In 1. 10, pargliare is a misprint for parlare, which accounts for the parlaree (-ry) form; the parlyaree form has been influenced either by palarie (p. 601) or by, e.g., parliamo, 'let us speak'.

A full account of this Cinderella among languages appears in my book of essays and studies upon language, Here, There and Everywhere, 1949.

Parlyaree is both less general and less serviceable than Parlary or parlary. In late C. 19—early 20, palaree or palary was very common, esp. among music-hall artists; after ca. 1945, palary is demotic, parlary hieratic. Sydney Lester's title for his glossary, Vardi the Palary, means 'Know Parlary'. Lester.

parnee or parney.—3. Tears (in the eyes): parlary: C. 20. Ex senses 1 and 2 (pp. 606–7).

parnee, v.i. To rain: showmen's and marketmen's: C. 20. Ex the n.: see p. 606.

parrot. 'A sheep that has lost some of its wool' (B. 1959): Aus. rural: C. 20. Cf. cocky, n., 8, above, and rosella, 2, below.

parrots and monkeys. Goods and chattels; personal possessions: Army: since ca. 1930. Cf. the (1941 +) c.p. addressed to recruits, All right! Pick up your parrots and monkeys, and get mobile.

parsley. Nonsense: Cockneys': C. 20; ob. Pugh. Cf. gammon and spinach (Dict.).

parson's collar. Froth on a glass of beer: public-houses': since mid-1940's. (A. B. Petch, April 1966.)

Parson's Pleasure and Dame's Delight. The

two Oxford bathing places reserved for men and women respectively: mid C. 19–20 and C. 20: orig., s.; but, the former at least, accepted by 1920 at latest.

parson's wife. Gin: originally and properly Vickers Gin: Australian: since ca. 1925. (B., 1953.) Vickers; vicar's. 'And quite possibly gin = Jin, short for Jinny, a sort of collective for women' (Julian Franklyn, 1962).

parson's yeoman, the. 'The volunteer organist at Divine Service' (Granville): Naval: C. 20.

part co. To part company: ? orig. Naval: ? since ca. 1790; by 1850, ob.; by 1910, virtually †. It occurs in W. N. Glascock, The Naval Sketch-Book (II, 171), 1826, 'Thought it time to "cut cable" and run . . . "Parted co." from crowd.' (Moe.)

part up. An Australian variation of part (p. 607): late C. 19–20. B., 1942.

party.—2. A love affair: Society: ca. 1928–38. Alec Waugh, Going Their Own Ways, 1938.—3. An aerial combat; a bombing raid: R.A.F.: since early 1940. H. & P., 1943; Granville, 1945, of a commando raid or a naval operation, for it was also a Naval and an Army term; Brickhill & Norton, Escape to Danger, 1946, "Oh, crumbs! Night fighter," he muttered. "What a b—— party!" By nonchalant meiosis.—4. A very busy day: Services; esp. R.A.F. ground staff: since ca. 1940. H. & P. Ironie.—5. A girl friend: Navy: since ca. 1910. Granville. Ex sense 2. Cf. horse, n., 14 (above).

party in the attic. An elaboration of party, 3: R.A.F.: 1940 +. Partridge, 1945, 'Attic because the fight takes place aloft.'

party pin. A working party in an aircraft carrier: Naval: 1939 +. (P-G-R.)

party-pooper. 'One who wrecks a convivial party by "pooping" it' (Leechman): Canadian: since ca. 1960. 'Water over the poop? Or "pooping", defecating, on it?'

pash.—3. A letter: Naval: since ca. 1930. H. & P., 'Number one pash being a letter to one's best girl'. Ex sense 2.

pash, adj. Passionate; e.g. pash pants, non-regulation trousers affected by some officers: Canadian soldiers': 1914 +.

pash on; sex on. To indulge in sex, from petting to intercourse: Australian teenagers': since ca. 1950. The Sydney Morning Herald, Sept. 11, 1963.

pash show. A film that graphically shows love-making: Australian teenagers': since the late 1940's.—2. Hence, ardent love-making: Australian teenagers': since ca. 1950. (B.P.)

pash wag(g)on. A liberty bus: mostly Air Force: 1940–5. (P-G-R.) Cf. passion waggon.

pass a sham saint. See 'Verbs'.

pass at, make a. To attempt (a person's) virtue; to try to caress: U.S., anglicised ca. 1930. Cf. Dorothy Parker's famous couplet, pass in one's dinner pail. To die: mostly Cockneys': ca. 1890–1914. Binstead, Mop Fair, 1905.

'Men seldom make passes
At girls who wear glasses.'

Usually of the male: to suggest sexual intimacies to: the nuance predominant in Britain since ca. 1945.

pass spark out. See spark out (Dict.).

pass the buck (p. 608). That sense was virtually † by 1945.—2. To pass on something one cannot trouble oneself with: Civil Service: since ca. 1938. An Americanism. By 1950, fairly general. The expression derives from the game of poker.—3. But, in Canada, as Dr Leechman tells me in May 1959, 'again the general sense has changed. Now it means simply to evade responsibility, usually by passing the job on to someone else, but often by simply ignoring it. Used even in such senses as evading a difficult question in an argument.'

pass the can. A variation of pass the buck, to shift the blame: Army: ca. 1941–5. (P-G-R.)

pass the catheter. See piss out of, take the.

pass with a push; esp., it'll . . ., a c.p. of grudging approval: Australian: since ca. 1950. (B.P.)

passed-over; usually in pl. A Lieutenant-Commander that has failed to become a Commander: Naval coll.: C. 20. Granville.

passion-killers. The Service knickers worn by members of the W.A.A.F.: 1940 +. Jackson. By ca. 1950, fairly general. Cf. black-outs and twilights, both of which terms are covered by 'passion-killers'.

passion(-)pit. See Olympic pool above.

passion(-)waggon. Transport for W.A.A.F. personnel: R.A.F.: 1941 +. Robert Hinde, letter of March 17, 1945.

passionate leave. Compassionate leave: R.A.F.: since ca. 1925. Contrast:

passionate release. Compassionate release from W.A.A.F. because of pregnancy: R.A.F.: since ca. 1940.

passy (p. 608). For dating read: ca. 1790–1870.

past mark of mouth. See mark of mouth (Dict.).

past oneself, get. To be fractious or (very) excited: coll.: from ca. 1910.

paste away, v.i. To keep on punching: coll.: since ca. 1870. Sessions, Jan. 1882. See paste, v., 1 (p. 608).

pasteboard, . . . shoot one's. This form is recorded earlier by B. & L.

Pat, 1 (p. 609) occurs earlier in an anecdote drawn from an unidentified British source and repeated in an American magazine, The Port Folio, Oct. 11, 1806 (p. 221), thus, 'A company of honest Pats in the purlieus of St. Giles'. Moe.—2. Also Australian: see Paddy, 2. Also low English, esp. Londoners'.

[pat. See 'Epithets'. Prob. always S.E.]

Pat and Mick. A, or to, lick (lit. and fig.): Australian rhyming s.: C. 20.—2. Penis: Anglo-Irish: late C. 19–20. Rhyming on prick, 3 (p. 659).

patch.—5. A police area or district: Northern and Midland policemen's: since ca. 1920. "Look, Ripley, my patch is the city. I'm not like you—a county officer. Your area is wide open" (John Wainwright, Death in a Sleeping City, 1965). One's own 'cabbage patch'.

patch, on the. In trouble: Australian Naval: since ca. 1925. (B., 1943.) On the (patch of) carpet fronting the C.O.'s desk.

patch-worker. A pickpocket specialising in outside pockets other than fob-pockets: c.: from ca. 1910. (The Evening News, Dec. 9, 1936.) Ex S.E. patch-pocket, defined by the O.E.D. Sup. as 'a pocket consisting of a piece of cloth sewn like a patch on to a garment'. Cf. fob-worker.

path. Pathology; pathological: late C. 19–20: medical s., now verging on coll.

pathfinder. An airman either very lucky or enviably judicious in finding women: R.A.F.: 1942-5. Ex the official sense of the term. (P.-G.-R.)

patriotic lance-corporal. An unpaid lance-corporal: Army: since ca. 1915.

Pats. See Princess Pats below.

patter, v., 5 (p. 610), has its corresponding n.: 'food': 1855, John Lang, The Forger's Wife.

patter, in for. See in for patter and patter, n., 4, in the Dict.

Paul Pry. A 'giant searchlight': 1939-45; ob. by 1948. Berrey, 1940.

pauler. See pawler (p. 611) and below. Also, 'something very puzzling; a poser': as in Captain Glascock, Land Sharks and Sea Gulls, 1838. And earlier in his Sketch-Book, 2nd Series, 1834, at I, 206. (Moe.)

paup along. Bravely to make ends meet: middle and upper classes': ca. 1880-1920. (Edward Burke, Bachelor's Buttons, 1912.) By back-formation ex pauper.

Pauper's Grave, the; the Morgue. The smaller-print, brief reviews at back of The Times Literary Supplement: the world of books: resp. since ca. 1925 and 1920.

pavement, hit the. To be thrown out (of, e.g., a night-club); to be dismissed from one's job: since ca. 1936.

pavement pusher. A man selling goods on the kerb or anywhere in street or street-market: mostly Londoners': since ca. 1942. Duncan Webb in Daily Express, Sept. 17, 1945. Ex push the pavement.

pavy, the; gen. the P. The pavilion: Harrovian: from ca. 1880 (?). Lunn. Hence, at certain other Public Schools: C. 20.

pawler (p. 611) also means 'an unanswerable objection', as in W. N. Glascock, Sailors and Saints (I, 54), 1829, where it is spelt pauler. Moe.

pax-wax.—2. The membrum virile: C. 19-20.

pay, n. Also as nickname: witness 'Taffrail'.

pay for one's whistle. To pay excessively for one's fancy or whim: non-aristocratic: from ca. 1870; ob. B. & L.

pay-off.—2. Hence, the final settlement: Services: adopted, 1943, ex U.S.; by 1950, fairly general civilian s.

pay off, v.—2. (Of plans, ventures, attempts) to prove successful: Canadian since ca. 1940, English and Australian since ca. 1950. 'I put in for extended leave, but it didn't pay off.' (Leechman.) Ex gold-mining?

pay-off Gieves. 'It is an old Wardroom "crack" that anyone starting a sweepstake or a subscription does so in order to pay his out-fitters . . . Gieves' (Granville): C. 20.

pay one's corner. To pay one's share, esp. for drinks: mostly in Lancashire and Yorkshire: late C. 19-20. (W. Sorley Brown, T. W. H. Crossland, 1928.)

pay one's relief. See 'Tavern terms', § 9.

pay the earth. To pay excessively: coll.: since ca. 1925.

pay the price of Admiralty. See price . . .

paybob is that form of pay-bob (Dict.) which is preferred by 'Taffrail'.

paybook! he's been looking in your. A Forces' c.p. (1939-45) in reference to a third person's imputation of illegitimacy or other sexual irregularity. A Serviceman's paybook records many intimate details. (Atkinson.)

payola. Money: adopted, 1961, ex U.S., but already by end of 1964, slightly ob. and, by 1966, virtually †. Ex pay + -ola, a common, fanciful American s. suffix of Italian and Spanish origin. (Wentworth & Flexner.)

pazoo. Variant of Australian razoo: since ca. 1930. B., 1942.

pea.—3. A horse ridden to win, esp. in a field of doubtfuls: Australian sporting: since ca. 1920. (B., 1953.) Cf. sense 1: p. 612.

pea in a colander, like a. Flustered, agitated, jumpy: Services: C. 20. H. & P., 'Running round in small circles.' Just as common in the Services, who took it from civilians, is the late C. 19-20 low like a fart in a bottle, with which cf. in and out like a fart in a colander (mid-C. 19-20), used to describe restless and aimless movement. A Services' variant (since ca. 1920 at latest: probably since ca. 1890): rushing round like a fart in a colander—doesn't know which hole to come out.

pea-shooter. A rifle: Army's jocular irony: C. 20; esp. in 1914-18. Cf. sense 3.—2. A pea-shooter, says Berrey, is 'a pursuit 'plane' (a fighter). No; it is a machine-gun, or a light-calibred cannon on an aircraft (esp. if British): H. & P., 1943. Dating from 1939. By meiosis.

—3. Also, a revolver: R.A.F.: since mid-1940. E. P. in The New Statesman, Sept. 19, 1942. But the term has existed in Australia since ca. 1900; it occurs in, e.g., Alex. Macdonald, In the Land of Pearl and Gold, 1907, at p. 247.

peace-time soldier. One who, in the Army, does the same work as he would do in civilian life: military: since ca. 1920. H. & P.—2. But also, in the predominantly civilian army of 1939-45, a Regular soldier. (P.-G.-R.)

peach-house. In the 1914-18 war and for some time afterwards at least, the Admiralty used to be known as The Peach-House on account of the remarkably high level of attractiveness of the girl clerks employed there.

peachy (p. 612) was, everywhere, ob. by 1959.

peacock, v.—3. Hence, to outwit, be too smart for (someone): since ca. 1910. B., 1942.

peacock engine is recorded earlier by B. & L.

peaking, n. Any behaviour unworthy of a courageous person; e.g. a facile complaint or 'bellyaching' or yelling if you're hurt: Australian coll.: since ca. 1920. (Kylie Tennant, The Honey Flow, 1956.) Ex the E. dial. peak, to squeak like a mouse; echoic.

peam(e)y. A seller of peas: ca. 1820-70. Sessions, 1833. A blend of 'pea-merchant'.

peanut alley—p. gallery—p. row. The front row of stalls in a cinema: Australian urban juvenile: since ca. 1945. (B., 1953.) The 1st and the 2nd were adopted ex U.S.—more prob. ca. 1944, ex American servicemen. (Robert Clairborne.)

peanuts. A mere trifle; esp., a (very) small sum of money: Australian: since ca. 1930. Not necessarily ex U.S. (Morris West, Gallows on the Sand, 1956.)

peanutter. 'A person who grows peanuts' (B., 1959): Aus. coll.: C. 20.

pear-drop. An aerial bomb: 1914-18 aviators'. (William McFee, North of Suez, 1930.) Ex shape resembling that of the sweet so named.

pearl. Ale: Naval: ? ca. 1800-90. (W. N.

Glascok, Sketch-Book, 2nd Series, 1834, at II, 59, 'A pint o' pearl, a glass o' grog'. Moe.

pearl; pearlier. Australian spelling variants of purl, purler. Baker.

pearl on the nail should be compared with supernaculum: both are in Dict.

pearlies.—3. Teeth: non-aristocratic: late C. 19–20. W. L. George, The Making of an Englishman, 1914.

pearling, adj. and n. 'Allowing the nose of the surfboard to slip under' (Pix, Sept. 28, 1963): Australian surfers': since ca. 1961.

peasant, usually in pl. One who is in the ranks, esp. an aircraftman: R.A.F. and R.A.A.F. jocular: 1939–45. (B., 1943.)

peavy (p. 613), better spelt peavey, perhaps derives from its deviser, a John or Joseph Peavey, was originally, as still, U.S., and, being Standard American, is quite out of place here.

peck, n.—2. A business or concern, as 'a racing peck' (P. H. Emerson, Signor Lippo, 1893): low: ca. 1870–1910. Perhaps ex sense 1 (p. 613).

peck, v.—3. 'To attack and break away quickly' (Jackson): R.A.F.: 1939 +.

pecker, 4 (p. 613), is still (1960) widely used in Canada.

Peckham. Short for Peckham Rye (Dict.).

pedal, v. To send (a message) by wireless transmitter: Australian coll.: since ca. 1936. Ex the obligatory pedalling on the generator pedals. (Tom Ronan, Vision Splendid, 1954.)

pedal; get the pedal or be pedalled. To dismiss—to get oneself, or to be, dismissed—from a job: motor and cycle trades: since ca. 1920. Robert Westerby, Wide Boys Never Work, 1937.

pedal-pushers. Three-quarter length, i.e. calf-length, pants suitable for female sports-wear: teenagers': adopted, ca. 1962, ex U.S.

peddle (her) hips. To be a prostitute: since ca. 1920. (Valtin, Out of the Night, 1941.)

pedestals. See 'Body'.

pedo. A patient with a pedicle: Australian (Services') hospitals': ca. 1942–6. Dal Stivens, The Courtship of Uncle Henry, 1946.

pee-hee, v. To ingratiate oneself with one's superiors: 1939 +; by 1946, ob. The New Statesman, Aug. 30, 1941. Echoic.

pee oneself laughing. To laugh very heartily and/or long: since ca. 1910. Gerald Kersh, Clean, Bright and Slightly Oiled, 1946. Also piss . . .

pee-warmer. See piss-warmer.

pee-Willy. An effeminate male: Canadian: since ca. 1925.

peechy.—2. (Ex sense 1: p. 614.) Hence, behind, both adv. and n. (backside): Army: C. 20. 'What are you doing, sitting on your peechy like a char-wallah?'—i.e. idling.

peek-a-boo or peek(-)a(-)Bo. See nose-scratch. —2. A girl's blouse with perforations: ca. 1880–1914.—3. Any garment made from 'Swiss cotton' (broderie anglaise): Australian: since ca. 1950. (B.P.)

peeko. A glance; a quick look-about: since ca. 1910. (Belton Cobb, No Last Words, 1949.)

peel, n. A policeman: Australian: since ca. 1920. 'Unless this can be traced back to Mr. later Sir, Robert Peel, it is a shortening of peeler, 3 (p. 614)': Barry Prentice. The latter is the more likely.

peel-off, n. Illicit removal of part of a common booty: low s., police s., and underworld: C. 20.

'He wanted a lot more. He . . . indulged in a little "peel-off"' (Gosling, 1959). Contrast and cf.:

peel off.—2. To give money; esp. as 'He peeled off one', he gave me a pound: c.: from ca. 1925. I.e. to slip a (currency) note from a wad of notes.—3. To break away, esp. in a dive, from a formation: R.A.F. coll. (since ca. 1925) >, by 1941, j. Ex peeling off one's clothes.

Peeler Murphy. See 'Nicknames'. An alternative origin has been ingeniously suggested by Robert Clairborne, Aug. 21, 1966: 'a possible pun on "peel a Murphy"'?

peelo. A pilot: R.A.F.: 1940 +; ob. by 1946. Jackson. Ex the French pron. of the English pilot; obviously not ex Fr. pilote (as occ. implied).

peenicker pawnee (or -ie). A frequent variant of pinnicky pawnee.

peep, n. A car belonging to a Command H.Q.: Canadian Army: ca. 1941–5. Suggested by jeep, 1.—2. A word: mostly spivs': since ca. 1945. "'One more peep out of you, Mister, and I'll get the boys to push you and your b— stall in the oggin'"—which was a nearby canal': Picture Post, Jan. 2, 1954, article on young spivs.

peep-bo (p. 614) is recorded in 1818 (Alfred Burton, Johnny Newcome). Moe. It is 'still common in Australia' (B.P., mid-1963).

peeper, n., 5 (p. 614): late C. 19–20. In, e.g., A. Neil Lyons, Arthur's, 1908.

peeping Tom.—2. Hence, a pilot that is expert at flying in bad weather and at dodging from cloud to cloud: R.A.F.: since 1939. H. & P. His prey is less exciting and much more dangerous than that of Lady Godiva's peeping Tom.

Peer, the. See conkey.

peery, n.—2. (Gen. in pl.: peeries.) A foot, c., and low: C. 20.

peewee. A small yellow marble: Australian schoolchildren's: C. 20. B., 1942.

Peg. Inseparable nickname of girls surnamed Legge: C. 20. Ex peg-leg.

peg, n., 5, is also Australian of C. 20.—10. Esp. in 'It's a peg!', it's first-class or -rate: Australian: since ca. 1930. (B., 1943.) Cf. sense 8: p. 615.—11. (Mostly in pl. pegs.) A signal: railwaymen's: C. 20. (Railway.)—12. (The sandbars and mudflats) 'have white posts on them, with a bit of tin pointing to deep water. . . . Well, they're called pegs' (Nino Culotta, Gone Fishin', 1963): Aus. fishermen's: C. 20.

Sense 2, on p. 615, occurs earlier in James Dalton, A Narrative, 1728, "'I'll take him a Peg in the Face.'" peg, v.—8. (Ex sense 3 ?) To throw: Australian low: since ca. 1930. Baker, 'As in "peg a gooly", throw a stone.' v.—9. To starve (v.i.): Australian: late C. 19–20. Vance Palmer, The Passage, 1930, 'Damn it! I forgot that mare! She's come a long way, and must be pegging for a drink and a feed.' Ex peg out, to die.—10. To put (someone) on a charge: Army: since ca. 1910. (P-G-R.) peg, put in the.—2. A loose variant of peg, put (oneself) on the in Dict.

peg, take down a. See take down a peg, which, in the Dict., is wrongly referred to peg.

peg away (p. 615) occurs earlier in John L. Gardner, The Military Sketch-Book (II, 21), 1831. Moe.

peg-legger.—2. A variant of peg-leg (p. 615): C. 20. The Bournemouth Echo, Oct. 28, 1943.

peg out, 2 (p. 615), apparently comes from cribbage, where pegs are used to keep score; whoever pegs out first, wins. (Leechman.) “My uncle’s pegged out,” he said. “His game of cribbage is done.” Morley Roberts, Maurice Quain, 1897.

peg out. Sense 2 (p. 615) has early American occurrence in Joseph M. Field, Job and His Children (II, i), 1852. Moe.—3. To go to—and use—the w.c.: a certain Oxfordshire girls’ school: (?) late C. 19–20. Ex the feminine posture involved and its resemblance to an old-fashioned clothes-peg.

peg to hang things on!, it’s nice to have a. A c.p. said (C. 20) by such an inferior in business as bears the brunt of a superior’s mistakes.

Peggy. A Pegasus engine—used on certain R.A.F. aircraft: R.A.F. coll.: 1943+. Part-ridge, 1945.—2. A fairly common nickname of men surnamed Peters: since ca. 1910. Merely alliterative.

peggy.—5. A wooden leg: C. 20. Cf. peg-legger. —6. A man with only one leg: navvies’ nickname: ca. 1860–1910. (D. W. Barrett, 1880.)

peggy, stand one’s. To take one’s turn in fetching food and cleaning the fo’c’sle: nautical: C. 20. In e.g., Norman Springer, The Blood Ship, 1923. See peggy, 3 (p. 615).

pegs, on the (p. 616): also, since ca. 1918, very common in the R.A.F.

pelf. Ill-gotten money: workmen’s (—1887). Implied by Baumann. Ex S.E. pelf, money. Contrast kelp.

Pelican. A member of the Pelican Club: ca. 1880–1910. Binstead, A Pink ‘Un and a Pelican 1898.

pelican. ‘A non-flying officer with wings,’ The New Statesman, Aug. 30, 1941. The term is suspect; if it did exist it was only very locally and briefly. See penguin.

pellets. Shells. Royal Artillery: 1939–45. A melosis.

pelt, v.—3. Mostly be, or get, pelted, to get thrown from a horse: Australian rural: since ca. 1890. (Tom Ronan, Moleskin Midas, 1956.)

pelter, out for a. In a very bad temper: proletarian: from ca. 1860; ob. B. & L.

Pemma or Pemmer. Pembroke College (Cambridge): Cambridge undergraduates: C. 20.

pen, n., 3 (p. 616): Australian. B., 1942.—5. (Also v.) A, to, stink: low: late C. 19–20. The v. occurs in, e.g., James Curtis, They Ride by Night, 1938. Short for pen and ink (Dict.).—6. A prisoner-of-war cage: Army: 1941–5. (P-G-R.) Via Canadians; ex sense 2 (p. 616).

pen bait. An under-age girl that flirts with show boys: Canadian carnival s.: C. 20. Here, pen = penitentiary, the destination of men mistreating under-age girls.

Penang lawyer (p. 616): earlier in W. N. Glascock, Sailors and Saints (I, 145), 1829, where spelt Panang lawyer. Moe.

pencil, line the. ‘To make a bee-line for anywhere. Dates from the time when Sir Percy (Guns before Ceremony) Scott introduced his “dotter”,’ Granville: Naval: C. 20.

penciller (p. 616). In Australia: also, the book-maker himself: C. 20. B., 1942.

penguin (p. 616). But sense 1 survives in the nuance, ‘a ground-staff, i.e. non-flying, member of the R.A.F.’: since ca. 1925. H. & P. Cf. kiwi.—3. ‘A cunning specialist who disposed of sand excavated from tunnels so that the ferrets’—see ferret in Addenda—‘could not find it,’ Brickhill & Norton, Escape to Danger, 1946: among prisoners-of-war in Germany, 1940–5.

penguin party. ‘Those who go ashore every night but never go to sea . . . For these men there are shouts of derision: “Penguin Party, fall in!”’ (correspondent, 1959): Naval: since 1946 or 1947. Cf. preceding entry.

penguin suit. A dinner jacket: since late 1950’s. (B.B.C., Feb. 1, 1964.)

peninsula. A very inquisitive female, often with a long neck stretched out to see: jocular: since ca. 1955. Sometimes called an ostrich, esp. if seen peering over neighbours’ hedges or fences. (Petch.)

pennal. Variant of pinnel (Dict.). Eustace Jervis, Twenty-Five Years, 1925.

penner or penner-up. ‘A station hand who confines sheep in woolshed pens at shearing time’ (B., 1943): late C. 19–20: originally coll., it was, by 1945 at latest, S.E.

pennies from heaven. Easy money: since ca. 1925: coll. >, by 1945, familiar S.E. Berta Ruck, Pennies from Heaven, 1940.

pennorth, take a, esp. in the imperative. To go away: Cockney: late C. 19. Of fresh air?

penn’orth of bread. Head: navvies’ rhyming s.: ca. 1860–1910. (D. W. Barrett, Navvies, 1880.)

penn’orth (or ball) of chalk. A walk: late C. 19–20. F. D. Sharpe, The Flying Squad, 1938 (both); Axel Bracey, 1934 (ball . . .). Often shortened to pennorth.

Penny is, esp. in the Services, the inseparable nickname of men surnamed Singleton: since ca. 1945. Ex a woman film star—Penny Singleton.

penny.—2. See penny the pound.

penny? A coll. (late C. 19–20) shortening of a penny for your thoughts: W. L. George, The Making of an Englishman, 1914.

penny-a-mile. A hat: rhyming s. (on tile): from ca. 1870.—2. Hence, head: late C. 19–20. Neil Bell, Crocus, 1936.—3. A smile: rhyming s.: 20. Franklyn, Rhyming.

penny a pound; often merely penny. Ground: rhyming s.: late C. 19–20. (Franklyn, ibid.) penny black. One of the early English postage-stamps: philatelists’ coll.: C. 19–20.

penny bun. See cockle to a penny above.

penny packet; usually in pl. A small party of soldiers—smaller than a platoon—as seen aerially: R.A.F.: since early 1940. H. & P.

penny plain and tuppence coloured, originally (as in R. L. Stevenson’s title for an essay published in 1880: O.E.D.) a penny plain and twopence coloured, has, since ca. 1890, been a c.p. that, since ca. 1950, is slightly ob. Meaning ‘plain or fancy’, the phrase seems to have, at first, referred to cheap fiction, costing one penny with plain jacket and, with coloured-picture jacket, twopence.

penny steamboat. A ferry: jocular coll.: C. 20.

penny stinker. A bad cigar: mostly Cockneys’: from ca. 1880; by 1946, †.

penny the pound. Ground: rhyming: C. 20. Arthur Gardner, Tinker’s Kitchen, 1932. Also penny a pound. Often merely penny.

penny’s dropped!; or the penny’ll drop in a minute. ‘A c.p. to mark the belated appreciation of humour' (Atkinson): since ca. 1930. Ex slot-payment in public lavatories.

pep.—2. Peppermint: C. 20.

pep pill. A stimulant (in tablet form) to a central nervous system: since the late 1940's. Cf. pep on p. 618.

pep talk. A talk or speech designed to improve morale: coll.: since ca. 1925. See pep, 1 (Dict.).

pepper, v.—4. To 'salt' a gold-mining claim. Australian: since ca. 1860. B., 1942.

Pepper Pot, the. 'The gallant Penelope which was so damaged by bomb splinters that she resembled one' (Granville): Naval: War of 1939–45.

peppered, be. To have laid a large stake: turf: from ca. 1870. 'He was peppered in one dangerous quarter alone to the extent of three or four thousand pounds,' quoted by B. & L.

peppermint in one's speech, have a. To stammer: coll., mostly Cockneys': from ca. 1890. Pugh.

peppermint rocks; often peppermints. Socks: rhyming s.: C. 20.

per.—2. Per hour: since ca. 1910. John Newton Chance, Wheels in the Forest, 1935, 'An average of eighty miles per.'

perc. A (coffee) percolator: Society: since ca. 1920. F. E. Bailey, Fleet Street Girl, 1934.

Perce. A Percival communication 'plane: R.A.F.: 1942 +. Partridge, 1945.—2. (Also Percy.) Penis; esp. in point Perce at the porcelain, to urinate: Australian: since ca. 1945. 'Perce the piercer'?—cf. Fr. percer, to pierce.

percentage. Profit; advantage: Army, since ca. 1940; civilian, since ca. 1945. 'There's no percentage in it'—nothing's to be gained by it. (P-G-R.)

percentor. One who works on a commission; one who does this and that, arranges this deal and that, for a percentage: business(-)world coll.: C. 20.

perch, on the. Handcuffed: police s.: since ca. 1925. '... A uniformed constable with his prisoner "on the perch"' (John Gosling, 1959).

percolator. 'To have a shake, rave or percolator ... to have a party' (Anderson): beatniks': since ca. 1959. Ex the coffee percolator that so often features at these affairs.

Percy, in the Royal Navy, has, since ca. 1925, meant an effeminate man; but since ca. 1940, also and esp. a studious, quiet, educated man as opposed to an uncouth 'tough'.—2. See Perce, 2, above.

perde, make. See make perde.

perf. A perforation: stamp-collectors' coll.: late C. 19–20.

perfectly good. Eminently satisfactory; trustworthy, dependable, reliable; (of things) sound, undamaged; (of persons) uninjured, in good health: coll.: since ca. 1930. 'A perfectly good reason or excuse'—'a perfectly good aircraft'—'perfectly good plan'—etc., etc., etc.

perfess. Short for perfessor, professor: Cockney (mostly): C. 19–20.

perform, 2 (p. 619), occurs in Miles Franklin, My Brilliant Career, 1901.—3. To swear vividly, to show a furious temper: Australian: since ca. 1925. (B., 1943.)

perhapser. A very risky stroke: Australian cricketers': since ca. 1930. Dal Stivens, The Scholarly Mouse, 1958.

perim. Perimeter track (encircling an airfield): R.A.F. coll.: since ca. 1937. Jackson.

period! Finally; without extension or modification, palliation or repeal: originally (ca. 1945), journalists', authors', broadcasters', perhaps typists': only since ca. 1955 has it been at all general. 'Dead as a door-nail? Just dead. Period!'

periscope potters. German snipers specialising in smashing British infantrymen's periscopes: 1915–18. (A. B. Petch, March 1966.)

perish, n. See perish, do a, senses 1 (p. 619) and 2. By 1900, sense 1 was general Australian; by 1910, perish was used as an entity, as in 'Their yarns of perishes on dry tracks' (Vance Palmer, Golconda, 1958).

perish, v.t. A low coll., prob. independent of the † S.E. sense, 'destroy'; thus in W. Pett Ridge, Mord Em'ly, 1898, 'Chrise, I'll perish you, if you ain't careful.'

perish, do a, 1 (p. 619): 'not confined to Western Australia' (B.P., mid-1963).—2. Hence, to be homeless; to sleep out at night in the parks: Australian: C. 20. B., 1942.

perisher, 3 (p. 619). A good early example: 'You bleeding little perisher', Sessions, April 1898. 3 (fellow: p. 619). This sense probably goes back at least as far as 1850: cf. 'He had no name. In the thaw they buried him in the pass, and his epitaph was SOME POOR BLOODY PERISHER. 1864': Ruth Park, One-a-Pecker, Two-a-Pecker, 1958, concerning the Otago gold-rush of the 1860's.—6; starver. The former is less gen. than the latter, which is 'muvver's pet name for farver of a Sat'd'y, when 'e comes 'ome slewed wiv' 'alf 'is wages blued': Cockneys': C. 20. Esp. 'you blee'n ol' starver (or, perisher)!' perisher, do a. To die from lack of water: Australian: C. 20. Archer Russell, 1934. A variant of do a perish, 1 (p. 619).

perisher, the. The C.O.'s course for submarine commanders: Naval: 1940 +.

perishing.—2. Very cold, as in 'I didn't 'ave no coat on, an' it were perishing': Cockneys': late C. 19–20. (Julian Franklyn.)

perishing track. An outback route affording no or very little water: Aus. rural: C. 20. (B., 1959.) Cf. perish, do a, above—and on p. 619.

perk, v. To vomit: Australian low: C. 20. B., 1942. A thinning of 'to puke'.—2. To percolate as in 'Coffee won't be long—it's perking nicely': since ca. 1955. Ex percolator rather than ex percolate.

perm (p. 619) had, by 1940, > merely a synonym for a 'hair wave': hence, since ca. 1940, permanent perm, jocular for a 'perm' (in its original sense).—3. A permutation: coll.: since the mid 1920's.

permanent spats. See spats.

pernicated dude. A swaggering dandy: Canadian: ca. 1885–1910. B. & L.

peroney (or -nee). For each man; hence, for each person: parlary, esp. among buskers: mid C. 19–20. Probably an 'easement' or, less likely, a deliberate distortion of per omee, per man (cf. omee, p. 587). Mr Herbert Seaman, learned in the ways of theatre, music-hall, side-show, tells me (letter of 23 July 1950) that 'Mr Dai Griffith, a singer, once sang to me this song, which he said was current among buskers.

Nantee dinarly; the omee of the carsey Says due bionc peroney, manjaree on the cross.

We'll all have to scarper the letty in the morning, Before the bonee omee of the carsey shakes his doss.

The tune is simple, in 6/8 time, and should have a guitar accompaniment.'

peroon. For each, apiece; hence, each: par-lary: mid C. 19-20. Lit. 'for one': Italian per uno. Cf. the entry preceding this and see the quotation at dewey above.

perp(endicular)!, strike me. A Cockney asse-ration: late C. 19-20; ob. Both forms are in Edwin Pugh's 'The Honeymoon' in The Cockney at Home, 1914.

perpetrate a nonsense. 'To issue an order (Local A.A. slang),' H. & P.: ca. 1939-44.

Perry. A Peregrine engine: R.A.F. ground crews': 1942 + . Partridge, 1945.

Persian Gulf. See You know the . . .

[Personifications in early C. 18: Ned Ward has the Old Gentleman, Time (1703), and both the Old Harridan (1700) and her Mope-Eyed Ladyship (1703) for Fortune. Matthews.]

Perspiration Avenue, as in 'She lost weight in . . .': the walking space between the lathes in a large machine-shop, esp. a munitions factory: factory workers': since ca. 1916.

persuader.—6. A crowbar: London Fire Brigade: late C. 19-20.

pertish. Fairly drunk: coll.: ca. 1760-1820. Sessions, 1772, 4th session of Wm Nash's mayoralty.

Peru window. A one-way window that, in a bedroom, enables a third party to watch coition: low Australian: since ca. 1963.

perv, n. Corresponding to the adj.: Australian: since ca. 1930. (B.P.) In nuance 'a male homosexual', it occurs in, e.g., Bernard Hesling, The Dinkumization and Depommification, 1963.

perv, adj. Erotic: Australian: since the late 1920's. Lawson Glassop, 1944, 'Bluey brought a perv book back from Cairo with him'. I.e. a sense-perversion and shortening of perverted.

perv show. A strip-tease show: Australian: since ca. 1930. (B.P.) Cf. perv, adj., above.

perve, v.i. To practise perversion; mostly between women and esp. as in 'What about a spot of perving?': Australian: since ca. 1930. (Communication, June 9, 1941, from Melbourne.) —2. Australian, since ca. 1930, as in 'Eddie was . . . doing, as the boys expressed it, "a bit of perving"'. He was looking at his gallery of nudes and semi-nudes and trying, as usual, to reach a decision about the one he would prefer to sleep with,' Lawson Glassop, We Were the Rats, 1944. 'Its use here often involves no more than watching a girl or woman in admiration. Whence, to perve at (a girl), to extract pleasure from looking at her, esp. if she is scantily dressed as on a beach' (B., 1959).

pervy. Synonymous with perv: 1944, Lawson Glassop.

pesi-pesi. See 'Swahili words . . .'

pest. To pester: Australian: since ca. 1930. Margaret Trist, Now that We're Laughing, 1944, 'It's enough to have a hangover, without you pesting me all the time.'

pest it!; pest it all! A Cockney imprecation: since when? (Pugh).

petal. An effeminate: R.A.F.: since ca. 1938. Partridge, 1945. Prompted by pansy (p. 604).

peted. (Very) weary; physically exhausted: Canadian: since ca. 1860. Morley Roberts, The Western Avernus, 1887. Ex peter out (p. 621), Pete being the diminutive of Peter.

Peter.—2. Among schoolboys, in certain localities, it is a polite synonym of prick, penis: C. 20. Alliterative; cf. John Thomas.

peter, 2. among tramps, always means that bag in which a tramp carries his belongings.—7. Witness-box: Australian police: since ca. 1920. (Vince Kelly, The Greedy Ones, 1958.) Cf. sense 4 on p. 620.—8. A prison cell, whether in gaol or at a court of law: c.: late C. 19-20. (B., 1943; Norman.) Cf. sense 4: p. 620.—9. A prison: Australian low: C. 20. (B., 1943.)—10. A cash-register; a till: Australian c.: since ca. 1925. (B., 1943.)

Sense 1 (p. 620) comes rather from Peter, a rock.

Peter Blobbs. Shirley Brooks of 'The Pink 'Un'. Cf. the Pitcher and the Shifter.

peter (or Peter) boatman; gen. pl. A river pirate: ca. 1798-1840. Cf. peter-man (Dict.).

peter school (p. 621). Also in Australia. B., 1942.

Peter the Painter; usually here's . . ., a jocular c.p. of ca. 1910-20. Ex the legendary figure supposed to have taken part in 'the Battle of Sidney Street' in 1910.

peters. Luggage: taxi-drivers': since ca. 1910. Herbert Hodge, 1938. Cf. peter, n., 1 (p. 620).

petit sergentry. See 'Tavern terms', § 9.

Petticoat Lane is now a coll.; has indeed been a coll. ever since Petticoat Lane assumed respectability as Middlesex Street and Wentworth Street: local London: C. 20.

pettitoes. See 'Body'.

petty (p. 621), 1, 2. Read nighty. The diminutive -y occurs frequently in women's names for their clothes.

Peveril. Sir Walter Scott: from 1822, when his Peveril of the Peak came out. Ex the fact that Scott had a peaked forehead. Also Old Peveril, q.v. in Dict.

pewter, n., 2. (Money): rather earlier in W. T. Moncrieff, Tom and Jerry, 1821. pewter, v.; unload. 'To drink porter out of a quart pot' (Sinks): public-house: ca. 1830-70.

phagassies. 'Those gremlins which sit on the wings and blow on the aileron and send it down' (P-G-R): R.A.F.: 1940-5. Charles Graves, Seven Pilots, 1943.

Phallic Symbol, the. The University Library: Cambridge undergraduates': since ca. 1955. Ex the shape of its tower.

phallic thimble. A sheath pessary: ca. 1920-40. 'Low "educated" punning on "phallic symbol"' (Ramsey Spencer).

phantom. A fraction: law-clerks': C. 20. Edwin Pugh, Harry the Cockney, 1912, "'How much more?" inquired Uncle Algernon, wearily. "Threc and a phantom," replied McGaffney.'

Phar Lap (p. 622). 'Term of address rather than nickname,' Sidney J. Baker, letter, 1946.

Phar Lap gallop. A foxtrot: Australian: since ca. 1932. (B., 1943.) Cf. Phar Lap (p. 622).

pharaoh (p. 622). In Belgium there was, as late as June 18, 1938 (letter from François Fosca): a beer named faro.

Pheebly. The sun: Army: C. 20. (P-G-R.) Ex Phoebus.

phenobarb. Phenobarbitone: coll.: since ca. 1930.

phenomenal avoidance. 'A very narrow escape from crashing a car (Cambridge, 1930),' J. Judfield Willis, letter.

phi (p. 622) was probably coined by E. W. B. Nicholson, the eccentric and sarcastic Bodley's Librarian in 1882-1912. The semantics perhaps run something like this: 'Oh, fie! For shame! Fancy you wanting to read such a book!'

Phil, the. The Philathletic Club at: Harrow School: since ca. 1890 (?). Lunn.—2. A Philharmonic concert: C. 20. See Philharmonic in Dict.

Phil Garlick. Liverpool variant (C. 19-20) of Pilgarlic (p. 629).

Phil McBee. A flea: rhyming s. from ca. 1870. By 1940, †.

Philadelphia lawyer (p. 622) occurs earlier in W. N. Glascock, Sailors and Saints (I, 145), 1829. Moe.

Phineas (p. 622). 'No! The original Phineas McLino is still Catesby's'—as Julian Franklyn tells me in letter of 1962; he adds, 'A copy was presented to the U.C. students by Catesby's after they had taken police action.'

phizzig, n., is an Australian variant of fizz-gig, 2 (p. 280). Vince Kelly, The Shadow, 1955, and The Greedy Ones, 1958.

phizzig, v.i. To act as an informer to the police: Australian: since ca. 1920. (Vince Kelly, The Shadow, 1955.) Cf. preceding.

phone, go for—or use—the. To tic-tac: Australian racing: since ca. 1930. (B., 1953.) To cease doing so is to hang up (the phone).

phoney.—2. Hence, unreal, make-believe, as in the phoney war (Sept. 1939-March 1940), coined by the Americans late in 1939 and adopted by Englishmen early in 1940.—3. Applied to make-believe players in a gambling game: April 7, 1946, The People (article by Alan Hoby).

phoney gen. See gen.

phoney war, the. See phoney, 2 (above).

Phoo. See Chad. (Ex phooey!, nonsense! what do I care?)

phooey! An expression of utter disbelief or pronounced distaste or, even, contempt. Adopted, ca. 1959, ex U.S. Deriving ex the Yiddish form of German pfui and popularized by Walter Winchell during the 1930's. (Wallace Reyburn in the colour section of The Sunday Times, July 8, 1962.)

Phosgene. The Passive Defence Officer: Naval: 1939 + . Granville. Anti-phosgene and all other enemy gases.

photo finish; often reduced to photo (pronounced photer). A Guinness: rhyming s.: since ca. 1946. Franklyn, Rhyming.

Photo Freddie. 'Photo reconnaissance aircraft', Sgt G. Emanuel, letter of March 29, 1945: R.A.F.: 1942 + . Freddie is a frequent code-name or code-reference for a 'plane.

phys.—2. Physics: school's: late C. 19-20. (G. D. H. & M. Cole, Scandal at School, 1935.)

Physic(k). See 'Tavern terms', § 3, d.

Physio. Physiotherapy: physiotherapists', their patients', students': Australian: since ca. 1950.

pi squad (B. & L.) is prob. an error for synonymous pi-squash (Dict.). But, in the Army, pi squad is the regular term for a Bible class: C. 20.

piana. See piano, 3.

pianny. Tipsy: Regular Army: late C. 19-20. Ex parnee (p. 606).

piano, n. A chamber-pot: workmen's: C. 20. Echoic.—2. Ribs of beef: Cockney's: late C. 19-20. J. W. Horsley, 1912.—3. Often slovened to piana. A cash register: Anglo-Irish: since ca. 1920. It plays a merry tune.

piano, play the. To have one's finger-prints taken: c.: from ca. 1910. Contrast playing the piano, 1.—2. (Of a shearer) 'to run one's fingers over the backs of sheep to find the easiest to shear' (B., 1959): Aus. rural: C. 20.

pianola. At cards, a hand that almost plays itself: Australian: since ca. 1925. B., 1942.

piassa. A cleaning rod used on 4-inch Stokes mortars: Army: 1915 + . Ex pisser, 1 (p. 635).

Piccadilly bushman. Any wealthy Australian that lives in the West End of London: Australian: since ca. 1920. B., 1942.

Piccadilly commando. A London prostitute; since 1941, and orig. in the Forces; since 1946, increasingly ob. 'They certainly had the art of achieving a "kill" in the streets without creating a disturbance': the feeling comment made (in 1961) by a war-time R.A.F. officer.

Piccadilly daisy. A prostitute: ca. 1905-40. (Robert Keable, Recompence, 1924.)

Piccadilly Part II Orders. A certain Sunday newspaper (British) that profits by sex and sensationalism: ex-Servicemen's: 1946 + . On Orders of the Day.

piccolo and flute. A suit (of clothes): rhyming s.: since ca. 1870. Cf. whistle and flute (p. 953).

piccolos and flutes. Boots: rhyming s.: since ca. 1930; not very general. Franklyn, Rhyming.

pice(-)money. 'Chicken feed' (small change): Army and R.A.F. in India: C. 20. Cf. picey in the Dict.

pick, c.pp. When a hostess, offering food, says 'Take your pick', some fatuous male can, in non-U society, be counted on to reply, either 'I don't think I'll need a pick' or 'I'll try a hammer and saw if a pick isn't enough': since ca. 1910.

pick, v.—2. To guess: lower-class Australian coll.: C. 20. D'Arcy Niland, The Big Smoke, 1959, 'I pick it right?' Ex pick out, to choose.

pick, come into full. As, e.g., of Brussels sprouts, to be ready for gathering: gardeners', esp. market-gardeners' coll.: late C. 19-20.

pick a bone with. To eat a meal with: jocular coll.: C. 20. (Sax Rohmer, Grey Face, 1924.)

pick and choose. Strong drink: rhyming s. (on booze): theatrical rhyming s.: C. 20. (Franklyn, Rhyming.)

pick-me-up.—3. A police van: South African c.: C. 20. The Cape Times, May 23, 1946.

pick off. To hit (a person) with a stone: Winchester College: mid-C. 19-20. B. & L.

pick on.—2. To find fault with: Canadian and (? hence) English coll.: since ca. 1910; this, since ca. 1930, has, indeed, been the predominant sense. (Leechman.)

pick-out job. 'A man with a smart new cab . . . is sometimes "picked out" by a passenger from the middle of the rank. He has, therefore, got a "pick-out job". They're not much cop, as a rule.' Herbert Hodge, Cab, Sir?, 1939.

pick the bones out of that!, let him; or he can . . . Let him try to retort, or retaliate, to that!: c.p. C. 20.

pick the eyes out of. See eye picker.
pick-up.—6. A ride in lorry or motor-car: tramps' c.: from ca. 1910. W. L. Gibson Cowan, Loud Report, 1937.—7. An arrest: c.: from ca. 1919. Ex sense 6 of the v.—8. The . . ., theft from unattended cars: c.: since ca. 1925. F. D. Sharpe, 1938.

pick up, v., 3 (harlot's nuance): very much earlier in report on trial held in 1721, in Select Trials, from 1720 to 1724, pub. in 1734.—6. To arrest (a wrongdoer): c.: C. 20. E.g. in The Pawnshop Murder. Ex senses 2, 3.—7. To obtain (esp. promotion): Naval coll.: C. 20. Granville, "So-and-so hopes to pick up his half stripe next year." Cf. collect, v., 3 (on p. 170).

Sense 2 and, in orig. nuance, 3 (p. 624) prob. date from ca. 1790 or even 1780. It occurs thus, 'I was a flashman of St Giles/And fell in love with Nelly Stiles . . ./. . . She picked up the flats as they passed by.' See flash-man* above.

pick up fag-ends. To listen to a conversation that does not concern one: Scottish Public Schools': from ca. 1910. Ian Miller, School Tie, 1935.

picked before he was ripe. (A person) 'undersized or rawly innocent' (B., 1959): Aus.: since ca. 1920.

pickled monkey. 'A species of animal served by the Germans to prisoners-of-war. Its identity was never determined by the recipients,' Anon., The Soldier's War Slang Dictionary, 1939: P.o.W.s', 1914-18.

pickled pork. Conversations: since ca. 1890. The (Birmingham) Evening Despatch, July 19, 1937. Rhyming on talk.

pickling-tubs. 'Wellington, or top boots' (Sinks): low: ca. 1830-70.

picky. A pickpocket: policemen's: ca. 1880-1914. Arthur Griffiths, Criminals I Have Known, 1895.

picture, get the. To understand (esp. the general idea): coll.: since ca. 1935. Cf. put in the picture below.

picture, get one's. To 'get one's cards'—be dismissed from one's job: since ca. 1920. Richard Llewellyn, None But the Lonely Heart, 1943.

picture, paint a. See paint.—picture, put in the. See put . . .

picture gallery. A trench exposed to snipers: Army on the Western front: 1914-18. (Reginald Pound, The Lost Generation, 1964.)

piddle, v. Sense 1, also metaphorically of ineffectual writing. Scott, letter of Nov. 10, 1814, concerning a play: 'He piddles through a cullender.'

piddling. Trivial; insignificant: low coll.: C. 20.

pie.—4. 'Association of buyer at auction to buy at low prices and act as a monopoly' (B.P.): Australian coll., esp. 'the wool pies': since late 1940's. Ex 'to have a finger in every pie'.

pie, put into the. At book sales, to put into a large lot, to be sold at the end: auctioneers': from ca. 1860. B. & L.

pie and one. Son: rhyming s.: late C. 19-20.

pie-ard (see on p. 626). Straight ex the Hindustani comes the R.A.F. Regulars' nuance, 'any dog' (Jackson). The Army in North Africa (1940-3) used pie dog of any desert dog.

pie at or pie on, be. To be very good at (something): New Zealand and Australian: C. 20. B., 1941, 'It has been derived from the Maori pai, good.' Cf. pie on (Dict.).

pie eater. 'Someone of no importance' (B., 1959): Aus.: C. 20.

pie-eyed. Topsy: adopted, ca. 1943, ex U.S., where it derives ex Standard American pie-eyed, having the eyes pied, i.e. disordered, unable to focus.

pie in the sky when you die, often preceded by you'll get or, occasionally and loosely, there'll be. A derisive, basically cynical American c.p., implying that the hope of a happy hereafter is illusory. As an American c.p., it dates—according to Wentworth & Flexner—from ca. 1910, but there is reason to suspect that ca. 1907 would be nearer the mark, for either it originated as a taunt addressed by members of the I.W.W. (slogan: 'Workers of the world, unite') to non-sympathisers in general and to the conventionally minded in particular, and, as such, served to inspire Joe Hill's (but is it certain that it was Joe Hill's?) song, The Preacher and the Slave, published in or about the year 1906, as Webster's New International Dictionary, 3rd edition, 1961, states, or the I.W.W. very promptly utilized the song or rather the one phrase pie in the sky when you die. The phrase caught on, and by ca. 1910 or, at latest, 1912, was addressed, no longer merely by the underprivileged to the privileged but by anyone to anyone sure of a coming Utopia or an eventual Heaven. By 1920, it was fairly common in Canada and in other American-affected parts of the world.

In his long-out-of-print American Tramp and Underworld Songs and Slang, the late Godfrey Irwin includes in the glossary this entry:—

PIE IN THE SKY.—One's reward in the hereafter. From that parody on the hymn, 'In the Sweet Bye and Bye', which declares in the refrain:

'You will eat, bye and bye,
 In that glorious land in the sky;
 Work and pray, live on hay, You'll get pie in the sky when you die.'

In the selection of songs, Irwin gives the full text of Joe Hill's The Preacher and the Slave and thus identifies the parody with the song.

pie match. A cricket match after which the losing side pays for a feast: Rugby School: from ca. 1860. By 1966, †. (David Wharton, June 6, 1966.)

piebald pony. A half-caste (Aboriginal) child: Northern Territory, Australia: since ca. 1920. Ernestine Hill, The Territory, 1951.

piece, 1, has, in C. 19-20, been usually apprehended as elliptical for piece of tail.—4. Patter: pitch-holders' in any open market, e.g. the old Caledonian, that in Portobello Road, the Sunday market in Petticoat Lane: late (? mid) C. 19-20.

piece, say one's. To say what one has intended to say, esp. in business or in moral duty: coll.: since ca. 1910. Ex obligatory recitation at, e.g., a party.

piece-broker. A 'fence' specialising in stolen cloth: c.: mid-C. 19-20. B. & L.

piece of cake, a. 'A thing that is easy to handle or an unmistakable opportunity,' H. & P.: R.A.F.: since ca. 1938. 'A cakewalk, a snip' (H. & P.); or rather, perhaps, something as easy to take as a portion of cake. It's a Piece of Cake or R.A.F.

Slang Made Easy, by Squadron-Leader C. H. Ward-Jackson, 1943. For other festive or comestible terms, cf. party and groceries, cookie and cabbage.

piece of dough for the troops. A catamite: Forces': since ca. 1910.

piece of duff, a. An occ. variant of the prec. Jackson, 1943.

piece of homework—of knitting. See homework and knitting.

piece of nice. An attractive girl: R.A.F. and Navy: 1940+. Partridge, 1945; Granville.

piece of piss. A 'piece of cake' (as above): R.A.F.: 1940+. So often it turned out to be not quite so easy, not quite so pleasant as the 'It'll be a piece of cake' had led one to expect.

piece of pudding. A piece of good luck; a welcome change; proletarian: from ca. 1870; ob. B. & L.

piece of resistance (not pièce de résistance). Constipation: Australian: since ca. 1930. B., 1942. A pun!

piece of stray. A chance complaisant woman; a married man's mistress: mostly Forces': 1939+.

piece of stuff. A woman: Naval: ca. 1790–1860. The Night Watch (I, 151), 1828. Moe.

piece of thick. A piece of pressed cake tobacco: non-aristocratic: from ca. 1860. B. & L.

piece of toffee. A 'toff': c. and low s.: since ca. 1920. (Nicholas Blake, The Whisper in the Gloom, 1954.)

piecee one. First rate: pidgin (mid-C. 19–20) > Naval (C. 20). Granville. Cf. number one piecee.

pieces. Money: c.: mid-C. 19–20; ob. B. & L. Perhaps, as Douglas Leechman has suggested, ex 'pieces of eight'.

pieces, do one's. To go mad: Army: since ca. 1925.

pieces, the.—2. The ship's guns: Naval (officers') coll.: C. 20. Granville. The coll. revival of the singular English term long obsolete.

pier-head jump. A wholly unexpected draft-chit: Naval: since ca. 1918. (P-G-R.) Cf.:

pier-head jumper is the agent of pier-head jump, do a (p. 626).

pierce. To peer: catachrestic: C. 20. The Pawnshop Murder: 'Beady eyes piercing around at all objects'.

Piermont Yank. Synonymous with Woolloomooloo Yank: B., 1943.

pig, n.—10. An elephant: circus: C. 20. Edward Seago, Sons of Sawdust, 1934.—11. Short for the singular of pigs aft: lower-deckese: since ca. 1912 (Weekly Telegraph, Oct. 25, 1941).—12. A rugby football: Australian rugby footballers': C. 20. B., 1942. Pigskin casing.—13. A locomotive; pig mauler, locomotive engineer; pig(-)pen, locomotive roundhouse: Canadian railroadmen's (—1931).

—14. An officer: Australian airmen's: 1939–45. (B., 1943.) Cf. sense 11.—15. A prostitute: low Canadian: since ca. 1930. (Brian Moore, The Luck of Ginger Coffey, 1960.)—16. A girl; a young lady: beatniks': since ca. 1959. (Anderson.)

pig, in. Pregnant: rural upper classes': since ca. 1870. (Nancy Mitford, The Pursuit of Love, 1945.)

Pig, the. The Blue Boar Hotel, Trinity Street, Cambridge: University of Cambridge, mostly undergraduates': C. 20. (David Wharton, June 6, 1966.)

pig and roast. Toast (bread): Army rhyming s.: ca. 1939–45. (Franklyn, Rhyming.)

Pig and Whistle, the. Also a certain college staircase: at Oxford (?): from ca. 1860. Perhaps connected with 'the Pig and Whistle', a coach mentioned in Tom Brown's Schooldays.

pig and whistle, the. A ship's canteen: nautical: C. 20. The Pig and Whistle is a popular inn-name.

pig at a tater, go at it like a. To act like a bull in a china shop: late C. 19–20; orig., Black Country dial.; by 1930, a gen. Midlands coll. (Richard Merry.)

Pig Bridge (p. 627). Note Ware's mistake of using the Oxford quad instead of the Cambridge court.

pig-fucker or, when there's company, the P.F. man. That man who, in a lumber camp, looks after the tools: Canadian lumbermen's: C. 20.

pig mauler. See pig, n., 13.

pig-mill. A canteen: industrial Australian: since ca. 1920. (D'Arcy Niland, 1958.)

pig on pork; esp. draw pig on pork, to draw post-dated cheques: commercial: ca. 1810–80. J. W., Perils, Pastimes and Pleasures, 1848.

pig pen. See pig, n., 13.

pig-sick, make (a person). To irritate (him): Cockneys': C. 20.

pig-sticker.—5. A cavalryman, or his lance: British infantrymen's: 1914–18.

pig-sticking. Sodomy: low Canadian: since ca. 1920.

pig-sty.—3. In the Navy, it is a lower-deck term (see pigs aft) for the Wardroom: since ca. 1914.

pig-sty.—4. A sty: Australian jocular: C. 20. (Ruth Park, Poor Man's Orange, 1950.) 'No longer jocular. It has become a solecism' (B.P., mid-1963).

pig-tail.—3. A roll of coarse tobacco: ? ca. 1780–1860. 'He answered, squirting a quid of pig-tail on the floor': Wm Maginn, Whitehall, 1827.

pig to be killed!, then comes a. See then comes . . . in the Dict.

pigeon, 6. (p. 628) should be back-dated by more than 100 years! It occurs in Basil Hall, Voyage . . . to Eastern Seas, in the Year 1816, published at Edinburgh in 1826, "I come to see about your pigeon". . . . I afterwards learned that . . . "pigeon" in the strange jargon . . . spoken at Canton by way of English, means business. . . . "I am come to see about your business." (Moe.) —7. In 1941–2, an airman was occ., in the R.A.F., called pigeon.

pigeon-fancier. A professional gambler: gamblers' c. of ca. 1800–50. J. J. Stockdale, The Greeks, 1817. Pun on pigeon, n., 5 (p. 628).

pigeon gremlin. A patronising gremlin, active only in hot weather: R.A.F.: 1940–5.

pigeon on. To drop (something) on to a person from above: Australian: C. 20. B., 1942.

pigeons and pigs. The boys of St Paul's and St Anthony's Schools were respectively called thus by each other: C. 16 and later.

piggies. Toes of baby or small child: domestic: late C. 19–20. Ex the nursery story, 'This little piggy went to market, this little piggy stayed at home.' (B.P.)

piggy. Pick-a-back: children's: C. 20. Short for piggy-back, pick-a-back.—2. A rating detailed to keep tidy a Petty Officers' mess; a messman: Naval (lower-deck): since ca. 1910. Mostly as a nickname. (P-G-R.)

pigs.—2. Small potatoes: farmers': C. 20. Cf. pig, n., 8 (Dict.).

pigs! A derisive or contemptuous exclamation: Australian: since ca. 1930. (B., 1943.) But prob. earlier: witness Norman Lindsay, Saturdee, 1933, "Pigs to your old man."

pig's. Beer: elliptical for pig's ear (p. 628 and below): C. 20. 'Nah, not a pint of pig's': Tommy Steele, the famous comedian, as reported in Cinema early in Dec. 1967.

pigs, Naval; pigs, small. Officers; Petty Officers: Naval (lower-deck): C. 20. (P-G-R.) Cf. pig, n., 11.

pigs aft. The officers regarded as drinking in the Wardroom: lower-deckese: since ca. 1910. Robert Harling, The Steep Atlantick Stream, 1946.

pigs are up. 'The barrage balloons are up,' H. & P.: Services: since ca. 1939. Prob. with ref. to pork sausages.

pig's arse, in a. A low c.p. of dissent or disbelief: Australian: since ca. 1945. An adaptation of pig's eye (below)—which, by the way, had itself > Australian by 1945.

pig's back, on the (p. 628) occurs in James Joyce, Ulysses, 1922.

pig's ear (p. 628) occurs in D. W. Barrett, Navvies, 1880.—2. A 'side light colour signal' (Railway, 3rd): railwaymen's: C. 20.—3. A blunder: mostly middle-class: since ca. 1945. Elizabeth Hargreaves, A Handful of Silver, 1954, "I've made a real pig's ear of it, haven't I?" said Basil, with an attempt at lightness. (Laurie Atkinson, who asks, 'Rhyming s. for smear?') pig's eye, 2, was, by 1959, dead. (Leechman.) —3. To convey an emphatic negative, thus: 'In a pig's eye, you could!': Canadian: adopted, ca. 1945, ex U.S. (Leechman.) The phrase in a pig's eye was orig. euphemistic for in a pig's arse or . . . arse-hole, as in a bawdy song current long before 1940. (Am. correspondent.)

pig's face. 'A nickname for the ice-plant' (B., 1943): Australian: C. 20.

pig's fry.—2. To try: rhyming s.: C. 20. Axel Brace, Public Enemies, 1934.

pigs in shit; e.g., as comfortable as . . . The utmost comfort, utterly comfortable: low coll.: esp. in the Services: late C. 19–20.

pigskin artist. A jockey: Australian: since ca. 1912. B., 1942. See pigskin (p. 629).

pigtail. Navy perique tobacco: Naval: since ca. 1900. Granville. Cf.—and see—prick, n., 6.

pike, n., 1 (p. 629): earlier in Sessions, May 1839.—5. See pyke.

pike, hit the. To take to the road; to start travelling: Canadian (ex U.S.): since ca. 1910. (Leechman.)

piker.—4. A man that habitually takes more than his share: low: from ca. 1931. Ex U.S.—5. One who ventures but timidly: Canadian (ex U.S.): since ca. 1930. Leechman.—6. Hence, a shirker: adopted, ca. 1943, ex U.S. and slightly adapted.—7. A confidence trickster: Australian: since ca. 1935. (B., 1943.) In Australia the best-known sense is the 5th; it has 'killed sense 7' (B.P.). In New Zealand sense 6 has, since ca. 1943, been common. (Slatter.)—8. (Ex 5, 6, 7.) 'A mean, contemptible person' (Culotta): Australian: since ca. 1944.

Sense 3, on p. 629, is perhaps more accurately defined as 'a troublesome beast to muster' (Mary Durack, Keep Him My Country, 1955.)

piking, n. 'Sharp practice' (Culotta): Australian: since the late 1930's. Cf. piker, 7, above.

pile, have a. To have a difficult task, a hard time: Canadian coll.: late C. 19–20. W. A. Gape, Half a Million Tramps, 1936. I.e. a 'pile' of trouble.

pile-driver, (heavy punch). Rather: mid-C. 19–20. It occurs in Augustus Mayhew, Paved with Gold, 1857.—4. See dekkoscope.

pile o' mags. A conjurer: theatrical: ca. 1870–1914. B. & L.

pile on the coals. 'To accelerate rapidly, to open the throttle of car or aeroplane' (Peter Sanders): since ca. 1950. Cf. pour on . . . below.

pile-up, n. See pile-up, 3 on p. 926.—2. (Hence?), a crash involving several cyclists: racing cyclists' coll.: since ca. 1945.—3. Hence, a motorway accident involving several cars: journalists' coll.: since ca. 1955; by 1965, fairly gen. (Ramsey Spencer, March 1967.) See also pile up, v., on p. 629.

pile up, v.i. (Of an aircraft) to crash-land: R.A.F.: since ca. 1930. The 'plane becomes a pile—a heap of useless material. Imm. ex pile up, 2 (p. 629).

pile up points. See points . . .

piled(-)in. (Of an aircraft) crashed: R.A.F.: since ca. 1930; ob. by 1946. Jackson.

pilgrims. A newcomer, whether persons or cattle: Western Canadian (and U.S.): late C. 19–20.

Pilgrims, the. The earliest settlers in Canterbury, New Zealand: N.Z. coll.: late C. 19–20. (B., 1943.)

pill, n.—10. A 'shot' of dagga (i.e. marijuana, Cannabis indica): S. African c.: C. 20. The Cape Times, May 22, 1946.

Pill Avenue. Harley Street: taxi-drivers': Sept. 12, 1941, The Weekly Telegraph. By 1948 (The Daily Telegraph, May 18) the name was Pill Island.

pill-bo'sun. See fang bo'sun.

pill-box.—7. (Ex senses 1, 2: p. 630.) A General Staff Daimler limousine: military: 1917 + —8. A revolver: 1929, Edward Woodward, The House of Terror. Not much used.—9. A rocket-projector: Naval: 1939 + . Ex shape.

Pill Island. See Pill Avenue.

pillar and post. A ghost: 'the ghost' (monetary): theatrical rhyming s.: late C. 19–20. (Franklyn, Rhyming.)

pillar box. A rocket-projector: Naval: since ca. 1942. Ex the shape. (P-G-R.)

pillars to the temple. A woman's legs: Public Schoolmen's: late C. 19–20. Not so much euphemistic as playfully allusive.

pillocks; pillocky. 'He's talking pillocks' (non-sense) and 'Don't talk so pillocky' (so foolishly and nonsensically): Cockneys': late C. 19–20. Blends of pill(s), testicles(s), and its synonym ballocks, adj. ballocky. (Julian Franklyn.)

Pills (cf. pills, 7) is also the inseparable nickname for men surnamed Beecham: C. 20. Ex the famous Beecham's pills.

pills, 1. Mostly as a nickname; in the Navy (since 1920, anyway), a Junior Medical Officer. Granville, 'The term is less popular than the more familiar "Doc".'

It occurs in 'Bartimeus', A Tall Ship, 1915, and may therefore have been current since ca. 1910 or even earlier.

pills!, all. Nonsense: Scottish Public Schools': C. 20. Ian Miller. Ex pills, 4 (Dict.). Note, however, that pills! or all pills! was gen. s. from as early as 1890.

pilot. Earlier in 'Taffrail'; also as nickname. 'Taffrail': 'The first lieutenant . . . is "Jimmy the One"; the gunnery and torpedo lieutenants, the "Gunnery Jack" and "Torpedo Jack" respectively, but, to their messmates in the ward-room, these three officers, with the officer borne for navigation duties, are usually "Number One", "Guns", "Torps", and "Pilot".'—2. A watchman: Londoners': ca. 1810-40. Pierce Egan, Life in London, 1821. Cf. light-house, 4.—3. See 'Hauliers' Slang'.

Pilot's Cockpit, the. The W.A.A.F.: airmen's since ca. 1946.

pimp, n., 3 (p. 630). Also Australian: B., 1942.—4. A police informer: Australian police: since ca. 1910. (Vince Kelly, The Bogeyman, 1956.) Prob. ex sense 1 (p. 630), pimps being reputed to 'tell all' if interrogated. Writing in mid-1963, B.P. notes that pimp on is very common among Australian schoolchildren in the innocent sense 'tell on' (someone).

pimp, v. 'To do little, mean, petty actions': University coll.: mid-C. 19-20; ob. B. & L.—2. To 'tell tales': Australian and New Zealand: C. 20. (B., 1943; Ruth Park, Pink Flannel, 1955.)—3. Hence, to inform the police: Australian: since ca. 1910. (B., 1943.)

pimp on. To inform against (someone): Australian low: since ca. 1910. Baker.

pimp-stick. A cigarette: (low) Canadian: C. 20. (Niven.)

pimple.—4. A gun-position cover 'just visible above the fuselage of a plane'. H. & P.: R.A.F.: since ca. 1930.—5. A contemptible person: Marlborough College: since ca. 1930.—6. The nose: pugilistic: ca. 1815-60. 'A Real Paddy', 1822.—7. A baby's penis: women's: late C. 19-20.—8. Syphilis: Naval: C. 20. A jocular meiosis.—9. See 'Hauliers' Slang' and (on p. 630) cf. sense 3.—10. A shunting hump: railwaymen's: C. 20. (Railway 2nd.) pimple and blotch. Whisky (strictly Scotch): rhyming: C. 20.

pimple and wart. A quart: public-house rhyming s.: late C. 19-20; by 1960, virtually †. (Franklyn 2nd.)—2. Port wine: public-house rhyming s.: late C. 19-20; by 1960, very ob. (Ibid.) pimple-coverer. The head; a hat: fast life: ca. 1815-40. Pierce Egan, Finish of Tom, Jerry and Logic, 1828. Cf. pimple, 2 (p. 630).

pin, n.—5. See pinhead, 3.

pin, v.—6. To coit with (a woman). C. 20. Cf. prick, 3 (p. 659).

pin back your ears or pin your ears back. Listen carefully: adopted, ca. 1937, from U.S.—2. Hence, that'll pin your ears back, that will constitute a set-back: mostly Forces': 1940 +. (Atkinson.)

pin for home. To go home: Canadian railroadmen's (— 1931).

pin-money spoof. Vague, pointless amateurish writing: journalistic: since ca. 1910.

pin-splitter.—2. Since ca. 1935, predominantly a golf-shot dead on the pin: golfers' col.

pin-up. An attractive girl, or her likeness: coll.: adopted, 1944-5, ex U.S. servicemen.

Extended, ca. 1955, to a handsome male, similarly 'honoured' by teen-age girls.

pin your ears back! See pin back . . .

pinch, n.—3. An arrest: low: late C. 19-20. (The Pawnshop Murder.) Ex pinch, v., 4 (Dict.).—4. 'Short, steep hill' (Sarah Campion, Bonanza, 1941): American coll.: late C. 19-20. Adopted from English dial.

pinch, on a (p. 631): earlier in W. N. Glascock, Sailors and Saints (I, 31), 1829. (Moe.) Prob. to be dated back to ca. 1800.

pinch-gut.—3. Hence (?), 'a niggardly victualing officer' (Granville): Naval: C. 20.

pinch it off! Get a move on!: Australian: since ca. 1925. B., 1942. Defecatory.

pinch the cat. See cat, pinch the.

pincher, 3, is recorded earlier by 'Taffrail.'

pine-apple.—4. See next.

pineapple chunk. A bunk (to sleep in): merchant seamen's rhyming s.: C. 20. Often shortened to pineapple.

pineapple cut. A 'basin crop': Australian: C. 20. Baker. Shaggy.

piner. An axeman working on pine trees: Tasmanian coll.: late C. 19-20. Baker.

ping, n. An Asdic rating: Naval: since ca. 1935. Granville. He works the Asdic mechanism. Echoic.

ping! A synonym of line! above: R.A.F.: 1939-45. 'Echoic of the "line" rebounding from the wall like an asdic response?': Ramsey Spencer.

ping, get a. To receive a sound on the Asdic gear: Naval coll.: since ca. 1935. (P-G-R.)

pinger. The Asdic officer: Naval: since ca. 1936. Cf preceding entries.

pinhead.—2. A simple fellow; a fool: Australian: since ca. 1920. B., 1942. So small a head can contain but few brains.—3. (Also pin). A brakeman: Canadian railroadmen's (— 1931).—4. Anyone with a very small head; esp., a very tall man with a head either really or apparently very small: since ca. 1945.

pinning away, he (or she) is—or you are. A jocular c.p., referring or addressed to someone putting on weight: C. 20. (I remember hearing it ca. 1908.)

Pink or Pinkie (-ky). Inevitable nickname of any pink-eyed albino: late C. 19-20. In, e.g., John Gloag, Unlawful Justice, 1962.

pink, n.—5. An outstanding 'swell' or dandy: buckish: ca. 1815-40. Pierce Egan, 1821. Ex the adj., 1.—6. A caution card: Canadian railroadmen's coll. (— 1931). Ex its colour.

pink, adj.—4. Mildly Socialistic: C. 20. Prompted by red, Communistic.

pink-eye. An addict of 'pinkie': Australian: C. 20. Baker.

pink fit, have a. Intensive of have a fit, to be much perturbed or alarmed: since ca. 1935.

pink lint. Penniless: racing circles' rhyming s.: since ca. 1920. On skin. Cf. boracic lint above. Franklyn 2nd.

Pink Palace, the. The Leander Club; its headquarters: oarsmen's: C. 20. Its colours are pink.

pink pills for pale people. A humorous c.p. interjected into talk about patent medicines or quacks' cure-alls: since ca. 1900. Ex the wording of an actual remedy, much advertised.

pink tea. 'A more than usually formal tea-party' (Leechman): Canadian: since ca. 1925. Leechman, 'Derisive.'

Pink 'Un, The.—2. The Financial Times, founded in 1913: businessmen's.

pinked, ppl. adj. Carefully and beautifully made: tailors': mid-C. 19–20. B. & L.

pinkier. A blow that draws blood: pugilistic: ca. 1880–1914. Ibid.

pinkers. A pink gin: Naval officers': since ca. 1920. By 'The Oxford-er'.

Pinkie or Pinky. See Pink above.—2. A white man—less common—or woman: West African teenagers' (and others') in Britain: since late 1950's. The Observer, Sept. 10, 1967, 'By the time they leave school, whites have become "pinkie", "the grey man" or—less common—"Mr Charlie".'

pinkie (or -y).—2. Red wine: since ca. 1890; ob. Sessions, March 10, 1897.—3. Methylated spirits coloured with red wine—or with Condry's crystals: Australian: C. 20. Archer Russell, Gone Nomad, 1936.—4. A Lesbian: low: since ca. 1925. Gerald Kersh, Night and the City, 1938.—5. An addict of methylated spirits: Australian: since ca. 1925. (B., 1943.) Ex sense 3.—6. A rabbit bandicoot: Australian rural: since ca. 1930. (B., 1953.)—7. A new hand: London dockers': since ca. 1945. (The New Statesman, Dec. 31, 1965.)

pinko.—2. Drunk on methylated spirits: Australian: since ca. 1925. (B., 1943.)

pinnicky pawnee (or -ie) and numerous other spellings. Drinking-water: mid-C. 19–30: Indian >, by 1900, gen Army s.: Blaker, concerning early 1915: 'This "rooti" and other words from the "bat" acquired in India were ancestors of the common speech of the army of coming years: "Rooti", "pinnicky pawnee", "dekko", "jildi", and the more ordinary "buckshee".' Ex Hindustani, in which penee ka panee is 'water of [ka] drinking', i.e. drinking-water.

pinny, catch (her) under the. To coit with (a woman): C. 20.

pint-pot.—2. A one-pint tin can, used for boiling water: Australian rural coll.: late C. 19–20. (B., 1943.)

pinta. A pint of milk: since ca. 1962. Ex the slogan Drink a pinta milka day. Semantically and phonetically cf. cuppa, a cup of tea.

pioneer. An early convict in Australia: Australian ironic coll.: mid-C. 19–20. B., 1942.

pip off. To die: since ca. 1934. Ex the pip-pip of the radio. Cf. pip out (p. 633).

Pip, Squeak and Wilfred.—2. In the middle of a column of Palestine news, there appeared, on Friday, Oct. 2, 1936, in The Evening News, the following record of a phrase coined, in this connexion, late in Sept 1936:

Pip, Squeak, Wilfred.

The naval gun units known as Pip, Squeak, and Wilfred are being increasingly used in co-operation with the Army against the Arab rebels.

Pip is a two-pounder, Squeak is a three-pounder, and Wilfred is a searchlight. All are mounted on open lorries.—
Reuter.

pip in. 'To clock in, to synchronise the time in an aircraft while in flight with the time at base in order that the navigational position may be fixed by radio,' Jackson: Air Force: since ca. 1936.

pip-squeak.—4. (Ex 2.) A rifle grenade: Army: 1914–18.—5. (Ex 1.) A toady: Australian: since ca. 1919. B., 1942.—6. 'Forgetting to switch off his "pip-squeak" (radio contactor), Nicky climbed thankfully out on to the wing,' Paul Brickhill & Conrad Norton, Escape to Danger, 1946. H. & P. 1943, 'Radio telephony set': R.A.F. (aircrews') since ca. 1935. Cf. sense 2. At short intervals, it goes pip squeak.

"Radio-telephony set" is perhaps misleading. The pip-squeak was an automatic transmitter only, whose once-a-minute signals enabled ground direction-finding stations to fix the aircraft's position accurately for the benefit of the Fighter Controller in the Operations Room. But for those seconds when it was transmitting, ordinary radio-telephonic communication with the pilot was not possible. The Controller's occasional query: "Is your pip-squeak in (i.e. switched on)?" soon acquired sexual connotations.

An equivalent equipment in homing bombers was I.F.F. (Identification, Friend or Foe), which, however, imparted a characteristic pulse to the visual echo on radar screens.' (Ramsey Spencer, March 1967.)

pipe, n.—7. The Pipe is the Underground: London taxi-drivers': since ca. 1930. See rattler, 6.—8. See 'Hauliers' Slang'.

pipe, v.—6. To speak too loudly: Naval (lower-deck) coll.: C. 20. 'All right, Jack, don't pipe it. We can hear.' Ex the bosun's piping the routine calls.—8. To look at: Canadian (ex U.S.): since ca. 1930.

pipe, it's a. It's a certainty: filmland adopted, ca. 1925, from U.S. Cameron McCabe, The Face, 1937. 'Perhaps contraction of "lead-pipe cinch" = dead certainty, but possibly derived rather from pipe-dream—orig., from the opium pipe, which makes all things seem easy' (Robert Clairborne, Aug. 31, 1966).

pipe, take a (p. 633), seems to have a variant, as in

'I waited till the fruit was ripe,
Then thinking to be thrifty,
I left the youth to stretch his pipe,
I had nabb'd a bill for fifty'—

'I' being a prostitute and the lines occurring in The Rolling Blossom, a ballad of ca. 1800. (Moe.)

pipe, up your. A rude retort ('go and hang yourself'): Army: since ca. 1930. Also up your gonga (pron. gong -ger) and up your jacksie.

pipe line. An aerial: R.A.F.: 1939 +.

pipe-spoiler. A plumber: Naval (lower-deck): C. 20. (P-G-R.)

piped up, be or get. To be, or become, tipsy: since ca. 1925. Gavin Holt, The Murder Train, 1936.

pipers. Lungs: pugilistic: mid-C. 19–20; ob. B. & L.

pipes, 2, occurs in 1818 (Alfred Burton, Johnny Newcome). Moe.

pipes, open one's. See 'Verbs'.

pipi (p. 634). The forms peppy, pippy, are solecistic; but pipi is a 'Maori name for a bivalve-like cockle' (Sidney J. Baker, letter, 1946) and is therefore ineligible. But, Barry Prentice tells me in mid-1963, pippy is almost coll.: he adds that the Australian and the New Zealand pipi are quite different, the one from the other.

pipped, 'annoyed' (p. 634). An early occurrence: "How's Leverton?"—"Rather pipped, thank you," replied Miss Disney, A. Neil Lyons, Simple Simon, 1914.

pipped, get. See bumped.

pipped on (or at) the post. To fail or be circumvented after having been within reach of success or victory or one's goal: sporting (ca. 1892) >, by 1920, gen. (The Daily Telegraph, April 16, 1937.) Ex pip, v., 4 (Dict.). Also occasionally pipped on the tape, as in P. G. Wodehouse, Ukridge, 1924. See also beaten at the post above.

pipper. Something, esp. a play, that turns out to be very successful: theatrical: since ca. 1930. Anthony Berkeley, Trial and Error, 1937.

pippin, 2 (p. 634). An early record of my pippin, in address: 1821. W. T. Moncrief, Tom and Jerry.

pippish. Disgruntled; depressed: Cockney coll.: C. 20. Pugh. See pip, the corresponding n. in the Dict.

pippy.—3. Australian variation of pipped: since ca. 1925. B., 1942.

pirate.—2. (also v.) A man that picks up casual feminine company; on the pirate, watchful for such company: Australian: since ca. 1925. Baker.

pirate of the narrow seas. See 'Tavern terms', § 7.

pirates on the poop. 'Chaplain, marine officers, and midshipmen' (W. N. Glascock, Sketch-Book, 2nd Series, 1834, at I, 167). Moe.

piscatorial. Dubious; jocular: since ca. 1845, but never common. (Francis Francis, Newton Dogvane, 1859.) A word-play on fishy, 1 (p. 279).

Piscie. A member of the Episcopalian Church: Scottish Public Schools': C. 20. Ian Miller, School Tie, 1935. Cf.:

Piskey or Pisky. Episcopalian: Scottish: C. 20. Should prob. be dated mid C. 19–20.

piss, n.—2. Weak table-beer sold in France: Army: 1914 +.—3. Hence, weak English beer: 1919 +.—4. Hence, any drink of poor quality: since ca. 1920.—5. Beer: (low) Australian: since ca. 1925. (B.P.)

Sense 1, by the way, has, since ca. 1960, been regaining very fair respectability.

piss, go on the. To drink heavily: low: since ca. 1910. Much liquor, much urine.

piss, long streak of. Someone who overestimates his own ability or importance: low: C. 20.

piss, piece of. See piece of piss.

piss, take the. To make fun: low: since ca. 1925. Brendan Behan, Borstal Boy, 1958. "Don't mind me, Kid," said Tubby. "I just can't help taking the piss." Cf. piss out of, take the above.

piss-a-bed (p. 635). Cf. the Fr. pisse-en-lit.

piss about. To potter; fritter one's time away; to stall for time: low: C. 20.

piss and wind, as in 'He's all piss and wind!' Empty talk; unsubstantiated boast(s): low coll.: C. 20. He can urinate, not defecate.

piss-ant around. 'To waste time, dawdle, "mess about"' (B., 1959): Aus.: C. 20. 'For God's sake, stop piss-anting around!'

piss-arse about. To fool about, waste time:

Army: since ca. 1920. (P-G-R.)

piss-ball. A query to be answered: lower grades (male) of Civil Service: since ca. 1945. A 'stinker'.

piss-ball about. To act in a futile or an irritating manner: low: since ca. 1920.

piss down one's back (p. 635) survives in C. 20 in the slight variant p. up one's back.

piss hard-on, a. A matutinal erection caused by the desire, and need, to urinate; Canadian low: C. 20.

piss-head. An habitually heavy drinker: New Zealand low: since ca. 1930. Cf. pissed (p. 635) and, in form, shit-head.

piss in a quill (p. 635) was already current in C. 17; John Lilburne used it. (Jack Lindsay, communication of 1939.)

piss in (someone's) chips. To put an end to his hopes or plans: low; esp. in R.A.F.: C. 20; since ca. 1925. Ex wood-chips used as kindling.

piss in (someone's) pocket. To ingratiate oneself with him: (low) Australian: since ca. 1920. (B.P.)

piss oneself laughing. See pee . . .

piss out of, take a. To laugh at (someone): low: C. 20. Cf.:

piss out of, take the. To pull someone's leg: low: C. 20. To deflate ?—2. To jeer at, deride: low: C. 20. Among the literary: pass (someone) the catheter.

piss out of a dozen holes. To have syphilis: low: late C. 19–20.

piss-poor. Penniless: low: since ca. 1925.—2. Hence, (of the weather) abominable: R.A.F. aircrews': 1939 +. Here, piss is a mere pejorative adverb.

piss-pot.—3. An objectionable fellow (a 'stinker'): late C. 19–20.

piss-pot emptier. A cabin steward: Merchant Navy: late C. 19–20.

piss-pot juggler. Chambermaid in hotel: Canadian: C. 20.

piss-taking, n., answers to piss out of, take the, above: low: since ca. 1930. Peter Crookston, Villain, 1967.

piss the bed waking. To do something avoidable or futile: lower-class coll.: late C. 19–20.

piss through it. To do something with ease: low: since ca. 1910.

piss-up. A drinking bout: low: C. 20. Cf. pissed (-up) in Dict.

piss-up in a brewery. See couldn't organize . . .

piss-warm, adj. Distastefully tepid: low coll.: late C. 19–20. Contrast.—

piss (or pee) -warmer. A highly complimentary term for anything cordially approved: Canadian: C. 20. Also (—1952) piss-cutter, esp. in the Canadian Navy.

pissed (p. 635), tipsy, has the intensives p. as a fiddler's bitch, a variant of drunk as . . . (p. 273); as arseholes; p. as a cunt: all low: all of C. 20.

pissed in the sea . . . (p. 635): adumbrated in the proverbial saying, 'Everything helps, quoth the wren, when she pissed into the sea'—quoted by The Oxford Dictionary of Proverbs for the date 1623.

pissed on from a great height, he should be. He's beneath contempt: Naval (? only Australian) c.p.: C. 20.

pissed up to the eyebrows. Blind drunk: esp. R.A.F.: since late 1930's. (Laurie Atkinson.)

pisser.—3. A urinal: low coll.: late C. 19–20.—4. A day of heavy rain: low, esp. Cockneys': since ca. 1920. Ex the low it's pissing down, raining heavily, itself of late C. 19–20. 'Cf. the Fr. coll. "Il plut comme trente-six vaches qui pissent"' (Ramsey Spencer).

pisser, pull (someone's). To humbug: low: C. 20. See pisser, 1, in Dict.

pisseroo. A ramp or a racket (?): since ca. 1955. Nancy Mitford. Don't Tell Alfred, 1960, p. 143.

pisso. A drunkard; loosely and often, any frequenter of public-house or hotel bars: low Australian: since ca. 1930. (Wm Dick, A Bunch of Ratbags, 1965.) Ex pissed, tipsy.

pissy-arsed. Prone to crapulous inebriation: low: C. 20.

pissy pal. A public-house crony: mostly Cockney: late C. 19–20. Ex their simultaneous use of the urinal for the discharge of their heavy cargo.—2. Hence, a bosom friend: Cockney commercial: C. 20. Thus, 'Go and see if you can't get an order from old so-and-so, he's a pissy pal of yours.'

piston (occ. pistons). 'Piston. The nickname for any Engineering Officer,' H. & P.: Services: since ca. 1920.—2. (Also piston-rod.) Penis: engineers' and similars': C. 20.

piston job. See blow job above.

pit, 1, is extant for inside coat-pocket: 1938, F. D. Sharpe, The Flying Squad.—3. One's bed: R.A.F. regulars': since ca. 1925. Sergeant Gerald Emanuel, letter of March 29, 1945. Cf. flea pit (p. 285). Often in the form the old pit.

pit, shoot the (p. 636). The O.E.D. records it as occurring in a letter written by Andrew Marvell in 1675.

pit(-)circler. An occupant of the pit: theatrical: ca. 1880–1910. B. & L.

pit-pat's the way! Go on!; don't stop!; proletarian c.p.: ca. 1870–1914. Ibid.

pit-riser. 'A burst of powerful acting which evokes an enthusiastic acclamation from the pit': theatrical: from ca. 1814; ob. Ibid. Ex a saying by Edmund Kean.

pitch, n., 4 (p. 636), is recorded for 1895 in Australia (Sidney J. Baker, letter); I believe it to have been current there since ca. 1870; see the books by 'Tom Collins' (Joseph Furphy), passim.—5. A camp: Australian: C. 20. B., 1942. Ex 'to pitch tents' or 'pitch camp'.—6. See 'Mock-Auction Slang' above.—7. A plan; a 'game' or trick: Canadian: since late 1940's. (Leechman.) Perhaps cf. sense 2 on p. 636.

pitch, v., 2 (p. 636). Esp., among circus folk, 'To go on tour': prob. since ca. 1865. In, e.g., Thomas Frost, Circus Life, 1875. The word is, among C. 20 fairground vendors, used esp. thus: 'A well-known drapery pitcher (one who sells drapery by pitching it, i.e. telling a story about each article offered) usually gagging in an entertaining way while describing, to keep the pitch [crowd of customers or gogglers] interested': W. Buchanan-Taylor, Shake It Again, 1943.

pitch a game for a gay. To arrange a crooked game of cards in order to rob an outsider: Australian professional cardsharps': since ca. 1930. (B., 1953.)

pitch a woo. To commence a courtship: Services: since ca. 1930. H. & P.

pitch and toss, the. The boss: Australian general (B., 1945) and English theatrical rhyming s. (Franklyn, Rhyming): C. 20.

pitch-getter. See floorman pitch-getter.

pitch into (p. 636). Sixteen years earlier in Sessions, 1827, 'Beddis . . . began to pitch into Joseph Durden with his fists'.

pitch it mild. Usually in imperative. Don't exaggerate: a Canadian coll. variant of draw it mild (p. 241): late C. 19–20. (Leechman.)

pitch on. To nag at, to abuse, to reprimand: Australian: C. 20. B., 1942. A confusion or, perhaps a blend, of pick on and pitch into (a person).

pitch the cuffer. See cuffer.

pitch the fork; esp. as vbl n. pitching the fork.—2. Hence, to put a penny on the counter for, say, bacon and to receive both the bacon and the penny: vagrants' c.: from ca. 1870. Thus the tramp avoids a charge of mendicancy.

pitcher.—4. A street vendor: since ca. 1870: s. >, by 1900, coll. William Newton, Secrets of Tramp Life Revealed, 1886.—5. A chatterbox: Australian: C. 20. B., 1942. Cf. pitch, n., 4 (p. 636). 6. A fairground vendor: fair-grounds': C. 20. See quotation at pitch, v., 2, above.

Pitcher, the. Arthur Binstead (1861–1914) of 'The Pink 'Un' and various collections of stories published from 1898 to 1909. I.e. the tale-pitcher, this pseudonym > a genuine nickname.

pitching the plod. Greetings, talk between miners coming on and going off shift: Australian: C. 20. B., 1942. As they plod along.

pitiful objects. Petty Officers: Naval lower-deck jocularly: since ca. 1930. (P-G-R.)

pitman's crop. A very close hair-cut, usually among miners on account of the dirty nature of their work: mining-towns' coll.: late C. 19–20.

Pitt Street farmers. Financiers interested in farming: New South Wales, esp. Sydney: since ca. 1950. (B.P.)

pitty. Pretty: nursery: C. 19–20. (Anstey, Voces Populi, II, 1892.)

pity about you! A C. 20 derisive c.p. to a boaster, self-seeker or irritating person. Also to a person either constantly or excessively complaining.

pity the poor sailor on a night like this! (p. 637). Perhaps owing something to the Prayer Book's 'For those in peril on the sea'.

Piv, the. The Pavilion (theatre or music-hall, esp. in a garrison town): Army: late C. 19–20. (S. E. Burrow, Friend or Foe, 1912.)

Pivot City, the (p. 637). In C. 20, the Pivot (Baker).

pixilated; often pixolated. Tipsy: since ca. 1930. Perhaps a blend of 'pixy-led' and 'intoxicated'. Cf. impixlocated. 'Came into general use with the release of the film "Mr Deedes Comes to Town" (ca. 1930); in which, however, it was used in the sense of "not right in the head"' (H. R. Spencer).

pizz or, in full, pizzicato. Tipsy: since ca. 1930. Ngaio Marsh, Enter a Murderer, 1935. Pun on pissed.

place where you cough, the. The water-closet: coll.: since ca. 1920. Ex coughing to warn an approacher that it is occupied.

placer. A woman in an official brothel, e.g. in France: c., esp. white-slavers': from ca. 1895. (A. Londres).—2. A sheep that haunts one place: Australian: C. 20. Baker.—3. A seller of stolen or forged ration coupons: 'Many times we could have picked up the "placers"—the men who actually sold the coupons—but this was no good to us' (John Gosling, 1959): since ca. 1940: orig. c., but by 1945 also police s.

plague.—2. the plague is a synonym of the curse, q.v.: women's: mid-C. 19–20.

plaguey. See plaguy (p. 637).

Plain, the. See Hill, the.

Plain and Gravy, the. The Navy: rhyming s.: late C. 19–20. A variant of Soup and Gravy, the, below.

plain and jam. A tram: rhyming s.: C. 20.

plain as a yard of pump water. Very plain: tailors': mid-C. 19–20. B. & L.

Plain City of the Queans, the. Bathurst, N.S.W.: Australian: C. 20. B., 1942. Derisive on the Queen City of the Plains, as sometimes it is rather ambitiously called.

plain-headed. Plain(-looking): Society: ca. 1880–1910. B. & L.

plain over (someone), put the. To search: Scottish (esp. Glasgow) policemen's: since ca. 1880; by 1940, ob. Ex-Inspector Elliot, Tracking Glasgow Criminals, 1904.

plain-turkey. A professional 'bush' tramp, always on the move, rarely working, old-fashioned, secretive: Australian: since ca. 1910. On pp. 26–7 of D'Arcy Niland's The Shiralee, 1955, occurs the locus classicus for description and characterisation.

plaintiff, demur upon the. See 'Tavern terms', § 4.

plank, whence plonk, one's frame down. To sit down: Aus.: C. 20. (B., 1959.)

plant, n.—11. (Cf. senses 4, 9: p. 638.) 'A "salted" gold-mining claim,' Baker: Australian: late C. 19–20.—12. An outfit (set of equipment + store of provisions): Australian miners' coll.: since ca. 1910. (Vance Palmer, 1948.)—13. A travelling herd of cattle: Australian rural: C. 20. "'Oo's mob is it, Marty?'"—"Should be one of the Lannigans. They're working two plants from Caroline Downs." Thus in Tom Ronan, Vision Splendid, 1954. Also 'a plant of horses' (ibid.). Also, more generally, the herd and the drovers collectively (ibid.).

plant, v.—16. (Of a horse) to stand, or remain, still: Australian racing coll.: since ca. 1925. (B., 1943.)—17. To insert such an incident, etc., into a story as, although unnoticed at first reading, will eventually prove to influence the outcome: Canadian authors' and free-lance journalists': since ca. 1945. (Leechman.)—18. Robert Kennicott, Journal, 1869, 'When a sled can not keep up and take its proper place in the brigade at each spell, it is said to be "planted", which is considered something very disgraceful'—which Dr Douglas Leechman glosses thus: 'Dog travel in Northern Canada. Kennicott was a young naturalist, from the States.' Canadian: ca. 1850–1914.

plant the books. To stack the cards: c.: mid-C. 19–20: ob. B. & L. See plant, v., 11 (Dict.).

planting, n. A burial: Welsh: mid-C. 19–20. Cf. plant, v., 5 (p. 638).

plaster, n.—3. An account or bill: Australian since ca. 1930. (Dymphna Cusack, 1951.)

plaster, v.—3. To flatter (a person): proletarian: from ca. 1860; ob. B. & L.—4. (Ex 2.) Often as vbl. n., plastering: to bomb from the air; bombing, a heavy raid: R.A.F.: since 1918. 'Jerry is so annoyed about the plastering we've given him recently . . .', Flight-Sergeant in Allan Michie & Walter Graebner, Their Finest Hour, 1940.—5. To put (money) out on mortgage: New Zealand: C. 20. (Alan Mulgan, Spur of Morning, 1934.) Cf. plaster, n., 2 (p. 638).

plastic hippy. See the quotation from Peter Fryer at hippy above.

plat. A simpleton, fool, easy dupe: Australian: since ca. 1925. B., 1942. Ex Fr. plat (adj.), 'flat'.

plate.—2. See plate of ham.

plate, cn a. A Cockney c.p. (C. 20) expressive of contempt for a person's stuck-up ways. As Julian Franklyn, the authority on current Cockney speech tells me, 'It comes from the Fish and Chips shop, where those who intend to eat on the premises add this phrase to their order, else they get the fish handed to them in paper.'

plate of beef. Borstal rhyming s. for a Chief (Officer): since ca. 1920 (? earlier, the first institution—at Borstal in Kent—dating from 1908). The Daily Telegraph, June 4, 1958. 'Bacon Bonces . . .'

plate of ham; often shortened to plate: a police term for fellatio: rhyming: C. 20.

plateful, have a; or, have too much on one's plate. To be desperately busy; hence, to feel 'brownd off': Army 1941 +. Cf. enough . . .

plates and dishes.—2. Wife: C. 20. Rhyming on missis(-us).

platter. Broken crockery: lower-middle classes': from ca. 1865; ob. B. & L.

platty. A platman: Australian miner's coll.: since ca. 1910. (Gavin Casey, It's Easier Downhill, 1945.) He is the man who works a lift; plat-(form).

platypussery (or -ary). 'A pen or [other] specially prepared area in which platypuses are kept' (B., 1959): Aus.: since ca. 1930.

plausy or plauzy. 'When a person is smooth-tongued, meek-looking, over civil, and deceitful, he is plauzy' (P. W. Joyce, English . . . in Ireland, 1910): Anglo-Irish: late C. 19–20. Ex 'plausible'.

play. —3. V.t., to tell (a 'mug') a story by which to get his money: c.: anglicised, ex U.S., ca. 1930.—4. To stay unnecessarily away from work: workmen's: C. 20.—5. V.i., to work in co-operation; to reciprocate; to agree: Services: since ca. 1930. H. & P. Short either for play the game (or play fair) or, more prob., for play ball.

play a flanker is an Air Force variant, since ca. 1925, of work a flanker (see flanker, do a: p. 282). Jackson.

play a hunch. 'To act on an intuitive idea: coll.: adopted, ca. 1945, ex U.S. The Sunday Times colour section, July 8, 1962, article by Wallace Reyburn. play about, v.i. To waste money: C. 20.

play at hell and turn up Jack was a nautical elaboration (? ca. 1790–1860) of play hell, to cause a tremendous commotion or much damage. John Davis, The Post-Captain, 1806. (Moe.)

play ball. To co-operate: to reciprocate; to be helpful: coll.: since ca. 1937. Ex children's ball-games.

play board. The stage in Punch and Judy: showmen's coll.: mid-C. 19–20. B. & L.

play fathers and mothers, late C. 19–20, coll.; play mums and dads or dads and mums, since late 1940's, s. To coit. The latter occurs in, e.g., John Gardner, Madrival, 1967.

play footy. See footy, play.

play for time. To temporise: coll.: since early 1920's; by ca. 1945, familiar S.E. (Daphne Du Maurier, Rebecca, 1938.) Ex such games as football and cricket.

play hard to get. (Usually of girls) to resist amorous advances, all the while intending to acquiesce eventually: Canadian (and U.S.) coll.: since ca. 1925; by 1945, also English and Australian.

play hell and Tommy. See hell and Tommy. (Dict.) play it close to one's chest. To hold one's cards close to one's chest so that nobody can see them: Canadian (and U.S.) poker-players' coll.: since ca. 1910.—2. Hence, to be secretive or 'cagey': Canadian (and U.S.) s.: since ca. 1925. (Leechman.)

play lively occurs mostly in the imperative. To 'get a move on', to bestir oneself: Naval: since ca. 1925. Granville, 'See "Smack it about!"' play long. A golf-course is said to 'play long' when, owing to heaviness of ground and/or air, one has to hit the ball much harder than usual: golfers' coll.: from ca. 1920. The Times, Sept. 30, 1936.

play pussy. 'To take advantage of cloud cover, jumping from cloud to cloud to shadow a potential victim or avoid recognition,' H. & P.: R.A.F.: since 1939 or early 1940. Cat-and-mouse.

play roulette. Synonymous with mix the red and the black. (P-G-R.)

play the piano. See piano, play the.—2. To release bombs from an aircraft, one by one or in irregular numbers at irregular intervals: R.A.F.: 1939+. Jackson. Contrast pull the plug.—3. 'To run one's fingers over the backs of sheep to find which are the easiest to shear,' B., 1941: New Zealand, hence Australian, orig. and mostly sheep-shearers': C. 20. L. G. D. Acland, 'Sheep Station Glossary' in The (Christchurch) Press, 1933-4.

play tiddlywinks. To coit: partly euphemistic, partly trivial: C. 20.

play up, Nosey! A traditional London theatre-gallery cry: (?) mid-C. 18-20. Ex Cervette, that famous violoncellist of Drury Lane Theatre who, because of his big nose, was nicknamed Nosey. ('John o'London' in his London Stories, 1911-12.)

play war. To make a fuss; (with) to reprimand: North of England: since ca. 1918.

player. One who 'plays' a dupe: c.: from ca. 1931. See play above.

playground.—2. A parade ground: R.A.F.: since ca. 1925. Jackson.

playing, adj. and n.—See laking.

playing hell with himself, he's. A c.p. applied to a man grumbling and muttering to himself: since ca. 1950.

playing the piano; gen. playin' the pianner. The shifting, by women, of rows of mineral-water bottles from a ship's hold into the baskets that are then hauled up by a crane on to the wharf: Thames-side workers': from ca. 1880; ob. Nev-inson, 1895, 'By reason of the rows bein' so reg'lar and their 'ands jumpin' about on 'em so quick, same as when a man's vampin' on the black and white notes, and the singer keeps on always changin' 'is pitch'.—2. The vbl. n. of play the piano, q.v. at piano, play the.

please (something other than a person). To attract sensually, to excite, as in 'Please my prick and I'll . . .' (a railway train graffito): coll.: late C. 19-20.

please, teacher, may I leave the room? A jocular c.p., common among adult humorists: C. 20.

pleased as a dog with two choppers. Delighted: mostly lower-class: late C. 19-20. (Alexander Baron, There's No Home, 1950.) With two tails. Cf. the next.

pleased as a dog with two tails. Delighted: coll.: late C. 19-20.

pleased as Punch, as (p. 640). No; clearly not, after all, ex Punch, for the phrase occurs in The Night Watch (II, 126), 1828, 'The skipper was as pleased as punch'. Moe.

pleasure and pain. Rain: rhyming s.: C. 20. Franklyn, Rhyming.

pleasure-baulker. A petticoat: buckish: ca. 1810-40. David Carey, Life in Paris, 1822.

pleep. A German pilot that refuses combat: R.A.F.: 1939+. H. & P. Ex echoic pleep as the sound made by, e.g., a frightened bird: cf. dial. pleet, a peevish cry.—2. A sleep: nursery, hence, adult jocular: Australian: since late 1940's. (B.P.) A childish rendering of sleep.

pleuro. Pleuro-pneumonia: coll.: late C. 19-20. 'Tom Collins', Such is Life, 1903.

plew or ploo. See plue.

plink. A shortened form, mostly Australian, of plink-plonk on p. 640. (B., 1943.)

plob. 'Hourly log kept by pilots, recording weather conditions on their patrols. (Coastal Command.) From 'patrol-log observations?' (P-G-R): since ca. 1941.

plod. Story: Australian, esp. miners': since ca. 1930. Gavin Casey, Downhill is Easier, 1945. "I suppose he told you the whole plod?" I sneered. "What plod?" Sadie wanted to know.' Ex plot.

plonk, n., 1, 2. current in New Zealand also.—4. Inferior brandy sold in Italy: Naval: since ca. 1930. (Granville.) Prob. ex sense 3 (p. 640).—5. See A/C Plonk.—6. 'Any cheap handy form of drink' (Anderson): beatniks': since ca. 1958. Ex sense 3 on p. 640.

plonk, v.—2. To set, esp. in plonk down, to put, set, down, and plonk out, to set out—i.e. pay out, distribute—money: Australian: since ca. 1920. B., 1942. Variant of plank (p. 637).

plonk bar. A wine bar: Australian: since ca. 1935. Ex plonk, n., 3 (p. 640).

plonk-dot. 'A confirmed wine-bibber' (B., 1953): Australian: since ca. 1945. Ex plonk, n., 2 and 3 (p. 640).

plonk one's frame down. See plank . . . above.

plonk up. 'To hurry up and drink' (Anderson); to drink copiously: beatniks': since ca. 1959. Ex plonk, n., 6 (above).

plonker. A (cannon) shell: Australian soldiers': 1939+. Baker. Ex plonk, v. (p. 640).—2. Penis: low: since ca. 1917.

plonkers. Feet: mostly Londoners' and esp. among policemen: since ca. 1920. (Laurence Henderson, With Intent, 1968.) Ex 'plonking, or planking, one's feet down'.

plonko. A drunkard addicted to plonk (n., 3: p. 640). Australian: since ca. 1930. (Dick.) Cf. pisso above.

ploo. See plue.

plooterred. Tippy: Anglo-Irish: since ca. 1920. Ex Anglo-Irish plouter, to splash or wade in water or mire.

plotty is described by the O.E.D., quoting Literature (the early form of The Times Literary Supplement) for 1901, as a nonce-word. Rather is it literary coll., esp. if = full of intrigue, having an intricate plot, as in Edwin Pugh, Tony Drum, 1898, 'Novels of a common type, plotty and passionate, but gilt-edged with the proprieties.'

plough, v. (p. 640). 'In South Africa, he'—a student—'ploughs Latin,' Prof. W. S. Mackie, in The Cape Argus, July 4, 1946.

ploughed, 2, survived until ca. 1912.

plu. See plue.

pluck, n.—3. A stone: Aus.: C. 20. (B., 1959.) Origin?

pluck, v. 'To fail (a candidate) in an examination' is familiar S.E.—not, as some tend to think, a coll.—2. To take out a part of one's winnings: Australian two-up players': C. 20. "'You've got forty quid in the guts, Sailor,'" said Stan. "Want to pluck some?": Lawson Glassop, Lucky Palmer, 1949.

pluck a brand. 'To fake a new brand on stolen cattle or horses by pulling out the hairs around the existing brand' (B., 1942): Australian: since ca. 1860.

pluck a rose, 2 (p. 641), goes back to ca. 1600, perhaps even earlier. It occurs in, e.g., Beaumont & Fletcher, The Knight of the Burning Pestle, 1607.

plucky lot. An ironic 'bloody lot', i.e. 'not a bit', as in Kipling's 'Plucky lot she thought of idols when I kissed her where she stood'. Euphemistic. Cf. plurry below.

plue. Tea: Navy: C. 20. H. & P.; Granville, "'A cup of luscious plew.'" Why? Perhaps a blend, 'pleasant (or pleasing) brew': cf. brew, n. and v., on p. 92. Also used by Australian seamen. Note wet the plue, to make tea. (P-G-R.)

plug, n.—10. A small unimportant passenger-train: Canadian railroadmen's (—1931). Ex sense 3 (p. 641). —11. A piece of publicity, a 'boost': since ca. 1935. Ex 'to plug' or 'boost': since ca. 1930: originally, advertising. Perhaps ex plug away at, to persevere with. —12. An objectionable fellow: Canadian (ex U.S.): late C. 19–20. (Niven.) Ex sense 3 on p. 641.—13. Cheese: Naval (officers'): C. 19. (W. N. Glascock, Sketch-Book, 2nd Series, 1834, I, 32: Moe.) It prob. shortens an assumed plug-hole, ex its constipating properties.

plug, v.—8. To kick (a person's) behind: R.M.A.: from ca. 1870; ob. B. & L.—9. To throw (a cricket ball): many preparatory schools': C. 20. Cf. sense 3 (p. 641) and sense 8.

plug, down the. (Of a tender) running short of water: railwaymen's: C. 20. (Railway, 3rd.) Short for . . . plug-hole.

plug away is a variant of plug along (see plug). v., 4: p. 641: late C. 19–20. H. & P.

plug hat. A bowler hat: Australian: C. 20. Baker. Because it is a hard hitter.

plug in. Fig., to 'switch on': jazz and drug addicts', and hippies': since ca. 1966. Peter Fryer in The Observer colour supplement. Dec. 3, 1967. Ex switched on below.

plug-tail (p. 641) occurs earlier in Ned Ward's A Walk to Islington, 1699.

Pluggeries, the. The Light Repair Squadron attached to the Long Range Desert Group in N. Africa, 1942–3. A worthy unit of a fine formation. Their O.C. was Captain 'Plugs' Ash-down.

Plum.—2. H. C. O. Plumer (1857–1932), an Army Commander in World War I; later, Field-Marshal.

plum, n.—4. Usually plums, engines: Naval: since ca. 1930. Ex plumber, 3.

plum, v. See plumb, 2 (Dict.).

plum pud, good: any plum?, any good?: Australian rhyming s.: C. 20. B., 1942.

plum pudding.—3. (Whence 2.) A 'coach-dog (the dog with dark spots which runs after carriages)': Mayhew, II, 1851: † by 1910. Ex the markings; it is a sort of Dalmatian. Cf. spotted dog (Dict.).

plumb, n.—4. A plumber: Naval (lower-deck) C. 20. Ex sense 3 (p. 642). (P-G-R.)

plumber. An armourer: R.A.F.: since ca. 1925. E. P., 'Air Warfare and Its Slang' in The New Statesman, Sept. 19, 1942. Facetious.—2. The Plumber is the R.A.F.'s name (cf. coll. Engines) for an Engineering Officer: since ca. 1930. Jackson. Cf.: 3. 'Plumbers: Generic term for Engineerroom staff,' Granville: Naval: since ca. 1920.

plummy.—3. Dull; stupid: too respectable: low Glasgow: from ca. 1920. MacArthur & Long. Perhaps cf. Yorkshire plum, honest, straightforward; prob. influenced by U.S. dumb, slow.

plummy, adv. Well; 'nicely': Cockney: 1851, Mayhew, I; † by 1910. Ex adj., 1: see p. 642.

plummy and slam. All right: c.: ca. 1860–1910. B. & L.

plump, n.—3. An Anglo-Irish variant of plum, n., 1 (Dict.). 'A Real Paddy', Life in Ireland, 1822.

plumper.—4. Hence, all one's money, staked on one horse: turf coll.: from ca. 1881.

plunder.—3. (Cf. sense 2: p. 642.) One's equipment and personal belongings: Canadian: since ca. 1905. 'O.K.—grab your plunder and come along!' (Leechman.) It prob. derives ex Ger. Plunder, lumber, junk, rags. (Ramsey Spencer, 1967.)

plunder-snatcher. See 'Mock-Auction Slang' above.

plunger.—5. "'Plungers" is the name given to the men who clean the streets of the City [of London] with hoses and squeegees,' Rev. Eustace Jervis, Twenty-five Years, 1925: London: C. 20. They plunge about in the swirling waters.

plunk, n. An occasional, mostly Australian, variant of plonk, cheap liquor.

plunk, v. To strike (someone): Australian: since ca. 1918. B., 1942. Ex the n., 2 (p. 642).

plunk a baby; get plunked; get trubied; get karitanied. To go into a maternity home and have one baby's there; hence, to become pregnant: New Zealand: C. 20. B., 1941. The first (plunked a baby) refers to the Plunket Society, as obviously does the derivative second; the third refers to Sir Truby King, noted for sage advice upon, and sustenance for, the feeding of infants; the fourth comes ex Karitane Home.

plunk for. To plump for; support enthusiastically: coll.: C. 20. Cf. plunk (Dict.).

plurry. Bloody: orig. and still mainly (even though occ. jocular) euphemistic Australian: mid C. 19–20. Notably in my plurry word! and no plurry fear!. Ex Aborigines' linguistically natural use of the word. (B.P.)

plus a little something. To the Dict. entry, it might be added that the company is Shell-Mex and B.P. Ltd.

plush, 2 (p. 642). The earlier sense is 'overplus of grog' and it occurs in W. N. Glascock, The Naval Sketch-Book (I, 24), 1825: Naval: prob. since ca. 1800. (Moe.) pneumo. A pneumococcus: medica: C. 20. Gen. in pl. (-os).

pneumo, have a. To have artificial-pneumothorax treatment (have an A.P.: coll.): T.B. patients': since ca. 1930.

pneumonia blouse. A girl's low-cut blouse: since ca. 1920.

Pneumonia Bridge. A certain bridge that, at Gosport, is exposed to all the winds that blow: Naval: C. 20. Granville.

Pneumonia Corner. The junction of Putney Bridge and Lower Richmond Road: London policemen's: since ca. 1925. Many policemen on duty there end up by catching pneumonia.—2. The corner of Whitehall and Downing Street: Press photographers': since during the Munich crisis, Sept. 1938. Ex long, cold, wet waiting to 'snap' Ministers and other notables.

pneumonia rig. A set of tropical clothing: Naval: since ca. 1925. (P-G-R.)

pneumonia truck. 'Open lorry without doors or hood,' The New Statesman, Aug. 30, 1941: A.P.R. workers': 1940-5. Contrast love-truck.

P/O Prune. See Prune.

po-faced. 'A 1960's elastic word of disapproval, based on po (p. 643). It seems to equate with "square", "establishmentary", but also with "heartly". Debs' and book-reviewers'. Found in literary supplements and heard on radio' (Ramsey Spencer, Aug. 1967).

'Of features bland or blank; set, socially correct, immobility of expression; the term implies social supercilious mask of a face that, unreasoning, claims deference by hauteur. One of the class brick-bats of the early 1960's, used in reflection i.e. disapproval, by and of upper classes' (Lauric Atkinson, Sept. 11, 1967.) Although heard less in late 1967 than in (say) 1962, it yet could not, at that time, be called obsolescent. In The Guardian, March 30, 1960, Mr Quintin Hogg referred to the Honourable Mr Wilson as 'po-faced', where the connotation seems to be rather that of 'poker-faced'. An early example occurs in Patricia Moyes, Marriage à la Mode, 1963.

poached egg. 'A yellow-coloured "silent cop" placed in the centre of intersections as a guide to traffic,' B., 1942: Australian: since ca. 1925.

pocket-billiards, to play, is the Public School synonym of pinch the cat: since ca. 1910.

pocket pistol. 'For a Pocket Pistol alias a dram bottle to carry in one's pocket, it being necessary on a journey or so, at Nicholl's pd 0.1.0' (paid one shilling): entry of June 29, 1763, in James Woodforde's Diary: ? ca. 1740-1840. Ex shape. A late example occurs in Wm Maginn, Tales of Military Life, 1829, at I, 45. (Moe.)

pockies! That's mine; 'bags I!': Milton Junior School, Bulawayo: since ca. 1925. (A. M. Brown, letter of Sept. 18, 1938.) Worth recording as a variant of an enduring piece of folklore. I.e. pockets I!: cf. bags I! (Dict.).

pod.—3. Belly: C. 20. Mostly in pod, with child.—4. A marijuana cigarette; marijuana: Canadian jazz-lovers': since ca. 1956. (The Victoria Daily Colonist, April 16, 1958, article 'Basic Beatnik'.)

pod, in. Recorded by B. & L.

pod, old. A big-bellied man: proletarian: from ca. 1860. Ibid.

poddy calf. Half-a-crown: Australian rhyming s.: since ca. 1910. (B., 1945.)

poddy-dodger. The agent corresponding to:—

poddy-dodging. 'The stealing of unbranded calves' (B., 1943): Australian rural: since ca. 1910. (B., 1943.)

poegah or poegai. Topsy: South Africa: C. 20. The Cape Times, May 23, 1946 (latter form). Ex Afrikaans: cf. Dutch pooier, a tippler. Cf. pogy (p. 644).

poet, he's a. See he's a poet.

poet and didn't know it. See that's a rhyme.

Poetry. See 'Tavern terms', § 3, d.

pog. Face: Felsted School: since ca. 1880; ob. Prob. ex physog (see phiz: p. 622).

pog-top, pog-wag, poggie-top, etc. See wog, 3.

poge-hunter. A thief specialising in the removal of purses: from ca. 1870. E.g. in Pugh (2). Ex poge* = poke = a purse: mid-C. 19-20; ob.

pogy aqua (p. 644). For the etymology read 'Ex It. poca aqua'.

point, n.—5. (Perhaps ex sense 4: p. 644.) First place on a taxicab rank: taxi-drivers': since ca. 1910. See hot joint.—6. A smart, esp. a too smart, trick; an unfair advantage: Australian: C. 20. (Tom Ronan, Vision Splendid, 1954.) Ex point, v., on p. 644.

point, v.—2. To malingering: Aus.: since ca. 1910. (B., 1959.) Ex sense 1 on p. 644.

Point Nonplus. 'Neither money nor credit' (Sinks): ca. 1820-70.

pointing. The n. corresponding to point, v. (p. 644): C. 20. B., 1943.

points, pile up. 'To curry favour. A person who draws attention to his "excellent qualities" with a view to advancement is said to pile up points,' Granville: Naval: since ca. 1925. Ex sport.

pointy. Pointed: coll.: C. 20. Gerald Kersh, Slightly Oiled, 1946, 'Where men wear pointy shoes.'

poison on armour plate. Beef tea and ship's biscuit: Naval (officers)': since ca. 1930. Well, perhaps the biscuits are a little hard...

poison(-)shop. A public-house: Australian: since ca. 1910. B., 1942.

poisoner. A cook: Australian: C. 20. Baker. Jocular.

poke, n., 2 (a punch, a blow): extant in Australia: B., 1942.—8. A purse: c.: mid-C. 19-20.—9. Horsepower: motorists': since ca. 1945. (R. T. Bickers, The Hellions, 1965, 'With all that poke under the bonnet')—10. A girl (notoriously) easy to have: low Australian: C. 20. 'I knew Elaine was a poke for the boys' (Dick). Ex sense 4: p. 644.

For sense 7 (p. 644) cf. the quotation at slag, n., below. By 1940, fairly gen. s., as in 'It's a very satisfying feeling knowing you can put your finger on a bit of poke. (Which is slang for money: get it, poke, loot, poppy—any of them will do!): L. J. Cunliffe, Having It Away, 1965.

poke, v.—4. To hit (someone): Australian: C. 20. Baker. Esp. as in 'Why don't you poke him one?' Synonymous with take a poke at someone.

poke Charley (v.t. demands at). To 'poke fun (at)', to be derisive—to deride: Naval: since ca. 1935. Granville. Ex the given-name of some noted humorist.

poke mullock at. See mullock, poke, on p. 542.

poke through on the rails. (Of a racehorse) to come through the field on the inside: Australian sporting: since ca. 1930. (B., 1953.)

poker!, don't chant the. See sing it!, don't.

pokey.—2. (Usually the pokey.) Prison: low Australian: late C. 19–20. (Ruth Park, 1950.) Ex 'poky place'?—3. A poker machine: Aus. urban: since late 1930's. Jan Hamilton, The Persecutor, 1965. (Or poky.)

pokey-dice. Bluff poker: Regular Army: C. 20. Gerald Kersh, Bill Nelson, 1942.

poking drill. 'Aiming drill in the course of musketry instruction': military: from ca. 1870; ob. B. & L. Contrast poky drill in Dict.

pola(c)k. A Pole, Russian or Czech dealing in Polish Jewesses: white-slavers' c.: C. 20. A. Londres, The Road to Buenos Ayres, 1928. A Polack is a Pole.

pole, v.i. To be an expense, obligation, nuisance: to 'scrounge': Australian: C. 20. In, e.g., Kylie Tennant, Foveaux, 1939. Cf. pole, up the, 6 (on p. 645).—2. To steal: New Zealand c.: since ca. 1930. R. G. C. McNab, in The Press (Christchurch, N.Z.), April 2, 1938. Also, since ca. 1935, Australian: B., 1943.—3. (Of the male) to copulate with, as in 'He poled the girl': Anglo-Irish: C. 20. Ex pole, n., 2, on p. 645.

pole, up the.—7. Pregnant: low, esp. Cockneys': from ca. 1908. Perhaps ex sense 3.—8. (Ex 6.) 'Wrong, worthless, stupid' (B., 1942): Australian: since ca. 1918.

pole on. To sponge on (somebody): Australian: C. 20. (Vance Palmer, Daybreak, 1932; Caddie, 1953.) Cf. preceding.

pole-pole. See 'Swahili words'.

poled (p. 645): also Australian. The Drum, 1959.

poler. A scrounger: Australian: since ca. 1930. (B., 1953.) Ex pole (v.i.), 1.

polers. 'Horses or bullocks harnessed alongside the pole of waggon or dray' (B., 1959): Aus. rural coll.: late C. 19–20.

policeman.—5. He who reminds a newcomer that he ought to pay footing: tailors': mid-C. 19–20; ob. B. & L.

policeman's helmet. Glans penis erecti: low: C. 20.

polio. Poliomyelitis or infantile paralysis: coll., medical >, by 1958, general: since ca. 1930. (In, e.g., Leader Magazine, July 23, 1949.)

Polish Corridor, the. Cromwell Road (London, S.W.): taxi-drivers': 1945+. The Daily Telegraph, May 18, 1948. Ex the many Poles resident there.—2. The passage leading from the front main hall to the Reading Room of the British Museum: B.M. habitués and attendants: since ca. 1940. but esp. ca. 1944–8. Ex a certain visitant and entourage.

polish one's arse on the top sheet. (Of men) to coit: low: late C. 19–20.

polish one's marble. See marble.

polish the apple. To curry favour, orig. of school-children polishing, on sleeve, an apple about to be presented to teacher: orig. (ca. 1920)

American, adopted in Britain ca. 1945. Hence, an apple-polisher, a toady—a term not yet (1966) very common in Britain.

polisher. A gaol-bird: Australian c.: C. 20. B., 1942. Cf. polish the King's iron (p. 646).

politico. A politician either ambitious or unscrupulous or, esp., both: Australian: adopted, ca. 1955, ex U.S. (B.P.)—2. Hence, any politician: Australian coll.: since ca. 1960. Ex South American Spanish politico—or merely appearing to be?

poll, v.—4. To pollute: Christ's Hospital: ca. 1840–90. Marples.

poll up (p. 646). Semantically cf. shack up.

pollaky. To the Dict, entry add this information: Ignatius Paul Pollaky, Australian by birth: at an office in Paddington Green, he established 'Pollaky's Detective Agency' in 1862; in W. S. Gilbert's Patience, first performed on April 23, 1881, among the ingredients necessary to make a heavy dragoon is 'the keen penetration of Paddington Pollaky'; he frequently advertised in the agony columns of The Times, to which, in later life, he sometimes wrote over pseudonyms 'Ritter' or 'Criminalrath', letters of some length; and when at the age of 90, he died at Brighton, The Times gave him, on Feb. 28, 1918, an excellent obituary. (With thanks to the staff of The Times.)

polled up. See poll up (Dict).

polloi. See hoi.

polly.—4. A prefect: Uppingham: since ca. 1870. Marples. By perversion.

polly do. To pick oakum in jail: c.: from ca. 1860. B. & L. Cf. mill doll (q.v. at doll, mill in Dict).

Polly Flinder. A window: Cockney rhyming s.: late C. 19–20. Cf. Max Linder.

Pollycon (or p-). Political Economy: undergraduates': C. 20. A blend.

polone. See palone. Polone is, in C. 20, the predominant form. The word goes back to ca. 1850 and is often used in combination as adj. 'female', as in strill polone, a female pianist. (Sydney Lester, Vardi the Palarey, 1937.)—2. A pony: circus and theatrical rhyming s.: C. 20. Franklyn 2nd.

pom.—2. Short for pommy (Dict). Also written with a capital, as in Martin Boyd, Day of My Delight, 1965, 'The Poms have a kiuk on sex.'

pom-pom.—2. A French 75-mm. cannon: Army: 1914–18.—3. A multi-barrelled anti-aircraft gun: Services, esp. Naval, coll.: 1940+. (P-G-R.)

pombi. See 'Swahili words'.

Pomme de Terre. A Croix de Guerre: Services': 1914–18; then only historical. (I never once heard it used during World War II.) Primarily rhyming s.; secondarily facetious. 'The Pomme de Terre was the only thing he'd earned, protecting a station-master's wife, he said' (V. M. Yeates, Winged Victory, 1934, p. 92).

pommy (p. 646). 'It is popularly believed that the term pommy . . . is a direct descendant of Jimmy Grant [see Jimmy Grant, both in Dict. and in Add.], via Jimmy-granate: pomegranate, to pommy,' B., 1941,—which, fused with Jim Doone's theory, furnishes what is probably the correct explanation. Russell Braddou, however, in his preface to the English edition (1958) of Nino Culotta's They're a Weird Mob, thinks that the name is 'a compliment to your'—i.e. British—'complexions, because it comes from the French word pommes, which means apples'.—2. A Petty Officer Mechanician (E): Naval: since ca. 1950.—3. Hence, any stoker Petty Officer: since ca. 1954. (Wilfred Granville, Nov. 22, 1962.)

Of sense 1, Jock Marshall & Russell Drysdale, Journey among Men, 1962 (p. 189), pertinently write: 'In colonial days the highly-coloured complexions of many Englishmen caused them to be called pomegranites [sic], a play on "immigrants"'. This was soon abbreviated to "pommy".

pommy, adj. English: Australian: C. 20. Ex the n.—see p. 646.

Pompey 'ore, rarely whore. In the game of House, 24: rhyming s.: C. 20.

ponce. Prob. ponce-spicer should be po(u)nce-shicer, which occurs in B. & L. as a man living infamously upon an actress; both this and poncey were † by 1920. For the etymology (p. 647), note the suggestion made to me by Michael Harrison in a letter of Jan. 4, 1947: 'Perhaps from Fr. pensionnaire' (boarder, lodger), conceivably with a pun on the English pensioner.—2. Hence, a young and dandified subaltern: Army (esp. Artillery): since ca. 1930.

ponce, v. To act as, to be a 'ponce' (p. 647): low: C. 20. G. Scott Moncrieff, Café Bar, 1932. Often as vbl n., poncing.—2. Hence, to sponge: low: since ca. 1915. James Curtis, You're in the Racket Too, 1937.—3. To obtain (money) by 'poncing': low: since ca. 1920. "I don't ponce it orf 'em," Gerald Kersh, Night and the City, 1938.

ponce up, v.i. and v.refl; usu. ponce oneself up or be poned up. To smarten up one's dress or appearance: Army: since ca. 1925. To put on one's best, esp. if flashy, clothes: since ca. 1950. (John Wainwright, Death in a Sleeping City, 1965.) On dress up but ex ponce, n., 2, and v., 1, above.

poncess. A woman that supports a man by prostitution: c. from ca. 1870; ob. B. & L.

Pond-hopper. 'An R.A.F. Transport Command flight across the Atlantic. The routine is known in the Forces as "Pond-hopping"' (Laurie Atkinson): W.W. II and after. See Pond, the, on p. 647.

Ponderosa. 'Barking branch. Also Lake District' (Railway, 3rd): since ca. 1930 (?).

pong, n.—3. A Chinese: Australian low: C. 20. B., 1942. Ex -ong in Chinese monosyllabic names.

pongo, 3, 4 (p. 647), were very much alive in the war of 1939–45 also. (In, e.g., H. & P., Baker, and Granville.) Sense 3, in the R.A.F., was narrowed down to 'an Army officer': derogatory: 1939–45.—5. A Pongo = an Englishman, esp. an English serviceman: New Zealanders': since ca. 1943. (Slatter.) Prob. ex sense 3.

pongy. Evil-smelling: late C. 19–20. ('Taffrail', Mystery at Milford Haven, 1936.) Ex pong, n.: q.v. in Dict.

ponies, the. Horse racing: sporting coll.: C. 20.

ponk (sec p. 647). As a New Zealand usage, however, it must be modified in the light of B., 1941: 'I suspect . . . that when we speak of an offensive stench as a ponk we are coupling the Maori puhonga, stinking, offensive, with the earlier English use of pong'.

Pontius Pilate in c.p. (R.A.F.): see 'way back when . . .

Pontius Pilate's Guards occurs in a letter written from New York on Nov. 12, 1759, and printed in The Public Ledger of Jan. 15, 1760.

pontoon.—2. Hence, a twenty-one months' imprisonment: London's East End: since ca. 1925. (R. Herd, Nov. 12, 1957.) But also (Norman) of 21 years: c.: since ca. 1910. The latter is also an Army usage (P-G-R).

Ponty. A local coll. (C. 19–20) for any town named Ponty—, e.g. Pontypool, Pontypridd.—2. A Pontiac car: Australian: 1930's. (B.P.)

pony, 3 (p. 648). In Sinks, 1848, it = £50.—4. (Ibid.)—Earlier in Sessions, July 27, 1897.—5. For origin, see gray.—8. Short for rhyming s. pony and trap, to defecate: late C. 19–20. On crap, v. (p. 189).—9. A young girl's pony tail hair-style; coll.: since ca. 1960.

pooch, n.—2. A greyhound: Australian: C. 20. B., 1942. Origin? Probably ironically ex: 3. A dog, esp. if small or mongrel: Canadian: late C. 19–20. (Leechman.) Perhaps ex Ger. dial. Butz, a short thick animal. Canadian usage seems to antecede U.S. usage.—4. Hence, common for any dog: Canadian: since ca. 1920.

With sense 3, cf. the Ger. Putzi, 'a fairly common name given to a lap-dog' (Ramsey Spencer).

poochies. Insect and similar pests in Malaya: residents' and Army's: C. 20. Ex Malayan?

pood. An effeminate youth or man: Australian low: since ca. 1910. B., 1942. Cf. poof.

poodle-faker (p. 648), in a definition valid for the war of 1939–45 and for the cut-throat competition of the so-called peace: 'A payer of polite calls; a balancer of tea cups ashore' (Granville). Poodle-faker and poodle-faking antedate 1920 and prob. go back to 1910 or even earlier; 'Bartimeus' A Tall Ship, 1915, has the latter. It seems to be related to dog-robbers above. (Ramsey Spencer, 1967.)

poodle parade, the. The nightly parade of dog-owners exercising their dogs: coll.: since ca. 1920.

poodler. See 'Hauliers' Slang'.

pooley. See poohy below.

poof (p. 648). In Australia since ca. 1910. I definitely remember both poof and poofter as being used in the A.I.F. in 1915–18.

poof-rorting (or -wroughting). Robbing male prostitutes with violence: c.: from ca. 1920. See poof and rorty in Dict.

poofter. A homosexual: Australian: C. 20. Cf. poof (Dict).—2. Hence, a loud civilian suit: Naval (lower-deck): since ca. 1940. (P-G-R.)—3. (Ex. sense 1.) An effeminate-looking man not necessarily homosexual: Australian: since ca. 1920. (B.P.)

poofter rorter. 'One who procures for a male homosexual' (B., 1959): low Aus.: since ca. 1935. Compare and contrast poof-rorting above. See rorty in Dict.

poofy. Smelly: children's: since ca. 1945 (? much earlier). 'I'd rather have a bath. I'm poofy': Nicholas Blake, The Sad Variety, 1964. Echoic of disgust: cf. the Scottish and North Country poof, an exclamation of disgust. But perhaps imm. ex poohy below.

pooh. Anything smelly or disgusting, esp. faeces: Australian juvenile: since ca. 1930. (B.P.)

pooh, in the. In trouble: Australian: since ca. 1935. Lit., 'in the shit'. (B.P.) Ex preceding.

poohy, occ. written poocy. Lit. or fig., faecal; hence disgusting: Australian juvenile: since ca. 1935. Ex pooh above. (B.P.)—2. Hence, poohy! or poocy!, rubbish. Perhaps slightly influenced by U.S. phooey!

pool, v. To incriminate: to spoil the reputation or chances of someone with someone else: Australian low: since ca. 1910. Lawson Glassop, We Were the Rats, 1944, 'He pooled me with the Q.M. Just a top-off merchant, that's all he is.' By 1960, no longer low—and with a meaning less narrow.

Pool, the. Liverpool: C. 20.

pool(-)shark. One who is, or believes himself to be, exceptionally adept in the game of pool: Canadian: adopted, ca. 1925, ex U.S. (Leechman.)

poon, n. A lonely, loneliness-eccentric dweller in remote places: Australian: C. 20. B., 1942. Ex Aboriginal?—2. Hence (?), a simpleton; a fool; a gen. pejorative since ca. 1910. E.g. at Dulwich School since ca. 1930 (Marples).—3. A common shortening of poontang (below). Leechman.

Poona or Poonah, adj. Typical of the majors and colonels of the pre-1940 Regular Army: C. 20. 'He's very Poonah'—fiery, martinet, narrowly conservative, not excessively intelligent.

pooned up. Flashily dressed up: low Australian: since ca. 1930. (B., 1943; Dal Stivens, 1951.)

poontang. Copulation, esp. with a coloured woman: Canadian: C. 20. Supposedly of Chinese origin, there being such variants as poong tai and poong kai. (Whence poontanger.) Common also among homosexuals for 'sexual relations' (The Lavender Lexicon). The nuances 'copulation' and 'sexual relations' prob. derive ex the basic sense 'female pudend'.

poontanger. Penis: Canadian lumbermen's: C. 20. A logger's tool, more useful in town than in the woods.

poop, n.—5. A defecation; esp. in do poop: mostly children's: C. 20. Ex poop, v., 3, on p. 648.

pooped. Exhausted; very tired: since ca. 1890. 'Must stop for a bit; I'm pooped.' Probably ex the nautical S.E. v. poop: a sailing ship was temporarily disabled when a following sea came inboard from over the stern.

poor, she's (very) good to the. A prostitutes' c.p. applied to a harlot known to be a price-cutter: from ca. 1910.

poor as a bandicoot. See bandicoot.

poor as piss (and twice as nasty), as. A Naval (lower-deck) pejorative: C. 20. Granville.

poor blind Nell. A girl wronged (i.e. seduced and abandoned): Australian: C. 20. Ex the well-known chant:

'Did he marry poor blind Nell?'

'He did. (Pause.) Like effing hell!'

Poor Man's Corner. A stand at an angle of Trafalgar Square: cabmen's: ca. 1870–1905. Clarkson & Richardson, Police!, 1889.

poor man's piano. A meal of (dried) beans. On account of the amount of wind in the bowels that it produces. Canadian slang, in use at the time of the construction of the Canadian Pacific Railway if not earlier.

poor soldier. A Noisy Friar Bird: Australian: C. 20. (B., 1943.)

poor soldier who can't stand his comrade's breath, it's a. A military c.p. proffered by the culprit when his companions complain of wind-breaking: from the 1890's. Contrast foxes always smell . . .

poor view (of), take a. Transitive and intransitive synonyms of take a dim view (of).

poorboy. 'Something substantial and inexpensive, such as a big bottle of cheap wine' (The Victoria Daily Colonist, April 16, 1959, 'Basic Beatnik'): Canadian jazz-lovers': since ca. 1956.

pooty is a favourite mid-Victorian adjective meaning 'pretty'—of which, via purty, it is a perversion. 'A pooty little bit of money,' W. M. Thackeray, Pendennis, 1849–50. (Derek Pepys Whiteley, Esqre, letter of July 7, 1944.)

poove. A poof (p. 648): low: since mid-1940's. (The New Statesman, March 24, 1967.) Both poove and its rare variant pouve occur in John Gardner, Madrigal, 1967.

pop, n., 4 (p. 649). In full, soda-pop; since ca. 1910, all 'soft drinks'.—10. (Cf. sense 2: p. 649.) A popular song: song-writers and publishers': since ca. 1920.—11. See pop, a, 2, below.—12. A bet, usu. at specified odds: Australian racing: since ca. 1920. "'Aeolus couldn't win it," said Lucky. "It'll be a fifty to one pop"'': Lawson Glassop, Lucky Palmer, 1949.

Sense 10 came, ca. 1950, to mean also 'popular music, whether vocal or instrumental or both', as in 'The Capital of Pop' (Liverpool)—since early 1960's.

Pop. In address, any old or even, to the young, any middle-aged man: adopted, ca. 1944, ex U.S. pop, a. Each time, or each, as in 'What did these set you back?'—'Five quid a pop': Australian: since ca. 1920. (B.P.)—2. An attempt, as in 'to have a pop at it': general, but perhaps esp. Australian: since ca. 1940.

pop, give a.—2. To give it a pop is to make an attempt at it; to make a bet: New Zealand: since ca. 1919. R. G. C. McNab, in The Press (Christchurch, N.Z.), April 2, 1938. In Australia, have a pop (at): B., 1942: there it also means to engage (someone) in a fight. As 'an attempt', pop probably went to New Zealand and Australia from England: cf. J. B. Priestley, The Good Companions, 1929, 'I'll have a pop at it, of course.'

pop, let fly the. To fire the pistol: midway between c. and low s.: late C. 18–mid 19. See the quotation at leaden fever.

pop, not a fair. Not a fair chance: New Zealand: since ca. 1925. (Slatter.)

Pop-Eye or Popeye. See Ixta.—2. A ship's look-out man or an aircraft observer: since ca. 1938. H. & P. Ex 'Popeye the Sailor' in a famous series of comic cartoons (cf. Wimpey): anyone with such large eyes must have excellent eyesight.—3. The Pope: anti-papists' derogatory: since ca. 1945.

pop it on.—2. To make a bet: from ca. 1890. Anstey, The Man from Blankley's 1901.

pop of, be on the. To be about to: Anglo-Irish: late C. 19–20. James Joyce, Ulysses, 1922, 'He was on the pop of asking me to the night in the kitchen I was rolling the potato cake.'

pop-out. A mass-produced surfboard: Australian (teenage) surfers': since ca. 1961. Pix, Sept. 28, 1963.

pop-pimping. The spotting of theatrical talent: since ca. 1950. The New Statesman, Feb. 5, 1965; Competition.

pop the parapet. To 'go over the top': Army: 1915-18.

Pope of Fleet Street, the. Hannen Swaffer: 'Perhaps now more used than The Bishop of Fleet Street,' Albert B. Petch, letter of Dec. 18, 1946.

Pope's telephone number, the. 'Vat 69' whisky: since ca. 1905. Punning 'Vatican'.

Poplar and Stepney Gurkhas, the. The Tower Hamlet Rifles: Army: 1914-18. (Letter to The Daily Telegraph, Sept. 26, 1963.) 'Presumably ex their area of recruitment' (Peter Sanders).

Popo. See Ixta.

poppery. A squall: ? mostly Naval: C. 19; † by 1890. (W. N. Glascock, The Naval Sketch-Book, 2nd Series, 1834, II, 177, 'Securin' the squadron in its old berth, and that too under another pelting poppery.') Moc.

popping?, how are you or how yer. How are you, as in "'How yer poppin' s'mornin'?"' (Norman Lindsay, Saturdee, 1933): Aus., mostly juvenile: since ca. 1910; by 1960, ob.

poppy, n. Money; esp., cash: Cockneys': C. 20.

Pops.—2. Popular Concerts: music-lovers': since ca. 1925. Cf. Prom (p. 661, end).

Popski. In reference to early 1941: 'I overheard him [Lieutenant-Colonel Prendergast, officer commanding the Long Range Desert Group in North Africa] mentioning on the phone someone named Popski and when he had done he turned to me, and, somewhat embarrassed, he said, "As you heard, we call you Popski. Nobody can understand Peniakoff on the phone. Do you mind?" I assured him I was delighted with my nickname and remembered that my namesake was the comical hairy little bolshy in—was it the Daily Mirror?—comic strip. Whether I liked it or not, Popski I had become and Popski I have remained to this day,' Vladimir Peniakoff (Lieutenant-Colonel, D.S.O., M.C.), Private Army, 1950. Modelled on the tiny force he had already operated, Popski's Private Army (or P.P.A.) was formed late in October and thus christened early in Nov. 1942; after North Africa, it went to Italy. Private Army, quite the best 'Unit record' and perhaps the best autobiography of the war of 1939-45, is a fascinating and most notable book.

popsy (p. 650) may be written popsey or popsie; also R.A.F. and Naval (officers)—since ca. 1935—for 'a girl', not merely in address but also, and more usually, in reference. H. & P.; Granville.—2. A woman conductor: busmen's: since ca. 1945.

popular as a pork chop in a synagogue, as. Decidedly unpopular or unwelcome: since ca. 1950. Pork being forbidden to Jews.

population of China!, what's that—the. A c.p. 'deriding comparatively high service or regimental number' (Atkinson): Forces': 1941 +.

poque is an occ. Australian variant of poke, n., 8.

porangi. (Extremely) eccentric, crazy; (very) stupid: New Zealand coll.: late C. 19-20. B., 1941. Adoption of Maori word.

porc. A porcupine: Australian, coll. C. 20. (Ion Idriess, Men of the Jungle, 1932.)

Porcupine, H.M.S. H.M.S. Penelope: Naval: 1941 +. Ex holes plugged with protruding wooden pegs; cf. Pepperpot.

Pork and Lard, the. The 'St Ives to Ely lino (closed)'—says Railway, 3rd, 1966. Railway-men's: ? ca. 1930-65, then historical. Not St Ives, Cornwall, but St Ives, Huntingdonshire.

pork-knocker. 'A diamond prospector in the rivers and streams of British Guiana.—B.B.C. "Adventure" Mar. 16, 1964, but have seen it in print ca. 1961. ? from their diet of pork and beans' (Peter Sanders).

porky, adj. (p. 650), occurs earlier in The Night Watch (II, 105), 1828. Moe.

porn. Pornography: mostly photographers' and journalists': since late 1940's. Nicholas Luard, The Warm and Golden War, 1967, "'Porn or portrait they're all available.'" pornshop. Shop where pornography is sold. Witty pun on 'pawnshop'. Since about 1960.

porny. Bawdy (persons), smutty (talk, etc.): C. 20. Ex pornographic.

porous. A mild or polite form of poor as piss. (P-G-R.)

porridge; esp. a bit of porridge. Imprisonment; a term in prison: c.: since ca. 1930. (Norman.) Perhaps suggested, in part at least, by the semantics of S.E. stir, by a pun on stir, 2, a prison (p. 833).—2. 'Sludge removed from drains' (Railway): railwaymen's: C. 20. Of a similar consistency.

Porridge Box, the. The Royal Scot express: railwaymen's: since ca. 1920(?). Railway, 3rd.

porridge education. 'Sometimes when a knowledgeable chap is told that he must have had a college education, he says "No; I had a porridge education"—meaning that he was brought up in the Scottish manner, fed on little more than porridge and "educated" by some heavy-handed village dominie' (A. B. Petch, Jan. 1966): coll. C. 20.

port. A portmanteau: Australian: since ca. 1910. Ruth Park, The Harp in the South, 1948. Earlier in Vance Palmer, Legend for Sanderson, 1937. But also—and perhaps earlier—New Zealand, as in Jean Devanney, Dawn Beloved, 1928. 2. Porter, as term of address: C. 20.

port-hole duff. See Navy cake.

Port Melbourne pier. Variant of Melbourne pier.

Port Said garters. 'Any contraceptives worn by amorous (and prudent) soldiery': Army: ca. 1939-55.

port wine. Blood: pugilistic: ca. 1840-90. Augustus Mayhew, Paved With Gold, 1857. Much less gen. than claret (Dict.).

porter's knot. A large bob of hair worn by women at the back of the head in 1866: coll.: 1866 +; † by 1880, except historically. B. & L.

Portugoose (p. 651): prob. goes back to very early C. 19. (Glascock, 1834, as Portegoose.) Moe.

Portug(u)ee (p. 651). Much earlier. It occurs in, e.g., W. N. Glascock, Sketch-Book, 2nd Series, 1834, at II, 121. (Moe.)

Portuguese pumping (p. 651) is more usually Portuguese pump and it does mean masturbation.

posh, adj. (p. 651). The usual educated explanation—'port outward bound, starboard home' (sun-avoiding, hence the 'best', cabins on the England-India run in hot weather)—is ingenious and plausible; but, distrusting it, I prefer this: a contraction of polish, itself a slovened pronunciation of polished.—2. Hence, free, esp. if illicitly acquired: Regular Army: since ca. 1912.

posh, n.—4. Spit-and-polish: Army: 1914–18. Ex the adj.

posh, do the. To do things in style: to spend lavishly: Australian: since ca. 1920. B., 1942.

position is critical, the. See very grave.

possible sack. A Canadian coll., adopted, ca. 1895, ex U.S., but adapted from 'a bag for provisions and personal belongings' to 'a bag containing such articles sufficiently valuable to be deposited, as a pledge, with a pawnbroker'. (Leechman.)

possodelux. A conman's victim (B., 1959): Aus. c.: since ca. 1930. See possum below.

possum.—2. A 'ring-in' (q.v.): low Australian: since ca. 1925. (B., 1943.)

possum, with shortening poss. A simpleton; a dupe: Australian c.: since ca. 1925. (B., 1945.) —A very rich dupe is a posso-de-luxe. (B., 1953.)

possum up a gum-tree, like a. Entirely happy and contented; 'on top of the world': Australian coll.: C. 20. B., 1942.

post, n. A deferred examination: Australian university coll., esp. in N.S.W.: since ca. 1920. (B.P.)

post, v.—4. To promote (someone) to post-captain: Naval: ca. 1790–1850. (W. N. Glascock, Sailors and Saints, 1829, at I, 8. Moe.)

post a letter. To defecate: euphemistic: since ca. 1890.

post-and-rail. A wooden match as opp. a wax vesta: Australian: from ca. 1880; ob. B. & L. —2. A fairy tale, esp. a lie: Australian rhyming s.: since ca. 1910. (B., 1945.)

post and rails. 'Post and rail tea' (p. 652): Australian: C. 20.—2. Wooden matches: Australian: since ca. 1920. (B., 1943.)

post-and-rails tea is preferable, pedantically, to the form in the Dict.

post-mortem, as applied to discussion of a hand (or a game) at bridge after it has been finished, may orig. (1922: O.E.D., Sup.) have been bridge-players' s.; but it very quickly > S.E.—Lit., an after-death (examination).

Post Royal Tom. 'A wellknown shark in Jamaica' (W. N. Glascock, Sketch-Book, 2nd Series, 1834, II, 59): Naval: early C. 19. Moe.

post te.—2. Hence, forbidden or taboo, 'It's post te to do such a thing': Charterhouse: since ca. 1914.—3. Hence, to be privileged, a privilege: ibid.; since ca. 1918. Marples.

postchaise, postchay, postshay. See post-chaise and post-chay in the Dict.

postman's knock. A lock: burglars' rhyming s.: C. 20. Chubb's advertisement in The Daily Telegraph, March 5, 1962.

Postman's Park. A little 'square' within the G.P.O. block, London, E.C.4: Londoners': C. 20. Because this tiny square—the only square in the block—is nearly always filled with postmen that have come out for a breather.

pot, n.—15. Abbr. pot-hat: ca. 1890–1914. B. & L.—16. A china, or an enamel, mug: Services' coll.: since ca. 1925.—17. A paunch; esp. get a bit of a pot, to become fat-bellied: since ca. 1920. (Cf. sense 13: p. 652.)—18. A cylinder, esp. in one of the old rotary engines: R.F.C.—R.A.F.: 1914–18. They tended to split or to fly off. Hence, any aeroplane-engine cylinder: R.A.A.F.: 1939–45. (B., 1943.) 'Hence, a cylinder in any internal combustion engine, as in the phrase "hitting on all pots" = firing on all cylinders. Common in the 1930's.' (Peter Sanders.)—19. A potentiometer: Australian and prob. elsewhere: since ca. 1950. (B.P.)—20. Marijuana: orig. and still mostly drug-addicts': adopted ex U.S., ca. 1945 in Canada, ca. 1947 in Britain, ca. 1950 in Australia (B.P.)

pot, v.—7. To stake a large sum on (a horse): turf: from ca. 1870.—8. To throw (e.g. a stone): Australian: C. 20. B., 1942. I.e. take a pot-shot —9. To put a baby on a chamber-pot: domestic coll.: C. 20.—10. To give (a pupil) an imposition: Public Schools'; ca. 1880–1915. (Talbot Baines Reed, 1907.)—11. To inform upon, lay information against: Australian (low): since ca. 1920. Cad-die, A Sidney Barmaid, 1943, 'To myself I said, "What dirty swine has potted me?"' pot, on the.—2. In trouble; vexed: low: ca. 1840–80. Sinks, 1848.

pot and pan (p. 653). By 1925, far from rare. Len Ortzen, Down Donkey Row, 1938.

pot-gutted. Pot-bellied: Australian coll.: C. 20. Baker.

pot-hole. A shell-hole: military: 1914–18.

pot(-)mess. 'A stew made of bits and pieces too numerous for specification,' Granville: Naval coll.: late C. 19–20. Cf. pot, n., 12 (Dict).—2. Hence, a complete mix-up: chaos: Australian Naval: since ca. 1910.

pot of honey. Variant of bees and honey (p. 43). Franklyn 2nd.

pot on, put (someone's). To inform on: Australian: C. 20. B., 1942.

pot on, put the. See put the pot on (Dict).—2. To exaggerate: from ca. 1870; ob.—3. To overcharge: tradesmen's: mid-C. 19–20. B. & L.

pot scum. 'Bad or stinking dripping,' Sinks: domestic coll.: ca. 1825–1910.

Pot—the Princess of Tasmania. 'The vehicular ferry between the mainland and Tasmania' (B.P.): Australian: since ca. 1955.

pot to pee (or piss) in, doesn't (or didn't) have a. A Canadian c.p. (since ca. 1905) for extreme poverty.

Potash and Perlmutter. Butter: rhyming s.: since ca. 1910; by 1960, slightly ob. Montague Glass's play of that title 'was first produced in London at The Queen's Theatre, Shaftesbury Avenue, on April 14, 1914. The play was a huge success and the term may have come into use even before 1915' (Franklyn 2nd).

potato.—3. A girl, a (young) woman: Australian rural: since ca. 1925. (D'Arcy Niland, 1958.)

potato!, take a red-hot. A c.p. (ca. 1840–60) 'by way of silencing a person . . . a word of contempt,' Sinks, 1848. A very hot potato in one's mouth is a sharp deterrent from loquacity.

potato, the clean. A non-convict; a person of good character: Australian: ca. 1825–70. Baker.

potato-trap. See potato-jaw (Dict).

potatoes in the mould, hence often potatoes whence taters. Cold (adj.): rhyming s.: late C. 19–20. Franklyn, Rhyming.

potch. "'Fire" or "live" opal was the most sought after; naturally being the rarest and most valuable, it was the least found. "Potch" or immature opal could be found by the ton,' Archer Russell, Gone Nomad, 1936: 'Australian opal-miners': late C. 19–20: coll. >, by 1930, j. App., potch is an English dial. variant of patch. The word occurs in K. S. Prichard, The Black Opal, 1921.

potential. A potential officer: Army coll.: since ca. 1940. (P-G-R.)

pothooks; Pothooks. See pot-hooks and Pot-Hooks in Dict.

potthouse; the Pothouse. See pot-house (Dict.). pots; runners; straws. Potatoes; scarlet runner beans; strawberries: greengrocers' coll.: since ca. 1870.

pots.—2. A radio supervisor ('late P.O. Tel.'—Petty Officer Telegraphy): Naval: since late 1930's. 'Still in use, despite his new name' (Wilfred Granville, Nov. 22, 1962.)

pottage. The Book of Common Prayer: C. 17. Frequent in the less reputable writings of the time. Esau sold his birthright for a mess of pottage.

potted.—4. Snubbed; suppressed: non-aristocratic: from ca. 1880; ob. B. & L.—5. Topsy: South Africa: since ca. 1938. Professor W. S. Mackie in The Cape Argus, July 4, 1946, 'A mere variant of "canned."'—6. Exhilarated by taking marijuana: drug-addicts: adopted, ca. 1956, ex U.S. pottle.—2. An ice-cream carton (B., 1943): Australian coll.: since ca. 1925. Ex the S.E. pottle, a tiny basket for strawberries.

potty, n.—2. A chamber-pot, esp. a child's: nursery and domestic coll.: C. 20. Cf. pot, v., 9.

potwalloper; potwalloping. See pot-walloper and -walloping in Dict.

pouf-wroughting. See poof-rorting.

poufter. Variant of poofter.

poultrice, n.—5. A mortgage: Australian: C. 20. (K. S. Prichard, Kiss on the Lips, 1932.)—6. A (large) sum of money; e.g. in wages: Australian: since ca. 1920. D'Arcy Niland, Call Me . . ., 1948, 'I got paid off, and it was a whacking big poultrice.'—7. Hence, a bribe, esp. in sling in a poultrice, to offer a bribe: Australian: since ca. 1925. (Culotta.)

Poultrice, the. The taxicab rank outside the Middlesex Hospital: London taxi-drivers': since ca. 1910. Herbert Hodge, Cab, Sir?, 1939. Cf.:—

poultrice plasterer, the. The Medical Officer: Navy: since ca. 1920. H. & P. Cf. the poultrice combination on p. 654 and:—

poultrice-walloper.—3. A nursing orderly: R.A.F. since ca. 1925. Jackson.

pounce.—2. A severe, esp. if written, criticism: book-world coll.: from ca. 1930. Ex pounce, on the, q.v. in Dict.

pouncer. See whistler. 9.

pound of lead; often shortened to pound. Variant of lump of lead (p. 499). Franklyn 2nd.

pound the stones. To walk a beat: police: C. 20. Via the coll. pound the beat (late C. 19–20).

pour on more coals. To open the throttle of either a piston or a jet engine: R.A.F.: since ca. 1950. Cf. open the taps at taps below.—2. 'Also used for accelerating in a motor car' (Leechman): motorists': since ca. 1955.

pouve. An occasional variant of poove above.

poverty. Some strong liquor that was in vogue in the 1720's. Anon., The Quaker's Opera, 1728.

Poverty Point. The junction of Park and Pitt Streets: Sydneyites': ca. 1890–1920. B., 1942. Cf. poverty corner on p. 655.

powder, take a. See fade, do a. powder one's nose. To go to the lavatory: women's euphemistic: since ca. 1940.

powdered chalk. A walk: rhymings s. (not very common): late C. 19–20. The v. is take a powdered chalk, whence perhaps the U.S. take a powder. 'I believe the U.S. "take a powder" means take a laxative, which will make you "go". In other words, "Get out of here"' (Leechman).

Powell it. To walk: sporting coll.: ca. 1810–50. Boziana, II, 1818. Ex the name of a famous early C. 19 walker.

power.—2. Penis: low and rather rare: mid-C. 19–20. Prob. suggested by sexual potency.

pox doctor's clerk, like—or got-up like—a. In a very smart civilian suit: Naval: C. 20. Granville, 'Also "pox doctor's assistant" (lower-deck).'

pozzie. Variant (B., 1959) of possy, 1, on p. 652.

pozzy, 3 (p. 656). Also Naval (lower-deck) s., since ca. 1919. Granville.

prac. A practical test or examination: Australian students, esp. in Science or Medicine: since ca. 1925. (B.P.) Cf.:—

pracs. Practical classes: Reading undergraduates': since ca. 1920. (Marples, 2.)

pragger. A practice game: Rugby School: late C. 19–20. 'The Oxford -er.' (D. F. Wharton.)

Pragger Waggar, the (p. 656). But in the 1880's, the future King Edward VII. Marples, 2.

prairie rash. Baked beans: Naval (lower-deck): Sept. 13, 1941, The Weekly Telegraph. Ex cow-boys.

prams. Legs: low Glasgow s., verging on c.: late (? mid-) C. 19–20. MacArthur & Long. Prob. a corruption of the old c. term, gams.

Prancing Queers, The. Ivor Novello's show, The Dancing Years: theatrical: late 1940's—early 1950's.

Prang; usu. in full, Prang Bell. A common nickname of men surnamed Bell: since ca. 1944. Cf. prang, v., 2, below.

prang, n. A crash; esp., a crash-landing: R.A.F.: since ca. 1937. H. & P. Ex the v.—2. A bombing raid: 1939+. Partridge, 1945. Ex sense 2 of:—

prang, v. To crash-land an aircraft (usually v.t.): R.A.F.: since ca. 1935. Sgt-Pilot F. R. Rhodes, letter of Sept. 20, 1942; Jackson, 1943, 'To damage, destroy, wreck. . . From the sound of the impact of a metal aircraft with the ground'; Paul Brickhill & Conrad Norton, Escape to Danger, 1946 (see quotation at hack down). Reminiscent of bang.—2. Hence (?), to bomb (a town, a factory, etc.): since late 1939. John Moore in The Observer, Oct. 4, 1942; Jackson, 'He pranged the target to blazes.'—3. (Ex 1 or 2—or both.) 'Sometimes applied to non-flying accidents, e.g., "Jones pranged his arm at rugger to-day,"' H. & P., 1943.—4. To coit with (a girl): R.A.F.: 1940+. Cf. bang, v., 3 (p. 31) and target . . .

prannie or pranny. Female pudend: low: late C. 19–20. A term of contempt among men.

prat, v.—4. To speak, to talk, to someone: Australian low: since ca. 1918. B., 1942. Ex sense 2.

prat about. To potter, mess about: low: late C. 19–20. Cf. prat, n., 2, 3, and prat, v., 2: on p. 656.

prattle-box. See 'Men', and prattling-box (Dict.).

prawn, draw the raw. 'To get the worst part of an arrangement' (Culotta): Australian: since ca. 1930. Cf. the American colloquialism 'raw deal'—but why prawn?

prawn-headed mullet. A very stupid fellow: Aus.: since ca. 1930. Nino Culotta, Gone Fishin', 1963. Cf. stunned mullet below.

prawnie (or -ny). A catcher or a seller of prawns: Australian: since ca. 1920. (B., 1953.)

pray. 'No use to protest. To squeal, or to pray as they called it, might mean worse' (James Barlow, The Burden of Proof, 1968): raffish London, esp. teenage addicts': since ca. 1960.

prayers, morning or family. A daily Staff Conference at H.Q.: Army: 1939-45.

praying-mantis. 'A tail landing, whether accidental or intentional if the undercarriage fails to work,' H. & P.: R.A.F.: since ca. 1930. Ex that insect, Mantis religiosa, which holds its forelegs in a position suggestive of prayer: O.E.D.

pre.—2. A president of college: Oxford undergraduates': from ca. 1880.

pre-fab. A pre-fabricated house: 1945 +; by 1947, coll.

Pre Sci (pron. sky). Preliminary science examination, University of London: (mostly students') coll.: late C. 19-20.

'preciate. To appreciate: semi-literate coll., mostly Australian: C. 20. (Dymphna Cusack, 1953.)

precious, adv. (p. 657): earlier in W. N. Glascock, The Naval Sketch-Book, 2nd Series, 1834, at I, 209, 'We've taken a precious, precious wide yaw from our course'; and earlier still in Fredk Chamier, The Life of a Sailor, 1832, at II, 63 ('precious glad'). Moe.

precious few (p. 657) was perhaps adopted ex the U.S.A. It occurs in, e.g., The Port Folio, May 29, 1802, at p. 161, 'That we (precious few) who sometimes can think.' Contrast 'The skipper tucks in a precious lot of good things [victuals] under his belt': W. N. Glascock, The Naval Sketch-Book (II, 107), 1826. (Moe.)

pref. A prefect: Scottish Public Schools': since ca. 1870. Ian Miller, School Tie, 1935. Contrast pre (Dict.).

prefer room to company, as in 'She prefers my room to my company' and a hint, 'I prefer your room to your company': virtually a c.p.: late C. 19-20.

preggers. Pregnant: Oxford and Cambridge graduates': since ca. 1920. By male insensitivity out of Alma Mater tribalism. Cf. the next two.

preggy. Pregnant; hence, bulging: upper and upper-middle classes': since early 1920's. Ngaio Marsh, Death in a White Tie, 1938, 'There was your bag, simply preggy with bank-notes, lying there on the writing-table.'

Pregnant Duck. A Hudson bomber aircraft: R.A.F.: 1940-4. Ex appearance. (Communicated by S/Ldr John Pudney.)

pregnant scholar. See 'Tavern terms', § 3, b.

prego. Pregnant: Australian: since the 1920's. (Cusack & James, Come in Spinner, 1951.) The ubiquitous Australian suffix -o.

Prels. See 'Minor Drugs'.

premie (pronounced premmie). A prematurely born child: Canadian doctors' and nurses': since ca. 1925. (Leechman.) Also common in the Australian medical world. (B.P.)

prems. Premises (of property): trivial: from ca. 1890; ob. Pugh (2), 'E keeps no end o' bullion on the prems.'

prep, v. To prepare (a person; a limb, etc.) for operation: hospitals': C. 20. Josephine Bell, Murder in Hospital, 1937, 'Macdonald started to prep him' and 'She had finished prep'ing the leg'.

Presbo. A Presbyterian: Australian: since ca. 1925. (B., 1953.)

prescribe and proscribe confused: catachrestic: late C. 19-20.

present (p. 658). The white spot on the fingernail has a different meaning for each nail. Starting with the thumb the verse runs—'A gift, a friend, a foe; a letter to come, and a journey to go.'

present for a good girl. Jocular; sometimes with sexual innuendo; coll.: C. 20.

press and scratch, usu. in the pl. Variant of cuts and scratches (above). Franklyn 2nd.

Press Button. A Presbyterian: Australian: mostly Catholic: C. 20.

press on, regardless; press-on type. 'I must press on, regardless' = I have urgent work to do, I must finish this job. Ex lit. press on, to continue one's way towards the objective, despite damage or injury. Hence, press-on type, an energetic or very conscientious fellow: 1941 +; often derisive. (Communicated by S/Ldr Vernon Noble, Feb. 1945.)

Pressie, adj. and n. (A) Presbyterian: Australian: C. 20. (Colin MacInnes, June in Her Spring, 1952.)

pressing engagement. An appointment with a girl: jocular coll.: C. 20. With pun on pressing.

pressure. Police investigation; police interrogation: Australian c.: since ca. 1920. B., 1942. Ex put pressure on.

Preston Gild (or Guild), every. Rarely: Lancashire coll.: late C. 19-20. It is held only every twenty years.

pretend you're a bee—and buzz! A dismissive c.p.: Australian: since ca. 1950. (B.P.) Cf. buzz, v., 5 (p. 116).

pretty, n.—3. A pretty girl, a 'lovely': since ca. 1935. Ex: A domestic term of address to a girl child or adolescent, whether pretty or not: coll.: late C. 19-20.

pretty(-)boy. 'An effeminate young man' (B., 1942): Australian coll.: C. 20.

pretty-face (p. 658) is, more precisely, the whip-tail kangaroo, which is smallish: the term is far from ob.: see esp. Jean Devaney, Travels in North Queensland, 1951, at pp. 118-119.

pretty much. Almost; to a large extent: coll.: since ca. 1860. E. Charles Vivian, Tramp's Evidence, 1937, 'Crandon'—a small country town—'goes to bed with the dickey-birds, pretty much'.

pretty up. To 'make a mess of', to disfigure: Australian: since ca. 1920. D'Arcy Niland, The Big Smoke, 1959, 'I'll pretty up your face, boy.'

price of Admiralty; mostly pay the . . ., to be killed at sea: Naval (officers'): C. 20. Granville. A sarcastic euphemism.

'The source of this is "A song of the English" of the poems in Rudyard Kipling's "The Seven Seas" (1896). The line "If blood be the price of admiralty" is repeated cumulatively (an additional repetition in each succeeding verse), and produces an unintentionally hysterical effect that invites sarcasm from those who may be expected to pay it.' (Ramsey Spencer, March 1967.)

pricey or pricy. High-priced: 1944, World's Press News, Aug. 31. Also Australian and New Zealand, apparently since ca. 1910. It occurs in, e.g., H. Drake-Brockman, Hot Gold, 1940.

prick, n.—6. Perique: Issue tobacco wrapped in canvas and lashed with spun yarn into a cylindricial shape tapered to a point,' Granville: Naval: since ca. 1890.

prick, v. To mark a course on (a chart): Naval officers' coll.: late C. 19-20. (P-G-R.)

prick, (standing about) like a (spare). Useless, unwanted, idle; esp. with hint of superfluity or of embarrassment: low: C. 20.

prick(-)farrier. A medical officer: R.A.F. regu-lars': since ca. 1928. Cf. prick smith.

prick for a (soft) plank (p. 659). Prob. through-out C. 19, for it occurs, as 'prick for the softest plank', in 'A Real Paddy', Life in Ireland, 1822.

prick-parade. A V.D. inspection. Services' coll.: C. 20.

prick(-)smith. Medical officer: Army: 1939 +. Ex the venereal inspection he administers.

prick-teaser. A late C. 19-20 variant of cock-teaser (Dict.). Often abbr. to p.t. or P.T.—2. Hence, a synonym of p.t., 2, q.v. in Dict.

pricker, chief. A Chief Stoker: Naval: since ca. 1910. Granville.

pricker with (someone), get the. To take a dislike to: New Zealand: since ca. 1930. Slatter, 'Got the pricker with me'. Perhaps ex S.E. prickly, over-ready to take offence.

priest. A self-propelling field-gun: Eighth Army: 1941-5. H. & P.

prim, n.—2. (Prim.) A Primitive Methodist: Nonconformists': late C. 19-20.

Prin, the. 'The old Princess Theatre, Mel-bourne' (B., 1942): Australian: ca. 1890-1920.

Prince Alberts, 2 (p. 660). Add that the 'toe-rags' sense dates from ca. 1860. 'Tom Collins', Such is Life, 1903, 'Unlapping from his feet the inexpensive substitute for socks known as "prince alberts"'. Cf. S.E. albert, a watch-chain: these rags are rolled about the feet.—3. Roughly made lace-up boots: Australian: since ca. 1920. (B., 1943.)

Prince Alfreds is the post-1910 variant of Prince Alberts (p. 660). Baker.

Prince of Wales. A locomotive's blowing-off of steam: railwaymen's: since ca. 1920. (Rail-way.) Perhaps rhyming s. on gales (of wind). unless it refers to King Edward the Eighth's refreshing outspokenness post-World War I, while, of course, he was still the Prince of Wales.

princess of the pavement. A prostitute: Aus-tralian: C. 20. Baker.

Princess Pats, the (p. 660). Also Pat's Pets and simply Pats: witness Jack Munroe, Mopping Up, 1918.

Principal Secretary. See 'Tavern terms', § 5.

principle is a frequent misspelling for principal: prob. since C. 15. The following was perpetrated in 1936: 'The title-phrase, or the principle words of it, has generally been set in a conspicuous size of type'; a sophist but not a stylist could defend this error.

prink, n.—2. The Prink is the Principal, esp. of a women's college: girl undergraduates' and trainee teachers': since ca. 1905. Also Prinny.

prison. In the game of marbles, a hole placed farther from the taw-line than even third hole: Australian children's: C. 20. (B.P.)

Prisoner-of-War Slang. There is a valuable note on the prisoners-of-war-in-Germany slang at the beginning of Paul Brickhill & Conrad Norton, Escape to Danger, 1946: see entry at kriegy. All the terms mentioned in that book appear in these Addenda. Guy Morgan's no less readable Only Ghosts Can Live, 1945, contains these additional terms: big eats!: How are you?—Ger. wie gehts?, how goes it?; bunker, solitary-confinement cell; fish-paste?, what time is it?—Ger. wie spät ist es?; goon (see separate entry), 'after that dumb top-heavy ham-handed race of giants in the "Pop-Eye" comic strip'; hence, goon up!—a warning that a German (soldier) is near-by or approaching; millet, 'porridge-like soup'; nix fish-tins, I don't understand—Ger. nicht verstehen; stimmt, genuine, true—from Ger. alles stimmt, all correct; tiger-box, a square box that, on a pole at each corner of the barbed wire, contained searchlight, machine-gun, telephone and a sentry.

2. For the P.O.W. slang of the Far East, there was published in a ship's news-sheet of late 1945, an excellent and delightful article by H. W. Fowler & I. P. Watt, who have generously allowed me to make full use of it. Here are some few of the terms they list; the quotations come from that article.

3. A rumour: borehole (ex a rough-and-ready latrine); griff (see griff, n., p. 354); and latrin(e)ogram (Addenda).

4. 'Anyone thought to run a wireless set, or to have other sources of information, was "in the cloak and dagger club"'. The word canary was officially suggested for 'radio' or 'wireless'; thence 'came "dicky bird", "birdsong" and "birdseed" . . . Trouble in getting batteries to work the sets was "trouble about birdseed"'.

5. At Changi camp, the Sikh guards did not behave well: hence sikhery, 'brutality; bloody-mindedness'; Sikh's beard, a local tobacco, coarse, tough, wiry.

6. Terms from Malay were go buso, 'to turn septic'—from busok, 'rotten'; lagi, often mispronounced leggy, superseding the synonymous baksheesh; Nazi Goering, 'fried rice'—from nasi goreng; and a number of direct adoptions.

7. Japanese supplied benjo, lit. 'a convenient place'—a water closet or latrine; byoki, sick; yasmé, lit. 'rest', which did duty for 'rest'—'sleep'—'holiday'—'peace'; camp headquarters being Yasmé Villa; and, remotely, Nip, a Japanese (Addenda).

8. From Australian slang, or from association with Australian soldiers, came jokers, 'chaps', 'fellows'; *bronzie*s (Aussies, the "bronzed gods" of Singapore ballyhoo journalism); Bungs (for Dutch half-castes, originally Australian slang for their own Aborigines).

9. Dutch yielded eten halen, lit. 'to fetch food', and Got(t)fordommers, from Gott verdomme (Dutch version of God damn!), both as nicknames for the Dutch themselves.

10. Some names for food were these: 'The staple stew, tasteless, meatless, . . . was dubbed "jungle stew"—anything bad was "jungle"—jungle sores, jungle camps, jungle fever, jungle bananas'; 'various types of dried fish . . . "Cheese fish"—"Bengofish"—"Picture-frame fish" or "Tennis-racket fish"; the various disguises of rice were generically doovers (see doover; though perhaps ironically ex 'hors d'œuvre') or efforts, the latter having, at Changi, been a rissole. A gas-cape stew was a dried vegetable soup.

11. Canteen cries and names: hot, sweet and filthy, concerning coffee or for 'coffee'; nutty nutty, 'a local concoction of sugar, peanuts and newspaper'; lime slime, a sweetened version of gu-gu (tapioca gruel); limo-limo, a hot lime drink.

12. Medical terms: 'Amputations were so frequent that two abbreviations, "amputs" and "stumpies", were required; and "amput cigarettes" were on sale"—rolled by those men who had had a limb amputated; avit, an avitaminosis patient; the diary, diarrhoea.

13. References to Japanese influence occur in Jap-happy, 'for those who were thought to "collaborate" in any way or to do well out of the Nips... coined early in Singapore. But it became current in Thailand when the lucky few were the recipients of Japanese clothing—rubber boots were "Jap-happies", and a loin cloth was a "Jap-happy" (or sometimes a "G-string").'

14. Phrases: Anyone who was in a constipated mental condition "had his finger up", and was expected to "pull it out": see take your finger out. 'One phrase... stands out...; it will live to describe an aspect of human nature seen very clearly in the bad times, when selfishness and greed were matched by the envy and malice of the less fortunate, in the utter lack of privacy of the camps in Thailand. It was developed from the phrase "Pull the ladder up, Jack, I'm all right!" which had long been current, as had "fuck you, Jack, I'm all right!" It was abbreviated, however, by frequency of use to the P.O.W. forms "A Jack Club", "a ladder club" or "Ladder", "a ladder job", "Got your ladder", "Mine's up", and so on all to describe whatever was considered a "cushy" job for which the usual term could have been "administration" as opposed to "work". On the other hand, our officers spurred themselves to greater efforts in hut-building with the cry, "Up guards and atap!" (Note. All our huts were atap-roofed.)'

15. Miscellaneous: Bangkok bowler, a Thai-lander's bamboo hat; bamboo presento, a beating-up with a bamboo; Gordon Thailanders, Gordon Highlanders; 2359 (hours), a coloured officer—usually as a nickname—the time, on the very verge of midnight, when all is dark.

prissy. Effeminate: mostly women's: coll.: adopted, ca. 1943, ex U.S. servicemen. (Monica Dickens, The Happy Prisoner, 1946.) Perhaps a blend of prim + sissy, as Mitford M. Mathews has suggested. Hence a noun, as in Vincent Adrian, End of a Summer's Day, 1958.—2. Prudish: mostly men's: Australian: since ca. 1943. (D'Arcy Niland, When the Cross Turns Over, 1958.)

priv. A privilege: Public Schools': late C. 19–20. Marples.

private eye. A private detective: adopted, ca. 1944, ex U.S. servicemen, with the late Raymond Chandler intervening. A pun on 'private investigator', with esp. reference to the initial of the 2nd word.

private eyeful. A pretty girl or woman employed by a detective agency. Since ca. 1961. A pun on eyeful (p. 261) and on the term preceding this one.

private navy. Any detached Royal Navy unit working far from the surveillance of the C. in C.: Naval jocular: since ca. 1920.

private property. An engaged girl: (jocular) coll.: since ca. 1920.

Private Snoops. See Chad.

Private Tojo. A Japanese soldier: Army in the Pacific and Indian Oceans 'theatre': 1942–5. Ex the war-mongering Japanese Premier, Tojo. (P-G-R.)

privateer. A woman competing with prostitutes but not depending on prostitution for her whole livelihood: Society: ca. 1890–1914.

priver. A private school: Public Schools': C. 20. Arnold Lunn, Loose Ends, 1919.

privs, have one's. To have 'the privilege to fag and "whop"', Lunn. A late C. 19–20 Harrow term. Also in the singular, as in Lunn: a privilege; a privileged person: 'You couldn't go into a room without finding some fag smoking. And so the privs got rather fed up. It was jolly bad for the House footer. So they made it a four-year priv.'

privy. A preparatory school: Marlborough College: late C. 19–20. So many 'prep' schools are privately owned; cf. privee in Dict.

prize idiot. A (notable) fool: coll.: since ca. 1910. Suggested by booby prize?

pro, 1 (p. 661): This sense may well go back at least as far as 1750. It occurs in The Gentleman's Magazine, May 1784 (p. 366), 'Made Beadles, Pro's, and Proctors trun'. (Moe.) Cf. the Eton nuance, 'provost': C. 18–20. Spy, 1825.

pro-y. Professional; esp., of or like a professional prostitute: since ca. 1920. James Curtis, You're in the Racket Too, 1937, 'I always think those rooms at Paddington make it seem so pro-y.'

probably that. 'It is highly probably that I have interviewed him' comes from a 'thriller' published in 1934. This catachresis results ex a confusion of it is probable that... and probably (I did something).

proby. A probationer: Australian prison warders': ca. 1820–90. Louis Becke, Old Convict Days, 1899.

proctor (or P-). See 'Tavern terms', § 5.

Prod(d)o. A Protestant: Australian Catholics' C. 20. (B.P.) Cf. Prot below.

production of it, make a. See don't make... above.

productionous. Productive: book-world: C. 20. (Berta Ruck, A Story-Teller..., 1935.)

profesh. Profession; esp. the p., the stage: (lower-class) actors': from ca. 1885. Pugh.

professor. A professional: cricketers': C. 20. Sir Home Gordon, The Background of Cricket, 1939.—2. An Education Officer: R.A.F. (mostly officers): since ca. 1938. Jackson.

proff, v. To profit (?): Naval: since ca. 1930. John Winton, We Saw the Sea, 1960, 'Except in a Leap Year, of course, when I proff and get no work at all.'

Prog. A Proctor aircraft: R.A.F.: 1943 + . Partridge, 1945. Cf. prog, n., 3 (p. 661).

proggins is recorded earlier by B. & L.

proggy book. A picture scrap-book, which the owner invited—usually for the fee of a marble or other small object—other children to prod with a pin: North Country children's: late C. 19–20; by 1950, slightly ob. Ex North Country dial. prog. to prod.

proggy mat. A mat, or a rug, made from cloth-cuttings, with a 'progger' (a type of cutting instrument): North Country coll.: late C. 19–20.

projie. A projectile: Australian Naval: since ca. 1930. (B., 1943.)

prole, n. Mostly proles, the proletariat: Australian Labour: since ca. 1925. Cf. and see:

prole, v. To educate the proletariat to become conscious of themselves as Labour; proling, political speaking at street corners: Australian Labour: since ca. 1925. B., 1942.

promo, n. and v. To promote, a promotion, in class: Charterhouse: from ca. 1918.

promoss must be dated as arising a decade earlier.

promote. To borrow, or to scrounge, something; loosely, to steal: Australian soldiers': 1939-45. (B., 1943.) Euphemistic: cf. organize and win.

promotion, haul-down. 'Flag Officer's promotion on hauling down his flag on retirement,' Granville: Naval coll.: C. 20. But it was 'a promotion by a retiring flag officer, usually of his flag lieutenant, who might be his son or nephew. This injustice to many more experienced officers was very properly abolished in November, 1874, and so your date of 20 C. cannot be right' (Rear-Admiral P. W. Brock, R.N. (Ret.), C.B., D.S.O.: Jan. 10, 1963). Read, therefore: C. 19; after 1874, merely historical.

prong. A table fork: waiters': from ca. 1880. Anstey, Voces Populi, II, 1892.

pronounce judgment. See 'Tavern terms', § 4.

prop, n., 5 (p. 662). Rather earlier in Sessions, Dec. 1856.—9. Propaganda: journalists': since ca. 1939.

prop game, the. The gaining of useful information about, and access to, buildings, esp. to private houses, by posing as local government inspectors or as builders and later stealing from them: since ca. 1963. In 'Doctor Describes Widow's Injuries', an article in the Bournemouth Evening Echo of April 20, 1966, a detective sergeant stated that 'the "prop game" appeared to be . . . unique to Leeds, something that has cropped up in the last two and a half years': cf. straight prop (man), below, and bowler-hat boys, above.

proper article, the. Exactly what's needed; the real, or the best, thing: New Zealand coll.: since ca. 1910.

proper crowd, one's. One's personal friends; the circle or clique to which one belongs: Australian coll.: since 1920. B., 1942.

proper do. A very fine party or wedding-feast: working classes': since ca. 1910. See do, n., 4 (p. 226).

proper madam. See madam.

property. Any creative work; e.g. a book, play, song, not yet published: agents', book- and music-publishers', et hoc genus omne: coll. verging j., or vice versa: since ca. 1930.

prophets, the. Those Australian squatters who went to Canterbury, New Zealand, in 1851: Australian and New Zealand: ca. 1851-70. Bakcr.

proposition, n., 3, and v. To 'proposition' a girl is to suggest sexual intimacy: hence the n.—cf. the c.p., or virtual c.p., 'Is this a proposal or a proposition?': Canadian (? ex U.S.) since ca. 1940, English and Australian since ca. 1943.

propping. The encouragement of a junior by addressing her by her Christian name: Lady Margaret Hall, Oxford: since ca. 1918. (Marples, 2.) Ex S.E. prop, to support.

props, esp. in get one's props, to become a Leading Aircraftman: R.A.F.: since ca. 1930. H. & P., 'The propeller-shaped badge worn on the sleeve.' See prop, n., 8 (Dict.).

pros, n.—2. A prostitute: variant spelling of pross, n., 3 (p. 663); e.g. in Sessions, Feb. 8, 1905.—3. Proscenium: theatrical: since ca. 1910. (Gavin Holt, No Curtain for Cora, 1950.)

prospector. A confidence trickster: Australian c.: since ca. 1925. (B., 1953.) For mugs' gold.

pross about. To 'mooech' or hang about: low: from ca. 1890. Pugh (2), 'Afternoon I prosses about in 'Ampstead.' Ex pross, v., 1 (Dict.).

prossie. An Australian late C. 19-20 variant of pross, u., 3 (p. 663). B., 1942. But also English; it occurs in, e.g., Ada E. Jones (Mrs Cecil Chesterton), Women of the Underworld, 1931, at p. 164.

prossso. A prostitute: Australian: since ca. 1925. (Diek.) Cf. prossie.

prostitute, the. The twelfth man, or a substitute, in a cricket match: cricketers': ca. 1870-1914. Sir Home Gordon, The Background of Cricket, 1939.

Prot, n. and adj. (A) Protestant: Catholics': mid C. 19-20.

protection, take (a girl) under one's. To take care of a girl and send or accompany her out to the Argentine: (Polish) white-slavers' c.: C. 20. Albert Londres, 1928.

Protestant herring, a. A stale, a bad, herring; hence, any inferior provender, as in 'Oh, that butter is a Protestant herring' (P. W. Joyce, English . . . in Ireland, 1910): Anglo-Irish coll.: mid C. 19-20.

Prudential men, or men of the Prudential. Officers in the Special Branch of the R.N.V.R.: Naval: 1939-45. With a pun on the Prudential insurance company. (P-G-R.)

prune is short for Prune, P/O. John Moore, in The Observer, Oct. 4, 1942, "'Lost anybody?" "Some prune who thought he could beat up the searchlights"; B., 1942.

prune, v. To adjust or otherwise tinker with (a ship's engines): Naval: since ca. 1930. (P-G-R.)

Prune, P/O; in speech, Pilot Officer Prune. 'A pilot who takes unnecessary risks, and generally loses his neck through his prunery' and "'P/O Prune" is the title bestowed upon a pilot who has several "prangs" on his record' (H. & P.): R.A.F.: since ca. 1935. He is a constant emblematic monitory figure in the pages of The R.A.F. Journal. Not unconnected with the impracticality of 'prunes and prisms'. Created, Jackson tells us, by S/Ldr Anthony Armstrong and L.A.C.W. Hooper ('Raff').

prune-juice. Hard liquor: since ca. 1935. (Richard Gordon, Doctor and Son, 1953.)

Prussian Guard. A flea: Army: 1914-18. 'Dignity and Impudence'.—2. In the game of House, a card: rhyming s.: C. 20.

psych. A 'psychological' bet, one made on a hunch: Australian two-up players': since ca. 1930. (Lawson Glassop, Lucky Palmer, 1949.)

psyche man. See front man.

psychedelia. 'Drugs, flashing lights, sound, colour, movies, dance—usually experienced simultaneously' (Peter Fryer in The Observer colour supplement, Dec. 3, 1967): drug addicts' and hippies': since early 1967. Ex psychedelic, (of a drug, e.g. LSD) inducing the taker to feel 'expanded' and to reveal his soul; an imperfect form, psychodelic (soul-revealing) being correct.

psycho. A psychopath: since ca. 1945.—2.

Hence, a lunatic or a very eccentric person or merely an egregious fool: since ca. 1955.

pub verandah push. Frequenters of the verandahs of country public-houses: Australian: C. 20. B., 1942.

public, n.—2. One who avails himself of the personal facilities of a public library: Canadian librarians': since ca. 1920. (Leechman.) He not only is a member of the general public but also makes a public convenience of the place. But also one who, although not a reader, applies to a library for assistance in a problem involving knowledge.—3. A pupil at a public (i.e., State) school in New South Wales: among N.S.W. children attending Catholic schools: since ca. 1920 (? earlier). B.P. public convenience. A prostitute: C. 20.

Public Enemy Number One (or No. 1). Adopted in 1936, via the Press, ex U.S. journalists not only in its correct (the literal) sense but in extended applications; thus, among English lawn-tennis players, Von Cramm and Budge were, in June 1937, described as 'Joint Public Enemies Number One'.

public ledger (p. 664). The reference should be to that London commercial newspaper The Public Ledger, which, established in 1760, is still going strong.

public notary. See 'Tavern terms', § 5.

Public School slang is fairly well represented, both in the Dict. and in these Addenda, the latter owing much to Morris Marples's excellent book, Public School Slang, 1940; the debts to him have been scrupulously indicated.

puce. Very bad, inferior: Charterhouse: from ca. 1920. Esp. 'Absolutely puce!' Perhaps suggested by bloody and putrid (qq.v.).

puckah is an occ. variant of pukka (Dict.).

pucker paint. See 'Canadian'.

puckerow (p. 665). Delete the problematic comparison with pakaru.

puđ, n.—2. Pudding: lower-class and lower-middle class: late C. 19–20. Richard Llewellyn, None But the Lonely Heart, 1943, 'If you lot go to chokey, so do I, for harbouring. So we're all blackbirds in the same old puđ.' Cf. veg (Dict.).

puđ, v. 'To greet affectionately or familiarly': proletarian coll.: from ca. 1860; ob. B. & L. Ex puđ, n.: see Dict.

pudden. A 'mess' or failure: Cockney coll.: late C. 19–20. 'Yes, he's made a pudden o' that job.'

pudden (or pudding)!, beg your. See beg your pudding!

pudden club, in the. Pregnant: low: C. 20. Cf. pudding club below.

pudding.—5. Weight; esp. put (a bit of) pudding on, to put on (a little) weight: rural Australian: C. 20. (D'Arcy Niland, Call Me . . ., 1958.)

pudding, piece of. See piece of pudding.

pudding, pull one's. See gallop one's maggot.

pudding about the heels (p. 665). Cf. beef to the heels.

Pudding and Gravy, the. The Royal Navy: rhyming s.: since ca. 1940. Franklyn 2nd.

pudding club, join the. To become pregnant: low: C. 20. Arthur Gardner, Tinker's Kitchen, 1932. Cf. the Dict. entry.

pudding house.—2. A workhouse: low: ca. 1830–70. Sinks, 1848.

pudding sleeves (p. 665). Earlier in Ned Ward's The Delights of the Bottle, 1720.

Puddle-Dock . . . in Dict. Until C. 19, always Countess; earlier record, T. Shadwell, Epsom Wells, 1673.

puddle-jumper. A small communications-aircraft: R.A.F.: 1942 +.

puddled. Very eccentric; insane: 1936, Wilfred Macarthey, Walls Have Mouths. Cf. puđle, v., on p. 665.

puđery. Pornographic books or prints: cultured: since ca. 1930. Cf. the L. puđor, shame.

puff, n.—5. A ladies' man: R.A.F.: since ca. 1935. Jackson. Prob. ex 'powder-puff'.

puff, v. To break wind: late C. 19–20.

puff-adder. An accountant: R.A.F. (mostly officers'): since ca. 1930. W/Cdr Robin P. McDouall, letter of April 12, 1945. Well, he is an adder of figures—and to some, as dangerous as that particular species of snake.

puff and dart, a beginning (see p. 665), has v. make a puff and dart and is recorded fifty years earlier in D. W. Barrett, Navvies, 1880.—2. In Crown and Anchor, 'These are the figures with their nicknames:

'Heart transfixed—Puff and Dart

Diamond Kimberly

Club Shamrock

Spade Grave-digger

Anchor Mud-hook

Crown Sergeant-major, Richards.'

(Contrast the entry at little Jimmy.)

The first term is rhyming s. for heart and dates from ca. 1860; Kimberly is famed for its diamonds; the Club symbol in cards is a trefoil; for the last three s. terms, see the entries in the Dict.

puffickly. Perfectly: proletarian coll.: mid-C. 19–20. (Anstey, Voces Populi, II, 1892.)

puffer. A 'foreman or ganger' (Railway, 3rd): railwaymen's: C. 20. Adopted ex mining.

pufftaloonas. 'Hot fried cakes spread with jam, sugar or honey' (B., 1943): Australian: since ca. 1930. Much commoner is pufftaloons, applied also to fried scones (B.P., 1963).

Pug. General Sir Hastings Ismay: 1939–45. Short for pugnacious, he being a fighter for what he thought advisable.

pug, n.—10. 'Lancashire and Yorkshire [Railway] 0-4-0 clock saddle tank' (Railway 2nd): railwaymen's: C. 20.

pug, v. To hide: low: C. 20. Esp. of goods stolen by workmen, who 'pug it up' or 'pug it away' until they find it convenient to remove the article from the premises. Cf. Surrey dial. pug, 'to fill in a joint with softened clay', which seems to be a more likely origin than West County pug, to thrust. (E.D.D.)

pug Nancy. See 'Women'. Cf. pug nasty in Dict.

puggy.—4. A Great Central Railway employee: ca. 1890–1925. (Railway.)

pukaroo. To break (something), ruin (a plan), confuse an issue: New Zealand coll.: late C. 19–20. B., 1942. See pakaru (p. 601); not to be confused with pukkaree (see puckerow, p. 665).

puker.—2. An orange: preparatory schools': ca. 1870–1920.

pukka gen. See gen in Addenda and pukka in Dict.

puku, a pain in the. A stomach-ache: New Zealand coll: late C. 19-20. B., 1941. Puku: a Maori word.

pull, v.—4. To do; commit: U.S., adopted ca. 1925. Cf. pull off, to achieve. E.g. Georgette Heyer, Behold, Here's Poison, 1936, 'If Rendall pulled the murder, Hyde's out of it.'—5. At Oxford, ca. 1840-80, it was coll. for 'to row a boat' or 'to row in a crew'. Thomas Hughes, Tom Brown at Oxford, 1861. (Marples, 2.)—6. To 'pull off', to achieve: Army: since ca. 1920. 'It was eighteen years before I pulled sergeant.'—7. To earn (as income), to make (a sum of money, e.g., by a sale): Australian: since ca. 1925. (B., 1943.)

pull, give (someone) a—esp. a strong. To speak severely to; to reprimand: c. and low s.: since ca. 1930. (Norman.) Cf. to pull (someone) up sharply.—2. Mostly give it a pull, to desist: Australian since ca. 1910. (H. Drake Brockman, The Blister, 1937.) A variant of pull, take a (p. 666).

pull a cluck. To die: low: ca. 1870-1920. Echoic.

pull a fast one. See fast one.

pull a flanker is the Army shape (since ca. 1925) of work a flanker (see flanker, do a: p. 282).

pull a horse's head off; esp. a vbl n., pulling. . . So to check a horse's progress that he does not win: turf: from ca. 1860. B. & L.

pull a pint (often as vbl n., pulling . . .). To operate the controls of an aircraft, to do a pilot's work: R.A.F.: since ca. 1930. H. & P. See beer-lever.

pull a stroke. 'To be faster, smarter, quicker than your opponent' (Robin Cook, 1962): since late 1945: c. >, by ca. 1960, also low s. (Cf. the s. pull a fast one.) pull down one's ear. See ear, pull down one's.

pull down the shutter. Butter: rhyming s.: late C. 19-20.

pull-guts; pulpit-cackler. See 'Occupational names'.

pull in the pieces. To make money; receive good wages: proletarian: from ca. 1860; ob. B. & L.

pull leather. 'A rider of a bucking horse in a rodeo is not allowed to "pull leather"—that is, to grab the saddle horn to steady himself, an act which would disqualify him' (Leechman): Canadian: since ca. 1920.

pull-off. A parachute jump from the wing of a 'plane: paratroops': since 1942. H. & P., 'A man opens his parachute and is then pulled off.'

pull on (a woman). To marry (one): Australian: C. 20. B., 1942.—2. To tackle, contend with; hence, to test: Australian: since ca. 1920. 'I'll pull on the Prime Minister himself if I can't get a permit for my business' (Edwin Morrisby, Aug. 30, 1958); B., 1953.—3. Elliptical for pull a gun on, to shoot at: ? mostly Dubliners': since ca. 1919.

pull on oneself, take a. See take a pull . . .

pull one out of the bag. To make a special effort; draw on one's reserve powers: from ca. 1920. An elaboration of pull out, 2 (Dict.).

pull one's pad. See belt one's batter above.

pull one's pudden. Cf. pull one's wire, p. 666.

pull one's pudding. See gallop one's maggot.

pull one's punches. To exercise moderation.

esp. in punishment or in blame: boxing coll, (since ca. 1930) become, ca. 1950, general coll.

pull oneself off. (Of the male) to masturbate: low: late C. 19-20.

pull out. 'Buying or selling for ready money,' Spy, II, 1826: Stock Exchange coll: ca. 1805-1910.

pull out, v.i. To exaggerate: low: ca. 1830-80. Sinks, 1848. To 'stretch it a bit'.

pull (someone's) pisser. To 'pull his leg': Services', esp. R.A.F.: since ca. 1930.

pull (someone's) Scotch (often as vbl n.). To pull someone's leg: Services: since ca. 1930. 'Apparently a reference to the alleged lack of humour in Scotsmen,' H. & P.: no! Scotch is short for Scotch peg, a leg.

pull (someone's) tit. To pull someone's leg, to make a fool of—or to fool; to delude: low Australian: since ca. 1910. (Edward Lindall, No Place to Hide, 1959.) Also, by ca. 1920, New Zealand. Slatter, 'Is he pulling my tit?'

pull the chain! A c.p., expressing contempt at a feeble joke or a stupid remark: since ca. 1960; by late 1965, already ob.

pull the chocks away. To 'get going' (Jackson): R.A.F. coll.: since ca. 1918. Ex 'the process of removing the chocks beneath the wheels of aircraft before taxi-ing for the take-off' (Jackson): cf. pull the chocks (p. 667) and chocks away! (Addenda).

pull the ladder up, Jack, I'm all right! A late C. 19-20 variation of fuck you, Jack . . . (p. 305); see also 'Prisoner-of-War Slang', 14.

pull the monkey. To pull a rubber disc through a cess drain in order to clean the drain: railwaymen's: C. 20. (Railway.)

pull the pin. To resign; to quit a job: Canadian railroadmen's (— 1931). Ex bomb-throwing? But Dr Leechman, in May 1959, writes with that amicable courtesy which makes it a pleasure to be corrected by him: 'Not from bomb-throwing, but from the pins which, with a link, coupled cars together in the early days of railways. This rig was so dangerous that it was soon outlawed. Today few railwaymen know the origin of the term.'

pull the plug. To release all the bombs simultaneously: R.A.F.: 1939 +. Jackson. Cf. play the piano.

pull the string. To use all one's influence: tailors' coll.: mid-C. 19-20. B. & L.—2. To do well: proletarian: from ca. 1870; ob. Ibid.

pull the strings. To release the vacuum brake on a vehicle: railwaymen's: C. 20. (Railway.)

pull the weight. 'To meet a financial emergency' (Baker): Australian: since ca. 1910.

pull up one's socks (p. 667) has variant pull one's socks up.

pull up stakes. To depart: Australian: C. 20. Baker.

pull your finger out! Hurry up! or Get on with the job!: synonymous with take your finger out! (P-G-R.) Variant: get your . . .; see take . . . (below).

pull your head in! 'You're sticking your neck out'; be careful; stop talking wildly: Australian c.p.: since ca. 1930. Often pull it in!; an ephemeral Sydneyite variant of ca. 1948-51 was pull your skull in! (Sidney Baker, letter of Aug. 7, 1950; Kylie Tennant, The Joyful Condemned 1953.) Prob. ex 'the habit of army men sticking their heads out of troop trains and making smart remarks. The origin was "Pull your head in, or people will think it's a cattle train" (B.P.).

pulling. A challenge from a gang, or from one of its members: Teddy boys': since ca. 1947. (Clancy Sigal in The Observer, March 1, 1959.)

pulling a—or the—cord, be. To be courting: Anglo-Irish: mid C. 19–20. Charles Kickham, Knocknagow, 1879; P. W. Joyce, 1910. Erotic?

Pullman. A shunting truck: railwaymen's: C. 20. (Railway.) Ironic.

pulp magazines. The cheap, inferior (not the good) American magazines dumped on the English market: coll.: since ca. 1920. Fit only to be pulped. But more probably because printed on paper already used once and re-pulped. Dr Leechman modifies thus, 'These were so called because they were printed on pulp paper, which is the same (approx.) as newspaper'; orig., the paper was presumably wood-pulp paper.

pulpit.—2. A cockpit (in an aircraft): R.A.F.: since ca. 1935. H. & P. Ex next sense.—3. A B.E.9 aeroplane: R.F.C.—R.A.F.: World War I, then historical. (Duncan W. G. Milne, Wind in the Wires, 1933.) Ex the box-like ply-wood cockpit projecting from the front of the machine.

pulse.—2. The male member: workmen's: late C. 19–20.

pultan. See puttun.

Pulverizer, the. 'Nickname for the giant Stirling bomber, and very apt too,' H. & P.: R.A.F.: 1941–3, and ob.

pump one's pickle; jerk one's gherkin. Low Canadian variants of gallop one's antelope: C. 20.

pump(-)packing. Tough steak: Australian Naval: 1939–45. (B., 1943.)

pump water, plain as a yard of. See plain as a yard . . .

pumpkins of oneself, think. To think well of oneself: 1897, Ouida, The Massarenes; ob. by 1940, † by 1950. Cf. pumpkin, 1 (parenthesis), on p. 668; cf. potatoes, small, on p. 654.

punce (p. 668). 'Especially in Australia,' Sidney J. Baker, letter, 1946.—2. The female pudend: Australian: C. 20. B., 1942. n.—3. An effeminate; a homosexual: low Australian: since ca. 1925. (B., 1943.) Perhaps ex ponce.

punce, v. To kick (someone) with one's clogs: Lancashire: late C. 19–20. (The Manchester Guardian, May 2, 1950.) Ex S.E. punch and s. purr.

Punch.—2. A short, thickset man: navvies' nickname: mid C. 19–20. (D. W. Barrett, Navvies, 1880.)

punch, v.—4. To drive (sheep) forcibly uphill or when they are tired: Australian: C. 20. Baker.

punch-drunk. Slap-happily crazed from the punching he's received: boxing coll.: since ca. 1925. Answers, Nov. 30, 1940. By ca. 1942 it was S.E.

punch the breeze. See take it in the neck below.

punch-up. A fight with bare fists: low coll.: since ca. 1920. (Norman.) punch up the bracket. To give (someone) an uppercut to the nose: since ca. 1950.

punchable nun. See 'Harlots' and cf., in Dict., punchable.

puncher; punchy. A boxer; punch-drunk: low: since ca. 1930. (Both in Norman.) punctured.—2. Vaccinated: Services: since ca. 1920. H. & P.

pungo, go (p. 668). Earlier in Rudyard Kipling, 'The Horse Marines' (1910), reprinted in A Diversity of Creatures, 1917, as Rear-Admiral P. W. Brock has reminded me.

punisher.—4. A long-winded bore: Australian: since ca. 1925. (B., Australia Speaks, 1953.)

Punjab head, have a. To be forgetful; Punjab head, forgetfulness: Anglo-Indian, esp. Indian Army's: from the 1880's. An allusion to the (supposed) fact that service in the Punjab saps the memory.

punk, n.—4. A young fellow that, having just started to work for a carnival, thinks he knows everything: Canadian carnival s.: since ca. 1910. Adopted from U.S. See Underworld.

punny. Punishment: Manchester Grammar School: since ca. 1870. Marples. Cf pun, n., 1 (Dict.).

punt at, take a. See take a . . . (below).

punter.—6. A pickpocket's assistant: New Zealand c.: C. 20. B., 1941. Ex sense 1.—7. 'The "punters" (dealer-buyers) who promenade the Street' (Warren Street, centre of the London secondhand-car dealers): the secondhand-car business: since ca. 1945. The Sunday Times coloured supplement, Oct. 24, 1965, article by Richard Cowdy. (Prob. ex sense 3 on p. 669.)—7. 'Someone with money looking for a scheme to put it into and ignorant of the ways of the morrie world [underworld and its fringes]. An extreme case would be called "a mug punter" or "a half-wide mug"' (Robin Cook, The Crust on Its Uppers, 1962): since ca. 1945: c. >, by ca. 1960, also low s. Ex the racing sense.

Sense 2, on p. 669, occurs earlier, in the gen. sense 'better' or 'gambler', in Renton Nicholson, An Autobiography, 1860, 'No 14, Park Place, St James's Street, was an elegant gambling-house, frequented by the highest class of "punters".' pup, n., 1 (p. 669), is, in the R.A.F., a pupil pilot (Jackson); also pups (Charles Graves, Seven Pilots, 1943). Cf. pup's Bible.—3. A paid-up policy: insurance world's: C. 20.—4. See dangler in 'Hauliers' Slang'.—5. Mostly in the night's (only) a pup, it's still early: Australian, at least mainly: C. 20. (Kylie Tennant, Lost Haven, 1947.) Suggested by the (familiar) S.E. the night's still young.

pupe.—3. A pupil pilot: R.A.F.: 1939–45. (P.G.R.) Cf. pup, 1, above.

puppies, the. See yuppies, the, below.

puppy-dog corner. 'The corner of Collins and Swanton Streets, Melbourne,' B., 1942: Australian: C. 20. Where the gay young dogs congregate.

puppy(-)fat. Fattiness that, acquired from eating starchy food, lacks substance: coll.: since ca. 1910.

puppy-hole. A late C. 19–20 variant of pupe, 1 (p. 669). Marples.

pup's Bible, the. The Flying Training Manual: R.A.F.: since ca. 1925. Jackson.

pure, doss in the. See doss in the pure.

pure merino, adj. See merino, pure.

purge. 'A newly arrived batch of kriegies from . . . the Luftwaffe interrogation centre. From this, also, the passive verb, "to be purged",' Paul Brickhill & Conrad Norton, Escape to Danger, 1946: prisoner-of-war in Germany, 1940–5.

Satirical ref. to the German purges and 'blood-baths'.—2. 'A concentrated complaint or moan from a well-known source is called "a purge-on by So and So". An habitual grumbler is called by this name in many places,' H. & P.: Services: since 1939.

purl, n., 2; purler, 2; purter. Something exceptionally good: Australian: since ca. 1910. B., 1942.

purple empire. An establishment in which many of the executive officers are Engineering Officers (wearing a purple stripe between their gold bands): Naval officers': since ca. 1945.—2. Hence, Fleet Air Arm officers, there being numerous Engineering Officers in this branch of the Service: Naval officers': since ca. 1946.

purple heart. A dextrodine pill used narcotically: teenage drug-addicts': since ca. 1960. One of the minor drugs.

purrr, n. 'A rushing-in, Lancashire fashion, with the head against the opponent's guts,' Bee, 1823: pugilistic: ca. 1810–50. It causes the opponent to purrr or grunt.

purrr, v. To strike (a person): Lancashire: late C. 19–20. Eustace Jervis, Twenty-Five Years, 1925. 'He had . . . sent them . . . to Strange-ways Prison for "booting" their "missus", or "purrring" the "copper" with their clogs.' Rather, to kick violently.

purser's. Short for purser's name below: C. 19. In, e.g., W. N. Glascock, The Naval Sketch-Book, 2nd Series, 1834, at II, 64. (Moe.)

purser's dagger (Dict.): see pusser's dagger below.

purser's dip (p. 670) occurs earlier in Fredk Marryat, Frank Mildmay, 1829, as 'a farthing candle'. Moe.

purser's grin (p. 670) occurs in Alfred Burton, Johnny Newcome, 1818. (Moe.)

purser's name (p. 670). In, e.g., Captain Glascock, Landsharks and Sea Gulls, 1838. An early example occurs in The Night Watch (II, 82), 1828. Moe.

purser's pump. 'The midshipman's cant [i.e. slang] term for a spy-glass' (W. N. Glascock, Sketch-Book, 1834, at I, 45): Naval: Naval: C. 19; † by 1890. (Moe.)

purser's shirt on a handspike (p. 670). An early occurrence: 1821, P. Egan, London. Also in W. N. Glascock, The Naval Sketch-Book, II, 1826.

purter. See purl, n., 2.

Puseyite. A coll. term of general abuse at Oxford ca. 1840–60. (Cf. R. S. Surtees, Mr Sponge's Sporting Tour (ch. xxi), 1853.)

push, n., 4, on p. 670: an early Aus. example occurs in Alex. Macdonald, In the Land of Pearl and Gold, 1907, at p. 202.

push about the bottle. To drink heavily: Naval officers': ca. 1790–1870. (Moe.) Cf. push the boat out below.

push-bike, n. (p. 671. 'A pedal-bike' in contradistinction, i.e. not a motor-bike' (Leechman).

push-bike. (Gen. v.i.) To ride on a bicycle: from ca. 1910. S. P. B. Mais, A Schoolmaster's Diary, 1918, 'I "push-biked" the eight miles into Lewes.' Ex the n.: see Dict.

push in the bush is worth two in the hand, a. A working-men's parody of the proverb a bird in the hand is worth two in the bush: since ca. 1925. Erotic. See also one in the bush . . . , above.

push in the truck, n. Coition: low: C. 20.

James Curtis, They Drive by Night, 1938, "'I ain't had a push in the truck since I came out of the nick.'" Rhyming on fuck.

push off, 1 (p. 671). Sessions, May 1740 (trial of Eliz. Pooley), 'He . . . heard somebody cursing and swearing and a woman . . . say, d—n it, push off, or go off.'

push one's own barrow. To boast; to look out for oneself only: Australian coll.: since ca. 1910. (Vance Palmer, Golconda, 1948.)

push over. Something easy to do; a girl easy to 'make': Australian: adopted, ca. 1925, from U.S. Lawson Glossop, We Were the Rats, 1944, 'I've got a couple of smashing lines who've come from Sydney for the Mayoral Ball. They're a couple of pushovers.' By 1945, also English. Since ca. 1940, mostly written pushover.—2. A 'mug' or a 'softy': since ca. 1940; orig., Australian (B.P.).

push powder. To sell narcotics: adopted, ca. 1955, ex U.S.

push-pudding. A bachelor: low: C. 20. A reference to self-abuse.

push the boat out. To be generous, act generously, with money: low: C. 20. James Curtis, You're in the Racket Too, 1937.—2. To pay for a round of drinks: Naval officers' since ca. 1924. Granville. (Also Army officers') push the knot. To be on tramp: Australian: C. 20. B., 1942.

push the pavement. To sell goods in the street: Black Market: since ca. 1941. Dunean Webb in Daily Express, Sept. 17, 1945.

push up for. To approach, as a pickpocket his victim: Australian c.: C. 20. B., 1942.

pushed. Late: Army since ca. 1930. Ex 'pushed for time'. See quot'n at tripe, in.

pushed?, did she fall or was she (p. 671). This catch-phrase dates from approximately 1908 and arose from a newspaper headline, probably in the Daily Mail. A woman named Violet Charlesworth was found dead near Beachy Head at the bottom of the cliff. Suicide was at first presumed, but later a suggestion of foul play was made and the newspaper headline appeared 'Did she fall or was she pushed?' The innuendo caught the public fancy and for a long time the phrase was used on every possible and impossible occasion. I have never heard it used in particular as applied to a person stumbling. (Andrew Haggard, Jan. 28, 1947.) See also did she fall . . . ?, above.

pusher.—8. A rifle: Guards Depot at Caterham: 1914–18. John o' London, Nov. 3, 1939.—9. One who 'pushes' or sells drugs to others (rather than taking them himself): drug addicts': adopted, ca. 1955, ex the underworld.

pusher-up. A variant of pusher, 7 (p. 671): since ca. 1920. Stanley Jackson, Soho, 1946.

pushing-up is the n. (B., 1943) corresponding to push up for.

pushite. A member of a gang of larrikins: Australian: C. 20. B., 1942.

pushover. See push over above.

pushy. Pushful; thrusting: Anglo-Irish coll.: since ca. 1925. Ex push, energy, thrustfulness.

puss, 2.—Also pussey: ea. 1820–60.—3. A hare: late coll.: C. 19–20.

Pusser. Fairly common nickname of men surnamed Hill: since ca. 1910. Why exactly?

pusser. Sense 1 occurs earlier in 'Taffrail'.

pusser, be. 'To be one hundred per cent.

Service' (entirely Service minded): Naval: C. 20. Granville. See pusser (Dict.).

pusser-built. Thoroughgoing, as in 'a pusser-built bastard': Australian Naval (lower-deck): since ca. 1910. Cf. preceding entry.

pusser ship. A very smart, severely disciplined ship: Naval: C. 20. (P-G-R.)

pusserpock (p. 671). The second sense ('a fur') belongs to pussy, not to pusserpock.

pusser's cow. Tinned milk: Australian Naval: since ca. 1915. (B., 1943.)

pusser's crabs. Heavy service-issue boots: Naval: C. 20. (P-G-R.)

pusser's dagger. Earlier in 'Taffrail'.

pusser's dip. A candle: Naval: late C. 19-20. (P-G-R.)

pusser's dirk (see pusser's dirk on p. 670): also Canadian Navy. Daily Colonist, June 19, 1960, article on p. 33, 'Use Your Dirk!'

pusser's duck. A Supermarine Walrus aircraft. Naval: 1940+. Granville. Contrast pregnant duck.

pusser's grey. Admiralty grey paint: Naval coll.: C. 20. Granville.

pusser's hard. Naval soap: Naval: since late 1950's. 'Now used exclusively in preference to the old term, pusser's yellow or pusser's Vinolia' (Granville: Nov. 22, 1962). And hard it is!

pusser's issue. Clothing, food, tobacco, etc., provided by the Admiralty: Naval coll.: late C. 19-20.

pusser's lisle. Regulation black-lisle stockings issued to Wrens: Naval (Wrens'): since ca. 1940.

pusser's tally. A Naval Patrol: Naval: C. 20. (P-G-R.)

pusser's Vinolia or yellow. Navy soap: Naval: since ca. 1920. (P-G-R.) Ex a well-known brand; from the colour.

pusser's wag(g)on. A warship: Australian Naval: since ca. 1930. (B., 1943.)

pusson. See ss.

pussy.—1. is that at puss, 1 (p. 671). Sense 2: see pusserpock, 2 (p. 671)—and correct by the note at sense 1 above.—3. A rabbit: Australian: C. 20. Baker.—4. Usu. in pl. pussies, as in 'When a crook speaks about "the pussies" he's talking about furs—or women. They go together. Furs, to the thieves, are the product of "cats"; and women are cats, as every crook knows' (Gosling, 1959): c. and low s.: C. 20.

pussy Nellie (or -ly). A male homosexual: mostly Naval: since ca. 1910.

pussy-pelmet. A very short mini-skirt: since late 1966. A neat pun on pussy, the female pubic hair (and pudend).

pussy-struck. (Of a male, esp. a youth with a much older woman) infatuated: low: C. 20. Although low, it is yet, in a measure, euphemistic for cunt-struck (Dict.).

put, 3, on p. 671, occurs in Fielding's skit, Shamela, 1741. Shamela exults over the fine clothes she had got 'of the old put my mistress's'. (With thanks to Miss Elizabeth MacAndrew, Columbia University.)

put, stay (p. 671).—2. To remain, in time of emergency (e.g. invasion), where one lives: 1940+ by 1942, familiar S.E.

put a bit of hair round it for you?; in full, shall I . . . ? A Canadian c.p. (C. 20)—directed at any workman having trouble inserting something into something. Cf. don't look down . . . on p. 234. 'The conventional response is "Yes, if you've got the right kind"' (Leechman).

put a cross—or an X—on the wall! 'A c.p. addressed to someone who has done something out of character, or when something strange and unexpected happens' (B.P.): Australian: since late 1940's.

put a down on (a person). See down on, put a (Dict.), of which the period is C. 19-20; ob.

put a jelly on the ashcan (or on the baby). 'Fix a gelatine diffuser in front of an iron-cased lamp,' The Evening News, Nov. 7, 1939: cinema: since ca. 1930.

put a knife through (the) money. To share-out illicit winnings: Australian two-up players': since ca. 1920. (B., 1953.) Cf. cop-out man.

put a nail in (a person's) coffin. To talk ill of: tailors': mid-C. 19-20. B. & L.

put a roughie (or -y) over. See roughy, 2.

put a squeak in. To complain to a superior: Services: since ca. 1935. H. & P. Adopted from cant, where it = 'to inform to the police' (see Underworld).

put a stone in the pot with 'em, and when it's soft they're cooked. Australian c.p., mostly rural, applied to food that remains tough. C. 20. Jean Devaney, By Tropic Sea and Jungle, 1944, 'The old saying applied to them [galahs] . . .—2. 'This is also [British—] a famous recipe for cooking porcupine. In extenso, When it's soft, throw the porcupine out and eat the stone' (Leechman): late C. 19-20, and presumably the origin of the Australian phrase.

put a streak into it. To hurry; to 'get a move on': Anglo-Irish: C. 20. Nicholas Blake, The Private Wound, 1968, 'Through the pandemonium cut a megaphone voice, adjuring the laggards in some class to "put a streak into it! Numbers 3, 7 and 16, we're waiting for you."' put an X on the wall! See put a cross . . . above.

put-and-take. Sexual intercourse: mostly Londoners' (somewhat raffish): C. 20. The male puts, the female takes, it in.

put another record on! See record!, change the, below.

put away proper. To give a good funeral: lower-classes' coll.: late C. 19-20.

put (someone) crook with (a third party). To reduce one's standing in the eyes of someone else: New Zealand: since ca. 1930. 'You wouldn't put me crook with him, would you?' (Harold Griffiths, communication of Dec. 12, 1959.) A variant appears in 'Got a snitch on me and put me in crook with the boss' (Slatter).

put dots on (someone). To weary or bore him: Army: C. 20. Ex 'to dot every i'? put down, v.i. To land: R.F.C. and R.A.F. pilots' coll.: since ca. 1916. Richard Hillary, The Last Enemy, 1942.

put down, v.t.—3. To fire (shells), project (smoke): Artillery coll.: 1939-45. (P-G-R.)—4. To reject; to belittle (e.g. someone's playing): Canadian jazz-lovers': adopted, in 1956, ex U.S. jazz musicians.

put 'em up (p. 672): also put 'em up (or stick 'em up) or shut up! (B.P.)

put her along. See put along (Dict.).

put her face on. To make up (apply cosmetics): since ca. 1930. 'I'll just go upstairs and put my face on.'

put in.—3. To 'put somebody in' is to involve or embroil him; to get him into trouble: Australian: since ca. 1925. D'Arcy Niland, Call Me..., 1958, 'Don't put me in. Don't try to hang anything on me.'

put in a declaration. See 'Tavern terms', § 4. put in the leather. 'Others . . . "put in the leather";' Jim Phelan, Letters from the Big House, 1943: to kick: low: C. 20. Cf. leather, the (p. 475).

put (someone) in the picture. 'To give you, as a newcomer, an idea of what is happening . . . and so enable you to play your part in it,' H. & P.: Services coll.: since ca. 1935. Cf. paint a picture.

put (someone) in with (someone else). To blacken someone's name in the mind of a third party, to put him in his bad books: Australian: since late 1920's. (Often in Margaret Henry, Unlucky Dip, 1960.) Elliptical for put (someone) in wrong with (another).

put it on.—3. To 'show off': late C. 19–20. Prob. short for put on airs.—4. To make a suggestion—a proposition—to (someone): Australian: since ca. 1925. Lawson Glassop, 1944, 'I'll have a pint at the Royal tomorrow and put it on the blonde' (an invitation).—5. To put on 'side': British and Australian: C. 20. Ex sense 3.

put it where the monkeys . . . (p. 672): more commonly monkey and perhaps orig. nut-shells (as in Niven, p. 242).

put legs on. See legs on, put.

put (someone) off the walk. To kill him: Anglo-Irish, esp. County Meath: ca. 1880–1940. (P. W. Joyce, English . . . in Ireland, 1910.)

put on, n.—3. A nondescript frock for afternoon wear: women's: since ca. 1925; ob.

put on, v. (p. 672), prob. goes back to ca. 1870. It occurs in Conway Edwardes's play Heroes, 1876, 'Put on a smoke'.—2. See trap.—3. To initiate (a person): coll.: from ca. 1860; ob. B. & L.—4. 'The mail attests that the men . . . thoroughly enjoy dressing up in women's clothes. I assure you these people are not putting me on'—kidding me. 'They are strictly for real.' (Daily Colonist, Victoria, B.C., on April 18, 1967.) Canadian: since ca. 1945. (Leechman.) put on, well or better or best. See well put on.

put on foul. See foul.

put on one's ear. See ear, put on one's.

put on the kitz. To put on one's best clothes: since the late 1930's. Ex Yiddish.

put on the long rank. To cruise: taxi-drivers': since ca. 1912. Herbert Hodge, 1939.

put on the rattle (or the whizzer). To report a policeman to his superior: police: C. 20. (The Free-Lance Writer, April 1948.)

put one or two on the floor. To fire a few rounds: Artillerymen's: 1939–45. (P-G-R.)

put one's balls in a knot; put one's tits in a tangle. Low equivalents of S.E. put one's nose out of joint: Australian: since ca. 1930.

put one's bones up; put up one's forks. To be prepared to fight: proletarian: from ca. 1865. B. & L.

put one's feet up. To lie in one's hammock; to sleep: Naval: C. 20. Weekly Telegraph, Oct. 25, 1941. Mother does this to rest her weary feet.

put one's forks down. To pick a pocket: c.: mid-C. 19–20; ob. B. & L.

put one's hand down. To pay; to stand one's turn: C. 20. Cf. put down south in Dict.

put one's name into it. See name into it . . .

put one's prick where another wouldn't put his walking-stick. Among physicians, esp. Fighting Services medical officers, almost a c.p., as in 'Some of you fellows'd put your prick where I wouldn't put my walking-stick' (as I heard an Australian M.O. say, in 1915, to a company of infantrymen paraded for a 'talk' before they were let loose in Cairo); and in 1959, John Winton, We Joined the Navy, 1959, records it of a Naval M.O. addressing a group of midshipmen and saying, 'Tomorrow we'll be getting to Gibraltar . . . and I've no doubt that some of you'll be putting your private parts where I wouldn't be putting my walking-stick.' It prob. dates from late C. 19.

put one's snout in the trough. To drink (beer or ale rather than wine or spirits): mainly public-house: since ca. 1945.

put one's time in. To occupy one's time: coll.: late C. 19–20.

put one's tits in a tangle. See put one's balls . . . above.

put out.—2. V.i., (of a girl) to permit, even to invite, sexual liberties: Canadian: adopted, ca. 1950, ex U.S. 'Millie? Oh, she'll put out, all right.'

put (someone's) pot on.—2. Hence (?), to detect in a misdeed; to settle his hash: New Zealand: since ca. 1945. (Fiona Murray, Invitation to Danger, 1965.)

put the acid (or the squeaks) in. To tell-tale; to make mischief by causing a bias against one in another's mind: orig. and mostly Cockneys': from ca. 1910, ca. 1918, resp.

put the bee on. To borrow money from: Australian: since ca. 1935. (B., 1953.) Either 'to sting' or ex the next two (bite).

put the bit on. An Australian variant of the next: since ca. 1920. (D'Arcy Niland, 1958.)

put the bite on. To ask someone for a loan of money: Canadian: since ca. 1910; by 1940, also English. (Leechman.)

put the blocks to. To coit with (a woman): low: C. 20; by 1950, it was somewhat ob., by 1960, archaic. Ca. 1900, there was a Canadian lumbermen's ballad, with the pertinent lines, 'Some were fiddling, some were diddling, some were lying on the floor, I was over in the corner putting the blocks to the Winnipeg whore'. (Robert Clairborne, Aug. 31, 1966.)

put the caulks to. See logger's small-pox.

put the cleaners through (someone) is a variant of put (someone) through the cleaners, to get the better of, to swindle: Australian airmen's: 1939–45. (B., 1943.)

put the finger on. See finger on, put the.

put the hooks on; more usually put (someone) on the hooks. To put (someone) on a charge: R.A.F.: since ca. 1920. R. M. Davison, letter of Sept. 26, 1942; Jackson, 1943. Cf. hooks, catch (Dict.).

put the kibosh on. See kibosh on . . . (Dict.).

put the lid on. To close (a hotel bar) at the legal time: Australian: since ca. 1925. (B., 1943.)

put the mocker on. To bring bad luck to, put a hoodoo on: Australian sporting: since ca. 1935. Lawson Glassop, 1949. Apparently ex the next, mock being prob. a back-formation ex mockers, which almost certainly comes ex Yiddish makkes, itself ex the Hebrew word for 'a plague'. Mockers has variant mokkers. (Dr Mark Burke, letter of Feb. 25, 1961.)

put the mockers either in for or on (someone). To tell tales to authority in order to get someone into trouble: Naval: since ca. 1930. Perhaps for muckers; perhaps cf. next. See the etymology proposed near end of preceding entry.—2. To delude, to befool, someone: low: since ca. 1935. Frank Norman, Stand on Me, 1959.

put the mocks on. See mock on, put the.

put the pot on.—2, 3. See pot on, put the. 'Up came the trout . . . The fish was making for its haunt. Newton "put the pot on", as it is called, and turned him, and in due time he visited the basket' (Francis Francis, Newton Dogvane, 1859): anglers': since ca. 1930.

put the skates on; usually as vbl n., putting . . . : since ca. 1925. F. D. Sharpe, The Flying Squad, 1938. Cf. skates put on . . . in Dict.

put the skids under (someone). To dismiss from a job, a course, etc.: since ca. 1940: Army, then—by 1944—gen. Forces' s.—2. Hence, to speed or hurry (him) along: Forces': since 1945.

put the weights on. To seek a loan from or ask a favour of (someone): Australian sporting: since ca. 1910. B., 1942. Ex horse-racing.

put them in a field and let them fight it out! Let the Heads of State fight it out among themselves and thus prevent millions of innocent men and women from getting killed: servicemen's (and others') c.p.: W.W. I—and again in W.W. II.

put through Stubbs. See Stubbs . . .

put up a black. See black. Probably 'derived from the Naval custom of putting up two black balls at the masthead when the ship is out of control' (Surgeon-Lieutenant H. Osmond, Dec. 1948).

put up one's forks. See put one's bones up.

put up (one's) third. To put up one's third star, i.e. to become a captain: Army coll.: C. 20. (P-G-R.)

put (someone's) weight up. To declare—to disclose—his (illicit) activities; to 'pimp on': Australian miners': since ca. 1925. Gavin Casey, It's Easier Downhill, 1945.

put years on me, you (or he or it puts . . .). A c.p. of disparagement: late C. 19–20.

put you where the rooks won't shit on you, I'll. A jocular c.p. for 'I'll kill you' (humorous threat): Army: since ca. 1935.

put your back up!, that'll. That will render you sexually desirous: since ca. 1920. Ex cats' fighting: cf. familiar S.E. fighting fit.

put your skates on! Hurry!; go away quickly; get out of the way if you wish to avoid duty!: Army: since ca. 1910.

putting his oof down. A c.p. dating from ca. 1950 and applied to 'poor old Dad', forking out the oof or money, instead of putting his 'oof down.

putting spots on dominoes. See making doll's eyes.

puttun in the Dict. is an error for pultan (or -on or -un), which derives directly ex Hindustani.

putty, n., 3 (p. 673): esp., in the Navy, as be on the putty, 'to be aground' (lit. and fig.). Granville.—4. Steam: Canadian railroadmen's (—1931). Ex colour.

putty, on the. High-and-dry on a falling tide: Naval: C. 20. (P-G-R.) Cf. putty, 3, on p. 673, and here.

putty and soap. Bread and cheese: low. ca. 1830–80. Sinks, 1848.

putty wallah. A messenger or orderly attached to an office: Bombay: mid-C. 19–20. B. & L.

puv. A field: chimneysweeps': C. 19. (George Elson, The Last of the Climbing Boys, 1900.) Ex the synonymous Romany phuv, itself related to Sanskrit bhumi. With thanks to my late friend Gerald Hatchman, who in 1949 contributed two articles on chimneysweeps' s. to Notes and Queries.

puzzle the monkey. A coll. variant, since ca. 1880, of S.E. monkey-puzzle (the Araucaria imbricata).

Pygmalion. See not Pygmalion likely.

pyke; occ. pike. A civilian that stands an impecunious soldier a drink: military: ca. 1870–1910. B. & L. ? ex Fr. s. pékin, a civilian.

Pyrmont Yank. A synonym of Woolloomooloo Yank below.

pyrotechnic. A reprimand: R.A.F.: since ca. 1938. Jackson. Cf. rocket, which suggested it.

Q

Q. Sir Arthur Quiller-Couch: from ca. 1890; in 1887 had appeared Dead Man's Rock, in 1888 the fame-bringing Troy Town, both under the pseudonym Q.—2. A homosexual: theatrical, whence also Army: since ca. 1930. For queer, n., 7, below.

Q, Old. See Old Q.

Q, the. Short for the quarter bloke (p. 675): Army: since ca. 1925. H. & P.

Q.B.I. (Of flying condition) deplorable: aviation c.p.: ca. 1937-9. The Times, March 3, 1938. Lit. quite bloody impossible.

Q bloke, the. Same as Q, the.

Q-in-the-corner cove. A keen (and cautious?) follower of boxing: pugilistic: ca. 1815-60. Boxiana, IV, 1824, 'Great doubts have been expressed by the "Q-in-the-corner coves", whether Randall is actually well, or only "patched up".' Here, Q app. = 'query' or 'question'.

Qantas (p. 674) is no longer eligible; 'has for many years been the official name' (B.P.: mid-1963).

quack, n.—3. (Ex sense 1: p. 674.) In the R.A.F., the quack is frequently used for the Medical Officer: since ca. 1918. (Gerald Emanuel, letter of March 29, 1945.)

quad.—7. 'A four-wheel drive tractor used for towing field guns,' H. & P.: Army: since ca. 1930; by 1942, coll.; by 1944, j. Short for quadruple?

quadding. A triumphal promenade of the 1st XV round the cloisters: Rugby schoolboys' coll.: mid-C. 19-20. B. & L.

Quagger, the. Queen Victoria: Oxford undergraduates': 1890's. (Marples, 2.)

quailer. A stone: Aus.: C. 20. (B., 1959.) Origin ?

Quaky Isles, the. New Zealand: Australian coll.: C. 20. (B., 1943.) Earthquaky.

qual. See 'Shortenings'.

quandong. A prostitute: Australian c.: C. 20. Kylie Tennant, Foveaux, 1939. 'After the fruit: soft on the outside, a hard centre,' Sidney J. Baker, letter of Aug. 3, 1946. Although blue-coloured and cherry-sized, it is also known as 'native peach'; the word is of Australian Aboriginal origin.

quart-pot tea (p. 675) is strictly tea made, over an open fire, and only in a quart pot. A billy may be of any size! In C. 20 Australia, quart-pot is often shortened to quart, which thus > a coll., as in 'We'll . . . boil up the "quarts",' Archer Russell, A Tramp Royal, 1934.

quarter flash and three-parts foolish. A fool with a smattering of wordly knowledge: c.p.: ca. 1815-50. Pierce Egan, London, 1821. Cf. fly flat (p. 292).

quarter to one or three. See what's the time?

quarter(-)to(-)ten. A 9.45-inch trench-mortar: Army: ca. 1915-18.

quarter to two. A Jew: rhyming s.: C. 20. Franklyn, Rhyming.

quean up; mostly as (all) queaned up, 'carefully, not necessarily effeminately, dressed': Australian: since ca. 1920. B., 1942. See quean and cf. doll up (both in Dict.). Also queen up. (B., 1959.)

queanie, adj. Effeminate; soft: Australian: since ca. 1910. Baker. Ex the n.: see p. 676.

queen, 1, q.v. at quean on p. 676, is still common. Among homosexuals, it means 'an ageing passive homosexual', with adj. queeny, as in 'He's very queeny'.—2. In combination, a girl: R.A.F.: 1940+. Jackson, 'Thus, "I'm going to the flicks to-night with one of the ops room queens".' Humorous.

Queen At, the. 'A Chief Commander of the A.T.S.,' H. & P.: Services: since 1939 or 1940. See At and cf.:

Queen Bee, the. 'The Director of the Women's Auxiliary Air Force; or the senior W.A.A.F. officer on a station,' Jackson: W.A.A.F. and hence R.A.F.: since 1940 or 1941. Cf. prec. entry.

queen bee. 'A plane used for anti-aircraft firing practice, having no crew and controlled by radio from the ground. (Not a new invention),' H. & P., 1943: R.A.F.: since ca. 1935; by mid-1942, at latest, it was j.

Queen Mary. A long, low-loading, articulated vehicle for the transportation of aircraft by road: R.A.F.: since ca. 1938. Jackson. An occ. synonym is artic (Jackson).—2. 'The basement under the new House of Commons where the secretaries and typists work . . . (From its appearance and general decorative scheme.) The term is in pretty general use now, I gather,' Oct. 13, 1953, in letter from Wilfred Granville.—3. A very large goods brake van: railwaymen's: since the middle 1940's. Ex sense 1; in full, Queen Mary brake van. (Railway.) queen up, q.v. quean up above.

Queen's Arms, The; or The Hen and Chickens. Home: commercial travellers': from ca. 1890. It comes into conversations concerning hotels; thus: "'Where do you stay in York?'" "'Oh, at The Queen's Arms (or, The Hen and Chickens).'" With punning reference to wife or to wife and children.

Queen's Park Ranger. A stranger: Londoner's rhyming s.: C. 20. Ex a London 'soccer' team: cf. West Ham Reserves.

queeny, adj. See queen, and cf. queanie, both above.

queer, n.—6. A simpleton; a fool: Australian: since ca. 1925. B., 1942. Ex sense 7 of its adj.

queer, n.—7. A male homosexual: since ca. 1920. (Angus Wilson, Hemlock and After, 1952.) Ex sense 8 of the adj.

queer, adj. See, esp. for its relation to rum, the essay entitled 'Neither Cricket nor Philology' in A Covey of Partridge, 1937.—8. Homosexual C. 20, ex U.S.: rather coll. than s. The Listener, March 10, 1937.—9. Roughly 'any', but vaguely intensive, in, e.g., 'the queer thing' (thingummy) and 'old queer man' (what's-his-name): Army: late C. 19–20. From several dial. uses (adj. and adv.), themselves vaguely intensive.

queer and; queer nearly always pronounced quare. An intensive of the adjective preceding, as 'quare and hot', very hot, or 'quare and sick', very sick; Northern Ireland coll.: C. 19–20. (P. W. Joyce, English in Ireland, 1910.)

queer as a three-dollar bill. Very odd (or strange) indeed: Canadian: late C. 19–20. 'There are no $3 bills' (Leechman).

queer belch. Sour beer: low: ca. 1825–70. Sinks, 1848.

queer fella, the. The person that happens to be in command: Regular Army: late C. 19–20.

queer hawk. An eccentric person: mostly Army: since ca. 1930. Cf. queer bird (p. 677).

queer put. 'An ill-looking, foolish fellow' (Sinks): low: prob. ca. 1800–60.

queer start. A strange business: ca. 1820–80: low >, by 1860, gen. Anon., Autobiography of Jack Ketch, 1836. See start, n., 3 (p. 825).

queer the job. A theatrical variation of queer the pitch (Dict.). Leonard Merrick, Peggy Harper, 1911.

Quego. A Pacific Islander (native): New Zealand: C. 20: Ex Fijian ko iko, you (in calling to a person). Edwin Morrisby (Aug. 30, 1958) compares the Australian C. 20 use of boong for an Aboriginal, as recorded by B., 1942, with occasional variant bong, themselves borrowed from Aboriginal. Bo(o)ng is also employed as adj.

querier (p. 678). Rather, since ca. 1845. Mayhew, II, 1851.

qui-es kateer (p. 697) is properly quies kateer, lit. 'well, very', i.e. 'very well'—the answer to 'How are you?' Soldiers' Arabic, perhaps deduced from 'Enta [or, Inta] quies [or, kwaiss]?'—'You well?' It occurs in G. W. Steevens, With Kitchener to Khartoum, 1896: 'the earliest printed use'—as a phrase familiar to British regular soldiers—'I have seen' (H. R. Spencer); or I.

quick. Dapper and clever: Society: 1870's and 1880's. B. & L.

quick quid has, since ca. 1925, been the Australian answer to the American fast buck. (B.P.)

quick(-)shits, the. Dysentery: Army in North Africa: 1940–43. (Peter Sanders in The Sunday Times magazine, Sept. 10, 1967.)

quick squirt. A (sudden and) brief burst of machine-gun fire from one aircraft at another: R.A.F.: since 1939 +. H. & P.

quick sticks. The phrase in quick sticks (see sense 1 on p. 679) occurs in The Dublin University Magazine of April 1835 (p. 391) and should be dated back to at least as far as 1830. Used by J. B. Priestley in They Walk in the City in 1963; by 1960, slightly ob. (Moe).—2. As quick sticks! it is Australian domestic coll.—addressed to children—and synonymous with 'Come quickly!': C. 20. (B.P.)

quicky.—3. (Usually quickie.) A rapid burst of machine-gun fire at close range: R.A.F. (mostly): since 1939. H. & P. Ex prec.—4. A drink, esp. 'a quick one'; Service officers' (esp. R.A.F.): 1940 +. W/Cdr Robin P. McDouall, letter of March 17, 1945.—5. Sexual intercourse hurriedly effected: since ca. 1945.—6. A brief bawdy story told at the break-up of a party: since the late 1940's.

Quid, the Tiddle. H.M.S. Royal Sovereign: Naval: World War II. A pun on quid, £1. (P.-G.-R.)

quid-box. A snuff box: ? 1790–1850. (Wm Maginn, Whitehall, 1827, at p. 53.)

quidlet, I (p. 679). An early record: J. W. Horsley, I Remember, 1912.

quids, for. For anything at all, as in 'He wouldn't miss a [race] meeting for quids' (Slatter): New Zealand: since ca. 1920.

quids in. Applied to a state of things when one is doing well; 'I'm quids in!': Army (C. 20); by 1919, it was gen. Short either for quids in the till or for in, to the tune of quids (pounds).—2. Hence, be quids in is to accomplish something with plenty of time, effort, etc., to spare; to do it easily or comfortably: since ca. 1935. Perhaps ex the result of a highly successful wager.

quiet mouse. A synonym of lone duck, q.v. in Dict. B. & L.

quiff.—4. The female pudend: low: C. 20. Perhaps cf. sense 3 on p. 679.—5. A hint; a piece of advice: since ca. 1920. Netley Lucas, The Autobiography of a Crook, 1925, 'I'll give you one quiff, right now . . . Never touch the dope, it's hell.' Ex sense 2 on p. 679.

quilling. The carrying of (rich) passengers' luggage and getting a tip for doing so: railwaymen's, esp. porters': C. 20. Semantically = favour-carrying. See also fluffing, 2, above. Railway, 3rd, modifies the definition by confining the practice to off-duty employees.

quim (p. 680). More prob. ex Celtic cwm, a cleft, a valley.

quin. See quim (Dict.).

quince. A soft, an effeminate person; a softly stupid person: low Australian: since ca. 1920. B., 1942.

quince, get on (someone's). To annoy, irritate, exasperate someone: low Australian: since ca. 1920. Baker. Cf. 'These bloody trees are getting on me quince!': A. E. Farrell, The Vengeance, 1963.

quint. 'Any one of a set of quintuplets; common in Canada since the birth of the Dionne children in 1934 in Calendar, Ontario' (Leechman). Cf. next.

Quints, the. The Canadian shape of the Quins (p. 680). Leechman.

quirk, I (p. 680), was revived in the R.A.F. of 1939–45. (Jackson.)

quirley. A cigarette: Australian: since ca. 1930. (B., 1953.) Cf. twirly.

quis (pron. kwyce); occ. kweis or kweiss. Usually as exclamation: 'good' or 'capital' or 'O.K.!': Regular Army's and R.A.F. regulars': C. 20. Partridge, 1945. Direct ex Arabic.

quisling. A tell-tale, esp. one who carries favour with the C.O. by acting as tale-bearer: Services: since mid-1940. H. & P. Ex Vidkun Quisling (1889–1946), the Norwegian Army officer turned traitor. (See, esp., my Name into Word, 1949.)

quit by proclamation. See 'Tavern terms', § 4.

quite, adj. 'Quite the thing'—somebody first-class, very well—better—or—mannered, etc.: since ca. 1920. (H. Drake Brockman, Men Without Wives, 1938, 'There is a polite fiction current that once he went to Oxford, and he isn't "quite", and everybody knows this, in the strange way that everybody does know these things.'

quite a bit. Fairly often; a fair amount (n.), rather (adv.): coll.: late C. 19-20. 'It hurts quite a bit.'

quite too nice. Nice: female æsthetic Society: 1880's and 1890's. B. & L.

quius kius! Hush!; cease: theatrical c.p. of ca. 1880-1910. Ibid. The kius reduplicates quius ex quietus.

quizzly. Inquisitive: Australian: C. 20. (D'Arcy Niland, The Shiralee, 1955.)

quoit. A simpleton; a fool: Australian: since ca. 1930. (B., 1943.) Why? 'Probably because a quoit is a hollow ring—nothing in it' (Julian Franklyn, 1962).

quoits. Buttocks: Australian: since ca. 1925. B., 1942. Ex roundness.

quoits, go for one's. To go for one's life; to travel very fast: Australian: since ca. 1920. Baker.

quondong. Variant of quandong.

quoniam (p. 680). Sense 2 must be even earlier, for in the Wife of Bath's prologue (lines 607-8), in The Canterbury Tales, Chaucer caused her to say:

And trewely, as mine housebonds tolde me,
I hadde the beste quoniam might be.

(With thanks to L. F. Masters, Esq.) The pun, therefore, is probably also on L. cunnum, the acc. of cunnus.

quot is a variant spelling and pron. of cot (Dict.). B. & L.

quota quicky. A short British film made as quickly and cheaply as possible, and put on a cinema programme to fulfil the regulation concerning the quota of British films to be used, in Britain, in proportion to foreign (including American) films: cinema world: 1936. (It doesn't matter how short the films are; a nasty reflection on British films.)

quoz (p. 681) is the subject of an entire song in The New Vocal Enchantress (a song-book), 1791, at pp. 32-4. Also occ. as diminutive quozzy: ibid.

R

R in pawn, leave an. See leave . . .

R. J. Knowles. Holes: theatrical rhyming s.: since ca. 1892.

r.o. lollies. Run-out money: mock-auction world: since ca. 1945. (Sunday Chronicle, June 28, 1953.)

R.O.T.F.B. To the entry at roll on that boat, add: 'I.e. roll on that effing boat'.

Rab. The Rt Hon. Richard Austen Butler: political and journalistic: since early 1930's; ob. by 1967. Ex his initials R.A.B.

rab, the. The till: c.: C. 20. F. D. Sharpe, The Flying Squad, 1938. With a pun on Rab, the Scots form of Rob.

rabbit, n.—7. A bottle of beer: Australian: C. 20. B., 1942.—8. A young girl: Australian: since ca. 1920. Baker.—9. A native born Australian: Australian: since ca. 1925. Baker.—10. (Ex 5.) Any 'scrounged' article: Naval: since ca. 1920.—11. See rabbit and pork.—12. A short-journey passenger: busmen's and trammen's: since ca. 1910. Also, since ca. 1912, railwaymen's. (Railway.) Mostly in plural.

rabbit, v.—2. ('In football) to collar a player by the ankles when he is running with the ball,' Baker: Australian sporting: C. 20.—3. To chat: low: C. 20. (Norman.) Short for rabbit and pork.—4. Hence, to grumble and mumble: low: C. 20.—5. To borrow or 'scrounge' (something): Australian Naval: since ca. 1920. (B., 1943.)

rabbit, live (p. 682). Cf. dial. rabbit, 'to coit'—as in John Masefield, Reynard the Fox, 1919, "'I'll larn 'ee rabbit in my shed!'" rabbit, run the. See run . . .

rabbit and pork. A, to, talk: rhyming: C. 20. Often shortened to rabbit. (Gerald Kersh, Boots Clean, 1941.)

Rabbit Hutchin(g)s or Hutchinson. See 'Nick names'.

rabbit-killer. A punch on the nape of the neck: Australian: since ca. 1925. Cf. rabbiter, 1, on p. 682.

rabbit-o. 'An itinerant street seller of rabbits': Australian: C. 20. Ex his cry. (Caddie, 1953.)

Rabbit-o's, the. South Sydney footballers: Sydney sporting: since ca. 1925. (B., 1943.)

rabbit-pulling. A variant of baby-pulling above; cf. rabbit-catcher at rabbit, 1, on p. 681.

Rabbits. Railwaymen's nickname for the 'Leicester to Birmingham parcels train' (Railway, 3rd): since ca. 1945.

rabbits. A customs officer: Naval: late C. 19—20.—2. Hence, perquisites, gifts: Naval C. 20. Cf. rabbit, n., 3 (p. 682) and 10. (Frank Shaw.)—3. Hence(?), plunder, loot; esp. contraband goods smuggled ashore: Naval: since ca. 1920.—4. See white rabbits.

rabbits, make. To indulge one's hobby, esp. in making things, e.g. gifts for children: Naval coll.: C. 20.

rabbit's food. Vegetable salad: Naval: C. 20 The Birmingham Mail, Feb. 24, 1939. Among civilians: rabbit meat, since ca. 1920.—2. Hence, esp., lettuce: Forces': W.W. II and after.

rabbit's paw; often shortened to rabbit. Conversation: rhyming s. (on jaw): since ca. 1930. Cf. rabbit and pork above. Franklyn 2nd.

rabbo. A rabbit; rabbits considered collectively; rabbo!, the street-cry of a rabbit-meat vendor: lower-class Australian, esp. Sydneyites': late C. 19—20. C. F. McGill, 'Me Donah What's at Home' in The Bakara Bulletin, 1919, 'I've been a thinking what to do fer me an' my gal Flo; | I think I'll buy a barrer an' sell the good rabbo.' (This short poem shows, very clearly, the influence of C. J. Dennis's The Sentimental Bloke.)

race for the steward's basin, n. and v. (To experience) sea-sickness: jocular: C. 20. Parodying the race-course race for the Stewards' Cup.

racehorse. A long, slim cigarette: Australian: since ca. 1930. (Kylie Tennant, The Joyful Condemned, 1953.)

races, be at the. To walk the streets as a prostitute: c., and low: C. 20.

rack, on the. Always on the move: Canadian coll.: from ca. 1860. B. & L.: abbr. of 'racket, a Canadian snow-shoe'.

racket, 1 (p. 682): since ca. 1930, jocular for one's trade or profession. 'What racket are you in?' or 'What's your racket?'

racket, stand the, 2 (p. 682). Rather: since ca. 1830 or 1840. Sinks, 1848.

racket(t)y. (Of places) low, 'shady': Cockney: ca. 1840—90. Mayhew, I, 1851. Ex racket, 1 (p. 682).

radar king, the. The senior Radar officer: Naval: since ca. 1940.

Raddie. An Italian: low: C. 20. F. D. Sharpe, 1938. Ex the raddled-seeming complexion of many Southern Italians; but cf. Reddy.

raddie. A radical in politics: since ca. 1930. Eric Parr, Grafters All, 1964, '... He discovered that his acquaintance was a bit of a raddie at heart.' A pet-form of rad, 1, on p. 682.

radge. Silly: low: C. 20. Prob. ex rage via 'mad'. Cf. Northern dial. radgy, mad.

radical; Hunt's breakfast powder. Roasted corn: ca. 1820—60. Sinks, 1848. Prob. at first radical Hunt's . . ., then divided into a pair of synonyms. This was 'Orator' Hunt the Radicals's favourite breakfast dish.

Radio Catch-Phrases. See, e.g., after you, Claude—it's that man again—steady, Barker!; and E. P., 'Those Radio Catch-Phrases' in The Radio Times, Dec. 6, 1946, reprinted in Words at War: Words at Peace, 1948.

radius, diameter, circumference are often confused one with another; catachrestic: C. 19—20. The Pawnshop Murder: 'Objects which came within the radius lit by her torch.'

Rafer. See Raffer.

Raff, the. The Royal Air Force: R.A.F. coll.: 1918 +. Partridge, 1945.

Raffer; rare in singular. A person in the R.A.F.; not usually applied to officers: civilian: 1939 +.

Rafferty's rules. Variant (B., 1959) of Rafferty rules on p. 683.

Raffles, properly a gentleman or Society thief, esp. burglar, has, in C. 20, been frequently misused to mean almost any burglar. (E.g. in The Daily Mirror, Dec. 16, 1936.) E. W. Hornung's Raffles, the Amateur Cracksman, appeared in 1899. It was followed up by The Shadow of the Rope, 1902; A Thief in the Night, 1905; and Mr Justice Raffles in 1909. These four books have been assembled in an omnibus-volume entitled Raffles.

raft. 'A number of wagons during shunting' (Railway): railwaymen's: since ca. 1945. Ex U.S. s. raft, a large number or quantity.

rag, v., 1 (p. 683), in nuance 'to scold': a century and a half earlier! Sessions, June 1739 (trial of Samuel Bird and Suzannah Clark), 'On Monday night Bird and Clark came to their House to ragg (scold) her Grandfather for what he had talk'd of concerning them.'

rag-and snatcher man. A rag-and-bones man: chimney-sweepers': C. 19. (George Elson, 1900). Here, snatcher apparently = a bone; if so, it probably comes ex dogs snatching bones.

rag bramah. A rag-and-bones merchant: police: since ca. 1925. (The Free-Lance Writer, April 1948.)

rag-time girl (p. 684). For dates read '1908 or 1909'.

rag-time routine is that which obtained in the Auxiliary Patrol, World War I: Naval: 1914-18. Cf. rag-time, 2 (p. 684).

ragged.—4. Unwell; tired and unwell: Australian coll.: late C. 19-20. (D'Arcy Niland, Call Me . . ., 1958.) Cf. rough.

rags, in the. In trouble or disgrace; in a dispute: tailors': from ca. 1860. B. & L.

rags, the.—6. A bookmakers' term for the horses that ran, esp. those which 'also ran': since ca. 1920.

rags (on), have the. To be having one's period: women's low coll.: from ca. 1860. Whence, prob., have the painters in, gen. as c.p., she's got the painters in: C. 20. Also, wear rags: coll.: mid C. 19-20.

ragsooker. See rag-sooker (Dict.).

rahzo. Phonetic variant of rarzo.

rail. A railroad employee in transportation service: Canadian railroadmen's (— 1931). Short for railroadman.—2. Edge of a surfboard: Australian (teenage) surfers': since late 1950's; by 1963, coll. (B.P.) rallings is the modern (since at least as early as 1910) form of front, or head, rails, teeth.

rails.—4. (Cf. 3: p. 684) 'The "Rails" are railway stations, as distinct from the Underground,' Herbert Hodge, Cab, Sir?, 1939; taxi-drivers': since ca. 1919.

[Railway slang. A feature to note is the deliberate mispronunciation of place-names, e.g. Carliss-lee, Carlisle, and Cree-wee, Crewe: C. 20.]

rainbow, 6 (p. 685). Hence, in 1939-45, applied to various late-comers or those who, relatively, came late; as, e.g., by the 6th to the 7th Australian Infantry Division (Lawson Glassop, We Were the Rats, 1944).—7. A gay young spark: ca. 1835-70. Sinks, 1848.

raise, v.—2. To complete (a form): R.A.F. coll.: since ca. 1935: by 1943, j. Jackson, 'Thus, "You want a vehicle? O.K., raise a Form 658 and push it into the Adj."' Perhaps ex 'to raise all relevant points and deal with them'.

raise a gallop. To have an erection: low (mostly Services): since ca. 1930.

raise hell (q.v. at hell, raise, on p. 386) has, in Western Canadian since ca. 1908, existed also with the extension and slip a shingle (or a shim) under one corner (or under it). Leechman.

raise the colour. To find gold: Australian coll.: mid C. 19-20. (B., 1943.)

raise the wind. To raise money, esp. to obtain a loan: coll., perhaps orig. nautical: 1789 (OED); 1830, Fredk Marryat, The King's Own.

Rajrifs, the. See at Burriks.

rake, n.—2. A (timber) train on a narrow-gauge line: Australian: C. 20. (K. S. Prichard, Working Bullocks, 1926.) Probably a pun.—3. A 'complete set of coaches' (Railway): railwaymen's: since ca. 1910. Cf. sense 2.

rake it in. To make money fast: coll.: late C. 19-20. 'He's simply raking it in!'

rake-out. A fill of tobacco: Cockneys': from eq. 1890; very ob. Pugh.

raker, go a. To fall heavily; fig., to come a 'cropper': Australian: C. 20. B., 1942. See raker, 2, on p. 685.

ral. 'A disorderly fellow' (L. E. F. English, Historic Newfoundland, 1955): Newfoundland: C. 20. Origin? Perhaps ex Irish ralac, huge, monstrous.

ram, n.—3. A confidence trickster's accomplice: Australian c.: C. 20. B., 1942. A battering-ram?

Ram, the. The Ramillies (ship of the line): Naval: ? ca. 1800-1815. (W. N. Glascock, The Naval Sketch-Book, I, 1825, '. . . 'twixt the Ram and the Rion' (Orion). Moe.

Ram Corps, the. The Royal Army Medical Corps: Army (mostly officers): since ca. 1915.

ram in or ram on. To put one's name down for, e.g., an outing: Shrewsbury: late C. 19-20. Marples.

ram-rod, 2, and rammer, 3, are mid-C. 19-20 low for a penis.

ram-skin (or one word). A bailiff: Anglo-Irish: C. 19. 'A Real Paddy', Real Life in Ireland, 1822. 'He would take even a mat made of a ram's fell.'

ram-struck mutton. 'Tough meat from old ewes past breeding' (Baker): Australian: late C. 19-20.

Ramasammy (p. 685) occurs, as Ram Sammee (or Sammy), in George R. Gleig, The Subaltern's Log-Book (I, 292; II, 233), 1828. Moe.

rambler. A whore: C. 17. In, e.g., The English Rogue.

rammer.—2. The leg: pugilistic: ca. 1840-80. Augustus Mayhew, Paved With Gold, 1857, 'Jack got a "cracker on his nut" which knocked his "rammers" from under him.' Cracker, as 'a heavy punch', occurs earlier—in, e.g., Boxiana, IV, 1824.—3. See ram-rod, 2, above.

rammies. Trousers: Australian: since ca. 1925. (B., 1943.)

rammy. A sudden fight between gangs: Glasgow c.: C. 20. MacArthur & Long, [The police] knew that evidence about a rammy is always conflicting, never reliable and frequently perjured.' Ex Scottish rammish, violent, untamed. Contrast clash, q.v. above and cf.:-

rammy, big; rammy, little. A battle; a trench raid: Argyll & Sutherland Highlanders': 1914-18. (Dr R. L. Mackay, M.D., who, early 1967, comments, 'Many recruited in Glasgow.') Genuine s. rather than dial.

ramp, n.—10. A public-house: c.: since ca. 1925. Daily Express, March 25, 1935. Ex sense 9 (p. 686), the bar being likened to a counter. But more usually a public-house counter, as in John Gosling, The Ghost Squad, 1959. Therefore cf. sense 9 on p. 686.

rampage, on the. Storming about: coll.: since ca. 1880. (E.D.D.)

ramping.—2. 'Calling at the houses where parcels [have] just been delivered from tradesmen to customers, and obtaining possession of them under various pretences': c.: from ca. 1870. B. & L.

ram's head. The wooden rudder post of a canal-boat: canal-men's: late C. 19-20. L. T. C. Rolt, Narrow Boat, 1944. Usually bound with pipe-clayed Turk's Head knots.

Ramsay Mac. James Ramsay Macdonald (d. 1937): mostly Labour: C. 20.

ranch. A cookhouse: North Queensland (coll. rather than s.): since ca. 1910. Jean Devanney, By Tropic Sea and Jungle, 1944.

randy (p. 686). Perhaps influenced by Hindustani randi-baz, a lecher. (S. H. Ward.) 'Now becoming almost respectable': Peter Sanders, mid-1965.

randy Rupert. See Rupert.

ranger.—3. A bushranger: Australian coll.: late C. 19-20; by 1940, ob. (B., 1943.)

Rangers, the. The Queen's Park Rangers: Association football coll.: C. 20.

rank outsider. 'A vulgar fellow, a cad': from ca. 1880: coll. >, 1910, S.E. B. & L. Ex the turf.

rantan, on the (p. 647): still common in New Zealand. (Slatter.)

rap, n., 3 (p. 687). This sense goes back to ca. 1710, to judge by James Dalton, A Narrative, 1728, 'Rap, Swearing against a Person.'

rap, v., 2 (p. 687). This sense should be back-dated to ca. 1710, for it occurs in James Dalton, 1728, 'The Whores are our Safeguard; for when we fling for a Cly [go for a purse], if we are taken on Suspicion, they'll rap for us.'

rap, get the. To get into trouble: Australian low: adopted, ca. 1925, from U.S., B., 1942. (See Underworld.)

rap give a. See give . . .

rap up. To praise, speak highly of: Australian: since ca. 1930. D'Arcy Niland, Call Me . . ., 1939, 'They could rap him up enough then.'

rapless. Penniless: coll.: from ca. 1880: very ob. Binstead.

raper.—2. A dealer that raps at doors to find out whether there is anything worth buying: secondhand (e.g. curio) dealers' coll.: late C. 19-20. H. A. Vachell, Quinneys, 1914.

Rarey-fying (a horse). Taming it: sporting: ca. 1855-95. Cf. rarefied (Dict.).

rarzer.—2. The Army Other Ranks' form of raspberry, 4 (below): since ca. 1925. E. P. in The New Statesman, Aug. 1, 1942.

رازو (or rahzo). A red-nosed man: Cockney's.

late C. 19-20. 'Whatcher, razzo!' Ex raspberry colour, whence also razzo of the Dict.

ras. See rarzer (Dict.).

ras(-)class bastard. A first-class bastard or thoroughly objectionable fellow: among West Indian immigrants at Wolverhampton: since 1962. (Dr R. L. Mackay, M.D., 1967.) Here, ras is perhaps a blend of arse + first.

rasher and fingers. A rasher of bacon and potato-chips: low eating-house: C. 20. Frank Jennings, Tramping, 1932.

rasher-splasher. A mess cook: Naval: since ca. 1925. Granville. Reduplicatory.

rasp, n.—3. A shave: C. 20. (Brendan Behan, Borstal Boy, 1958.)

rasp, v.—2. V.i., corresponding to rasping, adj., 2.

rasp away, v.i.; esp. in present participle. To make coital movements: Australian, esp. mechanician fitters' and turners': since ca. 1925. Ex the movements of a rasp (a coarse file) being used. Cf. rasp, v., 1, on p. 687.

raspberry.—4. (Ex 1.) A reprimand: Services (esp. Army) officers': since ca. 1925. E. P., 'In Mess and Field'—The New Statesman, Aug. 1, 1942. Cf. rocket.

Raspberry-Landers. Tasmanian: Australian coll.: C. 20. (B., 1943.)

rasper.—5. A (very) noisy breaking of wind: low: C. 20. Anticipated by Swift in one of his improper poems (a bridal night).

rasping, adj.—2. (of a stockbroker) 'giving greater turns to the jobbers than those regulated in the market,' Spy, II, 1826: Stock Exchange: ca. 1810-70. Also as n.

rass. A variant of ras, q.v. at rarze(r) on p. 687.

rat.—10. Short for rat and mouse, a louse: C. 20. F. D. Sharpe, The Flying Squad, 1938.—11. ' . . . Rats, the man who sneaked into the men's mines when they were on good stuff, and took out their opal during the night.' (K. S. Prichard, The Black Opal, 1921): Australian opal-miners': C. 20.—12. Hence, any opal-thief, and the n. ratting. Cf. rat, n., 8, on p. 688.—13. See the quotation at hole (out) in one, sense 2, above.

rat, v., 1 (p. 688). Also Australian: since ca. 1918. (Vance Palmer, Seedtime, 1957.)

rat, have a. To be insane: Australian: since ca. 1910. B., 1942.

rat and mouse. A house: rhyming s.: C. 20. (Sydney Lester.)

rat-bag. An ill-disposed person: Australian: C. 20. Baker.—2. An eccentric: Australian: since ca. 1910. (Vance Palmer, Golconda, 1948.) Cf. rats, get, 4, on p. 688. Hence ratbagging, a display of eccentricity; eccentric activities: since ca. 1930. (B., Australia Speaks, 1953.)—3. A worthless person, esp. if young and with near-criminal tendencies and habits: Australian: since ca. 1940. The locus classicus resides in William Dick's scarifying novel, A Bunch of Ratbags (1965), where, on p. 27, he postulates an origin to which I prefer the probability that it simply = a bag in which to carry rats, hence the rats themselves, hence a single rat or thoroughly objectionable person.

In all senses, it has always, since ca. 1960, been written ratbag.

Rat Castle. See 'Miscellanea'.

rat-catcher (p. 688) is also written ratcatcher.

Rear-Admiral P. W. Brock, R.N., C.B., D.S.O., comments (Jan. 10, 1963) thus: 'In "The Horse Marines" (1911), Kipling writes, "... After he'd changed into those rat-catcher clothes ..." Two very different people whom I have tried have both said that to them "rat-catcher" implies a rough shooting-rig, e.g. knickerbocker trousers with stockings and a Norfolk jacket, and a date considerably before 1931.—I suggest that "rat-catcher" was once used for a purpose even more plebeian and much more countrified than the "dog-robbers" dealt with in your addendum, at much the same period, and was far less dressy than any hunting kit, though it may have arrived at this by 1931.'

Rat Hole, the. The 'Camden short tunnel' (Railway, 3rd): London Transport workers': since late 1940's.

rat-house. An asylum for the insane: Australian: since ca. 1910. B., 1942.

rat-office. See rat-firm (Dict.).

rat on. To fail (someone); to betray: Australian: adopted, ca. 1925, from U.S. Sidney J. Baker, letter in The Observer, Nov. 13, 1938. Mostly, to inform to the police about (someone); also Canadian. (Leechman.)

rat race, the. Fierce competition to make a living, esp. in the professions: coll.: since ca. 1945.

rat-shop. Recorded by B. & L., it dates from ca. 1875.

rat-trap.—4. A balloon barrage: civilian: since 1939. Berrey, 1940.—5. In the R.A.F., a submarine: since 1939; but since ca. 1915 in the Navy. E. P., 'Air Warfare and Its Slang' in The New Statesman, Sept. 19, 1942. Also mouse-trap (less usual). The crew being doubly rats.

ratbagging (see rat-bag, 2, above) is, as Barry Prentice tells me in mid-1963, a 'ghost word'; he adds, 'It should be ratbaggery'.

ratcatcher's daughter. A rare variant of fisherman's daughter (above). Franklyn 2nd.

rate is the rank of the Rate, a Leading Rate (or Leading Hand) in any branch of the Royal Navy: Naval coll., esp. lower-deck: late C. 19–20. (P-G-R.)

rate of knots, at the. Very fast: Naval coll.: mid-C. 19–20. Granville. Current also in Australia and New Zealand since ca. 1860: see, e.g., 'Tom Collins', Such Is Life, 1903, and G. B. Lancaster, Sons o' Men, 1904.

rather! (p. 688). During the very approximate period 1890–1910 and especially among schoolboys and schoolgirls, the word was often emphasised by stressing the second syllable (-ther). The practice is far from dead.

rather keep a week than a fortnight. See week than a fortnight.

rather-nicers. 'A term of contempt stigmatizing ladies who pottered about sale rooms applying substantive and adverb to "gems" which they had no intention of purchasing' (H. A. Vachell, Quinney's Adventures, 1924): sale rooms': C. 20.

rations king. Catering Officer; a messing clerk: R.A.F.: since ca. 1930. Jackson.

rats and scabs. Rupees: Regular Army: C. 20.

rats, be in the. To have delirium tremens: Australian: C. 20. (D'Arcy Niland, 1955.) Cf. rats, 3 (p. 688).—2. Hence, to be insane: Australian: since ca. 1920. (D'Arcy Niland, Call Me ... , 1958.)

rats, give a person green. To backbite (him): proletarian: from ca. 1860; ob. B. & L.

rats, in the. Suffering from delirium tremens: low and military: from ca. 1880. Richards. Ex rats, 3 (Dict.).

rats and mice. Dice: rhyming: since ca. 1860.—2. Cards of '3' and '2' in one hand: Australian poker-players': since ca. 1920. (B., 1953.)

rat's head. A fool: low: C. 20.

Rat's Hole, the. 'Victoria Station is the "Vic", King's Cross the "Northern", Paddington the "Western", St Pancras the "Cold Blow", and Charing Cross Underground the "Rat's Hole"; Herbert Hodge, Cab, Sir?, 1939: London taxi-drivers': since ca. 1905.

rats' tails. See 'Miscellanea', near end.

rattle, n., 2: earlier in 'Taffrail', thus: 'A "bird" is a man who is always in the rattle', i.e. defaulter.' Cf.: rattle, in the.

rattle, have a. (Of men) to coit: low: C. 20.

rattle, in the. Under arrest, in detention; on a charge: Naval: C. 20. H. & P. Cf. rattle, be in the (p. 689), and:

rattle, score a. To get oneself put on the list of defaulters: Naval: C. 20. Granville.

rattle, work the. See work the rattle.

rattle and clank. Bank (for money): rhyming s.: C. 20. Franklyn 2nd.

rattle-blanket. A great-coat: Regular Army's: C. 20. (Atkinson.) Often used as a blanket, a greatcoat has buttons, etc., that clink.

rattler.—6. 'The Underground used to be the "Rattler" but has lately become the "Pipe";' Herbert Hodge, Cab, Sir?, 1939: London taxi-drivers': ca. 1905–30. Ex sense 3.—7. (Of men) an assiduous amorist: since ca. 1920.

rattlesnake, fuck like a. See fuck like a rattle-snake.

ratty.—3. Silly; stupid: New Zealand, hence also Australian: since ca. 1890. G. B. Lancaster, Sons o' Men, 1904; B., 1942. Hence, ratty on, infatuated with; also ratty over (B., 1943).

rave.—3. An enthusiastic notice in the Press: theatrical: since ca. 1920; in the world of books, since ca. 1945.—4. 'At a rave, blast or orgy—all synonyms for party—a guy (never a boy) meets a bit of hod, or tart (whether or not she is)'—to quote from 'Cool Culture' in the correspondence columns of The Sunday Times, Sept. 8, 1963: teenagers': ca. 1961–65. Also a dance. Cf. sense 1 on p. 689.—5. Among beatniks, a bottle party: since ca. 1957; by 1963, ob.

raver. A confirmed party-goer: beatniks': since ca. 1958. (Anderson.) Ex rave, n., 5, above; cf. ravist below.

ravers. Raving mad: since ca. 1925; by 1960, slightly ob. (Ngaio Marsh, Death in a White Tie, 1938.)

raving Noah. See 'Mock-Auction Slang' above. Since the late 1940's.

ravist. A party-goer, esp. if habitual: office- and shop-girls': ca. 1956–9. (Gilderdale.)

raw, in the; esp. sleep in the raw, to sleep naked: adopted ex U.S., ca. 1943 in Britain, ca. 1944 in Australia.

raw, on the. Adj. and adv.: roughing it: Australian coll.: since ca. 1920. (Jean Devaney, By Tropic Sea and Jungle, 1944.)

raw chaw. A dram of spirituous liquor: low s.: ca. 1810–60. Captain Glascock, Land Sharks and Sea Gulls, 1838.

raw deal and rough spin. Unfair treatment: English, adopted ca. 1930 ex U.S.; Australian, dating since ca. 1910, and deriving ex games in which a coin or a disc is spun.

raw lobster.—2. (Gen. pl.) A sailor dressed in blue: ca. 1800–55. B. & L. Contrast boiled lobster (Dict.).

raw prawn. See prawn, draw the raw, above.

raw tea. Tea without milk or sugar: jocular coll.: since ca. 1925.

rawg. A waggon: Shelta: C. 18–20. B. & L.

rawhider. A conductor, a driver, hard on men or locomotives: Canadian railroadmen's (— 1931). Adopted from U.S. and perhaps ex 'a rawhide whip'.

rawnliel or runniel. Beer: Shelta: C. 18–20. B. & L.

raws, the. Bare fists (cf. raw 'uns in Dict.): coll.: from ca. 1895. In 1899, Clarence Rook says of the hooligan that 'He has usually done a bit of fighting with the gloves . . . But he is better with the raws, and is very bad to tackle in a street row.'

ray. An X-ray (photograph): medical coll.: since ca. 1905. (Dymphna Cusack, 1951.) Cf.:

rayed. X-rayed: hospital coll.: since ca. 1910.

raz, in the. In the nude: Australian: since the late 1940's. A jocular alteration of raw, in the, above.

razoo (p. 690). A farthing; any very small sum: Australian: from ca. 1920. W.S. Howard, You're Telling Me!, 1934, 'Haven't got a razoo left. Gave me last two bob to the wife': heard mainly in the negative phrases I haven't a razoo or . . . a brass razoo, for . . . no money at all, B., 1941.

razor. To slash (a person) with a razor: Glasgow lower-class coll., obviously destined to > S.E.: from ca. 1920. MacArthur & Long, 'There's been some hooligan who has razored poor Frank and very near done him in awthegither.'

razor-backs. 'Cattle that are lean and scraggy' (B., 1943): Australian coll.: late C. 19–20.—2. 'In the U.S. and, to a less extent, in Canada, a razor-back is a pig, semi-wild and of no ascertainable ancestry' (Leechman): late C. 19–20. Both senses are occ. used in the singular.

razor gang, the. 'Economy men from Headquarters' (Railway 2nd): railwaymen's: since ca. 1930.

razor-grinder. See scissors-grinder.

Razor King, the. The Glasgow hooligans' and gangsters' name for one who, using as weapons a razor in each hand, is recognised as the head of a gang of hooligans: from ca. 1920. The 'hero' of MacArthur & Long's damning book is a 'razor king'.

razorridge. See 'Miscellanea'.

razz, n. A good talking-to, an harangue; esp. by a master to a boy: Eton: C. 20. Ex rasp-berry. (J. D. R. McConnell, Eton: How It Works, 1967 (p. 61).)

razz. To jeer at (someone): Australian: since ca. 1920. Baker. Pron. rarze, is a variant of the raz noted at rarze(r) on p. 687. (Lester.) 'To razz' occurs as early as ca. 1890, to judge by Jack Lawson—Lord Lawson—A Man's Life, 1932.—2. See razzle.

razz-ma-tazz. See 'Jive'. Perhaps as Franklyn, Rhyming, has suggested, it is rhyming s.—2. Nonsense or 'boloney'. See jazz above.

razzle. To steal: Australian c.: C. 20. Baker. Often shortened to razz.

razzo (p. 690). Usually applied to a red nose. For origin, see rarzo above.

razzo. 'At the Park'—Sedgeley Park School—'a thin slice of bread was a razor'—a thinned form of razzor, 'and slices cut lengthwise from a long loaf were splithers' (doubtless from splinters): ca. 1790–1870. Frank Roberts, article in The Cottonian, Autumn 1938.

re-bushed. 'Men's egotism applied to woman who is thought to be no longer of attractive physique: "She'd have to be rebushed—put a ham in and pull the bone out." Noted about 1962' (Laurie Atkinson, Sept. 11, 1967): since ca. 1940, prob. originally among artificers in the R.A.F.

read.—3. V.t., 'to try to ascertain by the expression of a man's features what his intentions are', B. & L.: Stock Exchange: from ca. 1880.

read, have a. To read: coll.: late C. 19–20.

read and write, 1. Also n.: C. 20.

readers. Reading-glasses: coll.: since ca. 1925.

ready, n.—3. A swindle, a conspiracy: Aus.; C. 20. (B., 1959.) Oftener ready-up.

ready, work a. To effect a swindle: Australian c.: C. 20. B., 1942. Ex ready-up (Dict.).

ready thick'un. A sovereign (coin): c.: from ca. 1860.

ready to spit; foaming at the mouth. Upon the point of urethrorrhæa ex libidine: low: C. 20.—2. (Only foaming . . .) exceedingly angry: coll.: since ca. 1910.

ready-up, n.—2. A swindle: low Australian: C. 20. (B., 1943.)

ready up, v.—2. Hence, to produce or procure ready money: Australian: since ca. 1910. Baker.

—3. To 'put someone wise' or 'tip off': Australian: since ca. 1912. (B., 1943.)

real, adj. 'The most basic of all basic beat-age words is real. This really covers everything. Whatever else they may be, all beat-agers are real. Everything they do, or think they do or not, is real. Everything they say is real' (Anderson): beatniks': since ca. 1958. Hence really below.

real Air Force, the. Flying personnel: the others': 1939 +. Jackson.

real cool. See cool, adj., 7, above.

real Mackay, the. See Mackay . . .

real money. A large sum, or large sums, of money as opposed to 'chicken feed': coll.: since ca. 1955. (A. B. Petch, April 1966.)

real nervous, dad; commoner, 'way out. Adjectivally admiring: jazz-lovers': since ca. 1950. (The Observer, Sept. 16, 1956.) Perhaps ex 'It makes me real nervous [excited], dad' and ex 'way out in front of the rest'.

real turned on. Very 'high' (drug-exhilarated): beatniks': since ca. 1959. (Anderson.)

really. A beatnik, male or female: beatniks', hence among those on the fringe: since ca. 1959. The Andersons exemplify it four times on p. 2 of their witty and informative article. Ex real above.

really! You don't say so!; well I never! coll. tag: late C. 19–20.

Really Not a Sailor (p. 691). In l. 2, for 'Squadron' read 'Service'. The c.p. originated (1915) in the Royal Navy and > a Merchant Service expression only after April 1, 1918, the date on which the R.N.A.S. and the R.F.C. merged to form the R.A.F. (Wilfred Granville.) reaper. A submarine: Naval: since ca. 1940. Ex the U-boats' 'reaping' of merchant vessels.

rear, rears, the (p. 691). Perhaps of military origin: a man 'taken short' is told to 'fall out to the rear'.

rec. See wreck.

rec, the (p. 691) goes back to at least ca. 1890, several reputable correspondents have assured me. rec-space, the. 'The men's recreation space for games, etc.' (Granville): Naval coll.: C. 20.

recap. Recapitulation: schools' (late C. 19-20) and authors' (C. 20) and B.B.C. (since ca. 1938) coll.—2. A synonym of retread below: Australian: since ca. 1939. (B.P.)

recee, pron. and occ. written recky. Reconnaissance in gen., a reconnaissance in particular: Services: since ca. 1920: orig. coll., it was, by 1941 at latest, j. In the 1939-45 war every Army division had a Recce Battalion.—2. Hence, as v.i., to go on a reconnaissance, and as v.t., to reconnoitre: since ca. 1935 in Army and by at least as early as 1939 in the R.A.F.: coll. >, by 1942, j.—3. A reconnaissance 'plane: since ca. 1936: R.A.F. coll. >, by 1942, j. H. & P.

recco. A reconnaissance flight: R.A.F.: 1939 +. Jackson. Ex prec.

reccy. A variant spelling of recee.

receive what one gets. To receive only what one modestly expects; especially, to count on nothing until one gets it: c.p.: C. 20. (Patrick MacGill, The Great Push, 1916.)

receiver-general, 2 (p. 691). Much earlier in Boziana, III, 1821.

recep. Reception by an audience: theatrical and music halls': late C. 19-20. "'Did you hear my little recipe?" he cried ecstatically,' W. H. Lane Craufurd, Murder to Music, 1936.

reckon. To count as worth-while; to esteem: London's East End: since the late 1940's. Always negative, as 'I don't reckon him' = I don't think he's much good. (The Evening News, Nov. 12, 1957, article by Richard Herd; Norman.) Elliptical for 'reckon to be worth much'.

reckon oneself. To be conceited: since mid-1940's. (Laurence Henderson, With Intent, 1968.) Ex 'reckon oneself to be important or to be something'.

reckon up. To talk of, maliciously or even slanderously: non-aristocratic: from ca. 1870; ob. B. & L.

recliner; usually in pl. A Crown issue arm-chair: Naval officers': C. 20. Granville. By 'the Oxford -er' ex recline.

record!, change the; also put another record on! A c.p. addressed to a nagging spouse or to anyone else 'going on about something': C. 20. 'Heard as "For God's sake, put another record on, will you?"': A. B. Petch, April 1966.

Recs, the. The Records and Fingerprints Department: police coll.: C. 20.

Red, 1 and 2. See Reds below.

red, n.—3. Short for red Ned (Dict.): B., 1942.—4. The port side of a ship; it shows a red light; cf. green, the starboard side, which shows a green one: nautical coll.: late C. 19-20.—5. Gold: C. 20: orig. c.; by 1950, low s. Therefore cf. sense 1 on p. 691.

Sense 1 (p. 691) occurs in James Joyce, Ulysses, 1922.

red, in the. Having failed to make one's expenses: Canadian carnival s.: C. 20. Red indicates debit.—2. A general coll. phrase for 'in debt': British Commonwealth: since ca. 1920.

Its much less used complement, in the black, hardly antedates 1945.

red, put in the. Bankrupt; penniless: trade and commerce: C. 20. Red, in book-keeping, indicates debt.

red 'Arry. A £10 note: Aus.: since ca. 1930. (B., 1959.)

red arse. A recruit: Guardsmen's: C. 20. Roger Grinstead, They Dug a Hole, 1946.

red Biddy (p. 692). The term soon spread: witness, e.g. Michael Harrison, Reported Safe Arrival, 1943.—2. Methylated spirit as a drink: c., esp. tramps': from ca. 1910. Also jake (Dict.).

red cap.—2. The penis: since ca. 1918.

red centre, the. The inland: Australian coll.: C. 20. Baker. Ex the red soil: see passim Areher Russell's A Tramp Royal, 1934.

red-currant jelly. (Not as n., but as adj. in the predicate.) 'He's red-currant jelly' is Country s., of ca. 1840-1900, applied to a tradesman or merchant that, retiring to the country, out-Counties the County. Usually, however, simply currant jelly. (A staple produce on the shop-keeper's shelves.)

red devils. Little tin-encased Italian hand-grenades: North Africa, British Army in: 1941-3.—2. (Or capitals.) 'Midland Compound Locomotives' (Railway, 3rd): railwaymen's: since ca. 1950 (?).

red eye. See forty-rod.

Red-Fed. 'A member of the ("Red") Federation of Labour, 1909' (Keith Sinclair, 1959): New Zealand coll.: 1909; then historical.

red flannel.—2. Collective for high-ranking officers: Army (not officers'): 1939-45. (Alan Moorehead, African Trilogy, 1944.) Ex the red bands on their hats and their red gorget patches. (P-G-R.)

red-herring, 1 (p. 692): earlier in John L. Gardner, The Military Sketch-Book (I, 30 and 312), 1827. Moe.

red herrings. Red-tabbed staff officers: Army: late C. 19-20.

red-hot poker. Penis: feminine: C. 19-20.

red-hot poker, wouldn't touch it with a. Indicative of extreme aversion: Australian coll.: C. 20. B., 1942.

red-hots, the. Trotting races: Australian rhyming s. (on 'the trots'): since ca. 1920. (B.P.)

red-ink.—2. Blood: pugilistic: ca. 1840-90. Augustus Mayhew, Paved With Gold, 1857.

red inside (alley) same as Queen Victoria. A c.p., used of—and reputedly by—dark-skinned races: late C. 19-20. I.e. a dark skin does not preclude moral merit.

red lead. Tomato juice: Royal Navy: since ca. 1925. Ex colour. Herrings in tomato sauce: Naval (lower-deck): C. 20. Granville.

Red Legs, the. The Melbourne Club football team: Melbourne: since ca. 1920. Also called The Red Demons. (B., 1943.)

Red Light News. See Whore's Gazette.

red lioner. Variant of red liner (Dict.). Augustus Mayhew, 1857.

red Lizzie (cf. red Biddy). 'About once a month he used to get drunk on Red Lisbon—a deadly and incalculable wine concocted of the squeezed-out scrapings of rotted port casks and laced with methylated spirits—a terrible drink . . . which smites the higher centres as with a sandbag. It is otherwise known as Lunatic's Broth or Red red lobsters. The original Metropolitan Police: Londoners': ca. 1830-60.

Lizzie,' Gerald Kersh, I Got References, 1939: low: since ca. 1930.

red mare. See red steer.

Red Mike. See 'Canadian'.

red Ned. Also in New Zealand. (B., 1941.)

red one.—2. A town where the show has made a large profit: circusmen's: C. 20. Contrast bloomer, 2.

red onion. A railroad eating-house: Canadian railroadmen's (— 1931). Rough—and smelly.

red pottage of Esau. 'Lentils cooked into a porridge-like mess' (A. B. Petch, Dec. 7, 1946): domestic: C. 20. Ex the Biblical Esau's 'mess of pottage'.

red rag, 1 (p. 692): earlier in Robert Dixon, Canidia, 1683.

red-ragger. A Communist: Australian: since ca. 1930. (Dymphna Cusack, Southern Steel, 1953.)

red recommend. 'A recommendation in red ink on a Service Certificate, much coveted by ambitious and zealous ratings,' Granville: Naval lower-deck coll.: C. 20.

red ribbon (Dict.) seems to have survived until ca. 1910 and, from ca. 1850, to have been c.

Red Shield, the. Generic for clubs, particular for a club, conducted by the Salvation Army: Services' coll.: 1939 +. H. & P. Ex the sign displayed.

red shirt. A back scarified with the cat-o'-nine-tails: Australian c.: ca. 1820-70. B., 1942.

red steer, the. A bush fire: Australian rural: late C. 19-20. Baker. Also red mare: B., 1943. 'Cf. the Standard German der rote Hahn (the red cockerel), meaning "fire", usually in a phrase translatable as "putting the red cock on someone's roof"' (H. R. Spencer).

red 'un.—2. A red-tipped match: low eating-houses': C. 20. Frank Jennings, Tramping, 1932.

Redbrick, generic for the provincial English (i.e. not Oxbridge; q.v. above; or London) universities and university colleges, founded before W.W. II; also adj., as in 'the Redbrick universities': journalistic coll., dating from the late 1940's and, by 1955, S.E.

redders. Red wine: Oxford undergraduates', since ca. 1920; then also, since ca. 1950, among the smart young set. (Gilderdalc, 2.) By 'the Oxford-er'.

Reddy. An Italian: c., and low: C. 20. Prob. ex red Italian wine; yet cf. Raddie.

Redfern, get off at. To practise coitus interruptus: Sydneyites': since ca. 1950. Redfern is a railway station immediately before Sydney Central. (B.P.)

reds.—3. Fleas: Australian: C. 20. B., 1942. —4. Full-dress uniform: Army coll.: ca. 1860-1914. (S. E. Burrow, Friend or Foe, 1912.)

Reds, the. The Redemptorists: Catholics', esp. in Australia: C. 20.—2. The Russians: since 1917 or 1918.

reduce. To take (someone) down a peg: Shrewsbury: 1938 +. Marples.

reef.—2. Hence, simply to steal: Australian: C. 20. Lawson Glassop, We Were the Rats, 1944.

reef it off in lumps. "To extract large sums of money from someone' (B., 1959): Aus.: since ca. 1920. An elaboration of:— reef off. To take (money) from (a person):

Australian racing: since ca. 1910. (Lawson Glassop, 1949.) Cf. preceding.

reefer. Sense 1 (p. 693) occurs in Alfred Burton, Johnny Newcome, 1818.—2. 'A pickpocket's accomplice' (Baker): Australian c.: since ca. 1910. Ex reef (Dict.).—3. A cigarette drugged with marihuana: c.: adopted ex U.S. ca. 1935.—4. A refrigerator car: Canadian, esp. railroadmen's (— 1931). Adopted from U.S.—5. (Or Reefer.) An inhabitant of—or one who is familiar with—the Great Barrier Reef: Australian coll.: since ca. 1925. (Jean Devanney, Travels in North Queensland, 1951.) reefer, have a. To smoke a drugged cigarette, esp. marihuana: since the late 1930's. Cf. reefer, 3.

reeler, esp. cop a reeler, to get drunk: low: since ca. 1920. James Curtis, You're in the Racket Too, 1937.

reely. Topsy: coll. (— 1933); not at all common. (William Juniper, The True Drunkard's Delight, 1933.)

Reemy or Reemee. The Royal Electrical and Mechanical Engineers (formed in 1942): Services' (esp. Army) coll. of 1942-3, then j. Ex the initials R.E.M.E. Also the Royal Canadian Electrical and Mechanical Engineers: Canadian coll. > j. 'In spite of the C' (Leechman).

reesbin more prob. comes direct ex Shelta.

ref, n.—4. A refectory: mostly religious Orders': mid-C. 19-20.

ref, v. To referee (a match): coll C. 20. Ex the n., 2.

refained or refayned. Excessively refined and genteel: cultured coll.: since ca. 1920. Ex a 'refained' pronunciation of refined.

refec. Refectory: Birmingham undergraduates' (— 1940). Marples, 2.

reffo. A refugee from Europe: Australian: 1939 +. B., 1942. Cf. the American refujew, refugee Jew.

refill, have a. To have an inflation, in the artificial-pneumothorax treatment of T.B.: patients': since ca. 1930. Cf. have a pneumo.

Reg. A senior cadet: Sandhurst: from ca. 1860. Major A. Mockler-Ferryman, Annals of Sandhurst, 1900. Opp. John, a junior; ex Reginald with pun on L. rex, a king.

reg, n. A stickler for discipline: Army: C. 20. P.-G.-R.—2. See regs.

reg, adj. Regular; according to regulations: Guardsmen's: since ca. 1920.

reg rooker. A fine fellow: South African c.: C. 20. (C. P. Wittstock, May 23, 1946.) See rooker; with reg, cf. Dutch regaal, 'royal'.

regent. 'Half a sovereign' (coin): ca. 1820-60. Sinks, 1848. By a not despicable pun.

Reggie. The Regimental Sergeant Major: since ca. 1919. 'Watch it!, here comes Reggie.' Not in his hearing. For a fine 'portrait' of an R.S.M., see Hugh Kimber, Prelude to Calvary, 1938.

reggie. A registered customer: civilians': 1940 +. The New Statesman, Aug. 30, 1941.

reggie or reggy (hard g's), adj. Regimental; intensively, dead reggie: R.A.F.: since ca. 1930.

regiment, chum?—how long have you been in this. How long have you been in the Navy?: Naval (lower-deck) c.p.: C. 20. Granville.

regimental or regulation. A 'mess'; a signal failure: Londoners': from 1919. 'Oh, I made a regimental [or a regulation] of the whole bloody thing.' Ex regimental, 1: see Dict. Short for regimental (or regulation) fuck-up: C. 20.

regimental fire. A volley of cheers: military: from ca. 1860. B. & L. rightly confine it to some particular but unspecified regiment.

region of rejoicing, the. 'Joy attendant upon success in the schools,' Spy, 1825: Oxford University: ca. 1815-60.

[Regional names current in the first quarter of the C. 18, as represented by Ned Ward, are Bog-Lander and Teague, both in 1703; Sawney in 1709; Taffy in 1714; Tike in 1703; and Butter-Box, a Dutchman, in 1700. Matthews.]

Register (or r-). See 'Tavern terms', § 5.

register, out of. See out of register.

rego (soft g). Registration of a motor vehicle: Australian: since ca. 1945. 'The rego is up'—expired—'next month.' (B.P.)

regs. Regulations, as in King's Regs: Services, orig. and mainly Army: since ca. 1870.

regular, n.—3. One who quits a pleasure party at 11 or 12 at night: ca. 1830-65. Sinks, 1848. With a sneer—or perhaps a laugh—at regular, sober habits.

regular nuisances or, oftener, pests. Time-expired Regular Army men: Kitchener's Army: W. W. I. 'Many of these ex-regulars worked as Base wallahs or on lines of communication' and, among non-regulars, tended to throw their weight about. A pun on Regular Army and regular, thoroughgoing. (A. B. Petch, May 1966.)

regular tradesman. Anyone thoroughly understanding his business or occupation: proletarian coll.: mid-C. 19-20; ob. B. & L.

regulation. See regimental above.

rehab. A rehabilitation ward or department in a hospital: since ca. 1945. Ex the official abbreviation rehab.—2. A rehabilitation loan: New Zealand servicemen's: since ca. 1944. Slatter, 'Rehab was the caper, you jokers'.

reign, n.—2. The period during which the spinner operates: Australian two-up players': C. 20. (B., 1953.)

relation. A pawnbroker: Londoners': ca. 1845-1900. Mayhew, II, 1851. Suggested by synonymous uncle (Dict.).

relish all waters. See 'Tavern terms', § 2.

remember a name and I always forget a face, I never. 'A c.p. used when people are discussing their inability to remember names and faces' (B.P.): Australian: since the late 1940's. Ex 'I never remember a name but I always remember a face'.

remember Pearl Harbour!, often preceded by don't panic (with jocular variant don't picnic): the Australian World War II equivalent of remember Belgium! (p. 694). B.P.

remember the girl who went out to buy a knick-knack and came back with a titbit. A low-punning Canadian c.p. of ca. 1935-55.

remish. Remission (of sentence): prisons': since ca. 1920. Norman.

remit. A remittance (dispatch) of money: Australian: late C. 19-20. (W. Sorley Brown, The Life and Genius of T. W. H. Crosland, 1928; cited as a word often used by Phil May, who died in 1903.)

remount; gen. pl. A woman for export as a harlot, esp. to the Argentine: white-slave traffickers' c.: C. 20. (A. Londres, The Road to Buenos Ayres, 1928.) Hence on remount service, (of a white-slaver) engaged in procuring fresh women.

rent.—4. (Also renting.) Blackmail: since ca. 1920; by 1965, slightly ob. (Compton Mackenzie, Thin Ice, 1956).—5. See gay above. A male always, or nearly always, charging for his homosexual services: homosexual: since ca. 1930 (? much earlier). He earns his rent in this way. Hence, and usu., and adj., as in 'Be careful of that one, he's rent' (he will ask payment). Contrast trade.

rent guardsman. A soldier—hence, any other man—consenting to homosexual practices for money: 'gay' society: since ca. 1950.

renter. One who, not a prostitute (female or male), sells casual sexual or homosexual favours for money or presents: low life: since ca. 1945. Cf. rent, 5, above. A much earlier date is provided by Max Beerbohm in a letter he wrote ca. 1895: see Lord David Cecil, Max, 1964, p. 122. (Mr C. E. Kemp.)

reo. Usually in pl. reos, reinforcements: Australian soldiers': 1939+. Lawson Glassop, We Were the Rats, 1944. By abridgement and an unusual variety of conflation.

rep.—6. A politician, athlete, cricketer representing a State: Australian: since ca. 1920. B., 1942.—7. A reprimand: Regular Army (esp. N.C.O.s'): C. 20. Gerald Kersh, They Die with Their Boots Clean, 1941. Cf. severe.—8. (Cf. 6) A trade-union representative: trade-unionists': since ca. 1920. (Vance Palmer, Golconda, 1948.)

repat, n. and adj. Repatriate, repatriation; repatriated: coll.: since ca. 1941. Brickhill & Norton, Escape to Danger, 1946, 'Typical of the repat boys was "Chuck" Lock.'

repeaters, the. (Of food) 'It gives me the repeaters': Australian coll.: C. 20. (Ruth Park, 1950.)

replace and displace are frequently confused. 'From the Post-Bag', The Observer, Sept. 20, 1936, contained this: 'May I call attention to a regrettable misuse of English perpetrated—of all places!—at the Journalists' Congress? The point under discussion was pressure alleged to be brought to bear on editors, with the result that "in more than one instance the correspondents have been replaced." To replace means, and can only mean, to put back in its place. Obviously the meaning was intended to be the opposite—to displace.—Stephen Tone, Coventry.' report, in the. On the report (or charge) sheet: Navy coll.: C. 20. (P-G-R.)

res. A restaurant; as in a British res, one of the British Restaurants: since ca. 1945. (Josephine Bell, The Summer School Mystery, 1950.)

rescrub. To do (a job) over again: Naval: C. 20. Granville.

resin. 'Liquor given to musicians at a party' (B., 1942): Australian: C. 20. Cf.:

resin up (p. 695). Less vaguely: Ex resining a fiddle-bow.

Resistance, the. Harley Street: taxi-drivers': 1948. Ex the medical profession's opposition to the Aneurin Bevan health-plan. On the analogy of La Résistance, the Resistance Movement in France (1940-4).

Cf. the Occupied Territory, Bayswater (London): taxi-drivers': 1947-9. Ex the large number of foreigners there, and on enemy-occupied territory.

Both terms were recorded by The Evening News of March 19, 1948.—2. That part of West Hampstead which contains numerous Germans, whether residents or lodgers: since late 1930's, by which time many Germans had removed themselves from a 'Hitlerized' Germany they deplored.

reso. A residential, i.e. a boarding-house for permanent guests: Australian: since ca. 1950. (B.P.) Residential + the ubiquitous Australian s. suffix -o.

rest, n.—2. A year's imprisonment: Australian c.: C. 20. Baker. Hence resting, (a person) 'in gaol'.

rest one's eyes. To have a short sleep: semijocular, usually evasive, coll.: C. 20. A clerk surprised sleeping, 'Sorry! I was just resting my eyes.' (A. B. Petch, March 1966.)

resurrection. See resurrection-pie (Dict.).

retired gremlin. It wears a yellow hat and a fancy waistcoat, and behaves in a Blimpish manner: R.A.F.: 1940-5. (P.-G.-R.)

retired to stud. (Of a woman who has) married: Australian jocular: since late 1940's. (B.P.)

retread (or re-tread). A 1914-18 soldier serving in 1939-45: Australian: since 1939. (B., 1943.) —2. A retired schoolteacher still teaching: Australian: since ca. 1950. (B.P.)

Retreat from Moscow, the. The exodus from Britain to Eire, in late 1946 and throughout 1947-8, in order to escape ruinous taxation, short rations and general totalitarianism. First used in Eire in March or April 1947, it 'caught on' in Britain on or about May 12th (1947). With an allusion to Napoleon's retreat in 1812 and to Russia's be-dazzlement of British Socialists.

return the other cheek. Instead of 'turning the other cheek' to return—or give—the other 'cheek' or impudence: since ca. 1955. (A. B. Petch, March 1966.)

Rev. Form of address to a clergyman: non-aristocratic, non-educated: C. 20. Richard Llewellyn, None But the Lonely Heart, 1943.

rev, v.—2. To pray: Cranbrook School: C. 20. Ex 'reverence'?

reversed ear. That 'naval disease' which is caused by wearing 'dry' hoods, the pressure inside exceeding the pressure outside: skin divers': since ca. 1950. (Granville.)

revo. Revolution: Australian: since ca. 1945. (B., 1953.)

revolush, v.i. To revolt: South Seas lingua franca: mid C. 19-20. (South Sea Bubbles, by the Earl and the Doctor, 1872.) Ex revolution.

revved(-)up, often preceded by all. Very much excited; very tense: since ca. 1960. The opposite of relaxed (A. B. Petch, April 1966.) Of machines, esp. motor cars and bicycles.

reward. 'Dogs' or hounds' supper': kennels' s.: C. 19-20. B. & L. Ex S.E. sense, entrails given to hounds imm. after the kill.

r'ghoglin or gogh'leen. To laugh: Shelta: C. 18-20. B. & L.

rhetorician. See 'Tavern terms', § 3, d. rheumatise. See rheumatiz (Dict.).

rhino, sense 1 (p. 693), 'money'. In Malaya, long ago, the rhinoceros was almost 'worth its weight in gold' to those opportunists who converted every part of a slain rhinoceros into aphrodisiacs and sold packets at very high prices, to Chinese mandarins, who placed great faith in them. —4. An outboard-engined raft: Combined Operations: Juno 1944.

rhino-ar-se. A large, long, tough bread roll having cheese in the middle and issued on O.T.C. field days: Rugby School: since ca. 1910.

rhodo. A C. 20 variant of rhody (p. 696), rhododendron.

rhubarb. Sense 1 (p. 696) perhaps derives from the illiterate pronunciation rhubarb, a 'sub' (or loan).—2. Genitals, male or, occ., female: low: late C. 19-20. E.g. 'How's your rhubarb, missis?' or 'How's your rhubarb coming up, Bill?'—3. See next entry.—4. A rumpus, a 'row'; a loud, confused noise; noises off, esp. those of the mob: theatrical: late C. 19-20. Alexander McQueen, an Englishman long resident in the United States, writes thus (on Aug. 31, 1953):

'Here's a genuine one that I've never seen recorded anywhere; I've been looking for it for half a century! It is the word "rhubarb" used as a theatrical term.

'When I was a boy (14-17 years old) I studied dramatic art under a pupil of the famous old actor Hermann Vezin. Although Vezin¹ had been born in Pennsylvania, he flourished in London for years, and studied and worked under Charles Kean, c. 1852. Kean had received traditions from other actors, and they from others, all the way back to Davenant and Shakespeare. They all took a pride in passing down the genuine Shakespearian acting traditions and "business". One of these was to do with "rhubarbing". When a few actors gathered backstage and represented the "noise without" made by a mob, they intoned the sonorous word "rhubarb". The action was called "rhubarbing", the actors "rhubarbers". (Try the word yourself; it really DOES produce an effect if only two or three work at it.)

'I have only met one old-time actor in the United States who knew about this custom; and he was from England.'

'In Holy Deadlock, 1934, Sir Alan Herbert describes a stage rehearsal with the chorus "rushing about excitedly and muttering 'Rhubarb'" (Ramsey Spencer).

rhubarb (pill). A hill: rhyming: late C. 19-20. rhyme if you take it in time, a. See that's a rhyme . . .

Rhyming and Alliterative Nicknames, Australian.

'Most of these are inevitables,' says Barry Prentice, who has—in June 1963—supplied the ensuing list. Several of them come from the U.S. and are known also in the other Dominions and in Britain.

Den(n)is the Menace. Ex U.S.

Even Stephen (or Steven). Ex U.S. even-Steven, evenly or fairly.

Flo the Chro. See chro (ex chromo) above.

Giggling Gertie.

Hairy Mary.

Harriet the Chariot. See separate entry.

Harry the Horse. Ex the character created by Damon Runyan.

Merv the Perv. Cf. perv and perve and pervy above.

Myrtle the Turtle. See separate entry. Occ. invested with a Brooklyn pronunciation: Moitle the Toitle.

Nola the Bowler. Ex 'Nola Dekyvere, the social

¹ Hermann Vezin (1829-1910).

leader of Sydney' (B.P.) But † by end of 1967, B.P. tells me.

Peter the Poof.

Phil the Dill. Cf. dill above.

Roger the Lodger.

Slapsie Maxie. Ex Maxie Rosenbloom.

Terry the Ferry.

Tizzie Lizzie. Cf. tizzy below.

Rhyming Slang: to the entry on p. 669, add this, 'It is erroneous to affirm—as so many "Philologists" do—that the slang-rhyme is always shortened to its initial element. . . . "Army" is always "Kate Carney" and "dinner" "Lilley and Skinner",' Michael Harrison, letter of Jan. 4, 1947.

The entire question of rhyming s. has, for the first time, been adequately treated by Julian Franklyn in Rhyming Slang, 1960: a history and a study, a glossary and even a 'reverse' glossary. This book covers Great Britain and Ireland, Australia and the U.S. (A Dictionary of R.S.) rib, v. To make fun of; pull someone's leg: Cockney and Canadian since ca. 1925. Michael Harrison, Reported Safe Arrival, 1943.—2. To swindle: Australian c.: since ca. 1930. B. 1942.

ribbing, n., corresponds to rib, v., esp. in sense 1. ribby (p. 696). Earlier in George Ingram, Cockney Cavalcade, 1935. By 1939, low London s.—2. Hence, (of things) inferior; (of conditions) unsatisfactory: mostly lower-class London: since ca. 1939.

ribs, on the.—3. See 'Hauliers' Slang'.

ribuck! (p. 696): 'From the Hebrew Reivach, meaning profit or good business,' A. Abrahams in The Observer, Sept. 25, 1938.

Rice Corps. Royal Indian Army Service Corps: 1939–45. Any of its units tended to be called a ghee factory, because of their predilection for ghee (Indian butter).

rice-pudding, he couldn't knock the skin off a. A contemptuous c.p.: C. 20.

rich friend is 'an universal phrase with the girls of the town for "their keepers"', Pierce Egan, Life in London, 1821: euphemistic coll.: ca. 1805–70.

Richard, have had the. (Of persons) to have been dismissed; (of things) to have been superseded; to be 'all washed up' or finished: Australian: since ca. 1930. Cf. Richard, get the, on p. 696.

Richard the Third.—2. A word: rhyming: C. 20.—3. A turd: rhyming s.: late C. 19–20.—4. A girl: rhyming s. (on synonymous bird): since ca. 1920. Often shortened to Richard.—5. A bad reception, a hissing: theatrical rhyming s. (on bird, n., 5: p. 54): C. 20. (Paul Tempest, Lag's Lexicon, 1950.)

rick, adj. Spurious: low racing: since ca. 1950. 'If you are standing near a bookie's joint, undecided, and a merchant dashes in and places a bet, such as "Seventy pounds to forty. On top," don't take a blind bit of notice. The give-away is the "On top". It's a rick bet. It don't mean nothing. It don't even go in the book. It's sole object is to push or goad you into making your bet': The Sunday Telegraph, May 7, 1967, Anon., 'A punter's guide to the bookie's secret lingo.' Ex rick, a cheapjack's, hence a mock-auctioneer's, accomplice whose job it is to boost sales.

rick, v. To remove one testicle of (usually a horse): Australian: C. 20. Ex S.E. rick, to wrench or sprain. 'That horse was ricked and Sammy Hall' = It was rendered untesticular. Sammy Hall is Cockney and Australian (esp. Sydney rhyming s. on ball, testicle, the reference being to a song very popular in mid-C. 19 and still heard occasionally 'where men are men'. (Edwin Morrisby, letter of Aug. 30, 1958.)

rick-rack. A policeman's whistle: Manchester children's: ca. 1860–80. Jerome Caminada, Detective, II, 1901. Echoic.

ricket. A mistake: low (? originally c.): since ca. 1930. 'You've made a bit of a ricket' (Norman). Used in the B.B.C.'s account of the Great Train Robbery Trial, Aug. 23, 1963.

Ricky. Rickmansworth (Hertfordshire): Hertfordshiremen's: from ca. 1920.

ricky, A ricochet; to ricochet: Army: since ca. 1925. (P-G-R.) Cf. ricko on p. 696.

ricky-tick. See 'Jive'.

ride, find a. To be given a car to drive in a race: motor-racing s.: from ca. 1925. (Peter Chamberlain.)

ride below the crupper. See crupper, ride below the.

ride on the cushions. 'Engine men travelling as passengers' (Railway): railwaymen's: since ca. 1920. Cf. Canadian ride the cushions, q.v. at ride plush below.

ride one's stripes or tapes. (Of an N.C.O.) to be over-strict or officious: Army: C. 20.

ride out. To depart: London teenagers': ca. 1957–9. (Gilderdale.)

ride plush. To travel illicitly free on a train: Australian: adopted, ca. 1920, from U.S. B., 1942. Cf. the Canadian hobocs' ride the cushions: late C. 19–20. (Leechman.)

ride shotgun. 'An extraordinary survival of the stage-coach days. When gold or other valuables were carried, or a hold-up apprehended, a man, armed with a shotgun, rode on top of the coach with the driver. In the speech of the period, this man "rode shotgun". It is still [1963] used, sometimes in the sense of "Quis custodiet . . . ?"' Douglas Leechman. Only is the derivative sense eligible, and then as a coll.

ride the dead horse. See dead horse and work a dead horse.

ride up a gumtree or go up a tree. To fall off one's horse: Australian: since ca. 1910. (B., Australia Speaks, 1953.)

riders. A synonym of jockey sticks! Australian shearers': since ca. 1910. B., 1942. By a pun.

ridge, n. By 1940 it was general Australian s.

ridge, adj. Good; valuable: Australian c.: late C. 19–20. Ex ridge, gold.—2. Hence, genuine: c.: since ca. 1930; becoming, ca. 1945, low sporting s.: in Australia. Lawson Glassop, Lucky Palmer, 1949.

ridgy-didge. Honest; genuine: Australian: since ca. 1938. (B., Australia Speaks, 1953.) Ex preceding. Also ridgery-dig.

ridgy-dite. All right; trustworthy: Australian low rhyming s.: since ca. 1925. (Kylie Tennant, The Joyful Condemned, 1953.)

riding his low horse. A jocular c.p., referring to a tipsy, or a half-tipsy, fool either boasting or making a fool of himself: since ca. 1930. Not very common. (A. B. Petch, May 1966.)

Riff Raff, the. The R.A.F.: 1930+. Partridge, 1945, 'A jocular—sometimes a contemptuous—elaboration of Raff.'

riffs. See 'Canadian'.

rift. Energy, speed; esp. get a rift on, to move or work quickly, energetically: Guards Regiments': since ca. 1920. Gerald Kersh, They Die with Their Boots Clean, 1941. Perhaps a blend of rush + shift.

rig, run a (p. 697). The phrase run one's rigs occurs in The Port Folio of June 26, 1802, at p. 193. Moe.

rig-of-the-day, the. The Service dress to be worn on the day concerned: Naval coll.: since ca. 1880. (P-G-R.)

rigger.—5. 'A quart of draught beer in a square-faced gin bottle' (B., 1942): Australian: since ca. 1918.

rigger mortis. 'A good-for-nothing airman' (Jackson): R.A.F.: since ca. 1938. Ex the pre-1939 official rigger (now flight mechanic 'A'), with a pun on rigor mortis: as Jackson neatly puts it, 'a dead type' (dead above the ears).

riggers. Clothes made to look like new: low: ca. 1820–80. Sessions, Oct. 1840 (p. 1044). Ex rig, v., 2, with pun on rig, n., 5.

right, adj.—3. Safe: Australian coll.: C. 20. (Vince Kelly, The Shadow, 1955.) Cf. the right, all entries on p. 698.

right, she's. That, or it, is satisfactory; it's all right (= don't mention it): Australian coll.: since ca. 1925. (Culotta.) Cf. she below.

right bastard, a. A thoroughly mean-spirited, bloody-minded man: coll., mostly Naval: since ca. 1925.

right cool fish. 'One who is not particular what he says or does,' Spy, 1825: Eton: ca. 1810–90.

right down, adv. Wholly, quite: coll.: Jan. 1835, Sessions, 'I was right down certain that the money was bad'; ob. by 1920.

right drill. See drill, the.

right-(h)o.—2. That's enough! Break it down! (B., 1959): Aus.: since ca. 1920. Ex sense 1 on p. 698.

right into one's barrel. Precisely what one needs or desires: Australian: C. 20. B., 1942.

right man. 'The workman who makes the right forepart, and finishes the coat': tailors' coll.: mid-C. 19–20. B. & L.

right oil, the. Correct information: Australian: since ca. 1920. Baker. A variant of 'the dinkum oil'.

right up one's alley (see alley)—street (see street . . ., p. 838, end). Intensives of up . . .

righteous. An adj. applied, in the 1920's and early 1930's, by musicians to good jazz and to those who recognised it: Canadian (ex U.S.). 'A good hot chorus would be greeted with cries—from other members of the band—of "Righteous, brother! Righteous!"' (Professor F. E. L. Priestley, in letter dated Dec. 20, 1959.)

rights, catch (bang) to. To catch (a person) doing something he ought not to do: c.: from ca. 1860. Cf. rights, be to in Dict.

righty-o. Right-o: since ca. 1905; by 1960, ob.

rigid, adv. Only in bind rigid: see bind. Substitution for 'to (bind) stiff'. Whence:

rigid bind. One who bores you stiff: R.A.F.: since ca. 1938. H. & P.

rim. To bugger (a woman): c.: C. 20. Also bottle, likewise v.t. Both, brutally anatomical.

rimp. To sprint; a sprint, a turn of speed:

Christ's Hospital: late C. 19–20. Marples, 'From the Homeric adverb rimpha, swiftly.'

ring, n.—5. See rings.—6. Anus (also ring-piece): low: late C. 19–20. Hence, ring-snatcher, snatching sodomite, sodomy: C. 20.

ring, lose one's. To lose one's virginity: coll.: C. 19–20. Cf. ring, n., 1 (p. 699), and ring, cracked in the (ibid.).

ring a bell; ring the bell. 'That rings a bell': That brings something to mind; that sounds familiar: coll.: adopted, ca. 1925, from U.S. and derived earlier ex the striking of a clock or ex: 2. To ring the bell: 'to hit the target; to hit the nail on the head; to win an argument by proving one's statement,' H. & P.: Services' coll.: since ca. 1920. Ex the fairground game.

ring-chaser. An officer seeking promotion: R.A.F., mostly officers': 1939–45. (P-G-R.)

ring-conscious. (Of an officer) manifestly conscious of recent promotion; also, of an officer excessively officious: R.A.F. coll.: since ca. 1925. Cf. rings.

ring-dang-do. A spree: Australian: since late 1940's. A. M. Harris, The Tall Man, 1958 (events of 1953), 'They've earned a bit of a ring-dang-do'.

ring-in. A horse, a dog, etc., entered for a contest either under a false name or 'in disguise': Australian sporting: C. 20. B., 1942. Ex ring in, v. (p. 699).—2. A stacked pack of cards: Australian: since ca. 1910. (B., 1953.)

ring in a gray (or grey) or ring in the knob (or nob). 'To substitute a double-tailed penny for a genuine coin' (B., 1943): Australian two-up players': C. 20.

ring-neck. A jackaroo: Aus. rural: C. 20. (B., 1959.)

ring of roses. See blue fever.

ring one's tail. To cry quits; to give in: Australian: C. 20. Baker.

ring-tail.—2. A coward: Australian: C. 20. Baker. Ex prec. phrase. It also has the gen. sense 'a novice': Canadian: late C. 19–20, ex U.S. (Niven.)

ring the bell. To render a girl pregnant: since ca. 1910.—2. See ring a bell, 2.—3. To bring on an orgasm in one's female partner: since ca. 1920.

ring-twitch or -twitter. See twittering ring-piece.

ringer.—4. A crowbar: railwaymen's: C. 20. (Railway, 3rd.) Ex the ringing noise it emits on contact with metal.

ringer, half, Pilot Officer; one ringer, Flying-Officer; three ringer, Wing-Commander; two ringer, Flight-Lieutenant; two-and-a-half ringer, Squadron-Leader: Air Force coll.: 1919+. Jackson. An Air Force officer's rank is denoted by rings on the cuff, not by stripes on the arm, nor by stars and what-have-you on the shoulder.—2. In the Navy two-ringer is 'lower-deckese' for Lieutenant: C. 20. Granville.

ringerangeroo. The female pudend: feminine: since ca. 1930. Origin? Mr Ramsey Spencer tentatively suggests an origin ex ring, 1, on p. 699 + ranger, 1, on p. 686 + an ecstatic oo, the whole perhaps influenced by the simple game of 'ring-a-ring-o' roses'.

ringest, adj. Best: Australian teenage surfers': since ca. 1962; by 1966, ob. (B.P.)

ringie (p. 700). See also boxer.—2. The 'ringer' or fastest shearer in a gang or team: N.Z.: C. 20. Straight Furrow, Feb. 21, 1968.

ringing, n. Milling-about of cattle: Australian rural coll.: late C. 19-20. (B., 1943.)

ringing the horse-shoes. 'A welcome to a man who has been out boozing' (B. & L.): tailors': mid-C. 19-20.

ringmaster. A Squadron Commander (function, not rank): R.A.F.: since ca. 1937. Jackson. Ex the circus ring.—2. A yardmaster: Canadian railroadmen's (— 1931). Humorous.

rings. 'Abbreviated reference to an Officer's rank, denoted in the Navy and R.A.F. by the number of rings on his sleeve,' H. & P.: since ca. 1890 in the Navy and since 1918 in the R.A.F.: coll. >, by 1930 at latest, j.

rings round, run (p. 700). Also . . . around.

rhino is merely Ned Ward's spelling (1700) of rhino.

Rio Tinto, the. The 'Glasgow to Carlisle parcels train' (Railway, 3rd): since ca. 1950. Presumably ex the Portuguese or the Spanish town so named.

riot. A person, an incident, or a thing that is very amusing or very laughable: upper classes': from ca. 1931. E.g. 'That girl's a riot!'

Riot Act (to), read the.—2. To read the Fire Arms Act to prisoners about to be discharged: prisons': since ca. 1920. (Norman.) riot good time, have—or be having—a. To have a riotously good time: since ca. 1950. (A.B. Petch, March 1966.) Cf. riot above. Riot good time is also a pun on right good time, a thoroughly good time.

rip, n.—4. A reproof indicated by a master's tearing up of work shown up to him: Eton: C. 20. He tears the sheet or sheets of paper. (J. D. R. McConnell, Eton: How It Works, 1967, pp. 82-3; with synonym tear-over.)—5. 'A coarse ill-conditioned woman with a bad tongue' (P. W. Joyce, English . . . in Ireland, 1910): Anglo-Irish coll.: mid C. 19-20. Perhaps ex sense 1 on p. 700.

rip, v. To annoy intensely; to disgust: Australian: since ca. 1921. Lawson Glassop, We Were the Rats, 1944.

rip hell out of. To defeat severely (in a fight); to reproach, or reprove, bitterly: Australian: C. 20. B., 1942.

rip into. To attack, to fight, (someone) with one's fists: Australian: late C. 19-20. Baker.—2. To defeat utterly in a fight; hence, to reprimand or reprove severely or bitterly: Australian coll.: since ca. 1910. (B., 1943.)

rip-rap, the; also 'to rip-rap'. A borrowing of, to borrow, money: rhyming s. (on tap): since ca. 1935. Franklyn 2nd.

rip-snorter. Anything exceptionally good; an eccentric or very entertaining person: Australian: since ca. 1910. Baker. Adopted from U.S.

rip-track, the. The repair-shops for cars (carriages): Canadian railwaymen's (— 1920).

ripe.—2. Complete, thoroughgoing, unmitigated; esp. 'a ripe basiard': Services: since ca. 1920. (P-G-R.)

ripped. With fly-buttons undone: C. 20. I.e. ripped open.

ripping, adj., 1 (p. 700): by 1930, slightly—by 1945, very—ob.; and by 1966 branding a user as antediluvian. Cf. the quotation at top-hole below.

rise, n. Sense 3 (p. 700) was current at Eton before 1880. An Eton Boy, A Day of My Life, rise, get a. To experience an erection: coll.: late C. 19-20.—2. To cause someone to 'bite': coll.: late C. 19-20. Ex angling.

(before) 1880. (Dr Niels Haislund.)—4. A disturbance or commotion: low ca. 1840-70. Sinks, 1848.

rise and shine was, ca. 1919, adopted by the R.A.F.—esp. by its N.C.O. regulars. (Sergeant G. Emanuel, letter of March 29, 1945.)—2. Hence, jocularly applied to, or used by, father calling son in morning: 1945 +.—3. In the game of House: 49. Lewis Hastings, Dragons Are Extra, 1947.

rise in the world, give (someone) a. To kick in the behind: Australian: since ca. 1925. Baker.

rise to the occasion. To have an erection when desirable or suitable: raffish: since ca. 1920.

risk, take a. To risk venereal infection: euphemistic coll.: mid-C. 19-20.

risley. See buffer, 1, on p. 102 and above. In vaudeville a risley is 'a performance in which a man lies on his back on a special couch and juggles a boy or a small person with his feet' (Leechman): C. 20.

ritzy. Rich; stylish, fashionable: adopted ca. 1935 from U.S. James Curtis, You're in the Racket Too, 1937, 'Ritzy-looking dames with dogs.' Ex the various Ritz hotels in the great capitals, esp. that in London. (See my Name into Word.)

ritzy tart. Any upper- or middle-class woman or girl, esp. if she dresses well and speaks well: since ca. 1945. (Paul Tempest, Lag's Lexicon, 1950.)

river. 'An accidental effect produced in a page of type, when spaces occur in succeeding lines in such a way as to lie almost above each other, thus forming long thin lines (rivers), more easily observed when the page is held nearly level; printers' and publishers': from about 1910' (Leechman).

River Lea (p. 700). By 1959, sense (1) was ob.; sense (2), †. (Franklyn, Rhyming.)

river ooze or River Ouse, the; usu. simply the river. Strong drink: c.: since ca. 1910; by ca. 1950, also low s. (Robin Cook, 1962.) Rhyming on booze.

Riverina. A shilling: Australian rhyming s. (on deaner): since ca. 1920. (B., 1943.)

riveting. Revetting: mostly sol.: since ca. 1914.

rivets, 'money' (p. 701): goes back to ca. 1840. Sinks, 1848.

roach. A cockroach: Australian and New Zealand coll.: late C. 19-20. (B.P.)

road, on the. Out of work: Australian coll.: C. 20. B., 1942. Cf. road, get the, on p. 701.

Road, the. Charing Cross Road: booksellers' coll.: late C. 19-20.

road louse. A small car that, holding the road and proceeding, stately, at about 25 m.p.h., refuses, when hooted at, to move to the side: Cambridge undergraduates' (1930) >, by 1935, rather more general.

road-roller. A bushman; a 'hick': New Zealand: ca. 1910-45. (Jean Devanney, Bushman Burke, 1930.)

roadster (p. 701). Not merely tailors'—fairly general.

roam on the rush. (Of a jockey) to swerve 'from the straight line at the finish [of a race] when the rush takes place': turf: from ca. 1870. B. & L.

roar.—2. (Of cattle) to low continuously, whence the n. roaring: Australian coll.: late C. 19–20. (B., 1943.)

roar up.—2. (Of destroyers) to attack: Naval coll.: 1939–45. ‘Roar in, roar up and roar out again.’ (P-G-R.)—3. To scrounge; to find by hustling: Army: 1939–45. (P-G-R.)—4. To reprimand: Australian, mostly juvenile: since ca. 1940. (B., 1953.) Ex sense 1: p. 701.

Roarer, the. The Southern Aurora, a Melbourne–Sydney train: Australian: 1962 +. (B.P.)

roaring forties.—2. Hence, Lieutenant Commanders between 40 and 50 years of age: Naval: since ca. 1917; esp. in 1939–45. (P-G-R.)

roarin’ horn. An urgent erection: low Australian: late C. 19–20. Cf. roaring Jack below.

roaring horsetails. The aurora australis: Australian: C. 20. B., 1942.

roaring Jack, have a. To have an urgent erection: low: late C. 19–20. Clamant—and cf. Jack in a (or the) box, sense 8, on p. 430.

roast-beef dress (p. 701). The term roast-beef coat occurs in Alfred Burton, Johnny Newcome, 1818. (Moe.)

roast pork. To, a, talk: rhyming s.: since ca. 1910. Often, as v., shortened to roast.—2. A table fork: rhyming s., since ca. 1930; esp. in the Army, 1939–45. Both: Franklyn, Rhyming.

roaster.—2. An extremely hot day; a heat wave: coll.: late C. 19–20.—3. A ‘hot dog’: since the late 1940’s.

Rob Every Poor Soldier. The R.E., Postal Services: Army: since ca. 1922; † by 1940.

rob my pal. A girl: rhyming s. (on gal): C. 20. The modern version of Bob my pal (p. 73). Franklyn, Rhyming.

Rob Roy. Boy: rhyming: since ca. 1860. Since ca. 1930, †; apparently never at all general, says Franklyn.

Robbers, the. A variant—and derivative—of Rob All My Comrades (p. 702): 1914–18.

robbo. A cab or buggy plying for hire: Australian: ca. 1880–1910. Baker. Ex robber. Cf.:

Robbo Park. Rosebery Park racecourse: Australian: C. 20. Baker. ‘Now closed’ (B.P., 1963).

Robert or robert.—2. A shilling; esp. in accept Her Majesty’s Robert, to enlist in the Regular Army: military: ca. 1860–1901. Robert Blatchford, My Life in the Army, 1910.—3. A spell of watch below, or a short rest at any time: deep-sea trawlers’: C. 20. ‘I’ve given the brats a Robert’: L. Luard, All Hands, 1933.

Robert E. Lee. a quay: London dockland rhyming s.: C. 20.

Robertson & Moffat; usually Robertson. A profit: Australian rhyming s.: since ca. 1930. (B., 1945.)

Robin. Short for Robin Hood, good.

Robin Hood; Tarzan. G.H.Q. India nicknames for Brigadier Orde Wingate, leader of the Chindits in Burma.

Robin Redbreast (p. 702): earlier in W. N. Glascock, Sailors and Saints (I, 116), 1829. (Moe.)

Robinson & Cleaver. Fever: Londoners’ rhyming: C. 20.

Robinson Crusoe. To do so: rhyming s.: late C. 19–20; by 1959, ob. (Franklyn, Rhyming.)

Robinson Crusoe, adj.: e.g., travel. . . , to travel alone: Australian teenagers’, esp. surfers’: since ca. 1962. Pix, Sept. 28, 1963.

rock, n.—6. A rock cake: coll.: C. 20.—7. A bunker (in golf): since ca. 1920. The Daily Mail, Aug. 16, 1939.

rock, v.—3. To startle (someone) with news or assertion: mostly R.A.F.: since late 1941. H. & P. 1943, ‘A new version of shake.’

Rock, the (p. 702): prob. since early C. 19, for it occurs in Fredk Marryat, Frank Mildmay, 1829, at p. 115 of the 1897 edition. Moe.

Rock Apes. Personnel of the R.A.F. Regiment: R.A.F., Gibraltar, whence also Malta: (?) since ca. 1940.

rock-bottom seats. Slatted seats in the buses of war-time construction: 1941 +.

rock cake. A bore; a nuisance: R.A.F. in India: ca. 1925–35. (G/Capt. Arnold Wall, letter of March 5, 1945.) Rhyming on bake, n. 3.

rock-creeper. A coastal ship: nautical: since ca. 1870. (Jack Lawson, A Man’s Life, 1932.)

Rock Dodgers, the. Pilots and their aircraft flying to the Western Isles: R.A.F. Transport Command: 1944–5. They have to be! (Communicated by S/Ldr Vernon Noble, in April 1945.)

Rock-happy. Suffering from acute melancholia occasioned by too long service at Gibraltar: Naval: since ca. 1939. Cf. Rock, the, on p. 702.

rock-hopper. ‘A person who fishes from rocks on a sea coast’ (B., 1959): Aus.: since ca. 1930.

rock in. To accelerate or intensify; esp. rock it in!, hurry up: Australian: C. 20. B., 1942. Cf. — rock it in. To talk; to chatter: Australian low: C. 20. Lawson Glassop, We Were the Rats, 1944, “‘Nearly all of ’em could speak English, an’ they starts to rock it in about the war.’” A fusion of three ideas: that of rock, v., 1 (p. 702) and that of pitch, n., 4 (p. 636) and that of pitch in, 1 (p. 636) Glassop, ibid.: “‘We rocked it back’”—i.e. retorted.

Rock Scorpion (p. 702). 1. Also Rock lizard. In C. 20, often Rock Scorp, as in Percy F. Westerman, The Terror of the Seas, 1927. The word is much older than one had supposed; in 1818, Colonel Moe informs me, it occurs in Alfred Burton’s narrative poem, Johnny Newcome. 2. (Often Rock Scorp.) A Gibraltar policeman: Naval: C. 20. Granville.

rock spider. A petty thief that robs amorous couples sporting in parks or by the seashore: Australian c.: since ca. 1939. (B., 1953.)

rockier, n. A devotee of rock-and-roll: since ca. 1959; by 1966, ob.—2. A youthful motor-cyclist given to ‘rocking’ his machine as he rides and aspiring to be a ‘ton-up’ boy, doing 100 miles an hour: since ca. 1960.—3. Hence, a leather-jacketed non-surfer, esp. one of the Rockers gang; ‘a youth who would formerly have been a motor-bike fiend’ (B.P.): Sydney teenagers’: ‘not heard before 1962’.

rockier.—2. Hence, to understand: C. 20. Pugh (2), “‘An’ I must have ’em to go away with. Rokker?” “‘Yes, Chick,” she faltered.’ Ex Romany.

Rockers and Mods (both rare in singular). ‘Teenagers today are split into two fairly even factions—the Rockers and the Mods. Their difference is simple: Mods are the fashion-conscious, with-it teenagers; Rockers are the old-fashioned, ton-up kids who think more of motor-bikes than themselves. Their only link lines are pop music and the fact that they are both young’ rocket. A severe reprimand (stronger than raspberry, 4, above): Army officers': since ca. 1934. 'To stop a rocket—receive a reprimand,' The New Statesman, Aug. 30, 1941; 'An exceptionally severe one is either an imperial rocket or an outside in rockets,' E.P. in The New Statesman, Aug. 1, 1942; by late 1941, in fairly gen. use in the R.A.F. also—witness Jackson; and by 1942, in the Navy—witness Granville. It blows the recipient sky-high. Whence the variant pyro-technic.

(Cathy McGowan's article 'Rockers and Mods' in TV Times, Nov. 29, 1963): since ca. 1960. The Rockers 'rock' their machines; the Mods tend to ride motor-scooters.

rocking horse. An 'oscillating guards van' (Railway): railwaymen's: late C. 19–20.

rocks.—2. Short for rock of ages, 1 (p. 702): C. 20.—3. Teeth: C. 20.

rocks, on the. (Of a strong drink) 'without water or soda, but simply poured over the rocks (lumps of ice)': Canadian: adopted, ca. 1945, ex U.S.; by 1958, also fairly general English. (Leechman.)

rocky, n. (p. 703). Granville, however, defines rockies as 'R.N.R., or R.N.V.R. officers' and implies that in both nuances the word was still current in 1945; it still is extant.—2. A rock wallaby: Australian: C. 20; by 1950, coll. (Jean Devanney, Travels in North Queensland, 1951.)—3. A rockmelon: Aus.: C. 20. (B., 1959.)

rod, n.—3. A revolver: c.: anglicised ca. 1931 ex U.S. The Pawnshop Murder. For American usage, see Underworld.—4. An overcoat or macintosh: c.: C. 20. In, e.g., F. D. Sharpe, The Flying Squad, 1938. Perhaps ex rock-a-low (Dict.).

rod in pickle.—2. A good horse that is being either reserved or nursed for a sure win: Australian sporting: since ca. 1930. (Lawson Glassop, 1949.)

Rodney (p. 703). A coll. until ca. 1905 or 1910; it occurs in, e.g., Jerome Caminada, Detective Life, 1895.—2. A South Wales railwaymen's nickname 'for last Saturday night trains from Newport and Cardiff for valley destination' (Railway 2nd): C. 20.

Rod's. Harrod's (London): Londoners': since ca. 1945. Cf. Fred's.

roger! or wilco! All right!; O.K.!: R.A.F. coll.: since ca. 1938. Strictly, the latter complements the former. From Roger?, All right?, and Wilco (Message understood and) will comply.

roger, v. (p. 703), goes back to well before 1750. In The Secret Diary of William Byrd of Westover, 1709–1712, ed. by L. B. Wright and M. Tinling, 1941 (Richmond, Virginia), this gentleman of Virginia was using roger for all his sexual relations with his wife, e.g. 'I rogered her lustily' (Dec. 26, 1711) and 'I lay abed till 9 o'clock this morning . . . and rogered her by way of reconciliation' (Jan. 1, 1712). With thanks to an American scholar.

Roger the Lodger. A c.p. directed at, or alluding to, a male lodger that makes love to the mistress of the house or apartment: since ca. 1925. Gerald Kersh, Clean, Bright and Slightly Oiled, 1946, "Proper bloody Bluebeard." "Henry the Eighth," said Knocker White. "Roger the Lodger," said the Sergeant. "Breaking up homes," said the man in the next bed." Roger, because it rhymes with 'lodger'; there is, moreover, a pun on roger, n., 5, and v. (see p. 703).

roglan. A four-wheeled vehicle: Shelta: C. 18–20. B. & L.

rogue, n.—2. Short for rogue and villain (p. 703): Cockney and Australian: late C. 19–20.

rogue an' Dillon. A shilling: rhyming s.: late C. 19–20. Cf. rogue and villain (Dict.).

[Rogues and Beggars in C. 18. Ned Ward, during the period 1700–24, has the following terms. Beggars are clapperdudgeons (1709), mumpers (1703) or mumps (1709), and strol[lers] (1709). Sodomites are boretto-men (1703), buggerantoes (1703), Mollies (1709), and town-shifts (1709). Highwaymen are Gentlemen Outers (1709), light horse (1700) and pads and wods (1709, in The Secret History of Clubs; the phrase is not very satisfactory). Cut-purses are clippers* or gentlemen of the nig (1709); pickpockets, divers (1709). Rogues of various kinds are canary-birds (1703), dark engineers (1703; prob. a nonce-phrase), Newgate birds (1709), and the sharpening tribe (coll. rather than s.; 1717). Dirty ruffians are clip-nits* (1703). Various names for confidence-tricksters are cadator, sweetner, tongue-pad (1703, all three). Certain touts are Long-Lane clickers (1703). Horse-thieves are, in 1709, termed snaffle-biters. Matthews.]

rogue's yarn. 'Coloured thread found in the heart of government rope to prevent its being stolen' (Granville): Naval coll.: mid-C. 19–20. Rather does it date from very early C. 19, for it occurs in W. N. Glascock, Sketch-Book (II, 41), 1826. Moe.

roll, n., 2 (Dict.). This dates from at least as early as 1870 and occurs esp. in the phrase, have a roll on.—3. A fight: Naval: since mid 1940's.—4. Esp. in have a roll, to coit: since ca. 1950 (? rather since ca. 1920). Perhaps ex roll in the hay below.

roll, v.—2. To rob (a drunken person): nautical: since ca. 1810. Alfred Burton, Johnny Newcome, 1818. (Moe.) The word passed to the U.S. and became an underworld term; and, as c., was adopted, ca. 1920, in Australia. (B., 1942.)—3. To walk, stroll: Marlborough College: since ca. 1925.

roll!, go and have a. Go to the devil!: Australian: C. 20. B., 1942.

roll and rind. Bread and cheese: Australian hotel staffs': C. 20. B., 1942.

roll big enough to choke a bullock, a—a roll Jack Rice couldn't jump over—a roll that would choke an anteater; also a wad that would choke a wombat. A very large roll of money: Aus.: since ca. 1945. (B., 1959.)

roll, bowl, or pitch. Despite all obstacles: coll.: from ca. 1910. Peter Chamberlain, 'Whatever happens, roll, bowl, or pitch.' Cf. S.E. rain or shine. Immediately ex the coconut-shy pitch-holders' patter: 'Three balls a penny—roll, bowl, or pitch' (as Dr Leechman has reminded me).—The nuance is rather that of 'Come what may!'

roll 'em! Start filming: cinema: since ca. 1925. The Evening News, Nov. 7, 1939.

roll in the hay, n. A little love-making: C. 20: orig. rural, then loosely general.

roll-me-in-the-kennel. A spirituous liquor (? gin): ca. 1720–50. See quotation at bunter's tea.

roll on Death, Demob's too far away. A self-explanatory R.A.F. c.p. since ca. 1950.

roll on my bloody twelve (pause after 'on'). A Naval (lower-deck) c.p., indicative of the active-service ratings' longing that their twelve years of service should come to an end: C. 20. Granville. Cf. roll on . . . (p. 704) and roll on that boat. In full, I heard the voice of Moses say, Roll on . . . (P-G-R.)

roll on, pay-day! A workmen's c.p., uttered by one almost 'broke': since 1919. A c.p. also used by those who, 'fed up' with their job, are looking forward to the week-end: since ca. 1925.

roll on that boat (with a decided pause after 'on'). An R.A.F. overseas c.p. indicative of tedium and homesickness: since ca. 1925. Gerald Emanuel, letter of March 29, 1945, 'Also abbreviated to "roll on" and "R.O.T.F.B." The boat, by the way, has a name—it's "the good ship Tora Peechy" (from Hindustani "a little later").'

roll one's own. To make extemporaneously: Australian: since ca. 1930. Ex roll one's own cigarettes. (B.P.)

roll them in the aisle(s). Applied to a comedian that has his audience (them) roll, helpless with laughter, in the aisle(s)—or are in danger of doing so: theatrical, including music-hall: since ca. 1920.

roll(-)up, n.—4. A hand-rolled cigarette: since ca. 1920. (Norman.) Earlier in Paul Tempest, Lag's Lexicon, 1950.—5. Attendance, number of persons present: coll.: C. 20. Ex sense 2 on p. 704.—6. 'The roll-ups are those [customers] who have found the genuineness of the goods and walk into the "shop" for repeats' (W. Buchanan-Taylor, Shake It Again, 1943): fair-grounds': since ca. 1910. Cf. sense 2 on p. 704.

roll up, v.—3. To die: low: C. 20. Richard Llewellyn, None But the Lonely Heart, 1943.

roller skate. See 'Hauliers' Slang'.

roller skates. A tank, or tanks: R.A.F.: 1940 +. The Reader's Digest, Feb. 1941, Allan A. Michie & Isabel Waitt, 'Air Slangage'. To the airmen overhead, a tank looks as if it moved on roller skates.

rolley. A vehicle: catachrestic: from ca. 1865. B. & L. In S.E. rolley = rulley, a lorry. It perhaps blends roll and trolley, as Julian Franklyn has proposed.

rollick. To make much fuss; become angry: Londoners': from ca. 1925.—2. As v.t., to 'tell off'; usually as vbl n., rollicking: low: since ca. 1920. F. D. Sharpe, The Flying Squad, 1938. It rhymes ballock, v.

rollies, with the o either long or short. Testicles: low: since ca. 1930. Ex (Tommy) Rollocks.

rolling billow. A pillow: rhyming s.: late C. 19–20; by 1960, ob. Franklyn 2nd.

rolling Joe. A smartly dressed fellow: app. ca. 1830–90. B. & L. Cf. rolling, 1 (Dict.).

Rolling Motion Square. 'A square in Lisbon paved in alternate wavy lines of black and white cobbles. In walking across it one got the illusion of a rolling motion and it was said that it made some people feel sea-sick. I am told that it has long since been re-paved with concrete.' (Andrew Haggard, Jan. 28, 1947.) 'I was once told that it presented an almost impossible situation to any pedestrian with a few drinks aboard' (Leechman, April 1967).

rollocks. See Tommy Rollocks.

Rolls. A Rolls-Royce car: motorists' coll.: since ca. 1925.

Rolls-can-hardly. An old car: Australian youthful car-owners': since ca. 1950. 'Rolls down a hill but can hardly get up the next.' Youthful Australian car-owners' synonyms: bomb (ironic), jalop(p)y, tin-bitser. (B.P.)

Rolls Royce, adj. 'Fancy'; expecting too much: Naval (esp. ward-room) coll.: since ca. 1918. 'A bit Rolls Royce in his ideas.'

Rolls Royce, n. Voice, esp. a very good one: theatrical rhyming s.; C. 20. (Franklyn, Rhyming.)

Rolly. A Rollicord or Rolliflex camera: photographers': since ca. 1945.

roly-poly.—4. 'Miles of buckbrush or "rolypoly", cursed in the sheep country as a pest, but here [in Central Australia] regarded by the cattlemen as good cattle and camel feed,' Archer Russell, A Tramp Royal, 1934: late C. 19–20. Ex appearance.

rom.—3. A radar operator mechanic: R.A.F.: 1943 +. Sgt Gerald Emanuel, March 29, 1945. Ex the abbr. R.O.M. more fully R. Op/Mech.

Roman, the. Romano, proprietor of Romano's Restaurant (London): mostly Society: late C. 19–early 20.

Roman Candle. A Roman Catholic: mostly Army: late C. 19–20. Gerald Kersh, Boots Clean, 1941. Ex the use of candles.

Roman(-)candle landing; Roman candles. A bad landing (R.A.F., since ca. 1938: Jackson); a parachutist's fall to earth when his parachute has failed to open (paratroopers', since 1941: H. & P.). Ex the stars one sees on impact. Perhaps also ex the rapid fall of debris from fireworks of the rocket type.

romance. A person obviously in love: from ca. 1926. Ex influence of the cinema.

Rommel back another ten miles, that'll push or that's pushed. A c.p. of 1941–2, thus 'When in North Africa there was some extra bit of red tape or regimental procedure, we always used to say: "And that's pushed Rommel back another ten miles". Everybody said . . . "That'll push Rommel back another ten miles,"' Gerald Kersh, Slightly Oiled, 1946.

romp, n. A little light-hearted love-making: coll.: adopted, ca. 1945, ex U.S. Cf. roll in the hay above, whence the blend romp in the hay: since ca. 1950.

rompworthy. (Of a woman) sexually desirable: upper- and middle-class coll.: since ca. 1935. Cf. bedworthy.

Ronson. A 'ponce': very imperfect rhyming s., and showing the influence of high-powered advertising: since ca. 1954. (Franklyn, Rhyming.)

'roo, 2 (p. 705). This coll. occurs also as an adj.: late C. 19–20. 'A lump of 'roo steak,' K. S. Prichard, Working Bullocks, 1929; 'I know some good 'roo country,' Jon Cleary, Back of Sunset, 1959.

'roo, v.i. To hunt kangaroos: Australian coll.: C. 20. Hence the vbl n. 'rooing. (K. S. Prichard, Kiss on the Lips, 1932.)

roof!, come off the. A non-aristocratic c.p. addressed to a person being high and mighty: from ca. 1890; ob. W. Pett Ridge, Minor Dialogues, 1895.

roof-spotter, usually in pl. An observer posted on a roof to watch for enemy aircraft: an All-Services and Civil Defence coll.: 1939–45. (P-G-R.)

roofer.—2. A hat: Australian: since ca. 1920. B., 1942. Cf. tile (Dict.).—3. (Orig., hospitable roofer.) A letter of thanks to one's host or hostess or both, after staying with them: mostly at the Universities of Oxford and Cambridge: since ca. 1925. By 'the Oxford -er' ex roof (over one's head).

rook, n.—5. A recruit: Regular Army: C. 20. Gerald Kersh, Boots Clean, 1941. Ex rookie (p. 705).—6. A swindle: Australian: late C. 19–20. Ruth Park, The Harp in the South, 1948. Cf. sense 2: p. 705.

rooker. A dagga-smoker: South African c.: C. 20. Afrikaans (lit., 'smeller').

rookette. A female recruit: Services: 1940 +. Partridge, 1945. Never much used. Ex rook(e)y (p. 705).

rooky. For the n., see rookie (Dict.).—2. Adj., rascally: proletarian: from ca. 1860. B. & L.

room for a small one? See is there room . . .

roon; though rare in singular. A mushroom: tramps' c.: late C. 19–20. W. L. Gibson Cowan, Load Report, 1937. By perversion of Kentish 'room'.

Rooshians. See Russians.

roost, n., 2 (p. 705). Much earlier in The London Guide, 1818.—3. A city-dweller affecting a hyphenated name was, in the 1890's, stigmatised by the country-dweller thus: Robb-Smith became Roost-Smith; Carter-Jones became Roost-Jones; and so forth. B., 1942.

rooster.—5. Penis: low: C. 19–20. Orig. euphemistic for cock. Contrast sense 1 in Dict.—6. A roster: Services: late C. 19–20. (P-G-R.)

rooster tail. 'Wake of a board' (Pix, Sept. 28, 1963): Australian surfboard riders': since ca. 1961.

root, v.—2. (Of the male) to coït with: low Australian: C. 20. Ex root, n., 2 and 3, on p. 705.—3. 'To outwit, baffle, exhaust, utterly confound (someone)': Aus.: since ca. 1930. Baker, The Drum, 1959, adds: 'Whence, to be rooted, to be exhausted or confounded; get rooted!, Go to blazes!' This latter expression, however, derives more likely from sense 2. Cf. get stuffed!; get joined!

root for. To support ardently and esp. vocally: Australian—adopted, ca. 1945, ex U.S.—but not common: root, v., 2, inhibits general use of root for. (B.P.)

roots. Short for daisy roots (p. 205): Australian: C. 20. B., 1942. The Cockney shortening is daisies.

rooty medal. See rooty gong (Dict.). Both of them were adopted ca. 1919 by the R.A.F.; cf. Naffy gong.

rooty-toot. See 'Jive'.

ropable. See ropeable in Dict. and below.

rope, have two penn'orth of. See twopenny-rope in Dict.

rope-yarn Thursday. 'The original "make, and mend" day' (Granville): Naval coll.: late C. 19–20.

ropeable! In 'Tom Collins', Such is Life, 1903. Its predominant nuance is 'almost frantic with rage' (H. J. Oliver, July 1937—see Bovril). See fit to be tied above.

ropes. One who plays at half-back in football: schoolboys': from ca. 1880; ob. B. & L.

ropey. (Of a person) inefficient or dilatory or careless of appearance; (of an action, etc.) clumsy or inefficient; (of things, e.g. an aircraft, a meal) inferior: R.A.F.: since ca. 1930. H. & P.; Jackson; Partridge, 1945, 'Perhaps from rope-like smell of inferior tobacco; perhaps'—more prob., indeed—'from certain obsolete types of aircraft that carried an excess—or what seemed an excess—of ropes'.—2. (Whence, probably, sense 1.) Applied to 'paint drying out with a rope-like appearance' (a master builder, Dec. 5, 1953): builders' and house-painters' coll.: late C. 19–20.—3. Generally disliked; unpopular: Australian airmen's: since ca. 1939. (B., 1943.) Ex sense 1.—4. 'This is in current use among beatniks and teenagers, and any smelly member of a gang is called "ropey"' (A. B. Petch, April 1966): since ca. 1960. Ex sense 1 above.

rork (or rorke), rorker. A town boy, a 'cad': Tonbridge: since ca. 1870. Marples. Perhaps ex raw.

rort, n. A dodge, trick, scheme, racket: Australian c.: since ca. 1910. B., 1942.—2. A crowd; hence, showmen's patter: Australian low: since ca. 1912. Baker.—3. Something exceptionally good: Australian: since ca. 1920.—4. A wild party: Australian: since ca. 1930. Ex senses 2 and 3. (B.P.) Often 'a real rort', which leads B.P. to suggest that this sense may have been influenced by the almost synonymous riot ('The party was a riot').

rort, v. 'To be loudly argumentative' (Granville): Naval: C. 20. Cf. rorty, 1, 3 (Dict.).

rorter. A professional windler: Australian c.: since ca. 1910. Baker. Ex rort, n., 1.—2. Hence a hawk of worthless goods: since ca. 1912.—3. Variant of rort, n., 3.

rorting. Confidence trickery: Australian c.: since ca. 1910. Baker. Ex rort, n., 1.—2. Hence, sharp practice: low: since ca. 1920.

rorty is derived by B. & L. ex Yiddish rorität, anything choice.—4. (Cf. sense 3.) 'Noisily drunk and argumentative' (Granville): Naval: C. 20.

rory, on the. Penniless: low: C. 20. F. D. Sharpe, The Flying Squad, 1938. I.e. Rory o' More, floor.—2. (Of a horse) fallen: racecourse rhyming s.: C. 20. Lit., 'on the floor'—rhyming s. Rory o' More.

Rory o' More.—4. See preceding.

rosaries all the way. A c.p. reference—when used by Protestants, as usually, it is disparaging—to Catholic processions: C. 20. A pun on S.E. roses all the way strewn at a triumphal procession. (A. B. Petch, April 1966.)

Rose Cottage. The V.D. quarters: Naval: C. 20.

rose in judgment. Turned up: tailors': from ca. 1860. B. & L.

rosebud. Mouth: Cockneys': late C. 19–20. Pugh.

rosella.—2. In Australia and New Zealand, since ca. 1910, it has been sheep-shearing s. for 'a sheep bare of wool on the "points" (hocks, head, foreleg, etc.) and consequently very easy to shear,' Niall Alexander, communication of Oct. 22, 1939.—3. A Staff officer: Australian soldiers': 1939 +. B., 1942. Ex his red tabs.—4. Hence, any high-ranking officer: Sincro ca. 1942. (B., 1953).—5. 'A customer whose hair is easy to cut because of his partial baldness' (B.P.): Australian barbers': since ca. 1930. Partly ex sense 2.

Rosemary Lane to a rag shop. Heavy odds: coll.: ca. 1810–90. Boziana, III, 1821.

Roses. Ordinary stock in the Buenos Aires & Rosario Railway: Stock Exchange: from ca. 1885. B. & L.

roses. A woman's period: Anglo-Irish: late (? mid) C. 19-20. James Joyce, Ulysses, 1920, 'Such a bad headache. Has her roses probably.' (Cf. flowers on p. 289, and esp. reds, 2, on p. 693; link. 'red roses'.

rosin, 2 (p. 707). Much earlier in Select Trials, from 1720 to 1724, pub. in 1734: 'Strong drink. A metaphor first used among Fiddlers'.

rosin-back. A horse that has had its back rubbed with rosin in order to ensure a firmer seat for the bareback rider: circus coll.: late C. 19-20. (C. B. Cochran, Showman Looks On, 1945.)

rosiner or rosner or rozner. A very stiff drink with a hell of a kick: Australian: since ca. 1930. (H. Drake Brockman, The Fatal Days, 1947.) Cf. preceding, but esp. cf. rosin, 2, on p. 707.

rosy.—5. A (large) garbage-bin: ships' stewards: C. 20. Dave Marlow, Coming Sirl, 1937. Ironically ex 'A rose by any other name would smell as sweet'.

Rosy Lee (p. 707). Now (1960) used mostly in Dublin, as Franklyn, Rhyming, informs us. Also of course, Rosie Lee or, of course, Lea.—2. (Or Rosy Lea.) A flea: rhymings.: C. 20. (Sydney Lester.)

Rosy (or Rosie) Loader or Loder. Whisky and soda: rhyming s.: C. 20. (Franklyn, Rhyming.)

rotary hoe, often shortened to rotary. A jocular variant of righty-o (or rightio): Australian: ca. 1960-5. (B.P.)

rots battleships, it; it rots your socks. Water, as opposed to beer, is harmful: public-house c.pp.: C. 20. (Atkinson.)

rotten.—3. (Of impression) weak; uneven: printers': from ca. 1870. B. & L.

Sense 2 has been adopted by Australians—cf. the next entry.

rotten, get. To get very drunk indeed: Australian: since ca. 1930. B., 1942. Ex rotten, 2 (p. 707).

Rotten Irish Rag-Times. The Royal Irish Regiment: Army: since ca. 1912; † by 1940.

Rotten Mess, the. That mess in which the venereals are quartered, on most ships No. 1 Mess: Naval: since ca. 1910. Rotten with disease.

Rotten Row.—3. (Cf. 1.) 'A line of ships waiting their turn to be broken up': Naval: C. 20. Granville.

2 (p. 707): † by 1960. (Franklyn 2nd.) Sense 3 existed nearly a century earlier, to judge by W. N. Glascock, Sailors and Saints (II, 75), 1829, thus, 'I should be cursed sorry to see our men-o'-war dismantled, and laid up in Rotten Row'. (Moe.)

rotter (Dict.) may orig. have been U.S., for it appears in Jonas B. Phillips, Jack Sheppard; or, The Life of a Rotter, 1839 (New York).—2. 'An expert or adept at any study or task' (B., 1943): Australian: since ca. 1930. Ironically ex sense 1.

Rotters' Rest, the. C. 20 Public School s., as in Arnold Lunn, Loose Ends, 1919: 'He was assigned to "Lower Field", a game [of football] more usually known as "The Rotters' Rest".'

rotto. Rotten: Anglo-Irish: C. 20. James Joyce, Ulysses, 1922, 'The father is rotto with money.' Cf. lousy—or stinking—with money.

roue is an occ. late C. 18—early 19 variant of row (n., 1: Dict.). H., 2nd ed.

rouf (p. 708). Earlier in Mayhew, I, 1851, where also rouf yenep, fourpence.—2. Hence a four-years' prison-sentence or -term: c.: late C. 19-20. (Norman).—3. The sum of four shillings: London's East End: since ca. 1945. (The Evening News, Nov. 12, 1957.)

rouge, n. A force-down in Rugby football: London schools': ca. 1875-1900. Pun on rough?

rouge route, the. The 'red light' district of London: Londoners': ca. 1660-1700. William Boghurst's contemporary account of the Great Plague of London, in Payne's edition, 1894. The term shows the French influence of the Restoration Court.

rough, n.—2. Hence, an N.C.O. riding instructor: Royal Artillery: C. 20.—3. Short for rough stuff, esp. in cut the rough stuff: Australian: since ca. 1925.

rough, v. To manhandle: Australian: since ca. 1925. D'Arcy Niland, Call Me . . ., 1958, 'They grabbed Shelton and roughed him outside into the rising wind.'

rough, a bit. Unfair, unreasonable; extortionate: Australian coll.: C. 20. (B., 1943.)

rough, feel. See feel rough.

rough as a bag or rough as a pig's breakfast. Uncouth: New Zealand and Australian: C. 20. B., 1941 and 1942. Cf. rough as . . ., p. 708.

rough as a goat's knees. Exceedingly rough: Aus.: C. 20.

rough-knot. A Marine: Naval: ca. 1780-1850. John Davis, The Post Captain, 1806 (p. 146 of the 1810 edition); W. N. Glascock, Sailors and Saints (I, 213), 1829. Moe.

rough neck.—2. Hence, one who, in a carnival, does the rough work: Canadian carnival s.: C. 20.—3. An oil-rig crewman: since ca. 1920.

rough off (a horse). To break-in without troubling about 'the fancy stuff', esp. for station work: Australian rural coll.: late C. 19-20. B., 1942.

rough on, 2 (p. 708). Recorded in Australia in 1878. Sidney J. Baker, letter.

rough on rats (p. 708). There was once a rat-poison called 'Rough on Rats'.

rough ride. To ride an unbroken horse; hence, to domineer over a person: Australian coll.: resp., late C. 19-20 and since ca. 1910. (B., 1943.)

rough spin. See raw deal above.

rough stuff. See rough, n., 2 and cut the rough stuff.

rough trade, the. The underworld of homosexual practices, esp. of homosexual prostitutes: low: since ca. 1950. Evening Standard, July 12, 1967, in a short review of Richard Chopping's novel, The Ring.

rough 'un. (A 'bed' in) an improvised shelter: tramps' c.: C. 20. W. A. Gape, Half a Million Tramps, 1936.

rough-up.—3. A violent quarrel, a 'free for all': since ca. 1890. Sessions, June 22, 1896, 'There was a little rough-up, and I found myself stabbed in the arm.' In C. 20, also Australian: B., 1942.

roughers. A rough sea: Naval (mostly officers'): since ca. 1920. Occasionally personified as Harry Roughers: since ca. 1925. By 'the Oxford -er'.

roughing (Dict.) is interrupting a lecturer by rubbing the boot soles on the floor, as in a sand-dance. It carries no suggestion of physical violence.

roughneck. See rough neck (Dict.).

roughriding. See bareback riding.

roughy.—2. Esp. in put a roughy over, to 'pull a fast one on', to impose upon, to trick: Australian: C. 20. Kylie Tennant, The Battlers, 1941, in form roughie.—3. A story hard to believe: Australian (roughie): since ca. 1920. B.P.

round, adj.—2. (Of paint) needing to be thinned: builders' and house-painters': C. 20. Perhaps cf. Cumberland dial. round, coarse, thick.

round for on (preposition) is a characteristic of Cockney speech: coll.: mid-C. 19–20. Edwin Pugh, Harry the Cockney, 1912, "If you don't gimme a bit . . . I shall punch you round the jaw." Cf. wipe round, q.v. below.

round box. An ephemeral variant (1957–58) of square, n., 6: Teddy boys'. (Gilderdale, 2.)

round heels, she has or she's got. She's sexually compliant: Canadian: since ca. 1925. A girl with heels so round that the least push will put her on her back.

round me houses, careless—indeed, incorrect—for round the houses (p. 709). Franklyn, Rhyming.

round shot. Peas: Services (mostly Army): C. 20. H. & P. Cf. bullet, 3.

round square. See crooked straight-edge.

round the bend (p. 709): much used in the R.A.F. in 1939–45. (Robert Hinde, March 17, 1945.) It has since become much more general; quite common, indeed, among civilians. In 1957 the intensive round the bend—and back again was coined. Ex Harpic, a water-closet cleanser, advertised to '(clean) round the bend', whence the variant clean round the bend. Cf. Harpic. It has, since ca. 1957, had a second intensive: round the bend—and half-way down the straight, and also an occ. variant, round the twist (ca. 1957–63).

Round the Corner Smith. Sir C. Aubrey Smith (b. 1863), Cambridge and Sussex cricketer (1880's and 1890's) and, since 1930, G.O.M. of the films: cricketers': since ca. 1884. Ex 'his unusual run up to the wicket' (Sir Home Gordon, The Background of Cricket, 1939).

round the houses (p. 709). Earlier in Augustus Mawhew, Paved With Gold, 1857.—2. See 'Hauliers' Slang'.

round up, as in 'We'll try to round up a few males' or even 'some drinks': Australian coll.: C. 20. Ex cattle droving. (B.P.) But also Canadian—see corral above.

roundabout. See round-about (Dict.).

rounder.—3. A return journey: busmen's: since ca. 1920.

Roundheads and Cavaliers. The circumcised and the uncircumcised: Naval: C. 20.

roundhouse rangers. Fish that swim about the stern of a ship: Naval: C. 20. (P-G-R.)

roundyard. A harness cask: Australian rural: late C. 19–20. B., 1942.

rouse on; get roused on. To upbraid (someone); to reprove (him) forcibly: Aus.: C. 20. (B., 1959.) Cf. rouse, 2 and 3, on p. 709.

rouseabout. A member of the ground staff: Australian airmen's: 1939–45. (B., 1943.) Cf. roustabout on p. 709.

rouser.—3. A spring tonic, usually of shot-gun type: Eastern Canada: from before 1875' (Leechman).

rousie. A roustabout, or handy man at a shearing: Aus.: since ca. 1930. (F. B. Vickers, First Place to the Stranger, 1955 (p. 135).

roust on. Variant of rouse on above.

row, n. (p. 709). Sense 1 may orig. have been c., for it occurs in John Poulter, Discoveries, 1753.

row oneself on to (a person or a group). To attach oneself to: low: since ca. 1940. (Norman.) rowdy, money (in Dict.). A reviewer has recalled 'Thackeray's (and C. Bede's) famous banking firm, Messrs Stump and Rowdy.'

rowing man. A spreester, fast liver: University: ca. 1875–1910. B. & L. Ex row, v., 2 and 3 (Dict.).

rows, the. The rows of hovels in the miners' section of a mining town: miners' (and their families') coll.: since ca. 1870. 'North Country miners call them raas' (A. B. Petch, Sept. 5, 1946).

roy. A townee, a 'cad': Christ's Hospital: since ca. 1870; ob. Marples. Ex raucus?

royal, adj.—2. Topsy; hence, royal row, a drunken quarrel or brawl: Naval, mostly ratings': ca. 1805–60. Wm Nugent Glascock, The Naval Sketch-Book, 2nd Series, 1834, at II, 142, 'In course you knows it's never no more nor [= than] a reg'lar royal row . . . for I never gets royal myself, that I doesn't reg'larly get in a row'. (Moe.) Ex sense 1 on p. 709.

Royal Billy, The. 'The Royal William, said to have been 100 years old when broken up' (W. N. Glascock, Sketch-Book, 2nd Series, 1834, at II, 73): Naval: mid C. 18—early 19. Even earlier in Fredk Marryat, Frank Mildmay, 1829. (Moe.)

Royal Hearse Artillery. The gun support company of 2 Corps Reinforcement Unit: Army in North Africa: middle of World War II. A pun on horse. (P-G-R.)

Royal Light Foot, the. The Royal Marine Light Infantry: jocular Naval: mid-C. 19—early 20.

royal mail (or capitals). Bail (legal): rhyming s., orig. and still mostly underworld: C. 20. Franklyn 2nd.

royal order, the. Dismissal, e.g. from a job: mostly Australian: since ca. 1925. (B.P.) Ex the phrases noted at order of the . . . on p. 591.

Royal Repose, the. The Queen's Bench Prison: ca. 1837–80. G. W. M. Reynolds, Pickwick Abroad, 1839.

royal salute. 21 in the game of House: not Naval only: C. 20. Michael Harrison, Reported Safe Arrival, 1943. The Royal Salute is that from 21 guns.

Royal Sluice. Deuce; a Jack in cards: Australian rhyming s. (ex the famous Australian comedian, Harry Van der Sluys): since ca. 1940. (B., 1945.)

Royal Yachtsmen. Personnel serving in the Royal Yacht: Naval (mostly officers'): since ca. 1920.

Royalie (or -y) or r. An effeminate; esp., a catamite: Australian: C. 20; by 1944, ob.; by 1946, †. Ex Rosalie? Rather ex 'royal quean', with pun on 'royal queen', as a friend has suggested.

royallers. See lawners.

royals. Regular hands where the labour is mainly casual, orig. and esp. in shipyards: coll.: late C. 19–20. Ex Royal Naval Shipyard.—2. Always the Royals (or royals): members of the Royal Family of Britain, or of the royal families of the Continent: since ca. 1950: orig., sophisticated and upper-middle class s.; then, by the late 1950's, journalistic coll.; then, by 1960, fairly gen. coll.

roziner. Variant of rosiner above.

rozner. See rosner.

rub, n.—3. (Prob. ex sense 2: p. 710.) 'If a sailor wants to borrow his pal's brilliantine, he asks for a "rub" of it. A rub = "a loan" in the Navy, Granville: C. 20.—4. 'The rub is [a] cleaner or stain-remover' (W. Buchanan-Taylor, Shake It Again, 1943): fair-grounds': C. 20.

rub-a. Short for rub-a-dub, 2, public-house (p. 710): late C. 19–20. Sydney Lester.

rub-a-dub-dub (p. 710) is occasionally rub-a-di-dub.—2. A night club: rhyming s.: since ca. 1920.

—3. A public-house: rhyming s.: since ca. 1925. (Nos. 2 and 3: Franklyn, Rhyming.)

rub-belly. Coition: low coll.: C. 18–20.

rub off on. (Esp. of money or good luck) to come one's way: since early 1950's. 'The lucky devil! Just come into a packet of money.'—'Wish some of it would rub off on me!'

rub on. To make do, 'rub along': coll.: ca. 1870–1910. Sessions, Sept. 18, 1893.

rub-out.—2. To eut (a pattern): tailors': mid-C. 19–20. B. & L.—3. To disbar (person or horse): Australian coll.: C. 20. B., 1942.—4. To dismiss (a suggestion): Australian coll.: since ca. 1920. Baker.

rub-up, n.—2. A refresher course in a subject: Naval coll.: C. 20. Granville. With corresponding v.

rubbed down with the book (or B.), be. To be sworn on the Bible: London proletarian: from ca. 1880. Nevinston, 1895.

rubber, n.—3. A condom: low coll.: C. 20. Cf. sense 1.

rubber or rubber at. To gape (or stare) at: adopted ca. 1942 from U.S. Ex rubber-neck, v. (p. 711).

rubber cheque. A worthless cheque: adopted, ca. 1935, ex U.S.: by 1960, coll. It 'bounces'—like a rubber ball.

rubber firm. A mess-deck group of money-lenders: Naval lower-deck: since ca. 1925. Wilfred Granville, Sea Slang of the 20th Century, 1949. Ex rub, n., 2.

rubber hammer. See crooked straight-edge.

rubber heels. Long-range gun-shells: Army: 1917–18. One heard them—when they had arrived.—2. Hard fried eggs: Services: since ca. 1920. H. & P. The form rubbers denotes simply 'eggs' (P-G-R.)

rubber knackers. An impudent man: low: C. 20.

rubberdy or rubbity or rubby. A public-house: Australian low: since ca. 1920. B., 1942, 'Rhyming slang on "rub-a-dub-dub" for "pub".' In full, rubberdy—usually rubbity—dub. (Culotta.)

rubberneck car. An observation car: Canadian railroadmen's (—1931). Ex rubber neck (p. 710, at foot). Originally U.S.

rubbish, v. To tease; to criticize adversely, to carp at: Australian: since ca. 1925. Ex 'treat as rubbish' and 'say rubbish about'.—2. Mostly in passive, as 'Tho fate the board rider dreads is the "wipe out"'. This is when he is "rubbished" or tipped violently off a wave' (Sun-Herald, Sept. 22, 1963), like so much rubbish: Australian surfies', esp. teenagers': since ca. 1961.

rubbling or rubbing. Generic for oils used either medicinally or cosmetically: fair-grounds': C. 20. One *rub*s them in. (W. Buchanan-Taylor, Shake It Again, 1943.)

rubby, n. See prec. entry.

rubby-dub or dubby. A drinker of cheap spirits or wine: low Canadian: since ca. 1920. Originally and properly, a drunkard that drinks rubbing alcohol. (Leechman.) Commoner than the preceding term.

rubby-dubber. An old fellow that follows a carnival for what he can pick up and spends most of his money on drink: Canadian carnival s.: since ca. 1920.

rube.—2. Something exceptionally good or desirable; also as adj., 'fine excellent': Australian: since ca. 1925. B., 1942. Ironical ex sense 1 (p. 711)?

Rubies. Cigarettes of the at one time very widely distributed, free-issue, Ruby Queen brand: Tommies' coll.: 1915–16. (A. B. Petch, April 1966.)

ruby(-)dazzler or as one word. A synonym of rube, n., 2: since ca. 1930. Baker. A blend of rube + bobby-dazzler.

ruby note. A ten-shilling note: c., and low: from ca. 1920. Cf. brown-back.

ruby red (p. 711) was, by 1959, †. Franklyn, Rhyming.

ruby wine. Methylated spirits serving as liquor: c., esp. among tramps: C. 20. W. A. Gape, Half a Million Tramps, 1936.

ruck, n.—3. A heated argument; an angry fuss: low: C. 20. (Norman.) Ex the v., 2 (p. 711). 'Now fairly respectable. Used in a news item in The Daily Telegraph, Oct. 23, 1962. Perhaps ex U.S. ruckus.' (Peter Sanders.)

ruck, v.—3. Hence, to chide, nag at: low London: C. 20. George Ingram, The Muffled Man, 1936.

ruck, come in with the. 'To arrive at the winning-post among the unplaced horses' (B. & L.): turf: from ca. 1860.

ruck along dates from ca. 1890.

ruck on.—2. To go back on; to disown: Cockneys': late C. 19–20. Pugh (2), "'I don't care," said Deuce, defiantly . . . "I ain't goin' to ruck on Dad."' rucking. A severe 'telling off', a reprimand: mostly prisons': C. 20. (Norman.) Ex ruction.

rudder. A quadruped's, esp. a dog's, tail: mostly jocular (cf. stern, backside): C. 20.

rude noise, make a. To break wind: euphemistic: mid-C. 19–20.

Rude to Officers (or in lower case). An Army officers' c.p. concerning an R.T.O. or Railway Transport Officer: from 1915: ob. Blaker.

rudery. A rude remark; risky conversation; amorous gesture or behaviour: middle- and upper-class coll.: since the middle 1920's.—2. Hence, an air raid; a surface attack: Naval: 1939–45. Wilfred Granville, Sea Slang of the 20th Century, 1949.

Ruffin, the. The Bellerophon, a ship of the line: Naval: Napoleonic Wars. (W. N. Glascock, Sketch-Book, I, 1825.) Moe.

ruffmans, sense 1 (p. 712), was recorded by Harman in 1566.

rug. A £1 note: Australian: since ca. 1945. (B., Australia Speaks, 1953.) Semantically cf. rag, n., 3, on p. 683, and rugs made of rags.

rugged. Uncomfortable, characterized by hardship, 'tough': since ca. 1935. News Chronicle, Aug. 30, 1946, 'The first night was a bit rugged'—there being no bed, no conveniences in the hut occupied by 'squatters'. Ex the lit. S.E. rugged, 'rough, craggy'.

rule G. Thou shalt not drink: Canadian railroadmen's (— 1931).

rule over, run the.—2. To examine (someone) medically: coll.: since ca. 1914.—3. To interrogate (a suspect): police: C. 20. (The Free-Lance Writer, April 1948.) See also p. 712.

rules (or Rules). Australian Rules football: Australian coll.: since ca. 1910. (B.P.)

rullock (p. 712) occurs very much earlier in W. N. Glascock, Sketch-Book (I, 193), 1825, and again in The Night Watch, 1828.

rum, adj. See also 'Neither Cricket nor Philology' in A Covey of Partridge.—4. (Ex sense 2: p. 712.) 'A Naval word meaning "bad",' H. & P.: C. 20.

rum booze.—2. 'Flip made of white or port wine, the yolks of eggs, sugar and nutmeg,' Spy, 1825: Oxford University: ca. 1815–50.

rum bosun. He who 'dishes out' the rum: Naval: C. 20. (P-G-R.) Cf. rum fiend.

rum bowling is an incorrect form (as in B. & L.) of rumbowling (Dict.).

rum, bum and bacca. A variant of beer, bum and bacca: nautical: since ca. 1910. A summation of the sailor's pleasures.

Rum Corps, the; the Rum Hospital. The New South Wales Corps; Sydney Hospital: Australian: late C. 18–mid-19, then historical; mid-C. 19–20; but after ca. 1920, only historical. Ex a rum monopoly granted by Governor Lachlan Macquarie. (B.P.)

rum customer (p. 713) was, in the pugilistic circles of ca. 1800–1850, a hard-punching, a skilful, attacking boxer, known also as a swishing hitter. (Moe.)

rum fiend. Such a rum-server as allows rum to drip over the brim of the measure into the 'save-all', the wastage being 'perks': Naval: since ca. 1910. (P-G-R.)

rum go (p. 713): perhaps orig. c.: in Oct. 1783 (Sessions, p. 952), a thief says, 'By God, this is a rum go.'

rum homee (or homer) of the case. See omee (Dict.).

rum rat. 'A rating very fond of his tot, and anyone else's if he can get it' (Granville, Nov. 22, 1962): Naval: since late 1940's.

rum-te-tum. See rumtitum.

rumble, n.—4. A gang fight, often carefully planned and esp. among teenagers: Canadian and Australian teenagers': adopted, ca. 1944, ex U.S. Cf. clash above.

rumble, v., 4. To experience stomachic gurgles, whether audible or inaudible: coll.: late C. 19–20.—5. To disturb, upset, irritate or anger (someone): Army: C. 20; by 1946, ob.

rumble-bumble. A shooting-up of targets on enemy coastline: Coastal Forces: 1940–4. Echoic.

rumble (someone's) bumble and the derivative bumble (someone's) rumble are punning elaborations of run up (someone's) arse, to collide with either a person or a motor-car (etc.): Cambridge undergraduates': ca. 1925–40. In the first phrase bumble elaborates bum, and run is rhymingly perverted to rumble.

rumbler.—4. Prison: low: Australian: ca. 1820–70. Brian Penton, Landtakers, 1934. Per-version of rumbo, n., 2.

rumboile or rumboyle. See romboyle (Dict.).

rumbowling (p. 715), often rumbolin, goes back to very early C. 19: it occurs in, e.g., W. N. Glascock, Sketch-Book, 2nd Series, 1834, at I, 203. (Moe.)

Rumford, or Romford, lion (p. 715): rather, late C. 17–mid-19, for it occurs in B.E., 1699.

rummy (or Jamaica) tea. Tea laced with rum, esp. when the tea has been made with chlorinated water: Tommies': 1915–18. (A. B. Petch, April 1966.)

rumour!, it's a (p. 715). Extant in Australia: B., 1942.

rump-sprung. 'Said of a woman's dress that, through much wear and a good deal of bending, has taken a permanent bulge over the rump. Knitted dresses are especially vulnerable. Canadian coll.: since ca. 1940.' (Leechman.)

Rumpety. A 'Maurice Farman "Shorthorn" aircraft of the Great War' (1914–18): R.F.C. and R.A.F. (Jackson.)

rumpty, adj. Excellent: Australian: since ca. 1910. Baker. Often elaborated to rumptydooler. Ex:

rumtitum (p. 716); often written rum-ti-tum. It survived until early C. 20. Sinks, 1848, has rum ti tum with the chill off (excellent), with a pun on the spirit rum. The term rum-ti-tum is an elaboration of rum-tum, a rhyming reduplication of rum, adj., 1 (p. 712). The Australian rumpty is a corruption of rumti (short for rumtitum).

run, v.—9. To desert (v.i.): Naval: late C. 19–20. Granville. Short for run away.—10. To run a sheep is 'to shear a sheep's fleece near the top, leaving the thick base wool intact' (B., 1959): Aus. rural coll.: late C. 19–20.

run, get the. To be discharged from employment: from ca. 1870. B. & L.

run, give the. To dismiss from employment: since ca. 1875. Prompted by prec. entry.

run, have a.—3. To get drunk; to go absent without leave: Australian Naval: 1939–45. (B., 1943.)—4. To desert ship: Naval: late C. 18–mid-19. (W. N. Glascock, Sketch-Book, II, 1826.) Moe.

run a skirt; frequent also as vbl n., running. . . To have a mistress: C. 20. (W. McFee, North of Suez, 1930.) See run and skirt in the Dict.

run-about.—2. Usually in pl. *run-about*s (or one word), 'cattle allowed to graze freely': Australian coll.: late C. 19–20. (B., 1943.)

run about after (someone's) arse. To be obsequious or subservient to: low: late C. 19–20.

run-around, get or give the. To be treated, to treat, contemptuously or so as to serve a mere whim: Australian: since ca. 1910; by ca. 1945, coll. (B., Australia Speaks, 1953.)

run around like a hoo-hum-hah. To act as if one were hysterical or crazy: smart young set (esp. girls'): ca. 1955–60. Gilderdale, 2.

run away. See toe-bitter.

run big. More precisely, of a horse forced to race when too fat.

run-flat. A tyre that, if punctured, could be run-on flat for half a mile or so: Army coll.: 1939–45. (P-G-R.)

run for one's money, (get) a. 'Modern humorous reference to patent medicines like Kruschen's Salts' (A. B. Petch, Aug. 22, 1946): since ca. 1925.

run-in. Concerning thefts of bulk goods, 'The normal method was to hire a van from a small lorry-owner, run the van to the warehouse, break in, load the van, take the contents to a "run-in"—usually a shed or garage in the central London area—and return the van' (John Gosling, The Ghost Squad, 1959): since ca. 1920: c. >, by 1940, also police s.

run it fine (p. 716). Cf. cut it close, itself perhaps coll.

run off, have a. To urinate: Society and middle-class: since ca. 1930. Cf. the S.E. to run off the bath water and:

run out (at). To come to; to cost: coll., mostly Australian: since ca. 1920. 'How does this run out?'—'It runs out at six shillings a yard.' (B.P.)

run-out, have a. To urinate: C. 20. (Atkinson.)

run out of road. See flatter.

run out on.—2. To leave (someone) in the lurch: coll.: C. 20.

run straight. To remain faithful to one's husband: Society s. (from ca. 1870) >, by 1910, gen. coll. Ex the language of the stable.

run taper. See taper, run.

run the ferret. 'In Severn Tunnel, to descale the water main by inserting small propeller' (Railway): railwaymen's: C. 20.

run the rabbit. To obtain liquor, esp. if illicitly, after hours: Australian low: C. 20. B., 1942.

run the rule over. See rule over.

run up a lane. (Of a horse) to fail to get a place: Australian sporting: since ca. 1935. (B., 1953.) Also run up lanes, as in Lawson Glassop, Lucky Palmer, 1949.

run up (someone's) arse. See rumble (someone's) bumble.

run up the wall; make (someone) . . . To become bewildered or scared or crazy; to cause someone to do so: 1944 +, Army; 1948 +, general. Perhaps ex a famous exercise in Commando training. '(To have someone) climbing walls is a common and by no means new U.S. expression denoting a state of extreme agitation. A cat seeking to escape from an enclosure will do this' (Robert Clairborne, Aug. 31, 1966).

runabouts. 'Cattle allowed to graze freely' (B., 1959): Aus. rural coll.: late C. 19–20.

runcible. (Of women) sexually attractive: since ca. 1925. 'Rhyming' on cuntable; cf. also S.E. runcible spoon.

runner.—6. 'A vehicle that was in running order, as opposed to one that was off the road' (P-G-R): Army coll.: 1939–45. (P-G-R.)—7. A deserter from the Armed Forces: since ca. 1940: orig. and still mainly c. (John Gosling, 1959.) Cf. blower, 9, above.—8. A platform inspector: railwaymen's: C. 20. (Railway.) runners. See pots.

runniel. See rawniel.

running doss; running skipper. That sleeping place which, on a damp night, a tramp obtains by kicking a cow and lying down on the warm, dry spot vacated by the animal: tramps' c.: C. 20.

running rabbit. Any small object hauled along a horizontal wire to enable trainee predictor-layers to get practice in following a target: Anti-Aircraft: 1938 +. H. & P. Ex 'the Dogs'.

running ramp. In The Post Boy robbed of his Mail, anon., 1706, it was—to reconstruct an apparent misprint—defined as 'formed of those Home-Beggars that scout for Weddings and Burials': c.: ? ca. 1700–1760.

running rumble, the. The practice of a 'running rumbler': ca. 1770–1830. B. & L.

running shoes, give (someone) his. To dismiss from office: New Zealand political: C. 20. B., 1941. Cf. run, get the.

running skipper. See running doss.

running writing. Cursive script: Australian schoolchildren's coll.: C. 20. (B.P.)

runny. A coll., dating from ca. 1910, and used as in Victor Canning, Polycarp's Progress, 1935, 'The ices had been runny with the heat.'

runs, the. Diarrhoea: perhaps esp. Australian and New Zealand: late C. 19–20. Ex the frequent and hasty visits to the water-closet.

runty. A dwarf signal: Canadian railroadmen's (— 1931). Adopted from U.S.

ruof.—2. Hence, four shillings: from ca. 1880.

Rupert (p. 717). Also randy Rupert: cf. randy Richard (s.v. Richard, 2: p. 697).—2. Hence, penis: Forces': since ca. 1908.

rush, n., 4, and v., 4. (Of cattle.) A, or to, stampede: Australian coll.: late C. 19–20.

rush, v.—4. See prec. entry.—5. To appropriate: Marlborough College: C. 20. Cf. senses 1, 3, on p. 717.

rush a brew. To make tea: Army officers': 1914–18. See brew, n., 3 (p. 92).

rush of blood to the crutch, a. A sudden access of amorous desire: since ca. 1930. Cf. next two phrases. Also . . . crotch.

rush of brains to the feet. A bright idea: non-aristocratic jocularity: from ca. 1903. W. L. George, The Making of an Englishman, 1914.

rush of brains to the head, (s)he's had a. A c.p., deprecatory of a sudden bright idea: since ca. 1920.

rush of teeth to the head, a. Prominent teeth: facetious: since ca. 1925.

rush the bucket or growler. To send the printer's devil for a bucket of beer: Canadian printers': C. 20. (Leechman.) 'From the "growling" of the beer taps' (Robert Clairborne).

rushed job. A 'short time': low: C. 20.

rusher.—3. One who sets the pace for a gang of workers: Australian Labour: since ca. 1920. B., 1942.—4. A goat much given to butting: Aus.: late C. 19–20. Ex the corresponding v., as in Edward Dyson, The Gold Stealers, 1901, ' . . . Billy's goat, Hector, a sturdy black brute much admired as the most inveterate "rusher" in the country. With the boys of Waddy a goat that butted or "rushed" was highly prized as an animal of spirit.'

rushing round like a . . . See pea in a colander.

Rusk; usu. in pl., the Rusks. The Russians: since ca. 1945. Ex Russki. In, e.g., Berkeley Mather, The Springers, 1968.

Russian duck (p. 718) was † by 1959 at the latest. (Franklyn, Rhyming.)—2. Copulation: low rhyming s.: since ca. 1942. Franklyn 2nd.

Russian Turk. Work: rhyming s.: ca. 1860–1910. (D. W. Barrett, Navvies, 1880.)

Russians or Rooshians. 'Wild horses, wild cattle' (Baker): Australian: late C. 19–20. A particularisation of Russian (p. 717); Rooshian: C. 20 only.

Russki (p. 718) was revived in World War II; again by the Army. (P-G-R.)

Rusty. Inseparable nickname for men surnamed Adams: Services (mostly the Army): C. 20. (P-G-R.)

rusty, adj.—2. Amorous; lecherous: Australian: late C. 19–20. (A. R. L. Wiltshire, letter of June 9, 1941.)

rusty ballocks. A red-headed man: mostly Naval: late C. 19–20.

Rusty Guts. H. M. S. Restiguch: Naval: 1939–45.

rusty rifle, get—or have—a. (Of men) to catch—to have—a venereal disease, esp. syphilis: mostly Services': since ca. 1925.

rutty. In a, leading to, consisting of a metaphorical rut, e.g. rutty jobs: coll: since ca. 1930. Weekly Telegraph, April 27, 1946.

rux, n. and v.: p. 718. Sense 2 of the n. as it stands should be under the v. The correct sense 2 of the n. is 'noise, fuss, etc.: R.N. College, Dartmouth slang': Granville.—3. In Public School s., rux up the arse = a, or to, kick: since ca. 1880. The ultimate source of all these senses is perhaps rough-house, n. (p. 708), as it is of U.S. and Canadian ruckus.

ry dates from ca. 1860. Brewer's anecdotal origin may just conceivably be correct. (p. 718.)

ryder derives more prob. ex Romany ruder, to clothe: B. & L.

ryebuck or rybuck. Usually ribuck (p. 696).

S

S.A.B.U. See T.A.B.U.
S.A.M.F.U. Self adjusting military 'fuck-up' (muddle): South African soldiers': 1940-5.

S.F.A. Sweet Fanny Adams, i.e. nothing: C. 20. Gerald Kersh, Bill Nelson, 1942. See Fanny Adams (p. 266).

S.N.A.F.U., usually solid (snafu). Situation normal, all fucked up (politely: . . . fouled up): Forces', originally and mainly Army: 1940+. (P.-G.-R.) It spread to the Americans. Cf. the American derivative adj. snafues, bungled, chaotic, as in 'Everything snafues from the start' (Grover C. Hall, Jr, 1000 Destroyed, 1961).

S.N.E.F.U., usu. written solid—SNEFU or snefu, or even sneefoo. 'Situation normal—everything fucked up': a Forces', esp. Army, mostly officers', c.p., dating from ca. 1941. A variant of S.N.A.F.U. above.

S.O.B. (p. 720) is also very common in Canada. Both countries adopted it ex U.S. Of the Australian use, B.P. says, 'It is very widely known but not very commonly used.'—2. 'Shit or bust' (see p. 758): since ca. 1925.

S.O.B.'s. Silly Old Buggers, i.e. Wardroom officers over the advanced age of 39: Naval officers': since ca. 1914. (Granville.) Contrast B.Y.F.'s.

S.O.S.—2. A member of the Australian Signal Corps: Australian soldiers': 1939+. B., 1942.

S.P. joint. A starting-price betting-shop: Australian sporting: C. 20. Baker.

S.P. merchant. A starting-price bookmaker: Australian sporting: since ca. 1920. (B., Australia Speaks, 1953.)

S.S.; P.P. 'Shimmy' showing; petticoat peeping: hortatory c.p.p. from one girl to another, in ref. to dress disarranged: ca. 1895-1915. Petticoats have been discarded.

S.T.; esp. in plural S.Ts. Sanitary towel(s): feminine coll.: since ca. 1940.

S.U.E. See servants' united effort.

S.W.A.K. 'Sealed with a kiss' on the back of an envelope: coll.: late C. 19-20. Also S.W.A.L.K., where L. = loving.

S.W.A.L.C.A.K.W.S. Humorous variant of preceding. 'Sealed with a liek 'cos a kiss won't stick.'

s.y.t. A 'sweet young thing' (girl): Australian: since ca. 1950. (B.P.)

sa soldi. Sixpence: see sa in Dict.

Sabrina. 'Prestwin silo wagon' (Railway 2nd): railwaymen's: since ca. 1925.

Sabu. See Nabu.

sac. A saccharine tablet: coll. (domestic, and small traders): heard in 1917, but not gen. until 1942.

sack, n.—2. A hammock: Naval: C. 19. The Night Watch (I, 184), 1828. Moe.

sack, v., 2 (p. 720). An early record: Chaplain's Twenty-Third Report of the Preston House of Correction (in a prisoner's statement), 1846.

sack, get the. To be dismissed from employment: an early example occurs in Sessions, Aug. 23, 1843.

sack 'em up men. Resurrectionists: ca. 1830-70. Harvey Graham, Surgeons All, 1939.

sack of taters. A stick of (small) bombs, e.g. incendiaries: R.A.F.: 1939+. H. & P. Humorous. Delivered like groceries.

sad.—2. 'Don't be sad . . . Don't be mean,' C. P. Wittstock, letter of May 23, 1946: South African: C. 20. I.e. don't be so serious that you can't be generous: cf. Dutch sadie klass, 'a dull dog'.

sad sack. A spoil-sport or a wet-blanket: Naval (lower-deck): adopted, in 1943, ex U.S. servicemen. But in U.S., a sad sack is 'the inevitable hopeless recruit or enlisted man, always a figure of fun'. (Orig., a blundering, unlikable youth—students' s., since ca. 1930; see W. & F.) 'In the U.S., almost a culture hero, and well-known in Canada.' (Leechman.)

sadogue. 'A fat, easy-going person'. (L. E. F. English, Historic Newfoundland, 1955): Newfoundland: perhaps coll. rather than s., or dial. rather than either: C. 20. A 'sad dog' or gay fellow?

safack, properly 'safack. It's a fact: Cockney sol.: C. 19-20. Michael Harrison, What Are We Waiting For?, 1939. Compare sard.

safe. (Gen. the safe.) Inside waistcoat pocket: c.: late C. 19-20. Esp. among pick-pockets.—2. A condom: Australian: since ca. 1925. Perhaps suggested by safety below.

safe as . . . as (p. 721): as safe as the bank occurs in Boxiana, III, 1818: there, it is written . . . Bank, which implies the Bank of England, a phrase that, therefore, dates prob. from late C. 18.

safety. A condom: Australian: since ca. 1920. 'She said it was no go without a safety.' Orig. euphemistic?

Saff. South African Air Force: 1939-45. On analogy of Raff.

sag, n.; esp. have the sags, to lack energy: racing cyclists': since ca. 1945. Cf. 'the bonk'. Hence, sag-wagon, a van that, following a race, picks up exhausted riders.

sag, v.—2. To be illicitly absent from work: Liverpool: late C. 19-20: hence—3. To play truant: Merseyside: since ca. 1930. (Woman, Aug. 28, 1965.)

saha! Good-night!: Naval: late C. 19-20. (Weekly Telegraph, Nov. 1942.) Ex Maltese.

Sahara. 'Tall person . . . (miles and miles of blow all),' The Cape Times, June 3, 1946: South African: C. 20.

sail close to the wind has in the Royal Navy (late C. 19-20) a specific coll. sense: 'to take risks with Naval Law'. Granville.

sailer. A loose branch: coll.—a New Zealand forestry term: C. 20. From a N.Z. cutting of late 1967. 'In a high wind, it tends to 'sail away'.

sailor is a Regular Army term of ca. 1855-1910. 'A "sailor" was the slang term for any person whose nature was so generous, and whose finances so sound, as to allow the quaffing of many cups at his personal charge,' Robert Blatchford, My Life in the Army, 1910.

sailor on a water-cart. Ineffective; inadequate: coll.: prob. C. 19-20. (Laurie Atkinson, Sept. 11, 1967.)

sailor's best friend, a. A hammock: Naval: C. 20. Granville records the pleasant tradition that, 'if properly lashed with seven regulation marline hitches', it 'will keep him afloat for twenty-four hours'. Cf. sailor's friend (p. 722). Prompted by soldier's best friend—see below.

sailor's cake. An occasional variant of Navy cake: Naval: since ca. 1940.

sailor's hornpipe. A Wren: Naval: since ca. 1941.

sailors on the sea; often shortened to sailors. Tea: rhyming s.: since ca. 1940, but not common. Franklyn 2nd.

sailor's prick. See salt's pricker below.

saint and sinner. Dinner: rhyming s.: late C. 19-20. Franklyn, Rhyming. Cf. glorious sinner (p. 333).

St Kilda Road Commandos. The staff of the Allied Land H.Q., Melbourne: Australian: 1939-45. (B., 1943.)

St Lubbock's Day should be 'August'—not 'a'—'Bank Holiday'.

St Martin's (le Grand). A hand: Londoners' rhyming s.: late C. 19-20.

St Pat. St Patrick: (mostly Anglo-Irish) coll.: C. 19-20.

St Peter's son (p. 723). Rather of ca. 1710-1850.

St Stephen's hell. Ware explains thus: 'When the Parnellite "split" took place, the Irish Nationalist members "discussed" in this chamber for many days—the noise resulting in the bestowal by the lower officials of this title upon the room in question.'

Saints (p. 723), 2. A more prob. etymology resides in the fact that the original name of the Club was Southampton St Mary's Football Club.

sal, 1 (p. 273): earlier in Anon., A Congratulatory Epistle from a Reformed Rake, 1728, p. 17, 'She's just down in a Sal.'

salam; salams. Incorrect for salaam (v.) and salaams, implying as they do a wrong pron.; the former occurs in Smyth's Sailor's Word Book, 1867.

sale, make a. To vomit: Australian low: C. 20. B., 1942.

Sale of Two Titties, A. Dickens's A Tale of Two Cities: an intentional spoonerism: since ca. 1925. Perhaps orig. Canadian. (Leechman.)

Salford Docks; sometimes merely Salfords. Rocks, esp. on a shore or coastline: rhyming s., esp. in Manchester: C. 20. Salford stands on the Mersey Ship Canal.

's'all or 'sall or even sall. It's, or that's, all: semi-literate coll.: late C. 19-20. Ruth Park, A Power of Roses, 1953, 'Everything sall right.'

Sallies.—2. As the S., it = the Salvation Army: Australian: since ca. 1910. (D'Arcy Niland, Call Me . . ., 1958.)

Sally; Sally Ann. A Salvation Army hostel or canteen: C. 20. The short form occurs in James Curtis, What Immortal Hand, 1939.

Sally Fairy Ann! It doesn't matter!: Army: 1915-18. An occ. variant of san fairy ann (Dict.).

Sally Rand. H.M.S. St Laurent: Naval: 1939-45.

Sally Thompson. A shearer's cook: Australian rural: since ca. 1910. B., 1942.

salmon.—3. A corpse fished from a river (esp. the Thames): water rats' c.: mid-C. 19-20. B. & L.

Salmon and Gluckstein. The Scharnhorst and Gneisenau, heavy German cruisers: R.A.F.: 1941-2. By 'Hobson-Jobson', on the well-known firm of tobacconists.

salmon and trout.—4. Stout (the drink): rhyming s.: C. 20. Franklyn, Rhyming.

salmon trout. Variant of salmon and trout, esp. in sense 3 ('gout'): C. 20.

salt, n.—3. Money collected at Montem: Etonians': from ca. 1790. Spy, 1825; B. & L.—4. 'Plain tobacco to mix with dagga,' C. P. Wittstock, letter of May 23, 1946. South African c.: C. 20.

salt, v., 4 (p. 723) occurs earlier—in, e.g., Wm Kelly, Life in Victoria, 1859.

salt and batter. Assault and battery: partly s., partly illiterate: since ca. 1830. An Old Etonian, Cavendo Tutus; or, Hints upon Slip-Slop, being the 2nd part of his The Alphabet Annotated, 1853. Cf.:

salt and rob. Assault and robbery: South African c.: C. 20. The Cape Times, May 23, 1946.

salt cat. A mess of 'old mortar, cumin seed, and wine' for birds to peck at: bird-fanciers': mid-C. 19-20. B. & L.

salt chuck, sea-water; the s.c., the sea: Canadian: C. 20. Amerindian pidgin? 'Ex the Chinook jargon (chuck, water). Quite common in British Columbia.' Leechman.

salt eel (p. 724) has survived well into C. 20, although little used after ca. 1930. (P-G-R.)

salt junk (p. 724) occurs earlier in George R. Gleig, The Chelsea Pensioners, 1829, at II, 259, as a military term. (Moe.)

salta-di-banco is C. 17 erroneous for saltimbanco. O.E.D.

Saltash luck (p. 724): also S. catch: C. 20. Granville, 'A wet stern and no fish'.—There is a pun: 'salt(-wet) arse'.

saltie or salty. A man-eating crocodile of the coastal areas: N. Queensland coll.: C. 20. (Jean Devanney, Travels in North Queensland, 1951.)

salt's pricker (p. 774). The rolled leaf tobacco tightly bound with marline as put up by seamen in the R.N. was known to their friends ashore to whom they smuggled it as sailors' prick, ex the shape.

salvage (p. 724). Also gen. Australian: B., 1942.

Salvagger Agger, the. The Salvation Army: Oxford undergraduates' (—1922). Marples, 2.

salvation. Station: rhymings s.: ca. 1870-1914. (C. Bent, Criminal Life, 1891.)

Salvation Navy, the. The Royal Navy: since ca. 1916. Ex 'Thank God, we've got a Navy!'

Salvo.—2. A Salvation Army officer; the S., the Salvation Army: mostly Australian: since ca. 1917. (B., 1943.)—3. As the Salvos, it = the Salvation Army: Australian: since ca. 1910. (Jon Cleary, The Sundowners, 1952.)—4. (Ex senses 2 and 3.) Adj.: Salvationist: Australian: since ca. 1920. (H. Drake-Brockman, The Blister, 1937.)

salvo. 'A "snappy come-back" which in an argument, completely floors your opponent' (Granville): Naval officers': since ca. 1938. Cf. the R.A.F.'s shoot down in flames.

Sambo (p. 724) occurs in John Atkins, A Voyage to Guinea, Brasil, and the West-Indies, 1735. (Moe.)

same diff! The Australian form of the next: since ca. 1945. (B.P.) same difference, it's the. A Canadian c.p.: since ca. 1940. Elliptical for 'It's the same thing; there is no difference'. (Leechman.)

same here; same there. What you say applies equally to me; to you: resp. from ca. 1880 and from ca. 1870, the latter being orig. a tailors' c.p. B. & L.—2. Either same here or the same here, I fully agree: Australian coll.: C. 20. (B., 1943.)

same old shit but (or only) more of it. The Canadian Army equivalent, 1939–45, of S.N.A.F.U.

Same Olds, the. Essendon footballers: Melbourneites': since ca. 1925. (B., 1943.)

Sammy Hall. See rick, v.

[sampsman] is B. & L.'s error for scampsman (Dict..)

Samson. A combined magnetic and acoustic mine: Naval: 1940 +. Very powerful.

San Mig. 'San Miguel beer, famous in Hong Kong' (Granville, Nov. 22, 1962): Naval: since late 1940's.

sanakatowmer (p. 725) should be sanakatowzer, as in the next entry, which derives therefrom. It occurs in Rudyard Kipling's 'The Bonds of Discipline' (ca. 1902), collected in Traffics and Discoveries, 1904: 'a sanakatowzer of a smite with the flat of his sword'. (With thanks to Rear-Admiral P. W. Brock, R.N., C.B., D.S.O.)

sanakatowzer. Anything very big; e.g. 'a sanakatowzer of an apple': Milton Junior School, Bulawayo: since ca. 1925. An excellent example of arbitrary coinage that does yet evoke the idea of great size.

Sanctimoody. Sanctimonious and moody: mostly Nonconformists': C. 20. With a more than casual glance at the American evangelists, Ira David Sankey (1840–1908) and Dwight L. Moody (1837–99), who, at their meetings, used their own hymnals, Sacred Songs (1873) and Gospel Hymns (1875–91).

sandgroper (p. 726): by 1945, ob.; by 1960, †. (B.P.)

sand-happy. Odd or eccentric as a result of long service in the desert: Army: 1942–3. Cf. bomb-happy.

sand-hog. See bends, the, 2.

sand in one's hair, have. To be accustomed to the desert: Army in N. Africa, World War II. (P-G-R.)

sand in their boots. See boots, blood in their.

sand-rat. A moulder in a foundry: engineers': from ca. 1875. B. & L.—2. An Indian Army term, dating from ca. 1880. Richards, '... These native girls, who being in the last stages of the dreaded disease and rotten inside and out, only appeared after dark. These were the sand-rats and it was a horrible form of suicide to go with them.'

sand-scratch. 'To search for surface gold' (B., 1959): Aus. rural coll.: late C. 19–20.—2. (Hence ?) 'To be on the lookout for a feminine companion' (ibid.): Aus. low: since ca. 1930.

sand-scratcher (usually in pl.). A seaman rating: Naval: C. 20. (P-G-R.)

sand(-)vein. The notochord (chorda dorsalis), seen as a dark line down the back of a prepared shrimp: Canadian: ? coll., ? rather dial.: late C. 19–20. (Leechman.)

sandbag Mary Ann! It doesn't matter!: Army: 1915–18. A variant—cf. Sally Fairy Ann—of san fairy ann (p. 726).

sandgroping, n. Living in Western Australia: Aus.: ca. 1910–60. (B., 1959.) Ex Sandgroper on p. 726.

sandies. See Sandy, 2, in the Dict.

sandman. A footpad, a 'sandbagger': Australian: since ca. 1919. B., 1942.

sandy. A cute little surfing girl: Australian teenage surfers': since ca. 1962. Pix, Sept. 28, 1963.

sandy blight (p. 726). Since late C. 19, as Sidney J. Baker tells me. By 1940, Standard Australian.

Sandy Brown. See 'Nicknames'.

sandy hooker. A Nelson-born musterer of sheep: Canterbury and Marlborough shepherds' (New Zealand): late C. 19–20. B., 1941. Why?

Sandy McNab. A taxicab: rhyming s.: since ca. 1946. (Franklyn, Rhyming.)—2. A scab: Australian rhyming s.: since ca. 1920. (Jean Devanny; B., 1953.)

sane, n. The sum of ten shillings: low Australian: since ca. 1925. (B., 1943.) Origin? 'Seems to be derived from S. German numeral "zehn" (pron. tsane). Could it have been brought in by German immigrants, or conceivably by repatriated Anzac ex-POWs of World War I?' (H. R. Spencer): more prob. the latter; if so, the dating should rather be 'since 1919 or 1920'.—2. The sum of one pound: Aus. low: since ca. 1925. (B., 1959.)—3, 4. A prison sentence of ten months; 10 ounces of tobacco: Aus., the former, c.; the latter c. and low s.: since ca. 1930. B., 1959, adds that '10 years' jail or £10 is most commonly a brick'.

sanitary, the, as in 'Here comes the sanitary'. The Sanitary Inspector: coll.: since ca. 1946.

sanno. A sanitary inspector: Australian: since ca. 1930. (B., 1953.)

sanny. Sanatorium: Public Schools': C. 20.

Santa Claus. A 'sugar daddy' (rich elderly man keeping or assisting a young mistress): since ca. 1920.

sap-head, adj. See 'Epithets'. A coll. verging on S.E.

sap the blas. A Cockney c.p. 'used when the drink does not go round freely': ca. 1880–1910. B. & L. Back s. for pass the salt.

Sarah Soo. A Jew: since ca. 1925: rhyming s., orig. underworld, >, by 1960, fairly common. John Gosling, The Ghost Squad, 1959.

Saray Morays, the. See Jaopies above.

sard, properly 'sard'. It's hard: Cockney sol.: late C. 19–20. Michael Harrison, What Are We Waiting For?, 1939, "'sard to say, boy'". Compare safack and sri.

sardine tin.—2. A Bren Gun carrier: Army: since ca. 1938. H. & P. Humorous.—3. A torpedo-carrying 'plane: R.A.F.: 1939 +. Jackson.—4. A submarine: Naval (lower-deck): 1939 +. Granville. Cf. sense 1 (p. 727).—5. A minicar:

since early 1960's. (Evening Echo, Bournemouth, April 16, 1966.)

sarga (p. 727) was orig. an Arabic pronunciation, adopted by the Regulars.

sarker. See 'Mock-Auction Slang' above. Since late 1940's; (cf. sarky on p. 72).

sarm. Image: Australian: since ca. 1945. 'He's the dead sarm of his father.' This could derive ex a dial. pronunciation (sahm) of same; but probably Mr Edwin Morrisby's explanation, in letter of Aug. 30, 1958, is correct: Chinese san (pronounced sahn), the number 3, as used in the game of fan-tan, where 3 is said to be the 'safest' number on which to bet.

sarnies. Sandwiches: Army: C. 20. Hence, since ca. 1925, Liverpool s.

sarse; occasionally sarspidilly. Sarsaparilla: Australian: since ca. 1925. (B., 1953.)

s'arvo. This afternoon: low Australian: since ca. 1910. (B., 1953.) This arvo (see arvo above).

sass, get too much. To become 'too bold, or powerful, or wicked': 'English negro s.' of the West Coast of Africa: from ca. 1870. B. & L. I.e. 'sauce'.

Sasso, the. The Senior Air Staff Officer: R.A.F. coll.: 1936+. Partridge, 1945. Ex the initials by which he is usually referred to: S.A.S.O.

satchel-arsed fellow; satchel-arsed son of a whore. A man fitted by Jon Bee's indictment in 1823: 'Some chaps put on certain habiliments in a very bag-like manner': † by 1900.

Sat'd'y; Sat'day. Saturday: illiterate: C. 19-20. (Pugh.) The Cockney pronunciation is Sa'dee: short a, followed by a glottal stop.

Saturday-afternoon sailor. A Naval reservist: Australian Naval: 1939-45. (B., 1943.)

Saturday afternoon soldiers. The Home Guard: Army: 1940-5. Cf.:

Saturday night sailors. 'Lower-deck pre-1939 view of the Royal Naval Volunteer Reserve' (Granville). Compare the R.A.F.'s Week-End Air Force.

Saturday-night security. A steady boy friend: Australian: since ca. 1945. He ensures that she doesn't have to stay at home on Saturday nights—a condition truly to be deplored. (B.P.)

Saturday while. See Friday while.

saucepan. A (young) boy: Australian: since ca. 1920. (B., 1953.) Short for saucepan lid, 3.—2. Short for saucepan lid, 1.

saucepan lid. £1: C. 20. Rhyming on quid.—2. A Jew: rhyming s. (on Yid): late C. 19-20. Franklyn, Rhyming.—3. A child: rhyming s. (on kid): late C. 19-20. Ibid.—4. A mild deception, a 'leg-pulling'; hence also v., as in 'Now you're saucepan-lidding me': rhyming s. (on kid): late C. 19-20. Ibid.—5. As a collective plural, it = money, esp. in coin: C. 20. Franklyn 2nd adduces heap of saucepan lids, lots of money.

saucer, off one's. Not in the humour; indisposed: Australian: ca. 1860-1910. B. & L.—2. Crazy: Australian: C. 20. B., 1942.

sauney. A variant of sawney, 2 (Dict.).

sausage, n.—4. A draught-excluder placed at foot of a door: domestic coll.: C. 20. Ex shape.—5. A dog in heat: since ca. 1945. A pun on hot dog.—6. Short for sausage and mash, money in cash: since ca. 1870.—7. See sausage roll below.

sausage, v. To cash; esp. sausage a goose's, to cash a cheque: low: from ca. 1920. Abbr. sausage and mash, rhyming s., to cash, itself dating from ca. 1870. Moreover, goose's = goose's neck, rhyming s. (late C. 19-20) for a cheque.

sausage, not to have a. To be penniless, esp. temporarily: from ca. 1927. (Peter Chamberlain.) See prec. entry.

sausage and mash, n. See sausage, n., 6, and sausage, v., both above.—2. A collision: rhyming s. (on crash or smash): since the late 1950's. Franklyn 2nd.

sausage dog. A dachshund: Australian: since ca. 1930. (B.P.)

sausage game. A German game: billiards-players': from ca. 1870; ob. B. & L.

sausage machine, the. A synonym of mincing machine.

sausage roll, or capitals; often shortened to sausage (or S.). A Pole: rhyming s.: prob. since 1939, ex Poland's fate in World War II. John Gosling, The Ghost Squad, 1959; Franklyn 2nd.

sausages. Fetters: low: ca. 1820-65. Sinks. 1848. Shape: string of sausages = a chain.—2. Side whiskers: mid-C. 19-20.

sav. A saveloy: low: C. 20. (James Curtis, The Gilt Kid, 1936.)

savages. Men able to claim 'native leave', granted to those whose homes are in or near the port where their ships are lying: Australian Naval: 1939-45.

save one's bacon. See bacon, save one's (Dict.).

saved by his clergy. See 'Tavern terms', § 4.

saved by the bell. Saved by a lucky intervention: coll.; often as a c.p.: late C. 19-20. Ex the bell signifying the end of a round in a boxing match.

saveloy. A boy: rhyming s.: C. 20. Franklyn 2nd.

Saveloy, the. The Savoy Hotel: London taxi-drivers': since ca. 1910. Herbert Hodge, 1939.

savings, take up. See take up.

savoy, v. (p. 728). The form sabe should rather be dated 'since ca. 1820', for it occurs in, e.g., The Dublin University Magazine of Aug. 1834 (p. 145) as 'No sabe dat pigeon'.

saw-off. 'A tie; one wins on this deal and loses on that, it's a saw-off' (Leechman): Canadian: since ca. 1910.

saw off a chunk or a piece. To coit: Canadian: since ca. 1920. Semantically cf. the phrases cited at slice, take a, on p. 781, and tear off a piece below.

saw them off. To snore; to sleep soundly: C. 20 c. >, ca. 1940, low s. John Worby, Spiv's Progress, 1939. Ex the noise made with a saw clumsily handled.

saw-tooth edged beanie. See beanie.

sawdust bloke. A circus rider: circus coll.: from ca. 1860. B. & L.

Sawdust Caesar, the or that. Benito Mussolini, the Italian dictator: since ca. 1925; after 1945, merely historical. Sawdust Caesar was the title of a biography published ca. 1937.

sawdust lurk, the. 'Stuffing the differential of an old car with sawdust to get a better price for it' (B.P.): Australian secondhand-car dealers': since ca. 1920. Cf. speedo lurk, the, below.

sawed off. Short: the Canadian form of sawn off below, as in 'Look at that sawed-off little runt' (instanced by Leechman).

sawn. A softy, a 'dope': low Australian: since ca. 1920. (Kylie Tennant, The Joyful Condemned, 1953.) Ex sawney.

sawn off. (Of a person) short; small; Services (esp. R.A.F.) coll.: since ca. 1920. H. & P. I.e. truncated.

sawn off at the waist, should be. An R.A.F. c.p. applied to a 'dumb' girl since ca. 1930.

sawyer. 'The repulsive grasshopper called weta by the Maoris,' B., 1941: New Zealand: since ca. 1880.

sax.—2. Sixpence: Australian: since ca. 1920. B., 1942. Cf.:—

saxa. A saxophone: Australian: since ca. 1920. (K. S. Prichard, Haxby's Circus, 1930.) Cf. sax, 1, on p. 729.

saxpence!, bang goes (p. 729). Rather, re-popularised by Lauder; originated by Charles Keene in Punch, Dec. 5, 1868.

say, 1 (p. 729). Earlier in Mayhew, I, 1851.

say it again! I heartily agree with you: tailors' c.p.: from ca. 1870. B. & L.

say one's piece. See piece.

say-so. A leader or chief; a boss: Australian: since ca. 1930. B., 1942. 'I say so, do it!'

say when you're mad! 'Tell me when you're ready to lift': Canadian workmen's c.p. as from one to another: since ca. 1930. (Leechman.)

saying one's prayers, be. To be scrubbing the floor: jocular domestic: late C. 19–20.

scab, n.—4. A scarab: mostly Public and Grammar Schools: since ca. 1925. Nicholas Blake, Head of a Traveller, 1948.—5. See rats.

scab, v.—2. V.t., to treat as 'scabs': from ca. 1906. Francis E. Brett Young, Pilgrim's Rest, 1922, '[The rioting strikers] went away, saying they'd come back again and scab us to-night.'

scabby.—5. Hence, a non-Union worker: Australian: since ca. 1910. B., 1942.

scads. Much; e.g. 'scads of money': adopted, ca. 1935, from U.S. esp. by would-be 'slick' thriller-writers.

scalawag (see Dict.) is prob. cognate with, or a survival of, the † Scottish scurryvaig, a vagabond: itself perhaps ex L. scurra vagas, a wandering buffoon (O.E.D.).

scald, n. Very hot tea (the beverage): Naval ratings': C. 19. Wm N. Glascock, Sketch-Book, 2nd Series, 1834, I, 53, 'a cup of scald', and 56, 'Half an hour was the time allowed to the discussion of the "scald".' (Moe.)

scalded-cat raids. German air-raids of 1943 and earlier half of 1944: that period. Fearing invasion, the Germans were jumpy; they made numerous tip-and-run raids.

scale, v.—5. Hence, to swindle: Australian: since ca. 1920. B., 1942.—6. Hence (?), to ride illicitly free on train, tram, bus: Australian: since ca. 1920. Baker.

Scale 'em Corner. 'A George Street corner, near Central Station, Sydney'—where appointments are not kept: since ca. 1920. Baker.

scale on. To treat (someone) sarcastically: Shrewsbury: since mid-1930's. Marples.

scaler.—2. Hence (?), a thief, a swindler: Australian low: since ca. 1920.—3. One who rides illicitly free on train, bus, etc.: Australian low: since early 1920's. B., 1942. Ex sense 6 of the v. scale. Not low, B.P. assures me.

scales. An epaulette: Australian Naval: since ca. 1935.

scaling, vbl n. The practice of illicitly riding free on a bus: Aus.: since ca. 1920.

sallywagging, n. Guerilla warfare: military: since 1940. Peter Fleming, Invasion 1940, 1957. Cf. scalawag on p. 729. Prim—or jocular—disapproval?

scalp ticket. Return half of a train or bus ticket: Australian: since ca. 1920. Baker.

scaly, n. A crocodile: Australian: since ca. 1910. (B., 1943.)

scaly-back.—2. A Naval pensioner: Naval: since ca. 1910. (P-G-R.)

scammel. A breakdown vehicle: Army coll.: 1939–45. Ex the firm of engineers. (P-G-R.)

scamper, n. See foot scamper, the, above.

Scan. 'A Scandinavian printing machine invented by a native of Stockholm': printers': from ca. 1870; ob. B. & L.

scan. 'Common U.S. and Canadian sol. for skim. "I was too busy to do more than scan the paper"' (Leechman): C. 20.

Scandinoogian. An occ., mainly nautical, form of Scandihooftian (Dict.). William McFee, Sailors of Fortune, 1930.

scanty. Allowance of bread (ca. 1870–1905): a small loaf for study tea on Sundays (since ca. 1905): Rossall School. Marples.

Scapa Flow is a folk-etymological elaboration of scarper, 1 (p. 731), as if rhyming s. on 'to go': since ca. 1918.

scapali is a variant of scaparey, q.v. at Johnny Scaparey (Dict.).

scapathy. See orkneyitis.

scarce, make oneself (p. 731). Grose, 1785, is the earliest authority, for the supposed Smollett quotation occurs, as the O.E.D. has shown, in Malkin's translation, 1809, of Gil Blas.

scare the shit out of; scare shitless. To scare very badly indeed: low: late C. 19–20. A variant (C. 20) of frighten . . . above.

Scarecrow Patrol, the. Coastal Command's patrol by Hornet Moths and Tiger Moths in Sept.–Dec. 1939: Coastal Command: 1939; ob. Ex their pathetic inadequacy to the immensity of the task.

scared fartless. Admittedly much afraid: Canadian: C. 20. Since the late 1930's, also English. A 'cleaned-up' variant arose ca. 1942: scared spitless.

scared shitless. Scared to death: mostly Canadian: C. 20. Cf. frighten the shit out of, but imm. ex scare shitless, both noted above; cf. also scared fartless above.

scaredy. A timorous person: a frightened one: Anglo-Irish: since ca. 1910. (Patrick Doncaster, A Sight for a Drum-Beat, 1947.)

scarlet-runner, 3 (p. 731). Also scarlet-runners, the old-fashioned red-jacketed uniform: same period. (Gilbert Frankau, Peter Jackson, 1920.)

scarlet slugs. Tracer-fire from Bofors anti-aircraft guns: Services (esp. R.A.F.): 1939 +. H. & P., 'Apt name'.

scarve. A finger-ring: parlary: late C. 19–20. Sydney Lester, Vardi the Palarey, (?) 1937. Not from any Italian word, but app.—this is a mere guess—a parlary'd shape of an English term: scarf-ring.

scat. But as scram, q.v. in Dict., is an abbr. of S.E. scramble, so prob. is scat an abbr. of S.E. scatter; likewise v.l.—2. In the R.A.F. (1939 +), to take off in a hurry. Partridge, 1945.

scatter.—2. To make water: proletarian: from ca. 1860. B. & L.

scatters, the. Diarrhoea; get the scatters, to feel very nervous: Naval: C. 20. 'Taffrail', The Sub, 1917.

scatty (p. 731). Earlier in J. W. Horsley, I Remember, 1912. In W. H. Davis, Beggars, 1909, the sense appears to be rather that of 'short-tempered', as if from scotty (p. 735).

scavage.—2. To cadge money, or to thief in a petty way: Australian: since ca. 1925. B., 1942.

scene. 'Something that's happening or the place where it's happening' (The Victoria Daily Colonist, April 16, 1959, 'Basic Beatnik'): Canadian jazz-lovers' and musicians': since ca. 1955. Adopted, ca. 1962, in Britain by jazz musicians and devotees, by drug addicts, by beatniks and then hippies, for the 'world' comprised by those three classes or for 'any specific part of it' (Peter Fryer in The Observer colour supplement, Dec. 3, 1967). In the underworld, the scene of a crime, the set-up of a burglary or a hold-up: by 1964 at latest. (James Barlow, The Burden of Proof, 1968.)—2. Hence, the performers, the active participants: raffish London: since ca. 1964. (James Barlow, ibid.) scent, on the. On the road; travelling about: show- and circus-men's: from ca. 1865. B. & L.

schfatzter. A fellow, a chap: c.: since ca. 1930. (Norman.) 'Refers esp. to an old or, at the least, elderly man and is a misshapen form of the Yiddish word for "father"' (Julian Franklyn). Ramsey Spencer, on the other hand, writes (March 1967): 'This appears to come from Standard German "Schwatzter"—chatter-box, bore, gas-bag, blatherskite.'

schill. See shill.

schip. Wine: South African c.: C. 20; by 1945, low s. 'Prob. from a brand of sherry—"Ship Sherry"', C. P. Wittstock, letter of May 23, 1946.

schitz or schiz or skitz or skiz. A schizophrenic: since the late 1920's. (Zenia Field, Under Lock and Key, 1963.) Cf. next entry.

schizo. A schizophrenic: psychologists', esp. psychiatrists' coll.: since ca. 1925. Nigel Balchin, Mine Own Executioner, 1945.

schlemihl. A booby: Jewish coll.: late C. 19—20. Ex Yiddish.

schlent. An impostor: c.: from ca. 1921. The Pawn-shop Murder. Ex:

schlent, v.i. To double-cross; to be evasive for illicit ends: c.: from ca. 1920. Ibid. Ex schlenter (Dict.).

schlepper-in. A barker (see barker, 3, in Dict.): orig. and mainly Jewish: C. 20. Via Yiddish ex Ger. schleppen, to tug, haul, hence to tout for customers. (Ramsey Spencer.)

schlog (or slog) it on. To raise the price extortunately: Australian: since ca. 1925. B., 1942. A literal translation of Standard Ger. auf den Preis schlagen—clap the price on, hence push the price up' (Ramsey Spencer).

Probably from schlock (Yiddish) = shoddy, overpriced. "'It's the biggest schlock house on Seventh Avenue"—J. Weidner, I Can Get It for You Wholesale, c. 1940': Robert Clairborne, Aug. 31, 1966.

schmal(t)z, n. and adj. (Something) entirely satisfactory, notably if it exhibits panache and esp. of a performance, as in 'Gee, that's schmalz!': theatrical, mostly in Variety: adopted, ca. 1957, ex U.S., but drastically adapted from the orig. sense of the n., which means 'sweetly sentimental music or song or performance'—a sense current, since ca. 1955, in Britain also. (Richard Merry.) Ex Yiddish schmaltz, 'chicken fat, used for cooking, hence greasy, slick' (Wentworth & Flexner). Hence the adj. schmal(t)z, sweetly and excessively sentimental.

Schmitter. A Messerschmitt aircraft (a German fighter): Services: 1939–45.

schmock. A fool: c. and low s.: since ca. 1910. 'Yiddish for "fool", is used in a particularly derogatory way, and has variant schmuck' (Julian Franklyn); its lit. Yiddish meaning is 'female pudend'—cf., therefore, the low 'you silly cunt!' Note that Yiddish schmuck, orig. 'jewel' or 'ornament', has been adopted from German Schmuck. (Leonard Goldstein, April 6, 1967.)

schmo(e). A foolish or very naïve person, hence anyone objectionable to the speaker: adopted, ca. 1959, ex U.S. It seems to be a contrived word; mock-Yiddish. (Wentworth & Flexner.) Perhaps, however, ex Yiddish schmok, a fool. Cf. the preceding.

'Ca. 1950 in the U.S., there was a comic strip featuring small, armless, pear-shaped bipeds called Schmoos. They were simple, amiable, and everlastingly "put upon"' (Ramsey Spencer, March 1967).

schmuck. See schmock above.

schniffer, a drink, is a variant of snifter (Dict.), in sense 1. E.g. in Henry Holt, Murder at the Bookstall, 1934.

schnozzle and its elaboration schnozzola, the nose, are Canadian adoptions, ca. 1940, of American terms.

School for Heavy Needlework, Her or His Majesty's. See ironmongery department.

School of Wind, the. The R.N. School of Music: Naval: since ca. 1920. (P-G-R.)

schoolie (or -y).—3. An Education Officer: Army and R.A.F.: since ca. 1890 in the Army, where coll. for '(Army) schoolmaster'; since ca. 1920 in the Navy, says Granville; and since ca. 1930 in the R.A.F. (Partridge, 1945.)—4. Any schoolteacher: Australian: since ca. 1925. (B., 1953.)

schoolie, v.t. To inflict a prefects' beating on (a boy): Scottish Public Schools': C. 20. Ian Miller, School Tie, 1935. Ex n., 2 (Dict.).

school's (or the school's) out. A c.p., referring to a sudden crowd: C. 20.

schooner on the rocks (p. 732). Earlier in 'Taffrail'. An occ. variant is schooner on a rock, as in The Birmingham Mail, Feb. 24, 1939.

schooner orgy; hermaphrodite brig; bastard brig. A coaster: nautical, esp. Naval: from ca. 1860. B. & L.

shuffle-hunter. See shuffle-hunter.

schwarz, p. schwarzes. A coloured person, esp. a West Indian: landlords' and property speculators': mostly in London: since ca. 1954. Via Yiddish ex German schwarz, black. 'Put in the schwarzes and de-stat it'—rid the property of stats or statutory tenants: The Sunday Times, July 7, 1963.

schwaya or shwaya. Small or insignificant; as n., a small quantity, a little: Army in N. Africa: 1940–3. 'He's a schwaya job'—'Give me a schwaya more char'. Ex the Arabic sugair. (P-G-R.) See also shwaya.

scissor-grinder. Recorded earlier by 'Taffrail'. scissors-grinder or razor-grinder or merely grinder; occasionally, dish-lick. The bird known as the Restless Flycatcher: Australian: late C. 19-20. (B., 1943.)

sciver. A shoemaker's knife: shoemakers': from ca. 1890. A corruption of chiver (Dict.).

scoach. Rum: Regular Army: late C. 19-20. Why?

scobolotcher. 'An undergraduate walking round a quadrangle hands in pocket and deep in thought' (John Moore, as reported in the Bournemouth Daily Echo, April 21, 1956): since ca. 1925. Origin?

The word is at least 300 years old. As scobber-lotcher it occurs in Aubrey's 'Life' (1697) of Dr Ralph Kettell (1563-1643), President of Trinity College, Oxford. Dr Kettell applied it to undergraduates acting in this way, but also counting the trees in 'The Grove'. (With thanks to Mr H. R. Spencer.) The O.E.D. attempts no etymology, but does compare the North Country and East Anglian scopperloit, scoppoloit, a time of idleness or of play, and the rare scoterlope, to wander aimlessly.

scoff, v.—5. To kill or otherwise dispose of: Army: C. 20. (P-G-R.) Ex senses 1 and 4 (pp. 732-3).

sconce, do one's. To become extremely annoyed or angry: New Zealand servicemen's: since ca. 1944. Slatter, 'I'll do my sconce properly'. Cf. sconce, n., 1 and 2, on p. 733, and semantically do one's nut on p. 227.

scone (pron. skon). A detective: Australian low: since ca. 1920. B., 1942. Also hot scone.—2. See sconer.—3. The head: Australian: since ca. 1930. Often go off one's scone, as in D'Arcy Niland, 1958.—4. Odds of 20 to 1: racing, esp. bookmakers': since ca. 1910. (The Sunday Telegraph, May 7, 1967.) Why? Or is it merely a printer's error for score?

scone, v. To hit (someone) on the top of the head: Australian: since ca. 1935. Ex scone, n., 3. (B.P.)

scone-hot, adj. and adv. An intensive, whether favourable ('He's scone-hot at cricket'), unfavourable ('unreasonable; extortionate'), or neutral ('Go for someone scone-hot'—vigorously): Australian: since ca. 1925. Baker. Newly baked scones are both hot and delicious.

scone in!, suck your. Pull your 'scone' in!—Stop talking nonsense: Australia: since ca. 1950. (Culotta.) Cf. scone, 3, above.

sconer. 'Any skull-threatening bumper,' Ray Robinson, Between Wickets, 1946: Australian cricketers': since ca. 1925. Ex Australian s. scone, the head (C. 20).

scoop the pool. To make a 'killing': financial coll.: C. 20. Ex gambling.

scoot, get on the. To go on a drinking-bout: Australian: since ca. 1930. (Dal Stevens, The Courtship of Uncle Henry, 1946.) Also on the scoot, engaged in a drinking bout, as in H. Drake Brockman, Sydney or Bust, 1948. The phrase on the scoot has, since ca. 1940, been common in New Zealand. (Slatter.) scooter.—3. A single-deck bus; a driver-only bus: busmen's: since ca. 1945.

scope.—2. A telescope; a periscope: since ca.

1910; by 1940, coll.—3. An oscilloscope: technicians': since ca. 1940. (B.P.)

scorched earth. Destruction of everything that might be useful to an advancing enemy: 1940 +: coll. >, by 1943, S.E.

scorchy. Discoloured: Christ's Hospital coll.: since ca. 1840. Marples. Ex scorched.

score, n.—4. 'The number of drinks consumed or the bill to be paid,' H. & P.: Services coll.: since ca. 1915. Ex sense 1.—5. See what's the score.

scotch.—3. (Usually in pl. scotches.) A police—esp. a C.I.D.—detective: c.: since ca. 1945; hence, also, since ca. 1950, police s. (John Dickson Carr, Patrick Butler for the Defence, 1956.)

Scotch bed, make a. To fold blankets into the form of a sleeping-bag: Forces': since ca. 1918. Economical conservation of heat. (Atkinson.)

Scotch by absorption. Not of Scottish extraction, yet fond of Scotch: since ca. 1930.

Scotch, or Scots, Greys (p. 734). Strictly, body lice. (John Hargrave, The Swula Bay Landing 1964.)

Scotch mist.—2. A sarcastic c.p. of the Services (esp. the R.A.F.), implying that one is either 'seeing things' or failing to see things he ought to see: since ca. 1925. H. & P., 1943; Partridge, 1945. "'Can't you see my tapes? What do you think they are—Scotch mist?" Sometimes fog is used instead of Scotch mist.—2. Hence, of noise: R.A.F.: 1940 +. 'A bomb falls. "What was that?"—"Well it wasn't Scotch . . . mist", ' W/Cdr R. P. McDouall, letter of March 17, 1945.

Scotch mist, adj. Tipsy: racing rhyming s. (on pissed): since ca. 1920.

Scotch Mist, the. The Scottish Church canteen at Abbassia (Cairo): Army in N. Africa: ca. 1940-3. (P-G-R.)

Scotch peg.—2. Occ. for 'egg': rhyming: C. 20. Scotch prize (p. 734) goes back to 1818 (Alfred Burton, Johnny Newcome). Moe.

Scotchy (p. 735). More prob., C. 19-20. My earliest 'confirmation', however, is Sessions, July 9, 1856.

Scotland Yarders. New Scotland Yard: late C. 19-20. By 'the Oxford -er'.

Scotsman's fifth. See 'Hauliers' Slang'.

Scottish (p. 735) is defined in Sinks, 1848, as 'savage, wild chagrined'.

scouce or scouse or scowse. See skowse. scouse (p. 735) is clearly a survival from a general Naval use going back to ca. 1820 or even earlier, for it occurs in The Night Watch, II (p. 116), 1828.

Scouse. A native of Liverpool: late C. 19-20. Ex dialect.

Scouseland. Liverpool: nautical and (Liverpool) dockers': late C. 19-20. Cf. scouse (p. 735).

scousy or scowsy. Mean, stingy: Christ's Hospital: since ca. 1860; ob. Marples, 'Perhaps scabby + lousy'.

scout, n.—5. 'A reproachful name for a bold forward girl' (P. W. Joyce, English . . . in Ireland, 1910): Anglo-Irish: late (? mid) C. 19-20.

scow, v. To be illicitly absent: mostly Liverpool: late C. 19-20. Short for scowbank (p. 735).

scowbanker (p. 735). The Bukman Mercantile Papers (New York Historical Society) show, in letters dated Nov. 18, and Dec. 4, 1750—Feb. 14, 1752—Nov. 30, 1764, that the word was orig. American. (Moe.) Perhaps of Irish origin. 'In the sense of an idler, this word recalls scrimshanker (p. 738), one who does scrimshaw work in his idle time. Are they both merely facetious inventions?': Leechman.

Scowegian. A seaman of any Scandinavian country: C. 20. Granville. Cf. Scandinoogian.

scrag, v., 4, 'to manhandle': earlier in Sessions, May 1835.—5. To scratch (an entry, an event): Shrewsbury: since ca. 1936. Marples.

scram is also short for the official scramble, wrongly classified in The Reader's Digest of Feb. 1941 as s.: (of aircraft) to take off: R.A.F.: since 1939. Article by E. P. in The New Statesman, Sept. 19, 1942.

scram bag. See steaming bag.

scramble, n. A dog-fight (p. 230): R.A.F.: 1939 +, but never very much used. Berrey; Jackson.

scramble, v. To use the scrambler, an apparatus for distorting telephone conversations: Army: 1939 +.

scrambled egg (R.A.F.: since ca. 1930) is the wearer (mentioned by Jackson) of:

scrambled eggs. 'The ornate gold oak leaves on the peak of an Air Commodore's cap [actually on that of any officer from Group-Captain upwards] are called "scrambled eggs";' Hector Bolitho in The English Digest, Feb. 1941: R.A.F.: since ca. 1925.

scran, adj. 'A Naval word meaning "good";' H. & P.: since ca. 1920. Prob. ex scran, n., 2 and 4, 5 (Dict.). But this is an adj. only by implication, as in 'That's scran!' = that's real scran (food). In short, the original Addenda entry is strictly a 'ghost' entry, retained only as a horrible warning.

scrap merchants or dealers. Souvenir hunters: Tommies': W.W. I. (A. B. Petch, April 1966.)

scrape, 'a predicament', is not—despite many people's impression—unconventional; it is (familiar) S.E.

scrape the bottom of the barrel. To use, or to approach in order to enlist, anyone at all to do something, esp. to fill a vacant position: coll.: since ca. 1945. After ca. 1955, often simply scrape the barrel.

scrape the kettle. To go to confession: lower-middle-class and proletarian Catholic: late C. 19–20.

scraper, 3 (p. 736) is recorded exactly ten years earlier (Alfred Burton, Johnny Newcome). Moe. Esp. Naval of ca. 1790–1840; W. N. Glascock, The Naval Sketch-Book (I, 34), 1825, defines it as a 'gold-laced cocked hat'. Moe.

scraper ring. 'The middle or half-ring on the cuffs of a Squadron-Leader's tunic'; R.A.F.: since ca. 1920. Jackson, 'In a piston there is a compression ring, an oil-retaining ring and a middle, or scraper, ring.'

scrapper goes back to fifty years earlier: B. & L. scrappo. A scrap or fight: Australian (mostly youthful): since ca. 1925. (B., 1943.)

scratch, n.—4. A housemaid: Christ's Hospital: since ca. 1890. Marples.—5. The Captain's Secretary: Naval: C. 20. Granville. Also Sec. John Winton, We Joined the Navy, 1959.

scratch, v. To go fast, travel rapidly: Australian: since ca. 1920. Baker. Like a sprinter from the scratch-mark?

scratch !, have a. A 'c.p. of satirical encouragement to someone at a loss for answer or information' (Atkinson): C. 20. Ex advice to a man stirring uncasily as if at the bite of a flea.—2. A Cockney c.p. of contemptuous dismissal, as in 'Oi, goo-orn! 'Op it! Go and 'ave a scratch!': since ca. 1910. (Julian Franklyn.)

In sense 1, 'Is this not a suggestion that the puzzled one should scratch his head in bewilderment?': Leechman.

scratch-cat. A sour-tempered female: New Zealand feminine: ca. 1910–50. (Jean Devanney, Riven, 1929.)

scratched, have one's back. See back scratched.

scratcher, n.—3. (p. 737). Also in the Army: 1939 +.—4. A toe: Anglo-Irish: C. 29. 'A Real Paddy', Life in Ireland, 1822.—5. Usually pl., scratchers. The hand (Boxiana, IV, 1824): ca. 1815–60.—6. A slow driver: busmen's: since ca. 1925. He 'scratches about'. Contrast slasher 3.—7. A small ship: Merchant Navy: late C. 19–20. 'It scratches the dock wall in entering at ebb tides' (Frank Shaw).—8. Any scratching tool; also, the person operating it: fair-grounds': C. 20. (W. Buchanan-Taylor, Shake It Again, 1943.)

scratching, be. To be in a dilemma, a quandary: Australian: since ca. 1910. B., 1942. Like a hen, scratching about for food.

scratching one's balls (or ballocks), be or sit. Instead of being either active or alert, to sit or loll in idleness and vacancy: low coll.: late C. 19–20.

scratching rake. A comb: proletarian: from ca. 1870; ob. B. & L.

scream, n.—2. An uproar; a tremendous fuss, e.g. in the Press: since ca. 1925. (Norman.)

scream, v. Sense 1 derives ex: 2. (Of a thief, robbed by another) to apply to the police: c.: from ca. 1885. Whence:

scream like a wounded eagle. 'Said of one who makes a terrific fuss about something' (Leechman): Canadian: since ca. 1955.

scream the place down. To go to Scotland Yard to report one's loss: c.: from ca. 1900. Esp., to report a burglary, a sense that >, ca. 1935, gen. urban s. (Nigel Dennis in The Sunday Telegraph, July 9, 1961.)

screamer.—6. A whistling bomb: civilians and Services: Sept. 1940 +. H. & P. A 'terror bomb' with a scream-producing device.—7. A man very obviously homosexual: since ca. 1950. In, e.g., John Gardner, Madrigal, 1967. A 'roaring queer'.

screamer over the target. A man that sees danger everywhere—and is constantly drawing attention to it: R.A.F.: 1940 +.

screamers, the. An intense dislike of operational flying: R.A.F.: 1940–5. (P-G-R.)

screaming downhill, vbl n. 'Making a power dive in a fighter aircraft.' H. & P.: R.A.F.: since ca. 1938. A whistling noise is caused by the wind and perhaps by the propeller.

screaming hab-dabs, the. See hab-dabs above.

screaming shits, the. Diarrhoea: Forces': since ca. 1939.—2. Hence, give (one) the s.s., to get on the nerves of: Forces': since ca. 1940.

screech.—2. See giggle, 2, and cf. scream (p. 737).—3. (Cf. sense 1: p. 737.) Wine obtained by 111 Fighter Squadron, R.A.F., from the White Fathers at Thibar in Tunisia: 1943.

screechers, occ. Harry Screechers. Screeching drunk; hysterical: since late 1950's. Not common. (Peter Sanders.)

screw, n.—12. A glance, a look; esp. take a screw at, q.v.—13. A tight-fisted person: coll.: ca. 1820–90. 'He would call her an old screw, or skin-flint' (Hogg's Instructor, Nov. 55, 'Memoranda by a Marine Officer').

screw, v.—4. To scrutinize (a person); to eye, accusingly, up and down: mostly delinquent teenagers': C. 20. (Laurie Atkinson, Sept. 11, 1967.) Cf. screw, n., 12, above.

screw (a woman's) back legs off, (he'd). A c.p. that credits a man with satyriasis: mostly Services' esp. Naval: C. 20.

screw-driver. A hammer: carpenters' and joiners' jocularly: late C. 19–20.—2. A drink of vodka (or gin) and orange juice: since late 1940's. (David Wharton, June 6, 1966.)

screw the arse off (a woman). To coit with, vigorously and often: low: C. 20. Peter Crookston, Villain, 1967. Cf. screw back legs off above.

screw up (someone's) ogle. To punch so hard in the eye that it closes: boxing: ca. 1805–40. The Plymouth Telegraph, early 1822. Moe.

screwball, adj. and n. (An) eccentric: Canadian: adopted, during the 1930's, ex U.S. Perhaps from billiards or snooker. 'More likely from baseball, in which the screwball is a recognized pitch, but heavily influenced by screwy, 4 (Dict.)': Robert Clairborne, Aug. 31, 1966.

screwed.—2. Broken-up with hard work: Australian: C. 20. B., 1942. Cf. screw, a worn-out horse?

screwed up.—3. (Utterly) spoilt; wrecked; fouled up: Canadian: since ca. 1930. (Leechman.) Euphemistic for fucked-up.

Screws of the World. See Whore's Gazette.

screwy, 4 (p. 738). But in New Zealand since ca. 1910. (Ruth Park, Pink Flannel, 1955.) By the early 1960's, quite common in Britain, but as a reinforcement derived ex screwball (above), itself not unknown there since 1962.

scribe.—4. A forger: c.: C. 20. F. D. Sharpe, The Flying Squad, 1938.

scrigger. Scripture: Christ's Hospital: since ca. 1905. Marples. By 'the Oxford -er'.

scrimshank, n.—2. A hesitation—in order 'to avoid an issue' (L. E. F. English, 1955): Newfoundland: C. 20. Cf. scrimshanker on p. 738.

scrimshaw (etymology: 739, top). 'Perhaps connected with scrimshank, that is, work done or a hobby pursued during leisure hours on board ship. The old whalers' logs often had an entry "All hands at scrimshanking"' (Leechman).

scroof, v.i. To sponge or live on a person; v.t., scroof with: c.: ca. 1840–1910. B. & L. Perhaps ex scroof, n. (Dict.). Whence scroofer, a parasite: same status and period.

scrounge (p. 739).—2. In 1939–45 the soldiers used it to mean 'to avoid a fatigue'. (P-G-R.)

scrousher. An old, esp. if broken-down, gold-pro prospector or digger: New Zealand: since ca. 1862; long, merely historical. (Ruth Park, One-a-Pecker, Two-a-Pecker, 1958.) Perhaps an imitative word.—2. Hence (?), a prostitute: low Australian: late C. 19–20. (D'Arcy Niland, The Big City, 1959.)

scrub, n.—3. A small (dirty or slovenly) boy: Christ's Hospital: since ca. 1860. Marples. Cf. sense 1 (p. 739).—4. (Cf. scrub-bull at scrubber, 4: p. 739.) An inferior bull or cow: Canadian rural: since ca. 1920. (Leechman.)—5. A low-class prostitute: C. 18. James Dalton, A Narrative, 1728, at p. 17.

scrub, v.—4. Esp. in scrub it!, cancel it!; forget it!; Services (esp. R.A.F.): since ca. 1910. H. & P. I.e. wash it out (as e.g., with a scrubbing brush).—5. To reprimand: Naval: late C. 19–20.—6. To dismiss or give up or abandon (someone): Australian: since ca. 1935. (D'Arcy Niland, 1958.)—7. 'To assist in a surgical operation. "Will you scrub with me tomorrow?" I.e., will you scrub your hands (for asepsis) and follow me and assist?': Leechman. Canadian surgeons': since ca. 1945.

scrub cockie. A small farmer working land mainly covered with trees, or other rough land: Australian coll.: C. 20. B., 1942.

scrub-dashing, n. 'Riding through bush or scrub, esp. after strayed cattle or brumbies' (B., 1943): Australian coll.: C. 20.

scrub-happy. Suffering from nervous exhaustion resulting from service in outback regions, hence in the tropics: Australian soldiers': 1940–5. (B., 1943.)

scrub out. V.i., to cease to be friends: low: from ca. 1919. I.e. to wash it (friendship) out.

scrub round. To agree to forget; to omit, to cancel, ignore: Services: since ca. 1935 +. ob. H. & P. Elaboration of scrub, v., 4. Also scrub all round.—2. To take evasive action: 1939 +: R.A.F.: Jackson. Not general, because of confusion with sense 1. In the Navy, however, the term is frequently used (Granville, 1945).

scrubbed, get.—2. To be severely reprimanded or punished: Naval: C. 20. 'Taffrail', The Sub, 1917. Cf. sense 1 at get scrubbed (p. 325).

scrubber.—6. An other-ranker: Army: since ca. 1920. Cf. senses 3 and 4 (p. 739).—7. A low woman: mostly Army: since ca. 1925. In Liverpool (C. 20), a prostitute.—8. 'Any weedy or unpleasant person' (B., 1943): Australian: since ca. 1925. Ex sense 4 (p. 739).—9. A girl not at all glamorous: since ca. 1955.—10. 'An unwashed female teenager' (Robin Cook, 1962): since ca. 1945: c. >, by ca. 1955, also low s. Ex sense 7? scrubbers! That's finished, exists no longer: R.A.F. c.p.: since early 1930's. Jackson. Ex scrub, v., 4, prob. via scrub 'er!

scrubbing-brushes. Loaves of bread containing more bran and chaff than flour: Australian: ca. 1880–1930. (B., 1943.)

scruff, v.—2. To manhandle; to attack: Australian coll.: late C. 19–20. B., 1942. I.e. take by the scruff of the neck.—3. To seize (esp. a sheep): Australian abattoirs' coll.: C. 20. (Dick.) Cf. sense 2.

Scruff, the. 'The Desert Airforce (a combination of scruffy and R.A.F.). Eighth Army used to think that men of the Desert Airforce were dirtier and scruffier than themselves. A debatable point.' Thus Peter Sanders, à propos the war in North Africa in 1940–43; in The Sunday Times magazine, Sept. 10, 1967.

Scruffy Kings, the. The Liverpool Regiment: Liverpool: C. 20.

scrum, n.—2. Hence, a crowd or a 'rag': Rugby School: from the 1880's.—3. A threepenny bit: Australian: C. 20. Baker.

scrum, adj. Wonderful, excellent: schoolgirls': C. 20; by 1945, virtually †. Ex scrumptious.

scrunch. Food; esp. sweets (lollies): Australian: since ca. 1920. Baker. Cf. scruncher (Dict.).

scrutch. To scratch the crutch: Australian: since ca. 1930. (B., 1943.)

scud, n.—3. A travelling ticket inspector: railwaymen's: since ca. 1920. (Railway 2nd.) He works fast.

scud, v. Of persons: to run: Naval: late C. 18—mid-19. (W. N. Glascock, Sketch-Book, II, 1826. (Moe.) Ex the nautical S.E. sense.

scue. Randle Holme, 1688, lists this as a variant of skew (Dict.).

scuffer. A policeman: Liverpool: C. 20. Ex dial. scuff, to strike. (Frank Shaw.) Cf. scuffer (p. 740).

scuffle. To 'get by' or barely manage to exist: beatniks': since ca. 1959. Anderson, 'Some scuffle on leaves and coke' (lettuce and Coca-Cola).

scull about. To seek something easy to steal: c.: since ca. 1910. (The Free-Lance Writer, April 1948.) Cf. sculling around on p. 740; in 1939–45, sculling about was a variant. (P-G-R.) sculling around (p. 740). Earlier in 'Taffrail', The Sub, 1917.

scum, n. A 'fag'; new scum, a new boy: Shrewsbury: C. 20. Marples.

scungy or -ey. 'A pejorative currently'—June 1963—'popular in Sydney and Melbourne undergraduate circles' (B.P.). Perhaps ex Scottish and Northern Irish scunge, to slink about, and Scottish scunge, a sly or vicious fellow; or, as B.P. suggests, ex Australian scungy, scabby, itself perhaps s.—dating from ca. 1920. Cf. the archaic S.E. adj. scurvy.

scupper up. See jug up.

scurf, adj. (Of labour) cheap: Cockneys': ca. 1845–90. Mayhew, II, 1851. Cf. the n., 2 (p. 740).

scurze. 'Generic term for the whiskered' (Granville): Naval: since ca. 1925. There is a ref. prob. to furze, perhaps to scythe.

scut.—3. A female servant: Tonbridge School: C. 20. Also skiff.—4. 'A dirty, mean person' (L. E. F. English, Historic Newfoundland, 1955): Newfoundland: C. 20. A specialisation of sense 2 (p. 741).

scutcher. Anything very large or, esp., very good; adj., excellent: Australian: since ca. 1910. B., 1942. ? scotcher something, 'killing' (to scotch a snake).

scuttle, v.—8. To disappear: R.A.F. coll.: since ca. 1938. H. & P. Cf. senses 1 and 5.—9. To fail (a candidate): Cape Town University: ca. 1940–5.—10. v. reflexive, to make oneself scarce: ibid.: ca. 1940–5. Prof. W. S. Mackie, in The Cape Argus, July 4, 1946.

scuttle, to carry tales; scuttle-cat, a sneak: Christ's Hospital: since ca. 1870. Marples. Cf. the U.S. Naval s. scuttlebutt, a rumour.

scuttle, do a back.—2. But also to coit dorsally: low: C. 20.

'se.—2. Am: children's coll.: C. 19–20; perhaps from C. 15. Also dial.

se for this is a characteristic of Cockney speech. Thus in W. Pett Ridge, Mord Em'ly, 1898: 'I was in the orspital for monse and monse.'

sea attorney. Synonymous with sea lawyer (Dict. and above): Naval: since ca. 1810. Fredk Chamier, The Life of a Sailor, 1832, at II, 17. (Moe.)

sea-coal. Smuggled spirits: mid-C. 18—mid-C. 19. (S. R. Crockett, The Raiders, 1894.)

sea-cook, son of a (p. 741), is recorded in 1806: John Davis, The Post-Captain. (Moe.)

sea daddy. A staid rating: Naval: since ca. 1900. Granville, 'Usually a badgeman who acts as mentor to new entries'. 'Taffrail' uses it in Pincher Martin, 1916.

sea-flea. 'A very fast motor boat that skips and bounces over the ocean like a flea on a sheet' (Lecchman): mostly Canadian: since ca. 1950. Perhaps ex the U.S. s. sea-flea, an outboard motor boat (W. & F.).

Sea-Gallopers' Society, the. The Imperial Maritime League, set up (ca. 1901) in opposition to the Navy League.

sea-gull. See seagull (Dict.).

sea(-)lawyer should be dated back to ca. 1820, for it occurs in The Canton Register, July 4, 1837 (p. 112), in a letter written by a British sea captain, Christopher Biden, and in W. N. Glascock, Sailors and Saints (I, 18), 1829. Moe.

sea miles than you've had (or eaten) pusser's peas, I've done (or had) more. A boast of comparatively long service at sea: Naval: since ca. 1917. (Pusser, purser.) Cf. the Army's and R.A.F.'s get your knees brown! (hot-country service) and get some in! (general).

seabees. R.A.F. men serving with the Navy: 1944–5. Gordon Holman, Stand by to Beach, 1944.

seagull on. Synonym of pigeon on: Australian: C. 20. B., 1942.

seamer. A medium- or a fast-medium-paced ball delivered with a skilful use of the seam: cricketers': since ca. 1948. By 1960, coll.

Seasiders, the. The St Kilda footballers: Melbourne: since ca. 1910. (B., 1943.)

seat.—2. the seat is the hip pocket: c.: late C. 19–20. I.e. in pickpocketing. Cf. outer, q.v.

seat-of-the-pants flyer. One of the pioneers of air transport over the unmapped Canadian North during the 1920's and 1930's: Canadian coll.: at first, modestly among themselves; then, admiringly by journalists: since ca. 1925; after ca. 1950, mostly historical 'They flew, with few instruments, over practically uninhabited country, to land on small lakes or rude airfields' (F. E. L. Priestley).

seats. Buttocks: partly humorous and partly euphemistic; and, in the main, middle-class domestic: since ca. 1945. 'She has prominent'—or 'a prominent pair of'—'seats'.

seeko. A male pervert: low Australian: since ca. 1925. (Ruth Park, Poor Man's Orange, 1950.) Ex seek? No! Either ex Italian secco, dry, or ex French sec with anglicized spelling + the Australian suffix -o.

second, n.—2. (Also adj.) Second-hand; seconds, second-hand goods: dealers' coll.: C. 19–20.

second-class buff. A Stoker, 2nd class: Naval: C. 20. (P-G-R.)

second dicky.—2. Hence, Reserve pilot in an aircraft: Air Force: since ca. 1938. Jackson. (Don't give yourself away by speaking of a 'first dicky'—the term does not exist.)

second eleven, the. The Commander and the deputy heads of department, as opposed to the Captain and the heads of department, on board a capital ship. Naval: since ca. 1940. Ex cricket.

second-hand daylight. The light of another world: non-aristocratic: ca. 1890–1910. B. & L.

Ex a music-hall song. Cf. second-hand sun in Dict. second horse, the. See hot seat.

seconds, the. Nervousness: since ca. 1930. (Nicholas Blake, The Whisper in the Gloom, 1954.) Perhaps ex 'second thoughts'.

secret works. Automatic air-brake application: Canadian railroadmen's (— 1931). Ironic.

seduce my ancient footwear! See fuck my old boots above.

sedulous ape. A writer that, aiming at a certain periodical, imitates the style, arrangement, etc., of its articles: authors' coll.: since ca. 1890. Ex a famous passage in Robert Louis Stevenson, who speaks of having, in his essays, 'played the sedulous ape' to such as Montaigne and Hazlitt.

see! or you see. A conversational tag among those who possess a meagre vocabulary: late (? mid) C. 19–20.

see a man (p. 742): see a man about a dog.—2. Often, too, in answer to an inconvenient question about one's destination: C. 20, also = to go to the lavatory (to urinate only): men's: late C. 19–20.

see anything, as in 'Have you seen anything?' —'Have you had your monthly courses?': a lower and lower-middle class feminine euphemism: mid-C. 19–20 >, 1910, coll.

see (someone's) arse for dust, you couldn't. He departed in a tremendous hurry: c.p.: late C. 19–20.

see-ers-off-ers. 'R. N. drinking gradations, when drink is shared: allowed to drink the whole of (the rest of) a tot' (Laurie Atkinson, Sept. 11, 1967): C. 20.

see it, cannot (or be unable to). To see one's way to doing something; to concur or agree: coll.: mid C. 19–20. "'Get up, my man, and let us go on," said the stranger, almost throttling Cracroft. That worthy gentleman, however, "could not see it", as we now say in modern slang. With a struggle he stammered that he had lost the wager': Renton Nicholson, An Autobiography, 1860, at p. 67.

see Mrs Murphy. See Mrs Murphy.

see-o. See seo (Dict.).

see off (p. 742): Much used in the Navy. Granville.—2. To defeat (in, e.g., a boat race): Naval: C. 20. Granville. Current among Cambridge undergraduates at least as early as 1930, as in 'I had an affair with a Buick near Reading, but as he can't corner, I saw him off through that esses bend' (passed him in his despite).—3. Hence, to outwit: Naval: since ca. 1920.—4. To attend to (a task, an emergency) effectually: since ca. 1940.

see (somebody) over the side. To accompany someone to the door in saying au revoir: Canadian: since ca. 1945. Ex the Navy. (Leechman.)

see the shine by moonlight. To take a night walk with a female companion: Australian: since ca. 1925. Baker. The shine on the water of sea or river or billabong. (More poetic than most Australian s.)

see (a newspaper) to bed. To set the presses in motion for the print of an edition: journalistic: C. 20.

see ya! A post-1945 English, esp. London, shape of the next.

see you! Au revoir!: Australian coll.: since ca. 1930. Baker. I.e. I shall see you: cf. I'll be seeing you!

see you later, alligator! Au revoir!: Canadian c.p.: ca. 1948–60. The c.p. response is in a while, crocodile! This sort of rhyming c.p. was, ca. 1953–7, a vogue, current also in advertising; it has left a meagre residue of a very few phrases, which, after their heyday, strike one as being even more moronically painful than they were when popular.

seed tick. 'The larval stage of the cattle tick' (B., 1959): Aus. rural coll.: C. 20.

seeing you! A variant—and obviously a derivative—of I'll be seeing you, q.v. at see you! above.

seen the French king, to have. See 'Tavern terms', § 8.

segarney. A loose Australian variant of sirgarneo: C. 20. (Vance Palmer, Cyclone, 1947.)

segs on the dooks. Work-callused hard skin, or callosities, on the hands: Services, esp. Army: since ca. 1939. H. & P., 'Very popular amongst transport drivers.' See dukes (Dict.); seg or segg is North Country dial., ? ex Fr. sec, 'dry'.

sei-cordi box. A guitar: parlary: since ca. 1945. Lit., a six-strings box: a guitar usually has six strings. Like most parlary terms, it comes from Italian.

seksion. A section: Regular Army sol.: ca. 1880–1912.

Selborne's Light Horse. Recorded earlier in 'Taffrail', who makes the nickname clearer: 'The "C.I.V.'s" or "Selborne's Light Horse" . . . are . . . the names given to the temporary service ordinary seamen who entered the Navy for five years while Lord Selborne was First Lord of the Admiralty. The scheme was brought in soon after the South African War, hence the names.'

seldoms, the. Money, esp. cash: mostly Naval: ? ca. 1810–50. In The Night Watch, II (p. 88), 1828, we find 'To save the seldoms, (you know what I mean, Wad? the dibbs, the shiners, ye rascal!) they sent their daughter to service.' (Moe.) Because seldom come by, hard to get.

sell a pup and hold the baby (both in Dict.) are both, perhaps rather fortuitously than significantly, anticipated in this refrain of a late C. 17 or early C. 18 ballad (Roxburghe, xxxi, 8):

'This Lady of Pleasure she got all my treasure, Adzooks! she left me the dog to hold.'

sellout, v.i. To vomit: Australian: C. 20. B., 1942.—2. To betray a cause, one's country, etc.: coll.: adopted, ca. 1945, ex U.S. Ex selling out one's business to a competitor, esp. if unexpectedly or after loud assurances to the contrary.

selling!, not. See I'll bite.

s'elp me, Bill Arline!; s'elp me tater! Synonyms of s'elp me Bob!: proletarian: resp. ca. 1870–1910 and from ca. 1855 (ob.).

s'lp me Bob! Earlier in Benj. Webster, The Golden Farmer, 1833.

semi. A semi-detached house: suburban coll.: since ca. 1930. Ruby Ferguson in The Queen's Book of the Red Cross, 1939; J. Symons, The Gigantic Shadow, 1958. Also in Australia (originally an estate-agents' term): B., Australia Speaks, 1953.—2. A semi-final: sporting, esp. Australian since ca. 1930; by 1965, coll. (B.P.)

send. To afford much pleasure to, as in 'His music doesn't send me': Canadian (? ex U.S.): since ca. 1935. Perhaps elliptical for 'send into ecstasies'. (Leechman.) Also, to excite. Both nuances were, ca. 1960, adopted by British s., esp. among jazz-lovers.

send along. To send to gaol; esp., to cause to be arrested: Australian coll.: since ca. 1870. Tom Ronan, Moleskin Midas, 1956.

send her down, Hughie! An Australian c.p., expressing an urgent desire for rain: late C. 19–20. During World War I, the ‘Diggers’ used send her down, Steve! (B., Australia Speaks, 1953.) See David!, send it down (p. 209).

send it down, Davy lad! A Regular Army variant of send it down, David!: p. 209.

send me! (p. 744). Also used by Birmingham schoolboys as early as 1890. ‘I think it must be from God send . . ., i.e. “grant”,’ Dr C. T. Onions, postcard of June 13, 1939.

send (someone) to (his, etc.) long account. To kill, or cause to be killed: coll. (? orig. Naval): C. 19–20. Fredk Marryat, Frank Mildmay, 1829 (p. 294 of 1897 edition), ‘He was one . . . whom you sent . . . to his long account; and it was fortunate for you that you did; . . . that man would have compassed your death.’ (Moe.) The final accounting.

send up.—3. To blow sky-high, esp. with heavy shells: Artillery: 1914–18. (Ian Hay, Carrying On, 1917.)

sender (p. 744). Much earlier; it occurs in Boxiana, II, 1818, as pugilistic s. and it prob. dates from ca. 1805 or a few years earlier.

sengwich. Sandwich: Cockney sol.: from ca. 1870. (Anstey, Voces Populi, II, 1892.) ‘But not now! As near as one can get, it is senwidge or sanwidge or samwidge—the last is suburban’ (Julian Franklyn, 1962).

Senior. The senior Engineer Lieutenant of the Engine-room: Naval officers’ coll.: C. 20. (P-G-R.)

senior scribe, the. The N.C.O. in charge of the Orderly Room: R.A.F. (mostly officers’): since ca. 1930. Jackson. Humorous. Cf. owner’s scribe.

sensitive plant. The nose: pugilistic c.: ca. 1815–60. Boxiana, II, 1818; III, 1821; IV, 1824.

sent, get. See ‘Jazz Slang’ above.

serf. A fag (at school): Cranbrook School: C. 20.

sergeant.—4. See ‘Tavern terms’, § 4.—5. A Commander or a Head of Department in a battleship or an aircraft carrier: Naval wardrooms’: since ca. 1935. (Cf. sergeants’ union below.)

Sergeant of the Coif. See ‘Tavern terms’, § 4.

sergeant’s (or sergeants’) run. ‘A run ashore given by the Heads of Departments (fellow Commanders—wearers of three stripes) to a departing Commander on the eve of his leaving to take up an appointment elsewhere. If [he is] a popular messmate, members of the sergeants’ union give this traditional gin-up at the favourite pub in the port to which the ship is attached’ (Wilfred Granville, Sept. 23, 1967): Naval: since ca. 1920 (? earlier).

sergeants’ union, the. The Commanders aboard an H.M. ship: Naval: since ca. 1920. Ex their three stripes. Cf. Jimmies’ Union and watch-keepers’ union.

Seringapatam. Ham: rhyming s.: late C. 19—early 20. (J. Redding Ware, Passing English, 1909.)

Serps, the. The Serpentine: low London: C. 20. James Curtis, You’re in the Racket Too, 1937.

servants’ united effort. Lemonade: R.M.A., Woolwich: from ca. 1920. By indelicate allusion to the colour of the fluid. Gen. abbr. to S.U.E.

serve out slops (p. 745) prob. goes back to ca. 1790. It occurs in W. N. Glascock, Sketch-Book, I, 1825. (Moe.)

served with his papers. ‘Being dealt with as an habitual criminal,’ F. D. Sharpe, The Flying Squad, 1918: police: C. 20.

service-stripes. ‘Broad diamond bracelets, as collected by experienced cocottes’: Naval and military, hence Society: from ca. 1918. Raymond Mortimer, in The Listener, March 10, 1937. They resemble Service galons.

sesame. A pass word: since ca. 1930. Ex the open sesame! of the Arabian tale.

sesh. Session, as in ‘A “rug-cutting” sesh at the local dance-hall’ (private letter of Oct. 16, 1947).

sesquies, the. ‘The 150th anniversary celebrations of Sydney and Parramatta . . . in 1938,’ B., 1942.

set, n.—2. An accident: taxicab-drivers’: from ca. 1925. Ex set-up, 7 (Dict.).—3. Full beard and moustache: Naval: C. 20. Granville.

set, have. Sense 1 (p. 746): since ca. 1890. (Sidney J. Baker, letter.)

set (one’s) child a-crying. (Of a watchman) to spring or sound one’s rattle: fast life: ca. 1810–40. Spy, 1825.

set ’em up in the other alley. ‘A c.p. used when a task is accomplished. “O.K. So that’s that. Now set ’em up in the other alley.” In other words, “Well, that’s done. What’s next?”’ (Leechman.) Mostly printers’: C. 20.

set on, get a. See get a set on.

set to rights. To set right: coll.: C. 19–20. (Glascock, Sketch-Book, II, 1826.) Moe.

set-up.—2. ‘A place setting at the dining table: knife, fork, spoon, plates, etc. “How many set-ups for the Smith banquet?” “Oh, let’s say a hundred and twenty.”’ (Leechman.) Canadian restaurateurs’ and caterers’ coll.: since ca. 1950.

set up (one’s) stall. To settle down on an easy wicket and make a big score: since ca. 1930. ‘The ball came off the turf and unhurried . . . It was par excellence the sort of pitch on which, in the cricketer’s phrase, a batsman can “set up his stall”,’ E. W. Swanton in The Daily Telegraph, Oct. 26, 1946.

settle-us powders. Seidlitz powders: (mostly) Australian; partly jocular and partly folk-etymological: C. 20. (B.P.) settlement. A cemetery: Australian: late C. 19–20. B., 1942. ‘Oh, lucky Jim . . .’

settler’s clock; settler’s matches. A kookaburra; readily inflammable strips of bark: Australian coll.: since ca. 1870. Baker.

seven, throw a. To die: Australian: late C. 19–20; ob. by 1940. (Dr J. W. Sutherland, letter of Jan. 21, 1940.) A die has no ‘7’. B., 1942, notes the variants . . . six, sixer, willy.

Robert Clairborne, however, says, ‘More likely, I think, from craps, where to throw a seven (when one is trying to make a point) is to lose—to “crap out”, itself occ. used in U.S. as synonym for “die” (more commonly, to depart, to withdraw).’

seven and six, was she worth it? A Bingo c.p.: since ca. 1955.

seven-bell. Tea at 3.30 p.m.: Naval officers’ coll.: since ca. 1910. Granville. Hence:

seven-beller. A cup of tea: Navy: since ca. 1920. H. & P. Ex nautical seven bells.

Seven Bob Beach. Seven Shilling Beach, Sydney: Sydneysites' coll.: C. 20. B., 1942.

seven-pennorth.—3. A rest-day when one should be working: London busmen's: since ca. 1930.

'sevening. This evening: Australian semi-literate: late C. 19–20. (Kylie Tennant, Lost Haven, 1947.)

sevenpence over the wall. Seven days' confinement to camp: R.A.F.: since ca. 1925. Jackson. See over the wall; the abbr. 7d. for 'seven days'. has been apprehended as 'seven pence'—and vice versa. See Underworld (at 'sevenpence' and 'ninepence').

sevens and elevens, everything is or was or will be. Everything is (or was or will be) perfect: Canadian c.p.: since ca. 1910. 'From shooting dice, where sevens and elevens are desirable scores' (Leechman).

seventeen. A corpse. Australian low: C. 20. B., 1942. Why?

[Seventeenth-century drinking terms. See 'Tavern Terms . . .'] seventy-two. A 72-hours' pass or leave: Services' coll.: since ca. 1914.

severe. A severe reprimand: Regular Army (esp. N.C.O.'s) coll.: C. 20. Gerald Kersh, Boots Clean, 1941.

sewed up. Sense 7 (tipsy) occurs earlier in Alfred Burton, Johnny Newcome, 1818. (Moe.)—9. (A specialisation of sense 4: p. 747.) In the game of pool, (to have been) put into such a ball-position that it is difficult to play: Canadian: since ca. 1925. (Leechman.)

sewer press, the. The gutter press (newspapers careless of morals, negligent of truth, but very, very wide-awake to profit): coll.: since ca. 1943.

sewer-rats. 'Description of passengers in 2d. tube by indignant bus-drivers when the Oxford Street Tube opened in 1900': 1900–ca. 1902.—2. 'L.T.E. motormen' (Railway, 3rd): London Transport employees': since ca. 1945 (?).

sewn up. A variant of buttoned up, q.v.: Services: since ca. 1936. H. & P. By 1946, quite common, esp. in 'Everything's sewn up' or organized, arranged, settled.

sex-appeal bombing. Air-raid(s) directed against hospitals, schools and, in short, against civilians: R.A.F.: 1930 +. Jackson. Ironical.

sex-appeal Pete. A semi-armour piercing shell: Naval: 1939–45. (P-G-R.)

sex-kitten. A (young) girl addicted to making the most of her sexual attractions in order to gain masculine admiration and attention: coll.: since late 1950's. It used, ca. 1960, to be very freely applied to Brigitte Bardot and, since ca. 1965, to her imitators.

sex on. See pash on above.

sexing-piece. Penis: since ca. 1925. Cf. S.E. fowling-piece.

sex-pot or sexpot. A very desirable female: adopted, ca. 1960, ex U.S.

sex(-)up. To render a manuscript (more) sexually exciting: authors' and publishers': since ca. 1945.

Sexton Blake.—2. Cake: rhyming: late C. 19–20. Often shortened to Sexton.

sexy (or sexie). A Korean girl generous in her favours: United Nations troops in Korea: ca. 1952–5.

sexy, adj. Agreeably efficient; simple and neat and efficient: Australian, esp. Sydney: since the late 1950's. 'Have you seen the automatic choke in that car?'—'Yes, rather sexy, what!' (B.P.) shack.—2. A brakeman: Canadian railwaymen's: since ca. 1900. (Frederick Niven, Wild Honey, 1927.)

shack, go. To share a parcel with one's school-fellows: Felsted: since ca. 1875; ob. Cf. Christ's Hospital shag, a share: ? quelquechose pour chaque personne (or . . . pour chacun).

shack off. To abuse; to reprimand: Oundle: since mid-1920's. Marples. Origin?

shack up. To live together although unmarried: Canadian: adopted, ca. 1945, ex U.S. By ca. 1955, also British, esp. Londoners'. Also as in 'They've been shackled up for some months' (Mark McShane, The Straight and Crooked, 1960). Perhaps ex 'to live together in a shack'.

shackie. A white girl living with a coloured man: low London: since ca. 1950. Cf. the U.S. shacked up, living together although unmarried.

shackle, n. and v. A, to, 'rag': Dalton Hall, Manchester: since ca. 1935. The Daltonian, Dec. 1946.

shackle up, v.i. To cook odds and ends of meat, etc., by the side of the road: tramps' c.: C. 20. Ex shackle-up, n.: in Dict.

shade, v.—2. To be superior to or better than: Australian coll.: C. 20. Semantics: 'to overshadow'. D'Arcy Niland, Call Me . . ., 1958, 'Her figure's no better than mine; in fact, I'd shade her a bit, I'd say.'

shaded, ppl adj. Reduced in price: commercial and trade: since ca. 1920.

shadow.—2. A woman watching 'dress-women' prostitutes: C.: ca. 1860–1910. James Greenwood.

shadows—the singular is rare. Members of the Opposition's 'Shadow Cabinet': political and journalistic coll.: since ca. 1964.

Shady. A common nickname of men surnamed Lane: C. 20. Contrast Dusty Rhodes.

shaft, v. To copulate with (a girl): low: since late 1940's. Perhaps prompted by pole, v., 3, above.

shaftable. (Of a woman) bedworthy: low: since ca. 1950. Ex preceding.

shafti (or -y). See shuffy.

shag, it's a bit of a. It's a bore, a nuisance: certain Public Schools': C. 20.

shag, miserable as a. Very miserable indeed: Australian coll.: late C. 19–20. B., 1942. Cf. wet as a shag (p. 748). Cf.:

shag-bags. A dirty pair of flannel trousers: Cranbrook School: since ca. 1920. Perhaps ex shag-bag (p. 743).

shag labourer. A labourer (or almost) member of the beatnik clan: beatniks': since ca. 1960. Anderson, 'Partial to a particularly powerful blend of shag' (tobacco).

shag-nasty. An unpopular man: C. 20.

shag off. To go away: low: late C. 19–20. Prompted by fuck off.

shag on a rock, standing out—occ. sitting—like a; or . . . like a lily on a dirt-tin; or, rarely, . . . like a beer bottle on the Coliseum. These picturesque Australian similes, dating from, resp., ca. 1930, 1935, 1945, bear three distinct senses: Lonely, as in 'He shot through and left me sitting like a shag on a rock'; conspicuous, as in 'It stood out like a lily on a dirt-tin'; incongruous, as in 'He was as out of place as a beer bottle on the Coliseum'. (B.P.) The first occurs in Nino Culotta, Cop This Lot, 1960, "'Shootin' through ter bloody Italy and leavin' me here like a shag on a rock.'" shag one's lugs off. (Of the male) to coit vigorously and enthusiastically: Naval: C. 20.

Shagbat. A Walrus aircraft: R.A.F. (esp. Coastal Command) and Naval: since ca. 1940. H. & P.; Partridge, 1945, 'A bat flies; walrus whiskers are shaggy'; Granville.

shagged, adj. Weary, exhausted: Army: 1940+. Cf. shag, adj. (Dict.). Army use adopted ex Public Schools' s. of C. 20. Ex the next?

shagged out. Exhausted, utterly weary: Clifton College: late C. 19-20. Of same origin as shag, adj. (q.v. on p. 748); cf. shagged.

Shagrooms. Australian settlers that went, en masse, to Canterbury, New Zealand, in 1851-2: Australian and New Zealand: ca. 1851-70. B. 1942. With a pun on shagreen, the rough skin of sharks. But Keith Sinclair, A History of New Zealand, 1959, writes: 'Term used in Canterbury for Australian stockdrovers. (Derived from Irish Shaughraun, Saxon [hence, foreigner]?)' shags, go.—2. To go shares: Public Schools': late C. 19-20. (Ernest Raymond, Tell England, 1922.)

shags-pot. A term of abuse for a man, but esp. for a fellow schoolboy: Clifton College: C. 20. I.e. a 'pot' (chap) that 'shags' (v., 2).

shah. A tremendous 'swell': mostly Cockneys': ca. 1880-1910. B. & L.

Shaiba blues, the. Homesickness among air-men overseas, originally at the R.A.F. Station, Shaibah, on the Shatt-el-Arab in the Persian Gulf: R.A.F.: since ca. 1925. (C. H. Ward Jackson, Airman's Song Book, 1945.)

shake, n., 5. Also, esp. among Cockneys: (in) two shakes of a donkey's (or a monkey's) tail: from ca. 1910. The lamb's tail form has, since ca. 1905, taken also the form, in two shakes of a dead lamb's tail.—9. A 'slur' on a printed sheet, the slur being caused by an uneven impression: printers' coll.: mid-C. 19-20. B. & L.—10. See shake, the.—11. A throw of the dice to decide who is to pay for drinks: Australian coll.: C. 20. B., 1942.—12. A party: beatniks': since ca. 1958. Anderson. Cf. the quotation at rave, 4, above.

shake, v.—8. See that shook him.—9 To borrow money (a person): Australian: since ca. 1910. Baker.—10. To stir up (the sluggards): Services, esp. Naval, coll.: since ca. 1920. (P-G-R.)

shake, the. Pick-pocketing: c.: C. 20. Cf. shake, v. 3, 4, in Dict.

shake a cloth in the wind.—2. Gen. as ppl adj., shaking . . . To be slightly intoxicated: nautical: from ca. 1865. B. & L. A much earlier use of the phrase occurs in W. N. Glascock, The Naval Sketch-Book (II, 33), 1826. Moe.

shake a toe. To dance: ca. 1820-80. Sinks, 1848.

shake and shiver. A river: theatrical rhyming s.: late C. 19-20. (Franklyn, Rhyming.)

shake-bag.—2. Prostitute: ca. 1730-1890. Smollett, Humphrey Clinker, 1771, 'I would pit her for a cool hundred (cried Quin) against the best shake-bag of the whole main.' Cf. sense 1 on p. 749; sense 1, therefore, may go back to early C. 18.

shake(-)book. A notebook that, kept by the quartermaster of the watch, contains the names of the men to be roused during the night: Naval: C. 20. Granville.

shake-down or shakedown. Blackmailing of bookmakers: c.: C. 20. In Australia, violent threats; a 'rough house': B., 1942, as the shake-down.

shake hands with an old friend; shoot a lion; spend a penny. To urinate: euphemistic: since ca. 1880. A Forces' (1939-45) variant of the first is: shake hands with the bloke one enlisted with (Atkinson) . . . A general variant (C. 20) is shake hands with Mr Right or with him, which bears the additional sense (low: C. 20), to masturbate. As 'to urinate', there is a further variant: shake hands with one's wife's best friend, as in Nicholas Monsarrat, The Nylon Pirates, 1960.

shake the lead out of your arse! Got a move on!: Canadian workmen's c.p.: since ca. 1930.

shake-up. An unnerving experience: coll. late C. 19-20.—2. Strenuous 'gym' for a large class: Royal Naval College, Dartmouth: C. 20. Granville.

shaker.—5. Any rickety vchile: Australian: late C. 19-20. B., 1942. Cf. sense 3 (p. 749).

Shakers, the. Bury Association Football Club: sporting: C. 20. They've 'shaken' many strong teams.

shakings. Litter, e.g. fragments of paper or thread: Naval: ca. 1800-50. W. N. Glascock, Sailors and Saints (I, 143), 1829. Moe.

shaky do. A mismanaged affair, e.g. a bungled raid, work badly done, something that has—or very nearly has—serious consequences; also, 2, a risky, haphazard raid necessitated by general policy; 3, a dangerous raid, esp. a very dangerous one: R.A.F.: the first (H. & P.), since ca. 1935; the second, since late 1939 (Brickhill & Norton, Escape to Danger, 1946); the third, since late 1940, as in James Aldridge, Signed With Their Honour, 1942, and in Robert Hinde, letter of March 17, 1945. See do, n., 2 (Dict.).—4. Hence, an arrangement or agreement or contract that, apparently fair, is, in the fact, one-sided: since ca. 1945.

Shaky Isles, the. New Zealand: Australian coll.: C. 20. (B., 1943.) Ex numerous earthquakes, esp. in the North Island.

shaky tot. Synonymous with deep-sea tot. (P-G-R.)

shall us? Let's. A c.p., esp. among juveniles: ca. 1895-1914. Perhaps it originates in the Cockneys' shall us? for shall we? (Suggested by the article 'Cockneyism Vindicated' in La Belle Assemblée, New Series, No. 148 (April 1821), on p. 176.)

shalloming, n. Doing something one wishes or likes to do: Army: since ca. 1925. Ex emphatic shall? 'Can Hebrew "shalom" (peace) be involved?' Dr Leechman pertinently asks. Well, it does seem possible.

shallow, n., ('hat'), on p. 749, survived until ca. 1870. Renton Nicholson, An Autobiography, 1860, at p. 87.

sham-Abraham seems to be the predominant C. 19 Naval ratings' form of Abraham-sham on p. 2. (W. N. Glascock, Sketch-Book, 2nd Series, 1834, at I, 291, and II, 272.)

Sham Berlin. The Rt Hon. Neville Chamberlain: lower and lower-middle classes': Sept. 22, 1938–Aug. 3, 1939. Ex his propitiatory visits to Hitler.

Sham saint, pass a. See 'Verbs'.

shambles. Uproar; confusion; 'mess': Services (mostly officers): 1939 +; by 1945, also civilian. Brickhill & Norton, 1946, 'While the new camp was in the shambles of moving in and settling down' and 'Everything was in a shambles'. Ex the definition of shambles as, e.g., 'bloody confusion'.

shambling, n. Ragging the authorities: Royal Naval College, Dartmouth: since ca. 1930. Granville. Creating a 'shambles'.

shame!, it's (or it's only) a. Variation of rumour!, it's a. B., 1942.

shame on your shimmy! Shame on you!: lower-middle class c.p.: since ca. 1930.

shame to take the money, (it's) a. That's money very easily come by: c.p.: late C. 19–20.

shampoo. See shave, n., 7, in Dict.

shamus. A private detective: adopted, ca. 1944, from U.S. servicemen. (Cf. private eye.) Ex the Irish name Seumas, there being so many Irishmen in America, and so many of them connected with police work. Julian Franklyn, however, suggests that the word may represent the shamos, the sexton or caretaker of a synagogue. Hence, anyone who takes care of somebody else's problems for a fee. 'Assuming this was originally c., as seems likely, it would be consistent with the incorporation of other Yiddish terms into c. (e.g., "gun-moll" from "geniff-moll")': Robert Clairborne, Aug. 31, 1966. ('Seumas' is, in fact, a very uncommon name among Irish Americans.)

shandy man. Electrician: circus: since ca. 1910. Edward Seago, Sons of Sawdust, 1934. He causes things to sparkle.

shaney is a variant of shanny (Dict.).

shanghai, v.—2. To detail (someone) for special duty: Naval: since ca. 1925. (P-G-R.)

Shanghai'd (or shanghaied). Tossed from a horse: Australian: C. 20. B., 1942. Ex Australian shanghai, to shoot with a catapult.

shangie. A catapult: Australian, esp. juvenile: since ca. 1930. (B., 1953.) Ex shanghai.

shant.—2. A particular (alcoholic) beverage, "Thought you'd go for top-end shants—cocktails or sherry" (John Gloag, Unlawful Justice, 1962): C. 20. Ex sense 1 on p. 750.

sha'n't play!, I. I'm annoyed!; I don't like it: Australian c.p.: from ca. 1885; ob. B. & L. Ex children's peevishness in games.

shanting, n. The drinking of alcoholic liquor: low London: since ca. 1910. In, e.g., John Gloag, Unlawful Justice, 1962; cf. preceding entry.

shanty, 1 (p. 760): in New Zealand since before 1862. (B., 1941.)—5. A caboose: Canadian railroadmen's (— 1931). Derisively ex senses 1, 2.

shape, v. To shape up to, to (offer to) fight someone: Australian: C. 20. Baker.

share. A female easily accessible, esp. in 'a bit of share' (copulation): low: since the 1920's. Shared out?

share-certificate. A pimp's prostitute: white-slavers' c.: from ca. 1910. A. Londres, The Road to Buenos Ayres, 1928.

shark, n., 4 (p. 751): earlier in an unidentified British song antedating 1806, the year in which, on May 17 (p. 304), it appeared in an American magazine, The Port Folio. Moc.

—8. A ticket inspector: railwaymen's: C. 20. (Railway, 3rd).

shark-bait. Variant of shark-baiter (p. 751). K. S. Prichard, Intimate Stranger 1937.—2. Hence, 'Pickets supplied by a military unit to a town' (Baker): Australian soldiers': 1939 +.

Shark Parade. Bedford Row (many solicitors' offices): taxi-drivers': since ca. 1920. Cf. Thieves' Kitchen, 3.

sharkerie, better -y. Financial sharp-dealing or shameless exploitation of others: Australian coll.: since ca. 1925. B., 1942.

Shark(e)y. The almost inevitable nickname for men surnamed Armstrong: Services: C. 20. (P-G-R.)

sharks, esp. box of. (A tin of) sardines: nautical: C. 20. (P-G-R.)

sharonsed. Nonplussed: Newfoundland (? dial. rather than s. or coll.): C. 20. (L. E. F. English, Historic Newfoundland, 1955.) Ex Gaelic saraich, to distress, to overcome.

sharoshie. See xaroshie (Dict.).

sharp, adj. Rather too smartly dressed: Canadian: since ca. 1940. A sharp set of drapes = a too smart suit. Hence, by ca. 1944 (? ex U.S. servicemen), English.

sharp end, the. The bows of the ship: Naval jocular upon landlubbers' ignorance: C. 20. Granville. Cf. blunt end.—2. Hence, at the sharp—the blunt—end, well forward (at the front), well behind the lines: Army: 1940–5. (P-G-R.)

sharpies. That band, or gang, of rivals to the bodgies which lasted only about a year: Australian, esp. Melbourne, teenagers': mid-1950's. 'I guess you could say they were square-bodgies' (Dick). Ex their 'sharp' bodgie clothes.

sharping tribe, the. See 'Regues.'

sharpshooter (activity: sharpshooting). 'A person who mingles with a crowd round a bookmaker's stand, holds out his hand, and demands a ticket for a non-existent bet' (B., 1953): Australian sporting: since ca. 1930.

shat or shat-off, adj. Very angry; very much annoyed: low Australian since ca. 1945. (B.P.)

shat on from a great height. Reprimanded by someone of much higher rank: Services', esp. Canadian: 1939–45.

shat upon!, I won't be. I won't be 'squashed': c.p.: since ca. 1930. By a pun on sat upon and shit upon.

shatter, out on a. Engaged in making a heavy raid: R.A.F. bombers': April 17, 1943, John Bull.

Shaun Spadah. A motor-car: rhyming s. (? Deckland only): C. 20. Ex the name of a ship?

shauri, shauria. See 'Swahili words . . .' shave, a shilling, and a shove ashore, a. Short leave: Naval: C. 20. Cf. soldier's three-penn'orth.

shave off! An exclamation of surprise or amazement: Naval: since ca. 1920. Perhaps ex shave off!, an order issued to those who, after a probationary period, are refused permission 'to grow' (a beard).

shave off, v.i.; shave off at (someone). To deliver a severe reprimand (to someone): Naval since ca. 1920. (Wilfred Granville, letter of Aug. 10, 1962.) John Winton, We Joined the Navy, 1959, "'He shaved off at me this morning before I'd even had a chance to get a grip on things.'" shawk. An Indian kite: Anglo-Indian: from

ca. 1870. A blend of shit-hawk: in allusion to the scavenging characteristics of this bird.

shawly,—2. A shawl-wearing working-class woman: Anglo-Irish: C. 20. (Patrick Doncaster, A Sigh for a Drum Beat, 1947.) Ex sense 1 on p. 752; cf. the Anglo-Irish shawl, a prostitute, as in James Joyce, Ulysses, 1922, 'Fornicating with two shawls and a bully on guard.'

she,—4. Penis: Londoners': C. 20. Partly euphemistic, partly proleptic.—5. Used for it in impersonal constructions: Australian coll., based upon a practice common in the dialects of Ireland, Scotland, the North Country: late C. 19–20. Australian examples, extant in the 1960's: she's apples—jake—right. It's all right, or All's well. (B.P.)

she couldn't cook hot water for a barber. A c.p. (from ca. 1880) applied to a poor housekeeper, esp. to a girl unlikely to be able to 'feed the brute'.

she is, or was, so innocent that she thinks, or thought, Fucking is, or was, a town in China. A Londoners' c.p.: since ca. 1940. (Chinese Fukien is a S.E. maritime province.)

she walks like she's got a feather up her ass. A Canadian c.p. (C. 20)—applied to a woman with a mincing, self-conscious gait.

she'll die wondering. An Australian, c.p. (C. 20)—applied to a virgin spinster. Hence, at least she won't die wondering, applied, since ca. 1920, to a spinster marrying late and badly. (B.P.)

she would take you in and blow you out as bubbles. A c.p., used between men: low: C. 20. Aimed to deflate amorous bombast.

she wouldn't know if someone was up her. A low c.p., referring to a very stupid girl: mostly Australian: since ca. 1910.

shears, off the. (Of sheep) very recently shorn: Australian coll. (late C. 19–20) >, by 1940, S.E. B., 1942.

sheary. (Of a painted surface) drying out unevenly: builders' and house-painters': C. 20. Perhaps cf. Lincolnshire dial. sheary, sharp, cutting, (of grass) coarse. (E.D.D.)

sheekles! A s. Cockney expletive of late C. 19–20; ob. Pugh (2). Perhaps cf. shucks!

shed, n. A hangar: R.A.F. coll.: since ca. 1925. Jackson. By humorous depreciation.—2. Chapel: St Bees: since ca. 1910. Marples.—3. A common Australian conflation of shithead (below), itself Australian as well as New Zealand: since ca. 1925. Cf. shouse below. B.P.

sheebing. 'Black-market racketeering and profiteering in Germany. From the German schieben . . . "to push or shunt", the racketeer gangs making a practice of uncoupling a goods wagon from a train and shunting into a siding,' Albert B. Petch, Dec. 18, 1946: British Army of Occupation and officials in Germany since late 1945.

sheen,—2. Hence, money: Australian low: c. C. 20. Baker.

sheeny, 1 (p. 752). In 1.3, for 'C. 20' read 'C. 19' and note that, to most people, the term has always been somewhat offensive. To be noted is this passage from Richard Llewellyn, None But the Lonely Heart, 1943, "'Well, there's sheenies and Sheenies you know . . ." he says. . . . "Then there's Yids and Non Skids. To say nothing of the Shonks. Then there's Three Be Twos, and Jews.'" (See also my article, on Jews' nicknames, in Words at War: Words at Peace, 1948.)

Sense 1 arises earlier than the date noted on p. 752, for it occurs in J. H. Lewis, Lectures on the Art of Writing, 7th ed., 1816. (Moe.)

sheep-biter. See 'Occupational names'.

sheep-dodger; sheep-dodging. A sheep hand; 'sheep mustering and droving' (Archer Russell, Gone Nomad, 1936): Australian: C. 20.

sheep in wolf's clothing. A boy looking like a 'wolf', but so timid as to ask permission to kiss a girl: teenage girls': since ca. 1950.—2. 'A clergyman (not wearing his clericals) who tries to appear a man of the world' (Leechman): since ca. 1930.

sheep-pen. (?) Midshipmen's quarters: Naval: early C. 19. Fredk Marryat, Frank Mildmay, 1829 (at p. 202 of the 1897 edition), 'Reflecting, as I returned to the "sheep-pen", that I had nearly lost my promotion.' Moe.

Sheep-Shaggers, the. The Black Watch: Scottish military nickname: mid-C. 19–20.

sheep-sick. (Land) grazed too long by sheep: Australian rural coll.: C. 20. (B., 1943.)

sheep-wash, n.: Australian and New Zealand: C. 20. Inferior liquor. B., 1941, 1942. Some 'poison'!

sheepo. A shepherd: Australian and New Zealand: C. 20. Jean Devaney, The Butcher Shop, 1926.—2. As sheepo!, it is the call 'for the rousie (rouse-about) to fill the catching pen' (Straight Furrow, Feb. 21, 1968): N.Z. shearers': C. 20.

sheep's back, on the. Dependent upon wool: Australian coll.: C. 20. B., 1942, 'Australia's economic existence'.

sheet or two in the wind, a. Half-drunk: nautical, esp. Naval: 1832, Fredk Chamier, The Life of a Sailor, at I, 239. (Moe.) Perhaps the immediate source of sheet in the wind, a, on p. 753.

sheet short, have a. To be mentally deficient: Australian: since ca. 1910. B., 1942.

Sheffield handicap,—2. In C. 20, it = a defecation: sporting s.

sheikh; loosely but usu. sheik,—3. (Ex senses 1 and 2.) Any attractive and/or smartly dressed young man: from ca. 1931.

The entry on p. 753 needs to be modified. Miss Hull's novel, The Sheik, appeared in England in 1919; in U.S., 1921. The s. term arose in America in 1921 and soon 'caught on' in Britain. Cf. the entry at shoot a line below.

sheik(h), v. Esp., go sheik(h)ing, to seek feminine company: Australian: since ca. 1925. B., 1942.

Sheldogger, the. The Sheldonian Theatre: Oxford undergraduates' (— 1922). Marples, 2.

shelf, n.—2. A pawnshop: Australian c.: since ca. 1930. Baker. Ex sense 1; so many pawnbrokers turn informer.—3. As the shelf it = the dress circle in a cinema: Australian juvenile: since ca. 1945. (B., 1953.)

shelf, v. To inform upon: Australian: since ca. 1920. Vince Kelly, The Shadow, 1955.

shelfer (p. 753). Also Australian. Baker.

shell, in one's. Sulky: not inclined to talk: tailors' coll.: mid-C. 19–20. B. & L.

shell down. See shell out (Dict.).

shell-happy. Suffering from shell-shock: Army since 1940. (P-G-R.)

shell-out, n. The counterpart of sense 1 of the v. (p. 753): coll.: C. 20. B., 1942.

shell-shock is by tramps applied only to casual-ward tea.—2. A drink of spirits: Australian low: since ca. 1919. B., 1942.

shellback. See shell-back (Dict.).

shemuzzle (Dict.) is a corruption of Ger. schlimm and Hebrew mazel; lit. and orig., 'bad luck'.

Shepherd's Short-Range Group. 'G.H.Q., Cairo; especially when it was moved forward' (P-G-R): Army: 1940-3. Ex Shepherd's hotel; cf. Groppi's Light Horse.

shepherd, n.—2. A miner holding but not working a gold mine: Australian miners': since ca. 1870. B., 1942.

shepherd, v.—4. To act as a 'shepherd' (see prec. entry): Australian miners': since ca. 1880. Baker.

shepherds. Short for shepherd's plaid (Dict.).

shepherd's clock. Another synonym of bushman's clock; cf. settler's clock: Australian coll.: late C. 19-20. Baker.

shepherd's friend. The dingo: Australian ironic coll.: late C. 19-20. B., 1942.

shepherd's plaid (p. 754) was apparently † by 1950.

Sherlock Holmes! A c.p. directed at detection of the obvious: from ca. 1898; very ob. Obviously with reference to Conan Doyle's famous detective. Often abbr. to Sherlock!

sherrick, v.t.; sherrickin(g), vbl n. To scold severely, or to show up, in public; such a scolding or showing up: low Glasgow coll.: C. 20. MacArthur & Long, 'That strange and wild appeal to crowd justice and crowd sympathy which Glasgow describes as a "sherricking"'. Ex Scottish sherra, sherry, shirra or shirrymoor, a tumult or a 'tongue-banging' (E.D.D.).

Sherwood Forest. 'The two rows of Polaris missile tubes which run along each side of a submarine's interior. They resemble the trunks of trees in a forest glade' (Wilfred Granville, letter of Aug. 25, 1961): Naval: since 1960.

she's got her run on. A senior Public School girls' c.p.: applied to a period: C. 20.

she's right! Everything's all right: New Zealand c.p.: since ca. 1925. (J. H. Henderson, Gunner Inglorious, 1945.)

she's (very) good to the poor. See poor, she's . . .

she's wet. See brew, n., 3.

shevoo (p. 755). 'A "Chiveau", or merry dinner,' Jon Bee, A Living Picture of London, 1828. The word occurs as shiveau in A. Harris, The Emigrant Family, 1847: an Australian usage. B., 1942, uses the form shivoo.

shice, the. Welshing: c.: C. 20. F. D. Sharpe, 1938. Ex shice, n., 1, 4 (Dict.).

shicer, 2 (p. 755). In Australia, often unpromisingly used for 'a crook'. B., 1942.

shicey. A variant of shice, adj., esp. in sense 1. B. & L.

shick, n. A drunken person: Australian: since ca. 1920. (B., 1943.) Ex the adj. (p. 755).

shicked, adj. Tipsy: low Australian: since ca. 1910. Baker. Cf. shick (p. 755).

shicker, on the. (Of a person) drinking heavily: Aus.: C. 20. (B., 1959.)

shickered (p. 755). 'This is pure Hebrew,' A. Abrahams in The Observer, Sept. 25, 1938.—2. Bankrupt; very short of money: c.: since ca. 1945. Robin Cook, 1962.

shicksa. See shickster (Dict.).

shickster (p. 755) or shi(c)ksa, sense 2 ('a Gentile girl or woman'), was adopted from Yiddish; it is the feminine of Yiddish sheggetz, a Gentile man; 'sheggetz' and, through it, shicksa come from the Hebrew shekét, which means "detestable thing" or (ritually) "unclean animal". Mr Leonard Goldstein, April 6, 1967, adds "'Shicksa" to-day is about as pejorative as its opposite term, "Jewess". . . . "Goy" has few opprobrious connotations, and can be used almost interchangeably with "gentile".'

shift, v.—6. To travel speedily: Australian coll.: late C. 19-20. Of a sprinter it is often said that 'He can shift!' B., 1942. But also, since ca. 1919, English.

shift, do a.—2. Synonym of prec. entry: Australian: C. 20. Baker.—3. To decamp: Aus.: C. 20. (B., 1959.)

shift, go on a. See sod, 5.

shift your carcass! A synonym of move your carcass! (above).

Shifter, the. W. F. Goldberg of 'The Pink 'Un'.

shill or schill. A confidence-trickster's confederate: Australian c.: since ca. 1925. B., 1942. Cf:

shill or stick. One who plays or bets in order to encourage the genuine customers: Canadian carnival s.: C. 20. See Underworld.

shilling. 'Circular hammer-mark on wood—the sign manual of a poor carpenter' (Leechman): Canadian: C. 20.

shilling in the pound; e.g. eighteen or, say, twelve and six, to indicate slight mental dullness or mild insanity; 'He's only twelve and six in the pound': New Zealand: since ca. 1925. Niall Alexander, Oct. 22, 1939.

shimmy (p. 756). The shimmey form occurs earlier in Sessions, March 5, 1850.

shimmy, v. To oscillate or vibrate, esp. of the front wheels of a small motor-car: Canadian: ca. 1924-39. (Leechman.) Ex the shimmy-shake dance.

shin, v.—2. (Also shin off and do a shin.) To depart in a hurry or at speed: Australian: C. 20. B., 1942. Cf:

shin off. To depart: mostly Cockney: since ca. 1870. (A. Neil Lyons, Arthur's, 1908.) And see, shin, v., 2.—2. Hence, to decamp in haste: Aus.: C. 20. (B., 1959.)

shin out. To pay up (v.i. and v.t.): proletarian: from ca. 1860; ob. B. & L.

shin-plaster. A cheque; a bank-note: ca. 1870-1910. Ibid.—2. A Canadian 25-cent bill (note): Canadian: late C. 19-20; but, since ca. 1930, merely historical, the issue ceasing in 1923. (Leechman.) Both 1 and 2 owe much to the U.S. sense, '(doubtful) paper currency' of late C. 18-19: see esp. Mitford M. Mathews's fascinating Dictionary of Americanisms.

shin up. To climb (v.i.): C. 19-20. (W. N. Glascock, Sailors and Saints, 1829, at I, 21.) Moe.

shindig. An altercation, a violent quarrel, a tremendous fuss: late C. 19-20. Ex shindy, 3 (p. 756).—2. A dinner party; a large (and lively) party: Australian: since ca. 1925. The Sydney Morning Herald, Aug. 18, 1963.

shine, n., 1: earlier in The Individual, Nov. 8, 1836.—5. A glossy paint; enamel: builders' coll.: C. 20.

shine, v., 3, occurs in C. 20 Australian in nuance, 'to show off'. Baker.

shine, adj. (p. 756). Hence also Australian. B., 1942.

[shine-nag, ruin the. B. & L.'s incorrectness for shine-rag, win the.]

shine to, take a (p. 756). By 1910 at latest, also English, as, e.g., in H. A. Vachell, Quinney's, 1914.

Shiner. 8. Earlier in 'Taffrail'.

shiner, 4 (p. 756). Australian nuance, 'one who shows off; an exhibitionist': Baker.—9. A black eye: Naval: since ca. 1920. In, e.g., C. S. Forester, The Ship, 1943.—10. A French-polisher; a window-cleaner: builders'. resp. coll. and s.: C. 20.

Shiney.—3. Inevitable nickname of men sur-named White or Wright: Naval: late C. 19–20. 'Taffrail'. Cf. Shiner, 8.

Shiney (or Shiny) Bob, the. One who thinks very well of himself: Australian: since ca. 1925. B., 1942.

shingle-merchant. A doctor: Naval: since ca. 1820; app. † by 1890. Fredk Chamier, The Life of a Sailor, 1832. Ex S.E. shingle, a small sign-board. (Moe.)

shingle short, be a. The New Zealand shape (1862 +) of 'have a shingle short' (p. 757). B., 1941.

shining time. Starting-time: Canadian railroadmen's (—1931). At rise of the shining sun.

Shinners. Sinn Fein leaders and adherents: Anglo-Irish coll.: since ca. 1917. (H. A. Vachell, Quinney's Adventures, 1924.)

shiny-bum, v.; shiny-bumming. To have a desk job; the occupant;—the occupancy: Australian: 1939–45. The v. and the verbal n. occur in Cusack & James, Come in Spriner, 1951; the n. shiny-bum, in Cusack, Southern Steel, 1953.

shiny ten. In the game of House, "Ten" is always "Shiny Ten"—by analogy with the nickname of the Tenth Lancers: The "Shiny Tenth", Michael Harrison, Reported Safe Arrival, 1943: late C. 19–20.

ship, n.—4. An aircraft (any sort—not only a flying ship): R.A.F.: 1939 +. Jackson.—5. A bus: Sydney busmen's: since ca. 1944. Jocular.

ship, v.—5. To obtain promotion: Naval: C. 20. Granville, 'An A.B. who is rated Leading Seaman "ships his killick"'. Ex S.E. sense, 'to take aboard'.—6. To assume (an expression): Naval: since ca. 1900. Granville, "'Unship that grin, my lad!'" ship, three-island. See three-island ship (Dict.).

ship a bagnet. To carry or wear a bayonet: Naval: late C. 18–mid-19. (W. N. Glascock, Sketch-Book, I, 1825.) Moe.

ship a swab (p. 757) occurs much earlier in W. N. Glascock, Sketch-Book, I, 1825, where, on p. 113, it = to be a fully qualified captain. (Moe.) To ship an epaulette occurs in Glascock's Sailors and Saints, 1829, at II, 14; at I, 5, occurs ship swabs, thus 'Boy's shipping swabs* before they shave'—glossed as 'Mounting epaulettes, which in his day denoted a captain'.

ship under sail. A begging or a confidence-trick story: rhyming s. (on tale): C. 20. Jim Phelan, 1939.

Shipka Pass. See Western Front.

shipment. An imposition: Shrewsbury: late C. 19–20. Marples. Ex ship, v., 2 (Dict.).

shippy. A shipkeeper: coll.: since ca. 1885. Arthur Morrison, To London Town, 1899.

ship's.—2. Sodomy; esp. have a bit of ship's, to commit it: low: C. 20.

ship's husband (see ship husband, p. 757) is extant in the Naval sense, 'Captain who is inordinately proud of his ship's appearance and "puts his hand in his pocket" to keep her "tiddley"' (Granville): late C. 19–20.

ships that pass in the night. 'A regular's term for wartime serving airmen and officers' (Jackson): R.A.F. coll.: 1939 +. Ex the cliché started by the famous novel so entitled (see my A Dictionary of Clichés). This novel, by Beatrice Harraden, published in 1893, itself drew its title from Longfellow's Poems, 1873.

shipwreck chorus. See gutbucket.

shiralee (p. 757). But still extant in D'Arcy Niland, The Shiralee, 1955.

shirking party, the. An occasional P.B.I. name for the Royal Engineers supervising work done by Infantrymen: W.W.I.

shirt-buttons, go on. (Of clock or watch) to be erratic: since ca. 1920. (Atkinson.) Ex shoddy works.

shirt collar (p. 758) occurs also as shirt and collar. (Franklyn, Rhyming.)

shiser. Variant of shicer (Dict.).

shit (p. 758), always common in earthy speech, seems to be particularly so in that of Canada, esp. in C. 20, if I judge correctly from the evidence supplied, over a period of many years, by a number of Canadians—most of them, well-educated men; all, exceptionally knowledgeable. These Addenda omit some of the very numerous compounds and phrases containing the term. For Addenda phrases not listed here, see give the . . . , knock the . . . , . . . miracles, so thin . . . , and think one's . . .

shit.—7. 'Bad weather is always invariably "shit"', Sgt-Pilot F. Rhodes, letter of Sept. 20, 1942: R.A.F.: since ca. 1918. Cf. dirt, 6.—8. Short for bull-shit in senses 'hot air; blarney': Canadian soldiers': 1939–45. 'Don't hand'—or 'feed'—'me that shit' = I don't believe you.

shit, v.—3. To disgust, as in 'It shits me' (Dick): low Australian: since ca. 1930.

shit, fall in the. To get into trouble: low coll.: since ca. 1870.

shit, happy as a pig in. 'Happy, even if lacking in grace' (Atkinson): non-aristocratic coll.: late C. 19–20. shit a brick. To defecate after a costive period: low: late C. 19–20. Cf. bake it (p. 27).

shit a brick! An expletive of annoyance: Australian: since ca. 1925.—2. Yeah, you could shit a brick. Like hell, you could: Canadian: since ca. 1930.

shit (or fuck) a day keeps the doctor away, a. An Australian c.p., dating since ca. 1925. After the proverbial an apple a day . . .

shit a top-block. To become excited or angry or both: shipyard workers', then rather more gen.: C. 20. 'Get that straightened—if the boss sees it, he'll shit a top-block.' Top-block is a ship-building term.

shit and corruption; shit and derision. Bad weather, with rain and flak; clouds, with rain: R.A.F. aircrews': 1940–5. (P-G-R.)

shit and sugar mixed. A low c.p. reply to a question concerning ingredients: C. 20.

shit-ass luck. Extremely bad luck: Canadian: C. 20. shit-bag.—2. An unpleasant person: low: late C. 19–20. Also shite-hawk: low: C. 20.

shit barge; also crap barge. A ship lacking efficiency and discipline, and generally known to be such: Naval: resp. C. 20 and since middle 1940's. (Wilfred Granville, Sept. 23, 1967.)

shit, esp. be shitting bricks. To be really worried: low Canadian: C. 20.—2. To be thoroughly frightened: Army: 1939–45.

Shit Creek. See up Shit Creek.

shit-disturber. See shit-stirrer.

shit-eh? (or !). 'Isn't that just too bad!': Australian c.p.: since ca. 1945.

shit-face is a low, late C. 19–20 term of address to an ugly man. W. L. Gibson Cowan, Loud Report, 1937. Cf. wnt face.

shit fish. Fish caught around sewage outfalls: fishermen's: C. 20.

shit-head. An objectionable person: New Zealand low: since ca. 1918.

shit hits the fan, when; and then the shit'll hit the fan. 'A c.p. indicative of grave or exciting consequences': Canadian: since ca. 1930. 'Wait till the major hears that! Then the shit'll hit the fan!' Douglas Leechman, who adds that 'the allusion is to the consequences of throwing this material into an electric fan'.

shit-hot. Unpleasantly enthusiastic; e.g. 'He's shit-hot on spit and polish': Canadian soldiers': 1914 +.—2. Very skilful, cunning, knowledgeable: low: since ca. 1918.

shit-house.—2. A commode: mostly among furniture-removers: late C. 19–20.—3. A hospital (or a hospital ward) or a home for very old people who have lost control of their natural functions: hospital staffs': C. 20.

shit-house in the fog, stands out like a. A low Canadian c.p.: C. 20.

shit-house luck. Very bad luck indeed: low Canadian: C. 20.

shit in it! Stop it; shut up: Naval (lower-deck): since ca. 1930. Emphatic.

shit-locker. Bowels: Naval (lower-deck): since ca. 1910.

shit! mother, I can't dance. A low, jocular Canadian c.p., 'just for something to say': since ca. 1920.

shit not far behind that, there's. A workmen's c.p., evoked by a noisy breaking of wind: late C. 19–20.

shit of, get. A very gen. variant of 'get shut of': C. 20.

shit official, in the. In serious trouble: Army, mostly officers': 1942–5. Intensive of shit, in the (p. 758).

shit on. To impose on, use shamelessly: low: late C. 19–20. Cf. do it on, 1. 'He's shitting on you.' Cf. shat upon . . .

shit on from a great height. (Of one who has been) landed in great trouble by others: low (esp., since ca. 1925, R.A.F.): C. 20. shit on your own doorstep, you don't. You don't 'foul your own nest': c.p.: late C. 19–20.

shit—or shit in—one's own nest. A low variant of S.E. foul one's own nest.

shit or bust.—2. Be shit or bust, to be given to trying desperately hard; to do a thing and damn the consequences: non-cultured coll.: since ca. 1910. 'I set out in direct disobedience of orders.

. . . My batman was delighted. . . . "I like you, sir," he said. "You're shit or bust, you are," Keith Douglas, Alamein to Zem Zem, dated 1946 but pub. in 1947. But 'I'm shit or bust' was, in 1939–45, very often used ironically, to mean 'I'm completely indifferent'.

shit or get off the pot! A Canadian Army c.p. (1939–45), directed at a dice-player unable to 'crap out'. 'In U.S. usage (still current) it has the broader meaning of "Either do it or get out of the way and let someone else try" or simply "Make up your mind"' (Robert Clairborne, Aug. 31, 1966). So, too, in English s. since ca. 1945, as Laurie Atkinson has (Sept. 11, 1967) reminded me.

shit order, in; or simply shit order. A dirty barrack room, hut, dress, equipment, etc.: Regular Army: C. 20.

shit-pan alley; euphemistically, bed-pan alley. Dysentery ward in a hospital: Army: since ca. 1915.

'shit!' said the king, often elaborated to . . . and all his loyal subjects strained in unison or . . . and ten thousand loyal subjects shat. An Australian c.p.: C. 20. Of the same order as 'hell!' said the duchess (above and on p. 387).

shit-scared. Extremely scared: low, esp. R.A.F. since ca. 1935.

shit, shave and shove ashore. Naval lower-deck term (C. 20) for a matlow's evening-leave routine. Here, shove = copulation.

shit, shave, shower, shoe-shine and shampoo, I've had (or I had) a. A Canadian c.p., since ca. 1930, but esp. among Canadian soldiers in 1939–45; referring to or implying a 'heavy date'.

shit, shine, shave, shampoo and shift. A British variant—? the source—of Canadian shit, shave . . . (above).

shit, shot and shell. The ammunition in the anti-aircraft 'rocket' barrage, first used in the Portsmouth area: Naval (lower-deck): 1942 +. Granville. Even nails and bits of old iron were used.

shit-stirrer. One who, by his actions, causes everybody unnecessary trouble: low: late C. 19–20. The Canadian form is shit-disturber.

Shit Street, be in. To be in extreme difficulties: New Zealand low: since ca. 1920. Common also in Australia: B.P., 1963.

shit through the eye of a needle. See makes one . . .

shit through the eye of a needle, I could. A low c.p., uttered 'on the morning after': C. 20.

shit(-)wallah. A sanitary man: Army: late C. 19–20. (P-G-R.)

shit weighs heavy! A low Canadian c.p., directed at a boaster: late C. 19–20.

shite(-)hawk. See shit-bag.—2. The badge of the 4th Indian Division: Army: 1940 +.—3. A vulture: British Army in India: ca. 1870–1947.

Shite-hawk Soldiers, the. The R.A.F. Regiment: Army: since ca. 1945.

shite-poke. The bittern: Canadian: since ca. 1880. 'From popular belief it has only one straight gut from gullet to exit, and has therefore to sit down promptly after swallowing anything' (D. E. Cameron in letter of Aug. 23, 1937). But Dr Leechman says that the shit- or shite-poke (euphemistically shy-poke) is a bird of the heron family and that it is so named because 'it habitually defecates on taking flight when alarmed'. He adds that the bittern is, in Canada, called the thunder-pump, 'from the noise it makes'.

shits, the. An evident dislike of operational flying: R.A.F. Bomber and Fighter Commands: 1940+. (Communicated by S/Ldr H. E. Bates.) Ex the mid-C. 19-20 coll. sense 'diarrhoea'.

shitten look, have a. To look as if one needed to defecate: workman's coll.: late C. 19-20.

shivaree is the Canadian shape of shivaroo (Dict.): from ca. 1870.

shiveau, shivoo. See shevoo.

shiv(e)y. (Of wool) 'carrying small, fine particles of vegetable matter' (B., 1959): Aus. coll.: C. 20. Perhaps ex Yorkshire dial. shivvins, 'fragments of wool, rough yarn, &c. in woollen matter' (E.D.D.).

shnide. A variant of snide, n., 3 (p. 793). Norman. Since the late 1950's, it has been the pronunciation current among teenagers, esp. in 'a shnide remark'. (H. R. Spencer.)

shobbos of, make. To set in good order; to tidy up: Jewish: late C. 19-20. To make clean and neat as if for the Shobbos or Sabbath.

shock-a-lolly. See wally.

shocker.—2. Also complete shocker: 'A hopeless individual or object—simply terrible,' H. & P.: Services: since ca. 1920. See shocking, adj. (p. 759).—3. A shock-absorber: motorists': since ca. 1925.—4. (Cf. sense 2.) A thoroughly unpleasant fellow: Army (mostly officers'): since ca. 1925. (P-G-R.)

shod. 'Colloquially applied to motor vehicles. A car with good tyres is described as well shod' (B.P.): Australian: since ca. 1945.

shoddy-dropper (p. 759). Also Australian. B., 1942.

shoe. A sanitary pad: Australian feminine: since late 1940's. Ex shape.

shoe-string; esp. operate, or do it, on a shoe-string. A small sum of money, esp. as working capital: coll.: adopted, in late 1950's, ex U.S. (See W. & F.).—2. Hence the adj. shoe-string, operating on a (very) small capital; 'run' very economically: coll.: since ca. 1960. 'Acting in Scruggs, an off-beat, shoe-string movie' (Woman, Oct. 23, 1965).

shoe the wild colt (p. 759). Part of initiation ceremony, 'Swearing on the horns', performed at the Gate House, Highgate, at least as late as 1900.

shoful (p. 760) occurs, spelt thus, in Sessions, 1828; eleven years before the Dict. recording.

shog. To amble along, as on—or as if on—horseback: Australian: C. 20. B., 1942. Perhaps a blend of shamble (v.i.) + jog. It comes ex English dialect and is coll. rather than s.

shoke. A hobby; a whim: Anglo-Indian: mid-C. 19-20. B. & L.

shong. A catapult: Australian, mostly juvenile: since ca. 1925. (B., 1943.) Ex synonymous shanghai.

shonky, n.; shonk. A Jew: low: mid-C. 19-20. The Leader, Jan. 1939 (the former); Matthews, Cockney, 1938 (the latter). The former is the diminutive of the latter which derives (ex American) ex Yiddish shonniker, 'a trader in a small way, a pedlar'.

shonky, adj. Mean; money-grubbing: late C. 19-20. Ex the n.

shont. A foreigner: Cockneys': ca. 1880-1915. J. W. Horsley, I Remember, 1912. Cf. shonk.

shook him, that. See that shook him.

shook on (p. 760). Sense 1 has, since ca. 1945, been only jocular; sense 2 is very common, esp. in the negative not much shook on. (B.P.)

shooken, 1 (p. 760), is also New Zealand—and applicable to either sex: cf. Jean Devaney, The Butcher Shop, 1926, 'Being "shook" on a man.'

shoosh. Silence: Australian, esp. among two-up players: since ca. 1925. Lawson Glassop, Lucky Palmer, 1949, "'Gents," he said plaintively, "a bit of shoosh, please, gents. Just a little bit of shoosh. We don't want no coppers breakin' in on us."' shoot, v.—5. To experience the sexual spasm: low: mid-C. 19-20. Whence sense 1.—6. V.i., to quote a man a close price even at the risk of loss: stockbrokers': ca. 1870-1910.

shoot! Euphemistic for expletive shit: Canadian: C. 20. Current in U.S. much earlier. 'It appears, e.g., in Tom Sawyer [1876], though probably not as a conscious euphemism': Robert Clairborne, Aug. 31, 1966.

shoot, do a. To fire the guns: artillerymen's coll.: since ca. 1910. (P-G-R.)

shoot on early. Beginning work at 6 a.m.: London labourers': from ca. 1920. The Evening News, Nov. 13, 1936.

Shoot, the.—2. Also, ca. 1900-10: Walthamstow, which, then, was—in part—a dump of undesirables.

shoot a card. To leave one's card at a house: Society: ca. 1910-40. ('Sapper' in 1924—The Third Round.)

shoot a—rarely the—line. To talk too much, esp. to boast: R.A.F. since ca. 1928, Army officers' since 1940. List from Grenfell Finn-Smith, April 1942; Richard Hillary, The Last Enemy, 1942 (also line-shooter); Sept. 20, 1942, Sgt-Pilot F. Rhodes (private letter), "'Shooting a line", for boasting, probably the most characteristic of all R.A.F. phrases'; H. & P., 1943; Partridge, 1945. Jackson notes that in the 1920's the R.A.F. used shoot a line of bull, which they soon shortened; the longer phrase may combine the theatrical shoot one's lines (declaim them vigorously), and bulsh (p. 106), and the American shoot off one's mouth, as Jackson has suggested. The phrase perhaps dates from as early as 1919, for line-shooter occurs in a song sung at Christmas, 1925: witness C. H. Ward-Jackson, Airman's Song Book, 1945. Perhaps, as Professor F. E. L. Priestley has suggested, reminiscent of the fact that in the early 1920's every 'sheik' (see p. 753) had a special verbal approach—or 'line'—with the girls.

shoot a lion. See shake hands.

shoot down—shoot down in flames—shoot down from a great height. 'To defeat in an argument; to be right on a question of procedure, dress, drill, etc.': R.A.F.: resp. since ca. 1938, 1939, 1940. Grenfell Finn-Smith, in list sent to me in April 1942 has the first, as has H. & P.; the latter records also the second; E. P. in The New Statesman, Sept. 19, 1942, has the first and second; Partridge, 1945, 'The first—though far from colourless—is the weakest; the second connotes a victory that utterly routs the opponent—as does the third, with the added connotation of calm and/or great intellectual superiority in the victory.' Obviously ex aerial warfare; compare the Navy's salvo.—2. Only shoot down: 'Shot down. Pulled up for not saluting or for being improperly dressed,' H. & P.: R.A.F.: since 1939. In gen., 'to reprimand a subordinate' (R. Hinde, March 17, 1945). Of same origin as 1.

shoot off. To depart hastily or very quickly: New Zealand: since ca. 1919. (Jean Devanney, Bushman Burke, 1930.)

shoot on the post. To catch and pass an opponent just before the tape: sporting: from ca. 1870; ob. B. & L.

shoot one's neck off. 'To talk loudly and self-assertively' (P-G-R.): mostly Services: since ca. 1920.

shoot the bones. To throw dice: gamblers': since ca. 1942. Duncan Webb in Daily Express, Sept. 11, 1945. Also shoot craps, adopted from U.S. in ca. 1940.

shoot the shit. To chat; tell tall stories: Canadian Army: 1939-45.

shoot the tube. See tube, in the, below.

shoot through. To go absent without leave: Australian: since ca. 1940. (Dymphna Cusack, 1951.) Cf. go through, 4.

shoot through like a Bondi tram. To travel very fast (and not stop): Sydneyites': since ca. 1935. (B.P.) shoot up. 'To dive on to' (an enemy 'plane): aviators': from 1917. (The New Statesman and Nation, Feb. 20, 1937.) Ex the shooting that follows.—2. 'To "shoot up" a place or a person is to make a mock diving attack,' Sgt-Pilot F. Rhodes, Sept. 20, 1942: R.A.F.: since late 1939. Jackson, 1943, 'The origin is American gangster slang meaning to attack with gun-fire.'

shoot white. To ejaculate: low: from ca. 1870 Whence a Boer War conundrum.

shooting a ruby, n. A hæmotypsis, i.e. a spitting of blood: hospital nurses': since ca. 1935. Nursing Mirror, May 7, 1949.

shooting double-headers. 'We would use both nets, so that the whole of a large area [of water] would be encircled. This is called "shooting double headers"' (Nino Culotta, Gone Fishin', 1963): Aus. fishermen's: since ca. 1920. Ex the game of two-up.

shooting for, be. 'Recently, in hospital, I saw a very old man tottering about and discovered that he was 93 . . . "and shooting for 100". Aiming at, hoping to reach.' (Leechman.) Mostly Canadian: since ca. 1920.

shooting gallery. See lines book.

shooting-iron. A rifle: mostly marksmen's: adopted, ca. 1918, from U.S. shooting stick. A gun: ca. 1825-1900. E. J. Wakefield, Adventure, 1845.

shop, n. Sense 2 occurs rather earlier in Thomas Surr, Richmond, 1827, 'The office, or shop as he called it.'—13. (Cf. sense 4.) A public-house: buckish: ca. 1810-40. Pierce Egan, London, 1821.—14. As the Shop it is Melbourne undergraduates' s. for the University: since ca. 1910. (B., 1943.)

shop, v.—8. To punish severely: pugilistic: ca. 1870-1910. B. & L.—9. To deliberately get (someone) into trouble: Services: since ca. 1930. Ex sense 3.—10. To shop at: Canadian advertisers' and radio coll.: since ca. 1957. 'Shop Eaton's' for 'Shop at Eaton's' affords a good example. (Leechman.)

Sense 3 (p. 761) occurs earlier in J. H. Lewis, The Art of Writing, 7th ed., 1816. Moe.

shop, two-to-one. See two-to-one shop (Dict.).

shop-door. Trouser-fly: from ca. 1890. Also your shop-door is open!

shop lobber. A dandified shop-assistant: ca. 1830-70. Sinks, 1848.

shoplift; shoplifter. See shop-lift, shop-lifter: Dict.

shopping, participle, hence also n. Looking around for a wife or, vice versa, a husband: since late 1940's: by 1965, coll. In, e.g., Woman's Illustrated, Jan. 2, 1960 ('Does Your Date Rate as a Mate?'). Also shopping around.

shorders. A Cockney variant of shorters or drinks in short measures: C. 20. (Franklyn.) shore loafer. Earlier authority: 'Taffrail.'

shore-side. Retirement; life as a civilian: Naval coll. of late C. 19-20. Ex pidgin. Granville. Cf. China side.—2. The shore or beach; ashore: Naval: C. 20. 'Are you coming shore-side this afternoon?' (P-G-R.) short, n.—4. A short circuit: electricians' coll.: C. 20.

short, v. Of a selection committee: to short-list (a candidate): esp. Civil Service: since ca. 1930.

short, adj.—4. Not very 'bright'; stupid: Australian: C. 20. B., 1942, 'Esp. "a bit short".' Ex 'a shingle short'.

short, taken. See taken short.

short and curlies, the. The short hairs, used fig. ('He got me by the short and curlies'—caught me properly): Army: since ca. 1935. (P-G-R.)

short-arm has, since 1916, been the usual form of short-arm inspection (p. 762).

Short Arse. 'Inevitable' nickname of men surnamed Longbottom: C. 20.

short-arse. A short person: coll., mostly Cockneys': from ca. 1890. Ex:

short-arsed. (Of a person) that is short: coll.: from ca. 1870. Cf. duck's disease (Dict.).

short of a sheet. See sheet . . . ; sometimes short of a sheet of bark. Baker.

Short Range Desert (or Shephard's) Group. See Gropi's Light Horse.

short, or long, soup. A soup with short, or one with long, noodles in it: Australian coll.: since ca. 1920. (Edwin Morrisby, letter of Aug. 30, 1958.)

short(-)weight. (Of a person) rather simple; mentally, a little defective: C. 20.

[Shortenings were, in the first quarter of C. 18, very common; they were satirized by both Addison and Swift. Ned Ward has these, culled by Matthews: blab, a blabber, 1714; bub, 'bubble' or liquor, 1715; cit, citizen, 1703; fiz, a face, 1700; mob, n., 1703; mump, a mumper, 1709; non-com-schools, 1709; non-Con, Nonconformist, 1709; qual, the quality or gentry, 1715; rep(utation), 1715; skip, skipper, 1715; and strum, a strumpet, 1712.]

shorters. See shorders.

Shorty.—2. And of men surnamed Little: late C. 19-20. 'Taffrail'.—3. Also of short men in general: C. 20—4. A nickname for tall persons, esp. if male: mostly Australian: since ca. 1925. (B.P.)

shot, n.—11. (Cf. 9.) An injection: medical: adopted, ca. 1920, from U.S.

shot, be.—3. To be exhausted: Aus.: since ca. 1920. F. B. Vickers, First Place to the Stranger, 1955, 'Another man turned on the water and out it gushed. But only for a minute, then it spluttered, then it dribbled. "She's shot," the man at the hose shouted.' (Cf. she, 5, above.)

shot, that'll—or that would—be the. That will—or would—be most satisfactory: Australian: since ca. 1945. (Culotta.) Cf.:

shot, that's the. That's the idea: Australian, and almost a c.p.: since ca. 1945. (A. M. Harris, The Tall Man, 1958.)

shot at, have a. To attempt: coll.: late C. 19–20.—2. To make a fuss of: Aus.: since ca. 1930. Nino Culotta, Cop This Lot, 1960.

shot down. Crossed in love: since early 1940's. (Nevil Shute, Pastoral, 1944.) Ex sense 2 of:

shot down in flames. See shoot down.—2. Hence, crossed in love; jilted: R.A.F. aircrews': 1940+. Partridge, 1945.

shot for less, in (the currently most unpopular country) people are. 'A c.p. (often jocular) implying that the bearer is lucky to be living in such a tolerant country' (B.P.): Australian: since the late 1940's. 'You're reading my book. In —, people are shot'—or 'being shot'—'for less'. Cf. Ned Kelly was hanged—or hung—for less above.

shot full of holes. Tipsy: New Zealanders' (1915+) and Australians' (since ca. 1918). B., 1941, 'An elaboration of shot.'

shot-ging. A catapult: Australian, mostly juvenile: since ca. 1925. (B., 1943.) Suggested by shanghai + shot + gun + sling.

shot himself! A c.p. applied to someone breaking wind in or near a company of men, often with the c.p. comment, if he's not careful, he'll shit himself: late C. 19–20.

shot in the (or one's) locker, have still (or still have) a. To be still potent: late C. 19–20.

shot in the locker, not a (p. 763). Much earlier, in a positive form, in an unidentified British song reprinted in The Port Folio of May 17, 1806, at p. 304:

'Then with shot in my locker, a wife and a cot, Tobacco, grog, flip, and no purser, I'll sit down contented with what I have got,
And may each honest tar do no worser.'

It occurs also in W. N. Glascock, The Naval Sketch-Book (I, 207), 1825; but earliest of all in George Brewer, Bannian Day (a farce), 1796, Act I, sc. iii, p. 12, 'I've always got a shot in the locker.' (All three references from Colonel Moe.)

shot of (p. 763): earlier in Sessions, Oct. 1836.

shot on a hand. Beaten by a better hand: Australian card-players': since ca. 1918. (B., 1953.)

shot to (e.g. you)! You score there: a c.p. 'aimed at indifference or complacent cocksureness at lucky chance or when sharp practice has triumphed' (Atkinson): Forces': 1939+.

shot up; shot to ribbons. Very drunk; as drunk as one can possibly be: R.A.F.: since late 1939. Partridge, 1945. Ex aerial warfare: Cf. shoot up.

shot up the arse (more politely, back). Rendered hors de combat by some witticism; detected, found out: Army: C. 20.—2. (Of aircraft) shot-up from the rear: R.A.F.: 1939–45.

shotgun mixture. A pharmaceutical mixture containing numerous ingredients, any one of them prob. efficacious: C. 20.

shoulder, 1 (p. 763). Earlier in The London Guide, 1818.

shoulder-knot. A bailiff: ca. 1825–80. Sinks, 1848. Ex hand clapped on to victim's shoulder.

shouse. A conflation of shithouse (p. 758): Australian: since ca. 1925. Cf. shed, n., 3, above. (B.P.) It occurs in, e.g., Nino Culotta, Cop This Lot, 1960.

shout, n., 1 and 2 (p. 764): earlier; as, e.g., in Wm Kelly, Life in Victoria, 1859.—3. A summons (to duty): nautical, esp. stewards', coll.: C. 20. 'He'd asked me for an early shout,' Frank Shaw, 1932.—4. An alarm: fire brigades': since ca. 1880.

shout and holler. A collar: rhyming s.: C. 20. (Lester.)

shouted, be. To have one's wedding banns proclaimed: since ca. 1860. (Williams Westall, Sons of Belial, 1895.)

shouter.—2. He who shouts the numbers at Housey-Housey: Army coll.: C. 20. (P.-G.-R.)

shouters. The (school) house's shouting in support of its rowing crew: Public Schools': late C. 19–20. By 'the Oxford -er'.

shove, v.—4. (Of cabmen) 'to adopt unfair methods to obtain fares,' Baker: Australian: ca. 1880–1920.—5. To stop; to forget: low Australian and New Zealand: since ca. 1910. Slatter, 'You can shove that caper'. Ex the next.

shove along, v.t. Sense 1 (p. 764) occurs in James Joyce, Ulysses, 1922.—2. To cause sailing ships to make as much speed as possible: Naval coll.: late C. 18–19. (W. N. Glascock, Sketch-Book, I, 1825.) Moe.

shove-along, in. In echelon: soldiers' and sailors': late C. 18–mid-19. (Glascock, I, 1825.) Moe. By the process of 'Hobson-Jobson'. shove it! Run away and play trains!: Australian low: C. 20. Cf. stick it!

shove it up your anal canal (often with canal rhyming anal). A low Australian c.p.: since ca. 1930.

shove of the mouth is a variant of shove in the mouth (Dict.).

shove the flogging tumbler. Randle Holme's variant (1688) of shove the tumbler (Dict.).

shove under. To kill; mostly in passive, be shoved under: Australian: C. 20. Archer Russell, A Tramp Royal in Wild Australia, 1934. Ex shove underground, to bury: itself a coll., dating since ca. 1870, but English as well as Australian and New Zealand.

shovel. To pass, hand, give: South African low s.: since ca. 1925. C. P. Wittstock, letter of May 23, 1946, 'Shovel us a burn . . . Give me a light': jocular on shove, v., 1.

shovel, put up one's. To cease work: workmen's coll.: from ca. 1890; slightly ob.

shovel and broom. A room: rhyming s.: since ca. 1910; by 1959, ob. (Franklyn, Rhyming.)

shovel and tank. A bank (for money): rhyming s.: C. 20. Franklyn 2nd.

shovelling is a form of bullying at Sandhurst, ca. 1830–55: coll. 'Spread-eagling the victim on the table and beating him with racquet-bats and shovels,' A. F. Mockler-Ferryman, Annals of Sandhurst, 1900. Cf. ventilating, q.v.

shoving money upstairs. 'When a man is worrying about going bald, someone tells him banteringly it must be with "shoving money upstairs",' Albert B. Petch, Aug. 22, 1946: c.p., mainly North Country: C. 20. Instead of putting it into a bank—where it's safer.—2. Spending money on useless 'cures': Londoners': since ca. 1920. (Julian Franklyn.)

show, n.—5. See show, the.—6. A (gold) mine: Australian: C. 20. B., 1942.

show, v. Sense 2 (p. 765), is, after all, extant, although at a lower social level, as in 'I asked him . . . if my bird had shown' (turned up).—4. To surrender, give up, desist: coll.: from ca. 1930. In the j. of cards, 'to show' is to throw in one's hand. The Daily Telegraph, April 16, 1937.—5. (Cf. senses 1 and 3: p. 765.) To gain a place: horse-racing coll.: C. 20. (Julian Symons, The Thirtyfirst of February, 1950.) show, bad; good show. Phrases expressive of disapprobation and approval or praise: Services (mostly officers): since ca. 1925. H. & P., 'Oh, good show!' Cf. show, n., 2 and 4 (p. 765).

show, the; showing out. Signs by which three cardsharps, who have a 'mug' in tow, tell one another how to play: c.: C. 20.

show a front. See front, show a.

show a leg, 2, at shew . . .: p. 755, is recorded for 1818 (Alfred Burton, Johnny Newcome: Moe). Originally to make sure that the occupant of the bed was male—not an illicit female bed-warmer.

show an Egyptian medal. See Egyptian medal.

show-box, the. The theatre: theatrical: from ca. 1870; ob. B. & L.

show-down. A test of the real strength and backing of two persons, parties, peoples: adopted ca. 1930 from U.S.: coll until ca. 1940, then S.E. Ex bluff poker.

show hackle. See hackle (Dict.).

show like a shilling on a sweep's arse, v.i. To be extremely conspicuous: low: C. 20. Barry England, Figures in a Landscape, 1968.

show-off, n. One who 'shows off': Australian coll.: late C. 19–20. Godfrey Blunden, No More Reality, 1935. "MacKissock's a 'show-off'". Ex the v.

show-out, n. 'Another cardinal rule in making contact with a snout [= informer] was that the detective never made the first move. When you entered the rendezvous and saw your man you waited for the "show-out"—a brief nod—before you joined him' (John Gosling, The Ghost Squad, 1959): police s.: since ca. 1920.

show out. See lay out.

showboat. See 'Hauliers' Slang'.

shower. A large number: Air Force: 1939–45. 'A shower of Messerschmitts.' (P-G-R.)—2. See What a shower! below.—3. Short for shower tea, a bride's trousseau-showing: Australian: since ca. 1950. (B.P.)—4. See the quotation at drag, n., 20, above. A contribution from players to operators: Australian two-up gamblers': C. 20. (Tom Ronan, Vision Splendid, 1954.)—5. 'A dust storm—as in Cobar shower, Bedourie shower, Darling shower, Wilcannia shower, etc.' (B., 1959): Aus. rural: late C. 19–20. The 3rd occurs on p. 208; the 1st, above.

shower!, what a; it's showery. A c.p. 'addressed to one who has just made a bad mistake,' Partridge, 1945: R.A.F.: since ca. 1930. Either the ref. is to the cold douche he'll receive from his superior, or what a shower! is short for what a shower of shit (as several experienced R.A.F. 'types' have hastened to inform me)—and it's showery is derivative.—2. What a shower! has, since 1919, been used by the Army as a c.p. directed at members of another unit; and here the reference is indubitably defecatory. Cf. 'Some of the lousiest showers of rooks you ever saw,' Gerald Kersh, Bill Nelson, 1942.

shower bath. Ten shillings: rhyming s. (on half a sovereign); usually shower, esp. in pl., as shaks to a shillin', odds of 10 to 1: sporting rhyming s.: C. 20. (Franklyn, Rhyming.)

showie or showy. A handkerchief worn 'for show only': Aus.: since ca. 1950. Ross Campbell, Mummy, Who Is your Husband?, 1964.

showing next week's washing? Your shirt is showing (at the flap): non-cultured c.p.: C. 20.

shows, the. A fair with sideshows and roundabouts: Scottish and North Country coll.: late C. 19–20.

shrewd. In Picture Post, Jan. 2, 1954, there was an article on youthful 'spivs'. It began thus: 'The word "Spiv", it seems, is out of date. The new word, we are reliably informed, is "Shrewd"—and it is used as a noun, adjective and verb. The "shrewd" is not an American by-product. He is home-bred and thoroughly English, in style and slang.' With the word itself, compare shrewdy, a cunning person—see Dict. at p. 765.

shriek.—4. A call at nap; e.g. 'It's your shriek' (or turn to call): card-players' (at Cambridge): from ca. 1890.

shrieks of hysterical laughter. A c.p., used when someone has advanced an untenable proposition or made a ludicrous suggestion: mostly Australian: since ca. 1950. 'I'm going to sell this car. Should get about eight hundred for it.' —'Shrieks of hysterical laughter.' (B.P.) Cf.:

shrieks of silence was the stern reply. There was no reply: Australian c.p.: since the early 1950's. (B.P.)

Shrimp, the. H. D. Leveson-Gower: cricketers' and Surrey spectators': late C. 19—early 20. Small man with big heart, he captained Oxford in 1896 and Surrey in 1908 onwards.

shroff up; buff up. To smarten up: Naval: C. 20. Resp., Urdu shroff, a banker (who judges the quality of coins); cf. buff, v., 3 (p. 102).

Shroppie, the. The Shropshire Union Canal: canalmen's: late C. 19–20. (Wilfred Granville, June 3, 1966.)

shtibbur. See stiver (Dict.).

shtoom (or shtum), keep; properly, stoom (stum). To keep quiet; to 'act dumb': low; mostly East End of London: C. 20. Probably cf. stumer, 1 (p. 843). 'Simply the anglicized phonetic spelling of S. German "stumm"—dumb, silent. Presumably it reached England through Yiddish' (H. R. Spencer).

shucks! (p. 766). Hence, Darn it!: Canadian: adopted, ca. 1910, ex U.S.

shuff-duff; orig., huff-duff. 'The super high frequency d.f. gear' (Granville, Nov. 22, 1962): Naval: since ca. 1955. Echoic.

shuffle-hunter. A Thames longshoreman: nautical: temp. George IV.

shuffler.—2. Usually in pl. (shufflers), the feet: pugilistic: ca. 1840–90. Augustus Mayhew, Paved With Gold, 1857. The old-time boxer used to shuffle about on his feet; it was Jim Corbett who introduced—or at least popularised—'ballet dancing' in the ring.

shufti bint. A (Moslem) woman willing to reveal her charms: R.A.F. regulars': since ca. 1930. See shuffy.

shuftiscope. Instrument used by a doctor for research in cases of dysentery: Army: since ca. 1930.—2. Hence, 'a long metal probe with a light on it used by Customs officers for probing into cars and baggage' (Sanders): since ca. 1945. The Times, April 12, 1962, news item. Cf:—

shuffy, usually in imperative, 'look' or 'watch': R.A.F.: since ca. 1925. Jackson, 'The origin is Arabic'. Also shafty (or -y) or sharfty: W/Cdr R. P. McDouall, letter of April 12, 1945. Also as n., as in 'Let's have a shuffy'. As 'a look', it has, since ca. 1944, been New Zealand servicemen's. Slatter, 'We had a good shufti.'

shuffy, going. See going recce above.

shuffy-hatch. 'A trap door in the cab of some trucks through which a passenger could keep a lookout for enemy aircraft' (Peter Sanders, Sept. 10, 1967): Army in North Africa: 1940–43.

shuffy-kite. A reconnaissance aircraft: Air Force, esp. in N. Africa and Burma. 1940–5. (P-G-R.)

shuffy-truck. A scout car: Army in North Africa: 1940–43. (Peter Sanders.)

shuftyscope. Variant of shuftiscope.—2. A telescope; a periscope: mostly Army: since ca. 1935. (P-G-R.)

shug; sug. Money: Australian low: since ca. 1920. B., 1942. The second is pron. as first: short for sugar, n., 1 (Dict.).

shunt, v.—4. To shunt a horse is to start it in a race 'with no intention of winning . . . to induce the handicapper to reduce the horse's weight as if it were a bona fide loser' (Baker): Australian racing: C. 20.—5. Also shunt off. To get rid of peremptorily: to dismiss (someone): Australian: since ca. 1910. Baker.

shunter.—3. A Railway Traffic Officer: Army (mostly officers): late C. 19–20. The Green Curve, by 'Ole Luk-oie', 1909.

shunting. A switch engine: Canadian railroadmen's (— 1931). Depreciatory.

shut, n. A shutter: since ca. 1780. In, e.g., Sessions, Jan. 1789 (p. 184).

shut-eye, 2 (p. 766), is recorded in John Stockholm's 'A Day on the Lower Deck' in The Navy and Army Illustrated, Dec. 1899. (Moe.) Moreover, it had > general Australian s. before 1921, when K. S. Prichard used it in The Black Opal.

shut of, get (p. 766). Cf. the U.S. variant get shed of.

shut(-)out, have (got) a. (Of the goal-keeper) to have no goals scored against one: at ice-hockey: from 1936. Wireless commentator, Feb. 17, 1937; The Evening Standard, Feb. 25, 1937. Cf. S.E. lock-out and s. put up the shutters. Immediately ex the jargon of baseball, where 'to shut out' = to hold scoreless in an entire game. (Robert Clairborne.)

shut up, v., 2. Earlier in Sessions, July 1850.

shut your face . . . ! (p. 766): also, shut your trap!: low: late C. 19–20. (Dr R. L. Mackay.)

shutter(-)bug. An amateur photographer: Australian: adopted, ca. 1945, ex U.S. (B.P.) shutters against, put up the. To debar, or to black-list, someone: coll.: since ca. 1925. Sydney A. Moseley, The Truth about a Journalist, 1935.

shwaiya. A little; esp. stana shwaiya, wait a moment: Army, hence Air Force, in Arabic-speaking lands: since ca. 1925. (Atkinson.) Also written shwaya and schwaya (q.v.)

shy, n., 2 (p. 766). Slightly earlier in Boxiana, III, 1821.

shy, adj., 2 (p. 766), is also late C. 19–20 Canadian, where, instead of shy of, often simply shy, as in Frederick Niven, Wild Honey, 1927, 'The queer fellow with the jacket on his shoulder, shy his blankets.'

Sense 1 was early applied to things other than money, as in W. N. Glascock, Sketch-Book (II, 142), 1826, 'As there was eight . . . of us lock'd by the legs, the duty'—the duty roster—'looked shy in the ship.' (Moe.)

shy(-)cock, 2 (p. 767). It does occur later than 1825: in The Night Watch, I (p. 232), 1828. Moe.

shy for (someone), have a. To search for: Australian: since ca. 1920. Baker. Ex shy, v., 1 and 2 (p. 766).

shy of the blues. Anxious to avoid the police: c.: from ca. 1870; ob. James Greenwood, 1883.

shy pook. A sly-grog shop: Australian low: C. 20. B., 1942.

shypoo, adj. Inferior, cheap, worthless: Australian low: since ca. 1920. Baker. Ex prec. entry.—2. Hence, n.: Australian beer: since ca. 1920. Baker. Hence:

shypoo joint. An inferior public-house: Australian low: since ca. 1925. Baker.

shypoo shop. 'A place where you bought beer and wine, but nothing stronger' (Tom Ronan, Only a Short Walk, 1961): Australian: C. 20. Cf. the two entries preceding this.

shyster.—3. A worthless mine: Australian: late C. 19–20. (Baker.) I.e. shicer, 1 (p. 755), influenced by shyster, 1 and 2 (p. 767).

sick, n. Mostly in give (someone) the sick, to disgust: low coll.: ca. 1840–1930. Sessions, Nov. 1849, 'If I have many such markets as this, it will give me the sick.'

sick, adj.—3. Without trumps: Australian card-players': from ca. 1870. B. & L.—4. Silly, stupid; extremely eccentric, (slightly) mad: Australian: C. 20. B., 1942. Orig. euphemistic.—5. As applied to humour: morbid—esp., gruesomely morbid; mentally or morally unhealthy; callous; viciously unkind; callously or sadistically unkind: but often too unreal, or even too ludicrously morbid, to carry a deadly sting: coll.: adopted, ca. 1959, ex U.S.; by 1965, S.E. (Cf. sense 4.) An example of the 'sick' joke of the most objectionable kind:

'Mummy! Why do I go round in circles all the time?'—'Shut up, or I'll nail your other foot to the floor.'

Sense 1 (p. 767) occurs in an unidentified British song reprinted in The Port Folio, May 17, 1806, at p. 304, thus, 'Of the sport I got sick, so threw up the game'. (Moe.)

Sick and Tired. 'Signal and Telecommunications Department' (Railway, 3rd): railwaymen's: since ca. 1955 (?).

sick as a blackfellow's dog. 'Extremely ill' (B., 1959): Aus.: C. 20.

sick as muck. See muck, as.

sick-bay cocktail. A dose of medicine: Naval: since ca. 1925. (P-G-R.)

sick-bay goose, a bed-pan; hence, gooseneck bes'un, a Warrant Wardmaster: Naval: C. 20.

sick-bay loungers. Fellows that go to Sick Bay to avoid Divisions or studies: Royal Naval College, Dartmouth: C. 20. Cf. sick-bay moocher (Dict.).

sick-bay shackle. A safety-pin: Naval: since ca. 1939. (The News-Chronicle, Nov. 4, 1954.)

sick-bay tiffy. A medical orderly in the sick-bay: Naval: since ca. 1920. Cf. tiffy.

sick bunk. A hospital bed: Army coll. (regimental aid-posts): 1940-5. (P-G-R.)

sick market. A market 'in which sales of stock are difficult to place': Stock Exchange coll.: from ca. 1860. B. & L.

sicker, as in sixpenny, or shilling, sicker, a seaside pleasure-boat: C. 20. (Warwick Deeping, 1944.)—2. A sick-room, an infirmary: preparatory and Public schools: since ca. 1910. 'The Oxford er.'

sickie. A day off, allegedly because of sickness: Australian: since ca. 1930. (B.P.)—2. A day of one's 'sick leave', esp. 'to take a sickie'—a day of such leave of absence: Australian: since the late 1940's. (B.P.) Hence, attributively, as in 'a sickie conscience': The Sydney Morning Herald, Sept. 8, 1963.

Sid Walker gang. A crash-landing salvage party (from a salvage and repair unit): R.A.F.: 1939+. Jackson, 'From the Cockney comedian of that name famous for his broadcast song "Day after day, I'm on my way, Any rags, bottles or bones?"' This philosophic fellow, who died before the war of 1939-45 ended, has, by posing problems and asking, 'What would you do, chums?' generated a c.p.

side, v.i. Harrovians' s., from ca. 1890, as in Lunn: 'He'll side to his kids about when he was at school with us'. Cf. and ex the n.: see the Dict.

side, v.—2. To hide away: police: since ca. 1920. (Maurice Proctor, Man in Ambush, 1958.)

side! The origin is more prob. 'I side with you': B. & L.

side, A and B. The main song and the secondary song on a record: gramophone-record lovers': since ca. 1959. The latter is also called the flip side.

side, on the. In addition; not downright illegally, yet dubiously, in unacknowledged commissions, tips, bribes: coll.: late C. 19-20.

side-kick (p. 768) was, in 1939-45, common in the British Army as a whole. P-G-R.

side of his mouth, on one. See one side of his mouth.

side out (a matter); mostly, side it out. To settle an argument; to discuss a matter and come to a decision; apparently mostly Naval, and ratings', at that: C. 19; ? † by ca. 1890. Wm Nugent Glascock, The Naval Sketch-Book, 2nd Series, 1834, at I, 24, "'Don't mind him," says Sal, 'leavin Tom and the captin-o'-the-top to side it out', and 225, '... to settle the score in the reg'lar way, and to side it out in the bay below'.

side wind. A bastard: Naval: ? ca. 1780-1850. (W. N. Glascock, Sailors and Saints (I, 17), 1829. Moe.) Mr Ramsey Spencer neatly suggests a nautical pun on S.E. by-blow.

sideburns. Side whiskers: form-adopted, ca. 1945, ex U.S., and sense-adapted. A variant of burnsides, named after the famous General A. E. Burnside (1824-81), who affected them.

sidedoor Pullman. A box car: Canadian railroadmen's (- 1931). Adopted ex U.S.

sidelights. See side-lights (Dict.).

sidewalk, superintendent—or supervisor—of the. A pedestrian standing, esp. if habitually standing, on the sidewalk (or pavement or footpath and what-have-you) and gazing up at a new building in the course of construction: Australian: adopted, ca. 1956, ex U.S. (B.P.)

sideways. Of a sum of money: split each way, i.e. winner and place: racing s.: C. 20. Mark McShane, The Straight and Crooked, 1960, 'Saucer-pan, sideways, Lanternjaw' = One pound, half to win, half for a place.

sideways, go. See go sideways.

sidies. Side whiskers: mostly Naval: C. 20. Cf. sideboards on p. 768. (Wilfred Granville, Sept. 18, 1967.)

Sifton's pets. Eastern European, esp. Ruthenian and Galician, immigrants: Canadian (esp. Manitoba): ca. 1900-10. Brought in under the immigration scheme of the Hon. afterwards Sir, Clifford Sifton (1861-1910), at that time Minister of the Interior. (Roger Goodland, letter of June 4, 1938.)

sig.—2. A signature: Harrow School: late C. 19-20. Marples.

sight, give a. Variant of take a sight (sight, n., 5: p. 768): Sessions, April 6, 1847.

sighted. 'Singled out for attention as a possible candidate for a disciplinary charge': Royal Sussex Regiment: C. 20. The Roussillon Gazette, April 1911. (S. H. Ward.)

sign one's hand (or name). See name, bite someone's.

signal basher, usually in pl. A signaller: Army: since ca. 1930. (P-G-R.)

Signalman Jimmy. The figure of Mercury in the Royal Corps of Signals badge: R.S.C.: since ca. 1939 (P-G-R.)

Signs of the Zodiac, the. (Members of) the Christchurch Club: Canterbury, New Zealand: C. 20. 'When the Christchurch club was started by twelve squatters . . . there were never more than two of the twelve visible at the same time,' L. G. D. Adland, 'Sheep Station Glossary'—in The (Christchurch) Press, 1933-4 (cited by B., 1941).

sigster. A short sleep: low: ca. 1830-60. Sinks, 1848.

sikhery; Sikh's beard. See 'Prisoner-of-War Slang', 5.

Silas Hocking. A stocking: theatrical rhyming s.: late C. 19-20. Silas Hocking's very popular novels appeared over a period of fifty years or more, beginning in ca. 1879.

silence in the court, the monkey wants to talk. An Australian juvenile c.p.: C. 20. (B.P.) Cf. silence in the court . . . on p. 769.

silent cop. A traffic dome: adopted, in late 1920's, ex U.S.; by 1955, coll.; by 1966, verging on S.E. 'About 100 times as common as poached egg' (above): B.P., mid-1963.

silent death. An electric train: railwaymen's: since ca. 1950. (Railway, 3rd.)

silent hours, the. From 11 p.m. to 5.30 a.m. (ship's bells not sounded): Naval coll.: since ca. 1910. (P-G-R.)

silent like the p in swimming. See p in swimming above.

silly, v. To stun: coll.: ca. 1850-1900. Sessions, May 10, 1859, 'I felt great pain from the blows . . . it half silled me at the time.'

silly as a hatful of worms; also . . . a bag . . . 'Extremely silly or stupid' (B., 1959): Aus.: since ca. 1930. For other Aus. silly similes, see mad as a cut snake above (at end of entry). Cf:—

silly as a two-bob watch. Extremely silly: N.Z.: since ca. 1920. (Harold Griffith.)

silly as a wheel, as. (Of persons) extremely silly: Australian: since ca. 1930. (Dick.) Silly all round or in every way.

silly buggers, play. To indulge in provocative horse-play; hence, to feign stupidity: low: since ca. 1920. By itself, s.b. denotes an imaginary card-game: since ca. 1910.

silly kipper. A mild term of disapproval; affectionate address to a child: non-aristocratic: C. 20.

silly moo. See moo, old, above.

silver plate! Please: jocular: since ca. 1916. A 'Hobson-Jobson' of French s'il vous plaît.

silver saddle. A bed-pan made of stainless steel: since ca. 1950. "'They call them silver saddles in the Air Force," he said': Leslie Blight, Love and Idleness, 1952. (With thanks to L.A.) silver sausage. A barrage balloon: 1938 +. H. & P. Ex its shape and, in the sun, its colour.

silver spoon. See hoon.

silvertail.—2. Hence, an affected person, one who puts on airs, a social climber: since ca. 1910. B., 1942.—3. A better-class prisoner in gaol: Australian c.: since ca. 1930. (H. C. Brewster, King's Cross Calling, 1944—cited by B., 1953.)

Sim.—3. (Usually sim.) A confidence-trickster's dupe: Australian c.: C. 20. B., 1942. I.e. a simpleton.

Similes. It is difficult to record all the eligible similes: they so easily slip through the linguistic net. Most of the important ones have been caught, to be exhibited at the appropriate counter. But here are a few that I had missed and that I owe to the pertinacious scholarship of Mr Laurie Atkinson. (The datings are mine.)

(as) drunk as a kettlefish (late C. 19–20); cf. pissed as a newt (C. 20) or, R.A.F. in Iraq (1920–45), pissed as a piard.

(as) dry as a basket, very thirsty (since ca. 1930). eyes like a cod's ballocks, pop-eyed (C. 20).

(a) face like a milkman's round, long and dreary (since ca. 1910).

(as) fit as a butcher's dog, very robust (C. 20).

like a pregnant duck: ungainly (since ca. 1920); cf. Pregnant Duck.

like a rat up a drainpipe, with alacrity (late C. 19–20).

like a tit in a trance, dreamy, abstracted (low: C. 20).

like two of eels, nonplussed, at a loss (late C. 19–20).

(as) peevish as arseholes, offended, indignant (low: C. 20).

(as) regimental as a button-stick, punctiliously military (Army, C. 20; R.A.F. since ca. 1925).

(as) rough as a badger's arse, very rough of surface (low: late C. 19–20); cf. rough as bags (Dict.).

shag like a rattlesnake: shag the arse off: with immoderate vigour (low: late C. 19–20).

Simon Pure.—3. 'Simon Pures: Amateurs in the realm of sport,' Baker: Australian sporting: since ca. 1920. Sarcastic—and perhaps ironic.

simp (p. 770). Acclimatised, rather, by ca. 1910. In use at St Bees at least as early as 1915. (Marples.)

simple sailor, a. 'The Naval Officer's self-description' (Granville): c.p.: C. 20. How 'simple' he is appears very clearly in the novels of William McFee, C. S. Forester (see esp. that magnificent book, The Ship), Humfrey Jordan—and others. Often 'I'm a simple sailor' serves a very useful purpose.

simply throwing up buckets. See throwing up buckets.

Simpson not Samson, my name's. See my name is Simpson . . .

sim(s). See 'i for ē'.

sin-bin. Penalty box: ice-hockey players', commentators', journalists': since ca. 1946. The penalty against an offending player is a two-minutes' 'rest' there. Some 'crimes', however, attract a more than two minutes' penalty.

sin bosun, the. The ship's chaplain: Naval: since ca. 1925. Granville. There are numerous bosun compounds—e.g. custard bosun.

sin-shifter. A Catholic priest: Australian: since ca. 1930. Jock Marshall & Russell Drysdale, Journey among Men, 1962, at p. 7. An allusion to Confession.

Sinbad (p. 770) has, since the 1890's, been 'the Wardroom name for a Royal Naval Reserve Officer. Dates from the time when the first batch of R.N.R. officers joined the Royal Navy from the Mercantile Marine. These were known somewhat unkindly as "the Hungry Hundred". Later a small batch arrived who were called "the Famishing Fifty",' Granville.

Sinbad the Sailor. A tailor: rhyming: late C. 19–20.

since Auntie had her accident. For a very long time, as in 'I haven't been to Melbourne since Auntie had her accident': Australian c.p.: since ca. 1920. (B.P.) The accident is that which is so poignantly described at 'hell!' said the duchess (p. 387 and above).

since Nelly had her operation. 'A burlesque c.p., marking banteringly a certain lapse of time' (Atkinson): since ca. 1910.

since Pontius was a pilot, as in 'He's been in that mob since . . .': R.A.F. c.p., testifying to long service: since ca. 1944. A pun on Pontius Pilate: cf. Pontius Pilate's Bodyguard (p. 647). Of the same semi-erudite order, and dating from ca. 1946, are: since the Air Ministry was a tent and, referring to Air Ministry Orders, since A.M.O.s were carved on stone.

since the battle of Crecy. Since long ago: coll.: late C. 19–20.

since when I have used no other (p. 771) dates from the 1890's and the original painting was by Phil May. For 'twenty years' read 'two years'. (Alexander McQueen, letter of 1953.)

since Willie died. "'We haven't had so much fun since Willie died"'—said in approbation of a good time' (Leechman): Canadian: since ca. 1910. Cf. since Auntie . . . above.

sine. A House team, exclusive of Colours (sine coloribus): Eton: since ca. 1870. Marples.

sing. To inform to the police: Australian c. and low s.: adopted, in 1943 or '44, ex U.S. servicemen.

sing a bone is the Australian Aboriginal practice of pointing the bone at someone under a curse: the former is s., the latter is S.E.: sing a bone, late C. 19–20. (B., 1942.) For the practice, see Archer Russell, A Tramp Royal in Wild Australia, 1934.

sing it!, don't; or don't chant the poker! Don't exaggerate!: proletarian c.p. of ca. 1870–1910. B. & L.

singe. See shave, n., 7, in Dict.

Singers. Singapore: Naval: since ca. 1930. (Granville, Nov. 22, 1962.) By 'the Oxford -er'.

singlet, up one's, with have either expressed or implied: Australian: since ca. 1935. (B., Australia Speaks, 1953.)

singleton, 2 (p. 771). 'Could a singleton nail be one of a size that once sold at a penny each?' a correspondent asks. Rather, a nail one-inch long; if sixpenny nail, sevenpenny nail, nails 6 and 7 inches long. (Julian Franklyn.)

Singular instead of Plural.

'The use of plurals as if they were singular is common in the United States and Canada. I have heard and read: a rapids, a scissors, a suds, a stairs, a scales, and even (God save the mark!) a trousers.' Leechman.

This solecism, arising at some time in C. 19, has steadily increased in use—and in acceptance.

sinister, bar (p. 771). The noted heraldist Julian Franklyn corrects me thus: 'Not incorrect for bend sinister nor for baton (which is always sinister). Simply a crass vulgarism—a kitchen or scullery way of referring to a bastard.' He adds that 'there is no special mark for a bastard—various marks are used at various periods'.

sink, down the. Lost, wasted; squandered, misspent: C. 20. Cf. down the drain and the pan.

sink 'er. To intromit the penis: low (? orig. nautical): C. 20.

sink-hole. The throat: low: ca. 1830–90. Sinks, 1848. Cf. sink, fall down the, p. 771.

sink the boot in. To kick (someone) brutally: low Australian: C. 20. (B., 1953.)

sink the soldier. (Of the male) to copulate: low: C. 20. Cf. dip the wick.

sinker.—4. A suet dumpling: Naval: C. 20. Cf. sense 2 on p. 771. (P-G-R.)

sinner.—2. Affectionately for a person (usually male), as in 'You old sinner!' or 'The old sinner should arrive any moment'; coll.: late C. 19–20. Cf. the affectionate use of scamp, scallywag, bastard, etc.

sipper.—2. A tea spoon: low: ca. 1810–90. Sinks, 1848.

sippers. 'A sip from the "tot" of each member of the mess, allowed to the Leading Hand who measures the rum' (Granville): Naval: since ca. 1900. By 'the Oxford -er' ex sip.

sir. One's teacher: Elementary schools': C. 20. 'I'll tell sir.' Ex the sir of respectful address.

Sir Berkeley. Female genitals; hence, sexual intercourse (from the male angle): late C. 19–20. James Curtis, They Drive by Night, 1938, 'The quick-lime was burning him up now. No more of the old Sir Berkeley for him.' Short for Sir Berkeley Hunt: mid-C. 19–20 variant of Berkeley Hunt (Dict.).

Sir Garny. A Cockney variant dating from ca. 1890, of Sir Garnet (Dict.). E. Pugh, Harry the Cockney, 1912.

Sir Oliver is an ephemeral fast-life variant of Oliver, 1 (p. 587): P. Egan, Finish to Tom, Jerry, and Logic, 1828.

Sir Roger Dowler. Suraj-ud-Dowlah, who (d. 1757) permitted 'the Black Hole of Calcutta': military: C. 18. B. & L. (at Upper Roger).

sis.—2. An Australian shortening of sissie (p. 772): since ca. 1935. (Dymphna Cusack, 1953.)

siss (or ciss). A shortening of sissie (p. 772): Australian: since ca. 1920. (B.P.)

sissified. Effeminate: coll.: since mid-1920's. Ex sissie (or -y): p. 772.

sit, n.—2. Esp. have a sit with (a girl, a boy): Aus., mostly teenagers': since ca. 1920. Norman Lindsay, Saturdee, 1933.

sit, v.—2. To sit for, to take (an examination): middle-class coll.: C. 20. (Angus Wilson, A Bit off the Map, 1957.)

sit a buckjumper. To ride a buckjumping horse: Australian coll.: since ca. 1880. B., 1942.

sit-down. A sit-down meal: Canadian (ex U.S.) hoboos' coll.: late C. 19–20. (Frederick Niven, Wild Honey, 1927.)

sit down.—2. To settle (at or in a place); to take up land: Australian: C. 20. Baker.

sit on a draft-chit, esp. be sitting . . ., about to be transferred to another ship: Naval (lower-deck): since ca. 1920. P-G-R.

sit, or be sitting, pretty. To be in a very advantageous position: since ca. 1920. Ex sitting hens?

sit up and beg. 'He can make it sit up and beg' indicates that a man has become extremely proficient in working some material, e.g. a metal: c.p.: since ca. 1930. Ex teaching a dog to do so.—2. But 'it sits up and begs' (or 'it is sitting up and begging') is at least a generation older—and it refers to an erectio penis: low: late C. 19–20.

sit up like Jacky. See Jacky . . .

sit-upon.—3. One's posterior: euphemistic: late C. 19–20. Cf. sit-me-down (p. 772).

sitter.—5. An easy target: artillerymen's coll.: since ca. 1910. (P-G-R.)—6. A regular drinker of alcoholic liquor: Australian, esp. Sydneyites': since ca. 1940. (Gwen Robyns in The Evening News, Feb. 16, 1949.) He sits and sits—and drinks and drinks.

sitter, for a. See sitter, 4 (Dict.).

sittivation is, if I remember rightly and am reminded by Mr Ralph Thompson (of New York), a Sam Wellerism and should, therefore, be dated back to the 1830's—and indeed further than that.

Sitz, the. The 'phoney war' of late 1939–early 1940: coined, 1940, in retrospect and as a pun on the German 'blitz' invasion of N.W. and N. Europe; by 1946, ob. (Gunbuster, Battledress, 1941; P-G-R, 1948.)

siwash (p. 773)—dating back to ca. 1840—is 'a corruption of the Fr. savage, wild, savage. Common on the Pacific Coast of North America. I've heard it since 1910' (Leechman).

siwash, v. To put on the 'Indian list' of those to whom intoxicants may not be served: Canadian: C. 20; by 1959, ob. (Leechman.) 'The Siwash list is by no means obsolete, but only a few old-timers so refer to it. The expression would be understood by most people, however' (Leechman, April 1967).

six, gone for. See gone . . .

six, hit for. See hit . . .

six or sixer, throw a. See seven, throw a.

six-and-eight. Honest: rhyming s. on straight: since ca. 1930. (John Gosling, 1959.)

six doss in the steel. Six months' imprisonment: Australian c.: C. 20. B., 1942. See the elements doss and steel in the Dict.

six foot. '6 ft 5½ in. space between tracks' (Railway, 3rd): railwaymen's coll.: C. 20.

six foot of land—that's all the land you'll get!

A c.p. addressed to one who expresses a desire to 'own a bit of ground (land)': C. 20. See land-owner, p. 469.

six months hard. A card in the game of House: rhymings.: C. 20. (Franklyn, Rhyming.)

six o'clock swill. 'The rushed drinking before 6 p.m. in hotel bars. Mainly Victorian, since ten o'clock closing was introduced into N.S.W. some years back' (B.P.): Australian: since ca. 1930. Also New Zealand, as in 'New Zealanders . . . vote to-day on whether to end their "six o'clock swill"': Daily Mail, Sept. 23, 1967.

six quarter, get. To be dismissed from employment: commercial: ca. 1860-1910. B. & L. Origin?

six(-)to(-)four. A prostitute: low: C. 20. James Curtis, What Immortal Hand, 1939. Rhyming on where.

six-water grog (p. 773): earlier in W. N. Glascock, Sketch-Book, II, 1826. (Moe.)

six-wheeler (usually in pl.) A draught horse: cavalrymen's: late C. 19-20; by 1945, ob. (Anthony Armstrong, Captain Bayonet, 1937.)

sixer.—6. A Christian girl: East End of London: late C. 19-20. Ex Yiddish Shicksa (same sense).—7. A scout with six younger boys in his charge: Boy Scouts' coll.: since ca. 1910.

sixer, chuck- or throw-a. To be startled or completely nonplussed: Australian since ca. 1910. (Dal Stevens, Jimmy Brockett, 1951.) Ex cricket.

sixpenny (p. 773) takes its name from the junior cricket club founded in 1830 and known as the Sixpenny Club, the subscription being sixpence; the name applied only in the summer.—2. The chocolate-coloured, white-ringed cap awarded as a 'colour' for junior cricket at Eton: mid C. 19-20.

sixpennyworth; ninepennyworth. A prison-sentence or term of six, of nine, months: London's East End: since ca. 1945. Richard Herd, article in The Evening News, Nov. 12, 1957.

sixteen annas, at full speed; esp. go sixteen annas, to go flat out, as in steeplechasing: Anglo-Indian: C. 20.

sixteen annas to the rupee or ounces to the pound not. See not sixteen annas . . .

sixty-miler. A collier transporting coal from Newcastle to Sydney: Aus., esp. N.S.W., coll.: C. 20. (B., 1959.)

sixty nine! 'The shearers' code-warning that ladies or visitors are approaching and bad language is "out of order"' (Straight Furrow, Feb. 21, 1968): N.Z.: C. 20.

sixty-niner; occ. variants, flying sixty-nine and swaffonder or swassander. The sexual practice known in France—and in Britain and the Dominions—as soixante-neuf, 69: Naval ratings': since ca. 1940. See soixante-neuf, below.

Sixy; gen. Sixy Smith. Smith, the Middlesex fast bowler and mighty hitter: cricket-lovers': ca. 1935-39. Usually in reference and in the longer form.

size, n. Jelly (to eat): London street s.: ca. 1840-90. Augustus Mayhew, Paved With Gold, 1857.

sizzler. An exceedingly fast ball, race-horse, etc.: coll.: late C. 19-20. Cf. the familiar S.E. sense, a broiling hot day.—2. 'A restaurant steak served on a metal plate . . . so hot that the meat sizzles vigorously when it reaches the table' (Leechman): coll., mostly Canadian: since ca. 1945.

skate (p. 773). Because often 'in the rattle': roller-skates rattle along. More accurately, skate is a rating addicted to shirking.

skate, v. To 'act Jack-my-hearty; to go in search of wine, women and song' (Granville): Naval: since ca. 1925.—2. (Also skate off or do a skate.) To depart hurriedly: Australian low: since ca. 1925. B., 1942.

skate-lurker. See skates lurk (Dict.). Prob. the 'dodge' is skates lurk, the impostor skate-lurker.

skates. 'Wire shoes issued to the Infantry in Sinai and speedily condemned as worse than useless,' The Soldiers' War Slang Dict., 1939: Army: 1917-18.

skates on, get. See get cracking.

skating, adj. Drug-exhilarated: raffish: since ca. 1955. 'She had nearly half a bottle—and, boy, was she skating?' 'Hardly a question, but rather an exclamation of delighted astonishment, therefore ". . . was she skating!"' (Leechman.)

Skating Rink. See Egg.

skating rink. A bald head: jocular: since ca. 1910. Wm Riley, Old Obbut, 1933. Short for flies' skating-rink (C. 20).

sked. A scheduled time or programme: radio: since ca. 1930. (F. Spencer Chapman, The Jungle Is Neutral, 1949.)

skeletons fucking on a tin roof, a noise like—it rattles like—two (or a pair of). This Canadian and American c.p., not unheard in Britain and Australia since ca. 1940, dates from the 1920's—if not, indeed, from at least a generation earlier.

skerrick.—2. Hence, have not a skerrick: to be penniless: Australian: C. 20. B., 1942.

sketch, v. To deal with (someone) in a disciplinary way: Army: since ca. 1939.

skew. Sense 1 derives ex Low L. scutella, a platter, a dish: cf. the Welsh Gypsy skudela in the same sense (Sampson).

skewer.—2. An Aboriginal throwing-spear: Australian: since ca. 1860. Archer Russell, In Wild Australia, 1934.—3. A sword: ca. 1840-1900. Sinks, 1848.

ski. A taxi: Australian, esp. bodgies': since ca. 1950. (Dick.) Rather ex taxi than by rhyming s.

skib. A house-painter: builders': C. 20. Cf. the Warwickshire dial. skibbo, a house-painter, a whitewasher. (E.D.D.) The variant skiv (ca. 1920+) was probably suggested by skivvy.

skid kids. Boys racing, speedway fashion, on ordinary bicycles: 1945+. A factual rhyme.

skid lid. A crash helmet: since late 1950's. (David Wharton, June 6, 1966.) Cf. preceding entry, and s. lid, a hat.

Skid Road. 'That part of town where the hopeless down-and-outs congregate. Derived from a logging term, the skid road, a logging road down which logs were skidded to the river or other water for driving to the mill. When a logger had blown his stake and was ready to return to work, he waited at the end of the skid road, hoping for a lift back to camp. Hence, any place where penniless men congregate. Almost invariably, and quite mistakenly, rendered as Skid Row' (Dr Douglas Leechman): U.S. and Canadian: late C. 19-20 and C. 20 (Row). It isn't definitely known whether Canada or the United States originated the term; it may have arisen simultaneously in the two countries.

Skid Row. A notoriously depressed street in a city: Australian, esp. Melbourne and Sydney: adopted, ca. 1955, ex U.S. (B.P.) See the preceding entry.

skids, as in 'The skids are under him', he has been dismissed from a job: Army: 1940+. (P-G-R.)

Skies. Italians: Australian: since ca. 1910. (B., 1943.) Perhaps cf. Sky, 1 and 2 (p. 777). No! It is rhyming s. on Ities or Eyeties. (B.P.)

skiet-skop-en-donder film. A blood-and-thunder film; a Western: South Africa: since ca. 1930. 'The words are from the Afrikaans: skiet, shoot; skop, kick; en, and; donder, fight.' Cyrus A. Smith (letter of July 17, 1946). Also thud and blunder (film): The Cape Times, June 3, 1946 (Alan Nash).

skiff, n.—2. See scut, 3.

skiff, v.t. To upset, to spill: Christ's Hospital: C. 20. Marples.

skikster is an occ. C. 20 Australian variant of shickster, 1, 2. B., 1942.

skilly and toke. Anything mild or insipid: proletarian: from ca. 1860. B. & L. See skilly, 1, and toke, n., 1, in Dict.

skilly-pot. A teapot: H.M.S. Conway: late C. 19–20. Cf. skilly, 3 (p. 775).

skimisher. A public-house, an inn, esp. if rural: tramps' and Romanies' s.: C. 20. (Robert M. Dawson.) Ex skimish on p. 775.

skimmer. A broad-brimmed hat: Sedgely Park School: ca. 1800–65. Frank Roberts in The Cottonian, Autumn 1938. One could send it skimming into the air.—2. (Also skimming dish.) A fast planing motor-boat: Naval: since ca. 1935. (P-G-R.) It skims along.

skin, n., 1 (a purse): 'Until ca. 1895 or later in Australia' (Sidney J. Baker, letter). Also, in C. 20, Australian for 'a horse' (B., 1942).—6. Foreskin: coll.: mid-C. 19–20.—7. Women in general, girls in particular: as in 'a taut drop of skin', a shapely female: Naval: C. 20.—8. A person: Anglo-Irish: late C. 19–20. 'He was known far and wide as a decent old skin': Brendan Behan, Borstal Boy, 1958.

skin, a bit of. A girl: low Anglo-Irish: C. 20.

skin, get under (someone's), with complementary have under one's skin. To irritate; to be constantly irritated: since ca. 1925.

skin, go on the. To save money by rigid economy over a period: military, esp. in India: from ca. 1885; ob. Richards. Cf. skin, v., 1 and 2, in Dict.

skin, have a. To possess (overmuch) self-assurance: Naval: since ca. 1920. Granville. Short for thick skin.

skin a turd, he'd. He is parsimonious: low Canadian c.p.: late C. 19–20.

skin diver. A naked diver: Australian pearl-divers' coll.: since ca. 1865. (Ion M. Idriess, Forty Fathoms Deep, 1937.)

skin dog. A male 'sexual athlete': low Canadian: since ca. 1950.

skin-game.—3. Facial plastic surgery as practised on would-be glamorous women: since ca. 1935.

skinful, have got a.—2. To have received more than enough: low coll. (—1915). Graham Seton, Pelican Row, 1935. Cf. bellyful (Dict.).

skinful, have had a. To have had too much to drink; hence, to put up with: mostly Army: since ca. 1939. (P-G-R.)

skinner.—5. A hanger-on for profit at auctions: auctioneers': mid-C. 19–20; ob. James Greenwood, In Strange Company, 1873. Cf. odd-trick man.—6. A very successful bet, or 'book', on a horse-race: Australian: since ca. 1910. (Jon Cleary, 1949.)—7. An appointment deliberately missed: Australian: since ca. 1925. (B., 1943.)—8. Sexually 'in her': low Australian rhyming s. (not common): since ca. 1930.

Sense 7 has also, since ca. 1920, been common in Britain. (The Sunday Times, Oct. 3, 1965: of a very successful day for the 'bookies'.)

skinny, n. A girl or young woman: Australian: C. 20. B., 1942. Ex frequent thinness.

skinny Liz. Any elderly woman: St Bees: C. 20. Marples.

skint (p. 776): by 1945, fairly general.

skip, v.—3. (Ex sense 1.) To abscond on bail: c.: C. 20.

skip it! Don't trouble! Forget it!: coll.: adopted ca. 1939 from U.S.

skip-jack. See 'Fops'.

skip-stop. A train that 'skips' every second station: Australian: since ca. 1925. (B.P.)

skip the gutter! Houp la!; over she goes!: proletarian: ca. 1865–1910. B. & L. skipper, n., 5 (p. 776), occurs in 1818 (Alfred Burton, Johnny Newcome). Moe. Also, since 1917 or 1918, the commander of an aircraft in flight: R.A.F. coll.—7. A mode of address, as in 'What's the time, skipper?': since ca. 1920.

skippy. A logger (?): Australian miners': C. 20. (Gavin Casey, It's Easier Downhill, 1945.)

skips. The ship's captain: Naval (lower-deck): since ca. 1925. Familiar for skipper. (P-G-R.)

skirt, v. To skirt-dance: coll., mostly Cockneys': from ca. 1880. Nevinson, 1895, 'I've seed the Sheenies step-dancin' in the Lane, and I've seed the sisters Toddles skirtin' at the Cambridge, but I never see dancin' as was a patch on Lina's that night.'

skirt, run a. See run a skirt.

Skirt-Chasers, the. The Royal Army Service Corps: Army: since ca. 1940. A pun on 'R.A.S.C.'

skirt patrol is a Service (esp. R.A.F.) variation, since ca. 1938, of skirt-hunting (p. 776). H. & P. skite, go on the. To go drinking: Army: since ca. 1920. (P-G-R.) Cf.:

skite, on the. Having a terrific binge: Scottish Public Schoolmen's: C. 20.

skitey. Boastful: New Zealand: since ca. 1925. ex skite, to boast.

skits. A schizophrenic: since ca. 1930, but not common before ca. 1960. Ex schizo above.

skitsy. Afraid, timorous: Milton Junior School, Bulawayo: since ca. 1920. Cf. skittish (horse).

skitter. An Australian variant of scutter (p. 741): C. 20. Ruth Park, Pink Flannel, 1945. The origin of skitters, the. (B.P.)

skitterbug. A Bren-gun carrier: Australian soldiers': 1940–5. (B., 1943.)

skitters, the. Diarrhoea: Services: since ca. 1930. (P-G-R.) Cf. squitters, p. 821.

skittle.—3. To knock down; to kill: mostly Australian: late C. 19–20. B., 1942. Ex the game of skittles.

Skittles. Nickname of a famous London prostitute in 'the Langtry period' (1881–99).

skittling. The feminine practice of washing stockings, handkerchiefs and 'smalls' in the bedroom or bathroom wash-basin: hotel-keepers' and hotel-staffs', esp. in Scotland: since ca. 1920.

skitz. See schitz above.

skiv.—2. Short for skivvy (p. 776): since ca. 1925. Marples.—3. See skib.—4. A bookmaker's runner or tout: the racing-world, esp. at Epsom: late C. 19–20. Cf. skiver.

skive, n. An evasion; a loafing: low: since ca. 1925. (Norman.) Ex the v.

skive, v.—2. Hence, v.t., to evade (a parade): since ca. 1918. Gerald Kersh, Slightly Oiled, 1946. Sense 1 (p. 776) may derive ex. Fr. esquiver.

skiver. A shirker, 'schemer': Army: since ca. 1915. Gerald Kersh, 1941. Ex skive (p. 776).

skivvy (p. 776). An early example in W. L. George, The Making of an Englishman, 1914. It occurs in James Joyce's Ulysses, 1922.

skivvy! (p. 776). Ex Japanese sukebei, 'bawdy, lecherous'. (E. V. Gatenby, letter of Oct. 16, 1939.)

skiz. See schitz above.

skolfuring, n. Trading stores or equipment to civilians: Regular Army: C. 20; virtually † by 1939. Origin?

skolly. A non-European delinquent or loafer or criminal: S. African c. and police s.: C. 20. The Cape Times, May 23, 1946. Via Afrikaans ex Dutch schuilen, to lie low.

skookum. Satisfactory ('Everything's skookum'): Canadian West Coast: late C. 19–20. Chinook jargon; lit., 'strong'. Cf.:

skookum house, often preceded by strong. A gaol: West Canadian: C. 20; slightly ob. by 1952. (Leechman.)

skoshi. A little (Fr. un peu): United Nations troops': ca. 1951–5 in Korea. (Iddiwah, July 1953.) A Korean word? Or Japanese?

skowse or scouse or scowse. A Liverpool-born rating: Naval: C. 20. Granville derives it ex scouse (p. 735), 'thin meal peculiar to the district'.

skulker (p. 777) is recorded as early as 1748: Smollett, Roderick Random. (Moe.)

skull. See 'Hauliers' Slang'.—2. The head of a two-up penny: Australian: since ca. 1910. Lawson Glassop, Lucky Palmer, 1949, where the nuance is 'a two-up penny turning up heads'. (B., 1953.)

skull-dragging, n. 'Pulling a victim downstairs by his feet so that his head is painfully battered' (B., 1953): Australian c.: since ca. 1930.

skul(l)duggery. Underhand practices; villainy: coll., orig. jocular: C. 20. An extension of the mostly American senses (malversation of public money; obscenity), spelt skullduggery, of the Scottish sculduddery, in C. 19–20: also sculduddery (or sk-), itself of obscure origin.

skun. Skinned: sol: C. 19–20. The Pawnshop Murder. On spin: spun.

skunk, v.—3. To defeat (an opponent)—in cribbage, by a large score; in other games of chance, to nil: Canadian: adopted, late C. 19, ex U.S. (Leechman.)

Sky.—3. An Italian; usually in pl., Skies: Australian: since ca. 1930. Leonard Man, Mountain Flats, 1939.

sky, n.—3. In have a sky, have a look, to glance around: ? mostly Liverpool: since ca. 1920. Matutinal meteorology.—4. Whisk(e)y: Australian: since ca. 1950. (B.P.) Ex whisky.

sky, v.—5. Of a horse: to throw (its rider) high into the air: Australian, mostly rural: mid C. 19–20. (Tom Ronan, Moleskin Midas, 1956.) A special application of sense 1 on p. 777.

sky(-)artist. A psychiatrist: Naval (lower-deck) and Army: 1940+. Granville; Michael Harrison, 1943. By 'Hobson-Jobson'—and wit.

sky-blue.—3. A long-term prisoner: South African c.: C. 20. The Cape Times, May 23, 1946. Ex the blue jacket he wears.

sky-blue pink. Jocular c.p. for colour unknown or indeterminate: since ca. 1885.

Sky-Blues. 'Officers of the Hudson's Bay Company, so called from the colour of their uniform (no longer worn). My earliest reference is 1821.' (Leechman): Canadian coll.: since ca. 1815; by 1940, ob.

sky farmer.—2. A farmer either without, or with very little, land: Anglo-Irish (esp. Southern): mid (? early) C. 19–20. J. W. Joyce, English . . . in Ireland, 1910.) Perhaps ex sense 1 on p. 777, but prob. of independent origin.

sky-hacking (or one word), n. Back-biting; slander: Australian: since ca. 1925. Baker.

sky-high. To scold (a person) excessively: proletarian: from ca. 1880. Ex give sky high, q.v.

sky-hog. An airman that flies low over houses: 1945+. On road-hog.

sky-hook. 'A useful, but mythical, piece of apparatus which enables an airman to hover over one spot. Can also be used for any difficult job of lifting,' Gerald Emanuel, letter of March 29, 1945; R.A.F., esp. among the regulars: since 1918. But Dr Douglas Leechman vouches for its use, in Canada (esp. among loggers), as early as 1909.—2. The D.A.6, a World War I trainer aircraft: since 1915. Also called a clutching hand, as on p. 162. In, e.g., P. R. Reid, Winged Diplomat, 1962.

sky-lodging. See sky-parlour (Dict.).

sky-topper dates back to ca. 1880: in B. & L.

sky wire. A radio aerial; an antenna: Australian radio hams': since ca. 1955. (B.P.)

skylark, v., and skylarking, vbl n. (p. 778). Perhaps orig. s.; earlier in Sessions, April 1803.

skylight. A 'daylight' or unliquored interval at top of one's drinking glass: 1816. Peacock; ob. by 1880; † by 1920. O.E.D. Suggested by daylight.

skypiece. 'Smoke trails of sky-writing,' H. & P.: R.A.F.: since ca. 1930. Ex painting.

skyser = skycer = shicer, q.v. in Dict.

skyte.—2. A fool: Scottish Public Schools' coll.: mid-C. 19–20. B. & L.

slaat. See let's slaat.

slab.—4. A slice of bread and butter: streets': C. 20. E. C. Vivian, Ladies in the Case, 1933.—5. A long paragraph: journalists': since ca. 1910.—6. See 'Canadian'.

slab, on the. On the operating table: R.A.F. aircrews': 1940+. (Atkinson.)

slab dab. See 'Occupational names'.

slack, n., 3 (p. 778), occurs as early as 1818 (Alfred Burton, Johnny Newcome), Colonel Moe points out; again in Boriana (IV), 1824.—5. A 'depression in rail level' (Railway): railwaymen's coll.: late C. 19–20. Ex the slack in a rope.

slack, the. The slack period or off season: Australian coll.: esp. among sheep-shearers and cane-cutters: C. 20. (Jean Devanney, By Tropic Sea and Jungle, 1944.)

slack bobs. The small minority of boys excused from rowing and cricket, but allowed to play tennis: Eton: C. 20. (J. D. R. McConnell, Eton: How It Works, 1967.) Cf. dry bobs and wet bobs in the Dict.

slack in stays (p. 778) goes back to 1806 (John Davis, The Post-Captain). Moe.

slack party. Punishment for defaulters: Royal Naval College, Dartmouth: C. 20. Granville. Ironical; cf. slack in stays (p. 778).

Slackers. Halifax, Canada: Royal Canadian Navy: 1939-45. (P-G-R.) Ex the slight slackening of discipline after arduous convoy work. See also Squibbly below.

slag.—4. One who looks at the free attractions but avoids the paying shows: showmen's: since ca. 1880. (Hence, prob., sense 3: p. 778.)—5. (Ex sense 3.) 'A man, never less than 35, who has often been in trouble with the police and who, more often than not, is liable to be sentenced to preventive detention when he next gets into trouble' (A. T. Reeves, letter in The Manchester Guardian, Sept. 11, 1958): low, mostly London: since ca. 1945. Probably ex: 6. A figurative bitch or a ditto bastard: since ca. 1930. Both in Norman.—7. Rubbish, nonsense: Australian: since ca. 1910. Vance Palmer, Colconda, 1948.—8. A prostitute: but rare except in old slag, an old prostitute: low: since the late 1950's. Perhaps ex slagger on p. 778.—9. Collective for 'young third-rate grafters, male or female, unwashed, useless' (Robin Cook, 1962): since ca. 1945: c. >, by ca. 1960, also low s. Also, ibid., such an individual: cf. senses 5 and 6.—10. Females collectively: low: since ca. 1950. 'Suburban slag filling in time' (James Barlow, The Burden of Proof, 1968).

Sense 1 (p. 778) is glossed thus in W. Buchanan-Taylor, Shake It Again, 1943: 'It seemed slaggy to me. (A slag is a person who is not much bottle—not much good; a person for whom you have no respect, even if he or she is holding a poke (plenty of money) . . .' Sense 7 has, since ca. 1950, been much less common in Australia than sense 6. (B.P.) slag, v. To expectorate or spit (v.i.): low Australian: C. 20. "'Hell," muttered Richie, "he's slaggin' on me car!"' (Dick.) Ex Scottish dial. slag, to moisten, to besmear.

slaggy is the adj. of n. slag (p. 778 and above). See quotation at slag, n., above.

slam, v.—3. To strike or punch (someone): since ca. 1910. In, e.g., Dave Marlow, Coming, Sir, 1937.

slang a dolly to the edge. 'To show and work a marionette on a small platform outside the booth'—as a means of attracting customers for the play shown inside: showmen's: ca. 1875-1940. (John o'London's Weekly, March 4, 1949.) The phrase shows that slang, v., 2 (p. 779) was current well into the 20th century.

slanger of one's mauleys (or morleys). A boxer: one who excels with his fists: 1822, David Carey, Life in Paris; † by 1890. (Carey spells it morleys.) I.e. slinger.

slanging, adj. Performing, as slanging buffer (dog) and slanging pig (elephant): circus: late C. 19-20. (Laura Knight, Oil Paint and Grease Paint, 1936.) Cf. slanger and slanging, n., 1, on p. 779, and also buffer and pig, n., 10, both above.

slanging match. An altercation: since ca. 1860: coll. >, ca. 1910, S.E.

slant, n.—4. (Cf. 2.) An opportunity: Australian: since ca. 1870. 'Tom Collins', Such is Life, 1903.

slap. 'A slap-up meal' (Anderson): beatniks': since ca. 1959. Anderson, 'Others have the folding-lettuce for slap.'

slap, knap (or nap) the. See nap the slap.

slap a few on the deck. To fire a few rounds: artillerymen's: 1939-45. (P-G-R.) slap and tickle, a; esp., have a bit of slap and tickle. 'Necking', to 'neck'; but, since late 1950's, usu. to make love: the former, since ca. 1910, the latter since ca. 1920; since ca. 1950, both are coll. The former occurs in, e.g., Somerset Maugham, The Lion's Skin, ca. 1924.

slap-bang in the middle. Right in the middle: Australian coll.: C. 20. (B.P.)

slap-dash. To do something happy-go-luckily or carelessly: Australian coll.: since ca. 1920. B., 1942.

slap-happy. Very—strictly, boisterously—happy; esp., recklessly happy: coll.: adopted in 1942 from U.S. (see quotation at stream-lined). Jackson. I.e. back-slappingly happy.—2. A synonym of punch-drunk: since ca. 1945. (Evening News, Oct. 27, 1950.)

slap in, v.i. To make a request, e.g. for leave: Naval: since ca. 1930. (P-G-R.)

slap in the belly with a wet fish, better than a. See better than a slap . . .

slap of the tongue. A reprimand or a sharp reply: Anglo-Irish: late C. 19-20.

slash, n.—2. A urination: c., and low: C. 20.—3. Hence (?), a drink: low London: since ca. 1930. Arthur La Bern, Pennygreen Street, 1950. For the semantics, cf. piss-up, a drunken bout.

slash, in the. Fighting: tailor's: from ca. 1860. B. & L.

slasher.—3. A fast driver: busmen's: since ca. 1925. Contrast scratcher, 6.—4. A hockey stick: Cranbrook School: since ca. 1920. Proleptic.

slasheroo. Excellent, most attractive: Australian: since ca. 1944. (B., 1953.) The suffix -eroo was adopted from U.S. servicemen; slashing + -eroo.

slashers. Testicles: low: C. 20. (Barry England, Figures in a Landscape, 1968.)

slate, n.—4. A quarrel: from ca. 1880. Ibid.

slather. (Rights of) access: Australian: since ca. 1930. (D'Arcy Niland, The Shiralee, 1955.) Perhaps ex Irish slighe, craft; a way; access.

slathered. Topsy: Australian: since ca. 1920. (B.P.) Prob. ex North Country dial. slather, to spill, to rain, to slobber.

slaughter-house.—6. A low brothel: white-slavers' c.: C. 20. Albert Londres, 1928. Ex sense 3.

slave. An aircraftman or aircraftwoman: R.A.F. (since ca. 1939) and W.A.A.F. (1941 +). Jackson. Humorous.

slaver. (p. 781.) Orig. coll., it was, by 1946, almost S.E.

slavey market. An employment bureau for domestic servants: C. 20. (Eric Horne, What the Butler Winked At, 1923.) A pun on S.E. slave market.

slaving gloak. A servant: c.: C. 19. B. & L.

sleazy. Grimy or dilapidated—or both; (cheap and) inferior: adopted, in late 1950's, ex U.S. A blend of slimy and greasy.—2. Hence, in Britain, garish and disreputable: since ca. 1959. 'Half the wardroom were in some sleazy night club that was raided' (John Winton, We Saw the Sea, 1960).

sleep at Mrs Green's. An Australian variant of sleep with Mrs Green. (K. S. Prichard, Kiss on the Lips, 1932.)

sleep black. To sleep unwashed: chimney-sweeps' coll.: mid C. 19-20; by 1950, ob.

sleep the caller. To lose a shift by failing to hear the caller: miners' (esp. North Country) coll.: late C. 19-20. I.e. to oversleep (by failing to hear) the caller.

sleep tight, mind the fleas don't bite. A children's bed-time c.p.: late C. 19-20.

sleep-walker. A sneak thief: Australian c.: C. 20. B., 1942.

sleep with Mrs Green (p. 781). Hence, also Australian. (Baker.)

sleep.—2. A delayed-action bomb: 1940 +.—3. 'Second man on diesel' (Railway, 3rd): railway-men's: since late 1950's.—4. A gramophone record that, released a long time, suddenly becomes a 'hit': since ca. 1950. Ex sense 2. (David Wharton, June 6, 1966.)

sleepers. Sleeping pills: since late 1920's. The agential sleep, a soporific.

sleeper.—2. A drinking straw: New Zealand: C. 20. B., 1941, compares Australian (long) sleeper, a long drink.

slew. To defeat, baffle, outwit: late C. 19-20. Implied in slewed, 2 (p. 781); since ca. 1930, predominantly Australian. Baker.

slewed.—3. (Ex sense 2—see p. 781). Lost in 'the bush': Australian: late C. 19-20. Boyd Cable, letter in The Observer, Oct. 30, 1938, 'The man who (on tramp,) loses the track and gets "bushed" or "slewed" may easily die of thirst or "do a perish".'

slice, take a. Extant as take (or help yourself to) a slice off the loaf, as in Arthur J. Sarl, Gamblers of the Turf, 1938 ('You could safely help yourself to . . .').

Slice of Cheese, the. 'The monument erected by Mussolini west of Tobruk. It was wedge-shaped' (Peter Sanders in The Sunday Times magazine, Sept. 10, 1967): Army in North Africa: 1940-43.

slice of ham. A variant of plate of ham.

slice of pie. The Army's variant (since 1940) of piece of cake. (P-G-R.)

slick, adj. See next, s.f.—2. Neat or smooth; attractive, desirable: Canadian: adopted, ca. 1946, ex U.S. 'Boy, look at Jane! There's a slick chick.' (Leechman.)

slick chick. A girl; esp., a young lady: beat-niks' (and teenagers'): adopted, ca. 1958, ex U.S. (Anderson—cf. the quotation at canary, 12, above.)

slicked down. (Of male head-hair) plastered down with brilliantine, etc.: coll.: adopted ca. 1930 from U.S.

slickee-slickee, n., and slicky-slick, v. Theft; to steal; not in a big way: United Nations troops in Korea: ca. 1951-55. (Iddiwah, July 1953.) By pidgin English out of slick, not-quite-honestly smart, itself adopted, ca. 1918, ex U.S.—as coll., not s.

slicks. Magazines printed on glazed stock: Canadian journalists', printers', publishers', news-vendors': since ca. 1930. (Leechman.) Cf. glossies.

slide, n. Butter: Naval: since ca. 1930. 'Pass the slide!' Ex its greasiness.

slide!, let it. See let . . .

slide and glitter. Toast and marmalade: Naval (lower-deck): Sept. 13, 1941, The Weekly Telegraph.—2. But strictly butter and marmalade: lower-deck.

slide your jive. See 'Canadian . . .'

slieveen. A deceitful person: Newfoundland coll. (? dial.): late C. 19-20. (L. E. F. English, Historic Newfoundland, 1955.) Ex Gaelic sligh-each, sly.

Sligger. Francis Urquhart (d. 1935), a Balliol don for forty years: Oxford undergraduates': late C. 19-20; † except among graduates. See esp. Cyril Bailey, Francis Urquhart, 1936, and Harold Nicolson's review thereof in The Daily Telegraph, Nov. 6, 1936.

Slim. 'The Navy's ironic nickname for a fat man'. (P-G-R): since ca. 1920.

slim-dilly. A girl or young woman: Australian: since ca. 1920. B., 1942. Cf. skinney.

slime, n. Semen: low: C. 19-20.

sling, n.—2. A bribe: Australian c.: since ca. 1930. Kylie Tennant, The Joyful Condemned, 1953.—3. A tip (of money): Aus.: since ca. 1935. (B., 1959.) Ex sense 3 of the v. on p. 782.

sling, v.—10. To fire (shells): Army: 1939-45. (P-G-R.)—11. (Of a horse) to throw (its rider): Australian: since ca. 1910. (B., 1943.)

sling 'em out. The c.p. of the dhobey firm: Naval: C. 20. (P-G-R.)

sling it. To leave one's work or one's job: Australian coll.: since ca. 1910. (K. S. Prichard.) Cf. sling up.

sling off.—3. To depart; to make off: Australian: since ca. 1925. B., 1942.

sling one up. A variant (Army and R.A.F.) of throw one up. Jackson.

sling one's bunk. To depart: ca. 1860-1910. B. & L. I.e. sling up one's hammock (and go).

sling one's Daniel. Earlier in Sessions, Nov. 1866, 'One of the constables said, "Sling your dannel."' sling one's hammock (p. 782) is defined by 'Taffrail' in The Sub, 1917, as 'to be given time to settle down in new surroundings'.

sling one's hook. See hook . . .

sling round. 'To air-test an aircraft,' Jackson: R.A.F., and civilian test pilots': since ca. 1930. The pilot does aerobatics.

sling tail. Pickled pork: low: ca. 1825-90. Sinks, 1848.

sling the hatchet (p. 782). In nuance 'tell a pitiful tale': 1893, P. H. Emerson, Signor Lippo.

sling the tip. See tip, sling the.

sling to. To pay out (esp. protection) money to; to bribe: Australian: since ca. 1920.

sling (esp. it) up. To abandon (job, country, talk, action, etc.): Australian: late C. 19-20. G. B. Lancaster, Jim of the Ranges, 1910. 'I've sling her [Queensland] up. Give her the go, the old Jade.'

slinge. To play truant; to stay away from work: Newfoundland coll.: C. 19-20. (L. E. F. English, Historic Newfoundland, 1955.) Ex Irish and Sc. Dial slinge to skulk.

slinkers in for (someone), put the. To hint adversely to authority about (someone): since ca. 1950. (Laurie Atkinson, who notes hearing it 'about 1960'). To slink evokes an impression of craftiness and slyness.

slinter. A trick, esp. if unfair; mostly in work a slinter, to effect a mean trick, tell a false story: Australian low: since ca. 1920. B., 1942. Cf. slant, n., 4 (Add.) and slanter (Dict.) and schlenter (Dict.).

slip, n.—4. A slipper: domestic: since ca. 1880. Daphne Du Maurier, Rebecca, 1938.—5. Baked custard: middle-class: since ca. 1860. Slippery stuff.—6. A small sum given by the operators to a loser now penniless, to enable him to get home: Australian two-up players': since ca. 1920. (B., 1953.) They slip it to him.

slip a joey. (Of a woman) to have a miscarriage; but also, to give birth to a child: Australian low: C. 20. B., 1942. Ex joey, 4 (p. 442).

slip (her) a length. To coit with (a woman): low: late C. 19–20.—2. Hence, slip him a length, to reprimand: Army: since ca. 1925.—3. Of a man, to have homosexual relations with: Australian low s.: late C. 19–20. Construction: slip a length into. (Colin MacInnes, June in Her Spring, 1952.)

slip-horn. See fish-horn.

slip in the gutter. (Bread and) butter: rhyming s.: C. 20. (Franklyn, Rhyming.)

slip into.—3. To have sexual connexion with: low: from ca. 1870.

slip it. To decamp, make off: ca. 1880–1920. J. W. Horsley, Prisons and Prisoners, 1898. Cf. S.E. to slip away.

slip it about (a woman). To coit with: C. 20. Cf. slip into, 3.

slip it across (someone).—2 To punch or strike: Army: C. 20. Also push... slip off (height). To fly lower esp. by rapid descent: aviators' coll.: from ca. 1925. The New Statesman and Nation, Feb. 20, 1937.

slip oneself. To let oneself go; make the most of a thing or opportunity: Cockney coll.: from ca. 1890. Edwin Pugh's Cockney stories, passim.

slip-slop. See 'Miscellanea'.

slip-stick. A slide-rule: Canadian engineers' and architects': since ca. 1940. (Leechman.) Cf. the Naval look-stick (p. 494).

slip-up. An appointment or rendezvous intentionally failed: Australian: C. 20. B., 1942.

slipped his trolley (sc. 'he has'). Crazy: since late 1940's. Ex slipped off his trolley, or lost it? Perhaps orig. trolley-bus or tram-drivers' s., as Ramsey Spencer has suggested; if so, then dating from ca. 1925 or earlier.

slipper.—2. A male urine-bottle: hospitals: C. 20. Ex shape. Rather: a slipper-shaped bedpan for both sexes and both purposes: hospital coll.: late C. 19–20.

Slipper-Slopper... (p. 783). Ex a nursery rhyme. slipper Sam. A gambling card game: late C. 19–20.

slippery.—2. Clever; (very) skilful or adroit: lower-class: since ca. 1930. Peter Crookston, Villain, 1967, 'Some of the old blacksmiths very very slippery.'

slipping, be. To be dying: white-slavers' c., applied to a prostitute (working for a pimp): C. 20. A. Londres, 1928.

slips. In theatre or cinema, the sides of a gallery: Australian: since ca. 1920. Baker.

slips his braces, he. Said of a man complaisant to homosexuality: coll.: C. 20.

slit, the female pudend. When not a euphemism it is a low coll.: C. 17–20.—2. Clitoris: raffish: since ca. 1920.

slither, n.—3. Short for slither and dodge, a lodge (of, e.g., Oddfellows): late C. 19–20. The New Statesman, Nov. 29, 1941.

slither, v. (p. 783), is also Australian: B., 1943.

slitherum. A counterfeit coin: c.: C. 20. (The Yorkshire Post, latish May 1937.) Ex slither, n., 1 (Dict.); lit., a 'slither' one.

slithery. Sexual intercourse: c., and low: C. 20.

slittie. A slit trench: Army (other ranks'): 1940–5. (P-G-R.)

slob. A 'softy', a fool, a (stupid) lout: in New Zealand, Australia, England: C. 20. (Ruth Park, Pink Flannel, 1955.) Ex the Anglo-Irish slob, 'a soft fat quiet simple-minded girl or boy:—"Your little Nellie is a quiet poor slob": used as a term of endearment' (P. W. Joyce, English . . . in Ireland, 1910).

slobber, n., 2 (p. 783). A Cockney term; earlier in W. Somerset Maugham, Liza of Lambeth, 1897.

slog, v., 1 (p. 783). Earlier in Sessions, Sept. 1824, 'One of them said, "Go back and slog him"'; also in H. D. Miles, Dick Turpin, 1941, "'Slog her, Nan; that's the cheese.'" slog it on. See schlog... slogged, get. To be charged an excessive price: Australian: C. 20. B., 1942.

slogger, 4 (p. 783). Much earlier in Boxiana, IV, 1824; and sense 2 occurs also in Sinks, 1848, as a boxer.—6. A quick worker: proletarian coll.: from ca. 1860; slightly ob. B. & L.

sloo. 'To get out of the way' (L. E. F. English, Historic Newfoundland, 1955): Newfoundland coll.: C. 20. An adaptation of E. slew or slue (v.i.), to swing round.

sloom. See keep sloom.

slop, n.—4. A prisoner's overcoat: Dartmoor c.: C. 20. H. U. Triston, Men in Cages, 1938. Ex slops, old and very cheap clothes.

slop back. To drink freely, as in Slatter, 'Slopping back the suds': New Zealand: since ca. 1925. Cf. slops, 1, on p. 784.

Slop Carriers, the. The Australian A.S.C.: Australian soldiers': 1939+. B., 1942.

slop chest. See slops, 4.

slop-chit. A 'form made out by the Supply rating, which enables a man to buy "slops" in the stores' (Granville): Naval coll.: C. 20.—2. Hence, as in 'I can't do that job, I've enough on my slop-chit already' (cited by Granville): since ca. 1900.

Slop House, the. The House of Commons: journalistic: since ca. 1910. Sydney Horler, The Dark Journey, 1938. Ex the amount of 'slop' talked there.

slop over; slop over (in) one's talk. 'To exhibit exaggerated effusiveness of manner and words': from ca. 1870; coll. >, by 1900, S.E. B. & L.

Sloperies, the. 99 Shoe Lane, London, E.C.4, the publishing address of Ally Sloper's Half-Holiday: ca. 1884–90.

sloppy.—2. Slack, careless, negligent: C. 20.

slops.—4. Sailors' clothes: Navy: C. 20. H. & P., 'The slop chest is their Clothing Stores.' Ex the 'sloppy', i.e. loose, make.—5. Ca. 1930–42, the Service Police: R.A.F. Ex slop, n., 1 (p. 783, at end).—6. Beer: Australian: since ca. 1920. (B.P.) slosh.—3. Beer: Naval (lower-deck): since ca. 1910. Echoic.

slosh, n.—5. (Ex 1.) Boiled rice: Christ's Hospital: C. 20. Marples.—6. Coffee: Australian: since ca. 1920. (B., 1953.) Ex senses 2 and 3: p. 784.

slosh, v. (p. 784). 'I sloshed him one,' Sessions, Dec. 13, 1904; 'Im what I sloshed for readin' my letters,' A. Neil Lyons, Clara, 1912.

slosh and mud. A collar stud: theatrical rhyming s.: late C. 19–20. (Franklyn, Rhyming.)

sloshed. See honkers.—But also in more general use (late C. 19–20). Ex slosh, n., 2 (p. 784).

slot (strictly 's'lot)! Thank you very much: Australian: since ca. 1945. Obviously 'thanks a lot'. (B.P.)

slot, down the. (Of a slow train) diverted to allow faster trains to pass: railwaymen's: since ca. 1910. (Railway.)

slothier. A sol. blend (from ca. 1880) of slither and slosh; thus in Nevinson, 1895, 'Slotherin' about Shadwell in the cold and wet.'

slotted kip. A two-up 'kip' in which, to hold a two-headed penny, a slot has been cut: Australian two-up gamblers' c.: C. 20. B., 1942.

slotted job. A woman: low, orig. in the Armed Forces: since ca. 1940.

slouch, no (p. 784): also Canadian of late C. 19–20. (Frederick Niven, 1927.)

Slow and Dirty, the. The Somerset and Dorset railway: railwaymen's: ca. 1890–1925. (Railway.)

slow as a wet week, as. (Of persons) very slow; esp., unenterprising, mostly in sexual matters: late C. 19–20.

Slow, Easy and Comfortable, the. The South-Eastern and Chatham railway: railwaymen's: C. 20. (Railway 2nd.)

Slow Starvation and Agony. A jocular interpretation of the initials of the Shaw Savile and Albion shipping line: since ca. 1910; by 1965, ob.

sludge. Beer: office- and shop-girls': ca. 1955–60. The variant plasma lasted less than the year 1958. (Gliderdale.)

slug, n., 2 (p. 785): earlier in Smollett's play, The Reprisal (II, viii), 1757. Moe.—4. An Eton Fellow: Windsor townsmen's: 1825, Spy; † by 1890.—5. A heavy bill: Australian: C. 20. B., 1942. Ex 3.—6. A small shell (projectile):

Army: 1940 +.—7. An armour-piercing shell or shot: artillerymen's: 1940–5. (P.-G.-R.)—8. 'A horse lacking vitality': Australian coll.: C. 20. (B., Australia Speaks, 1953.) Probably not a transferred sense of S.E. slug but a back-formation ex S.E. sluggish.—9. A nugget of gold: Australian miners': C. 20. (K. S. Prichard, 1932—see speek, v., 3.)

slug, v.—2. To smoke: South African children's: since ca. 1930.—3. To charge (someone) as a price: Australian: since ca. 1920. (B.P.) 'He slugged me a quid.'—4. To drink: Anglo-Irish: mid C. 19–20. (P. W. Joyce, 1910.) Ex sense 2 of the n. on p. 785.

Slug, the. R. P. Lewis, noted Oxford wicket-keeper: cricketers': late C. 19.

slug-up. A 'frame-up' (fraudulent charge or victimisation) Australian c.: since ca. 1910. B., 1942.

slugged, get. Synonym of slogged . . .; cf. slug, n., 4 (above).

sluggers. Sloe gin, 'always a popular Navy drink' (Granville): Naval officers': C. 20. Ex sloe by the process of 'the Oxford -er'.

sluicery (p. 785). A shade earlier in J. Burrowes, Life in St George's Fields, 1921, and in Pierce Egan's Life in London, 1821.

slum, n.—12. Cheap prizes esp. for children: Canadian carnival s.: C. 20. Cf. sense 10.

slum, v.—10. (Cf. senses 6–8 on p. 785.) Applied to those members of the Government who, disapproving a policy, sit among the back-benchers: Parliament: since ca. 1920.—11. The cheap jewellery, watches, etc., given as prizes: fairgrounds (carnivals): late C. 19–20. (Cf. senses 4 and 8.)

Slump Alley. Carey Street, where the Bankruptcy Court is situated: mostly Londoners': since ca. 1930.

slums, act in. To act in very small towns or in low plays: theatrical: ca. 1865–1910. B. & L.

slunch. Eton pudding: C. 20. Also slunching.

slung, get. To be tossed by a horse: Australian: C. 20. B., 1942. Short for the Australian coll. get slung off (mid-C. 19–20).

slurge. 'A very ropery recruit,' H. & P.: Services: since ca. 1935. A corruption, or a perverted blend, of slack + splayed, influenced by sludge.

slush, 2, is by tramps, applied only to tea.—4. 'To work and toil like a slave: a woman who toils hard' (P. W. Joyce, 1910): Anglo-Irish: late C. 19–20.

slush bucket and slush fund. Resp. s. and coll. for 'a secret fund raised by a political party from dubious sources' (B.P.): Australian: the latter, adopted ca. 1930 ex U.S.; the former, dating since ca. 1950.

slush-pump. A trombone: musicians' (esp. in theatres): C. 20. Ex saliva tending to gather in instrument: Cf. the entry at fish-horn.

slut about, v.i. To go about working: coll., esp. at Harrow School: C. 20. Lunn, 'They [the 'swots'] groise their horrid eyes off and get out of fagging in a term or two, while we poor devils [the 'hearties'] have to slut about "on boy" for three years'.

sly-bag (or one word). A cunning person: Australian: since ca. 1930. (B., Australia Speaks, 1953.) Suggested by sly-boots (p. 786).

sly-grog. A sly-grog shop: Australian: since ca. 1930. (B., 1953.) Cf.:

sly-groggery. A sly-grog shop: Australian coll.: since ca. 1920. B., 1942.

smack calfskin. To kiss the Bible: low: C. 19.

smack in the eye. A rebuff, refusal; severe disappointment; set back: coll., esp. in Australia: C. 20. B., 1942.

smack it about! Get a move on!: Naval: C. 20. Granville, 'From the vigorous smacking about of brushes when painting the ship's side.'

smack the lit. See lit, smack the.

smack up, v. To attack—'go for'—a person: Australian: since ca. 1919. Ex the n. (p. 786), which, since ca. 1918, has also been Australian.

smacker, 2 (p. 786) 'is used of large sums only; two smackers would not be used': B.P.—3. A dollar bill (note): Canadian: adopted, ca. 1925, ex U.S. (Leechman.)—4. A boy; a youth: Australian: since ca. 1930. Dal Stevens, Jimmy Brockett, 1951.

small beer of, think (p. 786). Cf. 'Thinking no pale ale of himself' in Francis Francis, Newton Dogvane, 1859.

small bull's-eyes. The odds and ends, the smouldering remains, of a fire: London Fire Brigade: C. 20. They glow like a bull's eyes. Or, rather, 'they are targets for the jet' (of water from the hose). Julian Franklyn, a Volunteer Fireman during World War II.

small fry (p. 786) is S.E. and therefore ineligible.

small go. 'A reasonable night out with everybody happy and nobody drunk,' H. & P.: Services: since ca. 1930.

small pigs (rare in the singular). Petty Officers: Naval (lower-deck): C. 20. As opposed to Naval pigs; cf. the Guards Regiments' drill pig (Granville).

small world! A c.p. of greeting to an acquaintance met unexpectedly: since ca. 1920. Ex the full it's a small world.

smalley. Small, little, smalley porsh, a small portion, esp. of food: Naval: since ca. 1940.

smalls. Underclothes, men's or women's: coll.: C. 20. Ex S.E. smalls, 'small clothes, breeches'. —2. Small advertisements, esp. those in classified lists: mainly journalistic coll.: since ca. 1910.

smarm (p. 787). The old spelling smalm suggests to Dr Leechman the—to me—probable solution: smear + balm.

smart Alec.—2. (Usually . . . alec.) A train conductor: Canadian railroadmen's (—1931). Ex sense 1.

smart-arse. An obnoxiously—not a cleverly—smart person: Australian: since ca. 1910. Perhaps the origin of smarty-pants (below), which B.P. says he has never heard used by an adult male.

smarten up one's parade. To work more efficiently; to make oneself smart: Army and R.A.F. regulars': since ca. 1925. (Atkinson.)

smarty-pants. A smart person: perhaps orig. Australian: since ca. 1920. (Jon Cleary, Just Let Me Be, 1950; Nicholas Blake, The Whisper . . ., 1954.) Cf. fancy pants above.

smash, n.—6. A drink of brandy in iced water: Australian: ca. 1920–30. B., 1942.—7. A fear-some person: Australian: since ca. 1910. Jean Devanny, Paradise Flow, 1938—of a man violent in drink. Proleptic.—8. Money; wages: low Australian: since ca. 1920. Kylie Tennant, The Joyful Command, 1953, 'Giving her his smash on pay-night.'

smash, v.—8. To commit a smash-and-grab raid on (a ship, etc.): c.: since the late 1940's. Peter Crookston, Villain, 1967, 'When you're driving away from a jeweller's you've just smashed . . .'

smash a pass. To overstay one's leave: military: 1914–19. E. W. Mason, Made Free in Prison, 1918 smash-ankle. Deck hockey: Naval: C. 20.

smash the tea-pot. To lose the privilege of tea: prison c.: from ca. 1880. B. & L.—2. To kill someone: mostly Canadian: C. 20. (Leechman.)

smashed. Tipsy: since ca. 1960. Jimmy Sangster, Foreign Exchange, 1968, 'Getting smashed on airline champagne.'

smashed(-)up. Penniless: low: ca. 1830–1900. Mayhew, I, 1851. Suggested by broke (p. 95).

smashing, adj., 3, had in the war of 1939–45, a phenomenal popularity in the R.A.F.; smashing job might be 'a very fine aircraft; a task excellently performed; a girl exceedingly easy on the eye' (Partridge, 1945). On Feb. 4, 1850, Harry (later Sir) Burnett Lumsden said, 'When our cloth arrives we shall be the most smashing-looking regiment in India' (Journal of the Society for Army Historical Research, xxxi, Autumn 1953, article by Sir Patrick Cadell, 'The Beginnings of Khaki'). The adj. caught on among post-1945 civilians; after ca. 1957, it began to lose popularity, except among schoolchildren, teenagers, lower-middle class. This sense may have originated in boxing: cf. 'Bartlett and Peacock had a smashing set to for three hours! during which time no less than 72 rounds were fought' (The Plymouth Telegraph early 1822). Moe.

smashing, adv. Intensive—'very' or 'much' or 'extremely' or 'notably': C. 20. Gerald Kersh, The Nine Lives of Bill Nelson, 1942, 'He'd done . . . a smashing hot job' (extremely expert and artistic piece of tattooing). Ex smashing, adj., 3 (p. 787 and above).

smashing line. A beautiful girl: low: from ca. 1920. Cf. smasher, 1, in Dict.

smear, n.—3. See tumour.—4. A murdered person: Australian c.: since ca. 1925. (B., 1943.)

smear, v. To defeat heavily at fisticuffs: Australian low: since ca. 1925. B., 1942. Cf. make a mess of.

smear-gelt (p. 787). More prob. ex the long-established Yiddish schmiergeld. (L. W. Forster.)

smear it with butter and get the cat to lick it off! See bum-fluff.

smell, n. A boastful, conceited or otherwise objectionable boy; Sedgeley Park School (now Cotton College): ca. 1800–65. Provost Husenbeth, History of Sedgeley Park, 1856. Cf. the C. 20 use of stinker.

Smell Burn, or as one word. Melbourne: Australian rhyming pun, rather than rhyming s.: C. 20. (B., 1943.)

smell my finger! A low male c.p. with an erotic implication: late C. 19–20.

smell of bread and butter. To be tied to nursery ways: Public Schools' coll.: late C. 19–20. (H. A. Vachell, The Hill, 1905.)

smell of gunpowder, there's a. Someone has broken wind: Army: late C. 19–20.

smell of the barman's apron, he's had a. A c.p. applied to one who easily gets drunk: since ca. 1920. For smell, sniff is occ. substituted.

smeller.—An objectionable fellow: New Zealand: late C. 19—early C. 20. See quotation at straight wire: cf., semantically, the fig. stinker.

smelly, n. A film, or a play, in which scents or sprays are used to create a realistic effect: since ca. 1958.

smice. To depart; make off: Australian low: since ca. 1925. B., 1942. Yiddish? 'Yes; it means "to smack"' (Julian Franklyn).

smiddy. A blacksmith's section (technically, 'bay') in a marine-engineering works: such Scottish workmen's coll.: from ca. 1885. Lit., the Scottish form of smithy.

smig. A sergeant-major instructor in gunnery: Army: since ca. 1920. H. & P. smigget(t). 'Lower-deck term for a good-looking messmate' (Granville): Naval: since ca. 1925. Origin?

smiggins (p. 788), in nuance 'cold meat hash', survives in C. 20. Australian. (B., 1943.)

smile - please run. A photo - reconnaissance flight' (Jackson): R.A.F.: 1939 + . Ex the photographer's stock phrase.

smiler.—2. Boiled beef: Cotton College: ca. 1860–1914. Ex a horse named Smiler. (Frank Roberts in The Cottonian, Autumn 1938.)

smite, n. An infatuation, a passion: Society: ca. 1932–40. Mrs Belloc Lowndes, The House by the Sea, 1937. Cf. crush, n., 4 (Dict.).

Smithy. 'The late Sir Charles Kingsford Smith' (B., 1942), the celebrated Australian aviator.

smitz. See 'Mock-Auction Slang' above. Since ca. 1930.

smoke, n.—5. A railroad fireman: railroadmen's (–1931). Ex the nature of his job.

smoke, v., 5. Rather: mid-C. 19–20.

smoke, go into. See go into smoke.

smoke, up the. See 'Hauliers' Slang'. Cf. smoke, n., 2, on p. 788.

smoke!, watch my. See watch my smoke!

smoke and oakum, like. An early C. 19 Naval form of like smoke, q.v. at smoke, like on p. 789. (W. N. Glascock, Sketch-Book, I, 1825.) Moe.

smoke 'em. An illicit yet frequent method of getting from one station to another—by moving along slowly and watching for the smoke of an approaching, or an overtaking, train: Canadian railroadmen's (–1931).

smoke-ho.—2. Hence, a cup of tea, orig. one drunk during a rest: Australian coll.: since ca. 1920. (Sarah Campion).—3. Cups of tea, collectively; a pot, a billy, of tea: Australian coll.: since ca. 1925. (Margaret Trist, 1946, 'I'll just trou the men's smoko over.') smoke-jack. A steamship; esp. a steam warship: Naval: ca. 1830–90. Fredk Chamier, The Life of a Sailor, 1832, at II, 16. (Moe.) Cf. smoke-stack on p. 789.

smoke off. (Gen. in imperative.) To cease blushing: Scottish Public Schools': from ca. 1890. Ian Miller, School Tie, 1935. Prompted by smoke-on, q.v. at smoke, n., 4.

smoked haddock, the. The paddock: race-course rhyming s.: C. 20. Franklyn 2nd.

smoker.—6. A black-headed cuckoo-shrike: Australian: C. 20. B., 1942.—7. See smokes . . . —8. A locomotive: Canadian railroadmen's (–1931). Cf. smoke, n., 5.—'Driving home at night in his "smoker" (car that a trader is using for himself) or just whatever car is left over' (Anthony Cowdy in the coloured supplement of The Sunday Times, Oct. 24, 1965): secondhand-car dealers': since late 1940's. Ex a smoker or smoking carriage, or compartment, on a train.

smokers. Smoked salmon: since ca. 1925. By 'the Oxford -er'.

smoker's tickers. 'Shag tobacco; any coarse dark tobacco' (B., 1943): Australian: since ca. 1925.

smokes, she; she's a smoker. A c.p. directed at a female (harlot or not) that performs oral perversions: low: C. 20.

smokestick. A rifle: Australian soldiers': 1939+. B., 1942.

Smooky. Nickname—whether in address or in reference—of a railway fireman: ? mostly Canadian: C. 20. Cf. smoke, n., 5. above.

smoking next, you'll or he'll be. See you'll be smoking next.

Smoky Joe. 'A Fleet Class minesweeper. This type being coal-burning' (Granville): Naval: 1939–45.

smooch, v.i. To caress amorously: Canadian: C. 20. Akin to smoodge (p. 789); cf. smooze.—2.

Hence (?), to flirt or (v.i.) to court: beatniks': since ca. 1959. Anderson, 'Come smooching with me, real-ly' (cf. really above).

smoocher. A gold-digger without a licence: Australian: ca. 1851–1900. Eric Gibb, Stirring Incidents in Australasia, 1895. Cf. smoodger (s.v. smoodge in Dict.).

smoodge (p. 789). 'Smoodge: to flatter or fawn. Still used in Anglo-Jewish slang and pronounced shmooze . . . from the Hebrew's shmoo-os, meaning news or hearsay. Later came to mean gossip, flattery,' A. Abrahams in The Observer, Sept. 25, 1938. It 'is now used only in jocular fashion. Even when we use it in sense 2, cur mind is half on sense 1. If a man is said to be smoodging with a girl, he is more likely to be trying to make amends for forgetting her birthday than planning to make an attack on her virtue. "Stop smoodging!" is said to young couples holding hands, etc.' (B.P., mid-1963.)

smoodge up to. Variant of smoodge, 1 and 2, p. 789. (B., 1943.)

smooth as a baby's bottom; like a b.b. Smooth-shaved; (second only) expressionless: coll.: since ca. 1925.

smoothie (or -y). A ladies' man; (among non-dancers) a good dancer: R.A.F.: since ca. 1920. H. & P. Ex his smooth ways and manners.—2. A smooth-spoken person, esp. if male: since ca. 1925. (Nicholas Blake, The Whisper in the Gloom, 1954.)

smooze (vbl. n. smoozing) 1., is a New Zealand variant of smoodge, v., 2. (p. 789). Jean Devaney, The Butcher Shop, 1926.

smother, n.—3. (p. 789): also, by 1925, common in the underworld and its fringes.—4. Hence, a macintosh: c.: since 1920. F. D. Sharpe, 1938.

smother, v. Also Australian: B., 1942.

smother a parrot (p. 789). Probably direct from the synonymous Fr. étrangler un perroquet. (Leechman.)

smother (up). To secrete a part of (the accumulated stakes and winnings): Australian two-up players' and esp. operators': C. 20. Tom Ronan, Vision Splendid, 1954, 'Darcy [the cash-holder] was too shaky with laudanum. He couldn't smother up the money. We had to leave it all in sight and just let you spin for our win.' Cf. smother, v., on p. 789.

Smouchy. A Jew: 1825, The Universal Songster, I, 172. Ex smouch.

Smouge. 'Nickname for all surnamed Smith' (Granville): Naval: C. 20. Cf. Smudger (Dict.).

smous or smouse, v.—2. Hence, to pet, to flirt: "There are two of them smousing in that room," cited as of 1938, by Prof. W. S. Mackie in The Cape Argus, July 4, 1946: S. African.

Smudge. Synonymous with Smudger (p. 790) and Smouge.

smudger. An inferior street photographer: photographers': C. 20. Cf. smudge (p. 789).—2. An engine cleaner: railwaymen's: C. 20. (Railway.)

[smug-faced. See 'Epithets'. Prob. always S.E.]

Smuggins. A variant of Smudger (p. 790): since ca. 1920. (Peter Sanders.)

Smuggling, n. Bringing harlots into College: Oxford: ca. 1815–60. Spy, 1825.

smugs! Bullies running away with all the marbles at the end of a game used to call smugs!:

Australian schoolchildren's: ca. 1900-1950. (B.P.)
 Ex smuggings (p. 790)—or perhaps ex smug, v., 1, ibid.

smut-hound. A man with a marked predilection for bawdiness: coll.: C. 20.

Smutty is the inevitable nickname of all men named Black: since ca. 1880. In, e.g., John Newton Chance, Wheels in the Forest, 1935.

snack.—3. A certainty; hence, a thief's or a swindler's dupe: Australian c.: C. 20. B., 1942.

—4. Hence, something easy to do; esp., 'it's a snack': Australian: since ca. 1920. (B.P.) snack up. To have a (hurried) meal: Army: C. 20.

snaffle-biter. See 'Rogues'.

snafu or Snafu. See S.N.A.F.U.

snag, n.—2. A jagged tooth: Australian: since ca. 1910. (Ruth Park, Poor Man's Orange, 1950.)

—3. A sausage, usually in pl. snags: Australian: since ca. 1918. (B., 1942 (pl.); R. Park, 1950 (sing.).) They are mysteries of 'snags'.—4. An aircraft apprentice with one small chevron (snag): R.A.F., Halton: since ca. 1939.

snagger. A proletarian: Clifton College: since ca. 1910. 'The College ran [in 1915] a Saint Agnes mission for poor children' (J. Judfield Willis, letter).—2. A clumsy or inexperienced shearer; a cow-milker; a cow hard to milk: Australian rural: since ca. 1910. (B., 1943.)

snagging. See snaggle (Dict.).

snags. False teeth: ? mostly Naval: ca. 1800-50. It occurs in W. N. Glascock, Sailors and Saints (I, 183), 1829. (Moe).—2. Sausages: Aus.: since ca. 1910. (B., 1959.)

snail(-)pie. Rice pudding: Guards Depot, Caterham: 1914-18. John o' London, Nov. 3, 1939.

snake, n.—2. A lively party: R.A.F.: since ca. 1925. Jackson, 'Thus, "Out on the snake"—out on a party.' Perhaps cf. snake-juice (p. 791) and certainly cf. snake-charmers.—3. A switchman: Canadian railroadmen's (— 1931).

snake, v.—2. 'To wriggle about in the air by constant jinking when taking evasive action,' Jackson: R.A.F.: since ca. 1938; by 1944, j. Cf. the American snake- (or snaky) hips.—3. (Also snake off.) To go quietly; slip along quietly: Anglo-Irish: C. 20. Brendan Behan, Borstal Boy, 1958, uses both terms—as exact synonyms. To move silently, as a snake does.

snake, the. The hose: London Fire Brigade: C. 20.

snake, about. To take evasive action: R.A.F. aircrews' coll. (1939) >, by 1943, j. Ex snake, v., 2.

snake-charmers. A dance band: R.A.F.: since ca. 1930. Jackson. Ex snake-charming by music, and cf. snake, n., 2. There may be a reference to 'Snake Hips' Johnson, the dance-band leader.—2. Plate-layers: Australian railwaymen's: C. 20. B., 1942.

Snake Gully (course). A country race-course: Australian sporting: since ca. 1925. (B., 1953.) Imaginary country-town.

snake-headed. Spitefully angry: vindictive: Australian: since ca. 1925. (B., 1943.)

snake-hips. 'Ironical for man with middle-age spread' (Atkinson): mostly R.A.F.: since ca. 1935. Cf. sense 1 of prec. entry.

snake in your pocket?, a—or got a . . . ? or, in full, have you got a . . . ? An Australian c.p., addressed to one who is slow to 'shout' his friends to a round of drinks: since ca. 1920. (B.P.) The implication being that the snake will bite him if he puts his hand in his pocket to get at his money.

snake-juice.—2. Hence, bad liquor: Australian: since ca. 1920. B., 1942.

snake-juicer. An addict to bad liquor: Australian: since early 1920's. Baker. Ex prec.

snake off. To slip quietly away: Australian coll.: since ca. 1910. (H. Drake Brockman, The Fatal Years, 1947.)

Snake Pit, the. The haunt mentioned at Fishing Fleet: Naval: C. 20. Granville.—2. Hence (probably), the Maymo Club lounge: Burma: ca. 1925-41.

snake yarn. A tall story: Australian juvenile: since ca. 1935. (B., 1953.)

snakes, bag of. A girl, esp. a very lively one: Canadian: since ca. 1955. (Leechman.)

snake's hiss. Urine; to urinate: Australian rhyming s.: C. 20. (Franklyn, Rhyming.)

Snakey. See Drain Pipe.

Snak(e)y. Bad-tempered: Australian: C. 20. Kylie Tennant, The Battlers, 1941. Apt to bite.—2. Jealous: Australian: since ca. 1939. (Cusack & James, Come in Spinner, 1951.)

snap, n.—6. Packed food; hence, snap tin, a container for a packed meal: railwaymen's: since ca. 1920. (Railway).—7. 'An ampoule of amyl nitrate sewn into cotton-wool pads': drug addicts': since ca. 1950. Because 'broken with a sharp sound under the nose and inhaled'. (Robin Cook, The Crust on Its Uppers, 1962.)

snap-jack. A pancake: Australian: late C. 19-20. B., 1942.

snap out of it!—2. Wake up!; realise the truth!; 'be your age!': adopted ca. 1933 from U.S.

snapper.—3. 'A railway ticket inspector, so called because he "snaps" holes in tickets' (Culotta): Australian: since ca. 1930.

snappy undercut; or merely undercut. A smart sexually attractive girl: butchers' (C. 20) >, by 1935, fairly gen.

snaps. Handcuffs: policemen's: ca. 1870-1910. Jerome Caminada, Twenty-Five Years of Detective Life, 1895. Ex the sound they make on being closed about the arrested person's wrists.—2. (Or Snaps.) A Naval photographer: Naval: since ca. 1940. (Granville, Nov. 22, 1962.)

snare, v.—2. To cheat; hence, snare sheet, a slip of paper with notes for use in an examination: Marlborough College: C. 20.

snargasher. A training aircraft: Canadian air-men's: 1939 +. H. & P. A corruption—perhaps rather a deliberate distortion—of 'tarmac-smasher'.

snarl, v. To steal; acquire illicitly—or even lawfully: circus: since ca. 1920. Edward Seago, Sons of Sawdust, 1934. Perhaps ex American snarl, a tangle.

snarler. A bad discharge: Australian Services': since ca. 1919. 'Services no longer required.' (L. D. M. Roberts.)

snart. A cigarette: Army: since ca. 1925.

snatch. The pick-up, by a towing 'plane, of a glider: Air Force coll. (1943-4); by 1945, official. Gerald Hanley, Monsoon Victory, 1946.

snatch-box. The female pudend: low: C. 20. Elaboration of snatch, 2 (p. 791).

snatch game, the. Kidnapping: c.: from ca. 1920. John G. Brandon, The 'Snatch' Game, 1936.

snatch one's time. To resign from a job: Australian: since ca. 1920. (B., 1943; Gavin Casey, Downhill Is Easier, 1945.) Hence also snatch it (Alan Marshall, 1946).

snatched (car or cab). A car taken back from an owner-driver that has failed with his payments: taxi-drivers': since ca. 1925. Herbert Hodge, 1938.

snatcher.—2. A young and inexperienced thief: c.: from ca. 1860. B. & L.—3. An assistant conductor: busmen's: since ca. 1945.

snatchers. Handcuffs: Glasgow policemen's: since ca. 1890. Ex-Inspector Elliot, Tracking Glasgow Criminals, 1904. Cf. synonymous c. snitchers.

snavel.—3. To catch; to take: Australian: mid-C. 19–20. Vance Palmer, The Passage, 1930, 'It's dead easy to make work. Dead easy, too, to snavel a few hours off if you use your head.' Ex sense 2 (p. 791).

snazzy. See 'Canadian . . .'

snazzy. Fashionable, smart: Australia: adopted, ca. 1943, ex U.S. servicemen. (Dymphna Cusack, Say No to Death, 1951, 'A couple of snazzy little cameras'; D'Arcy Niland, The Shiralee, 1955.) Also, by 1954, English s.—Perhaps a blend of snappy + jazzy.

snazzy chassis. A girl's good figure, esp. in lassie with a snazzy chassis: Australian: since ca. 1945. Cf. snazzy above; partly rhyming. (B.P.)

sneak, go upon the (p. 792), should be backdated to ca. 1710, for it occurs in James Dalton, A Narrative, 1728, at p. 31.

sneefoo. See S.N.E.F.U. above.

sneezer, 5, nuance 'gale' (p. 792), goes back to very early C. 19; it occurs in, e.g., W. N. Glascock, Sketch-Book, I, 1825. (Moe.)

SNEFU or snefu. See S.N.E.F.U. above.

Sneller. A student going to, and being at, the University of Oxford on a Snell exhibition: Oxford undergraduates' coll.: C. 9–20. See, e.g., Ernest Barker, Age and Youth, 1953.

snelt. A sneak-thief; a term of abuse: New Zealand and Australian c.: C. 20. B., 1941, 1942. Yiddish?

snibbet. Sexual intercourse: low: C. 20. Probably ex Scottish and Northumberland dial. snibbet (or -it), a mechanical device involving an 'eye' and an insertion (E.D.D., snibbit, sense 1).

snibley, esp. a bit of snibley, as in 'Ad a nice bit of snibley last night'. Sexual intercourse, mostly from the male angle: low: C. 20. A variant is snibbet.

snibs! A term of derision or defiance: late C. 19–20; by 1940, ob.

snick, n.—2. Esp. in for a snick, for a certainty: proletarian: late C. 19–20. J. J. Connington, A Minor Operation, 1937, 'Not a light showin' at any o' the windows—empty for a snick.' For the origin, cf. snip, n., 4, in Dict.

snicket, a bit of. A girl: since ca. 1945. (Richard Gordon, Doctor at Sea, 1953.) Ex Lancashire dial. snicket, a forward girl.

The Lancashire dial. meaning, "a forward girl", contrasts with the W. Riding dial. meaning of snicket—a "passage-way" or "short cut between houses" (cf. W. Riding "ginnel"), apparently derived from snick v. (p. 792). Perhaps this Lancashire lass kept her assignments in Yorkshire back-alleys, unless the allusion is to a biological passage. Cf. snippet below. (Ramsey Spencer.)

snide (p. 793), both the n., sense 2, and the adj. sense 1. 'The origin seems to be S. German "aufschneiden" (to boast, brag, show off, exaggerate, talk big), no doubt reaching English via Yiddish, as such words tend to do' (H. R. Spencer).

snidey.—3. Bad; unfavourable: c., and low: from ca. 1870. Also sniddy.—4. Dirty: military: from ca. 1875. B. & L.

snidget. Excellent: Australian juvenile: since the 1930's. (B., 1953.) Cf. snifter, 2 (p. 793) and perhaps sneezer, 5 (p. 792).

snie (or sny), p. 793. Ex Canadian Fr. chenal, a canal-like watercourse. (Leechman.)

sniff coke. To take drugs: c.: from ca. 1930. Ex U.S. sniffer. The nose: pugilistic: ca. 1840–90. Augustus Mayhew, Paved With Gold, 1857.

sniftem. An inhalant: fair-grounds': C. 20. This -em is a characteristic (minor yet determinant) of fair-ground slang—cf. stickem below. Perhaps a variant or even a perversion of the mock-Latin -um; cf. the mock-Latin -us of bonus (p. 78) and hocus-pocus (p. 395).

sniffy conner. Good food: Services (esp. R.A.F.): since ca. 1925. Jackson. See conner (p. 176).

sninny. A girl or young woman: Australia: low: since ca. 1920. B., 1942. A perversion of synonymous Australian skinny.

snip, n.—7. A ticket collector: railwaymen's: C. 20. (Railway.)

snip, go. To go shares: coll.: mid-C. 19–20. B. & F.

snipe, n.—5. A trimmer (stoke-hold): Australia: since ca. 1910. (Dymphna Cusack, Southern Steel, 1953.)—6. A small poster glued—for political purposes—to a telegraph pole or a wall. Australian: since ca. 1945. (B.P.)

snipe, v., 2 (p. 793): also, since ca. 1920, low Australian s. (Tom Ronan, Vision Splendid, 1954.)

sniped, be; sniping. Terms in use among O.T.C. cadets in 1914–mid-1916, thus in Blaker: 'Men, so far, had gone off from Cartwright's Unit, gazetted to battalions by a process known among the Cadets as "sniping" . . . It was impossible to detect any system according to which groups or isolated individuals were "picked off" [as though by a sniper] and gazetted . . . [Cartwright's] name was not among the sniped'. The terms, Blaker makes clear, were also applied specifically to being "asked for" by some particular Colonel who was training a new battalion.

sniper. 'A non-union wharf labourer' (B., 1943): Australian: since ca. 1930.

snipey or snipy. Crafty, esp. of a hiding-place: prison officers': C. 20. Jim Phelan, Tramp at Anchor, 1954.

snippet. The female pudend: Liverpool: late C. 19–20.—2. Hence, intercourse with a girl: Liverpool: C. 20.

snitch, n.—5. Synonymous with and perhaps ex snitcher, 5 (p. 794): New Zealand: C. 20. B., 1941. Perhaps suggested by 'to peach or snitch on someone' and 'a peach of a person or thing'.

snitch, v.—4. To arrest (a person): c.: mid-C. 19–20; very ob. B. & L. Ex sense 2.

snitch, get a. To take a dislike, as in 'Got a snitch on me': Slatter: since ca. 1930. Perhaps cf. snitch, v., 2, on p. 794.

snitcher, adj. Excellent; attractive: Australia:

lian: since ca. 1930. B., 1942. Ex sense 5 of the n. (p. 794), which has also—teste Baker—> Australian.

snivel, do a. To tell a pitiful tale: tailors': from ca. 1865. B. & L.

snob, n., 2: earlier recorded in 'Taffrail'.—5. The last sheep to be shorn: Australian rural: C. 20. Prompted by cobbler, 2 (p. 164). B.P.

snob-stick. See snobstick (Dict.).

snobber (p. 794) is esp. a Naval nickname. H. & P. snobbing, n. Boot-repairing: coll.: C. 19–20. See snob, n., 1, in Dict. Hence snobbing firm, group of ratings that repair their shipmates' boots and shoes: Naval: C. 20. Granville.

snodger, n. and adj. Excellent (person or thing), attractive (etc.): Australian: since ca. 1925. B., 1942. Arbitrary; yet cf. snitcher (above).

snog, n. A flirtation; a courting: esp. among beatniks: since ca. 1959. (Anderson.) Ex:

snog, v. To flirt, or to court, esp. in be or come or go snogging: beatniks', adopted, ca. 1959, ex general s. (Anderson.)

snogged up. Smartened up; 'all dressed up': R.A.F.: since ca. 1939. Cf. next.

snogging. The usual n. corresponding to the next.

snogging, be or go. To be—to go—courting a girl; to be, or go, love-making: R.A.F.: since ca. 1937. Partridge, 1945, 'Snog is perhaps a blend of snug and cod (to flatter or "kid" a person).'

snogging session. A bout, an instance, of 'snogging': R.A.F.: since late 1930's. Ex preceding.

snook. To answer an examination paper throughout; to defeat (someone) in argument: Shrewsbury: late C. 19–20. Marples. Ex 'cock a snook'?

snooks. 'A term of endearment for a small child' (B.P.): Australian: since ca. 1925. (B.P.)

snooks—intensive, dead snooks—on, be. To be in love with: Australian: ca. 1900–40. (Miles Franklin, Old Blastus of Bandicoot, 1931.)

snooky. Critical; pernickety: Australian: since ca. 1910; by 1960, ob. Frank Clunes, Try Anything Once, 1933, 'There was a snooky guy up in the corner listening to all I had to say.'

snoop, v.—3. To be a Service policeman: R.A.F.: 1939 +. Partridge, 1945. Ex sense 1 (p. 794).

Snoops, the. Service (>, in late 1944, R.A.F.) Police: R.A.F.: since ca. 1939. E. P. in The New Statesman, Sept. 19, 1942. Short for snooper, ex snoop (Dict.) snoot, n. A disagreeable, or a supercilious, person: Australian: since ca. 1930. B., 1942. Ex snooty (Dict.).

snootful, have a. To be tipsy: Canadian: adopted, ca. 1940, ex U.S. snooze, n.—3. A three-months' sentence or imprisonment: Australian c.: C. 20. B., 1942. Cf. dream and rest and the American sleep.

snooze, v. (pp. 794–5): but the word may simply be echoic—cf. zizz. Ramsey Spencer has suggested that the word is a blend of S.E. snore and doze—an attractive theory.

snoozer.—3. A baby: Australian: C. 20. Baker.—4. A Pullman sleeping-car: Canadian railroadmen's (— 1931).

snoozey. See snoozy (Dict.).

snore. (A) sleep: low: since ca. 1920. James Curtis, They drive by Night, 1938, 'He had not had much snore the night before.' Extension of S.E. sense.

snore-bag. A sleeping-bag: Army officers': since ca. 1939. (P-G-R.)

snore-off. A short sleep: low Australian: C. 20. (Ruth Park, 1950.) Cf. preceding. Adopted, ca. 1925, by New Zealand. (Slatter.)

snore off, v. To have a short sleep: Aus.: C. 20. (Nino Culotta, Cop This Lot, 1960.)

snorer. The nose: pugilistic: ca. 1840–90. Augustus Mayhew, Paved With Gold, 1857.—2. Bed: Army: C. 20. Proleptic.

snoring, be. Thomas Skeats, barrow-boy (as in the Daily Mail of July 24, 1963), says, 'What you gotta watch is that your pears don't go "sleepy", as we say, in the 'eat. When it's very 'ot and they get real soft, we say they are "snoring": barrow boys': since ca. 1910. (Sleepy has long been S.E.) snoring-kennel. See 'Miscellanea'.

snork.—4. A baby: New Zealand: C. 20. B., 1941. Perversion of baby-carrying stork.—5. Also snorker: a sausage: Australian: C. 20. B., 1941. Why? 'Uncooked sausages might convey a suggestion of babies' limbs (see sense 4)': Ramsey Spencer.

snorker. See snork, 5.

snort. A 'pull'—a drink—of spirits: Society: since late 1920's. In, e.g., P. G. Wodehouse, Young Man in Spats, 1936, 'He produced his flask and took a sharp snort.' Ex the snorting cough induced by a large 'pull' at a brandy, whisky, rum.

snorter, 2 (p. 795). In Australia, usually a very hot day. B., 1942.—3. Much earlier in Boxiana, II, 1818.

snorting-pole. A foot-brace at the end of a bed: Canadian lumbermen's: C. 20.

snot, n., 2 (p. 795). An early example: Sessions, Dec. 1816 (p. 43).

snot-condensing, n. Sleep: C. 20. Ex heavy breathing.

snot-rag (p. 795) occurs in, e.g., James Joyce's Ulysses, 1922.

snotties' nurse, the. 'The Sub-Lieutenant in charge of the Gunroom' (Granville): Naval: late C. 19–20. See snotty, n., on p. 795. 'The snotties' nurse was responsible for the midshipmen's instruction and training, vetting their journals, arranging courses . . . and generally doing everything possible to see that they got a fair run at the Seamanship Exam for the rank of lieutenant . . . He was usually a lieutenant-commander, certainly not more junior than a senior lieutenant' (Rear-Admiral P. W. Brock, R.N., C.B., D.S.O., in letter of April 20, 1963).

snotty, n. (p. 795), occurs in 1899: The Navy and Army Illustrated, Dec. 23. (Moe.)

snotty, 2. Earlier in Sessions, May 1847.

snotty. See 'Epithets'.

snout, n.—6. See snout on.—7. A cigarette: low London: C. 20. (Norman.) Since early 1950's, much used by Teddy boys.

snout, v.—3. To be an informer; to lay information: c.: since ca. 1925; by 1940 at latest, also police s. Ex snout, n., 4. Douglas Warner, Death of a Snout, 1961, 'Thereafter Ruskin snouted, and snouted good.'

snout baron. In prison, a trafficker in tobacco:

since ca. 1930. (Robin Cook, 1962.) Cf. baron, 2, above, and snout, n., 2, on p. 795.

snout on, have a. To bear a grudge against (someone): Australian: since ca. 1920. B., 1942. Ex snout, v., 1 (p. 795).

snouty. Variant of snout, n., 2 (Dict.). F. D. Sharpe, 1938.

snow.—4. A white-coloured hair-cream: Australian, esp. undergraduates': ca. 1910–30. A song in The Student Corps, 1918, enshrines the heart-rending words, 'Gone are our blazers and creamy pants, Gone brilliantine and "snow".' Communicated by B.P., who confesses 'Unknown to me'.

snow again! or, in full, snow again, I didn't get your drift. Please repeat that, I didn't catch what you said (or meant): Canadian c.p.: since ca. 1930; by 1959, ob. Leechman.

snow-drop, v. To steal: low Australian: late C. 19–20. (Ruth Park, 1950.) Cf. snow-dropper, -dropping, on pp. 795–6.

snowball, v., usu. in passive. To return (a car) to its original owner: secondhand-car dealers': since ca. 1950. Ex the throwing of snowballs?

snowball hitch. A knot that easily loosens: Naval: C. 20. Granville. It comes adrift.

snowbirds. Women that bring clients to dope-dealers: c.: since ca. 1938. Ex snow, cocaine.

snowdrop. An American military policeman: 1942 +. Daily Express, June 12, 1944. Ex his white helmet and pipe-clayed equipment.

snowed in. 'The condition of the table or board when the shearers are working too fast for the shed hands to keep up' (Straight Furrow, Feb. 21, 1968): N.Z.: since ca. 1920. Ex the piles of fleeces.

snowed under; snowed up. Over-burdened with work; having a heavy back-log of work to attend to: coll.: since ca. 1930.

snozzler (p. 796). Also Australian. B., 1942.

snuff and butter (maiden). A Eurasian girl: Anglo-Indian: since early 1920's.

snuff-box.—2. A gas-mask: mostly civilians': 1939 +. The New Statesman, Aug. 30, 1941.—3. A newspaper's list of deaths; its obituaries: Australian journalists': since ca. 1920. Baker. A list of those who have 'snuffed out'.

snuffe and toddle. See die, to.

snuffle. The nose: low: ca. 1825–70. Sinks, 1848.

snuffler. See 'Dupes'.—snuffling community. See 'Harlots' and cf. snuffler at 'Dupes'.

snug as a duck in a ditch, as. Very snugly indeed: coll.: late C. 18–19. (W. N. Glascock, The Naval Sketch-Book, I (p. 117), 1825.) Moe.

snuggy. A public-house snuggery: public-houses': since ca. 1890; by 1940, ob. Sessions, Jan. 18, 1900.—2. A woman's muff: since ca. 1940. (Laurence Meynell, The Lady on Platform One, 1950.) It keeps one's hands snug and warm.

snurge, n. A Poor Law Institution: since ca. 1920. Answers, Sept. 21, 1940. Cf. the v.: p. 796.

so-and-so. Objectionable person, as in 'that old so-and-so': coll.: C. 20; but general and frequent only since ca. 1945. Euphemistic for bastard or bugger or bitch, as the context determines.

so busy I've had to put a man on! See getting any? above.

so crooked he couldn't lie straight in bed. A c.p. used of a very unscrupulous man: Australian: since ca. 1925. (B.P.)

so fools say! A c.p. retort, esp. Cockneys', to a person asserting that one is a fool; occ. elaborated with, You ought to know—you work where they're made: from ca. 1890; ob. Edwin Pugh, passim.

so help me Bob, etc. See s'elp . . . (Dict.).

so long! (p. 796) is perhaps short for 'Good-bye. So long', elliptical for 'God be with you so long as we are apart'. Or perhaps ex Hebrew shalom, peace, used by Jews as a term of farewell: the most likely theory of all.

so lucky that if he fell in(to) the river, he'd only get dusty, he's. A c.p., implying exceptional luck: C. 20.

so mean (s)he wouldn't give anyone a fright. See mean . . .

so thin you can smell the shit through him. A low, mostly Cockneys' c.p., applied to an extremely thin man: from ca. 1880.

so well?; so what? That does not impress me!; Cockney c.p. (destined to > gen.): adopted, the latter, ex U.S., in 1936; the former arose also in 1936, prob. as a deliberate variation.

soak, n. A depression that, after rain, holds water—strictly underground (a foot or two down); loosely, on the surface: Australian coll. (since ca. 1860) >, 1940, S.E. Archer Russell, A Tramp Royal in Wild Australia, 1934, uses it, as would be expected, in its correct nuance: for it is water that has soaked into the soil. Occurring earlier in K. S. Prichard, Coonardoo, 1929.—2. A heavy fall of rain: Australian coll.: C. 20. B., 1942.—3. A drunkard: Australian and English: since ca. 1910.

soak, v.—8. (Also soak it.) Of the male: to linger over the sexual act; to delay withdrawal: low coll.: C. 19–20.

soak, put in. To pawn: late C. 19–20. Cf. soak, v., 3 (p. 797).

soakage. Synonymous with—and ex—soak, n., 1, above: Aus. coll.: late C. 19–20. (B., 1959.)

soaks. 'Folks' in the convivial sense: C. 20. Rhyming s., with pun on S.E. soak, a tippler.

soap, n.—5. A simpleton; a dupe: Australian c.: since ca. 1925. (B., 1953.) As soft as soap.

soap and flannel. Bread and cheese: Naval (lower-deck): C. 20. Granville.

soap and lather. Father: rhyming s.: late C. 19–20.

soap opera. 'Daytime radio serials for women. As in operas, the plot is less important than characters who attract emotional involvement. Often sponsored by soap manufacturers' (B.P.): coll.: Australian since middle 1950's, English since late 1950's. Adopted ex U.S.

soapy.—3. Silly, stupid; effeminate: Australian: since ca. 1920. B., 1942.

sob sister. A writer of articles for the more emotional, sensation-mongering newspapers, esp. a woman journalist replying to women readers' inquiries: journalistic, adopted ca. 1930 from U.S. Cf. sob stuff (p. 797).

sob story. A hard-luck story: C. 20: coll. >, by 1940, S.E. sobbing sisters. German six-barrelled mortars: military: 1940–5. 'The bombs came over in broken volleys of six with a peculiar slow, sobbing wail' (V. Peniakoff, Private Army, 1950).

sober-water (p. 797) occurs earlier in C. Bede, Verdant Green, 1953–7.

soccage. See 'Tavern terms', § 9.

social tit. A 'poodle-faker': Naval: since ca. 1925. (P-G-R.)

sock, n., 4 (p. 797). Note that at Sedgeley Park (the original form of Cotton College), socks was, ca. 1805-45, any kind of confectionery and sock, derivatively, anything pleasant or agreeable. The Cottonian, Autumn 1938. In his History of Sedgeley Park, 1856, Provost Husenbeth derived it from sucks, long sticks of toffee.

sock, v.—9. To save up, put aside, deposit in the bank: Australian: since ca. 1930. Cusack & James, Come in Spinner, 1951, 'I bet he's socked a pretty packet away.' Ex a sock used as bank.—10. To 'tip' (a schoolboy) with money: Public Schools': late C. 19-20. (Peter Sanders.) Ex sense 5 (p. 797)?

sock it to me (, baby)! A 'teenybopper' (q.v.) cult expression of vague meaning: 'liven things up!' Propagated to the point of absurdity by radio disc-jockeys: since 1967.

socks on!, leave the. Don't shear the 'socks' or wool between the sheep's knees and feet: N.Z. shearers': C. 20. Straight Furrow, 21 Feb. 1968.

sod, 2 (p. 798) must, like 1, be dated further back, for 2 appears in 'As he passed me he said the other was a bloody sod,' Sessions, June 1818 (p. 283).—5. To go on a sod or to sod is, at Cranbrook School in C. 20 (or prefects et al.), to try to catch someone doing wrong. At some schools the phrase is go on a shift.—6. Non-pejorative for 'chap, fellow' or even for 'girl, woman': English and Australian: late C. 19-20. 'Good on yer, Martha, yer old sod!': Elizabethan O'Connor, Steak for Breakfast, Sydney, 1962. (B.P.) sod about. To play the fool, indulge in horse-play; to potter about, to waste time: low: late C. 19-20. Cf. Dict. entries at arse about and bugger about.

sod all. Nothing: mostly Naval: since ca. 1920. A variant of bugger all.

sod-buster. An agricultural (not a pastoral) farmer: Canadian (and U.S.): C. 20.

sod it! Low coll. expletive: since ca. 1880. Cf. bugger it!

sod off! Go away: low: C. 20. An exact semantic equivalent of bugger off!

soda. Something easy to do; someone easy to do': Australian low: since ca. 1925. Vance Palmer, The Passage, 1930, "'Just one more guess, Lew . . ." Lew chuckled. "Umph, that's a soda. Must be the old doctor."' sodding, adj. A vague pejorative, as in "'I've been in your sodding country'" (Bernard Hesling, The Dinkumization and Depommification, 1963): late C. 19-20. Cf. sod it! above.

sodduk (p. 798): often spelt soddick (in, e.g., Granville).

sods' opera, the. 'An unofficial and extremely low concert, usually held in barracks' (Granville): Naval: C. 20. Hence, since ca. 1925, R.A.F. regulars' for 'the din of jollification; a drunken party' (Atkinson).

soft-arse. An arm-chair: Scottish Public Schools': late C. 19-20. Ian Miller, School Tie, 1935. Cf. the Dict. entry at soft?, hard . . .

soft as shit. Not physically nor morally tough; often applied by workmen to a man that can speak without filth and does occasionally think of something other than gambling, drinking, womanising: low coll.: late C. 19-20.

soft as shit and twice as nasty, as. A rural c.p. (the South of England) applied by country people to pasty-faced, loose-moralled visitors or residents from the city: late C. 19-20. (Heard by me in Kent, June 1932.) Cf. common as cat-shit . . . above.

soft bar. See bar, n., 3.

soft(-)belly. A wooden-frame car: Canadian railroadmen's (— 1931).

soft collar. A soft job; a very suitable locality; something easily obtained; something comfortable or agreeable: Australian coll.: ca. 1860-1920. 'Tom Collins', Such Is Life, 1903, "'Soft collar we got here—ain't it?'" Ex driving horses in buggy or bullocks in waggon.

soft ha'porth. A 'softy'; a person easily imposed upon or duped: mostly working-classes': C. 20.

Soft-nosed. Stupid: Naval: C. 20.

soft number (p. 798). Also, since ca. 1916, Naval. Robert Harling, The Steep Atlantick Stream, 1946.

soft roll. A girl easily persuaded to coit: since late 1940's. Easy to 'roll in the hay': roll, an act of coition from the male point of view, comes ex U.S.

soft-skinned vehicle. An unarmoured vehicle: Army coll. (1940) >, by 1944, j. As an apple is to a coconut, so . . .

soft-sop over is a variant (ca. 1875-1910) of soft-soap, v., in Dict.

soft sowder is a variant (e.g. in Carlyle) of soft sawder (Dict.).

soft spot for (someone), have a. To be either sentimentally or affectionately attached to: coll.: since ca. 1880. Cf. soft on (p. 798).

soft stuff. Unarmoured vehicles: Army s. (1940) >, by 1941, coll. (P-G-R.) Cf.—perhaps ex soft-skinned vehicle.

soft tack (see soft tommy on p. 799) occurs earlier in The Night Watch (II, 57), 1828. Moe.

soft tommy (p. 799) goes back to late C. 18, for it occurs in the English 'Bob Rousem's Epistle to Bonypart' quoted, Aug. 4, 1804, in an American magazine, The Port Folio (IV, No. 31, p. 246, col. 2), 'If you can't take care what you are about, you'll soon be afloat . . . in a high sea, upon a grating, my boy, without a bit of soft tommy to put into your lantern jaws.' The phrase be afloat (up) on a grating = to be in a dangerous situation. It occurs still earlier in George Brewer, Bannian Day, 1796, at I, i, p. 2. (Moe.)

softers. Figurative soft soap: Naval (mostly lower-deck): since ca. 1930. Ex 'soft soap' by the Oxford-er'. (P-G-R.)

softie, softy (p. 799). By 1940 S.E.

soger, 2 (p. 799): earlier in W. N. Glascock, Sailors and Saints (I, 149), 1829. Moe.

soggy type. A dull-witted and slow-moving person: R.A.F.: since ca. 1937. Jackson. See wet, adj., 7 (p. 945), which prob. suggested it.—2. One who drinks excessively: R.A.F.: since ca. 1938. Robert Hinde, letter of March 17, 1945.

soil. To tour in the country: theatrical: ca. 1750-1800. (Theatrical Biography, vol. I, 1772.)

soixante-neuf, adopted from French, is a term diagrammatically descriptive (69) of a reciprocal sexual act: late C. 19-20: orig., upper and middle classes', but by 1914 or 1915 fairly common in the Forces, esp. the Navy, as swaffonder or swassonder soldier, n., 5 (see Dict.). An earlier record is afforded by 'Taffrail'. But, as '(senior) Marine officer', it goes back to very early C. 19, to judge by W. N. Glascock, The Naval Sketch-Book, 2nd Series, 1834, at II, 32 and 33. (Moe.)

(or -ander); by 1920, soixante-neuf was coll.—and by 1960, virtually S.E.

soldier bold. A cold: rhyming s.: from ca. 1860; by 1940, †.

soldier's best friend. His rifle: late C. 19–20. Often, by the soldier, used ironically.

soldier's joy.—2. Pease pudding: nautical: C. 19. Colonel Moe has found it at year 1818: Alfred Burton, Johnny Newcome.

soldier's threepenn'orth, a. Short leave: military: C. 20. I.e. a shave, a shit and a shine. Cf. the Naval a shave, a shilling, and a shove ashore.

soldiers' wind (p. 800) is recorded in Alfred Burton, Johnny Newcome, 1818. (Moe.) solemn; esp. in give one's solemn, 'to swear on oath', 'give one's word': ca. 1890–1915. W. L. George, The Making of an Englishman, 1914. Short for solemn word (or oath).

solid, n. A road: tramps' and Romanies' s.: C. 20. (Robert M. Dawson.)

solid.—4. Stupid: Naval: since ca. 1925. Granville. Solid ivory above the ears.—5. Extortionate; unreasonable: Australian: since ca. 1918. B., 1942. Ex sense 2.—6. See 'Jazz Slang' above.

solid dig. Copy that is to be set very close: printers': mid-C. 19–20. B. & L.

sollicker, n. and adj. (Some thing or person) very big or remarkable: Australian: since ca. 1920. B., 1942. Perhaps sockdologer (Dict.) conflated.

Solly, like the more usual Ikey, means 'a Jew': coll.: since ca. 1870. A very common Jewish surname and given name.

solomon.—2. A hatter; one who cleans or repairs toppers: Eton: C. 20. Ex a proper name.

solomon.—3. A job: navvies': ca. 1860–1910. (D. W. Barrett, Navvies, 1880.) Julian Franklyn proposes an ellipsis of 'Solomon and Job'.

Solomon, do a. To pretend to be very wise: C. 20. Joan Lowell, Child of the Deep, 1929.

Solomon Isaac. A Jew: Canadian: ca. 1870–1914.

some, and then. J. W. Mackail, in his Aeneid, 1930, finds a parallel in viii, 487, tormenti genus.

some people (occ. parents) rear (occ. raise) awkward children. A c.p., dating since ca. 1880 (? earlier) and directed at someone who has been (very) clumsy. By 1960, on the verge of becoming a proverb.

some say good old (e.g., Smith)—some, or I, say blast—or, vulgarly, fuck—old (Smith). A c.p. dating from ca. 1919. Ex some say . . . on p. 801.

somebody's dropped his false teeth! A c.p. apropos of a sudden noise, esp. a crash: since ca. 1925. In 1939–45, a Forces' c.p. in respect of a bomb or a shell exploding in the distance.

some'ink. Something: sol., esp. Cockneys': C. 19–20. (Edwin Pugh, 1895.) Cf. sutthink (below). The predominant post-1920 Cockney pronunciation of something is sun'ink. (Julian Franklyn, author of The Cockney, 1953—a book unfortunately out of print.)

something above the ears, have. To be intelligent: since ca. 1925.

something else. 'So cool [i.e. excellent; abreast of contemporary music] it defies description' (The Victoria Daily Colonist, April 16, 1959, 'Basic Beatnik'): Canadian jazz-lovers': since ca. 1956.

something in socks. A bachelor, or what a girl wants: jocular: since ca. 1910.

something nasty in the woodshed, to have seen, esp. in the c.p. He (or she) has seen something . . ., applied to 'a crazy, mixed-up kid': British and Australian: since the late 1940's. Ironic of the modern psychiatric tendency to explain evil by adducing some such 'traumatic experience' as having seen one's mother with a lover in the woodshed. (B.P.)

'This c.p. was originated by Stella Gibbons in her immortal Cold Comfort Farm, 1932, the satire that put an end to a vogue for novels of rural passions and dominant grandmothers' (Ramsey Spencer, March 1959).

something-something!, what the. A euphemism for what the bloody (or the effing) hell!: coll.: C. 20.

sometimes I wonder! A c.p., meaning—and deriving ex—'Sometimes I wonder whether you are right in the head or entirely sane or . . .': an animadversion prompted by an inane remark the unfortunate person has just made: C. 20. (B.P.)

son of a bitch.—2. 'A moustache and imperial whiskers favoured by cattle-buyers and wool inspectors in the 1890's,' B., 1942: Australian: † by 1914.

song and dance; occ., as in H. A. Vachell, Quinney's, 1914, little . . . Anyone's 'performance' in the course of doing his job: C. 20. A salesman, e.g., reels off his patter.—2. A homosexual: rhyming s. (on Nance): since ca. 1910; by 1940, ob. and by 1960, †. (Franklyn, Rhyming).—3. A fuss; a commotion: coll.: late C. 19–20.

song of the thrush. A brush (lit. and fig.): rhyming s.: C. 20. Franklyn, Rhyming. It occurs in D. W. Barrett, Among the Navvies, 1880, and therefore prob. goes back to ca. 1860. (Franklyn 2nd.)

sonk. A variant of sonkey (Dict.).

sonkey or sonky, adj. Silly, stupid; idiotic: Australian low: C. 20. H. Drake Brockman, 1938, 'Mrs Abbott and her sonky ideas!' Baker. Ex the n.: p. 801.

sonno. Son', fellow, lad; mostly in addressing men: Australian: since ca. 1910. Baker. Cf. boyo.

Soo. Staff Officer Operations: Naval: since ca. 1914. In, e.g., 'Sea Lion', The Phantom Fleet, 1946. Ex the official abbreviation S.O.O.

soogan. A cowboy's bed-roll: adopted, ca. 1920, ex S.W. U.S. Apparently of Irish origin.

soogan. Add:—2. Hence, any bed-roll, but esp. a transient worker's: Canadian: since ca. 1930. As Dr Leechman has suggested, soogan, a blanket roll, may have originated in the soogun, or hay rope, once used to tie the roll.

soogey. To scrub, to scour: Naval: late C. 19–20. Granville, who adduces the derivative soogey-moogey, 'a mixture of soap, soda and sundry ingredients used for washing paintwork or scrubbing decks', says 'Derivation obscure.' But perhaps cf. Scottish sooch (pron.—approximately—sooghk, rather than sook), 'the sound of anything falling heavily into water or into soft mud'; an echoic word, the moogey being reduplicated, though with a reminiscence of mushy in its literal sense. More prob., however, soogey represents a corruption of squeegee: and moogey simply rhyme-reduplicates it.

soogey the bulkhead. To go on a drinking bout: Naval: C. 20. Ex prec. entry.

soogun. A hay rope: Shelton: C. 18-20. B. & L. soojey. Variant of soogey.

sook; sook(e)y. A coward; a timorous person; Australian: since ca. 1920. B., 1942. Cf. sukey, 4, on p. 846.—2. A calf: Australian: C. 20. (B., 1943.) Ex suck?

sookey, adj. Sentimental: Australian: since ca. 1925. (Dymphna Cusack, Southern Steel, 1953.)

sool.—3. To run: Australian juvenile: since ca. 1930. (B., 1953.) Ex sense 1 (p. 801).—4. Sool after, to pursue (a person, esp. of the opposite sex): Australian: since ca. 1935. (Gavin Casey, It's Harder for Girls, 1942.)—5. To wheedle; to bamboozle: Australian: C. 20. (Sarah Campion, Bonanza, 1942.) Hence, soolin 'sod, a hypocrite (male): Australian: C. 20. Campion, 1942.

sooler. A war-monger: Capricornia, Australia: 1914-18. Xavier Herbert, Capricornia, 1939. Ex sool, 1, on p. 801.

sooner. Sense 1 (p. 801) is recorded as early as 1899. (Moe.) It is also Australian: B., 1942.—2. (Ex 1.) 'A jibbing horse (one that would sooner go backward than forward),' Niall Alexander, letter of Oct. 22, 1939: New Zealand: since ca. 1920. In Australia, not only such a horse but also a useless dog (Baker).—3. A swindler, a trickster: Australian: since ca. 1920. (Vance Palmer, Separate Lives, 1931.)

sooner (dog). A dog that would rather defecate indoors than outdoors: Canadian: since ca. 1908. (Leechman.)

sootie or -y. A dealer in soot: coll.: C. 19-20. Boriana, II, 1818.

Sop. A Sopwith 'plane: R.F.C.-R.A.F.: 1916-18.

soppy, 1 (p. 801), arose a few years before 1919, to judge by H. G. Wells, Joan and Peter, 1918, 'What Joan knew surely to be lovely, Highmorton denounced as "soppy". "Soppy" was a terrible word in boys' schools and girls' schools alike, a flail for all romance.' (Dr Niels Haislund.)

sore, adj. Angry; disgruntled: coll.: 1830, Fredk Marryat, The King's Own (p. 143 of the 1896 edition)—prob. dating from rather earlier. (Moe.) Cf.:—

sore as a boil, as. Angry, resentful ('sore'): Australian: C. 20. (Kylie Tennant, The Honey Flow, 1956.)

sore as a snouted sheila. As resentful as a girl who has been 'stood up': Aus.: since ca. 1940. (B., 1959.)

sorry and sad. Bad: rhyming: C. 20.

sorry you spoke, aren't you? A c.p. dating from ca. 1905; ob. W. L. George, The Making of an Englishman, 1914.

sort. A companion of the opposite sex; thus, 'All the girls and their sorts are going to the pictures' (Baker): Australian: since ca. 1925. Sorts, good or bad, of people.—2. In England, a girl: low: since ca. 1945. (Norman.) Probable ex Australia, where this sense existed since ca. 1910: cf. Frank Chine, Try Anything Once, 1933, 'I've a great little sort to meet' (in 1911 or 1912).

sort, v. To shoot up; to attack fiercely: Army:

1940-5. 'We went to Div. H.Q., which had been well and truly sorted' (John D'Arcy Dawson, European Victory, 1946). Cf. sort out, 2 and 3.

sort of thing. A tag c.p. of late C. 19-20. Ernest Raymond We, The Accused, 1935, 'What he doesn't know about the law isn't worth knowing, sort of thing' and 'You've everything you want in here, sort of thing?'

sort out; also, take on. To tease; leg-pull (v.t.): Cockneys': C. 20. E.g. 'I took him on' or 'sorted him out'; 'Why are you taking me on, I'd like to know!'—2. To fight: low: C. 20.—3. To pick a quarrel with and use force upon someone: Services: since ca. 1934. H. & P. Cf. sort-out, n., on p. 802.—4. To choose (someone) for a job, esp. if it be unpleasant or arduous: Services (esp. R.A.F.): since ca. 1938. H. & P., 'Who sorted me out for this one?' Ex, e.g., wool-sorting.—5. In Australia, to reprove or reprimand (someone): since ca. 1930. B., 1942.

Sosh (long o). Socialism: political writers', mostly: since ca. 1918.

soul-driver (p. 802), still current in 1848 (Sinks), as a Methodist parson.

soul-hunter was, ca. 1900-14, a Cambridge undergraduates' term for 'a man intent on saving the souls of others' (Marples, 2).

soul-searcher. A drink: 1909, Phillip Gibbs, The Street of Adventure; † by 1920.

Soul-Trap, the. Whitefield's original chapel, built 1776, in Tottenham Court Road, London: ca. 1776-1914.

sound. Sound asleep: domestic coll.: C. 20.

sound card. See 'Tavern terms', § 2; cf. sound egg (Dict.).

sound (one's) flute. To blow one's whistle: police: since ca. 1925. The Free-Lance Writer, April 1948.

sound off. To become (very) angry about a particular topic or on a particular occasion: adopted, ca. 1955, ex U.S.

sound-spotting, n. Ascertaining position of enemy guns from the sound of firing: artillery-men's coll.: 1940-5. (P-G-R.)

soundings, in. Near the bottom of one's heap of sheets (in machining): printers': mid-C. 19-20. B. & L. Ex nautical j.

soup.—10. Bad weather: R.A.F.: since ca. 1915. Jackson. Ex soup, 4 (Dict.).—11. Short for soup plate below.—12. 'The broken part of a wave' (Pix, Sept. 28, 1963): Australian surfers'.

soup, in the (p. 803). Perhaps, after all, originally English, for Major C. E. Hare, in The Language of Field Sports, 1949, attributes it to that hunting-field mishap or a rider getting thrown from his horse into a ditch of dirty water.

Soup and Gravy, the. The Navy: rhyming: C. 20.

soup plate. A taxicabman's badge: taxi-drivers': since ca. 1910. Herbert Hodge, Cab Sir?, 1939.

soup-plate track. A small race-course: Australian: since ca. 1920. B., 1942.

souped, be. To get into trouble: Anglo-Irish: late C. 19-20. James Joyce, Ulysses, 1922, 'Luck I had the presence of mind to dive into Manning's or I was souped'. Ex soup, in the, on p. 803.

souped(-)up. (Of a car) supercharged: Canadian motorists': 1945+. Adopted, ca. 1957, by Britain. Courtenay Edwards in The Sunday Telegraph, Sept. 24, 1961.

sour-planter, however, is properly a passer of counterfeit coin. Likewise, plant the sour is to pass it.

sour(-)puss. A morose person: adopted in 1942 from U.S. John Bull, Aug. 14, 1943. Ex Am. sour puss, a sour face.

sourdough. An experienced old-timer in the northwest: Canadian: late C. 19–20. It arose during the Yukon gold-rush and refers to the sour dough carried for use in emergency. Robert Service's Songs of a Sourdough, 1907, popularised the term; by 1910, it was coll.

'The sourdough was, rather than for use in an emergency, used as a yeast in making bread. At each baking, a portion of the dough was retained and allowed to go sour or ferment. It was essential that the sour dough be kept warm and so the old timers took it to bed with them in cold weather.' (Dr Douglas Leechman.)

sous (p. 803). The phrase not worth a sous occurs in Charles Dibdin's 'Nautical Philosophy', pub.—app. in 1793—in The Britannic Magazine, I, 442. Moe.

souse, n.—2. A drunkard: Australian: since ca. 1925. B., 1942. Cf. the n. and v. on p. 803.

south, v. To put (something) into one's—esp. trouser—pocket: Aus.: since ca. 1920. Ex south, dip, on p. 803, an expression also Aus. (B., 1959.)

South, the. The South London Music Hall: London coll.: late C. 19–20. Cockneys pronounce it Saarf.

South Ken, the. The Victoria and Albert Museum, London: coll.: from ca. 1905. (Margery Allingham, Sweet Danger, 1932.) Situated in South Kensington.

South of France. A dance: rhyming s.: late C. 19–20.

Southend. See bed and breakfast.

southerly buster.—2. Hence, a cocktail or other mixed alcoholic drink: Australian: C. 20. B., 1942.

south-paw (p. 803). An American correspondent of Mr John Moore's has sent him this convincing explanation—'On regulation baseball fields, the batter faces East, so that the afternoon sun won't be in his eyes; the pitcher, therefore, must face West, which in the case of the left-hander puts his throwing arm and hand (or "paw") on the South side of his body.'

soutie. English sailor, soldier or, above all, airman serving in South Africa: South African: 1939 +. (Cyrus A. Smith, letter of May 22, 1946.) Ex Afrikaans sout, salt (ex Dutch zout).

sow. To lay (mines): Army coll.: 1940–5. P-G-R.

sow's ear, make a. To blunder: since ca. 1946. Ex the proverb 'you can't make a silk purse out of a sow's ear'.

space-pusher. An advertisement-canvasser working on a periodical: from ca. 1925.

spade (p. 804). But since ca. 1954, it has mostly designated a West Indian.

spade, go for a walk with a; take a spade for a walk. To defecate: Army in N. Africa, World War II. Ex the earthing-over in a latrineless land. P-G-R.

Spades. Coloured people, esp. Negroes and West Indians: low, e.g. Teddy boys': since ca. 1947. (The Observer, March 1, 1949.) In cards, a 'dark' suit: cf. 'as black as the ace of spades'.

spadge (p. 804). Rather: since ca. 1780, not yet †. Ex L. spatiare. (Marples.) spadger (p. 804). Perhaps cf. Ger. Spatz, a sparrow.

spag. 'Plastic tubing used to insulate wire in electronic equipment' (B.P.): radio s., esp. Australian: since late 1950's. Ex spaghetti—from the resemblance.

spaggers; loosely spraggers. Spaghetti: smart young set: ca. 1955–60. (Gilderdale, 2.) 'The Oxford -er.'

spam car. 'Q type locomotive (small pannier tank on WR)': railwaymen's: since early 1940's. Railway.

spam medal. See Naffy gong.

spandule. A gremlin that—but only at 9,999 feet—enjoys being tangled up with the air-screws: R.A.F.: 1940–5.

spangles. Acrobats: circus coll.: late C. 19–20. (C. B. Cochran, Showman Looks On, 1945.)

Spanglish. Writing from Argentina on May 26, 1960, Mrs Daphne Hobbs remarks, 'You would be quite interested in the sort of lingua franca spoken in Argentina—in Buenos Aires particularly—among the Argentine-born children of English parents. We call it "Spanglish". . . . The custom is to anglicize Spanish verbs and use them as if they were English—and also to do the same to some of the Argentine (Criollo) slang. For instance, "to iron" is planchar in Spanish and this becomes planchate, e.g. "I must heat the iron to planchate my dress." In Criollo slang, canchero means someone rather smart, good-looking, exciting, etc., so we get canch, meaning, roughly, "super" as the English schoolboy or -girl would use it. Again, in Criollo patois, we have cacho, a small chunk, and this becomes catch, meaning "a small piece" or even "slightly", e.g. "Now I understand a catch."

Spanish.—2. A (large) Spanish onion: (lower-class) coll.: mid-C. 19–20. B. & L.—3. See 'Tavern Terms', § 3, c.

Spanish fly. Cantharides—an extremely potent aphrodisiac, taken in food or drink: C. 19–20: coll. until ca. 1910, then S.E.

Spanish football. See blue fever.

Spanish guitar. A cigar: rhyming s.: late C. 19–20. Wilfred Granville, A Dictionary of Theatrical Terms, 1952.

Spanish padlock prob. dates from C. 16.

spanjer; usually in pl. 'Spanjers. Gremlins which live above 20,000 feet—anti-fighter types!' (H. & P.): R.A.F.: ca. 1940–5. Prob. ex dial. spang, 'with impetus, with a smack' (itself ex spang, 'to leap'): see spang (p. 804).

spank, up the. At—or, to—the pawnbrokers': East Enders': from ca. 1870. Nevinson, 1895. Perhaps ex up the spout on bank.

spank away. (Of a ship) to travel fast: Naval coll.: C. 19. Wm Maginn, Tales of Military Life, 1829—see quotation at bone in the mouth above.

spanners. A girl whose appearance is sexually exciting: Australian: since ca. 1950. A spanner tightens nuts; in s., nuts = testicles.

spare, adj.—2. Absent, esp. without leave, as in 'The Old Man turned down my compassionate, so I went spare': Army: 1939 +.—3. Angry, as in 'When the sarnt sees this, he'll go fucking spare':

Army: since ca. 1940.—4. Hence, crazy; (almost) mad: mostly teenagers': since late 1950's. 'They send me spare' = they drive me crazy.

spare, going. See going spare above.

spare a rub! Oblige me with some!; after you with it!: tailors' c.p.: from ca. 1860. B. & L.

spare boy. Treacle; golden syrup: Australian, mostly rural: since ca. 1920. (B., 1943.)

spare file and spare wank. A man with no definite job to do: Army: 1939–45. (P-G-R.)

spare prick. A useless fellow: Army: 1939 +. Cf. prick, 4 (p. 659) and prick, standing about . . . (Addenda). It shortens spare prick at a wedding, which gracefully emphasizes the superfluity.

spare whank (or wank). A spare man; (among gunners) a spare gunner: Army: since ca. 1930. Cf. prec. and see wank.

spark, v.—2. To send a wireless message to (ship or person): nautical and wireless operators': since ca. 1920. Frank Shaw, Atlantic Murder, 1932, 'If Scotland Yard . . . spark a ship that wanted people are aboard . . .'.—3. To court (a girl): Canadian: C. 20; by 1959, ob. (Leechman.) Adopted ex U.S. sparker. A telegraphist rating: Naval: C. 20. Granville. Cf. sparks (Dict.).

sparkle up. To hasten; be quick: proletarian: from ca. 1865; ob. B. & L.

sparkler, 1 (p. 805). In pugilistic s. of ca. 1805–60, any sort of eye, as in Boxiana, III, 1821, 'One of his sparklers got a little damaged.'—3. (Usually in pl.) A flare from an enemy aircraft: Naval: 1939–45. (P-G-R.)—4. An electric train: railwaymen's: since ca. 1939. (Railway 2nd.) Ex the sparks emitted from the live rails.

sparks, 1, 2 (Dict.): mostly in vocative. 'Taff-rail'. 1917.—4. (Ex 1.) Electrical apparatus repairer in R.E.M.E.: Army: 1943 +.—5. An electrician: builders': since ca. 1945.

sparky, n. A wireless operator: Services: since ca. 1918. Cf. sparker.

sparring bloke. A pugilist: mid-C. 19–20: c. >, ca. 1880, low. B. & L.

sparring partner, one's. One's companion or friend: coll.: C. 20. Ex pugilism. Wife; occasionally, husband: jocular domestic coll.: late C. 19–20.

sparrow.—5. 'A small weedy fellow' (B., 1942): Australian: C. 20.

sparrow-bill maker. A workman that 'forges wrought-iron nails from iron rod' (The Evening News, Sept. 28, 1955): industrial s. (C. 20) > industrial coll. >, by 1945 at latest, official jargon.

sparrow crow, at. A jocular Australian euphemism for 'at sparrow fart' (p. 805): C. 20. Baker.

sparrow-fart (or solid). A person of no consequence; a 'twerp': Anglo-Irish: C. 20. James Joyce, Ulysses, 1922, 'Miss This Miss That Miss Theother lot of sparrowfarts skitting around talking about politics they know as much about as my backside.'

sparrow's cough, at. At dawn: a polite English variant of 'at sparrow fart': since late 1930's. (Jane Gordon, Married to Charles, 1950.)

sparrow's ticket, (e.g.) come in on a. To gain an illicitly free admission to a match, contest, competition, show, what-have-you: Australian: C. 20. Baker.

spats (p. 806). 'If the wheels of a "spatted" plane do not retract, it is said to have permanent "spats"', H. & P.: R.A.F.: since ca. 1935.—2.

Slabs of bread and butter to assuage hunger about 4 p.m.: Marlborough College: C. 20.

spatted. See prec.

spatter. To strike (somebody); 'make a mess' of him: low: since ca. 1945. (Angus Wilson, Anglo-Saxon Attitudes, 1956.)

spawny. (Very) lucky: R.A.F.: since ca. 1930. Jackson. 'Thus, "You're spawny to get your promotion so soon."' Perhaps ex the near-cliché, the best ever spawned.

speak fancy waistcoats. See fancy waistcoats.

speak in (someone's) knuckle. To interrupt someone's conversation or story: North Country: C. 20. Ex the game of marbles, where the boy about to shoot may be 'advised' to do this or that and say 'I wish you wouldn't speak in my knuckle'.

speak proper. To talk in B.B.C English: Yorkshire coll.: since ca. 1930.

speak the same language. To have the same sort of upbringing, hence the same general ideas: coll.: since ca. 1930. (P-G-R.)

speak up, Brown! A jocular c.p., addressed to a noisy breaker of wind: Londoners' and Forces': since ca. 1930.

speakers. Rare outside of on speakers, on speaking terms (with someone): since ca. 1950. (Jessica Mitford, Hons and Rebels, 1960.) By 'the Oxford -er'.

speaking (or talking) to the butcher, not to the block, be. 'Putting 'em in their place! If the boy speaks up before the workman can frame a reply, or if Jack's missus joins in the (acrimonious) argument; but it can be used jocularly' (Julian Franklyn, 1962): Cockney: C. 20.

spear, get the. To be dismissed from employment: Australian: since ca. 1920. B., 1942.

spear, give (someone) the. To dismiss: Aus.: since ca. 1920. (B., 1959.)

spear a job. To obtain employment: Australian: since ca. 1910. Baker.

spear flounders. To conduct an orchestra: Australian: since ca. 1925. Baker, 'Whence, "flounder-spearling".'

spec, n., 3 (p. 806), goes back to early C. 19. It occurs in W. N. Glascock, The Naval Sketch-Book, 2nd Series, 1834, at I, 271,

'The ship's all alive—the ship's company crush And crowd round the capsten on deck,

And all volunteer, in a regular rush,

To join in the spec and the spec— which makes me wonder whether this sense ('pleasant or memorable occasion') does not derive ex 'special occasion'.

speccing on one's fez. Expecting to obtain one's cap: Harrow: late C. 19–20. Lunn. Cf. speck, v.: q.v. in Dict.

special. To act as a special nurse to (a person): nurses' coll.: from ca. 1910. 'She came to special me.' By abbr.

specilate. To invest money, in the hope of bringing good luck: Romanies', hence a few tramps', s.: since ca. 1930. (Robert M. Dawson.) Ex speculate.

speck, n. A place; a position: Liverpool: late C. 19–20. Ex S.E. speck, a spot. Hence you're only in the meg specks, lit. the halfpenny seats (cf. meg, n., 2, p. 516)—often used fig., connoting 'You are inferior in some respect, e.g. your school': Liverpool c.p.: C. 20. (Frank Shaw.)

speck, v.—2. 'To search for gold after rain. Whence, "specking"' (B., 1942): Australian miners': late C. 19-20. Rain-erosion may uncover a lode, or a few specks of alluvial gold.—3. (V.t.) To discover thus: Australian miners': C. 20. (K. S. Prichard, '... Charley Beck ... had specked a thirty-ounce slug, several smaller ones, and struck a reef ...': 'Mrs Jinney's Shroud' in Kiss on the Lips, 1952.)

specking is the n. corresponding to preceding v., sense 2.

speckled.—2. 'Demoted': Rugby: since ca. 1916. Marples. To revert to a speckled straw hat.

specs, 1: coll. earlier in Pierce Egan, Life in London, 1821.

speed the wombats! Australian synonym of stone the crows (Dict.): since ca. 1925. B., 1942.

speedo lurk, the. The used-car dealers' trick of turning back the odometer: Australian dealers', hence also motorists': since ca. 1920. (B.P.) A speedo is strictly a speedometer.

speedy man. A messenger plying, on foot, between New College and Winchester College: New College, Oxford: ca. 1810-40. Spy, 1825.

speeler. See spieler, 6.

Speewa. 'A legendary station of doughty deeds (the orig. Speewa was near Swan Hill on the Murray River); a place of "great men and tall tales". Whence, on the Speewa' (B., 1959): Aus. coll.: C. 20.

spell-binder (p. 807). Adopted ca. 1910 from U.S., where it was earlier applied to Theodore Roosevelt.

spell for. To long for: proletarian: mid-C. 19-20. B. & L.

spell-oh (p. 807), 1. Much earlier in W. N. Glascock, Sailors and Saints (I, 215), 1829. Moe.

spend a penny. See shake hands ... Strictly, to use the w.c. in a public convenience: mostly feminine. (Hilda Lewis, Strange Story, 1945.)

[specky in Richards is a blend of spunky and perky; his spryle is a mistake for funeral pyre. These two personal unconventionalities are recorded to illustrate one of the ways in which solecisms and catachreses may arise.]

spew it. To leave one's job on a ship, go home, report again in the afternoon and try for another job, there or elsewhere: London docks': since ca. 1930. (The New Statesman, Dec. 31, 1965.) 'It' = the ship, hence also the job.

Spew one's guts. See guts, spew one's.

spew one's ring up. To vomit violently: low: since ca. 1920. (The B.B.C. let this pass on March 1, 1963.) The ring = the anus.

spice, n.—2. Spicy sex-items in the newspapers: newsagents' coll.: C. 20. Cf.:

spicey or spicy. Usually in pl. spicies, spicy books or magazines: booksellers' and newsagents' coll.: since ca. 1910.

Spider. See 'Nicknames'.—2. Also of men surnamed Webb: since ca. 1910. Ex spider-web (for spider's web).

spider.—4. A wireless operator's badge: R.A.F.: since ca. 1935. Gerald Emanuel, 'From the shape'.—5. A light gig: Australian: since ca. 1910. B., 1942.—6. An inspector: navvies': ca. 1870-1910. (D. W. Barrett, Navvies, 1881.)

spiel, n.—3. Set or formal advice: Aus.: C. 20. (B., 1959.)—4. 'A wordy explanation' (B., 1959): Aus.: C. 20. (Ibid.) Cf. spiel, v., 2, on p. 808.

spiel, v.—4. To race 'all out'—at full speed: Australian sporting: C. 20. B., 1942.

spiel-ken. A variant of spell-ken (Dict.).

spiel off. To 'spout', utter plausibly: vagrants' c.: C. 20. W. A. Gape, Half a Million Tramps, 1936, 'When my turn came I was not ready to "spiel" off the answers.'

spieler, 4 (p. 808). But also any room in which card-games are habitually played: London's East End: since ca. 1945. (Richard Herd, Nov. 12, 1957.)—6. A fast horse (usually speeler): Australian sporting: C. 20. B., 1942. Ex spiel, v., 4.—7. A welsher: Australian sporting: since ca. 1910.

Spike. Inseparable nickname of men surnamed Hughes (P-G-R.) or Sullivan (see p. 809: spike, n., 6).

spike, v.—2. To hit or strike; to knock (someone) down: Australian low: since ca. 1920. Baker.

spiker. (Usually in pl.) A shark: nautical: late C. 19-20.

spill, n.—4. 'A declaration that all offices are vacant and that new elections will be held. Mostly in the Labour Party' (B.P.): Australian political: since ca. 1930; by 1950, coll.: by 1966, virtually S.E.

spill, v.—4. Used frequently in Australia by women when engaged in slander or in mere gossip: since ca. 1945. 'You know that I won't tell a living soul. Do tell! Spill!' Ex spill the beans (p. 809). B.P.

spill one's guts. See guts, spill one's.

spill over. That part of a newspaper or magazine contribution which has been deferred to the end of the periodical: journalistic coll. (for the S.E. turn-over): C. 20.

spin, n.—4. (also spinnaker). £5, whether note or sum: Australian: C. 20. Partridge, 1938; B., 1942. Used esp. in two-up: see boxer.

spin, v.—3. To tell a story: Naval: ca. 1790-1850. (W. N. Glascock, Sailors and Saints, 1829, at I, 177.) Moe.

spin a bender. See bender, spin a.

spin for. To court (a woman): Australian: since ca. 1930. Alan Marshall, These Are My People, 1946. Ex the game of two-up?

spin the bar. See bar, 3.

spin the dope. To tell a (good) story, e.g. in chiromancy: Australian: since ca. 1920. (K. S. Prichard, Harby's Circus, 1930.)

spin the fanny. To 'tell the tale', to spin a good yarn or deliver a good, set 'spiel': fair-ground grafters': since ca. 1925. (Richard Merry.) Cf. fanny, n., 7, on p. 266.

spindle-prick. Vocative to a man deficient in energy: low: late C. 19-20. (Only mildly abusive.)

spine-bashing. Sleep; a rest on one's bunk: Australian soldiers': 1939 +. Lawson Glassop, We Were the Rats, 1944. Cf. charpoy-bashing.

spinnaker. See spin, n., 4.

spinner. £50: Australian low: since ca. 1910. B., 1942. Cf. spin, n., 4.—2. A parachutist with twisted rigging lines in his parachute: R.A.F.: 1939 +. Jackson. He spins as he descends.

spinnifax wire, the. A North Australian version of the bush telegraph: since c. 1930. (H. Drake Brockman, Men without Wives, 1938.) Hence, a spinnifax wire, a rumour, esp. if well-founded. (Ibid.) spinning jenny. A prismatic compass, early model: Royal Artillery: ca. 1915-50. Ex the way in which the card spun.

spiny. The bird Spinebill; mostly as nickname: Australian rural: late C. 19-20. (B., 1943.)

spiral swallow. See swallow, have a spiral: Dict.

Spirit, the. A Melbourne-Sydney train: Australian coll.: 1962+. Short for the Spirit of Progress. (B.P.) Cf. Roarer, the above.

Spirites, the. The Chesterfield 'soccer' team: sporting: from ca. 1930. The Chesterfield church has a crooked spire. (The Arsenal F.C. programme, Dec. 19, 1936.)

Spit. A Spitfire fighter 'plane: since 1938 in R.A.F.: since 1940 (Berrey) among civilians. Spitfires and Hurricanes saved Britain in Aug.-Sept. 1940.

spit, n.—3. A smoke (of a cigarette): low: C. 20. 'Some of them had bits of cigarettes, and asked us if we'd like a "spit"' (Brendan Behan, Borstal Boy, 1958).

spit a bone at. To 'point the bone at': Australian: C. 20. (B., 1943.)

spit and a drag, a (p. 810): since ca. 1920, gen. rhyming s.

spit and a draw, a (p. 810) is recorded much earlier in Alexander Paterson, Across the Bridges, 1911, and can prob. be back-dated to the 1890's.

Spit and Cough, the. The Athenæum Club: London taxi-drivers': since ca. 1910. Herbert Hodge, Cab, Sir?, 1939. Ex the high incidence of asthma and bronchitis among members?

spit and drag. See spit and a drag (Dict.).

spit and sawdust. A general saloon in a public-house: C. 20. Ex the sawdust sprinkled on the floor and the spitting on to the sawdust. (Peter Chamberlain.)

spit in the bag and stand up. (Of a bookmaker on the course) to occupy his stand and accept bets without the money to honour them if they are successful: Australian racing: since ca. 1925. Lawson Glassop, Lucky Palmer, 1949. He spits in his bag for luck.

Spit-in-the-Pew (Sunday). See Gob Sunday.

spit in your mouth. See mean.

spit-kid. A spittoon: Naval: since ca. 1900. C. F. Forester, The Ship, 1943; Granville.

spit o' my hand! A Cockney expletive, coll. ra her than s., dating from ca. 1880; slightly ob. Pu (2): "'Spit o' my hand! What I might ha' bin worth if it hadn't bin for this cursed stuff—bless it!" The liquor gurgled down his throat.' Cf.:

spit one's death. (See strike one's breath.) To swear solemnly, as in Pugh (2): 'An' I spit my death an' all, an I'll stick to it.' Cockney: late C. 19-20; ob. Perhaps on may I die . . .!

spit or get off the cuspidor. A refined Canadian c.p. for shit or get off the pot (above): since ca. 1940.

spitchered. Done for, 'sunk'; mortally wounded, etc.: Naval: since ca. 1900. Granville. Ex spitcher (p. 811). 'To spitcher' derives from Italianate Maltese spizzia, finished, done for, itself from It. spezzare, to break into small pieces.

spitfire. A contraceptive: Naval lower-deck: since ca. 1945. Effectual against the enemy.

Spitfire kitten. See whistler, 9.

Spitfires. 'Ration cigarettes with R.A.F. rounds on the packet. A fair description': Forces' in North Africa: 1940-43. Peter Sanders in The Sunday Times magazine, Sept. 10, 1967.

Spithead pheasant. A bloater: Naval: C. 20. The Birmingham Mail, Feb. 24, 1939; Granville. —2. A kipper: since ca. 1950. (The News Chronicle, Nov. 4, 1954.) Cf. Bombay duck (Dict.).

Spitter is an occ. 1941-5 variant of Spit. H. & P., 1943. Partly because 'it just spits bullets'.

Spittoon, the; the Billiard Table. Two courts in Whewell's Court, Trinity College: Cambridge undergraduates': late C. 19-20. The former has cup-shaped base with central drain; the latter, six drains about a rectangular grass plot. Between these two courts lies a small garden (about 10 yards by 25) called The Garden of Eden, perhaps because of a large fruit tree growing in it. (With thanks to Mr D. F. Wharton.)

spiv. One who lives by his wits—within the law, for preference; esp. by 'the racing game': c.: since ca. 1890; by 1940 low s. Lionel Seecombe, wireless-reporting the Foord-Neusel fight, Nov. 18, 1936; John Worby, The Other Half, 1937 (the 'locus classicus'); Alan Hoby in The People, April 7, 1946, "'Spivs"—the small town touts and racketeers'; a definition enunciated in June 1947 was 'One who earns his living by not working'. In The Daily Telegraph of July 29 and 30, 1947, Lord Rosebery and 'Peterborough' clearly established that the term had been in use by and among race-course gangs since the 1890's and had been known to a few police detectives since 1920 or so. Cf. spiffing in Dict., for spiv may conceivably represent an abbreviation of spiffing fellow.

Indeed, spiv is of the same origin as spiffing: the dialectal spif or spiff, 'neat, smart, dandified; excellent'; compare Scottish and Northern spiffer, 'anything first-rate'. The adj. spif becomes a noun (compare phoney) and spif becomes spiv because the latter is easier to pronounce.—Whence spivvish: 'of or like a spiv': 1946+.

See esp. 'Spivs and Phoneys' in Here, There and Everywhere (essays upon language), 1949.

spiv days (singular rare). Rest days: railwaymen's: since ca. 1945. (Railway.)

spiv-knot. 'The "Windsor" knotting of the tie: knotted double to emphasize the shoulders and waist of tie-knot. Of Cockney origin' (Atkinson): late 1947+. See prec. entry.

splash, adj. (p. 811). Over fifty years earlier in W. H. Ainsworth, Rookwood, 1834, 'All my togs were so niblike and splash.'

splash (or slash), have a (Of men) to make water. C. 20. Probably ex the synonymous splash one's boots (or shoes).

splashing. Excessive or silly talk: proletarian: ca. 1870-1910. B. & L.

splattered, get. To lose heavily: racing, esp. bookies': since ca. 1920. The Sunday Telegraph, May 7, 1967.

splice, v., 1 (p. 811), is much earlier: 1710, John Shadwell, The Fair Quaker of Deal. (Moe.)

split, n.—12. (Cf. sense 10, 11.) Change (in money); small change: low: 1893, P. H. Emerson, Signor Lippo.—13. A safety match: Aus.: C. 20. (B., 1959.)

split, adj. See wilderness, be in the, below.

split ace, the. See hot seat.

split-arse, adj. 'He's a pukka split-arse pilot'—i.e. stunt pilot: R.A.F.: since ca. 1915. Jackson. Ex the adv. (p. 812); cf. 'tho splits' (ibid.).—2. Hence, addicted to stunting: R.A.F. since ca. 1920.—3. 'Used by the South Africans (in the Air Force) to indicate very good or very clever, e.g. "split-arse navigator",' Robert Hinde, letter of March 17, 1945.

split-arse cap (p. 812) has been kept alive by the R.A.F. for the field-service cap as distinct from the peaked dress-service cap. Jackson.

split-arse landing. A daring landing at speed: R.A.F.: since ca. 1925. Jackson.

split-arse pilot. A stunting pilot; a test pilot: R.A.F.: since ca. 1925. Cf. split-arse merchant on p. 812.

split-arse turn (Dict.): prob. from at least fifteen years earlier, perhaps from ca. 1917.

split-arsed one. A female (esp., baby): low: late C. 19–20.

split-arsing about. An elaboration of split-arsing (p. 812): since ca. 1916.—2. Hence, acting the fool in a dangerous way: all three Services': since ca. 1925. (P.G.R.)

split stuff. Women collectively: low Australian: C. 20. B., 1942. Physiological.

split the grain, enough to. Enough to make one drunk: coll.: from ca. 1880. Pugh (2): 'But . . . go easy with this . . . Jest enough to screw you up, y'know, but not enough to split the grain.' split 'un. A bank-note split in two: Australian low coll.: C. 20. Baker.

split yarn, have everything on a. 'To be ready to carry out an evolution' (Granville): Naval coll.: C. 20.—2. Hence to have a plan worked out: Naval: since ca. 1925.

splithers. See razzor.

splits. Split peas or lentils: domestic and grocers' coll.: C. 20.

splitter.—2. A lawyer addicted to hair-splitting distinctions: ca. 1660–1750. Richard Head, Proteus Redivivus, 1675.

splodger.—2. (esp., in address) 'Codger': rhyming s.: 1856, H. Mayhew, The Great World of London; † by 1920.—3. A body-snatcher (?): ? ca. 1840–80.

'I'm Happy Jack the Splodger.

I'm as happy as I can be,

'Cos when I digs the bodies up,

The worms crawl over me.'

The 'saga' of Happy Jack

Perhaps ex English dial. splodge, to trudge through dirt or mire (EDD).

splodgy. Coarse-looking; (of complexion) pimply: proletarian coll.: mid-C. 19–20. B. & L. Lit., splotchy.

splushing it on, adj. or n. Betting heavily; heavy betting: racing, esp. bookies': since ca. 1920. The Sunday Telegraph, May 7, 1967.

Spode's law. 'If something can go wrong, it will'—esp. in scientific research: scientists', pharmaceutical chemists', technologists': since ca. 1930. (Ronald K. Rogers, Nov. 21, 1967.) Cf. the rather earlier scientific dictum about the mythical fourth general law of the physicists, 'the cussedness of the universe tends to a maximum'.

spodioidi. A 'mixture of cheap port and bar whisky' affected by the jazz world (The Victoria Daily Colonist, April 16, 1959, 'Basic Beatnik'): Canadian jazz-lovers' and musicians': since ca. 1955. Origin? Apparently arbitrary—perhaps after such a name as asti spumante.

spoffskins is more properly a courtesan willing to pretend to (temporary) marriage.

spoil dandy. A severe blow: pugilistic: ca. 1810–40. T. Moore, Tom Cribb's Memorial, 1819.

spoon or spon. Money: Australian: since ca. 1920. B., 1942. Ex:

spondulicks (p. 813). A more prob. origin, I suggest, is Gr. spondulikos, adj. of spondulos, a species of shell very popular in prehistoric and early historic commerce; cf. the use of cowrie shells as money in ancient Asia and in both ancient and modern Africa.

Spongy. An inevitable nickname—as are Doughy and Snowy—of men surnamed Baker: late C. 19–20.

spunk. Infatuated. Public School girls': since late 1940's; by 1967, ob. John Winton, We Saw the Sea, 1960, "I had a crush on my games mistress," Mary said. "I was absolutely spunk on her." Less probably ex spunk + bonkers than ex adj. spanking + bonkers.

spons. See spoon.

spoof, n.—5. Confidence-trick swindle: low (—1890); ob. B. & L.—6. Misleading or 'planted' information: Army, esp. Intelligence: since ca. 1940. (Peter Sanders.)

spook (p. 183). 'Perhaps because signallers occasionally practise at night with lamps' (Leechman).—2. A drug-addict: c.: since ca. 1943. (Norman.) Such addicts tend to look ghastly.

spook, v. To render (a horse or other quadruped) nervous: Canadian: since ca. 1930. 'Don't show him the whip, you'd spook him'—'You'll never catch him now, he's spooked.' To cause to shy or to gallop away, as if at the sight of a spook or ghost. Perhaps of U.S. origin (cf. Wentworth & Flexner); Dr Douglas Leechman thinks not.

spoon, v., 2 (p. 813). Earlier in Trollope, The Way We Live Now, 1875. (Philip Gaskell).—4. To make things easy for (a person, esp. for a pupil): Winchester College: since ca. 1880. E. H. Lacon Watson, In the Days of His Youth, 1935, 'You'd never have got your remove last half if Wray hadn't spooned you.' I.e. spoon-feed.

spoon in the wall, stick one's (p. 813) is recorded earlier in Matthew Todd's Journal, edited by Geoffrey Trease, 1968, but belonging to 1814.

Spoonerisms, intentional. In slang, there is a tendency to this sort of thing: senal pervitute (p. 744) and, jocularly, blazor rades (razor blades) and blubber roves (rubber gloves).

spooney.—5. An effeminate youth or man: ca. 1825–80. Thackeray, Vanity Fair, 1848, 'Jim says he's remembered at Oxford as Miss Crawley still—the spooney.'

sport, n. (p. 814). Be a Sport! occurs in, e.g., Punch on May 21, 1913. As a term of address, it has been current in Australia since before 1914.

sport a toe. To dance: 1821, Pierce Egan, Life in London; app. † by 1870.

sportsman is at certain Public Schools a synonym for 'chap', 'fellow', 'man': from ca. 1890. (Arnold Lunn, Loose Ends, 1919.)

spot, n. Sense 5: A. Neil Lyons, Clara, 1912; † by 1940.—8. A guess: from ca. 1932. Gorell, Red Lilac, 1935, 'My spot is that after baiting his poor victim, he had a fancy for the melodramatic.' Perhaps abbr. spot-light.—9. £10: Australian low: since ca. 1930. B., 1942. Ex U.S. ten-spot, 10 dollars.—10. A spotlight: cinematic, since ca. 1925; T.V. since ca. 1945. By 1960, coll.

spot, v.—10. To set a box- or other freight-car in the right place for loading or unloading: Canadian railwaymen's since ca. 1905; by 1920, coll. (Leechman.)

Sense 7 (p. 815) is also, in C. 20, Aus. (B., 1959).

spot, in a (p. 815). By 1939, s.; esp. in the Services. Partridge, 1945.

spot, off the. See spot, on the, in Dict.—2. Silly, imbecile: from ca. 1880; ob. B. & L.

spot below. Six (in game of House): mostly Army: C. 20. The Counter for number 6 has a spot below to distinguish it from 9 upside down.

spot of, 'a little' (see spot, n., 2: p. 815, top), was adumbrated so long ago as in Wm Maginn's translation of Memoirs of Vidocq, III, 1829, 'He leads them to a spot of work'—a burglary; spot of bother, trouble: Army officers': since ca. 1914; the recent spot of bother, the war of 1914–18 or that of 1939–45.

spot(-on). An occasional variant of bang on: R.A.F.: 1940–5. Via 'bang on the spot'. Since the late 1940's, the usual term in Australia. (B.P.)

spotter.—5. An employee assigned to watch the behaviour of other employees: Canadian railroadmen's (— 1931). Cf. senses 1–3 in Dict. Also on Canadian trams; by 1959, ob. (Leechman.)—6. A man on the look-out for military police: Army: 1939–45. (P-G-R.)

spout, n.—3. Penis: low: C. 19–20.—4. See spout, up the (Dict.).—5. A cannon: Woolwich Arsenal: C. 20. The Daily Mail, Aug. 16, 1939.

sprag. See 'Fops'.—2. A goods guard: Eastern Railway employees': ca. 1890–1925. (Railway 2nd.) Perhaps ex dial. sprag, to put a brake on something.

spraggers. Loose for sraggers.

sprarser or sprarsey. Sixpence. Variants of spraser (p. 816).

Sprat Day. Lord Mayor's Day: Cockneys': since ca. 1840; ob. Mayhew, I, 1851, 'Sprats . . . are generally introduced about the 9th of November.'

spread, n., 5 (p. 816). An early record: 1822, David Carey, Life in Paris.—With sense 6 (a dinner) cf. the nuance, 'any meal'—as in morning spread, breakfast: Spy, II, 1826.—11. A plasterer: builders': C. 20.—12. (Ex sense 3, 'butter': p. 816.) Jam, marmalade, or anything else that is spread upon bread: Canadian: late C. 19–20; by 1940, coll. (Leechman.)

spread, work the. See spread, n., 10, in Dict.

spread-worker. A herbalist: showmen's: late C. 19–20. See spread, n., 10 (p. 816).

spreader.—2. A blanket: whalers': C. 19. E. J. Wakefield, Adventure in New Zealand, 1845 (recorded by B., 1941).

spreaders. A burglar's large pliers: c.: from ca. 1890. Pugh (2).

spree, n., 1 (p. 816): a little earlier in Sessions, Dec. 1798, p. 59.

spree man, or as one word. A junior permitted to work hard: Winchester College: from ca. 1870. B. & L.

spreeish, 2 (p. 816). Earlier in Sessions, April 1843.

sprey. An occ. spelling of spree; e.g. in Sessions, April 1822.

spridgy—sproggy—spudgy. Australian, esp.

juvenile, terms for a sparrow: C. 20. (B., 1953.) With the first, cf. the Scottish dial. sprig; with the second, cf. Scottish and N. Country dial. sprog (and sprug); with the third, cf. the Scottish and N. Country dial. spug and Sussex spudger; with all, cf. spadger on p. 804.

spring, v., 1 and 2: both senses anticipated by Sessions, 1832 (trial of John Robinson), 'You had better . . . hear the deal, for I think they will spring a little' (raise, increase, the price).—4. To sec: Australian, esp. Sydneyites': since ca. 1945. 'I've never sprung him before.' (Edwin Morrisby, Aug. 30, 1958.)—5. To get a man released from prison, esp. on a technicality: Canadian: adopted, ca. 1935, ex U.S. (Leechman.)

spring his cattle. To rush the horses: coach-drivers': C. 19. (W. O. Tristram, Coaching Days and Coaching Ways, 1888.)

spring-sides. Elastic-sided boots: Australian: C. 20. B., 1942.

springer.—2. A physical-training officer: Naval (lower-deck): since ca. 1920. (P-G-R.)—3. A planner of a prison escape: since ca. 1960. Cf. the orig. c. spring, to get (someone) released from prison.

sprio. A sparrow: Sedgeley Park School: ca. 1780–1870. Frank Roberts in The Cottonian, Autumn 1938. Thus sparrow > spro >, by the principle of 'ease of pronunciation', sprio. Cf. spug.

sprog, n. A recruit: R.A.F.: since ca. 1930; by ca. 1939, also—via the Fleet Air Arm—used occ. by the Navy. H. & P. Origin obscure and debatable (see esp. Partridge, 1945); but perhaps a reversal of 'frog-spawn' (very, very green) or, more prob., the adoption of a recruit's sprog, a confusion of 'sprocket' and 'cog', a sprocket being, like the recruit, a cog in a wheel. In the Navy the term means an infant, 'Nobby Clark's gone on leave, his wife's just had a sprog': Granville, 1945.—2. Hence, an Aircraftman: Australian airmen's: since ca. 1939. (B., 1943.)—3. A child, esp. in relation to its parents: Fleet Air Arm, hence Naval: since the late 1930's.

Robert Clairborne has suggested that the word might conceivably be a distortion of S.E. sprout.

sprog, adj. New ('sprog tunic'); recently promoted ('sprog corporal'); recently created or become ('Two sprog fathers in the room in two days,' Brickhill & Norton, Escape to Danger, 1946). Ex the n.

sproggy. See spridgy.

spruce up. To clean and dress oneself to go out or to go on parade: Regular Army coll.: since ca. 1895. I.e. make oneself spruce or smart.

sprucing, n. Leg-pulling: Army: since ca. 1918. (P-G-R.) Ex the Australians?

spud, 1: earlier in E. J. Wakefield, Adventure, 1845.—3. A friend, chum, pal: Services: since ca. 1930. H. & P. See mucking-in spud.

spud barber: extant in the Navy. (Granville.) spud-basher. 'A man on cookhouse fatigue for potato peeling,' H. & P.: Services: since ca. 1919.—2. See 'Hauliers' Slang'.

spud-bashing. Kitchen fatigue: Services: since ca. 1920. The Daily Mail, Sept. 7, 1940.

spud line, be in the. To be pregnant: Naval lower-deck: since ca. 1946.

spud locker, in the. Pregnant: Naval: C. 20.

spud-walloping. Variant of preceding: since ca. 1930. (P-G-R.)

spud(d)ler. An indirect cause of trouble: West Country railwaymen's: C. 20. (Railway.) Ex dial. spuddle, to 'mess about' or to 'make a mess of things'. More precisely, 'one who causes trouble indirectly' (Railway, 3rd).

spudgy. See spridgey.

spudoosh. 'Lower-deck "spudoosh", that dismal diet of many-eyed potatoes mashed with corned beef into a mockery of a meal,' Robert Harling, The Steep Atlantick Stream, 1946: Naval: C. 20. A blend of 'spuds' + 'mashed potatoes', influenced by the oes of 'potatoes'.

spug. A sparrow: Cotton College: since ca. 1875. Adoption of dial. word.

spun in. Crash-landed ('plane or pilot): R.A.F.: since ca. 1930. H. & P.; Jackson, 'Failed to recover from a spin.'—2. Hence, applied to one who has committed a technical error: since ca. 1938. Partridge, 1945.

spun-yarn major (p. 817): strictly, any officer above that rank. Granville.

spun-yarn Sunday. A Sunday on which Church is voluntary: Naval: C. 20. (P-G-R.)

spun-yarn trick. 'An underhand method of achieving a desired end. From the use of spun yarn in effecting repairs' (Granville): Naval coll.: C. 20. Also, I'd say, in allusion to 'The Indian rope-trick'.

spunk, v.i. To ejaculate: low coll.: C. 20. The corresponding n., 2 (p. 817), is also coll. rather than s.

spunk-bound. (Of a man) lethargic; slow-witted: low: late C. 19–20. Cf.:

spunk-dust. 'A jovially abusive term of address between men' (Atkinson): low: C. 20. See spunk, 2, on p. 817.

spurge. An effeminate male: Australian low: since ca. 1920. B., 1942. Ex the rather weedy plant thus named.

squab. See 'Men'.

squab-job. A job for (young) girls: ca. 1910–15. Flora Klickman, The Lure of the Pen, 1919. A squab is a young sparrow.

squabbling bleeder. A Squadron Leader: R.A.F. rhyming s.: 1939–45, then mainly historical. Franklyn 2nd.

squadded, be. To be—on first joining up—put into a squad: Army col.: since ca. 1910. (P-G-R.)

Squadron, the. Headquarters of the Royal Yacht Squadron at Cowes, I.O.W.: Naval coll.: C. 20.

squadron bleeder. Squadron-Leader: R.A.F.: since ca. 1925. Jackson. By an entirely inoffensive pun.

Squadron-Leader Swill. Squadron-Leader 'A' (Administration) on a station: R.A.F. coll.: since ca. 1930. Jackson, 'The disposal of waste foodscraps . . . for use as pig-swill is one of [his] numerous responsibilities.'

squaff or squoff is a variant of squo. (W/Cdr P. McDouall, letter of April 12, 1945.)

squaler. A weapon consisting of an 18-inch cane surmounted with a pear-shaped piece of lead used for killing squirrels and deer in Savernake Forest: Marlborough College: ca. 1843–60. Either for squirrel or because it causes squirrels to squeal. But as squailer (see O.E.D.) it is an archaeological technicality. The weapon is very old; by many archaeologists and ethnologists it is known as a rabbit stick. (Dr Leechman.) 'Perhaps the point should be made that it was thrown at the rabbit, not used as a club.'

squalid. A pejorative, synonymous with and prob. suggested by filthy (Dict.): upper classes': from ca. 1933. Nicholas Blake, Thou Shell of Death, 1936, 'Squalid fellow'.

squalid bleeder. A Squadron Leader: R.A.F.: 1939–45. 'An inoffensive pun' (Ramsey Spencer); cf. squadron bleeder above.

square, n.—4. A mortar-board: Cambridge undergraduates': late C. 19–20.—6. (See 'Canadian . . .') An old-fashioned person, esp. about dancing and music: dance-fanatics' and jazz-lovers': adopted, ca. 1938, ex U.S. The Observer, Sept. 16, 1956.—7. An honest citizen; anyone of conventional morals and habits: Canadian: adopted, ca. 1955, ex U.S.—8. Between sol. and coll. is the late C. 19–20 Army sense 'parade-ground'—whatever the shape.

Sense 7 was adopted by Britain ex Canada ca. 1958.

square, adj.—2. Corresponding to senses 6 and 7 of the n.: old-fashioned; esp., decent and honest; with connotation 'reactionary': since late 1950's. See swinging, below, and the adv. on p. 818.

square, run on the. To be honest or trustworthy: Society: from ca. 1880; very ob. B. & L. square affair. One's legitimate sweetheart (girl): Cockney and Australian: ca. 1890–1914.

square away. To arrange: Australian naval, hence also military, coll.: since ca. 1940. See quotation at head off.

square back-down. A palpable shuffling: sporting: from ca. 1870.

square-basher is (C. 10) the victim of:

square-bashing. Drill, esp. by recruits on the parade ground: C. 20 Army and post-1930 R.A.F. H. & P. (at gravel-bashing). The recruits 'bash' their rifles down.

square-eyes. One who watches T.V. excessively: Australian: since ca. 1950. Ex reputed effect. (B.P.)

square Jane and no nonsense. A respectable, intensely self-respecting girl: Australian: since ca. 1925. Baker.

square-off, n. An apology; a concocted excuse: Australian: since ca. 1910. (B., 1943.) Ex sense 1 of the v.

square off.—2. (V.i. and v.t.) 'To make things ship-shape' (Granville). Naval coll.: C. 20.—3. To prepare to fight: Australian: C. 20. (B., 1943.)

square one! The shortened form of let's go back to square one.

square one's yardarm. To protect oneself in a manner inspectable by one's seniors: Naval (ward-room): C. 20.

square shepherd. An old-fashioned but essentially honest, decent, kindly person, esp. among the beatniks: beatniks': since ca. 1959. (Anderson.) An elaboration of square, n., 7, above.

square tack. A girl; girls in general: Guards': since ca. 1918. Roger Grinstead, They Dug a Hole, 1946.

square-toes. See old square-toes, which prob. dates from early in the 19th century; young square-toes occurs in Thackeray's Vanity Fair, 1848.

square up the job; often as n., squaring up . . .

To conclude an investigation by making an arrest: police coll.: since ca. 1910. (The Free-Lance Writer, April 1948.)

square wheels. 'Wheels with worn running surface' (Railway): railwaymen's: late C. 19-20.

squareface. See square-face (Dict.).

squarehead. See square-head (Dict.).—4. To prepare to fight, adopting the suitable stance: Australian: since ca. 1910. B., 1942.—5. A timid, or an amateurish, thief with a conscience: Australian low: since ca. 1920. (B., 1943.)—6. Hence, an unconvicted crook: Australian c.: since ca. 1945.

Squareville. 'The fons et origo of all "squares" and conventional people and conduct. "Him! Oh, he's strictly from Squareville!"' Canadian: adopted in 1960-1 ex U.S., where orig. it was jazz s. (Leechman.)

squarey. A crook not yet convicted or not yet even interrogated: Australian c.: since ca. 1945. (B., 1953.)

squash, n.—2. A youth-movement gathering, many persons crowded into a small room: Church coll.: since ca. 1930.

squat, v. Medical s. of C. 20, as in C. Lillingston, His Patients Died, 1936, an agent to a young doctor: 'You may become someone's assistant . . ., or you may squat—put up your plate in a likely district and wait for patients.' Heuce squatter, mentioned also by Lillingston. Ex land squatting.

squattage. A squatter's station; his home-stand: Australian: since ca. 1930. (B., 1943.) A blend of squatter + cottage.

squatter.—2. See preceding entry.

squatter's daughter. Water: Australian rhyming s.: C. 20. (Baker.)

squatti. A loose variant of swaddy (Dict.): Army: late C. 19-20.

squattocracy. Squatters, their life and customs, etc.: Australian coll.: since ca. 1920. (B., 1943.)

squawk, n. and v. A complaint; to complain: Canadian: adopted, ca. 1935, ex U.S.

squawk-box. An office intercommunication system: Canadian: since ca. 1945. (Leechman.)—2. 'Now applied to an intercom on an office desk, but specifically to the Admiralty desks' (Wilfred Granville, letter of July 24, 1963).

squeak, n.—3. A sergeant: Australian soldiers': 1939-45. (B., 1943.) Probably ex pip-squeak, 1 (p. 633).

squeak, get a. See get a squeak.

squeak, put in a. See put in a squeak (Addenda). But for squeak, put in the, see squeak, n., 2 (p. 819).

squeaker, 2 (p. 819): 'a cross child' (Sinks, 1848).—12. In card-playing, either a low-value card that takes a trick or a trump that unnecessarily takes a trick: C. 20.

Sense 10 (p. 819) is also, in C. 20, Aus. (B., 1959.)

squeakers.—2. Boots; shoes: Australian rural: C. 20. (D'Arcy Niland, 1958.)

squeakies, the. The cinema: ca. 1931-5. E. C. Vivian, 1933. Cf. talkies (Dict.).

squeaks in, put the. See put the acid (or squeaks in).

squeal, n.—3. A team of bullocks: Australian bullock drivers': C. 20. (K. S. Prichard, Working Bullocks, 1926.) Echoic.

Squealers, the. The Australian Provost Corps: Australian soldiers': 1939+. B., 1942. Ex squealer, 1 (p. 819).

squee-pee. Nestlé's milk: Scottish Public Schools', or at least at that of which Ian Miller writes in his notable novel, School Tie, 1935: from ca. 1905. Perhaps a reduplication of squish on pee.

'May I suggest an origin based on squeezing the punctured (not conventionally "opened") tin & thus producing a thin trickle (or jet, depending on the pressure applied) from the hole?' Ramsey Spencer.

squeegee, all. Very much askew: ca. 1860-1910. Perhaps by corruption.

squeegee band (p. 819) is recorded in 1896: The Navy and Army Illustrated, Oct. 3—article 'Fun on Board Ship'. (Moe.)

squeeze, n.—14. A woman's waist: Australian: since ca. 1925. (B., 1943.)—15. (Ex senses 8 and esp. 11: p. 819.) 'To threaten a thief with arrest unless he informed on his friends' (John Gosling, 1959): police s.: C. 20.—16. Economy, esp. a credit squeeze: since ca. 1958: coll. >, by 1966, S.E.

squeeze-box.—2. A concertina: 1914-18. (H. & P.)—3. A piano-accordion: 1939-45. (H. & P.)—4. A gas-respirator: Army: 1939+. The Daily Mail, Sept. 7, 1940.

squeeze(-)gun. An anti-tank gun of small calibre: Army: 1941+.—2. A gun with a slightly tapering bore: artillerymen's: ca. 1941-5. (P-G-R.)

squeeze off a fish. To fire a torpedo: Naval: since ca. 1939.

squeeze-pigeon or -pidgin. Blackmail: mostly Naval: since ca. 1910.

squeeze the feat (or tit). See tit, 2.

squeeze up, v.i. To ejaculate: low: C. 20.

squeezer.—3. (Gen. pl.) One of a set of cards with index values shown in the corners: from ca. 1880.

snelch. A blunder, a faux-pas, a 'putting one's foot in it': Australian: since late 1950's. (B.P.)

snelcher.—2. Fig., e.g. in argument: from ca. 1890; ob.

squib.—8. One who backs out; a faint-heart: Australian: C. 20. Archer Russell, Gone Nomad, 1936.—9. A plan that fails: Australian: since ca. 1910. B., 1942. Ex a damp squib.—10. A small, weedy person: Australian: since ca. 1912. Baker.

squib, v. To be afraid; to be a coward: Australian: C. 20. (B., 1943.) Cf. sense 8 of the n.

squib, his mother never raised a. He is very brave: Aus. c.p.: C. 20. (B., 1959.) Ex squib, n., 8, above.

squib it. To turn coward, to 'chicken out': Australian: since ca. 1950. Cf. the fig. uses of squib, n. and v., in English dialect.

squib on. To betray (someone); to fail (him): Australian: since ca. 1910. Sidney J. Baker, letter in The Observer, Nov. 13, 1938. To go out, fail to explode, like a damp squib.

Squibbly. Esquimalt and Royal Naval College: Royal Canadian Navy: since ca. 1930. (P-G-R.) 'This distortion of the pronunciation of Esquimalt reminds me of Slackers, which I believe to be a distortion of Halifax, something like Pompey [for Portsmouth]. Two Navy types I have asked (but yesterday) say that they were not aware of any slackness while they were there. See also Uckers.' (Leechman, April 15, 1967.)

squiff. A drunkard: Australian: since ca. 1920. B., 1942. Ex squiffy, 1, 2 (p. 820).

squiff, on the. On a drinking-bout: Australian: since ca. 1925. (B., 1943.) Cf. the preceding.

squiff it. To die: Australian: since ca. 1945. (B.P.)

squiffy.—3. Hence, unwell: Australian: C. 20. Baker.—4. Silly; stupid: Australian: since ca. 1920.—5. Crooked; askew: Australian: since ca. 1920. Baker. Probably, as Ramsey Spencer suggests, a contraction of skew-whiff.

squinters (p. 820) may, however, have, orig., been Oxford University s. of ca. 1760–1860. It occurs in the poem 'A Familiar Epistle' on p. 367 of The Gentleman's Magazine, May 1784. (Moe.)

squinting. Being without a necessity or a requisite (e.g. food): tailors': from ca. 1860. B. & L.

squire.—2. Hence, a jocular term of address among men: coll.: C. 20.

Squire, the. Henry St John, Viscount Bolingbroke (1678–1751): ca. 1710–70. See, e.g., Swift's Letters, ed. by F. E. Ball.

squirms, the; esp. in 'It'll give you the squirms'—horribly embarrass or irritate you: since ca. 1930.

squirt, n.—8. A quick burst of machine-gun fire: R.A.F.: since ca. 1937. H. & P. Cf. quick squirt.—9. A jet-propelled aircraft: R.A.F.: since May 1944; by 1950, slightly ob. A pun on jet. (P-G-R.)

squirter. A synonym of squirt, n., 1 and 2: from ca. 1920.

squiz, v. To regard; to inspect: Australian: since ca. 1910 (the n., dating since late C. 19: see p. 821). B., 1942. Ex the n.—2. Hence, to peep slyly: Australian: since ca. 1925. (Ruth Park, Poor Man's Orange, 1950.) With squint—squiz, cf. swindle—swiz.

squo. A Squadron-Officer (W.A.A.F. equivalent of S.Ldr): W.A.A.F. and R.A.F.: 1940 +. Jackson. Also squoff.

sri; strictly 'sri. That's right: mostly Cockney (solecistic?) coll.: C. 20, "'It was two years last August: wasn't it, Fred?"—"Sri," said Fred,' Michael Harrison, What Are We Waiting For? 1931. I.e. 'that's right'.

ss is, in Cockney speech, the slurring of rs: C. 19–20. E.g. passon, common also in dial., and pusson, as in Edwin Pugh, A Street in Suburbia, 1895, 'An' you're the pusson as we've took the liberty with.' A better, because less obvious example, is wuss (worse).

stab, n.—2. An attempt, as in 'Let's have a stab at it!': Services: since ca. 1930. H. & P. Adopted from U.S.: J. Flynt, The World of Graft, 1901, has it. Cf. Fr. > S.E. coup.—3. A medical inoculation: Australian Services': 1939–45 (and after). B., 1943.

stable mate. 'A horse that develops such an affection for his stable companion that he will sicken if separated from him. Sometimes the affection is mutual. It can become a serious and difficult problem.' (Leechman, April 1967.) Coll.: late C. 19–20.

stable pea. Tho horse fancied by the members of its stable: racing: since ca. 1920. Arthur J. Sarl, 1938. With a pun on sweet pea.

Stable Yard, the. The Horse Guards, Whitehall: Londoners' and Army: ca. 1810–60. Richard Aldington, Wellington, 1946.

stack on a blue. To start a brawl or fight: Australian (mostly soldiers'): since ca. 1920.

Lawson Glassop, We Were the Rats, 1944. Stack: ex card-playing; blue, because the air is, with oaths.

stack on an act. A variant of bung on an act above. Since ca. 1925. (B., 1959.)

stack one's drapery. To place one's hat and coat on the ground prior to fighting: Australian: since ca. 1920. B., 1942.

stack-up. A synonym of pile-up, n., 2: racing cyclists': since ca. 1945.

stacked, esp. well stacked. (Of a girl) possessing large and attractive breasts: Canadian: adopted, ca. 1942, from U.S. Perhaps from playing-cards. The shorter form 'seems to have displaced well stacked in Australia' (B.P., mid-1963).

staff, n. (p. 821). Also a Colour Sergeant or a Quartermaster Sergeant: C. 20. (P-G-R.)

Staff College. See studying for . . .

staffy. A Staff Officer: Naval officers': C. 20.

tag, n.—9. A half-grown bull: Australian: C. 20. B., 1942.—10. 'An imperfectly castrated ram' (B., 1959): Aus. rural: C. 20.

tag, go. To go to, e.g., a party without a female companion: Canadian: adopted, ca. 1925, ex U.S. Cf. tag-party on p. 822.

tag, on. 'On sentry duty as a roving picket; on the prowl': Services (orig. Army): C. 20. H. & P. See tag, n., 8 (p. 821).

tag, the. Nystagmus (a succession of involuntary eyeball-twitchings): miners': late C. 19–20.

tag or shag? Without or with female companion?: Australian c.p.: since late 1940's. Cf. tag, go, above, and shag, n., 1 (p. 748).

stage-dooring. Hanging about the scenes, or about doors reserved for actors: theatrical coll.: from ca. 1870. B. & L.

stagger juice. In the Royal Navy, it = Navy rum. Granville.

staggering Bob. A calf: Canadian and Australian: mid-C. 19–20. Ex Irish and North Country dial.; semantically cf. quaking cheat (p. 675).

staggering juice. See stagger-juice (Dict.).

Staggers. St Stephen's House: Oxford undergraduates': since ca. 1930. (Marples, 2.) Probably after Jaggers.

staggy. The adj. of tag, n., 9 and 10: Aus. rural: C. 20. (B., 1959.)

staining, n. An effusion of blood: hospitals' euphemistic coll.: C. 20. (Dymphna Cusack, Say No to Death, 1951.) Strictly, it is medical coll. for a slight discharge of blood.

stairs!, on the. A tailors' c.p. (from ca. 1860) when a job is called for. B. & L. Cf. up in Annie's room.

stake, n.—3. A (usually large) sum of money: Canadian coll.: late C. 19–20. 'Ho made a stake in gold-mining.'

stake, v. To give, or to lend for a long while, something to (someone): coll.: late C. 19–20, apparently Canadian before, ca. 1920, it became English. 'Will you stake me to a dinner?' As Dr Leechman notes, it orig. meant 'to supply someone (e.g., a prospector) with food and equipment on the understanding that a predetermined proportion of any finds shall go to the man doing the staking' (Leechman). Cf. the synonymous grub-stake above.

stale, adj. (Of freight) overdue: railwaymen's: since ca. 1920, but esp. since ca. 1940. (Railway.) Proleptic. Cf. stinker, 13, below.

stale drunk, adj. Having been drunk at night and having taken too many spirit stimulants the next morning: from ca. 1860. B. & L.

Stalin's barrel organ. A Russian multi-barrelled rocket launcher copied by the Germans: Army: 1942-5. Ex the deafening noise it made. (Peter Sanders.)

stalk. A tic-pin: c.: C. 20. F. D. Sharpe, The Flying Squad, 1938.—2. An erection: low: since ca. 1910.

stalk, the.—2. 'The flag is "the stalk" and to "do a stalker" is to carry a passenger without pulling the flag down. "Stalking a job" is doing the same thing,' Herbert Hodge, Cab, Sir?, 1939: taxi-drivers': since ca. 1910; since 1918 the phrases.

stalk a job. See prec.

stalker, do a. See stalk, the, 2.

stallion. A piebald horse: circusmen's: from ca. 1860. B. & L.—2. A prostitute's customer: prostitutes' c.: C. 20.

stam, short for estam, is an estaminet: Army: 1914-18.—2. Hence, short for estaminet (i.e. baseless) rumour: 1915-18.

stammer and stutter. Butter: theatrical rhyming s.: late C. 19-20. Franklyn, Rhyming. Recorded earlier in Sydney Lester, Vardi the Palarey, (?) 1937.

stamp one's drum. To punch a hole in one's billy or kettle when it has become too old for further use; gen. as vbl n., stamping. . . : tramps' c.: late C. 19-20.

'Indians in western Canada and Eskimos usually punch a hole in the bottom or otherwise damage any goods left on a grave. Some say this is to release the spirit of the object and render it available for use in the next world, others (more mundane) say it is to prevent their being stolen. This may well have been a circumpolar custom.' (Dr Douglas Leechman, anthropologist and language-lover.)

stamping-ground. A field, a park, a by-way, notoriously frequented for amorous dalliance: British Empire: late C. 19-20. Ex the stamping and covering by stallions.

stamps. A person of no account, esp. of no relevant status: Naval: since ca. 1945. If, for instance, an assistant issues stores to another while the storekeeper himself is present, the storekeeper might well exclaim, 'What am I, stamps?'—usually 'fucking stamps'.

Stamshaw nanny-goat. See Torpoint chicken. stana shwaya! Wait a moment!: soldiers' Arabic: late C. 19-20. See shwaiya, above.

stand, v., 1 (p. 823): earlier in W. N. Glascock, Sailors and Saints, 1829, at I, 85. Moe.—2 (p. 823). Earlier in Sessions, July 6, 1842.

stand a bar of, cannot. To dislike (someone) intensely: Australian: since ca. 1920. Dal Stevens, in a story written in 1944.—2. To refuse to tolerate (e.g. an act): Aus.: since ca. 1920. Mary Durack, Keep Him My Country, 1955.

stand and freeze. Stand at ease: military jocular, rather than rhyming s.: ca. 1895-1935. Franklyn 2nd.

stand at ease.—2. Fleas: rhyming s.: late C. 19-20.

stand at the peg. (Of racehorse) to be left at the starting-point: Australian racing: since ca. 1925. (B., 1953.)

stand-by. An optimistic air passenger in the habit of standing by, in the hope that a reservation will lapse: Canadian air-travel coll., verging on j.: since ca. 1954. (Leechman.)

stand by your beds! A c.p., mimicking self-importance and pretending to stir occupants of room to (greater) activity: Forces': 1939-45. 'Ex disciplinary order of superior on entering barrack room' (Atkinson).

stand (surname) down. To cost: Australian coll.: since ca. 1925. H. Drake Brockman, Hot Gold, 1940, 'Only stand you down eighty quid.'

stand from under. Thunder: theatrical rhyming s.: late C. 19-20. (Franklyn, Rhyming.)

stand-in. A deputy; one who takes your turn of duty: Services coll.: since ca. 1925. H. & P. Ex:

stand in for. To take (someone's) turn of duty; to stand by for him: Services coll.: since ca. 1925. Partridge, 1945. Ex the theatre.

stand on a fag-paper! C.p. advice to one who cannot reach up to something: mostly Londoners': from ca. 1920.

stand on everything! Hold it!; Await further orders!: R.A.F.: since ca. 1938. H. & P., 'To put the brakes on'. Perhaps a development from 'Tread on everything', applied to the model-T Ford, with its rapid deceleration accomplished best by the driver pressing down all the foot controls.

stand on me! Take my word for it: a fringe-of-the-underworld c.p.: since ca. 1930. Frank Norman, Stand on Me, 1959.

stand (or be standing) on one leg. To be caught—caught standing. . . is the usual form—doing something unofficial in official hours; to be in an awkward position: Services: since ca. 1935. H. & P. Cf. caught with one's trousers down.

stand one's peggy. See peggy. . .

stand over (a person). Menacingly to demand money from: c., and low: from ca. 1910.

stand the bears. See 'Verbs'.

stand the score is a Naval variant of stand (the) shot on p. 824: C. 19 (W. N. Glascock, Sketch-Book, II, 1826.) Moe., stand-to-attention. A pension: rhyming s.: since ca. 1919.

stand up, v.,—3. To coit with (a girl), as in 'He stood her up three times in one evening': low: C. 20. Orig. of perpendicular conjunction.

stand up drinks. 'To set out drinks,' B., 1942: Australian coll.: C. 20.

standing dish. 'Any one who is constantly lunching, dining, or calling at a house': Society coll.: from ca. 1870; slightly ob. B. & L. Ex the j. of cookery.

standing ground. 'The bottom of a goldmine shaft which needs no timbering' (B., 1959): Aus. coll.: late C. 19-20.

standing prick has no conscience, a. (Sec Dict.) An eminent scholar points out that in Nathaniel Field's Amends for Ladies, 1618, there is this arresting adumbration: 'O man, what art thou when thy cock is up?'

standover, n. A piece of criminal intimidation: standover man, one who practises this sort of intimidation (for money): low Australian: since ca. 1920. Kylie Tennant, Foveaux, 1939. Ex stand over.—2. Short for standover man: Australian: since ca. 1920. B., 1942.

standover, work the. To act as a standover man: Australian c.: since ca. 1920. B., 1942. See standover, 1, and cf. stand over.

standover man. See standover, 1: Australian c. (since ca. 1920) >, ca. 1930, low s. Baker.

standover merchant. Variant of preceding term: Aus. c.: since ca. 1925; by 1935, low s. (B., 1959.)

star, good on the. (Esp. of a building) easy to open, i.e. burgle: c. (— 1812). Vaux. Also good on the crack. See good in the Dict.

star and garter!, my (p. 824). Orig. ex dazzling breast-worn decorations. Dr C. T. Onions, postcard of April 9, 1939.

star-ballock naked. A loose variant of stark-ballock naked.

star-gazer, 4 (p. 824), goes back to early C. 19; it occurs in W. N. Glascock, Sketch-Book, 2nd Series, 1834 (at II, 64). Moe.

Star Hotel, sleep in the (p. 825). Also, by 1935 at latest, Australian. B., 1942.

star in the East, a. A fly-button showing: Public Schools': since ca. 1915.

star-queller. 'An actor whose imperfect acting mars that of better actors': theatrical: ca. 1880–1910. B. & L.

star turn. The central or most important person: coll.: C. 20. Leonard Merrick, Peggy Harper, 1911. Ex the music hall.

starboard light. Crème de menthe: since ca. 1920. Philip Macdonald, The Rynox Mystery, 1930. Both are green.

starbolic naked. A corruption of stark-ballock naked, utterly naked: low (esp. Australian): since ca. 1870. Brian Penton, Inheritors, 1936, "Is it true he makes the miners strip starbolic naked in front of him to show they ain't pinching any of his gold?"

starch out of, take the (p. 825). Probably there is an allusion to the semen virile. A valued correspondent writes, 'I suspect a double pun. With the "starch" taken out of him, he is no longer "stiff".'

starched collars. Game birds: poachers': since ca. 1920.

stare at the ceiling over a man's shoulder. (Of women) to coit: feminine, but jocular rather than euphemistic: C. 20.

stares, the. The 'fixed, glassy-eyed look of unwilling divers who realize what they have let themselves in for. They know that they have to go, but delay it to the last' (Wilfred Granville, March 11, 1964): skin divers': since the late 1940's.

starie chelevek. A Commanding Officer; anyone in authority: Regular Army with Eastern service: C. 20. Lit., old man.

stark-ballock naked. See starbolic naked.

stark-bol(l)ux. Stark-naked: Australian: since ca. 1890. Leonard Mann, A Murder in Sydney, 1937. Ex prec.

stars and bars. See gridiron.

star's nap. To borrow (money from): C. 20. Rhyming on tap for, v. p. 865. Mostly theatrical: Franklyn 2nd.

start, n., 3. See queer start.—5. A job, employment: Australian: since ca. 1920. B., 1942. Ex. 3.

start, v., 1 (p. 825), had, in the Navy of late C. 18–mid-19, the more drastic sense, 'to beat with a rope's end', as in W. N. Glascock, The Naval Sketch-Book, I (p. 121), 1825. (Moe.) The corresponding n. is starting, also in Glascock, I, 1825.—2. To start (i.e. begin) to complain or reprimand or abuse or boast or reminisce: coll.: C. 19–20. Thus "When I was your age I was up and about at six in the morning." "Now don't you start," said Paula, Gerald Kersh, Men Are so Ardent, 1935.

start a fowl-roost. See fowl-roost . . .

start in. To start, to begin: Canadian sol. coll.: C. 20. 'Now, don't you start in worrying.' 'He's started in drinking again!' (Leechman.)

start off the button. (Of a car) to begin running immediately: motor trade: since ca. 1918. Press the button and off she goes.

start something, as, e.g., 'Now you've started something!' To set afoot, deliberately or unwittingly, something that will have important or exciting consequences, coll.: adopted (via the cinema) ca. 1938 from U.S.—2. To render a girl pregnant: raffish: since ca. 1940. (A. B. Petch, April 1966.)

starter, 2 (p. 825). Its opposite is stopper, an astringent. These two terms, orig. undergraduates', occur in Compton Mackenzie's Gallipoli Memories, 1929, and date back to the 1890's.—3. (Only starter.) One who frequently changes his occupation or his employer: ea. 1810–80. Sessions, Feb. 1823.

starter's orders, under. See under . . . below.

starting. A reprimand; a beating: proletarian: from ca. 1860; ob. B. & L.

starvation corner. That seat at (esp. the dinner-) table, whose occupant is served last: Army officers': from ca. 1885.

starve, do a (p. 826), is also Australian. (Kylie Tennant, The Honey Flow, 1956.)

starve the bardies! A W. Australian variant of stone the crows!: C. 20. B., 1942. A bardy is a wood-grub.

starve the lizards! An Australian expletive: C. 20. (Source as for Eovril.) Cf. stone the crows! on p. 834. Also mopokes! and wombats!: B. 1942.

starver. See perisher.—2. A saveloy: Australian: since ca. 1910. B., 1942.

starving mush. See instalment mixture.

stash (p. 826). For discussion of etymology, see Underworld.—4. To hide (something); to put money into a bank account: Canadian: adopted, ca. 1925, ex U.S. 'He's got thousands stashed away!' (Leechman.) Clearly influenced by 'to cache'.—5. Hence (?). to place: adopted, ca. 1944, ex U.S. Nicholas Blake, The Sad Variety, 1964, 'Well, Leake stashed the wheel in the car park.'

stat. A statutory tenant: landlords' and property speculators': since ca. 1954. See the quotation at schwarz above.

stat dec. A statutory declaration: Australian spoken, esp. legal and journalistic: since ca. 1940. (B.P.)

State of Independence. Variant of states of independence (p. 826): 1821, P. Egan, Life in London.

State secret, it's a. A c.p., used by someone refusing to disclose information, however, trivial: since ca. 1933.

station bicycle. A sexually generous girl employed on a R.A.F. station: R.A.F.: since ca. 1940. Cf. the Australian town bike.

station bloke and station master. The police officer in charge of a station: police: since ca. 1920. The Free-Lance Writer, April 1948.

stationmaster. Station Commander: R.A.F.: since ca. 1930. Berrey; H. & P. Ex the railway title.

stave-off. A scratch meal: coll.: from ca. 1880. Binstead.

stay a minute. An estaminet: Army: 1914-18. (Reginald Pound, The Lost Generation, 1964.) By the vivid process of 'Hobson-Jobson'.

stay home. To stay at home: Canadian coll.: since ca. 1920. (Leechman.)

stay-put. One who holds his ground ('stays put'): coll., esp. Australian: since ca. 1950. (B.P.)

stay-tape.—2. A dry-goods clerk or salesman: trade: mid-C. 19-20; ob. B. & L.

staying at Mrs Greenfields'. See 'Hauliers' Slang' and cf. Greenfields (, Mrs).

steady, n. (p. 826, end). In the Navy, 'a man's fiancée or "regular" girl friend' (Granville).

steady, adj. "In the Guards, son, 'Steady' means 'Absolutely lousy'. If you want to sort of spit in a man's eye, call him Steady," Gerald Kersh, They Die with Their Boots Clean, 1941. An extension of S.E. nuance 'dependable but slow'.—2. Easy-going; 'decent': non-Guards units of the Army: since ca. 1939. (P-G-R.)

steady, Barker! A c.p. dating from ca. 1941. Adopted from the Navy's version of the B.B.C. radio-programme, 'Merry-Go-Round'. Steady, Barker! is an adaptation of that evergreen, steady, the Buffs!, q.v. in the Dict. (E. P. in The Radio Times, Dec. 6, 1946.)

steady, go. See go steady.

steady as a rock, as. Applied to someone hardly 'as steady as a rock': since ca. 1940. (A. B. Petch, March 1966.)

steady man. 'One who is so slow as to be practically useless,' H. & P.: Services: since ca. 1930. Sarcastic. Cf. steady, adj.

steak, two-eyed. See two-eyed steak (Dict.).

steak and bull's eyes. Steak-and-kidney pudding: low eating-house: C. 20. Frank Jennings, Tramping, 1932.

steak and kid. Steak-and-kidney pudding or pie: mostly eating-house employees' and their imitators': since ca. 1910.

Steak and Kidney. Sydney: Australian rhyming s.: C. 20. (B., 1945.)

steak and kidney pie. A theatrical (late C. 19-20) variant of mince pie, eye. (Franklyn, Rhyming.)

steam, n., 4. Also in New Zealand. (B., 1941.) By 1945, no longer low. (B.P.)—5. Hence, any wine: Aus.: since ca. 1945. Nino Culotta, Cop This Lot, 1960.

steam, v. To work hard and pertinently: R.A.F.: since ca. 1928. Jackson. To bring from 'steaming' to 'boiling'. Cf. next entry.

steam, v.—2. To work at high pressure; to hustle oneself: Naval: since ca. 1930.

steam, like. Fast, vigorously; easily; excellently: Australian coll.: since ca. 1920. Lawson Glassop, We Were the Rats, 1944, 'We reefed watches and rings off 'em like steam.'

steam, under one's own. Unaided: coll.: C. 20. Prob. ex locomotives not using a shunter. 'I have always thought this, as applied to ships or locomotives and, by extension, any moving or should-be moving object, meant "Damaged but still able to raise enough steam to proceed slowly"' (Leechman, April 1967).

steam boatswain is recorded earlier (in the shorter form) in 'Taffrail'.

steam chickens. Carrier-borne aircraft: Naval: 1943+. (P-G-R.) 'Ex the British invented steam-propelled launching catapult above R.N. carriers?': Ramsey Spencer.

steam pig. Anybody—or, come to that, anything—either not defined or not easily definable: railwaymen's: since ca. 1930. (Railway.)

steam puncher. A steam-driven pinnace: Naval: late C. 19-20; ob. Granville.

steam radio. Radio (sound only): coined by the B.B.C. in 1958, as Mr Val Gielgud tells me; general since ca. 1961. In a sense, radio was outmoded by T.V., much as the steam engine was outmoded by the internal-combustion engine.

steamed-up.—2. Heated; angry: since ca. 1925; Australian by late 1920's (B., 1942).—3. Ready for sexual congress: Canadian: since ca. 1930.

steamer.—2. Mr James Curtis writes (March 1937): 'A steamer can, I think, be differentiated from a mug. A steamer wants something back for his money. He is a bookmaker's or a prostitute's client or a "con."-man's victim.'—3. A dish of stewed kangaroo, flavoured with pork: Australian: late C. 19-20.

steamer ticket. A master mariner's certificate valid only on steamships: nautical coll.: from ca. 1880; ob. William McFee, Sailors of Fortune, 1930. Punning a passenger's ticket on a steamer.

steaming, or scram, bag. A small bag, containing toilet and other necessary gear, drawn from the purser's stores by a sailor suddenly dispatched to a troopship where heavy gear is forbidden: Naval: since the middle 1940's. Probably scram = scramble; steaming perhaps refers to 'in a steaming hurry'.

steaming covers. Wren's knickers: Naval: since early 1940's. From the covers protecting guns when a ship is at sea in heavy weather.

steamy, n. A steam laundry: Glasgow s.—coll.: C. 20. Iain Crawford, Scare the Gentle Citizen, 1966.

steamy side of life, the. A housewife's or washer-woman's life in scullery or wash-house: jocular domestic: C. 20. On seamy side.

steel-chest. A fearless person; a hardened, courageous soldier: Guards': since ca. 1916. Cf. the clichéd hearts of steel.

steel helmet. An Anderson shelter: esp. Londoners': late 1940+. (Mrs C. H. Langford, letter of July 29, 1941.)

steel jockey. A train jumper: Australian: since ca. 1925. B., 1942. He rides free; steel wheels, etc., of the train.

Steele Rudds. Potatoes: Australian rhyming s. (on spuds): C. 20. (B., 1945.) Steele Rudd's On Our Selection and Our New Selection were famous in the Australia of ca. 1900-14 and, indeed, since.

steeler. A steel helmet: Army: 1914+.

steelie or -ly; mostly in pl. steelies. 'Not real marbles, but large ball-bearings' (B.P.): Australian schoolchildren's: since ca. 1920.—2. A steel guitar: since ca. 1955. Ngaio Marsh, Death at the Dolphin, 1967.

steeped. Homosexual in practice or tendency: Society: ca. 1890-1905. The Listener, March 10, 1937. Ex steeped in the higher philosophy.

steeplechaser. 'A "ropey" landing, going across the airstrip in a succession of bounces' (John Bebington): R.A.F.: since the middle 1930's.

steer, v. To pick up (a 'mug'): c.: C. 20.
steer-decorating, since ca. 1945; bull-dogging, ca. 1910-45. A rodeo method of throwing a steer by grasping one horn and the muzzle and twisting the neck: Canadian.

steer small (p. 827) is much earlier: 1806, John Davis, The Post-Captain. (Moe.)

Stella. Egyptian beer: Services in N. Africa: World War II. Ex a well-known brand.

Stella by Starlight. Alliterative nickname for girls named Stella (L. stella, a star): Australian: since ca. 1925. (B.P.)

Stellenbosch; gen. be Stellenbosched. To relegate (a person) to a position where he can do little or no harm; esp. of an officer: military: 1900, Kipling in The Daily Express, June 16 (O.E.D.); very ob. Ex Stellenbosch as a base in the South African War.

stem jack (or J.) 'A small Union Flag flown in the bows of a battleship while the anchor is down' (Granville): Naval coll.: C. 20.

stenoggy. A stenographer: (esp. girl) clerks': since ca. 1925. (W. B. M. Ferguson, London Lamb, 1939.)

step, n.—4. See gradus (Dict.).

step1, mind your, has, since ca. 1940, been commoner than mind the step, q.v. at step, mind the, on p. 828. By 1960, the was virtually †.

step below. See 'Die'.

step-ins. Women's knickers that require no fastening: since ca. 1918: feminine coll. >, by 1940, S.E. Cf. pull-ons (Dict.).

step it. See step, v., 1, in Dict.

step out (p. 828) goes right back as far as 1806: John Davis, The Post-Captain. (Moe.)

stepney. A white-slaver's fancy girl: white-slave c.: C. 20. (A. Londres translated, 1928.) Mr John Yeowell, in The Daily Telegraph of March 9, 1967, suggests that stepney perhaps = Stepney, short for a presumed Stepney Green, rhyming s. on quean, a prostitute. But Julian Franklyn, the authority on Cockney slang, thinks it comes from stepney, a spare wheel carried on a motor car. The latter seems to be the more probable.

stepper.—5. A smart, good-looking girl: mostly Cockney: C. 20; ob. by 1940. (A Neil Lyons, Clara, 1912.)

stepping it, vbl n. See step, v., 2, in Dict.

steps, up the. At the Old Bailey: c.: late C. 19-20.—2. Hence, committed to Sessions or Assizes: c.: C. 20. F. D. Sharpe, 1938.

sterks, give (someone) the. To annoy, to infuriate; to render low-spirited: Australian: since ca. 1920. Prob. sterks = sterics = hysterics.

sterky. Afraid, frightened: Australian: since ca. 1939. Jean Devaney, By Tropic Sea and Jungle, 1944, 'He's a bit sterky, too'; B., 1953, says that it comes ex stercoraceous, faecal; perhaps rather ex the preceding entry.

stern (p. 828) is applied also to a hound: hunting: mid-C. 19-20. (Sir W. B. Thomas, Hunting England, 1936.)

stern approach. Venus aversa: educated bawdy: since ca. 1945.

stern over appetite. Head over heels: Australian: since ca. 1930. Dal Stivens, Jimmy Brockett, 1951, 'I hit him on the chin and he went stern over appetite.'

stern-perisher. See bum-freezer, 2, which obviously suggested it.

stew, n.—3. A 'fixed' boxing match or horse race: Australian sporting: since ca. 1920. (B., 1943.)—4. Hence a case framed against a serviceman: Australian servicemen's: 1939-45. (B., 1953.)

stewed prune. A tune: rhyming: late C. 19-20.

stewkeeper. An Army cook: Australian soldiers': 1939-45. (B., 1943.)

stews. Fellows, chaps, strictly if crowded together or closely associated: Canadian: adopted, early in C. 20, ex U.S. From 'students'. (Jack Munroe, Mopping Up!, 1918.)

stewy (of tea) that has stewed too long: Australian coll.: since ca. 1920. (Margaret Trist, 1944.)

stick, n.—13. Short for joy-stick, 1 (p. 445): R.A.F. coll.: since ca. 1925. Jackson.—14. (Ex sense 9: p. 828.) A wireless mast: R.A.F.: since ca. 1930. Sgt G. Emanuel, letter of March 29, 1945.—15. Short for sticky-beak (p. 831): Australian: since ca. 1930. B., 1942.—16. Short for stick of bombs, 'the entire load released in one operation so that the bombs hit the ground in a straight line' (Jackson): R.A.F. coll.: since ca. 1939.—17. See shill.—18. A small glass of beer: since ca. 1925. Cf. finger of spirits.—19. A ladder: builders': late C. 19-20. Jocular.—20. A log: Australian sawmills': late C. 19-20. K. S. Prichard, Working Bullocks, 1926; Kylie Tennant, Lost Haven, 1947, 'Great yokes of bullocks... dragging the "sticks" from the forests'. Ex sense 9 (p. 828).—21. A column of newsprint: journalistic: C. 20.—22. A two-up 'kip': Australian: since ca. 1910. (B., 1943.)—23. Penis: (?) C. 17-20. Cf. the archaic Fr. verge.

Sense 9 (p. 828) occurs, along with the variant sense 'a spar', in W. N. Glascock, Sailors and Saints, 1829. (Moe.)

Of sense 21, Dr Leechman, in April 1967, writes: 'When I was setting type by hand (ca. 1910) a stick of type was about thirteen lines, which was all my composing stick would hold. When the stick was full the contents were transferred to a galley. An unimportant news item was quickly disposed of: "Don't give it more than a stick," the editor would say.'

stick, a bit of. A (heavy) shelling: Army: 1940+. Cf. stonk.

stick, get the.—2. To receive a severe shelling, or to be otherwise 'punished': Army, esp. 'Kitchener's Army': W.W.I. Ex the schoolboys get the stick, to be caned. (A. B. Petch.)

stick, knock away a. To hit, with cannon fire, the masts or yards of an enemy ship: Naval officers': ca. 1800-40. Fredk Marryat, The King's Own, 1834, on p. 112 of the 1896 edition. (Moe.) Cf. stick, n., 9, in Dict.

stick, on the, adv. and adj. (Of a conductor) using the baton: musical coll.: C. 20.

stick, up the.—2. Pregnant: low, esp. Cockneys' and North of England, from ca. 1920. Cf. up the pole.

stick (someone) a length. To reprimand, or to punish, severely: Army: since ca. 1925. (P.-G.-R.)

stick (someone) for (a thing, a price or charge). To charge someone too much; make someone pay so much: C. 20.

stick in, v.i. To work steadily at one's job; to keep it: Glasgow coll.: C. 20. MacArthur & Long.

stick in it, with a (p. 829). 'To "put a stick" in a soft drink is to add a slug of whisky or other hard liquor. I first met it in about 1910.' (Leechman.)

stick in the mud occurs as coll. nickname as early as: Sessions, 7th session, 1733, 'James Baker, alias, Stick-in-the-Mud'.

stick it!—2. A contemptuous exclamation to a person; 'Oh, buzz off!': low: late C. 19–20. I.e. up your anus. Also stick it up your jumper! and—a low Australian variant, addressed only to males—stick it up your cunt!: the former, since the late 1930's; the latter, since ca. 1935.

stick it into. To ask (someone) for a loan or other favour: Australian: since ca. 1910. (B., 1943.) stick it, Jerry! An Army c.p. of ca. 1914–18. It has nothing to do with Jerry, 'a German (soldier)'; Lew Lake, the Cockney comedian († Nov. 5, 1939), originated a sketch, 'The Bloomsbury Burglars', featuring Nobbler and Jerry; as Nobbler, he would, as they hurled missiles at off-stage policemen, shout to his partner, 'Stick it, Jerry!' Daily Express, Nov. 6, 1939.

stick it in (p. 829). Earlier in W. T. Moncrieff, Tom and Jerry, 1821, in v.t. form (. . . into).—3. To work hard and fast: Australian: C. 20. B., 1942.

stick it on. To strike (someone): low (? originally c.): since ca. 1945. (Norman.) stick like shit to a blanket. To be very sticky: low coll.: late C. 19–20.

stick one's neck out. To ask for trouble: since the early 1930's: perhaps originally Army. (P-G-R.) By exposing one's head.

stick out, 2 (p. 829), occurs in two Canadian similes that verge upon c.p. status: he sticks (or stuck) out like a sore thumb (polite) and . . . like the balls on a bulldog: since ca. 1920.

stick-slinger (p. 829) is also late C. 19–20 Australian. (B., 1943.) stick to.—2. To retain; hold (something) back: coll.: Feb. 7, 1845, Sessions.

stick-up, n.—2. A delay; a quandary: Australian: C. 20. B., 1942. Ex stick up, v., 5 (Dict.).—3. (Ex stick up, v.) A hold-up robbery; to hold up and rob: Canadian coll.: adopted, the v., ca. 1930; the n., ca. 1941; ex U.S. Also Australian: B., 1943.

stick up, as v. See sticks, up, in Dict.

stick up for (p. 830). Earlier example found in Anon., A History of Van Diemen's Land, 1835, at p. 271.

stick up goods. To obtain them on credit: Australian: since ca. 1910. Baker. Ex stick-up, v., 4 (Dict.).

stickem. Cement or gum: fair-grounds': C. 20. 'He had grafted the tubed stickem for years. (He had sold a special cement in tubes, used for sticking on rubber soles and dozens of other household repairs.):' W. Buchanan-Taylor, Shake It Again, 1943.

sticker.—10. A butcher: proletarian coll.: from ca. 1840. B. & L. Ex S.E. sticker, a slaughterman.—11. A small, sticky-backed poster: coll.: C. 20.—12. Usually pl. stickers, such goods in short supply as are slow in coming from manufacturers or wholesalers: trade: since ca. 1941.—13. (Sticker.) The Navy's nickname for anyone surnamed 'Leach' or 'Leech': C. 20. One of the inseparable nicknames.—14. A paperhanger: builders': late C. 19–20.—15. An awkward or difficult question asked by a member of the public: Canadian librarians': since ca. 1920. (Leechman.)

sticking, or dead stick. A contretemps in which all the actors get muddled: theatrical: from ca. 1860; the former, very ob. B. & L.

sticks. Naval use of sense 8: earlier in 'Taff-rail'.—10. (The sticks.) The outback: adopted, ca. 1945, ex U.S. "'People will think that you come from the sticks" is often heard from parents admonishing their children' (B.P.). Cf. bush, n., 6, and mulga madness, both above. Dr Douglas Leechman, however, recalls that, 'When I was in south Wales, at Llanstefan, it was quite common for the people of the village to gather in the evenings to sing together in "the sticks", by which they meant a patch of trees just below the ruined castle. And that was some seventy years ago, but I can still hear them.'

Sense 3 (p. 830): earlier in W. N. Glascock, Sailors and Saints (I, 178), 1829. Moe.

sticks, (as) cross as two (p. 830): 'still common in Australia' (B.P., 1965).

sticks, knock all to. See sticks, beat all to (Dict.).

sticks and stones. One's household goods and possessions: proletarian coll.: mid-C. 19–20. B. & L.

sticks and whistles. A parade of warders coming on duty for the day: prison coll.: C. 20. They are inspected, to see whether they are carrying their batons and whistles. (Norman.)

sticky, n., 3 (p. 831): since late 1940's, usu. cellulose tape (Sellotape, Scotch tape, etc.).—4. A 'sticky', i.e. damp and difficult, pitch: cricketers' coll., esp. Australian: C. 20.—5. A free pass on the buses: London busmen's: since ca. 1930.—6. A 'sticky beak': Australian: since ca. 1930. (B.P.) sticky, adj.—6. Inquisitive: Australian: C. 20. B., 1942. Cf. stick, n., 15.

sticky, have a. To have an inquisitive look-round: Australian: since ca. 1935. (B.P.) sticky, play. To hold fast to one's money or goods; esp. of one who has recently done well: since ca. 1920. Cf. sticky, adj., 3 (p. 831).

sticky-beak, v. To pry; to snoop: Australian: since ca. 1930. Margaret Trist, 1944, 'They only come to sticky-beak'. Ex the n. (on p. 831).

sticky-fingered. Thievish; covetous: proletarian: from ca. 1870. B. & L.

sticky on. See sticky at (Dict.).

stiff, n.—11. (p. 831). Earlier in 'Ouida', The Massarenes, 1897. (P. Gaskell).—12. A non-tipper: ships' stewards': C. 20. Dave Marlowe, 1937. Cf. sense 6.—13. A police summons: Australian low: C. 20. B., 1942. Cf. sense 1 (p. 831). On stiff paper.

stiff, adj.—6. Hard, severe towards someone: Australian: since ca. 1910. B., 1942.

stiff as a crutch. See crutch . . .

stiff blade. See 'Tavern terms', § 2; cf. the modern stout fellow (Dict.).

stiff-box. Obituary list in newspaper: Australian journalistic: since ca. 1915. B., 1942. Ex stiff, n., 5 (Dict.).

stiff for. Certain for, certain to win: Australian sporting: since ca. 1920. Baker. Ex stiff, adj., 3 (Dict.).

stiff-rump, n. (p. 831) is coll. rather than s. and the date should read 'late C. 17-early 19'; it is recorded, as an adj., in B.E., 1699.

stiff 'un.—3. A ticket already cancelled: bus-men's: C. 20. Cf. sense 2 (p. 831).—4. An erection: schoolboys': late C. 19–20.

stiffen, v.—To swindle (someone); usually in passive: Australian: since ca. 1920. Baker.

stiffen the crows—lizards—snakes! An Australian exclamation: C. 20. Baker.

stiffened, get, is the usual passive of stiffen, 4: B., 1943.

stiffener.—2. A punch or blow that renders one unconscious: mid-C. 19–20.—3. A cigarette card: C. 20. Originally inserted to stiffen paper packets of cigarettes.—4. A (very) boring person: R.A.F. (mostly officers)': since ca. 1937. Jackson, 'He bores you to death, i.e., stiff.'

stifficat or -cut. Certificate: sol.: C. 20.

stiffier.—3. A dram of strong spirit: Anglo-Irish: C. 19. 'A Real Paddy', Real Life in Ireland, 1822. It takes one's breath away.

stift. One—usually a male—who won't work: Romanies' s.: since ca. 1920. (Robert M. Dawson.) Ex stift, n., 7 and perhaps 8 (p. 831).

still alive and kissing. A c.p. applied to the sexy: since ca. 1955. A pun on still alive and kicking.

still in a bottle of stout, often particularized as . . . a bottle of Guinness. (Of a person) unborn: smokerom wit: since ca. 1945. Ex the body-building virtues of good stout.

still running—like Charley's Aunt. A c.p., implying the durability of the evergreen and applied esp. to plays and films: C. 20. Ex the continuing popularity of that verdant farce.

still sow.—2. See 'Harlots'.

stimmt. See 'Prisoner-of-War Slang', opening paragraph.

sting, n. Penis: lowish: late C. 19–20. Cf. prick, 3 (Dict.).—2. Dope, esp. if by hypodermic, administered to a horse; hence give (it) a sting: Australian sporting: since ca. 1945.—3. Strong drink: Australian: C. 20. (K. S. Prichard, Coonardoo, 1920.) Ex stingo.

sting, v.—6. To inoculate with a hypodermic: Services s. (— 1930) >, by 1940, coll. H. & P.

stingah. An occ. spelling, the usual pronunciation, and the orig. form (ex Malay setengah, half) of:

stinger.—3. A small drink, at any time of the day: Singapore: from ca. 1890.—4. A brakeman: Canadian (and U.S.) railroadmen's (— 1931).

stink, 2, is also a fight.

stink-pot.—3. A motor-car: ca. 1898–1914. (Maxwell Gray, The Great Refusal, 1906.)—4. A small firework: Australian: C. 20. (B., 1943.)

stinker, 5 (p. 832), began as London, esp. boxing, s.: 1821, Pierce Egan, Life in London.—9. A sultry or very hot, humid day: Australian: C. 20. B., 1942. Also stonkers.—10. Mostly in pl., stinkers, R.A.M.C. laboratory workers: R.A.M.C.: since ca. 1915.—11. A police informer: low Australian: since ca. 1920. (B., 1943.)—12. The Blue-Winged Shoveller: Australian: since ca. 1910. (B., 1943.)—13. A delayed wagon 'remaining for several days in a marshalling yard' (Railway): railwaymen's: C. 20. Cf. stale, adj., above.

Sense 7 was 'used rather earlier by Kipling in "Regelus": "The next passage was what was technically"—read "slangily"—"known as a stinker"—hence, presumably in use in Kipling's schooldays, c. 1875' (Robert Clairborne).

Stinker, the. A fortune-telling device, often called 'the Mystic Writer' or 'the Gypsy Queen':

grafters': from ca. 1910. Philip Allingham, in Cheappack, 1934, describes it at pp. 303–4.

stinkeroo. A poor show-place (town, etc.), with few customers: Canadian carnival s.: since ca. 1920. It 'stinks'. Contrast lulu.

stinkibus.—2. (Ex sense 1.) 'A cargo of spirits that had lain under water so long as to be spoiled,' John Davidson, Baptist Lake, 1896: smugglers': C. 19.

stinking, adj., 3 (p. 833). By 1939, general middle-class s.: cf. (e.g.) P.-G.-R. Also Australian: D'Arcy Niland, Call Me . . ., 1958.

stinking with (esp. money). Possessed of much (e.g. money): coll.: since ca. 1916. Cf. lousy with (Dict.).

stinko, n. Liquor; esp., wine: Australian: since ca. 1925. D'Arcy Niland, Call Me When the Cross Turns Over, 1958, 'This is a little bottle of stinko to go with it'. Cf. the adj.

stinko, adj. Exceedingly drunk: mostly clerks': from ca. 1928. Ex stinking drunk on blotto. Hence stinko paralytico, as in Evelyn Waugh's Put Out More Flags, 1942, and stinko profundo, as in Terence Rattigan's play While the Sun Shines, 1943. (Peter Sanders.)

stinks (p. 833). "Stinks" for chemistry is relegated to readers of mediocre school stories': New Society, Aug. 22, 1963, article 'From the blackboard jungle'.

stinksman. See stinkman (Dict.).

stinkubus. See stinkibus (Dict.).

stinky.—2. A cheap baked-clay marble: Australian children's: late C. 19–20. Baker.

stipe.—2. Hence (?), a stipendiary race-course steward: Australian sporting: C. 20. B., 1942. By 1930, also British. "'Stipe" is short for stipendiary steward or stewards' secretary': John Lawrence, in The Sunday Telegraph, Aug. 13, 1961.

stir, n., 2 (p. 833). Also, since ca. 1920, Army s. for detention. H. & P.

stir-happy. Adversely affected by prison-life, whether at the time or afterwards: since ca. 1940 (see Underworld): orig. c., but by 1950 also police s. John Gosling, 1959.

stir it up!, often accompanied by a mime of stirring a huge cauldron. A third party's remark upon, and stimulation, of a quarrel either brewing or already in progress: c.p.: since ca. 1955. (Atkinson.)

stir shit out of. To scold bitterly: reprimand severely: New Zealand: since ca. 1940. 'Wait till I get hold of him! I'll stir shit out of him.'

Stitch. See 'Nicknames'.

stitch, n.—3. Elliptical for stitch of canvas: nautical, esp. Naval, coll.: since ca. 1790; by 1850, S.E. W. N. Glascock, Sketch-Book, I, 1825, 'Standing out on a wind, with every stitch they could crack.' Moe.

stitch, v. 'To overcome, to beat in a fight or contest' (B., 1953): Australian: since ca. 1930. Probably suggested by sewed-up, 5 (p. 747).

stitched. Topsy: Services: since ca. 1925. H. & P.—2. Beaten, defeated: Australian: since ca. 1920. B., 1942. All sewn up.

stizzle.—2. To cane (a boy): Tonbridge: since ca. 1870. Marples, 'Origin obscure': ? a blend of stick + sizzle.

stoat. A virile person, esp. male and mostly in fuck like a stoat, frequently and athletically: low coll.: since ca. 1870.

stocious. Variant of stotious.

stock-sick is, in sense, a more general variant of sheep-sick: B., 1943.

stockbanger; stockbanging. A stockman; mustering (e.g. cattle): Australian: C. 20. Archer Russell, In Wild Australia, 1934. Cf. cattle banger.

Stockbrokers' Belt, the. See Gin and Jaguar Belt above. Also stockbroker belt, the.

stockbroker's taxi. A 'showy' motorcar, e.g. the Jaguar: since ca. 1960. The New Statesman, Feb. 5, 1965.

Stockbrokers' Tudor. Bogus Tudor architecture: since ca. 1950; by 1960, coll.; by 1966, virtually S.E. Cf. North Oxford Gothic above. (Peter Sanders.)

stocking-soles gun. A canon with high-velocity shell: Army: 1914-18. Cf. stocking-foot (p. 834).

stodge, n., 3: recorded earlier by B. & L.—Sense 5: ib., as c. This sense—also as 'extra food'—existed at Rugby School as early as 1880. As the Stodge, it = the School shop, where one can buy extra food: since ca. 1925. Ex stodge, n., 3. (D. F. Wharton, Oct. 24, 1965.)

stodger, 4 (p. 834). Also Tonbridge.

stodgery. See stodger, 2, in Dict.

stogy (p. 834). Since 1800, the preferred spelling of the place-name has been Conestoga.

stoked. Thrilled, as in 'He's stoked on [or about] surfing: Australian teenagers': esp. surfers': since the late 1950's. (Pix, Sept. 28, 1963.) Semantically 'hot and excited'.

stokehold bosun. Warrant Engineer of the Engine-Room: Naval: since 1925. Granville.

stokes. 'Anyone employed in the stoking side of the ship,' H. & P.: Navy: C. 20.

[stolen ken*, a broker's shop: old c., according to B. & L. But the whole entry is suspect. So is their stomp drawers, stockings.]

stom Jack. See stomjack (Dict.).

stomach, feel butterflies in the (or one's). To experience tremors, either of excitement or of apprehension—or of both: aircrews': 1940 +; by 1948, fairly gen.

stomacher. An apple that produces a stomach-ache: lower classes', esp. children's: C. 20.

stomp. To dance: Australian teenagers', esp. surfies': since ca. 1956. Ex U.S. dial. stomp, to stomp one's feet, walk heavily. Hence stomping, n. and adj., dancing. (In, e.g., Sunday Mirror, Sept. 22, 1963.) Hence also stomp, a dance; whence stomp hall, a dance hall.

stomping, n. and adj. See preceding.

stomping ground. A 'stamping ground'—one's habitat or district or milieu: Australian teenagers', esp. surfies': since ca. 1959. Cf. stomp, v., above.

stone, n.—5. A drug-taking, esp. of one of the less harmful drugs: addicts': since ca. 1955. (Alan Diment, The Dolly Dolly Spy, 1963.) Cf. stones, 2, below.

stone is a common Australian coll. intensive, sometimes adjectival and sometimes adverbial; as in stone cert, a dead-certainty, and its synonym, stone moral, and stone motherless broke, penniless and alone: late C. 19-20. (B., 1942-3.) stone and a beating, give a (p. 834), probably arose a generation earlier: cf. G. Lawrence, Sword and Gown, 1859, 'I could give him 21 lb., and a beating, any day.' (Dr D. Pechtold.)

stone-blinder. A sure winner: horse-racing: since ca. 1910. Arthur J. Sarl, Gamblers, 1938. Cf. stone-ginger (p. 834).

stone-bonker. A variant of stone blinder: since ca. 1945. 'Stone-bonker certainties' occurs in Leslie Frewin's editing, The Boundary Book, 1962.

stone-fence. A drink of whiskey with nothing added: ca. 1870-1910. B. & L., at neat; at stone-fence, however, it is defined as 'brandy and ale'.

stone finish, the. The very end: Australian coll.: C. 20. (Kylie Tennant, Lost Haven, 1947.)

stone frigates. 'Naval Barracks or Shore Establishments; . . . usually named after the old frigates' (P-G-R.): Naval coll.: late C. 19-20.

Stone House, the. Prison: since ca. 1930. (B.B.C., Sept. 22, 1963.)

stone-jug, 2 (p. 834): † by 1960. Franklyn 2nd.

stone mel An English variant, since ca. 1920, of stone the crows!

stone tavern. See stone jug (Dict.).

stone the crows! Prob. since mid-C. 19. Also, since ca. 1918, current in England, esp. among Cockneys, as in 'Cor, stone the crows!'

stoned. Very drunk: adopted, ca. 1950, ex U.S.—2. Drug-exhilarated: (mostly teenage) drug addicts': adopted, ca. 1960, ex U.S. Peter Fryer, in The Observer colour supplement of Dec. 3, 1967, defines it as 'very high on cannabis'.

stones, off the; on the stones. Outside London; in London: coll.: ca. 1830-80. Bulwer Lytton, 1841 (off the stones); Surtees, 1858, 'They now get upon the stones.' Ex the hardness of London streets.

stones, on the.—2. See prec.—3. Engaged in selling hired paintings from a pavement pitch or series of pitches: peddlers' and street vendors': since ca. 1925 (prob. much earlier). Michael Fane, Racecourse Swindlers, 1936. Hence:—4. Selling goods laid out on the pavement, not from a stall: peddlers' and street vendors': since ca. 1910. 'Originally Caledonian market, now anywhere' (Julian Franklyn, 1962). Cf. the next.

Stones, the. The Caledonian Market, London: pitch-holders': late C. 19-20. (Jane Brown, I Had a Pitch on the Stones, 1946.) Ex the cobblestones that characterized the Market, which closed ca. 1954.—2. 'A 20-mile belt of desert between Mechili and Msus entirely covered with boulders; the most uncomfortable "going" in Libya' (Peter Sanders in The Sunday Times magazine, Sept. 10, 1967): Army in North Africa: 1940-43.

Stoneyhurst slang. Marples lists atramentarius, a 'fag'; bonk, bunker, a cad; cob, to 'cop' (take); crow, a master; haggory, 'a garden used for discussion . . . from agora, market-place'; heavy, important (or self-important), impressive; oil, to take (a culprit) by surprise, and oilers, rubber-soled shoes; pin, to enjoy—hence pinning or pin-nable, enjoyable; shouting cake, a currant cake; squash, a football scrum; stew, to 'swot'; swiz, a crib; taps, a caning; tolly, an improvised cane.

stonies. Marbles made of stone: Australian children's coll.: C. 20. (B.P.)

stonk, n. A heavy shelling, as in 'giving 'em a stonk' (or 'a bit of stick'): Army: 1940 +. (P-G-R.; L. Marshland Gander, After Many Quests, 1949.) Cf.:

stonked, be. To be shelled (by artillery): Army: 1940 +. Echoic.

stonker. See stinker, 9. stonkered, be.—2. Hence, to be outwitted: Australian: since ca. 1918. B., 1942.—3. Hence, to be in a fix, a dilemma: Australian and New Zealand soldiers': 1939-45. (J. H. Fullarton, Troop Target, 1942.) Now general throughout Australasia. (B.P., 1963.) But the v. stonker is also used actively, as in 'He stepped on a bloody mine. Stonkered the poor bastard properly' (Slatter): New Zealand: since ca. 1917.—4. To be dead drunk. Aus.: since mid 1940's. (F. B. Vickers, First Place to the Stranger, 1955.)

stony blind. Blind-drunk: Australian: since ca. 1920. Vance Palmer, The Passage, 1930.

stooge, n. A learner (as in 'Q learner') at a divisional or a corps H.Q. in the Army: since ca. 1935. E. P., 'In Mess and Field'—The New Statesman, Aug. 1, 1942. Either ex student or perhaps ex U.S. stooge, a comedian's butt or a conjurer's assistant, a 'feed', itself either ex stool pigeon via studious (mispronounced stew-djus) or ex student.—2. Hence, a deputy; a stand-in: since late 1940. H. & P.—3. Hence, 'an over-willing chap' (H. & P.): since early 1941.—4. 'A second-rater, one without importance,' Jackson: since late 1941. Ex sense 1.—5. (Ex sense 1.) 'One of our own sentries to warn escape workers whenever ferrets [ferret in Supplement] approached,' Paul Brickhill & Conrad Norton, Escape to Danger, 1946: prisoners-of-war in Germany: 1940-5.—6. 'A select social gathering in a study' (Marples): Lancing College: since mid-1930's. Perversion of study.—7. Hard work: Reading undergraduates' (—1940). Marples, 2. Cf. sense 1.—8. A servile underling: Australian: since ca. 1945. (B.P.) stooge, v. To fly over the same old ground as before; esp. to be on patrol: R.A.F.: since 1938. H. & P. Ex sense 1 of the n.

stooge, put in a. To act as a spare man (i.e. standing by) to a bomber crew: Air Force: since 1940. Cecil Lewis, Pathfinders, 1943. See stooge, n., 2.

stooge around. To 'hang about', waiting to land (1940 +); hence (also about), 'to idle about, on the ground, or in the air' (Jackson): R.A.F.: since 1940. The Observer, Oct. 4, 1942, 'We stooged about a bit above our target'. Cf. prec. entry and stooge, n., 4.—2. Also, with variant stooge about, a synonym of stooge, v.: since 1938 or 1939. Partridge, 1945.—3. As in stooging.

stooge pilot. A pilot engaged on flying-training 'planes carrying untrained navigators and/or gunners: R.A.F.: 1940 +, Robert Hinde, March 17, 1945.

stooging. 'General for non-operational flying,' Sgt. Pilot F. Rhodes, letter of Sept. 20, 1942.

stook.—2. Gen. in stook, in trouble: orig. and mostly Australian: from ca. 1920.—3. A cigarette: Australian R.M.C., Duntroon: since ca. 1920 (?). B., 1953. Ex shape.

Sense 2 is also London proletarian of late C. 19-20. 'From Yiddish, where it means "difficulties" and is pronounced stooch. "He took all the money and left Abe in stooch,"' (Julian Franklyn, 1962.)

stook-buzzer or -hauler. See stook (Dict.).

stool, three-legged. See three-legged stool (Dict.).

stool-pigeon.—3. A cardsharp's decoy: c.: from ca. 1880.

stoolie. An informer to the police: Australian c. >, ca. 1946, low. Adopted, ca. 1939, ex U.S. Ruth Park, The Harp in the South, 1948. Cf.:

stoolie job. An informer's or a spy's giving of information to the police: since ca. 1930: c. >, by 1940, low s. From U.S.: see 'stoolie' in Underworld.

stoop, n.—3. A petty thief: Australian c.: since ca. 1920. B., 1942.

stoop-napper. See stoop, n. (Dict.).

stooper. A cigarette-end picked off the street: London: since ca. 1930.

stop, v.—2. In a fisticuffs fight, to knock out; to kill (a quarry): Australian: C. 20. B., 1942.

stop, on the. 'Picking pockets when the party is standing still': c.: mid-C. 19-20. B. & L. Cf. stop lay, q.v.

stop a rocket. See rocket.

stop it, Horace! From ca. 1930, a c.p. 'shouted in a squeaky, semi-lisping, high-pitched voice after any refined-looking "delicate" young man: it does not mean Stop anything'. Prob. ex a 'gag' by George Robey.

stop it—I like it! A c.p., mostly in reference to giggling teenage girls pretending, not too long nor very convincingly, that they dislike their boy friends' caresses: since ca. 1920—if not a decade or two earlier.

stop laughing! Stop complaining! Australian ironic c.p.: since ca. 1920. (B., 1953; Jon Cleary, Back of Sunset, 1959.)

stop(-)lay, the. Pocket-picking by two confederates, of whom one stops the victim and engages him in conversation and the other robs him: c.: mid-C. 19-20. B. & L.

stop me if you have (or you've) heard this one. A c.p. by an imminent 'story'-teller: since ca. 1930.

stop off, v.t. To desist from, to cease doing or making: New Zealand: since ca. 1880. 'Stop that row, Tommy... stop it off.' G. B. Lancaster, Sons o' Men, 1904.

stop one.—2. To take a drink of liquor: Australian: C. 20. K. S. Prichard, Coonardoo, 1929. Archer Russell, Gone Nomad, 1936. Cf. stop a pot (p. 935).

stop-out, n. A person given to stopping out late at night: coll.: late C. 19-20. (B., 1942.)

stop out, v.—2. To go sick: Charterhouse: C. 20. (Peter Sanders.)

stop the show. To hold up the performance because of the loud, continuous applause for one's own acting: theatrical coll.: late C. 19-20.

Stop-the-Way Company, the. The Hudson's Bay Company: Canadian coll.: ca. 1840-90. Francis Francis, Newton Dogvane, 1959, but in a passage written in 1852. At one time, retrograde.

stop up. To study late: Charterhouse coll.: C. 20. (Peter Sanders.)

stop where you are. A friar bird: Australian: C. 20. Baker. Echoic.

stop your tickling (, Jock)! See tickling . . .

stopper. See starter. Sense 1 (p. 835): earlier in W. N. Glascock, Sketch-Book, I, 1825, 'He claps a stopper on all our proceedings.' Moe.

stopper with the dog. 'In bringing up a ship in bad weather, they 'seamen'—'stopper with the dog' (W. N. Glascock, Sketch-Book, II (31), 1826: Naval: ca. 1790-1850. (Moe.)

stoppo. A 'spello'—or rest from work: C. 20. Jim Phelan, Lifer, 1938.

store, the. A branch store of a co-operative society: coll.: C. 20. Cf. co-op, 1 (Dict.).

store-basher. An Equipment assistant: R.A.F.: since ca. 1925. H. & P. Cf. instrument-basher. store-basher's Bible, the. Air Publication No. 830, vol. 1 being Equipment Regulations; 11, Storage and Packing; III, Scales of R.A.F. Equipment: R.A.F.: since ca. 1930. Jackson; Part-ridge, 1945.

storm and strife. Canadian variant of trouble and strife (Dict.).

storm(-)stick. An umbrella: Australian jocular: since ca. 1925. B., 1942.

stormen. 'A hot member of society': Society: ca. 1880-1910. B. & L. Prob. ex storm.

story with, do the. To copulate with (a woman): prostitutes' c.: C. 18. Select Trials from 1720 to 1724, pub. in 1734.

stotious. Late C. 19-20 (but very ob. by 1937), as in Robert Lynd, 'It's Good to Speak Slang' in The News Chronicle, Feb. 20, 1937: 'Slang also appeals to our elementary sense of humour, as when we say of a man who is drunk that he is "well-oiled"', "stotious", "blind to the world", or "full up inside with tiddley".' An artificial word: cf. goloptions (Dict.).

stoush, v. See p. 836.—2. Hence, to hit, to punch: Australian: since ca. 1925. (B., Australia Speaks, 1953.)

stoush! also, derivatively, South African (C. 20), esp. as 'to hit, strike'.

stoush, put in the. To fight vigorously, spiritedly, esp. with the fists: Australian: since ca. 1910. B., 1942. See stoush, p. 836.

Stoush, the Big. World War I, Australian: since ca. 1919. (B., 1943.)

stoush merchant. A boxer; one good with his fists; a bully: Australian: since ca. 1918. Baker.

stout fellow (p. 836). Cf. stout, Eton s. for 'strong and expert' (e.g. a stout bowler): Spy, 1825.

Stove-Makers, or Stovies, the. 'Metters foot-ballers, Sydney': since ca. 1925. (B., 1943.)

stove up, v.; stove-up, n. To disinfect—the disinfecting of—clothes in a casual ward: tramps' c.: from ca. 1919. Also bake up, v., and bake-up, n. Ex the disinfector, which resembles a stove.

stow it! (p. 836): 'very much alive in Australia' (B.P., 1965).

stowaway. A pocket-sized magazine: book-world and newsgagents': since ca. 1939.

stomarket. See stow magging (Dict.).

strafe, n.—4. (Prob. ex senses 1, 2: p. 836.) An efficiency campaign: R.A.F.: since ca. 1930. 'The C.O. is going to have a gas-mask strafe.' (Robert Hinde, letter of March 17, 1945.)

Strafer. Lieutenant-General Gott, one-time commander of the 8th Army: 1939+. Ex the song Gott strafe England. 'He was killed when the R.A.F. plane in which he was a passenger was shot down in 1943' (Peter Sanders).

stragglng money (p. 836) goes back to ca. 1800. W. N. Glascock, Sketch-Book, II, 1826, 'The sogers were looking out sharp for their "stragglng money".' Moe.

straight, adj.—7. (Of spirits) undiluted, neat: Canadian coll.: adopted, ca. 1880, ex U.S.; by ca. 1942, also English, 'I'll take mine straight, thanks.' (Leechman.)—8. Not homosexual: British and American homosexuals': C. 20.—9. Not using drugs: addicts' and hippies' and their like: since ca. 1960. Peter Fryer in The Observer colour supplement, Dec. 3, 1967.

straight, on the. See straight, in the: Dict.

straight and level. See get some straight . . .

straight and narrow, the. The straight and narrow path of virtue or honour: coll.: since ca. 1925. 'Sometimes misapprehended as "the straight and narrow path between right and wrong"' (Leechman).

straight banana. A joke c.p. among green-grocers (re selling) and gardeners (re growing): mostly Cockney's: from ca. 1910.

straight from the bog. A c.p. applied, in late C. 19-20, to a crude Irishman.

straight from the horse's mouth. (Of information, news, etc.) genuine, authentic, correct: sporting s. (since ca. 1830) >, by 1900, coll. Ex Stable Yard, the, q.v. See Aldington's Wellington, 1946.

straight goer. A dependable—esp. an honest—person: Australian coll.: since ca. 1925. (Caddie, 1953.)

straight-hair. A convict: West Australian: ca. 1840-70. B., 1942.—2. A West Australian: since ca. 1870. Baker.

straight hooks. A butchers' joke, e.g., on April the First: from ca. 1860.

straight Navy, the. The Royal Navy: since ca. 1920. Prompted by 'the Wavy Navy' (p. 941).

straight oil. Variant of dinkum oil, influenced by straight wire (see Dict.): Australian: since ca. 1920. B., 1942.

straight prop (man). A genuine builder specialising in house-repair work: since ca. 1963. The Bournemouth Evening Echo, April 20, 1966. Cf. prop game.

straight racket, on the. Living honestly: c.: from ca. 1885; ob. B. & L.

straight rush (p. 837) includes potatoes. In the Canadian Navy of ca. 1900-25 it was specifically 'the simplest preparation of a joint of beef, employed when time was short. The meat was placed in a baking dish, some fat spread over it, peeled potatoes placed round it, and the whole affair roasted. The dish got its name from the "straight rush" from the beef screen to the galley': Daily Colonist, June 19, 1960.

straight-striper. A Royal Australian Navy regular: Australian Naval: since ca. 1938. (B., 1943.)

straight up.—1. To be s. u., up-to-date in one's work.—2. s. u., honestly!: since early 1920's. (Atkinson.) Cf. S.E. straight, honest. Since ca. 1935, occasionally elaborated to straight up on my eyesight! (Norman.)—3. 'Precisely noon or midnight from the position of the hands of a clock. "It's twelve o'clock, straight up!": that is, exactly.' (Leechman.)

straight walk-in. An easy entry; esp. of a girl or woman easily 'made' or obviously wearing very little clothing: among would-be Lotharios, Lovelaces, Romeos, Don Juans: since ca. 1925.

straight wire, the (p. 837). The adj. and adv. are used straight(-)wire, recorded earlier for New Zealand than for Australia; as in "'Walt, you are a smeller, straight wire"'': G. B. Lancaster, Sons o' Men, 1904.

straighten, 1 (p. 837): soon applied to other than policemen. (John Gosling, 1959.)—2. To defeat: Australian: ca. 1850-1910. Rolf Boldrewood, The Miners' Rights, 1890.—3. To set right: Australian coll.: since ca. 1910. (K. S. Prichard, Kiss on the Lips, 1932.) Ex 'put, or set, straight'.

—4. To avenge (an affront); to take revenge upon (a rival gang): Teddy boys': since ca. 1946. (The Observer, March 1, 1959.)

straightener. A fisticuffs fight between two rival gangs: Teddy boys', esp. in London: since ca. 1955. (The Daily Mail, Feb. 7, 1959.) It is fought in order to 'straighten things out' between them.

strange. Crazy; silly; stupid: Australian coll.: late C. 19–20. B., 1942.

stranger.—4. (Mostly in pl.) A wandering sheep: New Zealand and Australian sheepfarmers' coll.: since ca. 1870. B., 1941 and 1942.

strangle. To get something from (someone) for nothing: Naval lowerdeck: since ca. 1930. Mostly applied to 'runs ashore'. (Granville.)—2. To prevent (a horse) from winning: Australian racing: since ca. 1935. Lawson Glassop, Lucky Palmer, 1949. Strictly, to pull (a horse) back so strongly that it's almost strangled, as one of the 'dodges' employed by jockeys in order to lose a race, as in Dick Francis, Dead Cert, 1962, 'The general opinion among the jockeys was that Sandy had "strangled" a couple [of horses] at one stage, but not during the past few months.' Cf. choke, v., above.

strap, on the. Penniless: Australian: since ca. 1910. B., 1942. Cf. strap, n., 2 (p. 837).

strap up.—2. To obtain (goods; or drinks at an hotel) on credit: Australian: since ca. 1919. B., 1942. Cf. strap, v., 3, 4 (p. 837).

strapped.—2. Penniless: English and Canadian: late C. 19–20. (Leechman.) Probably ex rural strap, to strip (a cow), hence to draw (anything) dry, hence (London) to work to the limit.

strapper.—2. A stable lad: Australian racing: since ca. 1925. (Lawson Glassop, Lucky Palmer, 1949.)

straw, in the. (Of a woman) in childbirth: old S.E. > C. 20 Australian s., prob. influenced by cows lying in straw and about to calve. B., 1942.

straw-hat. See 'Women'.

Straw Plaiters, the. The Luton Association Football team: sporting: since ca. 1920. Hat-making is a predominant industry at Luton.

straw-walloper. In hayrick-making, the man that, standing at the head of the elevator, forks the hay, etc., to the stacker: Australian: since ca. 1910. Baker.

strawberry.—2. Hence, a red nose: Cockneys': C. 20. Cf. beacon and danger light.—3. A compliment, praise from a superior: Army Officers': since ca. 1930. H. & P. In contrast to raspberry.

strawing. Putting children on straw in front of seating stand: circus coll.: late C. 19–20. (C. B. Cochran, Showman Looks On, 1945.)

straws. See pots.

stray. A sausage: Australian Naval: since ca. 1930. (B., 1943.) Ex 'stray dog'.

stray tup on the loose. See tup, n., 2, in Dict. streak, n.—2. A 'locomotive Class A4 (N.E.)': railwaymen's: ? ca. 1940–60. (Railway.)

stream. A heavy raid; strictly the 'stream' of bombers delivering it: Air Force coll.: 1940 +.

stream, the. The fairway; an anchorage: nautical coll.: late C. 19–20.

stream-line, better stream-lined, piece. A very attractive girl: Naval: since ca. 1941. (P-G-R.) stream-lined. (Of women) tall, slim, graceful;

(of clothes) neatly and closely tailored: coll.: since ca. 1940. "Yes," Jeffrey said, "slap-happy", and he laughed, but the colloquialism disturbed him. He was suddenly tired of all the new words—"stream-lined", "blitzed", "three-point programme", "blueprint", John P. Marquand, So Little Time, 1943 (but written in late 1941–2). Ex aircraft stream-lined to reduce air-resistance.

street, bang (or right) up one's. That's just the sort of job one likes: since ca. 1920. (P-G-R.)

Street, the.—4. Archer Street, London, W.1. musicians' coll.: C. 20. Ex the agencies there.—5. Wardour Street: film industry coll.: since ca. 1918.—6. In Sydney, since ca. 1920 or earlier, Macquarie Street: medical coll. (so many doctors); or Philip Street: legal coll. (so many lawyers); or Palmer Street: raffish coll. (so many prostitutes). B.P.

Street Walker & Co., working for. Out of work, walking the streets in search of it: Australian c.p.: since ca. 1920. B., 1942.

strell homey (or homie). A banjo player: parlary: late C. 19–20. Compare and contrast stroll homey, q.v. at stroll, 2, below.

strength?, what's the. What is the news?: Services, both combatant and protective: 1941, Allan A. Michie & Walter Graebner, Lights of Freedom. Cf.:

strength of it (p. 839). App. earliest in New Zealand: 1871, C. L. Money, Knocking About in New Zealand. B., 1941, 'Highly popular, throughout both New Zealand and Australia.'

strengthy. A gymnast: Christ's Hospital: late C. 19–20. Marples.

strepto. Streptomycin: medical coll.: since ca. 1940. (Dymphna Cusack, 1951.) Cf. strep on p. 839.

stretch, v.—3. To outstay an opponent, e.g. at fisticuffs: Anglo-Irish: C. 20. Nicholas Blake, The Private Wound, 1968, ref. the year 1939, "You're out of condition," Seumus told him. "If that fella'd persevered, he'd have stretched you."

stretch off the land (p. 839), is, strictly, a short sleep. (P-G-R.)

stretch the hemp. See hemp, stretch the.

stretcher case. A liar: since ca. 1942. Ex lying. Also 'because he is stretching the truth' (Robert Clairborne).

'Strewh! (p. 839) has long been pronounced, as a variant, in a drawl: ster-ruth.

strictly for the birds! See that's for the birds! below.

strides.—3. (Ex sense 1: p. 839.) 'Recent name for trousers worn by zoot-suiters' (Professor F. E. L. Priestley, letter of 1949): Canadian. Senses 1 (p. 839) and 3 were also, by 1930 at latest, common in the underworld and the near-underworld. (John Gosling, 1959.)

strike, n., 1 (p. 839) occurs 80 years earlier: Memoirs of John Hall, 1708.—5. Short for strike me dead, 2 (p. 840). Gerald Kersh, They Die with Their Boots Clean, 1941, in nuance 'bread-and-butter'.

strike, v.—7. To strike a horse is to feed it immediately before it runs in a race and therefore spoil its chance: Australian sporting: C. 20. B., 1942.—8. To go on strike at the location of: Canadian coll.: 1959 +. 'Four hundred men struck the King Lumber Company this morning.' (Leechman.)

strike! An Australian ejaculation: since ca. 1925. Baker. Short for strike a light! or strike me dead!

strike a blow. To start work: Australian: since ca. 1945. 'I must go now. It's half past nine—and I haven't struck a blow.' (B.P.)

strike a bright.—2. 'To have a piece of good fortune': proletarian: from ca. 1880; ob. B. & L.

strike it down. To drink heavily, either on one occasion or in general: Naval: since ca. 1920. (P-G-R.)

strike-me. Bread: C. 20. 'I . . . had a quick bite of strike-me and sweet evening' (bread and cheese). S. Lester, Vardi the Palarey, (?) 1937. Short for the next.

strike(-)me(-)dead. Bread: Cockney rhyming s.: C. 20. Gerald Kersh, Night and the City, 1938.

strike me handsome! An Australian ejaculation of the politer sort: C. 20. B., 1942. Cf. strike!

strike one's breath or spit one's death = to 'cross one's heart' in assurance of one's truthfulness: Australian coll.: late C. 19–20. Baker.

strill.—2. A piano: parlary: late C. 19–20. (Sydney Lester.) Hence, strill homey or strill polone, a pianist male or female. It app. derives ex Italian strillo, a shrill cry, a piercing note, etc.; cf. Italian strillare, to shriek, to scream.

Strine, despite Mr R. W. Burchfield's stricture, 'Australiana abound but Strine has escaped notice' (The New Statesman, March 17, 1967, p. 376), has nothing to do with slang: it doesn't mean 'Australian slang': it does concern the way in which Australians, esp. of the larger State capitals, run words together—and mispronounce them—in conversation; its true unit is not the word but the colloquial group, usually a phrase. Let Stalk Strine, Alistair Morrison's biting satire published in 1965, mean's 'Let's talk Australian.'

String. Short for String o' Beads below. Mark McShane, The Passing of Evil, 1961, 'Used to be a good fight town, the old String.'

string, n.—4. The published material that, each week, a writer 'on space rates' gets paid for. He pastes 'clips' of all his published work in one long 'string' and is paid on this evidence: Canadian journalists': C. 20. (Leechman.)

string, v. (p. 840): it occurs in Sinks, 1848, as 'to fool, deceive, humbug' (someone).

string along with . To go along with; agree with; support: Canadian coll.: adopted, ca. 1930, ex U.S.

string and glitter boys. Men detailed for guard-duty: Army: ca. 1905–20.

String of Beads. Leeds: rhyming s. (esp. in Lancashire and Yorkshire): C. 20.

string of ponies. A 'stable' of prostitutes 'owned' by one man: white-slave traffic: since ca. 1925. (B.B.C., Sept. 22, 1963.)

string up. To keep waiting: low: from ca. 1920. 'He strung me up.'

Stringbag. A Swordfish torpedo-bomber aircraft: R.A.F. and Fleet Air Arm: ca. 1939–43. Sgt-Pilot F. Rhodes, letter of Sept. 20, 1942; H. & P., 1943, rightly ex 'Stringbag the Sailor'.—2. Also, an Albacore aircraft: 1943–5. Jackson.

stringer.—3. A reporter paid for what is published: mostly journalists': since ca. 1925. Cf. string, n., 4, above.

strings. Telegraph wires: Canadian railroad-men's (— 1931). Humorous.

stringy, usually in the pl. stringies. A stringy-bark eucalypt: Australian coll.: late C. 19–20. (B., 1953; Kylie Tennant, The Honey Flow, 1956.)

stringy-bark.—3. (Ex sense 2: p. 840.) Very tough or hardy (persons); courageous: Australian: C. 20. (B., 1943.)

strip (someone's) masthead. To thrash: nautical: ca. 1760–1840. Sessions, 1786 (8th session).

strip-eel. See 'Occupational names'.

strip off . . . See tear a strip off.

stripe.—2. A long, esp. if narrow, scar: c.: since ca. 1915. (Norman.) stripes on the line, one's. One's N.C.O. stripes in danger, as in 'Our stripes will be on the line for this', heard in the TV programme, 'Dixon of Dock Green' on March 12, 1968. (A. B. Petch.)

stripey. A long-service A.B.: Navy: C. 20. A. D. Divine, Dunkirk, 1944. Many service-stripes, no promotion.

stripey or stripy, adj. Streaky; hence, patchy, variable: New Zealand coll.: late C. 19–20. (G. B. Lancaster, Sons o' Men, 1904, a snowstorm.)

stripper. Rare in singular: see strippers on p. 840.—2. A strip-tease artiste: coll.: adopted, in late 1940's, ex U.S.

strobe. A stroboscope (an electronic flash unit): photographers': since ca. 1950. (B.P.)

stroke, n. 'To save detailing an officer to supervise them, one of the men was chosen as leader and made responsible for the general running of the mess. Such leaders are called "strokes", the word being taken from rowing parlance' (L. W. Merrow Smith & J. Harris, Prison Screw, 1962): prison officers': since ca. 1930.

stroll on! A c.p. comment on what seems very hard to believe: Army and R.A.F.: since ca. 1950. Willis Hall, The Long and the Short and the Tall, a play, 1959, at pp. 20 and 29. (Laurie Atkinson.) Pretend you haven't noticed!

strong.—2. See not off above.

strong-arm, v. To bully; to manhandle: Australian c.: since late 1920's. B., 1942. Adopted from U.S.: see Underworld.—2. Hence, to act as bully to (a prostitute): c.: since ca. 1930. Baker.

strong as a drink of water. 'Used to describe a weak man, or humorously to deride a man boasting of his strength' (Albert B. Petch): C. 20.

strong man. A confidence trickster: Australian c.: since ca. 1920. Baker. He 'comes it strong'.

strong of, the. The truth; the essential point or especial importance of, e.g., a message, instructions, news: Australian: since ca. 1910. Baker. A variation of strength of (p. 839).

stroppy. Obstreperous: Naval: C. 20. Granville. Via obstropolous (see obstreperous: p. 578).—2. Hence, 'to get *strop*py' or become very angry: general: since ca. 1946. (Gilderdale, 2.) Cf. 'You'll get me stroppy if you start bullying' (Nicholas Blake, The Sad Variety, 1964).

struck comical. Much earlier in Jon Bee, A Living Picture of London, 1828.

struggle and strife. Wife: rhyming s.: C. 20; not very general (cf. trouble . . .). Franklyn, Rhyming.

Struggle Valley. A collection of shacks where tramps or beggars live: Australian tramps' c.: C. 20. B., 1942.

struggling! 'A frequent answer to "How are you going [or doing]?"': mostly Australian: since

ca. 1925. Either ex 'struggling along' or ex 'struggling to make ends meet'. (B.P.)

strull. Incorrect for strut, n.: C. 19-20. O.E.D. strumil. See strommel (Dict.).

Stubbs, put (a person) through. To inquire from a financial agency whether a person's credit is good: commercial coll.: late C. 19-20. The firm of Stubbs was founded in 1836; since 1893, known as Stubbs Ltd.

stubs. Teeth: c.: since ca. 1945. (Robin Cook, The Crust on Its Uppers, 1962.) Ex S.E. stub, a butt-end.

stuck in, get. Also, in New Zealand, applied to drinks: 'Don't wait—get stuck in!' The v.i. form of 'get stuck into it' (p. 842).

stuck into it, get. See get cracking—and stuck into it, get, on p. 842.

stud. A virile man: Anglo-Irish: since ca. 1925. (Brian Moore, The Luck of Brian Coffey, 1960.) Short for S.E. 'stud stallion' or 'stallion at stud'.—2. A mistress, esp. if available whenever required: Australian rural: since ca. 1920. (Tom Ronan, Vision Splendid, 1954, '... the boss's stud'. Short for S.E. stud mare.)

stud book, in the. Of ancient lineage; esp. in Burke or Debrett; upper class: late C. 19-20.

studnsel (p. 842) has the further variant studden-sail, which occurs in, e.g., W. N. Glascock, The Naval Sketch-Book, 2nd Series, 1834, at II, 64. Therefore back-date to very early C. 19.

studying for Staff College, be. To sleep in the afternoon, esp. in hot countries: Army officers': since ca. 1920.

stuff, n., 11 (p. 842): cf. "'Does he suspect? Or is this chance and stuff?'" in R. L. Stevenson, The Wrong Box, 1889 (communicated by Derek Pepys Whitely, Esq.).—14. Aircraft collectively, as in 'There's a lot of stuff going across (to, e.g., Germany)': R.A.F. coll.: 1940+. Partridge, 1945, 'And in "Heavy stuff" (heavy bombers)': cf. sense 9 on p. 842.—15. A copulation: low Australian: C. 20. 'She's had more stuffs than you've had twins'—almost a c.p. Ex stuff, v., 4, below.

By late 1950, common—esp. as marijuana—among British addicts.

stuff, v.—4. (Of man) to copulate with: low: late (? mid-) C. 19-20. Ex upholstery. Hence the defiant c.p., go and get stuffed.—5. Hence, to defeat severely: New Zealand: since ca. 1920. Slatter, 'Wait till we clean up Otago [at Rugby Football]. We'll stuff 'em!'

stuffed rat. In gambling, a loaded die: Australian c., since ca. 1930; by ca. 1945, low sporting s. Lawson Glassop, Lucky Palmer, 1949.

stuffy, n. A 'stuffy' person: since ca. 1950. Cf. stuffy, adj., 3 (p. 843).

stuffy,—4. (Ex 1-2.) Stand-offish; Services: since ca. 1926. H. & P. stuggy. Thick-set: Public Schools': from ca. 1870. B. & L. Ex stocky.—Also Australian.

stuiwer. See stiver (Dict.).

Stuka Valley. The plain around Souk el Khemis (Tunisia), notorious for the attentions of German Stuka dive-bombers: Army in N. Africa: 1942-3. (P-G-R.)

stumer.—7. Hence, a bankrupt; a defaulter; (of a plan or enterprise) a failure: Australian sporting and gambling: since ca. 1920. B., 1942.

—8. A fool: Cockney: C. 20.—9. A deaf-mute:

Cockney: since ca. 1910. Like 8, it comes ex Yiddish. (Julian Franklyn.)

stumer, come a. To crash financially: New Zealand and Australian: C. 20. B., 1941 and 1942. See stumer on p. 843.

stumer, in a. In a 'mess' or hopeless confusion (He's in a 'stumer'): New Zealand and Australian: C. 20. Cf. prec. and:

stumer, on a. 'If they don't want a cab when he gets there, he's "been on a stumer"', Herbert Hodge, 1939: taxi-drivers': since ca. 1920.

stump, v., 2 (p. 843). The passive, stumped (for money), occurs in Sessions, Nov. 1834.—5. To pay: 1821, W. T. Moncrieff, Tom and Jerry; by 1860, superseded by stump up (p. 843).

stump jockey. A wicket-keeper: Australian: since ca. 1930; by 1960, archaic.

stump-jumper. A Stump Jump Plough: Australian farming coll.: C. 20. B., 1942, 'Whence, "stump-jumping": work with such a plough.'

stumped up. Penniless: Australian: C. 20. (B., 1943.)

stumpy, 1 (p. 843). A little earlier in W. T. Moncrieff, Tom and Jerry, 1821.—4. See 'Prisoner-of-War Slang', 12.

stun, on the. Engaged in drinking heavily: Australian: since ca. 1920. B., 1942. Cf.:

stung. Tipsy: Australian: since ca. 1920. (B., 1943.)

stung for, be. To be at a loss for: Australian: since ca. 1925. (B., 1943.)

stunned (p. 843). By ca. 1918, also Australian. Baker.

stunned mullet, like a. 'Stupid, silly' (B., 1959): since ca. 1930.

stunning, 1 (p. 843). Cf. France épatant, exact semantic parallel (L. W. Forster). Earlier in Sessions, Nov. 1847.

stunning, adv. Exceedingly: coll.: 1845, in 'The Stunning Meat Pie', in Labern's Comic Songs, was the line 'A stunning great meat pie'. See the adj. in Dict.

stunt, n., 2 (pp. 843-4) occurs in a letter of Feb. 17, 1878, from Samuel ('Erewhon') Butler to Miss Savage, 'It was a stunt for advertising the books.' (With thanks to R. M. Williams, Esq., letter of June 30, 1944.)

stupe (p. 844): revived, or perhaps re-invented, in Australia ca. 1950. (B.P.)

stupid as arse-holes, (as). Exceedingly stupid: low: since ca. 1925.

stupo. An Anglo-Irish variant of stupe: C. 20. James Joyce, Ulysses, 1922.

stute. An institute; a club: mostly proletarian: C. 20. By aphesis and conflation of institute: that is, in dropped, stitude is telescoped from two syllables to one.

stuyver, styver. See stiver (Dict.).

sub, n., 2 (p. 844). In the Navy: a Sub-Lieutenant: coll.: late C. 19-20. Wardroom term.—5. Also commercial and Naval: C. 20—10. A sub-machine gun (strictly a modified light machine gun): Army coll.: since ca. 1942. In, e.g., Elleston Trevor, The Freebooters, 1967.

sub, do a. To borrow money: proletarian: from ca. 1865; ob. B. & L. Ex sub, n., 7.

sub-sheriff. See 'Tavern terms', § 4.

subby.—2. A subaltern: military: ca. 1860-1910. Robert Blatchford, My Life in the Army, 1910.—3. A Sub-Lieutenant: Naval: C. 20. Granville, 'lower-deck'. Ex prec.

subcheese or sub-cheese. Everything, all there is, 'the whole shoot': Indian Army: Forces in India: mid-C. 19-20; 1939-45. From Hindustani. As in 'We saw a lot of Nips and gave 'em the sub-cheese' or, in a shop, 'Tighai, Mohammed, I'll take the sub-cheese' (All right, M., I'll take the lot). With thanks to John Bebbington, librarian.

Here, cheese is probably Hindustani chiz, thing: cf. cheese, the, on p. 144.

subfusc. See sub-fusc (Dict.).

subject normal! An exclamatory c.p. in allusion to (esp. the resumption of) smutty talk: Forces' (1939) >, ca. 1945, general.

submarine. See torpedo.

submarine, v.; mostly as verbal n. submarining, riding through tall grass: Northern Territory, Australia: since ca. 1942. Ernestine Hill, The Territory, 1951.

Submarine Lancers, the. A fictitious unit: 1914-18 and 1939-45. To an undersized would-be enlistee, the recruiting sergeant might say, 'Try the . . .'

submariners. 'Officers and men of the submarine service; it rhymes with mariners' (Granville): Naval: since ca. 1941.

subs, battle the. See battle.

subscribe to the Bookies' Benefit; esp., be subscribing . . . To throw money away by betting recklessly or haphazardly on horses: C. 20. (A. B. Petch, April 1966.) Cf. for the widows and orphans above.

subtle. See 'Tavern terms', § 8.

such another. Another such: sol.: mid-C. 19-20. Edwin Pugh, 1895: see quotation at I'm sure.

such as. What; so much as: catachrestic: C. 20. The Pawnshop Murder: 'Then he mooched to another window and surveyed such as was to be seen of the rear of the place from that point.'

such is life without a wife. A c.p. elaboration of the world-old, world-wide truism 'Such is life': C. 20. The addition bears little, if indeed any, relation to the facts.

suck, the v. denoting the act of fellation, is more gen. suck off, which is low coll.: C. 19-20. Not restricted—any more than suck is—to Lesbians.

suck-hole, v. To toady, as in 'He won't suck-hole to anyone'; hence, to cringe: low Canadian: C. 20.

suck-holer. A toady: New Zealand low coll.: C. 20. Cf. preceding.

suck it and see! A derisive c.p. retort current in the 1890's. After going underground, it has been revived, ca. 1945-60, by Australian children. (B., 1953.)

sucked that out of his (or her or . . .) fingers, he (etc.) hasn't. He hasn't thought of that by himself—that's not his idea—he has authentic (or mysterious) information: c.p., mostly Cockneys': late C. 19-20.

sucker.—6. (Gen. pl.) A sweet: dial (— 1823) >, by 1870, coll. (E.D.D.). Cf. sucks (Dict.).—7. A Lesbian; fellatrix: low coll.: C. 19-20.

sucking the hindtit. (Esp. in pool-rooms; but also general sporting.) Well behind or in arrears; low Canadian: since ca. 1930.—2. To have a low priority: since the late 1930's. (Nicholas Montsarrat, The Cruel Sea, 1951.)

suckster, suckstress (Dict.). The definition would more correctly read: fellator, -atrix.

suction raid. Such a bombing attack on enemy concentrations just ahead of the Allied armies as was 'designed to create a vacuum and suck the brown jobs forward' (P.G.R.): Air Force: 1943-5.

sudden. Swift; efficient; esp., swift and efficient: Australian coll.: since ca. 1940. (B., Australia Speaks, 1953.) 'This use is pure Shakespeare. Julius Caesar, III, i, "Casca, be sudden, for we fear prevention".' (Ramsey Spencer.)—2. Hence, brutally drastic; brutal: Aus.: since ca. 1940. (B., 1959.)

sudden death.—6. A kind of plain boiled pudding: proletarian: from ca. 1880. B. & L.

sudden death on. Expert at (something); brutal or unnecessarily or extremely severe towards (someone): Australian: since ca. 1920. B., 1942. Ex sudden death, 1, 2 (p. 846).

suds.—2. Beer: Australian: since ca. 1930. (B.P.)

sue for one's livery. See 'Tavern terms', § 9.

suff. Enough: New Zealand: ca. 1880-1920. "'I've 'ad suff o' you, Tommy. I'm goin' 'ome,'" G. B. Lancaster, Sons o' Men, 1904. Short for sufficient.

suffer a recovery. 'To recover from a drinking bout' (Baker): Australian jocular: C. 20.

sufferer (p. 846). Earlier in Tom and Jerry, 1821.—2. A sovereign (coin): 1848, Sinks, † by 1900. Cf.:

sufferin(g). A sovereign (coin): Cockneys': mid-C. 19-20. (Pugh.)

suffler (p. 846). Perhaps ex Netherlands High German Suff, 'the drink'. 'The N.H.G. word could well have been imported in the late 16th Century' (L. W. Forster, letter of June 17, 1938).

sug. See shug.

sugar, n.—6. Worthless banknotes: C. 20. Ex sense 1.—7. Inevitable nickname for men surnamed Cane, Kane, Cain: C. 20.—8. 'The skiing was quite excellent in granulated snow, what is sometimes called Sugar, formed by one day of hot spring sun' (David Walker, Devil's Plunge, 1968): skiers': C. 20.

sugar! A cry of triumph, uttered as one stands upon one leg and shakes the other up and down: ca. 1830-70. Sinks, 1848. Victory is sweet.—2. A euphemistic exclamation, used instead of shit or bugger it, and owing something to both: C. 20. Cf. sugared! on p. 846.

sugar(-)baby. A member of the Australian militia: Australian soldiers': 1940+. B., 1942. No service overseas: perhaps imm. ex: 2. A child averse from going outside the house while it's raining: domestic: late C. 19-20.

sugar bag. (A nest of) native honey: water sweetened with it: Australian rural coll.: late C. 19-20. (B., 1943.)

sugar basin.—2. A marble mason: builders' and mason's rhyming s.: C. 20. (A master builder: Dec. 5, 1953.)

sugar bat. A sugar-cane cutter: Australian cane-cutters': since ca. 1910. (Jean Devanney, Paradise Flow, 1938.) Perhaps for 'sugar-batterer.'

sugar boat's in; sugar boat's been sunk. Naval c. pp., directed at the sweetness, or the non-sweetness of the tea: since ca. 1939. (P.G.R.)

sugar candy.—2. Adj., handy: rhyming: C. 20.

suicide.—2. In Australia the word has, to motorists, borne, since ca. 1945, the meaning treated by B.P. in this note, written in June 1963: 'The "cide" of a truck which should not be used for overtaking. In Australia and in Britain, this is the left. "Suicide" and "Passing Side" are often painted on the back of a truck. Also "Undertaker" on the left and "Overtaker" on the right. "Undertaker" is not used in Australia, but it is universally known. . . . Another motorists' phrase is, "Look out for the driver on your right and the fool on your left".

suicide blonde. Dyed by her own hand: Australian jocular: since ca. 1950. (B.P.) suicide brigade, the. Those fielders who stand very close to the man batting: cricketers': since ca. 1930. (Not, however, to Hammond, Constantine, Bradman, Compton, Nourse.)

Sullivanise (or -ize). To defeat thoroughly: sporting: late 1880's-1890's. Ex John L. Sullivan (1858-1918), that American who dominated the heavy-weights from 1882, when he won fame, until 1892, when Jim Corbett ended his career. In Oct. 1887 he visited England, where he was received by the Prince of Wales and idolized by the crowd. He battered his opponents into unconsciousness, the police often having to interfere.

summat short. The usual pron. of something short, q.v. at short, something in Dict.

summer cabbage. An umbrella; a parasol: fast life: ca. 1810-45. (P. Egan, Finish, 1828.)

sump oil. Hair oil: Australian, esp. Sydney, motor mechanics': since ca. 1940. (B.P.)

Sun. A Sunderland flying-boat: R.A.F.: 1939+. Jackson.

sun. A short form of sunflower below. (Anderson.)

sun-dodger.—2. An extremely lazy tramp: Australian: since ca. 1910. B., 1942.

Sunday; morning; midday; evening. Newspaper (and vendors') coll. for a Sunday paper; one issued in the early morning, at noon, after noon: late C. 19-20.

Sunday dog. 'An indolent sheep or cattle dog,' B., 1941: New Zealand and Australian rural coll.: C. 20. Every day a Sunday.

Sunday face. Posteriors: late C. 19-20. Two-cheeked.

Sunday Graffiti, the. The Sunday Graphic, a pictorial newspaper: ca. 1945-60. This defunct newspaper was more reputable than its nickname would imply.

Sunday Punch, The. The Church Times: Clerical coll. nickname: ca. 1885-1900. Ex the wittiness of the 'answers to correspondents'.

Sunday sidings. 'Sidings compelling Sunday clearance' (Railway, 3rd): railwaymen's coll.: C. 20.

sundowner.—2. A drink taken at or about sundown: India, Singapore, the East Indies, Australia: late C. 19-20. (Geoffrey Gorer, letter of Dec. 4, 1938.)—3. (Ex sense 1.) A lazy sheepdog or cattle-dog: Australian: C. 20. Baker.

sunflower. A girl; a young lady: beatniks': since ca. 1959. (Anderson.) Perhaps 'flowering for the sons'.

sunk. See nunk.

sunk, adj. Ruined; 'finished': mid-C. 19-20: coll. >, by 1960, S.E.

Sunlight!, don't worry—use (p. 847). Alexander McQuinn, in letter of 1953, vouches for its use by, or slightly before, 1905.

sunny side up. 'An egg fried so that it is done on one side only, the yolk not broken, and not turned over' (Lecchman): since ca. 1920: Canadian restaurants >, by 1942, also English restaurants'.

Sunset Strip. The number 77 in the game of Bingo: bingo operators' and players': since ca. 1964; by 1968, already ob. (Anthony Burgess in The Listener, March 2, 1967.) Topical—ex a television programme.

sunshade. 'A superstructure on a tank to disguise it as a truck. It was "ditched" before going into action' (Peter Sanders in The Sunday Times magazine, Sept. 10, 1967): Army in North Africa: 1940-43. Humorous.

sunshine track, on the. On tramp in remote country districts: C. 20. Australian coll. >, by 1930, S.E. B., 1942.

super, n., 4. Current in New Zealand as early as 1853. (B., 1941.)—7. Superphosphate: farmers' and seed-merchants': C. 20.

super-duper (pron. sooper-doooper). An intensive of super, adj., 4 (p. 848): schoolgirls' and teenagers': 1947+; by 1957, slightly ob.

Super Mac. See Mac, 3, above.

super-master. Superintendent of the supers: theatrical: from ca. 1860. B. & L.

super sorrow. Very sorry, as in 'Oh! super sorrow': several British preparatory schools': ca. 1960-65.

supercharged (p. 848) has also, since ca. 1930, been common in the R.A.F. (Jackson.)

supering. See super, v., in Dict.

supernaculum dates from ca. 1640: witness 'Tavern terms', § 2.

Supply Chief. A Supply Chief Petty Officer: since ca. 1920: Naval coll.: by 1940, virtually j. Granville.

suppo. A suppository, whether anal or vaginal: medical and pharmaceutical coll.: since ca. 1935.

suppose, I. See I suppose.

Supreme Examples of Allied Confusion. South-East Asia Command (S.E.A.C.): coined by the Americans; adopted, 1944, by the Navy.

Supremo, the. Lord Louis Mountbatten: 1943+. 'A handsome, romantic figure. Hence the Latin-sounding nickname' (Daily Express, July 6, 1944). Less prob. ex the Spanish dictator than ex 'El Supremo' in C. S. Forester's The Happy Return, 1937. (Peter Sanders.) sure!, that's for. That's certain: New Zealand and elsewhere: adopted, ca. 1958, ex U.S.

sure!, you may be. See sure!, be, in Dict.

surface, v.i. To wake: Wrens' (? after submariners'): since ca. 1939. Ex a submarine surfacing.

surface raiders. 'Southern Railway electrical multiple units' (Railway, 3rd): since ca. 1946.

surfacing, n. 'Searching for gold on the surface of the ground': Aus. coll.: late C. 19-20. (B., 1959.)

surfie. A surfer, esp. a surfboard rider: 'not heard before 1961', says B.P., who, in mid-1963, adds that it's 'a term rarely used by genuine surfers'.

Surnames, truncated. 'Always in the plural, thus, "The Partri: The Partridges; the Prenti: the Prentices". This practice has some currency among schoolboys and undergraduates' (B.P.): Australian: since the late 1940's. I'd say that it originated as undergraduate wit, on the analogy of Ancient Roman gens (or clan) names ending in -i, reinforced by Latin plurals in -i, e.g. 'the Gracchi'.

Surro. 'Surry Hills (Sydney) and Surrey Hills (Melbourne)': Australian: since ca. 1930. (B., 1953.)

sus, adj. and adv. Suspicious(ly): c.: since ca. 1925. (Norman.)—2. (Adj.) suspect, esp. by the police: since ca. 1925; by 1960, also s. (Robin Cook, 1962.)

suss. To suspect: c.: from ca. 1920. Cf. sus, 2, in Dict.

suss out. To puzzle out, work out (an explanation of): mostly teenagers': since 1965 or 1966. The Queen, Sept. 28, 1966, 'Youth susses things out on its own'. Cf. sus, adj., above. (With thanks to Anthony Burgess.)

susso. The dole; esp. on the susso, 'in receipt of unemployment sustenance' (B., 1942): Australian: since ca. 1925.

sussy. Suspicious: since ca. 1940. L. J. Cunliffe, Having It Away, 1965, 'It seemed a bit sussy to me.'

sutler. See 'Tavern terms', § 6.

sutthink. Sol. for something: C. 19–20. (E. Pugh, 1895.) Via somefink or somethink. Cf. some'ink.

swab, n., 1 (p. 844) should be back-dated to 'since ca. 1780', for the derivative sense 'a naval officer' occurs in Charles Dibdin's 'Jack at the Windlass', appearing in The Britannic Magazine (I, 25), published in 1793, 'And there's never a swab but the captain knows the stem from the stern of the ship'; also in W. N. Glascock, The Naval Sketch-Book, II, 1826. Moe.—3. A dining-hall fatigue man: Army, esp. Guards': since ca. 1920. He swabs it out.—4. A fag: Christ's Hospital (Horsham, England): ? ca. 1840–1960. Perhaps the origin of sense 3.

swab, ship one's. (Of a Midshipman) to get promotion to Sub-Lieutenant: Naval: c. 20. Granville.

swab one's tonsils. To kiss passionately: low U.S., anglicised ca. 1920.

swabber. See 'Tavern terms', § 7.

Swaff. Hannen Swaffer, journalist, dramatic critic, publicist (b. Nov. 1, 1879): journalistic and theatrical: from ca. 1905.

swaffle; mostly as p.ppl. A sol. confusion (mid-C. 19–20) of swaddle with muffle as in Nevinson, 1895, 'They lay it, all swaffled up in the black skirt and other rags it 'ad on, upon a soot-bag in front o' the fire.'

swaffonder. See sixty-niner above.

swag, n.—6. 'Prizes offered at games of skill', B. Crocker in John o' London's Weekly, March 19, 1937: showmen's: late C. 19–20. Ex swag, n., 3 (Dict.)—7. A state, trend or tendency of the betting: sporting, esp. pugilistic: ca. 1810–50. Boxiana, III, 1821, 'The scene was now changed—the Cockneys are alive: the swag is now for London.' Prob. ex sense 3 (p. 850).—8. A 'packet' of money: Australian: since ca. 1925. Ex sense 3 (p. 850) Leonard Mann, The Go-Getter, 1942, 'I've got a chance to get a swag on commission.'

swag, adj. Worthless; gen. it's swag: low: from ca. 1860. Ex swag, n., 4.

swag, go on the. To become a tramp: Australian and New Zealand coll.: C. 20. B., 1941 and 1943.

swag and plunder. See 'Mock-Auction Slang' above and cf. both swag, n., 3 (p. 850) and plunder, n., 2 (p. 642); prob. since ca. 1945.

swag-chovey; swag-shop. A receivers' shop or store: c.: mid-C. 19–20. B. & L.

swag of, a. Many; much: New Zealand: since ca. 1930. 'There's a swag of them in this joint' (Slatter).

swag-seller. A pedlar: vagrants' c.: late C. 19–20. W. A. Gape, Half a Million Tramps, 1936.

swag-straps, look for one's. 'To consider leaving one's job in search of another,' B., 1941; New Zealand (mostly rural): late C. 19–20. In Australia, shearers's.: C. 20: B., 1942.

swagger, n., 2 (p. 850): in Australia since ca. 1900; extant in New Zealand for 'a tramp.' B., 1941.

swaggering Bob. An impudent buffoon: theatrical coll.: mid-C. 19–20; ob. B. & L.

swaggering, n. Tramping, esp. in the outback: Australian coll.: late C. 19–20. Baker.

Swahili words used by the Armed Forces in E. Africa (and S. Africa) in 1939–45 include pesi-pesi (pronounced pacey-pacey), quickly, get a move on!, and pole-pole (pronounced poley-poley), slowly, take it easy; pombi, native beer, hence any brew obtained in the East; shauri or shauria, trouble, a row or fracas; umgeni, more, again, hence amgenis, 'afters'.

swain. Coxswain: Naval coll.: late C. 19–20. Granville.

swakking, n. Censoring Naval mail: Naval officers': 1939–45. Ex swak (p. 851). P-G-R.

swallow, n.—3. A quick draw at a cigarette: C. 20. Ex 'swallowing' the smoke and exhaling it through the nostrils.

swallow, v.—2. To cancel (an appointment or arrangement or plan): low, esp. Londoners': since ca. 1920. Arthur La Bern, Night Darkens the Street, 1947, 'We were all tired, so we decided to swallow it' (a visit to the racecourse).

swallow a hair. See 'Tavern terms', § 8, and cf. swallow a tavern-token (Dict.).

swallow (or swaller) and sigh. Collar and tie: theatrical rhyming s.: late C. 19–20. Ngaio Marsh, Vintage Murder, 1938.

swallow bobby. 'Some of the first "nobs" in the colony [of New South Wales] used to "swallow bobby" (make false affidavits to an enormous extent)': A. Harris, Settlers and Convicts, 1847: Australian: ca. 1810–90. Cf. swallow the anchor and swelp me bob (Dict.).

swallow it. 'Only a few weeks ago he told me he "had swallowed it"—got out of crime' (John Gosling, The Ghost Squad, 1959): since ca. 1920: orig. and still mainly c. On the analogy of swallow the anchor, q.v. at anchor, swallow the on p. 12; also cf. swallow, v., 2, above.

swallow the dictionary; esp. in must have swallowed the dictionary, applied to one who uses very long words: coll.: late C. 19–20.

swallow yourself!; oh, swallow yourself! See oh, swallow yourself!

swamp, v. To exchange or barter: Australian: C. 20. B., 1942. Perversion of swap?—2. To spend (money), esp. on drink: Australian: since ca. 1920. Baker. Perhaps ex the next.—3. The v.i. (with variant swamp it) of swamper, 1 and 2. The Drum, 1959.

swamp down. To swallow, gulp down (a drink): Australian: since ca. 1910. Baker. Cf. swamp, v. and swamped.

swamp one's way (with). To travel along (with someone), esp. in the outback: C. 20. Tom Ronan, Only a Short Walk, 1961. Cf. swamp, v., 1, above.

swamped. Tipsy: Services (little in Army): since ca. 1920. H. & P. Cf. American tanked.

swamper. A tramp; one who walks to his destination but has a teamster carry his 'swag': Australian rural: C. 20. B., 1942. Ex: A bullock-driver's assistant: Australian bullock drivers': C. 20. (K. S. Prichard, Working Bullocks, 1926, There we also find swamp, v.i., to be such an assistant.)—2. 'A man, often partially incapacitated, who keeps the bunkhouses clean (swamped out) in a logging camp or on a ranch' (Leechman): Canadian coll.: C. 20.

swamy-house is a variant of sammy-house (Dict.).

swan. 'The migratory habits of the swan have provided us with one of the most expressive of all Korean words. The act of "swanning" (going purposefully anywhere without a purpose) is one of the most favoured pastimes of the theatre. If one were to "swan" southward with the purpose of moving on from the enemy, the act would be called "bugging out"' (Iddiwah, July 1953): United Nations troops in and during the Korean War. Ex the next two entries.—2. Earlier, as used by the Army in France and Germany, 1944–45 and esp. in a good swan, a rapid advance. (Peter Sanders in The Sunday Times magazine, Sept. 10, 1965.) Ex swan around below.

swan about the blue. 'To drive about aimlessly, with more than a suspicion that one is lost' (Peter Sanders): Army: 1940–3, the blue being the desert; then loosely in, or concerning, regions other than North Africa.

swan around. (Of tanks) to circle about; (of persons) to wander either in search of a map-reference or aimlessly: Army: 1940+. Ex the manoeuvres of swans queening it on pond or stream. See esp. Forces' Slang, by Wilfred Granville, Frank Roberts, Eric Partridge, 1948. 2. To 'tour' unauthorised: Army: 1944–5. (P-G-R.)

Swank. Inevitable nickname for men surnamed Russell: Services: C. 20.

swank, v., 1 (p. 851). By extension in the Services: 'to dress in one's grandest attire; to prepare to meet a girl,' H. & P.: since ca. 1925. Cf. swanks.

swank, adj. (p. 851), is very much alive in Canada. (Leechman, 1959.) An early example occurs in James Joyce, Ulysses, 1922.

swank(e)y, n.—2. A conceited or pretentious person: ca. 1830–80. Edward Lancaster, The Manager's Daughter (a one-act interlude), ? 1837. (Moe.) Ex the adj. while that adj. was still dial.

swank(e)y swipes. Table beer: 1848, Sinks; † by 1920.

swanks. One's best clothes: Services: since ca. 1925. Cf. swank, v., 1 (above).—2. Sausages: Army: since ca. 1940. P-G-R.: 'They pretend to be meat and are mostly bread.'

swanner. An unauthorised wanderer or tourist: Army: 1944–5. Ex swan around.

Swans, the.—2. South Melbourne footballers: Melbourneites': since ca. 1920. (B., 1943.)

swap, get a. See swap, n., 2 in the Dict.

swart pak, the. The police: South African c., mostly among Afrikaans-speakers: C. 20. The Cape Times, June 3, 1946 (Alan Nash). Lit., 'The Black Suit(s)'. swassander or -onder. See sixty-niner above.

swatched. Tipsy: since ca. 1950. Perhaps of.

Warwickshire dial. swatched, (of a woman) untidily dressed.

swatty is an occ. C. 20 (esp., R.A.F. regulars') variant of swaddy, 'a soldier' (Dict.).

swaying the main (p. 852). To sway the main also means 'to swagger; to assert oneself': Naval: C. 20.

swear and cuss. A bus: Cockney rhyming: since ca. 1910. Len Ortzen, Down Donkey Row, 1938.

Swears was suggested by the name of the firm of Swears & Wells. (p. 852).

sweat(-)box.—2. 'A sluicing or aligning jack requiring much human energy' (Railway): railwaymen's: late C. 19–20.

sweat it out. To keep on trying hard, esp. in order to 'survive', as in, say, cricket or football: coll.: C. 20.

sweat like a bull. See bull, sweat like a.

sweat machine. A bicycle: Australian, esp. Sydney, motor mechanics': since ca. 1945. (B.P.) sweat on is short for sweat (or be sweating) on the top line (p. 853): 'The symptoms of one who anticipates promotion or posting are called "sweating on" . . . he is getting hot and bothered about it,' H. & P.: since ca. 1925. Cf.:

sweat on promotion. To make oneself conspicuous with a view to advancement: military: from ca. 1920. Ex sweat on (leave), q.v. in Dict.

sweat pads. Pancakes: Canadian: since ca. 1945. (Leechman.)

sweat the purser (p. 853) occurs earlier in Smyth's glossary, in Bowen's sense, which should be back-dated to ca. 1840. In George Brewer's farce, Bannian Day, 1796, at I, iii, p. 8, and II, iii, p. 25, it seems to mean 'to take an illicit or, at the least, a sly drink at the expense of the ship's purser'. Moe.

sweater girl. A girl, a woman, with a well-developed bust. Australian coll.: since ca. 1925. A sweater exhibits such a female to considerable advantage.

sweaty. Hard, difficult, severe: coll., esp. school-boys': C. 20. Arnold Lunn, Loose Ends, 1919, "'It's a sweaty house for new men." Cluff shook his head sadly. "Yes, it's a hard life for new men."' Also of persons, as in ibid.: 'These Blues [as schoolmasters] are sometimes rather sweaty. They think it lip if you cut your work for a man who's been a Blue.'

Swede. A fairly common nickname for men surnamed Harvey: since ca. 1930. Why?

swede, 1, as in set the swede down (p. 746), has, since ca. 1950, developed a separate existence, esp. in the R.A.F.—2. 'A raw recruit—i.e. one just from the country; or an airman with a rural, countified manner,' Jackson: R.A.F.: since ca. 1930. Short for swede-basher. Hence, by 1945, in general use.

swede, crash down the. Variation (since ca. 1925) of set the swede down (p. 746). Granville. Sometimes shortened to crash down.

swede, crash the. See crash . . .

swede-basher. An agricultural labourer; a country bumpkin: Services: since ca. 1925. H. & P. He 'bashes about'—walks heavily—among the turnips.—2. Hence, since ca. 1930, the agent in:

swede-bashing. Field training, as opposed to square-bashing (parade work, drill): since ca. 1930. Army and R.A.F. Partridge, 1945, 'Field training . . . often takes recruits into the fields and hedge-rows.' In the Navy swede-bashing means sleeping: Granville.

swede talk. Rural talk; countrymen's talk: Cockneys': late C. 19-20. Cf. swede-bashing above.

Swedeland. Country parts: since ca. 1950. (Laurie Atkinson, 11 Sept. 1967.) Ex swede-basher, 1, above.

swedey or swedy. An employee of the Great Eastern Railway: ca. 1890-1925. (Railway.) It passed through much agricultural country.—2. As the Swed(e)y, it = the old Great Eastern Railway.

swedle. To trick with cajolery: from 1912; slightly ob. In Henry Arthur Jones's comedy, Dolly Reforming Herself (published in 1913), extravagant featherhead Dolly was played by Marie Lohr; her long-suffering husband accused her of 'sweepling' him, and the phrase caught on. Obviously a blend of swindle + wheedle.

Sweeney Todd, the. The Flying Squad: low London rhymings.: since ca. 1925. F. D. Sharpe, The Flying Squad, 1938. Often shortened to the Sweeny, as in John Gosling, The Ghost Squad, 1959.

sweenies. Members of the Flying Squad: c., since ca. 1930; hence, since ca. 1940, also police s. (John Dickson Carr, Patrick Butler for the Defence, 1956.) Ex:

sweet, adj.—4. Arranged, settled; gen. It's sweet, all right because fixed: Australian: C. 20.—5. Hence, correct; in order: Australian: since ca. 1910. Lawson Glassop, Lucky Palmer, 1949.—6. Egregious; pejoratively, great, thorough: coll.: C. 19-20; by ca. 1930, slightly ob. 'The ship was at this time refitting, and . . . a sweet mess she was in.' F. Marryat, Frank Mildmay, 1829. (Moe.)

sweet, adv. Without difficulty or trouble: c.: C. 20. F. D. Sharpe, The Flying Squad, 1938.

sweet, she's. Everything's all right: Aus.: C. 20. (B., 1959.)

sweet B.A. Nothing: low: since ca. 1940. 'You can do sweet B.A. about it' (Norman). Cf. sweet F.A. at Fanny Adams, 2 (p. 266) and esp. the exact semantic parallel, sod all.

sweet evening breeze. Cheese: rhyming s.: C. 20. (Lester.) Often shortened to sweet(-)evening: cf. quotation at strike-me, above.

sweet Jane (or jane). A complaisant girl: Teddy boys': since ca. 1948. (The News of the World, Sept. 26, 1954.)

sweet-meat. See sweetmeat (Dict.).

sweet-pea. Whiskey: Anglo-Irish: ca. 1810-70. 'A Real Paddy', Life in Ireland, 1822. Ex the colour of the resultant urine.—2. (Or without hyphen). Tea: rhyming s.: C. 20. Not at all common. Franklyn 2nd.—3. A 'pee' or urination: probably rhyming s.: mid C. 19-20. Used by and of both sexes; cf. sweet-pea, do or plant a, on p. 853.

sweet-pea ward. See lily pond.

sweet sixteen . . . See Little Jimmy, [near end.

sweetest thing, the. Very 'decent': coll.: from ca. 1902. W. L. George, The Making of an Englishman, 1914.

sweetie.—2. Also, since ca. 1945, in reference, e.g. 'He's been an absolute sweetie to me' (kind, considerate, generous).

sweetie (or -y) pie. In address: dear; 'sweet': since ca. 1930. In, e.g., Josephine Bell, Trouble at Wrekin Farm, 1942. Elaboration of sweet (sweetheart).

sweetness and light. Whiskey: jocular Australian: since ca. 1910. (D'Arcy Niland, Call Me . . ., 1958.)

swell, n., 1 (p. 854) occurs in the nuance 'gentleman', a quarter of a century earlier than Lex. Bal.: in Sessions, Dec. 1786; also in Potter, 1797.—4. (Gen. pl.) One of those boys who, with special privileges, rule a house: Rugby School-boys': mid-C. 19-20.

swell head. A superintendent: Canadian railroadmen's (— 1931). Alluding to the swelled (or swollen) head of exhibited self-conceit.—2 (p. 854): prob. adopted ex U.S., where current at least as early as 1866, when it occurs in The Galaxy of Dec. 15 at p. 719. (Moe.)

swell mob, 1 (p. 854). Six years earlier in Sessions, 1830.

swell's lush. Champagne: Australian: ca. 1830-1900. In, e.g., Sketches of Australian Life and Scenery (by a Resident), 1876. See, in Dict., the two elements.

swelp me ten men 'is a favourite Cockney version' of swelp me bob, etc., q.v. at swelp on p. 855. (Julian Franklyn.)

swerve, n. and v. (To stop at a) coitus interruptus: Australian motorists': since ca. 1950. An evasive action to avoid a child.

swi (p. 855). Also Australian: B., 1942, has swy. Hence, swi-up school: a two-up school: Baker.—2. A florin: low Australian: late C. 19-20. Also swy. Like sense 1, it derives ex Ger. zwei, two.—3. A sentence, or a term, of two years' imprisonment: Australian c.: since ca. 1925. (B., 1942.)

Swift or Swiftly. 'Derisive nickname for slow-moving rating' (Granville): Naval coll.: late C. 19-20. Cf. Curly, 3 (Add.) and Tiny (Dict.).

swiftie (or -ty). An illegal trick: Australian: since ca. 1920. Caddie, A Sydney Barmaid, 1953, "'You didn't work a swiftie on them, did you?" I asked suspiciously.' Perhaps a semantic blend of swift, fast, and fast one. It is 'most commonly heard in the phrase to pull a swiftie' (B.P., mid-1963). Should be back-dated to ca. 1910: cf. its use in Tom Ronan, Only a Short Walk, 1961.

swiftly flowing. Going: Australian rhyming s.: late C. 19-20. B., 1945, cites The Sydney Bulletin of Jan. 18, 1902.

swill, n.—2. See six o'clock swill above.

swillery. A non-temperance hotel: Australian: since ca. 1945. (B., 1953.)

swimming market. A (very) good market: Stock Exchange coll.: from ca. 1860. B. & L. Opp. sick market, q.v.

swindle, n.—4. 'A cunning contrivance, a wangle' (Jackson): R.A.F.: since ca. 1930. Ex sense 2 (p. 855). Esp. in tea swindle, 'arrangement by section for co-operative purchase of tea and refreshments' (Sgt G. Emanuel).

swindle sheet. An expense sheet: Naval: C. 20. Humorous.

swine mixture. Mr Ramsey Spencer writes: 'At Bishop's Stortford College, between the wars, there was something called "swine mixture", composed of sardines mashed with cocoa and a minute tin of Nestlé's milk.'

swing, v.—5. To play 'swing' music: musicians': from 1936. E.g. 'Hear our Orchestra. They will swing for you', in an advertisement, seen in a MS. novel on July 1, 1937.—6. To postpone, put off, defer: Naval: since ca. 1925. Granville, 'Confronted with a pile of paper work, one occasionally "swings it till Monday"'. Cf. swing it (p. 856).—7. To boast about: Army: since ca. 1930. Esp. in swinging one's service. (P-G-R).—8. (Cf. sense 5.) 'To get the feel of, to comprehend the truth or beauty of anything worth digging; to impart the same truth or beauty to others' (The Victoria Daily Colonist, April 16, 1959, 'Basic Beatnik': Canadian jazz-lovers' and musicians': adopted, 1956 or 1957, ex U.S. In The American Dialect Society, Nov. 1958, Norman D. Hinton ('Language of Jazz Musicians') defines swing as 'to play well in all senses, technically and otherwise, but especially to have the basic feel for jazz rhythms'.—9. Hence, mostly as in 'These times are more swinging'—livelier: since ca. 1961.

swing a bag* (whence the n. bag-swing). Of a prostitute: to walk the streets: Australian c.: since ca. 1925. (B., 1953.)

swing at (someone), take a. To punch (him): mostly children's and teenagers', esp. in Australia: since ca. 1925. (B.P.) swing Kelly. See swing Douglas (Dict.).

swing o' the door. 'Publand . . . first round is known as "one", second as "the other half", third as "same again", fourth as "a final", fifth as "one for the road", sixth as "a binder", and seventh as "swing o' the door", Sunday Dispatch, July 3, 1938.

swing on the ear; usually as vbl n., swinging . . ., requesting a loan: Regular Army: C. 20.

swing one's tapes. See tapes.

swing round the buoy. To hold on to a soft job: Naval: since ca. 1920. Ex the Naval coll. sense 'to ride at anchor'. (P-G-R.)

swing that lamp, Jack! 'A shooter of lines is told to do this. A hint that he is being rather "bad form"' (Granville): Naval c.p.: since 1945.

swing the billy. To put the kettle on the fire in order to make a pot of tea: Australian: since ca. 1920. (D'Arcy Niland, Call Me . . ., 1958.)

swing the gate. 'From the New Zealand shearing sheds came those effective expressions to drag the chain and swing the gate, . . . applied to the slowest and the fastest shearer in the shed respectively,' B., 1941: New Zealand and Australian: C. 19–20.

swing the hammer. See hammer, swing the (Dict.).

swinge up. See swinge off (Dict.).

swinger.—6. A lame leg: low: ca. 1830–75. Sinks, 1848.—7. Short for lead-swing, a malingerer: Australian: since ca. 1918. B., 1942.—8. An unscheduled extra bus: London busmen's: since ca. 1925. It has been 'swung' on them.—9. A fine or delightful person: Australian: since ca. 1925. (Jean Devanney, Paradise Flow, 1938).—10. 'An additional train coach' (Railway): railwaymen's coll.: C. 20. At the end of the train, and esp. on a curve, it tends to swing. Cf. tail-wag below.

swingers. Self-supporting breasts that swing as the owner walks: Australian: since ca. 1930.—2. Hence, any female breasts: Australian: since ca. 1940.

swinging, adj. Lively and alert and progressive, with a connotation of success: since ca. 1963. Anthony Lejeune in The Daily Telegraph, colour supplement, March 10, 1967, 'The words "swinging" and "square" are like "progressive" and "reactionary", vague value judgements disguised as descriptions.' Perhaps ex swinging along—of, e.g., pedestrians.

swinging the copper. 'The rubbing of a copper coin on the back of the hand or on the arm to make it fester' (A. B. Petch, April 1966). Tommies': W.W. I. On the far better known swinging the lead.

swinjer (B., 1942). See swinger, 1: p. 856.

swipe, n.—4. A kind of jersey used for games: Marlborough College: C. 20.—5. An objectionable person: Australia and New Zealand: since ca. 1920. (Jean Devanney, By Tropic Sea and Jungle, 1944: Ruth Park, The Witch's Thorn, 1952.)

swipes, 2 (p. 856) app. goes back to late C. 18, to judge by an English song quoted in The Port Folio of Nov. 9, 1805. (Moe.)

swikey (p. 856). Rather earlier in Pierce Egan, Life in London, 1821.

swipington or swippington. A drunkard: Australian: C. 20. B., 1942. A confirmed consumer of swipes (p. 836).

swips. See 'Colston's'.

swish, v.—2. To beat, to cane: Clifton College: C. 20. Hence, swishing, a caning.—3. See:

swish or swish-tail. 'To check speed by a yaw before landing': aviators': from ca. 1920. The New Statesman and Nation, Feb. 20, 1937. Ex S.E. swish-tail, 'a long flowing tail which can be swished about' (O.E.D.).

swish, adj. (p. 857): much used in Australia. See, e.g., Kylie Tennant, Foveaux, 1939.—2. (Perhaps ex sense 1 on p. 857.) Effeminate: since the late 1930's and mostly theatrical. 'A male making "pansy" gestures is "swish"' (Richard Merry).

swishing hitter. See rum customer above.

Swiss. A pheasant: Oxford: ca. 1815–60. Spy, 1825.

switch. A chimney-sweep's brush: chimney-sweeps' coll.: C. 19. (George Elson, 1900.)

switched.—2. 'Known in the [watchmaking] trade as a "switched" watch—with trashy works put into a case bought up for the purpose,' newspaper cutting of March 25, 1944: C. 20.

switched on. In the fashion; well-informed; 'with it': since ca. 1960. Ex electric lighting.

switchel. Cold tea: Newfoundland coll.: late C. 19–20. (L. E. F. English, Historic Newfoundland, 1955.) Ex U.S. switchel, molasses and water.

switching. A marriage: low: ca. 1840–1900. Mary Carpenter, Juvenile Delinquents, 1853. Ex switch (p. 857).

swivel-eyed (p. 857): earlier in Smollett, The Reprisal (II, xv), 1757. Moe.

swiz.—2. Abbr. swizzle, n., 1: mostly Cockneys': from ca. 1875; ob. B. & L.—3. (Also adj.) Something fine or excellent: Australian: since ca. 1925. B., 1942. A corruption of swish, adj. (p. 857).

swizzler. See swizzle, v., 3 (Dict.).

swog. See 'Miscellanea'.

swoman. A station warrant officer (S.W.O.) R.A.F.: since ca. 1925; slightly ob. since ca. 1955.

swopper; swopping. See swapper and swapping in the Dict.

sword. A bayonet: Army (other ranks') coll.:

late C. 19–20. Patrick MacGill, The Amateur Army, 1915. But note that in the Rifle regiments, sword is the correct term.

sword and medals. A ceremonial occasion: Naval officers' coll.: C. 20. Hence, adj., as in 'This will be a sword-and-medals "do"'. (Granville.) sword swallowing. 'The practice of eating with one's knife' (Baker): Australian jocular: C. 20.

swottie. A soldier: Australian Naval: since ca. 1910. (B., 1943.) A slovening of swaddy (p. 850).

swy. See swi.

sycher and zoucher. A contemptible person: c., and low: from ca. 1780; ob. B. & L.: "'Sich" is provincial for a bad man.'

Sydney blanket. A variant of Wagga blanket. (B., 1943.)

Sydney duck.—2. Any one of the numerous—many of them disreputable—Australians that rushed to California in 1849 ff.: mid-C. 19–20; in C. 20, mostly historical. Orig. an Americanism, it was adopted, ca. 1860, in Australia. B., 1942.

They sailed from Sydney; duck is ironic. (See esp. Name into Word.)

Sydney harbour. A barber: Australian rhyming s.: late C. 19–20. (B., 1943.)

Sydney or the bush, e.g. it's (either). A final choice or decision: Australian (esp. N.S.W.) c.p.: late C. 19–20. Edward Shann, An Economic History of Australia, 1930, "'Sydney or the bush!" cries the Australian when he gambles against odds.'

sync (pron. sink), n. and v. Synchronization; to synchronize: film-land: since ca. 1931. Cameron McCabe, The Face on the Cutting Room Floor, 1937, 'To get them synced' and 'Put them both in sync'. But, since ca. 1940, used in all technical fields. (B.P.)

synthetic. 'Often applied to news which is suspect, or to a person who seems to pretend to be something more than he really is,' H. & P.: Services: since ca. 1935. In the R.A.F. it is often applied to the theory as opposed to the practice of flying. For the semantics, cf. ersatz girl (p. 258).

sypho. Syphilis: Australian: since ca. 1920. (B., 1953.)

T

T.A. Tel Aviv: coll.: since ca. 1939. (Ian Jeffries, Thirteen Days, 1958.)

T.A.B.U.; S.A.B.U.; N.A.B.U. A typical Army balls-up; a self-adjusting balls-up; a non-adjustable balls-up: Army: mostly officers' and esp. in N. Africa: 1940-5. (J. F. Fullarton, Troop Target, 1943.) Cf. S.A.A.F.U. and T.A.R.F.U. and T.C.C.F.U.

T. and O. (p. 858).—2. Taken and offered: racing coll.: C. 20.

t.b.—3. 'Two beauts' (large and shapely breasts): Australian: since ca. 1920.

T.C.C.F.U. Typical Coastal Command fuck-up: ca. 1941-4. In the R.A.F., permissible only to Coastal Command personnel: used by any other Command, 'Them's fightin' words, partner.'

T.M. A 'tailor-made'—i.e., ready made—cigarette: Aus.: since ca. 1935.

T.V. behind, you're getting. A c.p. addressed to a broad-beamed woman: since ca. 1956. The implication is that they spend too much time in sitting and watching T.V.

taa! See ta! in Dict.

tab, n., 3 (p. 859). Also, in C. 20, low London s.—as in John G. Brandon, The Dragnet, 1936.—8. See tabs, 2.—9. A sweetheart (female); one's girl; one's woman: Australian: since ca. 1910. B., 1942. Short for tabby, 4 (p. 859).

tab, keep a (p. 859). In Australian usage, keep tab of, 'for any record, esp. the bill at restaurants . . . for taxation purposes' (B.P., 1963).

Tab-socking, n. A boxing contest against Cambridge University ('the Cantabs'): Oxford University boxers': ca. 1895-1914.

tab (up) on. To 'keep tabs on' someone: Australian: since ca. 1930. Gavin Casey, Downhill Is Easier, 1945.

tabby party. See tabby, 3 (Dict.).

table, on the, adj. and adv. On the operating table: medical coll.: mid-C. 19-20. (Christianna Brand, Green for Danger, 1945.)

table, the. The pitch: cricketers': since ca. 1920. Ex the frequent description of Australian and South African pitches being 'as hard and smooth as a billiard table'.

table, under the, adj. and adv., applied to 'something given as a bribe' (F. D. Sharpe, The Flying Squad, 1938): low: C. 20. Cf. the commercial under the counter of 1941-8.

table-end man. A husband whose desires are so urgent that he cannot wait to go upstairs: domestic: late C. 19-20.

tabloid sports. A 'miniature' sports-meeting: Army officers' jocular coll.: ca. 1939-45. (P.-G.-R.)

tabs.—2. Curtains: theatrical: C. 20. Peter Fleming, A Story to Tell, 1942.—3. Feet: Army: since ca. 1930.

tabu. See nabu.

tache. See tash.

tache on, keep one's. To remain unruffled; 'keep one's hair on': Anglo-Indian: late C. 19-20. With a pun on thatch (head of hair) and with a reference to Tatcho, the hair-restorer. Ex Hindi sac, sacca: cf. Prakrit sacca, Sanskrit satya, true or genuine, and the Continental Gypsy čačo, Welsh Gypsy tačo, which have the same meaning (present in 'Tatcho'): witness Dr John Sampson in his magnum opus, 1926.

tack, n.—5. Gear (harness, etc.): hunting: late C. 19-20. (Joanna Cannan, Murder Included 1950.) Ex S.E. tackle.

tack or sheet (p. 859). Recorded earlier by B. & L. Rather, since early C. 19, for it occurs in W. N. Glascock, Sailors and Saints (I, 15), 1829. Moe.

tackline. A hyphen, as in a hyphenated name: Naval signalmen's: since the 1930's. A tackline 'joins' a set of flags.

tact, go on the. To 'go on the water-waggon': military: from ca. 1890; ob. Richards. Suggested by 'teetotal', perhaps; but imm., by corruption, ex tack, on the (q.v. in Dict.).

tadger. Penis: North Country, esp. Yorkshire: late C. 19-20. Perhaps ex tadpole.

Taff Davi(e)s. See 'Nicknames'.

Taffs, the. The Welch Guards regiment: Army: late C. 19-20. See Jock, 2. Ex taff, 2 (p. 860).

taffy horse. 'A chestnut with a much lighter (often silver) mane and tail' (B., 1942): Australian sporting and rural: C. 20. Ex the colour of toffee (dial. taffy).

tai-pai; tai-pan. See taipai.—tai-pay. See taipay.

tail, n.—6. A political following in the House of Commons: Parliamentary: late C. 19-20.—7. A rear gunner in an aircraft: R.A.F.: since ca. 1938. (P.-G.-R.) Cf. tail-end Charlie.

tail, v., 2. Recorded by C. L. Money in Knocking About in New Zealand, 1871. (B., 1941.)—3. See tail it below.

tail, get on (one's own). To grow angry—but also, to grow afraid: Australian: since ca. 1918. B., 1942. Perhaps cf. get on the tail of (p. 860): certainly tail is out (below).

tail, on (a person's). See tail, be on (Dict.).

tail arse Charlie is a confusion between arse-end Charlie and:

tail-end Charlie. The rear gunner on a bomber: R.A.F.: since ca. 1938. The Weekly Telegraph, Jan. 25, 1941; H. & P. A fellow at the rear.—2. Hence, the rear 'plane in a formation: since ca. 1939. Jackson. Cf. arse-end Charlie.—3. (Ex senses 1 and 2.) A goods guard: railwaymen's: since ca. 1945. (Railway, 3rd.)

tail-feathers, -fence, -flowers, -fruit, -gap, -gate, -hole, -juice, -pike, -pin, -pipe, -tackle, -trading, -trimmer, -wagging, -water, -work. See tail, n., 3, in the Dict.

tail is out, one's. One is angry: non-aristocratic: from ca. 1860. B. & L.

tail it, occasionally merely tail. To die: e. and low s.: since ca. 1920. '... The old dear "tailed" meant the old lady died' (Bournemouth Evening Echo, April 20, 1966).

Tail Light Alley. A street frequented by amorous couples using parked cars at night: low Australian: since late 1940's. With a pun on tail, n., 2 (p. 860).

tail (strictly, the tail) of my shirt looks like a french polisher's apron—all brown. 'A typical would-be wicked pleasantry at the expense of a comrade': Naval: since ca. 1930.

tail of the cart, the. (Plenty of) manure: farmers' coll.: late C. 19–20. (Daily Express, Oct. 15, 1945.) Shovelled out freely, the cart-tail being down.

tail on fire. See tail, n., 3 (Dict.).

tail out of it. See tail off (Dict.).

tail-piece. Three months' imprisonment: c.: ca. 1850–1910. James Greenwood, 1869.

tail up, 2 (p. 861) is in C. 20 Australia, however, not e. but rural coll., as in 'Sent out to "tail up" some horses that had strayed': Archer Russell, A Tramp Royal in Australia, 1934.

tail-wag. The motion of the rearmost coach or truck of a train: railwaymen's coll.: late C. 19–20. (Railway.)

tail-wagger. A dog: jocular coll.: C. 20. 'The "Tail-Waggers" Club' was started for publicity purposes by a manufacturer of "canine condition-powders" in, I think, the 1920's' (Ramsey Spencer, March 1967).

tailie; headie. A player consistently backing tails or heads: Australian two-up players': since ca. 1920. (B., 1953.) Both occur earlier in Lawson Glassop, Lucky Palmer, 1949.

tailor-made, adj. and n. (A) machine-made (cigarette): Naval: since ca. 1910. The Weekly Telegraph, Sept. 13, 1941. Fairly general by ca. 1920: current in New Zealand by 1925. (Jean Devanney, Bushman Burke, 1930.) Also Aus., since ca. 1925.

tailors. (Very rare in singular.) Machine-rolled cigarettes: Australian: since ca. 1920. B., 1942. Cf. prec. term.

tailor's Tarzan. A man whose bulk is manifestly emphasized by sartorial devices, e.g. padded shoulders: coll. (—1947). Ex the 'beefcake' Tarzans of the films.

tainted money. Money belonging to a third party; or at least neither to the speaker nor to his 'audience': jocular: since ca. 1930. 'Taint yours and 'taint mine.

taipai or tai-pai. A large ticket; a boss: pidgin: from resp. ca. 1850, ea. 1870. B. & L. Also in second sense, taipan or typan.

taipay. A porter: Canton pidgin: mid-C. 19–20. Ibid.

taiteyoggy. A phonetic spelling of tatie oggy. take, n.—2. A cheater at cards; esp. a professional cardsharp: Australian: since ca. 1930. (B., 1953.)—3. Esp. a confidence trickster: Australian e.: since ca. 1935. (B., 1953.)—4. A gross deception; a swindle: Australian: since ca. 1935. (B.P.) Ex sense 5 of the v.

take, v.—5. To swindle (someone): c.: since ca. 1920. (Gerald Kersh, Slightly Oiled, 1946.)—6. An Army, esp. a Guards, usage perhaps best exemplified by these examples from Roger Grinstead,

Some Talk of Alexander, 1943: 'It'll take you instead of me'—you, not I, will be on duty: 'It takes you for a casual day'—you'll be on this duty for a day, in addition to your usual work; 'Soon be taking us to storm the shores of France'—we'll soon be due to invade France.—7. To accept; to endure: see take it below.—8. To overtake: mostly motorists': since ca. 1950.

take a bend out of. To reduce the high spirits of; to quieten (beasts) by wearying: Australian: C. 20. (K. S. Prichard, Working Bullocks, 1926: Cf. brumbies.)

take a brush. To fight a bout: pugilistic and Naval: early C. 19. Fredk Marryat, Frank Mildmay, 1829 (p. 55 of the 1897 edition), 'I became a scientific pugilist, and now and then took a brush with an oldster.' Moe.

take a cook. See give a cook.

take a dim view of. To disapprove; think silly, inefficient, objectionable: Services: since ca. 1937. Communicated, in April 1942, by Grenfell Finn-Smith. Cf. dim, 2 (Dict.), and take a poor view.

take a figure. To appeal to the ballot instead of to tossing: printers': from ca. 1860. B. & L.

take a job off the blower. To receive a telephoned order for a cab: taxi-drivers': since ca. 1918. Herbert Hodge, Cab, Sir?, 1939.

take a lend (or loan) of someone. See lend of.

take a (or the) mike out of. To insult or annoy (a person) with a direct or an indirect verbal attack: Cockneys': C. 20.

take a piece out of. To reprimand or reprove (someone): Australian: since ca. 1925. B., 1942. Cf. tear a strip off.

take a piss out of. See piss out of . . .

take a poor view is slightly milder than . . . dim . . . : Services: since ca. 1938. Communicated by Grenfell Finn-Smith, April 1942; H. & P.

take a powder. See fade, do a.

take a pull on oneself, often shortened to take a pull. To take oneself in hand, to pull oneself together: Australian coll.: since ca. 1860. Brian Penton, Inheritors, 1936. "'Steady now . . . Take a pull or you'll cruel our pitch.'" take a punt at. To 'have a go' at, to attempt, something: Australian: since the late 1940's. John O'Grady, Aussie English, 1965. Cf. punt, v., 2 (p. 669).

take a red-hot potato! See potato . . .

take a run at yourself! Go to the deuce!: Australian: C. 20. B., 1942. Cf. take a running jump.

take a running jump at the moon! 'An instruction to depart': mostly Canadian: since ca. 1950. 'There are substitutes for jump' (Leechman)—very rude ones, at that!

take a screw at. To glance or look at: mostly Australian, but also low: C. 20. B., 1942.

take a snout. To take offence: low Australian: C. 20. (D'Arcy Niland, The Big City, 1959.)

take a stretch out of, (esp. a horse). To exercise: Australian coll.: late C. 19–20. (K. S. Prichard, Coonardoo, 1929.) To cause to stretch its limbs.

take a swab! Hold an investigation!—of any sort: Australian: since ca. 1950. 'Ex swab taken to detect drugs in the saliva of racehorses' (B.P.).

take a turn in the barrel or at the bung-hole. To sodomise: Naval, hence other Services', low: C. 20. Masked sodomy.

take a whirl at. See hirl, latter part.

take care of Dowb (Dict.). 'The story goes that some high-placed person wished to look after an officer called Dowbiggin and sent to Lord Raglan in the Crimea the message "Take care of Dowbiggin." Communications broke down in the middle of the transmission of the message, so all that arrived was "Take care of Dowb . . ." and the receiver surmised that Dowb was some part of the Russian force or position. When the true meaning came out "Take care of Dowb" became current as a euphemism for jobbery of one sort or other.' (The late Professor A. W. Stewart, in a communication made in 1938.)

take coach. See take horse below.

take down, n.—3. The person 'taken down': Australian: since ca. 1920. B., 1942. Contrast sense 2 (p. 862).—4. The 'taker-down' or swindler; a thief (not a burglar): Australian: since ca. 1925. (B., 1943.)

take evasive action. To avoid a difficulty or a danger; to depart tactfully, or prudently escape: 1941, in Michie & Graebner, Lights of Freedom, Mary Welsh Monks: 'Fighter pilots' combat reports include "I took evasive action", and the W.A.A.F.s adopted it in describing their adventures on dates. It is heard in powder rooms everywhere now.' Since 1943 applied also to evasion of debt-payment and to non-performance of unpleasant tasks.

take felt. To be retired or superseded from the Service: Fighting Services: since ca. 1941. H. & P.—2. To be demobilized: mostly R.A.F.: 1945 +. Often as vbl n.: taking felt.

take-five (or ten)! Take five (or ten) minutes off: radio studios' coll.: since ca. 1945. 'The omission of minutes for short periods of time is becoming quite common' (B.P.) in Australia, as in 'I'll be back in about ten': coll.: since ca. 1945.

take for a ride. To abduct or entice someone to a lonely spot and there murder him: adopted, ca. 1937, from U.S.: c. >, by 1940, low s. (See Underworld.)

take gas. To get caught in the curl of a wave—its curved crest as it breaks—and lose one's board: Australian (teenage) surfers': since ca. 1961. (Pix, Sept. 28, 1963.)

take (one's) hair down. See unpin (one's) back hair below.

take his name and number!, with sergeant occasionally added. 'This had a vogue as a popular catchphrase after the First World War' (A. B. Petch, April 1966): ca. 1919–25.

take horse; take coach. 'She us'd much of the canting Language, saying, Take Coach, take Horse, and mill the Gruntling, by which she was meant, Cut a throat, take a Purse, and steal a Pig' (Captain Alex. Smith, Jonathan Wild, 1726, p. 179): c.: C. 18.

take in a cargo. To get drunk: ca. 1815–70. Pierce Egan, Life in London.

take in (a statement, a story, etc.) like a dustbin. To believe it all: North Country Grammar Schools': since ca. 1950. (New Society, Aug. 22, 1963.)

take it. To accept, endure, punishment courageously or cheerfully: boxing: since ca. 1933. Adopted from U.S.—2. Hence, since 1939: to endure trial and adversity without whining or cowardice.

take it away. (Usually in imperative.) To drive off (one's car, the truck, one's aircraft, etc.): R.A.F. coll.: since ca. 1919. Gerald Emanuel, letter of March 29, 1945.

take it green. (Of a boat) to take water: oarsmen's: C. 20. The Daily Telegraph, April 4, 1938, 'The Oxford boat took it "green" and was half full of water.' Surface water is green.

take it in the neck and punch the breeze. Of hoboos sitting on a bar of a truck that supports the (railway) carriage, 'If you sit . . . facing ahead, that's called "punching the breeze". If you sit . . . looking back, it's called "taking it in the neck"' (Frederick Niven, Wild Honey, 1927): Canadian hoboos': late C. 19–20.

take it on. (Of an aircraft) to climb rapidly: R.A.F.: since ca. 1930. H. & P.

take it on the chin. See chin . . .

take it out in trade. To have sexual intercourse with the girl one entertains: Canadian: since ca. 1946. Jocular.

take (something) lying down. To submit tamely: coll.: C. 20. Either ex boxing or ex cowed dogs.—2. Esp., a feminine coll. for submitting to sexual intercourse—not necessarily passively: since the late 1940's; commoner in the 1950's than in the 1960's.

take me to your leader! 'A world-wide c.p. used by the little green men' (above): since ca. 1960. Ex cartoons depicting visitants from outer space. (B.P.)

take more water with it! A c.p., attributing clumsiness or incompetence or tipsiness: C. 20. Esp. and orig., a jocular c.p., addressed to a sober person happening to stumble or to sway: late C. 19–20.

take off! Run away!: Australian: since ca. 1945. Ex aircraft taking off. (B.P.) take-off any minute now!, he'll. He's very angry—likely to 'hit the ceiling'; but more often, 'He's in a flap' (exceedingly excited): R.A.F. c.p.: 1938 +. (Atkinson.)

take-on, n. A fight, esp. with fists; a contest: Australian: since ca. 1920. B., 1942. Ex take on, v., 3 (p. 862).

take on, v.—4. See sort out.—5. To welsh (a person): turf: from ca. 1860; ob.—6. V.i., 'to complete time for a pension' (Granville): Naval: since ca. 1925. I.e. take it on again.

take (one) down a peg. To lower (a person's) pride: coll.: mid-C. 17–20. 'Hudibras' Butler.

take one's Daniel. See Daniel, take one's. take one's hook (p. 862). Also, since ca. 1912, Australian. B., 1942.

take one's rouse. See 'Tavern terms', § 2.

take one's snake for a gallop. To urinate: R.A.F. regulars': since ca. 1925. Cf. nag, water one's (p. 549).

take oneself in hand. (Of man) to masturbate: nautical (— 1953). A low pun.

take out of winding. See winding.

take tea with. To associate (oneself) with (person or persons): Australian: since ca. 1910. B., 1942. Cf. 'She's not my cup of tea.'

take the benefit is tradesman's coll. for 'take the benefit of the Act for the relief of insolvent debtors': ca. 1810–90. The London Guide, 1818.

take the bent stick. 'Descriptive of a woman who, getting past the marrying age and having missed her chance with the man she wanted, decides to marry the elderly and faithful admirer who has been hanging around so long,' Alan Smith, June 28, 1939: since ca. 1910.

take the biscuit (p. 862) is prob. much older than take the bun († by 1950) and even take the cake, for its original seems to be late Medieval and early modern Latin. Wilfred J. W. Blunt, in Sebastiano (p. 88), records that the innkeeper's daughter at Bourgoin, a famous beauty, was present, in 1610, as a delegate at an International Innkeepers' Congress held at Rothenburg-am-Tauber. Against her name, the Secretary wrote, Ista capit biscottum. That one takes the biscuit. (Colonel W. G. Simpson, letter of July 16, 1956.) ML possesses biscottus or biscottum, a biscuit.

take the burnt chops. To work as a musterer of sheep: New Zealand rural: C. 20. B., 1941.

take the can back, 1 and 2 (p. 862). Also, since ca. 1919, R.A.F.

take the dairy off. To take the best of—or off—something: C. 20. Ex the late C. 19–20 coll. sense 'take the cream off the milk'.

take the gloss off. See gloss off, take the.

take the knock on. See knocker, 9.

take the map. See map, take the.

take the marbles out of your mouth! Speak more distinctly: a non-cultured c.p.: late C. 19–20.

take the piss out of. See piss out of.

take the weight off one's feet, mostly in the imperative. To sit down; properly, to put one's feet up: jocular: since ca. 1945.

take too much on one's plate. To act presumptuously: since ca. 1939. Cf. enough . . .

take up one's bed. To leave the shop for good: tailor's: mid-C. 19–20. B. & L.

take up savings (p. 863). 'Taffrail', The Sub, 1917, defines it as 'To go without, or not to do, a thing'. Ex savings, money drawn instead of 'certain items in the daily ration supplied by the Government'.

take water. To leave (esp. from a bar, a hotel) penniless after a 'spree': Australian: C. 20. B., 1942.

take (or pull) your finger out! A c.p. frequently addressed 'to a person who is slow or lazy', Sgt-Pilot F. Rhodes, letter of Sept. 20, 1942 (take): R.A.F.: since ca. 1930. Adopted by the Army in ca. 1942. The Observer, Oct. 4, 1942 (pull); Partridge, 1945 (pull), 'Among officers there is a variant: Dedigitate!' The semantics: 'Stop scratching your backside and get on with the job!' an R.A.F. officers' variant, 1939–45, was remove the digit! It has the variant get your finger out! An intensive and allusive form was current in the R.A.F. of World War II and until ca. 1950: He's got his finger wedged, with variant He's got his finger concreted in.

take your pipe! Take it easy; have a rest: North Country miners' and workers' c.p.: C. 20.

taken bad. See bad, taken (Dict. and Addenda). taken short, be. 'To be pressed with the need of evacuation of faeces': coll. (— 1890). Funk's Standard Dict. Ex S.E. sense, 'to be taken by surprise'.—2. Hence, in such conditions to soil one's underclothes: coll.: C. 20.

taken to see the cups. Up before the superintendent: police: since ca. 1930. (The Free-Lance Writer, April 1948.) The cups that, won by the division, are displayed in the superintendent's room.

takes it, that (or it or this story or incident, etc.). A coll. variant, esp. in London, of that takes the cake (q.v. at cake in the Dict.): 1895, W. Pett Ridge, Minor Dialogues.

taking felt. See take felt.

taking money (or toffee) from a child, (as) easy as. See easy as taking . . .

talc, be on the. To be informed of strategy or tactics: Army officers: 1941 +. Ex put in the picture. Maps were protected with a talc covering.

'Military maps were (and are) not so much "protected" with a talc covering as given a convenient (talc) overlay on which dispositions, situations, movements, etc., can be quickly marked with coloured chinograph pencils, and just as quickly erased and amended at need. This saves time and makes for clarity—much more important than merely economising maps.' (Ramsey Spencer.)

tale. Showmen's patter: Australian: C. 20. B., 1942.

tale, cop the. See cop the tale.

tale, tell the.—4. To be a confidence trickster: mostly Australian: since ca. 1910. Hence the verbal noun telling the tale, as in Vince Kelly, The Shadow, 1955.

Tale of Two Cities. Breasts (the two female): rhyming s., on titties: C. 20. Often spoonerized as Sale of Two Titties. Franklyn, Rhyming.

talent, the (p. 863). In Australia, however, it = the bookmakers' ring, bookmakers collectively: C. 20. B., 1942.—2. The underworld in general: Australian low: since ca. 1910. Baker. (See Underworld.)—3. The girls, as in 'Let's look into the Pally and see what the talent's like': raffish: since ca. 1930.

talk a bird's, dog's (etc.) hind leg off. See talk the hind leg off (Dict.).

talk bullock. To use much—and picturesque—bad language: New Zealand coll.: 1846, Charles R. Thatcher (cited by B., 1941). Both bullock-drivers and their beasts have much to put up with.

talk last commission. To tend to talk glowingly of one's preceding ship: Naval officers': C. 20. Granville.

talk like the back of a cigarette card. To speak pseudo-learnedly or with an unusual syntax: coll., non-aristocratic: from ca. 1931.

talk Miss Nancy. See Miss Nancy.

talk the leg off an iron pot. An Australian variant of talk the hind leg off . . . (above): C. 20. (B.P.)

talk turkey. To talk business; to talk sense: Canadian (ex U.S.) coll.: since ca. 1890; adopted, as coll., in England ca. 1930. Gerald Kersh, Night and the City, 1938. "'Just for the moment, let's talk turkey.'" Also, since ca. 1935, Australian: B., 1942. The substantial and succulent part of a (Christmas) dinner.

talk wet. To speak sentimentally, foolishly; talk 'soft': from ca. 1910. 'Taffrail'. See wet, adj., 7, in the Dict.

talkee-talkee. Serious conversation or discussion on or of Service matters; a conference: Naval: C. 20. Ex pidgin English. (P.-G.-R.)

talking to the butcher, not the block, be. See speaking to the butcher above.

talking-Tommy (or -tommy). A comb-and-paper, serving as a musical instrument: secondary schools': C. 20. Michael Poole, Revolution at Redways, 1935.

talky. See talkie (Dict.).

tall poppy. A very important person, such as a senior Public Servant (English: Civil Servant): Australian: since early 1930's. Ex a savage threat made in the early 1930's by, and during the régime of, Mr J. Lang: taxation that would have 'cut off the heads of the tall poppies'. (B.P.)

tallie. A tall story: Australian: since ca. 1930. (B., 1953.)

tallow. Semen virile or spunk: low: C. 19-20.

tallowpot. A locomotive fireman: Canadian railroadmen's (— 1931). Ex his can of grease.

tally, n.—2. Hence, cap tally, name of ship on cap ribbon: Naval coll.: C. 20.—3. See tallie.

tally-ho, adj. and adv. In concubinage: low: late C. 19-20. Ex live tally, q.v. at tally, live in Dict.

tally-ho! Enemy sighted, the hunt is up: Fighter Command: 1939-45. It became official. Ex fox-hunting. In the fact, 'this was one of the prescribed code-words in signal procedure . . . already in official use when war was declared' (H. R. Spencer).

tallywhacker. Penis: C. 20. Ex tallywag (p. 864).

talosk. Weather: Shelta: C. 18-20. B. & L.

tamarboo. A hackney coachman: ca. 1840-60. Sinks, 1848. Ex a song thus entitled.

Tambaroora; in full, Tambaroora muster. A round-up of money to buy drinks: Australian: C. 20. B., 1942. Formerly Tambaroora, a township 30 miles N.W. of Bathurst, was a rich gold-field.

tambour. The drum in a Punch and Judy show: showmen's: mid-C. 19-20.

tame-cheater. A cheater at cards: c.: C. 19-20; ob. B. & L.

tan, 1 (p. 864). In C. 20, of a quite mild beating: preparatory schools'.

tan-track. Rectum: proletarian: late C. 19-20.

tan-yard, the. See tanyard, the: in Dict.

tandum. See tandem (Dict.).

tangi, n. and v. Tangi, a Maori word for 'a tribal gathering at a funeral; a dirge': 'Now very commonly adopted here [New Zealand] by the upper classes, especially as an equivalent of the outmoded "beano"'. E.g., Harold and I were on the tangi (or were tangi-ing) last night; or there is a big tangi on to-night,' Niall Alexander, letter of Oct. 22, 1939; and earlier in Jean Devaney's novels.

tangi, holding a. Faced with a problem or a set-back: New Zealand: C. 20. B., 1941. Ex Maori tangi, 'a wake'. Cf. prec. entry.

tangle, or get tangled, in the soup. To become lost in a fog: R.A.F.: since 1939. Berrey (the former). Cf. soup, in the, on p. 803, and pea-souper, p. 612.

tangle-foot.—2. Hence, beer; bad liquor: Australian: C. 20. B., 1942.

tank, n.—4. An old, battered whore: Cockneys': from 1918 or 1919. Ex the appearance of tanks derelict on sodden plains.—5. A pint of beer: Australian: C. 20. Baker. Short for tankard.—6. A locomotive tender: Canadian railroadmen's (— 1931).—7. A hammock: Australian Naval: since ca. 1925. (B., 1943).—8. The head; do one's tank, to become extremely annoyed: Borstal: since middle 1940's. The Daily Telegraph, June 4, 1958, 'Bacon Bonces . . .'

tank, on a. On a drinking-bout: Australian: since ca. 1920. Baker. Cf. tank up (p. 864).

tank, on the. Engaged in beer-drinking, often with implication 'heavy drinking': British Army: since ca. 1890. Cf. tank, n., 3 (p. 864); probably the origin of the phrase preceding this. The Regiment, 1900 (vol. viii, p. 288). The early use, almost simultaneous in Britain and U.S., could have risen from joint service—c.g. in the Pekin expedition of 1900, with Americans adopting it from Britons.

tank-busting. Shooting up tanks, whether from the air or with field anti-tank guns: R.A.F. and Army coll.: 1940 +.

tanked, tipsy (p. 864), occurs in Ward Muir's Observations of An Orderly, 1917, in the form tanked to the wide.

tanked up. Tipsy: adopted, 1963, ex U.S. (Cf. tanked on p. 864 and above.)

tanker.—2. A heavy drinker: Canadian: C. 20. Ex tank up (p. 864).

Tanks. Shares in Tanganyika Concessions, Ltd.: Stock Exchange: since ca. 1950.

tanky, 2, was, ca. 1938, superseded by sense 1 (p. 864); it had occurred in 'Taffrail'. Granville.

—3. See water jerry, of which it is a C. 20 synonym. B., 1942.—4. A member of the Armoured Corps: Australian: 1939-45. (P-G-R).—5. A seaman that helps the storekeeper (Jack Dusty) to handle his stores equipment: Naval: since ca. 1950. (P-G-R.) 'Now used almost exclusively for the seaman rating who helps the Supply Dept with daily issues and the rum. The rating responsible for the fresh-water supply is always from the engine-room branch, and is alluded to as the fresh-water tanky' (Wilfred Granville, Nov. 22, 1962).

tanner. For etymology, see esp. 'Neither Cricket nor Philology' in A Covey of Partridge, 1937, and Adventuring among Words, 1961.

tannercab; tannergram. See tanner, 2 (Dict.).

Tannhauser. Penis: cultured s. of ca. 1861-90. Wagner's opera Tannhäuser was enlarged with new Venusberg music in 1860-1.

tanyok. A halfpenny: Shelta: C. 18-20. B. & L.

tap, not to do a. A frequent post-1910 shortening of not to do a tap of work: see tap of work.

tap, on. 'Available at a moment's notice' (H. & P.): C. 20; much used by the Fighting Services in 1939-45. 'All modern conveniences, including h. and c.'

tap, the. Short for doolally tap: late C. 19-20. tap for (p. 865). Among ships' stewards, used absolutely (i.e. tap, v.i.), it has the nuance 'to suggest or imply that one would not refuse a tip': Dave Marlow, Coming, Sir!, 1937.

tap in. 'R.A.F. slang in France [1939-40] for "have a good time"', Noel Monks, Squadrons Up, 1940. Perhaps 'to tap on the door, go right in, and make oneself at home'.

tap of work, not to do a. To do no work: Australian coll.: since ca. 1890. Ex carpentry.

tap run dry? or tap-water run out? A showmen's c.p. addressed to a quack doctor unoccupied or idling while his fellows are working: from ca. 1880. (Neil Bell, Crocus, 1936.) The implication being that most of his medicine consists of water.

tap the admiral. See admiral in Dict.

tap the boards. To be brought before the Officer Commanding: Army: since ca. 1925. Ex smart steps on the barrack-room floor. (P-G-R.)

tap the sling! Get away with you: Rifle Regiments' c.p.: C. 20. Ex the salute given by the men when ordered to dismiss with the rifle at the shoulder.

tap up. Synonymous with date, v., 2 (p. 208): Naval: C. 20.

tape off. To set in order, put in place, prepare: Australian: since ca. 1920. B., 1942. Ex taped (p. 865).—2. To reprimand: Australian: since ca. 1925. Baker. To measure rightly: reduce to the correct size.

tape-worm.—3. A staff-officer: Army officers': from 1914. Blaker. Pejorative ex red tape and prob. suggested, in part, by the red tabs (see red tab in Dict.) indicating 'the nature of the beast'.—4. An airman expecting—or, at the least, hoping and working for—promotion: R.A.F.: since ca. 1935. Cf. tapes.

taper, run. (Esp. of money.) To run short: from before 1859; ob. H., 1st ed., at mopusses. See taper, adj., in Dict.

taper off (p. 865) has, since ca. 1945, been revived; by the late 1950's, indeed, it had > S.E. and is now used esp. of drink or of drugs.

tapes. Rank-stripes: Army and R.A.F. coll.: C. 20. H. & P. Hence, get one's tapes, to be promoted to corporal; get one's third tape, to be promoted from corporal to sergeant; swing one's tapes, 'to overdo one's N.C.O. authority' (Atkinson).

tapis, on the (p. 865). Earlier in The Night Watch (I, 147, and II, 228), 1828. Moe.

tapper.—4. A laster (one who affixes soles to uppers): shoemakers' coll.: from ca. 1880. Ex the noise made in the process.—5. A hard-hitting batsman: cricketers': C. 20. Sir Home Gordon, The Background of Cricket, 1939.—6. An habitual borrower: since ca. 1925. Ex tap for on p. 865.—7. 'A man who gives you false or useless information in return for a small loan' (John Gosling, 1959): police s.: since ca. 1930.—8. A 'carriage and wagon examiner' (Railway, 3rd): railwaymen's coll.: C. 20.

tappers. Overtime, as in, e.g., 'five hours' tappers': Post Office employees': C. 20. (Laurie Atkinson, Sept. 11, 1967.)

tapping, n. Asking for, or implying readiness to accept, a tip: ships' stewards': C. 20. See tap for above).

taps. 'The controls and gadgets of a modern aircraft,' H. & P.: R.A.F.: since ca. 1936. In open the taps, the sense is 'to open the throttle': since ca. 1940, usually hit the taps. The term 'probably originated in the old Bristol Fighter, where there were a multitude of taps in the petrol system that had to be manipulated to keep the feed system clear of air'—a certain R.A.F. officer, telling me (Nov. 25, 1949) of a collective opinion formed, appropriately in a R.A.F. bar, by a number of officers discussing the entry taps in Granville, Roberts and Partridge's Forces' Slang.

tar and maggots. Rice-pudding with treacle: girls' schools': late C. 19–20. (Berta Ruck, 1935.)

tar-brush, a touch of the, a trace of black blood, is S.E. in C. 20, but it was prob. s. at its origin (ca. 1850) and coll. from ca. 1880 until the end of the century. Occ. a dash of the tar-brush.

Taranaki top-dressing. Cattle dung: New Zealand (mostly the South Island): C. 20. Niall

Alexander, letter of Oct. 22, 1939; B., 1941. Taranaki Province is famous for its dairy cattle. 'Among the sheep-farming communities, Taranaki is usually referred to as a land of cows and cow cookies up to their knees in mud and cow dung' (N. Alexander, l.c.). tardy (p. 866). At Eton, tardy box, a box for registering the names of boys that are late: late mid-C. 19–20. Marples.

TARFU. Things are really fucked-up (politely, fouled up): Army: 1942–5. P-G-R.

target, the. The fire or conflagration: London Fire Brigade: late C. 19–20. The water-jets are aimed at it.

target for to-night, one's. One's girl friend: R.A.F. (esp. aircrews'): 1939 +. Jackson.

tarp.—2. Tarpaulin: late C. 19–20.

tarradiddler. See taradiddler (Dict.).

tarry rope. 'A woman or girl who frequents the Sydney waterfront to consort with sailors' (B., 1942): Australian nautical and Sydney low: C. 20.

tarryin. A rope. Shelta: C. 18–20. B. & L.

tart.—3. See dish above and cf. tart, 1 (p. 866).

tartan, tear the. See tear the tartan (Dict.).

tartan banner. Sixpence: C. 20. Rhyming on tanner.

tarted(-)up. Dressed like a tart (sense 1: p. 866); very smartly (and brightly) dressed: since early 1920's. In, e.g., Christopher Buckley, Rain before Seven, 1947.

tarty. Of or like a prostitute (tart, p. 866): coll.: since ca. 1920. Angus Wilson, The Wrong Set, 1949.—2. (Of a girl) sexy: coll.: since ca. 1930. Marghanita Laski, Love on the Super-Tax, 1944.

Tarzan. See Robin Hood.

tash. Moustache: Services: since ca. 1920. H. & P. Also tache.

tashi shingomai. To read the newspaper: Shelta: C. 18–20. B. & L.

tassel.—3. A child's penis: lower-classes': C. 20. Ex pencil and tassel (Dict.).

tassels. 'Greasy locks of wool left on legs or brisket' (Straight Furrow, Feb. 21, 1968): N.Z. sheep shearers': C. 20.

Tassie, Tassy (p. 867): sense 2 occurs in Alex. Macdonald, In the Land of Pearl and Gold, 1907, and prob. goes back, as also prob. sense 1, to ca. 1860.

Taswegian. A Tasmanian scaman: Australian Naval: since ca. 1930. (B., 1943.) A blend of Tasmanian + Norwegian.

tata.—2. A silly person: since ca. 1920. An adult of the kind that would use such baby-talk as 'go (for) a ta-ta' or walk. (Frank Shaw.)

Tatar. See tartar (Dict.).

tatch is a variant of tach (Dict.) and tattokey (Supplement).

tater-pillin'. A variant of potato-pillin (p. 654). Franklyn 2nd.

tater-trap (p. 867): earlier in J. H. Lewis, The Art of Writing, 7th ed., 1816. (Moe.)

tatered. 'Fed up with having no luck or with unproductive patrols': R.A.F.: 1939 +. H. & P.; Partridge, 1945, 'A potato, though—like the patrol—exceedingly useful, can become monotonous.'

taters. See sack of taters.

taters in the mould. See potatoes in the mould.

tatie oggy. A Cornish pasty: Navy: C. 20. (Weekly Telegraph, Nov. 1942.) Prob. the origin of tiddly oggy: tiddly because so much appreciated: tatie ex potato ingredient.

tatogey. See tat-monger (Dict.).

tats.—2. Teeth: low: late C. 19–20.

tats, go. See go tats.

tats, milky. See tat, n., 2, in the Dict.

tatt, n.—2. Odds and ends of (dress or furnishing) material: mostly theatrical: since ca. 1920. 'She turned out a whole mass of old tatt . . . to see what there was in the way of material. She found that old pair [of gloves] over there and a lot of old embroidery, silks and gold wire and some fake jewellery that was near enough for the props' (Ngaio Marsh, Death at the Dolphin, 1967).

Tattenham Corner (p. 867). At Epsom.

tatters in the mould. Variant of taties in the mould (p. 867). Len Ortzen, 1938.

tactics. Tactics: the Navy's traditional lower-deck pronunciation: mid-C. 19–20. (P-G-R.) Cf. taykle. tattle-basket. See 'Men'.

tattle water. A synonym of scandal water, q.v. at scandal-broth in Dict.: ca. 1865–1910. B. & L.

tattler.—2. Hence, a dog that barks: c.: C. 19–20; ob. Ibid.

tattogey. A player operating with loaded dice: c.: C. 19. Ibid. Ex tattogey, a dice-cloth.

Tatts. Tattersall's lottery, Tasmania: Australian coll.: C. 20. B., 1942. "'Take a ticket in Tatts": to take a chance. "Fair as Tatts": absolutely fair.' The English sense, Tattersall's horse-mart, London, dates from ca. 1870. Mr Barry Prentice thus sets me right: 'Tattersall's lottery is in Melbourne, not Tasmania. In Sydney, Tatts is more likely to refer to Tattersall's Club, where the "big-time punters" settle their debts on settling day.'

tatty. 'Fussy, especially as applied to clothes and decoration': C. 20. Raymond Mortimer, in The Listener, March 10, 1937.—2. Inferior; cheap: Australian: since ca. 1920. B., 1942. Ex tat, n., 2 (Dict.).—3. (Of persons) hopeless, or helpless, at something or other: certain Public Schools': since ca. 1925.—4. Of things, e.g. goods in a shop: trifling, insignificant: since ca. 1945.

Taunton turkey and Digby chicken. A herring: mid-C. 19–20. B. & L.

taut is a favourite adjective in the Navy. (Cf. taut hand on p. 867.) 'In "a taut drop of skin" or shapely female, the "taut" as applied to development of breasts and buttocks is a classic'—as I'm assured by a notably well-informed Naval correspondent.

Tavern terms, slangy and colloquial, of the C. 17.

1. In 1650 there appeared an anonymous pamphlet entitled The English Liberal Science: or a new-found Art and Order of Drinking. In addition to some general matter (introduction, comment, anecdote), there are groups of slangy and colloquial phrases used freely by tavern-frequenters of the time. Of these terms, a few will be found also in the body of the Dictionary; a few terms arose early in the C. 17, a few survived for long periods; but the majority, qua drinking-terms, belong to ca. 1640–90. Unfortunately I did not come upon this quite unknown book with its valuable and amusing list of terms—a list here reproduced complete—until June 14, 1937, or four months after the publication of the first edition and when the second edition was already in the press.

2. The titles which they—the drinkers—give one to another.

He is a good fellow.

A boon Companion.

A mad Greek.

A true Trojan.

A stiffe Blade.

One that is steel to the Back.

A sound Card.

A merry Comrade.

A Low-Country Souldier.

One that will take his rouse.

One that will drink deep, though it be a mile to the bottom.

One that knows how the Cards are dealt.

One that will be flush of all four.

One that will be as subtile as a Fox.

One that will drink till the ground looks blew.

One that will wind up his bottoms.

One that bears up stiff.

One whose nose is dirty.

One whom Brewers horse hath bitte.

One that can relish all waters.

One that knows of which side his bread is butter'd.

One that drinks Upse-Freeze.

One that drinks Supernaculum.

One that lays down his ears and drinks.

One that can sup of his Cyder.

He is true blew, &c.

3. The drinking-places and the orders of drinkers at the two Universities.

a. 'The Students or professors thereof call [a tavern with] a green garland, or painted hoop hanged out, a Colledge; a sign where there is lodging, man's meat, and horse meat [respectively] an Inn of Court, an Hall, or an Hostle; where nothing is sold but Ale & Tobacco, Grammar School: a red or blew Lettice"—i.e. a tavern with a lattice coloured thus—"a free School for all commers'.

b. ' . . . In all Schools there are severall degrees to be attained unto, therefore they in their . . . profound Judgement, have thought it expedient to call,

A fat Corpulent fellow, A Master of Art.

A lean drunkard, a Batchelor.

He that hath a purple face, inchac't with Rubies . . . , A Batchelor of Law.

He that hath a Red-nose a Doctour.

And he that goeth to School by six of the morning and hath his lesson perfect by eleven, him they hold to be a Pregnant Scholler, and grace him with that title.'

c. 'Now before they go to study, at what time of the day or night soever, it is fit to know what language.'

English is the name for Ale.

Dutch " " Beer.

Spanish " " Sack or Canary.

Italian " " Bastard (a sweet Spanish wine).

Grecian " " Rennish (Rhenish) or Palermo.

Irish " " Usqueba'he (usquebagh).

Welsh " " Metheglin.

Latin " " Alligant (Alicante).

Greek " " Muskadell (muscadel).

Hebrew " " Hypocras (hippocras).

d. 'He that weeps in his cups, and is Maudlen drunk, is said to study Hydromancie.

'He that Laughs and Talks much, studies Natural Philosophy.

'He that gives good counsel, Morality.

'He that builds Castles in the Air, Metaphisicks.

'He that sings in his drink, Musick.

'He that disgorgeth his stomach, Physick.

'He that brags of his travels, Cosmography.

'He that rimes ex tempore, or speaks Play speeches, Poetry.

'He that cries Tril-lil boys is a Rhetorician.

'He that calks his fellow Drunkard, a Logician.

'He that proves his argument by a Pamphlet or Ballad, a Grammarian.

'He that rubs off[f] his score with his elbow, hat, or cloak, an Arithmetician.

'He that knocks his head against a post, then looks up to the Skie, an Astronomer.

'He that reels from one side of the channel to another, a Geometrician.

'He that going homewards fals into a ditch or chanel, a Navigator.

'He that looseth himself in his discourse, a Mooter.

'He that brawls or wrangles in his cupe, a Barrester.

'He that loves to drink in hugger-mugger, a Bencher.

'He that drinks to all commers, a young Student.

'He that hath no money in his purse, but drinks on trust, a Merchant venturer.

'He that in his wine is nothing els but complement, a Civilian.

'He that drinks and forgets to whom, is said to study the Art of Memory.

4. Law terms.

'He that plucks his friend or acquaintance into a Tavern or tipling-house perforce, is called a Sergeant.

'He that quarrels with his Hostesse, and calks her Whore, Puts in his Declaration.

'He that is silent or tongue-tied in his cups, is said to Demur upon the Plaintiff.

'He that ingrosseth all the talk to himself, is call'd Foreman of the Jury.

'He that with his loud talk deafens all the company, Cryer of the Court.

'He that takes upon him to make the reckoning, Pronounceth Judgement.

'He that wants money, and another man pays for, is Quit by Proclamation.

'He that gives his Host or Hostesse a Bill of his hand, is said to be Sav'd by his Clergy.

'He that is so free that he will pledge all comers, Attourney General.

'He that wears a night-cap, having been sick of a Surfeit, Sergeant of the Coyffe.

'He that is observed to be drunk but once a week, An Ordinary Pursevant.

'He that takes his rowse freely but once in a moneth, a Sub-Sheriff.

'He that healths it but once in a Quarter, a Justice of the Peace.

'And he that takes his rowse but twice a year, Judge of a Circuit.'

5. Terms in use among civilians (other than lawyers, ecclesiastics, University men); apparently, among Court officials and Civil Servants chiefly.

'He that is unruly in his cups, swaggers and flings pots and drawers down stairs, breaks glasses, and beats ye fiddlers about the room, they call by ye name of Major Domo.

'He that cuts down signs, bushes or lettices—Master Controuler.

'He that can win the favour of the hostesses daughter to lie with her, Principal Secretary.

'He that stands upon his strength, and begins new healths, M[aste]r of the Ceremonies.

'He that is the first to begin new frolicks, M[aste]r of the Novelties.

'He that flings Cushions, Napkins, and Trenchers about the room, M[aste]r of Mis-rule.

'He that wanting mony is fore'd to pawn his Cloak, Master of the Wardrobe.

'He that calls for Rashers, pickle-Disters, or Anchova's, Clerk of the Kitchin.

'He that talks much, and speakes nonsense, is called a Proctour.

'He that tels tedious and long tales, Register.

'He that takes the tale out of another mans mouth, Publick Notary.

6. Soldiers' terms.

'He that drinks in his boots, and gingling spurs, is called a Collonel of a Regiment.

'He that drinks in silk-stockings, and silk-garters, Captain of a Foot-Company.

'He that flings pottle and quart pots down stairs, Marshall of the Field.

'He that begins three healths together to go round the table, Master of the Ordnance.

'He that calls first in al the company for a Looking-glasse, [i.e. a chamber-pot], Camp-Master.

'He that waters the faggots by pissing in the Chimney, Corporall of the Field.

'He that thunders in [the] room and beats the Drawers, Drum Major.

'He that looks red, and colors in his drink, Ensign-Bearer.

'He that thrusts himself into company, and hangs upon others, Gentleman of a Company.

'He that keeps company and hath but two pence to spend, Lansprizado.

'He that pockets up gloves, knives, or Handkerchers, Sutler.

'He that drinks three days together without respite, An Old-Souldier.

'He that swears and lies in his drink, An Intelligencer.'

7. Sailors' terms.

'He that having over-drunk himself utters his Stomack, in his next fellows Boots or Shooes, they call, Admirall of the Narrow-Seas.

'He that pisseth under the Table to offend their shoes or stockings, Vice-Admirall.

'He that is first flaw'd—tipsy—'in the company before the rest, Master of a Ship.

'He that is the second, that is drunk at the Table Masters-Mate.

'He that slovenly spilleth his drink upon the Table, Swabber.

'He that privately and closely stealeth his liquor, Pyrat of the Narrow-Seas.

'He that is suddenly taken with the hitch-up, Master Gunner.

'He that is still smoaking with the pipe at his nose, Flute.

'He that belcheth either backward or forward, Trumpeter.'

8. 'No man must call a Good-fellow Drunkard . . . : But if at any time they spie that defect in another, they may without any forfeit or just exceptions taken, say, He is Foxt, He is Flaw'd, He is Fluster'd, He is Suttle, Cupshot, Cut in the Leg or Back, He hath seen the French King, He hath swallowed an Hair or a Taven-Token, he hath whipt the Cat, He hath been at the Scriveners and learned to make Indentures, He hath bit his Grannam, or is bit by a Barn Weasel.'

9. 'Sundry Terms and Titles proper to their young Students.' (Nothing is said about lawyers but these terms would seem to be slang used by those practising or connected with the Law.)

'He that maketh himself a laughing stock to the whole company, is call'd a Tenant in Fee-simple.

'He that will be still smowching'—wheedling and caressing—'and kissing his hostesse behind the door, Tenant in-tail special.

'He that will be stil kissing all commers in, Tenant in-tail general.

'He that is three parts foxt, and will be kissing, Tenant in-tail after possibility of Issue extinct.

'He that is permitted to take a nap, and to sleep, Tenant by the curtesie De Angliter.

'If two or three women meet twice or thrice a week, to take Gossips cups, they are Tenants in dower.

'He that hath the disposing of a donative amongst his comrades, Tenant in Frank-Almain.

'He whose head seems heavier than his heels, holds in Capite.

'He whose heels are heavier than his head, holds in Soccadge.

'All Gentlemen-Drunkards, Schollers and Souldiers, hold in Knights service.

'He that drinks nothing but Sack, and Acquavitae, holds by Grand serientry'—sergeantry is properly a form of feudal tenure.

'He that drinks onely Ale or Beer, holds by Petit serientry.

'He that drinks uncovered, with his head bare, Tenders his homage.

'He that humbles himself to drink on his knee, Doth his fealty.

'He that h[a]junteth the Taverns, or Tap-houses, when he comes first to age, Pays his relief'—a fee. 'He that hath sold and mortgaged all the Land he hath, Sueth for his Livery.

'He whose wife goeth with him to the Tavern or Ale-house, is a Free-holder.

'He whose wife useth to fetch him home from the Library [tavern or ale-house], is a Tenant at will.

'He that articles with his hostesse about the reckoning, is a Copy-holder.

'He that staggering supports himself by a wall or a post, holds by the Verge.'

taxi. An aircraft that can carry a small number of passengers: R.A.F.: since ca. 1940. Jackson.

taxicabs. Bodylice: low s., on fringe of underworld: since ca. 1910. Frank Norman, Stand on Me, 1959. Rhyming on s. crabs.

taxi-driver. A staff pilot at a navigation school: R.A.F.: since ca. 1940. H. & P. taxidermist!, go and see a. An R.A.F. variation (1943-5) of the civilian low e.p. 'go and get stuffed'. Partridge, 1945.

taxy. See taxi (Dict.).

taykle is the Navy's traditional pronunciation of S.E. tackle: C. 19 (? earlier)—20. P-G-R. Cf. tattics.

taz. A beard: Cockneys': C. 20. Whence the e.p. taz been a fine day, shouted by children at a passing 'beaver'.—2. An immature moustache; youthful down, wherever growing: mostly Cockneys': since ca. 1920. (Atkinson.) Ex tache.

Tazzie or -y. See Tassy (p. 867).

tea.—4. Marijuana: drug addicts': adopted, ca. 1945, ex U.S. (See esp. Underworld.)

tea, cup of. See cup of tea both in Dict. and in these Addenda.

tea and cocoa. See coffee and cocoa.

Tea and sugar, the. A supply train for the builders of the Transcontinental Railway: Australian: since ca. 1920(?).

tea-and-tattle. An afternoon tea; a minor soeial gathering: Australian coll.: since ca. 1925. B., 1942.

tea-boardy. (Of a picture) inferior: studio s.: from ca. 1870; ob. B. & L. Ex 'old-fashioned lacquered tea-trays with landscapes on them'.

tea boat, run a. To supply tea to one's mess-mates: Naval: C. 20. Granville.

Tea Cake. A Forces' nickname for a man named Smith: C. 20.

tea-cup and saucer (Dict.). The date should be ca. '1865-95'; the term is hardly fair to that dramatist.

tea for two and a bloater. A motor-car: derisive rhyming s.: since ca. 1905; by 1959, ob. (Franklyn, Rhyming.)

tea gardens. 'Somers Town goods yard' (Railway, 3rd): London railwaymen's: since ca. 1920 (?).—2. 'The cells or place of punishment' (The Daily Telegraph, June 4, 1958): Borstal: since ca. 1920. Ironic.

tea grout. A (boy) scout: rhyming s.: C. 20.

tea-kettle. An old, leaky locomotive: Canadian railroadmen's (— 1931).

tea-leafing. Thieving; esp. 'the picking up of unconsidered trifles', as Clarence Rook defines it in The Hooligan Nights, 1899: c.: from ca. 1890. Ex tea-leaf (Dict.).

tea-pot, n.—3. See teapot lid.—4. A Negro: ca. 1830-60. Sinks, 1848.—5. (Usu. written teapot.) A male baby: Australian domestic: since ca. 1930. A married woman loq., 'We want one with a spout next time'—cited by B.P., who comments thus, 'A male baby is called a "teapot" in such a conversation and a female baby is called a "jug"' (June 1963).

tea-pot, v. Short for tea-pot lid(ding) of p. 868. C. 20. The New Statesman, Nov. 29, 1941.

tea-pot, adj. A spooned stroke: cricketers': ca. 1885-1910. B. & L.

tea-pot, smash the. See smash the tea-pot (Dict. and Addenda).

tea-pot lid. A Jew: Cockney: C. 20. Rhyming Yid, often shortened to tea-pot.—2. A child: C. 20. Rhyming kid.

tea-pot mended, have one's; or get it down the spout. To be restored to the privilege of tea: prison e.: from ca. 1880; ob. B. & L. Cf. smash the tea-pot, q.v.

tea-pot sneaking, n. Theft of tea-pots and plate: c. from ca. 1860. Ibid.

tea-pot soak. One who does this: c.: from ea. 1860. Ibid. ? an error for tea-pot sneak.

tea squall. A tea party: ca. 1810-50. The British Columbia Historical Quarterly of April 1937

(p. 120) records it for April 28, 1820. (Leechman.)

tea swindle. See swindle, n., 4.

tea trolley. Shell-hoist from magazine to gun in H.M. ships: Naval: since ca. 1916.

tea, two, and a bloater. A motor-car: rhyming: C. 20. See, tea for two . . .

teach. A teacher: adopted, ca. 1944, ex U.S. servicemen. (Norman.) teacup . . . See tea-cup . . . in Dict.

teach. Eight; eightpence: back s.: 1851, Mayhew, I.

teaks. Pieces of bread, served at table: Cheltenham College: C. 20. ex their dryness or hardness?

team. The pupils of a coach or a private tutor: Oxford and Cambridge: ca. 1860-1910. B. & L.—2. A gang: Teddy boys': since ca. 1947. The district where it lives is a manor (Clancy Signal in The Observer, March 1, 1959).

teaman. See tea-man in Dict. and above.

teapot. See tea-pot (Dict.).

tear (teer). Gonorrhoea: Naval: late C. 19-20. Cf. dripper (p. 242).

tear, on the. Having a wildly enjoyable time, wining and wenching: Anglo-Irish: C. 20. (Liam O'Flaherty, The Informer, 1925.)

tear a strip off (someone); as v.i., usually tear off a strip. To reprimand: R.A.F.: since ca. 1938. Hector Bolitho in The English Digest, Feb. 1941, 'Hope that they won't have a strip torn off them'; Jackson, 1943, 'If you tear off a strip of cloth quickly and decisively, the noise caused thereby will not be unlike what has been referred to colloquially . . . as a raspberry'; Partridge, 1945, 'The "Stationmaster" tore him off a strip for dressing in so slovenly a way.' Off his self-satisfaction'; 1945, Granville records it as a Naval phrase—which it had, via the Fleet Air Arm, > as early as 1941.—2. In the Navy, to tear off a strip denotes sexual intercourse: World War II and after.

tear-ruse.—4. Treacle; golden syrup: Australian rural: since ca. 1920. B., Australia Speaks, 1953.)

tear into. To attack vigorously, whether with fists or with words: Australian: C. 20. B., 1942.

tear-jerker. A very sentimental book or story or film: adopted, ca. 1954, ex U.S.

tear off a piece. To copulate with a woman: Australian low: late C. 19-20. Baker. Also Canadian and U.S.

tear off a strip. See tear a strip off.

tear-over. A synonym of rip, n., 4, above.

tear the name of God. See tear Christ's body (Dict.).

tear-up.—2. Deliberate destruction (often nerve-caused) of clothes and/or furniture: prison c.: from ca. 1870. B. & L.

tearaway. A would-be rough, esp. in ladies' tearaway, a man specializing in snatching handbags from women: low, verging on c.: late C. 19-20. (Norman.)—2. 'Bobby Twist, a tearaway (or strongarm man), now dead' (John Gosling, 1959): C. 20: orig. c., but by 1930 also police s. and by ca. 1960 fairly gen. s.—3. Anyone who, esp. with a criminal record, tends to violence: since ca. 1960.

tea's wet, the tea is ready; wet the tea, to make the tea: Naval coll.: since ca. 1910. (J. P. W. Mallalieu, Very Ordinary Seaman, 1944.) Cf. the Army's brew up.

teased out. Exhausted: R.A.F. (esp. aircrews') since ca. 1938. H. & P. Ex S.E. teased (out): 'with fibres pulled asunder'.

teaser.—6. A sixpence: ca. 1835-80. Sinks, 1848. Ex sense 1 (p. 869).—7. 'A castrated or partly castrated ram, which is placed in a ewe flock to identify ewes on heat' (B., 1950): Aus. rural coll.: late C. 19-20. (B., 1959.)

tec, n., 1 (p. 869). Earlier in Sessions, June 1879.

teck.—2. An occ. variant of teek (Dict.).

teckery. Detection of crime: coll. C. 20.

Ted; usually in pl. A German soldier: Army in Italy: 1943-5. Ex It. Tedesco (pl. Tedeschi), 'a German'—2. A Teddy boy: originally, among Teddy boys: since ca. 1954. (Gilderdale, 2.)

Ted, adj. Characteristic of a Teddy boy: mostly teenagers': since ca. 1956. (Anderson.)

Teddy. The law that no member of a train-crew shall work more than 16 hours at a stretch: Canadian railroadmen's (— 1931). Ex the given-name of its introducer.—2. A combination flying suit used by airship crews: aeronautical engineers' and airship crews': 1920's and 1930's. (Nevil Shute, Slide Rule, 1954.)—3. (Usually teddy.) A woman's garment, consisting of camisole and (loose) panties in one: Canadian, ex U.S.: ca. 1920-40. Named after 'Teddy' Roosevelt.

teddy bear (p. 869). The toy was named after Theodore ('Teddy') Roosevelt who, from one of his big-game hunting expeditions, returned with some baby bears for the Bronx Zoo. Hence, in 1939-45, an R.A.F. term for the fleece-lined jacket issued to aircrews.—2. A koala—the little native bear: Australian: since ca. 1919. B., 1942.—3. A flashily dressed man: Australian c.: since ca. 1930. (B., 1953.) Rhyming on lair.

Teddy boy. A youth imitating a garb (stove-pipe trousers and short jacket) supposed to characterize Edward VII's reign (1901-10): since ca. 1949; by 1960, coll.; by 1965, virtually S.E.

tedhi. See thedi.

tee-heeing. 'This currying favour with superiors—tee-heeing, as we call it,' Roger Grinstead, They Dug a Hole, 1946: Guards': C. 20. Ex oui, oui? But Mr Ramsey Spencer correctly supposes it to derive 'ex the sound of sycophantic sniggering'.

tee-ki! All right: mostly long-service men of the Indian Army: ca. 1910-45.

tee up; mostly as in 'It's (all) teed up' or fully arranged and virtually assured: Army officers': since ca. 1935. Ex golfing. Compare lay on and organise.—2. 'Tee up . . . adopted in the R.A.F. to denote "Time to get ready" for a flight or for a parade' H. & P.: since 1940.—3. Among Australian soldiers (since 1940): to make arrangements: B., 1943. Hence, since ca. 1946, gen. s. (Culotta.)

teen-ager. A person aged from thirteen to nineteen, especially 15-17: coll., adopted in 1945 from U.S., but not at all general until the latter half of 1947. Since ca. 1955, has usu. been written as one word—and, since ca. 1960, has been regarded as S.E.

teeny(-)bopper. A teen-age hellion, esp. as member of a gang: Canadian: since ca. 1965. Daily Colonist, Victoria, B.C., March 28, 1967, 'The hippies . . . along with the younger "teeny-boppers", met in Stanley Park.' (Leechman.) A bopper is one who bops, i.e. punches or otherwise uses violence, ex the echoic bop, to strike.

(See Underworld, 3rd edition, at bop.)—2. Hence, in Britain since ca. 1966, a young (11–16 years) jazz ‘fan’. Peter Fryer, in The Observer, Dec. 3, 1967.

teesy-weesy. Very small: mostly feminine: since ca. 1930. (Angus Wilson, Hemlock and After, 1952.) Ex teeny-weeny, influenced by such locutions as palsy-walsy.

teeth, 2 (p. 870), occurs in John Davis’s novel, The Post-Captain, 1806. (Moe.) teething troubles. Such noises given out by a wireless set as indicate derangement: from 1935. The Daily Telegraph, Oct. 16 or 17, 1936.

Teetotal Hotel. Also Her Majesty’s Teetotal Hotel: B. & L.

tekelite, 2 (p. 870). Ex Count Emeric Thokoly or Tokoly (1657–1705), spelt Tekeli (or -ly) or Teckeli (-ly) in England, where this great patriot, leader of insurrections against the Germanizing Habsburgs, ‘was certainly the most talked-about, most praised and most abused Hungarian in 17th Century England’ (Ladislav Orságh, formerly Professor of English in the University of Debrecen).

tel. A telegraphist rating: Naval: since ca. 1925. Granville.

tele, the. See telly.

telegram from arsehole: ‘shit expected’. A variant of it’s a sore arse that never rejoices (above): same milieu: since ca. 1910.

telegraph, n. See college telegraph.—2. Elliptical for bush telegraph: B., 1943.

telegraph, v. To tattle to: Eton: 1825, Spy, ‘I have never telegraphed the big wigs in my life’: Oxford: ca. 1815–60.

teliman. A tailor: pidgin: mid-C. 19–20. B. & L.

tell, v. To say, esp. in such locutions as ‘Tell him good night’ and ‘Tell her good-bye’: Canadian (and U.S.) coll.: mid-C. 19–20. (Leechman.)

tell a picture. To tell the story a film consists of: mostly Anglo-Irish coll.: since ca. 1930. (Brendan Behan, Borstal Boy, 1958.)

tell all. To tell everything; esp. in the imperative: Australian c.p.: since ca. 1945. (B.P.)

tell (someone) his fortune. To threaten with reprisal; to let (him) know what a bastard he is: ? esp. Forces: since ca. 1945. (Laurie Atkinson, Sept. 11, 1967.)

tell me about me (or myself), often preceded by now. A c.p. that is mainly a jocular courting expression: not general before ca. 1945.

tell me another! You don’t expect me to believe that?: c.p.: C. 20. (W. L. George, 1914.)

tell me the old, old story (p. 870). Though very popular among Non-conformists, it appears also in No. 681 in The C. of E. Hymnary. Often heard at political meetings.

tell-tale. An indicator light (or lamp): Australian motorists: since ca. 1950. The Open Road, July 1, 1963.

tell that to the morons! A hecklers’ c.p.: since ca. 1950. A pun on tell that to the marines!

tell (someone) where he gets off. To rebuke; to scold: since ca. 1930. Ex bus-conductors? tellings! or tellin’s! That would be telling!: mainly Aus. and mainly juvenile: late C. 19–mid 20. Edward Dyson, The Gold Stealers, 1901, “Where is this reef?” . . . “Tellin’s!” “But didn’t you come to tell me?” Ex that’s tellings, q.v. at tellings, that’s, on p. 870.

Telly, The. The Daily Telegraph: newsagents’ and newsboys’ coll.: late C. 19–20. Among Sydneyites, The (Sydney) D.T.: since ca. 1920. B., 1942.

telly, the. Television: non-cultured coll.: since ca. 1947. Properly but rarely tele, as in Angus Wilson, Anglo-Saxon Attitudes, 1956, ‘I seen him on the Tele.’

temp. Temperature: doctors’ and nurses’ coll.: late C. 19–20. In, e.g., Winston Graham, The Walking Stick, 1967.—2. Temporary; coll.: since c. 1960.

temperament, throw; mostly throwing temperament. To lose one’s temper: theatrical: from ca. 1930. The Times, Feb. 15, 1937. On throw a party.

temperance. A rating that does not draw his tot of rum: Naval coll.: C. 20. Granville. But among C. 20 Naval officers, it indicates ‘a man who doesn’t drink ashore but regularly takes his tot, the equivalent of three large rums ashore, in the middle of the forenoon’ (Surgeon-Lieutenant H. Osmond: Dec. 1948).

temple of low men, the female pudend, is a late C. 19–20 jocular pun on the literary ‘temple of Hymen’.

ten!, give her. Cox’s or coaches’ demand for a ten-stroke spurt: rowing coll.: since ca. 1880.

ten, keep a. See keep a ten.

ten A matches. Non-safety matches: Naval: late C. 19–20. ‘The only matches allowed in H.M. Ships are “safeties” and in the old days anyone found with any other kind was given “Ten A” (now number eleven) punishment,’ Granville.

ten(-)foot. ‘Middle space between four rows of tracks’ (Railway, 3rd): railwaymen’s coll.: C. 20.

ten o’clock girls. Prostitutes: Londoners’: since ca. 1930. (Sewell Stokes, Court Circular, 1950.) At that hour, a.m., they have to surrender to their bail in the Magistrates’ Court.

ten stone eight. A ‘10’ and an ‘8’ in one’s hand: Australian poker-players’: since ca. 1920. (B., 1953.)

ten to two. See what’s the time?—2. A Jew: rhyming s.: C. 20. Less usual than four-by-two. The Leader, Jan. 1939.

ten-ton Tessie. ‘The R.A.F.’s latest and biggest bomb . . . yesterday . . . was used for the first time by specially equipped Lancasters . . . The new . . . bomb—the R.A.F. calls it “Ten-ton Tessie”—weighs 22,000 lb,’ Daily Herald, March 15, 1945. The 4,000, 8,000, 12,000 pounders received the name block-buster. It was named after Tessie O’Shea, the famous variety artist.

ten up! A stockbrokers’ c.p., directed at a broker whose credit is shaky: from ca. 1870. B. & L. Ex enforced deposit of 10%.

tenant (simple and compound) in C. 17 drinking terms: see ‘Tavern terms’, § 9.

tence; esp. in false tences, false pretences: C. 20. Jim Phelan, In the Can, 1939.

tender one’s homage. See ‘Tavern terms’, § 9.

tenner, 1 (p. 871). Thirteen years earlier in Sessions, March 1848.

tennis, anyone? A c.p., by way of opening a conversation or, with a girl, a flirtation: ? mostly Canadian: since ca. 1956. But, in Britain, it ‘goes back to at least the 1920’s, being the hallmark of that so familiar species of English “social comedy” where there are French windows upstage centre’ (Ramsey Spencer, March 1967).

tennyrate. At any rate: Cockney sol.: mid-C. 19-20. A Neil Lyons, Clara, 1912, "'It's a temp'rance drink . . . 'Tennyrate, it raises your spirits up.'" tenpence to the shilling (p. 871). In Huntingtower, 1922, John Buchan uses the variant about tenpence in the shilling only.

tent(-)peg. An egg: late C. 19-20: orig. and still tramps', by ca. 1925 also Cockney. (Jim Phelan, 1949; Julian Franklyn, 1961.)

[Tenterden steeple is the cause of Goodwin Sands. This proverb, which = 'any reason is better than none', is occ. used of a very weak or silly reason: C. 16-mid-19: rather S.E. than coll. Apperson.]

tenting. 'This is the word now in use among circus people to describe their mode of doing business in the country,' All the Year Round, Nov. 16, 1861: coll. >, by 1880, S.E. Thomas Frost, Circus Life, 1875, simply defines tent and the synonymous pitch as 'to go on tour.'

teotties. See chots.

terms of endearment among sailors, it's a. A 'palliative c.p. for use of swear-word bugger. Unfair to the Navy, but sailors have had worse than that to bear; soldiers, airmen, and the French laugh it off too; dirty bugger is, however, meant to have a sting' (Laurie Atkinson, Sept. 11, 1967): C. 20.

termite. A political (esp. Labour) saboteur: Australian political: since ca. 1925. (B., 1943.)

terra firma. See good old England.

terri. Coal: Shelta: C. 18-20. B. & L.

Terries, the. See Terry (Dict.).—2. The Territorial Army: New Zealand: since ca. 1930. (Slatter.)

Terror, the. 'In 1888, . . . a very wet year in England, [Charles T. B. Turner] became known as "The Terror", and his fellow-bowler, J. J. Ferris, was called "The Fiend". In that season Turner took 314 wickets and Ferris 220, and they created almost a panic among English batsmen,' The Observer, Jan. 2, 1944.

terry. A heating-iron: Shelta: C. 18-20. B. & L.

tester, three slips for a. See three slips . . . ; in Dict.

testicles to you! A 'polite' variation of balls to you! (Dict.): from ca. 1920.

tetra, additional, fine, 'splendid'; go beyond the tetra, to beat the record: Felsted School: ca. 1870-1920. Farmer, Public Schools' Word-Book, 1900. Perversion of extra? or ex Greek tetra, combining-form of tessara, 'four' (cf. four-square)?

tewt. Tactical exercises without troops: Army officers': from ca. 1934; by 1942, j. Also toot.

than for other than is a catachresis rare before the C. 19 but now more common than would, to the purist, seem possible. Thus the author of London Symphony, 1934, writes: 'He disliked the clash of personality, regarding any personality than his own as an intolerable intrusion.'

than that. See more than that.

thank God we have an army! A fleeting ironical c.p. of the Army when it heard the first official news of the Battle of Jutland (May 31, 1916).

thank you for nothing! I owe you no thanks for that, and indeed I scorn the offer: c.p.: C. 20.

thanks!, no. You don't catch me!: Society c.p.: ca. 1885-1905. B. & L.

thanks for having me! A c.p. uttered by boarder departing from seaside boarding-house: C. 20. Emphasis on having.

thanks for saving my life or thanks! you've saved my life. A jocular c.p. addressed to one who has just 'stood a drink': since ca. 1919.

thanks for the buggy ride! 'A c.p. expressing thanks for some small service; often ironical' (Leechman): Canadian: C. 20; by 1960, ob.

that. So far as: catachrestic: C. 20. The Pawnshop Murder: 'He found that it was unlocked; indeed, that he could see, [it] seemed to have no means of locking.'—2. Thus (manner)—not a very common usage; so (degree): app. orig. U.S.; then since the late 1930's (? earlier), Canadian; then, ca. 1945, British, Australian, New Zealand, etc.: even at its inception, coll. rather than s.—and, because of its brevity and expressiveness (it's elliptical for 'as—e.g., stupid—as all that'), it has, by 1969, almost attained the status of familiar S.E. As in these two examples cited by Dr Leechman in a communication of April 1967: 'I never knew he was that stupid', i.e. 'as stupid as that', and 'He's got money but he's not that rich'.

that adds up; that figures. That makes sense: c.p.p.: the former, a British version, since ca. 1950, of the latter, itself adopted, ca. 1945, ex U.S.

that and this. A urination; to urinate: racing rhyming s. (on piss): C. 20. (Franklyn 2nd.) Contrast this and that below.

that devil nobody. See nobody . . .

that just shows to go. A jocular, mostly Australian, deliberate Spoonerism for the very gen. that just goes to show, itself verging on c.p. status: since ca. 1930. (B.P.)

that kind of money, as in 'I don't earn'—or 'have'—'that kind of money', I'm not well off: coll.: since the late 1940's.

that makes the cheese more binding! That's the stuff: Canadian c.p.: ca. 1945-55.

that makes two of us. A c.p., dating from ca. 1940 and addressed to someone who says that he doesn't understand what he has just heard or read.

that man. See it's that man again.

that remains to be seen, as the monkey said when he shat in the sugar-bowl. A Canadian c.p.: since ca. 1930. A facetious elaboration.

that shook him (or me or . . .). That astonished surprised, perturbed, perplexed, baffled, him: Services, esp. the R.A.F.: 1939+. Sept. 20, 1942, Sgt-Pilot F. Rhodes (letter), 1943, H. & P. Short for . . . shook . . . up. Intensively: 'I was shaken rigid (or rotten).'

that side, there; this side, here. Pidgin: mid-C. 19-20. B. & L.

that there. See this here.

that there, a bit of. Sexual intercourse: low: C. 20.

that thing is wild. That aircraft is much faster than I thought: R.A.F.: 1939+. H. & P.

that way, adj. Homosexual: since ca. 1920; by 1966 slightly ob. Compton Mackenzie, Thin Ice, 1956, 'She didn't want to believe the stories about Henry Fortesque being that way as he was obviously épris with his pretty sister-in-law.' Short for euphemistic that way inclined.

that will stop him laughing in church! That will take the smile off his face; that'll fix him: c.p.: since c.a. 1930. (Peter Sanders.) Cf. the (? mainly Public School) boys' that will teach him to part in chapel or that'll stop their farting in chapel, that'll stop them from taking liberties: C. 20. (Laurie Atkinson, Sept. 11, 1967.)

that'll be the day! 'Expressing mild doubt following some boast or claim,' B., 1941: New Zealand: C. 20. See also day, that'll be the. Also, by ca. 1945, Aus., as in Eleanor Dark, Lantana Lane, 1959.

that's; in C. 17, occ. thats. That is: coll.: C. 17-20. Dekker, Lanthorne and Candle-light, 1608-9, 'They call a prison, a Quien ken, that's to say, an ill house.'

that's a bit under. A c.p. directed at a risqué joke or remark: office- and shop-girls': since ca. 1950. 'Not infrequently the "under" is dropped in favour of a dipping action with the elbow' (Gilderdale).

that's a rhyme if you take it in time is the c.p. directed at one who accidentally makes a rhyme; one replies, yes, I'm a poet and I didn't know it. Or you're a poet and don't know it; reply Yes, that's a rhyme... Mostly lower-middle class: from ca. 1870.

that's about it (or right). That's exactly right: Australian jocular coll.: since ca. 1920. (B.P.)

that's all was, ca. 1830-80, a much-used coll. intensive, as, e.g., in "'When I'm in the army, won't I hate the French, that's all'".

that's all I (or we or you or they) need (occ. needed). Ironical for 'That's the last thing I need or needed'; 'That's the last straw': c.p.: since ca. 1958.

that's all I wanted to know! A c.p. of confirmation of, and resentment against, disagreeable facts: since ca. 1936. (Atkinson.)

that's chummy or ducky or just dandy or lovely! An ironic c.p. = 'That's the last straw!': Australian: since ca. 1946, except just dandy, adopted, ca. 1944, ex U.S. servicemen. 'The petrol tank is empty.'—'That's chummy' or... (B.P.) The 2nd and 4th are common in England.

that's fighting talk! A jocular c.p., retorting upon a pretended affront: C. 20. (Atkinson.)

that's for sure! That's true; certainly: coll.: adopted in Britain and Australia, ca. 1945 and ex U.S.; by 1960, thoroughly naturalized.

that's for the birds! Tell that to the marines!: adopted, ca. 1950, ex U.S., with variant that's strictly for the birds.

'that's gone', as the girl said to the soldier in the park. A c.p. of ca. 1890-1910. Binstead.

that's him with the hat on! A humorous c.p. ref. to a person that is being pointed out and is standing near pigs, scarecrows, monkeys, what-have-you: orig. farmers?: C. 20.

that's just too bad! A c.p., 'implying that an appeal to consideration or restraint, has failed' (Atkinson): adopted, ca. 1937, ex U.S.

that's my story and I'm stuck all round it. That is my excuse (or explanation) and I'm standing by it: Royal Engineers': since ca. 1930. H. & P.

that's not hay! That's big money: Canadian c.p.: adopted, ca. 1945, ex U.S. 'I sold my house for forty thousand dollars—and that's not hay!' (Leechman.)

that's one for you! That settles you: c.p.: C. 20.

that's the barber (at barber, p. 32). Earlier in George Parker, A View of Society, 1781.

that's the snuffler! Excellent; well done!:

c.p., ? mostly Naval: C. 19; †by ca. 1890—if not much earlier. Wm N. Glascock, Sketch-Book, 2nd Series, 1834, at I, 17.

that's the way the ball bounces or... the cookie crumbles. Such is life: Australian: both adopted, ca. 1944, ex U.S. servicemen. (B.P.)

that's up to you! A c.p. that caps a convincing argument: low: C. 20. Often accompanied by a coarse gesture.

that's what I say. A much overdone conversational tag that verges on being a c.p.: late C. 19-20.

that's your best bet. That's the best way to do it, to go, etc.: coll.: since ca. 1930. Ex horse-racing.

theatre, Irish. See Irish theatre (Dict.).

thedi or theddy; tedhi. Fire: Shelta: C. 18-20. B. & L.

them's the jockeys for me! A Canadian c.p., applied since ca. 1950 to anything delicious or desirable. (Leechman.) Of anecdotal origin.

then (or and then) you woke up? A c.p., implying disbelief in a tall story: late C. 19-20.

theolog. A student of Theology: Durham undergraduates': C. 20. (Marples, 2.)

Theory, the Sparks; the Stinks Theory. The theories that nerve impulses are transmitted electrically or (Stinks) chemically: medical coll.: since ca. 1940. (B.P.) there is the door the carpenter made! usually with there emphasised. You may go: lower middle-class c.p. of ca. 1760-90. Sessions, 1767, trial of Rebecca Pearce.

there she blows! A cheeky c.p. in ref. to a fat woman bathing: C. 20. Ex the whaler's cry.

there you ain't! A proletarian, esp. Cockney, c.p. imputing or declaring failure: ca. 1880-1910. B. & L.

there you are!—2. A bar (for drinking): rhyming s.: C. 20. (Franklyn, Rhyming.)

there'll be blood for breakfast (, let alone tea). A cautionary c.p., esp. from N.C.O.'s: Forces' (— 1939) >, by 1943, gen.

there'll be pie in the sky when you die. See pie in the sky...

there's a war on. A c.p. of 1939-45: cf. c'est la guerre of 1914-18. During W.W. I, however, servicemen used the c.p. they don't know there's a war on of 'civvies' leading a safe and comfortable life—and, semi-jocularly, of Base wallahs. (A. B. Petch, March 1966.)

there's always something! A c.p., implying 'to bother or disappoint you': since the late 1940's.

there's no doubt about you! A c.p., expressive of admiration: Australian: since ca. 1925. B., 1942.

there's no future in it! See future...

there's nothing as (occ. so) queer as folks. A c.p., which = 'It's a queer world': since ca. 1910. Cf. the seemingly fatuous, really witty 'There's a lot of human nature in men, women and children'.

there's nothing like it. A c.p., often used with little—or no—relevance: C. 20.

there's one born every minute (, they say). A c.p. implying that one (self or other) has been duped: C. 20. By 1947, verging on the proverbial. 'Ex a saying attributed to P. T. Barnum [1810-91], the circus magnate, "There's a sucker born every minute"' (Leechman).

thermos. An Italian bomb shaped like a thermos flask; hence Thermos Bottle Flats, an area where these bombs were dropped in large numbers: Army in N. Africa: World War II. (P-G-R.)

these and those. Nose; toes: Australian rhyming s.: C. 20.

they.—3. There: sol.: mid-C. 19–20. Pugh (2): 'I went where they was shops about.'

they can make you do anything in the Air Force except have a baby! A 'c.p. tribute to authority and discipline' (Atkinson): since ca. 1925. Adopted from the Army's c.p. (1916 +); the Army naturally says Army, not Air Force, and often it adds, and they'd have a bloody good try to do that!

they don't know there's a war on. See there's a war on above.

they don't yell, they don't tell, and they're very grateful. A 'young men's c.p. tribute to love of good, mature women, and their supposed amorous response' (Laurie Atkinson, who, on Sept. 11, 1967, records having heard it in 1959): since ca. 1920.

they got me!; occ. they've . . . 'A trivial c.p., uttered when one hears a peal of thunder or a loud explosion' (B.P.): mostly Australian: since late 1940's. Ex the cry of the fatally injured or wounded—in stories and films.

they laughed when I sat down at the piano, but when I started to play! 'That old advertisement has crept into the language as a standard cliché' (Monica Dickens in Woman's Own, May 22, 1965): not a cliché but a c.p.: since ca. 1920.

they think their shit doesn't stink. (Of would-be) superior girls: c.p.: C. 20. (Laurie Atkinson, who heard it used by a liftman on April 6, 1961.) Cf. Lady Nevershit above.

they're eating nothing. They'll sell later: tradesmen's c.p.: C. 20.

they're off, Mr Cutts is a C. 20 New Zealand shape (B., 1941) of:

they're off, said the monkey. The race has started; or, applied to something that has come loose: c.p.: late C. 19–20. Often enlarged thus: . . . when he backed into the lawn-mower (with a consequent loss of potency).

thick, n., 2 (p. 870). Also Anglo-Irish: late C. 19–20. (Brian Moore, The Luck of Ginger Coffey, 1960.) This thick may be for 'thick-headed person'. 6. A thick is a letter-card, a thin a postcard: Post Office staffs': C. 20. First heard by me on Oct. 31, 1947.

thick, adj.—6. Dull; slovenly; slack: Services: since ca. 1935. H. & P. Cf. S.E. thick-headed and thick, adj., 2 (p. 875).

thick, in the. In, esp. caught in, a thick fog: R.A.F. (operational 'types'): since ca. 1930. (Cf. shit, 7.)

thick, piece of. See piece of thick.

thick boot. A term of abuse: North Country grammar schools': since late 1940's. New Society, Aug. 22, 1963.

thick-legs (rare in singular). Navvies': ca. 1860–1910. (D. W. Barrett, Navvies, 1880.)

thick one, thick 'un.—2. (Always thick 'un.) A slice of bread and butter: Cockney: late C. 19–20. A. Neil Lyons, Arthur's, 1908.

thick 'un, do (somebody) a. To play a dirty trick upon: mostly Londoners': since ca. 1920. (Maurice Procter, Man in Ambush, 1958.)

thick upon one . . . (p. 875). With a pun on this exact phrase in Shakespeare, Henry VIII, III, ii.

thickening for something. Visibly pregnant: since late 1950's. Ex S.E. sickening for something. (A. B. Petch, April 1966.)

thickers. Strong mess-deck tea: Naval (lower-deck): since ca. 1925. Ex thick by 'the Oxford -er'. (P-G-R.)

Thicksides (p. 875). Also at Oxford ca. 1840–90. It occurs in e.g., T. Hughes, Tom Brown at Oxford, 1861. (Marples, 2.)

thieve, n. A theft: since ca. 1945. L. J. Cunliffe, Having It Away, 1965, 'There was no other way into the drum. (Which . . . is what we call a place we've got in line for a thief.)' thieves' cat (p. 875): much earlier as thief's-cat, in W. N. Glascock, Sketch-Book, 2nd Series, 1834, at II, 59; prob. going back to very early C. 19. (Moe.)

Thieves' Kitchen, the.—3. The London Stock Exchange: taxi-drivers': since ca. 1920. (Weekly Telegraph, April 6, 1946.)

thilly. A make-weight: Shelta: C. 18–20. B. & L.

thimble and thumb. Rum: rhyming s.: C. 20. Weekly Telegraph, April 6, 1946.

thin, n.; plural, thin. A thin slice of bread and butter: Cockneys': ca. 1845–1910. Mayhew, I, 1861.—2. See thick, n., 6.

thin miner. 'A hewer working in thin seams of coal' (The Evening News, Sept. 28, 1955): miners' coll. (late C. 19–20) >, by 1945, official jargon.

thin(-)oil engine. A 'diesel locomotive, particularly during transitory period, when a driver may have had to perform duties on either steam or diesel locomotives' (Railway, 3rd): coll.: since late 1950's.

thin on the ground. Sparse; sparsely: coll., middle and upper classes': C. 20. (But I cannot remember hearing it before ca. 1930.) Of agricultural (or forestry) origin—cf. the S.E. sense, 'not dense, not bushy'? Or, less likely, of sport (shooting). As applied to human beings, it was, Professor Simeon Potter believes, used first by the Higher Command, in W.W. I, of the disposition of troops; Mr Oliver Stonor thinks it not later than W.W. I and possibly of a fox's scent 'thin on the ground'; my friends Alan Steele and 'Peter' (J.A.) Cochrane knew it at the beginning of W.W. II and believe that it was current in W.W. I ('At the beginning of W.W. II all Service slang tended to be based on that of W.W. I'): and Colonel Archie White, a very distinguished V.C. of W.W. I, confirms their opinion by telling me (Nov. 9, 1967), that the phrase was 'applied in the 1914 war to troops or dispositions in general'—and adds, 'But most officers in that war had a country background, and had already learned the phrase from sowing of seeds, planting of young trees, etc.' Mr R. W. Burchfield, editor of The O.E.D. Supplement, remembers its use in W.W. II for troops 'thin on the ground' and tells me that, on Oct. 4, 1967, the only O.E.D. record was for 1964; Dr Ivor Brown thinks it of hunting or shooting origin; Mr Peter Sanders reminds me that, in Aug. 1942, Field Marshal Montgomery, in an appreciation of the desert campaign, referred to 13 Corps as being 'rather thin on the ground' (see General Brian Horrocks, A Full Life, 1960.) My final guess is that ultimately the phrase comes from the sowing of seed.

thin red line, the. In The Age of Elegance, Arthur Bryant quotes the 'thin red line of old bricks' (staunch fellows), à propos the second Battle of the Nive, in Dec. 1813. (His exact source is unclear.)

thing.—4. Penis; pudend: when used not euphemistically but carelessly (cf. affair) or lightly, it is low coll.: C. 17–20.—5. A fad; a moral, or an intellectual, kink; an obsession: since ca. 1935. Ngaio Marsh, Died in the Wool, 1945, 'She hated bits on the carpet. She had a "thing" about them and always picked them up.' Prob. short for thingummy, used for 'obsession' or 'complex', words too learned for the commonalty of everyday speech.

thingo (pron. thing-o). An Australian equivalent—with the Australian suffix -o—of thingummy (p. 876).

things are looking up! A c.p., directed at someone with a new suit or a new car: since ca. 1925.

things is crook in Muswell Brook and things is weak in Werris Creek. Australian card-players' c.p.p.: since ca. 1920. (B., 1953.)

things to, do. See make go all unnecessary.

Things (will) happen (even) in the best-regulated families, these (occasionally such). An apologetic or an explanatory c.p., applied to a family quarrel or misfortune: domestic: late C. 19–20.

thingummybob. See thingumbob (Dict.).

thingy. Penis: C. 20. Ex the euphemistic, mindless thingummy (bob).

think (oneself). To be conceited: Australian: since ca. 1930. Margaret Trist, Now That We're Laughing, 1944, 'Thinks herself, that girl.' Elliptical for 'Think well of (one)self'.

think, you can't. See you can't think.

think-box. The head: Australian: ca. 1890–1910. The Sydney Bulletin, Jan 18, 1902. (Baker.) Also thinking-box, as in Alex. Macdonald, In the Land of Pearl and Gold, 1907.

think-in. A poetry session or a discussion group: among the more intelligent jazz 'fans' and drug addicts and hippies: since ca. 1965. (Peter Fryer in The Observer, Dec. 3, 1967.) Cf.—and see—love-in above.

think (or do you think) I've just been dug up? Do you think me a fool?: c.p.: since ca. 1915.

think-piece. A serious article: journalists': since ca. 1946. It causes one to think, not merely to proliferate at the mouth. 'Also an article that the writer was able to "think up" out of his head without doing any research or "leg work"' (Douglas Leechman, 1960).

Think the lights of Piccadilly Circus (or the sun). See lights of Piccadilly Circus.

thinks his shit doesn't stink, often preceded by the sort of bloke who or he. A c.p. applied to a conceited fellow: non-aristocratic, non-cultured: ca. 1870. Often completed by but it does, same as any other bugger's.

Thirsty Island. Thursday Island, N.W. of Cape York Peninsula, Australia: late C. 19–20. It used to do a great trade in the sale of liquor to pearl-fishers.

thirteence. A shilling: since ca. 1920. 'Twelve pence' > a baker's dozen.

thirty, but in form 30. The end: Canadian journalists' and free-lance writers': since ca. 1910. 'I believe this to be one of the few remaining traces of a telegraphers' code (Phillips?) in which numbers stood for words or sentences, thus economizing space and time' (Leechman: May 1959).

Cf. twenty-three. In a note written a year later, Dr Leechman says, 'Two years ago, in the interior [of British Columbia], I dug up another remnant of this code: "73's"—which meant kind regards.'

thirty days. Three '10' cards: Australian poker-players': since ca. 1920. (B., 1953.)

thirty-first of May. A simpleton: a dupe: Australian c.: since ca. 1925. (B., 1953.) Rhyming on gay, n.

this and that.—2. Mostly in the pl. thises and thats, spats, not sprats: rhyming s.: C. 20; by 1960, ob.—3. To bat (in cricket): rhyming s.: since ca. 1946. Franklyn 2nd.

this child (p. 877) was, by 1950, virtually dead.

this and that. A hat!: Australian rhyming s.: C. 20. A. A. Martin, letter, 1937; B., 1942.

this here. In A Burlesque Translation of Homer, 1770, Thomas Bridges writes, 'The inside of your this here church,' which somewhat exaggerated sentence he glosses thus, 'An elegant style much used by the cockneys, viz. That there wall, this here post, etc., etc.'

this I must see (or hear)! Partly ironic, partly deprecatory c.p. of amused intention: since ca. 1955. Cf. now I've seen everything.

this is better than a thump on the back with a stone. See thump on . . . in the Dict.

this is it! This is the end (lit. or fig.): Army c.p. of ca. 1940–5. Adopted ex American films. (P-G-R.)

this is mine! or this is it! Uttered when an approaching shell or bomb seems to indicate one's imminent death: Forces' c.p.: 1940+. The latter was adopted from the U.S.

this is my day out. A c.p. used by one 'standing treat' in a public-house: since ca. 1930.

this is the weather we signed on for! A Merchant Navy c.p., applied, in C. 20, to agreeably warm, fine weather.

this is where I, or we, came in. We've come full cycle: a c.p. that, dating from ca. 1946, is taken from the experience of cinema-haunters.

this is where you want it, accompanied by a tap on one's own forehead. You need brains: c.p.: late C. 19–20. The same gesture accompanies the C. 20. c.p. he's got it up there, he's intelligent.

this savvy. This afternoon: Merseyside school-children's: late C. 19–20. A slovening of 'this afternoon'. Perhaps, rather, sol.

this should not be possible. A Naval, mostly wardroom, c.p.—used when the impossible has regrettably occurred: Naval: since ca. 1920. A quotation from the Gunnery Manual.

this training really toughens you: you get muscles in your shit. A Canadian Army c.p. of World War II.

this will give you the cock-stand. A male c.p. addressed to someone offered a drink or a special dish: since ca. 1910.

this won't buy Baby—or the baby—a frock (or a new dress, etc.)! But this is no good; I'm wasting my time, or being idle: c.p.: C. 20. Leonard Merrick, Peggy Harper, 1911 ('This won't buy baby a frock').

thises and thats. Sprats: rhyming s.: C. 20; by 1959, ob. (Franklyn, Rhyming.)

Thomas is a C. 19–20 variant of John Thomas, 2 (Dict.).

Thomas Tilling. A shilling; rhyming s.: C. 20. Michael Harrison, All the Trees were Green, 1936.

thomyok or tomyok. A magistrate: Shelta: C. 18–20. B. & L.

thora. A thoracoplasty: medical coll.: since ca. 1930. (Dymphna Cusack, Say No to Death, 1951.)

thou.—2. A thousandth of an inch: technical coll., mostly Australian: since ca. 1930. (B.P.)

Thou shalt not blab! An underworld 'commandment': late C. 19–20.

thoughtful, n. See three and sixpenny thoughtful (Dict.).

thousand-miler. A starched blue shirt with an attachable starched blue collar, worn by railroadmen in Canada: railroadmen's (— 1931). Good for 1,000 miles. Ex the much earlier U.S. synonym, thousand-mile shirt. (Robert Clairborne.)

thrash, n. A 'slog' or bout of hard-hitting, whether by one batsman or more: cricketers': since ca. 1960. Brian Close, England's captain at that time, in an interview reported in the Daily Express of Aug. 14, 1967.—2. A party, with drinks, supper, dancing: Naval: since late 1930's. (John Winton, H.M.S. Leviathan, 1967.)

thread, v. (Of the man) to coit with: Anglo-Irish: C. 20. (Brendan Behan, Borstal Boy, 1958.) Cf. thread the needle on p. 878 and below.

thread the needle (p. 878) is still active in Anglo-Irish; it occurs in, e.g., Brendan Behan, Borstal Boy, 1958.

three.—3. Three years' service: Services coll., among regulars: late C. 19–20. (P-G-R.)

three acres and a cow (p. 878). An ironic reference to the slogan coined by Joseph Chamberlain's henchman, Jesse Collings, who proposed that every smallholder should possess them; he became known as Three Acres and a Cow Collings. The slogan perhaps derived from a song popular so long ago as the 1880's. (A. McQueen.)

three bags full (or three bagsful). Much: coll.: from ca. 1890.

Three-Be (or, By)-Two. A Jew: low: C. 20. A variant of four-by-two, 2 (Dict.).

three B's.—2. (As in 1: the.) Bullshit baffles brains: R.A.F.: since ca. 1935.—3. Beer, bum (= copulation) and bacca (= tobacco): nautical: C. 20.—4. (The . . .) A c.p., embodying what every good bushwhacker ought to do with his rubbish, Burn, bash and bury: Australian: since ca. 1920. Cf. the very much longer-established c.p. used by bushwhackers: the bigger the fire, the bigger the fool, applied esp. to the fire made for the purpose of boiling a billy. (B.P.) three cheers and a tiger. Three cheers and a very hearty additional cheer: adopted, ca. 1918, from U.S. A tiger is ferocious.

three-cornered horse. 'A scraggy, weedy, outlaw horse' (B., 1959): Aus. rural: late C. 19–20. (B., 1959.) Ex three-cornered on p. 878.

three-cornered pinch. A cocked hat, either a seaman's or resembling one: military: ca. 1800–50. John L. Gardner, The Military Sketch-Book, 1827. (Moe.) Cf.:

three-cornered scraper (p. 878) prob. dates from ca. 1810 or even earlier; it occurs in The Saturday Evening Post of March 16, 1822, on p. 1, col. 5.

three C's, the. See C's, the three.

three-decker.—3. A three-volume novel: book-world coll.: ca. 1840–1900, then historical.

three-figure man. One whose arrest comports a reward of £100: policemen's: mid-C. 19–20; by 1940, ob. John Lang, The Forger's Wife, 1855.

Three Graces, the. See Graces, the Three in Dict.

three hearty British cheers! 'Grudging praise for a minor accomplishment. "I passed that exam after three goes at it."—"Three hearty British cheers!"' (B.P.): British and Australian c.p.: since ca. 1930.

three-kidney man. A pimp in whose service there are three women: white-slavers' c.: C. 20. Albert Londres, The Road to Buenos Ayres, 1928.

three months' bumps. (A course of) three months' flying training: R.A.F.: since ca. 1938. Jackson. Cf.—and see—bump, 1 and 2.

Three O. A Third Officer in the Wrens: Naval: since ca. 1939. (P-G-R.)

three of (e.g., whiskey). Three 'fingers' of, e.g. whiskey: public-house coll.: late C. 19–20.

three of the best. Three condoms: Australian: since ca. 1925. 'Gis [Give us] three of the best, mate.' In Australia, condoms are usu. sold in packets of three.

three on the hook, three on the book. Half-a-week's work: dockers': since ca. 1925. The book refers to the dole; the hook is a tool of the stevedore's trade.

Three Ones, the. Trafalgar Square: Londoner's since ca. 1860; ob. by 1920, but not yet †. The reference is to Nelson's column, Nelson having one eye, one arm and one anus.—2. (In lower case.) See Lord Nelson.

three-or-four-point drinker. 'A man who calls for 6d. gin with bitters, limejuice and soda,' B., 1942: since ca. 1925; by end of 1945, ob.

three pennorth. Three years' penal servitude: c.: C. 20. F. D. Sharpe, The Flying Squad, 1938. See penn'orth (p. 617).

three pennorth of God help us. A weakling; a spiritless, unrepossessing fellow: Australian: C. 20. B., 1942.

three-pipper. A captain: Army: C. 20. Ex the three stars indicating his rank. (P-G-R.)

three-pointer is a variant (dating since ca. 1932 and, since 1940, more usual) of three-pricker (p. 878): R.A.F. coll. >, by 1944, j. Jackson.

three-ride business. 'The crack way of running over hurdles, in which just three strides are taken mechanically between each hurdle': athletics: from ca. 1870. B. & L.

three ringer. See ringer, half.

three-rounder. A petty criminal; a small operator: since ca. 1950: c. >, by 1965, low s. (Douglas Warner, Death of a Snout, 1961.) Ex the three-round bouts of junior and novice boxing.

three screws. 'An aluminium box containing three condoms. Three Screws was the brand name' (Leechman): Canadian: since ca. 1920. A pun on s. screw, a copulation.

three sheets, short for three sheets in the wind: Sessions, Nov. 1857, 'He said, "A man will do anything when he is tight, or three sheets"—he had been drinking.'

three S's, the (p. 879). Since ca. 1920, it has tended to designate 'a shit, a shave and a sham-poo'.

three-striper. See striper (Dict.).

three turns (p. 870). Tom Cox's (or Coxe's) traverse is recorded in 1806 (John Davis) and again in 1818 (Alfred Burton). Moe.

three weeks. A c.p., connoting a sexual experience either lasting or culminating at or near the end of that period: ca. 1907-14. A testimony to the vast popularity of Elinor Glyn's novel, Three Weeks, 1907.

three-year-old. A stone weighing 3 lb. and used as a weapon: Anglo-Irish: C. 19. Peter Cunningham, Two Years, 1827.

threepenny bits, the. Diarrhoea: C. 20. Rhyming on the shits. Often shortened to the three-pennies.—2. Hence, irritation, disgust, as in 'He gives me the threepennies': since ca. 1920.—3. The female breasts: rhyming s. (on tits): late C. 19-20.

threepenny dodger; t. Johnnie. A threepenny piece: Cockneys': C. 20. The former ex its elusiveness: the reference is to the silver coin.

thresh or thresh-up. A fight: Australian: since ca. 1930. (Dymphna Cusack, Say No to Death, 1951.)

threshing machine, fight like a. See fight like a . . . above.

thrifty. A threepenny piece: since ca. 1935, but esp. since the angular one came in.

thrill.—2. An orgasm; esp., give one a thrill: euphemistic coll.: since ca. 1910.

thriller merchant. A writer of 'thrillers': publishers' and authors': since ca. 1919. In, e.g., E. R. Lorac, Death of an Author, 1935. Ex thriller (p. 879) and merchant (p. 517).

throat-seizing, n. Naval s. of ca. 1800-90, as in W. N. Glascock, Sketch-Book, 2nd Series, 1834, at I, 15, 'As sure as the bell strikes four in the middle watch, he's always, always a throat-seizing ready for the man at the weather-wheel'—glossed as 'a glass of grog'. (Moe.)

throb. Such a person as, usually of the opposite sex, mightily appeals to someone: schoolgirls': since ca. 1945. Short for heart-throb. (Charles Franklin, Escape to Death, 1951.)

thrombosis. A traffic apprentice: railwaymen's: since ca. 1945. Railway 2nd records the witty professional definition, 'a bloody clot wandering round the system'.

throttler. A punch on the throat: pugilistic: ca. 1810-60. Boxiana, II, 1818. Ex S.E. throttle, jocular for 'throat'. 'Also, perhaps, because it half chokes him' (Robert Clairborne).

through, be. To have finished (a job, etc.): Canadian (and U.S.) coll.: since ca. 1910. (Leechman.)

through a side door, have come. To be illegitimate: coll.: from ca. 1860. B. & L.

through-put out of a mess, take the. To disentangle a 'mess': Naval ratings' coll.: C. 19. (W. N. Glascock, Sketch-Book, 2nd Series, 1834, at I, 215.) Moe.

through the gate. See gate, through the.

throw, v.—4. To castrate (an animal): Australian: late C. 19-20. B., 1942. Ex its being thrown to the ground for the operation to be performed.—5. To fail to extract the full meaning or emotional content out of one's lines as one might: theatrical coll.: since ca. 1945. Ex 'to throw away'. Cf. sense 2 (p. 879).—6. Hence, to deliberately fail in this; theatrical: since ca. 1950.—7. To disconcert; to upset: since ca. 1961. 'Your unexpected arrival threw him.'

throw, so much a. Such and such a price or charge at a time (each time), as in 'two bob a throw': New Zealand: since ca. 1956. Harold Griffiths, letter of March 28, 1962, 'From the old side-shows of the fair'.

throw a fit. To become very angry or agitated: C. 20: s. >, ca. 1930, coll.

throw a leg over. To coit with (the female): low coll.: late C. 18-20. Ex leg on . . ., q.v. in Dict.

throw a map. To vomit: Australian: since ca. 1925. (B., 1943.)

throw a rave—occ. a shake or a percolator. To give a party: beatniks': since ca. 1959. (Anderson.) Ex throw a party on pp. 879-880.

throw a seven. See seven . . .—2. To faint: Australian: C. 20. (Vince Kelly, The Greedy Ones, 1958.) On dice, the highest number of 'spots' is six.

throw a six is a variant (B., 1942) of:

throw a willy. See willy . . .

throw-away. A leaflet, esp. if of only one sheet: coll.: since ca. 1930. It is usually thrown away as soon as read—if not before. Cf. dodger, 11, above.

throw for a loop. See thrown . . .

throw him, would not trust him as far as I could. See trust him . . .

throw-in. Synonymous with chuck-in: Australian: C. 20. B., 1942.

throw it in. To give up, to desist: Australian coll.: since ca. 1910. 'They might be ready to throw it in': A. M. Harris, The Tall Man, 1958. Short for boxing throw in the towel.

throw it up against—or at—or to (someone) or in (his) face. To reproach: orig. (ca. 1870), low; by 1920, fairly general. Ex vomiting.

throw one up. To salute in a neat, efficient, regulation manner: Services: since ca. 1925. H. & P.

throw the baby out with the bath-water. To overdo something, carry it too far, e.g. a political measure or a commercial practice or a sociological activity, often as a warning to theorists 'Don't, throw . . .': since ca. 1946. 'Cf. the Ger. proverbial Das Kind mit dem Bad ausgiessen' (Ramsey Spencer).

throw the book at (someone). Of the police, a magistrate, a judge: to sentence to the full penalty of the law: adopted, ca. 1944, ex U.S. 'The book of rules' or 'the law book'.

throw up.—2. (Of the male) to experience the sexual orgasm: low: C. 19-20.—3. To vomit: coll.: late C. 19-20. 'I wanted to throw up' whether lit. or fig. used.

throw up a maiden. To bowl a maiden over: cricketers': from ca. 1880. B. & L.

throwing temperament. See temperament, throw.

throwing up buckets; gen. preceded by simply. Very vexed: exceedingly disappointed: Australian: ca. 1875-1910. B. & L. Suggested by sick, 3.

thrown for a loop. Startled; shocked: Air Force: 1939+. 'That posting to the Med. threw me for a loop.' Ex aerobatics. 'Much earlier, I think, in U.S. I suspect from cowboy roping, but also influenced by "thrown for a loss" (U.S. football)': Robert Clairborne, Aug. 31, 1966.

throws his money about like a man with no arms, he. He is very mean with his money: humorous c.p.: C. 20. (Atkinson.) Sometimes: . . . with no hands.

thrum, n., survives in Australia for 'threepence'; 'threepenny piece'. B., 1942.

thruster, thrusting.—2. Hence, among motorists, one who thrusts his car—thrusting one's car—ahead of others: coll.: since ca. 1910.

thud. A figurative fall: Australian: since ca. 1930. Gavin Casey, Downhill is Easier, 1945, 'You're heading for a thud with the yellow stuff, too.'

thud, v. To strike (a person) resoundingly: Australian coll.: since ca. 1919. (Ruth Park, 1950.) Echoic.

thud and blunder. See skiet-skop-en-donder. thumb, v.—3. To ask (someone) for a 'lift' or free ride: coll.: 1940 +. Ex thumb a lift from (someone).

thumb, on the. Free; esp. in travel on the thumb, q.v. at hitch-hike.

thump, have a. To have one's chest finger-tapped; to be examined by the sanatorium doctor: TB. patients': since ca. 1920.

thunder and lightning, 2 (p. 881). Also shrub and whiskey: Anglo-Irish: C. 19. 'A Real Paddy', 1822.

Thunderbirds. See quotation at trog.

thunder-box. A commode: esp. in India: from ca. 1870; slightly ob. Cf. thunder-mug in Dict. Note, however, that it has, since ca. 1925, been common among submariners. (P-G-R.)

thunder-pump. See shite-poke, near end.

thunk. A facetious past participle of 'to think': Canadian: since ca. 1935. 'Who'd have thunk it?' (Leechman.)

ti-tri. See ti-tree in Dict.

tib, 1 (p. 881). Earlier in Mayhew, I, 1851.

tib and fib. Tibia and fibula: medical coll.: ate C. 19–20. (C. Brand, Green for Danger, 1945.)

tibby, n., 2 (p. 881). Rather since ca. 1810. Sinks, 1848; Jon Bee, 1823.—3. A 'tabloid' newspaper: Australian: since ca. 1930. (B., 1943.)

tibby, adj. Very eccentric; mad: Charterhouse School: C. 20.

Tic. A member of the Tics or Authentics' Cricket Club: Oxford: C. 20. (Marples, 2.)

Tich (p. 882) has also, since ca. 1925, been a nickname conferred by females upon a female.—2. Inseparable nickname of men surnamed Little: C. 20. Ex that famous comedian, Little Tich.

tick, n.—6. Esp. in have a tick on, to be monotonously or constantly complaining: Army: since ca. 1920. Ex tick, v., 6 (p. 882). P-G-R.

tick, v.—8. To salute (a master): Rugby: since mid-1920's. Marples. tick-jammer. The man that presses wool into bales: Australian: C. 20. B., 1942. I.e. sheep-ticks.

tick like fuck. To grumble like the very devil: Army: since ca. 1940. Cf. tick, v., 6, on p. 882. 'The degrees of disgruntledness among troops of the 8th Army were, brassed off, browned off, cheesed off, and ticking like fuck' (a correspondent, May 1965).

tick-tack, give the. To give the agreed word, or notice or warning: Glasgow c.: C. 20. MacArthur & Long. Ex tick-tack and give the tip, qq.v. in Dict.

Tick-Tock. 'Inevitable' nickname of men surnamed Ingersoll: C. 20. (Dick Francis, Nerve, 1964.) Ex the name of a famous make of watch.

tick-tock. A clock: children's coll.: C. 19–20.

ticker, 2 (a watch). Earlier in The Oracle, 1800.—6. (Ex sense 2: p. 882). A taxi-meter: taxi-drivers': since ca. 1910. See clock, n., 4. 7.

One who is constantly, esp. if monotonously, complaining: Army: since ca. 1920. (P-G-R.) Cf. tick, n., 6.—8. A telephone: Army: since ca. 1930. (P-G-R.)

ticker is diving. A c.p. reference to a heart attack: since ca. 1930.

ticket, 1 (p. 882). Also an Air Force pilot's certificate: R.A.F.: since ca. 1919. Jackson. n.—4. A Trade Union contribution card: industrial coll.: since ca. 1910.—5. A playing card, usually in pl.: card-, esp. bridge-players': since ca. 1935.

ticket, v. To sentence (someone) to imprisonment: low: ca. 1880–1920. Fergus Hume, Hagar of the Pawn Shop, 1898.

ticket, get a. To catch a venereal disease: Australian: since ca. 1918. B., 1942. In World War I bad venereal cases were dismissed from the army.

ticket, on. On ticket-of-leave: police coll.: C. 20. Francis Carlin, Reminiscences of an Ex-Detective, 1927.

ticket, take a. To receive a 'ticket': Winchester College: since ca. 1870. E. H. Lacon Watson, In the Days of His Youth, 1935, 'A ticket . . . was a species of plenary indulgence, granted on the rarest of occasions by a prefect to whom an inferior had rendered some invaluable and unasked service. It meant, practically, immunity from any punishment for the next offence that came to the said prefect's notice.'

ticket, that's the (p. 883), prob. goes back to ca. 1800; it occurs in, e.g., W. N. Glascock, Sketch-Book, 2nd Series, 134, 'That's you, Ned—you has it—that's the ticket, bo.' (Moe.)

ticket-o(f)-leaver. A gen. term of abuse: coll.: ca. 1855–1900. Surtees, Ask Mamma, 1858.

ticket(-)snapper. A ticket collector: railway-men's: C. 20. (Railway.)

tickets for oneself, have. To be vain or conceited: Australian: since ca. 1925. (B.P.) Ex lotteries, raffles, sweepstakes, etc.

tickettyboo, all. 'Everything in the garden is lovely. No complaints,' Granville: Naval: since ca. 1925. All is 'the ticket' (p. 883, top); perhaps boo recalls Fr. tout. More prob. ex tiggerty-boo. Also simply ticket(t)y-boo (or one word), as in Shane Martin, Twelve Girls in the Garden, 1957, "'Capital,'" said Bloom [of the British embassy]. "Tickety-boo, as we say." Civil Service since ca. 1945.

tickeye. See tig.

ticking, adj. Disgruntled in the ultimate degree: Army in North Africa: 1940–43. (Peter Sanders in The Sunday Times magazine, Sept. 10, 1967.) Cf. tick like fuck above.

tickle, n. A robbery; esp. a burglary: c.: since ca. 1920. (Sharpe of the Flying Squad, 1938.) A jocular meiosis.

tickle, 2 (p. 883). Also Australian (Sydney J. Baker, letter, 1946).—4. To ask (someone) for a loan: Australian: since ca. 1925. B., 1942.

tickle, have a. To have (obtained) a haul of booty: c.: from ca. 1920. Cf. tickle, v., 2, in Dict.

tickle (someone's) sneezer. To punch, even to break, his nose: pugilistic: ca. 1810–50. Anon., Every Night Book, 1827.

tickle-tail function. See 'Harlots'.

tickle the peter. To rob the till: Australian: adopted, and adapted, ex New Zealand in the middle 1930's. (B.P.) tickle your fancy. A male homosexual:

rhyiming s. on Nancy, 1, 2 (p. 550): C. 20. Franklyn 2nd.

tickled pink. Immensely pleased: late C. 19–20. 'I'll be tickled pink to accept the offer.' To the point of blushing with pleasure.

tickler.—10. A short poker used to save an ornamental one: domestic: from ca. 1870. B. & L.—11. A whip: proletarian: from ca. 1860. Ibid.

tickler's.—2. Tinned tobacco, whether for pipe or for cigarette: Naval: since ca. 1920. Cf. tickler, 4, 5, 6, 7, on p. 883.

tickling (, Jock)!, stop your. A C. 20 c.p., non-aristocratic. Ex Harry Lauder's song.

tickly (p. 883). The name holds good for the South African equivalent 2½-cent coin that has superseded the threepenny bit.

Tics. Peripatetics (a team within the School): Charterhouse: C. 20. By abbr.

tid. A drunkard: Australian low: since ca. 1925. B., 1942. Ex tiddly.—2. 'They'—an Invasion Day (June 6, 1944) convoy of tugs—'included the most powerful tugs in the world and also the "tids" (short for tiddlers)—prefabricated little fellows mass-produced in Yorkshire,' M.o.I.'s News Clip, Nov. 15, 1944.—3. 'Must be in a good tid, the W.O. No bellowing, no binding,' John Macadam, The Reluctant Erk: R.A.F.: since ca. 1935. Meaning 'temper, mood', tid may derive ex tide, 'time'.

tidapathy. Indifference: among Britons in Malaya: since ca. 1925. 'Tid' apa: it does not matter. Tidapathy' (Denis Godfrey, A Tale That Is Told, 1949). A punning blend: cf. scapathy.

tiddle. To make water: children's: C. 20. Cf. widdle.

tiddled. Topsy: from ca. 1920. Cf. tiddly, adj. 2 (Dict.).

tiddler.—4. A £1 note: Australian: since ca. 1920. Baker. It tickles the fancy.—5. A midget submarine: Naval: 1942 +.—6. Any small fish: Australian: late C. 19–20. Cf. sense 1 on p. 883. (B.P.)—7. An easy, short putt: golfers': since ca. 1920. (Dominic Devine, The Sleeping Tiger, 1968.)

tiddler's bait. Late: rhyiming s.: C. 20. (Franklyn, Rhyiming.)

tiddley or tiddly. A threepenny piece: Australian: since ca. 1920. Baker. Ex its smallness.—2. A 'tailor-made' cigarette: Naval and Wrens': 1939–45.

tiddley and binder. See, in Dict., titley and binder.

tiddley bull. 'Ceremony; Service etiquette; preparation to receive some exalted person on board' (Granville): Naval: since ca. 1930. Ex tiddley, 4 (p. 883, end) and bull, n., 12 (cf. bull-shit, 2, in Addenda).

Tiddly Chats. Earlier in 'Taffrail'.

Tidd(e)y Dike (Railway), the. The Midland and South-Western Railway: railwaymen's: ca. 1890–1925. (Railway.)

tiddly oggy. A Cornish pasty: Navy: C. 20. H. & P. Ex tiddly, 3 or 4 (p. 883): see tatie oggy.

tiddly suit. 'Best shore-going uniform' (Granville): Naval: C. 20. See tiddly, 4 (Dict.). tiddly wink, 3. (p. 884), occurs much earlier in D. W. Barrett, Navvies, 1880.

tiddlywinks.—3. See play tiddlywinks.

tiddy.—2. (Of clothes) pretty; pretty-pretty: Society: ca. 1930–9. Margery Allingham, The Fashion in Shrouds, 1938. Ex tiddyvated = tittivated.

tiddy oggy is Granville's form of tiddly oggy. If this be the original, then the origin is tidbit (= tit-bit); oggy seems to be a fanciful arbitrariness.

tidemark. The dirty mark so many boys leave when they wash their neck: jocular: late C. 19–20. Hence, I see the tide is high this morning: domestic c.p.: C. 20.

tidgen, on. 'Working from 5 p.m. until midnight', The Evening News, Nov. 13, 1936. Prob. = on night; tidgen being back s. for night.

tie a noose. See 'Verbs'.

tie 'em down. To set hand-brakes: Canadian railroadmen's coll.: C. 20.

tie in with. To link up with (plans, or disposition of forces): Army coll.: since ca. 1930. P-G-R.

tie one on. See hang one on.

tie up a dog; occ. chain up a pup. To obtain credit for drinks at an hotel: Australian: resp. C. 20. and ca. 1905–20. B., 1942.

tied up.—5. Thoroughly prepared; in perfect order: Services: since ca. 1925. H. & P. Ex sense 1 (p. 884). Cf. buttoned up and sewn up.

tiers, mountains; tiersman, one living in the mountains: Tasmanian: late C. 19–20. B., 1942.

tified. Annoyed; angry: coll.: mid-C. 18–20. Sessions, May 31, 1856. See tiff, v., 3 (p. 884).

tiffle up. See 'Verbs'.

Tiffy. A Typhoon aircraft: R.A.F.: 1943 +.

tiffy.—3. An artificer of the Royal Army Ordnance Corps; applied loosely to a gun fitter of the Royal Artillery: Army: since ca. 1910. H. & P.

tiffy, sick bay. A sick-bay attendant: Naval: since ca. 1920. Granville. Humorous on tiffy, 1 or 2 (p. 885).

tiffy bloke. An engine-room artificer: Navy: C. 20. H. & P. An elaboration of tiffy, 1 (p. 885).

tig. All right (O.K.): Services': since ca. 1930. Short for tickeye, i.e. Hindustani tighai (O.K.): cf. tiggerty-boo.

tiger, 2 (p. 885). In Julia Byrne's Red, White and Blue, 1862, the term is applied to a soldier servant.—12. A Diesel locomotive: railwaymen's:

since ca. 1960. 'Ex its roar of power' (Wilfred Granville, March 17, 1967).

tiger, on the. On a heavy drinking bout: Australian: since ca. 1910. B., 1942.

Tiger Bay.—2. A certain town on the West Coast of Africa: nautical: from ca. 1880. Ex the native prostitutes.—3. Cardiff also has one: ? since ca. 1870.

tiger-box. See 'Prisoner-of-War Slang', opening paragraph.

tiger in the tank, a. Since mid-1965, this seems to be well on the way to becoming a c.p., thanks to the oil companies', hence also the petrol stations', slogan.

tiger piss. 'Lower-deck name for beer sold on a certain foreign station. (From the picture of a tiger on the bottle)': Naval: since ca. 1930. Granville.

tigerism. See tigerish (Dict.).

Tigers, the.—4. Richmond footballers: Melbourne's: since ca. 1920. (B., 1943.)

tigers' milk. See giant-killer, the.

Tigerschmitt. A Tiger Moth aircraft: Australian airmen's: since ca. 1940; by 1946, merely historical. (B., 1943.) A blend of Tiger + Messerschmitt.

tiggerty-boo; esp. in 'Everything's all tiggerty-boo'—correct, arranged, safe, etc.: R.A.F. (regulars): since ca. 1922. Jackson, 'From the Hindustani teega'; Partridge, 1945, 'For the second element, cf. peek-a-boo' (s.v. nose-scratch).

tiggy. A detective: Cockneys': from ca. 1890; very ob. E. Pugh, The Spoilers, 1906.

tight, 3, close-fisted (p. 885), occurs in two very expressive Canadian c.pp. dating from the 1930's: he's as tight as a bull's arse in fly-time and he's so tight he squeaks.

tight-arsed. Money-mean: low: C. 20. 'Tight-arsed with his purse strings': Thorn Keyes, All Night Stand, 1966.

tight as a fart. Exceedingly tipsy: low: since ca. 1925.

tight as, or tighter than, a fish's arsehole. Exceedingly mean: low: C. 20: with and that's watertight sometimes added: low Australian: C. 20.

tight as a tick. Extremely drunk: low and Forces': C. 20. (Cf. full as a tick, p. 306.) 'Presumably from the appearance of a tick gorged with blood' (Philip Gaskell).

tight cunts and easy boots! A male toast, current ca. 1880–1914.

tight section. 'Water made rough and hard to ride by rips or cross-currents' (Sun-Herald, Sept. 22, 1963): Australian surfers' coll.: since ca. 1955.

tight-wad. A person mean with money: adopted, ca. 1934, from U.S. Gerald Kersh, Night and the City, 1938. I.e. he keeps his hand closed tight upon his wad of notes.

tigrish. See tigerish (Dict.).

tike.—2. A Roman Catholic: Australian: C. 20. B., 1942. A pun—or a rhyme—on Mike.

tike, Northern. See Yorkshire tike (Dict.).

tiker. See tyker.

Tikes, See Tykes.

Tilbury Docks. Socks: rhyming s.: late C. 19–20. (Franklyn, Rhyming.)

tilda. A tramp's swag: Australian: since ca. 1910. Baker. Short for Matilda. Dr Douglas Leechman suggests that in the Australian national song, Waltzing Matilda, the word Matilda is a corruption of 'waltzing my tilda'. 'Waltzing is German tramps' for tramping, and his tilda goes waltzing with him.'

Tilden's hearthrugs. Of W. T. ('Big Bill') Tilden on his first visit to the Wimbledon lawn-tennis courts—1920, when he won the singles—F. R. Burrow, in The Centre Court, 1937, wrote: 'He wore some of the most remarkable sweaters that had ever been seen at Wimbledon. Their length and texture—"Tilden's hearthrugs", as they were commonly called—created quite a sensation.'

tile (p. 886). In 1. 3, read lum hat (lit., chimney-pot hat). The term tile, which occurs two years earlier in D. Haggart, Life, 1821, may derive ex pantile (p. 604).

tile-frisking lingered on until ca. 1910. B. & L. tiled.—2. To be tiled is to be snug, comfortable: ca. 1815–50. Charles Dibdin, Life in London, 1882. With a tiled roof over one's head.—3. Detained by the police; locked up: fast life: ca. 1815–60. Spy, 1825, 'Safely tiled in.'

tilladumoisite. See tilladum (Dict.).

tiller. Steering wheel of a motor car: Australian motorists': since ca. 1930. (B.P.) tillery (or 't); occ. till'ry or tillry. Artillery:

Army (not officers') coll.: from ca. 1890. Blaker. tillikum. A friend: Canadian West Coast: since ca. 1930. Chinook; lit., 'people, friends'. (Leechman.)

tilly or, by personification, Tilly. A utility van or truck: Army: since ca. 1939. H. & P., 'See also ute or doodle-bug'. I.e. utility.

Tilly Bates. An illiteracy for tiddler's bait: C. 20. (Franklyn, Rhyming.) tillywink(s). An illiteracy for tiddly wink, 3, and tiddlywinks (p. 884).

timber, 2, in the sense 'any human leg', is much earlier (prob. late C. 18): it occurs in Charles Dibdin's song—'The Five Engagements'—quoted in The Port Folio of Sept. 21, 1805. Moe.

timber! (with stress on the 2nd syllable, which is prolonged). An exclamation uttered when something is about to fall: Australian: since ca. 1920, 'Ex tree-fellers' use of the word when tree is about to fall' (B.P.). The word has long been 'in daily use in North American lumber camps' (Leechman), and the Australian usage may well have derived from that of Canada and the U.S.

timber-tuned. (Of a person) with a heavy, wooden touch on a musical instrument: musicians': from ca. 1870. B. & L. timbers!, my . . . (p. 886). The phrase shiver my timbers occurs a year earlier in The Dublin University Magazine, July 1834 (p. 63). Moe.

time for by the time that is coll. and rather illiterate; it occurs mostly in Cockney speech: ? mid-C. 19–20. C. Rook, The Hooligan Nights, 1899, 'An' time I'd got a 'ansom an' put 'im inside, the job was worked.'

—time, as in 'I'll see you twelve o'clock time', at about 12 o'clock: coll.: C. 20. (Atkinson.)

time, in no (p. 886): earlier in W. N. Glascock, Sailors and Saints (II, 13), 1829. Moe.

time of day (p. 887). Sense 4: earlier in The London Guide, 1818, and in Boxiana, II, 1821.

time and tide wait for no man—neither do Beecham's Pills. A jocular c.p.: C. 20; little used since ca. 1940. A reference to a famous laxative.

time, gentlemen, please—haven't any of you got a home? 'Heard in pubs when the drinkers are reluctant to go' (a correspondent) c.p.: since ca. 1925.

timothy.—3. A brothel: Australian c.: since ca. 1930. (B., 1953.)

Timothy's. A branch of the Timothy White chain of stores in southern England: coll.: since ca. 1910.

timp. A timpano or orchestral kettledrum; usually the pl. timps, the timpani: musicians': C. 20. Cf. tymp on p. 923.

tin, n.—4. As the tin it = tin-mining country: Australian coll.: C. 20. (Jean Devanney, By Tropic Sea and Jungle, 1944.)

tin, adj. Light, short weight; hence, unconvincing (statement or story): pidgin: from ca. 1868. B. & L. I.e. thin.

tin-back, n. adj. Extremely lucky (person): Australian: since ca. 1920. Prompted by tin-arsed (Dict.).

tin(-)basher. A metalworker or coppersmith metalworker: R.A.F.: since ca. 1930. Jackson, 1943; Brickhill & Norton, Escape to Danger, 1946.

tin beard. A crêpe-hair beard that, unpainted at edges, has a metallic look: actors': late C. 19–20. (Granville.) tin bitser. See Rolls-can-hardly above.

tin-bum. An habitually very lucky person: Australian: since ca. 1919. (D'Arcy Niland, The Shiralee, 1955.) Cf. tin-arsed, q.v. at tinny, adj., 2, on p. 888.

tin can. A destroyer, esp. one of the fifty obsolete American destroyers that came to Britain in 1940: Naval.

Tin-Can Alley. The London street that specializes in secondhand cars: since ca. 1955. A pun on Tin Pan Alley.

tin can (on wheels). An old, esp. if noisy, car: Australian, mostly teenagers': since mid-1950's.

tin-chapel, adj. Nonconformist, esp. Methodist: depreciatory coll.: late C. 19-20.

tin dog. Tinned meat: Australian: since ca. 1905. B., 1942.

tin ear. An eavesdropper: Australian: C. 20. Baker.—2. A fool; a simpleton: Australian: since ca. 1920. Baker.

Tin-Ear Alley. See Cauliflower Alley. Perhaps suggested by America's Tin Pan Alley.

tin ears, have. To be unmusical: since ca. 1945.

tinfish (p. 887), adopted by the R.A.F., ca. 1937. Jackson.

tin-fish or tinfish, v. To torpedo: Naval: 1939+. Robert Harling, The Steep Atlantick Stream, 1946. Ex the n.

tin-fish man. A torpedo rating: Naval: since ca. 1917. Granville.

tin hare. The mechanical quadruped used in dog-racing: coll.: since late 1920's.

tin-hat, v. To show contempt for; to talk down to and at: Australian: since ca. 1919. B., 1942. Ex tin hat on... (p. 887).

tin-kettling. To celebrate a special occasion, the banging of tins or metal trays: Aus. coll.: since ca. 1930. (B., 1959.)

tin lid. A child: rhyming s. (on kid): C. 20. Cf. God forbid (Dict.).

tin off. 'The stuff [viz. honey] we sold was "tinned off" into four-gallon tins from a tap at the base of the tank' (Kylie Tennant, The Honey Flow, 1956): Australian coll.: since ca. 1920.

tin-opener.—2. A steel-cutting tool used in safe-breaking: Australian: C. 20. (Vince Kelly, The Shadow, 1955.)—3. A tank-destroying aircraft: Army: ca. 1944-5. (P.-G.-R.)

Tin Pan Alley. The Charing Cross Road district, where song publishers flourish: since ca. 1935. Often it implies 'the grave of the song writer's hopes'.

tin plate. A companion: rhyming s.: C. 20. Occasional variant of china plate (p. 148).

tin-pot, adj. (Of a place, a town, etc.) Small; insignificant: New Zealand coll.: C. 20. (Slatter.) Ex the S.E. sense, 'cheap, inferior'.

tin-scratcher, scratching. Tin-miner, -mining, Australian: C. 20. (Ion M. Idriess, Men of the Jungle, 1932.) Ex 'to scratch for tin'.

tin tack.—3. A racking track: rhymings s.: C. 20. Franklyn, Rhyming.

tin tack, get the. To lose one's job: C. 20. Rhyming on sack.

tin tack, the. Dismissal: rhyming s. (on 'the sack'): since ca. 1945. John Gardner, Madrigal, 1967.

tin titfa (or titfer or titfor). Steel helmet: nautical (esp. Naval): since ca. 1939. H. & P. A variant of tin hat (p. 887); titfa = tit for (tat), rhyming s. for 'hat'.

tin trousers. Naval officers' full-dress trousers: Australian Naval: since ca. 1914. Cf. lightning-conductors.

tina or tina. Concertina: mostly Cockneys': from ca. 1870. (Pugh.)

tingalairy. A hand-worked auger: railway-men's: C. 20. (Railway.) Ex the West Yorkshire dial. tingerlary, a street organ. Echoic. Cf. wimbler below.

tingle. A 'tinkle' on the telephone: Australian: since ca. 1945. By assimilation of 'tinkle' to 'ring'. (B.P.)

tinhorn gambler. A petty gambler: Canadian since ca. 1912, Australian since ca. 1920, New Zealand since ca. 1922. Adopted from U.S.: for U.S., see Underworld; for Canada, see Michael Mason, The Arctic Forests, 1924.

tinies. Very small children: coll.: since ca. 1920. Ex tiny tots.

tinker's. Tinker's curse: Australian coll.: C. 20. Ruth Park, 1950, 'Nobody caring a tinker's.'

tinkle. A telephone-call; mostly give (someone) a tinkle, to telephone to them: trivial coll.: since ca. 1910. Also, since ca. 1925, New Zealand. (Slatter.)

tinkle, v. To urinate: children's, hence also nannies' and parents': since ca. 1920 (? much earlier). Ex the sound of urine falling into a light metal chamberpot. Dr Leechman compares the similarly echoic Ger. pinkeln, to pee.

tinman.—2. In the 1880's the turf and journalistic nickname of Archer, the famous jockey, was the Tinman.

tinned. Tipsey: since ca. 1940. Neil Bell, Alpha and Omega, 1946. A pun on canned.

tinned dog. Bully beef: Australian: since ca. 1920. (B.P.) tinner. Afternoon tea and dinner combined: C. 20.

tinny, adj.—3. Cheap: Australian: since ca. 1925. Made of tin, not of iron, nor of steel.—4. Mean, close-fisted: Australian: since ca. 1935. (B.P.)

Tinsides. The Martinsyde aeroplane: W.W. I; then historical. (Wilfred Granville.)

tiny dodge. Begging in the company of neatly dressed children (often borrowed for the purpose) and thus exciting sympathy: c.: from ca. 1860. B. & L.

Tip. A native, esp. if male, of Tipperary: New Zealand: the 1860's. (Ruth Park, One-a-Pecker..., 1958.)

tip, n., 1 (p. 888), occurs in Boziana, III, 1821, in nuance 'entrance money'.

tip, booze one's or the. See booze the jib (Dict.), of which it is a variant cited by B. & L.

tip, miss one's. An earlier record of sense 2 is H., 2nd ed., 1860.

tip, sling the. To give a hint; impart information: proletarian: from ca. 1860. B. & L.

tip a stave (p. 889) is nautical, ? esp. Naval, in origin and it goes back to ca. 1790. It occurs in, e.g., W. N. Glascock, The Naval Sketch-Book (I, 120, and II, 34), 1825-6. Moe.

tip lark, the. A (racehorse) tipping business: the racing world: late C. 19-20. (Margaret Lane, Edgar Wallace, 1933.)

tip-off, n. A police informer: Australian police: since ca. 1915. Vince Kelly, The Shadow, 1955, 'Information supplied by underworld informers... variously known as "shells, tip-offs, stoolpigeons, phizgigs". Immediately ex tip-off, a piece of information, itself current since ca. 1905 and derived from tip off, v., 4 (p. 889).

tip one's rags a gallop is a variant (W. T. Moncrieff, Tom and Jerry, 1821) of tip one's legs . . . ; † by 1870.

tip-sling, v.—whence tip-slinging, n.—is a back-formation ex tip-slinger (p. 889): Australian: since ca. 1930. (B., 1953.)

Tip Street, be in. To be, at the time, generous with one's money: low: ca. 1815–50. Pierce Egan, Life in London, 1821, 'Jerry is in Tip Street upon this occasion, and the Mollishers are all nutty upon him, putting it about, one to the other, that he is a well-breeched Swell'.

tip the finger is a post-1920 variant of tip the little finger (p. 889). B., 1942.

tip them out. (Of railway officials) to clear a train of public passengers: railwaymen's, esp. underground railway guards': since mid-1940's. The Daily Telegraph, May 14, 1960, 'London Day by Day'.

tippery. Payment: non-aristocratic: ca. 1830–1910. B. & L. Ex tip, n., 1 and v., 4.

tippet.—2. 'A man ready to part with his money in treating others' (Renton Nicholson, An Autobiography, 1860, at p. 172): raffish, and fringe of the underworld: ca. 1820–80. A pun on tip it, give it.

tippy, 1, 2 (p. 890). Either the one or the other, the context being 'neutral', appears in The New Vocal Enchantress (a song book), 1791.

tippy, 2 (the tippy), on p. 890. The London Chronicle, June 29–July 1, 1784 (?), has: 'The beaver hat is now quite the tippy among the fair.' Cf. the quotation at twig below.

Tired Tim. See Weary Willie.

tish would seem to date from the late 1880's.

tishy. Drunk: ca. 1910–40. (Eric Horne, What the Buller Winked At, 1923.) A drunken pronunciation of tipsy.

tisket. A bastard, lit. and fig.: ca. 1940–50. Ex the popular song words, 'A tisket, a tasket, A little yellow basket', where basket euphemises bastard. Brooklyn, Rhyming.

tissied up. Dressed up; smartly dressed: Australian: since ca. 1925. (S. H. Courtier, A Corspe Won't Sing, 1964.) Perhaps a blend of titivated + sissified.

tissue. A racing list: racing men's and race-course workers': C. 20. Jack Henry, Famous Cases, 1942. Ex the flimsy paper used therefore.

tiswas. See all of a tiswas above.

tit.—6. A gun-button: R.A.F.: since ca. 1930. H. & P. Esp. in squeeze the tit (in firing a machine-gun). See tit, 3 (p. 890).—7. Derivatively, any finger-pressed 'button' (of, e.g., an electric bell): R.A.F.: since ca. 1938. Jackson.—8. See tit, look a.—9. A female breast: low, esp. Australian, coll.: late C. 19–20. Ex sense 3 (p. 890). 'In Australia, tit always = breast, not nipple' (B.P.)—10. (Ex sense 7.) Any button-like or knobby protuberance that vaguely resembles a nipple: since ca. 1940; by 1955, coll.

tit, get on (someone's). To infuriate: Australian low: C. 20. B., 1942. In R.A.F., get on one's tits, to irritate; to antagonize: since ca. 1925.

tit, look a(n) absolute. To look very foolish, or 'sloppy' and stupid: low: late C. 19–20. By itself, tit means a foolish, ineffectual man.

tit around. To potter uselessly or time-wastingly: low: C. 20. Cf. prec. entry.

tit-for-tat.—3. Usually pl., tit for tats, (female) breasts: Australian low: C. 20. Lawson Glassop, We Were The Rats, 1944. An elaboration of tit = teat, nipple.

tit-hammock. A brassière: sailors': since ca. 1920. By 1950, fairly gen. low s.

tit in a tight crack, have one's. To find oneself in an awkward and uncomfortable position, whether physical or emotional: low Canadian: since ca. 1920. Cf. 'hell!' said the Duchess above.

tit(-)man. A male more interested in a woman's breasts than in her legs: low: since ca. 1910.

tit-show. A vaudeville act in which uncovered female breasts are to be seen: raffish coll.: since ca. 1930.

tithag. A brassière: low English and Australian: since ca. 1945.

titfa is a frequent variant of titfer (see tit-fer, p. 890).

title-page. The face: ca. 1830–70. Sinks, 1848. Cf. frontispiece (Dict.). Hence, 2, a type-face: printers': since ca. 1860. B. & L.

titoki. A shandygaff: New Zealand: C. 20. B., 1941. By perversion of sense of a genuine Maori word.

tittleback. See tittlebat (Dict.).

tittle-tat. A tittle-tattle; a tale-bearer: Australian juvenile: since ca. 1930. (B.P.)

titty.—6, 7. Synonymous with tit, 6 and 7. (P-G-R.)

titty, drop of. A drink from the breast: nursery: C. 19–20. See titty, 2. (p. 891).

titty-oggy or tittie-oggie. Irrumatio: low: late C. 19–20.

Tiv, the. The Tivoli Music Hall, London: late C. 19–early 20.

tiz up. See tizz up.

tizz. A shortened form of tizzy, 2: since ca. 1930. (Phoebe Fenwick Gaye, Treen and the Wild Horses, 1959.)

tizz (or tiz) up. To dress up, esp. flashily; to furbish or smarten (some object): Australian: since ca. 1938. (B., 1953.) Apparently ex tizzy, adj.

tizzy, n.—2. A 'state'; esp. get into a tizzy: C. 20. Perhaps ex S.E. hysteria.

tizzy, adj. Ostentatiously or flashily dressed: Australian: since ca. 1935. (B., Australia Speaks, 1953.) A thinning and a disguising of S.E. tidy. Or perhaps rather ex S.E. tidy + s. jazzy; or, more prob., ex titivated (see titivate on p. 890).—2. Hence, flashy, ostentatious, showy but cheaply made, as, e.g., an inferior Espresso machine: Australian: since ca. 1945. (B.P.)

tizzy-snatcher (p. 891). Earlier in 'Taffrail'. Ex the C. 19 Naval sense, 'a purser'.

tjapan. A uniformed policeman: South African (esp., non-European) underworld: late C. 19–20. App. ex Malayan, as The Cape Times of May 22, 1946, states.

tlas. See sap the tlas.

to-an-froing. A constant moving-about; work that necessitates much getting-about: coll.: since ca. 1945.

to-and-from. A concertina: since ca. 1910. Ex the movements of the player's arms—2. An English serviceman: Australian prisoners-of-war in the Far East: 1942–5. Rhyming on pom, 2. (B., 1953.)

to coin a phrase. An ironic c.p., mildly apologetic for the immediately preceding or ensuing triteness (often a cliché): since ca. 1935, but general only since ca. 1949.

to hell with you, Jack, I'm all right! A euphemistic variation of fuck you, Jack (p. 305).

to-morrow, on for. (Of a clock) very fast: coll., almost a c.p.: C. 20.

to-night's the night! A c.p. indicative of the imminence of something important: since ca. 1916.

toast.—3. One who has done wrong yet is none the less popular: Marlborough College: since the late 1920's.—4. A mechanical derailer: Canadian railroadmen's (— 1931). Ex its shape.

toast, v. To blush: Shrewsbury: since mid-1930's. Marples.

toast, get on. To corner; have got on toast, have at one's mercy: from ca. 1895. Cf. toast, (had) on in the Dict.

toast-rack. A term applied, since ca. 1910, to the horse-trams at Douglas, Isle of Man. (Peter Chamberlain.)—2. 'One of the old-style footboard trams still used in Sydney' (B., 1943): Australian: since ca. 1920.

tobacco-box. A friar bird: Australian: C. 20. R., 1942. Ex colour?

tober-mush (p. 892).—2. Fair-ground official; collective for such officials: grafters': C. 20. News of the World, Aug. 28, 1938.

tober is a rare variant of tober (Dict.).

toby, n.—9. A weak-witted, clumsy-handed, but very willing, obliging fellow: Australian: C. 20. B., 1942.—10. A dissolute girl or young woman: Australian low: since ca. 1920. Baker.—11. A man servant: Haileybury: since ca. 1920. Marples. Common-propertying of a familiar male given-name.

toby on, have a. See grape on.

toco for yam (p. 892). Boxiana, IV, 1824, 'Cabbage napt toco (a severe punch), and was sent down.' This has a variant catch toko (or toco): The Night Watch (II, 121), 1828—cf. the quotation at blood-sucker above. Moe.

Tod, on one's. Alone: since late 1930's; since ca. 1960, fairly common. Ex:

Tod Sloan, on one's. Rhyming 'on one's own' (alone): C. 20. Less usual than on one's Jack (Jones) or on one's Pat (Malone).

toddler. A walker—one who, on a given occasion, walks: coll.: ca. 1810–60. Boxiana, III, 1821.—2. See:

toddlers. Legs: ca. 1835–80. Sinks, 1848. Cf. prec. entry.

Toe, the. The tuck-shop erected in 1908 at Sherborne School. Alec Waugh, The Loom of Youth, 1917.

toe a line. To form a rank or line: Naval coll.: mid-C. 18–19, and perhaps rather earlier and rather later. It occurs in W. N. Glascock, The Naval Sketch-Book (I, 237), 1825, thus: 'The brigades of seamen embodied to act with our troops in America, as well as in the north coast of Spain, contrived to "ship a bagnel" [handle a bayonet] on a pinch, and to "toe" (for that was the phrase) "a tolerable line".' (Moe.)

toe-biter. 'If there is a long wait, without a job, the cabmen on the rank are "having a binder"—or, in cold weather, a "toe-biter". Some of them may decide to "run away"; that is, drive off without a job,' Herbert Hodge, Cab, Sir?, 1939; taxi-drivers': since ca. 1910.

toe-buster. An infantryman: cavalrymen's: ca. 1880–1905. (Atkinson.) Cf. the Fr. 1914–18 pousse-caillou.

toe-fug. A footpath: Tonbridge: since ca. 1870. Marples. Removal of smell.

toe(-)path. A running-board on a train: Canadian railroadmen's (— 1931). A pun on toe(ing)-path.

toe-pitch, be at. To be toeing the line at defaulters' table: Naval (lower-deck): C. 20. P-G-R.

toe-rag.—3. A term of contempt for a person: Australian: since ca. 1905. B., 1942. Ex toe-ragger (p. 893). But current in Glasgow University and schools in 1927 and probably for some years earlier.—4. A £1 note: Australian: since ca. 1925. (B., 1943.)

toe-ragger. 'A short-sentence prisoner in a jail' (B., 1959): Aus. c.: since ca. 1910. Ex sense 3 of preceding entry.

Toe-Rags, the. The Tuareg (Saharan tribesmen): Army: since ca. 1942. (Peter Sanders.) By the process of 'Hobson-Jobson'.

toe the line. To appear in an identification parade: c.: from ca. 1910.—2. To conform: coll.: C. 20. 'If you join the Army you'll have to toe the line.' Ex infantry drill.

toey. (Of a horse) speedy: Australian: C. 20. (B., Australia Speaks, 1953.)—2. But also: restive, unsettled: since ca. 1925. At first of horses, then also of persons. (B., 1953.)

toff, n., 1 (p. 893). A socially interesting comment and a colloquial variant are afforded by the quotation at doll, n.

toffed up, ppl adj. See toff, v., in Dict.

toffee.—2. (A stick of) gelignite: since mid-1940's. (B.B.C., 'Z Cars'—March 11, 1964.) Gelignite looks rather like soft toffee.

toffee!, don't give me that. 'Don't give me that wrapped up, glib explanation! (R.A.F., Malta, Feb. 1960)': c.p. since ca. 1950. Laurie Atkinson, Sept. 11, 1967.

toffee apple. A Very light, or a tracer bullet, fired as a guide to motor transport moving in the dark: 8th Army: 1942–3.—2. A cask of either asphalt or pitch: railwaymen's: since ca. 1945. (Railway, 3rd.) Ironie.

toffee (or money) from a child, (as) easy as taking. See easy as taking...

toffee-nosed (p. 893) was very popular, as was its variant toffee-nose (H. & P.), with the W.A.A.F. and R.A.F. in the war of 1939–45.

toffee ration. Marital sexual intercourse: Naval: since mid-1940's.

tog, v. (p. 893). Cf. 'Wait till I've togged my "round-the-houses",' Augustus Mayhew, Paved With Gold, 1857.

togey (p. 894).—2. Also, 'a rope's end used by senior cadets at Dartmouth for "chasing",' Granville, who spells it toggie: C. 20.

toggy (p. 894) probably dates from almost a century earlier (tog, n., 1, on p. 893, will therefore date from early C. 18)—to judge by James Isham's Observations on Hudson's Bay 1743, and Notes, published by the Champlain Society in 1949: '... a Beaver Coate or tockey which Reaches to the Calf of the Leg.' (With thanks to Dr Douglas Leechman.)

togs (p. 894). In C. 20 Australia, esp. a bathing suit. B., 1942.

togs, short. Short clothing: Naval (? also gen.

nautical): C. 19. In, e.g., W. N. Glascock, The Naval Sketch-Book, 2nd Series, 1834, at II, 179. (Moe.) Cf. togs, long, on p. 894.

Tojo. A variant of Private Tojo. (P-G-R.)

toko.—2. Praise; excessive praise; flattery, esp. if excessive: Australian: since ca. 1920. B., 1942. Perhaps ironically ex sense 1 (toco, p. 892).

tokus. A rare variant of toco (p. 892). H. D. Miles, Dick Turpin, 1841. This form either shows the influence of or, more probably, comes straight from Yiddish tokus, the backside.

tol, 2 (p. 894). Earlier in Mayhew, I, 1851.

tol-lollish.—3. 'Overbearing and/or foppish' (B., 1942): Australian: late C. 19–20.

tole. See job, v., 4.

toley. Excrement; esp., a turd: Scottish: C. 20. (? earlier). Alan Sharpe, A Green Tree in Gedde, 1967. Probably ex the Sc. dial. toalie or tolie, 'a small round bannock or cake' (E.D.D.).

toll-loll-loll-kiss-me-dear. A Middlesex finch: bird-fanciers': mid-C. 19–20. B. & L. Ex the bird's note.

tolly, n., 1 (p. 894), is, as 'a candle', extinct at Rugby School, where the word now occurs only in the Tolly Church. (D. F. Wharton, Oct. 24, 1965.)—3. A marble (as used in the game of marbles): children's: late C. 19–20. The Manchester Evening News, March 27, 1939. Cf. sense 2 (p. 894).—4. A cup or mug; a tin hip-bath: Marlborough College: since ca. 1870.

tolly(-)whacker. A roll of paper that, in the form of a club, is used by boys in rough play: Cockneys': from ca. 1920. Ex tolly, a candle.

tolo. 'A dance at which the girls pay the admission fee rather than the men' (Leechman): Canadian: since ca. 1955. Perhaps ex S.E. toll, a tax; perhaps, however, cf. the Newfoundland tole, to entice with bait.

tolsery. A penny: c.: ? C. 18–19. Thus B. & L.: but the term is suspect.

Tom.—10. A hypocoristic variant of Thomas: low: mid-C. 19–20.—11. Any prostitute: police: C. 20. (The Free-Lance Writer, April 1948.) Cf. —and see—senses 5 and 6 on p. 895.—12. Jewellery: see tomfoolery below.

tom, v. (Of men) to coit with: North Country: late C. 19–20. Ex a tomcat's sexual activities.—2. To be a prostitute: since ca. 1935. 'They were perfectly willing to go "tomming" on the streets to earn a few quid, but I never could': Zoe Progl, Woman of the Underworld, 1964.

Tom-and-Jerry gang. A noisy, riotous gang of fellows: ca. 1810–40. In J. H. Lewis, The Art of Writing, 7th ed., 1816, it is applied to the House of Commons. (Moe.) Cf. Tom-and-Jerry days on p. 895.

Tom and Jerry shop (see Tom-and-Jerry days, p. 895): earlier in Sessions, Feb. 1835.

Tom Beet. Feet: rhyming s., mostly itinerant entertainers': C. 20. (Sydney Lester, 1937.) Much less common than plates (of meat).

Tom Collins. A mythical person that figures in at least two Australian folk-tales: since ca. 1880. B., 1942. It's hardly s., nor even coll.—2. See Collins, 2.

Tom Essence. See 'Fops'.

Tom Fool's token. See token, Tom Fool's: in the Dict.

Tom, Harry and Dick. Sick: rhyming s., esp. busmen's: since ca. 1940. (The Evening News, April 27, 1954.)

Tom Mix. 6.: darts players': from ca. 1932. Rhyming s. (The Evening News, July 2, 1937.) From the name of a famous 'Westerns' film-actor.—2. A difficult situation: rhyming s. on fix, n. (p. 280): since ca. 1935. Franklyn 2nd.

Tom Mix in 'Cement' is a c.p. reply (ca. 1938–52) to 'What's on at the pictures?' A pun on 'to mix cement'.

Tom Pepper (p. 895) is much earlier: 1818, Alfred Burton, Johnny Newcome. (Moe.)

Tom Pudding or Tompudding. A 'compartment boat', worked in 'trains' with other such boats: canal-men's: C. 20. L. T. C. Rolt, Narrow Boat, 1944.

Tom Sawyer. A lawyer: rhyming s.: late C. 19–20.

Tom Tart. A (female) sweetheart: Australian rhyming s.: C. 20. B., 1942.

Tom Thacker (p. 895). By 1959, ob.—As also is Tom Thumb (ibid).

tom them up. Builders' s., 'roughly similar to putting up scaffolding' (Culotta): Australian: since ca. 1910.

Tom Tit (p. 895, end). Also a n.: Richard Llewellyn, None But the Lonely Heart, 1943.

Tom Tit on a round of beef. A children's c.p., shouted after someone wearing a cap, or a hat, too small; also 'used of anything small on anything big, e.g. of a lonely cottage on a hill' (Peter Ibbotson, letter of Feb. 9, 1963): C. 20.

tom(-)tits, n. Also used fig., as in 'You give me the tom-tits' = 'the shits'; you disgust me, or irritate me beyond endurance. But get the tom-tits = to 'become demoralized with fear' (Culotta).

Tom Turdman (p. 896) should be dated 'from ca. 1690'. It occurs in B.E., 1699.

Tom Turd's field(s) or Tom Turd's hole. 'A place where the Nightmen lay their Soil,' Sessions, 1733 (11th session): low: C. 18.

Tomago!, go to. Go to hell: Newcastle, Australia: since ca. 1945. 'Tomago is a small town near Newcastle. Pronounced tommy-go' (Edwin Morrisby, Aug. 30, 1958). Cf. hell and tommy (p. 386) and Jericho (p. 436).

tomahawk. (Of a shearer) to cut a sheep: Australian rural: C. 20. B., 1942.

tomato. A girl: Australian: adopted, 1943, ex U.S. servicemen. (Ruth Park, 1950.) Luscious.

tomato-can tramp (p. 896) more probably derives ex the utensil being carried as a cooking-tin. (Leechman.)

tombola is the S.E. for house (p. 410, sense 3) or housey-housey (p. 410). See also little Jimmy and puff and dart, both in this Supplement. To all those entries, add the following 'table' furnished by Mr Laurie Atkinson:

'Eyes down, look in!' Call to attention on the game at the commencement or resumption of play. (See also paragraph next but one—i.e. immediately after the numbers.)

1: Kelly's eye

2: Dirty old Jew

(The numbers two to ten are usually prefixed with the word 'number' except for 9, q.v., and 19 itself.)

3: —

8: Garden gate

9: Doctor's orders, or Doctor's favourite

10: Downing Street, or Shiny Ten

- 11: Legs Eleven
 13: Unlucky for some, or simply Unlucky 17: Never been kissed, or Never had it 20: Blind twenty 21: Key of the door
 22: Dinkie do, or All the twos
 24: Pompey 'ore [Portsmouth whore]
 26: Bed and breakfast; half-a-crown being evidently the accepted traditional charge 33: All the threes
 34: Dirty 'ore
 39: All the steps; from the title of the novel The Thirty-Nine Steps by John Buchan 44: All the fours
 50: Blind fifty; Half-way house
 55: All the fives
 57: All the beans: from Heinz's well-known 57 varieties 60: Blind sixty
 66: Clicketty-click; sometimes All the sixes 70: Blind seventy 76: She was worth it; 7/6, 7s. and 6d. being the usual charge for a certificate of marriage issued by the Church of England
 77: All the sevens
 80: Blind eighty 88: All the eights
 99: All the nines
 100: Top of the house; Top of the ship; Top of the shop. Doubt as to this note is thrown by Lt-Comm. John Irving's Royal Navalese, 1946, under this heading, which gives 90 as the 'Top of the Grot'.

The call: 'Eyes down look in!'—as we have seen—is usual at the commencement of a game. After the call of 'House' for the claim of a won game, the usual call is 'Eyes down for a check'. For resumption after a trivial query, players are warned of the resumption by 'Eyes down'.

- Jildi five. Covering the first five numbers of the 'House' card.
 NAAFI sandwich. Covering of, for example, two in the top line of the card, one in the next line, and two on the following line, or any three lines in this order.
 Officers' Mess sandwich. As in preceding, but the 'middle term' is thicker, e.g. two, three, and two.

tomboy. Female genitals: C. 17. Taylor (the Water Poet), 'Playing the tomboy with her tomboy.'

tombstone, 2, dates back to ca. 1880.—3. Mess menu: Naval (lower-deck): C. 20. Granville.—4. A trade-union vote, recorded for a dead man: Australian: since ca. 1910. (B., 1943.)

tomcat. A door mat: rhyming s.: C. 20. Franklyn 2nd.

tomfoolery. Jewellery: rhymings s.: late C. 19–20. Michael Harrison, Reported Safe Arrival, 1943. Since ca. 1940, and esp. in the underworld, it has often been shortened to Tom. John Gosling, The Ghost Squad, 1958.

Tommy. See tommy, 4 and 6, on p. 896, and 7 and 8 here.—5. A Tommahawk fighter aircraft: mostly airmen's 1944–5.—6. A 'Tommy gun' (Thompson sub-machine gun): Australian: adopted, ca. 1940, ex U.S. (H. Drake Brockman, The Fatal Days, 1947: concerning early 1942.)

tommy, n, 1 (p. 896). In Australia, 'bread baked with currants and sugar': B., 1942.—7. (Tommy.) Penis: rather low: C. 19–20; ob. Cf. Thomas.—8. (Tommy.) A feminine synonym of the curse: late C. 19–20. By personification.—9. Solder: silversmiths' and jewellers' (— 1877). G. E. Gee, The Practical Goldworker (O.E.D.). Esp. soft Tommy (or t—) as distinct from hard Tommy, hard (or blowpipe) solder.—10. Short for tommy rot (p. 896): since ca. 1905. (J. C. Snaith, The Sailor, 1916.)—11. A bookmaker: Australian: since ca. 1925. (B., 1943.)—12. Hence, his ledger: since ca. 1930. (B., 1953.)—13. A 'small shunting disc ground signal' (Railway): railwaymen's: since ca. 1920.

Sense 6 is anticipated in The Night Watch (I, 204), 1828. Moe.

tommy, v.—2. To depart; to make off, decamp: Australian low: C. 20. Baker.

tommy-axe. A tomahawk: Australian: C. 20. B., 1942. By a pun.

Tommy Cornstalk. An Australian soldier. 1899–1902 (during the Boer War): coll. Baker.

Tommy Dodd.—2. God: rhymings s.: late C. 19–20.—3. A sodomite: since ca. 1870. Rhyming on sod. Since ca. 1890, often abbr. to Tommy.—4. A small glass of beer: New Zealand and Australian: late C. 19–20. B., 1941, 1942.—5. A calling, or a call, on a warning signal: railwaymen's: since ca. 1930. (Railway 2nd.) Rhyming s. on nod.

Tommy, get out and let your father in. Gin (the drink): navvies' rhyming s.: ca. 1860–1900. (D. W. Barrett, Navvies, 1880.)

Tommy of all trades. 'The ordinary infantry Tommy who, apart from doing the "dirty work" in the trenches, had to turn his hand to almost anything when out "resting" or convalescing from wounds or illness' (A. B. Petch, March 1966): Army jocular coll.: W.W. I.

Tommy Roller. A collar: rhyming s.: since ca. 1880. (C. Bent, Criminal Life, 1891.)

Tommy Rollocks. Testicles: since ca. 1870. Often abbr. to rollocks. Rhyming ballocks.

Tommy Tanna (or Tanner). Nickname for a Kanaka working on a Queensland plantation: ca. 1880–1920. (B., 1943.)

tommy-toes; or as one word. Tomatoes: London jocular: C. 20.

tommyato. A jocular perversion of tomato: since ca. 1935.

tom yok. See thomyok.

ton. Sense 1 (p. 897) occurs, as an Australian coll., in, e.g., Gavin Casey, The Wits Are Out, 1947, 'There was a ton to think of'.—3. £100; half a ton, £50: gamblers' c.: since ca. 1940. Alan Hoby, in The People, April 7, 1946.—4. A speed of 100 m.p.h.: motor cyclists': since ca. 1948.—5. A score of 100 runs: cricketers', ex cricket reporters': since ca. 1955.

tonge. Penis: low (esp. in R.A.F. of ca. 1930–50): C. 20. Origin?

tongs.—2. See jingling Johnnies.

tongue is hinged in the middle and one talks with both ends, one's; gen. his (or her) tongue . . . One is extremely talkative: coll.: C. 20.

tongue-padder. See tongue-pad, v. (Dict.).—2. A C. 18 sense is noted at 'Constables'.

tonguer. 'A native or white living in New Zealand who assisted a whaling crew to cut up whales and who also acted . . . [as] an interpreter. These men earned their name not from the . . .

interpreting, but from the fact that they were given whale's carcass and tongue to dispose of as they wished.' B., 1945: New Zealand and whalers': C. 19.

tonic, 1 (p. 897): slightly earlier in Pierce Egan, Life in London, 1821.—2. In Sessions, Dec. 12, 1893.

tonight's the night! Rather since ca. 1913, when Miss Iris Hoey starred in a musical comedy of this name.—2. Hence, it 'often refers to coition in Australia' (B.P.): since ca. 1919.

tonk, n. A dude or fop: Australian: since ca. 1921. B., 1942. Perversion of tony (person)?—2. A simpleton; a fool: Australian: since ca. 1925. Baker.—3. Hence, a general term of contempt: Australian: since ca. 1925, Baker. Sense 2 may perhaps be derived ex 'person tonked on the head'.—4. A term of abuse: North Country grammar schools': since ca. 1945. (Cf. senses 2 and 3.)

tonk, v.—3. (Ex 1 and 2: p. 897.) To punish, e.g. to cane: Australian: since ca. 1920. Baker.

tonked, get, is the usual passive of the preceding. (B., 1943.)

tonky, adj. Fashionable: New Zealand: since ca. 1935. Slatter, 'She's probably been to a tonky school.' Perhaps a blend of tony + swanky.

tons. See ton, 1, in Dict.

tonsil-snatcher. A ship's surgeon: Naval: C. 20. (Granville.) tonsil(-)varnish. 'Messdeck tea' (Granville): Naval: since ca. 1920.

too-a-roo! Good-bye!: Australian: ca. 1919–39. (Colin MacInnes, June in Her Spring, 1952.) Cf. tootle-oo on p. 899.

too Irish. See too (bloody) Irish on p. 897. The late Gerald Bullett, in letter of Aug. 22, 1950, proposed that too bloody Irish merely extends too Irish and that too Irish is short for too Irish stew, rhyming s. (? late C. 19–20) for 'too true'. He was probably right.

too late! too late! A C. 20 military c.p., always in high falsetto and with derisive inflection. Ex the story of the unfortunate who lost his manhood in a shark-infested sea after he had called for help. Also help! sharks! The first word is spoken in a normal voice, 'sharks' in falsetto.

too many for (p. 898) is perhaps of U.S. origin, for it occurs in The Port Folio, Feb. 14, 1801, at p. 52. Moe.

too mean to give you the time of day. Excessively mean: coll.: since ca. 1920.

too mean to part with (his) shit. Excessively miserly or close-fisted: low: late C. 19–20. Cf. mean he . . .

too much, adj.; always in predicate, as 'The tubes are too much' (excellent or wonderful): Australian teenagers', esp. surfers': since late 1950's. (B.P.) But also, by 1960, English, as in 'Isn't she too much?' (good at something or other)—as Anthony Lejeune noted in The Daily Telegraph, colour supplement, on March 10, 1967.

too old and too cold. 'Traditional domestic excuse by husbands for not being more "demanding"' (B.P.): c.p.: C. 20. Perhaps ex not so old . . . (p. 571).

too short for Richard, too long for Dick. 'Yorkshire expression for N.B.G.; said to have reference to Richard II, the Hunchback,' Earl (at that time Sir Archibald) Wavell, communication of Aug. 1, 1939: coll.: C. 19–20. But it was, of course, 'Richard III who was known as crookback.

Richard II was Tumble-Down Dick' (Ramsey Spencer, March 1967).

too thick to drink, too thin to plough. A c.p. referring to the Yarra river (flowing through Melbourne): common in New South Wales ca. 1900–40; then ob.: by 1963, almost †. (B.P.)

too (effing or sanguinarily) true. A c.p. of emphatic agreement or endorsement or corroboration: late C. 19–20. Cf. too right (p. 898) and too bloody Irish (p. 897) and too Irish.

toodle em buck.—2. Teetotum; to gamble with for cherry stones: Victorian (Australia) State-School children: ca. 1880–1910. (Guy Innes, March 1, 1944.)

tool, n.—6. (Ex sense 3 and v., 4.) In C. 20 c., it is that pickpocket who performs the actual theft. (The Evening News, Dec. 9, 1936.) Opp. stall, n., 1 q.v. in Dict.—7. A brush: studio s.: from ca. 1860. B. & L.—8. A one-inch paint-brush: builders' and house-painters': late C. 19–20. (A master builder: Dec. 5, 1953.)—9. A weapon: prison c.: since ca. 1942. (Norman.)

tool along. To fly without a fixed objective: R.A.F.: since ca. 1925. H. & P. See tool, v., 3 (Dict).—2. Hence, to walk aimlessly: R.A.F.: since ca. 1938. Partridge, 1945.

tool check. A venereal inspection: R.A.F. mechanics': since ca. 1930. Cf. tool, 1 (p. 898).

tooled up. Equipped with weapons: Teddy boys': since ca. 1946. (The Observer, March 1, 1959.)

tools, 4 (p. 898) is also R.A.F.: since ca. 1935.

tooraloo! Goodbye for now!; I'll be seeing you: a mainly Anglo-Irish variant of tootle-oo, q.v. at p. 899 and below: since ca. 1910. James Joyce, Ulysses, 1922, "Tooraloo," Lenehan said, "see you later."

toot, n. 2 (p. 898). 'Pace Beames, I've never heard this and doubt its authenticity. It doesn't ring true' (Leechman).—3. A variant of tewt. (H. & P.)—4. A complaint; a 'moan': Services: since ca. 1930. H. & P.—1. (Money: p. 898.) Prob. short for whistle and toot, rhyming on loot.—5. A water-closet: Australian, orig. feminine: since ca. 1950. Ex toilet. (B.P.)

toot, v. To drink heavily (at one session): Naval: since ca. 1939. Granville. 'Exercise toot is the Wardroom description of a mild "pub-crawl"; on the other hand, Operation toot is a monumental drinking party'. Cf.:

toot, have a. To have drink: since ca. 1930. Prompted by 'to wet one's whistle'.

tooter. 'One who "drinks between drinks", a seasoned performer' (Granville): Naval: since ca. 1930. Ex toot, v.

tooter the sweeter, the. See toot, at the (p. 898).

tooth, good on the. See fang, good on the, above.

tooth(e)y. A ship's Dental Surgeon: Naval Wardrooms': since ca. 1920. Granville.

toothpick, 1 (p. 899). In Sinks, 1848, it is an Irish watchman's shillelagh. Sense 3 (sword), has, however, survived in C. 20 Naval ward-rooms. (P-G-R.) Moreover, it dates back to ca. 1810 or even to ca. 1790. Wm Maginn, Whitehall, 1827 (p. 255). Moe.

Tooting. See Tooting Bec.

tooting. See 'Miscellanea'.

tooting!, too damn. Certainly: since ca. 1935. Perhaps ex Tooting Common, with a pun on com- mon, usual, general. In Canada, you're damn, or darn, tooting, you're absolutely right: since ca. 1908. (Leechman.)

Tooting Bec. Food; a meal, esp. supper, rhyming s. (on peck—Dict.): since ca. 1880. The (Birmingham) Evening Despatch, July 19, 1937. Often abbr. to Tooting.

tootle-oo! (p. 899). Probably, as Mr F. W. Thomas has most ingeniously suggested, a Cockney corruption of the French equivalent of '(I'll see you soon)': à tout à l'heure.

top, over the.—3. 'Flying above the clouds or above the bad weather,' Jackson: R.A.F. coll.: since ca. 1939. Cf. the lit. S.E. fly above the roof-tops.—4. 'Used by trans-Atlantic flyers to designate the Northern route by way of Greenland and Iceland' (P-G-R.): R.A.F.: since 1940; by 1946, also civilian.

top ballocks. Female breasts: military: late C. 19–20. E.g. 'a smashing pair of top ballocks' is a fine bust. Cf. fore-buttocks in Dict.

top brass. See brass, n., 5.

top buttocks. Female breasts: low: late C. 19–20. Cf. preceding entry.

top deck, the. The head: Australian nautical (C. 20) >, by 1925, gen. B., 1942.

Top End, the. North Australia; Top Ender, a resident there: Australian coll.: C. 20. Baker.

top-hat (p. 899) is, in C. 20, S.E. It prob. dates from ca. 1810; it occurs in, e.g., The Saturday Evening Post, March 16, 1822 (p. 1, col. 5). Moe.

top-hat on it, that's (or this has) put the. That's the finishing touch; that's the end: c.p. (mostly Liverpool): C. 20.

top-hole (p. 899): by 1945, decidedly ob.; by 1965, virtually extinct, except among those aged over 60. 'If somebody trying to take on the trappings of an Englishman were to use expressions such as wizard prang, top-hole and ripping, he would be a subject of ridicule': Wallace Reyburn's article 'This I don't Like' in The Sunday Times (colour supplement), July 8, 1962.

top hush. 'Top Secret': Service officers', esp. R.A.F.: 1939–45. (P-G-R.)

top-kick. A high-ranking officer: Australian servicemen's: since ca. 1939. (Kylie Tennant, The Joyful Condemned, 1953.)

top knot (p. 899, end). Much earlier: Sessions, April 1822 (p. 275).

top laddies. Senior officers of the Royal Navy; senior civil servants: wardrooms': since late 1930's. (Wilfred Granville, Sept. 23, 1967.)

top man. See floor man.—2. Auctioneer for a rigged auction: mock-auction world: since ca. 1945. (Sunday Chronicle, June 28, 1953.)

top of the bleeding bungalow. See top of the house (Dict.).

top-off, n. An informer to the police: Australian c.: C. 20. B., 1942. By 1948, low s. (Park, 1950.)

top off, v.—4. (Ex 2, 3, p. 900.) To act as an informer to the police: Australian c.: C. 20. Baker.

top-off merchant. A low Australian variant of top-off, n. Lawson Glassop, 1944.

top people, the. Tic-tac men signalling from high in the stands: racing: since ca. 1920. The Sunday Telegraph, May 7, 1967, anon: article on bookies' s. top ropes . . . (p. 900). In Australia, ca. 1850–

80, the phrase was 'carry on top ropes' (sense 1), as in Rolf Boldrewood, The Miner's Right, 1890.

top-sail. See topsail (Dict.).

top the officer is recorded in 1806: John Davis, The Post-Captain. (Moe.) top 'uns. Breasts: low: C. 20. (Norman.) top up. To bring a liquid to the necessary level; hence, to fill a drinking-glass or a fuel tank: coll. (? originally Army): since ca. 1930. (P-G-R.)

Top Wop, the. Mussolini: ca. 1940–44, then historical only. 'Sir Alan Herbert, I believe, christened him thus.' (Ramsey Spencer.)

top your boom! (p. 900): earlier in W. N. Glascock, Sailors and Saints (I, 145, and II, 123), 1829. Moe.

topcoat warmer, a. Warmer by a topcoat, i.e. much warmer: coll.: since ca. 1930.

topes. Latrine: Imperial Service College: C. 20. Marples. Ex topos (p. 900).

topknot. See top-knot (Dict.).

toploftical; toplofty. See top-lofty (Dict.).

topnobbler. Someone first-class or even pre-eminent: Anglo-Irish: C. 20. James Joyce, Ulysses, 1922.

topo. A topographical map: Australian: since ca. 1940. (B., 1953.)

topos (p. 900). As 'a latrine', it may have come from Rugby School. (Marples.) At Rugby School, always in the pl. topoi, except in topos bumf, toilet paper—a term current since ca. 1920.

topper, n.—9. An unamusing so-called 'funny story': since ca. 1950. (See, e.g., Romany Bain's column in the Evening Standard of July 20, 1963.) It 'tops the lot'.

topper, v. (p. 900), prob. derives imm. ex: 2. To punch: pugilistic: ca. 1810–55. George Godfrey, History of George Godfrey, 1828, has the boxing phrase (current ca. 1815–45), topper one's smellers, to land a blow on one's opponent's nose.

toppertjie. A cigarette-end: South African c.: C. 20. The Cape Times, May 23, 1946. It is an Afrikaans word, but used also by English-speakers: cf. entjie.

topping, n. A hanging: late C. 19–20. Cf. topper, 7 (p. 900), ex top, v., 4 (p. 899).

tops. Important persons; persons in the news: journalistic: since ca. 1925. Ex top-liners.

tops, adj. First-class: Army: 1944 +. Adapted from tops, the. (P-G-R.)

tops, the; as in 'He's the tops'—admirable, the best possible; most likeable: coll.: adopted, ca. 1943, from U.S.

tops and bottoms. 'In his pockets were bundles of "tops and bottoms"—rolls of "notes" with genuine fivers on top and bottom and sheets of toilet paper or telephone directory pages, their edges trimmed to look like notes, in between' (John Gosling, 1959): C. 20; by ca. 1930, also police s. topside.—2. Hence, in the air; airborne; flying: R.A.F.: since ca. 1918. Jackson.

topsider. A lazy dog: Australian: since ca. 1910. B., 1942. Prob. ex topside (p. 901).

topsides. Those at the head of a specialist corps or of a branch of the Service: Army: C. 20. E. P., 'In Mess and Field'—The New Statesman, Aug. 1, 1942. Ex topside (Dict.); it is a kind of pidgin English.

Topsy.—2. A term of address to any little girl whose name is unknown to the speaker: non-aristocratic coll.: mid-C. 19–20. Cf. Tommy, 6, in Dict.—3. 'All Turners are "Topsy" in the Navy' (Granville): C. 20.

topwire lizard. A boundary rider on large (sheep-) stations: Australian rural: C. 20. Baker. He often perches on the top wire of a fence; basks, lizard-like, in the sun; smokes; gazes around.

tore out. A small boat (up to about 15 tons T.M.) converted from cargo-boat to yacht: Essex-coast s. rather than Essex dial.: C. 20. I.e. torn out 'because the internals have been torn out' (J. A. Boycott, Dec. 1938).

tormentor of sheepskin (p. 901) prob. goes back to late C. 18, to judge by the synonym occurring in 'Police of London', reprinted by The Port Folio of May 16, 1807 (p. 312), where a drummer is referred to as 'this tormentor of parchment'. Moe.

tormentors, 2 (p. 901) occurs, in the singular, in C. J. R. Cook, The Quarter Deck, 1844. (Moe.)

torn off a strip. See tear a strip off.

torn thumb. An inferior form of Tom Thumb (p. 895). Franklyn, Rhyming.

torp. A torpedo: C. 20. Implied in torps (Dict. and Addenda); Berrey, 1940.

torpedo, v. To steal: Australian servicemen's (esp. Naval): 1939-45. (B., 1953.)

torpedo and submarine are used by the South African underworld for 'a dagga, i.e. a marijuana cigarette'; a submarine is properly a large one (The Cape Times, May 23, 1946), torpedo a large, a medium or a small (C. P. Wittstock, letter of same date). Ex their effect.

torpedo-Jack. Earlier in 'Taffrail'. Cf.: torps.

Torpoint chicken; also Stamshaw nanny-goat. A very quick-tempered messmate: Naval: C. 20. Torpoint is that township which lies across from Devonport. Stamshaw is in the Portsmouth area. The chickens of the former were noted for their 'testiness', and the nanny-goats on Stamshaw Common, noted 'butters', usually attacked on sight. (Granville.) torps. Earlier authority: 'Taffrail'. The vocative of torpedo Jack.

torrid. Rather tipsy: ca. 1780-1840. See mops and brooms. Amorous drunk?

Tosh. Sandhurst nickname for a man with a wooden leg: from ca. 1850. Major A. F. Mockler-Ferryman, Annals of Sandhurst, 1900. Perhaps ex the noisiness of the tosh-can (Dict.)—2. A coll. vocative to someone of unknown name: Cockney (C. 20); common in Army (1939+). It occurred, e.g., in the film The Blue Lamp, 1950. (Philip Gaskell.)—3. As the Tosh it = the school swimming bath: Rugby School: C. 20. (D. F. Wharton, Oct. 24, 1965.) Ex tosh, n., 3, on p. 901.

tosh, n.—8. Sewage-refuse, esp. articles made of copper: sewage-hunters': since ca. 1830. Mayhew, II, 1851, where also tosh, 1, and toshing (p. 901). Cognate with—perhaps ex—East Anglian toshy, muddy, sticky.—9. See tush below.—10. A term of address, as in 'Wotcher, tosh!': since late 1930's: proletarian, much affected by spivs; but by 1945, fairly gen. Perhaps related to Scottish dial. tosh, neat, smart, whence the n.—a smart fellow.

tosh and waddle. Utter nonsense: Australian rhyming s. (on twaddle): since ca. 1950. Cf. tosh, n., 4, on p. 901. (B.P.)

tosh-room. A bathroom: Sandhurst: from ca. 1860. Mockler-Ferryman.

tosh-soap goes back at least a decade earlier than the Dict. date. According to B. & L. it is esp. Charterhouse School s.; but it was † there by 1920.

toshing, n. See tosh, 1 (p. 901).

toss, v.—2. To throw away, esp. as useless or worthless: Australian: since ca. 1930. 'Do you want to keep this?'—'No, you can toss it.' (B.P.) Ex S.E. toss away.—3. In toss a party, to 'throw' (give) one: Australian: since ca. 1950. (B.P.)

Toss an' Joss. The T. and J. Harrison Steamship Company: H.M.S. Conway: C. 20. (Granville, Nov. 22, 1962.) Joss rhymes with Toss; Toss = Thos., Thomas.

toss in the alley. A variant of toss in the towel (p. 901): since ca. 1920. B., 1942.

toss one's cookies. To vomit: Canadian: ca. 1920-55. (Leechman.)

toss-pot. 'Used as a jocular affectionate term of address [to men] in Australia' (B.P.): Australian coll.: late C. 19-20. Ex the † S.E. toss-pot, a heavy and habitual toper.

toss-prick. A coarsely humorous vocative: C. 20.

total loss, a. 'He's a total loss', i.e. useless: R.A.F.: since ca. 1939. Ex aircraft thus classified.

total wreck. A cheque: Australian rhyming s.: C. 20. Baker.

tote, n.—4. A woman's large bag, used for carrying groceries or baby's napkins, etc.: Australian, coll. rather than s.: since ca. 1930. (B.P.) Ex tote, v., 2, on p. 902.

tote up. To add up: Australian: since ca. 1920. (B.P.) Ex total.

totem pole. 'An item of airfield lighting equipment, so called from its shape' (Jackson): R.A.F.: since ca. 1925. By 1943, jargon.

tother-sider.—3. A person from the Eastern States: West Australian. Also, a Tasmanian: Victoria. B., 1942.

tots. Old clothes: street-markets': since ca. 1870. Ex tot, n., 5 (p. 902).

tots, go. See going tots.

Tottie.—4. A girl, a young woman, esp. if of a compliant nature, but not a whore: Naval: C. 20. "'That mad pusser. Gone native. Shackling up with a Japanese tottie somewhere'" (John Winton, We Saw the Sea, 1960.) Ex sense 3 on p. 902.

Tottie (or -y) fie. A smart young woman given to 'throwing her weight about'; a prostitute or near-prostitute with such tendencies: Londoners', esp. Cockneys': C. 20. The fie is of exclamatory origin ('Oh my!'); see Tottie, 3 (Dict.). Hence, Totty Fay (pronounced Fye), alternatively Tottie Hardbake, a female assuming a haughty air: derisive Cockney: since ca. 1890. (Atkinson.)

totties. Potatoes: Regular Army: late C. 19-20. Perversion of taties; cf. the Cottonian chotties.

totting-up. See tot, v., 3 (Dict.). touch, n., 3 (p. 903), applies, in C. 20, more esp. to cattle. (B., 1943.)—9. A simpleton; a dupe: Australian (originally c.): since ca. 1910. (B., 1953.) Soft to the touch: cf. sense 4 on p. 903.

touch, get a. 'To come into personal contact with a live rail' (Railway 2nd): railwaymen's: since ca. 1950. A pun on touch, n., 5 (p. 903).

touch-bottom. A forced landing, esp. a crash-landing: R.A.F.: since ca. 1925. H. & P. Also a v. (unhyphenated), 'to crash-land': since ca. 1925. Jackson. By meiosis.

touch down, v.i. To land: R.A.F. coll. (by 1944, j.): since ca. 1918. Jackson. Ex Rugby football.

touch of 'em (or them), give (someone) a. To irritate intensely; to get badly on the nerves; to disgust: Australian low: since ca. 1925. Lawson Glassop, We Were the Rats, 1944. Them = 'the shits'.

touch of the tar-brush. See tar-brush.

touch-up.—4. To borrow money from (someone): Feb. 1787, Sessions; by 1820, virtually superseded by touch, v., 3 (p. 903).

touch wood! A precautionary c.p., uttered in order to avert bad luck or a reversal of the good fortune or success of which one has just boasted, as in 'I've been lucky, so far—touch wood!': C. 20. Ex the proverbial Touch wood, it's sure to come good and the folklorish 'to touch wood', superstitiously to do so.

touchables, the. The corruptible; those open to bribes: since ca. 1939. Punning on India's untouchables.

touchy, 2 (p. 904), goes back to ca. 1840. Marples.

tough, a bit. Rather unreasonable or too severe or too expensive: Australian coll.: late C. 19–20. B., 1942.

tough as fencing wire. Extremely hardy or fit: Australian coll.: C. 20. B., 1942. Other Aus. similes are tough as ironbark or as seasoned mulga: C. 20. (B., 1959.)

tough titty. See hard titty above.

tough-yarn. Slightly earlier in J. Burrowes, Life in St George's Fields, 1821. The hyphen is omitted by Burrowes—as it should be.

toughie. A tough: since ca. 1945. (Nicholas Blake, The Whisper in the Gloom, 1954.)

tour of miseries. 'The day's work when one is feeling down in the mouth.' H. & P.: Services (esp. Army): since ca. 1930. Ex military j. tour (as in tour in the trenches, tour of duty).

tour of the Grand Dukes, the. A tour of the fashionable demi-monde of Paris: ca. 1870–1914.

tousle. A whisker worn bushy: proletarian: from ca. 1860; ob. B. & L.

tow-path. 'The runway or stretch of ground over which a glider is towed off by an engined aircraft or tug' (Jackson): R.A.F.: 1941 +. Cf. tug.

tow-row.—2. As tow-row!, it meant, among London crossing-sweepers of ca. 1840–80, 'Be careful, a policeman is coming!' Augustus Mayhew, Paved With Gold, 1858.

tow street. To be in Tow Street is to be 'decoyed or persuaded' (P. Egan, London, 1821).

towel up. Australian variation of towel, v. (p. 904): C. 20. B., 1942.

Tower-rook. See 'Occupational names'.

town, on the. Engaged in crime: 1818, The London Guide; 1822, Pierce Egan, The Life of Hayward; † by 1900.—2. Applied to 'a man of the World. A person supposed to have a general knowledge of men and manners,' Pierce Egan, Life in London, 1821: coll.: ca. 1815–60.—3. Applied to one who has gone into town in search of sexual or other entertainment: Canadian: since ca. 1920.

town-bike. A loose woman: Australian: since ca. 1920. (Dal Stivens, Jimmy Brockett, 1951; D'Arcy Niland, The Shiralee, 1955.) So often and generally ridden.

town shift. A sharper; a scoundrel living by his wits: Londoners' c.: ca. 1660–1730. Because he so often changed his lodgings, says Richard Head, Proteus Redivivus, 1675. See also 'Rogues'.

town-stallion. See 'Dupes' and cf. town-bull (in Dict.).

town tabby. 'A dowager of quality' (Sinks): ca. 1830–80.

town-trap. See 'Constables'.

town(e)y.—6. Townies, men hailing from the same home town: Naval: C. 20. (P-G-R.)

toy.—2. A trainer aircraft: R.A.F.: since ca. 1930. Jackson. For the 'new boys' to play with.

toys.—2. 'The mechanical parts of a 'plane so beloved by the armourers and flight mechanics who care for the machine,' H. & P.: R.A.F.: since ca. 1920.—3. Equipment, vehicles, etc.; to a Gunner his guns: Army: since ca. 1925.

tra-la-la.—2. (Gen. pl.) One of 'the wealthiest and most extravagant class of dissipated men': mostly proletarian: ca. 1889–1900. B. & L.

trac. A Cockney variant of track, n., esp. 2 (Dict.). It would seem to be also a c. term for threepence, esp. a threepenny piece: late C. 19–20; ob. Pugh.

track, n.—3. 'Any outback road' (B., 1942): since ca. 1870: Australian coll. >, by 1920, S.E.

—4. 'A warder who will carry contraband messages or goods out of or into jail for a prisoner' (B., 1959): Aus. c.: since ca. 1930. A way in or out.

track, go down the. To go down South on leave: Australian servicemen's: 1940–5. (B., 1943.) From Darwin.

track, (go) on the. (To go) tramping the back country in search of work: Australian coll: C. 20. (Caddie, A Sydney Barmaid, 1953.) track, up the. See 'Hauliers' Slang'.

track mitts. Leather mittens: (racing) cyclists': since ca. 1930.

track square. To deal fairly (with a person): Australian: since ca. 1910. Baker. Cf. track with (p. 905).

tractor.—2. A motor car: since ca. 1950. (The New Statesman, Feb. 5, 1965.) Pejorative; cf. sense 1 (p. 905)—itself † since ca. 1930 and ob. since ca. 1920.

trad. Traditional or 'hot' jazz music: mostly teenagers': since ca. 1959, but not common until 1961. The Sunday Telegraph, Dec. 3, 1961. See also 'Jazz Slang'. Cf.:

trad rags. Traditional dress of a people: since ca. 1960. (Wilfred Granville, April 22, 1962.)

trade, n. Sense 3 was revived in World War II: P-G-R.—4. Booksellers' and publishers': book-world coll.: from ca. 1815. Lockhart, Life of Scott, 1837, 'Gentlemen of the trade, emphatically so called.'—5. In homosexual circles, it is the normal word for sexual commerce, as in 'Did you have any trade last night?': C. 20. (Correspondent.)

trade-in. A car 'traded in' as part of the purchase money for a new car. A motor-trade coll., esp. in Australia: since ca. 1930. (Gavin Casey, The Wits Are Out, 1947.)

tradesman, regular. See regular tradesman.

Tradesmen's Entrance, the. That entrance and narrow passage to the Grand Fleet anchorage at Scapa Flow which was used by destroyers and smaller craft: Naval: 1939-45; then semi-historical. (Wilfred Granville.) traffic cop. A policeman controlling the traffic: adopted ex U.S., ca. 1935 in Canada, ca. 1945 elsewhere; by 1945 in Canada, by 1955 elsewhere, virtually coll.

traffique. See traffic (Dict.).

trag. A teralgon (a fish): Australian fishermen's coll.: since ca. 1920. (B.P.) trail boss. A stationmaster: railwaymen's: since ca. 1935. (Railway 2nd.) Jocular, ex Western films.

train(-)detainer. A train-dispatcher: Canadian railroadmen's (- 1931). Jocular.

train(-)driver. 'The leader of a large formation (of aircraft)', H. & P.: R.A.F. since ca. 1938.

train(-)smash. Fried tomatoes: Naval (lower-deck): C. 20. The Weekly Telegraph, Sept. 13, 1941; Granville. Ex the colour of flowing gore, the aspect of mangled limbs. Thus do brave men deride their own secret dreads.

train-up, v.i. To hurry: proletarian: mid-C. 19-20. B. & L.

tram, n.—2. See fish-horn.

tram-driver. A coastal Command pilot on patrols: R.A.F.: 1940-5. Contrast train-driver.

tram-lined. (Of trousers) having a double crease: jocular coll.: since ca. 1925.

tram-lines.—2. 'The tram-lines are war-time convoy routes': Naval: 1939+. Granville. Compare the R.A.F.'s milk round.—3. Parallel brush-marks: builders' and house-painters': since ca. 1910. (A master builder: Dec. 5, 1953.)

tram-walloper. One who pickpockets on tram-cars: C.: from ca. 1910. (The Yorkshire Post, latish May, 1937.)

trammy or -ie. A tram conductor or driver: Australian coll.: C. 20. (B., 1943; Margaret Trist, 1946.) tramp, n.—2. See 'Imperial . . .'

tramp-major. A tramp that, in exchange for his keep at a casual ward, helps the porter: tramps' c.: late C. 19-20. (From ca. 1930, he has been deprecated by the authorities.)

tramped, adj. (in predicate only). Dismissed from employment: Australian Labour: since ca. 1920. B., 1942. I.e. rendered a tramp.

trampolin (p. 906). That sense is ob. and was probably never worse than jargon.

trams. Legs: underworld (and 'fringe') rhyming s.: C. 20. On gams, pl. of gam, 2 (p. 313). Franklyn 2nd.

tranklements or trollybobs. Entrails; intestines: proletarian: mid-C. 19-20. B. & L.

tranko. 'The elongated barrel which a performer manages with his feet, and keeps up in the air while lying on his back': circusmen's s. verging on j.: mid-C. 19-20. Ibid. Origin? Cf. risley above.

trans. A translation: secondary schools': late C. 19-20. (Michael Poole, Redways, 1935.)

Trans, the. The train running between Adelaide and Perth, trans or across the Nullarbor Plains: Australian coll.: since ca. 1925. (B., 1953.)

transit is occ. (though very rarely before C. 20) used catachrestically for transport (or carriage).

trap, n.—8. See 'Guard-Room in Army Slang'.

trap, v.i. To obtain a fare: taxicabmen's: from ca. 1925. "Did you trap off the Museum?"

"Yes, I puts on there and I traps in ten minutes." This put on, v.i., is also cabmen's (same date): i.e. I put my car on the rank at ('the Museum' being the rank in front of the British Museum). Perhaps there is a reference to the old horse-busman's s. phrase net a load of rabbits, to get a load of passengers, of ca. 1860-1908.

trap, shut one's. See shut your face! above.

trap for young players. A c.p. applied to, e.g., marriage: mostly Australian: since ca. 1955. (B.P.)

trap-stick, 2 (p. 907), occurs much earlier in Addison's The Spectator, No. 599, published in 1714.

traps.—3. (Ex sense 1: p. 907.) Cleaning traps, one's cleaning-materials (polish, buttonstick, brushes, etc.): Army, esp. Artillery: C. 20.—4. Short for mess-traps (p. 518). In W. N. Glascock, Sketch-Book, 2nd Series, 1834, at I, 56. (Moe.)

trat. A pretty girl; an attractive harlot: proletarian: ca. 1880-1905. B. & L. Either a perversion or an anagram of tart.

travel, 1 (p. 907). By 1910 at latest, S.E.—3. To take stage properties and important accessories on tour: theatrical coll.: late C. 19-20. 'Theatrical people, on the road, may or may not "travel" all their "props" and accessories' (Leechman).

travel in the market. Applied to the way or extent in or to which a horse is betted on or against: turf: ca. 1870-1910. B. & L.

travel on the thumb. See hitch hike.

traveller.—9. A loafer: Australian: C. 20. B., 1942. Ex senses 2, 3 (p. 907).

travel(l)ing grunt; travelling man. A road foreman of engines; a travelling engineer or a travelling fireman: Canadian (and U.S.) railroadmen's (- 1931).

travelling scholarship (p. 907) has the variant t. fellowship, belonging to approximately the same period. On May 1, 1802 (p. 136), The Port Folio quotes from The Rusticated Cantab, an unidentified British source. Moe.

travelling the bees. Migratory bee-keeping; hence, travel the bees, to be a migratory bee-keeper: Australian coll.: since ca. 1945. Kylie Tennant's novel, The Honey Flow, 1956, forms the 'locus classicus' of the subject.

traverse the cart. To delay departure; be loath to depart: pedantic: ca. 1845-70. Thackeray.

tray-bit.—2. Hence, a term of contempt for an insignificant person: Australian: C. 20. B., 1942.—3. (Usually in pl.) A female breast: Australian c.: since ca. 1920. (B., 1963.) Rhyming on tit.

tray of moons. A three-months' prison-sentence: ca. 1870-1914. (Barry Pain, The Memoirs of Constance Dix, 1905.)

treacle, v. To flatter (esp. a superior): Services: since ca. 1930. H. & P., 'To administer soothing syrup'.

treacle, the. A hanger-on; one who is neither a constant nor an accepted member of a gang: Teddy boys': since ca. 1950. (The Observer, March 1, 1959.)

treacle toffee. Welsh coal: railwaymen's: C. 20. Railway, 3rd.

treaclemoon. Honeymoon: jocular (ugh!): C. 20.

treat, 1 (p. 908), occurs in The Port Folio—an American magazine, quoting a British source—of treat, give the boys a. See give the boys . . . above.

Feb. 21, 1801 (p. 64), and therefore presumably goes back to late C. 18.

treat with ignore. To overrule (someone): Australian soldiers': 1939-45. (B., 1943.) To ignore someone's request.

tree frog. A Meteorological Officer in the German Zeppelin Service: R.F.C.-R.A.F.: 1915-18. (V. M. Yeates, Winged Victory, 1934.)

tree-hopping. An occ. variant of hedge-hopping on p. 385: R.F.C.-R.A.F. 1915-18, then historical. (V. M. Yeates, Winged Victory, 1934.)

tree of knowledge. See boom, n., 3. (C. P. Wittstock, May 23, 1946.)

trees. Creases in carbon-paper: typists': since ca. 1910. Kate Stevens, Typewriting Self-Taught, 1942.

tremblers. Stairs: Anglo-Irish: C. 19. 'A Real Paddy', Real Life in Ireland, 1822.

Trenchard brat. An R.A.F. apprentice: 1920 +; by 1940, ob. Jackson, 'After Marshal of the Air the Viscount Trenchard who, in 1920, introduced the apprenticeship system into the Service.'

trendy, adj. Following the social or intellectual or artistic or literary or musical or sartorial or other trend; up-to-the-minute smart or fashionable: since 1966; by end of 1967, already verging on coll. The New Statesman, March 24, 1967.

trendy, n. One who is 'trendy': since 1967. Joan Fleming, Kill or Cure, 1968, '... the Chelsea Set . . . there are trendies and personae non gratae amongst them'.

trezzie. A threepenny piece: Australian: since ca. 1920. B., 1942. Ex trey: see tray, 2, on p. 908.

tri-car. A motor-car with only one wheel at rear: coll.: since ca. 1930.

trible, adj. and—usually in pl.—n. Treble: Australian juvenile: since ca. 1930. (B., 1953.) Cf. fourble.

trick.—3. A tour of duty; a turn at the wheel: Naval (late C. 19-20), Canadian railroadmen's (—1931), and others'. Ex card-games.—4. A customer: prostitutes': adopted, ca. 1944, ex U.S. (where current since World War I); by 1960, also gen. low s. (Cf. sense 3.) Hence, be on a trick = to be 'entertaining' a customer.

trick cyclist. A psychiatrist: Army: 1943 +. By 'Hobson-Jobson'. In, e.g., Lewis Hastings, Dragons Are Extra, 1947. 'At least as early as 1938 in civilian slang. Also used as a verb in the Forces towards the end of the war [of 1939-45]. "He got himself trick-cycled out of the Army"' either legitimately or fraudulently: Peter Sanders.

trick up. To baffle; to get the better of: Australian: since ca. 1920. (Jean Devanney, By Tropic Sea and Jungle, 1944.)

trickle, n. Sweat: Scottish Public Schools': C. 20. Ian Miller, School Tie, 1935, has it also as a v.i. Whence trickle-bags. The sense 'to perspire' has been current at Harrow School since before 1913: witness Lunn.

trickle-bags. A coward: ibid.: id. Ian Miller, l.c.

tricks and mortar. A c.p. applied to jerry-building: since ca. 1930. A pun on bricks.

tricycle. 'An aircraft with a tricycle type undercarriage', Jackson: R.A.F. coll.: since ca. 1930. That definition requires modification: 'A 'plane with a nose wheel instead of a tail wheel—all aircraft have three wheels,' Robert Hinde, March 17, 1945.

tried it once, but I (or he) didn't like it, preceded by I or he. 'When used in the first person, it means that one is turning down an offer through preference rather than ignorance; when used in the third, it refers to a married person with an only child' (B.P.): Australian c.p.: since ca. 1920.

trier.—2. An unsuccessful thief: c.: C. 20.

trig, n.—4. A surveyor's pole or mark or station: Australian: C. 20. 'A flagpole . . . without a flag. "One of the border trigs", called Tuck from his camel . . . "Government surveyors built 'em up years ago when they ran the border line"', Archer Russell, In Wild Australia, 1934. Prob. ex trigonometrical survey.

trilbies. Feet: Australian: late C. 19-20. Ion M. Idriess, The Yellow Joss, 1934, 'Stony broke, tucker-bags busted, no smokes, corns on me trilbies, an' a thirst that'd swallow a brewery. What a life!'

trim-tram. In Lord Hervey and His Friends, edited by the Earl of Ilchester and published in 1950, there occurs, in a letter dated Oct. 23, 1731, this passage: 'There was a most magnificent entertainment, and everything that depended on his servants was in perfection. Whether it was trim tram, I know not, but can give a shrewd guess', the sense being either 'an absurdity' or 'absurd': upper-class: ? ca. 1700-70. A reduplication on trim.

trim your lamps, I'll. A threat to give someone a good hiding: c.p.: since ca. 1940. Perhaps the original sense was, 'I'll black your eyes': cf. lamp (p. 468).

trim your language! Cease swearing!: Australian: C. 20. B., 1942. I.e. render it less shaggy—less rough.

trimmer.—2. Anything excellent: (? mostly) Australian: C. 20. 'You little trimmer!' = 'You little beaut!': an Australian usage. (B.P.) Ex sense 1 on p. 909.

Trinco. Trincomalee, a seaport of Ceylon: coll.: late C. 19-20 nautical, 1942-5 Services'. (F. Spencer Chapman, The Jungle Is Neutral, 1949.)

Trindog. An undergraduate of Trinity College, Oxford: Oxford undergraduates': ca. 1890-1914. 'The expression "a hearty Trindog" was in vogue c. 1908' (Marples, 2): originated by Balliol?

trinkerman. A Thames Estuary fisherman: nautical: mid-C. 19-20. B. & L.

trip, 1 (p. 910). Esp. as in 'Trips: Women who decoy and rob drunken persons,' F. D. Sharpe, The Flying Squad, 1938.—4. An experience of drug-taking: drug addicts': since ca. 1966. Daily Colonist (Victoria, B.C.), March 29, 1967, 'A Vancouver youth who had a nightmare ride on an L.S.D. "trip", said Tuesday he never wants to make the journey again.' (Leechman.) By early 1967, also British: note Peter Fryer in The Observer colour supplement, Dec. 3, 1967.

trip up the Rhine, a. Sexual intercourse: Forces': 1945 +. Cf. the barmaids' a bike ride to Brighton: C. 20.

tripe.—5. Filth, dirt: Army, esp. in the Guards regiments: C. 20. Gerald Kersh, They Die with Their Boots Clean, 1941.—6. Hence, fig., as in tripe, in (below).—7. Very easy bowling: cricketers' coll.: since ca. 1920.

tripe, in. In trouble: Regular Army: since ca. 1920. Gerald Kersh, The Nine Lives of Bill Nelson, 1942, 'He was in tripe . . . and about forty hours pushed' (late). Ex prec.

tripe, up to. See up to mud.

tripe-hound.—3. A reporter: orig. and mainly newspapermen's: from ca. 1924. (In Dorothy Sayers's contribution to Six against the Yard, 1936.)—4. A sheep dog: New Zealand and Australian farmers': C. 20. B., 1941, 1942.

tripe medal is a C. 20 variant of putty medal (p. 693).

Tripe Shop, the. Broadcasting House, London: taxi-drivers': since ca. 1930. Weekly Telegraph, April 6, 1946.

Tripoli gallop, the. The advance towards Tripoli (N. Africa)—an advance that happened twice before the 8th Army captured it: Army: 1942-3. (P-G-R.)

trips. Triplets: mostly lower-middle class: since ca. 1910. Rose Macaulay, I Would Be Private, 1937.

triss. An objectionable fellow: esp. a pathic: Australian c.: since ca. 1930. (Kylie Tennant, The Joyful Condemned, 1953.) Origin? A 'siss' or 'sissie' (see p. 772): rhyming s.; by 1950, no longer low.—2. A variant of trizzie below: Australian: since ca. 1925. (B.P.)

trizzer. A lavatory: Australian low: since ca. 1922. B., 1942. The charge for a wash and brush-up is a:

trizzie. A threepenny piece: Australian: since ca. 1920. Baker. See trezzie.

trog. 'We are "Trots"—sort of "Mods" who go potholing. We were having a "do" at the "Thunderbirds"—they're a sort of "Rockers"': thus a youth of 20, as reported in The Times of June 8, 1965. Obviously ex S.E. trogglodyte, a cave-dweller, it dates since ca. 1961.—2. A 'stuffy', old-fashioned person (a very cubical 'square'): since ca. 1950. (R. T. Bickers, The Hellions, 1965.) Ex the Trogglodytes or Cave-Dwellers of the Ancient World.—3. A cadet: Royal Naval College, Dartmouth, and gen. R.N.L. since ca. 1950. John Winton, We Joined the Navy, 1959 (p. 65); a midshipman, a newly appointed officer, John Winton, We Saw the Sea, 1960, 'Now I must . . . introduce the rest of the trogs to the captain.'

trog boots. 'Especially heavy, cleated, rubber-soled boots used in bad-weather conditions by certain tradesmen and outdoor workers' (Sgt R. Farley, Feb. 16, 1967): R.A.F.: since ca. 1960. Ex S.E. 'Trogglodyte'?

Trojan.—4. A professional gambler: buckish: ca. 1805-40. J. J. Stockwell, The Greeks, 1817. Prob. ironic ex sense 2.

trolley and truck. Coition; to coit: low rhyming s.: since ca. 1910. (Franklyn, Rhyming.)

trolling, n. Streetwalking by a prostitute: prostitutes': since ca. 1930. I.e. trawling.

trollop (p. 911). Obviously it is an ironically humorous misuse of the S.E. sense: cf. wench (p. 945).

trollybobs. See tranklements.

trombone, the. The telephone: defective rhyming s.: since ca. 1930. (Douglas Warner, Death of a Snout, 1961).

tromboning, adj. and n. See laking.

tronker. A long-distance lorry driver: hauliers': since late 1950's. (The Daily Telegraph, Feb. 4, 1964.) Perhaps, as Peter Sanders has suggested, ex trunk-route driver; prob., I'd add, influenced by French tronc.

troop.—2. To convey in a troop-ship: coll.: since ca. 1940. (Jane Gordon, Married to Charles, 1950.)

—3. To cause (a defaulter) to be brought before a superior officer: coll., Armed Services', esp. the Navy: since ca. 1930. John Winton, We Saw the Sea, 1960.

trooper.—2. A prostitute: ca. 1830-90. Sinks, 1848.

troops, the.—2. 'The Ship's Company,' H. & P.: Naval: C. 20. 'Not quite correct, the truth being that this is the Wardroom's term for the lower-deck' (Granville).

troppo. 'Term used by men serving during World War II in the Pacific area = one who has had long service in tropical areas and, by inference, ought to be repatriated' (W. Colgan): New Zealand and Australian: since ca. 1941. (B., 1942, troppo; Dymphna Cusack, 1951, half-troppo, partly, or as if, crazy.) Ex 'tropical', with Australian suffix -o.—2. Hence, go troppo, to go crazy: since ca. 1942; by late 1940's, common throughout the Pacific: cf. 'He had the look of men Hurst had seen in the tropics, when they were going "troppo"—off their heads' in Elleston Trevor's The Shoot, 1966.

tros (p. 911). But trosseno occurs in Mayhew, I, 1851.

trossing, n. Walking: Post Office employees', esp. telegraph messenger boys': C. 20. (Laurie Atkinson, Sept. 11, 1967.) Ex S.E. trudging?

trossy.—2. (Cf. sense 1: p. 911.) Hence, shoddy, inferior; spurious: late C. 19-20.

trot.—7. A synonym of twat, 1 (Dict.): low: C. 18-20.—8. A fellow, chap: mostly University: from ca. 1919. Nicholas Blake, Thou Shell of Death, 1936, Oxford don speaking: 'He's quite a decent old trot, but definitely in the Beta class.' Perhaps ironically ex † S.E. trot, a whore.—9. A sequence of bets, esp. bad trot: Australian racing: C. 20. Lawson Glassop, 1949. Cf. sense 4 (p. 911). By ca. 1955, no longer confined to the sporting and gambling world, but very widely used, in New Zealand also.—10. A woman: New Zealand: since ca. 1925. Cf. the quotation a mockery, 2, above.—11. A lavatory: R.A.F.: since ca. 1950. Cf. trots, 3, below.

trot, do a. To have a successful run: Australian two-up players': C. 20. (Vance Palmer, Let the Birds Fly, 1955.) trot, on the. Gadding about: Society coll.: since ca. 1880. (Edward Burke, Bachelor's Buttons, 1912.)—2. In succession: Services' in 1939-45; then in general use. Cf. the familiar S.E. running.

trot(-)boat. 'A duty boat plying between ship and shore': Naval: C. 20. Granville. A trot is a line of buoys and the trot-boat serves ships moored on the trot.

trot-boat queen. 'Wren member of a trot-boat's crew' (Granville): Naval: 1941+. Ex prec.

trot fob. The moving of submarines in the 'trot' alongside their parent ship to make way for a submarine that is to be victualled or ammunitioned: submariners': since ca. 1930. (P-G-R.)

trots.—3. As the trots, diarrhoea: mostly Canadian: since ca. 1910. Also, since ca. 1912, Australian (I heard it in Gallipoli in 1915.)—4. A horse-trotting meeting: Australian coll.: C. 20.

'Betting on the Harold Park trots' (B.P.). Perhaps the origin of sense 3.

Trotters, the. The Bolton Wanderers Association Football team: sporting: C. 20.

troub. A tram conductor: Australian: since ca. 1925. (B., 1943.) Ex trouble or perhaps troublesome.

trouble, n.—3. Short for trouble and strife (p. 912): C. 20.—4. Confinement (esp. of unmarried woman): euphemistic coll.: mid-C. 19–20.

Trouble, the. The Sinn Fein 'troubles' (1916–27): Anglo-Irish euphemistic coll.: since 1916; by 1930, merely historical.

trouble(-)box. Fuse in a mine or a bomb: Naval: 1939 +.

trouble-shooter. A public relations man: coll.: since late 1950's. A sense-adaptation of an American term; a word so useful that, by 1966, it has > S.E. troubles!, my. An Australian equivalent of 'I should worry!': since ca. 1910. B., 1942.

trough. A school dinner: North Country grammar schools': since late 1940's. New Society, Aug. 22, 1963.

trouncer. A drink of strong liquor: (low) London: ca. 1820–70. Sessions, Feb. 1838.—2. Somebody extremely expert or capable; something excellent or astounding: Australian coll.: C. 20. B., 1942. Ex S.E. trounce, to thrash.

trouser(ed); trousers. 'Trousers. The streamline covering in which the undercarriage legs of some 'planes are enclosed; such planes being trouser(ed). (Cf. spats), H. & P.: Air Force: since ca. 1930.

trout, be all about. To be alert or watchful: c.: since ca. 1945. (Robin Cook, 1962.) Origin?

troy school. A gambling school, ? esp. in two-up: Australian coll.: since ca. 1880. Jean Devaney, By Tropic Sea and Jungle, 1944, 'Tully'—in N. Queensland—'was full of gambling joints, poker schools, troy schools—all the trimmings'. Origin obscure: perhaps cf. S. W. English dial. troy fair and troy town, confusion, litter.

truckie (-ky). A railroad truck: Australian, mostly juvenile: since ca. 1920. (Dick.)—2. A truck (lorry) driver: Aus.: since ca. 1920. Bernard Hesling, The Dinkumization and Depommification, 1963.

trudge. A trudgen stroke (ex John Trudgen, British swimmer, † 1902): since ca. 1905. John Garden, All on a Summer's Day, 1949.)

true dinkum. A variant of square dinkum (p. 818): Australian: C. 20. B., 1942. Sometimes shortened to true dink: since ca. 1920.

true marmalade. See marmalade (Dict.).

true till death. Breath: theatrical rhyming s.: late C. 19–20. (Franklyn, Rhyming.)

true Trojan. See 'Tavern terms', § 2; and cf. Trojan, 2 (Dict.). trugmoldies. See 'Harlots'.

trump, n.—2. A breaking of wind: mid-C. 19–20; ob. Ex trump, v. (Dict.).—3. A commanding officer: Australian soldiers': 1939 +. B., 1942. Ex card games. Cf. trump of the dump (p. 912).

trumpet, on the. Objectionable; disliked: Australian soldiers': 1939 +. B., 1942. Ex 'one who blows his own trumpet'?

trumpeter.—2. See 'Tavern terms', § 7 (end).

trumpeters. Convicts' 'irons which connected the ordinary leg-chains with a brazil riveter round each leg immediately below the knees,' Price Warung, Tales of the Early Days, 1894, in ref. to Norfolk Island ca. 1840; app. s. rather than c. They proclaimed the convict's presence if he so much as stirred.

trun. To run: University of Oxford s. of ca. 1760–1810. See quotation at pro, 1, above. Short for S.E. trundle.

trundle for a goose's eye, making a. See weaving leather aprons (Dict.).

trunk.—3. A trunk call: coll., among telephonists and constant telephone-users: since ca. 1920.

trunk(e)y or T-. Nickname for anyone with a prominent nose: Naval: C. 20. Granville. Suggested by 'elephant's trunk' and conkey (Dict.).

trunnions. 'Hair over the ears which curls over a sailor's cap' (Granville): Naval: since ca. 1920. Ex the lit. nautical S.E. sense.

trust him as far as I could throw him, I would not. A c.p. applied to an unreliable man: from ca. 1870. Dr Leechman, in April 1967, writes, 'I recently encountered "I wouldn't trust him as far as I could throw an anvil in a swamp"'—a Canadian variant.

trust him (or her) with a kid's money-box, I wouldn't. A self-explanatory c.p.: C. 20.

trust him with our cat, (I) wouldn't. A c.p. applied in C. 20 to a man with an unsavoury sexual record.

trusted alone (p. 913). Two years earlier in Pierce Egan, Life in London, 1821.

trut. A threepenny-piece: Australian: since ca. 1930. (B., 1943.) Origin? 'Perhaps from broad pronunciation of "trupenny bit"' (B.P.); with, I suggest, the p of 'trupenny' influenced by the t of 'bit'—in short, by assimilation.

try a piece of sandpaper! See get the cat.

try one on a wind. To take a chance: Naval coll.: C. 19. In W. N. Glascock, The Naval Sketch-Book, 2nd Series, 1834, at II, 67. (Moe.) Semantically, cf. fly a kite, 6, on p. 291.

try some horse-muck in your shoes! Working-men's advice to undersized boys: c.p.: late C. 19–20. As manure to make them grow.

try the raw prawn act, v.t.: on someone. Variant of come the raw prawn over (above).

try this for size! A c.p. used in horseplay and accompanying a playful punch: variant, how's that for centre? (perhaps originally Army, ex marksmanship): both, since ca. 1935. The former probably derives ex drapery salesmen's jargon.—2. Hence, but try this for size only, also—since ca. 1945—in contexts far removed from horseplay.

tse is incorrect for tsetse: mid-C. 19–20. O.E.D.

tu. Tuition: Public Schools': late C. 19–20. Marples.

tub, n. 7 (p. 914). By 1950, at latest, it had become busmen's: see barrow, 2.—9. A cathode-ray tube: R.A.F.: since ca. 1940. Sergeant G. Emanuel, letter of March 29, 1945, 'From "tube"',—10. A brake: railwaymen's: since ca. 1920. (Railway 2nd.)

The definition of sense 3 (p. 914) should be more precise: the term was applied to seatless carriages, also called stand-ups, on the early English railway trains. This sense derives ex that of 'a covered carriage of the sort called a chariot': s.: ca. 1815–40. The New York Literary Gazette of Nov. 12, 1805 (p. 145) app. quotes a British source in this passage: "'By Jove," languidly drew out Lord

Tubureux, "what!—the steady fellow's off at last [i.e., dead]. I wonder who gets his horses and his yellow tub (an impertinent term of contempt for his chariot); he had one decentish black horse, ha! ha! ha! (laughing.) Well, I'm glad that old sober sides is done up." (Moe.)

tubber; usually in pl. A difficult question asked in a viva voce examination: Naval: C. 20. Granville. It comes like a cold douche.

Tubby. The 'inevitable' nickname of men surnamed Cooper, even if not fat, the reference being to barrels: C. 20. (Peter Sanders.)

Tubby Martin. See 'Nicknames'.

tube, n.—4. A cigarette: Cambridge undergraduates: ca. 1925–40. Hence, 1940 +, among Leeds undergraduates. (Marples, 2.)—5. A submarine: Naval: since ca. 1918. Ex its torpedo-tubes.—6. Penis: Anglo-Irish feminine: late C. 19–20. James Joyce, Ulysses, 1922.

tube, v.; hence agent tuber and n. tubing. To toady; a toady; toadying: University of Alberta: ca. 1925–40.

tube, (ride) in a; tube, shoot the. This tube (n., 6) is, in Pix, Sept. 28, 1963, defined as 'a hollow piped wave'. The 2nd phrase occurs in Pix's definition of shooting the tube as 'crouching on the nose of the board, shooting through the hollow portion of the curl'; the 1st phrase, in the Sun-Herald quotation (Sept. 22, 1963)—'Riding "in a tube" is the ultimate aim of all surfers—shooting along the tube formed by a perfect wave as its crest curls over.' An Australian surfers' term and phrases, dating from ca. 1961.

Tubes. Shares in Tube Investments, Ltd: Stock Exchange: since ca. 1950. (Sanders.)

tubs. Tubular tyres: cyclists' and motor-cyclists': since ca. 1935.

tuck, n.—4. The head: 1888, The London Guide; † by 1900. Cf. sense 1 of the v. (p. 914).

tuck in your tuppenny! Among boys playing leap-frog: Tuck in your head!: late C. 19–20. Rhyming s.: tuppenny (loaf of bread).

tuck on (a price). To charge exorbitantly: non-aristocratic: from ca. 1870; slightly ob. B. & L.

tucker, v. To eat one's tucker, to eat a meal: Australian: late C. 19–20. G. B. Lancaster, Jim of the Ranges, 1910, 'If I don't turn up before dinner time you come an' tucker, an' then go back.' Ex tucker, n., v (p. 914).—2. To provide with food: Australian: since ca. 1920. (Kylie Tennant, The Honey Flow, 1956.) Likewise ex tucker, n., 2.

tudgy yarn. Spun-yarn: R.N.C., Dartmouth: since ca. 1930. 'After a Seamanship Instructor of that name' (P-G-R.).

Tudorbethan (or t-), adj. Applied to a house possessing either no particular, or every, style: architecturally a 'mess': cultured coll.: since ca. 1950. (R. G. G. Price, A History of Punch, 1957.)

tug, n. Sense 3 (p. 915) is recorded earlier by 'Taffrail'.—5. An engined aircraft that tows glider-borne troops: since ca. 1941 or 1942: R.A.F. coll. >, by July 1944, j. H. & P. Sense 1, by the way, occurs as early as Spy, 1825, in forms tug mutton, tug, mutton.

tug-clothes and tug-jaw. See tug, adj., 2 (Dict.).

tug-mutton.—3. See tug, n. (above).

tug pilot. 'The pilot of the aeroplane towing a glider' (P-G-R.): Air Force coll.: since ca. 1942.

tuggery.—2. A variant of toggery (p. 894).

tugging, n. Dealing cards from the bottom of the pack: Australian card-players': since ca. 1920. (B., 1953.)

tuggy. A fireplace cloth: chimneysweeps': C. 19. (G. Elson, The Last of the Climbing Boys, 1900.) Cf. toggy on p. 894.

tulip, 2 (p. 915), occurs in, e.g., Boziana, IV, 1824, 'A small number of Swells, Tulips, and Downey-coves'; ibid., 'Togged like a swelled tulip'.—3. A bomb dropped by a Zeppelin: 1916–18. Ironic.

tulips of the goes. 'Highest order of fashionables' (Sinks): ca. 1835–55.

tum-tum. A dog-cart: Anglo-Indian: from ca. 1860; ob.—2. See tum in Dict.

tumble, n.—3. "'Come and have a tumble" (from "Tumble down the sink", rhyming slang for "drink"), F. D. Sharpe, The Flying Squad, 1938: since ca. 1912.—4. A rough sea: Australian nautical: since ca. 1915. In, e.g., Sydney Parkman, Captain Bowker, 1946. Proleptic.

Recorded earlier in Sydney Lester, Vardi the Palarey, 1937.

tumble, v., 2 (p. 915). A little earlier in Sessions, March 1848.

tumble-down. Grog: Australian: ca. 1815–70. Peter Cunningham, Two Years, 1827. Proleptic.—2. Hence, alcoholic liquor: Australian: since ca. 1870; ob. B., 1942.

tumble to oneself, take a. The to oneself is often omitted. Used by 'Rolf Boldrewood' in 1891. (Sidney J. Baker, letter, 1946.)

tumble up, 2 (p. 915): prob. since late C. 18. (W. N. Glascock, Sketch-Book (I, 8), 1825.) Moe.

tumbler.—5. A printing machine: printers': from ca. 1880; ob. B. & L. Ex 'the peculiar rocking motion [of the cylinder]'.

tumour. A term of abuse, ca. 1930–4, at several Public Schools. Ian Hay, Housemaster, 1936, 'Smear is the very latest word here. Last year it was tumour.'

tune (p. 916) is, however, very much alive in South Africa c. and low s.: June 3, 1946, The Cape Times (article by Alan Nash), 'To hit back: Tune him, label him full of dents.' tuniness. See tuny (Dict.).

Tunisgrad. 'The position the Germans ultimately found themselves in in Tunisia. (Tunisia + Stalingrad.): thus Peter Sanders, Sept. 10, 1967, concerning the war in North Africa: 1943.

tunk. To dip (e.g. bread) in a liquid (esp. gravy or tea or coffee): coll.: adopted, ca. 1944, from U.S. servicemen. The U.S. coll. tunk comes ex the synonymous Pennsylvania German dunke (past p., gedunk), a deviation from German tunken. See also dunk.

tunnel. A synonym of tube, n., 6 (above): since ca. 1961. Pix, Sept. 28, 1963.

tunnel motor. '0–6–0 Pannier tank fitted with condensing apparatus for working over the Inner Circle and Metropolitan lines' (Railway, 3rd): London railwaymen's: since ca. 1950.

tunny. See turnee.

tup. In sense 2, the phrase dates from before 1890. B. & L.

tup-three. 'Drill instructors' pronunciation of two-three, the pause between the stages of a movement' (P-G-R.): Army: since ca. 1880(?).

tuppence-ha'penny. A squadron-leader: R.A.F.

regulars': since ca. 1920. A pun on 'two-and-a-half ringer'.

Turbot. A Talbot car: Cambridge undergraduates': ca. 1925-40. Pun.

turd.—2. A term of contempt, as in 'You are a turd': South African coll.: since ca. 1925. Cf. shit, 2, on p. 758.

turf or turf up. To throw up—abandon—a job: Australian: since ca. 1920. B., 1942. Cf. pack it in and pack up and turn it in.

turf it. To sleep on the ground with a tent-like canvas covering: 1883, James Greenwood, Odd People; ob. by 1919, virtually † by 1940.

turf it! Stow it!; Be quiet!: Australian: since ca. 1930. (B.P.) Cf. turf above.

turf out.—2. To throw out or away, to discard: mostly Australian: since ca. 1920. (B., Australia Speaks, 1953.) Ex sense 1: p. 916 at turf, v., 3.

Turk. 'An ill-natured surly boorish fellow' (P. W. Joyce, English . . . in Ireland, 1910): Anglo-Irish: late C. 19-20.

turk. A turkey: Australian: C. 20. B., 1942. Cf. donk and monk.

turkey. Earlier recorded in 'Taffrail'.—2. See turkey-merchant, 6 (p. 917)—which, obviously, should be turkey, 2.—3. A tramp's swag: Australian: C. 20. (B., 1943.) Common also in Canada and U.S. (Leechman.)

Turkey, Church of. Any 'fancy religion': Naval: C. 20.

turkey, talk. See talk turkey.

turkey off (p. 917). By ca. 1910, also Australian. Baker.

Turks. The Irish: Teddy boys': since ca. 1949. (The Observer, March 1, 1959.)

turn dog. To inform to the police: Aus.: mid C. 19-20, but ob. by 1930. Edward Dyson, The Gold Stealers, 1901, "Tell me how you come to be in the Stream drive that night." Dick . . . answered nothing. "Come on, old man, I won't turn dog."

turn in, 1 (p. 917). A slightly earlier nautical example occurs in The Dublin University Magazine of March 1834 (on p. 244). Moe.—3. To bring (someone) before the Officer Commanding: Army: since ca. 1930. Ex underworld. (P-G-R.)

turn it in.—2. In imperative, it = turn it up (see turn up, v., 1: (Dict.) = Shut up: C. 20. See turn it in, v., 2 (Dict.).

turn it on. To provide, to pay for, drinks, esp., to give a party: Australian: C. 20. B., 1942.—2. To fight—to begin to fight—with one's fists: Australian: since ca. 1920. Baker.—3. (Of a woman) to agree to coit: Australian low: since ca. 1920. Baker.

turn it up at that! All right, you may knock off now and call it a day: Naval c.p.: since ca. 1925. (P-G-R.)

turn milky. See milky, adj., 2 (Dict.).

turn-on, n. A 'gag' or joke, a bogus jazz conversation intended to shock 'square' tourists: Canadian jazz musicians' and lovers': since ca. 1956. (The Victoria Daily Colonist, April 16, 1959, 'Basic Beatnik'.) Turned-on as if from a water-tap.

turn on, v.—2. To inspire (someone): Canadian jazz musicians' and lovers': since ca. 1955. (The Victoria Daily Colonist, April 16, 1959, 'Basic Beatnik'.) Esp., to excite, to thrill—a nuance that, ca. 1956, > popular among English teenagers. By 1960, also British.—3. To introduce to drugs; to supply with a drug: drug addicts' and hippies': since ca. 1961. Peter Fryer, The Observer colour supplement, Dec. 3, 1967.

turn on a cabbage-leaf. (Of a horse) to respond promptly to guidance: Australian coll.: C. 20. Baker.

turn on the waterworks. See waterworks, 2, in Dict.

turn-out, n.—2. A fight with fists: Sessions, Dec. 1816 (p. 43); not yet †.

turn out, v.—3. V.i., to become a bushranger: Australian coll.: ca. 1830-90. B., 1942.

turn(-)over, n.—5. A search of one's cell or belongings: prisons': since ca. 1920. (Jim Phelan, 1940; Norman.) Cf.:

turn over, v.—5. To raid (a building): Australian police: since ca. 1910. (Vince Kelly, The Shadow, 1955.)—6. To set upon and beat up: teenage gangsters': since ca. 1950. The Observer, July 15, 1962, reporting a fight between the 'Mussies' (Musswell Hill) and the Finchley Mob.

turn (oneself) round. To get used to one's job; to learn one's trade or profession: coll.: C. 19. Wm Maginn, Tales of Military Life, 1829, at III, 126. (Moe.) turn up, v.t., sense 4: for '1890' read '1850'.

turn up the wick. To open the throttle: Air Force: since ca. 1920. Cf. go through the gate. Partridge, 1945, 'It's an easy transition from getting a better light to getting a better speed.' Since 1945, esp. of a jet engine.

turned. Converted to an honest life: (prison) c.: from ca. 1870.

turned off. Married: Society: ca. 1880-1914. (Maxwell Gray, The Great Refusal, 1906.)

turned-on, adj. Having taken an exhilarating drug, csp. marijuana; hence, aware, 'with it': drug addicts', beatniks', hippies': since early 1960's. (Peter Fryer in The Observer colour supplement, Dec. 3, 1967.) Ex turn on, v., 3, above.

turned over, be. To be transferred from one ship to another: Naval coll.: late C. 18-mid- (? late) 19. It occurs in W. N. Glascock, Sketch-Book (I, 124), 1825. Moe.

turnee or tunny. An English supercargo: Anglo-Indian: mid-C. 19-20. B. & L., 'Sea-Hindu, and prob. a corruption of attorney.'

turnip, 1 (p. 918), occurs earlier in W. N. Glascock, Sailors and Saints, 1829; there it is glossed as simply 'a watch'. Moe.

turnip-bashing is a variant of swede-bashing q.v.: R.A.F.: 1940+. Partridge, 1945. In the King's Royal Rifle Corps, however, turnip-bashing is ordinary drill and turnip-bashers is the name for County regiments, both because they are regarded as country bumpkins and because they bang their rifles on the ground, whereas the K.R.R.C. put theirs down quietly. (Peter Chamberlain, letter of Sept. 22, 1942.)

turnips, get (p. 918). The phrase give turnips occurs in Alfred Burton's Johnny Newcome, 1818. (Moe.)

Turpentine, the; often—cf. turps, p. 918—reduced to Turps, the. The Serpentine: Cockney rhyming s.: C. 20. (Franklyn, Rhyming.)

turps.—2. Beer: Australian: since ca. 1935. (B.P.)—3. 'Any alcoholic drink. Whence, be on the turps and get on the turps' (B., 1959): Aus.: since late 1930's.

turret down, esp. get . . . See hull down.

turtle.—2. A girl, a young woman, esp. regarded sexually; a (young) prostitute: Australian low: C. 20. B., 1942. Ex the billing-and-cooing of turtle-doves. But more prob. ex the tortoise-like creature: 'A turtle on its back is not unlike a girl in the same position, and they are both in a vulnerable state,' as a shrewd observer has remarked.

turtles. See turtle doves (Dict.).

tush or tosh. A half-crown: mostly showmen's: C. 20. Night and Day, July 22, 1937. Ex tosheroo and tusheroo (Dict.).—2. Money: Cockneys: late C. 19–20. J. W. Horsley, I Remember, 1912.

tut-mouthed. See 'Epithets'.

Tutbury Jinnie. 'Passenger train between Tutbury and Burton on Trent' (Railway, 3rd): railwaymen's: since ca. 1930 (?).

tute (loosely written tut). A tutorial: Universities': C. 20. (Marples, 2.)

tux. A tuxedo or dinner jacket: Australian: adopted, ca. 1945, ex U.S. (B.P.) For tuxedo, see esp. my Name into Word, 1949.

twack. 'To examine goods and buy nothing' (L. E. F. English, Historic Newfoundland, 1955): Newfoundland coll.: C. 19–20. Ex East Anglian dial. twack, 'to turn quickly; to change one's mind' (E.D.D.). twaddle, v.i. To trifle: coll.: ca. 1770–1840. 'I have been twaddling enough to cut several slips from the most sacred laurus' (Earl of Mornington, letter of Feb. 15, 1791; in the Fortescue Manuscripts). Probably ex the n.

twaddy is a slang term fashionable in the 1780's: 'characterized by twaddle'. In The New Vocal Enchantress, 1791, occurs on p. 32, a 'Song' beginning thus:

'Hey for buckish words, for phrases we've a passion, Immensely great and little once, were all the fashion:
Hum'd, and then humbugg'd, twaddy, tippy, proz,
All have had their day, but now must yield to quoz.'

twam or twammy. The female pudend: low: C. 20. Perhaps a blend of 'twat' + 'quim', qq.v. in Dict.

twang, n. Opium: Australian c.: C. 20. B., 1942. Ex a Chinese radical?

twanged, as good as ever; twanged, the worst that ever. See twanging, go off: in Dict.

twat. Also, as in you silly twat!, you fool!, and that twat in pejorative reference: late C. 19–20.

tweaker or tweeker. A leg-break spinner: cricketers': from ca. 1932. The Times, July 6, 1937, 'R. C. M. Kimpton came on with his "tweakers" at the Nursery end.'

twee. Small and dainty: Society and theatre: since mid-1930's. (C. Brand, Death of Jezebel, 1949.) A blend of tiny + wee.

tweedle, n.—2. (Ex sense 1 on p. 919.) A trick involving dummy diamonds: c.: C. 20. "'A bloke's tried to pull a tweedle on me with a load of jargoons'" (John Gosling, The Ghost Squad, 1959).

tweedle, the. The selling of 'dud' diamonds: c.: C. 20. In, e.g., F. D. Sharpe, The Flying Squad, 1938. There is prob. no connection with S.E. tweedle; tweedle is a variant of twiddle, cognate with twist, and there is perhaps a humorous side-glance at wheedle. Cf. jargon.

tweedler, agent, and tweedling, activity, can be applied to 'the tweedle' (above), 1 or 2.—3. Usu., however, a tweedler is a very minor, petty sort of 'con man'. John Gosling, 1959, 'The tweedler will flog you sawdust cigarettes or dummy diamond rings'—a nuance dating, like sense 1 (of which, clearly, it forms a mere extension), from early C. 20. 'The terms "conning" and "tweedling" cover virtually everything in the crime known as obtaining money by false pretences.' They derive, ultimately, ex tweedle on p. 919; cf. tweedle above.

twen-center. A modernist: early C. 20 († by 1914). H. A. Vachell Quinney's, 1914. Cf. twen-cent in Dict.

twenty-eight. The Yellow-Collared Parrakeet: Australian: C. 20. (B., 1943.)

twenty-seven. Three '9' cards: Australian poker-players': since ca. 1920. (B., 1953.)

twenty-three, but written 23. To depart; esp. in imperative, 'Get out!': Canadian journalists': since ca. 1910. Perhaps ex a telegrapher's code: see thirty. (Leechman.) This is the much-used shorter form of twenty-three, skidoo (or skiddoo), which is dated by Harold Wentworth & Stuart Berg Flexner, Dictionary of American Slang, 1960, as of ca. 1900–1910, said to be of male use, originally among students and youthful sophisticates, and described as 'perhaps the first truly national fad expression', still very widely known in 1960 and, oddly and ironically, associated by post-1950 writers with the 1920's and regarded as entirely characteristic of that crazy decade. They quote it also as 23 skid(d)oo and class it as an expression of surprise or pleasure, but 'also used of . . . rejection or refusal, sometimes as = "Go away!" "Beat it!" or "I don't care!"'. The O.E.D. Supplement cites its use, as skiddoo, by Neil Munro in The Daft Days, 1907, and notes its currency in Canada in 1910.

twenty-two carat. Utterly trustworthy: since ca. 1930: c. >, by ca. 1950, also s. Robin Cook, The Crust on Its Uppers, 1962.

twibby. Ingenious: London schools': ca. 1875–95. (Prof. Arnold Wall, communication of Aug. 1939.) Arbitrary formation: twiggez-vous?—2. Funny, amusing: id. (Prof. A. Wall.) Heath-Robinsonishly funny?

twice, v. To cheat (somebody): low: C. 20. David Hume, Five Acres, 1940.

twice in a row. An ineptitude common among radio announcers and commentators since ca. 1945 and perhaps especially in Canada. At least three units are needed to form a row.

twice removed from Wigan. A disparaging c.p., applied to Lancashire (hence, loosely, also Yorkshire) people living permanently in the South of England: since ca. 1920.

twicer.—8. (Cf. 4, 5.) A twister; a crook: Australian: C. 20. G. B. Lancaster, 1910.—9. (Cf. 2.) A sycophant: Australian: since ca. 1918. Baker. Ex 'two-faced'.

Twickenham (p. 919). Messrs Thornycroft once had, at Twickenham, a yard for building small Naval aircraft.

Twickers. Twickenham Rugby Football ground: sporting: since ca. 1920. Twickenham + the Oxford -er.

twict or twicst. See twicest (Dict.).

twiddler. A 'Penguin' or 'Pelican' or a 'Guild' paper-covered cheap edition: Naval: since Feb.

1940. The Observer, Aug. 18, 1940. One can twiddle them about in one's hands.

twig, n., 1 (p. 919), in the nuance 'fashion', goes back to before 1806, when The Port Folio of Sept. 6 (p. 143) quotes a Charles Dibdin song containing the lines:

'The wig's the thing, the wig, the wig,
Be of the ton a natty sprig,
The thing, the tippy and the twig'.

Sense 2 at top of p. 920 should be 3.—4. Mostly in pl. twigs, matches: Borstal boys': since ca. 1945. The Daily Telegraph, June 4, 1958, 'Bacon Bonces, Joes & Maggies'. Ex the rough, 'twiggy' quality of inferior safety matches.

twiggez-vous? (p. 920). 'I suspect that by the time it had filtered down to Kipling's schoolboys, it was rather vieux jeu in the metropolis. It may have originated in the song of Marie Lloyd, by whom it was first popularized in 1892' (Lindsay Verrier, M.R.C.S., letter of May 25, 1949).

twilight. Toilet: Universities' and Public Schools': ca. 1840–90. B. & L.

twilights. Summer-weight knickers worn by the W.A.A.F.: among W.A.A.F. and R.A.F.: 1940+. Jackson. Ex their pale-blue colour. Cf. blackouts and passion-killers.

twillies. Sympathy between twins: medical: since ca. 1920. Ex twiny feelings? The German for 'twins' is Zwillinge (from zwei, two), so prob. imm. ex Yiddish. (Ramsey Spencer.)

twillip. A 'twerp' (objectionable and/or insignificant person): Guards Regiments': since ca. 1935. Gerald Kersh, They Die with Their Boots Clean, 1941. A derisive perversion of twerp.

twim. Female pudend: low: C. 20. A blend of twat and quim.

twin-set. A two-bottle aqualung: skin divers': since ca. 1950. Ex the terminology of women's clothing.

twine. To grumble: c., and low: from ca. 1925.

twink. A moment: proletarian: C. 20. J. J. Connington, A Minor Operation, 1937, 'I just pressed the electric light switch for a twink—to make sure—an' the current was off.' Abbr. twinkle or twinkling.

twirler. A sharper with a round-about at a fair: c.: from ca. 1870. B. & L.

twirling. The dishonest substitution of a winning betting slip for a losing one: book-makers': since ca. 1925. (The Bournemouth Echo, Aug. 18, 1960.)

twirly. A cigarette: Australian Naval: since ca. 1920. (B., 1943.) One twirls it in one's fingers. twirp is a variant spelling of twerp (p. 919).—2. See:

twirt. (Also twirp or twerp.) A cheeky small boy: Shrewsbury: since mid-1930's. Marples. Cf. twillip.

twist, n.—4. The twist is 'sharp practice, in gen. or in particular': c.: C. 20. F. D. Sharpe, The Flying Squad, 1938. Cf. twist, v., 3, and twister, 5: p. 920. As 'a twist' it = esp. 'a swindle', as in 'I thought the betting slip a twist'—a book-maker's remark quoted by The Bournemouth Echo, Aug. 18, 1960.—5. An habitual criminal: Australian c.: since ca. 1910. B., 1942.—6. A girl: low Canadian: adopted, ca. 1940, from U.S.—as also were bim, broad, frail. All four American terms originated in the underworld.—7. But the twist is the forcing of the arm up behind the back when a person is being arrested: coll.: since ca. 1860. (S. R. Crockett, The Stickit Minister, 1893.)

Of sense 6, Robert Clairborne, on Aug. 31, 1966, writes, 'This is rhyming slang: "twist-and-twirl"—one of the few bits of r.s. that ever became fairly gen. in U.S.: cf. E. E. Cummings, "To be a feller's twist-and-twirl". Now ob. here.'—4. A tale: Naval: C. 19. (W. N. Glascock, Sketch-Book.)

twist, v.—4. Be twisted, to be convicted of a crime: Australian low (? c.): C. 20. B., 1942.

twist, spin a (p. 920), goes back to ca. 1800 or perhaps 1790. In, e.g., W. N. Glascock, Sketch-Book, I (20 and 112), 1825. In Glascock's Sailors and Saints (I, 178), 1829, it has the variant tip a twist. Moe. twist (someone's) arm. To persuade; strictly, to persuade forcibly, hence with lengthy argument: since the late 1950's.

twist joint. Any cheap dance hall for twist sessions: since ca. 1961; by late 1965, already slightly ob.

twister, 2 (p. 920), goes back to ca. 1800. In, e.g., W. N. Glascock, The Naval Sketch-Book, 2nd Series, 1834, at I, 235. (Moe.)

twister to the slammer. See 'Jive'. twister to the turner. See 'Canadian'.

twisty. Odd, strange, esp. in 'a twisty look': low: C. 20. (Jim Phelan, Fetters for Twenty, 1957.) Semantically cf. twist, a strange turn of mood or bent of character.

twit, n. A contemptible—or a very insignificant—person: since ca. 1925. Eric Linklater, Magnus Merriman, 1934. A blend of twerp and twat.—2. A simpleton, a fool: Australian: late 1920's. B., 1942.—3. A term of abuse: North Country grammar schools': since late 1940's. (New Society, Aug. 22, 1963.) Ex sense 1.

twitch, n. A bout of nerves, esp. if noticeable by others: R.A.F.: since the late 1930's. (R. T. Bickers, The Hellions, 1965.) Cf. twitchety (p. 920), twitters (below) and 'Have you ever used that old service slang and said that someone has a "bit of a twitch on"? You don't mean it literally, of course. You're merely implying that the person concerned is in a highly emotional state and somewhat "het up" about something' (Woman's Own, Jan 16, 1965). Cf. widow, 7, below.

twitter. Short for ring-twitter. See twittering ringpiece.

twittering, n. Paying court to other sex: University of Alberta: ca. 1925–40.

twittering ringpiece; also ring-twitter and ring-twitch. A state of extreme nervousness: R.A.F.: since ca. 1939. Ex a physiological symptom.

twitters, the. Nervousness: Scottish Public Schools': C. 20. Ian Miller, School Tie, 1935, 'I played my best game in the match v. the Academy, in spite of a bad attack of the twitters before going on to the field.'

two-acre back or chest. A massive woman wearing much heavy jewellery: jewellers': late C. 19–20.

two-and-a-half bloke. A Lieutenant-Commander: Navy: since ca. 1930. H. & P. A variant of two-and-a-half-striper.

two-and-a-half ringer. See ringer, half.

two-and-a-half striper. See striper (Dict.). Earlier in 'Taffrail': 'From the two thick and one thin stripes of gold lace he carries on his coat sleeves.' Ex the fact that the half stripe, like a half ring, is a band much narrower than the others.

two-and-eight. A fluster, a confusion, emotional state, attack of nerves: C. 20. Rhyming on state, 2 (Dict.).

two-and-from. A concertina: mostly Army: late C. 19–20; ob. by 1940. Ole Luk-oie, The Green Curve, 1909.

two bastards on spikes. See two ladies on bikes (Dict.).

two-bit. Insignificant: Canadian since ca. 1925. Australian since ca. 1945 but not very common. (B.P.)

two blocks chocker. See blocks and cf. mouldy.

two-bob. A blonde: Australian soldiers': 1939–45. (B., 1943.)

two-bob hop. A cheap evening's dancing: Australian since ca. 1920. (B.P.)

two bob lair is a particularly cheap lair, q.v. Lawson Glassop, 1944.

two-by-four. A whore: rhyming s.: since ca. 1870.

two cents' worth, my, his, etc. My opinion for what it's worth: Canadian c.p.; adopted, ca. 1945, ex U.S.

two crows for a banker. 'Code whistles exchanged between engine and second [or] banking engine when ready to move' (Railway): railwaymen's: since ca. 1920.

two dots and a dash. Fried eggs and bacon: army: 1914–18, then ob.

two draws and a spit. Smoking half a cigarette; hence, any short smoke at convenient intervals: mostly in factories and workshops: from ca. 1915. Cf. spit and a draw in Dict.

two-er. See twoer (Dict.).

two eyes of blue! Too true!: rhyming s.: since ca. 1925. Franklyn 2nd.

two eyes upon ten fingers. See two upon ten (Dict.).

two-fer. A cigarette: mostly Naval: since ca. 1950. 'For two for a penny'—the penny 'that one once put into a slot machine': Laurie Atkinson, who notes having heard it in Aug. 1967.

two-fisted, 2 (p. 921): earlier in W. N. Glascock, Sailors and Saints (I, 179), 1829. Moe.

two fools. See two, adj.: in Dict.

two, four, six, eight, bog in, don't wait! A secular grace before meals: Australian: since ca. 1920; perhaps much earlier. (B.P.) Cf. bog in above.

two ha'pennies to rub together, have not. To be very poor; occasionally, to lack any spare money whatsoever: coll.: C. 20. 'He hasn't . . .' (A. B. Petch, March 1966, reminds me that I had omitted this c.p.)

two i.c. (A spoken abbreviation.) A second in command or charge: Australian: since ca. 1945. (B.P.)

two inches beyond upright refers to 'falling over backwards' in an excess of rectitude: Canadian: since ca. 1955. (Leechman.)

two Labour gains. 'Two yellow lights at a colour signal' (Railway 2nd): since 1945 or 1946. Cf. one Labour gain above.

two-legged calf. A gawky youth; a youthful country bumpkin as a wooer: rural: late C. 19–20.

two little ducks. The number 22 in game of House: late C. 19–20. Michael Harrison, 1943. Fancifully ex appearance of figure; also it is a 'duck' of a number.

Two O. A Second Officer in the Wrens: Wrens' and R.A.F.: since ca. 1939. (P-G-R.)

two of eels, (standing there) like. 'Abstracted, indecisive, at a loss' (Atkinson): C. 20.

two of fat and one of lean. The marking on the ships' funnels of The Harrison Line: nautical: C. 20.

two old ladies. The number 88 in housey-housey: since ca. 1920.

two ones. At two-up, a 'head' and a 'tail' when two coins are used: Australian coll.: late C. 19–20. B., 1942.

two-peg. A florin: Australian: C. 20. B., 1942.

two-pence-ha'penny. See tuppence ha'penny.

two penn'orth of rope, have. See twopenny-rope (Dict.).

two pennorth of tripe, like. (Of something) contemptible or worthless: C. 20.

two-pipe scatter-gun. A double-barrelled shotgun: Canadian: from ca. 1870. (Sir Clive Phillippo-Wolley, The Trottings of a Tenderfoot, 1884.)

two-pipper. A First Lieutenant: Army: since ca. 1910. (P-G-R.)

two-ringer. See ringer, half.

two-shakes of a dead lamb's or donkey's or a monkey's tail, in. See shake.

two-six, do a. To do something very speedily and promptly, e.g. in bombing-up: R.A.F., esp. armourers': since ca. 1930. R. M. Davison, letter of Sept. 26, 1942, "'To do a two-six out of camp'" (to leave camp immediately or very quickly)—"a two-six into a shelter". Cf. a one-two, two quick, successive punches in boxing. But two-six, or two, six, also occurs alone, to urge speed or a spurt of energy, as in 'a spot of two, six'.

two-striper. Earlier in 'Taffrail'.

two-ten. A shopkeepers' code c.p.: C. 19–20. (George Seton, A Budget of Anecdotes, 1886.) 'Keep your two eyes upon his, or her, ten fingers.'

two-thirder. A printer's apprentice that has served two-thirds of his time; hence, loosely, someone fairly well-advanced in the trade: printers' coll.: C. 20.

two-thirty. Dirty: rhyming s.: late C. 19–20. Franklyn, Rhyming, 'It refers to grime, not to behaviour'.

two-three-five-nine; written 2359. See 'Prisoner-of-War Slang', 15.

two-time, to double-cross (someone); two-timer, a double-crosser, or merely one who doesn't 'play the game': adopted, in 1939, from U.S.

two tin fucks (about it), I don't care or worry. To use a more polite c.p., which > popular in 1947–8, 'I couldn't care less': low c.p. of C. 20.

two-upper. A two-up player: Australian coll.: C. 20. (B., 1943.)

two ups, in. An Australian re-shaping of two twos, in (p. 922): C. 20. B., 1942.

two-water rum. 'The real "grog"'. Two parts water to one rum' (Granville): Naval coll.: mid-C. 19–20.

two-water tippie. A strong grog: Naval: C. 19. Wm N. Glascock, Sketch-Book, 2nd Series, 1834, at I, 74, 'The ship's company has already dined and the potent "two-water-tipple" was drained to the last drop.' (Moe.)

two-year-old, like a. An earlier record: Punch, June 19, 1912. (Dr D. Pechtold.)

twoer.—4. A clay marble with two coloured rings painted on: London schoolchildren's: from ca. 1880. Cf. one-er, 5 (Addenda).

twopenny burster. A twopenny loaf of bread: 1821, W. T. Moncrieff, Tom and Jerry: this puts burster, 1 (p. 112) back by nearly forty years.

twopenny dump, not to care a. To care not at all, not to care a damn: Australian: since ca. 1910. Cf. twopenny damn (on p. 922) and dump, n., 1 (p. 248). B.P.

twopenny fuck, not to care a. A variant of monkey's fuck . . . above: since ca. 1920. Both terms were, by ca. 1940, fairly common. In both, the offensive word is often omitted.

twopenny rope (p. 922) goes back probably as far as 1820 at least. It occurs in The Pickwick Papers, 1836–7, in ch. 16.

two's, the. The second floor: prison c. (and prison officers' s.): C. 20. Robin Cook, The Crust on Its Uppers, 1962.

twot, is a variant spelling, but the gen. pron., of twat (Dict. and Addenda).

Twyford, my name is. The true origin of this c.p. is given in The New Statesman & Nation, Feb. 20, 1937: 'Josiah Twyford, 1640–1729, learned a secret process in the manufacture of a glaze by persistently feigning stupidity and was thus . . . able to lay the foundation of the famous firm of sanitary potters' (David Garnett, acknowledging a debt to Mr Brian Guinness).

ty. Typhoid fever: Australian: C. 20. (K. S. Prichard, Coonardoo, 1929.)

tyker or tiker. A man who takes charge of dogs: from ca. 1860. B. & L.

Tykes, occ. Tikes. Australian Catholics' s. name for themselves: late C. 19–20. (B.P.)

typ. Typical: uncultured and trivial: since ca. 1930. (Margery Allingham, More Work . . ., 1948.)

typan. See taipai.—typay. See taipay.

type.—2. 'An officer whether of the R.A.F. or another service,' H. & P. (early 1943): R.A.F. since ca. 1920. Jackson (late 1943), however, does not confine it to officers: 'Type. Classification of person. Thus, "He's a poor type, a rosey type, a dim type, a brown type." In the R.A.F. the word is universal in this sense, and derives from its common use in connection with aircraft. Used since the Great War' (1914–18). This 'etymology' is correct; I think, however, that there has been some influence by the French-slang use of type for 'chap, fellow'.—3. A typewriting machine: makers', dealers', repairers': since ca. 1920.

typed. (Of actors, theatrical or cinematic) kept in one type of role: theatrical and cinematic: since ca. 1937.

typewrite. To fire a Bren, or other, machine-gun in bursts: Army: 1939–45. (P-G-R.) Cf. typewriters on p. 923.

typewriters (p. 923). Rather, machine guns in action; not only New Zealanders'—witness Reginald Pound, The Lost Generation, 1964.

typo.—4. 'Astonishingly ugly and menacing insect' (Jean Devanney, Dawn Beloved, 1928). The taipo: New Zealand coll.: late C. 19–20. Strictly, typo is ineligible, for it is merely a folk-etymological spelling.

typogremlin. A 'gremlin' blamed for printer's errors: printers': 1942 +. See gremlin.

U

U.F.O. A hippy club: drug addicts' and hippies': since late 1966. For unlimited freak-out see freak-out, n., above. Peter Fryer in The Observer colour supplement, Dec. 3, 1967.

U.P., all (p. 923). Slightly earlier in Boxiana, III, 1821.

u/s or U/S or u.s. or U.S. (Of persons) unhelpful, helpless, useless: (of things) unavailable: R.A.F. coll.: since ca. 1935. Jackson, "'I'm in dock. I'm afraid I shall be u/s for some time'"; Partridge, 1945, 'From the official abbreviation, u/s (or U/S), "unserviceable"—esp. as applied to aircraft or aircraft parts; Brickhill & Norton, Escape to Danger, 1946.

uck. To remove firmly, to heave, to hoist: Naval (lower-deck): late C. 19–20. For huck, a variant of dial. hoick, itself perhaps for hoist. This could—via hack off, remove (the 'men')—account for uckers.

uckers. The game of ludo: Naval (lower-deck): C. 20. Granville. Perverted back-slang: ludo > udol > udlo > (with some influence from 'the Oxford -er'?) ucker >, by a common process, uckers. Dr Leechman, in April 1967, writes, 'The proposed derivation reminds me once again of my hunch about Slackers and Squibbles'—in short, he thinks it an arbitrary alteration of the S.E. word. Certainly a much more 'natural' explanation than mine.

uckeye (p. 923). Julian Franklyn comments, 'But, I think, also connected with Scottish "och aye!" and perhaps with "O.K."' uff, in Sessions, July 30, 1885, is a variant of oof (p. 589), which should be dated back to 1880 at the latest.

Ug. Uttoxeter: Cotton College: late C. 19–20. Article by Frank Roberts in The Cottonian, Autumn 1938.

ugly as sin (p. 923). Cf. 'His wife was as ugly as sin, and twice as nasty': The Night Watch (II, 88), 1828. Moe.

ugly customer. A vigorous boxer, not too scrupulous, but very difficult to knock out: pugilistic coll.: since ca. 1810. Boxiana, III, 1821.

uke. Ukelele: C. 20: musicians' >, ca. 1930, gen.

ukelele.—2. A locomotive, type J.39 (N.E.R.): railwaymen's: ? ca. 1900–25. (Railway.)

ultray (p. 924) dates from mid-C. 19 and is Parlyaree. Mayhew assigns it specifically to Punch and Judy showmen.

umbrella.—2. A parachute: Services, esp. R.A.F.: since ca. 1934. Partridge, 1945.

umbrella man. A parachutist: R.A.F. since ca. 1935, Army since ca. 1942. Jackson. Cf. broolly, 2.

umbrella regulations. 'The National Security Regulations—"they cover everything". (War slang.): Australian: 1939–45. (B., 1943.)

umgeni, umgenis. See 'Swahili words . . .'

ump. An umpire: sporting, esp. cricketers': from ca. 1919. 'Ah, here comes the umps', heard in the Oval Pavilion on June 19, 1937.

umpie. Umpire: Australian: C. 20. (Vance Palmer, Let the Birds Fly, 1955.)

umpty. Indisposed, off colour: unsuccessful: since ca. 1916. Short for umpty iddy (p. 924). Gerald Kersh, Night and the City, 1938.

umpty iddy, feel (p. 924). Probably ex umpty iddy as the reverse form of signallers' iddy umpty (as on p. 419): 'all backwards', hence 'queer, ill'. (Leechman.)

umpty show. An inferior play, or inferior acting of a play: theatrical: since ca. 1917. Ngaio Marsh, Vintage Murder, 1938. Ex prec.

unbleached Australians. Aborigines: Australian jocular coll.: C. 20. B., 1942.

unbridle. 'When he saw the thief he was to "unbridle" (take off his hat). Then it was up to us' (John Gosling, 1959): c.: since ca. 1925.

unbuttoned. Upset; unprepared: Army: 1939–45. (P-G-R.) Ex:

unbuttoned, come. To meet with disaster; be greatly perturbed, esp. if visibly: a Society jocular coll.: from ca. 1926. Dornford Yates, As Other Men Are, 1930, "'I don't want her to come unbuttoned," said Roger, musingly.' Cf. S.E. burst with excitement. Perhaps ex: 2. Of a good racing tip or of any reasonable expectation: to fail: sporting: from ca. 1910.

unc. A steward in the Merchant Navy: nautical: since ca. 1910. The Bournemouth Echo, Oct. 21, 1943.—2. Uncle, esp. in address: Australian coll.: C. 20. Alan Marshall, Tell Us about the Turkey, Jo, 1946, 'Wind slowly, Unc. The rope is rotten.'

uncle.—2. One's—esp. one's Hollywood—film agent: cinematic world: since ca. 1925.—3. A theatrical backer: since ca. 1925. (Sydney Moseley, God Help America!, 1952).—4. Short for Uncle Ned (p. 924): C. 20. Sydney Lester, Vardi the Palarey, 1937.

uncle, keep your eye on—or watch your. A c.p. uttered by leader in banter, leg-pull, etc.: since ca. 1930.

Uncle Arthur. The late Rt Hon. Arthur Henderson: political: C. 20.

Uncle Ben. Rare for '10' in game of House: rhyming: C. 20. Michael Harrison, 1943.

Uncle Bert. A shirt: (not very common) rhyming s.: C. 20. Franklyn 2nd.

Uncle Bill. General Sir William Slim: Army in Burma (etc.): 1943–5.—2. The police: since ca. 1935: c. >, by ca. 1955, low s. (Robin Cook, 1962.) Cf. Old Bill, 2, 3, above.

Uncle Bob. A policeman: since ca. 1945. (L. J. Cunliffe, Having It Away, 1965.) Prompted by the synonymous bobby.

Uncle Charlie. A German long-distance gun firing from Le Havre in June–July 1944: invasion forces': Humfrey Jordan, Landfall Then Departure, 1946. A 'Dutch' uncle.

Uncle Dick. Sick: rhyming s.: late C. 19–20.—2. Penis: rhyming s. (on prick): C. 20. Both are recorded by Franklyn in his Rhyming Slang.

Uncle George.—2. The late George Lansbury, the Labour politician and fine man: political: C. 20.

Uncle Joe. Joseph Stalin: since ca. 1942; after his death, merely historical.

Uncle Ned.—2. Occ., head: C. 20. Rhyming.

Uncle Tim's Cabin. The Vice-Regal Lodge of the Irish Free State during Tim Healy's governorship: Anglo-Irish: 1922–8. Timothy Healy: 1855–1931. Mrs H. B. Stowe's famous anti-slavery novel, Uncle Tom's Cabin, appeared serially in 1851–2, and in book form in 1852.

Uncle Willie.—2. Chilly: rhyming s.: since ca. 1920. Franklyn 2nd.

unconscious. A day-dreamer; a dreamy person: from ca. 1926. Cf. romance, q.v.—2. See hello, unconscious!

uncork! cork! 'Decode'; 'Code'—as orders: Naval: since ca. 1920. (Occ. used in other grammatical moods.) Granville.

under. Also a bit of under.

under control. See everything . . .

under one's own steam. See steam, under one's own, above.

under starter's orders, be. To be, or to have been, arrested: since ca. 1945: orig. and still mainly c.; by ca. 1950, also police s. (John Gosling, The Ghost Squad, 1959.) Ex horse-racing.

under the arm. See arm, under the, above.

under the hammer. See hammer, under the, above.

under the influence.—2. Under an anæsthetic: since ca. 1925.

under the lamp. See lamp, under the.

under the lap? Confidentially: Australian: since ca. 1920. B., 1942.

under the rose. See rose, under the in Dict.

under the weather. Tipsy: nautical and Australian: mid-C. 19–20; by 1920, coll. B., 1942.—2. Unwell: Canadian coll.: late C. 19–20.—3. Menstruating: Canadian (and U.S.): coll.: C. 20.

undercart. Undercarriage of an aircraft: Air Force: since ca. 1936. Jackson.

undercut. See snappy undercut.—2. Female pudend: low: C. 20.

underfug. An under-vest: C. 20. (Hugh de Sélincourt, The Cricket Match, 1924.)

underground fruit. Potatoes; hence, other vegetables: Naval lower-deck: since ca. 1925.

underground hog. A chief engineer: Canadian railroadmen's (— 1931). The labourers don't see much of him.

undergrounder. See under-grounder (Dict.).

underneath the arches. Sleeping, or virtually living, under arches: coll.: C. 20.

underneaths. Female legs: Welsh coll.: late C. 19–20. Caradoc Evans, Taffy, 1923.

underpants like St Paul's. Underpants very tight in the crutch: Australian: since late 1940's. (B.P.) Why, precisely? Perhaps 'It is better to marry than to burn'?

understandings, 2 (p. 925). In The Port Folio, May 30, 1801 (p. 165), we find the variant understanding used for 'a pair of legs'.

understumble. See undercomestumble (Dict.).

Undertakers, the. Two Melbourne bookmakers (ca. 1885–1905), 'because of their fondness for laying against stiff uns . . . horses that are certain not to win', the pun being on stiff 'un, 1 (Dict.). B. & L.

undertaker's job. A horse running dead (not intended to win): Australian sporting: since ca. 1930.

underweight. A girl under 21 sent out as prospective harlot to the Argentine: white-slave traffickers' c.: C. 20. (A. Londres, The Road to Buenos Ayres, 1928.)

undesertworthy. (Of a soldier) utterly useless: Army in North Africa: 1940–3. Ex vehicles and equipment classified desertworthy or undesertworthy, fit or unfit for use in the desert—jargon dating from 1938 or 1939. (Peter Sanders.)

undressing a sheep, n. Sheep-shearing: Australian (— 1953). B., Australia Speaks.

unflappable. Imperturbable: since ca. 1944. Ex flap, n., 8, above.

unfortunate and vicious, adj. In distress; already prostitute: white-slavers' terms for the two classes among whom they enlist their recruits: from ca. 1899. Albert Londres, The Road to Buenos Ayres, 1928.

unfrocked. One, usually an officer, who is unpopular with his branch of the Service: Naval: since ca. 1948. (Granville, letter of Nov. 22, 1962.)—2. 'Also of F.A.A. embryo pilots who fail their basic flying course' (Granville, ibid.): Naval: since ca. 1950.

unh unh. Sex appeal: since ca. 1940. Echoic of amorous utterance: cf. oomph and yumph.

unhook. To borrow (something) without asking the owner's permission: Naval: since ca. 1920. Granville. One merely takes it off the hook and strolls away.

unhorse. 'To deprive an owner of his car by means of long-drawn-out repairs' (B.P.): Australian motor trade: since ca. 1950.

Union (or u.), the. See Bishopsgate.

Univ.—2. University College, London: London undergraduates: C. 20. (Marples, 2.)

universal subject, the. (The subject of) smutty talk: Canadian coll., verging on S.E.: since ca. 1930. Cf. subject normal. By ca. 1935, fairly gen. coll.; by 1960, S.E. everywhere.

[University drinking terms of mid-C. 17. See 'Tavern terms', § 3, a–d.]

university of hard knocks, the. Experience: coll., esp. among those who haven't been to one: since ca. 1910.

unload.—2. See pewter, v.

unlucky for some. See Little Jimmy, near end.

unmentionables (p. 926): earlier in W. N. Glascock, Sailors and Saints (I, 12 and 132), 1829. Moe.

unnecessary, make go all. See make go . . .

unnerstand. Understand: sol.: (?) C. 16–20.

unpin one's back hair; take one's (back) hair down. To talk intimately, after a period of conventional politeness: coll.: the former, ca. 1930–50; the latter, since late 1940's. 'Although strictly applicable to women only, the phrases have, even in short-hair days, been used by men of themselves, or by either sex of men.' (Laurie Atkinson, Sept. 11, 1967.)

unprovoke, n. and v. Unprovoked assault; to commit one upon (esp. a warder): prison: since

ca. 1920. Jim Phelan, Letters from the Big House, 1943.

unquote! Quotation ends here: U.S. journalistic coll. >, by 1951, Canadian and, by 1955, English. 'Now I quote: "Five thousand pounds each." Unquote,' with the emphasis upon un-. (Leechman.)

unshingling, n. Removing a man's hat and running away with it (and keeping it): Australian: ca. 1840-90. Marcus Clarke, Stories of Australia in the Early Days, 1897. Cf. tile, 'a hat'.

unship (e.g. a grin). To remove: Naval: since ca. 1910. Granville. Cf. ship, v., 6. unspeakables. Men's trousers: coll.: ca. 1810-50. John L. Gardner, The Military Sketch-Book (II, 71), 1827. (Moe.) Cf. the collective entry at unmentionables on p. 926.

unstick.—2. To extricate (a vehicle) from the desert sand: Army coll. (N. Africa): ca. 1940-3; hence in other, although analogous, contexts. (P-G-R.)

unswallow. To vomit: euphemistic: 'current in the 30's, but (mercifully) not heard since' (Peter Sanders).

untidy as a Javanese brothel, as. Extremely untidy: Australian: brought back, ca. 1942, by servicemen. (B.P.) unzymotic has, since ca. 1963, been a teenagers' synonym for s. fab (or fabulous). Mrs Verily Anderson, letter of Nov. 15, 1965. Cf. zymotic below.

up, v., 1 (p. 926). The up and—form occurs in Sessions, 1830, the earliest record of the v.—4. To copulate with (a woman): low: mid-C. 19-20. Sessions, April 8, 1874, 'The prisoner said, "I have up'd your old woman many a time, and I will up her again".'

up, adj.—2. Up to specifications; esp. not up, not up to specifications; hence, no good: Australian: since ca. 1925. B., 1942.—3. In the Services, up (as in chai—or char—up!) = the tea, etc., is made (or cooked) and ready to be served; or, others than cooks speaking, '(More) tea, etc., is wanted': coll.: mid-C. 19-20.—4. Up to date, conversant, well-informed, expert: undergraduate coll.: C. 20.

up a shade, Ada! An exclamatory appeal for more room ('Move up a bit there!'): R.A.F., esp. in Malta: since ca. 1950.—2. Hence applied also to a noisy collision between two persons.

up-and-a-downer, an. A variant of up-and-downer.

up and down. A rough-and-tumble fight: Cockney: C. 20. Sessions, June 9, 1902; George Ingram, Cockney Cavalcade, 1935. Ex up-and-downer.

up and down like a fiddler's elbow. Very restless: mostly lower-middle class: late C. 19-20. Contrast the North Country dial. phrase, like a fiddler's elbow, crooked.

up and down like a shit-house-seat. A Canadian Army c.p. (1939-45)—referring to a gambler's luck.

up and down like Tower Bridge. A Cockney c.p. (late C. 19-20), 'with scabrous innuendo, in response to How goes it?' (Atkinson.)

up-and-down man. A coal-whipper: Londoners': since ca. 1840; by 1940, ob. H. Mayhew, London Characters, enlarged ed., 1874.

up-and-downer (p. 927) has, since ca. 1936, been much in Naval use (Granville) for 'a fierce argument'.—2. An unimaginative, usually medium-paced bowler of 'straight up-and-down stuff' (without break or swerve or spin): cricketers': since ca. 1925. Cliff Cary, Cricket Controversy, 1948.

up and up, on the. Dependable; 'straight' in the crooks' sense: c.: from ca. 1919. Ex U.S.

up for office. On a charge; due to appear before the O.C.: Services, esp. Army, coll.: C. 20. (P-G-R.) up guards and atap! See 'Prisoner-of-War Slang', 14.

up homers, as in 'He's up homers', applied to a rating welcome at home of a family in the port where he happens to be stationed: Naval: C. 20.

up in Annie's room.—2. A call for double-one: darts players': since ca. 1930. With a pun on a double room, or a room being used as one.

up King Street. Bankrupt; hence, in grave financial difficulties: Sydneysiders': C. 20. (B., 1943.)

up she comes and the colour's red! An exclamation at a favourable turn of events, esp. if the opposition suddenly collapses or the obstacle is unexpectedly removed: c.p.: since ca. 1945. Ex gambling?

up Shit Creek with a broken paddle is the usual form, since ca. 1950, of:

up Shit Creek—or up the creek—without a paddle. In trouble; esp., off the course, lost: C. 20. Naval and, by ca. 1920, R.A.F. Sgt-Pilot F. Rhodes, letter of Sept. 20, 1942, records the euphemistic form, as also H. & P., 1943. Also, occ., in Shit Creek or in the creek: Sgt G. Emanuel, March 29, 1945.—2. Hence, on a merry night-out: since ca. 1940. Partridge, 1945.

up stick(s), v. See sticks, up, in the Dict.

up the chute. Worthless; (persons and plans, acts, etc.) stupid; wrong: Australian: since ca. 1920. B., 1942.

up the dirt road. A low Canadian reference (—1950) to sodomy.

up the Gulf. 'Serving in the Persian Gulf' (Granville): Naval coll.: since ca. 1915.

up the line or go up the line. To go on leave: Navy: since ca. 1916. H. & P. Ironie in military sense, 'to go into the trenches'.

up the mad house (or one word). See mad house, up the, above.

up the pole; up the steps; up the stick. See those nn.

up the rock. In detention: Services, at Gibraltar: late C. 19-20. H. & P. See Rock, the (p. 702).

up the Straits. On the Mediterranean Station: Naval coll.: late C. 19-20. Granville, 'Through the Straits of Gibraltar'.

up the wall, adv.; hence, occasionally, an adj. (in the predicate). Awry; (of supposed facts, calculations, premisses) fallacious; crazy: since ca. 1944, but general only since ca. 1950. 'It's'—'He's'—'enough to drive'—or 'send'—'you up the wall.' Adopted, I suspect, from the slang of American drug-addicts and transmitted by American servicemen.

up the way (or wop). Of women: pregnant: Australian low: C. 20. B., 1942.

up there, Cazaly! A c.p. of encouragement: Australian, but mostly Melbourneites': ca. 1930-50. 'Cazaly was a noted South Melbourne footballer, whose speciality was high marking' (B., 1943).

up to mud (or tripe). Worthless: mostly Australian: C. 20. B., 1942. Cf. up to putty (Dict.).

up to you for the rent! Synonymous with upya! below: Aus.: since ca. 1930. (B., 1959.)

up top. 'Flying at high altitude,' Jackson: R.A.F. coll.: since ca. 1925.—2. High ranked; among the high-ranked officers: adv. and adj.: Naval coll.: C. 20. (P-G-R.)

up topsides. 'On the upper-deck; aloft' (Granville): Naval coll.: C. 20.

up you! The original form of the next four entries: C. 19-20 (and prob. much earlier). This expression of rudest contempt forms the verbal equivalent of the world-wide extended-middle-finger gesture, indicating also derision and defiance.

up your ass, with a hard-wire brush (or crooked stick or red-hot poker)! A low Canadian c.p., uttered 'just for something to say; fellow doesn't mean anything uncomfortable when he says it' (Canadian correspondent, who adds the post-1945 variant . . . with a charged condenser): C. 20; common among Canadian soldiers of 1939-45.

up your gonga—jacksy—pipe! See pipe, up your.

up your jumper! A c.p. of either defiance or derision: Australian: since ca. 1920. (Jon Cleary, Just Let Me Be, 1950.)

up yours! Abbrev. of up your arse, etc. late C. 19-20. Still current c. 1967, often as semi-jocular expression of greeting or for lack of something to say. Cf. up your ass, . . ., above.

uplift. An auxiliary spring: Australian motorists': since ca. 1950. A reference to brassières. (B.P.)

upward twizzle or, by deliberate alteration, ozzletwizzle. An upward—strictly, a vertical—climbing roll in flying: R.A.F.: since ca. 1950 at latest.

upped, ppl adj. Raped: lower: C. 20. W. L. Gibson Cowan, Loud Report, 1937. Cf. up, v., 4.

upper apartment. The head: ca. 1810-50. (J. H. Lewis, The Art of Writing, 7th ed., 1816.) Moe.

upper crust, (p. 927): rather, since ca. 1810. Boziana, II, 1821.—3. Used in Australia as early as 1857. (Sidney J. Baker, letter, 1946.)

upper deck. (Female) bosom; breasts: mostly Australian: C. 20. Lawson Glassop, 1944. Cf. upper works, 2 (below).

upper garret (head; brains): Jan. 1790, Sessions. See upper story (p. 927).

upper Roger. A young king: Hobson-Jobson: mid-C. 18-20. Yule & Burnell. A corruption of Sanskrit yuva-rajā, young king or heir apparent.

upper storey, gone in the. Crazy; mad: mid-C. 19-20; by 1940, ob. (T. Watters, at p. 79 of The China Review, Sept.-Oct. 1876.) Moe.

upper storeys, as an occasional variant of upper storey (p. 927), occurs in Keats's letters.

Upper Tartary. The Stock Exchange; Lower Tartary, non-members operating outside the Exchange: Stock Exchange: ca. 1810-50. Spy, II, 1926. The members are Tartars and tartars and hellish smart.

upper-ten push. 'Aristocratic' prisoners in gaol: Australian (prison s. rather than c.): C. 20. B., 1942.

upper works.—2. Female breasts: low: from ca. 1870.

upper yardman. 'Lower-deck rating who is a candidate for a permanent R.N. commission' (Granville): Naval: since ca. 1930. Yard in the nautical sense, the implication being that he looks aloft.

uppers, the. The upper classes: coll., mostly lower-middle class: since ca. 1920.—2. Loafers aboard a warship: Australian Naval: 1939-45 (B., 1943.)

uppity. Above oneself; conceitedly recalcitrant or arrogant: since ca. 1910. (Nevil Shute, The Checker Board, 1947.) Either an arbitrary elaboration of uppish or a blend of uppish + haughty.—2. Hence, socially grand: beatniks: since ca. 1959. Anderson, 'He was carrying such weight at that uppity shake. He was so bored by that grand reception . . .'

upright. Highest: c. (—1688); † by 1820. Randle Holme. Ex upright man (Dict.).

upright grand. Perpendicular copulation: Australian urban: since ca. 1925. B., 1942. 'Grand even though uncomfortable?' Perhaps in reference to the music one plays upon an upright grand (piano).

upside down in cloud. 'Abbreviated version of "There we were, upside down in cloud, fuck-all on the clock, and still climbing"—commonly used to check line-shooters,' W/Cdr R. P. McDouall, letter of April 12, 1945: R.A.F. operational: 1940 +. (See clock, n., 5.)

upsides of. See upsides with (Dict.).

upstairs, come or go. To ascend, to gain height: R.A.F.: since ca. 1935. An R.A.F. Squadron-Leader, "'Nasty Messerschmitts." And the answer came back, "Okay, pals, keep them busy. I'm coming upstairs,"' in Allan A. Michie & Walter Graebner, Their Finest Hour, Nov. 1940. In contrast, downstairs is in the air but near the ground or, at the least, at a low altitude, as in ibid., 'We were fighting upstairs and downstairs between 1,000 and 1,500 feet.'

upta or upter. Inferior; worthless, no good; contemptible: Australian: since ca. 1925. (Jon Cleary, You Can't See Round Corners, 1949: upta.) Perhaps ex 'up to no good' or 'up to mud'. Upter occurs in Caddie, A Sydney Barmaid, 1953, and in B., 1943. Perhaps rather ex 'up to putty' (genteel) or 'up to shit' (low), as a correspondent has proposed.

upya! or upyer! Oh, run away!; a fig for that, or for you!: low, contemptuous c.p.: Australian: C. 20. B., 1942. I.e. up your—: cf. entry at up your gonga.

uranium, feel like an ounce of. 'To feel "on top of the world"'. A recently born Royal Marine phrase, Wilfred Granville, letter of Jan. 7, 1947: since mid-1946. Ex the use of uranium in the atomic bomb, which sends things sky-high.

urge. 'To hint (for something)': Australian coll.: C. 20. B., 1942.

urgent. Fast, speedy: catachrestic, mostly non-cultured: from ca. 1885. Nevinson, 1895, 'Eh, we was urgent in my old barge, almost as urgent as what steam is.'

urger.—2. Hence (?), a confidence-trickster's accomplice: Australian c.: since ca. 1920. B., 1942.—3. Tout for a brothel: Australian c.: since ca. 1925. Lawson Glassop, We Were the Rats, 1944.—4. A chap, a fellow: Australian ('not particularly pejorative': B.P.): since ca. 1940. 'What are you urgers up to?' Ex senses 1 (p. 928) and perhaps 2 and 3.—5. A sponger:

Australian: C. 20. (Tom Ronan, Only a Short Walk. 1961.) He urges you to stand him a drink. Prob. the earliest sense.

Sense 1 is amplified in Anthony Kimmins's Australian racing novel, Lugs O'Leary, 1960, thus: "An urger," explained Lugs patiently, "is a man who looks around for suckers like you—and tips each one a different horse. Someone's got to win."

urky-purky (or -perky)! An Australian children's exclamation of disgust; also used attributively, as in 'I don't want to eat that urky-purky porridge': since ca. 1930. (B.P.) A defective reduplication of dirty—or, at the least, prompted by dirty.

urn, carry the. A Naval variant of carry the can back: jocular: since ca. 1925. (P-G-R.)

Ursa Major. See Bear-Leader, the in Dict. This term belongs rather to the sobriquets than to the nicknames; nevertheless it was indubitably a nickname among a cultured few—but not as a vocative.

use (pron. yews), as per. As usual: c.p. (non-aristocratic): from ca. 1902; very ob. W. L. George, The Making of an Englishman, 1914.

use frightening powder. 'The defending solicitor produced a recording machine at the lower court—a move which we call "using frightening powder"' (John Gosling, 1959): police s.: since ca. 1935.

use one's loaf. To think (esp., hard or clearly); to be ingenious, exercise ingenuity: C. 20; esp. in the Services, 1939–45. H. & P. See loaf, 2 (p. 488).

used, with would. Not uncommon in illiterate speech of C. 19–20, as thus in Nevinson, 1895, 'Afore the year was out, the river was fair mad in love with 'er, and they'd used to watch for the white St George on the tops'l coming up be'ind

'em.' Here, they'd used to watch = they used to watch. Cf. 'She'd used to tell me we was so fond of each other through 'avin' been lovers a long time back.'

used-beer department. The latrine in a drinking establishment: Canadian: since ca. 1925.

used to was. Used to be: jocular c.p.: since ca. 1910; by 1960 very ob. "“Losing y'r dash, Fin,” grinned Ryan. “Not the family man yer useter was”" (H. Drake Brockman, Sydney of the Bush, 1948; earlier in her play, Men Without Wives, 1938.)

useful, n. An odd-job man, a handyman: Australian: since ca. 1925. Frank Clune, Try Anything Once, 1933, 'I landed a job as a hotel "useful"'; The Evening News, Feb. 16, 1949 ('Holiday City'); Ruth Park, Poor Man's Orange, 1950; Caddie, A Sydney Barmaid, 1953.

useless as a third tit, as. Utterly useless; superfluous: Army: C. 20.

useless as tits on a bull (or on a whore). Completely useless: Canadian low: late C. 19–20. Also, since ca. 1945, . . . on a canary.

usher. A Naval Instructor: Naval: C. 20. (P-G-R.)

ute. A utility truck (a light van): Army: since ca. 1936. H. & P. Also, since ca. 1945, common in Australia, as in 'Till You Come to a Green Ute' in Eleanor Dark's Lantana Lane, 1959.

utility. (Gen. pl.) A minor part for a beginner: theatrical: from ca. 1870; ob. B. & L.

utter. To speak; to make any vocal sound (e.g. of pain or pleasure): mostly Society: since ca. 1930. Ngaio Marsh, Death in a White Tie, 1938, '... If you stare like a fish and never utter,' Short for utter a word or a sound.

uxib. Unexploded fire bomb: Fire Services': 1940–45. (Julian Franklyn.) Cf. incy above.

V

v is gradually disappearing in Cockney speech in such words as guv'nor: a C. 20 process.

V. and A.—3. Anything worth stealing: R.A.F.: since ca. 1945. Ex stores marked 'V. and A.'—valuable and attractive, e.g. watches and cameras.

V.I.P., lit. 'very important person' (popularized during the latter half of World War II), has, since the late 1940's, often been used ironically, esp. of a self-important person.

vac.—2. A vacuum cleaner: Australian domestic: since ca. 1948. (B.P.)

[Vacant Letters (initially), or Aphæresis (see 'Aphæresis' in this Supplement). In addition to that note and to the Supplement entries at safack, sall, sri, note esp. kinell, as an exclamation: short for fuckin' 'ell!, i.e. fuckin' hell!, very low but, in late C. 19–20, very common, it occurs, e.g., in John Prebble's fine war novel, The Edge of Darkness, 1947, in the sensible form, 'kinell!]

vacc. Vaccination: medical world: late C. 19–20.

vack (rare after 1940); vackie, better vacky. A person, esp. a child, evacuated overseas or from city to country: since Sept. (ca. the 10th) 1939 The Daily Telegraph, Oct. 4, 1939 (vack and vacky); Berrey, Nov. 9, 1940 (the longer form). Ex evacuee.—2. (Only vack.) An old woman: Australian low: since ca. 1925. B., 1942. A corruption of 'vagabond'?

vacuum cleaner. A sports car: Londoners': since ca. 1947. Used for picking up (p. 624) bits of fluff (p. 56).

vag, n. A vagabond: since ca. 1690. Edward ('Ned') Ward, The Wooden World Dissected, 1707 (p. 2), 'Its the New-Bridewell of the Nation, where all the incorrigible Vaiges are sent, to wear out Ropes.' (Admittedly the quotation constitutes a probability, not a certainty.)

vag, v. To charge (someone) under the Vagrancy Act: Canadian (late C. 19–20) and Australian (C. 20). B., 1942. Adopted from U.S.: see Underworld.

valise. A bed-roll: Army officers' coll.: C. 20. (P.-G.-R.)

Valpo. Valparaiso: nautical and S. American coll.: late C. 19–20.

valve. The female pudend: low: C. 19–20. Perhaps by confusion with vulva. 'Also, perhaps, because a valve is opened with a cock' (correspondent, 1966).

Vamosses. Portuguese soldiers: British Army in Spain, 1808–14. (Bernard Capes, A Castle in Spain, 1903.) Ex Sp. Vamos!, Let's go!

vampire. One who, in a hospital, draws off, for testing, a little of a patient's blood: Forces': 1940+. Ex the activities of the traditional vampire. (Atkinson.)

van rooge. Red wine: Army: 1914–18. I.e. vin rouge.

vanboy. A conductor: busmen's: since ca. 1930.

vandyke (or V-). A privy: Australian: since ca. 1920. B., 1942. With a pun on dike, dyke (p. 220) and an allusion to the great painter Van Dyke.

Vandyke!, be no. To be plain-looking: C. 20. Applied esp. to men, in reference to the handsome fellows in Vandyke's portraits. Cf. prec. entry.

Vanity Fair. A chair: rhyming s.: since ca. 1870. Franklyn 2nd.

vap. A rather rare schoolboys' term dating from ca. 1905 and now ob. As in Arnold Lunn, Loose Ends, 1919: 'He distrusted the female sex because they seemed to indulge in an undue amount of "vap"—as he called it—chat which said one thing and meant another. Maurice hated "vap".' I.e. vapouring.

vardi.—2. Like vardy, it is a variant of vardo, v. (p. 930). Sydney Lester, Vardi the Palarey, (?) 1937, defines it as 'to see; know'; the context usually determines which of those two meanings it bears, as in 'Vardy his jillpots standing by the cain', glossed as 'See that chap standing by the table.'

vardy, v. To swear upon oath: showmen's: since ca. 1860. P. H. Emerson, Signor Lippo, 1893.

various veins. Varicose veins: pol.: C. 20. (Ruth Park, 1950.) Also very coarse veins.

varnish, n.—2. Sauce: coffee-stall frequenters: C. 20.

varnish one's cane. (Of the male) to coit: low Canadian: C. 20.

varnished wagons. Passenger-train cars: Canadian railroadmen's (— 1931).

Varsity occurs in The Observer, March 9, 1706. In sense 1 (p. 930), it has not been used since 1914 and was very little used during the preceding decade.

vastly. As a mere synonym of 'very' it is a coll. of C. 18–early 19. (H. C. K. Wyld in The Spectator, April 22, 1938.)

Vatican roulette. The so-called 'safe period' which immediately precedes menstruation and is regarded as a means of birth control: Catholics': 1960 (the date of a famous encyclical) and after. On the analogy of the dicing-with-death Russian roulette.

vaudevillian. A vaudeville 'villain': jocular coll.: since ca. 1930.

Vaux. A Vauxhall motor car: since ca. 1930. Elleston Trevor, A Place for the Wicked, 1968.

've (p. 931) occurs even at the beginning of a sentence, as in 've you done much?' (Neil Bell, Alpha and Omega, 1946), where 've you is pronounced view.

vecle (strictly ve'cle) or vekle. A vehicle: illiteracy: since ca. 1830. James Grant, Lights and Shadows of London Life, I, 1840.

veegle. A motorcar: Australian jocular: since ca. 1950. (B.P.) Ex childish pron. of S.E. vehicle.

veg.—2. 'A sea-mine. (Bomber Command.) Short for vegetable in the same sense; vegetable was suggested by the fact that the mines were sown in areas known by such code-names as Onions and Nectarine' (P-G-R.): mostly R.A.F.: 1939–45.

vegetarian. A spinster averse from 'exchanging flesh': since ca. 1925.

vegy, adj. Vegetable: domestics': late C. 19–20. H. A. Vachell, Quinney's, 1914.

velvet.—2. Elliptical for black velvet, any dark-skinned woman: in Australia, a lubra, a gin: C. 20. Tom Ronan, Vision Splendid, 1954, 'It was a case of black velvet or no material, and the pioneers took to the velvet.'

vent. A ventriloquist: mainly theatrical: C. 20.
ventilating. That form of bullying at Sandhurst ca. 1830–55, by which 'the unfortunate was tied up to one of the ventilators . . . and then javelined with forks', A. Mockler-Ferryman, Annals of Sandhurst. Perhaps rather coll. than s. Cf. Adamizing, bed-launching, shovelling.

ventilator is rather earlier than the Dict. entry implies, for it is recorded by B. & L.

Vera Lynn. A (drink of) gin: rhyming s.: since ca. 1940. (Weekly Telegraph, April 6, 1946.) Often shortened to Vera, as in Robin Cook, The Crust on Its Uppers, 1962. Ex the singer immensely popular during W.W. II—and after.

Veranda(h), the.—2. An open exchange that, for mining shares, took place on the pavement: Melbourne: ca. 1855–1900. (B., 1943.)

[Verbs that are s. or coll. in Ned Ward—one of the most, if not the most, coll. of all C. 18 writers—are these, taken from his work of 1700–24: brim (1703; see Dict.), tick (to have credit: 1709), pig in (share quarters; 1703), knock off (to cease; 1708; prob. always S.E.), mumble (to chew; 1703; rather, S.E.), tiffle up (to dress up; 1709), swop (to exchange; 1703), dop down (one's noddle; to duck; 1703); huckle (to chatter; 1703).

Verbal phrases that are eligible: make a loose (to escape; 1709); open one's pipes (to sing; 1709), pass a sham saine (to be a hypocrite; 1709), pay one's shot (1722), save one's bacon (to escape; 1722), stand the bears (to suffer; 1703), and tie the noose (spelt tye the nooze, to marry; 1700). Matthews.]

verge. See 'Tavern terms', § 9 (end).

verites. But it ceased to be s. when, early in C. 20, it > official. (Peter Sanders.)

Vernon's private navy. A flotilla of five East Coast herring drifters—Lord Cavan, Silver Dawn, Fisher Boy, Jacketa, and Fidget: Naval: 1939+. They were wooden ships, and so were used in the anti-magnetic mine operations of 1939. They also did excellent work bringing off troops from Dunkirk.

verse, v.; verser. See versing law (Dict.).

very dead. Applied to a soldier, or to a quadruped, left unburied on the battlefield: a W.W. I c.p. Not so tautological as it sounds, the connotation being the squalor and the stink.

very grave. 'When finances are low you will often hear, in reply to a question, the words, "Very grave", or "The position is critical" . . . merely a polite way of letting the world know that you are broke,' H. & P.: Service officers': since June 1940. Ex the Allied military position in May–June 1940.

Very Little Water Society, the. 'A most informal and fluid group of North American anthropologists, who take their liquor "on the rocks"'. A play on the name of a real secret society of the Iroquois tribe, the "Little Water Society". Since ca. 1950' (Leechman): Canadian.

very tasty, very succulent! An Australian c.p. (ca. 1948–57), popularised by the Australian comedian known as 'Mo'. (B., 1953.)

very tasty, very sweet. A c.p. very popular during World War II and gradually dying ever since—indeed, † by 1965. Cf. the entry preceding this—a version manifestly elaborating the English one.

very, very. A ca. 1919–39 coll. equivalent of too too (see Dict.). 'That's very very' usually connotes blame, esp. for indecency. Short for, e.g., 'very very naughty'.

vestal. 'Ironical for an incontinent person,' The London Guide, 1818: app. ca. 1810–50. Short for vestal virgin.

vibrations. 'Atmosphere; reactions, with sexual overtones' (Peter Fryer in The Observer colour supplement, Dec. 3, 1967): jazz devotees', drug addicts', beatniks' and hippies': since ca. 1965.

Vic.—6. Victoria (the State): Australian coll.: since ca. 1870. 'Tom Collins', Such Is Life, 1903. —7. The Vickers 'Victoria'—or the Vickers 'Valencia' troop-carrying aircraft: R.A.F.: 1940+. Jackson—8. A V-shaped formation of aircraft: R.A.F.: since ca. 1940. (P-G-R.)—9. 'The old Victorian Hall, Melbourne' (B., 1943): ? ca. 1880–1920.

Vic and Alb, the. The Victoria and Albert Museum in South Kensington, London: arty: C. 20. (Ngaio Marsh, Death at the Dolphin, 1967.)

Vic C., the. The Victoria Cross: soldiers' coll.: late C. 19–20. (Gilbert Frankau, 1920.)

Vic Eddy. 'The night signal given on the headlights (if working) or horn by a truck "swanning" round a "laager" but unable to find it. The reply was anything recognisable as friendly' (Peter Sanders in The Sunday Times magazine, Sept. 10, 1967): Army in North Africa: 1940–43. Ex the Morse letters V and E.

Vicar of Bray. A tray; a 'trey' (the number 3): theatrical rhyming s.: late C. 19–20. Franklyn, Rhyming.

vicarage, the. The chaplain's cabin: Naval: since ca. 1930. Granville.

vice-admiral (or V- A-). See 'Tavern terms', § 7.

vicious. See unfortunate.

vicky-verky. Vice versa: Merseyside: late C. 19–20. But perhaps sol. or dial. rather than s. or coll.

victim. A person very much in love: Society: ca. 1885–1914. B. & L.

Victor Trumper. A 'bumper' or cigarette-butt: Australian rhyming s.: since ca. 1905. (B., 1945.)

Victoria Monk. Semen: late C. 19–20. Rhyming on spunk, 2 (Dict.). Ex a character famous in pornographic fiction. Strictly, that character was Maria Monk and this, the original and still the commoner rhyming-s. form, became confused, in the popular mind, by the fame of Victoria Monks (with an -s), a very well-known music-hall singer, perhaps best remembered for her rendering of 'Won't you come home, Bill Bailey?'

Victoria the Great. Anna Neagle, the film actress: since ca. 1938. Ex her playing in that role.

virtualled up, be. 'To have a good time ashore as guest of friends or relatives,' Granville: Naval: since ca. 1920.

vidiot. A constant, mindless looker-in at T.V.: Australian: since ca. 1960. A blend of video + idiot. (B.P.)

view. 'R.A.F. types do not "have an opinion", but instead "take a view"'. Thus, "He took a poor view when Bert snaffled his popsie", Jackson: R.A.F. coll.: since ca. 1925. Ex the aerial view they get of things.

vig. Vigilance: Anti-aircraft: 1939-45. Allan Michie & Walter Graebner, Lights of Freedom, 1941, "'Special vig," says John. "That means keep a special vigilance," he explains to me.'

vile child. A mild Etonian pejorative of ca. 1875-90. B. & L.

Vill, the. Pentonville (prison): c.: C. 20. Norman.

Village.—3. (The V.) Manley, N.S.W.: Sydneysiders': C. 20. (B., 1943.)

Village of Hate, the. Burgsteinfurt, a town in N.W. Germany: 1945-6. Ex the silent resentment shown by the inhabitants towards the occupying troops. (P-G-R.) villain. A criminal; anyone with a criminal record: since ca. 1945. (The Sunday Times, July 14, 1963, 'Z Cars' competition.)

-ville. Adopted, ca. 1960, ex U.S. 'Beat-and, indeed, gen. American—jargon has crept in, including the habit of adding "ville" on the end of an adjective: "Cor, man, this prep"—see prep, 1, on p. 657—"is dead cinchyville"—i.e. dead easy, a 'cinch': New Society, Aug. 22, 1963, 'From the blackboard jungle', a short article on North Country grammar school slang.

vingty. Ving-et-un: gamblers' coll.: C. 20. F. J. Whaley, Trouble in College, 1936.

vino. Italian wine: Army: 1942+. It. vino 'any wine'.

violent evasive action; the v. being take... To avoid an undesirable task or a boring person: R.A.F.: 1940+. (P-G-R.)—2. Hence, coitus interruptus: Australian: since ca. 1943. (B.P.)

violet (1), 'onion': the usual term in the Navy (lower-deck): Granville.

vip. A very close-fisted, cheese-paring person: Australian: since ca. 1925. B., 1942. A thinning of vipe (short for viper)?

viper. A marijuana-smoker: c.: adopted, ca. 1943, ex U.S. (Norman.—See Underworld.) virgin. Excellent; very attractive; indeed, a general superlative: Oxford undergraduates': late 1939—early 1938. Ex the idea of purity.

Virgin, the. The Petty Officers' Mess: Naval: C. 20. Screened off, at meal-times, from the vulgar gaze of the lower-deck.

virgin bride. A ride: Australian rhyming s.: since ca. 1890. (B., 1945, citing The Sydney Bulletin, Jan. 18, 1902.)

Virgin for short, but not for long. Humorous catchphrase applied to girls named Virginia: C. 20.

vis. Visibility: esp. among skin divers: since ca. 1950. (Wilfred Granville.) visit Lady Perriam. To go to the underground lavatory: Balliol College, Oxford: C. 20. Lord Bacon's sister, Lady Perriam, presented a new building to Balliol; on its site now stands this convenience. (Christopher Hobhouse, Oxford, 1939.)

visiting cards. See leave visiting cards.

Vital Spark, the. Sobriquet but also nickname for Jenny Hill, a famous music-hall performer of the 1870's.

vital statistics. A woman's bust, waist, hip measurements (e.g. 36, 23, 35 inches): since ca. 1945: jocular coll. >, by 1965, S.E.

Vits, the. A Licensed Victuallers' (Protective) Association: C. 20. In, e.g., The Essex Chronicle, March 17, 1939, where a caption reads, 'Rochford "Vits"'.

vive la différence! 'A c.p. used when someone has just said that there is hardly any difference between men and women' (B.P.): since ca. 1935. Ex the French toast.

vocab (p. 933) occurs also in watch your vocab!, mind your language!: Australian, orig. undergraduates': since ca. 1930. (B.P.)

vol. Volume (of a book): book-world coll.: late C. 19-20. Ex the abbr., as in 'Gibbon, vol. 2'.

Voluminous Prynne (Dict.) is, one sees on second thoughts, much rather a mere sobriquet than a genuine nickname.

voluntary. An involuntary and inartistic fall from one's mount: hunting s.: from ca. 1890.

Vosse's. A bell rung at 7 a.m.: Marlborough College: C. 20. Ex the name of that porter who first rang it.

vote for Boyle. 'Catch-phrase after the fall of Tunis [1943]. Hal Boyle, of the Associated Press, drove into Tunis chanting "Vote for Boyle, son of the soil; Honest Hal, the Arabs' pal". The Arabs, with their usual facility for picking up a phrase without knowing the meaning, puzzled the troops by greeting them with this cry, which they in turn adopted' (P-G-R.): Army: 1943-4. vowels, three. See three vowels (Dict.).

W

W.C. A C.W. Candidate: Naval: C. 20. Granville, 'The C.W. Branch, Admiralty, deals with the awarding of "commissions and warrants"'.
W.O.S.'ers. Overseas British authors: authors': since ca. 1919. The Writer, May 1939. Ex 'the wide open spaces' + the agential -er.

Waaf. A member of the Woman's Auxiliary Air Force: since 1939: coll. >, by mid-1943, j. Ex the initials, W.A.A.F. Pronounced Waff, which is, however, to be regarded as an incorrect spelling.

waaf-basher. A male fornicator: R.A.F.: 1941 +. See basher, 8.

Waafery. 'The part of the camp frequented, or the billets occupied, by members of the W.A.A.F.,' H. & P.: R.A.F.: since 1939. See Waaf.

waafise. 'To substitute airwomen for airmen. I believe the term originated in Balloon Command, which was waafised in a big way,' Jackson: R.A.F. coll. (by 1943, j.): 1941 +. See Waaf.

waas or wass. To run; to hurry; to exercise oneself vigorously: Uppingham: since ca. 1912. Marples. Echoic.

wacker, n. A Merseyside term of address to a man: since ca. 1945. Perhaps ex Scottish and English dial. whacker, anything very large.—2. Hence, a fellow; esp., a poor sort of fellow: Australian: since ca. 1946. (Wm Dick, A Bunch of Ratbags, 1965.)

wacker or whacker, adj. Fine; excellent; wonderful: Australian, esp. Melbourne, children's: since ca. 1946. (Dick.) Cf. whacker on p. 946.

wacko! A variant of—and inferior to—whacko!

wacky. Unusual, out of the way, little known; esp. wacky news: adopted from U.S. by journalists ca. 1942. I.e. not ordinary 'straight' news.—2. Also, in gen. use, since 1944, for 'incorrect, unreliable' (news) and 'eccentric' (persons).

Waco, Big and Little. The first two aircraft of the Long Range Desert Group: Air Force in North Africa: 1942–3. Ex Western Aircraft Corporation of Ohio.

wad.—5. Straw: proletarian: C. 19. B. & L. Abbr. wadding.—6. A drink of liquor: since ca. 1910. Humfrey Jordan, Roundabout, 1935. It comfortingly fills a void.—7. A (large) quantity of anything: Australian: since ca. 1920. B., 1942. Cf. sense 2 and wadge (p. 934).

waddurang. An old woman: Australian: mid-C. 19–20. B., 1942. Aboriginal.

waddy, v. To strike (someone) with a stick or club: Australian coll.: C. 20. B., 1942. Ex the n. (see p. 934).

Waff. See Waaf.—Waffery. See Waafery.

waffle, v.—4. (Of an aircraft) to be out of control (usually as vbl n. or participial adj. waffling, 'spinning, losing height'); to fly in a damaged condition and/or uncertainty: R.A.F.: since ca.

1930. H. & P.; W/Cdr R. P. McDouall (March 19, 1945), 'Waffling precedes spinning'; Brickhill & Norton, Escape to Danger, 1946.—5. Hence (?), to dither: Services (mostly officers'): since ca. 1930. H. & P. Cf. sense 2.—6. (Cf. 4, 5.) 'To cruise along unconcernedly and indecisively' (Jackson): R.A.F.: since ca. 1925.

waft; wafty. General madness or wildness, lack of tact and/or gumption; the corresponding adj.: Oundle: since late 1920's. Marples. Perhaps suggested by excessive breeziness.

wag.—6. As the wag, it designates the humorous tail-piece that appears at the end of a newspaper gossip-column: originally, and still mainly, journalistic: C. 20.

wag one's bum. (Of men) to copulate: mostly Services': C. 20. Contrast wag one's bottom (p. 935).

wages. Illegal or illicit or shady or disreputable income: as, e.g., thief's, race-gang's, whore's: c., and low (mostly Londoners'): from ca. 1925.—2. 'There is occasional use of this among Retired Pensioners, who, when they go to a post office to draw their pension, may say "I am going to draw my wages"' (A. B. Petch, May 1966): coll.: since late 1940's.

Wagga blanket. A rough bed-covering, used by tramps and made from sack or bag: Australian: late C. 19–20. B., 1942. Derivative of the N.S.W. town of Wagga-Wagga, small and genuinely rural.

Wagga grip. 'A leather strap or binding through the pommel D's of a saddle. Also called jug handle and monkey' (B., 1959): Aus.: C. 20. Cf. preceding term.

wagger. A truant: schools': from ca. 1870. (E. Pugh, A Street in Suburbia, 1895.)—2. Short for wagger-pagger-bagger (p. 935): Rugby and other Public Schools': C. 20. (D. F. Wharton, 1965.)

Wagglespear. Shakespeare: schoolboys': C. 20. Punning Shake-speare; cf. Wagstaff.

waggon.—4. A battleship: Naval: 1940 +. Granville. Short for battle waggon.—5. A cigarette: South African c. (C. 20) >, by 1945, also low s. (C. P. Wittstock, letter of May 23, 1946).

wags. Signallers: Australian airmen's: 1939–45. (B., 1943.)

wahine. A girl surfer: Australian surfers': since ca. 1962. Ex Hawaiian (and Maori) wahine, a female, a woman.

Wailing Winnie is synonymous with and echoically comparable to Mona: civilians only. E. P., 'Air Warfare and Its Slang' in The New Statesman, Sept. 19, 1942.—2. In the Royal Navy and the Merchant Navy, 'it is the broadcast system aboard ships' (H. & P.): since 1939.

wailo! is a mere variant spelling of wylo! in Dict.

waist tog. A waistcoat: Cockney: ca. 1840–1910. Mayhew, I, 1851. See tog (p. 893).

wait. Sense 1 occurs two years earlier (1836) in Pickwick.

wait and see! To the Dict. entry, add this note sent by Mr Vernon Rendall: 'I am familiar with it in earlier literature and have an impression that it was a catchword in the legal chambers of Sir Henry (subsequently Lord) James, one of whose "devils" Asquith was' in the earlier 1880's; it was, however, in 1910 that wait and see > a gen. c.p. Asquith was himself, from 1910, often called Old Wait-and-See.

wait till (or until) you get it?,—will you have it now or. A c.p., addressed to someone either impatient or in a hurry: C. 19–20. (Dickens, The Pickwick Papers, 1936–7, ch. 10.)

waiter. A horse that, started in a race, is not meant to win: Australian race-courses': C. 20. B., 1942.—2. See:

waiters. As full waiters = men's full evening-dress, so half waiters = dinner jacket (a tuxedo): Society: since ca. 1930. Ex restaurant waiters' garb.

wake, v.i. To 'wake up' to a trick, a racket, etc.: Australian: since ca. 1925. Lawson Glas-sop, Lucky Palmer, 1949, "'Lay off some of the others [= horses]," whispered Max. "I tell you, somebody'll wake."' wake-up. A wide-awake person: Australian coll.: from ca. 1910. W. S. Howard, You're Telling Me!, 1934, 'Well, I'm a wake-up; they don't get nothing out of me!'

wake your ideas up! Pull yourself together: Services coll.: since ca. 1930. I.e. wake up!

waker (or W-). A sleeping train running between Paddington and Penzance: (mostly West Country) railwaymen's: since ca. 1910; by 1960, ob. (Railway 2nd).

Wakers. W. W. Wakefield, the International Rugby Union forward and English captain: Rugby-players': from 1920 (first 'cap'). By 'the Oxford -er'. (One of the classics of the game is Rugger, 1927: by W. W. Wakefield and Howard Marshall.)

wakey, wakey! Wake up: R.A.F. non-coms': since the early 1920's. Sgt Gerald Emanuel, letter of March 29, 1945. Ex nursery coll. (Perhaps I should add that these N.C.O.'s use it without tenderness and with a strongly emphasised irony, yet often with an innocuous sense of good clean fun.) Since ca. 1945, it has been very widely used, esp. fig.—that is, where the person(s) addressed merely seem(s) asleep or is extremely slow in getting something done or in moving along. An elaborated version (I myself never heard it in the Army, 1940–41, nor in the R.A.F., 1942–45) is wakey, wakey, rise and shine, which clearly combines wakey, wakey and rise and shine (p. 700)—don't you know it's morning time?

wakey-wakey watch. The watch from 4 to 8 a.m.: Naval lower-deck: C. 20.

waler.—3. (Waler.) An inhabitant of N.S.W.: Australian coll.: C. 20. B., 1942.—4. Short for Murrumbidgee whaler, q.v. at whaler (p. 947).

Wales, the. The Bank of New South Wales: Australian coll.: late C. 19–20. (B.P.)

walk, n. A postman's route or 'beat': Canadian coll.: late C. 19–20; since ca. 1940, virtually j. (Leechman.)

walk.—3. To be a prostitute on the streets: white-slavers' c.: C. 20. A Londres, 1928.—4. To disappear: mostly Army, as when a part of one's kit has disappeared: since ca. 1910.

walk (a girl) home. To accompany her back to her home: coll.: since ca. 1943. Ex U.S.?

walk it.—3. Ex sense 2 (p. 936): of a person, to win easily: since ca. 1930.

walk the barber (p. 936). Earlier in Mayhew, I, 1851.

walk the cart. See cart, walk the in the Dict.

walk the hospitals. To study medicine: medical coll.: from ca. 1870. For a pertinent comment, see the leading article in The Times Literary Supplement, Oct. 9, 1936.

walk the plank. An early variant of walk the chalk (p. 936): Naval: since ca. 1810 or earlier. It occurs in W. N. Glascock, Sailors and Saints, 1829, at I, 176, and II, 120. (Moe.)—2. To move up and down one's surfboard: Australian surfers': since ca. 1961. (B.P.) With a pun on the pirates' practice of making their victims walk the plank.

walk-up fuck; also simply walk-up. 'She's ... All you have to do is walk up and ask': low Australian: C. 20.

walkabout. A mid-C. 19–20 term as in a book-review in The Times of Sept. 8, 1936: 'Under the title "Walkabout"—the pidgin word for "journey" in the Western Pacific—Lord Moyne has written a book on his latest expedition in his yacht Rosaura to little-known lands between the Pacific and Indian Oceans.'—2. A walking tour, a riding (and walking) tour: Australian coll.: C. 20. Archer Russell, A Tramp-Royal in Australia, 1934. 3. An out-back road: Australian coll. C. 20. B., 1942.

Walker's bus. See go by Walker's bus.

walkie-talkie. 'A wireless set, carried by one man, with both receiving and transmitting equipment' (P-G-R.): Army: 1940–5; then civilian (e.g. police); by 1950, coll.

walking, go. To go rotten: C. 20. Mostly Londoners'. Ex the prospective maggots.

walking dry. A frequent variant of dry walk (Dict.).

walktalk. 'A conversational stroll' (B., 1942): Australian coll.: since ca. 1910.

wall, near the. Ill: Oxford University: ca. 1820–50. Spy, 1825. Ex Dr Wall, a celebrated surgeon.

wall fruit. 'Kissing against a wall' (Sinks): ca. 1830–80.

wall-stretcher. See crooked straight-edge.

wallaby. 'An outback track' (B., 1959): Aus.: C. 20. Perhaps immediately ex wallaby, on the, on p. 936.

wallaby, on the.—2. Hence, on an urban drinking-bout: Australian: ca. 1890–1910.—3. Penniless: Australian: C. 20. B., 1942.

wallaby-tracker. A tramp: Australian: C. 20. (B., 1943.) Ex wallaby, on the, 1: p. 936.

waller is a loose spelling of wallah (Dict.).

wallop, n. 4 (p. 937). Usually, beer; in the Services, always beer. H. & P.—5. Strictly, the proprietary Walpamur; 'but now [1953] often used for any washable distemper' builders' and house-painters' and -decorators'. (A master builder: communication of Dec. 5, 1953.)

wallop, get (or give) the. To be dismissed—to dismiss—from a job: Australian: since ca. 1920. B., 1942.

walloper.—3. See paddler, 2.—4. A dancer: itinerant entertainers': late C. 19–20. (Sydney Lester, Vardi the Palarey, 1937.) Perhaps influenced by It. galoppo, a lively dauce, and galoppare, to gallop, and galoppatore, a galloper.

wallopers, the. The police: Aus.: since ca. 1950. Ian Hamilton, The Persecutor, 1965.

Walls have ices. A c.p. retort to 'Walls have ears': since ca. 1930. I.e. Wall's have ices, with reference to a well-known London firm of ice-cream manufacturers.

wally (pron. wolly); shock-a-lolly. Cockney terms (quite distinct one from the other) for cucumber pickled in brine, the second term being rare: from ca. 1880.

Walrus. Warlus, near Arras: military in G.W. Blaker. Cf. Agony (in Dict., s.v. agony, 2).

walrus. A large, bushy moustache; hence, its wearer: the former coll. (elliptical for 'walrus moustache'); the latter, s.: since ca. 1917; virtually extinct by 1960.

Walter Joyce. Voice: rhyming s.: since ca. 1880. (G. R. Sims used it in a Dagonet Ballad published in The Referee of Nov. 7, 1887.) Franklyn 2nd.

waltz, do a (or the: see examples). To slide or skid: Cockneys': late C. 19-20. E.g. 'I was doing the waltz all the way'; 'In going along Russell Street, I done a waltz.'

waltz Matilda (p. 937). The phrase, recorded in 1893, long antedates the song (Sidney J. Baker, letter) and was—B., 1959, tells us—'to walk Matilda'. A jocularity.

wampo. Intoxicating liquor: R.A.F.: since ca. 1930. Jackson. Prob. ex Scottish wampish, 'to wave one's arms about'.

wampo coupons. Pound notes, regarded as fair exchange for liquor: R.A.F.: since ca. 1930; slightly ob. by 1960. Cf. preceding.

Wan. A member of the Women's Royal Australian Naval Service: Australian Services': 1939-45.

wandering Willie. An 'escaped' barrage balloon: R.A.F.: since ca. 1938.

wang, n. Penis: C. 20. Better whang: cf. whank.—2. Hence, a cigarette: South African schools': C. 20. Ex shape.

wank, v.; wank-pit; wanker. See whank, etc.

wanks. Strong liquor: R.A.F.: since ca. 1930. Partridge, 1945. Perhaps because it causes one to feel 'wanky'.

wanky dates from before 1890: witness B. & L.

Wanstead Flats. Spats: Londoner's rhyming s.: since ca. 1920.

want down, in, off, out, up, etc. 'There is an extraordinary locution used here which omits "to get". "I want down" means "I want to get down". Cf. also "I want out, I want in, I want out of here, I want on (a tram), I want off"—and countless others.' Thus Dr Douglas Leechman, in May 1959, concerning a Canadian usage that was, ca. 1954, adopted ex the U.S. Probably a development ex the want in; want out treated on pp. 937-8.

want to buy a battleship? See do you want ...

want to know all the ins and outs of a duck's bum. To be extremely inquisitive; esp. of one desirous of arriving at the underlying explanation: low: late C. 19-20.

want to make something of it? A threatening retort to criticism or insult: c.p.: since ca. 1925. (Atkinson.) Implying readiness for fisticuffs.

want to piss like a dressmaker. 'A Cockney figure of speech for urgent need, perhaps originating in sweated-labour days' (Atkinson): late C. 19-20.

want-to-was(s)er, on p. 938, is Dr Leechman assures me, very rare indeed and long out of use.

wappy. Idealistic; sentimental; 'soppy': since ca. 1950. Alan Sillitoe, The Loneliness of the Long-Distance Runner, 1959 (p. 18), '... Just like the governor of this Borstal who spouts to us about Borstal and all that wappy stuff.'

War Babies; War Babies' Brigade. A Junior Training Battalion: military: 1917-18. Ian Miller, School Tie, 1935. Cf. war-baby, 2 (Dict.).

War Box, the. The War Office: Army: since ca. 1919. Cf.:

War House, the. No; it dates back at least as far as the Boer War. (See the Dict.).

war-pot. See war-hat (Dict.).

[War Slang of 1939-45. As in 1914-18, so in 1939-45, war has considerably increased the vocabulary both of S.E. and of slang and other unconventional English: see esp. my Words at War: Words at Peace (1948), alike for general and for particular aspects of the subject, whether for 1914-18 or for 1939-45.]

In this Supplement, Forces' slang of the latter period is richly—yet, inevitably, far from completely—represented; in Navy, Army, Air Force, there are so many arms or branches of each Service, and so many theatres of war involved, that it is impossible to glean everything from every harvest-field. For a conspectus, hence for a conspective view, the inquirer could do worse than consult Forces' Slang: 1939-1945, which published late in 1948, has been edited, with an introductory essay, by myself, and to which I have contributed the Air Force terms; the Navy's words and phrases being the privilege of Wilfred Granville, and the Army's being that of Frank Roberts, two men who know what they're talking about.

Wilfred Granville, by the way, is the author of Sea Slang of the 20th Century (published early in 1949), to which I have had the honour of writing the introduction and of supplying the etymologies: in that comprehensive work, he has assembled not only the Navy's slang and colloquialisms of both wars, and earlier and after, but also the Merchant Service's relevant terms, with the addition of yachtsmen's, trawlermen's, bargemen's, canalmen's and so forth. I have been fortunate in availing myself of Wilfred Granville's generosity: he has permitted me to draw upon this delightful book. (Note written in 1949.)] warb. A badly paid manual worker: Australian Labour: since ca. 1910. B., 1942.—2. A simpleton or a fool: Australian: since ca. 1905. (B., 1943.) Ex next entry.—3. 'A dirty or untidy person' (B., 1959): Aus.: since ca. 1920.

warby. Silly, daft: Australian: C. 20. Kylie Tennant, The Battlers, 1941, 'Of all the warby ideas...' Ex Scottish warback, or obsolete warbie, 'a maggot': cf. rotten (Dict.).—2. Unwell; (of things) insecure: Australian: since ca. 1905. B., 1942.—3. Unattractive; inferior: Australian: since ca. 1910. (B., 1953.)

warco. A war correspondent: mostly journalistic: 1939 +.

wardo. Rare for vardo, n. (Dict.).

wardroom joint as messdeck stew is the predominant post-1930 shape of the Dict. entry, ward-room joints as lower-deck hash. Granville.

ware hawk! See hawk!, ware in Dict. warm in winter and cool in summer. An Australian c.p., applied to women: since ca. 1945. (B.P.) warm the bell. See bell...

warorks! In hunting, it = 'Ware ower'—look out for the stiff fence. See ower (p. 595).

warrant, get one's. See entry at got his crown up.

warrigal.—2. Hence the adj., wild: Australian: late C. 19–20. (B., 1943.)

warriors bold, adj. and n. Cold, adj.; a cold: rhyming s.: C. 20. Cf. soldier bold above. Franklyn 2nd.

wart. For sense 2 an earlier authority is 'Taffrail', who, in his article on 'The Snotties', says: 'The newly-joined midshipmen are "crabs" or "warts", mere excrescences on the face of the earth.'

Warwick Farms. Arms: Australian rhyming s.: C. 20. (B., 1945.) An adaptation of Chalk Farm(s), as on p. 138.

Wasbees (or Wasbies), The. The Women's Auxiliary Service, Burma: 1942–6. (Disbanded in July 1946.)

waser or wasser. A girl: Cockneys: C. 20; ob. Fr. oiseau, a bird: cf. bird, 8 (Dict.).

wash, n.—6. In C. 20 c., the wash is the theft of money in public lavatories while the owner is washing. See wash-up, 2.

wash, it'll all come out in the. It will be discovered eventually; hence, never mind—it doesn't matter!: c.p.: from ca. 1902. W. L. George, The Making of an Englishman, 1914.

wash and brush-up tuppence. A c.p. uttered by the host when one was about to wash one's hands in a friend's house: ca. 1885–1915.

wash-boards (p. 939) is very much earlier: 1806, John Davis, The Post-Captain. (Moe.)

wash-deck, adj. Mediocre, as in 'wash-deck musician': Naval: C. 20. Granville.

wash-out (p. 939). In sense 2, 1. 3, 'printing' is obviously a misprint for 'painting'.—3. Hence, a signal of cancellation, made by waving flags in a downward arc, completing a semicircle; at night, a lamp is swung in a wide, low semicircle: Canadian railroadmen's coll. (— 1931).

wash out is the v. corresponding to wash-out, n. (p. 939 and here): coll.: mid-C. 19–20. Like sense 1 of the n. (p. 939), it has, since 1919, been very widely used.

wash out one's mouth. Usually either get your mouth washed out or go and wash out your mouth (or why don't you wash out your mouth?—or wash your mouth out?), a virtual c.p. addressed to a dirty-tongued, foul-mouthed person: since ca. 1910.

wash-up.—2. 'Wash Up (the): Stealing from clothing hung up in wash-houses. A thief engaged in this sort of crime would be... "at the wash" or "at the wash-up";' F. D. Sharpe, The Flying Squad, 1938: c.: since ca. 1910.—3. A post-exercise analytical discussion attended by officers during Fleet exercises: Naval: since ca. 1950. (Wilfred Granville, Nov. 11, 1965.)

washers. Playing to an almost empty tent: circus- and show-men's: from ca. 1920. John o' London's Weekly, March 19, 1937 (B. Crocker). Perhaps ex wash-out.

washerwoman. 'A typo of cicada' (B., 1959): Aus., mostly rural'. C. 20.

washup, your. See wushup (Dict.).

wass. See waas.

wasser. See waser.

watch. To guard against; refrain from: lower-class: C. 20. W. A. Gape, Half a Million Tramps, 1936, 'They're jealous because we won't use their lousy "kips". I'll watch getting lousy and paying eightpence for it too.'

watch, chain and seals. See watch and seals (Dict.).

watch(-)basher. See clock basher.

watch-dropper. One who uses a cheap watch in a version of the ring-dropping game: Australian: late C. 19–20. B., 1942.

watch how you go! Look after yourself—take care: a c.p. of parting: general only since ca. 1950, but common in the Services since ca. 1935.

watch my smoke! Just you watch me!; you won't see me for dust!: a nautical coll. that is virtually a c.p.: late C. 19–20. Ex the smoke of a departing steamer.

watch on—stop on. Watch-and-watch or a double turn of duty (eight hours instead of four): Naval coll.: late C. 19–20. P-G-R.

watch the dicky-bird! 'Photographers' c.p. used when photographing children, so that they will be gazing at the camera lens with a bright, expectant look' (B.P.): late C. 19–20. (I clearly remember it being successfully directed at my brothers and myself in the year 1901.)

watch-works. See 'Canadian'.

watch your pockets, lads! A humorous c.p., directed at someone who has just arrived: workmen's and Tommies': C. 20.

watcher! What cheer!: mostly Cockney: C. 18–20; at first illiterate, then—by (say) 1900—coll. As Dr Leechman reminds me, we read, in Hakluyt's Voyages (XII, p. 206), the date being 1578, 'They hailed one another according to the manner of the sea, and demanded what cheare? and either party answered the other, that all was well.'

watchie or -y. A watchman: coll.: ca. 1810–40. W. T. Moncrieff, Tom and Jerry, 1821 (-y).

watchkeepers' union, the. Junior Officers of the Watch: Naval: since ca. 1920.

water, v.—3. To paint in water-colours: artistic: since ca. 1920. (Ngaiio Marsh, Death at the Bar, 1940.)—4. To spray (e.g. a road, a restricted locality) with shells or machine-gun bullets: Army: since ca. 1910.

water, on the. 'The machinery is on the water'—will arrive soon: Australian coll.: C. 20. (B.P.) Arriving by ship.

water(-)boiler. A fireman: railwaymen's: C. 20. (Railway, 3rd.)

water bonse. A cry-baby: Cockney's: late C. 19–20; ob. J. W. Horsley, I Remember, 1912.

water carnival, the.—2. 'The weekly orgy of hosing, scrubbing and general "chamfering-up" which takes place on Saturday in order that the ship may be "tiddley" for Captain's inspection and Sunday Divisions,' Granville: Naval: since ca. 1920.

water-cart. 'A 15-cwt truck, fitted with a tank for bringing water from the waterpoint to the unit' (P-G-R.): Army coll.: ca. 1940–5.

water fag. That boy who, from 7 until 7.40, calls out the time at regular intervals and at 7.40 opens the dormitory windows: Marlborough College: mid-C. 19–20.

water horse. 'Salt fish just washed from a vat' (L. E. F. English, Historic Newfoundland, 1955): Newfoundland: C. 20.

water jerry. At a harvesting, he who looks after the water-tank: Australian: C. 20. B., 1942.

water-lily. A flat punt: Oxford undergraduates': ca. 1840-90. (Marples, 2.)

water one's pony is a late C. 19-20 Anglo-Irish variation of water one's nag (Dict.); water the horses, a C. 20 Australian variant (B., 1942); water one's horse, a C. 20 English and New Zealand variant.

water-plant. An umbrella: fast life: ca. 1810-45. Pierce Egan, Finish, 1828.

water-rat. See black beetle.

water-works. See waterworks (Dict.).

water wren. 'A Wren member of a boat's crew' (Granville): Naval: 1940 +.

waterbag. A teetotaller; a temperance fanatic: Australian: since ca. 1920. B., 1942.

waterborne. See inland navy.

water's wet, the. A jocular c.p., addressed to someone trying the temperature of the water with his toes: late C. 19-20.

Watson. See obvious, my dear Watson!

wattle, n. 'A dirty or untidy person. Truncated from wattle and daub, rhyming sl. based on warb' (B., 1959): Aus.: since ca. 1950. Cf. warb, 3, above.

wattle, v.i. To drink (an intoxicant): C. 20. Ex 'What'll you have?' A certain Oxford college has its Watling Club.

Waussie. A female member of any of the Australian fighting Services: Australian: 1940-5. (B., 1943.) A blend of women + Aussie.

Waves. Volunteer 'Wrens' of the American Navy: since early 1942. H. & P. Ex the initials.

Wavies, the. R.N.V.R. personnel: mostly Naval: since ca. 1918. Ex 'the wavy navy': p. 941. (Granville.) wavy navy, the (p. 941); better with capitals. Granville, 'When the first uniform was issued to the Reserve, the three white tapes on the jean collar were wavy to distinguish them from the Active Service rating. To-day, only R.N.V.R. officers have wavy lace on their sleeves.'

wax, n.—2. An impression in wax: coll.: since ca. 1870. Sessions, Aug. 1879.

wax, v. To have one's eye on; to spy out: c.: from ca. 1890. Clarence Rook, The Hooligan Nights, 1899, cracksman loquitur: 'There's a 'ouse I've 'ad waxed for about a week.'

wax (something) up. To 'mess' up: low Cockney: 1899, C. Rook, The Hooligan Nights, "'Didn't I never tell you", he said, "how we waxed things up for that butcher . . . ?"' wax-borer. A long-winded bore: Australian: since ca. 1935. (B., Australia Speaks, 1953.) The wax is that of the auditors' ears.

waxer. A little drink: Merchant Navy: C. 20. Perhaps from 'a drop of wax'.

Waxies. Wellingborough men: railwaymen's: C. 20. (Railway, 3rd.)

waxy.—4. Short for waxy-homey (p. 941), which prob. dates since ca. 1880. (P. H. Emerson, 1893.)

—5. Hence, an equipment repairer: Army: 1939 +.

waxy homey. A minstrel: partly parlary: late C. 19-20. Sydney Lester, Vardi the Palarey, (?) 1937. Why waxy? Perhaps because he uses wax on the instrument he plays.

way. In horse-racing, a double—a bet on two races: Australian sporting: since ca. 1930. (B., 1953.) Perhaps ex 'two-way bet' as opposed to 'each-way bet'.

way?, are you in my. A c.p. reminder of egotistical obliviousness' (Atkinson): since ca. 1925.

way, that (sense 1 in Dict.); this way. Crooked; criminal, engaged in crime: c.: from ca. 1910.

'way back when A.M.O.s—Air Ministry Orders were chiselled on slabs of rock; when I joined the R.A.F., Pontius Pilate was (still) at I.T.W. (Initial Training Wing, where pilots do their elementary course): R.A.F. c.p.p., signifying '(It was) a long time ago': both since ca. 1935.

way of life, the (p. 942). Earlier in The London Guide, 1818.

way out; way out with the birds. Living in a world of fantasy; hence, extremely eccentric: resp. jazz-lovers' (esp. teenagers') and beatniks': since ca. 1954 and, the latter, since ca. 1959. The beatnik phrase is recorded in Rachel & Verily Anderson's Guide to The Beatniks; for the jazz phrase, cf. the entry at 'Jazz Slang'.

way out, on the. (Of a person) due for retirement or, esp., for dismissal: coll.: since ca. 1935. —2. Hence, (of things) wearing out, coming to end of useful 'life': coll.: since ca. 1939.

way to London, that's the—or is that the? A c.p. question disguising a nose-wiping with back of hand or on sleeve: mostly children's, and occasionally an adult jocularly without a wiping, but always 'non-U': C. 20.

way, up the. See up the way.

ways, as in 'a long ways': Canadian coll.: adopted, late C. 19, ex U.S. wazzums; or w., then. Were you [e.g. hurt], then?: jocular: C. 20. Ex baby talk. Cf. diddums in Dict.

we didn't come here to talk, as the man (or the sailor) said to the girl in the park. An Australian c.p.: since ca. 1940. 'Let's get on with it!'

we do get them! See if you can tell me . . .

we had one and the wheel came (sol. come) off. I don't know what on earth you're talking about: lower-middle and lower-class—c.p.—perhaps mostly Liverpool—of C. 20. Common also in Australia. (B.P.)

we must press on regardless. A c.p. form of press on regardless.

we want eight and we won't wait! A c.p. of 1909 when eight dreadnoughts were demanded for the Royal Navy.

we was robbed (in Australia, occ. rooked)! A jocular c.p. used when one has been tricked: since the late 1940's. Ex the indignant and usu. bogus claim of illiterate boxers when the referee has declared them to have lost. Often we wuz robbed.

wea-bit. See Yorkshire way-bit in the Dict.

weak. Tea: coffee-stalls' and low coffee-houses': from ca. 1860. B. & L.

weak eyes—big tits. A c.p. expressing a piece of fallacious folklore: Australian: since ca. 1920. 'Also worded in other ways' (B.P.).

weakie (or -ky). A weak person; esp., a coward: Australian, mostly juvenile: since ca. 1920. (Dick.) weapon. Penis; esp. among workmen: late

C. 19-20. It has the best of precedents: see my Shakespeare's Bawdy.

[Weapons in early C. 18, as represented by Ned Ward: A gun was a kill-devil (1703); a sword a rip (1700; spelt ripp). A blow was called a wherret (1703). Matthews.]

wear, v.—2. 'The verb to wear is used in extraordinary senses in the U.S. and Canada. Women Wear perfume, cripples wear a cane, and sandwich men wear placards.' Thus Dr Douglas Leechman, in May 1959.

This coll. usage—by 1955, Standard in U.S.; by 1960, virtually Standard in Canada—originated in the U.S. and began to affect Canada during the 1930's. Note, however, that 'wear a cane' derives from the idea implicit in 'wear a sword'. In April 1967 he adds: 'I caught an even better one some years ago. Margaret Mead, the anthropologist, spoke of a woman "wearing a baby on her back".'

wear a head. To be intelligent; to possess much sense: ca. 1815-60. Boxiana, III, 1821.

wear (someone's) balls for a necktie. 'To inflict a most drastic punishment or revenge. "You pull that trick again and I'll wear your balls for a necktie."' (Leechman.) Mostly Canadian: since ca. 1920.

wear it!, I won't. I won't tolerate (or, suffer) it!: Cockneys': C. 20. In the Services, esp. in 1939-45, wear it = to agree to, to accept it. Jackson. Ex wearing—or refusing to wear—shoddy clothes.

wear one's hair out against the head of the bed. A jocular explanation of 'thinness on top': C. 20. Implication of abundant sexual intercourse.

wear the gaiters. To be a convict: c.: C. 20. F. D. Sharpe, The Flying Squad, 1938, 'Convicts wear breeches and cloth gaiters, while short-term prisoners wear trousers.'

wear the kilt. To be the passive partner in male perversion: euphemistic: C. 20.

Weary Willie and Tired Tim. Two tramps, esp. if they resemble the famous cartoons: since ca. 1902. Created by artist Tom Browne (1870-1910).—2. Hence, lazy, loafing males: coll.: since ca. 1935.

weasel. A tip: railway porters': since ca. 1945. (Radio Times, Jan. 21, 1965.) Perhaps ex 'to weasel (something) out of somebody'.

weasel(l)ing, adj. and n. 'Extracting tips' (Railway, 3rd): since ca. 1945. Cf. the preceding entry.

weather, under the. See under...

weather-breeder (p. 942). Still in daily use in Sussex, meaning a fine day leading undoubtedly to a wet one. Reference in Kipling's Puck of Pook's Hill, 'The Conversion of St Wilfrid'; F. W. Thomas, letter of 1942.

weather Moses. To (try to) keep alive by getting a favourable deal with the pawnbrokers: Naval ratings': C. 19. (W. N. Glascock, Sketch-Book, 2nd Series, 1834, at II, 34. (Moe.) Cf.:—

weather out of. To rob (someone) of (something); esp., by sly, unfair means: Naval (? also gen. nautical) coll.: C. 19. Wm Nugent Glascock, The Naval Sketch-Book, 2nd Series, 1834, at I, 225, 'Tom took his stand on the folksel, an' the right honourable Mister Varmint Vaux in front of the prop, levellin' at his shipmate's life after tryin' all his soft, sinnuvating [= insinuating] ways to weather him out of his wife.' (Moe.)

Weatherall (or -ell). See Wetherall... weaver, I'm a doll's eye. See weaving leather aprons (Dict.).

weaving, get. (Usually in imperative.) Since 1939, if H. & P.'s explanation be correct. See get cracking. 'Refers to the 'planes which circle round a formation to protect the rear from surprise attack,' H. & P.; Jackson, "'Weaving" is a flying expression meaning a formation or flight in which the aircraft weave in and out of each other's paths': if this explanation be the right one (and I think it is), then prob. the phrase dates from the 1920's.

web. A foot: Liverpool: late C. 19-20. Cf. the S.E. web-foot and s. webs (p. 942).

web foot.—2. Hence (?), 'any rating whose port Division is Devonport,' Granville: Naval: C. 20.

webbing. Web equipment: Army coll.: C. 20. (P-G-R.)

Wedding Cake, the. 'The Victoria Memorial (in front of Buckingham Palace),' Herbert Hodge, 1939: London taxi-drivers': since ca. 1910. Shape and ornament.—2. Hence, the Vittorio Emanuele monument in Rome: since ca. 1944.

wedding kit. Genitals: mostly Army and Air Force: since ca. 1918.

wedge, n.—4. A sandwich: Naval: since late 1930's. (Wilfred Granville, 23 Sept. 1967; John Winton, H.M.S. Leviathan, late 1967.) The Navy's answer to the Army's wad.

wedge, v. To hit (someone) hard: North Country miners': C. 21. Ex driving-in a wedge.

wedges. Cards cut narrower at one end than at the other, for the purpose of cheating: card-sharpers' c.: from ca. 1880. (J. N. Maskelyne, Sharps and Flats, 1894.)

wedgies. Wedge-heeled shoes: since ca. 1945. (John Boswell, Lost Girl, 1959.)

wee, n. A 'wee-wee' (p. 943): Australian nursery coll. and adult jocular: since ca. 1920. 'It's the Australian practice to use only the first element of reduplications' (B.P.).

wee Danny. A glass of Aitkin's ale: Falkirk: since ca. 1930. Ex Mr Dan Robertson, J.P., for many years the head brewer of Messrs James Aitkin, The Falkirk Brewery.

Wee Ellen. The Rt Hon. Ellen Wilkinson († 1947): since ca. 1935.

wee Georgie. See any wee Georgie.

wee-poh. Among 'children of Welsh descent in Canada, ca. 1912, the penis' (Leechman): C. 20; by ca. 1950, ob. Cf. the nursery wee-wee, a euphemism for 'to pee'.

weed, bitter. See bitter weed.

weed on, have a. To have a 'grouse'; to be grumbling: Naval: since ca. 1920. Granville.

weedy chizz. Injustice: several British preparatory schools': since ca. 1945.

weejee. See wee-jee (Dict.).

weejie. A variant of widgie; the form preferred by B., 1953.

Week-End Air Force, the. The Auxiliary Air Force: R.A.F. coll.: since 1925 (year of its inception). Jackson. Only at week-ends could most of these selfless fellows do their flying.

week-ender.—3. Hence, a week-end cottage or shack: Australian coll.: C. 20. B., 1942.

week than a fortnight, rather keep you (for) a. A c.p. formula directed at a hearty eater: since ca. 1870.

weekers. A week-end: since ca. 1925. By 'the Oxford -er'. (Peter Sanders.)

weekly accompts (p. 943) occurs in 1806: John Davis, The Post-Captain. (Moe.)

weeno. Wine: Canadian carnival s.: C. 20. I.e. a blend of 'wine' + It. 'vino' (pron. 'veeno'). 'In Australia, this is undergraduate jocularly': B.P., who, prob. rightly, thinks the Australian use of weeno originates in the L. in vino veritas pron. in weeno veritas.

weep and wail. A begging tale: rhyming s., often shortened to weep: since ca. 1870; by 1959, ob. (Franklyn, Rhyming.)

weepie, weepy. A sentimental moving-picture: coll.: from ca. 1930. Cf. weeper, 3 (in Dict.).

weeping willow (p. 943) occurs forty-five years earlier in D. W. Barrett, Navvies, 1850.

Weetabix Junction. Burton Latimer, in Northamptonshire: railwaymen's: since ca. 1950. (Railway, 3rd.) weevil bo'sun. The same as jam bo'sun. Granville.

weigh in with (p. 943), 11 5-6. Note that the jockey weighs in after, not before, the race.

weigh into (someone). To attack; to punch vigorously: Australian sporting: since ca. 1910. B., 1942. Ex the boxers' weighing-in before a fight.

weigh off. To sentence (someone) to imprisonment: c.: since ca. 1920. Daily Express, March 25, 1938. Cf. next entry.—2. (Of the prison governor) to reprimand (a prisoner) and sentence (him) to the solitary cell: prisons': since ca. 1930. The process, from the receiving end, is known as getting weighed off. (Both in Norman.) weighed off, get. To be punished or severely reprimanded: Naval: since ca. 1910. H. & P. Occ. shortened to get weighed (W/Cdr R. P. McDouall, March 17, 1945).—2. To be received into prison: prison c.: since ca. 1925. (Norman.) weight, give a. See give a weight.

weight?, have you got the. Do you understand?: Naval c.p.: since ca. 1930. Granville.

weight off one's behind—mind. See load off... (two entries).

weirdy. A very odd person; an eccentric; since ca. 1947 'The Chelsea set' of 1959 was—at least, then—described as 'the weirdies'.—2. Hence, a beatnik: journalists' and teenagers': since ca. 1959. (Anderson).—3. (Also weirdie.) 'One who affects weird dress, such as a beatnik; often found in company with beardies' (Leechman, April 1967): mostly Canadian: since ca. 1950. Note that, in this sense, it is predominantly male.

well-bottled. Topsy: Services (mostly officers') since ca. 1920. H. & P.

well-breeched. Rich: ca. 1810-60. See quot'n at Tip Street...

well-cemented. Well-off, rich: Australian: since ca. 1945. (B., Australia Speaks, 1953.) Probably suggested by the U.S. coll. well-fixed.

well-endowed. (Of a woman) having well-developed breasts: coll., often jocular: since ca. 1925.—2. (Of a man) equipped with ample genitals: since late 1920's. Nicholas Montsarrat, The Cruel Sea, 1951. (Ramsey Spencer.)

well firmed. 'Perfect in the "business" and words': theatrical: from ca. 1870. B. & L.

well-gone, in the 'infatuated' nuance (p. 944): Australian by ca. 1920. B., 1942.

well-heeled. Rich, either temporarily or permanently: Canadian: adopted, ca. 1910, ex U.S. (Leechman.)

well-hung. But extant in Canada.

well in.—2. (Ex sense 1: p. 944). Engaged in profitable business: Australian coll.: C. 20. (B., 1943).—3. (Of a person) popular: coll.: C. 20.

well, Joe, what do you know? A derisive c.p. addressed to anyone named Joe: common in the Forces, ca. 1939-46. Ex well, what... (below).

well put-on. (Of a male person) well turned-out; well-dressed: lower-class Glasgow coll.: from ca. 1890. MacArthur & Long, 'Perhaps there may be some association of ideas between slumland's passion for smoothed and glistening crops [of hair] and its general term for a smart appearance.' Also in comparative and superlative.

well-sprung. Topsy: ca. 1910-40. Ward Muir, Observations of an Orderly, 1917.

well, what do you know! A c.p. expressive of incredulous surprise: New Zealand (and elsewhere): since ca. 1918. B., 1941, 1942.

wellies. Wellington boots (in the modern, i.e. rubber, form): domestic: C. 20.

Wells Fargo. 'Old Pullman coaching stock named after the Television Western Programme' (Railway 2nd): railwaymen's: since ca. 1960; by 1966, slightly ob. Ex the Wells Fargo coaching company of the U.S.

Welly B. Wellington Barracks: Regular Army: late C. 19-20. Andrew Sinclair, The Breaking of Bumbo, 1959.

Welsh.—2. See 'Tavern terms', § 3, c.

Welsh Wizard, the. A C. 20 nickname of the late Rt Hon. David Lloyd George.

welt, n.—3. A self-awarded period of loafing or absence: Liverpool labourers': C. 20.—4. A large penis: Forces': C. 20. Sadistic?

welt, v. To punch or strike (someone): Australian: C. 20. B., 1942. Ex n., 2 (p. 945).

welter, make it a. A variant (as in D'Arcy Niland, Call Me..., 1958) of:

welter of it, make a. To go to extremes or to excess: Australian: since ca. 1905. (Jon Cleary, The Sundowners, 1952.)

Welwyn. Nickname for a slow or lazy fellow: R.A.F.: 1941+. Cf. take your finger out. The relevant finger is well in.

wem. A wireless and electrical mechanic (as a 'trade'): R.A.F.: since ca. 1935. Sgt Gerald Emanuel, letter of March 29, 1945. Ex the abbr. W.E.M. or W/E/M.

went to night school and he (or she) can't spell in the daytime, he or she. A c.p. applied to a bad speller: not solely Australian: C. 20. (B.P.)

Wentworth Falls; Wentworth's Balls. Testicles: Australian rhymings., not widely used: since 1920. Wentworth Falls is a resort, near Katoomba, in the Blue Mountains of New South Wales. (B.P.)

we're winning. We are getting on well: c.p.: 1942+. Also as 'an evasive stock answer to "How're we getting on?" or "How goes it?"' (Atkinson).

were you born in a barn? A c.p., addressed to one who leaves a door open: mostly in Britain and in Canada, yet hardly rare in Australia and New Zealand: mid-C. 19-20, and probably much earlier. Of the same order as was your father a glazier? (q.v. at glazier on p. 332); in short, semi-proverbial.

Wessy. A London North-Western employee: railwaymen's: C. 20. (Railway.)

West Ham reserves. Nerves: Londoners' rhyming s.: C. 20. 'That sod gets on me West Hams.' Cf. Queens Park Ranger.

West(-)Ingee, the. The West Indies: Naval lowerdeck coll.: late C. 18-mid 19; hence, West-Ingee man, a West-Indiaman (ship). In W. N. Glascock, The Naval Sketch-Book (I, 115; II, 135), 1825-26. Moe.

Western. An American cowboy film or novel: coll.: since ca. 1910; by 1940, S.E. The action takes place in the south-west of the U.S.

Western, the. The Atlantic Ocean: nautical coll.: late C. 19-20. W. A. Gape, Half a Million Tramps, 1936. See Western Ocean relief in the Dict.

Western Front, all quiet on the; all quiet in the Shipka Pass. C.pp. resp. of 1917 + and 1915-16. The former arose ex journalistic comment on official communiques, but was suggested by the latter, which alludes to Verestchagin's cartoons of a Russian soldier's being gradually buried in falling snow.

Westminster Abbey; often merely Westminster. Shabby: rhyming: since ca. 1880.

Westminster's Palace of Varieties. 'Sarcastic name given to the Admiralty by officers serving in sea-going ships,' Granville: Naval: C. 20.

Westralia; Westralian. Western Australia; Western Australian: Australian coll.: late C. 19-20. B., 1942.

wet, n., 3 (p. 945). Rather, late C. 19-20, at the Public Schools; so, too, for the adj., 7.—4. A sip. esp. of rum: Naval: late C. 19-20. (Granville.) Ex sense 3 on p. 945.

wet, adj.—8. (Excessively) sentimental: since ca. 1930. Partly ex sense 7 and partly ex the idea of 'tearfully sentimental'.

wet, all (p. 945). Also, by 1935, Australian; the predominating Australian sense is 'very foolish, or very stupid': B., 1942. Ex wet, adj., 7 (Dict.): also, since ca. 1920, Canadian. (Leechman.)

wet,—is, (p. 946). Cf. wet 'n' warm, tea or coffee or cocoa, used in the same way and from well before 1900. (Alexander McQueen.)

wet, talk. See talk wet.

wet, the. The rainy season, esp. in N.W. Australia but also in N. Queensland: coll.: late C. 19-20. Ion M. Idriess, Man of the Jungle, 1932 (N. Queensland); B., 1942; Jean Devanney, 1944 (N. Queensland); Jon Cleary, Justin Bayard, 1955, 'You know our work starts when the Wet finishes.' Contrast dry, the.

wet a stripe. To celebrate a messmate's promotion: Naval (Wardroom): C. 20. Granville. But Naval wet one's commission is a coll. that goes back to ca. 1700; it occurs, e.g., in Shadwell's The Fair Quaker of Deal, 1710. (Moe.)

wet arse and no fish, a. A fruitless quest or errand: coll. late C. 19-20.

wet as a scrubber. 'An incalculably stupid rating' (Granville): Naval: since ca. 1930. I.e. as a scrubbing-brush. In the Australian Navy, since the 1930's, such a rating would have been, would be, described as (as) wet as piss.

wet behind the ears (p. 946). But cf. the Fr. avoir encore du lait derrière les oreilles.

wet bobbing. See dry bobbing.

wet deck. A Canadian synonym of battered bun, 2 (p. 115): late C. 19-20.

wet dream.—2. Hence, a dull, stupid person:

Public Schools': late C. 19-20. '“He's a frightful wet; he's an absolute wet dream: he's so wet that he positively drips: oh him, he drips!” (Clifton, 1914, and I should think all schools since the beginning of time):' thus a valued correspondent.

wet fish, better than a slap in the belly with a. See better than a slap . . .

wet ha'porth. A person entirely insignificant or physically weedy: North Country: late C. 19-20.

wet list. See dry list above.

wet one. A loose breaking of wind: proletarian: late C. 19-20.

wet one's neck. See wet the neck (below).

wet one's props—one's tapes—one's third (tape). To celebrate promotion to Leading Aircraftman—Corporal—Sergeant—by buying drinks all round: R.A.F.: since ca. 1925. Sgt G. Emanuel, March 29, 1945. See wet, v., 2, on p. 945, and props and tapes.

wet one's stripes. Of N.C.O.s, to celebrate promotion: Army: since ca. 1910. (P-G-R.)

wet one's warrant. To celebrate one's promotion to the rank of warrant officer: Naval coll.: C. 19. (W. N. Glascock, Sailors and Saints, 1829, at II, 15.) The prototype of the other entries that, preceding this, exemplify the use of wet = to celebrate with a drink.

wet ship. 'A ship whose wardroom has a great drinking reputation,' Granville: Naval: C. 20.

wet shirt. A wetting: Naval: C. 20. Granville. Cf. Saltash luck (p. 724).

wet smack. A dull, ineffectual person, usu. male: low London: since ca. 1950. John Glog, Unlawful Justice, 1962.

wet-suit. A plastic suit for protection against cold: Australian surfers' coll.: since ca. 1961. (B.P.)

wet the baby's head. To celebrate a child's birth: since ca. 1870. (B., 1942.)

wet the (or one's) neck (p. 946). Also, merely to take a drink of liquor: Boxiana, IV, 1824 (. . . one's . . .).

wet trance, in a. Bemused; abstracted: low: late C. 19-20. Ex wet dream (p. 946).

wet week, look like a. To look miserable or wretched: coll.: C. 20. Obviously because a wet week tends to cause people to look miserable.

Wetherall (or -ell) in command, General. A military c.p. applied to inclement weather's preventing a parade: from ca. 1880; extremely ob. B. & L.

wetter, 2 (p. 946). Also Public Schools'; indeed, orig. and still so.

Weymouth splashers. 'Paddle-steamers running pleasure-trips from Weymouth to adjacent ports' (Granville): coll.: since ca. 1925.

whack, n.—9. A pickpocket: Anglo-Irish c.: C. 19. 'A Real Paddy', Life in London, 1822. Cf. strike, v., 1 (p. 839).—10. 'Food, sustenance:—"He gets 2s. 6d. a day and his whack"' (P. W. Joyce, English . . . in Ireland, 1910): Anglo-Irish: late C. 19-20. Perhaps ex—and certainly cf.—sense 3 on p. 946.

whack, out of. Not working properly; 'off colour': C. 20. 'His mind's out of whack'; 'Our wireless is out of whack'.

whack down. To put (e.g. money) down; to write (e.g. names) down, to note: coll.: C. 20.

whack the illy. To trick or swindle someone:

Australian c.: since ca. 1925. (B., 1943.) Is ill for silly?

whack up, v.—3. (Ex sense 3 of whack, v.: p. 946.) To increase the speed of (e.g. a ship): since ca. 1910. 'He heard... the skipper's voice... howling to somebody to "whack her up". The tug seemed to leap suddenly forward,' Manning Coles, The Fifth Man, 1946. Rather since late C. 19; cf. 'Moorshead suggested "whacking her up" to 15 knots'—in Their Lawful Occasions.

Whacker. Nickname bestowed on men sur-named Payne: esp. in the Navy: C. 20. Granville.

whacker.—2. A friend: since ca. 1940. One 'goes whacks'—shares—with him: cf. whack, n., 3 and v., 4 p. 946.—3. A Liverpudlian: since ca. 1945.

whacking, adj. (p. 946), occurs as early as 1806: John Davis, The Post-Captain. (Moe.)

whacko! Splendid! Good!: Australian: since ca. 1920. B., 1942. Hence, since ca. 1930, an ordinary adj., as in 'a whacko time'. (Cusack). Sarah Campion, 1940. By 1945, at latest, also English—popularized by Mr Jimmy Edwards.

whacko-the-diddle-o. (Of a girl) extremely attractive: Australian (esp. Sydney) youth's: since ca. 1938. Ruth Park, Poor Man's Grange, 1950. An elaboration of whacko!, perhaps aided by the refrain of some Irish or dial. song.—2. Indeed, 'an elaboration of whacko in all its senses' (B.P.): Australian: since ca. 1940.

whacky dates from the 1880's and is recorded by B. & L.

whale(-)belly. A type of coal car (= truck): Canadian railroadmen's (— 1931). Cavernous.

whaleinto. To attack, to punch, vigorously and spiritedly: Australian: C. 20. B., 1942. Perhaps ex (the idea behind) whale of a (p. 947).

whaler's delight is synonymous with Murrumbidgee jam. (B., 1943.)

wham, bang, thank you, madam! A c.p. applied to the rapidity of a rabbit's breeding activities: since mid-1940's: orig. Forces'. Slight adaptation of U.S. wham bam (thank you, madam) for rapid, unemotional copulation. (W. & F.)

whang, n.—2. A piece, portion, share: Australian low: since ca. 1918. B., 1942. Echoic: cf. whack, n., 3 (Dict.).—3. 4. See wang.

Whanger (p. 947): orig., Newfoundland s.; dating from ca. 1810 or earlier—it occurs in W. N. Glascock, The Naval Sketch-Book (I, 160, 164), 1825. Moe.

whank; loosely wank. V.i., to masturbate: low: late C. 19–20. Also whank off.

whank, spare. See spare...

whank-pit. A bed: R.A.F.: since ca. 1920. Ex whank (above) and cf. sense 2 of:

whanker (loosely wanker). A masturbator: low: late C. 19–20. Ex whank.—2. A bed: R.A.F.: since ca. 1925. Cf. whank-pit.

whanker's colic. An undiagnosed visceral pain: R.A.F.: since early 1920's.

whanker's doom. Debility: R.A.F.: since ca. 1925. It became, ca. 1945, fairly common, both in gen. low s. and esp. in prison s. (Paul Tempest, Lag's Lexicon, 1950.)

whanking(-)pit. The Army's form of whank-pit: since early 1920's. But used also by R.A.F. whanking-spanner. An imaginary tool like a 'sky-hook': low: C. 20. Ex whank, v.—2. The hand: low since ca. 1920.

wharfie (or -y). A docker: Australian: since ca. 1920. (Alan Marshall, Tell us about the Turkey, Jo, 1946; Elizabeth Lambert, The Sleeping House Party, 1951.) Ex 'wharf-labourer'.

what, as. As: coll. verging on sol.: mid-C. 19–20 (and perhaps from much earlier). E. C. Bentley & H. Warner Allen, Trent's Own Case, 1936, 'But that I did see, sir, as plain as what I see you now.'

what a face! See face, put on a.

what a funny little place to have one! A c.p. dating from ca. 1890; by 1960, slightly ob. The reference is to e.g., a mole or a pimple; often with suggestive undertones.

what a game (it is)! A humorously resigned c.p., referring to life's little ironies and not so little vicissitudes: since ca. 1910.

what a hope! See what hopes! in Dict.

what a life! (p. 947): often extended by the addition of without a wife.

what a long tail our cat's got! A c.p. addressed to—or at—someone boasting: Canadian, since ca. 1920. (Leechman.)

what a morgue! A variant, since ca. 1945, of what a dump!, itself current since ca. 1919. Cf. dump, n., 3, on p. 248.

what a shower! See shower!

what about it? If you're ready go ahead or let's get going: since ca. 1914. In Carrying On, 1917, Ian Hay numbers it among the 'current catch-phrases'.

what are you going to make of it? 'A c.p. inviting the hearer to fight' (B.P.): Australian: since late 1930's.

what can I do you for? A jocular c.p. variation of what can I do for you?: since ca. 1925.

what can we do you for? 'A c.p. forming a jocular inversion of what can we do for you? Often used by shopkeepers and other vendors' (B.P.): since ca. 1920.

what cheer! has been current in Yorkshire since ca. 1860: witness the E.D.D. 'The universal greeting of labourers and countrymen,' David Garnett in The New Statesman & Nation, Feb. 20, 1937. It is coll. It occurs very much earlier than I had supposed: James Isham uses it in Observations and Notes, 1743 (Hudson's Bay Record Society, XII, 54). Douglas Leechman. Also cf. watcher above.

what cheese is an occ. variant (ca. 1890–1910) of hard cheese (Dict.), as fromage was also.

what clock? See what watch?

what did Gladstone say in (date)? An electioneering c.p.: C. 20. No precise meaning.

what do I owe you? See do I owe...

what do you expect me to do—burst into flames? A c.p., deprecating excitement: R.A.F.: 1940 +. (Atkinson.) Ex aircraft bursting into flames.

what do you know?; what's the form? Army officers' greetings: coll. or c.p.: 1939 +. The former is also Australian, but not restricted to officers nor yet to servicemen. (B., 1943.) Hence, what do you know!, 'an exclamatory phrase of approval, mainly used ironically' (B., 1959): mostly Aus.: since ca. 1945.

what do you think of it? A c.p. of the 1880's and, less the -90's. An elaboration of what do you think (see the Dict.). The reply was I quite agree with you.

what do you think that is? (or what's that?)— for (or Scotch mist)? See Scotch mist. Jackson records the form what's that—fog?; Partridge, 1945, the double longer.

what does a mouse do when it spins? what was the name of the engine-driver? See 'Cockney catch-phrases...'

what does that make me? A c.p., expression of disinterest or of refusal to participate or to be implicated: since ca. 1937. (Atkinson.)

what-d'yer-call-it; whatcher-call-it. A 'thingummy': coll. and semi-literate coll.: late C. 19–20.

what gives? What's happening?: c.p.: since ca. 1945. Via U.S. ex German was gibt's?

what gives out? What is happening?: R.A.F. in North Italy: 1945.

what is that when it's at home?; who is he (or she) when he (or she) is at home? I've never heard of it, him, her!: c.p. of C. 20. Pugh. See also when it's at home in Dict.

what is there in it for me? What do I get out of it?: c.p.: late C. 19–20.

what it takes. Esp., courage, fortitude, perseverance; ability; (in Australia) money: coll., adopted ca. 1935 from U.S. B., 1942. Lit., what the situation requires.

what makes (someone) tick. (His) chief interest in life, his driving-force: since ca. 1930. 'I've never discovered what makes him tick.' Ex watches and clocks.

what odds? is the usual post-1920 form of coll. (late C. 19–20) what's the odds?, what difference does it make?

what say? What do you think?; what do you say to the idea, plan, what not?: Cockney c.p.: from ca. 1880. W. Pett Ridge, Minor Dialogues, 1895; Edwin Pugh, Harry the Cockney, 1912.

what say you? The gen. form of the preceding: c.p.: late C. 19–20; by ca. 1940, slightly ob.; by 1967, very ob.

what-shall-call-'um. A light woman: euphemistic coll.: ca. 1800–70. Scott; Redgauntlet, 1824.

what shall we do, or go fishing? (p. 948) is also Australian: B., 1943, 'A rather pointless elaboration of... "What shall we do?"' what the fucking hell! A very common lower-class expletive: mid-C. 19–20.

what the Llanfairfechan hell! A euphemism for 'what the effing hell!': since the 1920's.

what watch?; occ., what clock? What's the time?: Australian (rare, says B.P.): since ca. 1950. Cf. the German wieviel Uhr?

what would you do, chums? A c.p. dating since ca. 1938. Syd Walker, 'The Philosophic Dustman', with these words propounded various droll problems in the B.B.C. radio-programme entitled 'Band Wagon'. Syd Walker died of appendicitis during the 1939–45 war. (E. P. in The Radio Times, Dec. 6, 1946.)

what you say goes—all over the town. A c.p. addressed to gossips and rumour-mongers: since late 1940's. (A. B. Petch, April 1966.)

whatcher-call-it. See what-d'yer-call-it above.

what(d)jer. What do you?; what did you?: low coll.: mid-C. 19–20.

what's all this in aid of? The usual post-1945 form of what's this in aid of?, q.v. at aid of?... (above).

what's cooking? What is happening?: Services (esp. R.A.F.): since mid-1940. Jackson, 1943; Partridge, 1945, 'From "What is that smell —what's cooking?": asked so very often by so many husbands'. Adopted from U.S. In 1942–6, often amplified to what's cooking, good looking?

what's it in aid of? What's the reason, the purpose of it all—of this, etc.?: coll.: since ca. 1925, esp. in the Services. Jackson. In what respect, or way, does it help?

what's new? What's the news?: Army coll.: 1939 +. (P-G-R.)

what's(-)o'clock. A wattle bird: Australian: C. 20. B., 1942.

what's on your mind? What is your difficulty, or what is the query?: coll. c.p.: since ca. 1930. Ex the S.E. sense, 'What's worrying or pre-occupying, you?'

what's that—fog? See what do you... (above).

what's the drill? How do you do it?—What are the arrangements?—What's the 'form'?: Services (orig., Army): since ca. 1920; but general only since 1939. See drill, the.

what's the form? See what do you know?

what's the score? What sort of weather is it?: R.A.F. pilots': 1939 +. Ex sport.—2. Hence, what is the latest 'gen' (information): Air Force: 1941 +.

what's the strong of it? What is the truth? the gist of it?: Australian: since ca. 1910. Baker.

what's the time? A juvenile c.p., dating from the 1880's (but by 1940 rather ob.) and directed, from cover, at a man whose feet are wide-spread as he walks. The posture is variously described as ten to two (o'clock), (a) quarter to three and (a) quarter to one, this last being in the Dict. and requiring to be dated back to ca. 1885.

what's this blown in? Whom have we here?: contemptuous c.p.: from ca. 1905. W. L. George, The Making of an Englishman, 1914.

what's this—bush week? A jocular Australian c.p., directed at men making a noise and fuss: since ca. 1930. (B., 1943.) Also what do you think this is? bush week? An entirely imaginary week: see, esp., B., Australia Speaks, 1953. The commonest form of this c.p. is What do you think this is—Bush Week or Christmas? (B.P., 1963.)

what's this in aid of? See what's it in aid of?

what's up? What is the matter? What's wrong?: coll.: late (? mid) C. 19–20. A c.p. rejoinder is 'The sky'—or, now and then, 'Prices'. (A. B. Petch, March 1966.)

whatsie. A shortened form of whatsiname (p. 949): Australian: since ca. 1950. (B.P.)

wheat belt. A prostitute: Australian: since ca. 1920. B., 1942. With an erotic pun on harvesting.

wheel, n.—3. A motor car: since ca. 1959. Nicholas Blake, The Sad Variety, 1964, "'The Leake character gave us a ride in his wheel.'"—4. Someone important, esp. in an enterprise, whether licit or illicit: Canadian: adopted, in late 1940's, ex U.S. Daily Colonist (April 16, 1967), 'Poor old Robin Hood may have been a wheel in Sherwood Forest, but he would have had to call it quits [nowadays]'—'because,' as Dr Leechman remarks, 'of the cost of modern first-rate archery tackle'.

wheel him in! Show him in: c.p.: since late 1950's.

wheel it on! Bring it on, or in; let's have it: originally (ca. 1939) R.A.F.; by 1950, fairly general. In reference to aircraft.

wheel up. To bring (someone) before the Officer Commanding: Army: since ca. 1935. (P-G-R.) wheelbarrow. 'A bullock waggon laden with supplies for convicts working in the bush or country.' B., 1942: Australian: ca. 1820-70.

wheelbarrows is a coll. synonym of travelling piquet (p. 907): mid-C. 19-20.

wheeler.—3. A landing on the front wheel: R.A.F.: since ca. 1938. (P-G-R.)

wheels, your tongue runs on. See tongue is well hung (Dict.).

wheels down! Get ready; esp., ready to leave train, tram, bus: R.A.F.: since ca. 1937. H. & P. 'Taken from the lowering of the undercarriage . . . necessary to enable a modern 'plane to make a good landing.'

wheels up, land. To slip, lit. or fig.: R.A.F.: since ca. 1941. (Wheels unlowered.) wheeze, n., 1 (p. 949). The nuance, 'a circus clown's joke': Nov. 16, 1861, All the Year Round.

wheeze, v., dates from ca. 1880; it is in B. & L.

wheeze, crack one's. To speak one's patter: circus clowns': mid-C. 19-20. Source as for wheeze n., 1.

when coppers wore high hats. A long while ago: Cockney coll.: C. 20; ob. I.e. policemen.

when do we laugh? See joke over!

when do you shine? What time have you been called for?: Canadian railroadmen's (— 1931).

when donkeys wore high hats. A long time ago: Londoners': since ca. 1920. Cf. when coppers . . . above.

when I come into my Yorkshire estates. See Yorkshire estate (Dict.).

when I joined the R.A.F. . . . See 'way back when . . .

when my wife is here, she's my right hand; when my wife is away, my right hand is my wife. A c.p. applied to masturbation: C. 20.

when Pontius was a pilot (and Nero was his navigator). A long time ago: R.A.F.: since ca. 1935. Cf. 'way back when . . .

when roses are red (significant pause). An elliptical c.p., meaning that when girls attain the age of sixteen, they are no longer too young for sexual intercourse: mostly Australian: since ca. 1925. Ex the—in Australia—very widely known couplet:

When roses are red, they are ready to pluck;

When girls are sixteen, they are ready to fuck.

Cf. the C. 20 c.p. familiar to English-speakers all over the world: if they are big enough, they are old enough.

when (name of person) suffers, everybody suffers. 'A c.p. used when a person with a cold, etc., makes everyone else miserable' (B.P.): Australian c.p.: since ca. 1930.

when you dance in France, the last drop always goes down your pants. A low Australian c.p., dating from ca. 1955 and having three 'operative words' pronounced dahnce—Frahnce—pahnnts in derision of those who say dahnce and Frahnce, regarded by most Australians as affected, even though they say bahstard and cahstrated. (B.P.) 'An American (U.S.) artist gave me this version ca. 1925: "No matter how much you may wiggle and dance/The last drop invariably falls in your pants." There was nothing of the long "a" in his version.' (Dr Douglas Leechman, April 1967.)

when you were wearing short (or, intensively, three-cornered) pants. When you were still a boy

(or a baby): Australian c.p.: since ca. 1920. (B.P.) Ex the before you came up group on p. 44.

when you're on a good thing, stick to it! A self-explanatory c.p., dating from ca. 1920. That is the sole form in the British Dominions; in Britain itself, on to or onto is much commoner than on.

when (or while) you're talking about me, you're giving somebody else a rest. A c.p. (— 1949), implying slander: mostly Canadian.

when(d)jer. When do you?; when did you?: low coll.: mid-C. 19-20. Cf. whatdjer and wheredjer.

where do flies go in the winter time? A c.p. of ea. 1910-30. Ex a popular song.

where do you think you are—on Daddy's yacht? A c.p. reproof to a sailor complaining about conditions or discipline, or both, aboard ship: Naval: since ca. 1946.

where I (or we) came, in this is; or which is where we came in. We've gone full circle; I'm beginning to repeat myself; I, or we, have heard or seen this before: c.p.: dating since ca. 1953, but not very general before 1956. Ex cinemagoers realising that a film has reached this point.

where (or out where) the bull feeds (or gets his bleeding, or bloody, breakfast). In the outback—remote country districts: Australian c.p.: C. 20. B., 1942 where the deception took place. A c.p., applied to courtship and marriage: C. 20. A jocular reference to ' . . . where the reception took place'. (A. B. Petch, May 1966.)

where the dirty work's done. 'Office, workshop or room where any work or business is carried on. Mostly used jocularly,' Albert B. Petch, Dec. 18, 1946: coll.: since ca. 1919.

where the monkey shoves (occ. puts) its nuts!, you can shove (occ. put) it or them. A c.p. retort to one who refuses to give a share or hand over something: low: late C. 19-20. Cf. stick it!, 2.

Also in the past tense (where the monkey put the nuts). James Joyce, Ulysses, 1922, has the variant where Jacko put the nuts.

where the sergeant put the pudding!, put it. 'You know what you can do with it': low c.p.: late C. 19-20.

whereabouts. Men's underpants: Australian: since ca. 1920. B., 1942. A pun on wearabouts.

where(d)jer. Where do you?; where did you?: low coll.: mid-C. 19-20. Cf. whatdjer.

where's the fire? Jocular c.p. (C. 20) to a person in a tearing hurry.

where's your violin? An Australian c.p., implying that a haircut is needed: since late 1940's. (B.P.) Ex tradition that male musicians wear their hair long.

wherry-go-nimble (p. 950). Not 'senseless', for wherry is—or was—a Cockneyism for 'very'.

which way one is playing, not to know; to ask which . . . Not to know, to ask about, the accepted procedure or the agreed arrangements: mostly Services': since ca. 1935. Ex 'soccer'?

which would you rather—or go fishing? See, above, or would you rather be a fish? and cf. next entry.

which would you rather be—or a wasp? London schoolchildren's c.p. of ca. 1905-14. Julian Franklyn compares or would you rather be a fish? (above) and adds, 'So far as I remember, there was no standard reply.'

whid (a word: see Dict.) prob. derives ex. O.E. cwide, a word, though influenced by word itself. Cf. the debased American woid, which orig. represented a Jewish pronunciation. Scholarly opinion has, since ca. 1945, strongly opposed the Jewish origination of woid. (Robin Clairborne, Aug. 31, 1966.)

whiff. A signal from a ship in convoy to the commodore: Naval: 1832, Fredk Chamier, The Life of a Sailor, at II, 51. (Moe.)—2. (A whiff of) oxygen: R.A.F. coll.: since ca. 1935. Jackson.

whiff. (A whiff of) oxygen: R.A.F. coll.: since ca. 1935. Jackson.

whiff out. To cause (e.g. a room) to stink: mostly Aus.: since ca. 1920. (Ross Campbell, 1964.) whiffled. Tipsy: since ca. 1930. Origin?

whim-wham for a goose, making a. See weaving leather aprons (Dict.).

whingding. See 'Canadian'.

whinge, whinger, whinging. See winge.

whingey (inferior -gy). See wingey.

whiny. Given to whining: New Zealand coll.: late C. 19–20. (Ruth Park, The Witch's Thorn, 1952.)

whip, n.—4. Rum, the drink: Aus.: since ca. 1920. Nino Culotta, Gone Fishin', 1963.

whip, v.—4. (Ex sense 3: p. 951.) To steal: since ca. 1917. Gerald Kersh, Slightly Oiled, 1946.

whip (someone) a cripple, as in 'The C.O.'ll whip him a cripple all right', pass a heavy sentence on: Army: since ca. 1930. Proleptic. (P-G-R.)

whip the cat.—8. To cry over spilt milk: Australian: since ca. 1910. (B., Australia Speaks, 1953.)

whip up a smart one. To salute smartly; merely to salute: mostly R.A.F.: since ca. 1925. (Atkinson.)

whip with a wet boot-lace. To apply an antidote to recalcitrance of the flesh: men's low: C. 20.

whipperginnie, or whip her Ginny or whip-her-ginny. Term of abuse for a woman: late C. 16–early 17. (O.E.D.) One who merits 'whip her, Jinny!'

whippy. In the game of hide-and-seek, the starting-out point: Australian, esp. children's: late C. 19–20. Origin?

whips (p. 952): recorded earlier in Alex. Macdonald, In the Land of Pearl and Gold, 1907, "'There is good feed an' whips of water up that way.'" whipster. 'A sly, cunning fellow' (B. & L.): c.: C. 19–early 20. A deviation ex † S.E. whipster, a mischievous fellow.

whirl, give it a. To 'have a go'. Canadian and English: C. 20. Cf. the synonymous Australian give it a burl, q.v. at burl above.

whirl!, have a. An insulting c.p. = have a banana (p. 30) or take a carrot (p. 129): Australian: since late 1940's. Here, whirl refers to a whirling-spray. (B.P.)

Whirligig. A Whirlwind fighter aircraft: R.A.F.: since 1941. H. & P. By affectionate depreciation.

whirling spray. A Wirraway aircraft: Australian airmen's: ca. 1940–5. (B., 1943.) By the process of Hobson-Jobson; also cf. the next entry.—2. A long-winded bore: Australian: since ca. 1940. (B., Australia Speaks, 1953.)

A fanciful elaboration of the idea informing drip, 3.

whirly-bird or whirlybird. A helicopter: Canadian (Air Force, and commercial air-lines): since ca. 1950. (Leechman.) By the late 1950's, also British, esp. in R.A.F.—2. A 'Matisa tamping machine' (Railway, 3rd): railwaymen's: since late 1950's.

whisker.—2. A girl or young woman: Australian: since ca. 1921. B., 1942. Antiphrastically, but also because 'she's the cat's whiskers'.

whiskers down to here, have. Usually 'He has...': a low c.p.: C. 20. Simultaneous with the utterance of here is the placing of the hand upon trousers flap.

whisk(ey). The Yellow-Tufted Honey-Eater bird: Australian rural: C. 20. (B., 1943.)

whisk(ey) drinker. 'A type of cicada' (B., 1959): Aus., mostly rural: C. 20.

whisk(ey) MacDonald. A whiskey and ginger-wine: mostly Scottish: since ca. 1920. 'And by the 1960's, almost invariably abbreviated to whisk(ey) Mac' (Ramsey Spencer, Aug. 1967).

whiskey racket, the. The offer of printing machinery (and accessories) without the production of bona fides: printers': 1945 +. World's Press News, Jan. 10, 1946. So often made over a whisky offered by a crook.

whisper, get it on the. See get it... above.

whisperer.—2. A racing tipster: Australian race-courses': C. 20. B., 1942.

whispering death. See killer above.

whispering gill. A variant of whisper sly-slinger (Dict.).

whispering death. See killer above.

whisticaster, a variant of whister-clister (p. 952), occurs in The Night Watch (II, 338), 1828. Moe.

whistle, n.—4. Penis, esp. a child's: domestic: late C. 19–20.

whistle. 'To hurry away, to scam' (Jackson): R.A.F.: 1940 +. Ex the speed of the going.

whistle and toot. Money, esp. cash: rhyming s. (on loot): C. 20. Usually shortened to toot—see toot, n., 4, above. (Franklyn 2nd.)

whistle-punk. That boy who conveys signals from loggers to donkey-engineer: Canadian lumbermen's: since ca. 1920.

whistle-stop. A very small town: Canadian coll. (ex U.S.): since ca. 1925.

whistle up. To send for (esp. reinforcements) in a hurry: Army coll.: since ca. 1925. (P-G-R.)

whistlecocks. Aborigines: Australian: since ca. 1880. B., 1942.

whistled. Tipsy: upper classes': since ca. 1920; then Services (esp. R.A.F.) since ca. 1925. G. March-Phillipps, Ace High, 1938; Jackson. Cf. whistle-drunk (p. 953): perhaps ex the cheerful whistling that is characteristic of the drunk.

whistler.—7. 'A high-explosive bomb as it descends': civilian (1940) and Services (1939). H. & P. Cf. screamer, 6.—8. As in the following quotation from The Weekly Telegraph, Feb. 28, 1942: 'The war has brought into being many nicknames, which often mystify the uninitiated. Thus, women railway porters are known as "whistlers", female bus conductors as "Annie Lauries", women van drivers as "Gerties", girl munition workers as "Spitfire kittens", female "milk-roundsmen" as "dairy dots", women window-cleaners as "climbing Marys" and women fire-watchers as "pouncers", while land-girls are known as "dainty diggers" and women employed in the building trade as "kilted brickies".

whistling Toms. 'Well, there was your whistlin' Toms—your twenty-four and forty-two pounders—flyin' athwart your folksel and crossin' your poop on opposite tacks' (W. N. Glascock, Sketch-Book, 2nd Series, 1834, at II, 175): Naval: late C. 18—early 19. Cf. long-winded whistler on p. 493. (Moe.)

Whit.—3. Whitsuntide: coll.: late C. 19–20. In, e.g., The North Wales Pioneer, May 19, 1939.

white, n.—4. A white waistcoat: coll.: since ca. 1860. Sessions, Sept. 1871.—5. A £5 note: low sporting: William Hickey in Daily Express, March 20, 1946. Ex the white paper.

white-ant, v. To sabotage; to undermine: Australian Labour: since ca. 1920. Hence, white-anter, a saboteur, and white-anting, sabotage. B., 1942. White ants are wood-destructive.

white ants, have the. To be exceedingly silly, or insane: Australian: C. 20. B., 1942, 'Also "in one's attic".'

white ants in the billy (, have). (To be) crazy: N.T., Australia: since ca. 1920. Ernestine Hill, The Territory, 1951. (The billycan.) Applied originally to men gone crazy or, at the least, eccentric through isolation. Also get the white ants, as in H. Drake Brockman, Men Without Wives, 1938, "Get the white ants"? What do you mean?—Go ratty. Mad. Get our senses eaten away till only a shell is left.'

white-bearded boys, the. 'People who establish unintelligible principles and prove them, like the ballisticians of Woolwich,' H. & P.: Services (mostly Army): since ca. 1938. Cf. really clever boys, the.

white blackboard. An instructional film: school-teachers': since ca. 1930.

white blow. Semen: literary or cultured: C. 20.

white bottle. A bottle of medicine coloured white: coll. among female surgery-habituées: late C. 19–20.

white boy. A C. 17 term of endearment-reference: coll. Cf. white-haired boy in Dict.

White City, the. The military hospital at Helles (Gallipoli): 1915.

white face. Gin (the liquor): Australian: ca. 1820–80. J. W., Perils, Pastimes and Pleasures, 1849.

white feather, show the.—2. See feather, show the white, on p. 269 and in Addenda.

white fustian. See fustian (Dict.).

white-haired boy (p. 954) is common also in C. 20, Canada.

white hope. A heavy German shell, esp. the 5.9: soldiers': 1915–18. (Vernon Bartlett, No Man's Land, 1930.) Prompted by Jack Johnson (p. 430).

white it out. To serve a prison sentence: Australian c.: C. 20. B., 1942.

white jenny (Dict.) occurs in B. & L.

white lady. Methylated spirits drunk as an intoxicant: Australian: since ca. 1920. (B., 1953.)

White Maori. Tungstate of lime: New Zealand miners': since ca. 1875. B., 1941. Ex appearance.

white mice. Lice: low Australian rhyming s.: C. 20. (K. S. Prichard, 'Kiss on the Lips'—a story in Kiss on the Lips, 1932.)—2. Dice: English spivs': since late 1940's. Picture Post, Jan. 2, 1954.

white money. Silver money: low: C. 20. Stanley Jackson, An Indiscreet Guide to Soho, 1946. Cf. whites (Dict.).

White Paper candidate. A candidate for a temporary commission in the R.N.V.R.: Naval: 1940+. Granville.

white rabbits! or simply rabbits! A South of England greeting on the first day of every month: late (? mid- or even earlier) C. 19–20. 'Good luck!' In Southern folklore, however, it is 'a strictly female invocation to the new month, and must be uttered on the 1st of the month before speaking to anyone else. . . . Also a feminine incantation on first seeing the new moon, regardless of date; apparently with sexual implications' (Ramsey Spencer, March 1967).

white rat. 'A sycophant; a tale-bearer': Naval: since ca. 1925. Granville. Cf. the c. use of rat, esp. for 'informant'.

white sheep. A c. term dating from ca. 1880. Clarence Rook, The Hooligan Nights, 1899, 'The young man who walks out with [the servant], and takes a sympathetic interest in her employer's affairs, rarely takes a hand in the actual [burglary]. He is known as a "black cap" or a "white sheep" and is usually looked upon as useful in his way, but a bit too soft for the hard grind of the business.'

whitewash, v.—2. To coït with (a woman): C. 20.—3. To beat (an opponent) before he has scored an opening double: darts players': since ca. 1930.

whither or no, Tom Collins, 'is a phrase among sailors, signifying, whether you will or not' (W. N. Glascock, Sailors and Saints, 1829, at II, 7). A variant—perhaps rather the original—is Tom Collins, whether or no, occurring in Alfred Burton, Johnny Newcome, 1818. (Moe.)

whizz, n. See whiz, 2, in Dict.—3. Energy, 'go': Australian: since ca. 1910. (Dal Stevens, Jimmy Brockett, 1951.)

whizz-bang.—3. 'A Fighter on the tail of an enemy aircraft,' H. & P.: R.A.F.: 1939+.—4. R.A.F.: 1940–5. (P-G-R.)

Whizzbang. Major-General Sir F. de Guinand, on Montgomery's staff, is known to his soldiers as "Whizzbang", Daily Express, July 6, 1944.

whizzer. See whizz-man (Dict.).—2. See fan, n., 5.—3. See put on the rattle.—4. Anything superlative, whether good or bad: since ca. 1945. Elleston Trevor, Gale Force, 1956, "Rather windy."—"I'll bet it's a real whizzer on deck."

whizzo, ess. as exclamation. Splendid: mostly children's: since ca. 1944. Ex the adj. wizard. (Nicholas Blake, The Whisper in the Gloom, 1954.)

whizzuck; usually in pl. 'Whizzucks. Grem-lins which live on the outskirts of enemy aerodromes,' H. & P., 1943. Echoic. See gremlin.

'who are you shoving (or pushing)?' said the elephant to the flea. A jocular c.p., uttered by a big—or, at the least, a noticeably bigger—man jostled, or knocked into, by a small man: since ca. 1920. (A. B. Petch.)

who boiled the bell? and who hanged—or hung—the monkey? On the Clyde these are derisive C. 20 c.pp. (Peter Sanders.)

who do you think? See think?, what do you: in Dict.

who(-)done-it; usually whodunit. A murder story; a detective novel; a murder-story cartoon: coll.: adopted in 1942 from U.S. where current since ca. 1934. The Writer, Jan. 1944. Ex the gaping curiosity and inquiries of the illiterate.

who hung the monkey. A derisive c.p., mainly North Country: C. 20. Ex a Hartlepool incident.

who is 'She'? a cat's mother? is a variant of 'She' is a cat's mother.

who kicked your kennel (or pig-sty)? Mind your own business: lower-middle class: since ca. 1910.

who let you out? 'When a person shows himself very cute and clever another says to him "Who let you out?"—an ironical expression of fun: as much as to say that he must have been confined in an asylum as a confirmed fool' (P. W. Joyce, English . . . in Ireland, 1910): Anglo-Irish c.p.: late C. 19–20. Occasionally heard elsewhere; by 1940, slightly—by 1960, very—old-fashioned.

who robbed the barber? See he's a poet.

who stole the monkey? See monkey, who stole the (Dict. and Addenda).

whoa, anchors! See anchors! above.

whole —, the. All the —; e.g. 'the whole three of them': incorrect coll.: mid-C. 19–20.

whole box and dice, the. The whole lot, everything; (of persons) all: Aus.: since ca. 1930. Mary Durack, Keep Him My Country, 1955, 'The boys tossed it in . . . and the whole box and dice clears out to Jericho.'

whole caboose, the. The whole lot; everyone and everything: Australian: since ca. 1930. (B., 1943.) Perhaps ex:

whole kit and caboodle, the. The lot; everything: Canadian: adopted, ca. 1920, ex U.S. (Leechman.)

whole pile, go the. 'To put all one's money on a solitary chance': gamesters', anglicised ca. 1885 ex U.S. B. & L.

whole shebang, the. See shebang on p. 752.

who'll sell his farm and go to sea? A Naval officers' c.p. either directed at or alluding to someone who is feeling liverish: since ca. 1910. (P-G-R.) But more commonly who'd sell . . ., for 'the implication is regret rather than proposition' (Ramsey Spencer).

whoosh. To move rapidly, emitting a dull, usually soft, always sibilant sound; eligible only when used fig.; coll.: since ca. 1920. 'He whooshed through the house without even saying goodbye.' Ex the lit., echoic S.E. sense, as in 'Miserable passengers huddled back against the wall while passing vehicles "whooshed" through the inches-deep roadway puddles' (The Sydney Morning Herald, Aug. 30, 1963—with thanks to B.P.). The lit. sense is admitted by Webster's International without comment; in British—esp. Scottish—dialect, it has long been common as an interjection expressive of a dull, rushing, hissing sound, as noted by the E.D.D.

whopcacker or wopcacker. Anything astounding, notable, excellent; hence as an adj.: Australian: since ca. 1925. B., 1942. With whop-, cf. stunning (p. 843).

whopping, n. (p. 956) occurs in, e.g., W. N. Glascock, Sailors and Saints, 1829, at II, 132. Moe.

whore.—3. A semi-affectionate term (cf. bastard) for a man: Anglo-Irish: C. 20. Desmond O'Neill, Life Has No Price, 1959, 'Brian was one of the best—the cute whore.'

whore-shop. A brothel: coll.: C. 19–20.—2. Hence, a house or flat where behaviour is dissolute: C. 20.

Whores' Canteen, the. A certain Plymouth public-house frequented by soldiers, sailors, and prostitutes: from the 1880's. Richards.

Whore's Gazette—Red Light News—Piccadilly Part Two Orders—Screws of the World. National Servicemen's names, all in common use, for a famous newspaper: since ca. 1947. The 1st and the 2nd were common in the Services in 1939–45, and presumably date from much earlier. Affectionate, not (except very rarely) derogatory.

whore's get.—2. A white-slaver: c., and low: C. 20. Gen hoorsget.

whore's musk. Scented cosmetics; esp., their odour when advertising the presence of women: military coll.: C. 20.

whore's robber. See messer.

who's hoisting my pennants? Who's talking about me?: Naval (lower-deck) c.p.: C. 20. P-G-R.

who's milking this cat? An Aus. variant, recorded by B., 1959, and dating from late 1940's, of:—

who's robbing this coach? Mind your own business!: Australian c.p.: since ca. 1880. B., 1942. In humorous allusion to bushranging. Hence 'Let me get on with the job!': a jocular Australian c.p., dating since ca. 1890. (B.P.)

'The anecdote from which this phrase derives: The train robbers were robbing the passengers and threatening to rape the women. An altruistic passenger cries, "Spare the women!" An elderly lady turns on him, exclaiming, "Who's robbing this train anyway?"' (Leechman, April 1967.) Therefore of American & Canadian origin.

who's smoking cabbage leaves? A c.p. to a person smoking a cigar, esp. if rank: mostly Londoners': late C. 19–20. Cf. cabbage, 4, in Dict.

whosermymbob or whosermyjig. 'Whatsit' or 'thingummy(bob)' or 'whatsiname': Australian: since ca. 1930. (B.P.)

why buy a book when you can join a library? (2) you don't have to buy a cow merely because you are fond of—or like or need—milk. These male c.p.p. jeers at marriage are (1) Australian, since ca. 1920, and (2) general, late C. 19–20. In the 2nd, Australians say just, not merely, and prefer the interrogative if you like milk, why buy a cow or why buy a cow just because you like milk? (B.P.)

why curls leave home. A c.p., referring to baldness: since ca. 1950. A pun on why girls leave home, which, by the way, has, since ca. 1910, been a c.p. derisive of a good-looking 'ladies' man'. (Petch.)

why keep a dog and bark yourself (or . . . do your own barking?)? A self-explanatory c.p.: C. 20.

whyfor (erroneously -fore)? Why: Australian: C. 20. (B.P.) Cf. for why, which, however, means 'because'.

Wi-Wi (p. 956). Earlier in R. G. Jameson, 1842. (B., 1941.)

wick, dip one's. See dip one's wick.

wick, get on (a person's). To annoy; to get on someone's nerves: low, Cockney and Naval: C. 20. Wick = Hampton Wick (Dict.). Cf. 'give (one) a pain in the belly' (U.S.: 'to gripe').

wicked.—2. Hence, expensive: not upper-class: late C. 19–20. Robert Eton, The Bus Leaves for the Village, 1936. Esp. 'a wicked price'.

wicked enemy, the. The Germans; esp. German aircraft (sing. or plural): ca. Sept.-Dec. 1940. Hector Bolitho in The English Digest, Feb. 1941, 'Fashionable for a time.' Ex the Press.

wicked lady, the. The cat-o'-nine tails: London's East End: since ca. 1945. (Richard Herd, Nov. 12, 1957.) wicked sod. A liar: proletarian: C. 20.

Wid; usually in pl. Wids. A member of the Women's Division of the R.C.A.F.: Canadian airmen's: 1942-5.

widdle. To make water: children's: C. 20. Ex wee-wee + piddle.

wide, n., is elliptical for wide boy: since ca. 1940.

wide, adv. Outside the harbour: Sydney anglers': since ca. 1930. 'Have you been fishing wide?' (B.P.) wide, go. To spend money freely: military: ca. 1860-1905. Robert Blatchford, My Life in the Army, 1910. I.e. to spread oneself.

wide boy. A man living by his wits: C. 20: c. > by 1935, s. See wide, 2 (p. 957).

wider the brim, the fewer the acres, the. An Australian c.p., corresponding to lunatic hat (above), but implying a lack of intelligence: since ca. 1935. (B.P.)

widgie (or -gy). 'Girl with horse-tail hair-do and bobby-socks, also playing juke-box in milk-bar' (The Sunday Chronicle, Jan. 6, 1952): Australian: ca. 1950-60. Cf. bodgie. Ex wigeon below.—2. Esp. have (got) a widgy on, to be in a bad temper: Naval: since ca. 1950. (Laurie Atkinson records it for April 1961.)

wido, n. A hooligan: Glasgow c. and low s. late C. 19-20. MacArthur & Long. Prob. ex the adj. wido (in Dict.).

widow.—7. A single word in the top line of a page: printers': late C. 19-20. Printers think it unsightly.

widows and orphans. A railwaymen's c.p., applied to the suicidal practice of walking along a railway line with one's back to the approaching traffic: C. 20. (Railway.)

wids, adj. (p. 957). Extant, esp. in London. Robert Greenwood, The Squad Goes Out, 1943.

wife.—2. A pimp's favourite harlot-mistress: white-slavers' c.: late C. 19-20. A. Londres, The Road to Buenos Ayres, 1928.—3. Fiancée; one's girl; one's mistress: Services (esp. R.A.F.): since ca. 1930. Partridge, 1945. Cf. bride.—4. The passive member of a homosexual partnership: homosexuals': late C. 19-20. Complement: husband. (Anon., Lavender Lexicon, 1965.)

wife-in-law. A girl belonging to a 'stable' of prostitutes: the world of prostitution: since ca. 1920. (John Gosling & Douglas Warner, The Shame of a City, 1960.) An extension of wife, 2, above.

wife-preserver. A rolling pin: jocular: C. 20. (Petch.) A pun on S.E. life-preserver.

wig, n.—4. A scene, an act; such playing as will render the audience ecstatic: Canadian jazz-lovers' and musicians': since ca. 1956. (The Victoria Daily Colonist; April 16, 1959, 'Basic Beatnik'.) Cf. the U.S. jazzmen's flip one's wig (later flip), to approve ecstatically (Norman D. Hinton in The American Dialect Society, Nov. 1958).

wig, v., 1 (p. 957): slightly earlier in George R. Gleig, The Subaltern's Log-Book (II, 31), 1828, 'You rise often in a hurry, fearing that you may be too late for parade, and get "wigged" by the Major for not coming in time to inspect your company on the private parade'. (Moe.)—3. (V.i.) 'To post a scout on the route of flight in a pigeon race with a hen pigeon, to attract the opponent's bird and retard his progress': pigeon-fanciers': from ca. 1860. James Greenwood.

wig-block (p. 957). Much earlier, prob.—as pugilistic s.—since ca. 1840. In, e.g., Augustus Mayhew, Paved With Gold, 1857.

Wigan. Derisive reference is made also to Wigan Pier: a fact alluded to in a book by George Orwell, 1937.

wigeon. An endearment for a little girl or a female teenager or a young woman: Australian: since ca. 1946. This—the source of widgie above—derives ex S.E. pigeon (used occ. as endearment) + piggy-wiggy (see piggy-wig on p. 628), as B.P. informs me.

wigga-wagga. A flexible walking-cane: ca. 1895-1912. Ex wiggle-waggle.—2. Hence, penis: low: C. 20; slightly ob. Perhaps influenced by an early C. 20 popular song, 'With my little wigga-wagga in my hand', the protagonist being represented as walking down the Strand: cf. Harry Randall's gag, 'There is such a thing as love at first sight, but, young man, if you meet it in the Strand, walk on!'

wigging.—2. See wig, v., 3 (Addenda).—3. Short for earwigging: see earwig.

wigster. See wigsby (Dict.).

wikkel. See dim-liggies (more fully in Underworld).

Wilcannia shower. See shower, 5, above.

wilco. See roger! above.

wild cat.—3. In the petroleum industry, since ca. 1910, thus, 'Indications are sought of [geological] structures which might act as oil traps, and the most promising of these are tested by the drilling of deep wells, known in the industry as "wild cats"', Colonial Report No. 1930, State of Borneo, 1938 (pub. in 1940).—4. Elliptical for wild-cat strike, an unofficial strike: industrial coll.: since ca. 1959. Perhaps ex sense 2 on p. 958.

wild-dog, v.i. To hunt dingoes: Australian coll.: late C. 19-20. Archer Russell, A Tramp-Royal in Wild Australia, 1934. Often shortened to dog: Russell, op. cit.

Wild Irishman, the.—2. The tumatakuru (a New Zealand plant): New Zealand coll.: late C. 19-20. B., 1941.

Wilderness, the. See Woods, 2 (below).

wilderness, be in the. To be in need of 99 points: darts players': since ca. 1930. Also the adj. cracked and split.

wilds, the. Esp. in give (someone) the wilds, to make angry, to depress: Australian: ca. 1860-1920. 'Tom Collins', Such Is Life, 1903. Cf. willies (Dict.).

Wilfred. A teetotaller: mostly proletarian: ca. 1865-1910. B. & L.: 'This reference to Sir Wilfred Lawson [1829-1906], M.P., the great teetotal champion.'

Wilfred Pickles, do a. To 'have a go': ca. 1947-60. An allusion to the famous radio star's most famous programme.

Wilkie is a City nickname for men surnamed Collins: late C. 19-20. Ex Wilkie Collins the novelist (1824-89). See also Lottie (Dict.).

Wilkie Bard. Also, in racecourse rhyming s., a race card: C. 20. (Mr Clive Graham—'The Scout'—via Julian Franklyn.)

will, making a. See making one's will above. will I buggery!—or fuck!—or hell! See fuck, like.

will you shoot? Will you pay for the drinks?: Australian hotel bars': since ca. 1920. B., 1942. A pun on shout, n., 1 (p. 764).

William.—3. An occ. synonym of John Thomas, 2 (Dict.): low: mid-C. 19–20.

William Powell. A towel: convicts' rhyming s.: since ca. 1935. (Franklyn 2nd.) Ex the famous American film star.

Willie.—2. For this garage-hand's term, see daff, v.—3. A waybill: Canadian railroadmen's (— 1931).—4. A supply of betting money: Australian sporting: since ca. 1935. (Lawson Glassop, Lucky Palmer, 1949.)

willy. See willy-willy.—2. A ball: Shrewsbury: since mid-1930's. Marples, 'Perhaps pill, bill, willy'.—3. See Willie.

willy, chuck or throw a. To throw a fit: Australian: C. 20. B., 1942. Cf. American whinging.

willy, throw a. See prec. entry and also seven, throw a.

Willy Lee. A flea; mostly in pl. Willy Lees: Australian rhyming s.: since ca. 1925. (B., Australia Speaks, 1953.)

Willy Wag or W.w. or w.w. A swag: Aus. rhyming s.: C. 20. Mary Durack, Keep Him My Country, 1955.

willy-willy. A whirlwind: Australian: late C. 19–20. Archer Russell, A Tramp-Royal, 1934. Thus: whirlwind > whirl > wil > willie (or -y) > willy-willy. Often shortened to willy: B., 1942. By 1945 at latest, it > S.E.

Wilson's den; in full, W.-d., number ten. In Bingo: 10: since late 1964. The Rt Hon. Harold Wilson; No. 10 Downing Street—the Prime Minister's London residence. wimble. A hand-worked auger: railwaymen's coll.: C. 20. (Railway.) Ex S.E. 'to wimble', itself ex the n. wimble.

wimp (p. 959). Current among Cambridge undergraduates as early as 1909 (R. M. Williamson, letter, 1939).

Wimpey. A Wellington (bomber 'plane): R.A.F.: since 1938 or 1939. The New Statesman, Aug. 30, 1941; E. P. in The New Statesman, Sept. 19, 1942. Ex J. Wellington Wimpey, Popeye the Sailor's esteemed partner, in a very popular series of comic cartoons.

win(-)on, v.i. To 'get off' with a girl: Australian: since ca. 1945. (Dick.) win the button. To be the best: tailors': from ca. 1860. B. & L. Here, button = medal.

winching, n. An Army variant of winchin' (p. 960): since the 1930's. Perhaps contaminated, purposely, by 'winching a vehicle'.

wingo or winko. Wing Commander: R.A.F.: since before 1930. Allan A. Michie & Walter Graebner, Lights of Freedom, 1941 ('winko'); Jackson, 1943. Ex Wing Co, a frequent abbreviation.

wind.—2. A strong liquor, prob. rum or gin: ca. 1715–50. Anon., The Quaker's Opera, 1728. See the quot'n at hunter's tea. Because it catches the breath.—3. A wind instrument: musicians': C. 20: coll. >, by 1945, S.E.

wind-bagger. A deep-sea sailor: nautical: since ca. 1880. Bart Kennedy, London in Shadow, 1902.

wind(-)hammer. A pneumatic riveter: Naval: since ca. 1930. Granville.

wind in your neck! 'A polite way of asking someone to close a door,' H. & P.: Services (esp. R.A.F.): since ca. 1936. Cf. the entry at wood in it (p. 963); contrast wind your neck in!

wind-jammer. Sense 2 dates back to the 1870's. B. & L.

wind of, get. See get wind of above.

wind of change, the. 'An inexorable current not under control of leaders' (William Safire, The New Language of Politics, 1968): Prime Minister Harold Macmillan used it in a speech made on Feb. 2, 1960. But public opinion 'changed all that' and when, in 1966, he published his memoirs, 'he accepted the editing of common usage that changed his "wind of change" to "winds" and called his book The Winds of Change' (Wm Safire). It is, indeed, the winds . . . which became, ca. 1961, a c.p.

wind-sock is an aviation term mentioned by The New Statesman & Nation, Feb. 20, 1937, and dating from ca. 1928: coll. for a hollow wind-indicator.

wind-splitters. 'Lean and scraggy cattle' (B., 1943): Australian rural: C. 20.

wind-sucker. A horse with the heaves: stablemen's: from ca. 1865. B. & L.

wind up. Pinned up; hence taut: rhyming s.: ca. 1870–1929. Franklyn, Rhyming. Association with the next is extremely doubtful.

wind up, get the (p. 960). Professor Arnold Wall, in his review (The Press, Christchurch, N.Z.) of the 3rd edition of this dictionary, relates that, having long thought about the origin of the phrase, he is at last convinced that it arose thus: 'A favourite marching tune in the Army was "The British Grenadiers", of which a rude parody had been made [perhaps soon after the Peninsular War] . . . and the marching soldiers would sing it right up to the time of the war of 1914–1918. One verse ran: "Father was a soldier, at the battle of Waterloo, The wind blew up his trousers, and he didn't know what to do." It was natural that when a man was flustered . . . he was said to have "got the wind up his trousers", later shortened to "got the wind up". This bears the obvious stamp of truth. . . . The wedding of the words to a well known tune doubtless aided the vitality of the expression.' Professor Wall is probably right.

wind up one's bottoms, vbl phrase. See 'Tavern terms', § 2.

wind your neck in! Stop talking!: R.A.F.: since ca. 1937. Robert Hinde, letter of March 17, 1945. Cf. winding, take out of.

wind'ard of, get to. To get the better of (a person): nautical, esp. Naval, coll.: late C. 19–20. 'Taffrail'. I.e. windward.—2. Also, to get on the right side of someone: Naval: since ca. 1900. Granville.

winding, take (someone) out of. To silence; to nonplus: Australian: since ca. 1920. B., 1942.

winding the chain. See keeping the pot boiling.

windmill. An autogyro: R.A.F.: since ca. 1935. H. & P. Cf. egg-whisk, q.v.—2. A propeller: R.A.F.: since ca. 1938. Jackson.

windy, 2 (p. 960). Recalled, as current since ca. 1909 in the Royal Sussex Regiment, by S. H. Ward, Esq., who adduces the evidence ('Winde Expert') afforded by the Roussillon Gazette (The Regiment's journal) of July 1911 (p. 87). 3 (p. 960). See next entry.—4. (Ex sense 2: p. 960.) Of officer or N.C.O.: fussy: Army: since ca. 1917.—5. (Of matter or of type) set very open: Australian printers' (— 1950). B., 1953.

Windy Corner. Northern Germany, esp. the coast near Kiel: R.A.F. pilots': since 1939. Allan Michie & Walter Graebner, Their Finest Hour, 1940 (p. 63). Cf. windy, 3 (Dict.). The date 1916 given for the various 'Windy Corners' of World War I 'suggests that they took the name from that notorious Windy Corner at the Battle of Jutland through which Beatty's depleted Battle Cruisers and the Fifth Battle Squadron had to make their turn North to rejoin the Grand Fleet, under the concentrated fire of the German High Seas Fleet' (Ramsey Spencer, March 1967). But the phrase was in Navy use as early as 1900, when it was employed of the approach to the attack on the Taku Forts during the Boxer Rising; attested by Geoffrey Bennett in Coronel and the Falklands, 1962, as Mr Spencer tells me.

wing her. To set the brakes on a moving train: Canadian railroadmen's (— 1931). Ex sportsmen's S.E. 'to wing a bird'.

wing of a woolbird. See wool-bird (Dict.).

wingco is a variation of winco.

wing'd. Tipsy: ca. 1840–90. (William Juniper, The True Drunkard's Delight, 1933.) Cf. wing, hit under the (p. 961).

winge, v. To complain frequently or habitually: Australian: since ca. 1910. Sidney J. Baker, letter in The Observer, Nov. 13, 1938. A perversion—or perhaps merely a corruption of—to wince. Also whinge. Hence, winger or whinger, a grouser, and w(h)inging, grouching (g pron. dj). But also English—esp. Lancashire and Yorkshire—dial.; whence presumably the Australian usage.

winger.—3. An assistant; a 'pal': Naval: since ca. 1939. Granville. Cf. side-kick (Dict.).—4. See winge.—5. The Winger: the Commander (Flying): Fleet Air Arm: since ca. 1920.—6. (Also wings and wingsy bash.) Mate, chum, pal: Naval: since, resp., ca. 1925–1930–1940.—7. A ship's steward, or a sailor, habitually allowing himself to be used passively: homosexuals': since ca. 1930. Cf. sense 1 (p. 961) and esp. 5.—8. Hence, fig., as in 'She seems to think she's the admiral's winger' = He thinks a lot of himself: since ca. 1935: orig., Naval; by ca. 1950, fairly gen. homosexual.

wingey or whingey; inferior forms in -gy. Querulous; cantankerous: Australian: since ca. 1930. (B., Australia Speaks, 1953.) Ex winge.

wingless wonder. An officer on ground duties: R.A.F.: since ca. 1930. Gerald Emanuel, letter of March 29, 1945. Cf. kiwi and penguin. There may be a ref. to Winston Churchill's description of Ramsay MacDonald as 'the spineless wonder'.

Wings. Wing Commander: R.A.F.: since ca. 1935. Robert Kee, A Crowd Is Not Company, 1947. Cf. winco.—2. In the Royal Navy, a Commander in the Fleet Air Arm: since ca. 1925. (Granville.) Cf. winger, 5.—3. Hence, Commander (Air) 'responsible for the flying routine or operations in an aircraft carrier' (Wilfred Granville, Sept. 23, 1967): Naval: since late 1930's.

wings, get one's. To complete one's flying training and qualify as an operational pilot: R.A.F. coll. (— 1939) >, by 1943, j.

wingy, n. (p. 961) was orig. a navvies' nickname for such a man. (D. W. Barrett, Navvies, 1881.)

wingy, adj. See wingey.

wink, n.—3. A housemaid: Marlborough college: since ca. 1870. See Winkery.—4. A sixpence: Australian: since ca. 1920. B., 1942, 'One and a wink'.

wink in one's eye, have a. To feel sleepy: Australian coll. of ca. 1850–1910. W. W., The Detective's Album, 1871. (Baker.)

winkers.—3. Spectacles: Australian: C. 20. (Caddie, A Sydney Barmaid, 1953.) Ex sense 1 on p. 961.

Winkery, the. The maidservant's dormitory: Marlborough College: late C. 19–20. Ex wink, n., 3 (above), which that excellent scholar Leonard Forster holds to be a doublet of wench (used at the College for a maidservant) and not, as I flippantly suggested, to derive from the winks she saucily bestows upon 'the young gentlemen'.

winking at you—is. A c.p., directed at some specified feature of the body's innocent or unabashed exposure: C. 20.

winkle, n. Penis: children's; (young) schoolboys': late C. 19–20.

winkle barge. An anti-aircraft ship, esp. a Landing Craft (Flak): Naval: ca. 1941–5. (P-G-R.)

winkle out; winking. To hunt out, house by house or 'fox-hole' by 'fox-hole', esp. with rifle and bayonet; bayonet exercises: resp. since 1940 (military) and ca. 1930 (Naval). The latter: Granville. The former: The People, Oct. 31, 1943.—2. Winking: attacks by Typhoon aircraft on small enemy strong-points, 500-or-so yards ahead of the troops: R.A.F.: 1944–5.

winkle-pickers. 'Winkle-picker' shoes—shoes with very pointed toe-caps: since ca. 1959.

winko. See winco.

winks (p. 961): Mayhew, I, 1851.

Winnick (p. 961). The place-name is written Winwick, pronounced winnick.

Winnie.—2. The Rt Hon Sir Winston Churchill, K.G.: since ca. 1914, but esp. since April 1940: wholly affectionate. In 1940–5, mostly Army.

wino. A drunkard on wine: Canadian: adopted, ca. 1925, ex U.S. (Leechman.)

Winter Headquarters. Devon and Cornwall: tramps' c.: C. 20. W. A. Gape, Half a Million Tramps, 1936.

wipe, n., 2 (p. 961), should be back-dated to ca. 1700, for it occurs in Captain Alexander Smith, The Life of Jonathan Wild, 1726—see wipe lay, the, below. (Then sense 3, to which add: Very common in Anglo-Irish: P. W. Joyce, English in Ireland, 1910; he instances 'He gave him a wipe on the face'.)—3. A blow, hit, punch: low: from ca. 1875. B. & L.

wipe, v.—2. To refuse (a loan): c.: from ca. 1921. Perhaps ex wipe out (Dict.).—3. To do without, dispense with: Australian: since ca. 1920. B., 1942. I.e. 'wipe off the plate'.—4. To have nothing to do with; to refuse to see or to speak to (someone): Australian: since ca. 1940. (Jon Cleary, Back of Sunset, 1959).—5. Hence, to ignore (someone) coldly; to snub severely: Australian: since the middle 1940's. Culotta, 1957, adduces 'He got wiped' and 'I've wiped him'.

wipe (a person's) eye for (something). To rob him of it: Army: since ca. 1930. P-G-R.

wipe hell out of (someone). To thrash, or defeat soundly: Australian: C. 20. B., 1942.

wipe lay, the. Handkerchief-stealing: C. 18-19. Recorded by Captain Alexander Smith in 1726: see wipe, n., 2, above.

wipe-off, n. A dismissal: Australian: since ca. 1930. (H. Drake Brockman, Hot Gold, 1940.) Ex:

wipe off. To say a final good-bye to; to decide to see no more of (e.g. a locality): Australian coll.: since ca. 1925. (D'Arcy Niland, The Shiralee, 1955.) Probably elliptical for wipe off the slate.

wipe-out. A violent dumping of a surfer by a wave: Australian surfboard riders': since ca. 1960. Sun-Herald, Sept. 22, 1963; Pix, Sept. 28, 1963.

wipe round. To hit on: Cockney: 1895, E. Pugh, A Street in Suburbia, 'Garn! I'll woipe yer rarned the marth, talk ter me . . .'

wipe up, 1 (p. 961). Also police s.: The Free-Lance Writer and Photographer, April 1948.

wire, n.—3. A wire-haired terrier: dog dealers': from ca. 1890. (The Evening News, July 2, 1937.)

—4. Penis: low: since ca. 1925. Ex pull one's wire (p. 666).—5. A reprimand: Australian: since ca. 1930. (B., 1943.)

wire, give (someone) the, as on p. 962. Hence, in World War II, to give advance information: mostly Army. (P-G-R.)

Wire, the. The wire fence built by Mussolini on the frontier of Libya and Egypt: Army coll.: 1940-3. 'It kept out nothing but the gazelles' (Peter Sanders, Sept. 10, 1967).

wire at (e.g. Loos), on the. A variant of hanging on the barbed wire (p. 373).

wire-puller. A Royal Engineer: Army: C. 20. They're forever handling wire.—2. An electrician: ca. 1900-25.

wire-worm. A man that collects prices to wire to country clients: Stock Exchange: from ca. 1890. B. & L.

wired for sound. (Of a person) wearing an ear-piece of any kind: Australian: since late 1950's. (B.P.) Ex radio mechanics' jargon.

wireless or message by wireless. A baseless rumour, a report without ascertainable origin: since ca. 1925.

wires, on. Jumpy; nervous: coll.: late C. 19-20. Prompted by S.E. highly strung.

Wise Boy's Paradise, the. 'This very apt term is used in the services to describe the unimportant jobs which seem to keep so many eligible men out of uniform, and the places overseas to which men have gone to avoid conscription,' H. & P. (early 1943): since 1939. A list should be published of all those actors, artists, authors, et al., who put themselves far (and long) before their country: 'Wise guys? huh!' The loss of a creative life is unfortunate and deplorable; loss of the nation's, nay civilization's, opportunity to create, tragic and unthinkable.

wise-crack now, as for some time since in U.S., has a pejorative connotation.

wise up (p. 962): but Canadian by 1905 at latest. 'You've got a little way to hike alone . . . and you're not wised up in everything': Frederick Niven, Wild Honey, 1927.

Wiselson. A Wesleyan: Welsh: late C. 19-20. 'Draig Glas,' The Perfidious Welshman, ca. 1911.

wish I had yer job! I work much harder than you do: Cockney c.p.: C. 20.

wish I may die! An asseverative tag: Cockney: mid-C. 19-20.

wish in one hand and shit in the other and see which (hand) gets full first! A c.p. retort on the expression of any wish whatsoever: low, mostly Cockneys': C. 20.

wish (a person) on (occ. upon). To recommend a person to another: rare before C. 20. Many knowledgeable persons think (and several have written to tell me so) that this term should be included: but at lowest it is coll. and I myself believe it to be familiar S.E. E.g. 'That officer was wished on us by the — Brigade.' 'Ultimately, I think, from the Witch Doctor's ability to transfer evil wishes from his client to his client's enemy, and it prob. comes into English slang via the Colonial Service' (Julian Franklyn).

wished on, as in 'I had this job wished on me', i.e. foisted upon me: coll.: late C. 19-20. Ex prec. entry.

wiskideon. A waistcoat: since ca. 1945. Fanciful; ex the now dial. pronunciation, weskit.

wisty(-)caster or wistycaster (or -er). A blow; a punch: pugilistic: ca. 1815-40. Boziana, III, 1821, 'This round was all fighting, and the wisty-casters flew about till both went down.'

witch-piss. An inferior, or an unpopular, beverage, ranging from 'Naffy' tea to thin beer: R.A.F.: since ca. 1940; by 1960, ob.

witch tit (or teat), adj. (Of weather) very, esp. if bitterly, cold: since ca. 1960. (Wilfred Granville, Nov. 21, 1962.) With pun on witch and which.

with a face like yesterday. Glum- or sulky-looking; ill-favoured: non-aristocratic: from ca. 1903; ob. W. L. George, The Making of an Englishman, 1914.

with a five-franc note in one hand and his — in the other. A soldiers' c.p. (1914-18), applied to those who, as soon as they received their week's pay, dashed off to a brothel.

with it, be. To understand and appreciate and enjoy music: jazz-lovers': since the late 1930's. (The Observer, Sept. 16, 1956.) This perhaps derives from the Canadian (and U.S.) carnival employees' to be with it, to be one of carnival or fair-ground crew. C. 20. (Leechman.)—2. Hence, to be alert or well-informed and up-to-date: since ca. 1959. Cf. the quotation at Rockers . . . (above). 'Even "with-it" might be acceptable as a kind of sociological onomatopoeia, an expression with overtones which match the thing described': Anthony Lejeune in The Daily Telegraph, colour supplement, March 10, 1967.

with it, get. See 'Jazz Slang'.

with one's trousers down, caught. See caught . . .

with or without?; positive: with or without. 'Often heard in cafés and snack bars. The server at the counter, where sugar is put in tea at the counter, will say "With or without?" The person ordering often asks for tea and adds "With" or "Without". People who have heard German or Swiss say "mit" sometimes use this. They seldom say "With sugar"' (A. B. Petch, April 1966): coll.: since ca. 1920.

without a mintie. Penniless: Australian sporting: since ca. 1920. (Lawson Glassop, 1949.) I.e. without a minted coin.

without a word of a lie. A c.p., emphatic for 'honestly!': late C. 19-20.

witter. To annoy (someone) by talking nonsense: Leeds undergraduates' (— 1940). Marples, 2.

wiv no error is a Cockney variant (slightly ob.) of no error, indubitably. Clarence Rook, The Hooligan Nights, 1899.

wizard (p. 962) was immensely popular in the R.A.F. (and the W.A.A.F.) in 1939–45: witness, e.g., Mary Welsh Monks in Lights of Freedom; Hector Bolitho's article in The Listener, late 1940; H. & P.; Jackson, who postulates R.A.F. currency before 1930; Partridge, 1945. Via the Fleet Air Arm, it > popular in the Navy by 1942 (Granville). The term became general civilian s.; after ca. 1952, however, it was little used except by schoolchildren and—such things reach them after they've reached everyone else—by the lower-middle class. wizard prang. A spectacularly successful raid on an enemy target: R.A.F.: since ca. 1940; by 1955, ob.

wizz, the. Variant of whiz(z), n., 2 (p. 955). F. D. Sharpe, The Flying Squad, 1938, where also occurs wizzer for whizzer (see whizz-man: p. 955).

wizzer or wizzy. Urination: Scottish children's: late C. 19–20. Echoic.

wizzo, usually exclamatory: splendid!: R.A.F.: 1942 +. Partridge. Ex wizard (Dict. and Sp.).

wobbegong. Anything notable or excellent: Australian: since ca. 1920. B., 1942. Ironical woebegone?—2. A 'thingummy': Australian: since ca. 1925. Baker.

wobbie or -y. A member of the International Workers of the World: Canadian workers': from ca. 1920. W. A. Gape, Half a Million Tramps, 1936. In U.S., it is wobbly or wabbly.

wobbler.—6. 'A soldier toadying for stripes' (B., 1942): Australian soldiers': 1939 +.

wobbles, the. In horses, a sickness caused by eating palm leaves: Australian coll.: since ca. 1880. Baker.

Wobblies. Members of the International Workers of the World: since ca. 1910.

Woff. A member of the Women's Auxiliary Australian Air Force: Australian Services': 1939–45. (B., 1943.) Cf. the English Waff.

wog. Any Indian of India (not merely as on p. 963); an Arab; 'A native. Someone once called enlightened natives "Westernised Oriental gentlemen" and the name caught on' (Jackson), via the initials: R.A.F.: since ca. 1930. But Gerald Emanuel goes nearer the mark, I think, when (letter of March 29, 1945) he asks, 'Surely the derivation is from "golliwog"?—with ref. to the frizzy or curly hair; wog, indeed, is a nursery shortening of golliwog.—2. A germ or parasite; anything small (e.g. tea-leaf floating on cup of tea): Australian: C. 20. B., 1942.—3. A baby; a very young child: Australian nursery: C. 20. Also pog-wog, poggy-wog, pog-top, poggie-top, etc. Baker. Of the diddums (p. 219) variety of affectionate idiocy.

wog, the. Tubercular infection: Australian: since ca. 1920. (Margaret Trist, Now That We're Laughing, 1945.) A specialisation of wog, 2.—2. Hence, wog, a person with tuberculosis: since ca. 1925. (Dymphna Cusack, Say No to Death, 1951.) Cf. sense 2 of preceding entry.

'I have made extensive enquiries and everybody agrees with my belief that the wog is used of tuberculosis only by those in sanatoria or during a discussion concerning tuberculosis. Ten million Australians regard the wog as influenza, or loosely as a heavy cold with aches and pains, running nose, headache, etc.': Barry Prentice, in a communication of mid-1963. Therefore: 3. Influenza; loosely, a heavy cold: Australian: since ca. 1925. Ex sense 1.

wog gut; or Palestine ache. (Acute) diarrhoea: Australian soldiers: mostly in 1940–2. Lawson Glassop, We Were the Rats, 1944. Ex their training period in Palestine; see wog.

wog pub. A public-house that admits coloured people and therefore loses—or tends to lose—its best white customers: since ca. 1955. (The Times, Jan. 23, 1965.) By extension of wog, 1, above.

woggery. An Arab village: Army and Air Force: since ca. 1930. (P-G-R.)

woggling. Waggling one's club for a long time before making the stroke: golfers' coll.: since ca. 1920. Bernard Darwin, Golf Between Two Wars. Ex waggle + jog.

wogs, white. British and Continental European residents in Near and Middle East countries: Army and R.A.F.: since ca. 1930. Cf. sense 1 of preceding entry.

wolf. A philanderer: adopted, ca. 1944, ex U.S. servicemen. One of the linguistic consequences of the American occupation of London during 1943–5. Cf. S.E. wolfish, predatory.

'The word "wolf" has softer meanings in Australia, particularly when used by girls, as in "I don't trust your father, he's a wolf"' (B.P.).

Wolf of Tuscany. An Italian soldier: British Army in North Africa: 1940–43. Peter Sanders, in The Sunday Times magazine, Sept. 10, 1967, adds that 'one of the Italian formations in the desert was the Wolves of Tuscany division'.

Wolver. Penis. Midland and Northern English rhyming s.: since ca. 1945. Short for Wolverhampton, clearly an elaboration of Hampton, itself elliptical for Hampton Wick on p. 370. (Ronald Hjort, Nov. 16, 1967.)

wom. A wireless operator (mechanic): R.A.F.: since ca. 1935. E. P. in The New Statesman, Sept. 19, 1942. Ex the initials W.O.M. Distinct from wop.

woman. In tossing, the Britannia side of the penny: from ca. 1780. Grose (at harp).

woman of the world. A married woman: coll.: ca. 1580–1640. Shakespeare, As You Like It and All's Well.

[Women receive the following s. names in the writings of Ned Ward in the first third of C. 18. A girl: drozel (1714), giggler (more usually of a wanton), hussif (1703; gen. of a married woman and perhaps always S.E.), Malkin (1706; spelt Maukin; prob. always S.E.), petticoat (1709; ditto), pug (1706) or pug-Nancy (1703); in 1712 he applies blowze to a shrew, and in 1709 honest trout to a respectable woman (? who is 'a good sort'); Billingsgate fishwives he refers to in 1703 as Flat-Caps and Straw-Hats. Matthews.]

women and children first. A jocular c.p. on an occasion of non-emergency: since ca. 1914.

womming. A 'GW/GC joint line expression for rail turning' (Railway 2nd): ca. 1890–1925. Ex dial. wamble or womble, to revolve.

wong. A catapult: Australian: since ca. 1920. (B., 1943.) Echoic?

Wong-Wong. The German Gotha bombing plane of 1918: R.A.F. and A.A.: 1918, then historical. (Sholto Douglas, Years of Combat, 1963.) Ex the sound issuing from its twin engines.

wonk (p. 963): since ca. 1930, predominantly a junior midshipman. Granville.—2. An Aus. Aboriginals' pejorative for a white person—cf. the Aus. white's use of boong for an Aboriginal: C. 20. (B., 1959.)

won't have it, I (or he, etc.). I don't believe it; or, I won't admit it: coll.: mid-C. 19–20.

woo, n. A 'petting session', a bout of mild love-making: New Zealand: since ca. 1930. Slatter, 'Having a woo with some joker.' Directly ex S.E. 'to woo'.

Wood. Collingwood, a suburb of Melbourne: Melbourne's coll.: C. 20. B., 1942.

Wood, Mr. A truncheon: police: C. 20. (The Free-Lance Writer, April 1948.)

wood-and-water Joey. A parasite hanging about hotels: Australian: ea. 1880–1910. B. & L.

Wood in front, Mr and Mrs (p. 963). In Showman Looks On, 1945, C. B. Coehran has Wood family in front and implies late C. 19–20.

wood merchant. A seller of lucifer matches: London streets': ca. 1875–1912. Ibid. Superseded by timber merchant (Dict.).

wood on, have the. 'To have an advantage over someone' (B., 1941): Australia and New Zealand: since ca. 1920. Either rhyming have the goods on or more probably ex the game of bowls.

wood-pile. See fish-horn.

wood-spoiler is in the Navy applied rather to the carpenter's mate, who is also termed chippy chap: witness 'Taffrail'.

Woodbine, 1 (p. 963): revived in 1939–45. (B., 1943.)

Woodbine Willie. The Rev. William Studdert Kennedy: military in 1914–18; hence gen. Contrast Teddy Woodbine in Dict.

wooden, v. See would'n.

wooden ears on, have, as 'I had wooden ears on', I couldn't hear: since ca. 1920. Cf. cloth cars and tin ears.

wooden fit is recorded earlier by B. & L.

wooden hill, the. The stairs; esp. (go) up the wooden hills to Bedfordshire: lower-middle and upper working classes': mid-C. 19–20.

wooden out. To floor (someone), esp. with a punch: New Zealand: since ca. 1925. Slatter, 'You bloody piker. A man oughta wooden you out.' Ex the idea of 'wooden floors'.

wooden pegs. Legs: rhyming s.: C. 20. An occ. variant of Scotch pegs, q.v. at Scotch peg on p. 734. Franklyn 2nd.

wooden set-too. Anglo-Irish (C. 19) for wooden surtout (Dict.): Wm Carleton, Rory the Rover, 1845.

Wooden Shoes. Those who favoured either Pretender, hence France: ca. 1665–1750. With a pun on sabots. 'Here in England, two hundred years ago, when the "Jew Bill" was before Parliament, the walls were chalked with the words "No Jews.—No Wooden Shoes" . . . rhyming slang. . . . Wooden Shoes implied "foreigners"—people who wore sabots,' Julian Franklyn in The Leader, Jan. 1939. The Bill was passed in the year 1753: see Cecil Roth, A Jewish Book of Days (1931), p. 92.

'After the honeymoon of the 1660 Restoration was over, the slogan was: "No popery—no wooden shoes"; Charles II's wife, Catherine of Braganza, was Catholie, & so was his brother, later James II and father of the Old Pretender; both surrounded themselves with priests, native and foreign. The Fire of London itself was put down to papist action, and it was rumoured that French and Dutch spies helped to spread it. The traditional English distrust of foreigners (wooden shoes) has been repeatedly linked with whatever was the immediate bogey of the period.' (Ramsey Spencer.)

wooden swear. An ill-tempered slamming of a door: C. 20.

wooden tenpenny cases. Sabots: Anglo-French: ca. 1815–50. David Carey, Life in Paris, 1822. Here, cases = eneasers.

woodener of five. A fist: Australian low: since ca. 1910. B., 1942. Cf. bunch of fives (p. 108).

woodie. An 'old wood-panelled station wagon' (Pix, Sept. 28, 1963) or 'an old ear, partly constructed, or reconstructed, of wood' (B.P., mid-1963); hence, 'any old car having surfboard racks' (B.P., late 1963): Australian; the latter, surfers': since ea. 1950, 1961, resp.

woodman.—2. A prison sentence of one month: c.: C. 20. 'From the fact that years ago in prison you slept on wooden boards for the first month' (John Gosling, The Ghost Squad, 1959).

Woods.—2. The Woods (or the w.). The lavatories: Marlborough College: since ca. 1870. 'The lavatories were originally by the Mound behind the College, in the part now known as "the Wilderness"' (L. W. Forster).

Woody. A Wild Woodbine cigarette: since ca. 1915. Cf. Woods (p. 964).—2. P. G. Wodehouse, the novelist: bookmen's: since ca. 1920.

woof. 'To eat fast (from "to wolf")', Jackson: R.A.F.: since ea. 1925.—2. Hence (?), 'to open the throttle quickly' (ibid.): since ea. 1930.

woof run. A hash-house; a cheap restaurant: Australian Naval: 1939–45. (B., 1943.) Probably ex preeding.

woofits, the; esp. get the woofits, to be moodily depressed: from ca. 1916; ob. ? = woeful fits.

wool, have (someone) by the. By infatuation to control: Australian: C. 20. Baker.

wool, in the; out of the wool. (Of sheep) about, or soon, to be shorn; having only just been shorn: Australian coll.: C. 20. B., 1942.

wool, tie one's. See tie one's hair (Dict.).

wool(-)barber. A sheep-shearer: Australian jocular: C. 20. Tom Ronan, Only a Short Walk, 1961.

wool-bug. 'He pictured the shearers, the "wool-bugs", in their dirt and grease' (Jean Devaney, The Butcher Shop, 1926): New Zealand: ca. 1890–1940.

wool-classer. A sheep-biting dog: Australian jocular: since ca. 1910. Baker. A wool-classer 'peeks at' the wool he classifies.

wool-grower. The head: pugilistic: ca. 1840–90. Augustus Mayhew, Paved With Gold, 1857.

wool-hawk. A skilful shearer: Australian: C. 20. Baker. Ex the habits of that bird.

wool is up; wool is down. Times are good; times are bad: rural Australian e.pp. (coll., not s.): from ea. 1880; slightly ob. B. & L. In reference to the price of wool, which is the staple product of Australia.

wool, or woollen, king. A sheep 'king' or owner of a very large sheep-station or of numerous stations: Australian: since ca. 1920. (B., 1943.)

wool shorn, have one's. To have or get a hair-cut: Australian: since ca. 1925. (B.P.)

Woolies. A Woolworth's store: urban Australian: since ca. 1930. (H. C. Brewster, King's Cross Calling, 1944—cited by B., 1953.) Cf. Woolly's below.

Woollies. See Woolly's.

woollies. Woollen underwear: domestic coll.: late C. 19–20.

Woolloomooloo Frenchman; - Yank. A Sydney youth that apes the French or the Americans: Sydneyites': 1940 +. B., 1942 and 1943.

Woolly. 'Woollongong (popularly pronounced Woollen-gong)': Australian: since ca. 1920. (B., 1953.)

woolly, n.—2. A sheep: Australian: late C. 19–20. B., 1942.

woolly-headed, go at. To attack furiously, most vigorously, very rashly: Australian: C. 20. Baker.

woolly-headed boy. A favourite: tailors': from ca. 1860. B. & L. Cf. white-headed boy (Dict.).

Woolly's or Woollies. A Woolworth's store: since ca. 1910. Cf. Marks.

Woolwich and Greenwich. Spinach: (mostly green-grocers') rhyming s.: late C. 19–20. Franklyn 2nd.

Woolwich Arsenal or, in full, make way for Woolwich Arsenal! A c.p. applied by satirical, not unkindly onlookers, at the P.B.I., more heavily loaded than a Christmas tree (see Christmas tree order on p. 152): 1915–18. As an 'Anzac', I never, at the time, heard the expression; as a Tommy, Albert Petch knew both phrases.

Woolworth carrier. A merchant ship converted into an aircraft carrier: Naval and R.A.F.: ca. 1940–5. (P-G-R.)

Woolworth marriage or wedding. A fictitious one, as feigned by the week-end couples that buy a 'wedding-ring' at 'Woolly's': coll.: since ca. 1925.

wooney or woony. Mother; darling: nursery and young children's: (?) mid-C. 19–20. (Atkinson.) Prob. a two-year-old's attempt at mother.

woop. See woop woop, 2 (p. 964).

woopknacker. A decided 'hard case': New Zealand: since ca. 1920. Slatter, 'He's a hard shot. Yeah, he's a woopknacker all right.' Arbitrary?

woop woop.—3. As Woop Woop, it is 'the hypothetically most rustic of all rustic townships in Australia' (B., 1959): Aus.: since ca. 1930. Ex sense 1 on p. 964.

woop-woop pigeon. A kookaburra: Australian: since ca. 1920. B., 1942. See woop woop (p. 964).—2. A swamp pheasant: Australian: since ca. 1925. (B., 1943.)

Wop (p. 964). Rather, since the early 1920's. It occurs in W. L. George, The Triumph of Gallio, 1924. Ex Sp. guapo, 'a dandy'—via Sicilian dialect. In A. Train, Courts, Criminals and the Camorra, 1912, we read, 'There is a society of criminal young men in New York City, who are almost the exact counterpart of the Apaches of Paris. They are known by the cuphonian name of "Waps" or "Jacks". These are young Italian-Americans who allow themselves to be supported by one or two women, almost never of their own race . . . They form one variety of the many gangs that infest the city.'—2. Hence, in Australia, an Italian prostitute: since ca. 1925.—3. Hence, any prostitute: since ca. 1930, but never very general. Whence wop-shop, a brothel, ob. by 1960. (B., 1953.)

wop. A wireless operator: R.A.F.: since ca. 1930. Sgt-Pilot F. Rhodes, letter of Sept. 20, 1942. Ex the abbr., W/Op.

wopag. 'An airman of the trade of wireless operator/air gunner,' Jackson: R.A.F.: ca. 1937–43, then ob. Ex the unofficial abbr. W.Op/A.G., the official one being W/O/AG.

wopcacker. See whopcacker.

woppidown. A damper (cake): Australian: since ca. 1910. (B., 1943.) Ex whop it down?

word up. To warn, advise, 'tip off': Australian: since ca. 1925. B., 1942.

work.—5. To steal: c.: mid-C. 18–20. B. & L. Ex sense 2.—6. V.i., to ply one's trade of prostitution: white-slavers' c.: C. 20. Albert Londres, 1928.

work a dead horse (New Zealand): ride the dead horse or work off the dead horse (Australian). Variants of work for a dead horse, q.v. at dead horse (p. 210).

work a door. See door, work a.

work a flanker. See flanker, play a.

work a ginger. See ginger, v., s.f.

work a ready. See ready, work a.

work a slinter. To play a mean or illicit trick; tell a false story: Australian low: C. 20. B., 1942. See schlenter, 3 (p. 732).

work a swindle. To accomplish something by devious or irregular means: R.A.F.: since ca. 1930. Jackson. See work, 2 (p. 964), and swindle, 4.

work like a bastard. To work very hard: low coll.: C. 20. (Atkinson.) Here, like a bastard merely connotes an expletive energy.

work off.—3. As work oneself off, to masturbate: low coll.: perhaps since C. 16; certainly old.

work one's bot. See bot.

work over, v.; a work(ing)-over. To beat up; a beating-up: low: since ca. 1930.

work Pompey. A variant (since ca. 1920) of dodge Pompey (p. 229).

work the pea. 'To swindle one's employer by skilfully appropriating small sums off the takings at the bar of a public-house, alluding to a conjuror's trick': barmen's: from ca. 1860. B. & L.

work the rattle. (Gen. as vbl n. or as ppl adj.) To operate, as a professional thief, on the trains: c.: from ca. 1890. (The Yorkshire Post, latish May 1937.)

work the spread. See spread, n., 10, in Dict.

work things. To achieve something, not necessarily though usually dishonest or, at best, dubious: coll.: late C. 19–20. Cf. work, sense 2, on p. 964, and work the oracle on p. 965.

work up. (Of men) to effect carnal union with: low coll.: late C. 19–20. Variant: work oneself up.

worker. A draught bullock: Australian coll.: since ca. 1870. B., 1942.

working by. Work on the wharves or from wharf to ship: stewards' coll.: C. 20. W. A. Gape, Half a Million Tramps, 1936.

workingman's solo. A Solo Whist hand (almost) impossible to beat: Australian card-players': C. 20.

workman. A professional gambler: gamblers' c.: ca. 1800–50. J. J. Stockwell, The Greeks, 1817, works, get on (someone's). To irritate, to infuriate: Australian low: C. 20. B., 1942.

works, give the. To beat up; to kill: c.: adopted ca. 1930 from U.S. Gerald Kersh, 1938. (See Underworld.)—2. Hence, to address a political meeting: tub-thumpers': since ca. 1936. Perhaps, however, ex 'fireworks'. Note that sense 1 is probably short for give the whole works, i.e. everything, the ultimate—death.

works, the. A convict establishment: prisoners' c.: from ca. 1870. B. & L. Contrast the Works (Dict.).

Works and Bricks. The Air Ministry Works Directorate: Air Force coll.: since ca. 1920. Jackson. A variant is Bricks (and Mortar).

worm-eater dates from the 1880's and is recorded by B. & L.

worms.—3 (Mostly as nickname.) That ratting who, in a Naval Establishment, attends to the gardens: since ca. 1910. Ex the worm-casts. (P-G-R.)

worms, give (someone) the. An Australian synonym of works, get on. Baker.

worms, have one for the. To take a drink of liquor: since ca. 1880. J. J. Conington, Truth Comes Limping, 1938. Ex jocular pretext of medicinal use. 'Compare Spanish matar el gusano—to kill the worm—applied to the first drink of the day, particularly if spirituous' (H. R. Spencer).

worret. See worrit (Dict.).

worried as a pregnant fox in a forest fire, as. A Canadian c.p., dating from ca. 1920. (Douglas Leechman.)

worry, not to. See not to worry.

Worry and Grumble. A taxicab company (W. & G.): from ca. 1910; †.

worry and strife. A wife: rhyming s.: C. 20. (Len Ortzen, Down Donkey Row, 1938.) Much less used than trouble and strife, which it varies.

worse things happen at sea. A vaguely consolatory c.p.: since ca. 1910.

wors'n. See worsen (Dict.).

worthy. Trustworthy and honest and good-natured, but rather dull: middle- and upper-class coll.: since ca. 1944.

Worst End, the. The West End (London): among those who (e.g. waiters, taxicabmen, 'con' men, whores) go there for profit rather than pleasure: from ca. 1928. I.e. worst for the pleasure-seekers.

Wosby. The War Office Selection Board: Army: World War II. Adopted by civilians, as in spiritual Wosby, an extended interview and tests for intending clerics.

wotcher! is the predominant Cockney shape, in C. 20, of what cheer! as a greeting: coll.

would followed by used. See used.

would you rather do this than work? A jocular c.p., addressed to someone working manually in his leisure, or even to someone at work: since ca. 1920.

would'n, pronounced and, since ca. 1945, often written wooden. Wouldn't: sol., esp. Cockney: (?) C. 16–20.

wouldn't be in it, I or he, etc. I, he, wouldn't take part: Australian c.p.: since ca. 1945. (B.P.)

wouldn't it! Short for wouldn't it make you sick!, angry: Australian c.p.: since ca. 1925. B., 1942.—2. But it is also an Australian c.p. that, dating from the 1930's, is elliptical for 'wouldn't it make you laugh?' Jon Cleary, The Climate of Courage, 1954, 'Asking your wife if you can write to her. Wouldn't it?'

Barry Prentice glosses the phrase thus: '[It] is an expression in its own right, but I personally wouldn't extend it as you have done. Wouldn't it give you the pip—the shits—the tom-tits—a touch of them, or wouldn't it rock you or rotate you, are all more likely in this case.' All these expressions are recorded in either the Dict. or the Supplement.

wouldn't it make you spit chips (Australian) or blood (English) or . . . rot your socks (Australian). A c.p. of disgust: since, respectively, ca. 1920—ca. 1910—ca. 1930. (Partly B.P.)

wouldn't it rock you!; wouldn't it rotate you! New Zealand servicemen's, esp. soldiers': resp. 1941–5 and 1942–5. (J. H. Henderson, Gunner Inglorious, 1945.) The latter c.p. merely elaborates the former and the former elaborates, as it arises from, rock, v., 3.

wouldn't read about it, you—but occ. he or she or they. It would amaze—it amazes—you (or him or . . .); it 'beats the band': New Zealand c.p.: since ca. 1935. Slatter. Also Aus., as in Mary Durack, Keep Him My Country, 1955, "'Blimey!" Wilde exclaimed. "You wouldn't read about it."' wouldn't touch (it—her—him—you—etc.) with a forty-foot pole. A c.p. that, mostly preceded by I, indicates the uttermost distaste or contempt: C. 20. Not solely Australian, pace B.

woune is Randle Holme's form of won, stolen.

wowser (p. 966). Adopted, ca. 1925, by New Zealand. (R. G. C. McNab in The Press, Christchurch, New Zealand, April 2, 1938.)—2. (Ex sense 1: p. 966.) Since ca. 1945, the sense has tended to > narrowed to 'teetotaller'—as in Culotta, 1957.—3. 'A blue-socking' (B., 1959): Aus.: since late 1940's. Most unfair to blue-sockings, many of whom are anything but wowsers.

wowsery. Puritanical: Australian coll.: since ca. 1925. (B., Australia Speaks, 1953.) Ex wowser (p. 966).

wrap rascal (p. 966). Half a century earlier in The London Evening Post, 1738.

wrap up, usually in imperative. To cease talking; also, stop making a row or a noisy fuss: Services: since ca. 1930. Grenfell Finn-Smith, in list communicated in April 1942; H. & P., 1943. Prob. ex wrapping up preparatory to cold-weather departure.—2. See wrapped-up (below).—3. To crash-land (an aircraft): R.A.F.: since ca. 1938. Jackson, 'Thus, "I'm afraid I've wrapped her up, sir".' I.e. to cause to fold up.—4. (Contrast sense 1.) Only as wrap up!, 'a cry of despair at the imbecility of one's superior or at one's own state of boredom' (P-G-R.): Army: since ca. 1935.—5. To thoroughly understand: Australian airmen's: since ca. 1939. (B., 1943.) Probably ex:

wrapped(-)up.—2. Carefully arranged; carefully prepared; entirely in order: Services: since ca. 1935. H. & P. 'Don't worry; it's all wrapped up!' Often shortened to wrapped. Cf. buttoned up and sewn up.

wrapper. An overcoat, a top coat: fast life: ca. 1810–45. P. Egan, Finish, 1828. Cf. wrap-rascal.

wrath of God, like the. 'The wrath of God . . . To my children it is just a phrase, like "nothing on earth"'. I hear Christine and her friends saying that a dress or a play is "like the wrath of God" [i.e. terrible]. It seems to me to be one of the catch-words of 1936," Stephen McKenna, Last Confession, 1937: Society c.p., † by the end of 1939. Still common in Canada at least as late as May 1959. (Leechman.) Nor, even in Britain, did it quite disappear in 1939; have myself heard it, occasionally, during the 1950's.—2. Feeling very ill, esp. if from a bad hangover: since ca. 1950. (Peter Sanders.) wreck. A recreation ground: Cockneys': C. 20. A deliberate perversion of rec, q.v. in Dict.—2. A 'dud' boy: Public Schools': since ca. 1925. Marples. Ex total wreck.

Wrecker's Retreat, the. The R.N. School of Navigation: Naval: C. 20; since 1941, merely reminiscent. Granville, 'This building, perhaps the oldest in Portsmouth Dockyard, was destroyed by enemy action during the Hitler War.'

wren, 2 (p. 966): since 1930 at latest, it has been j.

Wrenlin (or w). A Wren 'gremlin': Fleet Air Arm: 1940–5. (P-G-R.)

wrennery. Quarters or billets of the Wrens: Services (esp. Navy and W.R.N.S.): since 1920. H. & P. See wren, 2: Wren, by the way, has long been the official term.

wren-pecked. Wren - beset; Wren - harrassed: Naval: 1940 +. Granville. Poor, poor fellow!

wriggle like a cut snake. To be evasive, shifty; to toady: Australian: C. 20. B., 1942.

wring one's sock out. (Of men) to urinate: jocular rather than euphemistic: C. 20.

wring oneself. To change one's clothes: c.: from ca. 1860; ob. B. & L. Ex wring (out) one's clothes.

write-off. 'A crashed' plane; equipment beyond repair' (Partridge, 1945): since ca. 1930: R.A.F. coll. >, by 1944, j. Ex its orig. sense, 'something beyond repair which must be written off the station inventory' (H. & P.).

write oneself off. To get killed, esp., through carelessness or impetuosity: R.A.F.: since 1939. Jackson. Cf. prec. and written off.

write to 'John Bull' about it, or... 'The Times'... If you wish to complain, write to the newspapers: c.p.: resp., ca. 1910–30 (before John Bull turned genteel) and late C. 19–20.

write-up. A eulogistic paragraph or 'feature' or article: journalists' coll.: since ca. 1945.

write (an account) with a fork. To charge three times as much: N.T., Australia: since ca. 1925. Ernestine Hill, The Territory, 1951. Ex a fork's three times.

written off. (Of aircraft) damaged, esp. crashed, beyond repair; (of a person) killed, esp. as in prec. entry: R.A.F., resp. coll. and, for persons, s.: resp. ca. 1930 and ca. 1939. Jackson. Cf. write-off.

wrong. Silly, foolish; extremely eccentric, or slightly mad: Australian: since early 1920's. B., 1942, 'I.e., wrong in the head'.

wrong, get (someone). To mistake his spoken meaning or unexpressed intentions: coll.: since the early 1920's. 'Don't get me wrong, I mean you no harm.'—2. To render a girl pregnant; also v.i.: North Country: C. 20. Mostly among women and girls, as in 'Don't do that, or you'll get me wrong' (render me pregnant).

wrong side of the hedge when the brains were given away, (he) was on the. He is brainless, or stupid, or at the least very dull: c.p.: ca. 1810–80. In late C. 19–20, the form is on the wrong side of the door when (the) brains were handed out.

wrong 'un (p. 967).—5. Hence, esp. in tip a wrong 'un, to prophesy wrongly, make a bad guess. as in Howard Spring, Rachel Rosing, 1935, concerning a promising actress, 'Hansford has never been known to tip a wrong 'un.'

wrought. An Australian spelling-variant of roort.

W's, between the two. Between wind and water: ca. 1830–70. Sinks, 1848.

wuff. To shoot (a person) dead; to blast with gunfire: Guards': 1940–5. Roger Grinstead, They Dug a Hole, 1946. Echoic.

wuffler. A guinea-piece; a Sovereign: late C. 19–20; ob.

wulla or wuller! There you are: Army: 1914–19. Ex Fr. voilà.

wurley. A hut: Australian coll.: late C. 19–20. B., 1942. Ex Aboriginal.

wuss. See ss.

wusser dates from the 1880's, if not indeed earlier. (B. & L.)

wust. Worst: rather illiterate coll., mostly Cockneys': C. 19–20. Cf. wuss (Dict.).

Wyckers. Wycliffe Hall, Oxford: undergraduates' (— 1940). Marples, 2.

X

X, adj. Annoyed, irritated: since ca. 1945: c. >, by 1960, also s. (Robin Cook, The Crust on Its Uppers, 1962). By a pun on S.E. cross, n., and cross, irritable, angry.

X-chaser (p. 967). Since ca. 1905. 'Taffrail', The Sub, 1917. The x is that x which figures so disturbingly in mathematics.—2. Hence, an ardent mathematician: Naval: since ca. 1910. Granville.

X-ray art. 'A form of aboriginal bark and cave painting which shows internal parts of human and animal anatomy' (B., 1959): Aus. artists' and art-critics' coll.: since ca. 1950. Technically known as mimi art.

X.Y.Z.—2. A hack of all work: literary: ca. 1887–1905. B. & L. Ex an advertiser in The Times: using this pseudonym and offering to do any sort of literary work at unprofessionally low prices.

xaroshie. See khorosho.

Y

Y, the. The Y.M.C.A.: Services: 1939–45. (Jackson.) Used elsewhere since ca. 1919: see, e.g., C. S. Archer, China Servant, 1946. Short for Y.M. (p. 968).

ya. You are: Australian illiteracy: mid-C. 19–20. Lawson Glassop, We Were the Rats, 1944, “‘Mick,’ he said, “‘ya me mate.”’ But ya for ‘you’ is a world-wide illiteracy, as in ‘‘I’ve lived with ya an’ I’ve fought with ya’’,’ ibid.

yabbadabba doo! A cry of exaltation: Australian surfers’: since ca. 1961. (B.P.) Cf. hubba dubba! above.

yabber.—2. (Ex sense 1: p. 968.) To chatter: Australian: C. 20. (Culotta, 1957.)

Of sense 1 (p. 968), B.P. remarks that ‘although perhaps influenced by some such Aboriginal word as yabba, the word prob. derives ex synonymous S.E. jabber’.

yabby, v. To fish for fresh-water crayfish: Australian coll.: C. 20. In, e.g., Kylie Tennant, The Battlers, 1941. Ex yabbie (p. 968), which, by the way, occurs in, e.g., ‘Tom Collins’, Such Is Life, 1903.

yack, n. Food, esp. in hard yack (= hard tack): Australian: since ca. 1955. It is, indeed, correct for yakker, 3 and 4, as B.P. has pointed out.

yack, v., often yak; in full, ya(c)kety-ya(c)k. Both n. and v.: voluble talk; to talk volubly and either idly or stupidly or both: adopted, in the late 1950’s, ex U.S. Clearly echoic of idle chatter: yack-yack-yack.—2. Hence, a or to talk, or even a, or to, lecture: since ca. 1962. Early in 1964, the late Nancy Spain, in a News of the World article, said, ‘I was to yak’—deliver a talk—‘in Spennymoor (or some such place) that night.’

yackum. Human excrement: low: late C. 19–20.

yair. Yes: Australian illiterate: C. 20. ‘The vowel sound is a definite diphthong’ (B.P.).

yak; yakety-yak. See yack, v., above.

yakker.—3. Food: Australian: C. 20. B., 1942.—4. Talk: Australian: C. 20. Baker. These two senses are loose, perverse, corrupt.—5. Hence, a contract: Australian rural: since ca. 1925. (Sarah Champion.)

yam, n., dates from before 1890. It is, e.g., recorded by B. & L.

yamen or yaman. ‘A mandarin, a prefect’s residence’: pidgin: mid-C. 19–20. Ibid.

Yank.—2. An American motor car: esp. in the secondhand-car business: since ca. 1945. (Anthony Cowdy in the coloured supplement of The Sunday Times, Oct. 24, 1965.)

yank; yankee shout. A drinking bout or party or rendezvous at which everyone pays for his own drinks: Australian: 1940 +. B., 1942.

Yankee is Australian coll. for American in its nuance ‘equal for all’, as in Yankee tournament: since ca. 1930. (B., 1943.)

yankee particular. A glass of spirits: Australia:

lian: ca. 1820–80. J. W., Perils, Pastimes and Pleasures, 1849.

yankee shout. See yank above.

yankee tournament. An American tournament (everyone playing everyone else): sporting coll.: since ca. 1930. Baker.

Yanking. ‘Popular expression to describe the activities of girls who specialize in picking up American soldiers’ (or, come to that, sailors or airmen): since 1943; by 1966, slightly ob. Paul Tempest, Lag’s Lexicon, 1950.

Yanks. Cheap American magazines flooding British bookstalls ca. 1930–9: coll.: since ca. 1930.

yap. ‘To retort angrily’ (L. E. F. English, 1955): Newfoundland coll.: late C. 19–20. Cf. sense 2: p. 969.

yapper. A Bofors gun: Army and Civil Defence: 1940 +. It barks very loudly.

yappies, the; or the puppies. ‘The dogs’—greyhound racing or coursing: Australian: since ca. 1946. (B.P.) yard, v. To ‘corral’ or ‘round up’, to get hold of: Canadian: since late 1950’s. ‘We yarded Harry and Alice and toiled off to the dance’—adduced by Dr Douglas Leechman, who remarks, ‘First heard by me 3rd Dec. 1961.’

yard goose; usually pl., yard geese, yard switchmen: Canadian railroadmen’s: adopted, before 1931, ex U.S.

yard of tripe. A pipe: rhyming: 1851, Mayhew, I; ob.

yarker. Ear: Cockneys’: late (? mid-)C. 19–20. Atkinson. I.e., harker, that with which one hearkens.

yarm. A rare form of yarrum (Dict.).

Yarmouth (p. 969) occurs esp. in go (above all have gone) Yarmouth, to go—chiefly, to have gone—mad.

Yarmouth bloater.—2. A motor-car: rhyming s.: since ca. 1910. Franklyn, Rhyming, ‘Merely a contracted and less derisive form of tea for two and . . .’ yarra. Stupid; eccentric or even crazy: Australian: since ca. 1910. (B., 1943.) Ex Aboriginal. The intensive is ‘stone yarra, completely mad’ (B., 1959).

Yarra-bankers. Loafers and down-and-outs idling on the banks of the Yarra River: Melbourne coll.: C. 20. B., 1942.—2. Melbourne soap-box orators: Melbournites’: since ca. 1914. (B., 1943.) On the banks of the Yarra river.

yarraman (p. 969). Obsolete by 1942 (Baker).

yasmé. See ‘Prisoner-of-War Slang’, 7.—Yasmé Villa: ibid.

yawner. A very wide brook: hunting: since ca. 1830. (Rolf Boldrewood, My Run Home, 1897, at p. 360.)

ye’. See yeh (Dict.).

yea. ‘About “yea” high, or “yea” long, or broad, with appropriate gestures, meaning about "so" high, etc. Heard in the last 4 or 5 years' (Leechman, April 1967). Canadian.

year dot, in the. A long time ago: mostly Londoners': C. 20. At that point in historical times which lies between the last year B.C. and the first year A.D.

yearling. A boy that has been at the School for three terms: Charterhouse: C. 20. There, a new boy is a new bug (q.v. in Dict.); a boy that has been at the School for a term is an ex new bug; for two terms, an ex ex new bug: the second and the third are rather j. than eligible.—2. Simply a boy in his first year: Charterhouse: C. 20. (Peter Sanders.)

Yeddán; Yeddican. Variants (ca. 1880–1910) of Yid (Dict.). B. & L.

Yehudi; usually in pl. A Jew: Army officers' (esp. in Palestine): since ca. 1941. Ex a frequent Jewish given-name.

yell. Beer: 1848. Sinks, 'A pint of yell'; † by 1900. Short for its yellow colour.—2. A (tremendous) joke: mostly theatrical: since late 1950's. "'Of course Harry made it sound a bit of a yell'" (Ngaio Marsh, Death at The Dolphin, 1967).

yeller feller. An Aboriginal half-caste: Aus.: late C. 19–20. Xavier Herbert, Capricornia, 1939; B., 1959.

yellow, n.—3. A punishment at Greenwich College: ca. 1820–60. Sessions, 1831, where also be yellowed, to undergo punishment there.—4. (Pl. yellow.) A pound sterling: c.: from ca. 1910. The Pawnshop Murder: 'Bive hundred "yellow" to pay for it.' Ex the colour of a sovereign.

yellow, v.—3. See yellow, n., 3 (above).

yellow Admiral (p. 970). Since ca. 1925, it has predominantly signified 'Captain promoted, upon retirement, to Rear Admiral' (Granville): Naval.

yellow-back.—2. 'A gob of phlegm' (B., 1942): Australian low: C. 20.

yellow belly.—4. A coward: low: from ca. 1925. Ex U.S.—5. (Cf. 2.) A Central American: British and Americans in C. America: late C. 19–20.—6. A Japanese: Australian: 1942–5, then historical. Dymphna Cusack, Southern Steel, 1953.—7. A Yorkshire and Lancashire Railway tank engine: railwaymen's: ? ca. 1910–25. (Railway.)

yellow Bob. The Yellow Robin: Australian: late C. 19–20. (B., 1943.)

yellow doughnut. The small collapsible dinghy carried by modern aircraft: Air Force: since ca. 1936. H. & P., 'It looks like a doughnut from the air.'

yellow feller. A half-caste Aboriginal: N. Australian coll.: late C. 19–20. (Jean Devanney, Travels in North Queensland, 1951.)

yellow fever.—3. Spy mania: Singapore: ca. 1930–41. How enthusiastically we Britons succeeded in shutting our eyes to the obvious danger!

yellow jack (p. 970) occurs a year earlier in W. N. Glascock, The Naval Sketch-Book, 1834, at p. 231. And two years earlier still in Frederick Chamier, The Life of a Sailor, 1832. (Moe.)

yellow-jacket (p. 970) is common also in U.S.

yellow Monday and yellow Tuesday are only two of the numerous Australian folk-names for various kinds of cicada. The second is analogous with the first; the element Monday folk-etymologises mundee, as heard, by the early settlers, in the speech of the Port Jackson natives, as also does yellow for the first part of the Aboriginal name.

See S. J. Baker, Australia Speaks, 1953, at p. 110.

yellow mould. A sovereign: tailors': from ca. 1860; slightly ob. B. & L.

yellow peril.—2. A trainer aircraft: R.A.F.: since ca. 1940. (A proper 'plane, not a Link Trainer.) Jackson, 1943. Ex its colour—also ex the 'yellow streak' it may display if carelessly handled.—3. 'Navy cake'—slab cake, yellowish and not notably edible, sold in the canteen: Naval: 1939+. Granville.—4. A haddock: Naval (—1950).

yellow silk (p. 970): ob. by 1960. Franklyn 2nd.

yellow stuff. Gold: c.: mid-C. 19–20. B. & L.—2. Hence, gold stolen by miners from the company's mine they're working: Australian miners': C. 20. (Gavin Casey, Downhill Is Easier, 1945.)

yellowback. See yellow-back (Dict.).

yells, bells and knells. An Australian variation of hatch, match and despatch column on p. 378.

yelper.—3. A whining fellow: coll.: ca. 1830–90. Sinks, 1848.—4. The Red-Necked Avocet: Australian: late C. 19–20. (B., 1943.) Ex its distinctive call or note.

yelper, get the. To be discharged from employment; proletarian: ca. 1870–1910. B. & L.

Yen, the. The Yorkshire Evening News: journalists': since ca. 1933. Cf.:

yen. A passion; intense craving; esp. in have a yen for: U.S.: adopted in England ca. 1931. (See Underworld.) The etymology is obscure: there has been much 'talk about it and about'. My own guess, for I cannot prove it, is that it is a thinned form of yearn. But Webster's New International Dictionary convincingly adduces Chinese (Pekin dialect) yen, 'smoke; hence, opium'.

Yenham's. See Harry Freeman's, 2.

yennep; yennep flatch (p. 970). Earlier in Mayhew, I, 1851.

Yeos, the. The Yeomanry: Army: late C. 19–20.

yer blood's worth bottling! An Australian c.p., either of very warm approval or of hearty congratulation: since ca. 1950. 'To Nino Culotta, therefore, in thanks for this book, I say: "Thanks, mate. Yer blood's worth bottling!"': conclusion of Russell Braddon's Preface to the English edition (1958) of They're a Weird Mob, 1957.

yes, all day. See all day above.

yes—but in the right place. A fast girl's c.p. rejoinder to 'You're cracked' or 'You must be cracked': late C. 19–20. I first heard it, in 1922, from a man-about-town.

yes, but not the inclination. A c.p., in jocular reply to 'Have you the time?': C. 20.

yes, she's with us! A c.p. reply to does your mother know you're out? (p. 230): since ca. 1920.

yes, teacher; or yes, doctor. A jocular yet ironic c.p. addressed to someone who is fond of airing his knowledge on general matters or esp.—the latter form—on medical ailments and cures: since ca. 1910. (A. B. Petch.)

yes(-)girls. Girls very easily persuaded to participate in sexual intimacy: since ca. 1960. After yes man on p. 970.

yessir! See yes'm (Dict.).—yesman. See yes man (Dict.).

yesterday, with a face like. See with a face . . .

yet to be. Usually, costing nothing; occ., unrestrained: rhyming s. (on free): C. 20. Franklyn 2nd.

yeute. No; not: Punch and Judy showmen's: mid-C. 19–20. B. & L.

Yid (or gid); half a yid. A sovereign, £1; a half-sovereign, 10 shillings: Australian: C. 20. (Dal Stevens, Jimmy Brockett, 1951.) Rhyming on quid (£1).

Yiddified. Anti-Semitic: Jewish: since 1934. I.e. Yiddish Yiddenfeint, itself = Yid + Ger. Feind, an enemy. Therefore, lit., inimical to the 'Yids'. Possibly in ironic contrast with the usual sense.

Yiddisher fiddle. A minor cheating or illegality: since ca. 1925; by 1960, ob. (Franklyn 2nd.) An elaboration of fiddle, n., 12, above.

Yiddisher piano. A cash-register: Cockney street-boys': from ca. 1910.

yiesk. (A) fish: Shelta: C. 18–20. B. & L.

yike. A hot argument; a quarrel; a fight: Australian low: since ca. 1920. B., 1942. A perversion of fight?

yikes! An exclamation of surprise or excitement or shock or pain: Australian, adopted, ca. 1945, ex U.S., and common esp. among children. Ex yoicks!—or is it a euphemism for Christ (cf. crikey on p. 191)?

Yim, Yoe and Yesus. Three knaves: Australian poker-players': since ca. 1930. (B., 1953.)

yimkin. 'Perhaps. Expressive of extreme scepticism. "When Tunis falls, we're all going home, yimkin!": Army in North Africa, 1943. Peter Sanders in The Sunday Times magazine, Sept. 10, 1967. Arbitrary.

Ying-gen. An Englishman: pidgin: from ca. 1930. B. & L. yippee! An exclamation of delight: since ca. 1930. Allan A. Michie & Walter Graebner, Their Finest Hour, 1940.

yiū. A street: Punch and Judy showmen's: mid-C. 19–20. B. & L. ? ex Fr. rue.

ynork. Mostly in flatch ynork, a half-crown: back s.: 1851, Mayhew, I.

yo-yo, up and down like a. Applied mostly to a person bobbing up and down, hence also to, e.g., statistics: Australian: since ca. 1930. (B.P.)

yob.—4. 'A raw recruit; a very much countrified airman (cf. swede),' Partridge, 1945: R.A.F.: since ca. 1937. Earliest dictionary-recording: Jackson, 1943. Ex senses 1 and 3 (p. 971). Sense 3, by the way, occurs in A. Neil Lyons, 1908.

Sense 3 (p. 971), a lout, an oaf: by ca. 1930, fairly gen. London s.

yob-gab. Boys' talk or 'ziph' (q.v. in Dict.): coster's s., and c.: mid-C. 19–20. B. & L.

yobbo. A post-1910 variant of yob, 3 (Dict.). In, e.g., The Evening News, March 7, 1938, and in Herbert Hodge, Cab, Sir?, 1939.—2. Hence, an arrogant and resentful, loutish and violent Teddy boy: low, mostly London: since ca. 1948. An extension of yob, as Anglo-Irish boyo is of S.E. boy; cf. yob, 3, on p. 971. (The Manchester Guardian, Sept. 11, 1958—a letter from A. T. Reeves.)

yock, I, is also c. of mid-C. 19–20. B. & L.—3. In Shelta (where also spelt yok or yoke), a man: C. 18–20. B. & L.—4. See:

yog (p. 971), a gentile: 'Pronounced yock for euphony,' The Leader, Jan. 1939.

yoke. An apparatus; almost any gadget:

Anglo-Irish: since ca. 1925. In The Student Body, 1958, Nigel Fitzgerald applies it to a revolver.

yonnie. A pebble, small stone: Australian: late C. 19–20. B., 1942. Aboriginal?

Yorkshire, n.—2. Yorkshire pudding: coll.: late C. 19–20. Esp. in 'roast and Yorkshire'.

Yorkshire tike.—2. (Often shortened to Yorkshire.) A microphone: since ca. 1945. Rhyming on s. mike. (Communicated by Dallas Bower in 1957.)

Yorky. A Yorkshireman (or -woman): coll.: C. 19–20. Boxiana II, 1818; James Curtis, They Ride by Night, 1938.

yorter. You ought to: Australian semi-literate coll.: late C. 19–20. Jock Marshall & Russell Drysdale, Journey among Men, 1962, p. 117, "I tell yer, fellas, yorter go there."

you. Short for you and me (p. 971): since ca. 1910. Gerald Kersh, 1941.

you and me.—2. A pea: Australian rhyming s.: C. 20.—3. A urination: rhyming s. (on pee): C. 20.—4. A flea: rhymings s.: ca. 1880–1914. Franklyn 2nd.

you—and who else? Australian, you and whose army? A c.p. of derisive defiance addressed to a belligerent opponent: since, resp., ca. 1920 and 1944. 'I reckon I can fight you any day.'—'Yeah, you and whose army?' (B.P.)

you beaut! A c.p., indicative originally and predominantly of approval, hence occasionally of derision: Australian: since ca. 1925. (B., 1943.)

you can always stoop and pick up nothing! A c.p. remark made by a friend after a 'row' or by a parent concerning a child's intended husband (or wife): mostly Cockneys': C. 20.

you can hear them change their minds. A c.p. that, dating from ca. 1946, satirizes the thinness of the walls in post-war flats and council houses.

you can put a ring around that one. That's one thing you can be sure of: a New Zealand c.p.: since ca. 1925. (Slatter.) To 'ring' it so that it stands out on the page.

you can say that again! A c.p. expressive of heartfelt agreement: adopted, ca. 1930, ex U.S. Cf. say it again! above.

you can say that in spades! A c.p. of heartfelt agreement: since ca. 1945. 'He saw me properly then for the first time . . . "You look bushed. You need a drink."—"You can say that in spades," I said': John Welcome, Beware of Midnight, 1961. Cf. the preceding entry.

you can take it from me! You may accept it as true: c.p.: since ca. 1910.

you can't do that there 'ere! and 'ere, what's all this? C.pp. that originated in derision at the illiteracy of the old-style police constable: C. 20.

you can't fly on one wing. A c.p. invitation to one more drink before departure: Canadian: since ca. 1945. (Leechman.)

you can't take it with you! A C. 20 c.p. directed at one who, saving money, loses happiness. In, e.g., S. P. B. Mais, Cape Sauce, 1948.

you can't think. You cannot imagine it; to an incredible degree: non-aristocratic, non-cultured c.p.: from ca. 1890. W. Pett Ridge. Minor Dialogues, 1895, 'She took up such a 'igh and mighty attitude, you can't think.' This you can't think, coming at the end of a phrase or sentence, derives naturally ex that you can't think! (see, in Dict., at think!, only) which precedes a sentence.

you can't win. A Canadian c.p., dating since ca. 1950 and 'expressing the impossibility of coming out on top and the futility of kicking against the pricks' (Leechman). Was it Ring Lardner who said, approximately, 'The odds are 6-4 against life'? But then, no spirited person would refuse such odds.

you can't win them all; in England, often... 'em all. You can't always succeed: an American c.p., adopted ca. 1960, yet hardly acclimatized before ca. 1964. You can't win every game or battle—or girl.

you could piss from one end of the country to the other. A c.p., in reference to the small size of England: since ca. 1910.

you couldn't be more right! A c.p. of entire agreement: Australian: since the late 1930's. (B.P.) A variant of I couldn't agree more, q.v. at couldn't care less above.

you couldn't blow the froth off a pint or knock a pint back; you couldn't fight (or punch) your way out of a paper bag. C.pp. addressed, in C. 20, to a man boasting of his strength or of his fist-fighting ability; the third is mainly Australian.

you couldn't throw your hat over the workhouse wall! You have many illegitimate children in there: a Cockney c.p. of C. 20. To retrieve one's hat thrown over the wall would be to expose oneself to the risk of recognition.

you don't have to buy... See why buy...?

you don't know whether (a) you want a shit or a haircut, or (b) your arse-hole's bored or punched. These low C. 20 c.pp. are used, the former to impute befuddlement, the latter to undermine an argument.—2. With substitution of won't for don't, both of these c.pp. are, in reaction to insult or to horse-play, intended to deter or to intimidate: since ca. 1910. (Atkinson.)

you don't look at the mantel-piece when (or while) you're poking the fire. A c.p. (verging on the proverbial) in reference to sexual intercourse: late C. 19-20.

you don't say! A c.p. indicative of astonishment: C. 20. Short for you don't say so!

you fasten on! Go on!; proceed: non-aristocratic: from ca. 1870; ob. B. & L.

you get nothing for nothing... See nothing for nothing above.

you give me the balls-ache!; or you give me a pain in the arm—arse—back—balls—neck—etc., etc. I disagree with your point of view; or, I disapprove of your behaviour: c.pp., the first, third, fifth being low; mostly Londoners': C. 20.

you have (usually, you've) been doing naughty things. A bourgeois c.p. addressed, C. 20, to a young couple when, obviously, the wife is pregnant.

you have it made or you've got it made. You're on the point of succeeding: Australian c.p.: adopted, ca. 1944, ex U.S.

you haven't a dirty pound note or two (that) you don't want, have you? (or, I suppose?) A borrower's 'touch'—which may be merely playful: since ca. 1925.

you haven't got the brains you were born with! A derisive c.p.: C. 20.

you kill me! You're so funny!: ironic c.p.: since ca. 1935. Also, since ca. 1942, you slay me!

you know. This stop-gap, almost meaningless phrase ranks as coll. and dates from at least as early as C. 18.—2. Hence, in the Services, its use, as a coll., in contradiction. Thus: 'I'm just off to the flicks.'—'You're not, you know. You're duty stooge.' Apparently it arose in the 1920's and perhaps it originated in the R.A.F.

you know the old saying: the Persian Gulf's the arse-hole of the world, and Shaiba's half-way up it. A depreciatory c.p.: R.A.F. and Army: since the 1920's. At Shaiba—properly, Shu'aiba—there was, for many years, a transit camp. (Atkinson.) This distinction has, since the middle 1920's been claimed by the R.A.F. for such unpopular stations as Aden, Basra, Freetown, Shaiba (in Iraq), Suez.

you know what (? or I) An introductory c.p., a mere announcer of a phrase or of a statement: mid-C. 19-20; perhaps going back to late C. 17.

you know what thought did! See thought did!... in the Dict. 'The pert Cockney boy's response is, "No, 'e never! 'E only thought 'e did!'" (Julian Franklyn, Jan. 3, 1968): C. 20.

you know what you can do! or what to do with it! or what you can do with it! I don't want it, you can 'stick it' (in the anatomical nuance): since ca. 1925: adopted by the Services. Part-ridge, 1945.

you make a better door than a window. A C. 20 New Zealand c.p., addressed to a person getting in the light. B., 1941. Cf. glazier?... in the Dict.

you make I laugh! A derisive variation of the contemptuous you make me laugh!: lower-middle class c.p.: ca. 1905-40.

you may have broken your mother's heart, but you bloody well won't break mine! A drill instructors', esp. drill sergeants', c.p.: dating from ca. 1870—or earlier (? during the Napoleonic Wars).

you must be joking! See are you kidding?

you never did. You never did hear the like of it; you've never heard anything so funny: Cockney coll.: from ca. 1870. A. Neil Lyons, Matilda's Mabel, 1903, 'My dearest Tilda. Such a go you never did! Mr Appleby proposed to me this afternoon!'

you never get a satisfied cock without a wet pussy. A low c.p.: C. 20. 'The crude and the undeniable in juxtaposition are a frequent astringent herb of popular speech': Laurie Atkinson, Sept. 11, 1967.

you never know! You never know what may come of it: c.p.: late C. 19-20.

you never know your luck! A C. 20 c.p.; probably elaborating the preceding.

you pays your money and you takes your choice. Except when literal, it is a c.p.: C. 20.

you play like I fuck. You're a poor card-player: Canadian Army c.p.: 1939-45.

you ring the bell. You're accepted by the chaps: Services (esp. R.A.F.): since 1939. H. & P. See ring a bell.

you see! At see! above.

you shock my mahogany! A silly c.p. (you offend my morals) among the empty-headed: since ca. 1935; by 1948, ob.

you should pay for them! A jocular c.p., addressed to the wearer of squeaky boots or shoes: late C. 19-20. The wearer sometimes forestalls the witticism by saying (I) haven't paid for them yet. (They squeak in protest.)

you shouldn't have joined! A Forces' c.p. directed in 1939-45 at a complaint against the Service. (Atkinson.)

you shouldn't have joined if you can't take a joke.

A c.p. addressed to one complaining among work-mates, esp. of being put upon: since ca. 1945: ? orig. servicemen's.

you shread it, Wheat. See 'Canadian'. With pun on said it and shredded wheat.

you slay me. See you kill me.

you stick your prick . . . See I wouldn't . . .

you still wouldn't like it on your eye for a wart.

A low e.p. 'retort to imputation of undersized penis, but, even more, with boring suggestiveness and knowing wink when anything is thought not big enough' (Laurie Atkinson, Sept. 11, 1967): C. 20.

you talk like a halfpenny book. You talk foolishly: a Liverpool c.p.: late C. 19-20; by 1955, rather ob.

you (or you'd) want to know all the ins-and-outs of a nag's arse! You're very inquisitive: Cockney: late C. 19-20.

you want your head read! You need a phrenologist: a e.p. addressed to someone who has done or said something exceptionally stupid: since ca. 1920. (B.P.)

you were born stupid—you've learnt nothing—and you've forgotten (even) that. A c.p., not only Australian, current throughout C. 20. B.P., who adds that 'it is known in Austria and Germany'.

you weren't born—you were pissed up against the wall and hatched in the sun. This c.p., prompted by, e.g., 'before I was born', is a piece of stock wit beloved by the unfastidious male section of the proletariat.

you won't know . . . See you don't know.

you won't know yourself, as in 'Try on this overcoat—you won't know yourself': c.p.: C. 20.

you won't melt! A c.p. addressed to a child objecting to going out—esp. to running an errand—in the rain: C. 19-20 (? even older).

you wouldn't chuckle. You wouldn't think so: Forces' c.p.: since ca. 1938.—2. You bet I would: Forces': since ca. 1940. Cf.:

you wouldn't fuck it (or rob it). 'Signifies the complete positive to a question or a statement. "It's cold this morning." "You wouldn't rob it" (or "fuck it"),' R. M. Davison, letter of Sept. 26, 1942: R.A.F. c.p.: since ca. 1925. It = S.E. 'And that's no lie.'

you wouldn't knob it, q.v. at knob, n., 6 (above), has, esp. in the R.A.F., the further meaning, 'You bet I would!'

you wouldn't read about it. See wouldn't read . . . above.

you wouldn't shit me; or don't shit the troops. A Canadian Army c.p. (1939-45): I don't believe you.

you'd be (or get) killed in the rush. A low e.p., addressed to a girl who has just said 'I wouldn't marry you (even) if you were the last man in the world': C. 20. Ex various ribald and seabroos anecdotes.

you'd forget your head if it wasn't screwed on (properly), often preceded by forget! A C. 20 c.p. addressed to a forgetful person.

you'd have been taller if they hadn't turned up so much for feet. A Canadian c.p.: since ca. 1930.

you'd have died. You'd have died of laughing: c.p.: since ca. 1920.

you'd only spend it. A e.p. reply to someone saying that he'd like to have a lot of money: late C. 19-20.

you'd soon find it if there was hair round—or all around—it! A drill sergeants' c.p. to very new recruits learning their rifle drill and forbidden to look what they're doing: C. 20, or prob. since ca. 1870.

You'll be smoking next! What a dissipated fellow—or fast girl—you are: a jocular c.p., commenting upon an act very much more audacious or improper: since ca. 1955. Based upon the story of a young boy who has been interfering with, or playing sexually with, the girls of his age or a little older and whose neighbours have complained to his father, who, promising to deal suitably with this grave matter, calls the lad before him and says, 'I hear you've been fooling round with the girls. What a young devil you are! Dammit, you'll be smoking next!' Occasionally allusive, as in 'Why! he'll be smoking next or soon'.

you'll be telling me like the girl that you've fahnd (or found) a shilling. An 'anecdotal c.p. expression of derisive incredulity' (Atkinson): Cockneys': C. 20. Also, you come home with your drawers torn and say you found the money?

you'll do yourself out of a job. A jocularity addressed to someone working hard: c.p.: since ca. 1910.

you'll get something you don't want. A C. 20 c.p. When addressed to a man, it implies a venereal disease; to a girl or a young woman, pregnancy.

you'll know me again, won't you! See do you think . . .

you'll wake up one of these mornings and find yourself dead. An Anglo-Irish c.p. of late C. 19-20; not much heard since 1945.

Young is a nickname applied in contrast to Old to a Moore younger than another man thus sur-named: late C. 19-20. Ex Old Moor's Monthly Messenger, a prophetic periodical usually called Old Moore's for short.

young bear. A young midshipman very recently come to his first ship: Naval: ca. 1810-60. The Night Watch (II, 71), 1828; The Dublin University Magazine, Sept. 1834, p. 243, 'I found my brother middies on the whole very agreeable, and as a mark of kindness to the "young bear", I was invited to dine in the gun-room with the officers.' (Moe.)

young doc, the. The Junior Medical Officer: Naval: since ca. 1925. Granville.

young gentlemen, the. The midshipmen: Wardroom ironic coll.: C. 20. Granville. But it goes back to ca. 1810 or perhaps even earlier. It occurs in The Dublin University Magazine, Sept. 1836 on p. 263, and, in the singular ('"Young gentleman! pray where's your bed?"'), in Alfred Burton's narrative poem, The Adventures of Johnny Newcome in the Navy, 1818. (Moe.)

young one. 'I have been making a young one this morning . . . I have been making a truss of hay,' Sessions, April 9, 1845: farmers': since ca. 1829. In comparison with a rick of hay.

young student. See 'Tavern terms', § 3, d.

your ass-hole's sucking wind. You don't know what you're talking about: low Canadian c.p., common in Army of 1939-45. Note also the low Canadian e.pp. (since ca. 1925): your ass is sucking blue mud or your cock's out a foot, both meaning 'You are in error'.

your cough's getting better. A c.p. addressed to one who coughs (not badly): since ca. 1910. Also you're coughing better.

your feet won't touch (the ground: cf. next entry). Very quickly; in no time at all: Army c.p.: since ca. 1925. 'Any more of that, my lad, and your feet won't touch'—you'll soon be up before the C.O. (P-G-R.) Cf. your heels... below.

your guess is as good as mine. A c.p., current since ca. 1943, for a situation where neither party knows the facts. Adopted ex U.S.

your heels won't touch the ground! A minatory c.p., intended to deter or intimidate, esp. as a retort upon insult or horse-play: since ca. 1920. (Atkinson.)

your humble condumble. Your humble servant; I (myself): C. 18. Scott, in letter of Dec. 30, 1808, 'Every assistance that can be afforded by your humble condumble, as Swift says.' By rhyming reduplication. Recorded as early as Swift's Polite Conversation, 1738.

your knees aren't brown. A variant of knees brown...

your lip's bleeding! What big words you're using!: Australian juvenile: since ca. 1945. (B., 1953.) 'On the analogy of tongue-twister.

your mother does it. An Australian c.p., dating from ca. 1920 and designed to overcome virginal reluctance.

your nose is bleeding. Your trouser-fly is undone: c.p.: from ca. 1885; slightly ob.

your number's still wet. A variant (ca. 1918 +) of the theme at before you came up (p. 44).

you're a big lad for your age. A jocular c.p., addressed to an apprentice or other youthful worker: esp. in factories: late C. 19–20.

you're a poet and don't (or didn't) know it. See that's a rhyme...

you're all about—like shit in a field. You're alert and efficient—I don't think!: c.p.: C. 20. First, a compliment (see all about); then a significant pause; finally a jeer.

you're all mouth and trousers, euphemistic for you're all prick and breeches. A c.p. addressed to a loud-talking, blustering man: since ca. 1950, ca. 1920, resp. Laurie Atkinson records hearing the former on TV, July 1, 1964.

you're as much use as tits on a canary. A 'c.p. hurled at inefficient player in baseball, or other field sport' (Leechman): Canadian: since ca. 1945.

you're breaking my heart. See my heart bleeds for you.

you're fond of a job. A c.p. to someone doing another's work or unnecessary work: C. 20.

You're getting a big boy—or occasionally girl—now. To a boy, a mild reproof for petulance or bad manners; to a girl, for (usually accidental) immodesty: c.p.: late C. 19–20.

you're holding up production. You're wasting time (own or other's): R.A.F. (mostly): since 1940. Partridge, 1945.

you're jealous! A jocular c.p. in retort to 'You're drunk': since ca. 1920.

you're not on; occ. you're on next. I want nothing to do with you; you don't convince me; you've failed: a Liverpool c.p., dating since ca.

1945. Ex boxing: 'You've been waiting, and expecting to substitute for an absentee—but you're not needed.' (Communicated by Frank Shaw.)

you're on my hook. You're getting in my way: Australian c.p.: ca. 1946–55. Ex angling.

you're selling tea! A facetious variant of you're telling me!: ca. 1945–55.

You're so full of shit your eyes are brown. A Canadian Army c.p. (1939–45)—expressing a violent dislike.

you're so sharp you'll be cutting yourself! A late C. 19–20 c.p., addressed to a 'smart' person.

you're the doctor! Whatever you say, (for) you're doing it; you're the authority or the expert or the man in charge—and the responsibility is yours: c.p., Canadian and English: since ca. 1945. (Leechman.)

yours and hours (p. 972), flowers, is probably a mistaken form of the synonymous yours and ours, current among Covent Garden porters and street vendors since ca. 1850. (Based upon Franklyn, Rhyming.)

you're a bad cough; occ. that's a bad cough you have. A c.p., addressed to one who breaks wind: since ca. 1910.

you've been. Your promised trip (esp. in an aircraft) has been cancelled: R.A.F.: since ca. 1936. H. & P. Cf. you've had it.

you've fixed it up nicely for me! No, you don't!; do you think I'm green?!: proletarian c.p.: ca. 1880–1910. B. & L.

you've forgot(ten) the piano! Sarcastic c.p. (C. 20) addressed to one with much baggage; often witheringly by bus conductors.

you've got a smile like a can of worms. A Canadian (? originally fishermen's) c.p., expressing dislike: since ca. 1925.

you've got a swinging brick. Your heart is like stone, you have no emotions: c.p.: North of England: since late 1950's. (David Wharton, June 6, 1966.)

you've got eyes in your head, haven't you? A disparaging c.p.: late C. 19–20.

you've got it all round your neck. A c.p., stigmatizing confusion, esp. inability or hesitancy to complete an explanation: since ca. 1945.

you've got something there. You're on to something good; there's much to be said for it: c.p.: since ca. 1910.

you've had it! See have had it.

you've had your time. You're finished, you're 'through'; you're too late: R.A.F.: 1940 +. Gerald Emanuel, letter of March 29, 1945.

you've picked a bad apple. You've chosen badly: c.p.: since ca. 1920.

yow, keep. To stand guard; act as look-out man: Aus. c.: since ca. 1930. B., 1959.

yum-yum (p. 973) is recorded by B. & L., 1890.—2. Hence, as n.: love-letters: Navy: since ca. 1920. H. & P.; Granville.

yunk. A piece, a portion; a lump: Australian: since ca. 1910. (B., 1943.) Ex Aboriginal?

yunk of dodger. A slice of bread: Aus.: since ca. 1919. (B., 1959.) Cf. preceding.

Z

zac is Culotta's spelling of:
zack. Sixpence: New Zealand and Australian: since ca. 1890. This dictionary, 2nd ed., 1938. Perhaps a perversion of six; but cf. Dutch zaakje, 'small affair'.—2. Hence, a six-months' prison sentence: Australian c.: C. 20. B., 1942. zack, not worth a. Utterly worthless: Australian C. 20. Ex zack, 1, above. zambuk. 'A first-aid man in attendance at a sporting contest' (B., 1943): Australian: since ca. 1925. Ex a famous embrocation. zanth. A chrysanthemum: market-gardeners' coll.: late C. 19–20. (Gerald Kersh, Faces in a Dusty Picture, 1944.)
Zarp (Dict.) is not an anagram but a simple initials-word.
zeck. A variant (B., 1942) of zack (above)—in sense 2. zift. No good; inferior; ineffectual: Army: C. 20. Arabic for 'pitch, tar, dirt'. (Atkinson.) Perhaps the E. zift contracts Ar. zefut, weak. (A. McQueen.) zigzag (p. 973), also zig-a-zag.
zigzig, n. and v. Copulation; to copulate: Services': late C. 19–20. A word known and used throughout the Near and Middle East, and in the Mediterranean. Ultimately, probably echoic. Commoner is jig-a-jig, q.v. on p. 438. zilch. Nothing: R.A.F.: since ca. 1948. Just possibly ex zero + nil + German nichts. zing. See oomph.—2. Earlier, however, it had been current in the Guards Regiment for 'vigour, energy'. Gerald Kersh, They Die with Their Boots Clean, 1941, records it as having been used in 1940 by a P.T. instructor, 'I'll soon get that paleness off your faces and put some zing into those limbs.' zippy.—2. Hence, fast, speedy: since ca. 1930. 'My idea . . . was to get a zippy load into Richon, and then move on to T.A.': Ian Jeffries, Thirteen Days, 1958.
zizz, n. A rest period: Services: since ca. 1925. H. & P. Echoic ex the hissing and whistling noises made by those who fall off to sleep; or perhaps coined by regulars with service in tropical countries, where, at night, they had so often heard the mosquitoes going 'zizz-zizz-zizz . . .'. zizz, v. To sleep: mostly R.A.F.: since ca. 1930. Ex then. By 1940, via the Fleet Air Arm, it was fairly common in the Navy. (Granville.) It may, however, derive ex the fact that newspaper cartoons (e.g. Felix) have long used a string of z's issuing from the mouths of their somnolent characters. zizz-pudding. A heavy suet-pudding: Naval: 1940 +. Granville, 'Because of its sleep-inducing properties.'
zizzer. A bed: Services, esp. R.A.F.: since ca. 1930. Ex zizz, v.
zob. Very nice: Plumtree School, Southern Rhodesia: since ca. 1920. (A. M. Brown, letter of Sept. 18, 1938.) Arbitrary? zobbit. An officer: R.A.F. lower ranks': since ca. 1965. (Sgt R. Farley, Feb. 16, 1967.) Ex S.E. zombie?

zol or aap (or arp); esp. make an aap or a zol, to make a dagga cigarette: South African c.: C. 20. (C. P. Wittstock, letter of May 23, 1946.) The nouns are Afrikaans words, the former phrase meaning, lit., 'make a monkey'.
Zombie. A Canadian 'Home Guard' not allowed to serve outside North America: ca. 1940–5. 'After the Voodoo cult which insists that dead men can be made to walk and act as if they were alive,' Daily Express, Sept. 16, 1943 (cable from Austin Cross). zombie. A conscript: Canadian Army: 1939–45. He has a lost appearance: cf. the sense of S.E. Zombie.—2. (Rare in singular.) Zombies, police-women: c., since ca. 1949; then, since ca. 1952, also police s. (John Dickson Carr, Patrick Butler . . ., 1956.)
zombies. Basutoland and Bechuanaland companies of Pioneers in E. Africa and Near East: Army: ca. 1940–6.—2. See prec., sense 2.
Zone, the. 'The coveted promotion zone, the goal of the two-and-a-half striper. If one is outside the zone one is said to have "been"', Granville: Naval officers': since ca. 1925. Compare the Army's sweat on the top line (p. 853).
zoo.—3. Zoology: schoolboys' and -girls': since ca. 1925.—4. As the zoo, it was the 29th Armoured Division's name for 'funnies' (see funny, n., 4): ca. 1942–5. (P-G-R.)—5. The zoo, the barbed-wire entanglements: Army in France: 1915–18. (Reginald Pound, The Lost Generation, 1964.) zoo box. A messing van: railwaymen's: C. 20. (Railway.) zoo tie. A gaudy necktie: South African: C. 20. Alan Nash in The Cape Times, June 3, 1946. Afrikaans zoot. zooks. Sweets: schoolchildren's, esp. in West Country: late C. 19–20. Ex dial. form of sucks = suckers, sweets. zoom, v.i., to 'make a hit'; v.t., to boost by publicity: since ca. 1944. Ex Air Force zoom (p. 974). zoomer. A member of an air crew: Australian airmen's: 1939–45. (B., 1943.) Ex zoom (p. 974). zoon(-)bat. See 'Canadian'. zoot canary. A fashion model (the person): beatniks' and teenagers': since ca. 1959. (Anderson.) Cf.: zoot suit. A flashy suit of clothes: adopted, ca. 1950, from U.S. Here, zoot, is perhaps Dutch zoet, sweet. Dr Douglas Leechman comments thus: This is a bit complicated. In the first place, the New York ruffians corresponding to the Teddy boys pronounce 'suit' as 'soot', rhyming with 'boot', not as we do, rhyming with 'cute'. When zoot suits became fashionable, it was 'the thing' to duplicate words, thus the 'zoot soot', which had a fashionable 'drape shape'.—2. 'Special wind- and water-proof clothing which, issued to the crews of armoured vehicles in Europe in Nov. 1944, could also be used as sleeping bags' (Peter Sanders): late 1944–45. (Major-General G. L. Verney, The Desert Rats, 1954.)

zoucher. See sycher (Addenda) and cf. zouch (Dict.).

Zowie. 'A new import from San Francisco, meaning hippy language' (Peter Fryer in The Observer colour supplement, Dec. 3, 1967): hippies': since (? May) 1967. In Am. s., since ca. 1945, zowie has signified 'energy' or 'zest' or the two combined (W. & F.); itself ex the exclamatory zowie!, biff! or bang!

Zozo. A metropolitan Frenchman: late C. 19–20: 'a term with little currency in Australia but quite widespread in the New Hebrides and New Caledonia among Australians. From Pidgin 'mens-aux-oreilles' (ear-men) because the French offered a bounty on the ears of New Caledonian natives during the revolt of 1878' (Edwin Morrisby, letter of Aug. 30, 1958).

zubrick. Penis: Australian: since ca. 1941. Perhaps a rhyming-s. elaboration—on prick, 3 (p. 659)—of the synonymous Arabic zab. (Edwin Morrisby, Aug. 30, 1958.)

Zulu. 'An emigrant outfit', esp. a train for either emigrants or immigrants: Canadian railroadmen's: adopted, before 1931, ex U.S. Perhaps ex anglers' zulu, a gaudy fly.

zyders. The washing places: Felsted School: since ca. 1925. Marples, 'Probably from Zuyder Zee.'

zymotic, whence the even slangier zymy, 'Lousy': teenagers': since ca. 1963. (Mrs Verily Anderson, letter of Nov. 15, 1963.) Contrast unzymotic.

(Continued from front flap)

contribution to a difficult subject, and greatly surpasses all its predecessors.”

Subsequent editions have continued to command superlative reviews from critics. In 1951, Edmund Wilson wrote in The New Yorker, “The dictionary, which aims to cover, as its title page announces, ‘colloquialisms and catch phrases, solecisms and catachreses, nicknames, vulgarisms and such Americanisms as have been naturalized,’ is a masterly performance and ought to be acquired by every reader who wants for his library a sound lexicographical foundation. This reviewer has been using it for years and he does not remember Partridge’s ever having let him down.”

Now updated and enlarged, A Dictionary of Slang and Unconventional English appears in its Seventh Edition—a monumental work of impressive scholarship and a model of scrupulous planning and arrangement.

Jacket design/David November

Also by Eric Partridge

Origins

- An etymological dictionary of the 12,000 most common words in modern English.
- "To read his book is to be reminded of the magic that resides in words."—The Times (London)

A Dictionary of the Underworld

- Being the Vocabularies of Crooks, Criminals, Racketeers, Beggars, Tramps, Convicts, the Commercial Underworld, the Drug Traffic, the White Slave Traffic, and Spivs. For each entry—some date back to the sixteenth century—there is an approximate date of origin, an etymology, quotations, and a note of the milieu in which the expression arose.

A Dictionary of Clichés

- Full of the things better left unsaid, hackneyed phrases, idioms battered into senselessness, infuriating Gallicisms, once-familiar quotations and longo intervallo, tags from the ancient classics. It makes a formidable list, amplified as it is with definitions, sources, quotations and indications of the cliché's venerability in every case.

The Gentle Art of Lexicography

- "Partridge has produced a jaunty, informal little book about his cautious and deliberate calling. 'The Gentle Art of Lexicography' might almost make the reader suppose that the writing of dictionaries was a literary lark, with a lot of good picturesque talk at the pub, rather than the result of 30 years' toil—9 to 5—in the British Museum."—Newsweek

Macmillan Publishing Co., Inc.
866 Third Avenue, New York, N.Y. 10022

ISBN 0-02-594970-5