: C. 19–20 low.

fire a slug. To drink a dram: late C. 18–20 (ob.); orig. military. Grose, 2nd ed.

fire-alarms. Arms: rhymings s.: C. 20. B. & P.

fire-and-light(s). A master-at-arms: naval coll. (and nickname): late C. 18–19. Bowen.

fire away. (Gen. an imperative.) To go ahead: coll.: from ca. 1770. FitzGerald.

fire-box. 'A man of unceasing passion': ca. 1900–15. Ware classifies it as 'passionate pilgrims'.

fire-eater. A rapid worker: esp. among printers and tailors: ca. 1840–1920.—2. A bully; duellist: ca. 1820–1900: coll. > S.E.—3. In the 1860's, a 'swell', esp. if inclined to boast.—4. In C. 20, esp. during and after G.W., an excessively belligerent person, esp. if under no necessity to fight: coll. Cf. the S.E. and the U.S. usages, the orig. sense being that of a juggler that 'eats fire'. Hence adj., fire-eating.

fire-escape. A clergyman: from ca. 1850; ob. Cf. devil-dodger.

fire-fiend. An incendiary: coll. (—1897). O.E.D.

fire-flaw. A sting-ray: nautical coll.: C. 19–20. Bowen. Corruption of fire-flair.

fire in the air. 'To shoot in the bush', i.e. to ejaculate externally: low: C. 19–20.

fire out. Same as (to) fire, q.v. (In U.S., 1885; in England by 1896, says Ware.)

fire-plug. A (young) man venereally infected: low (1823); † by 1890. 'Jon Bee'. Suggested by fire-ship, q.v.

fire-prigger. One who, pretending to help, robs at fires: c. or low: C. 18–early 19. See prigger and esp. Defoe's Moll Flanders.

fire(-)ship. A venereally diseased whore: low: ca. 1670–1850. Wycherley (O.E.D.); B.E.

fire-shovel when young, to have been fed with a. Have a large mouth: late C. 18–19 coll. Grose, 2nd ed.

fire-spaniel. A soldier apt to sit long by the barrack-room fire: military: from ca. 1870; ob. by 1910, † by 1918.

fire up, v.i. To light one's pipe: coll.: from ca. 1890. Ex a furnace.

fire(-)water. Very fiery spirits: ex U.S. (— 1826), anglicised ca. 1850: coll. that, by ca. 1890, is S.E. 'Awful firewater we used to get,' T. Hughes in Tom Brown at Oxford.

fireworks. A brilliant display of skill or virtuosity: C. 19–20 coll. > S.E.; often pejorative.—2. Among tailors, ca. 1870–1915, a great disturbance or intense excitement.—3. Rockets, searchlights, star-shells, etc., over the front line: jocular military coll.: 1915–18. F. & Gibbons.

fireworks on the brain, have. To be flustered: coll.: ca. 1870–1905. Cf.:

fireworks out of (a person), knock. To make him see stars: jocular (— 1923). Manchon, 'Lui faire voir trente-six chandelles.'

Firinghee. A variant of Feringhee, q.v.

firk. To beat: late C. 16–19, coll. > S.E. † cognate with feague and fig, v.v.—2. See Winchester College slang, § 5.

firkin of foul stuff. 'A very Homely'—i.e. plain—'coarse corpulent woman', B.E.: low: late C. 17–mid-18.

firkytoodle (with frequent vbl.n., firkytoodling). To indulge in physically intimate endearments, esp. in those provocative caresses which constitute the normal preliminaries to sexual congress. Coll.: C. 17–19. Cf. firk, q.v.

firm. An association of two, three or four boys for the purchase and consumption of provisions: Shrewsbury School: late C. 19–20. Desmond Coke, The Bending of a Twig, 1906.

firm, a long. See long firm.

first. A first-class degree: (? mid-)C. 19–20. Likewise second, third, fourth.

first-chop. See chop.

first(-)class. Exceedingly good: coll.: 1870 (W. J. Lewis). 'From the universities [first-class degree] via the railways', while 'first-rate is from the navy,' W.—2. As adv.: extremely well: 1895. (S.O.D.) Cf. first-rate, q.v.

first-classer. A person, thing, of the first class: coll.: 1925. (O.E.D. Sup.)

first-fleeter. One of the earliest settlers in Australia: Australian: ca. 1840–70. I.e., one who went there in the first fleet with Governor Phillips. O.E.D. (Sup.).

first flight, in the. Active, or first in, at the finish of a race or a chase: from ca. 1850: coll. ? ex fox-hunting. Contrast the S.E. sense.

first-floor. The tenant or lodger occupying the first floor: coll.: from ca. 1860. O.E.D.

first-night wreckers. A theatrical coll. (1882–5) for a band of men intent on spoiling first-nights. Ware.

first-nighter. An habitué of first (orig. theatrical) performances: from ca. 1885: journalistic s. >, ca. 1900, gen. coll., and, ca. 1910, S.E. Baumann.

first of May. The tongue: low (— 1857); † by 1920. 'Ducange Anglicus.'

first of the moon. 'Settling day, after pay': naval: C. 20. Bowen. I.e. of the month.

first on the top-sail and last in the beef-skid. (Of an A.B.) perfect: naval c.p. (— 1909); ob. Ware; Bowen implies that it dates well back into C. 19.

first(-)rate, adv. Excellently; in good health: coll.: from early 1840's. (The adj., C. 17–20, S.E.) See first-class.

first-rater. A person or thing that is first-rate: from ca. 1805; coll. till C. 20, then S.E.

first seven years. See seven years.—First Tangerines, the. See Tangerines.

[fiscal. The procurator fiscal: late C. 17–20: S.E. verging on coll. Dorothy Sayers.]

figgig. Fun (gig) made at the expense of another's face (phiz): London jocular: ca. 1820–30. 'Jon Bee', 1823.

fish. A seaman; hence scaly fish, a rough, blunt sailor: late C. 18–early 19. Grose, 1st ed.—2. A man. Gen. derogatively. Always in such combinations as cool fish, loose f., odd f. (prob. influenced by odd fellow), queer f. (after qucer bird), scaly f. († by 1920), shy f. Coll.: from ca. 1750, queer being the earliest, though odd and scaly are also of C. 18; loose (— 1831); cool (— 1861); shy (— 1891). O.E.D.; F. & H. Orig., presumably, an angler's term (W.).—3. A piece, often collectively = pieces, cut out of a garment to ensure a better fit: tailors'; from ca. 1870; ob.—4. The female pudend: low: from ca. 1850.—5. An instance or an act of fishing, esp. in have a fish: coll.; (?—)1880. O.E.D.—6. A whale: whalers' coll.: C. 19–20. Bowen.—7. In oaths, as God's fish! (more gen. Odds fish!): C. 18.

fish, bit of. A coition (see fish, n., 4): low: from ca. 1850; ob.

fish, drink like a. To be constantly drinking (not innocuously): coll.: from ca. 1640. In C. 20, S.E. Cf. C. 17–19, drunk as a fish. See esp. Apperson.

fish, pretty (in late C. 19–20, gen. nice) kettle of. A quandary; muddle: coll.: C. 18–20. Richardson. Perhaps ex Scottish kettle of fish, a picnic.

fish?, who cries stinking. Who would depreciate his own goods?: C. 17–20; his own abilities?: C. 18–20. Coll. B.E.

fish-bagger. A suburban tradesmen's derisive term of ca. 1880–1915 for 'those who live in good suburbs without spending a penny there beyond rent', The Graphic, Sept. 27, 1884 (Ware).

fish-broth. Water, esp. if salt: jocular coll.: late C. 16–20; ob. Nashe, 'Belly-full of fish-broath'.

fish-eyes. Tapioca pudding: nautical: late C. 19–20. Bowen. Ex the appearance of that dish.

fish-face. A coll. term of abuse: ca. 1620–1750. Fletcher. (O.E.D.)

fish-fag. A vixenish or foul-mouthed woman: coll.: mid-C. 19–20. H., 5th ed. Ex S.E. sense, a Billingsgate fishwife.

fish-fosh. Kedgere: Cockney (— 1887); slightly ob. Baumann. Reduplication on fish.

fish-gunners. The Royal Marine Artillery: naval: mid-C. 19–20; virtually †. Bowen. The implication being that all they hit was fish.

fish-hooks. (Singular very rare.) Fingers; hence, hands; low, and nautical: from ca. 1840.

fish-market. The lowest hole at bagatelle: gamblers': C. 19–20. Cf. simon.—2. A brothel: ca. 1850–1910. Ex fish, n., 4.

fish nor flesh, be neither. (In C. 16, flesh occ. precedes fish.) To be hesitant, undecided, indeterminate: coll.; C. 16–20. Shakespeare, 'She's neither fish nor flesh.' Variants: neither fish, flesh, nor fowl; neither fish, flesh, fowl, nor good red herring, though, as in Dryden, the fowl is omitted at times.

fish of one and flesh or fowl of another, make. To exhibit partiality or make an invidious distinction: from ca. 1630; coll. till ca. 1850, then S.E.

fish on one's fingers, find. To devise and/or allege an excuse: late C. 16—early 17: coll. Greene. (Apperson.)

fish to fry, have other. To have something else to do: coll.: mid-C. 17—20. Evelyn, 1660; Swift; C. Brontë; E. V. Lucas. (Apperson.)

fisher. A toady: C. 19.—2. In C. 20, an angler for benefit or compliment. Both senses are coll. Ex fish, v.—3. See:

Fisher. 'Treasury note signed by Sir Warren Fisher, replacing (Oct., 1919) the earlier Bradbury', W. At first s., it soon > coll. and, at its withdrawal from circulation on July 31, 1933, it was almost S.E. The Daily Telegraph, Aug. 1, 1933. Cf. Bradbury, q.v.

Fisheries, the. The Fisheries Exhibition held in 1883: coll.: 1883; now only historical.

fisherman's. A C. 20 abbr. of the next. P. P., Rhyming Slang, 1932.

fisherman's daughter. Water: rhymings s.: late C. 19—20. E.g. in Julian Franklyn's This Gutter Life, 1934.

fisherman's walk, a. To which is gen. added three steps and overboard, which explains: nautical: C. 19—20; ob.

Fishermen, the. Grimsby Football Club: sporting: C. 20. Grimsby is a fishing port.

fishiness. See fishy, 1. Rare before C. 20, when coll.

fishing, go. To seek for an obliging or a mercenary woman: low: from ca. 1850; ob. Cf. filly-hunting, fish (n., 4), grouching.

fishing-fleet. 'The wives and families of naval officers spending the season at Malta': naval: from ca. 1890. Bowen.

fishy. Morally or financially dubious; equivocal, unsound: from ca. 1844: s. >, by 1880, coll. Punch, 1859: 'The affair is decidedly fishy.' Cf. fish, n., 2. Whence fishiness, the corresponding abstract n.—2. 'Seedy', indisposed: esp. in and ex have a fishy, i.e. a glazed, eye. Coll.; from ca. 1860. (S.O.D.)

fishy about the gills. Having the appearance of recent drunkenness: Cockneys' (—1909). Cf. fishy, 2, q.v. Ware, 'Drink produces a pull-down of the corners of the mouth, and a consequent squareness of the lower cheeks or gills, suggesting the gill-shields in fishes.'

fisno. A warning, esp. in give someone the fisno: c.: from ca. 1840; † by 1920. 'No. 747.' Origin?

fist. Handwriting: coll. > s. > coll. again; from ca. 1470. In C. 15—17, prob. S.E. 'A good running fist', anon., Mankind, 1475. (W.)—2. A workman (tailor): tailors': from ca. 1860. Esp. good or bad fist.—3. Among printers, an index hand: from ca. 1880. Jacobi.

fist, v. To apprehend; seize: coll.: late C. 16—20; ob. Shakespeare, 'An I but fist him once!'—2. Whence the C. 19—20 low coll. sense, take hold of: 'Just you fist that scrubbing-brush, and set to work,' F. & H., 1891.

fist, give a person one's. To shake hands: coll.: late C. 19—20. Esp. in give us your fist!

fist, make a good, poor, etc., at. To do, or attempt to do, a thing, with a good, bad, etc., result: orig. (1834), U.S.; anglicised ca. 1860. Coll.

fist, put up one's. To admit a charge: tailors': from ca. 1860; ob.

fist-fucking. Masturbation: of males only (contrast finger-fucking): low: C. 19—20.

fist it. (Of a woman) to grasp the membrum virile with sexual intent: low: C. 19—20.—2. To use one's hands, e.g. in eating with one's fingers: Australia and New Zealand (—1846): ob. by 1870; † by 1890. Morris.

fist-meat, eat. To receive a punch or slap in the mouth: coll. of ca. 1550—1700.

fistian. Boxing and all that pertains thereto: jocular coll.; from ca. 1840.

fistic. Related to boxing: (an increasingly low) coll. adj.: from ca. 1885.

fists, (esp. in one's). Grasp; clutches: M.E. +; S.E. till C. 19, then coll.

fit. Sufficient evidence to convict (a wrongdoer): New Zealand c. (—1932).—2. See fit (in the arm).

fit. Fought: (dial. and) low coll.: C. 18—20. (O.E.D.).—2. See Eton slang, § 2.

fit, adj. In excellent health: coll.: from ca. 1870. Ex sporting j.

fit as a fiddle: see fiddle, fit as a. For awfully fit, cf. awfully.

fit as a flea. Extremely fit or healthy: sporting coll.: mid-C. 19—20; ob. Reginald Herbert, When Diamonds Were Trumps, 1908.

fit as a pudding. Very fit or suitable: coll.: 1600, Dekker, 'Tis a very brave shoe, and as fit as a pudding'; app. † by 1700. Apperson, who implies that it is prob. an abbr. of fit as a pudding for a friar's mouth (ca. 1575—1750) or, occ., a dog's mouth (1592, Lyly), itself a semi-proverbial coll.

fit end to end or fit ends. To have sexual intercourse: low: C. 19—20; ob.

fit (in the arm). A blow or a punch: London slums': June, 1897—8. One Tom Jelly, arrested for striking a woman, declared that 'a fit had seized him in the arm': this was too good for the populace to miss. Ware.

fit like a ball of wax (of clothes), i.e. close to the skin: coll.: from ca. 1840.

fit like a glove. To fit perfectly: from ca. 1770; coll. till ca. 1850, then S.E. (O.E.D.)

fit like a purser's shirt on a handspike. The nautical version of the next: mid-C. 19—20: coll. Bowen.

fit like a sentry-box, i.e. very badly: military coll.: mid-C. 19—20; ob.

fit (a garment, hat, etc.) on a person is coll.: from ca. 1860.

fit to. (Of things) likely or 'enough' to (do something): coll.; from ca. 1770; ob.—2. Ready to, angry enough to (do something): late C. 16—20. S.E. till ca. 1850, then coll. and dial. (S.O.D.)

fit to a T. Gen. v.t., to fit to a nicety: coll.: late C. 18—20. Ex the T-square used by architects.

fit to bust a double ration serve-out of navy-serge. Very fat: naval: C. 20.

fit to kill. Immoderately, excessively: coll.: U.S. (1856: Thornton), anglicised ca. 1890.

fit(-)up. A stage easily fitted up; hence, a small theatrical company: from ca. 1880: theatrical s. >, by 1910, coll. Cf. fit-up towns.

fit up a show. To arrange an exhibition: artists': from ca. 1870; ob.

fit-up towns 'do not possess a theatre, and . . . are therefore only visited by small companies carrying portable scenery, which can be fitted up in a hall or an assembly room', The Referee, July 22, 1883: theatrical: from ca. 1880; ob. Ware.

Fitch's Grenadiers. The 83rd Foot Regiment, from 1881 the Royal Irish Rifles: military: 1793.

ob. F. & Gibbons. Ex the (orig.) small stature of the men and its first colonel's surname.

fits, beat into. To 'beat hollow': coll.; from ca. 1835. Hood, 'It beats all the others into fits' (O.E.D.). In C. 20, often beat to fits (Manchon).

fits, give a person. To defeat humiliatingly: coll.; from ca. 1870. Orig. U.S.

fits, forty. See forty fits.

fits, lick into. To 'beat hollow': coll. (—1887). Baumann. Ex give a person fits.

fits, scream oneself into. To scream excessively: coll.: from ca. 1840. (O.E.D.)

fits, throw (a person) into. To alarm or startle greatly: coll.: from ca. 1855.

fitter. A burglars' locksmith: c.; from ca. 1860.

Fitz. A royal natural child: lower classes': late C. 19–20. The prudent Ware thus wisely: 'Derivation obvious.'—2. A person of position or fortune going on the stage: theatrical: 1883. Ibid.

five. See fives.—2. (the five.) 'The five pounds weight allowed to apprentice jockeys': turf: from ca. 1920; now verging on coll. O.E.D. (Sup.).—3. A five-eighth: Rugby football: from ca. 1910. Cf. three, a three-quarter.—4. Fifteen (in scoring): lawn tennis players': from ca. 1920. Cf. fif.

Five by Two. A Jew: rhymings: C. 20. P. P., Rhyming Slang, 1932. Cf. four-by-two and buckle-my-shoe.

Five-and-Threepennies, the. The 53rd Foot, from 1881 the Shropshire Light Infantry: military: C. 19–20; ob. Ex the 5 and 3, also ex the ensign's daily pay.

five-barred gate. A policeman: Cockneys': 1886–ca. 1915. Ware, 'The force being chiefly recruited from the agricultural class'.

five-boater, -master, -rater. These are nautical coll. of obvious meaning, all three referring to ships: from ca. 1887. O.E.D.

five-eight (or -eighth). A mere lance-corporal: military: 1914–18. (That part of a corporal.)

five(-)fingers. The 5 of trumps in the card game of don or five cards: C. 17–19: s. > j. Cotton in The Compleat Gamester, 1674; H., 3rd ed. Cf. fives, q.v.

five-master. See five-boater.

five o'clock, a. Afternoon tea at five o'clock: coll.: from ca. 1890. Cf. Fr. des five o'clock à toute heure.

five-oner; five ones man. One who gets a 1st class certificate in each of his five examinations for lieutenant: naval: C. 20. Bowen.

five or seven. Intoxicated; a drunkard: policemen's and Cockneys': 1885–ca. 1914. Ex five shillings or seven days, 'the ordinary magisterial decision upon "drunks" unknown to the police' (Ware).

five over five, adj. and adv. Applied to those who turn in their toes: from ca. 1820; ob. Egan's Grose.

five-pot piece. See pot, n., 5.

five-pounder. A cheap-excursionist: Jersey: 1883, The Graphic, March 31; ob. Ware.

Five P's. Wm. Oxberry (d. 1824), printer, publisher, player, poet, and publican. Dawson.

five-rater. See five-boater.

five-shares man. (Gen. pl.) A fisherman, whaler, etc., working for a share of the profits: nautical coll.: late C. 19–20. Bowen.

five shillings, the sign of. The tavern-sign of the crown. Hence ten shillings, fifteen shillings, the sign of the two, the three crowns. Mid-C. 18–early 19. Grose, 2nd ed.

five-star Frenchman. A Chargeurs Réunis steamer: nautical: C. 20. Bowen, 'From the painting of her funnel'.

five. Anything that counts five, but gen. a £5 note or occ. its equivalent: from ca. 1850. Whyte-Melville, 'Or, as he calls it, a five'.—2. In c., a fifth term of imprisonment (—1872). O.E.D.

fivepence, fine or grand as. See fine as fivepence.

fivepence halfpenny. A military c.p. (G.W.) for something invisible or not there. F. & Gibbons. Ex the Government messing-allowance.

fives. A foot: C. 17.—2. From ca. 1820: fingers, i.e. hands, fists. Bee.—3. Hence, a street fight: low, esp. Cockney: from ca. 1850.

fives, bunch of. A fist: from ca. 1822. Bee, 1823. Ex preceding entry, sense 2.

fives going, keep one's. Constantly to thieve, esp. to pickpocket: c. or low s.: ca. 1820–80. 'Jon Bee', 1823.

fix. A dilemma: orig. (1833), U.S.; anglicised ca. 1840; coll. till ca. 1890, then S.E.

fix, v. In c., to arrest: late C. 18–early 19.—2. As a coll. verb-of-all-work, it is an importation—rare before 1840—ex the U.S. (1708: Thornton); the n. fixings (in U.S., 1826) has been less warmly received.—3. To preserve (tissues) in, e.g., formalin: medical coll. (—1933), now verging on j.

fix !, at the word. Be punctual, or sharp!: military c.p.: C. 20. F. & Gibbons, 'Suggested by the Drill Book word of command, "Fix Bayonets".'

fix it. To arrange matters: ex U.S. (—1836); anglicised ca. 1850: coll. Cf.:

fix up. To arrange, e.g. a rendezvous, esp. for another: ex. U.S., anglicised ca. 1855. In C. 20, occ. be fixed up, to have an appointment.—2. fix (a person) up. To provide him with lodgings or other quarters: coll.: from ca. 1888.

fixed bayonets. A brand of Bermuda rum: military: late C. 19–early 20. F. & Gibbons. Ex its sting and effects. But among prisoners of war in Germany in 1914–18 it was applied to a spirit made of potatoes and apt to render one 'fighting drunk'.

fixing. Strong drink: Australian (—1889); ob. by 1912, † by 1924.

fixings. See fix, v., 2. Cf. doings, q.v.—2. As furniture: 1887, Baumann.

fixfax. See paxwax.

fiz, fizz. Champagne; also, any sparkling wine: from ca. 1860. H., 3rd ed.—2. Occ., though very rarely in C. 20, lemonade mixed with ginger-beer: from ca. 1880.—3. A hissing sound: coll.; 1842 (O.E.D.).—4. A fuss: from ca. 1730.—5. Animal spirits: from ca. 1850. These last two senses are coll.—and ob.—6. Ned Ward, in 1700, has fiz for phiz. Matthews.

fizz around. To 'buzz around'; move speedily and busily: from ca. 1930. 'Ganpat', Out of Evil, 1933.

fiz(z)-gig. From such S.E. senses as a squib, a whirligig, a silly pastime, the word has come, in C. 20, to approximate, in its meaning, to gadget. Coll.—2. An informer to the police: c. of Sydney, N.S.W.: from ca. 1930.

fizzer. Any first-rate thing (e.g. a theatrical role) or, rarely, person: coll. (—1866).—2. A very fast ball: cricketers' coll. (1904). O.E.D. (Sup.); Lewis.—3. A charge-sheet: military: from ca. 1920.—4. A vendor of soft drinks: mostly Cockneys': 1895, H. W. Nevinson. Ex:

fizzer-man. A camp-follower selling soft drinks: military: 1894 (O.E.D.). Collectively the 'fizzer-men' form the fizzer-brigade.

fizzing, adj. Excellent (— 1859). H., 1st ed.—2. Also as adv.: from ca. 1880; ob. C. stunning.

fizzle. A ludicrous failure: orig. U.S., anglicised ca. 1880: coll.; by 1900, S.E. fizzle out. To tail off; end lamely; become a failure; fail: orig. (ca. 1848), U.S.; anglicised ca. 1870; coll. till ca. 1905, then S.E. Ex fireworks, esp. if damp.

flabagast, gen. flabbergast. To astound, physically or mentally; utterly to confuse (a person): coll.: from ca. 1772, when The Annual Register included it in 'On New Words'. Disraeli. Ex flap (or flabby) + aghost: W.—2. Hence the not very common and now ob. flabbergastation: 1845 (E.D.D.). flabberdegaz. A 'gag' or stop-gap words; a piece of bad acting or instance of imperfect utterance: theatrical: ca. 1870–1915. Prob. ex:

flabbergast. See flabagast.

flag. A groat or fourpenny piece: ca. 1560–1890: c. Harman; B.E.; Mayhew, 'A tremendous black doll bought for a flag (fourpence) of a retired rag-merchant.'—2. An apron: low, or low coll.: from ca. 1845.—3. A sanitary pad or towel. Hence, the flag (or danger-signal) is up: she is 'indisposed': from ca. 1850.—4. Abbr. flag unfurled, q.v.: late C. 19–20; ob. Ware.—5. Words missed in composing: printers' (— 1909). Ex the appearance of the 'out' words written at the side of the 'copy' or of the proof. Ware.

flag, fly the. To post a notice that workmen are needed: tailors': from ca. 1860. Cf. cat's face up and flag-flying, 2, q.v.

flag, show the. To put in an appearance, just to show that one is there: business and professional men's coll.: from ca. 1919.

flag-about. A strumpet: low, or low coll.: ca. 1820–70. Cf. flagger, q.v.

flag-flasher. One who, when off duty, sports the 'insignia of office'—cap, apron, uniform, badge, etc.: from ca. 1860. H., 5th ed. Ex flag, 2.

flag-flying. Adj. and vbl.n. corresponding to flag, n., 2 (cf. flag-flasher) and 3 (cf. Captain is at home, the).—2. A bill's being 'posted up when hands are required': tailors' (— 1889). Barrère & Leland.—3. Overbidding (occ., a tendency to overbid) at bridge: from ca. 1915: s. >, by 1930, coll. O.E.D. (Sup.).

flag is up, the. See flag, 3.

flag of defiance. A drunken roisterer: nautical: mid-C. 18—early 19. Ex:

flag of defiance or bloody flag, hang out the. To have a red face owing to drink; to be drunk: late C. 17—early 19 nautical. B.E.; Grose, 1st ed., 'The flag of defiance or bloody flag is out,' etc.

flag of distress. 'The cockade of a half-pay officer': naval: late C. 18—mid-19. A MS. note by Grose to the B.M. 1st ed. copy: not, however, incorporated—as all such notes were orig. intended to be—in the 2nd ed. (1788).—2. An announcement-card for board, or board and lodgings: from ca. 1850; coll.—3. Hence, any outward sign of poverty: orig. nautical: mid-C. 19–20. H., 1st ed.—4. A flying shirt-tail: from ca. 1855: low, esp. Cockney. Ibid.

flag unfurled. A man of the world: rhyming s. (— 1859); ob. H., 1st ed.

flag-wagging. Flag-signalling, esp. at drill: naval and military; from ca. 1885.—2. Hence, in G.W., a signaller was called flag-wagger.

flagger. A harlot, esp. one walking the streets: low (— 1865); ob. Mostly London. Either ex pavement-flags or ex flag-about.

flagrant delight. A (mainly legal) jocular Englishing of in flagrante delicto: C. 20. Compton Mackenzie, Water on the Brain, 1933, 'To-night's the night for flagrant delight.'

flags. Clothes drying in the wind: low coll.: from ca. 1860. Cf. snow.—2. A flag lieutenant: naval nickname: late C. 19–20. Bowen.

Flags, the. The cotton market, Liverpool: Stock Exchange: from ca. 1890.

flam, humbug, a trick, a sham story, after being S.E. in C. 17–18, is in C. 19 coll., in C. 20 † except in dial. and Australian, the same applying dialectally to the rare adj. and the common v. Perhaps abbr. flim-flam, which, however, is recorded later: W. suggests that it derives ex Scottish flamflew, a trifle, gew-gaw.—2. The single beat of a drum: (— 1791; ob.) orig. military s.; in C. 19 gen. s. > coll.; in C. 20, S.E. but ob. Grose, 3rd ed.—3. In c., a ring: ca. 1850–70. H., 1864.

flamdoodle, flam-sauce. See flapdoodle.

flame. A sweetheart; a kept mistress: after being S.E., this term, esp. as an old flame, a former sweetheart or lover, is in C. 19–20 increasingly coll. and jocular. The modern semi-jocular use is perhaps directly ex C. 17 Fr. 'flamme and âme riming in the Fr. classics almost as regularly as herz and schmerz in Ger. lyrics', W.—2. In C. 19 low coll. ors., a venereal disease.

flamer. A person, incident, or thing very conspicuous, unusual, or vigorous; e.g. as in Cockton's Valentine Vox, 1840, a 'stiff' criticism: ca. 1808–1900.—2. In pl., a kind of safety-match giving a bright flame: from ca. 1885; ob. Baumann.—3. An aeroplane coming down in flames: Air Force: from 1916. (P. C. Wren, in The Passing Show, Aug. 18, 1934.)

Flamers, the. The 54th Foot, in late C. 19–20 the Dorsetshire Regiment: military: 1781, when they took part in the burning of New London. F. & Gibbons.

flames. A red-haired person; occ. as term of address or personal reference: coll.: ca. 1820–90. 'Jon Bee.' Cf. carrots, ginger.

flaming. Very or too noticeable or vigorous; 'stunning': border-line coll.: from ca. 1800; ob. Ex the S.E. senses (C. 17 +), flagrant, startling.—2. (Of tobacco) very strong: low (— 1887). Baumann.—3. Adj. and adv., 'bloody': euphemistic coll.; from early 1890's. (O.E.D. Sup.). Cf. ruddy.

flaming onions. A German anti-aircraft projectile (some ten fire-balls on a chain): military: G.W. (F. & Gibbons.) Ex the rows of onions sold by hawkers.

Flamingo. (Gen. pl.) An inhabitant of Flanders: from ca. 1910. Ernest Raymond, Mary Leith, 1931. By sound-suggestion ex Fr. Flamand, as if = 'flaming'. flamp. To sell Army property illegally: Regular Army: late C. 19–20. Cf. flog in same sense.

flan. Red tape: naval: C. 20. Bowen. Ex red flannel on red tape.

Flanderkin. Late C. 17–18 coll. for 'a very large Fat Man or Horse; also Natives of that Country' (Flanders), B.E. Cf. the next three entries.

Flanders fortune. A small one: late C. 17-18: coll. B.E.

Flanders piece. A picture that looks 'fair at a distance, but coarser near at hand', B.E.: late C. 17-18: coll.

Flanders reckoning. A spending of money in a place unconnected with that where one receives it: coll.: C. 17-18. Thos. Heywood. (Apperson.) Cf. Flemish account, q.v.

flanges. See wingers, 2.

flank. To hit a mark with a whip-lash (—1830). —2. To crack a whip (v.t.): from ca. 1830. Both are coll. verging on S.E., the standard sense being, to flick; ob.—3. To push or hustle; to deliver (esp. a blow): coll.; from ca. 1860; ob. Cf. Fr. flanquer un coup à quelqu'un, whence, presumably, it derives.

flank, a plate of thin. A cut off a joint of meat: low coll.: from ca. 1860; ob.

flanker. A blow, kick; retort: coll.: ca. 1860-1910. Whence do a flanker.—2. A shirker: military: late C. 19-20; ob. F. & Gibbons. Ex the 'advantages' of being on a flank.

flanker, do (a person) a; absolutely, work a flanker (esp. in the Army). To deceive, trick, outwit, give the slip: lower classes' (—1923). Manchon.

flanke. The posterior: low (perhaps orig. c.): from ca. 1840. Duncombe.

flannel or flannels. Derivative coll., C. 20: flannel drawers (women's). Variant: red flannel(s).—2. (Only flannel.) See hot flannel.

flannel (often pron. flannin)-jacket. A navy contractor's: from ca. 1860; ob. Ware. From his flannel shirt or singlet. The flannin (or -en) form comes from dial.

flannel-mouth, n. and adj. (A) well-spoken (person, esp. if a man): Canadian: C. 20. I.e. soft-spoken.

flannels, get one's. To obtain a place in a team (orig. cricket): schools'; esp. and initially Harrow: from ca. 1885. Coll. >, by 1910, S.E. Ex flannels, flannel garments.

flannen or -in. See flannel-jacket.

flap. A blow: coll. or dial.: C. 16-18. Ex the S.E. v.—2. A female of little repute, a jade: C. 17-20; coll., > dial. by 1800.—3. Inc., sheet-lead used for roofing: mid-C. 19-20 (ob.). H., 5th ed. Ex the noise it makes when loose in the wind.—4. A garment or hat that has a pendent portion: ca. 1790-1920. (O.E.D.)—5. 'Any evolution on board or movement of warships': naval: late C. 19-20. Bowen. Applied esp. to the bustle ensuing on an emergency order (F. & Gibbons).—6. An air-raid: Air Force: 1915. F. & Gibbons.

flap, v. To pay; 'fork out'. Esp. in flap the dimmock (money). Low. From ca. 1840; ob.—2. In c., rob, swindle: C. 19-20; ob.—3. V.i., fall or flop down: coll., from ca. 1660 (S.O.D.).—4. To talk (always with about): from ca. 1925; slightly ob. Ex flap one's mouth (gen. about), the same: 1910, H. G. Wells (O.E.D. Sup.); ob.

flap, in a. Excited: naval: C. 20. Bowen. Ex flap, n., 5.

flap a jay. To cheat or swindle a greenhorn: o. (—1885). See flap, v., 2.

flap one's mouth. See flap, v., 4.

flap (in C. 16-17, occ. slap) with a fox tail. A rude or contemptuous dismissal; a mild rebuke: coll.: C. 16-early 19. Palsgrave, 1530; Smollett; Scott. (Apperson.)

flapdash. Very clean; shining: lower classes' (—1923). Manchon. Prob. by a confusion of words and ideas.

flapdoodle. Empty talk; transparent nonsense: coll.; from ca. 1830. (? orig. U.S.) Marryat, 1833, 'Flapdoodle . . . the stuff they feed fools on.' Also a v., as is very rare with the variants: flap-sauce, flam-sauce, flamdoodle.—2. The membrum virile: late C. 17-18 low coll. Cf. doodle. Like flabbergast, flapdoodle is arbitrarily formed.

flapdoodler. An empty, inept, talkative political charlatan: journalists': ca. 1885-1910; then gen. but ob.

flapdragon, flap-dragon, flap dragon. Syphilis or gonorrhoea: late C. 17-early 19: low. B.E. Ex the S.E. sense, a raisin snatched from burning brandy and eaten hot.—2. A Dutchman; a German: pejorative coll.: C. 17.

flapman. A convict promoted for good behaviour: prison c. (—1893); ob.

flapper. The hand: low coll. (—1833). Marryat; The London Miscellany, May 19, 1866, 'There's my flapper on the strength of it.' Cf. flipper, q.v.—2. A slow or unskilful hunting man: sporting: from ca. 1850; ob. Whyte-Melville. (O.E.D.)—3. A dustman's or a coal-heaver's hat: coll.: ca. 1850-1900. Cf. fantail.—4. In the low coll. of sexual venery, the male member (cf. flapdoodle, 2): C. 19.—5. There too, a very young harlot, a sense linking up with that in gen. s., a young girl (? ex that, mainly dial., sense of a fledgling partridge or wild duck): both in F. & H., 1893, the latter being discussed in The Evening News, Aug. 20, 1892.—6. In society s. of early C. 20, 'a very immoral young girl in her early "teens"', Ware,—a sense surviving in the U.S.; in England, however, the G.W. firmly established the meaning (already pretty gen. by 1905), any young girl with her hair not yet put up (or, in the late 1920's and the 30's, not yet cut short). Cf. Ger. Backfisch and flap, n., 2.—7. An Ayrton fan: military: 1916. Also, coll., flapper fan. B. & P.—8. A variant of flapping, q.v., as n. and adj.: 1928 (O.E.D. Sup.).—9. Inevitable nickname of anyone surnamed Hughes: C. 20. Bowen.—10. See flappers.

flapper-bracket, -seat. A (mostly, motor-) bicycle seat at the back for the spatial transference of a youthful female: resp. s. (from ca. 1915) and coll. (from ca. 1918; ob.).

flapper fan. See flapper, 7.

flapper-shaker. The hand: low coll.; from ca. 1850; ob. Ex flapper, 1.

flapper-shaking. Hand-shaking; hence, a preliminary ceremony: from ca. 1850. 'Cuthbert Bede', 1853.

flapper vote, the. The 'franchise granted in 1928 to women of 21 years and over': coll.: 1928. C.O.D. (1934 Sup.)

flappers. Extremely long pointed shoes, esp. those worn by 'nigger minstrels': from ca. 1880; ob.—2. A sandwich-man's boards: tramps' c.: the 1920's. (The transition term between clappers and wings.) F. Jennings, Tramping with Tramps, 1932.

flapper's burr-(h)oles. Ears: workmen's (—1935).

flapper's delight. A young subaltern: Army officers': 1915-18. See flapper, 6 (second nuance).

flapping; occ. flapper (sense 7 of the n. above). Racing not subject to either Jockey Club or National Hunt regulations: turf: 1910. (O.E.D. Sup.) Ex lack of dignity.—2. Hence, from ca. 1915, as adj.

flapsauce, flap(-)sauce. See flapdoodle. (No connection with the † S.E. term.)

flare. Anything unusual, uncommon: nautical; from ca. 1850.—2. A quarrel, a row, a spree: coll.: from ca. 1840. Cf. flare-up.

flare. In its C. 19–20 S.E. sense, to shine unsteadily, flare seems to have, ca. 1660–1730, been c., then low s. and then, ca. 1760–1830, coll.: witness B.E. and Grose, all edd. Prob. ex Dutch or Low Ger.: cf. Ger. flattern, fladdern, and Dutch vlederen: W.—2. To swagger: low coll. (—1841); ob. Leman Rede.—3. To whisk out (—1850); hence (—1851), to steal lightly, deftly. Mayhew. Both: c.

flare, all of a. Clumsily; bunglingly: c. of ca. 1830–90. H. Brandon in Poverty, Mendicancy, and Crime, 1839.

flare-up, rarely -out. A quarrel, commotion, or fight: coll.; from ca. 1835. Hence, a spree or orgy; a jovial party: coll. (—1847). Justin McCarthy, 1879, 'What she would have called a flare-out'. Cf. the v.—2. Brandy: c. (—1923). Manchon. Ex the result of a light applied thereto.

flare up, v. To become extremely angry: coll. (—1849). 'Father Prout' Mahony, '... Swore, flared up, and curs'd'; Thackeray.

flaring, adv. Exceedingly; vulgarly: coll.: C. 19–20; ob. E.g. in flaring drunk.

farty is obscure; ? an outsider. It is grafters' s. of C. 20. Philip Allingham, Cheappack, 1934, "'I'm a farty too," she told me in confidence. "I don't really belong to the fair."'. Origin?

flash, n. and adj. (Underworld) cant; relating to the underworld or to its slang. Hence they often connote trickery, crime, low immorality. Orig.—1756, 1700 resp. (S.O.D.)—themselves c., they rapidly > low s. > gen. s. > coll. > S.E. Ultimately ex flash = sudden flame; immediately ex flash = ostentation; imm.—of problematic birth. Ca. 1810–30, the s. of the man about town, chiefly the fast set and its hangers on (see esp. Jon Bee's Dict. of the Turf, 1823): s. > coll. > S.E. Cf. the ca. 1760–1825 coll., verging on S.E., scense: fop, coxcomb.—2. In c., late C. 17–mid-19, a peruke. B.E.—3. A showy swindler; a hectoring vulgarian or nouveau riche: C. 17 coll. Shirley, 'The town is full of these vain-glorious flashes'.—4. A boast or great pretence uttered by spendthrift, quack, or sciolist: C. 18. Dyche.—5. A portion or, as in flash of lightning, q.v., a drink: late C. 18–19: low s. or low coll.—6. the flash. The banner or other name-displaying cloth or card-device of a bookmaker's stand: racing c.: C. 20. Abbr. the flash part. Analogous is the grafters' sense: 'A grafter's display. Anything to attract the crowd' (Allingham): C. 20.—7. Priority given, by news-agencies, to sports' results: journalists' (—1935).—8. An electric torch: c.: from ca. 1910. James Curtis, The Gilt Kid, 1936.

flash, v. To show; esp. excessively, vulgarly, or with unnecessary 'pomp' or pretence: coll. (—1785). In C. 17, S.E.—2. V.t. with, e.g. the gentleman, to show off as, pretend to be, e.g. a gentleman: ca. 1795–1850.—3. V.i., with variant flash it, to make a display, show off: ca. 1770–1830. Cf. flash it about and flash it away. The term derives ex flash in the scense, 'show as in a flash, hence, brilliantly' (see esp. W.), prob. influenced by flash, n. and adj., q.v.

flash, adj. See flash, n., 1.—2. In c. of ca. 1810–1900, knowing, expert; cognisant of another's meaning. Lex. Bal.—3. Orig. (—1785) c., by 1870 low: showy, vulgar; (in Australia, —1893) vain-glorious, swaggering. Perhaps ex C. 17–18 S.E. flash, show, ostentation.—4. Connected with boxing and racing: ca. 1808–90.—5. In a set style: ca. 1810–60): c. > low. Also n. Rare except in out of flash, q.v.—6. Occ. adv., as in to dress flash, i.e. fashionably but showily and in bad taste.—7. Imitation; counterfeit: c.: form ca. 1880; ob. Ware. (In the ensuing list of flash combinations, only such are given as are not imm. and accurately deducible from the mere collocation of n. and n., v. and n., and n. and adj.) flash, adv. See flash, adj., 6.

flash, out of. For showy effect or affectation: c. (—1812) >, by 1820, low s.; † by 1900. Vaux; Bee.

flash, put. To put (a person) on his guard: c. (—1812); † by 1900. Vaux.

flash a bit. (Of women) to permit examination; behave indecently: low: from ca. 1840. Cf. flash it, q.v.

flash a fawn(e)y. To wear a ring: c.: from ca. 1815; ob.

flash-case, -crib, -drum, -house, -ken, -panny. A lodging-house or tavern frequented by thieves and illegally favourable to them; in sense 2 of that n., 'fence': c. of resp. C. 19–20 ob.; C. 19; C. 19–20 ob.; C. 19–20; mid-C. 17–19; and C. 19, though extremely rare in these senses. Vaux has the second, fifth and sixth.—2. The meaning, a brothel, is derivative, and, though orig. c., it gradually > low: flash-crib is not used in this sense.

flash-cha(unt). 'A song interlarded with flash', i.e. with cant: c.: ca. 1820–70. Egan's Grose. Also flash song (Vaux), 1812.

flash-cove, from ca. 1810; -companion, from ca. 1860. A thief; sharper; 'fence'; (only flash-cove) landlord or a 'flash ken' (Vaux).

flash-covess. A landlady of a 'flash-ken': c.: C. 19. Vaux.

flash-crib and flash-drum. See flash-case.

flash-dona. A variant of flash girl, q.v.: c.: late C. 19–20. Ware.

flash-gentry. The high-class thieves: from ca. 1820; ob.; c. Conflation of n. and adj.

flash girl, moll, mollisher, piece, woman. A showy harlot: low: from ca. 1820.

flash-house. See flash-case.

flash in the pan. Coition sans emission: C. 18–20 low coll. D'Urfey.

flash it. See flash, v., 3.

flash it or flash one's meat. (Gen. of men) to expose the person: low: from ca. 1840.

flash it! Let me see it! Show it! A low, esp. a coster's reply to the offer of a bargain: from ca. 1820; ob.

flash it about or cut a flash. To make a display—once, often, continuously; to lead a riotous or even a crapulous life: low: from ca. 1860. Cf. cut a dash. Developed ex:

flash it away. To show off; cut a figure: coll.: ca. 1795–1860. O'Keeffe.

flash-jig. A favourite dance: costers': ca. 1820–90. Perhaps ex flash, adj., 3.

flash-ken. See flash-case. (B.E.)

flash kiddy. A dandy: low: ca. 1820–60. Cf. kiddy, q.v.

flash-lingo. Underworld s.: low: late C. 18–19. Grose, 1st ed. See flash, n., 1.

flash-man. One who talks the s. of the underworld: c.: C. 19.—2. A chucker-out to a brothel: c.: C. 19. Lex. Bal. Imm. ex:—3. A harlot's bully or 'ponce': late C. 18–20, ob.: low; prob. orig. c. Grose, 2nd ed. (2nd nuance).—4. A patron of boxing: s. > coll.: ca. 1820–50. Moncrieff.

flash mollisher. A woman thief or swindler: c. (— 1812); † by 1890. Vaux.—2. See flash girl.

flash-note. A counterfeit banknote: C. 19 low (? orig. c.).

flash o(f) light. A gaudily or vividly dressed woman: South London (— 1909); virtually †. Ware.

flash o(f) lightning. A dram of strong spirit, a glass of gin: from ca. 1780. Cf. (— 1862) U.S. usage.—2. Gold braid on an officer's cap: nautical: mid-C. 19–20; ob. H., 3rd ed.

flash one's gab. To talk, esp. much; boast: low (— 1819). Tom Moore, 'His lordship, as usual, . . . is flashing his gab.'

flash one's meat. See flash it.

flash one's sticks. To expose or draw (not to fire) one's pistols: ca. 1810–50: c. Vaux.

flash one's ticker. To take out one's watch rather often: low: from ca. 1850.

flash-panny. See flash-case.

flash patter. Cant (underworld slang): c.: C. 19. E.g. in No. 747's autobiography, p. 410.

flash song. See flash-cha(unt). Perhaps low s. rather than c.

flash(-)tail. A harlot picking up toffs at night: low (— 1868); ob.

flash the dibs. To spend one's money: low: from ca. 1840; ob.

flash the drag. See drag, flash the.—flash the flag. See flag, 2.

flash the hash. To vomit: late C. 18–19: c. Grose, 2nd ed.

flash the ivory or one's ivories. To grin or laugh: c. of late C. 18–19 and low s. of C. 19–20 resp. Grose, 1st ed. Contrast tickle the ivories.

flash the muzzle. To bring forth a pistol: low (— 1823); ob. by 1870, † by 1900.

flash the screens. To pay: c. of ca. 1820–40. See pew, stump the.

flash the upright grin. (Of women) to expose one's sex: low: from ca. 1860; ob.

flash the wedge. To 'fence' one's 'haul', 'swag', or booty: c.: C. 19.

flash to, be. To be aware of, to understand fully: c.: ca. 1810–60. Vaux.

flash togger. Smart clothes: low (— 1834). Ainsworth in Rookwood.

flash vessel. A very smart-looking ship that is undisciplined: nautical: ca. 1860–1915.

flash woman. A harlot mistress of a 'flash man' (3): c. (— 1823); † by 1890. 'Jon Bee.'

flash yad. A day's enjoyment: ca. 1865–1910. Yad = day reversed.

flushed-up. Dressed stylishly or in one's best: c., and low: C. 20. James Curtis, The Gilt Kid, 1936. Cf. dolled-up.

flasher. A would-be wit; hence, an empty fop: ca. 1750–90: coll. that perhaps > S.E. Mme D'Arblay, 1779, 'They are reckoned the flashers of the place, yet everybody laughs at them.'—2. A synonym of quicke (q.v.): Glasgow (— 1934).—3. In Glasgow c. (— 1934), a 'dud' bank-note.

flashery. Tawdry elegance; showy or vulgar display or action: coll.: ca. 1820–80. Never much used.

flashily; flashly. See flashy.

flashing it, go. To have sexual connexion: low: from ca. 1840; ob. Cf. flash it and flash a bit.

flashy. Showy, gaudy; ostentatious: in late C. 18–20, coll.; earlier, S.E. Hence adv. flashly, s., C. 19–20, but very rare in C. 20, and flashily, coll., C. 18–20. Miss Braddon, 1864, 'He chose no . . . flashily cut vestments.'

flashy blade or spark. A dandy: ca. 1815–30.—2. Hence, a cheap and noisy dandy or would-be dandy: ca. 1830–75. Both, coll. verging on S.E.

flat. A greenhorn; a fool; an easy 'gull' or dupe: from ca. 1760. Barham, ' . . . He gammons all the flats.' Cf. the C. 20 story of the girl that refused to live either with or in one. By contrast with sharp.—2. An abbr. of flattie, 4: c.: C. 20. David Hume.—3. See flats.—4. (the flat.) The season of flat horse-racing: sporting coll.: from ca. 1910.

flat, do or have a bit of. To have sexual connexion: low: mid-C. 19–20.

flat, pick up a. To find a client: harlots' c.: C. 19–20.

[flat!, that's. That is certain, undeniable! Late C. 16–17. Shakespeare.—2. I'm determined (on that)! C. 18–20. Addison. Perhaps both senses are best classified as literary with a strong coll. flavour.]

flat as a flounder or a pancake. Extremely flat, lit. and fig.: coll. The former: C. 17–19; the latter, C. 18–20, but with cake as early as 1542. Apperson. Ware notes the C. 18–20 variant (like-wise coll.), flat as a frying-pan.

flat back. A bed bug: low: from ca. 1840; ob. by 1900, † by 1920.

flat broke. Penniless; ruined: coll.: from ca. 1830.

flat-catcher. An impostor, a professional swindler; a decoy: orig. (— 1823), c.; then low. Moncrieff, Mayhew, Whyte-Melville.

flat-catching. Swindling: orig. (— 1821), c., then low. J. Greenwood, 1869, 'Flat-catching, as the turf slang has it'.

flat-cap. A citizen of London: coll.: late C. 16–early 18. Marston, 'Wealthy flat caps that pay for their pleasure the best of any men in Europe'. Temp. Henry VIII, round flat caps were fashionable; citizens continued to wear them when they had become unfashionable.

flat chicken. Stewed tripe: proletarian (— 1909); slightly ob. Ware.

flat-cock. A woman: low (— 1785); † by 1890. Grose, 1st ed. Ex one of two possible anatomical reasons.

Flat Feet, the. The Foot Guards, British Army: from ca. 1860. H., 3rd ed.—2. Hence, various other line regiments; also, militia men as opp. to regulars: military: from ca. 1870.

flat fish, gen. a regular. A dullard; occ., an easy prey: from ca. 1850. Ex flat, stupid + fish, something hookable.

flat foot. A sailor not yet aged 21: naval (— 1909). Ware. Ex:—2. Any sailor: naval, esp. marines': from ca. 1895; ob. O.E.D. (Sup.).—3. A policeman: lower classes' (— 1935).

flat-iron. A public-house at a corner: low: from ca. 1860; ob. Ex its triangularity.

flat-iron jiff. A master man in a small way: tailors': late C. 19–20. E.g. The Tailor and Cutter, Nov. 29, 1928.

flat move. A plan that fails; folly or mismanagement: ca. 1810-80: e. >, by 1823, low s. Vaux; 'Jon Bee'. I.e. a flat's action.

flat spin, go into a. See go into a flat spin.

flatsh. A half: the rigid flak modified: back s. (-1859).—2. A spurious half-crown: coiners' c.: from ca. 1870.—3. A halfpenny (-1859). Senses 1 and 3: H., 1st ed.

flatsh yenork. A half-crown: back s. (-1859). H., 1st ed.

flatiron gunboat. A gunboat of the 1870's-80's, 'with a short turtle back': naval coll.: that period. Bowen.

flats. Playing cards: c. (-1812); ob. by 1880, † by 1900. Vaux. Cf. broads, q.v.—2. False dice: ? c.: ca. 1700-1850. Cf. Fulhams.—3. Counterfeit money: c. or low: ca. 1820-70.—4. sharps and flats: jocular coll. for sharppers and their victims: C. 19-20. And, 5, for recourse to weapons: 1818, Scott (O.E.D.); † by 1900.—6. See flats and chits.—7. (Very rare in the singular.) Long, thin envelopes: among sorters on mail trains: C. 20. The Daily Herald, Aug. 5, 1936.

flats, mahogany. Bed bugs: low: from ca. 1850; ob. Cf. flat back.

flats and chits. Bugs and fleas, says Baumann, who classifies it as c.: but is this an error for flats and chats, bugs and lice?

flats and sharps. Weapons: coll.: ca. 1780-1850. Scott, in Midlothian, 'He was something hasty with his flats and sharps.'—2. See flats, 4.

flatt. (As, redundantly, in Grose.) See flat.

flattened out, ppl. adj. Penniless: tailors': late C. 19-20.

flatter-trap. The mouth: c. or low: from ca. 1840; ob.

flattie, flatty. Among cheapjacks, one in a new 'pitch': ca. 1840-80.—2. A rustic; an uninitiated person: low coll.: ca. 1855-80. H., 1st ed.—3. Hence (see, however, flatty-gory), a 'flat', q.v.; an easy dupe: ca. 1855-1915: c. or low.—4. A uniformed policeman: c. and low: late C. 19-20. Because his feet go flat from so much 'promenading'. Cf. flat foot, 3.—5. A member of the audience: circus-workers' s.: C. 20. E. Seago, Circus Company, 1933. To showmen in gen., it means an outsider.—6. A small flat-bottomed sailing-boat: coll., esp. among boys: from ca. 1860.—7. One who goes out in a van in the summer but lives in a house in the winter: Gypsies' (-1897). Abbr. flattybouch, same meaning. E.D.D.

flatty-gory. A 'flat', a dupe or intended dupe: c.: ca. 1810-40. Vaux. Perhaps the origin of all senses of flattie.

flatty-ken. A thieves' lodging-house where the landlord is not 'fly' to the tricks of the underworld: c. (-1851): ob. Mayhew. Ex flattie, 2, q.v., + ken, a piacc.

flavour, catch or get the. To be drunk: low coll.: from ca. 1860; ob.—2. To feel somewhat inclined for sexual intercourse: low: from ca. 1870: ? ob.

flawed. Drunk: late C. 17-19: orig. c., then low. In C. 19, gen. = half drunk. B.E.—2. (Of women) no longer virgin though unmarried: coll.: C. 19-20.

flay or skin a flint. To be mean; miserly: coll. > S.E.: mid-C. 17-19. Marryat, 'She would skin a flint if she could.' Cf. flea-flint, q.v.

flay (orig. and gen. flea) the fox. To vomit:

coll.: late C. 16-19. Cotgrave; Urquhart; H., 5th ed. The mod. term is whip the cat.

flaybottomist, late C. 18-19; flaybottom, C. 19-20 (ob.). A schoolmaster: jocular coll. Grose, 1st ed. (Cf. bum-brusher and kid-walloper.) Punning phlebotomist.

flea, fit as a. See fit as a flea.

flea and louse. A (bad) house: rhyming s. (-1859). H., 1st ed.

flea-bag. A bed: low: ca. 1835-1915. Lever in Harry Lorrequer.—2. From ca. 1909, a(n) officer's sleeping-bag. Collinson.

flea-bite, in C. 16-17 occ. -biting. A trifling injury or inconvenience: coll.: late C. 16-18; in C. 19-20, S.E. The former in Taylor, 1630, and Grose; the latter in Burton.

flea- or flay-flint. A miser: coll., > S.E. in C. 19: C. 17-20; ob. D'Urfey, 1719, 'The flea-flints . . . strip me bare.' Ex flay a flint, q.v.

flea in one's or the ear, have a. To be scolded or annoyed; to fail in an enterprise: coll.: C. 16-20. Heywood's Proverbs, 1546. (Anticipated in C. 15.) Cf.:

flea in one's (or the) ear, send away with a. To dismiss annoyingly or humiliatingly: coll. (-1602). Middleton; George Eliot; Weyman, 1922. (Apperson.) Cf. dial. flea in the ear(-hole) and flea in the lug, resp. a box on the ears and a scolding or sharp reproof.

flea-pit. A flat (apartment): from ca. 1919. (John G. Brandon, The One-Minute Murder, 1934.) On flea-bag with jocular allusion to S.E. cubby-hole.

flea the fox. See flay the fox.

fleas, jumpy as a bag of. Extremely nervous: 'windy': military coll.: from 1915. Frank Richards, Old Soldiers Never Die, 1933.

fleas, sit on a bag of. To sit uncomfortably; be uncomfortable: coll.: from ca. 1830. If of hen fleas, then in extreme discomfort.

fleas for, catch (one's). To be very intimate with: of a man with a woman: low coll.: C. 19-20; ob.

flea's leap, in a. Very quickly or promptly: coll.: from ca. 1840.

fleece. An act of thieving or swindling: C. 17 coll. The v. itself had a coll. flavour in C. 16-18.—2. The female pubic hair: (? C. 18; C. 19-20: low coll. Cf. furbelow.

fleece-hunter or -monger. A whoremonger: C. 19-20 (ob.): low coll. Ex fleece, 2. Contrast tuft-hunter.

fleecer. A thief or swindler: C. 17-19 coll. Pryne. Cf. Yorkshire fleecery.

[fleer, in C. 17 often flear, to gain, etc., has, pace B.E. and F. & H., never been other than S.E.]

Fleet, Commander of the. See Navy Office.

fleet, go round or through the. 'To be flogged on board each vessel in the fleet', S.O.D.: from ca. 1840: nautical s., > j.: ca. 1830; ob.

Fleet, he may whet his knife on the threshold of the. He is not in debt: coll.: ca. 1650-1800. Fuller in his Worthies; Grose in his Provincial Glossary. The reference is to the Fleet Prison (London), where debtors used to be imprisoned. (Apperson.)

fleet note. A counterfeit banknote: c.: ea. 1810-60. Is this the dial. adj. fleet, shallow? Or fleet, the mainly dial. adj., skimmed?

Fleet Street. Journalism: in C. 19 coll. and pejorative; in C. 20 S.E. and neutral, the fourth estate being now a reputable body. Fleet Street became the centre of British journalism early in C. 18.

Fleet-Streeter. A journalist: C. 19–20 (ob.): coll. In C. 19, 'a journalist of the baser sort; a spunging prophet (q.v.); a sharking dramatic critic; a spicy (q.v.) paragraphist; and so on', F. & H., 1893.

Fleet-Streetese. The English of the Fleet-Streeter, q.v.: coll.: in C. 20, neutral; but in C. 19, to quote the same authority, 'a mixture of sesquipedalians and slang, of phrases worn threadbare and phrases sprung from the kennel; of bad grammar and worse manners; the like of which is impossible outside of Fleet Street (q.v.), but which in Fleet Street commands a price, and enables not a few to live.'

Flem. A Fleming: coll. (1909) by 1930 verging on S.E. (O.E.D. Sup.)

Flemish account. A bad account; unsatisfactory remittance: coll. (by 1800 S.E.): ca. 1660–1830; but extant, as s., among sailors as late as 1874 (H., 5th ed.). Its post-1820 use in S.E. is archaic. Cf. Flanders reckoning, q.v.—2. Hence, 'ship's books that will not balance': nautical: C. 19–20; ob. Bowen.

flesh!; flesh and fire! As coll. exclamations: late C. 17–mid-18. Ex God's flesh! (Langland), where flesh has a spiritual or religious sense. O.E.D.

flesh and blood. Brandy and port equally mixed: from ca. 1825: ob.

flesh-bag. A shirt; a chemise: low: from ca. 1810; ob. Vaux, 1812; The London Magazine (the like of which we need to-day), 1820 (vol. I), 'They are often without a flesh bag to their backs.'

flesh-broker. A match-maker: a bawd: late C. 17–early 19: low. B.E., who has also, spiritual flesh-broker, a parson.

flesh-creeper. A 'shocker' or 'blood' or 'dreadful': 1887, Baumann; † by 1930.

flesh, fish, nor good red herring, neither. See flesh nor fish.

flesh-fly (Cowper), -maggot, or -monger; flesh-market or -shambles; flesh-mongering. Rather (pace F. & H.) S.E. than coll., and all ob. or †.

flesh it. (Other forms are S.E.) To 'know' a woman: C. 16–20 (ob.): low coll. Cf. fleshing, q.v., and the S.E. flesh one's sword. (Flesh, generative organs, C. 16–20 literary: see Grose, P., at flesh-broker.)

flesh-tailor. A surgeon: C. 17: jocular, but † coll. or S.E. Ford, in 'Tis Pity She's a Whore. flesher. A shirt: military coll.: late C. 19–20; ob. F. & Gibbons. In the Army, it is worn next to the skin.

fleshing, go a. To go wenching: coll.: late C. 16–17. Florio, 1598.

fleshy, n. See cat's head.

fleshy part of the thigh. The buttock: jocular coll.: 1899–ca. 1912. Ex military new evasion. Ware, 'Came into use upon the news from S. Africa of Lord Methuen having been wounded in this region'.

flet. A halibut: nautical: C. 19–20. Bowen. Perhaps by perversion on perversion: which will, admittedly, explain anything, yet is undoubtedly operative now and then.

fletch. A counterfeit coin: c.: ca. 1870–1910. Perversion of flatch, q.v. flick, gen. old flick. Comical fellow: a low coll. salutation, jocular in tendency (– 1860); ob. H., 2nd ed.; Punch, July 28, 1883.—2. In C. 17 c., a thief. Rowlands, where wrongly printed afflicke. Abbr. late C. 16–early 17 flicker, a pilferer.—3. See flicks.

flick, v. To cut: c.: from ca. 1670; ob. Coles; B.E.; Disraeli in Venetia. ? ex the flicking of a whip.—2. Gen. flick along. To cause (e.g. a motor-car) to move rapidly: from ca. 1915: s. now verging on coll. Galsworthy, 1924.

flicker. A drinking-glass. A rum f., a large glass; queer f., an ordinary one. C.: mid-C. 17–early 18. Coles, 1676. Perhaps ex its flickering lights.

flicker. To drink: e. (? C. 18) C. 19. Ex flicker, n., q.v.—2. To grin; laugh in a person's face: late C. 17–20; dial. after ca. 1830. B.E.

flickers. A fainting: tramps' c.: from the early 1920's. F. Jennings, Tramping with Tramps, 1932. Ex U.S. c. flicker, in the same sense.—2. A variant, 1927–9, of flicks, q.v. Collinson.

flicking; flickering. The former with flick, v., and flicker, v.; the latter with flicker, vbl.n.

flicks, the. The films; the moving pictures; (go to the flicks) a cinema: 1927 (Collinson); ob. by 1935. Ex the flickering of the pictured screen; imm. ex.—2. (flick.) A moving picture; the performance at a cinema: 1926, Edgar Wallace (O.E.D. Sup.); † by 1936.

flier, flyer. At association football, a shot in the air: sporting: from ca. 1890.—2. See flyer, all senses.

flier, take a. To copulate without undressing or going to bed: low: from ca. 1780; ob. Grose, 1st ed.—2. To fall heavily: coll. (– 1931). Lyell. Ex the lit. S.E. sense, to take a flying leap.

flies!, no. Honestly!; without fooling!; for sure!: low (– 1923). Manchon. Perhaps abbr. no flies in the ointment.

flies about (a thing, a person), there are no. It, he, etc., is particularly good: Australian (– 1848); † by 1890. O.E.D. (Sup.). Whence:

flies on a person, there are no. (Occ. with about for on.) He is honest, genuine, not playing the fool: coll. (– 1864). H., 3rd ed.—But, 2, since ca. 1895, and owing to U.S. influence, it has meant: he is wide-awake; esp. very able or capable.

flies won't get at it, where the. (Of drink) down one's throat: coll.: late C. 19–20. Cf. (at coaches) the coaches won't run over him.

flight, in the first. See first flight.

flight o(f) steps. Thick slices of bread and butter: coffee-houses' (– 1883). Ware. Cf. door-step, q.v.

flight of turkeys. A Royal Marine landing-party: naval: C. 19. Bowen. Ex their red tunics.

flim. Abbr. flimsy, n., q.v.—2. Five pounds sterling: grafters': C. 20. Philip Allingham. Ex sense 1 influenced by finnif, q.v.

flim-flam, n. and adj. is S.E. until C. 19, when it > coll.: since ca. 1850, it has been archaic. Cf. flam, of which it may possibly be a reduplication, even though the doubled form is app. the earlier.

flimp; rarely flymp. To hustle; esp. thus to rob: c. (– 1839). Brandon. Hence flimper: a stealer from the person. 'Cf. west Flemish flimpe, knock, slap in the face,' O.E.D.—2. Hence, to swindle: low and military (– 1914). F. & Gibbons.—3. To have sexual intercourse with: from ca. 1850. Cf. the sexual vv. bang and knock, qq.v.

flimp, put on the, gen. v.i. To rob on the highway; to rob and garotte: c.: from ca. 1835; ob. Brandon.

flimper. See flimp, 1.

flimping. Stealing from the person: o. (— 1839).

flimsy. A banknote: from ca. 1810: low. Lex. Bal. (flymsey). Occ. abbr. flim (— 1870). Also, in pl., paper-money (— 1891). Ex the thin paper.—2. Reporters' 'copy'; news: journalistic coll.: from ca. 1859; in C. 20, S.E. Ex the thin copying-paper.—3. Hence, a sheet of music, a street-song: tramps' c. (— 1887). Baumann.—4. 'An officer's report at the end of a commission or when leaving a man-of-war': naval: from ca. 1890. Bowen. Likewise ex sense 2.

flimsy, v. To write on flimsy (sense 2): journalists': from ca. 1885: coll. >, by 1910, S.E. flinch-gut. Whale's blubber: whalers': mid-C. 19–20. Bowen.—2. Hence the hold in which it is stored: whalers': late C. 19–20. Ibid.

fling. A sowing of one's wild oats; a spruce: from ca. 1825: coll. soon S.E. Thackeray. (With have.) fling, v. To cheat or trick; v.t. with out: coll.: mid-C. 18–20; almost †. Grose. Esp. fling out of, e.g. money.

fling, in a. In a fit of temper: coll.: C. 19–20; ob.

fling-dust, occ. -stink. A harlot that walks the streets. C. 17–18 (? later): coll. Fletcher, 'An English whore, a kind of fling-dust, one of your London light-o'-loves', 1621 (O.E.D.).

fling (or flap) it in one's face. Of a harlot. to expose the person: low coll.: C. 19–20.

fling out, v.i. To go out or away in noisy haste; esp., in a temper: coll. > S.E.: C. 18–20.

flint. A worker at union, mod. trades-union, rates: from ca. 1760. Opp. dung, q.v. Both terms are in Foote's burlesque, The Tailors. Ob. by 1890, † by 1910.

flint, old. A miser: coll. (— 1840). Dickens in The Old Curiosity Shop. Ob.

flip. 'Hot small Beer (chiefly) and Brandy, sweetened and spiced upon occasion', B.E., ca. 1690: orig. nautical; but S.E. by 1800. (Cf. Sir Cloudeley, q.v.) Perhaps abbr. Philip (W.).—2. A bribe or tip: low: C. 19–20.—3. (A shore) flight or trip in an aircraft, esp. in an aeroplane: aviators' (1914) >, by 1920, gen. (O.E.D. Sup.) Ex the motion.—4. A mere nothing, a trifle: lower classes' (— 1923). Manchon. Perhaps ex flip, a flash or flicker of light.

flip, v. To shoot, gen. v.t.: c. (— 1812); very ob. Vaux.—2. To fly in an aircraft, esp. in an aeroplane: aviators' (1915) >, by 1920, gen.—but much less gen. than the corresponding n., whence, by the way, it derives. F. & Gibbons.

flip-flap. A flighty woman: coll. > S.E.: C. 18. Vanbrugh, 1702, 'The light airy flip-flap, she kills him with her motions.'—2. A step-dance (see cellar-flap); a somersault in which the performer lands on feet and hands alternately: the former, from ca. 1860; the latter (showmen's), late C. 17–early 19.—3. The arm: nautical (— 1887). Cf. flipper. Baumann.—4. The membrum virile: from ca. 1650: cf. dingle-dangle.—5. A (fireworks) cracker (— 1885); ob.—6. 'Broad fringe of hair covering the young male forehead': Cockneys': 1898–ca. 1914. Ware.

flipper. The hand: from ca. 1820: nautical, soon gen. Egan's Grose; Barham. One flips it about.—2. Esp. in tip a person one's flipper, shake hands with. Punch, Oct. 11, 1884. Cf. flapper, daddle, mauley.—3. That part of a 'scene' which, painted and hinged on both sides, is used in trick changes: theatrical coll.: from ca. 1870; ob.

flirt-gill, C. 16–17; gill-flirt, C. 18–early 19. A wanton; a harlot. Orig. coll., soon S.E. Occ. jill; abbr. Gillian = Juliana.

flirtina cop-all (sc. men). A wanton: low coll.: from ca. 1860. ? after concertina.

flit, do a. To run away with another's share: c. (— 1933). Charles E. Leach.

flit, do a moonlight. To quit one's tenement, flat, or house, or one's lodgings, by night and without paying the rent or (board and) lodging: (low) coll.: mid-C. 19–20.

flivver. A cheap and/or small motor-car (1920) or aeroplane (ca. 1925). O.E.D. (Sup.). Prob. ex U.S. flivver, a failure,—itself perhaps a blend or rather a confusion of flop + fizzler.

float. The row of footlights; (also in pl.) the footlights: theatrical: ca. 1860–1930. (In C. 20, S.E.) Before gas, oil-pans with floating wicks were used.—2. A till; the contents thereof: c. (— 1935). David Hume.

float, v.i. To die, 'give up the ghost': Australian (— 1916). C. J. Dennis.—2. To make a mistake: rare (— 1923). Manchon. Cf. float, 5.

float one's hat. To get soaked; to lose one's hat in the water: Canadian lumbermen's: C. 20. John Beames.

float-up. A person's casual approach: New Zealanders': C. 20. Ex:

float up, v. To stroll up to a person or a group; to arrive unexpectedly: New Zealand coll.: C. 20.

float. (Cf. the American senses in Thornton.) A suet dumpling: Cockney, mostly costers' (— 1864). Often it floats in gravy. Cf. the U.S. floating island. H., 3rd ed.—2. (Gen. pl.) An Exchequer bill; any sound stock: Stock Exchange (— 1871). Because a recognised security.—3. The penis: C. 19.—4. A mine adrift: naval coll.: 1916. Bowen.—5. A mistake, a faux pas; a moment of embarrassment: university s. (ca. 1910) >, by 1929 (Wodehouse), gen. to the upper and middle classes. A. Lunn, The Harrovians, 1913; Ronald Knox, 1934, Still Dead, 'It produced . . . in the original and highly esoteric sense of that term, a "float"'. Perhaps because it cannot be recalled, though perhaps suggested by faux pas slurred to fôper; cf., however, float, v., 2.—6. A penny that does not spin: two-up players' coll.: late C. 19–20.

floating academy. The convict hulks: mid-C. 18–mid-19 c. or low s. Grose, 1st ed. (at academy). Cf. Campbell's academy, q.v., and floating hell.

floating batteries. Broken bread dipped in tea: military: ca. 1890–1914.

floating coach-and-four, the. The Isle of Man paddle-ship Ben-My-Chree, after being re-boilered and fitted with four funnels: nautical: C. 20. Bowen.

floating coffin. A ship materially rotten: nautical coll.: late C. 19–20. Bowen. Ex.—2. A 10-gun brig (also a coffin-brig): ca. 1800–80. Ibid.

floating-hell; occ., in sense 2 only, hell afloat. The hulks: ca. 1810–50. Lex. Bal., 1811. Ex the repulsive conditions.—2. Hence, a ship commanded by a brutal bully, hence by any rigid disciplinarian: nautical coll.: from ca. 1850. Cf.:

floating L's. See L's, floating.

floating skeleton (or F.S.), the. 'The Russian five-funnelled cruiser Askold (Bowen): naval during the G.W.

flock of sheep. White waves (cf. 'horses') of the sea: coll.: C. 19-20; ob.—2. A dominoes-hand set out on the table: from ca. 1870.

floey (or Floey), drunk as. Exceedingly drunk: proletarian (—1909). Perhaps ex some very bibulous Flora. Ware.

flog. To whip: from ca. 1670. Until ca. 1750, c.; in C. 19-20, S.E. Coles, 1676. Prob. an echoic perversion of L. flagellare.—2. To beat, excel: ca. 1840-1910.—3. In late C. 19-20 military, to sell illicitly, esp. Army stores; and, in post-G.W. c., to sell 'swag' to others than receivers. F. & Gibbons; B. & P. Ex flog the clock or flog the glass. (Cf. flogging, adj., q.v.)—4. Hence, to get the better of (a person), esp. in a bargain: military: 1915. F. & Gibbons.—5. Hence (?), to exchange or barter: c.: from ca. 1920. Anon., Dartmoor from Within, 1932.—6. See flog it.

flog a willing horse. To urge on a person already eager or very active: coll.: mid-C. 19-20.

flog it. To walk: military: from ca. 1912. F. & Gibbons. Ex the effort (flog oneself along).

flog the cat. To cry over spilt milk: nautical: mid-C. 19-20. Bowen.

flog the clock. To move its hands forward (—1894): coll. Prob. suggested by the nautical flog the glass, turn the watch-glass (—1769); †. (O.E.D.) flog the dead horse. See dead horse.

flogged at the tumbler. Whipped at the cart's tail: c.: late C. 17-18. B.E.

flogger. A whip: late C. 18-19. George Parker, 1789.—2. 'A mop used in the painting room to whisk (charcoal) dust from a sketch': theatrical: ca. 1870-1920.

flogging. 'A Naked Woman's whipping (with Rods) an Old (usually) and (sometimes) a Young Lecher', B.E.: C. 17-18 c.—2. The frequent vb. n. of flog, v., 3, q.v.

flogging, adj. Mean; grasping: late C. 19-20: coll. Ob. Cf. flog, 2.

flogging-cove. An official dealing out the corporal punishment: c.: late C. 17-early 19. B.E.—2. A C. 18 variant of:

flogging-cully. A man addicted to flagellation for sexual purposes: C. 18-early 19: c. A New Canting Dict., 1725; Grose, 1st ed. Cf. flogging, n., q.v.

Flogging Joey. Captain McCulloch, R.N., founder of the Coast Blockade: nautical: early C. 19. Bowen. He was a severe disciplinarian.

flogging-stake. A whipping-post: late C. 17-19 c. until late C. 18, then low. B.E. flogster. A person addicted to flogging as a punishment: coll.: C. 19-20; ob. A naval nickname for William IV when Duke of Clarence.

floence is entirely unnecessary for fluence, q.v.

floor. That which nonplusses or discomfits one: ca. 1840-1920; coll. (O.E.D.)—2. A miscalculation: coll.: ca. 1845-1910. The former ex floor, v., 1; the latter, which has a corresponding but very rare v.i., is influenced by flaw.—3. As in first-floor, q.v.—4. The ground outside a house: South African Midlands coll. (—1913). Pettman. Cf.:—5. The ground; e.g. put on the floor, to fail to hold (a catch): cricket coll.: 1903 (O.E.D. Sup.).

floor, v. (Coll.) To vanquish, silence, or non-plus, esp. in an argument (—1835). L. Oliphant, 1870, 'I floor all opposition.'—2. To drink; 'get outside of' (—1851); ob.—3. (Of an examiner) to plough: ca. 1840-1910.—4. (Also university) answer every question of; reply brilliantly to (an examiner): from ca. 1850; ob. Prob. ex sense 5.: —To do thoroughly; complete, finish: 1836. (S.O.D.)—6. See floored, 2.—7. See ibid, 3.

floor, have or hold the. To be speaking; esp. too much or to another's displeasure: coll.: from ca. 1850. Ex S.E., orig. political sense.

floor, on the. Penniless: c. (—1933). Charles E. Leach. Prob. ex boxing.

floor one's licks. To 'shine'; do unusually well: low: ca. 1840-1900.

floor the odds. (Gen. of a horse) to win despite heavy odds: the turf (—1882). The Daily Telegraph, Nov. 16, 1882, 'The odds were . . . floored from an unexpected quarter.'

floored, ppl. adj. Senses as in to floor, q.v.—2. Dead drunk: from ca. 1810. Vaux.—3. Among painters: hung low at an exhibition, whether exhibit or exhibitor: from ca. 1860. H., 3rd ed. Opp. skied, q.v.

floorer. A knockdown blow (cf. auctioneer): pugilistic (—1819), > gen. ca. 1860.—2. Hence, unpleasant news, decisive argument or retort; a notable check: from the 1830's.—3. In universities and schools: a question or a paper too difficult to answer: from ca. 1850.—4. In skittles, a ball that knocks down all the pins: from ca. 1840.—5. In c.: a thief that in assisting a man that he has tripped robs him: 1795 (O.E.D.).

floorer, first-, second-, third-. One who rooms on the first, second, third floor: lodging-houses' (—1887). Baumann.

flooring. Vbl.n., in senses of to floor, q.v., but esp. among pugilists (—1819). Tom Moore.

flop. The act or sound of a heavy or a clumsy fall; a blow: late C. 17-20 coll. when not dial.—2. Hair worn low down over the forehead by women: low London: 1881-ca. 1900. Ware.—3. A failure, e.g. of a book, a play, a project: from ca. 1890: coll. >, by 1930, S.E. F. & H.—4. Hence, a 'soft' person; a spineless, toneless one: 1909, H. G. Wells (O.E.D. Sup.).

flop, v.t. In boxing: to knock down (—1888); ob.—2. In gen.: v.i., to swing loosely and heavily: coll.; C. 17-20.—3. V.i., move heavily, clumsily or with a bump: late C. 17-20: coll.—4. V.t., throw with flopping suddenness: coll.; from ca. 1820.—5. To move, esp. wings, heavily up and down: coll. (—1860). (S.O.D.)—6. (Of a book, play, plan) to fail: from ca. 1918: s. now verging on coll. Cf. flop, n., 3.—7. To sleep: tramps' e.: C. 20. W. A. Gape, Half a Million Tramps, 1936. Ex S.E. flop down.

flop, adv. With a heavy or a clumsy fall. Often expletively. Coll.: from ca. 1725. J. Payn, 'She'll roll down, papa, and come flop.' (O.E.D.)

flop, do a. To sit or fall down: from ca. 1870.—2. To lie down to a man: low: from ca. 1875. Contrast flop a judy, to cause a woman to lie ready for the sexual act: low: from ca. 1875.

flop about. To lie about, lazily and either lethargically or languorously: coll.: from ca. 1870.

flop in. To effect intromission: low: latter C. 19 (? C. 20).

flop on, e.g. the gills. A blow on the (e.g.) mouth: low coll.: from mid-C. 19.

flop out, v. Of a bather leaving the water with noisy awkwardness: coll.: from ca. 1870.—2. To knock down with a blow, cause to fall in a heap: coll. (— 1923). Manchon. Cf. flop, v., 1.

flop over, v.i. To turn heavily: coll.: from ca. 1860.

flop round. To loaf about: from ca. 1865: coll.

flop-whop. Onomatopœic for a 'flopping' impact: coll. (— 1887). Baumann.

flopper. A weak or 'floppy' person: coll. (— 1923). Manchon. Cf.:

floppy. Apt to flop (see flop, v., intransitive senses): coll.: 1858 (S.O.D.). Hence, n., floppiness and adv., floppily:—2. Hence, (very) drunk: low (— 1923). Manchon.

Floras. 'Preferred converted ordinary' shares in the Caledonian Railway: Stock Exchange (— 1895). A. J. Wilson, Stock Exchange Glossary. On Coras, q.v.

florance. A girl that has been tousled and ruffled: late C. 17—early 19: coll. B.E. Cf. the ob. Northants florence (to go about untidily dressed), by which the Christian name, as a type, was prob. influenced.

Florrie Ford. A motor-car or -lorry: military: G.W. Ex Ford car + Miss Florrie Forde, the actress. (F. & Gibbons.)

flossification (— 1828) is incorrect for florification. O.E.D.

floster. A drink of sherry, soda-water, lemon, ice, and several other ingredients: from ca. 1860; ob. by 1900, † by 1924.

flouch or floush, fall or go. To collapse; sag: coll. (— 1819); ob. Tom Moore, 'Georgy went floush, and his backers looked shy.' Ex dial.; ultimately echoic. O.E.D.

flounce. 'The thick line of black paint put on the edge of the lower eyelid to enhance the effect of the eye itself': theatrical (1854) soon > Society; † by 1920. Ware.

flounder. The corpse of a drowned man: c.: ca. 1870–1930. Barrère & Leland; Manchon. Cf. dab in the same sense and status.

flounder, v. To sell and re-purchase a stock, esp. when at a loss on each occasion: Stock Exchange (— 1889). More gen. as floundering, vbl.n.

flounder and dab. A cab: rhyming s. (— 1857); ob. 'Ducange Anglicus.'

flourish. To have money, esp. much, in one's pocket: coll. Ex the semi-coll. sense, to be well off, itself ex the M.E.—C. 20 S.E. sense, to thrive.

flourish, take a. (Of the man) to have a hasty coition: mid C. 18–19 low or low coll. Grose, 2nd ed.

flourish it. (Of either sex) to expose the person: low coll: mid-C. 19–20.

flourishing. Flourishingly. Often in reply to 'How are you (getting along)?' Coll.: C. 19–20.

floury baker. A kind of locust: Australian children's: C. 20. Cf. double-drummer.

floos, gen. v.i. To deceive, cheat, shirk to the direct disadvantage of another: South African coll. (— 1913). Ex Dutch: cf. Ger. Flause, deceit, pretence. Pettman.

floush, fall or go. See flouch.

flower, flower of chivalry, flower-pot. The female pudend: low: C. 19–20. The second term puns the etymological meaning of its third vocable.

flower-fancier. A whoremaster: whoremonger: low: C. 19–20; ob.

flowers. Abbr. monthly flowers, the menstrual flux: C. 15–20: until ca. 1840, S.E.; then coll.

Ex Fr. fleurs = flueurs = L. fluor ex fluere, to flow (W.).

flowers !, say it with. A c.p. (from ca. 1925; ex U.S.) = send flowers !; also, say it nicely ! (Collinson.)

flowery. Lodging; entertainment: c. and Parlyaree: from ca. 1850; ob. H., 1st ed. Prob. ex It. via Lingua Franca.—2. Hence, a prison-cell: c.: C. 20.

flowery dell. A (prison-)cell: rhyming s.: C. 20. P. P., Rhyming Slang, 1932.

flowery language. A jocularly euphemistic coll. for obscenity and for blasphemy: from before 1893.

flowing hope. A forlorn hope: naval and military: ca. 1850–1914. Smyth. Orig. a sol.

'flu, flu; occ. flue. Influenza: coll., gen. with the: from late 1830's. Southey, 1839, 'I've had a pretty fair share of the flue.' (O.E.D.)

flue. The Recorder, esp. of London: ca. 1750–1900. ? orig. c. Corruption of flute, 1.—2. As fluff, it is, despite F. & H., not 'unconventional'.—3. See flu.—4. See flue, in, and the following entry. flue, v. To put in pawn: low: from ca. 1860. Ex in or up the flue.

flue, be up one's. To be awkward for a person, as in 'That's up your flue': from ca. 1870; ob.

flue, in or up the. Pawned: from ca. 1820. Cf. up the spout, q.v. Flue is itself s. for the spout in a pawnbroker's shop.

flue or spout, up the. As in preceding entry.—2. Collapsed, physically or mentally; dead: low: ca. 1850–1910.

flue-faker. A chimney-sweep: c. or low s.: ca. 1810–1900. Vaux.—2. A low sporting man: ca. 1855–1914. Because he bets on the great sweeps (H., 1859).

flue-scraper. A chimney-sweep: ca. 1830–1910. Suggested by flue-faker.

fluence (or 'fluence'), the. Delicate or subtle influence: Australians' and New Zealanders': from ca. 1930. Ex the next, q.v. Neville Cardus, Good Days, 1934, 'Grimmett's fingers are always light and wonderfully tactile; when he passes the salt at dinner he imparts the "fluence".'

fluence on, put the. To persuade: mostly Australian and New Zealand: from ca. 1910. Abbr. influence and ex hypnotism, the orig. Australian sense, dating from ca. 1900 and ob. by 1924, being coll.: to hypnotise.—3. Cf. the Cockney sense of ca. 1850–85: to 'attract, subdue, overcome by mental force' (Ware).

flues, overheat one's. To get drunk: jocular (— 1923). Manchon. Lit., set the chimney on fire.

fluff, occ. fluffings. Short change given by clerks: railway: from ca. 1870. H., 5th ed. Cf. menave-lings.—2. 'Lines' imperfectly learned and delivered: theatrical: from ca. 1880. W. Archer, 'But even as seen through a cloud of fluff the burlesque is irresistibly amusing.'—Cf. Major McFluffer, q.v.—3. The female pubic hair: low: C. 19–20.—4. See fluff, little bit of.—5. A tip (gratuity): transport-workers': ca. 1890–1920. Prob. ex sense 1. Cf. drop, last sense.—6. Diffusely worded contribution to a newspaper: journalists' coll.: late C. 19–20. Cf. S.E. woolly.

fluff, v. To give short change: railways': from ca. 1870. H., 5th ed.—2. Disconcert, nonplus, 'floor': from ca. 1860. Cf. fluff in, q.v.—3. To forget one's part: theatrical: from ca. 1880. George Moore, in the Mummer's Wife, 1885.—4. See fluff it !.—5. (Of porters) when off duty, to hang about in the hope of tips: railwaymen's (— 1923). Manchon. Cf. sense 1.—6. (V.i.) To boast; to tell lies: military: C. 20. F. & Gibbons. Perhaps ex sense 3.

fluff, do a. To forget one's part: theatrical: from ca. 1870.

fluff, little bit of. A girl: mostly Australian: C. 20. O.E.D. records it at 1903; C. J. Dennis, 1916. ? cf. fluff, n., 3.

fluff in. To deceive (a person) 'by smooth modes': lower classes' (— 1909). Ware. Prob. ex fluff, v., 2.

fluff in the pan. A failure: from ca. 1860: coll.: ex Scottish.

fluff it! Go away! Take it away! (— 1859). Ob. H., 1st ed.

fluffer. A drunkard: from ca. 1880. Cf. fluffiness.—2. A player apt to forget his part: theatrical: from ca. 1880. See fluff, v.—3. A term of contempt: 'old', says F. & H. in 1893. Untraced.

fluffing; fluffings. The practice of, and the proceeds from, giving short change: railways': from ca. 1870. See fluff, n., 1, and v., 1.

fluffiness. Drunkenness: from ca. 1885. Fun, Aug. 4, 1886.—2. A tendency to forget words: theatrical: from ca. 1885.

fluffy. Of uncertain memory: theatrical: from ca. 1880. Ex fluff, n., 2. See also Major McFluffer.—2. Unsteady; stupidly drunk: from ca. 1885.

fluke. A stroke of luck: coll.: from ca. 1860. Ex billiards. H., 2nd ed.; Black, 1873, 'It is a happy fluke'.—2. An easy dupe, a 'flat': ca. 1800–30. Ex fluke, a flat fish.

fluke, v. To do a thing (well) by accident: coll.: from ca. 1880. Hence, vbl.n. and adj., fluking. Ex billiards.—2. To shirk: Etton (— 1864).

flukes, peak or turn the. To go to bed: nautical: mid-C. 19–20. Ex a whale's peaking the flukes, i.e. going under. O.E.D.

fluk(e)y; gen. flukie. A whale: nautical coll.: from ca. 1920. (O.E.D. Sup.) Ex a whale's flukes.

fluk(e)y, adj. Chaney, uncertain; achieved less by good management than by good luck: coll.: from ca. 1880. Hence, flukiness, abounding in flukes, and adv. flukily.

flumiddle. A coll. variant (— 1923) of flummery, q.v. Manchon. I.e. flummery influenced by middle.

flummegast, gen. as ppl. adj. To astound or confound: coll. (— 1849); ob. Variation of flabbergast, q.v.

flummery. Flattery; polite nonsense: from ca. 1750: coll.; after ca. 1830, S.E. Ex the lit. sense, 'oatmeal and water boiled to a jelly', not 'over-nourishing', Grose, 1st ed. Cf. balderdash.

flummocks (rare), flummox, flummux. To perplex, abash, silence; victimise, 'best'; disappoint, dodge, elude: 1837: Dickens. Variant, † conflummox. Ex dial. Cf. flabbergast.—2. Hence, to confuse another player: theatrical: from ca. 1880.

flummocky. In bad taste: coll. (— 1891). Blackwood's, March 1891. Ex preceding.

flummox. A failure: 1857, 'Ducange Anglicus'; ob. Ex:

flummox, v. See flummocks.

flummox by the lip, to talk down; vanquish in a slanging match: low: from ca. 1860; ob.

flummoxed. Silenced; disappointed, outwitted; spoilt; ruined; drunk; sent to or sure of a month in prison (c. only): from the 1850's. H., 1st ed.; Punch, Aug. 30, 1890, 'I'm fair flummoxed.'

Ppl. adj. ex flummox, see flummocks. W hence: flummut*. A month in prison: vagrants' c. (— 1851). Mayhew equates it to the beggars' sign. See flummoxed.

flummux, flummuxed. See flummocks, flummoxed.

flump. An abrupt or heavy fall, making a dull noise; the noise: late C. 18–20 (ob.) coll. Cf.:

flump, v. To fall, or be set down, violently, thumpingly, or hurriedly: coll.: v.i., 1816; v.t., 1830; as adv., 1790. (S.O.D.) Thackeray, 'Chairs were flumped down on the floor.' ? a blend of flap and thump (W.).

flump, adv. With a 'flump': coll.: late C. 18–20. Grose's Provincial Glossary.

flunkey. A parasite, a toady: coll.: from ca. 1855; in C. 20, S.E. Ex sense, a man-servant esp. if in livery.—2. A ship's steward: nautical (— 1883); ob. W. Clark Russell.—3. A ward-room attendant: naval: from ca. 1880. Bowen.

flunkey out of collar. A footman out of work: 1857, 'Ducange Anglicus'; ob.

flurry one's milk. To be angry, perturbed, worried: low coll.: from ca. 1820; ob. Cf. Fr. se faire du mauvais sang.

furryment. Confusion, bustle; excitement, agitation: low coll. (— 1848). Pleonastic on flurry, ? after flusterment.

flush, v.t. To whip: coll.: mid-C. 19–20; ob. H., 3rd ed. Hence flushed on the horse, privately whipped in gaol: mid-C. 19–20, ob.: prob. c. Perhaps ex flush, to cleanse, or to make red.

flush, adj., with of. Having plenty of money, esp. temporarily: C. 17–20. In C. 17, esp. as flush in the pocket or fob, c.; in C. 18, low > gen.; in C. 19–20, S.E. Dekker; Trollope, 'Long before that time I shall be flush enough.' Cf. S.E. flush of success and flush, level, hence full.—2. Topsy: C. 19–20; ob. Ex flush, level with, i.e. full to, the top.

flush, adv. Full; directly: pugilistic, of a blow (— 1888). Ex C. 18 S.E.

flush a wild duck. To single out a woman for amorous attentions: low: C. 19–20; ob. Ex shooting; flush = to cause to take wing.

flush hit. A clean hit; a punch fair on the mark: pugilism: ca. 1810–1920; s. > j. by 1900.

flush on one, come. To meet a person suddenly, unexpectedly: coll. > S.E.: C. 17–20.

flushed on the horse. See flush, v.

flusteration. A variant of flustration. Banmann. flusticate. To confuse: C. 19–20 (ob.): low coll. or sol. By complicate out of fluster.

flustrate. To confuse; excite. (Gen. in past ppl. passive.) Sol.: C. 18–20; ob. The Spectator, (No. 493,) 1712, 'We were coming down Essex Street one night a little flustrated.' Ex fluster. Like next, oce. jocular.

flustration. Confusion, bustle; excitement, flurry: sol., perhaps orig. nautical: from ca. 1740; ob. Smollett, 'Being I was in such a flustration'; Mortimer Collins. In C. 19–20, also flustration.

flute. (Cf. flue, n.) A city recorder, esp. of London: ca. 1690–1820: prob. c. B.E.—2. The male member: C. 18–19: low. Variants living flute, one-holed f., silent f. Cf. the Romany haboia (English hautboy) in same sense. (Sampson.)—3. A pistol: ca. 1840–1910. Lover in Handy Andy (E.D.D., Sup.). Ex shape and 'tune'.

[flutist, flautist. See Fowler, who defends the former.] flutter. A short visit or trip, esp. a joyous, informal one: coll.: 1857 (O.E.D.).—2. A venture, an attempt; a spree; a gamble: from ca. 1870. H., 5th ed.; The Saturday Review, Feb. 1, 1890, 'Fond of a little flutter'.—3. The spinning of a coin: from ca. 1872.—4. See flutter, have had a. All senses refer to the flutter of excitement; 3 also to the fluttering movement.

flutter. V.i., to gamble; from ca. 1870. Cf. sense 3.—2. Also, to indulge in pleasure: from ca. 1880.—3. V.t., to spin (a coin), as in flutter a brown: from ca. 1870; ob. H., 5th ed.

flutter, be on the. To be on the spree; sexually adept: low: ca. 1875. Cf.:

flutter, do or have a. To have a small gamble; go on the spree; (of either sex) to have sexual intercourse, for pleasure rather than passion: from ca. 1870: s. >, by 1920, coll.

flutter !, give her a. Toss a or the coin! C. 20.

flutter, have had a. To have had sexual experience; to have lost one's virginity: low: from ca. 1875.

flutter a judy. To pursue a girl; to possess one: low: from ca. 1850.

flutter a skirt. To be a (street-walking) harlot: low: from ca. 1850.

flutter for, have a. To try hard to do, get, etc.: coll. (— 1873).

flutter (or fret) one's kidneys. To agitate; greatly annoy: low: from ca. 1860. Cf. flurry one's milk.

flutter the ribbons. To drive (horses): coll.: ca. 1860–1910.

flux. To cozen, cheat, outwit: late C. 18–early 19. Grose, 1st ed. Ex S.E. sense, to subject to a flux.

Fly. Admiral Martin, Commander-in-Chief of the Mediterranean Fleet: naval: early C. 20. Ex his fondness for tactical evolutions. Bowen.

fly. A printer's devil: late C. 17–mid-19: printers'. Ex fly = a familiar spirit, a devil.—2. A waggon: c.: late C. 18–early 19. All other vehicle senses are S.E. Grose, 2nd ed.—3. The act of spinning a coin: from ca. 1870; cf. flutter, n., 2.—4. A policeman: c. > low, (— 1857). Ob., except as a detective.—5. A customer: trade: ca. 1840–1910.—6. A trick, 'dodge': ca. 1860–1910. (O.E.D.).—7. the fly (or Fly). A locality infested by the tsetse insect: South African coll.: 1868, James Chapman, Travels in South Africa. (Pettman).—8. A blow, punch: boxing (— 1887); ob. Baumann.

fly, v. To give way; become damaged: pugilism (— 1865); ob.—2. To toss; raise (e.g. a window): c. (— 1857).—3. Send quickly, hastily: coll.: ca. 1845–1900. Darwin. O.E.D.—4. See fly a kite or tile; fly the mags.—5. V.t., (of a horse) to outdistance easily: sporting (— 1887). Baumann.

fly, adj. Artful, knowing; shrewdly aware: low (? orig. c.): from ca. 1810. In Scots (flee), however, as early as 1724 (E.D.D.). Vaux. Variants a-fly, flymy, fly to the game, fly to what's what. Perhaps ex the difficulty of catching a fly, more prob. cognate with fledge, fledged, as Sewel, 1766, indicates (W.); though Bee's assertion that it is a corruption of fla, abbr. flash, is, considering the devices of c., not to be sneered at.—2. Dextrous: from ca. 1834: low. Ainsworth.—3. (Of women) wanton: low:

from ca. 1880. Ex senses 1 and 2. Cf. U.S. fly dame, a harlot (— 1888).

fly, let. V.t., to hit out: coll. (— 1859). Punch, July 25, 1859, 'Lord Lyndhurst let fly and caught him . . . an extremely neat one on the conk.'

fly, make the fur or feathers. To attack successfully (one's for the); to quarrel noisily: coll.: orig. (1825), U.S.; anglicised ca. 1860.

fly, not to rise to that. Not to 'bite', i.e. not to believe: coll.: from ca. 1870; ob.

fly, off the. Laid up; doing nothing; retired, esp. from the giving or the pursuit of pleasure: low: from ca. 1850.

fly, on the. Off work; walking the streets for fun; on the spree: low: from ca. 1850.—2. In c., in motion: from ca. 1860. Cf. U.S. sense, in the air (1872: Thornton).—3. Shrewdly, cunningly, secretly: low (— 1923). Manchon.

fly, beg on the. To beg from persons as they pass: c. (— 1861). Mayhew. Cf. fly, on the, 2.

fly, take on the, v.t. To beg from in the streets: c.: from ca. 1845; ob. Cf. beg on the fly, above.

fly a, the, kite. To raise money by means of accommodation bills: from ca. 1808. Whence fly a bill, to gain time by giving a bill (1860, O.E.D.).—2. Merely to raise money (— 1880). In Anglo-Irish banks, it = to cash a cheque against non-existent funds: C. 20. Also cash a dog, pay the bearer.—3. In c., to depart by the window (— 1860): esp. from low lodging-houses. H., 2nd ed.—4. With at, to set one's cap at (— 1863). Henry Kingsley.—5. (Gen. fly the kite.) To seek publicity: Society: from the 1890's; ob. Ware.—6. To test public opinion by tentative measures: copy-writers' coll.: from ca. 1926. Cf. sense 2.

fly a tile. To knock off a man's hat: Stock Exchange: ca. 1820–1900.

fly-away. A tricycle: coll. (— 1887); ob. by 1905, † by 1920. Baumann.

fly-balance; shotter; sighter. A column of figures added correctly at the first attempt: bank-clerks': C. 20: resp. coll., now verging on j.; s.; s. Obviously shotter derives ex at the first shot; sighter ex rifle-shooting.

fly-blow. A bastard: coll. (— 1875); ob. ? corruption of by-blow.

fly-blown. Topsy: from ca. 1875; ob.—2. Penniless: Australian (— 1889).—3. Exhausted: low: from ca. 1880.—4. Devirginated; also, suspected of venereal disease: low: from ca. 1885.

fly blue paper. To issue a summons: legal: from ca. 1890; slightly ob.

fly-boy. A variant of fly, n., 1. H., 5th ed.—2. Gen. in pl., 'English "refugees" who crossed over to Ireland to evade conscription': Anglo-Irish pejorative, esp. at Dublin: G.W. F. & Gibbons. Sarcastic ex fly, adj., 1, with a pun on fly, to flee.

fly-by-night. A sedan chair on wheels: coll.; temp., the Regency.—2. A defaulting debtor; his defaulting: coll.: 1823, 'Jon Bee'.—3. A harlot: from ca. 1860.—4. The female pudend: C. 19–20 low.—5. One who frequently moves about at night, e.g. a spreester: from ca. 1865.—6. A term of contempt for a woman: coll.: C. 18–early 19. Grose, 3rd ed. Ex witches broom-flying by night.

fly-cage. The female pudend: C. 19–20 low.

fly-catcher. The same: id.—2. An open-mouthed ignorant person: coll.: from ca. 1820.—3. A fast aeroplane, officially a 'fleet-fighter': military (esp. airmen's): 1915. F. & Gibbons.

fly cop. A detective: U.S. >, by 1889, English c. Barrère & Leland; Ware. Lit., 'a clever policeman'. Ex fly, adj., 1.

fly-disperser soup. Oxtail soup: from ca. 1860–1910.

fly-flapped. Whipped in the stocks or at the cart's tail: ca. 1785–1830. Grose, 2nd ed. Ex the C. 17–18 S.E. fly-flap, to beat.

fly-flapper. A heavy bludgeon: from ca. 1840; ob.

fly flat. A would-be expert: the turf: ca. 1885–1915. Barrère & Leland.

fly high or rather high. To get or to be drunk: low: from ca. 1860.—2. To keep good company and fine state; venture for big stakes: coll. > S.E.: C. 19–20.

fly in a tar-box (in C. 19–20, glue-pot), like a. Nervously excited: coll. (— 1659); the former, ob. by 1800, † by 1900. Howell, 1659. (Apperson.)

fly laugh. 'twould make a. Very amusing: (? C. 17–) C. 18 coll. Apperson.

fly loo. See Kentucky loo.

fly low. To be modest and retiring: from ca. 1835: coll., > S.E. by 1895.—2. In c., to hide from justice: ca. 1870–1920.

fly man. An expert thief: c.: C. 20. E.g. in Edgar Wallace's The Squeaker, 1927.—2. A professional criminal: Glasgow c.: from ca. 1919. MacArthur & Long, No Mean City, 1935.

fly member. A very shrewd, sharp person: low (— 1909). Ware.

fly my kite. A light: rhyming s. (— 1857). 'Ducange Anglicus.' fly off the handle. To lose one's temper: orig. (1825), U.S.; anglicised ca. 1860. Also (— 1931), fly off the deep end, evidently influenced by go (in) off the deep end: Lyell.

fly on a wheel, break or crush a. To make much fuss about very little (— 1859): coll. > S.E. by 1900.

fly on the wheel, the. One who considers himself very important: coll. > S.E.: late C. 16–20; ob. From Æsop's fable.

fly out. To grow angry; to scold: C. 17–20; coll., > S.E. by 1700. Chapman, The Spectator, Thackeray.

fly-paper, be on the. To be justiciable under the Prevention of Crimes Act: c.: from ca. 1912. James Curtis, The Gilt Kid, 1936. Ex:

Fly Paper Act, the. The Prevention of Crimes Act (1909): c.: 1910. Charles E. Leach. Cf. Cat and Mouse Act.

fly-pitch; fly-pitcher. A cheapjack's 'pitch'; a cheapjack selling from a pitch: showmen's: C. 20. P. Allingham, in The Evening News, July 9, 1934.

fly-rink. A bald head: lower classes': 1875; ob. Ware.

fly-slicer. A cavalryman: C. 19–20 (ob.); orig. late C. 18), a Life Guardsman (Grose, 1st ed.). Ex the brushing-away of flies with a sword.

fly-stuck (possibly S.E.); stuck (coll.). Bitten by the tsetse: South African: from ca. 1880 and esp. among hunters, as F. C. Selous, who uses both forms, makes clear in A Hunter's Wanderings in Africa, 1881. (Pettman.)

fly the blue pigeon. To steal lead from roofs: see blue pigeon: C. 18–19 c.

fly the flag. (Of harlots) to walk the streets: low: from ca. 1840.—2. To have the monthly flux: low: from ca. 1850.

fly the kite. See fly a kite.

fly the mags. To gamble; properly, by throwing up halfpence: c. (— 1812) >, by 1850, low. Vaux.

fly the pigeons. See pigeons, fly the.

fly to. See fly, adj., 1. Cf. down to, up to, flash to.

fly-trap. The mouth: from ca. 1790. Cf. fly-catcher, q.v.—2. The female pudend: C. 19 low. Cf. fly-cage and -catcher.—3. (Gen. pl.). A wire entanglement: military: 1915; ob. G. H. McKnight, English Words, 1923.

fly with, not a feather to. Penniless; ruined: coll.: C. 19–20; slightly ob.

flyer. See flier.—2. (Gen. in pl.) A shoe: c.: late C. 17–18. B.E. In C. 19 low s., e.g. in Mayhew, flyer is an unwelted shoe.—3. In Winchester football, a half-volley: from ca. 1850.—4. A swift kangaroo: Australian coll. (— 1848) >, by 1890, S.E. O.E.D. (Sup.); Morris.—5. A breeder of homing pigeons: sporting coll.: mid-C. 19–20. Ware.—6. A speculation (in stocks and shares): mostly Stock Exchange: U.S. (1848) >, by 1910, anglicised: coll. O.E.D.; Manchon.—7. A smart, lively, very attractive person, esp. of a pretty girl: coll.: 1930, Temple Thurston (O.E.D. Sup.).—8. the Flyers. The Flying Squad: c.: from ca. 1920. E.g. in Edgar Wallace's The Flying Squad, 1928.—9. See flier, take a. flying, look as if the devil had shit him or her. To be filthy or deformed: low coll.: C. 19–20; ob.

flying-arse-hole. An observer's badge: Air Force: 1915. B. & P. The badge consists of an O with the representation of a wing.

flying bedstead. The open stall (on wheels) of a dealer in old clocks and bric-à-brac: 'Cockneys' (— 1887). Baumann.—2. An Army bicycle or motor-cycle: military: G.W. (F. & Gibbons.)

Flying Bricklayers. The Royal Mounted Engineers: military: ca. 1880–1902.

flying camp. A couple, or a gang, of beggars: c.: late C. 17–early 19. B.E.; Grose, 1st ed., 'Beggars plying in a body at funerals' Cf. S.E. sense.

flying caper. An escape from prison: c. (— 1864); ob.

flying-cat. An owl: c.: late C. 17–mid-18. B.E. Cf. Fr. chat-huant (O.E.D.).

flying county or country. A district where one can ride fast and safely: hunting: from ca. 1850; s. > j. by 1900. Whyte-Melville, 'Leicestershire, Northamptonshire, and other so-called "flying counties"'. flying dustman. See stiff one.

Flying Dutchman. The London and Exeter express (G.W.R.): coll.: ca. 1875–1915.—2. 'The Atlantic packet clipper Dreadnought. Also known as the Wild Boat of the Atlantic': nautical: late C. 19. Bowen.

flying gigger or jigger. A turnpike gate: c.: mid-C. 18–19. Grose, 1st ed.

flying kite. A fancy sail, esp. if temporary: nautical coll.: mid-C. 19–20; ob. Bowen.—2. An aeroplane: Air Force coll.: 1914; ob. F. & Gibbons.

flying light. (Of a seaman that, when he joined his ship, was) possessed of nothing but the clothes on him: nautical coll.: mid-C. 19–20; ob. Bowen.

flying man. In Eton football: a skilful skirmisher (— 1864); ob.

flying matinée. A trench raid: military: 1916; ob. F. & Gibbons.

flying mess, in a. Hungry and having to mess wherever one can: military (— 1860); † by 1915. H., 2nd ed. Ex the difficulty of obtaining a good meal on a forced march.

flying onion. A kind of trench-mortar bomb: military: 1915. B. & P. Contrast flaming onion.

Flying P. Line, the. The Laeisz sailing-ships: nautical: mid-C. 19–20; ob. Bowen.

flying pasty. Excrement that, wrapped in paper, is thrown over a neighbour's wall: from ca. 1790; † by 1893. Grose, 3rd ed.

Flying Pig, the. A fast freight train bringing bacon to London: railwaymen's: from ca. 1920. The Daily Telegraph, Aug. 15, 1936. Cf. the Farmer's Boy.

flying pig. 'A large (9·45 inch) heavy trench-mortar shell': military coll.: 1915–18. F. & Gibbons. Ex its appearance in the air.

flying porter. An impostor that gets money by giving, to robbed persons, information that will (prob. not) lead to the arrest of the thieves: c.: late C. 18–19. Grose, 2nd ed.

flying stationer. A hawker of street-ballads, penny histories, etc.: late C. 18–19: low. Grose, 3rd ed. Ex the fact that such a hawker keeps moving. Cf. the C. 19 running patterer, q.v.

flying trapeze. Cheese: rhyming s.: late C. 19–20. B. & P.

flymp. See fлимп.—flyms(e)y. See fimsy, 1.

flymy. Knowing, artful, roguish; sprightly; low (— 1859). H., 1st ed.; Henley. Ex fly, adj., 1, on slimy.

flyness. The abstract n. of fly, adj., 1: late C. 19–20.

foal and filly dance. A 'dance to which only very young people . . . are invited': Society (— 1909); ob. Ware. Cf. filly and foal.

foaled. Thrown from one's horse: hunting: C. 19–20; ob.—2. Manchon asserts that it = fogged, q.v.; I doubt the validity of this.

fob. A trick, cheat, swindle: orig. (1622), prob. S.E.; but in late C. 17, c.; in C. 18 low; in C. 19, gen. s., almost coll.; in C. 20, †. Ex M.E. fob, an impostor, ex Fr. fo(u)rbe.—2. A breeches or a watch pocket: in C. 17, c. or low; C. 18, coll.; C. 19, recognised; C. 20, ob. The O.E.D. takes a rather different view of its status. 'Hudibras' Butler. Ex Ger. Variant, fub.

fob, v. To pocket: C. 19–20, ob.; coll. Cf. pocket, v.—2. To cheat, rob; procure dishonestly: C. 17–20; ob. Congreve; Wolcot, 'To use a cant [i.e. fashionable s.] phrase, we've been finely fobb'd.' Cf. fob, n., 1.—3. To deceive; trifle with: coll. > S.E.: late C. 16–20; ob. Shakespeare. In all senses, an early variant is fub, q.v.

fob, gut a. To pick a pocket: low, † c.: ca. 1815–90. Moore, 1819, 'Diddling your subjects, and gutting their fobs'.

fob of, fob out of. To cheat or deprive illicitly (a person) of (a thing): coll.: from ca. 1840, 1850 resp. O.E.D. (Sup.). An extension of fob, v., 2.

fob off. To put off, or ignore, contemptuously, callously, unfairly, dishonestly; deceive in any of these ways. (Variant fub off.) Coll. > S.E.: late C. 16–20; ob. Shakespeare, 'You must not think to fob off our disgrace with a tale.'

fob out of. See fob off.

fobus. A pejorative, gen. as term of address: C. 17–18. Wycherley, 'Ay, you old fobus'. Cf. fogey, q.v.—2. The puerum muliebre: low (— 1893); ob.

fodder. Abbr. bum-fodder, q.v.: C. 19–20 low, verging on coll.

foei(-tock). An interjection of surprise, sorrow, sympathy: South African coll.: late C. 19–20. Ex Dutch foei, for shame!, and tock, why, to be sure! Pettman.

foetus, tap the. To procure abortion: medical (— 1893). By the way, foetus should be fetus, as W. points out: mistaken pedantry (cf. Welsh rarebit).

fog. Smoke; occ. a smoke: c.: late C. 17–early 19. Grose, 1st ed. ? abbr. fogus, q.v.

fog, v. To smoke a pipe: either low s. or c.: C. 18–early 19.—2. Mystify, perplex; occ. to obscure: coll. (orig. S.E.): from ca. 1815. The Daily Telegraph, Sept. 29, 1883, 'We turns what we say into tangle talk so as to fog them.'—3. V.i., to set fog-signals along the line: railwaymen's: ca. 1885–1920. O.E.D.

fog-bound. Topsy: C. 20. A. P. Herbert, Holy Deadlock, 1934, 'Was I a bit tiddly last night?' "Tiddly?" "Tiddly. Skew-whiff. Fog-bound."

fog-dog. The lower part of a rainbow: Newfoundland (esp. nautical): mid-C. 19–20. Bowen. Cf. stubb.

fog in. To see (a place) by chance, to achieve (a purpose) by accident: Society (— 1909); virtually †. Ware.

fog(e)y; occ. fogay, foggi(e); fogram, q.v. An invalid or, later, a garrison soldier or, derivatively, sailor: ? Scottish military: 1780. Grose, 1785, shows that, even then, old gen. preceded it. Ca. 1850, the sense > wholly that of an elderly person; an old-fashioned, occ. an eccentric, person: a meaning it possessed as early as 1780. Thackeray, 1855, 'A grizzled, grim old fogy'. Grose derives ex Fr. fougueux, W. ex foggy, 2, q.v.—2. Hence, an old maid: low coll. (— 1887). Baumann ('eine alte Schachtel').—3. Whence fogyish, old-fashioned, eccentric (1873),—fogeydom, the being a fogey, fogeys as a class (1859),—fogeyism, an example of fogeydom, a fogeyish trait (1859): these three terms, somewhat coll. at first, had > S.E. by 1880.

fogged. Topsy: from ca. 1840; ob. Cf. foggy, 1, its imm. origin.—2. Bewildered, puzzled, at a loss: coll.; from ca. 1850.

fogger. A pettifogging lawyer: coll. (— 1600) > S.E.; † by 1700. Ex Fugger, the merchant-financier family. S.O.D.

foggie. See fogey. This form is recorded for 1812.

foggiest (notion), have not the. To have no idea; no suspicion. With of or that. Coll., now verging on S.E.: from ca. 1903. Variant, faintest: from ca. 1905: by 1930, S.E.

fogging, vbl.n. Fumbling through one's part: theatrical: ca. 1885–1915.

foggy. Topsy; gen. slightly tippy: from ca. 1820; ob. Cf. hazy.—2. Dull, thick-headed: from ca. 1770. Cf. fogey, q.v. Ex foggy, moss-grown, boggy, thick, murky, ex fog, rank grass.

fogle. A (silk) handkerchief: c.: from ca. 1810; ob. Lex. Bal.; Egan; Dickens in Oliver Twist. 'Ger. vogel, bird, has been suggested, via "bird's eye wipe"; W.; perhaps rather ex It. fogli, a pocket; cf. Fr. fouille.—2. Whence fogle-hunter, a thief specialising in silk handkerchiefs: from ca. 1820; ob. And fogle-hunting, occ. f.-drawing: from ca. 1820; ob. Bea.

fogo. See hogo.

fogram, fogrum. (Cf. fogey, q.v.) 'A fusty old man', Grose 1st ed.: ca. 1775–1850.—2. Liquor; esp. wine, beer, spirits of inferior quality: nautical (— 1867); ob. Smyth; Bowen.—3. Adj., stupid, old-fashioned: app. earlier than fogey: witness e.g. Mme D'Arblay in 1772 and O'Keefe, in A Trip to Calais, 1778, 'Father and mother are but a couple of fogrum old fools,' the fogrum old being significant. (O.E.D.) fogramite. An old-fashioned or eccentric person; coll.: ca. 1820–1900. Bee.

fogramity. An old-fashioned way or custom: Mme D'Arblay, 1796.—2. Hence, eccentricity.—3. A fogey, q.v. All coll. See preceding entry and fogey.

fogrum. See fogram.

fogue. To have a strong or objectionable odour: New Zealanders' (— 1935). Perhaps ex fug, fuggy.

fogus. Tobacco: e.: mid-C. 17–19. Head, Ainsworth. Perhaps fog, a mist, + us as in hocus-pocus.

fogy. See fogey.—fohm. To form: see fower and stan.

foie-gras. Pâté de foie gras: coll.: 1818, T. Moore. (O.E.D. Sup.)

foil-(or foyl-)cloy. A pickpocket; thief; rogue: e.: late C. 17–early 18. B.E. Cf. file.

foiler. A thief: C. 17 (?–18): c. Anon., Nicker Nicker.

foin. A pickpocket: o.: late C. 16–early 17. Greene, 1591.

foin, v.t. and i. To have connexion with a woman: low: late C. 16–17. Ex S.E. sense.

foist, foyst, fyst. A cheat, rogue, sharper, pickpocket: late C. 16–18c. Greene; Jonson: 'Prate again, as you like this, you whoreson foist you.'—2. A trick, imposture, swindle: C. 17 low or c.—3. A silent breaking of wind: low coll.: C. 16–early 19. Variants, fice, fiste, fyce.

foist, foyst, fyst, v.t. and i. (very frequent as vbl.n.). To pick pockets; trick, swindle: c.: late C. 16–18. Greene, Dekker, Middleton, Grose.—2. To break wind silently: low coll.: C. 16–early 18.—3. The dicing senses may have begun as c., the same applying to:

foister, foyster. A pickpocket; swindler: low, ? c.: mid-C. 16–17.

foisting. See foist, v., 1.

fokesel, fokesill, foksl, fok'stil. Nautical incorrections of spelling for fo'c'sle: C. 19–20. Baumann; Manchon.

foksl, fok'stil. See fokesel.

folks. Coll. if not indeed sol. for folk, people (indefinitely), individuals: late C. 18–20. See the quotation at devil's daughter. (Even folk, in this sense, is, in C. 20, coll., though certainly not sol.)—2. As = parents, family, relatives, it is S.E. though not literary. Cf. the U.S. sense: respectable people. (See esp. Fowler.)

follow. To accompany (a corpse) to the grave; (also v.i.) to attend the funeral of (a person): coll.: 1819 (O.E.D. Sup.).

follow-me-lads. Curls or ribbons hanging over the shoulder: coll. (— 1872); † by 1925. Contrast Fr. suivez-moi jeune homme.

follow the band or the drum. 'To belong to the Creed of the majority of a Battalion' for Church parade: military: C. 20. F. & Gibbons. Contrast fancy religion, q.v.

follow your nose !, often with and you are sure to go straight. A c.p. (non-cultured) addressed to a person asking the way (— 1854). Other forms, e.g. and you will be there directly (C. 17), are earlier, and the phrase is clearly adumbrated in C. 14. (Apperson.)

follower. A female servant's sweetheart or suitor, esp. if he frequents the bouse: coll.: 1838. Dickens, 'Five servants kept. No man. No followers.'—2. A seaman serving always, if possible, under the one captain: naval coll.: C. 18. Bowen.—3. A young officer doing the same with a view to promotion: id.: id. Ibid.

fool, adj. Silly, foolish; often a pejorative intensive: C. 13–20: S.E. till C. 19, then (low) coll. and dial. Esp. in a, the, or that fool thing. (O.E.D.) fool around (with). To dally riskily, with one of the opposite sex: v.t. and i. Coll.: from ca. 1880. In U.S., v.t., without with.

fool at the end of a stick, a ; a fool at one end and a maggot at the other: mid-C. 18–19 c.p. 'gibes on an angler', Grose, 2nd ed.

fool-finder. A gen. petty bailiff: ca. 1785–1880. Grose, 3rd ed.

fool-monger. An adventurer, -uress; swindler; betting man: coll.: late C. 16–early 18.

fool-sticker. The male member. Occ. fool-maker. Low: C. 19–20.

fool-taker, -taking. A sharper, sharpening: low coll.: late C. 16–mid-17. Greene, 1592.

fool-trap. A 'fool-monger', q.v.—2. A stylish barlot.—3. The female pudend: low. All from ca. 1840.

fooleries, the. April-fooling: coll.: prob. from ca. 1880, on Colinderies and Fisheries, qq.v. Christopher Busb, The Case of the April Fools, 1933, 'April the First, and what people are accustomed to call "the fooleries", sir, actually expire at mid-day.'

foolish, adj. Of one who pays: harlots' c.: from ca. 1788: ? ob. Grose, 2nd ed., 'Is be foolish or flash ?'

foolocracy. Government by, or consisting of, fools: jocular coll.: 1832. Sydney Smith.

foolometer. A means whereby to determine the public taste: jocular coll.: 1837, Sydney Smith (O.E.D.). In C. 20, S.E. Cf. S.E. foolocracy.

foolosopher, foolosophy. A silly pretender to, pretence of, philosophy: jocular coll.: from ca. 1550. Greene, 'That quaint and mysticall forme of Foolosophie' (O.E.D.).

fool's father. The pantaloons or 'old un': theatrical: ca. 1870–1910.

fool's wedding. A party of women: coll.: from ca. 1875. Cf. hen party.

foont. A sovereign: c. (— 1839). Brandon; H., 1st ed. Ex either Fr. vingt or, prob., Ger. Pfund.

foot. Feet, as in 'Six foot two': coll.: C. 15–20.

foot ! ; or foot !, foot ! Get out of it !, go away !: coll.: C. 19–20; ob. Ware implies equivalence to Fr. fous-moi le camp and remarks that it is 'cast after the respectably dressed person who wanders into strange and doubtful bye-ways'.

foot, know the length of one's. To know a person well; discover his weakness: coll. > S.E.: late C. 16–early 18. Later, have or get . . .; slightly ob. Apperson. Prob. orig. a shoemaker's metaphor (W.).

foot !, me or my. Rubbish !; not at all !: low: late C. 19–20. C. J. Dennis; Hugh Walpole, Vanessa, 1933, '"But, Rose, you're wrong . . ."

“Wrong my foot! you can't kid me.” Occ. pig's foot!

foot a or the bill. To pay; settle an account: coll.: from ca. 1844. Until ca. 1890, an Americanism.

foot-and-mouth disease. The tendency of golfers to talk at night of the day's exploits: jocular coll.: from 1923 or 1924: cultured. (Ware, 1909, records that, in Lancashire, the phrase indicates ‘swearing followed by kicking’.)

foot-bath. A too full glass: late C. 19–20; slightly ob. Ware.

foot in the grave, have one. To be seriously ill, near death; very old: from ca. 1630: coll. > S.E. ca. 1850.

foot in(to) it, put one's. To get into trouble; cause trouble: coll.: from ca. 1790.

foot it. To walk: coll.: from ca. 1840. Cf. Fr. faire du footing.—2. To kick, ‘hoof’ (q.v.), use one's feet: from ca. 1850: sporting, esp. football.

foot land-raker. A footpad: C. 16–17 coll. (? jocular). Shakespeare.

foot-licker. A servant; toady: coll.: C. 17–19. Shakespeare in The Tempest.

foot(-)lights, smell the. To come to like theatricals: theatrical coll.: from ca. 1870.

foot-pad. A pedestrian highwayman: orig. (C. 17), c. or low; C. 18, coll.; C. 19–20, S.E. Cf. low pad and see pad. For the vocabulary of footpaddery, see the relevant essay in Words!

foot-riding, vbl.n. Wheeling one's machine instead of riding it: cyclists' (—1887); ob. T. Stevens, Round the World on a Bicycle.

foot-rot. Fourpenny ale: public-houses': ca. 1895–1915. Ware. Cf. rot-gut.

foot-scamp. A footpad: C. 18–early 19, low or c. Parker. See scamp.

foot-slogger. An infantryman: military coll.: from early 1890's. Cf. foot-wabblers and the Fr. equivalents, pousse-cailloux, piou-piou.—2. Hence, occ., a pedestrian: coll.: C. 20. The v., foot-slog, though likewise coll. (C. 20), is seldom used.—3. A policeman on his beat: Australian: from ca. 1920.

foot the bill. See foot a bill.

foot up. To ‘total’ at the foot of a bill: coll.: ex U.S. (1840), anglicised ca. 1860. But as foot in S.E. for centuries before.

foot-wabblers, -wobblers. An infantryman: 1785, Grose; ob. by 1860: military. Cf. mud-crusher and foot-slogger. (Grose is notable on early military s.) foot-walk (it). To travel on foot: Australian coll. (—1935).

football. A British 60-pound trench-mortar shell: military coll.: 1915–18. F. & Gibbons. (It was spherical.)

footer. Football: orig. university s.: from ca. 1880. See ‘Oxford -er, the’.—2. Ca. 1885–1905, a player of Rugby football: universities'.—3. One who potters, ‘messes’ about: s. when not dial.: from ca. 1750. It has a corresponding v. and vbl.n.: variant spelling fouter (ing). See Grose, P., at forty.

footing. Money paid, on beginning a new job, to one's fellow-workers: in C. 18, coll.; but thereafter, S.E. Cf. chummage.

footle. Nonsense; twaddle: from ca. 1893. Ex:

footle, v. To dawdle, potter, trifle about; act or talk foolishly; coll.: from ca. 1890; slightly ob.

By futile out of dial. footer, fouter (ex Fr. foutre), to trifle. F. Anstey in Voces Populi. (O.E.D.) footler. One who ‘footles’: coll.: C. 20. Ex preceding.

footless stocking without a leg, a. Nothing: Anglo-Irish coll. (—1909). Ware.

footlight favourite. A chorister that thrusts herself forward: theatrical coll. (—1935).

footling. Insignificant; trivial; pettily fussy: coll.: from ca. 1893. Ex footle, v.

footman's inn. A wretched lodging; a gaol: coll.: ca. 1600–1630.

footman's maund. An artificial sore, made to resemble a horse's kick or bite: late C. 17–late 19 c. B.E. Cf. fox's bite and see maund.

Foot's horse, take or travel by (Mr.). To walk: coll. verging on S.E.: from ca. 1820; ob. Bee. Cf. Shanks's mare.

footy. Despicable; worthless: coll. from ca. 1750: in C. 20, ob. Grose, 1st ed. Ex Fr. foutu. See esp. Grose, P.

foozilow. To flatter, cajole: Anglo-Indian coll. (—1886). Ex Hindustani. Yule & Burnell.

foozle. A miss: sporting s. > gen. coll.: 1890. Ex the v.—2. (Of a person) a bore; an old ‘fogey’ (q.v.): coll.: 1860. Rhoda Broughton, ‘Frumps and fozzles in Eaton Square’ (London, S.W.1). Prob. ex fool + fizzle: cf. next. (S.O.D. for dates.)

foozle, v. To miss; make a bad attempt at; bungle: sporting j. > gen. s. or coll. The Field, Feb. 25, 1888, ‘Park fozzled his second stroke.’ Ex foote + fizzle; or, more prob., dial. footer (to bungle) + fizzle. The vbl.n., foozling, bungling, is frequent in C. 20.

foozle about (with). To fool about (with): coll.: C. 20. (G. D. H. and M. Cole, Burglars in Bucks, 1930.)

foozled, fozzly. Blurred; indistinct; spoilt: coll.: from ca. 1890.

foozler. A bungler: from ca. 1895: sporting j. > gen. s.

foozlified. Tipsy: nautical (—1887); ob. Baumann. Cf. foozle, n., 2.

foozling. See foozle, v.

fop-doodle. A fop; a fool; an insignificant man: coll.: ca. 1640–1700.

fopper. A mistake: parvenus' sol. (—1909). Ware. Corruption of faux pas. Cf. fox paw.

fop's alley, Fops' Alley. The gangway between stalls and pit, orig. and esp. in the Opera House: theatrical: ca. 1770–1830. Mme D'Arblay in Cecilia, 1782.

[for-, fore-. See Fowler.]

for certain sure. See certain sure, for.

for it, be. To be due for punishment; hence, imm., in trouble: military s. (1915: ? late 1914) >, by 1919, gen. coll. The it = punishment. F. & Gibbons.

for to. In order to: once S.E.; but since ca. 1780, sol.

forage. To ‘procure, seek, bring back’ [coll.]; ‘find places at other table than one's own, at meals’ [s.]: Bootham School (—1925). Anon., Dict. of Bootham Slang.

forakers. A privy: Winchester College: C. 19–20. Either L. forica > foricas > foricus >, ca. 1860, forakers (W.): or four acres, a field (H.). W.c.'s have had to endure much pedantic wit: cf. Ajax. R. G. K. Wrench gives it as foricus; he adds ‘Cf. Vulgus = Vulgus’.

foraminate. To have sexual connexion with (a woman): C. 19: low pedantic. Ex L. foramen, an orifice.

force. Catachrestic for enforce: rare before C. 20. The Daily Telegraph, Jan. 1, 1935, 'Hoad Does Not Force Follow On' (cricket in the West Indies).

Force, the. The Police: coll.: from ca. 1850. Cf. the Profession. Miss Braddon in The Trail of the Serpent, 1868. Abbr. the Police Force.

force-meat ball. Something inherently unpleasant endured under compulsion: C. 19. 'Jon Bee', 1823. ? ex the spiced, highly seasoned nature of force-meat and influenced by forcement.

force the voucher. See voucher, force the.

forced to be, be. To be necessarily: late C. 17–20: S.E. until mid-C. 19, then coll. (increasingly low). O.E.D.

force(d) put. Compulsion: 'Hobson's', i.e. no, 'choice': coll. > S.E.: ca. 1650–1820, then dial.

forceps. The hands: mainly and orig. medical: from ca. 1820; ob.

fore. A mostly proletarian and military coll. form of before: mid-C. 19–20.

fore-and-aft. To have sexual connexion: nautical: mid-C. 19–20; ob.

fore-and-aft rig. 'The single-breasted chief petty officer's uniform': naval: late C. 19–20. Bowen.

fore-and-after. A harlot that is 'double-barrelled', q.v.: from ca. 1850. ? ex, 2, the † nautical s. sense (— 1867), a cocked hat worn with the peak in front, Smyth: recorded in Southern Scots in 1839 (E.D.D.).

Fore and Afts, the. The Gloucestershire Regiment: military: late C. 19–20. App. 'coined by Kipling in his story "The Drums of the Fore and Aft"' (F. & Gibbons). See Back Numbers.

fore-bitter. 'A narrative song sung round the fore bitts in the dog watches, as opposed to a shanty, or working song': nautical coll.: mid-C. 19–20. Bowen.

[fore-buttocks. The female breasts: either cultured coll. or, prob., literary jocularity: ca. 1727; †. Coined by Pope at the height of his powers.]

fore-chains, (there's) a rat in your. A nautical c.p., 'the final insult to a sloppy ship': late C. 19–20. Bowen, 'Its origin is obscure.' fore-room. See let . . .

'fore you listed. A variant of before you came up, q.v.

forecastle, forecourt, forehatch, forewoman. The pudendum muliebre: all C. 19–20 and decidedly ob. terms in Venus-venery.

forecastle rat. A seaman that one suspects of being either the owners' or the officers' spy: nautical coll.: late C. 19–20. Bowen.

forecastle wireless. A rumour; rumours: nautical: from ca. 1925. Bowen.

forefoot. The hand: jocular coll.: late C. 16–20; ob. Shakespeare, Groser.

foregather. To come together in sexual intimacy: coll.: C. 18–early 19.

forego and forgo are often confused in writing: C. 19–20.

foreign line. Any line other than that on which the speaker is employed: railwaymen's coll. (— 1909). Ware.

foreign parts, gone to. Transported as a convict: ca. 1820–70. Bee.

foreignneering, vbl.n. and ppl.adj. Foreign (matters); like a foreigner: low coll.: from mid-1820's; slightly ob. I.e. foreign + pejorative suffix -eer. O.E.D.—2. Hence, foreignneering cove, a foreigner: c. or low (— 1909). Ware.

foreigners. Foreign stocks and shares: Stock Exchange coll. (1898: O.E.D. Sup.) >, by 1920, j. foreman. The membrum virile: C. 17, ? later: coll., perhaps literary.—2. In Beaumont & Fletcher's Philaster, ed. of 1622, at v, iii, presumably s. and prob. = a goose. (O.E.D.)

foreman of the jury. One who monopolises the conversation: late C. 17–early 19. B.E. It is the foreman who delivers the jury's verdict.

forensic. Incorrect for forinsec (foreign): C. 18. O.E.D. foreskin-hunter. A prostitute: low coll.: C. 19–20 (? ob.).

forest of debt. The payment of debts: Oxford University: ca. 1820–40. Egan's Groser.

forestall. In garotting, a look-out in front; the one behind is the backstall. C. of C. 19–20, ob. See stall.

forever gentleman. 'A man in whom good breeding is ingrained': Society: ca. 1870–1915. Ware. Contrast temporary gentleman.

forger. (Gen. pl.) A false die: gamblers' c.: late C. 16–early 17. Greene, A Notable Discovery, 1591.

forget. A lapse of memory; an instance of such apse: coll.: from ca. 1820; ob. E.D.D.

forget about. To fail to remember the facts of or about; fail to take action about: coll.: from ca. 1895. O.E.D. (Sup.). Actually, this is a slipshod, unnecessary elaboration of forget.

forget it!, don't you. See and don't you forget it!

forget it!, (and) don't (you). An admonitory coll. c.p.: U.S. (— 1888) >, by 1900, anglicised. (O.E.D. Sup.)

forget oneself. (Of a child) to urinate or defecate unconventionally: euphemistic coll.: late C. 19–20. Cf. Fr. s'oublier.

forgot. Forgotten: once S.E. (Shakespeare, Pepys); since ca. 1850, except as an archaism, it is sol.

foricus. See forakers.

fork. A pickpocket: c.: late C. 17–early 19. Prob. ex. forks in:—2. Also c.: app. from ca. 1810: a finger (Vaux); the forks (late C. 17–20) being the fore and middle fingers. Cf. daddles, fives, grappling irons, pickers and stealers, ticklers, qq.v.—3. A spendthrift: C. 18: ? c.—4. As crutch of the body, S.E. though hardly literary. But the old fork is coll. (late C. 19–20), esp. in get on the old fork, (of either sex) to coit.

fork, v. To pick pockets; esp. by inserting the fore and middle fingers: late C. 17–early 19: c. B.E. (as v.t.) In C. 19, variant: put one's forks down. Cf. C. 18–19 Edinburgh fork for, search for (E.D.D.).—2. V.t. and i., to dispose (a woman) for the sexual act: low: mid-C. 19–20 (? ob.).—3. Occ. abbr. fork out, q.v.—4. To protrude awkwardly: coll.: 1882 (? earlier). (O.E.D.) fork, a bit on a. The female pudend; also, a sexual congress: low: C. 19–20. Hence, get on the old fork, to copulate: low coll.: late C. 19–20. Ex fork, n., last sense. Cf. fork, v., 2.

fork, eat (or have eaten)—or, properly, have been drinking (Baumann)—vinegar with a fork. To be sharp-tongued or snappish: proverbial coll.: mid-C. 19–20; ob.

fork, pitch the. To tell a sad or doleful story: low coll.: from ca. 1860; ob.

fork and knife. Life: rhyming s.: late C. 19–20. (Alan Hyder, Black Girl, White Lady, 1934.)

fork in the beam! A late C. 19–20 naval c.p., 'an order from the sub for all midshipmen to retire from the gunroom.' Ex a fork 'actually stuck into the beam in the old wooden ships'.

fork out; rarely—except in U.S.—over or up. Hand over (valuables or money); pay, 'shell out', q.v.: from ca. 1830: s. > coll. by 1900: Dickens, 'Fork out your balance in hand.' Ex forks = hands or fingers. Cf. stump up (W.).

forker. A dockyard thief or 'fence' (q.v.): nautical: C. 19–20; extremely ob. Ex fork, v., 1. Cf. forking, q.v.—2. See:

forker, wear a. To be a cuckold: via cornuted: C. 17. Marston, 1606. (O.E.D.)

forking. Thieving; the practice of thieving: c.: C. 19. Ex fork, v., 1.—2. The undue hurrying of work: tailors': from ca. 1850; ob.

forking the beam. The vbl.n. corresponding to fork in the beam!, q.v. (F. & Gibbons.)

forkless. Clumsy; unworkmanlike: c. (— 1821); ob. As if without forks, hands or fingers—prob. the latter.

forks. See fork, n., 2.—2. Only in pl., the hands: from ca. 1820. An extension of fork, a finger, or of forks as at fork, n., 2.

forlo(o)per. A teamster guide: South Africa: from ca. 1860: coll.; in C. 20 S.E. The guide is gen. a boy who walks abreast the foremost pair of oxen. Dutch voorlooper, a 'fore-runner'. (O.E.D.) forlorn hope. A gambler's last stake: coll.: late C. 17–19. B.E. Ex S.E. sense (orig. military). See O.E.D., and W.: Romance of Words.

form. Condition, fitness: orig. of horses (ca. 1760) and s.; by 1870, coll.; by 1900, S.E. Esp. in or out of form. Hawley Smart, in Post to Finish, 'When fillies, in racing parlance, lose their form at three years old, they are apt to never recover it.'—2. Behaviour, esp. in bad or good form: coll. (1868) ex the turf, though anticipated by Chaucer and Shakespeare. In C. 20, by the class that uses this magic alternative and formula, it is considered S.E.—3. Habit; occupation; character: low coll. (— 1884); ob.—4. The height of one's attainment: Public Schools': C. 20. P. G. Wodehouse, 1902, 'He sneers at footer, and jeers at cricket. Croquet is his form, I should say.'—5. (Gen. with in) high spirits; 'concert' pitch: coll.: from ca. 1875. (O.E.D.) form, a matter of. 'A merely formal affair; a point of ordinary routine': coll.: 1824, H. J. Stephen. O.E.D. (Sup.). Ex the legal a matter of form, 'a point of formal procedure' (ibid.).

form?, what's the. What's it like (at, e.g., a house-party)?: Society: from the middle 1920's. Evelyn Waugh, A Handful of Dust, 1934, of a household, "'What's the form?'" "Very quiet and enjoyable."

-former, e.g. fourth-former. A pupil in the (e.g. 4th) form: Public Schools' coll.: C. 20.

forney. A (finger-)ring. A variant of fawney, q.v.: C. 19–20 c.

fornicating-engine, -member, -tool. The male member: C. 19–20 ob.: low coll. Cf.:

fornicator. The male member. Whence fornicator's hall, the female pudend: C. 19 low. (? C. 20.)—2. In pl., the old-fashioned trousers with a flap in front: † by 1880, the trousers being antiquated even earlier.

forra(r)der, get no or (not) any. To make (no) headway: coll. (orig. illiterate, now mostly jocular): 1898, The Daily Telegraph, Dec. 15. Ware.

forsook. Forsaken: S.E. >, by 1880 at latest, sol. Baumann.

Fortescue; forty-skewer. A fish having thorny spines on its fins (pentaroge marmorata): New South Wales: from late 1870's: coll. >, by 1910, S.E. Fortescue, recorded in 1882 in the Rev. J. E. Tenison-Woods's Fish of New South Wales, is a Hobson-Jobson adaptation of forty-skewer. Morris.

Forties, the. A well-known gang of thieves of the 1870's—early 80's: low (1887 —); † by 1910. Baumann. Ex the Forty Thieves.

fortin. (A) fortune: sol. (— 1887), esp. Cockney and provincial. Baumann.

Fortnum and Mason. A notable hamper: Society: mid-C. 19–20. Ware, 'From the perfection of the etables sent out by this firm of grocers in Piccadilly,'—whence comes also the cleverest advertising-matter known to this century. (The firm was established in C. 18.)

fortune, a small. An extravagantly large sum paid for something, esp. for something small: coll.: from ca. 1890.

fortune-biter. A sharper, swindler: coll.: C. 18. D'Urfev.

fortune-teller. A judge or, occ., a magistrate: c.: late C. 17—early 19. B.E., whose definition is so ambiguous that the term may, even there, bear the usual meaning: in which case that sense may orig. have been c. or, more prob., s. or low coll. Grose, 1st ed., seems, however, to be clear as to the 'judge' interpretation, though he may merely be glossing B.E. Cf. lambskin man, conjuror, cunning man, which Egan considers as = a judge.

forty is, in C. 17–20 S.E. as well as coll., used frequently to designate a large though indefinite member, or quantity, or degree: Shakespeare, who has 'I could beat forty of them,' twice employs 'forty thousand' in a highly hyperbolic manner common to the Elizabethan dramatists. Forty pence, a customary amount for a wager, C. 16–17, and the later forty thieves may be operative reasons for the continuance of this coll. or coll.-tending forty. (Onions.)—2. A sharper: Australian: from ca. 1925. (The O.E.D. Sup. records it at 1927.) Perhaps suggested by the forty thieves.

forty-faced. Arrant; esp. shamelessly given to shameless deception: e.g. forty-faced flirt or liar.

forty fits, have. To be much perturbed or alarmed: coll.: late C. 19–20.

forty-foot, forty-guts. A fat, dumpy person (pejoratively): the former stressing the shortness, the latter the fatness: low coll.: resp. from (—)1864, (—)1857. H., 3rd ed.; 'Ducange Anglieus'. Cf. guts, tubby or tubs.

forty-jawed. Excessively talkative: coll.: mid-C. 19–20. Cf. jaw and forty-lunged.

forty-legs. A centipede: late C. 17–20: coll. (ob.) when not dial.

forty-lunged. Stentorian—or very apt to be. Coll.: from ca. 1850.

Forty-Niners. The earliest prospectors in California: U.S. coll., anglicised ca. 1900. They went there in 1849. Haskins, Argonauts of California, 1890.

forty to the dozen. Very quickly: with talk, more often nineteen to the dozen; with walk off, the sense is to decamp very speedily. Coll.: from ca. 1860.

forty thieves (or F.T.), the. 'A famous class of contract-built 74-gun ships designed by Sir H. Peake, but ruined by Admiralty interference until they were the worst liners in the service': naval: C. 19. Bowen.—2. The 40th Pathans (Indian Army): military: late C. 19–20. F. & Gibbons. Ex numerals—and reputed habits.

forty-twa. A public urinal (Edinburgh): Scots coll.: ca. 1820–90. H., 3rd ed. Ex the number of persons seatable.

forty winks. A nap, short sleep: coll.: from middle 1820's. Egan, 1828 (O.E.D.); H., 3rd ed.; G. Eliot, 'Having "forty winks" on the sofa in the library', 1866.

Forum. A Warwickshire term (not. dial) explained in Lord Granville's speech at the Bright Celebration held in that city in June, 1883: 'I rise a stranger in this famous Town Hall known in Birmingham, I believe, by a still more classical name.' (Ware.) forward station. 'A desirable coastguard station': nautical coll.: ca. 1850–1900. Bowen.

fosey-faced. See fozy-faced.

foss; phos(s). See phos.

fossick. (V.i., occ. with about; but v.t. only when used with after, for, out, up.) To search for anything: 1870; Australian s. > coll. ca. 1890. Ex the ideas, search for gold (1861), pick out gold (1852). Morris.—2. Whence vbl.n. fossicking, which is commoner than the other parts of the v.; also adj. (1859). Ex dial. fossick, a troublesome person: cf. fuse.

fossicker. A persistent searcher: from ca. 1890. Ex gold-mining senses. Australian.

fossicking. See fossick, 2.

fossilize. To look for fossils: coll.: 1845, Lyell. O.E.D.

fosterous. Phosphorus: sol. (— 1887); ob. Baumann.

Fostershire. Worcestershire: cricketers' jocular coll.: ca. 1907–13. Ex the famous sporting family. Who's Who in World Cricket, 1934.

fou, occ. fow. Drunk: in late C. 17–20, coll. Vanbrugh. Ex Scottish. In C. 20, fou the noo is often used, loosely but gen. jocularly, in same sense.

foul in C. 20 (mainly post-War) hyperbolic use is fairly to be described as s. > coll. of the awful and terrible kind. Cf. filthy, q.v. Desmond Coke, Wilson's, 1911, 'A foul row'; E. M. Delafield, Gay Life, 1933, 'He's terribly foul, isn't he?'

foul a plate (with). To sup or dine with a person: coll.: late C. 18–20; ob. except in Western Scotland in the form dirty a plate. Grose, 3rd ed.

foul as an Indianman. (Of a ship) dirty: naval: C. 19. Bowen. Ex jealousy.

foul-weather breeder, the. The Gulf Stream: nautical coll.: mid-C. 19–20. Bowen.

Foul Weather Jack. Sir John Norris, an early C. 18 Admiral of the Fleet; Commodore Byron, a mid-C. 18 navigator. Dawson, 'From the bad weather that was supposed to attend them'.

foulcher. A purse: c. (— 1877). Anon., Five Years' Penal Servitude, 1877. Is this cognate with or derived from Romany folaso, a glove?

founder in tears. A C. 15–16 sol. on the Eng. v. after Fr. fondre. (O.E.D.) foundling temper. A very bad temper: London: from ca. 1880; ob. Ware, 'Proverbially said of the domestic servants poured upon London by the metropolitan Foundling Hospital'.

foundry. A pork-butcher's shop; loosely, any shop: proletarian (— 1909); ob. Prob. ex 'the noisy vibrations of the sausage machine' (Ware).

fountain palace or temple. (Gen. pl.) 'Places of convenience, sunk below the roadways': London: the 1890's. Ware. Ex bright and cleanly appearance, the running water, etc.

four-and-nine(penny). A hat: ca. 1844–80. Thackeray; Viator, Oxford Guide, 1849. Occ. a four-and-ninepenny goss. Ex the price set by a well-known London hatter.

four-and-two. A sandwich: C. 20. (Neil Bell, Andrew Otway, 1931.) Cf. four-by-two, q.v.

four arf. A Cockney form of four-half, q.v. Ware.

four bag. A flogging: naval: mid-C. 19—early 20. Bowen; F. & Gibbons. The bluejacket received four dozen lashes; if also his discharge, then four bag and a blanker, the latter being his discharge ticket with one corner cut off.

four-bones. The knees: c.: from ca. 1850; ob. Punch, Jan. 31, 1857.

four-by-three. Small; insignificant (rarely of persons): from ca. 1924. Dorothy Sayers, Have His Carcase, 1932, 'An adjectival four-by-three watering-place like Wilvercombe'.

four-by-two. An Army biscuit: military: from ca. 1912. F. & Gibbons. Ex four-by-two, a rifle pull-through (of that size in inches).—2. A Jew: Cockney soldiers' rhyming s.: 1914. B. & P.

four-eyes. A bespectacled person: uncultured coll.: from ca. 1870. H., 5th ed.

four-flusher. A braggart, a cheat: military coll.: from not later than 1918. F. & Gibbons. Ex U.S. senses, a pretender, a humbug, themselves ex poker j.

four-foot-one-and-a-half. A rifle: bluejackets': late C. 19–20. Ex length. Bowen.

four-half. Half-ale, half-porter, at fourpence a quart: 1884 (O.E.D.). Cf. four thick, q.v.

four-holed middlings. Ordinary walking shoes: Winchester College: C. 19; † by 1890.

four kings, the book (or history) of the. See history of the four kings. Cf. (the) devil's picture-books.

four-legged burglar-alarm. A watch-dog: jocular coll.: from ca. 1880.

four-legged fortune. A winning horse: Society: ca. 1880–1914. Ware.

four-legged frolic. Sexual connexion: low coll.: from ca. 1850. Perhaps ex the ob. C. 16–20 proverb, 'There goes more, or more belongs, to (a) marriage than four bare legs in a bed.'

four-letter man. A very objectionable fellow: rather low (— 1923); heard among Army officers as early as 1917. Manchon; B. & P. I.e., a s-h-i-l.—2. A homo(sexual): id.: from ca. 1930.

four-liner, n. and adj. (Something) very important: Society coll.: ca. 1890–1915. The origin appears in The Daily News's words, 1890, cited by Ware, 'Four-lined whips [or messages] have been sent out on both sides of the House of Commons urging members to be in their places this evening.'

four-poster. A four-poster bedstead: coll.: 1836, Dickens.—2. Hence, a four-masted sailing-ship: nautical: mid-C. 19–20.

four seams and a bit of soap. A pair of trousers: tailors': from ca. 1870.

four, but more gen. three, sheets in the wind. Drunk: nautical, from ca. 1840.

four thick. 'Fourpence per quart beer—the commonest there is (in London), and generally the muddiest': public-houses: late C. 19—early 20. Ware. Cf. four-half.

four-wheeled kip. A taxi-cab: Dublin taxi-drivers': from ca. 1910. A reference to fornication therein.

four-wheeler. A four-wheeled cab: coll.: from ca. 1846; coll. > S.E.; ob. Cf. four-poster.—2. A steak: low coll.: from ca. 1880.

fourpenny bit. See fourpenny one and contrast fourpenny pit.

fourpenny cannon. Beef-steak pudding: London slums' (— 1909); ob. Ware. Ex shape or, more prob., hardness.

fourpenny (one). A cuff; clip on the ear: rhyming s. on hit: C. 20. The Evening News, Feb. 29, 1936. (Presumably, orig. fourpenny bit.)

fourpenny pit. A fourpenny bit: rhyming s.: late C. 19—early 20. Ware.

fourteen, on his. On his demobilisation-furlough of fourteen days: military coll.: Dec., 1918–19. F. & Gibbons.

fourteen hundred; or f. h. new fives. A warning cry = 'There's a stranger here! Stock Exchange: from ca. 1885. Atkin, House Scraps, 1887. For a long time the Stock Exchange had never more than 1,399 members: the term has remained, though by 1930 it was ob. and though even as early as 1890 there were nearly 3,000 members.

fourteen penn'orth of it. Fourteen years' transportation: c.: 1820–60. Bee.

fourth. A w.c.; a latrine,—the vbl. phrases being keep a fourth, go to the fourth: gone ⁴ is the esoteric sign on an undergraduate's door. Cambridge s. (— 1860). H., 2nd ed. Not ex the Fourth Court at Trinity College, as 'explained' by H., but perhaps (W.) ex a staircase-number. Cf. rear(s).—2. See first.

fourth estate, the. Journalists; journalism as a profession: S.E., applied by Burke, > literary s. (— 1855) >, by 1910, outworn journalistic: already in 1873 it was much in use among penny-a-liners (H., 5th ed.).

Fourth of July. A tie: rhyming s.: C. 20. B. & P.

fousty. Stinking: coll. when not dial.: from ca. 1810. ? ex foist, n., 3, influenced by froust, frowst.

fouter, v., and foutering, vbl.n. See footer, 3, for all remarks.

fouter or footer, care not a. To care not at all: coll.: late C. 16–20, ob.

foutie or fouty. See footy.

fow. See fou.

fower. (Pronounced fo-er.) Four: sol.: C. 19–20. Esp. in military commands. See stan.

fowl. A troublesome seaman: nautical: late C. 19–20. Also a bird or an irk. Perhaps there is a pun on foul and queer bird.

fox. An artificial sore: c. (— 1862). Mayhew. Cf. fox's bite, q.v.—2. Shares in the Norfolk and Western Railroad: Stock Exchange (— 1895); now †. A. J. Wilson, Stock Exchange Glossary. Via 'Norfolks'.

fox, v. To intoxicate: C. 17–20; until ca. 1760, S.E.; then coll. The Sporting Times, April 11, 1891, 'And so to bed well nigh seven in the morning, and myself as near foxed as of old'.—2. To cheat, rob: Eton (— 1859). H., 1st ed.—3. V.t. and v.i., to watch closely though slyly: London c. (— 1859) > low s. H., 1st ed. V.i., fox about. Cf. fox's sleep, q.v.—4. V.i., to sham: early C. 17–20; S.E. until C. 19, then coll. and dial. Ex a fox's habit of pretending to be asleep. (O.E.D.) This is prob. the sense posed by 'Ducange Anglicus', 1857: to be half asleep.—5. To criticise adversely a fellow-actor's acting: theatrical (— 1864). H., 3rd ed.—6. To mend a boot by 'capping' it: from ca. 1790 (? j. >) s. > coll. > S.E. Grose, 3rd ed.

fox, catch a; gen. to have caught a fox (B.E.). To be or become very drunk: C. 17–19 coll. A late C. 16–17 variant is hunt the fox. Cf.

fox-drunk. Crafty-drunk: late C. 16–17: coll. Nashc.

Fox Hall. Vauxhall (gardens): Society: mid-C. 18—mid-19. (Warc, at chappie.)

fox (or fox's) paw, make a. To commit a blunder, esp. in society or (of women) by carelessly allowing oneself to be seduced: late C. 18–19 low coll. Grose, 2nd ed. (fox's paw). A (prob. deliberate) perversion of Fr. faux pas. Cf. fopper, q.v.

fox to keep one's geese, set a. To entrust one's confidences and/or money to a sharper or an adventurer: coll.: from ca. 1630; ob.

foxed. Tipsy. See fox, v., 1.

foxing. Vbl.n. ex fox, v., but not for sense 1, rarely for senses 2 and 6; mostly for sense 3.

fox's bite. An artificial sore: schoolboys': from ca. 1850; ob. Cf. fox, n.

fox's paw. See fox paw, make a.

fox's sleep. A feigned sleep veiling extreme alertness: coll.: C. 17–20; ob. In S.E., fox-sleep.

foxy. Strong-smelling: coll. verging on S.E.: C. 19–20.—2. The other foxy senses in F. & H. are all S.E.

foy. A cheat, swindler: late C. 16–17. Perhaps c., certainly low.—2. A coll. expletive: late C. 16—early 18. I.e. fay, faith.

foyl-cloy. See foil-cloy.—foyse. See fice.—foyst, n. and v. See foist.—foyster. See foister.

fozy-faced. Smug-looking: Glasgow coll. (— 1934). Ex dial. fozy, stupid, bloated.

f'r. For: coll.: C. 19–20. E.g. f'r instance, pronounced almost as if frinstance.

fragment. A dinner ordered by a master for a favoured boy, who could invite five school-fellows to share it: Winchester College: † by 1891. Winchester Word-Book. A fragment = three dishes or courses.—2. In Shakespeare, a pejorative term of address.

fraid. Afraid: a coll., mainly childish, shortening: C. 19–20.

fraidy cat. A frightened or a timorous person: coll., mostly children's: from ca. 1870.

frail. A woman: U.S., partially anglicised by Eric Linklater in 1931 (Don Juan in America). O.E.D. (Sup.).

frame. A picture: artists': ca. 1890–1912. Ware. Ex picture-frame.—2. See frame, v., 2; variant more gen.: frame-up.

frame, v. To work up and present an unjustified case or serious complaint against: orig. and mainly U.S.; acclimatised ca. 1924. See Irwin.—2. To effect a pre-arranged conspiracy, a faked result: U.S. (from ca. 1906), anglicised ea. 1924. Irwin; O.E.D. (Sup.). Also n.

frammagem. See frummagem.

franc-fileur. 'A man who gets away quickly and won't dance': Society: ca. 1890–1915. Punning Fr. sense. Ware.

France and Spain. Rain: rhyming s.: late C. 19–20. B. & P. frangine. Brother: Canadian: C. 20. F. & Gibbons. Ex Fr.-Canadian.

frank. Obscene or tending to obscenity: book-world s. or j.: from ca. 1926. Whence frankness. Cf. Pope's usage: unchaste.

Frankenstein. A monster or a mechanism uncontrollable by its inventor or creator: a (journalistic) catachresis: from ca. 1840. Ex Mrs. Shelley's novel, Frankenstein (1818), wherein the titular character is the student-contriver, not the contrived monster. W. frantic(ally). 'Awful(ly)', 'terrible' or 'terribly': coll.: 1908 (O.E.D. Sup.). E.g. 'a frantic hurry' or 'muddle'. Ex:—2. Notable; well-known; confirmed: Public Schools' coll.: 1902, P. G. Wodehouse, 'Who's that frantic blood who owns all the land . . . ?'

frater. A beggar working with false papers, esp. a petition: mid-C. 16–20. Awdelay, Fletcher, Grose (1st ed.); David Hume, Bullets Bite Deep, 1932. Ex the begging friars.—2. 'A Wykehamists' relations are his Pater, Mater, Frater [brother] and Soror [sister] (Nunky and Nery are now obsolete). Together they form his Pitch-up, Wrench, 1901.

fraud. A thing either deceptive or spurious: coll.: late C. 18–20.—2. An impostor, humbug, hypocrite: coll.: 1850, Dickens (O.E.D.). Often jocularly.

Fray Bentos. Very well, esp. in reply to inquiries about one's health: jocular military: 1916; ob. B. & P. Ex the well-known brand of bully beef, with a pun on très bien (cf. trez beans, q.v.).

frazzle, to a. Very badly; absolutely, utterly: orig. (1882), U.S.; anglicised ca. 1905. Also faded to a frazzle, completely exhausted: ca. 1908–14. Ex Southern U.S. frazzle, a frayed-out end: cf. East Anglian frazzle, to fray out. Thornton; E.D.D.

freak. An actor that loses caste by performing in some eccentric show: theatrical: late C. 19—early 20. Ware. Cf. dime-museum.

Freakeries, the. 'Barnum's freak and acrobat shows at Olympia': London: 1898. Ware.

Fred Karno's army. The 'New Army': military: late 1914–18. F. & Gibbons cite 'We are Fred Karno's Army, | A rag-time crowd are we' ex a song given in B. & P. Ex 'the popular comedian, Fred Karno, noted for his troupe of whimsical oddities and caricaturists'. Cf.:

Fred Karno's navy. The Dover Patrol: naval during G.W. Bowen. Cf. Harry Tate's navy.

Freddy. A German, esp. a German soldier: rare military (esp. the Royal Warwickshire Rifles'): 1914–18. Ex Friedrich: cf. Fritz, q.v.

free, v. To steal (gen. a horse): c. of ea. 1835–90. Brandon; Snowden, 3rd ed., 1857. Cf. convey.—2. To make (a person) free; to initiate: Public Schools' coll.: late C. 19–20. Ware.

free. Self-assured; impudent: Oxford University (— 1864); † by 1921.

free and easy (often hyphenated). A social gathering (gen. at a public-house) where smoking, drinking and singing are allowed: (orig. low) coll.; in C. 20, S.E.: from ca. 1796. The Lex. Bal.; Macaulay, 1843; Cassell's Saturday Journal, Sept., 1891. A ribald club or society, fl. 1810–11, was known as the Free-and-Easy Johns.

free-and-flowing. A seaman's uniform with square collar: naval: mid-C. 19–20; ob. Bowen.

free(-)booker. A piratical publisher or an under-selling bookseller: journalists': ea. 1880–1914. Punning freebooter.

Free-Born John. John Lilburne (d. 1657), famous for 'his defence of his rights as a free-born Englishman before the Star Chamber' (Dawson).

free breakfast table, a. A political e.p. 'trotted out' ca. 1906. Collinson. I.e. free of duties.

free fight. A general struggle or mella: orig. U.S. (— 1855) coll., anglicised by 1873; in C. 20, S.E. H., 5th ed. Occ. a free-for-all fight, the fight sometimes being omitted.

free-fishery. The female pudend: low: C. 19–20 (? ob.).

free-fucking. A general sexual looseness; unpaid coition; fidelity to the other sex. Also adj. Low: rather a vulg. than a coll.: C. 19–20.

free gangway. 'General leave from a man-of-war': naval coll.: late C. 19–20. Bowen.

free gratis—for nothing; f., g., and for nothing. Costing nothing: coll., orig. low: from ca. 1880.

[free-handed, free-hearted, free of her favours, given by F. & H., are S.E.; free of his patter, full of talk, is low coll. only because of patter, the same remark, mutatis mutandis, applying to free of his foolishness, full of chaff.]

free(-)holder. A harlot's lover or 'fancy man', q.v.: C. 19–20 (ob.) low.—2. 'He whose Wife goes with him to the Ale-house', B.E.: late C. 17—early 19.

free-lance. A persistent adulteress: ca. 1888–1910. Ex the medieval mercenary earlier known as a free companion and renamed by Scott in Ivanhoe.

free of fumbler's hall or Fumbler's Hall. Impotent: (? late) C. 18—early 19 low. Grose, 2nd ed.

free of the bush. Extremely intimate (with a woman): low: from ca. 1860.

free of the house. Intimate; privileged: coll. in C. 19, S.E. in C. 20.

Free State coal. A South African coll. euphemism (dating from ca. 1880, and now slightly ob.) for dried cow-dung. R. Jameson, A Trip to the Transvaal Gold-Fields, 1886. Pettman.

free tank. Unlimited 'booze': nautical, esp. naval; also military: C. 20; ob. Bowen; F. & Gibbons. Cf. tanked.

free trade or protection? (Women's) knickers loose and open or closed and tight-fitting: low coll.: from ca. 1905.

free with both ends of the busk, make. To caress a woman with extreme familiarity: C. 18–20 (ob.). See busk.

freeman. The lover of a married woman: C. 19–20 (ob.) low.

freeman, v.; make a freeman of. To spit on a (new boy's) penis: schools' (mostly Public): ea. 1850–1920. Occ. freemason. Cf. crown.

freeman of a corporation's work. See corporation's work.

freeman of Bucks. A cuckold: C. 19 low. Punning Buckinghamshire and a buck's horns. Contrast Bedfordshire.

Freeman's !, it's Harry. There's nothing to pay: naval: from ca. 1870. F. & Gibbons; Bowen. Ex:

Freeman's Quay, drink or lush at. To drink at another's expense: ca. 1810–80. Ex free beer distributed to porters and carmen at this wharf near London Bridge. Lex. Bal., 1811; H., 1st–5th edd.

freemason, v. See freeman, v.

freeze, v. To appropriate or steal: c.: C. 19. Cf. freeze (on) to.

freeze, do a. To feel extremely cold: coll.: late C. 19–20.

freeze on to. See freeze to.

freeze out. To compel to retire from business or society, by competition or social opposition: orig. (ca. 1867) U.S.; anglicised ca. 1895 as a coll.

freeze the . . . See monkey, cold enough . . .

freeze to, in C. 20 gen. freeze on to. To take a powerful fancy to: late C. 19–20; ob.—2. Cling to, hold fast. Coll.: Australian (ex U.S., where common): England slightly: in both countries from ca. 1880.

freezer. A very cold day (from ca. 1895, S.E.); a chilling look, comment, etc.: coll.: from ca. 1848.—2. An Eton jacket (without tail): coll. or s.: from ca. 1880. ? abbr. bum-freezer or -perisher.—3. A sheep bred for frozen export: New Zealand (— 1893); Australian, from ca. 1900. Coll. >, by 1920, S.E. (Morris.)

[French words: see the excellent account in Fowler.]

French, loose. See loose French.

French, speak. (Of a horse) to be an excellent steeplechaser: turf (— 1923). Manchon.

French article, cream, elixir, lace. Brandy: coll.: resp. — 1821, — 1788 (Grose, 2nd ed.), — 1860, — 1821. The second, gen. of brandy in tea or coffee—a French custom. See 'Offensive Nationality', in Words I for coll., dial. and S.E. variations on the French theme, which was at its height ca. 1730–1820.

French crown, goods or gout. Syphilis: C. 17–19: coll. verging on S.E. F. ache(s), fever, disease, measles, marbles, mole, pox, are S.E. Cf. French faggot-stick.

French Devil, the. Jean Bart (d. 1702), an intrepid naval commander. Dawson.

French elixir. See French article.

French faggot-stick, a blow with a. A nose lost through syphilis: late C. 17–18: low. B.E.

French fare. Elaborate politeness: C. 14–17: coll. > S.E. In C. 14—early 16 often frankish fare.

French goods or gout. See French crown.

French kiss. A kiss applied heavily ('baiser très appuyé'): coll. (— 1923). Manchon.

French lace. See French article.

French leave, take. To depart without intimation or as if in flight; do anything without permission: from ca. 1770: coll. in C. 18—mid-19, then S.E. Smollett, 1771. (Cf. Fr. filer à l'anglaise.) Ex the C. 18 Fr. custom of departing from a reception, dinner, ball, etc., etc., without bidding good-bye to host or hostess.

French (rarely American, Italian or Spanish) letter. A male sheath-pessary: low coll.: from ca. 1870. Cf. Fr. capote anglaise.

French pie. Irish stew: City of London restaurants' (— 1909). Ware.

French pig. A venereal bubo: C. 19–20 (ob.) low.

French pigeon. A pheasant mistakenly shot in the partridge season: sportsmen's (— 1893); ob.

French prints. Obscene pictures: coll.: from 1850. Thackeray. Ob.

Frenchier. A Frenchman: pejorative coll.: ca. 1840–1900. C. Kingsley.

Frenchified. Venereally infected; esp. with syphilis; mid-C. 17–19 coll. B.E. Cf. French gout.

Frenchman. A (good, bad, indifferent) French scholar: coll.: from temp. Restoration.

Frenchman, the. Any foreigner: naval coll. (cf. later dial.): ca. 1620–1720. Bowen.—2. Syphilis: C. 19 low. Cf. old technical morbus gallicus.—3. (A bottle of) brandy: Society: mid-C. 19—early 20. Ware, 'From this spirit being French'.

Frenchy. A Frenchman: coll.: recorded 1883, ? considerably earlier. Ex ob. S.E. adj. Miss Yonge, 'The squires had begun by calling him Frenchy' (O.E.D.). In dial., any foreigner whatsoever.

fresh, adj. In one's first university term: university (? orig. Cambridge); from ca. 1800; ob. Gradus ad Cantabrigiam, 1803. Ex freshman, q.v.—2. Forward, impudent: orig. (— 1848) U.S. (ex Ger. frech), anglicised ca. 1895. (W.)—3. Slightly drunk: coll.; from ca. 1810. But in dial at least twenty years earlier: E.D.D. Marryat, 'I could get fresh as we call it,' 1829.—4. Fasting; opposed to eating and esp. drinking; sober: M.E.—C. 20: until C. 19, S.E.; in C. 19 coll., in C. 20 Scottish only.

fresh as a daisy, a new-born turd, an eel, flowers in May, paint, a rose. Very healthy, strong, active: coll., the second being low: resp. from ca. 1815, 1830, 1410, (1400–1600), 1440, 1850; the third and fifth soon > S.E. and indeed poetical, while the first is in C. 20 almost S.E. For the first, third, fifth and sixth (perhaps orig. ironic for the first or the third) see esp. Apperson.

fresh bit. (Of women, in amorous vengery) a beginner; a new mistress: low: from ca. 1840. Cf. bit of fresh, the sexual favour.

fresh hand at the bellows, (there's) a. A sailing-ship coll. c.p. of mid-C. 19–20 (now ob.), 'said . . . when the wind freshened, especially after a lull' (Bowen).

fresh milk. A newcomer, newcomers, to the university: Cambridge University: ca. 1820–50. Egan's Grose. (Cf. Freshwater Bay, q.v.) Punning freshman.

fresh on the graft. New to the work or job: from ca. 1890. See graft.

fresh shot. Incorrect for freshet: C. 18. O.E.D.

fresh water, a. By way of punishment for working hands, a turn at pumping various tanks: Conway cadets: from ca. 1880. John Masefield, The Conway, 1933. Cf. coal-hole.

fresh-whites. Pallor: lower classes': mid-C. 19—early 20. Ware.

freshen one's way. To hurry: nautical (— 1893) a. > j. Ex freshening wind.

freshen the hawse. 'To serve out a tot after extra fatiguing duty': nautical: late C. 19–20. Bowen.

freshen up. To clean, smarten; revive: coll.: from ca. 1850. An example of a S.E. term (freshen) being made coll. by the addition of pleonastic adv.

freshier. An undergraduate in his first term: university, orig. (— 1882) Oxford. Perhaps the earliest example of the Oxford -er. See Slang, pp. 208–9, and note that R. Ellis Roberts thinks that possibly it arose from a new man being described as freshier than fresh.

Freshers, the. 'That part of the Cam which lies between the Mill and Byron's Pool . . . Frequented by freshmen,' F. & H.: Cambridge University: from ca. 1880; ob. Cf. freshier, q.v.

freshman. A university undergraduate in his first year; at Oxford, in his first term: late C. 16–20: orig., university s., but in C. 19–20 to be considered S.E. Nashe; Colman, 1767, 'As . . . melancholy as a freshman at college after a jobation'. Whence fresher.—2. Also an adj.: C. 19–20, ob.—3. The C. 17–20 freshmanship is, I think, ineligible.

freshman's Bible. The University Calendar: mostly Oxford and Cambridge: from ca. 1870; ob. Cf. freshman's landmark, q.v.

freshman's church. The Pitt, i.e. the Cambridge University, Press: Cambridge: from ca. 1870; ob. Ex its churchly architecture.

freshman's landmark. King's College chapel, Cambridge: Cambridge University: from ca. 1870. Ex its central situation and 'recognizability'.

freshwater bay, or F.B. The world of freshmen: Oxford University: ca. 1820–40. Egan's Grose. Cf. fresh milk.

freshwater mariner, seaman. A begging pseudo-sailor: ca. 1550–1840, 1690–1840, resp. as are Harman and B.E. Perhaps c., orig.

freshwater soldier. A recruit: late C. 16–18: orig. coll.; but in C. 17, S.E. Florio, 1598, defines as 'A goodly, great milke-soppe'. Cf. S.E. freshwater seaman, which may, just possibly, have at first been coll.

fret I, don't (you). You needn't worry: sarcastic coll c.p.: late C. 19–20. Cf. I should worry!

fret one's giblets, gizzard or guts; one's cream, kidneys. To worry oneself with trifles: low coll.: in gen., from ca. 1850, the gizzard form antedating 1755; ob., except for gizzard. Cf. flurry one's milk and:

fret oneself to fiddle-strings. A coll. variant (— 1923) of, and prob. suggested by, the preceding. Manchon.

friar. A white or pale spot on a printed sheet: printers': from ca. 1680. Contrast monk, q.v. In C. 19–20, both are j.

Friars. Blackfriars Station: London coll. (— 1909). Ware.

frib. A stick: C. 18 c. Discoveries of John Poulter, 1754. ? etymology.

[fribble, a trifle, has, despite F. & H., never been eligible.]

Friday, black. See black Friday.

Friday face. A glum, depressed-looking face or person: coll.: from ca. 1590; ob. by 1889; by 1936 almost †. Greene; Grose, 1st ed. (Adj., Friday-faced, from late C. 16; ob.) Variant, C. 18–20, Friday look. Ex Friday as a day of fasting. Apperson.

Friday while. Week-end leave: naval coll.: late C. 19–20. Bowen.

fridge. See frige. (This form occurs in W. Collin Brooks, Frame-Up, 1935.)

fried carpet. 'The exceedingly short ballet skirt . . . especially seen at the old "Gaiety"': London theatrical: 1878–82. Ware.—2. 'An improved Cockneyism for "fish and 'taters"': from ca. 1890; ob. Tit-Bits, Aug. 8, 1891 (E.D.D.). By jocular perversion.

friend, go and see a sick. To go womanising: low: from ca. 1860.

friend has come, my (little); I have friends to stay. The victim's announcement of the menstrual flux: C. 19–20 low: ob. Cf. the captain is at home.

friend in need. (Gen. pl.) A louse: low: C. 19–20; ob. ? ex C. 18 gentleman's friend.

friendly. Abbr. friendly match, one played for fun, not competition-points: from ca. 1894: coll. for five years or so, then S.E.—2. An enemy shell passing high overhead; one of one's own shells falling short on one's own lines: military coll.: 1915. F. & Gibbons.

friendly lead. An entertainment organised to assist an unlucky, esp. an imprisoned man—or his wife and children: from ca. 1870; orig. c., by 1895 s., by 1910 coll., by 1920 S.E.

friendly pannikin. A drink shared with another from that utensil: Australian coll.: ca. 1860–1910.

friends to stay. See friend has come.

frig. An act of self-abuse: low coll.: C. 18–20. Ex the v.—2. See frige.

frig, v.t., i., refl. To masturbate: from ca. 1590: low coll. Cotgrave; Robertson of Struan. The imperative with it is late C. 19–20, occ. an exclamation: cf. fuck it! Ex L. fricare, to rub.—2. Hence, loosely, to copulate with: mid-C. 19–20.

frig about, v.i. To potter or mess about: low coll.: mid-C. 19–20. (It has been in use among Conway cadets since before 1891: John Masfield, The Conway, 1933.) Cf. bugger about.

frig-pig. A fussy trifler: late C. 18—early 19. Grose, 2nd ed.

frigate. A woman: orig. (— 1690), nautical. Esp. a well-rigged frigate, 'a Woman well Drest and Gentile' (i.e. Fr. gentille), as B.E. has it.

frigate on fire. A variant (ca. 1810–50) of fire-ship, q.v. Bee.

frigatation. A frigatoon: naval: C. 19. Bowen. By perversion of the S.E. term, with a pun on frig, v.

frige; occ. frig. Pronounced fridge. A refrigerator: cafés' and restaurants': from ca. 1925. Heard in the Express Dairy in New Oxford Street, June 13, 1935, 'Who's got the key of the frige?' Cf. the Fr. frigo for viande frigorifiée.

frigging. The practice, or an act, of self-abuse (cf. frig, n.): low coll.: C. 17–20.—2. Trifling; irritating waste of time: C. 18–20, ob. except with about.

frigging, adj. and adv. A low coll. intensive: a frigging idiot being an absolute fool; frigging bad, exceedingly bad. From ca. 1820. Cf. fking, adj., adv.

fright. Any thing or person of a ridiculous or grotesque appearance: coll.: from ca. 1750.

fright hair. 'A wig or portion of a wig which by a string can be made to stand on end and express fright': theatrical coll. (— 1909). Ware.

frightened of. Afraid of: coll.: from ca. 1830. In 1858 The Saturday Review could illuminatingly write, 'It is not usual for educated people to perpetrate such sentences as . . . "I was frightened of her."' (O.E.D.)

frightful. An intensive adj.: coll.: from ca. 1740. (Cf. awful, terrible.) Dr. Johnson notes its constant use 'among women for anything unpleasant'.—2. A low coll. variant (C. 19–20) of:

frightfully. An intensive adv.: coll.: from ca. 1830. Ex preceding. Cf. awfully and P. G. Wodehouse, Not George Washington, 1907, 'Thanks . . . Oh, thanks. . . Thanks awf'ly. . . Thanks awf'ly. . . Thanks awf'ly. . . (with a brilliant burst of invention, amounting almost to genius) Thanks frightfully.'

frightfulness. Anything, esp. behaviour, that is objectionable: jocular coll.: 1914; ob. Ex the lit. sense, which translated the German Schrecklichkeit (Aug. 27, 1914). W.

frigo. Frozen or chilled meat: American >, in early 1918, English military s., though never very

gen. (F. & Gibbons.) An adoption of Fr. s., itself representing 'viande frigorifiée'.

frigster, friggstress. A male, female masturbator:

frill. Affectation: late C. 19–20: coll. >, by 1920, S.E.—2. A girl; a woman: from ca. 1933. John G. Brandon, The One-Minute Murder, 1934, 'The hen, the frill—the skirt!'

frillery. Women's underclothing: low coll.: ca. 1888–1910. Cf. frillies.

frillery, explore one's. To caress a woman very intimately: low coll.: ca. 1888–1914.

frillies. Women's underclothing: coll.: ca. 1870–1910. Cf. undies, scanties, by the former of which it was gradually superseded: see Words!, p. 99.

frills. Swagger, conceit, 'side'. Hence put on one's frills, to swagger; also, low coll. or s., to grow very amorous. Also culture and accomplishments (music, dancing, foreign languages). Orig. (—1870), U.S.; anglicised ca. 1890. Kipling, 1890, 'It's the commissariat camel putting on his blooming frills' (recurring, in book form, in 1892).

frills, have been among a woman's. To have 'known' her: ca. 1860–1914.

fringe. Irrelevant matter: coll.: from ca. 1885; ob. (O.E.D.)

frint. A pawnbroker: low or c.: ca. 1810–50. Real Life in London, 1821. ? friend perverted.

frisco, frisko(e). A term of endearment: coll.: C. 17. Variant friskin.

frisk. As frolic and a lively dance-movement, it is S.E. as also is frisker, a dancer; but as sexual connexion it is low coll.: C. 19–20.—2. Only in stand frisk, to be searched: c. (—1812); † by 1900. Vaux. Ex:

frisk; occ. friz (for senses 3, 4), v. To search (the person); examine carefully for police evidence: c. (—1781). Parker, Grose.—2. Hence to pick the pockets of, pick (a pocket, rob a till): c.: C. 19. Vaux.—3. To 'have' a woman: low: C. 19–20.—4. To hoax: ca. 1820–60. (O.E.D.)

frisk, dance the Paddington. To be hanged: mid-C. 18–early 19: low or c. Grose, 1st ed.

frisk at the tables. 'A moderate touch at gaming': London coll.: from ca. 1880. Ware.

frisker. A pilferer: c.: from ca. 1890. Ex frisk, v., 2.

frisko(e). See frisco.

frisky. Whiskey: from ca. 1890. Ex the popular saying (—1887), whiskey makes you frisky.

frisky, adj. Playfully amorous; fond of amorous encounters: coll.: from ca. 1890.—2. Bad-tempered: low London: from ca. 1880; ob. Ware.

Fritz. A German; gen. a German soldier: 1914 +, but, in 1917–18, less common than Gerry, Jerry, q.v. Also adj., which Jerry very rarely is, and, derivatively, a German shell, 'plane, etc.: 1915. A pet-name form of Friedrich, an extremely popular Ger. Christian name. See esp. Words!—2. An inevitable nickname of men with German surnames: C. 20.

frivol, frivel, frivole. To behave frivolously: coll., almost S.E.: from ca. 1865. W. Black, in Yolande, 1883, 'If you want to frivole . . . I shut my door on you.' Ex frivolous, ? on fribble.

frivoller; frivolling. A trifler; trifling: coll.; resp. 1887 (Baumann), 1882 (O.E.D.).

friz, frizz. See frisk, v., 1 and 2. Grose, 2nd ed. (friz).—2. (Only friz.) Frozen: sol. (—1887). Baumann.

frizzle. Champagne: ca. 1860–70. H., 2nd ed. ? a perversion of fizz.

frizzler. A hawk: c.: from ca. 1840; † by 1920. 'No. 747.' Origin?

froe, occ. vroe. A woman, wife, mistress, whore: c.: late C. 17–19. B.E. Ex Dutch.

frog. A policeman: low s. verging on c.: from ca. 1855. 'Ducange Anglicus'; H., 2nd ed. More gen. in U.S. than in Britain. Ex his sudden leaping on delinquents.—2. (Frog.) A Frenchman (also Froggy): from ca. 1870. It has > the 'inevitable' nickname (also Froggy) of men with French surnames: lower classes'. (In Fr. s., orig. a Parisian.) Ex the toads on the Parisian shield and 'the quaggy state of the streets', F. & H.—3. In C. 17, however, it means a Dutchman: cf. Froglander.—4. A foot (cf. creeper): low: C. 19–20, ob. Ex the frog in a horse's hoof.—5. The bluejacket's 'frock, before the days of the jumper': naval coll.: C. 19. Bowen. Ex the tailors' frog.—6. Abbr. (—1935) of frog and toad: tramps' c.

frog-action. Bicycle polo, very popular in early C. 20 with the officers stationed at Whale Island (on the east side of Portsmouth harbour): naval. Bowen.

frog and toad. A (main) road: rhyming s. (—1859). H., 1st ed. Perhaps cf.:

Frog and Toe. London: c. (—1857); † by 1900. 'Ducange Anglicus.' Perhaps cognate with preceding entry.

Frog-Eater. A Frenchman: low coll.: from ca. 1860; ob. Cf. frog, 2, and Froggie.

frog in the throat. A boat: rhyming s.: C. 20. B. & P.

frog it. To walk, to march: military: 1914 or early 1915. F. & Gibbons. Either ex frog-march or, by jocular perversion, ex flog it, q.v.

Froggie or Froggy. A Frenchman: from ca. 1870. The Referee, July 15, 1883. Also adj. All the frog terms for a Frenchman refer to the eating of frogs. Contrast Froglander.—2. See frog, 2.

Froglander. A Dutchman: late C. 17–19 (though after ca. 1820 only among sailors), and, in U.S., C. 19–20, though ob. B.E.

frog's march (gen. with give the); occ. frog-march or -trot. The carrying of a drunken man face downwards, c.g. to the police-station. Coll.: from ca. 1870. The Evening Standard, April 18, 1871; The Daily News, Oct. 4, 1884.—2. Also, from ca. 1884, a v.t. frog's wine. Gin: ca. 1810–70. Lex. Bal. ? a reference to Holland: cf. Froglander.

from is pleonastic and therefore, strictly, a sol. before hence, thence, whence: C. 17–20.—2. For since, it is catachrestic, as in 'disabled from 1917': C. 19–20.

Froncey. French: low London: C. 19. I.e., Fr. français. Ware.

front. Bearing, deportment; style: coll. (—1923). Manchon. Cf. S.E. front, self-confidence, effrontery.

front, v. To cover the operations of an associate pickpocket: c. (—1879); ob.—2. V.i. and t., to break in by the front door: c. (—1933). Charles E. Leach. Vbl.n., fronting.

front, clean one's. To clean one's front doorstep and proportionate share of the adjoining pavement: lower- and lower-middle-class coll.: late C. 19–20.

front attic, door, garden, parlour, room, window. The female pudend: low. None, I think, before 1800; Bee, 1823, has the fourth; F. & H. (1893) all six.

front-door mat. The female pubic hair: low: C. 19-20.

front(-)gut. The female pudend: low: C. 19-20; ob.

front name. A Christian name, esp. the first: when not culturedly facetious, it is low coll. (- 1895). Ex U.S. (- 1877).

front office. Police headquarters: c.: C. 20; mostly and orig. U.S. (O.E.D. Sup.)

front parlour. See front attic.

front piece. A 'curtain-raiser': theatrical coll.: ca. 1885-1912. Ware.

front room. See front attic.

front-stall. He who, in garotting or robbery with strangulation, keeps a look-out in front: c.: from ca. 1850; ob. See also back-stall and nasty-man or ugly.

front window. See front attic.

front windows. The eyes; occ. the face: from ca. 1860.-2. Spectacles: C. 20; ob. A. H. Dawson, Dict. of Slang, 1913.

fronting. See front, v., 2.

frontispiece. The face: pugilistic (- 1818); ob. Egan, Buckstone. Anticipated, however, with jocular (?) pedantry by the C. 17 and C. 18, e.g. by Hume. (O.E.D.)

froom or frume. Religious in the orthodox sense: Jewish coll.: late C. 19-20. Ex Ger. fromm.

frost. An utter failure or complete disappointment, whether thing, event, or person: theatrical s. > gen. coll.: from ca. 1885. The Star, Jan. 17, 1889, 'The pantomime was a dead frost.' W. ingeniously suggests that frost derives ex Wolsey's killing frost in Shakespeare's Henry VIII.—2. Lack of work: as in have the frost, to be unemployed: from ca. 1880; † by 1921.—3. A coolness between persons: late C. 19-20, ob. (O.E.D.)

frost bite me! See bite me!

frosty-face. 'One pitted with the small pox', Grose, 1st ed.: low or c.: ca. 1750-1890.

froudacious, froudacity, adj. and n. Inaccurate, -acy: Australia and, though much less, New Zealand: ca. 1888-93. Ex Froude the historian's statements concerning those two countries: on audacious. F. & H.

frought. See froust.

froust, frowst. A stink; stuffiness (in a room): coll.: from ca. 1870. Cf. fug, q.v. Ex frousty, q.v.—2. Hence, at Harrow School, additional sleep allowed on Sundays and whole holidays: from ca. 1875.—3. (Also ex sense 1.) A slacker in regard to sport: Sherborne School: C. 20. Desmond Coke, Wilson's, 1911.

froust, frowst, v. Rest lazily: coll. when not dial. (- 1884); ob. in coll.

frousty, frowsty. Unpleasant-smelling; fuggy: coll. when not dial.: 1865 (S.O.D.). Origin obscure.

froust. Angry; annoyed; vexed: Winchester College: C. 19-20. Ex the Hampshire dial. frou(g)ht, frightened, as R. G. K. Wrench suggests. (Winchester has a very large vocabulary, in which the boys have, for many years, been obliged to show their proficiency very soon after they first arrive.)

frow. See froe.—frowst. See froust.—frowsty. See frousty.

froze. Sol. for frozen: almost immemorial.

frozen limit, the. The utter limit of the obnoxious or the intolerable: coll.: from ca. 1915. Lyell. Cf. dizzy limit and see limit, the.

frozen mitt, give the. To cold-shoulder: U.S. anglicised in 1918. Collinson.

frozen on the stick. Paralysed with fear: aircraft engineers': from ca. 1931. The Daily Herald, Aug. 1, 1936. Prob. the 'joy-stick' of an aeroplane is implied.

fruticose. Incorrect for fruticose: C. 19-20. O.E.D.

fruit, old. See old fruit.

fruit of a gibbet. A hanged felon: coll.: C. 18. Gay. (Ware.)

fruitful vine. The female genitals: either low coll. (it appears in the Lex. Bal.) or 'dubious' euphemism, the double pun being indelicate: C. 19-20, ob.

fruition. Catachrestically (- 1885) for fruit. O.E.D.

fruity. Very rich or strong (e.g. language); very attractive or interesting or suggestive (e.g. story): coll.: 1900 (O.E.D. Sup.). Prob. suggested by juicy.

frume. See froom.

frumety-kettle. See furmity-kettle.

frummagem; app. only as frummagemmed, choked, strangled, spoilt: c. of ca. 1670-1830. Head, Coles, Grose, Scott (in Guy Mannering). ? etymology.

[frump, n. and v., and frumpish, adj., are, despite F. & H., S.E. in all their senses.]

frumper. A sturdy fellow: c. of ca. 1820-60. Kent, Modern Flash Dict., 1825. Perhaps a survival of frumper = mocker, jester.

fry. To turn into plain English; gen. in passive: from ca. 1880; ob. James Payn, in Grape from a Thorn, 1881.

fry in one's own grease. To suffer the (natural) consequences of one's own folly; 'dree one's weird': coll.: C. 14-20. See esp. Apperson.

fry the pewter. To melt pewter measures: c. of ca. 1850-1910. ? suggested by fry the potato.

fry your face, go and. A c.p. retort indicative of contempt, incredulity, or derision: ca. 1870-1905. Cf. the Suffolk fry your feet!, nonsense! E.D.D.

frying-pan. A collier brig from Whitby: nautical: C. 19. Ex the 'traditional wind vane, a large disc and a pointer' (Bowen).—2. (Gen. pl.) A hand: rhyming s. on sol. pronunciation han': C. 20, mostly military. F. & Gibbons.—3. See Turnip. Mayhew, 1861; H., 5th ed., 1874; ob. On warming-pan.

frying-pan brand. 'A large brand used by cattle-stealers to cover the owner's brand', Morris: Australia (- 1857); ob.

frying-pan into the fire, jump from or out of the. To be thus worse off: from ca. 1520, with antecedents in Plato, Lucian, Tertullian: coll. until ca. 1890, then S.E. More, Harington, Garrick, Barham. See esp. Apperson.

fu-fu. Barley and treacle, 'a favourite dish in the early 19th century sailing ships': nautical: C. 19. ? origin: perhaps Bowen is wrong about the 'early', and the term derives from S.E. fufu, yam or plantain pounded into balls.—2. Hence, 'an amateur band raised in the ship's company': nautical: late C. 19-20. Bowen.—3. Hence, 'anybody inefficient at sea': nautical: C. 20. Ibid.

fuant. Excrement, esp. in pl. and of vermin (B.E.): C. 17-18 low coll. ? Fr. puant corrupted.

fub. See fob, n., 2, and fubbs.

fub, v. See fob, v., of which it is a late C. 16-17 variant.—2. V.i., to potter about: cricketers' coll. (—1906). Lewis. (Ultimately ex sense 1.)

fubbery, trickery, cheating, stealing, occurs in Marston. See fob, n. and v.

fub(b)s, n. 'A loving, fond Word used to pretty little Children and Women' (B.E.), esp. if (small and) chubby: C. 17-18: coll. Cf. the next two complete entries.

fubby. See:

fubs(e)y. Plump; (of things) well filled: C. 17-20 (ob.) coll. 'Applied by Charles II to Duchess of Portsmouth', W.; Grose; Marryat, in Snarley-Yow, 1837, 'Seated on the widow's little fubsy sofa'. Variant, fubby. Ex fub(b)s, q.v.

fubsiness. Fatness; 'well-filledness': coll.: from ca. 1780. Ex preceding term.

fubsy. See fubsey.

fuck. An act of sexual connexion: from ca. 1800. (Ex the v., for which see etymology, etc.)—2. A person (rarely of the male) viewed in terms of coition, as in 'She's a good f.': C. 19-20. These two senses are excellent examples of vulgarism, being actually S.E.—3. The seminal fluid, esp. if viewed as providing the requisite strength (full of fuck, potently amorous): low coll.: C. 19-20.

fuck. v.t. and i. To have sexual connexion (with): v.i. of either sex, v.t. only of the male: a vulg., C. 16-20. The earliest and latest dictionaries to record it are Florio (s.v. foltere) and Grose, the O.E.D., S.O.D., E.D.D. all 'banning' it (cf. note at cunt): the efforts of James Joyce and D. H. Lawrence have not restored it to its orig. dignified status. Either ex Gr. φύρεω, L. future, Fr. foutre, the medial c. and the abridged form being due to a Teutonic radical and an A.S. tendency, or more prob., as A. W. Read (after Kluge) convincingly maintains, ex Ger. ficken, lit. to strike, hence to copulate with: cf., therefore, bang and knock. Transitive synonyms, many of them S.E., occur in Shakespeare (9), Fletcher (7), Urquhart (4), etc., etc.; intransitive in Urquhart (12), D'Urfey and Burns (6), Shakespeare (5), etc., etc. See esp. B. & P. (the Introduction); Grose, P.; and Allen Walker Read, 'An Obscenity Symbol' (sec. II) in American Speech, Dec., 1934,—all at this term.—2. See fuck off.

fuck-beggar. An impotent or almost impotent man whom none but a beggar-woman will allow to 'kiss' her: mid-C. 18-early 19 low coll. Grose, 1st ed., 'See buss beggar'.

fuck-finger, -fist. A female, a male, masturbator: low: C. 19-20, ob.

fuck-hole. The pudendum muliebre: C. 19-20 low. ? on bung-hole.

fuck (it)! A low expletive: C. 19-20. Very gen. among those for whom delicacy and æsthetics mean little—or rather nothing. Manchon. Cf. frig. ill., q.v. at frig, v.

fuck off. To depart, make off: low: late C. 19-20. Cf. bugger off, piss off, qq.v.—2. Esp. in the imperative: id.

fuck you, Jack, I'm all right! A c.p. directed at callousness or indifference: nautical (late C. 19-20); hence military in G.W., and after. B. & P. fuckable. (Of women) sexually desirable; nubile: low coll. or a vulg.: C. 19-20. Cf. and contrast fucksome.

fucked and far from home. In the depths of misery, physical and mental: a military c.p.: 1915. (But believed to have existed as a low c.p.

from at least as early as 1910.) Ex the despair of a girl seduced and stranded.

fucker. A lover; a harlot's 'fancy man': C. 19-20 low coll.—2. A pejorative or an admiring term of reference: from ca. 1850.—3. Hence, a man, chap, fellow: from ca. 1895; esp. in G.W., when the less Rabclaisian substituted mucker.

fucking, vbl.n. The sexual act regarded generically: C. 16-20: vulg.

fucking, adj. (C. 19-20 low) 'a qualification of extreme contumely', F. & H., 1893; but in C. 20, esp. in G.W., often a mere—though still a very low—intensive, occ. replaced by mucking.

fucking, adv. Very, exceedingly. Somewhat stronger and much more offensive than bloody (q.v.). From ca. 1840; perhaps much earlier—records being extremely sparse. Cf. fucker, 3. fuckish. Wanton (of women); inclined, even physically ready, for amorous congress (men and women); C. 19-20 coll.

fucksome. (Of women) sexually desirable: a C. 19-20 vulg.

fuckster, fuckstress. A (notable) performer of, an addict to, the sexual act: a C. 19-20 vulg.—2. Hence, as a pejorative ('vieux cochon', says Manchon): late C. 19-20.

fud. The pubic hair: coll. when not Scottish or dial.: late C. 18-20, ob. as coll. Ex sense, a hare's or rabbit's scut.

fuddle. Drink; a drink: c. or low: ca. 1680-1830. L'Estrange (O.E.D.); B.E. Ex the v.—2. Intoxication, drunken condition: coll.: from ca. 1760. O.E.D.—3. A drunken bout: low coll., or perhaps s.: from ca. 1810.—4. Derivatively: muddledment; mental 'muzziness': from ca. 1825. (O.E.D.)

fuddle, the v., like fuddler and fuddle-cap, a drunkard, fuddling, vbl.n. and adj., and fuddled, ppl. adj., stupefied or muddled with drink, is, and prob. always has been, S.E. (far from literary), not c. nor s. nor even coll.: cf., however, F. & H.'s opinion with the O.E.D.'s.

fudge. A lie, nonsense; exaggeration; humbug or a humbug: 1790. Also (e.g. in Goldsmith, 1766), an exclamation, roughly equivalent to, though slightly politer than, bosh! Coll.: C. 18-20. Anecdotal orig. improbable; perhaps ex Ger. futsch, no good, corrupted by Fr. foutu (W.), with the anecdote helping and fudge, v., reinforcing.—2. A forged stamp: schoolboys': from ca. 1870.—3. A farthing: Dubliners', esp. newsboys': late C. 19-20. Ex fudge, n.: cf. the Manx not worth a fudge, worthless or useless (E.D.D.).

fudge, v. To interpolate (as in Foote, 1776); do impressively very little (Marryat); fabricate (Shirley Brooks); contrive with imperfect materials, as e.g. writing a book of travel without travelling (Sala, 1859); forge (mostly schoolboys': from ca. 1870). Coll.: all nuances slightly ob. and, in C. 20, almost S.E.—2. Botch, bungle, v.t.: coll.: from ca. 1700.—3. V.i., to talk nonsense, tell fibs: from ca. 1834.—4. Advance the hand unfairly in playing marbles: schoolboys': from ca. 1875. In C. 20, almost S.E.—5. Copy, crib: also schoolboys'—and -girls': from ca. 1870.—6. At Christ's Hospital (—1877), v.i. and t., to prompt oneself in class; to prompt another; thence, to tell. Ex fadge, prob. influenced by forge.

fug. A stuffy atmosphere: from ca. 1888. ? ex fog, influenced by fustly, of which it is prob. a schoolboys' or a dial. perversion (W.). In C. 20, coll.—

2. Henoe (— 1923), one who likes a 'fug', a boy that doesn't play games: mostly schoolboys'. Manchon.

fug, v. To remain in a stuffy room: Shrewsbury School: from ca. 1888. Ex the preceding. Cf. froust, n., 2, and froust, v.

fug shop, the. The carpenter's shop at: Charterhouse (— 1900). A. H. Tod.

fugel, fugle, v.i. To cheat, trick: s. or dial.: C. 18–19. D'Urfey. (F. & H.'s definition is wide of the mark: perhaps the wish was father to the thought!)

fuggy. A hot roll: schoolboys': from ca. 1860. H., 3rd ed. ? etymology.

fuggy, adj. Stuffy: orig. (— 1888) schoolboys'; from ca. 1910, coll. Perhaps a direct adoption of Scottish fuggy, foggy. F. & H.; O.E.D. (Sup.).—2. Soft, effeminate: 'prep' schools': C. 20. Ex sense 1. (E. F. Benson, David Blaize, 1916.)

fugle. See fugel.

fugo. The rectum: C. 17–18: low coll. Cotgrave, D'Urfey.

fulham, fullam. A loaded die: practically never in singular. Mid-C. 16–early 19: low; in C. 17, perhaps c. Nashe, Shakespeare, Jonson, Butler, B.E., Grose, Scott. Fulham in South-West London was either a main manufactory or a notorious resort of sharpers. (A high fulham was marked 4, 5, or 6; a low, below 4.)

Fulham virgin. A loose woman: coll.: C. 19–20; ob. by 1905, † by 1927. Cf.—for same reason—Bankside lady and Covent Garden nun, qq.v.

fulk. 'To use an unfair motion of the hand in playing at taw' (marbles), Grose, 3rd ed.: schoolboys', mid-C. 18–early 19. Prob. ex dial., like so much other schoolboy s.; certainly it is extant in dial.

fulke. To have sexual intercourse (mainly v.i.): ca. 1820–1900: low pedantic. Ex the first and last words of Byron's Don Juan.

fulker. A pawnbroker: coll.: mid-C. 16–17. Gascoigne, 1566, 'The Fulker will not lend you a farthing upon it.' Ex Ger. (cf. fogger, q.v.).

full. Having eaten, occ. drunk, to repletion: low coll. since ca. 1830; earlier, S.E. (O.E.D.).—2. Tipsy: coll.: from ca. 1850.—3. Having already sufficient money laid against a particular horse: bookmakers': from ca. 1880.—4. See full up.

full against. Very inimical to: gen. coll. from ca. 1870, ex earlier racing j. (see preceding entry, sense 3).

full as an egg. Very drunk indeed: Australian: from ca. 1925.

full as a goat. Extremely drunk: taverns': C. 18–19. Ware considers goat to be a corruption of goitre.

full as a tick. Replete (with food and/or drink): coll.: mid-C. 17–20; after ca. 1850, mainly dial.—2. Completely drunk: from ca. 1890: mainly Australian.

full as a tun(ne). Replete: coll.: ca. 1500–1660. Heywood the proverbist. (Apperson.)

full belly. One who ensures that his belly be full: C. 17 coll.

full blast, in. Very active; highly successful: coll. (— 1859). Orig. North Country and ex the engine-room, esp. furnaces.

full bob. Suddenly; in unexpected collision: C. 17–18 coll. Marvell, 'The page and you meet full bob.'

full-bottomed, -breeched, -pooped. Having a broad behind: coll.: C. 19–20, the first and third being orig. nautical.

full con. Flattery; insincere compliment: military: from ca. 1908. F. & Gibbons. Cf. S.E. confidence man.

full dig, in. On full pay: ca. 1860–1910.

full due, for a. For ever: nautical: late C. 19–20. Bowen.

full feather, in. See feather.

full fig, in. See fig.—2. Adj. and adv., priapistic: low (— 1893); ob.

full-fledged. Ripe for the sexual act (of a girl): low coll.: C. 19–20.

full guts. A large-bellied person: C. 19–20, low coll. Adj., full-gutted.

full in the belly. Pregnant. Occ. abbr. to full of it. C. 19–20, low coll.

full house. A busy time: coll.: from ca. 1925. (Richard Blaker, Night-Shift, 1934, 'Sunday nights were, perhaps, the fullest house.') Ex full house notices at places of indoor entertainment.

full in the hocks or pasterns. Thick-ankled: coll., orig. stable s.: C. 19–20.

full in the waistcoat. Large-bellied: coll.: C. 19–20. Cf. full guts.

full march by [e.g.] the crown-office, the Scotch Greys are in. The lice are crawling down his (e.g.) head: a low c.p. of ca. 1810–30. Lex. Bal.

full jerry. To understand completely: New Zealanders': C. 20. See jerry, v.

full mouth. A chatterer: late C. 16–17 coll. Greene.

full of. Sick and tired of: Australian (— 1898); ob. by 1915, † by 1930. Morris. Cf. full on and full up, 2.—2. Covered with; e.g. full of mud: South African coll. (— 1913). Pettman, 'It is an imitation of the Dutch idiom.'

full of beans. See beans.—full of bread. See bread.

full of 'em. Lousy; full of fleas, nits: low coll.: C. 19–20.

full of emptiness. Empty: jocular coll.: late C. 18–20. Grose, 2nd ed.

full of f*ck and half starved. (Often preceded, occ. followed by like a straw-yard bull.) A friendly reply to 'How goes it?' Low c.p., from ca. 1870; ob.

full of guts. Vigorous; courageous; (pictures, books, plays, etc.) excellently inspired: coll.: from ca. 1885. See guts.

full of it. See full in the belly.—2. Much impressed by any event or subject already mentioned: coll. (— 1887). Baumann.

full of oneself. Conceited; somewhat ludicrously arrogant: C. 19–20 coll. Ex the C. 18–19 proverb, He's so full of himself that he is quite empty.

full on. More than ready; eager: coll.: from ca. 1860.—2. Australian, from ca. 1890: sated with, weary of, disgusted with; ob. by 1914, † by 1920. Cf. full up, q.v.

full on for it or for one. Ready and extremely willing: gen. of an indelicate connotation: coll.: from ca. 1860.

full pack; full pack up. See Christmas-tree order.—full-pooped. See full-bottomed.

full sail. Whiskers and beard: naval: C. 20. The Evening News, Feb. 25, 1936.

full suit of mourning, have or wear a. To have two black eyes: half-mourning, one black eye. Pugilistic: from ca. 1870; ob.

full swing, in. Very or fully active or engaged; highly successful: coll. (— 1861). In the swing is C. 18–20; full swing is C. 16–18. See swing.

full to the bung. Exceedingly drunk: low coll.: from ca. 1850. Cf. bung-eyed.

full up. Quite full; full: coll.: C. 19–20. Whence perhaps:—2. (Constructed with of) sated; weary; disgusted: Australian and, later, New Zealand, from ca. 1890. Rolf Boldrewood in The Miner's Right. Variants full (if followed by of), full on (with object). Cf. fed up (with), q.v., the English counterpart.—3. Dead: taxi-drivers' (— 1935). Ex taxi-driving.

fullam. See fulham.

fuller's earth. Gin: ca. 1815–50. Real Life in London, 1821.—2. (Fuller's Earth.) New Zealand: theatrical and cinematic: from ca. 1912. Punning on the Fuller brothers, who, ca. 1910–30, owned a great number of N.Z. theatres and cinemas. (The Daily Telegraph, July 23, 1934.)

fullied, be. To be committed for trial: c.: from ca. 1855. H., 2nd ed. Ex fully committed.

fullies. Women's drawers that are very full: feminine coll.: from 1933. See quotation at neathie-set.

fulness enough in the sleeve-top, there's not. A derisive reply to a threat; it implies lack of muscle. Tailors': ca. 1870–1920.

fumble, v.t., i., and absolute. To caress a woman sexually: coll.: C. 16–20; ob. Dunbar, Shebeare, Goldsmith. (O.E.D.) fumble-fisted. Clumsy: nautical coll.: from ca. 1860. Smyth.

fumbler. An impotent man, gen. old; an unperforming or inadequate husband: mid-C. 17–19 coll. One of D'Urfey's titles is The Old Fumbler. Ex fumble, q.v.—2. The adj. fumbling, sexually impotent, C. 16–19, seems to have always been S.E.

fumbler's hall. 'The place where such [i.e. fumlbers] are to be put for their non-performance', B.E.: late C. 17–18: coll.—2. The female pudend: late C. 18–19. For free of fumbler's hall, see free of . . . Cf. the dial. fumbler's feast mentioned by Southey in 1818.

fumitory. Incorrect for fumatory: C. 16–20. O.E.D.

fun. The breech or the behind: late C. 17–early 19. B.E. Prob. abbr. fundament.—2. A cheat, a trick: late C. 17–early 19. B.E. Both senses were orig. c. ? ex funny: certainly funny business is cognate, while U.S. phoney business is from another radical.—3. Difficult work; exciting and/or dangerous events: military: from mid-1890's; in G.W., from early Somme days (July, 1916), gen. bitterly ironical. (O.E.D. Sup.)

fun, v.t. Cheat, trick, outwit; with (out) of, deprive illicitly, dishonestly of: late C. 17–early 19: orig. if not always c. Now dial., ob. B.E.; Grose.

fun, do or, gen., have a bit of. To obtain or to grant, or enjoy together, the sexual favour: low coll.: from ca. 1850.

fun, have been making. To be tipsy: coll.: from ca. 1860; ob.

fun, like. Very quickly; vigorously: coll.: from ca. 1815: see like.—2. Also ironically as a decided negative: from ca. 1870.

fun at, poke. To joke (ob.), ridicule, make a butt (of). Also absolute without at. Coll.: from ca. 1835. Barham, 'Poking fun at us plain-dealing folks'.

fun (up)on, put the. To cheat, trick, outwit: late C. 17–early 19: low. B.E. Ex fun, n., 2.

[function was, in 1915–18, employed by Army officers 'in almost any intransitive senso of to make, do, act': loose S.E. verging on coll. B. & P.]

functor, functure. A bracket candlestick made of iron and used for a night-light in college chambers: Winchester College (— 1870). ? ex fulctura.

fundamental features. The posterior: cultured coll.: 1818, Moore: ob. Blackwood's Magazine, 1828, has it in the singular. Punning fundament: cf. fun, n., 1, and the jocular use of fundamentally.

funds. Finances; supply of (esp. ready) money: coll.: 1728 (S.O.D.): in C. 18 and C. 20, S.E.; in C. 19, coll. Esp. be in funds, to have (temporarily) plenty of money. Thackeray.

funeral, it's his, my, your, etc.; or negatively. It's his (not his, etc.) business, affair, concern, duty: orig., negative only and U.S. (1854), anglicised, mainly in the affirmative form, ca. 1880.

fungus. An old man (cf. S.E. fossil and † S.E. funge): ? coll.: ca. 1820–90.

funk. Tobacco smoke; tobacco; a strong stink: resp. late and early C. 17–early 18 c. B.E.; Ned Ward, 1703 (2nd nuance).—2. (A state of) fear, great nervousness, cowardice: orig. at Oxford, 1743, in to be in a funk. Often preceded by cursed (Grose), mortal, awful, blue (q.v.), or, in C. 19–20, bloody.—3. Among schoolboys, a coward: from ca. 1860. Anstey in Vice Versa, 1882. The second and third senses derive ex the first (itself prob. ex Flemish fonck), as appears from:

funk, v. 'To smoke; figuratively, to smoke or stink through fear', Grose, 1st ed. The stink sense occurs in 1708; that of smoking a pipe, five years earlier, and that of blowing smoke upon a person, four years earlier still. As to fear, the v.i. is recorded for 1737, the v.t., fear, be afraid of, not until a century later, and that of shirk, fight shy of, not until 1857, while the † sense, terrify, occurs in 1819 (e.g. in Mayhew, 1858).—3. With sense 1, connect 'to smoke out', at least as early as 1720: D'Urfey, Moncrieff; with sense 2 (v.i.), cf. schoolboys' v.i. funk, unfairly to move the hand forward in playing marbles: from ca. 1810; ob.: cf. fudge, v., 4. (O.E.D. and S.O.D.) Perhaps n. and v. are ultimately derivable ex L. fumus, smoke, fumigare, to fumigate or smoke.

funk-hole. Any place of refuge, esp. a dug-out: military: 1900 (O.E.D. Sup.).—2. Hence, a safe job: id.: 1915. F. & Gibbons.

funk(-)stick. A person cowardly or very timorous: C. 20. A. E. W. Mason, The Dean's Elbow, 1930. Ex funksticks, q.v.

funk the cobbler. To smoke out a schoolmate (gen. with asafœtida): from late C. 17; ob. by 1830, † by 1895. Ned Ward. See funk, v.

funk 'um. A bag of lavender carried by a beggar more as pretence than as merchandise: c.: C. 20. (Michael Harrison, Spring in Tartarus, 1935.) Ex funk, v., 1; 'um = 'em, them.—2. Hence, any perfume as merchandis: grafters': from ca. 1910. Philip Allingham, Cheappack, 1934.

funker. A pipe, cigar, fire: ca. 1800–70. Ex funk, n. and v.—2. A coward: from ca. 1860.—3. Among harlots, 'a girl that shirks her trade in bad weather', F. & H.: from ca. 1865.—4. In the underworld, a low thief (— 1848); ob. Duncombe.

funking-room. That room at the Royal College of Surgeons in which, on the last evening of their final examination during the adding of their marks, the students collect to hear the results: medical (— 1841): ? †.

funkster. A coward: Winchester College: from ca. 1860. Cf. funker, 2.

funksticks. One who fears the fences (sticks): hunting: 1889. (O.E.D.)—2. Hence, in South Africa, any coward: 1897, Baden Powell. (Pettman.) funkum. See funk 'um.

funky. Afraid; timid; very nervous: coll.: from ca. 1837. Reade, 'The remaining Barking-tonians were less funky, and made some fair scores.' Cf. windy, (have the) wind up.

Funky Villas. Fonquevillers, near Hébuterne (in France): military: G.W. (F. & Gibbons.)

funnel. The throat: coll.: C. 18–20, ob. Cf. gutter lane.

funniment. A joke, verbal or physical: from ca. 1845 (ob): coll. Suggested by merriment and prob. coined by Albert Smith.—2. The female pudend: low: mid-C. 19–20, ob.

funnily, funniness, ex funny, adj., q.v., in the corresponding senses: C. 19–20.

funny. A narrow, clinker-built boat for sculls; a racing-skiff: Cambridge and nautical s. > j.: from ca. 1799. Barham; The Field, Jan. 28, 1882.

funny, adj. Strange, odd, queer: coll.: from early C. 19.—2. Hence, in late C. 19–20 coll.: dishonest.—3. Intoxicated: mid-C. 18–20; in late C. 19–20, only as a euphemism. Toldervy, 1756 (O.E.D.); Slang, p. 23.

funny, feel. To feel ill: from ca. 1895.—2. To be overtaken with drink or with emotion (e.g. of amorousness): the former (†), from ca. 1800; the latter from ca. 1850.

funny bit. The pudendum muliebre: low: C. 19–20.

funny bone. The extremity—at the elbow—of the humerus, the 'funniness' being caused by the ulnar nerve: coll.: from ca. 1840. Barham. Presumably by a pun on humerus, but greatly influenced by funny feeling, i.e. sensitiveness.

funny business. A shady transaction, dubious dealing; monkeying about: s. >, ca. 1930, coll.: from ca. 1890. Ex a clown's funny business. Cf. the U.S. phony business and fun, v., and n., 2.

funny for words, too. Extremely funny: coll.: late C. 19–20. Prob. suggested by too funny for anything, which was orig. (the late 1860's) U.S. (Thornton).

funny man. A circus clown: from ca. 1850. Mayhew, London Labour, III, 129.—2. A private joker: from ca. 1860. Both coll.

funny party. 'A warship's minstrel troupe or entertainers of any kind': naval coll.: late C. 19–20. Bowen.

funster. A maker of fun: coll.: 1887: ob. Modelled on and suggested by punster. (O.E.D.)

fur. The (gen. female) pubic hair: low: C. 18–20.

fur, adj. and adv. Far: sol.: C. 19–20. Also fer.

fur and feather(s). Game: sportsmen: from ca. 1830; orig. s., then coll., then, in C. 20, j. or S.E.

fur fly, make the. See fly, make the fur.

fur out, have one's. To be very angry: Winchester College: from ca. 1870.

fur trade. Barristers: ca. 1830–80. 'Multiple' journalist Reynolds, 1839.

furbelow. The female pubic hair: a C. 17–early 19 pun: cf. fur.

furch. Manchon's spelling of furk!, q.v.—furfie, furfy. See furphy.

[furioso, a blusterer, though cited by F. & H., is not unconventional but literary.]

furious joy. The feu-de-joie of military j.: military: late C. 19–20. F. & Gibbons. By 'Hobson-Jobson'.

furk; also ferk, fir. To expel, drive away; send on a message: Winchester College: from ca. 1850. Variants furk down, f. up. (Also see Eton slang, § 1.)

furk!; furking. Euphemistic variants (— 1923) of fuck (it)! and fucking. Manchon.

furman. An alderman: c.: late C. 17–early 19. B.E. Ex the fur-lined robes. Cf. lambskin-man, q.v.

furmity-faced. White-faced: coll. and dial.: C. 18–19. Furmity, also fromenty or frum(m)cty, is a dish of hulled wheat (L. frumentum) boiled in milk and variously flavoured.

furmity kettle, simper like a. To smile; look merry: coll.: C. 18–early 19. In form frumety-kettle, however, it occurs in L'Estrange in 1668; and simper like a pot that's ready to run over is recorded by Apperson for 1631.

furnish. An embellishing or setting off: coll.: 1896; ob. (O.E.D.)

furnish, v.i. and t. To fill out; regain strength and (good) appearance: coll.: from ca. 1860. Rarely of persons, gen. of horses. Henry Kingsley in Ravenshoe. Orig. stable s.

furniture picture. A picture sold to fill a gap on somebody's wall; a picture painted solely as merchandise: artists' (— 1889); in C. 20, S.E. Barrère & Leland. Cf. pot-boiler, q.v.

furphy; incorrectly furphie, furfie or -y. A false report, an absurd story: Australian military: from early 1915. Ex Furphy, the contractor supplying rubbish-carts to the camps at Melbourne. C. J. Dennis, 1916; B. & P. Hence:

furphy king. A man, esp. a soldier, making a habit of circulating rumours: Australian military: 1915–18. F. & Gibbons. Ex preceding.

furrow, or Cupid's or the one-ended furrow. The pudendum muliebre: low coll.: C. 19–20 (ob.). Whence die or fail in the furrow, do a 'dry-bob', q.v., and fall in the furrow, to 'emit'.

furry tail. A non-unionist; a 'rat'—whence the synonym. Esp. a workman accepting less than 'Society', i.e. trade-union, wages: from ca. 1860; ob. Among printers, who, like tailors, have a large s. vocabulary. See Slang at 'Printers and Publishers' and 'Trades'.

furry thing. (Gen. pl.) A rabbit: North Sea fishermen's euphemistic coll.: C. 19–20. For these fishermen, the mere mention of a rabbit brings ill luck. Bowen.

further first, I'll see you. I certainly won't! Coll. (— 1851). In C. 20, the first is omitted. Mayhew, London Labour and the London Poor, I, 29.

Fury, the. The warship Furious: naval (— 1909); ob. Ware. Cf. Dead Loss.

fury, like. 'Like mad', furiously, very hard or vigorously: coll.: from ca. 1840.

furze-bush. The female pubic hair, viewed as an entity. Occ. furze, which, however, stresses the hair as hair rather than as a mass. C. 19–20 low.

fusby. A woman: contemptuously pejorative: coll.: ca. 1719–1880. D'Urfey; Punch, Nov. 29, 1845. (O.E.D.) ? ex fusby influenced by fussock: qq.v.

fuschia. A very frequent error for fuchsia. Cf. camelia for camellia.

fuss. See squeeze, n., 6.

fuss-box. A post-1910, mostly upper-class variant of the next. O.E.D. (Sup.).

fuss pot, fuss-pot. A very fussy person: coll. (not the upper classes): from ca. 1890.

fussock, fussocks; a mere fussocks. 'A Lazy Fat-Ars'd Wench', B.E., who proceeds: 'A Fat Fussocks, a Flusom [? fulsome], Fat, Strapping Woman'. Grose (1st ed.) has 'an old fussock; a frowzy old woman'. Coll. and dial.: late C. 17-19; † except as dial. Connected with (to) fossick, q.v., and:

fussock. To make much fuss, a noise: low, mostly Cockney (— 1923). Manchon. Imm. ex:

fussockin, fussickin. A fuss: Cockney (— 1887). Baumann.—2. Hence, fussy: low, esp. Cockney (— 1923). Manchon.

fussocks, a mere. See fussock.

fussy. (Of a garment) very, or too, elegant: from before 1923. Manchon. Ex S.E. fussy about (clothes).

fussy man, the. A school-attendance officer: urban: from ca. 1925.

fust. First: sol., esp. in Cockney: C. 19-20. Cf. bust for burst (W.).

fustian, n. and adj., bombast(ic), has never, I think, despite F. & H., been other than S.E.—2. Wine; but gen. with white = champagne, red = port, the latter occurring in Ainsworth, 1834. Low: late C. 18-19.

fustilarian. A low fellow, scoundrel: coll.: late C. 16-17. Shakespeare. ? fusty (see also next entry) + suffix -arian as a variation on the later-recorded:

fustilug(s), (Grose) fusty luggs. 'A Fulsom, Beastly, Nasty Woman', B.E. Coll.: late C. 17-19. Junius. Common in C. 18-19 dial. as a big coarse person, a dirty slattern, a very untidy child. Cf. preceding entry. Lit., dirty ears or dirty thing.

fut, go. See phut, go.

[futter, coined by Sir Richard Burton, is, despite F. & H., S.E.—indeed literary—rather than unconventional. Ex Fr. foutre, it = to coit with.]

futures, gen. with deal in: to speculate for a rise or a fall, esp. in cotton: Stock Exchange coll.: from ca. 1880. In C. 20, S.E. Baumann.

fuzz. Abbr. fuzz-ball, q.v.: coll.: C. 17-early 18. In Holland's Pliny.

fuzz. To make drunk, esp. in p.ppl. passive, which = tipsy. Wood, 1685, 'The university troop dined with the Earl of Abingdon and came back well fuzzed.' Coll.: C. 17-18. Whence perhaps to fuddle, q.v. Its own etymology is uncertain: perhaps abbr. S.E. fuzzle, to intoxicate.—2. To shuffle cards meticulously: change the pack: mid-C. 18-early 19. E. Moore in The World, 1753; Grose, 2nd ed. Prob. ex sense 1. (O.E.D.) fuzz-ball. A puff-ball (the fungus lycoperdon bovista): coll.: late C. 16-20. (S.O.D.) Of such long usage as to be, C. 19-20, virtually S.E.

fuzz-chats. People camping on commons in the furze; esp. Gypsies, showmen, cheapjacks: c. (— 1909). Ware.

fuzziness. A drunken condition; hence incoherence, bewilderment; a temporary dense stupidity: coll.: from ca. 1800; ob. The C. 20 prefers muzziness.—2. An intentional blurring: artists' and, later, photographers' s. (— 1866): in C. 20 j.

fuzzy. Abbr. Fuzzy-Wuzzy, q.v.: military: late C. 19-20. Kipling. (O.E.D. Sup.)

fuzzy. Tipsy: coll.: from ca. 1770.—2. Hence, incoherent, temporarily 'dense', bewildered: coll.: late C. 18-20; ob.—3. Rough, e.g. 'a fuzzy cloth'; big, vigorous, e.g. 'a fuzzy wench'; and esp. fluffy (1825): of these three nuances, the first is coll., the second s., the third orig. coll. but soon S.E.—4. Prob. ex sense 1 is the nautical sense: rotten, unsound (of a ship): from ca. 1860. Smyth.

Fuzzy-Wuzzy. A Soudanese tribesman, esp. as a dervish soldier: commemorated by Kipling in 1890 (reprinted in Barrack-Room Ballads, 1892), as 'a pore benighted 'eathen but a first-class fighting man'. Military: late C. 19-20, ob. Ex his 'ayrick 'ead of 'air'.

-fy is sometimes a jocularly coll. or, as in argufy, a sol. suffix: C. 19-20. But most such coinings have remained nonce-words.

fy out. To spy out: (low) Cockney (— 1887). Baumann. Ex spy.

fye-buck (see also buck). A sixpence: in late C. 18, c.; in C. 19, low; † by 1885; already ob. in 1859. G. Parker's View of Society, 1781.

fylch(e). See filch.—fyst(e). See foist.

G

G.G. George Grossmith: journalists' nickname. Dawson. Cf. Society Clown, q.v.

G.H.! Queen Anne's dead!: an abbr. of George Horne, q.v.

g.m. A.m.; only of the 'small' hours, e.g. '2 g.m.', 'some time g.m.': jocular (— 1923). Manchon. Perhaps ex 'good morning'.

G.P.; the Street. Great Portland Street, London; esp., the car-mart there: motor-trade s., now verging on coll.: from ca. 1928. R. Blaker, Night-Shift, 1934, 'Great Portland Street—"The Street" one and only and unmistakable; "G.P."—the street of perdition.'

G.S. hairy. See hairy, n.

g.v. or G.V., the. The 'governor' (q.v.): somewhat jocular (— 1923). Manchon. Ex gov.

g.y. Abbr. galley-yarn, q.v.

ga-ga. See gaga.

gab. The mouth: low coll.: from ca. 1720, orig. Scottish. (Gob, q.v., is 'earlier'.—Hence, 2, talk; idle chatter: coll.: from ca. 1790. Poole, 1811, 'Then hold your gab, and hear what I've to tell'; Punch, Sept. 10, 1887, 'Gladstone's gab about "masses and classes" is all tommy rot.' Ex gob, q.v., or rather ex:

gab, v. To talk fluently, very well; too much: from ca. 1670: (in C. 19-20, low) coll. Coles, 1676; Burns, 'gab like Boswell'; Punch, Sept. 10, 1887, 'Gals do like a chap as can gab.' Perhaps abbr. gabble and prob. distinct from S.E. gab, to tell lies, speak mockingly, though Coles's definition ('to prate or lie') hardly supports such distinction.

gab, blow the. To inform, 'peach': low coll.: late C. 18-mid-19; ca. 1810, blow the gaff > more gen. (See gaff.) Grose, 1st ed.; Ainsworth in Rookwood.

gab, flash the, occ. one's. To show off in conversation: low (— 1819); ob. Moore.

gab, gift of the. 'A facility of speech, nimble-tongued eloquence', Grose, 1st ed.: low coll.: from ca. 1780. Shelley in Œdipus Tyrannus. Earlier (? ca. 1640), gift of the gob, as in B.E.: the form prevalent until ca. 1780.

gab, stop your. Be quiet! A C. 19–20 low coll. variant of Scottish steek (shut up) your gob.

gab-string. (Variant gob-string.) A bridle: C. 18–early 19 low. Grose, 1st ed.

gabbler. A prater, ceaseless talker: coll.: from ca. 1790. (O.E.D.)

gabbey. See gaby.

gabble. A gossip: coll.: C. 19.—2. A voluble talker: coll.: C. 19–20.—3. Rapid, continuous talk: from ca. 1600: C. 17–18 S.E. > pejorative coll.

gabble, to. Talk rapidly, volubly, inconsequently: late C. 16–20; S.E. till ca. 1820, then a decidedly pejorative coll. The same applies to gabbling, vbl.n.

gabble-gabble. A contemptuous variation on gabble, n. and v., qq.v.

gabble-grinder. A gossiping or voluble talker: coll.: C. 19–20; ob.

gabbling. See gabble, v. gabey. See gaby.

gable, gable-end. The head: orig. builders' s.: from ca. 1870. Ob. Strangely, the Old High German radical proposed by W. means a head.

gabster. An empty or an eloquent talker: coll.: C. 19–20; ob. Cf. gab, n. and v.

gaby, or gabey; occ. gabb(e)y. A fool, dolt; boor: coll. (— 1791). Grose, 3rd ed.; H. Kingsley, 'Don't stand laughing there like a great gaby.' ? ex gape (cf. gape-seed) influenced by baby; it occurs in Lancashire dial. in 1740 (E.D.D.). Gaby is not to be connected with the Scottish adj. gabby, garrulous.

gad. An idle or trapesing slattern: low coll. (— 1850). H., 1st ed. Abbr. gadabout.—2. A shirt: tramps' c. (— 1923). Manchon. Ex Roman.

gad! Coll. abbr. of coll. by gad (C. 17–20): C. 19–20; ob. Cf. egad, bedad; gads me, gads my life. Ex God.

gad, (up)on the. Impulsively; suddenly: coll.: C. 17–18. Shakespeare. Here, gad = a spike: cf. on the spur of the moment.—2. Hence, on the move; constantly making visits, gossip: coll.: from ca. 1815. Jane Austen.—3. On the spree: low: from ca. 1830.—4. Hence, from ca. 1850, (of women) on the town.

gad the hoof. To go without shoes; hence to walk, roam about: low: from ca. 1845. Cf. pad the hoof, hoof it, qq.v.

gad up and down. To go a-gossiping: late C. 17–18 coll. B.E.

gad yang. 'A Chinese coasting junk': nautical: late C. 19–20. Bowen. Prob. gad because they gad about, and yang ex the Yangtse-kiang or as a typical Chinese name.

gadabout. A gossip moving from neighbour to neighbour; a housewife too frequently talking to or visiting others; a woman constantly out shopping, visiting, and otherwise enjoying herself: cf. the C. 18 proverb, 'gadding gossips shall dine on the pot-lid'. Coll.: from ca. 1837. Also adj.: coll., 1817 (O.E.D.). In C. 20, both n. and adj. are S.E.

gadget; occ. gadjet. A small mechanical contrivance, a tool, a part of a mechanism: nautical coll.: from ca. 1855, though not in print before 1836 (O.E.D. Sup.). Prob. ex Fr. gâchette, a piece of mechanism (W.); cf. however, S.E. gasket.—2. Hence, an adjunct; a knick-knack: coll.: from ca. 1914. The O.E.D. (Sup.) records it for 1915.—3. Hence, loosely, any small object: from ca. 1918.—4. the gadget, 'the trick', the right thing to do: military: 1917. Manchon. Prob. ex sense 1.

gadsbud! I.e. God's bud! (the infant Saviour): coll.: late C. 17–18. Congreve. (Ware.)

gadso. The penis: late C. 17–mid-19: low coll. Variant catso. Ex It. cazzo.—2. As an interjection: late C. 17–mid-19. Dickens, "Gadso!" said the undertaker'. An interesting example of the (politely ob.) phallicism of many oaths and other expletives: cf. and see balls, bugger, cunting, fuck, prick, twat.

gadzooks. A mild expletive: either ex gadso or a corruption of God's hooks (? hocks, houghs, W.): coll.: late C. 17–20; but since ca. 1870, only as deliberate jocularly or in 'period pieces'. There are many other gad(s) variations, but these need not be listed.

Gaëlically utter. The Scottish accent 'when trying to produce English': Society coll.: ca. 1882–1910. Ware. Suggested by too too, q.v.

gaff. A fair: c. of ca. 1750–1845. The Discoveries of John Poulter, 1753. (Then grafters' s.: Philip Allingham, Cheapjack, 1934.) Also c., at least orig., are the senses:—2. A ring worn by the card-sharper dealer of the pack: early C. 19: ex gaff, a hook.—And 3, a hoax, imposture; stuff and nonsense (— 1877): cf. Fr. gaffe, a social blunder.—4. An outcry; cry, 'bellow': low: ca. 1820–50, C. M. Westmacott. (O.E.D.)—5. Any public place of entertainment: ca. 1810–50: low (or c.).—Hence, 6, a low and cheap music-hall or theatre: low coll.: from ca. 1850. Mayhew. Also and often penny-gaff, 1856. Prob. ultimately ex sense 1.—7. Hence, talk, conversation: lower classes' (— 1923). Manchon.—8. Hence, the mouth: low (— 1923). Ibid. Cf. gab, 1.—9. In the G.W., it was occ. applied to 'any showy minor event [e.g. a trench raid] or affair': military. F. & Gibbons. Prob. ex sense 6. Cf. the corresponding sense of show.—10. A house that is being 'drummed' (see drum, v., 2): c.: C. 20. David Hume. Cf.:—11. The place or scene of the crime concerned: c.: C. 20. James Curtis, The Gilt Kid, 1936.—12. (Prob. ex senses 1–10.) An affair; a criminal enterprise: c.: from ca. 1920. Ibid.

gaff, v.i. To toss for liquor: c. >, ca. 1820, low s.: ca. 1810–80. Vaux. Cf. gaffing.—Also, 2, to gamble: same period.—3. To play in a 'gaff' (see n., 6): from ca. 1860; ob.

gaff, blow the. To inform; divulge a secret: low (perhaps orig. c.): from ca. 1810. (Earlier blow the gab, see gab. See also blow.) Vaux; Marryat.

gaff-topsail hat. A silk 'topper': nautical: late C. 19–20. Bowen.

gaffer. A husband: C. 18 coll. or dial.—2. An old man, esp. if a rustic (cf. gammer, q.v.), esp. as a term of address: coll. and dial.: late C. 16–20. Gay, Tennyson. Both these senses and the next six are ex granfer = grandfather.—3. Simply as term of address = 'my good fellow': coll.: late C. 16–20; slightly ob.—4. A master or employer: from ca. 1650; in C. 20, dial. Dyche, 1748, 'A familiar word mostly used in the country for master'.—5. Hence, a foreman: navvies': from ca. 1840.—6. 'Mine host' at an inn: low or c. (—1887). Baumann.—7. Among athletes, a trainer (—1888); ob.—8. The steward of a race-course: the turf: late C. 19–20.—9. A player at toss-penny: ca. 1828–80. 'Jon Bee.' Ex gaff, v., 1 or 2. (O.E.D.)—10. 'A market-master or fair-ground superintendent': grafters: from ca. 1880. Philip Allingham, Cheapjack, 1934. Cf. gaff, n., 1.

gaffer, v. To have sexual intercourse: C. 19. ? ex the v. implied in chauvering (sexual intercourse), q.v.: app. a corruption thereof.

gaffing. A way of tossing three coins in a hat to say who is to pay for drinks; only he who calls correctly for all three is exempt from payment: low (? orig. c.): ca. 1828–80. Pierce Egan.—2. Hence, toss-penny; tossing of counters: low coll. (—1859). H., 1st ed.

gag. Something placed in the mouth to silence or prevent the subject's cries: mid-C. 16–20. Perhaps always S.E., but ca. 1660–1800 it may have been c., then low; witness B.E. (at to gag) and Grose.—2. Boiled fat beef; more precisely, the fatty part of boiled beef: Christ's Hospital (—1813); but see also section on Eton slang, § 3. Lamb. ? Etymology. Cf. gag-eater.—3. A joke; invention; hoax; imposition; humbug; false rumour: from ca. 1805; low s. >, ca. 1880, coll.: ob. Bee; The Daily News, May 16, 1885. Ex sense 1.—4. Whence, interpolated words, esp. jokes or c.p. comments: theatrical (—1847). Pall Mall Gazette, March 5, 1890, 'Mr. Augustus Harris pointed out that . . . actors and singers were continually introducing gag into their business.' In this quotation and often elsewhere, gag is collective, i.e. gagging, 3. Cf. wheeze. Ex preceding sense, itself perhaps ex sense 1.—5. A criticism in Latin; an analysis of some historical work: Winchester College: from ca. 1850. Mansfield. Ex gathering, an alternative name for this exercise.—6. A lie: c.: ca. 1860–1920. H., 3rd ed. ? ex theatrical gag.—7. An excuse; a 'dodge': C. 20, mainly military. Often heard in the Army in 1914–18. Ex the 'lie' and the theatrical sense.

gag, v. 'To put Iron-pins into the Mouths of the Robbed, to hinder them Crying out', B.E.; in late C. 17–early 18, app. c.; in C. 19–20, S.E. Ex the victim's gurgle (W.).—2. Hence, to hoax, v.t. and i.: low s. or coll. (? orig. c.): from ca. 1777; † by 1880. Parker, Bee.—3. Take a rise out of (—1864): low coll.; ob. H., 3rd ed.—4. To puff: low (—1876). Hindley in his Cheap Jack.—5. Make up words; speak 'gags' (see n., 4), v.i.: theatrical, perhaps orig. low Cockney (see London Labour, III, 149): ? first in 1852 in Dickens's Bleak House, 'The same vocalist gags in the regular business like a man inspired.'—6. As v.t., to fill up or enliven with a gag: 1861. (O.E.D.)—7. To lay information (v.t. with on): c. (—1891) O.E.D.—8. V.t., to beg: tramps' c.: C. 20. W. A. Gape, Half a Million Tramps, 1936. Cf. gag, n., 7.

gag, on the high, adj. and adv. Telling secrets; 'on the whisper': c.: ca. 1820–80. Kent, Duncombe. Cf. to gag, last sense.

gag, on the low. In extreme destitution; in lowest beggary; with appalling bad luck; in utter despair: c.: ca. 1820–80. Cf. preceding entry.

gag, strike the. To desist from joking or chaffing: low (? c.): ca. 1830–70. Ainsworth in Jack Sheppard. See gag, n., 3.

gag-eater. A Christ's Hospital term of reproach: from ca. 1800; ex gag, n., 2, perhaps by way of gag, v., 1. (See also 'Eton slang', § 3.) gag-master. See gagger, 3.

gag-piece. (Theatrical) a play in which 'gags' are, or can effectively be, freely used (—1864). H., 3rd ed.

gaga; incorrectly ga-ga. Evincing senile decay; stupidly dull, fatuous; 'soft', 'dotty': 1921, Maurice Baring (O.E.D. Sup.). Adopted ex Fr. s., which may, seeing that it was orig. artists', derive ex Gauguin; more prob., however, echoic of idiotic laughter. Esp. go gaga.—2. In The Silver Spoon, Galsworthy uses it (1926) for 'strait-laced'.

gag. A quart pot: c.: mid-C. 15–19. Promptorium Parvulorum (O.E.D.), Harman, B.E., Haggart. In C. 18, occ. a pint (pot): Grose. In C. 19 c., occ. a drink. Ex the measure.—2. A pipe (for smoking): mid-C. 17–early 19 c. Coles; B.E., Grose, Ainsworth.—3. A chamber-pot: C. 18 coll. Variant spelling, gauge.—4. A small quantity of anything: low coll. (—1864). H., 3rd ed. Ex senses 1, 2.—5. A greengage plum: lower classes' coll. (—1923). Manchon.

gager. An early form of gorger. C. Hitchin, The Regulator, 1718.

gagger. In late C. 18–mid-19 c., one of those 'cheats who by sham pretences, and wonderful stories of their sufferings, impose on the credulity of well-meaning people', Grose, 2nd ed. Ex gag, v., 2. Cf. rum gagger. Called high and low gaggers: also cf. gag, on the high or low.—2. Hence, a tramp, esp. one that begs: tramps' c.: mid-C. 19–20.—3. An actor or music-hall 'artist'; from late 1840's, esp. one that often employs 'gags' (gag, n., 4): theatrical (—1823). Egan's Grose; The Fortnightly Review, April, 1887, 'Robson . . . was an inveterate gagger.' Variants: gaggist (rarely), gag-master (occ.), and gagster (fairly often).—4. The under-lip: Perthshire c.: C. 19–20; ob. (E.D.D.) Also gegger. Prob. ex † S.E. gag, v.i., to project.

gagger, v. To tell the pitiful tale: tramps' c. (—1932). F. Jennings, Tramping with Tramps. Ex gagger, 2.

gaggery. A hoaxing kind of wit: ca. 1819–50: coll. Cf. gag, v., 1. O.E.D.—2. The practice of employing 'gags' (n., 4): theatrical: from ca. 1860. Cf.:

gagging. The persuading a stranger that he is an old acquaintance and then 'borrowing' money from him: ca. 1825–80: c.—2. Loitering about for fares: cabmen's: ca. 1850–1910. Mayhew.—3. The frequent employment of 'gags' (n., 4): theatrical (—1883). Also as ppl. adj.—4. (Cf. senses 1, 2.) Begging (n.): tramps' c.: C. 20. W. A. Gape: see gag, v., 8.

gagging lark. Unconcealed begging in the streets: c.: C. 20. James Curtis, The Gilt Kid, 1936. A tip silences the beggar's cries.

gaggist. See gagger, 3.

gagglers' coach. A hurdle: c. of ca. 1820–60. Duncombe. Ex gagglers, a goose. Or is this Kent's mistake, copied by Duncombe, for gaoler's coach (q.v.), also = a hurdle?

gagster. See gagger, 3.

Gaiety girl. (Gen. pl.) One of the 'dashing singing and dancing comedians in variety pieces—from their first gaining attention at the Gaiety Theatre': theatrical coll.: from ca. 1890; ob. Ware. Cf.:

Gaiety step. 'A quick, high dancing pas, made popular at the Gaiety Theatre': theatrical coll.: ca. 1888-92. Ware.

gail. A horse: either low or o.: early C. 19. ? connected with Romany grei.

gain-pain, the sword of a hired soldier, is, in English, a ghost word. S.O.D.] gainst, 'gainst. Except in poetry, a late C. 16-20 coll.

gajo. An outsider: Parlyaree (-1933). E. Seago. Ex Romany gaujo, a stranger.

gal. A girl: an upper-class coll.: from ca. 1840. Perhaps ex New England pronunciation (-1796).—

2. A servant-girl: lower-class coll.: from ca. 1850.—3. A sweetheart: low coll.: from ca. 1860. Cf. chap, fellow.—4. A harlot: low coll. (-1851); ob. Mayhew, 'Upon the most trivial offence . . . the gals are sure to be beaten . . . by their "chaps".'

gal-sneaker. 'A man devoted to seduction'; London lower classes': ca. 1870-1915. Ware.

galabieh, tighten one's. To tighten one's belt: Egyptian-service military coll.: from ca. 1920. The n. is direct ex Arabic.—2. Hence, from ca. 1925, to make the best of a bad job.

galaney. See galeny.

galanty (occ. gallanty or gal(l)antee) show. A shadow pantomime; occ. a magic-lantern show, but of silhouettes only: from ca. 1820. Ob. by 1900, † by 1930. This term, S.E. at origin and in C. 20, seems to have been coll. ca. 1850-90. ? ex It. galanti.

galany. See galeny.—galavant. See gallivant.

galbe. 'Profile of a violent character, and even applied to any eccentricity of shape above the knees': c. (-1909). Ware derives from Fr. Galbe, the Emperor Galba of 'pronounced profile and terrific nose': but is it not a sense-perversion of Standard Fr. galbe (from It. garbo), bodily contour?

gale of wind dose. Very little whiskey in much water: nautical: late C. 19-20. Bowen. Opp. second mate's nip.

galen, Galen. An apothecary: coll.: ca. 1870-1910. By way of Galen, jocularly a physician. Ex the great physician of the 2nd century A.D.

galeny, galeeny, galan(e)y. A guinea-fowl: coll. or dial.: late C. 18-20. Ex L. gallina. Temple Bar, March, 1887.—2. In late C. 18-early 19, a fowl of any kind: c.

galimauf(e)y, gallimauf(e)y. As a medley, a jumble, and as 'a hodgepodge made up of the remnants and scraps of the larder' (Grose), it is S.E. But as a mistress, it is a late C. 16-17 coll. Shakespeare in Merry Wives.—2. In 'love'-making s., the female pudend: C. 19. Ex Fr.

galivant. See gallivant.

gall. Effrontery; impudence: late C. 19-20 low; more gen. in U.S., where app. it arose, than in England; cf., however, gall is not yet broken, q.v.

gall, on the. On the raw, i.e. on a tender spot (lit. or fig.): coll., ? > S.E.: C. 14-17. Chaucer, Skelton, Sanderson.

gall is not yet broken, his. A mid-C. 18-early 19 c., esp. prison, saying of a man that appears dejected. Grose, 1st ed. Ironical on † gall(s), courage.

[gallant, n., v., and adj., and gallantry, in all senses given by F. & H., are S.E.]

Gallant Fiftieth, the. The 50th Foot Regiment, British Army: military, coll. rather than s.: from 1808, ex its gallant share in Vimiera; ob. Cf. Gallants, the.

gallantee (or gallanty) show. See galanty show.

Gallants, the. 'The 9th (Service) Battalion of the Royal West Surrey. A Great War nickname,' F. & Gibbons.

gallavant. See gallivant.

gallersgood. Worthy of the gallows: c.: C. 18-early 19. Ware. I.e. gallows-good.

gallery. A commoner bedroom: Winchester College: C. 19. Ex a tradition of galleries in Commoners. Cf. gallery-nymph.—2. A showing of oneself in a ridiculous light: Shrewsbury School: late C. 19-20. Desmond Coke, The Bending of a Twig, 1906. Cf. play to the gallery.—3. A playing to the gallery: Public Schools': C. 20. D. Coke, The School across the Road, 1910.

gallery, play the. To be, make an audience; to applaud: coll. (-1870); ob. Ex the theatre. The Echo, July 23, 1870, 'We were constantly called in to play the gallery to his witty remarks.' Cf.:

gallery, play to the. Orig. theatrical, then sporting, then gen.: to act so as to capture popular applause: from ca. 1870: coll. Hence gallery-hit, -play, -shot, -stroke, etc., one designed to please the uncritical and those who like showy display.

gallery-nymph. A housemaid: Winchester College: C. 19. Ex gallery, 1, q.v.

galley. A synonym († by 1925) of Bootham School senses of soap, n. and v. (Anon., Dict. of Bootham Slang, 1925.)

[galley, build a, on which Grose expatiates, is ineligible.]

galley down-haul. An imaginary fitting, for the further confusion of a youngster for the first time at sea: nautical coll.: mid-C. 19-20. Bowen. Cf. key of the starboard watch, q.v.

galley down your back! put a. Such-and-such a superior wishes to see you!: printers': from ca. 1870; ob. The galley—an oblong tray—would serve as a screen.

[galley-foist and g.-halfpenny, listed by F. & H., are S.E.: see the O.E.D.]

galley-growler or stoker. An idler; malingerer: naval: from ca. 1850. Smyth. The galley is, of course, the cook-house: cf. galley-yarn, q.v.

galley-news; g.-packet (Smyth). See galley-yarn.

galley-slang. 'A landsman's attempt at nautical jargon': nautical coll.: late C. 19-20. Bowen.

galley-slave. A compositor: printers': late C. 17-19. Moxon. Ex the oblong tray whereon the type is made up for page or column.

galley-stoker. See gally-growler.

galley-wireless. News of destination, etc.: nautical: from ca. 1925. Bowen remarks that it 'reaches the men from the officers by way of the stewards'. Contrast and cf.:

galley-yarn. A lying or hoaxing story; a swindle: nautical (-1874). H., 5th ed.; Henley & Stevenson in Admiral Guinea. Occ. abbr. to g.y. In this sense, ob. by 1910, † by 1930.—2. A rumour, esp. if baseless: late C. 19-20 nautical. As a lie, an empty rumour, galley-packet is a frequent synonym, dating from (-) 1867: prob. the earliest form. Galley-news is of ca. 1880-1900. Cf. *cook-house yarn, furphy, shave, sh*t-house rumour* or yarn. transport tale.

galleynipper. See gallinipper.

Gallicanism and Gallicism are, in C. 19-20, occ. confused. (O.E.D.)

gallied. 'Hurried, vexed, over-fatigued, perhaps like a galley-slave', Grose: C. 18-early 19 coll. More prob. ex dial. gally, to frighten.

galligaskins, S.E. in C. 16–17, is in C. 18–20 (ob.) a gen. jocular coll. for any loose breeches. Grose, 3rd ed. For the etymology of the S.E. word, see esp. W.

galimaufre(e)y. See galimaufrey.

gal(l)nipper, occ. gal(e)ynipper. A large mosquito: West Indians' (— 1847). Ex U.S. usage (1801). Perhaps one that has a 'gallows' nip or bite: see gallows, adj.

gallipot. An apothecary: late C. 18–20 (ob.) coll. Lit., a pot conveyed in a galley (vessel). Grose, 1st ed.; Michael Scott; Thackeray in his Book of Snobs. Cf. bolus.

gallipot baronet. An ennobled physician: Society coll.: ca. 1850–1910. Ware. See gallipot.

gallivant, etc. 'A nest of whores', Bee: London low: ca. 1820–40. 'Jon Bee', 1823. ? a perversion of galeny, 2, q.v.

gal(l)ivant, occ. gal(l)avant. To gad about with or after, 'do the agreeable' to, one of the other sex: coll.: 1823. Bee; Dickens. Perhaps ex the n. (q.v.); perhaps a perversion of gallant (W.).—2. Hence, to gad about, 'trapes'; occ. fuss or bustle about: coll.: from ca. 1825. Miss Braddon, 'His only daughter gallivanting at a theaytre'. A humorous variation of (to) gallant, as in Galt's 'The witches . . . gallanting over field and flood' (W.). The vbl.n. is common.

gallon distemper. Delirium tremens; the less serious after-effects of drinking: C. 19–20 (ob.) coll. or s. Cf. barrel-fever; hot-coppers.

galoot. See galoot.

galloper. A blood horse; a hunter: ca. 1810–60: low or c. Lex. Bal.—2. An aide-de-camp; an orderly officer: military: from ca. 1870; in C. 20, j.

Galloper Smith. Lord Birkenhead (the Mr. Smith of the day): ca. 1913–15. Collinson. Ex his quality as an Ulster leader.

galloping Lockhart. Gen. pl., 'the mobile Field Kitchens' (F. & Gibbons): military: 1914; ob.

gallore. See galore.

gallow-grass. Hemp: mid-C. 16–17: s. > coll. I.e. 'halters in the rough', F. & H. Cf. neck-weed.

gallows. (As = one who deserves hanging: S.E.)—2. Gen. in pl., a pair of braces: low coll.: 1730; then U.S. (1806); re-anglicised ca. 1830; in C. 19–20, mostly dial. Mayhew; E.D.D.

gallows, adj. Enormous; 'fine'; an intensive, cf. bloody: late C. 18–20, ob. except in dial. Parker, 1789, 'They pattered flash with gallows fun.' Whence:

gallows, adv. Very; extremely: from ca. 1820; ob. except in dial. Byron, 'Then your Blowing will wax gallows haughty!' Also gallus.

gallows, a child's best guide to the. See history of the four kings.

gallows-apples of, make. To hang: low (? c.): ca. 1825–80. Lytton. (O.E.D.)

gallows-bird. A corpse on, or from, the gallows: low coll. (— 1861); ob. Ex the S.E. sense, one that deserves to be hanged.

[gallows-faced or -looking, like g-clapper, -climber, -minded, -ripe, etc., is S.E.; the same applies to George Eliot's gallowsness.]

gallus. A frequent pronunciation and occ. spelling of gallows, adv. Cf. allus.

gally-pot. See gallipot baronet.

gally-swab. A cook's steward: Conway cadets: from ca. 1880. John Masefield, The Conway, 1933.

gallyslopes. Breeches: early C. 19 c. ? punning galligaskins.

galoot, occ. galoot, rarely ge(e)loot. A man, chap, fellow; gen. a pejorative, implying stupidity or boorishness or moral toughness: orig. (1866), U.S., anglicised ca. 1880. Developed from the, 2, nautical s. sense (— 1835; † by 1900), a young or inexperienced marine. Marryat in Jacob Faithful, 'Four greater galoots were never picked up.' Ex:—3. A soldier: low or c. (— 1812); † by 1890. Vaux. ? ex Dutch gelubi, a eunuch. (S.O.D.; W.) galoot, on the gay. On the spree: low, mostly Cockney (— 1892). 'Ballads' Milliken.

galoptious, galuptionous; goloptionous; or any with -shus. Delicious; delightful; splendid; a gen. superlative: low: from ca. 1855; ob. Judy, Sept. 21, 1887, 'The galopshus sum of 20,000,000 dollars'. A fanciful adj. of the catavampus, scrumptious type, perhaps via Norwich dial. (H., 1864). See goloptionous.

galore; occ. † gallore, gol(l)ore. In abundance: from ca. 1670: coll. till ca. 1890, then S.E.—though far from literary. In C. 19, also in galore. Prob ex Irish go leor, in sufficiency. Ned Ward, Grose, Reade.

galumph (incorrectly gallumph), like other humorous (esp. Lewis Carroll's) blends, looks coll but certainly isn't. Such blends, if adopted by the public, are, after the first few years, almost inevitably S.E. F. & H. records galumph as an Americanism: not a very shocking mistake, for the Americans adopted it warmly and used it frequently. (For blends, see Slang at the chapter on 'Oddities'.)

gam. Pluck; gameness: c. (— 1888).—2. With variant gamb, a leg, esp. if bow or otherwise ill-shapen; nearly always in pl.: from ca. 1780: c. G. Parker, 1781; Grose, 2nd ed. In low U.S. s., only of a girl's legs. It is also, as gamb, the heraldic term for a leg. Ex Northern Fr. gambe or else ex It. gamba, via Lingua Franca.—3. A hammock: training-ship Britannia: late C. 19. Bowen. Perhaps ex sense 2.—4. Abbr. gamaroosh: C. 20; mostly military.

gam, flutter a. To dance: C. 19 c.—But lift a gam = to break wind: c.; mid-C. 19–20. Henley.

Gam-better. To humbug, deceive: political: ca. 1879–82. Ex Gambetta (1832–82), that Fr. statesman of Italo-Hebraic origin whose popularity began to wane in 1879. Ware.

gam-case. A stocking: c.: late C. 18–mid-19. G. Parker, 1781. Ex gam, 2.

gam it. To walk; esp. to 'leg it', run away: C. 19 c.

gamaliel. A pedant: a cultured coll.: C. 19–20: † by 1921. Ex that Jewish doctor in the Acts who 'cared for none of these things'—things about which the multitude excited itself.

gamaroosh, -ruche, n. and, hence, v. (Of women.) (To practise) penilingism: late C. 19–20 low. Ex Fr. (? ex Arabic).

gambardier, or gambolier (or -eer). A member of the Royal Garrison Artillery: military, resp. coll. and s.: 1915. B. & P.; Mark Severn, The Gambardier, 1930.

gamb(e). See gam, 2.

gamble. Anything, esp. course or procedure, involving risk: coll.: from ca. 1820.—2. An act of gambling: coll.: from late 1870's. O.E.D.—3. Whence on the gamble, engaged on a course or spell of gambling: coll.: from ca. 1880.

gamble on that !, you can or may. Certainly ! Assuredly ! Coll.: from ca. 1870 in England; ex U.S. (1866, Artemus Ward).

gambler. A mid-C. 18–early 19 class of sharper: low or c. Whence mod. S.E. gambulous. Of, like to, gambling: Society coll.: coined by Joseph Chamberlain on April 29, 1885, in a speech made at a dinner given by the Eighty Club; ob. Ware. Ex gambling + hazardous.

gambol. A railway ticket: railwaymen's: ca. 1880–1914.

gambolcer or -ier. See gambardier.

game. (Collective for) harlots, esp. at a brothel: c.: late C. 17–early 19.—2. A simpleton, a dupe, a 'pigcon'; gen., however, a collective n.: c.: late C. 17–early 19. B.E., Grose.—3. The proceeds of a robbery: c. of ca. 1660–90.—4. A 'lark' or source of amusement: coll.: Dickens, 1838 (S.O.D.).—5. Preceded by the, game refers to some occupation and, except among thieves (where it is c.), is to be demarcated as coll.: among thieves it means thieving (1812, Vaux); among sailors, slave-trading (—1860); among C. 17–early 18 lovers of sport, cock-fighting; in amorous venery, coition (C. 17–20); among harlots, prostitution (C. 17–20).—6. As plan, trick or dodge (esp. in pl.), the term—despite F. & H.—is gen. considered to be S.E.: nevertheless, I consider that what is your (his, etc.) game or little game, mid-C. 19–20 ('Ducange Anglicus', 1857), is definitely coll.

game, v. To jeer at; pretend to expose; make a game of: c.: late C. 17–18. B.E. (N.b. make († a) game of is S.E.) game, adj. (Plucky: S.E.—Ready, willing: S.E.—Lame: S.E., says O.E.D.; coll., says W.: from ca. 1785.) In c., (of men) knowing, wide-awake; (of women) prone to venery, engaged in harlotry: C. 18–20. Cf. game-pullet, q.v.

[game, cock of the, a champion, like game, die, to die resolute, game, play the, to behave like a man and a gentleman, and (the, his, etc.) game is up, all is lost, are all metaphors from sport: and all, despite F. & H., are S.E., though die game may orig. have been coll.]

game!, it's a. It's absurd, or senseless!: military coll. c.p. of 1916–18. 'Applied to the war and to the military machine', B. & P.

game, on the. Thieving: c. (—1839); slightly ob. Brandon. Cf. game-cove, q.v.—2. Engaged in prostitution: harlots' c.: mid-C. 19–20. See game, n., 5.

game, stashed up the. See stash up.

game, the national indoor. Sexual intercourse: late C. 19–20: coll.

Game Chicken, the. A coll. nickname for a famous boxer of ca. 1820; i.e. Hen Pearce, champion of England. See esp. Bernard Darwin, John Gully and His Times, 1935.

game cove. An associate of thieves: C. 19 c. Ex game, n., 5.

game ever played, the first. Sexual congress: C. 19–20, coll. rather than euphemistic.

game publican. A publican dealing in stolen goods or winking at his customers' offences: C. 19: c. >, ca. 1830, low.

game pullet. 'A young whore, or forward girl in the way of becoming one', Grose, 1st ed.: late C. 18–19 low (? orig. c.). Cf. game woman.

game ship. A ship whose captain and officers are susceptible to bribes for overlooking thefts from the cargo: nautical: ca. 1830–90.

game woman. A harlot: C. 18–19: c. >, ca. 1830, low. Cf. Etherege's 'the game mistress of the town'. See game, n., 5.

[*game*ness, gam(e)y (plucky; malodorous), *game*ness (malodorousness), and gaming-house, all listed by F. & H. as coll., have always been S.E.]

gamester. A harlot: C. 17 coll.—2. In the sense of wench, C. 17, the term lies on the borderline of coll. and S.E.

gammer, as rustic title, C. 16–20 (ob.), is coll. > S.E.; as term of address, = 'my good woman', it is coll. Ex grandmother. Cf. gaffer.

gammocks. Pranks; wild play: s. (—1823) and (in late C. 19–20, nothing but) dial. 'Jon Bee.' Ex game.

gammon. Nonsense, humbug; a ridiculous story; deceitful talk; deceit: low, prob. orig. c. (—1805); in C. 20, low coll. Ex the late C. 18–19 c. sense, talk, chatter, gen. gammon and patter, q.v. (In C. 18–early 19, often spelt gamon.) Parker; Hood, 'Behold yon servitor of God and Mammon . . . Blends Gospel texts with trading gammon.' Perhaps ex C. 17 sense, a beggar or seller of gammons of bacon. (Cf. Fr. boniment(s)).—3. Wholly c.: one who engages the attention of a man to be robbed by a confederate: C. 19. Cf. cover.

gammon, v.i. To talk, esp. plausibly (—1789).—2. (V.i. and t.) To pretend: from ca. 1810.—3. Humbug or hoax; tell deceitful or extravagant stories to; deceive merrily or with lies or fibs; flatter shamelessly: from ca. 1810. Likewise in Vaux. All senses orig. low; from ca. 1850, low coll. Hume Nisbet, 1890, 'Oh, don't try to gammon me, you cunning young school-miss.' Cf. bam, cod, flam, kid, pull one's leg, sell, soft-soap, take in.—4. V.i., act as 'cover' to a thief: C. 19 (? C. 18) c. Ex n., 3. (S.O.D.).—5. To cheat (v.i.) at gaming: late C. 17–mid-18: c. B.E. Prob. the origin of senses 1–3 and of n., 1. Its own etymology is obscure: but cf. game, v., 1. gammon! Interjection = nonsense! bosh!: from ca. 1825; low s. >, by 1860, low coll. Michael Scott, 1836, 'Gammon, tell that to the marines.' Ex n., 1, or ex that's all gammon (Vaux, 1812).

gammon, give or keep in. To engage a person's attention—the former connotes by mere proximity, the latter by conversation—while another robs him: C. 18–19 c. Capt. Alex. Smith, 1720; Haggart, 1821. Cf. gammon, n., 3.

gam(m)on and patter. The language of the underworld, esp. of thieves: late C. 18–early 19 c. G. Parker, 1781.—2. The commonplace or familiar (hence almost jargonistic) talk of any trade or profession: late C. 18–20; ob. c. Grose, 2nd ed.—3. A meeting; a palaver: from ca. 1850: c. See gammon, n., and patter, n.

gammon and spinach. Nonsense; humbug; deceit: low coll.: from ca. 1845; ob. Dickens, 1849, 'What a world of gammon and spinnage it is.' An elaboration of gammon, n., 1, after gammon and patter.

gammon lushy; gammon queer. To feign tipsiness, illness: c.: C. 19. Vaux. See lushy.

gammon the twelve. To deceive the jury: c. (—1812); ob. Vaux, who shows that in fine twig, cleverly or thoroughly, was often added. See gammon, v., 3.

gammoner. One who talks nonsense or humbug; a specious or ulterior deceiver: from ca. 1830; slightly ob. Ex gammon, v., 1.—2. (Cf. gammon, n., 1.) One who covers the action of his thieving confederate: C. 19 c. Cf. cover.

gammoning. Vbl.n. and ppl. adj. corresponding to gammon, v., in all senses, though rarely in the last—gammoning which was † by 1900, while the other gammoning's are extant though slightly ob.

gammoning academy. A reformatory: c.: late C. 19–20. F. & H., revised ed. (at academy).

gammy. The language of the underworld: C. 19: c. ? ex gammon and patter.—2. A lame person (see gammy, adj., 4): late C. 19–20.—3. A fool: Australian: ca. 1890–1910. Hume Nisbet in The Bushranger's Sweetheart, 1892.

gammy, adj. False, spurious; forged: c. (—1839). Brandon. As in gammy stuff, spurious, i.e. worthless, medicine; gammy moniker, a forged signature; gammy lout (low(r)), counterfeit money. Perhaps ex gammy, n., 1.—2. Also c., but tramps': mean; hard (of householders); mid-C. 18–20. Bampfylde Moore-Carew. Opp bone. Hence gammy vil(l)e or vial, a town in which unlicensed hawking is enthusiastically discouraged by the police.—3. Old; ugly; theatrical: from ca. 1885; ob. ? ex next sense.—4. Halt and maimed: low coll.: from ca. 1870. Gammy leg, E.D.D., a lame leg; gammy arm, an arm injured permanently or temporarily; gammy-eyed, blind, or sore-eyed. Either a corruption of game = lame or ex gam, n., 2.—5. Hence, 'disabled through injury or pain': (low) coll.: from ca. 1890. O.E.D. (Sup.).

gamon. See gammon, n. and v.

gamp or Gamp. A monthly or sick nurse, esp. if disreputable; a midwife: coll. (—1864); ob.—Hence, 2, a fussy, gossiping busybody: coll. (—1868). Brewer, quoting The Daily Telegraph, 'Mr. Gathorne Hardy is to look after the Gamps and Harrises of the Strand.' Ex Mrs. Sarah Gamp in Dickens's Martin Chuzzlewit, 1843: as also in next two entries.—3. An umbrella, esp. a large one loosely tied: coll.: 1864. G. R. Sims.—4. The Standard: 'journalists' (—1873); †. Cf. Mrs. Harris (another Dickens character: cf. sense 2), The Herald.

gamp, adj.; gampish. Bulging, gen. of umbrellas: coll. (1881, 1864); ob.

Gamp, Mrs. A variant of gamp, n., 3: coll. (—1887). Baumann. Cf. gamp.

Gamp is my name and Gamp my natur' is itself a familiar quotation from Dickens, but if another (sur)name is substituted for that of Mrs. Gamp, it is a cultured c.p. of late C. 19–20. Collinson.

gampy. A low coll. variant (—1887) of gamp, n., 3; ob. Baumann.

gamut, in the. A picture, a detail, etc., in tone with its accompaniments or environment: artists': from ca. 1870; † by 1930.

gan. The mouth; occ. the throat: c.: mid-C. 16–early 19. Harman. ? ex Scottish gane. Cf. gans, q.v.

gan, v. Incorrect for can in † to can thanks. O.E.D. gander. A married man: C. 17–20 coll.; ob. Cf. gander-month.

Gander. A fop: London (mostly in Society): ca. 1815–40. Ware, 'It is a perversion of Gandin, the Parisian description of fop.' gander, v. Ramble; waddle (like a goose): coll. (—1859). H. Kingsley.

gander, what's sauce for the goose is sauce for the. Let us be consistent! Coll. (in C. 20, ? S.E.): from ca. 1660. Head, Swift, Byron. Apperson quotes Varro's idem Accio quod Titio jus esto. Cf. the proverbs 'As is the goose so is the gander,' C. 18, and 'Goose, gander, and gosling are three sounds, but one thing,' C. 17.

gander-faced. Silly-faced: proletarian (mostly Cockney) coll. (—1887); slightly ob. Baumann.

gander-month or -moon. The month after childbirth, when in C. 17–early 19 it was held excusable for the husband to err. Coll.; † except in dial. Dekker, 1636 (O.E.D.).

gander-mooner. A husband during the 'gander-month': C. 17–19. Middleton, 1617.

gander-party. A party of men: opp. hen-party and cf. stag-party. Occ. gander-gang. Coll.: C. 19–20, ob. Orig. (—1866), U.S.; anglicised ca. 1880.

gander's wool. Feathers: coll. of the cow-juice type: C. 17–20; ob. Breton.

gang. A troop; a company; an underworld band of men: C. 17–20. Only from ca. 1850 has it ceased to be low coll. B.E., e.g., defines: 'An ill Knot or Crew of Thieves, Pickpockets or Miscreants'. Even in C. 20, when used contemptuously of a political party or section, or of a social, commercial, artistic, or journalistic—informal, yet effective—association or group, it has a coll. tinge, as in, e.g., Denis Mackail, Greenery Street, 1925, "'Quite a party?" "Yes; quite a gang."' ganger. An overseer or foreman of a working gang: coll.: from ca. 1849. It > S.E. ca. 1880. Mayhew; The Cornhill Magazine, June, 1884.—2. A member of the press gang: nautical coll.: C. 19. Bowen.

gangway! Make way!: Conway cadets': from ca. 1860: c.p. >, by 1900, j. Cf.:

gangway (or gangway, make way) for a naval officer! A C. 20, esp. G.W., Army saying in reference to oneself or another desiring clear passage.

gannet. A greedy scaman: nautical: mid-C. 19–20. Bowen. Ex the bird.

gans. The lips: c.: late C. 17–18. B.E. Cf. the differentiation of mun, muns. The E.D.D. notes the Scandinavian dial. gan, a fish-gill.

gantline. Incorrect for girltline: nautical: 1882 (O.E.D.). Or for gaunllet: nautical (—1887). Baumann.

ganymede. (As a sodomist, late C. 16–19 literary.) A pot-boy; Hebe's 'opposite number': C. 17–20 (ob.) jocular and cultured coll. Ex Ganymede, cup-bearer to Zeus.

gaol-bird. One who has been often or long in gaol: from ca. 1680. Until ca. 1860, coll. Smollett, 1762, 'He is become a blackguard gaol-bird.'

gaoler's coach. A hurdle: 'traitors being usually conveyed from the gaol, to the place of execution, on a hurdle or sledge', Grose, 3rd ed.: c. > low; late C. 17–early 19. Possibly the orig. of gagler's coach, q.v. (In B.E. and Grose, 1st ed., as goaler's coach; but A New Canting Dict., 1725, has it correctly.)

gap. The female pudend: S.E. only if strictly medical and contextual: C. 18–20, low. Robertson of Struan, a 'φ' poet who d. in 1746.—2. Mouth, esp. in stop yer (your) gap!, be quiet: low: late C. 19–20. Slang, p. 243.

gap, blow the. To inform, 'peach': a ca. 1820–90 variant of blow the gaff.

gap-stopper. A whoremonger: mid-C. 18–19 low. Grose, 1st ed.—2. The virile member: C. 19–20 low. Cf.:

gape. The female pudend; gen. as g. over the garter: C. 19–20 low; ob. Cf. gaper.

gape-seed, gapedseed. A cause of astonishment; a marvellous event, extraordinary or unusual sight, etc.: coll.: late C. 16–20, ob. Esp. with seek or buy, a vbl. phrase is frequent. (Florio, 1598, has the rare gaping seed.) Nashe; B.E.; Grose, 1st ed., 'I am come abroad for a little gape-seed'; C. 19–20 dial., be fond of or gather or sow g., or have a little g. A folk-pun on gape.—2. One who stares with open mouth: from ca. 1880: coll.; ob.

gape-seed, be looking for. To be lazy and inattentive to one's work: C. 19 coll., C. 20 dial. (ob.).

gaper, or g. over the garter. The pudendum muliebre: C. 19–20 low; ob.—2. (gaper.) A very easy catch: cricketers': C. 20; slightly ob. P. G. Wodehouse, A Prefect's Uncle, 1903.

gaperies (or G.), the. Gay Paris: London: 1902–ca. 1912. Ware, 'The very last outcome of entertainments ending in "ies"'. Cf. Colinderies, Freakeries, etc. (Gay Paree.)

gapes, the. A bit of yawning; utter boredom: coll.: from ca. 1815. Jane Austen.

gapped, ppl. adj. Worsted; defeated: coll.: ca. 1750–1820. Ex S.E. sense, with the edges notched or cut about.

gaps with one bush, stop two. To accomplish two purposes at one time: C. 16–17; coll. till C. 17, then S.E. Cf. kill two birds with one stone.

gar in oaths (begar I, by gar I, gar I) is a corruption of God (cf. gad): late C. 16–20. (O.E.D.) Rather Anglo-French than purely English: cf., however, the U.S. pronunciation of God as Gard.

Gar and Starter, the. The Star and Garter Inn at Richmond: jocular Spoonerism (— 1874). H., 5th ed.

Garamity. See Goramity.

garbage. Clothes and personal effects: naval (— 1909); ob. Ware, 'Probably from the appearance of a box of clothes waiting the wash'—and perhaps suggested by dunnage.—2. 'The goodies gotten' in the 'lifting law' (criminal 'dodge'): c.: late C. 16–early 17. Greene, Second Conny-Catching, 1592.

Garbo, do a. See 'Moving-Picture Slang', § 10. Contrast Gaynor, q.v.

garboil is, mid-C. 16–mid-18, often used incorrectly for garble. O.E.D.

garden. The female pudend: C. 16–20. When a euphemism, S.E.; when used in jocular or amatory reference, without euphemistic intentions, it is cultured coll. (Occ., garden of Eden, indubitably a euphemism.)

Garden, the. Covent Garden Market: green-grocers', fruiterers', gardeners', orchardists': from ca. 1760: coll.—2. Covent Garden Theatre: theatrical coll. (— 1864). H., 3rd ed.—3. Hatton Garden: diamond-merchants' (— 1890): coll.—4. See Academy, the.

garden, v. See gardening.

garden or garden-path, lead up the. To blarney (a person), humbug, entice, mislead: from early 1920's. Ex gently suasive courtship.

garden, put (one) in the. To defraud (a confederate), esp. of (part of) his monetary share: c.: from ca. 1810; ob. Vaux (variants, . . . bucket, hole, well). Cf. regulars, q.v.

garden-gate. A magistrate: rhyming s. (— 1859). H., 1st ed.—2. The pudendi labia minora muliebris: low coll.—very rare as a euphemism: C. 19–20. Cf. garden-hedge.

Garden goddess. A harlot, not necessarily superior: C. 19. Cf. C. 18 Covent Garden abbess.

The Covent Garden district was harlot-ridden in C. 17–early 19. Cf.:

Garden-gout. Syphilis; gonorrhœa: C. 19 low. Cf. C. 18 Covent Garden ague.

garden-hedge. The female pubic hair: C. 19–20 low (ob.); rarely a euphemism.

Garden- or garden-house. A brothel: the garden- form is C. 17 coll. > literary; the Garden-, C. 18–early 19 low coll. See garden, 2, Garden goddess, and the various Covent Garden entries.

garden-hop. To betray (a confederate): c.: from ca. 1920. Edgar Wallace, The Missing Million. By rhyming s. on c. shop.

garden-Latin. Sham or extremely bad Latin: coll.: C. 19–20. Cf. apothecaries' and kitchen Latin; bog and dog Latin.

garden-party. Those prisoners who, suffering from phthisis, do their time in the open-air and sleep in special wards: c. (— 1932). T. B. G. Mackenzie in The Fortnightly Review, March, 1932.

garden-path. See garden, lead up the.

garden-rake. A tooth-comb: a low and jocular coll.: from ca. 1870.

garden steerage. Additional rest 'allowed to the bluejacket the morning after he has been busy on a night job': naval: late C. 19–20. Bowen.

garden-violet. See violet.

Garden whore. A harlot; a low harlot (cf. Garden goddess): C. 19 low.

gardener. The male member: cf. and ex garden: C. 19–20; ob.—2. An awkward coachman: coll. (— 1859); † by 1918. Ex the gardener's occ. relieving the coachman. Cabbies, wishing to annoy real coachmen, used to shout, 'Get on, gardener' (H., 1864). Cf. tea-kettle coachman or groom.

gardening. Patting the pitch, picking up loose bits of turf: cricketers' jocular coll. (— 1897). Lewis.

gards. 'Post guardship': nautical: C. 19. Bowen.

gardy-loo. Take care! Look out! A mid-C. 18–early 19 Scottish coll. Ex Fr. gardez [-vous de] l'eau or (via the supposed Fr. gare de l'eau) ex Fr. gare l'eau, i.e. the slops thrown into the street.—2. Hence, the act of so emptying the slops: same period and status.

gargle. A drink; drink: orig.—ca. 1859—medical for physic; gen. by 1889. Cf. lotion.

gargle, v.i. To drink; drink a lot, 'celebrate': orig.—? ca. 1880—medical; gen. by 1889. The Morning Advertiser, March 2, 1891, 'It's my birthday; let's gargle.'

gargle-factory. A public-house: from ca. 1870. Ex gargle, n., q.v.

garlic, smell. To smell something 'fishy', to have suspicions: Cockney (— 1887); slightly ob. Baumann.

Garman, or German likewise pron. Jarman, has been low coll. since ca. 1860.

garn! 'Get away with you!' Low coll.: from ca. 1875. Ex go on. Runciman, The Chequers, 1888; Ally Sloper, March 19, 1892. Cf. gorn, q.v.

Garnet, Sir. See Sir Garnet.

garnish, in late C. 17–19 occ. garnish money. A fee exacted by gaolers and 'old hands' from a new-comer to prison: late C. 16–19: s. until ca. 1790; then coll. >, by 1830, S.E. Greene, B.E. (Abolished by George IV.)—2. Among workmen, mid-C. 18–19. an 'entrance fee'—wholly informal:

s. > coll. > S.E. Goldsmith. Occ. maiden-garnish. Not quite † in Northern—mainly Yorkshire—dial.—3. In C. 18–19 c., fetters, handcuffs. But, as the O.E.D. points out, this may well be a ghost-word due to a misapprehension by Johnson, copied by F. & H. Cf.:

garnish*, v. To fit with fetters; handcuff: o. (— 1755); † by 1900. Ex garnish, n., 1. But see garnish, n., last sense.

garraze. See garridge.—garotte. See garrotte. garret. The head: from ca. 1785. Grose (2nd ed.), who also gives upper storey, q.v. Cf. also cock-loft.—2. Hence the mouth: low: C. 19. Ware.—3. The fob-pocket: c.: ca. 1810–70. Vaux, 1812: H., 1859.—4. 'A consultation of the members of a shop in relation to some trade or social difficulty': hatters': C. 19–20; ob. Ware. Cf. a printers' chapel.

garret, queer or wrong in one's. Crazy: s. when not dial. (— 1869). O.E.D. Ex garret, 1.

garret-election. A ludicrous, low popular ceremony practised at Wandsworth, London, when a new parliament opens, the 'voting'-qualification being open-air coition in or near Garret, a mean hamlet: C. 18–early 19. Coll.: or perhaps rather a legitimate folk-lore term. See Grose, 1785.

garret empty or unfurnished, have one's (occ. the). To have no brains; be a fool, somewhat crazy: from ca. 1790. Cf. Kentish (be) not rightly garreted.

garret-master. A cabinet-maker that, working on his own account, sells direct to the dealers: cabinet trade: from ca. 1850: in C. 20, S.E. and ob. Mayhew.

garrete(e)r*. A thief specialising in entering houses by garret-windows or sky-lights: c.: mid-C. 19–20 (ob.). Cf. dancer, dancing-master.—2. A literary hack: from ca. 1730: journalists' s., > gen. coll. ca. 1780, > S.E. ca. 1895: ob. Bentley, Macaulay. Ex S.E. sense, one who lives in a garret.

garridge; garraze. A garage: sol.: from ca. 1910. (D. Sayers, The Nine Tailors, 1934.)

garrison-hack. A harlot: a soldier's drab: coll.: from ca. 1850; ob.—2. A woman that habitually flirts, somewhat indiscriminately, with garrison officers: from ca. 1875. The Athenæum, Feb. 8, 1890, 'The heroine is a garrison-hack, but the hero is an Australian.'

garrison sports. Washing out quarters: Regular Army jocular coll.: late C. 19–20; ob. F. & Gibbons.

gar(r)otte*. To cheat with the aid of cards concealed at the back of the neck: card-sharping c.: from ca. 1850.

gar(r)otte*, tip (one) the. To rob during or after throttling the victim: c.: from ca. 1850; † by 1900. The n. and the v., rob with or by throttling, with their natural derivatives, are S.E. ex the S.E. sense, execution by strangulation; see, however, back-stall, front-stall, and ugly or nasty-man. Ex Sp. garrote, a stick: cf. garrot, a surgical tourniquet.

gar(r)otting*. Vbl.n. corresponding with gar(r)otte, v., above.

garry, gharry. A (gen. light) carriage: Anglo-Indian coll.: from ca. 1800. Ex Hindi gari, a cart, a carriage. See Yule & Burnell.

garter, get over her or the. To take manual liberties with a woman: C. 19–20 (ob.) low coll.

garter, in the catching up of a. In a moment; quickly: coll.: from ca. 1690; ob. O.E.D. garter-hole or eye-hole. Fillet-hole: bellringers' (— 1901), resp. s. and coll. (Rev. H. Earle Bulwer.) garters. The irons; fetters: nautical (— 1769); ob. Falconer. Pleasantly semantic.

garters, have one's guts for. See guts for garters.

garvy, garvie. (Gen. in pl.) A sprat: standard Scottish (from ca. 1740), whence, in pl., the 91st Foot Regiment (in late C. 19–20 the 2nd Connaught Rangers) in the British Army: military: 1823; ob. F. & Gibbons. Ex the lean appearance of the early recruits in the Fifeshire regiments. Cf. Jack Sprat.

gas. Empty talk; bombast; baseless boasting or threats: 1847, U.S.; anglicised ca. 1860. Chambers's Journal, June 29, 1867, 'I've piped off Sabbath gas in my time.'—2. A jet of gas: coll.: 1872 (S.O.D.).—3. See gas, step on the.

gas, v. To supply with gas; to light with gas: coll.: from ca. 1885: ob. by 1920; † by 1930. (O.E.D.).—2. Talk idly or for talking's sake; boast unduly or arrogantly (— 1874).—3. The sense, to deceive by such talk, is orig. and mainly U.S.

gas, give a person. To scold him; give a thrashing: ca. 1860–90. See (give one) jessie, by which it was perhaps suggested. (H., 2nd ed.)

gas, step on, occ. tread on the. To put on speed: U.S., anglicised ca. 1926. Ex motor-driving, gas being gasolene.

gas, turn off the. To cease, cause to cease, from overmuch talk or from boasting: from ca. 1880. Ex gas, n., 1. Cf.:

gas, turn on the. To begin talking hard or boasting: from ca. 1880.

gas and gaiters. Nonsense; mere verbiage, utter redundancy; exaggerated rubbish: from ca. 1928. An elaboration of gas, n., 1, after gammon and spinach (or g. and patter).

gas-bag. A person of too many words; a boaster: coll.: from ca. 1889. Ex gas, n., 1. Cf. wind-bag and poison gas, qq.v.—2. A balloon, airship: pejorative coll.: 1877; slightly ob. (O.E.D. Sup.).—3. 'The cloth bag in which the anti-gas respirator was carried': facetious military: 1916; ob. B. & P.

gas-boat. 'A motor fishing vessel in the Grand Banks': nautical: C. 20. Bowen. Here, gas = gasolene.

gas-pipe cavalry. Army cyclists: military (— 1923). Manchon.

gas-pipes. Very tight trousers: Cockneys': ca. 1890–1915. Ware.

gas out of one, take the. To take down a peg, the conceit out of one: from ca. 1885. See gas, n., 1.

gas round, to. Seek information shily: from ca. 1890: † by 1921. The gen. post-1918 phrase is snoop (a)round, q.v.

gascrome, gascromh. Incorrect for caschrom: C. 19–20. O.E.D. gaseous. Apt to take offence on insufficient grounds: coll. (— 1864); † by 1920. H., 3rd ed. Ex the inflammability of gas.

gash. The mouth: orig. U.S. (1852) and rare in Britain except in jocular form, an awful gash: late C. 19–20.—2. The female pudend: C. 18–20: low coll.

gashion. Additional, free; often in pl. as n., 'extra of anything' (cf. buckshee): naval: late C. 19–20. Bowen; F. & Gibbons. Prob. ex dial. gaishen (gation), an obstacle in one's way, perhaps via additional.

gashly. Ghastly: sol. when not dial.: C. 19–20. In C. 17–18, S.E., as in Sterne. Ex gash, ghastly, S.E. in late C. 16–18, then Scottish.

gashly, adv. Steadily; esp. in go gashly!: military: C. 20. F. & Gibbons. Ex the Scottish and North Country gashly, shrewdly (E.D.D.). gaskins. Wide hose or breeches: (in C. 18–19, jocular) coll.: C. 17–early 19. Johnson, 'An old ludicrous word'. ? abbr. galligaskins, q.v.

gasometer. A voluble talker; a boaster: from ca. 1890; ob. Cf. gas-bag.

gasp. A dram of spirits: from ca. 1880. Ob. Ex its frequent effect.

gasp, v.i. To drink a dram of spirits: from ca. 1880: †.

gasp my last if . . . !, may I. A non-aristocratic asseveration: coll. (— 1887); slightly ob. Baumann.

gasper. An inferior cigarette: from ca. 1912: orig. military; popularised during G.W.; by 1930, coll. Ex its effect on one's 'wind', i.e. staying powers.—2. Hence, any cigarette: from ca. 1925. Cf. faq.

gasping. Over-anxious: Glasgow (— 1934). Ex excited panting.

gaspipe, occ. gas-pipe. A steamer whose length, instead of five, is nine or ten times that of her beam: nautical: ca. 1880–1910.—2. An inferior or damaged roller: printers': from ca. 1860; ob.—3. A rifle; esp. the Snider. The Daily Telegraph, July 9, 1883, 'The old Snider—the . . . gas-pipe of our Volunteers—continues to be used in many of the competitions.' Gen.: ca. 1880–1910; specific, ca. 1875–95.

gaspipe-crawler. A tall thin man: gas-works': ca. 1885–1914. Baumann. Cf. lamp-post.

gaspirator. A gas-mask: military: 1916; ob. F. & Gibbons. A telescoping of gas-respirator, itself abbr. anti-gas box-respirator.

gassed. Tipy: orig. military: not, I think, before 1917. F. & Gibbons. Ex the stupefying effects of gas.

gassed at Mons. A military c.p., of 1916–18, in reply to an inquiry concerning a person's whereabouts. F. & Gibbons. The retreat from Mons took place in late Aug., 1914; poison-gas was not introduced till much later. Cf. on the wire at Mons.

gasser. A tremendous talker; a boaster: from ca. 1888. Gen. with a modifying adj. Cf. gas-bag and gasometer, qq.v.

gassy. Full of empty talk or boasts; given to these: 1863. (S.O.D.).—2. Very apt to take offence: ? coll. (— 1860). H., 2nd ed. Cf. gaseous.

gat, gats. A quantity; number, group: school-boys': C. 19. See also the Shrewsbury sense of penal.—2. (gat only) a revolver: Canadian (— 1914), orig. U.S. (Ex galling gun. See Irwin.) Since ca. 1924, thanks to gangster novels and films, the word has > fairly well known in Britain.

gate. The 'paying' attendance at any outdoor sport or game: from ca. 1888. In C. 19, coll.; C. 20, S.E. Ex:—2. (Occ. in pl.) money paid for admission thereto: coll.: 1887, Baumann. Ex gate-money.—3. Preceded by the: Billingsgate, C. 18–20 fishmongers'; Newgate (Prison): C. 19 c. H., 3rd ed.—4. The mouth: New Zealanders' (from ca. 1910), esp. soldiers' in G.W.

gate, v. To confine wholly or partially to college-bounds: university (1831): in C. 20, j. or S.E. Anon., The Snobiad, 1835; Bradley ('Cuthbert Bede'), 1853; Hughes, Tom Brown at Oxford, 1861.

gate, on the. On remand: c.: late C. 19–20; ob. Cf. fence, on the. Perhaps imm. ex:—2. Forbidden to leave barracks: military: from ca. 1870. (F. & Gibbons).—3. (Of a prisoner who is) in an observation-cell: c. (— 1933). G. Ingram, Stir, a novel of life in prison. The door is left open.—4. On the danger list at a hospital: lower classes': from ca. 1925. Perhaps ex senses 1 and 3 by a confusion with the synonymous be slated.

gate-bill and gate-money are, despite F. & H., S.E.; but gate-race (— 1864) or -meeting (— 1881), in the sense of a contest arranged less for the sport than for the money, is sporting s. > coll. H., 3rd ed.

gate-crasher, -crashing. One who attends, attendance at, a private party or entertainment without invitation: coll.: U.S., anglicised in late 1926. The v., gate-crash, which is rare, hardly—in England, at least—antedates 1930. Ex forcing one's way through a gate to attend an out-door sport.

gate-race. See gate-bill.

gate of horn, of life. The female pudend: the former, low; the latter, gen. euphemistic and ineligible. C. 19–20.

gater. A plunge, headlong, into a 'pot', q.v.: Winchester College: C. 19–20.

gates. The hour at which one must be in college; the being forbidden to leave college, either at all or, as gen., after a certain hour: university: from ca. 1855. In C. 20, j. or S.E. Bradley, Tales of College Life, 1856; Lang, XXXII Ballades, 1881.

Gates, be at. To assemble in Seventh Chamber passage: Winchester College, ca. 1850–1910. Mansfield.

gates, break. To return to college after the latest permissible time: university: from ca. 1860. In C. 20, j. or S.E. Ex gates.

Gath, be mighty in. 'To be a Philistine of the first magnitude', F. & H. Gath, a city in Philistia, is here, as in the next two entries, employed for Philistia (the land of the Philistines) itself. Coll.: mid-C. 19–20; ob. All three entries verge on S.E.

Gath, prevail against. To deal the Philistines a rousing blow: coll.: mid-C. 19–20; ob.

Gath !, tell it not in. Fancy your doing that ! Fancy your doing that ! Coll.: mid-C. 19–20.

gather the taxes. To seek employment at one shop after another: tailors': ca. 1870–1920. Hence, tax-gatherer, a tailor seeking work.

gathering. See gag, n., 5.

gathers, out of. In distress (cf. out at elbows): ? tailors' s. > gen. s. or coll. Ca. 1875–1915.

gations. An occ. spelling of gashions (see gashion).

gator. An alligator: Australian coll.: late C. 19–20. (Earlier in U.S.A.)

gatter. Beer. Frequently shant of gatter, a pot of beer: 1818. ? orig. c.: low s. >, ca. 1860, low coll.; ob. Maginn in Vidocq Versified; Punch, 1841; H., 1859. ? etymology: perhaps ex Lingua Franca; perhaps ex Lingua Franca aqua + water.

gaudeamus. A students' feast, a drinking-bout; any merry-making: 1823, Scott (O.E.D.): in C. 20, S.E. Ex first word (= let us rejoice) of a students' song in festive Latin.

[gaudy, an annual college dinner, hence any merry-making (†), has always, despite F. & H., been S.E.]

gaudy, adj., app. always in negative sentences. Good, esp. with chance or lot; healthy: from ca.

1880; slightly ob. Hawley Smart in his best-known horse-racing novel, From Post to Finish, 1884; Galsworthy, The Silver Spoon, 1926, 'Only got one lung, and that's not very gaudy.' Ex notion of brilliance. Hence:

gaudy, adv. Very: lower classes': C. 20. Galsworthy, The White Monkey, 1924, 'Ah! It's a gaudy long wait.' Prob., like ruddy, a euphemism for bloody.

gaudy, as the devil said when he painted his bottom pink and tied up his tail with pea-green, Neat but not. A c.p. that, in C. 19, was addressed (by whom?) to old ladies dressed in flaming colours.

gauge. See gage.

gauge of, get the. To 'size up'; discern a motive, penetrate a character: coll.: from ca. 1870; ob. Ex the S.E. take the gauge of.

gauge of it, that's about the. That is a tolerably accurate or equitable description: coll.: from ca. 1875.

gaum. See maum.

Gaw is merely a written variant of Gor.

gaw(-)gaw. A useless seaman: nautical: late C. 19-20. Bowen. Perhaps ex gaupus, q.v.

gawblim(e)y. See gorblimy! Cf.:

Gawd. A Cockney form of God: sol. Cf. Cor.

Gawd forbid. A variant of God forbid, q.v.

Gawd forgive (him) the prayers (he) said! (He) did curse and swear!: Cockney evasive c.p.: late C. 19-20; ob. Ware.

gawf. An inferior, red-skinned apple that can easily be made to look very attractive: costers' (— 1851). Mayhew. (They are now more highly considered.)

gawk, a simpleton, a fool, or an awkward person, is S.E. according to the O.E.D. and S.O.D.: I cannot help thinking that at first, 1837, it was coll., though admittedly it was dial. as early as C. 17 (E.D.D.), and is S.E. in C. 20. Presumably ex gawky, n. (1724), and adj. (1724), always—it seems—S.E. The v. gawk, to gape or stare, to loiter about in a gaping manner, is orig. U.S. (1785); so far as it is used in Britain, it is coll., as also is gawking, vbl.n. and ppl.adj.; gawkiness, however, is late (1873) and S.E.

gawm (or G.). See gorm.—gawn. See gorm.

gawney, goney. A fool: coll. when not dial.: from ca. 1770. (E.D.D.) ? by sawney out of gawk.

gaupus. An idle seaman: nautical coll.: from ca. 1870. Bowen. Ex dial. gaupus (gaupus), a simpleton.

gawsave. The National Anthem: low: C. 20. C. J. Dennis. Ex slovenly pronunciation of God save (the King).

gay. (Of women) leading an immoral, or a harlot's, life: 1825, Westmacott (O.E.D.). In C. 20, coll. on verge of S.E.—2. Slightly intoxicated: C. 19-20; ob. Perhaps orig. a euphemism.—3. Impudent, impertinent, presumptuous: U.S. (— 1899), anglicised in 1915 by P. G. Wodehouse. O.E.D. (Sup.).

gay, all (so). 'All serene'; all correct, safe, excellent: C. 19 gay, feel. To feel amorous: C. 19-20. Orig. euphemistic; in C. 20, jocular.

gay and frisky. Whiskey: rhyming s.: late C. 19-20. P. P., Rhyming Slang, 1932.

gay bit. A harlot: from ca. 1830; ob. Coll. See bit.

gay cat. A tramp that hangs about for women: tramps' c. (— 1932). Ex U.S.

Gay Gordons, the. 'The Gordon Highlanders. In particular, the 2nd Battalion, the 92nd Highlanders': late C. 19-20: rather sobriquet than nickname; coll. verging on S.E. F. & Gibbons.

gay house. A brothel: C. 19-20; ob. Perhaps orig. euphemistic.

gay in the arse or groin or legs. (Of women) loose: coll.: C. 19-20 low. Cf. Fr. avoir la cuisse gaie.

gay it. (Of both sexes) to have sexual connexion: C. 19-20; ob.: coll.

gay life, lead a. To live immorally; live by prostitution: coll. or s.: from ca. 1860.

gay old. An occ. variant of high old, q.v.: ca. 1885-1910.

gay tyke boy. A dog-fancier: ca. 1840-80 low. Duncombe.

gaying instrument, the. The male member: C. 19; low coll. Lex. Bal. Cf.:

gaying it, vbl.n. Sexual intercourse: C. 19-20 (ob.); low coll.

Gaynor, do a. See 'Moving-Picture Slang', § 9. Like Garbo (q.v.), coll. rather than s.

[gazebo, despite F. & H., is ineligible; nor, prob., is it dog-Latin.]

gazer. 'A pedlar who walks about a fair or market selling as he goes': grafters': C. 20. Philip Allingham, Cheapjack, 1934.

gazob. A silly fool; a (foolish) blunderer; a 'softy': low (? orig. Australian): late C. 19-20. Perhaps a corruption of galoot, q.v., or a blend of galoot + blob: cf. the U.S. gazabo, which, dating from ca. 1890, prob. derives ex S.E. gazebo, and may well represent the origin of gazob.

g'bye! Good-bye!: slovenly coll.: C. 20. (D. Mackail, Greenery Street, 1925.)

geach. A thief: c. (— 1821); ob. by 1900, † by 1920. ? thief disguised. Cf.:

geach, v.t. To steal: c. (— 1821): † by 1920. Haggart, 1821. ? thieve perverted.

gear. The genitals, male and, more gen., female: late C. 16-19: S.E. until C. 19, then coll. >, very soon, s.—2. As affair, business—even in here's goodly gear, here's a pretty kettle of fish—it is S.E.

gear!, that's the. That's right: military: 1915. B. & P. Lit., that's the correct instrument or equipment.

gear or gears, warm in one's. Settled down to work: C. 17-18 coll. Cf.:

gears, in his. Ready dressed: late C. 17-18: coll. B.E., who notes also out of his gears, out of sorts, indisposed: perhaps, orig., s. Ex earlier in his gears, ready for work.

ged! A coll. variant of gad! = God! Late C. 17-19. Cf. vowel in dem(me)! W.

Geddesburg. Montreuil in 1916: Army officers' jocular coll. On Gettysburg (U.S.A.) ex Sir Eric Geddes, who, in that year, established there his headquarters—he was Director General of Transportation, with 1,000 (or more) clerks. F. & Gibbons.

gee. A horse: s. (1887) >, ca. 1900, coll. Orig. a child's word. Abbr. gee-gee, q.v.—2. Grafters' s. of C. 20, perhaps ex gee!, q.v.: 'A grafters' accomplice or assistant who mingles with the crowd. Note: To give a grafter a gee is to buy something off him to encourage the crowd,' Philip Allingham, Cheapjack, 1934.—3. Bluff; empty talk or 'fanny': e.: from ca. 1920. James Curtis, The Gilt Kid, 1936. Cf. gee, put in the (below).

gee. To fit, suit, be convenient or practical: only in negative phrases: late C. 17–20; ob. B.E.—2. (Of persons) to behave as is expected or desired; agree, get on well together: C. 18–20; ob. V.t. with with. Either ex next entry or a corruption of go.—3. To encourage, incite; delude: c. (—1932). Anon., Dartmoor from Within, 1932. Perhaps ex gee up!

gee! A command to a horse: gen. to turn to the right: coll.; 1628 (S.O.D.).—2. See Jee!

gee, get at the. See get at the gee.

gee, give a. See gee, n., 2.

gee, on the. Annoyed, irritated: lower classes' (—1923. Manchon. Perhaps ex gee-up!)

gee, put in the. To blarney; tell a plausible tale: c.: from ca. 1920. James Curtis, The Gilt Kid, 1936). Cf. gee, v., 3.

gee, put on the. To 'swank'; act or talk pretentiously: c.: from ca. 1925. J. Curtis, The Gilt Kid, 1936.

gee-gee. A horse: s. (1869) >, ca. 1900, coll. Reduplication of gee! Mostly among sportsmen and 'turfiters'. The Pall Mall Gazette, April 14, 1889. (O.E.D.).—2. 'The nickname among journalists . . . of Mr. G(eorge) G(rossmith), better known, perhaps, as the Society Clown', F. & H., 1893.—3. A jocular perversion (—1923) of geeser, 1.

gee-gee dodge. The selling of horseflesh for beef: trade (—1884): ob. Greenwood, in Veiled Mysteries, 'The gee-gee dodge . . . was seldom . . . practised . . . it was impossible . . . to bargain for a regular supply.'

Gee-Gees, the. The Cavalry: infantrymen's: late C. 19–20; ob. Ware.

gee ho! or ho, gee ho! Equivalent to gee!: from ca. 1650: coll. Contrast gee whoa! Also, same period, v.i. and t., say gee-ho (to).

gee up, occ. hup! (To a horse) move forward! Move faster: C. 18–20 coll.—2. To say 'gee up!': C. 19–20 coll. Blackwood's Magazine, Oct., 1824, 'Mr. Babb ge-hupped in vain.' The (h)up is not adv. but interjection.

gee whiskers! See jee whiskers!—gee whizz! See Jee!

gee whoa! (To a horse) stop! Rarer than whoa! Coll.: C. 18–20.

geekie. A police-station: Scottish c. (—1893). ? ex geek, to peer about.

ge(e)loot, the form given by H., 3rd ed.: see galoot.

Geese, the. The Portuguese (soldiers in especial): military: 1917. B. & P.

geese, the old woman's picking her. Applied to a snowstorm: C. 19–20 proverbial coll., very gen. among school-children, who often add: and selling the feathers a penny apiece.

geese are swans, all his. He exaggerates in his praise, esp. of his own family or property: coll. (—1529); in C. 20, rather S.E. Skelton; Burton; Newman in his Apologia, 'To use the common phrase . . .'

geese go bare-legged!, fie upon pride when. A proverbial c.p. retort to undue pride in the lowly: late C. 17–28. B.E.

geese on a common, like. Wandering, somewhat aggressively, at large: C. 19–20 coll.

geese when the gander is gone, he'll be a man among the. A C. 17–20 ob. coll. variation (ironical and = He'll be a man before his mother) of the C. 17–20 proverb You're a man among the geese when the gander's away. Apperson.

geeser (rare) or geezer; occ. geyser (incorrectly); esp. old geezer. A person: in the 1890's, gen. of women; in C. 20, gen. of men (cf. old buffer). Low coll.: 1885 (O.E.D.). Albert Chevalier in his still-remembered Knocked 'Em in the Old Kent Road, 1890, 'Nice old geezer with a nasty cough'. Ex † guiser, a mummer, via dial.—2. Hence, occ., my (or the) old geezer, my 'old woman' (wife): lower classes' (—1923). Manchon.

gegger. See gagger, 4.

gel (hard g). A Cockney as well as an affected form of girl: C. 19–20. Prob. ex dial. Cf. gal.

gelatine (pronounced jēlāteen'): the coll. spelling and pronunciation of gelatin (pronounced gē'lātin): C. 19–20.

geld; occ. gelt. Money: South African s. verging on coll.: from ca. 1880. Ex Dutch geld, money, cash. Pettman. Cf. gelt, q.v.

gelding, a eunuch, is not, despite F. & H., unconventional, but enter a man for the geldings' stakes, to castrate him, is low coll., C. 19–20, ob., as is he has entered for . . ., to be a eunuch.

gell. An occ. variant of gel, q.v.

gelt. 'Gilt', i.e. money: late C. 17–early 19 c.: in C. 16–early 17, S.E.; in C. 19–20, grafters' s.; and see geld. B.E., 'There is no Gelt to be got, c., Trading is very Dead.' Prob. ex the Ger. for tribute, payment.

gelter. Money: a C. 19 c. elaboration of gelt: q.v. Duncombe.

geluk! I wish you luck!; 'also a birthday congratulation': South African coll. (—1913). Ex Dutch geluk, happiness, prosperity. Pettman, who notes also gezondheid (1875), occ. in form santeit (1896), I wish you good health!, ex Dutch gezondheid, health.

gem. A ring: late C. 17–early 18.—2. A gold ring: C. 18. Rum gem, a diamond ring: C. 18. All are c.—3. A 'jewel' or 'treasure': (gen. playful) coll.: C. 19–20; ob. Because prized. O.E.D. gem'man. See gemman.

gemini!, gem(m)iny!, jim(m)iny! (In the earliest example, gemony.) An ign. not so low coll. oath or interjection, from ca. 1660, expressing surprise, often preceded by oh! and occ. followed by gig (late C. 18–early 19) or figs (C. 19, chiefly Cockney). Dryden, 1672, 'O Gemini! is it you, sir?' Ex Gemini, the Twins (Castor and Pollux, who figure in an old Roman oath), says the O.E.D.; 'Folk Etymology' Palmer traces to a German and Dutch exclamation ex O Jesu Domine!: the former is preferable.

gemman or gem'man. A gentleman: sol.: mid-C. 16–20. Borrow in Lavengro.

gemonies (gen. with initial capital) is, in late C. 16–17, occ. misused to mean tortures. O.E.D. gemony! See gemini!

gen. A shilling: costers' (—1851). Either abbr. generalise, q.v., or abbr. Fr. argent—see gent. Mayhew. For back slang, see Slang at 'Oddities'.

gen-net, ten shillings (back s.; H., 1859), is an occ. variant of net gens.

gender, to copulate, is, despite F. & H., ineligible. But feminine gender, the pudend., is (—1835) school-boys' ob. s., as in the rhyme, quoted—in part—by Marryat in Jacob Faithful: 'Amo, amas, | I loved a lass, | And she was tall and slender, | Amas, amat, | I laid her flat, | And tickled her feminine gender,' F. & H.

general. A maid-of-all-work: coll.: 1884 (O.E.D.); Ware dates it at 1880. Abbr. general servant.—2. 'Chandler's shop—where everything may be obtained': urban low classes' (—1909); slightly ob. Ware.—3. See generalise.

general, adj. Affable to all: late C. 16–17: either S.E. or, more prob., coll. Shakespeare, 'Bid her be free and general as the sun.'

General Backacher. Major-General Sir William Forbes Gatacre (1843–1906): military: ca. 1890–1906. He worked his men hard, but he was an able commander rather inconsiderately treated in the Boer War. (Ware.)

General One (or Vun) O'Clock; Old Vun O'Clock. General von Kluck (1846–1934): military: 1914; ob. (The Observer, Oct. 21, 1934).

generalise or -ize. A shilling: back—i.e. mainly costers'—s.: from ca. 1850. The Saturday Review, May 14, 1887, 'The difficulty of inverting the word shilling accounts for "generalize".' (Cf. gen, q.v.) Ware records the form general.—2. Hence (—1909) Can you generalise?, can you lend me a shilling? (Ware.) Virtually †.

generally always. Generally: late C. 19–20: sol. when not Sussex dial. E.D.D., 'A superl[ative] form of generally.'

generating place. The female pudendum: C. 19–20 (ob.) low coll.

generating, or generation, tool. The male member: C. 19–20 (ob.) low coll. Solus tool is prob. the older term.

genetic and generative are sometimes confused, in educated sol., gen, the former for the latter: mid-C. 19–20. The Expositor, Dec. 1884 (O.E.D.).

Geneva print. Gin; mostly in read Geneva print, to drink it: C. 17 coll. Massinger. (Geneva > gin.) Punning the kind of type used in Geneva bibles.

genitrave or genitraf. See gennitraf.

gen'lly. Generally: sol. (—1887); prob. centuries old. Baumann.

gen'l'man. A gentleman: sol. and dial.: C. 19–20; prob. much older. Cf. gem'man.

gennet, gen-net. Ten shillings, separately or as a sum: back s.: from ca. 1860. See generalise and gen.

gen(n)itraf or -trave. A farthing: back s.: from ca. 1860. Ware. Gnikitraf euphonised.

genol. Long: back s.: from ca. 1860. Gnol euphonised.

gens; occ. a drop of gens. General leave: naval: C. 20. Bowen.

gent. A loudly dressed vulgarian: from ca. 1560, though anticipated in C. 15: in C. 16–18, S.E.: ca. 1800–40, coll.; from ca. 1840, low coll., except when applied derisively to those who use the term. Glapthorne, Burns; Thackeray, Disraeli. In 1846, magistrate Rawlinson: 'I hold a man who is called a gent to be the greatest blackguard there is.'—2. In c. (—1859), money, esp. silver money: ex Fr. argent: cf. gen, q.v. H., 1st ed.—3. A sweetheart; mistress; my gent, my best girl. Low coll.: from ca. 1880: ob. Prob. ex Fr. (une femme) gentille.—4. The adj., long †, was, pace F. & H., always S.E.

genteel, well-dressed, apparently a gentleman or a lady, has, from ca. 1880, been low coll.—except when depreciatory.

gentile. C. 19–20 (ob.) sol. for gentle, a maggot used by anglers as bait.

gentish. Like, characteristic of, a 'gent' (q.v.): † S.E. or coll.: 1847 (O.E.D.); ob.

Gentle Annie. A certain Turkish gun at the D.U.E.

Dardanelles: military: 1915. F. & Gibbons. Also Asiatic Annie. Cf. Beachy Bill.

[gentle craft, the, whether shoemaking or angling, is, despite F. & H., S.E. of C. 16–20.]

gentleman*. A crowbar: c.: from ca. 1850; ob. See alderman.—2. See punisher, 3.

gentleman, do the. To go and urinate: lower classes' (—1923). Manchon.

gentleman, put a churl (or beggar) upon a. See churl.

gentleman commoner. An empty bottle: Oxford University (—1785); † by 1900. Grose, 1st ed. Cf. fellow commoner, q.v., dead man, dead marine. Such a student was, in general repute, deficient in intelligence.

gentleman in black, the (old). The devil: from ca. 1660: s. >, in C. 19, coll. Dryden.

gentleman in black velvet, the (little). A mole. This was a Jacobite phrase after the death of William III, whose horse was said to have stumbled over a mole-hill. C. 18–19. Scott. (F. & H. erroneously give brown and the phrase, or toast, as Tory.)

gentleman in blue. A policeman: satirical coll.: mid-C. 19–20; ob. Ware.

gentleman in brown. A bed bug: coll. (—1885); ob. G. A. Sala.

gentleman in red. A soldier: 1774: either s. or jocular coll.; ob.

Gentleman Jackson. John Jackson (1769–1845), champion boxer of England in 1795–1803. Dawson.—2. Peter Jackson, Australian aboriginal boxer: latter half of C. 19.

Gentleman Jones. Richard Jones (1779–1851), actor and dramatist. Dawson.

Gentleman Lewis. W. T. Lewis (1748–ca. 1811), actor. Ibid.

gentleman of fortune. A pirate: C. 19–20 (ob.): coll., punning the S.E. sense: adventurer.

gentleman of four outs. See gentleman of the three outs.

gentleman of observation. A (spying) tout: the turf: C. 19.

gentleman of the back(door). A sodomist: back door, C. 18–20, ob.; back, C. 19: low coll. See also at back.

gentleman of the fist. A boxer: boxers' (—1819); ob. by 1900, † by 1910.

gentleman of the first head or house; gentleman of the five outs. See gentleman of the three outs.

gentleman of the green-baize road. A card-sharper: gamblers': C. 19–20, ob. Punning gentleman of the road, S.E. for a highwayman.

gentleman of the pad. A highwayman: 1718: sometimes s., sometimes jocular coll.: † by 1870. See pad and scamp.

gentleman of the round. An invalided or a disabled soldier begging for his living: late C. 16–17 coll. Ben Jonson.

gentleman of the short staff. A constable: ca. 1830–80. Ainsworth.

gentleman of (the) three ins. (But the is rare and does not appear before ca. 1830.) 'In debt, in gaol, and in danger of remaining there for life; or, in gaol, indicted, and in danger of being hanged in chains', Grose, 1788; H., 1864, 'In debt, in danger, and in poverty'. A c.p. that > ob. ca. 1890, † ca. 1920. Prob. suggested by the contrasted:

gentleman of (rarely, and not before ca. 1830, the) three outs. 'Without money, without wit, and without mourners', Grose, 1785,—it is the earlier phrase. In 1788, he added, 'Some add another out, i.e. without credit.' Variants four, five; II., 1864, has four and refers to Ireland, where, he says, the retort to a vulgar fellow blustering of gentlemanliness was 'Yes, a gentleman of four outs—that is, without wit, without money, without credit, and without manners.' F. & H., 1893, cites 'Out of money, and out of clothes; | Out at heels, and out at the toes; | Out of credit, and in debt'. Ob. by 1893, but not yet †. Cf. the C. 16–17 dunghill gentleman and gentleman of the first head or house, which may themselves (see the O.E.D.) be coll. or even s.

gentleman of three ins and outs. See gentleman of the three ins and outs.

gentleman ranker. A broken gentleman serving in the ranks: military s. (— 1892) >, ca. 1900. gen. coll. >, ca. 1914, S.E. >, ca. 1919, somewhat ob. See Kipling's famous poem, Gentleman Rankers.

Gentleman Smith. William Smith, a C. 18 actor. Dawson. Cf. Gentleman Lewis.

gentleman who pays the rent, the. A pig: Anglo-Irish: mid-C. 19–20; ob. Ware. gentleman's companion. A louse: coll. (— 1785); ob. by 1914, † by 1918. (In four years' active service, I never heard the term.) Grose, 1st ed. Cf. bosom friend.—2. Possibly, in late C. 17–18, it also = a flea. Ned Ward, 1709 (Matthews.)

gentleman's (or gent's) gent. A 'gentleman's gentleman' or valet: C. 20. Both forms occur in that exciting and amusing novel, Th' Big City, by John G. Brandon, 1931.

gentleman's master. A highwayman: ca. 1780–1840. Grose, 1st ed. Ex gentlemen's obedience to his 'stand and deliver!'

gentleman's, occ. lady's, piece. A tit-bit: (mostly children's) coll.: ca. 1880–1910. Bauman. (If used by adults to-day, it would hint at short rations.)

