

BREMEN PUBLIC LIBRARY

3 3014 00265 0820

ERIC PARTRIDGE

A DICTIONARY OF

SLANG

AND UNCONVENTIONAL ENGLISH

8th edition

EDITED BY PAUL BEALE

Bremen Public Library
Bremen, Indiana

10-05

Eric Partridge

A DICTIONARY OF SLANG
AND UNCONVENTIONAL
ENGLISH

WITHDRAWN

Colloquialisms
Provincialisms
Generalisms
Slang
and Unconventional English

OTHER ROUTLEDGE BOOKS BY ERIC PARTRIDGE

A Concise Dictionary of Slang and Unconventional English (1989, edited by Paul Beale from Partridge's materials)

Origins
An Etymological Dictionary of Modern English Fourth edition

Smaller Slang Dictionary
Second edition (paperback)

The Routledge Dictionary of Historical Slang that is, up to 1914, edited by Jacqueline Simpson

A Dictionary of Catch Phrases
British and American, from the Sixteenth Century to the Present Day Second edition (edited by Paul Beale)

A Dictionary of Clichés
Fifth edition (paperback)

Shakespeare's Bawdy
An Essay and a Glossary
Third edition (paperback)

You Have a Point There
A Guide to Punctuation and its Allies with a chapter on American practice by John W. Clark (paperback)

Eric Partridge

A DICTIONARY OF

SLANG

AND UNCONVENTIONAL
ENGLISH

Colloquialisms and Catch Phrases

Fossilised Jokes and Puns

General Nicknames

Vulgarisms and such Americanisms as have been naturalised

Edited by Paul Beale

R
417.2
D561

First first published 1937 by Routledge & Kegan Paul

Second edition, enlarged, 1938

Third edition, much enlarged, 1949

Fourth edition, revised, 1951

Fifth edition, in two volumes, supplement much enlarged, 1961

Sixth edition, in two volumes, supplement revised and enlarged, 1967

Seventh edition, in two volumes, supplement revised and enlarged, 1970

Reprinted, in one volume, 1983

Eighth edition 1984

Reprinted 1991, 2000

by Routledge

11 New Fetter Lane, London EC4P 4EE

Simultaneously published in the USA and Canada

by Routledge

29 West 35th Street, New York, NY 10001

This eighth edition first published in paperback 2002

Routledge is an imprint of the Taylor & Francis Group

© 1961, 1967, 1970, 1984, 2002 the estate of Eric Partridge

Selection of entries © 1984, 2002 Paul Beale

Foreword © 2002 David Crystal

Printed and bound in Great Britain

by Butler & Tanner Ltd, Frome and London

All rights reserved. No part of this book may be reprinted or reproduced or utilized in any form or by any electronic, mechanical, or other means, now known or hereafter invented, including photocopying and recording, or in any information storage or retrieval system, without permission in writing from the publishers.

British Library Cataloguing in Publication Data

A catalogue record for this book is available from the British Library

Library of Congress Cataloging in Publication Data

A catalog record for this book has been requested

ISBN 0-415-06568-2 (Hbk)

ISBN 0-415-29189-5 (Pbk)

Contents

Foreword	ix
Preface to the 8th Edition	xiii
Preface to the 1st Edition	xvii
Acknowledgements	xxi
Arrangement within Entries	xxiii
Dating	xxv
Bibliographical Abbreviations	xxvii
Abbreviations and Signs	xxxiii
THE DICTIONARY	1
Appendix	1373

Evolution of the phonetic alphabet—Army slang in the South African War—Association football—Australian surfing slang—Australian underworld terms current in 1975—Back slang—Bird-watchers' slang—Body—Canadian adolescents' slang—Charterhouse—Chow-chow—Clergymen's diction in the Church of England—Cockney catch-phrases—Cockney speech—Colston's—Constables—Crown and Anchor—To die—Drinks, Drunkenness—Drop a brick—Drugs—Dupes—Echoism in slang—Ejaculations—Epithets and adverbial phrases—Eton—Euphemisms—Felsted—Food—Fools' errands—Fops and gallants—Grafters' and market-traders' slang—Gremlins—Guard-room—Harlots—Harrow—Harry—Hauliers' slang—Hooligan—Imperial Service College—Initials for names—Interpolation—ITMA—Jazz terms—Jive and swing—Kibosh—Kilroy was here—King's Own Schneiders—Know—Korean War slang—Long time no see!—Loo—Lovers' acronyms—Mah-Jong—Mans—Men—Miscellanea—Mock auction slang—Money—Moving-picture slang—Nicknames—O.K.—Occupational names—Ocker—'Oxford -er(s)'—Paint the town red—Parlyaree—Pie in the sky—Pip-squeak—Prisoner-of-war slang—Public and Grammar School slang in 1968—Railwaymen's slang and nicknames—Regional names—Rhodesian Army slang current in 1976—'Rhubarb'—Rogues and beggars in C. 18—Shelta—Shortenings—Spanglish—Stonyhurst—Strine—Surnames, truncated—Swahili—Tavern terms in C. 17—Tiddlywinks—Tombola—Two-up—Verbs in C. 18 slang—War slang, 1939–45—Westminster—Winchester—Women in C. 18 slang

Contents

Foreword

Preface to the 8th Edition

Preface to the 1st Edition

Acknowledgments

Arrangement within Entries

Dating

Bibliographical Abbreviations

Abbreviations and Signs

THE DICTIONARY

Appendix

Index

Digitized by the Internet Archive in 2022 with funding from Kahle/Austin Foundation

Foreword

Eric Partridge began his memoir Adventuring Among Words with a memorable metaphor. 'Every adventure of the mind is an adventure vehicled by words.' And he went on:

Every adventure of the mind is an adventure with words; every such adventure is an adventure among words; and occasionally an adventure is an adventure of words.

On this count, A Dictionary of Slang and Unconventional English is Partridge's greatest adventure – the largest and most frequently and most thoroughly revised of all his works. And the arrival of a paperback printing of Paul Beale's sensitive and scrupulous eighth edition is an opportune moment to reflect a little on the adventurer.

Eric Honeywood Partridge was born on 6 February 1894 on a farm in Waimata Valley, near Gisborne, North Island, New Zealand. In 1907, he moved with his family to Brisbane, where he went to grammar school. He left at sixteen, and spent some years as a trainee teacher at schools in Queensland and New South Wales. A scholarship to the University of Queensland enabled him to read first Classics, and later French and English. But the First World War interrupted his studies: he joined the Australian infantry in April 1915, and served in Egypt, Gallipoli, and on the Western Front. He then returned to university, between 1919 and 1921, and received a BA. In 1921 he was made a Queensland Travelling Fellow, and went to Oxford, where he worked simultaneously for an MA on eighteenth-century English romantic poetry and a BLitt in comparative literature, both of which were in due course published. A short period of teaching at a grammar school in Lancashire followed, and then appointments at the Universities of Manchester and London. He was married in 1925, and had a daughter.

The year 1927 proved to be a turning-point. He gave up his academic career, partly because of some difficulties with public speaking (a vocal cord weakness) and partly because of his preference to become, as he liked to put it, a 'man of letters'. His love of writing had appeared early. By the time he was thirteen, he had attempted a novel and several short stories. Verse translations from French poetry were privately circulated in 1914, followed by several wartime writings, and the mid-1920s saw a number of literary studies. From 1923, he found a second home in the British Museum library, where desk K1 would eventually be acknowledged as 'his' – for over 50 years! In 1927, he founded the Scholartis Press as a private venture, publishing over 60 books, and directing it until 1931, when the pressures caused by the economic recession of the time caused bankruptcy. Under the pseudonym of Corrie Denison, he wrote three novels.

The year 1932 was another turning-point, for it was then his freelance writing began in earnest. A remarkable number of essays and articles appeared during that decade. His first major work on slang appeared in 1933, followed in 1937 by the first edition of the present Dictionary. During the Second World War he joined the Army Education Corps, and later transferred to the correspondence department of the RAF. In 1945, he was back at his British Museum desk, and began a further productive period of essays and lexicographical projects. A Dictionary of the Underworld was completed in 1949 and Origins: A Short Etymological Dictionary of Modern English in 1958. He also spent more time as an editor, in the 1950s founding the Language Library series for Andre Deutsch – a series (now published by Blackwell) through which I had my only personal encounter with him, when I joined him in 1977 as co-editor. He used to call me ‘the working editor’ (for he was then 83) but he was always busy himself on the never-ending task of dictionary revision. He had to leave London towards the end of 1976 for health reasons, and moved to Devon. His last major project, A Dictionary of Catch Phrases, appeared in 1977, and he died on 1 June 1979, still working away on a revised edition of this book.

When I compiled a bibliography of his books for a memorial volume, Eric Partridge: In His Own Words (Deutsch, 1980), it consisted of over 75 items but this figure hardly does justice to the size of some of the works included (such as this Dictionary), or to the scale and frequency of the revisions. Every dictionary was continually being monitored and emended, and would eventually appear as a new edition, with the language describing the revisions as carefully phrased as the revisions themselves. His craft, as he put it, was one of ‘perpetual revision’. The original Dictionary was followed by a Supplement in 1938. A second edition, ‘revised and enlarged’, also appeared that year. A third edition, ‘revised and much enlarged’, came in 1949, and other editions followed in 1951, 1961 (by which time the work had become two volumes), 1967, and 1970. After his death, the seventh edition was revised as a single volume, in 1983, and the present, eighth edition appeared the following year.

The reminiscences of his many friends testify to his extraordinary fascination with words, and his remarkable memory for etymology and usage, so that he could respond to casual enquiries about words with an enviable immediacy. As Winston Graham, a fellow author and member of the Savile Club, put it, ‘It was as if all the books he had written were filed away page by page in his head, like a miniature British Museum Reading Room, and he only had to take down the correct volume’. Partridge described himself as an ‘addict’, someone ‘serving a life sentence’ in the service of words. ‘Once a lexicographer, always a lexicographer’, he would say, and always took care to distance himself from Johnson’s caricature of a lexicographer as a ‘harmless drudge’. ‘Lexicography’, he said, ‘is always fascinating. And often it’s fun.’ He stressed the excitement, too, of delving into the unknown, which is so often the case when investigating the origins of words. It is standard traditional dictionary practice to report ‘etymology unknown’. This never satisfied Partridge. As Anthony Burgess put it in his memorial essay: ‘Eric’s etymologies were often, as he admitted, shaky, but he preferred a shaky etymology to none at all.’

We have only to look at the sheer scale of the Dictionary, and the question inevitably comes to mind: how does one begin to put together such a work? And what sort of person must one be? Partridge had answers to both these questions. In The Gentle Art of Lexicography, there is a chapter entitled 'How it all began'. And how it began was in a totally amateurish way.

I bought a little note-book and industriously entered all those strange names and words and phrases which came my way or which I learned by eager enquiry. "If you wish to know, ask!"

The pocket-sized notebook is the obligatory tool of the infant lexicographer. But it needs to belong to a temperament which is dogged, meticulous, organized, insightful, and courageous. For Partridge, a dictionary was like a mountain to be climbed, with the success dependent upon the planning.

For A Dictionary of Slang and Unconventional English ... I spent three well-occupied weeks in planning the book: the period to be covered; the scope – involving the solution of some very knotty problems of delimitation and classification; the alphabetical system to be followed ..., the order of procedure within every single entry – whether, for instance, etymology should come first or last, and to what extent, if any, quotations should be used. ... I read widely, moved in many circles, and listened hard; necessarily, I listened very discreetly, wherever I might be prosecuting my researches.

This last observation, of course, was a matter of survival, I imagine, when he was finding his informants for the Dictionary of the Underworld. The word 'courageous' is not lightly chosen.

But Eric Partridge's courage was multi-faceted. Take his choice of career. It would have been a relatively easy matter for him to have followed a safe career in academia, with a healthy and secure salary; but he chose to become a freelance wordsmith, living entirely from his royalties. Moreover, he decided to do this in the years of the Great Depression, maintaining his vision even after the financial failure of his publishing company. Then there is the question of the courage one needs in choosing a subject-matter. It is easy to forget – in an age when virtually 'anything goes' as far as words are concerned – just how daring Partridge was in embarking on a career in which slang would be centre-stage. The public intuition about language of the inter-War decades was still largely Victorian in temperament. Colloquialism, slang, argot, cant, bawdiness, and obscenity were considered either trivial or taboo. The Oxford English Dictionary had largely avoided including them. The taboo words caused the greatest anxiety, of course. Even as late as 1960 we find a public furore when Penguin dared to publish an unexpurgated edition of Lady Chatterly's Lover. Imagine what it was like, then, twenty years earlier, when the first edition of the Dictionary of Slang and Unconventional English came out. It was the 'unconventional' element which attracted most attention. Words were being included that were normally hidden from the kind of polite readership associated with dictionary-users. Not just fk and ct, as they would tend to be printed (if allowed at all), in those days, but all their derivative forms and idioms, numbering several dozen. One mention was bad enough. Several dozen was really going too far.

Partridge of course knew what the reaction would be, so much so that he took pains to state plainly that he was simply a dispassionate recorder of the offensive subject-matter: the sentiments, he would say, are not his own, but 'the sentiments of the persons by whom such terms were first invented, or those by whom they are used'. And in the preface to his first edition he states:

My rule, in the matter of unpleasant terms, has been to deal with them as briefly, as astringently, as aseptically as was consistent with clarity and adequacy; in a few instances, I had to force myself to overcome an instinctive repugnance; for these I ask the indulgence of my readers.

But his readers were not indulgent. There was a widespread opinion that, if you study words like fuck, it must be because you are perverted. And anyone who enquired about them must be perverted too. I can still remember the strange looks I got when, as an undergraduate with a Partridgean fascination with words, I tried to find the present Dictionary in my local library. It was in the catalogue all right, but it had been withdrawn from the public shelves. This was perfectly normal practice, in those days. The suspicion lasted for decades, and I would not be surprised to find some libraries still suspicious of Partridge today.

In the memorial volume, both Anthony Burgess and Ralph Elliott felt that this preoccupation with words which were not entirely 'healthy' was the reason that Eric Partridge never received any British public or academic recognition for his lifetime of lexical labour, and I agree. If he had dealt with the 'big words' of the language, the ones which attract intellectual respect, or the styles associated with refined usage, as did Sir Ernest Gowers, things would surely have been very different. Partridge died before this neglect could be corrected. But in terms of personal achievement, his stature in the history of linguistic ideas remains outstanding, and his contribution to the study of demotic English speech has had no parallel. Along with Fowler and Gowers, he is one of the triumvirate of usage pundits with which the middle decades of the twentieth century are associated. In terms of single-mindedness and sheer hard work, even to the extent of it affecting his health, I would rank him alongside the founding editor of the Oxford English Dictionary, Sir James Murray. Partridge's personal and idiosyncratic approach was in many ways the opposite of that espoused by the OED, with its concern to establish citations from primary sources and to develop authoritative standards of presentation for historical lexicographical data. But there is room for both approaches in lexicography, and the present Dictionary deserves its now prominent place on library shelves. As Randolph Quirk puts it, in his essay for the memorial volume, 'Partridge's work is the best we are likely to have for a long time'.

Lord Quirk's observation was made in 1980. Two decades on, and the statement remains no less true with this eighth edition, which in its paperback form will bring the work of a remarkable lexicographer within the reach of a new generation of word enthusiasts.

David Crystal

Preface to the 8th Edition

The greatest and, I hope, the most helpful change effected in this new edition of A Dictionary of Slang and Unconventional English is the conflation of the original text of the first (1937) edition with all the subsequent Addenda that became, by 1961, so numerous as to warrant a second volume over half the size of the original. Besides making the Dictionary easier to consult and to browse in, this reunification has made it possible to correct a number of small inconsistencies, blind entries, duplications and one or two downright contradictions, all of which had gradually and almost inevitably crept in during the thirty busy years of Eric Partridge's piecemeal work of updating between 1937 and when the 7th edition went to the printer.

The second major change is the incorporation of the material accumulated by E.P. between 1967 and his last suggestion for a new entry, a mere six weeks before his death at the age of eighty-five on 1 June 1979. His notes, which he gave to me in autumn 1978, comprised some 5,000 entries: many entirely new; some additions, modifications and corrections to existing entries; a few back-datings. Nearly 1,000 of these were my own contributions, made during the course of a regular and copious correspondence that began in early 1974 when I was nearing the end of twenty-one years with the Intelligence Corps. These 1,000 may be considered to have been 'vetted' and approved; post-1978 'P.B.' entries and citations, unless otherwise attributed, are my own responsibility. An Appendix has now been added to contain items too unwieldy to fit comfortably into the main body of the text; it includes, for example, a chart showing the evolution of the signallers' phonetic alphabet that has given rise to many slang terms (O Pip, Charlie Oboe, etc.); some self-contained bodies of slang, e.g. that of prisoners of war in WW2; terms used in Housey/Tombola/Bingo and Tiddlywinks; a short discourse on the nonsense-prefix HARRY; and so on.

Other changes are less obvious, because they are omissions. E.P. included a considerable number of 'solecisms and catachreses', in other words illiteracies, or phrases couched in a grammar inconsistent with that of Standard English, and malapropisms. Many of these he treated more authoritatively and at greater length in his later Usage and Abusage, and the enquirer may seek them there, as those interested in the long-dead solecisms, many from the time when Modern English was still experimental, may look in the OED for the oddities and dead-end offshoots that E.P. dug out from its columns. I have omitted all such unless I know them to be or to have been used deliberately for (usually) humorous effect. Also disregarded are most of the familiar elisions of the aren't, weren't, sort, and phonetic renderings of what is merely slovenly (or perhaps dialect) speech, e.g. y' or ya' or yer for 'you' or 'your', tempory for 'temporary', 'cordin' for 'according', etc.

I have deleted some entries dealing with what either E.P. or his source Baumann glossed rather patronisingly as 'solecisms' that were, I maintain, simply examples of Cockney dialect. My deletion is not from prejudice against Cockney, but rather a recognition of it as a true dialect—and if that be included as 'unconventional English', then so too should be the whole of the English Dialect Dictionary. A line must be drawn somewhere (see as the monkey said)! The phonetic renderings were not, in many instances, completely accurate in any case. Here I must recommend without reserve The Muvver Tongue, 1980, by two highly observant, born-and-bred, dyed-in-the-wool East Londoners, Robert Barltrop and Jim Wolveridge. I found a particularly helpful corrective their astringent, practical, unromantic view of rhyming slang, examples of which of course appear widely in this Dictionary. It has been a pleasure to learn from them, as it has from Professor G.A. Wilkes, without whose Dictionary of Australian Colloquialisms, 1978, this edition would be so much the poorer. Because of E.P.'s background, born in New Zealand, being educated in Australia and serving 1915–18 in the AIF, he sometimes attributed words and phrases to those countries that should properly be allowed a much wider usage; his knowledge of Australian terms since ca. 1920 was not direct (see his own extensive acknowledgments to Baker and to Prentice). Professor Wilkes's work has therefore proved an invaluable fund of later twentieth century contexts, and I have, in some instances, preferred his interpretation of a term or phrase to E.P.'s original. It seems appropriate here to say that with so much very good cover already available on Austral English, it would be impertinent of me, even if I were qualified by any more than my six happy years of working with Australian servicemen, to do other than concentrate entirely, in any future edition of this Dictionary, on the slang and unconventional English used in Great Britain alone.

From this feeling that the Dictionary should try to deal mainly with British English stems my decision to ignore, except in minor references, any mention of the jargons generated by the two great imported fads that have swept the country while this work was in preparation: those of skateboarding and of Citizens' Band radio. Neither, so far as I am aware, has had any real impact on our 'normal' unconventional English; both are completely derivative. Skateboarding talk comes almost unchanged from that of its parent, surfboarding, which is itself already quite well covered by the new entries in the 7th edition (see AUSTRALIAN SURFING, in the Appendix); while 'CB', or 'Breakers' talk, so redolent of its American background, has been extensively treated in a number of glossaries for enthusiasts.

Researchers comparing the 7th edition with Farmer & Henley, and with Ware, will find that E.P. considered some of their entries to be Standard English, on the ground, I presume, of their entry without qualification in the OED. He noted his omissions; I have omitted most of his noted omissions because, with space important, their continued inclusion would be an unnecessary duplication. They formed part of the 1st edition of this Dictionary, so are now mostly historical, and they were, in most instances, unhelpful because un glossed.

Some items of pidgin, e.g. fowlo = fowl, have been left out (unless they have become recognised as slang, as all same like and long time no see) since they are merely examples of the inability of speakers of other languages—in this instance, mainly the Chinese—to get their tongues around certain English sounds. Many of the omissions are of course still available in E.P.'s sources, Yule & Burnell and Barrère & Leland. I have further omitted all nicknames of individuals, no matter how famous, unless they have some bearing on other terms or phrases. This means that nearly all E.P.'s borrowings from Dawson, 1908, have been dropped—but again, Dawson remains to be consulted. On the other hand, the stock of 'inevitable' nicknames, those automatically adhering to a surname, like 'Chippy' Carpenter, 'Dusty' Miller and 'Dolly'-Gray, which were such a feature of late nineteenth century and earlier twentieth century Service life, has been slightly augmented (see Appendix). The one exception to the 'individuals' is in the world of earlier twentieth century cricket and tennis, where I have left E.P.'s entries untouched, as a tribute to his ardent love of both games, for one has only to read Corrie Denison, Glimpses, 1928, a pseudonymously written thinly fictionalised account of his early life, to realise what an importance sport always held for him.

Readers familiar with earlier editions will soon realise that I have tried, as far as possible, to get away from the 'Quartermasters' English'. The result is that E.P.'s goose, be sound on the and goose, shoe the will now be found at sound on the . . . and shoe the . . ., and cross-referenced from goose, n. Phrases in which the emphasis is less on the action, more on the object, e.g. get the goose, are subsumed as additional senses of the noun; or, as was the case in this instance, where goose, n., 3, was already defined as 'a (theatrical) hissing', it has been removed from its former goose, get the and used to amplify that definition. The process involved in this rearrangement brought to light more than a few duplications, and it enabled me to save space by eliminating them. The network of cross-references has thus been extended and strengthened throughout the text. A further minor but necessary alteration has been the suppression of 'one's' as an alphabetically significant element. I surmise from internal evidence that E.P. soon realised the disadvantage of his original scheme, but that it was by then too late to change it; in this edition, therefore, the phrase come one's cocoa (for example), instead of being entered at come off it . . ./come one's cocoa . . ./come round . . ., files now at come clean . . ./come (one's) cocoa . . ./come Cripplegate . . .

I hope that I have fulfilled with the preparation of this volume the trust that Eric Partridge laid upon me; I can say only that it has been an honour and a very great pleasure to me to make the attempt. It has also given me a renewed and even greater respect for all those anonymous and otherwise unremembered ancestors of ours who were able to laugh in the blackest of hells, be it in the stews of Alsatia, in the condemned cell awaiting execution at Tyburn, or in all the horror of the trenches, and to cheer their fellow victims with a word or phrase that sparkled so brightly as to be treasured and repeated over and over—for what is this Dictionary, really, but a pile of fossilised jokes and puns and ironies, tinselly gems dulled eventually by overmuch handling, but gleaming still when held up to the light.

PREFACE TO THE 8TH EDITION

April 1982

Paul Beale

Preface to the 1st Edition

This dictionary, at which I have worked harder than (I hope, but should not swear) I shall ever work again and which incorporates the results of a close observation of colloquial speech for many years, is designed to form a humble companion to the monumental Oxford English Dictionary, from which I am proud to have learnt a very great amount.

A Dictionary of Slang and Unconventional English, i.e. of linguistically unconventional English, should be of interest to word-lovers; but it should also be useful to the general as well as the cultured reader, to the scholar and the linguist, to the foreigner and the American. I have, in fact, kept the foreigner as well as the English-speaker in mind; and I have often compared British with American usage. In short, the field is of all English other than standard and other than dialectal.

Although I have not worked out the proportions, I should say that, merely approximately, they are:

Slang and Cant	50%
Colloquialisms	35%
Solecisms and Catachreses	6½%
Catch-phrases	6½%
Nicknames	1½%
Vulgarisms	½%

(By the last, I understand words and phrases that, in no way slangy, are avoided in polite society.) For the interrelations of these classes, I must refer the reader to my Slang To-day and Yesterday: a Study and a History, where these interrelations are treated in some detail.

The degree of comprehensiveness? This may best be gauged by comparing the relevant terms in any one letter (I suggest a 'short' one like o or v) of either The Oxford English Dictionary and its Supplement or Farmer and Henley's Slang and its Analogues with the terms in the same letter here (including the inevitable Addenda). On this point, again, I have not worked out the proportions, but I should guess that whereas the OED contains roughly 30 per cent more than F. & H., and F. & H. has some 20 per cent not in the OED, the present dictionary contains approximately 35 per cent more than the other two taken together and, except accidentally, has missed nothing included in those two works. Nor are my additions confined to the period since ca. 1800, a period for which—owing to the partial neglect of Vaux, Egan, 'John Bee', Brandon, 'Ducange Anglicus', Hotten, Ware, and Collinson, to the literally complete neglect of Baumann and Lyell, and the virtually complete neglect of Manchon, not to mention the incomplete use made of the glossaries of military and naval unconventional terms—the lexicography of slang and other unconventional English is gravely inadequate: even such 17th–18th century dictionaries as Coles’s, B.E.’s, and Grose’s have been only culled, not used thoroughly. Nor has proper attention been given, in the matter of dates, to the various editions of Grose (1785, 1788, 1796, 1811, 1823) and Hotten (1859, 1860, 1864, 1872, 1874): collation has been sporadic.

For Farmer & Henley there was only the excuse (which I hasten to make for my own shortcomings) that certain sources were not examined; the OED is differently placed, its aim, for unconventional English, being selective—it has omitted what it deemed ephemeral. In the vast majority of instances, the omissions from, e.g., B.E., Grose, Hotten, Farmer & Henley, Ware, and others, were deliberate: yet, with all due respect, I submit that if Harman was incorporated almost in toto, so should B.E. and Grose (to take but two examples) have been. The OED, moreover, has omitted certain vulgarisms and included others. Should a lexicographer, if he includes any vulgarisms (in any sense of that term), omit the others? I have given them all. (My rule, in the matter of unpleasant terms, has been to deal with them as briefly, as astringently, as aseptically as was consistent with clarity and adequacy; in a few instances, I had to force myself to overcome an instinctive repugnance; for these I ask the indulgence of my readers.)

It must not, however, be thought that I am in the least ungrateful to either the OED or F. & H. I have noted every debt* to the former, not merely for the sake of its authority but to indicate my profound admiration for its work; to the latter, I have made few references—for the simple reason that the publishers have given me carte blanche permission to use it. But it may be assumed that, for the period up to 1904, and where no author or dictionary is quoted, the debt is, in most instances, to Farmer & Henley—who, by the way, have never received their dues.

It has, I think, been made clear that I also owe a very great deal to such dictionaries and glossaries as those of Weekley, Apperson; Coles, B.E., Grose; ‘Jon Bee’, Hotten; Baumann, Ware; Manchon, Collinson,[†] Lyell; Fraser & Gibbons, and Bowen.

Yet, as a detailed examination of these pages will show, I have added considerably from my own knowledge of language-byways and from my own reading, much of the latter having been undertaken with this specific end in view.

[The following comments originally formed part of E.P.’s entry at bring off, in the earlier editions.] One of the most remarkable lacunae of lexicography is exhibited by the failure of the accredited dictionaries to include such terms. One readily admits that the reason for these omissions is excellent and that a very difficult problem has thereby been posed. The result is that students of Standard English (British and American) are obliged to seek the definitions of Standard words either in dictionaries of slang, such as, for the

* Often, indeed, I have preferred its evidence to that on which I came independently.

[†] Professor W.E. Collinson’s admirable Contemporary English: A personal speech record, 1927 (Leipzig and Berlin), is mentioned here for convenience’ sake.

US, Berrey & Van den Bark's Thesaurus and, for Britain and its Dominions, Farmer & Henley's Slang and its Analogues (Meagre for the Dominions, and out of print since ca. 1910) and this dictionary of mine, or in encyclopedias and specialist glossaries of sex—where, probably, they won't find many of the words they seek.

But also I am fully aware that there must be errors, both typographical and other, and that, inevitably, there are numerous omissions. Here and now, may I say that I shall be deeply grateful for notification (and note) of errors and for words and phrases that, through ignorance, I have omitted.[‡]

[‡] With information on their milieu and period, please! This applies also to omitted senses of terms and phrases that are already represented in this work.

Acknowledgments

It is a pleasure to thank, for terms that I might well have failed to encounter, the following lady and gentlemen:

Mr J.J.W. Pollard, Mr G.D. Nicolson, Mr G. Ramsay, Mr K.G. Wyness-Mitchell, Mr G.G.M. Mitchell, Mr A.E. Strong, Mr Robert E. Brown (of Hamilton), all of New Zealand; Mr John Beames, of Canada; Mr Stanley Deegan, Mrs J. Litchfield, Mr H.C. McKay, of Australia; Dr Jean Bordeaux, of Los Angeles. From Great Britain: Mr John Gibbons (most unselfishly), Mr Alastair Baxter (a long, valuable list), Mr Julian Franklyn (author of This Gutter Life), Mr John Brophy, Professor J.R. Sutherland, Mr J. Hodgson Lobley, RBA, Mr Alfred Atkins, the actor, Major-General A.P. Wavell, C.M.G., Commander W.M. Ross, Major A.J. Dawson, Mr R.A. Auty, Mr Allan M. Laing, Mr R.A. Walker, Mr G.W. Pirie, Mr D.E. Yates, Mr Joe Mourant, Mr Hugh Milner, Sgt T. Waterman, the Rev. A.K. Chignell, the Rev. A. Trevellick Cape, Mr Henry Gray, Mr E. Unné, Mr Malcolm McDougall, Mr R.B. Oram, Mr L.S. Tugwell, Mr V.C. Brodie, Mr Douglas Buchanan, Mr Will T. Fleet, Mr Fred Burton, Mr Alfred T. Chenhalls, Mr Digby A. Smith, Mr George S. Robinson (London), Mr Arthur W. Allen, Mr Frank Dean, Mr M.C. Way, Mr David MacGibbon, Mr A. Jameson, Mr Jack Lindsay, Mr 'David Hume' (of 'thriller' fame), Mr J.G. Considine, the Rev. M. Summers, Mr C.H. Davis, Mr H.E.A. Richardson, Mr J. Hall Richardson, Mr R. Ellis Roberts, Mr George Baker (who has a notable knowledge of unconventional English and no selfishness), Mr F.R. Jelley, Mr Barry Moore, Mr H.C. Cardew-Rendle, Mr Norman T. McMurdo, Mr R.H. Parrott, Mr F. Willis (Sheffield), Mr E.C. Pattison (of A Martial Medley), and, for introducing me to the work of Clarence Rook and the early work of Edwin Pugh, Mr Wilson Benington.

London, 11 November 1936

E.P.

2nd edition, July 1937

Heartily thanks must be—and readily are—given to the following gentlemen for notice of errors and omissions:—Dr W.P. Barrett; Colonel Bates; Mr Wilson Benington; Mr John Brophy; Lt-General Sir J.R.E. Charles, KCB; Dr M. Clement, MD; 'Mr J.J. Connington', very generously; Mr B. Crocker; Mr James Curtis, author of that masterly underworld novel, The Gilt Kid; Mr Brian Frith; M. François Fosca; Mr Julian Franklyn (a very valuable list); Mr David Garnett; Mr G.W. Gough; Mr Robert Graves; Mr Harold James; Mr Gershon Legman; Mr J. Bangle Levy; Mr Jack Lindsay; Dr E.V. Lucas; Mr David MacGibbon; Mr H.L. Mencken; Mr Hamish Miles; Mr George Milne; Mr Raymond Mortimer; Mr Robert Nott; (notably); Mr Basil de Sélincourt; Mr Kazim Raza Siddiqui Dr C.T. Onions, CBE; Mr H.D. Poole; Mr Vernon Rendall (Lucknow); Mr G.W. Stonier, most generously; Professor J.R. Sutherland; the leader-writer in The Times (15 Feb. 1937) and the reviewer in The Times Literary Supplement; Mr Evelyn Waugh; Major-General A.P. Wavell, CMG (extensively); Professor Ernest Weekley; Mr Wilfred Whitten.

3rd edition, July 1948

I must particularise the kindness of Mr Sidney J. Baker and Lieut. Wilfred Granville, RNVR, without whose published and unpublished works these addenda would be so very much poorer; for the new South African matter, I am indebted to the four correspondents that supplied me with South African cant for A Dictionary of the Underworld, where, by the way, the curious will find a much fuller treatment of such cant terms as are included in A Dictionary of Slang and many not there included, this applying especially to terms of American origin. Of Service contributors, one of the most valuable has been Sgt-Pilot F. Rhodes (to quote his rank in September 1942); Sgt Gerald Emanuel (letter of 29 March 1945) vies with him; and Flying-Officer Robert Hinde and Wing-Commander Robin McDouall have been most helpful. My best Army contributor has been Lieut. Frank Roberts, R A, now a master at Cotton College. Nor may I, without the grossest discourtesy, omit the names of Mr F.W. Thomas (of The Star); the late Professor A.W. Stewart (widely known as 'J.J. Connington', writer of detective novels); and, above all, Mr Albert Petch (of Bournemouth)—three loyal helpers. Also, at the eleventh hour, I have received a valuable set of pellucid and scholarly notes from Mr Laurie Atkinson.

5th edition, March 1960

Among my numerous helpers, all of whom I warmly thank for their patience and generosity, there are a few whose names could not be omitted from even the most cavalier and perfunctory list: Sidney J. Baker, author of The Australian Language and The Drum; Harold Griffiths, of New Zealand; Mr Douglas Leechman and Professor F.E.L. Priestley, of Canada; Colonel Albert F. Moe, of Arlington, Virginia; and, in Britain, Laurie Atkinson (well-informed and scholarly)—Julian Franklyn, author of The Cockney and A Dictionary of Rhyming Slang—Wilfred Granville, whose Sea Slang of the Twentieth Century is so very unfortunately out of print—and Albert Petch of Bournemouth, tireless gleaner and tenacious rememberer.

PREFACE TO THE 1ST EDITION

6th edition, 1966

In merest and minimal decency I must name these ten: Mr Barry Prentice, of Rodd Point, New South Wales, a mass of material, valuable, discriminated, scholarly; Mr Harold Griffiths of New Zealand; Dr Douglas Leechman and Professor F.E.L. Priestley, both of Canada; Colonel Albert F. Moe, USMC Ret., of Arlington, Virginia, entries and datings, some Naval, some general. In Britain these: Mr Julian Franklyn, author of Shield and Crest and A Dictionary of Rhyming Slang; Mr Wilfred Granville, author of A Dictionary of Sailor's Slang and A Dictionary of Theatrical Slang; Mr Albert Petch, 'wedges' of pertinent matter; Mr Peter Sanders, copious and scholarly; Mr Frank Shaw of Liverpool. Several contributors have been helping me since well before World War II; the oldest of these, Mr Gregory Mitchell, of Onehunga, New Zealand, died in March 1965.

7th edition, 1969

To the list of contributors, I have to add Mr Oliver Stonor and Colonel Archie White, VC.

E.P.

Acknowledgements

Following precedent, it gives me very great pleasure to thank all the kind people whose help and encouragement have so much enriched this 8th edition—without that help it might, indeed, never have appeared at all. I name first the stalwarts of Eric Partridge's 'Old Guard', whose names appear not only in earlier editions but also again and again in the manuscript notes that he handed over to me: Laurie Atkinson, London; Robert Claiborne, New York; Col. Albert F. Moe, Arlington, Va.; Barry Prentice, Sydney; all have given me warm and continuing encouragement. Next, 'new', 8th edition correspondents with E.P.: F.J. French (RAF terms); David Hillman, Geneva (rhyming slang); Robin Leech, Edmonton, Alberta; Lt Cdr Frank Peppitt, RNR (nautical terms); Sir Edward Playfair (the world of business); and Gavin Weightman, of New Society. Paul Janssen, of Tilff, Belgium, and J.B. Mindel, BSc MRCVS, of Kfar Tabor, Israel, were E.P. helpers since the late 1960s, and have generously and in friendship continued to 'serve the cause' for me.

Now 'my' helpers, to whom the opening remark applies just as warmly: they are, in particular, Deputy Assistant Commissioner David Powis, OBE, QPM, whose generous blanket permission to quote from his expert and lucidly commonsensical treatise has so enriched this compilation's stock of cant and police terms; Major Tim Carew, MC, who granted me free range of his work on regimental nicknames; Patrick O'Shaughnessy, whose glossary of market traders' argot follows a long line on from Mayhew through Allingham; Frank McKenna, and his publishers Messrs Faber & Faber, for railwaymen's words and phrases; Robert Barltrop, co-author, with Jim Wolveridge, of the present definitive work on Cockney, has provided valuable correction and perspective on the talk of Londoners, and especially on rhyming slang; Red Daniells, photographer and witty writer, has, with his wife Margaret, also given considerable help with rhyming slang; and the great debt this edition owes to Prof. G.A. Wilkes is noted elsewhere.

Mrs Camilla Raab has not only supplied me with new material, but in her capacity as sub-editor of this edition has provided very welcome essential professional assistance, as well as introduction to Leo Madigan, and John Malin, late PO, RN, with their funds of C.20 nautical slang. The RAF is represented by Sqn/Ldr G.D. Wilson, sometime Education Officer at RAF Leuchars; and the Home Office, for prison and drug terms, by J.D. Cleary. My old friend Capt. Ted Bishop gave help with army slang, and led me to Douglas Dunford, of the Beaulieu Motor Museum, expert and authority on motorcycling lore and language. More motorcycling terms came from Mike Partridge; a fine set of WRNS and FAA material from Miss Margot Wood, BA ALA (sometime Leading Writer, WRNS); and David Severn, BA ALA ('banged-out' printer) provided me with fresh printing slang. Professor Richard Cobb, CBE, elucidated some army terms; Kenneth Williams courteously answered my queries on Parlyaree used in 'Round the Horne'; John B. Smith, of Bath University, has also helped over a wide field; Professors Michael Booth and E.G. Quin amplified the notes on HOOLIGAN (see Appendix); and Professor John Widdowson acted as kindly middle-man to other 'one-off' correspondents. Brigadier Pat Hayward gave early help on army terms; as did my former comrades-in-arms Peter Jones and Eddie Haines, both late of the Intelligence Corps. Many other people have given me, deliberately or unwittingly, one or more terms each: all such borrowings have been—following E.P.'s pleasant custom—acknowledged at the appropriate entry in the text. Special thanks are due to Chris and Mary Irwin at whose 'Bookhouse' in Loughborough I bought the copy of the 7th edition of DSUE that led me to write to E.P. in the first place; to Allan Chapman, FLA, tutor in reference librarianship, whose profound grasp of his subject made him my unfailing 'source of sources'; and to all my helpful colleagues past and present at the library of Loughborough Technical College and College of Art. Just in time, I received great help with teenagers' talk from my niece and nephew, Mrs Joanna Williamson, B Ed, and James Williamson.

ACKNOWLEDGEMENTS

Finally, my best thanks to my wife Daphne, without whose loving patience and understanding support this whole enterprise might perhaps have started but would surely not ('How can? Never happen!') have been completed.

Paul Beale

Arrangement within Entries

It is impossible, and undesirable in a dictionary of this sort where so much of the enjoyment is to be gained by browsing, to impose a rigid uniformity on every entry. However, for the general run of terms and phrases not needing discursive treatment, and bearing in mind certain professorial criticisms of the earlier editions as 'inconsistent', I have tried to stick to this layout:

Keyword (classified as noun, verb, adjective, etc.). Definition or explanation: register (i.e. colloquial, slang, jocular, ironic; and main users, e.g. army, prisoners, general, etc.): datings (see section on Dating).

This may be followed by the source, not necessarily the first—the finding of which is usually a matter of pure luck—but an early example of the term's use in print; where this is a private letter to the editor, that is noted. If this is to be followed by editorial comment, e.g. further elucidation, an etymology, cross-references, etc., the source is always in parentheses. If the source is the last element of the entry, then private informants are noted in parentheses, e.g. '(L.A., 1976.)' = Laurie Atkinson, letter of 1976; printed sources stand free, e.g. 'Tempest, 1950' = Paul Tempest, Lag's Lexicon, 1950. Entries ending '(P.B.)' are those contributed by the present editor; many—probably most—were seen and approved by E.P. during the five years before his death.

A cross-reference to an entry in bold type leads to that word or phrase in the main text; one in SMALL CAPS means that the entry is to be found in the Appendix.

Dating

Much of E.P.'s dating was based on his extensive reading of his sources, and further afield; and upon intelligent 'guesstimation': if a term appeared in Grose, 1785, and there was no previous record of it, then E.P. assumed it to be 'late C.18—'. But the words and phrases that are dealt with in this Dictionary are by their very nature unlikely to be found in print until, in many instances, long after their introduction into the (usually lower strata of the) spoken language. Datings must therefore be treated with caution, and with careful regard to the sources given. A date preceded by a dash and followed by a name in parentheses, as '—1859 (H., 1st ed.)' or '—1923 (Manchon)', means that the term to which it refers is not recorded before Hotten's 1st edition, 1859, or Manchon, 1923, but is assumed to have been in use for some while previously. E.P. made considerable use of a number of earlier slang dictionaries, which means that the same citations keep on appearing; it would be uneconomical to use any but the shortest titles for them, and expansions of the abbreviations used are listed under Bibliographical Abbreviations.

E.P. used the abbreviation 'ob.' a great deal in the 1st edition. After working on the Dictionary for four years I am still not sure whether he was 'playing it safe' by calling usages 'obsolescent', or whether he actually meant 'obsolete'. I have in many entries assumed the latter, which accounts for the frequent terminal date 1930, or the note 'ob. by 1930' (to which should probably be added 'and long before'). It is often very difficult to say for certain when a term has become obsolescent, or even quite extinct (except in historical use): for instance 'soul-case', a body, has a decidedly old-fashioned ring to it, and indeed it is recorded by Grose, 1785—yet it is still 'alive and well' in the Merchant Navy two centuries later. Other signs used are: + after a date means that the term is known to have been in use in that year, and that it probably lingered in speech for a few years afterwards; † means obsolete—dead except in historical use.

Dating even for the last 150 years can in most cases be only conjectural. For this 8th edition the following divisions have been used merely as a rough guide:

later C.19	ca. 1860–85 +
since late C.19	from ca. 1885
early C.20	ca. 1900–1930
since early C.20	from ca. 1910 earlier C.20	ca. 1900–1950
mid-C.20	ca. 1940–60
since mid-C.20	ca. 1950 onwards
later C.20	ca. 1960–80 +

Bibliographical Abbreviations

- APOD The Australian Pocket Oxford Dictionary, ed. Grahame Johnston, OUP, Melbourne, 1976.
- Apperson G.L. Apperson, English Proverbs and Proverbial Phrases, 1929.
- Apple Peter McCabe, Apple to the Core, 1972.
- Arab Andie Clerk, Arab, ca. 1960.
- Aytoun & Martin W.E. Aytoun and Sir Theodore Martin, The Book of Ballads, ed. 'Bon Gaultier', 1845.
- B., 1941, 1942, Sidney J. Baker, New Zealand Slang, 1941; Australian Slang, 1942; 1943, 1945, Australian Slang, 3rd ed., 1943; The Australian Language, 1945; Australia 1953, 1959 Speaks, 1953; The Drum, 1959.
- B.E. B.E.'s Dictionary of the Canting Crew, prob. dated 1698–9.
- B. & L. Barrère and Leland, A Dictionary of Slang, Jargon and Cant, 1889 (A–K); 1890 (L–Z).
- B. & P. Brophy and Partridge, Songs and Slang of the British Soldier, 1914–18
(3rd ed., 1931). Republished by André Deutsch, 1965, as The Long Trail.
- Barnhart Clarence L. Barnhart, et al., A Dictionary of New English, 1973.
- Basil Hall Fragments of Voyages and Travels, 1st series, 3 vols; 2nd series; 3rd series, 1831–3.
- Baumann Heinrich Baumann, Londonismen, 1887.
- Beatles R. Carr and T. Tyler, The Beatles, 1975.
- Bee 'Jon Bee' [pseud., i.e. John Badcock], Dictionary, 1823.
- Berrey Lester V. Berrey, 'English War Slang', Nation (USA), 9 Nov. 1940.
- 'Bill Truck' [pseud., i.e. John Howell], 'The Man-o'-War's Man', Blackwood's, 1820s (reprinted, London and Edinburgh, 1843).
- Blaker Richard Blaker, Medal Without Bar, 1930.
- Bootham Anon., Dictionary of Bootham [School] Slang, 1925.
- Bowen Frank Bowen, Sea Slang, 1929.
- Boxiana Pierce Egan, Boxiana, 4 vols, 1818–24.
- Brandon Brandon's Glossary of Cant in 'Ducange Anglicus'.
- COD Concise Oxford Dictionary.
- Carew Major Tim Carew, MC, How the Regiments Got Their Nicknames, 1974.
- Cheapjack Philip Allingham, Cheapjack, 1934.
- Coles E. Coles, Dictionary, 1676.

BIBLIOGRAPHICAL ABBREVIATIONS

- Collinson W.E. Collinson, Contemporary English, 1927.
- DCCU A Dictionary of Contemporary and Colloquial Usage, 1971.
- DCpp. Eric Partridge, A Dictionary of Catch Phrases, 1977.
- DNB Dictionary of National Biography.
- Dawson L. Dawson, Nicknames and Pseudonyms, 1908.
- Dennis C.J. Dennis, The Moods of Ginger Mick, 1916.
- Dick William Dick, A Bunch of Ratbags, 1965.
- 'Ducange
Anglicus' The Vulgar Tongue, 1857.
- Dunford Douglas Dunford, Beaulieu Motor Museum, Motorcycle Department.
- EDD Joseph Wright, The English Dialect Dictionary, 1898–1905.
- Egan's Grose See Grose.
- F. & G. Fraser & Gibbons, Soldier and Sailor Words and Phrases, 1925.
- F. & H. Farmer & Henley, Slang and its Analogues, 7 vols, 1890–1904.
- Fowler H.W. Fowler, Modern English Usage, 1926.
- Franklyn,
Rhyming Julian Franklyn, Dictionary of Rhyming Slang, 1960.
- Franklyn 2nd As above, 2nd ed., 1961.
- Gilderdale Michael Gilderdale, 'A Glossary for Our Times', News Chronicle, 22 May and (= Gilderdale, 2) 23 May 1958.
- Gilt Kid James Curtis, The Gilt Kid, 1936.
- Goodenough Rev. George Goodenough, The Handy Man Afloat and Ashore, 1901.
- Gowing T. Gowing, A Soldier's Experience, or, a Voice from the Ranks: a Personal Narrative of the Crimean Campaign, 1902 ed.
- Granville Wilfred Granville, A Dictionary of Sailors' Slang, 1962; and many private communications.
- Grose Francis Grose, Dictionary of the Vulgar Tongue (1785, 1788, 1796, 1811, 1823). Hence, Egan's Grose = Egan's ed. of Grose, 1823. Grose, P. = E.P.'s annotated reprint of the 3rd ed.
- Groupie Jenny Fabian and Johnny Byrne, Groupie, 1968.
- H. John Camden Hotten, The Slang Dictionary, 1859, 1860, etc.
- H. & P. J. L. Hunt & A.G. Pringle, Service Slang, 1943.
- Haden-Guest Anthony Haden-Guest, 'Slang It to Me in Rhyme', Daily Telegraph mag., 17 Dec. 1972.
- Harman [prob.] A Caveat or Warening, for Commen Cursetors vulgarely called Vagabones, set forth by Thomas Harman, 1567.
- Hawke Christopher Hawke, For Campaign Service, 1979.
- Heart Colin Evans, The Heart of Standing, 1962.
- Hillman David Hillman, of Geneva, a long list of rhyming slang in post-WW2 use. Letter received 15 Nov. 1974.
- Hollander Xaviera Hollander, The Best Part of a Man, 1975.

- Home Office Glossary of Terms and Slang Common in Penal Establishments, issued July 1978 by the Board of Visitors Section, P4 Division.
- Irwin Godfrey Irwin, American Tramps' and Underworld Songs and Slang, 1931.
- Jackson C.H. Ward-Jackson, It's a Piece of Cake, 1943.
- Jackson, 2 C.H. Ward-Jackson, ed., Airman's Song Book, 1945.
- Jagger Anthony Scaduto, Mick Jagger, 1974.
- Janssen Paul Janssen, of Tilff, Belgium: many communications since late 1960s.
- Jice Doone Jice Doone, Timely Tips for New Australians, 1926.
- 'Jon Bee' See Bee.
- Jonathan Thomas Jonathan Thomas, English as She is Fraught, 1976.
- Knock Sidney Knock, Clear Lower Deck, 1932.
- L.A. Laurie Atkinson: a copious supply of terms, Forces' and gen., received from 1948 onwards.
- L.L.G. London Literary Gazette.
- Landy Eugene E. Landy, The Underground Dictionary, New York, 1971; London, 1972.
- Leechman Douglas Leechman, numerous communications, esp. in 1959.
- Lester S. Lester, Vardi the Palarey, n.d. [ca. 1937].
- Lewis W.J. Lewis, The Language of Cricket, 1934.
- Lex. Bal.* The Lexicon Balatronicum, or 4th ed. of Grose, 1811.
- Londres Albert Londres, The Road to Buenos Ayres, Intro. Theodore Dreiser, 1928.
- Lyell T. Lyell, Slang, Phrase and Idiom in Colloquial English, 1931.
- M.T. Patrick O'Shaughnessy, Market Traders' Slang: a Glossary of Terms Used in Boston and Elsewhere, 1979. First appeared, in two parts, in Lore & Language, vol. 2, no. 3 and no. 8.
- MacArthur &
Long Alex. MacArthur & H. Kingsley Long, No Mean City, 1935.
- McKenna,
Glossary Frank McKenna, A Glossary of Railwaymen's Talk (Ruskin College History Workshop Pamphlet no. 1), 1970.
- McKenna, 2 Frank McKenna, The Railway Workers 1840–1970, 1980.
- McNeil Glossary to The Chocolate Frog [and] The Old Familiar Juice: Two Plays by Jim McNeil, pub'd Sydney and London, 1973.
- Manchon J. Manchon, Le Slang, 1923.
- Marples Morris Marples, Public School Slang, 1940.
- Marples, 2 Morris Marples, University Slang, 1950.
- Matthews W. Matthews, 'London Slang at the Beginning of the XVIII Century', Notes & Queries, 15, 22, 29 June 1935.
- Mayhew Henry Mayhew, London Labour and the London Poor, 3 vols, 1851.

BIBLIOGRAPHICAL ABBREVIATIONS

- Minsheu John Minsheu, Guide into the Tongue, 1627.
- Moe Albert F. Moe, Colonel (ret'd) US Marine Corps, numerous private communications, 1959–79.
- Morris E.E. Morris, Austral English, 1898.
- Musings 'Guns, Q.F.C. & Phyl Theeluker', Middle Watch Musings, 4th ed., ca. 1912.
- Muvver Robert Barltrop & Jim Wolveridge, The Muvver Tongue, 1980 (ISBN 904526 46 1).
- Nevinson H.W. Nevinson, Neighbours of Ours, 1895.
- 'No. 747' Francis Wylde Carew, 'No. 747': Being the Autobiography of a Gipsy, Bristol, 1891.
- Norman Frank Norman, Bang to Rights, 1958. (The richest non-lexical source-book since Gilt Kid: E.P.)
- OED The Oxford English Dictionary. 'Sup.', unless otherwise shown, = the Supplement of 1933.
- Onions C.T. Onions, A Shakespeare Glossary, 1919 ed.
- P.B. Paul C. Beale, editor of this present Dictionary. Own contributions; and entries in 7th ed. or later manuscript notes, radically altered from E.P.'s original.
- P-G-R Eric Partridge, Wilfred Granville, Frank Roberts, A Dictionary of Forces' Slang: 1939–1945, 1948.
- P.P., Rhyming Slang P.P., Rhyming Slang, 1932 (see entry at Beggar boy's ass).
- Pawnshop Murder* John G. Brandon, The Pawnshop Murder, 1936.
- Partridge, 1945 Eric Partridge, A Dictionary of R.A.F. Slang, 1945.
- Petch Albert E. Petch, bookseller, of Bournemouth, and WW1 Infantryman, numerous communications since 1945.
- Pettman C. Pettman, Africanderisms, 1913.
- Phantom Robert Prest, F4 Phantom: a Pilot's Story, 1979.
- Piper Steven Piper, The North Ships: the Life of a Trawlerman, 1974.
- Powis Deputy Assistant Commissioner David Powis, QPM, The Signs of Crime: a Field Manual for Police, 1977.
- Pugh Edwin Pugh, The Cockney at Home, 1914.
- Pugh, 2 Edwin Pugh, The Spoilers, 1906.
- R.S. Ramsey Spencer, copious notes and helpful comments over the years.
- Railway Harvey Sheppard, Dictionary of Railway Slang, 1964; and 2nd ed., 1966.
- Rats Lawson Glassop, We Were the Rats, 1944.
- Richards Frank Richards, Old Soldier Sahib, 1936.
- Rook Clarence Rook, The Hooligan Nights, orig. pub. 1899; reprinted OUP, 1979.

SOD	The Shorter Oxford Dictionary.
Sampson	Dialect of Gypsies of Wales , 1926.
Sessions	Session Papers of the Central Criminal Court , 1729–1913.
Shaw	The late Frank Shaw, many notes from Merseyside.
Sinks	Anon., Sinks of London Laid Open , Duncombe, London, 1848.
Slang	Eric Partridge, Slang To-day and Yesterday , rev. ed., 1935.
Smart & Crofton	B.C. Smart & H.T. Crofton, The Dialect of the English Gypsies , rev. ed., 1875.
Spy	C.E. Westmacott, The English Spy , 1825; vol. II, 1826.
TLS	The Times Literary Supplement.
'Taffrail'	'Taffrail' [i.e. Capt. H. Taprell Dorling, DSO, RN], Carry On , 1916; esp. the article 'the Language of the Navy', orig. pub. not later than 1915.
Tempest	Paul Tempest, Lag's Lexicon: a Comprehensive Dictionary and Encyclopaedia of the English Prison of Today , 1950.
Thornton	R.H. Thornton, American Glossary , 1912.
Underworld	Eric Partridge, A Dictionary of the Underworld (British & American) , 1949.
Vaux	J.H. Vaux's 'Glossary of Cant, 1812', in his Memoirs , 1819.
W.	Ernest Weekley, Etymological Dictionary of Modern English .
W. & F.	Harold Wentworth & S.B. Flexner, Dictionary of American Slang , 2nd Supplemented ed., 1975.
Ware	J. Redding Ware, Passing English of the Victorian Era , 1909.
Wilkes	G.A. Wilkes, A Dictionary of Australian Colloquialisms , 1978.
Words!	Eric Partridge, Words, Words, Words! , 1933.
Y. & B.	Henry Yule & A.C. Burnell, Hobson-Jobson , rev. ed., 1903.

E.P.: To several other correspondents, I owe much; their material being, in the main, corrective or modificatory or supplementary, they are not mentioned above. Especially, Dr David Aitken, Mr N.T. Gridgeman, Professor F.E.L. Priestley, Dr D. Pechtold and Mr C.A. Roy.

P.B.: Other sources and contributors less heavily drawn upon may be found cited in full at the appropriate entries. Enquirers seeking a fuller coverage of 'unconventional English' are strongly recommended to use, as companion volumes to this one, E.P.'s Dictionary of Catch Phrases (see DCpp. above) and Underworld, and Wilkes. Another vitally important work in this field is The Lore and Language of Schoolchildren, 1959, by Iona and the late Peter Opie, a marvellous book, and essential reading because so much 'children's talk' has naturally spilled over, even if only allusively, into adult slang and colloquial English.

Abbreviations and Signs

AA	anti-aircraft	N.	North, in N. Africa; N. Country (of England)
AIF	Australian Imperial Force	N.B.	note carefully
abbr.	abbreviation, or shortening; abbreviated, abridged.	NZ	New Zealand
adj.	adjective; adjectival(ly)	non-aristocratic	P.B.: I take this to mean what is, in later C.20, known as 'non-U'
adv.	adverb; adverbial(ly)	O.E.	Old English; i.e. before ca. 1150 after	after the fashion of; on the analogy of	ob.	obsolescent (see note at Dating) anon.	anonymous	occ.	occasional(ly)
app.	apparently	on	on the analogy of
Aus.	Australia(n)	opp.	opposite; as opposed to
BWI	British West Indies	orig.	original(ly); originate(d), or -ing
Brit.	British; Britain	pej.	pejorative(ly)
c.	cant, i.e. language of the underworld	pl	plural; in the plural
C.	century	Port.	Portuguese
c.p.	a catch-phrase	poss.	possible; possibly
c. and low	cant and low slang	ppl	participle; participial
ca.	about (the year ...)	prec.	preceded; preceding (cf. prec. = compare the preceding entry)
Can.	Canada; Canadian	prob.	probable; probably
cf.	compare	pron.	pronounced; pronunciation coll.	colloquial(ism); colloquially	pub.	published
d.	died	quot'n	quotation
derog.	derogatory	q.v.	which see!
dial.	dialect; dialectal(ly)	RAF	Royal Air Force
Dict.	Dictionary	RFC	Royal Flying Corps (1912-18)
E.P.	Eric Partridge	RM	Royal Marines
ed.	edition	RN	Royal Navy
elab.	elaborate(s) or d); elaboration	RNAS	Royal Naval Air Service (1914-18)
Eng.	English	ref.	reference
esp.	especially	Regt or regt	Regiment etym.	etymology; etymological(ly)	resp.	respective(ly) euph.	euphemism; euphemistic(ally)	rev.	revised ex	from; derived from	s.	slang
exclam.	exclamation	S.E.	Standard English FAA	Fleet Air Arm	s.v.	see at
fem.	feminine	sc.	supply!; understand!
fig.	figurative(ly)	Scot.	Scottish
fl.	flourished	Services	the Armed Forces of the Crown
Fr.	French	sing.	singular
gen.	general(ly); usual(ly)	sol.	solecism; solecistic
Ger.	German	Sp.	Spanish
Gr.	Greek	synon.	synonymous(ly)
Ibid.	in the same authority or book	temp.	in or at the time of
id.	the same	US	the United States of America; American
imm.	immediate(ly)	usu.	usual(ly) interj.	interjection	v.	verb
It.	Italian	v.i.	intransitive verb
j.	jargon, i.e. technical(ity)	v.t.	transitive verb
loc.	jocular(ly); humorous	var.	variant; variation
L.	Latin	vbl n.	verbal noun
lit.	literal(ly)	vulg.	vulgarism literary	Literary English, i.e. unused in ordinary speech	WRNS	Women's Royal Naval Service
M.C.P.	male chauvinist pig	WW1	The First World War, 1914-19
M.E.	Middle English	WW2	The Second World War, 1939-45
MN	Merchant Navy
military	mainly army usage, perhaps including naval; cf. later 'Services'	>	become(s); became
mod.	modern	=	equal(s); equal to; equivalent to
n.	noun	†; +; -	See Dating

A

A.A. of the G.G. (or Gee-Gee). The Institute of the Horse and Pony Club, founded 1930. (Sir Frederick Hobday, in Saturday Review, 19 May 1934.) Lit., the Automobile Association of the Gee-Gee (or horse). P.B.: prob. an ephemeral pun.
A.B. An able-bodied seaman; prob. since very early C.19. Moe cites Bill Truck, Feb. 1826, and The Night Watch, 1828, at II, 121.

A.B.C. An Aerated Bread Company's tea-shop: from ca. 1880; coll. by 1914.—2. Ale, bread, and cheese on 'going-home night': Christ's Hospital School: C.19.—3. A crib: Rugby schoolboys': late C.19—early 20. Ex letters forming cab, n., 4, q.v.—4. An Australian-born Chinese: Aus. and Far East: since ca. 1950, perhaps earlier. Also American-born Chinese. (P.B.)—5. See easy as ABC.

a.b.f. A final 'last drink': from ca. 1915. I.e. an absolutely bloody final drink.

a.c.a.b. See all coppers...

AC - DC or A.C. - D.C. (Usu. of male) both heterosexual and homosexual: adopted, ca. 1959, ex US. A pun on electricity's 'A.C. or D.C.': alternating current or direct current. Cf. plug in both ways.

A/C Plonk. An Aircraftman 2nd class (AC2): RAF: since early 1920s. (New Statesman, 30 Aug. 1941; Jackson.) Ex plonk, n., 1, mud. Cf. P/O Prune, Plonk's superior officer.

a-cockbill. Free; dangling free: nautical coll. > j.: since early C.19. 'Greenwich Hospital', in L.L.G., 21 Feb. 1824 (Moe); Manual of Seamanship, vol. I, 1937, p. 424 (Eric Gell).

a cooloo. All; everything: RAF, esp. regulars with service in the Middle East: ca. 1925-50—but since ca. 1914 in army usage. (Jackson.) Prob. ex Arabic cooloo, all.

a-crash of, go. To assault (a person): low coll.:—1923 (Manchon).

à d'autres! 'Tell that to the Marines!'; expression of disbelief: fashionable London c.p.: ca. 1660-80. See DCpp.

a.d. (or A.D.). A drink: male dancers' coll., inscribed on dance-programmes: early C.20. Ware.

a.f. Having met with (come across) a 'flat', who has, to the speaker's advantage, laid his bets all wrong: the turf:—1823 (Bee); † by 1870.

A from a bull's foot or a windmill or the gable-end. Usu. not know A...: see KNOW, in Appendix.

A.I.F. Deaf: Aus. rhyming s.: later C.20. (McNeil.) AIF orig. = Australian Imperial Forces.

a.k. 'arse over kettle' (Can.: C.20): Can. army signallers': WW1. Cf. ack over tock.

a.k.a. "'a.k.a."—"also known as"—is New Wave, or rock press, for "formerly" (Peter York, in Harpers & Queen, July 1977). Ex police j.

à la... In the fashion of; in such-and-such a way or manner: coll.: late C.19-20. 'Trying to bring his entire family into politics à la So-and-So' (B.P.).—2. In very à la, absolutely in fashion: often used ironically, disparagingly or contemptuously: 'She thought she was the cat's whiskers—oh, very à la!': middle-class feminine: mid-C.20. (P.B.)

à la cart - and horse. 'A jocular perversion of à la carte' (Petch): C.20.

A1. Excellent, first class: orig. of ships (Lloyd's Register); then of persons and things (Dickens, 1837). Variants: A1 copper-bottomed (Charles Hindley, 1876); ob. by 1930; A1 at Lloyd's: from ca. 1850; first-class, letter A, no. 1:—1860 (H., 2nd ed.).

US form: A no. 1.—2. A commander of 900 men: Fenian coll. > j.: ca. 1865-90. Erroneously no. 1. (A lower officer was known as B.)

A over T. See arse over tip.

a.p. The right procedure, the correct thing to do: RN College, Dartmouth: from ca. 1930. (Granville.) I.e. Admiralty pattern.

a.p. See zol.

Aaron. A cadger: c.; the Aaron, a captain of thieves: ?C.17-19. Cf. abandannad, a pickpocket.

ab. An Aboriginal: Aus.: ca. 1870-1920. (A. Macdonald, In the Land of Pearl and Gold, 1907.) Displaced by Abo.

abaa. A non-unionist; hence, adj.: silly: proletarian:—1903 (F. & H. rev.).

abaccering, vbl n. Loafing; canalmen's: C.20. (D.A. Gladwin, The Canals of Britain, 1973.) Peppitt suggests 'perhaps for abackering'; P.B.: or ex smoking, or chewing, (to)bacco?

Abadan. 'When Persia nationalised her oil wells under President Mossadeq [ca. 1952] any driver who was too liberal with engine oil was nicknamed "Abadan"' (McKenna, Glossary, p. 41): railwaymen's.

abaddon. A thief turned informer: c.: late C.19—early 20. ?a pun on a bad 'un and the angel Abaddon.

abandannad. A thief specialising in bandanna handkerchiefs: c.:—1864 (H., 3rd ed.). There is perhaps a pun on abandoned.—2. Hence, any petty thief: c.: late C.19—early 20.

abandoned habits. The riding dresses of demi-mondaines in Hyde Park: ca. 1870-1900.

abandonment. Bankruptcy of a railway company: financiers' and brokers': ca. 1880-1905. B. & L.

abber. At Harrow School, an abstract or an absit: from 1890s. OXFORD -ER.

abess (1782+), Lady Abess (-1785). The keeper of a brothel: late C.18-19. A procuress: C.19. Ex Fr. abbesse, a female brothel-keeper. Cf. abbot and see esp. F. & H. Peter Pindar, John Wolcot (d. 1819): 'So an old abess, for the rattling rakes,/A tempting dish of human nature makes,/And dresses up a luscious maid.'

Abbeville Kids, the. Focke-Wulf pilots (or pilots and planes): RAF: 1942; ob. by 1946. Partridge, 1945, 'Our airmen first met them over or near Abbeville and... like the Dead End Kids of cinematic fame, they have no very rosy future'.

abbey lubber. A lazy monk: ca. 1538-1750: coll. >, by 1600, S.E.—2. A lazy, thriftless person: nautical, ca. 1750-1900.

abbot. The husband, or the preferred male, of a brothel-keeper (see abess): C.19. Cf. the old S.E. terms, abbot of misrule, abbot of unreason, a leader in a disorderly festivity.

Abbott's Priory. The King's Bench Prison: ca. 1820-80; ?ex Sir Charles Abbott, Lord Chief Justice, 1818. Likewise, Abbott's Park, the rules thereof. Bee.

Abbott's teeth. A ca. 1820-40 var. of Ellenborough's teeth. (Pierce Egan, Life in London, 1821.) Cf. prec. entry.

Abby, pl Abbies. An Abyssinian cat: domestic: C.20. Bournemouth Echo, 18 Jan. 1968.

abdabs. In don't come—or, give me—the old abdabs, don't tell me the tale: C.20, esp. WW2. By itself, abdabs was, in WW2, occ. used for 'afters'.—2. In the screaming abdabs, an attack of delirium tremens: since late 1930s. Since ca. 1942, abdabs has sometimes been hab-dabs. This is prob. the orig. of the abdabs 'given' in sense 1.—3. In have the screaming abdabs, to be in a state of enraged frustration: RN, MN: since ca. 1950. (Peppitt.) abdar. A teetotaller: Anglo-Indian: later C.19—earlier 20. (B. & L.) Ex Hindustani for a water-carrier.

abdominal, n. An abdominal case: medical coll.: C.20. A.P. Herbert, Holy Deadlock, 1934.

abdominal crash. An aeroplane smash; a heavy fall: RFC: later WW1. (F. & G.) On gutser.

Abdul. A Turkish soldier; collectively, the Turks: army coll.: from ca. 1915. (B. & P.) Ex frequency of Abdul as a Turkish name.

abe. In on (one's) abe, indigent; very short of money: Aus.: earlier C.20. (B., 1942.) 'Disguised rhyming S.', says E.P. — but on what?

abel-whackets. See able-w(h)ackets.

Aberdeen booster. See Scotsman's fifth at HAULIERS', in Appendix.

Aberdeen cutlet. A dried haddock: later C.19—early 20. By F. & H. denoted familiar, but definitely s. Cf. Billingsgate pheasant and Yarmouth capon.

Abergavenny. A penny: rhyming s.: later C.19—early 20.

abfab. 'They looked real "abfab" (absolutely fabulous), another of our bodgie [q.v.] words' (Dick): Aus. teenagers': mid-1950s.

Abigail. A lady's-maid: from ca. 1616, though not recorded fig. till 1663: coll. >, by 1800, S.E.; by 1930, out-moded literary. Ex the Bible. In Beaumont & Fletcher, Fielding, Smollett.

abishag. Illegitimate child of a mother seduced by a married man: c.: ca. 1860—1930. (B. & L.) Ex Hebrew for 'the mother's error'.

able-w(h) ackets. A nautical card-game in which every lost point—or game—entails a whack with a knotted handkerchief (Grose, Smyth): coll.: from ca. 1780; † by 1883, witness Clark Russell's nautical dict.

Abney Park. In gone to ..., dead: London proletarian:—1909 (Ware); † by 1930. Ex Abney Park Cemetery, Stoke Newington, north London.

abo, Abo. Australian Aboriginal: Aus. coll.: mid-C.19—20. Wilkes, 'Not always intended as derogatory, but now [1977] increasingly taken to be so.' Cf: ab; aboliar.

aboard. See fall aboard of.

aboliar (or A-); properly abo-liar. A regular writer on Aborigine lore or of Aborigine stories: s. (from ca. 1910) >, by 1925 coll. and by 1936 virtually j. It is a coinage of the (Sydney) Bulletin, which, by the way, also coined Billjim and Maori-land. Cognate, and from the same mint, is aboriginality, a (preferably original) contribution to Aborigine lore: Aus. coll.: C.20. Gen. in pl, in which shape it heads a column in the Bulletin.

abolished. Ironically, punished very lightly: a pun on admonished: army: since late 1940s. (P.B.)

abominable. A late C.19—20 sol., or joc. coll., for abdominal; esp. in abominable pains.—2. Very unpleasant: coll., from ca. 1860: the same with the adv. (-bly). Cf. the S.E. senses and abominate.

abominable 'no'-man, the. One who persists in failing to conform: since ca. 1955. A pun on 'the abominable snow-man'.

abominate. To dislike 'intensely', i.e. very much: from ca. 1875: coll.

aboriginality. See aboliar.

abortion. As in 'That hat's an abortion'—ludicrous, or very ugly: Aus., since late 1940s (B.P.): also some Brit. usage (P.B.).

Abortion Express, the. See Leaping Lena.

about. See other way about; something about ...

about as high. See high as three pennyworth ...

about proper. An illiterate var. of proper, adv., q.v.

about right. Correct; adequate; coll.:—1850 (Frank Smedley); since WW1, also about it.

about the size of it (, that's). Approximately right: coll.: since ca. 1870. Perhaps orig. US. P.B.: in later C.20, among the low and raffish, sometimes used in conjunction with a (male) gesture in which the left hand grasps the upper right arm, the right forearm, hand lightly clenched, being allowed to flop forward and down, representing the penis: 'that's about the size of it—like a baby's hand holding an orange.'

About Turn. Hébuturne, a village in France: army on the Western Front: WW1. (F. & G.) By Hobson-Jobson.

above board. Openly; without artifice or dishonesty. Coll. verging on, and occ. achieving, S.E. Ex position of hands in card-playing for money. Earliest record, 1608 (Apperson).

above oneself. Too ambitious or confident, not by nature but momentarily: C.20.

above par. In excellent health, spirits, money in hand, mild drunkenness. All from ca. 1870, ex stocks and shares at a premium. Cf. below par.

abrac, Abrac. Learning: ca. 1820—50. ('Jon Bee', 1823.) Corruption of Arabic or abbr. of abracadabra.

Abraham. 'A clothier's shop of the lowest description': chiefly East End of London and ex the Jewish name; ca. 1870—1920.—2. The penis: low: late C.19—20; ob. Whence Abraham's bosom, the female pudend.

Abra(ha)m-cove or -man. A pseudo-madman seeking alms; a genuine lunatic allowed on certain days to leave Bethlehem Hospital (whence bedlam beggar) to beg. The term flourished most ca. 1550—1700, A. cove being, however, unrecorded in C.16; this sense > archaic only ca. 1830; ex Luke 16 (Lazraus); described by Awdelay, Harman, Shakespeare, Massinger, B.E., Grose.—2. Also, in late C.18—19, a mendicant pretending to be a good naval rating cast on the streets. Cf. abram, q.v.—3. (Only Abram man.) A thief of pocket-books: c. (—1823); † by 1870. Bee.

Abraham Grains (or g—). A publican brewing his own beer: c.: late C.19—20.

Abraham Newland. A banknote, ex the Bank of England's chief cashier of 1778—1807: ca. 1780—1830; Scott uses it in 1829. W.N. Glascock, Saints and Sailors, 1829, I, 21, has Newland (Moe). H., 2nd ed. (1860), records the c.p. (?orig. the words of a song), sham Abraham you may, but you mustn't sham Abraham Newland. Cf. Bradbury, q.v.

Abra(ha)m-sham. A feigned illness or destitution: C.19. Ex sham Abra(ha)m, to pretend sickness (—1759), in C.19 mainly nautical and often do Abra(ha)m; also—see Abraham Newland—to forge banknotes, † by 1840.

Abraham suit, (or n). Engaged in any begging-letter dodge that will arouse sympathy: c.: from ca. 1860: ob. B. & L.

abraham (or abram) work. Any sham or swindle, esp. if commercial: mid-C.19—early 20. As adj. abra(ha)m = spurious: see prec.

Abrahamer. A vagrant: low (—1823); † by 1900. 'Jon Bee', who defines Abrahamers as 'a lot, or receptacle full of beggars, half naked, ragged, and dirty': an ambiguous set of words.

Abraham's balsam. Death by hanging: C.18 low. Punning S.E. Abraham's balm (tree).

Abraham's willing. A shilling: rhyming s.: —1859 (H., 1st ed.).

Abrahamstead; Cricklewitch; Goldbergs Green; Yidsbury. London Jewish self-mocking nicknames for the districts of Hampstead, Cricklewood, Golders Green, and Finsbury: later C.20. (J.B. Mindel, 1981.)

abram, n. A malingerer: nautical: C.19—early 20.—2. As adj., c.: mad, C.16—17, naked, C.17—18, this latter developing ex auburn corrupted, for (as in Shakespeare) abra(ha)m, later abram-coloured, = auburn, hence fair. Cf. the abrannoi (naked) of Hungarian gipsy (V. Sackville-West, Knole and the Sackvilles, 1922).—3. For Sham Abram, see Abra(ha)m-sham.

abram, v. To feign sickness: ?ca. 1840—90. (Sinks, 1848.) Perhaps rhyming s., but more prob. ex the n.

abram cove. 'A Naked or poor Man, also a lusty strong Rogue' (B.E.); the latter being of the 17th Order of the Canting Crew: c.: C.17—early 19. Cf. abram, 2.

Abram man. See Abraham-cove.

Abramsham. See Abraham-sham.

abram work. See abraham work.

abridgements. Knee-breeches. ?Nonce word: Bulwer Lytton's play, Money, 1840.

abroad. In error, wide of the mark (Dickens); earlier (Pierce Egan, 1821), all abroad, with additional sense of 'confused'; all abroad is, in the former sense, now ob. From ca. 1860; both coll.—2. Also, (of convicts) transported: ca. 1810–90. The London Guide, 1818.—3. At Winchester College, C.19, (come) abroad meant to work after being ill.

abroaded. Living on the Continent as a defaulter from England: Society, 1860–90.—2. Sent to a penal settlement whether at home or in the Colonies: police, ca. 1840–80. Cf. abroad.—3. In c., imprisoned anywhere: ca. 1870–1920.

abs. At Winchester College in C.19; ob. by 1930: absent; to take away; to depart (quickly). Ca. 1840, abs a tolly, to put out a candle; late C.19–20, to extinguish a candle demands the 'notion' dump it. To have one's wind absed is to get a 'breather' or 'winder'.

absotchalerater. See absquatulate.

absence in its Eton sense (a roll-call) is now j., but it may orig. have been s.: see esp. ETON, §1, in Appendix.

absent rider. 'A man who has not turned up for duty. This is based on a race-course term for the jockey who fails to arrive at the course' (McKenna, Glossary, p.41): railwaymen's mid-C.20.

absent without leave. (Of one) having absconded: from ca. 1860.—2. In c., escaped from prison: id.

absence without leave, give (one). To discharge (one) suddenly from employment: from ca. 1820; ob. Bee.

absent-minded beggar. A soldier: semi-joc. coll.: 1899–1902. Ex Kipling's poem.

absentee. A convict: semi-euph. coll.: ca. 1810–60.

absoballylutely; absobloodylutely. Absolutely, utterly: late C.19–20; C.20. The former occurs in W.L. George, The Making of an Englishman, 1914, and both were, by 1940, rather ob. (With thanks to Mr R.W. Burchfield.) Note that absobloodylutely is the most frequent of the bloody interpolations, as not fucking likely is of the fucking interpolations.

absolute, an. An absolute certainty: coll.: early C.20. (Pugh.) Cf. moral.—2. In on the absolute, on the granting of the decree absolute: divorce-agency coll.: C.20. A.P. Herbert, Holy Deadlock, 1934.

absolutely! Certainly! Coll. intensification of 'yes': C.20.

absolutely true. Utterly false: Society: ca. 1880. Ware. Ex title of book.

absorb. To drink (liquor): v.t. and i.: C.20, as in 'He absorbs a lot, you know!'

absquatulate. To depart, gen. hastily or in disgrace; as the rare v.t.: to cause to do this: 1844 (OED). Orig. US (1837), anglicised ca. 1860, ob. by 1900. Thornton; H., 1st ed. An artificial word: perhaps on abscond and squat, with a L. ending, perhaps that of undulate, as of a snake undulating and slithering away. During the 1830s–70s, such arbitrary humorous forms abounded in US slang and colloquial speech: and to seek reason in, and for, their origin is perhaps unreasonable. As in England of ca. 1580–1720—and since—slang has owed much to scholars in their more convivial moods and moments, so too in US. These spontaneous word-playings by the light-hearted literate were often adopted by the semi-literate and occ. by the illiterate.

abstain from beans. To take no part in politics: not very gen.:—1923 (Manchon); ob. by 1930.

abstropolous. A C.18–mid-19 var. of abstropolous.

absurd is coll. in its loose, Society usage: from ca. 1920. D. Mackail, Greenery Street, 1925, 'Besides, caveat emptor and—generally speaking—don't be absurd.'

Aby, Aby, Aby my boy! Chanted, usually with the rest of the song: a Jew-baiting c.p.: ca. 1920–39.

Abyssinia! I'll be seeing you!: since mid-1930s. Michael Harrison, Vernal Equinox, 1939. By a pun.

Abyssinian medal. A button showing in the fly: military: ca. 1896–1914. (Ware.) Ex the Abyssinian War (1893–6). Cf. Star of the East.

ac. Accumulator: electricians': C.20. (Partridge, 1945.) E.g. in trolley-ac, an accumulator on wheels, used for starting aircraft engines: RAF: since mid-C.20. (P.B.)—2. As the Ac, the Royal Academy: artists': ca. 1870–1940. Ware.

academic nudity. 'Appearance in public without cap or gown' (Ware): Oxford University:—1909; † by 1921.

academician. A harlot: ca. 1760–1820. Ex academy, a brothel: c. of late C.17–18. (B.E., Grose.) In C.19, academy = a thieves' school: cf. Fagan in Oliver Twist. But in late C.19–20, academy is also a hard-labour prison and (–1823) its inmates are academicians. Bee.

academics. (University) cap and gown: from ca. 1820; ob. Coll. rather than s.; the j. would be academicals.

Academite. 'A graduate of the old Royal Naval Academy at Portsmouth': nautical coll.: from early C.19. W.N. Glascock, Sailors and Saints, 1829, I, 167 (Moe).

Academy. See academician.—2. Abbr. Academy-figure, a 'half-life' drawing from the nude: artists', C.20.—3. A billiard-room: ca. 1885–1910. Ware, 'Imported from Paris'.—4. A lunatic asylum: ca. 1730–90. Alexander Cruden in a pamphlet, 1754.—5. As the Academy, Platonism and Platonists: from the 1630s: academic s. >, in C.18 university coll. >, by 1830, philosophic j. The other four of the chief schools of Greek philosophy are The Garden (Epicureanism), The Lyceum (Aristotelianism), The Porch (Stoicism), and The Tub (Cynicism): same period and changes of status. Fowler.

acater. A ship chandler: nautical coll.: C.19—early 20. (Bowen.) A survival of †S.E. acatur, a purveyor: ex Fr. acheteur, a buyer.

Acca. In Meanjin (Melbourne), 1/1977, Dr K.S. Inglis has an article titled 'Accas and Ockers: Australia's New Dictionaries'. To the title, the editor, Jim Davidson, subjoins this footnote: 'ácca (slightly derog.) 1, n. An academic rather than an intellectual, particularly adept at manipulating trendsologies, usually with full scholarly apparatus. Hence 2, n. A particularly sterile piece of academic writing.' But no indication about date of orig. Promoted by Ocker, q.v.

acceleration. Starvation; esp. die of acceleration: vagrants' c.; from ca. 1880; ob. (B. & L.) Also accelerator, a Union relieving officer: id.: id. Ex refusals 'to give food to the dying outcast'.

accident. An untimely, or accidental, call of nature: coll.: 1899. OED.—2. See street accident.

accident-maker. A report dealing with accidents and disasters: London journalists' (–1887): † by 1920. Baumann.

accidentally on purpose (earlier, often accidentally done...). With (usu. malicious) purpose veiled: c.p.: C.20. See DCpp.

accommodation house. A brothel; a disorderly house: coll.: ca. 1820–1920. Bee.

accommodator. One who negotiates a compounding of felonies or other crimes: c.: later C.19—early 20. B. & L.

according. In that's (all) according, a coll. abbr. of the cautious that's according to, i.e. dependent on, the circumstances. Not in the sense, in accordance with.

according to Cocker. Properly, correctly: since ca. 1760. Ex Edward Cocker, 1631–76, engraver and teacher, whose famous Cocker's Arithmetic, pub. posthumously in 1678 (confined to commercial questions only), was popular for nearly a century. The US phase (partly acclimatised in England by 1909: Ware) is according to Gunter, a famous mathematician: the C.19 nautical, according to John Norie, the editor of a much-consulted Navigator's Manual.

according to Hoyle. Correct; correctly: coll.: late C.19–20. Ex Edmond Hoyle's The Polite Gamester, 1752; soon titled Mr Hoyle's Games of Whist... 12th edition, 1760; then as Hoyle's Games Improved, 1786; in C.19, there appeared innumerable re-editions, improvements, enlargements, abridgments. Cf. according to Cocker.

according to plan. Joc. and ironic for 'willy-nilly', for anything that did not go according to plan: orig. army, later account, n. In go on the a., to turn pirate, or buccaneer: coll.:—1812 (Scott).

WW1; then a gen. c.p. more Ex Ger. plangemäss, a euph. misrepresentation in communiqués reporting loss of ground. (W.; B. & P.) See DCpp.

account for. To kill: sporting coll., from ca. 1840 (Thackeray, 1842) >, by 1890, S.E. accounts. See cast up (one's) accounts.

accounts for the milk in the coco(a)-nut, that. A c.p. rejoinder on first hearing a thing explained: ca. 1860–1910. Ex 'a clever but not very moral story' (H., 5th ed.). The phrase was current in Can., late C.19–early 20 (Leechman). See coco-nut, and milk in the coco-nut.

accrue chocolate. To make oneself popular with the officers' (Bowen): RN: early C.20. Cf. brown-nosing.

accumulator. (Racing) a better carrying forward a win to the next event: turf coll. > j.: from ca. 1870.

ace, n. A showy airman: RFC/RAF (ironic) coll.: since ca. 1918. (F. & G.) Ex the lit. S.E. sense, a crack fighter-pilot.—2. A flagship or other 'key' vessel: RN: from ca. 1914. Ex card-games. See guard the ace.—3. 'One bad peach—we call it an "ace"—turns the whole lot bad. We say, "Get that bleedin' ace out"' (Thomas Skeats, barrow-boy, reported in Daily Mail, 24 July 1963): street-traders': since ca. 1920. (Also applied to any other fruit.) A singleton.—4. Var. of ace of spades, 1.—5. In within on ace of, almost: C.18–20: coll. >, by 1800, S.E. ('Facetious' Tom Brown, 1704.) Orig. ambs- or ames-ace.—6. In on (one's) ace, alone: Aus.: C.20. Wilkes.

ace, adj. Excellent; 'star': coll.: from ca. 1932. Daily Express, 20 Apr. 1937, speaking of an orchestra: 'London's ace players improvising hot numbers'. John Winton, HMS Leviathan, 1967, of its RN—esp. its FAA—use, writes, 'The word "ace" meant anything superlative, desirable, well planned or well executed. "Dank" was its antonym and "fat" almost its synonym, meaning satisfied, ready, in a good or advantageous position.' P.B.: ace was still in use, as an adj. of high praise, in the RAF, early 1970s, and among comprehensive school youngsters in 1978. The latter gave even higher praise to anything by describing it as pearly ace.

ace-high. As high as possible: coll.: adopted, ex US, ca. 1925. Alice Campbell, Desire to Kill, 1934, 'Ace-high in public esteem'. Ex card-games.

ace in the hole. A hidden asset, to be produced when necessary for best advantage: coll. when used gen.: since mid-C.20, when adopted ex US poker-players'. Alan Hunter, Gently Sahib, 1964 (P.B.).

Ace King Queen Jack. A joc., non-Catholic description of the sign of the cross: late C.19–20.—2. A widow's pension: RN: from ca. 1930. P-G-R. ace of spades. A widow: low:—1811 (Lex. Bal.); † by 1890.—2. The female pudend: low: mid-C.19–20. F. & H., 'Hence, to play one's ace and take the Jack = to receive a man.'—3. A black-haired woman: proletarian:—1903 (F. & H., rev.).

ace of trouble. The ace of spades: late C.19–mid-20. (Petch.)

achage. An aching state: joc. coll.: C.20. After breakage. SOD.

acher. A painful blow or kick, esp. in the testicles: since ca. 1960. Jonathan Thomas, 1976.—2. See acre.

aching tooth. In have an a.t., to have a desire, a longing (for): coll.: late C.16–20; in C.19–20, mostly dial. Lodge, 1590; North, 1742; 1887, Parish & Shaw, Dict. of Kent Dialect. (Apperson).—2. (have... at a person.) To be angry with: coll.: C.18. N. Bailey, 1730.

acid, n. 'Heavy sarcasm; scornful criticism' (Granville): RN > gen. (esp. in come the (old) acid, q.v.): C.20.—2. LSD, the psychedelic drug: Can., from 1966 (Leechman); by 1967 also Brit., as in A. Diment, The Dolly Dolly Spy, 1967. Whence, acid-head, a user thereof (ibid.). Both of these terms occur also in Peter Fryer, 'A Toz of "Zowie"' in the Observer colour sup., 3 Dec. 1967.—3. In, e.g., "'Don't give me the old acid." Don't try to fool me with a lot of nonsense' (Jonathan Thomas, 1976): later C.20. See come the acid.—4. In put the acid on, 'To make the kind of demand (for money, information, or sex) that will either yield results or eliminate that possibility. Ex acid test' (Wilkes): Aus., NZ: C.20. Cf. hard word.—5. See put the acid in.

acid drop. A rating that's always either arguing or quarrelling or complaining: RN: C.20. Granville.

acid rock. Modern music which, when accompanied by unusual lighting and extreme amplification, is evocative of LSD hallucinations' (Powis): later C.20.

ack. An airman, esp. AC1 (Aircraftman 1st Class) or AC2: RAF College, Cranwell: ca. 1920–30. (Gp Capt A. Wall, 1945.) A vocalisation of ac.—2. Assistant: army: from ca. 1940. E.g. Ack Adj, the assistant adjutant (P-G-R); Ack IG, an assistant instructor of gunnery (P.B.: still current early 1970s, where ack adj was ob. by 1950). Ex the orig. signallers' PHONETIC ALPHABET, q.v. in Appendix.

ack, v. To acknowledge, e.g. a letter or signal: Forces' and Civil Service > gen. clerical: C.20.

ack! No!, as a refusal of a request: Christ's Hospital: C.19. Cf. Romany ack!, stuff!

ack-ack. Anti-aircraft guns and gunfire: Services': WW2. Hence Ack-Ack, AA Command (H. & P., 1943). Reader's Digest, Feb. 1941, 'To avoid the "ack-acks" (anti-aircraft guns)'. Cf. Archie, q.v.—2. As challenge, with response beer-beer, a joc. of early WW2. For both, see PHONETIC ALPHABET, in Appendix.

ack adj. See ack, 2.

Ack and Quack. The A & Q (Adjutant and Quartermaster) Department: army: ca. 1925–50. P-G-R.

ack-charlie. To 'arse-crawl' (q.v.); an 'arse-crawler': Services', esp. army: WW2. Ex the signalese for a-c. P-G-R. ack emma. Air Mechanic: RFC, 1912–18, and RAF, 1918. The rank became, in Jan. 1919, aircraftman. Jackson.—2. A.m.: services': from 1915. For both, see PHONETIC ALPHABET, in Appendix.

ack over toc(k). See arse over turkey.

ack Willie. Absent without leave: Aus. army: WW2. (B., 1943.) Signalese for first two letters of AWOL, the official abbr.

ackermaracker. Tea (the beverage): low: since ca. 1920. (James Curtis, They Drive by Night, 1938.) E.P.'s orig. etym. was, 'The form (acker-mar-acker) suggests tea reversed and distorted from act to ack; ack elab. to acker; and, with a swift mar interpolated, acker repeated.' In 1970 he added: in TL5, 16 Oct. 1970, 'Anthony Burgess castigates me for my fanciful explanation of the orig., but, with all his marvellous ingenuity and celebrated cerebration (I write this not ironically but admiringly), he has proposed no origination. My own, I admit, is too ingenious by half. I doubt whether the etym. will ever be solved. On maturer consideration I tentatively suggest that s. char, tea, has been back-slanged to rach and then elaborated.'—2. As ackamaraka, in "'Don't give me the old ackamaraka" = don't tell me tall yarns, don't try to bluff me' (Tempest, 1950): prisons' s.: mid-C.20.

ackers. Activity at physical exercises: Pangbourne Nautical College: since ca. 1950. (Peppitt.) The 'OXFORD/RN -ER(S)'.—2. See Akkas.

'ackin' corf. A hacking cough: 'pseudo-vulgarly in jest' (Collinson, 1927); i.e. coll. when joc., illiterate when serious.

ackle. To fit, or function, properly, esp. as in 'It (or she) won'tackle': RFC/RAF, 1917–19, perhaps orig. ex dial.; still current late 1970s, and has long been gen. Also 'Can youackle it?' = can you make it work? (E.P.; P.B.) ackman. A fresh-water thief: c.: mid-C.18–19. Corruption of arkman, q.v. F. & H. addsuce also ack-pirate and ack-riff.

acknowledge the corn, v.i. Admit, acknowledge: adopted, ex US,—1883 (Sala); ob. by 1930. The US sense: to admit failure or outwitting (see, esp., Thornton).

acky. Dirty; nasty; mostly childish and domestic: prob. dial. > s.: C.20. 'Ugh! Nasty! Acky! Put it down at once! Perhaps prompted by cacky. (P.B.)—2. See Akky.

acorn. See horse foaled by an...

acquaintance. See scrape acquaintance.

acquire. To steal: coll.: C.20. Not euph., for it is used joc. But cf.:—2. To obtain illicitly or deviously: army euph. coll.: WW2. P-G-R.

acre. See knave's acre.—2. Buttocks, backside: Aus.: since late 1930s. Wilkes.

Acres; Bob Acres. A coward, esp. if boastful: coll., † in C.20. Ex a character in Sheridan's Rivals, 1775.

acro. An acrobat: circus peoples': late C.19–20.

acrobat. A drinking-glass: music-hall:—1903 (F. & H., rev.). Punning tumbler.

across. In get across, v. t., to irritate or offend (a person): coll.: C.20.—2. See come across; put it across.

across the pavement. Underworld term for 'a street situation, e.g., "Let's do one across the pavement" may mean "Let's commit a robbery in the street"' (Powis): since (?) ca. 1960.

act, hung on an. See hung on an act.

act bored, superior, etc. To behave as if bored, superior, etc.: Can., orig. (ca. 1920) sol., but by 1955, coll. (Leechman.)

act Charley More. To act honestly; to do the fair thing: RN: C.19–20. (Granville.) Charley More was a Maltese publican whose house sign bore the legend 'Charley More, the square thing'.

act green. To feign ignorance, as of a recruit: coll.: late C.19–20. Mostly, or orig., RN lowerdeck, as in Sidney Knock, Clear Lower Deck, 1932. A source communicated, with comments, by Moe.

act of parliament. (Military) small beer perforce supplied free to a soldier: late C.18—early 19. Grose.

act the angora. To play the fool: Aus.: C.20. (B., 1942.) Elab. of... goat.

act your age! Behave naturally, not as if you were much younger!: since ca. 1920.

Acteon. A cuckold: C.17–18. B.E., Grose.—2. To cuckold: late C.17—early 18. (B.E.) Coll. Ex legend of Diana and Acteon.

acting dicky. A temporary appointment: naval: since very early C.18. It occurs in John Davis, The Post-Captain, 1806 (Moe); ob. On acting-order.—2. (Often a.d.) A man acting in the name of an enrolled solicitor: legal:—1903 (F. & H., rev.).

action dish. A dish resembling an old favourite; acting rabbit-pie is made of beef: RN: C.20. (Bowen.) Ex acting officer.

acting Jack. An acting sergeant: police: C.20. (Free-Lance Writer, April 1948.) Cf. the Army's acting lance-jack, an acting lance corporal.

acting lady. An inferior actress: ironic theatrical coll.: 1883, Entr'acte (Feb.); † by 1920. (Ware.) Mrs Langtry's social-cum-theatrical success in 1882 caused many society women to try their luck on the stage; mostly with deplorable results.

acting rabbit-pie. See acting dish, and cf.:

acting scan. 'Food substituted for that promised on the mess menu' (P-G-R): RN officers': since ca. 1920.

acting the deceitful. (Theatrical.) Acting: C.19. Sinks.

acting the maggot, vbl n. and ppl adj. Shirking work: (mostly Anglo-Irish) bank-clerks':—1935.

action. Activity, esp. if great; excitement, as in 'Where's the action?' Adopted, ca. 1968, by British 'underground' (non-Establishment; not drug addicts).—2. Sexual intercourse, as in 'He got all the action he wanted' (Hollander): adopted, ca. 1970, ex US. DCCU, 1971; W. & F. record it as used in print in 1968.

action(-)man. A sarcastically derogatory term for one who is really or only apparently over-efficient and military, enjoying route marches, assault courses and the like: Services': since ca. 1960. Ex the 'Action-man' doll, which can be dressed in all sorts of uniforms and fighting gear. (P.B.) active citizen. A louse: low (—1811); † by 1890. Lex.Bal. Cf. bosom friend.

active tack. Active service: Guardsmen's: 1939+. Roger Grinstead, They Dug a Hole, 1946.

actor. 'A bluffer, a spiv [q.v.]' (Tempest): prisons' s.: mid-C.20.

actor-proof was, ca. 1870–1940, applied to an actor who tried hard and selfishly for laughs and for rounds of applause: theatrical. Michael Warwick in the Stage, 3 Oct. 1968.

actor's Bible, the. The Era: theatrical coll.: ca. 1860–1918. (Ware.) A fling at sacred matters prompted by the sensation caused by Essays and Reviews.

actressy. Characteristic of an actress; theatrical or somewhat melodramatic in manner: coll.: late C.19–20. Edward Shanks, The Enchanted Village, 1933.

actual, the. Money, collectively, esp. if in cash: mid-C.19–20. At this word, F. & H. has an admirable essayette on, and list of English and foreign synonyms for, money. In 1890 there were at least 130 English, 50 French synonyms.

actual, your. See yer actual.

ad. An advertisement: printers' coll.: 1852, in Household Words, V, 5/2 (with thanks to Mr R.W. Burchfield, editor of the OED Sup). Mr Burchfield's team has now traced it back to 1841, when, on 1 May in Britannia, Thackeray used it. In C.20 gen. Sometimes advert, q.v., rarely adver.

ad lib. A coll. abbr. of ad libitum, as much as one likes: C.19–20.

ad(-)lib, v. To speak without a script, or to add extemporaneously to a script; in music, to improvise: coll.: adopted, in early 1930s, ex US.

adad! An expletive: coll.: ca. 1660–1770. Prob. ex egad!

Adam, n. A bailiff, a police sergeant: C.16–17. Shakespeare.—2. In mid-C.17–19 c., an accomplice: with tiler following, a pickpocket's assistant. Coles, 1676; B.E.; Grose.—3. A foreman: workmen's:—1903 (F. & H., rev.); ob. by 1930.

Adam, adam, v. (Gen. in passive.) To marry: c.: 1781, G. Parker, "What, are you and Moll adamed?" "Yes... and by a rum Tom Pat too"; † by 1850. Ex Adam and Eve.—2. In full, Adam and Eve, to leave: rhyming s.: late C.19–20. (Birmingham) Evening Despatch, 19 July 1937. Also, to depart (hurriedly): rhyming s. on leave: since ca. 1920. (Franklyn 2nd.) —3. See not know from Adam; when Adam....

Adam and Eve. To believe: rhyming s.:—1914. (F. & G.). —2. See Adam, v., 2; Adam and Eve on a raft.

Adam and Eve ball. A Cinderella dance: since ca. 1925.

Adam and Eve on a raft. Eggs on toast: mostly military: C.20. (F. & G.). L.A. adds 'Hoxtonian [Inner London] for fried eggs on toast. T.E. Lawrence, The Mint. Not only RAF, but in my experience: Services' and non-aristocratic.' Leechman, however, writes (1959) from Canada, 'Properly two poached eggs on toast, one egg being alone on a raft... it is firmly entrenched as "Short order" restaurant slang'. Cf- Adam and Eve wrecked. Scrambled eggs: mostly army: C.20. F. & G.

Adam and Eve's togs. Nudity: proletarian London (—1909); slightly ob. (Ware.) Cf. birthday suit.

Adam tiler. See Adam, n., 2.

Adam was an oakum-boy in Chatham Dockyard, when. See when Adam....

Adamatical. Naked: C.20. 'This', remarks one of my correspondents, 'is Standard English, but I can find no dictionary giving this definition'; neither can I, but then I classify it as jocularly erudite coll.—probably on the analogy of such words as problematical and sabbatical.

Adamising. A cadet's being lowered naked on to the parade ground at night, he being able to return only by presenting himself to the guard: Sandhurst: ca. 1830–55. Mockler-Ferryman, 1900.

Adam's ale. Water: coll.: C.17–18; joc. S.E. in C.19–20, but now outworn. (Prynne.) The Scottish equivalent is Adam's wine:—1859 (H., 1st ed.).

add. To come to the correct or wished-for total: coll.: 1850, Dickens. OED Sup.—2. In it doesn't add up, it fails to make sense: coll.: C.20. Hence, it all adds up, it does make sense—at last (Petch). Ex sense 1.

add a stone to (someone's) cairn. To honour a person as much as possible after his death: coll.; C.18–19. Ex a Celtic proverbial saying, recorded by traveller Pennant in 1772. add lustre to your cluster. See use knacker-lacquer... added to the list. I.e. of geldings in training; hence, castrated: turf s.:—1874 (H., 5th ed.). Orig. a euph. addel. See addel. Adders. Addison's walk: Oxford University: late C.19–20. By the 'OXFORD -ER'. addition. Paint or rouge or powder for the face: ca. 1690–1770. Mrs Centlivre: 'Addition is only paint, madam.' Society s. addle; often spelt addel. Putrid drinking water: nautical: late C.19–20. Bowen. Ex addled. addle cove. A fool; a facile dupe: late C.18–19. On addle-head or -pate. Addle (or Addled) Parliament. The Parliament of 1614: coll. nickname. OED. addle-plot. 'A Martin Mar-all' (B.E.); a spoil-sport: coll.: late C.17–18. addings. 'Pay accumulated on a voyage or during a commission': nautical, esp. RN: late C.19–20. Bowen. addressed to. (Of a missile, esp. a shell) aimed at: military: 1915; ob. F. & G. a-deary me! Dear me!: lower-class coll. (–1896) and dial. (–1865). EDD. adept. A pickpocket; a conjuror: c.: C.18.—2. An alchemist: c.: mid-C.17–18. B. & L. adj. (or A.), n. Adjutant; esp. the Adj., one's adjutant: Army officers', and perhaps later, the Other Ranks: C.20. (Blaker.) Also used in the vocative. Hence: adj. (or A.), v. Army officers' s., from ca. 1910 as in Blaker, "'Yes," said the Colonel. "You're all right. That's why I want you to Adj. for me." adjective-jerker. A journalist: literary: late C.19–20; ob. Cf. ink-slinger. Adj, the. The RAF's shape of adj. Partridge, 1945. Cf.: Adjie. An Adjutant: Aus.: C.20. B., 1942. adjutant's at. 'A blonde member of the Auxiliary Territorial Service': army: WW2. P-G-R. adjutant's gig. (Military) a roller, esp. that of the barracks: ca. 1870–1914. adjutant's nightmare. 'A confidential Army Telephone Book: Army Officers': 1916–18. B. & P., 'Very complicated and frequently revised'. Adkins's Academy. A certain London house of correction: c. (–1823); † by 1860. Bee. admen. (Singular, little used.) Advertising managers of periodicals and large firms; executive employees of advertising agencies: since ca. 1955: orig. s.: by 1965, coll. Admin. Administration; administrative: Services' coll.: 1939+. P-G-R. administer (a blow or rebuke). To give, deal: mid-C.19–20: joc. coll. >, by 1900, S.E.. admiral. One's father: Eton: ca. 1800–50. Spy, 1825.—2. As the Admiral, the officer-in-charge of RAF Air/Sea Rescue Boats: from ca. 1930. (H. & P.) Cf. airmaids, q.v.—3. See Kiss me Hardy!; next in line for admiral; tap the admiral. Admiral Browning. Human excrement: RN: C.20. Personified colour. admiral of the blue. A publican; a tapster: ca. 1730–1860. (In C.17, the British Fleet was divided into the red, white, and blue squadrons, a division that held until late in C.19.) admiral of the narrow seas. A drunk man vomiting into another's lap: nautical: early C.17–mid-19. (Grose, 2nd ed.) See TAVERN TERMS, §7. admiral of the red. A wine-bibber: C.19, mainly nautical. Cf.: admiral of the white. A coward: mid-C.19–early 20. Never very much used. Admiral's broom. 'Used humorously to give the Navy an equivalent of the Field Marshal's baton' (Petch, 1946): coll.: C.20. In Mar. 1967 Mr Ramsey Spencer writes, 'This goes back to the Dutch Admiral Martin Tromp (the elder), who beat the English Fleet under Blake at the Battle of Dungeness in Nov. 1652. The Encyclopaedia Britannica says that the statement that he sailed up the Channel with a broom at his masthead in token of his ability to sweep the seas is probably mythical. I think it was Newbolt who wrote a song called 'The Admiral's Broom' about the turn of this century.' Admiral's Mate, the. 'A boastful, know-all rating': RN: C.20. (Granville.) Ironic. Admiral's Regiment, the. The Royal Marines: military: mid-C.19–20; ob. Also Globe-Rangers, Jollies, Little Grenadiers. admirals of the red, white, and blue. Bedizened beades or bumbles: C.19. Admiralty brown. Toilet paper: R Aus. N: since ca. 1910. Issue and colour. Admiralty clown. A Naval physical-training instructor: RN: since ca. 1945. Admiralty ham. Any tinned meat: RN: late C.19–20. Bowen. Admiralty-made coffin. An Armed Merchant Cruiser; collectively, such ships formed the Suicide Squadron: RN: WW2. Many were sunk during the first two or three years of WW2. (Granville.) admiration. Abbr. note of admiration, admiration-mark (written!): coll.: C.20. mainly printers', publishers', authors': rare. ado. See dead for ado; once for ado. adod! Var. of adad! Adonee. God: c.: ?ca. 1550–1890; B. & L., vaguely classifying as 'old cant'. Ex the Hebrew. adonis. A kind of wig: ca. 1760–1800: coll. bordering on S.E. Cf. Adonis (1765+), a beau. OED. adonise. (Of men) to adorn one's person: C.17–19. Society s. that > Society j. adorable. H. A. Vachell, 1933, 'a much debased word; a diabolical twin of "deavie": upper and upper-middle class: from ca. 1925. adore. To like (very much): mid-C.19–20; (mostly Society) coll. Ados (pron. Aydoss). Assistant Director of Ordnance Services: army (H. & P.): WW2 and later. His Deputy was, of course, called 'Daydoss'. Simple acronyms. adrift. Harmless (C.17); discharged (C.18–19); temporarily missing or absent without leave (mid-C.19–20); wide of the mark, confused (C.20: coll.). Nautical. B.E. has 'Til turn ye adrift, a Tar-phrase, I'll prevent ye doing me any harm'; Bowen records the third sense. In the 'absent without leave' nuance, it has, since ca. 1920, been current among RAF regulars.—2. (Of a knot) undone: RN: C.20. Granville.—3. (Of kit) missing: id. 'If there's anything adrift it will come off your slop chit, nobody else's. All right?' (Heart). See also quot'n at knickers in a twist for its application to people. (P.B.) 'Ads. God's: a coll. minced oath occurring in combination (Adsbody, adsheart): late C.17–early 19. Congreve, Smollett. OED. Adullamites. As a political nickname, recorded as early as 1834, but made current in 1866 for a group of seceding Liberals; by 1870, any obstructionists of their own party. Soon coll., now historical. (Cf. cave, q.v.) Ex a reference by Bright to 1 Samuel 22, 1, 2. OED. W. adventure(s), at (all). At random, wholly at risk: coll. >, by 1600, S.E.; late C.15–18. Caxton, Berners, Locke. OED. advert (See ad. above) 'was used by J. Blackwood in 1860 (Letters of George Eliot, 1954, III, 244)': R.W. Burchfield, New Statesman, 17 Mar. 1966. advertisement conveyancers. Sandwich men: London society: ca. 1883–5. (Ware.) Coined by Gladstone and ridiculed by Society. advertising. Given to seeking publicity—and using it: coll.: C.20. As in 'He's an advertising (sort of) blighter.' Abbr. self-advertising. Adzooks! A coll. expletive or oath: mid-C.18–mid-C.19. I.e.

God's hooks > d's hooks > ads-hooks > Adzooks. Cf. 'Ads, q.v. aeger. A medical certificate; a degree taken by one excused for illness (1865): coll. >, by 1890, j. Ex ægrota (-1794), the same—though always j.

aerated, esp. as 'Don't get aerated!'—excited or angry: since ca. 1930. (Petch.) Sometimes heard as 'aeriated'.

aerated amateurs. Pre-WW2 Auxiliaries of the RAF—in 1947, recognised as the Royal Auxiliary Air Force. (P.B.) aerial coolies. Those airmen who dropped supplies to the Chindits in Burma: Army and RAF: 1943–5. P-G-R.

aerial ping-pong. Australian Rules Football: Sydneysiders': since ca. 1950. Mostly in ref. to the game in Victoria. (B.P.) aeroplanes. A bow tie: Aus.: since ca. 1938. B., 1942.

Ætna. 'A small boiler for "brewing"': Winchester: from ca. 1860; ob. B. & L.

afear'd. Afraid: C.16–20: S.E. until early C.18, then dial. and coll.; in C.20, sol. Lit., afear'd, terrified, ex + afear. Also 'feard'.

affair. Of things, esp. buildings, machines: coll. from ca. 1800. C.20 S.E. Gen. with a preceding adj. or a sequent adj. phrase. E.g. 'The house was a crazy affair of old corrugated iron'.—2. Male or female genitals: C.19–20; if used euph., it is ineligible, but if used lazily the term is s.—3. One's current lover: homosexuals': current 1970.

affair of honour. A duel resulting in an innocent man's death: ca. 1800–70. Coll.

affidavit men. Professional witnesses ready to swear to anything: late C.17–18. (Cf. knights of the post, q.v.) B.E., Grose.

affigraphy. See affygraphy.

afflicke, a thief, is either c. or low: C.17. Rowlands, in Martin Mark-all. But see flick.

afflicted. Tipsy: coll.: early C.18—early 20. (Franklyn, 1737.) Orig. euph.

afflictions. Mourning clothes and accessories: chiefly drapers', mid-C.19–20; ob. Hence, mitigated afflictions, half-mourning.

affluence of incohol, esp. under the... The influence of alcohol: jocularly intentional spoonerism: Aus. since late 1950s. (B.P.) But Australia owes it to 'the legion of North Country comedians who have used the phrase in their "drunk" sketches for years' (David Holloway in Daily Telegraph, 23 Feb. 1967).

affluent society, the. In 1958 Professor J. K. Galbraith published his book so titled and almost immediately the phrase became a c.p., both in Britain and in the USA. By some people, the un-thinkers, it has been held to synonymise 'the welfare state'; by many, to be basically optimistic, whereas, in the fact, the book is only mildly so. William Safire, The New Language of Politics, New York, 1968.

Affs, the. Black Africans: since ca. 1960—and far commoner in South Africa than in Britain. (Roderick Johnson, 1976.)

affygraphy, to an. Exactly; precisely. In an affygraphy, immediately. Early C.19—early 20. Moe notes its occurrence in The Nighi Watch (II, 85), 1828. Perhaps a confusion of affidavit and autobiography, and influenced, as Dr Leechman has pointed out, by (in) half a jiffy.

afloat; with back teeth well afloat. Drunk: from late 1880s; ob. by 1930.

afore and ahind (ahint), before and behind resp.; have, since ca. 1880, been either low coll. or perhaps rather sol. when they are not dial.

Africa speaks. Strong liquor from South Africa: Aus. and NZ: C.20. (B., 1941 and 1942.) In The Drum, 1959, B. defines it as 'cheap fortified wine'.

African. 'A tailor-made cigarette' (B., 1959): Aus.: since late 1940.

African harp. See fish-horn.

African Woodbine. Marijuana cigarette: drug addicts': 1970s. (Home Office.) Woodbine=a well-known brand of cheaper cigarette.

Afro. 'Having the hair in a spherical, bushy and tightly curled mass, in the style of certain Negroes' (Powis, 1977). A style much imitated, for a while in the 1970s, by 'Whitey' youth: adopted, early 1970, ex US. DCCU, 1971.

aft. Afternoon as in 'this aft'. Mostly lower-middle class: C.20. Also Can.: since ca. 1910. Brian Moore, The Luck of Ginger Coffey, 1960.—2. In get aft, to be promoted from the lowerdeck to the rank of officer: RN coll.: C.19–20. Granville, 'The officers' quarters are in the after-part of the ship'.—3. In be taken aft, to go, as a defaulter, before the Commander: RN coll.: C.20. Granville.—4. See carry both sheets aft. aft through the hawse-hole. (Of an officer) that has gained his commission by promotion from the lower-deck: RN: mid-C.19–20. (Granville.) See hawse-holes...

after. Afternoon: Aus.: C.20. (Cf. afto.) H. Drake Brockman, The Fatal Days, 1947, 'Did you see Mr Scrown this after, Les?' A much earlier example occurs in Edward Dyson, Fact'ry 'Ands, 1906. (With thanks to Mr R.W. Burchfield.) See also arvo.

after Davy. See Alfred Davy.

after-dinner, or afternoon('s), man. An afternoon tippler: resp.: C.19–20, C.17–19: coll. verging on S.E. Overbury, Earle, Smythe-Palmer.

after four, after twelve. 4–5 p.m., 12–2 p.m.: C.19 Eton; the latter is in Whyte Melville's Good for Nothing. Perhaps rather j. than coll.

after game, come the. To say, 'I told you so': Aus. coll.: since ca. 1925. B., 1942.

after his end (or hole), he is or was, etc. A workmen's c.p., applied to a man 'chasing' a girl: C.20.

after the Lord Mayor's show (comes the shit-cart). A WW1 army c.p. addressed to a man just back from leave, esp. if in time for an imminent 'show'. B. & P. Orig. Cockney: late C.19. See DCpp.

after you, Claude—no, after you Cecil! A c.p. since ca. 1940, from the BBC programme, 'Itma'. Now, 1983, ob. though lingering. The Can. version was after you, my dear Alphonse—no, after you, Gaston. (Leechman, 1959.) By 1970, †. See DCpp.

after you is manners. A late C.17—early 20 c.p. implying the speaker's consciousness, usu. joc. and ironic, of inferiority. See DCpp.

after you, partner! After you!: coll. c.p.:—1927 (Collinson). Ex cards, esp. bridge.

after you with (the thing). A joc. rejoinder to fuck the...!: c.p.: C.20.

after you with the po, Jane! A c.p. that, ca. 1880–1925, was used during—and refers to—the days of outdoor privies; it lasted until much later, but mostly in burlesque of old-fashioned bedroom usage.

after you with the push! A London street c.p. addressed with ironic politeness to one who has roughly brushed past: ca. 1900–14. Ware.

after you with the trough! A c.p. addressed to someone who has belched and implying that he is a pig and has eaten too fast: North Country: since ca. 1930. (David Wharton.)

afterbirth. Rhubarb: Aus. soldiers': WW2. B., 1943.

afternoon! Good afternoon!: coll.: mid-C.19–20. Cf. day! and morning!

afternoon buyer. One on the look-out for bargains: provincial coll.:—1903 (F. & H., rev.).

afternoon farmer. A procrastinator: s. only in non-farming uses. Mid-C.19–20, ob. H., 3rd ed.

afternoon man. See after-dinner man.

afternoon tea. Detention after 3 p.m.: Royal High School, Edinburgh (-1903).

afternoonified. Smart: Society, esp. in London: 1897–ca. 1914. Ware quotes an anecdote.

afters. The second course, if any; thus 'Any afters?' = 'Any pudding?': army: C.20. (F. & G.) Also RN lowerdeck, as in Knock, 1932. By 1945, at latest, it had become gen. 'Often with sexual implication, as in "What's for afters?"—used by a male at evening meal.' (Petch.)

afto. Afternoon: Aus.: since ca. 1920. B., 1942. See also arvo.

Ag and Fish. See Min. of Ag. below.

A

against. Against (i.e. for) the time when: low coll. when not dial.: mid-C.19–20. J. Greenwood, 'If I don't get the break-fuss ready against Jim comes in' (Baumann).

against (the) collar. In difficulties; at a disadvantage: ca. 1850–1900.

against the grain. Unwilling(ly), unpleasant(ly): mid-C.17–19, coll.; in C.20, S.E. Ray, Swift, Dickens. (Apperson.)

Agamemnon, the Old. The 69th Foot Regiment, now the Welch: military: C.19–20; ob. F. & G., 'From their service with Nelson on board HMS Agamemnon, 1793–5'.

agardente. 'Fiery spirits...smuggled on board in the Mediterranean': RN coll.: mid-C.19–20. (Bowen.) Ex Sp. agua ardiente, brandy.

agate. A very small person: late C.16–17; coll. > S.E. Ex the tiny figures cut on agate seals.

-age. A beatnik suffix, as in dressage (clothes)—understandage (understanding)—workage (employment): since ca. 1959. (Anderson.)

age before beauty is mostly a girl's mock courtesy to a somewhat older man: late C.19–20. (Mrs S. Pearce, 1975.) See DCpp.

age of miracles is past, the. A cynical cliché that, since ca. 1945, has become a c.p. See DCpp.

agen, agin (esp. the government). Against; in late C.19–20, sol.; earlier, S.E. These are Southern forms of the † again, against. (W.) P.B.: in later C.20 sometimes used for deliberate, humorous, effect.

agent, n. One in charge of the job; esp. an 'outside' (not an office) man: Public Works' coll.:—1935.

agent, v. To act as literary agent for (an author or his work): authors' coll.: since ca. 1930. E.C.R. Lorac, Death before Dinner, 1942.

agents. In have (one's) agents, to be well-informed: army and RAF: since ca. 1939. (Rohan D. Rivett, Behind Bamboo, 1946; E. P., Forces' Slang (1939–45), 1948.) With an allusion to secret agents. Cf. my spies tell me..., q.v.

-agger. Mostly in Charterhouse words. E.g. combinaggers, a combination suit (esp. of football attire). From ca. 1890. (A. H. Tod, 1900.) This prefix is very common in Oxford -er words, e.g. Jaggers. See also HARROW and cf. -ugger, under OXFORD -ER(s) in Appendix.

aggerawator, rarely agg(e)ravator; occ. hagrerwa(t)ter or -or: A well-greased lock of hair twisted spirally, on the temple, towards either the ear or the outer corner of the eye; esp. among costermongers: ca. 1830–1910. For a very early mention, see Dickens's Sketches by Boz; Ware. Cf. beau-catchers, Newgate knockers.

Aggie. Any ship named Agamemnon: RN: C.19–20. Bowen.—2. Miss Agnes Weston, the philanthropist: nautical: late C.19–20; ob. Ibid.—3. As aggie, a marble made of agate—or of something that, in appearance, resembles agate: children's: since ca. 1880. Manchester Evening News, 27 Mar. 1939.—4. Agoraphobia sufferers' and associates': later C.20. Community Care, 12 June 1980. (P.B.)—5. In see Aggie, to visit the w.c.: schools': mid-C.19–20.

Aggie-on-a-horse, or Aggie-on-horseback. HMS Weston-super-Mare: RN: C.20. (Granville.) 'Weston' evokes the 'Aggie' of 'Aggie Weston's', below.

Aggie Weston's. The Agnes Weston Sailors' Home: nautical: late C.19–20. Cf.:-

Aggie's. A Sailor's Rest House: RN: C.20. 'These Rest Houses were founded by the late Dame Agnes Weston—the "Mother of the Navy"—at Portsmouth and Devonport' (Granville).

aggranoj or agronoj; aggrovoke or aggrovoke. To annoy; to irritate: Aus.: since ca. 1920. (B., 1942.) The former, however, is also Cockney of ca. 1880+. Blend of aggravate, annoy and provoke.

aggravation. A station: rhyming s.: C.20. F. & G.

aggregate, v.t. To amount, in aggregate, to: 1865 (OED): coll. >, by 1920, S.E.

aggro. Now usu. n., but earlier also adj.: trouble-making; aggression and aggressiveness; aggravation or annoyance: orig. hippies', hence their allies': since ca. 1965; by 1969, gen., as in 'Don't be so bloody aggro, man!'; 'The aggressive side of his personality...his aggro, as he called it' (Groupie, 1968). Influenced by other words ending, whether deliberately or, as in demo, accidentally with—o, it has been a useful portmanteau word for a blend of all that is threatening about a mob. In Duff Hart-Davis's novel, Spider in the Morning, 1972, one of the characters defines and derives it thus: "'Aggro"? Big trouble. It's short for "aggravation". Opposite of "hassle", which is small.' But by 1978 the sense had weakened for some, so that an apology for a minor inconvenience could be phrased 'I'm sorry to give you this aggro.' aggy. 'A grouser': RN: C.20. Perhaps ex 'agony column'.

agility. In show (one's) agility, of women, in crossing a stile, in being swung, to show much of the person: ca. 1870–1914. Perhaps a pun on virility, but prob. of anecdotal orig., as Dr Douglas Leechman, who tells one, assured me (1969) he heard ca. 1900.

agin. See achin.

Agincourt. Agincourt, near Arras: army: WW1. Blaker.

agitate. To ring (a bell): joc. coll.: from ca. 1830. Cf.:

agitator. A bell-ropo; a knocker: ca. 1860–1900. Ex prec.

agolopise. See ajolopise.

agonised buttons. Anodised, of military 'brass' buttons given a permanent shine: army: since ca. 1960. By Hobson-Jobson. (P.B.) agony. Difficulty, problem; story one has to tell: c.: from ca. 1930. (Gilt Kid.) Ex Conway Training Ship s.: late C.19—earlier 20. Masefield.—2. A newly-joined young officer nervous or confused in command: army Other Ranks': WW1. F. & G.—3. As Agony, Agny, near Arras: army: WW1. Blaker.—4. As Agony, 'inevitable' nickname for any man surnamed Pain(e) or Payn(e): Services': late C.19—earlier 20. (Cdr C. Parsons, RN ret., 1973.)—5. In pile up (or on) the agony, to exaggerate: adopted, ex US, ca. 1855; > in C.20, coll., with up now rare. Also put on the agony.

agony-bags. Scottish bagpipes: English (not Scottish) Army officers': from ca. 1912.

agony column. The personal column in a newspaper's advertisements (first in The Times). Laurence Oliphant, in Piccadilly, 1870; W. Black, 1873. Coll. by 1880.—2. The letters-and-answers page of women's magazines. (Petch.) Since ca. 1950.

agony in red. A vermilion costume: London society: ca. 1879–81. Ware. Ex Aestheticism.

agony-piler. (Theatrical) an actor of sensational parts: ca. 1870–1910.

agony-waggon. A medical trolley: military: 1916–18.

agree like bells. Explained by the fuller form, a.l.b., they want nothing but hanging: coll. verging on (proverbial) S.E.: 1630, T. Adams; 1732, Fuller; ob. in C.20. (Apperson.) Cf. the C.18–20 (ob.) agree like pickpockets in a fair.

agree like the clocks of London. To disagree at, and on, all points: proverbial coll.: late C.16—early 18. Nashe, Ray. The elder Disraeli ascribes it, tentatively, to some Italian clock-maker.

agreement. See three nines agreement.

agricultural. See cow-shot. Prob. influenced also by mow, n. and v., in cricket j. agricultural one. See do a rural.

agricultural stroke. There are variants, as in 'the terms "rustic stroke" and "cow shot" are still in use as deprecatory epithets' (New Society, 22 July 1982).

around. At a loss; ruined: C.18–20. Coll. > in C.19, S.E.

ah, ah! 'An exclamatory warning to a child' (Petch): coll.: C.20 or perhaps v. much earlier; if that be so, the expression has long been informal S.E.

ah, que je can be bete! How stupid I am: 'half-society' (Ware): ca. 1899–1912. Macaronic with Fr. je, I, and bête, stupid.

ahead like a whale. See whale, 4.

ahind, ahint. See afore.

aid. See what's it in aid of?

aidh. Butter: Shelta: C.18–20. B. & L.

Aglers, the. The 87th Foot Regiment; from ca. 1881, the 1st Battalion of the Royal Irish Fusiliers; military: from early C.19; ob. At Barossa, in the Peninsular War, they captured the eagle (Fr. aigle) of a French regiment.

Ailsa. Glasgow & South-Western [Railway] Deferred Ordinary Stock (A. J. Wilson): Stock Exchange (–1895). Ailsa being a Scottish Christian name; more prob., however, from Ailsa Craig, the cone-like island off the coast of Ayrshire, Scotland.

aim. The person that aims; coll.: from ca. 1880. Cf. S.E. shot.

ainoch. Thing: Shelta: C.18–20. B. & L.

ain't. Sol. for am, or is or are, not. Swift, 1710. As = are not, also dial.; as = am or is not, mainly Cockney.—2. Sol. for has not, have not: C.19–20; esp. London. 'I ain't done nothing to speak on' (Baumann).

ain't ain't grammar. A c.p. used joc. in correcting someone saying ain't: since ca. 1920.

ain't it a treat. A street: rhyming s.: from ca. 1870. Pugh (2): 'Bits of him all up an' down the ain't-it-a-treat as fur as the old "Glue Pot".'

ain't it grand to be bloomin' well dead! c.p. current in the 1930s, from a Leslie Sarony song of the period. (Vernon Noble, 1976.) See DCpp.

ain't love grand! c.p. adopted, ca. 1930, ex US; earlier in Aus. See DCpp.

ain't Nature grand (? or !) is a 'c.p. apposite to anything from illegitimate offspring to tripping over on a muddy path.' (L.A.): late C.19–20.

ain't you (or yer) wild you (or ye) can't get at it? A c.p. loudly and jeeringly intoned at young girls passing: Cockneys': ca. 1910–30. (Franklyn, 1968.) See DCpp.

ain't you got no couf? 'Where are your manners, dress-sense, etc.?' : army c.p.: mid-1970s. A pun on the couth of S.E. uncouth; the illiterate form is deliberate, clearly originated by the jocularly erudite. (P.B.; E.P.) air, n. In the air, (of news, rumours) generally known or suspected, but not yet in print: C.19 coll., C.20 S.E.; likely to happen: coll.: since ca. 1920; uncertain, problematic, remote or fanciful: C.19 coll., C.20 S.E.—2. As in 'left in the air', without support: army coll.: since ca. 1940. P-G-R.—3. In on the air, (wireless telegraphy) on the 'wireless' [i.e. radio] programme; if applied to a person, it often connotes that he—or she—is important, or notorious, as news or publicity: resp. 1927 (OED) and 1930: coll.; by 1935, verging S.E.—4. Hence, on the air, by radio: since ca. 1935: coll. >, ca. 1955, familiar S.E. 'I heard it on the air.'—5. In take the air, to go for a walk: coll. > S.E.: C.19–20. Also, make oneself scarce: coll.: from ca. 1880.—6. See give the air; hot air; lay on air.

air and exercise. A flogging at the cart's tail: c.: late C.18–early 19. Grose.—2. Penal servitude: c.: C.19.—3. 'The pillory, revolving' (Bee): joc.: ca. 1820–40.—4. A short term in jail: Aus.: C.20. (B., 1942.) Ex 2.

air (one's) bum. See airing, 3.

air commodore. An Air Commodore: RAF s.: since ca. 1925. Jackson.

air disturber. A telegraphist rating: RN: since ca. 1930. (Granville.) Cf. such derogatory terms, as grub-spoiler, a Navy cook, and—air (one's) heels. To loiter, dawdle about: mid-C.19—early 20: s. >, by 1900, coll.

air-flapper. A (semaphore) signaller: army: early C.20. F. & G.

air-hole. 'A small public garden, gen. a dismally converted graveyard': London Society: 1885–95. Ware ascribes it to the Metropolitan Public Gardens Assn. P.B.: cf. the later C.20 city planners' j. use of lung for a public park.

Air House, the. The Air Ministry: RAF officers': from ca. 1919. (Jackson.) On the analogy of the army War House.

air-man-chair. A chairman: music-halls': ca. 1880–1900. (Ware.) By transposition of ch and the duplication of air.

air-merchant. A balloon-officer; a flying man: army: 1917.

F.P.H. Prick van Wely, 'War Words and Peace Pipings', in English Studies, 1922.

air pie and a walk around. A clerk's lunch: from ca. 1880. Jim Wolveridge, in He Don't Know 'A' from a Bulls Foot, 1978, writing about Stepany in the 1930s, adds the moving comment 'Expressions like "I'm living on Air Pie" for "I'm going hungry", "I havn't had bit nor bite all day", or "I've seen more dinner times than dinners"...were said in a wryly humorous way, but the bitter reality behind them was a long way from funny.' air-pill. A bomb dropped from an aircraft: Services': from ca. 1916; ob. by WW2. F. & G.

air (one's) pores. To be naked: earlier C.20. Cecil Barr, 'Amour' French for Love, 1933.

air shot. 'Intercourse without ejaculation. After the tube drill where firing is carried out but without a torpedo in the tube' (John Malin, 1979): RN Submariners': mid-C.20.

air-to-mud. Air-to-ground, as 'a very small spread in the bullet group—fine for air-to-air, but not so good for air-to-mud' (Phantom): RAF aircrews': later C.20. Cf. mud-movers, bomber crews.

air (one's) vocabulary. To talk for the sake of talking or for that of effect: coll.: ca. 1820–1920.

Air Works, the. The Royal Air Force: RAF: since ca. 1935. 'Not contemptuous' (L.A.).

airing. A race run with no intention of winning: turf: ca. 1870–1914.—2. In give it an airing!, take it away!: coll.: from ca. 1890. Later, also = be quiet!—3. In give (one's) bum an airing, to visit the w.c.: low: mid-C.20. One woman day-tripper to another, getting off a coach, ca. 1950, 'Shan't be a moment, Florrie. Must just go and give me bum an airin' (P.B.).—4. In take an airing, to go out as a highwayman: C.18. Anon., A Congratulatory Epistle from a Reformed Rake upon Prostitutes, 1728.

airmaids. Crew of the Air/Sea Rescue boats: RAF: WW2. (H. & P.) Cf. admiral, 2. ?Suggested by 'mermaids'.

airmen of the shuffy. Airmen of the watch (in the watch tower on the station): RAF: from ca. 1938. (Jackson.) See shuffy.

airs. In give (one)self airs, to put on 'side' or 'swank': coll. in C.18, then S.E. Fielding.

airs and graces. Faces: rhyming s.: C.20. Cf. Epsom Races, q.v.—2. Braces (for trousers): not very common rhyming s.: C.20.—3. The Epsom Races: id. Jack Jones, ed., Rhyming Cockney Slang, 1971.

Airships, their. The Air Council: RAF: 1947+. ('Peterborough' in the Daily Telegraph, 11 Sep. 1947.) A skit on the RN their Lordships, the various 'Lords' at the Admiralty.

airy, n. Ventilator: prison s.: later C.20. J. McVicar, McVicar by Himself, 1974.

airy-fairies. (Large) feet: Cockney: C.20. (London Evening News, 20 Nov. 1937.) Cf. the adj.—2. See—

Airy-Fairy, n. A member of the RNAS; later, Fleet Air Arm: RN coll.: WW1–WW2. (Eric Gell, 1979.)

airy-fairy, adj. As light or dainty as a fairy: coll., now (1935) verging on S.E.: 1869 (W.S. Gilbert). Ex Tennyson's airy, fairy Lillian (OED Sup.).—2. Shallowly and unthinkingly fanciful, e.g. in argument: coll.: since mid-1920s, I seem to remember; certainly common by ca. 1935.

airyard matey. A civilian mechanic in a Naval Air Station: RN: 1940+. (P-G-R.) Cf. the much older dockyard matey.

airyvated, ppl adj. Excited; worked-up: low: 1930s. (Gilt Kid.) Ex synon. aerated or aereated.

Ajax. A jakes, a water-closet: late C.16–18. A spate of doalcol wit was loosed by Sir John Harington's tract, The Metamorphosis of Ajax, 1596.

ajay. An amateur journalist: schools of authorship and journalism: since ca. 1920.

ajolopise; more correctly agolopise. To apologise: non-U, joc. perversion: earlier C.20.

Ak. A var. of Ack, q.v. Philip Macdonald, Rope to Spare, 1932.

ak dum (also spelt ek dum). At once: army; late C.19—earlier 20. (F. & G.) Ex Hindustani ek dam.—2. A German notice-board: 1916–18. (Ibid.) Ex the caption Achtung!, Beware! ak dum and viggery! At once!: rare: from 1919. A combination of ak dum, 1, and (corrupted) iggri. I.e. ex two Army phrases, the former from Hindustani, the latter from Arabic! aka. See a.k.a.

Akerman's hotel. Newgate prison. 'In 1787,' says Grose, 'a person of that name was the gaoler, or keeper.' † by 1850. Akeybo. As in 'He beats Akeybo, and Akeybo beats the devil': proletarian (–1874); ob. H., 5th ed. Cf. Banaghan, Banagher, q.v. Akeybo, however, remains an etymological puzzle. Is there a connexion with Welsh gipsy ake tu!, here thou art! (a toast: cf. here's to you!). Sampson.

akka. An Egyptian piastre: army: since WW1 and perhaps since late C.19. Ex the slang of Egyptian beggars: piastre corrupted. In the plural akkas, it= money, 'cash'; in this sense it reached the regulars in the RAF by 1925 at the latest (Jackson).—2. Hence, a Palestinian piastre: Services': since ca. 1920.

Akkas (or Ackers). A familiar term of address to a unit's pay-sergeant: army: since ca. 1950, or perhaps earlier. Ex prec. (P.B.)

Akky. '[The lorry driver] has been driving for over 20 years, and he's had this Atkinson truck (he calls it "an Akky") for 3' (Ian Walker, in New Society, 21 May 1981).—2. See acky. ala kefak (or kefik). As in 'I'm (or he's) ala kefak', I'm 'easy' (see easy, adj., 2; army, in Near and Middle East: ca. 1940–55. Ex Arabic. P.B.: 'Major Wilmott was alakefak: so much so, that it was difficult to get him to do any work at all' (Jocelyn Brooke, The Military Orchid, 1948, p. 93).

alacompain. See alacompain.

Alan Whickers; short form Alans. Feminine knickers (panties): not before 1965, nor very gen. before 1968 or 1969. Ex the BBC broadcaster, known esp. for his series 'Whicker's World'. Haden-Guest, 1971.

Alans. See prec.

alarm and despondency. War-time depression: 1940+. Ex speech by Sir Winston Churchill, KG. Esp. (to) spread a. and d. In ref. to early 1942: 'I was pressed to return urgently to the theatre of my operations and to prepare myself to spread "alarm and despondency" (an expression that was just then coming into fashion)' (Vladimir Peniakoff, Private Army, 1950): Army, hence Navy and RAF, mostly among officers; since 1945, reminiscent and usu. joc. 'Popski' records (p. 128) that on 18 May 1942, 'a message came on the wireless for me. It said: "SPREAD ALARM AND DESPONDENCY".' alarm bird. Kookaburra: Aus.: C.20.

alas, my poor brother! A coll. c.p. of the 1920s. Collinson. Ex a famous advertisement for Bovril, the meat extract.

Alb. An Albanian: since ca. 1941. Anthony Quayle, Eight Hours from England, 1945.

Albany beef. North American sturgeon: nautical: mid-C.19–20. (Bowen.) Ex that town.

albatross. A hole played in 3 under bogey: golfers', adopted in 1933 ex US (cf. 'birdie', 1 below, and 'eagle', 2 below, bogey). Evening News, 13 Aug. 1937.

albert. Abbr. Albert chain: from ca. 1884; coll. till ca. 1901, then S.E. Ex the name of the Prince Consort of Queen Victoria.

Albertine. 'An adroit, calculating, business-like mistress': aristocratic: ca. 1860–80. (Ware.) Ex the character so named in Dumas the Younger's Le Père Prodigue.

Albertopolis. Kensington Gore, London: Londoners': the 1860s. Yates, 1864; H., 1874, notes it as †. Ex Albert Prince Consort, intimately associated with this district.

alberts. 'Toe-rags as worn by dead-beats and tramps of low degree' (B., 1942): Aus.: C.20. Worn instead of socks; with pun on albert. Also known as Prince-Alberts (Wilkes).

albonised. Whiten: pugilistic, ca. 1855–1900. ('Ducange Anglicus', 1857.) Ex L. albus, white. Cf. ebony optic, q.v. alc. Alcohol: from ca. 1930. (Not very gen.)

alcoholic constipation. 'Inability to pass a public-house: undergraduates': 1920–30' (R.S.).

alderman. A half-crown: c.: from 1830s; ob. Ex its size. 'Ducange Anglicus', 1857; Brandon, 1839.—2. A long pipe (= churchwarden): ca. 1800–50.—3. A turkey, esp. if roasted and garnished with sausages: late C.18—early 20; var. alderman in chains. George Parker, ca. 1782, says it is c.—4. Late C.19 c., precisely a 'jemmy': see citizen. Daily Telegraph, 14 May 1883.—5. A qualified swimmer: Felsted School: ca. 1870–90. Ex the Alders, a deep pool in the Chelmer.—6. A prominent belly: ca. 1890–1940. So many aldermen used to have one.—7. See vote for the alderman; alderman's nail.

alderman in chains. See prec., 3.

Alderman Lushington. Intoxicants: Aus.: ca. 1850–1900. Ex Alderman Lushington is concerned, (a person) is drunk: c.p.: ca. 1810–50 (Vaux). See also Lushington. aldermanity. The quality of being an alderman; a body of aldermen. From ca. 1625; in C.19–20, S.E. Aldermanship is the regular form, aldermanity a jocular variant, a cultured coll. after humanity.

alderman's eyes. (House) flies: rhyming s.: since ca. 1890; by 1960, ob. (Franklyn 2nd.)

alderman's nail. A tail (esp., a dog's): rhyming s.: C.19. 'Reduced to Alderman: "Does he wag his Alderman then?"' (Franklyn, Rhyming, 2).

alderman's pace. A slow, dignified gait: coll.: from ca. 1580; ob. Melbancke, 1583; Cotgrave; 1685, S. Wesley the Elder, 'And struts... as goodly as any alderman'; Grose, Apperson.

Aldershot ladies. A double four at darts: darts players': C.20.—2. A forty-four (44: two 4s) at tombola—or house (housey-housey), a military version of lotto—or bingo, a social version of house: resp. C.20; C.20; since ca. 1950. A double 4, via the rhyming allusion two whores—Aldershot ladies (of easy virtue).

Aldgate. See pump at Aldgate.

ale can. A habitual heavy drinker of alcohol: latish C.19—earlyish 20; esp. Lancashire. Robert Roberts, The Classic Slum, 1971.

ale-draper. An ale-house keeper (implied in 1592): joc. coll. >, by 1750, S.E.; † by 1850. This joc. term actually occurs in the burial-entry of a Lincolnshire parish register of the C.18.

ale-head wind, beating (g) up against an. Drunk: nautical: late C.19–20. I.e. 'tacking all over the place', esp. the pavement.

ale-knight. A drunkard; a boon companion (1575): C.16–17: coll. > S.E.

ale-spinner. A brewer; a publican. C.19.

ale-stake. A tippler: coll., C.17–18. In S.E. ale-stake = ale-pole, a pole serving as an ale-house sign.

Alec. See Smart Alec.—2. Hence, a dupe, esp. a swindler's dupe: Aus.: since ca. 1925. (B., 1942.) Ironically derived from sense 1. Also Alex (Margaret Trist, 1946).

alecie, alecy. Lunacy; intoxication: Lyly, 1598. Cited as an example of pedantic nonwords, it may be considered s. because of its derivation, after lunacy, from ale + cy. (N.B.: despite a subconscious belief to the contrary, culture and/or pedantry do not prevent a word from being s. or coll.; indeed, culture and pedantry have their own unconventionalisms.)

Alemnoch. Milk: Shelta: C.18–20. B. & L.

alert! 'Officer or N.C.O. approaching' (H. & P.): Services': WW2. Ex the air-raid warning.

ales. The shares of Messrs S. Allsopp & Sons, the brewers: Stock Exchange: from ca. 1880. Also slops. A.J. Wilson.—2. In in his ales, in his cups, or rather his tankards of ale (ale orig. synon. with beer): coll.: C.16–17. Shakespeare.

Alex. See Alec, 2.

Alexander. To hang (a person): Anglo-Irish coll.: ca. 1670–1800. Ex the merciless way in which Sir Jerome Alexander, an Irish judge in 1660–74, carried out the duties of his office. F. & H. rev.

Alexandra limp. The limp affected, as a compliment to the Princess of Wales, by Society ca. 1865–80. Coll. Chamber's Journal, 1876. Cf. Grecian bend, q.v.

Alf (or ocker, q.v.). Of ocker, Barry Prentice, July 1976, remarks that 'The word was probably coined by a journalist to replace "Alf", which was an exact synonym... "Alf" has fallen out of favour because of the English TV character, Alf Garnett, who has some, but not all, of the characteristics of the Australian "Alf" or "ocker". I have never encountered "Alf" as "a heterosexual male "as defined by the late Mr Baker in The Australian Language." See esp. Wilkes.

'alf a mo'. A cigarette. See 'arf a mo', below.—2. A tooth-brush moustache: Aus. military: 1916–45.

'alf a mo', Kaiser! A c.p. of 1915–18. (F. & G.) Ex a recruiting poster thus headed. See DCpp.

Alfred David; Affidavy. Affidavit: sol. resp. 1865, Dickens (and again, ca. 1880, Harry Adams in a music-hall song), and C.19–20. Occ. mid-C.19–20, after Davy. Cf. David and davy, qq.v.

Alf's peed again. An occ. Hobson-Jobson of aufwiedersehen, 'be seeing you': Brit. Forces in Germany: since (?)ca. 1945. (P.B.)

Algerine. (Theatrical) one who, when salaries are not paid, reproaches the manager. Also, an impecunious borrower of small sums. Ca. 1850–1900. Perhaps ex the US sense: a pirate (1844).

Algie, -y. Generic for a young male aristocrat (esp. if English): coll.: from ca. 1895. See my Name This Child, 1936.—2. Seaweed, sludge or refuse in Swan River, Perth: West Aus.: C.20. B., 1942. The pun is on algae.

Ali. Inevitable nickname of men surnamed Barber: C.20. (L. J. Cunliffe, Having it Away, 1865.) Ex 'Ali Baba and the Forty Thieves'.

Ali Babas, the. Australian troops in N. Africa, 1942–3. Ex the name bestowed by 'Lord Haw-Haw' (William Joyce). Martin Page, The Songs and Ballads of World War II, 1973.

alias man. 'A criminal, especially a morally worthless cheat or hypocrite (West Indian term, originally an eighteenth century English expression)' (Powis, 1977).

alibi. Merely an excuse: since ca. 1935. A slovenliness from the US.

Alice. An imitation tree (serving as an observation post) in the Fauquissart sector: WW1 military. (F. & G.) Ex 'Alice, where art thou?', because hard to find. (Alexander McQueen.)—2. The Alice: Alice Springs: Aus. coll.: late C.19–20. Archer Russell, A Tramp Royal in Wild Australia, 1934.—3. See up Alice's.

Alice Springs, via. 'Where have you been all this time? Did you go via Alice Springs?' = by a devious route: Aus. since ca. 1945. This town—Nevil Shute's A Town Like Alice, 1950—is, roughly, in the centre of Australia. (B.P.)

Alick. Var. (B., 1943) of Alec, 2.

alive. See all alive; look alive.

alive and kicking; all-alive-o; all alive. Very alert and active: coll.: resp., since early C.19; since ca. 1840;—1851 (Mayhew, I). W.N. Glascock, Sailors and Saints, 1829, at II, 22, 'And there she [a ship] is, all alive and kicking' (Moe). See also all serene; alivo.

alive and well and living in... See God is alive...

alive or dead. Head: rhyming s.: ?late C.19–20. Franklyn, Rhyming.

alivo. Lively; sprightly: (low) coll.: late C.19–20. Ex all alivo. J. Storer Clouston, 1932, 'Mrs. Morgan considered herself quite as alivo and beaufal as these young chits with no figures.' See alive and kicking.

alkie, -y. An alcoholic: adopted, ca. 1943, ex US. (B.P.) Cf. lush.

all. See and all.

all a-cock. 'Overthrown, vanquished' (Ware): proletarian:—1909. Ware thinks that it derives either ex knocked into a cocked hat or ex cock-fighting.

all a treat. 'Perfection of enjoyment, sometimes used satirically to depict mild catastrophe' (Ware): London street coll.:—1909.

all about. Alert; very efficient: mostly RN: C.20. (John Irving, Royal Navalese, 1946.) Contrast:-

all about—like shit in a field. 'The rider [to prec.] brings a corrective bathos which may be closer to the truth' (L.A.): RN: C. 20. Cf. all over the place...

all abroad. See abroad, 1.

all afloat. A coat: rhyming s.:—1859 (H., 1st ed.).—2. A boat: id.: C.20. (Haden-Guest, 1971.) Both var. of I'm afloat.

all alive. Ill-fitting: tailors': ca. 1850–1910. See alive and kicking.

all alive and kissing. See still alive...

all alivo. See alive and kicking.

all-Aloney, the. The Cunard liner Alaunia: nautical: earlier C.20. Bowen.

all anyhow, adj. and adv. Disordered; chaotic: late (?mid-) C.19–20. 'Taffrail', Carry On!, 1916 (Moe).

all arms and legs. See arms and legs.

all around my hat! See all round my hat.

all ashore as is (or that's) going ashore! Used, outside its context, as a hastener, to make people 'get a move on': prob. orig. Cockney: C.20. See also DCpp. Ex departing liners, troopships, etc.

all at sea. At a loss; confused: C.19–20; coll. from ca. 1890. Cf. abroad, q.v.

all balls and bang-me-arse. A post-WW2 intensive of all balls, q.v. at balls. (R.S., 1969.) all ballsed-up. Bungled; confused; wrong: Services'; also Aus.: adopted, ca. 1944, ex US servicemen. Cf. balls-up.

all behind, like a fat woman, or like Barney's bull. See Barney's bull and fat woman. But also, in brief, all behind, applied esp. to fat-bottomed charwomen all behind with their work: C.20. See DCpp.

all behind in Melbourne. 'Broad in the beam': West Australian: C.20. B., 1942.

all betty! (or it's all betty!) It's all up; we've failed completely: an underworld c.p. of 1870–1920. (B. & L.) See DCpp.

all brandy. (Of things) excellent, commendable: non-aristocratic: ca. 1870–1910.

all bum. A street c.p. applied, ca. 1860–1900, to a woman wearing a large bustle. B. & L.

all callao (or -io). Quite happy: nautical: late C.19–20; ob. (Bowen.) Prob. ex Callao, the Peruvian sea-port, to reach which must be a comfort and a relief. Or, perhaps, ex alcohol.

all can do. All right: RN: late C.19–20. (Bowen.) From China Stations' pidgin: the opposite of no can do, q.v. (P.B.) all chiefs and no Indians; occ. elab. to...like the University Regiment. All officers and no Other Ranks: Aus. c.p.; the longer, mostly Sydneysites': since ca. 1940. (B.P.) Prob. ex US, it has since passed into much wider usage, e.g., in the British Armed Forces since, at the latest, mid-1950s. (P.B.) See DCpp.

all clear. An all-clear signal: coll.: from 1918. Often fig.; orig. in respect of hostile aircraft.—2. A c.p. indicating that officers and NCOs have gone: Services': since 1939. (H. & P.) Cf. alert, q.v.

all contributions gratefully received. Used allusively or out of proper context has, since ca. 1925, been a c.p. See DCpp.

all coppers are. A truncated version of the c.p. all coppers all bastards, current since, at latest, 1945. The complete phrase should prob. have been dated C.20. See DCpp.

all cut. Confused; upset; excited: army: C.20. F. & G. all day, or yes, all day. A c.p. reply to a query about the date: C.20. 'Is today the 10th?'—'(Yes,) all day'.

all dick(e)y with. See dickey with.

all dolled up like a barber's cat. Dressed resplendently: Can.: C.20. (Leechman.)

all done by kindness! Nonchalant and sometimes ironic c.p. of dismissal of thanks for an action that is done to someone else's advantage: C.19–20. See DCpp.

all done by—or with—mirrors, often prec. by it's. A c.p. uttered when something clever has been done: since ca. 1920. It presumably originated among stage magicians. See DCpp.

all down the line. In every way and thoroughly, as in 'They'd been seen off [outwitted] all down the line' (J. Wingate, Oil Strike, 1976): coll.: later C.20.

all dressed up and nowhere (US no place to go). Orig., ca. 1915, in 'a song by Raymond Hitchcock, an American comedian' (Collinson); by 1937 it was ob.—as it still is, yet, like all day! above, very far from †.

all ends up. Easily: coll.: from ca. 1920. (OED Sup.) With a play on anyhow.

all fine ladies are witches. C.p. from C.18: it occurs in Swift's Polite Conversation, dialogue II. An allusion to women's intuition?

all-fired. Infernal; cursed. Orig. (1835) US; anglicised ca. 1860. Thornton. Euphemises hell-fired.—2. Hence the adv. all-firedly: US (1860), anglicised ca. 1870; ob. by 1930.

all for it, be. To be entirely in favour of it; hence, over-keen: RN coll.: C.20; by 1925, at latest, gen. coll.

all fours, be or go on. To proceed evenly: C.19–20: coll. all g. y. All awry or askew: since ca. 1942.

all gas and gaiters is the shortened—the c.p. form—of 'All is gas and gaiters' in Dickens's Nicholas Nickleby, 1838–9. Often applied to bishops and other church dignitaries; the phrase was given new life by the BBC TV comedy series thus named, broadcast in the early 1970s. See also attitude is the art of gunnery and all gas... in DCpp., and gas and gaiters below.

all gay! The coast is clear: C.19 c. Cf. bob, adj., 2.

all gong and no dinner. All talk and no action: coll.: C.20. BBC Radio 4, 'The Archers' serial, 13 Oct. 1981.

All Hallows. The 'tolling place' (?scene of robbery), in Prigging Law (lay): c. of ca. 1580–1630. Greene, 1592.

all hands. 'All the members of a party, esp. when collectively engaged in work' (OED): coll.: from ca. 1700. (Farquhar, Dickens.) Ex all hands, the complete (ship's) crew. Cf.:

all hands and the cook. Everybody on the ship: nautical coll.: mid-C.19–20. (Bowen.) The cook being called on only in emergency.

all-hands ship. A ship on which all hands are employed continuously: nautical coll.: mid-C.19–20. Bowen.

all hands to the pump. A concentration of effort: C.18–19; ob. by 1890. Coll. rather than s. P.B.: the phrase survived well into C.20.

all harbour light. All right: orig. (1897) and mostly cabbies' rhyming s.; ob. See also harbour light.

all his buttons on, have. To be shrewd, alert, and/or active: London proletariat: ca. 1880–1915. Ware.

all holiday at Peckham. A mid-C.18–19 proverbial saying=no work and no food (pun on peck); doomed, ruined. Grose, 3rd ed.

all honey or all turd with them, usu. prec. by it is. They are either close friends or bitter enemies—they fly from one extreme to the other: mid-C.18–mid-C.19. Grose, 3rd ed., 1796.

all-hot. A hot potato: low (–1857); † by 1900. 'Ducange Anglicus', 1st ed.

all hot and bothered. Very agitated, excited, or nervous: coll.: from ca. 1920. The Times, 15 Feb. 1937, in leader on this dictionary. Ex the physical and emotional manifestations of haste.

all I know is what I read in the papers. An American c.p. originated by the cowboy philosopher humorist Will Rogers in 1926, it implied: 'I am just an ordinary citizen, but I'm entitled to my opinions as well.' The phrase had some currency in Britain too. For a long discussion on it, please see DCpp.

all-in, n. An all-in assurance policy: insurance-world coll.: from ca. 1927.

all in, adj. (Stock Exchange) depressed (of the market): coll.: mid-C.19–20; opp. all out. These are also terms shouted by dealers when prices are, esp., falling or rising.—2. Hence, in C.20, all in (of persons, occ. of animals)=exhausted.—3. 'Without limit or restriction' (C.J. Dennis): Aus. coll.: C.20. Cf. S.E. nuance, 'inclusive of all'.

all in a bust. See bust, n., 4.

all in a pucker. See pucker.

all in fits. (Of clothes) ill-made: mid-C.19—earlier 20: tailors'.

all in the eye. All nonsense; humbug: ca. 1820–80. Cf. all my eye, q.v. Bill Truck, 1821, has all in my eye.

all in the seven. See seven.

all is bob! See bob, adj., 2.

all is fish that comes to net. All serves the purpose: proverbial coll.: mid-C.17–20. In late C.19–20, rarely without my, his, etc., before net.

all jam and Jerusalem. A slightly derogatory c.p. directed at the Women's Institutes: since ca. 1925. Ex Blake's hymn, used as a 'signature tune', propounding a social programme on the one hand, and their jam-making contests on the other. (R. S.) A very English phrase concerning a very English institution.

all jaw (like a sheep's head). Excessively talkative; eloquent: later C.19—early 20. Var. all mouth, q.v.

all jelly. See jelly.

all K.F.S. All correct and complete: RNAS: WW1. (S/Ldr R. Raymond, 1945.) I.e. standard regulation issue knife, fork, and spoon.

all kiff. All right, all correct: army,—1914 >, by 1920, fairly gen.; ob. by 1940. (F. & G.; Manchon.) Prob. ex Fr. s. kif-kif, or perhaps even a truncated version of prec.

all laired (or mocked) up. Flashily dressed: Aus.: late C.19–20. (Cf. lair and mockered.) Also ... lared ...

all languages. Bad language: coll.: ca. 1800–40. Sessions, Dec. 1809.

all legs and wings. (Of a sailing vessel) over-masted: nautical: late C.19–20; ob. Bowen.

all Lombard Street to a Brummagem sixpence is a c.p., a joc. var. of all Lombard Street to a china orange. Meaning 'heavy odds', the orig. and originating ... china orange (a piece of chinaware) has the further variants ... to ninepence and ... to an egg-shell; all three variants arose in C.19, and all, except ... china orange, are ob. The ref. is to the wealth of the famous London street of banks.

all manner. All kinds of things, 'things' usu. being made specific to suit the context: lower classes' coll.: from ca. 1870. Nevinson, 1895, 'Through its bein' a boy, there didn't seem nothink necessary to call it. So we called it all manner, and out of all its names', etc.

all marked. 'Jocular for Hall-marked, generally for inferior articles which would hardly be of the hallmarked class' (Petch): since late 1940s.

all mouth and trousers. An extension of all mouth, which dates from prob. late C.19, concerning a loud-talking, blustering man: since mid-C.20. L.A. records hearing it on TV, 1 July 1964. Prob. influenced by synon. all prick and breeches: since ca. 1920.

all my eye (and Betty Martin). Nonsense! 'All my eye is perhaps the earliest form (Goldsmith has it in 1768), although it is clear that Grose's version'—that's my eye, Betty Martin—'was already familiar in 1785 ... Cf. the Fr. mon œil!', Grose, P. The Betty Martin part, despite ingenious, too ingenious, hypotheses (esp. that sponsored by Bee and silently borrowed by H.: 'a corruption ... of ... Oh, mihi, beate Martine!'), remains a mystery. It is, however, interesting to note that Moore the poet has, in 1819, all my eye, Betty, and Poole, in Hamlet Travestied, 1811, has that's all my eye and Tommy; this problematic tommy recurs in like Hell and Tommy (W.). In The Phœnician Origin of Britons, Scots, and Anglo-Saxons, 1914, Dr L. A. Waddell derives the phrase from o mihi, Brito Martis, 'Oh (bring help) to me, Brito Martis'. She was the tutelary goddess of Crete, and her cult was that of, or associated with, the sun-cult of the Phœnicians, who so early traded with the Britons for Cornish tin. (I owe the reference to Mr Albert B. Petch.) Cf. the next two entries, and see DCpp. for a much longer discussion.

all my eye and (my) elbow. A London elab. of prec.: 1882; † by 1920. Ware, 'One can wink with the eye and nudge with the elbow at once'; he also points to the possibility of mere alliteration. Cf.:

all my eye and my grandmother. A London var. (–1887) of the prec.; ob. (Baumann.) Cf. so's your grandmother!, which, in late C.19–20, expresses incredulity: gen. throughout England.

all my whiskers. See whiskers, 2.

all nations. A mixture of drinks from all the unfinished bottles: late C.18–early 19. Grose, 1st ed.—2. A coat many-coloured or much-patched: C.19.—3. See Bell and Horns.

all-night man. A body-snatcher: ca. 1800–50. See esp. Ramsay, Bemincences, 1861.

all-nighter. Prostitutes still classify their clients as "short-timers" and "all-nighters" (John Gosling & Douglas Warner, The Shame of a City, 1960): late C.19–20.

all of a dither. Trembling, shivering, esp. with fear. A phrase app. first recorded, as 'unconventional', in 1917, but existing in Lancashire dial. at least as early as 1817.

all of a doodah. Nervous: C.20. See Aoodah.—2. Hence, esp. 'of an aeroplane pilot getting nervous in mid-air': RFC/RAF: from 1915. F. & G.

all of a heap. Astounded; nonplussed: C.18–20; coll. by 1800. In Shakespeare, all on a heap.—2. Hence, in strike (from ca. 1895, often knock all of a heap, to cause to collapse: coll.:—1818 (Scott: 'Strike, to use the vulgar phrase, all of a heap.') In C.18, the form was strike all on a heap, recorded for 1711, but Richardson adumbrated the mod. form with 'He seem'd quite struck of a heap,' 1741. OED.

all of a hough, or huh. Clumsy; unworkmanlike: tailors', ca. 1870–1914.—2. Lopsided: as all of a hoo, it occurs in W.N. Glascock, The Naval Sketch-Book, II, 1829, and as all aho in The Night Watch (II, 85), 1828. (Moe.) Hotten records it, as huh, in his 1st ed.: ex Somerset dial.

all of a piece. 'Awkward, without proper distribution or relation of parts': low coll. (–1909); slightly ob. Ware.

all of a sweat. (Of a street, pavement, etc.) like a bog; slushy: coll., esp. London:—1887 (Baumann).

all of a tiswas (or tizwas). Very much excited; utterly confused: perhaps orig. RAF, from early 1940s; soon > gen. Occ. as in, e.g., 'She was in a bit of a tiswas', i.e. not quite so agitated as all of a... Perhaps an elab. of tizzy, n., 2, q.v., or a blend of it is, it was; cf. the later Shell Petrol advertising slogan 'That's Shell—that was!'

All Old Crocks; or Angels of Christ. Army Ordnance Corps: army: WW1. Puns on the official initials. The Corps was designated 'Royal' for its services in WW1.

all on (one's) lonesome. See lonesome.

all on the go. Intensified on the go, q.v.

all on top! That's untrue!: underworld c.p.: since ca. 1920. The evidence is all—but only—on top; in short, superficial.

all out. Completely: since C.14; coll. > S.E. by ca. 1750. OED.—2. Of a big drink, ex drink all out, to empty a glass: coll.: C.17–19.—3. In error: C.19–20.—4. Unsuccessful: turf: ca. 1870–1900.—5. Improving: Stock Exchange. See all in.—6. Exhausted: athletics, later C.19; then gen. In later C.20, gen. all in. Contrast:—7. In post-WW1 athletics coll. it also means exerting every effort, as indeed it has done in gen. use since the early 1890s; by 1930, S.E. OED.

all over. Feeling ill or sore all over the body: coll.: 1851, Mayhew, who affords also the earliest Eng. instance of all-overish.—2. In be all over, to be dead: lower-class coll.: 1898 (E. Pugh, Tony Drum).—3. In be all over, to make a great fuss of, esp. with caresses: C.20. (Of a monkey) 'He'll be all over you as soon as he gets to know you,' which indicates the semantics: The Humorist, 28 July 1934 (Lyell).—4. Hence, to be infatuated with: from ca. 1925.

all over – bar (occ. but) the shouting, often preceded by it's. Only the formalities remain before the affair is concluded: since–1842, sometimes a genuine proverbial saying but in C.20 almost entirely a c.p. See DCpp.

all over grumble. Inferior; very unsatisfactory: London proletarian: 1886, The Referee, 28 Mar. 'It has been a case of all over grumble, but Thursday's show was all over approval'; ob. Ware.

all-over pattern. A pattern that is either very intricate or non-recurrent or formed of units unseparated by the 'ground': coll. from ca. 1880.

all over red. Dangerous: ca. 1860–1920. (Ware.) Ex the railway signal.

all over (one)self. Very much pleased; over-confident: earlier C.20, esp. army. Lyell.

all over the auction. 'All over the place': Cockney and Aus.: since ca. 1910. (K. S. Prichard, Haxby's Circus, 1930.) Var. of all over the shop.

all over the place like a mad woman's shit. A state of complete untidiness and disarray or utter confusion: Aus.: since ca. 1950. (Mrs Camilla Raab, 1978.) Wilkes quotes the euph. variants... mad woman's knitting (1953);... custard (1957);... lunch box (1973).

all over the shop. Much scattered, spread out, dispersed; erratic in course: 1874 (=1873), H., 5th ed., 'In pugilistic slang, to punish a man severely is "to knock him all over the shop", i.e. the ring, the place in which the work is done'; 1886, Pall Mall Gazette, 29 July, 'Formerly, the authorities associated with our fisheries were "all over the shop", if a vulgarism of the day be permissible' (OED): coll. >, ca. 1910, S.E. Ex shop, n., 4.

all over with, it is. (Of persons) ruined; disgraced; fatally ill or mortally wounded: from ca. 1860; coll. soon S.E. Cf. the L. actum est de. SOD.

all-overish. Having an indefinite feeling of general indisposition or unease: from ca. 1840: coll. Perhaps ex US, where it is recorded as early as 1833 (Thornton). Cf. all over, 1.

all-overishness. The state of feeling 'all-overish' (q.v.): from ca. 1840; coll. Early examples in Harrison Ainsworth (1854) and John Mills (1841).

all (one's) own. One's own master: London apprentices': ca. 1850–1905. Ware.

all part of the service, it's. See just part of...

all parts bearing an equal strain. A RN c.p. = All's well; no complaints: since ca. 1930. Granville.—2. Lying down (comfortably): joc.: since ca. 1945. (Peter Sanders.)

all pills! See pills!, all.

all pissed-up and nothing to show. A working-class c.p. directed at one who has spent all his wages, or winnings, on drink: since ca. 1910.

all plopa. Quite right; correct: pidgin: mid-C.19–20. B. & L.
all present and correct. All correct: coll.: from ca. 1918. R. Knox, Still Dead, 1934, "Is that all present and correct?" "Couldn't be better." Ex the military phrase (applied by a sergeant-major to a parade).

all pushed up. See all spruced up.

all profit! C.20 barbers' c.p., spoken usu. to the customer himself, when no 'dressing' is required on the hair.

all quiet on the Western Front. Orig. a phrase used in War Office communiqués during WW1; during the latter half of that war it roused the derision and ribaldry of the men fighting it instead of writing about it, and it was they who originated the c.p. which is still in use to describe a situation in which nothing much is happening. For much fuller treatment see DCpp, which includes the synon. var. all quiet in the Shipka Pass.

all revved-up. See revved-up.

all right. Virtuous: coll.: late C.19–20. (W.B Maxwell, Hill Rise, 1908.) Cf. a bit of all right, excellent; most attractive, delightful: coll.: from ca. 1870. Often applied by a fellow to a girl, with the connotation that she is very pretty or very charming or, in the sexual act, ardent or expert (or both). Slightly ob. Cf. the mock-French translation: un petit morceau de tout droit. This sense ex:—2. (Adj. and adv.) As expected; safe(ly); satisfactor(ily): coll.: 1844, Edward FitzGerald, 'I got your letter all right' (OED). In C.20, S.E. Orig. c.: ca. 1810–40: 'All's safe or in good order or as desired' (Lex.

A

A Bal.).—3. Hence also, all right!: Yes!, agreed!; you needn't worry!; certainly!; gladly!: 1837 (Dickens): coll. till C.20, then S.E. Cf. synon. right-(tho), rightio (righty-o!), right you are! and that's right! The earlier C.20 duplication, as in D.L. Sayers, Murder Must Advertise, 1933, 'She's a smart jane all right, all right', is emphatic coll. See E.P.'s Usage and Abuse for his contention that the var. form alright is both illogical and erroneous.

all right - don't pipe it! 'Addressed to a man who speaks too loud, in the manner of a Tannoy [public address system], for all to hear when all should not hear' (Granville, 1970): RN lowerdeck: since ca. 1930.

all right for some! (it's). 'Some people have all the luck. A c.p. of disgruntlement and envy by one of the luckless' (Granville, 1969): C.20. Cf-all right for you (it's). Ironic to these worse off than oneself: Services': since ca. 1940. (H. & P.) This was an adoption of the older nuance, which deprecated another's 'sitting pretty'; a coll. shortening of it's all right for you to laugh.

all right on the night (it'll be). I.e. the first night, the opening night: actors' c.p. applied to a bad rehearsal: since ca. 1890 (Granville). Since ca. 1920, adopted in the larger world to small things going wrong, but optimistically hoped to go right. See DCpp.

all right up to now. Serene, smiling: a c.p., mainly women's: 1878—ca. 1915. 'Used by Herbert Campbell... in Covent Garden Theatre Pantomime, 1878', Ware, who adds that it is derived ex 'enceinte women making the remark as to their condition'.

all round. Versatile; adaptable, whether at sport or in life (James Payn, 1881); of things, or rents, average (1869: OED). S.E. bordering on coll.

all round (earlier around) my hat. In feel all round (one's) hat, to feel indisposed: Cockneys': mid-C.19—early 20. Man-chon.—2. As exclam., nonsense!: id.: ca. 1834—90. Hence spicy as all round my hat, sensational: 1882 (Punch).—3. All over; completely: ca. 1880—1925. (Milliken.) Perhaps ex the broadside ballad, 'All round my hat I wear a green willow.'

all round St Paul's - not forgetting the trunkmaker's daughter. A book-world c.p. applied to unsaleable books: late C.18—early 19. 'By the trunkmaker was understood... the depository for unsaleable books' (Globe, 1 July 1890, quoted in OED). At that period, and, indeed, until 'the London blitz' of 1940—1, the district around St Paul's was famous for its bookshops and its book-publishers.

all round the option. All over the place: coll.: since ca. 1950, perhaps earlier. Alan Hunter, Gently Down the Stream, 1957, 'the Old Man was still phoning all round the option...' Var. of all over the auction, itself prob. a var. of all over the shop. (P.B.) all-rounder. A versatile or adaptable person, esp. at sport (—1887): coll. >, by 1910, S.E.—2. A collar of equal height all round and meeting in front. (Trollope, 1857; and also in 1857, J.B., Scenes from the Lives of Robson and Redpath.) Un-fashionable by ca. 1885, rarely worn after 1890.

all Saints. See mother of all saints.

all same. All the same; like; equal: pidgin: mid-C.19—20. (B. & L.) In Hong Kong, among Servicemen, 1960s, often all same like... Ware records the elab., from—1883, altee samee.

all serene. Correct; safe; favourable: c.p., now ob. Dickens, 1853: 'An audience will sit in a theatre and listen to a string of brilliant witticisms, with perfect immobility; but let some fellow... roar out "It's all serene", or "Catch 'em all alive, oh!" (this last is sure to take), pit, boxes, and gallery roar with laughter.' In 1901, Fergus Hume used the rare var. all sereno (OED). Earlier in Sessions, 8 Apr. 1852: policeman loq., 'He said, "It is all serene"—that means calm, square, beautiful'. 'In Spanish towns, a night-watchman was employed in each street to prevent thieving and to call the hours and the state of the weather, in that climate for much of the year "sereno"—from which familiar call he got his name. His modern counterpart has the house-door keys for his street, so that he can admit residents returning home after the concierge has gone to bed, and who call for his services by clapping their hands... Could Gibraltar (captured by us in 1704, thanks to the foresight of S. Pepys) be the channel through which "all serene" reached Eng., especially as Eng. night-watchmen of the period were used to calling e.g. "One o' the clock, and all's well?"' (R.S., 1967.)

all set. (Of a rogue, a desperate character) 'ready to start upon any kind of robbery, or other mischief' (Bee, 1823): low, or perhaps c.—2. Ready; arranged in order; comfortable: coll.: from ca. 1870. Often, in later C.20, all set up.

all(-)shapes. 'Lacking regularity of form. The lino-layer says the room is all-shapes, hence he must cut a lot to waste; the electrician fitting numerous short lengths of conduit at odd angles says the wall is all-shapes' (Julian Franklyn): coll.: late C.19—20.

all shot (or hyphenated). Rendered useless or inoperative: RN, and later, occ. army: late C.19—mid-20. (W.G. Carr, Brass-Hats... , 1939: Moe.) In short, 'all shot up' or 'shot to pieces'.

all-singing all-dancing. Describes anything, esp. a piece of equipment, that is particularly spectacular and/or versatile: Services': since ca. 1970. The new tank... is expected to be the last word in tank design: an all-singing, all-dancing model which will make [its rivals] look like museum pieces by comparison' (Listener, 22 Feb. 1979). Ex musical extravaganza. (P.B.) all Sir Garnet. See Sir Garnet and DCpp.

all smart. Everything's all right: army: early C.20.

all smoke, gammon and pickles or spinach. All nothing, i.e. all nonsense: ca. 1870—1900.

all sorts. Tap-droppings (Bee, 1823); Cf. alls, all nations.—2. Coll. >, in late C.19, idiomatic S.E. is the phrase as used in these two examples from the OED: 1794, Mrs Radcliffe, 'There they were, all drinking Tuscan wine and all sorts'; 1839, Hood, 'There's a shop of all sorts, that sells every-thing.'

all souls. See mother of all sorts.

All Souls' Parish Magazine. The Times: University of Oxford: ca. 1920—40. Christopher Hobbhouse, Oxford, 1939, says that the Editor and his associates, who were Fellows of the College, often met there in order to discuss policy.

all spice, all-spice. A grocer: mid-C.19—20; ob. The S.E. sense, aromatic herb, goes back to the early C.17.

all spruced up - pushed up - toggled up. Smartened up, esp. to meet someone: C.20: resp. coll., s. (not before 1915), and s. (late C.19—20); the second was orig. army (F. & G.). In later C.20, all dolled or tarted up.

all standing. In brought up a.s., unable to deal with a situation: RN coll.: C.19—20. Granville.—2. In sleep or turn a.s., 'To turn in with one's one's clothes on': nautical coll.: sleep is recorded in Alfred Burton, 1818, and turn in in John Davis, 1806. The orig. is explained in this quot'n from Basil Hall, Fragments of Voyages and Travels, 1st series, 1831: 'I was fain to lie down "all standing", as we call it at sea, "like a trooper's horse"...' A horse can sleep standing up.

all systems go. 'A c.p. for preparedness for any endeavour; often used humorously' (Vernon Noble, 1974): adopted, ex US, ca. 1970. Ex the US space exploration programme's j. of the 1960s. See DCpp.

all t.h. Good; correct: tailors' A1, all right: ca. 1860—1910. P.B.: t.h. = 2top-hole.

all taut. Prepared for anything: RN: C.20. (Granville.) Ex:—2. Everything ready: RN coll.: late C.19—20.

all that. Short for all that sort of thing, it has in C.20, esp. since ca. 1920, become narrowed to 'sex' in general and to 'sexual caresses', and esp. to copulation: partly euph. and partly coll. Petch cites Margaret Powell, The Treasure Upstairs, 1970, 'She was... a virgin when she married and she knew nothing about "all that", so the honeymoon was a revolting experience, ruined by "all that", and since then she has never been able to do with "all that"—which must surely form the locus classicus for this phrase.—2. In not all that, mostly with 'bad' or 'good', as in 'Seen a lot of people lately, and my memory isn't all that [good]' (E.C.R. Lorac, Death Came Softly, 1943): working-class, esp. Cockney, coll.: since ca. 1910.—3. See and all that; give it all that.

all that jazz. See and all that jazz, at JAZZ.

all that sort of thing. Has long been S.E., but was regarded by 'Jon Bee', 1823 (see at warblers), as coll.

all the ... In the game of House, 'double numbers such as "fifty-five", are called thus: "all the fives",' Michael Harrison, Reported Safe Arrival, 1943: late C.19–20: coll., almost j. See TOMBOLA, in the Appendix.

all the best. Elliptical for 'I wish you all the best of everything'. 'A form of leave-taking, meant to be informal, ... casual but sincere' (L.A.): C.20: coll. Philip Callow, Going to the Moon, 1968, 'He was rocklike, sunny, he stood for something in my eyes ... Outside we said all the best and went off in different directions. I never saw him again.'

all the better for seeing you! A c.p. reply to 'how are you?': late C.19–20.

all the go. Genuine; thoroughly satisfactory; esp. in demand, fashionable (see go): since ca. 1780. Charles Dibdin in The Britannic Magazine (I, No. 3, p. 34), 1793, 'Thus be we sailors all the go' (Moe).

all the same in a hundred years. See It'll all be the same ...

all the shoot. Occ. var., earlier C.20, of (the) whole shoot.

all the traffic will bear (, that's). A c.p. relating orig. to fares: Can., adopted ca. 1948 ex US; by 1955, also Brit. 'Said to derive from a US magnate's cynicism' (Leechman). Hence take it for all the traffic will bear, squeeze as much money, prestige, etc., as you can out of the situation.

all the way down. Completely suitable or suited: coll., ca. 1850–1910. Lit., from top to toe.—2. Hence, as adv.: excellently. A coll. of late C.19–20. (Manchon.) Cf. all down the line, which may also be used in this sense, as 'That suits me all ...' (P.B.).

all the way there. A var., ca. 1860–90, of all there. H., 3rd ed.

all the world and his dog. A (?mostly Aus.) var. of-all the world and his wife. Everybody: joc. coll.: since early C. 18. (Swift.) Cf. the Fr. tout le monde et son père (W.). all the year round. A twelve-months' prison sentence: Aus. c.: since ca. 1925. B., 1943.

all there, Honest, reliable (–1860: H., 2nd ed.); ready-witted (1880); sane (late C.19–20: Lyell).—2. Applied to 'one with his whole thought directed to the occasion, totus in illis, as Horace says, and so at his best' (Notes & Queries, 24 Apr. 1937): coll.: from ca. 1885.

all there and a ha'porth over. An intensification of prec.: ca. 1870–1914.

all there but the most of you! A low, raffish c.p. applied to copulation: mid-C.19–mid-20.

all things (or everything) to all men and nothing (or not anything) to one man. A c.p. aimed at prostitutes or at promiscuous women: since ca. 1940.

all tickettyboo. See tickettyboo.

all tits and teeth. (Of a woman) having protrusive breasts and large teeth: a low c.p.: C.20–2. (Of a woman) having an artificial smile and considerable skill in mammary display: a low, mostly Cockney, c.p.: since ca. 1910. 'I have sometimes heard this amplified: "... like a third-row chorus girl", i.e. one who can neither sing nor dance, and who depends upon the display of her exceptional physique to keep her on the stage' (R.S., 1967).

all to buggery. See buggery, 1.

all to cock. Awry; (of a statement) inaccurate; (of work) bungled; utterly confused, all mixed-up: coll.: C.20. Cf. all to buggery, and cock, n., 14.

all to pieces. Gen. with be or go. Exhausted; collapsed; ruined: from ca. 1665: coll. till C.19, then S.E. Pepys, 29 Aug. 1667, 'The Court is at this day all to pieces'; Ray, of a bankrupt.—2. Out of form or condition: C.19–early 20.—3. (Of a woman) confined: id. Senses 2 and 3 esp. with go. all to smash. Utterly:—1861 (Cuthbert Bede); ob. by 1930.—2. Ruined, bankrupt: mid-C.19–20. (H., 1st ed.) A var. of prec., 1.

all to sticks. See sticks, 12.

all together like Brown(e)'s cows (often prec. by we're). (We're) alone; Anglo-Irish c.p.: late C.19–20. The Brown of the anecdote possessed only one cow.

all toggled up. See all spruced up.

all u.p. See u.p.

all unnecessary. In (make one) come over (or go) all unnecessary, to excite, to become excited, esp. sexually, by a member of the opposite sex: since ca. 1930. 'Ooh, the beast! He made me come over all unnecessary.' Cf. synon. do things to or for. The implications are functional.

all-up, n. An 'easy'; a rest: Public Schools': early C.20. Desmond Coke, The School across the Road, 1910.

all up the country with (one), be. To be ruin, or death, for: coll.:—1887 (Baumann); † by 1935. Prob. an elab. of-all up with. Of things, projects: fruitless, ruined: late C.18–20. Of persons: bankrupt, utterly foiled, doomed to die. The nuance 'utterly exhausted, virtually defeated'—e.g. in boxing—occurs in Boxiana, I, 1818. It's all up occurs in vol. III, 1821. An early example of all up with as 'doomed to die' was found by Moe in the London Magazine, Aug. 1822, an article 'English Smugglers', of a skiff and a woman, 'It's all up with her now,' ... and the next morning the corpse [corpse] of Nancy Woodriff was found on the sands.' Rarely up alone.

all upon. See upon, 2.

all-upper. 'A punter who bets "all-up" on a number of races' (B., 1943): Aus.: C.20.

All Very Cushy. Pun on the initials of the Army Veterinary Corps, formed 1903, made 'Royal' in 1918: army: WW1, earlier. (F. & G.) See cushy.

all very large and fine. A c.p. indicative of ironic approval: coll.: 1886; ob. by 1936. Ex 'the refrain of a song sung by Mr Herbert Campbell' (Ware). Cf. all right up to now.

all wet. 'Silly, foolish' (B., 1959): this form perhaps mostly Aus.: since ca. 1920. See wet, n., 3, and adj., 7–9.

all white and spiteful. Orig. domestic cliché, applied to a woman at the time of her menstruation, or to a child still up long past its bed-time, it has > gen. coll. when applied to the same symptoms in other contexts: C.20. See DCpp, at white.

all wind and piss. A contemptuous c.p. for a boastful and ineffective 'loud-mouth': (prob. C.19–) C.20. Ex the semi-proverbial C.18–20 like the barber's cat — all ... Powis notes that, in later C.20, water is sometimes substituted as euph. for piss.

all wool and a yard wide. Utterly good and honest (of a person): late C.19–earlier 20. Ex drapery.

all ye in. 'Schoolboys' call when school is going in from play or when players in game must gather' (L.A.): C.20.

allacompain. Rain: rhyming s.:—1859 (H., 1st ed.); ob. by 1960. Franklyn proposes a mishearing of all complain, rather than the accepted 'alternative spelling of elecampane, the wild plant "horse-heel"' (Rhyming, p. 31).

allee samee. See all same.

allelujah. 'A call to shut the tap when boiler washing' (Railway, 2nd): railwaymen's: earlier C.20.—2. See halle-lujah.

alleluia lass. A Salvation Army girl: London proletarian: from 1886. (Ware.) Cf. Sally Army.

alleviator. A drink: coined by Mark Lemon in the 1840s, and still extant in Aus., 1940s. B., 1943.

alley. A marble of medium size: schoolboys' coll.: since C.18; in C.20 S.E. (Defoe.) Perhaps ex alabaster. P.B.: a blood alley was a large, milky-white glass marble with red streaks in it: Sussex, early C.20.—2. A go-between: proletarian:—1909 (Ware, who derives it ex Fr. aller, to go); † by 1935.—3. A two-up school: Aus.: C.20. B., 1943.—4. In (right) up (one's) alley, one's concern, applied to what one knows or can do very well: coll.: since ca. 1905. Deliberate var. of ... street. Hence, since ca. 1910, applied to something delightful.—5. In up your alley!, a rude retort (Jonathan Thomas, 1976). Cf. up your gonga or pipe, up yours!, etc.—6. As the Alley, coll. abbr. of Change Alley, London, the scene of the gambling in South Sea stocks in early C.18.—7. In toss in the alley, to die: Aus.:—1916 (C.J. Dennis). Ex sense 1 or 3.—8. See ally!

alley cat. A girl, a woman, of loose, or no, morals: adopted, ca. 1960, ex US. DCCU, 1971.

alley-marble. In, e.g. 'that's just my alley-marble', it is entirely welcome and exactly suitable: coll.: since ca. 1920. Prob. a blend of alley, 1 and 4, qq.v. (P.B.)

alley up. To pay one's share: Aus.: C.20. (B., 1942.) Ex the game of marbles.

alleged. Gone away; dead: army: WW1. See ally!

Alleyman. A German: military: late 1914–15. (B. & P.) Ex Fr. Allemand. See Fritz and Jerry.

alleg oop! Up with you: C.20. (Pamela Branch, The Wooden Overcoat, 1951.) 'Also used by acrobats when one of them has to be thrown high. First heard in childhood, ca. 1895' (Leechman).

allicholy. Melancholy: joc. coll. or deliberate s. in Shakespeare's Two Gentlemen of Verona: punning ale+melancholy.

alligator. A herring: eating- and coffee-houses': mid-C.19–20. Often with an intrusive h, as halligator.—2. One who, singing, opens his mouth wide: ca. 1820–50. Bee.—3. Later: rhyming s.: C.20. Franklyn, Rhyming.—4. A horse: Aus.: since ca. 1925. B., 1943.

alligator boots. Boots with 'uppers parted from sides, due to soaking up diesel oil' (McKenna, Glossary): railwaymen's: since mid-C.20. Ex appearance.

alligator bull. 'Nonsense, senseless chatter' (B., 1942): Aus.: since ca. 1920. There are no alligators in N. Australia. See bullshit.

alligator pear. An avocado pear: S. African coll.:—1892 (Pettman). By corruption.

allo. All; every: pidgin Eng.: mid-C.19–20. 'O is added to many words in pidgin in an arbitrary manner' (B. & L.). P.B.: not so arbitrary! The Chinese language contains no L as a final consonant; therefore a native Chinese-speaker must add another open syllable to cope with the difficulty.

allow. Weekly pocket-money: Harrow School: C.19—early 20. Shortened allowance.

allow me! Allow me to congratulate you: Rugby School-boys': from ca. 1880.

alls. Short for all nations (tap-droppings), q.v.; ca. 1840–1914.—2. Also, ca. 1850–1900, a workman's term—the American equivalent is, or used to be, bens—for his tools.

all's quiet on the Western Front. See all quiet...

all's rug (or all rug or it's all rug). 'It's all Rug, c. The Game is Secured' (B.E., Gent, 1698)—all is safe: late C.17–19. Cf. both the proverbial snug as a bug in a rug and:

all's snug! All is safe: an underworld c.p. of C.18—mid-19. Var. of prec.

Allslops. Allsopp & Sons' ale: not upper-classes': from ca. 1900. It had a slump in quality at one time; the name has unjustly stuck. By mid-C.20, abbr. slops.

ally or alley! Go away!; clear off!; military: from 1915. Fr. allez(-vous en). Often ally at the toot, be off quickly. (F. & G.) 'I remember a cartoon in which a sentry over an ammunition dump sees some kids prowling about. "Alley, tout suite, and the tooter the sweeter!" (Leechman, 1968).

ally-beg. Comfort of a bed; a comfortable bed: c.: C.18–20; ob. (B. & L.) Prob. = 'pleasant little bed'.

Ally Pally. Alexandra Palace, London (was HQ of television): 1937+. Earlier is the sense 'Alexandra Park race-course'.

ally slope, do an. To make off: C.20. (Eustace Jarvis, Twenty-Five Years in Six Prisons, 1925.) A fusion of ally and: Ally Slopers' Cavalry. The Army Service Corps: army: WW1. Ex Ally Slopers, that buffoon who named a pre-War comic paper. Also, occ., Army Safety Corps, also ex the initials: 1915–18. (F. & G.; B. & P.) The name Ally Slopers prob. contains a pun on Fr. allez!, go, and E. slope, to make off, to go away.

Alma Gray. A threepenny piece: Aus.: C.20. (B., 1942.) Rhyming on tray, 2.

almanach. The female pudend: low: late C.19—early 20.

almighty. Great(ly), might(ily). A US coll. never properly acclimatised in Great Britain and (1935) now ob. De Quincey, 1824: 'Such rubbish, such almighty nonsense (to speak transatlanticé)...'—2. Grand; impressive: proletarian coll. verging on sol.: mid-C.19–20. Nevinston, 1895, makes a Shadwellite describe a picture having 'somethink almighty about it'.

almighty dollar, the. Wealth: coll. (–1859), ex US (1836). Probably coined by Washington Irving, after Ben Jonson's almighty gold, though the first printed record does not occur in Irving's work. In England the phrase is always satirical, nor is it yet S.E.: and frequently it connotes the (supposed) American devotion to and absorption in money-making.

almond. Penis: mostly Cockneys': from ca. 1890. An abbr. of almond rock, rhyming s. for the same since ca. 1880: on cock. almond rocks. Socks: rhyming s.: late C.19–20. Since 1914 among soldiers: Army rocks. (B. & P.) Also C.20 Aus. (McNeil).

almonds. Abbr. of almond rocks. P. P., Rhyming Slang, 1932. aloft. Dead: C.18–20; ob. Also coll. is go aloft, to die: Dibdin's Tom Bowling, 1790, contains the verses, 'Faithful below, Tom did his duty, / And now he's gone aloft.' At aloft, F. & H. has a fascinating synonymy for 'to die'; see too the essay on euphemisms in Words! Cf. alow and aloft, q.v.

alone, go. To be experienced, wary, and alert: ca. 1800–25. alone I did (or done) it. 'Yes, I did it, and I'm rather proud of it' is the implication of this Anglo-American c.p.: late C.19–20; by 1973 almost ob.

alone on a raft is one poached egg on toast, Adam and Eve on a raft is two: C.20.

along, get. An imperative = go away!: coll.: C.19–20. But get (or go) along with you! is an expression of (usu. playful) incredulity. Ordinarily, get along is S.E. and = get on, move along.

along of. Owing to. In C.19–20, except in dial., it is sol., but in C.16–17 it was indubitably S.E.

along-shore boys. Landsmen: nautical coll. (–1823); † by 1910. Egan's Grose.

along with. A coll. weakening of with: late C.19–20. C. Williams, The Greater Trunks, 1932, 'Her engagement to—her understanding with—whatever... she had along with this young Henry Lee fellow—had hardened her.'

aloofer. One aloof and 'superior' in attitude: coll.: since ca. 1950.

aloud, used fig., is coll.: mid-C.19–20. The OED record: 1872.

alow and aloft. 'Below decks and aloft'; nautical coll.: mid-C.19–20. Bowen.—2. Hence, 'dead and alive', i.e. lethargic, dull: nautical: late C.19–20; ob. Ibid.

alp bash. A hill climb contest: motorcyclists': since ca. 1950. (Dunford.) Cf. bash, n., 2, and mud plug.

Alphabetical. Nickname for anyone with more than two initials to his surname: Services': since ca. 1930. P-G-R.

Alphonse. A 'ponce': rhyming s.: C.20. Jim Phelan, Letters from the Big House, 1943.

Alps, the. The 'Carlisle to Stranraer line' (Railway, 2nd): railwaymen's: since late 1940s. It has some steep gradients.

—2. See over the Alps.

alright. See all right.

Alsatia (the Bigher). Whitefriars. Alsatia the Lower, the Mint in Southwark, London. C. of ca. 1680–1800; afterwards, historical. From early in C.17 until 1697, when both liberties or asylums or sanctuaries were suppressed, these were the haunts of bankrupts, fleeing debtors, gamblers and sharks. In Shadwell's comedy, The Squire of Alsatia—the first record of the term—occurs the illuminating: 'Who are these? Some inhabitants of White-fryers; some bullies of Alsatia.' Alsatia = Alsace, a 'debatable ground' province. In C.18–19 Alsatia meant any asylum for criminals, any low quarter, while squire of Alsatia synonymised a sharper or a 'shady' spendthrift. Besides Shadwell's play, consult Scott's Fortunes of Nigel, Macaulay's History at I, iii, E. Beresford Chancellor's Annals of Fleet Street, and M. Melville Balfour's historical novel, The Long Robe.

Alsatia phrase. A term in s. or, esp., in c.: Swift, 1704; † by 1750. Coll. very soon S.E.

Alsatian. Pertaining to 'Alsatia'; criminal; debauched: c. of late C.17–18; then historical. Whence the n.—2. Abbr. Alsatian wolf-dog: from 1925; coll. almost imm. S.E. (A. wolf-dog itself—see the SOD—dates only from 1924.)

also ran, an. A nonentity: mostly Aus. (–1916)>, by 1918, gen. C.J. Dennis; Collinson. Ex horse-racing.

alt, in. Haughty: coll.: 1748, Richardson; † by 1820. (Apperson.) Ex altitude.

alta (or e or uma (or e)l(l)). All together; altogether (adv.): late C.17–18. N., the total of a bill, an account: C.18. Adj., nautical, esp. of s. and j.: C.18. Since the adv. and the n. are always, so far as I can discover, spelt alta (or e)me (or a)l(l) and F. & H. derives them from Dutch altamal (modern Dutch allemaal)—Hexham, 1658, 'Al-te-mael, Wholly, or All at once',—and since the OED derives the adj., always spelt altumal, from altum (mare) + al, the two forms and derivations suggest, indeed they almost necessitate, two distinct origins.

altar. 'Master's desk in old Lower Senior Room': Bootham School: late C.19–20. (Bootham, 1925.) Ex the shape.

alter. Unpleasant; e.g. 'We had an alter parade this morning': military (not officers'): from ca. 1930. Perhaps ex (–1898) Hampshire dial. alteration and (–1898) Berkshire dial. alterly, (of weather that is) uncertain, tending to rain. (EDD.)

alter the jeff's click. To make a garment regardless of the cutter's chalkings or instructions: tailors':—1903 (F. & H., rev.).

alter the property. To disguise oneself: late C.17—early 19: coll. >, by 1750, S.E. (Implied in) B.E.; A New Canting Dict., 1725.

altham, C.16 c., a wife; a mistress. Whence(?) the c. adj. autem, q.v.

although I say (s) it as shouldn't. The orig. illiterate, but soon deliberately joc., var. of (al)though I say it who (occ. that) shouldn't: a disclaimer that is a hackneyed quotation, going back at least as far as Beaumont and Fletcher's Wit at Several Weapons, Act II, sc. ii.

altifrontal, adj. High-brow: 1932; somewhat pej., 'Is he intelligent?—Oh, very altifrontal, I'd say.' London authors', reviewers', and publishers'.

altitude. In grabbing for a., striving for height: RAF: since ca. 1925. In WW2 it was used with the connotation 'in order to gain an advantage in aerial combat' (Partridge, 1945).—2. Hence, becoming very angry: aircraft engineers': from ca. 1932. Daily Herald, 1 Aug. 1936.

altitudes, in the (or his, my, etc). In elevated mood (coll.: Jonson, 1630); drunk (ca. 1700). Both were † by 1840. Cf. elevated.

Altmark, the. 'A ship or a Shore Establishment in which discipline is exceptionally severe': RN: 1942+. Granville, 'From the German Prison Ship of that name'.

altocad. An oldish paid member that in the choir takes alto: Winchester College, from ca. 1850.

altogether, the. The nude: coll.: 1894, Du Maurier (Ware). I.e. the altogether (wholly) naked.

altogetherly. Drunk: Society: 1816, Byron; † by 1930. (Ware.) Ex altogether drunk.

always in trouble like a Drury Lane whore. A late C.19–20 c.p. 'stigmatising either self-pity or successive misfortunes to an individual'. (L.A.) am and is used jocularly. 'There are some jocular and ungrammatical uses of these, as "There you is", "There you am" and "That am so"' (Petch, 1966): since ca. 1930. Cf. used to was.

'Am and Tripe, the. HMS Amphitrite: RN: C.20. Bowen. amachoor. A coll. written form of amateur, which, after all, is thus pronounced by the majority. (D.L. Sayers, Murder Must Advertise, 1933.) Cf. hammer-chewer.

Amami night. 'Any more or less regular time for searching prisoners, cells, or workshops' (Tempest): prisons' s.: mid-C.20. Ex a popular shampoo of the period, advertised by the slogan 'Friday night is Amami night'. (P.B.)

amateur, or enthusiastic amateur. A girl that frequently, promiscuously copulates 'for love': coll.: since ca. 1916.

amazingly. Very: coll.; from ca. 1790. Maria Edgeworth, 'She speaks English amazingly well for a Frenchwoman.' OED.

ambassador. A sailors' trick upon new hands: mid-C.18–19. (Grose, 1st ed.) In a King-Neptune form, King Arthur.—2. See:

ambassador of commerce. A commercial traveller: coll.: late C.19–20; ob. Baumann. In C.20, often ambassador.

Ambassador of Morocco. A shoemaker: ca. 1810–30. (Lex. Bal.) Punning morocco (leather).

amber. See shoot the amber.

ambi, ambitious. 'Zealous, with a view to personal advantage; also foolishly zealous, asking for more work, etc., etc.' (John Masefield, Conway, 1933): Conway Training Ship s., from ca. 1880.

ambi (or o)dexter. A double-dealing witness, lawyer or juror: C.16–19; coll.; S.E. after 1800.—2. Any double-dealer: from ca. 1550, coll.; by 1880 S.E. ambidextrous. Both hetero- and homosexual: since ca. 1935. Cf. AC-DC above.

ambish. Ambition: from ca. 1925. E.g. Garnett Radcliffe in Passing Show, 27 Jan. 1934.

ambrol. A naval corruption of admiral: late C.17–18. B.E.

ambs-ace, ames ace. Bad luck: M.E.—C.19.—2. Next to nothing: C.17–18. Lit. the double ace; and soon coll.—3. Within ambs-ace, almost: late C.17—early 19, coll. in C.18–19.

ambulance chasers. A disreputable firm of solicitors specialising in accident claims: adopted, ca. 1940, ex US.

ameche. A telephone: Can. teenagers': adopted ex US, where current since early 1945. Ex a film in which the actor Don Ameche (pron. am-ee-chee) appeared in 1944–5. The film portrayed the life of Alexander Graham Bell, inventor of the telephone. See CANADIAN ADOLESCENTS in Appendix.

amen-chapel. 'The service used in Winchester School [sic] upon Founder's Commemorations, and certain other occasions, in which the responses and Amens are accompanied on the organ' (EDD, 1896).

amen-curler. A parish clerk: late C.18–19. (Grose, 1st ed.) A C.18 var.: amen-clerk. A mid-C.19–20 var., amen-bawoler (Mayhew, 1851). Cf. amen-snorter and amen-wallah.

amen-snorter. A parson. Rare in England, frequent in Aus. (ca. 1880–1900).

amen Theatre Royal. A church: low:—1909 (Ware); ob. by 1930. Why? Perhaps it was orig. theatrical: touring players perform frequently at Theatres Royal.

'amen' to everything, say 'yes' and. To agree to everything: coll.: late C.18–mid-19. Grose, 3rd ed. Cf. amener, q.v.

amen wallah. A chaplain's clerk: C.19–20. In WW1 occ. the chaplain himself. Cf. amen-curler, q.v.

amener. An assiduous assenter: C.19—early 20. (Amen, the concluding word.)

amercy for God have mercy was orig. coll. and is still far from 'literary'.

ameri-can. An American petrol can: Army: 1942–5. Punning American and formed after jerrican. P-G-R.

American devil. A piercing steam-whistle employed as a summons: workmen's: later C.19—early 20. Manchester Guardian, 24 Sep. 1872.

American shoulders. A coat cut square to give the appearance of broadness. From ca. 1870; at first, tailors' j., but s. by 1890.

American tweezers. A burglar's instrument for opening doors: from ca. 1870; orig. c. H., 5th ed.

American Workhouse, the. The Park Lane Hotel, London: taxi-drivers': since 1917. (Herbert Hodge, Cab, Sir?, 1939.) Ironic: palatial, it caravansera's many rich Americans.

Americans. American stocks and shares: Stock Exchange coll. (mid-1880s) >, by 1910, j. (OED.) amidships. On the solar plexus; in or on the belly: nautical: C.18–20.

Aminidab, Aminadab. A Quaker: C.18–early 19; derisive. Ned Ward, 1709; Grose.

ammedown. Hand me down (v.), or hand-me-down (adj.): poorest London low coll.:—1909 (Ware).

ammiral. See admiral.

ammo. Ammunition (n. and adj.): military: C.20.—2. Hence, ammos, ammunition boots, the ordinary Army boots: from 1915. F. & G. ammunition. Toilet paper: C.19–20; ob. Cf. bum-fodder, q.v.—2. A sanitary tampon or towel; such tampons or towels collectively: feminine: since ca. 1940. Cf. the 1939–45 c.p., adopted from the song, 'Praise the Lord and pass the ammunition'.

ammunition leg. A wooden leg: military: C.19. Ammunition = munition.

ammunition wife. (Gen. pl.) A harlot: nautical: ca. 1820–70. Egan's Grose; Bowen. Cf. gunpowder and hot stuff.

amorosa. A wanton: ca. 1630–1720: Society, mainly. It. word, never acclimatised.

amoroso. A (male) lover: ca. 1615–1770; chiefly Society. An It. word never properly anglicised.

Amorous Military Gentlemen on Tour. The personnel of AMGOT (Allied Military Government of Occupied Territory): military and political: 1945–7.

Amos and Andy. Brandy: rhyming s.: Amos and Andy were coloured American radio comedians, popular during WW2. (Hillman, 1974.) From ca. 1944.

amourette. A trifling love affair or, esp., amour: ca. 1860–1914: Society coll. Directly ex Fr.; cf. C.17 S.E. amourets, dalliance.

amours, in. In love: gen. followed by with (some person): ca. 1725–1800: Society s. > coll. > S.E.

amp. An amputation: medical students':—1933: (Slang, p. 190).—2. An 'amputee': Can. (med. and hospital): since ca. 1946.—3. An ampère: electricians' coll.: since ca. 1910; by 1950 > S.E.—4. An ampoule of drug: mostly addicts': since early 1950s. Janssen, 1968; W. & F., 1975 ed.

ampersand. The buttocks. '&' used to come at the end of nursery-book alphabets; hence the hinder parts: ca. 1885–1914. The lit. sense is about a century old. Ex and per se—and, i.e. '&' by itself = and'.

'Ampsteads or Ampstids, i.e. Hampsteads. Teeth. See Hampstead Heath. 'Ampstids' is the 'deep Cockney' form. (Michael Harrison, 1947.)

ampster or amster or Amsterdam. A confidence trickster's confederate: Aus.: since ca. 1925. (B., 1942.) It rhymes on ram, 3, as Franklyn, Rhyming, has noted.

amput. See PRISONER-OF-WAR SLANG, 12, in Appendix.

amputate (one's) mahogany or timber. To 'cut one's stick', to depart, esp. depart quickly: from the 1850s; ob. 'Ducange Anglicus', 1857. There is a rich synonymy for rapid departure; see F. & H., also my Slang.

amscray. To depart, make off: Aus.: adopted, ca. 1944, ex US Servicemen. (Ruth Park, A Power of Roses, 1953.) American centre s. on scram. 'Like igaretsay, it is Pig Latin' (Claiborne)—which owes something to back-s. Cf. inxay, 'nix' = nothing.

amuse, in late C.17–18 c., is to throw dust, pepper, snuff, etc., in the eyes of the person to be robbed; an amuser is one who does this. B.E.

amuse yourself—don't mind me! A rather bitter or condescending 'Have your fun!' Adopted, ex US, ca. 1924; by 1960 virtually †.

amy. 'A friendly alien serving in a man-of-war': naval: ca. 1800–60. Bowen notes that in the old days there were many foreigners serving in the British Navy. ? a mutilated blend of enemy man or simply an adoption of Fr. ami, a friend.

anabaptist. A pickpocket that, caught in the act, is ducked in pond or at pump: late C.18–early 19. Grose, 1st ed.

analken. To wash: Shelta: C.18–20. B. & L.

analt. To sweep (with broom): id.: id. Ibid.

anan. 'What do you say, Sir?' in reply to an order or remark not understood: naval: C.18. Bowen. Perhaps anon corrupted.

anarchists. 'Matches, especially wax vestas' (B., 1942): Aus.: C.20. Apt to 'blow up'.—2. As the anarchists, battalion or brigade or divisional bombers (mortar-throwers): army: 1915–18. Ian Hay, Carrying On, 1917.

anarf = an'alf = a half, i.e. ten shillings (50 p), the half of £1: London's East End: since ca. 1945. Likewise, arfunded = £50. Richard Herd in Evening News, 12 Nov. 1957.—2. 'Also a halfpenny. I was told of it in London while at home on leave in 1917. Somebody was told the bus fare was "one anarf"—that is, three ha'pence' (Leechman).

anatomical. Bawdy: sexual: artists': from ca. 1920. E.g. 'anatomical stories, jokes, humour, wit'.

anatomy. An extremely emaciated—or skinny—person: late C.16–20. (Low) coll. Cf. atomy, q.v.

anca. A man; a husband or sweetheart: low: C.19. (Price Warung, Tales, 1897, p. 58.) Ex Greek anēr.

ancestral home. Merely home: joc. coll.: C.20: university and Society.

anchor. 'A parachutist who waits overlong before jumping' (Jackson): RAF: ca. 1930–50.—2. Also old anchor, a pick: RN: 1868 (Tom Taylor, The Ticket of Leave Man). Ex shape.—3. A brake: motorists': since ca. 1930. See anchors; and HAULIERS', in Appendix. The Regional wireless programme, 23 Nov. 1936, had drop the anchor, a busmen's phrase for 'to brake'.—4. In bring (one's) arse to an anchor, to sit down: nautical: late C.18–mid-19. (Grose, 2nd ed.) A C.20 RN synon. is anchor (one's) stern (Granville). Cf.—5. In come to an anchor or anchor (one's)self, to halt; sit down, rest; sojourn: coll.: C.18–20. Hence anchor, an abode or a place of residence: coll.: C.19–20. At first nautical, both v. and n. soon > gen.—6. See swallow the anchor.

anchor-faced. Derogatory of a sailor loving the Navy and, without questioning, religiously obeying all rules and regulations: RN, WRNS, FAA: since ca. 1950, at latest. (Margaret Wood, ex-WRNS, 1978.) Peppitt adds, 'behaving in a Naval manner in non-Naval surroundings.' Cf. pusserised, and the Army's khaki-brained.

anchor to the windward of the law, let go an. To keep within the letter of the law: nautical: late C.18–mid-19. Grose, 3rd ed.

anchors. Brakes: busmen's: from ca. 1930. (Daily Herald, 5 Aug. 1936.) P.B.: by mid-C.20, gen. among motorists, as in, e.g., 'so I slammed the anchors on real hard' = I brought the vehicle to an abrupt halt. Cf. anchor, 3.—2. As exclam., soon commoner than the orig. Whoa, anchors!, a request to the driver of a vehicle to stop; hence to a speaker to stop, so that a point may be dealt with: RAF: since late 1940s.—3. In keep and put the anchors on, so to control oneself or one's partner in intercourse as to delay the final gallop or orgasm: since ca. 1950. Bill Naughton, Alfie Darling, 1970, has both keep... and final gallop.

ancient and modern. A hymn-book, as in 'Lend me your ancient and modern': coll.: C.20. Ex Hymns, Ancient and Modern.

Ancient and Tattered Airmen or Aviators. The Air Transport Auxiliary pilots' name for themselves: 1939–45. The ATA, the ferry-pilots whose task was to fly aircraft from the factories to the RAF, were a gallant band drawn from the ranks of fliers barred from fighting in WW2 by their sex, age, or medical condition. (P.B.) ancient mariner. A sea-gull: nautical: C.19–20. Sea-gulls are 'supposed to possess the souls of dead sailormen' (Bowen). Cf. Coleridge's Ancient Mariner.

ancient mariners. At Oxford, an occasionally-rowing group or crew of dons; at Cambridge, any graduates that, still associated with the university, continue to row. From ca. 1880; ob. Ware quotes the Daily News, 7 Nov. 1884.

Ancient Military Gentlemen on Tour. Var. of Amorous Military ..., q.v.

and omitted. A post-WW2 coll. Dr D. Leechman comments, 1967: 'An Americanism that has spread deep into Canada. "Go feather your nest." "Come see Jimmy swim." "Go tell him hello." "Come have a drink."'

-and. In coll. names of drinks, of which cider-and, 1742, is the earliest.

-and-. Between adj., and either is intensive, as in hot and hot (very hot), in the † pure and -, and in rare and some other adj. (very —); or it gives a familiar tang, as in nice and hot (nicely hot, hence pleasantly hot): both usages are coll., the former of C.19–20, the latter of C.18–20.—2. The familiar note occurs also in adv. phrases, as (I hit him) good and hard: coll.: mid-C.18–20.—3. Of its coll. presence between two vv., there are two examples: try and (e.g. do something); go and (do something): see these two phrases.

and a merry Christmas to you too! A trenchantly ironic reply to a disparagement or an insult, equivalent to 'The same to you, with knobs on!': since ca. 1920. (Petch, 1976.)

and all that (= and all such things); all that. These phrases used to be 'perfectly good English', but since late 1929, when Robert Graves's notable War-book appeared, or mid-1930, when Albert Perceval Graves's To Return to All That somewhat modified that picture, they have been so coll. as to verge on s. Cf. things, 6.

and and and. Coll. var. of 'and so on', as in 'Oh, there are a million and one reasons why we can't go: the car's on the blink, and we can't find a baby-sitter, and, and, and': from ca. 1878. (P.B.)

and Bob's your uncle! And all will be well; all will be perfect: since ca. 1890. 'You go and ask for a job—and he remembers your name—and Bob's your uncle!' Aus. as well as Brit., and still, 1983, going strong. The orig. remains a mystery; just possibly it was prompted by the c. (then low-slang) phrase all is bob, 'all is safe'. See DCpp.

and call it 'it'. See call it 'it'.

and Co. And the rest; et cetera: RN lowerdeck: from ca. 1912. Hamish Maclaren, The Private Opinions of a British Blue-Jacket, 1929, 'Sor some nise eye-lands and come after spisse knut mags [spice, nutmegs] and co—some times purls'. See also co, 2.

and did he marry poor blind Nell? 'A rhetorical question asked about anything improbable. Also as a euphemism for like fucking hell'. Ex the saga of Poor Blind Nell; as in 'and did he marry ...?'—'He did!—(softly) Like fuckin(g) hell!' Poor Blind Nell itself is used to describe any simple girl who is over-trusting where men are concerned' (B.P.): since ca. 1910, or a little earlier.

(and) don't you forget it! A c.p. orig. US (–1888) adopted in England ca. 1890. An almost pointless intensive. See DCpp.

and he didn't! A tailors' c.p. implying a discreditable action: ca. 1870–1920.

and how! 'Rather!': an American c.p. anglicised by 1933. The Western People (Balling), 11 Nov. 1933. By ellipsis, thus: "Fred Perry is a great player." "And how [very great a player he is]!"

and I don't know who all. And various other persons unnamed: coll.: from ca. 1840. Cf. and I don't know what all, and other things unknown or unmentioned: id. Dickens, 1859, 'There's ... and ... and I dunno what all' (OED). The who all may be owing to the influence of some such phrase as and I don't know who else at all or ... what others at all, or to a confusion of both these phrases. P.B.: more prob. (pace E.P.) an attempt to pluralise who and what; cf. the Southern US you-all, compensating for the present gap in English caused by the decline of thou.

and like it! 'A naval expression anticipating a grouse and added to any instruction for an awkward and unwanted job' (H. & P.): since ca. 1930. Cf. the proverbial mother to grizzling child at the seaside: 'I've brought you here to enjoy yourself—and enjoy yourself you bloody well will!' (P.B.) and no error. See and no mistake, and:-

and no files. And no doubt about it: low c.p. tag: ca. 1840–60. Mayhew, I, 1851.

and no messing about. A low intensive: since ca. 1930. 'You can lose half a stretch remission and no messing about' (Norman). Cf.:-

and no mistake. Undoubtedly; for certain: coll.: 1818, Lady Morgan, 'He is the real thing, and no mistake'; Thackeray: OED. It generated the later, rather less used and no error (Baumann, 1887); both phrases popular until ca. 1920, and not yet (1975) ob.; both adopted ex US. See DCpp.

and no mogue? A tailors' c.p. implying slight incredulity, 'That's true?': since ca. 1880. Prob. mogue represents the Fr. moquerie: cf. the synon. Fr. moque (C.15–16). More prob., as Mr H.R. Spencer of Camberley, Surrey, has proposed, ex the German underworld and gipsies' mogeln (long o, which would phonetically explain the –ve), to mock, coming into E. via Yiddish.

and no whistle. Another tailors' implication: that the speaker is actually, though ostensibly not, speaking of himself: ca. 1860–1900.

and not a bone in the truck imputes time-wasting during working-hours, as in 'Ten o'clock—and not a bone in the truck' (loading hasn't even been started): mostly in factories and mostly Aus.: C.20.

and so forth – and so fifth. And so on: c.p.: C.20. A feeble pun on fourth; cf. the schoolchildren's 'And the Lord said unto Moses, "Come forth!"—but he came fifth, and won a wooden spoon.' (E.P.; P.B.) and so he died; and then she died. These Restoration-drama tags verge on c.p.p.: see Dryden, ed. Summers, I, 419.

and so she prayed me to tell ye. An almost meaningless c.p. (with slight variations) rounding off a sentence: ca. 1670–90. E.g. in Duffett's burlesque, 'The Mock-Tempest', 1675.

and that. And that sort of thing: coll.: mid(?)C.19–20. Claiborne, 1977, remarks, 'Interestingly, American slang now includes and like that with the same meaning. I think a parallel development, since and that was never in use here.' This sort of phrase tends to be the most tardily recognised by the dictionaries. (My note: 21 June 1977!). Cf. and all that, q.v.

and that's flat occurs as early as Shakespeare, 'used to emphasise or conclude a preceding remark.' See DCpp.

and that's no lie. A c.p. of emphasis, implying (sometimes) that the speaker is not too sure that he will be believed: since ca. 1920.

that's that!—and occ. omitted; emphatic var., and that is that!; also well, that's that (then)! The first two are expressions of definite finality; the third of rueful resignation: since, prob., WW1. See DCpp.

and that's your lot! That is all you are going to receive, so don't expect any more: since ca. 1920. Often used by wives to their husbands, or by women to their lovers.

and the band played on. See then the band ...

and the best of British (luck)! See best of British ... and the rest? or ! A c.p. retort on incompleteness or reticence, or of sheer disbelief: since ca. 1860.

and then some. And many, or much, in addition: adopted, ex US, ca. 1919. (OED Sup.) Prob. a mere elab. of the Scots and some, and much more so, as in Ross's pastoral poem, Helenore, 1768, and as in the 'She's as bonny as you, and some' of lexicographer Jamieson (EDD). J. W. Mackail, in his Aeneid, 1930, finds a parallel in viii, 487, tormenti genus.

and then the band played. See then the band...

and things. See things, 6.

and to prove it, I'm here. A frequent tag of comedians playing the halls; it added a finishing touch to the preceding 'spiel'. Naturally it became an almost meaningless c.p. of late C.19—mid-20; not much used after 1950. (Cyril Whelan, 1975.)

and very nice too! C.p. indicative of warm approval, e.g. of feminine charms: late C.19—20.

and welcome (, I'm sure)! And you're welcome to it; I'm glad (to let you have it, etc.): non-U coll.: late C.19—20. Manchon.

and whose little girl are you? And who may you be?: a male c.p.: from ca. 1905. See DCpp.

and you too! A.C.20 c.p. addressed to a person suspected of silent recrimination, insult unexpressed. In the Forces it has, since ca. 1915, presupposed an unvoiced fuck you! In later C.20, often shortened to and you!

Andrew. A gentleman's servaht: coll. > S.E.: 1698, Congreve; † by 1800. Because a very common name; in the orig. Greek, it signifies simply 'man'.—2. In full, Andrew Millar (or -er). A ship, esp. of war:—1864; ob.—3. Hence, a revenue cutter; Aus. smugglers': ca. 1870—1900. But this, like sense 2, may abbr. Andrew Miller's lugger, 'a king's ship and vessel', 1813 (sea cant), a phrase † by 1880.—4. Abbr. Andrew Millar, 2; usu., but not always, the Andrew: 'Taffrail' has 'Terms... heard every day in "Andrew", as the bluejacket calls the Navy.'

Andrew Mack. The frigate Andromache: RN, 1834, W. N. Glascock, Sketch-Book, 2nd series, II, 62. (Moe.) A good example of Hobson-Jobson.

Andrew Malkins, (stop your). (Stop your) goings-on or fooling: Anglo-Irish: C.20. Is there an allusion to merry Andrews?: cf. the Essex and Sussex Andrew, a clown.

Andrew Millar (-er), (the). See Andrew, senses 2 and 3.—2. The Royal Navy; hence, any Government department: RN: mid-C.19—early 20. (Bowen.) The original was 'a notorious press-gang "tough" who shanghaied so many victims into the Navy that the sailors of the period thought it belonged to him' (Granville). In C.20, and certainly later C.20, usu. Simply the Andrew; but cf. Andrew, 4.

Andy Cain. Rain: rhyming s.: late C.19—20. P.P., Rhyming Slang, 1932. Cf. France and Spain.

Andy McNish. Fish: C.20. Franklyn, Rhyming, 'Either raw or fried'.

anfo. 'Ammonium Nitrate/Fuel Oil (illegal explosive)' (Hawke); Brig. Pat Hayward, 1978, however supplies the alternative translation, 'Any nuisance of foreign origin': army in N. Ireland: 1970s.

angel. A harlot plying near the Angel public house at Islington: low Cockney:—1909 (Ware). Cf. Sluker.—2. A sandwich-man: c.: earlier C.20. Ex wings, the boards. Jennings, 1932.—3. Any outsider that finances a play: theatrical s. > coll.: C.20.—4. The 'boy who fetches Reeve's meat at breakfast': Bootham School: early C.20. Bootham, 1925.—5. (Also flying angel.) A ride astride a person's shoulder: mostly children's: since later C.19. James Greenwood, 1880.—6. (Also angie.) Cocaine: Aus.: since ca. 1925. B., 1942.—7. See angels; be an angel.

angel altogether. A confirmed drunkard: mainly West Indian: ca. 1876—1914.

angel-face. A boyish(-looking) probationary flight-officer: RFC: WW1. F. & G.

angel-maker. A baby-farmer: proletarian: late C.19—early 20. Ware, 'Because so many of the farmed babies die.' Prob. ex the Fr. faiseuse des anges.

angel suit. Var. of angel's suit.

angelic; Angelica. An unmarried girl; the former ca. 1810—50, the latter ca. 1845—1900, Moncrieff, Tom and Jerry, 1821, has 'the angelics at Almack's', while Angelica appears in Sinks, 1848.

angel's food. Strong ale: ca. 1575—1620. Harrison's England, II, viii.

angel's foot-stool. A sail carried over the moon-sail by American clippers: nautical coll: mid-C.19—20; ob. Bowen.

angel's gear. Women's clothes: nautical: mid-C.19—early 20. Baumann.

angel's oil. Money employed in bribery. Var., oil of angels: C.17. Punning angel, the small gold coin struck in 1465. angel's suit. Coat and waistcoat made in one, with trousers buttoned thereto: tailors': ca. 1870—85. 'Neither garment nor name was extensively adopted' (F. & H.).

angel's whisper, the. The call to defaulters' drill or extra fatigue duty: military: from 1890s. Wyndham, The Queen's Service, 1899.—2. Loosely, reveille: from ca. 1910. F. & G.

angels. A wireless rating: RN: WW1+. ('Taffrail', 1916.) Ex wings on badge (Bowen).—2. 'All unidentified dots [on the radar-screen] were originally dubbed "angels" by the radar men... Dots in circles that move outwards like ripples on a pond are known as "ring-angels"' (Jeffrey Boswall, ed., Private Lives, 1970).—3. As used by the RAF in ref. to height, WW2, it was j.

Angels of Christ. See All Old Cocks.

anger. In in anger, in earnest, properly, as in 'Once the hassle of the [police driving-]course is over... comes the first day actually driving the car in anger' (Harry Cole, Policeman's Progress, 1980, p. 184): coll.: since later 1970s. Ex S.E. shots fired in anger. (P.B.) angle. See angel, 6.

Angle-irons, the. The Royal Anglian Regiment, formed in 1964 by the amalgamation of the old R. Norfolk Regt., R. Lincolnshire Regt., Suffolk Regt., R. Leicestershire Regt., and the Northamptonshire Regt.: army. Also known as the Royal Anglians. (P.B.)

angler. A pilferer that, with a hooked stick, steals from open windows and doors: mid-C.16—early 19. (Harman, B.E., Grose.) Cf. area sneak, hooker, starrer.—2. A hook: c. of ca. 1580—1620. Greene.—3. See lens louse.

Anglican inch. The short square whisker... so much affected by the Broad Church party': ritualistic clergy's: 1870; very ob. Ware.

angling cove. A receiver of stolen goods: C.19 c. In C.18—early 19 c., angling for farthings is begging, with cap and string, from a prison window. Grose.

Anglo-Banglo, n. (mostly) and adj. Any Anglo-Indian (i.e., of mixed parentage): army: since ca. 1950; by 1975, ob. (P.B.) Anglo-Indian back, have an. (Of a girl) to have dead leaves adhering to the back of her dress as she returns from a stroll: Canadian: since ca. 1908.

Anglos. The shares of the Anglo-American United, with which 'the dogs' (q.v.) were amalgamated: from ca. 1890; Stock Exchange. A.J. Wilson, Stock Exchange Glossary, 1895, defines it, however, as 'Anglo-American Telegraph Company [shares]'.

angora. See act the angora.

angry boy. A blood: late C.16—17. Greene; Beaumont & Fletcher.

Angry Cat, the. The French battleship Henri IV at the Dardanelles in: 1915: naval. Bowen.

angry man; up with the angry men or where the angry men are, see an angry bullet. A serviceman, esp. a soldier, in a battle area; in the battle area; to do service in one: among Aus. servicemen in New Guinea: 1942—5. (B., 1953.) This could form the source of the angry young men of whom, since ca. 1957, one has heard far too much.

Anguagela. Language: central s.:—1909 (Ware); ob. by 1930, as all central s. is.

anguish, be. To be objectionable or deplorable or extremely boring: smart set and BBC 'types': ca. 1946—57. Prompted by 'a pain in the neck'?

angular party. A gathering or social group odd in number: coll., from ca. 1870; ob.

Angus or Agnes. See I don't know whether...

Animal; a-. The Elephant and Castle Station: London Railway passengers': ca. 1860—1910. Ware.—2. The Animal. 'A disguised, or flippant, reference amongst boon companions to the tavern, used in common when the sign is zoological... but more esp. referring to the Elephant and Castle...; until (1882) this place was exceptionally dubbed "Jumbo" (Ware).—3. A policeman: low: from ca. 1919.—4. 'A term of [strong] contempt, esp. since WW2' (Wilkes): Aus. P.B.: also Brit., same period. Cf.:—5. In mere animal, 'A very silly fellow' (B.E.): coll.: late C.17–18. Wycherley.—6. In go the whole animal, a US phrase adapted by Dickens as go the extreme animal, by Sala as... entire...; C.19 var. on US go the whole hog.

animal spirits. Liveliness of character, (gen. considerable) vivacity of manner and action, a healthy animalism: coll.: from ca. 1810. Jane Austen.

ankle. In to have sprained (one's) ankle, to have been seduced: late C.18–early 20. (Grose, 1st ed.) Cf. break a leg, q.v., and Fr. avoir mal aux genoux.

ankle-biters. Trousers hussar-fashion: lower classes':—1923 (Manchon).

ankle-bone. A crawfish: nautical: late C.19–early 20. Bowen.

ankle-beater. A boy specialising (ca. 1820–80) in driving, to the slaughter-yard, the animals purchased by the butcher. To avoid the damaging of flesh, only the beasts' ankles were touched. Also known as a penny-boy.

ankle-spring warehouse. The stocks: Anglo-Irish c.: ca. 1780–1830.

Anna Maria. A fire: rhyming s.: 1892, 'Pomes' Marshall, Sporting Times, 29 Oct.

Anna May Wong. Stink: rhyming s. on pong: e.g., 'Cor, it dun 'arf Anna May in 'ere, dunnit! Anna May Wong was an Oriental, silent-film actress. so dating is prob. since 1920s. (Hillman, 1974.)

annas. See at least two annas...

Anne's fan, properly Queen Anne's fan. Thumb to nose and fingers outspread; intensified by twiddled fingers or by addition of other hand similarly outspread: late C.18–19. Now cock a snook at a person. Cf. long bacon.

Annie. See Asiatic Annie.—2. An Anson aircraft, 'now used as a Trainer' (H. & P., 1943). Sgt-Pilot Rhodes, 1942, 'The Anson is "limping Annie" from the uneven engine note, or just "Annie" for short.' Jackson, 1943, 'Annie, Old Annie, the A. V. Roe "Anson" Bomber and Trainer, now obsolescent. Sometimes called "Old Faithful".' (The name Anson constitutes a pun on the latter part of 'A. V. Roe and Son'.)—3. HMS Anson: RN: since ca. 1940. Granville.

Annie Laurie. A 3-ton lorry: rhyming s. (of an unusual kind): military: ca. 1914–20. (B. & P.; Franklyn, Rhyming.)—2. A bus-conductress: WW2. See whistler, 8.

Annie's Bar. 'A place of comfort and refreshment leading off the Members' Lobby' (in the House of Commons): Parliamentary coll.: C.20. Time and Tide, 1 June 1935.

Annie's room: See up in Annie's room.

annihilate. To direct a withering glance at; reprimand severely: coll.: C.20.

anniversary of the seige of Gibraltar, the. 'Since the great seige lasted from 1779 to 1783, this could be unofficially celebrated whenever desired' (R/Adml P.W. Brock, 1969): RN toast: late (?mid-)C.19–20.

anno domini. Late middle, or old, age (1885); old ('extremely old' is B.C.); the passage of the years (however young one is after early adulthood): from ca. 1910: coll. Ware, 1909, 'He must be very anno domini, mustn't he?' "A.D.? my dear fellow, say B.C."'; B.C. is virtually t. Cf. anno domini ship, an old-fashioned whaler: whaling: from ca. 1880; ob. by 1930.

annual. A holiday taken once a year: coll.:—1903 (F. & H., rev.).—2. A bath (the immersion): Aus.: C.20. (B., 1942.) Ironic.

anodyne necklace. A halter: mid-C.18–early 19. Goldsmith, 1766; Grose, 2nd ed. (In C.17 simply necklace). One of numerous synonymms. In C.18 also a supposedly medicinal amulet.

anoint. To beat well, to thrash: C.17–early 20. Adumbrated in M.E.

anoint a (or the) palm. To bribe: C.16–18. Cf. grease the palm. anointed. Depraved, worthless, pejoratively ulter: late C.18–19;?mainly Anglo-Irish. (H., 3rd ed.) Prob. ex anoint, q.v.

anonski; esp. in 'I'll see you anonski': Aus. c.p. of ca. 1930–60. After cheerioski. (B.P.)

anonyma. A demi-mondaine, esp. if a high-flyer. Ca. 1860–79, then less common; rare in C.20. Sala, 1864, 'Bah! There are so many anonymas nowadays.'

another clean shirt oughta (or ought to) see ya (or you) out. You look as if you might die at any time: NZ c.p.: since ca. 1930. Gordon Slatter, A Gun in My Hand, 1959.

another county heard from! 'A c.p. used when one of a company breaks wind or interjects something': Can.: since ca. 1930. 'Ex the receiving of election results from various counties' (Leechman).

another day – another dollar. 'Said thankfully at the end of a hardworking day' (Mrs Shirley M. Pearce, 1975): since the late 1940s and presumably adopted from the US, where it has been current since ca. 1910. See DCpp.

another fellow's. A c.p. applied to anything new, not by the possessor but by some wag: ca. 1880–1910. B. & L.

another good man gone! A c.p. referring to a male engaged to be married: late C.19–20.

another(-)guess; another(-)guess sort of man. A 'fly' man: early C.19: it occurs in the London Magazine, Aug. 1822, article on 'English smugglers'. (Moe.) Perhaps ex another gates, but prob. direct from US.

another little drink won't do us any harm. Since ca. 1920, a c.p. Ex a popular song.

another nail in my coffin. Cigarette-smokers' pre-emptive remark to forestal criticism on lighting up: Aus. and Brit.: since early C.20. (Noble, 1974.) See DCpp.

another one for the van! Someone else has gone mad: Cockney c.p.: since ca. 1920. The van being the ambulance.

another pair of sleeves, that's. That's another matter: Aus.: since ca. 1925. B., 1943.

another point(, steward)! Make that drink stronger!: nautical: from ca. 1860. (Glasgow Herald, 9 Nov. 1864.) Cf. the north drinking-terms.

another push and you'd have been a Chink (or Nigger). A c.p. used by workmen in a slanging match or by youths bullying boys in a factory: C.20. Imputing a colour-no-objection promiscuity in the addressee's mother.

another thousand (or ten thousand) a year! A drinking pledge: mid-C.19–early 20.

answer the bugle. To fall in with the defaulters: RN coll.: late C.19–20. John Irving, Royal Navalese, 1946.

answer to a maiden's prayer. An eligible young bachelor: joc. coll.: C.20.

answer's a lemon, the. A derisive-reply c.p.: adopted, ex US, ca. 1920; by 1983 slightly ob. Perhaps ex the bitterness of the lemon as an eaten fruit, but more prob. the bitterness in an improper story. See DCpp for fuller treatment.

answer's in the infirmary, (my or the). The answer is 'Yes': late C.19–earlier 20. A pun on in the affirmative. Hence, 'My answer's unfavourable' or 'The news is bad': since ca. 1910 and, immediately after, much more gen. than the earlier sense, but itself ob. by 1950.

antagonise, v.i. To compete; strive to win: sporting coll.:—1887 (Baumann): † by 1920.

ante up. To hand over, surrender (a thing): Services': from not later than 1915. (F. & G.) Ex US poker j.

Anthony. (Also St Anthony's pig; antony pig; tantony.) The smallest pig in a litter, the runt: late C.16–early 20; coll. by 1750. St Anthony the hermit was the patron saint of swineherds. Apperson.—2. In cuff or knock Anthony, to knock one's knees together in walking: late C.18–19. (Grose, 1st ed.) Var., cuff Jonas. Hence, Anthony Cuffin, a knock-kneed man: C.19.

Anthony Eden. A black felt hat in the upper Civil Service style: coll.: since ca. 1936. Of the kind favoured by the Rt Hon. Anthony Eden.

anti, n. A person opposed to a given opinion or party; one by nature a rebel, an objector: coll. (1889) >, by 1920, S.E. Ex the adj. OED.

anti-gugger. 'A straw or tube ... for sucking liquor out of casks or bottles' (Bowen): nautical coll.: C.20.

Anti-Hope, the. The clipper Antiope, 'a very unlucky ship' (Bowen): nautical: late C.19—early 20.

anti-nuke. See nuke, n.

anti-wank, adj. Anti-tank: army rhyming s.: WW2. P-G-R. antics. Tactical exercises: RN coll.: C.20. (Bowen.) Also steam antics.

antidote. 'A very homely woman' (B.E.): joc.: late C.17—mid-18. Against lust.

antimony. Type: printers':—1890. F. & H., 'Antimony is a constituent part' of the metal.

antipodean. With everything topsy-turvy: from ca. 1850. Orig. joc. pedantic S.E., then joc. coll.

antipodes. Backside: since ca. 1840; but ob. by 1920, very rare by 1960. Francis Francis, Newton Dogvane, 1859.

Antipodes, the or her. The female pudend: late C.19—20.

antiquarianise. To play at being an antiquary: C.20: coll.

antiquated rogue. An ex-thief; an out-of-date thief: ca. 1660—1730. At the angle formed by three linguistic regions: c., j., and S.E. Only in B.E.

Antonio. A Portuguese soldier: army: WW1. Also Tony. B. & P.

Antony. See Anthony.

ants in (one's) male or female pants, have. To be excited, restless: an Americanism adopted in England in 1938, but not gen. until 1942. Cf.:-

antxy. Restless; nervous: adopted, ca. 1975, ex US; even in 1977, limited use. Ex prec.

anty. Sugar: army: C.20. (F. & G.) Possibly ex the sweetness of gifts from Anty or Auntie. P.B.: or perhaps simply because, in hot climates, it has an inevitable attraction for ants, and the old Army of the Empire would be only too aware of this.

anxious (or inquirers') meeting. A meeting, after a revivalist address, of those who are anxious for salvation. Such a person occupies the 'anxious seat': ca. 1880—1910. Of US orig'. B. & L.

any. All all: s. (and dial.): late C.19—20. Kipling, 1890, 'You don't want bein' made more drunk any' (EDD).—2. Not any, nothing; none: RN: C. 20. Ex the abbreviation N.E., not eligible for pay. (Capt. R.J.B. Kenderdine, RN).—3. In I'm not taking (-1903) or having (from ca. 1895) any, not for me!; 'not for Joe!': c.p. Hence in ordinary constructions. The earlier form occurs in J. Milne, Epistles of Atkins, 1902.

any amount. Much; a large amount: coll.: C.20. 'Have you any sugar?' 'Any amount.'

any B.F. (or b.f. or bloody fool) can be uncomfortable. 'Alleged to be a Guards' maxim ...' (R/Adml P.W. Brock, 1969): whether maxim or not, certainly a c.p. and, in the years after WW2, enjoying a much wider currency. See DCpp.

Any Bloody (occ. Blooming) How, the. HMS Howe, 'which always steered like a dray': RN: C.20. Bowen.

any day you 'ave the money, I 'ave the time. A prostitutes' or, derivatively, an enthusiastic amateurs' c.p.: mostly Londoners: since ca. 1910. See DCpp.

any God's quantity. Many; very many; coll.: late C.19—20. 'Any God's quantity of cocked hats and boleros and trunk-hose' (James Joyce, Ulysses, 1922). Cf. any amount.

any how, anyhow. Indifferently; badly: coll.:—1859. Cf. any old how.—2. See all anyhow.

any joy? Elliptical for 'Did you have/get any joy (from it/out of them, etc.)?'; 'did you have any luck?': adopted, ex US (?) WW2.

any more for any more? Anyone want more food?: Ser-VICES', esp. Army, c.p. (indeed, a consecrated and deeply revered phrase): late C.19—20. (P-G-R.) See DCpp.

any more for the Skylark? A joc. c.p.: C.20. Ex the invitation of pleasure-boat owners at the seaside.

any of these men here? A military c.p. (from ca. 1910) by a wag that, imitating a sergeant-major at a kit-inspection, continues, 'Knife, fork, spoon ...?' B. & P., 'Sometimes the reply would be given: "Yes, he is," whereupon the wag or a third party would ask, "Who is?" to which the retort was 'Arseholes'.

any old how. Haphazardly; unsystematically: coll.: prob. since mid-C.19; certainly C.20.—2. 'You must admit'—a modifier, a palliative, as in Knock, 1932, applying it to a punishment adjudged too severe.

any old (e.g. thing). Any ... whatsoever: US (ca. 1910) anglicised ca. 1914. W.J. Locke, 1918, 'Mate, Bill, Joe—any old name.' OED.

any plum? See plum pied.

any racket. A penny faggot: rhyming s., ca. 1855—1910. H., 1st ed.

any road. See road, 3.

any Wee Georgie? Any good?: Aus. rhyming s.: since ca. 1920. (B., 1942.) On 'Wee Georgie Wood', the popular comedian.

anyone for tennis? See tennis, anyone?

anyone here seen Kelly?—with K-E-double L-Y often added, and with var. anyone here seen Kelly, Kelly from the Isle of Man?—which, indeed, forms the orig. and comes straight from the popular song composed by C.W. Murphy and W. Letters.

anything, as or like. Very; much; esp., vigorously. The as form, C.16—early 20. The phrase like anything has prob. existed since mid-C.18: it occurs in, e.g., Sessions, July 1766 (trial of Joseph Turner).—2. In so help me anything!: non-U euph. coll.:—1923 (Manchon).

anything else but. See nothing but.

anything for a laugh, often prec. by he'll do. Anything to gain a laugh, or, among the solemn, raise a smile: c.p.: since late 1940s, if not earlier. (Petch).—2. Without the he'll do, but perhaps prec. by Oh, well! ironic exclam. when, e.g., the last resort is about to be tried, "'Hit the bloody thing with a hammer," you say? Oh, well ...!': since ca. 1950. (P.B.)

anything for a quiet wife. A c.p. var.—less vaguely, 'a jocular perversion' (Petch)—of anything for a quiet life: since ca. 1968. See DCpp.

anything goes! Anything is permissible; 'do exactly as you please': since ca. 1960. Adopted ex US, where current since the mid-1930s. Evening Echo (Bournemouth), 26 Jan. 1967 (Petch).

anything on two legs. In he'll or he'd fuck or shag anything ..., an admiring tribute to a reputedly spectacular potency: mostly a Services' c.p.: late C.19—20. P.B.: in later C.20, usu. contemptuously, of the man's want of discrimination or control.

anything that can go wrong will go wrong. with can and will emphasised. The c.p. definition of Murphy's or Sod's Law, q.v.

anythingarian. A man of no fixed or decided views: from ca. 1707, when coined by Swift; whence anythingarianism, defined by Kingsley in 1851 as 'modern Neo-Platonism'. Coll., soon S.E.; ob. by 1930.

anyway—it's winning the war. See it's winning the war. anyways. In any case: dial. and sol.: 1865, Dickens (OED). Ex anyway.

anywhere down there! A tailors' c.p. when something is dropped on the floor: ca. 1860—1910.

Anzac. A member of the Australian and New Zealand Army Corps on Gallipoli: military coll. (26 April 1915—the day after the landing) >, by 1919, S.E.—2. Loosely, any Aus. or NZ soldier serving in WW1: coll.: from late 1918.

Anzac picket, be on (the). To be 'dodging the column' at the Anzac Hostel, El Kantara, Egypt. Aus. soldiers': 1940–2. B., 1942.

Anzac poker. See kangaroo poker.

Anzac shandy. Beer and champagne: NZ soldiers': 1915–18.

Anzac tile. An Army biscuit: military: 1915–18.—2. Hence, any very hard biscuit: since 1919; by 1967, ob. (TV Times, 27 May 1967.) Cf.:-

Anzac wafer. A large (hard) army biscuit: Aus. and NZ soldiers': 1915–18. B., 1942.

apartments to let. (With have) brainless; silly: from early 1860s. H., 3rd ed.; ob.—2. In C.18, descriptive of a widow.

ape. In C.20, low coll. if applied pej. to a person. Cf. baboon.—2. £50; also £500: Aus.: C.20. (B., 1942.) Suggested by monkey, 2.—3. In go ape, to be reduced to basic animal instincts by the force of sexual attraction: a girl says 'He's the one I go ape for' of her boyfriend: since late 1950s. (P.B.)—4. Also go ape, (of persons) to go wrong, emotionally or mentally; of things, to go wrong, to fail dismally: adopted, early 1970s, ex US. Observer, Dec. 1974, of business or events. (Partly R. S.)—5. In make (someone) (one's) ape, to befool him: coll.: C.17–19. Var. put an ape into (one's) hood or cap.—6. See apes.

ape hangers (or one word). Highly raised, curved handlebars on a motorcycle: motorcyclists': adopted, with the fashion, ex US, late 1960s. Barnhart cites a US ref. in print, 1965; an early Brit. one occurs in Alex Stuart, The Bikers, 1971. (P.B.)

'apenny bumper. 'A two-farthing omnibus ride' (Ware): London proletarian: ca. 1870–1900.

'apenny dip. A ship: rhyming s.: since ca. 1860. 'Obsolescent, but heard occasionally in Dockland' (Franklyn 2nd).

'apenny-lot day. 'A bad time for business' (Ware): costers': —1909; ob. by 1930. Presumably because then the costers were forced to sell their goods in little "apenny lots'.

apes. First mortgage bonds of the Atlantic and North-Western Railway: Stock Exchange: ca. 1870–1914.—2. See lead apes in hell; say an ape's paternoster.

apeshit. Esp. go apeshit, to become very angry: 'Two weeks ago I called him an ugly little f... And Steven went apeshit' (film actor Harrison Ford, quoted in Time Out, 10 Sep. 1982, p. 21).

apiece. For each person: coll.: C.19–20. S.E. when applied to things.

apoplectic. Choleric; violent-tempered: coll.: C.20.

apostles. The 'knight-heads, bollards and bits of a sailing-ship' (Bowen): nautical: mid-C.19—early 20. P.B.: ?ex some fancied resemblance to statues in a church.—2. See manoeuvre the apostles; twelve apostles.

Apostle's Grove, the. St John's Wood district, north London: 1864 (H., 3rd ed.). Variant, the Grove of the Evangelist (H., 5th ed., 1874). Ex the numerous demi-mondaines living there ca. 1860–1910; ob. by 1930. P.B.: or simply straight punning.

apostle's pinch. A pinch of a very indelicate nature: low: C.20.

Apothecaries' Hall. A late C.18—mid-19 midshipmen's name for part of the steerage. Basil Hall, Voyages, 2nd series, 1832.

apothecaries' Latin. Law Latin, dog Latin: late C.18—early 19 coll. Grose, 1st ed.

apothecary. As the a-, the ship's surgeon: RN, esp. lower-deck: ca. 1890–1930. Knock.—2. In talk like an apothecary, to talk nonsense: coll.: mid-C.19—early 19. Grose, 1st ed.

apothecary's bill. A long bill: mid-C.18—early 19. Grose, 1st ed.

app. Apparatus: chemists' (not druggists') and chemical students': from ca. 1860.—2. An application to, e.g., Governor, chaplain, welfare, etc.: Borstals' and detention centres': current in 1970s. Home Office.

appalling. Objectionable; ugly; noticeable, marked: Society and middle-class coll.: C.20. Cf.:-

appallingly. Very: coll.: C.20. Ex last nuance of prec.

Appil, the. The Three Tuns, a noted Durham inn: Durham University:—1903 (F. & H., rev.). By a misreading of Acts 28, 15.

apple and pears. An early form of apples and pears, q.v. 'Ducange Anglicus', 1857.

apple and pip. To urinate: rhyming s., on sip, itself back-s. for piss: late C.19–20. Franklyn 2nd.—2. To sip: rhyming s.: C.20. (Haden-Guest, 1971.) Cf. apple-pips, q.v.

apple-cart. The human body. Grose, 2nd ed., 1788, has 'down with his apple-cart; knock or throw him down': cf. H., 1st ed., 1859, "down with his apple-cart," i.e. upset him. North[ern]. 'In upset the apple-cart there seems to be a merging of two senses: body and, in dialect, plan; originating app. ca. 1800, this phrase > coll. ca. 1850. In 1931, thanks largely to G.B. Shaw's play, The Apple Cart, it was admitted into S.E. though not into literary English. Later C.19 variants, recorded by F. & H.: upset the old woman's apple-cart; upset the apple-cart and spill the gooseberries or peaches. For fuller information, see F. & H., OED, W., and Apperson.

apple core. £20: rhyming s., on score: since (?)ca. 1950. (Hillman, 1974.)

Apple Corps, the. 'Footplatemen from Yeovil, Somerset' (McKenna, Glossary): railwaymen's: mid-C.20. A pun on 'the cider country'.

apple daddy. 'Merchant Navy s. for dried apple rings soaked and cooked in a pastry case, and issued as a pudding on Tuesday and Thursdays to the apprentices, bosun, etc. Considered a great delicacy, they were liable to be stolen from the galley by ordinary seamen, if they were left unattended while soaking': nautical: C.20. (R.S.)

apple-dumpling shop. A woman's bosom: late C.18–19. Grose, 2nd ed.

apple fritter. A bitter (ale): rhyming s.: late C.19–20.

apple-monger, apple-squire, apron-squire. A harlot's bully: coll.; respectively C.18, C.16—early 19, late C.16–19. Perhaps ex apple, a woman's breast.

apple pie. Sky: since ca. 1940; rare since 1946. Franklyn, Rhyming.

apple-pie bed. A bed short-sheeted: late C.18–20; coll. by 1830; S.E. by 1880. Grose, 2nd ed., defines it as 'a bed made apple-pye fashion, like what is termed a turnover apple-pye'.

Apple-Pie Day. That day on which, at Winchester College, six-and-six was, C.19, played. On this day, the Thursday after the first Tuesday in December, apple-pies were served on 'gomers', in College, for dinner. F. & H.

apple-pie order. Perfect order, impeccable precision (Scott, 1813): coll. >, by 1900, S.E.

apple-pips. Lips: rhyming s., mostly theatrical: C.20. (Franklyn, Rhyming.) Cf. apple and pip, q.v.

apple-polishing. Toadying: Can.: C.20. Before giving the apple to teacher, a pupil—sometimes ostentatiously—polishes it.

apple-sauce. Impudence: mostly lower middle class: late C.19–20. An elab. of sauce, n., 1.

apple-squire. A male bawd: orig. (–1591), c. (Greene.) See also apple-monger.

apple to an oyster. See oyster, 6.

apples. 'In good order, under control' (Wilkes): Aus.: since mid-C.20. As in, e.g., 'How's it going? Everything apples?' Usu. she'll be apples, q.v.—2. Testicles: low: C.19–20. Cf. nutmegs.—3. A shortening of apples and pears. It does not predominate over the full term, yet is fairly common: witness Lester.—4. See how we apples swim!

apples a pound pears. A c.p., derivative of barrow boys, who often use strange cries, thought by some customers to be misleading: since ca. 1930. 'Since late 1940s, no more than a Cockneys' jocular, a joyous, street cry' (L.A., 1976).

apples and pears. Stairs (–1859). 'Ducange Anglicus', 1st ed., and H., 1st ed., have apple and pears. Ware records, for 1882, the abbr. apples, which has never > gen.

apples and rice. 'Oh ve-ry nice, oh ve-ry apples and rice,' Michael Harrison, Reported Safe Arrival, 1943: rhyming s.: late C.19–20.

appointment. See keep (one's) appointment.

appro, on. Coll.: abbr. on approbation or approval (things), from ca. 1870 (H., 5th ed.); on approbation (persons): from ca. 1900.

'Appy Day. A pessimistic and inveterate 'grouser': RN: C.20. (Granville.) Ironic. See happy.

apree la gare, arpray la guerre. Sometime, or never: military c.p.: 1916–18. Ex Fr. après la guerre, after the war. See also DCpp.

apricock(-)water. Apricock, i.e. apricot, ale: 1728, anon., The Quaker's Opera.

April fools. Tools: rhyming s.: late C.19–20.—2. Stools: mostly public-house rhyming s.: since ca. 1910.—3. (Football) pools: rhyming s.: since ca. 1930. (All: Franklyn, Rhyming.)

April gentleman. A man newly married: coll.; C.16–17. (Greene.) Ex the popularity of marriages in April.

April Showers. Flowers: rhyming 2.: C.20. Franklyn, Rhyming.

apron. The tarmac surround of a hangar: RAF: since ca. 1930. Jackson.—2. 'The neck fold of a merino ram' (B., 1959): Aus. sheepfarmers': C.20.

apron and gaiters. A bishop; a dean: coll.:—1913 (Arthur H. Dawson's Dict. of Slang).

apron-rogue. A labourer, an artisan: C.17 coll. (In C.17 S.E., apron-man.)

apron-squire. See apple-monger.

apron-string hold or tenure. An estate held only during a wife's life: late C.17–19 coll. Ray, 1678, 'To hold by the apron-strings, i.e. in right of his wife' (Apperson).

apron-strings, tied to (or always at) (or a woman's). Dangling after a woman, C.18; under petticoat government, C.18–20.

apron-up. Pregnant: lower and lower-middle class coll.: C.19–20; ob. Because modest women tend, in pregnancy, to use their aprons as 'disguise'.

apron-washings. Porter: proletarian:—1903; ob. (F. & H., rev.) Ex brewers' porters' aprons.

aproner. A shopkeeper: ca. 1650–1720; coll. During the Civil War, a Roundhead. On the other hand, aproner (ca. 1600–40) = a barman, a waiter.

Aq, the (pron. Ack). The Westminster Aquarium, a well-known music-hall of the 1870s–80s. Ronald Pearsall, Victorian Popular Music, 1973.

aqua fluminis filtrata (lit., 'filtered river-water'): an Aus. pharmaceutical chemists' var. of next. (B.P.)

aqua pompaginis (or pump-). Apothecaries' Latin for water from the well: C.18–early 19. Harrison Ainsworth, drawing heavily on Egan's Groise, uses the term several times.

aquarius. 'Controller of evening bath "set"': Bootham School s. (late C.19–20) verging on j. Bootham, 1925.

aquatics. A game of cricket played by the oarsmen; the playing-field used by them: Eton; mid C.19–20.

Aqui, the. The Aquitania: seamen's coll.: 1914–50, then reminiscent.

ar! Ah!: low coll.: C.19–20. Manchon. I.e. ah with 'r' rasped.

Arab, city Arab, street Arab. A young vagrant; a poor boy playing much in the streets. Coll. >, by 1910, S.E.: respectively—1872, 1848, ca. 1855.

Arabs, Arab merchants. The Indian merchants and shopkeepers in Natal are locally, but erroneously known by these designations. They are chiefly Mohammedans and are also known as "Bombay merchants" (Pettman): from early 1890s.

Arba Rifles, the. 'A force of Pioneers, pressed into service as front-line troops, at the time of the German break-through near Kasserine (in Tunisia)': Army in N. Africa: WW2. Ex the Souk el Arba. P-G-R.

arbor vitæ. Lit., the tree of life, i.e. the penis: late C.18–20; ob. (Grose, 3rd ed.) Pedantic.

'arbour. See our 'arbour!

Arbroath! A Scottish sporting c.p. (from 6 Sep. 1885) to anyone boasting. Because on 5 Sep. 1885, Dundee Harp defeated Aberdeen Rovers by 35–0 and sent a telegram to their great rivals Arbroath, 'You can't beat this', to which arch. A var. of ark (boat).—2. Archbishop: clerical: late C.19–20.—3. As for 2, always the a. Headmaster: Tonbridge School: late C.19–mid-20.

Arbroath, having the same day defeated Bon Accord, in a Scottish Cup Tie, by 36–0, replied, 'Can't we?' Athletic News Football Annual, 1935–6.

arch-cove or rogue. As c., the leader of a gang of thieves: from ca. 1600 to 1800. The latter as s., a confirmed rogue, from ca. 1650; playfully, C.18–19. In c., arch = principal; confirmed; extremely adept. Arch-doll or doxy, however, is the wife of an arch-cove: Grose, 2nd ed.

Arch Tiffy, the. The Warrant Engineer: RN: since ca. 1920. (Granville.) See tiffy, 1.

archbeak or archbeako. Headmaster: some English preparatory schools: C.20. See, e.g., the novels of Anthony Buckridge.

Archbishop Laud, often shortened to Archbishop. Fraud: rhyming: since ca. 1945—by 1965, also low s. Robin Cook, The Crust on Its Uppers, 1962.

Archbishop of Cant, the. Any Anglican archbishop; not necessarily Canterbury: since the late 1930s.

archdeacon. Merton ale, stronger brew: Oxford University, C.19–20; ob.—2. The Archdeacon, HMS Venerable: RN: C.20. (Bowen.) Ex that dignitary's 'style'.

archduke. A comical or an eccentric man: late C.17–18. (Grose, 3rd ed.) Perhaps suggested by the Duke in Measure for Measure.

Archer up! (He, etc., is) safe; or, bound to win: London c.p.: 1881–6. Ex the famous jockey, Fred Archer, who (d. 1886) sprang into fame in 1881.

Archibald. The air-bump over the corner of the Brooklands aerodrome next to the sewage-farm: aviation: ca. 1910–14. Ex youth's fondness for bestowing proper names on inanimate objects. (W.) Whence perhaps Archie, v. P.B.: perhaps ex-

Archibald, certainly not! No!: c.p. of ca. 1913–20. Ex a music-hall song having this refrain. (F. & G.) See DCpp.

Archie, n. An anti-aircraft gun: occ., such a gunner: military: from 1915. Perhaps ex Archibald, but cf. the v., below.—2. A young station hand, learning his job: Aus. rural: C.20. (B., 1942.) Cf. Archibald.

Archie; gen. archie, v.t., gen. in passive. To shell (an aviator and his plane when they are) in the air: military aviation: from 1915. Prob. ex Archibald, q.v. W.

ard. Hot, both of objects and of persons or passions: C.17—early 19 c. Ex Fr. ardent.

ardelio(n). A busby: C.17; coll. Never properly acclimatised. (Florio; Burton.) Ex L. ardelio ex ardere, to be zealous.

ardent. Spirituous liquor: Society: 1870; † by 1920. (Ware.) Abbr. ardent spirits.

are there any more at home like you? A c.p., addressed to a pretty girl: since ca. 1910. Ex a musical comedy: the song is 'Tell me, pretty maiden, are there...?'—from Floradora, 1900.

are there no doors in your house? A c.p. to one who fails to close the door: C.20.

are we down-hearted? A military c.p. of WW1, (for var. and elab., see B. & P., p. 194); orig. (ca. 1906) political but soon gen.

are yew werldin'? A Liverpool c.p. of 'the hungry Twenties' and in frequent use until ca. 1940; occ. use for some 10 years longer. (Frank Shaw, 1968.)

are you a man or a mouse? Orig. and predominantly US, Berrey glossing it thus: 'disparaging of a timorous person'. Adopted in Britain ca. 1945 and there used joc., esp. by female to male. If the jibe seems fitting, or there is unwillingness to accept the challenge, the retort is often simply 'Squeak!'

are you fit? Are you ready?: orig. RAF, since ca. 1915; by ca. 1950, at very latest, also army: coll. Perhaps elliptical for 'are you ready and fit for action?' Partridge, 1945; P.B.

(are) you getting too proud to speak to anyone now? Addressed to one who has failed to notice the speaker in passing: C.20.

are you going to walk about—or pay for a room? 'An impatient whore's question after a client has dithered too long.' (A correspondent, 1969): C.20.

are you happy in the Service? and are you happy in your work? Ironic queries to someone engaged in dirty or dangerous work: the Services'; the latter mostly RAF at first (1939 or 40), the former orig., since ca. 1935, RN. Both forms were adopted, and persist, in the Army. The latter has been in civilian use, extensively, since 1945.

are you in my way? 'A c.p. reminder of egotistical obliviousness' (L.A.): since ca. 1925.—2. Joc. phrase used as 'Excuse me, may I come past?', or to forestall another's having to ask one to make room: since ca. 1960. (P.B.) are you keeping it for the worms? A c.p. addressed to a female rejecting sexual advances: Can.: since ca. 1945. Here, 'it' is the hymen.

are you kidding? Are you joking?—or derisively and ironically exclamatory; Surely you're not serious?: c.p.: since ca. 1945. Suggested by the American c.p., no kidding? Probably the origin of you must be joking, I find it difficult to believe you: since ca. 1960. P.B.: a perhaps mainly Services' riposte of the 1960s–70s was: 'No—it's just the way me (my) coat hangs' (= 'I am not pregnant').

are you pulling the right string? Are you going the right way about it? or, occ., are you correct?: a cabinet-makers' c.p. dating from 1863. (Ware.) Ob. by 1940.

are you there with your bears? There you are again!—esp. with a connotation of 'so soon': ca. 1570–1840. In the works of various writers from Lyly, 1592, to Scott, 1820. (Apperson.) From the itinerant bear-leaders' regular visits to certain districts.

are you winning? A rhetorical greeting: since ca. 1960. (P.B.)

area-sneak. A sneak haunting areas in order to thief (Vaux, 1812; Dickens, 1838). Coll.; S.E. by 1880 at latest. For a lengthy list of English and Continental synonyms for a thief see F. & H.

arena rat. A 'fan' or an habitué or an idler hanging about ice-hockey arenas: Can. sporting circles': since 1957. (Leechman.)

aren't we all (? or I), often prec. by but. But surely we're all alike in that?: c.p. since ca. 1918 at latest. The Daily Mirror's famous strip-cartoon character of the late 1930s—early 1950s, Capt. Reilly-Ffoul, lived at 'Arntwee Hall'.

aren't you one! A c.p. expressing admiration whether complete, or quizzical, or rueful: the US equivalent, occ. used in Britain, of the British you are a one!: since mid-1940s.

arer. A Cockney term of ca. 1900–15, as in Ware's quotation, 'We are, and what's more, we can't be any arer', i.e. more so.

'arf-a-mo. A cigarette, esp. one slow-burning and difficult to keep alight: 1914–15, esp in the Army. Cf. 'alf a mo, Kaiser in DCpp.

'arf-and (or 'n')-arf. Ale and porter mixed equally: Cockney: from ca. 1830. Cf.:-

arf-arf-anarf. Drunk: Cockney:—1909 (Ware); ob. by 1930. Lit., half, half, and half; applied orig. to one who has had too many of prec.

arfundred. See anarf.

arg. To argue: low:—1903 (F. & H., rev.).

argal; argol-bargol. In Shakespeare, argal = therefore: obviously corrupted from ergo. Argol-bargol, unsound reasoning, cavilling,—as v., to bandy words,—is of the C.19–20 (ob.) and seems to be echoically rhyming after willy-nilly, hocus-pocus, etc. Moreover, The Times, in 1863, used argal as = quibble, and Galt, forty years earlier, employed the adj. argol-bargolous, quarrelsome; argy-bargy (–1887) is mostly Scottish. Note, however, that argle, to dispute about, dates from ca. 1589.

Argate. Joke placename, used in response to the question 'Where did you go for your holidays?': NW England, perhaps wider afield: C.20. I.e. 'Our gate'. (Mrs Gwynneth Reed, 1980.)

arge. 'Silver (from argent)' (Tempest): c.: mid-C.20.

Argies, the. (Usu. pl.) Argentinians: orig. Falkland Islanders' coll., given wide publicity in the crisis of 1982. Daily Telegraph, 6 Apr. 1982. Also Argie,-y, adj.

argot. 'A term used amongst London thieves for their secret... language', H.: c. (–1859); † by 1920. The Fr. argot, properly cant, loosely slang.—2. For its misuse as = 'slang', see introductory chapter of Slang: 1843, Quarterly Review, 'Some modern argot or vulgarism'.

argue the leg off an iron pot. To be, on one occasion or many, extremely argumentative: coll.: from ca. 1880. Also argue a dog's tail off: coll.:—1903. (F. & H., rev.)

argue the toss. 'To dispute loudly and long': low: since ca. 1910. B.&P. L.A. adds, 1976: 'Assertion and counter-assertion, with varying circumstantial details, on any topic; from "who called heads and who tails" at toss of coin, or "which way it fell".'

arguffy. To signify: early C.18–20: low coll. and dial.: The trial of Hester Jennings, 1726, in Select Trials, from 1724 to 1732, pub. in 1735. In Hodgson's National Songster, 1832, is an old song entitled 'What Argufies Pride and Ambition?' Ex argue on speechify.—2. Hence, to pester with argument: Smollett, 1771; ob.—3. Hence, v.i., to argue, wrangle: mid-C.18–20. (Maria Edgeworth, 1800.) The commonest sense.

argy-bargy, n. and v. Argument, to argue, 'over a point of fact or opinion, esp. of group, even leading to pushing and shoving, to enforce contention'; cf. barge, v., 1 and 3, and barge in. (L.A.). See also under argal above.

Ar. Short for Aristotle; also spelt 'Arry, as in Franklyn, Rhyming.

Aris. Short for Aristotle, a bottle: C.20. Lester.—2. See 'Arris, 2.

arisings. Left-overs (as of food): RN: C.20. ('Bartimeus'.) Ex official arisings, residues proving proper use of expendable stores.

Aristippus. Canary wine: C.17: Middleton, 'rich Aristippus, sparkling sherry'. Ex the hedonistic Greek philosopher.

aristo. An aristocrat: dated by OED Sup. at 1864, but perhaps rather from ca. 1790 and perhaps influenced by Fr. s. aristocrat. A 'swell', a 'toff': C.19–20; coll., but at no time at all gen.

aristocratic vein. (Gen. pl.) A blue vein: theatrical coll.:—1909 (Ware); ob. by 1930. Cf. S.E. blue blood.

Aristotle. A bottle: rhyming s.; late C.19—earlier 20. The Sydney Bulletin, 7 Aug. 1897; the London Evening News, 19 Aug. 1931.—2. Hence, usu, in shortened form arris (q.v. at 'Arris, 2) courage, nerve. This is a double rhyme: Aristotle = bottle; bottle short for bottle and glass = arse, s. for 'guts': later C.20, when this Aristotle is as likely to be thought of as Aristotle Onassis, the Greek shipping tycoon, rather than the famous philosopher.

arith. Arithmetic: schoolchildren's: mid-C.19–20.

Arithmetician. See TAVERN TERMS, §3d, in Appendix.

ark. A barrack-room chest: army coll.:—1903 (F. & H., rev.); ob. by 1930. A survival ex S.E.—2. In be, or have come, out of the ark, to be very old or very stale: coll.: C. 20. Lyell, 'Good Heavens! This cheese must have come out of the Ark!—3. See arkman.

ark and win(n)s. A sculler; a row-boat: c.: late C.18—mid-19. (Grose, 1st ed.) See arkman.

'ark at 'er! See hark at her!

ark-floater. An aged actor: C.19. Ex Noah's ark + floats, the floatlights.

'ark-pirate. A thief 'working' navigable rivers: nautical c. (–1823); † by 1900. Egan's Grose.

arkman. A Thames waterman: C.18–19; c. or low. Ark, a boat, is not c. except perhaps ca. 1750–1850. Thence ark-ruffian, a fresh-water thief: c.; C.18—mid-19. A New Canting Dict., 1725.

Arleens. Orleans plums: Cockney coll.:—1887 (Baumann).

arm. Influence, power, 'hold': advertising circles': since ca. 1960. 'What sort of arm have you got over them?' (BBC Radio 4, 'You and Yours', 22 May 1975: P.B.).—2. See chance your arm!; having a good arm; long as (one's) arm; not off; under the arm; make a long arm.

Arm-in-Tears; Armentières. Armentières: military: from late 1914. Immortalised in that lengthy, scabrous, humorous song, 'Mademoiselle from Armentières' (for which, see esp. B. & P.).

arm-pits. See under the arm-pits.

arm-props. Crutches: coll.: from ca. 1820; † by 1910. Moncreiff.

arm the lead. 'To fill a small cavity with tallow to bring up a sample of the bottom' when sounding the depth: nautical: mid-C.19–20; col. >, by 1900, j. Bowen.

armadillo scout. An aeroplane introduced by Armstrong-Whitworth in 1918: Air Force s. verging on j.; † by 1925. F. & G.

armed begging. 'Demanding money at the pistol point. A hold up' (Tempest), ironic c.: mid-C.20.

Armies. Name given generically to Armament ratings' (Granville): RN: since ca. 1920.

Armintees. See Arm-in-Tears.

armour. In be in armour, to be pot-valiant: late C.17–18. (B.E.) Cf. Dutch courage and perhaps the C.17 proverbial armour is light at table (Apperson).—2. In fight in armour, to use a condom: ca. 1780–1840. Grose, 1st ed.

arms and legs (all). Weak beer: without body. C.19–20.—2. Hence, weak tea: military: C.20. F. & G.

arm's length, work at. To work at a disadvantage; clumsily: coll. > S.E.; C.19–20; ob.

arms of Murphy, in the. Asleep: low:—1903 (F. & H., rev.). I.e. Morpheus.

Armstrong's patent. Drill that was 'sheer hard labour, needing patience and stamina' and unnecessary: lowerdeck: ?ca. 1850–1920. Knock. Armstrong, because it required one: not a merely arbitrary surname.

army. As the Army, the Salvation Army: coll.: C.20.—2. See thank God ...; for you and whose army? see you—and who else?

army and navy. Gravy: rhyming s.: C.20 Franklyn, Rhyming.

army-barmy. Very keen on, dedicated to, the military life in all its aspects: army s.: since ca. 1955. Cf. khaki-brained and anchor-faced. (P.B.)

Army Form blank. Toilet paper: army (mostly officers'): WW2. P-G-R.

Army left (or right)! Drill-instructors' c.p. to one who turned the wrong way: army: since ca. 1925. P-G-R.

army rocks. See almond rocks.

Army Safety Corps. See Ally Sloper's Cavalry.

Army Service Cunts. The Army Service Corps: infantrymen's pej.: WW1.

Army tank (usu. in pl). An American serviceman: Aus. prisoners-of-war in the Far East: 1942–5. (Sydney Sun, 22 Sep. 1945; B., 1953.) Rhyming on Yank; cf. Sherman tank, q.v.

aromatic bomb. Atomic bomb: army, officers' ephemeral pun: late 1945–6. People, 2 Sep. 1945.

aroo! See hooroo!

around my hat. See all around...

around the world, often prec. by go. A comprehensive kissing of the other's body: both among prostitutes and among men frequenting them: US (since ca. 1940), then also (since ca. 1945) Brit. W. & F., 1960; Eugene Landy, Underground Dictionary, 1971.

arp. See zol.

arrah! An Anglo-Irish expletive of emotion, excitement: coll.: late C.17–20.

array. To thrash, flog; afflict; disfigure, befoul: ironically or jocularly coll.: late C.14–16. Cf. dress down, dressing down.

arrested by the bailiff of Marshland. Stricken with ague: coll.: from ca. 1660; in C.19–20, dial. 'Proverbial' Fuller, Grose (Provincial Glossary), Smiles. (Apperson.)

'Arris, 'a-. Esp. in lose (one's) 'arris, to lose one's nerve, to 'chicken out': rhyming s.: since ca. 1950, or perhaps much earlier. Also spelt aris, it is a shortening of Aristotle, q.v., rhyming s. for 'bottle', itself a shortening of bottle and glass = arse, n., 2 = courage, impudence. There may also be a straight pun on arislarse.

arrival. An enemy shell arriving—and bursting—in the Brit. lines: army coll.: WW1. (B. & P.) Cf. thers.—2. A landing of the completest mediocrity: RAF: from ca. 1932. H. & P., 1943, gloss it as 'The safe landing of an aircraft'; more accurately it should be 'a poor landing, likely to have been troublesome. Thus "Bill's made an arrival"' (Jackson, rather later in 1943).

arrow. A dart: darts-players' s. > coll.: since ca. 1880. (Peter Chamberlain.) A pun. Hence, in good arrow, in good dart-playing form.

'Arry. A familiar form of Aristotle, q.v.: C.20. (Franklyn, Rhyming.) Cf. Ari.

'Arry and 'Arriet. A typical costermonger and his, or any, coster lass; hence, any low-bred and lively (esp. if not old) man and woman. Popularised by Milliken. From ca. 1870; coll. Whence 'Arryish, 'costermongerish', vulgarly jovial: coll.; from ca. 1880. Also, 'Arry's worrier, a concertina: Cockney: 1885; ob. Ware.

'Arry's gators. Thank you: Aus.: since ca. 1943. A Hobson-Jobson of Japanese arrigato. (Edwin Morrisby, 1958.)

ars musica. The 'musical arse', i.e. the podex: late C.18–19. (Grose, 1st ed.) Punning the L. for musical art.

arse, n. Posterior; buttocks. Until ca. 1660, S.E.; then a vulg. Ca. 1700–1930, rarely printed in full: even B.E. (1690) on one occasion prints as 'ar-', and Grose often omits the r, while Frederic Manning (d. Feb. 1935) was in Jan. 1930 considered extremely daring to give its four letters in his magnificent war-novel, Her Privates We.—2. Impudence: Aus.: since ca. 1940. Nino Culotta, Cop This Lot, 1960, 'He laughs and says... a man would need plenty of arse to pinch another man's book.' I think so too. P.B.: since ca. 1950, and prob. earlier, also Brit. low. See 'Arris, and cf. balls in this sense, of 'nerve, courage'.—3. Any person or place the speaker rates as objectionable: see AUSTRALIAN UNDERWORLD, in Appendix.—4. In give (someone or -thing) the arse, to get rid of that person or thing, as in 'She was a pain in the bum, so we gave her the arse': Aus.: since (?)ca. 1950. Cf. the v. (P.B.).—5. In hang an, or the, arse, to hold or hang back; to hesitate timorously: coll.: C.17–early 20.—6. See anchor, 4; arsehole; ask my arse!; grease a fat sow ...; my arse; pain in the arse; tear the arse ...; hamdudgeon; sport an arse; the arse entries at KNOW, in Appendix; lose his arse ...

arse, v.t. To kick (C. 19–20); to dismiss, esp. from a job (WW1): S. Cf. arse, n., 4.—2. 'One of the blokes said, "Arse her [a lorry] up here," I backed her up against one of the Railway arches' (John Gosling, The Ghost Squad, 1959): low: C.20.

arse about, v.i. To fool about, waste time: C.20 s. In late C.18–19, (v.i.) to turn round: a vulgarism. Cf.:

arse about face, Often it's or you've got it ..., back to front; all wrong: low coll.: since late C.19. Cf. the early C.20 Services' arse a-peak, topsy-turvy.

arse bandit. A notorious sodomite: low: C.20. Also arse brigand; arse king: earlier C.20. Cf. synon. turd burglar.

—2. Hence, 'Among boarding-school boys, one who makes play with homosexual inclinations' (L.A., 1976): since ca. 1910.

arse bit. See put on the arse bit.

arse brigand. See arse bandit.

arse-cooler. A bustle (on a woman's dress): C.19.

arse-crawl. V.i., to toady: low coll.: late C.19–20. (Gerald Kersh, The Nine Lives of Bill Nelson, 1942.) Exarse-crawler or -creeper. A sycophant: a shortening of arsehole crawler, q.v.

arse-end Charlie 'is the man who weaves backwards and forwards above and behind the Squadron to protect them from attack from the rear' (Richard Hillary, The Last Enemy, 1942): RAF: 1939+. Synon. with tail-end Charlie, 2.

arse-foot. A penguin: (nautical) coll. (–1598); Florio, Goldsmith; † by 1880. Because its feet are placed so far back. arse for dust, unable to see (someone's). A low c.p., applied to a swift departure: late C.19–20.

arse-hole. See arsehole.

arse in a sling. See eye in a sling.

arse king. See arse bandit, 1.

arse man – leg man – tit man (or hyphenated). Such a male as esteems and enjoys a female's bottom, or legs, or breasts, as her most attractive physical characteristic: coll.: somewhat raffish: the second and third since the late 1940s, although doubtless employed, occ., a decade or two earlier. Of the three, the first term is the least used; also, it arose the latest—not, I think, before ca. 1955.—2. Arse(-)man. An active male homosexual: low: C.20.

arse of the ship, the. The stern: RN: mid-C.19–20. Granville.

arse off, v.i. To depart: low: C.19–20.

arse off or out. See tear (one's) arse off; tear the arse out of it.

arse over... Head over heels; in combinations ... over balloons: Cockney > gen. low: C.20; ... over kettle: Can.: C.20; ... over tip: low coll.: C.20; ... over tit: Aus. and Brit.: since ca. 1910; ... over tits; tock; tuck: since ca. 1920, perhaps earlier; ... over turkey: late C.19—earlier 20. In army, esp. officers', s., it > A over T and, in WW1, ack over toc(k). All the arse over t- perhaps orig. ex... over top. Cf. arse upwards.

arse-party, the. Those who, in any ship, are known to be homosexuals: RN: since ca. 1920.

arse-perisher. See bum-freezer, 2.

arse-polishing. An office job: RAF: 1939+, P-G-R.

arse (something) up. To bungle: low: C.20. To get it the wrong way up. Cf.:-

arse up with care. Applied, as adj. or as adv., to a thorough mess, a real bungle, chaos: low: C.20.

Arse-ups, the. The 4th Battalion, NZ Rifle Brigade: NZ army: WW1. Ex the shape of the battalion shoulder-flash.

arse upwards. In good luck; luckily; coll.: C.17–20. Esp. rise with one's... (Ray.) Cockneys pronounce it arsuppards, whence the punning Mr R. Suppards, a very lucky fellow: C.19–20 pronunciation; C.20 pun.—2. The wrong way round; upside down: Cockneys': C.20. (L.A.)

arse-wiper. A workman that toadies to the boss; a servant to the mistress: low coll.: C.20.

arse-wise, adj. or adv. Inept; preposterous; awry: low coll.: C.20.

arse-worm. 'A little diminutive fellow' (B.E.): late C.17–18. -arsed. Having a — arse: C.16–20; see arse, n., for status. Heywood, 1562 (bare-ars); Cotgrave. OED.

arsehole, n. Anus: a coll. vulgarity: C.19(718)—20.—2. In I (he, etc.) doesn't (or don't) give an (or a cat's) arsehole, a RN c.p. assertion, either of bravado or of imperturbability: C.20.

arsehole, v. To dismiss (someone) peremptorily: Aus. low: since mid-C.20. Wilkes.—2. To go, as in 'Where are you arse-holing off to?' ('Tailgunner' Parkinson, New Society, 19 Aug. 1982, p. 313): Services': mid-C.20.

arsehole bandit. Var. of arse-bandit: low: C.20.

arsehole crawler or creeper; often simply crawler. A sycophant: low: late C.19–20. Hence, adj. and vbl n., arsehole-crawling or -creeeping, toadying, and derivative adj., arseholey.

arsehole going sixpence – half-a-crown. 'Palpitating with fear: RN lowerdeck: 1950s' (Peppitt). Dating, I'd say, ca. 1940–70. Ex the smallest and largest 'silver' coins in circulation during the period. P.B.: an army var. was, e.g. my arse'ole went like that!, with finger-tips opening and closing in illustration.

arsehole is bored or punched. In he doesn't know if his arsehole..., he's a complete fool; in I don't know..., or, e.g. I'm beginning to wonder whether my..., I am flummoxed, at a loss, too busy even to think straight: c.p.: since early C.20. Prob. orig. ex engineering workshops. T.E. Lawrence in The Mint, his journal of RAF life in the 1920s, has punched, bored, drilled or countersunk, while among Can. Army officers', WW2, it ran, 'That guy don't know if his ass-hole was drilled, dug, seamed, bored or just naturally evaginated.' Now, 1960s, usu. ... punched or bored.

arsehole lucky. Extremely lucky: low: since ca. 1950. Even lower is the mainly Suffolk c.p. it has evoked: yeah, bending over again. (F. Leech, 1972.) Cf. arsy.

arsehole of the world. Applied with reference to any particularly unpleasant place, the orig. arsehole... was prob. the Persian Gulf and Lower Iraq; hence Baghdad was said to be up the... By implication in the c.p. if the world had to have an enema, that's where they'd start.

arsehole set fire! A low c.p. exclam.: ca. 1920–40.

Arsehole Square. Boyish and youthful 'wit' in parroted reply to 'Where?': mostly London: late C.19–20.

arsehole street. In be in or up..., to be in serious trouble; synon. with in the shit: low: since ca. 1950. (L.A.)

arsehole to breakfast time, from. All the way; all the time: low: late C.19–20. E.g., 'As National Servicemen we were chivvied all over, from arsehole...' Contrast arseholes to... P.B.: breakfast-time here perhaps refers to a baby's suckling.

arseholed or arseholes. Extremely drunk: since ca. 1940. Ex the earlier, low, pissed as arseholes: from late C.19.

arseholes! or... to you! A low contemptuous interjection or imprecation: since late C.19.

arseholes to breakfast time. Upside down: utterly confused: most unsatisfactory: Cockney: late C.19–20. Thus 'Them ahses built all...' or 'Take no notice of him—he's always...' Contrast arsehole to... This form is perhaps a var. of arse over tit.

arseholey. See arsehole crawler.

arser. A fall on one's behind: mostly hunting and turf: C.20. Evelyn Waugh, A Handful of Dust, 1934, 'You just opened your bloody legs and took an arser.'

arsey. See arsy.

arso. Armament Supply Officer: RN: WW2. P-G-R.

arsty. Slowly; slow down!: army and RAF: late C.19—earlier 20. (B. & P.; Jackson.) Ex Hindustani ahisti. Opp. jildi. Also spelt asty.

arsy. (Very) lucky: Aus.: since ca. 1935. (B., 1953.) Ex tin-arsed, q.v. at tinny, adj., 2; cf. also arsehole lucky.

arsy-arsy, adv. Head over heels; esp. with fall, C.18–20; adj., preposterous, topsy-turvy, mid-C.17–19. Ex arsy, a rhyming addition, properly versy, L. versus (turned), and coll. Cf.:-

arsy-versy. A 'mocking term for a male homosexual's [tendencies]; jocularly contemptuous of [a] thwarting [of] nature': adj. and adv.: (?)since late 1950s. L. A. cites, from the Sunday Times, 22 Aug. 1976, a letter in which gay is preferred to arsy-versy. Cf. prec.

art of memory. See TAVERN TERMS, §3d, in Appendix.

art thou there? or ! Ah, so you understand at last—you've tumbled to it: ca. 1660–1730. See DCpp.

arterial. Abbr. arterial road: 1931: coll. E.P.'s orig. comment was 'Soon, prob., to be S.E.', but in the latter half of C.20 the idea is expressed as motorway. (P.B.) artesian. Beer made in Australia: Aus.: ca. 1880–1914.

artful dodger. A lodger: rhyming s. (–1857). 'Ducange Anglicus.'—2. An expert thief: ca. 1864–1900, perhaps ex the character in Oliver Twist.

artful fox. A theatrical box: music-hall rhyming s.: 1882; † by 1916. Ware.

Arthur. Arsine gas. H. & P.—2. A simpleton, a dupe: mock-auction promoters': since ca. 1946. Perhaps ex Arthur regarded, by the ignorant, as a 'sissy' name.—3. A (money) bank: rhyming s. (Powis, 1977): on (J.) Arthur Rank (1888–1972), the film and flour millionaire.—4. Arthritis: trawlermen's: C.20. Steven Piper, The North Ships, 1974.—5. For King Arthur, see ambassador; for not know whether (one) is Arthur or Martha, see KNOW, in Appendix.

artic, as sol. for Arctic, goes right back to C.14. Yet perhaps it isn't an error at all, but a true var. pron., common in Old and Medieval French and even in Late and Medieval artichoke. See hearty choke.—2. A dissolute, debauched old woman: Aus. low: C.20. B., 1942.

Latin.—2. An articulated lorry: since 1938, when the RAF used it of their Queen Mary lorries, q.v.; but much more widespread since ca. 1960, with the greatly increased use of this form of transport.

artichoke ripe. To smoke a pipe; rhyming s.: ca. 1855–80. H., 1st ed.

article. A girl, a woman: ca. 1810–70. Lex. Bal.—2. 'Used by Wellington to Creevey in Brussels a few weeks before Waterloo: "It all depends on that article there" (pointing to an off-duty, sight-seeing private of one of the line regiments' (R.S.). Later in C.19, and still (late 1970s), used contemptuously of any person: coll. Ex 'its common use in trade for an item of commodity, as in the phrase] "What's the next article?" of the mod. shopkeeper' (EDD). Examples heard by me during the 1950s: nosey article, inquisitive; sloppy article; toffee-nosed article.—3. A woman exported to the Argentine to become a prostitute: white-slavers' c.: C.20. Londres.—4. A chamber-pot: domestic coll.: mid-C.19–20. It probably arose, as a euph., from 'article of furniture'. Note the story of that bishop, who, to another, complained that his house contained forty bedrooms, to which his guest replied, 'Very awkward, for you have only Thirty-Nine Articles'.—5. In the (very) article, the precise thing; the thing (or person) most needed: coll.: from ca. 1850. Trollope.

article of virtue. A virgin: ca. 1850–1914. Punning virtue, (objets de) vertu.

article one, paragraph one. In the Royal Navy, 'a reply to any complaint' (John Laffin, Jack Tar, 1969): late C.19–20. The article is mythical; the c.p., positive.

articles. Breeches, trousers; C.18–19. Grose, 2nd ed.—2. In c. of 1780–1830, a suit of clothes.

artificial, n. Usu. in pl, artificial manures: gardening coll.: C.20.

artillery. (One's) artillery, one's revolver: army officers' joc.: WW2. ?Ex US. P-G-R.—2. A full equipment of necessities for drug injections: addicts': adopted, ca. 1965, ex US. (DCCU, 1971.) Cf. synon. the works.—3. As the (heavy) artillery, 'Big wigs'; convincing or very important persons: coll.: from late 1916; ob. by 1930. In later C.20, sometimes used fig., as in 'Then the Liberals brought their heavy artillery into play, in the shape of Cyril Smith' (P.B.). artilleryman. A drunkard: low:—1903 (F. & H., rev.); † by 1919. Ex noisiness.

artist. A person; 'chap', 'fellow': from ca. 1905. Cf. merchant, customer. Hence, by specialisation: an expert, a specialist: since ca. 1918.—2. Hence, 'One who indulges in excesses, e.g., "bilge artist", "booze artist", "bull artist"' (B., 1942): orig. Aus.; since ca. 1920. But by 1950, at latest, widespread in the Brit. Services, particularly in piss artist, a habitual drinker.

Artists, the. The Artists' Rifles: army coll.: C.20.

arty, n. Artillery: Aus. army: WW2. (Rats.) Ex the standard Services' abbr. (P.B.). arty. Artistic; esp. spuriously or affectedly artistic in practice, theory, or manners: coll.: C.20. Cf.:

arty-and-crafty; arty-crafty. Artistic but not notably useful or comfortable: coll.: resp. 1902 and ca. 1920. OED.

Arty Bishops, the. See Bishops, the.

arty roller. A collar: Aus. rhyming s.: since ca. 1910. B., 1945.

arvo. Afternoon: Aus.: C.20. (B., 1942.) Cf. afto. Usu. as this arvo, contracted to 'sarvo.

Aryan; non-Aryan. Non-Jewish; Jewish: catachreses (of Hitlerite origin) dating, in England, from 1936. This is a particularly crass and barbarous misusage of a useful pair of complementaries.

as. Relative pronoun = that; who, which. In C.18–20, sol.; previously, M.E. onwards, S.E. (It survives also in dial.)—2. As conjunction = that. (Variant as how.) See how, as.

—as—. Very—; e.g. drunk as drunk, very drunk: coll.: mid-C.19–20. Perhaps ex—as can be.

as - as a -. Similes thus constructed may be found at the appropriate adj., e.g. easy as ..., since, in conversation, the initial as is so often dropped. See also (as) many and (as) much ...

as - as they make 'em. Utterly; very; esp. with bad, drunk, fast, mad: coll.: since mid-C.19.

as ever is. A (mainly lower classes') coll. cliché tag, emphasising the preceding statement: mid-C.19–20. Edward Lear (d. 1888) once wrote, ca. 1873, 'I shall go either to Sardinia, or India, or Jumsibobjigglequack this next winter as ever is' (EDD). Ex dial.

as how. See how.

as I ... The following, orig. solemn, asseverations, dating mostly from C.16 and 17, are treated at length and with a wealth of quotation in DCpp. They all emphasise the stark cry, 'Believe me!' The list could not hope to be inclusive: as I am a gentleman and a scholar: ca. 1570–1640: adumbrates the C.19–20 stock phrase an officer and a gentleman, and the (in later C.20) joc. thanks, Sir, you are a gentleman and a scholar; as I am a person: ca. 1660–1750; ... honest: late C.16–17; ... have breath: C.19; ... hope to be saved: ca. 1650–1850; ... hope to live: ca. 1650–1820; ... live and breathe (often shortened to as I have): ca. 1645–C.20; ... live by bread: ca. 1650–1750.

as if I'm ever likely to forget the bloody place! —the place being Belgium. The WW1 fighting soldiers' bitter and ironic response to the quot'n from the famous recruiting poster: Remember Belgium! B. & P.

as-is. Feminine knickers: ca. 1920–40. Joan Lowell, Child of the Deep, 1929.

as long as I can buy milk I shall not keep a cow. 'Why go to the expense of a wife so long as I can visit a whore?': male c.p.: C.17—early 20. A C.20 version is why buy a book when you can go to a library?

as Moss caught his mare - napping. A c.p. that referred to catching someone asleep, hence by surprise: ca. 1500–1870; in mid-C.18—early 20, often Morse; in C.19, mainly dial. See DCpp.

as per usual. As usual: coll.: 1874 (W.S. Gilbert). Occ., later, per usual (OED); another occ. var. is as per use (pron. yew): non-U: from ca. 1902 (W.L. George, The Making of an Englishman, 1914). Ex, and perhaps orig. joc. on, the commercial use of per, perhaps influenced by Fr. comme par ordinaire (W.). as rotten. (The score) as written: Aus. musicians': C.20. B., 1942.

as such. See such.

as that. See that, and cf. as how, at how.

as the actress said to the bishop (and vice versa). An innuendo scabrously added to an entirely innocent remark, as in 'It's too stiff for me to manage it—as the actress said to the bishop' or, conversely, 'I can't see what I'm doing—as the bishop said to the actress'. Certainly in RAF use ca. 1944–7, but prob. going back to Edwardian days; only very slightly obsolescent by 1975—by which time the allusion 'as the A said to the B' was quite well understood—it is likely to outlive most of us. See DCpp. and cf.:

as the girl (or the soldier) said: esp., as the girl said to the sailor. An end-c.p., to soften a double (esp. if sexual) meaning: since ca. 1919. Cf. the C.20 as the monkey said, ending a smoke-room story. Based upon a prototypical story about someone coming into money. See prec.

as the man in the play says. Occurs frequently in the comedies and farces of ca. 1780–1840; it lends humorous authority to a perhaps frivolous statement.

as the man said. A tag lending authority—occ. a humorous warning—to what has been said: adopted ca. 1965 ex US, where current since ca. 1950.

as the monkey said. 'In English vulgar speech the monkey is often made to figure as a witty, pragmatically wise, ribald simulacrum of unrestrained mankind. Of the numerous instances, "You must draw a line somewhere, as the monkey said when peeing across the carpet" is typical' (L.A., 1969): since ca. 1870. Cf. as the actress ... and as the girl ... There is a var. of the genre, where the saying becomes a pun for its own sake, as in, e.g. "They're off!" shrieked the monkey, as he slid down the razor-blade'. 'They're off', said the monkey, > a c.p., applicable esp. to a race: lower classes': C.20. (E.P.; P.B.) as we say in France. A mainly London c.p.: ca. 1820–1900. (R.S. Surtees, Handley Cross, vol. II, 1854.) See DCpp., and cf. pardon my French.

as wears a head. A tag current ca. 1660–1730 and meaning 'as a human being can be': the phrase often in Shadwell and other—and later—writers of comedies.

as you are stout – be merciful! A middle- and upper-class c.p.: C.18. (Swift, Polite Dialogues, 1738.) Here stout does not mean 'obese, corpulent' but 'strong' or 'brave'. See DCpp.

as you were! 'Used ... to one who is going too fast in his assertions':—1864; post-WW1, 'Sorry! my mistake': coll. Ex the military command.

ash beans and long oats. A thrashing: London streets': C.19. Augustus Mayhew, Paved with Gold, 1857, 'Give him with all my might a good feed of "long oats" and "ash beans".'

ash-cat. See ashcat.

ash cookie. A ne'er-do-well: S. African coll.:—1913. Ex ash cookie, a dough cake 'roasted in the ashes of a wood fire' (Pettman), itself ex Dutch koek, a cake.

ash-plant. A light cane carried by subalterns: military coll.: 1870; ob. (Ware.) Ex its material.

Ash Wednesday. The day GHQ Cairo was filled with burning documents on the approach of Rommel.

ashboxing. 'his wife used to go "ashboxing" ... which involved foraging for food and firewood in the dustbins outside the big houses' (Jeremy Seabrook, The Unprivileged, 1967, a study of late C.19–20 poverty in Northampton).

ashcan. That's no good, that shot: cinema: since ca. 1925. (London Evening News, 7 Nov. 1939.) I.e., 'put it in the dustbin!—2. Hence (?), wasted time: Services': WW2. H. & P.—3. A depth charge; orig. its container (ex its appearance): RN: 1939+. Granville.—4. See put a jelly ... ashcat (or hyphenated). A fireman in the MN: nautical, esp. RN: late C.19–20. Bowen.—2. (Usu. in pl.) An engineer, mostly on destroyers: RN: since ca. 1935. Less gen. than synon. plumber.

ashed. Drunk; may be intensified ashed as a rat—very drunk: Army Signals Regiments': 1960s. Echoic, from the slurred splutterings of a drunkard, 'ash ... ash ... ash ...' (P.B.)

Ashes, the. 'The symbolical remains of English cricket taken back to Australia' (SOD): 1882. Also win, regain or recover, or lose the Ashes, to win or lose a series of test matches (from the English point of view): 1883 (W. J. Lewis). Coll.; in C.20 S.E. In Mr Basil de Selincourt's review of the 1st ed. of this work, in Manchester Guardian, 19 Feb. 1937, he wrote: 'I hoped to find that the victorious Australian team had burned their stumps after the last game of the rubber, and kept the proceeds in an urn in their committee-room'

Ashmogger, the. The Ashmolean Museum: Oxford undergraduates':—1920; little used after 1940. Marples, 2.

Ashtip, Mrs. See Greenfields.

Asia Minor. Kensington and Bayswater (London, W.8. and W.2), ex the large number of retired Indian Civil servants there resident ca. 1860–1910: London: ca. 1880–1915.

(Asiatic) Annie. 'A Turkish heavy gun at the Dardanelles': military: 1915. (F. & G.) Punch, 1 Dec. 1915, in a verse titled 'Twitching the Turk': 'even Asiatic Anne/Disgorged a bolt of monstrous plan/Which fell into the sea.'

asinego, occ. assinigo. A little ass: C.17.—2. A fool: C.17–18. Shakespeare has 'An Asinico may tutor thee; Thou ... Asse.' Ex Sp. OED.

ask. 'A jockey is said to "ask" ... a horse when rousing him to greater exertion': turf: from ca. 1860. B. & L.

ask a silly question and you'll get a silly answer; also pluralised, ask silly questions ..., both forms often thus shortened. This is, in late (?mid-)C.19–20, the c.p. evolved from an old proverb, ask no questions and you'll be told no lies.

ask another! later, more commonly, ask me another! Don't be silly!: mostly Cockney c.p. addressed to one or who asks a stale riddle; or a question that both asker and respondent know to be unanswerable: late C.19–20. See DCpp.

ask boggy. An evasive reply: nautical mid-C.18–19. Sea-wit, says Grose, for 'ask mine a-se'. Cf. Bogy, q.v.

ask cheeks near Cunnyborough! A low London—female only—c.p. of mid-C.18–mid-C.19. Lit., 'Ask my arse!' (Grose, 1785). Cunnyborough = the borough, hence area, of cunny = cunt. Cf. the male ask mine, or my, arse.

ask for a rub of. To seek, to apply for, a loan of something: RN lowerdeck: since ca. 1860. R/Adml P.W. Brock cites the notes by Capt. George S. MacIlwaine, RN, sub-lieutenant in 1865, commander in 1879; published in the Naval Review, 1930. Perhaps orig. a rubbing, i.e. a paring or scraping from a twist or roll of tobacco.

ask for (one's) cards. To leave a job: non-managerial coll.: since ca. 1940, or earlier, to 1974–5: 'I'd just about had enough, so I asked for my cards.' On being paid off, a workman received his insurance cards.

ask for it. To incur foolishly; be fooled unnecessarily, ludicrously: coll: C.20; the OED Sup. dates it at 1909, but it is at least four years older. Cf. buy it.

ask me another! See ask another.

ask me behind! A mid-C.19–20 var. of ask mine arse!

ask me foot (occ. elbow!)! An Anglo-Irish euph., C.20, for-ask mine, (in C.19–20) my, arse! A low coll. evasive reply: mid-C.18–20; orig. nautical. (Grose, 2nd ed.) Cf. the C.20, 'God knows, (for) I don't.'

ask out. To invite to (an) entertainment: coll.: from late 1880s. OED Sup.

ask silly questions ... See ask a silly question ...

ask yourself Be reasonable: Aus. c.p.: since ca. 1925. (B., 1942.) P.B.: also some Brit. use, since mid-C.20.

asker. A beggar: euph.: 1858 (Reade: EDD); ob. by 1930.

askew. A cup: c.: ca. 1550–1650. (Harman.) Perhaps ex Old-Medieval–Early Modern Fr. escuelle, a cup.

asking. In that's asking, i.e. when you shouldn't, or when I shouldn't reply: coll. c.p.: late C.19–20.—2. See not you by your asking.

asparagus bed. A kind of anti-tank obstacle: army: 1939+. H. & P.

aspect. (A look of) ardour; hence, impudence: Hatton Garden District of London:—1909 (Ware). Ex It. aspetto!

aspi or aspy. An aspidistra: non-U; non-cultured: C.20. A modern wit has summarised his life of toil, ending in straitened circumstances, in the epigram: Per ardua ad aspidistra.

Aspinall. Enamel: coll.:—1909 (Ware). Ex the inventor of an oxidised enamel paint. The v. is S.E.

Aspro. A vocalising of SPRO, Services' Public Relations Officer: army: 1941+. P-G-R.—2. A professional male homosexual: low: since ca. 1940. ?Ex arse 'pro'.—3. See take the aspro.

Asquith. A French match: army: WW1. Ex Asquith's toofamous 'Wait and see': such matches often failed to light.

ass. A compositor: journalists', ca. 1850–1900. Var., donkey.—2. A very stupid or ignorant person: formerly S.E.; in C.20, coll. (N. B., make an ass of is going the same way).—3. Arse: dial. and late coll.: C.19–20. This is the gen. US pron., as in Tess Slesinger's The Unpossessed, 1934 (London, 1935). Hence also Can.—4. Female pudend: low Can.: late C.19–20. By 1945, partly—by 1960, fairly well, but even by 1977, not fully—adopted in Britain.

ass about. To fool about: schoolboys' (–1899) >, by 1910, gen. (OED). Cf. ass, 2.—2. A post-1918 var. of arse about. American influence.

ass in a sling. "I've got my ass in a sling" or "It's my ass that will be in the sling": means that I'm the one that will be the fall guy [q.v.], my responsibility' (Leech, 1981): Can.: later C.20. Cf. eye in a sling, q.v.

assap. A vocalising of ASAP, as soon as possible: Services': since ca. 1950. Cf. wef. (P.B.)

assassin. An ornamental bow worn on the female breast: ca. 1900–14. Very 'killing'.

Assayes, the. The 74th Foot Regiment; from ca. 1881, the 2nd Battalion of the Highland Light Infantry: military coll.: from 1803 (Battle of Assaye), for them a notable year.

asshole, ass-hole. Arsehole, q.v.; usu. in sense 'a foolish, or objectionable, fellow': adopted, late 1970s, ex US. Philip Howard, in The Times, passim.

assig. An assignation, an appointment: ca. 1680–1830. B.E. assinigo. See asinego.

Assistance, the. National Assistance: poorer classes' coll.: since ca. 1945.

assy. Asphalt: schoolboys': C.20.

astard-ba. Bastard: low: earlier C.20. (Gilt Kid.) By transposition.

aste. Rare c. for money: early C.17. (Nares.) Perhaps ex It. asta, auction.

astern of station. 'Behindhand with a programme or ignorant of the latest intelligence' (Granville): RN coll.: since ca. 1920.

astonish me! An educated, cultured c.p. used to encapsulate the idea 'Go on, then: surprise me', with the implication 'though I doubt very much that what you say will be a surprise': since early 1960s. (Derek Robinson, Rotten with Honour, 1973.) Cf. and contrast—2. In you astonish me!, an ironic c.p. meaning 'Well, that's pretty obvious, isn't it!': since ca. 1920.

astonisher. An exclamation mark: book-world's: from ca. 1925. Cf. synonym Christer.

astrologer. See conjurer.

astronomer. A horse that carries its head high: C.19. In C.18 called a star-gazer.—2. See TAVERN TERMS, §3, d.

astronomical. (Esp. in statistics and in sums of money) huge, immense: cultured coll.: since ca. 1938. In ref. to stellar distances and times, and owing much to the vogue of the popular works on astronomy by Eddington and Jeans.

asty! See arsty.

At. A member of the ATS, the [Women's] Auxiliary Territorial Service; as a vocalised acronym it sounded like a natural pl, and so a single member would just as naturally be an at: orig. (1939) military. (H. & P.) The ATS became the Women's Royal Army Corps on 1 Feb. 1949. (P.B.) Cf. Wren; Waaf. at. 'Operating something illegal.' (G.F. Newman, Sir, You Bastard, 1970, Glossary): police s.: since ca. 1950.—2. (Usu. with again.) Indulging once more in sexual intercourse: coll.: late C.19–20. (L.A.) "'Three minutes pleasure and nine months pain/another three months and we're at it again./It's a helluva life!" Says the Queen of Spain...' (anon.)

at least she won't die wondering. See she will die wondering.

at least two annas of dark blood, have. To be of mixed parentage, Eurasian: Anglo-Indian coll.:—1886 (Y. & B.); ob. by 1947. Cf. coffee-colour; touch of the tar-brush.

at that. (Estimated) at that rate or standard; even so; even so acting; in that respect; also; unexpectedly, or annoyingly, or indubitably; in addition; and, what's more; yet, however; in any case, anyway: US s. (from 1840s), anglicised ca. 1885; by 1900, coll. Keighley Goodchild, 1888, 'So we'll drain the flowing bowl, / I will not jeopardise the soul, / For it's only tea, and weak at that.' Perhaps ex 'cheap, or dear, at that price' (OED). But this phrase is so confusing to a foreigner and so little used in the Dominions, that other instances of its chameleonic use are required:—Charles Williams, The Greater Trumps, 1932, "'Try me and let me go if I fail. At that," she added with a sudden smile, "I think I won't fail";' Ibid., 'The nearest village to his grandfather's, Henry told them, and at that a couple of miles away.'

at the high port. At once; vigorously; unhesitatingly; very much; military: from ca. 1925. The name of the position in which a rifle is carried by a soldier who is 'doubling'—running; hence the idea of speed and dash.

at the Inn of the Morning Star. (Sleeping) in the open air: coll., rather literary, verging on S.E.: from ca. 1880; ob. Suggested by Fr. à la belle étoile.

atch. To arrest; tramps' c.:—1923 (Manchon). Ex Romany (?): but it may abbr. atchker, q.v.

atcha! All right! army: mid-C.19–mid-20. Ex Hindustani accha, good.

atchker. To arrest: central s. (—1923) on catch. Manchon.

atfler. A 'flat' (person): centre s.: from ca. 1860; †. Also as hatfler.

Āth, the. The Athenaeum Club: the world of learning, and that of clubs: C.20.

Athanasian wench. 'A forward girl, ready to oblige every man that shall ask her' (Grose): ca. 1700–1830. Var., quicunque vult (whosoever desires)—the opening words of the Athanasian Creed.

atheist. 'One who doesn't believe in COD [Concise Oxford Dictionary]', by an obvious pun on God: since ca. 1960, and never very gen. (Petch, 1968.)

Athenæum; gen. the Ā. The penis: cultured:—1903; very ob. (F. & H., rev.) Perhaps ex Athenæum, an association of persons meeting for mutual improvement.

Āthie. The Athenæum; printers':—1887; † by 1920. Baumann. -ation, as used in humorous neologisms, verges on the coll. E.g. hissation, a hissing.

atkins. See tommy, 4.

Atlantic ranger. A herring: coll.: from ca. 1880; ob. Var., sea-rover.

atmospheric. A coll. abbr. of atmospheric disturbances ('wireless'): 1928+; by 1935, almost S.E. Hence, fig., an irritable or quarrelsome or highly strung atmosphere: 1932+.

atom-bombo. Cheap but very potent wine: Aus.: since 1945. (B., 1953.) A pun on S.E. atom bomb and s. bombo, 2. atomaniaic; usually atomaniaics. People that would like to use the atom bomb on those they dislike: 1945+.

atomy. A very small, a small thin, a small deformed person: late C.16–19. Coll. by 1700; from mid-C.19, S.E.; ob. Ex anatomy, q.v. (var. ot(t)omy)—confused prob. by atom (W.) Shakespeare: 'Thou atomy, thou! ... you thin thing.' Sala: 'A miserable little atomy, more deformed, more diminutive, more mutilated than any beggar in a bowl.' Variants: natomy, nat(t)ermy.

atramentarius. See STONYHURST in Appendix. Lit. the 'Latin' word = filler of ink-stands.

atrocious. Very bad; execrable; very noticeable: coll.; from ca. 1830.—2. Adv. in -ly: 1831, Alford, 'The letter had an atrociously long sentence in it' (F. & H., rev.).

atrocity. A bad blunder; an offence against good taste, manners, or morals. 1878. OED.

Āts, the. See At.

Ātsie, -y. An affectionate var. of At (P-G-R.): Army: 1939–49, then nostalgic.

attaboy! Go it! US (—1917); anglicised in 1918. (F. & G.) The OED and Collinson derive it from that's the boy!, but possibly it represents at her, boy!, where her is sexless; prob., however, it is a corruption of the exclamatory US staboy recorded by Thornton. Dr Douglas Leechman, that eminent anthropologist and notable contributor to the Dict. of Can. English, wrote to me in 1969: 'Everybody, except the pundits, knows that this is "That's the boy"—"at's a boy"—"atta boy".'—2. Hence, an approbatory exclam. from ca. 1931, as in D.L. Sayers, Murder Must Advertise, 1933, "'Picture of nice girl bending down to put the cushion in the corner of the [railway] carriage. And the headline [of the advertisement]? "Don't let them pinch your seat." "Attaboy!" said Mr Bredon [Lord Peter Wimsey].'—3. (As Attaboy) an Air Transport Auxiliary 'plane or member: WW2, then nostalgic. (Jackson.) Suggested by the initials and punning on senses 1 and 2. See Ancient and Tattered ... attack. To address oneself to; commence. From ca. 1820, coll.; after ca. 1860, S.E. due to Gallic influence.

attack of the week's (or month's) end, an. Lack of funds, according as one is paid one's wages or salary every week or every month: joc. coll.: ca. 1890–1915. F. & H.

attend to. To thrash: coll.: from ca. 1880. Cf. L. animadvertere.

attention. In jump, or spring to ..., '(Of men) drill and parade terms used for erection: WW2' (L.A.): Services' joc.

attarise or -ize. To staff with ATS or a proportion of ATS; 'to man static gun sites with mixed batteries' (H. & P., 1943): military (orig. joc.). Cf. waferise and-attic. The head: pugilistic:—1823 (Bee; H., 1st ed.). From ca. 1850, attic-storey. By 1870 (Dean Alford) attic had > gen. Cf. upper storey, q.v.—2. Esp. (be) queer in the attic, weak-minded; rarely, mad: from ca. 1870. H., 5th ed. In C.20, occ. (have) rats in the attic (Lyll). Ex.—3. Orig. (–1859), queer in the attic=intoxicated: pugilistic; † by 1890. H., 1st ed.—4. The female pudend (attic only): low:—1903 (F. & H., rev.); ob. by 1930.—5. Top deck of a bus: busmen's: from ca. 1920. Daily Herald, 5 Aug. 1936.

Attory. Living quarters occupied by Ats: 1941–8. (H. & P.) See At.

attitude is the art of gunnery and whiskers make the man. C.p. applied to gunnery officers—also said to be 'all gas and gaiters'—by the rest of the RN: since ca. 1885. (R/Admi P.W. Brock.) Granville records h'attitude is the h'art ... as the lowerdeck version. See DCpp. for fuller treatment.

attorney. A goose or turkey drumstick, grilled and devilled: punning devil, a lawyer working for another: 1829, Griffin, 'I love a plain beef steak before a grilled attorney'; ob. (Attorney as a legal title was abolished in England in 1873.)—2. In c., a legal adviser to criminals: late C.19–20, ob.

Attorney General. See TAVERN TERMS, §4.

Attorney-General's devil. A barrister doing a KC's heavy work: ca. 1860–1920. Ware.

au reservoir! Au revoir. Orig. US, adopted ca. 1880 In C.20 often au rev.

au revoir but not goodbyes. In 'So it's ...' or 'Let's say ...': we are not parting for ever—we'll see each other again: coll.: since ca. 1910.

auction. See all over the auction.

auctioneer, deliver or give or tip (one) the. To knock a person down: ca. 1860–1930. Sala, 1863 (deliver); H., 5th ed. (tip). 'Tom Sayer's right hand was known to pugilistic fame as the auctioneer' (Sayers, d. 1865, fought from 1849 to 1860, in which latter year he drew, miraculously, with Heenan); Mancho.

audies. An ephemeral early name for motion-pictures with sound added: journalistic: 1928. (Miss Patricia Hughes, on BBC Radio 3, 26 Aug. 1980.) Cf. phonie, talkies.

audit. Abbr. audit ale, a brew peculiar to Trinity College, Cambridge, and several other Cambridge and Oxford colleges; made orig. for drinking on audit days: mid-C.19–20; coll. verging on S.E. Ouida, 1872.

audit (one's) accounts. See cash up (one's) accounts, 1, aufwiederchooce. 'A fairly recent BAOR corruption, a blending of "cheers" with aufwiedersehen, for "farewell!"' (Peter Jones, Kettering, 1978). Cf. Alf's peed again.

Aug. Coll. abbr. of August. See Feb.

Auguste. Orig. (later C.19), a 'feed' or stooge to the white-faced (chief) clown, 'Joey'; later C.20, the principal clown, 'fed' by the ring-master: circus. The name was brought, from the Continent, later C.19, by the clown Thomas Belling, who encouraged the audience to call out 'Auguste idiot!' when he fell over. Auguste is Fr. for a type of clown (Dict. Robert). (With thanks to Mr R. Barltrop; Mrs C. Raab.)

auld case or gib. An elderly man: Glasgow coll.:—1934. Ex gib, a tom-cat.

Auld Hornie. The Devil: mainly Scot.: C.18—early 20. Ex his horn.—2. The penis: Scot. low:—1903. A pun on horn, a priapism.

Auld Reekie. Orig., the old-town part of Edinburgh: late

C.18—ca. 1860; then the whole city: from ca. 1890, coll. Lit., 'Old Smoky'; cf. the (Great) Smoke, London.

auly-auly. (Winchester College) a game played ca. 1700–1840 in Grass Court after Saturday afternoon chapel. A collective game with an india-rubber ball. Supposedly ex haul ye, call ye, but, in view of Winchester's fame in Classics, prob. ex Gk. αὐλή, a court or a quadrangle.

aut. A procuress, a concubine, a prostitute: C.17—ca. 1830. Mine (or my) aunt, as in Grose, 1st ed. Shakespeare, 'Summer songs for me and my aunts,/While we lie tumbling in the hay.'—2. Also, at Oxford and Cambridge Universities, a students' name for 'the sister university': C.17–18. Fuller, 1755.—3. A children's coll. for a non-related woman (cf. uncle): C.19–20. Cf. the US usage (an aged negress as addressed by a child) and see auntie.—4. As the aunt, the women's lavatory: upper-class feminine: since ca. 1920. Ex:—5. In go to see (one's) aunt or auntie, to visit the w.c.: euph., mostly women's: from ca. 1850. Cf. Mrs Jones, which is occ. Aunt Jones (H., 5th ed.).—6. See if my aunt ...; my aunt! Aunt Fanny, (e.g. my or his). Indicates either disbelief or negation: since ca. 1930. Monica Dickens, Thursday Afternoons, 1945, 'She's got no more idea how to run this house than my Aunt Fanny.' Also as exclam. of disbelief, etc. A euph. elab. of fanny, the backside.—2. In you're like Aunt Fanny, a disparaging c.p. addressed to someone either clumsy or inexperienced with tools: workmen's: earlier C.20.

Aunt Maria. The female pudend: low:—1903 (F. & H., rev.).—2. A fire: rhyming s.: late C.19–20. Var. of Anna Maria. Franklyn 2nd.

Aunt Mary Anne. An occ. var. of san fairy ann: Services': WW1+.

Aunt Sally. A wicket-keeper: cricketers' joc. coll.: 1898 (W.J. Lewis).

Aunt Voss. The Vossische Zeitung (famous Ger. newspaper): 1915, Daily Mail, 22 Dec. (Van Wely.)

auntie, aunty. Coll. form of aunt: from ca. 1790. Also, like uncle, used by children for a friend of the house: C.19–20.—2. A 12-inch gun: military: 1915; ob.—3. See aunt, 5.

Auntie or Aunty. The British Broadcasting Corporation: since ca. 1945; by 1965, slightly ob. Short for Auntie BBC. In later C.20, also the Australian Broadcasting Commission (Wilkes). Ex respectability.—2. A mature man kindly—but from suspect tendencies—disposed towards younger men and boys: since ca. 1950 (2much earlier). In e.g., Laurence Little, The Dear Boys, a novel, 1958.—2. In don't be Auntie!, Don't be silly: Aus.: since ca. 1920. Prompted by 'Don't be Uncle Willie!' (B., 1959.) Cf. Uncle Willie, 1.

Auntie Adas. High rubber overboots, equipment now replaced by leather or plastic riding boots: motorcyclists'. (Dunford.) Mid-C.20: rhyming s. on waders.

Auntie Beef. See Auntie, 1, and Beeb, the.

Auntie (or auntie) Ella. An umbrella: rhyming s., 'used almost exclusively by women, at the suburban Cockney level' (Franklyn 2nd): since ca. 1946.

Auntie Flo. The Foreign Office: Civil Service, esp. the Diplomatic: C.20. Shane Martin, Twelve Girls in the Garden, 1957.

Auntie (or -y) May's. 'Long woollen stockings knitted for the Red Cross, etc., to be issued as "Comforts" to seamen on Russian convoys in WW2'—as in M. Brown, Scapa Flow, 1968. (Peppitt.)

Auntie (or auntie) Nellie. Belly: rhyming s.: C. 20. Franklyn 2nd.

auntie's (or -y's) ruin. A disreputable mess of a man, scheming and seedy: C.20; by 1975, virtually †. (Margery Allingham, More Work for the Undertaker, 1948.) Claiborne suggests, perhaps influenced by mother's ruin, q.v. aunt's sisters. Ancestors: London middle-class:—1909; virtually †. (Ware.) By pun.

aurev! Au revoir: from ca. 1920. Galsworthy, The White Monkey, 1924. Cf. au reservoir.

Aussie. Australia: from ca. 1895. An Australian: from ca. 1905. Both coll. and orig. Aus.; popularised by WW1. From 1914, also adj. Cf. digger, dinkum.

Aussie rules. Australian football: Aus. coll.: late C. 19–20. (B., 1942.) Played under Australian rules.

Aussieland. An occ. var., C.20, of Aussie, sense 1. Rare among Australians.

Austin Reed. In just a part of the Austin Reed service, I suppose?, included in the service, I presume?; all free?: a c.p. of 1936 based on a slogan (1935–) of the well-known men's clothiers.

Austin Seven. A 'class B Midland freight locomotive' (Railway, 2nd): (?)ca. 1950. Ex its appearance, resembling that of one of the smallest and most famous of the popular saloon cars of the mid-C.20.

Australasian, n. and adj. (An inhabitant) belonging to Australasia: no longer—since ca. 1925—used of either an Australian or a New Zealander. Cf. the fate of Anglo-Indian.

Australian adjective, the (often the great ...). 'Bloody': since late C.19. Wilkes.

Australian cigs. In UK, during the cigarette shortage of WW2, cigarettes kept under the counter: ca. 1940–5, then historical. By a pun on down under.

Australian days. Night-work: railwaymen's: C.20. McKenna, Glossary, p. 31.

Australian flag. A shirt-tail rucked up between trousers and waistcoat: Aus.: ca. 1870–1910.

Australian grip. A hearty hand-shake: Aus.: ca. 1885–1914: coll. [This entry appeared in the Dict., 1st ed.; in the Supp. E.P. added:] This may, as B., 1953 (p. 250), suggests, be a ghost-word: he has seen no record, outside dictionaries, not heard it used; come to that, neither have I. (Perhaps from an early piece of Ocker journalism? P.B.)

Australian mystery; occ. mystery of Australia. 'In my 1918 diary, ... the only war service one I was able to keep with any regularity ... I use these terms for the quince jam we were issued with from time to time. It must have come from Australia ... a novelty to the majority of us [Tommys] and was a welcome change from plum[-]and[-]apple' (Petch, Feb. 1969): (1917–)1918.

Australian salute, the. 'The movement of the hand in brushing away flies' (Wilkes): Aus.: later C.20.

Australian surfing and Australian later C.20 underworld terms. See Appendix.

Australorp. The Australian 'utility type of Black Orpington fowl' (B., 1959): Aus. coll.: since ca. 1930. A blend of Australian Orpington'.

autem, a church, mid-C.16–18 c., is the parent of many other c. terms, e.g. autem bawler, a parson; autem cackler, a Dissenter or a married woman; autem-cackle tub, a Dissenters' meeting-house or a pulpit; autem dipper or diver, a Baptist or a pickpocket specialising in churches; autem gog(g)ler, a pretended prophet, or a conjuror; autem jet, a parson; autem prickear, see autem cackler; autem quaver, a Quaker; and autem-quaver tub, a Quakers' meeting-house or a desk therein. Perhaps essentially 'altar': cf. Old Fr.—MF.—modern Fr. autel: with -em substituted for -el. In c. of C.16–18, -am and -em and -om and -um are common suffixes. (Developed from a suggestion made by Alexander McQueen.)

autem, adj. Married, esp. in the two c. terms, autem cove, a married man, and autem mort, a married woman: C.17–18. Perhaps ex altham (q.v.), a wife.

author-baiting. Summoning an unsuccessful dramatist before the curtain: theatrical, ca. 1870–1900.

auto. Abbr. automobile: 1899; coll.; S.E. by 1910 but never gen. Ex Fr. SOD.—2. An automatic revolver: since ca. 1915. Pawnshop Murder. More usu. automatic, q.v.

autom, autum. Var. of autem.

automatic. Abbr. automatic revolver: C.20; coll. > S.E. Esp. in WW1.

autumn. (The season or time of) an execution by hanging: low: mid-C.19–20; ob. H., 2nd ed.

avast! Hold on! Be quiet! Stop!: nautical: C.17–20; coll. > by late C.19, S.E. Prob. ex Dutch hou'vast, hold fast.

avast heaving there! 'Stop pulling my leg!': RN lowerdeck: late C.19—mid 20. (W.G. Carr.)

avaunt, give the. To dismiss (a person): late C.16—early 17. (Shakespeare.) Ex avaunt!, be off! (C.15+).

'ave a bit o' gatto! Lit., a piece of cake (Fr. gâteau), it became a mostly Cockney c.p. 'A take-off by Londoners who don't have the status' of French-speaking gentility.

'ave a Jew boy's. Weight: joc. Cockney: from ca. 1910. Punning avoirdupois and often directed at a fat man.

Ave Maria. A fire: rhyming s.: late C.19–20. More usu. Anna Maria.

avec. Spirits: Western Front military: 1917–18. (F. & G.) Ex Fr. café avec (coffee with—gen., rum).

avenue. Possibility, as in explore every avenue, to try all possible means: C.20; mainly political, journalistic, and commercial: soon > coll.; perhaps soon to > S.E.

average man, the. The ordinary person: C.19–20; coll. > S.E. Cf. the man in the street (s.v. street).

avering. A boy's begging naked to arouse compassion: c.: late C.17—early 18. (Kennett, 1695, has also go a-avering.) ?ex aver, to declare (it) true.

aviate. To fly, esp. to fly showily, ostentatiously: RAF: since 1938 or 1939 in the latter nuanse, since ca. 1936 in the former; joc. and resp. mildly or intensely contemptuous. (Jackson.) Ex aviator.

avit. See PRISONER-OF-WAR SLANG, 12, in Appendix.

avoirdupois. Obesity: joc. coll.; late C.19–20.

avoirdupois lay. The thieving of brass weights from shop counters: late C.18—mid-19 c. Grose, 2nd ed.

avuncular relation or relative. A pawnbroker: facetiously coll., ca. 1860–1900. Sala, in 1859, speaks of pawnbroking as avuncular life.

'aw, shit lootenant!' – an' the lootenant shat. Borrowed by the British Army from the US Army, a scornful c.p. used by 'the other ranks' to describe ineffective and easily brow-beaten subalterns; it is usually enough simply to quote the first half of the phrase: US prob. since ca. 1942, perhaps earlier; British since latish 1950s. (P.B.)

aw shucks! 'The conventional U.S. and American expression of yokel embarrassment. "Aw shucks! I couldn't say that to a lady!": since ca. 1910—and, as used by others than yokels, often joc. and always a c.p. (Leechman.)

awake. To inform, let know: from mid-1850s; ob. 'Ducange Anglicus', 1st ed.

awaste. A c. form of avast as in bing avast, q.v.

AWED. Erroneous for way: C.17–18. Hakluyt, Smollett.

OAD.—2. In imperatives, e.g. say away, it gives to the phrase a coll. tinge: C.17 (?earlier)—20. Galsworthy, 1924, 'Baise [kiss] away!' P.B.: Galsworthy was prob. punning the title of the march 'Blaze Away!—3. To depart: theatrical: ca. 1905–14. (Ware.) Ex melodramatic away!' P.B.: since mid-C.20 at latest > gen. (usu. joc.) coll., as in 'Well, I must away!—4. In prison: low London:—1909 (Ware). By euph.—5. See have it away and the entries following that one.

away all lefts. 'Deprived of badges' (Knock): RN lowerdeck: late C.19—mid 20. Rank, skill and good conduct badges are worn on the left sleeve; perhaps orig. by a pun on the order 'Away all boats!'

away for slates or away like a mad dog. (Adj. and adv.) Departing hastily: Liverpool: C.20. Cf. off like a longdog, the Sussex version.

away racing. Absent at a race-course: coll., in London's East End: since ca. 1945. Richard Herd, 1957.

away with the mixer! Let's go ahead; now we're going ahead: c.p.: since ca. 1946. A concrete-mixer?

away the trip. Pregnant: Scottish working-classes': C.20.

away you go—laughing! 'Mockery of one who suffers misfortune, duty, like a burden. I noted it post WW2, but I think it went back perhaps to WW1' (L.A.).

aweer. Aware: London sol. or, rather, Cockney low coll.: —1887 (Baumann).

awful, esp. a penny awful. A 'penny dreadful', a blood-and-thunder tale. Ca. 1860–1900.

awful, adj. A catch-intensive. Apparently C.18 Scottish, then US (see Bartlett), and ca. 1840 adopted in England. Lamb, 1834: 'She is indeed, as the Americans would express it, something awful.' Coll., as is the adv. awful(ly) = very: mid-C.19–20. In 1859 occurs awfully clever; Punch satirised it in 1877 in the phrase, 'it's too awfully nice'; P.G. Wodehouse, 1907 (see frightfully); Lyell, 1931, 'We had awful fun at my brother's party.' Cf. Society's post-WWI use of grim for 'unpleasant'. F. & H.: OED.

awful people, the; Mr Cochran's young ladies in blue. The police, as in 'Then the awful people arrived': cultured: since ca. 1945, by 1960, the latter slightly ob.

awful place, the. Dartmoor Prison: c. dating from the late 1890s.

awfully. See awful, adj.

'Awklns. A severe man; one not to be trifled with: Cockney: ca. 1880–1900. (Ware.) Ex Judge Sir Henry Hawkins, reputed to be a 'hanging' judge.

awkward. Pregnant: euph.: late C.19–early 20. (F. & H., rev.) Cf. bumpy.

awkward as a Chow on a bike. 'Extremely awkward in behaviour. Chow denotes Chinaman' (B., 1959): Aus.: since ca. 1925.

awkward squad. Recruits, esp. a segregated group of recruits, commencing to learn to drill or having their drill improved: Services', from ca. 1870; coll. by 1890; j. by WW1.

awls. See pack up (one's awls ...)

awry. See tread the shoe awry.

axe, n. As the axe, reduction of expenses, mainly in personnel, in the public services: since 1922; later extended to cuts also in the private sector.—2. Hence, the axe, a body of officials (quis custodiet ipsos custodes) effecting these reductions: coll., from 1922; 1 and 2 S.E. by 1925, and both ex the Geddes axe, that reduction of public-service expenses which was recommended in 1922 by Sir Eric Geddes, who aimed at the size of the various staffs: recorded in 1923: coll.; by 1925, S.E. and historical. Prob. ex:—3. In get or give the axe, to be dismissed, or to dismiss, from employment: coll. until ca. 1945, then S.E. Cf. get the chop.—4. In put the axe in the helve, to solve a doubt: coll.; proverbial: C.16–early 20. Cf. send the axe ..., q.v. at send the helve ...—5. See where the chicken ...

axe, v. To reduce expenses by means of 'the axe': coll. from 1923, > by 1925, S.E. SOD.

axe my arse (, you can). A verbal snook-cocking: low: mid-C.18–mid-C.20. Here axe = ask.

axe-my-eye, n. A very alert fellow: cheapjacks': ca. 1850–1910. Hindley.

axe (or axes) to grind. Ulterior motive(s), gen. selfish: coll.: adopted, ca. 1840, ex US. At first of politics, it soon widened in applicability; by 1850, moreover, it had > S.E.

axe-grease. Butter: See grease, n., 5.—2. Money: Aus.: since ca. 1925. B., 1943.—3. Thick hair-oil; Brilliantine: mostly Aus. schoolchildren's and teenagers': since late 1930. (B.P.) And British too: id. (P.B.) 'ay is for 'orses. See hay is for horses.

ay thang yew! I thank you!: the comedian Arthur Askey's c.p. from the radio programme 'Band Wagon' in the late 1930s. See DCpp.

aye, aye, that's yer lot. And that's all—that's the end of the music-hall turn; a comedian's tag, converted by the public into a c.p. with a much wider application. Jimmy Wheeler was the last to use it as part of his 'patter'. See DCpp.

Ayrab. See genoowine Bedoowine ...

Ayrshires. Glasgow and South-Western Railway shares: Stock Exchange from ca. 1880.

Aztec two-step, the. 'The condition known as "travellers' diarrhoea"' (Dr Tony Duggan, 1979): gen. among those who suffer the ailment: 1970s. A later var. of Montezuma's revenge.

b. A bug; coll.: from ca. 1860. Also b flat: 1836 (F. & H., rev.). Ex the insect's initial letter and appearance.—2. In c., abbr. blue, n., 4, q.v., a policeman.—3. A euph. for bastard, n. and adj., and also for bloody, adj.: Aus.: since ca. 1920. 'You'd think the b. lion'd sleep sometimes' (H. Drake Brockman, 'Life Saver', 1939, in Sydney, or the Bush, 1948). P.B.: also some Brit. usage, as in, e.g. 'What a b. nuisance the man is!': perhaps all C.20.—4. See A1, 2; bee; b. and s.
B.A. Buenos Aires: nautical coll.: late C.19–20. W. McFee, The Beachcomber, 1935. Since mid-C.20, more gen. and widespread.—2. See Sweet B.A. where B.A. = bugger all = nothing.
b. and m. A mixture of brown ale and mild bitter: spivs': since late 1940s. (Picture Post, 2 Jan. 1954, article on young spivs.) Cf:—
b. and s., b. and S. Brandy and soda: Whyte-Melville, 1868: s. >, ca. 1890, coll. The b is occ. separable, as in 'Give me some B in my S' (Baumann, 1887).
B.B. Gen. pl B.B.s. A bluejacket: RN: C. 20. (F. & G.) Ex 'British Blue', with a non-drawing-room pun.—2. Bloody bastard: C.20.—3. A 'bum boy', q.v.: low: C.20.—4. A bust bodice: feminine coll.: since ca. 1920.—5. A bitter and Burton: public houses': late C.19–20. Fortnightly Review, Aug. 1937.
b.b.a. Born before arrival: medical students': C.20. Slang, p.189.
B.B.C. The British Broadcasting Corporation (founded ca. 1924): coll.: by 1933, S.E.—2. Any broadcasting corporation: 1933 (Daily Telegraph, early Aug.): coll.—3. As the B.B.C., the 2.10 a.m. freight express train from London to Wolverhampton: railwaymen's joc.: from ca. 1929. (Daily Telegraph, 15 Aug. 1936.) It passes through Basingstoke, Birmingham, and Crewe. Cf. the Bacca.—4. See talk BBC.
b.c. A person bringing a wholly inadequate action for libel: from ca. 1870. Ex the bloody cat of an actual lawsuit. †
B.C. See anno domini.
B.C. play. A Classical drama: theatrical: 1885; very ob. (Ware.) I.e. before Christ.
b.d.v. or B.D.V. A picked-up stump of a cigarette: tramps' c.: from ca. 1920. Lit., a bend-down Virginia; punning B.D.V., a brand of tobacco. Also called a stooper.
B.E.F. will all go home – in one boat, the. A (mainly) officers' c.p.: ca. 1916–18. The BEF = British Expeditionary Force, the British Army that fought in France and Flanders, WW1. See DCpp.
B.E.M.s. 'Bug-eyed monsters', a derogatory epithet for a certain genre of 'pulp' science-fiction: since ca. 1955, the full phrase; the use of initials, soon afterwards. Cf. little green men. (E.W. Bishop, 1977.) Patrick Moore, the astronomer, in Survey of the Moon, 1965, writes the Bems. Claiborne, 1976, notes that, as Bems, 'it was current among US science-fiction "fen" (i.e. "fans") as early as 1940s.'
b.f. or B.F. Bloody fool: coll. euph.: C.20; rare before WW1. Lyell.
B.F.N. 'Bye for now!': since ca. 1940. (Petch). Cf. T.T.F.N., Ta-ta for now, 'Mrs Mopp's' famous farewell—c.p. in the Tommy Handley radio-comedy show 'Itma', dating from the same time.
b flat. See b, 1.
B-flat homey; B-flat polone (or palone). A fat man, a fat woman, esp. in a side-show: partly Parlyaree, wholly fair-ground: late C.19–20. Lester.

B from a battledore or a broomstick or a bull's foot. See KNOW, in Appendix.

b.h. A bank holiday: non-U coll.: ca. 1880–1930.—2. Bloody hell: 1928 (OED Sup.). Also bee aitch.—3. 'Bung-hole', i.e. cheese: army: from ca. 1918; † by 1950 at latest.

b.i.d. Brought in dead (to the hospital): medical students': C.20. Cf. b.b.a.

b.k.s. 'Military officers in mufti, when out on the spree, and not wishing their profession to be known, speak of their barracks as the B.K.s' (H., 3rd ed., 1864); ob. by 1930.

B.M. Abbr. B.M.W. (Bayerische Motoren Werke) motorcycle, in production since 1923: motorcyclists'. (Dunford.) Also Be Em.

b.n. Bloody nuisance: coll. euph.: earlier C.20. Cf. b.f.; b.p.n.

B.N.C. Brasenose College, Oxford: from ca. 1840: coll. >, by 1900, j. Cf. Brazen Nose College, q.v.

B.O. Body odour: advertisers', and hence gen.: since ca. 1950. (P.B.)—2. (As an imperative.) Run away (and stop bothering me!): since ca. 1955: abbr. of bugger off!

b.o.f. Boring old fart: adolescents' term of abuse and contempt for most people older than themselves: from later 1970s; the full term, more widespread. D. Hebdige, Subcultures, 1979. (P.B.)

B.O.L.T.O.P. See LOVERS' ACRONYMS, in Appendix.

B.P. The British Public: theatrical (1867) >, by 1910, gen. coll. (Ware.) P.B.: in C.20 usu. G.B.P., the Great ...; often ironic.

b.p.n. A bloody public nuisance: earlier C.20. Cf. b.f.

B.Q. Before queues: 1944 (Fred Bason's Second Diary, pub. 1952); soon ob.

b.r. or B.R. A bedroom steward, in the First Class of a passenger liner: nautical: C.20. Bowen.

b.s. A euph. for bullshit, q.v.: 'goes back at least to 1908 in British Columbia' (Leechman).

B.S.H.s. British Standard Handful—a woman's breasts: raffish joc.: later C.20. (Powis.) A pun on BSIs, the coll. ref. to the standards laid down by the British Standards Institution.
B-squared. A brassiere: schoolgirls': since late 1930s. Mallory Wober, English Girls' Boarding Schools, 1971.

b.t.m. A coll. domestic euph. for bottom (buttocks): since late C.19.

b.y.t. 'Bright young things' or the younger set: ca. 1946–51.

ba-ha. Bronchitis: tailors': from the 1890s; ob. by 1935. By deliberate slurring.

baa-baa. A sheep: nursery coll.: C.19–20. Ex the sheep's bleat. Cf. bow-wow, cock-a-doodle(-doo), moo-cow, quack-quack.—2. In go baa-baa (black sheep), to bar the favourite: turf s.: —1932. (Slang, pp. 242, 246.) There is, further, an allusion to the nursery rhyme.

Baa-Baas, the. The Barbarian Rugby Football team: sporting: from ca. 1924.

baa cheat. A sheep: c.: C.18. Anon., Street-Robberies Consider'd (ba cheat), 1728. Lit., 'baa'-thing.

baa-lamb. A lamb (cf. baa-baa, q.v.): nursery coll.: C.19–20.—2. (with capitals) HMS Barham: RN: C.20.—3. A tram: C.20. Rhyming.—4. A euph. for bastard: since ca. 1918. baal! See bale.

baas. A master, a manager, a head man of any sort: S. African coll.: 1785, Sparman, A Voyage to the Cape of Good Hope ... from 1772 to 1776. Ex Dutch baas, master, foreman. Pettman.—2. The term of address to the skipper of a Dutch ship: nautical coll.: C.19–20. Bowen.

Bab, the. The Straits of Bab-el-Mandeb: nautical: C.17–18. W.—2. See:—

baba. A coll., gen. a child's, var. of papa: C.19–20. In late C.16–17, bab.—2. In Anglo-Indian coll., a child. Ex Turki baba influenced by our baby. Y. & B. babbie, babby, vocative. Baby: coll.: late C.19–20. Ex C.16–20 dial.

babbling. Aus. and Brit. var. of babbling brook, 1: WW1 military > gen.

babbling, vbl n. Cooking: Aus.: later C.20. Ex prec. and next. Wilkes.

babbling brook, n. A cook: rhyming s.: C.20. Aus. and Brit. (B. & P.; Wilkes). Cf. prec.—2. A criminal: id., on crook: later C.20. Aus. and Brit. (E.P.); Rhyming Cockney Slang, ed. Jack Jones, 1971).

babbling brook, adj. Unwell: Aus. rhyming s., on synonym. crook: since ca. 1920. Cf. n., 2.

babe. The latest-elected member of the House of Commons: opp. father of the house. Parliamentary coll.: from ca. 1870.—2. See kiss the babe; babes.

habe in the wood. A criminal in the stocks or the pillory: late C.18—early 19. Grose, 1st ed.—2. In C.20, the pl = dice.

babe of grace. Bee defines the pl as 'sanctified-looking persons, not so': fast society: ca. 1820–40.

babes. A gang of disreputables that, at an auction, forbear to bid against the bigger dealers; their reward drinks and/or cash. From ca. 1860 ob. (H., 2nd ed.) Cf. knock-outs, q.v.—2. As the Babes, Charlton Athletic Association Football Club: sporting: from ca. 1925. It is the youngest London club.

Babies; Baby Wee-Wees. Buenos Aires Water Works shares: Stock Exchange: from ca. 1870. The shorter ex the longer, which combines an acrostic with a pun on Water Works and wee-wee (urination).

babies' cries. A var. of baby's cries, q.v. babies' heads. See baby's head.

baboon. Fig. for a person: like ape, this is in C.20 considered low coll.

Babsky. A wind-swept part of Liverpool: Liverpool: 1886. (Ware.) I.e. Bay o' Biscay.

Babus, The. The Royal Army Pay Corps: a nickname sometimes bestowed upon them by soldiers who had served in India. (Carew): (?)late C.19—mid-20. Ex Hindustani. Y. & B., 'the word has come often to signify "a native clerk who writes English".'

baby. A twopenny bottle of soda-water: public house: ca. 1875–1900. (Ware.) Since that period, the term has been applied to various other small bottles, notably, in the later C.20, to the popular 'Babycham'.—2. A girl; sweetheart: not unknown in English fast, sporting circles of ca. 1895–1910 (witness Binstead's More Gals Gossip, 1901). Later usage, since ca. 1930, perhaps boosted by American films.—3. The R.N.A.S. small Sopwith aeroplane in the early days of the war: RN: 1914–16. Bowen.—4. As the baby, a diamond-mining sifting machine: Vaal River coll.:—1886; ob. by 1930. Ex Babe, its American inventor. Pettman, who notes baby, v., to sift ground with this machine: from mid-1880s.—5. See burying the baby; hand over the baby; have kittens; holding the baby; send a baby on an errand.

Baby Act. See pled the Baby Act.

baby and nurse. 'A small bottle of soda-water and twopennyworth of spirit in it' (Ware): public-house: ca. 1876–1900. Cf. baby, 1.

baby blues. The postnatal depression unhappily suffered by some new mothers: coll.: since mid-1970s. An article on the subject appeared thus titled in New Society, 5 Apr. 1979 (P.B.).

baby bonus. A maternity allowance: Aus. coll.: since ca. 1945. (B.P.) 'Common in Canada also; Family Allowance Act passed in 1944' (Leechman).

baby bunting. An old coll. endearment. See bunting.

baby couldn't help it. Minced meat and brown sauce: Marlborough College: from ca. 1920.

baby crying, the. The bugle-call to defaulters: army: late C.19—early 20. (F. & G.) Cf. angel's whisper, 1.

baby-farmer or -stealer. A male or a female courter or lover of one much younger, very young: C.20. Cf. baby-snatcher, now, later C.20, the more usual term.

baby-maker. The penis: euph. joc.: late C.19—early 20.

baby- or baby's-pap. A cap: (mostly underworld) rhyming slang: ca. 1855–1900. 'Ducange Anglicus', 1857.

baby on an errand. See send a baby ...

baby-pulling. Obstetrics: medical students': since ca. 1880.

baby services, the. The pre-service boys' military cadet corps: SCC; ACF; ATC; and CCF: coll.: Services': 1970s. (Peppitt). An 'in' term.

baby-snatcher. One who marries a person much younger: joc. coll.:—1927 (Collinson). Hence, also, v. and vbl n., baby-snatch and baby-snatching. Cf. baby-farmer.

baby spot. See MOVING-PICTURE SLANG, in Appendix.

baby wants a pair of shoes; also, in Aus., ... a new pair ... A dicing gamblers' c.p. of C.20: orig. underworld, esp. in prisons; by 1940, also fairly gen.

Baby Wee-Wees. See Babies.

Babylon. The Establishment, esp. the police: the latter, among hippy communes and West Indian Cockneys; the former, in the higher journalism and other forms of the media: Since ca. 1974. (R.S., 1975 and 1976; Powis, 1977.)

babylon(it)ish. C.19 Winchester College for a dressing-gown: ex Babylon(it)ish garment.

baby's bottom. In smooth as a, or like a, baby's ..., very smooth and pink, esp. of a face after shaving: coll.: C.20. Mrs Camilla Raab recalls 'smooth as a ...', a slogan referring to a make of pipe tobacco, mid-C.20. Sidney Morgan, Cardiff, 1977, notes the Welsh var. ... bum.—2. Only as like a baby's bottom: expressionless; characterless: since ca. 1925. (L.A.) Cf., for the first nuance, the synonym po-faced.

baby's cries. Eyes: rhyming s.: from ca. 1920. A. Hyder, Black Girl, White Lady, 1934.

baby's done it. One of the names for the number two in TOMBOLA, q.v. in Appendix.

baby's head. A steak-and-kidney pudding: RN, and soon more gen.: C.20. F. & G., 'Suggested by its smooth, round appearance.' Still current, later C.20. witness John Winton, in an article about RN nuclear submariners, Illustrated London News, Oct. 1976, p. 73.

baby's leg. Meat roll; marmalade roll; roly-poly pudding: Army: late C.19–20. (Michael Harrison, Reported Safe Arrival, 1943.) Cf. baby's head. Also at girls' schools: teste Berta Ruck, 1935.

baby's pap. A cap. See baby-pap.

baby's pram. Jam: rhyming s.: C.20. (L.A., 1978.)

baby's public-house. The female breast: proletarian: 1884, The Referee, 5 Oct. Ware.

baby's yellow. (Mainly infantile) excrement: nursery coll.: C.19–20. Cf. gipsy's ginger.

bacca, bacco, baccy (or with k for second c). Tobacco: low coll.: bacca occurs in the L.L.G., 28 June 1823; bacco is recorded in bacco-box as early as 1793 in 'The Token', a poem by Charles Dibdin, on p. 249 of the Britannic Magazine, I, no. 8.; and baccy occurs in Fredk. Marryat, The King's Own, 1830. Both backy and backey occur in The Night Watch (II, 131 and 159) of 1828, and in Wight's More Mornings at Bow Street, 1827. (All these citations are noted with thanks to Col. Albert Moe.) Cf. backer.

Bacca, the. The express goods-train carrying tobacco (including cigarettes) from Bristol to London: railwaymen's: from ca. 1910. (Daily Telegraph, 15 Aug. 1936.) Cf. the Biscuit, the Flying Pig, the Leek, the Magic Carpet, the Sparagras, the Spud; also the Early Bird, the Early Riser, the Farmer's Boy, the Feeder, and the Mopper Up. These railwaymen's nicknames were recognised as official in the GWR's Guide to Economical Transport, issued in August 1936.

bacca, more gen. baccy-box. The mouth; the nose: low: —1923 (Manchon). Ex bacca.

bacca- or bacco-chew. A chewing tobacco: coll.: prob. late C.18–20. Ex an unidentified British source, The Port Folio of 28 Aug. 1805, quotes an anonymous song, Dustman Bill, thus: 'Cries he, "My Wenches, ever dear, /Whate'er be your opinions, /I love ye better both, d'ye hear, /Than bacco-chew or onions"' (Moe).

bacca firm. A small group that deals in tobacco: RN lowerdeck: ca. 1880–1930. (Knock.) A practice not unknown in long-term prisons.

bacca-pipes. Whiskers curled in ringlets (–1880; † by 1890).

baccare!, backare! Go back, retire! Ca. 1540–1680. Heywood; Udall; Lyly; Shakespeare, 'Baccare! you are marvellous forward'; Howell, 1659. (Apperson.) Joc. on back: perhaps Latinised or Italianised back there. OED.

Bacchus. A set of Latin verses written on Shrove Tuesday at Eton: ?C.18–early 19: coll. at Eton College. Ex the verses there written, on that day, in praise or dispraise of Bacchus. Anon., Etoniana, 1865.

bacco, baccy. See bacca.

bach, n. A bachelor: in US in 1850s; anglicised ca. 1900. Ware prefers bache. Cf.:—2. 'Camelford's residence was not in a boarding-house, but what is generally known in the Antipodes as a "bach" (or a "batch", if you prefer to maintain fiercely that the word is derived, not from the first syllable of the word "bachelor", but from the idea of a number of similar things being grouped together)'—Frank Arthur, The Suva Harbour Mystery, 1941: Aus., NZ, Fijian: C.20. Cf. chum-mery.—3. Hence, a holiday cottage: NZ, esp. the North Island: later C.20. (Margaret Moore, 1980.) See crib.

bach, often batch, v. To live by oneself, doing one's own work; orig. like a bachelor. Ex US; anglicised ca. 1890. Cf. the n., 2. An early Aus. example occurs in Edward Dyson, The Gold Stealers, 1901, 'Here he "batched", perfectly content with his lot.'

bachelor. See town bull is a ... ; (also bachelor of law) TAVERN TERMS, §3b, in Appendix.

Bachelor Creek. See Dodd's Sound.

bachelor's baby. An illegitimate child: coll.: mid-C.19–20. Whiteing, 1899, Ray, ca. 1670, and Grose, 1788, have bachelor's (or batchelor's) son.

bachelors' buttons. Buttons with small rings on the back, that can be fastened to a garment with a nail or matchstick, as a 'temporary' measure, to avoid the chore of sewing: C.20. Brewer's Dict. of Phrase and Fable, 1970 ed., defines them as 'a type of press-stud'—but the key point is the avoidance of needle and thread. (P.B.)

bachelor's fare. Bread, cheese, and kisses: C.18–19. Swift, ca. 1708 (published 30 years later). 'Lady... Some ladies... have promised to breakfast with you...; what will you give us? Colonel. Why, faith, madam, bachelor's fare, bread and cheese and kisses'; Grose, 3rd ed.

bacher. Var. of batcher.

back, n. A water-closet: domestic: late C.19–20. From the days of backyard privies.—2. In get on (someone's) back, to bully; to urge on: Aus.: since ca. 1925. (B., 1959.)—3. Hence, get off (someone's) back, to cease from nagging or criticising or urging, as in the exasperated 'Get off my back, will you!': since ca. 1930. (Common also in US.)—4. In on (one's) back, penniless; utterly puzzled: late C.19–20. Nautically, on the bones of (one's) back (Bowen).—5. In be on (someone's) back about, to reprimand concerning, speak sternly to about (something): Aus.: since ca. 1910. "You know bloody well you're supposed to re-stock as soon as you run low on anything," said Billy. "The doc was on your back about this before"' (Jon Cleary, Back of Sunset, 1959). Cf. sense 2.—6. In that's what gets up my back!, that's what angers me: c.p.: since ca. 1930. See also back-up, adj., and get up (one's) back.—7. See break the neck or back of.—8. In at the back, 'where one drug is taken after another' (Dr T.H. Bewlay): addicts': later C.20.

back, v. To support by a bet, was perhaps orig. (C.17) coll., but OED and SOD—rightly, one suspects—treat it as always S.E.

back a tail. To commit sodomy: Aus. low: later C.20. McNeil.

Back-ah-yard. The Caribbean generally; an expression, roughly translated as "back home", used by homesick West Indians' (Powis, 1977). Cf. the American and Aus. use of yard for what the British call 'garden'.

back and belly. All over: C.18–19 familiar coll. Keep one b. and b., C.18–19 coll.; adumbrated in C.16.

back and fill. See backing and filling.

back-biter. See bosom friends...

back board. A distant signal: railwaymen's: C.20. (Railway, 2nd.) Cf. back stick below.

back-breaker. A person setting, or a thing being, a task beyond normal endurance: C.18–20 coll. The adj., back-breaking, gen. goes with job or work.

back-breakers. 'Old-fashioned ship's pumps': nautical: late C.19–20. (Bowen.) A special application of the prec.

back-chat. A var. of back-talk, q.v.: 'A slang term applied to saucy or impertinent replies' (Pettman): S. African (—1901) and (? hence) Aus. and Brit. By ca. 1950 much more usu. than back-talk.

back-cheat. A cloak: C.18–early 19: c. See cheat.

back-cloth star. An actor or actress that plays up-stage, thus forcing the others to turn their backs to the audience: theatrical:—1935.

back door, a gentleman or an usher of the. A sodomist: mid-C.18–20, ob. (Grose, 1st ed.) Hence back-door work, sodomy. Cf. backgammon-player.

back(-)door (or solid) entry. 'The gaining of a commission in the Army by any means other than by passing through the Royal Military Academy, Sandhurst. The term was certainly in common use in the mid-1920s. I suspect not before WW1, as the only entry, as far as I know, other than through RMA/RMC [Royal Mil. College, Woolwich] was through the Militia' (Brig. Pat Hayward, letter to P.B., 1978).

back-door trot. Diarrhoea: from ca. 1870; orig. dial. Cf. Jerry-go-nimble, and trots, 3.

back-door trumpet. A mid-C.19–20 var. of ars musica, q.v.

back double. A back street: Cockney: late C.19–20. (Gerald Kersh, Night and the City, 1938; David Powis, Signs of Crime, 1977.) Ex double, n., 4.

back down, often a square-back-down. An utter collapse; complete surrender of claims: from early 1880s: coll. >, by 1920, S.E.—2. A severe rebuff: from ca. 1890.

back down, v. To yield, to retire: from ca. 1880: coll. >, by 1910, S.E. Ex US (1849: OED).

back duck (usually in pl). A piece of fried bread: RN (lowerdeck): C.20. (Granville.) Ironic.

back-ender. 'A horse entered for a race late in the season' (F. & H.): racing coll.: ca. 1889. Ex back-end, the last two months of the horse-racing season.

back garden. The end pages of a magazine, devoted to advertisements inserted between columns of "spill over" from articles and stories in the front of the "book" (Leechman): Can. publishers' and journalists': since ca. 1910.

back-hair part. A role 'in which the agony of the performance at one point in the drama admits of the feminine tresses in question floating over the shoulders': theatrical: 1884; ob. by 1920, † by 1930. Ware.

back-hairing. 'Feminine fighting, in which the occipital locks suffer severely' (Ware): London streets:—1909.

back-hand. To drink more than one's share: ca. 1850–1910. In G. A. Lawrence's best novel, Guy Livingstone, 1857, it occurs as a vbl n., back-handing.—2. back-hand! Get out of the way!: ships' stokers' c.p.: C.20.

back-handed. Indirect; unfair: from ca. 1815: coll. >, by 1880, S.E. Dickens, 1865, has a back-handed reminder. Cf. back-hander, 3, q.v.

back-handed turn. An unprofitable transaction: Stock Exchange, ca. 1870–1914.

back-hander. A drink either additional or out of turn: coll.: ca. 1850–1900. Ex:—2. A blow with the back of the hand: coll. >, by 1870, S.E.: 1836, Marryat; Farrar.—3. Hence, a rebuke: ca. 1860–1900 (e.g. in Whyte-Melville): coll. >, by 1900, S.E. Cf. back-handed, q.v.—4. A tip or bribe made surreptitiously: since ca. 1915. In later C.20 usu. written solid, as in, e.g. Steven Piper, The North Ships, 1974. Cf. backhanding, and back of the hand..., q.v.

back-handing. See back-hand and contrast backhanding.
back in circulation is applied to a female jilted or divorced or widowed and therefore free from a male tie: coll.: since ca. 1945.

back in your box! See get back into...

back is up, — Sir, I see somebody has offended you, for you. A jeering c.p. addressed to a hump-backed man: ca. 1780–1850. (Grose, 1st ed.) See back up, adj.

back-jump. To enter (e.g. a house) by a back door or window: c. from ca. 1855. (H., 1st ed.) Ex:—2. A back window: c.: —1812 (Vaux). Because one jumps from it in escape.

back-mark. See back-marked.—2. Hence to outdistance (easily): sporting: 1928 (OED Sup.).

back-marked, be. To have one's athletic handicap reduced: late C.19–20 coll., ob. Rare in active voice.

back number. (Of a person) a 'has been': coll.: US (1890: OED Sup.) anglicised ca. 1905; by 1935, S.E. Prob. ex the back numbers of periodicals.

Back Numbers, the. The 28th Foot, in late C.19–20 the Gloucestershire Regiment: military: C.19–20. Ex the sphinx worn, as distinction for services at the Battle of Alexandria, 1801, on both the back and the front of the helmet until 1881. (F. & G.) The tradition continues (1979): a small replica of the regimental badge is still worn at the back of the beret.

back o' me hand to ye!, the. An Anglo-Irish retort: c.p.: late C.19–20. Euphemistic?

back o' the green. Behind the scenes: theatrical and music-halls': ca. 1880–1910. Ware, with reference to the green curtain and in imperfect rhyme on scenes.

back of (one's) arse, on the. Aus. var. of back, n., 4.

back of Bourke. The farthest distance known: Aus. c.p.: C.20. Bourke being a town in north-western New South Wales.

back of (one's) neck. See talk through...

back of the hand down. Bribery: from ca. 1890; ob. (J. Milne, The Epistles of Atkins, 1902.) Cf. back-hander, 4.

back out. To retreat from a difficulty or unpleasantness: 1818, Scott: coll. >, by 1860, S.E. Ex lit. sense.

back pedd! Steady!; tell that to the marines!: c.p.: from ca. 1910. (Collinson.) Ex cycling.

back-racket. A tu-quoque: coll.: C.17–18. Ex the S.E. sense, 'the return of a ball in tennis' (SOD).

back-room boy, Usu. pl., ... boys, inventors and theoretical technicians, working for one of the combatant Services: journalistic j. (1941) >, in 1943, a gen. coll.—in 1943–5, mostly Services'. They worked out of the limelight and often literally in back-rooms or back-washes. P.B.: in later C.20 as one word, and also adj., as in 'a new breakthrough in the backroomboy part of the competition' (P. Phillips on Formula air-racing, in Telegraph Sunday mag., 19 Aug. 1979).

back-row hopper. A sponger affecting taverns haunted by actors: theatrical (—1909): virtually †. Ware.

back scratched, have (one's). To be flogged: c.: from ca. 1870. Orig. of the cat o' nine tails.

back-scratcher (or written solid). See hot-dogging.

back-scratching. (A) flogging: RN: late C.19—early 20. (Bowen.) As sycophantic flattery, it is S.E.

back-scuttle. Same as back-slang it, q.v.: c. of C.19.—do or have a back-scuttle, to possess a woman a retro: low: mid-C.19–20.—2. Hence, v. and n.: (to commit) sodomy: low: late C.19–20.

back-seam, be (down) on (one's). To be out of luck, unfortunate. Tailors' (—1887). Baumann; Whiteing, 1899. Cf. back, n., 4.

back seat, take a. To retire; yield; fail. Orig. (1863) US; anglicised ca. 1880: coll. >, by 1920, S.E. Thornton.

back shift. Late turn (of duty): railwaymen's coll.: C.20. Railway, 2nd.

back-slang it. To go out the back way: ca. 1810–1910: low; prob. orig. c. (Vaux; H., 1st ed.) Cf. back slum.—2. In Aus., ca. 1850–1905, to seek unoffered lodging in the country. (Morris.) Perhaps ex Vaux's second sense:—3. To go a circuitous or private way through the streets in order to avoid meeting certain persons: c. of ca. 1810–50. Vaux.

back slum. A back room; the back-entrance of a building. 'Thus, we'll give it 'em on the back slum, means, we'll get in at the back door' (Vaux, 1812): c. >, ca. 1870, low. Cf. back-jump and back-slang it.

back slums. In C.20, S.E. for very poor urban districts, but orig. (—1821) s. for residential area of criminals and near-criminals.

back-staircase. A woman's bustle: ca. 1850–1900. (Bustle occurs in 1788: SOD.)

back-stall. In C.19–20 ob. c., an accomplice covering a thief. Cf. stall, q.v.

back stick (GWR); back 'un; brown one or 'un; ginger one. A distant signal: railwaymen's: C.20. Railway, 1964.

back-swap, n. and v. To cry off a bargain; the crying-off: coll. verging on s.: 1888, Fothergill, Leverhouse, "Then it's agreed?" ... "Yes, no back-swaps" (EDD). Lit., to go back on a 'swap'.

back-talk. Impudence; verbal recalcitrance. Esp. as no back-talk! From ca. 1870; coll. Cf. back-chat. Ex dial.

back teeth are afloat, one's; or ... are floating. A c.p., implying a strong desire to urinate: C. 20; by 1960, slightly ob.

back teeth underground, have (one's). To have eaten one's fill; to have them awash or under water = to be drunk. Both are joc. (—1913) and ob. A.H. Dawson.

back the baxzer (i.e. barrow). To intervene unasked: low Aus.:—1916 (C.J. Dennis).

back-timber. Clothing: C.17–18; coll.

back-to-backs, the. Mean, small, thickly set, parallel-ranged houses in slums and mining towns. C.20: coll.

back to it, it's got a. I'm lending it to you, but you must return it: Londoners' c.p.: C.20.

back to square one, (let's go). Back where I was, you or we or they were, when this began; so that a new start has to be made: since the late 1930s. Orig. prob. ex the children's game of snakes-and-ladders, or possibly from hopscotch. Later vars. are back to square nought (Richard Miers, Shoot to Kill, 1959), and back to square one—and the one before that, which Mr A.B. Petch reported hearing in late 1973. Both mean 'a state worse than the first'. See DCpp.

back to the cactus. Back to duty after leave: R Aus. N c.p., dating from the 1930s. This reference to the prickly pear of the Australian outback occurs, for instance, in a story written in 1944 by Dal Stevens and included in his The Courtship of Uncle Henry, 1946.

back to the drawing board. Implies a fresh start is to be made after a previous course has led to mistake or impasse. Possibly of US orig.: the earliest example I have seen is a cartoon in the New Yorker, late 1930s or very early 1940s, depicting an inventor-designer type walking away from the scene of the crash of an aeroplane, obviously on its test-flight; he is saying blithely 'Oh well, back to the drawing board.' The phrase has become known throughout the English-speaking world since WW2. Sometimes used simply for 'Oh well, back to the grindstone!', from which it prob. stems. See DCpp. (P.B.) back to the salt mines! 'Back to the grindstone!'; back to work after a pleasant time off: adopted, ex US, ca. 1945. See DCpp. for early US refs.

B

back (or backs) to the wall. Hard pressed: C.19 coll., C.20 S.E. In C.16–18 with at for to.

back to the war. Used by Tommies returning to the front line after a spell in back areas: c.p.: WW1. (Petch.)

back-tommy. Cloth covering the stays at the waist: tailors': late C.19–20.

back-up, n. A 'chain' copulation with one girl: Aus. teenage gangsters': ?adopted, ca. 1945, ex US. (Dick.)—2. A second helping of food: Aus., esp. W.A.: C.20. Tom Ronan, Only a Short Walk, 1961. Ex the v.

back up, v. To be ready to help, chiefly in games: coll. (in C.20, S.E.): from ca. 1860.—2. Winchester College, from ca. 1870: to call out, e.g. for help.

back up, adj. Annoyed, aroused. One's back to be up, to be annoyed, C.18–19 coll.; put or set one's back up, to be, or to make, annoyed, C.18–20 coll.: from ca. 1800 both phrases tended to be considered as S.E. though not literary. Since ca. 1870, get one's back up, to become or to make annoyed, is the gen. form: this, however, has always been coll. Cf. back is up, q.v.

back-up, or horn, pills. Aphrodisiacs: low: since ca. 1910.

backa. See bacca.

backale! See baccare!

backblock, adj. Of the backblocks or 'the bush': Aus. coll.: since ca. 1920. B., 1943.

backblocker or backblockser. One who lives in a remote rural area: Aus. coll.: since ca. 1920. (B., 1943.) Also (backblocker) NZ coll., as in Jean Devaney, Dawn Beloved, 1928.

backed. Dead: late C.17—early 19. Perhaps = set on one's back; B.E. and Grose, however, explain as 'on six men's shoulders', i.e. carried to the grave.

backer, back(e)y. Tobacco: low coll.: 1848, Dickens (backer). EDD. Cf. bacca.

backer-up; backing-up. The accomplice of a woman who works a ginger on a client—i.e. robs him—is a backer-up and the practice is called backing-up' (B., 1943): Aus. c.: since ca. 1920.

backgammon-player. A sodomist: mid-C.18—early 19; cf. back door, gentleman of the.

backgammoner. The same: ca. 1820–80. Bee.

background. Retiring; modest: coll.: 1896, 'A reticent, background kind of lover' (OED). I.e. keeping in the background.

backhanding, n. Giving gratuities: lower classes': C.20. Ex the motion of the donor. See back-handler, 4.

backhouse flush. A very poor hand: Can. poker players': since ca. 1955. 'Fit only for the privy' (backhouse, American and Can.). Leechman.

backing and filling, vbl n. and adj. Irresolute, dilatory, shifty; shiftiness, irresolution: coll., ex nautical j.: since early C.18. In L.L.G., 27 Dec. 1823 (Moe). In Barham's use, 'moving zigzag', the orig. sense lingers. Bowen adds the sense, 'lazy': nautical: ca. 1850–1900.

backing dog. 'A sheepdog that will run across the backs of sheep to aid mustering or droving' (B., 1959): Aus. rural coll.: late C.19–20.

backings-up. The ends of half-burnt faggots: Winchester College: C.19.

backor. Rare var. of bacca. Bill Truck, 1821 (Moe).

backs to the wall. See back to the wall.

backsheesh, -shish; baksheesh, ba(c)kshee. See bakshee (the latest form).

backside. The buttocks: C.16–20. Always S.E., but ca. 1870–1914 a vulgarism. See Slang, p. 138.

backward in coming forward. Shy; modest: joc. coll.; semi-c.p.: since mid-C.19: it occurs, for instance, in Francis Francis, Newton Dogoane, 1859. In later C.20 more usu. heard in its opposite, not backward...

backward station. In the old Coastguard Service one that was considered most undesirable, frequently on account of its distance from a school': coastguardsmen's coll.: C.19. Bowen.

backwards. See go backwards; piss backwards; ring the bells...

backwards—the way Molly went to church; or with backwards omitted. Backwards; not having gone: Anglo-Irish: C.20.

backy. A shop-mate working behind another: tailors', from ca. 1870; ob.—2. 'See backer.

backyard, n. See two feet one backyard.

backyard, adj. Small; insignificant; 'operating on a shoestring': Aus. coll.: since ca. 1925. 'A backyard publishing company.' (B.P.)

bacon. See beg bacon; bring home...; pull bacon; save (one's) bacon.

bacon and egg tube. 'Fitted as an experiment to Submarine L4 about 1930. It was a flexible hose which could be attached to the hull by divers, and in the event of mishap supplies could be passed down it' (John Malin, citing Lt Cdr K. Edwards, We Dive at Dawn, 1939): RN.

bacon and eggs. Legs: rhyming s., Aus. and Eng.: C.20 (B., 1942; Rhyming Cockney Slang, ed. Jack Jones, 1971, 'Wot smashin' bacons'.) Cf. Scotch eggs; ham and eggs.

bacon-and-bull's-eye offices. Country sub-post-offices, combining postal with general-store business: Post Office staff's coll.: since ca. 1930. (L.A., 1976.)

bacon bonce. 'A dull fellow, one whose reactions are slow like those of a country yokel' (The Rev. P. M. Berry, as reported in Daily Telegraph, 4 June 1958): Borsal, but also gen.: C.20.—2. A man with a head partially or, esp., wholly bald: C.20. (L.A.)

bacon-faced. Full-faced: late C.17–19. Recorded first in Otway.

bacon-fed. Fat; greasy: coll.: late C.16–19. Occurring in Shakespeare.

bacon-hole. Mouth: mostly RAF: since ca. 1940. Cf. cake-hole.

bacon-slicer. A rustic: coll.: mid-C.17—early 19. Urquhart, 1653.—2. 'Outside flywheel as fitted to some Douglas and Blackburne [motorcycle] engines. Named after its appearance—a large spinning disc' (Mike Partridge, 1979): motorcyclists': ca. 1910–40.

bacon-tree. A pig: Lancashire joc. coll.: 1867 (Brierley, Marlocks); ob. by 1940. Because a pig is 'growing bacon' (EDD).

bad. Difficult; esp. in bad to beat: 1884 (Hawley Smart, Post to Finish): coll.—2. In go to the bad, to be ruined; become depraved: from ca. 1860: coll. >, ca. 1910, S.E. Early users are Miss Braddon and 'Dagonet' Sims. Ex to the bad, in deficit.

—3. See not bad; not half; taken bad; too bad; bad with. bad bargain. A worthless soldier (gen. prec. by King's or Queen's): C.18–20; coll. from 1800. Grose, 1st ed.—2. Hence, since ca. 1860 (without King's or Queen's), any worthless person: coll.—3. See government bad bargain.

bad break. A stroke of bad luck, or series of misfortunes: coll.: adopted by Canada, ca. 1910, ex US—and fairly common in Britain since ca. 1919. (Leechman.)

bad cess to! Evil befall...! Anglo-Irish coll.: from ca. 1850 (SOD records it at 1859). Prob. ex cess = assessment, levy, rate(s). P.B.: Bill Truck, writing of ca. 1812, had a typical Irishman curse, 'Bloody sessions to you!', which may poss. be a forerunner of bad cess.

bad dog. An unpaid debt: Aus.: since ca. 1945. B., 1953.

bad egg. A rascal; a scoundrel; worthless fellow. Orig. (1853) US; anglicised ca. 1860. Thornton, 'The κακόν κόρακος κακόν ὄσον of the Greeks.'

bad form. Vulgar; rude; unaccepted of Society: Society s.: from ca. 1860, according to Ware. Ob., not done superseding it. In C.20, b.f. > coll. 'Punch, 1882 (an Eton boy to his hale old uncle) '... Energy's such awful bad form, you know!' (F. & H.). Ex horse-racing.

bad ha(lf)penny. A ne'er-do-well: from ca. 1850. Ex the c.p., it is a bad halfpenny, said by one who, having failed, returns as he went: ca. 1810–50 (Vaux). P.B.: by the 1930s, if not much earlier, this had become a bad penny. An example of inflation, perhaps?

bad hat. A rascal: since ca. 1880. Besant, 1883; Galsworthy, 1924, 'If that young man's story's true, we're in hands of a bad hat'. The c.p. what a shocking bad hat!, from ca. 1838, may well have arisen in a Southwark (London) election in which one of the candidates was a hatter. In Daily Telegraph, 28 July 1894, G.A. Sala, after discussing the c.p.'s erroneous attribution to the Duke of Wellington, continues: 'The catchword soon lost its political associations, and after a few years, was merged in the purely imbecile query, "Who's your hatter?"' which was † by 1900. Ware thinks that bad hat was, prob., Irish in origin, 'the worst Hibernian characters always wearing bad high hats (caps are not recognised in kingly Ireland)'. Cf. bad lot and see what a shocking bad hat!, in this Dict. and esp. in DCpp.

bad iron. A failure; a mishap; bad luck: proletarian: mid-C.19—early 20. Cf. bad break, and contrast good iron.

bad job. See job.

bad lot. A person of—often worse than—indifferent morals: coll.: Thackeray, 1849. Ex auctioneering. Cf. bad egg, bad hat, bad 'un, qq.v.

bad luck to his picture! Bad luck to him: naval: from early C.19. (Moe cites L.L.G., 1 Jan. 1825.) Prob. ex Anglo-Irish. Cf. luck, n., 6, q.v.

bad manners to speak when one's (more often your) arse is full, it's. A proletarian c.p. addressed to one who noisily breaks wind in company: C.20. A joc. perversion of the admonition to children, don't talk with your mouth full.

bad mark. See mark, n., 2.

bad match twist. Red hair and black whiskers: hairdressers': later C.19.

bad mixes. See mixes.

bad-mouth. To malign; to run down; criticise adversely: journalistic: copied, ex (orig. Black) US, later 1970s. (Mrs Camilla Raab.)

bad news. Of a person or a fact, incident, state of things, and always used predicatively, as in 'He's bad news' = he's either dangerous or boring or very unlikeable; and in 'Driving a faulty car in bad conditions is bad news': adopted, late 1960s, ex US. In short, news is here either unnecessary or even misleading. (P.B.)

Bad O. The town and barracks of Bad Oeynhausen, Westphalia, the seat—1945 onwards—of British military administration in West Germany: esp. among troops of the BAOR: coll., not s. (P.B.)

bad patchville. A period of bad luck: racing: since ca. 1960. Dick Francis, Nerve, 1964, "Pay no attention," he said. "... It's bad-patchville, that's all." The -ville, a very popular suffix in the US, was adopted in the late 1950s. Ibid., "Strictly doomsville, us." See also -ville.

bad penny. See bad halfpenny.

bad scene. Unpleasantness; a grave disappointment: adopted by teenagers, ex US, ca. 1970.

bad shilling, a. One's last shilling: proletarian: earlier C.20. Ware.—2. A remittance man: Aus. coll.: late C.19—early 20. Cf. bad halfpenny.

bad shot. A poor guess:—1844 (Kinglake, Eothen); in C.20, coll.

bad show. See show, 5.

bad slang. Spurious curiosities: circus, from ca. 1870. Hindley, 1876.

bad smash. Counterfeit coin: c.: C.20. David Hume.

bad sort. See sort, n., 3.

bad trot. A run of bad luck: Aus.: since ca. 1925. Jon Cleary, You Can't See Round Corners, 1949.—2. A 'rough spin' or 'raw deal': Aus.: C.20. Ex the game of two-up. (B.P) bad types. Service personnel not keen on their work; also objectionable: RAF: WW2. (H. & P.) See types, 2, and cf.: bad 'un. Same as bad hat, q.v.: earlyish C.19–20. W.N. Glascock, The Naval Sketch-Book, II, 1826 (Moe).

bad week (, one's). The week of one's period: fem. coll.: late C.19–20. 'It's my bad week, darling—as if you didn't know! any wife to any husband, or, so far as that goes, any mistress to any lover. Not necessarily euphemistic. Cf. hell week.

bad with, get in. To get into bad odour with (e.g. the police): coll.: C.20. Edgar Wallace, Elegant Edward, 1928.

bad young man. See good young man.

badders. Something (event, news, etc.) bad or unpleasant: from ca. 1925. (Evelyn Waugh, A Handful of Dust, 1934.) The 'OXFORD -ER'.

baddie, -y. A bad, an evil, person: mostly schoolchildren's: since late 1950s.—2. A villain in, e.g., a film; the 'bad guy', as in 'You can always tell the baddies because they're the ones dressed in black': adopted, ca. 1960, ex US. DCCU, 1971.

Baden-Powell. A trowel: workmen's rhyming s.: late C.19–20. John o' London's Weekly, 9 June 1934.

badge. A brand in the hand: C.18 c. Hence, he has got his badge, he has been thus branded. A New Canting Dict., 1725.

badge-cove. A parish-pensioner: C.18—early 19. A New Canting Dict., 1725.—2. In C.16–18, a licensed beggar. Both low; prob. c.—at first at any rate.

badgeman. 'Someone [a rating] with one or more Good Conduct Badges' (John Malin, 1979): RN coll. > j.: C.20. Cf.:-

badger, n. Neptune, in ceremonies concerned with crossing the Equator: naval: C.19. Peppitt adds, 1975, 'Badger was, originally, the naval nickname of the oldest [non-ranking] sailor on a ship, because he was a "three-badge f-all", three good-conduct stripes, no promotion.' See badger-bag.—2. Schoolboys': a red-headed person: C.19–20, ob.; at Wellington, late C.19, a 2nd XV Rugby player.—3. In c., a river-thief that, after robbing, murders and throws his victim into the river: ca. 1720–1830. A New Canting Dict., 1725. Hence perhaps:—4, in C.19 c., a common harlot.—5. A brush: artists': late C.19–20.—6. In Australia often, though ever less, used catachrestically for a bandicoot, rock-wallaby, or, esp. in Tasmania, a wombat: C.19–20. Morris. See badger-box.

badger, v. To tease; persecute. Perhaps s. when used by the dramatist O'Keefe in 1794 (it occurs in Grose, 1785), but very soon coll.; S.E. by 1860. Perhaps ex lit. draw the badger; cf. overdraw the badger, q.v.

badger-bag. 'Neptune and his court in the ceremony of crossing the [Equatorial] line': nautical. (Bowen.) In W.N. Glascock, The Naval Sketch-Book, I, 1825, as 'old Badger-bag's track', glossed by Glascock thus: 'A name given by Jack [= sailors] to Neptune, when playing tricks on travellers upon first crossing the Line'. (Moe.)

badger-box. A very small dwelling, like an inverted V in section: Tasmanian coll.: ca. 1870–1915. Proceedings of the Royal Society of Tasmania, Sept. 1875. Ex badgers' 'dwellings'. (Morris.) See badger, n., 6.

badger-game. A form of blackmail, based upon timely arrival of 'injured husband'; Can. c.: adopted, ca. 1910, ex US. (See Underworld.)

badger-legged. With one leg shorter than the other: coll.: from ca. 1700; ob. Cf. the earlier semi-proverbial badger-like, one leg shorter than the other (Howell, 1659). Ex the erroneous belief that a badger has legs of unequal length.

badges and bull's-eyes. Badges and medals: military: Oct. 1899; † by 1915. Applied (says Daily Telegraph, 21 Dec. 1899) by General Gatacre to the officers' badges, etc., because they offered so splendid a mark for Boer bullets. Ware.

badgy. An enlisted boy; badgy fiddler, a boy trumpeter: military: ca. 1850–1905. (F. & G.) P.B.: Badgy (e) for a boy soldier was still current in 1950s.

Badian. A Barbadian: ca. 1860+ in the West Indies. Cf. Bim.

badly. Much; greatly: with such vv. as need, want, require, miss: coll.; from ca. 1850.

badminton. A cooling drink, esp. a claret-cup: Disraeli (1845), Whyte-Melville (1853), Ouida (1868). Coll. >, by 1870, S.E.; ob.—2. In boxing slang, ca. 1860–90, blood. (H., 3rd ed.) Cf. claret. Ex the Duke of Beaufort's seat of that name. The former sense has suggested the latter.

badster. A bad one (any living thing): Aus. coll.: since ca.

1925. Jean Devanney, By Tropic Sea, 1944, 'He'—a mate—'was a badster, a soul killer.' After youngster, oldster, etc. Baedeker is a coll. shortening of Baedeker raid, a raid on a place of historic interest rather than of military importance: 1942–4. (Jackson.) See esp. my Name into Word, 1949.

Baedeker Invasion, the. The invasion of Sicily during WW2: army coll. Ex the booklets issued beforehand to the troops. (P-G-R.) Cf. prec.

baftaty. Calico: drapery-trade s. (—1864); ob. H., 3rd ed. Ex S.E. baft, bafta(h), bafteta.

bafile. Elaborate Field Security measure(s): military, esp. Royal Corps of Signals: since 1939. H. & P.

bafts. Pron. of acronym BAFV, British Armed Forces' Vouchers, military paper money for use in NAAFI canteens, etc.; they were last used in the Suez expedition, 1956. (P.B.) bag, n. Milk: Westminster School: C.19–20. ?Ex a cow's udder.—2. A pot of beer: printers'—1887 (Saturday Review, 14 May). Cf. get or put (one's) head in a bag, to drink: id. and nautical. (Ibid.) Prob. ex horse's nose-bag.—3. A parachute: orig., ca. 1930, RAF; by 1944 also army. (H. & P.) Pej.? Carried in a bag.—4. Woman, esp. a middle-aged or elderly slattern ('that old bag'); in certain contexts, a slatternly prostitute or part-time prostitute. I don't recall my having heard it before ca. 1924, but suspect that it goes back to the 1890s or even to the 1880s.—5. A coll. ellipsis of breathalyser bag: since ca. 1965. Bournemouth Echo, 16 Nov. 1967.—6. A way of life; one's professional or social or other 'circle' or milieu: adopted, ca. 1961, ex US.—7. One's current hobby or main interest: adopted, ca. 1962, ex US. (Both 6 and 7 are owed to Paul Janssen, 1968; and both derive from musicians' use of bag, a 'school', also a style, of jazz music.)—8. In in the bag, (of a situation, a plan, etc.) well in hand; fully arranged; a virtual certainty: Services': since ca. 1925. (H. & P.) Ex game-shooting.—9. Hence, in the bag, easy: army: since ca. 1935.—10. To be in the bag, to be a prisoner-of-war: army: WW1 & 2.—11. Of a horse, in the bag = not intended to run: Aus.: turf: C.20. B., 1942.—12. In give the bag, to deceive: C.16–17, coll., as are the senses, to give (a master) warning, to abandon (a thing): late C.16–17; in C.18, give (one) the bag often = to slip away from (a person), while in late C.18–19 the phrase came to mean dismiss (cf. give the sack). In C.17–18 receive the bag = get the sack, be dismissed; coll. But give the bag to hold = to engage one's attention with a view to deceive: late C.17–19: coll. >, by 1800, S.E.—13. In get bag!, an Aus. and NZ cricket spectators' c.p. to a fielder missing an easy catch: late C.19–20.—14. As the bag, money: Scot., esp. Glasgow lower classes': late C.19–20. MacArthur & Long.—15. In well, that's the bag, a publishers' representatives' c.p., addressed to the bookseller as they leave his office: C.20. Stephen Mogridge, Talking Shop (bookshop), 1950.—16. In a bag of, enough; plenty of: army: early C.20 (F. & G.) Poss. suggested by bag of beer; cf. bags of.—17. See bottom of the bag; come the bag; empty the bag; hold the bag; put in a or the bag.

bag, v. To obtain for oneself, esp. anything advantageous: Mortimer Collins, 1880, but also for at least a decade earlier.—2. To catch, take, or steal (1818): a common school term, Farrar using it in 1862.—3. To beget or to conceive: C.15–17. All three senses, coll.—4. To dismiss or discharge (a person): 1848, Chaplain's Report of Preston House of Correction; 1895, W. Westall, Sons of Belial; rather ob. by 1940. Cf. sack.—5. To shoot down (a 'plane): RAF: 1939+. (Jackson.) I.e., to add to one's game bag.—6. 'To get unbroken horses used to being touched and rubbed with a bag before trying to put on a saddle' (C.M.L. Elliott, OBE, Western Australia, 1970): Aus. rural: coll. rather than s.: C. 20.—7. To criticise adversely; disparage, 'knock': Aus.: later C.20. McNeil.—8. 'Sometimes [doctors' talk] is made up of peculiar verbs originating from the apparatus with which they treat people: "Well, we've bronched him, tubed him, bagged him, [and] cathed him" ... ("We've explored his airways with a bronchoscope, inserted an endotracheal tube, provided assisted ventilation with a resuscitation bag, [and] positioned a catheter in his bladder to monitor his urinary output") (Diane Johnson, 'Doctor Talk', in The State of the Language, 1980).

bag a brace. See brace.

bag and baggage. Entirely; leaving nothing. Esp. of departure. Coll. >, by 1800, S.E. C. 16–20. Orig. dignified military j.

bag and bottle. Food and drink: mid-C.17–18 coll. Eachard's Observations, 1671.

bag and hammock. A RN coll. var. of S.E. bag and baggage: since ca. 1960. (Peppitt.)

bag and wallet, turn to. To become a beggar: late C.16–17 coll. Hakluyt.

bag of (f) beer. A quart of beer: proletarian (—1909); † by 1930; ob., indeed, by 1916. Ware, 'This once stood for "pot o' four 'arf an' 'arf", reduced to "[pot o'] four 'arf", and thence to, "bag o' beer".'

bag of bones. A very thin person: Dickens, 1838: coll.: in C.20, S.E.—2. A 'bush pilot' aeroplane: Can.: since ca. 1942. (Leechman.)

bag of coke. C.20 Aus. var. of bushel of coke.

bag of flour. A bathroom shower: rhyming s.: later C.20. (Red Daniells, 1980.)

bag of fruit. A suit (of clothes): Aus.: since ca. 1945, adopted ex US. Cf. synon. Brit. whistle and flute.

bag of gold. 'The roes are one of the valuable extras [the cod] provides and are collected by trawlermen in little sacks ... "bags of gold", these are called' (Steven Piper, The North Ships, 1974; trawlermen's: C.20).

bag of (f) moonshine. Nonsense: lower-class coll.: C.19—early 20. Cf. moonshine.

bag of mystery. See bags of mystery.

bag of nails, a. A state of confusion: Aus.: C.20. (B., 1942.) Higgledy-piggledy.—2. As the Bag of Nails, the Bacchanals, a tavern in Pimlico (London): ca. 1770–1830. (Grose, 3rd ed.) Folk etym.—3. See squint like a bag...

bag of rations. A fussy, too zealous, or domineering superior: military: 1915–18. (F. & G.) Ex the noise it made when agitated.

bag of shit tied up with string. Applied to any person, clumsy, shapeless or 'scruffy': mostly military; contemptuous, as in 'She looks like a ...': since ca. 1950. (P.B.) bag of snakes. A pendulous breast: Aus.: ca. 1910–60.—2. (Hence) a girl, esp. a very lively one: Can.: since ca. 1955. (Leechman.)

bag of tricks. A bag of tools, also box of tricks, a box containing anything, esp. tools, needed for any purpose: since ca. 1910. (Petch, 1969.)—2. As the (whole) bag of tricks, every expedient: C.19–20. Ex the fable of the Fox and the Cat (OED).—3. As the bag of tricks, penis and testicles: low: mid-C.19–20.

bag on the lowline. 'To drift off a course' (Bowen): nautical coll.: earlyish C.19–20. (W.N. Glascock, The Naval Sketch-Book, 1825–6; Moe.) Cf. baggy, adj.

bag-shanty. A brothel: RN lowerdeck: C.20. Cf. bag, n., 4. bag-swinging. A bookmaker: Aus.: since ca. 1930. B., 1943.—2. See swing a bag.

bag-thief. See bagger.

bagdadder. A man that, not himself drinking, bought and then sold his comrades' issue rum for a sometimes considerable profit: Bengal European army: 1840s. Hence bagdadding, the operation. N. W. Bancroft, From Recruit to Staff-Sergeant, 1885, 'the "bagdadding" system had been re-established, and was in full swing at four annas per dram, or in the regimental cant of the day, "four tent pegs for a mallet"' (P.B.).

baggage. A harlot or loose woman: Shakespeare, 1596; coll. by 1660; † by 1800.—2. Hence, a saucy young woman. Middleton, A Chaste Maid in Cheapside, ?1620, at I,i (Moe); coll. by 1700.—3. A worthless man: C.16–17.—4. Rubbish, nonsense: C.16. Gascoigne.—5. See heavy baggage.

baggage man. He who, in a team of purse-snatchers, runs off with the booty: c.: C.18. James Dalton, A Narrative, 1728.

bagged, adj. Imprisoned: Aus.: since ca. 1925. (B., 1943.) Cf. bag, n., 10.—2. See wind bagged.

bagged up. In cells, as in '[The prisoners] would rather be bagged up than all milling around where the warders can see them' (BBC Radio 3, 'The Prisoners', broadcast 25 May 1978, a 'documentary' programme). Cf. bagged and banged up, q. v.

bagger; bag-thief. One who, in stealing rings, seizes the victim's hand: late C.19—early 20 c. Ex Fr. bague, a ring.

baggies. 'Oversize boxer trunks, long in leg' (Pix, 28 Sept. 1963): Aus. surfers': since ca. 1955. See also baggy, n. bagging. Food taken between meals: provincial s., rather than dial., C.18—19. In Lancashire dial., from ca. 1880, high tea.

baggonet. See bagonet.

baggy. (Gen. pl.) A rating in the old RN troopers: military: ca. 1860—1900. Bowen, 'On account of their uniform trousers.'

baggy, adj. (Of clothes, esp. trousers at the knee) unduly stretched: coll. (1858) >, by 1910, S.E.

bagman. A commercial traveller: S.E. in C.18 (—1765) and until ca. 1850, when it > pej. and coll.—2. A bag-fox: sporting (1875). OED.—3. A tramp: Aus. coll.: late C.19—20.—4. See AUSTRALIAN UNDERWORLD.

Bagman's Gazette, The, or The Drover's Guide. An imaginary periodical quoted as the source of a rumour: Aus.: since ca. 1920. B., 1959.

bagno. A brothel: C.17—18: coll., or perhaps rather S.E. (See OED.)

bago, the. Lumbago: RN, but also gen.: C.19—20. W.N. Glascock, Sketch-Book, 2nd series, 1834, at II, 71. (Moe.)

bagonet; also baggonet, rarely bagnet. In C.19—20, sol. (but in C.17—18, S.E.) for bayonet; it was often heard among the Tommies in 1914—18. In late C.17—early 18 s., however, it meant, B.E. tells us, a dagger.

bagpipe. A long-winded talker: C.17—19; Carlyle has it. Coll.—2. As v., to indulge in a sexual practice that even F. & H. says is 'too indecent for explanation': late C.18—19. Grose, 1st ed., has recorded the synon. huffle: neither word occurs in later edd.

bags. Trousers: 'Cuthbert Bede', in Verdant Green, 1853. A low variant, from ca. 1860 but ob., is bum-bags. Oxford bags, very wide-legged: from 1922. Ca. 1870—1910, go-to-meeting bags, (a man's) best clothes, and 1850—90, howling bags (H., 1st ed., Introduction): trousers very 'loud' in pattern or colours(s).—2. Buenos Aires Great Southern Railway bonds: Stock Exchange: from ca. 1885.—3. In have the bags, to be of age; have plenty of money: mid-C.19—early 20: coll. Var. have the bags off: perhaps c.: mid—late C.19 (H., 1st ed.; Baumann).—4. In take the bags, to be hare in hare-and-hounds: athletic coll.: from ca. 1870. I.e. the bags of torn-up paper to leave as trail.—5. See bags of; mount the bags; rough as bags; and—bags!; bags II!; bagsies! That's mine!: schoolchildren's: since ca. 1860; hence, occ. use, usu. joc., by adults. Cf. bar, fain, pike. Prob. ex bag, v., 1, 2.—2. Hence, (I) bags first go (innings, etc.): since not later than 1897, likewise juvenile. (Collinson.) P.B.: also bagsie, as in, e.g., bagsie no bags!, no one, after me, shall change the rules of the game we are about to play. See esp. Iona & Peter Opie, Lore and Language of Schoolchildren, 1959.

bags of. Much, plenty; many. E.g. 'bags of time'. C.20. (B. & P.; Lyell.) Cecil Litchfield entitled his first, and wittily funny, novel: Bags of Blackmail. Cf. bag, n., 16. P.B.: hence simply bags, as in 'Have you got enough? Because I've got bags here—bags to spare.'

bags of brace. 'Drill bombardier's exhortation to his squad' (H. & P.): Royal Artillery: since ca. 1920. Ex the idea of bracing oneself to make a special effort. P.B.: prob. rather, keeping the back erect. Cf. bags of swank.

bags of bull. Excessive spit and polish and/or parading: RAF: since ca. 1938; thence to the other services. Partridge, 1945.

bags of mystery. Sausages and saveloys: from ca. 1850, says Ware. (H., 3rd ed.; Whiteing, No. 5, John Street 1899.) Rare in the singular.

bags of panic. Very pronounced nervousness: RAF: since ca. 1938. (Partridge, 1945.) Since WW2, more gen., as in 'So, of course, there was bags of panic all round.'

bags of swank. Synon. with bags of brace: army: WW2 ('and before). 'Right! Let's have you! Bags of swank as you pass the saluting base'—the cry of any drill-instructor anxious to make an impression with 'his' men. (P.B.) bags off. See bags, 3.

bagsy. Unshapely: Glasgow coll.:—1934. I.e. with as much delicacy of shape as a bag.—2. See bags!

bahut atcha. Very good; also as exclamation: Anglo-Indian: mid-C.19—20. Direct ex Hindustani.

baijan. See bejan.

bail! See bale!; see also leg bail.

bail-up. The n. of the next:

bail up, v. To demand payment, money, or other settlement from: Aus., from ca. 1878. Esp. Morris. Ex earlier lit. use: (of a bushranger) to hold up—which (—1864) was, by Cockneys, adopted, in the imperative, to mean 'Stop!': H., 3rd ed.—2. To corner or accost (a person): Aus.: C.20. B., 1943.

bailed man. (Gen. pl.) One who had bribed the Press Gang for his immunity: nautical coll.: mid-C.18—mid 19. Bowen.

bailer. A ball that, on being bowled, hits the bails: cricket; OED records it for 1881. Coll. >, by 1900, S.E.

Bailey, the. The Old Bailey (the Central Criminal Court, London): police coll.: mid-C.19—20.

bailliff of Marshland. See arrested by the bailiff...

bails, the. The milking shed: Aus. coll., esp. dairy-farmers': late C.19—20. 'John is not in the house; he must be down at the bails.' Ex the bail that holds the head of a cow that is being milked. (B.P.)

baist (properly baste) a snarl. To work up a quarrel: tailors': from ca. 1860. B. & L.

bait; esp. a rousing bait or bate, a great rage (Eton). Anger; rage: from mid-1850s. Mayhew, 1857 (EDD); Anstey's Vice Versa, 1882. University and esp. Public School. Perhaps a back-formation ex baited, harassed or tormented.—2. See Scotch bait, Welsh bait.—3. Food: railwaymen's, esp. of those on a Pullman-provided train: from ca. 1920. Daily Herald, 5 Aug. 1936. Ex C.16 S.E. (by C.20 > dial.) bait, provender.—4. A sexually very attractive girl: teenagers': since late 1950s. Variants: bedbait, juil-bait, johnnybait. Sunday Times, 8 Sep. 1963.

bait-land. A port where refreshments can be procured: C.18—19, nautical † by 1867.

bait-layer. A station cook: rural Aus. since ca. 1925. (B., 1943.) Cf. RN derog. grub-spoiler.

Bajan (pron. Baɟjun). A Barbadian: BWI coll.: late C.19—20. For 'Badian', aphetic for Barbadian. Dr Leechman compares Cajun, a person of French-Canadian descent living in south-east US, esp. Louisiana.

bak. See buck, n., 11; also v., 2.

bake. The head: a C.20 military corruption of boco, 1. F. & G.—2. A fiasco; a useless act: low and military: C.20. Frank Richards, Old Soldiers Never Die, 1933, 'I found a stretcher-bearer already attending to Smith ... and he informed me that it was a bloody bake, as Smith had stopped it through the pound.' With bake, cf. Fr. four, an utter failure theatrically; pound is pound of lead, rhyming s. for 'head': late C.19—20 (cf. lump of lead).—3. Hence (?), a bore, a nuisance: RAF in India, ca. 1925—35. (Group-Capt. Arnold Wall, letter, 1945.) Cf. the RAF bind, n. and v.—4. A disappointment: RN: since ca. 1920. Granville.—5. A malicious description of one's character. See AUSTRALIAN UNDERWORLD TERMS.

bake, v. To rest, lie down: Winchester College, C.19. Whence († by 1890), bakester, a sluggard. Cf. also baker and baking-leave, qq.v.

bake (someone's) bread. To kill that person: C.14—19: coll. > S.E.

bake it. To refrain from visiting the w.c. when one should go there to ease the major need: low: late C.19–20. Esp. in let it bake, I haven't got time to go now.

bake-out. The disinfection of clothes in an oven: c.: from ca. 1920. Michael Harrison, Weep for Lycidas, 1934. Sc.: of lice.

bake up, v.; bake-up, n. See stove up.

baked and mashed. Baked—mashed—potatoes: domestic and (cheap) restaurants' coll.: late C.19–20. Julian Symons, The Gigantic Shadow, 1958.

baked. (Of persons) exhausted: ca. 1790–1910, coll.—2. (Of persons) extremely hot: coll.: C.20. A natural extension of baking.—3. See half-baked.

baked dinner. Bread—which is baked: c.: from ca. 1860; virtually †. Ex a joke played on newcomers to prison.

baker. A cushion; any seat. Winchester College, C.19. Whence († by 1890) baker-layer, a fag carrying from hall a prefect's cushion.—2. See not today, baker!; spell baker.

baker-legged; baker-kneed. C.17–18, C.18–19 coll.: knock-kneed.—2. Effeminate: C.17–18.

baker's dozen. Thirteen counted as twelve; loosely, fourteen so counted: late C.16–20; coll. >, by 1800, S.E. Florio, Fielding, Scott, et alii. Cf. devil's dozen, q.v.—2. 'Grimly used for a family of twelve and another', Ware: proletarian coll.—1909.?'another on the way'.—3. A cousin: rhyming s.: late C.19–20. Franklyn, Rhyming.—4. As the Baker's Dozen, the 13th Hussars: army: mid-C.19—early 20. F. & G.—5. In give (one) a baker's dozen, to thrash vigorously: mid-C.19—early 20. (H., 2nd ed.; Manchon.) Cf. give what for.

Baker's Light Bobs. The 10th Hussars: military: from ca. 1870; ob. The ref. is to Valentine Baker (1827–87), who commanded them—and developed their efficiency to an extraordinary degree—in 1860–72. He was both a practical and a theoretical authority on cavalry tactics. DNB.

Bakespeare. as in 'It was written by Bakespeare.' A literary or near-literary c.p., used to settle a tedious argument: since ca. 1930. A blend of Bacon + Shakespeare.

bakester. See bake, v.

bakey or balde. A baked potato: low coll.: late C.19–20. (Jim Phelan, 1943.)

baking. Very hot: with weather or day. Coll.: from ca. 1850.

baking leave. Permission to sit in another's study: from ca. 1885, Winchester College. Prior to this date: permission to rest. baking place: a sofa. Ex bake, v., q.v.

baking-spittle. The human tongue: Yorkshire and Lancashire s., not dial.: from ca. 1890. Ex b.-s., 'a thin spade-shaped board with a handle, used in baking cakes' (EDD).

bakshee (C.20 only), backshee; ba(c)ksheesh (most gen. from earlier C.20); buckshee (usu. form later C.20); bucksheesh; buckshish.

A tip; gratuity; Near Eastern and Anglo-Indian: from mid-C.18. Popularised by the British Army in India and Egypt, esp. in WW1, though it was fairly gen. even by 1800. The forms in -ee are the more coll. Ex the Persian (thence Arabic, Urdu and Turkish) word for a present. See esp. OED and Y. & B.—2. Occ. as v.t. and v.i.: coll.: from ca. 1880. OED.—3. (Likewise ex sense 1.) Adj. and adv., free, costing nothing: late C.19–20: orig. and mainly army. As buckshee, its commonest late C.20 sense.—4. Hence, additional; unexpected: army: C.20. For senses 3, 4, see esp. F. & G.; B. & P.—5. A light wound: army, esp. NZ: WW1.—6. 'A WW1 British Army nickname for a man who was always after more than his fair share at mealtimes' (Petch).

bakshee (gen. buckshee) king. A paymaster: army: earlier C.20. (F. & G.) Ex prec.

bakshee lance-jack. A lance-corporal: army: esp. Aus. and NZ, WW1 (E.P.)—and British Army until at least 1975 (P.B.). bal oil. See give (one) bal oil.

bala. 'Low, mean, or senseless talk', Bee: rare London: ca. 1820–50. Cf. Cornish bal, loud talking.

balaam. (Journalistic) 'padding' kept in standing type: Scott, 1818; slightly ob. A strange perversion of the Biblical Balaam and his ass.

balaam-basket. (Journalistic) the receptacle for type representing padding. Also, the basket for rejected contributions (1827). Both senses are ob. (1935). Ex prec.

balaclava. 'A full beard': ca. 1856–70. Ex the beards worn by those soldiers who were lucky enough to return from the Crimea. Ware.

Balaclava day. (Military) a pay-day. 'Balaclava, in the Crimean War (1854–6) was the base of supply for the English troops; and, as pay was drawn, the men went... to make their purchases' (F. & H.); † by 1914.

balance. The remainder: in English, orig. (ca. 1864) a sol. ex US (1819: Thornton), but accepted by English business men ca. 1870 and > very gen. s. by 1880; not yet acceptable to culture—though it might, in 1937, be considered as having attained the rank of coll. Blackwood's Magazine, April 1875, 'Balance, long familiar to American ears, is becoming so to ours.' See esp. OED, F. & H., Thornton, and SOD.

balance, v.i. (Of a bookmaker) to cheat: Aus.: (C.20. Hence balancer, balancing. B., 1942.)

balb. To manoeuvre (an enemy 'plane) into a bad position: RAF: 1918. (F. & G.) Ex US balb, to 'get round' a person. Possibly connected with Balbus, who 'was building a wall'.

Balbo. 'A large formation of aircraft, so called after the famous flight, Dec. 1930, of the Italian Air Armada from Italy to South America, led by the late Marshal of that name' (H. & P., 1943). See esp. my Name into Word, and cf. Immelmann.

Balbus. A Latin prose-composition (book): school coll. From the textbook of Dr Arnold (d. 1842): recorded in 1870, † by 1920. Cf. balb.

balcony. Female breasts, esp. when displayed as a bulging ridge: Aus. since late 1940s. Perhaps suggested by the Fr. elle a du monde au balcon.

bald. See bladder of lard, a bald-headed person. Cf. bald as a coat: coll.: late C.13–20. Apperson.—2. Bad: itinerant entertainers': C.20. Lester has 'Bad, Bald; coteva'.

bald as a bandicoot. Utterly bald: Aus. coll.: since ca. 1910. B., 1943.

bald-coot. An elderly or old man that, in gambling, is plucked: fast life (—1823); † by 1890. 'Jon Bee', Dictionary of the Turf.

bald-faced stag. A bald-headed man: from ca. 1860; ob. (H., 3rd ed.) Cf. stag.

bald-headed. (Of a ship in square-rig) 'with nothing over her top-gallants'; (of a schooner) 'without top-masts': nautical: mid-C.19—early 20. Bowen.—2. In go (at) it bald-headed, to be impetuous or whole-hearted in an action. Orig. (—1850) US; anglicised ca. 1900. Perhaps a perversion of Dutch balddadig, audacious (W.). It is perhaps worth noting that the popularly ascribed origin of the phrase go bald-headed at it is the Marquess of Granby's dashing charge at Warburg (1759), 'when his wig fell off and his squadron followed the bald but undaunted head of their noble leader' (Army Quarterly, July 1937).

bald-headed butter. Butter without hairs: trade:—1909 (Ware); ob. by 1930.

bald-headed hermit. The penis: 'cultured': late C.19—early 20.

bald-headed prairie. Great treeless and shrubless plains: Can. coll.: since ca. 1880. (Leechman.)

bald-headedly. The coll. adv. (1920, W. J. Locke: witness OED Sup.) corresponding to bald-headed, 2, q.v.

bald-rib. A thin bony person: joc. coll.; from ca. 1620. Ex S.E. sense, 'a joint of pork cut nearer the rump than the spare-rib' (SOD).

bald-tyre bandits. Traffic patrol police (Powis, 1977): since ca. 1960. Either slanderous, or because they are keen to point out the offence of driving a vehicle with 'bald' tyres—old tyres from which the tread has worn right away.

balderdash. A nonsensical farrago of words: from ca. 1660; coll. by 1700; S.E. by ca. 1730. Prob. ex earlier (late C.16–17) sense, 'froth'.—2. As adulterated wine, late C.17–18, the term presumably never rose above coll. See OED and Grose, P., for other, i.e. S.E., senses.

balderdash, poppycock and piffle! Nonsense: Aus. cultured c.p.: since ca. 1955. A euph. for balls! But apparently the Aus. phrase adapts the English balderdash, piffle and poppycock, used by Harcourt Williams on the West End stage as early as 1946, as Mr Norman Franklin tells me (late 1974).

baldober, baldower, or better, baldover, as pronounced. A leader; a spokesman: c.: C.19—early 20. Ex German c., which has, presumably via Yiddish, taken it from the Hebrew compound of bal (= baal, master, lord, owner) + dovor (word). (Dr L. Stein.)

balductum. Nonsense; verbal farrago: late C.16—17. Orig. (and S.E.) a posset.

Baldy. Nickname for a bald-headed man: coll.: C.19—20. Cf. curly.

baldy. See boxer.—2. Usu. in pl baldies, white Hereford cattle: Aus. rural: C.20. Jean Devanney, By Tropic Sea, 1944.—3. An artist's model denuded of pubic hair: painters' and sculptors': since ca. 1950.—3. See:— baldy! I refuse (cf. English schoolboy's 'fain I'): NZ juvenile: late C.19—20. (B., 1941.) No hairs on one's head: nothing to offer.

bale, bale, ball. Nol: Aus. pidgin (—1870). Ex Aboriginal. Cf. cabon. Morris.

bale out. To make a parachute descent from a 'plane: RAF coll. (—1939) > j. by 1942. (Jackson.) Prob. an intransitive development of 'to bale out (a boat)': as a boat is emptied of water, so is an aircraft of its crew.—2. Hence, to depart hurriedly from a tank or a self-propelled gun: Army: since ca. 1940. (P-G-R).—3. To 'ditch' the weight-belt and rise to the surface as quickly as possible: skin divers': since ca. 1950. Ex sense 1.

bale up. See ball up.

Bales. See little drive with Bales.

Balfour's maiden. A battering ram: Parliamentary, 1889; † by 1920. Ex the Irish elections of 1888—9, when Mr Balfour was Secretary. Coined by Sir Wm. Harcourt.

balk. See baulk and bauk, in; also miss, give a.

balk. v. To use as cover. See AUSTRALIAN UNDERWORLD.

Balkan tap. 'A man suffering from Balkan Tap was easily recognized: he was gentle, foolish, indifferent, usually smiling, with a Lotus eater's philosophy, and he was almost incapable of performing the most ordinary duties' (C.E. Vulliamy in his delightful autobiography, Calico Pie, 1940): Macedonian campaigners': WW1. On the analogy of the much older, better-known doolally tap, q.v.

ball, n. A prison ration of food, esp. the 6 ounces of meat; also, a drink: c.: mid-C.19—earlier 20. The former in Brandon, 1839.—2. In have a ball, to have a thoroughly good time: Can., Aus., Eng.: adopted ca. 1935, 1950, 1955, resp., ex US. Cf. a real gone ball, a superlatively good party or dance or reception: Aus., bodgies' (q.v.): early 1950s. Dick.—3. In to have got the ball, to have the advantage: tailors': from ca. 1860. (B. & L.) Ex ball-games. Cf.:—4. In on the ball, alert; esp., ready to grasp an opportunity: coll.: since ca. 1925.—5. In take up the ball, to take one's due turn in conversation, work, etc.: coll. >, by 1900, S.E.; from ca. 1840. (OED.) Cf. the ball is with you or in your court.—6. Short for ball o'chalk, 2.—7. See open the ball.

ball, v. To coit with a girl: adopted, late 1960s, ex US, orig. by teenagers. (Observer colour mag., 17 June 1974.) Ex balls, testicles.—2. Hence, v.i., and of both sexes, to make love; also, of a female, to fondle a man's genitals: since ca. 1967. Earliest Brit. example I've seen: B.H. Wolfe, The Hippies, 1968. Cf. ball off.

ball and bat. Hat: rhyming s.:—1914 (F. & G.). Cf. commoner synon. tit for tat.

ball and chain. A wife: Can.: C.20, adopted ex US. Ex convicts' gyves. P.B.: also some Brit. joc. use.—2. One's girl friend: S. African c. and low s.: since ca. 1920.

ball at (one's) feet, have the. To have something in one's power: coll. >, by 1880, S.E.; from ca. 1800. Occ. and earlier, before one.

ball-bearing mousetrap. An ungedled male cat: low pun: since ca. 1950. (B.P.)

ball-bearings in (one's) feet, have. To be habitually restless: RAF, since ca. 1930; by 1942 also RN. Cf. to have itchy feet.

ball before the bound, catch or take the. To forestall, anticipate opportunity: coll. >, by 1800, S.E.; from ca. 1640. (OED.)

ball-breaker. One who demands or actively exacts an extremely difficult task: adopted, late 1974, ex US, where ball-buster is or was more frequent. (See W. & F., 1960.) A British example occurs in the Observer, 21 Dec. 1975. (Partly R.S.) Ex the task itself—a strain on the testicles. Cf. ball-tearer.

ball-dozed. Drunk; fuddled or muddled: Aus.: ca. 1942+ (B., 1943.) Prompted by bull-dozed.

ball-game. In that's a different or another or a whole new ball-game, that's an entirely different state of affairs, condition, situation, hence also matter or subject: c.p. adopted, in UK and NZ, ca. 1973, ex US; Aus. had it mid-1940s. See DCpp. at it's a different . . .

ball is with you, the. It is your turn; it is 'up to' you: coll. >, by 1910, S.E.; from ca. 1850; slightly ob. (OED.) Cf. ball, n, 5, and:—

ball is in your court, the. The version of the prec. entry current (?esp. in military circles) since ca. 1955. The phrase is variable, e.g., 'Well, the ball's in their court now; let's see what they make of it.' (P.B.) ball-keeper. A fag looking after cricket-, footballs: C.19, Winchester College.

ball o(f) chalk. To talk: rhyming s.: C.20. Evening News (London), 13 Nov. 1936.—2. A walk: rhyming s.: C.20. Also used of things, e.g., 'Now where's me ruddy pen? Gone for a ball o'chalk, I suppose', i.e., it is missing, perhaps stolen. Cf. penn'orth of chalk.

ball of fire. A glass of brandy: ca. 1820—60. (Egan's Grose.) Ex sensation in throat: for semantics, cf. fire a slug, q.v. Slightly earlier in J. Burrowes, Life in St George's Fields, 1821.—2. As the Ball of Fire: the 2nd New Zealand Division: Army in N. Africa: 1941—3.—3. A notably energetic and effectual person (usually male); often sarcastically in negative: Can.: adopted, ca. 1930, ex US. (Leechman.)

ball of lead. Head: rhyming s., mostly and orig. (—1914) military. F. & G.

ball of muscle (, be a). Energetic: very lively: Aus.: since ca. 1930. B., 1943.

ball of spirit, be a. (Esp. of a horse) to be very high-spirited: Aus.: since ca. 1918. K.S. Prichard, Working Bullocks, 1926.

ball o(f) wax. A shoemaker: C.19. Ex the wax used in shoemaking.

ball(-)off, n. and v. (To commit) masturbation: men's low: C.20. Cf. ball, v.

ball-park figures. Rough figures, a 'gues(s)timation': NZ civil engineers': mid-1970s. (John Davies, 1977). Prob. ex US. Cf. the RAF, 1970s, use of ball-park, 'Generally in the right place, as "the target was in the ball-park"' (S/Ldr G.D. Wilson, 1979).

ball rolling, or up, keep the. To keep an activity, a conversation, going: coll. >, by 1840, S.E.; from ca. 1780. (OED.) Set the ball rolling therefore = to begin, start a thing going: same period. Cf. open the ball, where however the ball = a dance.

ball-tearer. A physically very demanding task: Aus. military: 1960s. Hence adj., ball-tearing, as in 'They sent us off for three weeks in the bush on this bloody great ball-tearing exercise.' Cf. ball-breaker. (P.B.)—2. 'An ironic term . . . for a violent person' (McNeil): Aus. low: later C.20.

ball-trap. An at times unexpectedly collapsible seat, esp. in an aircraft: RAF: since ca. 1940. Also, since ca. 1945, Aus. civilian for tractor seats, etc. (B.P.)

ball under the line, strike the. To fail: coll.: mid-C.16—17. Ex (royal) tennis. Apperson.

ball-up. A kick-about at Association football: Charterhouse: C.20.

ballad-basket. A street singer: C.19. In C.19, a street singer sang mostly ballads, which, now, are much less popular; basket has perhaps been suggested by the synon. 'street pitcher'.

ballahou. 'A term of derision applied to an ill-conditioned slovenly ship' (The Century Dict.): nautical: from ca. 1885. See ballyhoo of blazes.

Ballambangiang, Straits of. Straits as imaginary as they are narrow: nautical coll. (—1864); slightly ob. H., 3rd ed.

Ballarat lantern. A candle set in the neck of a bottle whose bottom has been knocked off: coll., Victoria (Aus.): ca. 1870–1910. (Wood & Lapham, Waiting for the Mail, 1875: Morris.) Ballarat was a noted gold-mining town. Cf. soldiers' pomatum.

ballast. Money: from ca. 1850, orig. nautical. Whence well-ballasted, rich:—1890; ob. by 1930.—2. See carry ballast.

ballast-shooting. 'The strictly prohibited sailing-ship practice of dumping ballast overboard at the end of a voyage, to the detriment of the fairway': nautical coll.: late C.19–20; ob. Bowen.

balley. See bally, v.

ballock; now gen. bollock, n. A testicle; gen. in pl. A very old word, S.E. until ca. 1840, then a vulg.—2. See drop a ballock.

ballock, v. To reprimand, reprove, scold: c.: from ca. 1910; by 1920, low s. Ballocking, vbl n. With pun on balls and bawl. Hence:—

ballock drill. Custard and rhubarb: RN lowerdeck: C.20. See rhubarb.

ballock-naked. (Of both men and women) stark-naked: low: C.20.

ballocker. A radar testing-device that resembled an ordinary light-bulb at the end of a long stick: RAF: ca. 1941–5. If you don't 'see' the origin, I can't very well explain it.

ballocks, n. A parson: late C.17—early 19. (Grose, 2nd ed.) Often as ballocks the rector. In 1684 the Officer Commanding the Straits Fleet always referred to his chaplain as Ballocks (Arthur Bryant, The Saviour of the Navy, 1938).—2. Nonsense: late C.19–20. Now gen. bollocks. Cf. balls, and cods, qq.v.; occ. with all. Cf. also boloney.—3. (Usu. bollocks.) Muddle, confusion; an instance thereof: Army: since ca. 1915.

ballocks, v. To spoil or ruin (a thing or plan): Aus.: C.20. (Sidney J. Baker, letter to E.P.) Also, sometimes with up, British military. (P.B.)

ballocks about. To play the fool, esp. in horseplay; to be indecisive: low: C.20.

ballocks in brackets. A low term of address to a bow-legged man: C.20. W. L. Gibson Cowan, Loud Report, 1937.

ballocks in the right place, he has (or he's got) his. He is a sensible, sound fellow: male coll.: C.20. (L.A., 1974.)

ballocks'd. Thwarted; in a dilemma: low: C.20. Cf. ballocks, v.

ballocky, n. A bluejacket: RN: C. 20. (F. & G.) Ex Ballocky Bill.

ballocky, adj. Naked: c., and low: from ca. 1905. Cf. (stark) ballock-naked.

Ballocky Bill the Sailor. A mythical person commemorated in a late C.19–20 low ballad and often mentioned, by way of evasion (cf. up in Annie's room), by the soldiers in WW1; he is reputed to have been most generously testicled. Pron. and occ. spelt bollicky. Cf., as perhaps partially operative, dial. balloky, balloky, left-handed, or, hence, clumsy.

Balloo; Ballyhooly. Bailleul: army coll. and s.: WW1, Western Front.—2. Whence, a trip to Balloo, a pleasure trip: army coll.: 1916—early 18. (F. & G.) It was an attractive town.

balloon. 'A week's enforced idleness from want of work' (Ware): tailors':—1909; ob. by 1930. Ex Fr. bilan.—2. A high and easy catch: cricketers': from ca. 1925. J. C. Masterman, Fate Cannot Harm Me, 1935, 'And then like an ass I missed a balloon this afternoon—just in front of the pavilion too.'—3. Engine-shed 'foremen varied from the type known as "The Whip", to that of "The Balloon", whose plea was always,

"Don't let me down boys'" (McKenna, Glossary, p. 42): railwaymen's: C.20.—4. As balloon?, all right?; an under-world one-word c.p.: 1930s. James Curtis, You're in the Racket too, 1937.—5. In when does the balloon go up?; also the balloon goes up at (such a time), when does it happen?; it happens at: from 1915; orig. army, > gen. (B. & P.) Surviving in such uses as 'and that's went the balloon went up' = that's when all the trouble started; usu. putting the event in the past: gen. coll.: by 1980, still only slightly ob. Presumably from the raising of an observation balloon just before an attack. Cf. zero hour. (P.B.)—6. See:—

balloon car. A saloon bar: rhyming s.: earlier C.20. (Franklyn, Rhyming.) Usu. shortened to balloon.

balloon-juice. Soda-water: 'public-house, 1883', Ware; † by 1930. Ex gaseousness.—2. Whence balloon-juice lowerer, a total abstainer: ca. 1884–1920. Ware.

balloonatic. A Services' punning blend of balloon + lunatic: applied in WW1, by RN to a kite-balloon handler (Bowen) and, usu. in pl, to a free-balloonist (Mr William Phillips of the Inner Temple, himself one); in WW2 to 'anyone on the strength of a Balloon Command unit or squadron' (Jackson): RAF (Partridge, 1945).

ballooning. Jockeying of the prices of stocks: Stock Exchange:—1890; ob. by 1930.

balls. Nonsense: low coll.: since—1890. Also often all balls. In Feb. 1929, it was held to be obscene; by 1931 it had > permissible in print. For semantics, cf. ballocks, 2, and boloney (orig. US), qq.v., also the US nerfs (as an interjection). See esp. Allen Walker Read, Lexical Evidence from Folk Epigraphy, 1935 (Paris; privately printed).—2. 'Masculine courage, "He's got balls, all right", and by extension, masterfulness. The term can be used to describe a dominant woman in a home, e.g., "She's the one with the balls in that family"' (Powis); low > gen. raffish: later C.20. Cf. 'Deke [Arlon] says she'll get there [to stardom] because she's got what the greats have all got, balls. "Liza's got balls; Streisand's got great balls, hasn't she? Well, so's this lady'" (Gordon Burn, in Sunday Times mag., 1 Mar. 1981). May be elab. as in 'It's probably one of those civil servants again, leaking [news] to the defence correspondents, just to show they're in on the act and have got balls as big as aircraft tyres' (Robert Fox, Listener, 8 July 1982, p. 3, reporting the recent Falkland Is. campaign, and quoting an RN Surgeon Cdr).—3. Short for balls-up, q.v., esp. as in, e.g., 'Well, they've made a right balls of it this time': low coll.: since—1890. Ex 1.—4. In have (got) someone by the balls, to have utterly in one's power, esp. of women over men: low: late C.19–20. (G. Kersh, 1944.) P.B.: all senses derive, however inappropriately, ex balls, low S.E. = testicles.—5. See do (one's) balls on.

balls-ache. See pain, n., 2. A balls-aching talk is a tedious disquisition: since ca. 1918.—2. As Balls-ache, Balzac: school-boys' and students': late C.19–20. By deliberate distortion. (L.A.)

Balls and Bullshit parade, the. The British officers stationed in the Indian peninsula: ca. 1880–1947, then nostalgically; by the richer, more important civilians. Berkeley Mather, The Memsahib, 1977, set in the India of 1938.

balls are bigger than his brains, his (also in vocative). 'Said of, or to, a man apt to plunge into a situation without due thought; by analogy with "your eyes are bigger than your belly"' (L.A., 1978): mid-C.20.

balls, bees and buggery! A synonym—and probably the origin—of balls, picnics... c.p.: late C.19–20.

balls chewed off, have (one's). To be (severely) reprimanded or taken to task: low: C.20.

balls for a necktie, have (one's). A C.20 var. of guts for garters... (Cdr C.Parsons, RN, ret., 1973.)

balls in an uproar, get (one's). To become unduly excited: Can. army: WW1. Hence also to the British Army where it was still current in the early 1970s, esp. in 'Don't get your balls...'

balls in the right place. See ballocks in...

balls on him like a scoutmaster (, he has). A low NZ c.p., dating from ca. 1930 and based upon the scurrilous idea, popular among the ignorant, that scoutmasters are active homosexuals. Can. also.

balls(-)out, adv., synonymises flat out, q.v. at flat, adv.: WW2 and after: 'Very commonly used.' (Cdr C. Parsons; F.J. French.)

balls, picnics and parties! A c.p. exclam., from ca. 1925. A punning elab. of balls!

balls to that lark! Nothing doing!: NZ c.p.: since ca. 1920. (Slatter.) An elab. of balls to that!, common to all the Commonwealth countries and current since late C.19. Cf. - balls to you! Rats to you!: low: late C.19–20. (Cf. balls, q.v.) Manchon.

balls to you, love. A var. of balls to you: C.20. Influenced by working-men's contempt of the white-collar class and by their ignorance of the arduous of lawn tennis.

balls-up, n. A 'mess', a bungling, confusion: low: since ca. 1910. (Angus Wilson, A Bit off the Map, 1957.) Since mid-C.20. at latest, often shortened to a balls. See balls, 3.

balls-up, v. To make a mess or a blunder of; to confuse inextricably; misunderstand wholly; do altogether wrongly: low: C.20. Cf. US ball-up and (also for balls-up) the somewhat rare ball, to clog, gen. of a horse getting its feet clogged with balls of clay or snow.

ballum rancum. A dance at which all the women are harlots; Grose, 2nd ed., adds 'N.B. The company dance in their birthday suits': an early example occurs in Dryden's Kind Keeper, 1677–8. † by 1900. Ex ball, a testicle. Cf. buff ball, q.v., and ballers in Pepys's Diary, 30 May 1668.

balley; gen. balley. To depart (speedily): London traders' (—1909); virtually †. (Ware.) Cf. hop it, polka, skip, waltz, qq.v.

balley, adj. A euph. for bloody: since ca. 1840 (Sessions, April 1851); Ware, 1909, classifies it as sporting s. W., after F. & H., rev., suggests ex Ballyhooley truth; cf. blighter, blinking, blooming. See my Words!

Bally Ruffian, the. HMS Bellerophon: RN: mid-C.19–20. Neil Bell, Crocus, 1936.

ballyhoo. An abbr. (orig.—ca. 1913—US) of, and from ca. 1925 more gen. than, ballyhooley (though cf. next entry): s. >, by 1930, coll.; now verging on S.E. 'The now recognised term for eloquence aimed at the pocket-book', TLS, 19 July 1934.

ballyhoo of blazes. 'The last word of contempt for a slovenly ship': nautical: since ca. 1880. It occurs in Rudyard Kipling's Captains Courageous. Perhaps ex ballahou, 'a West Indian schooner with foremast raking forward and mainmast aft' (Bowen). See ballahou.

ballyhooley. Copy-writers' or politicians' exaggeration; 'advance publicity of a vulgar or misleading kind' (H. G. Le Mesurier): from ca. 1910; coll. by 1925. Abbr. Ballyhooley truth, a ca. 1880–5 music-hall tag perhaps ex whole bloody truth (W.).—2. See Balloo.

Ballylana. See drunk as...

Ballymena(s). Belfast and Northern Counties Railway shares: Stock Exchange: (—1895). (A. J. Wilson, Stock Exchange Glossary.) Ex Ballymena, the urban district and market town 11½ miles north of Antrim (Bartholomew's Gazetteer).

bally-rag. See bully-rag.

balm. A lie:—1820; † by 1900. (Sinks.) Var. of bam, n., q.v.

Balmainiacs. Balmain footballers: Sydneysiders': C.20. B., 1943.

balmedest balm. 'Balm in the extreme' (Ware): proletarian London:—1909; † by 1930.

balmy, n. (Always the b.) Sleep. Dickens in The Old Curiosity Shop, 1840: 'As it's rather late, I'll try and get a wink or two of the balmy.' Prob. suggested by balmy slumbers (Shakespeare), balmy sleep (Young): F. & H., rev.—2. An idiot: low: C.20. Ex:-

balmy; perhaps more correctly barmy. Adj.: anything from stolid to manifestly insane; gen., just a little mad. (Henry Mayhew, 1851.) Whence balmy cove, a weak-minded man. Perhaps ex S.E. balmy, soft, but see also barmy: the latter form prob. suggested the former.

balmy breeze. Cheese: (not very common) rhyming s.: C.20. Franklyn, 2nd.

balmy stick, put on the. To simulate madness: low: since ca. 1880. (B. & L.) Ex balmy, adj.

baloney, or -ie. See bolon(e)y.

Baloo. See Berloo.

balsam. Money: late C.17–18, c.; C.19—early 20's. B.E.; Grose; Ware, prob. wrong in stating that it was 'orig. confined to dispensing chemists'. Ex its healing properties.

Balt. 'This was the most common term for New Australians from about 1946 to 1952 and will be found in the Australian literature of the period. It was based on the mistaken belief that they came mainly from the Baltic countries' (B.P., 1963).—2. The Martin Baltimore, US light bomber: airmen's: WW2.

Baltic Fleet. 'The Fourth Division of the Home Fleet for some years before the War, when the smallness of the nucleus crews reminded seamen of Rozhdestvensky's ill-fated squadron' (Bowen): WW1 is meant; the Russian fleet was destroyed at Tsushima, 1905, during the Russo-Japanese War.

balum rancum. See ballum rancum. (The spelling in 4th, 5th edd. of Grose.)

bam, bamb. (C.18). A hoax; an imposition: Dyche's Dictionary (5th ed.), 1748. Ex:—2. As v.i., to sham, be in jest (—1754); v.t., hoax (in print, 1738), a sense that was current as early as 1707. Abbr. bamboozle, q.v.

bambusterate. Noisily to hoax or to confuse: rare: C.19. Ex bam + bluster.

bamboo. Inside information: a rumour: army: 1940+. Ex makeshift aerials. Cf. jungle wireless.—2. See three-piece bamboo.

bamboo backsheesh. A blow evoked by importunate begging for money: Anglo-Indian: from ca. 1850; ob. See bakshee.

bamboo boxes. (?) Black fever or some other tropical disease: naval lowerdeck: late C.18—mid-19. Matthew Barker in L.L.G., 1 Jan. 1825. (Moe.)

bamboo chow-chow. "Stick food". The pidgin-English term for a thrashing, an idiom not altogether unknown in English' (H. A. Giles, Glossary of References on Subjects Connected with the Far East, 1878: P.B.).

bamboo presento. A beating with a bamboo. Cf. the prec. entry, and see PRISONER-OF-WAR SLANG, 15.

bamboozle. To hoax, deceive, impose upon (both v.t. and v.i.): Cibber, 1703. To mystify (1712). Swift in 1710: 'The third refinement... consists in the choice of certain words invented by some pretty fellows, such as banter, bamboozle, country-put, and kidney, some of which are now struggling for the vogue, and others are in possession of it.' In late C.18—mid-19 naval s., it meant 'to deceive an enemy by hoisting false colours' (Bowen). As n., Cibber, 1703; bamboozling (1709) is much more frequent and occurs also as adj. (—1731).

bamboozable, easily deceivable, is a late (1886) development, and so is bamboozlement (1855): these two were never s. but have never quite risen to S.E. Etym. still a mystery; prob. ex a c. word of which no record is extant; perhaps ex banter corrupted, or rather, perverted; W., however, suggests an interesting alternative.

bamboozler. A hoaxer, an imposer on others (1712).

bambora. 'The spot of light reflected by a mirror held in the hand' (Dr H. W. Dalton): Anglo-Irish: C.20. Origin?

bambosh. Humbug; a hoax(ing): 1865: rare and ob. Prob. ex bam + bosh, qq.v.

ban. A Lord-Lieutenant of Ireland: Irish: C.18–20; ob. Ware, 'Bedad, one ban or anoder, 'tis the same man.' Perhaps punning ban, a curse or edict, and banshee, the precursor of sorrow, as Ware suggests.—2. (Mostly in pl bans.) A banana: greengrocers': since ca. 1910.

Banaghan. In beat B-, to tell a (too) marvellous story: orig. and mostly Anglo-Irish coll.: late C.18–20. (Grose, 1st. ed.) See also:- banagher. To bang. I find no record earlier than F. & H.

(1890), which says 'old'. App. † by 1900. Prob. a word heard by Farmer in his youth and possibly a reduction from beat Banaghan or, from ca. 1840, Banagher (or banagher): this phrase, however, suggests that banagher may be a development of bang, to strike violently, a view supported by the fact that the most usual form is this bangs Ban(n)agher, an Irish proverbial saying, with which cf. beat creation, for Banagher is a village in King's County (now Offaly) (W.). Rolf Boldrewood, My Run Home, 1897, p. 190, in a passage dealing with the period ca. 1860. This or it bangs Ban(n)agher was, from ca. 1840, extended by ... and Banagher banged the devil (i.e. devil, as in N.W. Bancroft, From Recruit to Staff Sergeant, 1885, writing of Irish soldiers in the 1840s), or ... and Banagher bangs the world. See also DCpp.

banana. A £1 note: Aus.: mid-C.20. (B., 1953.) Sweet and acceptable.—2. A surf board with a raised front: Aus. surfers': since late 1950s. (B.P.)—3. A foolish person; a 'softie': since ca. 1950. Ex the softness of a ripe banana. The shortened nana exists mainly as in 'She's a right nana' or 'I felt a right nana'.—4. In have a banana!, a low c.p. expressive of contempt: earlier C.20. Ex a popular song (Collinson). Perhaps ex the popular song, 'I had a banana/with Lady Diana'; the phrase to have a banana with meant, ca. 1905–30, to coit with (a woman).

banana balancer. An officer's steward; a wardroom waiter: RN: C.20. Granville.

banana boat. An invasion barge: Services': 1943+. H. & P.—2. An aircraft carrier: RAF: 1941+, Partridge, 1945.—3. In off a or (in) with a banana boat, esp. as in 'He's come—or he came—in off a or with the banana boat': since ca. 1950. Disparaging; innuendo of illegal entry by, e.g., a West Indian into Britain. (Petch, 1969.)

Banana Bomber, the. A Buccaneer aircraft: RAF: later C.20. (Phantom.) Ex shape of fuselage.

banana boys. 'Sportsmen resident in Natal' (Prof. A. C. Partridge, 1968): S. African: C.20.

banana farm, the. An asylum for the insane: among Britons in tropical or semi-tropical countries: later C.20. (William Marshall, Hatchet Man, 1976: set in Hong Kong.) Cf. synon. funny farm.

Banana-Squeezer. A Hispano-Suiza motorcar or engine: motorists': C.20. (Mrs José Paterson.) Joc. Hobson-Jobson.

banana van. A 'boggy carriage on wooden frame sagging in the middle' (Railway, 2nd): railwaymen's: since ca. 1950.

Bananaland; Bananalander. Queensland; a Queenslander: Aus. coll.:—1887; ob. by 1940.

bananas. In go bananas, to become, almost or even wholly, madly excited about something: adopted ex US, partially by 1974, widely by 1976. DCCU, 1971; W. & F., ed. of 1975—but without ref. to banana, hence to the orig., 'to go all mushy with emotion, esp. with excitement'. R. S. cites an Eng. example: Kathleen Whitehorn in the Observer, 22 Feb. 1976; Robin Leech, 1980, adds "'To go bananas" was in vogue here [Edmonton, Alberta] during the summer of 1975 and up to about 1976 or early 1977.'—2. Hence, of machines, to go wrong, or to behave oddly, as in 'Help! The damn' photocopier's gone bananas again': coll.: later 1970s.—3. See yes, we have no bananas.

bananas and cream?, do you like. A c.p. addressed to girls by dirty-minded youths and = Do you 'do it?': since ca. 1920.

Banbury. A loose woman: low London: 1894, People, 4 Feb.; † by 1920. (Ware.) By association with hot-cross buns and '(jam-)tarts'.

Banbury story (of a cock and bull). 'Silly chat', B.E.: late C.17–early 19. Cf. the C.19 dial. Banbury tale and see Grose, P.

banchoot (or barnshoot); beteechoot. A coarse Anglo-Indian term of abuse: late C.18–early 20. (Y. & B.) Of barnshoot, George Orwell, in his Down and Out in Paris and London, 1933, wrote: 'A corruption of the Hindustani word bahinchut. A vile and unforgivable insult in India, this word is a piece of gentle badinage in England.' In Hindi, choad is a male copulator; ban, pron. barn, is 'sister'; beteet, 'daughter'. Hence banchoad: beteechoad = copulator with sister, daughter.

banco. Evening preparation, superintended by a monitor: Charterhouse: from ca. 1832. Tod, Charterhouse, 1900, p. 81. Cf. toy-time and, for origin, the legal in banco.

band. A prostitute: Aus.: since ca. 1920. B., 1942.—2. See then the band; beat the band; follow the band.

band in the box. Pox: later C.20. Rhyming Cockney Slang, ed. Jack Jones, 1971.

band mole. See mole.

band moll. 'A delightful creature who travels around the countryside with a group of musicians and singers and satisfies their sexual needs if nothing better turns up' (B.P., 1969): Aus. Cf. groupie.

Band of Hope. Lemon syrup: Aus.: C.20. (Baker.) Ex name of the Temperance Society.—2. Soap: rhyming s.: late C.19–20. (Len Ortzen, Down Donkey Row, 1938.) Also Aus.: see bander.

band-party, the. Members of the Church of England: army: late C.19–early 20. (F. & G.) See also follow the band.

band played. See then the band played...

bandabust. A var. (esp. among RAF regulars) of bundabust. Jackson.

bandage-roller. A sick-bay rating: RN: late C.19–20. Bowen. Cf. Linseed Lancers.

Bandagehem, Dosinghem, Mendinghem; or Bandage-em, etc. Joc. names for three hospital stations in Flanders: military: 1915–18. (F. & G.) On such names as Ebblinghem.

bandan(n)a. A silk (in C.20, also cotton) handkerchief, with white or yellow spots left in the coloured base: coll. in C.18 India, but there accepted ca. 1800, in England in 1854 (Thackeray), as S.E.

bandbox, (orig. that is my or mine arse on (Bee, in) a! That won't do!): a late C.18–mid-19 c.p. (Grose, 1st ed.) Ex the inadequacy of bandbox as a seat.

bandboxical. Like, or of the size of, a bandbox: coll.: 1787, Beckford, 'Cooped up in a close, bandboxical apartment' (OED); ob. On paradoxical.

banded. Hungry: c. or low: 1812, Vaux; H., 1st ed. Cf. wear the bands, q.v. (With band or belt tightened round one's middle.)

bander. Soap: Aus.: C.20. Baker. Truncated rhyming s. on Band of Hope, 2.

bandicoot. In poor as a bandicoot, extremely poor: Aus. coll.: late C.19–20. In The Drum, 1959, S. J. Baker lists also the foll. self-explanatory phrases: bald as a bandicoot, bandy as ..., barmy as ..., lousy ..., miserable ..., and not the brains of ...

bandicooting. The practice of stealing tuberous vegetables, especially potatoes, out of the soil without removing the tops' (B., 1943), i.e. with the tops left: Aus.: since ca. 1920. As bandicoots do.

bandit. 'A term sometimes used ironically in conjunction with other words, e.g., "one of a gang of international milk bandits"—near-vagrant labourers, who steal milk left outside dwellings, esp. when down on their luck' (Powis): police s.: since ca. 1955. Cf. piss-hole bandit, gas-meter b., knickers b.—2. Elliptical for one-armed bandit: Aus.: since late 1950s. (B.P.) bandmaster, the. A pig's head: RN lowerdeck: C.20. Granville.

bando! Make (the rope) fast: coll., Anglo-Indian; whence London docks (—1886). Direct ex Hindustani bandho. Y. & B.

bandog. A bailiff or his assistant: late C.17–18. B.E. Ex lit. sense, a fierce mastiff watch-dog: ex band, a fastening.—2. Also late C.18–early 19, a bandbox: either sol. or joc. bandog and Bedlam, speak. To speak in a rage, like a madman: late C.16–17 coll. (Dekker.) Cf. prec., 1.

bandok. See bandook.

Bandons. Shares in the Cork, Bandon and South Coast Railway: Stock Exchange coll.:—1895 (A. J. Wilson, Stock Exchange Glossary).

bandore. A widow's head-dress (the Fr. bandeau corrupted):

ca. 1690–1750: orig., perhaps S.E.; by 1785 (Grose) coll. if not s. Note that the OED's two examples occur in very light works and that B.E. has it. (The other sense, a banjo (itself a corruption of bandore), has a different etym. and was always S.E.) bands. See wear the bands.

bandstand. 'A circular gun-platform on a warship': RN: late C.19–20. Bowen.—2. A cruet: Services': C.20. F. & G., 'From its shape.'—3. 'In Ack Ack [anti-aircraft gunnery] the Command post of a gun position' (H. & P.): WW2.

bandwagon, hop (or, in Britain, mostly jump) on the. To join a majority, once it's known to be a majority; to favour someone only after the public has made him or her a favourite: adopted, ca. 1955, ex US; by 1966, coll. (Sunday Times mag., 8 July 1962, article by Wallace Reyburn.) Brian Foster, The Changing English Language, 1968, gives several citations.

bandy, n. A sixpence: mid-C.19–20 (ob.); c. and low s. (H., 1st ed.) Because easily bent: cf. bender and cripple.—2. A bandicoot: Aus.: since ca. 1910. B., 1953.—3. A ship's bandmaster: RN lowerdeck: since ca. 1890. Knock.

bandy, v. To band together: '—1818', says OED; but B.E. (?1690) has it = 'follow a faction': so that, in C.18, it was prob.—until ca. 1760, at any rate (for Grose does not give it)—either s. or coll.

bandy chair. A Banbury chair, i.e. a seat formed by two persons' crossing of hands: Cockneys': from ca. 1880.

bane, the. Brandy: low: late C.19–early 20. Pugh (2), "'You give me a drop of the bane," said Marketer; "an' don't be so 'andy wi' your tongue.'" Suggested by ruin, 1.

bang. A blow (—1550). If on a thing, S.E.; if on a person, still coll. (as in a bang on the nose).—2. A sudden movement, (unexpected) impetus, as in C.18–20 with a bang. Coll.—3. 'The front hair cut square across the forehead' (1880), ex US (OED): a sense that rapidly > S.E., though the v. (1882) is even yet hardly S.E.—4. A lie: s. (1879, Meredith) >, by 1910, coll.; ob. Cf. bang-word, a swear-word: coll.: C.20. OED.—5.

A piece of sexual intercourse; whence a female in the act: have a bang, be a good bang: low: C.20. Cf. etymology of fuck.—6. A brothel: low Aus.: since ca. 1920. B., 1942.—7. (Ex 2.) A stir or considerable movement in stocks and shares, esp. downward: Stock Exchange: ca. 1810–70. Spy, II, 1826—8. A popular schoolgirl: 1960s. Mallory Wober, in English Girls' Boarding Schools, 1971, quotes a 13-year-old girl who lists all the attributes which give rise to popularity, ending 'If you do what I say you will be a BANG.'—9. In have a bang, to make an attempt (at): Services': since ca. 1939. (P-G-R.) Cf. have a bash.—10. See full bang.

bang, v. To strike. If the object is a thing, it is S.E.; if a person, coll. (—1550).—2. To outdo: from ca. 1805: coll.—3. To have sexual intercourse (v.t. and with a woman): C.20. A usage rare in Britain, but very common, esp. among manual workers, in Aus., where also used intransitively. (P.B.) Also common still in Can. (Leechman.) See also bang like...—4. Loudly or recklessly to offer stock in the open market, with the intention of lowering the price if necessary: Stock Exchange: from ca. 1880. Often as vbl n., banging.—5. To go ahead with a robbery or a theft, despite the odds against success: c.: since late 1940s. (Frank Norman in Encounter, 1959, the poem titled 'The Pickpocket'.) Often it implies failure.

bang, adj. Strong and able; smart, alert: 'Think himself bang enough to thrash the pair of 'em' (Bill Truck, Dec. 1825): ca. 1805–60. Perhaps the orig. of:—2. bang used as an intensive, e.g., 'the whole bang lot (or shoot)': mostly Aus., but in these phrases later Brit. also: late C.19–20. B., 1943.—3. Afraid, frightened: Midland and Western districts of South Africa: coll.:—1899. Ex Dutch bang, afraid. Pettman.

bang, adv. Noisily and suddenly; suddenly; immediately; entirely, utterly: coll.: late C.18–late C.19. The Night Watch, II, 117. (Moe.)

bang alley, bangalay. The timber of Eucalyptus botrioides:

Sydney workmen's: late C.19–20. (Morris.) Bangalay is Aboriginal.

bang-bag. A case of cordite: R Aus. N: since ca. 1925. B., 1943.

bang Banagher. See Banagher.

bang bang! – you're dead! A children's c.p.: since ca. 1960. Ex overmuch viewing of 'Westerns' on TV. P.B.: rather, since 1930s, ex 'Westerns' in the cinema. See DCpp. for much fuller treatment.

bang-beggar. A constable: orig. and mainly Scot.:—1865 (EDD). Ex Northern dial.

bang-box. The turret of a 6-inch gun: R Aus. N: since ca. 1925. B., 1943.

bang goes saxpence! A joc. c.p. applied to any small expense incurred, esp. if on entertainment or with a light heart: from ca. 1880. Orig. in a cartoon, by Charles Keene in Punch, 5 Dec. 1868, showing an irate Scotsman and captioned: 'Been in London only an hour and—bang goes saxpence!'; re-popularised by Sir Harry Lauder, the famous music-hall entertainer.

bang in. See banged up.

bang like a hammer on a nail or like a rattlesnake or like a shit-house door; go pop like a paper bag; ride like a town bike. To copulate vigorously; bang referring to men, and pop and ride to women: low Aus., esp. Sydney: bang, C.20; ride since ca. 1925; pop since ca. 1950. A further var., contributed 1977: she bangs like a shithouse rat.

bang-Mary. A 'bain-marie': kitchen sol. verging on coll.:—1909 (Ware). Cf. synon. bummaee, 2.

bang on, v. To talk lengthily, loudly, recklessly; but also, to get on with, to tackle something: army, mostly officers': since ca. 1960. (P.B.)

bang(-)on. Everything is all right: correct: RAF bomber crews': since 1940. (H. & P.) I.e. bang on the target. As 'dead accurate, strikingly apposite': it was adopted by civilians in 1945. Nicholas Blake, Head of a Traveller, 1948.

bang-out, n. The informal yet ritualistic ceremony performed on an apprentice compositor to mark the end of his 'time'; the actual ceremony can take several forms, but all involve a great deal of noise generated by the banging of composing sticks on whatever sounds loudest: (?C.19–20. (David Severn, 'banged-out' printer, 1978.) See also hammer, v., 2.

bang-out, v. To depart hurriedly and noisily: C.19–20, ob. Adv., entirely and suddenly: C.19–20.—2. The v. from the prec. entry: to perform the ceremony.

bang-pitcher. A drunkard: C.17–18: coll. (Clarke, 1639.) Cf. toss-pot.

bang-seat. 'A crew member's seat in a jet aircraft (but recently developed for helicopters)—which, for emergency escape, is blown from the aircraft by an explosive charge (which, incidentally, the seat occupant does not hear)—as a flight lieutenant informs me, late in 1961. Since the mid-1950s: orig. FAA, hence gen. aeronautical.

bang-shoot, the whole. See bang, adj., 2, and cf. the whole shebang.

bang-stick. A rifle: partly marksmen's, partly Services': since ca. 1925. Cf. shooting-iron.

bang-straw. A thresher: ?orig. and mainly dial.: late C.19–20, ob. Grose, 1785, adds: 'Applied to all the servants of a farmer'.

bang-tail. Usu. pl bang-tails, cattle, 'whence bang tail muster, a periodical counting of herds' (B., 1959): Aus. rural: since ca. 1930. Contrast the American bangtail, a horse, esp. a racehorse. Now mostly written as one word.—2. See HARLOTS, in Appendix.

bang-tailed. (Esp. of horse) short-tailed: T. Hughes, 1861. Coll. rising to S.E. The n., bang-tail, is recorded for 1870 by the OED, which considers it S.E.

bang through the elephant, have been. To be thoroughly experienced in dissipation: low London (—1909); virtually †. Ware refers it to elephant – elephant's trunk, drunk; but cf.

rather the elephant, and bang up to the Elephant, qq.v. bang to rights. Applied, predicatively, to a 'fair cop', a justified charge, a perfect case against somebody: underworld, London's East End, police: since ca. 1930, at latest. (Richard Herd, 12 Nov. 1957; Frank Norman, Bang to Rights, 1958.) An elab., an intensive, of '(caught) to rights' or in flagrante delicto. Hence be banged to rights, to be thus caught (David Hume).—2. 'An expression of satisfaction, as in "Now we've got everything bang to rights, we can lay off for a bit and have a smoke"' (Julian Franklyn, letter, 1962): since the late 1940s. See have to rights.

bang-up, n. A dandy; in fast life (—1811); † by 1920. (Lex. Bal.; 1882 in Punch.) Ex the adj.—2. 'A frieze overcoat with high collar and long cape' (P.W. Joyce, English as We Speak it in Ireland, 1910): Anglo-Irish: late C.19–20.

bang up, v. 'Taking coal from railway wagons meant instant dismissal, so engine-men shunting coal wagons would "bang up" the wagons to create spillage, and this was dutifully collected in the signal-box scuttle by the signal-box boy' (McKenna, 2, p. 74): railwaymen's: earlier C.20.—2. To inject heroin into the veins: drugs world: later C.20. Guardian, 2 Nov. 1982.—3. See banged up.

bang-up, adj. First-rate: Lex. Bal., 1811; Vaux, 1812, implies that it may, slightly earlier, have been (the certainly synon.) bang-up to the mark; the Smiths in Rejected Addresses, 1812: † by 1910, except in US. Cf. slap-up, q.v. Prob. echoic; but perhaps, as Ware suggests, influenced by Fr. bien used exclamatorily. The form banged-up was later and less used. bang-up prime. An intensive of the prec. entry: 1811 Lex. Bal.; † by 1890.

bang up to the Elephant. 'Perfect, complete, unapproachable' (Ware): London: 1882—ca. 1910. With ref. to the Elephant and Castle Tavern, long the centre of South London public-house life.

bang water. Petrol. Can. (also firewater): since ca. 1920. H. & P.

bang word. A swear word. See bang, n., 4.

bangalay. See bang alley.

banged up and banged in. 'There is a very slight difference in meaning between these expressions, which, generally speaking, mean "locked up" or "locked in cell". If a man, at the end of the working day and not attending classes, is locked in his cell in the usual way he may be spoken of as being "banged in". If, on the other hand, a man is rude or disobedient to an officer, who takes him from work or class for the purpose of locking him in his cell . . . , he is spoken of as having been "banged up"' (Tempest): prisoners': since 1930s.

banged up to the eyes. Drunk: mid-C.19—early 20.

banger. A notable lie: from ca. 1810: † by 1900. Cf. synon. thumper.—2. One who 'bangs': Stock Exchange:—1895 (A. J. Wilson's Glossary). Ex bang, v., 4.—3. A sausage: perhaps orig. nautical, esp. RN; but by WW2 gen. and widespread, particularly in 'bangers and mash[ed potatoes]': C.20. (Musings, ca. 1912, p. 55.) Good ones explode, if unpricked, when fried.—4. A bomb: RFC/RAF: 1917–18. V.M. Yeates, Winged Victory, 1934.—5. A detonator: railwaymen's: C.20. (Railway.) Also cracker and fog.—6. (Often old banger.) An old, near derelict motorcar: motorists': since ca. 1955.—7. Hence, an old and worn-out motorcycle: motorcyclists': id. (Dunford).—8. Elliptical for Cattle-banger, q.v. B., 1943.—9. Usu. in pl: billiard balls; testicles. See stick and bangers.—10. In drop a banger, make a mistake. See drop a ballock; cf. synon. drop a clanger.

Bangers, the. The 1st Life Guards: army: C.19—early 20. bangers and red lead. Tinned sausages-and-tomato-sauce: mostly the Services': since ca. 1925.

bang(g)otcher. A Wild West film: Aus. juvenile: since ca. 1946. (B., 1953.) 'Bang! Got you!'

bangies. See bangy.

bangy. See bang, v., 4.

bangy, adj. Great: coll.: Grose, 2nd ed. (1788), has a fine bangy boy, but the OED's quot'n from Nashe (1596) may be a genuine anticipation of both the 'great' and the 'overwhelming' sense. One of the many percussive adj. that are coll. Cf. thumping.—2. In C.19, a bangy lie.—3. Also, C.19 coll., overwhelming, as in a bangy majority.

bangy-off. Sexual intercourse: RN, all branches: since ca. 1950, at latest.

Bangkok bowler. A Thailander's bamboo hat. See PRISONER-OF-WAR SLANG.

bangle. (Gen. pl.) A hoop round a made mast: nautical: late C.19–20; †. Bowen.—2. A piston ring: motorcyclists': since ca. 1950. (Dunford.)

bangs Banagher. See banagher.

bangater. A braggart: mid-C.16–18 coll. verging on S.E.—2. Whence, victor: id.: Scott, 1820; now † except in dial. (mostly Scottish).

bangtail. See bang-tail, 2.

bangy. Brown sugar: Winchester College, C.19; ex Bangalore. Adj., brown, whence bangies, brown trousers: both, from ca. 1855, Winchester College; Bangy Gate, that gate 'by Racquet Court, into Kingsgate Street' and 'a brown gate from Grass Court to Sick House Meads' (F. & H.): id.; Ibid.

banian or banyan. The skin: nautical: early C.19—early 20. The Night Watch, 1828, II, 57 (Moe).—2. A lounging-jacket or short dressing-gown: at the RMA, Woolwich, in the 1860s. (EDD.) Ex S.E. sense.

banian- or banyan-days. Days on which sailors eat no flesh: nautical: indirectly in Purchas, 1609; directly in Ovington, 1690. In C.19 (now rare), the term > fairly gen., e.g. in Lamb and Thackeray. Ex the Banians, a Hindu caste or class of traders, who eat not of flesh.

banian (or banyan)-party. 'A picnic party from a man-of-war': RN: mid-C.19–20. Bowen. Ex prec. Cf. banzai party, q.v.

banister, bannister. A baluster: 1667 (OED): sol. until mid-C.18, then S.E. By a corruption of the earlier baluster: see W. banjax. To ruin, to defeat, to destroy: Anglo-Irish: C.20. (Desmond O'Neill, Life Has No Price, 1959.) Cf.:-

banjaxed. Broken, smashed, out of order: Anglo-Irish intensive: since ca. 1920. Blend of 'banged about' + 'smashed'? Given fresh impetus, 1970s, in England by the popular Irish broadcaster Terry Wogan.

banjo, n. A bed-pan: ca. 1850–1910. Like the next sense, ex the shape.—2. A shovel: Durham miners'; builders'; also Aus.: C.20. Hence, in WW1, an entrenching tool.—3. A sandwich; usu. 'a cob or roll cut in halves with something eatable between the halves; a rather outside sandwich' (Tempest): c., low, and army: since ca. 1919. In Malaya and in Cyprus, 1950s, it was in very common use among Army Other Ranks, as in egg banjo, chip banjo, etc., produced at all hours by the camp char-wallah (P.B.). It has, among trawlermen, the nuance 'a large, thick slice of bread topped with a thick slice of cheese' (W. Mitford, Lovely She Goes, 1969); and as 'sandwich', was still current among RM in N. Ireland, early 1970s (Hawke).—4. Hence, 'any food stolen from the cookhouse. Any "dodgy grub"—food that has been smuggled out of the kitchen or officers' Mess' (Tempest): prisoners' c.: mid-C.20.—5. A shoulder of mutton: Aus.: since ca. 1920. B., 1942.—6. A fireman's shovel: railwaymen's: since ca. 1945. (Railway, 2nd.) Cf. sense 2; orig. an American tramps' term.—7. A 'disc signal repeater with black line and white background' (Railway, 2nd): railwaymen's: since ca. 1955.—8. A frying pan: Aus.: since late C.19.—9. In Aus., Banjo is a nickname for any man surnamed Pat(t)erson: since early C.20. Ex the famous poet, A. B. 'Banjo' Paterson (1864–1941).

banjo, v. To force a door or a window: c.: later C.20. Now!, 10 Apr. 1981.—2. To smash or defeat: Parachute Regt. in the Falkland Is.: 1982. (Robert Fox, Listener, 1 July 1982, p. 16.) Cf. synon. RM wellie and SAS mallet.

banjo box. A wooden box for washing alluvial metal: Aus. miners': late C.19–20. (Sarah Champion, Bonanza, 1942.) Ex shape; cf. banjo, n., 2.

banjoey. A banjoist: London society: 1890s. Ex banjoist + joey, a clown. Ware, 'Said to be a trouville by the Prince of Wales [King Edward VIII], who brought banjo orchestras into fashion, being a banjoey himself.'

bank, n. A lump sum; one's fortune: coll.: C.19—early 20. An extension of C.16–18 S.E. bank, a sum or amount of money.—2. As the Bank, Millbank Prison: c.: C.19.—3. The issuing of pocket money: Public Schools': late C.19–20. Ernest Raymond, Tell England, 1922.—4. In on the bank, subsisting on bank loans: Aus. coll.: C.20. F.B. Vickers, First Place to the Stranger, 1955, 'Chris Cotter came over to Jingiddy on train days and saw the farmers who were "on the bank" then, instead of as before touring round the farms.'—5. See go to the bank.

bank, v. To purloin; put in a safe place; go equal or fair shares: c.: C.19–20.

bank-note. A piece of toilet-paper: Bootham School:—1925 (Bootham).

Bank of England Team. Aston Villa Football Club: Northern sporting: from mid-Dec. 1935. Ex the very large fees paid out by this club to get such players as might save it from relegation.

bank on. To anticipate as certain: from ca. 1880: coll. >, by 1910, S.E. To consider as safe as money in the bank: cf. safe as the Bank of England.

bank up, v.i. and t. To complete, almost to excess: North Country coal districts' coll.:—1896 (Ware). Ex 'building up a huge fire'.

banker. A river running flush—or almost flush—with the top of its banks: Aus.:—1888; coll. by 1890 and 'accepted' by 1900—if not before. Hence come a banker, '(of a river) to become flooded' (B., 1959); and run a banker, q.v.: both Aus. coll., the latter, judging by Wilkes's quot'ns, the common.—2. An 'assisting locomotive' (Railway, 2nd): railwaymen's coll. > j.: C.20.—3. 'The man who holds a stock of forged notes for those who give them out or try to do so' (Petch, 1966): c.: C.20.—4. See bawker; double-bank; 3 bankers.

Banker Chapel Ho. Whitechapel; hence, vulgar language: East London:—1909; virtually † by 1930. Ware, 'A ludicrous Italian translation—Bianca, white; cappella, chapel... Anglicisation entering in, the first word got into "Banker" and the second back into "Chapel", with the addition of the rousing and cheery "oh!"' bankers. Clumsy boots or shoes: C.19, † by 1890.

Bankers' Battalion, the. 'The 26th (Service) Battalion of the Royal Fusiliers, raised early in 1915 mainly from Bank Clerks and Accountants' (F. & G.): army coll.: 1915–18.

bankrupt cart. A one-horse chaise: ca. 1785–95 and very sectional. Grose, 2nd ed., 'Said to be so called by a Lord Chief Justice, from their being so frequently used on Sunday jaunts by extravagant shopkeepers and tradesmen.'

bankruptcy list, to be put on the. To be completely knocked out: pugilistic: ca. 1820–60. Egan, Randall's Diary, 1823.

banks. Rag shops: Aus.: C.20. (B., 1942.) Cf. rag shop, 3, the origin.

Bankside ladies. Harlots, esp. of the theatrical quarter: coll.: C.17. (Randolph, 1638.) In 1721, Styrpe 'explains': 'The Bank-Side where the Stews were' (OED).

banner. See cary the banner.

bannister. See banister.

bannock. A hard ship's-biscuit: nautical catachresis: late C.19–20. Bowen.

banshee wail. An air-raid warning; the moaning of the siren: coll.: WW2, then nostalgic.

bant. To follow a special dietary for the reduction of obesity: from 1865; soon coll. Ex banting, such a dietary (1863), devised by W. Banting, a London cabinet-maker: a word coll. by the next year, S.E. by 1870, but now ob.

banter. Ridicule, esp. if wantonly merry or supposedly humorous. B.E., 1690: 'a pleasant way of prating, which seems in earnest, but is in jest, a sort of ridicule'. In 1688 it was s.; Swift described it, in A Tale of a Tub, 1704, as an 'Alsatia phrase'; but in C.18 it came gradually to mean harmless raillery, and by 1800 it attained S.E. In the RAF, late 1970s, it is used for 'Chatter about nothing important' (S/Ldr G.D. Wilson). Ex:-

banter, v. Ridicule, make fun of (1667, Pepys); in C.18, prob. ca. 1750, it lost both its sting and its s. associations and > S.E.—2. As = to cheat, deceive, impose on, it was current only ca. 1685–1820. (B.E.) Etymology problematic; but if—as Swift, in 1710, says—it 'was first borrowed from the bullies in White Fairs', then it is perhaps a perversion of † S.E. ban, to chide.

banter (someone) down. To persuade him to lower his price: market traders': C.20. M.T.

banterer, bantering. The agent and action of banter, v.: q.v. bantling. A bastard, lit. a child conceived on a bench and not in the marriage-bed: late C.16–17 and, in this sense, certainly not lower than coll. But = a child, a brat, it was (see B.E. and Grose) s. in late C.17–18.

Bantustan. 'Self-governing territory set aside for non-whites of Bantu stock: since 1948' (A.C. Partridge, 1968): S. African. On analogy of Afghanistan, Pakistan, etc.

banyan. See banian.

banyan-days and -party. See banian-days and -party.

banzai party. Naval men going ashore on a spree. The same as a hurrah-party, for banzai is Japanese for hurrah, 'the phrase dating from the British Navy's enthusiasm for any thing Japanese during the Russian war' (1904–5); ob. Bowen.

bapper. A baker: Scot. coll.: mid-C.19—early 20. (EDD.) Pej. ex hap, a bread-cake.

Bappo. A baptist: Aus.: since ca. 1925. (B., 1953.) Cf. Congo, Metho, Presbo, the other main Nonconformist sects.

baptise. Esp. of wine, to dilute: C.17—early 19. Healey, Theophrastus, 1636. Cf. christen.

baptist. 'A pickpocket caught and ducked' (Bee): ca. 1820–50. Ex anabaptist, q.v.

baptised. Drowned: Aus.: since ca. 1830. Brian Penton's novels, passim. Ironic.

bar, n. One pound sterling; orig. a sovereign: c. and low: late C.19–20. (J.W. Horsley, I Remember, 1912.) Hence half a bar, ten shillings, then 50 pence. Direct ex Romany; the gipsies' bar prob. derives ex Romany bauro, heavy or big—cf. Gr. βάρυς.—2. An excuse; a yarn, a 'tale': army, but esp. in the Guards: since ca. 1910. Gerald Kersh, Bill Nelson, 1942, 'He had a good bar though, it was on his pass. He'd been trying to get some geezer out of a shelter'; Roger Grinstead, 1943 and 1946, records soft bar (a persuasive story), cakey bar (a downright lie) and to spin the bar. Ex debar(ring)?—3. A slice of bread: Bootham School: C.20. Bootham, 1925.—4. As the Bar, Marble Bar, a township in N.W. Australia: Aus. coll.: from ca. 1910. (Ion L. Idriess, Flynn of the Inland, 1932.) Cf. the Alice.—5. In have a bar (on), to have an erection: low: C.20. Ex hardness.—6. In can't stand or won't or wouldn't have a bar of, to detest; deny or reject; to be unable to tolerate: Aus. coll.: since the 1930s. Margaret Trist, Now That We're Laughing, 1945; Alex Buzo, Rooted, prod. 1969, pub. 1973, at I, iii, where Bentley remarks, 'The bloke got all excited... saying it was Hammo's fault... Hammo wouldn't have a bar of that. "My fault?" he said, "That's a laugh."' Wilkes suggests perhaps ex musical bar.—7. See over the bar.

bar, to exclude, prohibit, object to, and bar, prep. = except, have always (from C.16, C.18 resp.) been S.E., though not quite literary since ca. 1880: they are idiomatic, not pedantic, and here they are noted only as a corrective to F. & H. Note, however, that W. considers bar, to cold-shoulder, to be university s.: also, the Public Schools' sense, 'to dislike (intensely)', may be s.: late C.19–20: see quotation at rag, v.t.

Bar Abbas and Bar Jonas. The two coffee-bars, in the Vatican, for the immured Cardinals and their subordinates: the English-speaking Cardinals': since ca. 1950.

bar-fly. 'A frequenter of bars and saloons, beer parlours, etc.' (Leechman, 1976): Can., adopted ca. 1930, ex US; not unknown elsewhere in the Commonwealth.

bar-keeper. A bar-keeper: coll.: late C.19–20. Abbr. bar-keeper. bar of chocolate. In get a bar of . . ., to receive praise from a senior officers: RN: since ca. 1941. (Granville.) Cf. the army synon. strawberry.

bar of soap. Dope (drugs): rhyming s.: later C.20. Haden-Guest, 1972.

bar-rabble. A pre-arranged 'famine', q.v.: Bootham School: late C.19–20. (Bootham.) See also bar, n., 3.

bar-steward. A bastard: joc., orig. mostly Londoners'; common in Forces: since late 1920s. Euph. or polite.

bar-stock, be on the. To carry 'the daily supply of liquor from the store-room to the bar': (liners') nautical coll.: C.20. Bowen.

bar the bubble. 'To except against the general rule, that he who lays the odds must always be adjudged the loser; this is restricted to bets laid for liquor' (Grose, 2nd ed.): drinking: late C.18–early 19. Punning bubble, a deception, + bib (or bibber) as a drinking term.

baragan tailor. A rough-working tailor: tailors', ca. 1870–1914. Ex barragan, a kind of fustian.

barb, n. A barbiturate: addicts' coll.: adopted, ca. 1950, ex US.

barb, v.t. To clip or shave gold. (Ben Jonson in The Alchemist.) C.17 c. Ex to barber.

Barbados. To transport to (formerly, the) Barbados: coll. >, by 1700, S.E.: ca. 1650–1850.

barbar. A scholarship candidate from another school: Durham School: late C.19–20. Ex L. barbarus, a stranger, a barbarian. Cf. ski, q.v.

barbary. Difficult in a tough way: army in N. Africa and N.W. Europe, 1942–5, and in the Army generally for at least three decades afterwards. A barbary bugger was a tough and bloody-minded officer or NCO; (of the enemy) 'They're a bit barbary tonight' (inflicting harassing fire, etc.); or, to an equal: 'Don't get barbary with me, mate' ('or else . . .!', implied). Perhaps ex 'the Barbary Coast', but certainly influenced by:-

barbary (or bobbery) wallah. An ill-tempered person: army and RAF: late C.19–earlier 20. (Jackson.) L.A. noted 'used esp. by and to English-speaking Iraklis [in 1941–5]'. Prob. from bobbery, q.v., and influenced by Barbary pirates.

barbed-wire, hanging on the (old). See hanging . . .

barbed-wire blues (or fever). Prisoner-of-war camp dependency or disgust: prisoner-of-war: 1941–5. The former is an adaptation of George Gershwin's famous title Rhapsody in Blue. Cf. wire-happy.

barber, n. A thick faggot; any large piece of timber: Winchester College: C.19–20.—2. See barber a joint.—3. A hotel-keeper: Aus.: since ca. 1925. A gossip.—4. A tramp: Aus.: since ca. 1930. B., 1943.—5. As the Barber, a log fog that, off Halifax (Can.), is swept along by a bitterly cold wind and will 'cut one to the very bone' (Basil Hall, 1st series, 1831): nautical.—6. In that's the barber, a street saying of ca. 1760–1825 signifying approbation. (George Parker, A View of Society, 1781.) Cf. such almost meaningless c. pp. as all serene; get your hair cut; how's your poor feet; have a banana.—7. For who robbed the barber? see he's a poet. See also she couldn't cook hot water for a barber.

barber, v. See barberise, and barb, v.

barber a joint. To rob a bedroom while the occupant sleeps: c.: C.20. Also barber, one who does this.

barber-monger. A fop: coll., C.17–18. (Shakespeare.) Frequently visiting the barber.

barber-shop harmony. 'Said derisively of male quartets. From 1909 at latest' (Leechman): Can. coll.: by 1962, S.E. (Prof. F.E.L. Priestley, 1965).

barberise; also barber. Act as a deputy in the writing of (a task or an imposition): University and Public School: ca. 1850–80. ('Cuthbert Bede', 1853.) Ex tradition of a learned barber so employed.

barberiser. A deck-planing machine: nautical: C.20. (Bowen.) Because it 'shaves' so delicately.

barber's block. The head: from ca. 1820. Scott.—2. An over-dressed man:—1876; ob. by 1930. Both ex the wooden block on which barbers displayed a wig.

barber's cat. A weak, sickly-looking, esp. if thin, person: from ca. 1860; ob. (H., 3rd ed.) Ware suggests that it is a corruption of bare brisket, q.v.—2. A loquacious, gossipy, or tale-bearing person: often like the barber's cat—all wind and piss: mostly military: late C.19–20. F. & G.

barber's chair. A harlot, 'as common as a barber's chair' (Grose). From ca. 1570; † by 1890. See e.g. Burton's Anatomy and Motteux's translation of Pantagruel. (The whole phrase = very common, fit for general use.) Cf. the later town bike.

barber's clerk. A person overdressed: from ca. 1830 (ob.), esp. among mechanics and artisans. The term occurs in Dickens. Cf. barber-monger, q.v.—2. Hence, A well-groomed seaman not much use at his job: nautical: early C.19–20. It occurs in Bill Truck, 1822.

barber's knife. A razor: C.18–early 19: coll. verging on (? achieving) S.E. barber's knock. 'A double knock, the first hard and the second soft as if by accident' (F. & H. rev.): ca. 1820–60. Bee.

barber's music. Harsh, discordant music (—1660); † by 1800. Coll. bordering on S.E. (a cittern was provided by the barber for his waiting customers.)

barber's sign. Penis and testicles: low: late C.18–19. Grose, 2nd ed., explains this scabrous pun: see Grose, P.

barbly. Babble; noise: pidgin: from ca. 1860. (B. & L.) Cf. bobbery, q.v.

Barclay Perkins. Stout: Cockney:—1909; virtually †. (Ware.) Ex the brewers, Barclay, Perkins & Co.

Barclay's Bank, often shortened to Barclay, or even barclay. Of the male, to masturbate: since ca. 1930. Rhyming s. on w(h)ank.

Barcoo buster. 'A westerly gale in mid or south Queensland' (B., 1959): C.20.

Barcoo challenge. Either of two methods of indicating that one is challenging for the day's tally at sheepshearing: Aus. rural: ca. 1890–1940. B., 1959.

Barcoo rot. Gallipoli sores: Aus. soldiers': 1915. Ex the literal Australianism.

Barcoo vomit. 'Barcoo rot: land scurvy. Barcoo vomit, another old bush sickness' (B., 1959): Aus. rural: C.20.

bard (or bar'd) dice. See barred dice.

Bardia Bill. The 6-inch gun that, in 1941, bombarded Tobruk pretty regularly: Services: 1941, then ob. (Granville.) Cf. Asiatic Annie.

bardies. See starve the bardies.

bare-belly. 'A sheep without wool on its belly or inner portions of its hind legs' (B., 1959): Aus. rural coll.: mid-C.19–20.

bare-bone(s). A skinny person: coll.; late C.16–early 19.

bare-brisket. The same: proletarian: C.19–early 20. Suggested by prec.

bare-bum. A dinner-jacket, as opp. to tails, the full-dress evening coat: Aus. low: C.20.

bare decker. 'Clearing the tender to the last scrap of [coal-] dust was known as creating "a bare decker"' (McKenna, 2, p. 142): railwaymen's: earlier C.20.

bare navy (or N.). The rigid scale of preserved rations, without fresh meat or supplementaries: naval: late C.19–20. Bowen.

bareback riding; or roughriding. Coition without contraceptive: male: C.20.

Barebone's Parliament. The Little Parliament (120 members nominated by Cromwell and sitting July–Dec. 1653): coll. nickname. Ex Praise-God Barbon, one of its members. OED.

bared, be. To be shaved: low: ca. 1860–1910. B. & L.

barf. To vomit; to be sea- (or air)-sick: Can., prob. ex US: since (?)ca. 1950. Echoic. (Tuchman, 1976.)

bargain. In beat a or the bargain, to haggle: ca. 1660–1700: coll. >, almost imm., S.E. Killigrew; Pepys (OED).—2. In make the best of a bad bargain, to combat a misfortune: from ca. 1790; coll. till ca. 1840, then S.E. Boswell, 'According to the vulgar phrase, "making the best of a bad bargain"' (OED). But the phrase is found as early as 1663 (Pepys) with market († by 1850), as 1680 (L'Esrange) with the rarer game († by 1800); in C.20, we often say best of a bad job. Apperson.—3. See Dutch bargain; sell a bargain.

barge, n. Printers': either a 'case' in which there is a dearth of the most useful letters or a receptacle for 'spaces' if forms are being corrected away from 'case'. Perhaps j. rather than s.: from ca. 1870; ob. H., 5th ed.—2. Little cricket: Sherborne School; late C.19–20. Prob. ex clumsiness of the stump used as a bat.—3. See barges.—4. A dispute: low: late C.19–20. Ex barge, v., 1.—5. A crowd, a mellay: Scottish Public Schools': C.20. Ian Miller, School Tie, 1935.—6. Hence, the crowd in an RFC (later, RAF) mess: since ca. 1916. D.G. Milne, Wings of Wrath, ?1920.—7. A straw hat: Cranbrook, Tonbridge and prob. other Public Schools': C.20. Cf the S.E. boater.

barge, v. Speak roughly or abusively to: ca. 1850–1920. Albert Smith, 1861, 'Whereupon they all began to barge the master at once'. Prob. ex barge. The term survives as barge at, q.v.—2. Whence, at Charterhouse and Uppingham, to hustle (a person): late C.19–20.—3. Hence (?), gen. barge about: to move, or rush, heavily (about): late C.19–20. (W.) Ex a barge's clumsy motion. Cf. the next four entries.—3. To push or knock: Public Schools': late C.19–20. P.G. Wodehouse, Tales of St Austin's, 1903, 'To him there was something wonderfully entertaining in the process of "bargeing" the end man off the edge of the form into space, and upsetting his books over him.'

barge-arse. A person with a rotund behind: low: ca. 1870–1910. Whence barge-arsed, which Mr Aldous Huxley would prob. define as cacopygous.

barge at. To argue roughly with: Cockneys' late C.19.–20. Cf. barge, v., 1 barge in, v.i. To intrude; to interfere, esp. if rudely or clumsily: C.20. Manchon. Cf.:-

barge into. To collide with: orig. Uppingham School (—1890). In C.20, gen., and often = meet, encounter esp. if unexpectedly. Cf. barge, v., 2, barge in.

barge-man. (Gen. pl.) A large, black-headed maggot of the kind that, formerly, infested ship's biscuits: nautical: early C.19–early 20. W.N. Glascock, Sailors and Saints, 1829 (Moe).

barge-mate. The officer taking command of a ship when notabilities visited it: RN: ca. 1880–1920. Bowen.

barge-pole. The largest stick in a faggot; hence any large piece of wood. Winchester College, from ca. 1850; †. Cf. barber, n.—2. A window-pole: Botham School: C.20. Bootham.—3. See wouldn't touch with a barge-pole.

barge the point. To 'argue the toss': C.20. (Paunshop Murder.) Cf. barge, v., 1.

bargee. A lout; an uncultivated person: Public Schools' coll.: 1909, P. G. Wodehouse, Mike.

barges. Imitation breasts: proletarian: ca. 1884–90. Ware adds: 'Which arrived from France, and prevailed for about four years... From their likeness to the wide prow of canal-barges'.

barging match. A loud argument: RN lowerdeck: late C.19–20. Taffrail, Stand By!, 1916.—2. A collision: lowerdeck: C.20. Taffrail, Pincher Martin, O.D., 1916.

barishnya. 'An unmarried girl, character not guaranteed. A Murmansk Expeditionary Force term': 1919. (F. & G.) Ex Russian.

bark. An Irish person: C.19. See Barks.—2. The human skin: from ca. 1750; in C.18, dial.—3. A cough: from ca. 1870; coll., as is the vbl n., barking, (a fit of) coughing (—1788: see Grose at Barkshire).—4. An objectionable fellow; a very severe one: Cockneys': from ca. 1910. Ex bastard with allusion to dog's bark or snarl.

bark, v.t. Scrape the skin off: from ca. 1850, e.g. in Tom Brown's Schooldays.—2. V.i. To cough: from ca. 1880–3. To sit up at night to watch the fire when camping out in the open veld' (Pettman): S. African: 1873, Boyle, To the Cape for Diamonds. Ex a dog's barking.

bark and growl. A trowel: rhyming s.: since ca. 1870. D.W. Barrett, Navvies, 1880.

bark at the moon. To agitate, or to clamour, uselessly: C.17–20. Coll.; S.E. in C.19–20. With against for at, C.15–17; S.E. after 1550, having been coll.

bark off, take the. To reduce in value; as in Dickens, 1849. (Take the skin off.)

bark up the wrong creek. An occ. C.20 var. of:-

bark up the wrong tree. To be at fault in an attempt, an aim, a method; follow a false scent; deal with the wrong person. Orig. US (—1833); anglicised ca. 1890, but less in Britain than in Aus. and NZ. Coll. rather than s. Ex a dog hunting a racoon.

barker. A pistol: Scott (1815), Dickens, Charles Kingsley. Var. of c., and earlier, barking iron.—2. (Nautical) a lower-deck gun on a ship of war: ca. 1840–90. OED.—3. One who, standing in front of shops or shows, attracts the attention of passers-by (there were (1937) several in the Strand): B.E., 1690; Dyche's Dictionary, 1748, and Grose, 1785; coll. by 1800, S.E. by 1850. Cf. bow-wow shop, q.v.—4. A noisy brawler: Caxton, 1483; † by 1660 in England, but extant in US in C.19.—5. (University) a noisy, assertive man; also, favourably, a great swell: C.19.—6. A sheep-drover's assistant, deputising a dog: Greenwood, Outcasts of London, 1879.—7. A person with a nasty cough: from ca. 1880.—8. One who 'barks' as at bark, v., 3, q.v.: 1873. Pettman.—9. A sausage: lower classes' and soldiers': C.20. Ex that once excessively popular song, 'Oh vare, and oh vare, is my leedle vee dog? Oh vare, oh vare, is he gone?' F. & G.

barkey (or barky). 'A vessel well liked by its crew' (Bowen); 'Jack's fancy phrase for a favourite ship' is the gloss in W.N. Glascock, The Naval Sketch-Book, II, 1826: early C.19–early 20. Clearly a diminutive of naval bark or barque.—2. Hence, a little bark: coll.: from ca. 1840. Barham (OED).

barking, adj. Raving mad: since ca. 1965. John Welcome, Hell Is where You Find it, 1968, 'She had something, that girl. She's mad, that's the worst of it. Bonkers, barking, round the bend.' Ex dogs suffering from rabies? P.B.: David Hare, in Plenty, prod. and pub. 1978, at sc. 7 set in 1956, has a senior diplomat say: 'Some of the senior men, their wives are absolutely barking.'

barking belly. A 4-inch anti-aircraft gun: R Aus. N: WW2. B., 1943.

Barking Creek, have been to. To have a bad cough: a ca. 1820–50 var. of Barkshire, 2, q.v. Bee.

barking(-)dog navigator. mostly in pl. 'A term of abuse (or of respect) for those unschooled coasting [coastal] skippers who navigate by the different sounds of the local dogs barking. [In] R. Ruark, "The Long Voyage Home", [n.d.]' (Peppitt.) mainly MN, and prob. throughout C.20.

barking irons. Pistols: late C.18–early C.19 c.; recorded by Grose, 1785.—2. In the Navy, ca. 1830–70, large duelling pistols.

Barkis is willin(g). An indication of a man's willingness to marry; later, to do anything. Coll. Ex the character in David Copperfield, 1849–50.

Barks. The Irish: either low or c. To judge by. 'No. 747', in use ca. 1845, but prob. much earlier. Cf.:

Barkshire. Ireland: C.19.—2. Also, late C.18–19, as in Grose, 2nd ed., 'A member or candidate for Barkshire; said of one troubled with a cough, vulgarly styled barking'; ob.

barley broth. 'Oil of barley', i.e. strong beer: 1785, Grose; † by 1860.

barley-bun gentleman. A rich gentleman eating poorly and otherwise living in a miserly way: coll.: C.17. Minsheu.

barley-cap. A tippler: late C.16–17. E. Gilpin, 1598.—2. Have on, or wear, a barley-cap, to be drunk, a drunkard: late C.16–17 coll.

Barley Sugar Brigade, The. A late C.19 military nickname for the Army Service Corps, bestowed on account of their headgear, 'blue forage caps (the pill-box) with a half band of yellow and a red stripe.' The mixture of red and yellow resembled the old-fashioned sweet. (Carew.) Cf. Sugar-Stick Brigade, q.v.

Barlinnie drumstick. "Piece of leadpipe with a few nails in it. If you're caught in possession, you kid on you're a plumber on his way home." Barlinnie is Glasgow's rightly dreaded prison' (Edmund Ward, The Hanged Man, 1976): Glasgow c.: since ca. 1930 or a little earlier.

barmaid. A C. 20 Harrow term, thus in Lunn: 'He put on the double collar popularly known as the "barmaid", the monopoly of three-yearers.'

barmaid's blush. 'A drink of port and lemonade, or rum and raspberry' (B., 1942): Aus.: C.20. Ex its vivid colour.—2. That special shade of pink paint which, used on invasion craft, was suggested by Lord Louis Mountbatten and therefore known, semi-officially, as Mountbatten pink: Services': ca. 1943–5. P-G-R.

barmpot. A person slightly deranged: since ca. 1950. Sunday Times, 14 July 1963 (competition). A blend of barmy + potty.

barmy, n. A mad or a very eccentric person: non-cultured: from ca. 1880. Also in dial. (EDD.) See:—

barmy. Very eccentric; dial: mid-C.19–20. Ex barmy, full of barm, i.e. yeast. Cf. the (mainly Yorkshire) proverbial saying, his brains will work without barm, Ray, 1670; Burns, 1785, 'My barmish noddle's working fine' (OED); Ware, 1909, notes the var. barmy in the crumplet. The EDD remarks, 'frothing like barm [yeast], hence, full of ferment, flighty, empty-headed'. Perhaps its popularity was assisted by the County of Kent lunatic asylum at Barming. Cf. balmly, q.v.

barn. A public ball-room: London: ca. 1892–1915. Ware derives ex Highbury Barn, a 'garden ball-room'; possibly ex barn dance. Cf. Barner, q.v.—2. See parson's barn.

Barn dance, the; also the scramble. Pedestrians scurrying across a street diagonally as soon as the indicator says 'Go' or 'Cross': at crossings where all traffic halts: Aus. and NZ: since ca. 1950. The former was named after Commissioner Barnes—Traffic Commissioner of New York City—the inventor of the buzz crossing; origin of latter, obvious.

barn-door. A target too big to be missed; coll.: late C.17–20; hence barn-door practice, battues in which the game can hardly escape.—2. A batsman that blocks every ball: from ca. 1880; ob. Cf. stonevallier.

barn-door savage. A yokel: ca. 1880–1910. (F. & H., rev.) Ex dial.

barn-mouse, bitten by a. Topsy: late C.18–early 19. Grose, 2nd ed.

barn-stormer. A strolling player: theatrical—1859 (H., 1st ed.): coll. by 1884 (OED's date), S.E. by 1900.—2. barn-storming, ranting acting, must also have long preceded the earliest OED record (1884). They frequently performed and stormed in barns: see, e.g., Hugh Walpole's Rogue Herries.—3. One who, ca. 1919–22, did acrobatics, wing-walking, etc., on aeroplanes; also, any pilot who put on a show for the small-town people of the country: Can. (Leechman.) Adopted in Britain, and still (1979) current.

barn-storming. The corresponding n. of the activities and practices of barn-stormers.

Barnaby dance. To move quickly or unevenly: C.18–19 coll. Ex 'Barnaby, an old dance to a quick movement' (Grose, 2nd ed.) popular in C.17. Barnaby, it seems, was a dancing jester.

Barnaby Rudge. A judge: rhyming s.: C.20. Franklyn, Rhyming.

barnacle. A too constant attendant; an acquaintance keeping uncomfortably close to one: from ca. 1600; coll.—2. One who speaks through his nose: ca. 1550–1660.—3, 4, 5, 6. In t c., there are at least four senses:—A pickpocket: (?C.18–) C.19; a good job easily got: late C.17–18 (B.E.); a gratuity given, at horse-sales, to grooms: late C.17–18; a decoy swindler: late C.16–early 17: Greene, Dekker.—7. 'A senior officer who hangs on to the job to which his juniors hope to be appointed': RN: late C.19–20. Bowen.

barnacled, ppl adj. Wearing spectacles: from ca. 1690; coll.

barnacles. Spectacles: in mid-C.16–17, gen. coloured; in C.18–19, any spectacles: coll. Prob. ex barnacle, a powerful bit for horse or ass (as in Wyclif, 1382), for these old spectacles pinched the nose considerably.—2. In c. (late C.17–18: B.E.), fetters.

barnard. The (gen. drunken) man acting as a decoy in Barnard's Law (lay): c.: ca. 1530–1630. Anon., Dice Play, 1532; Greene; Dekker. Occ. bernard.

barnard's law. 'A drunken cosinage by cards' (Greene): c.: ca. 1530–1630.

barndook. See bundook.

Barner, barner. 'A "roaring" blade, a fast man of North London', Ware, who derives it ex 'Highbury Barn, one of those rustic London gardens which became common casinos': North London: ca. 1860–80. Cf. barn, q.v.

Barneries. The Adelphi Stores, The Strand, London: London: 1887, Referee, 20 Feb.; + by 1910. Ex Miss Barnes, the proprietress. Ware.

barnet! Nonsense: ca. 1800–80, Christ's Hospital. ?cf. barney, 3.—2. Barnet, as abbr. for Barnet Fair, prob. dates from ca. 1880. See quot'n at Sir Garnet.

Barnet cut. A haircut, esp. in prison; one such cut indicates a short sentence: since ca. 1940: low s., verging on c. Frank Norman, article 'Delinquently Yours' in Lilliput, Feb. 1959. Ex:—

Barnet Fair. The hair: rhyming s., orig. (—1857) thieves'. 'Ducange Anglicus'. In C.20, often Barnet.

barney, n. A jollification, esp. if rowdy; an outing: from late 1850s (H., 1st ed.); ob. by 1930. ? ex Barney, typical of a noisy Irishman; cf. paddy = anger (W.).—2. Hence (?), a crowd: low s. or c.:—1859 (Ibid.).—3. Humbug, cheating: low: 1864 (H., 3rd ed.). This sense may have a different origin: cf. 'come! come! that's Barney Castle!... an expression often uttered when a person is heard making a bad excuse in a still worse cause', recorded in the Denham Tracts, 1846–59, Apperson, whose other two Barney proverbs suggest that the ultimate reference is to 'the holding of Barnard Castle by Sir George Bowes during the Rising of the North in 1569', E.M. Wright, Rustic Speech, 1913.—4. Hence, an unfair sporting event, esp. a boxing match: orig. Cockney (Sessions, July 1877); also common in Aus. and NZ: late C.19–20. (B., 1941.) Whence do a barney, to prevent a horse from winning: turf: from ca. 1870.

B. & L.—5. Hence (?), 'eyewash': 1884+.—6. A quarrel; a fight: proletarian: since late C.19. (Cheapjack.) Often a bit of a barney, a scuffle, fight or heated argument; esp. rowdiness in a public house: late C.19–20. In later C.20 this is the predominant sense. Prob. ex sense 1.—7. As Barney, 'inevitable' Aus. nickname of men surnamed Allen: C.20. Ex Barney Allen, a famous and very wealthy Australian book-maker.

barney, v. To argue (about something): Aus.: C.20. (B., 1942.) Ex n., 6.

barney, adj. Unfair, pre-arranged: 1885 (Bell's Life, 3 Jan.: '... barney contests have been plentiful'). Ex n., 4, 5.

Barney Dillon. A shilling(g): Scots rhyming s.: C.20. Daily Telegraph, 8 Mar. 1935.

Barney moke. A pocket: rhyming s. (on poke): orig. (—1941) c.; by 1950, low s.—2. (N. and v.) Poke, both literally and sexually: rhyming s.: late C.19–20.

barney over (something). To quarrel about it: Aus.: C.20. (B., 1959.) Cf. barney, v.

Barney's. 'St Barnabas, a noted "high" church': Oxford University: late C.19–20. Collinson.

Barney's bull, like. Extremely fatigued or (physically) distressed: a low c.p. of late C.19–20, esp. among Australians. Often was added either bitched, buggered, and bewildered or well fucked and far from home: these two phrases occ. stand by themselves. The phrase was, orig., more prob. English than Aus., and nautical, at that! Masefield has 'blows like Barney's bull'—a full gale. Lt Cdr. F.L. Peppitt explains it, 1975, as 'blowing strong enough to blow the horns off a bull', which describes a 'wind-strength encountered by Van der Decken of the Flying Dutchman' in a translation, published in 1832, of A. Jal. Scènes de la vie maritime; he tentatively suggests that Barney's is a corruption of Boanerges, 'The Sons of Thunder' (St Mark, III, 17).—2. All behind like Barney's bull. Late; delayed: Aus.: since ca. 1920. Baker.

barns. Shorts; trousers: Marlborough College: since ca. 1920.

barnshoot. See banchoot.

Barwell ague. Venereal disease: ca. 1670–1850. Ray, 1678. Apperson.

baron. 'Anything free in the Navy is said to be "on the Baron" or "Harry Freemans"' (Granville): C.20. Joc.—2. An Army commander: military: WW1+. (F. & G.) Ex his power and importance; this explanation applies also to:—3. A recognised businessman, or boss, among the prisoners: prison c.: since ca. 1930. (Norman).—4. One who has money: beatniks': since late 1950s. (Anderson.)

Baron George. A stout man: South London: ca. 1882–1915. Ware derives it ex 'a Mr George Parkes, a portly theatrical lessee in S. London, who came to be called Baron George; e.g. "He's quite the Baron George!"' baron-strangling. 'On visiting terms with a fairly well-off family in a foreign port, distinct from "up-homers" and "feet under the table" where such hospitality was due to a girl friend... Merchant Navy, 1950s' (Peppitt); also RN, since —1935 (John Malin, 1979). Cf. baron, 1, and jam-strangling.

baronet. A sirloin of beef: 1749 (Fielding, Tom Jones). Earlier baron of beef. This baronet, joc., was never much used; † by 1800.

baroning. 'Trafficking. Buying and selling prohibited articles, etc.' (Tempest): prison c.: mid-C.20. See baron, n., 3.

barossa. A girl: Aus. rhyming s., on Barossa Pearl (a popular sweet white wine): later C.20. Bill Hornadge, The Australian Slangue, 1980.

barpo, go. To lose one's nerve or even one's head; to crash: RFC. 1916+. (F. & G.) Perhaps a blend of 'barmy', 'potty', and 'loopy'. P.B.: or was it a corruption of napoo, q.v.?

barrack, n. A piece of 'barracking', q.v.: Aus.: C.20. Vance Palmer, The Passage, 1930.—2. As Barrack, Berwick: nautical coll.: C. 18–20. E.g., a Barrack master was the captain of a Berwick smack carrying 'passengers down the East Coast before the days of steam' (Bowen).

barrack-hack. A woman attending garrison balls year after year: from ca. 1860; ob.—2. A soldier's trull: from ca. 1850; coll. At this word, F. & H. has a long list of English, French, Italian and Spanish synonyms for a prostitute.

barrack-lawyer. Prisons' var. of barrack-room lawyer, 1; one who knows all the rules and regulations: mid-C.20. Tempest.

barrack ranger. A seaman, that in RN Barracks is awaiting draft to a ship: RN: since ca. 1920. Granville.

barrack-rat. (Gen. pl.) Indian Army, non-officers', from ca. 1880, as in Richards, 'Children born in Barracks were referred to as "barrack-rats": it was always a wonder to me how the poor kids survived the heat, and they were washed-out little things.'

barrack-room lawyer. A soldier professing to know military law: army coll.: late C.19–20.—2. Hence, a confirmed 'grouser': army: since ca. 1910. P-G-R.

barrack stanchion. 'Someone who spends a lot of time in shore bases' (John Malin, 1979): RN ironic: C.20.

Barrack (or Barrick) Stove, the. Aden: Services': 1950s. (Peter Sanders.) An extremely hot station.

barracking. Banter, chaff; noisy jeering at either visiting or native cricket or football teams that offend the spectators, esp. at Sydney and Melbourne; not, as the SOD says, 'so as to disconcert players', but merely to demonstrate and emphasise the spectators' displeasure; Aus. (—1890), coll. by 1897. The v., jeer at, interrupt clamorously, appears to have arisen ca. 1880 as a football term, which, in its sporting sense, it remained until ca. 1896; barrack for, however, has always (—1890) meant to support, esp. to support enthusiastically. A barracker, noisy interrupter, is not recorded before 1893; as a supporter, not before 1894. The various words were adopted in England ca. 1920, though they were known there as early as 1900. Either ex Aboriginal borak (n., chaff, fun), as the author of Austral English and the SOD editors contend, or ex costermonger Cockney barrakin, barrikin, gibberish, a jumble of words (—1851), as W. suggests, or else, as I hold, from barrikin influenced by borak. Note, however, that the very able journalist, Guy Innes, says, in a private letter, 1944, 'I have always understood, and indeed believe, that this word originated from the widespread description in Melbourne of the rough teams that used to play football on the vacant land near the Victoria Barracks on the St Kilda Road as barrackers.'

barracks. The Marines' quarters aboard ship: RN coll.: early C.19–20. W.N. Glascock, The Naval Sketch-Book, II, 32, 1826 (Moe).

barracoota, -cota. An inhabitant of Hobart, Tasmania: Aus. nickname (—1898); ob. by 1930. Ex the name of an edible fish. Morris.

barrage. An excessive number or quantity: military: 1917; ob. Ex the myriad shells fired during a barrage.—2. In get a barrage, on the drill-ground or square, to obtain a very smart response to an order; have a barrage taken off, to be 'put through it' on the parade ground: army: since ca. 1919. The sound-effect resembles that of a gun barrage.

barrakin. See barrikin.

barred cater tra(y) or troy. (Gen. pl.) False dice so made that the four (quatre) and the three (trois) were seldom cast: c. of ca. 1600–50. Dekker; Taylor (1630).

barred dice. Card-sharpers' tampered dice: late C.16–17 c. Greene (barddice).

barrel, n. A nickname for a round-bellied male: coll.: C.20.—2. In right into (or up, one's) barrel, decidedly one's interest, concern, business: Aus.: C.20. (B., 1942.) Cf. right up (one's) alley or street, synon.—3. 'The body or ribcage of a horse, donkey or mule' (Donald J. Smith, Horse on the Cut, 1982, p. 175): inland waterways: C.20.—4. See barrel of butter; have over a barrel.

barrel, v. To move rapidly (and usu. dangerously) with motion of a rolling barrel, as 'these damn great lorries come barrelling down the High Street—sure as fate there'll be an accident one of these days': coll.: since (?)mid-C.20. (P.B.)—2. See AUSTRALIAN UNDERWORLD, in Appendix.

barrel-fever. Ill health, disease, caused by excessive drinking: late C.18–20; ob. Grose, 3rd ed., 'He died of the barrel fever'.—2. Hence, delirium tremens: Aus.: C.20. B., 1943.

barrel of butter. A small rock just a wash in the middle of Scapa Flow; hence, back to the barrel, back to the anchorage in the Flow: RN: since ca. 1910. Granville, 1962.

barrel of fat. A hat: Aus. rhyming s.: C.20. Franklyn 2nd.

barrel of treacle. Love: low London: 1883; † by 1920. (Ware.) Ex its sweetness.

barrel the better herring, never a. Nothing to choose between them: coll.: from 1530s; ob. by 1930. Bale, ca. 1540; Jonson, 1633; Fielding, 1736; FitzGerald, 1852. Apperson. Obviously ex the fish-markets.

barrel tinter. Beer: Yorkshire s., not dial.: 1851, Tom Treddlehoyle, Trip to Lunnan. EDD.

Barrell's Blues. (Military) the Fourth Foot Regiment; since ca. 1881, the King's Own Royal Regiment (Lancaster). From its blue facings and its colonel of 1734–49, the celebrated General Wm. Barrell.

barren Joey. A prostitute: NSW, low: C.20. B., 1942.

barrener. A cow not calving for a given season, i.e. for a year: farming coll. > S.E.: from ca. 1870.

barrer. To convey (a 'drunk') home on a barrow: either low Cockney or c.: ca. 1870–1915. Ware.

barres. (Gaming) money lost but not yet paid: C.17–early 19. Ex bar.

Barrikin, occ. barrakidn. Gibberish; a farrago of words; jargon: Cockney's: Henry Mayhew, 1851; ob. Of the prob. Fr. original (baragouin) H., 1st ed., rather aptly remarks that 'Miège calls it "a sort of stuff", for Frenchmen still say Je ne puis rien comprendre à ce baragouin. Cf. barracking, q.v.

barring. For sure, certainly, indubitably; tailors': C.20. Tailor and Cutter, 29 Nov. 1928, 'A powerful shiner, barring'. Abbr. barring none.

barring-out. (Schools) the shutting of the door against a master: from ca. 1700; coll.; S.E. by ca. 1840. Notable instances in Swift and Tennyson.

barrister. See TAVERN TERMS, §3d, in Appendix.

barrister's. A coffee-house affected by thieves: c.: late C.19—early 20. Ex 'a celebrated host of this name' (Ware).

barrow. A 'Black Maria': Aus.: C.20. B., 1942.—2. 'To the bus conductor your ticket is a "brief" and his vehicle a "tub", "kite" or "barrow"' (Evening News, 27 Apr. 1954): since ca. 1945.—3. (Mostly in the Cockney pron., barrer.) A motorcar: esp. in the secondhand-car business: since ca. 1955. Prob. ex sense 2.—3. In on my barrow, giving me trouble: coll.:—1956 (Alan Hunter, Gently by the Shore).—4. In into (one's) barrow, and right up (one's) barrow, variants of barrel, n., 2. B., 1959.

barrow boys, the. Machine-gunners: British army: WW1. 'They were provided with hand barrows to carry the guns, spares and all rest' (Petch). An allusion to London's barrow boys or costermongers.

barrow-bunter. A female costermonger: coll.: mid-C.18—19; ob. by 1890. Smollett, 1771.

barrow-man. A costermonger: C.17—19; S.E. by 1700.—2. A man under sentence of transportation: ca. 1810—50. Lex. Bal., 'Alluding to the convicts at Woolwich, who are principally employed in wheeling barrows full of brick or dirt'.

barrow-tram. An ungainly person: C.19. Lit., b-t. = the shaft of a barrow (C. 16—19).

barrow wallah. A big man (occ., thing); chota wallah, a little man (loosely, thing): Army coll.: late C.19—20. B. & P. Direct ex Hindustani, burra, large.

barrow wheels. 'Cast metal spoked wheels' (Dunford): motorcyclists': since ca. 1950.

bars. Handlebars: cyclists' coll.: late C.19—20.

bart. A harpoon: C.19. Bowen, 'More used by the sword-fishermen than the whalers'. Perhaps an abbr. of the † Westmorland bartle, the large pin in the game of ninepins (EDD).—2. Joc. coll., esp. in address (as in Galsworthy, The White Monkey, 1924), for a baronet, which it abbr. in superscriptions, Bart being much more frequent, formal and polite than Bt.—3. A girl: Aus.: since ca. 1920; 'now practically obsolete', says Baker in 1943. Orig. obscure, unless—as Julian Franklyn has suggested—it rhymes on tart.

barter. A half-volley at cricket: Winchester College, from ca. 1835; there too, the v. = to swipe (1836) and hitting barters (—1890), practice at catching. All, orig. coll., soon > S.E. See F. & H., as well as Mansfield's and Adams's books on the College (1870, 1878 resp.); also W. J. Lewis, who, in his admirable lexicon, The Language of Cricket, 1934, derives it from Robert Barter: 'He entered Winchester College in 1803, and held the post of Warden from 1832 till 1861'; 'He was renowned for his half-volley hits'.

Bartholomew baby. A gaudily dressed doll (1670), a tawdriely dressed woman (1682): the former, coll., soon S.E., the latter always s. Both † by 1850 or so.

Bartholomew(-Boar)-Pig. A fat man: late C.16—17. Roasted pigs were a great attraction at Bartholomew Fair (West Smithfield, London, 1133—1855): see esp. Jonson's Rabelaisian comedy, Bartholomew Fair, 1614.

Bar't's. St Bartholomew's Hospital, London: orig. (from ca. 1880) medical students'.

bas, pron. bahss or bass (and often so written). A 'bastard': low: since ca. 1920 or earlier. G.F. Newman, The Guvnor, 1977.

base over apex is a refined version of arse over tip: from ca. 1925.

base pup. A man, esp. an officer, with a job at a Base, esp. a Base HQ: WW1. R.H. Mottram, The Spanish Farm Trilogy, 1924 (Petch).

base Trojan. A term of abuse: late C.16—early 17. Shakespeare, Henry V.

base wallah. A soldier employed behind the lines; orig. and esp. at a Base: military coll.: 1915—18. (F. & G.) See wallah; and C. E. Montague's Honours Easy. Cf. base pup.

base-walloper. The New Zealanders' preferred version of the prec. entry. As base-wallopers it meant the Staff in general to Australian soldiers in WW2. In an editorial note by Martin Page to his The Songs and Ballads of World War II, 1973.

baseball. 'Small, insignificant. [Orig. and mainly US, "1880 on".] Sometimes heard in Liverpool. Suggested by the small size of the ball in question' (Ware): as Liverpool s., it dates ca. 1890—1915.

basengro. A shepherd: tramps' c.:—1923 (Manchon). Ex Romany, in which -engro (man) is a frequent suffix.

bash, n. Brutality: Aus.: since ca. 1925. (B., 1953).—2. A long—esp. if fast and arduous—ride: cyclists': since ca. 1930. 'The Brighton bash' = London to Brighton and back.—3. An attempt; esp. in have a bash (at something): since ca. 1935.—4. A lively visit or experience or time: Can.: since ca. 1955. Daily Colonist, 2 Apr. 1967. 'The party of 48 chartered a bus for a night on the town including a bash at the Old Forge.'

(Leechman).—5. A copulation: low: since ca. 1930. Mervyn Jones, The New Town, 1953.—6. A route march, particularly that forming part of the annual fitness tests, as '5-mile bash', '9-mile bash': army: since late 1940s. Cf. sense 2. (P.B.).—7. In (to be) on the bash, to be a prostitute: c.: C.20. Prob. suggested by synon. on the batter.—8. In on the bash, on a drunken spree: C.20. Capt. R.W. Campbell, Private Spud Tamson, 1916 (Petch).—9. As the bash, smash and grab: c.: from ca. 1920.—10. In have a bash, to make an attempt; to help; to take part: since ca. 1925. L.A. adds, "Oh, go on—have a bash!"

was frequently used as an encouragement, particularly to someone reluctant to risk the effort': since ca. 1940; by 1980 perhaps slightly ob. Cf. bash on, q.v.

bash, to strike with a crushing blow (—1790), is S.E. in the North, only just S.E.—if not, rather, coll.—in the South. The same is true of the n. (from ca. 1800); certainly neither is dignified. In c., however, it = to beat heavily with the fists only: C.19—20. Vbl n., bashing. The origin is obscure: but prob. it is either echoic or, as W. suggests, a blend of bang + smash, or, again, a thickening of push.—2. To flog: since ca. 1860. B. & L.—3. V.i., to ply as a prostitute: C.20: c. >, by 1930, low s. Gerald Kersh, 1938. Ex bash, n., 7.—4. To sell (personal possessions or Red Cross gifts): prisoners of war: WW2. (Guy Morgan, Only Ghosts Can Live, 1945.) Prompted by synon. flog.—5. See—bash; bash it; give it a bash. 'To indulge in a bout of heavy drinking' (B., 1953): Aus.: since ca. 1935. Gavin Casey, The Wits Are Out, 1947, 'A man's gotta drink... But you can't bash it all the time, the way he does, if you want to get anywhere.'—2. To live gaily, have a good time: general: since ca. 1940. Jack Trevor Story, Mix Me a Person, 1959, has 'bash it around'.

bash into. To meet (a person) by chance: low: from ca. 1920. (Gilt Kid.) Cf. synon. bump into.

bash it up you! Run away and stop bothering me!: Aus., esp. Services': from ca. 1940. B., 1953.

bash on. To 'carry on', bravely and doggedly: orig., soldiers' (1940); then, by 1946, gen. Hence, by 1942, attribute, as in 'the bash-on spirit' (Leader Magazine, 4 Mar. 1950). P.B.: in 1940s—50s often in bash on regardless, a var. of the earlier press on regardless, q.v.

bash the (or one's) bishop. (Of the male) to masturbate: low: late C.19—20. Cf. synon. flog the bishop.

bash up. To 'beat up', to assault, someone: schoolboys', since ca. 1940; also Aus., since ca. 1945. (P.B.; B.P.)

basha. A hut built from bamboo and attap: army: since ca. 1942. Orig. in South-East Asia, and ex Malay: here it may be considered an S.E. borrowing, but it had, by ca. 1955, been transferred, orig. coll. > j., to other parts of the world, e.g. 'sleeping in self-built shelters, or "bashas"', of birch boughs and snow' (John Winton, article on the FAA in Telegraph Sunday mag., 8 Apr. 1979)—which is enough to make a purist shudder! (P.B.)

basher. A prize-fighter: low. Also, but in c., a professional thug. From ca. 1860. Hence, as B-, a nickname for any pugilist who is a slugger rather than a skilled boxer: mostly sporting: late C.19–20.—2. A tin receptacle holding treacle: RN: ca. 1850–1900. Bowen.—3. A boater hat: Bedford, Rugby, and prob. several other Public Schools': C.20. Cf. hard-hitter and barge, 7. See also straw-basher.—4. A Physical Training Instructor: Services' since ca. 1920. (H. & P.) Cf. sense 1, and buster in this sense.—5. 'Buster or basher is very common for mechanics, as is compass-basher, instrument-basher' (Sgt-Pilot F. Rhodes, letter, 1942): RAF: since ca. 1930.—6. Indeed basher has often, since 1941, meant little more than 'fellow', 'chap'. (Partridge, 1945.) P.B.: ob. by 1950, except in compounds: see gravel-basher, square-basher, swede-basher.—7. A fornicator: RAF: from ca. 1935. Yet another sexual sadism.—8. A hoodlum: Aus.: since ca. 1920. (B., 1943.) Cf. sense 1.—9. 'A young sailor. An old tar's protégé' (Knock): RN lowerdeck: C. 19–20. Cf. wingsy-bash.—10. Incorrect spelling of basha.

Bashi-Bazouk. A ruffian; mildly, a lascal: from ca. 1870; ob. Orig. a Turkish irregular soldier (from ca. 1850).—2. A Royal Marine, 'a name that appears to have been bestowed when Phipps Hornby took the Fleet up the Dardanelles in 1877' (Bowen); virtually † by 1930.

bashing, n. See next entry.—2. The loud, vigorous, cheerful playing of dance music: an engagement at which such music is demanded: dance bands': since ca. 1930.—3. Prostitution: low: C.20. (Gerald Kersh, Night and the City, 1938.) See bash it.—4. Short for bashing the bishop: low: since ca. 1920. The full phrase may have arisen as an alliterative var. of box the jesuit.—5. In get, or take, a bashing, to suffer heavy losses: Services': 1939–45, and after. P-G-R.—6. A beating-up, as in Paki-bashing, queer-bashing: since ca. 1955.

bashing-in; bashing-out. A flogging at the beginning (-in) or at the end (-out) of a 'ruffian's term of imprisonment': c.: from ca. 1870. (B. & L.) Ex bash, v., 2. Moreover, bashing exists independently.

basic. 'Used to describe a low sort of person, one with rather animal tendencies' (P.B., 1974): since ca. 1955, in the Services.—2. See PUBLIC ... SCHOOL SLANG.

basic English. 'Plain' English, esp. as used by workmen not averse from vulgarity and obscenity: since ca. 1945. (Petch.) A pun on S.E. Basic English.

basil. A fetter on one leg only: c.: late C.16–18. Greene.—2. As Basil, a fat man: Liverpool s.:—1952. Why?

Basil dress. ENSA uniform: a WW2 pun. Ex the Director of Entertainments National Service Association, Basil Dean, on battle dress.

basin of gravy. A baby: (defective) rhyming s.: C.20.

basinful, a. Of trouble, hardship, labour, etc.: C.20. Hence, get (one's) basinful, to receive a severe—esp., a fatal—wound: mostly army: WW1 and 2. G. Kersh, Clean, Bright and Slightly Oiled, 1946, 'Poor old Pete got his basinful somewhere near Hell-Fire.' Only slightly less serious is the 1930s London sense, in Jim Wolveridge, He Don't Know 'A' from a Bull's Foot, 1978, "I've had a basinful" meant "I've had all I can take." In this latter, 'fed-up' sense, it occurs in, e.g., Margery Allingham, The Lady Beckons, 1955.—2. In I'll have a basinful of that, a c.p. aimed at anyone using a long or learned word: since ca. 1910.

Basing, that's. A card-playing c.p., of mid-C.17–18, applied when clubs are turned up trumps. Ex Basing House, captured in the Civil War while the inmates were playing cards. By a pun: 'Clubs were trumps when Basing was taken.' F. & H. rev.

basinite. A hot-water fag: Charterhouse: C.19, A. H. Tod.

basis. The woman a pimp intends to marry when he retires from business: white-slavers' c.: C.20. A. Londres, 1928.

baskervilles. A 'dog' (see dog, n., 11): Aus. c.: later C.20. An elab., ex A. Conan Doyle's The Hound of the Baskervilles, 1902. McNeil.

basket! A cry directed, in cock-pits, at persons unable, or unwilling, to pay their debts: C.18. Such persons were suspended in a basket over the cock-pits (Grose).—2. Hence basketed, left out in the cold, misunderstood, nonplussed: late C.18–19.—3. Stale news: tailors': late C.19–20. Perhaps ex waste-basket.—4. Occ. used joc. as euph. for bastard (in the vocative): from ca. 1930. P.B.: also otherwise than vocative, as 'That basket So-and-So'.—5. Disrespectful term for an elderly woman, as 'Silly old basket, always giving her nose into other people's affairs': coll.: C.20. (P.B.)—6. In be brought or go to the basket, to be imprisoned: coll.: C.17–18.—7. In with a kid in the basket, pregnant: c.: C.19. B. & L.—8. See left in the basket, with which cf. sense 2; pick of the basket; pin the basket.

basket-making. Sexual intercourse: mid-C.18—early 19. Grose, 1st ed.

basket of chips, grin like a. To grin broadly: late C.18—mid-19, coll. Grose, 2nd ed. Cf. smile like... chips, an old Shropshire saying.

basket of oranges. A pretty woman: 'Australian, passing to England' (Ware): late C.19—early 20. Ex basket of oranges, 'a discovery of nuggets of gold in the gold fields': Aus. miners' coll.: late C.19–20; ob.

basket-acrambler. One who lives on charity: C.17–18; coll.

basketed. See basket!

basking shark. DS/ID Citroën car: car-dealers'. (Clive Graham-Ranger, in Sunday Times mag., 9 Aug. 1981.) Ex shape and appearance.

Bass. Bass's ale (1849): almost immediately coll.; in C.20 S.E. 'Cuthbert Bede'.—2. See bas.

basset, make a. To blunder: racing:—1932 (Stang, p. 245.)

basso. A shoal: nautical coll.: C.19. (Bowen.) Perhaps ex Staffordshire bassiloe, the mound of earth at or near the edge of a pit (EDD).

bastard. A fellow, chap, man, with no pej. connotation: coll.: C.20, chiefly Aus., perhaps ex US; see esp. Grose, P., and cf. the colourless use of bugger, q.v.—2. Fig. of a thing, an incident, a situation: low coll.: C.20. James Curtis.—3. As in 'This oppo of Ted's was waiting. He'd got a bit of a bastard on by then and said that if we didn't hurry up it'd be no go' (Heart, 1962); i.e. angry or upset: RN: later C.20.—4. For fig. use as adj., see quot'n at shattered.

bastard brig. See schooner orgy.

bastard from the bush. The C.20 Aus. equivalent of Ballocky Bill the Sailor. Ex a poem by Henry Lawson (1867–1922). (B.P.)

bastardly gullion. A bastard's bastard: (Lancashire dial. and) low coll.: late C.18—early 19. (Grose, 2nd ed.) Cf. bell-bastard, q.v.

baste. To thrash: since ca. 1530. In C.16, coll.; thereafter, S.E., though far from dignified.

baste a snarl. See baist a snarl.

baste-up. A half-wit; an objectionable fellow: tailors': C.20. (Tailor and Cutter, 29 Nov. 1928.) Ex tailors' j., wherein it = half-made.

bastor. A house thief: Aus. low.: C.20. B., 1942.

Bastile. A workhouse: low (mostly vagrants'), from ca. 1860; esp. in the North. (H., 3rd ed.) Ex its short-lived S.E. sense (a prison) comes steel, q.v.—2. Early in C.19, among criminals, Bastile was applied as a nickname to Coldbath Fields Prison, demolished ca. 1890. Ware.

basting. A thrashing: in Shakespeare and till ca. 1660, coll.; then virtually S.E. Grose records it as give (a person) his basting(s).

Basutes. Native troops from Basutoland: army: WW2. P-G-R.

bat, n. A prostitute favouring the night: C.17—early 19. But, in C.20., merely any ill-favoured, disagreeable, middle-aged or elderly woman. Perhaps by association of bats with witches.—2. Pace: from ca. 1800; dial. >, ca. 1870, s. Prob. ex dial. bat, a stroke.—3. A spoken language (orig. that of India): military: late C.19—earlier 20. Ex Hindustani for speech, word. Only in bolo or sling or spin the bat, q.v.—4. A batman: military: C.20; but it > gen. military only in WWI.—5. A drinking bout; esp. go on the bat, on the spree: Can. (ex US): late C.19–20. P.B.: perhaps short for batter, as Tempest suggests, giving its use also as Brit. c.—6. Price; come the bat, to mention the price; grafters':—1934 (Philip Allingham). Perhaps ex senses 2 and 3.—7. Hence, a sale; grafters': 28 Aug. 1938, News of the World.—8. 'A whip carried by a horse-rider. Also mop and stick' (B., 1959): Aus.: since ca. 1930.—9. In carry (out)—occ., bring out—one's bat, to outlast others; finally to succeed: coll.: from ca. 1870. Ex a batsman not out at cricket; the lit. sense 'goes back to the less luxurious days when the man "out" left the bat for the next comer' (W.).—10. In off (rarely on) one's own bat, without assistance; independently: coll. >, by 1880, S.E. (Sydney Smith, 1845.) Also ex cricket.

bat, v. Military, mostly officers', from late 1914, as in Blaker, "That fellow Jackman that Reynolds has produced from his section to 'bat' for you is rather an object, isn't he?" Ex bat, n., 4: q.v. Contrast bloke, v.—2. To put an aircraft through its aerobic paces; to perform aerobatics.' (Cdr C. Parsons, RN, ret.): since late 1930s.

bat an eyelid, doesn't or don't. (She, etc.) show(s) no emotion at something either startling or shocking: coll.: C.20. Cf. the S.E. bat the eyes.

bat and wicket. A ticket: rhyming s.: C.20. B. & P.

bat-boat. 'An unusual type of Sopwith seaplane': RN: 1915–18. Bowen.

bat for. To make one's price at (such or such a sum): showmen's: C.20. Night and Day, 22 July 1937. 'Most crocus bat for a dena... or... a two ender... but to "bat 'em for a straight tosh" is something to be proud about' (Phillip Allingham in a letter, 1937). Cf. bat, n., 6, 7.

bat-fowl, v.t. and i. To swindle; victimise the simple or the inexperienced: from ca. 1585. (Greene.) Very little later were its pure derivatives, bat-fowler, a swindler, confidence trickster, and the vbl n., bat-fowling. All † by 1840. Ex the nocturnal catching of birds by dazzling them and then batting them with a stick.

bat house. A brothel: Aus. low: C.20. Baker. Cf. bat, n., 1, and cat house.

bat-mugger. An instrument for rubbing oil into cricket bats: Winchester College, ca. 1860–1910.

bat on a (very) sticky wicket. To contend with great difficulties: coll.: since ca. 1948. (National News Letter, 24 Jan. 1952.) Ex cricket.

bat out of hell, go like a. To go extremely fast: coll.:—1908 (Leechman). In the sense of to fly extremely fast, it quickly, in WWI, > RFC coll. F. & G.

bat phone. 'Policeman's small personal radio set' (Powis, 1977): since ca. 1960. Ex the equipment of the American cartoon character Batman.

bat the breeze. To chatter; to talk: Aus. army: since ca. 1939. B., 1943.

batch, n. A dose or bout of liquor: late C.18—early 19. (Grose, 2nd ed.) Prob. ex dial.: ? cf. batch, a quantity of things (e.g. bottles).—2. A small cottage; a shack: Aus.: since ca. 1920. (B., 1942.) Ex batch, v.

batch, v. See bach, v.

batchelor's fare. See bachelor's fare.

batcher. One who lives alone: Aus.: C.20. (Baker.) Cf. bach, v.

batchy. Silly; mad: army, C.19–20; RN, since ca. 1910; thence to the RAF, who gave it as a nickname to the (then) Fg. Off. R.L.R. 'Batchy' Atherley: as a member of the Schneider Trophy team, he broke the existing air-speed record in 1929.—2. The nickname of anyone surnamed Payne' (Grainville): esp. RN. Since ca. 1910. (But cf. agony.) Perhaps ex Hindustani.

bate. See bait.

bate up. A sexual copulation: low: C.20. Orig. obscure.

Bate's Farm or Garden, occ. prec. by Charley. Coldbath Fields Prison: c.: C.19. Partly ex a warder's name. Whence feed the chickens on Charley Bate's Farm, to be put on the treadmill: c.: ca. 1860–90. See also been to see...

Bath. In go to B-, to become a beggar: mid-C.17–19. Bath, being fashionable, attracted many vagrants. As, ca. 1830–1930, an injunction, often with addition of and get your head shaved: stop!, go away!, 'dry up, you're cracked!' In addition to beggars, Bath drew lunatics, who were 'supposed to benefit from the waters' of this noted spa (W.).—2. In give the Order of the Bath, to duck (someone) in water: late C.19—earlier 20. By a pun; cf. give the Order of the Boot. See order.

Bath bun. A son: rhyming s.: late C.19–20.—2. Jack Jones, in Rhyming Cockney Slang, 1971, equates it to 'sun'.

bath-mats. The flooring of wooden battens laid over the mud of the trenches' (F. & G.): army, joc. ironic: WWI.

bath-tub. Nacelle of the F.E. aeroplane: RFC-RAF: WWI, then historical. Frederick Oughton, The Aces, 1961.

bath-tub cabbage. 'Cabbage boiled until it is tasteless and almost colourless, as served in schools and boarding-houses' (Peter Sanders): since ca. 1920.

bathers. A bathing costume: Aus. coll. (Baker); and British, perhaps later: C.20.

bathing beauty. Blancmange: RN lowerdeck: since ca. 1930. Granville.

bathing machine. A 10-ton brig: nautical: ca. 1850–1900.—2. Whence, a four-wheeled cab: London busmen's: ca. 1890–1915.

batman. In S.E., a 'muleteer' of bat-horses; hence, a cavalry officer's servant. In WWI it was applied to any Army officer's servant (the practice has survived): coll. >, by 1932, S.E.—2. A third-term cadet avoiding duty by acting as personal servant to a petty officer: Training Ship Worcester: early C.20. Bowen.—3. A sycophantic private: army coll.: WWI. B. & P.

Batmen, the. The British Army Training team seconded to the Sheikdom of Oman: army: early 1970s. Ex the heroic Batman of the American comic cartoon-strip, by a pun on the initials. (P.B.)

batmer. See battener.

Bats, bats. British American Tobacco Company shares: Stock Exchange: since ca. 1930.—2. The deck-landing officer in an aircraft carrier: RN: since ca. 1938. 'From the bats he carries' (Granville). Cf. Guns, Torps: the Gunnery and Torpedo officers.—3. A pair of bad boots: c. or low s.: ca. 1855–1930. H., 1st ed.; Manchon.

bats, adj. Very eccentric; mad, to any degree: C.20. Ex-bats in the belfry (, orig. have; later to be). As prec.: late C.19–20.

bat. A battalion: army coll.: late C.19–20. B. & P.

batta. See batty.

battalion. A gang of criminals: C.18 c.

bat(t)ener. An ox: c.: mid-C.17–18. (Coles, 1676; B.E.) Beef tending to batten (fatten).

batter, n. Wear and tear: coll.: C.19–20. 'He can't stand the batter' (H., 1864).—2. In (go on the batter, (to walk the streets) as a harlot, to be debauched; to be on a riotous spree: since late 1830s. H. Rodger, 1839 (OED); H., 1st ed.; Whiteing, 1899; Tempest, 1950: 'On the "razzle"'. A pub and/or brothel crawl.' Presumably cognate with US bat (1848); cf. bait and bat, n., 5.—3. On the run, from police or as a deserter: c.: mid-C.20. Tempest.—4. A var. of butter, n., 2, flattery.—5. See batters.

batter, v. To copulate: low: since ca. 1920. (G. Kersh, Night and the City, 1938.) Ex prec., 2.

batter through. To struggle through (e.g. a part: proletariat): C.19–20; ob. (Ware.) Abbr. batter one's way through.

battered. Given up to debauchery: from ca. 1860: f. Cf. batter, n., 2.

battered bully. A late C.17–early 18 term combining two senses of battered, thus: ‘an old well cudgell’d and bruised huffing fellow’ (B.E.): low coll.

batterfang, battyfang. (Lit. and fig.) to batter, maul: ca. 1630–1830, then dial. The former was S.E., the latter (C.18–20) is a sol.

batters. Defective type: printers’: 1880 (OED) coll. >, by 1910, j. Ex batter, ‘a bruise on the face of printing type’.

Battersea. See simples, go to Battersea to be cut for the Battersea Dogs’ Home (here)! ‘A humorous’ answer to a phone-call: army: ca. 1950–70. (P.B.)

Battersea’d. (Of the male member) treated medically for venereal disease: ca. 1715–90. Select Trials at the Old Bailey, 1743 (Dublin, vol. 2), trial of George White in 1726, ‘Mine is best, yours has been Battersea’d.’ The semantic clue is afforded by simples, q.v.

battery girl. A prostitute, usu. one of a ‘stable’, operating in return for sustenance, (a little) pocket money—and drugs, measured to keep her quiet and esp. to increase her sexual desire and ability, much as battery hens are reared and treated: since ca. 1960 at latest, and world-wide. In, e.g., The Penthouse Sexindex, 1975, and notably in Stephen Barclay, Sex Slavery, 1968 (Paul Janssen). Clearly s. in origin, it no less clearly became, very rapidly, coll. and then, by late 1977, S.E.: naturally so, because of its felicitous precision, pertinence and picturesqueness.

batting and bowling, adj. and n. Participating in both hetero- and homosexual acts: very British: since ca. 1950. Cf. ambidextrous.

battle, v.i. To ‘get by’ on one’s wits: v.t., to obtain, esp. if deviously, the use of: Aus. c. (since ca. 1919) > by 1940, low s. Hence, battler, one who ‘gets by’ on odd jobs and alone; a tramp; a hawker; both v. and n. occur in Kylie Tennant’s fine novel, The Battlers, 1941. The v. occurs earlier in Ion M. Idriess, The Yellow Joss, 1934. Ex the influence of WW1. A battler is also ‘a hard-up horse trainer... a broken-down punter’ (Baker).—2. In on the battle, an Aus. synon. of ‘on the batter’, engaged in prostitution: low: since ca. 1920. Glassop, Rats.

battle-axe. See old battle-axe.

Battle-Axe Company, the. The ‘J’ Coast Battery of the Royal Artillery: military coll.: from 1809, when its predecessors (the 43rd Company, 7th Battalion, RA) received, for services at the capture of Martinique, a trophy consisting of a French battle-axe. F. & G.

battle-bag. A big rigid airship designed to operate with the Fleet: RN: WW1. Bowen.

battle-belly. A tank: army: 1917–18. (Petch.)

battle blouse. A battledress tunic: army: WW2. (P-G-R.) If orig. s., then soon > j.; the garment was always known as a blouse, or a B.D. [battledress] blouse, until replaced by a new style of uniform in the early 1960s. (P.B.) battle bowler. A steel-helmet: army: from 1915. F. & G.

battle buggy. A jeep: army: 1943—ca. 1950.

battle cruiser. A public house: rhyming s., on boozier: since ca. 1940. (Franklyn, Rhyming.) See battleship.

battle dress. Pyjamas: RAF: 1940+. (Sgt G. Emanuel, 1945.) Ex amorous ‘combat’.

battle of the bulge, the. The struggle against ‘middle-aged spread’: since 1945. Ex the WW2 battle so named.

Battle of the Nile. A hat: rhyming s., on tile:—1859 (H., 1st ed.); ob. by 1930. Occ. battle:—1874.

Battle of Waterloo. A stew: rhyming s.: mid-C.19–20.

battle-royal. A vehement quarrel, a vigorous fight: from ca. 1690; coll. >, by 1840, S.E. Ex medieval jousting between two sides each commanded by a king (S.E.); also cock-pit j. battle the rattler. To travel on a railway without paying: Aus. c.: since ca. 1920.

battle the subs. To hawk goods in the suburbs: since ca. 1920: Aus. c. > by 1940, low s. Baker.

battle the watch. ‘To do one’s best against difficulty. To depend on one’s own exertions’: nautical coll.: mid-C.19–20; ob. Bowen.

battle wag(g)on. A battleship: RN since ca. 1925, RAF since ca. 1930. H. & P.—2. An expensive motor-car: army since ca. 1940. H. & P.

battledore. For (not) know B from a battledore, see KNOW in Appendix. Cf. battledore-boy, one learning his alphabet: late C.17–mid-18: coll. or, rather, S.E. Here, however, battledore is abbr. battledore-book, a hornbook.

battler. A gangster handy with his fists and fond of using them: Glasgow c. and low s.: late C.19–20. (MacArthur & Long.) Cf. the S.E. sense.—2. A prostitute working independently of brothel or ponce: Aus. c.: since ca. 1925. (B., 1953.) See battle.—3. A var. of battle waggon, 1: RN: since ca. 1930. P-G-R. battles of the Waz(z)a, or, loosely, Wazzer. Two Australian brushes with the police, 1915, in Wazza, a low, native quarter of Cairo: Aus. army: 1915+. B. & P.

battleship and cruiser; soon battle and cruiser. Synon. with battle cruiser: since ca. 1914. This Week, 10 Mar. 1968.

Battling ‘Ells (or Ls), the. The ‘L’ class of destroyers: RN coll.: WW1. F. & G.

Battling Third, the. The 3rd Destroyer Flotilla of the Harwich Force: RN coll.: WW1. F. & G., ‘Noted for its part in the action off Heligoland, in August 1914.’

battlings. (Public Schools’) a weekly allowance of money (—1864). Either coll. or j. Mostly at Winchester, where used from before 1859 (EDD).

battner. See battener. (Coles spells it batner.)

batty, n. Wages, perquisites: coll.: orig. (Hook, 1824), bhatta, ex Hindustani; in India it properly meant (late C.17–mid-20) subsistence money, extra pay on campaign, then pay for Indian service. Y. & B.—2. A batman or batwoman: Services’: since ca. 1925. H. & P.

batty, adj. Mad: C.20, esp. among soldiers. Cf.—perhaps ex—bats in the belfry.

batty-fagging. A thrashing: smugglers’: C.19. John Davidson, Baptist Lake, 1896. Cf.:-

batty-fang. To beat: coll.: C.19–early 20. Also, in C.17–19, batter-fang. Prob., to hit and bite; Ware’s ‘evidently battre à fin’ is presumably a joke.

battyman. ‘A male homosexual. South London expression, of West Indian origin’ (Powis, 1977).

Batu Road ‘flu. Venereal disease: army in Malaya: 1950s. Batu Road was the old name for the main street in Kuala Lumpur. Cf. Barnwell ague for the same thing, three centuries before. (P.B.)

baub. Var. of bob, in s’elp me bob!, q.v.

baubee. See bawbees.

baubles. See bawbles.

baubles, bangles and beads mob. See whizz kids.

baudye. See bawdy.

baulk, n. (Winchester College) a false report: from ca. 1850. Hence sport a baulk, to circulate one.—2. (Gen.) a mistake: mid-C.19–20, ob. A survival of balk, baulk. C.15–18 S.E. for a mistake or blunder.—3. See miss in baulk.—4. In in baulk, checked; at a loss: coll.: since ca. 1880. Ex billiards.

baulk (or balk) at. To avoid: coll.: early C.19–20. An early example is in W. N. Glascock, Sailors and Saints, 1829: ‘Such was the redoubted wight... As he never baulked at anything, he assumed a familiarity of manner and tone...’ (Moe). Semantics: ‘jib at’.

baulker. Frequently spelt bawker, q.v.

‘baw-baw’, quoth Bagshaw. You’re a liar: semi-proverbial c.p. (—1570); † by 1700. Levins; Nashe. Ex baw-bawl, indicating contempt or derision; Bagshaw, prob. for the jingle. F. & H. rev.

bawbees. Money; cash: C.19–20. In singular, coll. for a halfpenny, a ‘copper’: late C.17–20, as in B.E.

bawbles. (Properly but rarely baubles.) Human testicles: late C.18–early 19. (Grose, 3rd.) Earlier, e.g. in Shakespeare, bauble = the penis; this is prob. S.E. bawbard. Larboard: nautical coll.: C.18–19. A corruption of larboard (Bowen); prob. influenced by Fr. babord.

bawcock. A fine fellow, gen. derisively: Shakespeare's Henry V; † by 1700, though resuscitated by Ainsworth in 1862. Coll.; ex Fr. beau coq.

bawd. A procurer or—as always after 1700—a procuress. In C.14–16, S.E.; in C.17–18, coll.; in C.19–20, literary. In C.18–19 occ. a female brothel-keeper. Prob. abbr. bawdstrot (OED).

bawdy bachelor. A 'confirmed' bachelor: late C.17–19, low coll. B.E. (But how hard he falls!)

bawdy banquet. Whoremongering: C.16; not recorded before Harman, 1567. ?c.

bawdy basket. In mid-C.16–17, c.; in C.18, ob. s.; † by 1840. A seller—gen. female—of obscene literature, ballads, pins, tape, but living mostly by theft. (Harman, B.E., Grose.) Ex the bawdy books carried in the basket.—2. A harlot: this rarer sense (late C.16–17) is indubitably s.

bawdy-house bottle. A very small one: late C.17–18; low coll. B.E., Grose.

bawdy-ken. A brothel: c. or low s.: ca. 1810–60. Bee (at bodikin).

bawd(y) physic. A saucy fellow: ca. 1560–90: c. or low. Awdeley.

bawker. A cheater at bowls: late C.16–early 17 c. Greene. (= baulker.) At least once it is misspelt banker (Greene, at beginning of 2nd Cony-Catching).

bawl. 'To suck or swallow': East End of London c.:—1933 (George Orwell, Down and Out).

bawl out. A C.20 and perhaps catachrestic var. of bowl out, q.v.—2. To upbraid vigorously: Can. coll.: adopted ex US ca. 1910. (Leechman.) Hence a bawling-out.

Bawra. The British Australian Wool Realisation Association: Aus. coll.: from 1922. See the editor's Australia and New Guinea, 1937, at 'Commerce', §12.

Bay, the. Port Elizabeth: S. African coll.: from ca. 1870. Ex Algoa Bay, on which the town stands. Pettman.—2. The orig. form of Babsky was the Bay of Biscay, often abbr. to the Bay.—3. Long Bay Gaol, Sydney: Aus. coll.: C.20. B., 1942.—4. The Hudson's Bay Company; its stores; a specific store: Can. coll.: since ca. 1860 (?). Leechman.—5. Botany Bay: Aus. coll.: early and mid-C.19. B., 1959.—6. The sick-bay: RN coll.: mid-C.19–20. Hence bay man, a sick-bay attendant: id.: late C.19–20.

Bay fever. 'A term of ridicule applied to convicts, who sham illness, to avoid being sent to Botany Bay' (Lex. Bal.): coll.: ca. 1810–60. Cf.:-

Bay of Condolence. 'Where we console our friends, if plucked, and left at a nonplus' (Egan's Grose, 1823): Oxford University: ca. 1820–40.

baywindow, n. A belly protuberant through either pregnancy or obesity: mid-C.19–20.—2. Hence, and ex the bay-windows of clubs: talk imitative of that of clubmen: artisans':—1935.

baywindow (or hyphenated), adj. Smart, fashionable: lower-middle class: since ca. 1910. S.P.B. Mais, Caper Sauce, 1948.

Bayard of ten toes. One's feet. Esp. ride B...toes, to walk. Coll. in late C.16–early 18, then dial. (ob.). Breton, Fuller, Grose. Breton's use in Good and Bad, 1616, tends to show that the phrase had been current long before that. Ex Bayard, a horse famous in medieval romance. Apperson.

Bays. Shares in the Hudson's Bay Company: Stock Exchange coll.:—1895 (A. J. Wilson, Stock Exchange Glossary).—2. Or The Baze, the Bayswater Road (London, W. 2): low s., and c.: C.20. Norman.—3. As the Bays, the 2nd Dragoon Guards: military coll.: 'from 1767 when the regiment was first mounted on bay horses' (F. & G.).

Bayswater captain. A sponger: ca. 1879–1910; mostly London. Because so many of these club parasites resided in Bayswater, W.2. Cf. turnpike sailor.

bazaar, n. A shop; a counter: c.: ca. 1830–80. 'Ducange Anglicus.' Ex (and cf.) S.E. sense ex Hindi—ultimately Persian bazar, a market.—2. A public-house bar: rhyming s.: late C.19–20. Franklin, Rhyming.—3. In in the bazaar (or B-), in the (money-)market; to be bought; procurable: Anglo-Indian coll. of later C.19–20. Thus, in Richard Blaker, Here Lies a Most Beautiful Lady, 1935, an Indian Army officer says, 'Garstein seems to think that Johnnie's oil shares are as good as anything in the Bazaar at the moment.' Ex the importance that the bazaars have in life in India.

bazaar, v.t. To rob; gen. as bazaar'd: Society: 1882—ca. 1915. Ware derives it ex 'the extortion practised by remorseless, smiling English ladies at bazaars'.

Bazaar Motor-Vans. The French village, Autos Bazaars: army: WW1. F. & G.

bazaar rumour, doubtful news, is Army coll. (1882; † by 1920) that imm. > S.E.; but perhaps it was always S.E.

bazazz. Occ. spelling of bezazz.

bazooka. Petting. See high, adj., 5, and cf. bazookas. Since the introduction, in WW2, of an infantry anti-tank weapon of this name, it has become the normal spelling of bazooker.

bazookas. Woman's breasts: male medical students'. In, e.g., the Independent Television series 'Doctor in the House', 1973. (L.A.) Perhaps influenced by bosom.

bazooker. A thing, esp. if mechanical (e.g. a motor-car): low: C.20. (R. Blaker, Night-Shift, 1934.) An artificial word: cf. ooja-ka-piv.

bazooms. See quot'n at jujubes.

be. Am: when not dial., it is sol.: C.18–20. Dibdin, 'I be one of they sailors' (Baumann).—2. By (prep'n): low coll. verging on sol.: mid-C.19–20. Ex dial.

be a devil or Oh, come on, be a (real) devil! A merry invitation to be generous or mildly audacious: since ca. 1945. See DCpp., and cf. be an angel!

be a good girl and have a good time! A c.p. addressed to someone—not necessarily female—leaving for a party: Can.: since ca. 1930. The c.p. answer is 'Well, make up your mind!' be an angel! 'Please do me a favour!': middle-class feminine coll.: since early C.20. Cf. be a devil! (P.B.)

be damned. See damned, be and the examples at like a... be good! A c.p. 'anervoir': since ca. 1912. (B. & P.) Often be good and, if you can't be good, be careful! or, since ca. 1945, extended by and if you can't be careful, buy a pram.

be gorra! See begorra!

be-in. A hippies' gathering where, with aid of drugs, one 'really' exists: ca. 1963–72. (Paul Janssen.)

be jabsers! See Jab(ber)s.

be like dad – keep mum! A punning WW2 slogan which became a c.p. See DCpp.

be like that (– see if I care!), sometimes preceded by Oh, all right. A (usu. mock-petulant) c.p. addressed to someone disagreeing or refusing: perhaps orig. at Oxford, ca. 1971; then more gen. An exasperated alternative to don't be like that, q.v.

be lucky! A c.p. 'anervoir': underworld, since ca. 1930; by ca. 1950, gen. Cockney. See DCpp.

be mother. For a person of either sex to assume responsibility for dispensing (suij.) hot drinks, as in 'Shall I be mother, then?', e.g. when teapot and cups are brought in in a café, office, etc.: coll.: since (?)ca. 1950. Ex mother's role at the traditional tea-table. Cf. do the honours, which applies to any sort of drink. (P.B.)

be my Georgie Best! Rhyming s. for the next entry: since ca. 1970. See DCpp.

be my guest! A c.p. addressed to someone wishing to borrow something not valuable enough to be worth returning: since ca. 1950. See DCpp. and help yourself! Occ. punned as be my jest!

be on. To watch; to look at (someone) and see, or understand, what he is doing: Aus.: since ca. 1930. Nino Culotta, Cop This Lot, 1960, 'The barman... pointed to us. "Be on 'im," Joe said. "Dobbin' us in." Cf. be on to.

be on about. To talk at some length in a way (boring, nagging, etc.) displeasing, because not entirely understood, to the listener, as in 'Oh, good grief! What's he on about now?: coll.: since ca. 1950. Also used if the listener has not heard what has been said so far, when another listener may be asked 'What's he [the speaker] on about?' Cf. and contrast be on to, and go on about, qq.v.

be on to. To be aware of or alert to (a person or plan): coll.: perhaps since mid-C.19 and certainly since late C.19. Adopted by US.

be seeing you, (I'll); often shortened to seeing you! or see you! Lit. 'au revoir': since ca. 1945. Perhaps influenced by the popular song 'I'll be seeing you/in all the old familiar places...' See DCpp.; cf. Abyssinia, as a spoken pun, and B.C.N.U. as a written one.

be there. 'To be on the qui vive; alive; knowing; in one's element' (F. & H.): col.:—1890.

be your age! Stop being childish!; Use your intelligence!: a c.p. adopted, ex US, ca. 1936.

be yourself! Pull yourself together!: a c.p. adopted, ex US, ca. 1934. COD, 3rd ed., Sup.

beach. In be or go on the beach, to be or become a beach-comber: coll.: late C.19—early 20.—2. In on the beach, ashore, whether on leave or having retired from the sea: nautical: mid-C.19—20. (Bowen.) Also beached, to be 'put out of employment' (F. & G.): RN: late C.19—20. Cf.:—3. In put or shoved on the beach, 'Discharged [for a civil offence] ashore' (Knock): RN lowerdeck: ca. 1890—1939.—4. In take the beach, to go ashore: RN: late C.19—earlier 20. 'Taffrail', The Sub, 1917.—5. As the beach, land as opposed to sea: Services': WW2. H. & P.

beach-bash. To lie on the sand, esp. nocturnally and amorously: Aus. Services': WW2. (B., 1953.) Whence n. beach-bashing. Joc. on, e.g., square-bashing.

beach-buggy. 'Open motor-vehicle used across sand-dunes for transporting bathers and surf-boards: since 1960' (A.C. Partridge, 1968): S. African coll. >, by ca. 1970, S.E. P.B.: prob. orig. US; cf. the trade name Dune-buggy.

beach bunny. A usu. non-surfing girl addicted to watching the surfers surfing: Aus. surfers', esp. teenagers': since ca. 1960. Also called a femlin, a female gremlin. Regarded as a hanger-on. (P.B.) Cf. snow bunny, 2.

beach-cadger. A beggar favouring seaside resorts: ca. 1860—1910: coll.

beach-comber (C.19, usu. written solid). A (disreputable) fellow haunting the seashore for odd jobs (E.J. Wakefield, Adventure, 1845): coll.; since ca. 1870, S.E.; perhaps, as Thornton implies, orig. US.—2. A river boatman: nautical: from ca. 1860; ob.—3. A seashore thief: ?c.: from ca. 1865.—4. 'A yachting tourist' (Ware): nautical: ca. 1890—1915.—5. A white man living with an Eskimo woman: Canadian Arctic: heard, there, by Dr Douglas Leechman in 1913; by 1960, slightly ob.

beach-men. 'West African surf men and interpreters': nautical coll. verging on S.E.: late C.19—20. Bowen.

beach-tramper. A coastguardsman: nautical: ca. 1880—1910. Baumann.

beached, be. See beach, 2.

beacher. A quick 'run ashore': RN: since ca. 1920. P-G-R. Beachy Bill. A Turkish heavy gun at Gallipoli: army: 1915. B. & P.

beacon. A red nose: mostly Cockneys': from ca. 1890. Cf. danger light and strawberry, 2.

bead-counter. A cleric, religious recluse, or worshipper: coll.: C.19. (Malkin, 1809.) Ex the use of the rosary in the Roman Catholic communion. beadle. A blue roquelaure: esp. to fly or sport a beadle, to wear one: c.: ca. 1820—50. (Egan's Grose.) Prob. because beades often wore a blue jacket.

beagle, n. A steward: R Aus. N: since ca. 1925. B., 1943.—2. As a spy, man-hunter, it is S.E., despite F. & H.

beagle, v.i. esp. as vbl n., beagling. To pickpocket: London c. of ca. 1965—75. New Society, 7 July 1977. (P.B.) beagle-ball. (Gen. pl.) A meat rissole served in the Royal Naval College, Dartmouth: there: late C.19—20. Bowen.

beak, n. A magistrate: C.18—20. In C.16—17, the form was beck, the meaning a constable (a sense lingering till ca. 1860); also it was c., as beak itself was until ca. 1850, since when the most frequent use has been up before the beak, on trial by a magistrate; in WW1 this phrase = before the orderly officer. See esp. Grose, P.—Hence, 2, in Public Schools, from ca. 1880, an assistant master.—3. The nose: Thackeray, The Newcomes, 1854. (Very much earlier in dial.: see EDD. Earlier also among sailors and smugglers: article 'English Smugglers' in the London Magazine, Aug. 1822.) See esp. Grose, P.; Manchon, 1923, notes keep your beak up!, don't lose heart! lower classes'. All senses prob. ex Fr. bec, a beak.—4. See beaker; strop (one's) beak.

beak, v. Late C.16—early 17 c. as in Rowlands, 1610, 'What maund doe you beake, what kind of begging use you?' (OED).—2. To bring (a malefactor) before a magistrate: low (—1887). Baumann, who rightly implies that it is used mostly in the passive. Ex beak, n., 1.

beak-gander. A judge in the higher courts: from ca. 1870; ob. (Gander = old man.)

beak-hunting. Poultry-stealing: c. or low coll.: C.19. K. Chesney, Victorian Underworld, 1970.

beaker, occ. abbr. to beak. A fowl: C.19—20 c., as is (—1839: Brandon) the derivative beak(er)-hunter, a poultry-yard thief.

beaksmán. A constable: C.18—19 c. Ex beak, 1, q.v. Cf. beck.

Beaky, n. Nickname for any person, esp. a man, with a big, sharp nose: Cockney: mid-C.19—20. A. Neil Lyons, Arthur's, 1908.

beam. In off, or on, the beam, failing to understand, or fully understanding: RAF, since ca. 1938 >, by 1943, also civilian. Ex that wireless or radar beam that, in bad visibility, guided a pilot to an airfield.—2. In on the beam, 'straight and true; direct. Britain, Canada, elsewhere' (Leechman): since late 1940s.—3. As 'Beam, a Sunbeam motorcycle (in production 1912—57): motorcyclists'. (Mike Partridge, 1979.)—4. See broad in the beam.

beam-ends. The buttocks: naval: early C.19. Bill Truck, Sep. 1823.—2. In on (one's) beam ends, utterly exhausted: nautical: very early C.19. As on his beam-ends it occurs in John Davis, The Post-Captain, 1806 (Moe).—3. In on (one's) beam ends, in a difficulty (Dickens, 1844); short of money (H. Mayhew): coll. Senses 2 and 3 ex a vessel in imminent danger of capsizing. beamer. A fast, esp. a very fast, ball so delivered by the intimidatory bowler that it bounces head-high and causes, or should cause, the batsman to duck: cricketers': since ca. 1956. 'Right on the beam!'; form suggested by seamer.

beamy old buss. Any very broad ship: nautical coll.: mid-C.19—20. (Bowen.) Ex the broad herring buss or smack; cf. broad in the beam.

bean or bien, n. A guinea coin: prob. c.: ca. 1800—40; a sovereign: low: ca. 1840—1900. (The guinea coin ceased in 1813 to be struck.) In pl, money, esp. cash: from late 1850s. H., 1st ed. ?ex Fr. bien, something good.—2. The head: late C.19—20. Ex shape (very approximate!). Whence:—3. (Gen. old bean, q.v.) A man, chap, fellow: C.20. Manchon. P.B.: but in Punch's Almanack for 1861, pub. late 1860, there is a paragraph headed 'Bricks and Beans', which says: 'These terms are very respectable slang... Both "Brick" and "Bean" signify a good fellow... Bean, a philanthropist; a beany fellow; one who is a bene-factor to his species.'—4. A 'beano' (sense 2): rather rare:—1923 (Manchon).—5. The penis: low: late C.19—20. Ex the glans penis? or a shortening of bean-tosser.—6. In not worth a bean, of very little value: from C.13; coll. since C.14. See not worth a..., of which this is perhaps the oldest.—7. In not have a bean, esp. I haven't..., I'm penniless: since late C.19. (COD, 1934 sup.) Prob. ex sense 6 rather than 1.

bean, v. To hit (someone) on the head: ca. 1916—50. (Vernon Loder, Choose Your Weapons, 1937.) Ex bean, n., 2. Cf. nut, v., to hit someone with one's own head.

bean-belly. A Leicestershire man: mid-C.17—19. Adumbrated in C.15. Leicestershire has for centuries produced an abundance of beans.

bean-cod. 'The Iberian type of small craft with sharp lines and a stream raking aft from the water-line': nautical: C.19–20; virtually †. Bowen. Ex shape.

bean-counting. 'Does strategic intelligence involve merely "bean-counting"—i.e., totals of armed strength?' (Paul Kennedy, New Society, 29 Jan. 1981). ?ex how many beans make five? (P.B.)

bean-eaters. "'Argies" and "bean-eaters" had been derisive nicknames for the enemy [Argentiniens], on the long voyage south' (Gareth Parry, reporting on the recent Falkland Is. campaign, in Guardian, 2 July 1982).

bean-feast. A jollification: C.20. Orig. (1806) an annual feast given to workmen by their employers. (Tailors as early as 1890 applied bean-feast to any good meal.) Hence bean-feaster, ca. 1883–1900, a participator in such an annual feast.—2. The act of kind: low: C.20; ob.

bean-pole or -stick. A tall thin man: coll. (?ex dial.) > almost S.E.: from ca. 1830.

bean-stealer. 'A married man living in the mess' (S/Ldr G.D. Wilson): RAF officers': late 1970s.

bean-tosser. The penis: low: late C.19–early 20.

beaner. A chastisement: proletarian, mostly London:—1909 (Ware); ob. by 1930. Ex beans, 1.

beanie. 'A tight-fitting cap, often made from the crown of an old felt hat. The edge is cut, by the exhibitionists, into a zig-zag. Worn by adolescents' (Leechman): Can.: since ca. 1946(?). Perhaps because it fits as snug as a bean-pod does the beans; also, there is a reference to s. bean, the head.

beano. Orig. (—1898) an annual feast: printers'.—2. From ca. 1897 (see Ware), a jollification. Ex bean-feast, perhaps (via Lingua Franca) influenced by Sp. bueno or It. buono, good. Cf. bingo, q.v.—3. Communion: Cheltenham: since ca. 1915. Marples.—4. A bayonet: Shrewsbury: 1938+. Marples.

beanpea. An effeminate youth: ca. 1875–1915. Ware. Ex a case of two youths, B. and P., tried by Lord Cockburn (d. 1880).

beans. In give (someone) beans, to chastise; to defeat severely:—1890 (Kipling); ob. by 1950.—2. Hence, in get beans, to be chastised: id. Prob. ex phrase cited at ash beans, q.v.—3. In like beans, excellently; forcibly: ca. 1860–1930.—4. In not to amount to a row of beans, to be of no account: coll.: adopted, ca. 1910, ex US. (Moe.)—5. For know how many beans make five, see KNOW, in Appendix.—6. Money: teenagers': early 1980s. (Joanna Williamson, 1982.) Cf. synon. yackers, and bean, n., 7.—7. See abstain from beans; full of beans; spill the beans; three blue beans...

beany. Vigorous; spirited: from ca. 1850. Cf. full of beans: beans being great energy-makers.—2. Hence, in good humour: from ca. 1860.

bear, n. At first (ca. 1700), stock sold in the hope of a fall: either S.E. or j. Then (—1744) the speculator for a fall, as in Foote, Colman, Scott; the term > coll. only ca. 1900, Peacock having, in 1860, written: 'In Stock Exchange slang, bulls are speculators for a rise, bears for a fall.' See the chapter on commercial slang in my Slang. The orig. phrase was prob. sell the bear-skin, such bargainers being called bear-skin jobbers, in reference to the proverb, 'to sell the bear's skin before one has caught the bear'. Hence, sell a bear, to sell what one does not possess: C.18 coll.—2. The pupil of a private tutor: late C.18–mid-C.19. See bear-leader.—3. Also a very gruff person: C.18–20 coll. Notably used by Lord Chesterfield.—4. 'A matted stone or shot, or a coir mat filled with sand, dragged over the deck to clean it after the fashion of a holystone' (Bowen): nautical coll.: mid-C.19–20; ob. Ex ob. S.E. bear (bere), a pillow-case.—5. A policeman: Can. and Aus. s.: late 1970s. (Leechman; Wilkes.) Ex US lorry-drivers' argot, whence also its use on Brit. Citizens' Band radio, esp. in such phrases as bear in the air, and wall-to-wall bears, police everywhere.—6. In if it were (or had been) a bear it would bite (or have bit) you, a semi-proverbial c.p. applied, as B.E. phrases it, to 'him that makes a close search after what lies just under his Nose': C.17–18. Draxe, 1633; Swift. (Apperson.) P.B.: still extant in 1980, when I heard it used quite un-self-consciously by a retired engineer.—7. In play the bear, to behave rudely or roughly: late C.16–17: coll. >, by 1600, S.E. Cf. play the bear with, to play the deuce with: dial. (—1881) >, by 1889, coll.: ob. by 1930. (OED Sup.) Cf. bear-play.—8. See not fit... bear, v.i. To speculate for a fall in prices: Stock Exchange, from ca. 1840, as is the v.t. sense, to effect or manoeuvre a fall in the price of (a stock or commodity). This term > j., and by 1930 it was considered S.E.

bear a bob. To lend a hand: nautical and gen.: C.19–early 20. Imperative: look alive! nautical: id. Ex bear a bob (lit., a refrain), join in the chorus.

bear a brain. To be cautious; have a brain, i.e. some intelligence: C.16–early 19: coll., soon > S.E. Skelton.

bear a fist. To bear a hand, to help: nautical coll. (—1806); † by 1890. John Davis, The Post-Captain, 1806. (Moe.) A var. of-bear a hand! Make haste! coll.: since ca. 1720. Moe cites James Ralph, The Fashionable Lady, 1730, at I,v. In C.20 rather in sense of 'to lend a hand, to help'.

bear (one's) blushing honours thick upon (one). To have the red face of a drunkard or of one who, at the least, drinks much: joc. coll.:—1923 (Manchon). With a pun on this exact phrase in Shakespeare, Henry VIII, III, i.

bear fight. A rough and tumble in good part: Society coll.: from ca. 1880. B. & L.

bear-garden discourse (or language) or jaw. 'Rude, vulgar language', Grose, 1st ed.: late C.17–early 19. With discourse or language, coll.; with jaw, s. Ray, 1678, has 'He speaks Bear-garden'. Apperson.

bear in the air (or sky). A police helicopter: Can. s.: adopted, ex US truck-drivers' argot, late 1970s. (Leechman.) See bear, n., 5.

bear-leader. A travelling tutor in the days of the Grand Tour: Walpole, 1749; Thackeray, 1848; H., 1874. Coll. in C.19; † by 1880. He licks 'cubs' into shape: W.—2. A control responsible for, at least superior in rank to, the run-of-the-mill operative: espionage: since (?)ca. 1945. John Le Carré, The Honourable Schoolboy, 1977.

bear party. Synon. with stag party: mid-C.19. Albert Smith, Natural History of the Gent, 1847 (P.B.).

bear pit; beerage; brickyard. Steerage: ships' stewards': C.20. Dave Marlowe, Coming, Sirl!, 1937.

bear-pits, the. The empty and barred yards outside the 'zeros' [w.c.s]: Bootham School: earlier C.20. Bootham, 1925.

bear-play. Rough and noisy behaviour: apparently not recorded before 1883. Coll., soon S.E.

bear to the stake, go like a. To 'hang an Arse' (B.E.): coll.: C.15–early 19. Lydgate, ca. 1430; Florio; Defoe; Scott. Apperson.

bear-up, n. The act of pursuing a woman: coll.: US >, by 1900, Aus.; rare. H. Lawson (OED Sup.).

bear up, v. To support in a swindle (—1828); ob. by 1900. Hence bearer-up, such a supporter.—Hence, 2, v.i., to 'log-roll': 1883, Referee, 2 Dec.—3. Have courage: coll., C.17; S.E. thereafter, though the imperative, bear up!, has a coll. tang.

beard. In make (a man's) beard, to outwit or trick him: coll.: C.15–16.—2. In to (one's) beard, to one's face; frankly; openly: coll., from ca. 1780; in C.20 S.E. and archaic.—3. Ex 1, in make (a man's) beard without a razor, to behead him: coll.: ca. 1520–1700.

beard-splitter. A frequenter of prostitutes, an enjoyer of women: late C.17–early 18. (B.E. and Grose.) Cf. US low s. or c. beard-jammer.—2. Also, the penis: C.18–19.

bearded cad. A College porter conveying luggage from station to school: Winchester College, ca. 1850–1910.

bearded lady, the. A searchlight with diffused beams: WW2. Berrey, 1940.

beardie, -y (or B.). A Christian Israelite: a Victorian (Aus.) nickname: 1875. (OED Sup.) A sect that let its hair grow.—2. Hence, any man with a beard or long hair: Aus. coll.: C.20.—3. A ling: Aus. fishermen's: C.20. Nino Culotta, Gone Fishin', 1963.—4. A male beatnik: since ca. 1959. (Anderson). bearer-up. 'Bully who robs men decoyed by woman accomplice' (K. Chesney, Victorian Underworld, 1970): c.: C.19.—2. See bear up, v., 1.

beärgered. Drunk: low coll.:—1859; ob. by 1910. H., 1st ed.; Ware.

bearing, vbl n. Acting as a speculating 'bear': from ca. 1860, Stock Exchange.

bearing up. A common answer to 'How are you?' or 'How's things with you?': since ca. 1960. Usu. 'Oh, bearing up, you know?', prob. elliptical for 'bearing up under the strain'. Cf. all parts bearing an equal strain. (P.B.)

bearings. The stomach: Aus.: C.20. B., 1943. It needs constant oiling? (P.B.)—2. In bring (one) to (one's) bearings, to cause to see reason: late C.18–20 coll., orig. (—1785) nautical, as Grose, 1st ed., indicates.

bearish. Indicative of, natural to, or tending to, a fall in prices: Stock Exchange; from ca. 1880.

bears?, are you there with your. See are you there...

bear's paw. A saw: rhyming, s., mostly workmen's: late C.19–20. John o' London's Weekly, 9 June 1934.

bearskin-jobber. A seller of 'bear' stock (—1726): money market; ob. by 1750. See bear, 1.

beast. Anything naturally unpleasant or momentarily displeasing, as a beast of a day (Baumann, 1887): coll.: from ca. 1860.—2. A youth that, having left school, goes to Cambridge to study before entering the University: Cambridge University; from ca. 1820; very ob.—3. A bicycle: youths': ca. 1870–90. Ware.—4. A girl; a young lady; beatniks': since ca. 1960. (Anderson.) Cf. beastie, 2.—5. See drink like a beast.

beast with two backs, (make) the. 'A man and a woman in the act of copulation' (Grose): gen. with make the, as in Shakespeare's Othello. † by 1830 and prob. never gen. s. It was orig., it would seem, a translation of Rabelais's faire la bête à deux dos, and as B.P. notes, 'ODEP cites Florio's Giardino di Recreazione [? Recreazione] as a 1591 example: Far la bestia a due dossi'. P.B.: the phrase has had some joc. usage among the cultured in C.20, and may now perhaps be considered informal S.E.

beastie. A coll. and endearing form, orig. Scottish, of beast: gen. only since ca. 1890.—2. A girl; a young lady: RN: late 1950s. A petty officer of my acquaintance, gazing admiringly at a retreating beauty, could be heard muttering 'Oh, you gorgeous, long-legged beauty!' (P.B.)

beastly. Unpleasant; bad (however slightly): coll.; in C.20, the adj. verges on S.E., while the adv. has definitely remained coll. Cf. awful, terrible. From ca. 1830, as is the adv., which = very. Anstey, 1882, has feeling beastly; Daily Telegraph, 1865, 'he was in good health... looked almost "beastly well"': but adumbrations appear in Barclay, 1509, Dekker in 1611, in Johnson, 1778, and in W.N. Glascock, Sketch-Book, II, 1834, at II, 183, '... beastly bad Buccalow [salt-fish]'.—2. As the beastly, the time: Public Schools' and Universities': ca. 1880–1918. Ernest Raymond, Tell England, 1922.

beasty. See bheestie.

beat, n. A normal round (as of prostitute or policeman): G.A. Stevens, 1788; sphere of influence: Saturday Review, 1862. In both senses, coll. for some forty years, then S.E. but not literary.—2. Hence, one's 'lady friend': RN lowerdeck: late C.19–20. Bowen.—3. A newspaper 'scoop': journalistic: from ca. 1925. Richard Keverne, The Man in the Red Hat, 1930.—4. A beatnik: since late 1950s. Claiborne, 1976, glosses it thus: 'Not, I think, a shortening of Beatnik [E.P.'s orig. tentative etym.], which is rather an elaboration (with Yiddish suffix) of beat. Ultimate derivation is, I think, less from jazz "beat" than from beat, exhausted. The "beats" of the 1950s did indeed suffer from mental exhaustion.'—5. Esp. in have (got) a beat on, to have an erection: low: C.20. Contrast:—6. In get a beat (on), to obtain an advantage (over): mid-C.19—early 20. In c., the term implies secret, shady, or illicit means.—7. Hence, have (someone) beat, to be superior to, to have the better of: from ca. 1910. Or simply an illiterate form of beaten.—8. In off the beat, out of the usual routine: Aus. coll.:—1916 (C.J. Dennis). Cf. sense 1, and S.E. off the beaten track.—9. As the beat, the musical rhythms of jazz: Can. jazz-musicians' and -lovers' coll.: adopted, ca. 1950, ex US. (Victoria) Daily Colonist, 16 Apr. 1959, article 'Basic Beatnik', speaks of 'the Beat fraternity'. (Cf. Norman D. Hinton, article 'Language of Jazz Musicians', in The American Dialect Society, Nov. 1958.) The term is a specialisation of the conventional musical sense of beat. Cf. Beatnik.

beat, adj. Exhausted: from ca. 1830. Often dead beat.—2. Baffled, defeated: coll.: from ca. 1840.

beat a carpet, couldn't. Ineffective; weak; or of a very 'poor' boxer: coll.: late C.19–20. Cf. box kippers; fight his way out of a paper bag; knock the skin off a rice pudding.

beat cock-fighting. To be very good or delightful; to excel: coll.: C.19–20, though foreshadowed in Gauden, Tears of the Church, 1659. Nothing beats cock-fighting is a coll. survival of this phrase: almost a c.p. when applied to one's addictions. Moreover, this or that beats cock-fighting! (used up to WW2, and likewise verged on being a c.p., when used as 'That's splendid fun'. (A reminder, 1976, from L.A.)

beat daddy-mammy. To practise the elements of drum-beating: C.18 military. This is still used in U.S. among people learning to play the drum. They actually say these words while they practise with small drumsticks on a pillow' (Alexander McQueen, 1953).

beat goose or (nautical) the booby. To strike the hands across the chest and under the armpits to warm one's chilled fingers: coll.: from ca. 1880. (OED.) Earlier, cuff or beat Jonas. Jocularly varying beat oneself.

beat (one's) gums. To be loquacious: Can.: adopted, ca. 1945, ex US.

beat into fits. To 'beat hollow': coll.; from ca. 1835. Hood, 'It beats all the others into fits' (OED). In C.20, often beat to fits (Manchon).

beat it. (Of criminals) to run away: mostly NZ: C.20. Ex US coll. >, by mid-C.20, Brit. s., beat it, to depart. Cf. the coll. beat the hoof of C.17–18. It has, in Can. usage and since late 1950s, sometimes been elab. as put an egg in your hat and beat it! (Leechman, 1961).—2. To defeat an indictment: Aus. prison c.: later C.20. (McNeil.) Cf. US synon. beat the rap.—3. In can you beat it?!, 'Well, I'm dashed! (damned!, etc.): coll.: C.20.

beat it while the beating's, or the going's, good. To depart at ease or without trouble. An elab. of prec., 1.

beat (one's) meat. (Of a man) to masturbate: low: late C.19–20.

beat-out. Exhausted: coll.:—1860 (H., 2nd ed.); † by 1910. Cf. beat, adj.

beat (one) to it. To forestall: coll.: since ca. 1910; by ca. 1970, informal S.E.

beat the bag(s) off. To defeat ignominiously: ca. 1920–50.

beat the band. To be remarkable, superior, startling: C.20. Esp., That beats the band.—2. Whence, to beat the band, greatly, excessively, utterly, as in the Tommies' translation of the Hymn of Hate: 'Ate of the 'art and 'ate of the 'and, | 'Ate by water and 'ate by land, | 'Oo do we 'ate to beat the band? | 'England!' (W.). Cf. the prototype, to bang banagher (see banagher).

beat the clock. To cease duty before the prescribed time: Services', esp. RAF: since ca. 1930. Occ. beat the gong. Cf. clock in, q.v.—2. The names of those [SAS men] killed in action are inscribed on the clock tower at the SAS barracks in Hereford. [They] talk of coming back alive from a particular mission as "beating the clock" (Harper & Queens, Nov. 1980): Special Air Service Regiment: later C.20.

beat the Dutch. To do something remarkable: coll.:—1775. Esp. in C.19—early 20 that beats the Dutch, that beats everything, that's 'the limit', it's hardly credible. Cf. sink the Dutch!, an expression of disgust (Musings, 1912).

beat the gun. (Of a female) to have intercourse with her fiancé, esp. if she becomes pregnant by him: Aus.: since late 1940s. Ex athletics. (B.P.) Also Brit.; cf. beat the starter.

beat the hoof. To walk: late C.17–18. (Anthony Wood, Athenae Oxonienses, 1691.) Anon., The Post Boy Robbed ..., 1706, has beat it upon the hoof: prob. c. Cf. beat it, 1. beat the road. To travel by rail without paying: low, mostly US.—1890.

beat the starter. To become pregnant before the wedding: since late 1940s. (Petch.) Ex athletics. Cf. beat the gun.

beat the streets. To walk up and down: C.19–20: coll. till ca. 1890, then S.E.

beat the tar out of. To thrash soundly: from ca. 1920. Michael Harrison, Spring in Tartarus, 1935.

beat the tracks. To walk, esp. a long way and over rough ground: Aus. coll.: C.20. Archer Russell, A Tramp Royal in Wild Australia, 1934.

beat-up, n. Ground strafing; hence a lively visit to 'the local' or a good party in the Mess: RAF: since 1940. (H. & P.) From US; imm. ex-beat up, v. To stunt-fly, at low level, about (a place) (Partridge, 1945): RAF: since 1940. Adopted from American fliers. Cf. beat up the quarters.

beat up for (one's) brass-hat. (Of a Lieutenant-Commander, RN) to seek promotion to Commander: RN: C.20. (P-G-R.) See beating up.

beat up (one's) chops. See give, in Appendix.

beat up the quarters of. To visit unexpectedly, very informally: coll.: 1741, Richardson (OED); Ware (the shorter form). From ca. 1891, gen. just beat up. Ex S.E. sense, 'to disturb'.

beaten at the post. Men going on leave would get down to Boulogne [or Calais] and even across the Channel when word would come that all leave had been cancelled and that they were to return to units' (Petch, 1966): coll. and s., resp.: WW1. Prompted by racing's beaten, or pipped, at the post. Not, by the way, unheard in WW2. See also pipped on (or at) the post.

beaten out. Impoverished: in very severe straits: H. Mayhew, 1851; coll.; ob.

beater. The decoy in a swindle: c. of ca. 1585–1620. Greene. Ex fowling.—2. A foot: low: prob. from ca. 1860. Abbr. dex-beaters. Cf.:- beater-cases. Boots: in late C.18—early 19, c.; then low s. Nearly † in 1859, quite † by 1890. (Grose, 2nd ed.) Succeeded, in mid-C.19, by trotter-cases.

beating the bush. The inveigling of a prospective victim: c. of ca. 1585–95. Greene.

beating, or lashing, up. 'A Lieutenant-Commander is thought to be beating-up for his "brass-hat" (promotion to Commander) when he becomes particularly "taut-handed" and pays great attention to his job' (Granville): RN: C.20. Ex beating up against the wind?

Beatnik, usu. beatnik. 'Generic term coined by the San Francisco press for members of the Beat fraternity living in North Beach area and abhorred by all Beatniks': article 'Basic Beatnik' (or language of the Beatniks), sub-titled 'A Square's Guide to Hip Talk', in (Victoria) Daily Colonist, 16 Apr. 1959. Apparently the term arose in 1957 or perhaps in 1956. See beat, n., 4.

Beattie and Babs. Body lice: since ca. 1930. Rhyming on crabs. (One of the penalties of a wide and deserved popularity.)

Beatty tilt is a var. of Beatty angle, that at which a cap is worn with a slight tilt to starboard: RN: since ca. 1915. A characteristic of Earl Beatty.

Beau. A Beaufighter aircraft: RAF: WW2, then historical. Cf. Whispering Death, q.v.

beau-catcher. See bow-catcher.

beau-nasty. 'One finely dressed, but dirty' (Grose, 2nd ed.): late C.18—early 19.

beau-trap. A sharper, neatly dressed: late C.17–18. B.E.—2. A loose pavement-stone, overlying water: late C.18—early 19. Grose.—3. A fop outwardly well dressed but of unclean linen, body, habits: late C.18—early 19.

beaucoup; often spelt bokoo. Plenty of; many: military: late 1914–18, then as survival. E.g. beaucoup beer or cigarettes. Direct ex Fr. (B. & P.) Olive Dent, in A V.A.D. in France, 1917, notes a 'Tommies' saying': merci bocoa, merci cocoa—a good instance of soldiers' macaronic, for 'many thanks'.

beaut, n. and v. A 'beauty' (rarely of persons, at least in the purely aesthetic sense): prob. orig. Cockney or, anyway, 'non-aristocratic'; now chiefly Aus. and, since ca. 1950, NZ: C.20. (K.S. Prichard, The Black Opal, 1921.) A Cockney example occurs in Marjory Hardcastle, Halfpenny Alley, 1913, concerning a young child, "'Ain't 'e a bute?" answered 'Tilda proudly.' Hence, since ca. 1920, also an adj., as in 'It's a beaut day'. Also ironic, as in the very Aus. 'Oh, you beaut!'

beautiful. An adj. applied coll. by a person to anything that he likes very much: mid-C.19–20. Cf. sweet.

beautiful and...; or, lovely and... A C.19–20 Cockney synonym of nice and in the sense of 'very'; they also = 'satisfactorily'. Julian Franklyn, in a communication of early 1939, adduces the examples, "'E 'ad 'is barf beautiful an' quick; and so 'e should 'a' done, the wa'er was lovely an' 'ot'; 'My neighbour's baby is lovely an' quiet, since I hit it beautiful and hard.'

beautiful but dumb. Orig. (?late 1920s) US, became Can. in the late 1930s; foisted on far too many 'dizzy blondes' less stupid than they seemed to be. (Leechman.)

beautiful pair of brown eyes. A fine pair of breasts (sometimes said with a slight pause after the br): late 1940s–60s. Mock euph. for nipples. (P.B.)

beautiful people, the, defined as 'the wealthy, fashionable people of high society and the arts who set the trend in beauty and elegance' (Barnhart, 1973): US, since early 1960s, soon adopted in Britain; it occurs in, e.g., Peter McCabe's Apple to the Core (about the Beatles), 1972: s. that, by 1973 or so, was coll. everywhere. Orig. ironic and somewhat sardonic. An early example: a Beatles' song, 'Baby You're a Rich Man', released on 7 July 1967, has 'How does it feel to be one of the beautiful people?' (Paul Janssen.) beautifuls. In address, beautiful: feminine: since ca. 1920. Addressed to babies, it tends to emerge as 'boofuls'. Cf. ducks, 2.

beauty. As exclam., denotes a thing of beauty and connotes extreme approval: since (?ca. 1935. 'A pause and then that word of special Aussie approbation. "Beauty!"—but the Chief [Engineer] pronounced it in three distinct syllables, "Be—yew—ty!"' (Wilbur Smith, Hungry as the Sea, 1978).

—2. Hence: Thank you!: non-cultured Aus., esp. Sydney-siders': since late 1940s. (B.P.)—3. In be a beauty, gen. he's a beauty!, you're a beauty, i.e. a person very clumsy or not to be trusted or relied on: coll.: from ca. 1880. (Baumann.) Ex ironic use of lit. sense.—4. In it was a great beauty, it was a fine sight: coll.: ca. 1520–1600. Berners, 1523 (OED). Cf.:—5. In that's (occ. that was) the beauty of it, that is the feature affording the greatest pleasure or keenest satisfaction: coll.: 1754, Richardson, 'That's the beauty of it; to offend and make up at pleasure' (OED).

beauty sleep. Sleep before midnight, supposedly conducive to good looks and health: Frank Smedley's first notable novel, Frank Fairleigh, 1850: coll. >, by 1910, S.E.

beaver, n. In the sense of hat, always—despite F. & H.—S.E. P.B.: but Punch, in 1852, put the term in quotation marks: See High. But the phrase in beaver, in tall hat and non-academical attire, was university coll., ca. 1820–60. See also cock (one's) beaver.—2. As a beard, hence a bearded man, decidedly s.; esp., shouted after, or at, a bearded man in the street by 'nasty boys': ca. 1907–30, then historical. (Leslie S. Beale.)—3. Hence, a no-score at skittles: from ca. 1926; ob. 'When the nought is chalked up, people sometimes draw a face in the circle and attach a beard or "beaver" to it' (Brian Frith, 1935).—4. As 'snack', see bever.—5. A warning: military: from ca. 1910. B. & P.—6. Pubic hair, esp. a girl's; hence split beaver, overt vulva: photographers' and creators of pornography: since early 1970s. (David White's article 'Magazine Moneychase' in New Society, 12 Aug. 1976.) Ex the sense of beard, 2. (P.B.)

beaver, v. (often with away at or on). To work hard and diligently, as in 'There's Eric Partridge, over 85 now and still beavering away at his dictionaries in spite of everything': coll.: since late 1960s. (P.B.) An early printed source: Guardian Weekly, 3 Apr. 1971, Robert Skidelsky writes of 'young historians who have been beavering away in the Beaverbrook Library', punning on an 'in' phrase.

beaver scraper. A cocked hat: naval: ca. 1805–60. (Basil Hall, 2nd series, 1832.) Perhaps the orig. form of scraper, 4.

beaver-tail. 'A feminine mode of wearing the back-hair... loose in a... net... which fell... on to the shoulders.' Ex resemblance to 'a beaver's flat and comparatively shapeless tail', Ware, who classifies it as middle-class of ca. 1860–70.

beaverette. 'A light armoured-car' (H. & P.): WW2: army.

Beavers, the. One of the nicknames of The Prince of Wales Leinster Regiment (Royal Canadians). 'The 1st Battalion (100th Foot) was raised in Canada in 1858 from Canadians who offered their service against the Bengal mutineers.' The Regiment was disbanded in 1922. Carew.

beazel. A girl: since ca. 1930 (P.G. Wodehouse). An arbitrary formation—prob. euph. for bitch.

bebee, beebie. A lady: Anglo-Indian coll.:—1864 (H., 3rd ed.). By 1886 (Y. & B.), no longer applied to ladies: in fact, in late C.19–20 military, it = a bed-mate (Manchon). Ex Hindustani bibi, a lady. See also bibby.

becall. To reprimand; abuse; slander: Cockney coll.: from ca. 1880. (Rook, passim.) P.B.: cf. Midlands synonym. dial. term call.

becalmed, the sail sticks to the mast, – I am. 'My shirt sticks to my back,' Grose, 1st ed., adding: 'A piece of sea wit sported in hot weather': a nautical c.p. of mid-C.18–mid-19.

because it's there. Orig. the challenge of a mountain's very presence, to be climbed; > c.p. ca. 1955. See DCpp.

because the higher the fewer! See COCKNEY SPEECH, in Appendix.

because why? Why?: illiterate coll.: C.19–20 (?earlier).

beck, n. A constable; a beadle: c.: mid-C.16–17. (Harman.) See beak, 1.

beck, v. To imprison: (? C.18—)C.19 c.; rare. Reade in his greatest novel, 1861.

beckets!, hands out. Hands out of your pockets!: nautical: very early C.19–early 20. (John Davis, The Post-Captain, 1806: Moe.) A becket is a nautical loop or bracket.

bed. In lie or sleep in the bed (one) has made, to abide (patiently) by one's actions: from ca. 1750: coll. > proverbial >, by 1850, S.E. (Hanway, 1753: OED.) By fig. extension of make a bed, to put it in order.—2. See go up a ladder to bed; wrong side; legs in a bed; go to bed...

bed and breakfast. 26: darts and tombola players': C.20. Ex tariff, two (shillings) and six (pence); hence also half a crown; and Southern—it was once the fare from London. The London Evening News, 2 July 1937.—2. A cardboard box container for a parachuted pigeon: RAF: mid-1944–5.—3. In take (or get) more than bed and breakfast, to share the bed as well as the board of one's landlady or her daughter: Aus.: since ca. 1930. (B.P.) bed-bait (or unhyphenated). See bait, 4.

bed-down, n.; bed down, v. A going to bed; to go to bed: Services coll.: since ca. 1920. H. & P. Horses are 'bedded down' for the night. P.B. notes: still current in the Services in the 1970s, as in 'The M.O.'s given me bed-down for 3 days.'

bed-fag(g)ot. A hussy; a harlot: coll.: C.19–20; ob. (Not a Society term.) H., 3rd ed. Ex fugot as part of firewood. Cf. warming-pan, q.v. But bed-sister, -piece, and -presser (q.v.) may be S.E.

bed-filling. 'Lying down after dinner to rest and digest' (B. & L.): army: ca. 1880–1914.

bed-house. A house of assignation where beds may be had for any period desired: coll.: C.19.

bed in (one's) boots. See go to bed...

bed-launching. 'Over-turning the bed on the sleeping occupant' (Ferryman-Mockler, 1900): Sandhurst coll.: from ca. 1830.

bed of guns. A ship over-gunned: RN joc. coll.: C. 19–early 20. Bowen.

bed-post. See between you and me and...; twinkling of a bed-post.

bed-presser. See bed-fag(g)ot.—2. A dull, heavy fellow: coll.: late C. 19–early 20.

bed-rollers. Youths, or young men, travelling the country during summer and sleeping rough: since ca. 1950. Ex the bed-rolls they carry.

bed-sit. A common contraction of the next entry: since ca. 1960. 'Poor little temps [girls in temporary office work] living in bed-sit-land.' (P.B.)

bed-sitter. A bed-sitting room: s. (from ca. 1890) >, ca. 1930, coll. (Collinson.) OXFORD -ER.

bed-spring gymnastics. 'Comment from wire mattress at domestic marital exchange' (L.A.): since ca. 1950.

bed-springs. A guitar. See fish-horn.

bed-staff. See bed-post...

bed-tick. The American national flag, the Stars and Stripes: nautical: mid-C.19–20. Pej. of the colour-scheme and allusive to the coverings of mattresses. H. L. Mencken, in Saturday Review of Literature, 10 Apr. 1937.

bed with a mattock, put to, often amplified with and tuck'd up with a spade. Dead and buried: C.18–early 19. From ca. 1830, the form was gen. put to bed with a pickaxe and shovel, while C.19–20 dial. prefers put to bed with a shovel.

bed-work. Lit., work that can be done in bed; hence, very easy work: coll.: late C.16–18. Shakespeare, in Troilus and Cressida.

bedad! An Anglo-Irish coll. asseveration: 1710, Swift; 1848, Thackeray, "'Bedad it's him,'" said Mrs. O'Dowd' (OED), Lit., by dad or (cf. begad, q.v.) by God.

bedaubed all over with lace. A 'vulgar saying of any one dressed in clothes richly laced' (Grose, 1st ed.): mid-C.18–mid-19.

bedder. A college servant: Cambridge University; from ca. 1870.—2. A bed-room: Oxford University (1897); ob. (OED Sup.) Cf. bed-sitter, q.v. Also, in C.20 at certain Public Schools: witness Desmond Coke, The House Prefect, 1908.

Beddo. A Bedouin: Services' (N. Africa): 1940+. P-G-R.

beddy-byes. Sleep; beddy-byes!, go to sleep!: nursery: C.19–20.

Bedford = Bedfordshire. See Bedfordshire and wooden hill.

Bedford go. A rich chuckle: taverns': ca. 1835–60. Ex Paul Bedford, the actor. Ware.

Bedfordshire. Bed: C.17–20, ob.; col. Middleton, 1608, 'You come rather out of Bedfordshire; we cannot lie quiet in our beds for you'; Cotton; Swift; Hood; E. V. Lucas, 1927. (Apperson.) Cf. blanket fair, cloth market, land of nod, sheet alley. These simple witticisms (cf. Gutter Lane) are mostly old.

Bedlam, like. Confused, noisy, unreasonable, all to a 'mad' extent: coll.; late C.18–20. Ex the famous London lunatic asylum.

Bedourie shower. See shower, 5.

bedworthy. (Of a woman) sexually desirable: upper- and middle-class coll.: since ca. 1925.

bee. A slangy euphemism for bugger: since ca. 1920. (Ngaio Marsh, Swing, Brother, Swing, 1949, 'The old bee'.) But also for bastard.—2. In put on the bee, v.t., put the bee on, to ask for a loan or a gift of money: c.: from ca. 1930. (Gilt Kid.) For semantics, cf. the corresponding v., sting.

bee aitch. Bloody hell! See b.h., 2.

bee emm. A B.M.W. motorcycle. See B.M.

bee fool. A b— fool (see b.f.): 1926, Galsworthy, The Silver Spoon.

bee in a treacle-pot. See busy as...

bee in one's or the head or bonnet, have a. To have queer ideas, be eccentric: C.17–20; adumbrated in 1553 (Apperson);

ob. Have an obsession: C.20. A var.: one's head is full of bees, C.16–20: this, however, also = one is (very) 'anxious' or 'restless' (Heywood; Franklin, 1745); † by 1900. Apperson.

bee-line, make or take a. To go direct: coll.; orig. (—1830) US; Anglicised ca. 1870; in C.20, S.E.

bee-stings. (A woman's) small breasts: Aus. low: adopted ex US later C. 20. (Bill Hornadge, The Australian Slangage, 1980.) P.B.: Cf. the jibe at puny muscles, sparrow's kneecaps.

beebie. See bebee.

Beeb, the. The BBC: coll.: since late 1920s. Cf. Auntie.

beech. 'A railway (or station) marked down for closure is said to be "due for beeching". A railway (or station) closed is "beeched"; and axed personnel are described as "on the beech"' (a pun on on the beach): Sean Fielding, letter to Press, Feb. 1964. Current in late 1963–5, but already ob. so soon as by the end of 1965. Richard Beeching was chairman of British Rail Board 1963–5, during which period the railway services in Brit. were drastically reduced. Life Peer in 1965.

Beecham. A bill (list of performers): theatrical: late C. 19–20. Cf. Beecham's (pills).

Beecham's pill. A simpleton; a dupe: Aus. c.: since ca. 1920. (B., 1953.) On synon. dil(l).—2. A photographic still: rhyming: the film world: since ca. 1950. (Haden-Guest, 1971.)

Beecham's (pills). Bills, placards, etc., showing that one is an ex-soldier: tramps' c.:—1935. Rhyming s. on bills.—2. Rhyming s. for 'testicles', mispronounced testikills: late C.19–20. Probably suggested by the synon. s. pills.

beef, n. Human flesh, as in put on beef, put on weight: coll.: from ca. 1860. Also as be in a man's beef, to wound him with a sword: late C.18–early 19 (Grose, 1st ed.). Contrast be in a woman's beef, to coit with her: late C.18–mid-19 (Grose, 2nd ed.) Cf. C.19–20 low do or have a bit of beef, take in beef, of women in coitu.—2. Hence, in pej. address, e.g. you great beef, you!: coll.: late C.19–early 20.—3. Strength; effort: nautical:—1863. Whence more beef!, work harder; cf. beef up!: both nautical, since mid-C.19.—4. The penis: low: C.19–20. Cf. sense 1, low nuances.—5. Cat's meat: Clare Market, London: ca. 1870–1900. Ware.—6. A shout; a yell: theatrical: ca. 1880–1930. Ware suggests, as genesis: bull—bellow—beef. Cf., however, cry or give (hot) beef; occ. also whiddle beef, to set up a hue and cry: c.: C.18–early 20. (Grose, 1st ed.) Note that Beef! as exclam. = Stop thief!: ca. 1810–1910: c. >, by 1870, low s. (Vaux, 1812.) P.B.: is this a very early example of rhyming s.?—7. 'An alternative term for the famous "bind", but only applicable to the crime itself, of boring one's colleagues by retailing shop-news and stale information' (H. & P., 1943): Services. Adopted from US. As 'a complaint', beef has been common in Can. since early C.20., and was adopted in UK ca. 1942; e.g., 'What's his beef?' But see also beef, v., 2.—8. A male homosexual: RN lowerdeck: since mid-C.20. (Heart, 1962.) Also as adj.—9. In make beef, to decamp: C.19 c. Cf. amputate; and sense 6.—10. See dressed like Christmas beef.

beef, v. To shout, yell: theatrical: ca. 1880–1930. (Ware.) See n., 6.—2. Hence, to 'grouse': army and RAF: C.20. (Manchon.) Cf. n., 7.—3. To hit, punch, someone: low: earlier C.20. A Hyder, Black Girl, White Lady, 1934.—4. (Of a male) to coit: low: since mid-1940s. G.F. Newman, The Guvnor, 1977, 'There were sounds from Connell's bedroom ... Connell was beefing her.' See n., 1 and 4.

beef, adj. Homosexual (male): RN lowerdeck: since mid-C.20. (Heart, 1962.). Cf. beefier.

beef a bravo. To lead the applause: music-halls': from ca. 1880; ob. Ware. Ex beef, v.: q.v.

beef à-la-mode. Stewed beef: commercial London (—1909); ob. by 1915, † by 1920. Ware.

beef-bag. A shirt: Aus.: since ca. 1860; by 1940, ob. 'Tom Collins', Such is Life, 1903.

beef bayonet. The penis: raffish joc.: later C.20. 'Brandish the ...!' (Posy Simmonds, True Love, 1981). Ex the Aus. satire 'Barry McKenzie'. (Barry Humphries). Cf. synon. mutton dagger and pork sword. (P.B.) beef-boat. See beef-trip.

beef-brained. Dull-witted: C.17, coll. (Feltham, 1627.) Cf. beef-witted.

beef-chit. The wardroom menu: RN: since ca. 1920. Granville.

beef-head. A blockhead: coll., C.18–early 19. Unrecorded before 1775. Whence beef-headed:—1864 (H., 3rd ed.).

beef-heart. (Gen. pl.) A bean: low: late C.19–20. (B. & P.) Rhyming on farf: ex the effect of (peas and) beans.—2. Hence, a breaking of wind: low rhyming s.: C.20. Franklyn, Rhyming.

beef into it, put some. (Gen., imperative.) To try or work hard: coll.: C.20. Cf. beef, n., 3, and beef up!, q.v.

beef (it), v. To eat heartily: C.19 coll.; orig. dial., then East End Cockney.

beef it out. To declaim vociferously: Aus.:—1916 (C.J. Dennis).

beef-screen, the. The meat stores: RN: since ca. 1920. (Wilfred Granville, letter, 1947.) Ex the screen to keep the flies off?

beef-stick. The bone in a joint of beef: army: ca. 1870–1910.

beef to the heels. 'A derisive description of a girl's thick ankles, which run from calf to heel in one sad, straight line' (Leachman): Can.: since ca. 1910. Cf.:

beef to the heels (or, in C.20, knees), like a Mullingar heifer. (Of a man) stalwart, (of a woman) 'fine': mostly Anglo-Irish: mid-C.19–20. See Mullingar heifer.

beef-trip; beef-boat. 'The service of supplying the Fleet with food'; the ships therein engaged: RN coll.: WW1. Bowen.

beef-tugging. 'Eating cook-shop meat, not too tender, at lunch-time' (Ware): City of London, mostly clerks' (—1909); ob.

beef up. See beef, n., 3.

beef up! Pull especially hard!, 'put some beef into it': nautical (—1903).

beef (one's) way through. To force one's way through: Rugby football coll.: C.20. Cf. beef, n., 3.

beef-witted. Doltish: coll. verging on S.E.: late C.16–20; ob. (Cf. beef-brained.) As in Shakespeare's Troilus and Cressida. Whence beef-wittedness (—1863).

beefcake. See cheesecake.

Beefeaters. The Yeomen of the Guard: from ca. 1670. Also of the Warders of the Tower of London: C.18–20. Coll. ex S.E. beef-eater, a well-fed servant.

beefier. A male homosexual: RN: since mid-C. 20. "'You got a crush on that beeper in the N.A.A.F.I., that's what it is'" (Heart, 1962, p. 87). Cf. beef, n., 8. (P.B.) beefiness. Solid physique: coll., orig. (—1859) at Oxford.

beefment, on the. On the alert: c.: since ca. 1880. (B. & L.) Cf. beef!, q.v.

beefs. Ordinary Shares in the Eastman Company: Stock Exchange:—1895 (A.J. Wilson, Stock Exchange Glossary).

beefsteak. A harlot in the service of a pimp: white-slavers' c.: C.20. Londres.

beefy. Thick, esp. of hands or ankles (—1859); obese, fleshy (—1860); stolid (1859): coll., all three senses.—2. Lucky (—1874). H., 5th ed.

beehive. A fighter-escorted close formation of bombers: RAF: since 1940. (H. & P.) The box-like formation of bombers is the hive, and the fighters buzz around it.—2. Five; esp., £5: rhyming: since ca. 1920: c. >, by 1940, s. Robin Cook, Crust on Its Uppers, 1962.

Beelzebub. A fire-ship: naval: late C.18–mid-19. The combustibles consisted mainly of gunpowder and brimstone, the latter associated with Hell, ruled by Beelzebub. Cf.:

Beelzebub's Paradise. Hell: C.19–20 literary coll.; ob. Ex Matthew x. 25 and xii. 27 (F. & H.). Heywood, in his Proverbs, 1546, had used Beelzebub's bower.

been and (done). A tautological elab., indicative of surprise or annoyance, of the second participle: illiterate coll.: 1837, Dickens, 'See what you've been and done' (OED). Cf.: been and gone and done it, I (etc.) have or he (etc.) has. A

loc. coll. emphasised form of I have (etc.) done it, with esp. reference to marriage. C.20. Ware. See DCpp.

been in the sun. Drunk; var. been standing too long in the sun; cf. have the sun in one's eyes, be tipsy. Of these the first is C.18–20 and recorded in Grose, the other two are C.19–20.

been robbing a bank? A c.p., addressed jocularly to a person in funds: C.20.

been there. (Of women) having sexual experience: C.19–20. (Of men) experienced; shrewd: anglicised ca. 1900 ex (—1888) US. Both senses are coll., and rare except when preceded by has or have.

been-to, n. A West African, esp. a Ghanaian or Nigerian, who has 'been to' England, usu. for study, and whose social status has been greatly enhanced thereby: coll.: post-WW2. In later C.20, the term has been extended to include Brit. academics who have 'been to' the more prestigious US universities. The Guardian, Nov. 1982, refers to 'young lecturers self-consciously emphasising their "been-to" status on return from Stanford or Berkeley'. (Mrs C. Raab.)

been to see Captain Bates? A c.p. greeting to one recently released from prison: late C.19—early 20. 'Captain Bates was a well-known prison-governor' (Ware). See Bate's Farm.

beenship. See beneship.

Beer, beer, n. Burton-on-Trent: railwaymen's: since ca. 1920. (Daily Herald, 5 Aug. 1936.) So much beer is brewed there.—2. In do a beer, to take a drink of beer: coll.:—1880.—3. In in beer, drunk: C.19—earlier 20; coll. >, ca. 1880, S.E. Cf. in liquor; in one's cups.—4. In on the beer, on a bout of drinking: lower-class coll.:—1909 (Ware). More gen., on the booze.—5. See Ack; and PHONETIC ALPHABET, in Appendix.—6. For think (no) small beer, see small...

beer, v. To drink beer; to become intoxicated: coll.: ca. 1780–1850, as in Peter Pindar. It was current thereafter in Aus., ca. 1860–1900 (B., letter, 1946).

Beer and Bible Association. Licensed victuallers' leaders ('many of whom were strong High Churchmen', Dawson) and Conservatives leagued to resist a measure introduced by moderate Liberals in 1873. The Morning Advertiser, earlier known as The Gin and Gospel Gazette (it artfully backed beer as well as the Bible), was thereupon called The Beer and Bible Gazette. The B and B terms were ob. by 1882.

beer and skittles, not all. Not wholly pleasant: coll. from ca. 1860; by 1930 almost S.E.

beer-barrel. The human body: coll.: C.19–20; ob. Cf. bacon and beer-bottle.—2. A Brewster 'Buffalo' fighter aircraft: RAF: WW2. (Jackson.) Ex the shape of the fuselage.

beer-beer. A balloon barrage: early WW2, until beer was replaced by baker in the PHONETIC ALPHABET, in Appendix. Cf. ack-ack.

beer-bottle. 'A stout, red-faced man': London streets' (—1909); ob. Ware.

beer-bottle label or simply beer label. Coat-of-arms on Warrant-Officer's sleeve: RAF: since ca. 1930, ob. by 1950. Cf. fighting cats.

beer, bum and bacca. The reputed, almost legendary, pleasures of a sailor's life: since ca. 1870. Since ca. 1910 there has existed the var. rum, bum and bacca (-y), q.v.

beer-drink. A gathering of aborigines to drink 'Kafir beer': S. African coll.: from the 1890s. Pettman.

beer-eater. A mighty drinker of beer: 1887, Referee, 21 Aug.; ob., except in the Army. Ware.

beer is best. A c.p. arising, ca. 1930, ex a brewers' slogan. P.B.: but note the penultimate couplet in G.K. Chesterton's poem 'The Secret People': 'It may be we are meant to mark with our riot and our rest/God's scorn for all men governing. It may be beer is best.'—2. 'Chest. "That'll put some barnet [hair] on your beer"' (Red Daniells, 1980): rhyming s.: later C.20.

beer-lever. 'Part of the controls of an aircraft' (H. & P.): RAF: since 1930. Cf. synonym. joy stick.

beer-off. A public-house off-licence department: coll.: C.20. Nottingham Journal, 15 Mar. 1939, 'Children and beer-off' beer o(h). A c.p. cry among artisans exacting a fine for some breach or omission: ca. 1850–1900. Ware.

(caption). P.B.: also any off-licence establishment selling alcohol. Perhaps mainly East Midlands coll.

beer-slinger. A drinker, esp. if frequent, of beer: from ca. 1870.

beer-spanner. A bottle-opener: RAF: ca. 1919–39, and prob. since. (P.B.)

beer-stain. 'R.A.F., 1939–45. The tiny bronze oak-leaf worn to indicate a mention in despatches. When the wearer had no medal ribbon [to form a background]... its appearance on the slaty-blue uniform did indeed suggest carelessness. Cf. canteen medal, 2' (R.S., 1971).

Beer Street (or beer street). The throat: law:—1909; ob. by 1930. Cf. Gutter Lane.

beer today – gone tomorrow is a c.p. punning parody of here today (and) gone tomorrow, connoting brevity: ca. 1941–60.

beer-trap. Mouth: late C.19—mid-20. Sapper's War Stories. (Petch.)

beer-up, n. and occ. v. A drinking: Aus., and British (army), coll.: C.20.

beerage. Steerage. See bear-pit.—2. beerage, the. See beeroocracy.

beeriness. Near-intoxication: coll. from ca. 1865. Ex S.E. beery (1859; H., 1st ed.).

beeroocracy. Brewers and publicans: coined in either 1880 or 1881. This might be described as pedantic coll.; the likewise coll. beerage, which, esp. as beerage and peerage, was much neater and much more viable, was ob. as a phrase by ca. 1900. However, as the beerage, a collective for those powerful leaders of the brewing industry who have entered public life and the nobility, it has remained in journalistic use into the late 1970s. (Partly P.B.) beer buff. A fool: rhyming s. on muff: C.20.

bees. Money: short for the next.—2. As the Bees, the Brentford 'soccer' team: sporting: C.20.—3. In his head is full of bees, he is very anxious, fanciful, restless: coll.: ca. 1540–1850. (Apperson.) Franklyn, 1737, notes the phrase among his synonyms for 'drunk'.

bees and honey. Money: rhyming s.: since—1892 (EDD).

bee's knee, not as big as a. Very small; gen. applied to a tiny piece of anything: late C.18–20: coll. (ob.) and dial. verging on S.E. Locker-Lampson, 1896. Apperson.

bee's knees, the. The acme of perfection, beauty, attractiveness, skill, desirability, etc.: from ca. 1930. Only this year (1939) I heard a girl described as 'a screamer, a smasher, a—oh! the bee's knees'. Cf. the cat's pyjamas.

bees-wax. Soft, inferior cheese: c. or low s.: Moncrieff, in Tom and Jerry, 1821; ob.—2. Whence (?), a bore: gen. as old bees-wax: ca. 1850–1900.

bees-waxers. Football-boots: Winchester College, from ca. 1840.

bees-wing, old. A nickname for a genial drinker: from ca. 1870; gen. in address. Ex the film in long-kept port wine.

bees wingers. Fingers: rhyming s.: later C.20. 'Always used in full, as Bees was, of course, money' (Red Daniells, 1980).

beestie. See bheestie.

beetle, n. A mother barge (in use at Gallipoli): 1915: Aus. Forces'. (Sir John Monash.) These barges held 400 men.—2. The original Volkswagen car, and later editions of the same shape: by 1960, at the latest, the nickname was in worldwide usage, and by the 1970s featured in advertisements for the vehicle. Ex the distinctive shape. Cf. Volks and Vee Wee. (P.B.)—3. In as deaf or dull or dumb as a beetle, extremely deaf, dull, or dumb: coll. verging on S.E.: resp. C.18–19, C.16–17, and C.17–18. This may refer to the implement, not the insect.

beetle, v. See beetle off.

beetle bait. Treacle: Aus. soldiers': 1914+. Baker.

beetle-case. A large boot or shoe: ca. 1850–1900.

beetle-crusher. A large, esp. if flat, foot: from ca. 1840 and popularised by Leech in Punch. In this sense, no longer gen.

after 1880, beetle-squasher was an occ. var.—2. A large boot or shoe (—1869): in WW1. an army boot. 'The bluejacket's name for a Marine's boots, never his own' (Bowen).—3. (Military) an infantryman: from ca. 1885; cf. the more usual mud-crusher.

beetle-crushing. Solid of tread: coll., from ca. 1870. Anon., Anteros, 1871.

beetle juice. Betelgeuse—a star used in astral observation: RAF aircrews': since 1938. (Jackson). By Hobson-Jobson.

beetle off. To fly straight in departure: RFC: 1915. F. & G. 'As a beetle flies'. Since WW1, beetle about, to wander about actively, as frequently in John Brandon's The One-Minute Murder, 1934, and beetle off, to depart, as in Denis Mackail's Summer Leaves, 1934. By ca. 1940, also beetle across, over, up to, etc.

beetle-squasher. See beetle-crusher.

beetle-sticker. An entomologist: from ca. 1870; perhaps coll. rather than s. H., 5th ed.

beetles. Colorado mine stocks: Stock Exchange:—1887. Ex the Colorado beetle, the notorious potato-pest.

beetle's (or beetles') blood. Stout (the drink): Anglo-Irish: —1935. Ex the colour and the consistency.

beetroot mug. A red face: London streets': ca. 1870–1915. Prob. coined by Charles Ross, that creator of Ally Sloper, who was 'a humorist of the more popular kind' (Ware).

Beeza. The BSA (Birmingham Small Arms) motorcycle (in production 1906–71), and hence the BSA light motorcar or cyclecar: motorcyclists' and motorists': since ca. 1920, or perhaps earlier. (D. Dunford and H. Carter.) Also spelled Beezer.

beeze. Penis: low joc.: C.20. In 'Trooper'—a ballad in Martin Page's 2nd collection of WW2 songs, ballads, what-have-you, For Gaudsake Don't Take Me, 1976.

beeze up. To polish; to apply 'bull' to: army: WW2. 'Medals all beezed up and a-glitter' (Punch, 15 Nov. 1978). Perhaps ex beeswax, used in polish. (P.B.)

beezzer, n. 'Chap'; fellow: Public Schoolboys': since ca. 1920. (Nicholas Blake, A Question of Proof, 1935.) Prob. ex bugger + geezzer.—2. See Beeza.—3. A nose: since late 1920s: poss. orig. US. (COD, 1934 Sup.) Perhaps ex boco + sneezzer.

beezzer, adj. Excellent: most attractive: since ca. 1935. Ex bonzer?

before, indicative of speed, as in before you could say 'Jack Robinson' or 'knife': see knife, 5, and Jack Robinson, 2.

before breakfast. See breakfast...

before the wind. Well-placed, prospering, fortunate: coll.: from ca. 1840; orig. nautical.

before the mind – without warrant or compass, be away. To be disadvantageously placed: naval, esp. lowerdeck: late C.18–latish 19. (Bill Truck, 1824.) Contrast prec.

before you (or your)... Starts many a jibe from the experienced man to the newcomer, esp. in the Services and as 'I was doing (such-and-such) before you...' The form is adumbrated in Shakespeare, Troilus and Cressida, 'Whose wit was mouldy ere your grandsires had nails on their toes' (i.e., before they were born). Then comes, e.g., Fuller, 1732, 'Your mamma's milk is scarce out of your nose yet' (Apperson), with which cf. still wet behind the ears. A full flowering seems to have been reached in the trenches, 1915–18; B. & P. list the following: before you come (= came) up!; 'fore you listed; before you had a regimental number or your number was dry or up, which later had var. your number's still wet and get your number dry! and your number isn't dry yet ('dry' and 'wet' refer to ink); before you nipped, i.e. before you went to school (cf. nip, v., 4); before you was breeched or your bollocks dropped or you lost the cradle-marks off your arse; before you knew what a button-stick was (it was a device to prevent button-polish from soiling the uniform to which the buttons were attached: see regimental as...); before your arse was as big as a shirt button; or when your mother was cutting bread on you or while you were clapping your hands at Charlie (Chaplin) or when you were off to school (with tags); or I was cutting barbed wire while you was or were cutting your teeth. A tailors'-earled C.20 version was before you bought your shovel! A later C.20 version appears in the boast, e.g., 'Shag? She's had more shags than you've had hot dinners!' See also when Pontius..., and when you were...

beforehand with the world. Having a reserve of money: from ca. 1640; coll.; in C.19 S.E.; C.20, archaic.

beg from bacon. In a good voice to..., a c.p. derivative of an ill voice: late C.17–18. B.E.

beg (a person) for a fool, an idiot or an innocent. To consider, set down as a fool; from ca. 1580: coll. >, ca. 1700, S.E.; in C.19–20, archaic. OED.

beg on the fly. To beg from persons as they pass: c.:—1816 (Mayhew). See fly.

beg yer pardon. A garden: rhyming s.: late C.19–20.

beg your pudding (or pudden)! I beg your pardon: lower-middle-class joc.: from ca. 1890. Baumann, 1887, notes the var. (I) beg (your) parsnips! Cf.:-

beg yours! I beg your pardon: Aus. coll.: since ca. 1920. (B.P.) As (usu.) I beg yours, Brit. coll. since 1940 at latest; also S. African, to judge by the title of a book, 1979, Aw Big Yaws.

begad! An exclamation, gen. in support: coll.: 1742, Fielding (OED). Ex by God!

begarra! An occ. var. of begorra(h)!, q.v.

Begats, the (or italicised or 'quoted'). The Book of Genesis: middle-class: since ca. 1870.

beggar. A euph. for bugger: whether n. or v. E.g. in I'll be begged if..., I swear I won't...: C.19–20.—2. (N. only.) Playfully coll.: from ca. 1830; cf. scamp.—3. A man, chap, fellow: from ca. 1850.

beggar boy's ass. Bass (the drink): rhyming s.: late C.19–20. (P. P., Rhyming Slang, 1932.) Often abbr. to beggar boy's. (There is a curious connexion between P.P.'s volume of rhyming s. [See Bibliographical Abbreviations] and that dict. which had been published only the year before: J. Phillips's Dict. of Rhyming Slang.)—2. Money: rhyming s., on brass: late C.19–20. Franklyn, Rhyming.

beggar for work, a. A constant hard worker: coll.: late C.19–20. Also he (or she) deserves a medal: c.p.: since ca. 1915.

beggar-maker. A publican: late C.18–early 19, coll. Grose, 1st ed., where also beggar-makers, an ale-house: an entry that should, I think, read beggar-maker, etc., for the singular is all that is necessary.

beggar my neighbour, on the. On the Labour (Exchange)—drawing unemployment benefit therefrom: rhyming s.: since ca. 1925. Franklyn, Rhyming.

beggar on the coals. A small damper: NZ and Aus.: ca. 1850–1900. (B., 1941.) Also bugger...

beggar on the gentleman, put the. To drink beer after spirits: mid-C.19–20, ob. (H., 5th ed.) A var. of churl (up)on the gentleman.

beggar (or, more often bugger one's) contract. To spoil something: render it useless or nugatory: Army, 1914–18.

beggared if. See beggar, 1.

beggarly. Mere: coll.; C.19–20. E.g. 'He gave the rescuer a beggarly fiver.'

beggars. Cards of denomination 2 to 10: coll., C.19–early 20.

beggar's benison. 'May your prick and (your) purse never fail you': low: C.18–early 19. (Grose, 1st ed.) Cf. best in Christendom, both ends of the busk, and the sailor's farewell, qq.v. beggar's bolts or bullets. Stones: coll., resp. late C.16–17, late C.18–early 19 (as in Grose, 1st ed.).

beggar's brown. Scotch snuff: coll.: C.19–early 20. Orig. and mainly Scottish. It is light brown in colour.

beggar's bush, go (home) by. To be ruined: late C.16–19; in 1564, Bullein has a rare var., thus: 'In the ende thei go home... by weeping cross, by beggars barne, and by knave's acre' (Apperson). Beggars have always, in summer, slept under trees and bushes; in winter, if possible, they naturally seek a barn.

beggar's lagging. A three-month sentence of imprisonment: c.: C.20. Tempest.

beggar's plush. Corduroy or perhaps cotton velvet: late C.17–18 coll. London Gazette, 1688.

beggar's velvet. Downy matter accumulating under furniture: C.19–20, ob.; coll. Cf. sluts' wool.

begin to, not to. 'Not to (do something)' emphasised; to be in no way; fall short of being or doing: coll.: US (1842: Thornton), anglicised ca. 1860. E.g. an ill-disposed person might say, 'This does not begin to be a dictionary.'

begin (up)on. To attack, either physically or verbally: coll.: ca. 1825, Mrs Sherwood, 'All the company began upon her, and bade her mind her own affairs.'

begorra(h)! By God!: Anglo-Irish coll.: C.19–20. By corruption. Cf. be jabbers!

begum. A rich widow: Anglo-Indian: mid-C.19–early 20. (B. & L.) A derivation from the S.E. sense, a lady of royal or other high rank in Hindustan.

behave. Short and coll. for behave (one)self: since ca. 1870. Esp. nursery ('Behave, miss, or I'll smack you') and lower-class.

Behemoths, the. The 3rd Battle Squadron of the Grand Fleet: RN coll.: WW1. (F. & G.) Orig. it comprised eight battleships of the King Edward VII Class. Cf. Wobbly Eight.

behind. The posterior; the rear part of a garment. The first record is of 1786. OED and SOD designate it as coll. and low: in 1933, however, was it not on the borderline between coll. and S.E., and nearer the latter? Certainly it was no longer low: it lost that stigma ca. 1930. See Slang.—2. At Eton and Winchester Colleges, ca. 1850–1914, a back at 'soccer': coll. > j. behind chests. 'Dark nooks on the orlop deck': The Conway: from ca. 1875. Masefield's history of that training-ship.

behind like Barney's bull, all. See Barney's bull, and cf. the semi-proverbial all behind, like the cow's tail.

behind (one)self, be. To be late, a long way behind, far from 'up to the minute': non-aristocratic coll.: 1896; slightly ob. Ware.

behind the behind. A semi-coll., semi-c.p., ref. to sodomy: since ca. 1930.

behind the eight-ball. In an extremely difficult position; at a grave disadvantage: Can.: adopted, ca. 1945, from US. Ex snooker. By 1960, also English. Wallace Reyburn, article in colour section of Sunday Times, 8 July 1962.

behind the times. Old-fashioned; having only such knowledge (esp. of method) as is superannuated: mid-C.19–20: coll. >, by 1930, S.E.

behindativeness, have (e.g. a deal of). To have a (big) dress-pannier: Society: 1888–ca. 1905. Ware.

Beilby's ball (where the sheriff plays the music is added in Grose, 3rd ed.), dance at. To be hanged: late C.18–early 19: prob. orig. c. (Grose, 1st ed.) It is not known who Mr Beilby was; perhaps a notable London sheriff. But Beilby's is more prob. a personified and punning perversion of bilboes, fetters; F. & H. infers that it implied an Old Bailey hanging. In Grose, 1st ed., there is shake (one's) trotters at B(eilby's) ball (, where the sheriff pays the fiddlers), to be put in the stocks. If, as Grose writes, 'fetters and stocks were anciently called bilboes', this is perhaps the more prob. interpretation.

bejan, occ. baijan. A freshman at the Universities of Edinburgh (where † by 1880), Aberdeen, St Andrews. From ca. 1640: s. only in C.17, then j. Ex the bec jaune of the Sorbonne, where the term was certainly s.; an early form of bec jaune, an ignorant person, was béjaune.

bel-shangle. (Perhaps) a buffoon: prob. c.: late C.16–early 17. (Kemp, 1600.)? bell-jangler.

belay. To speak, esp. if vigorously: nautical: from ca. 1790; ob. Dibdin, 'My timbers! what lingo he'd coil and belay' (OED).—2. To stop, gen. belay that yarn!, we've had enough of that story: nautical:—1823 (Egan's Grose; Smyth).—3. To cancel, as in 'Belay that last order!': RN: C.20. Granville. Ex sense 2. Cf.:-

belay there! Stop! Nautical: from ca. 1860. Cf.:

belaying-pin soup. Rough treatment of seamen by officers, esp. in sailing-ships: nautical: late C.19–20; ob. Bowen.

belch. Beer, esp. if inferior and therefore apt to cause belching: from ca. 1690; ob. (B.E.) One recalls Sir Toby Belch, a jolly blade, but he, I surmise, avoided poor beer. Cf. swipes.

belch, v.i. To eructate: C.11–20: S.E. until mid-C. 19, then a vulgarism.

belcher. A blue handkerchief white- or, occ., yellow-spotted: since very early C.19. It occurs in The Port Folio, 16 May 1807, at p. 310, and 17 Oct. 1807, at p. 247 (Moe); since ca. 1860, loosely, a handkerchief of any base with spots of another colour. Soon > coll., and from ca. 1875 it has been S.E. Ex the boxer Jim Belcher (d. 1811).—2. A (gen. hard) drinker of beer: c. Hindley, 1876, but prob. in use at least twenty years earlier: circus and showmen's s., which is nearer c. than to s.—3. A thick ring: 1851 (Mayhew); ob. c.

belfa. See HARLOTS, in Appendix.

belfry. The head. See bats in the belfry.

Belgeek. A Belgian: army coll.: WW1. (F. & G.) Ex Fr. Belgique, Belgium.

Belgians. See give it to the Belgians!

Bellal. Balliol College: Oxford: ca. 1870–1914.

believe. In I believe you!, yes!: coll.:—1835 (Dickens); ob. by 1930. Cf. I believe you, my boy!, q.v.—2. In believe you me!, a conventional, vaguely emphatic c.p.: C.20. Prob. a development ex sense 1. See DCpp.—3. In you wouldn't believe, you would not, or you would hardly, believe it: low coll.: mid-C. 19–20. Dorothy L. Sayers, Murder Must Advertise, 1932, 'The edges of the steps get that polished you wouldn't believe.' Cf. its derivative, would you believe, q.v.

Belinda. 'A frequent nickname for a barrage balloon' (P-G-R): Services', esp. army: WW2.

belker. To weep noisily: market-traders': C.20. (M.T.) Partly choic, partly a ref. to a bell. Perhaps cf. dial. belker, to belch.

bell, n. A song; tramps' c.:—1859 (H., 1st ed.). Abbr. bellow.—2. In give (one) a bell, to telephone. Red Daniels, Brit. J. Phot., 23 July. 1982.—3. See ring (one's) own bell; ring the bell; sound as a bell; warm the bell.

bell, v. To run away with (a marble): schoolboys': ca. 1850–1910.

Bell and Horns. 'Brompton Road cab-shelter is the "Bell and Horns" and Kensington High Street shelter "All Nations"... I think named after forgotten pubs' (Herbert Hodge, Cab, Sir?, 1939): taxicab drivers': since ca. 1920.

bell-bastard. The bastard child of a bastard mother: C.19 West Country. Why the bell? Cf. bastardly gullion.

bell, book and candle. Joc. coll. for the accessories of a religious ceremony: C.19–20; coll. > S.E. Ex a medieval form of excommunication, these nn. occurring in the final sentence.

bell-rope. A man's curl in front of the ear: low:—1868; ob. with the fashion, by later C.19. Cf. aggravator.

bell-shangle. See bel-shangle.

bell the cat. To undertake something dangerous: from ca. 1720, coll.; S.E. by 1800.

bell-top. A membrum virile unusually large-headed; gen. as adj., bell-topped, occ. -knobbed. C.19 (?—C.20). F. & H. designate it as 'harlotry'. Cf.:-

bell-topper. A silk hat: NZ:—1853 (B., 1941) and Aus. (W. Kelly, Life in Victoria, 1859); G.A. Sala, 1885: coll. by 1900. Cf. prec.

bell-wether. Leader of a mob: C.15–20; coll. >, by 1750, S.E. Ex 'a flock of sheep, where the wether has a bell about its neck' (Grose).—2. 'A clamorous noisy man' (B.E.): s. in C.17–early 19, coll. in C.15–16.

beller-croaker. Ravishingly beautiful: non-educated: ca. 1860–85. A corruption of Fr. belle à croquer, which 'lasted into 1883, in English Society' (Ware).

bellerling cake. 'Cake in which the plums are so far apart that they have to beller (bellow) when they wish to converse' (Ware): schools':—1909; ob. Cf. hooting pudding.

bellers. See bellows.

bellibone. A smartly dressed girl: low:—1923. Manchon derives it ex Fr. belle et bonne.

bellied. Stuck fast: Tank Corps coll., applied to a tank under-caught by, e.g., a tree-stump: 1917–18. F. & G.

bellier. A punch to the belly: pugilistic coll.: ca. 1810–1930. Boxiana, III, 1821.

bellowdrama. Melodrama: joc. coll.: late C.19–20. Rhyming.

bellower. A town crier: late C.18–early 19. Grose, 2nd ed.

bellows; illiterately, bellers. The lungs. Recorded for 1615, but that was a fig. use; as s., C.18–20.—2. In give (someone) the bellows or the blow-out, to rid oneself of him: market-traders': C.20, perhaps a generation earlier. (M.T.) Semantics: the former, to fan a fire under his tail; the latter, to spit him out.

bellows away!; bellows him well! An adjuration to a boxer not to spare his opponent, i.e. to make him pant for wind: boxing: ca. 1820–70. Bee. See bellowser.

bellows to mend, have. (Of a horse) to be broken-winded; hence, of a man: early C.19–20. In Blackwoods, 1822. Prob. ex the street-cry 'Any bellows to mend?'

bellowsed. Transported as a convict: ca. 1820–60. Cf. (to lag, q.v.

bellowser. A blow in 'the wind': boxing, from ca. 1810; ob.—Hence, 2, a sentence of transportation for life: c. of ca. 1810–60. Lex. Bal.; Vaux, knap (i.e. nap) a bellowser.

bells. Bell-bottomed trousers: RN lowerdeck coll.: C.20. P-G-R.—2. See with bells on.

bells down. The last peal of chapel-warning: Winchester College, ca. 1840–1900. Bells go single was the second of the warning-notices. See the works of Mansfield and Adams.

belly. Underside of the fuselage of an aircraft: RAF: since ca. 1918; by 1940, coll. and by 1945, j. Here the 'plane is soft, least protected, most vulnerable.—2. 'Wool shorn from a sheep's belly' (B., 1959): Aus. rural coll.: late C.19–20.—3. In I could take up the slack of my belly and wipe my eyes with it, I am very hungry: a nautical c.p. frequent on ships where rations are inadequate: late C.19–earlier 20. Cf. synon. belly thinks (one's) throat is cut, and see belly-button is...

belly-ache, n. A pain in the bowels. Since ca. 1840 it has been considered both coll. and low, but orig. (—1552), and until ca. 1800, it was S.E.

belly-ache, v. Grumble, complain, esp. querulously or unreasonably: ex US (—1881), anglicised ca. 1900: coll., somewhat low.

belly-band. A cholera-belt: army: 1915+. F. & G.

belly-bound. Costive: coll.: from ca. 1660 and gen. of horses.

belly-bumper or -buster, get a. To be got with child; whence belly-bump, to coit. Low: C.19–20. 'In an old collection of dances and tunes in my library, printed about 1703, one of the dances is entitled The Maiden's Blush, or Bump her Belly. It is to be danced "long way, for as many as will". A sort of Roger de Coverley affair, with a romping lilt' (Alexander McQueen, 1953).

belly button. Navel: lowish: mid-C.19–20.

belly-button is playing hell with my backbone, my. I'm damned hungry: c.p., mostly lower-middle class: since ca. 1910.

belly-buster. A bad fall = a clumsy dive into water: Aus. coll.: late C.19–20.—2. Specifically, a dive in which the entire front of the body hits the water at the same time: late C.19–20. Cf. belly flop.

belly-can. A tin vessel that, shaped like a saddle, is easily secreted about the body: used for the illicit conveyance of beer and holding about four quarts: political, 1889+, but ob. by 1900.

belly-cheat. An apron: ca. 1600–1830: c. or low s. Compounds with cheat, earlier chete, a thing, an article, are all either low s. or c.—2. Also: food: c.: C.17. Fletcher, 1622.—3. (Cf. sense 1.) A pad designed to produce a semblance of pregnancy: c. (—1823); † by 1900. Bee.

belly-cheer. Food: late C.16–early 19; slightly earlier (—1549), gratification of the belly. V., to feast heartily or luxuriously: C.16–17. Orig. these terms were S.E., but in the later C.17 the v., in C.18–19 the n., were coll. The vbl n., belly-cheering, meant eating and drinking: C.18–19 coll.

belly flop (or flopper or flapper), a dive wherein one falls on one's belly: coll.: since ca. 1870, is, 2, the still-slang var. (since ca. 1930) of belly landing. Partridge, 1945.—3. In do a belly-flop, to drop down as a shell approaches: military: 1916; ob. (B. & P.) See-belly-flopping. The term was in use at Bisley before WW1 to indicate the manoeuvre of taking running aim at a target and "belly-flopping" for the purpose of cover as one draws nearer one's objective' (Sunday Times, Johannesburg, 23 May 1937). During the latter half of the War, it > army coll. for 'sectional rushes by attacking troops advancing at the crouch and flopping down at intervals'—as in sense 3 of the prec. F. & G. These nuances derive ex belly-flopping, bad diving; swimming coll.: since ca. 1880.

belly-friend. A hanger-on: C.17–18, coll. verging on S.E.

belly-full, bellyful. A thrashing: late C.16–19; e.g. in Nashe, Chapman, Pepys. In the sense of a sufficiency, the word has, since ca. 1840, > coll. simply because it is considered coarse.—2. (Of a woman) *have a—*or have got her—bellyful, to be with child: low: late C.18–mid-19. Grose, 3rd ed.—3. In fight for a bellyful, i.e. 'without stakes, wages, or payment' (Bee): pugilistic: mid-C.18–19.

belly-furniture. Food: C.17 coll., as in Urquhart's Rabelais; Cf. belly-timber.

belly-go-firster. (Boxing) an initial blow, given—as such a blow was once so often given—in the belly. C.19. Bee.

belly-go-round. A belt: 5t Bees: 1915+. Marples, 'Suggested by merry-go-round'.

belly-grunting. A severe stomach-ache: Aus.: since ca. 1920. B., 1943.

belly-gut. A greedy, lazy person; gen. of a man: coll.: C.16–18.

belly-hedge. (Shrewsbury School) a steeplechase obstruction belly-high and therefore easily jumped: from ca. 1850.

belly landing. 'A landing with the under-carriage up, when it is impossible to get the wheels of the 'plane down' (H. & P.): RAF: since ca. 1918; by 1945, official j. Ex belly-flopping.

belly like a poisoned pup's, have a. To be pot-bellied: C.20. (T. Washington-Metcalf, 1932.)

belly muster. Medical inspection: RN, surgeons' as well as all ranks': C.20. 'Taffrail', Pincher Martin, 1916.

belly-paunch. A glutton: mid-C.16–17, coll. verging on S.E.; cf. belly-gut.

belly-piece. A concubine, a mistress, a harlot: coll.: C.17.—2. Also, an apron (cf. belly-cheat): late C.17–18; coll. It occurs in that lively, slangy play, Shadwell's Bury Fair.

belly-plea. An excuse of pregnancy, esp. among female prisoners. C.18–early 19, coll. Defoe, in Moll Flanders, 1721: 'My mother pleaded her belly, and being found quick with child, she was respited for about seven months'; Gay, in The Beggar's Opera; Grose.

belly rubbing. 'Dancing. Not used in mixed company.' (Powis, 1977): low: C.20.

belly-ruffian. The penis: ?C.17–19: low (?coll. rather than s.). F. & H.

belly-side up, usu. shortened to belly-up. Dying, dead; whence, bankrupt, hence, to die, go bankrupt: Can.: since ca. 1960. Robin Leach, of Edmonton, Alberta, supplied these examples in 1975: 'He was found belly-side up'; 'He'll belly-up shortly'; 'The company went belly-up'. In all, the context indicates the sense: in the first, 'dying' or 'dead'; in the second, 'to die' (or 'go bankrupt'); in the third, 'bankrupt'. Ex quadrupeds, which so often die 'belly-side up'—on their backs.

belly thinks (one's) throat is cut, (one's). One is extremely hungry: 1540, Palsgrave: a semi-proverbial c.p.; in mid-C.19–20 mostly rural. Apperson.

belly-timber. Food: from ca. 1600. In C.17, S.E.; then coll. In C.19, s.; in C.20, an archaism. Butler's use tended to make it ludicrous. OED.

belly-up, adj. and adv. Of a pregnant woman: C.17–early 20.—2. See belly-side...

belly up! belly up to the bar, boys! 'Drinks on the house!' Can. c.p.: C.20. (Leechman.)

belly-vengeance. Sour beer: C.19. Since ca. 1870, it is mainly dial. Cf.:-

belly-wash. Thin liquor, rinsings: coll.: late C.19–20. Manchon.

bellyful. See belly-full.

Bellyqueakes (?also -quakes), the. Some warship; presumably Bellerophon: naval: early C.19. L.L.G., 1824. (Moe.) belong. To 'be rightly a member of (club, coterie, household, grade of society, etc.): US coll., partly anglicised by 1935. COD, 1934 Sup.

belongings. Goods, possessions: coll., from ca. 1800.—2. Relatives: Dickens, 1852; coll.; ob.

below. Of temperature, below 0°C. or 32°F.: gen. coll., verging on j. in specialisation: C.20. Punch, 17 Oct. 1917: 'I hauled Hank out of a snow-drift—it was maybe thirty "below"'. (P.B.) below Nathaniel. See Nathaniel.

below the belt, adv. and adj. Unfair(ly): from ca. 1870; coll., in C.20 S.E.

below the waist. Too bad; esp. nothing below the waist, good or shrewd: tailors' C.20. E.g. Tailor and Cutter, 29 Nov. 1928.

Beisen. A military camp, if discipline were strict: Services': 1945+. Ex the notorious death-camp run by the Nazis until their defeat in 1945.

belsh. Incorrect spelling of belch, n., q.v. B.E. belswagger. A bully; blustering fellow: coll.: Greene, 1592; Dryden, 1680; Grose. † by 1830.—2. A womaniser; a pimp: C.18. Ash's Dictionary distinguishes by spelling the former bellyswagger, the latter as belswagger.

belt, n. A hit, blow, punch. 'He caught me an awful belt on the ear.' From ca. 1895. Ex the v.: cf. belting, q.v.—2. A copulation: low: late C.19–20. L.A. adds, 1974, 'The girl who thought an endless belt was a night out with an airman was a byword [in WW2]. RAF preoccupation with technicalities even in non-technical context is characteristic and noteworthy.'—3. Hence, a prostitute: low Aus.: since ca. 1925. (B., 1959.) P.B.: but in low Eng., any woman regarded purely as sex-object, as 'I bet she'd be a great little belt.'—4. In give a belt, to thrash; to overcome, defeat: Aus.: since ca. 1910. Dymphna Cusack, Southern Steel, 1953, 'Must have given eighty a belt' (he past his 80th year). Cf. sense 1, and:—5. In give (someone) the belt, to dismiss or reject: low: from ca. 1925. (Gilt Kid.) Its complement is get the belt, to be jilted.—6. In (have) under the (or one's) belt, to have to one's credit: Aus., since ca. 1930 (B.P.); British from perhaps a little later. Ex a good meal eaten. P.B. adds an example, heard from an Intelligence Corps Colonel in the late 1960s, 'Get a couple of languages under your belt in this Corps and you can't go wrong.'—7. In at full belt, at full speed: since ca. 1960 the perhaps commoner synon. of full bore, q.v.

belt, v. (Of the male) to coil with: low: mid-C.19–20. Cf. synon. bang.—2. Impersonal, as in 'It's belting' and 'It belted'. It is, or was, raining hard, e.g., 'We went for a drive and it belted all the way'. Ex the synon. belt down: late C.19–20.—3. See belt up!, 1.—4. To rush, hurry. See:—

belt along. To rush along; to travel very fast: mostly teenagers': since ca. 1945. Perhaps cf. belting, 2. Hence also belt through, to do anything very fast, as in 'The vicar fairly belted through evensong tonight' or 'He belted through Slough at a fair old rate of knots'—he went through very fast.

belt(-and-)-braces, n., adj., adv. (With) great care and thoroughness; the double-check ensured: coll.: since late 1940s. (P.B.)

belt (one's) batter. To coil with a woman: low: earlier C.20.—2. To masturbate: id. Cf. pull (one's) pud.

belt down. To rain very hard. See belt, v., 2.—2. To drink at one gulp: Aus. low coll.: later C.20. McNeil.

belt out. To sing a song or play music loudly and vigorously: C.20. Hence belter, 2, 'a song that the singer can let rip' (L.A.): since ca. 1940.

belt out of (a place). To leave it at great speed: since ca. 1880. (I first heard it ca. 1908.)

belt tinker. A very roughly made garment: tailors': since ca. 1870.

belt up! Shut up!: RAF: since ca. 1937. After ca. 1950, also office- and shop-girls'. (Gilderdale.) Ex tightening one's belt. By 1960 a fairly, and by late 1966 an entirely, gen. phrase. Sometimes shortened simply to belt!—2. To thrash with a belt; hence, to 'beat up' (someone): Aus.: since ca. 1925. Dick.

belter. A harlot: 'old', says F. & H. (rev.): but when? She 'punishes' one's purse. Cf. beltinker, q.v.—2. See belt out.

belting. A thrashing, whether punitive or pugilistic: since, prob., very early C.19. It occurs in Bill Truck, Dec. 1825.—2. A busy period: busmen's from ca. 1930. (Daily Herald, 5 Aug. 1936.) Opp. convalescence, q.v.

beltinker, n. and v. A thrashing, to thrash. Coll.: ?C.19. (F. & H.) Perhaps a pun on belt, thrash with a belt.

Belvedere. A handsome fellow: Londoners': ca. 1880–1905. (B. & L.) Ex Apollo Belvedere.

Belyando spew. 'A rural sickness' (B. 1959): Aus.: late C.19—early 20.

bembow. Var. of bumbo, 2. 'A Swaker of Bembow a piece' (Sessions, 28 June—1 July, 1738, trial of Alice Gibson).

Bems, the. See B.E.M.s.

bemused (with beer). In C.18—mid-19, S.E., as in its originator, Pope; ca. 1860 it > a fashionable phrase and genuinely s.; ob. in C.20.

ben, n. A coat, C.19, ex benjamin; a waistcoat (—1846), ex benjy. Both ob.—2. (Theatrical) a benefit performance: from ca. 1850. (H., 1st ed.) Cf. stand ben, to stand treat (—1823); † by 1900. Bee.—3. In c., a fool: late C.17–18. B.E., Grose. 'a good fellow': see bene.—4. A 'taradiddle': Society: ca. 1880–1914. Ware: ben ex Ben ex Ben Tro ex Ben Trovato ex Benjamin Trovato ex se non è vero—è Benjamin (for ben) trovato, if it isn't true it's none the less felicitous.—5. The "bens" or lockers' (W.N. Glascock, Sailors and Saints, 1829): naval: ca. 1805–50. (Moe.) Ex S.E. ben, an inner room.

ben, adj.; gen. bene; often bien. Good: c.: mid-C.16—early 19. Ex L. bene, well (adv.), or Fr. bien. Harman, B.E., Grose. Cf. at bene.

ben- or bene-bowse. Drunk (esp. with good wine): c.: C.17–18. (Jonson.) Ex bene bowse (see bene).

Ben (or Benjamin) Brown, my name is. See my name is Ben ...

ben cull, C.19; ben cove, C.17–18. Both c.: for a friend or a companion. See ben and bene, bene also being found, in same sense, with cove and, less often, cull.

Ben Flake or ben-flake. A steak: thieves' rhyming s.: from ca. 1855; ob. since ca. 1910. 'Ducange Anglicus', 1st ed. (Rhyming s. may have been invented by criminals.)

Ben Tro and Ben Trovato. See ben, n., 4.

benar. Better. Benat: best. The former in Coles, but prob. both are C.17–18; c. See bene.

bench-winner. A dog successful at many dog-shows: Society: 1897 (Daily Telegraph, 11 Feb.); ob. Ex the exhibits being placed on benches.

bench-points. 'Classified physical advantages': London: ca. 1900–15. (Ware.) Ex show animals. Cf. prec.

bencher. A frequenter of public houses: despite F. & H., it is S.E.—2. See TAVERN TERMS, §3, d, in Appendix.

bend, n. An appointment: a rendezvous: Anglo-Irish: C.20. 'He has a bend with a filly'; 'I must make a bend with the doctor.' Ex the slight bow made at the meeting.—2. A drunken bout: C.20. James Joyce, Ulysses, 'I was with Bob Doran, he's on one of his periodical bends.' Cf. on a or the bend, on a (drinking) spree: adopted, ex US, ca. 1890. (Kipling, 1891: OED.) See bender, 4.—3. In on the bend, crooked, underhand: coll.: mid-C.19—early 20.—4. In above (one's) bend, beyond one's ability: coll.: adopted ex US (1848, Cooper), ca. 1860 (H., 3rd ed.); ob. by 1930. Perhaps above one's bent.—5. See Grecian bend; round the bend; take a bend out of.

bend (mid-C.18–20); bend to (mid-C.19–20). To drink hard: Scots; ob. Alan Ramsay; lexicographer Jamieson; memoirist Ramsay. OED, 'Perhaps "to pull, strain" in reference to pulling or straining a bow...; or "to ply, apply oneself to".'—2. As bend. To deflect a result from the straight by deliberately losing a match: Association footballers': since ca. 1950. In the English popular newspapers of October 1960 there was much talk of players 'bending matches' and of 'matches being bent'. And see bent, adj., 2, 5.

bend an ear! Listen to this!; pay attention: RAF: 1939+. Punning on lend an ear.

bend (one's) back. To work hard: Aus. coll.: C.20. Vance Palmer, Separate Lives, 1931.

bend down for. To submit to effeminatio: euph. coll.: late C.19–20. Cf. bender, 11.

bend (of) the fibert. A bow, a nod: low London: ca. 1860–1900. Ware. Fibert = head, as in fibert, cracked in the.

bend the (or one's) elbow too much. To drink to excess: since ca. 1905: coll., by 1940, familiar S.E.

bend over backwards. To try very hard, as in 'You needn't bend over backwards to please the children': since the late 1920s.

bend to. See bend.

bended knees. Cheese: rhyming s., mainly theatrical: C.20. Franklyn, Rhyming.

bender. A sixpence: late C.18–20, ob.: c. >, by 1820, low s. Parker, Life's Painter of Variegated Characters, 1789; Dickens, 1836; Whyte-Melville, 1869. (Because easily bent.) 'Ducange Anglicus', 1857, defines it as a shilling; prob. in error.—2. The arm: C.19–20, ob.: cf. the C.17–18 medical use of the term for a flexor muscle.—3. Hence, the elbow: late C.19–20; ob. Ware.—4. A drinking spree: orig. (1827), US; anglicised ca. 1895. Cf. bend, n., 2 (q.v.), and Ramsay's and Tannahill's bender, a hard drinker. Thornton.—5. In certain Public Schools, a stroke of the cane administered to a boy bending his back: from ca. 1870.—6. General schoolboys', ca. 1870–1910: 'the bow-shaped segment of a paper kite'. Blackley, Hay Fever, 1873.—7. A 'tall' story: nautical: late C.19–20. Whence spin a bender, to tell one (Granville). Cf. cuffer.—8. A lazy tramp: Aus.: C.20. B., 1942.—9. A cigarette: RAF: since ca. 1938. Ex the frequently crumpled packets.—10. Such a squad instructor as gave his squad a hard time: army: WW2. P-G-R.—11. A passive male homosexual: low: since the 1930s. (G.F. Newman, The Gwonor, 1977.) Cf. bend down for.—12. See over the bender.—13. As exclam., 'I don't believe it!; as a c.p. tag, 'I'll do no such thing: c. (—1812); † by 1890. Vaux.

benders. In on (one's) benders, 'Weary, not picking one's feet up' (Jackson): RAF, since ca. 1930 >, by 1950, more gen. Lit., on one's knees; Cf. prec., 2, 3.

bendigo. A rough fur cap: ca. 1845–1900. Ex the Nottingham prize-fighter, Wm. Thompson (1811–89), nom-de-guerre'd Bendigo, whose first challenge dates 1835 and who afterwards turned evangelist: see Weekley's Romance of Words.

bending. See catch one bending.—2. A severe parade conducted by an NCO to tire out the men: Services': from ca. 1920. Also a sweating.

bending drill. 'Defecation in the open': Army in North Africa: 1940–3. (Peter Sanders in Sunday Times mag., 10 Sep. 1967.) 'Also "going for a walk with a spade".'

Bendovers, the. Nickname of The Manchester Regiment, the 96th of Foot: mid-C.19–earlyish 20.

bends, the. Divers' paralysis or, more accurately, cramp: orig., perhaps, pearl fishers', then divers' generally: C.20 Cf.—2. The "bends" and acute alcoholism are very much alike in effect... [The former comes] from working in a tunnel under terrific air pressure. "Bends" are one of the snags compressed air workers—or "sand hogs"—encounter' (Answers, 10 Feb. 1940).

bene, bien. In c. as n., tongue: C.16–18, prob. by transference ex the adj.:—2. Good, with benar, better, and benat, best: mid-C.16–early 19. Var. ben, q.v., and even bien. E.g. ben(e), bowse, booze, etc., excellent liquor.—3. In on the bene or bien, well; expeditiously. As in B.E.'s pike on the bene (there spelt bien), run away quickly. C. of late C.17–18.

bene darts! Good night! Mid-C.16–18: c. See darkmans; contrast lightmans, q.v.

bene feaker. A counterfeiter of bills: late C.17–18: c. Bene here = skilful. See feaker.

bene feaker of gybes. A counterfeiter of passes: late C.17–18: c. B.E. See gybe.

bene, or bien, mort. A fine woman or pretty girl; hence, a hostess. C.16–18: c. Revived by e.g. Scott. See mort, mot, a woman, a girl.

benedick. Sol. for benedict, a newly married man: C.17–20.—2. Also, C.19, sol. for a bachelor.

Benedict, benedict. Any married man: catachrestic: mid-C.19–20. In NZ, contests between married and single men are described as being between bachelors and benedicts. (Properly, a newly married man, esp. if a 'confirmed' bachelor).

benefit. A fine job or a fine time: coll.:—1983 (OED Sup.).—2. In take the benefit, i.e. of the insolvent debtor's Act: coll. (—1823); † by 1890. Bee.

ben(e)ship. Profitable: worshipful: mid-C.16–18: c. Harman.—2. Hence adv., beneshipily, worshipfully: C.17–18. Ex bene, 2, q.v.

benevey. See quot'n at mowlah.

benevolence. 'Ostentation and fair united, with hopes of retaliation in kind hereafter' (Bee): Society: ca. 1820–40.

benfeaker. A var. of bene feaker, q.v.

Bengal blanket. The sun; a blue sky: soldiers in India: mid-C.19–20; very ob. Cf. blue blanket, q.v. Ware.

Bengal light. (Gen. pl.) An Indian soldier in France: military: 1815–18. B. & P.

Bengal Lancers. Toughs armed with razor-blades and addicted to assault with robbery: Aus.: since ca. 1930. (B., 1942.) See Underworld.

Bengal Tigers, the. The Royal Leicestershire Regiment, pre-1881 the 17th of Foot: army: since ca. 1825. Ex 'badge of a royal tiger, granted for services in India from 1804–23' (F. & H.). In spite of amalgamation into the Royal Anglian Regiment, they are still (1970s) known proudly in Leicestershire simply as 'The Tigers'. See also Lily-whites.

Benghazi. A lavatory: rhyming s. on carsey. 'From the Libyan seaport, and prob. armed forces' slang from the WW2 desert campaign' (David Hillman, 1974).

Benghazi cooker; occ. duke's stove. Sand saturated with oil, a paste of sand and oil, within a tin or can or metal drum; used as a field cooker in North Africa: 1940–3.

Benghazi Handicap, the. 'The confusion that was the retreat to Tobruk in 1941—we always called it the Benghazi Handicap—has rarely been equalled' (Rats): 7th Aus. Inf. Division's name for it: 1941+. Back from Benghazi, Glassop refers, Ibid., to it as also The Benghazi Derby. The forward movements were known as Benghazi Stakes. P-G-R.

bengi. An onion: military, from ca. 1860. Perhaps cognate with Somerset benge, to drink to excess; cf. binge.

benjy. See benjy.

benish, occ. bennish. Foolish: late C.17–18 c. (B.E.) See ben.

benison. See beggar's benison.

benjamin or Benjamin. A coat (from ca. 1815), whence upper benjamin (1817), a greatcoat. Peacock in Nightmare Abbey: 'His heart is seen to beat through his upper Benjamin.' Borrow in Lavengro: 'The coachman... with... fashionable Benjamin'. The word may have begun as c.; in C.20, ob. Perhaps, as Brewer suggests, ex the name of a tailor; more prob. on Joseph, q.v.—2. At Winchester College, from ca. 1860, a small ruler. I.e. Benjamin small in comparison with Joseph.—3. A husband: Aus. pidgin:—1870 (Chas. H. Allen, A Visit to Queensland: Morris). Cf. Mary, q.v.

Benjamin Brown... See my name is Ben...

Benjamin Trovato. See ben, n., 4.

benjo. A riotous holiday: nautical: late C.19–early 20.

Perhaps ex beano + bender, 4; Ware suggests derivation ex buen giorno (? via Lingua Franca).—2. See squat loo and PRISONER-OF-WAR SLANG, 7, in Appendix.

benjy. A waistcoat: c. > low (—1821); ob. Haggart. Ex benjamin, 1.—2. Hence, a waistcoat-maker; tailors': mid-C.19–20.—3. Nautical (perhaps ex dial.: see EDD), C.19: a straw hat, low-crowned and broad-brimmed.

benly, rare adv. Well: c.: ?mid-C.18—early 19. (Baumann.) Perhaps abbr. beneshipty.

benish. See benish.

Benny. 'Inevitable' nickname of men surnamed Lynch: since late 1930s: after Benny Lynch (1913–46), the famous Scottish flyweight boxer.—2. As benny, benzedrine, esp. when taken as a drug: mostly teenagers' and addicts': adopted, ca. 1950, ex US. It is a dangerous stimulant and fairly cheap. See also DRUGS, in Appendix.—3. In have a benny, (unwittingly) to wet one's bed at night: military (not officers)': from ca. 1890. (Richards.) Origin? Perhaps benny = Benjamin, a little one; the minor contrasted with the major physical need.

bens. Tools: workmen's: late C.19–20. ?ex ben, n., 2, q.v.

benship. See beneship.

bent, n. A male pervert: low: since ca. 1945. Angus Wilson, A Bit off the Map, 1957.

bent, adj. Broken (esp. if fig.): C.20 Either dysphemistic ex such phrases as (e.g. 1) bent but do not break or evolutionary ex any bent object, esp. a coin. B. & P.—2. (Of a person) crooked, criminal; (of a thing) stolen: c.: since ca. 1905.—3. Hence, '(of a person, his character or nature) out of line with what is generally considered normal; (of a subject) not what is generally socially acceptable: since ca. 1940' (L.A.).—4. Hence, homosexual or otherwise deviant (e.g., flagellation): prostitutes', then fringe underworld: since ca. 1945, if not a decade or more earlier. Frank Norman in Encounter, 1959.—5. (Of a police officer) open to bribery: c., since ca. 1930; by late 1930s, also police s.: Ibid. A specialisation of sense 2.—6. Suffering from 'the bends', q.v. at sense 1 of bends: divers' (pearl or skin or other): since ca. 1945. 'He is bent, poor bugger!—7. In go bent, to turn criminal; (of things) to get stolen: c.: since ca. 1910.—8. Hence, (esp. of a girl) to become faithless: prison c.: since ca. 1920. Norman.—9. See flatter.

bent as a butcher's hook, (as). An intensification of bent, adj., 2. (Powis, 1977.)

bent on a splice, be. To be on the look-out for a wife: nautical: from ca. 1860; ob. Smyth. Perhaps punning spliced, married.

beong; occ. beonck. (Costers') a shilling: mid-C.19–20. (H., 1st ed.) Ex bianco (lit. white), a silver coin. It. via Lingua Franca. Whence bimp, q.v.

ber-lud; ber-luddy. Joc. intensives of blood, bloody: late C.19–20. Ex mock horror.

bereavement lurk. The pretended loss of a wife as a pretext for begging: c. (—1875). Ribton-Turner, Vagrants and Vagrancy. See lurk and contrast dead lurk. OED.

berge. A spy-glass or telescope: naval: ca. 1810–60. Captain Glascock, Land Sharks and Sea Gulls, 1838. Ex a proper name? bergoo. See burgoo.

berk. A fool; c. > low: from ca. 1930. (Gilt Kid.) By abbr. ex next, 1, or, as Robert Barltrop, 1981, suggests from first-hand knowledge, ex 2: 'I would guess [that E.P.] did not fully appreciate that "tit" and its synonyms are used for nunny or milksop. [Berk] was scarcely used before [the BBC TV comedy series] 'Steptoe & Son' took it up [in the early 1960s]' (letter to P.B.).

Berkeley. The putendum muliebri: C.20. Abbr. Berkeley Hunt, a cunt.—2. In the pl, and from ca. 1875—never, obviously, with Hunt—it denotes a woman's breasts; F. & H. adduce Romany berk (or burk), breast, pl berkia.

berker. A brothel: Army in N. Africa: WW2. Ex the ill-famed street of Cairo: the Sharia el Berker. P-G-R.

Berkshire Hunt. The female pudend: rhyming s.: ?mid-C.19–20. Franklyn, Rhyming, believes it to form the orig. of the synon. Berkeley Hunt and the Berkeley form to be accidental.

berley. Var. spelling of burley. B., 1943.

Berlin by Christmas! A c.p. of 1914. See DCpp.

Berloo or Baloo. Bailleul: army: WW1. B. & P.

Bermondsey banger. A man prominent in the society of the South London tanneries: Cockney (—1909); † by 1930. Ware, 'He must ... be prepared ... to fight at all times for his social belt.'

Bermoothes. See Bermudas.

Bermuda Exles, the. The Grenadier Guards: ca. 1895–1914. In 189—, a portion of this regiment was, to expiate insubordination, sent to the West Indies. F. & H. rev.

Bermudas, Bermoothes. A London district (Cf. Alsatia, q.v.) privileged against arrest: certain alleys and passages contiguous to Drury Lane, near Covent Garden, and north of the Strand: Jonson, The Devil's an Ass (1616): 'Keeps he still your quarter in the Bermudas.' Grose and Ainsworth are almost certainly in error in referring the term to the Mint in Southwark. In C.17, certain notable debtors fled to the Bermuda Islands, says Nares.

Bermudian. A wet ship: naval coll.: C.19. Ex 'the Bermudian-built 3-masted schooners in the Napoleonic wars': they 'went through the waves instead of rising to them' (Bowen).

bernard. See barnard.

berries. Testicles: C.20. Vernacular-poetic.

berry. (Gen. pl.) £1 (note): from ca. 1931. (K.G.R. Browne in The Humorist, 26 May 1934.) Prob. ex US monetary sense.—2. In get the berry, (of an action) to be hissed: theatrical: C.20. (Collinson.) Like synon. get the rasp, it obviously derives ex get the raspberry.

Bert. Albert on the Western Front: army: WW1. F. & G.

Bertha (bertha); also big Bertha. Nicknames of any one of the long-range German guns that, in the summer of 1917, shelled the back areas on the Western Front and, in 1918, Paris: mid-1917–18: military > gen. In Ger., die dicke Bertha. Ex Bertha Krupp of Essen. W.; B. & P.

Berthas. Ordinary stock of the London, Brighton and South Coast Railway Company: Stock Exchange from ca. 1885. Rialto, 23 Mar. 1889.

Bertie. See do a Bertie; breezy Bertie.

Berwicks. The ordinary stock of the North Eastern Railway: Stock Exchange—1890.

Bescot tar sprayer. 'L.N.W.R. Super "D" Freight Loco. Bescot was the name of a Birmingham depot whose men specialised in this type of locomotive' (McKenna, Glossary): railwaymen's: earlier C.20.

beside the book. (Utterly) mistaken: from ca. 1670; ob. Coll. >, by 1700, S.E. Walker, 1672 (Apperson). Cf. beside the lighter, q.v., and:-

beside the bridge. Astray; off the track: coll.: C.17–18. Culpepper, 1652 (OED).

beside the cushion. Beside the mark: coll.: late C.16—early 19, verging on S.E. Ex billiards, a game played in England since C.16. Cf. miss the cushion.

beside the lighter. In a bad condition: late C.17–18. (B.E.) Perhaps the lighter going out to a ship proceeding to the convict plantations. Cf. beside the book.

besonno. A low, worthless fellow: coll.: ca. 1620–1840. Pron. and often spelt besonio. Ex It. bisogna via S.E. beso(g)nio, a raw soldier.

besom. See drunk as a besom; jump the besom.

bespattered. A coll. euph., ca. 1918–30, of bloody. Manchon.

bespeak-night. (Theatrical) a benefit performance: from the mid-1830s; ob. Ex bespeak, to choose, arrange, the actor's friends choosing the play. Often abbr. to bespeak (as in Ware).

bess. A burglar's tool: see betty. And see brown bess (or Bess).

Bess o' Bedlam. An insane beggar: C.17—early 19. Scott in Kenilworth: 'Why, what Bess of Bedlam is this, would ask to see my lord on such a day as the present?'; and see esp. Jack Lindsay's Tom o' Bedlam.

B

best. In get (one's) money at the best, 'To live by dishonest or fraudulent practices' (Vaux): c.:—1812; ob. by 1890.—2. In not in the best, not in the best of tempers: coll.: from ca. 1890.—3. In one of the best, a 'good fellow', i.e. a good companion: Society: from ca. 1920.—4. In — of the best, (of £1 notes); thus, five of the best, £5: C.20. (Collinson.) P.B.: but among schoolboys, C.20, six of the best=6 strokes on the buttocks with a cane, on the hand with tawse, etc.—5. See give best; give in best.

best, v. To worst; get the better of: coll. (—1859), as in H., 1st ed., and in Charles Hindley's best-known book, A Cheap Jack.—2. Hence, to cheat, as in Hindley, 'His game was besting everybody, whether it was for pounds, shillings, or pence,' 1876. Cf. best, q.v.—3. Hence as in best the pistol, to get away before the pistol is fired: athletics: 1889, Polytechnic Magazine, 7 July.

best B.D. See best blue.

best bib and tucker, gen. one's, occ. the. (Rarely of children's and only loosely of men's) best clothes: US (1793: OED Sup.), anglicised in Lancashire dial. ca. 1870, in coll. ca. 1880; ob.

best blue or best B.D. The better of an airman's or a soldier's two issued uniforms (B.D. = battle dress), the one worn for 'walking-out' or 'bullshit' parades: WW2 and the period of National Service following, say ca. 1939–1962. The Services seem to manage to have a best of two, something that led to apocryphal stories of fierce sergeant-majors asking highly-educated recruits 'Is that your best B.D., lad?' and being answered, 'No, Sir. It's my better B.D.' (L.A.; P.B.) best burned (or burnt) pea. Coffee: naval officers': 1834 (W.N. Glascock, Sketch-Book, 2nd series 1834, at II, 175: Moe.) Ex a coffee-bean's resemblance to a burnt pea.

best coffee leap over the stile first, let the. Let the best or most suitable person take precedence or the lead: coll.: C.18–early 19.

best foot or leg foremost, put (one's). To try hard: coll. >, by 1850, S.E.: foot from late C.16, leg from late C.15; ob. Apperson.

best girl (, one's). The girl to whom one is engaged, or wishful to be; the fancy of the moment: coll.: adopted, ca. 1890, ex US. Cf. girl, 1, q.v.

best in Christendom, to the. A toast very popular ca. 1750–80 (cf. beggar's benison and both ends of the busk, qq.v.). Grose, 1st ed. Sc. cunt.

best leg of three, the. The penis: low: late C.19–early 20.

best mog. The cat-skin or coney fur worn by a bookie's wife when he has been very successful: C.20 racing c.

best of a bad bargain (etc.). See bargain, 2.

best of a Charley, the. 'Upsetting a watchman in his box' (Egan's Grose): ca. 1820–40.

best of British luck to you, the. An ironic c.p., meaning exactly the opposite: since ca. 1944: orig. Army, but by 1955 fairly, and by 1960 quite, gen. Since ca. 1955 often shortened to (and) the best of British!

best part, best thing, etc. The best part, thing, etc.: coll.: late C.19–20. (R. Knox, 1933, 'He'd been here best part of three weeks.') best side to London. See London, 1.

best the pistol. See best, v., 3.

best. A swindler; a 'smart Alec' criminally or illicitly: orig. (—1859), c.; then low. H., 1st ed.; Mayhew. Ex best, q.v.—2. A fraudulent bookmaker: Aus.: since ca. 1910. B., 1943.

bestest, adj. Best: sol. (and dial.): C.19–20. (EDD.) Cf. betterer, q.v. P.B.: in C.20, occ. used joc. or as endearment.

bestial. 'Beastly', objectionable, disappointing: from ca. 1910; slightly ob. Ernest Raymond, A Family That Was, 1929.

best. See you bet!

bet a pound to a pinch of shit (or, occ., poop), I'll. This positive 'bet', assuring something with complete confidence, has, since the 1940s, largely replaced the earlier, negative I wouldn't bet... that was noted in the 6th ed. of this Dict. as being current since late C.19. The rather euph. poop prob.

dates from mid-C.20, and the 'bet' is really 'chicken-feed' when compared with bet you a million... (L.A.; P.B.)

bet (one's) boots or life or bottom dollar! Orig. (resp. 1868, 1852 and 1882) US; anglicised ca. 1910, 1880, 1890 resp., largely owing to the writings of Bret Harte and Mark Twain. Thornton; Ware.

bet both ways. To back a horse for a win, also for a place in the first three: C.20: turf s. >, by 1920, coll.; now verging on j. Hence both ways is used as adj. and adv. of such a bet.

bet (one's) eyes. To watch a contest without laying a wager: Aus. sporting: C.20. B., 1942.

bet levels, you devils! A bookmakers' c.p. (—1932). See Slang, p. 241.

bet like the Watsons. To bet heavily on horses: Aus. racing coll.: since ca. 1925. (Lawson Glassop, 1949.) Ex some famous investors of that name.

bet London to a brick, as in 'I'll bet ...': to lay long odds; to be sure: Aus.: since (?) mid-1940s. Frank Hardy, Billy Barker Rides Again, 1967.

bet on top. A bogus bet laid, pour encourager les autres, by a pal of the bookie. The bookie's clerk places the bet 'on top', not in the body of the betting book. Often abbr. to on top. C.20 racing c.

bet on the blue, with rhyming var. bet on the Mary Lou. To bet 'on the nod', i.e. on credit: Aus. racing: since ca. 1920 and ca. 1930. (Lawson Glassop, Lucky Palmer, 1949.) Claiborne suggests, 1976, that the derivation is ex blue, v., 3, to pawn or pledge, still extant in this sense ca. 1920.

bet on the coat. To lodge a dummy bet with a bookmaker as an inducement for others to bet: Aus. sporting: since ca. 1925. (Lawson Glassop, Lucky Palmer, 1949.) Cf. bet on top.

bet on the wrong side of the post. I.e. on a losing horse: turf coll.:—1823 (Bee); † by 1900.

bet round. To bet upon—or against—several horses: the turf: from ca. 1820; in C.20, coll. Bee. See also betting round.

bet you a million to a bit of dirt! A sporting c.p. indicative of 'the betting man's Ultima Thule of confidence' (Ware): ca. 1880–1914. Cf. all Lombard Street to a china orange and bet a pound..., q.v., of which this is prob. a euph. version.

betcha, betcher; you betcha (or betcher). See you bet!, 2.

beteeshoot. See bantchoot.

bethel. 'A nonconformist chapel of no set denomination' (D. Butcher, The Driftermen, 1979): nautical: C.20.

bethel the city. To refrain from keeping a hospitable table; to eat at chop-houses: C.18. Ex Bethel, one of the two Sheriffs of London elected in 1680.

Bethlehemites. Christmas carol-singers: late C.18–early 19 c. (Grose, 3rd ed.) Ex Bethlehem, frequent in carols.

Betsy. The inevitable nickname of anyone surnamed Gay: late C.19–20. Ex the old song. Bowen considers it to have been orig. naval. Cf. Dusty. better. More: a sol. in C.19–20, though S.E. in C.16–18. E.g. Dickens, 1857: 'Rather better than twelve years ago.'—2. With had omitted, as in 'You better mind what you say!': coll., orig. (1845) US, anglicised ca. 1910. OED Sup.

better, v. To re-lock (a door): c. of ca. 1810–50. (Egan's Grose, 1823.) Ex betty, a pick-lock.

better for your asking, no or none the; or never the better for you. A c.p.: the 1st, late C.19–20; the 2nd, late C.18–20, but slightly ob. by 1960; the 3rd, late C.17–18, occurring in, e.g., Swift, Polite Conversation, 1738.

better fuckers (or, euph. pickers) than fighters, often prec. by they're. Applied to those soldiers in WW1 who frequented the French or Belgian brothels whenever they had the money: WW1. (Petch.)

better half. A wife: coll. from ca. 1570. In C.16–18, my better half and seriously, in C.19–20, a, or anyone's b.h., and joc.

better hole (gen. 'ole). A better, esp. a safer, place; esp. if you know of a better 'ole, go to it, which > in 1915 (the year of Capt. Bruce Bairnsfather's famous cartoon) a c.p.; not yet (late 1970s) quite ob. Bairnsfather's play of the same title (staged in 1916) reinforced the cartoon.—2. Hence, one's wife's, or, occ., one's sweetheart's pudend: mostly Services': 1916–19.

better never than come in rags! I.e. in poverty (see rag, a farthing): a c.p. retort to better late than never: ca. 1820–50. Bee.

better Red than dead. It is better to live under Communist rule than to die: a resigned and fatalistic c.p. dating prob. from the depths of the Cold War, late 1940s. See DCpp.

better since you licked them. The c.p. retort to the c.p. enquiry how's your poor feet?, q.v.

better than a ... There are a number of low c.pp., coll., or downright vulgar variations on the theme of S.E. 'better than nothing'. Grose, 2nd ed., 1786, has this is better than a thump on the back with a stone, 'said on giving anyone a drink of good liquor on a cold morning'; from mid-C.19, and still current later in C.20, are ... than a dig (or poke) in the eye with a blunt (or sharp or burnt) stick, and the simpler ... than a smack in the eye. The Can. version ... than a kick in the ass with a frozen foot elaborates the more prosaic Brit. ... than a kick in (or on) the pants (or up the arse). A RN var. from ca. 1890 has been ... than a slap in the belly with a wet fish (C. Bush, The Case of the Second Chance, 1946, specifies a wet cod-fish); a civilianised, and perhaps later var. is ... a slap across the belly with a wet lettuce. Said to have some connection with Cambridge is ... than sleeping with a dead policeman (cf. next). All, by meiosis, mean something 'very much better than nothing'.

better than a drowned policeman. (Of a person) very pleasant, attractive, good or expert: c.p.: ca. 1900–15. J.B. Priestley, Faraway, 1932.

betterer. Better: sol. when not joc.: C.19–20. Cf. worserer, q.v.

betterish. Somewhat better or superior: coll. (—1888); verging on S.E.—but ugly!

bettermost. Best: (somewhat low) coll.—1887 (Baumann).

bettors-off. 'Our betters': the well-to-do: coll.: since ca. 1925. Berta Ruck, Pennies from Heaven, 1940.

betting, often corrupted to getting, round. The laying of odds on all the likely horses: from ca.1860; ob. H., 3rd ed. Whence bettor round, such a better, as in 'Thormanby', Famous Racing Men, 1882. See also bet round, for an earlier date.

betting lay, the. Betting on horses: turf.—1887 (Baumann).

betting on the black. See black-marketeer.

betty, occ. bess. A picklock (instrument): mid-C.17–19. Orig. c.; the form bess († by 1880) remained c. For betty, much the commoner, see Head's English Rogue, Coles, B.E., Ned Ward, Grose, and Henry Mayhew; for bess, B.E. and Grose. Cf. jemmy and jenny, qq.v., and see esp. Grose, P.—2. Also (cf. molly), a man assuming a woman's domestic duties: C.19–20; coll. Cf. betty, v.—3. Miss, as a title: Bootham School: late C.19–20. Bootham, 1925.—4. In all betty!, it's all up! C.19 c.; opp. it's all bob, see bob. (This kind of pun (Betty and Bob) is not rare in c.)

betty, v. Fuss, or potter, about: coll.: mid-C.19—early 20.

Betty Lea (or Lee). Tea: rhyming s.: a C.20 var. of (Rosie or Rosy Lea (or Lee). First (?) recorded by the late John Lardner in Newsweek, 21 Nov. 1949.

Betty Martin. 'Walk as mim [dial. = prim] and orderly as old Betty Martin at a funeral' (Bill Truck, 1821).—2. See all my eye (and Betty Martin).

betwattled. Astounded, bewildered; betrayed: late C.18—early 19. Grose, 1st ed.

between-agers. Children aged 10–12: coll.: since ca. 1962. After teenagers.

between fish and fish. Suddenly: deep-sea trawlermen's: since ca. 1870. Kipling, Captains Courageous, 1897. (Peppitt) between hell and high water. In great difficulty: nautical coll.: C.20. (W. McFee, The Beachcomber, 1935). A deviation from S.E. between the devil and the deep (blue) sea.

between the flags is a coll. phrase applied to steeplechase riding: sporting: from ca. 1860.

between the two w's. Between wind and water: ca. 1830–70. Sinks, 1848.

between wind and water. See shot between ...

between you and me and the bed-post. Between ourselves: coll.: 1830 (OED Sup.); Bulwer Lytton, 1832. Variants with post, as in Dickens, 1838—door-post, from ca. 1860—gate-post, id.,—gate, C.20. Baumann, 1887, has the urban lamp-post.

betwixt and between. Intermediate(ly); indecisive(ly); neither one thing nor the other: adv. and adj. Coll.: from ca. 1830. 'A betwixt and between fashionable street', Marryat.

bev. A shortening of bevvy; cf. bevali. All three occur on p. 8 of Lester.

bevali is an occ. var. (from ca. 1885) of bevie, n., 2. beveri; often beaver; occ. bevir, etc. etc. Orig. S.E. and in C.19–20 mainly dial., but as used at Eton and as bevers at Winchester College for afternoon tea—a sense recorded by B.E.—it is s. See in my Words! the essay entitled 'The Art of Lightening Work'. Ex L. bibere, to drink, in the Old Fr. form, beivre, this is one of the most interesting words in the language. Cf. bivvy and beverage, qq.v.—2. Hence, as v.: C.17—early 19.

beverage. 'A Garnish money, for any thing', B.E.; Grose adds that it is drink-money—cf. the Fr. pourboire—demanded of any person wearing a new suit; in gen., a tip. Coll.: late C.17–20; † by ca. 1820, except in dial.

Beveridge. The social insurance scheme of Sir William Beveridge: coll.: 1945—ca. 1955.

Bevin. 'A jocular term for a shift spent at home through a mechanical breakdown: Derived from name of Ernest Bevin' (W. Forster, ed., Pit-Talk, 1970): miners'. E.B. (1881–1951), 'The Dockers' KC', statesman, and creator of the Transport & General Workers' Union.

bevir. See bever.

bevor. A wedge of bread obtainable between dinner and supper: Charterhouse (school): late C.17–19. Probably cf. bever, 1.

bevvy. A var. of next, 1.

bevvy (earlier, bevie), n. A public house: mid-C.19–20: Parlyaree. Seago, Circus Folk, 1933.—2. Beer; loosely, any drink: military; theatrical; market traders': late C.19–20. (F. & G.) Whence, among market-traders, bevvy-ken, a beer-house, and bevvy-merchant, a heavy drinker (M.T.). Either ex sense 1 or ex beverage. Hence:

bevvy (earlier, bevie), v. To drink: Parlyaree, esp. among grafters: late C.19–20; also army, mid-C.20. Ex prec. Hence bevvi, drunk: army.

bevvy (or bevie) casey. A public house: mid-C.19–20. (News of the World, 28 Aug. 1938.) Lit., a beer-house; therefore cf. bevvy, n., and casa.

bevvy- (or bevie-)homey. Any drunkard: grafters': C.20. Philip Allingham (bevvy ome).—2. Hence, by specialisation, a drunken actor: theatrical: C.20.

bevvy-up, v. To 'drink' considerably: Cockney: C.20, but common only since late 1940s. Bill Naughton, Alfie Darling, 1970. Cf. prec. entries.

beware of your latter end. See remember your next astern.

beware. Any drinkable: low s. from ca. 1840. Mayhew in that mine of Cockney and low s., London Labour and the London Poor, 4 vols, 1851–61, says in vol. iii: 'We [strolling actors] call breakfast, dinner, tea, supper, all of them "numyare"; and all beer, brandy, water, or soup, are "beware".' Numyare (? a corruption of It. mangiare, to eat) and beware (cf. bever, beverage, and bivvy) are Lingua Franca words employed in Parlyaree, the s. of circuses, showmen, and strolling actors: see Slang, section on the circus.

bever. A girl: c. (—1845): rare and ob. See 'No. 747', p. 416. It derives, says Leland, ex Shelta.—2. Hence, a tramp's woman: tramps' c.:—1935. The word provoked a correspondence in TLS, late 1982—early 1983. A.R. Breeze, letter pub. 11 Feb. 1983, attests its currency among factory workers in Newark, Notts, and adds: 'the context is usually one of sexual attractiveness, whether required or otherwise. The buer's male counterpart is the "chevvie" or "chavvie".' See also Underworld, Chavo or chavi is Romany for 'child' (?hence, bexandebz. Easy-going young Jewesses in the Wentworth Street district: East London: late C.18–20; ob. Ware. Ex Beck (Rebecca + Deb (Deborah)).

'A chap' or 'kiddie') which suggests a Romany orig. also for buer/bewer.

Bexley Heath. Teeth: rhyming s.: late C.19–20. (Lester.) Sometimes shortened to Bexleys.

beyond, be (a person). To pass the comprehension of: coll.: from ca. 1800. Jane Austen.

beyond the beyonds. 'The absolute outside edge', 'the limit': Anglo-Irish: from ca. 1910.

beyonek. An occ. C.20 from of bianc.

bezazz. Glamour, sparkle: entertainment world: adopted, ex US, early 1970s. 'Hats off to British technical wizards who are responsible for the glitter, bezazz and stylishness of this British studio production' (Gavin Millar, in Listener, 18 Dec. 1980: P.B.).

bheestie, -y. A water-bearer: from ca. 1780: Anglo-Indian coll. >, by 1850, j. Ex Urdu bhisti, but prob. by a pun on Scots beastie, a little beast. (In C.18, often spelt beasty; in C.19 beestie.) Y. & B.

b'hoi. 'A town rowdy; a gay fellow' (Thornton): ex US (1846), anglicised—almost wholly in the latter sense—ca. 1865. (Cf. g'hal.) Ex Irish pron. OED.

bi, n. and adj. Biology; also attributively, as in bi lab: medical students': C.20.—2. (One) attracted by both sexes, usu. applied to men: since ca. 1955. Adrian Reid, Confessions of a Hitch-Hiker, 1970: 'Raphael was bi. Or perhaps it was us [two girls] who had lured him over [from homosexuality] to the other side of the fence'. B.P., 1974, drew attention to its Aus. use.

bi-cennoctury. The 200th performance: theatrical catachresis: ca. 1870–1915. Ware.

bianc. A shilling: c. and Parlyaree: mid-C.19–20. It. bianco, white.

Bianca Capella. (Gen. pl.) A 'White Chapeller' (cigar): East London: 1886, The Referee, 6 June; † by 1920. Cf. Banker Chapel Ho, q.v.

biargerred. A C.20 var. of beargerred—still widely in use in 1937 (Lester).

bias, on the. Illicit: dishonourable; dishonest: dressmakers' (—1909). Cf. on the cross (at cross).

bib. In nap a (or one's) bib, to weep: c. or low s.: late C.18—early 20. (G. Parker, 1789; Vaux; Egan.) Lit., to take one's bib in order to wipe away one's tears.—2. In push or put or stick (one's) bib in, to busybody, to interfere: Aus.: since late 1940s. B., 1959. Cf. sticky beak.—3. See best bib and tucker.

bib-all-night. A toper: coll.: C.17. Bib, to tipple.

bibby. A later spelling and pron. of bebee, q.v., a native woman or girl. (Charles Allen, ed., Plain Tales from the Raj, 1975.) Still in army and RAF usage until 1965 at least. (P.B.)

bibe. A bringer of bad luck: Anglo-Irish:—1935. Corruption of an Irish word.

bible. Nautical: 'a hand-axe; a small holystone [sandstone employed in the cleaning of decks], so called from seamen using them kneeling' (Smyth, 1867): C.18—early 20. The holystones were also named prayer-books. For nautical s. in gen., see Slang.—2. Lead wrapped round the body by those who 'fly the blue pigeon'; what they stow in their pockets is a testament: c.: late C.18—mid-19. G. Parker, 1789.—3.?hence: in mid-C.19–20 c. (vagrants'), a pedlar's box of pins, needles, laces, etc.—4. In that's bible, that's true; that's excellent: coll.: C.19—early 20. Cf. S.E. Bible oath.—5. As the Bible, a Service manual: RN: C.20. Granville.—6. Hence, the Bible, 'the "book of words" about any particular subject' (Granville): RN: since ca. 1925. Also the Child's Guide.—7. As the Bible, the Railway Rule Book: railwaymen's: C.20. Railway.—8. With 6 and 7 cf. 'Glass's Guide to Used Car Prices, the motor dealers' bible' (Clive Graham-Ranger, in Sunday Times mag., 9 Aug. 1981, p. 42): car dealers'. Also known as the book or the bottle.

bible, v. Implied in bibler, bibbling.

Bible-banger. A pious, esp. if ranting person: late C.19–20. Cf. Bible-pounder.

Bible bosun, the. A ship's chaplain, or even the Chaplain of the Fleet: RN: since ca. 1910. (John Winton, H.M.S. Leviathan, 1967.) Cf. sin bosun.

bible-carrier. One who sells songs without singing them: c. (vagrants'): ca. 1850–1915. H., 1st ed.

Bible class, been to a. 'With two black eyes, got in a fight': printers':—1909 (Ware). Prob. suggested by the noise and excitement common at printers' chapels.

Bible-clerk. (Winchester College) a prefect appointed to full power for one week; he reads the lessons in chapel. From ca. 1850: see esp. Mansfield and Adams: coll. soon > j. (In S.E., an Oxford term.)

bible (or B) leaf. (Gen. pl.) A thin strip of blubber ready for the fry-pot: whalers': coll.: late C.19–20. (Bowen.) Ex leaves preserved by being kept in the family Bible.

Bible-mill. A public house; esp., noisy talking there: London proletarians': ca. 1850–1910. Ware, 'An attack upon Bible classes.'

Bible-pounder. A clergyman, esp. if excitable: coll., C.19–20. Cf. bible-banger and the next two terms:

Bible-puncher. A chaplain: Army and RN (C.20) >, ca. 1935, also RAF. Cf. Bible-pounder.—2. Hence, a pious airman: RAF: since ca. 1930. (Jackson.) Cf. Bible-thumper. Both senses ex the gen. used next entry:—

Bible-punching. A sermon; religious talk: C.20. (E.g. in Michael Harrison, Spring in Tartarus, 1935.) Cf.:

Bible-thumper. A pious seaman: nautical coll.: mid.-C.19–20. (Bowen.) Cf. Bible-banger.—2. One who, door to door, sells a Bible that 'belonged to me dear old mum, God rest her soul' and, to each new customer, implies that the preceding had generously returned it to him: market-traders': prob. late late C.19–20. M.T.

bibler, bibling. Six cuts on the back: the former ca. 1830–60, the latter from ca. 1860. Winchester College: see Adams, Mansfield, and Blackwood's Magazine, 1864, vol. xcv. A bibler, later bibling, under nail: a pillory-process before the cuts were administered. The bibling-rod, a handle with four apple-twigs twisted together at the end: invented by Warden Baker in 1454; † by 1890.—2. bibler. One's Bible oath: low: ca. 1815–1900. History of George Godfrey, 1828.

Biblical neckline. A low neckline: Aus. raffish: since ca. 1946; by 1965, ob. 'Lo and behold!' (B.P.)

biblio. A bibliographical note (usu. on the reverse of the title-page) in a book: book-world coll.: since ca. 1920.

bicarb. Bicarbonate of soda: coll.: late C.19–20.

biccy or bickdy. Biscuit: nursery and domestic coll.: from ca. 1870. (Blaker.) An early example occurs in Jerome K. Jerome, The Idle Thoughts of an Idle Fellow, 1886, in the essay 'On Vanity and Vanities', where a little girl states: 'Unkie says me dood dirle me dot to have two bikkies', footnoted thus: 'Early English for biscuits'.

bice or byce. £2: c. and low: C.20. Cf. Fr. bis, twice, and-bice and a roht or a half. Odds of 2½, i.e. 5 to 2: C.20 racing c. John Morris.

bicycle. A prostitute: low, esp. teenagers': since ca. 1940. Something often 'ridden': cf. synon. town bike and camp bicycle, qq.v.

bicycle bum. A seasonal worker that cycles from job to job: Aus. since ca. 1920. B., 1942.

bicycle(-)face. A strained expression caused by nervous tension in traffic: coll., esp. among motorists and cyclists: since ca. 1942. Cycling, 11 Sep. 1946.

bid, n. Shortened form of biddy, an elderly woman, and usu. qualified by old, as in 'poor little old bid', 'tough old bid': coll.: since mid-C.20 at latest. (P.B.)

bid stand, bid-stand, bidstand. A highwayman: coll.: late C.16—?18. (Ben Jonson.) For the philology of highwaymen, see Words!

bidding movements. Disposal of female partner's limbs for intercourse: since ca. 1930. (L.A.)?Orig. among bridge-players.

biddy. A chicken: coll.: late C.16—early 19; then dial. Occ. chick-a-biddy.—2. A young woman (ex Bridget): C.18—early 19, as in Grose, 1st ed.—3. Any woman: C.19, as in O.W. Holmes, Guardian Angel, 1869.—4. Hence by specialisation, a (female) schoolteacher: Aus. children's: since ca. 1925. Baker.—5. At Winchester College, a bath. See:

bidet or biddy. A bath. Also, though this is S.E. as bidet, coll. as biddy, defined thus by Grose: 'A kind of tub, contrived for ladies to wash themselves, for which purpose they bestride it like a little French pony or post horse, called in French bidets', as also is this toilet accessory.—2. See:-

biddy-biddy; biddybid. The burr named in Maori piripiri: NZ coll. (—1880). By the process of Hobson-Jobson.—2. Hence, gen. as biddy, to rid of burrs: 1880. Morris.

Bidgee, the. Murrumbidgee River—or region: Aus. coll.: since ca. 1860.—2. Hence (?), bidgee, a drink consisting mainly of methylated spirits: Aus. low: since ca. 1920. Baker. bidgee, adj. Good: Aus. pidgin: C.19–20. John Lang, The Forger's Wife, 1855.

bien. See bean, ben and bene.

bienly. Excellently: c.: late C.18—early 19. Grose, 2nd ed. See bene.

bif. A Bristol Fighter ('plane used in 1916–18): ca. 1916–20, then ob. Jackson.

biff. A blow; (?orig. US, anglicised) ca. 1895. Prob. an abbr. and emaciated form of buffet (W.).—2. Slightly earlier as v., gen. v.t.: to hit resoundingly, sharply, abruptly, or crisply. E.g., 'T'll biff him one if he's not careful.' Echoic or as in sense 1.—3. Gen. biff round, to go round: from ca. 1930. (Will Scott in The Humorist, 1934.) Also biff off, go off, depart. E.g. in Ian Hay, Housemaster, 1934. n. and v.—4. Short for biffin, friend, mate: since ca. 1945.—5. In a bit of a biff, a little hard play: Aus. Rugby League footballers': since ca. 1930. Alex Buzo, The Roy Murphy Show, produced in 1971, 'a bit of biff against a player who turns in a blinder'. Cf. biff, 1.—6. As Biff, a frequent nickname for a Smith: earlier C.20. It rhymes with the Cockney pron., Smiff.

biff-up. Smartness on parade: Services', esp. Army: since ca. 1925. P-G-R.

biffer. A signal-exercise in morse or semaphore: RN: since ca. 1910. Granville.

biffin. An intimate friend: from ca. 1840; virtually †. Ex a kind of apple. Cf. ribstone and pippin, qq.v., and the C.20 old fruit.

biffs. A caning or a strapping: Aus. schoolboys': since ca. 1920. (B., 1942.) Ex biff, 1.

biffy, n. A water-closet, esp. if a backyard privy: Can. C.20. Leechman suggested, 1968, 'Could this be an infant's version of bathroom?'

biffy, adj. Drunk: C.20. Perhaps a perverted blend of tipsy, or of bosky, + squiffy.

big. Great; important: coll.; from ca. 1570. On the verge of S.E. is this humorous substitute for great as in Shakespeare's 'T Pompey am, Pompey surnam'd the big' (OED).—2. See go big; look big; talk big.

Big Ack. 'Aircrew name for the Armstrong Whitworth F.K.8 two-seater, 1917–18. It was popular with the crews' (Ronald Dixon, ed., Echoes in the Sky, 1982, glossary; it occurs in 'The Ballad of the Bristol Fighter', p. 31): RFC. Ack=A=Armstrong: see PHONETIC ALPHABET, in Appendix.

big as bull-beef. See bull-beef, big as.

big bad wolf. A threatening or sinister person: coll.: since ca. 1935. Ex a popular song.

big(-)ballocks. A self-important man: low:—1954.

big-bellied. Far gone in pregnancy: Addison, 1711. Coll.: ob.

Big Ben. Orig. and still, strictly, the bell in the tower of the Houses of Parliament, Westminster; but as a loose derivative from this, the clock: coll.:—1869. Ex Sir Benjamin Hall, under whose Commissionship of Works it was constructed in 1856–7.—2. Ten: rhyming s.: C.20.—3. Hence, esp. the sum of £10. Franklyn, Rhyming.

big Bertha. Any one of several German long-range guns:

WW1. See Bertha.—2. 'Banking engine at Lickey Incline. Now withdrawn' (Railway, 2nd): railwaymen's: ?ca. 1950–64.

big bird, get or give the. To be hissed; to hiss. Theatrical: cf. give the goose and be goosed. From ca. 1860. (H., 3rd ed.) See goose and bird, n., 5.—2. Ware, however, notes that ca. 1860–1910, the phrase also = 'to be appreciatively hissed for one's performance in the role of villain'.

big blow. A hurricane: Australian fishermen's and sailors' coll.: C.20. (Jean Devanney, By Tropic Sea and Jungle, 1944.)

big brain, the. 'The Railway control office, responsible for arranging and organising the passage of trains' (McKenna, Glossary): railwaymen's: mid-C.20.

big bug. An important person: orig. (1830: OED Sup.) US; anglicised ca. 1880. Prob. ultimately ex C.18 bug, a person of considerable importance (?).

big cats, the. Lions or tigers or leopards. See cat, n., 12.

big cheese, the. 'The boss': Can.: C.20; by 1959, slightly ob. Leechman.

Big City, the. Berlin: RAF Bomber Command: 1941–5. Ex the English coll. sense 'London'.

big conk – big cock (or cunt). A c.p. that—verging upon the status of a proverb—implies that the possession of a large nose entails also that of a large sexual member or part: low: late (?mid-)C.19–20.

big country. Open country: hunting coll.:—1890 (F. & H.).

big deal! A contemptuous c.p. from the US, applied orig. to a plan or deal worthy only of contempt (from ca. 1946); later (ca. 1960) used to deflate the addressee's pretensions or enthusiasm or eagerness of attitude. It very quickly reached Can. (Leechman); Aus., ca. 1950; and by then it was common also in Britain. See also DCpp.

big dig. The Big Dig is the cutting of the Panama Canal, ca. 1904–13; engineers' (and Americans'): since ca. 1905; since ca. 1915, merely historical in Britain. Cf. dig, n., 5.—2. A reprimand made by a commanding officer: army coll.: since ca. 1920. P.B. notes: now (1970s) a 'reprimand' is usu. simply a dig; a 'Severe reprimand', a severe dig.

big digger. At cards, the ace of spades (cf. diggers): from ca. 1850; ob.

big dish, the. A big win: Aus. race-tracks' and two-up players': since ca. 1930. Lawson Glassop, Lucky Palmer, 1949.

big dog. A chucker-out: coll.: from ca. 1870. 'He was "big-dog" to a disorderly house' (Good Words, June 1884: OED).

big dog with a brass collar, the. The most important person in a business: ca. 1880–1910. B. & L.

big drink. The ocean, esp. the Atlantic. Miss Braddon, 1882. (In USA, from 1846, the Mississippi). Cf. Drink, the.—2. A heavy fall of rain: Aus.: since ca. 1910. Baker.—3. As big (or, since mid-C.20 at latest, much more gen., long) drink. Liquor from a tall glass: C.19–20, coll.; in C.20, indeed, almost S.E.

big E. Elbow: see give the big E.

big eats. A good meal: Services: since ca. 1925. H. & P.—2. See PRISONER-OF-WAR-SLANG, para. 1, in Appendix.

big end; big-end bearing. The human posterior: Aus.: esp. mechanics': since ca. 1930. (B.P.)

big fellow. Big, large; much: Aus. pidgin: mid-C.19–20. E.g. 'big fellow water'. B. & L.

big front. (A fellow with) new or good clothes: Can. carnivals: since ca. 1910.

big gates, the. Prison (generic); a prison: c.: late C.19–20.

big gee, the. Flattery, esp. flattering treatment; very high praise: market-traders': since ca. 1920. M.T.

big getter. A 'teller of the tale' in a grand and genteel manner: C.20 c. 'Stuart Wood', Shades of the Prison House, 1932.

big gun. A person of note: orig. US, anglicised—1897.—2. A large surf-board, for use in heavy surf: Aus. surfers': since ca. 1960. (B.P.)

big H, the. Heroin: drug addicts': since ca. 1960. (Bourne-mouth Echo, 3 Oct. 1967.) Also simply H., q.v.

big hammer. See hammer, n., 10.

big head. The 'morning-after feeling': coll.:—1880. Get a (or the) big head, to become intoxicated: from ca. 1870.—2. A conceited person: since ca. 1940. Cf. the US coll. sense, 'conceit; egotism'. Also in the vocative: (you) big head!

big hit. To defecate: Aus. rhyming s., on shit: since ca. 1920. Franklyn, Rhyming.

big (or large) house, the. The workhouse: among the indigent:—1851 (Mayhew).—2. As the big house. Penitentiary or prison: Can.: adopted, ca. 1925, ex US; also in Britain since ca. 1935. Cf.:—3. 'Kenyon was due to give evidence . . . at the Central Criminal Court, more commonly known to the public as the Old Bailey, and to the police as "The Big House"' (N.J. Crisp, The London Deal, 1978): C.20.—4. A mental hospital: since ca. 1950. (Petch.) It has become, indeed, a gen. term for any large, impersonal, threatening institution.

big jobs, do. To defecate: domestic and nursery: C.20. Max Bygraves, I Wanna Tell You a Story, 1976.

big licks. See give what for.

Big Lizzie. HMS Queen Elizabeth: RN: C.20. (Bowen.) Also Lizzie.

big loaf and little loaf. A political c.p. used by Liberals during the fiscal controversy ca. 1906. Collinson.

big locker, put in the. Dumped over the ship's side: MN: since 1940s. (Peppitt.) Davy Jones's locker, of course.

big M. A million ('pounds sterling' understood): financiers' and other big businessmen's: since (?)1950. Wilbur Smith, Hungry as the Sea, 1978.

big man, big prick—little man, all prick. A tribute to virility, in lit. sense; fig. 'apostrophising dolts, dupes or dunder-heads' (L.A.): c.p.: C.20.

big mouth. A tale-teller; an informer: low Glasgow:—1934.—2. One who talks often, much, loudly, and tending to indiscretion: adopted, ca. 1945, ex US. Often in self-accusation, as, after a faux pas: 'Oops! Me and my big mouth!'

big mover. One who is, either consistently or on a specific occasion, highly successful, e.g., a male with a female: Aus.: since ca. 1945. Alexander Buzo, Rooted, prod. 1969, at III, iii: 'GARY: So you're a big mover with Diane, are you? BENTLEY: Practically home and hosed.'

GARY: . . . Big mover with Diane! You mullet! [fool].'

Big Navy, the. 'Life in the "Big Navy" [the "big ships"] is very different from that lived by the officers and men who serve in destroyers, light cruisers, and submarines' (W.G. Carr, 1939: Moe): RN coll.: C.20.

big noise. An important person: orig. ca. 1907 in US, adopted in Britain WW1.—2. Hence, by extension, the big noise = 'the boss': Can.,—1910, then British English,—1918. Leechman.—3. A 4,000-lb bomb: RAF: late 1941–42.

big-note. To speak highly of; to exaggerate the worth of: Aus.: since ca. 1935. (Cf. the quot'n at bust below.)

big number. (Gen. pl.) A brothel: Parisian Englishmen's: ca. 1820–1910. Ex 'the huge size of the number on the swinging door, never shut, never more than two or three inches open' (Ware). Possibly in part, also, a pun on bagnio.

Big O, the. HMCS Ontario (scrapped in 1959): R Can. N: since (?)ca. 1939. Leechman.—2. As big O. An orgasm: Aus.: since ca. 1960.

big on (, esp. very). (Very) keen on: Aus.: since ca. 1940. (B.P.)

big one or 'un. A notable person: coll.: ca. 1800–50. Cf. big gun and pot and wig.—2. A considerable lie: coll.: C.20. Cf. whopper. (P.B.)

big P. 'Release on licence' (Home Office): Borstals' and detention centres': 1970s. Parole.

big penny, the. 'Overtime or mileage payments. "grabbing the big penny"—making overtime' (McKenna, Glossary): railwaymen's, esp. footplatemen: since mid-C.20.

big people. Important people: coll.: from ca. 1855; slightly ob. Trollope.

big pond. The Atlantic: prob. ex US and anglicised) ca. 1880; cf. big drink.

big pot. A person of consequence; a don: Oxford, ca.

1850–60. Thence, solely the former and in gen. use. Perhaps pot, abbr. potentate. War implies that, ca. 1878–82, it had, in the music-halls, the special sense of 'a leader, supreme personage'.

big pussy (or Big Pussy). The P. & M. Panther motorcycle: motorcyclists': since early 1950s. (Dunford.)

big shit. A c.p. of derision when a 'big shot' (see next) is mentioned: 'Big Shot?—big shit!': since ca. 1910.

big shot. A gang-leader; a notorious gangster: US, anglicised as coll. in C.20. It has, since 1935 in England, been, as from much earlier in US, applied also to a person successful in any big way. Prob. on big gun and big nose.

big side (now mostly written bigside). (Rugby and other Public Schools) 'early games of Rugby football were played with sides of any numbers, often the whole school participating'; the ground used therefor. Whence big side run, a paper chase in which all houses used to take part—these are no longer run. C.19–20. D.F. Wharton, who left Rugby School in 1965.

Big Smoke (or B.S.), the. Earlier simply The Smoke, q.v. at smoke, n., 2. London.—2. Hence, also Sydney: Aus., esp. NSW: since ca. 1919. D'Arcy Niland, The Big Smoke, 1959.

Big Snarl (or Stoush), the. The War of 1914–18. Aus. soldiers': 1919+. B., 1942.

big spit, the. 'Calling for Herb, see, that's one of the many euphemisms for vomit, others include spue, burp, hurl, the big spit, the long spit, throw, the whip o'will, the technicolor laugh and, in Queensland, the chuckle' (Frank Hardy, Billy Barker Rides Again, 1967): Aus.: since (?)ca. 1930, except the technicolor laugh, since ca. 1955. The first, calling for Herb, is—for Herb—echoic of a man 'spewing his guts out'; spue, mere var. of S.E. spew; burp, not so much illiterate as echoic; hurl, prompted by S.E. heave; the two spit terms, entirely Aus.; throw, short for throw up (n. and v.); whip o'will, rhyming s. for spill (one's guts); chuckle, ironic. Of all these terms, some are clearly nouns only, others are both nouns and verbs. Add chunder, which occurs in the sentence preceding the quot'n above, thus: 'Well, you've heard a bloke having a good chunder, saying "Herb . . . Heeeerb . . . Heeeerb!"' See also the entry at calling for Bill for the Brit. variants.

big stuff. Heavy shells: military coll.: late 1914–18, and after. F. & G.—2. Heavy vehicles, e.g. tanks: Army: since ca. 1930. P-G-R.—3. In the Navy, a battleship or an aircraft carrier; or collectively: since ca. 1939 (Ibid.).—4. In the RAF, heavy bombs: since ca. 1941 (Ibid.).—5. In all three Services, Very Important Persons: since ca. 1944 (Ibid.).

big talk. Pompous, or sesquipedalian, speech: (—1874); coll.

big time, in the. Operating on a large scale: Aus., adopted, ca. 1945, ex US. (B.P.) 'In the old days of vaudeville, "big time" meant the more important circuits . . . Others, less important, were "small time"' (Leechman): Can. and US.—2. In to get big-time, to put on airs, to assume a 'posh' accent. A Midlands professional man, in a BBC Radio 4 programme on class-distinction, 4 Feb. 1980. (P.B.)

big triangle, the. 'The old sailing-ship tramping route—from U.K. to Australia with general cargo, on to the West Coast of S. American with coal from Newcastle, NSW., and then home with nitrates': from ca. 1860 (now ob.): nautical coll. >, by 1880, j. big truck. A nickname for a man generously sexed: Liverpool: C.20.

big twist. 'An outstanding success, an occasion for the expression of pleasure' (B., 1959). Cf. curl the mo.

big un. See big one.

big way, in a. Very much: coll.: since ca. 1935. 'I've had him in a big way'—I can no longer stand him, I've no more use for him. P-G-R.

big wheel. A large-scale 'operator'; a gang boss. See wheel, 4. Claiborne, 1976, 'i.e., that which drives the smaller wheels, as on an old-fashioned stationary engine.'

big white chief, the. One's boss: mostly in offices, and Services': coll., often joc.: since 1930s. Ultimately ex US. big wig. A person of high rank or position or money. It occurs in Ned Ward early in C.18, but it > gen. only ca. 1840. Whence big-wigged, consequential (Carlyle, 1851), big-wiggery, a display of pomposity or importance (Thackeray, 1848)—and big-wiggism, pomposity, pretentiousness (George Eliot); all three being coll. at first, then soon S.E.—though seldom employed.—2. Esp., a head of a Colleague: Oxford: ca. 1818–60. Spy, 1825.

big Willie. See Willie.

big word. A word of many syllables or much pretentiousness: coll. (—1879) rising to S.E. In the pl, pomposity: from ca. 1850; in C.20 almost S.E., though rarely used.

big words off a little stomach. 'Boasting, or a threat meant to intimidate, brought to scale' (L.A.): coll.: C.19–20; seldom heard after WW2. Possibly proverbial.

bigger and better. A joc. coll., as in bigger and better babies: from ca. 1924. Ex the Coué vogue of 1923 with its self-adjudications to grow 'better and stronger', etc. B.P. notes that, in Australia, it is expanded to bigger, better and brighter.

bigger the balls the better the man, the. An army instructors' c.p. of the late 1940s, and perhaps earlier. (Edmund Ions, A Call to Arms, 1972.) See DCpp.

bigger the fire, the bigger the fool, the. The more noise, the less sense: Aus. c.p.: since late C.19. Orig. bushwalkers'. B.P. notes "'Hiking" is a pejorative term in Australia and New Zealand. "Bushwalking" in the preferred Australian term and "tramping" is used in New Zealand.'

bigger they are the harder they fall, the; occ. the taller they are, the further they fall. A c.p. of defiance and fearlessness towards one's superiors: late C.19–20; very common in Army of 1914–18. It probably originated in the boxing-booths. (Julian Franklyn.) Usu. attributed to Bob Fitzsimons (1862–1917) before his fight with James J. Jeffries, a much heavier man, on 25 July 1902. L.A. added, in 1974, 'I have never heard this version, but rather the bigger they come, the harder they fall: defiance of big battalions, whoever they are.'

biggest fuck-up since Mons (or Dunkirk, (the)). A disaster: since those retreats in WW1 and WW2 respectively; the Mons var. is now ob. (Powis, 1977.)

biggie, -y. A big one of anything; an important person, e.g. a well-known and successful author, as in 'the biggies are going to do pretty well at the expense of those PLR [Public Lending Rights Bill] is there to protect' (Julian Chancellor of the Society of Authors, quoted in New Society, 10 June 1982, p. 412); later C.20.

biggy, as in 'Biggy Smith' (Smith major), is a C.20 Christ's Hospital (School) term. Marples.

bight job. An unpopular officer or NCO: Aus. soldiers': 1919+. B., 1942, 'Might become "shark bait" when the transport is crossing the Great Australian Bight?'

bightie. An Aus. spelling of bitey.

bike, n. Abbr. bicycle: from ca. 1890; since WW1, coll. Cf. trike.—2. Short for town bike, q.v., or its variants, office bike, camp bike, etc. According to Harpers & Queen, April 1979, a certain woman stockbroker is known simply as The Bike.—3. A ship's wheel: trawlermen's: C.20. Wm Mitford, Lovely She Goes, 1969.—4. In get off (one's) bike, to become annoyed; angry: Aus.: since ca. 1930. B., 1942; Lawson Glassop, 1944.—5. See on your bike!

bike, v., or bike it. To cycle: coll.: C.20. M. Franklin, Old Blastres, 1931.

biker. One who rides a bicycle; in later C.20, esp. a motorcyclist: coll., among the fraternity. Cf. Alex Stuart's novel-title, 1971, The Bikers. The female of the species is a birdie biker. 'Gangs of mods and their rivals, the rockers, who these days call themselves "greasers" or "bikers"' (Loughborough Echo, 28 Sep. 1979). (P.B.)

bill. A late C.17–mid-18 c. abbr., recorded by B.E., of bilboa.

bilaytee pawnee. Soda-water: Anglo-Indian coll. (—1886). See parnee.

bilbo(a). In C.16–17, S.E.: a sword noted for the excellence of its temper and made orig. at Bilbao in Spain. Hence, in late C.17–18 (in C.19, archaic), coll.: the sword of a bully. Congreve in the Old Bachelor: 'Tell them . . . he must refund—or bilbo's the word, and slaughter will ensue.'

Bilboy's ball. See Beilby's ball. (Grose, 1st ed.)

bile yer canl, awa' an'. A sarcastic c.p. retort: proletarian Glasgow:—1934.

bilge. Nonsense; empty talk: Public Schools' (from ca. 1906) >, in 1919, gen. Desmond Coke, The House Prefect, 1908, 'Let's go . . . This is awful bilge'; Lyell; R. Blaker, Night-Shift, 1934, referring to 1920, "'Bilge" was the polite word, current in those days for the later "tripe".' Ex bilge-water.

bilge. V.i., to talk nonsense: from ca. 1921; very slightly ob. Pawnshop Murder.

bilge artist. A pointless chatterer or airy-nothinger: Aus.: since ca. 1920. Baker.

bilge-cod. Fish served at dinner on Fridays: Conway s.: from ca. 1890. Masefield.

bilge-water. Bad beer: coll.: C.19–20. Ex the bad water collecting at the bottom of a ship.

bilingual. A joc. coll., used since ca. 1944, thus: 'He's bilingual—speaks both English and American.'

bilious. Bad, 'rotten', as e.g. 'in bilious form': Society: from 1930. Graham Shepard, Tea-Tray in the Sky, 1934.

biliously. The corresponding adv.: id.: id. (Ibid.)

bilk. A statement or a reply devoid of truth or sense: ca. 1630–1800. Perhaps a thinned form of bulk.—2. A hoax, humbug, or imposition (—1664); ob.—Hence, 3. A swindler or a cheat. It occurs in anon., A Congratulatory Epistle from a Reformed Rake, 1728, at p. 30, and in Sheridan's jibe, 'Johnny W[i]lks, Johnny W[i]lks, thou greatest of bilks', 1790.

bilk, adj. Wrong, misleading, senseless: C.18. Ex cribbage and = balk.

bilk, v. To deceive, cheat; defraud, fail to pay; elude, evade: all these coll. senses (B.E. is prob. wrong in considering the word to be c.) arose in Restoration days and all had > S.E. by 1750. Grose, 1st ed., 'Bilking a coachman, a box keeper, or a poor whore, was formerly, among men of the town thought a gallant action.' Cf. the n.

bilk the blues. To evade the police: c. or low s.: from ca. 1845; ob.

bilk the schoolmaster. To gain knowledge—esp. by experience—without paying for it: 1821, Moncrieff's Tom and Jerry: coll.; ob.

bilker. A cheat(er), swindler: s.: it occurs so early as 1691, in anon., The Bragadocio, at II, iii (Moe); by ca. 1800, coll.; now almost S.E. Likewise bilking, vbl n. (—1750), was almost S.E. by 1850; bilker is now, except in its abbr. form bilk, rather ob.

Bill. See Billy, 1.—2. Inevitable nickname, esp. in the Services, of men surnamed Sikes, Sykes. Ex the character in Dickens's Oliver Twist.—3. Inevitable nickname, also, of men surnamed Bailey: C.20, but rare after ca. 1960. Ex the famous old music-hall song 'Won't you come home, Bill Bailey?' (Petch, 1969.)—4. A list of boys due to see the headmaster at noon, as in Brinsley Richards, Seven Years at Eton, 1876, also of those excused from 'absence'. At Harrow School, names-calling: from ca. 1850.—5. In c., a term of imprisonment: from ca. 1830. Always with long or short.—6. A var. of bil, q.v. (A New Canting Dict., 1725.)—7. As the bill, "'The Bill" is the Metropolitan Police cab-driver's licence, as distinct from the ordinary Country Council driving licence . . . It is also called the "brief" and the "kite"; but the "bill" is the more common name. It is a large red piece of foolscap (hence "the kite"), well bespattered with legal phrases (hence, I suppose, "the brief"): Herbert Hodge, Cab, Sir?, 1939: taxi-drivers: since 1910.—8. As the Bill or b-, the police. Gen. as Old Bill, q.v.; see also Bill from the Hill.

Bill Adams. Euph. for bigger all, nothing or extremely little: military: WW1. (B. & P.) Cf. Fanny Adams, to whom Bill is, of course, no relation. Colonel Archie White, VC, in a letter, 1970, wrote 'There used to be, in some Victorian books of recitation, a monologue, "How Bill Adams won the battle of Waterloo", and Bill Adams became known as the garrulous and bragging old soldier'.

Bill Arline. See s'elp me...

bill at sight, pay a. To be, by nature, apt to enter into sexual intercourse: ca. 1820–1910. Egan's Groser, 1823.

Bill Bailey. A joc. c.p. form of address: ca. 1900–12. (Collinson.) Ex the late C.19–early 20 popular song 'Won't you come home, Bill Bailey?' This quot'n itself was a c.p. of the period, and is noted at won't you...

bill brighter. A small faggot used for lighting coal fires: from ca. 1840 ex Bill Bright, a servant extant at least as late as 1830: Winchester College (see Mansfield).

Bill Brown. 'Within the Brigade of Guards a Grenadier is invariably known as a "Bill Brown" although this was originally accorded to men of the 3rd Battalion' (Carew). See also Billy Browns.

bill fish. 'A waterman who attends the youngest boys in their excursions' (Spy, 1825): Eton: ca. 1815–60.

Bill from the Hill, a. 'Specifically, a Notting Hill police officer (once a very busy and active police station) and generally a very energetic policeman' (Powis, 1977.) See Old Bill.

Bill Harris. The disease bilharzia, now, better, schistosomiasis: orig. Aus. army, early WW1; later, medical circles generally; by late 1970s, ob. By Hobson-Jobson. (Partly thanks to Dr Tony Duggan.)

bill in the water, hold (one) with (his). To keep (him) in suspense: ca. 1570–1700. Coll.

Bill Jim; occ. Billjim. An Australian: Aus.: since ca. 1880 (Baker). Ex the frequency of those two hypocoristic forms of William and James.

Bill Massey's. NZ army boots: NZ soldiers': in WW1. Ex the late Wm. Massey, who was the NZ War Minister.

bill-o! A note of warning, whether physical or moral: Cockney schoolboys': C.20. 'Probably a perversion of below!, a cry of warning used in the Navy (and the rigging yards) when men aloft were about to drop something onto the deck—sometimes below, there!' (Julian Franklyn, letter, 1962.) Noted also by Powis, who suggests a connection with Bill, the police.

bill of sale. Widow's mourning clothes, esp. her hat: late C.17–19 († by 1890). B.E. Cf. house (or tenement) to let.

bill on the pump at Aldgate. See Aldgate.

Bill Shirker. A lowerdeck personification of S.E. shirker: ?mid-C.19–earlyish 20. The Rev. George Goodenough, The Handy Man Afloat and Ashore, 1901. (Moe.)

Bill shop. A police station (Powis, 1977.) Ex Bill, 8.

bill-sticking. '... was how the officers nicknamed the distribution of copies of Lord Roberts' proclamation calling on the Boers to lay down their arms and sign a promise not to continue the war' (Julian Ralph, War's Brighter Side, 1901, p. 100): army: S. African War, 1899–1902.

bill up. To confine (a soldier) to barracks: army coll.:—1890; ob. by 1930. Cf. billed up.

billabonger. A tramp keeping to the outback, esp. the Northern Territory: Aus. coll.: C.20. Tom Ronan, Vision Splendid, 1954.

billed, ppl adj. Detailed (esp. in orders) for a piece of work; briefed: RAF: 1939+. (Jackson.) Ex the theatrical billed (to appear).

billed up. Confined to barracks: in the Guards' regiments, ca. 1860–1915. Cf. bill up, and the current (1980s) prisoners' term banged up.

biller, billing-boy. A boy distributing advertisements (bills): commercial coll. (—1887). Baumann.

billet. A post, a job: from ca. 1880; coll. In c., get a billet = to get a soft job in prison: late C.19–20. Often, if appropriate, as cushy b.—2. See every bullet has its billet.

billiard-block. One who, for ulterior motives, suffers fools and other disagreeables with apparent gladness: Mrs Gore, Mothers and Daughters, 1831. † Society s. billiard slum. In Aus. c. of ca. 1870–1910, false pretences.

Here, slum = trick, dodge, game. Go on the b.s., to practise such trickery. Ex—give it (to) 'em on the billiard slum, to impose on them with that swindle which is termed a 'macc' (q.v.): c. of ca. 1810–70. Vaux, 1812.

billcock. See billycock. billieo!, go to. Go to blazes!: NZ:—1935. Cf. billy-o.

billikin. A small tin can used as a kettle: coll.: 1926 (OED Sup.). Ex billy-can.

billing-boy. See biller.

Billingsgate. Foul language; vituperation: Commonwealth period; coll. > S.E. by 1800. Gayton, 1654, 'Most bitter Billingsgate rhetoric' (Apperson). The language used at the Billingsgate fish-market was certainly 'strong'. See esp. OED and F. & H.—2. Whence, a person foul-mouthed or vituperative: ca. 1680–1830.

Billingsgate (it). To talk coarsely; to vituperate (a person): (—1678) coll.; † by 1850. In C.19–20, talk Billingsgate, also coll.

Billingsgate fish-fag, no better than a. Rude; uncouth: C.19–20 coll.; ob. by 1930.

Billingsgate pheasant. A red herring: from ca. 1830; ob. Cf. Atlantic ranger.

Billio. See billy-o.

Billjim. See Bill Jim.

billy. A silk pocket-handkerchief: ca. 1820–1900: c. (Scottish says 'Ducange Anglicus', citing Brandon, 1839) or low. Other C.19 styles and fancies in handkerchiefs—several of the terms survive—were the belcher, bird's-eye wipe, blood-red fancy, blue billy, cream fancy, king's man, Randal's man, Water's man, yellow fancy, yellow man: qq.v.—2. A truncheon:—1874 (H., 5th ed.) Ex US.—3. In Aus. and derivatively, but less, in NZ, the can that serves the bushman as both kettle and tea-pot: s. (ca. 1850) >, by 1880, coll.; billy-can (—1892) is rarer and more an urban than a rural term. (Morris.) 'From the Australian aboriginal billa, water' B., 1941.—4. In c., billy is stolen metal: mid-C.19–20. Implied in H., 1st ed. Cf. billy-hunting.—5. The removal or shifting of a marble: schoolboys': late C.19–20.—6. Abbr. billycock (hat): coll.:—1887 (Baumann).—7. Abbr. billy-goat: coll.: since late C.19. Edward Dyson, The Gold Stealers, 1901.—8. As Billy, Shakespeare; spout Bill or Billy: coll.:—1887 (Baumann). Ex William S.—9. Abbr. silly Billy: coll.: late C.19—earlier 20.—10. As the Billy, the Royal William, flagship at Spithead: naval: ca. 1815–30, then historical. Alfred Barton, The Adventures of Johnny Newcome, 1818 (Moe).—11. See whistling Billy; play billy with.

Billy Barlow. A street clown, a mountebank: from ca. 1840; † by 1920. Ex an actual character, the hero of a slang song. Such a clown is also called a Jim Crow (by rhyming s. with saltimbanco) or a saltimbanco.

Billy Bluegum. A native bear (koala): Aus. coll.: C.20.

Billy born drunk. 'A drunkard beyond the memory of his neighbours' (Ware): low London: 1895, People, 6 Jan.

Billy boy. A wild or very lively fellow: perhaps mainly naval: late C.18—mid-19. Basil Hall, 2nd series, 1832.—2. Perhaps hence, a name of a two-masted vessel resembling a galliot, the fore-mast square-rigged. Coming mostly from Goole, they are also called Humber keels: since ca. 1850: nautical coll.

Billy Browns, the. The Grenadier Guards: regular army: C.20. The name carries a scurrilous imputation; cf. my name is Benjamin Brown. They were also known as Tom Browns, as in 'those Tom Browns—they'll do any bloody thing for ten bob!', a by-word in the army of the 1950s. See also Bill Brown. (P.B.)

Billy Bunter. A shunter. See HAULIERS' SLANG, in Appendix. billy-bunting, recorded by EDD for 1851, is prob. an error for billy-hunting.

Billy Button. A journeyman tailor: since ca. 1840.—2. Mutton: rhyming s.: mid-C.19—early 20. ('Ducange Anglicus'.) Billy Button is the old country name for many different plants with small flowers. EDD.

billy buz(z)man. A thief specialising in silk pocket- and necker-chiefs: ca. 1830–1900 c. See billy, sense 1, and buzman.

billy-can. See billy, 3.

billy cart. 'A child's vehicle, often little more than a box on wheels' (Alexander Buzo, in the glossary he appends to his Three Plays, 1973: Norm and Ahmed, produced in 1968; Rooted, prod. 1969; The Roy Murphy Show, prod. 1971): Aus. coll.: since the 1930s. P.B.: but I have heard this term used in England also.

billy-cock. A low-crowned, wide-brimmed felt hat: coll. (—1862). In Australia, the hat so named is made of hard, not soft felt, and its brim is turned up: coll. (—1880). The word may be a phonetic development from the C.18 bully-cocked (Amherst's Terrae Filius, 1721); but the hats were, in precisely this style, made first for Billy Coke, a Melton Mowbray sportsman, ca. 1842—though admittedly this derivation smacks of folk-etymology. Also spelt billycock, q.v.

billy-doo. A billet-doux, a love-letter; C.18–20; coll.

Billy Ducker. A shag cormorant: Welsh coast, esp. fishermen's: late C.19–20. A ducking bird. (Wilfred Granville.) Many different birds have attracted the name Billy, e.g., Billy-whit, the tawny owl; see EDD.

billy-fencer. A marine-store dealer: c.; from ca. 1840; ob. See the two words.

billy-fencing shop. A shop receiving stolen precious metal: c.;—1845; ob. by 1930.

billy-goat. A male goat: coll.: 1861, Peacock (OED).—2. Hence (—1882) the s. sense, a tufted beard.

billy-goat in stays. An effeminate officer: RN: ca. 1870–85, when many young 'swells' wore stays. Ware.

Billy Gorman. A foreman; rhyming s.: since ca. 1870. (D.W. Barrett, Navvies, 1880.) Cf. the later—in C. 20, predominant—Joe O'Gorman.

billy-ho. See billy-o.

billy-hunting. Post-1820, ob. c. for collecting and buying old metal: ex billy, sense 4. Also, going out to steal silk handkerchiefs: same period: ex billy, sense 1.

Billy Muggins. A mainly Aus. elab. of muggins, 1: C.20. B., 1942.

Billy Noodle. A fellow that imagines all the girls to be in love with him: Aus.: since ca. 1920. Baker.

billy-o (or oh) or occ. billy-ho, like. With great vigour or speed: mid-C. 19–20. The Referee, 9 Aug. 1885, 'It'll rain like billy-ho!' Perhaps ex the name used euph. for the devil.—2. In I will—like Billy-o, a mild synon. for Like hell I will, I certainly won't: earlier C.20 Cf.:—3. In go to billy-o!, go to the devil: Aus. coll.: C.20.

billy pot. A bowler hat: ca. 1890–1940; esp. in Lancashire. Robert Roberts, The Classic Stum (Salford), 1971.

Billy Prescott. A C.20 var. of Charley Prescott. Franklyn 2nd.

Billy Puffer or B.p. or b.p. A name given to the early steamers by seamen: ca. 1840–1920. Bowen, 'Compare Puffing Billies on land.'

Billy Ricky. The casual ward at Billerica in Essex: tramps' c.: C.20. See esp. W.A. Gape, Half a Million Tramps, 1936, pp. 134–5.

billy-roller. 'A long stout stick... used... to beat the little ones employed in the mills when their strength fails' (Mrs Trollope, Michael Armstrong, 1840; OED records at 1834). See, too, Ure's Dict. of the Arts, vol. iii, 1875. Coll., †. Cf. billy, a truncheon.

Billy Ruffian. HMS Bellerophon: RN: early C.20. (Bowen.) By Hobson-Jobson. The Bellerophon of the Napoleonic Wars was, by the seamen, called the Billyruffin: Glascock, Sketch-Book, I, 1825.

Billy Stink. 'A native fire-water which we called Billy Stink. One could get it cheap in the bazaars, and it was a sort of wood-alcohol, I believe, though I never cared to sample it myself. Its effect on most drinkers was terrible': Indian Army: from ca. 1880. Richards.

Billy Turniptop. An agricultural labourer: from ca. 1890; virtually †. Daily Telegraph, 10 July 1895 (Ware).

Billy Wells. A big gun or its shell: military: WW1. (F. & G.) Ex Bombardier Wells, the English heavy-weight boxer. Cf. Jack Johnson, q.v.

billy with, play. See play billy with.

billycock gang, the. The clergy: navvies': ca. 1870–1910. (D. W. Barrett, 1880.) Ex their hats.

Bim (or Bimm); Bimshire. A Barbadian (cf. Badian); the island of Barbados, which is also (—1890) called Little England: coll.: mid-C.19–20. Perhaps ex vim, as suggested in Paton's Down the Islands, 1887.

bim, n. The buttocks: Scottish Public Schools coll.: C.20. (Ian Miller, School Tie, 1935.) A thinning of bum.—2. Hence, bottom of the class or in an examination: Scottish schools': since ca. 1910. Bruce Marshall, Prayer for the Living, 1934.

bim, v. To cane, properly on the bottom: English preparatory schools': since ca. 1920 (R.S., 1967.) Cf. prec., 1.

bimbo. A fellow, chap, 'guy': adopted by 1938 (witness James Curtis, They Ride by Night) from US as c.; by 1945, low s. Ex It. bimbo, short for bambino, 'a child': cf. kid, n., 2.—2. The female posterior: since ca. 1950. Ex bim, n., 1.

bime-by. By-and-by: dial. (—1839 and) Cockney sol. (—1887). Ex US, where recorded in 1824 (OED Sup.). Baumann.

Bimm. See Bim.

bimmers. Swimming trunks: Tonbridge (and prob. other Public Schools): current by late 1940s. (P.B.)

bimp. A shilling; vagrants' c.: C.20. See beong.

bimph. Toilet paper: Public Schools': late C.19–20; but since 1920, bumph much commoner, Marples. Cf. bim and bumf.

bimster. 'A rope's end used in the training ships for punishment purposes': RN: late C.19–20. (Bowen.) Perhaps beamster, something applied to the 'beam' or rump: but cf. bim.

bin, n. A trousers-pocket: c. and low: since ca. 1920. (Gilt Kid.) One dips thereinto.—2. 'Living quarters in which the rooms are very small' (H. & P.): Services': since ca. 1920; ob.

—3. 'In a Naval mess, a space curtained off' (P-G-R): RN: C.20—4. A ship's biscuit: training ships': latish C.19—earlyish C.20. J.R. West, T.S. 'Indefatigable', 1909. (Peppitt.)

—5. A straw boater; a woman's large straw hat: mostly hairdressers': since ca. 1950. (Bournemouth Echo, 20 June 1968.) Used by 'Mr Teazy-Weazy, Peter Raymond, the hairdresser Derby Winner.—6. A (police or prison) cell (Powis, 1977.): police and underworld: since (?)ca. 1950.—7. As the Bin, the Headmaster: Rossall: C.20. Marples.—8. As the bin, a lunatic asylum, as in 'He'll have to go into the bin': since ca. 1920. (Evelyn Waugh, Mr Loveday's Little Outing (the title story), 1936.) Short for the loony bin.

binco. A light; a paraffin flare; hence, occ., a magnesium flare: nuances 1, 2 (Edward Seago, Sons of Sawdust, 1934), late C.19–20; nuance 3, since ca. 1920. A corruption of It. bianco, white: from the whiteness of the illumination they afford: cf., therefore, bianc.

bind, n. A depressing or very dull person, task or duty: RAF: from ca. 1920. (Cf. binder, 4.) Ex-bind, v. To weary, bore a person: RAF: from ca. 1920. Cf. binder, 4. 'Jack? Oh, he binds me solid!' 'Bind must be the most used of all Air Force slang expressions' (H. & P., 1943); see esp. Partridge, 1945. Whence bind (someone) rigid: since before 1939; also, though little used after 1940, bind stiff. Perhaps ex the ill temper arising from being bound or constipated, but prob. ex garage 'It's binding somewhere'—as applied to an engine vaguely out of order.—2. Hence, of persons or things: to be tedious, to be a nuisance; to complain and grumble overmuch ('He binds all day'): since ca. 1925.—3. (Ex 1 and 2.) (Of a person) to be, with sickening frequency, 'in the know': since ca. 1930. Partridge, 1945.—4. To work; esp., hard at one's studies: RAF (mostly officers)': since ca. 1935. Hence, as n., a tour of duty.

binder. An egg: late C.19–20 c. >, by 1910, low. (Ware.) Cf. the † S.E. medical sense of binder: Anything causing constipation.—2. A meal, esp. a good, satisfying one: NZ: C.20. Hence, go a binder, to eat a meal: NZ, esp. tramps': —1932.—3. See titely and binder, whence, also a drink, as in A. Binstead, Gal's Gossip, 1899. cf. swing o' the door.—4. A bore (person): RAF: since ca. 1920. Ex bind, v., 1. Cf. bind, n.—5. One who grumbles and moans more than is held permissible: RAF: since ca. 1925. Partridge, 1945.—6. A last drink at a party: RN: since ca. 1920: Granville. Cf. One for the gangway.—7. See toe-biter.

binders. Brakes: RAF: since ca. 1925. Jackson.—2. 'Fibres that grow from one staple to another and hold a sheep's fleece together' (B., 1959): Aus. rural coll.: late C.19–20.

bindi- (or bindy-)eye. 'One of the burr-like flower-heads of the Bogan Flea (Calotis hispida) and other varieties of Calotis' (B.P.): Aus., mostly children's, late C.19–20. Cf. jo-jo.

binding, adj. Given to 'moaning': RAF: since 1925. (Partridge, 1945.) Ex bind, 2, above.—2. Boring; tedious: RAF: since ca. 1920. Ex bind, v., 1.

binding tubes. 'The means of communication between instructor and student [in a De Havilland Tiger Moth training aircraft] in 1943 consisted of a system of speaking tubes ... They were called, officially, "Gospot tubes", and, unofficially, "Binding tubes"' (Brig. P. Mead, Soldiers in the Air, 1967).

bindle. A notable 'howler': Dulwich College:—1907 (Collinson). R.S. proposes derivation 'from the surname of a notable practitioner; ?cf. [S.E.] clerihew.'—2. A blanket-roll or swag: Can.; adopted, ca. 1890, ex US (Niven.) A thinning of S.E. bundle—cf. jingles.

bindle stiff. A hobo: Can. c.: since ca. 1910. Ex US.

bine. (A smoking of) a cigarette: army: since ca. 1910. Short for Woodbine, used generically for any brand of cigarette. Warren Tute, The Rock, 1975.

bines. Spectacles: c.: since ca. 1930. 'Clocking me over the top of his bines' (Norman). Cf. binns, 1, for which it may just be a mis-spelling.

bing or byng, v. Gen. bing a-vast. To go: c. of mid-C.16—early 19. Scott has b. out, in Guy Mannering, and b. avast, in Nigel. Perhaps of Romany origin. P.B.: the 1835 ed. of The Life and Adventures of Bampfylde Moore Carew was, in the glossary, 'Bingawaste, get you hence, be gone'.

bing-bang. Echoic for a repeated heavy impact or a continued banging: coll.: from ca. 1910. (OED Sup.) Prob. at first a nursery word evoked by the excitement arising from 'playing soldiers'.

bing up. To brighten, to polish (furniture, metal, etc.): furniture and curio-dealers': C.20. H. A. Vachell, Quinney's, 1914.

binge. A drinking bout: Oxford University—1889 (B. & L.). Hence, in WW1, an expedition, deliberately undertaken in company for the purpose of relieving depression, celebrating an occasion or a spasm of high spirits, by becoming intoxicated' (B. & P.); also as v. Food often, music and singing sometimes, form part of a 'binge'. More an officers' than a private soldiers' word. Perhaps ex bingo, q.v.; or ex dial. v. binge influenced by bingo, the latter being the more prob., for binge, a heavy drinking-bout, exists in dial. as early as 1854 (OED).—2. In haul off and take a binge; have a binge, to (go away to) get a sleep: nautical: ca. 1880–1910.

binge a cask. 'To get the remaining liquor from the wood by rinsing it with water': nautical coll.: C.19–20. (Bowen.) Ex binge, to drench: see binge. Also bull the (or a) cask, q.v. binge up. To enliven (a person): early C.20. H.A. Vachell, Quinney's, 1914.

binged. Very eccentric; mad: Charterhouse School: since ca. 1920. Ex binged, drunk.

bingey, bingy (hard g.) Penis: Anglo-Irish nursery: late C.19–20.—2. Stomach, belly: Aus.: C. 20. (Dictionaried in Webster, 1926). The (Sydney) Bulletin, keeping closer to the Aboriginal, spells it binghi, and The Drum, 1959, binjey—which seems to indicate that the g may be either hard or soft.

Bingham's Dandies. (Military) the 17th Lancers: from ca. 1830; ob. Its colonel of 1826–37, Lord Bingham, insisted on well-fitting uniforms. Earlier, the 17th Lancers were called the Horse Marines, q.v., and from ca. 1870 the Death or Glory Boys.

binghi. See bingey.

bingle. A skirmish: Aus. Forces': WW2. B., 1953.—2. (?)Hence, a car crash: Aus. surfers', ex bingle, a dent or fracture in a surfboard (Ibid.): later C.20. Wilkes.

bingling. A combination, barberly and verbal, of bobbing and shingling: coll.: middle 1920s. Collinson.

bingo. In late C.17 (as in B.E.) and in C.18, c.; in C.19 (as in Tom Brown at Oxford), s.; ob. Spirituous liquor, esp. brandy. Perhaps b (cf. b. and s.) + stingo, q.v., or ex binge, to soak, steep, after sting (see Grose, P.). The word occurs notably in Fighting Attie's Song, in Lytton's Paul Clifford. The OED dates it at 1861.—2. Whence bingo boy and mort, male and female dram-drinker: c. of late C.17—early 19.—3. In like bingo, very quickly: low: C.20 (Margery Allingham, Sweet Danger, 1933.) Ex like billy-o, confused with like winking. See TOMBOLA.

bingo club. 'A set of Rakes, Lovers of that Liquor' (brandy), B.E.: late C.17–18 c.

bingo mort. See bingo, 2.

bingo'd or bingoed. Drunk: Society and undergraduates': since late 1920s. Ex bingo.

bingy, n. See bingey.

bingy, adj. (Of butter) bad, ropy; cf. vinnied. Largely dial. (—1857); as s., ob.

binjey. See bingey, 2.

binnacle word. An affected, a too literary word, which says Grose (1785), the sailors jeeringly offer to chalk up on the binnacle. † by 1890.

binned, be. To be hanged: London: 1883—ca. 1910. Ware, 'Referring to Bartholomew Binns. a hangman appointed in 1883.'

binni, binni soobli. Small; a boy (lit. little man): Shelta: C. 18–20. B. & L.

Binnie Hale. A tale: rhyming s.: since ca. 1940; by 1959, slightly ob. Ex the famous entertainer. Franklyn, Rhyming.

binns. Glasses = spectacles; dark binns, dark glasses: C.20: c. >, by ca. 1930, s. (Robin Cook, 1962.) Perhaps ex binoculars influenced by binnales.—2. Binoculars, esp. on a racecourse: since 1930s. (Alan Bolt's The Awful Punter's Book, 1967.) Both senses also spelt bins.

binocs. Binoculars: NZ and elsewhere: since ca. 1945. Fiona Murray, Invitation to Danger, 1965.

bint. A girl or woman; a prostitute,—in which role the female was often called saïda [sah-eeda] bint, lit. 'a "Good-day!" girl': among soldiers in Egypt: late C.19–20, but esp. in and since WW1; ob. by 1960. Direct ex Arabic.—2. Hence, the bint, the man playing 'a female part in a Divisional Concert Party or Troupe': military: 1916–18. F. & G.—3. One's girl friend, e.g. lush bint, a very attractive girl (H. & P.): since ca. 1920, but esp. in WW2 and afterwards, among servicemen. (New Statesman, 30 Aug. 1941.) An elevation into generalisation of sense 1. Nevertheless, even in WW2, and current, usage, it was, and is, often pej. In Arabic bint has no lit. meaning other than 'daughter'.

bint, v. Mostly in go binting, to seek a female companion, esp. as a bedmate: Regular Army in Egypt: C.20. Ex bint, n.

bio. A biography: orig. and mostly journalists': coll. since the 1930s (?). 'There was a bio to be written. Also one on his famous father. Oh boy!' (Lionel Davidson, The Chelsea Murders, 1978).—2. The cinema: S. African: since late 1940s. Shirley Milne, Stiff Silk, 1962, 'My sister has gone to bio'—to the cinema. Short for bioscope used as a deliberate archaism: bioscope was a very early synonym of 'cinematograph'.

biockey. Money: Anglo-Italian, esp. in London: mid-C.19–20. Ex It. baiochi, 'browns'.

biohc. A shilling: Parlyaree: mid-C.19–20. (Lester.) A var. of bianc.

bioscope. (A drink of) brandy: ca. 1910–14. The more a man drinks, the more 'moving pictures' he sees.

Bip, the. The Bishop: aristocratic and upper-middle class: since ca. 1920. (Margery Allingham, The Beckoning Lady, 1955.) By conflation.

birch, n. A room: 1893 (P. H. Emerson, Signor Lippo). Short for-birch broom. A room: rhyming s. ('Ducange Anglicus'): —1857; by ca. 1920, ob. Such brooms are now rare. Franklyn, Rhyming.

birch-broom in a fit, like a. (Of a head) rough, tously, tousled: C.19; e.g. in Hindley's Cheap Jack, 1876.

Birch Island. The Abbey Ground: Westminster School: ca. 1720–1850. Spy, II, 1826.

Birchen or Birchin(g) Lane, send one to. To flog; ex birch, to thrash: coll.: ?C.17–18. An allusion to Birchin Lane, London. Cf.:-

birchen salve, anoint with. To cance; thrash: C.16–17 coll. Tyndale. OED.

Birchington Hunt. An occ. var. of Berkshire (or Berkeley) Hunt, cunt.

bird, n. 'The foole that is caught' (Greene): c. of ca. 1585–1600.—2. (?)Hence, a prisoner. It occurs in Roger Boyle, Mr Anthony, 1672, in the prototypical form, bird in a cage. (Moe.) I suspect bird, prisoner, goes back to latish C.17 and existed underground, i.e. in c., then low s., to emerge in, e.g., the NZ army of WW1.—3. Prison: shortened rhyming s., bird-lime: c.: C. 20. Rare except as do bird, to 'do time', and in bird, in prison: since ca. 1940, generic for a prison-sentence. Edgar Wallace, The Mind of Mr J. G. Reader, 1925 (David Hume).—4. Hence, collectively, previous convictions: c.:—1935. (David Hume). Again bird-lime=time (served).—5. As the bird, a hissing of an actor: theatrical: since ca. 1880. Actors used to say 'The bird's there' (Ware). Later, mainly in the phrase 'Get the bird' [q.v.], be given a bad reception. Ex the hissing of a goose; cf. big bird and goose, qq.v.—6. A man, a chap; esp. in old bird: mid-C.19. OED Sup. See downy bird; queer bird.—7. A troublesome seaman: nautical: early C.19–20. W.N. Glascock, Sailors and Saints, 1829 (Moe).—8. (A) bird, a girl: since ca. 1880; a sweetheart: military: since ca. 1890; a harlot: since ca. 1900 (but now ob. in this nuance). The last two nuances may represent a survival ex early S.E., but more probably they have arisen independently. The sense sweetheart, or simply girl, had, by 1920, become fairly gen., although still uncultured. Since then it has worked its way up the social scale to arrive near the top, in the late 1960s, in the term dolly-bird, q.v.—9. A turkey, as in 'we're going to have a bird for Christmas': domestic coll., mostly lower-middle class: late C.19–20.—10. A certainty, esp. (make a dead bird of, a complete certainty, make quite sure of something: Aus.: since ca. 1910. B., 1943.—11. 'I did not want my "bird" (crook who is not known but suspected) to get any idea that the police were on his track' (A. F. Neil, Forty Years of Man-hunting, 1932): police s.: C.20.—12. In go like a bird, of, e.g. a motorcar, to 'fly along': coll.: since ca. 1945. (B.P.)—13. As the Bird, the Eagle Tavern: theatrical: ca. 1840–85. Ware, 'General Booth of the Salvation Army bought it up (1882).' Cf. the next.—14. An aircraft. See quof'n at troubleshooter.—15. See have the bird; little bird.

bird, v. To thieve, steal, seek for plunder: late C.16–17. Cf. black-birding.

Bird and Baby, the. A mid-C.18–early 19 facetious version of the Eagle and Child (inn). Grose, 1st ed.

bird bath. See elephant's trunk and bird bath.

bird-cage. (Women's dress) a bustle: ca. 1850–1900.—2. A four-wheeled cab: ca. 1850–1910.—3. (Racing) The Newmarket racecourse paddock where the saddling is done:—1884; ob.—4. In WW1, a compound for prisoners. Cf. cage.—5. A point occupied by a sniper: army: WW1. B. & P.—6. As the Birdcage, 'the elaborately entrenched position, north of Salonika, constructed in 1916 to serve as a final stronghold': Eastern troops' for rest of WW1. F. & G.—7. The position and situation of the huntsmen when they find themselves encircled by wired fences and hedges and can escape only by retreat or by crowding the gateways: hunting: C.20. Sir William Beach Thomas, Hunting England, 1936.—8. The Wrens' quarters at a Naval establishment: RN: since ca. 1939. P-G-R.—9. A 'signal box built up in girders or gantry'; also, a 'wire-trellised road vehicle' (Railway): railwaymen's: C.20.—10. 'The air pipe compartment on a diesel locomotive. The open arrangement of the pipes resembling a bird cage' (McKenna, Glossary): railwaymen's: later C. 20.—11. As the Birdcages, 'The first legislative buildings in Victoria, B.C. ... because of their gimcrack architectural elaboration; now all obliterated' (Leechman, 1968).—12. The Maurice Farman S. 7 'was still in service at the outbreak of the First World War ... Its long outriggers soon earned it the nickname "Longhorn", or as some Brush [Engineering Works] employees called them, the "birdcages"' (A. P. Jarram, Brush Aircraft Production at Loughborough, 1978).

Bird-Catchers, the. The Royal Irish Fusiliers, since 1811; the 1st Royal Dragoons and the Scots Greys, since 1815 (Waterloo): military. (F. & G.) Ex the capture of French eagles: cf., therefore, Aiglers.

bird-dog on the trail, like a. In relentless pursuit of a person or thing. 'Oh, Jack will find one. He's like a ...' (Leechman): Can. coll.: since ca. 1930.

bird is flown, the. A prisoner has escaped from gaol, a criminal has left his hiding-place: underworld c.p.: ca. 1810–60. (Bee.) See DCpp.

bird-lime. A thief: C.18. In, e.g., Vanbrugh. Cf. sticky-fingered.—2. Time: rhyming s.:—1857 ('Ducange Anglicus', 1st ed.). See bird, senses 3 and 4, for a specialised sense of time spent in prison, and hence prison itself.—3. A recruiting sergeant: WW1.—4. In come off the bird-lime!, 'tell that to the Marines!': low:—1923 (Manchon).

bird-man. An aviator: coll.: ca. 1908–18. (OED Sup.) In later RAF joc. or ironic, the term survives as intrepid bird-man (P.B.)

bird-mouthed. Apt to mince matters: from ca. 1600; coll. > S.E. by 1700; ob. by 1930.

bird of passage. A person never long in one place: C.19–20; coll.; in C.20, S.E.

Bird Sanctuary, the. The WRNS (Wrens) Headquarters: RN: WW2. Formerly they occupied Sanctuary Buildings, Westminster.

bird-seed. Sweets; chocolates: military: C.20. F. & G., 'Something nice for the "Bird"': see bird, n., 8, 2nd nuance.—2. 'A man with the surname Millet(t) often gets this nickname' (Petch.): late C.19–20.—3. See PRISONER-OF-WAR SLANG, 4.

bird-watcher and -watching. One given to the practice—the practice itself—of watching the girls, orig. in a park: joc.: since late 1940s. Ex bird, n., 8.—2. For the slang of BIRD-WATCHERS—in the S.E. sense—see Appendix.

bird-witted. Wild-headed, inattentive; inconsiderate; gullible: since ca. 1600; coll. till ca. 1800, then S.E. B.E., Grose. OED.

birdx. A bird-watcher. See BIRD-WATCHERS' SLANG, in Appendix.

birdie. A seaplane: RN: current already by, or in, 1914. W.G. Carr, 1939 (Moe).—2. Time: C. 20. Ex bird-lime, 2, q.v.—3. A hole done in one under the bogey figure: golfing coll.: since ca. 1920. (OED Sup.) Cf. eagle.—4. An aircraft: Aus. army (in Korea): ca. 1951–3. A.M. Harris, The Tall Man, 1958.—5. See:- birdie biker. A girl motorcyclist: motorcyclists'. (Dunford.) Since ca. 1960.

birds. See that's for the birds.

bird's eye, as a shortening of the next, and recorded by Baumann in 1887, prob. goes back to ca. 1810.

bird's-eye wipe. A silk handkerchief with eye-like spots: from ca. 1800; ob. Also bird's-eye fogle: low. Adumbrated in Pepys's Diary (bird's-eye hood); app. first in Egan's Grose, 1823.

birds' nest. A Wren's cabin in the 'Wrennery' at a naval establishment: RN: since ca. 1940.—2. The human chest, esp. if hairy: homosexuals': current 1970. Adopted, ca. 1955, ex rhyming s.—3. In I must go and look for a bird's nest, an earlier C.20 euph. for 'I must go and make water', used out of doors.

birds of a feather. Rogues of the same gang: late C.17–18; e.g. in B.E. Ex late C.16–20 S.E. sense, persons of like character, mainly in the proverb birds of a feather fly (1578; long †) or flock (1607) together, as esp. in Apperson.

birds with one stone. See kill two birds...

birdseed; birdsong. See PRISONER-OF-WAR SLANG, §4, in Appendix.

birsk. A house: back s., on crib, H., 1st ed., 1859.

birle. An Aus. variant of burle. D'Arcy Niland, The Shiralee, 1955, 'I'm going to give Eucla a birle.' [Eucla is a town on the southern border of W. Aus. and S. Aus.] Perhaps suggested by whirl rather than by hurl: cf. the Can. take a whirl at (something), to attempt it, current since ca. 1925. A blend of bash (attempt) + whirl?

Birmingham, the; esp. going up the Birmingham, travelling up the M.1: motorists': since ca. 1960. ITV, 13 Aug. 1963.

Birmingham Fusiliers. 'About this time [1902] the Cockneys and Welsh [in the Royal Welch Fusiliers] grew fewer, and the Midlanders more numerous, until in 1914, the Battalion was sometimes jokingly known as the Birmingham Fusiliers' (Richards): military.

birp. A var. spelling of burp.

Birreligion. The (political) import of Augustine Birrell's Educational Bill of 1906: political; now only historical. Collinson.

Birrelling, n. Writing chatty, pleasant, app. shallow essays: literary? from ca. 1890; ob. Cf. prec.

birth control engines. '... were huge locomotives which could burn up to five tons of coal per shift. Firing them in the early hours of the morning was said to make a man impotent for weeks' (McKenna, Glossary, 1970; in a letter, 1981, to P.B., Mr McKenna attributes this term, and the next, to Mr Bill Handy): railwaymen's: mid-C.20. Cf.:-

birth control hours. 'Work which starts between midnight and 5 a.m. A high percentage of footplatemen's work is done during "birth control hours", as much as two weeks out of every three' (Ibid.): id. See prec.

birthday occurs in the late C.19–20 fair-ground or Sunday-market patter, 'Look here, it's my birthday, I'll give you a treat and sell it cheap.'—2. In give (something) a birthday, to clean thoroughly, e.g. a room: London women's: C.20.

birthday suit, in one's. Naked. Smollett, Humphry Clinker, 1771: 'I went in the morning to a private place, along with the housemaid, and we bathed in our birth-day soot.' Increasingly less used in C.20 owing to the supremacy of in the altogether. Prob. suggested by Swift's birthday gear, 1731—cf. the rare birthday attire (1860): both of which are prob. to be accounted as s. (OED. Sup.) Still widely understood in Britain, and it has, in Can. remained far more gen. than in the altogether: very common still in Aus. also. (Leechman; B.P.) bis. Pron. bice, q.v.

biscuit. A brown mattress or palliase: army coll. > j.: ca. 1900–60. (Collinson; B. & P.) Ex shape, colour, and hardness. Earlier, occ. dog-biscuit.—2. As the Biscuit, the 10.30 p.m. express goods-train carrying biscuits from Reading to London: railwaymen's: earlier C.20. (Daily Telegraph, 15 Aug. 1936.) Cf. the Bacca.—3. See take the biscuit.

biscuit and beer. To subject to a biscuit and beer bet, a swindling bet of a biscuit against a glass of beer: low London: ca. 1850–1910. Ware.

biscuit box. A class 'Q' freight locomotive. See spam-can, 2.

Biscuit Boys, the. Nickname of the Royal Berkshire Regiment (amalgamated with 'the Moonrakers' in 1959 to form The Duke of Edinburgh's Royal Regiment): latish C.19–mid-20. Ex the biscuit-making so long associated with Reading.

biscuit cough. A cough caused by mere irritation in the throat, as 'Are you getting a cold?'—'No, that was only a biscuit cough'. Ex A.A. Milne, The House at Pooh Corner, 1928, Ch.7: "'you were coughing this morning" ... "It was a biscuit cough," said Roo, "not one you tell about"' (Mrs Daphne Beale).

Biscuit Factory, the. The Reading Gaol (closed down a few years ago): early C.20 c. (It adjoined Huntley & Palmer's factory.) Cf.:-

Biscuit Men, the. Reading Football Club ('soccer'): sporting: C.20. See prec.; cf. Toffee Men.

biscuits and cheese. Knees: rhyming s.: C.20; esp. in RAF, 1939–40, and as biscuits. Franklyn 2nd.

bish. A bishop: C.20; rare before WW1.—2. A mistake: Seaford Preparatory School (and doubtless in other similar establishments): since ca. 1925.—3. A chaplain: RN: since ca. 1930. (Granville.) Ex sense 1; cf. bishop, 6, and bish, v., 2.

bish, v. To throw: Aus.: since ca. 1920. (B., 1942.) Cf. biff.—2. To officiate in the absence of the chaplain: Services: since ca. 1939. P-G-R.

bishop. A fly burnt at a candle: late C.16–mid-17. (Florio.)

Cf. bishop, v., 1.—Cf. 1, b, 'A mushroom growth in the wick of a burning candle': late C.16–19.—2. A warm drink of wine, with sugar and either oranges or lemons: Ned Ward in The English Spy, that work which, at the beginning of C.18, held an unflattering but realistically witty mirror up to London. Ob. by 1890 after being coll. by 1750, S.E. by 1800.—3. 'One of the largest of Mrs. Philips's purses [cundums], used to contain the others' (Grose, 1st ed.): low: late C.18—early 19.—4. A chamber-pot: C.19—early 20.—5. At Winchester College, ca. 1820–1900, the sapling that binds a large faggot together; cf. dean, q.v.—6. A chaplain: Services: since ca. 1925. (Jackson.) Mainly joc.—7. A broken-down sign-post: mostly East Anglian: (?mid-C.19–20. Because—cf. parson, n., 2—it neither points the way nor travels it.—8. (In big business) a private detective: since ca. 1955. Peter McCabe, Apple to the Core, 1972.—9. In (oh) bishopl, a c.p. used in derision on the announcement of stale news: Training Ship Conway: 1890s. Masfield.—10. In flog or (ex army) bash the bishop, to masturbate: since late C.19. Ex resemblance of glans penis either to episcopal mitre or, more prob., to chess bishop.—11. See do a bishop.

bishop, v. Burn, let burn: coll., C.18–20. Ex the C.16–20 (ob.) proverbial sayings, 'The bishop has put his foot into the pot' or 'The bishop hath played the cook', both recorded in Tyndale.—2. To use deception, esp. the burning of marks into the teeth, to make a horse look young (—1727, R. Bradley, The Family Dict.): v.t. ex a man so named, and often as vbl n., bishoping. Coll. by ca. 1780, S.E. by ca. 1820.—3. To murder by drowning: from 1836, when one Bishop drowned a boy in order to sell the body for dissecting purposes: the irrepressible Barham, 'I burk'd the papa, now I'll bishop the son.' F. & H. describes it as † in 1890, but the SOD allows it currency in 1933.—4. In printing, bishop the balls, to water the balls: 1811, Lex. Bal.; ob.

bishop hath blessed it!, the. A c.p. of C.16 applied 'when a thing speedeth not well' (Tyndale, 1528).

bishoping. The performing of a bishop's duties: coll.: 1857, Trollope. (OED).—2. See bishop, v., 2.

Bishops, the. The Bishop Auckland 'soccer' team: sporting: C.20.—2. Archbishop's Park, Lambeth Road, London: Cockney's: C.20. Also the Arty Bishops.

bishop's finger. A guide-post: C.19. Halliwell. Cf. finger-post, a parson. see bishop, n., 7.

bishop's sister's son, he is the. He has a big 'pull' (much influence): ecclesiastical c.p.: C.16. Tyndale, 1528.

bishop's wife, as in what, a bishop's wife? eat and drink in your gloves? A semi-proverbial c.p. of mid-C.17—early 18. Ray, 1678. 'This is a cryptic saying', remarks Apperson; prob. it='You're quite the fine lady (now)!'

Bishopsgate – Cripplegate – the Workhouse. Three London clubs: The Athenæum—the Senior Services—the Union:

taxicab drivers': since the 1920s. ('Peterborough' in Daily Telegraph, 13 Dec. 1949.) The first has many bishops; the second, many aged Service dignitaries; the third puns on modern union for workhouse.

biskiwits, biskwitz. Prisoners of war in Germany: military: 1915–18. (B. & P.) Ex the Ger. for the maize biscuits sometimes obtainable from the canteen in prison camps.

Bismarcker, bismarquer, to. Cheat, esp. at cards or billiards: ca. 1866–1900. In 1865–6, Bismarck, the German Chancellor, pursued a foreign policy that rendered indignant a large section of European thought. The bismarquer form shows Fr. influence.

bison. An unruly child: Aus.: C.20. (B., 1943.) Ex fig. S.E. besom.

bisque, give (someone) fifteen, etc., and a. To defeat very easily; 'leave standing'. Coll.: from ca. 1880; ob. Ex tennis.

bit. In C.16–early 19 c., with var. bite, money; in C.19 c., bit also = a purse.—2. The silver piece of lowest denomination in almost any country: C.18–19.—3. Any small piece of money: coll., C.19–20.—4. A fourpenny-bit (1829): still so called in 1890, though joey was much commoner.—5. The smallest coin in Jamaica: Dyche, 1748.—6. A term of imprisonment: c.(—1869) > low.—7. A girl, a young woman, esp. regarded sexually: low coll.: C.19–20. Cf. piece, q.v., and esp. see also the entries recorded at bit of...

—8. In phrases such as a bit of an idiot, rather or somewhat of a fool, the word is coll.: since ca. 1800, and perhaps adopted ex US. Col. Moe quotes from The Port Folio, 28 Nov. 1807: 'Thou, as a bit of a philosopher, / Art friendly, CURTIS, to the slackened rein / of speculation.' It appears in W.N. Glascock, The Naval Sketch-Book, II, 307, 1826, as 'a bit of a boy'—a mere boy. Contrast bit of a lad.—9. Coll. also in the adv. phrases a bit, a little or a whit, late C.17–20; not a bit, not at all, from ca. 1749 (Fielding); and every bit, entirely (—1719).—10. Likewise coll. when it = a short while, either as for, or in, a bit or simply as a bit: from ca. 1650. Walton; Wm. Godwin, in his best work (Caleb Williams), 'I think we may as well stop here a bit.' OED.—11. A jummy: Aus. c.: C.20. B., 1942.—12. The sum of 12½ cents: Can. coll.: mid-C.19–20. Adopted ex US. (Leechman.) Claiborne adds, 'From the Spanish piece of eight, a coin equivalent to one dollar, which (in some versions) could be literally broken into eight bits, each therefore worth 12½ cents.'—13. Copulation from the male angle, as in 'If you're in need of a bit, you might find her attractive' (Bill Naughton, 1970): C.19–20 'He just lived it up. Booze, bits. A simple soul' (A. Hunter, Gently Coloured, 1969).—14. An activity, one's job, a hobby or a craze, esp. if specialised, e.g., 'the jazz bit'—copulation—drug addiction: adopted, ca. 1967, ex US (Burton H. Wolfe, The Hippies, 1968). The Hippies had, by 1974 at latest, become one of the minor marginalia of social history.—15. See do a bit; do (one's) bit.

bit, past ppl. of bite, v., 1: q.v. 'Robb'd, Cheated or Out-witted', B.E.

bit-and-bit, n. and v. The practice whereby each rider in a bunch or a breakaway takes a turn at the front, so sheltering and setting the pace to those behind: racing cyclists: since about 1920.

bit by a barn weasel. See TAVERN TERMS, §8, in Appendix.

bit-faker or bit-turner-out. A coiner of bad money: C.19–20 c.; the latter †. (Vaux.) Whence bit-faking, vbl n., counterfeiting. See bit, n., 1.

bit his grannam. See bite (one's) grannam.

bit hot, that's a. That's unreasonable, unfair, unjust: Aus.: since ca. 1910. Baker.

bit lit, a. Slightly drunk: since ca. 1925. A catchy elab. of lit or lit up.

bit-maker. A counterfeiter (—1857), ob.: low, perhaps even c.

bit much, a. Elliptical for a bit too much, a meiosis for too much in its nuances 'exaggerated, excessive; too demanding; arrogant; (very) objectionable', as in 'Oh, I say! That's a bit much!' It > gen. only ca. 1950, but it existed as early as the 1930s; prob. of Cockney origin. (A reminder from A.B. Petch, 1974.)

bit of... occurs frequently in s. terms for 'girl, woman' regarded sexually, hence for 'copulation': cf. bit of crumb or cuff or cunt or fluff or homework or jam or muslin or raspberry or share or skirt or soap or spare or stuff or tail or tickle or tit, and the many others that will arise.—2. When used affectionately or depreciatively, it is a coll., dating from late C.18. Anderson, Ballads, 1808, 'Oor bits o' bairns'. EDD.

bit of a brama. See brama.

bit of a lad, esp. he's a. He is one who actively pursues sensual enjoyment: he's always after the girls, 'likes his drop [of alcohol]', and games of chance; in short, 'a live wire': in gen. coll. use since ca. 1950. Cf. and contrast 'a bit of a boy' at bit, 8. (P.B.)

bit of all right, a (little). Something excellent, esp. an unexpected treat or stroke of good luck: coll.: C. 20. Alexander Macdonald, in The Land of Pearl and Gold, 1907, "'That's a bit of all right,'" said the guard, cutting off a piece of the stem and putting it into his mouth.' Also used of situations and positions and conditions, as in 'Taffrail', The Sub, 1917, 'The Germans, considerably outnumbered ... sought safety in flight. "This", exclaimed the skipper ... "is going to be a little bit of all right."' And, of course, it can be used of a pretty or an obliging female. Cf. bit of 'tout droit', q.v.

bit of Barney. A fight. See barney.

bit o(f) beef. 'A quid of tobacco; less than a pipeful. A ... reference to tobacco-chewing staying hunger' (Ware): low: ca. 1850–1910.

bit of black velvet. A coloured woman. See black velvet.

bit o(f) blink. A drink: tavern rhyming s.:—1909; ob. Ware.

bit of blood. A high-spirited or a thoroughbred horse: 1819, Tom Moore; slightly ob.

bit of Braille. A racing tip: Aus. sporting: since ca. 1930. B., 1953.—2. Hence, a tip-off: Aus. c.: since ca. 1935. After ca. 1945, usu. simply Braille. Ibid.—3. Feel, n. and v.t., in its sexual sense; grope: low Aus.: since the late 1930s. (B.P.)

bit o(f) bull. Beef: C.19: s. verging on coll.

bit o(f) bum. (of men) homosexual gratification: low: C.20. (L.A.) bit of cavalry. A horse: ca. 1825–1915. Moncrieff, 1821.

bit o(f) crumb. 'A pretty plump girl—one of the series of words designating woman imm. following the introduction of "jam" as the fashionable term (in unfashionable quarters) for lovely woman', Ware: from ca. 1880; ob. Cf. crummy, 1, q.v., and bit of grease. See also bit of...

bit of cush. A light, or an easy, job or duty: army: since ca. 1925. Ex cushy. P-G-R.

bit o(f) cuff. Girl or woman regarded sexually, hence, copulation: military: late C.19—early 20.

bit of cunt. (Of men) sexual gratification: low: since ca. 1870, if not earlier. 'Used by D.H. Lawrence in one of his poems, anticipating the freedom of Lady Chatterley's Lover' (L.A., 1974). See bit of...

bit o(f) dirt. A hill: tramps' c.:—1935.

bit of doing, take a. To be difficult to do: coll.: late C.19–20.

bit of dough (or putty) for the troops. 'A (fellow service-)man said to be complaisant, esp. among servicemen abroad, where women, taboo because of religion or disease, are not accessible: WW2, possibly even WW1' (L.A., 1974).

bit of ebony. A negro or a negress: C.19–20: coll.

bit of fat. An unexpected advantage, esp. (cf. bunce) if pecuniary: C.19–20; cf. fat, n.—2. Whence have a bit of fat from the eye, to eat 'the orbits' of a sheep's eyes—a delicacy (Ware, 1909).

bit of fluff. The same as bit of muslin, q. v.: C.20. 'Taffrail', Pincher Martin, 1916.

bit of gig. Fun; a spree: c.:—1823; very ob. Egan's Grose.

bit o(f) grease. (Not derogatory.) A stout and smiling Hindu woman: Anglo-Indian military:—1909 (Ware). Cf. bit of crumb, q.v.

bit of grey. 'An elderly person at a ball or a marriage ... to give an air of staid dignity'; Society: ca. 1880–1910. Ware. Ex grey hair.

bit of hard (or stiff). A penis (erectus): low: C.19–20. L.A. suggests, 1978, 'Perhaps originates in the phrase give a bit of hard for a bit of soft, a coarsely poetic way of saying, of a man, to coit.'

bit of haw-haw. A fop; London taverns': ca. 1860–1914. Ware. Ex haw! haw!

bit of hollow. Cooked poultry. See hollow, n.

bit of homework, often prec. by a nice little. A girl or woman regarded, usu. but not inevitably, sexually, for affection may be implied: military, then gen.: since ca. 1895. (P.B.)

bit of how's-your-father, sometimes bit of the old ... Sexual 'goings-on', anything from a spot of 'slap-and-tickle' to copulation: since mid-C.20. See how's your father and DCpp.

bit of jam. Something easy; a pretty, esp. if accessible, girl; prob. from ca. 1850, though Ware dates it at 1879. Cf. tart, jam; and see bit of crumb; piece of cake.

bit of leaf. Tobacco: mid-C.19–20 c.; ob. by 1930. J. Greenwood, 1876.

bit of mess. 'Prostitute's male lover who is neither her ponce nor a paying client. A completely non-commercial relationship, but not the same as a "tin soldier" [q.v.].' (Powis, 1977): since ca. 1950(?) : low.

bit of muslin. A (young) girl, esp. if a prostitute: early C.19–early C.20. In T.W. Moncrieff, Tom and Jerry, 1821; and, at the latter end of the century, Whiteing, 1899, has 'She's a neat little bit o' muslin, ain't she now?' Cf. skirt and bit of fluff.

bit of (one's) mind. Gen. with give. One's candid, unfavourable opinion: coll.; from ca. 1860. Cf. give (a person) a piece of (one's) mind.

bit of mutton. A woman: gen. a harlot. C.19–20, ob.; perhaps coll. rather than s.

bit of nifty. Sexual intercourse. See nifty.

bit of no good. See no good.

bit of nonsense. A (temporary) mistress: Society: C.20. Alec Waugh, Jill Somerset, 1936.—2. "A nice bit of nonsense," commented Louis, meaning a piece of villainy that had all the makings of a walk-over' (James Barlow, The Burden of Proof, 1968): c.: since ca. 1950.

bit of parchment. A convict's certificate of freedom: Aus. policemen's: ca. 1825–70. John Lang, Botany Bay, 1859.

bit of pooh. Flattery, 'blarney'; courtship: workmen's: —1909; almost †. (Ware.) Ex pooh!, nonsense!

bit of prairie. 'A momentary lull in the traffic at any point in the Strand ... From the bareness of the road for a mere moment, e.g. "A bit o' prairie—go"' (Ware): London: ca. 1850–1914. Cf. S.E. island.

bit of raspberry. An attractive girl: from ca. 1880; very ob. Ware. On bit of jam, q.v.

bit of red. A soldier: coll.: late C.18–19. Ware. Ex colour of jacket.

bit of share. A girl or woman regarded sexually: military: since ca. 1895.

bit of skirt. A girl; a woman: coll.: from ca. 1900; esp. military.

bit of snug. The act of kind: low: late C.19–20; ?ob.—2. The penis: id.: id.

bit of soap. A charming girl—though frail: low London: 1883–ca. 1914. Ware.

bit of Spanish. A natural wig (i.e. one made of human hair): c.: C.18. James Dalton, A Narrative, 1728 (p. 13).

bit of spare. Mistress of a married—or, indeed, of an engaged—man, but also the lover of a wife or fiancée: since ca. 1935: low coll.—2. Hence, loosely, anyone providing sexual favours, even on a short term or occasional basis. Roger Busby, Garvey's Code, 1978, 'I always got the impression that Maurice was down here [at an inn] on the look-out for a bit of spare'. Hence, also to have a bit of spare, to commit adultery (Powis, 1977).

bit of sticks. A cosp: sporting: from ca. 1860; ob. by 1930.

bit of stiff. Money not in specie; a bank or a currency note; a bill of exchange: from ca. 1850. (Lever.) Whence do a bit of stiff, to accept a bill of exchange or a post-dated cheque.—2. See bit of hard.

bit of string with a hole in it, I've (or I've got) a. A facetious c.p., in reply to a request for something else: C.20.

bit o(f) stuff. A very smartly dressed, later, overdressed man: low: C.19. George R. Gleig, The Subaltern's Log-Book, 1828, II, 164 (Moe), and H., 5th ed., 1874.—2. A (young) woman: mid-C.19–20. Cf. Marryat's piece of stuff, 1834, and a bit of muslin. Perhaps influenced also by stuff, v., 4.—3. A boxer: pugilistic: ca. 1810–50. Boxiana, I, 1818.

bit of tail. 'Sodomy (public schools); also coition a retro' (L.A., 1974): low: C.20.—2. Normal sexual intercourse, as in 'He's off out after a bit of tail': Services': since ca. 1950. (P.B.)

bit of the other, a. Sexual intercourse: low: since ca. 1930. L.A., 174, comments, 'the right true end of love, esp. as desirable after an evening of platonic courtship.' Contrast the other (q.v. at other), homosexuality, when it was a criminal offence. See also DCpp. at bit of how's-your-father.

bit of tickle. A girl or woman regarded sexually; hence, copulation: low: since ca. 1925. perhaps ex slap-and-tickle.

bit of tit. Id.: id.: since ca. 1920.

bit of tout droit', a. A 'bit of all right', q.v.: joc.:—1923 (Manchon); ob. by ca. 1935. Ex WWI military macaronic Fr. un petit morceau de tout droit, strictly a little bit ...

bit of under. Sexual intercourse: c.: C.19–20.

bit of wood in the hole, put a. See wood in it.

bit off, a. (Slightly) crazy: C.20. (Collinson.) abbr. a bit off his head.—2. Unfair; not quite 'the done thing'; descriptive of an unfriendly or inconsiderate action: coll.: since ca. 1950. As, 'Oh, I say! That really is a bit off!' Cf. not on. (P.B.)—3. In have a bit off (with), to copulate (with): Cockney, then gen.: C.20. Cf. bit, n., 13.

bit on, (have) a. (To lay) a stake: racing: 194, George Moore.—2. As adj., a bit on = drunk: low: C. 19–20; ob. ?Cf. bite one's grunnam, q.v.

bit on the cuff, a. Rather 'thick'—rather excessive, severe, etc.: Aus. and NZ.: since ca. 1930.

bit(-) player. A stage actor with a part in pictures: theatrical and cinematic coll.: since ca. 1930.

bit slow upstairs. Dull-witted: since ca. 1950. Radio Times, 5 Jan. 1967. (Petch.)

bit the blow. See bite a blow.

bit tight under the arms, a. A joc. c.p., applied to a pair of trousers much too big: C.20.

bit you?, what's. See what's bit you?

bitch, n. A lewd woman: S.E. from origin (—1400) to ca. 1600, when it > coll.; since ca. 1837 it has been a vulg. rather than a coll. (In C.20 low London it = a fast young woman.) As coll.: e.g. in Arbutnot's John Bull and Fielding's Tom Jones.—2. Opprobriously of a man: in C.16, S.E.; in C.17–18, coll., as in Hobbes and Fielding.—3. Tea: Cambridge University, ca. 1820–1914. (EDD.) Prob. ex stand bitch, q.v.—4. The queen in playing cards, mainly public house; from ca. 1840. Cf. butcher.—5. A male harlot: c.: C.20 Gilt Kid.—6. Perhaps the commonest C.20 epithet for a thoroughly unpleasant, but not necessarily lewd (cf. sense 1), woman; usu. qualified, according to the speaker's social standing, as 'a real ... , a right ... , a proper bitch'. (P.B.)—7. A toady to a master; one who makes up to another boy: Charterhouse: from ca. 1910. Hence the vbl n., bitching-up. Cf. senses 2 and 5.—8. In I may be a whore but I can't be a bitch, a low London woman's c.p. reply on being called a bitch: late C.18–mid-19. Grose (1st ed.), who prefaces it with: 'The most offensive appellation that can be given to an English woman, even more provoking than that of whore, as may be gathered from the regular Billingsgate or St. Giles answer', etc. Cf. the C.18 proverbial saying, the bitch that I mean is not a dog (Apperson).

bitch, v. Go whoring; frequent harlots: from Restoration times to ca. 1830: coll. Ex bitch, n., 1.—2. To yield, cry off, from fear: coll. verging on S.E.: C.18—early 19. Ex a bitch's yielding.—3. V.t., to spoil or bungle: from ca. 1820: coll. Bee. Prob. a thinned form of botch: W.—4. To complain in a bitchy manner: Can. hence Brit. since (?ca. 1925. Leechman).

bitch booby. A rustic lass: mid-C.18—early 19; military (Grose, 1st ed.). Cf. dog booby, q.v.

bitch of, make a. A var. of bitch, v. 3: low: C.20.

bitch party. A party composed of women: from ca. 1880. Orig. (ca. 1850) a tea-party: Cambridge and Oxford. Ex bitch, n., 3.

bitch-pie. See go to hell... bitch the pot. To pour out the tea: undergraduates': late C.18—mid-19. Ware.

bitch up. An intensive of bitch, v., 3: late C.19—20.

bitched, bugged, and bewildered. See Barney's bull.

bitcher's wine. Champagne: from ca. 1850. Cf. cat's water.

bitching, adj. A violent pej.: Aus. mid-C.19—20. Tom Ronan, Moleskin Midas, 1956, "'Wouldn't that be a bitchin' joke?'" Perhaps orig. euph.

bitching, adv. Another violent pej.: Aus.: mid-C.19—20. Tom Ronan, Ibid., 'But he'd manage it somehow. He bitchin' well had to.'

bitching-up. See bitch, n., 7.

bitching week. 'Third week of a four-week tour on station: Atlantic weather ships': 1960s. Gap of Danger, by J.G. Drummond, 1963. ('Peppitt.) Tempers are at their shortest then; cf. bitch, v., 4.

bitchy. (Properly of women.) Spiteful; slanderous: coll.: since ca. 1910. Angus Wilson, A Bit off the Map, 1957.

bite. The female pudend: (prob.) c.: late C.17—early 19, as in B.E. (The Cull wapt the Mort's bite, i.e. the Fellow enjoyed the Whore briskly) and Grose; perhaps ex A.-S. byht, the fork of the legs, a sense recurring in Sir Gawain, vv. 1340, 1349. Cf. Ger. Bitz, also the compound Weiberbitz.—2. A deception, from harmless to criminal: Steele, 1711; ob. by 1890, † by 1920.—Hence, 3. A sharper; trickster: c. or low s. > gen. s.: late C.17—early 19, as in B.E., Fielding, Smollett.—Hence, 4. A hard bargainer: C. 19.—hence, 5. Any person or thing suspected of being different from, not necessarily worse than, what appearances indicate: C.19—20 coll., ob.—6. (Cf. sense 4.) A Yorkshireman: from late 1850s, though recorded in Cumberland dialect as early as 1805; ob.; at first, pej. H., 1st ed.—7. In c., C.16—early 19: money; cash. It occurs as late as John Davis's novel, The Post Captain, 1805. Cf. bit, 1, q.v.—8. A lot of money: Aus. low: C.20. B., 1942.—9. A confidence trick; any easy-money racket: Aus. c.: since ca. 1920. B., 1953. Cf. sense 2.—10. A simpleton; a dupe: Aus.c.: since ca. 1930. B., 1953.—10. In put the bite on (someone), to ask (shamelessly) for a loan: Aus. low coll., since WW1. Wilkes cites W.H. Downing, Digger Dialects, 1919. Cf. bite (one's) ear, q.v.

bite, v. To steal; rob: late C.17—early 19 c. B.E.—2. Deceive, swindle: orig. (—1669) c., but by 1709, when Steele employs it in the Tatler, it is clearly s.; except in the passive, † by ca. 1870.—3. To 'take the bait': C.17—20 coll.—4. To drive a hard bargain with: C.19—20 coll. Implied in Bee. —5. (Of a book, a MS.) to impress or appeal to: publishers': from 1935. Thus a publisher might say to his 'reader': 'So it didn't bite you, after all?'—6. To ask for a loan: Aus. low coll.: since ca. 1930. (Wilkes.) Cf. prec., 10.—7. See I'll bite...; frost bite!

bite! Sold! done! tricked you! Only ca. 1700—60. Swift makes a male character, in reply to a young woman's 'I'm sure the gallows groans for you', exclaim, 'Bite, Miss; I was but in jest.' 2. At Charterhouse, C.19—20: cave!—3. At the Blue-coat School: give it to me!: 1887 (Baumann).

bite a blow; gen. to have bit the blow. 'To have accomplish'd the Theft, plaid the Cheat, or done the Feat' (B.E.): c.: late C.17—18.

bite (one's, or the) ear. To borrow money from: since ca.

1850. In C.19, c.; in C.20, low. Cf. bite, n., 10, and v., 6. For bite my ear! see frost bite...

bite (one's) grannam, gen. as to have bit (one's) grannam. To be very drunk: mid-C.17—18. (B.E.) See TAVERN TERMS, §8, in Appendix.

bite (one's) head off. See head off.

bite (one's) hips. To regret something: tailors': ca. 1850—1910.

bite in the collar or the cod-piece?, do they. A c.p. of late C.18—early 19. 'Water wit to anglers', says Grose, 3rd ed.

bite (someone's) name. To eat a meal paid for by another: Aus.: since ca. 1925. Also sign (one's) hand or name. (B.P.) Cf. bite, v., 6.—2. In bite (one's) name in, to drink heavily; tittle: low: C.19.

bite off short. To dismiss, or refuse, abruptly: tailors': from ca. 1870. Prob. ex the habit of biting instead of cutting thread or cotton.

bite (up) on the bit or the bridle. To be reduced in circumstances: C.14—20: coll. verging on S.E.; in C.19—20, mainly dial. Gower, ca. 1390; Latimer; Smollett. (Apperson.)

bite one off. To take, have, a drink of strong liquor: public-houses': since ca. 1910.

bite the tooth. To be successful: c.: late C.19—early 20. Ware, 'Origin unknown'.

bite the (or one's) thumb. To make a contemptuous gesture; v.t. with at. Coll.: C.16—18. Shakespeare, in Romeo and Juliet: 'I will bite my thumb at them: which is a disgrace to them if they bear it.'

bite up, n. A disagreeable altercation: tailors': ca. 1840—1920; as is biting up, grief, bitter regret.—2. As bite-up, a meal; refreshments: id.: C.20. (Tailor and Cutter, 29 Nov. 1928.) Also as v., to eat; occ. as bite up the hole.—3. V.i., to grumble; a grumbling or a complaint: id.: id.

biteēttite. See bitytite.

biter. A sharper; late C.17—18 c. Cotton.—2. A hoaxer: from late C.17 coll. passing to S.E.; except in the biter bit, † by ca. 1870.—3. In mid-C.18—early 19 low s., 'a lascivious, rampant wench', Grose (q.v.).

bitey, often spelt hightle. Anything that either bites or stings, e.g. a mosquito or even a chicken, or cuts or otherwise injures, e.g. broken glass or electricity. Aus. nursery coll.: since ca. 1910 (?earlier). 'Keep away from that plug, Bitey!' (B.P.) biting you?, what's. See what's biting you?

biting up. See bite up, 1.

bits. Pleasant or pretty 'pieces' of scenery: photographers' and artists' coll.: C.20.—2. A male baby's genitals: domestic, esp. feminine, coll.: prob. throughout C.19—20. Roy Lewis, Witness my Death, 1976, a young woman of her first child, brought to her soon after birth, "'Got all his bits, has he?'" she asked the two doctors doubtfully.'

bits and bats. Knick-knacks: rhyming s.: C.20. Perhaps suggested by 'bits and pieces'.—2. Hence, esp. in the underworld, small pieces of jewellery: since ca. 1910.

bits and bobs. Midlands coll. for bits and pieces, poss. orig. dial.: still, late C.20, very much in use. Occ. used as v., 'as in 'I were bittin' and bobbin' about, the whole morning.' (P.B.)

bits of. See bit of.

bitser. Anything made of 'bits and pieces': hence a mongrel (e.g. dog): Aus.: since ca. 1910. B., 1942.—2. A motorcycle made up of 'cannibalised' parts from other machines: motorcyclists' (Dunford): since ca. 1950, or perhaps earlier.

bitt. A var. of bit, 1.

bitten. See bite, v.

bitter. (A glass of) bitter beer: coll.: 'Cuthbert Bede', 1856, '... to do bitters, ... the act of drinking bitter beer'. After ca. 1880, coll.

bitter-ender. One who resists or fights to the bitter end: coll.: mid-C.19—20. OED Sup.

bitter-gatter. Beer and gin mixed: Cockney and military (not officers'): from ca. 1870. Richards.

bitter oath, e.g. take (one's). To swear solemnly: low: ca.

1850–1910. (Ware.) Corruption of better oath (as, e.g., by God! is 'better' than by hell!, the devil!, etc.).

bitter weed. 'An acidulous, grumbling type (Granville): naval: since ca. 1925.

bittock. A distance or a period of uncertain length; properly, a little bit: orig. (—1802), dial.; but from ca. 1860, also coll.

bitty. A skeleton key: c.: late C.19–20. Ex bit, a piece of mechanism.

bitty, adj. In bits and pieces; not in flowing narrative, but in imperfectly connected incidents: coll.: since ca. 1920. Noël Coward, There's Life in the Old Girl Yet, written in 1923, 'She is rather fat . . . , her dress is extremely "bitty", with rose-buds and small bows wherever they are humanly possible.'

bitumen blonde. 'An aboriginal girl or woman' (B., 1943): Aus.: since ca. 1930.

bitwise. Little by little: coll.: from the late 1890s; very ob.

bitytite; biteéttite (or bite-ettite). Hunger: (low) East London: ca. 1890–1915. Ware. Ex bite on appetite. Cf. drinkiite, q.v.

bivvy. Dial. and Cockney (? ex L. bibere via Lingua Franca) for: beer, esp. in shant (of) bivvy, a pot or a quart of beer. In Cockney since ca. 1840. Cf. bevvy.—2. (Occ. bivvy). A temporary shelter: military: 1915. Ex:—3. A bivouac: military: from ca. 1900.—4. A small, i.e. a one or two-man, tent: army: since ca. 1940. Short for bivouac tent.

bivvy, v. To halt for the night: army: from ca. 1910. Since ca. 1950 (? earlier), more generally bivvy up. Ex n., 3.—2. Hence, to put up anywhere: army: from 1916. F. & G.

bivvy-sheet. A waterproof sheet: army: WW1. (F. & G.) This item of kit is now, since ca. 1950 at latest, known as a groundsheet or poncho, standard military terms. (P.B.) bivyeghin. Stealing; theft: Shelta: C.18–20. B. & L.

biz. Business: adopted, ex US, ca. 1880. In, e.g., Saturday Review, 5 Jan. 1884; in Baumann, and in the 'comic strip', Ally Sloper, 17 Aug. 1889. See good biz!—2. As the biz, the profession; theatrical or film business: late C.19–20.

biznal. Business; affair: public schoolboys', later C.19. (Kipling, Stalky & Co., 1899, written concerning late-1870s.) A perversion, perhaps mock French. (P.B.)

bizzo. Business: Aus. teenagers', esp. surfers': since ca. 1950. (B.P.) Ordinary s. bizz + ubiquitous Aus. suffix -o (adopted ex Cockneys).

blab, a; blab, to. An indiscreet talker; to talk indiscreetly, also v.t. C.16–20. Until ca. 1660, S.E.; thereafter, the v. is coll., the n. (see esp. Grose, P.) is almost s. Likewise blabber and † blabberer, in the same senses, were orig. S.E., but from ca. 1750 coll. Blabbing, tale-telling, indiscreet talk, has always been coll. rather than S.E., except perhaps in C.20: from ca. 1600. Wesley.—2. A synonym of juice-meeting (q.v.), but † by 1925. Bootham.

blabber-mouth (or one word). One who cannot keep a secret; but also, one who talks too much: coll.: adopted ca. 1944 (earlier in Can.) ex US.

black, n. A poacher working with a blackened face: s. or coll.: C.18. F. & H.—2. A blackmailer: c.: C.20.—3. 'A black mark for doing something badly' (H. & P.): Services': since ca. 1935. 'A glaring error is a "black", "I have put up a black" they will say' (Hector Bolitho in The English Digest, Feb. 1941). The phrase put up a black is RAF officers', the RAF other ranks saying, 'I've boobed' (Jackson, 1943). 'Prob. derived from the Naval custom of putting up two black balls at the masthead when the ship is out of control' (Surgeon-Lt. H. Osmond, 1948).—4. A black-currant: fruit-growers' coll.: mid-C.19–20.—5. A blackguard: fast life: ca. 1805–50. Spy, II, 1826.—6. As the black it also means 'the black market': since ca. 1942. Whence on the black, engaged in black-market activities: since ca. 1943.—7. In in the black, financially solvent. See red, n.4.—8. See fast black.

black, v. In C.20 c., to blackmail. Whence the black, blackmail; lay the black, on the blackmail 'lay'; put the black on, to blackmail; pay black, to pay blackmail; and blacking, vbl n., blackmail(-ing): Edgar Wallace, passim. Alan Hunter, Gently Sahib, 1964, has a bit of black.

black, adj. See table-cloth.

black, in the. Financially solvent. See red, in the, 2.

black ace. The female pudend—cf. ace, n., 2, and ace of spades—occurs in Sir George Etherege, She Would if She Could, 1668, at IV, ii, in song: 'She'll not start from her place, / Though thou nam'st a black ace'.

black-a-moor, black Moor. (Gen. unhyphenated.) Recorded in 1547; † in S.E. senses. In C.19–20 used as a nickname and as a playful endearment (cf. Turk): essentially coll. Also adj. As in black-avised, the a is prob. euphonic and to be compared with the nonsensical but metrically useful -a in jog-trot verses.

black and tam. An Oxford woman undergraduate: Oxford University: late 1921–ca. 1925. Ex the black gown and the tam o'shanter affected at that period, with a pun on the Black and Tans (q.v.). W.

black and tan. Porter (or stout) mixed equally with ale: from ca. 1850: c. (vagrants') >, by 1900, gen. low s. Ex resp. colours.—2. That coastal trade in Aus. which consists in conveying coal from Newcastle, NSW, to Whyalla and iron ore from Whyalla to Newcastle: Merchant Navy: 1940s onwards. (Peppitt).—3. 'Amphetamine ("Durophet M") (Home Office): drug addicts': current in 1970s.

Black and Tans. The men who, in 1921, assisted the Royal Irish Constabulary. Ex their khaki coats and black caps, the nickname coming the more readily that, near Limerick, is the famous Black and Tan Hunt. Weekley, More Words Ancient and Modern.

black and white. Night; tonight: c. rhyming s.: late C.19–20.—2. As in a pennyworth of b. and w., of tea and sugar: Glasgow lower classes': from ca. 1920. MacArthur & Long.

—3. 'Amphetamine ("Durophet") 12.5 mgm capsule' (Home Office): drug addicts': current in 1970s.—4. In in black and white, written or printed; hence, binding. Late C.16–20, coll. Cf. black on white, which, C.19–20, only very rarely applies to writing and tends to denote the printing of illustrations, hence printed illustrations.

black and white duck. A magpie: Aus. joc.: C.20. B., 1943.

black and white minstrel. Fuller version of black and white, 3.

black army, the. The female underworld: low:—1923 (Manchon).

black arse. A kettle; a pot: late C.17—early 19. (B.E.; Grose, 2nd ed.) From the proverb, 'the pot calls the kettle black arse', the last word had disappeared (pueroris causa).

black art. An undertaker's business: from ca. 1850; undertakers'.—2. In late C.16–19 c., lock-picking. Greene; Grose.—3. As the b-a-, the printers' trade: printers' joc.: ?mid-C.19–20.

black as a bag, (as). Very dark, as applied to the weather conditions, esp. the light: Midlands (and poss. more gen.) coll.: since early C.20, perhaps much earlier. Presumably the effect of putting one's head inside one is meant. (P.B.)

black as a cunt. Badly in need of a wash, esp. after coal fatigue: military: WW1.

black as a sweep's arse. Very black: rural coll.: C.20 (? earlier). Spike Mays, Reuben's Corner, 1969, where the author is writing of Essex ca. 1920.

black as Newgate. See Newgate, 2.

black as the ace of spades, (as). Utterly black or dark: coll.: late C.19–20. P.B. adds, 1976: 'Nowadays, I think, applied more often to Negroes and other dark-skinned people than to, say, weather conditions.'

black as the Earl of Hell's riding-boots or waistcoat. (Of a night) pitch-dark: resp. naval and nautical: resp. ca. 1900–25 and 1880–1910. Bowen.

black as Toby's arse. Pitch-black, usually of a dark night: Can.: since ca. 1910.

black-bagging. 'Dynamitarding': journalistic coll.: 1884–ca. 1910. (Ware.) Ex the black bags in which the explosive so often was carried.

black-ball. To exclude (a person) from a club: late C.18–20:

coll. >, ca. 1830, S.E. Ex the black ball indicative of rejection.

black-balling. Vbl n. of prec.—2. Stealing, pilfering: nautical: ca. 1850–1910. It originated on the old Black Ball line of steamers between Liverpool and New York: a line infamous for the cruelty of its officers, the pilfering of its sailors.

black-beetle. In Thames-side s., from ca. 1860; thus in Nevinson, 1895, 'At last a perlice boat with two black-beetles and a water-rat, as we calls the Thames perlice and a sergeant, they pick me up.'—2. A priest: lower classes': C.20. Also, Mrs C. Raab adds, used by English-speaking Roman Catholic seminarians. Ex black clothes.

black beetles. The lower classes: coll.: ca. 1810–50. Moncrieff, 1821.

black bird. An African captive aboard a slaver: nautical (—1864): this sense is rare.—2. Gen., a Polynesian indentured labourer, virtually a slave: nautical (—1871); soon coll. See esp. the anon. pamphlet entitled Narrative of the Voyage of the Brig 'Carl', 1871.

black-bird, v. To capture Negroes and esp. Polynesians: nautical (—1885). The term > S.E. soon after this branch of kidnapping ceased. Whence black-birding, vbl n., such kidnapping (—1871), and adj. (—1883).

blackbird and thrush. To clean (one's boots): rhyming s., on brush: 1880 (Barrett, Navvies; EDD).

black(-)bird catching. The slave-trade: nautical (—1864). Displaced by black-birding (1871).

black-birders. Kidnappers of Polynesians for labour (—1880); quickly coll.; by 1900, S.E.

black-birding. See black-bird, v., and black-bird catching.

black bomber. 'Amphetamine ("Durophet") 20 mgm capsule' (Home Office): drug addicts': adopted ex US late 1950s. (Groupie, 1968). Perhaps prompted by the fame of the Negro heavyweight boxing champion, Joe Louis, who was thus nicknamed.

black boots, in (one's). Out of favour. Late C.16–20 coll. In C.19–20 gen. regarded as S.E.

black bourse. 'In the Service it covers the out-of-hours' sale of cigarettes for example' (H. & P.): early WW2. Lit., black market.

black box. A lawyer: either c. or low s.: ca. 1690–1860. (B.E.; Grose; Sinks.) Ex the black boxes in which he deposits clients' papers.—2. Instrument that enables navigator to see through or in the dark: RAF: since ca. 1942. (Radar.) Partridge, 1945.—3. (Prob. ex sense 1.) A hocus-pocus apparatus or piece of an apparatus: since ca. 1945.—4. Hence, a transistorised ignition system on a motorcycle: motorcyclists' (Dunford): since ca. 1970. As in sense 2, it works 'by magic'.

black boy. A parson: C.17–ca. 1860. (Sinks.) Cf. black-coat.

black bracelets. Handcuffs: (? late C.18–19). E.g. in Harrison Ainsworth's Jack Sheppard.

Black Button Mob, the. Any Rifle Regiment: army: C.20. A feature of any rifle regiment's dark green uniform is the lack of tell-tale glinting brass; it would have been 'a dead give-away' for the original (Peninsular War) sharpshooters.

black cat with its throat cut. Female pudend: low: C.20. (Douglas Hayes, The War of '39, 1970.) Var. of cat's head cut open.

black cap. See white sheep.

black cattle. Parsons: mid-C.18–early 20. Whence black-cattle show, a gathering of clergymen: C.18–19.—2. Lice: C.19–early 20.

black chums. African native troops: army: 1940–5. Also old black man.

black (or scab) coal. 'Coal imported from abroad or dug by blacklegs during the stoppage' caused by the General Strike of May 1926: Trade Unions' coll., often revived. Collinson.

black coat. A parson: from ca. 1600; coll.; ob.—2. A waiter: Aus.: since ca. 1920. B., 1943.

black-coated workers. Prunes: Dalton Hall, Manchester: since ca. 1945. (Daltonian, Dec. 1946.) With a pun on work. Rather, gen. Midlands s.—and it goes back to ca. 1910. L.A. notes, 1974, that, as black-coated workmen, the term was given wider currency by Lord Hill in his WW2 broadcasts as 'The Radio Doctor'.

Black Cuffs, the. (Military) the Fifty-Eighth Foot, from ca. 1881 the 2nd Battalion of the Northamptonshires: C.19–20. Ex the facings, which have been black since 1767.

black cutter. A service cutter for the use of Dartmouth naval cadets: RN coll. verging on j.: late C.19–20. Bowen.

black diamond. A rough person that is nevertheless very good or very clever: ca. 1800–75. Displaced by rough diamond, q.v. H., 3rd ed.

black diamonds. Coals: from ca. 1810: c. until ca. 1840, then s.; by 1870, coll. Vaux, 1812; various, Gavarni in London, 1848; H., 3rd ed.

black dog. A counterfeit silver coin, esp. a shilling: ca. 1705–30. (Black had long before been applied to base coins.)—2. Ill-humour: coll., from ca. 1825; ob. (Scott.) Hence, to have got a black dog sitting on (one's) back, to be depressed: coll.: late C.19–earlier 20. Lyell.—3. See blush like a black dog; walk the black dog.

black doll. The sign outside a dolly shop, q.v. Dickens, Sketches by Boz, 1835. Ob. if not †.

black donkey, ride the. To cheat in weight: costers': late C.19–20.—2. To sulk, be ill-humoured or obstinate: mid-C.19–20; ob. Ex a donkey's obstinacy; black merely intensifies.

black draught, give (someone) the. To administer the coup-de-grâce to a sailor dangerously ill: nautical: since ca. 1870. Visualised as a black medicine given as a purge. See also Irwin and Underworld. Claiborne adds: 'Surely the reference is to black as the color of death.' And cf.—

black drop. Laudanum: ca. 1810–60. (Blackwood's, Sep. 1823.) Cf. prec.

black-enamelled. (Of races, people) dark-skinned: army joc., esp. in Canal Zone: ca. 1945–55. A term of humorous abuse, as in 'C'm'ere, Ali, you black-enamelled bastard, iggri [hurry up]!' (P.B.)

black eye. In give a bottle a . . ., to empty one (of spirits): late C.18–mid-19. Grose, 2nd ed.

black-faced mob. a gang of burglars who, blackening their faces as a disguise, trust to violence rather than skill: c.—1845; ob. by 1930. .

black five. 'An L.M.S. Mixed Traffic Locomotive, Class 5' (McKenna, Glossary): railwaymen's? ca. 1930–50.

black fly. Pej. for a clergyman: ca. 1780–1850. (Grose, 2nd ed.) Esp. in relation to farmers, who, on account of the tithes, dislike clergymen more than they do insect pests.

black friars! Blackfriars! Beware! look out! mid-C.19–20 c. 'Ducange Anglicus', 1st ed.

Black Friday. A gen. examination: schoolboys': C.17. Cf. Black Monday.—2. 10 May 1886, when Overend, Gurney & Co.'s bank suspended payment; ob.—3. In Labour Party circles, Black Friday is the day on which the General Strike of 1926 broke up. Now, late C.20, historical.

black game, the. 'Slaving vessels, the quarry of Royal Navy anti-Slave Trade patrols': ca. 1825–65: coll. rather than s. Peppitt cites F.W. Mant, The Midshipman, 1876.

black gang, the. 'The "black gang"—that small army of "slags" and "mobsmen" who prey particularly on the grafter [one who 'works a line' at fair or market: a cheapjack, fortune-teller, and so forth] and the bookmaker. It was the first of the hurdles I had to overcome' (Captain R. Marleigh-Ludlow in News of the World, 28 Aug. 1938): c.: since ca. 1910. Ex black (mail): they levy it, or, on its not being paid, beat up the refuser.—2. A ship's engineers and, esp., stokers: RN: prob. since ca. 1890. (W.G. Carr, 1939: Moe.) Hence also R Aus. N: since ca. 1920. D. Cusack, Southern Steel, 1953.—3. Occ. used of clergymen, joc., among themselves: mid-C.20. (P.B.) black gentleman, the. The Devil: C.17–mid-19: coll. verging on familiar S.E. (Dekker.) Also the black man: mid-C.19–20; ob. Meredith.

black gown. A learned person: coll. C.18.

black guard, later blackguard. A scoundrel, esp. if unprincipled: from ca. 1730; > coll. ca. 1770, S.E. ca. 1830. At first this was a collective n.: in C.16–17, the scullions of a great house; in late C.16–17, the Devil's bodyguard; in C.17, the camp-followers; in C.18, a body of attendants of black dress, race, or character, or the underworld, esp. the shoe-blackening portion thereof. A collective adumbration of the sense, 'a criminal, a scoundrel', occurs in a MS. of 1683: '... of late a sort of vicious, idle, and masterless boys and rogues, commonly called the black-guard...' Two notable derivatives are:—blackguard, v. To act the blackguard (—1786); S.E. by 1800, but long t. Treat as a blackguard, revile (1823+); S.E. by 1850. (SOD.) And: blackguard, adj., blackguardly; vile. From ca. 1750; S.E. by 1800. Smollett, 1760: 'He is become a blackguard gaol-bird'; Byron, 'I have heard him use language as blackguard as his action.' For this interesting word—the early senses are all coll. rather than s., and all became S.E. thirty to fifty years after their birth—see an admirable summary in the SOD, a storehouse in the OED, a most informative paragraph in Weekley's More Words Ancient and Modern, and a commentary-lexicon in F. & H.

black-hand gang. A forlorn-hope party; a party of trench-raiders: military: 1916–18.—2. Hence, bombers or stretcher-bearers: military: 1917–18. (Cf. suicide club.) F. & G.

black hat. A new immigrant: Aus.: ca. 1885–1905. (Morris.) Perhaps ex the bowler so common among Englishmen, so rare among Australians. Cf. pommy, q.v.

Black Hole, the. Cheltenham: from ca. 1870; ob. Ex the number of former residents of India, esp. officers and civil servants, who go to live there.—2. A place of imprisonment, whence the famous Black Hole of Calcutta (1756).—3. Hence a punishment cell, usu. in a barracks, in which sense it occurs in Nathaniel Fanning, The Adventures of an American Navy Officer, 1806, in ref. to the year 1778. (Moe.) From ca. 1890 it came to refer, loosely, to the guardroom of a barracks: military.

Black Horse, the. The Seventh Dragoon Guards, ex the regimental facings and their (at one time) black horses; occ. abbr. to The Blacks: from ca. 1720; ob. Temp. George II, The Virgin Mary's Guard; from ca. 1880, Strawboots.

black house. A business house of long hours and miserable wages: ca. 1820–1900, trade.

black incher. A black bull-ant: Aus. children's: C.20. Opp. red incher, q.v.

Black Indies. Newcastle: ca. 1690–1830; in B.E. and Grose. But in C.19–20 (ob.), among seamen, it means Shields and Sunderland as well (Bowen).

black is beautiful, from being a racial and political slogan, became, in 1972 or 73, also a c.p., as in James Quartermain, The Diamond Hostage, 1975: 'Luke called me back: "Raven black is beautiful, especially when it comes in pairs"'—in ref. to two lovely black girls.

Black is his eye, say. See black's his...

black ivory. (African) Negroes as merchandise: 1873 (SOD); ob. by 1935.

black jack. A leathern drinking-jug: late C.16–early 20; > coll. ca. 1700, S.E. ca. 1800.—2. As Black Jack, the Recorder of London: c.: ca. 1810–30. Lex. Bal., 1811.—3. A (small) black portmanteau: London bag-makers' and -sellers', mid-C.19–early 20. Ware.—4. As B-J, the ace of spades: coll., from ca. 1860.—5. A tin pot for boiling tea: Aus.: C.19–early 20. B., 1942.—6. Treacle: Aus.: C.20. Baker.

black job. A funeral; also adj. Ca. 1850–1920. Yates, 1866. Cf. black art, 1.

black joke. The female pudend: early C.18–early 19. (Grose, 2nd ed.) A scholarly wit has pertinently asked, 'Something to be cracked?' The term occurs earlier in 'The Harlot Unmasked', a song, ca. 1735.

Black Josephs, the. The Sisters of St Joseph: Aus. Catholics' coll.: C.20. Ex their habit. (B.P.)

Black Knots, the. The 64th Regiment of Foot, later (1881), the 1st Battalion The Prince of Wales (North Staffordshire Regt.): from the Stafford knot, a heraldic device, and the fact that the regiment's uniforms originally had black facings. Carew.

black-leg, usu. as one word. A turf swindler: Parsons, Newmarket, vol. ii, 1771. 'So called perhaps from their appearing generally in boots, or else from game cocks, whose legs are always black' (Grose, 1st ed.). W., however, suggests—more pertinently—that it is 'a description of the rook'.—2. Whence, any sharper: 1774. (Colman, Man of Business.) Perhaps ex black-leg(s), a disease affecting the legs of sheep and cattle (1722, SOD).—3. (Ex 1 and 2.) Pej. for a workman willing to continue when his companions have gone on strike (1865): S.E. by 1900.—4. Hence, fig., any non-participator (1889); coll. by 1920. (All senses: partly OED.) black-leg, v. (Tailors') to boycott a fellow-tailor: ca. 1870–1910.—2. V.i., or as black-leg it, to return to work before a strike has been settled: from ca. 1885; coll.; S.E. by 1920.

black-legged, adj. Swindling: c. of ca. 1790–1850. Anon. ballad, 'The Rolling Blossom', ca. 1800. (Moe.)

black-leggery. Swindling: Maginn, 1832; coll.; S.E. by 1850, but never very common.

black light, 'Signal light, not burning' (McKenna, Glossary): railwaymen's ironic: C.20.

black magic. The orig. form of black box, 2. P-G-R.

black man, the. The Devil. See black gentleman.—2. As a black man, a physician: ca. 1660–1740. John Dryden, Jr., The Husband His Own Cuckold, 1696, at l. i. (Moe).—3. See enough to make a black man choke.

black man kissed her. Sister: rhyming s.: C.20. But not at all gen. Franklyn, Rhyming.

black man's, blackmans. The dark; night: a C.17–18 c. var. of darkmans, q.v. Jonson.

black Maria. A prison van, for the conveyance of prisoners: adopted, ca. 1870, ex US—orig., Philadelphia—to judge by that story in Joseph C. Neal's Peter Ploddy, 1844, which is titled 'The Prison Van; or, The Black Maria' (the DAE's earliest quot'n is dated 1847). In Britain the term was orig. c.; by 1902, s.: by 1930, coll. (H., 5th ed.; Ware.) Occ., humorously, sable Maria († by 1920). By personification. See hurry-up van.—2. A gun that ejects a shell emitting a dense cloud of smoke (1915); the shell or its burst (Oct. 1914): military. Ex sense 1. F. & G., 'The Germans, curiously, had a similar term, "Schwarze Maria", for our heavy shells.'

black marketeer. An illegal bookmaker quoting his own prices: Aus. sportsmen's: since ca. 1946. (B., 1953.) His customer is said to be betting on the black.

black (or B-) Monday. The Monday on which, after the (esp. summer) holidays, school re-opens: from ca. 1730: 'What is called by school-boys Black Monday' (Fielding, Tom Jones); P.G. Wodehouse, A Prefect's Uncle, 1903, 'There is nothing of Black Monday about the first day of term at a public school. Black Monday is essentially a private school institution.' Contrast bloody Monday, q.v.—2. The Monday—it often is a Monday—on which the death-sentence is executed: from ca. 1840.

black mouth. A slanderer: from ca. 1640; ob. Coll., passing in C.19–20 to S.E. B.E. has it as the corresponding adj. Cf. the late C.20 orig. US bad-mouth.

black mummer. An actor habitually unkempt and unclean: ca. 1820–90. Bee.

black muns. Late C.17–18: 'hoods and scarves of alamode lutestring' (Grose). B.E. gives as c., which it may be; muns = face.

black navy, the. The destroyer flotillas, orig. painted black. (R/Adml. P.W. Brock.)

black neb. A person with democratic sympathies, orig. and esp. with France: ca. 1790–1800.

black nob. A non-unionist; a blackleg: from ca. 1870; ob. Punning blackleg. (Trade.)

black ointment. 'Pieces of raw meat' (B. & L.): c.: from ca. 1870. Perhaps ex idea of meat poultice for a black eye. (Alexander McQueen.)

black-out, n., and black out, v. (To experience) 'a temporary loss of consciousness before pulling out of a power dive' (H. & P.); RAF coll. > by 1943, j. Ex the blackness that affects one's sight and that into which the pilot lapses. The term has, since the late 1940s, widened to mean simply 'to faint' and been extended far beyond the fighting Services. It has given rise also to the term red out, experienced at the top of an outside loop, when the blood rushes to the brain, instead of being drained away from it.—2. A coffee without milk: Cape Town University: 1940+; ob. Prof. W.S. Mackie in Cape Argus, 17 July 1946.

black-out gong, the. The WW2 Defence Medal: since 1945; by 1970s nostalgic. It was awarded to all who had served in civilian home defence organisations, e.g. fire-watchers, Royal Observer Corps, ARP, etc., as well as to members of the armed forces.

black-outs. A Waaf's winter-weight knickers: WAAF: WW2. (Jackson.) Of navy blue: cf. twilights.—2. In the Navy, a Wren's ditto: since ca. 1918. Granville.

black over Bill's (or Will's mother's it's a bit). 'The weather looks threatening'—the direction of the threat being obvious to the viewers: provincial coll.: heard in Leicestershire, Berkshire, Kent: C.20 (P.B.)

black pan. Remains of cabin food, 'in certain steamers regarded as the requisite of the firemen who come off watch at 8 p.m.': nautical: C.20. (Bowen.) Because gathered together into a large black pan.

black peter. A solitary-detention cell: Aus. c.: since ca. 1920. Cf. peter, n., 4, and ultimately, perhaps, sense 1. Hence to black-peter, to put into one. Kylie Tennant, The Joyful Condemned, 1953.

Black Pope (or b.p.), the. The Superior-General of the Jesuits: Roman Catholics' nickname:—1887 (OED Sup.).

black pot. A toper: late C.16–19. Ex black pot, a beer mug. (The SOD is, I think, wrong to ignore F. & H.'s pre-1818 (= Scott) examples, indecisive though they be).—2. A Eurasian apothecary in an army hospital in India: Indian Army (not officers'): from ca. 1890; ob. with Indian independence, 1947, if not before. Frank Richards, Old Soldier Sahib, 1936.

black princes. 'Locomotive cleaners' (Railway, 2nd) railwaymen's: since ca. 1950 (?). They get so dirty that they look like the Black Prince in his armour—or like Negro princes—or, as likely as not, like both.

black psalm, sing the. To weep: mid-C.18—early 19. Grose, 1st ed., 'A saying used to children.' Cf. neck-verse.

Black Rod. Gentleman Usher of the Black Rod: C.17–20, coll.

black Sal or Suke(y). A kettle: low: mid-C.19—early 20.

black Saturday. A Saturday on which, because of advances received, there is no wage to take: mid-C.19–20, workmen's. Cf. dead horse, q.v.

black scene, the. The situation of "coloureds", esp. West Indians, in relation to whites: London West Indians': since ca. 1965. Gavin Weightman in New Society, 7 July 1977.

Black Sea Cat, the. 'H.M. paddle frigate Terrible, on account of her activity during the Crimean War': RN: ca. 1855–80. Bowen.

black shark. An attorney: mostly naval: ca. 1820–60. Bee. Bee.

black sheep. Mild for a scapegrace, a 'bad lot': from ca. 1790; coll.; in C.20, S.E. thought not literary. Perhaps (W.) ex 'Ba! Ba! black sheep'.—2. A workman refusing to join in a strike: ca. 1860–1900. H., 2nd ed.—3. As v., Winchester College, to 'jockey', get above: C.19.

black ship. One of the 'teak-built ships from Indian yards in the days of the East India Company': nautical: mid-C.18—mid-19. Bowen.

Black Shirt. A Fascist: 1923+. Coll. passing rapidly into S.E. Orig. a translation of the It. SOD.

black show. An 'unfortunate business', a 'discreditable performance': RAF officers': since ca. 1936. (Jackson.) Cf. black, n., 3, q.v.

black-silk barge. A stout woman that, frequenting dances, dresses thus to minimise her amplitude: ball-room (—1909); † by 1920. Ware. Cf. barges.

black-spice racket. The stealing of tools, bag and soot from chimney-sweepers: c.: (?C.18—early C.19. Lex. Bal.) black spy. The Devil: late C.17–18 c. and low. B.E.

black squad. A stokehold crew: nautical coll.: late C.19–20. (Bowen.) Cf. synon. black gang.

black strap. Pej. for thick, sweet port: coll.: late C.18–19; var., black stripe. Ex strap, wine, C.16.—2. A task imposed as punishment on soldiers at Gibraltar, late C.18—early 19: military (Grose, 1st ed.).—3. Molasses: C.19–20 (ob.): RN. (Bowen.) Ex sense 1.—4. The hospital in a ship of war: naval: late C.18—mid-19. (Bowen.) Cf. sense 2.—5. (Gen. pl.) One of 'the specially made strong bags used for removing pilfered cargo from a ship'; nautical (either low or c.): mid-C.19–20. Bowen.

black-strapped. (Of a ship or a boat) 'carried back into an awkward position by the tide and held there' (Bowen): nautical coll.: mid-C.19–20. Cf. sense 4 of prec. entry. Lt Cdr F.L. Peppitt convincingly derives the term from ships that, becalmed at Black Strap Bay, put into near-by Gibraltar to re-store.

black stump, back of the; this side of the or beyond the. In the country, a long way out: Aus.: since ca. 1930 (?earlier). 'Probably ex the bushman's habit of giving such directions' (B.P.). Cf. back of Bourke or Booligal; cf. also the boondocks, mulga, mulga madness, the sticks and woop woop.

black Sukey. A kettle. See black Sal.

black teapot. A Negro footman: lower class: C.19—early 20.

black-top. 'Engineers call the topping [used in reconstructing motorways] bitumen-bound material; the men laying it know it as black-top' (Observer colour sup., 20 Dec. 1981, p. 31).

Black Troops. Dominions Air Forces personnel: self-named and ironic: WW1; revived in WW2. 'Blake', i.e. Ronald Adams, Readiness at Dawn, 1941.

black varnish. Canteen stout: RN: since ca. 1920. (Granville.) Cf. Nigerian lager.

black velvet. Stout and champagne mixed: public-house s., mostly Anglo-Irish: C.20. Ex its colour and its smoothness.—2. In a bit of black velvet, coitus with a coloured woman: military: late C.19–20. Hence, black velvet, such a coloured woman: gen.: C.20.

Black Watch, the. The Royal Highlanders: military: from ca. 1725: s. >, by 1800, coll. >, by 1881 S.E. Ex their dark tartan.—2. Hence, by an ironic double pun, stokers: RN: C.20. Granville.

black whale. An Antarctic right whale: nautical coll.: mid-C.19–20. Bowen.

black, white, or brindle. Lit., 'of no matter what colour', but='of any kind whatsoever': Aus. coll.: late C.19–20. (B.P.)

black-work. Funeral-undertaking (1859, G.A. Sala, Gaslight and Daylight). Cf. black art, 1, and black job.

blackamoor's teeth. Cowrie shells: C.18, coll.

blackberry swagger. A hawker of tapes, shoelaces, etc.: c. or low s.: ca. 1850–1910. H., 1st ed.

blackee, blackey. See blacky.

blackers. 'He opened bottles and began mixing stout and champagne in a deep jug. "Blackers"? They had always drunk this sour and invigorating draught' (Evelyn Waugh, Put Out More Flags, 1942): orig., University of Oxford: since ca. 1910. Ex its colour; by process of the OXFORD-ER. Cf. the synon. black velvet, 1.

blacketeer. A black-market racketeer: journalists' coll.: from 1945; soon ob.

Blackfellows' (or the Dog), Act. A government order that can, by publicans, be invoked against drunkards: Aus. public-house 'society': since ca. 1920. B., 1953.

blackfellows' delight. Rum: Aus.: C.20. B., 1959.

Blackford-block, -swell, -toff. A person (gen. male) well-dressed on occasion: London: ca. 1890–1910. 'Blackford's is a well-known... tailors' and outfitting establishment which also lets out evening and other garments on hire' (F. & H. rev.).

Blackfriars! See black friars!

Blackfriars Buccaneers. 'The London division of the Royal Naval Volunteer Reserve, whose headquarters have been at Blackfriars for many years past' (Bowen, 1929): RN: C.20.

blackguard. See black guard.

Blackie is, in late C.19–20, the inseparable nickname of men surnamed Bird. Ex the songster that is the blackbird.—2. And of men surnamed Ramsey. Why?—3. And, not surprisingly, of men surnamed Blackett: army, WW1; gen., C.20; but, because often resented, obsolescent by latish C.20. (Petch.)

blackie (-y); occ. blackey (-ee). A black man: since ca. 1810: coll.; occ. as a nickname. Moore, 1815; Thackeray, 1864. Cf. darky. OED.—2. Only as blackie (-y). A blackbird: coll.: mid-C.19–20.—3. A blacksmith: RN coll.: since early C.20. Knock.—4. A black duck: Aus.: C.20. Dal Stivens, The Gambling Ghost, 1953.

blackie (or -y)-white. 'I'm an Anglo-Indian—a half-chat, a chillicracker, a blackie-white—the first is the polite term—the others are what they [the full whites] call us behind our backs''' (Berkely Mather, The Memisahib, 1977, set mostly in India, 1938–44). In short, a half-caste.

blacklead. A blacklead pencil: coll., though not very gen.: —1927 (Collinson).

blackleg. See black-leg.

blackmans. See black man's.

black's his, my or your eye, say. To accuse; reprimand: C.15–20, ob.; coll. A mid-C.18–19 var. was say black is the white of your eye, as in Smollett (Apperson). Note, however, that black's the white of my eye is 'an old-time sea protestation of innocence' (Bowen).

Blacks. Seventh Dragoon Guards. See Black Horse.—2 As blacks, bold type: printers' and journalists': C.20. (Petch.)

Blackshirt. See Black Shirt.

blacksmith. 'An incompetent station cook' (B., 1941): NZ and Aus. rural: late C.19–20.

blacksmith's daughter. A key (—1859); esp. in dial. (which has also blacksmith's wife), lock and key, padlock. See also put the blacksmith on.

blacksmith's shop. The apron of the unpopular Cunningham's patent reefing topsails in the mid-19th century' (Bowen): nautical: at the period.

blackstrap. See black strap.

Blackwall, have been to. To have a black eye: Cockney: ca. 1865–85.

Blackwall fashion. (To conduct a sailing-ship) 'with all the smartness and ceremony of the old Blackwall Frigates. On the other hand it was frequently applied to a seaman who did not exert himself unduly': nautical: C.19. Bowen.

Blackwall navy (or N.). Ships of the Union Castle Line: late C.19–20: nautical. (Bowen.) Ex London as base and the ships' grey hulls.

blackwash. To blacken (someone's character): since ca. 1925; ob. Prompted by S.E. whitewash. Cf. bad-mouth.

blad. A sheaf of specimen pages or other illustrative matter: booksellers' and publishers':—1933 (Slang, p. 181). Ex S.E. blad, a fragment.

bladder. A very talkative, long-winded person: from ca. 1578; coll. >, by 1800, S.E.; ob. by 1900.—2. 'The local newspaper, a bag of wind; a description which emanates from the Southern Railway' (McKenna, Glossary): mid-C.20. Cf. prec.—3. See bladder of lard, 3.

bladder of fat. A hat rhyming s.: early C.20; ob. by 1920. Supplanted by the more popular tit-fer, q.v.

bladder of lard. A bald-headed person (—1864); low. (H., 3rd ed.) Ex bladderred lard. Cf. the app. later semi-proverbial bald as a bladder of lard (Apperson).—2. A playing card: rhyming s.: C.20. Franklyn, Rhyming.—3. As the Bladder of Lard; often shortened to Bladder, New Scotland Yard: since ca. 1925: orig. c.; by ca. 1935, gen. Cockney rhyming s. John Gosling, The Ghost Squad, 1959.

bladderdash. Nonsense: low: late C.19–20; slightly ob. Corrupted balderdash.

blade. A 'good fellow', or simply a man: from ca. 1859 (H., 1st ed.). Ca. 1750–1860, a sharp fellow: coll. Late C.16–early 18, a roisterer, a gallant: S.E. The earliest sense appears in Shakespeare, the second in Goldsmith, and the latest in Dickens. Cf. Fr. une bonne épée, a noted swordsman: W. Blades, the. Sheffield Wednesday (Association) Football Club, in late C.19 and early C.20, 'used to be called "The Blades" and their rivals... Sheffield United... "The Cutlers"'. Both were very appropriate. Now, however, Wednesday are known as "The Owls"... The district in which the Wednesday ground is situated is divided into localities known as Hillsborough and Owlerton. In 1907 there was first published in the city the Sports Special and the cartoonist fastened on the first three letters of Owlerton and in his sketches depicted Wednesday as an Owl. His cartoons appeared regularly year after year... until the crowd cried, "Play up the Owls." Further, Sheffield United have been nicknamed "The Blades" and "The Cutlers" has died out', R.A. Sparling 'Football Teams' Nicknames' (? in Answers, 16 Feb. 1946).

bladhunk. Prison: Shelta: C.18–20. B. & L.

blag, n. A watch-, or a bag-snatching: c.: since ca. 1920. (Norman).—2. A North Country grammar schools' term of abuse: since ca. 1955. (New Society, 22 Aug. 1963.) Ex black-guard, pron. blaggard?—3. A piece of bluff; a tall story: since ca. 1945: c. >, by 1960, s. Ex the Fr. blague, as in sans blague. Hence, v., to bluff, to 'con'. Both n. and v. occur in, e.g., Robin Cook, The Crust on Its Uppers, 1962.—4. A wages snatch, in transit, from the carrier: c.: since late 1930s. (Frank Norman, in Encounter, 1959.) Cf. sense 1.—5. Hence, a robbery, esp. of a bank or post office (G.F. Newman, Sir, You Bastard, 1970): c. and police s.: since ca. 1950.—6. (Also as blog or blug) a manservant: Rugby (School): late C.19–20. (Marples.) Ex blackguard? Cf. sense 2.

blag, v. To snatch a watch-chain right off: C.20 c. (Charles E. Leach.) Perhaps ex Yorkshire dial. blag, together blackberries, itself ex Yorkshire blag, a blackberry. Cf. blag, n., 1.—2. To wheedle; persuade into spending money: low, esp. among grafters: C.20. (Cheepjack.) Perhaps cognate with blah. blag-merchant. A pay-roll bandit: c. and police s., esp. in S. Africa: since ca. 1950. (Angus Hall, On the Run, 1974, in the glossary.) Cf. blag, n., 4.

blagger. In C.20 underworld, one (usu. a youngster) who snatches a women's handbag and runs off with it; but it was also, early in C.20, Liverpool street arabs' s.—witness Arab. See Underworld, and cf. blag, v., 1.—2. 'It is the job of the Blagger to invite, persuade or trap people into the [Bingo] parlour' (John Holliday's article 'Bingo!' in the Sunday Telegraph, 18 Aug. 1963): bingo organisers', hence players': since ca. 1954. Ex the underworld sense, 'he who, in a "team", does the talking', a thieves' 'con man', dating since ca. 1930. Bournemouth Evening Echo, 20 Apr. 1966. Cf. the Fr. blagueur.—3. "'They're blaggers—they rob banks.'" A couple of weeks ago I would have been grateful for the gloss... appended in Troy Kennedy's script for the second spin-off from that tough TV series about the Flying Squad [i.e. The Sweeney] (John Coleman on the week's films, in New Statesman, 21 Apr. 1978). Cf. blag, n., 5. Tempest, 1950, writes, 'Used very occasionally to refer to men who resort to violence, particularly when operating in superior numbers. Probably an abbreviation of "blackguard".'

blah, n. Nonsense; silly or empty talk; 'window-dressing' matter: adopted, ex US, ca. 1927; publishers' and journalists'. Cf. blurb, q.v. L.A. notes, 1974, that, since the late 1930s, and esp. in 'the official blah', it comes near to the meaning of guff, q.v. Perhaps ex Fr. blague, but more prob. ex Ger. s. blech, nonsense, there being millions of Germans in the US. Another poss. derivation is ex Scot. and Irish blafium, nonsense, idle talk; Ulster has the var. blah flah. Or, of course, merely echoic.

blah, adj. Deliberately wordy and insincere: ex prec.—2. Mad. (A.E.W. Mason, The Prisoner in the Opal, 1928.) By confusion of gaga and sense 1; but see go blah.—3. Blind drunk: since ca. 1930. (Somerset Maugham, Up at the Villa, 1941.) Pron. blàs, as if Fr.—4. Blandly non-committal, an extension of sense 1: since ca. 1960: coll. (P.B.)

blah-blah. A occ. form of blah, n. Sometimes even tripled, as in 'and so he goes on [in the essay, document, etc.] blah-blah-blah...' Here, simply echoic. (P.B.)

blame. Fault, responsibility: proletarian coll.: mid-C.19–20. Gerorgette Heyer, A Blunt Instrument, 1938: 'It isn't my blame'.

blame it! Euph. for damn it!: coll. Cf. blamation, damnation. C.19–early 20.

blamed. A coll. pej. (= 'blinking', 'blanky'): non-aristocratic: late C.19–20. Ex US.

Blamey's Mob. The AIF: Aus. soldiers': 1940–June 1941. (B., 1942.) Ex the name of their C.-in-C.

blanchies or blonchies. Females employed in French laundries: Tommies': WW1. Ex Fr. blanchisseuses. (Petch.)

Blanco. The inevitable nickname of all men surnamed White: Services': C. 20. (F. & G.) Not ex Blanco White, poet and theologian (d. 1841), but ex 'Blanco', that white accoutrement-cleanser which came on the market in 1895.

blandander. To tempt blandishingly; to cajole: coll.: Kipling, 1888, puts it into the mouth of his Irish soldier Mulvaney; ob. By rhyming reduplication on the stem of blandish. OED Sup.—2. To lether; talk nonsense: low: since ca. 1930. (Gilt Kid.) Etym. either as sense 1, or perhaps ex blather and blatney, which would do as well for sense 1. blandiloquence. Smooth or flattering speech or talk: mid-C.17–20; ob. The OED considers it S.E.; W., s.; perhaps it is a pedantic coll. Blount, 1656. Ex L. for 'bland speech'.

blank, blanked. Damn; damned. From ca. 1850. 'Cuthbert Bede.' Most euphs are neither s. nor coll., but blamation and blank(ed) are resp. s. and coll.; cf. the remark at blast! and see blankety.—2. There exists a quartet of linked nuances, 'to ignore, turn a deaf ear to' someone—'to reject' a plan, proposal, suggestion—'to refuse to see or acknowledge' someone—'to miss, not to take part in' a crime, which is also an underworld nuance: a group not peculiar to, yet commonest among, police officers, esp. if high-ranking; and existing since ca. 1930. All four occur in one of G.F. Newman's 'police procedural' (romans policiers): The Gvnor, 1977. Thus, 'He turned, blanking him, and resumed pacing'; 'He next blanked Scotch Pat's next suggestion, about culling a couple of girls'; and 'He didn't blank his erstwhile performers out of hand when they called [telephoned] him'; the fourth, used by a professional criminal. The basic sense is to blank out, to erase, rub out, etc.

blankard. Bastard: Aus.: C.20. B., 1942.

blanked. Tippy: military: 1915; ob. (F. & G.) Ex Fr. vin blanc, white wine. Also blonked.—2. See blank, 1.

blanker. A discharge-certificate with one corner removed to indicate bad conduct: RN: late C.19–20. Bowen.

blanket. The coating of blubber in a whale: nautical coll.: mid-C.19–20. Bowen.—2. See blankets; lawful blanket; wet blanket; wrong side of the blanket; on the blanket.

Blanket Bay. Bed: nautical: late C.19–20. (Manchon.) Hence.—2. Copulation. See Bum Island.

blanket drill. An afternoon siesta; later, sleep generally: army, late C.19–20; RAF, since ca. 1930: esp. 'get in some blanket drill'. B. & P.; Jackson.—2. Hence, copulation; masturbation: since ca. 1935.

blanket fair. Bed: coll.: C.19–20, ob. Cf. Bedfordshire, sheet alley, cloth market.

blanket hornpipe. Sexual intercourse: from ca. 1810; ob. (Lex. Bal.) Cf. the C.17 S.E. blanket-love, illicit amours.

blanket show, the. Bed. Esp. to children, 'You're for the blanket show': domestic: late C.19–20.

blanket stiff. A tramp that never utilises the casual wards: C.20 c. ?ex US.

blanketeer. See hot blanketeer.

blankets. (Extremely rare in singular.) The 10s in a pack of cards: military: from 1915. (F. & G.) Ex the rolling of blankets in tens for convenience of transport.

blankety; blanky. Damned; accursed: coll. (mostly and prob. orig. American): from ca. 1880. Ex blank, q.v., the 'blank' being the dash ('—') beloved of prudes and printers.

blankety blank. The Company or the Battalion CO's language: army: WW1. See prec.

blankety-blank verse. Blank verse: joc. coll.: since ca. 1925.

Blanks. 'A rare word used for whites or Europeans by themselves' (B. & L.): Anglo-Indian; † by 1920. Ex Fr. blanc. Also S. African: C.20.

blarm me! Blimey!: Cockney (—1887). Baumann. Cf.:

blarmed, adj. 'Blamed', confounded (e.g. thing): Cockney:—1887 (Baumann).

blarney, n. Honeyed flattery, smooth cajolery (—1819); coll. Grose, 1785, records a sense rather more grave: 'He has licked the Blarney stone; he deals in the wonderful, or tips us the traveller'; Ibid, 'To tip the Blarney, is figuratively used for telling a marvellous story, or falsity.' In the 3rd ed. he adds: 'Also sometimes to express flattery.' Ex a stone in the wall of Blarney Castle, Ireland, the kissing of which—'a gymnastic operation', W.—is reputed to ensure a gift of cajolery and unblushing effrontery. In its modern v.i. sense, 'to use honeyed words', tip the blarney occurs in Alfred Burton, Johnny Newcome, 1818 (Moe); the shorter form has predominated since late C.19, as:

blarney, v.i. and v.t. To cajole; flatter grossly: coll., ex the n. (Southey in 1803: OED). The vbl n. blarneying is fairly common, blarneyer much less so.

blarneyfied. Adj., blarneyed: 1830, Fraser's Magazine, 'No balderdash of blarneyfied botheration' (OED).

blarsted. See blasted.

blasé. Satiated with pleasure. From 1819 until ca. 1860, s., but ca. 1860–1900 coll.; thereafter S.E. Byron uses the term, but its popularity came ca. 1840–4, when two versions of the Fr. farce, L'Homme blasé, were played on the London stage.—2. Hence, conceited; pretentious: Charterhouse: from ca. 1910.

blase. A conceited or pretentious person: Charterhouse: from ca. 1910. Ex blasé, 2. Hence:—

blase, v. To be conceited; put on 'side': Charterhouse: from ca. 1910.

blashy. Esp. a blashy day, wretched weather: nautical coll. (—1887) ex dial. blashy, gusty, rainy (1788). Baumann.

blast, n. 'To receive a blast is much the same as "stopping a bottle", a good "ticking-off"' (Granville): orig. RN, C.20; by 1950, fairly gen.—2. A party: teenagers': ca. 1961–5. (Sunday Times, 8 Sep. 1963, letters columns.)—3. A thrill: Can., adopted ca. 1960 ex US. A. Schroeder, Shaking it Rough, 1976, "'I bet you'd be a blast to get stoned with", he said.' (Leechman).—4. See full blast.

blast, v. To curse and swear: coll. >, by late C.19, S.E.: an early example occurs in The Port Folio, 16 May 1807 (p. 313), ex an English source: 'Mrs Bassett... insisted upon some liquor, would not quit the house without it, and began to blow up the hostess and blast the rose (sign of the Rose)'. (Moe.) Orig. military; foreshadowed in C.17.—2. Hence, to 'tell off', to reprimand: C.20. Cf. the n., sense 1.—3. To go raving mad: beatniks': since ca. 1959. Anderson.—4. To take narcotics: addicts': since late 1950s. (Janssen, Dec. 1968.) Cf. sense 3, and the n., sense 3.

blast off, v.i. (Of a car, esp. if a racing car) to start: Aus.: since ca. 1960. (B.P.) 'Ex the launching of a space rocket' (Leechman).

blasted. As a euph. for bloody, it has no place here, but as a low expletive adj., violently coll. and = 'execrable', it is in point. From ca. 1740. (Cf. the ensuing pair of entries.) The spelling blarsted is superfluous: nobody except a rustic, i.e. in dial., so draws out the a—and even then the spelling should be not blarsted but blaasted.—2. Intoxicated with drugs: addicts: since ca. 1968. (John Wyatt, Talking about Drugs, 1973.) Ex blast, v., 4.

blasted brimstone. A harlot: ca. 1780–1830. Grose, 1st ed. Cf.:-

blasted fellow. An abandoned rogue: ca. 1760–1830; cf. Chesterfield's 'the most notorious blasted rascal in the world', in a letter of 8 Jan. 1750.

blasted pack-mules, the. Tommies carrying heavy loads referred thus to themselves: WW1; occasionally revived in WW2.

blat. To talk much: s. (—1923) ex C.18–20 dial. blate, bleet, to roar, to talk wildly. Manchon.

blater. A sheep: C.18–mid-19 c. (Lytton.) A corruption of bleater. See bleating.—2. a calf: c.: mid-C.18–19. Grose, 2nd ed.

blather. See blether.

blatherskite. One who blathers. This form has been current in Australia since ca. 1870. (Sidney J. Baker, in a private letter.) See also bletherskate.

blatter. (Gen. in passive.) To strike, assault: Glasgow: C.20. Prob. ex dial. blather (gen. blather), to splash or befool.

blatty. See Blightly.

Blayney's Bloodhounds. (Military) the Eighty-Ninth Foot, from ca. 1881 the 2nd Battalion of the Royal Irish Fusiliers: from 1798, during the Irish Rebellion. Blayney was their colonel: and they excelled in tracking the rebels. Also known as The Rollickers, for they bore themselves jovially, swaggeringly.

blaze a trail. Lit., S.E. and orig. (—1737) US. Fig., C.19–20 coll. at first but soon S.E. and soon anglicised.

(blaze away and) blaze away! Look sharp! Work hard! Later (cf. fire away!) go ahead! Coll.: from ca. 1825 in the indicative and from ca. 1850 as an adjuration. Ex the rapid firing of cannons and rifles.

blazer. A (light) sports jacket: 1880. Orig. the bright scarlet jacket of the Lady Margaret Boat Club of St John's College, Cambridge. Coll.; in C.20, S.E. Punch in 1885: 'Harkaway turns up clad in what he calls a blazer, which makes him look like a nigger minstrel out for a holiday.'—2. A bomb-ketch; a mortar-boat: naval: C.19. Bowen.

blazers. Spectacles: Cockney:—1887; ob. by 1930. (Baumann.) Ex the sun therefrom reflected.

blazes. The bright clothes of flunkeys: ex the episode of Sam Weller and the 'swarry' in Dickens's Pickwick Papers: ob. by 1900.—2. As a forcible exclam.: since the 1830s. Perhaps elliptical for such uses as in 'The blazes he will!', in Bill Truck, Mar. 1824. Ex the flames of hell. Cf.:—3. In go to blazes, to depart hastily; to disappear melodramatically: cf. the adjuration, go to blazes! and to († the) blazes (e.g. with it!) from mid-1830s. Also in such phrases as that in 'He consigned me to blazes'. Cf. Old Blazes, the devil: ca. 1845–1930.—4. In how or what or who or why the blazes?!, an intensive coll. interrogation; e.g. in Dickens, 1838, 'What the blazes is in the wind now?' (OED), and Ibid., 1836, 'How the blazes you can stand the head-work you do, is a mystery to me.'—5. In like blazes, vehemently; with ardour:—1818: Alfred Burton, Johnny Newcome. Moreover, as blazes—as an intensive—prob. goes back to very early C.19 or even to late C.18. It occurs in, e.g., W.N. Glascock, Sailors and Saints, 1829: 'as black as blazes' (Moe); and in Disraeli's Sybil, 'They ... cheered the red-coats like blazes.' For drunk as blazes, see the entry at drunk as ...

blazing. A coll. intensive adj. (gen. euph.; e.g. for bloody), as in a blazing shame: from ca. 1880.—2. Hence, (of a money-market that is exceptionally active and good: Stock Exchange coll.: C.20.

bleached mort. A very fair-complexioned girl: mid-C.18—early 19 c. (Grose, 1st ed.) Cf. the C.20 peroxide blonde. Prob. ex the mort lay last night a-bleaching, 'the wench looks very fair to Day', A New Canting Dict., 1725.

bleacher. A maidservant: Glasgow:—1934.—2. A cad: Tonbridge School: late C.19—early 20. Marples.—3. A (reprehensible) girl or woman: 7ca. 1790–1860. The Night Watch, 1828 (II, 99), 'That she-devil, Sophy, though as worthless a bleacher as ever stepped in shoeleather ...' and, on p. 104, 'The next was an old bleacher of a woman'. (Moe.) Origin? bleachers, the. The cheap covered seats at a stadium: Aus.: since ca. 1945. (B.P.) Adapted ex US sense, 'the cheap uncovered seats at a baseball stadium', which Robert Claiborne, 1976, explains as 'seats in which one's clothes bleach in the sun.'

blear. To stroll; to wander slowly yet purposefully: Cambridge undergraduates': 1920s. 'Let's blear down to the Festival.' Perhaps cf. Yorkshire dial. blear, to go about in the cold.—2. When lost, to fly about in search of a landmark: Aus. airmen's: WW2. B., 1943.

blear the eyes of. To hoodwink, deceive, trick: C.14–19; coll. > S.E. by C.16. (Chaucer, Shakespeare, Scott.) Cf. throw dust in the eyes. OED.

bleat, n. A (usu. feeble) grumble: orig. RN, from late C.19; by ca. 1930, also army, and still current (1970s), as in 'What's his bleat, then?'—what's he so peevish about? (Bowen; P.B.)—2. 'A Petition to the Home Secretary. The new geezer put in a bleat the day he arrived'' (Tempest): prisons' s.: mid-C.20. Both senses ex-bleat, v. To complain, grumble; to lay information: from ca. 1560. This pej. implies either feebleness or cowardice or an unpleasant readiness to blab.

bleater. A victim of sharp or rook: c.: C.17—early 19. Dekker; Grose.—2. A sheep: c.: C.17—early 19. Brome.—3. A Cockney var. of bleeder, 4.: late C.19–20. In, e.g., A. Neil Lyons, Clara, 1912. [This could, however, be merely a phonetic transcription and not a real var. P.B.]

bleating, in C.17—early 19 c., is an adj.: sheep; as in bleating coll, a sheep-stealer; bleating prig or rig, sheep-stealing; bleating cheat = a sheep.—2. Among the lower classes, a euph. for bloody: C.20. (Manchon.) P.B.: prob. a mishearing of bleeding.

bleecher. A disreputable girl. See bleacher, 3.

bleed, n. Blood, 'as "She'll have his bleed"'—usually said of a woman who is rating her husband' (Ware): proletarian (mostly London): from ca. 1890. Cf. bleeding, q.v.—2. A 'blood', a 'swell': Tonbridge School: late C.19—early 20. (Marples.) I.e. blood, n., 2, thinned.

bleed, v. To extort, overtly or covertly, money from: late C.17–20, coll.—2. V.i. part (freely) with money: from ca. 1660, coll. in C.19; ob.; little used since ca. 1850. Dryden, 1668, 'He is vehement, and bleeds on to fourscore or an hundred; and I, not willing to tempt fortune, come away a moderate winner of two hundred pistoles.'—3. In printing, a book bleeds when the margin is so cut away that portions of the printed matter are also removed: from ca. 1870: s. > coll. > j. Hence, in military j., the bleeding edge of a map, where the cartography runs right up to the edge of the sheet to fit exactly with the next sheet in the series. But since ca. 1920 (also bleed off), one bleeds a book-jacket when the colours are made to run over, i.e. appear to continue beyond the edges.—4. To let out water: nautical: late C.19–20. F. & H. rev.—5. Hence, to let (cask, etc., of e.g. wine) fall in order to steal the escaping liquor: c.: C.20 Manchon.—6. 'To apply blow-lamps to resinous knots to cause resin to flow. This helps to prevent blistering' (a master builder, 5 Dec. 1953): builders': late C.19–20. Prob. ex sense 4.

bleed a buoy. 'To let the water out': nautical coll. (now verging on j.): mid-C.19–20. Bowen.

bleed like a pig. To bleed much: coll.: C.17–20. Dekker & Webster, 1607, 'He bleeds like a pig, for his crown's cracked.' In C.17–18, occ. stuck pig. P.B. and B.P. note that the longer form is current—and the more usual—in Brit. and in Aus. in the mid-late C.20.

bleed off. See bleed, v., 3.

bleed the monkey. (Naval) to steal rum from the mess tub or monkey: C.19. Cf. suck the monkey and tap the admiral.

bleed (one's) turkey. (Of men) to urinate: Can.: since ca. 1925. Not common.

bleeder. A spur: low: C.19–20; ob. Vaux.—2. A sovereign: C.19–20 sporting, ob.—3. A notable duffer: university s., ca. 1870–1910. Hence, gen., = a bloody fool, ca. 1880–1914.—4. Hence (owing to the influence of silly bleeder), a fellow, a man: from ca. 1880; mainly Cockney. (Rook.) It often connotes detestation or contempt; also it occ. refers to a woman, as in Bill Naughton, Alfie Darling, 1970: 'The aunt was a proper aunt and what a busy bleeder she was.' (L.A.) See essay, 'The Word Bloody', in Words! Cf. bleeding, q.v.—5. A person whose blood does not coagulate properly: medical coll.: C.20. (As a person suffering from haemophilia, bleeder is S.E.)—6. 'There are numerous instances where veins enter and run distinctly through reefs ... in cases of this sort veins are called "bleeders"' (Tom Kelly, Life in Victoria, 1859): Aus. goldminers': mid-C.19–20.

bleeding. A low coll. intensive adj. of little meaning; its import is emotional, not mental. (Rarely used as a euph. for bloody.) From ca. 1857 (OED Sup.). Besant & Rice in Son of Vulcan, 1877, 'When he isn't up to one dodge he is up to another. You make no bleeding error.' Cf. bleed (n.) and bleeder, qq.v.—2. Prob. independent is its usage in bleeding cully, q.v. and in Dryden's An Evening's Love, 1661, at IV.i, 'the folly of a bleeding gamester'. (Moe.) P.B.: both ex bleed, v., 2.

bleeding, adv. (From the adj.) Intensive: approximately 'much' or 'very': since ca. 1870. Sessions, 8 Jan. 1884, 'If you don't bleeding well let me go.'

bleeding cully. An easy victim; a ready parter with money: late C.17—late 19 c. (Grose, 1st ed.) Ex bleed, v., 2.

bleeding new. Quite new; fresh: mid-C.18—early 20: coll. (Grose, 3rd ed.) Ex fish, which do not bleed when stale.

bleeper. A small radio-activated warning device, carried in the pocket by people who may be instantly summoned in an emergency, as nurses, fireman, duty rescue crews, etc.: among such people: late 1970s. From the 'bleeping' sounds that the device emits when activated. (P.B.)

Blenburgher. A Blenheim bomber aircraft: RAF: 1940 + (Jackson.) A blend of Blenheim and (ex the resemblance to a gigantic sausage) hamburger.

bless 'em all! A Services (esp. Army) c.p., used derisively when one was particularly annoyed by, or 'fed up' with, one's superiors: since ca. 1917. Ex a famous song of the British Army in 1914–18. (P-G-R.) A euph., of course, for fuck 'em all!

bless my (or me) soul!; 'pon my (or me) soul!; etc. A mild asseveration: coll. and dial.: the farmer, C.19–20; the latter, C.15–20, but S.E. till C.19.

bless (one)self. Ironical for curse: from ca. 1600; coll. After ca. 1800, S.E. 'How my Lord Treasurer did bless himself' (Pepys in his diary, 1 Apr. 1665). Also, to bless another: to reprimand, scold, curse, curse at him: coll. > S.E.; C.19–20.

bless (one)self with, not a (penny, shilling, etc.) to. Penniless: from ca. 1550: coll. till ca. 1800, then S.E. Dickens has it. 'In allusion to the cross on the silver penny ... or to the practice of crossing the palm with a piece of silver' (SOD). In fact a proverbial phrase, recorded in 1540, runs: not a cross [coin] to bless oneself with (Apperson).

bless (one's) stars. To consider oneself lucky: coll.:—1845 (Hood).

bless the world with (one's) heels. To be hanged: coll.: ca. 1560–1650. Painter, Palace of Pleasure.

bless you! A coll. benediction or a fervent 'Thank you': C.19–20. (L.L.G., 23 Aug. 1823; Moe.) In the latter sense, a vogue phrase of the late 1970s. (P.B., 1979.)

bless your little belly! Addressed to a child zestfully eating a lot of food: lower-middle-class c.p.: ca. 1890–1940. (L.A.)

bless your (little) cotton socks! Thank you!: a middle-class c.p., dating from ca. 1910; by 1960, archaic. Also in the form bless your little heart and cotton socks. Moreover, the two phrases often express no more than affection. P.B.: archaic or not—the phrase survives, early 1980s; may also be bless his (her, their) little ...

blessed, blest. As euph., S.E.; as irony, coll.: C.19–20. Cf. bless oneself. But blessed if I do = I certainly won't, is 'pure' coll.; from ca. 1880.

blessing. A small surplus of goods given by a huckster: late C.18–19; coll. (Grose, 2nd ed.) Extant in dial.—2. A bottle of whisky given to the pilot as he left a ship: nautical coll.: C.19. Bowen.

blather, occ. blather. Vapid or noisy talk; voluble nonsense: coll. from ca. 1840. The term is ex Scottish and Northern dial. and was orig. (M.E.)—and still is—a v. Blather is the earlier form, but its use in coll. English is owing to US influence. Edward Yates, in Broken to Harness, 1864: 'There's a letter ... from Sir Mordaunt ... promis'n' all sorts of things; but I'm sick of him and his blather.' W. Clark Russell, 1884: 'Mrs. O'Brien was blathering about the pedigree of the O'Briens.' Pall Mall Gazette, 3 May 1886: 'Havelock's florid adjunctions to his men, the grim veterans of the 78th, bluntly characterised as blather.' Hence blathering, vbl n. and adj., in exactly corresponding senses: dial. >, ca. 1860, coll.

blathering. A var. of blithering, q.v.: coll.: from ca. 1914. OED Sup.

blatherskite, occ. blatherskite. The former is the Scottish, the latter the American form: orig. (C.17), Scottish dial.; > popular in US in 1860s and coll. in England ca. 1870.

blew. To inform on, expose: mid-C.19–20, ob. H., 1st ed. Cf. blow upon.—2. To cause to disappear; spend, waste: from ca. 1850: gen. of money, as in blew one's screw, squander one's wages or salary. ?ex idea of sending into the sky (W.). Sporting Times, better known as The Pink Un, 29 June 1889: 'Isabel and Maudie knew the Turf and all its arts—/They had often blewed a dollar on a wrong 'un—/And Isabel one evening met a mug from rural parts,/An attenuated Juggins, and a long 'un.—3. A var. of blue, v., 6: c.: mid-C.19–20. B. & L.

blew it. To inform to the police: c.:—1839 (Brandon); ob. by 1930.

blewed. See blued.

bllick. See WESTMINSTER SCHOOL, in Appendix.

blim! See blim(e)y! (C.J. Dennis.)

blig. A town boy: schoolboys': C.20. Ex Northern dial. Ex dial. blig, a blackguard, a cad. EDD.

blighted. Euph. for bloody: coll.: C.20. Manchon.

blighter. A contemptible person (rarely of a woman): from ca. 1896. A euph. (perhaps on blithering) for bugger (W.). But, adds P.B., it need not be a euph., for one who does in fact cast a blight on his surroundings and company.—2. A 'Jonah' actor: theatrical (1898); ob. Ware.—3. A chap, fellow: C.20; ex joc. use of primary sense.

Blighty. England; home: military: recorded by OED Sup. for 1915, but in use in India for at least five years earlier. Ex Hindustani bilayati (Arabic wilayati), foreign, esp. European.—2. Hence, a wound taking one home: military: from 1915. Occ. blighty boy (1916).—3. Adj., as in Blighty leave, furlough to England: military: from 1916. See esp. OED Sup. B. & P., and Y. & B. (at blatty, an early form).—4. In roll on Blighty!: 'When this bloody war is over,/Oh! how happy I shall be': a military c.p. of 1916–18. (Manchon.)

Blighty bag. A small stuff-bag issued at the Casualty Clearing Stations, where soldiers were deprived of their kit and so had nothing in which to carry personal belongings: military: 1915–18. (F. & G.) Ex their 'manufacture' in Blighty.

Blighty hut. (One's) home: military: 1917–18. Cf. Blighty, 2.

Blighty one. A wound necessitating evacuation back to England: WW1. See Blighty, 2.

Blighty touch, have the. To be lucky: military: 1916–19. Cf. Blighty, 3.

blim(e)y, occ. blymy! Abbr. Gorblimy (God blind me)!: mostly Cockney: late C.19–20. B. & L.

blimey, adj. Sentimental; (likewise esp. of songs) sentimental and popular: theatrical, music halls': from ca. 1920. Maurice Lincoln, Oh! Definitely, 1933.

blimey Charley! A c.p. used to blow off pent-up emotions: NZ and Aus.: C.20. (B., 1941.) In Aus., also blimey Teddy! Blimey O'Reilly! Synon. with, and presumably deriving ex, Blind O'Reilly, q.v.: since ca. 1920.

blimp. 'A small non-rigid dirigible airship': 1915: military s. rapidly > coll., then j. Invented by Horace Shortt (OED Sup.; B. & P.); Shortt prob. 'telescoped' it ex 'B-type airship limp'. Whence:—2. Blimp, a retrograde, moronic Army officer (hence, civilian), pompous and inelastic: since ca. 1938. Aided and imm. generated by David Low's cartoon type, Colonel Blimp.

blind, n. The night time: C.19 coll. Hence to move in the blind, to do a 'moonlight flit', q.v.—2. A pretext: from ca. 1660. In C.18, coll.; thereafter, S.E.—3. Among printers, from ca. 1870, a paragraph mark, ¶; ex the filling-up of the 'eye' of the reversed P.—4. A (very) drunken bout: from ca. 1912. Ex blind drunk.—5. See blind baggage.—6. 'A grenade that did not explode and had to be disposed of by other means' (P-G-R.): Army coll.: 1939–45. 'Prob. a direct borrowing from Standard military Ger. Blindganger—a "dud" shell' (H.R. Spencer).

blind, v. To curse: soldiers' > gen.: from the late 1880s. Kipling: 'If you're cast for fatigue by a sergeant unkind,/ Don't grouch like a woman, nor crack on, nor blind.' Ex such curses as blind your eyes!—2. To go heedlessly, esp. of a motorist recklessly speeding: 1923 (OED Sup.).—3. To cheat (a person): c. or low: ca. 1815–40. (OED at nail, v., §8, c.)

blind, adj. In liquor; tipsy: C.17–18 c. (Cf. the S.E. blind-drunk.) The c. term has, in C.20, > slang, popularised during WW1.—2. See table-cloth, the.—3. As in the 'round' numbers in the game of housey-housey or tombola. See blind ten, and Blind Half...—4. Pej. (C.20), as in "I don't want a blind word out of either of you" (James Curtis, They Ride by Night, 1938).—5. (Cf. prec. sense.) Complete; utter: Anglo-Irish coll.: late C.19–20. Desmond O'Neill, Life Has No Price, 1959, "I never thought to see the day when a blind stranger wud turn a gun on me in me own mountains".—6. See go it blind; and when the devil is blind.

blind alley. The pudendum muliebri: low: C.19–20. Cf. the Fr. cul-de-sac.

blind along, v.i. To drive very fast and recklessly: since ca. 1925. Ex blind, v., 2.

blind as a brickbat. Lit. and fig., exceedingly blind: coll. verging on S.E. (Dickens, 1850.) Ex the C.17–20 S.E. blind as a bat. Cf. the idiomatic blind as a beetle, as a buzzard, as a mole.

blind as Chloe. Utterly drunk. see Chloe.

blind baggage. On a train it is a baggage car, as in the quot'n: Can. tramps': C.20. 'At each end of the coach,' says W.A. Gape, in Half a Million Tramps, 1936, 'is a curtained-off part which is used for passing from one coach to another on a corridor train. This is known as the "Blind". The "Blind" facing the back end of the engine is unused, and so provides a small space which affords a good foothold and good protection from the wind.' See esp. Underworld.—2. A purse or wallet: pickpockets': since ca. 1950. Gavin Weightman's valuable article, "'God lets me pickpocket"', in New Society, 7 July 1977.

blind bit of notice (of), not to take a. To be oblivious; to disregard utterly: coll.: C.20.

blind Bob. See old blind Bob.

blind buckler. A wooden plug that, for use with hawse-pipes, has no passage for the cable: nautical coll. verging on j.: late C.19–20. Bowen.

blind cheeks. The buttocks: late C.17—early 20; after ca. 1800, coll. Recorded first in B.E., who adds 'Kiss my Blind-cheeks, Kiss my Ar—'; Grose, 2nd ed., has 'Buss blind cheeks: kiss mine a-se.' Cf. blind Cupid. The same: low: ca. 1810–60. Lex. Bal.

blind country. 'Closed-in country of colourless type and of little worth' (B., 1959). Aus. coll.: C.20.

blind Cupid. See blind cheeks.

blind date. An arrangement to meet an unknown member of the opposite sex: adopted, ca. 1942, ex US: by 1960, coll.

blind dragon. A chaperon: middle and upper classes':—1923 (Manchon); ob. by late 1930s.

blind drunk. Very drunk: from late C.18: coll. >, ca. 1890, S.E. In The Night Watch, 1828, and see the quot'n at nab the bib. Cf. blind, adj., 1.

blind eye. The podex: low: C.18—early 20. Cf. blind cheeks.

blind fart. A noiseless but particularly noisome breaking of wind: low: late C.19–20.

blind Freddie would see it or even blind Freddie wouldn't miss it. Aus. c.p., imputing the obvious: since ca. 1930. (B., 1953.) The origin is prob. anecdotal. 'There is supposed to have been a real blind Freddy in Sydney, but nobody remembers him' (Ross Campbell, Bulletin, 8 Dec. 1976).

blind guard. A guard-post invisible from the central watch-house (and therefore popular): coastguardsmen's coll.: C.19. Bowen.

Blind Half Hundred (occ. Hundredth), the. The Fiftieth Regiment of Foot: from ca. 1881 the 1st Battalion of the Royal West Kents. H., 3rd. ed., says ex the ophthalmia common in the Egyptian campaign, 1801. Hence, from ca. 1890 in the game of house, '50'. (See TOMBOLA, in Appendix.) The regiment was also known as The Dirty Half-Hundred, q.v., and The Gallant Fiftieth, q.v.—2. By some of the troops in 1914–18 it was applied to anti-aircraft batteries: they seemed to be firing 'blind' and at random.

blind harper. A beggar that, counterfeiting blindness, plays the harp or the fiddle: late C.17–18 c. B.E.; Grose.

blind Hookey (or hookey). A great risk: non-aristocratic: from early C.19—early 20. The Night Watch, 1828, II, 147, 'the blind-hookey system'; Ware, 1909, has "'Oh, it's Blind Hookey to attempt it.'" From a card game.'

blind inches. The longitudinal difference between penis erectus and penis quiescens: raffish: late C.19–20. Cf. Old blind Bob.

blind man (occ. officer, reader). One who deals with 'blind', i.e. imperfectly or indistinctly addressed, letters: from ca. 1864. S. > coll. > j. SOD.

blind man's holiday. Night, darkness: late C.16–17. From 1690, the gloaming: early examples occur in B.E. and Swift. Coll.; in late C.19–20, S.E.

blind monkeys to evacuate, lead the. A C.19–20 (ob.) coll., implicative of a person's inability to do any worth-while job. Apparently from ca. 1840 and in ref. to the Zoological Gardens: see H.

Blind O'Reilly! A coll. expletive: mostly Army: C.20. Gerald Kersh, Bill Nelson, 1942, 'The moment the place opens, in they dash. Blind O'Reilly! it's like a gold rush.' Ex some legendary figure, some obscure piece of folklore. 'He was, they say, a Liverpool docker trade-unionist ca. 1910' (Frank Shaw).

blind out. To obliterate with paint or distemper: builders' coll.: C.20. Hence, bug-blinding, a rough distemping of cellars or slum property: builders': C.20. (A master builder: 5 Dec. 1953.) See also bug-blinding.

blind pig. A speakeasy: Can. (from US): since ca. 1921: c. until ca. 1929, then s.—as in G.H. Westbury, Misadventures in Canada, 1930. In Aus., 'a house or shop where liquor may be bought after hours' (B., 1942).

blind roller. A single, unexpected big sea in calm weather: nautical coll.: mid-C.19–20. Bowen.

blind side. The weakest, most assailable side: Chapman, 1606. Coll.; S.E. in C.19–20.

blind stabbing. Blind flying: Aus. airmen's: since ca. 1940. (B., 1943.) Cf. stab, n., 2.

blind stagers. Excessive tipsiness: Aus.: C.20. Baker.

blind swiping. See swiping.

blind ten, twenty, thirty. 10, 20, 30 (etc.) in the game of house: military: C.20. (B. & P.) Ex the noughts: having only one '0' or eye. See also Blind Half...; and TOMBOLA, in Appendix.

blind white cripples. Supply officers: Royal Navy: 1960s. 'The Supply & Secretariat Branch used to have white distinguishing lace between their gold stripes' (Peppitt). blind with science. To explain away an offence, etc., by talking at length and very technically, in the hope that one's interlocutor may be so bemused that he will not pursue the matter: Army: since ca. 1940. Cf.:-

blinded with science. A c.p. applied to brawn defeated by brains: Aus. and NZ: C.20. Ex boxing: 'it arose when the scientific boxers began, ca. 1880, to defeat the old bruisers' (Julian Franklyn).

blinder. 'A huge, curling wave' before the pre-1913 deepening of the channel at Durban: mostly Durban: late C.19-early 20. Pettman.—2. A cyclist who does not go in for flirting: opp. of poodler, q.v.—3. (Mostly in pl.) A bad cigar; a rank cigarette: Cockneys': C.20.—4. 'A dazzling display of skill, especially in sport' (A. Buzo, 1973): Aus., since ca. 1935; also British, since 1940s at latest: as in 'Cor! You should've seen him—he really played a blinder' (P.B.).—5. In take a blinder, to die: c.: mid-C.19-early 20. I.e. take a blind leap into the dark.—6. (Usu. pl.) A 'Wild Woodbine' cigarette: London schoolchildren's: 1930s. (Miss Barbara Martin, 1982.) Perhaps a var. of gasper, any cigarette.

blinders, adj. and n. Blind drunk; a being very drunk indeed: Oxford undergraduates': since ca. 1930. Marples, 2. blindman's buff. 'Snuff. A pinch of the blindman's' (Red Daniells, 1980): rhyming s.: later C.20.

blindo, n. A drunken spree or bout: low: ca. 1860-1910. Cf. wido.—2. Hence, tipsy: military: C.20. F. & G.—3. A sixpenny piece: C.20 vagrants' c. Cf. broad, n.

blindo, v. To die: ca. 1860-1910. Military: perhaps on dekkko, q.v., and cf. blinder, 5.

blindy-eyes and goat-heads. Large thorns: Aus. juvenile: since ca. 1925. B., 1953.

blink. A light: c.: ca. 1820-70. Egan's Grose.—2. Shortening of bit of blink, a drink.—3. A cigarette-stump: military, C.20; also Aus., since ca. 1918. (F. & G.) It caused one to do so in smoking it.—4. In like a blink, immediately; in but a moment: coll.: earlier C.20. E. Phillips Oppenheim, The Strange Boarders of Palace Crescent, 1935, 'Must have died like a blink.' Prob. on like winking or in a flash.—5. In on the blink, acting as a look-out man in, e.g., a burglary: Aus. c.: since ca. 1920. B., 1943.—6. In on the blink, out of order; esp. applied to mechanism: RAF, from ca. 1942, thence into gen. use, adopted ex US; Aus. since ca. 1944, and by 1950, in gen. s. use.

blink-fencer. A seller of spectacles: mid-C.19-20 (ob.) c. (H., 1st ed.) Ex blinks = blinkers; see blinks, 1, and fence(r). blink-pickers. Cigarette butts picked up from the gutter or pavement: Aus. low: C.20 (B., 1942.) Cf. blink, 3.

blinker. The eye (1816, ob.); pl, spectacles: coll. > S.E.: from ca. 1730. Hence, in blink your blinkers!, damn your eyes!: joc. euph.: late C.19-early 20.—2. A hard blow in the eye: C.19.—3. A blackened eye: Norwich s. (—1860); t. H., 2nd ed.—4. A chap, fellow: late C.19-20 dial. > C.20 s. Cf. blighter, bleeder, and blinking, prob. its effective origin.

blinking. A verbal counter, indicating mild reprobation or mere excitement: from ca. 1890. 'Prob. for blinking, euphemism for bleeding, with vowel thinned as in bilk' (W.).

blinko. An amateur entertainment—gen. held at a 'pub': c.: from ca. 1870; ob. Perhaps because it makes one blink; in form, cf. blindo.

blinks. A pair of spectacles: c.:—1845; ob.—2. One who blinks: a coll. nickname: C.17-20.—3. Eyes: Cockneys': from ca. 1870. Graham Seton, Pelican Row, 1935.

blip, n. 'The projection of light seen in a cathode-ray tube' (John Bebbington): electricians' (since ca. 1930), hence RAF (since ca. 1939). Related to the echoic bleep, the sound made by Asdic; both senses were, by 1960, common among civilian flying personnel.—3. A snub: schools', esp. girls': 1930s. (Angela Thirkell, Summer Half, 1937.) Perhaps ex A.A. Milne's Bad Sir Brian Botany, who 'went among the villagers and blipped them on the head', in When We Were Very Young, 1924 (P.B.).

blip, v. To switch an aeroplane engine on and off: RFC/RAF: from 1915. (F. & G.) Blend ex blink up; or a perversion of flip.—2. To tap: see quot'n at blip, n., 3, which gave rise to some gen. usage.

blip-ol! A derisive cry at a boat's coxswain colliding with anything: Worcester training-ship: late C.19-20. Bowen.

blister, n. 'The anti-torpedo bulge in a man-of-war': RN: C.20. Bowen.—2. An objectionable person: Public Schools': C.20. (Ian Hay, The Lighter Side of School Life, 1914.) Prob. ex Northern Ireland, where it has been in use from before 1898 (EDD). Semantically it is to be compared with blistering, q.v.—3. Flat protuberance which, on an aircraft, lies above and below the fuselage and encloses a gun position: RAF: since ca. 1925: coll. >, by 1942, j. H. & P.—4. A police-court summons: c. (—1903) >, by 1944, low s. It stings a professional's pride. (See Underworld.)—5. A mortgage: Aus.: C.20. Vance Palmer, Legend for Sanderson, 1937.—6. Sister: Aus. rhyming s.: since ca. 1920. 'Not very common' (B.P.); a rare form of rhyming s.—7. 'Official request to driver for information regarding a train which had come in late ... If the train was more than two minutes late at the terminus, the driver would be issued with a form asking the reason for the late arrival' (McKenna, Glossary), railwaymen's: since (?) mid-C.19. Also known as a skin. Cf.:- blister, v. To punish moderately; to fine: proletarian: from 1890; ob. Ware.—2. To thrash: C.20; ob. A.H. Dawson.

blister it, them, etc. Blast it, them!: euph. coll.: 1840, H. Cockton.

blistering. A euph. for bloody: coll.: C.20. Manchon.

blithered. Topsy: Aus.: since ca. 1910. K.S. Prichard, The Black Opal, 1921.

blitherer. A silly fool: coll.: C.20. (P.G. Wodehouse, Mike, 1909.) Ex:-

blithering (gen. with idiot). Volubly nonsensical; hence merely 'arrant': coll. (1889) >, by 1930, S.E. (OED Sup.) 'Thinned form of ... blether, with vowel perhaps suggested by drivelling' (W.).

blithero. Topsy: RN var. of blithered: C.20. 'Taffrail', The Man from Scapa Flow, 1933.

blitz. A bombing by aircraft; hence, v., to aircraft-bomb (a place): 140, esp. in the London blitz (Sep. 1940-May 1941). 'The word that has received the greatest currency at home and abroad is blitz, as noun and verb' (Lester V. Berrey, 'English War Slang', Nation, 9 Nov. 1940). Ex Ger. Blitz, lightning, and Blitzkrieg, that lightning warfare which Germany conducted in April-June 1940.—2. Derivatively, a severe reprimand, to reprimand severely: 1941, orig. military: cf. strafe, n., 3, and v., 3.—3. 'The spring-clean which takes place when important officials are expected' (H. & P.): Services': since late 1941.—4. Hence, the brief, thorough, intensive campaign, as by the police, to enforce a law or a regulation: since ca. 1945.—5. Hence, also, a concentration of maximum effort, as in 'The C.O. has ordered a blitz on weapon training this month': Services': since ca. 1945. (P.B.)—6. In a solid lump of blitz, 'A large close-flying formation of enemy aircraft' (Partridge, 1945): RAF: WW2. Ex sense 1.—7. See TIDDLYWINKS, in Appendix.

blitz buggy. An ambulance; but also any fast transport vehicle: orig. RAF: 1941-5. (H. & P.) By 1944 its 'ambulance' sense was, in the RAF, almost official. As 'a fast utility truck or lorry', it reached Australia ca. 1944. Jock Marshall and Russell Drysdale, Journey among Men, 1962: 'The drivers often found it hard to get their big blitz-buggies between the trees and the termite hills'.—2. Any automobile. See CANADIAN ADOLESCENTS', in Appendix.

blitz flu. Influenza caused by, or arising, during 'the Blitz': 1940. (Berrey.) See blitz.

blitz it. To 'get a move on': Cape Town University: 1940+; ob. Cape Argus, 4 July 1946.

blitz-ridden. 'Damaged beyond repair' (H. & P.): since 1941: ob. by 1946. See blitz.

blitz wag(g)on. An Aus. var. of blitz buggy in its secondary sense: since ca. 1941. Kylie Tennant, The Honey Flow, 1956, where also in elliptical form blitz (since ca. 1945).

blizzard. A sharp or stunning blow; an overwhelming argument, a severe reprimand. Coll.: orig. (—1830), US; anglicised ca. 1875, but ob. by 1930. See esp. F. & H.

blizzard collar. A woman's high stand-up collar: Society: 1897, Daily Telegraph, 16 Jan; † by 1920. Ware, 'Suggestive of cold weather'.

bloak. See bloke.

bloat. 'A drowned body. (2) A drunkard. (3) A contemporary term applied indiscriminately to anybody' (A.H. Dawson): †error for bloater. Late C.19–20.

bloated. A lower-classes' euph. for bloody: C.20. Manchon. bloated aristocrat. Any man of rank and wealth: coll.; from ca. 1850, though adumbrated in 1731. Thackeray, 1861: 'What a bloated aristocrat Thingamy has become since he got his place!' In C.20 the term is bloated plutocrat, which when used seriously in S.E.; when joc., coll.

bloater. A B.E.8 aircraft: RFC: 1914–15. F. & G.—2. A torpedo: RN: from ca. 1915.—3. A person, usu. male, both gross and unfair: S. African: mid-C.20. (James Tregay, 1963.) Contrast:—4. In my bloater, vocative to a man's male friend: Cockneys': from ca. 1880 (B. & L.); later, early C.20: my darling, my man: low. Manchon. Cf.:—5. In mild bloater, a little dandy, a dandy of no account: low: early C.20. Manchon.—6. See my prick's a bloater.

bloats, the. Bloated plutocrats: since ca. 1890; ob. by 1930 and † by 1950. Maxwell Gray, The Great Refusal, 1906.

blob, n. A 'duck's egg': cricket: coll.: 1898, says Ware; 1934, W.J. Lewis, 'From the cipher 0 placed against his name on the score-sheet'; ultimately ex blob, a blot, a shapeless mass.—2. A glass of beer: military; C.20. F. & G.—3. Patter or beggars' tales: vagrants' c. (—1861). Mayhew. Cf. blob, v., 1.—4. A term of abuse; e.g., 'You ugly blob!': late 19–20.—5. A fool, an incompetent: Aus.: since ca. 1910. B., 1943.—6. (Usu. in pl.) A mine-net float: naval: WW2. P-G-R.—7. A gonorrhoeal ulcer: low: C.20. Cf. blob, v., 2.—8. The indicative verb, esp. as used in advertising: since ca. 1930.—9. A jellyfish: nautical: C.20. D. Butcher, Trawlermen, 1980, glossary.—10. In make a blob (1903: OED Sup.), get a blob (1905: W.J. Lewis), to make no score at cricket: ex sense 1. Used fig., to make nothing: coll.: from ca. 1905; ob. by 1950.—11. In be on blob, (of men) to be much excited, sexually: low: C.20.—12. 'A drink of sweet Australian white wine, hot water, and sugar' (Ray Gosling, Listener, 22 July 1982): N. Country.—13. See:— blob, v. To talk, esp. if indiscriminately; to 'patter': from ca. 1850; c. Same period: on the blob, by talking (Mayhew, 1851). Ex blab.—2. Often be blobbing, i.e. dripping, to suffer from a venereal disease: perhaps mostly Services': ca. 1930–60. Cf. blob, n., 7.

blob-stick. 'A stick with paper- or cloth-covered end used by the instructor to show where shots fell on the ground during miniature-range practice. The practice itself' (P-G-R): Royal Artillery coll.: C.20.

block, n. A person either stupid or hard-hearted: C.16–20; coll. until ca. 1660, then S.E. Early examples are offered by Udall (in Ralph Roister Doister), Shakespeare, Jonson. Cf. deaf, dull, etc., as a block.—2. The head: C.17–20. (Shirley, ca. 1637.) By 1970s ob., except in the cliché threat 'to knock someone's block off'. In Aus. and NZ, to use (one's) block = to use one's common sense; to act sensibly, hence to act intelligently: C.20. Arthur Gray cites Frank Sargeson, A Man and His Wife, ca. 1940. (Cf. Eng. use (one's) loaf.) Contrast lose or do in (one's) or the block, or do (one's) block, to become angry, excited, diffident: Aus.—1916 (C.J. Dennis, who has also keep the block, to remain dispassionate); by 1918 also NZ (Slatter). Cf. the later synon. do (one's) nut, and keep (one's) cool. F. & G. list off (one's) block, panicky; crazy; occ., angry: late C.19—early 20.—3. In Scottish c., a policeman: recorded for 1868 (Ware), but prob. from ca. 1860.—4. 'The young lady of fine shape who in the mantle department tries on for the judgment of the lady customer' (Ware): linen-drapers' coll.: early C.20.—5. 'Black market term for ounce of hashish (resin)' (Home Office): drugs' world, current 1970s.—6. In do the block (or B-), to promenade: 1869, Marcus Clarke: Melbourne s. >, by 1890, gen. Aus. coll. Ex the fashionable block of buildings in Collins Street between Swanston and Elizabeth Streets. Morris.—7. Hence, in on the block, promenading: Aus. coll.: 1896 (Argus (Melbourne), 17 July).—8. In put the block on; the block goes on, to put a stop to (something); something is stopped, or comes to an end: low: since ca. 1920. (Norman.) Tempest has blocks in this sense.—9. See chip of the ...; cut a block ...; barber's block; blocks.

block, v. To coit with a woman: low: since ca. 1890.—2. (Usu. block a pub.) To occupy, or remain, long in: non-U.—1909 (Ware, 'Gen. said of a sot').—3. To stand (someone) a drink: low, ca. 1830–90. Sessions, Aug. 1864.—4. To get the better of; to fool: Aus.: since ca. 1930. Mary Durack, Keep Him My Country, 1955. "'Take this boy Job—look at his features, and smart—you can't block him! Smartest race in the world, the Jews.'"—5. See blocking; and:— block a hat. 'To knock a man's hat down over his eyes' (H., 3rd ed.): from ca. 1860. Perhaps ex block, the head.

block and fall. Irritably drunk: Anglo-Irish: C.20.

block-buster. A heavy bomb 'powerful enough to flatten a city block' (Claiborne): RAF and journalistic coll.: since ca. 1942. Jackson.—2. Hence, usu. written solid, n. and adj., anything that makes a considerable impact; e.g., 'a blockbuster novel' or 'this film is a blockbuster': since late 1940s, and, by 1960, coll. (P.B.)

block-house. A prison: ca. 1620–1840, but not gen. before late C.18. (B.E. considers it to be c.) Earlier, S.E.: a fort; cf. WW1 usage.

block it. To get 'stoned' (intoxicated) on drugs: addicts': since mid-1960s. (Groupie, 1968.) Cf. blocked.

block of ice. (Of a bookmaker) to abscond: low rhyming s.: C.20. (Franklyn, Rhyming.) On s. shice, to abscond. Hence:—block of ice mob. Welshers: c.: C.20. (F.D. Sharpe, 1938.) Rhyming shice mob: see shice, the.

block-ornament, blocker. A small piece of inferior meat displayed on a butcher's block: coll.: from ca. 1845; slightly ob.—2. A queer-looking person: from ca. 1860; †.—3. 'My mother [born late 1860s] used this phrase for a person who stood in the way, or stood [about] when he could better have been doing something, or for one who stood abstracted [and like] a block ornament' (L.A., 1976): Londoners': say, ca. 1840–1914. Cf. the (?)Northern contemptuous 'He's neither use nor ornament!'

blocked. Much-exhilarated by drugs: drug addicts', esp. teenagers': since ca. 1950. Cf. block it. P.B.: 'Blowers [glue-sniffers] often use the 1960s pillhead word "blocked" to describe being high on glue—and that is literally its effect: it blocks out everything' (Time Out, 8 Jan. 1982, p. 15).

blocker. A bowler hat: mainly stores and hatters': C.20. John Brophy, Waterfront, 1934.—2. See block-ornament.

blocker-man. A foreman: Liverpool, esp. dockers': C.20. Ex blocker, 1, his badge of office. (Frank Shaw.) blocking. (Parliamentary) the preventing or postponing of a bill being passed, esp. of its being voted-on after 12.30 at night: 1884; coll. > j. > S.E. SOD.

blocks. "'I'm just about two-blocks, Jack" is as much as to say, "I'm fed up to the teeth." When two blocks of a purchase are drawn together, they cannot move any further' (Granville): RN: since ca. 1930. Cf. chocker.

blog. A servant-boy in one of the houses: Rugby Schoolboys': from ca. 1860. A perversion of bloke.—2. Hence, a common boy of the town: id.: C.20. Cf.:

blog, v. To defeat: Rugby Schoolboys': C.20.

bloke; in mid-C.19, occ. bloak. Occ. contemptuous; occ. a term of address among sailors. A man; a chap, fellow (—1839). Until ca. 1860, c.; until ca. 1900, low. Pre-1870 examples: Brandon (in 'Ducange Anglicus'), Mayhew, Sala, Kingsley, Ouida, Miss Braddon, James Greenwood. The nuance 'a cabman's customer' occurs in Sessions, Oct. 1848. The word continues, in the late 1970s, to have a very wide currency, akin to the US guy.—2. A lover ('Sally and her bloke', Ware): from ca. 1880. Hence, perhaps:—3. The passive male in a homosexual partnership: RN: C.20.—4. A book-grubber; swot; an 'outsider': universities': late C.19–early 20. Ware.—5. As the bloke, the commander of one's ship: RN: late C.19–20. (Musings, ca. 1912.) The word in every sense is perhaps ex Dutch blok, a fool, or (via Roman) ex Hindustani, loke, a man; Weekley thinks that it derives ex Shelta (Irish tinkers' c.). Note, however, the slightly earlier gloak, q.v.: though, of course, gloak may well derive ex Shelta. bloke, v. To be that officer whom a specified batman tends: military: from ca. 1910. Blaker, 'The Major was to "bloke" the officer for Riding.' Ex bloke, a batman's word for the officer he tends. Contrast bat, v.: q.v.

bloke out (of) the Warwicks. 'Old whatsisname'. See Warwicks, 2.

bloke with the jasey, the. The judge: c. or low s.:—1874 (H., 5th ed.) Ex bloke, 1.

bloke, n. The male sex in general and bachelors in particular' (B., 1941): NZ and Aus.: C.20. See bloke.

blokey. A familiar form of bloke, 1: ca. 1835–90. A Comic English Grammar, 1841. (Dr Niels Haisland.)

blonchies. See blanchies.

blonde job. 'A fair-haired member of the W.A.A.F.' (H. & P.): RAF: since 1940.

Blondie or Blondy. The inseparable nickname of any fair-haired man: RN: since ca. 1925. P-G-R.—2. As blondie, -y. A blonde girl: non-aristocratic and non-cultured coll.: since ca. 1925.

blone. A harlot. A corruption of blowen, q.v. Egan's Grose. blonk on, have a. To be wearing a dull, stupid look: since ca. 1930. Perhaps ex blonked, a var. of blanked, q.v.

blood. A fast or a foppish man: C.16–early 19, coll. Now literary and archaic.—2. University and Public Schools': a senior held to be a setter of fashion and manners: from ca. 1880.—3. Hence, a passenger favourably regarded: ships' stewards': C.20 (Bowen.) But on those freighters which carry only a few passengers, the passengers are, by officers and crew alike, called the bloods, 'short for bloody nuisances' (Val Gielgud, A Necessary End, 1969): since ca. (?)1950.—4. Money: coll.: C.18–19.—5. A wallflower: low, mostly London: late C.19–20; slightly ob. Ware. Cf. bug, n., 3: likewise ex the colour.—6. 'Penny dreadfuls, or "bloods"', as the sailor-boys call them...' (Goodenough, 1901): prob. goes back to ca. 1880.—7. Hence, any 'thriller': gen. public: from ca. 1918.—8. A third-class shot: military: late C.19–early 20. F. & G.—9. A blood orange: fruiterers' and grocers' coll.: late C.19–20.—10. In in, and out of, blood, vigorous; weak: hunting s. ex hunting j.: C.19–20.—11. See at least two annas; gnat's piss; young blood.

blood, v. Deprive of money: ca. 1860–1910. (Hawley Smart, 1884.) Cf. bleed.—2. To cause to bleed: Aus.: C.20. Leonard Mann, Mountain Flat, 1939, 'He heard the elder Galton boy say to Willy Sigbi, 'I'll blood yer snout' ...'

blood, adj. Fashionable; distinguished: Public Schools': late C.19–20. P.G. Wodehouse, Mike, 1909, 'You might think it was the blood thing to do to imitate him.' Ex blood, n., 2. blood alley. A white, or whitish, marble streaked with red: Aus. and NZ children's: late C.19–20. Adopted ex common English dialect.

blood and entrails (more gen., guts). The red ensign: nautical: late C.19–20. Bowen.

blood and guts alderman. A pompous man; a man with a large 'corporation': C.19.

blood and 'ouns! I.e. God's blood and wounds: C.18–19. blood and snot. The Spanish flag, red over yellow over red: MN: since ca. 1940. (Peppitt.)

blood and thunder. A mixture of port wine and brandy: ca. 1860–1910. Ex colour and effect, resp. (The phrase was orig. an oath.)

blood and thunder tales. Low-class, sensational over-adventurous fiction: ?orig. US; in England from ca. 1885. Coll. Cf. awfuls, penny dreadfuls, shilling shockers.

blood back, get (one's). To avenge a relative, a friend, by shooting down the enemy aircraft responsible for his death: RAF: WW2. H. & P.

blood ball. 'The butchers' annual hopser [sic], a very lusty and fierce-eyed function': London trade: late C.19–20; virtually †. (Ware.) Cf. bung-ball, q.v.

blood(-)bath. A big battle with heavy casualties: since ca. 1917. Copied from the Germans, who called the Battle of the Somme (1916), 'The Blood Bath'.

blood-boat. A tally-boat: RN: late C.19–20. Ex high prices charged.—2. A particularly hard sailing ship with a brutal afterguard: nautical coll.: mid-C.19–20. Bowen.

blood brothers. Two pals that have been on active service together: coll.: WW2; †.

blood chit. 'A ransom note supplied to pilots flying over possibly hostile territory in the East... Sometimes called "gooly chit" [q.v.]' (Jackson): RAF: since ca. 1920; by 1944, j.—2. Hence, since ca. 1925, 'any written authorisation supplied to any individual to cover him' (Jackson). Lit., a chit or note that saves his blood or life.

blood-curdler or -freezer. A thrilling, esp. a 'creepy' narration or incident: coll., from ca. 1870. Cf. blood-and-thunder tales, shilling shocker, thriller, and blood, n., 6 and 7.

blood for blood. In kind: tradesmen's, esp. in purchase and payment; from ca. 1780; ob. Grose, 2nd ed. (With deal.)

blood for breakfast! (, there's). A RN c.p. (late C.19–20) in ref. to the admiral's or captain's morning temper if it is bad. Bowen.

blood for breakfast – let alone tea, or else there'll be. A threat at gross inefficiency or at repeated irritation: a domestic adaption, since late 1940s, of the prec. A RN intensive is blood and fur, as recorded in John Laffin's instructive and entertaining Jack Tar, 1969. See also DCpp.

Blood-Hole, the. A Poplar theatre specialising in melodrama: East London: ca. 1880–1914. (Ware.) Cf. blood-tub, 1.

blood hound. A Bow Street officer: ca. 1815–40. Sessions, Dec. 1819 (p. 75).

blood in their boots. See boots, n., 7.

blood money. 'Used in WW1 by the Tommies on active service, in reference to the high wages given to the munition workers' (Petch): bitterly ironic—the workers' money, their own blood.

blood nose. "'Blood nose" is Australian for bleeding nose' (S.H. Courtier, Gently Dust the Corpse, 1960): coll.: dating from ca. 1930. Cf. blood, v., 2, q.v.

blood on the bullet. A musketry-instructors' c.p. intimating that a bullet should, if possible, have a fleshy billet: 1915; ob. F. & G.

blood or beer! A London streets' joc. c.p. = fight or pay for such refreshment!: ca. 1900–15. Ware.

blood-red fancy. A red silk handkerchief (—1839, ob.): boxing world. Brandon.

blood-stained. A C.20 (mainly post-WW1) facetious alternative, rarely euph., for bloody, adj. P.B.: also occ. blood-smear.

blood-stained angels (or niggers). Essendon footballers: Melbourne: since ca. 1910. (B., 1943.) Ex the colour of their jerseys?

blood-sucker. A lazy fellow involving his ship-mates in additional work: nautical coll.: since ca. 1810 or earlier. The Night Watch, 1828, II, 121, 'Every bloodsucker and skulker caught toko' (Moe).

Blood-Suckers. The Sixty-Third Regiment of Foot, now—and since ca. 1881—the 1st Battalion of the Manchester Regiment: military: from ca. 1860; ob. by 1930.

blood ticket. That 'chit' from a (usu. civilian) doctor which testifies to a rating's illness that has caused him to overstay his leave: RN: since ca. 1930. P-G-R.

blood-tub. A theatre 'specialising in the worst forms of blood-and-thunder melodrama, and generally gives two shows a night': Londoners': from ca. 1885; still extant ca. 1935. Applied orig. to a popular theatre in NW London.—2. A var. (RAF) cited by Jackson ('flying or earthbound'), of:- blood wag(g)on. An ambulance: orig. and mainly RAF: since ca. 1939. H. & P.

blood-worm. A sausage; esp. a black pudding: proletarian London: ca. 1850–1910. Ware.

bloodhouse. A public house notorious for brawls: Aus.: since ca. 1910. Dymphna Cusack, Southern Steel, 1953; Kylie Tennant, The Honey Flow, 1956.

Bloodless Lambs, the. The Bedfordshire Regiment, so called because in the Army List of the early 1880s it appeared as the only regiment without a distinction won in war; actually the regiment had fought in nine wars, and eventually—179 years late—it was awarded the battle honour 'Blenheim'. (Carew.) See also Peacemakers.

blood's worth bottling! (usu.) yer [your], or his, etc. An Aus. c.p., either of very warm approval or of hearty congratulation: since ca. 1950. 'To Nino Culotta, therefore, in thanks for this book, I say: "Thanks, mate. Yer blood's worth bottling!": conclusion of Russell Braddon's preface to the English ed. (1958) of They're a Weird Mob, 1957.

bloody, n. A bucket: Liverpool street arabs': app. ca. 1890–1914. (Arab.) 'Prob. from bucket used to fetch blood from abattoir for black-puddings' (Glyn Hughes, 1969).

bloody, adj. A low coll. intensive, orig., and still often, connoting detestation: from late C.17. Farquahar, Love and a Bottle, 1699, at III, ii (Moe); Sessions, May 1785 (p. 772), 'The prisoner, Fennell, swore an oath if he had a knife he would cut his bloody fingers off.' Egan, 1823, added 'Irish' to his gloss. During WW1, an adj. of all work, often used with a splendid disregard for congruity—and so it has continued. Ex and cf.:- bloody, adv. (In mid-C.17–18, gen. bloody drunk.) Also a low coll. intensive; = very. C.17–20, but respectable till ca. 1750. E.g., in Colley Cibber's The Refusal (1721), Act III, Frankly says to the girl he loves, 'We have known the late Grand Monarch lose many a battle; but it was bloody hard to beat him out of a Te Deum'. In C.17, there was an undertone of violence, in early C.18 (cf. blood, n., q.v.) of high but roistering birth: from ca. 1750, neutral ethically and socially, but (until ca. 1920, at least) objectionable aesthetically. Only since WW1 has it, in post-1800 days, been at all gen. written in full. There is no need for ingenious etymologies: the idea of blood suffices. For both adj. and adv., see F. & H., OED. Weekley's Adjectives and his Words Ancient and Modern, Robert Graves's Lars Porsena in the revised ed., and esp. my Words!; the last contains a 2,000-word essay on the subject.—2. It is often inserted, as in abso-bloody-lutely, hoo-bloody-rah, not bloody likely: C.20. Manchon.—3. Elliptical for bloody well, itself eligible as an intensive stop-gap adv. dating from late (mid-)C.19: lower-middle and lower classes': C.20. 'I don't care what you think! I won't bloody do it!'—'If he doesn't want a ride, he can bloody walk!'

bloody back. A soldier: pej.: late C.18—early 19. (Grose, 1st ed.) Ex the scarlet uniform. (And from the frequent floggings? P.B.)

bloody bucket. A black pudding: Liverpool street arabs' and other lower-class Liverpoolians': late C.19—earlyish 20. (Arab.) 'Probably from bucket used to fetch blood from abattoir for black puds' (the late Glyn Hughes, who kindly excerpted this rare book for me). Cf. bloody, n.

bloody carpet bags of, make. To mutilate, e.g. with a razor: imported (—1909) into Liverpool from US; ob. (Ware.) Many carpet bags are red.

Bloody Eleventh. The Eleventh Regiment of Foot, now—and since ca. 1881—the Devonshire Regiment: military: C.19–20, ob. Ex. the bloody battle of Salamanca in the Peninsular War; they had already suffered heavily at Fontenoy. Dawson.

bloody end to me!; I wish my bloody eyes may drop out if it is not true!; God strike me blind! Thieves' oaths recorded in Egan's Grose, 1823.

bloody flag. That single red flag which is the signal for close action: RN: C.19–20; ob. Bowen.

Bloody Forty (or b.f.), the. A criminal gang infesting the Liverpool Docks in the 1850s: nautical coll. It was 'broken up by Captain Samuels of the Dreadnought' (Bowen).

bloody jemmy. An uncooked sheep's head: ca. 1810–1914. (Vaux, 1812; H., 1st ed.) Also known as a sanguinary James and a mountain pecker.

Bloody King's. That red-brick church (St Mary's the Less) in Barnwell which resembles King's College Chapel in architecture: Cambridge University: late C.19–20. Cf. Bloody Mary's.

Bloody Mary. Queen Mary of England (d. 1558). Ex the persecutions she allowed. (This nickname soon > a historical and theological counter, a mere sobriquet of 'the Swan of Avon' type).—2. Tomato juice and vodka: pubs' and clubs': since ca. 1944.

Bloody Mary's. 'The red-brick church, St Paul's, resembling St Mary's in Cambridge, the University church' (F. & H. rev.) Cambridge University: late C.19–20.

bloody-minded. Obstructive, deliberately 'difficult', pig-headed, vindictive: coll. since 1930.—2. Hence (?) 'rebellious in consequence of some injustice' (Granville): RN: since ca. 1930. The noun, bloody-mindedness, has existed since the early 1930s.

bloody (or B.) Monday. The first day of vacation, set aside for the detention and punishment of offenders: schoolboys' (orig. Winchester): ca. 1670–1770. (OED.) Contrast black Monday.

Bloody Pirates. A good-natured South-Seas nickname for Burns, Philp & Co., the big steamship firm of the Pacific: C.20. Punning B.P.s, as they are also called.

bloody shovel. Generic for unnecessarily coarse speech: C.20. Ex the chestnut of the bishop who, to a workman asserting that he always called a spade a spade, replied that that was all right but that he thought the workman usually called it a bloody shovel.

bloodywell (cf. bloody, adv., 3, above) has, throughout C.20, merited, in Aus. at least, elevation from hyphenation to 'solidity'. On 22 May 1969, Barry Prentice wrote memorably thus: 'The great Australian adverb. Unfortunately this is the only adverb used by many Australians. I stepped [recently] into the bottle department of a suburban [Sydney] hotel to buy some beer and overheard a loud voice from the public bar—"I don't bloodywell swear and any fucking cunt who says I do is a bloody liar".' No comment.

bloodying, n. Cursing and swearing: mostly Services: since ca. 1937; ob. P-G-R.

bloomer. A mistake: Aus. and English:—1889 (B. & L.) Perhaps a 'blend' of blooming error.—2. A town where business is (very) poor: circusmen's: C.20. 'It's a "bloomer" to be there.'—3. A 'McConnell 2–2–2 locomotive with 7 ft. driving wheels (LNWR)': railwaymen's: since ca. 1950 (?). Railway, 2nd.—4. A Zeppelin: 1916–18 ('Taffrail' in Pincher Martin, 1916). Ex the ballooning shape of bloomers (E.P.); or the way they blossomed into flame when attacked with incendiary bullets (P.B.) bloomeration. Illumination: London illiterate: 1897; ob. and, prob., never gen. Ware.

blooming. (Occ. euph.—cf. bleeding—for bloody.) A mild intensive adj. and adv.; cf. bally, blinking. The SOD dates the earliest instance at 1882; the usage was foreshadowed early in C.18. Its popularity in the 1880s was owing largely to Alfred G. Vance, the comic singer.

Bloomsbury Birds. 'Hot-spirited recusants', the disciples of 'corner-miching priests': London ecclesiastical circles: ca. 1630–90. Hackett (whose phrases they are).

bloss, blowse. A wench; a low harlot: the former certainly c. always, the latter prob. a c. word at one period. These senses date from late C.17. Prob. ex blowse, 2, q.v., but not impossibly abbr. blossom. Cf. blower, q.v.—2. 'A Thief or Shop-lift', B.E.: c. of late C.17—early 19. Prob. an extension of sense 1.

blossom. A 'poetic' var. of either the prec. or blowen. It occurs in the anon. ballad, 'The Rolling Blossom', ca. 1800: low: ca. 1790—1850. (Moe.) blossom-faced, bloated; blossom-nose, a tippler: lower classes': mid-C.19—20; ob.

blot, the. The anus: low Aus.: since ca. 1930. 'He gave me a kick up the blot' (Dick.) blot (one's) copy book. A C.20 coll.: to make a mistake, a faux pas, a bad impression; to spoil one's record. Ex elementary school.

blot the scrip. To put in writing: mid-C.17—18; prob. c. Hence blot the scrip and jark it, to stand engaged; be bound for anyone: late C.17—18 c. Jark=a, or, seal.

blotch. Blotting-paper: Public Schools'; late C.19—20. (Ian Miller, School Tie, 1935.) Also in Yorkshire dial.—2. A term of abuse: from ca. 1925. Ian Hay, Housemaster, 1936.—3. Food: Anglo-Irish: since ca. 1945. Nigel Fitzgerald, The Student Body, 1958, 'Let's all go out and eat. You know even the smell of a cork makes me woozy and I must have blotch.'

blots. See COLSTON'S, in Appendix.

blotto, n. Strong liquor: army: WW1. Ex the next:

blotto, adj. Drunk: from ca. 1905. P.G. Wodehouse, of a drunken man, 'He was oiled, boiled, fried, plastered, whiffled, sozzled, and blotto.' Ex the porousness of blotting-paper, possibly suggested or influenced by Roman motto, intoxicated.

blouse or blousy suit. A singleton: card-players': C.20. 'He holds only a blouse (or a blousy suit).' Perhaps blouse derives from the other, and that other=bloody louse suit.

blouse suit. See green suit.

bloused. T had only the King (or any other card) bloused'=I had only a singleton King: Aus. card-players': C. 20. (Dr J.W. Sutherland, 1941.) Ex prec.

blouser. To cover up, to hide, to render nugatory', to mislead: ca. 1880—1914. Ex the Fr. workman's blouse. Ware, 'Probably in an anti-Gallican spirit'.

blousy suit. See blouse.

blow, n. In c., goods, esp. in bite the blow: late C.17—18. B.E., Grose.—2. A shilling: ca. 1870—1910, low.—3. A spree, drunken frolic: Oxford and Cambridge, ca. 1800—70.—4. A breathing-space: coll., C.19—20. Cf. get a blow, to get a breath of fresh air, or a considerable exposure to wind: from ca. 1890; coll.—5. A copulation: from the man's standpoint: C.20. Perhaps ex:—6. A harlot: c. or low s. (—1823); † by 1890. (Egan's Grose.) Abbr. blowen.—7. A warning; secret information: c.:—1926 (OED Sup.). Ex blow, v., 2.—8. (Also cold blow if esp. windy.) A taxi-cab rank: taxi-drivers': from ca. 1925. Ex the food or the rest one can get there.—9. A smoke; esp., a cigarette: c.: from ca. 1920. Gilt Kid.—10. A stroke with the hand shears: Aus. shearers': since ca. 1920. B., 1943.—11. A crater caused by demolition charges in a road; the corresponding v. blow= 'to blow up': army coll.: since ca. 1940. P-G-R.

blow, v. To fume, storm, speak angrily: C.16—20, coll. (OED.) In later C.19—20 the term, in its first two nuances, has, after nearly a century of obsolescence, been revived by contact with Australia and America, where, as 'to boast', it had—and has—a second life.—2. To inform, give information (v.t. absolute, in B.E., but gen. with up or upon, later on): from ca. 1570; S.E. till ca. 1660, coll. till C.19, then s. 'D—n me, if I don't blow... I'll tell Tom Neville' (Leigh Hunt: SOD).—3. The euph. blow (me!) is also used as a low joc. coll.= to curse, swear at (often with past tense blowed), v.i. and v.t.: an early example occurs in L.L.G., 27 Dec. 1823 (Moe). Occ. blow me tight!, † by 1920; blow me up!, current ca. 1780—1830 (George Parker), blow it!: mid-C.19—20 (cf. blast it!).—4. Spend, lose money: see blew.—5. University, occ. as go on the blow: to indulge in a spree: C.19.—6. Winchester College, C.19—20: to blush (a corruption or a var. of blue, q.v.).—7. To depart, quietly and quickly, esp. to abscond on bail: c.: C.20. Since ca. 1943, blow, to depart, has been ordinary s.—8. Also, v.i., to 'blow the gaff' (v.t. with to): c.: C.20. (Wallace, Room 13.) Cf. sense 2.—9. To open (a safe) by the use of powder: c.: late C.19—20. James Spenser, 1934.—10. To smoke (a pipe): since ca. 1840; ob. Sessions, Mar. 1848. 'I could... blow my "bacca"' (Henry Mayhew, The Great World of London, 1856). Short for blow a cloud.—11. To supercharge (car or aero engine): ppl adj., blown: since ca. 1925. Cf. blower, 7.—12. To masturbate: Borstals and detention centres: 1970s. Home Office.—13. To smoke marijuana: drug addicts': 1970s (Home Office). Adopted ex US, but cf. sense 10.

blow, get a. See blow, n., 4.

blow! Go away!: lower classes' (—1935). Ex blow, v., 7.

blow a cloud. To smoke a cigar or a pipe: coll., verging on S.E.: late C.18—19. (Tom Moore, 1819.) In late C.17—18, raise a cloud=to smoke a pipe.

blow a reed. To have (too) much to say: army: C.20; ob. by 1950 at latest. Poss. originated among bandmen.

blow a tank. To dynamite a safe: NZ c.: post WW1.

blow-along, roll-along tub. A full-lined sailing-ship: clipper-ship sailors' coll.: mid-C.19—20 ob. Bowen.

blow (one's) bags. To boast: Aus.,? mostly W.A.: C.20. (Tom Ronan, Only a Short Walk, 1961.) Ex bagpipes. Cf. S.E. blow one's own trumpet.

blow (one's) bazoo. To boast, 'show off': ca. 1870—1910. Ex Dutch bazu=bazuin, trumpet.

blow-book. A book containing indelicate pictures: C.18, coll. The Post Man, 8 June 1708.

blow (one's) cap. A beatnik var. of blow (one's) top: 1959+. Also blow (one's) lump.

blow cold. Usu. be blowing cold, to be cooling off in sexual ardour: coll.: since ca. 1910.

blow (one's) cool. To become nervous, (over-)excited; very angry: teenagers', addicts', drop-outs', etc., 1955—65, then fairly gen. (Janssen, 1976.) Cf. the always more gen. lose (one's) cool.

blow down (someone's) ear. To whisper to him: low: C.20. F.D. Sharpe, The Flying Squad, 1938; Powis, 1977.

blow (one's) dust. (Of male) to ejaculate semen: raffish: C.20. (L.A., 1978.)

blow great guns. To blow a violent gale. It occurs in the L.L.G., 28 June 1823, and may be either a shortening or the orig. form of the variants blow great guns and muskets (Fredk Chamier, The Life of a Sailor, 1832, at II, 33) or the occ. ... and small arms. Both these elaborations are now †, while the original form persists (1970s), though poss. ob. W.N. Glascock, The Naval Sketch-Book, 2nd series, 1834, at II, 175, has blow blunderbusses. All the citations are from Moe.

blow (one's) hide out. To eat heavily: low coll.:—1857 ('Ducange Anglicus'); ob. by 1930. Cf. blow-out, n., 1.

blow-hole. A very talkative person: Aus.: since ca. 1920. B., 1943.

blow hot and cold. To vacillate; be treacherous: mid-C.16—20; coll. till ca. 1800, then S.E.

blow-in, n. A newcomer, esp. one still unaccepted: Aus.: C.20. (B., 1942.) Ex the v.—2. A chance, or casual, visitor: Aus.: C.20. (B., 1943; Vince Kelly, The Shadow, 1955.) One who has 'blown in'.

blow in, v. To arrive; enter (v.i.); come; blow in on (a person), to visit. Coll.; C.20. From US.

blow (in) a bowl. To be a confirmed drunkard: C.16 (?early 17); coll. Barclay, 1515. OED.

blow in (one's) pipe. To spend money: low: ca. 1870—1920. Cf. blow, v., 4.

blow it!; blow me (tight)!; blow me up! See blow, v., 3; for 1st, see also blew it.

blow job. The woman of a pair engaged in 'soixante-neuf' would be 'doing a blow job': low: C.20.—2. A jet aircraft, as opposed to a piston job: RAF: since ca. 1960.—3. Fellatio (male and female): homosexuals': current ca. 1970. Ex 1.

blow me down! An expletive, orig. nautical: C.19–20.

blow (one's) mind. To have a hallucinogenic experience; drug addicts': since ca. 1962. It occurs in 'A day in the Life', a song included in the Beatles' album 'Sgt. Pepper's Lonely Hearts Club Band', released 1 June 1967. (Paul Janssen.)—2. Hence, to lose one's self-control: since ca. 1963. (Ibid.) Also used fig. in exaggeration, as in Adrian Reid, Confessions of a Hitch-Hiker, 1970, "Wait till they see you," Hardy chortled. "They'll really blow their minds." Both senses give rise to the adj. mind-blowing = amazing, astounding; media usage: 1970s.

blow my wig! A mild expletive, perhaps orig. naval: ca. 1800–70. It occurs in L.L.G. of 1823. (Moe.) Cf. dash my wig!

blow off. To break wind: perhaps orig. RN but common also as a euph. among women and children: C.20.

blow off my last limb (or wind!) I swear that's true: nautical coll.:—1887 (Baumann); ob. by ca. 1935.

blow off steam. To work, talk, swear, etc., hard, as a 'safety-valve': from ca. 1830; coll. Marryat.

blow off the line. To lose in a contest: military: WW1. F. & G.

blow off the loose corners. 'To Lie now and then with a Woman' (B.E.): c.: late C.17–mid-18. Cf. blow the ground-sels, q.v.

blow (someone) one out. See quot'n at cut off a slice of cake, 1.

blow-out, n. A heavy meal: from ca. 1820. (Bee; Scott, 1824.) Cf. blow one's hide out.—2. A lengthening of the odds: Aus. racing: since ca. 1925. B., 1953.—3. A puncture: cyclists' (and later, motorists') coll.: adopted, ca. 1930, ex US.—4. In give (someone) the blow-out, to get rid of that person. See bellows, 2.

blow out, v. To steal (something): c.: late C.19—early 20.—2. 'To have no more to do with a proposition' (Home Office): Borstals' and detention centres': later C.20.—3. In blow (one)self out, to eat heavily: 1837 (Barham). H., 1874, 'Sometimes the expression is, "blow out your bags".'

blow sky high. To scold, or blame, most vehemently: ?orig. US and anglicised ca. 1900.

blow the bloody ballet! A philistine c.p. addressed to amateurs of ballet as shown on TV: since early 1950s. (Petch, 1968.)

blow the coals. To cause trouble between two parties: coll.: C.17—early 20. It soon > S.E. Cf. stir the coals.

blow the gab. To reveal a secret; to inform, 'peach': orig., C.18, c. (Grose, 1st ed.) From ca. 1810 > blow the gaff (on); low s. >, by C.20, gen., coll. Vaux; Marryat.

blow the grampus. To drench a person: nautical: ca. 1790–1918.—2. To play about in the water: nautical s. > gen. coll.: id. The Port Folio, 4 Aug. 1804 (Moe).

blow the ground-sels. To 'lie with' a woman on the floor: C.17–18; c. In B.E. blow-off on...

blow the lid off (a dubious plan, a secret, etc.). To divulge something to the public, usu. in a more spectacular way than by mere 'leakage': coll.: since ca. 1930. (Petch, 1969.)

blow the whistle (on someone). To lay information, usu. to the authorities, about illegal or secret activities; to 'grass': since (?)ca. 1960. (Based on Chambers's C.20 Dict., 1977 Sup.) Ex the referee's whistle.

blow three horns and a bugle. 'It's going to blow three horns and a bugle to-night, if I'm any judge of weather, and we may have to beat out to sea for shelter': Aus. nautical: C.20. 'Rann Daly' (Vance Palmer), The Enchanted Island, 1923.

blow-through, n. A wagon that, lacking brakes, has pipes to ensure a braking system: railwaymen's: C.20. Railway.—2. As have a blow-through, to coit (of a man): low: C.20. Ex-blow through, v. (Of a man) to coit: low: C.19–20.—2. To depart, esp. hurriedly: Aus.: since ca. 1920. 'It's six o'clock. I'll blow through.' (Dick; B.P.) Cf. shoot through and blow, v., 7.

blow together. To make in a slovenly way: tailors': from ca. 1850; t.

blow (one's) top. To explode with anger: adopted, ca. 1943, ex US servicemen.

100

blow-up, n. A discovery, disclosure: coll.: late C.18—early 19. Grose, 2nd ed.—2. A scolding: since early C.19. More gen. as blowing(-)up: in, e.g., Sir George Simpson's Journal of Occurrences in the Athabasca Department, 1820 and 1821, 'Mr Clarke gave him what is vulgarly called "a good blowing up"': p. 17 of Hudson's Bay Record Society Publication, no. 1, 1938. (Dr Douglas Leechman.)—3. A (temporary) quarrel: from ca. 1880.

blow up, v. To scold, reprimand: coll., orig. low: since very early C.19. See quot'n at blast, v., 1.—2. 'To call the men to work; used by foremen and gangers' (B. & L.): coll.: from ca. 1870.—3. To accost (a person): NZ: C.20. Ex sense 1.—4. (Of an aircraft) to crash-land and catch fire: RAF: since ca. 1930. (Sgt-Pilot F. Rhodes, 1942.)—5. To exaggerate the importance of, e.g., a news item; mostly in the ppl adj. blown up, and in the phrase 'blown up out of all proportion': since ca. 1960. Ex photographic enlargement.

blow upon. To betray: C.15–19, coll. To make public: C.17–19. To discredit: C.17–19, coll.

blow (one's) wig. See give, in Appendix.

blowbag. A boastful windbag: Aus.: since ca. 1925. (Xavier Herbert, Capricornia, 1939.) A blend of blow hard and windbag. Cf. blow (one's) bags and blowhard.

blowed, be. Euph. when blowed = damned; otherwise, low coll. An early occurrence is in James Henry Lewis, Lectures on the Art of Writing, 7th ed., 1816, 'It'll be all dickey wee me, I'm blowed if it won't!' Dickens, 1836, has 'You be blowed'. Cf. blow, v., 3, q.v. N.B.: in late C.19–20 blowed is, except in this phrase, considered sol. for blown. (Partly from Moe.) blowen, blowing (g). A woman, esp. a harlot: c.: resp. late C.18–19 (Grose, 2nd ed.) and late C.17—early 19 (B.E.). Borrow, in his Romano Lavo-Lil, says: 'Signifying a sister in debauchery... the Beluñi of the Spanish Gypsies'.

blower. A boaster; a very talkative person. Aus. (and US): from ca. 1860; ob.—2. In late C.17–18 c., a mistress; a whore, as in Coles, 1676. In C.19 c., a girl: pejoratively opp. to jomer, q.v. A var. of blowen, q.v. Brandon.—3. A pipe: low (—1811); † by 1890. Lex. Bal.—4. The Blower, the Dolphin (public house): low: ca. 1820–50. Bee.—5. A telephone; orig. esp. a telephone or telegraph for the transmission of racing news (—1935); hence in gen. Forces' use by 1939 (H. & P.) and in gen. civilian use by 1946 at latest. In WW2 applied also to a broadcast system, e.g., the Tannoy. Hence, in take a job off the blower, to receive a telephoned order for cab: taxi-drivers' (H. Hodge, Cab, Sir?, 1939).—6. An aircraft-engine supercharger: RAF: since ca. 1935. (Jackson.) Current since ca. 1925 in motor-garage s.—7. An air-raid siren: mostly ARP workers': 1940–5. New Statesman, 30 Aug. 1941.—8. A deserter from the Armed Forces: ca. 1941–6. (London) Star, 25 Jan. 1945. Ex blow, v., 7.—9. As in 'When Lord Hewart asked, "What is a blower?", he was told he was a man who "blew money back to the course" and saved bookmakers from heavy losses' (London Evening News, 12 July 1939): racecourse s.: since ca. 1930.—10. A broken-winded horse: Aus. and English coll.: late C.19–20. Punch, late C.19, passim; B., 1953.—11. A whale or porpoise: driftermen's: C.20, D. Butcher, Driftermen, 1979.

blower and striker. A hard officer; esp., a 'bucks' mate: nautical: late C.19–20. Bowen.

blowhard. A boaster: Aus., since 1880; since ca. 1950, also Brit.—perhaps ex sense 2. In US (1855; ob.), an adj., whence prob. the s.—2. Whence, a blustering officer, of no use with his fists: sailing-ship seamen's: from ca. 1885. Bowen.

blowie or blowy. A blowfly: Aus.: since ca. 1910. Gavin Casey, Downhill is Easier, 1945, "What d'y mean, the flies down there? ... "There was clouds o' blowies."

blowing, vbl n. Boasting: from ca. 1860. C.J. Money, Knocking About, 1871 (B., 1941).—2. A var. of blowen, q.v.

blowing bubbles, n. The curses uttered by the victims of wildcat schemes and shady company-promotions: since ca. 1930. In short, frothing at the mouth with rage.

blowing for a tug. Out of breath: MN: 1950s. (John Malin, 1980.)

blowing marlin-spikes, (it's). (It is) a full gale: nautical coll.: mid-C.19–20. (Bowen.) I.e. the gale is strong enough to lift a marlin-spike (or almost).

blowing of a match, in the. In a moment: coll., mostly London (—1887); ob. Baumann.

blowing-up. A scolding. See blow-up, n., 2.

blown. See blowie.

blown, adj. Of a motor, esp. a racing car: supercharged: (racing) motorists': since early 1950s. Cf. blower, 6.

blown(-)in. (Of a car) partially re-sprayed: secondhand-car dealers': since ca. 1950. Woman's Own, 28 Feb. 1968.—2. See look what ...

blown out, to have. To have missed the last chance of a fare: cabmen's. See left sucking ...

blown up. See blow up, v., 5.

blowpiped, adj. Sent to another job: London docks: since ca. 1945. New Statesman, 31 Dec. 1965, article by R.C. Hall.

blowsabella. A country wench: C.18; coll. Suggested by the character in Gay's poem, The Shepherd's Week. Cf. blousalinda, which likewise has a coll. savour.

blowse, blowze, n. A beggar's trull; a wench: late C.16–18: either c. or low s. Chapman in All Fools. Cf. bloss, q.v.—Cf. 2, a slatternly woman: C.16–18.

blowse, v., hence blowising. Glue-sniffing, 'solvent abuse': addicts. 'Black youth, comfortable with its spliffs, disdains glue-sniffing ... or "blowising" as it is often called by glue-sniffers among themselves' (Time Out, 8 Jan. 1982, p.14). Hence blowser, an addict; and blowised-up, thus intoxicated. (P.B.)

blub. To weep, esp. of children: mid-C.19–20. Ex to blubber.—2. Also, to wet with weeping: coll.: 1804, Tarras (OED). Ex equivalent blubber.

blubber, n. The mouth: in C.18—early 19, c.; then (but in C.20 ob.), s. A New Canting Dict., 1725; Grose, 1st ed.—2. A woman's breasts: low: late C.18–20, esp. in sport blubber, to expose the breasts. Grose, 2nd ed.

blubber, v. To weep effusively, noisily: C.15–20. Until ca. 1800, S.E.; then coll. Smollett, Scott. (Gen. pej.) blubber and guts. Obesity: C.19–20, ob.; low. Cf.:

blubber-belly. A fat person: C.19–20. low coll.; ob. Cf. prec.

blubber-boiler. A var. (from ca. 1860) of blubber-hunter, a whaling-ship. B. & L.

blubber-head(ed). (A) foolish (person): early C.19–20; †. It occurs in, e.g., Bill Truck, March 1824. Mostly nautical.

blubber-hunter. A whaling-ship: pej. nautical coll.: mid-C.19–20. Bowen.

blubberation. Weeping: coll.: 1912, Rejected Addresses; ob. by 1890, † by 1920.

blucher. Winchester College: a prefect in half power: ca. 1830–1915. Also, a non-privileged cab plying at railway stations: ca. 1850–1900. Ex the Prussian field-marshal, who arrived somewhat late at the Battle of Waterloo.

bludgaside. A 'bludger': Aus.: 1939–45. (B., 1943.) A blend of bludger + parasite.

bludge, n. An easy job: Aus.: since ca. 1920. John Cleary, The Long Shadow, 1949, 'He was happy in his job, it was a good bludge.' Ex senses 3 and 4 of the v.—2. See come the bludge on.—3. An easy life; a period of loafing: Aus.: since ca. 1920. (Dick.) For all 3 senses, cf. bludgeoner, q.v.

bludge, v. To use a bludgeon. In John Galsworthy, The White Monkey, 1924. Ob.—2. To be a harlot's bully: Aus. (Leonard Mann, A Murder in Sydney, 1937.) Ex sense 1.—3. Hence, to ask for, to 'scrounge': Aus. low: since ca. 1910. Rats, 1944, 'Probably a Free Frenchman bludging a lift.'—4. (Ex 2.) To bludge on, to impose or sponge on: Aus.: since ca. 1910. B., 1942.—5. To have an easy life: to loaf for a while: Aus.: since ca. 1920. (Dick.) Cf. prec., 3. bludgeon business. See swinging the stick.

bludgeoner. A harlot's bully; a bawdy-house chucker-out: c. (—1852); ob. Also, in late C.19–20, bludger.

bludger. A thief apt to use a bludgeon, i.e. violence: c.; from ca. 1850. H., 1st ed.—2. See bludgeoner.—3. A sponger:

Aus. low s.: C.20. B., 1942. Ex bludge, v., 4.—4. Hence, 'often used without precise reference as a general term of abuse' (A. Buzo, 1973): Aus.: since ca. 1910.

bludget. A female thief that lures her victims: Aus. ephemeral: ca. 1925–36. B., 1943.

bludging. The vbl n. of bludge, v., esp. in senses 3 and 4. [blue. This word, in the S.E., coll., and s. of C.18–20—it is rare before ca. 1700—plays a protean and almost intangible part, for it expresses a gamut of opinions and emotions. For an excellent gen. introduction on the subject, see F. & H. at blue.]

blue, n. The Blue Squadron: from ca. 1700; orig. naval and coll.; in C.19, gen. and S.E. See the note at admiral of the blue.—2. A 'blue stocking': 1788, Mme D'Arblay; after ca. 1800, coll. Byron, in Don Juan: 'The Blues, that tender tribe, who sigh o'er sonnets'; 'Cuthbert Bede': 'Elizabeth, the very Virgin Queen of Blues'. Hence blue = female learning; † by 1900: Byron, 'a twilight tinge of blue'.—3. A scholar of Christ's Hospital: abbr. blue-coat boy: from ca. 1820; †.—4. A policeman: from ca. 1835. Cf. blue bottle and boy, man in blue, etc.—5. A compromise between the half-pint and the pint pot: public-house, ca. 1870–1900.—6. Gen. get Don's blue. Fig. for election to an Oxford or Cambridge team in a major inter-university sport or competition: mid-C.19–20: soon coll.; in C.20, S.E. The Oxford colours are dark, the Cambridge light, blue.—7. (Gen. pl.) A bluejacket: nautical coll.: early C.19—early C.20. It occurs in Bill Truck, 1822, and goes back to ca. 1805 or even a decade or two earlier. (Moe.)—8. Maltse beer: mostly RN: mid-C.20. Ex the blue label of the most general make.—9. A summons: Aus.: C.20. (B., 1942.) Ex colour of paper.—10. A mistake; a loss: Aus.: since ca. 1920. Cf. blue, v., 4.—11. Var. of bluey, 3 and 5, esp. as mode of address: Aus.: C.20.—12. A brawl: Aus. low: C.20. Rats.—13. As the blue, it = the desert or wilderness. Perhaps orig. Anglo-Indian, as in E.O. Lorimer, Language Hunting in the Karakoram, 1939: 'Sahibs ride into the blue'; but, esp. as the desert, it was popularised by the army in N. Africa, 1940–3. (P-G-R.) Cf. the cliché wide, blue yonder, from which this may well derive (Mrs C. Raab).—14. Tea: among boys in RN training ships: late C.19—earlyish 20. "'Blue' is a corruption of floo, for fluid, as used for tea ("Here, boy Jones, go and fetch the blue"): Goodenough, 1901.—15. The Royal Navy's Long Service and Good Conduct medal: C.20. The ribbon is a broad blue stripe between two narrow white ones. See blue peter, 3. (P.B.)—16. An amphetamine tablet: drug addicts': since ca. 1955. (Bournemouth Echo, 17 July 1968.)—17. A 'binge': a riotous night out with all the trimmings, during which all one's money is 'blue'd': coll.: early C.20. S.F. Hatton, The Yarn of a Yeoman, 1930.—18. In a bit of blue, 'An obscene or libidinous anecdote' (B. & L.): since ca. 1870. Cf. adj., 2.—19. In get into a blue, to become involved in a fight; turn on a blue, to start one: Aus.: since ca. 1920. (Culotta.) Extensions of sense 12.—20. See bet on the blue; bolt from the blue; in the blue; true blue; into the blue.
blue, v. Blush: early C.18. At Winchester College in C.19. Swift, in The Tatler, 'If a Virgin blushes, we no longer cry she blues.'—2. To spend, waste: mid-C.19–20, See blew.—3. Pawn, pledge: ca. 1850–1920. H., 1st ed.—4. To miscalculate; bungle; ruin: 1880 (OED).—5. Cf. the C.20 racing c. use of blue as v.i. to mean: lose on a race. The bookie's clerk accordingly marks the book B. (John Morris). Cf. cop.—6. In mid-C.19 gen. c., to steal; plunder.—7. To fight or attack (someone): Aus.: since ca. 1920. (B., 1942.) Cf. n., 12 and 19.
blue, adj. (Of women) learned, literary: from ca. 1780; coll. In C.19–20 (ob.), S.E. Lever, in Harry Lorrequer, 'She was a ... very little blue—rather a dabbler in the "ologies" than a real disciple.'—2. Obscene: from late 1830s (cf. blueness): coll. by 1900. Perhaps ex the blue dress of harlots (F. & H.), perhaps simply in contrast to brown.—3. Gloomy, low-spirited: coll.: since early C.19. Blackwood's, July 1823 (Moe). Cf. look blue and in a blue funk.—4. Drunk: Aus.: from ca.

1920. Perhaps ex the resultant 'blue devils'.—5. Euph. for bloody, as in 'I haven't a blue bean'—stony-broke: since ca. 1910; by 1975, t. (R.S.) Cf.—6. In by all that's blue!, decidedly!; gen., however, a euph. for 'by God!': coll.: ca. 1820–1920. (W.N. Glascock, Sailors and Saints, 1829; Moe.) Perhaps ex Fr. parbleu = par Dieu.—7. In make or turn the air blue, to curse; to use obscene or blasphemous language: since mid-C.19.—8. See look blue; men in blue; till all is blue. blue, adv. See burn it blue; drive blue.
Blue and Buff. A literary nickname, ca. 1880+, for the Edinburgh Review (d. 1929).
Blue and Orange. The nickname of the Loyal and Friendly London club of the 1740s. Grose. blue and white. See men in blue.
blue-apron. A tradesman: C.18–19, coll. > S.E. Amherst, Terræ Filius, 1726. blue as a razor. Extremely blue: late C.18—early 19. Grose, 2nd ed., pertinently suggests blue as azure.
Blue at the Main, the. The Port Admiral: RN coll.: C.19. W.N. Glascock, Sketch-Book, 2nd series, 1834, at II, 40 (Moe).
blue-back. One of the old privately prepared charts: nautical coll.: C. 19–20; ob. (Bowen.) Contrast: blue-backs. Orange Free State paper money: ca. 1860–1900. Thus F. & H., but see also bluebacks.
Blue Bags, the. Newtown footballers: Sydneyites': since ca. 1910. B., 1943.
blue balls. Aching scrotum or testicles, caused by unfulfilled sexual excitement; known also as lover's nuts and stone-ache: Anglo-American: since (?)ca. 1930, but not recorded before ca. 1965. In, e.g., Landy, and Hollander. blue-belly. A policeman: c.:—1909 (Ware). Cf. blue, n., 4. blue bill. Winchester College: a tradesman's bill sent to the pupil's home: C.19–20, ob. Ex the colour of the envelopes gen. used. blue billy. A blue handkerchief white-spotted: low; boxing: from the 1830s; ob. Brandon, 1839.
Blue Bits. The blue-backed periodical Chemistry and Industry: since ca. 1946. Pun on 'Tit Bits'. blue bird. The police 'paddy-wagon': Aus.: mid-C.20. Ex colour. Wilkes. blue blanket. The sky: C.18–20 coll.; ob. Defoe in his History of the Devil. Cf. Bengal blanket, q.v.—2. 'A rough overcoat made of coarse pilot cloth' (H., 2nd ed.): coll.: ca. 1860–90. blue blazes. Hell: from ca. 1870. (B. & L.) Ex blue flames from brimstone.—2. Spirituous liquors: non-aristocratic: from ca. 1875. Ibid.
blue boar. A venereal chancre: late C.18–19, low. (Grose, 2nd ed.) Perhaps ex the Blue Boar Tavern, in the 'Latin Quarter' of the London of ca. 1750–1850.
blue board. A C. 20 var. of the prec. blue boat. (Gen. pl.) A skiff for the use of cadets at Dartmouth: RN coll.: late C.19–20. Bowen. Cf. black cutter, q.v.
blue-book. A novel. See WESTMINSTER, in Appendix.
blue bottle. A beadle, a policeman: coll.: 1597 (Shakespeare). Little used in late C.17–18, but repopularised ca. 1840. G.W.M. Reynolds, The Mysteries of London, 1846. Considerable use also in mid-C.20.—2. A serving man: coll.: C.19. (Scott; G.P.R. James.) Cf. blue-apron.—3. A naval seaman: early C.19—mid-20. L.L.G., 6 Sep. 1823 (Moe).—4. A Ministry of Defence uniformed warden: since ca. 1960 at latest. (R.S., 1969.) Cf. sense 1. blue boy. A chance: C.18–19, low. Cf. blue boar. blue boys. (Rare in singular.) The police: James Greenwood, 1883. Ob. blue breeches, — by my eyes, limbs, and. See Eyes and Limbs, the. blue butter. Mercurial ointment, against parasites: (Cockney) coll.: from ca. 1870; ob. by 1930. H., 5th ed.
Blue Cap. A Scotsman: ca. 1590–1800; coll. > S.E. Cf. the S.E. blue bonnet and contrast: Blue Caps, the. The Dublin Fusiliers: military: 1857 (Indian Mutiny); ob. (Ware.) Occ. Nell's Blue Caps, ex their gallant colonel killed at Lucknow. F. & G.—2. Service police: from ca. 1930. (H. & P.). But Military Police wear red-topped caps; blue-topped caps are a feature of the Military Prison staffs' uniform. (P.B., 1979.)

blue-chin. An actor: Aus.: C.20. (B., 1942.) As he shaves towards evening, so, during the day, he's unshaven.

blue china. See live up to blue china.

blue chips. Coal: proletarian: mid-C.19–20; ob. by 1940. James Bent, Criminal Life, 1891.

blue coat. A blue-coated soldier: C.16–17. In C.19, occ. for a sailor. Coll. usages.—2. A policeman: C.17–20, ob.; And—3. Also, a serving man: C.17–18.

blue-cross gas. German sneezing-gas: military coll.: 1917–18. (B. & P.) Ex the mark on the shell.

blue dahlia. Something rare or unheard of: coll. (—1888) >, almost imm., S.E. Cf. Robert Hichens's The Green Carnation, 1894, and blue roses, 1885 (Daily News, 25 June.).

blue damn, (I don't care a). A slightly evasive curse: coll. (—1909); ob. Ware's semantics are rather far-fetched: prob. ex blue, adj., 2.

blue devils. Low spirits: from ca. 1780: coll. >, by 1850, S.E. Grose, 1st ed.; Cowper has Mr. Blue Devil. Ex blue devil, a baleful demon.—Hence 2, delirium tremens: from ca. 1822: coll. >, by 1880, S.E. Scott and Cobbett. Cf. blues, 3.—3. The police: ca. 1845–1905. Cf. blues, 4.—4. the Blue Devils, the French Chasseurs Alpins: army coll.: 1915–18. (F. & G.) Ex their blue uniforms.—5. Blue capsules that, containing a barbiturate, are used by addicts: adopted, ex US. late 1960s. DCCU, 1971.

blue-domer. An officer that absents himself from church parade: military: ca. 1890–1910. H.A. Vachell, Phæbe's Guest House, 1939, 'God could be worshipped best under the blue dome of his own heaven.'

blue duck. 'Anything which does not come up to expectations; a dud, a "write-off"' (Wilkes): Aus.: since late C.19.—2. Hence, a rumour, esp. if baseless: NZ army: WW1.

blue-eye. A favourite of authority: RAF: since ca. 1935; ob. Ex:-

blue-eyed boy. A pet, a favourite: coll. (—1914) >, by 1930, S.E. (F. & G.) The allusion is to innocence: cf. (mother's) white-haired boy, q.v.

blue eyes. 'Schoolboy, pupil, favoured by teacher: 1970s var. of prec. entry.' (L.A., 1974.)

blue eyes and golden ballocks (or bollocks). 'A Merchant Navy version of the shore term "blue eyes" for one specially favoured: since late 1940s' (Peppitt). In army and RAF usage the phrase is shortened to golden ballocks, q.v. (P.B.)

blue fear. Extreme fright: ca. 1870–1900; coll., rare. (R.L. Stevenson.) Cf. blue funk, q.v.

blue fever. Venereal disease: nautical lowerdeck: since ca. 1945.

blue fire. Adj., sensational: from ca. 1870; mainly theatrical. Post-1920, however, it is fairly usual and, in its gen. use, coll. > S.E. Ex a blue light used on the stage to create a weird effect; cf. S.E. blue light.

blue flag. A publican: mid-C.18—early 19. (Grose, 1st ed.) Esp. in hoist the b.f., become a publican.

blue flash. A '25,000 volt A.C. electric locomotive' (Railway, 2nd); railwaymen's: since ca. 1955.

Blue Flue Boats. Ships of the Blue Funnel Line: HMS Conway: C.20. (Granville.) Also the Blue Flue Line, for the Line itself: more widespread, used, e.g., in Hong Kong, one of the company's major ports of call. (P.B.)

blue foot. 'Prostitute (used in hippy communes and probably of West Indian origin)' (Powis, 1977).

blue funk. Extreme fear (—1856). Thomas Hughes popularised it.

blue-funk school. A coll. form of the blue-water school, q.v.: its opponents': from ca. 1906. Collinson.

Blue-Funneller (or b.-f.). An Alfred Holt steamer: nautical coll.: C.20 (Bowen.) See also Blue Flue ...

blue glasses, see through. 'To see things from a wrong—generally depressed—point of view': coll.:—1931 (Lyell). Contrast the informal S.E. see things through rose-tinted spectacles.

blue-handled rake. The railing and steps leading to the platform of a fair-booth stage: late C.19–20. Ware.

Blue Horse, the. The Fourth Dragoon Horse: military: late C.18–20; ob. Ex its facings of 1746–88.

blue in the face, until. With the utmost energy and effort: coll.: prob. at least as early as 1850. (Prompted by a Leechman note.) 'You can try until you're blue in the face, but you still won't make them understand.'

blue it. Var. of blew it, to inform to the police.

blue jack (or Jack). Cholera morbus: nautical (—1909). Ex colour of skin (Ware). On yellow jack.

blue job. Any man in a blue uniform, e.g., RN, RAF, Police, etc.: WW2. (H. & P.) Cf. brown job, a man in khaki.

blue light. An order for money (during a temporary shortage) on the NAAFI issued by a military unit: from 1924 or 1925. (With thanks to Maj.-Gen. A.P. Wavell, CMG.)—2. A sanctimonious seaman: nautical: early C.19–20. (Bill Truck, Sep. 1823.) Later in C.19 a blue light became, in the Indian Army, a symbol of temperance. Kipling, in 'Bobs', 1893, a poem honouring Lord Roberts, speaks of him as 'Bluelight Bobs'.—3. A Warrant Gunner: RN: since ca. 1920. See also next entry.—4. A wild rumour: army in N. Africa: 1940–3. Keith Douglas, Alamein to Zem Zem, 1947: 'Fantastic rumours, called blue lights, began to circulate.' Perhaps from 'St Elmo's fire', or marsh lights. Cf. blue duck, 2.

blue-light clinic. A VD clinic: Aus. coll.: C.20.

blue-light outfit. Anti-VD kit supplied to armed services: Aus. coll., since ca. 1930. (B.P.)

blue lights. A naval gunner: RN: late C.19–20. Bowen.—2. See shit blue lights.

blue-liner. A navy issue cigarette of post-WW2: RN and WRNS. Specially made with a thin blue line running the length of the cigarette, presumably to prevent any black-marketing of 'duty-frees'. I recall seeing them in the early 1950s. (P.B., 1978, with a reminder from Miss Margaret Wood.)

blue marines (or B.M.), the. The Royal Marine Artillery before they were amalgamated with the Light Infantry: RN coll.: C.19. Bowen.

blue Monday. A Monday spent, away from work, in dissipation: from ca. 1880; ob. by 1930.

blue moon. A rarely recurrent (event or) period: coll.: from early C.19 (J. Burrows, Life in St George's Fields, 1821); ob. except in its orig., still current, full form: once in a blue moon, extremely seldom: coll.: C.17–20. Till a blue moon occurs in 1860, and the phrase is adumbrated as early as 1528 (Roy & Barlowe). Apperson.—2. A spoon: rhyming s.: late C.19–20. Hence:—3. As v., to 'spoon': ca. 1890–1930.

blue murder (orig. -s). Cries of terror or alarm: a great noise, horrible din: from late 1850s; coll. (H., 1st ed.) Gen. as cry b. m. Cf. the Fr. morbleu, which, however, = mort (de) Dieu. P.B.: in C.20, not only cry, but also howl, scream, yell, etc., blue m.—2. In like blue murder, with great rapidity, esp. if hastily or in a panic: 1914 (OED Sup.); ob. by 1950.

Blue Nose. A Nova Scotian: coll.; orig. (1830) US, anglicised ca. 1840. (Thornton.) Ex the extreme cold of the Nova Scotian winter.

blue-nose certificate. That entry on a rating's Service Certificate which states that he has served north of the Arctic Circle: RN: WW2. P-G-R.

blue-nosed. Puritanical; censorious: coll.: later C.20. Red Daniells, in Journal of British Photography, 4 Jan. 1980, 'It's going to take more than a day or two for this green and pleasant [sc. land = England] to get over Queen Victoria and her blue-nosed disciples.' (P.B.)

blue o'clock in the morning, at. 'Pre-down, when black sky gives way to purple' (Daily News, 12 Oct. 1886); ob.: Londoners': rhyming on two o'clock (Ware).

blue one or 'un. A green signal light: railwaymen's: C.20. Railway.

Blue Orchid. 'A member of the RAAF in WW2, considered to have a more glamorous uniform than the other services' (Wilkes): Aus. The term was applied also to RAF aircrew training in S. Africa, 1941. See College Boys.

blue paper. See fly blue...

blue pencil. Used as euph. in place of an unprintable word or phrase: coll.: ca. 1920–50. Ex editors' use of blue pencil for corrections and deletions, e.g. 'Not blue pencil likely!' P.B.: but still current, later C.20, as v., to censor out obscenity.

blue peter. (Cards) the signal for trumps at whist: coll. > j.: ca. 1860–1905.—2. Also fig. in its coll. use, as in Byron, for immediate departure.—3. The RN Long Service and Good Conduct Medal: RN: C.20. (Granville.) Ex the blue and white of the ribbon and of the 'blue Peter' flag. Cf. blue, n., 15. All senses ex the name given to the blue and white flag flown by any ship to indicate imminent departure from port.

blue pigeon. Roofing-lead: c.: mid-C.18–19. Hence fly the blue pigeon, to steal lead from church- and house-roofs; blue pigeon flyer, one who does this. Grose, 1st ed.—2. The sounding-lead: nautical: from ca. 1820. In this sense, fly the blue pigeon = to use the sounding-lead. Kipling, Captains Courageous, 1897.

blue pill. A bullet: C.19. Cf. the US blue whistler, and blue plum. By C.20 usu. simply pill.—2. A mercury pill against syphilis: C.19. W.N. Glascock, Naval Sketch-Book, I, 1825 (Moe); Baumann, 1887.

blue plum(b). A mid-C.18–19 c. term for a bullet. (Grose, 1st ed.; Harrison Ainsworth, 1834.) Grose has the following phrases: surfitted with a blue plumb, 'wounded with a bullet', and a sortment (i.e. an assortment) of George R—'s (i.e. Rex's) blue plumbs, 'a volley of ball, shot from soldiers' firelocks'.

blue pugaree. (Gen. pl.) A military policeman: NZ soldiers': 1915–18. Ex the distinctive colour of their hat-bands. P.B.: since the Military Police were, in WW1, already known as 'The Red Caps' (Regimental Nicknames and Traditions of the British Army, 5th ed., Gale and Polden, 1916), the entry at bluey, 5, may be relevant.

blue ribbon. Gin: low: mid-C.19–early 20. Cf. satın, q.v.

blue-ribbon faker. A blatant upholder of abstinence from liquor: London streets': 1882–ca. 1914. Ware.

blue-ribboner or -ribbonite. A teetotaller: coll. verging on S.E.: from ca. 1880. (Ware.) The blue ribbon worn by certain teetotallers is recorded in 1878 (SOD).

blue ruin. Gin; esp., bad gin: from ca. 1810; ob. (Lex. Bal., Keats, T. Moore, Lytton, Sala.) Cf. (its prob. 'offspring') blue ribbon and blue tape.—2. A volume of Bohn's series of translations from the Greek and Latin classics: Universities' and Public Schools': ca. 1880–1914. Joc. ex the 'gin' sense. Marples, 2.

blue-shirt. An owner; a manager: Aus. rural: since ca. 1920.—2. Hence, a slacker: since 1925. B., 1953.

blue shirt at the mast-head, (there's) a. (There is) a call for assistance: nautical: late C.19–20. (Bowen.) Ex the blue flag then flown.

Blue Sisters, the. Members of the Little Company of St Mary: Aus. Catholics' coll.: C.20. (B.P.)

blue skin. A Presbyterian: C.18–early 19. Blue is the Presbyterian colour; 'Hudibras' Butler speaks of 'Presbyterian true blue'.—2. In the West Indies: a half-breed of black and white: C.19–20, ob.—3. In late C.18–early 19, any 'person begotten on a black woman by a white man' (Grose, 2nd ed.). Cf.:-

blue squadron, (belonging to the). (Of) mixed blood, white with Hindu: India, C.19. In late C.18–early 19, of anyone with 'a lick of the tar brush' (Grose, 3rd ed.). See the note appended to admiral of the blue.

blue stink. 'Concocted fuel with an alcohol base' (Dunford): motor-cyclists': since ca. 1950. Cf. brew, 4.

blue stocking. A literary or a learned lady (—1790). The adj. began to be applied in the 1750s to the frequenters of Montagu House, London, where literary and cognate talk replaced cards. Both n. and adj. were coll. by 1810, S.E. by 1820; both are ob. Ex the blue worsted stockings affected by Benjamin Stillingfleet, a near-poet, who was a shining light of the Montagu House assemblies—by Admiral Boscawen dubbed the Blue Stocking Society. See esp. the OED.

Blue Stocking Parliament. The 'Little Parliament' of 1653: coll., ca. 1653–1700. Ex their puritanically plain clothes.

blue-stocking white-topped slotted jobs. WRNS officers: RN: 1940s. An officers' elab. of the lowerdeck slotted job, a woman. (Peppitt.)

blue stone. Gin or whisky so inferior that it resembles vitriol, which in Scottish and Northern dial. is called 'blue stone'. Ca. 1850–1900.

blue streak. 'Blue Pullman de luxe' (Railway, 2nd): railwaymen's: since ca. 1920.

blue tab. See green tab.

blue tape. Gin: ca. 1750–1850; perhaps c. (Grose, 2nd ed.) Cf. blue ribbon or ruin and sky blue, the latter in Grose, 3rd ed.

blue ticket, get the. To be compulsorily retired from the RN; RN: C.20. 'Taffrail', in The Man from Scapa Flow, 1933, wrote, 'the notices of dismissal were not blue, but were duplicated on ordinary official paper with the name filled in in ink.'

blue-tongue. A station roustabout: Aus.: since ca. 1920. (B., 1943.) Wilkes, 'from (blue-tongue) lizard'.

Blue Train, the. The train from "Alex" into the desert, eventually... as far as Tobruk. There was probably a greater concentration of hangovers on this train than anywhere else on earth' (Peter Sanders in Sunday Times magazine, 10 Sep. 1967): Army in N. Africa: 1940–3. Ex blue, n., 13.

blue tit. 'As in "Blue Tit and Brass Monkey Club"—said to have been used of winter swimmers (RAF and Icelanders) in hot pools near Reykjavik 1941–5.' (F.J. French.) Cf. the WW2 pun, '6 wrens (WRNS) went into the sea, and 12 bluetits came out' (P.B.).

Blue Un, The. The Winning Post: sporting (—1909); ob. (Ware.) Ex its colour, adopted to distinguish it from The Pink Un's.—2. See comics, 2.

blue unction. A blue ointment used to exterminate body-lice: military: from 1915. (B. & P.) Ex unguent.

blue velvet. 'Paregoric and an antihistamine' (Home Office): drug addicts': 1970s.

blue-water school. Those who believe that naval offence is Britain's best defence: 1905. S. > coll. >, by 1914, S.E.

bluebacks. 'The notes of the Transvaal Government issued in 1865. The impecunious condition of the Transvaal at the time made these notes very much less than their face value. Cf. the American term "Greenbacks"', Pettman. (These notes lapsed before 1884, the term was ob. by 1900.) Ex their colour. Occ. blue-backs.

Bluebell or, rather, bluebell. 'Metal polish, regardless of any brand name' (Granville): RN (and other Services': P.B.) coll.: since ca. 1910. Ex the brand name Bluebell.

Bluebell Line, the. The part of the Lewes–East Grinstead line, Southern Railway, which is noted for the bluebells visible from the trains: railwaymen's and users' coll.: C.20. (Railway, 2nd.) P.B.: prob. better known now, 1982, than in earlier C.20, for it is one of the better known of the 56 conserved, preserved steam-lines operating 'for fun'.

bluebird. A (pretty) 'Waaf': RAF: since ca. 1941. (Partridge.) Ex Maeterlinck's The Bluebird of happiness.—2. A wave that has not broken (a 'greenie'): Aus. surfers': since ca. 1960. (B.P.) bluebottle. See blue bottle.

blued, occ. bluwed. Drunk: low: C.19–early C.20. This word perhaps influenced screwed and slewed.—2. Only as blued: despondent; in low spirits: ca. 1850–1900. Conway Edwardes, in Act I of his comedy, Heroes, 1876, 'What's the matter? Feel blued?' (Moe.)

bluely, come off. To have ill success, bad luck: coll.; ca. 1650–1840. Urquhart.

blueness. Indecency: literary s.; not much used. (Carlyle, 1840.) Ex blue, adj., 2.

bluer. A blue coat. See HARROW, in Appendix.—2. One who 'blues' his money: market-traders': C.20. (M.T.): ex blue, v., 2.—3. A racehorse that loses: id. (Ibid.) Cf. blue, v., 4 and 5.

blues. Coll. var. of best blues or walking out uniform of blue serge: RN: late C.19–20. P-G-R.—2. 'An illegal drinking house (shebeen), especially one where amplified dance music is also provided' (Powis, 1977): police and underworld: since (?ca. 1960.—3. As the blues, a fit of mental and moral depression; despondency; low spirits. An early example is in John Till Allingham, Mrs Wiggins, 1803 (at I, i): 'Damn the duns! They give me the blues. What do they want?'—and his valet predictably answers 'Money'. Abbr. of blue devils, q.v. In this sense, the blues is almost, if not quite, S.E., as is the term when used for that style of melancholy singing originated among Black slaves in America.—4. Delirium tremens: from ca. 1850 but never very gen.—5. The police: see blue, n., 4: from ca. 1835. 'Sometimes called the Royal Regiment of Footguards Blue' (H., 5th ed.): ca. 1870–90.—6. The Royal Horse-Guards: C.17–20. Ca. 1690–1780, gen. the Oxford Blues, to distinguish them from King William III's Dutch troops, also called the Blues.—7. Abbr. blue stockings. See blue, n., 2.—8. As the Blues, Carlton VFL footballers: coll.: Aus., esp. Melbourne, C.20.

bluey. In mid-C.19–20 c., lead: ex blue pigeon, q.v. H., 1st ed.—2. A summons: Aus. and NZ c., a familiarisation of blue, n., 9. Vince Kelly, The Greedy Ones, 1958.—3. A bushman's, esp. a sundowner's, bundle, usually wrapped in a blue blanket: Aus. (—1888); in C.20, coll. Esp. in hump bluey, in C.20 often hump one's bluey, to go on the tramp (—1890). Morris. Cf. suag.—4. In Tasmania, a 'smock-coat' shirt or blouse worn in wet districts (1891, ob.). Ibid.—5. A nickname for a red-headed man: from ca. 1890, esp. in Aus. and NZ.—6. A man who drinks methylated spirits: c., tramps': C.20.—7. (Usu. in pl.) the drug drinamyl (blueys or blueies). See DRUGS, in Appendix.—8. As B, the Near East—Egypt, Palestine, etc.: army: 1940–5. Ex 'the blue Mediterranean'; cf. the Shin(e)y for the East, esp. India, an old Regular Army term.—9. A 'portable gas stove' (Hawke): RM, in N. Ireland: 1970s. ? ex the blue flame.—10. A £5 note: later C.20. "'Drop him a bluey,'" he said... a fiver changed hands (Sunday Express mag., 31 Jan. 1982, 'How the Rich Live', p. 15). Cf. greenie, a £1 note.

bluey-cracking. The stealing of lead from building-exterior: c.:—1845; ob. by 1930.

bluey-hunter. A habitual stealer of lead roofing and piping: mid-C.19–20 c. Cf. blue-pigeon flyer, s.v. blue-pigeon.

bluff. A considerable assurance adopted to impress an opponent: orig. (—1848) US, anglicised ca. 1870: cf. the v. Coll.; in C.20, S.E.—2. In low s., an excuse: a sense firmly grounded in England—see Mayhew's London Labour—as early as 1851: this sense may, perhaps, not come from the US.—3. See call (one's) bluff.

bluff, v.i. and v.t. To impress, intimidate, make an excuse; bluff off, to frighten away by bluffing; bluff out of, to frighten out of. Orig. (1850): (Thornton), US; anglicised as a coll., in the early 1860s or even the late 1850s, for H., 1859, makes no comment on the American origin of either n. or v.; in C.20, S.E. The American usage, for both n. and v., perhaps derives from the Restoration senses, bluff, to blindfold (as in Ray) and look bluff, look big (as in B.E.); but see bluffing and W. at bluff.

bluff the rats. To spread panic: low:—1923 (Manchon). I.e., to trick the rats into leaving the proverbial sinking ship.

bluffer. In c. of mid-C.17–early 19, 'a Host, Inn-keeper or Victualler' (B.E.); Coles, 1676. Prob. ex dial. bluff, to hoodwink.—2. An imposer that relies on an assumed appearance and speech: from ca. 1885; coll.—3. A bosun; nautical: ca. 1840–1914.

bluffing. Vbl n., 'imposing on another with a show of force, where no real force exists: a phrase taken from the game of poker' (Thornton, who records it for US at 1850); anglicised, as coll., ca. 1880.

blug. An earlier form († by 1925) of oickman, q.v.: Bootham School. (Bootham.) See also blog, n., 6, the Rugby School term for a manservant.

bluggy. A joc., therefore s., not—except among purists or prudes—a euph. twisting of bloody. The OED Sup. remarks: ‘pretended infantile pronunciation of bloody’; an early example occurs in American Habberton’s Halen’s Babies, 1876. Hence the n., blugginess.

blunderbuss. A stupid, or ignorant, clumsy fellow: from ca. 1690; coll. verging on, perhaps achieving, S.E.; ob. Ex the weapon’s unwieldiness.—2. Also, ca. 1680–1800, a noisy and truculent talker: coll. Ex the noise of its report.—3. A baby-carriage: Can.: since ca. 1925(?). A pun on blunder and buss. (Leechman.)

blunderfurd. A Thunderbird motorcycle: motor-cyclists’ joc.: since ca. 1950. (Dunford.)

blunje, -y, adj. Yielding, as a rubber mattress or a waterbed: coll.: since (?). ca. 1930. Prob. a var. of bunjo or bunjie, to do with india-rubber. Given some currency in the 1950s by Peter Sellers as ‘Bluebottle’ (an ‘awful boy’) in the radio surrealist-comedy ‘Goon Show’ series, using it as an exclamation to parody the sound of impact or explosion, e.g., in mock stage directions: ‘Fires pistol. Blunje! Trousers fall down.’ (P.B.)

blunk, n. A squall; a period of squally weather: dial. (—1790) >, by 1820, nautical coll. (Bowen.) Dial. has a v. blunk, which is cognate with blench (EDD).

blunk, adj. Half drug-exhilarated, half drunk, hence totally stuporous: drug addicts’: ca. 1960–75. A blend of blind + drunk.

blunt. Money, esp. cash (—1714); orig. c.; ob., except among tramps as the blunt. John Hall, Grose (2nd ed.), Moncrieff, Dickens (in Oliver Twist), Punch (1882). Etymology doubtful: perhaps, indeed prob., ex the blunt rim of coins; perhaps, however, ex John Blunt, chairman of the South Sea Company; or perhaps, despite its surface improbability, ex the Fr. blond (cf. brown, a halfpenny), as H. and F. & H. maintain.—2. Whence in blunt, out of blunt, rich, poor: C.19. Bee.

blunt end, the. ‘Landlubber’s term for the stern of the ship. See sharp end,’ Granville: C.20.

Blunt Magazine. A bank; esp. the Bank of England: low: ca. 1820–60. (Bee.) Ex blunt, 1.

blunted. In possession of money: rare; ca. 1850–1910. Gen. well-blunted. Ex blunt.

blunty. A var. of prec. entry. Bee.

blurb. A publishers’ recommendation of a book: on the jacket, or in the front, of the book itself. Term invented by the American humorist Frank Gelett Burgess. (A.H. Holt, Phrase Origins, 1936.) It was anglicised in 1924. Coll.; after 1933, S.E., but rarely heard beyond the world of books.

blurry. A slurring, gen. euph., of bloody: from not later than 1910. B. & P.

blurt! Poo! A fig for!: late C.16–(?only early) 17: coll. (Lyly.) Cf. the derisive c.p., blurt, master constable!: C.17. Middleton. OED; Apperson. For full treatment of blurt, master constable! see DCpp.

blurt, v. To let or cause an escape of anal wind: C.20; low coll.

blush like a black (occ., –C.18, blue dog). I.e. not at all: hence, to be shameless: mid-C.16–18; coll. Gosson; Swift.

blushing. Bloody: euph. coll.: C.20. Manchon.

blushing honours. See bear (one’s) blushing...

blusteration. Bluster; a blustering: dial. (—1803) >, ca. 1860, coll. OED.

bly. ‘A burglar’s oxy-acetylene blow lamp’ c.:—1933 (George Orwell, Down and Out in Paris and London). By telescoping blow and oxy.

bly!; bly me. Reduced forms of God blimey, Godblimey: low: late C.19–20. Ware.

bly-hunka (-hunker). A horse: vagrants’ c.:—1845; †. Prob. of Shelta origin.

Blyti. Ob. spelling of Blighty, England.

bo. (In vocative) mate, chum, friend. It seems to have been a common vocative among British seamen of the Napoleonic Wars. It occurs frequently in W.N. Glascock’s works, notably The Naval Sketch-Book, I, 1825, and Sailors and Saints, 1829; e.g. in the latter: ‘“You may say that, bo,” said a third’ (I, 210) and ‘“Never mind that, bo,” cried Cheerly, the captain’s coxswain’, (II, 183) and with prec. ‘my’ at least three times. (Moe.) Perhaps, as Leechman suggests, ex bor, q.v.; or simply a diminution of brother. (P.B.) By 1900, considered to be strictly US usage, and to have some connection with hobo, a tramp, but see esp. Irwin. Some ephemeral use in England again, ca. 1918, as a result of the US entry into WW1.—2. A tramp: Aus.: since ca. 1930. Alan Marshall, These Are My People, 1946: ‘I pulled up a bo.’ Perhaps abbr. hobo, or even abo.—3. ‘Wardroom mode of address for the Bosun’ (Granville): RN: since ca. 1910.

bo or boo to a goose, say or cry; occ. to a battledore. To open one’s mouth; to talk, speak; gen. in negative. Coll.; from ca. 1580 In C.20, and from late C.16, it always decrines one timid, or retiring and unassertive, as in ‘She wouldn’t say boo...’

bo-chuffed. Delighted, See chuffed.

Bo Joe. A variant of bo, †: since early 1930s. Either by elab. of bo or by rhyming s. on hobo. (B.P.) Also bo-jo, and prob. a corruption of bozo, as B.P. tells me, 1966.

bo-peep. Sleep: rhyming s.: since mid-C.19. D.W. Barrett, Navvies, 1880–3.—2. (Bo-Peep.) Boescheppe on the Western Front: army: WW1. W.H.L. Watson, Adventures of a Despatch Rider, 1915.—3. The stocks: ca. 1760–1850. One’s head peeps out.—4. A look: NZ and Aus. since ca. 1920. Lawson Glassop, Lucky Palmer, 1949.—5. In play at bo-peep, in turn to hide and appear in public; to keep watch: late C.18–early 19. (Grose, 2nd ed.) Ex the game.

boa-constrictor. An instructor: RN: late C.19–early 20. (F. & G.) Ex his ‘fascinating’ eye.

boab. A baobab tree: Aus.: C.20. Jack Marshall & Russell Drysdale, Journey among Men, 1962, p. 116. ‘We camped in a clump of young boabs.’

board, n. A picture sold in the streets: vagrants’ c.: C.20.—2. A sideboard: furniture-dealers’ coll.: late C.19–20.

Spectator, 7 June 1935.—3. A railway signal: British railwaymen’s, since the 1880s; Can. railwaymen’s, C.20, coll. ‘The board’s against me’ = the signal is ‘No’. Tit-Bits, 1 Nov. 1890, notes the synon. stick. Hence, also, get the board, to receive the right of way signal. (Daily Herald, 5 Aug. 1936).—4. ‘The use of board for the floor of a shearing shed is also slang, whence comes a full board and boss-over-the-board’ (B., 1941): NZ and Aus. rural: since ca. 1880; by 1910, coll. Over the board occurs in Archer Russell, Gone Nomad, 1936.—5. In keep (one’s) name on the board, to remain a member of one’s college: Cambridge coll.: from ca. 1850; in C.20, S.E.—6. In on the board, enjoying all the privileges, and perquisites of a competent workman: tailors’, perhaps j. rather than s.: ca. 1850–1920.—7. See above board; sweep the board; under board; sail on another board.

board, v. To accost: C.16–20. In Surrey and Shakespeare, S.E.; but from ca. 1660, coll., as in Vanbrugh’s False Friend, ‘What do you expect from boarding a woman... already heart and soul engaged to another?’ In C.19–20, much more definitely nautical in flavour: before 1800, the Fr. aborder, to approach, accost, impressed rather by its Gallicism than by its nauticism.—2. ?hence, to borrow money from (a person): military (—1890); ob. F.&H.—3. To put (an item of equipment) before a board to decide its fitness for continuing service, or whether it should be ‘written off’ (discarded): army, esp. quartermaster’s staff. Similarly, usu. in passive, of servicemen: ‘He was boarded’ = he was sent before a board of medical officers who would decide his future employment. Both uses, are coll., perhaps j.: since ca. 1950, if not earlier. Cf. the RAF’s cat board. (P.B.) The medical sense earlier in Aus. (Rats).

board in the smoke. (Nautical) to take by surprise: C.19. Ex the lit. usage of boarding a ship under cover of broadside-smoke.

board job. A sandwich-man's job: C.20 c. Ex the board he carries.

Board-man. See boardman, 2.

board of green cloth. A card table: C.19–20; a billiard-table: C.18–20. Coll.; ob.

Board of Perks. Board of Works: joc. Pall Mall Gazette, 27 Sep. 1889, as title, 'Provincial Board of Perks'.

Board of Trade. A 'bench seat in Hyde Park, from the amorous activity for which the locality is notorious. (Noted 26 July 1960): since the 1940s. Cf. trade, n., 6.

Board of Trade duff. Tinned pudding: MN: later C.20. (John Malin, 1979.) Cf.:-

Board of Trade sports. 'The weekly life-boat drill held every Sunday at sea: Merchant Navy: 1940s [and after]' (Peppitt). John Malin notes var. Board of Trade games.

board shorts. Shorts descending almost to knees: Aus. surfers' coll.: since ca. 1955. (Sydney) Bulletin, 30 Mar. 1963.

board the beef in the smoke. To eat dinner: nautical, esp. Naval: ca. 1790–1860. Moe has found it in 1806.

board the monkey fucked the duck on, the. A nonsense comment—evoked by, and punning on, duckboard—on any mention of a medical, selection or other military board, or even a mere notice-board: army: since late 1940s. (P.B.) board-work. See boardman.

board you! 'Pass the bottle on!': nautical:—1890; †.

boarder-bug. A boarder at school: schoolboys': from late C.19. (Collinson.) Opp. day-bug, same period.

boarding house or school. A prison; house of correction; c.; ca. 1690–1840. (B.E.; Grose.) Hence, boarding scholars, 'Bridewell-birds' (B.E.).

boarding-house reach is that implied in excuse me reaching!, i.e., an inelegant stretch across the table: Can. joc. coll.: C.20. (Leechman.) boardman. A standing patterer, who often carried a board with coloured pictures: vagrants' c.: ca. 1840–1900. The practice was, by Cockneys, called board-work.—2. (Or Boardman.) A school-attendance inspector: London coll.:—1887 (Baumann); ob. by 1930.

boards. Playing cards: c.: C.20. Edgar Wallace, The Mixer, 1927.—2. As the boards, the stage: theatre: from ca. 1770; coll. till ca. 1880, then S.E.

boat, n. (Always the boat) the hulks or any public works or prison: c.: ca. 1810–95. (Mayhew.) Ex convict-hulks.—2. A builder's cradle: builders' joc.: C.20.—3. (Usu. pl.) A submarine: RN: since ca. 1920. Granville.—4. A motor-car used for races: motor-racers': from ca. 1928. (Peter Chamberlain.) Punning motor-boat.—5. In be in the same boat, i.e. in the same position or circumstance(s): coll., from ca. 1850, though anticipated in late C.16; in C.20. S.E. Cf. sail in the same boat, to act together: coll.: from late C.16; in C.19–20, S.E.—6. In be on the boat, to have been drafted overseas (but not yet on the troopship): Forces', esp. RAF, coll.: WW2. Cf.:—7. In put on the boat, to deport; as adj., deported: low: late C.19–20.—8. In good boat, a soldier spending freely among poorer comrades: army: ca. 1890–1915.—9. In later C.20 the usu. shortening of boat-race, rhyming s. 'face'. A con-man, talking about bank fraud: 'Cos you can tell by the faces. You can see a teller and say, "Shitnitto". 'Cos you know by the boat, understand?' (Laurie Taylor, New Society, 11 Nov. 1982, p. 250.—10. See miss the boat; oar in another's boat; push the boat out; push out the boat.

boat, v. To transport (convicts): ca. 1800–60.—2. To sentence to penal servitude: ca. 1870–1910. Both are c. In the latter sense, get the boat or be boated=to receive a severe sentence: H., 5th ed.

boat-happy. Excited—often so as to become distrait—at the idea of going back home on a demobilisation ship: Army: 1945–6.

boat hook. An 8-foot pole with spitted end, used by the London Fire Brigade: C.20.

boat race. Face: rhyming s.: since ca. 1946. Often shortened to boat. (Both are in Norman.)—2. A drinking contest between two teams: each man in turn 'knocks back' a pint of beer as fast as he can, to determine which team is the hardest-drinking crew: usu. the final event in an inter-mess 'games night': Services': C.20. (P.B.)

Boats. The Boats Officer: RN wardroom coll.: C.20. (P-G-R.) Cf. Guns, Torps.—2. As b-, boots, esp. if (very) large: middle-class joc.: C.20. Cf. carts and two feet...—3. As the boats, destroyers: RN, perhaps coll. rather than s.: ca. 1900–30. (R/Adml P.W. Brock, 1977.) Cf. boat, n., 3.

boat's left, the. You've 'had it'—you've missed whatever was happening to your advantage: RN c.p.: since ca. 1910. (P-G-R.) A later version: the boat's shoved off (Granville). The boat taking men ashore. Cf. miss the boat.

Boatsville. The Admiralty building in Whitehall, London: orig., and mainly, FAA: mid-C.20.

boatswain-captain. A naval captain thoroughly competent as a seaman: naval coll., contemptuously used by the envious: C.19. Bowen.

boatswell. An admiral: RN lowerdeck: since ca. 1930. (Granville, letter, 1962.) ?Boat 'swell'.

boaty. Fond of, addicted to, boating: coll.: 1886 (OED). Cf. horsey.

bob, n. A man, a fellow: coll.: C.18—early 20. Cf. Jack, and Tom, Dick and Harry, the commonness of the name giving rise to a generic sense. See specialisations at light bob; dry bob, 2; and wet bob. Cf.:—2. A shoplifter's assistant: c.: late C.17–19. Perhaps ex the idea of bobbing in, out, and up.—3. A shilling: since late C.18; ob. since the decimalisation of currency in 1971, but lingering in such phrases as queer as a three (or nine) bob watch, and two bob as a rough estimate of a smallish sum of money. An early example is in Sessions, June 1789. Orig. obscure: perhaps abbr. bobstick; W. suggests ex Robert, cf. joey.—4. Gin: C.18.—5. A large white beer-jug, holding about a gallon: Winchester: C.19.—6. A wash. See Bob Squash.—7. In give the bob, to dismiss: coll.: C.17. In S.E. give the bob=to befool, impose on.—8. See bear a bob; old blind Bob; s'elp me bob!; shift (one's) bob. Also couple of bob, 2 and worth a bob.

bob, v.; occ. as bob out of. To cheat, trick. Late C.17–19 c. C.14–16, S.E.; C.17, coll. Ex Old Fr. bober, to befool.—2. To strike, slap, push sharply, punch: C.20. Gerald Kersh, Bill Nelson, 1942, 'I bob him in the stomach and he fell flat.' Cf. bonk.—3. To be subservient to authority; to be punctilious (and often a shade anxious) in observation of the regulations; hence bobber, one who is this or who does this, and bob on, to be very respectful towards one's superior: Army, esp. in the Guards regiments. See, e.g., Roger Grinstead, Some Talk of Alexander, 1943, and They Dug a Hole, 1946. Ex S.E. bob, to curtsy.—4. Hence, to dither: WW2. (P-G-R.) Services' coll.: perhaps, also, akin to the Midlands dial. to be biting and bobbing, ex bits and bobs (= pieces), to fidget about, or 'faff'. (P.B.) bob, adj. Lively, pleasant, 'nice': coll.: C.18—early 20. Ciber, 1721.—2. In c., safe; esp. in all is bob; late C.17—early 19. Cf. all betty, q.v.

bob! Stop! Enough! Society, ca. 1880–1900. Ex gen. bob it!, drop it! (—1864). It was used as response to say when!, q.v.

bob-a-day gunner or guns. A temporary gunnery-officer: RN: C.20. (F. & G.; Bowen.) He draws an additional shilling a day.

bob a nob. Almost a c.p.: a shilling a head. Ca. 1820–1910. Bee; H., 3rd ed., records in this form, which is correct; F. & H. as bob a nod, which I believe to be an error.—2. Hence, hair-cutting: from ca. 1930; † by 1947.

Bob and Dick. Sick: rhyming s. (D.H., 1974).—2. Prick (= penis): id: (Ibid.) A later var. of the synon. Bob (or Tom), Harry and Dick for sick, and Uncle Dick for both senses.

bob and sock, the game of. Boxing: boxing journalists': since the 1930s. Ex bob, to duck one's head, and sock to punch hard.

bob around. To go quickly from place to place: coll.; from ca. 1860. Cf. shift one's bob.

bob cull. A 'good fellow', pleasant companion: late C.18–19 c. See bob, adj., and cull.

bob-down man. An anti-aircraft sentry: military coll.: 1915–18. (F. & G.) His warning caused men to take cover.

bob down – you're spotted! A c.p. (from ca. 1920): Your argument (excuse, etc.) is so very weak that you need not go on!

bob groin. A racecourse betting-ring. See groin.

Bob, Harry and Dick. Sick, esp. after drink: rhyming s.:—1868 (Ware). Now, late C.20, shortened to Bob and Dick, q.v.

bob(-)hole door. A 'wagon door constructed to half open' (Railway, 2nd): railwaymen's: C.20. So that an employee may 'bob in or out'?

Bob Hope. A flying bomb: July–Oct. 1944. Daily Express, 14 Aug. 1944, "'When you hear them coming," I was told, "you bob, hope for the best."' A pun on the name of the famous American comedian.

bob-in. A voluntary subscription: Aus. coll.: late C.19–20. (B., 1943.) A shilling a head into the kitty.

bob it! See bob!

bob ken; bowman ken. 'A good or well furnished house, full of Booty, worth Robbing; also a House that Harbours Rogues and Thieves' (B.E.): c.: late C.17–early 19. See bob, adj., bowman and ken.

bob, line and sinker. Wholly. See lock, stock and barrel ...

bob (or Bob) my pal. A girl: rhyming s. on gal: from ca. 1855: †. 'Ducange Anglicus', 1857.

bob on. See bob, v.2.

Bob Short; Dumb Dick; Fat Jack. 'And here the unprofessional reader is apprised of "Jack's" propensity to designate people by appellations totally opposite to their characteristics and personal appearance'—footnoted, 'Thus a tall tar is frequently designated "Bob Short"—a lean one "Fat Jack"—a talkative topman, "Dumb Dick"' (W.N. Glascock, Naval Sketch-Book, 2nd series, 1834, at I, 58): naval ratings': C.19. Moe.

Bob Squash. A wash, to wash (oneself): rhyming s.: C.20.—2. Hence, the lavatory division of a public convenience: since ca. 1930. 'A pickpocket is said to be "working the Bob" when he specializes in removing wallets from the jackets of people washing their hands' (Franklyn 2nd).

bob-tack. Cleaning-wherewithal; brass polish: army: earlier C.20. (F. & G.) Perhaps ironically ex bob, adj., 1; see also tack.

bob tail. See bobtail.

bob-tailor. 'A cruiser-sterned merchant ship' (Bowen): nautical: late C.19–early 20. P.B.: presumably bob-tailer, one that has had its 'tail' bobbed, or cut short.

bob to a gussie. 'To ingratiate oneself with an officer' (Jackson): Services: since ca. 1930. See bobbing.

bob under. To sing small: Services': C.20. P-G-R.

bob up. To appear; to return, as in 'he's always bobbing up'. C.20, coll.

bob(b)ajee. A cook: army: mid-C.19–early 20. (F. & G.) Ex Hindustani bawachi.

bobber. A fellow-workman; mate, chum: dial. (—1860) >, by 1870, coll. and by 1885, s. Ex lit. sense.—2. A spurious pl. of bob, a shilling, as in two bobber, a two-shilling piece, though this (ca. 1880—1910) may conceivably be due to the 'OXFORD -ER'.—3. A tale-bearer: military: C.20. (F. & G.) See bobbing, 1, and bob, v., 3.—4. A filleter of fish: fishing trade s.: C.20. It now verges on coll. (The Regional wireless programme of 23 Nov. 1936.) Ex S.E. bob, to tap. Cf.:—5. An unloader of fish from trawlers: coll. >, by ca. 1920, j. 'Said to originate from the days when such hands were paid one shilling [see bob, n., 3] per day' (OED Sup.).—6. Always pl., inbobbers. A fringe of pieces of cork of cork or wood worn on a hat to keep the flies away: Aus.: late C.19–20. B., 1942.—2. Female breasts: North Country: since ca. 1945. John Wainwright, Edge of Destruction, 1968.

bobbery. A noise; disturbance; squabble. From ca. 1800: Kenney has it in his comedy, Raising the Wind, 1803; Punch honoured it in 1879. Ex Hindi Bap rel, Oh, father: often employed to express grief or surprise. Since ca. 1890 it has been little used except among soldiers and others with experience in India; current among the Tommies in WW1, and in Aus., C.20. In, e.g., Vance Palmer's novels, passim. See also buffery.

bobbery-pack. A heterogeneous squadron: naval: ca. 1820–90. Bowen, 'Borrowed from the sportsmen ashore', where, orig., it was a scratch collection of 'hounds' for hunting jackals and the like: Anglo-Indian. By extension, applied to any scratch team. Y. & B.

bobbie. See bobby.

bobbin. See screw the bobbin; end of the bobbin.

bobbing. An attempt to curry favour with a superior: Services': since ca. 1930. (H. & P.) Ex curtseying.—2. In she's a-bobbing!, a warning, to a signalman, of an emergency: RN lowerdeck: late C.19–20. W.G. Carr, 1939 (Moe).—3. See dry bobbing.

bobbing-bastard. A disappearing-'man' target: marksmen's: C.20 bobbing-drill. Target practice: military: C.20 (F. & G.) Orig. and esp. at a disappearing target.

bobbing on. Anticipating, expecting (something unpleasant): military: C.20 (F. & G.) E.g. 'He's bobbing on a court martial'.

bobbish. 'Clever, smart, spruce' (Grose, 2nd ed): ca. 1785–1820. Ex bob, 'a light, rebounding movement'.—2. Hence, in good health and/or spirits: implied in 1813; ob. except as pretty bobbish.—Adv., bobbishly: 1813, Scott (OED); ob. by 1930.

bobble, n. A confused movement of water: nautical coll.: from the 1870s.—2. A tassel or pom-pom, as in 'a woolly hat with a bobble on it', or of, e.g., a bolt of raw silk, 'it's covered in [with] tiny bobbles': domestic coll.: C.20. (P.B.)

bobble, v.t. To swindle or cheat (someone): coll.: ?ca. 1660–1720. 'Used by an indignant "gentleman captain" writing to the Navy Board, 1688' (R.S., 1969).—2. V.i. To move with frequent or continual bobbing: coll.: 1812, W. Tennant (OED). A frequentative of bob.

bobbles. Testicles, gen. a man's: sol. for baubles (but cf. bobble): C.19–20; ob. by 1930.

bobbly. Jerky, jumpy: coll.: 1909 (OED Sup.). Ex bobble, q.v.—2. (Esp. of trousers) 'loose and undulating'; baggy: coll.: 1921 (Ibid.).—3. Adj. ex bobble, 2. Covered with bobbles.

bobby, n. A policeman: since early 1840s. Ex Mr, later Sir, Robert Peel (cf. peeler), mainly responsible for the Metropolitan Police Act of 1828. My earliest record for it is Sessions (Surrey cases), June 1844, but F. & H. points out that, long before 1828, Bobby the beadle = 'a guardian of a public square or other open space'.—2. Hence, at Oxford and Cambridge, ca. 1860–90, the proctors were called bobbies.—3. A 'poddy' calf: Aus.: C.20. (B., 1942.) By corruption.—4. A signalman: railwaymen's: C.20. (Railway). Ex sense 1. '[It] goes right back to the days of the constable-signalman' (McKenna, Glossary)—i.e. when, in the 1830s–40s, signalmen acted also as the railway police.—5. See swallow bobby.

bobby, v. To serve, to be, to be occupied as, a policeman: police force coll.: since the 1930s. Hence the n., bobbing. Both occur in John Wainwright, The Worms Must Wait, 1967. Ex bobby, a policeman. Cf. copper, v., 2.

Bobby Atkins. An occ., coll., var. of Tommy Atkins: ca. 1900–14. Ware.

bobby-dangler. Penis: Can.: since the 1930s. Perhaps a blend of bobby-dazzler and dingle-dangle. (R.S., 1971.)

bobby-dazzler. 'A top much longer and narrower than the ordinary kind': Midlands': C.20. R. Aubrey Thompson in Observer, 3 Mar. 1935. A s. elab. of bobby dazzler, a dazzling thing or person: dial. (—1866; EDD.) In this sense, by 1890, s. in Britain; by 1900, s. in Aus., where usu. a real bobby-dazzler. (B.P.) 'In the heyday of Cycling Clubs the police would lie in wait for their dusk return. Those without lights got in the middle, those with the new-fangled very bright acetylene lamps rode on the outside, their lamps were the Bobby Dazzlers' (John A. Yates, letter, 1966): a pun on Bobby, bobby, a policeman. Se non è vero è ben trovato.

bobby-dodger(s). Clip-on brakes: 'Originally used when all [motor-]bikes had front brakes of dubious effectiveness (push-bike type mainly) which were required by law. Had to be used with great care—if at all' (Mike Partridge, 1979): motorcyclists': early C.20. Clipped on to satisfy the law, personified by a bobby. Similarly:—2. 'A clip-on horn or lamp' (Dunford.). id.: id.

bobby(-)horse. A chink-backed horse: vagrants' c.:—1845; †. bobby peeler. A policeman: ca. 1850–70. B. & L. See bobby, n.

bobby-soxer. A teenage girl rigidly adhering to teenage conventions: adopted, ca. 1959, ex US; by 1965, coll. Ex bobby socks, white cotton socks. Cf. quot'n at greatest, the.

bobby-twister. A burglar or thief that, on being pursued or seized, uses violence: mid-C.19–early 20; c. Ex bobby, a policeman.

bobby's helmet. The glans penis: since the 1930s. Ex shape.

bobby's job. A safe job; an easy one: army coll.: 1915–18. (F. & G.) A hit at the military police. Also some civilian use; ex a common misapprehension.

bobby's labourer. A special constable: such constables' in 1868. (Ware.) See bobby, 1.

Bob's-a-dying. Idling; idling and dozing; nautical: ?ca. 1790–1850. W.N. Glascock, Sailors and Saints, 1829 (I, 179), 'Nothing but dining, and dancing, and Bobs-a-dying on deck from daylight till dark'. (Moe.)

Bobs' Own. An early nickname of the Irish Guards, raised in 1900: from their first colonel, Lord Roberts. (Carew.) Bobs, the nickname of F.M. Earl Roberts (see Kipling's verse 'Bobs', 1898); as Bob for Robert, so Bobs for Roberts.

Bob's your uncle. Everything is all right. See and Bob's... bobstay. 'The frenum of a man's yard' (Grose, 2nd ed.): mid-C.18–20 (ob.); low coll.

bobstick. A shilling's worth (—1789). Orig. c., then low s.; † by 1860. (George Parker; Moncreiff, 1821.) Whence perhaps bob, n., 2, q.v.,—but then what is the origin of bobstick?

bobtail, bob-tail, bob tail. A lewd woman, lit. one with a lively pudend: coll.: C.17–18. (B.E., Grose.) Cf. wag-tail. —2. A contemptible fellow: C.17, perhaps coll.—Cf. 3. A eunuch; an impotent man: C.17–18; ex bob=cut short (cf. a bobtail horse) and tail=male member.—4. A partridge: vendors of game: late C.18–early 19. (Grose, 3rd ed.) Ex its short tail.—5. A dandy wearing a pointed tail-coat: early C.19: mostly proletarian. Ware.

bobtail, -tag, rag and; or tag-rag and bob-tail. The rabble (—1659); coll. in C.18, S.E. thereafter: the common herd (of any social class): C.19–20. Pepys has it first, but it was doubtless used earlier.

Boche. N., then also adj.: German, esp. a German soldier: from 1914; not much used by the British soldiers. Direct ex Fr. slang, where the word (from ca. 1870) is of uncertain origin: see esp. Words!, p. 221.

bocker (or bokker). A bowler hat: Aus.: since ca. 1920. (B., 1942.) Ex boxer, 2.

bockety. Distorted or deformed: Anglo-Irish, esp. Dubliners': C.20. (Dr H.W. Dalton.)

boco, boko. The nose. Orig. (ca. 1820) pugilistic, but gen. by 1873. Prob. ex beak; but if coconut (also, in US, simply coco or, erroneously, cocoa) existed some years before its earliest record, then perhaps boco derives ex beak + coco. Ware thinks that it may derive ex Grimaldi's tapping his nose and exclaiming c'est beaucoup: cf. sense 3.—2. Nonsense: ca. 1870–1910; etymology uncertain. Punch, 25 Sep. 1886: 'Lopsided Free Trade is all boko.'—3. (WW1 +, chiefly military.) Much: Tommy's version of Fr. beaucoup. Cf. Sussex dial. sense, a good haul of fish.—4. Blind in one eye. See boko, adj.—5. The head: schoolboys', perhaps ex misapprehension, or extension, of sense 1: mid-C.20. (P.B.) boco-smasher. A rough: low London: late C.19–early 20. Ware. Ex boco, 1.

bod. A body, i.e. a real person, a person actually available: RAF: since ca. 1935. (Jackson.) Note odd bod, unattached or 'spare' man: orig. Services', then gen. s.—2. The human body; figure: orig. middle-class feminine: since mid-1930s. 'When she saw him looking at her, she was glad that, as she put it to herself, she had "a good bod".' By 1970s, also in 'gay' vocabulary. (P.B.)—3. Sexual intercourse: mostly lower- and lower-middle class: since ca. 1920. Margaret Powell, The Treasure Upstairs, 1970, where a woman calls to her husband, 'Hey, Willie, do you want a bit of bod?' [i.e., body].—4. A passenger in an airliner: airline crews': 1950s. See quot'n at round the houses, 3.—5. As the Bod, the Bodleian Library: Oxford undergraduates': C.20. (Marples, 2.) Cf. next.—6. See hawk the bod.

Bodder. The Bodleian Library: Oxford University': from the late 1890s. Dorothy L. Sayers in The Passing Show, 25 Mar. 1933. Ex Bodley, q.v.

bod(d)eration. An early C.19 form of botheration (see bother).

bodge. Paper: Christ's Hospital (School): C.20. (Marples.) Ex bumf?—2. A bodgie: Aus. non-bodgies': since early 1950s. (Dick.) bodge spanner. Pliers or grips: motorcyclists' s. (Dunford): since ca. 1950. Cf. screw-driver, 1.

Bodger. The inevitable nickname of all men surnamed Lees: late C.19–20: mostly Services'. F. & G.—2. As Mr Bodger, it means a confused or inefficient man: Aus.: the 1950s. B., 1953.—3. Anything worthless. See bodgie, 2.

Bodger or Bidge, the. The Headmaster: Rugby: late C.19–20. (Marples.) Bodger corrupts boss, and bidge thins and shortens bodger. First applied to Dr James, headmaster 1895–1909' (Marples). 'The latter is no longer used' (D.F. Wharton, letter, 1965).

bodgie, -ey, -y. 'The Australian equivalent of the Teddy boy' (Wilkes): Aus.: from ca. 1950; by 1970, ob. Cf. widge. The word app. comes from US teenage s. for a young male jitterbug wearing his hair long and curly, and a sports jacket too large for him: W. & F. record it for 1952 and say that it was, by 1960, archaic, but they don't essay an etymology. My guess is that it doesn't come from Eng. Lakeland dial. bodyg, fat, puffy, but is a back-formation from bodgies, itself a distortion of 'the boys' or, more prob., boysies (cf. boysie). Another guess: widge *ex widge*s, an analogous distortion of 'the wimmen' (women)—prompted by bodgies.—2. 'Anything worthless, such as a fake receipt' (B., 1953): Aus. c.: since ca. 1950. Also bodger. Prob. ex Eng. dial. bodge, to cobble or patch clumsily (P.B.)—3. (Gen in pl.) Any misfit or unclassifiable person: Aus.: since ca. 1952 (B., 1953): ex sense 1. bodier. A blow on the side of the body; loosely, on breast or belly: boxing: ca. 1815–1915. Boxiana, II, 1818. Cf. body, v.

Bodies, the. Occurs in Major John André's poem, The Cow Chase, New York, 1780, London, 1781, with the Bodies footnote thus: 'A cant'—here, fashionable slang—'appellation given amongst the soldiery to the corps that had the honour to guard his Majesty's person'. By 1890, †. A shortening, prob., of 'Royal Body-Guards' (P.B.). bodilkin. A contraction of bawdy ken, a brothel: c.: ca. 1820–50. Bee.

Bodilkin(s). See [body].

bodkin. (Sporting) one who sleeps in a bed only on alternate nights: ca. 1850–1900. Ex the next entry.—2. A midshipman's dirk: joc. RN coll.: C.19–early 20. Bowen.—2. In ride or sit bodkin: C.19–20; adumbrated in Ford, 1638, and occurring in 1798 as to bodkin alone; ob. by 1930. To be wedged between two others when there is, altogether, room for only two. Coll. Ex bodkin, to make, as it were, a bodkin of.

Bodley, the. The Oxford University Library: from ca. 1870; coll. Cf. Bodder, q.v.

[body appears, from ca. 1530, as part of many ancient oaths. E.g. Bodi(i)kin(s), a little body.]

body, n. A person: in C.19–20, either a sol. or a facetious coll. In dial., however, its usage is serious and respectable.—2. A person to be framed for a crime: police: since ca. 1950. G.F. Norman, Sir, You Bastard, 1970, Glossary.

body, v. To punch (one's opponent) on the body—i.e. the trunk: pugilistic coll.: ca. 1805–70. Boxiana, II, 1818. Cf. bodier.

body(-)and(-)soul lashing. 'A piece of rope tied belt-wise round an oilskin which a messmate can grab if a man is in danger of falling overboard' (Granville): RN: C.20. But also, in the old sailing-ship days, to keep water out of legs and sleeves of oilskins.

body-bag. A shirt: low: ca. 1820–70. Sinks.

body-basher or panel-beater. A garage owner, or the garage itself: Aus. motorists': since ca. 1950. (B.P.)

body-binder. A 'waistcoat' or perhaps a 'broad belt': ca. 1810–40, esp. in boxing circles. Plymouth Telegraph, (?Mar.) 1822, 'Bartlett entered first, and doffed the castor from his nob, his blue bird's-eye from his squeeze, and his body-binder from his bread-basket'.

body-line work. Unfair or dishonest work or play: coll.: 1933. Ex the body-line cricket controversy, which began in Dec. 1932. See esp. Slang, p. 234.

body-lining. Bread: drapers'—1909 (Ware). Ex their trade.

body-louse, brag or brisk or busy as a. Very brisk or busy: coll.; resp. late C.16–17, (the gen. form) mid-C.17–20, mid-C.17–19.

body-slang. Fetters: C.19 c. See slang. Vaux, 1812.

body of divinity bound in black calf. A parson: mid-C.18—early 19. Grose, 2nd ed.

body-snatcher. A bailiff: mid-C.18—early 19: perhaps c. Grose, 1st ed.—2. A member of a ship's police force: nautical: mid-C.19—20; ob. Bowen.—3. A policeman: ca. 1840–1900, low.—4. A resurrectionist (—1812), ob.: coll.; after ca. 1850, S.E. Vaux, 1812, Body-snatching > a trade ca. 1827.—5. An undertaker: from ca. 1820; ob. by 1930. Bee.—6. A cat-stealer (—1859), † by 1900.—7. A cabman: London streets': ca. 1840–60. (Ware.) Ex his habits.—8. A stretcher-bearer: army, since early C.20 (F. & G.), and RAF since ca. 1939 (H. & P.); ob. if not †. Also, in pl., the Royal Army Medical Corps: ob. by 1950 at latest.—9. A sniper: army: WW1. F. & G.—10. A surgeon addicted to operating on seamen: R Aus. N: WW2. B., 1943.

Boers. A coll. form of Boer brandy, i.e. brandy manufactured in S. Africa: 1884, Queenstown Free Press, 22 June (Pettman). Cf. Cape smoke, q.v.

boff, n. Short for boffin, 3.—2. In have a boff, to hit out: cricketers': since ca. 1955. Sunday Times, 9 July 1961, Ian Peebles, 'May, with a raincloud at his back and victory just round the corner, had a boff'. Echoic. Cf. boff.

boff (up). To make a mistake; to do something wrong: Loughborough Grammar School: since ca. 1975. (Phillip Reed, 1977.) Prob. rather more gen. Also (not at LGS), make a boff, to make a mistake.

boffer. See boffing.

boffin. Usually the boffins, the inventors working for the advancement of aviation: RAF. Dating since before WW2, it > gen. in the Services only in 1944 (W/Cdr Robin P. McDouall, 1945). It owes something to Dickens, Our Mutual Friend, 1864–5, where a conscientious Mr Boffin is 'a very odd-looking old fellow indeed'—and to William Morris, News from Nowhere, 1891, where another Mr Boffin was a dustman interested in mathematics. (Brian Foster, The Changing English Language, 1968). Ramsey Spencer adds: 'So perhaps the origin is purely literary'. For 'perhaps' I'd substitute 'probably'—it's that sort of word.—2. In RN, any officer over 40 years of age: since ca. 1940. Granville.—3. A 'swot', a diligent student: comprehensive schoolchildren's: early 1980s. (Michael Birkett, 1982.)

boffing, vbl n.; boffer. Masturbation; one who indulges in a specific instance: low: since ca. 1930.—2. 'A term for sexual intercourse' (Powis): low: since mid-C.20.

boffinologist. 'Derogatory term, the reversal of the affectionate, respectful "boffin", but referring to [the] same persons' (Peppitt, 1976): MN: since ca. 1970. It implies a medical boffinology, technology, science.

boffo. Popular; successful: Can., adopted, ca. 1970, ex US (see W. & F.). As in Maclean's (magazine), Aug. 1976: 'Judith Guest's... novel, Ordinary People... a film sale to boffo book-buyer, Robert Redford'. Echoic; cf. S.E. striking; and s. socko-boffo.

bog, n. (Often the bogs.) Abbr. bog-house, q.v., a privy: since early C.19 (in Spy, 1825); orig. Oxford University s., > C.20 coll. Also, by ca. 1945, Aus. (A. Buzo, 1973). Hence go to bog, 'to go to stool' (Lex. Bal., 1811), and do or have a bog: low.—2. In c. (?ever in the singular), the land-reclaiming works at Dartmoor: from ca. 1860; †.—3. Abbr. bog-wheel, a bicycle: Marlborough College: C.20.

bog, v. To defecate: from ca. 1870; s. >, ca. 1920, low coll., including Public Schools'. (Baumann; P.B.) Ex prec. 1.—2. To work hard at a manual job: Aus.: since ca. 1915. Gavin Casey, The Wits Are Out, 1947, 'Bogging underground on the goldfields'. Cf. bog in, q.v., the more common form.

bog brush upside down. A short official haircut: RN lower-deck: 1970s (and, I think, earlier). Peppitt. I.e. a lavatory brush.

bog bumf. Lavatory paper: low: C.20. Tautologous, but necessary to distinguish from the extended senses of bumf, q.v. (P.B.)

bog-eyed. Heavy-eyed from, e.g., too much drink, or lack of sleep: since ca. 1945. (P.B.)

bog-gang. A party of convicts detailed for the work defined at bog, n., 2: same period. B. & L.

bog-house. A privy: from ca. 1670; low coll. Head in The English Rogue; B.E.: Ned Ward; Grose. Ex the ca. 1550–1660 S.E. boggard. P.B.: Edward Bishop has drawn my attention to: 'Camden Council has just received a planning application from Lincoln's Inn asking for permission to build a new screen wall... at the Boghouse, Base Court, Star Yard, WC2. ... This is not, I find, any historic building, but a series of lavatories for the law' (PHS, The Times Diary, 4 June 1982, paragraph headed: 'All cisterns go').

bog-in, n. A hearty meal: Aus.: C.20. (Jon Cleary, The Climate of Courage, 1954.) Ex the v., 2.

bog in, v.i. To eat (heartily): to work energetically: Aus.: late C.19–20. B., 1942.—2. To get started: Aus.: since ca. 1910. (Culotta.) Cf. bog, v., 2.

Bog-land. Ireland: late C.17–20, ob. Coll., orig. and mainly joc. Cf.:

Bog-Lander. An Irishman: coll.: from ca. 1690; ob. (B.E., Grose.) Ireland is famous for rain: cf. bog-trotter and Urinal of the Planets.

bog-Latin. Spurious Latin: late C. 18—early 20: coll. (Grose, 1st ed.) ?an Irish perversion of dog Latin.

bog man. A term of abuse in the Army, esp. in the Guards: since ca. 1930. Cf. shit, n., 2.

bog off. To depart; to take off: RAF: since ca. 1937. Charles Graves, Seven Pilots, 1943.

bog-orange. A potato: C.18–20, ob.; coll. So many potatoes come from Ireland.

bog-rat. English term of contempt for any Irishman: C.20. Cf. Bog-Trotter.

bog-shop. A ca. 1840–1910 low var. of bog-house.

Bog-Trotter. 'Any Irishman whatsoever' (B.E.): since late C.17. Ex the numerous bogs of Ireland. Cf. Bog-Lander, q.v.—2. Earlier, ca. 1660–90, 'Scotch or North Country Moss-troopers or High-way Men' (B.E.; cf. Camden): coll.—3. (b.-t.) One who goes often to 'the bogs' = privy: C.20 joc. Manchon.

bog-trotting. A pej. adj. applied to Irishmen, esp. if uncouth: from ca. 1750; coll. Employed by Goldsmith and Thackeray.

bog up. To make a mess of; to do incompetently; hence the n. bog-up: Services: 1939+. (P-G-R.) Perhaps ex bugger up, but just as likely from bog, v., 1.

bog(-)wheel. A bicycle: Cambridge undergraduates': ca. 1924–40. Its wheels are—like the gap in a water-closet seat—round. Cf. bog, n., 1.—2. Hence, a motorcycle: army: WW2. (L.S. Beale.)

bogee or bougie. To force (a mixture of cement and water) into the required position by means of compressed air: Public Works' (—1935). Ex the medical sense of bougie.

bogey, bogje, bogy, n. See ask bogey, an evasive answer.—2. A landlord: from ca. 1860; ob. Perhaps orig. bogy-man, ex Old Bogey, q.v. at sense 16.—3. A detective or a policeman: C.20: c. > low s. Charles E. Leach.—4. A stove for heating: early C. 20.—5. A mistake; a blunder: army: earlier C.20. F. & G.—6. As Bog(e)y, the 'inevitable' nickname of men surnamed Harris: Services': late C.19—earlier 20. F. & G.—7. As bogje, a bathe: Aus.: since ca. 1815. Ex Aboriginal.—8. Hence, a swimming-hole; a bath: Aus.: late C.19–20. (B., 1943.) Now usu. bogje-hole. (B.P.)—9. 'One who spoils one's game or interferes with one's pitch': grafters' and market-traders': C.20. (Cheepjack; M.T.) Also known as a mark.—10. Hence, a government official, esp. a tax-man: market-traders': since ca. 1910 (M.T.)—11. A curse; bad luck, as in 'He put the bogey on me': market-traders': C.20. (Ibid.) Derived ultimately, perhaps, ex Bogy=the Devil, but cf. senses 10 and 11, and put the mockers on.—12. 'Nickname given to a man with... unusually scooped open nostrils: early C.20. (L.A.)—13. A lump of mucus or slime or dirt in the nostril or eye-corner: C.20. (P.B.) Cf. sweep, 3.—14. An aircraft suspected to be hostile: RAF s. > j.: WW2. P-G-R.—15. A dissatisfied customer: mock-auction s.: C.20. Cf. sense 9.—16. (Usu. with Old, and capitals.) The devil: ca. 1820–1920: dial. > coll. (Barham.) But a comparison with ask bogey, q.v., suggests that this sense, which precedes by thirty years that of a goblin, a person to be dreaded, may be fifty years earlier than 1820. It is true that bogle, the presumed and prob. orig. of bogy, antedates bog-house by 150 years or so, yet the indelicate sense of ask bogey provides a not-to-be-ridiculed possibility both of ask bogey's derivation from bog-house and even of an esoteric connexion between ask bogey, bog-house, and Bogy.—17. In go bog(e)y, to become prophetic; be or become gifted with second sight: actors' and music-hall performers': C.20. E.g. Christine Jope-Slade in The Passing Show, 24 Feb. 1934.—18. See Colonel Bogey.

bogey, bogy, adj. Sombre of tint or colour: studio s.: ca. 1870–1910.

bogey call. A false call at tombola (housey-housey) or bingo: since mid-C.20, if not much earlier. The 'checker', on discovering that the player's card is wrongly marked, would declare 'House a bogey'. See TOMBOLA, in Appendix.

bogey man (or one word). Fisheries patrol vessel: nautical: C.20. D. Butcher, Trawlermen, 1980, glossary.

bogey men. 'The bogie men were men who worked in the carriage repair shop. Footplatemen rarely came into contact with them' (McKenna, Glossary): railwaymen's: mid-C.20. A pun on bogie wheels and bogey, n., 16.

boggart, be off at, with Meredith occ. added. To be, or go, off at full tilt or, fig., impetuously: Midlands: late C.19–20. Ex Midlands dial. (of a horse) take (the) boggart, take fright. A boggart is, of course, a bogey or hobgoblin or ghost. (Richard Merry.)

boggi (pron. bog-eye). 'Handpiece of a shearing machine' (B., 1959): Aus. rural: C.20. Origin? Wilkes suggests ex the shape of the bogghi lizard.

boggle-de-botch, boggledybotch. A bungling; a 'mess': coll. (—1834); ob. (Maria Edgeworth, 1834.) Ex boggle, a, or to, bungle, and botch, to do, or make, clumsily.

boggy. (Gen. of a child) diarrhoea: schoolboys': late C.19–20. Ex bog, n., 1.

bogh. To get; hold; make (esp. a person) work: Shelta: C.18–20. B. & L.

bogie. See bogey.

bogs. See bog, n.

boguer. A clumsy sailing-ship: nautical coll.: mid-C.19–20. Bowen.

bogus, n. One who is detected in a pretence, a bluff, a sham: Services: since ca. 1935. (H. & P.) Ex the adj.

bogus, adj. Sham; spurious; illicit. Orig. (—1840) US and = counterfeit (ex instrument, thus named, for the uttering of base coin). Acclimatised ca. 1860 in England, where it > coll. ca. 1900, S.E. ca. 1930. As W. remarks, 'calibogus, "rum and spruce beer, an American beverage" (Grose [1st ed.]) suggests a parallel to balderdash'; but, as F. & H. (rev.) remarks, bogus may be cognate with bogy; the editor proposes derivation ex bogy on hocus-pocus. See esp. OED, F. & H., and Thornton. Cf. scamp, snide, qq.v.—2. Hence, unpleasant; dull; silly: Society: from ca. 1929. Evelyn Waugh, Vile Bodies, 1930, "Oh, dear," she said, "this really is all too bogus." bogy. See bogey.

Bohunk (or b-). 'As a Polish or Slavic labourer [it] was a familiar to me in 1910 in British Columbia' (Leechman): Can.: C.20. Prob. adopted from US: Mitford M. Mathews records it for 1903 and explains it as a modified blend of Bohemian + Hungarian.

boil, n. A teenager whose sex is not immediately discernible, because of long hair and clothing so much alike: ca. 1962; ephemeral. Ex 'boy and girl'—with a pun on 'pain in the neck'.

boil, v. To betray: ca. 1600–50: ?orig. c. Rowlands; Middleton & Decker: OED.

boil down. To condense: orig. (—1880) journalistic coll.; but S.E. in C.20.

boil (one's) lobster. To leave the Church for the Army: mid-C.18—early 19: military. See lobster, n., 2.

boil-over, n. A series of horse-races in which the favourite loses: Aus. sporting: since ca. 1870. May be written boilover.

boil over, v. To fly into a rage: coll., from ca. 1850; in C.20, S.E.

boil-up, n. An argument; a quarrel: Aus.: C.20. B., 1942.

boil up a storm. To play as an instrumentalist in a hot jazz session: 'pop' devotees': since ca. 1970. In a BBC radio interview, 8 Feb. 1973. (R.S.)

boil your head!, go and. A proletarian injunction not to be silly: C.20. (Compton MacKenzie, Water on the Brain, 1933). Occ. go away and boil yourself!

boiled, n. Boiled beef or mutton: coll., since ca. 1840. Dickens, 1848, 'A great piece of cold boiled' (OED).

boiled, adj. Tipsy: from ca. 1875; orig. among Aus. gold-diggers.

Boiled Bell (or b.-b.). Port Glasgow: nautical, esp. by Greenock men: mid-C.19–20. Bowen, 'The reference is to a traditional bell... painted so much that it would not ring'; the paint had to be boiled off. Cf. Gilted Gabbar.

boiled dog. 'Side': NZ from ca. 1910; Aus. since ca. 1918. Perhaps on boiled shirt; put on dog.

boiled lobster. A British soldier. See lobster, n., 2.

boiled over, ppl adj. (Of a market) that has been good but has had a set-back: Stock Exchange: C.20. Ex a kettle that has boiled over.

boiled owl. See drunk as...

boiled pig at home, have. To be master in one's own house, 'an allusion to a well-known poem and story' (Grose, 1785): coll.: ca. 1780–1830.

Boiled Rabbit. St Clement's Church, Oxford: Oxford undergraduates': ca. 1830–60. Because of its peculiar architecture. Geoffrey Faber, Oxford Apostles, 1953.

boiled rag. A stiff shirt: Aus.: since ca. 1910. Baker.—2. See feel like...

boiled shirt. A dress-suit shirt: C.20, coll. Ex US, where it orig. (—1854) signified any white linen shirt. (Uncultured Americans rather like the pronunciation, and spelling, biled.)

boiled stuff. Collectively for harlots: ca. 1580–1630; as in Shakespeare's Cymbeline. Prob. extremely rare outside of Cymbeline.

boiler. Abbr. pot-boiler, q.v.—2. At Winchester College, until ca. 1910, a four and sixpenny boiler was actually a large, plain coffee-pot used for heating water, from, not the price but the amount of milk they held; and a τὸ πᾶν boiler—lit. a whole-lot boiler—was a large saucepan-like vessel in which water for bidets (q.v.) was heated.—3. A hat: Public Schools': ca.

1880–1915. Talbot Baines Reed, The Fifth Form at St Dominic's, 1907—4. 'A well-used woman of forty or over' (Robin Cook, 1962): since ca. 1925: c. >, by 1960, low s.

boiler-buster. A boiler-maker: RN: C.20.

boiler-clean. A boiler-cleaning: RN coll.: C.20.

boiler-creepers. Dungarees: RN: C.20. Worn by engineers and stokers in the engine-room.

boiler-maker. A mixture, half of draught mild and half of bottled brown ale: public-houses': since ca. 1920. It is worthwhile to note that, in US, the meaning is 'whiskey with a beer chaser—sometimes called a "boiler-maker and his helper"' (Robert Claiborne, 1976).

boiler-plate. Matter already set, on stereotyped plates, for filling up pages of a newspaper: Can. printers': C.20.

Boilers or Brompton Boilers. The name given orig.—since ca. 1873 it has been applied to the Bethnal Green Museum (likewise in London)—to the Kensington Museum and School of Art (now the Victoria and Albert Museum), because of the peculiar form of the buildings and also because of their sheet-iron roofs. H., 2nd ed., 1860.—2. (Only as boilers.) At the Royal Military Academy, from ca. 1880, boiled potatoes, greasers being fried potatoes: the 'OXFORD -ER'.

boiling. A discovery, a betrayal: c. of ca. 1600–59. Ex boil, q.v.—2. Since ca. 1930, a coll. shortening of the whole boiling, q.v., the whole lot.

boiling point. At (the) ..., about to fly into a rage: coll.: since ca. 1880. Adumbrated by Emerson.

boils. See heads on 'em like boils.

boing! This imitation of the noise made by a suddenly released spring, became, ca. 1955, a Can. c.p., used on any occasion, no matter how inappropriate. (Leachman.) By 1950, also British, with var. boink. Cf. doing and kerdoying.

Bojer or Boojer. A Boer; esp. a Boer soldier: English soldiers': in the S. African War.

bok. A girl. S. African c.: C.20, Cape Times, 23 May 1946.

boke. The nose: late C.19—earlier 20 var. of boco, q.v.

bokker. See bocker.

boko, n. See boco.

boko, adj. Blind in one eye: Aus.: C.20. (B., 1942.) Wilkes, however, adducing citations from very early C.20—and none later—specifies 'a horse with one eye'.

boko-smasher. See boco-smasher.

bokoo. Var. of boco, n., 3.

Bolander. Dweller in a mountainous region of S. Africa. See under Kapenaar.

bold as a miller's shirt. Explained by its frequent appendage, which every day takes a rogue by the collar. Coll.: C.18—early 19.

bold as brass. Presumptuous; shameless: from ca. 1780; coll. George Parker; Thackeray, 1846, 'He came in as bold as brass'; Weyman, 1922. Apperson. Cf. brass, 2.

bold boat. A seaworthy ship: nautical coll.: mid-C.19–20. Bowen has also a bold hawse, 'said of a ship when her hawse pipes are well out of the water'. Both phrases verge on j. Bold Fifteenth, the. The 15th Hussars: military coll. now verging on S.E.: C.19—early 20. F. & G. boldrumpitious. Presumptuous: late C.19—early 20. Ex bold + rumpus + the -tious of presumptuous: EDD.

bolser. An occ. spelling of bowler, q.v., as in -hat.

Boley or Boly. A Bolingbroke light-bomber aircraft: RCAF: 1940–5. The Canadian form of the Blenheim.

bollick(s) or bollock(s), other forms, compounds and phrases. See ballock(s) et seq.

bolly. At Marlborough College: pudding, esp. if boiled; from ca. 1860; ob. Cf. the North Country bolly, gruel. Both, prob., ex Fr. bovillie.

Bolo. A Bolshevik: military (N. Russian campaign, 1918). ?partly on Bolo Pasha, shot in April 1918, for carrying out, in France (bold fellow!), 'pacifist propaganda financed from Germany' (W.). Cf.:—2. A spy: id., id. Same origin. F. & G.—3. (As bolo) 'Friend or mate (a hippy term)' (Powis): since mid-1960s. Perhaps exbolo, v. To speak; esp. bolo the bat, to speak the language, and therefore = sling (or spin) the bat. In Hindustani bolo bat would rather mean 'speak the matter (or words)', Hindustani being the source of this word. Regular army: late C.19—earlier 20. F. & G.

bolo, adj. "'What's Bolo?'" "Cock-eyed; anything not correct in the Coldstream Guards is Bolo"' (Gerald Kersh, They Die with Their Boots Clean, 1941.) Prob. ex Bolo = bolshie.—2. Esp. in a bolo job, a safe one: RFC: later WW1. ('The Low Recon.', in Ronald Dixon, Echoes in the Sky, 1982, p. 41.) Ex Bolo House.

Bolo House (occ. Hotel Bolo). The Air Ministry's Headquarters at the Hotel Cecil, in London: Air Force: 1918 (F. & G.). Ex Bolo Pasha: see Bolo, 1.

boloney; incorrectly baloney. Nonsense; 'eyewash'. Of this US word, anglicised by 1931 (thanks to the 'talkies'), Dr Jean Bordeaux—in a private letter—writes thus: 'Used since at least 1900 in U.S.A., especially around New York, to mean "buncombe" or "a poppycock story". It appears in songs of 1900, and [the word boloney as a corruption of Bologna sausage] probably dates back twenty years earlier because there was a music-hall song, "I Ate the Boloney" popular in the late 70's, early 80's ... There is much to uphold belief that the sausage origin has merit, on analogy that it's a mixture of ground-up meat and then you stuff the casing. Hence, mix up a tale and stuff the auditor.' Yet, at the risk of appearing too sceptical, I must declare my disbelief in that origin and my opinion that 'It's (or that's) all boloney'—the usual form—is exactly synon. with 'That's all balls,' the etymology of boloney being the Gipsy peloné, textiles: cf. the US nerst! and ballocks, 2 (q.v.), and see balls.

Bolshie, Bolshy. (All senses are coll.) A Bolshevik: 1920. Any revolutionary: 1933. Joc. of an unconventional person: 1924 or 1925. Also adj.: same dates for the corresponding senses. The word Bolshevik (a majority socialist) seems to have been first used in 1903. See the SOD for an admirable summary. Cf. Bolo, q.v.—2. Hence, since ca. 1930 and usually small b'd, a synonym of bloody-minded; pig-headed; obstructive and deliberately difficult; esp. in the Forces: since 1939. Without political significance.—3. In a load of bolshie(-y), Communist propaganda: late 1940s–60s, then archaic. Cf. bulsh.

bolshies and yellow perils. Agents concerned mainly with Russia—and with China: espionage: since ca. 1950. John Le Carré, The Honourable Schoolboy, 1977.

bolster-pudding. A roly-poly pudding: non-U: late C.19–20. Ex shape.

bolt. The throat: early C.19; mainly Cockney. (Moncrieff in Tom and Jerry.) Perhaps ex t bo(u)lt, a flour-sieve.—2. A rupture, gen. incompletely honourable, with a political party: coll.: orig. (—1840) US; accepted in England as a coll., ca. 1860.

bolt, v. To escape; depart hastily: C.17–20. In C.17 S.E.; ca. 1710–80, coll.; ca. 1780–1870, s.; then coll., then in C.20, again S.E. In Moncrieff and Barham it is wholly s.; the latter having 'Jessy ransack'd the house, popp'd her breaks on, and when so/Disguis'd, bolted off with her beau—one Lorenzo'—2. V.t., to eat hurriedly, without chewing; gulp down: coll.: from ca. 1780. Grose, 1785; Wolcot, 1794; Dickens, 1843. With the speed of a bolt.—3. To break with a political party (bolt from): orig. (1813) US, anglicised ca. 1860 as a coll. and in C.20 considered S.E. Thornton.—4. In get the bolt, be sentenced to penal servitude: c.; from ca. 1840. Influenced by boat, n. and v.

bolt from the blue, a. Something (gen. unpleasant) wholly unexpected:—1888; coll. till C.20, when S.E.

Bolt-Hole, the. The Channel Islands, where the income-tax is low: political coll.: from ca. 1920. (Collinson.) Ex a rabbit's bolt-hole.

Bolt-in-Tun, go to the. To bolt, run away: c.; from ca. 1810; †. (Vaux.) Ex a famous London inn. A play on the v. bolt, q.v. Also, as c.p., the Bolt-in Tun is concerned (Vaux): † by 1890. Cf. turn the corner of Bolt Street, low coll. synon. (Baumann).

bolt of it, make a shaft or a ; gen. a bolt or a shaft. To risk this or that issue; accept a risk: ca. 1590–1750; coll. >, by 1660, S.E. Shakespeare; Fuller. Apperson.

Bolt Street. See Bolt-in-Tun.

bolt the moon. To depart with one's goods without paying the rent, to 'do a moonlight flit': C.19–early 20.

bolt upright. An emphasis-tag; mostly Cockney's: from ca. 1880. E.g. 'I'll be damned, bolt upright.'

bolted. See through the mill...

bolter. In c., one who, for fear of arrest, hides in his own house: C.18. Dyche, 1748.—2. One restive under authority: coll.: from ca. 1850; ob. by 1930. Cf. Fr. rouspéteur.—3. One who leaves his political party: coll.: orig. (1812: Thornton) US; anglicised ca. 1870 as a coll.; in C.20 almost S.E.—4. A runaway convict; also, a bushranger: Aus.: mid-C.19. Wilkes.—5. 'An outsider (applied more recently [i.e. later C.20] to one who wins or succeeds)' (Wilkes): Aus. sporting: since ca. 1920. Orig. esp. in hasn't the bolter's, 'Used of a person or race-horse that has no chance at all in a contest or situation' (B., 1941), with which cf. Buckley's chance—none.

bolter of the Mint, or of White Friars. One who may peep out but does not, for fear of arrest, venture abroad. Prob. orig. c.: ca. 1690–1800. B.E., Grose.

boltsprit, bowsprit. Late C.17–18, C.19–20 (ob.) resp.: the nose. Until ca. 1770, low. Shadwell; B.E., 'He has broke his Boltsprit, he has lost his Nose with the Pox.'

bolus. An apothecary; a physician: late C.18–20, ob. Ex bolus, a large pill. Grose, 2nd ed.

Boly. A Bolingbroke aircraft. See Boley.

boman. A gallant fellow: c.: C.17–18. See quot'n at pop, n., 3. Prob. ex beau man. Also as adj.

boman ken. A var. of bowman ken: see bob ken.

boman prig. An expert thief: c.: late C.17–early 19.

bomb, n. In address, a bombardier (the Royal Artillery rank equivalent to corporal): army (esp. RA): since ca. 1920. H. & P.—2. 'An old car or motorcycle' (B., 1953): Aus. since ca. 1945; British since, perhaps, a little later. In The Drum, 1959, Baker defines it as 'any old car, but esp. a car made in the 1930s'; 20 years later, in Britain as, no doubt, in Australia, for '1930s' read '1950s'—and even later if the vehicle has been uncared for yet driven to the limit. (P.B.)—3. A lot of money, as in the phrases cost a bomb and make a bomb, qq.v.—4. See drop a bomb; go like a bomb.

bomb, v. To dope (a horse): Aus. sporting: since ca. 1945. B., 1953.—2. V.i. To drive fast, and prob. dangerously, in a motor vehicle, as in: 'There we were, bombing down the motorway, doing bloody near the ton, when out pops the fuzz': coll.: since ca. 1950. (P.B.)—3. V.i. To go anywhere informally; e.g., an assistant in a girls' dress-shop, about a fairly ordinary dress: 'Oh, it'd do to bomb around in': since ca. 1975. Perhaps ex bum around, influenced by sense 2. (P.B.)—3. V.i. To fail, esp. of an entertainment, performance: adopted, ex US, early 1970s.—4. See TIDDLYWINKS, in Appendix.

Bomb Alley. The Straits of Messina: RN and MN from mid-1940 to mid-1943, then only historical.—2. The enemy-held strip of coast between Tobruk and the British lines in Egypt: 1941–3.—3. On the home front in WW2, the paths taken to their targets (principally London) by the German Air Force, 1940–2, and, in 1944, by the 'doodlebug' (V1s) and V2 rockets. (P.B.)

bomb-dodger. One who, during WW1, lived out of London to escape the air-raids: coll.: 1916–18. F. & G.

bomb-happy. With nerves gone, through exposure to bombing: army: 1940+, (Rats, 1944: W/Cdr Robin P. McDouall, letter, 1945.) Contrast the RAF flak-happy. Also, as n., a person with bomb-shattered nerves.

bomb-head (or written solid). An Ordnance Branch rating: FAA: since 1930s. (Miss Margaret Wood.)—2. A term of genial abuse, use. vocative: army: 1950s–60s. Used also of someone slightly crazy or happy-go-lucky. (P.B.)

bomb out, v.i. To fail to appear as expected: media coll.: late 1970s. David Leitch, in Sunday Times mag., 9 Dec. 1979, 'I gather [the minister]'s bombed out.' "Not at all, ... The Cabinet's simply not over yet."

bomb-proof. With an impregnable excuse to prevent one being named for an unpleasant duty, as in: 'They can't touch me—I'm bomb-proof' (dangerous hubris!): Services': since ca. 1950, or perhaps much earlier, for cf. next. Esp. in 'Fuck you, Jack—I'm bomb-proof!', a var. on the fuck you, Jack, q.v., theme. (P.B.)

bomb-proof job. A safe job, i.e. one at the Base: military: 1916–18. (B. & P.) Hence, bomb-proofer, a man holding such a job. Cf. US bomb-proof, a Southerner who did not join the Confederate Army (Thornton).

bomb-proofer. 'A man given to scheming methods of evading duty on dangerous occasions': military: 1916–18, hence as a survival. F. & G.

Bomb-Proofs, the. The 14th Foot, since 1881 the Prince of Wales's Own West Yorkshire Regiment: military: mid-C.19–early 20. F. & G., 'From the immunity from casualties when in the trenches before Sebastopol'.

Bomb Shop, the. The (formerly Hendersons') very interesting bookshop at 66, Charing Cross Road, London, WC2: it offers a notable display of advanced belles-lettres and, esp., political writings. G.H. Bosworth's novel, Prelude, 1932, p. 227. I myself first heard it so described by the proprietor early in 1928, but it has enjoyed this distinction since ca. 1924. (E.P. note for the 1st ed. of this Dict.) Even though the shop was bought by Collet's in 1934, the nickname remains, in some people's memories, as an association with the previous proprietor's 'anarchist' tendencies. (Mrs C. Raab.) bomb-sight buglet. A bright-eyed gremlin, addicted to dazzling the bomb-aimer: RAF: 1940–5. P-G-R. See GREMLIN.

bomb-site (or bombsite). Any small derelict area in city or town, such as results from demolition for slum-clearance: coll.: since 1945. (P.B.)

bomb the chat, gen. as vbl n. To practise trickery or plausible deception; to 'tell the tale'; to exaggerate: military: C.20. (F. & G.) Origin? Prob. supplied by the var. bum the chat (B. & P.). Also bum one's load.

bomb-up. 'To load an aircraft with bombs' (Jackson): RAF coll.: since 1939; at latest by 1944, j.

Bombardier Fritz; occ. pom(me) Fritz. Fried potatoes: army: WW1. A corruption, by Hobson-Jobson, of the Fr. pommes de terre frites.

Bombay bowler. A service-issue topee: RAF: since ca. 1925. (Sgt Gerald Emanuel, letter, 1945.) Alliterative—and, well, Bombay is hot. The Sergeant, however, says, 'Because usually jettisoned at Bombay, port of entry into India, by reason of its uncomfortable weight.'

Bombay Buccaneers or Marines, the. 'The Naval Service of the Honourable East India Company (C.19)—carried over to the Royal Indian Navy and again to the Indian Navy of today' (Peppitt, 1976).

Bombay duck. That Indian fish which, alive, is called the bummallo, whence, by the Law of Hobson-Jobson, the present anomaly (cf. Welsh rabbit): at first (C.18) coll.; by 1890 S.E. Cordiner in his C.18 Voyage to India. W.

Bombay Ducks. The Bombay regiments of the East India Company's forces: C.18–early 19.

Bombay fizzer. 'A small tumbler of water with a teaspoonful of sherbet in it' (Richards): Indian Army coll.: from ca. 1880.

Bombay fornicator. A type of chair (capacious and comfortable): RAF: since ca. 1925; ob. by 1950.

Bombay merchant. See Arabs.

Bombay milk-cart. Waste-disposal wagon: Indian army (other ranks'): late C.19–1947. Charles Allen, ed., Plain Tales from the Raj, 1977.

Bombay oyster. A glass of milk containing a double dose of castor-oil: training-ships': late C.19–20. Bowen.

Bombay Rock. Bombareck in India: nautical: 1812, Morier. Y & B.

Bombay runner. A large cockroach often encountered in the lands and islands of the Indian Ocean: nautical, esp. RN: late C.19–20. (Granville.)

Bombay Toughs. The Royal Dublin Fusiliers. See Old Toughs.

Bombay Welsh. The English spoken by Indians and Anglo-Indians, ex its sing-song quality. Hence, a Bombay Welshman. An accent that was made familiar to many by the inimitable Mr Peter Sellers. Mostly Services': since the 1940s; by late 1970s, prob. ob. (P.B.) bombed. Extremely drunk; hence, among addicts, drug-exhilarated: adopted, ca. 1955 and ca. 1962, ex US (Janssen, 1968). Often extended to ... out of one's mind or skull.

Bomber. For a while after WW2, a Services' nickname for men surnamed Harris. After Sir Arthur Harris, WW2 C in C, Bomber Command. (P.B.)—2. As b-, a newspaper: journalistic: 1930s.—3. 'A sixteen ton oil carrying wagon' (McKenna, Glossary), railwaymen's: since mid-C.20.

bomber boy. Any member (though esp. the pilot) of a bomber crew: RAF coll.: since 1939. Jackson.

Bombers. Essendon VFL footballers: coll.: Aus., esp. Melbourne, C.20. Ex proximity to aerodrome. Later the Dons.

bombie. See bommie.

bombing the chat. See bomb the chat.

bombo. An occ. var. of bumbo, 1 and 2, q.v.—2. Whisky: Aus.: C.20. (B., 1942). Ex bumbo, 2.—3. Cheap wine, esp. if much fortified: Aus.: since ca. 1919. (B., 1943). Since ca. 1930, any wine. (B.P.) Cf. bumbo, 2, and the rise of the synon. plonk, q.v., in the social scale.

bombshell. A surprise, esp. if unpleasant and/or painful, as in 'the announcement of the treasurer's embezzlement came as a bombshell': journalistic and gen. coll.: since ca. 1960. It is hard to see why this almost meaningless, tautologous word should have replaced the shorter, sharper bomb. (P.B.)

bommie, orig. bombie. A bombora, i.e. a 'submerged reef beyond the beach breakers' (Bulletin, 30 Mar. 1963): Aus. surfers': since late 1950s.

bomp on. To get one's unemployment-card stamped: dockers': from ca. 1930. (Daily Herald, late July or early Aug. 1936.) Prob. echoic: bomp=bump.

bomper. The stamp on dockers' Dock Labour Board cards: Merseyside: since the mid-1940s. (Picture Post, 3 Dec. 1949.) Ex prec.

bompi. Grandfather, in childish address: C.20. Perhaps ex Fr. bon-papa. (R.S.)

bon. Good; excellent; very acceptable: military coll.: WW1, then nostalgic. Also tray bon (Fr. très bon), and cinq bon, explained by a Tommy to a nurse as 'five bon, a nap hand' (= very good), in Olive Dent, A V.A.D. in France, 1917. See also sang bon.—2. Hence, bon drop, a goodly portion (of, e.g., sleep); bon for the bust, good to eat; bon sonty (Fr. bonne santé!), good health, good luck! (F. & G.; B. & P.) The reverse was no bon.

bona, n. A girl; a belle: C.19–early 20: low, prob. a reminiscence of bona-roba. Cf. dona(h).

bona, adj. Good; pleasant; agreeable: theatre and circus s., from ca. 1850. E.g. in Thomas Frost's Circus Life, 1875, and Edward Seago's Circus Company, 1933. Cf. bono.—2. Beautiful: prostitutes', esp. London: C.20. Ex sense 1.

bona, adv. Very: Parlyaree: since ca. 1860. (P.H. Emerson, Signor Lippo, 1893.) Ex the adj.

bona roba, bona-roba. A harlot, esp. a showy one: late C.16–early 19; in C.18–19, archaic and S.E. (Shakespeare, Jonson, Cowley, Scott.) Ex It. buona roba, lit. a fine dress. bonanza. A stroke of fortune; a prosperous enterprise. Orig. (1847) US, a rich mine—perhaps ex an actual Nevada mine. Accepted in England as a coll., ca. 1895, and as S.E., ca. 1910. Ultimately, via the Sp. bonanza, prosperity, ex L. bonus, good.—2. Hence, in Glasgow (—1934), money very easily obtained.

bonce; occ. bonse. The head: schoolboys': from ca. 1870. Ex bonce (—1862), a large marble. Ware.—2. Hence, a hat: Cockney's: early C.20. Edwin Pugh, The Cockney at Home, 1914.

bond-hook or bondhook. Var. of bundhook, a rifle. This old word is often, in late C.20, pron. bon-dook. (P.B.)

Bondi. In give (someone) Bondi, to beat someone up: Aus. low: late C.19–earlier 20. Wilkes.

Bondi (tram), go through— or travel—like a. To travel very fast; hence, to decamp hastily; hence, 'to leave a task or obligation on a sudden whim' (B., 1959): Aus., esp. NSW: C.20. Cf. go through and shoot through, qq.v.

bondu. Wilderness. Var. spelling of bundoo, q.v.

bone, n. A subscriber's ticket for the Opera: London: C.19; † by 1887 (Baumann). Ex Fr. abonement, subscription. The term was applied also to a little ivory disc issued by the management to a friend, entitling him to free admission to the theatre, as in Charles Lamb's letter of 20 July 1819—see E.V. Lucas's Life of Charles Lamb.—2. (Always the bone.) The thin man: London: 1882–ca. 1910. Ware.—3. The bone is also the penis erectus: Cockneys': mid-C.19–20.—4. As Bone. 'Inevitable' nickname of any man with the rare surname Idle: C.20. (Bournemouth Evening Echo, 13 Aug. 1974; via A.B. Fetch.) Ex bone-idle.—5. A dollar: Can.: since ca. 1960, ex US. (Leechman cites H. Dempsey, Bob Edwards, 1975).—6. See use at hood, 3; nearer the bone...; pick a bone with (includes have a bone...).—7. In dry or hard as a bone, free from moisture: coll. (—1833) >, by 1890, S.E.

bone, v. To seize, arrest; rob, thief; make off with. From ca. 1690; until ca. 1830 (witness B.E., Dyche, Grose (2nd ed.), Vaux), c. As s., it appears in Dickens, 1838, and Miss Braddon, 1861, and it had a great life in WW1; see Words! and cf. make, nab, win. 'Perhaps from the dog making off with the bone' (W.).—2. To interrogate (a suspect), police and fringe-of-underworld: C.20 (Bournemouth Evening Echo, 20 Apr. 1966). Ex sense 1.—3. To bring bad luck to, to jinx: Aus.: C.20. Ex S.E. point a bone, an Aboriginal practice, B., 1959.

bone, adj. Good; excellent: c.; from ca. 1850; ob. (Mayhew, 1851.) Ex Fr. bon or It. buono. Opp. gammy, q.v. Cf. bona and bono.

bone-ache. Venereal disease, esp. in men: late C.16–17; coll. verging on S.E. Nashe, Shakespeare.

bone-baster. A staff or cudgel: coll.: late C.16–mid-17.

bone boots. To get a patent-leather finish on one's Service boots: Regular Army coll.: C.20. A flat bone surface, such as a knife-handle, was used to flatten the new leather preparatory to the application of methylated spirits and polish (P.B.).

bone-box. The mouth: late C.18–20, low. (Grose, 1st ed.) Contrast bone-house.

bone-breaker. Fever and ague: lower classes': late C.19–early 20.

bone-cleaner. A servant: late C.19–early 20. Cf. bone-picker, 1.

bone-crusher. A large-calibre rifle: sporting; from ca. 1850; ob. Stanley's Livingstone, 1872.

bone dome. A protective helmet, esp. in aviation and among motorcyclists: the former, since ca. 1935; the latter post-WW2.

bone-grubber. A scavenger and seller of bones from refuse-heaps and -tins: coll.; from ca. 1850, the word occurring in Henry Mayhew. Cf. the C.18 grubber.—2. A resurrectionist: ca. 1820–60.—3. Hence, anyone having to do with funerals; esp. a mute: from ca. 1860; ob. Sala, 1863.

bone-head. See bonehead.

bone-house. The human body: coll., from ca. 1860; ob.—2. A charnel-house: from ca. 1820; ob.—3. A coffin: coll.: from the 1790s; † by 1890.

bone in the (or her) mouth, have (occ. have got or carry) a. (Of a ship) to make the water foam before her, 'cut a feather': nautical coll.: C.19–20; ob. Wm. Maginn, Tales of Military Life, 1829, at I, 327, 'Bless you, Ma'am, she has only got the bone in her mouth—she is spanking away like a young whale, at nine or ten knots an hour.' (Moe.) Bowen prefers bone in her teeth.

bone in the (or one's) throat (occ. leg, arm, etc.), have a. C.16–20, coll., the throat from (app. † by 1800) occurring in Udall, 1542, the arm in Torriano, 1666, the leg in Swift, ca. 1708 (printed 1738): a humorous excuse; a feigned obstacle. Apperson.

bone-lazy. Extremely indolent; coll.: from 1890s. Ex lazy-bones on S.E. bone-idle.

bone-orchard. A cemetery: lower classes': C.20. (B. & P.) Cf. bone-yard, and the US marble-orchard (Miss Mary Priebe).

bone out. To survey (a stretch of rail) in order to adjust the level; hence, boning rods, survey (or siting) boards: railway-men's: C.20. Railway.

bone-picker. A footman: late C.18–19, coll. in the latter. (Grose, 3rd ed.) Because frequently he has to eat leavings.—2. A collector and seller of bones, rags, and other refuse from the streets and garbage-tins: from ca. 1850: coll. >, by 1910, S.E. Ruskin, Crown of Wild Olives, 1866.

bone-polisher. A cat-o'-nine tails (1848); its wielder (1857): nautical. OED.—2. A footman: ca. 1800–70. 'The Confessions of a Footman' in Blackwood's, Nov. 1823. (Moe.) Ex the use of bone for polishing, e.g., leather.

bone-setter. A horse hard in the riding; a rickety conveyance: mid-C.18–early 19. (Grose, 1st ed.; Moncrieff.) Ironical pun on bone-setter, a surgeon. Cf. bone-shaker.

bone-shake. To ride one of the early bicycles: ca. 1867–1910.

bone-shaker. The early bicycle: from 1865 or 1866. The first bicycle to be cranked and pedalled was ridden in Paris in 1864; England followed suit most enthusiastically. These old bicycles lacked india-rubber tyres and were very heavy; as late as 1889 a 'safety roadster' weighed 36 pounds, but as early as 1870–1 'the low, long bone-shaker began to fall in public esteem'. Cf. bone-setter and timber-truck, qq.v.—2. Hence, 'any old vehicle which passengers find uncomfortable,' H.J. Oliver coll.: C.20.

bone-shop. A workhouse: lower classes':—1909 (Ware); ob. by 1935.

bone-sore or -tired. Very idle: coll., now verging on S.E.: from 1880s. Ex dial. Cf. bone-lazy, q.v.

bone up on (a subject). To study, because the information will soon be needed: Can., adopted ex US ca. 1910; and in UK by ca. 1950. Either ex bone used for polishing shoes or ex the Bohm translations of the Classics.

bone-yard. A cemetery: Brit. and Can.: late C.19–20. (B. & P.) Cf. synon. bone-orchard.—2. 'White water in front of a wave' (Pix, 28 Sep. 1963): Aus. surfers': since ca. 1960.—3. As the Bone Yard, Neuve Chapelle, after the bloody battle fought there in 1915: Tommies': 1915–18. 'It was hardly possible to dig anywhere without disinterring bones' (Petch).

boned. Tipsy: Society, from ca. 1937; Service officers', 1939+. (Mary Fitt, The Banquet Ceases, 1949.) Wits boned (stolen) away (E.P.); or filleted—cf. legless (P.B.).—2. 'Hit on the head hard' (Powis): police and low coll.: C.20.

bonehead (or bone-head). A boxer: RAF: since ca. 1935. (Jackson.) He needs it or he wouldn't be one.—2. 'There's [sic] been rumours of hordes of East End skinheads—mods [q.v.] call them "boneheads"—coming down [to Brighton]' (Ian Walker, in New Society, 3 Sep. 1981).

boner. A sharp blow on the spine: Winchester College, mid-C.19–20; ob. Adams, Wykehamica.—2. Hence, a bad mistake: C.20. (The Passing Show, 9 Dec. 1933, 'Poor Carol... She made a boner to-night... Ronnie was simply livid.') It occurs esp. in pull a boner, to commit a serious error. Claiborne suggests derivation from bone-headed, stupid—solid bone instead of brains.—3. See boners.—4. A bone used to bring up the polish, esp. on one's boots: army coll.: late C.19–20. (Spike Mays, The Band Rats, 1975.) Cf. bone boots.

boner nochy! Good night!: Clerkenwell (London), which contains many Italians: late C.19–20. Ex the It. for 'good-night!', though nochy more closely resembles Sp. noche. Ware.

boners. A form of punishment: Charterhouse: † before 1900. A.H. Tod, Charterhouse, 1900. Cf. boner, 1.

bones. Dice. C.14–20; coll. in C.14–15, thereafter S.E.—2. Bones played castanet-wise (—1590): coll., but very soon S.E.—3. A player of the bones: from ca. 1840; coll.—4. The human teeth: C.19—early 20.—5. A surgeon: C.19; abbr. sawbones.—6. The examination in osteology: medical students':—1923 (Manchon).—7. (Stock Exchange) the shares of Wickens, Pease & Co., also the First Preference shares of North British 4%: ca. 1880–1914; cf. bonettas.—8. Something very good, orig. tasty; almost an adj.: from ca. 1880; ob. Coll. Tupper (OED). Prob. = L. bonus, good.—9. In be on (one's) bones, to be (almost) destitute: non-aristocratic: C.20. Galsworthy, The White Monkey, 1924, 'Give us a chance, constable; I'm right on my bones.' 'One winter, in the desperate group and on the bones of my backside...' (R. Rolling, 'I was a hell-driver', Guardian Weekly, 27 Mar. 1971). Ex emaciation.

Cf. synon. on the ribs.—10. In by these ten bones!, a coll. asseveration: late C.15—early 17. Shakespeare. An allusion to one's fingers (cf. by this hand I witness). Cf. the late C.16 exclamation bones a (or of me (or you!))!—11. See feel in (one's) bones; make no bones; sleep on bones.—12. In be upon the bones of, to attack: late C.17–18, low. L'Estrange (d. 1704): 'Puss had a month's mind to be upon the bones of him, but was not willing to pick a quarrel.' Cf. pick a bone with...

bones and hair. Buenos Aires: mostly nautical: late C.19–20.

bonettas. The 4% Second North British 2nd Preference stock: Stock Exchange: ca. 1880–1914.

bonfire. A cigarette: army: WW1. F. & G.

bonng. Dead: Aus. pidgin: from mid-C.20. (B. & L.) Also spelt boong, and bung, q.v.—2. Var. of boong, an Aboriginal.

—3. Var. of bonn, good.

bonny, drunk, in the anon. Street-Robberies Consider'd, 1728, is prob. a misprint, for bousy, 'boozy'.

bongo-boosh. 'A tasty morsel' (of anything): military on Western Front: 1915–18. F. & G. 'A perversion of the Fr. bonne bouche'.

Boniface. The landlord of an inn or a country tavern: C.18–20, ex the bonny-faced, jovial innkeeper in Farquhar's lively comedy, The Beaux' Stratagem, 1707. The first record, however, of the generic use is not until 1803, and by 1850 the term was considered S.E. bonjer. A 'duck': cricketers': 1934, 'Patsy' Hendren, Big Cricket, 'If I had landed a bonjer'. Perhaps ex bon jour!—but prob. not. (Notes & Queries, 13 Oct. 1934.)

bonk, n. A short, steep hill: circus s.; from ca. 1840; ob. (C. Hindley, Adventures of a Cheap Jack, 1876.) Adopted from dial. (In S.E., † form).—2. As the bonk, the state of being devoid of energy: cyclists': since 1930s. (P.B.: ex having encountered sense 1?) Hence bonk-bag, a small food-bag, containing sweets, etc., to combat the bonk (Gerald Bramley, FLA). Cf. (hunger) knock, sag, sags.—3. As exclam., bang!: coll., mostly Cockneys': C.20. Echoic. Hence the v.—4. The n. ex. v., 2: since ca. 1920.

bonk, v. To shell: army: WW1. Gen. in passive; cf. plonk, v. 1, q.v. B. & P.—2. Hence, to hit resoundingly (v.t.): Public Schools': since ca. 1919; fairly soon more widespread.

bonker. See stone-wall bonker.

bonkers. Slightly drunk, light-headed: RN: since ca. 1920. (Granville.) Perhaps cf. bonk, v.i.—2. Hence, eccentric: crazy: RN since ca. 1925; by ca. 1946, fairly gen. Often in the intensive form, stone fucking bonkers. 'Since "that speech" by Mr Quintin Hogg, in Oct. 1964, now usually "stark staring bonkers" = "quite mad"' (Peter Sanders, mid-1965).

bonner. A bonfire: Oxford undergraduates': from late 1890s. 'OXFORD -ER.' Perhaps in allusion to 'Bishop Bonner, who certainly lit up many bonfires—Smithfield way' (Ware).

bonnet, bonneteer. —1812, —1841 resp., both c. in origin: a gambling cheat or decoy; a decoy at auctions. Possibly 'a reminiscence of Fr. deux têtes dans un bonnet, hand and glove', W.—Cf. 2, a pretext or a pretence: Vaux, Flash Dict., 1812; orig. c.; † by 1890.—3. A woman (cf. petticoat, skirt): ca. 1870–1900; coll.—4. In have a green bonnet, to go bankrupt: (mainly Scot.) coll.: C.18–19. (Ramsay.) Ex the green cap formerly worn by bankrupts.—5. See bee in (one's) bonnet.

bonnet, v. Act as a decoy (see the n.); cheat; illicitly puff: C.19–20, low; ob.—2. To crush a man's hat over his eyes: coll. (1837; ob.); Dickens often uses the word; vbl n. not uncommon either.—3. See bonnet for.

bonnet-builder. A milliner: joc. coll.:—1839; ob. by 1930. bonnet for. To corroborate the assertions of, put a favourable construction on the actions of: c. of ca. 1810–70. (Vaux.) Cf. bonnet, v., 1.

bonnet-laird. A petty proprietor: Scots coll.: ca. 1810–60. 'As wearing a bonnet, like humbler folk' (F. & H. rev.).

bonnet-man. A Highlander: coll. verging on S.E.: C.19. Cf. kiltie.

bonnetter. A crushing blow on the hat: ca. 1840–1910.—2. See bonnet, n., 1. bonnets so blue (?bonnets o' blue). Irish stew: rhyming s.:—1859 (H., 1st ed.); ob. by 1930. Contrast use of Irish stew in too bloody Irish=very true.

bonny-clabber, -clapper, -clatter, -clab(b)o(x)e. Sour butter-milk: coll.: C.17–18. (Jonson, 1630; B.E.) Ex Irish baine, milk + claba, thick (EDD).

bonny Dundee. A flea: theatrical rhyming s.: C.20. Franklyn, Rhyming.

bono. Adj., good: Parlyaree: from ca. 1840. Via Lingua Franca. Cf. bona.

bono(h)omee (or omny). Husband: Parlyaree: mid-C.19–20. (John o' London's Weekly, 4 Feb. 1949.) For the elements, see bono, good, and omee: cf. archaic S.E. goodman, husband.

bono-johnny. A Englishman: London's East End (—1890: B. & L.) and pidgin (—1909: Ware). Ex prec. As it were 'honest John (Bully)'. bonse. See bonce.

bonser. See bonza.

bontoger, bontogero, bontoser, bonzarina, bonzerino, bonzorle. Elabb. of bonza: earlier C.20. (B., 1942; Dal Stevens, 1955.) Almost nonce-words, says Wilkes.

bonus. An additional dividend (—1808); money received unexpectedly or additionally: from ca. 1770. Both senses were orig. money-market s.; by 1830, coll.; by 1860, S.E. Bonus is mock-Latin for bonum, a good thing. Cf. bunce, q.v. bony. Good: Christ's Hospital: late C.18–20. Marples: ex Latin O bone!, Oh, good man!

bonza, bonzer; occ. bonser and, loosely, bonzo (see also bontoger...), n. and adj. Anything excellent, delightful: Aus.: C.20; by 1950, ob. (B., 1959). Perhaps ex bonanza. Cf. boshia.

boo. Marijuana: adopted, mid-1960s, ex US. (Janssen, 1968.)
boo-boo. The human bottom: children's late C.19–20. Nicholas Blake, The Sad Variety, 1964, 'No use sitting around on your boo-boo, brooding.' Reduplication of bottom.—2. A blunder. See booboo.

boo boys, the. Those who are ever ready to deride esp. athletes', boxers', achievements, style' (L.A., 1976): since ca. 1965. The Times, 13 Oct. 1976.—2. Hence, denigrators generally: since ca. 1970.

boo to a goose. The C.20 form of bo to a goose, q.v.

booi or booy (pron. boo-eye). Remote rural districts: NZ: C.20. 'On uncertain evidence, [the word] has been derived from Puhoi, an early settlement of Bohemians, 30 miles from Auckland (1862)—a settlement 'which went through extremely hard times in the early days.' (Arthur Gray of Auckland, 1969.) But it may also be a pej. from Maori puhoi, slow, dull, phlegmatic. Also, since ca. 1910, Aus. for 'the open bush', as in D' Arcy Niland, The Shiralee, 1955, where it is written boo-eye. Of the NZ use, Harold Griffiths says, 'Heard very frequently out here in such expressions as "(way) out in the boo-ay" (far from the towns—in the backblocks) and also "(all) up the boo-ay" (completely off the track—especially with knowledge, an opinion, etc.)' (letter, 1959). The fig. up the booi, lost, utterly wrong, has been common since the late 1940s (Slatter).

boob, n. A booby, a fool, a 'soft' fellow; hence loosely, a fellow: US (—1912), anglicised in 1918. Collinson; OED Sup.—2. (the boob) A detention-cell; prison: military, WW1+; by 1920, also gen. Aus. (Jock Marshall & Russell Drysdale, Journey among Men, 1962.) Ex booby-hutch.—3. A blunder; a faux-pas: since ca. 1935. Ex the v.—4. The natural singular of boobs, q.v.

boob, v. To blunder. Army and RAF: since ca. 1930. R.M. Davison, letter, 1942; H. & P.: cf.—and see—black, n., 2. Usu. v.i., but occ. v.t., as in the RAF boob a landing, to land clumsily. P.B.: in later C.20 > widespread and gen. coll.

boob head. A prisoners' boss, i.e. a warder in charge of a division: Aus. c.: since ca. 1950. Ian Grindley, governor of Pentridge Gaol, Melbourne, 1977. Cf. boob, n., 2.

boob tube. A woman's strapless sump of stretchable material, e.g., jersey: fashion: mid- later 1970s.

boobies. A woman's breasts: since ca. 1920. (Henry Miller, Tropic of Cancer, 1934.) Ex bubbies, q.v. at bubby. See also boobs.

boobies' hutch. More gen. booby's hutch, q.v.

booboo (or boo-boo); esp. in make a booboo. A blunder: Aus. and British: adopted, ca. 1959, ex US. Prob. a softening of boob, n., 3; but perhaps influenced by a baby's cry of pain or frustration. Hugh Atkinson, Low Company, 1961.

boobs, the (or one's). The female breasts: predominantly feminine: since ca. 1960. 'The Observer of Feb. 11, 1968, interviewing a girl emerging from Fortnams, on the subject of "see-through blouses", quoted her as saying that she wouldn't put her boobs on show for anyone' (R.S.). The singular followed naturally when needed, e.g.: 'A hairy hand crept round from behind and grasped her left boob.' As bubbies > boobies, so bubs > boobs.

booby-ack. A bivouac: army: early C.20. B. & P.

booby-hatch. A lunatic asylum: Can. and (occ.) British: C.20. Adopted ex US.

booby-hutch. A one-horse chaise or a buggy: early C.18—early 19. Reed's Weekly Journal, 4 June 1720; Grose, 2nd ed.—2. A leather bottle: late C.18—early 19. Grose, 2nd ed.—3. A police station; a cell: c. and low: late C.19—early 20.—4. Hence, a dug-out: army: WW1.—5. The 'shop' of a 'Jewling firm' aboard a ship: lowerdeck: ca. 1890–1935. Knock.—6. See booby's hutch.

booby-trap. A practical joke of the jug-of-water-on-top-of-door kind: coll. (—1850); after ca. 1890, S.E.—2. Hence, a bomb left behind by the Germans to catch the unwary: military coll.: 1917–18. In WW2 the practice became so common, and it has, since then, been so widespread, that the term may be said to have become, by mid-C.20, S.E.

booby's hutch. A barracks' drinking-point open after the canteen closes: military: ca. 1860–1910. Ware, 'Satire ... upon the fools who have never had enough'. Cf. booby-hutch, 4.

bood. A bedroom; a sleeping-cubicle: girls' Public Schools': C.20. (R.C. Hutchinson, The Answering Glory, 1932.) Ex boudoir.

boodgere! All right; good: Aus.: since ca. 1910. (B., 1943.) Ex Aborigine: cf. budgere.

boodle. Bribe(ry), illicit spoils, political perquisites, profits quietly appropriated, party funds,—all these are boodle. Orig. (1858: Thornton) US; anglicised ca. 1890; in C.20, coll. Hence, money in general, with no ref. to the illicit: coll.; orig. (—1888) US; > gen. in England ca. 1900, but this sense has remained s. Etym. obscure: W. suggests Dutch boedel, estates, effects.—2. A stupid noodle: ca. 1860–90 (Kingsley, 1862; OED). Perhaps a corruption of noodle.

boodler. A man, esp. a politician, on the make: Aus.: since ca. 1920. (Vance Palmer, 1948.) Prob. ex boodle, 1.

boody. A snake: Aus.: C.20. (B., 1943.) Ex Aborigine.

bood and hissed. Drunk: rhyming s., on pissed: later C.20. (Posy Simmonds, in Guardian, 7 Jan. 1980.) Cf. synon. Brahms 'n' Liszt.

boeoy or bovie. A piece of nasal mucus: non-cultured Aus. domestic: since ca. 1920. (B.P.) P.B.: E.P. suggests orig. in Fr. boue, mud, filth; but cf. synon. Eng. bogey.

boof. To top up a container of liquid: Aus.: later C.20. McNeil.

boofhead. A fool; a very gullible person: Aus.: since ca. 1930. (B., 1943.) Ex buffle-head. The corresponding adj. is boof-headed, as in L.W. Lower, Lennie Lower's Sidesplitters, 1945.

booget. An itinerant tinker's basket: c. of ca. 1560–1640. (Harman.) Perversion of † S.E. budget, a bag or wallet.

boogie. The 'in' word, among the fashionable, to 'to make love'. Nigel Dempster, in The Ins and Outs of Our Social Minefield, Telegraph Sunday mag., 11 Mar. 1979.

boohoo, boo-hoo. To weep noisily: coll.: since 1830s. (Barham.) Echoic.

boogie-pack. A miniature cassette-player with lightweight headphones, for listening while one is on the move: youngsters': since ca. 1981. Tim de Lisle, 'Rock 'n' Stroll', Observer, 1 Aug. 1982.

book, n. (Sporting.) A bookmaker's arrangement of his bets on a given day's racing or other 'bookmaker-able' competition. (The bookmaker tries so to arrange his bets that he will be unlikely to lose.) Coll.: from ca. 1830; in Henrietta Temple, 1837, Disraeli, 'Am I to be branded because I have made half a million by a good book?' Hence, a betting-book: from ca. 1850; coll. Both senses have, since 1900, been j. Hence, in let run for the book, (of a bookmaker) not to bet against a horse: from ca. 1870 (H., 5th ed.).—2. A libretto: C.18–20, coll.; the words of a play: from ca. 1850; coll.—3. The first six tricks at whist (—1890), at bridge (—1909): these coll. terms soon > j.—4. A bookmaker: Aus.:—1916 (C.J. Dennis). Abbr. bookie, q.v.—5. A newspaper, a magazine: illiterate coll.: since ca. 1880.—6. But, since ca. 1920, it has been a Can. publishers' and printers' coll. for an issue, as in: 'My July book is still only half-finished.' (Leechman).—7. In (be) with book, (to be) engaged in writing a book: authors': since ca. 1930. On (be) with child, pregnant.—8. In by (the) book, in set phrases: late C.16–20; orig. coll. but soon S.E. Shakespeare, 'You kisse by th' booke.' P.B.: hence, in C.20 Services' and police coll., strictly according to the rules and regulations. Alan Hunter, Gently Sahib, 1964.—9. In on the book, in the prompt corner, on duty as prompter: theatrical coll.: C.20. (Dulcie Gray, No Quarter for a Star, 1964.) The 'book of words'—the text of the play. Cf. book-holder.—10. In on the book, on credit, as 'he let me have a couple of bottles on the book': coll.: C.20. (P.B.)—11. In out of (one's) book, mistaken(ly): C.16–17: coll., soon S.E. Latimer.—12. In put in the book, to enter a man's name in the charge book; to be so entered: army coll.: since ca. 1910. P-G-R.—13. In without book, without authority; from memory: orig. coll., soon S.E.: late C.17—early 20. Occ. without his book. Cf. later C.20 off the cuff.—14. In (e.g. he's in the book all right but doesn't know what page (he's) on, he's right but he doesn't know why: Aus. c.p.: since ca. 1925. B., 1942.—15. See beside the book; bring to book; drive to the book; know (one's) book; speaking like a book; leaf out of (someone's) book; suit (one's) book; under book; bible, n., 8.

book, v. Engage (a person) as a guest: coll. (1872: OED.)—2. To pelt with books: schoolboys':—1909 (Ware).—3. To catch (a person) wrong-doing: Public Schools': from ca. 1895. P.G. Wodehouse, The Pothunters, 1902, 'If he books a chap out of bounds it keeps him happy for a week.'—4. To understand, 'get the hang of': Public Schools': from the 1890s. Ibid., 'There's a pane taken clean out. I booked it in a second as I was going past to the track.'—5. Hence, to realise; to see and understand, as in 'the man immediately booked what they [detectives] were'. G.F. Newman, Sir, You Bastard, 1970.—6. To assume, as in: 'I'm booking it that he'll collect it on his way to work' (Ibid.). Both 5 and 6 are police s., dating from the 1930s.

book-boy. A native 'shipped in certain ships on the W. African trade to help the officers tally cargo': nautical coll. verging on j.: late C.19–20. Bowen.

book-chambers. A short lesson without a master. See books, 2.

book-form. Theoretical form, at first of horses; coll. (—1880); in C.20, j. in racing, S.E. elsewhere.

'book! he says; and can't read a paper yet. A c.p. of ca. 1890–1914, addressed to one who has explosively broken wind. See DCpp.

book-holder. A prompter: theatrical:—1864; ob. by 1890, † by 1920. Cf. book, n., 9.

book-keeper. 'One who never returns borrowed books', Grose (2nd ed.), who speaks feelingly: coll.; late C.18—early 19. Punning one who keeps accounts.

book-maker, bookmaker. A professional taker of the odds at races of any sort. (Contrast with the professional punter, who deposits money, i.e. backs a horse, with the bookmaker and who bets only on certain races.) He keeps a book (lays the odds) and operates from a stand on the course or from an office. (—1862) coll.; by 1880, S.E. See esp. OED and F. & H.

book(-)maker's pocket. Breast-pocket, inside the waistcoat, for notes of high denomination: sporting coll.: since ca. 1850.

book of numbers. See consult the book...

book of words, the (occ. ... the words). A catalogue: joc. coll.: since ca. 1880.—2. A libretto: id.: since ca. 1890.—3. Any set of printed or typewritten instructions: C.20. Warwick Deeping, Mr Gurney..., 1944.—4. Hence, Standing Orders: army officers': WW1. ('Amateur Officer', After Victory, 1917.) Similarly, Orders for the day (battalion upwards).

book-pad, v.t. and i. To plagiarise: pedantic after foot-pad: ca. 1680–1730. (OED.) book (one's) seat. To pad one's trousers with newspapers or a book before going to be caned: schoolboys': since ca. 1945.

book-work. Oxford and Cambridge: memorisable matter in mathematics: ca. 1845–90 as s.; then coll., by 1910 S.E., for any 'swottable' learning.

booka. Hungry: Army: late C.19—early 20. (F. & G.) Ex Hindustani bhukha.

booked, ppl adj. Destined; caught; disposed of: coll.:—1839: orig. low. (Brandon, Hood, Jas. Payn.) Cf. book, v.—2. Hence, in for trouble: coll.: C.20. Lyell, 'Third time you've been late this week. You're booked all right, my boy, when the Manager comes in.'

booked for kingdom come. Facing certain death; on one's death-bed: coll.: C.20; orig. railwaymen's.

bookie. See booky.

bookmaker. See book-maker.

bookra, bukra, adv. Tomorrow: mostly NZers': WW1; diminishingly afterwards. Ex Arabic for 'tomorrow'.

bookri. Out of line, crooked; wrong: army: early C.20. (F. & G.) Perhaps a perversion of crooked.

books. A pack of cards: C.18–20. Mrs Centlivre; H. Cf. devil's books.—2. Winchester College usages:—The prizes presented, C.19, to the 'Senior' in each division at the end of 'half': sixth book, fifth book, and—ceasing to exist ca. 1865—fourth book; up at books, from ca. 1880 up to books, in class; book-chambers, a short lesson without a master; get or make books, to make the highest score at any game.—3. In get (one's) books or cards, to be paid off: Public Works' coll.: from ca. 1924. On being paid off, a workman, until mid-1970s, received his insurance-card.—4. In in (someone's) good or bad books, in favour, or disfavour, with him: coll.; C.19–20. In C.16–18, the phrase was in or out of a person's books: coll. > S.E., though Grose has it.—5. As the books, works of reference: coll.: C.20. 'Oh, look it up in the books.'—6. See plant the books; shut the books.

Booksellers' Row. 'The notorious Holywell Street is now called by its denizens "Booksellers' Row"' (H., 3rd ed.): book-world coll.: ca. 1850–80. (Holywell Street was demolished to build the Aldwych.)

booky, often bookie. (In all such words, the -y form is preferable.) A bookmaker: sporting s.: 1881, says Ware; in C.20, coll. See Slang at pp. 241–7 for a dialogue in bookies' s.—2. A bouquet: low coll., mostly Cockney:—1887 (Baumann).

booky, adj. Bookish: from ca. 1880; coll. Presumably from US, where used as early as 1833: Thornton.

booky (or -kie) boy (or bhoy). A bookmaker: Aus.: since ca. 1920. B., 1943.

boom, n. A rush of (esp. commercial) activity; effective launching of any goods or stocks; vigorous support of a person. Orig. (—1875) US; anglicised as a coll. ca. 1883, S.E. in C.20. Baumann. Ex v.—2. In top (one's) boom (off), to start: nautical: C.19. As top (one's) boom, in A. Burton, The Adventures of Johnny Newcome, 1818 (Moe); while H., 2nd ed., has, erroneously, I believe, tip one's boom off. See also top your boom.

boom, v.i. and t. To go, set off, with a rush, at first of a ship, then in commerce, then in publicity. In its fig. and mod. senses, orig. (1850) US; accepted as coll. in England ca. 1885, in C.20 S.E. Perhaps ex some such phrase as 'a ship comes booming', "she comes with all the sail she can make" (Sea Dict., 1708) (W.). On this word n. and v. see esp. F. & H. and Thornton.

boom-boom. A soldier: children's, esp. Cockneys': from ca. 1916. Echoic. Moreover, 2 boom boom is a Pidgin term (Pacific Islanders', Thailanders', Koreans' and what have you) for rifle fire, cannon fire, a rifle, a cannon; fighting or to fight, war. For instance in prisoner-of-war camps in the Far East, 1942–5, boom boom yashe means 'a rifle rest'—see PRISONER-OF-WAR SLANG, §7, in Appendix. So widely is boom boom accepted as echoically precise that little children all over the world use it.

boom off. To fight off; scare away: RN: 1934–5. Echoic of heavy gunfire. P.B.: but in Marryat, 1840, boom off=to push off with a pole.

boom or bust is a Can. c.p. (late C.19–20)—applied to 'western towns, mines and other such enterprises as are subject to varying fortunes' (Leechman).

boom-passenger. A convict on board ship: nautical, ca. 1830–60. Convicts were chained to, or took exercise on, the booms.

boom the census. To get a woman with child: joc. coll.: early C.20.

boomer. A propagandist: C.20 coll. One who booms an enterprise: coll., from ca. 1890. Orig. US (—1885).—2. In Aus., a very large kangaroo, esp. if a male; in its earliest spelling (1830), boomah. Soon > coll. Ex boom, v.—3. Whence, anything very large: coll.: 1885; slightly ob. Morris.—4. Hence, anything extraordinary: Aus.: C.20. (Authority as for Bovril).—5. An itinerant worker on the railways, usually a 'brakie' or a 'brass-pounder': Can. railwaymen's: since ca. 1910. (Leechman).—6. A (very) large wave: Aus. coll.: since ca. 1910. (Culotta.) boomerang. 'Something, esp. a book, that one would like to receive back' (B.P.): Aus.: since ca. 1930.—2. A return ticket: railwaymen's: mid-C.20. McKenna, Glossary.

boomeranging, n. and adj. Returning to prison: c. and prison officers', esp. in S. Africa: since ca. 1950 or much earlier. Angus Ross, On the Run, 1974.

booming. Large: Aus.: from ca. 1860; ob. (B. & L.) Perhaps ex boomer, 2.—2. Flourishing; successful. Coll., in England from ca. 1890; orig. (—1879) US. Cf.—

boomlet. A little boom: Stock Exchange coll.: from mid-1890s; Ware dates it at 1896. (By 1920, S.E., as the OED Sup. shows.)

booms-a-daisy! Domestic and nursery c.p. to a child that has knocked its head or falls over: late C.19–20. Suggested by ups-a-daisy!—2. 'Exclamation when two rotund physiologies bounce against each other, glancing abaf' (L.A., 1976): since ca. 1920. Cf. the popular song of early C.20, 'Hands, knees, and—booms-a-daisy!'

boomster. One who booms stock: money-market coll. (1898) >, by 1930, S.E. Ware. Ex US.

boom-companion. A drinking(-bout) companion; 'a good fellow': 1566, Drant: coll. >, by C.18, S.E. Whence boom-companionship, Nashe, 1592; in C.18–20, S.E. Cf. §2 of TAVERN TERMS.

boondock, v. See TIDDLYWINKS, in Appendix. Ex:

boondocks, esp. out in the. (In) the jungle or wilds or outback: adopted, ca. 1944, ex US soldiers. W. & F. derive it ex Tagalog bundok, mountain. Cf. bundoo, q.v.

boong. An Australian Aboriginal: Aus.: C.20. Recorded by B., 1942. With occ. var. bong, both words being borrowed from Aboriginal. Bo(ong) is also employed as adj. See also Quego.—2. Hence, 'any dark-skinned person' (B., 1959), or even, as in Martin Page's Songs and Ballads of World War II, 1973, where the boong signifies 'the Japanese [soldiers]'. The word prob. first came to widespread notice in UK with the pub., in 1950, of Nevil Shute's famous novel, later filmed, A Town Like Alice, in which the hero, an Australian soldier, addresses the heroine, an English girl first seen by him when she is wearing Malay dress and is very sunburnt, as 'Mrs Boong'. (P.B., 1979.)

boong-moll. A coloured, esp. a Negro, pathic: Aus. low or c.: since ca. 1930. Dymphna Cusack and Florence James, Come in Spinner, 1951.—2. A prostitute favouring dark-skinned men: Aus. c.: since ca. 1935. B., 1953.

boop, v.; usually as vbl n., booping, making a fuss about a trifle: Services: since ca. 1935; by 1950, †. (H. & P.) A blend of echoic boo+weep.

boorish, the. Illiterate speech: C.17. Shakespeare.

board(e). See borde.

boose. See booze.

boos(e)y. See boozy.

boost, n. Vigorous support; 'push up'. Orig. (1825) US; anglicised ca. 1865; in C.20, coll. Ex the v.—2. Hence, in WW1 army: an attack (cf. push); a raid, a heavy bombardment. F. & G.—3. A supercharging; additional pressure: RAF coll.: since ca. 1925. Jackson, 'I gave her [an aircraft] all the boost I had'; he cites the corresponding v. Ex sense 1.—4. In be in high or low boost, (of persons) to be in good or bad form: RN Coastal Forces: WW2. In ref. to engines.

boost, v. To support vigorously; 'push' enthusiastically, significantly. Orig. (1825), US; anglicised ca. 1860. In C.20, coll and, like the n., applied, since 1929, chiefly to publishing—and authorship. Thornton. Origin obscure: ?ex boot+hoist.—2. Hence, to support without reason: RN: C.20. F. & G.

booster. One who 'boosts' (see boost, v.): US coll. (—1909) >, by 1912, English coll. verging now on S.E.—2. Hence, 'one who by false or misleading statements bolsters up a case': RN: C.20. F. & G.; OED Sup.

boot, n. Money; an advance on wages: tailors' and shoemakers'; late C.19–20. Ware; Tailor and Cutter, 29 Nov. 1928.—2. (Gen. pl.) The float of a sea-plane: aviators': from 1933. Daily Telegraph, 19 Feb. 1935.—3. An excessively compliant female: low: since ca. 1950 Cf. old boot.—4. In give or get the boot, to dismiss; to be dismissed: s. (1888: Rider Haggard) >, by 1920, coll. (OED Sup.). An early C.20 s., by 1930 coll. elab. is give or get the order of the boot; cf. order of the bath.—5. See boots; old boot; put the boot in (includes put in the boot); sock a boot into.

boot, v. To thrash; punish with a strap: military, C.19–20; ob. At first with a jack-boot.—2. To kick, e.g. 'I booted him good and hard': coll.: from ca. 1880.—3. Hence (gen. boot out), to dismiss, get rid of: 1902 (OED Sup.).—4. To kick (the ball) exceedingly hard: football coll. (1914: OED Sup.). (Vbl n., booting, in all four senses).—5. V.i. and t, to borrow (money) on account: tailors': C.20. Ex boot, n. 1.—6. Elliptical for put the boot in, q.v.

boot, adj. Short form of boot-faced.

boot-brush. A rough beard: joc.:—1927 (Collinson).

boot-catch(er). An inn servant that pulls off guests' boots: C.18—early 19. The longer form, the more gen., is in Swift and Grose.

boot-eater. A juror who would rather 'eat his boots' than find a person guilty: 1880; ob. Coll.

boot-faced. Wearing a miserable, down-hearted, thwarted, or stony-faced expression: orig. RAF s., since ca. 1930; thence to the other Services and into the wider world. Ex the appearance of an old boot with sole parting from the upper. Whence, by the 'OXFORD-ER', the var. booters, with elab. Harry booters. Cf. po-faced.

Boot Hill. A graveyard: Can. miners': C.20. Ex one of the most famous cemeteries of the US Frontier West.

boot in. See put the boot in.

boot is on the other leg (or foot), the. The case is altered; the responsibility is another's; the reverse is true: coll.: C.19–20. The boot went from the leg to the foot as knee-boots became ankle-boots; and in early 1970s there emerged the joc. var. the wellie is on the other foot.

boot-jack. A general-utility actor: theatrical:—1895. Ex a boot-jack's usefulness. OED Sup.

boot-joe. Musketry drill: military: mid-C.19—early 20. Why?

boot-lace. See bootlace.

boot-leg; -ger. See bootleg.

boot-lick. To today (to); undertake 'dirty' work (for): coll.: adopted, ex US (1845), in the 1880s. Hence:— boot-licker. A toady; a doer of 'dirty' work: coll.:—1890. The US form is boot-lick.

boot-neck. A Royal Marine: RN: mid-C.19–20. F. & G., 'From the tab closing the tunic collar.' In later C.20, written bootneck: 'As [the Senior Naval Officer] puts it, [the helicopters' task is to provide] instant airlifts for the ordinary bootneck, in his boots, in the field''' (John Winton, in an article about the FAA, Telegraph Sunday mag., 8 Apr. 1979).

boot out. See boot, v., 3.

boot serve for either leg, make one. To speak, rarely to act, ambiguously: C.16–17; coll. > S.E.

booters. See boot-faced.

booth. A house, as in heave a booth, rob a house: mid-C.16–19 c.—2. As a Booth, a member of the Salvation Army: prison c.: mid-C.20. (Tempest, 1950.) Ex General Booth, the Army's founder.

booth-burster. A noisy actor: from ca. 1870; ob. Cf. barn-stormer and:

booth-star. A leading actor (or actress) in a booth or a minor theatre: theatrical coll. (—1909); ob. Ware.

bootie (or -y). Beautiful: Society girls': ca. 1840–80. Diprose's Book about London, 1872. Cf. nursery bootiful or booful.—2. A Royal Marine. (Patrick Bishop, reporting the recent Falkland Is. campaign, Observer, 11 July 1982.) A shortening of boot-neck, q.v.

booting. See boot, v.

bootlace. Thin twist tobacco: C.20: orig., c.; by 1940, s. L.W. Mellow Smith & J. Harris, Prison Screw, 1962.—2. A cod-fish's shrunken liver in the early spring: 'a fibrous, rubbery scrap of tissue known as a "boot-lace"' (Steven Piper, The North Ships, 1974): trawlermen's: C.20.

bootlaced. Branded: N. Queensland cattlemen's: since ca. 1910. Jean Devanney, Travels, 1951.

bootlaces. 'The narrow strips of flesh carved off a sheep especially when opening up the neck of a fleece by a rough shearer are bootlaces' (B., 1941): Aus. and NZ rural: late C.19–20.

bootleg, n. An unofficial, i.e. illicit, production and release of a phonograph record: since ca. 1960. (Roy Carr & Tony Tyler, The Beatles, 1975.) A Beatles 'bootleg' was for a few years called a 'Beatleg'—a good example of ephemeral 'pop music' s., recorded Ibid.

bootleg, v. By late C.20, the informal S.E. v. ex:—

bootlegger (orig. hyphenated). A dealer in and distributor of contraband liquor in the US; orig. (—1919) US, anglicised ca. 1927 as coll.; 1932+, S.E. From the old days when spirits, in flat bottles, was carried on the leg to the Red Indians: in this connexion, the word appears in US as early as 1890 (OED Sup.). Whence boot-legging, the sale and distribution of illicit liquor in the US. See, e.g. James Spenser's Limey, 1933, and Godfrey Irwin's American Tramp and Underworld Slang, 1931.

bootneck. See boot-neck.

boots. The youngest officer in a mess: military: late C.18–20.

Grose, 1st ed.—2. A servant, gen. a youth, affected to the cleaning of boots: late C.18–20; from ca. 1820, coll.; post-1850, S.E.—3. See bossy, lazy; sly and smooth boots, where boots = a fellow or girl.—4. The floats of a seaplane. See boot, n., 2.—5. 'The junior ship in a formation, i.e. the ship commanded by the least senior officer' (Peppitt): since ca. 1918. (D. Arnold-Foster, The Ways of the Navy, 1931.) Ex sense 1.—6. In buy or ride in (another man's) old boots, 'To marry or keep his cast-off mistress' (Grose, 2nd): C.18–19: coll.—7. In blood (or, more often, sand) in the(ir) boots, 'Used derisively of Desert types who threw their weight about in non-combat areas or, more gallingly, in non-desert operational areas' (Col. A.L. Gadd, letter, 1949): army: 1943 onwards; after 1945, only historical. The ref.—made mostly by officers about officers—is to 'veterans' of N. Africa.—8. In in (one's) boots (gen. with die), at work; still working; not in bed: coll.: mid-C.19–20. In S.E. to die in (one's) boots or shoes is to be hanged.—9. In in (one's) boots, very drunk: late C.19—early 20.—10. In it (or that) didn't (or doesn't) go into his (or my or your, etc.) boots, there is (or was) an effect, certain though not obvious: c.p., mostly Cockneys': C.20. I.e., did go elsewhere.—11. Tyres, as in 'She [a car]'s had a new set of boots': car-dealers'. Clive Graham-Ranger, Sunday Times mag., 9 Aug. 1981, p. 42.—12. See bet (one's) boots!; bed in (one's) boots; heart in (one's) boots; like old boots; hang up (one's) boots; not in these boots; put the boot in; over shoes, over boots.

boots and all. Thoroughly; utterly: Aus. coll., from mid-C.20; soon also NZ. Dymphna Cusack, Southern Steel, 1953, 'When you do a thing you go into it boots and all' (Wilkes). As adj. and adv., sometimes hyphenated.

bootsy. A 'boots' at a large, the porter at a small, hotel: since ca. 1950. (Petch, 1966.)

booty. Playing booty: C.17–18. Ex play booty, to play falsely; covertly to help one's apparent opponent: C.16–19. Until ca. 1660, c.; then s. merging into coll.; from ca. 1790, S.E. As in Dekker, Fielding, Scott Disraeli.

booty-fellow. A sharer in plunder: see prec.: C.17—early 19. Coll.

booze, n. (C.18–20), rarely booz (late C.17–18); boose (C.18–20); bouze (C.16–20, as is, also, bouse); bowze (C.16–20); bowze (C.18). (The OED's quot'n of ca. 1300 prob. refers to a drinking vessel.) Drink, liquor: c. (—1567) until C.19, then low s.; in C.20, coll. Harman, B.E., Bailey, Grose. Ex v., 1, q.v.—2. Hence, a draught of liquor: late C.17–20. Implied in B.E.—3. (Also ex sense 1.) A drinking-bout: 1786, Burns; low s. >, by ca. 1850, gen. s. > by 1900, coll. Hence on the booze, on a prolonged drinking-bout: low (—1889) >, by 1910, coll. (OED Sup.).

booze, etc., v. To drink, esp. heavily; tipple: (in C.14, S.E.; it reappears as c. in mid-C.16–20: status thenceforth as for n. Harman, Nashe, B.E., Colman, Grose, Thackeray. Perhaps ex Dutch buizen (low Ger. busen) to drink to excess: W.—2. Hence booze (etc.) it, mostly C.17, always c., and v.t., C.17–20, e.g. in Harington.—3. V.t. To spend or dissipate in liquor: mid-C.19–20. Often booze away (e.g. a fortune).

booze artist. A heavy drinker; a drunkard: Aus.: since ca. 1920. (H. Drake Brockman, Hot Gold, 1940.) Perhaps adopted ex Can., where current since ca. 1905. (Leechman.) Cf. piss artist.

booze(-)bag, esp. get the. To be forced to undergo the test of the breathalyser bag for the detection of excessive liquor in one's breath: motorists': since latish 1960s. (Petch, 1969).

booze-fencer or -pusher. A licensed victualler: low London: from ca. 1880; ob. Ware.

booze-fighter. A notable drinker; a drunkard: Aus. (—1915) and American (—1916).

booze Naffy. Such a NAAFI issue as included beer and spirits: army: WW2.

booze-out. A meal, esp. a good 'feed': RN: later C.19—early 20. B. & L.

booze-shunter. A beer drinker: orig. (—1870), railwaymen's: from ca. 1870, gen. public-house; slightly ob. Ware.

booze the (or one's) jib; booze up the jib. To drink heavily; tittle: nautical: early C.19–early 20. It occurs in the first form in Marryat, 1837 (OED), and the second may be a shortening of an earlier version, booze up (one's) jibstay, cited by Moe from W.N. Glascock, Naval Sketch-Book, I, 1825. B. & L. list the var. booze one's or the tip.

booze-up. A drinking bout: low: late C.19–20. Sessions, 26 Oct. 1897.

boozed, etc., ppl adj. Drunk: C.19–20, low. P. Crook, in The War of Hats, 1850, 'Boozed in their tavern dens,/The scurril press drove all their dirty pens.'

booze-up. A later var. of the prec., recorded in Aus. in 1891 (Baker, a letter), and in gen. low use in Britain, C.20.

boozelier. A fusilier: army: earlier C.20. A blend of booze and fusilier.

boozier. A drunkard:—1611: low. Cotgrave, Wolcot, Thackeray.—2. A public-house: English c. and low s. since late C.19; Aus. and NZ since before WW1. Charles E. Leach, in On Top of the Underworld, 1933, gives this example of contemporary s.: 'Guv'nor, the "diddikayes" are "ramping" a "hit" in the "spruce" there; they're "three-handed"; a "nose" told me in the "boozier"; there's nobody "screwing", as they don't think the "busies" are "wise"; come along quick with the "mittens".'

boozician. Synon. with and prompted by boozington, q.v.: Aus.: ca. 1890–1940. (B., 1943.) A blend of booze and musician, magician, etc.

boozing, etc., vbl n. Heavy drinking; guzzling: C.16–20, low. Until ca. 1660, c. Harman, Nashe, Head, G. Eliot.—2. Also, adj.: C.16–20: same remarks. Addicted to drink.

boozing cheat. A bottle: c.; C.17–18 (?earlier). See cheat.

boozing-glass. A wine-glass; a tumbler: c.: C.17–early 19. Baumann.

boozing ken. A drinking den; an ale-house: c.; mid-C.16–mid-19.

boozing school. A military coll., dating from ca. 1880. 'A boozing school generally consisted of three or four men who pooled their pay, one of them acting as treasurer. They allowed themselves so much for tobacco or cigarettes and so much for a monthly visit to the women in the Bazaar: the remainder was spent on beer. Only one basin was used between a school; it held a quart and each man took a drink in his turn from it, and each in turn walked to the bar with it when it wanted refilling. When money ran short they would borrow money right and left and sell any kit they did not want and also some that they did. Genuine boozing schools always paid their debts. ... After they had paid their debts they would decide among themselves whether they would continue with the boozing school or not. After being on the tact—teetotal—'for about six months they would start boozing again with a capital of two hundred rupees.' This passage, in Richards, refers to the Indian army of the first decade of the C.20: but the practice, though now less usual, applies elsewhere, with an equivalent of a corresponding capital sum.

boozington; or, in derisive address, Mr Boozington. A drunkard: Aus. c.: ca. 1860–1910. Prob. after lushington.

boozle. Sexual intercourse: since ca. 1945; ob. (Noël Coward, Pomp and Circumstance, 1960.) Cf. synon. boogie.

boozorium. A (hotel) bar-room: Can.: since ca. 1965 (Leechman cites H. Dempsey, Bob Edwards, 1975). On analogy with vomitatorium, etc.

boozy, n. A drunkard: Anglo-Irish: since ca. 1920. (Michael Kenyon, The Rapist, 1977.) The pl is spelt bowsies. See bowsie man.

boozy, etc., adj. Drunken, esp. if mildly; showing the marks of drink: C.16–20, ob.; low. Skelton, in his famous poem of the drunken Eleanor, 'Droupy and drowsie,/Scurvy and lousie,/Her face all bowsie'; Dryden, in his Juvenal, 'Which in his cups the bowsy poet sings'; Thackeray, in The Book of Snobs, 'The boozy unshorn wretch'. (The earliest spellings of the booze group are in -use, -uze; the -oze form seems not to occur before C.18.)

bop, n. A blow, a punch: Aus.: adopted ex US ca. 1945. Nino Culotta, Cop This Lot, 1960.

bop, v. To hit (usu, a person), as 'bopped him one on the nut (= head) with a rolled-up newspaper': coll.: since mid-C.20. Ex the prec. entry; echoic. (P.B.)

bor, gen. in vocative. Mate, friend: on the borders of dial. (Eastern counties of England), Romany (properly ba), and provincial s.: C.19–20. (EDD; Smart & Crofton; Sampson.) Cf. Middle High Ger. bur.

borachio. A drunkard: coll.: late C.17–early 19. B.E. (as boracho); Grose. Also, perhaps earlier, as noted by B.E., a skin for holding wine: coll. Ex It. or Sp. The Parlyaree form is borarco. Influenced perhaps by Borrachio's speech, 'I will, like a true drunkard, utter all to thee' (Shakespeare's Much Ado). boracic. "'You boracic?" she asked.—She meant boracic lint—skint' (Hank Hobson, Mission House Murder, 1959)—that is, very short of money: rhyming s.: since ca. 1945. Often pron. brassic.—2. "'Don't give me the old boracic" = don't tell me tall yarns, don't try to get round me with smooth words. Also ackamaraka' (Tempest): prisons' and low s.: mid-C.20. Prob. ex smoothness of boracic ointment.

borack, borak. Banter; fun; humbug, gammon: Aus.: 1845 (McCombie; Wilkes). Hence.—2. In poke borack at, to impart fictitious news to a credulous person; to ridicule; make fun of: Aus.:—1885. Ex a NSW Aboriginal word; it had, by 1923, so spread that Manchon classifies it simply as Services'. In WW1+, borak was occ. corrupted, joc., to borax. Perhaps, though not prob., the orig. of barrack, barracker, qq.v.

borarco. See borachio.

borax. Cheap furniture: Can. salesmen's: since ca. 1920. (Leechman).—2. See borack, 2.

bord you! (Properly, no doubt, board, you.) C.19. Nautical, in drinking: my turn next!

bord(e). In c. of mid-C.16–18, a shilling. (Harman.) Perhaps ex bord, a shield.—2. Whence half borde, a sixpence.

bordeaux. Blood: boxing, ca. 1850–1910. Cf. badminton and esp. claret, q.v.

bordello. A brothel: late C.16–18; coll. (bordel is S.E.). Grose, P.

bore, n. Ennui: mid–late C.18.—2. A boring thing, an annoyance, prob. dates from ca. 1750; it seems to have, orig., been University of Oxford s., and occurs in 'A Familiar Epistle' on p. 366 of The Gentleman's Magazine, May 1784: 'No books but magazines we read,/At barbarous Latin shook our head,/And voted Greek a boar' (sic). There is, however, some evidence for finding the origin of bore in boar: R.B. Sheridan, letter of Sep. 1772 (Sotheby's catalogue, H.Y. Thompson library sale): Sir William Weller Pepys, letter of 1774: with thanks to Derek Pepys Whiteley, Esqre. If this be correct, boar connotes uncouthness and ignorance in speech or action.—3. A wearying, an uncongenial, person:—1785 (Grose). Until ca. 1820, the second and third senses were coll., thereafter S.E.; the first hardly outlived the C.18; the rare sense, 4, a bored, a listless person, arose in 1766 and soon died (OED). Of the third, Grose remarks that it was 'much in fashion about the years 1780 and 1781'; it again > fashionable ca. 1810.

bore, v. To weary a person (1768); coll. In C.19–20, S.E. Perhaps ex bore, an instrument for boring; cf. A.-S. borian, to pierce. (Its athletic sense is j.)—2. To annoy: Bootham School coll.:—1925 (Bootham).

bore the pants off (someone). To bore him to desperation: since the latish 1940s. Hence, since ca. 1950, the low, predominantly male, var. bore the balls off. (Petch, 1974.)

bore to tears. The polite version of the prec. entry, had >, by latish C.20, informal S.E., as 'Honestly, I was bored to tears.' Occ., ... to distraction. (P.B., 1979.)

bore war, the. Concerning Nov. 1939, Dudley Clarke, in Seven Assignments, 1948, writes: 'The "phony war" was giving way to the "bore war", and at the War Office we started to resign ourselves to a long winter at our desks': Nov. 1939–April 1940, then merely historical. Punning on boring, tedious, and the Boer War. Also the Great Bore War, as in Evelyn Waugh's Put Out More Flags, 1942.

Borealis. Abbr. Aurora Borealis: late C.18–20: coll. >, by 1850, S.E.

borehole. A rumour. See PRISONER-OF-WAR SLANG, 3, in Appendix.

boretto-man. Early C.18 term for an active homosexual. See ROGUES AND BEGGARS.

born a gentleman – died an actor. Theatrical c.p. of C.19–20; ob.

born at Hogs Norton. See Hogs Norton.

born call. Sound reason: Australian coll. (now rare): 1890, Mrs Campbell Praed, The Romance of a Station. EDD.

born days, in (all) one's. In one's lifetime; ever: coll.: 1742, Richardson.

born in a barn (or a field)?, were you. A c.p. directed at someone who leaves the door open: late C.19–20. Of the same order as the semi-proverbial was your father a glazier? Often followed up with 'Put the wood in the hole!', shut the door!

born in a mill. Deaf: coll.: ca. 1570–1700. Whetstone, 1578; Ray, 1678. (Apperson.) I.e. deafened by the noise of a mill working at top speed.

born on Newgate steps. See Newgate, 3.

born tired. See tired, 2.

born under a threepenny halfpenny planet (, never to be worth a groat). Extremely unsuccessful: C.17–19; coll.

born weak. Nautical, of a vessel: weakly built. From ca. 1850; ob.

born with a caul. Born lucky: coll.: C.17–early 20. Ben Jonson; Dickens.

born with a pack of cards in one hand, a bottle of booze in the other, and a fag in his (or her) mouth. A c.p. directed, since ca. 1955, at a not uncommon type of man or woman. (Petch.)

born with a silver spoon in (one's) mouth. Born rich: C.18–20: coll. till ca. 1850, then S.E. Motteux, 1712; Buckstone, 1830, 'Born... as we say in the vulgar tongue, with ...' Anticipated by John Clarke in 1639, born with a penny in one's mouth. Apperson.

born with the horn. A coarse c.p., applied to a lecher: late C.19–20. A rhyme on horn, 4, an erection.

born yesterday, not. Esp. 'I wasn't born yesterday', = 'I'm not a fool, or I'm not that gullible: c.p.: late C.19–20. Occ. 'You must think I was born yesterday, to believe such rubbish!'

Boro-Onions. 'Boronians', i.e. the people of the Borough of Southwark: ca. 1820–40. Bee.

borough-monger. A rabbit: rare Scottish: C.19 (EDD). Leechman suggests, 'Could this be "burrow-monger"? Perhaps—but I suspect a dry Scots witticism.

borrow. To steal: joc. coll.: from ca. 1880.—2. A palliative for 'Give me', in small, unlikely to be returned demands, e.g., 'Can I borrow some Sellotape?', 'May I borrow a scrap of paper?', etc.: later C.20. (P.B.)—3. In on the borrow, cadging; 'on the scrounge': coll.: C.20.

borrow and beg. An egg: rhyming s.: late C.19–20. Franklyn, Rhyming.

borrow trouble. To seek trouble; to anticipate it unnecessarily or very unwisely: coll.: from the 1890s.

bos-eyed. See boss-eyed.

bos-ken. A farm-house: mid-C.19–20 vagrants' c. (Mayhew, 1851.) Ex L. bos, an ox; ken, a place or house. Cf.:-

bos-man. A farmer: mid-C.19–20 c. (vagrants'). Ex Dutch. Etm. disputable, but cf. bos-ken.

Bosch(e). See Boche, for which these two forms are erroneous.

bose. Abbr. bo'sun, itself an eligible slurring of boatswain. Both are nautical, the former dating from the early C.19, to judge by W.N. Glascock, The Naval Sketch-Book, 2nd series, 1834, at II, 65 (Moe), the latter from (?) late C.18. The former is often used in addressing that link between officers and deck-hands.

Bosey. See bosie, Bosie.

bosh, n. Trash; nonsense: 1834. Coll. after ca. 1860. Ex Turkish (for 'empty', 'worthless'); popularised by Morier's Ayesha and later novels.—2. Hence, as interjection: nonsense! 1852; coll. after ca. 1870. Dickens in Bleak House.—3. In vagrants' c., and fairground and circus s., a fiddle: see bosh-faker.—4. Butterine; oleomargarine; similar substitutes for butter: lower official English (—1909); ob. Ex sense 1.—5. Wabash Railroad preferred shares: Stock Exchange:—1895 (A.J. Wilson, Stock Exchange Glossary)—6. Such a game between two houses as does not count towards a cup: Rugby School: C.20. 'They are usually of low quality' (D.F. Whar-ton): cf. sense 1.

bosh, v. To spoil; mar: 1870; ob. Ex bosh, n., 1.—2. Hence, to humbug, make fun of (—1883), as in Miss Braddon's Golden Calf.—3. Cut a dash: coll.; from ca. 1709; †. Ex Fr. ébauche, via English bosh, an outline or rough sketch (—1751); †. SOD, OED.

bosh, adj. Inferior; 'wretched' (e.g. bosh boots): from ca. 1880; ob. (Baumann.) Ex n., 1. Cf. boshy.

bosh-faker. A violin-player: vagrants' c., from ca. 1850; fairground and circus s., C.20. (Lester.) In Romany, bosh is a violin.

bosh lines, the. (The) marionettes: showmen's: from ca. 1855. (B. & L.) Lit., violin strings.

bosh up. To go bankrupt: C.20 (Manchon.) Ex bosh, v., 1. boshman. The same as bosh-faker: low or c.:—1865 (OED Sup.).

boshta, boshter. Like bosker, a var. of bonza, good, excellent, q.v. C.J. Dennis.

boshy, adj. Trashy; nonsensical: coll.:—1882; ob. by 1935. (Anstey in Vice Versa.) Cf. bosh, n., 1.

bosie, Bosie; bosey (or B.). A 'googly' (ball or bowler): Aus. cricketers' coll.: 1912—ca. 1921. Ex B.J.T. Bosanquet, who demonstrated the googly in Australia early in 1903 (W.J. Lewis), in which year googlie (or -y) first occurs: s. >, by 1910, coll. >, by 1930, S.E.—2. A single bomb dropped from the air: Aus. airmen's: ca. 1940–5. (B., 1943.) Cf. sense 1.

bosken. Incorrect for bos-ken, q.v., as bosman perhaps is for bos-man.

bosker. A var. of bonza, q.v. C.J. Dennis.

boskiness. Fuddlement; state of intoxication: from ca. 1880; ob. Coll. Ex bosky, adj., 1.

bosko absoluto. 'Dead drunk. In, e.g., Kipling's "The Janeyites", a short story published [in 1924]; but I would guess considerably earlier ... Clearly the superlative (with pseudo-Spanish -o) of bosky [q.v.]' (Robert Claiborne, 1976). The Janeyites' told how, in WW1, two young Infantry officers made friends because of their shared love of Jane Austen's novels. The term was † by ca. 1940.

bosky, n. A scholar's new gown. See WESTMINSTER SCHOOL, in Appendix.

bosky, adj. Dazed or fuddled; mildly drunk: 1730, Bailey; F. & G.; ob. Possibly dial., and perhaps ex bosky, wooded, bushy; though it may be perverted from Sp. boquiseco, dry mouthed', W., who, however, acutely adds that 'adjs. expressive of drunkenness seem to be created spontaneously'.—2. Thorough, as in a bosky bean: low: C.20. Manchon.

bosom. A bosom friend: C.20. A. Neil Lyons, Simple Simon, 1914.—2. The female breast: since ca. 1930: orig. euph. In 1973 a girl of 18 told me that 'only mothers have breasts'. Comparable: bosomy, large-breasted.

bosom clasper. A very emotional cinematic film: since ca. 1935. James Agate in Daily Express, 14 Aug. 1943.

bosom friend. A body-louse: C.18–20. In proverbial form as no friend like to a bosom friend, as the man side when he pulled out a louse, Fuller, 1732 (Apperson). An alternative form is bosom chum: military: late C.19–20. F. & G. Swift, ca. 1708, and Grose, 1st ed., have the punning c.p. his bosom friends are become his back-biters.

Bosphorescence. 'The dazzling rather than sound finance of European banks in Turkey,' ca. 1900–7: journalistic of that period. (Sir Harry Luke, An Eastern Chequerboard, 1934.) A blend of Bosphorus + phosphorescence.

boss, n. A fat woman: ca. 1575–1650: coll. Lyly. Ex boss, a protuberance.—2. A master, owner, manager; leader; a 'swell': in these senses, orig. (1806), US; anglicised ca. 1850. In England the term has a joc. undertone; in Aus. and NZ, it lacks that undertone. Ex Dutch baas, master.—3. (Gen. with political.) 'The leader of a corrupt following', Thornton: coll., orig. (—1908) US and still applied rarely to politics outside of the US.—4. A short-sighted person; one who squints: mid-C.19–20, ob. ?ex Scots boss, hollow, powerless.—5. Hence (?), a miss, mistake, blunder: C.19–20, ob. Cf. boss, v., 2.—6. An officer, esp. a commodore, commanding a group, a flotilla, of ships: RN: (?)late C.19–mid-20. 'Taffrail', Pincher Martin, 1916.—7. As the boss, joc. for one's wife: Aus., since ca. 1920; some British usage. 'I was hoping you'd ring. The boss has been on my back about it.' (B.P.)—8. A prison officer: Borstals and detention centres: 1970s: Home Office.—9. In have a boss, to have a look: schoolboys': from ca. 1899. (Collinson.) Cf. boss-eyed.

boss, v. To be the master or the manager of; control, direct. Orig. (1856) US; anglicised ca. 1870, as in the Athenæum, 9 Mar. 1872, 'A child wishing to charge his sister with being the aggressor in a quarrel for which he was punished, exclaimed, "I did not boss the job; it was sister"'.—2. To miss, v.t. and i.; to bungle; to fail in an examination: schoolboys' s. in the main: from ca. 1870. (Baumann; Manchon.) Perhaps ex boss-eyed (W.); cf. boss, adj., 3.

boss, adj. Chief, principal: orig. (1840) US; anglicised ca. 1875.—2. Pleasant; excellent; champion. Orig. (—1888) US; anglicised ca. 1895, but never very gen.—3. Short-sighted: Christ's Hospital:—1887 (Baumann). Abbr. boss-eyed. Cf. boss, v., 2.

boss-cockie. A farmer employing labour and himself working: Aus.:—1898. Ex and opp. cockatoo, q.v. Morris.—2. Hence, 'top dog': since ca. 1920.

boss(-)crusher. One who organises a group seeking to 'cash in' on 'crush' betting: since ca. 1920. (B., 1953.) See crush (bet).

boss-eye, n. One who squints or has an injured eye: from ca. 1880; ob. In a broadside ballad of ?1884. Cf. boss, n., 4. Imm. ex:-

boss-eyed, adj. With one eye injured; with a squint: from ca. 1860. H., 2nd ed.; Baumann, 1887, notes the var. bos-eyed. Perhaps on † boss-backed; hump-backed: W.—2. Hence, lopsided; crooked: C.20. COD, 1934 Sup.

boss-hostler. Superintendent of livestock: circusmen's: C.20. boss (one's) own shoes. To manage one's affairs by oneself or personally: US, anglicised ca. 1880; ob. (B. & L.) See boss, v., 1.

boss-over-the-board or of the board. See board, n., 4.

boss-shot. A bad aim: see boss, n., and v., (to) miss. Ca. 1870–1914; extant in dial. Cf. boss, n., 4, and boss-eyed.

boss up. To manage or run (a house, its servants); to keep in order; act as the 'boss' over: servants' coll.: C.20. App. ex S. Africa. Francis E. Brett Young, Pilgrim's Rest, 1936, 'She was always breaking in on their trivialities, getting things done, "bossing them up", as they called it on the Reef' on the Rand.—2. Hence, v.i., to work hard: S. African: C.20. Brett Young, op. cit.

boss up! Take care! S. African coll.: from ca. 1890. Ex Cape Dutch pas op!, look out! Pettman aligns Ger. passen sie auf! bossaroo. A 'boss kangaroo': Aus. coll.: from ca. 1870. B. & L.

bossers. Spectacles: ca. 1870–1910. Prob. ex boss-eyed, q.v. bosso. A look or glance: low: C.20 (Margery Allingham, Look to the Lady, 1931.) Perhaps orig. a squint; if so, then prob. ex boss-eyed on dekk.

bossooks, I'll give him, them, etc. A minatory c.p.—a threat to settle a score, to exact vengeance, etc.: late C.19–early 20. (L. A.) Perhaps of dial. origin.

Bossy. A common Can. name for a cow: (?)late C.19–20. Ex boss-eyed?

bossy, adj. Over-fond of acting as leader or of giving orders: late C.19–20. Ex (—1882) US: cf. boss, n., 2, and v., 1, qq.v.

bossy-boots. A young girls' term for someone (usu. female and co-eval) over-officious and self-willed: C.20. Cf. boots, 3.

Boston Tea-Party. The throwing of (chests of) tea into Boston (Mass.) harbour by American patriots—the 'casus belli' of the War of American Independence: s. soon > coll.; in C.19–20, historical S.E. See esp. A Covey of Partridge, 1937.

Boston wait. (Gen. in pl.) A frog: joc. coll. (—1769); † by 1850, except in dial.—and even there, now virtually †. OED.

bostruchizer; occ. -yzer. A small comb for curling the whiskers: Oxford University: ca. 1870–80. H., 5th ed. Prob. ex Gr. βόστρυχος, a ringlet. Also † to bostruchize. Article by Sir A. West in the Nineteenth Century, April 1897.

bosun, bo'sun. There are several compounds, e.g. sin bosun, custard bosun, qq.v., ship's chaplain and warrant cook, respectively. See also bose.

bosun's nightmare, the. The experimental sweep used against magnetic mines: RN: late 1939–early 1940. P-G-R.

bot, n. See bot-fly.—2. A germ: NZ medical: from ca. 1928. Perhaps ex the bot(-fly), which, in horses, lays eggs that are said to penetrate the animal's skin when they hatch.—3.

Hence, a tubercular patient: id.: from ca. 1929.—4. A man ever on the move and, like the rolling stone, unable to gather moss: Aus.: since ca. 1920. Ex sense 1.—5. (One's) bottom: mostly domestic: late C.19–20.—6. A sponger: Aus.: since ca. 1920. (B., 1943.) Ex sense 2.—7. In have the bot, to feel unwell; to be moody; querulous: NZ and Aus. (B., 1941; 1943.) Ex sense 2.—8. In work (one's) bot, to coit: low: C.20. 'Is she working?'—'Yes, her bot.' Ex 5.—9. See bots; how are the bots biting?

bot, v. To borrow money; (usu. bot on) to sponge or impose on (others): Aus. and NZ: since ca. 1925. (B., 1941.) Ex n., 6.

bot about, v.i. To move restlessly from one place to another: Aus.: since ca. 1920. Cf. bot, n., 4.

bot-fly. A troublesome, interfering person: Aus.: C.20. In WW1, and since, often abbr. to bot. See bot, n., 2, and cf. botty, adj.—2. A sponger or scrounger: id. B., 1942.

botanical excursion. Transportation, orig. and properly to Botany Bay, Aus.: c.; ca. 1820–70. Bee. Cf. sense 3 of Botany Bay.

botanise, v.i. To go to Botany Bay as a convict: 1819, Scott, in a letter; † by 1890.

Botany Bay. 1, Worcester College, Oxford (1853); 2, a portion of Trinity College, Dublin (1841). The former in 'Cuthbert Bede', Verdant Green, the latter in Lever, Charles O'Malley. Because of their distance from (a) other colleges, (b) the rest of the college, the ref. being to Botany Bay in NSW—so far from England.—3. In c., penal servitude: ca. 1790–1900. Ex the famous penal settlement (1787–1867) at that place. Cf. botanical excursion and next two entries.—4. 'The Rotunda of the Bank; the Jobbers and Brokers there being for the most part those who have been absolved from the house opposite' (Bee): London commercial: ca. 1820–50.—5. To run away: Aus. rhyming s.:—1945. Baker, The Australian Language.—6. In go to Botany Bay, to be transported as a convict: euphemistic coll.: ca. 1810–60. Baumann.

Botany Bay coat-of-arms. Broken nose and black eye: Aus. convicts': ca. 1820–55. B., 1943.

Botany Bay fever. Transportation; penal servitude. Ca. 1815–60. Egan's Grose.

Botany-beer party. 'A meeting where no intoxicants are drunk': society: ca. 1882–1910. Ware.

botch. A tailor: mid-C.18–19. (Grose, 2nd ed.) Abbr. botcher. Cf. snip, q.v. (In Whitby dial., a cobbler.)

both ends of the busk! A late C.18–early 19 toast. (Grose, 3rd ed.) Ex the piece of whalebone stiffening the front of women's stays. Cf. best in Christendom, q.v.

both sheets aft. With both hands in his pockets: nautical: late C.19–20. Bowen.

both ways. See bet both ways.

bother, v. (The n. is gen. considered as S.E.) To bewilder (with noise); confuse, fluster: mostly Anglo-Irish: ca. 1715–1850. Perhaps ex pother, but perhaps ex Gaelic (see J.J. Hogan, An Outline of English Philology, 1935).—2. Hence, to pester, worry: from ca. 1740. V.i., to give trouble, make a fuss: from ca. 1770. All senses are coll., as is botheration (1800), the act of bothering, a petty annoyance. Both bother and botheration are used as exclamations. OED.—3. I'm or I'll be bothered is a disguised form of swearing (see bugger, v., 1): coll.: prob. from the 1860s.

Botherams (-ums). The nickname of a latter-C.18 convivial society. Grose (Botherams). (?) Hence, 'a noisy party': 15 Nov. 1839, The Individual; † by 1890.—2. (Rare in sing.) Yellow marigolds: agricultural (—1909); ob. except in a few localities. Ware. They are 'difficult to get rid of'.

botheration. See bother, 2.

bothered!, (well) I'm or I'll be. See bother, 3.

botherment. A var. of botheration: coll.: early C.19—early 20. It occurs in C.P. Clinch, The Spy, 1822 (II, vii), an American source, but prob. implying an early British source. (Moe.) Botherers, the. One nickname of the King's Own Scottish Borderers: 'presumably a corruption of "Borderers"'. Carew.

bots, botts, the. Colic; belly-ache. From ca. 1770; coll. when not, as usually, dial. Orig., an animal disease caused by maggots. Cf. bot, n., 7.—2. See how are the bots biting?

Botties. The Royal Botanical Gardens: Aus.: later C.20. (Barry Humphries, Nice Night's Entertainment, 1982.) P.B.: the botanical gardens in Hong Kong were known to servicemen there, 1960s, as the botty gardens.

bottle, n. The money taken, after a 'turn' by showmen and other entertainers: since late C.19. "What's the bottle, cul?" ... "How much have we taken, pal?"/Lester. P.H. Emerson, 1893, defines it as 'a share of the money'.—2. A reprimand, a 'dressing-down'; esp. get a bottle, to be reprimanded: RN: from ca. 1920. (H. & P.) Granville, 'Short for "a bottle of acid"'.—3. A wireless valve, cathode-ray tube: RAF: from ca. 1935. (Sgt G. Emanuel, letter, 1945.) Ex shape.—4. Short for bottle and glass, arse: low: C.20. (Robin Cook, 1962.) Esp. in the later C.20 sense, 'Spirits, guts, courage ... It's the worst that could be said about you, that you'd lost your bottle' (Tony Park, The Plough Boy, 1965): Teddy boys' and teenage gangsters'.—5. As the bottle, the hip pocket: 1938 (F.D. Sharpe, The Flying Squad). Mostly in off the bottle, pickpockets' c. for '(removed) from a rear trouser pocket' (Franklyn 2nd); cf. primary meaning of sense 4. Hence the bottle, pickpocketing, and on the bottle, engaged in pickpocketing: c.: C.20.—6. In no bottle(s), no good; not 'classy': since ca. 1920. Short for no bottle and glass, no 'class', itself current throughout C.20. (John Gosling, The Ghost Squad, 1959.) But see also bottle top, and cf. turn out no bottle, to fail: sporting: later C.19 (Baumann, 1887); ob. by 1930. Cf. also:—7. In not much bottle, not much good; grafters': from ca. 1920. Cheap-jack.—8. In on the bottle, (reared) by means of the feeding-bottle: coll. in C.19; S.E. in C.20—9. In over a bottle, in a sociable way: from ca. 1770, coll.; in late C.19–20, S.E.—10. See break a bottle; full bottle; bible, n., 8.

bottle, v.i. To collect money for, e.g., a 'chanter': vagrants' c.: C.20.—2. V.t., to fail: Public Schools': C.20. Alec Waugh, Public School Life, 1922.—3. To attack with a (usu. broken) bottle: low: C.20. Cf. glass, v.—4. To smell; stink: as in 'some of them slinks and slags in the bevyken don't half bottle': market traders': C.20. (M.T.)—5. To bugger (a woman). See rim.—6. To coit with (a woman); to impregnate: low: C.20.—7. 'To approach (someone) for a contribution' (Lester): showmen's and other entertainers': C.20. Cf. sense 1.—8. To kiss the anus of: homosexuals': current ca. 1970.

bottle-ache. Drunkenness; delirium tremens: mid-C.19—early 20. F. & H.

bottle and glass. The buttocks: low rhyming, on arse: C.20. (B. & P.) See bottle, n., 4.

bottle and stopper. Policeman: rhyming s., on copper: since ca. 1950. Haden-Guest, 1972.

bottle-arse. (A person) 'broad in the beam': low coll.: late C.19—early 20. Also bottle-arsed. Cf.:-

bottle-arsed, adj. (Printers' concerning type) thicker at one end than at the other: coll.: ca. 1760–1910; in C.20, of type wider at the bottom than at the top. In C.20 Can. printers' usage, it describes printing type 'so long used that the base is no longer a solid rectangle, and so the type will not stand in a galley without being tied' (Leechman).

bottle-bottoms. Very thick-lensed spectacles; hence '(old) bottle-bottoms', anyone wearing them: Northern children's: C.20. (Mrs Janet Bowater, 1978.)

bottle-boy. An apothecary's assistant; a doctor's page: coll.: mid-C.19—early 20.

bottle fallen out?; e.g., has your ..., Are you afraid?: low: since ca. 1940. Cf. drop (one's) bundle; bottle, n., 4.

bottle-head, n. and adj. (A) stupid (fellow): the n., ca. 1654; the adj. (variant, as in Grose, bottle-headed), ca. 1690. Coll.; in C.19–20, S.E. but archaic.

bottle-holder. A second at a boxing-match (1753; in C.20, ob.): coll. Smollett in Count Fathom, 'An old bruiser makes a good bottle-holder'.—2. Hence, a second, backer, supporter, adviser: coll.: since early C.19. It occurs in Walter Scott's The Antiquary, 1816 (OED) and Punch in 1851 had a cartoon of Palmerston as the 'judicious bottle-holder', for he gave much help to oppressed states; bottle-holder > his nickname. Whence bottle-holding: journalistic, ca. 1860–1900, for support, backing.

bottle-nose. A person with a large nose: (low) coll.: late C.19–20.

bottle-o. A dealer in, collector of, empty bottles; hence, bottle-o's rouseabout (or roustabout), a person of no account: Aus.: resp. since ca. 1910, 1920. (Baker.) In bottle-collectors' street cries, botto=bottle.—2. In games of marbles, a green taw: NZ children's: C.20. Ruth Park, The Witch's Thorn, 1952.—3. A glass sphere taken from a soft-drink bottle and used as a marble: Aus. children's: ca. 1910–50. (B.P.) bottle o(f) beer. Ear: rhyming s.: C.20. Franklyn 2nd.

bottle of brandy in a glass. A glass of beer: ca. 1885–1905. It didn't deserve a longer life.

bottle of cheese. A drink of Guinness: public houses': —1935.

bottle of cola. A bowler hat: rhyming: C.20; by 1950, ob.

bottle of fiz, the. Pickpocketing: rhyming s. See whizz, n., 2, and bottle, n., 5.

bottle of sauce. A horse: rhyming: late C.19–20.

bottle of Scotch. A watch: rhyming: since ca. 1910.

bottle of smoke, pass the. To countenance a white lie: coll.: Dickens, 1855: ob. OED.

bottle of spruce. Twopence: rhyming s. on deuce, two. (—1859; ob.) H., 1st ed.—2. Nothing; almost nothing; (almost) valueless: non-aristocratic: late C.18—mid-19. (Ware.) Ex spruce beer, which was inferior.

bottle of water. A daughter: rhyming s.:—1931.

Bottle of Whisky, the. The Polish destroyer Blyskawika: RN Hobson-Jobson: ca. 1940–2.

bottle-o's rouseabout. See bottle-o.

bottle out, v.i. 'This is the big crime, for [the underworld]: if they are informers or if they don't have the courage to do a crime. They, as they say, "bottle out"' (John McVicar in Listener, 8 Mar. 1979). Cf. bottle, n., 4, and bottle fallen out, of which this is evidently a contraction. (P.B.)

bottle-screws. Stiff, formal curls: coll., ca. 1800–40. Succeeded by corkscrews.

bottle-sucker. Nautical, ca. 1850–1914: an able-bodied seaman, b.s. being humorously expanded.

bottle the field. Odds of 2 to 1: racing, esp. bookmakers': C.20. Sunday Telegraph, 7 May 1967.

bottle the tot. To pour one's daily tot of rum into a bottle and save it up for special occasions: RN: WW2.

bottle-tit or -tom. The long-tailed tit, from the shape of its nest: coll., from ca. 1845.

bottle top, n. and v. Cop: rhyming s.: C.20. As n., it means 'a gain or catch. To say something/someone is "not much bottle (or bottle top)" means not much cop which implies it/he/she is a doubtful or useless asset.' Cop, as v., means 'to catch or take in, "'e's gorn an' bottled (or bottle topped) [caught, taken] the 'oppin' pot!' or, "'oo sed yew could bottle me linen nen!' (Hillman). See, however, bottle, n., 6, 7.

Bottle-trekker, 'ex Voor-trekker, was a usual name for a Dutchman, owing to their habit of taking a bottle of water to the latrine with them instead of toilet paper' (R.H. Panting): PRISONER-OF-WAR SLANG, §9, in Appendix.

bottle-up. To keep, hold back: C.17–20, coll.; restrain (feelings): C.19–20, also coll. (Military) enclose, shut up: C.19–20; coll.; but S.E. in C.20.

bottle-washer. Often head cook and b.-w. A factotum: joc. coll.: 1876, C. Hindley, 'Fred Jolly being the head-cook and bottle-washer'.

bottled. 'Arrested, stopped, glued in one place': low coll.: 1898; ob. Ware, who considers that it partly arises from the bottling-v., in Santiago, of the Spanish fleet by the US squadron.—2. Topsy: Society: since ca. 1930. Peter Traill, Half Mast, 1936.

bottled belly-ache. Cheap beer: C.20; tramps' c. Contrast: bottled sunshine. 'Scottish service (esp. Army) name for beer' (H. & P.): since ca. 1930.

bottled-up, be. To be fully engaged and therefore unable to accept any further engagements: low:—1887 (Baumann); ob. by 1930.

bottle-neck. The use of a bottle's neck (or metal bar) pressed against the strings to obtain, in guitar-playing, a glissando effect. Recorded in US in 1973 and, in Britain, 1975 (Clare & Tyler, The Beatles).

bottler, n. A collector of money for a band, a singer, an instrumentalist on the street: tramps' c.:—1935. The agent of bottle, v., 1. Cf. nobber.—2. Expression of high praise or deep delight: NZ, and perhaps slightly later, Aus. youngsters. B., 1941 (NZ) and 1943 (Aus.). Var. bottling is recorded in B., 1943.—3. A sodomite: low: since ca. 1930. Cf. bottle, v., 5.—4. A non-seller (motor car): secondhand-car dealers': since ca. 1950. Anthony Cowdy in Sunday Times, colour sup., 24 Oct. 1965.—5. Esp., bloody bottler, a 'real hard case': NZ: since ca. 1945. Cf. sense 2.

bottler, adj.; also botting. Superlatively good: Aus.: since ca. 1920. (B., 1959.) Ex bottler, 2.

bottles. Barrett's Brewery and Bottling Co.'s shares: Stock Exchange, ca. 1880–1914.—2. For no bottles see bottle, n., 6.

botting, n. Persuading onlookers to put money in the hat: showmen's: C.20. P. Allingham, in the London Evening News, 9 July 1934. Cf. bottle, v., 1, and bottler, n., 1, qq.v.

botto. See bottle-o.

bottom, n. The buttocks: since late C.17; an early example occurs in George Farquhar, Love and a Bottle, 1699 (Moe): coll. See Slang, p. 138. Ex lit. sense, as prob. is:—2. Capital, property: C.17, coll.—3. Stamina, 'griot': 1747; ob. Captain Godfrey, in The Science of Defence, was apparently the first to use the term in print, thus: 'Bottom, that is, wind and spirit, or heart, or wherever you can fix the residence of courage'. Little used after 1855, pluck taking its place. Semantically: that on which a thing rests, or that which is at the base, is dependable.—4. Spirit poured into a glass before water is added: coll.; from ca. 1850, Trollope having it in 1857, Theodore Martin as a v. in 1854.—5. In at (the) bottom, in reality: coll. in C.18; S.E. in C.19–20. Hence to be at the bottom of, to be the actual, not merely the supposed, author or source of: coll. in C.18, S.E. in C.19–20. Steele has the equivalent be at the bottom on't.—6. See foul (one's) bottom; stand on (one's) own bottom; tale of a tub ...; knock the bottom out of; bottom line.

bottom, v. To clean thoroughly, not merely to dab over the top surfaces: Midlands domestic: C.20. "'Ruby cleaned the bathroom and kitchen for me"—'Well, I hope she bottomed it!' (Brenda Rodgers, 1981.) bottom dollar. See bet (ones) boots.

bottom drawer (, get together one's). Of a girl, (to prepare) her trousseau: coll.: C.20. S.P.B. Mais, A Schoolmaster's Diary, 1918.

bottom facts. The precise truth: coll., from ca. 1890, but not much used. Orig. (—1877) US. (Thornton.) bottom line, the. The 'crunch'; the crux, crisis, testing-point; as in 'When you reach the bottom line ...': adopted, ex US, late 1970s. (Mrs Camilla Raab.) John Silverlight, Observer, 27 June 1982, explains: 'Literally the bottom line of a company's annual statement: the amount of profit, after tax, available for distribution among shareholders.'

bottom of a woman's 'tu quoque', the. 'The crown of her head' (Grose, 3rd ed.): late C.18—early 19. See tu quoque. bottom of the bag, in the. In reserve; as last resource: mid-C.17–18: coll. >, by 1750, S.E. Cf. C.20 out of the bag. bottom on to (gold). To strike: Aus. coll.:—1926 (Jice Doone).

bottom road, the. A road leading (esp. from London) to the south coast of England: tramps' c.: C.20. W.A. Gape, Half a Million Tramps, 1936.

bottom-scratchers. A break-off group from a diving club: skin divers': since the late 1950s. 'Interested only in spear fishing (crabs, lobsters, etc.), they scratch the sea's bottom' (Wilfred Granville, letter, 1964).

bottom-wetter. Sexual intercourse (of a woman). See wet bottom, get a.

bottomer. In drinking, a draught or a gulp that empties the glass or tankard: C.19–20; coll.

bottomless pit. The female pudend: late C.18—early 19. Grose, 2nd ed. (In S.E., hell: cf. Boccaccio's story about 'putting the devil in hell'.)

Bottomley's Own. The 12th Londons: 1916–17. Because this regiment, which had been in camp for some time at Sutton Veny and Longbridge Deverill, was suddenly despatched to the front as the result of Horatio Bottomley's article (in John Bull) on Armies Rotting in England. By the way, they pronounced it Bumley's, in accordance with a very famous and presumably apocryphal story about Bottomley calling on a Cholmondeley (pronounced Chumley).

bottoms up! Empty your glass after each toast!: prob., orig., RN officers': C.20. In late C.20, sometimes simply a friendly 'pre-drinking noise', akin to Cheers!, or an invitation to finish the present drink so that another may be provided. (P.B.)

botts, the. See bots.

botty, n. An infant's buttocks: orig. and mainly nursery. Mid-C.19–20; coll. (H., 5th ed.) Ex bottom.

botty, adj. Conceited, swaggering; at first, and still chiefly, racing s. (—1860) and dial. (see the EDD). H., 2nd ed. Lit., troubled with the bots (parasitic worms). Cf. bot-fly, q.v.

boufer. A C.18 var. of buffer, a dog. C. Hitchin, The Regulator, 1718.

Bouguereau quality. Risky effeminacy: art-world coll. (1884) >, by 1910, j.; ob. Ware notes that this Fr. painter (1825–1905) excelled in delicate presentation of the—mostly feminine—nude.

boughs, up in the. Much excited; in a passion. Coll.; late C.17—early 19. B.E., Grose; the former has the var. a-top of the house. (Extant in dial.)

boughs, wide in the. See bows.

bougie. See bogee.

bovie. See booev.

boulder(-)holder, occ. prec. by over-shoulder. A brassière: Aus. raffish: since ca. 1955. 'Used by the same people who use flopper stopper, q.v.' (B.P.)

boule. 'A conversation in which anyone may join': Charterhouse: ca. 1860–1910. (A.H. Tod.) Ex Gr. βουλή, a council. Boulognie. A wounded man, desirous of getting to England but going no farther than Boulogne: military coll.: 1916–18. B. & P.

bouman. A companion or friend, a 'pal'; also as term of address: Dublin lower classes': from ca. 1910. Perhaps cf. bowman, 2.

bounce, n. A boastful lie, a pretentious swagger: coll. >, by 1800, S.E. (archaic in C.20): Steele, 1714, 'This is supposed to be only a bounce.' Ex † bounce, the loud noise of an explosion.—2. Hence, an exaggeration: coll. (—1765); as in Goldsmith, Whyte-Melville.—3. Impudence: coll.; from ca. 1850: as in Blackwood's, May 1880, 'The whole heroic adventure was the veriest bounce, the merest bunkum!' Adumbrated in Ned Ward in 1703 (Matthews). Ex senses 1, 2.—4. A boaster, swaggerer: from ca. 1690; as in B.E.—5. Hence, a flashily dressed swindler: from ca. 1800: low. (Vaux.) All these five senses are practically †; the only operative extant one being that wholly C.20 bounce=a bluffer, esp. if constitutional, regular, or persistent.—6. Cherry brandy: low: from the 1890s. Prob. ex its exhilarating effect.—7. A big dog-fish: nautical: late C.19–20. (Bowen.) Ex its bounding ways.—8. A perquisite, an illicit surplus: military: C.20. (F. & G.) Prob. var. of bunce, 1, in its sense of 'perks'.—9. Dismissal; esp. get or give the bounce: mostly military: from ca. 1910. (Ibid.) > gen., esp. as the grand bounce,=(as well as dismissal) the rejection of a manuscript: perhaps a re-borrowing ex US.—10. In give it to 'em upon the bounce, to escape from the police, even to extract an apology from them, by assuming an appearance of respectability and importance: c. of ca. 1810–60. Vaux.—11. In on the bounce, ('In continual spasmodic movement': S.E.: C.18–19. Hence:) lively: ca. 1850–1900: coll.—12. Hence, on the bounce, as a, by attempting a bluff; by rushing one: since ca. 1850.—13. Hence, on the bounce, 'on the spur of the moment. At the critical moment' (F. & G.): army: WW1+.—14. In put (someone) in the bounce, to accost, esp. for a loan of money: Aus.: since ca. 1930. D'Arcy Niland, The Shiralee, 1955.

bounce, v.i. and t. To bluster, hector; boast; bully; scold: C.17–20; ob. Coll.; but all except the last > S.E. ca. 1750.—2. V.i. and (with out of) t., to lie (t) cheat, swindle: from ca. 1750. Foote, 1762, 'If it had come to an oath, I don't think he would have bounced.' Cf. the n., senses 4, 5, qq.v.—3. To scold severely: coll. (—1888). Cf. sense 1 of the n.: semantically, 'blow up'. OED.—4. To bluff (a person): military: late C.19–20. F. & G.—5. To coit with (a woman): low: late C.19–20. F. & H. rev.—6. (Of a cheque) to be returned, as worthless, by the bank on which it has been drawn: adopted ca. 1938 from US.—7. To attack (suddenly, unexpectedly): RAF: 1939+. Brickhill & Norton, Escape to Danger, 1946, 'About 12,000 feet they were bounced from above by three 109's'.—8. To dismiss (a person), reject (a play): adopted, ca. 1940, from US; but cf. bounce, n., 9.

bounce it. See bounce the ball.

bounce it off. To drink heartily: ca. 1650–1750. Anon., The Bragadocio, 1691, at IV, ii. (Moe.)—2. See next entry.

bounce the ball. To test public opinion or sentiment; test the stock market: New Zealand political coll.: since ca. 1920. B., 1941. Ex the preliminaries usual among footballers. (E.P.) Soon after WW2, it had gained a far wider currency and acquired the var. bounce it, with v.t. off (an organisation), esp. in advertising. (P.B., 1975.)

bounceable, bounceable. Prone to boast; bumptious: ca. 1825–1910; coll. Samuel Warren, 1830; 1849, Charles Dickens, who, eleven years earlier, uses the coll. adv. bounceably. Cf. n., 1, and v., 1.

bounceful. Arrogant; domineering; Cockney: coll.: ca. 1850–90. (Mayhew.) Ex bounce, n., 1, 3.

bouncer. A bully, swaggerer, blusterer: late C.17–19; coll. (B.E., Dyché.) Ex bounce, v., 1.—2. A cheat, swindler; also (—1839), a thief operating while bargaining with a shopkeeper (Brandon): from ca. 1770; †; perhaps orig. c. Extant, however, is the nuance, a professional beggar: Cockneys': 1851, Mayhew; ob. EDD.—3. A liar: coll.; ca. 1755–1900, as in Foote's comedy, The Liar. Hence, a lie, esp. a big lie: from ca. 1800; coll.; ob.—4. Anything large (cf. bouncing): coll.: late C.16–20; ob. Nashe, 1596, 'My Book will grow such a bouncer, that those which buy it must be faine to hire a porter to carry it after them in a basket.'—5. Naval, ca. 1860–1914: a gun that 'kicks' when fired.—6. In c., a harlot's bully: C.19–20, ob.—7. A 'chucker-out': public-house s. (Daily News, 26 July 1883) >, by 1910, coll. (Ware). Perhaps orig. US.

bouncers. Female breasts: C.20: orig. low; by ca. 1960, joc. (A reminder from F. Leech, 1972.)

bouncible. See bounceable.

bouncing, n. A good scolding:—1885: coll. (OED.) Cf. bounce, v., 3.

bouncing, adj. Big rather than elegant; lusty, vigorous; mid-C.16–20; coll.; but after ca. 1700, S.E.—2. Of a lie: C.19, coll. Cf. a thumping lie.

bouncing ben. A learned man: c.:—1864. (H., 3rd ed.); † by 1930.

bouncing Betty. 'The deadly Schützenmine 35, which caused so many casualties in N. Africa. A small powder charge launched it between three and five feet in the air before it exploded, scattering some 350 pellets and having a killing radius of nearly a hundred yards. Its commonest nickname was "Bouncing Betty"' (Charles Drage, General of Fortune, 1963): army: 1941–3.

bouncing buffer. A beggar: c. of ca. 1820–60. Ainsworth, 1834 (EDD).

bouncing cheat. A bottle: c. of ca. 1720–1830. (A New Canting Dict., 1725; Grose, 1st ed.) Ex the noise of drawn corks.

bound, I dare or will be. I feel certain: certainly: coll.; from ca. 1530; the dare from being rare after ca. 1800.

bound rigid. Bored stiff: see bind.

bounder. A four-wheeler cab, a 'growler': ca. 1855–1900.—2. (University) a dog-cart: ca. 1840–1900.—3. One whose manners or company are unacceptable: Cambridge University, from ca. 1883. Lit., one who bounds 'offensively' about.—4. Hence, a vulgar though well-dressed man, an unwelcome pretender to Society, a vulgarly irrepressible person—gen. a man—within Society: from ca. 1885.

bounetter. A fortune-telling cheat: C.19 c., mostly vagrants'. (Brandon, 1839.) Prob. a gypsy corruption of bonnetter.

bang, bounce. See bung, n., 3., of which these are var. spellings.

bang-nipper. A cutpurse. See bung-nipper.

bouquet. A payment in pesos: white-slavers' c. (Argentine): C.20. Londres, 1928, 'A "bouquet" always means pesos.'

Bournemouth. The Gaiety Theatre: theatrical: late 1882—mid-1883. (Ware.) That theatre was icy that winter; Bournemouth is much affected by the weak-chested.

bous(e), bouz(e); bousy, etc. See booze.

'bout. A coll. abbr. of about: almost S.E. in C.13–18; but, esp. in words of command, e.g. 'bout turn, it is mainly Services': C.19–20.

boozy. A var. of boozy, q.v.

bovine heart. A human heart that has, through disease, grown as large as that of an ox: medical coll. (from ca. 1860) >, by 1910, j. B. & L. bovine puncher. A bullock driver: Aus. joc.: ca. 1925–50. B., 1943.

Bovril. 'A few years ago most young men here [in Sydney] said "Bovril" whenever they found anything unimpressive, and University students certainly made good use of the song, "It all sounds like Bovril to me"' (H.J. Oliver in Bulletin of the Australian English Association, July 1937). Prob. a euph. for ballocks or balls used exclamatorily; prompted by bull shit.—2. 'I'm not having my house turned into a Bovril' (the house being a 'public'): since ca. 1930. S.P.B. Mais, Caper Sauce, 1948.

bovri-lise. To omit all inessential matter from an advertisement: copywriters' coll.: since ca. 1935. Ex Bovril, 'the best of the meat', an advertising slogan for the famous meat-extract's brand-name.

bovver boots. Heavy, steel-studded boots affected by the 'bovver boys' [see next]; designed for use as weapons of offence: mostly London teenage gangsters': since 1969.

bovver boy, usu. in pl. Member(s) of a gang of louts, 'yobs', and 'skinheads [qq.v.], addicted to senseless violence and general hoodliganism: 1968 onwards, but seldom mentioned in books or the Press until mid-1969. Ex bovver, a Cockney pron. of the bother they delight in causing.

Bovvy. Bovington Camp, Dorset, depot of the Royal Armoured Corps: army: since WW2; prob. earlier.

bow. (Boating, competitive or otherwise) the rower sitting nearest to the bow: coll.: from ca. 1830.—2. In on the bow, without paying, as 'I got in on the bow': C.20: c. >, by 1945, low s. (F.D. Sharpe, 1938.) Powis, 1977, notes on the bow as a var. of on the elbow, scrounging.—3. See by the string...; draw the long bow; shoot in (another's) bow; strings to (one's) bow; talk by a bow.

bow and arrow. A sparrow: rhyming s.: late C.19–20. B. & P.—2. A barrow: rhyming s.: C.20. (L.A., 1969.)

Bow and Arrow War, the. See Farmers' Strike.

bow and quiver. Liver (the bodily organ): rhyming: C.20. Cf. cheerful giver.

bow-catcher. A kiss-curl: C.19. An early occurrence is in Saturday Evening Post, 21 Dec. 1822—quoting a British source (Moe); H., 2nd ed.; Ware. Corruption of beau-catcher, a var. form.

bow-hand, (wide) on the, adv. and adj. Wide of the mark; inaccurate: C.17–18; coll. soon > S.E.

Bow Street. The orderly room: military: from ca. 1910. (B. & P.) Ex the famous London police station.

bow the crumpet or duck the scone or nod the nut. To plead guilty in a law-court: Aus. c.: since ca. 1930. B., 1959.

bow up to the ear, draw the. To act with alacrity; exert oneself: coll.; from ca. 1850; ob.

bow wave. A tyro sailor: R Can. N: since ca. 1920. H. & P.—2. In RN, a cap with a bow-wave effect; esp. at the RNC, Dartmouth: C.20. Granville.

bow-window. A big belly. From the 1830s. (Marryat, 1840.) Ex shape.

bow-windowed. Big-bellied: from the 1840s. Thackeray in Pendennis. Ex prec.

bow-wow. A dog: joc. and nursery coll.: from ca. 1780. Grose, 1st ed.; 1800, Cowper, 'Your aggrieved bow-wow'. Ex the bark. Cf. moo-cow, etc.—2. A lover, a 'dangler': mainly in India; from ca. 1850. Ex his 'yapping'.—3. The Bow-wow = the Brigade Ordnance Warrant Officer (BOWO)—the Royal Army Ordnance Corps representative at Brigade HQ: army: since 1939. With an acronym like that, what else could he be? (P.B.)—4. In on the bow-wow, Aus. version of bow, 2.

bow-wow! You gay dog!: coll.: early C.20; †. Manchon.—2. An exclam. of contempt. See wow-wow!

bow-wow mutton. Dog's flesh: ca. 1780–1890. (Grose, 1st ed.) Ware, 1909, '(Naval) [mutton] so bad that it might be dog-flesh.'

bow-wow shop. A salesman's shop in, e.g. Monmouth Street: late C.18—early 19. Grose, 2nd ed., 'So called because the servant [at the door] barks and the master bites.'

bow-wow word. An echoic word: from ca. 1860. Academic coll. (coined by Max Müller) >, by 1890, S.E. The (always S.E.) bow-wow theory is that of human speech imitating animal sounds.

bow-wows, go to the. To go to 'the dogs'; joc. coll.: 1838, Dickens (OED Sup).

bowd-eaten. (Of biscuits) eaten by weevils: dial. (where gen. boud) and nautical coll.: mid-C.19–20. Bowen.

bowler. A prison: C.20: Aus. c. >, by 1940, low s. (B., 1942.) Ironic.

bowler bird. A petty thief: Aus.: C.20 (B., 1943). Ex the habits of the bowler bird, which hoards useless objects, as B.P. has pointed out. Cf.:-

bowler-birdin(g). Picking up odds-and-ends for one's own camp or use: N.T., Aus.: since ca. 1925. B., 1953.

bowl, n. gen. bowl-out. A discovery, disclosure: c.: C.19. Ex cricket.—2. A period of bowling: cricketers' coll.: C.20. Ex ob. S.E. bowol, a delivery of a ball.

bowl a galloon. To do the hat-trick: cricketers' at Eton: ca.

1860–90. (Lewis.) Thus, the bowler earned a gallon of beer. bowl (or try) for timber. To propel the ball at the batsmen's legs: cricketers' coll.: ca. 1890–1914. Ware, 1909, remarks, 'Discountenanced in later years—rather as a waste of time than with any view of repression of personal injury'. An interesting sidelight for the great cricket controversy begun late in 1932.

bowl off. To die: 1837, Dickens; † by 1900. EDD.

bowl out. To overcome, defeat, get the better of: from ca. 1810. Ex cricket.—2. In c., gen. in passive, to arrest, try, and convict: C.19–20. Vaux.—3. For the n., see bowl, 1.

bowl-over, n. A brawl; a fight: Aus.: C.20. (B., 1942.) Cf.:- bowl over, v. To defeat, worst; dumbfound (—1862). Ex skittles. Another var. (Dickens's) is bowl down, 1865.

bowl the hoop. Soup: rhyming s.:—1859; ob. (H., 1st ed.) Cf. synon. loop-the-loop.

bowla, but gen. in pl (bowlias) or in pl used as singular. A round tart made of sugar, apple, and bread: ca. 1820–1900; coll. (Mayhew, 1851.) ? ex the Anglo-Indian bowla, a port-manteau.

bowled. (Winchester College) 'ploughed' in an examination. C.19–20, †. Cf. cropped.

bowler (1882); bowler-hat (1861); occ. boler (—1890). A stiff felt hat; fairly low in the crown and gen. black: coll. In its etymology, it was long regarded as a bowl-shaped hat, but it almost certainly derives ex the name of a London hatter (W.: Words and Names). Dates: OED.—2. Hence, to be given a bowler (hat), to be sent home or 'sacked': army: 1915–18. (B. & P.) With the coming of peace in 1918, to be given (one's) bowler > to be demobilised (F. & G.); i.e. a civilian bowler in exchange for one's 'battle-bowler'. The RN var. of the orig. nuance was get a bowler hat, and by 1918, all three Services were using the elliptical (be) bowler-hatted. In almost all cases, the phrase refers to an officer, joining or re-joining civilian professional or managerial life. In the late 1950 there arose the phrase to get, or be given, a (or the) golden bowler, to accept an offer of premature retirement: ex the very favourable terms offered by the War Office at the time when it drastically reduced the number of its officers. Cf. a retiring company director's golden handshake (Peter Sanders). Cf.:-

bowler hat, v.t. "Gentleman Jim" Cassels will preside at a policy meeting... drink beer in a Sergeants' Mess, "bowler hat" a major-general... all with the same unflinching Edwardian courtesy and charm" (Tim Carew, Korea—the Commonwealth at War, 1967); Services: since ca. 1950. The active end of the WW1 be given a bowler hat. Cf. prec.

bowler(-)hat boys, the. They were always very well dressed and visited houses of old people living alone and by posing as officials from banks, rating authorities, police departments and so on, gained access. They worked in teams of three or four' (Bournemouth Evening Echo, 20 Apr. 1966): c. and police s.: since ca. 1963. Cf. prop game.

bowler hat brigade. 'Railway inspectors. The bowler hat is still an emblem of authority on British Railways today [1970]. Footplate inspectors, foremen, and inspectors of all grades wore bowler hats' (McKenna, Glossary): railwaymen's: C.20. bowler-hatted. See bowler, 2.

bowler's double. 100 wickets + 100 runs in a season: cricketers': since ca. 1930. Humorous, on S.E. cricketer's double, 100 wickets + 1,000 runs in a season.

bowles. Shoes: ca. 1850–1910. (H., 1st ed.) ? ex bowl-shaped.

bowling green. A fast line: railwaymen's: C.20. (Railway, 2nd.) The 'going' is smooth.

bowman, excellent, adept; mostly bowman prig, 'an eminent Thief...; a dexterous Cheat', A New Canting Dict., 1725: c. of ca. 1720–1840. ? beau (fine).—2. Whence bowman, n., a thief: c. (—1823); † by 1890. Egan's Grose. Perhaps cf. bowman.—3. In all's bowman, all's safe: c.; from ca. 1820; † by 1890. Cf. bob.

bowman ken. See bob ken.

bows. See wide in the bows.

bows down. Be quiet; esp. stop talking: RN: since ca. 1925. H. & P.

B

bows under, (be or with). Be extremely busy; have too much work to do: nautical coll.: late C.19–20. (Bowen; P-G-R.) Ex a ship labouring in a heavy sea.

bowse, bowser, bowsy, etc. See booze, etc.; but — bowse, v. To haul hard, is nautical coll.: C.19–20. An early occurrence is in L.L.G., 28 June 1823 (Moe). Perhaps cognate with dial. bowse, to rush, as the wind.—2. In in bowse, in trouble: nautical coll.: mid-C.19–20. (Bowen.) Perhaps cf. dial. bowse, the recoil of a gust of wind against a wall (EDD).

bowser king. An NCO in charge of a bowser (towed petrol tanker): RAF: since ca. 1930. Jackson.

bowsie man. 'a familiar figure in rural Ireland; he perhaps owns an acre or so of his own, does odd jobs for other people, is normally dressed in clothes that someone gave him, and is pretty wild to look at. Bowsie... derives from bouzy = boozy = prone to drink, and this may or may not be the case' (Honor Tracy, In a Year of Grace, 1975). Since early C.20—perhaps later C.19. Cf. boozy, n.

bowsprit. The nose: see boltsprit. Bowsprit in parenthesis, have one's, to have one's nose pulled: C.19, orig. nautical (officers').—2. Penis: low nautical: ca. 1820–80. Cosgrave, Irish Highwayman, 1889.

bowsy. A low guttersnipe: Anglo-Irish: C.20. Apparently a var. of boozy, n. See also bowsie man.

bowyang or boyang; by corruption, hoang. A labourer; workman: Aus.: C.20. (Kylie Tennant, The Battlers, 1941.) Ex bowyangs, bands worn about the trousers—above the knee.

bowyer. (Lit., a Bowman: C.15+.) An exaggerator; a liar: mid-C.18—early 19. (Grose, 1st ed.) Cf. draw the long bow.

bowze, etc. See booze, etc.

box, n. A small drinking-place: late C.17–18: coll. (B.E.) Cf. the mod. Fr. boite.—2. In C.19 c., a prison cell.—3. (the box). 'A fielding position between point and the slips': cricketers' s. (1913) >, by 1920, coll. >, by 1930, S.E.—but ob., for the gully is much more gen. Lewis.—4. (the box) A coffin; esp. put in the box: military coll.: late C.19–20. F. & G.—5. 'A safe of the old-fashioned kind': c.: late C.19–20. James Spenser, Limey Breaks In, 1934. 'It is easy to rip off the back.'—6. An abdominal [i.e., genitals] protector: sporting s., perhaps orig. Public Schools', or Universities': C.20—7. A man's room: Dalton Hall, Manchester: since ca. 1919. The Daltonian, Dec. 1946.—8. (the box) Short for black box, 2, q.v., a piece of radar equipment.—9. A 'mess' (make a box of): Aus.: since ca. 1920. (B., 1943.) ?euph. for ballocks.—10. Female genitals: low English and Aus.: C.20. Elliptical for 'a box of tricks'. Hence, also US. W. & F. record it for 1954.—11. A guitar (Powis): underworld: since (?early 1960s).—12. A room, in a prison, for a 'closed visit', Borstals and detention centres: 1970s. (Home Office.) A specialisation of sense 2. A 'strong box' = special cell, quiet room. Ibid.—13. A submarine's main battery: RN Submariners': mid-C.20. (John Malin, 1979).—14. As the box, as aircraft cockpit simulator: RAF coll.: later C.20. Phantom.—15. As the box, abbr. 'witness box', as in jump in the box, to give Queen's evidence: Aus. c.: later C.20. McNeil.—16. In be in a box, to be cornered; in a fix: coll.: C.19—early 20. Surviving in military j., where boxed in is still used of 'a tight corner'. W.N. Glascock, The Naval Sketch-Book, I, 1825, has bring to box, to force someone into a disadvantageous position (Moe).—17. In be in a box, in a state of confusion: NZ: C.20. B., 1941.—18. In on the box, on strike and receiving strike pay: workmen's, mainly in N. England: later C.19—early 20.—19. Hence, on the box, drawing Friendly Society benefits: go on the box, to have recourse to them: C.20. (Francis Brett Young, Dr Bradley Remembers, 1938.) I.e. the box containing the Society's funds.—20. In on the box, appearing on the television screen, as in 'Did you see the Chancellor on the box last night?': coll.: since late 1950s.—21. As the box!, exclam., 'Prepare for battle!': naval coll.:—1823 (Egan's Grose); † by 1870.—22. See out of the box; wrong box.

box, v. To take possession of, 'bag': Winchester School, from ca. 1850; ob.—2. Overturn in one's box, in ref. to a watchman or a sentry (—1851, ob.); esp. box a charley, cf. charley.—3. To give a Christmas box: coll.: from ca. 1845; ob.—4. In C.19 racing c., esp. as box carefully: (of a bookie) to see that one's betting liabilities do not exceed one's cash in hand.—5. V.t., 'to manipulate the figures of returns, esp. musketry returns, for purposes of deception': military: C.20. F. & G.—6. To mix two flocks or herds by mistake: Aus. pastoral coll.: from ca. 1870. ('Tom Collins', Such is Life, 1903.) It is also NZ usage (G.B. Lanchester, Sons o' Men, 1904).—7. Elliptical for box clever, [q.v.]: since ca. 1930. (L.A.) Cf. Tempest, Lag's Lexicon, 1950, on to box, 'Something cleverly done. Something which requires brains and/or cunning to accomplish. "He boxed that fiddle okay" = he organised that bit of business very well. A "fiddle", incidentally, need not need brains or cunning.'—8. To make a mistake; muddle things: Aus. and NZ: since mid-C.20. Ex sense 6. Wilkes.

box about; box it about. To drink briskly: C.17–18. (B.E.) Cf. the C.19–20 S.E.

box along with (someone); box with. To 'get along with even would-be awkward person on give-and-take terms' (L.A., 1977): the former since ca. 1960; the latter several decades earlier.

box clever. To use one's head, be a 'shrewdy': since ca. 1925. Gilt Kid.

box egg. A 'bad egg'; one who doesn't amount to much: since ca. 1930.

box-getter, -getting. A stealer, stealing, from tills: C.20 c. Charles E. Leach.

box Harry. To take lunch and afternoon-tea together: commercial travellers'; ca. 1850–1910. H., 1st ed. Ex.—2. To do without a meal: from ca. 1820. Bee.

box-hat. A tall silk hat: lower class s. (—1890) verging on coll.

box-irons. Shoes: ca. 1780–1830; c. George Parker, 1789.

box-it. 'Drinking schools mix wine and cider to make a cheap heady drink called box-it' (New Society, 2 Sep. 1982, p. 378).

box kippers. In such phrases as 'You couldn't box kippers, you couldn't, talking about right hooks' (Gilt Kid): to be no fighter, let alone boxer: low coll.: since ca. 1920. A var. of this is in Vernon Scannell, A Proper Gentleman, 1977, p. 151: 'I was no longer young, strong and fit... I was probably incapable of boxing chocolates.' Cf. such other denigrations of fighting prowess as (he couldn't) fight his way out of a paper bag and (he couldn't) knock the skin off a rice pudding, both C.20: low. See also now then, shoot...; you couldn't blow...

box-lobby loungers. A 'fast' London coll. of ca. 1820–60; thus in Bee, 1823, 'The ante-room at the Theatres is frequented by persons on the Town of both sexes, who meet there to make appointments, lounging about.'

box-lobby puppy. A 'cheap' would-be man of fashion, a step above an upper-box Jackadandy, who is usually an apprentice or a shop-assistant: described by the London Chronicle of 20–23 Nov. 1783: apparently ca. 1770–1800.

box of birds, a. Fighting-fit: NZ Services': WW2. J.H. Fullarton, Troop Target, 1943. Singing with health and happiness.—2. Hence, general as box of birds and in nuance 'fit and very happy': 1945+. (Ngaio Marsh, Swing Brother, Swing, 1949.) In Aus., feel like a box of birds, very happy. B., 1953.—3. [Lt Cdr] Doug Taylor had seen the first Harrier ['jump-jet' aircraft] fly off a ski-jump... "I was not especially excited," he says. "I had always been confident that it would be a box of birds"' (Telegraph Sunday mag., 6 May 1979).

box of dominoes. The mouth: early C.19–20. It occurs in the New Monthly Magazine at some date before Feb. 1822, as 'A blow in the mouth is a mugger; and if in addition to this, an injury should be done to the teeth, it is called a rattling of the box of dominoes'. (Moe).—2. A piano: from ca. 1880; ob. by 1930.

box of ivories. Synon. with prec., 1. See ivories, 1.

box of minutes. A watch; a watchmaker's shop: ca. 1860–80. H., 3rd ed.

box of sharks, the. A phrase 'indicative of vast surprise. 'She nearly gave birth to a box of sharks!" Cf. have a baby and having kittens' (Leechman): Can.: since ca. 1955.

box of toys. Noise: rhyming: Late C.19–20. Len Ortzen, 1938.

box of tricks. A tool box, or any similar receptacle: Aus. and Brit.: since (?)ca. 1910. (B.P.; Petch.) Cf. bag of tricks and the whole bag of tricks; box may be substituted for bag in the latter also.—2. Euston Station: taxi-drivers': 13 Sep. 1941, Weekly Telegraph. Ex its shape.

box off. To fight with one's fists: Naval: ca. 1805–50. Glascock, Sketch-Book, I, 1825. (Moe.)

box office. (Of an actor) a success: theatrical and cinematic coll.: since ca. 1925. 'Now, at last, she's box office.'

box on. To keep fighting; hence, to continue doing anything important or strenuous: Aus.: C.20.

box on with. To punch; to fight with: Aus.: since ca. 1920. (D'Arcy Niland, Call Me..., 1958.) Cf. prec.

box open. A WW2 shortening of:- box open – box shut! A soldier's c.p. indicating that though he was offering cigarettes, 'the donor's generosity was limited by hard circumstance' (B. & P.): WW1.

box the compass. To answer all questions; to adapt oneself to circumstances: orig. and mainly nautical; coll.; mid-C. 18–20. Smollett, 1751. 'A light, good-humoured, sensible wench, who knows very well how to box her compass'. Ex the nautical feat of naming, in order, backwards, or irregularly, the thirty-two points of the compass.

box the dice. To carry a point by trickery: legal: since ca. 1850.

box the Jesuit and get cockroaches. To masturbate: mid-C.18–19. Grose, 1st ed., 'a sea term'. An unsavoury pun on cock and a too true comment on nautical and cloistered life.

box the wine bin. To leave the table after drinking but little: fast life: ca. 1815–40. Spy, II, 1826.

box-up. A mix-up; confusion; muddle: mostly military: C.20. coll. (Sidney Rogerson, 1933.) Perhaps on mix-up, more prob. on ballocks-up; but see box, v., 6, 8.

box-up. V. from prec.: Aus.: C.20. Baker.

box-wallah. A native pedlar, gen. itinerant: Anglo-Indian coll.; from ca. 1820.—2. Hence, pej., a European commercial man: Anglo-Indian:—1934 (COD, 1934 Sup.).

boxa. Var. spelling of boxer, 3. B., 1942.

boxed. (Of a book) impounded by Library Committee: Charterhouse: late C.19–20. A.H. Tod.

boxed in, be. To have entered a house, esp. if single-handed: c.: from ca. 1860. B. & L.

boxed-up, adj. In prison; gaoled: NZ: C.20.—2. Thoroughly confused: Aus.: since ca. 1930. (B.P.) Cf. box-up, n. and v.

boxer. A stiff, low-crowned felt hat: Aus.:—1897 (Argus (Melbourne), 9 Jan.: Morris). Cf. hard-hitter.—2. A tall hat: coll.: ca. 1880–1910. EDD.—3. In two-up, the boxer looks after the apparatus and the guts or money staked by the two principal betters; ringie takes care of operations inside the ring of side-betters: since ca. 1910. George Baker, article "Two-up" Down Under' in Strand Magazine, Dec. 1949. He adds that the pennies used are bun pennies (early Victorian), veiled queens (late Victorian), baldaies (Edward VII); notes that the laying of a stake on one result opens the guts. If both pennies come down heads or tails, the assembly cries 'He's headed them' or 'He's tailed them'. The spinner must now spin successfully thrice before he can drag or take any winnings from the guts; uses grouter bit or a run of successes; defines caser as 'sum of five shillings', flag as 'pound', spin as 'five pounds' and brick as 'ten pounds'.—Cf. the entries bun penny; caser; grouter; guts, 6; ringie; spin. The best description ever written of a two-up session is that made by Lawson Glassop in Lucky Palmer, 1949, at pp. 167–76.

boxing-out. A bout of boxing: US >, before 1909, Aus. coll.; † by 1920. Ware. boxing twelves, the. 'Naval lowerdeck mark of approval, after the first ships to break the French line at Trafalgar': C.19. Peppitt, citing 'Jack Nastyface', Nautical Economy, 1836.

boy. A hump on a man's back: lower class; from ca. 1800; †. Whence him and his boy, a hunch-back. H., 5th ed.—2. In India, hence in many other former British Dominions and Colonies, a native servant, regardless of his age: C.17–20: coll. Y. & B. distinguish between boy, derived from English, and 'Telugu bōyi, Tamil bōvi, etc., [words for] palankeen bearer'. In Hong Kong in the 1970s, the head servant in a military mess was known as 'The Number One Boy' and was addressed as 'Number One' (P.B.).—3. (Often the boy.) Champagne: from ca. 1880; ob. Punch, 1882, 'Beastly dinner, but very good boy. Had two magnums of it.' Binstead, in the 1890s, asserted that 'the boy' was incorrect; nevertheless, it does occur.—4. Heroin: drugs world: 1970s, adopted ex US. (Home Office.) Cf. girl.—5. (Gen. in pl.) A prisoner: c.: C.20. Cf. boys, q.v.—6. As the boy, the penis: late C.19–20. Also the boyo.—7. In my or old boy, a term of address: coll., though sometimes it is, clearly, familiar S.E.: C.17–20. Shakespeare, Richardson.—8. As the old boy, one's father: late C.19–20. One's business chief, 'governor': C.20. The devil: C.19–20, joc. All now coll., though s. at their inception.—9. See h'oy; cut boy; on boy; yellow boy.

boy-blue. A soldier in hospital uniform (bright blue jacket and trousers, white shirt, red tie): nursing staff: WW1. (Olive Dent, A V.A.D. in France, 1917.) In Punch, 1917, it occurs as blue-boy. (P.B.) boy friend, the; the girl friend. Orig. and still used to imply an illicit sex relationship (whether hetero or not); mostly Londoners': from ca. 1920. Ex US. (Cf. S.E. gentleman friend and lady friend).—2. Hence, without any pej. implication: orig. and mainly Londoners': from ca. 1925.

boy in a (or the) boat. Clitoris: low: late C.19–20. Cf. little man in a boat.

boy Jones, the. A secret, or unnamed, informant: a virtual c.p., mostly London: mid-C.19. Ex an inquisitive boy that wormed his way several times into Buckingham Palace. See esp. Horace Wyndham, Victorian Sensations, 1933.

boy (or boy's) racer. The model 7R A.J.S. racing motorcycle, designed to be bought "over the counter" by the general public, rather than a "works" bike: motorcycling enthusiasts': since 1948. (Howard Carter, 1979.)

Boy Scout's leave. A brief shore-leave: R Aus. N: WW2. B., 1943.

boy with the boots, the; the nailer; Old Nick. The joker in a pack of cards: Anglo-Irish: late C.19–20. Ex his effectiveness.

boyno! A friendly valediction or, occ., greeting: nautical (—1909); slightly ob. (Ware.) Ex or via Lingua Franca for 'good'. P.B.: cf. late C.20 informal 'bye now!'

boyo. (Gen. vocative.) Boy: late C.19–20. This -o is an endearment-suffix. Ex Anglo-Irish boyo, 'lad, chap, boy' (EDD).—2. See boy, 6.

boys. (Always the boys.) The fraternity of bookmakers and their associates: racing: from ca. 1825. An early occurrence is in The Night Watch, 1828, at II, 113. (Moe.)—2. The lively young fellows of any locality: since ca. 1860: coll. Cf. lads of the village.—3. The boys, as all stage hands are called, regardless of age' (Dulcie Gray, No Quarter for a Star; 1964): theatrical coll.: C.20.—4. As angry or roaring boys, a set of young bloods, noisy-mannered, delighting to commit outrages and enter into quarrels, in late Elizabethan and in Jacobean days. Greene, Tu Quoque, 'This is no angry, nor no roaring boy, but a blustering boy'. Coll.; since ca. 1660, S.E. and merely historical. Cf. Mohawks.—5. See white-bearded boys.

boy's favourite. A Bingo term, since ca. 1955, for no. 16 (Petch, 1974.)

Boys of the Holy Ground. Bands of roughs frequenting the less reputable parts of St Giles, London, ca. 1800–25. Moore, Tom Crib's Memorial, 1819.

boys on ice. Lice: rhyming s.: late C.19–20. Franklyn, Rhyming.

boy's racer. See boy racer.

boysie. A term of address to a boy or, rarely by father, to son of any age whatsoever: coll., mostly Aus.: C.20. Isabel Cameron, Boysie, 1929; Christina Stead, Seven Poor Men of Sydney, 1934. Cf. boyo, 1, and dial. boykin.

B

bozo. A fellow: Can. (ex US) since ca. 1918; Aus. since ca. 1935. (Jean Devaney, By Tropic Sea and Jungle, 1944.) Leechman, for Can., cites the Daily Colonist (Victoria, BC), 18 July 1926; R.S. adds 'Spanish bozo, man, fellow, orig. "facial down indicative of puberty"; presumably from Mexican Spanish.'

bozzimacoo! Kiss my arse!: low Yorkshire: ca. 1850–1910. (Oliver Onions, Good Boy Seldom.) A corruption of baise mon cul.

bra. A brassiere: feminine: common since ca. 1934 and, ca. 1940, superseding bras. Since ca. 1950, coll.

bra is a girl's best friend, a; occ. prec. by square shape or pear shape: Aus. feminine c.p.: since early 1950s.

Brab. A Brabazon aircraft: aircraft industry: Named after Lord Brabagon of Tara, it was the largest aircraft to have been built up till that time, the late 1940s. It had a brief life as a 'flying test-bed', ca. 1950: since then, the name is merely historical.

brace. Two 'noughts' in a match: 1912. But bag a brace, to be twice dismissed for 0, occurs as early as 1867; the ob. brace of ducks in 1891. All are s. >, by 1920 at latest, coll.—2. A snub. See PUBLIC ... SCHOOL SLANG, in Appendix.—3. See face and brace.

brace and bits. Nipples; loosely, breasts: low rhyming s., little used in Britain: C.20. Mostly American. (Franklyn, Rhyming.) Also Aus.: in Rats.

brace (or couple) of shakes, in a. In a moment or two; almost immediately: 'I'll be with you in a brace of shakes—just let me finish this line': from early C.19. (Boxiana, III, 1821.) Egan's Grose, 1823, has '[in a] brace of snaps. Instantly', and classifies it as nautical.

brace tavern, the. Late C.18–early 19 only; low: 'a room in the S.E. corner of the King's Bench, where, for the convenience of prisoners residing thereabouts, beer purchased at the tap-house was retailed at a halfpenny per pot advance. It was kept by two brothers of the name of Partridge, and thence called the Brace' (Grose, 2nd ed.).

brace up. To pawn stolen goods, esp. at a good price: C.19–20 c.; ob. (Vaux.) Ware suggests that it may derive from Fr. c. braser as in braser des fesses, to fabricate false papers.—2. To snub, v. ex brace, 2. See PUBLIC ... SCHOOL SLANG.—3. In imperative, warns the person addressed that what is to follow will prob. come as a shock: the c.p. form of the coll. brace yourself! See DCpp.

braced. Hearty; in excellent spirits: Marlborough College coll.: since ca. 1920. Ex S.E. 'braced up'.

bracelet. A handcuff: from ca. 1660. Always low; in C.17–18, prob.c.; ob. Tempest, 1950, classifies it 'rare'.

bracer. A tonic: C.18–19. 'What you need is a bracer.' The medical sense, which was S.E., has long been †; as another word for a strong drink (cf. tonic, q.v.), a coll., from ca. 1860: ex US (1825: OED Sup.).

braces. See talk through (one's)...

brack. A mackerel: nautical: late C.19–20. (Bowen.) Ex Isle of Man dial.

bracket. A vague, unspecified part of the body, prob. the nose: it occurs in threat, e.g., 'If he doesn't do it, he'll get a punch up the bracket'; 'You're asking for a punch up the bracket', etc.: popularised by the BBC radio-comedy programme 'Hancock's Half-hour' of the 1950s. (P.B.)

bracket-face(d). Ugly: late C.17–early 19. (B.E.; Grose.) Whence:- bracket-mug. An ugly face: C.19.

brad. See bradbury.

brad-faking. A mid-C.19 corruption of broad-faking, q.v. H., 1st–3rd edd.

bradbury, occ. abbr. to brad. A Treasury note; esp. a £1 note: 1915; ob. (These notes, by the way, were hardly artistic.) Ex Sir John Bradbury, the Secretary of the Treasury, which circulated the 10s. and £1 notes from late 1914 until November 1928, when the nation's note issue was consolidated in the Bank of England; the Treasury's notes ceased to be legal tender on 31 July 1933. See the third leader and the City Editor's note, Daily Telegraph, 1 Aug. 1933. Cf. Fisher, q.v.

brads. Money; copper coins. From ca. 1810 (Vaux recording it in 1812); low until ca. 1860, by which date the 'copper' sense was †. Prob. ex the shoemakers' rivets so named. P.B.: or poss. back s. on a shortening of darby, ready money. Hence, tip the brads, to be generous with money; hence, to be a gentleman: low: early C.19.—2. Cigarettes: army: early C.20. (F. & G.) For semantics, cf. synon. coffin-nail.

bradshaw, n. The complete timetable to the trains of Great Britain: from ca. 1845; soon coll.; in C.20 S.E. Abbr. Bradshaw's Railway Guide.—2. Hence, a person very good at figures: middle-class coll. (—1909); almost †. (Ware.) Ex that Manchester printer who in 1839 published the first railway timetable, in 1841 issued the first monthly railway-guide. (W.) 'O mighty Bradshaw, speaker of the thunderous line': from an unpublished and unpubl. ode.

bradshaw, v., hence bradshawing, vbl n. 'Cross-country flying, using railway lines for navigation.' (Peppitt): RAF and FAA coll.: since before WW2, if not earlier. Anthony Phelps, I Couldn't Care Less, 1946. Ex n., 1.

brag. A braggart; 'A vapouring, swaggering, bullying Fellow' (B.E.): late C.17–20. After ca. 1800, S.E.—2. In c., a money-lender: C.19–20. Ex his exorbitant demands.

brag rags. Medal ribbons: RN: since ca. 1920. Granville.

braggadocia, -io. Three months' imprisonment to reputed thieves, who prob. boast that they can do it 'on their heads': c.; ca. 1850–70. Dickens in Reprinted Pieces, 1857.

Brags. 28th Regiment of Foot. See Old Brags.

Brahma. 'Something good. Also a flashily dressed girl': Regular Army: late C.19–20; by 1970, slightly ob. (F. & G.) Ex Brahma, the Hindu deity: the idols being often bejewelled. Hence brama, q.v.—2. See Bramah knows.

Brahms. A frequent shortening of:-

Brahms 'n' Liszt. Tipsy: rhyming s. on synon. s. pissed: since ca. 1920.

brain. In (have) on the brain, be obsessed by, crazy about: mid-C.19–20: coll. in C.19, then S.E.—2. See bear a brain; big brain; go off (one's) brain; brains, 2.

brain basil (or Basil). A clever boy: Oxford schoolboys': C.20. James Morris, Oxford, 1965.

brain bosun or bos'n. A RN Instructor Officer: RN: since ca. 1925 (Cdr C. Parsons, RN, ret., 1973.) Cf. custard bosun and sint bosun.

brain-box. The head: ?orig. pugilistic: 1823, 'Idyl' in the July issue of Blackwood's. Perhaps since late C.18.

brain-canister. The head: pugilistic: ca. 1850–85. H., 3rd ed.

brain child. A new idea one's proud of; one's own invention: since ca. 1945: s. >, by 1960, coll.

brain(-) drain, the. Emigration by those with able minds, from UK to places, esp. USA, where the rewards are thought to be greater, and the opportunities more untrammelled: coll.: since early 1960s; OED earliest citation is 1963. Similarly, ref. to people moving from university to industry, etc. (P.B.)—2. Forensic chemists: police s. See whizz kids.

brain-fever (or bird). 'The "brainfever" bird repeats his name over and over again until he nearly gives you the malady itself'. Thus the Marchioness of Dufferin in Viceregal Life in India, 1890, described the Indian hawk-cuckoo, Cuculus varius, with a term current since (?) ca. 1885. (OED.) In Aus., as brain-fever, it was transferred to Cuculus pallidus, the pallid cuckoo: since ca. 1910. B., 1943. (P.B.)

brain-pan. (As skull, S.E.) The head: C.17–20, ob.; after ca. 1730, coll. Skelton, Dekker, Scott.

brain-smasher. Occ. var. of brain-teaser, q.v. Punch, 17 Oct. 1917, 'This sugar[=claim] from... is a regular brain-smasher.' (P.B.)

brain-storm. The same as brain-wave but with the connotation of a more sustained mental effort: from ca. 1925; now verging on coll. Ex the S.E. sense, 'a succession of sudden and severe paroxysms of cerebral disturbance' (Dorland, 1901: OED Sup.).

brain-teaser. A puzzler, a conundrum: coll.: C.20. (P.B.) brain-wave. A sudden, esp. if a brilliant, idea: from ca. 1914; since ca. 1933, coll. Ex telepathy.

brains. The paste with which a sub-editor sticks his scissors-cuttings together: printers':—1887 (Baumann); ob. by 1930.—2. As the brains, 'the boss': Can.: ca. 1905–40. (Leechman.) Since ca. 1935, the brain.—3. As the brains, Traffic Control: railwaymen's from ca. 1930. (Railway.) Cf. big brain.—4. As the Brains, 'ironic term for the C.I.D.' (Powis): police and underworld; later C.20.—5. In beat or break or cudgel or drag or puzzle or busy one's brains, to think hard, in order to understand or to contrive: C.16–20, except break († by 1800); all coll.; but all, since ca. 1860, S.E.—6. See guts; pick (one's) brains.

brains on ice, have (one's). To be very cool-headed and collected' (Lyell): coll.:—1931; ob. by 1950.

Brains Trust, the. The Central Trades Test Board: RAF: since ca. 1938. (E. P., New Statesman, 19 Sep. 1942.) Unlike the BBC's Brains Trust they ask, not answer, questions.—2. Such specialists as rangefinders and surveyors: Royal Artillery: 1939+.—3. Mid-C.20 railwaymen's var. of next McKenna, Glossary.

brainstrains. 'Oxford to Cambridge via Bletchley line' (Railway, 2nd): railwaymen's: since late 1940s.

brainy. Clever: coll.; late C.19–20; now verging on S.E. Ex US (—1873) and, even now, more typically US than English [note of ca. 1935].

brake. A tutor: Public Schoolboys':—1933. Perhaps suggested by coach.—2. In set (one's) face in a brake, to assume a 'poker' face: coll.; C.17. Ex brake, 'a framework intended to hold anything steady' (OED). Variants with looks, vizard, etc. Chapman in that fine, ranting tragedy, Bussy D'Amboise, 1607, 'O (like a Strumpet) learn to set thy looks/In an eternal Brake.'

brake-block. 'West of England [footplate]-men relied [for sustenance] upon a pasty known by its shape and texture as a brake-block—history is silent on its taste' (McKenna, 2, p. 194): railwaymen's: earlier C.20.

brakey. A brakesman: Can. railwaymen's: adopted, ca. 1890, ex US. Niven.

brama. A pretty girl: c.: from ca. 1922. (Gilt Kid.) Ex Brahma.—2. In a bit of a brama, a 'good chap', though a trifle wild and unintelligent: army: 1940s.

Bramah knows: I don't. A euph. (!) for God knows! I don't!: ca. 1880–1910. More correctly Brahma.

bramble. A lawyer: mainly Kentish, hence and partly Cockney, s.: ca. 1850–1914. Wilkes, 'earlier than 1850: there is a lawyer called Bramble in Jonson's Eastward Ho (1600).'

bramble-gelder. An agriculturist: chiefly Suffolk, but occ. heard elsewhere: mid-C.19–20; ob. H., 3rd ed.

bran. A loaf: coll., ca. 1830–1910. (Dickens in Oliver Twist.) Ex bran-loaf.

bran-faced. Freckled: mid-C.18–early 19: coll. (Grose, 2nd ed.) Cf. christened by a baker.

bran mash, bran-mash. Bread soaked in tea or coffee: military, from ca. 1870; ob. by 1930.

branch. A branch pilot Diploma: nautical: since ca. 1820. Captain Glascock, Land Sharks and Sea Gulls, 1838.

branch cag(g). See cag.

branch out. To become very fat: Aus.: since ca. 1925. Ruth Park, A Power of Roses, 1953.

branches everywhere. Jam containing string (or twigs) and, on the tin, the manufacturers' confession, branches everywhere: joc., mostly domestic: since ca. 1930.

branded ticket. A discharge-ticket recording a crime, esp. a serious one: nautical coll.: ca. 1830–1925. Cf. blanker.

brandy; brandy coatee. A cloak; raincoat: Anglo-Indian: C.19–20; ob. (B. & L.) A hybrid.

brandy, all. See all brandy.

brandy and Fashoda. Brandy and soda: Society: Oct. 1898–early 99. Ware. Ex 'the discovery of the Fr. captain, Marchand, at Fashoda'. This refers to the 'Fashoda Incident', when a Fr. expedition came up from the Congo to challenge British supremacy in the Sudan; tension ran high between the two countries for a few months before the Fr. backed down.

brandy blossom. A red-pimpled nose: coll. (—1887). Baumann. Ex b.b., a pimple that, on the nose, is caused by drink, esp. by brandy. Cf. grog-blossom.

brandy-face. A drunkard: late C.17–early 19. Cotton, ca. 1687, 'You goodman brandy-face'. Whence:— brandy-faced. Red-faced, esp. from liquor: from ca. 1700. Grose; Sala, 'brandy-faced viragos'.

brandy is Latin for (a) goose, later fish. The former (ob.), from late C.16; the latter (†), from ca. 1850. Coll. Mar-Prelate's Epitome, 1588; Swift; Marryat. (Apperson.) Brewer has thus neatly stated the semantic equation: 'What is the Latin for goose? (Answer) Brandy. The pun is on the word answer. Anser is the Latin for goose, which brandy follows as surely and quickly as an answer follows a question.' Concerning fish, Mayhew tells us that the richer kinds of fish produce a queasy stomach, restored only by a drink of brandy. Cf.:— brandy is Latin for pig and goose. A c.p. excuse for drinking a dram of brandy after eating pig or goose: ca. 1780–1880. Grose, 2nd ed.

brandy pawnee (occ. pahnee). Brandy and water. India and the Army: coll. From ca. 1810. Thackeray, 1848, 'The refreshment of brandy-pawnee which he was forced to take'. See pawnee.

brandy-shunter. A too frequent imbiber of brandy: non-aristocratic: from ca. 1880; ob. (Ware.) On booze-shunter, q.v.

brandy-snap. A scab (on nose or cheek or chin), from a blow or punch: Aus.: since ca. 1925. B., 1943.

brandy ticket, be sent with a. To be sent to hospital with one's bad character set forth on the ticket that accompanies one thither: naval: ca. 1800–60. (Captain Glascock, 1838.) I.e. branded ticket.

bras. A brassiere: feminine: since ca. 1910; by 1950, †. (W.B.M. Ferguson, Somewhere off Borneo, 1936.) Always, of course, pron. brah. Replaced by bra, q.v.

brass, n. Money. In late C.16–17, S.E.; in C.18, coll.; thereafter, s. Mrs Gaskell; Miss Braddon, 'Steeve's little too fond of the brass to murder you for nothing.' H., 5th ed., "'Tin" is also used, and so far most forms of metal.' Cf.

brass up.—2. Impudence; effrontery. Adumbrated by Shakespeare, but popularised by Defoe in The True Born Englishman, 'a needful competence of English brass'. Also in Farquhar, North, Goldsmith, T. Moore, Dickens. Coll.; in C.19–20, S.E. Prob. suggested by slightly earlier brazen-face.—3. A confidence-trick betting-system: c. C.20. Charles E. Leach, in On Top of the Underworld, 1933.—4. Abbr. of brass-nail, a prostitute: since ca. 1920. Cheapjack.—5. 'Brass: the officers, also Gold Braid', Granville: RN lowerdeck: C.20. Cf. brass-hat and top brass. The latter is sometimes, since ca. 1955, referred to as 'the brass'. Hence also carry brass, to hold an important rank: army: WW2. P-G-R.

brass, v. Corresponding to prec., 3: Aus.: since ca. 1910. B., 1943.—2. Hence, to defraud: since ca. 1920. Lawson Glassop, 1949.—3. To pay: Liverpool proletarian, esp. street arabs: since ca. 1880. (Arab.) Cf. brass up.

brass, adj. Fashionable; smart: raffish London: since ca. 1950. 'Some of them were speaking in French because it was the brass thing to do' (James Barlow, The Burden of Proof, 1968). Ex 'the brass', the 'heads'.

brass along. To go gaily and/or impudently ahead: from ca. 1918. (R. Blaker, Night-Shift, 1934.) Ex brass, 2.

brass balls. 'Something severe or testing, "a brass balls job", or someone tough and unyieldingly masculine' (Powis): police and underworld: later C.20.

B

brass band. Occ. rhyming s. for 'hand': C.20. Cf. synon. German band(s).

Brass Before and Brass Behind. The Gloucestershire Regiment: army: C.19—early 20. (F. & G.) Either by a pun on Back Numbers, q.v., or, as Carew suggests, quoting a legend about Philip Bragg, Colonel, 1734–50 (hence the nickname The Old Braggs): 'An irascible and unconventional officer, a story is told that on a ceremonial parade Colonel Bragg, annoyed by the colonels of other regiments who were flaunting their royal and special titles, gave the peculiar order: "Neither King's nor Queen's, nor Royal Marines, but 28th, Old Braggs; Brass Before and Brass Behind, who never feared a foe of any kind—SHOULDER ARMS!" The gallant Colonel got all this out in one breath, which was no mean feat.' So perhaps here not so much a reference to badges as to impudence; cf. brass, n., 2.

brass-bound and copper-fastened. (Of a lad) dressed in a midshipman's uniform: nautical; mid-C.19—early C.20.

brass-bounder. A midshipman; a premium apprentice: nautical: late C.19–20. (Bowen.) Ex prec.

brass candlestick, (his) face has been rubbed with a. A c.p. applied to an impudent person: from ca. 1870. In elab. of brass, 2.

brass-face. An impudent person: coll.: ca. 1820–60. (Bee.) Ex brass, 2.

brass farthing (sometimes b. fart). A farthing or less, or a dud coin (Mr Robert Barltrop comments that in C.19, farthings were made of undiluted copper): coll.: mid-C.17–20; S.E. after ca. 1850. Cf. brass fart.

brass fart. Abbr. of brass farthing.—2. In 'I don't give a brass fart', 'I couldn't care less': coll.: C.19–20; ob.

brass-hat. A high-ranked officer: military and, in C.20, RN: 1893, Kipling. Ex 'gilt ornamentation of his cap' (OED Sup.). See esp. B. & P. Olive Dent, A V.A.D. in France, 1917, has: 'In the car was a tremendous Brass-hat, "very metal polish", as the boys would say...'

Brass Heads, the. The 3rd Bombay European Regt. (later the Leinster Regt., disbanded 1922): army: from 1858, when they excellently endured the sun in Sir Hugh Rose's campaign in Central India. F. & G.

brass it out. To brazen it out: since ca. 1950, if not rather earlier: Petch cites its use in the popular police series 'Z Cars' on TV, 10 Feb. 1969. Coll., not s. Cf. brass, n., 2.

brass-knocker. Broken victuals: scraps of food: vagrants' c. (—1874); ob. H., 5th ed. ?ex the hardness, or possibly, via India, ex Hindustani basi khana, stale food; it affords an interesting comment on Y. & B.'s brass-knocker.

brass man. A confidence trickster: Aus. c.: since ca. 1930. B., 1953.

brass monkey. See cold enough..., and-brass monkey weather. Bitterly cold weather: Aus. (?orig.) and Brit: since ca. 1920. Ex cold enough to freeze the balls off a brass monkey, q.v.

brass-nail. A prostitute: c.: C.20. Rhyming s. on tail. (Also among grafters: Philip Allingham.)

brass-neck. Impudent: military: C.20. F. & G., 'A brass-neck lie'. Also as n., impudence: see neck, n., 1.

brass off, v.i. To grumble: military: C.20. F. & G.—2. V.t. To reprimand severely: Services: WW2. H. & P.

brass-plate merchant. An inferior middleman in coal: ca. 1840–1920; mainly London. Mayhew.

brass-plater. 'A man of the merchant class': from ca. 1920. (OED Sup.) Ex prec.—2. As brass- or door-plater, a doctor: C.20. (Manchon.) Ex the brass name-plate at his door.

brass-pounder. A telegraph-agent: Can. railwaymen's: since ca. 1925. (Leechman.)

brass-rags. In part brass-rags, q.v., to quarrel.

brass razoo, not to have a. See razoo.

brass tacks, get down to. To come to, to face, realities; to consider the practical aspect: coll.: US (1903), anglicised by 1910: OED Sup. (In US, there is the var. ... brass nails.) I suspect, however, that brass tacks may have arisen before C.20 and be rhyming s. for facts.

130

brass up. To pay (up), gen v.i.: C.20. An early instance is in Pugh (2), 1906. The term is more gen. in the North and the Midlands than in the South.

brassed has, since 1944, often been used in abbr. of the next, as cheesed can be used for cheesed off. But one cannot use browned for browned off.

brassed off. Disgruntled, fed up: Services, orig. (?): RN since ca. 1927; gen. since ca. 1939. (Observer, 14 Oct. 1942; H. & P.) Sometimes a synonym of browned off; sometimes regarded as a shade milder. Cf. brass off: perhaps from brass-polishing in ships. For brassed off, browned off and cheesed off, see esp. Partridge, 1945, or Forces' Slang, ed. Partridge, 1948.

brasser. A bully: Christ's Hospital (School): C.19–20; ob. Ex brass, n., 2.

brasses cleaned by candlelight should be inspected by moonlight. Army c.p.: earlier C.20. (P.B.)

brassic. See boracic above.

brassy, n. A friend or close companion: RN: since ca. 1920. (H. & P.) Cf. part brass rags, q.v.

brassy, adj. Impudent; shameless: coll. (—1576); S.E. after 1800; in C.20, ob. Wolcot, i.e. Peter Pindar, 'Betty was too brassy.' Cf. the S.E. usages.

brasted. Blasted: sol.: mid-C.19–20. Pugh (2): 'I'll do as I brasted well like.'

brat. Brother; 'one behaving in a manner not befitting his years': Bootham School: late C.19–20. Bootham, 1925.—2. A boy soldier, whether apprentice, junior leader, or any other form of 'pre-man's service': C.20, possibly earlier. Hence, ex-brat, a soldier on regular man's service who has previously served thus. Army coll. (P.B.)

bratchet. A little brat: endearing or pej. coll.: from ca. 1600; ob. by 1900.

brats. Collective for a deep-sea trawler's crew below skipper and mate: deep-sea trawlers': C.20. L. Luard, All Hands, 1933, and Conquering Seas, 1935.

brattery. A nursery: pej. coll.: from ca. 1780. Beckford, 1834. 'The apartment above my head proves a squalling brattery.' OED.

Braunhaus. 'British Rail Headquarters' (Railway, 2nd): railwaymen's: since ca. 1955 (?). A pun on 'Brown' and 'brown', perhaps; or, as R.S. has suggested, joc. ex das braunes Haus, the Nazi Party's national HQ. British Rail was established in 1948.

brave. A bully; assassin: late C.16–17, coll.; thereafter S.E.; ob. by 1850, † by 1890.

brave and bold. Cold: rhyming s.: late C.19—early 20: a var. of taters in the mould and soldiers bold. David Hillman writes, 1974, 'According to my grandfather, "Brave, ain't it!" was, in the 1890s, in as common use as "Taters, ain't it!" among Cockneys.'

Brave Fifteenth, the. The 15th (King's) Hussars: C.19—early 20; rendered historical only, since the regiment's amalgamation with the 19th (Queen Alexandra's Own) Hussars, in 1922. 'From an old regimental song—"The Brave Fifteenth".' F. & G; Carew.

bravo. 'A mercenary Murderer, that will kill any body' (B.E.); Steele, 'dogged by bravoes'. Late C.16–18, coll.; thereafter S.E.; by 1930 slightly ob.

brawn. Strength as opp. to brains: coll., C.19–20.—2. See hawk (one's) brawn.

brawny-buttock. Early C.18 term of abuse. See EPITHETS, in Appendix.

brayvo, Hicks! Splendid! music-halls' and minor theatres': from ca. 1830; ob. by 1910; † by 1930. Ware, 'In approbation of muscular demonstration... From Hicks, a celebrated... actor...; more esp. "upon the Surrey side"... [In late C.19—early 20] applied in S. London widely; e.g. "Brayvo Hicks—into 'er again.'" Cf:-

brayvo, Rouse. Splendid! well done! East London c.p. (—1909); † by 1914. Ware. Ex 'the name of an enterprising proprietor of "The Eagle"...; a theatre... in the City Road'.

A very successful, though unauthorised, presenter of Fr. light opera, esp. 'all the best of Auber's work' (Ware). P.B.: it occurs much earlier, passim in the works of Albert Smith, e.g. Natural History of the Gent, 1847.

brazen-face. A brazen-faced person: late C.16–20, ob.; coll. till ca. 1800, then S.E.

[brazen-faced, impudent. Given by B.E. as either s. or coll., and by F. & H. as coll. It is, however, doubtful if this C.16–20 word has ever been other than S.E.]

Brazen Nose College, you were bred in. You are impudent: c.p.: C.18. (Fuller.) A pun on brazen-face and Brasenose College, Oxford.

brazil. See hard as brazil.

breach. A breach of promise: 1840, Dickens: coll. now verging on S.E. OED Sup.

bread. 'In sailor parlance biscuit is "bread" ...; bread of the ordinary description is "Soft tack"' (Goodenough, 1901): RN: (?)/mid-C.19–early 20.—2. Money: mostly Teddy boys', drug-addicts', teenagers': as such, adopted ca. 1955, ex US; but, basically, the shortening of bread and honey, and therefore, orig., English, not US (Ian M. Ball in the Sunday Telegraph, 21 Jan. 1962.) Also used by hippies and Flower People: (Peter Fryer in the Observer colour sup. of 3 Dec. 1967); and now, in the 1970s, more and more widely used and generally understood, popularised by novels like, e.g., Adrian Reid's Confessions of a Hitch-Hiker, 1970. Cf. also the earlier idea of money = bread in out of bread, out of work: coll.: mid-C.18–early 19 (Grose, 3rd ed.); and bread and butter, q.v.—3. In in bad bread, in a disagreeable situation: coll.: mid-C.18–early 19. Grose, 3rd ed.—4. In as I live by bread!, as true (or sure) as I stand here!: coll.: late C.19–early 20. Manchon.—5. See greatest thing since sliced bread.

bread and boo. Bread-and-scrape: nursery coll.:—1923 (Manchon).

bread and bread. Applied to a homosexual couple: coll.: later C.20.—2. Applied more gen. to any dull combination of two similar things, or as 'six of one and half a dozen of the other' of two dull, similar things: coll.: since late 1970s. I.e., no jam. (P.B.)

bread and butter. A livelihood: coll., from ca. 1840. Ex US (1820: Thornton).—2. A gutter: rhyming s.: late C.19–20. Evening Standard, 19 Aug. 1931.—3. An app. cryptic term that resolves itself into an abbr. of bread and butter letter, q.v. Such shortenings are beloved of Society.—4. In no bread and butter of mine, no business of mine; no potential profit for me: coll.: ca. 1760–1930.

bread-and-butter, adj. Boyish, girlish, esp. schoolgirlish, as in a bread-and-butter miss: coll.; from ca. 1860.

bread and butter letter. A letter thanking one's recent hostess: Society: anglicised, as a coll., c. 1905 ex US. Occ. abbr. to bread and butter: from ca. 1925.

bread and butter squadron (or with capitals). The Mediterranean Squadron: RN: late C.19–20. (Bowen.) Because it is 'cushy'.

Bread and Butter Warehouse. The Ranelagh Gardens of C.18–early 19. In ref. to their debauchery—cf. Joseph Warton's Ranelagh House, 1747—bread-and-butter fashion being a mid-C.18–early 20 c.p. descriptive of human coition. Grose, 3rd ed.

bread and butter wicket. A wicket extremely easy for batsmen: cricketers' coll.: 1887. Lewis.

bread and cheese, n. and v. A, or to, sneeze: rhyming: late C.19–20. Len Ortzen, Down Donkey Lane, 1938.

bread and cheese. Adj., ordinary; inferior; stingy: coll.: late C.17–19. B.E.—N., plain fare or living: late C.16–20, coll. > S.E. by 1700.

bread and cheese in (one's) head, have (got). To be drunk: mid-C.17–mid-18; coll. and proverbial. Ray, 1678. (Apperson.)

bread and honey. Money: rhyming s.: C.20. Much less common than bees and honey. Franklyn 2nd.

bread and jam. A tram: rhyming s.: C.20. B. & P.

bread and lard, adj. Hard: rhyming s.: C.20. Franklyn 2nd adduces 'Gorblimey! ain't that bread an' lard, eh?'

bread and meat. The commissariat: military, from ca. 1850; ob. in WW1.—2. Hence, bread-and-meat man, an officer in the ASC: military (—1909); † by 1920. Ware.

bread and pullet. Just bread: joc.:—1913 (A.H. Dawson). With pun on pull it.

bread and salt, take. To curse and swear: C.20. Manchon.

bread and solitary confinement: prisoners' coll.: late C.19–20. (Jim Phelan, The Big House, 1943.) I.e. bread and water.

bread-artist. An artist working merely for a living: art: from 1890s; very ob. A var. of pot-boiler with a pun on bread.

bread-bag, stomach, is an occ. var. of bread-basket: 1834, W.N. Glascock, Sketch-Book, 2nd series, at I, 33. (Moe.) bread-bags. Anyone in the victualling department: Army, RN: mid-C.19–20; ob. H., 3rd ed.

bread-barge. The distributing tray or basket of biscuits: nautical, C.19–20; ob.—2. 'A wooden keg fitted with brass bands and a circular wooden lid, in which the mess ration of bread was kept' (Daily Colonist, Victoria, BC, 19 June 1960): R Can. N: early C.20.

bread-basket. The stomach: from ca. 1750. Foote, 1753, 'I let drive ... , made the soup-maigre rumble in his bread-basket, and laid him sprawling.' Cf. bread-room, dumpling-dépôt, porridge-bowl, and victualling-office: all pugilistic.

bread bins. 'Eastern Region locomotives. Origin unknown' (McKenna, Glossary): railwaymen's: mid-C.20.

bread buttered on both sides. Great or unexpected good fortune: coll.; mid-C.17–20. Ray, 1678; Lockhart. (Apperson.)

bread-crumbs! A RN c.p. (C.20) uttered by the senior subaltern officer in the gun-room: an 'order for all junior midshipmen to put their fingers in their ears to avoid conversation unfitted for their youth' (Bowen).

bread hooks. Fingers; loosely, hands: Can.: since ca. 1955 (or rather earlier). The Daily Colonist, Victoria, BC, 1 July 1973: '... he won't take any action until he gets the money "in his bread hooks"' (Douglas Leechman, 1973).

bread is buttered, know on which side (one's). To seek one's own advantage: C.16–20: coll.; in C.19–20, S.E. Heywood, Cibber, Scott, Vachell. (Apperson.)

bread out of (one's) mouth, take the. To spoil or destroy a person's livelihood; to remove what another is on the point of enjoying. From ca. 1700; coll. till C.19, then S.E. P.B.: cf. the Far Eastern synonym. break (one's) rice-bowl.

bread-picker. A junior's nominal office at Winchester College: C.19. Evidently ex some old fagging-duty connected with bread.

bread-room. The stomach: 1761, Smollett; † by 1860. Cf. bread-basket and victualling-office.

bread-room Jack. A purser's servant: nautical: mid-C.19–20; ob.

bread-snapper. A child: Glasgow lower classes' from ca. 1880. (MacArthur & Long.) Suggested by S.E. bread-winner.

bread. Portions or helpings of bread: coll.: ca. 1860–1910.—2. (Breads.) Shares in the Aerated Bread Company: Stock Exchange:—1895 (A.J. Wilson, Stock Exchange Glossary).

break, n. Money collected by friends for a prisoner's defence or for his assistance when he leaves prison: c.: from ca. 1870; ob. J.W. Horsely.—2. (Gen. bad break.) A mistake, blunder, faux pas. C.20, coll. Ex US. By itself, break, esp. in US (—1827), usu. means a piece of good luck: cf., however, Thornton. In UK a bad break has come to mean, since ca. 1950 at the latest, an unforeseen stroke of bad luck, or run of misfortunes. Possibly influenced by.—3. A continuous or an unbroken run or journey: railwaymen's coll.: 1898. (OED Sup.) Prob. ex a break at billiards.—4. Esp. in give (someone) a break, to give him a chance, an opportunity, a slight advantage: Can. (ex US) coll.: since the late 1920s. (Leechman.)—5. In make a break, q.v., to attempt to escape.—6. A break-in, or illicit entry into, a building: burglars' c.: since ca. 1930. Frank Norman, poem 'Screwsman's Lament' in Encounter, 1959.

B

break, v. To 'cut' (a person): middle-class (—1909); † by 1920. Ware. Abbr. break away from.—2. To leave the employment of (a person); to discharge (an employee): tailors': C.20. E.g. Tailor and Cutter, 29 Nov. 1928, both senses.—3. (Usu. in the present perfect tense; applied only to events that are exciting or important.) To happen: journalists' coll.; adopted ca. 1930 ex US. Christopher Bush, The Monday Murder, 1936, "Anything broken?" Tuke said. "Nothing much," Ribbold told him. "Everything still slack as hell."—4. V.i., to cost: v.t., break for, to cost someone so much: Aus.: C.20. B., 1942.—5. V.t., to change a coin or a bank or currency note: since ca. 1920—6. In do a break, to depart hastily: Aus.:—1916 (C.J. Dennis). Cf. make a break for it, and the S.E. break-way.—7. Usu. in imperative, a shortening of break it up!, 1, q.v., or ex the boxing j.: theatrical: (to) pause in, or at end of, rehearsal; or as in, e.g., 'the cast broke broke for tea'. Cf. also break it down!, 2. (With thanks to Mrs Camilla Raab.) break a bit off. To defecate: Public Schools' joc.: since ca. 1920. The ref. is to a hard stool. Contrast:—2. In break a bit off with (a woman), of the male, to copulate: low and raffish: C.20. Occ., as a generalisation, without with, as 'I've got an awful lot of dirty water on my chest. It's time I broke a bit off.' (P.B.; L.A.) break a bottle in an empty sack. To make a cheating bet, a hocus wager, 'a sack with a bottle in it not being an empty sack' (Grose, 2nd ed.): coll.: late C.18—mid-19.

break a lance with. To enjoy a woman: C.19—20: coll. Eligible only when joc., otherwise a mere S.E. euph. Ex S.E. sense: to enter the lists against.

break a (or one's) leg. To give birth to a bastard: low coll.: from ca. 1670; ob. (R. Head, in Proteus Redivivus.) The proverbial form gen. added above the knee; gen., too, as to have broken her leg. See also broken-legged.

break a straw with. To quarrel with: joc. coll.: C.17—18. Florio, Montaigne (OED).

break (one's) back. To become bankrupt: coll., C.17—18, as in Shakespeare's Henry VIII. To cause to go bankrupt: C.17—20, coll., as in Rowley, 1632; and in H., 3rd ed.; and in Baring-Gould's The Gamecocks, 1887. (Apperson.)

break-bulk. A captain that appropriates a portion of his cargo: C.17—20, ob.; coll. till ca. 1700, then S.E. Ex S.E. to break bulk, to begin to unload.

break-down. A measure of liquor: Aus.: ca. 1850—1910.—2. A noisy dance: coll., orig. US, anglicised in Edmund Yates, 1864; from ca. 1880, also coll., a convivial gathering: in C.20, both senses are S.E. and, by 1930, ob. Also, from ca. 1870, as v., to dance riotously, be boisterously convivial, and adj., riotously dancing, noisily convivial.

break down, v. To make lighter: C.20: NZ c.—2. See n., 2.

break (one's) duck. To score at least one run at cricket. See duck, n., 7. Variants (ca. 1870—1905) were break, or crack, (one's) egg.

break gates. See gates.

break into pictures. To get on the cinematic screen: coll.: since 1925. Hence, also, to break into other forms of entertainment, TV, the 'pop scene', radio, etc.

break it big. To win a lot of money, esp. at gambling: Aus.: C.20. Tom Ronan, Vision Splendid, 1954.

break it down! Stop talking like that! stop talking! change the subject!: Aus.: since ca. 1920. Rats, 1944.—2. Hence 'to break it down!', to cease: since ca. 1920. (Jon Cleary, The Sundowners, 1952.) Also, since ca. 1935, NZ. (Slatter.)

break (e.g. it) down to. To tell (a person) something: tailors': C.20. Tailor and Cutter, 29 Nov. 1928.

break it up! Disperse! or Get moving and keep moving: Can. official c.p. (adopted ex US): since ca. 1930. (Leechman).—2. 'A couple embracing may be told to "break it up"' (Petch, 1966): joc. rather than minatory: since ca. 1935. Ex boxing clinch.

break loose. 'When the show breaks loose' = when the battle begins: Army: 1940 +; ob. (P-G-R.) Cf. the coll. phrase 'All Hell broke loose'—all was confusion and pandemonium. (P.B.)

break (one's) neck. To long to make water: coll.: since ca. 1918. 'Don't know about you, but I'm breaking my neck!' Not orig. euph.; it shortens be breaking one's neck for a piss: C.20. Cf. breaking (one's) neck for, q.v.

break-necker. A ball that, with a very big break, takes a wicket: cricketers': ca. 1850—80. Lewis.

break-o'-day drum. 'A tavern which is open all night' (B. & L.): low: from ca. 1860. Drum here = drum, n., 2, a house.

break-out, n. A spree: Aus.: C.20. Baker.

break out again. To do again something that is unpleasant or ridiculous: C.20, coll. Perhaps a development ex:

break out in a fresh place. To commence a new undertaking; assume (lit. or fig.) a different position: ?orig. US and anglicised ca. 1905.

break-pulpit. A noisy, vigorous preacher: late C.16—17: coll.

break (someone's) rice-bowl. To deprive that person of his livelihood, by automation, usurpation, destruction, etc.: common in the coll. English used in the Far East, esp. in Hong Kong:—1960. Perhaps from a Chinese phrase; cf. break out of (one's) mouth... (P.B.)

break shins. To borrow money (cf. US shinner, shinning): late C.17—early 20; in C.17—18, c. (as in B.E.) Cf. bite the ear. Ex the old Russian custom of beating on the shins those who have money and will not pay their debts (see OED).

break (one's) shins against Covent Garden rails. To catch a venereal disease: low: late C.18—early 19. Grose, 2nd ed. Cf. Covent Garden aque.

break square(s). To depart from or to interrupt the usual order; do harm. It breaks no square, it does not matter, was proverbial. From ca. 1560; coll. till ca. 1620, then S.E. The proverb is ob., the phrase †. Apperson.

break surface. To wake from sleep: RN: since ca. 1925. Granville, 'From the submarine service'.

break-teeth words. Words hard to pronounce: late C.18—early 19: coll. (Grose, 2nd ed.) Cf. jaw-breaker, q.v.

break the balls. To begin: sporting, from ca. 1870; ob. In billiards j., the phrase = to commence playing.

break the ice. To begin; get to know a person. From ca. 1590. Coll.; by 1800, S.E. Nashe, Shirley, Dickens. (Apperson.)

break the back of. See break the neck of.

break the neck, occ. the back, of. To have almost completed; to accomplish the major, or the most difficult, part of any undertaking. From ca. 1810; in C.19, coll.; in C.20, S.E., where back is prob. the commoner form.

break the sound barrier. To break wind: orig. (ca. 1960) and mostly Can. 'Teat and almost inevitable' (Leechman).

break the tea-pot. 'He has broken the tea-pot' = he has abandoned abstinence in favour of the wet canteen: mostly Army (—1900); ob. by 1940, † by 1960. The Regiment, vol. viii, p. 288, year 1900.

break(-)up. (As v., idiomatic S.E.) The end of a school term, or of any performance: since late C.16: coll. soon > S.E. An early example occurs in Popenon's Rules for Bungay Grammar School, Suffolk, ca. 1600: 'That the School Master shall before the accustomed time of breaking-up of the school (as they call it) twice a year ...'—2. A person, thing, situation, extremely amusing: Aus.: since ca. 1925. B., 1942.

break van. A van (Naafi or YMCA) driven around a Station at 'break' or recess period of a quarter of an hour, morning and afternoon: RAF (hence also WAAF) coll.: since ca. 1935. Jackson.

breakaway, the. Those competitors who have established a substantial lead: racing cyclists' coll.: since ca. 1925. Contrast bunch, n., 2.—2. A person broken up, whether physically or mentally: Aus. coll.: since ca. 1910. X.S. Prichard, Tornado, 1929.

breakfast. In I could do it (or that) before b-, that's easy: c.p. (orig. and mainly Aus.?): C.20.—2. See think about breakfast.

breakfast-time. See arsehole to breakfast-time.

breaking (one's) neck for (a drink, etc.), be. To long for a (drink, etc.): coll.: late C.19–20. Perhaps ex to (be willing to break one's neck for the sake of... Cf. the later break one's neck.

break-up of the spell. 'The nightly termination of performance at the Theatres Royal, which is regularly attended by pickpockets of the lower order' (Vaux): c. of ca. 1810–80. Here, spell = spell-ken, a theatre.

breaky-leg. A shilling: ca. 1835–70. Brandon, 1839.—2. Strong drink: from ca. 1860; ob. (H., 2nd ed.) Ex its effects.

breamy!, that's. That's bad!: army c.p.: early C.20. (F. & G.) ? = 'That's fishy'.

breast, n. See clean breast.

breast, v. To approach, to accost: Aus.: since ca. 1930. (B., 1943.) Cf. breast up to.

breast fleet. In belong to the..., to be a Roman Catholic: late C.18–early 19. (Grose, 1st ed.) Ex the crossing or beating of hands on the breast. P.B.; and perhaps a pun on the British Channel Fleet so often used to blockade the port of Brest.

breast-pocket kind of place. A small shop: tailors' coll.: mid-C.19–20. B & L.

breast up to. To accost: (low) Aus.:—1916 (C.J. Dennis).

breast work. The caressing of a woman's breasts: C.20, somewhat pedantic and seldom heard. Punning breastwork, a defensive fieldwork breast-high.

breath strong enough to carry (the) coal, with a. Drunk: US, anglicised ca. 1905; virtually †. Ware.

breath that would knock you down. Fetid breath: coll.: late C.19–20.

breathe again. To be feel relieved in mind: C.19–20, anticipated by Shakespeare; coll. > S.E. 'Phew! we breathe again.'

breathe down (someone's) neck. To be very close to someone, as in 'The cops were breathing down my neck': joc. coll.: since ca. 1930. (Cf. the allusive title of John Pudney's delightful collection of short stories titled It Breathed Down My Neck, 1946.)—2. Hence, to 'keep after' someone for, e.g., the completion of a job: since late 1940s.

breathed on. (Of a car or its engine), 'converted, often by professionals, to give greater power and speed' (David Mann, 1963): since middle 1950s. Cf. souped up.

breather. A breathing-space; a short rest: C.20: coll., now verging on S.E.—2. A tropical squall: nautical: late C.19–20. Bowen.

breathing hard. 'A common Services' reply to the innocent question, "Are you coming?", is likely to be "No, just breathing hard", or "No, but I'm breathing hard"' (P.B., 1974): later C.20. A sexual pun.

breech, n. See buttons, 7.

breech, gen. in passive. To flog, be flogged on the breech: in C.16–18, coll. if not S.E.; in C.19–20, schoolboys' s., ob. Tusser, 'Maiden, up I beseech yee/Least Mistres doe breech yee'; Massinger, 'How he looks! like a school-boy that ... went to be breech'd.'—2. In C.20 c., to steal from the back trouser-pocket.

breeched. Rich; in good case: c.: from ca. 1810; ob. (Vaux.) Cf. bags (off), have the, q.v., and Fr. déculotté, bankrupt. P.B.: in C.20, gen. well-breeched; cf. well-heeled.

breeches. Trousers: coll. and joc. (also in dial.): from ca. 1850. In S.E., breeches come no farther than just below the knee.—2. See wear the breeches.

Breeches Martyrs. W. O'Brien and several other Irish MPs, imprisoned in 1889. Dawson adduces that they 'refused to put on the prison dress'.

breeches-part. A role in which an actress wears male attire: theatrical (—1865); ob., but not yet †, for it appeared so late as 1 Oct. 1970, in Country Life. See wear the breeches.

breeching. A flogging: in C.16–18, S.E.; in C.19–20 (†), schoolboys' s.

breed. A half-breed: Can. coll.: mid-C.19–20. Bod Dyker, Get Your Man, 1934.

breed-bate. A causer or fomenter of bate, i.e. strife: late C.16–20; ob. Coll. >, by 1620, S.E. Shakespeare, 'No tel-tale, nor no breede-bate', 1598.

breeding. Parentage: low coll.: ca. 1597–1620. (Shakespeare.) Ex primary S.E. sense. OED.

breeding-cage. A bed: low: ca. 1860–1920. W.E. Henley, in an unpublished ballad written in 1875, 'In the breeding cage I cops her,/With her stays off, all a-blowin'!/Three parts sprung...'

breeding-wagon. A caravan: Midlands (s., not dial.): since ca. 1930. Cf. passion-wagon.

breef. A cheating device at cards. See brief, n., 3.

breefs. 'Jockeyed' playing-cards. See briefs, 1.

breeks. Orig. dial. (esp. Scottish) form of breeches. Since ca. 1860, coll. for trousers, very rarely for breeches. Baumann.—2. In have the breeks torn off (one), euph. for have (one's) balls chewed off, to be severely reprimanded: since ca. 1950. (L.A., 1977.)

breeze. A disturbance, row, quarrel, tiff: coll., from ca. 1780. Grose, 1st ed.; T. Moore.—2. A rumour; a gossip whisper: coll.: 1879, Stevenson (OED); ob.—3. In it's a breeze, it's easy: coll.: since ca. 1960; orig. Aus. (Mrs Camilla Raab.) Cf. pushover, and breeze through.—4. In have a breeze in (one's) breech, to be perturbed: coll.: C.17. Beaumont & Fletcher; Ray. A breeze is a gadfly. (Apperson.) Whence sense 1.—5. In have the breeze up (or vertical), to 'have the wind up', which it deliberately varies: from 1916: orig. and mainly Services'. F. & G.—6. See three-man breeze.

breeze, v. To boast: army: mid-C.19—early 20. (F. & G.) Cf. synon. blow.

breeze (along). To move or go quickly: from ca. 1920. Cf.:-

breeze in. To arrive unexpectedly: from ca. 1920. On blow in.

breeze through (a task). To do it quickly and unflinchingly: Aus.: since late 1940s. (B.P.) P.B.: in later C.20 also Brit.; cf. breeze, n., 3.

breezer. A rest: army: early C.20. (F. & G.) Cf. breather, 1, and S.E. a blow, as of rest for working horses.—2. A fart: Aus. juvenile: later C.20. Wilkes.

breezy. Afraid: c.: from ca. 1918. (Charles E. Leach.) Ex WW1 soldiers' s.—2. Short-tempered: s., verging on coll.:—1931 (Lyell); ob. by 1940. Apt to 'blow up'.

breezy Bertie. A brash, self-confident, thick-skinned young man: early C.20. Warwick Deeping, Kitty, 1927.

brekker. Breakfast. From late 1880s. By elision of fast and collision of break and the 'OXFORD-ER', though—admittedly—it looks rather like a child's slurring of breakfast. By mid-C.20, also brekkers.

brevet-wife. 'A woman who, without being married to a man, lives with him, takes his name, and enjoys all the privileges of a wife' (F. & H.): coll.: ca. 1870–1914. P.B.: a pun on army brevet rank: an acting, unpaid, rank, e.g. brevet-major.

brew, n. 'Drink made on the spot' (Bootham): Bootham School: late C.19–20. Ex:—2. A study-tea: certain Public Schools': mid-C.19–20.—3. Hence, in the Services of late C.19–20: tea. Cf. the R Aus. N the brew's wet or she's wet, the tea has been made (Senior Commissioned Bo'sun L.D.M. Roberts, MBE, letter, 1951). Cf. also brew up, 1.—4. 'Concocted fuel with alcohol base' (Dunford): motorcyclists': since ca. 1950. Cf. blue stink.—5. See buero.

brew, v.i. To make afternoon tea: Marlborough and hence other Public Schools: mid-C.19–20, ob. Hence brewing, the making thereof.—2. V.i., to have afternoon tea: at certain other Public Schools: late C.19–20.

brew-can. Army tin used for making tea: army: since ca. 1925. Ex prec.

brew-up, n. Corresponding to next.—2. Hence, a meal, including a drink of tea: Can.: since ca. 1960. (Leechman.)

brew up, v.i. To make tea: army: since ca. 1925.—2. Hence, to catch fire: army: 1940–5. 'Tank brewed up and his driver's killed' (Keith Douglas, Alamein to Zem Zem, 1947).

brewer, fetch the. To become intoxicated: from ca. 1840; †.

brewer's asthma. Shortness of breath: Aus. drinking s.: since ca. 1925. B., 1953.

brewer's droop. 'A large belly brought on by beer, and by extension a reference to alleged impotence in a male. Can be a most insulting phrase to use to a man in this latter meaning as it impugns his virility. Not to be used in jest.' Thus Powis, in 1977; but in the army of the 1950s, it was used in jest; though not so funny, perhaps, to the drunken soldier trying to 'get his end away'. E.P. dates it (?mid-C.19-C.20, and adds: 'Have often heard and seen it, yet possess no record earlier than P.B., 1974.'

brewer's fart. As in let a brewer's fart (occ. followed by grains and all.) To befoul oneself: low: late C.18–mid-19. (Grose, 2nd ed.) Cf. the late C.18–19 low coll., not to trust one's arse with a fart, to have diarrhoea (Ibid.).

brewer's fizzle. Beer; ale: 1714, Ned Ward, The Republican Procession; † by 1800, and never common. Matthews.

brewer's goitre. A large paunch: Aus. drinking s.: since ca. 1925. B., 1953.

brewer's horse. A drunkard. Late C.16–20; ob. Shakespeare, 1597, Falstaff speaking, 'I am a peppercorn, a brewer's horse'; Halliwell, 1847. In late C.19–20, mainly dial. Often in semi-proverbial form, one whom (a) brewer's horse hath (or has) bit. Cf. the phrase in TAVERN TERMS, § 2, in Appendix.

brewer's jockey. A brewer's van-driver's self-appointed assistant: Aus.: C.20. Baker.

brewery, cop the. To get drunk: low: from ca. 1860; ob. Ware.

bruising the bed. Fouling the bed. See bruising the bed.

Brian O'Lynn, occ. O'Linn. Gin: rhyming s.:—1857 ('Ducange Anglicus'); in C.20 often Brian O'Flynn, and abbr. Brian, sometimes even Bri. Franklyn, Rhyming.

briar, properly brier. A briar-wood pipe: coll., from ca. 1870; now virtually S.E. Ware.

briar-root. 'A corrugated, badly-shaped nose': proletarian: —109; ob. (Ware.) Ex a briar-root pipe.

brick, n. A loyal, dependable person (orig. only of men): 'a good fellow': poss. dates back to early C.19, for in George C. Bell, Rough Notes by an Old Soldier, 1867, old bricks, good Regular soldiers, is used twice, concerning Wellington's battles in 1814 (R.S.): s. >, ca. 1890, coll. Barham, 'a regular brick'; Thackeray, 1855, 'a dear little brick'; George Eliot, 1876, 'a fellow like nobody else, and, in fine, a brick'. Prob. ex the solidity of a brick; a fanciful etym. is Aristotle's τετραγωνος ανηρ, a man worthy of commemoration on a monumental stone.—2. A misfortune, piece of hard luck: Public Schools': 1909 (P.G. Wodehouse, Mike). Cf. v., 1.—3. A piece of bread; bread: Charterhouse: late C.19–20. As 'a loaf of bread': 1848 (Sinks): but that was low s., † by 1900.—4. A melee; a 'terrific' scrum: Charterhouse: C.20.—5. A shell: RN since ca. 1924; army since ca. 1930. 'That gun throws a pretty hefty brick.' P-G-R.—6. The sum of £10: Aus. sporting: since ca. 1920. (Glassop, 1949.) Poss. a decade earlier: see Wilkes.—7. 'The Brickmakers Arms is the name that cynics give to our local Transport Club. "Making brick" is slang for the various ways in which some [bus-]drivers and conductors defraud the Passenger Transport Executive' (Roy Harris, quoting a bus-driver, in Guardian, 10 Dec. 1979). Cf. v., 3, bunce, an older synon.—8. In like a brick; like bricks; like a thousand (of) bricks or a ton of bricks, vigorously, energetically, thoroughly, very quickly, with a good will, heavily: coll. >, by 1890, S.E.: the 2nd seems to be the oldest form (Dickens, 1836; Barham); the 3rd to have been orig. (1842) US. However, swim like a brick is the coll. opp. of S.E. swim like a fish (Collinson, 1927); cf. the comment fly like a brick, applied to an aircraft bad at gliding (P.B.). See the whole entry at like a...—9. See drop a brick.

brick, v. Gen. that's bricked it, that's spoilt it, that's the end of it—1923 (Manchon); ob. by 1930.—2. To push, 'barge into' (a person): Charterhouse: early C.20. Cf. n., 4.—3. To cheat or defraud: market-traders': since (?)ca. 1920. 'He was bricking me, so I gave him the bellows [=got rid of him]' (M.T.). Hence bricker, a cheat or defrauder (Ibid.). See brick, n., 7, and bricker.

brick in the hat, have a. To be intoxicated: non-aristocr.:ic: from ca. 1870. (B. & L.) Semantics: top-heavy.

134

brick walls, make. To eat one's food without masticating it: lower classes': late C.19–20.

brickduster. A dust-storm: Sydney coll.—1880. See brick-fielder.

Brickdusts, the. (Military) the Fifty-Third Regiment of Foot, which, from ca. 1881, has been the King's Shropshire Light Infantry. Ex its brick-red facings. Also called The Old Five-and-Threepennies (ex its number and the daily pay of an ensign).

bricked. Smartly or fashionably dressed: late C.16–mid-17: ?orig. c. Greene—2. 'Having an unsigned [police] statement used [against one] in court': Aus. c.: since ca. 1950. Ian Grindley, Governor of Pentridge Gaol, Melbourne, 1977.

bricker. To steal; to filch: hippies' and 'counter-culture': since early 1960s. Adrian Reid, The Confessions of a Hitch-Hiker, 1970: 'When I left London I didn't bother to bring much gear [i.e., clothing, etc.] with me—you can always bricker a dress from a shop if you need one', and 'We brickered a few false carnations.' See also brick, n., 7, and v., 3.

brickfielder. (Less often brickduster; cf. (southerly) buster.) A Sydney coll. for a cold dust- or sand-storm brought by southerly winds from nearby brickfields and sand-hills. Ca. 1830–90. But from ca. 1860, and predominantly from ca. 1890, the word has meant a severe hot wind, with dust or without. The change in meaning was caused largely by the disappearance, ca. 1870, of the brickfields themselves. Morris's Austral English gives an excellent account of the word.

Brickie. Brixham smack or fisherman: nautical: C.20. D. Butcher, Trawlermen, 1980, glossary.—2. See bricky, n.

brickish. Excellent; 'fine', 'jolly': 1856 (A. Smith: OED). Ex brick, n., 1: q.v.

bricklayer. A clergyman. From ca. 1850; ob. Perhaps ex the part played by ecclesiastics in architecture. For interesting suppositions, see F. & H. bricklayer's clerk. A lubberly sailor: nautical: ca. 1820–1925. Cf. strawyarder.

bricks. A sort of pudding: Wellington College: later C.19—early 20.—2. See brick, n., 8; shit bricks; and—

Bricks and Mortar. (Often simply Bricks.) The Air Ministry Works and Buildings Dept.: RAF: from ca. 1930. (H. & P.) P.B.: the Army's equivalent organisation is sometimes referred to as the Bricks and Sticks, having also some responsibility for furnishings: since ca. 1950, at latest. Cf. Works and Bricks, q.v.—2. As b- and m-, a heavy style of acting: theatrical: prob. since 1890s. Leonard Merrick, The Position of Peggy Harper, 1911, has bricks and mortar manager.—3. A daughter: rhyming s.: C.20.—4. Houses; house property; esp. as in 'his money's in bricks and mortar': coll.: from ca. 1905.

Bricks and Sticks. See prec., 1, and Works and Bricks.

bricky, -ie. A bricklayer or his assistant: coll.: since late C.19. D.W. Barrett, Navvies, 1880.—2. Hence, a low fellow: schoolboys': from ca. 1895. Collinson.—3. See Brickie.

bricky, adj. Fearless; adroit; like a 'brick' (1, q.v.): perhaps orig. schoolboys': 1864 (OED Sup.); ob. by 1930.

brickyard. See bear-pit.

Brid. Bridlington, a Yorkshire holiday resort: C.20.

bride. A prostitute: London c.: since late C.19. (R. Samuel, ed., East End Underworld, 1981.) See quot'n at string (someone) up.—2. Hence, 'a girl', 'a young woman' (esp. to make love to): not c. but low s., mostly Londoners': from ca. 1920 (G. Ingram, Cockney Cavalcade, 1935) and, by 1940, Forces'. Cf. wife.

bride and groom. A proverb: rhyming s.: late C.19–20. B. & P.—2. A room: id.: C.20. Franklyn 2nd declares both senses † by 1960.

bride's nightie. See off like a bride's...

bridge, n. (Cards) a cheating trick by which a particular card is located, and made operative in the cut, by previously imparting to it a slight curve; that curve produces an almost imperceptible gap in the resultant pack. From ca. 1850; after ca. 1870, j. (Mayhew, Lever, Yates.) Vbl n., bridging.—2. Hence (?) an absentee from a meeting: printers': from ca. 1880; very ob. Ware.—3. In NZ post-WW1 c., a look, a glance.—4. An introduction, a form of approach: Aus.: since ca. 1925. (B., 1943.) It bridges a gap.—5. Hence, a plausible excuse or story: Aus.: since ca. 1930. B., 1959.—6. In a gold or silver bridge, an easy or attractive means of escape: late C.16–early 20: coll. > S.E. in C.17.—7. In make a bridge of (anyone's) nose, to push the bottle past him, so that he misses a drink: coll., late C.17; then dial. (Swift; Grose, 1st ed.) Hence, to supersede: id. Ray.—8. See beside the bridge; and:-

bridge, v. To betray the confidence of; var. throw over the bridge: c. or low s.:—1812 (Vaux); † by 1900.—2. 'A compositor is said to have "bridged" if he fails to appear at the appointed time without subsequent excuse' (G.E. Rowles, The 'Line' Is On, 1948): printers'.—3. See TIDDLYWINKS, in Appendix.

Bridge of Sighs, the. St John's Bridge, Cambridge: late C.19–20. Ex its resemblance to the famous bridge in Venice. Hence, in C.19, also Bridge of Grunts and, derivatively, Pig Bridge. Marples, 2.

bridge-ornament. (Gen. pl.) An executive officer: nautical engineers': late C.19–20. (Bowen.) Opp. educated trimmer, q.v.

bridge-telegraph. A boy standing at the engine-room skylight and repeating the captain's orders: London river-steamers': ca. 1850–1910. Bowen.

bridge widow; bridge widower. A wife, or a husband, often left alone by a bridge-fiendish partner: since early 1920s. On analogy of golf widow.

bridger. A bridge-player: mostly Society: since ca. 1925.

bridges and no grasses. (A meeting, a pact, that is) secret: printers': from ca. 1880; ob. Ware. Cf. grass, n., senses 4–6.

bridges, bridges! 'A cry to arrest a long-winded story': printers': from ca. 1880; ob. Ware. 'Prob. corruption of [Fr.] "abrégeons—abrégeons" ... Anglicised'.

bridging. The plausible acquisition of money from Irish servant girls, for political—or allegedly political—purposes: 1866; ob. (Ware.) Bridget (Biddy), a Christian name very gen. in Ireland.

bridge-cull. A highwayman: low or c.: ca. 1740–1800. (Fielding.) See cull.

bridle-string; hence bridle. Fraenum: low: late C.19–20.

Bridport or Brydport dagger, stabbed with a. Hanged. The Bridport dagger is a hangman's rope, much hemp being grown round Bridport. Mid-C.17–early 19; coll. Fuller; Grose's Provincial Glossary; Southey.

brief. A ticket of any kind; a pocket-book: from ca. 1850. In C.19, c.; in C.20, low s. (In the late C.19–20 Army, it signifies a discharge certificate; and in C.20 c., a convict-licence.) Ex its shortness. Hence briefless, ticketless.—2. In late C.19–20 c., a false reference or recommendation.—3. Often spelt breief and always prec. by the: a cheating-device at cards: late C.17–18.—4. (Cf. sense 2.) A letter: proletarian: mid-C.19–20. Ware.—5. A furlough-pass: army: early C.20. B. & P.—6. A bank- or currency-note: bank-clerks', mostly Anglo-Irish: C.20.—7. Hence (?), a cheque: c.:—1933 (George Ingram).—8. A fig. bias: c.:—1933 (Ibid.).—9. A London cab-driver's licence. See bill, 7.—10. 'A warrant to arrest or search, a police warrant card (or any other identity document)' (Powis): c. and police s.: since (?) ca. 1965. Cf. W.—11. 'Generally, any lawyer; specifically, a barrister' (Ibid.): police and the underworld-fringe: since ca. 1930. One who is briefed for a case.—12. In get (one's) brief, to obtain one's ticket-of-leave: c.: late C.19–20.—13. In hand in (one's) brief, to give notice to one's employer: domestic servants: early C.20. Eric Horne, What the Butler Winked at, 1923.—14. See hold no brief for.

brief-jigger. A ticket-office, esp. at a railway station: c.:—1850.

brief-snatcher. A pocket-book thief: c.: mid-C.19–20. See brief, 1.—2. Also, vbl n., brief-snatching.

briefless. Ticketless: from ca. 1870. Low in C.20; earlier, c.—2. As Mr Briefless, an advocate without a brief: coll., mostly London:—1887 (Baumann); ob. by 1930.

briefs. 'Jockeyed' playing-cards: C.18–20; low, if not indeed c. Occ. breefs. Cf. brief, 3.—2. Very short women's-knickers: feminine coll.: from 1932 or 1933. In Books of To-Day, Nov. 1934, C.G.T writes feelingly, in the poem entitled 'Too Much of Too Little': 'I'm bored to tears with "scanties"/I'm sick to death of "briefs"/Of specialists in "panties"/And combination chiefs.' Cf. neathie-set, q.v. It has, since ca. 1950, been applied also to men's underpants, and as underpants, for either sex, has > by late C.20. informal S.E. (P.B.).

brier. Var. spelling of briar, a briar-wood pipe.

briers, in the. In trouble: C.16–18; coll. Briers, vexation(s), is S.E., C.16–20, ob.

briffen (-fin). Bread and dripping: Liverpool street arabs', and tramps' c.: since ca. 1900. (Arab; W.L. Gibson Cowen, Loud Report, 1937.) Perhaps a 'near' blend of S.E. bread and sol. drippen.—2. Hence, a girl: likewise tramps' c.: from ca. 1920. (Ibid.) Regarded as 'a necessity of life'; ?or cf. crumpet.

brig, the. Punishment cells: RN, perhaps ex US: mid-C.19–20. (Bowen.) Often, until early C.20, in the Dutch brig.—2. The pilot-steamer at the mouth of the Hooghly: nautical coll.: late C.19–early 20. Ibid.—3. One's or the Brigadier-General, from late C.19; since the abolition of this rank, the Brigadier: army s. > coll. As in the brig's po-juggler.

brigade. A loose verbal grouping of any body of similar individuals, e.g. the no-hat brigade; the grey mac brigade, qq.v.: coll., usu. joc.: C.20. (P.B.)

brigdie. A basking shark: C.19 nautical coll. ex Scots dial. (—1810: EDD). Bowen.

Brigg's (or Briggs') Rest; esp., Brig's rest. A vest: rhyming s., esp. among convicts: C.20. (Franklyn 2nd.) Perhaps a pun on brig, the.

brigh. A pocket, esp. a trousers-pocket: c.:—1879; †. ?ex breaks. Hence:- brighful. A pocketful: c.: from ca. 1880; †. Pugh, 2.

Brigham. Inevitable nickname for anyone surnamed Young: late C.19–20. (Bowen.) Ex the Mormonite.

bright. A dandy, fop, finical fellow: Society: ca. 1760–80. (OED.) Cf. smart.

bright as a button (, as). Highly intelligent; clever and alert, as in 'Oh, she's as bright as a button, that kid. Doesn't miss a trick!': coll.: C.20. (P.B.)

bright bastard. A 'smart Alec': Aus.: since ca. 1910. Used in ironic disparagement.

bright boy. A post-WW2 army var. of wide boy, q.v.

bright-eyed (or -eyes) and bushy-tailed. A Can. c.p., signifying 'alert and active—and ready for anything': since ca. 1955. In May 1959, Dr Douglas Leechman writes, 'Incorporated in a current popular song, but I first heard it about 1956.' Probably ex the habitual aspect of such creatures as squirrels. Colonel Albert Moe tells me that he first heard it in 1933, and frequently since. Some use in UK by those who have been in contact with Canadians.

bright in the eye. Slightly drunk: C.19 s.; C.20 coll.; ob by 1930. B. & L.; Lyell.

bright spark. A lively person; a 'life-and-soul-of-the-party' type: coll.: C.20. But also used ironically, 'a real bright spark, he is'; cf.:-

bright specimen, a. A silly, foolish, rash, stupid, bungling person. (Always complementary to the verb to be.) Coll. (—1888).

bright-work juice. Liquid metal-polish: Conway cadets': from ca. 1895. (John Masefield, The Conway, 1933.) Granville, 'brightwork. Any part of ship that needs to be polished daily with brass rags.' P.B.: in later C.20, used also in the motor industry for chromed bumpers, etc.

brighten (one's) outlook. To have one's windows cleaned; to clean the lenses of one's glasses: joc. coll.: since ca. 1920.

brightener. A dash of gin or brandy added to a soft drink: public-houses': C.20. George Robey, An Honest Living, 1922.

Brighton As. Deferred ordinary shares in the London, Brighton & South Coast Railway: Stock Exchange coll. (—1895) >, by 1910, j. A.J. Wilson, Stock Exchange Glossary.

Brighton bitter. A mixture of mild and bitter beer sold as bitter: public-houses':—1909; ob. by 1930. Ware. Cf. Brighton tipper.

Brighton Pier. Strange; ill: rhyming, on queer: mid-C.19–20.—2. Hence, since ca. 1940, homosexual.

Brighton sands. Hands: rhyming s.: C.20. 'Seldom heard' (Franklyn 2nd).

Brighton tipper. 'The celebrated staggering ale' (Dickens, 1843): coll.: ca. 1830–70.

Brightons. Shares in the London, Brighton & South Coast Railway: Stock Exchange coll. (—1895) >, by 1910, j. A.J. Wilson's Glossary.

brights, clean the. To clean and polish the brass and copper accessories and ornaments, and the silver ornaments: domestic coll.: mid-C.19–20.

brig's po-juggler. A brigade (lit., the Brigadier's) orderly officer: Aus. army: 1915–18. Po = chamber-pot.

brill. Bad mood' (D. Butcher, Trawlermen, 1980, glossary): nautical: C.20.—2. See next, 2.

brilliant. Short for brilliant stark-naked, raw gin: 1821, Boxiana, III, 'Full of heavy wet and Booth's brilliant'.—2. Replaced epic and magic as the teenagers' vogue-word for excellent: very early 1979 (P.B.). In Liverpool, at least, it was soon shortened to brill (Ann Irving, May 1979), and this spread to the Midlands by late 1979.

brilliant stark-naked. See brilliant, 1, and stark-naked.

brim, n. A harlot: late C.17–mid-19. (B.E.; Bailey.) Cf. sense 3.—2. A mermaid; an angry, violent woman: from ca. 1780.—3. In late C.19–20 c., a fearless harlot. Abbr. brimstone.

brim, v. (Of a man) to have intercourse; v.t., with. C.17–18, sporting. (B.E.) Ex the copulation of boar with sow.

brimmer. A hat with a brim, esp. if big: mid-C.17–early 18; coll. at first, then S.E.—2. A var. of brim, 1, q.v.: c. of ca. 1820–50. Bee.

brimstone. A virago, a spitfire: from ca. 1700; coll. verging on S.E.; ob. by 1890. "Oh, madam," said the bishop, "do you not know what a brimstone of a wife he had?" (Bishop Burnet, 1712).—2. Also, a harlot: from ca. 1690. (B.E.) Both ex brimstone, sulphur, which is notably flammable.

brimstone and treacle. Flowers of sulphur and dark treacle: domestic coll.: from ca. 1880. Collinson.

brinded pig will make a good brown to breed upon, a. 'A red-headed man will make a good stallion' (Ray's Proverbs): ca. 1670–1760. Apperson.

brindle. A half-caste: Aus.: C.20. Vance Palmer, Legend for Sanderson, 1937.

briney or briny, the. The sea: coll.: (1856). (Whyte-Melville, Kate Coventry.) Cf. Dick Swiveller's use of the mazy and the rosy: W.—2. Hence, do the briny, to weep: low: mid-C.19–20; ob. ('Cuthbert Bede'; Baumann.) See main, turn on the.

bring. To steal: ca. 1820–60. Bee, who cites a v.i. sense: 'Dogs are said "to bring well", when they run off with goods for their masters.'

bring anything with you? or, in full, did you ... A Can. c.p. of ca. 1950–60. Meaning, 'Have you any narcotics on you?' (Leechman.)

bring down the house or bring the house down. To be heartily applauded (—1754). Coll. until ca. 1895, then S.E. 'His apprehension that your statues will bring the house down' (The World, 1754); 'Why, it would ... bring down the house' ('Cuthbert Bede', 1853).

bring-em-back-alive (So-and-so). A big-game hunter that caters for zoos: C.20.

bring-em-near. A telescope: nautical: late C.18–20. Bowen; Peppitt.

bring (one's) heart up. To vomit: coll.: C.18–20. Cf. quo'tn at heart up.

bring home the bacon. To succeed in a given undertaking: 1924 (P.G. Wodehouse: OED Sup.).

bring in. (Of a jury) to find, e.g. guilty: coll.:—1888. 'The jury brought her in not guilty.'

bring in a cooler. "bringing in a cooler", which meant switching the whole pack, after shuffling and cutting, for another in which the order of the cards had been specially arranged' (Charles Drage, Two-Gun Cohen, 1954): Can. card-sharps': early C.20. (P.B.) bring it away. To effect an abortion: coll.: C.20.

bring it up – it might be a gold watch! An 'ironic c.p. addressed to a man who is coughing and hawking' (L.A., 1976): since late 1940s. Cf. bring up.

bring-me-back-alive. 'A member of an Australian anti-aircraft unit' (B., 1942): Diggers': 1940+.

bring off. (Of a girl) to induce an orgasm in (a man); less often, (of a man) in a girl: coll.: probably since C.16. In C.20, to be classified as (familiar) S.E., even though the expression is completely ignored by the standard dictionaries: cf. the next, which it complements.

bring on. To excite sexually: coll.: prob. since C.16. (In C.20, familiar S.E.—yet unrecorded by the standard dictionaries.)—2. Hence, to delight, to please (someone) very much: Korean front: ca. 1954–5. Cf. bring off. P.B.: usu. in negative, as (of an objectionable person), 'I can't stand him. He doesn't bring me on one little fucking bit.'

bring on the carpet. To bring (a matter) up or forward for discussion: from ca. 1720; coll. till C.19, when S.E. Lit., bring on the table (before the council, etc.), for carpets 'covered tables ... before they were used for floors' (W.).

bring on the (or one's) china. To effect the orgasm: low: earlier C.20. An elab. of bring on, 1.

bring on the dancing girls! Let's watch, or do, something more exciting, this is a crashing bore: c.p.: since ca. 1930. Ex Eastern potentates, bored with their guests, ordering the dancers to appear. P.B.: the c.p. is occ. used also before the onset of some informal entertainment, e.g. charades at a party.

bring to book. Cause to show authority, genuineness; investigate; hence, detect: coll., C.19–20. Orig., to ask chapter and verse for a statement. Cf. drive to the book.

bring to light. This may orig. have been s. or even c. Vaux, 1812, 'A thief, urging his associates to a division of any booty they have lately made, will desire them to bring the swag to light.'

bring up, v.i. and t. To vomit: coll.: from ca. 1830.

bring us back a parrot? Addressed to someone leaving for a hot country: c.p., late C.19–mid-20. A var. was bring me back a monkey.

brinkmanship. The practice of seeing just how far one can go in a situation already hazardous: adopted, ca. 1961, ex US: coll. >, by 1964, S.E. On the very brink of the precipice.—2. Hence, the ability to win an advantage over a business, or other, competitor, esp. a position leaving this unfortunate with no genuine option: coll.: since ca. 1966; by 1975, S.E. (Based on L.A.'s note of mid-1976.)

brinny. A stone: Aus.: C.20. (B., 1959.) Ex an Aboriginal word?

briny, the. See briney.

Bris. Brisbane: Aus. coll.: C.20. (Cecil Mann, The River, 1945.) Cf. Brissie.

brisby. A coll. form (1923) of brise-bise, a net or lace curtain for the lower part of a window. OED Sup.

Brisfit. A Bristol fighter: RFC and early RAF: ca. 1915–19. Jackson.

Brish. British: Aus. (esp. Sydney): since ca. 1943. Ex a drunken pronunciation of British. (Elisabeth Lambert, 1951.)

brisk as a bee or as a bee in a tar-pot. (C.18–20, latterly dial.), as in Fielding, and brisk as bottled ale (C.18), as in Gay. Very lively: coll. Apperson. Cf. body-louse, q.v.

brisk up (occ. about). To enliven or animate: coll.: 1864 (Dickens: OED).

brisket. The chest: low Aus.:—1916 (C.J. Dennis). Significantly cf.:

brisket-beater. A Roman Catholic: late C.18–19. (Grose, 1st ed.; H., 2nd–5th edd.) Cf. breast fleet, craw-thumper, and brisket, q.v.

brisket-cut. A punch on the breast or collar-bone: pugilistic: ca. 1820–50. Bee.

briskets. Female breasts: market-traders': since ca. 1925. (M.T.) Prob. by a pun, borrowed from butchers, for Chambers's Twentieth Century Dict., 1977, defines brisket as 'The part of the breast next to the ribs.' (P.B.)

Brissie. Brisbane: Aus. coll.: C.20. Cf. Bris. Also Brizzie (Wilkes).

bristler, gen. pl. A (better-class) motor-car commandeered, in that Spanish civil war which commenced in July 1936, by the combatants, who therein rush about the streets and shoot indiscriminately all such persons as come within range: among the English colony in Spain (The Times, 6 Aug. 1936): ephemeral.

bristles, bristle dice. C.19, C.16–19 resp.; perhaps c. Dice falsified by the insertion of bristles. Bristles occurs in Scott's novel of the underworld, The Fortunes of Nigel.

Bristol, n. A visiting-card: Society: ca. 1830–1914. Ware, 'From the date when these articles were printed upon Bristol—i.e. cardboard'.

Bristol, v. See PIDDLYWINKS, in Appendix.

Bristol hog. A (male) native of Bristol: late C.18—mid-19, The Night Watch, 1829, I, 314. (Moe.) Cf. Hampshire hog.

Bristol man. 'The son of an Irish thief and a Welch whore' (Lex. Bal.): low: ca. 1810–50. Because both of those worthies would geographically tend to drift to Bristol.

Bristol milk. Sherry; esp. rich sherry: from ca. 1660; coll. till ca. 1800, then S.E. (Prynne, Fuller, Grose, Macaulay.) Ex the large quantities of sherry imported, in C.17–18, into England by way of Bristol.

Bristol stone. Sham diamond(s): C.17–18. In S.E., to this day, the term Bristol diamond or gem or stone denotes a transparent rock-crystal found in the limestone at Clifton, that beautiful outer suburb of Bristol.

Bristols. The female breasts: C.20. Rhyming: Bristol Cities on titties. P.B.: ex Bristol City 'Soccer' Club (as opp. Bristol Rovers), and prob. influenced by breasts—otherwise why not one of the other 'City' football teams, e.g. Leicester?

Brit. A Briton: coll.: C.20. In widespread use, esp. outside the UK.—2. A member of the British Israelite sect: coll.: C.20. Usu. in pl.

britch. (Gen. the britch.) The C.20 form of brigh, but specifically a side trousers-pocket. Cf. outer.

Britcom, adj. British Commonwealth of Nations: among the United Nations forces in Korea: ca. 1951–5. It hovers between j. and coll.

British. Shares in the North British Railway: Stock Exchange coll. (—1895) soon > j.; now only historical. A.J. Wilson's Glossary.—2. As a pej. adj., ca. 1910–14 at Oxford, it corresponded to hearty, q.v.

British Ass, the. The British Association for the Advancement of Science; scientific coll.: from ca. 1870.

British Brainwashing Corporation, The. The British Broadcasting Corporation: since the late 1950s. A ref. to veiled-propaganda programmes.

British champagn(e). Porter: ca. 1810–40. (Lex. Bal.) Cf. English burgundy.

British Common, the. The sea: ?late C.17–18. Literary rather than nautical coll., I'd say. Peppitt refers me to a Joseph Addison letter to the Spectator (1711–12, and revived, by Addison, in 1714).

British constitution, unable to say. Drunk: coll.: late C.19–20; ob.

British Museum religion. Anglican ceremonialists advocating the precise following of medieval uses: ecclesiastical pej. coll.: ca. 1899–1902.

British official, n. and adj. Unreliable (news): military coll.:

Oct. 1915–June 1918. Before and after these dates, official communications were trustworthy and regarded as such. See esp. B. & P.; cf. bulletin, q.v.

British roarer. The heraldic lion: non-aristocratic: from ca. 1880; ob. Ware.

British Standard Handfuls. See B.S.H.S.

British treasury note. A blanket: NZ army: WW1. Ex thinness of many army blankets.

British warm. A short, thick overcoat worn at first by senior, later by all, officers: army coll. > j.: C.20.

Briton, a. A good fellow; a staunch friend; a loyal, helpful person. Coll.: from ca. 1890.

Britons never shall be slaves – not willingly;... wage slaves. These are c.p. adaptations of 'Britons never, never, never shall be slaves'; since ca. 1925.

Brits. See Brit, 2.—2. In have the brits up, to be alarmed, afraid: Aus.: C.20. (B., 1942.) Rhyming s., on shits.

Brits' violets. An East African campaign term of 1917–18, as in F. Brett Young, Jim Redlake, 1930: 'Doomed horses ... fed till they dropped, and became, in their noisome end, what the soldiers called "Brits' violets".' Brits commanded a contingent of Boers in German East Africa.

Brit(t), the. The Britannia Theatre: Cockney: ca. 1860–1910.

Brixton shuffle, the. 'Old lags ... walk with a curious clipped gait ... known as "The Brixton shuffle".' It is a product of the prison exercise yard, where prisoners ... had to avoid treading on the heels of the man in front' (John Gosling, The Ghost Squad, 1959): police s.: since ca. 1920.

bro. Brother: perhaps orig. Public Schools, then wider usage, esp. among boys: 'my bro': C.20. Cf. the Yorkshire and Lancashire broo.

broach, on the. 'Stocking the bars with wines, spirits, and barrels of beer' (Dave Marlowe, Coming, Sir!, 1937): ships' stewards': C.20. Ex the broaching of casks.

broach claret. To draw blood: boxing: from ca. 1820; ob. by 1930.

broad, n. A 20-shilling piece: low: C.17–19. An early example occurs in anon., The Bragadocio, 1691, at IV, ii. (Moe; Bowen.) Whence, prob., broads, 2, q.v.—2. A light giving flat, overall lighting. See MOVING-PICTURE SLANG, §3, in Appendix. "Hit that broad" and "hot that broad" are orders to light up and to focus a floodlight, Evening News, 7 Nov. 1939: cinema: since ca. 1930.—3. A girl, esp. one readily available: Can.: adopted, ca. 1925, ex US. Tempest, 1950, 'broad. Popular Americanism for "half-brass". Used by those who affect Americanisms. A "broad" is a girl or woman of easy virtue who does not take money.'—4. Backside: Aus.: since ca. 1940. A.M. Harris, The Tall Man, 1958, 'What about the blokes sitting on their broads in Seoul?' This, and sense 3, perhaps ex broad in the beam.—5. As the Broad, Broad Street, Oxford: Oxford undergraduates': from 1890s. Collinson.—6. See broads.

broad, adj. Alert, 'knowing': late C.19—early 20. Suggested by wide, q.v.

broad and shallow. adj. Middle-way: applied to the 'Broad' Church, as opp. to the 'High' and 'Low' Churches: coll.: ca. 1854; ob. Cf. high and dry and low and slow.

broad-arse(d), (A person) 'broad in the beam': low coll.: late C.19–20.

broad as it's long (or long as it's broad), it's as. It makes no difference; it comes to the same thing either way. From ca. 1650 (Roger Boyle, Guzman, 1669, at V, ii, cited by Moe); in C.19–20, S.E.

Broad-bottoms. The coalition ministry of 1741 was called the Broad Bottom: '... the reigning cant [i.e. vogue] word, ... the taking all parties and people, indifferently, into the ministry' (Walpole). A similar ministry in 1807 was described as the Broad Bottoms. Both were coll.; in histories, however, they are S.E.: cf. Rump, the.

broad-brim. A Quaker: 1712, ob.; coll. (The Spectator, Fielding.) Ex the Quakers' broad-brimmed hats.—2. Ca. 1840–90, any quiet, sedate old man. H.—3. Hence broad-brimmed, Quakerish; sedate: from ca. 1700; coll.; ob.

broad-brimmer. A broad-brimmed hat: coll.: ca. 1855–1900.

broad brush, n. and adj. (In) general outline, without details, as 'Let me just give you the broad brush picture': army officers' coll.: since late 1960s. (P.B., 1974.)

broad-cooper. A brewers' negotiator with publicans; he is an aristocrat among 'commercials'. Brewers, ca. 1850–1914. H., 3rd ed.

broad cove. A card-sharper (—1821; † by 1920): c. See broads.

broad-faker. A card-player; esp., a card-sharper: C.19–20 c.

broad-faking. Card-playing, esp. if shady; also three-card trickery: c.; from ca. 1855. H., 2nd ed., erroneously gives it as brad.

broad-fencer. A 'correct card' seller at horse-races: c.: from ca. 1850. H., 1st ed.

Broad Fourteens, the. Part of the North Sea off Ymuiden: nautical coll.: mid-C.19–20.

broad-gauge lady. A large-hipped woman: railway officials' (ca. 1880) >, by 1884, gen.; † by 1900. Ware.

broad in the beam. (Of a person) broad-seated: orig. nautical, > gen.: C.19–20.

broad-man. A card-sharper: C.20 c. (Edgar Wallace, Again the Ringer, 1929.) Ex broadsman.

broad mob, the. 'Broadsman': c.: late C.19–20. David Hume.

broad-player. An expert card-player, not necessarily a sharper; c. (—1812); ob. Vaux.

broad-pitcher. A man with a three-card-trick 'outfit': c.: from the 1860s. B. Hemyng, Out of the Ring, 1870.

broad R, the. 'Run away, deserted': naval coll.: late C.18–mid-19. Bill Truck, Feb. 1826.

Broad-Strippers. Royal Marine Artillery: naval: C.19. (Bowen.) Opp. Narrow-Strippers.

broads. Playing cards: c. from ca. 1780; ob. George Parker, Vaux, Ainsworth, Charles E. Leach. Whence broadsman. —2. Money in coin: c. or low:—1923 (Manchon).—3. 'Identity cards. Any papers of identification, such as ration cards, insurance book, etc.' (Tempest, 1950); Powis, 1977, adds 'and recently, credit cards': c. Ex sense 1.—4. See fake the broads.

broadsman. A card-sharper: from ca. 1850: c. (H., 2nd ed., Charles E. Leach.) Ex broads, q.v. Cf. broad-man.—2. Hence, specifically, an exponent of the three-card trick: c.: since ca. 1920. Stanley Jackson, An Indiscreet Guide to Soho, 1946.

broady. Cloth: coll., somewhat low: from ca. 1850. (Mayhew.) Ex broadcloth.—2. Hence, in c., anything worth stealing: from before 1890.

broady-worker. A seller or vile shoddy as excellent and, esp., stolen material: ca. 1845–1914; c.

brock, n. A dirty fellow, a 'skunk': late C.16–19; coll. verging on S.E. Ex brock, a badger.

brock, v. To bully; tease: Winchester College: mid-C.19–20, ob. Ex:—2. To taunt; to chaff: Ibid.: ca. 1800–1850. (Wrench.) Perhaps ex Ger. brocken. P.B.: ?or ex badger-baiting.

Brock's benefit. Very lights, star-shells, etc., over the front line: military: 1915–18. F. & G., 'From the annual firework display at the Crystal Palace [staged by Messrs Brock, the justly famous makers of fireworks]'. Hence, in RN since 1939, 'any pyrotechnic display of gunfire' (Granville); esp. 1939–45. 'Bomber slang for a particularly large display of enemy searchlights, flares, and ack-ack fire' (H. & P., 1943); in 1940–1, the spectacular aspect of a heavy German air raid: E.P., 'Air Warfare' in New Statesman, 19 Sep. 1942.

brockster. (Winchester College): a bully: a persistent teaser: mid-C.19–20. Cf. brock, v., 1.

brodrick. The peaked cap worn by the British soldier: from ca. 1902: military s. >, by 1925, coll. >, by 1930, j. Ex St John Brodrick, Secretary for War (1900–3). W.—2. Brodrick or little Brodrick, a soldier of inferior physique: military coll.: 1903–ca. 1914. Ex his lowering of the standard. OED Sup.

broganeer, broganier. 'One who has a strong Irish pronunciation or accent' (Grose, 1st ed.): coll.: latish C.18–early 19. Ex brogue.

brogues. Breeches: Christ's Hospital (School), C.19–20; ob. Coll. rather than s., for in mid-C.19 S.E. it meant either hose or trousers.

broiler. A very hot day: from ca. 1815: in C.20, S.E. Cf. roaster, scorcher.

broke. Bankrupt; very short of money. Often—e.g. in N. Kingsley, 1851—dead or—e.g. in G.R. Sims, 1887—stone broke. Coll.; from ca. 1820. (In S.E., C.15–18.) A form of broken now † in S.E. but gen. enough as a sol.—2. Dismissed from the Service: RN officers' coll.: late C.19–20.

broke for. In need of, esp. broke for a feed, hungry: Aus. coll.: C.20. B., 1942.

broke to the wide. Penniless: coll.: since ca. 1910. Var. of next entry, prompted by S.E. the wide, wide world.

broke to the world. Penniless: coll.: since ca. 1915. A var. of prec.; both are elab. on broke, 1.

broken feather in one wing, have a. To have a stain on one's character: C.19–20, ob.; coll. verging on S.E. Mrs Oliphant in Phæbe, 1880.

broken glass. See smell of broken glass.

broken her leg at the church-door, she hath. From a hard-working girl she has, on being married, become a slattern: coll. and (mainly Cheshire) dial. Apperson. Contrast the phrases at broken-legged.

Broken Hill. A silver coin: Aus.: since ca. 1920. (B., 1943.) Ex the famous silver-lead-mining centre.

broken knees, have. (Of a woman) to have been seduced or devirginated: lower classes': C.19–20; ob. B. & L. Cf.:—

broken-kneed. Of a girl or woman seduced: C.18–20; ob.; coll. Ex farrery. Cf. ankle (sprain one's) and:— broken-legged, ppl adj. Seduced: coll.: C.17–early 20. More gen. is the semi-proverbial coll. form, she hath broken her leg (occ. elbow) above the knee. (Beaumont & Fletcher, Cibber, Grose.) Cf. the C.19–20 Craven dial. he hath broken his leg, of 'a dissolute person on whom a child has been filiated', and contrast broken her leg (as above).

broken-mouth. An old sheep: Aus. rural coll.: late C.19–20. B., 1959.

broken-square. An allusive army insult of late C.19. See fusilier.

broker. A pedlar or monger: pej.: late C.14–18; S.E. till C.17, when it > coll.—2. In late C.16–early 17 c., a receiver of stolen goods. Greene in 2nd Cony-Catching.—3. broker; gen. dead-broker; occ. stony-broker. A person either ruined or penniless: coll.: from ca. 1890.

brokered, be. To suffer a visitation by the brokers: lower classes': from 1897; ob. Ware.

brokko. A lowerdeck name or nickname for a spotty-faced messmate: RN: since ca. 1920. P-G-R.

broolly. An umbrella: from ca. 1873; in C.20, coll. (H., 5th ed., 1874; Punch, 6 June 1885.) F. & H.: 'First used at Winchester, being subsequently adopted at both Oxford and Cambridge Universities'.—2. A parachute: RAF, esp. pilots': since ca. 1930. Sgt-Pilot John Beard, DFM, in Michie & Graebner's Their Finest Hour, 1940. Derivatively:—

broolly-hop. A parachute jump: RAF:—1932 (Slang, p. 259). Also as v., with frequent vbl n., broolly-hopping (Daily Express, 27 June 1934): broolly and broolly-hop ob. by mid-C.20.

bromide. A commonplace person or saying; a cliché: US, 1906 ('coined' by Gelett Burgess, who truly did coin blurb), anglicised by 1909; by 1930, coll. E.g. C.E. Bechofer Roberts, Passing Show, 16 June 1934, 'Bassett occasionally put in a booming bromide.' Ex bromide, 'a dose of bromide of potassium taken as a sedative' (OED Sup.).

bromidic. Of the nature of a 'bromide' (q.v.): US (1906) anglicised ca. 1910; now coll. (Ibid.) bronch, v. See quat'n at bag, v., 8.

Brompton Boilers. See Boilers.

Bronc(h)o. The inevitable nickname of men surnamed Rider (Ryder): military: C.20. Cf. Buck, q.v., and:— bronco-buster. A breaker-in of broncos, coll., US (1880s) anglicised by 1897. OED Sup.

bronza or bronzor is the predominantly post-1950 form of bronzo, ex bronze, 4, anus.—2. Hence, backside: low Aus.: since ca. 1925. D'Arcy Niland, The Big Smoke, 1959.

bronze, n. Impudence: from ca. 1760; app. † by 1850. It occurs, as a new word, in George Colman, The Jealous Wife, 1761:

LADY FREELOVE: ... Falsehood would scarce ever be detected, if we had confidence enough to support it.

LORD TRINKET: Nay, I don't want [=lack] bronze upon occasion.

Cf. synon. brass.—2. A cheat, deception, humbug: ca. 1815–60. Blackwood's, no. 1, 1817. Cf. sense 1.—3. A penny: Aus.: since ca. 1920. Baker.—4. Anus: Aus.: since ca. 1920. Hence the var. bronzo, since ca. 1935. B., 1953.

bronze, v.t. from prec., 2: same period. OED.

bronzer. See bronza.

bronzewing. A member of the lower classes: Aus. P.B.: but Wilkes has 'A half-caste Aboriginal: N.T. and W.A. (from colour of bronzewing pigeon).'

bronzie (usu. in pl.). Australians. See PRISONER-OF-WAR SLANG, §8, in Appendix.

bronze. See bronze, n., 4.

broody. Very thoughtful and taciturn; sullenly silent, with the implication of hatching a plan; in the army, lethargic, slack, sleepy: coll.: C.20. (F. & G.) Ex fowls inclined to sit, a C.16–20 S.E. sense. (Earlier in dial.)—2. (Of women) full of maternal feeling, as 'When I saw Sue's new baby, I came over all broody—almost wanted another of my own': C.20. Ex the S.E. (P.B.)

Brooklands can. 'A form of silencer compulsory on racing machines at Brooklands from about 1920 until the circuit closed in 1939' (Dunford): motorcyclists'.

brooks. (A pair of) trousers: S. African coll.:—1913. Ex Dutch. Pettman.

Brooks of Sheffield. This conveys a warning to be careful as to names: middle classes' c.p.: ca. 1850–1910. (Ware.) Ex David Copperfield, where David is thus referred to by Mr Murdstone.

broom. A warrant: C.18–19, coll.; mainly dial. Also, the putenda muliebricia: C.19–20, low; whence broomstick, the male member. Cf. C.19–20 Scottish besom, a low woman.—2. In get a broom!, cancel it!: RAF: ca. 1935–45. (Jackson.) I.e. 'sweep it away!'; ex scrub, 4, and familiar S.E. wash out, 'to cancel'.

broom, v. (gen. broom it). To depart; run away: low: late C.18–19. (Moncrieff, 1821.) Suggested by sweep away.

broom-squires. Mainly gipsy squatters that, esp. in the New Forest, earn a living by making brooms out of heath: C.19–20; after ca. 1900, S.E. See esp. Eden Philpotts, The Broom Squires, 1932.

broom-tail; hence often broomie. A mustang (esp. a mare) with a short bushy tail: Can. coll.: adopted, ca. 1920, ex US.

broom up (at the mast-head), she carries the. She's a whore: a seaport c.p. of ca. 1820–90. (Bee.) Ex that broom which, attached to the mast-head, signified that a ship was sold.

broombee. See brumbie.

broomie. A boy that keeps his shearing floor swept clean: Aus. rural coll.: C.20. (Baker.) The NZ sheep-shearer's definition is 'the sweeper on the shearing board'. Straight Furrow (the official organ of the Federated Farmers of New Zealand), 21 Feb. 1968. (Thanks to Mr Harold Griffiths.)

brooming-off. The unscrupulous or "sharp" cab driver's practice, when he is at the head of a cab rank (at the "pin position"), of refusing an unprofitable hiring and passing the intended hirer back along the cab line to a driver who will take the hiring. A practice often causing extreme bad feeling between cab drivers' (Powis, 1977.)

broomstick. A rough cricket bat, of one piece of wood. Coll.; from ca. 1870; ob.—2. A worthless bail: C.19 low. Vaux.—3. See broom, n.—4. A rifle or shot-gun: Can. (—1909); ob. Ware.—5. In jump (over) the or hop the or marry over the broomstick. The first, C.18–20; the second and third, C.19–20:

all coll. and ob. Though unmarried, to live as man and wife: in ref. to the pretence-marriage ceremony performed by both parties jumping over a stick. The ceremony itself = a broomstick wedding. Cf. jump the besom, and Westminster wedding. Cf. synon., and extant, live over the brush.—6. See enough to charm ...

Broomstick Army, the. The Local Defence Volunteers, later the Home Guard, of WW2: civilian—only very rarely Servicemen's during the war and not since—almost entirely since 1945, as in the BBC TV comedy series 'Dad's Army', ca. 1968 and later: coll. rather than s. (Petch.) Ex the broomsticks with which the early members drilled before rifles became available.

broseley. A pipe, esp. in cock a broseley, smoke a pipe: ca. 1815–90 (Moe cites The Virginia Literary Museum, 17 June 1829.) Broseley, in Shropshire, was famous for its 'church-wardens'.

brosier, brozier, n. A boy with no more pocket-money: Eton College: from ca. 1830; ob. Ex Cheshire brozier, a bankrupt. Cf. gen. coll. brozied, ruined, penniless, bankrupt: late C.18—early 19.

brosier, brozier, v. To clear the table or the larder of: Eton: mid-C.19–20, ob. (Rev. W. Rogers, Reminiscences, 1888.) Ex brosier, n.; cf.:-

brosier- or brozier-my-dame, v. and n. (To make) a clearance of the housekeeper's larder: Eton College: from ca. 1835.

broth. Breath: low: late C.19–20.—2. In take (one's) broth, to drink (liquor): mid-C.18—mid-19 nautical. Grose, 3rd ed. (s.v. capsize).—3. See lunatic broth.

broth of a boy, a. A real, an essential boy: coll.; Byron in Don Juan, 1822. Orig. and mainly Anglo-Irish. Ex the effervescence of broth; or perhaps rather 'the essence of manhood, as broth is the essence of meat' (P.W. Joyce).

brothel(-creepers). Suède shoes: Army (mostly officers') and Navy: 1939+. Cf. creepers, q.v.—2. Hence, since 1940 in Army and RAF, those short, suède, desert boots made with rubber soles made from old 'run-flat' tyres and manufactured in Egypt for use in the desert. (Peter Sanders, who adds 'Completely silent'.)

Brothels. Brussels: army: late 1944–5. John Prebble, The Edge of Darkness, 1947.

brother! A mild exclamation, esp. of surprise at something unpleasant: Aus.: adopted, ca. 1943, ex US. (B.P.). Also much used by West Indian immigrants to the UK: during the 1960s, and later. (R.S., 1970.)

brother blade. A fellow-soldier; one of the same trade or profession (cf. brother chip): coll.: C.19–20, ob.—2. In mid-C.17–18, brother of the blade, a swordsman, hence a soldier: coll. B.E., Grose, Ainsworth.

brother bung. A fellow-publican: London taverns': from ca. 1880. Ware.

brother chip. A fellow-carpenter: C.18. In C.19–20, one of the same calling or trade: as in Clare's Poems of Rural Life, 1820. Mainly provincial. Coll.

brother of the angle. A fellow-angler; an angler: from ca. 1650; ob. Coll. > S.E. Walton.

brother of the blade. See brother blade, 2.

brother of the brush. An artist: coll.: late C.17–20.—2. A house-painter: C.19–20.

brother of the bung. A brewer; a fellow-brewer: coll.: late C.18–20, ob. (Grose, 1st ed.) Cf. bung, n., and brother bung.

brother of the buskin. A (fellow-)player, actor: late C.18–20 coll., ob. Grose, 1st ed.

brother of the coif. A serjeant-at-law: C.18–19 coll. (Addison, Grose.) Ex coif, a close-fitting white cap formerly worn by lawyers, esp. serjeants-at-law.

brother of the gusset. A pimp, a procurer, a whoremaster: late C.17–19: coll. (B.E., Grose.) Cf. placket.

brother of the quill. An author: late C.17–20 coll. B.E.; Martin's Dict. (2nd ed.), 1754.

brother of the string. A fiddler; a musician: coll., late C.17–20, ob. B.E. brother of the whip. A coachman: coll., mid-C.18–20. The World, 1756.

brother on (one's) back, have a (or one's). To be round-shouldered: RAF: since ca. 1925; †. (Sgt Gerald Emanuel, 1945.)

brother smut. Gen. in ditto, brother (rarely sister) smut: the same to you!; you too: mid-C.19–20 coll. (H., 5th ed.) Cf. pot calling the kettle black.

brother starling. A man sharing another's mistress: late C.17–early 19. B.E., Grose.

brother-where-art-thou. A drunk man: late C.19–20. Manchon, '... Qui cherche toujours son camarade en lui demandant où es-tu?'

brought down. 'To be elated (from drugs) and then suddenly unexpectedly depressed' (Home Office): addicts': current in 1970s.

brought up all standing. Nonplussed. See all standing. brought up with a round turn. To be suddenly or unexpectedly checked: RN coll.: C.19–20. P-G-R.

Broughtonian. A boxer: coll.: ca. 1750–1800. (Grose, 1st ed.) Ex Broughton, the champion of England ca. 1730–5.

Broughton mark. The pit of the stomach. See mark, n., 7.

brow, the. The gangway: RN coll.: C.19–20. P-G-R.

brown, n. A halfpenny; a 'copper': from ca. 1810; low until ca. 1830. Vaux, 1812; Barham, 'The magic effect of ... crowns Upon people whose pockets boast nothing but browns'. —2. Porter, whereas heavy brown = stout: Corcoran's The Fancy, 1820. Both, C.19.—3. Twopenn'orth of whiskey: Mooney's, The Strand, London (—1909); † by 1920. Ware. —4. An error or blunder: RAF: since ca. 1935. (Partridge, 1945.) Also brown show. Less discreditable than a black. —5. Often a bit of brown, an act of sodomy, brown or the brown being generic: ?mid-C.19–20. Ex:—6. The anus: low: mid-C.19–20. With senses 5 and 6, cf. good old brown: a C.20 Can. c.p. implying sodomy: with a pun on the surname as well as on the common noun. See v., 4.—7. In into the brown, (shooting) at the brown stripe on the side of an antelope; the brown is also applied to a moving herd of springbok. S. African coll.: 1898, G. Nicholson, Fifty Years in South Africa. (Pettman.) Ex:—8. fire into the brown, i.e. 'into the midst of a covey instead of singling out a bird': John Mayer, The Sportsman's Directory, 7th ed., 1845, 'Always aim at one particular bird, not firing at random at the whole covey, or into the brown of them' (Dr D. Pechtold): coll. >, by 1910, S.E. Hence also fig., from ca. 1885.

brown, v. To do perfectly; hence, to worst: from ca. 1870; † by 1930. See do brown. —2. Understand: ca. 1830–1930. See also brown to. —3. To fire indiscriminately at: 1873 (OED Sup.): coll. >, by 1910, S.E. See n., 7 and 8.—4. To bugger: low: C.20. Cf. n., 5, and synon. low do a brown.

brown, adj. Alert (to), familiar (with): from ca. 1820. J. Bee, Picture of London, 1828.—2. For roast brown, see roast, v., 2.

brown-back. A 10-shilling currency note! The first such notes, issued 1914–28, were red, or red and green. 'Brown-backs' were in circulation 1928–40 and 1948–70; the 1940–8 issue were mauve. Contrast green-back, 3, q.v. The term was rendered † by the 50-pence coin, sometimes called, nostalgically, a 'ten-bob piece (or bit)' for a few years after decimalisation in 1971.

brown bag, n.; brown-bag, v., whence brown-bagger. Hard work, with no social or sporting life; to live this sort of life; one who does it: Imperial College, London (—1940). Ex the little brown bags these students are reputed to carry. Marples, 2.—2. In the Army, 1950s and 60s, brown-bagger, a married soldier coming to barracks every day from his married quarter, carrying his lunch in a briefcase. (P.B.)
brown Bess. A harlot: C.17, coll.—2. The old regulation flint-lock musket: coll., C.18–19. Recorded first in Grose, 1st ed., but prob. used much earlier; brown musquet occurs in 1708. Ex the brown stock, the frequent browning of the barrel, and the soldier's devotion to the weapon: cf. the WW1 soldier's best friend, a rifle, and the Ger. Braut, the soldier's bride. Hence, hug brown Bess, to serve as a private soldier: ca. 1780–1850; coll. Grose, 1st ed.—3. Yes: rhyming s.:—1859 (H., 1st ed.); ob. by 1930.

brown Bessie. Var. of brown Bess, 1: C.17. B. & L.

brown bomber. A car warden: Aus.: since ca. 1935. 'They wear a brown uniform. I believe that Joe Louis—"the Brown Bomber"—was top boxer at the time these policemen were introduced' (B.P.). P.B.: Max Harris, in the Sydney Bulletin, 2 Mar. 1982, p. 34, notes that this is strictly a Sydneyism; in S. Aus. a traffic warden is a sticker lick.

brown bread. Dead: rhyming s.: later C.20. Ronnie Barker, Fletcher's Book..., 1979.

brown cow. A barrel of beer: C.18–early 19: coll.

brown creatures. Bronchitis: lower classes':—1923 (Manchon). Cf. Bill Harris and Corporal Forbes, resp. bilharzia and cholera morbus.

brown food. Beer: Services', but rarely RAF and mostly in the Navy: since ca. 1925. (H. & P.) Ex colour and (former) substantiality of beer.

brown George. A loaf of coarse brown bread, prob. munition-bread: late C.17–early 19: orig. naval and military s., then gen. coll. Randle Holme; Grose.—2. Also, a hard, coarse biscuit: late C.18–19: coll. Smyth.—3. Hence, ca. 1780–1850, a brown wig: coll. in C.19.—4. Hence also, an earthenware jug, orig. and gen. brown: from ca. 1860; soon coll. and, in C.20, S.E. Hughes, Tom Brown at Oxford. (The OED gives all four senses as always S.E., but the very name almost proves a s. or coll. birth.)

brown hat. A cat: rhyming s.: late C.19–20. B. & P.

brown-hatter. A male homosexual: RN: since ca. 1910. (Walter Baxter, Look Down in Mercy, 1951.) By 1945, at latest, common in the other Services and, by 1950, among civilians. Also brownie. Powis, 1977, notes 'specifically, one of wealth or position.'

brown Janet. A knapsack: nautical: mid-C.19–20; ob. In dial. as early as 1788 (EDD).

Brown Job, the. The Army; a brown job, a soldier: RAF since ca. 1920 (H. & P.) and RN since 1939 (Granville). From the colour of the uniform; see job, n., 8.

brown Joe. Rhyming s. for 'no!' (Cf. brown Bess, yes!) From ca. 1855; ob. H., 1st ed.—2. To know: Aus. rhyming s.:—1945 (Baker, 1945).

Brown Josephs (coll.), or Brown Joeys (s.), the. The Sisters of St Joseph (a group different from the Black Josephs): Aus. Catholics' coll.: C.20. (B.P.)

brown madam. (Var. Miss Brown) The female pudend: late C.18–early 19: low. Grose, in his 2nd ed., defines it as 'The monosyllable'.

brown-nose, n. and v. (To be) a toady, a sycophant: C.20: low. Cf. bum-sucker.

Brown Nurses, the. Our Lady's Nurses: Aus. Catholics' coll.: C.20. (B.P.)

brown off, v.t. To cause a man to be browned off, q.v.: army since ca. 1920; RAF since ca. 1928. H. & P.—2. V.i. To become tired of: RAF: from ca. 1920; ob.—3. V.t. To treat brusquely, send about one's business; to warn for a duty ('I'm browned off for guard duty to-night'): former nuance (army) since ca. 1930; latter (army and RN) since ca. 1938 (Granville). James Curtis, You're in the Racket Too, 1937; a Service example occurs in Gerald Kersh, 1941. Wrongly posed by Berrey thus 'to brown off, to be bored, fed up': in this sense it is always to be browned off.

brown one. See back stick.

brown-out Romeo. A man given to molesting females in darkened streets: Aus.: 1941–5. (B., 1943.) Ex brown-out, a partial black-out.

brown paper. Caper (= 'game' or trick): rhyming s. Hillman, 1974, writes 'always used in full, as in "Wass yaw bran paper nen, mate?"' brown-paper men. Low gamblers: c. of ca. 1850–1900. (H., 1st ed.) They play for pence or 'browns'.

brown-paper warrant. A warrant for boatswains, carpenters, etc., granted and cancellable by the captain: naval: C.19. (Bowen.) Ex colour thereof and in allusion to the uses to which brown paper is put.

brown polish. A mulatto: late C.19—early 20. (Ware.) Cf. Day and Martin, q.v.

brown salve! A term indicative of surprise coupled with understanding: ca. 1850–70. H., 1st ed.

brown shell; gen. pl. An onion: proletarian: mid-C.19–20. B. & L.

brown show. A fairly minor blunder. See brown, n., 4.

brown talk. Very 'proper' conversation: coll., from ca. 1700; ob. Cf. brown study, C.16–20, serious thoughts, in C.20 an idle reverie,—B.E., by the way, considered it as either s. or coll. for 'a deep Thought or Speculation'. Contrast blue, immoral.

brown to, v.t. To understand, to 'twig': low (—1909); ob. Ware, 'Prob. from a keen man of this name'; H., 2nd ed., records it as an Americanism. But cf. brown, v., 2, q.v.

brown-tongue. Sycophant, toady: C.20. Cf. brown-nose.

brown type. An army officer; RAF: since ca. 1938. (H. & P.) Cf. brown job and see type, 2.

Brown Un, The. Sporting Times: sporting: ca. 1870, when its colour was brown. See Pink Un.

brown Windsor. Soap—any soap whatsoever: RAF: since ca. 1935. (Jackson.) Windsor soap issued to RAF is brown. Daily Mail, 7 Sep. 1940; Hector Bolitho, Listener, late 1941; Michie & Graebner, Lights of Freedom, 1941.

browncoat. Junior examiner at the (taxi) Police Public Carriage Office' (Powis, 1977).

browned off. (Extremely) disgruntled: depressed: disgusted: army since ca. 1915; adopted by the RAF ca. 1929. (H. & P.) Prob. ex cookery: see Partridge, 1945, or Forces' Slang, ed. Partridge, 1948. Cf. brassed off and cheesed off, q.v., and note Ronald Bottrall, Farewell and Hail, 1945, 'Girls browned off in Roedean' (the first appearance in true literature). But browned off could have been suggested by brassed off. A well-known, extremely well-informed RAF officer writes: 'I rather think the references are to brass buttons, which, if left uncleaned, first develop a harsh yellow or brassy effect and later go brown. I remember hearing a Regular R.A.F. N.C.O. complain that an airman's buttons were "brassed off". It was obvious that for him this was the mot juste and far from being a joke' (letter of 1949). Nevertheless, the predominant army opinion, from at least as early as 1940, is that the phrase was originally sodomitic.

browned up. Despondent: Cockney: C.20. (Naomi Jacobs, The Lenient God, 1937.) Cf. prec.

brownie, -ny. The polar bear: nautical: coll.: mid-C.19–20.—2. An Aus. coll., dating from the 1880s: 'Cake made of flour, fat and sugar, commonly known as "Brownyn"' (E.D. Cleland, The White Kangaroo, 1890). E.P. added, ca. 1970: This sort of cake must, in Australia, contain currants or raisins. Cf. sense 9.—3. A copper coin: ca. 1820–1910: but still, mid-C.20, extant in Aus. (Cusack). Ex brown, n., 1.—4. (Gen. pl.) A cheap cigarette—three for a 'brown' or halfpenny: 'lower London' (Ware): ca. 1896–1915.—5. A trout: anglers' coll.: from ca. 1925. OED Sup.—6. (Gen. pl.) A Land Army girl worker: coll.: 1916–18. F. & G., 'From their being garbed in brown.'—7. Hence (likewise gen. pl.) a girl-messenger in a Government office: coll.: 1919. Ibid., 'From the brown overalls when on duty.'—8. A male homosexual. See brown-hatter.—9. A cake or other confection: Can. coll., adopted ex US: C.20. Cf. sense 2.—10. A bad mark: Canadian Pacific Railwaymen's: since ca. 1908. Introduced by one Brown. (Leechman.)

brownie box. A superintendent's carriage: Can. railroadmen's: C.20. So called because that's where 'brownies' are issued: see prec., 10. (Leechman.) browning, n. Sodomy: low: late C.19–20.

brovns. Uniform for civil prisoners: Borstals and detention centres: 1970s. (Home Office.) Ex earlier brown coat (Tempest, 1950).

browse. To idle; take things easily: Marlborough and Royal Military Academy, C.19—early 20. Whence the adj., idle; with little work: id.

browsing and sluicing. Eating and drinking: ca. 1920–40. (P.G. Wodehouse.)

broy hounds. Irish Free State special tax-collecting police: Eire: from ca. 1925. On bloodhounds ex the name of their first Chief.

brozier. See brosier.

brudge. 'Mate, friend; derived from "brother"' (W. Forster, ed., Pit-Talk, ca. 1970): miners'.

bruffam. A brougham: society: ca. 1860–1910. (Ware.) A pronunciation-pun, for whereas brougham is pronounced broom, the surname Brough is pronounced Bruff.

bruise, v. To fight; box: pugilists', C.19–20, ob. Anticipated in Fletcher, 1625, 'He shall bruise three a month.'

bruise along. To pound along: hunting: from ca. 1860. Cf. (hunting) bruiser.

bruise-water. A broad-bowed ship: nautical coll.: mid-C.19–20; ob. Bowen.

bruiser. A prize-fighter: Norman Wymer, Sport in England, 1949, records an example from May 1742; 1744 (Walpole). In C.19–20, coll., as in S. Warren, 1830, 'a scientific... thorough-bred bruiser'.—2. Hence, any person fond of fighting with the fists; a chucker-out: C.19–20, coll.—a sense implicit in Walpole's use of the term.—3. A reckless rider: hunting: 1830; cf. bruise along and bruising, adj.—4. In c., a harlot's 'fancy man' or bully: mid-C.19. Cf. bouncer.—5. 'An inferior workman among chasers' (of metal): trade coll. (—1788); ob. Grose, 2nd ed. Ex his rough workmanship.

bruising. Fighting with the fists: C.19–20, coll. Ex C.18–20 (coll. after 1800) sense: boxing, as in Smollett, 1751, and Thackeray, 1855, 'bruising... a fine manly old English custom'. Ca. 1800–30, boxing was not only popular but fashionable.

bruising, ppl adj. (Given to) pounding along or reckless riding. Hunting: from ca. 1870. Ex bruise along, q.v. Cf. bruiser, 3. bruising-match. A boxing-match: from ca. 1790; coll. till ca. 1850, when it > S.E.

bruising or brewing the bed. Fouling the bed: low: late C.18—early 19. Grose, 1st ed., 'From brewes, or browes, oatmeal boiled in the pot with salt beef.'

brum, n. A counterfeit coin: C.18–20; in late C.17, counterfeit groats. Abbr. Brummagem, q.v.—2. A spur: coll., 1834 + but now †.—3. Almost anything, but esp. jewellery, that is counterfeit or worthless: from ca. 1870; e.g. in Daily Telegraph, 9 July 1883.—4. Copper coins minted by Boulton & Watt, at their Birmingham works (—1787); †, except historically.—5. (Brum.) A native of Brummagem, Birmingham: from ca. 1870.—6. (Brum.) Birmingham itself: from ca. 1860.—7. See Brums.

brum, adj. Not genuine; counterfeit; trashy: from ca. 1880; rather rare. Lit., made at Brum (Birmingham).—2. Hence, at Winchester College: mean; poor; stingy: 1883 (EDD). Ex Brum-(magem), or ex L. bruma, winter, or—the traditional College explanation—ex L. brevisissimum, the shortest (thing). Wrench, however, adduces Kentish dial. brumpt, bankrupt, penniless.

brumbie or brumby; occ. broombes, brumbee. A wild horse: Aus. coll. Orig. (ca. 1864) in Queensland, but gen. by 1888 as we see by Cassell's Picturesque Australasia, of that date. The word appears in Kipling's Plain Tales from the Hills. Perhaps ex Aboriginal booramby, wild. Morris, thus: The Illustrated Tasmanian, 13 June 1935, however, in a convincing article on 'Wild "Brumbies"', states that the term arose in the second decade of C.19 in New South Wales and that the term derives ex Major Wm. Brumby, who, from Richmond, went to Australia early in C.19; he was a keen breeder of horses, and many of his young horses ran more or less, finally quite, wild. (The Brumby family now lives in Tasmania.)—2. A poor hand about which its holder tries to bluff: Aus. card-players': since ca. 1920. B., 1953.

Brummagem. Birmingham: from ca. 1860; except as dial., low coll.—2. Base money: in late C.17—early 18, counterfeit groats; C.18–20, any counterfeit money, esp. of copper, as in Martin's Dict., 1754, and in Southey's fascinating farrago-'omnibus', The Doctor. Ex the local spelling, which was—and still often is—phonetic of the local pronunciation. Brummagem = Bromwicham (after Bromwich) a corruption of Brimidgeham, the old form of Birmingham. (W.) Faked antiques, etc., are still made at Birmingham.—3. Hence, a spur: ca. 1830–1930.—4. Bergen, Norway: army: 1940–1. By Hobson-Jobson.

Brummagem, adj. Counterfeit; cheap and pretentious: coll.; 1637, 'Bromedgham blades' = inferior swords. Ca. 1690, B.E., 'Bromigham-conscience, very bad [one], Bromigham-protestants, Dissenters or Whiggs [see OED], Bromigham-wine, Balderdash, Sophisticated Taplash.' The C.20 connotation is that of shoddiness or of showy inferiority: as such, it is coll. See the n.

Brummagem button. A self-nickname affected by natives of Birmingham: mid-C.19–20. Cf. Brum; Brummagem; and—Brummagem buttons. Counterfeit coin, esp. of copper (—1836); ob. Cf. Brummagem.

Brummagem Guards, the. Nickname of the 29th Regt. of Foot, the Worcestershire Regt., 'because the Worcesters frequently drew on the City of Birmingham for recruits' (Carew).

Brummagem screwdriver. A hammer: Midlands: C.20. (Richard Merry.) The same jibe has been transferred to other places, great and small, e.g. Liverpool; and Shepshed, Leics. (P.B.)

Brummie, -my. A familiar form of Brum, n., 5 and 6.

brummish. Counterfeit; doubtful; inferior: coll.: from ca. 1800; slightly ob. Cf. brum.

Brummy boy. A youth or man from Birmingham: esp. Regular Army: C.20. (Gerald Kersh, They Die with Their Boots Clean, 1914.) Cf. Brummie.

Brums. London and North Western—formerly London and Birmingham—Railway stock. Stock Exchange: from ca. 1880. Cf. brum, n., 5, 6.—2. Tawdry finery: Aus.:—1916 (C.J. Dennis). Ex brum, n., 3, q.v.—3. The Brums. The Birmingham Football Club ('soccer'): sporting: late C.19–20.

brunch. Breakfast and lunch in one: since 1898; by ca. 1905, coll. 'First suggested by Guy Beringer in 1895 in the pages of the long since defunct Hunter's Weekly. My authority for this is Punch... 1st August 1896' (William Phillips, letter, 1963.) But according to Arnold Wall, the term was current at Cambridge in 1893. Cf. tinner.

brung. Brought: joc. use of sol.: C.20. Cf. think = thought.

brush, n. A hasty departure: coll.: C.18–19. (Fielding, Tom Jones, 1749.) Cf. buy a brush, to run away: c.: ca. 1670–1830; also show (one's) brush: s.: C.19—early 20 (Manchon). Cf. v., 1, and S.E. brush, a tail.—2. Hence, he who departs hastily: c.:—1748 (Dyche); † by 1850.—3. A house-painter: mid-C.19—early 20. (H., 3rd ed.) Cf. brother of the brush, q.v.—4. A small dram-drinking glass: public houses':—1909 (Ware); ob. by 1935. Ex resemblance of its outline to that of a house-painter's brush.—5. A generic term for women: Aus. c.:—1935. Ex the pubic hair. Also, a bit of brush, coition—hence, a girl: low: mid-C.20. Dick.—6. In at a or at the first brush, at first; immediately: coll.: C.15–18.—7. See live over the brush (and cf. broomstick, 5); take a brush; three-out brush.—8. In have a brush with, to fight with a man, lie with a woman: mid-C.18—early 20. (Grose, 1st ed.) P.B.: but the first sense remains, as informal S.E., as in 'he had a brush with the law', i.e. ran foul of the police: later C.20.

brush, v. To depart hastily; run away. Late C.17–20, ob. In C.17, c. or low; in C.18, s. then coll. Post-1800, coll. and then S.E. 'Sergeant Matcham had brush'd with the dibs' (Barham). Also brush along or off: C.19 (Bee).—2. To flog: Christ's Hospital, C.19–20.

brush and lope. To depart hastily, to decamp: late C.18—mid-19: c. (Grose, 1st ed.) Lit., to depart and run. See brush, v., 1.

brush-off. A snub; give (someone) the brush-off, to snub: adopted, ca. 1943, ex US. As if brushing dust from one's clothes. But cf. brusher, 4.

brush (someone's) coat for him. To thrash: coll.: ca. 1660–1820. (Bunyan.) Cf. dust one's jacket.

brush up. To revive one's knowledge of: coll.: C.20; by 1933, thanks to the 'Brush Up Your' (e.g.) 'French' series of books, S.E.

brush up a flat. To flatter, 'soft-soap' a person: C.19–20, low.

brusher. A full glass: ca. 1690–1830. B.E., Grose.—2. A schoolmaster: C.19–20. Prob. abbr. bum-brusher, q.v.; cf. brush, v., 2.—3. In give brusher, to depart with debts unpaid; e.g. 'He gave them brusher': Aus.-bush s.:—1878 (Wilkes). Since ca. 1930, usu. give a brusher (B., 1942). As give it a brusher, to abandon a task: Aus.: early C.20. Ex brusher, a small and lively wallaby.—4. Hence, in get brusher, 'to be rejected, "brushed off"' (Wilkes): Aus. s.: early C.20.

Brussel sprout. A Boy Scout: rhyming s.: since ca. 1910. (Franklyn, Rhyming).—2. (Often simply Brussel.) A race-course tout (a watcher of horses in training): racing rhyming s.: C.20. The famous Racing Correspondent known as 'The Scout' is, in racing circles, called 'The Brussel': Franklyn 2nd.

Brussels. A var. (from ca. 1920) of, and ex, carpet, n. (i.e. Brussels carpet).—2. Elliptical for Brussels sprouts: domestic: C.20, perhaps earlier. (Mrs Camilla Raab.)

brutal and licentious soldiery. An ironically satirical phrase, prob. coined by Kipling—it occurs in Life's Handicap, 1891—to sum up the Victorian civilian attitude to the Regular Army. Still extant, often as simply 'The brutal and licentious'. See esp. DCpp.

brute. One who has not matriculated: Cambridge University, C.19. Prob. ex S.E. brute.—2. A term of reprobation: coll., from ca. 1660. 'The brute of a cigar required relighting' (G. Eliot).—3. 'A huge, self-feeding arc lamp probably named for its size—though that's too logical to have much chance of being right... film studio jargon' (Red Daniells, 1980).

brute force and ignorance. (usu. with use.) A usu. joc. c.p. that means what it says, as in, 'Oh, so she [the machine] won't ackle, will she. Then we'll just have to use brute force and ignorance on the bastard': since early C.20. (S.F. Hatton, The Yarn of a Yeoman, 1930.) Hence, also fig., 'with deliberate disregard for tact or delicacy'. (P.B.)

bry or Bry. Gin: abbr. Brian O'Lynn, q.v.:—1868 (Ware).

Bryan O'Lynn. See Brian O'Lynn.

Bryant and May. (Mostly in pl.) A light ale: public-houses': from ca. 1920. Via light from Bryant & May's matches.

Bryant and Mays. Stays: rhyming s.: C.20. (B. & P.) Cf. Bryant & May's chuckaway. (Gen. pl.) A girl working in that firm's match-factory: East London: 1876; ob. by 1910, † by 1920. A chuckaway is a lucifer match; such match-making used to be unhealthy.

Brydport. See Bridport dagger.

Brylcreem Boys, the. The RAF: army (since ca. 1939: H. & P.) and RN lowerdeck (since ca. 1940). Granville, 'From the advertisement which depicts an airman with immaculately Brylcreemed hair.' Cf. Crabfats.

Bs. Members of the Patriotic Brotherhood, or Irish Invincibles: Fenian: 1883; † by 1920. Ware.—2. See three Bs.

bub, n. Strong drink, esp. malt liquor: from ca. 1670; ob. C. until ca. 1820, then low. (Head). In C.19, also as humming bub, strong beer or ale (Bee). Often as bub and grub, food and (strong) drink. Either echoic or ex L. bibere, to drink; Dr Wm. Matthews says: abbr. of bubble.—2. A brother, rare, C.18; C.19–20, (mostly US) a little boy. Perhaps ex Ger. Bube, boy (W.).—3. A woman's breast, C.19–20; rare in singular and not very frequent in this abbr. form: see bubby.—4. 'One that is cheated; an easy, soft fellow' (B.E.): late C.17–19; c. until ca. 1810. Abbr. bubble, q.v.

but, v. To drink: C.18–19; c. until ca. 1820, then low. Prob. ex but, n., 1.—2. To bribe; cheat: C.18—early 19; rare; low, as in D'Urfey, 1719, 'Another makes racing a Trade... And many a Crimp match has made, | By bubbing another Man's Groom.' Ex bubble, v. Cf. but, n., 4.

butcher. A hard drinker; a toper. C.17—late 18: c. in C.17, then low. (Middleton; B.E.; Grose.) Cf. but, n., 1, and v., 1.—2. A drinking-bowl: c. late C.17—early 19. B.E.; Grose.—3. A stealer of plate from taverns and inns: c. of ca. 1670–1830. Head, Grose. Cf. sense 1.

buttery. Senseless clamour; 'a wordy noise in the street': low: 1818 (The London Guide; Bee); † by 1900. A corruption of bobbery.

bubbling. Drinking; tipping; ca. 1670–1830: low. Cf. but and butcher.

bubble, n. A dupe; a gullible person: ca. 1668–1840. Sedley, Shadwell, Swift ('We are thus become the dupes and bubbles of Europe'), Fielding, George Barrington (who left England 'for his country's good'). Coll. >, ca. 1800, S.E. Presumably ex sense 1 of the v.—2. Short for bubble and squeak, n., 2, a Greek: C.20. (Robin Cook, 1962.)—3. Wife: since ca. 1930. See old bubble.—4. See bar the bubble; put the bubble in.

bubble, v. To cheat, swindle; delude, humbug; overreach: coll., but S.E. after ca. 1800: 1664, Etherege; Dryden; Fielding, 'He... actually bubbled several of their money'; Sheridan; McCarthy the historian, 1880, 'the French Emperor had bubbled [Cobden]'. Also bubble (a person) of, out of, or into: 1675 (Wycherley). Perhaps ex bubble, 'to cover or spread with bubbles' (OED); more prob. via 'delude with bubbles' or unrealities, as W. proposes.—2. To blub: Edinburgh undergraduates' (since ca. 1920) and Sherborne School (since ca. 1915).—3. The short form of 'to put the bubble in for' someone (q.v.), or of bubble and squeak, v. 2, to cause him trouble by informing: since ca. 1920. (P.B., 1974.) See no jet.

bubble and squeak, n. Cold meat fried with potatoes and greens, or with cabbage alone. Coll. From ca. 1770: Grose, 1st ed., being the first to record it in a dictionary; it occurs, however, in Bridges's Homer, 1772. After ca. 1830, S.E.; Lytton has it in My Novel. Ex the sound emitted by this dish when cooking. Cf. bubbling squeak, q.v.—2. A Greek: rhyming s.: from ca. 1870.—3. A magistrate: rhyming s. (on beak): late C.19–20.—4. A week: id: later C.20. Ronnie Barker, Fletcher's Book of Rhyming Slang, 1979.

bubble and squeak, v. To speak: rhyming s.: (?)mid-C.19–20. Everyman, 26 Mar. 1931.—2. To inform to the police: underworld rhyming s. on the synonymous 'to squeak': C.20. (Franklyn 2nd.) Or, more prob., a specialisation of sense 1.

bubble and squeak, adv. Vigorously: ca. 1820–70. D. Abercromby in Blackwood's, July 1823 (Moe). See also quot'n at snuff and snifter.

bubble-bow or -boy. A lady's tweezer case: ca. 1704–60: s. > coll. Pope. (=beau-befooler.) OED.

bubble buff. A bailiff: C.17. Rowlands.

bubble company. A dishonest firm: coll. passing to S.E., C.19–20. Adumbrated in C.18: see Martin's Dict., 2nd ed., 1754. 'Bubble... a name given to certain projects for raising money on imaginary grounds': the South Sea Bubble was semantically responsible.

bubble(-)dancing. 'Pot washing in the cook-house' (H. & P.); Services': since ca. 1920.—2. Hence, washing one's irons and, at some stations, also one's plate: RAF: WW2. A pun on bubble-dancing, a form of strip-tease.

bubble of a sea. A roughish sea: nautical: C.19. Basil Hall, 3rd series, 1833.

bubbleable. Gullible: temp. Restoration. Rare: coll.

bubbled, ppl adj. Gulled, befooled, deluded. Coll., late C.17–20; ob. Defoe: 'Who shall this bubbled nation disabuse, | While they, their own felicities refuse?'

bubbler. A swindler: ca. 1720–1830: coll. > S.E. by 1770 (Pope.) OED.—2. A drinking fountain: Aus. coll.: since ca. 1945.

Bubbles and Squeaks. Greeks and Cypriots collectively: Teddy boys': since ca. 1949. (Observer, 1 Mar. 1959.) So many of them own or manage or man restaurants. Cf. bubble and squeak, 2—the immediate source.

bubbling, adj. Cheating: ca. 1675–1750. Wycherley. (The n. is late—1730—and S.E.)

bubbling squeak. Hot soup: military: mid-C.19–20; ob. Cf. bubble and squeak.

bubbly, often the bubbly. Champagne: from ca. 1895. Also bubbly water: C.20.—2. Grog: RN: C.20. (Bowen.) 'Taffrail' defines it as 'rum'.—3. A look-out posted by those playing crown-and-anchor (etc.): RN: C.20. Bowen.

bubbly bosun. 'That rating who serves the mess tots of rum from the "fanny", usually a different member of the mess every day' (Granville): RN: since ca. 1910. Cf. bubbly, 2, and fanny, n., 2.

bubbly jock. A turkey cock. Orig. (—1785) Scottish; but well acclimatised in England by 1840; Thackeray and Besant & Rice use it. (Grose, 1st ed.) Either it is ex the turkey's 'bubbly' cry or it is an early rhyming synonym (see Slang, p. 274).—2. Hence, a stupid boaster: C.19.—3. Hence, a conceited, pragmatical fellow; a prig; a cad: from ca. 1860; ob. G.A. Sala, 1883.

Bubbly Jocks, the. The Royal Scots Greys: army nickname: late C.19—early 20. F. & G. derive it from sense 1 of prec. entry, ex the colour. Carew draws the same conclusion.

bubbly water. See bubbly.

bubby. A woman's breast. Rare in singular. Late C.17–20; S.E. till late C.18, then dial. and low. D'Urfey, in 1686, 'The Ladies here may without Scandal shew/Face or white Bubbles, to each ogling Beau.' Congreve, in the Old Bachelor, 'Did not her eyes twinkle, and her mouth water? Did she not pull up her little bubbies?' Either ex but, to drink, or semantically ex a milk-needing babe's bu bu!; for the latter possibility, see the congruous matter in Weekley's delightful baby-talk essay in Adjectives and Other Words.

bube. Syphilis: late C.17—early 19 c. (B.E.) Ex S.E. bubo, which Coles, 1676, perhaps wrongly classifies as c. even though he applies his c. bubo to 'pox', his S.E. bubo to 'a large fiery pimple'.

Bucc. A Buccaneer aircraft: RAF coll.: later C.20. Cf. synon. Banana Bomber.

Buck. A nickname for all men surnamed Taylor: orig. nautical: late C.19–20. (Bowen.) Prob. ex 'Buck' Taylor, a popular member of Buffalo Bill's cowboy team visiting England in 1887.

buck, n. A forward, daring woman: rare, perhaps only c.: ca. 1720–30.—2. Likewise coll., a man of spirit and gay conduct: ca. 1700–1805. Grose, 2nd ed., has buck of the first head, 'a blood or choice spirit', a notable debauchee; prob. ex like a buck of the first head, which, in Ray, 1678, means little more than pert or brisk (Apperson). 'A large assembly of young fellows, whom they call bucks', Fielding, 1752.—3. A dandy: from ca. 1805, ob. by 1887, now merely archaic: coll. > S.E. Thackeray in Vanity Fair, 'A most tremendous buck.' Cf. masher, dude, swell.—4. A cuckold: ca. 1770–1820. Abbr. buck(s) face, q.v.—5. An unlicensed cab-driver: ca. 1850–1905. Also, same period, a sham fare, a hanger-about at omnibus-stands.—6. A sixpence: C.19–20, ob.; gen. with a prec. sum in shillings, as three and a buck.—7. A large marble: schoolboys', ca. 1870–1910.—8. In British Guiana (1869), a native Indian of South America: coll. rather than s. (Cf. the US usage.) Australians apply buck nigger to any big man of very dark race: C.20.—9. Grose, 1st ed., 1785, has 'buck, a blind horse': this is rare, but hardly disputable: presumably s.: late C.18—early 19.—10. A small dealer in the service of a greater (a 'stock-master'): Cockney:—1887 (Baumann).—11. Conversation: 1895, Mrs Croker. Ex Hindustani bak. Also bukh (OED Sup.).—12. Hence, tall talk, boasting, excessive talk: military: C.20. F. & G.—13. Hence, impertinence, impudence: Bootham School:—1925 (Bootham). And, by late 1930s, in wider circulation as 'That's enough of your old BUCK—which could apply equally to this and the prec. sense. (P.B.)—14. A dollar: Can.: late C.19–20; adopted ex US. By transference then to other countries using the dollar as a unit of currency, e.g. Hong Kong.—15. A rough fellow; a criminal: Liverpool: since the 1920s. Cf. the US buck mate.—16. In 'a load of old buck' and 'it's all a bit of buck', army in Cyprus, late 1950s, it was short for buckshee, something worthless.—17. In give it a buck or have a buck at (something), to make an attempt: Aus.: since ca. 1920. (Baker.) Ex the language of the rodeo. Cf. trick at.—18. In go to buck, a low coll. of C.18, as in A New Canting Dict., 1725, 'She wants to go to buck, ... of a wanton Woman, who is desirous of Male-Conversation.'—19. See old buck; run a buck.

buck, v. To falsify—an account or balance-sheet: commercial, from ca. 1870; ob. Cf. cook, sense 4.—2. (Also bukh, bukk; Manchon spells it bak.) To chatter; talk with egotistical superabundance: Anglo-Indian coll.: 1880. Ex Hindustani bakna. (Y. & B.) Cf. buck, n., 11. Whence buck-stick, a chatterer (—1888).—3. Also, v.i., to object, be reluctant (v.t. with at): coll., from ca. 1890; mainly Aus. and NZ.—4. In C.20 c., to fight against, withstand. Perhaps ex S.E. buck off. In later C.20, esp. in buck the system, where 'the system' = any controlling organisation, whether Town Hall, the Inland Revenue, or one's employers (P.B.).—5. To boast: esp. Services': earlier C.20. John Connell, Wavell: Supreme Commander, 1969, quoting Sandy Reid Scott's diary, ref. a VIP's plane-crash in 1941: 'the generals seemed disappointed at not having to swim [for their lives]—my hat, they would never have stopped bucking if they had' (P.B.).

buck a (blessed) hurricane or a town down. Resp.—1870, —1881, both ob., Aus. coll.: (of a horse) to buck furiously. A.C. Grant: Bush Life in Queensland, 1881, at I, 131, for both. buck against. To oppose violently: coll.:—1909. Ex US. Cf. buck, v., 3.

buck against the tiger. To be up against too great odds: C.20. Contrast buck the tiger.

buck as if he had a belly full of bed-springs. (Of a horse) to buck violently and repeatedly: Aus. rural: since ca. 1930. (Baker.)

buck at is the NZ version of buck against: C.20. Jean Devaney, Bushman Burke, 1930, 'Terrible shacks ... a decent dog would "buck at".'

buck bail. 'Bail given by a sharper for one of the gang' (Grose, 2nd ed.): late C.18—early 19; c. and low. In F. & H., misprinted b.-bait.

buck-doctor. A Government veterinary surgeon: coll. of S. African Midlands: late C.19–20. Ex early attention to lung-diseased goats. Pettman.

buck down. To be sorry; unhappy. Winchester College, from ca. 1860; ob. Cf. bucked.

buck face, buck's face. A cuckold: late C.17—early 19. B.E.

buck-fat. Goat-lard: Cape Colony coll.:—1902 (Pettman). Cf. buck-doctor.

buck-fever. The nervous excitement of a young sportsman when out shooting: S. African coll.: 1892, Nicolls & Eglinton, The Sportsman in South Africa. Pettman.

buck fitch. An old lecher or roué: late C.17—early 19. (B.E., Grose.) Fitch = fitchew = polecat.

buck for (promotion, honours, etc.). To make every effort to ensure recognition of oneself: often as (be) bucking for, as in 'In Who's Who, are you?! Be bucking for your KBE next, I suppose!' (Posy Simmonds in Guardian, 18 June 1979): orig. Services', > gen.: since ca. 1960, perhaps earlier. (P.B.) Perhaps ex buck, v., 5.

Buck Guard. Guard duty at Buckingham Palace: Army: C.20. Cf. Jimmy guard.

Buck House. Buckingham Palace: Society: C.20. Listener, 10 Mar. 1937. P.B.: in WW2, and ever since: Services'. Hawke.

buck jumper. A 'Great Eastern Tank Engine. Six-wheel coupled' (Railway, 2nd): railwaymen's: (?ca. 1945–60.

buck of the first head. See buck, n., 2.

buck-passing. The 1946-and-after form of passing the buck. Ex pass the buck, 2.

buck private. An ordinary private with no stripes at all: Can. soldiers': 1914–18.

buck sergeant. A full sergeant: army: WW2. P-G-R.

buck-shot. A settlers' term for granulated lava (always imbedded in a sandy alluvium): NZ s. (—1851) > coll. Morris. buck (one's) stumps. To get a move on (lit. stir one's legs): Conway Training Ship:—1891 (Masefield).

buck the horse. To make trouble in prison by resisting warders, etc.: C.20 c.

buck the tiger. To gamble heavily: US (from ca. 1862), anglicised before 1909; ob. (Ware.) Both American Speech, 1943, and C.E. Funk, A Hog on Ice, 1950, mention that a colour print of a Bengal tiger indicates that faro is played on the premises.

buck tooth. (Mostly in pl, buck teeth). A large tooth that projects: from ca. 1750; in C.18–19 S.E.; in C.20, coll. Hence, adj., buck-toothed.

buck up. Orig. (—1854), v.i. and t., to dress up. Ex buck, a dandy. Then, 2, from ca. 1860, to make haste, or—esp. in the imperative—to become energetic, cheerful. Also, 3, from ca. 1895, to encourage, cheer up, or refresh ('A spot of b. and s. bucked him up no end'); and as v.i., to be encouraged; esp. in buck up!

bucked. Tired: Uppingham, from ca. 1860; ob. Contrast buck up.—2. Encouraged, elated; cheered, cheerful: from ca. 1905. Cf. buck up, 3.

buckee. A var. of buckie. Tailor and Cutter, 29 Nov. 1928.

buckeen. A bully: coll., Anglo-Irish: late C.18—early 19. In S.E., 'a younger son'. Ex buck after squireen.

bucker. A porpoise: nautical: mid-C.19–20. (Bowen.) Ex its jumps into the air.

bucket, n. A glass of spirits: low Ayrshire: 1870, John Kelso Hunter, Life Studies of Character, 'A rest for two-three minutes, and a bucket the piece wad be acceptable.' Also a cheapjacks' term (C. Hindley, The Life of a Cheapjack, 1876). In the EDD Sup., it is given as c.: but I doubt this.—2. See kick the bucket, to die.—3. In give the bucket (with indirect object), to dismiss from employment: coll.:—1863. Cf. (give the) sack.—4. As passive bucket, a patient listener: early C.20. (Manchon.) Making no complaint as bilge and slush are poured into it.

bucket, v. To deceive, cheat, swindle, ruin: from ca. 1810; until ca. 1830, c. or low. Vaux, Scott.—2. To ride (a horse) hard: from ca. 1850; coll.; in C.20 j. Often as vbl n., bucketing (Whyte-Melville, 1856).—3. In rowing: to take the water with a scoop; swing the body; hurry unduly the body's forward swing: from ca. 1869; coll.; in C.20 rather j. than coll. Besant & Rice, 1876.

bucket about. To oscillate: coll.:—1923 (Manchon). Prob. ex rowing j.—2. To 'make a splash' in one's actions and acts: Anglo-Irish: since (?ca. 1910. See quotation at cock robin, 2. Ex bucket, v., 2. bucket afloat. A coat: rhyming s. (—1874); t. H., 5th ed. Often contracted to bucket, now †. The term current in C.20 is I'm afloat, q.v. Soldiers use bucket and float (B. & P.). bucket and pail. A gaol (jail): rhyming s.: C.20. Mostly London's dockland: Franklyn 2nd.

bucket down. To rain hard: coll.: C.20. Elliptical for rain bucketsful. (P.B.) bucket gaff; bucket job. A 'fraudulent company': police and underworld usage: C.20. Powis. Perhaps ex bucket shop. Cf. bucket, v., 1, and bucketing concern.

bucket of beer. A pint of beer: public-house s., mostly Anglo-Irish: C.20.

bucket shop. An unauthorised office for the sale of stocks: orig. (?1881), US, anglicised ca. 1887; Ware prob. errs when he dates its English use as early as 1870. In C.19, coll.; C.20, S.E., usu. in connexion with airline ticket sales. Ex bucket, 'the vessel in which water is drawn out of a well' (Johnson) or ex bucket, to swindle, or ex the bucket into which falls the recording-tape or 'ticker'.

bucketing. A hard task enforced on one: lower class: C.20. W.L. George, 1914.

bucketing concern. The vbl n. of bucket, v., 1, q.v.: c. of ca. 1810–80. Vaux.

buckets. Boots: fast life: ca. 1820–50. (Pierce Egan, Finish, 1828.) One 'pours' one's feet into them.

buckets, (simply) throwing up. Very vexed or disappointed. See throwing up buckets.

bucketful, coming down, (in). Raining heavily: coll.: late C.19–20. Cf. bucket down.

buckhorse. A blow, or a smart box, on the ear: coll.; from ca. 1850, ex Buckhorse, actually John Smith, a celebrated pugilist, who would, for a small sum, allow one to strike him severely on the side of the head. Often as vbl n., buckhorsing: see Blackwood's 1864, vol. II, the Public Schools' Report—Westminster.

buckle. A refractory person: coll., when not, as gen., Scottish: C.18–19; ob., except among tailors, who, in late C.19–20, use it also of a bad tailor or of a shoemaker.

buckling. Washing sails: nautical coll.: mid-C.19–20. (Bowen.) Ex a technical process in bleaching.

Buckinger's boot. The female pudend: ca. 1740–95. Ex Matthew Buckinger, a daft limbless fellow married to 'a tall handsome woman' (Grose, 3rd ed., which defines it as 'the monosyllable').

buckish. Foppish, dandyish: from ca. 1780. Until ca. 1870, S.E.; then coll.; ob. Mme D'Arblay's Diary, at 1782; Wolcot; George Parker; Combe; George Eliot.—2. (Of persons) in good spirits, in excellent fettle: from ca. 1912. Ex buckish, (of horses) inclined to buck. OED Sup.

buckle, n. A fetter; gen. in pl: coll., C.17—early 18. E.g. in Egan's Grose.—2. Condition, state; mood: Aus.: ca. 1850–1910. (Rolf Boldrewood, Robbery under Arms.)? By confusion of fettle with fetter—see sense 1.—3. (Also buckle me.) Number 2 in 'Housey' or 'Tombola': late C.19–20. (Michael Harrison, 1943.) Truncated form of rhyming s. buckle-me (or my)-shoe.—4. Shortened form of buckle-my-shoe: a Jew: rhyming s.: C.20. B. & P.

buckle, v. To be married: late C.17–19, extant as vbl n., buckling. Marry, v.t.: C.18–20. Both are coll.; the former in Dryden, 'Is this an age to buckle with a bride?', the latter in, e.g. Scott, 'Dr. R., who buckles beggars for a tester and a dram of Geneva.'—2. In c. and low s., v.t., to arrest: mid-C.19–20 (ob.); gen. in past ppl passive. (H., 5th ed.) Current in Aus. throughout first half of C.20. Hugh Atkinson, Low Company, 1961.

buckle and bare thong, come (or be brought) to. To be stripped of—to lose—everything: coll.: ca. 1550–1850, though extant in dial. Apperson.

buckle(-)beggar. A celebrator of prison, hence of irregular, marriages; a hedge-priest: coll.: late C.17—early 19. Orig. and mainly Scottish. Cf. couple-beggar, and buckle, v., 1.

buckle-bosom. A constable: C.17: coll. Mabbe's trans. of Guzman d'Alfarache (OED).

buckle down. To settle down: mid-C.19–20: coll. Often buckle down to, i.e., to the job in hand. Cf. buckle to, 1. buckle-hammed. Crooked-legged: C.17: coll. Gaule, 1629, 'Buckle-hamm'd, Stump-legg'd, Splay-footed' (OED).

buckle-hole (of one's belt), be reduced or starved to the last. To be near death by starvation: Cockney coll.:—1887 (Baumann).

buckle-my-shoe. Number 2; a Jew. See buckle, n., 3 and 4. buckle of the girdle (or, C.19, belt), turn the. To prepare to fight: coll. (Cromwell, 1656, 'an homely expression'): late C.16–19; extant in dial. Ex the turning of the buckle to the back, so that the belly be not injured thereby.

buckle to, v.i. Set to with a will, apply oneself energetically (1712). Coll. A development from buckle, v.i., to grapple, as in Butler, 'He with the foe began to buckle', 1663.—2. V.t., understand: C.19.

Bucklebury. Euph. (—1923) for buggery. (Manchon.) Ex the Berkshire locality.

Buckley. See who struck Buckley?

Buckley's chance (or show, or hope). A forlorn hope; no chance at all: Aus.: perhaps since soon after 1856, when William Buckley died. A convict, he absconded from Port Phillip in 1803 and lived for 32 years with the natives before giving himself up. Wilkes's first context for the phrase is dated 1898; Marcus Clarke, 'Buckley, the Escaped Convict' was published in Stories of Australia in the Early Days in 1897. Rats, 1944, has the var. two chances—mine and Buckley's, and later usage has other pronoun adjs., e.g., ours, your own, etc. (Based largely on Wilkes, who suggests also a possible derivation, by a pun, from the Melbourne retailing firm of Buckley & Nunn.)

bucko, n. (pl -oes). A swashbuckling, domineering, or blustering man; occ. as term of address; swagger or bluster: nautical: since early C.20 (? earlier). Ex buck, n., 2, + -o. (OED Sup.) Hence, also, the corresponding adj., as in:

bucko mate. A MN first mate given to enforcing discipline with his fists: nautical: since ca. 1905.

buckra, n. A white man: orig. (1794) in negro talk; then, since ca. 1860, among those Britons who live in the wilder parts of the British Empire. Coll. ex Calabar backra, master. (W.)

buckra, adj. (ex prec.). Genuine: West Indies coll.: C.20. A. Hyder, Black Girl, 1934.

bucks. Short for buckshee, q.v. at bakshee: mostly army: —1929; by ca. 1955 replaced by buck, if shortened at all.

buck's face. A cuckold. See buck face.

Bucks hussar. A cigar: rhyming s., mainly theatrical: late C.19–20. Franklyn, Rhyming.

buckshee has long supplanted, in spelling and pron., bakshee, q.v. P.B., 1974, noted that 'As a noun, it is now often pluralised: e.g., to a clerk [in the army], one might say "Can I have a spot of that bumf?"—"Sure, it's buckshees—be my guest."' buckshee bombardier. A local NCO, i.e. with rank but no additional commensurate pay: Aus. army: WW2. B., 1942.

buckshot rule. A political coll. for the upholding of government only, or chiefly, by a constabulary armed with rifles. Orig. applied to the Ireland of 1881. Buck(-)shot is large shot.

buckskin. An American soldier during the Revolutionary war; also, ca. 1820–60, a native American. Ex US sense (1755+): a Virginian.

bucksome. Happy; in good spirits: a C.19 survival, at Winchester College, of C.17–18 'bucksom, wanton, merry' (B.E.). Bucksome is from buck (up), q.v., and influenced by buxom, of which, need I say?, B.E.'s bucksom is merely a var. spelling and nowise related to buck.

buckstick. A braggart: Anglo-Indian coll.:—1924 (OED Sup.). See buck, n., 12.—2. See buck, v., 2.

bud. A débutante: society:—1913 (A.H. Dawson); † by 1930.—2. See nip in the bud.

Buddha sticks. '[They] went into the business of picking up drops [= caches] of Thai sticks, also known as Buddha sticks, dried and compressed cannabis from the Golden Triangle of South-East Asia' (Guardian, 14 July 1981, p. 14): drugs world. buddy. See budli.

Buddoo. An Arab: Services', on Eastern Fronts: WW1. (B. & P.) Cf. Abdul, a Turk.

buddy. An American term of address (lit., brother): mid-C.19–20; partially anglicised by 1914.—2. A chum; a recruit: military: from ca. 1914. (F. & G.) Ex sense 1. Hence:

buddy-buddy. Very friendly: often used disparagingly by those outside the relationship, as, e.g., 'Oh, they're all very buddy-buddy just now—but it won't last, you just wait and see': since ca. 1965, adopted ex US. (P.B.)

budge; 'or sneaking budge' (Grose, 1st ed.), n. A lone-hand sneaking thief: c. or low s.: from ca. 1670. Head; Coles, esp. of cloaks; Fielding, in Amelia. † by 1850. Fielding incorrectly uses sneaking budge to mean pilfering or stealing, n. and adj.—2. A thief's accomplice, esp. one who hides in a house to open the door later: c.: C.18.—3. Liquor: c. (—1821); †. A perversion of bub, n., 1, or booze.—4. A promotion: Sherborne School: mid-C.19–20. Alec Waugh, The Loom of Youth, 1917, 'I think I had better get a "budge" this term.' Also at Harrow School (Lunn).

budge, v. To depart: low: mid-C.18–19. (Grose, 1st ed.) Cf. S.E. budge, to move however slightly.—2. To inform; 'split': low (—1859); ob. by 1890; † by 1920.

budge a beak(e). To decamp; to flee from justice: C.17 (early): c. Beak=a constable.

budge and snudge. A housebreaker and his assistant; such burglary: ca. 1670–1800; c.

budge kain. A public-house: Scottish c. (—1823); † by 1900. (Egan's Grose.) Cf. budge, n., 3. Presumably kain=ken; cf. budging ken.

budger. A drunkard: C.19 c. Ex budge, n., 3, q.v.

budgerree. Good; excellent: Aus.: from ca. 1800. Recorded as early as 1793 and 'dictionaried' in 1796. Ex Port Jackson Aboriginal dial. Morris.

budget, open one's. To speak one's mind: C.17—early 18: coll.

budgets (rare in singular). Bottled commodities, esp. toilet articles and patent medicines: fair-grounds': C.20. W. Buchanan-Taylor, Shake It Again, 1943.

budgie (or -y). A budgerigar: Aus. and Brit. coll.: late C.19–20. Baker.—2. 'A talkative man, especially of small stature, also used as a nickname; can be used by police to refer to a minor informer—one who has details of only "gas meter jobs" (unimportant local cases)' (Powis, 1977): since (?) ca. 1960.—3. A woman bus conductor: bus drivers': since ca. 1960. 'So called because the drivers hear them "twittering" on the platforms' (Petch.) Cf. the RN phrase for a garrulous member of the WRNS: 'twittering like a three-budge budgie', i.e. a budgerigar with 3 long-service and good-conduct stripes.—4. In paraffin budgie, q.v., a helicopter. Senses 2–4 all ex sense 1.—5. "What's the budgie?" means "What's the time?"; very recent and used only since the introduction of Pakistani labour. "Budgie" is a corruption of "Baje", a transliteration from the Urdu' (W. Forster, ed., Pit-Talk, ca. 1970): coal-miners'.—6. 'Twin-engined Hawker-Siddeley 748 [aircraft], the so-called "budgies"' (Rex Cowan, Illustrated London News, July 1982): British Airways'.

budging ken. A public-house: c.: C.19. Hence, cove of the b-k, a publican. Cf. budge, n., 3, and budge kain.

budgy, adj. Drunk: low: since the 1830s. The American Spirit of the Times, 20 June 1840, app. refers to an English source in the quotation 'What budgy brates you all are'. Ex budge, n., 3.

budli-bag (or perhaps buddly). A kitty, or pool of cash, held individually or in common, against 'a rainy day': RN, e.g., on HMS Queen Elizabeth: WW1. (Clive Hardy, 1979.)? Etym. as next.

budli-budli, or -ly. Sodomy: low, esp. in India: C.20. Ex Urdu badli (usu. pron. budly), 'change'.—2. In the late 1950s, in the army, it had come to mean simple exchange on a mutually helpful basis. It had also attracted an allusive for, e.g., 'I'll do your duty Sunday if you'll do mine Saturday—budli for budli, OK?' In this instance it was unwittingly accurate, for Y. & B. give 'Hindustani badli, a... locum tenens'. Buggly, q.v., is prob. a mishearing for this.

budmash. A rascal; a thief: army: late C.19—earlier 20. (F. & G.) Ex Hindustani badmash.

Buenos Aires. The Royal Crescent at Margate: the 1880s.—2. In go or take the road to Buenos Aires, to become a prostitute, esp. by way of a procurer's offices: coll. rather than merely euph.: C.20. Ex the Fr.

buor. Spelling used by Graham Greene in Brighton Rock, 1938, for bewer, q.v. Also occ. to be found spelt buor. (P.B.) bufo. Var. spelling of buffer, 1, a dog. Cf.:-

bufe. A dog: mid-C.16–18 c. (Harman.) Ex its bark. Cf. buffer, 1, q.v., and bugher, an 'anglicised' representation of the Scottish bugher pronounced properly bu'ha, loosely buffer:

cf. the correct pron. of Scottish words like Benachie (approximately Ben-a-he).

bufe-nabber, -napper. Mid-C.17—early 19, C.19 c.: a dog-stealer. B.E.; Grose.

bufe's nob. A dog's head: c. (—1785); † by 1900. Grose, 1st ed.

buff, n. The bare skin: coll.: C.17–20. Hence, in buff, naked: C.17–19. In gen. use, ob. except in stripped to the buff (C.19–20); but the Services maintain the tautologous phrase bare buff, i.e. wearing only a pair of shorts, a direct link with Chapman, 1654, 'Then for accoutrements you wear the buff.' Ex the colour.—2. A man; a fellow; often as a term of address (A New Canting Dict., 1725): coll.: ca. 1700–1830. Kersey's Dict., 1708; Smollett, in Roderick Random, 1748. Cf. buffer, sense 2.—3. A var. of bufe, q.v.: C.18. Cf. buff-knapper.—4. As B-, a member of the Royal Antediluvian Order of Buffaloes, which, founded in or about 1875, aims at promoting universal brotherhood: 1879: coll. >, by 1910, S.E. OED Sup.—5. A buffalo: big-game hunters': since ca. 1870. Also, in C.20, Aus.—6. A corporal: RAF: since ca. 1919. (Jackson.) Adopted from the Army, where, however, orderly buff used to mean Orderly Sergeant: in the RAF orderly buff=Orderly Corporal. Cf. buffer, 6, q.v., perhaps the orig., via the RNAs.—7. A stoker; esp. a second-class buff, second-class stoker: RN: C.20: Granville.—8. One who, protesting that he has been swindled, threatens to go to the police: Can. carnivals': C.20. Ex buff, v., 2.—9. An anal escape of wind: Oundle School: C.20. Echoic. 'Has now reached Rugby School' (D.F. Wharton, 1965).—10. An enthusiast of, or for, e.g. football or fires or Ned Kelly: adopted ex US by Can., since ca. 1940; Aus., ca. 1944; and UK, since late 1940s.—11. See stand buff.

buff, v. To strip oneself, often as buff it; it occurs also in buff well, to appear to advantage when (almost) stripped: sporting, esp. boxing: prob. since ca. 1810 or even 1800; †. Ex buff, n., 1; perhaps imm. ex buffing the dog.—2. To maintain a statement; swear to a person's identity (buff to); inform on. (If absolutely, buff it: 'Do you buff it?' From ca. 1880. Vaux. (Cf. US sense: Thornton.) Perhaps ex to buffet or to bluff.—3. To polish with a buff: coll. in metal trades from ca. 1880. OED.—4. See buffing the dog.

buff and blue, or blue and buff. The Whig party: ca. 1690–1830: political coll. Ex its former colours.

buff-ball. C.19—early 20. c. and low. Greenwood, in Strange Company, 1880: 'The most favourite entertainment at this place is known as buff-ball, in which both sexes—innocent of clothing—madly join.' Cf. ballum rancum and butttock-ball.

buff-coat. A soldier: ca. 1660–1900: coll. >, by 1700, S.E. Cf. Bufs.

Buff Howards, the. The 3rd Foot—from 1881 the East Kent—Regiment: military s. (ca. 1740) >, by 1800, coll. (F. & G.) Ex its colonel of 1738–49 (Thomas Howard) and the colour of its facings. Contrast Green Howards. See also Bufs. buff-(k)napper. A dog-stealer: c.: C.18—early 19. A New Canting Dict., 1725.

buff nor buff, say neither. To say nothing at all: coll.: late C.15–17. A C.16–19 var. is not to say buff to a wolf's shadow. Here, buff, like baff, is prob. echoic. OED.

buff-stick (mostly in pl.). The military police: naval lower-deck: late C.18–19. L.L.G., 1 Jan. 1825 (Moe).—2. An orderly man: army: early C.20. (F. & G.) Ex the polishing instrument so named. Cf. stick man.

buff to the stuff. To claim stolen property: late C.19–20 c. (Ware.) See buff, v., 2.

buff to (one's) work. To strip to one's waist and set-to with one's fists: ca. 1800–60 Blackwood's, Nov. 1823 ('The Night Walker'). On extension of buff, v., 1.

buff up. To smarten up. See shroff up.

buffalo, n. A buffalo-robe: Can. and US coll.: 1856. OED.

buffalo, v. Too out-bluff or out-wit, to circumvent; to overawe: Can.: since ca. 1920; by ca. 1945, coll. Ex US, where it originally denoted 'to hunt buffalo'.

buffalo boy. A negro comic: music-halls':—1909; ob. by 1930. Ware.

buffalo navigator. A bullock driver: Aus. joc.: ca. 1930–50. B., 1943.

buffar. Dog-like: c.:—1688 (Randle Holme). See bufe.

buffed. Tipsy: C.19. Scott, The Pirate, 1822, "Why, he has sucked the monkey so long and so often," said the boatswain, "that the best of him is buffed" (Drink-sodden.) Cf. buffy. (D.B. Gardner.)

buffer. A dog: in mid-C.16—early 19 c.; after ca. 1830, low; ob. The C.16–17, occ. The C.18, spellings are bufe (q.v.), bufa, buffa. Lover, in Handy Andy, 1840. 'It is not every day we get a badger... I'll send for my "buffer"... spanking sport.' In late C.19–20 circus s., it denotes a performing dog, as in: 'Risley kids and slanging buffers, / Lord alone knows how they suffers.' 'Risley (?Riseley) kids' are the children used in foot juggling. (With thanks to David Creswell.)—2. In late C.17–18 c., 'a Rogue that kills good sound Horses only for their Skins' (B.E.).—3. A man, in C.19 often, in C.20 gen., as old buffer. Recorded in 1749; Barham; Anstey, 'an old yellow buffer'. Perhaps ex buff, the bare skin, but cf. dial. sense, a foolish fellow.—4. One who, for money, takes a false oath: C.19. Cf. buff, v., 2.—5. A boxer: mostly Anglo-Irish: ca. 1810–50. Lex. Bal., 1811; Tom Moore in Tom Crib's Memorial, 1819, 'Sprightly to the Scratch both Buffers came.' Cf. S.E. buffet.—6. A boatswain's mate: RN: mid-C.19–20. (H., 3rd ed.) It was he who, in the old days, administered the 'cat'.—7. A pistol: early C.19. (Scott, 1824.) Cf. barker.—8. An innkeeper, says Grose, 1st ed. Perhaps an error, perhaps a var. of bluffer, 1, q.v. If authentic, then it is prob. c. of ca. 1780–1830.—9. A petty officer: RN: C.20. (Weekly Telegraph, 25 Oct. 1941.) He acts as a buffer between officers and men.—10. A boatswain, whence buffer's mate and chief buffer's mate: RN: late C.19–20. Ex sense 6.

buffer-lurking. Dog-stealing: C.19 c. buffer-nabber. A dog-stealer: c.:—1823; ob. by 1930. (Egan's Grose.) See buffer, n., 1.

buffers. Female breasts: low: late C.19–20.

buffer's nab. A false seal, shaped like a dog's head (nab=nob), to a false pass. Late C.17–18 c. (B.E.) Cf. bufe's nob.

buffing the dog. The practice of killing such stolen dogs as are not advertised for, stripping them of their skins (cf. buff, n., 1 and v., 1), which they sell, and giving the flesh to other dogs: c. (—1781); app. † by 1860 or so. (G. Parker, 1781.) Prob. ex buff, n., 1.

buffle. A fool: mid-C.16–18; coll. >, by 1720, S.E. Ex Fr. buffle, a buffalo, and abbr.:-

buffle-head. A fool; an ignorant fellow: mid-C.17–18; coll. till ca. 1700, then S.E. Whence:- buffle-headed. Foolish: stupid: late C.17–19; coll. until ca. 1750, then S.E.

Bufs, the. The Third Regt of Foot; in 1881, The Royal East Kent Regt; in 1961 merged with the Queen's Own Royal West Kent Regt to form The Queen's Own Buffs, Royal Kent Regt; and this, in 1966, became part of the new, large Queen's Regt (Carew). Also the old Bufs (—1806), the young Bufs being the 31st Regiment, raised in 1702. From ca. 1740, ex its 1737–49 colonel, it was called the Buff Howards, a name that, in C.19, yielded to the old name, the Bufs. The regimental facings were buff-coloured. See Tinsley's Magazine, April 1886. N.b., the Ross-shire Bufs = the old 78th Regiment (now amalgamated with the old 79th Regt to form The Queen's Own Highlanders (Seaforth and Camerons).—2. See steady the Bufs!

buffy (or -ey). 'Old Buffy'... does not mean anything offensive, just the same as 'Old fellow' (Sessions, 30 Oct. 1845): low s.: ca. 1825–70. Ex buffer, 3?

buffy, v. To polish (esp. one's buttons): RAF: from ca. 1930; by ca. 1950, †. P-G-R.

buffy, adj. Drunk: from ca. 1859; ob. H., 1st ed.; Yates, 1866, 'Flexor was fine and buffy when he came home last night.'

Perhaps a corruption of bugdy, q.v., or ex bevy, q.v.

bug. Either a decoy (buffet) or a bully: late C.16 c. Greene. bug, n. An inciter, esp. to homosexuality: c.: C.18. James Dalton, A Narrative, 1778, 'A Man who was what they called a Bug to the Mollies, picking 'em up, as if to commit... Sodomy.'—2. An Englishman: Anglo-Irish: mid-C.18–19. (Grose, 1st ed.) Ex bugs, introduced, Irishmen say, into Ireland by Englishmen.—3. A breast-pin: c.: mid-C.19—early 20.—4. A school 'blood': certain Public Schools': late C.19–20. Ian Hay, 'Pip', 1907.—5. (Gen pl.) A wall-flower: low London:—1909 (Ware). Cf. blood, n., 4.—6. A Morse-key operated from side to side, instead of vertically: telegraphists' and wireless operators': since ca. 1910, Can. and Aus.; in Brit. usage, in later C.20, often bug-key, and > j.—7. An old car, rebuilt and remodelled, racing-car fashion: Can.: ca. 1919–39. (Leechman.)—8. As Bug, a Bugatti car: motorists': since ca. 1920.—9. An electric-light bulb: Bootham School:—1925 (Bootham).—10. An imperfection in a mechanical device or invention: Can.: adopted, ca. 1945, ex US; by 1960, at latest, Brit. also.—11. Hence, a fault, or a delay, on a new enterprise: Aus., since late 1940s; hence also Brit.—12. An important person. See big bug.—13. Short for buggery, n., q.v., in phrases such as 'daft as bug' and 'going like bug': C.20 (P.B.)—14. As the Bug, the Natural History Museum: Rugby Schoolboys': ca. 1880–1910. 'Now any library, e.g. the Temple Bug = the Temple Reading Room' (D.F. Wharton, 1965).—15. As, e.g., stamp bug, a collector, a 'buff': coll.: later C.20.

bug, v. To exchange 'some of the dearest materials of which a hat is made for other of less value' (Grose, 1st ed.): late C.18—early 19: hatters'.—2. To bribe: late C.17–19 c.; cf. bug the writ, q.v. Whence vbl n., bugging, the police's taking of bribes not to arrest: late C.17–19 c. B.E.—3. Also, to give; hand over (bug over): c. (—1812); †. Vaux.—4. To obtain shadily from: c. or low: C.20. John G. Brandon, Th' Big City, 1931, 'Supposin' one of them [harlots] buys a bloke for a few Brads in a taxi'. Semantics: sting as an insect does.—5. To fit a building or a room with hidden microphones or transistors: adopted, 1962, ex US.—6. To get on (someone's) nerves: adopted, in late 1950s, ex US. Nicholas Blake, The Sad Variety, 1964.—7. In bug out, v., q.v.

bug and flea. Tea: rhyming s., esp. army in WW1: by 1940, †. Franklyn 2nd.

bug-blinding. A bout of white-washing: army: ca. 1870–1930. See also blind out.

bug box. A 'small four-wheeled passenger carriage' (Railway, 2nd): railwaymen's: C.20.

bug(-)dust. Small coal: railwaymen's: since ca. 1920. (Railway.)

bug-eyed monsters. See B.E.M.s.

bug house. A second-rate cinema: S. Africa: since ca. 1920. (Cyrus A. Smith, letter, 1946.) Cf. flea pit, 3.

bug-house. Mad; very eccentric: Anglicised, as rather low s., by late 1936. For its usage in US, see Irwin. Adopted by Canada in early C.20. (Niven.)

bug-hunter. An upholsterer: late C.18–19. Grose, 2nd ed.—2. A robber of the dead: mid-C.19–20: c. or low s. H., 1st ed.—3. One who collects as an entomologist: coll.: 1889 (OED). Hence, in schools, the school's natural history club or society. In, e.g., Kipling, Stalky & Co., 1899.—4. A robber of drunken men's breast-pins: c.: from ca. 1860; †. Ex bug, n., 3.

bug hut, the. See flea pit.

bug-hutch. 'A small hut or sleeping place' (F. & G.): army: WW1. S.F. Hatton, Yarn of a Yeoman, 1930, writing of 1915: '[In Egypt] we had native beds, a framework made of palm sticks—"bug hutches" we called them' (P.B.).

bug in a rug. See snug as a bug...

bug-juice. Treacle: at the Borstal Institution at Portland: early C.20.—2. Ginger ale: low: ca. 1870–1910.—3. Whisky: Can. (and US): C.20. (John Beames.) By later C.20, alcohol generally. Also as bugjuice (Leechman cites H. Dempsey, Bob Edwards, 1975).

bug-letter. A letter in stereotyped form: typists':—1935. Chris Irwin, 1983, suggests an orig. in the story of the man who wrote to a US railroad company to complain about having suffered the insect-life in their sleeping cars. He received a very polite written apology, with a promise to look into the matter, but the effect was spoiled by someone's failure to erase the pencilled instruction, 'Send this guy the usual bug-letter.'

bug nest. A hat: Guards Depot at Caterham: WW1. John o'London, 3 Nov. 1939.

bug (or bugg) off! Orig. euph., then joc., for bugger off!, 'Run away, stop bothering me': since ca. 1965. 'Heard on and off on TV' (Petch, 1976).

bug-out, v. To protrude, as of eyes: adopted ex US, C.20. Mark Twain, 'Jim's eyes bugged out [with surprise].' (P.B.) —2. To evacuate, retreat hastily: army in Korea; adopted ex US soldiers, 1950. See quot'n at swan. Also as n.

bug over. To hand over. See bug, v., 3.

bug rake. A hair comb: Aus. and Brit. juvenile: since ca. 1930 (?earlier).

bug rum. Bay rum (hair-dressing): RN lowerdeck: C.20. P-G-R. Cf.:-

bug run. 'A parting in the hair—a gun-room phrase' (Laffin, Jack Tar, 1969; P-G-R): RN: C.20. Implying nits in the hair. Cf. bug rum, and bug-walk.

bug-shooter. A volunteer (soldier): schools' and universities': ca. 1898–1914. Ware.

bug the writ. (Of bailiffs) to refrain from, or postpone, serving a writ, money having passed: c.: late C.18—early 19. Grose, 1st ed.

bug-trap. A small vessel; a bunk: nautical: from ca. 1890. Because easily overrun with cockroaches. (OED Sup.) Hence, in WW2 RN s., a Naval Auxiliary vessel, or any tramp steamer. P-G-R.

bug-walk. A bed: low: ca. 1850–1930. H., 3rd ed.—2. A hair-parting: low: ca. 1890–1914. Cf. bug-run.

bug wash. Hair oil: Felsted (and other schools): since ca. 1925. (Marples.) Cf. bug rum.

bug(-)whiskers. 'The result of an abortive attempt to grow a "set"': Granville: RN: since ca. 1925. Ex Cockney s. of C.20.

bugaboo. A sheriff's officer; a weekly creditor: C.19 c. (Egan's Grose.) Ex lit. sense.

buggah. A var., rare in C.20, of sense 2 of bugger.

bugged. 'Covered with sores and abscesses from septic injection of a narcotic' (Home Office): drug addicts': current in 1970s.—2. Cf. bug, v., 5.

bugger, n. In c., a stealer of breast-pins from drunks: C.19. Ex bug, n., 3.—2. A man: fellow; chap: low coll.; 1719, D'Urfey. In S.E. (C.16–20), a sodomite. In low coll. and in dial., as in the US, the word has no offensive connotation whatsoever: cf. the remark at pakeha, q.v., and the gradual and complete decolorisation of bastard, q.v., and of Fr. bougre, as in C.19–20 un bon bougre, a good chap. But also as a pej.: disagreeable person of either sex; an unpleasant, very difficult, or dangerous thing, project, episode, circumstance, as in WW1. 'It's a bugger making a raid on a wet night.' In 1929, still an actionable word if printed (Norah James: Sleeveless Errand); in 1934, no longer so (R. Blaker: Night-Shift; Geoffrey Dennis: Bloody Mary's). Ex L. Bulgarus, a Bulgarian; the Albanian heretics were often perverts. OED; EDD; and the introduction to B. & P.—3. A person (usually male) very energetic or very skilful; esp. in a bugger to work—drive—drink—what have you: can.: since ca. 1925. (Leachman.) Cf. the Eng. beggar for work, which has presumably influenced the Eng. var. bugger for work; ... for the women; etc.: since ca. 1950, at latest. (P.B.)—4. A form of rigger. See PUBLIC... SCHOOL SLANG.—5. 'An "Inquiry Agent", or a spy, who instals and uses electronic listening devices (bugs) to acquire information surreptitiously' (Daily Telegraph, 7 June 1973): since ca. 1970. (R.S.) Ex bug, v., 5.—6. In not a bugger, not at all, as in not care, or give, a bugger: low coll.: C.20. Geoffrey Dennis, 1934.

bugger, v. To spoil; ruin; check or change drastically: as a curse, since late C.18, as in Sessions, Dec. 1793, p. 86, 'She said, bst and b—gg—r your eyes, I have got none of your money'. In 1914+, buggered=badly wounded, done for. In WW1—and in all subsequent conflicts—the British Tommy and his Colonial peers were often heard to say, 'Well, that's bugged it.' Doubtless a development from the S.E. sense, to commit sodomy with. The past ppl passive, buggered, occurs in expletive phrases, e.g. 'Well, I'm bugged!', 'damned; you be bugged!' (cf. 'bugger you!'), go to the devil!—2. V.i. and t., to cheat at cards: c. or low: late C.19–20; ob.—3. See bugger about, and k.b.o.

bugger! A strong expletive: latish C.19–20. Manchon.

bugger about, v. Potter about; fuss; act ineffectually; waste time on a thing, with a person. Hence, bugger about with, to caress intimately; interfere with (person or thing). C.20: coll. rather than s.; in Aus. more than in Brit. Also 'to play the fool': cf. let's play silly buggers.—2. V.t. To stall; to be unhelpful to (someone): since ca. 1905 or, maybe, a decade earlier. (Mr A.B. Petch cites its use in the Hansard 'The Growth of Democracy' on 7 Apr. 1968.)—3. See bugger around.

bugger all. Nothing. A low var. of damn all, q.v.; and fuck all. See also Gaba.

bugger around (on). 'To be unfaithful, usually a man unfaithful to his wife. This phrase is in common usage [in Edmonton]. Even the phrase "bugger about" is used in this connotation here in the Prairies and, I think, most of Canada' (Robin Leech, 1980).

bugger-bafflers. Side vents at the bottom rear of a man's jacket: tailors': late 1950s. Nik Cohn, Today There Are No Gentlemen, 1971.

bugger (one's) contract. See bugger the contract.

bugger in (or on) the coals. 'A thinnish cake speckled [sic] with currants and baked hastily on the glowing embers,' William Kelly, Life in Victoria, 1859: Aus.: ca. 1830–90. Cf. beggar..., and see devil-on-the-coals.

bugger it!; bugger me! Variants on bugger! used as expletive: since C.19. Helen Chappell in New Society, 8 Oct. 1981, article on the lower middle class, quotes: "'Bugger me!" says a lad with a shark's tooth on a chain round his neck." Oooh Duckie—I didn't know you cared, "crows his mate [jokingly taking the order literally]'. An Aus. intensive, since ca. 1940, to express surprise, is bugger me dead!; the Brit. var., since ca. 1950: bugger me gently!

bugger off. To depart, to decamp: low: late C.19–20. Cf. fuck off and piss off. By late 1950s—see, e.g., Nancy Mitford, Don't Tell Alfred, 1960—no longer low. Also, in Australia, a denial. 'An Australian friend, in the early 1960s, would gently contradict his wife's extravagant statements with, "Oh, bugger off, sweetie! You know very well..."' (P.B., 1974).

bugger the (or one's) contract. To spoil, ruin, bungle anything whatsoever: army coll.: WW1. (F. & G.) Occ., euph. beggar (one's) contract, or mess up the contract, q.v. at contract. Cf.:-

bugger up. To spoil, ruin; nullify: low: C.19–20. Cf. bugger, v., 1, and note the use of buggerup (as one word) in Standard Pidgin, borrowed in the ruefully joc. 'Him all buggerup finish'—he's done for (dead). (Camilla Raab, 1978.)

bugger up a teapot, it's a. Exclamation (?mostly North Country) of jocular or rueful dismay at a quandary. I heard it for years as a child without, until I was 20, seeing other than expletive sense in it' (L.A., 1974): C.20.

bugger you! A strong expletive: low:—1887 (Baumann). buggeration factor. RAF var. of embuggerance, q.v. Strong & Hart-Davis, Fighter Pilot, 1981.

buggered. See bugger, v., 1, latter part.

buggered if I know!, (I'm). Sorry, I just don't know: Aus. and Brit.: C.20.

buggerising (or connivering) about. Aimlessly wandering or pottering: Aus.: since ca. 1935. B., 1953.

buggeranto. See ROGUES..., in Appendix.

buggerlugs. A not necessarily offensive term of address: orig. mainly nautical: late C.19–20. (J. Brophy, Waterfront, 1934.) P.B.: I first heard it from a Cumbrian, during RAF National Service, early 1950s, describing the Station Warrant Officer as 'Old Buggerlugs'. Cf. the Aus. fuck-knuckle. —2. Those little tufts of hair which are sometimes seen on men's cheekbones: RN: C.20. Cf. bugger's grips.

buggeroo. An admiring description of a 'card' or 'character': non-aristocratic: since ca. 1945. The US suffix -eroo has been blended with bugger.

bugger's grips. The short whiskers on the cheeks of Old Salts: RN (lowerdeck): C.20. Also bugger grips. In H.M.S. Leviathan, 1967, John Winton writes, 'Tufts of biscuit-coloured hair grew on his cheeks in what were called in the Service "bugger's grips"'. buggers in the coals is the late C.19–20 form of bugger in the coals. B., 1943.

buggers' muddle (often prec. by a real or a right). A shocking muddle or mess-up, 'a bloody shambles'; very common in the 'Other Ranks' of the army during WW2, but prob. going back to ca. 1920.

buggers' opera, the. See sods' opera.

buggery. (In S.E., sodomy: like bugger and to bugger, it is the correct legal term: see OED and SOD.) In C.20 unconventional English, it occurs in several strong and violent phrases, often of rejection, e.g., (all) to buggery, completely, destructively, ruinously. In WW1, 'Our batteries shelled poor old Jerry to buggery' (Manchon); (Oh), go to buggery!, even stronger (in intention) than 'Go to Hell!'; also as get to buggery!—'Go away!'. As strong and disapproving denial: 'Did he do the decent thing? Did he buggery!'—No, indeed he did not. 'Will he do it? Like buggery he will!'—No, there is no chance that he will. Like buggery, used adverbially, always implies that the action is being done vigorously, but also, often, cruelly or vindictively.

buggie. A bugbear: a boggy: joc. when not merely illiterate: since ca. 1925.

Buggins Principle, the. See next in line for admiral. Many of these imaginary principles and laws have arisen in the wake of Parkinson's Law, but Buggins's is perhaps an older, Civil Service, var.

buggly, v.t. To exchange, to swap: army: C.20. (F. & G.) Perhaps a mis-hearing of bulldi, q.v.

buggy. 'Caboose; passenger car; box car' (a magazine article, 1931): Can. and US railroadmen's: C.20.—2. A motor-car: since ca. 1945. (John Creasey, Battle for Inspector West, 1949.) Cf. blood-waggon.

buggy-ride. See thanks for the buggy-ride.

bugher; occ. as in Coles, 1676, bughar. A dog, esp. if a mongrel or given to yelping or barking: ca. 1670–1820: orig. c., then low. Cf. buffer, 1, and see bufe.

bugjuice. Alcohol. See bug-juice, 3.

bugle. Nose: Can.: C.20. Cf. hooter, 2.—2. In on the bugle, malodorous: Aus.: since ca. 1930.

Bugs. Synonym of Bats, 2, RN: the deck-landing officer on an aircraft-carrier: since ca. 1939. (Granville.) With a pun on bats, adj.

bugs, n. A dirty seaman: nautical: late C.19–20. Bowen. Cf. bug-trap.—2. Bacteria; bacteriology: medical students':—1933 (Slang, p. 191).—3. Biology: schools': since ca. 1935. (New Society, 22 Aug. 1963.) Cf. sense 2, and stinks, chemistry. bugs, adj. Mod, crazy, eccentric: orig. US, > by 1925, Can. Ex either a 'conflation' of bug-house, or crazy as a bed-bug. Spread to UK via the popular film-cartoon 'character' 'Bugs Bunny'. build, n. (Of clothes) make, cut, tailoring: coll.: from ca. 1840. 'Cuthbert Bede', Verdant Green, 1853; Punch, 10 Jan. 1880, in the delightful contribution on 'The Spread of Education'. Cf. build up, q.v.

build, v. To stack a pack of cards. See milk, v., 6.

build a chapel. To steer badly: nautical: C.19–20, ob.

build a sconce. See sconce, n., 5.

build up. 'To array in good clothes, for trade purposes': c.: late C.19–20. (Ware.) Cf. build, q.v. Hence:—2. N. & v. 'To describe most favourably in advance of an appearance. "He gave her a terrific build-up." Movie personalities are "built up" for their audiences in many and strange ways.' (Leechman.) Since ca. 1925: a coll. that, by 1955 at latest, was familiar S.E.

built by the mile. See cotton-box.

built for comfort. (Of a man) stout; (of a woman) agreeably plump: C.20.

built-in obsolescence. Old age, applied to people: esp. in early 1950s, but not get (1976) obsolete. (E.P.) Applied to things like motor-cars, it is mere j. for an immoral and wasteful practice. (P.B.)

built like a brick shit-house, he's. Very well made: Can. low: C.20. Adopted, since ca. 1950, in UK, where it is usu. unkindly and derogatory of a large and ungainly girl. (P.B.)

built that way. (Gen. in negative.) Like, such a person as, that; of such a nature or character. Orig. (—1890), US; anglicised ca. 1900 as a coll.

built-up. (?) In trouble: army: ca. 1900. See ARMY SLANG, verse 3, in Appendix. (P.B.)

bulk. See buck, n., 11, and v., 2.

bulkk. See buck, v., 2.

bulkra. Tomorrow: army: since ca. 1880; but esp. among British and Dominion troops in the Middle East in the two World Wars. (Rats.) Ex Arabic for 'tomorrow'.

bulchin. Lit., a bull-calf. A term of contempt or endearment to boy, youth, or man: coll., ca. 1615–1830.—2. B.E. has it for a chubby boy or lad: coll., C.17–18. Also as bulkin (late C.16–17) and, in Grose, bull chin.

Bulgarian atrocities. Varna and Rutschuk Railway 3% obligations: ca. 1885–1914: Stock Exchange.

bulge. 'Bilge', q.v.: from ca. 1922. (Manchon.) Cf. Austin Reed's clever advertisement, 1935, of a waistcoat that doesn't bunch up (Talking bulge). Prob. of joc. origin via nautical j.—2. In get the bulge (on a person), to obtain an advantage: US (1860), partly anglicised ca. 1890; ob. Ware; Manchon; OED Sup. Whence, have (got) the bulge on, to have the advantage of. E.H. Hornung, Raffles, 1899: 'We had the bulge before; he has it now: it's perfectly fair.'

bulger, n. and adj. (Anything) large: coll.:—1859; ob. H., 1st ed.

bulgine. An engine: nautical: mid-C.19–early 20. An old shanty has: 'Clear the track, let the bulgine run.' (Bowen.) Punning engine: hengine, hen-gine or -jine. Also spelled bull-jine, or, as in 'Taffrail', bullgine.

bulk, a thief's assistant, late C.17–mid-19, is certainly c. as is bulk and file (pickpocket and his jostling accomplice): Coles, 1676.

bulk, v.; hence vbl n. bulking. To be a bulk (see prec.): c.: ca. 1670–1780. Anon., The Bragadocio, 1691, at II, ii (Moe).

bulk-monger. A prostitute consorting with male thieves, esp. pickpockets: C.18. A Congratulatory Epistle from a Reformed Rake... upon Prostitutes, 1728.

bulker. Synonymous with bulk, n.—2. A low harlot: if c. in late C.17, > low s. in mid-C.18. Lit., one who sleeps on a bulk or heap.

bulkin. See bulchin.

bulky, n. A police constable: Northern c. or low: C.19–20; ob. Edinburgh Magazine, Aug. 1821.

bulky, adj. Rich, generous; generously rich. Winchester College, C.19–20. Opp. brum.

bull, n. False hair worn by women: ca. 1690–1770. B.E.—2. Abbr. bull's-eye, a crown piece: c.: late C.18–19.—3. A ration of beef: c.:—1860 (H., 2nd ed.).—4. In † S.E., a ludicrous jest, a self-contradictory statement. But in C.19–20, a ludicrous inconsistency unnoticed by its perpetrator and often producing an unintentional pun. Irish was not added until ca. 1850, about which time the coll. > S.E. Henry Kingsley, in one of his two best novels, Geoffrey Hamlyn, 1859: 'the most outrageous of Irish bulls'. ?suggested by cock and bull story.—5. In the money market (opp. to bear), a speculator for a rise: from ca. 1840. Orig. (1714) a speculation for a rise. At first in either sense, s.; but by 1880, 1740 resp., coll. In C.20, the more modern sense is S.E.—6. Coll., lower classes, from ca. 1850, a “bull” is a teapot with the leaves left in for a second brew” (G.R. Sims, in How the Poor Live, 1887).—7. At Winchester College, from ca. 1873 but now ob., cold beef, esp. at breakfast (cf. sense 3).—8. Abbr. John Bull: ca. 1825–1900, coll.—9. Abbr. bull’s-eye, the centre of the target; hence, a hit there. From ca. 1870; in C.20, coll. Military and marksman’s.—10. A broken-winded horse: low: late C.19–20.—11. A small keg: nautical: C.19–20.—12. Milk: Bootham School: early C.20. Bootham.—13. ‘Washings of a sugar bag’ (Peter Cunningham, Two Years in New South Wales, 1827): Aus.: ca. 1815–70. Ex bull the cask.—14. A South Seas islander; esp., a Torres Strait islander: Aus.: earlier C.20. Vance Palmer, Legend for Sanderson, 1937.—15. An elephant: circusmen’s: C.20. Short for ‘bull elephant’.—16. A policeman; esp. a detective: c., adopted ex US: C.20.—17. ‘A wharf labourer unfairly favoured for employment’ (Willkes): Aus. dockers’ coll.: later C.20.—18. Short for bullshit, q.v., in all its senses: perhaps Aus. before Brit.: since early C.20. Now gen. understood to derive ex bullshit, but cf. sense 4. Hence the Can. peddle the bull and bull-peddler, to talk nonsense, and one who does this: since ca. 1945; earlier Can., since ca. 1919, was shoot the bull, with derivative bull-session.—19. See sweat like a bull; town bull; trust as far...

B

bull, v. To have intercourse with a woman (cf. the C.17–early 19 proverb, ‘who bulls the cow must keep the calf’): low coll., C.18–20.—2. To befool, mock: C.16–17. To cheat: C.17–18. Both nuances coll.—3. (Stock Exchange) v.i. and t., try to raise the price (of): from ca. 1840; coll. after 1880; in C.20, S.E.—4. V.i., to toil; to struggle: Can., esp. lumbermen’s: C.20. John Beames.—5. To brag; talk nonsense: Aus.: since ca. 1925. (B.) Like n., 18, ex bullshit. Hence, a bull-artist, one given to these failings. Cf.:—6. To put something across (one’s superior officer): army: WW2. Cf. sense 2, but prob. like 5, ex bullshit.—7. To polish, esp. one’s boots; to apply any form of cleaning to uniform, equipment or quarters: Services’: since 1950 certainly, prob. much earlier. Often as bull up, v.t. and i. Ex bullshit, n. and v. (P.B.) bull-a-bull, bullybul. Poroporo (a flowering shrub): NZ: 1845 (Morris).

bull and boloney. Idle talk; hot air: Guards Division: since ca. 1938. See the elements.—2. Hence, spit and polish plus window dressing: Army: WW2.

bull and cow. A ‘row’, disturbance: rhyming s.:—1859 (H., 1st ed.). Recorded also in that excellent modern glossary of rhyming s.: ‘Rhyming Slang’... An authentic compilation by P.P., 1932.

bull-ants. Trousers: Aus. rhyming s., on pants: since ca. 1930. Franklyn 2nd.—2. In feel as if (or though) one will (or would) give birth to bull-ants, to feel much out of sorts, ill: Aus.: C.20. B., 1942.

bull artist, bullshit artist. Synonyms of bullshitter, than which, by 1960, they were commoner; since ca. 1916. All three, Aus.; the 1st, also NZ, also with derivative sense, a smooth talker, esp. of a travelling salesman, as in Slatter.

bull at a (five-barred) gate, like a. Furiously; impetuously; clumsily: late C.19–20, coll.

bull-bait. To bully; hector. Dickens in Great Expectations, 1860. ? a nonce-word.

bull-beef; occ. bull’s-beef. Meat, esp. if beef: C.16–20, ob.; low coll. Adj., fierce, haughty, intolerant: C.18, coll.—2. In big as bull-beef, stout and hearty; very big; big and grim: coll.: late C.17–18; thereafter, dial. W. Robertson, 1681; Motteux, 1712. Apperson. Cf.:—3. In eat bull-beef, to become strong; fierce, presumptuous: late C.16–19. Gosson, 1579.—4. In like bull-beef, big and grim, esp. with bluster and look: coll.: C.17–19. B.E.; Wolcot. Cf.:—5. In ugly as bull-beef, very ugly indeed: coll.: C.18–19.—6. In sell yourself for bull-beef! (often prec. by go and), run away!; don’t be silly!: coll.: C.19. H., 3rd ed.

bull-calf. A big hulking or clumsy fellow: late C.16—early 19: coll. Shakespeare, 2 King Henry IV (R.S.); Grose, 1st ed.

bull chin. See bulchin.

bull-dance. A dance with men only: nautical: early C.19—early 20. An early occurrence is in Fredk Chamier, The Life of a Sailor, 1832, at II, 38. (Moe.) Cf. bull-party, stag-dance.

bull-dog. A sheriff’s officer: late C.17—early 19: coll. Farquhar, 1698.—2. A pistol: late C.17—19: coll. Cf. barker and buffer. Farquhar, 1700, ‘He whips out his stiletto, and I whips out my bull-dog’; Scott, 1825.—3. (RN) a main-deck gun, C.19–20; ob. If housed or covered, it is a muzzled b.-d.—4. A sugar-loaf: early C.19; low, perhaps c.—5. A university (Oxford or Cambridge) proctor’s assistant: from ca. 1810; coll. Lockhart, in 1823, ‘Long-forgotten stories of proctors bit and bull-dogs baffled.’ See also proctor’s dogs. Cf. buller.—6. A member of Trinity College, Cambridge: C.19; † by 1890.

Bull Dog Corps, the. The 6th Army Corps: occ. military nickname: 1915–18. (F. & G.) Ex the Corps sign: a bull-dog.

bull-dogging. A ruse of throwing a steer by grasping one horn and the muzzle and twisting the neck: Can.: ca. 1910–45. The term was replaced by steer-decorating.

bull-dose, -doze. See bulldoze. The compound was, like bullshit, orig. hyphenated.

bull-dust or -fodder. Nonsense: Aus.: since ca. 1919. (B., 1943.) By ca. 1940, also English.

bull-dust, v. To talk nonsense; esp., to ‘kid’: Aus.: since ca. 1920. “‘Fairdinkum?’” said Ritchie. “Or are yuh bull-dustin’?” (Dick.) Ex the n.

bull fiddle. A bass viol: Can.: C.20. (Leechman.) Also Brit. New Society, 14 Jan. 1982, p. 46, quotes an anecdote of Sir John Barbirolli talking of the “bull” fiddle, by which the famous conductor seems to mean the double bass. (P.B.)

bull(-)finch. A fool; a stupid fellow: coll., C.17–18.—2. In hunting, a high quickset hedge that, with a ditch on one side, is too—or almost too—difficult for a horse to jump. From ca. 1830; by 1890, S.E. G. Lawrence in Guy Livingstone, ‘an ugly black bull-finch’. Perhaps a perversion of bull-fence. Whence:—

bull-finch, v.i. To leap a horse through such a hedge: from ca. 1840; coll.—2. Hence bull-finch, a horseman that does, or is fond of doing, this: coll., from ca. 1850. Also, such a hedge: coll. (1862).

bull-flesh. Boastfulness; swagger: coll.: 1820; † by 1890. F. & H.

bull-fuck. Custard: Can. railroad-construction crews’: since ca. 1910.

bull-head. A stupid fellow: C.17–18; coll. Cf. S.E. bull-headed, impetuously.

bull in a china shop, like a. Clumsily: coll. (—1841), verging, in C.20, on S.E. (Marryat.) Perhaps suggested by cow in a cage, q.v.

bull in trouble. A bull in the pound: c.:—1823; † by 1890. Egan’s Grose.

bull it through. To accomplish something—esp. an outdoor task—by sheer strength rather than by skill and planning: Can. coll.: C.20. (Leechman.)

bull-jine. A locomotive. See bulgine.

bull-juice. Condensed milk: mostly nautical: since ca. 1920. Robert Harbinson, Up Spake the Cabin-Boy, 1961.

bull money. ‘Money extorted from or given by those who in places of public resort have been detected in flagrante delicto with a woman, as a bribe to silence’ (F. & H.): low coll., from ca. 1870; ob.

bull-moose. A huge, powerful fellow. See moose, 2.

bull-night. An evening during which recruits and trainees are confined to barracks in order to prepare for inspection by CO or adjutant the next day: Services’: since ca. 1945, but esp. during the period of National Service (ended 1962). (P.B.)

bull-nurse. A male attendant on the sick: nautical: ca.

1840–1900. The Graphic, 4 Apr. 1885, 'Years ago (it may be so still) it was the sailors' phrase ...'

bull of the woods. A foreman: Can. railwaymen's and lumbermen's: since ca. 1910. (Leechman.)

bull-party. A party of men only: C.19–early 20. Cf. bull-dance; stag-party.

bull-point. An advantage; a (point of) superiority: coll.: C.20 (OED Sup.). Why?

bull-puncher. Both a var. of cow-puncher and an abbr. of bullock-puncher: Aus.: from ca. 1870; ob. C.H. Eden, My Wife and I in Queensland, 1872.

bull-ring. A training-ground, at a base, notorious for severity of the drill and surly insensibility of the instructors: army: 1915–18; then historical. B. & P., 'From Spanish bull-fights ... The most notorious [bull-ring] was at Etapes.'

bull-shit. See bullshit, since ca. 1920 the more usual form in writing.

bull the (or a) barrel or cask. To pour water into an empty rum cask and, after a sensible interval, to drink the intoxicating resultant: nautical:—1824; ob. If the officers, to keep the wood moist, used salt water, even the ensuing salt-water bull was sometimes drunk. Cf. bulling a teapot; see bull, n., 6, and:-

bull the tea. To put soda into it to make it more potent: NZ rural: C.20. B., 1941.

bull-tit. A horse with broken wind: c., mostly vagrants': ca. 1830–80. Cf. roarer.

bull-trap. A crook impersonating a policeman in order to extort money from amorous couples: Aus. c.: since ca. 1930. B., 1942.

bull up. See bull, v., 7.

bull week. Local name for the week before the annual shut-down and holiday in Midland factories—"That's when we all work like bulls" (Time Out, 25 Apr. 1980). Cf. calf-week, q.v.

Bullabananka; also Bullamakanka and Willamakanka. Esp. in phrase back of Bullabananka (etc.), 'back of beyond': Aus. coll.: since ca. 1935. Cf. black stump ... and woop woop. (B.P.) bullamakau. Bully beef: Aus. army: WW2. (Baker). By a pun.

Bulldogs. Aus. football teams in Footscray, Victoria, and E. Sydney. (Wilkes.)

bulldoze or bulldoze (earlier compounds were hyphenated). A severe flogging, as is bull-dozing, which also = violent, esp. if political, coercion. Orig. (—1876), US, anglicised ca. 1881 as a coll. Exbulldoze, v. (orig. hyphenated). To flog severely; hence coerce by violent methods, esp. in politics. Orig. US, anglicised ca. 1880 as a coll. Hence bulldozer, an applier of violent coercion. Lit., to give a dose strong enough for a bull; W., however, thinks there may be some connexion with † Dutch doesen, to strike violently and resoundingly.—2. Hence, to ride roughshod over (someone); to force; to cow; to bully; to force a way through for a course of action: adopted, ca. 1959, ex US. Ex the S.E. term for a heavy caterpillar vehicle fitted with a broad steel blade in front used for removing obstacles and clearing land.

bulldozed. Muddled; tipsy: Aus.: since ca. 1935. B., 1942.

bulldozer. A locomotive for shunting coaches and taking them to termini for outgoing trains' (Railway): railwaymen's: since ca. 1945.—2. A 'battle-axe'; occ., a virago: since latish 1940s. (Petch, 1969.)

bulldozing around. An aimless wandering or prowling around: Aus. (at first, army): since ca. 1940. B., 1953.

bulled, adj. 'It was decided to give the camels and horses "bulled" water, brackish and pure water mixed' (K.S. Prichard, Kiss on the Lips, 1932): Aus.: C.20. Cf. bull the barrel and bull the tea.

bulled(-)up, adj. Dressed as if for parade: Army: since ca. 1943. (Leslie Thomas, The Virgin Soldiers, 1966.) Ex bull, spit-and-polish: see bullshit, n., 2.—2. Hence, 'tarted up' or ostentatiously embellished: since ca. 1945. Len Deighton, Only When I Larf, 1968.

bullet. An Oxford bull-dog, q.v.: C.20. (Manchon.) By 'OXFORD -ER'.—2. A cow on heat, the adj. being bulling: Aus. rural coll.; the adj. is also Brit. rural coll.: C.20. (B., 1953; P.B.)

bullet. A 'small aeroplane, introduced in 1915 by Vickers': Air Force coll. nickname; † by 1919. F. & G.—2. (Gen. pl.) A hard, round, sweet: schoolchildren's coll.: C.20. From dial. and ex hardness.—3. An ace: Aus. poker-players': since ca. 1918. B., 1953.—4. In get and give the bullet, to be dismissed and to dismiss, resp. Get the b. seems to be the earlier: from ca. 1840 and recorded in Savage's Dict. of Printing, 1841; get the instant bullet is to be discharged on the spot. Shake the bullet at one (from ca. 1850): to threaten with dismissal. Ex the effectiveness of a bullet.—5. See every bullet has its billet.

bullet fever, the. Self-inflicted wound(s): military: ca. 1770–1830. The Diary of a British Soldier. May 5th, 1793 to Nov. 4th, 1795, in the California State Library. (Communicated by S.H. Ward.) bullet-head(ed), n. and adj. Dull or foolish (person): coll.: C.17–18. Cf. the S.E. and the US senses.

bullet-proof. Irrefutable. See cast-iron.

bullet-queer. Nervous under fire: army: S. African War, 1899–1902. Verses 'The "N.C.O."', in the army newspaper The Friend (Bloemfontein), 29 Mar. 1900.

bullet with (e.g. my name on it, there is (was), etc.) a. A military c.p. in ref. to chances of death in action: 1915–18; and again in WW2. Cf. Every bullet has its billet.

bulletin. See false as a bulletin.

bullets. Peas: army, and lowerdeck RN: C.20. P-G-R.

bulley. See bully, n., 6.

bulfincher. See bullfinch, v.

bullgine. 'Taffrail's' spelling of bulgine, q.v.

bullish. (Stock Exchange) aiming at or tending to a rise in prices: from ca. 1880; coll.; in C.20, S.E. 'Bullish about cotton', 1884 (SOD). Ex bull, n., 5.

bullivant. A large, clumsy person: Cockney: since ca. 1880: by 1940, slightly ob. A blend of bull + elephant. (L.H. Perraton, letter, 1938.)

bullo. Nonsense; airy or empty talk: Aus.: since early 1940s. (Rats.) Ex bull, n., 18 ('bullshit') + the Aus. suffix -o.

bullock, n. A cheat at marbles: schoolboys', ca. 1840–1910. Notes and Queries, 3 Nov. 1855.—2. A Royal Marine artilleryman: ca. 1820–90.—3. Hence, any Royal Marine: likewise RN: late C.19–20. 'Taffrail'; Bowen.—4. A bushman: Aus.: ca. 1870–1900; very rarely, bullock-puncher, from ca. 1840, being much commoner: a bullock-driver.

bullock, v. To bully, intimidate: coll., from ca. 1715. M. Davies, 1716; Fielding; Foote; Grose. Since ca. 1900, dial. only.—2. To pawn. See bullock's horn.—3. To do (very) heavy manual work: Aus. coll.: late C.19–20. Like a bullocky, q.v. Kylie Tennant, Lost Haven, 1947.—4. To force (one's way): Aus. coll.: C.20. Vance Palmer, The Passage, 1930.

bullock-and-file. A 'buttock-and-file' (see at buttock and tongue): c.: late C.18–mid-19. (Baumann.) A 'fusion of bulk-and-file and buttock-and-file. More prob. Baumann's misreading.

bullock-puncher. A bullock-driver: Aus. coll.: prob. since ca. 1840. (Tom Kelly, Life in Victoria, 1859.) Cf. bull-puncher and bullocky.

bullock-wagon. Cheap, empty talk: Aus.: since ca. 1925. (B., 1942.) Punning bull, nonsense. Archer Russell, 1934.

bullocker. A bullock-team driver: Aus. coll.: C.20.—2. Hence, a gang foreman: since ca. 1925. B., 1943.

bullock's (or bullocks') blood. 'Strong ale and rum—extremely costive' (Michael Gilbert, The Doors Open, 1949): public-house: since ca. 1920. He-man stuff.

bullock's heart. A fart: rhyming s.:—1890.—2. 'A single ... order to print, of two hundred and fifty copies only, the lowest paying number in the scale of prices ... Not a "fat" but a "lean" job, hence the comparison to a bullock's heart, which, unless suffering from "fatty degeneration", is the essence of leanness' (Jacobi in B. & L., 1890): printers': from the 1880s.

bullock's horn. To pawn: rhyming s. (—1874); often abbr. to bullock. H., 5th ed.—2. Also = in pawn, ca. 1870–1910; occ. abbr. to bullocks, which is extant.

bullock's liver. A river: rhyming s.: late C.19–20. B. & P. bullocky. A bullock-driver: Aus. and NZ, at first s., then coll.: since ca. 1840. Cf. bullock-puncher. Also, as in Boldrewood's Colonial Reformer, 1890, an adj.

bullocky's joy. Treacle; golden syrup: Aus.: C.20. B., 1943. bulls. Counterfeit coin: low or perhaps c.:—1923 (Manchon).—2. The bulls, the police: Aus., adopted ca. 1944 ex US. (Dick). See also bull, n., 18.—3. Nonsense, rubbish; 'bullshit': Aus.: since ca. 1940. Alex Buzo, Rooted (produced 1969), at II, iii.

bull's-eye. A crown piece: late C.17–early 19: c. (B.E.; Grose.) Cf. bull, n., 2.—2. A globular sweetmeat of peppermint: from ca. 1820; coll. until ca. 1850, when it > S.E. Hone's Every-Day Book, 1825.—3. A bull's-eye lantern: coll. (—1851); in C.20, S.E.—4. (S. Africa) a small dark cloud, red-hearted, frequently seen about the Cape of Good Hope and supposed to foretell a storm; the storm so portended. Recorded, the cloud in 1753, the storm in 1849: coll. by 1870, S.E. by 1900. OED.—5. A small, thick, old-fashioned watch: C.19. F. & H. (Smaller than a 'turnip', q.v.)—6. See badges and bull's-eyes.—7. 'Glass used in old Lancashire and Yorkshire [Railway] hand lamp' (Railway, 2nd): railway-men's: ca. 1890–1925. Cf. sense 3. bull's-eye villas. The small open tents used by the Volunteers at their annual gathering: ca. 1870–1914.

bull's feather, give or get the. To cuckold or be cuckolded: C.17–early 19: coll. Nares quotes a C.17 song entitled The Bull's Feather, and Richardson uses it in Clarissa Harlowe. Cf. the Fr. se planter des plumes de bœuf and the C.16–early 19 var. wear the bull's feather (as in Grose, 1st ed.).

bull's foot. See B from a battledore under KNOW, in Appendix.

bull's noon. Midnight: low: 1839; very ob. and mainly provincial.

bull's-wool. The dry, tenuously fibrous 'inner portion of the covering of the stringy-bark tree', Morris: Aus., esp. Tasmanian (—1898): coll.—2. Hence, esp. in Tasmania, a youth with a mop of bushy hair: C.20.—3. Nonsense; meaningless talk; ballyhoo: Aus. and NZ: since ca. 1920. (Niall Alexander, letter, 1939; B., 1942.) Prob. ex sense 1.—4. Strong leather used in army boots: soldiers': since ca. 1880; †. Kipling, Plain Tales from the Hills, 1888, and passim.

bullsh. See next.

bullshit (earlier bull-shit), n. Nonsense; empty talk; humbug(ging): mostly Aus., C.20; ?ex US. Often abbr. bullsh or bulsh (mostly Aus. and NZ) and bull: RN: C.20 (Bowen); and, perhaps a little later, the other Services also.—2. Hence (also in forms bulsh and esp. bull), 'excessive spit and polish' or attention to detail; regimentalism: Services': since ca. 1916. Hence bullshit morning, that morning on which the CO's inspection takes place: Services': since ca. 1920. Cf. bull-night, its necessary prelude.

bullshit, v.t. and i. To deceive a person, or to 'pull his leg'. 'Are you bullshitting me?' could be the indignant enquiry of the victim: esp. Forces': since ca. 1925.—2. To prepare, in the Services, for an inspection of one's person or quarters: since WW2. Often as bullshit up: e.g., 'We've got to get this place bullshitted up—the CO's round tomorrow morning'; occ. joc. bullshat, 'Don't touch that, it's just been bullshat!' (P.B.)

bullshit and bang-me-arse. Excessive regimentalism + a little Patton-like showmanship: army in NW Europe: 1944–5. bullshit baffles brains. A c.p., orig. army officers' of WW2, then widespread in the Services. Roughly: enough 'eye-wash' and 'flannel' will deceive the most diligent of inspecting officers. The phrase even gave rise to the dog-Latin excrementum vincit cerebellum.

152

Bullshit Castle. Air Force HQ: NZ airmen's: WW2. (Slatter.) Cf.—

Bullshit Towers. The flying control tower, because Flying Wing HQ was usually therein; RAF, 1941–3' (F.J. French).

bullshitter. A boaster; one addicted to empty talk: since ca. 1915, esp. Aus. In mid-C.20, there were even cards printed for handing to such a one as he held forth; they read: 'I'm a bit of a bullshitter myself, but do carry on ...' (P.B.)—2. In youth gangs, esp. at soccer matches, 'The major characteristic of this role is pretending to be someone else' (Peter Marsh in New Society, 13 May 1976)—and, of course, exaggerating and boasting: a sense current since ca. 1960. But it has been in very gen. use since the late 1930s as a natural development of sense 1.

bullshot. 'A drink my grandfather drank while at sea some sixty years ago. It was simply two shots of vodka, one spoonful of Bovril [meat extract] and a quarter pint of hot water. The whole mess was called "bullshot" ... Needless to say, we still drink it' (Garry Power, in a letter to the Daily Mirror of 12 Nov. 1976).

bully. A protector and exploiter of prostitutes: from ca. 1690; coll. until ca. 1750, then S.E. B.E.; Defoe in his Jure Divino, 1706, 'Mars the celestial bully they adore, | And Venus for an ever-lasting whore.' Ex the S.E. C.16–17 sense of sweetheart.—2. Companion, mate: from ca. 1820: nautical (and dial.).—3. In Eton football, a scrimmage (cf. Winchester College hof): recorded in 1865, it has since ca. 1890 ranked as a coll. and it may now be considered S.E. Cf. the bully-off at hockey, S.E. or sports jargon.—4. Abbr. bully-beef or corruption of Fr. bouilli: pickled or tinned beef: 1883: coll. in C.19, S.E. in C.20.—5. A C.20 S. African juvenile coll. name for the bird more properly known as a yellow seed-eater (Serinus sulphuratus). Petman.—6. The lappet of a King's scholar's gown' (Ware): Westminster School: late C.19–20. Ex its wearer, a good fellow.—7. As the Bully, the (Sydney) Bulletin: Aus. coll.: C.20, B., 1943.

bully, adj. First-rate, 'champion', splendid: R/Adm. P.W. Brock, letter, 1973, cites its use by J.A. Fisher [very much later, Admiral of the Fleet] in a letter written when he was a midshipman in a ship on the China Station in 1859: since perhaps ca. 1855, poss. ex US; it spread to Can., Aus. and NZ. In, e.g., Meade, New Zealand, 1870: 'The roof fell in, there was a "bully" blaze'. Ex the late C.17–18 S.E. bully, worthy, admirable, applied only to persons.

bully about the muzzle. Too thick and large in the mouth' (Ware): dog-fanciers': 1883, Miss Braddon.

bully-back. A brothel's bully and chucker-out; a bully supporting another person: C.18–early 19. Amherst, 1726, 'old lecherous bully-backs', and Grose, who describes some of this scoundrel's wiles and duties. Occ. bully-buck. Also as v.

bully-beef. (Cf. bully, n., fourth sense.) In the Navy, boiled salt beef; in the Army, tinned beef: Bully may be the earlier form, bully-beef an elab. after bull-beef. From ca. 1884. Coll. till ca. 1900, then S.E.—2. A chief (esp. warder): low rhyming s., esp. in prisons: since ca. 1919. Norman.—3. adj. Deaf: Scottish rhyming s. (on pron. deef): since ca. 1945. Franklyn 2nd.—4. See corned beef.

bully-cock. One who foments quarrels in order to rob the quarrellers: c. or low s.: late C.18–early 19. Grose, 1st ed.—2. A low, round, broad-brimmed hat: see bully-cock.

bully fake. A piece of luck: low London: ca. 1882–1915. (Ware.) Ex bully, adj. (q.v.) + fake, an action.

bully fop. A brainless, silly, talkative fellow, apt to hector: ca. 1680–1800. B.E. describes as c., but I very much doubt it.

bully for you! capital!, reached England ca. 1870 after having, in 1864–6, enjoyed a phenomenal vogue in the US. Very common in Aus. in C.20 (B.P.); in UK, since ca. 1920, seldom used except as a conscious and joc. archaism (P.B.). bully huff-cap. A boasting bully, a hector: coll.: C.18. More gen.: bully-huff, late C.17–18, as in Cotton and B.E.

bully-rag, occ. bully-rag. To intimidate; revile; scold vhe-mently: from late 1750s, Thomas Warton employing it in his Oxford Newsman's Verses, 1760. Coll. (and dial.), as is the derivative vbl n., bully-, occ. bally-, ragging, recorded first in 1863 but doubtless used a century earlier. Etymology obscure: perhaps, semantically, to 'make a bully's rag of' (a person).

bully-rock or -rock. A boon companion: late C.16–early 18: coll., as in Shakespeare.—2. Ca. 1650–1720, c., then low s. for hired ruffian or 'a boisterous, hectoring fellow' (Martin's Dict., 1754). The rock form is not recorded before 1653 and may be in error for rook. B.E. has -rock, but B.E. contains a few misprints—some of which have been solemnly reproduced by other writers.

bully ruffian. A highwayman that, in attacking, uses many oaths and imprecations: mid-C.17–18. An early occurrence is in Dryden, An Evening's Love, 1661, at III, i (Moe); B.E. and Grose also record it.

Bully Ruffian - Eggs and Bacon - Polly Infamous. The warships Bellerophon—Agamemnon—Polyphemus: naval Hobson-Jobson: late C.18–early 19. (Gentleman's Magazine, Feb. 1796; quoted by Carola Oman in her Nelson, 1947.)

bully-aplog. 'A desert dish—a ragout of bully beef and crushed biscuits' (Peter Sanders in Sunday Times mag., 10 Sep. 1967): Army in N. Africa: 1940–3.

bully the troops!, don't! A military c.p. 'rebuke to anyone talking too loudly or too much': from ca. 1910. F. & G.

bully-trap. A mild-looking man the match of any ruffian: mid-C.18–early 19. Grose, 1st ed.—2. In late C.17–early 18 c., a sharper, a cheat. B.E.

bully up. To hurry, gen. in imperative: Uppingham School: mid-C.19–20; ob.

bullybul. See bull-a-bull.

bulrush, seek or find a knot in a. To look for—or find—difficulties where there are none: late C.16–18; coll. till ca. 1700, then S.E.

bulsh. See bull-shit.

bum, n. The buttocks: dating from M.E.; not abbr. bottom, which, in this sense, dates only from C.18; prob. echoic: cf. It. bum, the sound of an explosion. (Shakespeare, Jonson, Swift.) This good English word began to lose caste ca. 1790, and ca. 1840 it > a vulg. and has been eschewed.—2. Abbr. bum-bailiff: ca. 1660–1880 (but extant in Anglo-Irish for a sheriff's assistant): coll. Butler, 1663, 'Sergeant Bum'; Ned Ward, in The London Spy, 'The Vermin of the Law, the Bum.'—3. A child's, and a childish word, for a drink, drink!: coll., C.16–17.—4. A birching: Public Schools', C.19; cf. the C.17–18 v., to strike, thump.—5. A beggar; a cadger: C.20; ex US. See hobo; cf. v., 3.—6. In have a bit of bum, to coit with a woman: low: late C.19–20. P.B.: but in later C.20, more likely to mean sodomy.—7. In on the bum, a-begging: C.20. Ex 5.—8. In on the bum, broken: Can. See on the fritz.—9. In toe (occ. hoof) someone's bum, to kick that person's behind; 'chuck out': low coll.: ca. 1870–1930.—10. See airing, 3.

bum, v. To arrest: late C.17–18. Ex bum, n., 2.—2. To serve with a county-court summons. C.19–20; ob.—3. To beg (v.t. and i.), esp. as a tramp: low coll.: C.20; ex US.—4. To boast: low (esp. in Glasgow): C.20. Cf. bum the chat, lit. to boast about the thing.—5. To loaf about, as a tramp does; to wander idly: Aus.: since ca. 1920. Norman Lindsay, Saturdee, 1933, "Know what you are?" he said sternly. "A stinkin' young skite. Come bummin' in here skitin' about knockin' girls you get a hidin'."—6. To cadge: since ca. 1944. 'Can I bum a fag off you?' A milder use of sense 3.

bum, adj. Disreputable: fast and sporting sets of London: ca. 1885–1905.—2. Hence, inferior, bad; reprehensible: WW1 s. >, by 1930, coll.; orig. US, in its sense of a tramp or loafer.

bum. A coll. contraction of by my: ca. 1570–90. Edwards, 1571, 'Bum broth, but few such roisters come to my years.' OED.

bum-bags. Trousers: low; from ca. 1855. See bags, n., 1. Prob. ex Warwickshire dial.: 1840 (EDD).—2. Men's bathing trunks: since ca. 1910; ob.

bum-bailiff or baily. 'A bailliff of the meanest kind' (Johnson). Recorded in 1601 (Shakespeare), it was coll. in C.17, S.E. in C.18–19; in C.20, archaic. Blackstone considered it a corruption of bound bailiff, but prob. the term comes ex the constant and touching proximity of bailiff to victim.

bum-bass. A violoncello: low coll.: late C.18–19. Samuel Pegge in Anonymiana, 1809.

bum-baste. To beat hard on the buttocks: mid-C.16–17. In C.18–19 coll., to beat, thrash From ca. 1860, dial. only. Cf. baste, q.v.

bum-beating, vbl n. Jostling: C.17; coll. Beaumont & Fletcher in Wit without Malice.

bum-boat. A scavenger's boat: C.17–early 18: coll.—2. A boat carrying provisions or merchandise to ships lying in port or at some distance from the shore: s. (—1769) > coll. >, by 1880, S.E.

bum boozer. A desperate drinker: theatrical:—1909; ob. Ware.

bum-boy. A catamite: low coll.: late (?mid-) C.19–20.—2. One who gets the dirty jobs to do: C.20.—3. A sycophant: C.20. "A lot of bum-boys attached to the staff of some bloody general" (Frederick Manning, Her Privates We, 1930).

bum-brusher. A schoolmaster; an usher. From ca. 1700. Tom Brown, 1704; New London Magazine, 1788, 'that great nursery of bum-brushers, Appleby School'; Blackwood's, Oct. 1832. Cf. flay-bottom.—2. A batman: Aus. army: WW2. Baker.

bum card. A marked playing-card: ca. 1570–1620; gaming c., revived in C.20. Northbrook, Treatise against Dicing, 1577; Rowlands, 1608.

bum-charter. Prison bread steeped in hot water: c. of ca. 1810–50. Vaux, 1812.

bum clink. Inferior beer: Midland Counties s., from ca. 1830; ob. (Clink, a ringing sound.) Cf. clink.

Bum Court. The Ecclesiastical Court: a low nickname: ca. 1540–90. (OED.) Perhaps ex the members' long sessions on their backsides (see bum, n., 1.)

bum-creeper. 'One who walks bent almost double' (F. & H. rev.): low: late C.19–20.—2. A toady: since ca. 1918. Cf. arse (-hole) creeper or crawler.

bum-curtain. (Cambridge University) a very short gown: 1835; †. Esp. until 1835, the Caius College gown; after that date, esp. the St John's gown. See Charles Whibley's delightful Three Centuries of Cambridge Wit, 1889.

bum-drops. Hen's eggs: since ca. 1930. (Cdr C. Parsons, 1973.) ?A pun on gum-drops; cf. hen-fruit and cackle-berries.

bum-face. A low derogatory form of address. (F. Leech, 1972.)

bum-feag(u)e, -feagle, -feg. To thrash, esp. on the buttocks: joc. coll.: late C.16–early 17.

bum-fiddle. The buttocks: late C.17–early 19, low. (Cotton, Grose, Southey.) For the pun, cf. ars musica. Fletcher, 1620, has 'bum-fiddled with a bastard', i.e. saddled with one; but bum-fiddle, v., is also used to mean: use as toilet paper: and dates from ca. 1550. The derivative bum-fiddler, ?a fornicator, is C.17 and rare. OED.—2. As v.t. To tickle: C.17–early 18. Roger Boyle, Mr Anthony, 1672, in IV, iii.

bum-fidget. A restless person: C.18–19, low coll.

bum-fighter; -fighting. A whoremonger; coition: low coll.: C.18. D'Urfey, 1719.

bum flapper. A split mini-skirt, q.v.: teenagers', esp. Punks': ca. 1980. Maggie Reid in Observer colour sup., 13 July 1980, p. 74 (P.B.).

bum-fluff. That unsightly hair which disfigures the faces of pubescent boys; these unfortunate youths are often advised to smear it with butter and get the cat to lick it off: Cockneys': late C.19–20.—2. Hence (?), empty talk: Aus.: C.20. (B., 1942.) Cf. bull's-wool, 2 and 3.

bum-fodder. Trashy literature: from ca. 1700; S.E. till ca. 1800, then coll.; † by 1890. Scotts Magazine, April 1753.—2. Toilet paper: prob. since ca. 1650. In 1660 an anon. (?Alexander Brome's) verse satire on the Rump Parliament bears this arresting title: 'Bumm-Fodder; or, Waste-Paper proper to wipe the nation's rump with, or your own'. Recorded by B.E. and Grose. Often, in C.19–20, abbr. to bumf, q.v.

bum-freezer. An Eton jacket: C.19–20, low. Cf. bum-perisher, q.v.—2. Hence a Midshipman's round jacket: RN: C.20. Granville records the var. arse-perisher.—3. The short white jacket worn by doctors in hospitals: medical: C.20.—4. Any mess-jacket cut on the lines of an Eton jacket: Services': C.20. (P.B.) bum-fuck. Digital massage of prostate via anus and rectum, as diagnostic and therapeutic procedure in treatment of gonorrhoea: low: C.20.

bum-fucker; corn-holer; goosex. A pederast: low Can.: C.20.

bum-hole, n. Anus: low, orig. proletarian: prob. mid-C.19–20.

bum-hole, adj. Occ. var. of piss-hole, q.v., bad, inferior: mid-C.20.

Bum Island (or Blanket Bay), in the lee of. Lying in bed with one's random 'lay', beloved or, esp., wife: mostly MN: late C.19–20. (Mr H.P. Mann, 1972.)

bum-jerker. A schoolmaster: low: C.19. Malkin, 1809.

bum-licker. A toady: low coll.: C.20.

bum (one's) load. To lounge in the canteen while one waits for a comrade to come and pay for one's drink: army:—1923 (Manchon).—2. To boast: Anglo-Irish, and Guardsmen's: since ca. 1930. Also, in RAF, bum one's chat (Atkinson): since 1939.

bum numb, adj. With buttocks partially paralysed from sitting on a hard seat or too long in one position: Public Schoolboys': C.20.

bum-numbing. The effect of having to endure frustrating circumstances, e.g., a job, 'until after the spirit revolts' (L.A., 1976). Ex the prec., literal, entry.

bum-perisher and -shaver. A short-tailed coat; a jacket. Cf. bare-bum, bum-curtain.

bum-robber. An active male homosexual: low: C.20; perhaps since ca. 1880. (F. Leech, 1972). Cf. turd-burglar.

bum-roll. The C.17 coll. equivalent of a bustle or dress-improver. Jonson in the Poetaster. Cf. bird-cage and cork rump.

bum-shop. A brothel; the puddendum muliebri: low: mid-C.19–early 20.

bum-starver. A short coat: from ca. 1920. Oliver Onions, The Open Secret, 1930.

bum steer: esp. give (someone) a bum steer, to give bad advice or information or directions: Can.: since ca. 1925. Also Aus. and Brit. since ca. 1944. See steer, n.

bum-suck; often bumsuck. V.i., to toady: coll.: late C.19–20. Ernest Raymond, The Jesting Army, 1930.

bum-sucker. A toady, lick-spittle; a sponger, hanger-on. C.19–20, low coll.

bum-sucking. Toadying: mid-C.19–20. Cf. arse-crawling.

bum-tags. 'Deposits of faecal matter in the hair about the anus': low: C.20. See clinkers, 2.—2. Hence, synon. with bum-sucker: low: since ca. 1910.

bum the chat. See bomb the chat and bum, v., 4.

bum-trap. A bailiff: mid-C.18–early 19. Fielding in Tom Jones. Perhaps the origin of traps, police. Ex bum, n., 2, q.v.

bum trip. A bad trip or experience of a psychedelic drug: since ca. 1965. (Anthony Scaduto, Mick Jagger, 1974.) Var. of bummer, 6.

bum up. To compliment (a person): military: since ca. 1925.

bum-waggle. To perform in the sport of road-walking; hence bum-waggler, -ling: (?mainly Aus.) sporting. I heard, 'I'm a bum-waggler—I've walked all round Singapore Island', from an Australian Warrant Officer, ca. 1969. Ex the exaggerated motion of the posterior. (P.B.) bumbershoot. An umbrella: Can.: since (?)ca. 1930. (Leechman, 1970.)

bumble; blunder. A blunderer; an idler: resp. late C.18–mid-19, mid-C.19–20.—2. (Only bumble.) Hence, a beadle: first in Dickens's Oliver Twist, as a person's name, and then, 1856, any beadle: coll., soon S.E., as was bumbledom, stupid and pompous officiousness, 1856+.

bumble, v. To fornicate: Restoration period. E.g. in Dryden's The Kind Keeper. Cf. bum-shop.

bumble and buck. The game of crown and anchor: military: 1915; ob. (B. & P.) For an excellent and very interesting account of this game, see Stephen Graham, A Private in the Guards, 1919. Cf. synon. toodle 'em buck.

bumble-crew. Corporations, vestries, and other official bodies: from ca. 1860; coll.

bumble-jar. Orig. a harmonium, but, as these instruments became rarer and were superseded by gramophones, the term was transferred to the latter: since early C.20; by ca. 1930, predominantly 'gramophone'. Bowen; Granville.

bumble-puppy. Family, i.e. inept, whist:—1884: coll.; ob.—2. Also, ca. 1800–80, a public-house version of the ancient game of troule-in-madame: coll. H.

bumble (someone's) rumble. To have a traffic accident. See rumble (someone's) bumble.

bumblebug. An early (?the orig.) nickname for the flying bomb; soon superseded by doodle-bug: mid-1944.

bumblebus. 'Wildcat' aircraft of the Fleet Air Arm: RN: WW2.

bumbles. Horses' blinkers: Northern coll., C.19–20.

bumbo; occ. bombo. The female pudend: mid-C.18–19, West Indian; orig. a negroes' word. Grose, 1st ed.—2. A drink composed of rum, sugar, water, and nutmeg (it occurs in Sessions, 1738, spelt bumbow; Smollett, 1748, has bumbo), or of brandy, water, and sugar. (Grose.) A Northern variation was made with gin. † by 1920; coll. passing to S.E. Cf. It. bombo, a child's word for a drink (SOD), but prob. ex bum, childish for drink, after rumbo, q.v. (W.) N.B.: in America, it was occ. called limbo and was there made of rum, hot water, and sugar (see W.E. Woodward, Washington, 1928); the same drink is served today [i.e. 1937] as grog américain in certain cafés in Paris.

bumf, n. A schoolboys' and soldiers' abbr. of bum-fodder, toilet paper: mid-C.19–20. Hence, from ca. 1870, paper: hence, the Wellington College bumf-hunt, a paper-chase. In WW1+, chiefly among officers: 'orders, instructions, memoranda, etc., especially if of a routine nature, e.g. "snowed under with bumf from the Division"' (B. & P.). The RN used pink bumf for 'a confidential signal pad' (Granville): from ca. 1920.—2. Hence, any collection of papers in which one is not interested: since ca. 1945.—3. At Rugby School, any piece of paper, e.g. a test paper (cf. topos bumf): late C.19–20. The bumfs = the daily Press. (D.F. Wharton, 1965.)

bumf, v.i. and t. To crib by copying another's work: Charterhouse: late C.19–20. Ex bumf, paper.—2. Hence, v.i., to listen to or butt in on the conversation of others: Charterhouse: C.20.—3. (Ex sense 3 of the n.) To give a test: Rugby School: C.20. (D.F. Wharton, 1965.) bumfer. A boy given to cribbing from another's work: Charterhouse: late C.19–20. Ex bumf, v., 1.

bumfleteer. See bumphleteer.

bumkin. 'A burlesque term for the posteriors.' C.17. (Nares, well-read lexicographer.) Lit., a little bum: see bum, n., 1.

bummaree. A Billingsgate fishmarket middleman (—1786): coll. till ca. 1800, when it > S.E. Etym. obscure; perhaps ex S.E. bottomry (1622): cf. Fr. boomerie, bottomry. Cf. the v.—2. A bain-marie: cooks':—1909 (Ware.) Cf. bang-Mary.

bummaree, v.i. and t. To retail fish on a large scale: mid-C.19–20, coll. >, by 1900, S.E. Hence, vbl n., bummareeing (it), such retailing: G.A. Sala, 1859. Ex prec.—2. 'To run up a score at a newly opened public-house': ca. 1820–80. (EDD.)

bummer. A bum-bailiff: ca. 1670–1810.—2. A severe pecuniary loss: racing: ca. 1870–1914.—3. A beggar, a sponger, a loafer: orig. (1856), US; anglicised ca. 1870. ?ex Ger. Bummier, an idler; a tramp; esp. in C.20, a beggar tramp.—4. A bombardier: army: early C.20. F. & G.—5. An officer's batman: army from 1916; †. (Ibid.) Cf. bum-brusher.—6. A bum trip or bad experience of a drug: orig. addicts', then the world of entertainment: adopted, late 1960s, ex US.—7.

Hence, any bad luckless, very unpleasant situation: adopted, ca. 1969, ex US. Jagger (P. Janssen); A. Stuart, The Bikers, 1971, 'This entire situation is one ultimate bumper'.—8. A rank failure, as a film or as a radio or TV programme: word of entertainment: since ca. 1970. R.S. cites the Observer, 7 Dec. 1975.—9. A sodomite: low: C.20. Noted in a graffiti, May 1967. L.A. adds, 1974, the RN var. bummer-boy, ? a pun on drummer boy.

bumping. A thrashing: schools, esp. Wellington College, C.19–20; ob.—2. Vbl n., loafing, sponging: from ca. 1895, orig. US. Often, in later C.20, bumping around, as 'he spent the whole summer just bumping around.'

bumping the chat. Var. of bombing the chat, q.v. at bomb ... F. & G.

bummy. A corruption of bum-bailiff: C.18–19. Cf. bummer, 1.

bump, n. A human faculty: coll.: from ca. 1820. Ex bump, a cranial prominence as in phrenology: (1815) likewise coll., though in C.20 almost S.E.—2. An uneven landing; bumpy flying: RAF coll.: since ca. 1919; by 1940, almost j. H. & P.—3. Hence any landing of an aircraft: coll.: since ca. 1930. (Jackson.) See three months' bumps.—4. A 'bumping-off', a planned killing, an assassination: near-c. and espionage. Adam Hall, The 9th Directive, 1966: 'the death of Primo, and it was Zotta who did the bump'. Cf. the v., 2.—5. In give your head a bump!, pull yourself together!; look lively!: army: early C.20. F. & G.—6. See feel (someone's) bump.

bump, v. To touch an opposing boat and thus win the race: Oxford and Cambridge. The intransitive is make a bump. From 1826. At first coll., but by 1870 both forms were S.E. The vbl n., bumping (Thackeray, 1849) soon > S.E.; cf. bumping race, S.E., †.—2. A c. var. (from ca. 1915) of US bump off, to murder (1910: OED Sup.). Wallace.—3. To meet; to accost aggressively: Aus. low:—1916 (C.J. Dennis).—4. To shell (v.t. and i.): army: WW1. (F. & G.) Ex the noise and impact.—5. To polish a wooden or linoleum floor with a 'bumper': Services: since ca. 1925. P-G-R.—6. To fight successfully: Aus.: WW2. B., 1942.

bump across. To meet by chance: Aus.: C.20. (Baker.) Cf. the informal S.E. bump into; and prec., 3.

bump off. To kill, destroy, criminally: underworld, then more gen.: C.20. Adopted ex US. Cf. bump, n., 4, and v., 2.—2. Hence, to dismiss (someone) from employment: since ca. 1940; ob.

bump-stick. A policeman's baton: late C.19—early 20. Neil Lyons, Kitchener's Chaps, 1915.

bump-supper. A supper to celebrate a college boat's success in Sloggers or Toggers, Mays or Eights: Cambridge, Oxford. From ca. 1860; coll. until C.20, then S.E.

bumped or pipped, get. To be torpedoed by U-boat or even by E-boat (German high-speed motor torpedo boat): RN: WW2.—2. Of NCOs, to get reduced in rank: army: since 1939. By 1950s, often with down, as 'Did you hear about Staff-sergeant X. Bumped down to corporal, he was—something to do with the mess accounts.' (P.B.) bumper, n. A full glass: from ca. 1660: in C.18, coll.; thereafter S.E.—2. A crowded house: theatrical (1839, Dickens).

—3. Anything very large: coll.: from ca. 1859. Cf. corker, thumper, whacker, whopper. OED.—4. A bumping race: Oxford and Cambridge Universities: 1910. OED Sup. Cf. bumps.—5. A cigarette end: Aus.: since ca. 1920. (B., 1942.) Ex 'butt' + 'stump' + er. Hence, not worth a bumper, utterly worthless: Aus.: since ca. 1930.—6. An amateur rider in steeplechases: racing: since ca. 1930. His hindquarters tend to bump.

bumper, adj. Excellent: coll.: C.20. Now (1970s) chiefly in the terms bumper harvest (almost S.E., certainly cliché) and the joc. bumper fun-book. (P.B.) bumper-shooter. A picker-up of cigarette-ends: Aus.: since ca. 1940. B., 1953.

bumper-sniping. The task of picking up cigarette butts: Aus. army: WW2. B., 1943.

bumper-up. A dockyard labourer: C.20.—2. A pickpocket's assistant: Aus. c.: since ca. 1920. B., 1943.—3. A prostitute's handyman: Aus. c.: since ca. 1925. Also bumper-upper or candy-bag. B., 1953.—4. 'A fifth horn to bolster a horn quartet, known in orchestral circles as "the bumper-up"' (Jack Brymer on BBC Radio 3, 28 Aug. 1976).

bumpers. Female breasts: Aus. motorists', since ca. 1950; by 1960, at latest, also in UK. (J.A. Cuddon, The Bride of Battersea, 1967.) Cf. buffers.—2. In ride bumpers, to ride in steeplechases: racing: since ca. 1925. (John Welcome, Wanted for Killing, 1965.) Cf. bumper, n., 6.—3. As the Bumpers, the bumping races at Shrewsbury School: late C.19–20. (Desmond Coke, The Bending of a Twig, 1906.) On Slogger and Togger, qq.v. Also Bumps.—4. Undergraduates' drinking ritual at Cambridge University: undergraduates': later C.20. Ex bumper, n., 1.

bumph is an occ. var. of bumf. Hence also in bumph hunt. bumphleteer. An aircraft (or its crew or a member thereof) engaged in pamphlet-dropping: RAF: Sep. 1939—Apr. 1940, and then the scene was changed, the war ceasing to be either 'phoney' or funny. Jackson.

bumping, n. Delaying or obstructing a bill: Parliamentary: since ca. 1920. Sir Alan Herbert, Mild and Bitter, 1936.

bumping, adj. Large: coll.: from ca. 1860; ob. Cf. bumper, adj., and n., 3.

bumping-off. A murder: c.: from ca. 1932. Pawnshop Murder. From US and ex bump off, 1.

bumping on the bottom. (Of market prices) that have reached their lowest level: Stock Exchange:—1935. Ex boating.

bumpology, bumposopher. The 'science' of cranial 'bumps'; one learned therein: joc. coll.: 1834, 1836. (OED.) The agent is, in C.20, usu. a bumpologist. Dr Leechman cites, for Can. usage, H. Dempsey, Bob Edwards, 1975.

Bumps, the. The bumping races at Oxford and Cambridge: undergraduates' coll.: later C.20.—2. See three months' bumps; what ho—she bumps!

bumpsie, -sy. Drunk: coll.: C.17. Tarleton's jests, 1611 (Halliwell). 'Apt to bump into people' is a possible suggestion as to origin.

bumptious. Self-assertive: coll.; from ca. 1800. (Mme D'Arblay, Dickens.) Other senses, S.E.: the same applies to bumptiousness (Hughes, 1857) and bumptiously (M. Collins, 1871). Prob. ex bump, a sudden collision or a dull heavy blow, on some such word as fractious. OED.

bums. See cherry Bums.

bum's rush, get or give the. To be kicked out, or to kick out; more precisely, by that method of forcible ejection which consists in the application of one hand to the seat (often a grasping of trouser-slack), the other to the neck, and the ensuing propulsion. Common to bar-tenders and police. It occurs in Liam O'Flaherty, The Informer, 1925. Prob. adopted, early C.20, ex US.

bumsuck. See bum-suck.

bun. A familiar coll. for the squirrel: from late C.16.—Perhaps hence, 2, a coll. endearment: C.17–19. Cf. bunny, 3.—3. In C.17–19, the puendum muliebre, ex the Scottish and Northern dial. sense the tail of a hare, hence, in Scottish, the 'tail' of a person. See, in this connection, touch the bun.—4. A familiar name for a rabbit: coll.: late C.18–20. (Grose, 3rd ed.) Not merely dial. as the OED implies. Abbr. bunny.

—5. Synonym for tart, a young woman, recorded by B. & L. in 1889. At that time, a tart was not necessarily 'fast' or loose, as, except in dial., e.g. Birmingham, it had become by ca. 1920. However, bun, at least in Glasgow by 1934, did come to mean a harlot.—6. A bowler hat: NZ: C.20. (B., 1941.) Ex the shape.—7. In get a bun on, to become intoxicated: lower class: early C.20. W.L. George, The Making of an Englishman, 1914.—8. In have a bun in the oven, to be pregnant: low: C.19–20. See oven, 1.—9. See take the bun.

bun-beat or -fight. A tea-party: late C.19—early 20 coll. Cf. crumpet-scramble, muffin-worry.

bun-house. See over the bun-house.

bun penny. An early Queen Victoria penny showing her with hair in a bun: coll.: late C.19–20.

bun-puncher or -strangler. A teetotaller: army: late C.19–early 20. (Resp. Frank Richards; F. & G.) Ex preference of (tea and) buns to beer.

bun rush. Tea (the meal): RN College, Dartmouth: C.20. Granville.

bun shop. A Lyons Corner House: London taxi-drivers': 1909–1950s. Herbert Hodge, Cab, Sir?, 1939.

bun-struggle. A tea-party. See bun-worry.

bun(-)trap. The mouth: low—or, at any rate, strictly non-U: C.20. Cf. cake-hole below.

bun-wallah. Var. of bun-puncher. (F. & G.) Cf. e.g., char-wallah.

bun-worry or -struggle. A tea-party for sailors or soldiers: military: since ca. 1870. In C.20, the struggle form is ob. Cf. tea-fight.—2. Only as -worry. A jollification; a hilarious occasion; a fooling about: Aus. and NZ: late C.19–20. It occurs in, e.g., G.B. Lancaster's novels.

bunce (the predominant C.19–20 spelling), bunse, bunt(s). Money: C.18–early 19. D'Urfey spells it buns. In mid-C.19–20 it = (costermongers') perquisites; profit; commission; Mayhew spells it bunse and bunts. An example of its use among GW Railway ticket clerks in the 1860s occurs in H.A. Simmons, Memoirs of a Station-Master, orig. pub. 1879, quoted by McKenna, 2, p. 37. Cf. later synon. brick, q.v. In C.20, almost coll. and still = profit, but more esp. and gen. an unexpected profit or commission or receipt of money. Mayhew pertinently proposes derivation ex sham L. bonus, q.v.—2. At Edinburgh High School (—1879), he who, when another finds anything, cries bunce! has a traditional, though ob., claim to the half of it: whence stick up for your bunce = claim one's share, stand up for oneself.—3. Money earned by working overtime: workmen's: C.19–20. See also its opposite, at kelp.—4. Sheer, or almost sheer, profit; something for nothing: since ca. 1920. Ex sense 1 in its C.20 nuances. Common, after ca. 1930, in Aus. B., 1953.

bunce, v. To overcharge someone, esp. if obviously rich or eager: market traders': C.20. M.T.

buncer. A seller on commission: from ca. 1860. †by 1930.—2. A pal: naval, ?esp. in training ships: late C.19–earlyish 20. Peppitt cites J.R. West, TS Indefatigable, 1909.—3. The agent corresponding to the v. of prec. entry: market traders': C.20. M.T.

bunch. A group or gang of persons: from ca. 1905: s. >, by 1936, coll. COD, 1934 Sup.—2. The main group in a race, apart from the breakaway: racing cyclists' coll.: since ca. 1925.—3. In the best of the bunch, the best of them all: C.20. But usu., since mid-C.20, slightly derogatory, as in the set phrase 'the best of a bad bunch' (P.B.).

bunch (or bundle) of bastards. 'A hopelessly tangled jumble of rope' (Peppitt): RN lowerdeck: since ca. 1946, perhaps pre-WW2, and still current in the early 1960s.

bunch of charms. A girl, esp. if attractive: coll.: C.20.

bunch of dog's meat. 'A squalling child in arms' (Sinks, 1848): low: ca. 1825–70.

bunch of fives. The hand; fist: pugilistic, then gen. low. An early occurrence is in Boxiana, III, 1821. Punch, 1882, has 'his dexter bunch of fives'. B.P. notes the Aus., esp. Sydney, var. bunch of five.

bunch of snarls. A disagreeable man: tailors': C.20. Tailor and Cutter, 29 Nov. 1928.

buncing, vbl n. corr. to bunce, v.—2. Putting a 1/2p on selected lines, thus implying a concession: supermarket usage: since ca. 1970. (L.A., 1976.)

buncle or bunkle. A carbuncle: (dial. and) semi-literate coll.: late C.19–20.

bunco. Fraud generally; sometimes false and flattering "chat" by a man to a woman. Originally exclusively an American expression, brought into use by "hippy" persons and by West Indians who have previously lived in the USA: "Don't give me that, man—I've been buncoed by experts!"

means "Don't try to deceive me!" (Powis): underworld and its fringes. For derivation see bunko, the earlier preferred spelling.

buncombe. Windy claptrap. See bunkum.

bund. A dam; a dyke: Anglo-Indian coll.; from ca. 1810.—2. An embanked (sea-shore) quay: Anglo-Chinese (—1875). Ex Persian.—3 (prob. ex 1). A wall or barbed-wire fence marking the perimeter of a Station: RAF: since ca. 1925. (Jackson.) From Persia and India.

bundabust or bundobust. Preparations; (preliminary) arrangements: army: late C.19–mid 20. (F. & G.) Ex Hindustani band-o-bast, 'a tying and binding'. The word also means 'revenue settlement'.

bunder. 'Any startling story or rumour which turns out to be untrue' (H.A. Giles, Glossary of Reference on Subjects Connected with the Far East, 3rd ed., 1900): China coast coll.: latish C.19—ca. 1940. Charles Drage, in Taikoo, 1970, quotes a letter from the Butterfield & Swire shipping agent in NE China to HQs in Shanghai, 1903: 'we get no direct news except from Russian official sources, and every Shanghai "bunder" is promptly repeated to the merchants here and affects the money and other markets more or less.' Ex bund, 2. (P.B.) bunder-boat. A boat used either for communicating with ships at anchor or for purely coastal trade: on the Bombay and Madras coast: Anglo-Indian coll.:—1825. Ex Hindi bandar, a harbour, ex Persian. Y. & B.

bundle, n. A considerable sum of money: racing coll.: C.20. Cf. packet. OED Sup.—2. A fight: workmen's (—1935) and criminals (—1936).—3. Hence, specifically, a gang fight: teenage gangsters' and hooligans': since early 1950s. Cf. rumble; see job, v., 4., and the v.—4. See drop (one's) bundle; go a bundle (on); go the bundle.

bundle, v.i. To fight with one's fists: low: C.20. Brendan Behan, Borstal Boy, 1958, "'Oh, so you want to bundle, you Irish bastard?" said Hanson. "Come on, then." Cf. bundle up.—2. To pass or hand or hand over (something): C.19—early 20. Bill Truck, 1823.

bundle-man. A married seaman: lowerdeck: nautical: from ca. 1890. F. & G. 'Apparently suggested by the small bundle tied up with a blue handkerchief which married seamen in a Home Port usually take ashore with them when going on leave.'

bundle of bastards. Hopelessly tangled rope. See bunch of bastards.

bundle of socks. The head: Aus. rhyming s., on 'think-box': late C.19–20. Baker, 1945.

bundle of ten. Army blankets, because rolled in tens: military: late C.19–20. F. & G.—2. A packet of ten cigarettes: id.: C.20. (Ibid.) Cf. blankets, q.v.—3. The tens in a pack of cards: id.: id. Ibid.

bundle off. To send away hurriedly: from ca. 1820, coll.; from 1880, S.E.

bundle on. See go a bundle on.

bundle out head (or neck) and heels. To eject forcibly: low coll.: from ca. 1860. In S.E., neck and crop.

bundle-tail. A short lass either fat or squat: late C.17–18. B.E. bundle up. To attack (someone) in force: low: 1824, J. Wight, Morning at Bow Street, 'He was bundled up or enveloped, as it were, in a posse of charleys'; † by 1900. Cf. quot'n at lamp, v., 2.

bundo. Arrangement (whether singular or collective), as in 'What's the bundo?' or 'I've made a bundo for this evening': Army, esp. in India: late C.19–20; by 1960, ob. Abbr. bundabust, q.v.

bundoo, hondu, bundu. Wilderness, desert; the bush, the jungle; the countryside, e.g. in N. Ireland; usu. out, or off, in the bundoo: army, since mid-1950s; by later C.20, also other Services', as in 'out in the frozen "bundu", at surrounding temperatures of 30° below freezing' (John Winton, article on the FAA in Telegraph Sunday mag., 8 Apr. 1979). Prob. ex the synon. S. African (Bantu) word bundu (OED Sup.), perhaps adopted during the campaign against the Mau-Mau in the early 1950s, but perhaps influenced by synon. boondocks, q.v. Also as adj., e.g. in the RAF coll. bundu boots: 1970s. (S/Ldr C.D. Wilson; P.B.)

bundook; occ. bandook or barndook; even, says Manchon, bundoop. A rifle; earlier, a musket; earlier still, cross-bow. Ultimately ex the Arabic bandak, Venice, where cross-bows were made. (Native Egyptians still call Venice Bundookia.) The Army stationed in India used the term as early as C.18, and in WW1 it became fairly common throughout the army; by 1920, it was popular also with the RAF (Jackson); in the 1970s it was still quite common army usage. According to Bowen, it signified a big gun in the earlier C.20 RN. The etymology is set out at length in Y. & B. but has been disputed.

bundook and spike. A Regular Army term, from ca. 1850, for rifle and bayonet. See prec.

bundu. See bundoo.

Bundy. See punch the Bundy.

bung, n. A brewer; a landlord of a 'pub', esp. in sporting circles; (nautical) a master's assistant superintending the serving of grog. From ca. 1850; all senses ob. Hence, bung-ball, the annual dance held by the brewers: London trade:—1909 (Ware).—2. In c. of mid-C.16—early 19, a purse. (Harman, Greene, Grose.) Cf. A.S. and Frisian þung, a purse (OED).—3. Hence, in c. or low s. of late C.16—17, e.g. in Shakespeare, a cutpurse. Hence bung-knife, late C.16, is either a knife for purse-slitting or one kept in a purse.—4. (Also bung-hole.) The anus: low: late C.18—20.—5. Only in tell a bung, to tell a lie: schoolboys':—1887; ob. Baumann. Perhaps the corruption of a noted liar's surname.—6. Cheese: military: C.20: military. Ex its costiveness. Also bung-hole and bungy. F. & G.—7. A poke, blow, punch: low: late C.19—20. A. Neil Lyons, Hockey, 1902, 'Only yesterday, said he, I got another bung in the eye'. Echoic: cf. sense 3 of the v.—8. A bungalow: since ca. 1920.—9. A bribe, esp. to the police: low: since ca. 1930. (Norman).—10. See flog the bung.

bung, v. Gen. as bung up, to close up the eyes with a blow: C.19—20 coll., esp. among boxers. But in C.16—early 18, S.E., and applicable to mouth, ears, etc., and fig.—2. Often as bung over, to pass, hand (over), give; (not before C.20) to send (a person, e.g. into the RN; or a thing, e.g. a letter to the post): coll. Shakespeare, Beaumont & Fletcher.—3. To throw forcibly: dial. (—1824) >, ca. 1890, s. Echoic (OED Sup.).—4. To deceive with a lie: C.19. Cf. cram, stuff. Cf. the n., 5.—5. To pay protection money to (someone): low: since ca. 1925. 'Sergeant Connor. He's one of them slime-sniffers [the Vice Squad]. Every girl in Bayswater bungs to him if she wants to stay on the game' (Bill Turner, Sex Trap, 1968).—6. Hence, to tip (someone, with money): since ca. 1950. Bill Naughton, Alfie Darling, 1970, 'Bakey was nervous of binging him, although the blagging [wheedling] came over dead strong'. (L.A.) Cf. bung-ons.—7. Applied also to large-scale bribery (cf. 5, 6): (mainly Cockney) coll.: later C.20. 'When bribery in high places is in the news, Cockneys agree that it encompasses lots of politicians and business men: "They all get bunged, don't they?"' (Muvver). Contrast drop, small-scale bribery.

bung, adj. and adv. Drunk; fuddled: Scots low coll.: C.18—early 20. (Ramsay.)? 'bung-full'.—2. In go bung, to explode, go to smash: ca. 1860—1930.—3. Hence, mainly in Aus., slightly in NZ, go bung, to fail, esp. to go bankrupt: from ca. 1880: prob. influenced by go bong or bung, to die, a 'pidgin' phrase (—1881) ex East Australian aboriginal adj. bong, bung, dead: cf. Humpy(-)Bong, lit. the dead houses, a suburb of Brisbane. Morris.—4. Heavily; 'smack': coll.: late C.19—20. Esp. (go, etc.) bung into. Kipling.—5. Precisely, absolutely: coll.: C.20. Manchon, 'He's bung in the fairway'.—6. Spurious, illegal; grossly inadequate: Aus.: since ca. 1925. (B., 1943.) Ex 3.

bung (someone) a toffee. To do him a favour, esp. if considerable: London's East End: since ca. 1947. Richard Herd in the Evening News, 12 Nov. 1957.

bung-ball. A brewers' annual dance. See bung, n., 1.

bung-eye. An ocular inflammation caused by flies: Aus. coll.: late C.19—20. Sarah Campion, Bonanza, 1942.

bung (one's) eye. To drink heartily: mid-C.18—early 19. Hence, to drink a dram: id. (Grose, 2nd ed.) I.e. till one's eyes close. Cf.:-

bung-eyed. Drunk; fuddled: low: mid-C.19—20, ob. (May-hew.) Ex Scottish bung, tipsy.—2. Hence, cross-eyed: low: from ca. 1860; slightly ob.

bung-full. Full right up; 'chockablock'; full, in fact, right up to the bung or stopper: coll.: C.20. (P.B.)

bung-ho! Au revoir!; occ., good-bye!: from ca. 1925. (D.L. Sayers, 1933, 'Cheerio, Mary dear. Bung-ho, Peter.') Perhaps on cheer-ho.—2. Also as an upper-class toast: 1928 (D.L. Sayers, The Unpleasantness at the Bellona Club). Perhaps with a ref. to the bung of liquor casks. In both senses, sometimes as bung-ho, troops! (P.B.)

bung(-)hole. Cheese. See bung, n., 6. Both bung and bung hole are also RN of C.20: Granville.—2. Hence (via bread and cheese), bread; military since ca. 1925. (H. & P.) Conspitating.—3. A bungalow: middle-class coll.: since ca. 1930. An elab. of an abbr.—see bung, n., 8. (P.B.)—4. The anus: low: C.18—20.

bung in it!, put a. Shut up!; shut the door! See put a bung in it!

bung it! Stow it! low: late C.19—20. Pugh (2).

bung it in; often shortened to bung it. Gin (the drink): rhyming s.: since ca. 1920. (Michael Harrison, 1947.)

bung it on. To spend lavishly in, e.g., catering; to 'put on a good show' (party, reception, etc.): Aus. since ca. 1918. (B.P.). Ex bung on side.

bung-juice. Beer; porter. C.19—20 (ob.) c. Ex bung, a stopper for casks.

bung-nipper. A cutpurse. In mid-C.17—18, c.; in C.19 low s. Ex bung, n., 2.

bung off. To depart: from ca. 1905. John G. Brandon, 1931, 'He... bunged off, respected by everyone.' Cf. pop off.

bung on, v.t. To dress oneself, as in 'just hang on while I bung on a coat and some boots...': coll.: C.20.—2. To organise, put on, as, e.g., a party or a show: 'considering the celebration had to be bunged on at the last moment...': C.20. Cf.: next.

bung on an act. To swear luridly, give way to temper, complain at length' (B., 1959): Aus.: since ca. 1920.

bung on side. To put on 'side', to show off: low Aus. coll.: since ca. 1910. (Kylie Tennant, 1953.) Cf.:-

bung on the bull. 'To put on airs, to behave pretentiously' (Alex Buzo, 1973): Aus.: since mid-1945. Cf. bull, short for bullshit, n., 1.

bung one on (someone). To hit him, as in 'He was getting a bit stropky so I bunged one on him [or I bunged him one on]': low: since ca. 1950, poss. earlier. (P.B.)

bung one up. To salute: Services': mid-C.20. 'Well, there was this major just standing there, so I bunged him one up...': (P.B.)

bung-ons. Gifts: mock-auctions': since ca. 1930. Cf. bung it on.

bung-starter. Nautical: (a) the captain of the hold; (b) an apprentice serving in the hold. Both (—1867) are ob.

bung up and bilge free. Everything aboard in excellent order: nautical: late C.19 s., > by 1920 coll.; by 1930, j. Ex the proper storing of barrels.—2. Hence, of a sailor enjoying a rest or sleep: RN: since ca. 1910. Granville.—3. A RN c.p. (late C.19—20) for femina in coitu. Ex the description of the correct position for a rum cask.

bung upwards, adv. On his face; prone: late C.18—19 (orig. brewers'). Grose, 2nd ed. Suggested by arse upwards, q.v., or by bung-hole, the anus.

bunga, bunger, bungy. Punga (the stem of the black fern): NZ coll.: mid-C.19—20. Morris.

bungaloid, adj. Infested with bungalows; esp. in bungaloid growth after fungoid growth. Coll. quickly promoted to S.E.; from ca. 1926.

bungalow, top of the bleeding. See top of the house.

bungaree or -rie. A public house: low: ca. 1870–1920. (Ware.) Ex bung, n., 1. Var. spelling of bungery.

Bungay. In go to B-, go to hell!: mostly E. Anglian dial.: C.19. Bungay is a town in East Suffolk, and in the county there was a phrase go to Bungay for a bottom—or to get new-bottomed, applied to repairs for wherries.—2. In he's been to Bungay fair and broke(n) both his legs, he's drunk; he got drunk: C.19 coll. Cf. breaky-leg, but prob. a pun on bung, as allusion to drink.

bungdung. A large cracker; a firework: Aus.: since ca. 1920. (B., 1943.) Echoic. 'Formed on bundook?' (Leechman.)

bunged. Topsy: S. Africa: since ca. 1935. (Prof. W.S. Mackie in Cape Argus, 4 July 1946.) Cf. bung-eyed, and bung, adj.

bungery. A tavern: mostly London:—1909 (Ware); ob. Cf. bung, n., 1 and bungaree (a var. spelling).

bungie, bungy. (Orig. injie- (or inja-) bungie, pron. bunjie.) A typist's eraser: typists':—1935. Injie, ref. to ink, and with inja, sols for the India of india-rubber; bungie, from the feel of it; but cf. the dial. bungy, anything short and thick. (E.P.; P.B.) Cf. bunjie.

bungie-bird. Pej. for a friar: late C.16—early 17. Cf. Greene's Friar Bacon and Friar Bungay. OED.

bungler. 'An unperforming Husband' (B.E.): C.17–18; coll.

bungs. A ship's cooper: mid-C.19–20 nautical. Also Jimmy Bungs. Bowen.—2. Dutch half-castes (a var. spelling of boongs, q.v.). See PRISONER-OF-WAR SLANG, §8.

Bungy. RN nickname for anyone named Williams: C.20. (Granville.) Also a fairly common nickname of men surnamed Edwards or Edwardes: C.20. Why?

bungy. See bung, n., 6, bunga and bungie.

bungy-eye. Var. of bung-eye, an ocular inflammation.

buniony. Lumpy in outline: art: 1880; ob. by 1930. (Ware.) Ex 'a bunion breaking up the "drawing" of a foot'.

bunjie or -jee. A physical training instructor: RN: C.20. (F. & G.) Orig., according to Bowen, where spelt bungie, or bungy, the term was bungie man. Granville notes that after ca. 1925, it was shortened, and often to just bunje.

bunk, n. Nonsense: abbr. bunkum, q.v. C.20, ex US.—2. The sisters' sitting-room at the end-entrance to a hospital ward: nurses': late C.19–20.—3. Hence 'a small Corporals' Barrack Room usually just outside the Men's Barrack Room. It contains their bunks or beds; the Corporals bunk down (or "kip" or sleep) there,' Partridge, 1945: RAF coll. (since ca. 1925) >, by 1944, j. Also, and perhaps earlier, in the army, where it is, in later C.20, applied (as j.) also to single bedrooms in the sergeants' mess. (P.B.)—4. 'Freight or passenger train on Wallingford or Abingdon branches' (Railway, 2nd): railwaymen's: ?ca. 1920–50.—5. A Can. term of disapproval for anything disliked or unwanted: since ca. 1920. Ex sense 1.—6. As the Bunk, Head Office: London busmen's: 1930s. (Daily Herald, 5 Aug. 1936.) A comfortable billet.—7. See do a bunk.

bunk, v. To decamp: from early 1890s: orig. low; in C.20, near-coll. The Referee, 16 Feb. 1885.—2. Hence, to absent oneself from, to play truant: from ca. 1890. R.H. Mottram, 1934, 'I'll bunk my class and take you for a walk.' See bunk off, 2.—3. To expel from school: Public Schools': ca. 1870–1915. At, e.g., Wellington and Sherborne, as in Alec Waugh, The Loom of Youth, 1917, 'Don't laugh. It's no damned joke. I've got bunked.'—4. bunk (it), to sleep in a bunk: coll. Orig. and mainly US: anglicised ca. 1886.—5. A synonym of double-dink, q.v., to carry a second person on the top bar of a bicycle. B., 1959.

bunk in with. To 'share a bivvy or a funk-hole' with (another soldier): Can. military coll.: from 1914. B. & P. Ex bunk, v., 4.

bunk off. Aus. var. of bunk, v., 1.: C.20. B., 1942.—2. Brit. var. of bunk, v., 2. 'He [a 12-year-old boy] bunks off full time from education these days' (Time Out, 8 Jan. 1982, p. 15).

bunk over, v.i. To cross: coll.: C.20. E.g., 'bunk over to see a person'.

bunk-up, n.; less gen. bunk up, v.t. Assistance, to assist, in climbing: Cockneys': C.20. Robert Barltrop, 1981, 'To bend forward and allow the climber to stand or kneel on one's back, then heave upwards.' 'Can you give us a bunk-up?' 'Yus, I'll bunk you up, Bill.'—2. To have a bunk-up, to have casual sexual intercourse: Forces', since ca. 1939; by 1950, gen.

bunk-wife. A landlady: St Andrews University students': C.20.

bunked, be or get. To be expelled from school. See bunk, v., 3. Ex bunk, to depart.

bunker. Beer: ca. 1850–1910. (H., 3rd ed.) ?ex bona aqua or ex coal-bunker, from which one 'coals up'.—2. A feast in a low lodging-house: low:—1887 (Baumann). Perhaps ex sense 1.—3. As B-, a fairly common nickname of men surnamed Lewes or Lewis: early C.20. Why?—4. A flat used by a criminal gang as a base from which to conduct violent robberies: c.: early 1980s. BBC, 'Review of the Sunday Papers', 1 Aug. 1982.

bunker-cat. A low-class fireman: Can. nautical: late C.19–20. Bowen.

bunker-plate with spanner. A tin of sardines with patent opener: RN: C.20. F. & G. bunkered, be. To be in a situation difficult of escape: coll.: 1890 (OED Sup.). Ex golf. Cf. stymied.

bunkle. A burlesque. See buncle.

bunko, n. Fraud. A swindling card-game or lottery. See bunco, the preferred later spelling, and cf. bunko artist.

bunko, adj. (Of persons) shifty; disreputable: seaports' (esp. Liverpool), from ca. 1905, ex US. Cf.:-

bunko artist. A confidence trickster: Can.: since ca. 1950; adopted ex US. (Leechman cites H. Dempsey, Bob Edwards, 1975.) Cf.:-

bunko-steerer. A swindler, esp. at cards: orig. (—1876), US; anglicised ca. 1895, but never at all gen.

bunkum or buncombe. In England from ca. 1856; ex US (—1827). In C.19, coll.; in C.20, S.E. and rarely spelt uncombe. Talk, empty or 'tall'; humbug; claptrap; insincere eloquence. G.A. Sala, 1859: "bunkum" (an Americanism I feel constrained to use, as signifying nothingness, ineffably inept and irremediably fire-perforated windbagery, and sublimated cucumber sunbeams). Ex Buncombe County, North Carolina. See esp. Thornton, OED, SOD.

bunky. Awkward; badly finished: Christ's Hospital (School), C.19—early 20.

bunnick (up). To settle; dispose of; thrash: Cockney: ca. 1880–1914. Punch, 17 July 1886, 'We've bunnicked up Gladsting' (Gladstone); Baumann. Perhaps cognate with bunker (in bunkered, q.v.).

bunny. A rabbit: in C.17 s., then coll. The SOD records at 1606; B.E. has it.—2. In C.20, an occ. var. of rabbit, a very poor player of any given game.—3. Also, C.19–20, a nickname, as for H.W. Austin, England's most classical lawn tennis player since the Dohertys.—4. The female pudend: C.18–20. D'Urfev, 1719. Diminutive of bun, 3, q.v.—5. A dupe: Aus. c. and low s.: C.20. Ex senses 1, 2.—6. One who stupidly talks too much: Teddy-boys': since ca. 1954. (Gilderdale, 2.)—7. A talk, a chat: low: since ca. 1945. (Norman.) Ex the verb.—8. Someone not fully alert (not 'with it'): Aus.: since ca. 1925. Hence, the bunny, 'Mr Muggins' or the willing horse. (B.P.)—9. A sanitary towel: women's: since ca. 1920. Perhaps cf. sense 4.—10. A pilotman: railwaymen's: since ca. 1945. Railway, 2nd.—11. A waitress at a Playboy Club: raffish: since late 1950s. She is costumed like a rabbit.—12. A girl, as in beach bunny, q.v., and dumb bunny, a stupid girl: since ca. 1960. Perhaps ex sense 11, and influenced by the much earlier sense 4; dumb bunny is prob. ex US.

bunny, v. To talk, to chat: low: since ca. 1945. (Norman.) Ex rabbit, v., 3. Red Daniells, 1980, quotes a Lambeth carpenter saying of his wife, 'She's always bunnying to her mates on the dog and bone [telephone] but she won't bleedin' rabbit to me about nothin' serious.'

bunny grub. Green vegetables: Cheltenham College: mid-C.19–20. Cf. grass. Also, more gen., e.g. Services, used for salad.

bunny suit. A thick Acrilan overall worn by RAF aircrew over their anti-gravity suits. (Paul Tilsley in the Listener, 13 July 1978.) Ex the children's overall garment, sometimes decorated for fun with a tail and ears; not ex the costume of a bunny girl, q.v. at bunny, n., 11. (P.B.) bunny's meat. Green vegetables: nautical: late C.19–20. Bowen.

bunrush. 'A ship's company publicly entertained on shore' (Knock): RN lowerdeck: C.20. Cf. bun-worry, -fight, -struggle, etc.

buns, bunse. See bunce.

bunt, n. An apron: late C.18–early 19. (Grose, 2nd ed.) Ex the S.E. bunt, the bag- or pouch-shaped part of a net or a sail.—2. See bunce. Ca. 1850–1900. Mayhew.

bunt, v. Knock; butt; 'to run against or jostle' (Grose, 2nd ed.). Except when used of animals, this (—1788) is coll. and dial. Perhaps ex bunt + bounce (or bunch), as the OED suggests.

bunt fair. Before the wind: nautical coll.: late C.19–20. Bowen.

bunter. A low, esp. a low thieving, harlot: from ca. 1700. Ned Ward, 1707, 'Punks, Strolers, Market Dames, and Bunters'; Goldsmith, 1765. In this sense until ca. 1900. Perhaps ex bunt; i.e. a sifter of men, not of meal.—2. Derivatively, ca. 1730–1900, any low woman. Attributively in Walpole's Parish Register, 1759, 'Here Fielding met his bunter Muse.—3. (Semantically, cf. sense 1.) A gatherer of rags, bones, etc.: from ca. 1745. Dyche's Dict., 1748; Mayhew.—4. A woman that, after a brief sojourn, departs from her lodgings without paying: ca. 1830–1900. (Mayhew.) Too early to be ex bunk, to depart; cf. senses 1 and 3.

bunter's tea. Strong liquor (?gin): ca. 1715–60. Anon., The Quaker's Opera, 1728. 'Quaker. ... What hast thou got? Poor-learn. Sir, you may have what you please, Wind or right Nanty or South-Sea, or Cock-my-Cap, or Kill-Grief, or Comfort, or White Tape, or Poverty, or Bunter's Tea, or Apricock-Water, or Roll-me-in-the-Kennel, or Diddle or Meat Drink-Washing-and-Lodging, or Kill-Cobler, or in plain English, Geneva.' bunting. A coll. endearment, esp. as baby bunting: from ca. 1660. Perhaps ex Scottish buntin.—2. A signalman or signaler using flags: RN: since early C.19, but rare by 1950. Good-enough, 1901—but I've failed to record much earlier refs. Variants were bunting-tosser or bunts: early C.20. Ware explained, 'Signals are small flags made of bunting.' Bunts was still current in WW2, teste Weekly Telegraph, 25 Oct. 1941.

bunting time. Late C.17–mid-18, coll.: 'when the Grass is high enough to hide the young Men and Maids' (B.E.). Cf. bunt, v., q.v.

buntling. (Gen. pl.) A petticoat: late C.17–early 19 c. (B.E.) Ex bunt, n., q.v.

bunts. See bunce, and bunting, 2.

buntuck. A NZ army var. of bundook, q.v., a rifle, in WW1.

Banty. The inevitable nickname of any short man: military: late C.19–20. (F. & G.) Powis, 1977, adds 'affectionate term for a small person, especially a small woman of middle age'. Ex dial. (and US) bunty, short and stout.

bunyip. A humbug, an imposter: Aus.: since ca. 1860. ('Tom Collins', Such is Life, 1903.) The bunyip is a legendary Australian animal.

buoy, go round the. (To have) two helpings from a dish: nautical: C.20.

bup. Occ. var., noted by Ware, ofbupper; buppie(s); bups; bupsie. Bread and butter in gen., or a slice thereof in particular: children's, whence (says E.P.) lower-classes—but buppies is also middle classes', as in, e.g., Peter O'Donnell, Dragon's Claw, 1978. By 'infantile reduction', says Ware.

Burberry or -bury. Burbure in France: military: WW1. F. & G.

burble. To talk continuously with little pertinence or sense: C.20. Cf. the C.16–17 S.E. burble, to make a bubbling sound, popularised by Lewis Carroll's verse about the 'Jabberwock', which 'came whiffing through the tulgey wood, and burbled as it came'. In the s. sense it occurs in, e.g., H.C. Bailey, Rimingtons, 1904.

Burdett Coutts, often shortened to Burdetts. Boots: rhyming s.: since ca. 1925. Ex the name of the well-known bankers.

Burdon's Hotel. Whitecross Street Prison: c. ca. 1850–1910. Ex a Governor named Burdon.

burerk. See burick.

Burford bait. See take a Burford bait.

burg. A town; a city: coll., US partly anglicised (thanks to the 'talkies') by 1932. COD, 1934 Sup. Ex Ger.

burg(h)er. A Hamburg(h)er: adopted in 1942 from the US.

Burglar (gen. pl.) A Bulgarian: military: WW1. F. & G.—2. A warder expert in searching a cell: prison c.: later C.20. (Sean McConville, The State of the Language, 1980.) Cf. scratcher.

burgoo, burgue. Oatmeal porridge: from ca. 1740; in C.19, coll.; in WW1, military s. (Marryat, Sala.) In WW1, the Tommy preferred the latter pron., the Australians the former: the 'Aussies', moreover—prob. on a rhyming-s. basis—occ. used it loosely for stew (stoo). Ex burghul, Turkish for wheat porridge. Whence:- burgoo-eater. A Scottish seaman: nautical: late C.19–20. Bowen.

burick, occ. burerk. At first (—1812), a prostitute, a low woman: c. (Vaux.) From ca. 1850, a lady, esp. if showily dressed: low. (Mayhew, 1851.) From ca. 1890 the word has increasingly meant, chiefly among Cockneys, a wife, 'old woman'. The etymology is obscure; but burick may perhaps be found to derive ex the Romany burk, a breast, pl burkaari, or to be a corruption of Scots bure, a loose woman, recorded by EDD for 1807.

burk. To avoid work: NZ: ca. 1880–1920. (G.B. Lancaster, Sons o' Men, 1904, 'I'll exchange. ... But I won't burk, see?') Rhyming with shirk?

burk(e). A misspelling of berk. Gerald Kersh, Faces in a Dusty Picture, 1944: burke.

Burke. Burke's Peerage: bookmen's and librarians' coll.: mid-C.19–20.

burke, v. To dye one's moustaches: military: Sessions, 1832; ob. by 1880. Dyed for uniformity, the semantic key being burke, to smother, as did the celebrated criminal executed in 1829. (Burke, to hush up, from ca. 1840, was at first a coll. development from its natural meaning, to strangle or suffocate, which arose in 1829.)

Burker. A body-snatcher: ca. 1830–50. In, e.g., W. Chadwick, Reminiscences of a Chief Constable, 1900. See burke, v.

burking. Vbl n. of burke, v.

burk; esp. in give it a burk. To give something a chance; make an attempt: low Aus.: C.20. (Kylie Tennant, Foveaux, 1939.) Perversion of huri? By 1950, no longer low—if, indeed, it ever was! (B.P.) Cf. the Can. and Eng. give it a whirl. Wilkes derives it ex dial. birl, a rapid twist or turn (EDD). But cf.:-

burley. Nonsense, humbug: Aus.: C.20. (Baker.) Origin? B.P. thinks that the orig. form was berley; so does Webster's 3rd edition—which defines the term as 'ground bait'. Therefore burk above, as in 'give it a burk', is prob. a var. of berl, itself short for berley. If a fisherman uses berley, he is, after all, trying to catch a fish.

Burlington Bertie. A fop, a dude: since ca. 1909; ob. by 1940, † by 1960. Ex Vesta Tilley's famous song, 'Burlington Bertie from Bow', ca. 1908.—2. Hence, since ca. 1912, any young fellow who dresses up in his leisure or even at work; by 1960, †.

Burlington Hunt. A faulty, not very common, deformation of Berkshire (or Berkeley) Hunt. Franklyn, Rhyming.

Burma. See LOVERS' ACRONYMS, in Appendix.

Burma Road. Rice: Army in the Far East: 1942+. Rice is the staple Burmese food.—2. Hence, in 1943–5, in Service messes in Iraq and Persia, 'as an exclamation at frequent rice'. (L.A.)—3. The Burma Road. 'The principal lowerdeck fore-and-aft passage on an aircraft carrier: RN: 1950s' [and later]. (Peppitt.) All 3 senses derive from the famous highway driven, at great cost in lives and courage, through jungle and mountain, to keep China supplied 'through the back door', via the south-west, during WW2.

Burmese stocking. In Indian Army s., from ca. 1886, as in Richards, concerning the natives of Upper Burma: 'At a very early age the males were tattooed around the legs with rings of what looked like grinning devils. This was called "the Burmese stocking" and was supposed to avert illness and enchantment.'

burn, n. A 'showing-off' burst of fast driving: Australian motorists': since late 1940s. A motorist 'burns' his tyres. (B.P.) Cf. burn off and burn-up, qq.v.—2. A thrill, as in 'We came up by car for a burn' (Dick): Aus. teenagers'; since ca. 1950.—3. In have a burn, to have a smoke: RN: C.20. (Granville.) By 1950, also fairly gen. low s., as in "'Bung me a burn" = give me a smoke' (Tempest). Hence twist a burn, to roll a cigarette: R Aus. N: since ca. 1918. B., 1943.

burn, v. To cheat, swindle: c.: C.17–18 (extant early C.20 in dial.). Cf. burn the ken.—2. To smoke (tobacco): late C.19–20. Hence also, 'a solitary minor smoking of marijuana' (Home Office): current 1970s.—3. 'To take someone else's narcotics and not return it' (Home Office): drugs' world: 1970s.—4. See ears burn.

burn (a hole) in (one's) pocket. Of money and gen. prec. by money: to be eager to spend one's money, a definite sum often being mentioned. Coll.; 1768, Tucker, concerning children, 'As we say, it [money] burns in their pockets' (OED).

burn an end. 'To drive the jack out of bounds' (Prof. A.C. Partridge, 1968): S. African bowls-players': since ca. 1930—if not a decade earlier.

burn bad powder. To break wind: euph. coll.: early C.20. Manchon.

burn before reading! By a joc. inversion of the usu. serious injunction to burn a confidential missive as soon as it has been read: a warning to keep secret the contents of a letter or other document: since ca. 1955. Poss. from the BBC radio comedy series 'The Goon Show', and influenced by spy-thrillers. (P.B.)

burn-crust. A baker: mid-C.18–20; joc., coll. rather than s. Grose, 1st ed.

burn daylight. Lit., have a light burning in the daytime, hence to waste the daylight. At first (ca. 1587), coll.; soon S.E. Shakespeare, in Romeo, 'Come, we burn daylight.' Apperson.

burn (one's) fingers. To incur harm, damage, by meddling: from ca. 1700: coll. > S.E. P.B.: perhaps ex the game of snapdragon.

burn it blue. To act outrageously (?): C.18. Swift in Stephen and Chloe (OED).

burn my breeches, like dash my wig!, is a joc. oath. Both are in Moore's Tom Crib.

burn off, v.i. To drive very fast, esp. if 'showing off': Aus. motorists': since late 1940s. (B.P.) burn on. See put a burn on.

burn (one)self out. To work too hard and die early: C.19–20; coll. > S.E. by 1900. Cf. burnt to the socket.

burn the (or one's) candle at both ends. To work early and late, or to work early and pursue pleasure till late, in the day. From ca. 1650. Coll. > S.E. by 1800. Ex the Fr. phrase recorded in England as early as Cotgrave.—2. (Only ... the ...) To be very wasteful: coll.: mid-C.18–20. Smollett. (Apperson.)

burn the grass. 'To urinate out of doors' (B., 1942): Aus.: C.20.

burn the ken. To live at an inn or lodging-house without paying one's quarters: C.18—early 19: c. (A New Canting Dict., 1725; Grose, 1st ed.) Cf. burn the town.

burn the parade. To warn for guard more men than are necessary and then excuse the supernumeraries for money—ostensibly to buy coal and candles for the guard: mid-C.18—early 19, military. Grose (Captain and Adjutant of Militia), 1st ed.

burn the planks. To remain long seated: coll. verging on S.E.: from ca. 1840; ob. Carlyle. OED.

burn the Thames. To do something very remarkable: coll.: Wolcot, 1787; ob. A joc. variation of set the Thames on fire.

burn the town. (Of soldiers and sailors) to leave a place without paying for one's quarters: late C.17–18. (B.E.) Cf. burn the ken, q.v.

burn the water. To spear salmon by torchlight. From ca. 1800; s. > coll. by 1850, S.E. by 1890.

burn-up, n., esp. have a burn-up, to race in a car or on a motorcycle: mostly teenagers': since ca. 1955. They 'burn up' the road.—2. A marked blush: Rugby School: since late 1950s. (David Wharton.)—3. As the burn-up, 'One of the most ingenious of confidence tricks' (John Gosling, The Ghost Squad, 1959), involving a gang of three or four: adopted, ca. 1946, ex US.

burn up, v. To blush; to become very much embarrassed: Rugby School: since late 1950s. (David Wharton.)—2. (Esp. in the imperative.) To fall silent; to stop talking: Aus.: since ca. 1955. (James Barlow, In All Good Faith, 1971.) Cf. dry up.

burn you! Go to hell!: (low) coll.:—1887 (Baumann); ob. by 1930. Ex dial., where it occurs as early as 1760 (EDD).

burned, burnt, ppl. adj. Infected with venereal disease. Late C.16–20, ob.; coll. Shakespeare's pun in Lear, 'No heretics burned, but wenches' suitors'; B.E., 'Poxt, or swingingly Clapt'. Cf. the mid-C.18—early 19 sailors' 'be sent out a sacrifice and come home a burnt offering', of catching a venereal disease abroad (Grose, 1st ed.).

burned out. 'Recovering from drug dependence' (Home Office): drugs world: 1970s.

burner. A card-sharper: C.18 (?earlier) c. Ex burn, q.v.—2. A sharp blow or punch: c.: C.19. (Baumann) Ex the tingle it causes.—3. Short for 'afterburner': RAF coll. > j.: later C.20. Phantom.—4. In go off (one's) burner, to go mad, late C.19—early 20. Barry Pain, The One Before, 1902 (D.B. Gardner).—5. A venereal disease: the latter (coll. > S.E.) from ca. 1750; the former (s. > coll.) from ca. 1810 (Lex. Bal.) and ob. by 1930. Also burning.

burner of navigable rivers, be no. To be a simple or a quite ordinary person: mid-C.18—early 19. (Grose, 2nd ed.) Cf. burn the Thames.

burning, vbl n. Smoking: training-ships': late C.19–20. Bowen.—2. 'Opening a safe with oxyacetylene' (Tempest): c.: mid-C.20.—3. See burner, 5.

burning, adj. A coll. euph. for bloody:—1923 (Manchon); ob. by 1930.

burning shame. 'A lighted candle stuck into the private parts of a woman' (Grose, 1st ed.): low: mid-C.18—early 19. Punning the stock phrase.—2. 'Having a watchman placed at the door of a bawdy-house, with a lantern on his staff, in the daytime, to deter persons from going in and out' (Egan's Grose): low: ca. 1820–40.

burning and turning. '[The air-sea rescue crew] climb in the naval Wessex helicopter ... soon the engine is running and the huge rotor blades begin to swing round faster and faster—"burning and turning" as they say' (John Winton, in the Illustrated London News, May 1978): FAA. (P.B.)

burnt. See spots on burnt.—2. Adj. See burned.—3. Short for:

burnt cinder. A window: rhyming s. (—1914) on winder.

burnt copper. See worth (one's) weight ...

burnt offering. See burned.—2. Food, esp. meat, that has been allowed to burn: joc. coll.: late C.19–20.—2. Roast meat: RN: C.20. Bowen.

burnt to the socket. Dying: late C.17–18: coll. >, ca. 1700, S.E. (Ray.) Cf. burn one(self) out.

buero, buroo or brew. An employment-exchange: workmen's coll.: from ca. 1921. Hence, on the buro, out of work and drawing dole; esp. in Glasgow (MacArthur & Long). I.e., bureau; or, perhaps, on the buero=on the Borough.

burp. Esp. of a baby, to eructate; also v.t., to cause (a baby) to belch: late C.19–20 (?very much earlier): coll. >, by 1920 at latest, S.E. Hence, burp at both ends, to pass wind from throat and anus simultaneously: Aus. s.: since ca. 1930. (B.P.) Oddly, this word didn't reach the dictionaries until the 1930s. Echoic—cf. gurk, and see also big spit.

Also, derivatively, n.: C.20. Both v. and n. have alternative spelling birp. Early in 1967, Dr R.L. Mackay, M.D., resident there for some forty years, remarks that, 'in Wolverhampton, birp is used in the conversation of the uppermost classes, rft by the middle class, and belch by the remainder, which may include some public schoolboys'. Note that whereas belch is, of course, S.E., rft was—and is—a very widespread Northern and Midland dial. term.

burp a rainbow. To vomit: Aus.: since ca. 1930. (A. Buzo, 1973). Cf. technicolour spit or yawn.

burp(-)gun. A sub-machine-gun: army: adopted, ex US, ca. 1950. Echoic.

bur(r), n. A hanger-on, a persistent 'clinger': late C.16–20; until ca. 1750 (B.E. has it) it was coll., then it > S.E.; ob. by 1930.

bur(r), v. To fight; scrimmage; 'rag'. Marlborough College: mid-C.19–20, ob.

burp-pump. The old manual bilge-pump: nautical coll.: mid-C.19–20; ob. (Bowen.) Because it so often 'stuck'.

burra, adj. Great, big; important, as burra sahib. Chiefly in India: from ca. 1800.

burra beebee. A lady claiming, or very apt to claim, precedence at a party: Anglo-Indian: recorded in 1807; ob. In Hindi, lit. great lady. Y. & B.

burra khana. Lit., big dinner, it=a great, gen. a solemn, banquet: Anglo-Indian (—1880).

burra mem. The chief lady at a station: Anglo-Indian (—1903). Lit. burra, great, + mem, white lady. See mem and mem-sahib; cf. burra beebee.

Burrifs, the. The Burma Rifles: WW2. Cf. Rajrifs, Rajputana Rifles.

burrow. To hide; live secretly or quietly. From ca. 1750. Coll. in C.18, then S.E. The SOD quotes 'to burrow in mean lodgings' (Marryat).

burrower. 'A researcher of some sort, in the jargon a "burrower"' (John Le Carré, The Honourable Schoolboy, 1977): espionage and security circles: prob. since ca. 1950.

burry. An Aboriginal: Aus.: since ca. 1910. (B., 1943.) Ex the burrs in his beard?, or perhaps rather a slurred Aboriginal, bori > burry—cf. the formation of abo. (R.S.)

Burse, the. The Bursar: colleges' and schools': late C.19–20.

burst, n. A burglary: c.:—1857; ob. 'Ducange Anglicus'.—2. A 'spree'; a hearty meal. Esp. on the burst, on the spree: Blackwood's, 1880; Præd, 1881, in Policy and Passion. Coll.—3. (Sporting) a spurt (—1862): coll. >, by 1900, S.E.—4. Hence (?), the 'outpour of theatrical audiences about [11 p.m.] into the Strand'; London police: 1879; ob. Ware.—5. A succession of bullets fired by a machine-gun: C.20: coll. >, by 1941, j. Jackson.—6. Hence, give (someone) a burst, to complain; to remind vigorously: since late 1940s. (P.B.) burst, v. To drink, v.t. with pot, cup, bottle, etc.: coll.: from ca. 1850; †.—2. To spend extravagantly: from ca. 1890. See bust, v., 3.—3. To close (v.i.): see gaff street.

burst at the broadside. To break wind: drinkers': ca. 1670–1850. Ray. (Apperson.)

burst (one's) crust. To break one's skin: boxers': ca. 1800–80. Ware.

burst him (her, etc.)! Confound him! low coll.:—1887; ob. Baumann.

burst into flames. See what do you expect me to do?, and I don't care if you ...

burst up. To be greatly perturbed, angered, excited: coll.; late C.19–20; ob. by 1930.

burster. A loaf of bread: low: as a twopenny burster, it occurs in W.T. Moncrieff, Tom and Jerry, 1821. As simply 'bread', it is recorded by 'Ducange Anglicus', 1857; † by 1920.—2. An exhausting physical effort: coll.; rather rare. Recorded in 1851. OED.—3. (Racing) a heavy fall, 'cropper': from ca. 1860; ob.—4. (Australia) a violent gale from the south, esp. at Sydney: from ca. 1870; coll.; rare for (southerly) buster.—5. Burster is a var. of several senses of buster, q.v.

Burton. See gone for a Burton; and—bury a moll. C. and low: to run away from a mistress: from ca. 1850. (H., 1st ed.) Perhaps suggested by dial. (—1847) burying-a-wife, 'a feast given by an apprentice at the expiration of his articles' (Halliwell).

Burton-on-Trent. The rent one pays: rhyming s.: from ca. 1880. (P.P., Rhyming Slang, 1932.) Often abbr. to Burton.

bury a Quaker. To defecate, evacuate: orig. and mainly Anglo-Irish: from ca. 1800. F. & H., at bury, gives a long list of synonyms. See Quaker, 2.

bury it. (Of a man) to copulate: low: since ca. 1860.

bury old Fagin. (Of a man) to copulate: low, raffish: C.20. Perhaps ex prec. (P.B.)

bury the hatchet. (In C.14–18, hang up the hatchet.) To swear peace, become friendly again. Ex US (ca. 1784), anglicised ca. 1790 as a coll. that, in C.20, has > S.E.; Wolcot uses it in 1794. Ex a Red Indian custom. Apperson.

bury the landlady. To decamp without paying: low: C.19–early 20. Cf. burn the ken and moonshine; contrast bury a moll.

burying the baby. A c.p. indicative of profit made out of the knowledge of a discreditable or even a guilty secret: from ca. 1910. Ex 'A knows where B buried the baby' and profits accordingly. TLS, 20 Mar. 1937.

bus, n. Abbr. business: in the theatrical sense. From ca. 1850. (Pron. biz.)—2. Abbr. omnibus: from 1832. In C.20, coll. On 13 Mar. 1935, by the edict of the London Transport Board, bus > the standard word (to the exclusion of omnibus); pl buses. (Fowler considered busses 'sure to come'.) Harriet Martineau, Dickens, Thackeray, Black the novelist.—3. (A) dowdy dress: Society: 1881; † by 1920. (Ware.) I.e. a dress suited only to that conveyance.—4. Enough! stop! Anglo-Indian coll. (—1853). Ex Hindi bas. Y. & B.—5. An aeroplane: early s. (OED has 1913) which soon > démodé; it was however still heard occ. in early WW2: 'Used very rarely now', Jackson, 1943.—6. Large rowing boat (18 oars): RN: ca. 1890–1930. Goodenough, 1901. Hence—7. Any (slow) ship, or an antiquated one: RN: late C.19—earlyish 20. 'Taffrail', Carry On!, 1916.—8. A motor-car (or even a motor-cycle: Lyell): not among mechanics, says Richard Blaker: from ca. 1920; ob. Ex sense 2, as is:—9. An omnibus volume: book-world: since ca. 1940. E.g., the Birmingham bus—a book of stories by George A. Birmingham. Orig. joc.—10. See miss the bus.

bus, v. Also bus it. To go by bus: coll.: 1838. OED.—2. V.t. To send by bus, as children from one area of a town to a school in another area: adopted, ex US, ca. 1972: coll., becoming S.E. (P.B., 1979.)

bus! Enough! See bus, n., 4.

bus and tram. Jam: rhyming s.: C.20. (L.A., 1978.)

bus-bellied Ben. An alderman: East London: ca. 1840–1910. (Ware.) Ex tendency to corpulence.

bus-boy. 'One whose duty is to clear tables in a restaurant' (Leechman): Can.: adopted, ca. 1935, ex US. Perhaps ex Fr. s. omnibus, a kind of apprentice in the restaurant business.

bus-conductor. A sub-conductor, RAOC (a technical WO1): Army: since ca. 1947.

bus(-)driver. A bomber pilot: RAF: since early 1940. 'So called because he is usually on a well-beaten route' (H. & P.). And influenced, no doubt, by bus, n., 5.

bus-napper and bus-napper's kinchin. See buzz-napper's ... and busnapper.

bush, n. Either any or some special so-named tavern where a 'pigeon' is plucked: c. of ca. 1585–95. Greene.—2. The cat-o'-nine-tails: c.: from ca. 1890; †. OED Sup.—3. Pubic hair: low (mid-C.19–20) after being a literary euph. Whence, by facetious derivation, Bushy Park, q.v.; and the 'proverb' on the relative merits, from the male point of view, of copulation and masturbation: 'A push in the bush is worth two in the hand'.—4. Hence, a girl or young woman: Aus.: since ca. 1920. B., 1942.—5. A moustache: Aus.: since ca. 1925. Baker.—6. The suburbs: Aus. urban derogatory: since ca. 1930. (B., 1943.) Ex the Aus. sense of S.E. bush.—7. In beat or go about the bush, to go deviously (fig.): coll., from ca. 1550; the latter † by 1850; the former S.E. in C.20.—8. In go bush, to go wild: Aus. coll.: C.20. Ion L. Idriess, Lasseter's Last Ride, 1931, 'Most of their camels "had gone bush"'.—9. Hence, go bush, to escape from gaol and disappear: Aus. c.: since ca. 1910. (B., 1942.) Take (to) the bush, which, since ca. 1835 had meant 'to become a bushranger', > in C.20 synon. with this sense. Ex Aborigines that disappear to their habitat. Wilkes.—10. In go bush, to seek the peace, the solitude, of the bush: Aus. coll.: C.20. K.S. Prichard, Working Bullocks, 1926.—11. In up the bush, out in the country: Aus. coll.: C.20. B., 1942.

bush, adj. Rough and ready: inferior: Aus. coll.: late C.19–20. Esp. in bush lawyer. In NZ also; esp., bush carpenter (or carpentry): since ca. 1910. (Niall Alexander, letter, 1939.)—2. Hiding in 'the bush': Aus.: since 1910. Ion L. Idriess, Man Tracks, 1935, 'Paddy and Yankee were still "bush" on their pinki [walkabout], staying bush for a long long time.'

bush or bush it. To camp in the bush: from ca. 1885; not much used.—2. be bushed, be lost in the bush (—1856); hence, 3, to be lost, at a loss: from ca. 1870; all three are Aus. coll. Both voices occur in B.L. Farjeon's In Australian Wilds, 1889. With sense 3, cf. the early C.19 c. bushed, penniless, destitute.

bush ape. (Usu. in the pl.) A worker in the country: Aus. coll.: C.20. B., 1942.—2. A fruit picker: S. Aus.: C.20. Baker.

bush artillery. Men not normally considered as fighting men (cooks, clerks, etc.) who manned all sorts of guns during the siege of Tobruk: Aus.—2. 'Captured Italian guns manned by odds and sods in the siege of Tobruk' (Peter Sanders, Sunday Times mag., 10 Sep. 1967): Army in North Africa: WW2.

bush baptist. A person of either dubious or no religious denomination: Aus. and NZ: late C.19–20; but also English, it being used by soldiers in the Boer War (J. Milne, The Epistles of Atkins, 1902), though of course the Tommies may have picked it up from the Australian contingent in S. Africa. E.P. recalled hearing it during WW1 with the AIF; B., 1959.

bush-bashing. See bush-whacking.

bush bunny. A simpleton; a dupe: Aus. c.: since ca. 1920. B., 1953.

bush carpenter. A rough-and-ready carpenter: Aus. coll.: C.20. B., 1959.

bush-cove. A gipsy: c. (—1823); † by 1900. Bee, 1823, 'From their lodging under hedges, etc.'

bush dinner; bushman's hot dinner. Resp., 'mutton, damper and tea' and 'damper and mustard': Aus. coll.: late C.19–20. B., 1942.

bush fire, full of. (Very) energetic; high spirited; (very) plucky: Aus.: C.20. Baker.

bush lawyer. A layman fancying he knows all about the law—and given to laying it down: Aus. coll.: from early 1890s. H.G. Turner, 1896 (Morris). See also lawyer.

bush(-)league, adj. Second-rate: Can., adopted, ca. 1930, ex US. Ex the leagues of minor baseball teams. (Leachman.)

bush radio or bush wireless are post-1930 forms of bush telegraph. B., 1943.

bush-ranger. A convict, later anyone, living on plunder in the Australian bush: recorded in 1806: coll. soon > S.E. Now usually bushranger.—2. Hence, a petty swindler: an unethical opportunist: Aus.: since ca. 1910. (Baker). Cf. the later C.20 Eng. use of bandit (P.B.).

bush-scrubber. 'A bushman's word for a boor, bumpkin, or slatternly person': Aus. coll.: 1896. (Morris.) Ex the scrub, whence such a person may be presumed to have come.—2. A rural prostitute: Aus.: C.20. Baker.

bush-tail, adj. Cunning: Aus. coll.: C.20. Baker.

bush telegram or telegraph. Unfounded report or rumour: Aus. coll.: C.20. Ion L. Idriess, Man Tracks, 1935.

bush up. To confuse or baffle: Aus.: C.20. (Baker.) Cf. bush, v., 2.

Bush Week; esp. in What do you think this is—Bush Week?, 'a c.p. used when someone has proposed something very "fishy"' (B.P.): Aus.: since ca. 1945. (It occurs in, e.g., Lawson Glassop, Lucky Palmer, 1949.) Sometimes or Christmas is added. The time of the local agricultural and pastoral show, when the 'city slickers', esp. the 'con men', fleece the rustics. There is, by the way, no such thing as a Bush Week. (B.P.)

bush-whacker. Aus., ex US: an axeman, feller of trees, opener of new country; hence, in C.20, one who lives in the (more remote) country districts. The orig. sense has > S.E., the latter remains Aus. coll.—2. As bushwhackers, Commandos that went to Rangoon, just before its fall, to do salvage work: Aus.: 1942. O.D. Gallagher, Retreat in the East, 1942.

bush-whacking or -bashing, n. 'Forcing one's way through dense undergrowth [: S. African]: since 1920' (Prof. A.C. Partridge, letter, 1968). Cf. prec. and jungle-bashing. The first form is now, later C.20, informal S.E.

bushed. See bush, v., 2. Cf. Bushy Park, at.—2. Amazed: Marlborough College: since late 1920s.—3. 'Suffering from mild or serious mental derangement caused by long solitude in the bush. Once a very common and serious trouble, especially among trappers and prairie farmers' wives. Now much mitigated by the wireless which provides human contact even if only mechanically. "Harry's been alone for a couple of years now. He must be pretty well bushed."—A Can. coll.: (?) late C.19–20. (Leachman.)—4. To be physically exhausted, as 'I had to run all the way to the station and I was completely bushed when I finally got on the train': coll.: mid-C.20. (P.B.)—5. Since ca. 1920, the predominant Aus. sense has been 'to have lost one's bearings'. (B.P.) bushed on, vbl adj. Pleased; delighted with. C.19.

bushel and peck. The neck: rhyming s.: late C.19–20. B. & P. bushel bubbly. A woman with large, full breasts: low: mid-C.18–19. Grose, 1st ed. Ex bushel, a large quantity, + bubby, a woman's breast. Cf. the witty Fr. c.p.: 'Elle a du monde au balcon'.

bushel of coke. A 'bloke': rhyming s.: C.20. Franklyn, Rhyming.

bushfire blonde. A red-head: Aus.: since ca. 1925. B., 1943.

bushies. People living in the outback or 'bush': Aus.: since ca. 1925. B., 1953.

bushman's clock. A kookaburra: Aus. coll.: late C.19–20. The laughing jackass.

bushman's hot dinner. See bush dinner.

bushranger. See bush-ranger.

bushwa. A polite Can. var. of bullshit: since ca. 1916.

bushwhacker. See bush-whacker.

bushy, n. See bushies.

bushy, adj. Annoyed. See PUBLIC...SCHOOL SLANG, in Appendix.

Bushy Park. A lark (lit. and fig.): rhyming s.:—1859 (H., 1st ed.).—2. The female pubic hair: low: from ca. 1860. Hence, take a turn in Bushy Park, to possess a woman.—3. In at Bushy Park, poor: c.: early C.19—early 20. (Vaux.) Also in the park.

business. Sexual intercourse: C.17–18, coll. Taylor the Water Poet, 1630, 'Lais... asked Demosthenes one hundred crownes for one night's business'.—2. (Theatrical) dialogue as opp. to action: S.E., late C.17—early 18, but from ca. 1750, as in The World, 1753, and Scott, in 1820, it has meant by-play and as such it is coll.—3. A matter in which one may intervene or meddle: late C.17–20; coll.—4. In deliberately vague reference to material objects: coll.: 1654, Evelyn; 1847, Leigh Hunt, 'A business of screws and iron wheels'. Cf. affair. OED.—5. A difficult matter: coll.; from ca. 1840. Carlyle, 'If he had known what a business it was to govern the Abbey ...', 1843.—6. Defecation, faeces; esp. in do one's business: nursery coll.: mid-C.19–20. Cf., semantically, do a job for oneself.—7. 'Apparatus for injection of a drug': drug addicts': current in 1970s. Home Office.—8. As B-, Busnes, in France: Western Front military in WW1. F. & G.—9. In do (one's) business for (one), v.i. and t., to kill; cause death of: from ca. 1660: S.E. until ca. 1800, then coll. Contrast sense 6. and.—10. In do the business, to settle the matter: coll.: C.19–20. 'Idyl' in Blackwood's, July 1823 (Moe).—11. In mean business, to be in earnest: coll.:—1857 (Hughes: OED).—12. In on the business, engaged in prostitution. See business girl.—13. In quite a business, something unexpectedly difficult to do, obtain, etc.: coll.: late C.19–20.—14. Anything particularly good: teenagers': early 1980s. (James Williamson, 1982).—15. See mind (one's) own business; send about (one's) business; three-stride business.

business as usual. A c.p. dating from WW1. By turns gallant, ironic, literal and finally, by the 1960s, condemnatory. See DCpp.

business end, the. The commercial part of a firm's activities: coll.: late C.19–20. From ca. 1910, this use of end has been extended: thus one can speak of the selling and the buying end of a retail business.—2. The part that matters: coll.: since late C.19. An early occurrence is in E.H. Hornung, Raffles, 1899: 'The business ends of the spoons'. P.B.: in the thriller cliché, e.g. 'I found myself looking down the business end of a rifle', i.e. the mouth of the barrel. Ex-business end of a tin tack, the. The point of a tack: US (—1882), anglicised in 1883 (Daily News, 27 Mar.: Ware). Cf. get down to brass tacks.

business girl, a. Prostitutes' favourite description of themselves: i.e. harlots' c.p.: from ca. 1921. Likewise, on the business is favourable, whereas on the bash, batter, game, are pej. for 'engaged in prostitution, esp. at the moment'.

busk. To sell obscene songs and books in public houses; whence busking, such occupation, and busker, such vendor. Orig.—prob. the 1840s, though not recorded till the 50s—vagrants' and always low. (Mayhew, London Labour and the London Poor, vols I and III.) Prob. ex C.18–20 S.E. busk, to go about seeking, influenced by a corset-busk; cf. nautical busk, to cruise as a pirate.—2. Hence, esp. as vbl n. busking, to play, sing, dance in public houses or in the streets: since the 1850s; orig. low, but, by mid-C.20 at latest, gen. coll.—3. See both ends of the busk!

busker. A man that sings or performs in public-houses: c.:—1859 (H., 1st ed.) Cf. busk, 2. In C.20, at first among tramps, and by mid-C.20 at latest, as gen. coll., it came to mean a man who plays a musical instrument in the street; esp. one who entertains a cinema or theatre queue. P.B.: by later C.20 verging on S.E., and applied to young persons of either sex who sing or play for a living to the public at large, esp. in the pedestrian ways of the London Underground.—2. Any itinerant: c. or low s.:—1874 (H., 5th ed.); † in this sense, supplanted by sense 1.

Busky. A frequent nickname of men surnamed Smith: Services': late C.19—early 20. (F. & G.) P.B.: I never heard this in post-WW2 army or RAF; Smiths were, by then, gen. known as Smudger.

busnack; gen. as vbl n. To pry; 'to be unnecessarily busy and fussy' (Goodenough, 1901): RN: late C.19—early 20. Prob. ex the buzz of a fly. Whence buzz-nagger, q.v.

busnapper. A policeman: Aus. c.: C.20. (Baker). A napper or capturer of those who are engaged in 'the buzz'—see buzz, n., 2. pickpocketing.

buso, go. To turn septic. See PRISONER-OF-WAR SLANG, §6.

bus. An early var., recorded in H., 1st ed. 1859, of bus, omnibus.—2. A scholarship or bursary: Aberdeenshire s.; not dial.: 1851 (Wm. Anderson, Rhymes, Reveries and Reminiscences: EDD Sup.). Perhaps because as pleasant as a kiss.

bus, adv. Only: army: C.20; by ca. 1950, †. Thus, 'He had his coat on, buss'—he was wearing only his coat. Perhaps ex bus, n., 4, 'Enough!'

buss-beggar. A harlot, old and of the lowest: low coll.: C.17–19.—2. Specifically, 'an old superannuated fumbler, whom none but' beggar-women 'will suffer to kiss them' (Grose, 1st ed.): low coll.: C.18—early 19.

busser. A bus horse: 'one of the old London 'bussers' occurs in J. Milne, Epistles of Atkins, 1902, where also is the phrase: 'It was enough to make a 'bus horse laugh.' (P.B.)

bussie or bussy. A bus-worker: coll.: since ca. 1940. Reynolds, 18 Nov. 1945.

bust. Sol. for burst, n. and v. Apparently unrecorded in England before 1830, Dickens being one of the earliest sources: Oliver Twist (busting, adj.); Nicholas Nickleby, 'His genius would have busted'; Martin Chuzzlewit, 'Keep cool, Jefferson ... don't bust'; Two Cities, 'Bust me if I don't think he'd been a drinking!'

bust, n. A frolic, spree, drinking-bout: esp. as go on the bust, orig. (—1860) US, acclimatised ca. 1880. Cf. burst.—2. A burglary: c.: in England, ca. 1850–1910; but in Aus. extant until 1977 at least (Ian Grindley). Kylie Tennant, The Joyful Condemned, 1953: "'Mortman the bustman!" Rene sneered. "Listen to him big-note himself. He's going to do a bust!"'—3. A police search or raid: drug addicts', hippies', Flower People's: adopted, late 1950s, ex US. Observer colour sup., 3 Dec. 1967.—4. In all in a bust, very excited: lower classes':—1923 (Manchon).

bust, v. To burst; explode: sol. except when jocularly deliberate. Dickens, 1838.—2. To put out of breath: from ca. 1870. E.g. in Taking Out the Baby, a broadside ballad of ca. 1880.—3. In c. (occ. as burst), to rob a house, v.t., rarely v.i.: C.19–20.—4. To inform to the police: c.: C.19–20. By late 1970s it had come to mean 'to inform (especially about illicit drugs)' (Home Office). Hence the vbl n., busting.—5. To degrade an NCO: military coll.: late C.19–20. Either, simply, 'He was busted', or with down, as 'Sergeant X was busted down to corporal'.—6. To arrest, e.g., a drug addict: adopted, ca. 1955, ex US. (John Wyatt, Drugs, 1973.) Common also in Can. Cf. bust, n., 3.—7. (Cf. 4.) To inform on a fellow prisoner: prison c.: later C.20. S. McConville, in State of the Language, 1980.

bust! Dash it! NZ and UK: early C.20. Also bust it! Cf. bust me!

bust a frog! 'Well, I'm damned!': Cockneys': mid-C.19–20; by 1940, ob.

bust a gut. To make an intense effort; usu. negative as 'Well, I'm not going to bust a gut trying to finish it tonight—it can ruddy well wait': coll.: C.20. (P.B.)

bust (a policeman's) beat. To commit a crime on it: police: since ca. 1910. The Free-Lance Writer, April 1948.

bust-maker. A womaniser; a seducer: low coll.: C.19. Ex the bosom's enlargement in pregnancy and punning the S.E. sense.

bust me! A mild oath: non-aristocratic: 1859 (Dickens). Also bust it!, bust you (or yer!) bust the rut. To blaze a trail: Northern Territory, Aus.: since ca. 1925. (Ernestine Hill, The Territory, 1951.) Baker, 1959, prefers bust a rut. Cf. sod-buster, -busting.

bust up. (Or hyphenated.) A great quarrel, 'row', or excitement: 1899, Kipling: coll. now on verge of S.E. OED Sup. busted, or gone bust. Ruined: coll.: late C.19–20. (Lyell.) Cf. bust, v., 5.

Buster. 'A name for anybody whose real name may or may not be known to the speaker. Usually but not necessarily pejorative. "Now listen here, Buster, this means trouble!"' (Leechman): Can.: adopted, ca. 1920, ex US. Perhaps from the inoffensive, 'dead-pan' film comedian, Buster Keaton, of silent-movie fame. But cf. old buster, q.v., and sense 5 of-buster, burster. A small new loaf; a large bun. Until ca. 1850, the form is gen. burster; after, buster. Burster occurs in Moncrieff's Tom and Jerry, buster in Punch, 10 Jan. 1852, p. 14. Ob.—2. (Buster only:—) Anything of superior size or astounding nature: orig. (—1850), US, anglicised ca. 1859 (witness H., 1st ed.), e.g. in Dickens's Great Expectations.—3.

In c., a burglar: ca. 1845–1910.—4. A spree, rarely except in in for a buster, determined on or ready for a spree: orig. US; from ca. 1858 in England (cf. bust, n.); ob.—5. Hence, a dashing fellow: low: from ca. 1860; ob.—6. (Aus.) a southerly gale with much sand or dust, esp. at Sydney: coll., from ca. 1880. Much earlier and more gen. as southerly buster. Cf. brickfielder.—7. A piece of bread and butter: schoolboys': C.20. Cf. sense 1. Gen. in pl.—8. (Gen. burst.) 'A very successful day or season': grafters': from ca. 1880. Cheapjack. Ex sense 2.—9. A shoplifter: Can.: since ca. 1950. (Leechman.) Cf. sense 3.—10. A hard roll of bread: trawlermen's: C.20. (Wm Mitford, Lovely She Goes, 1969.) Cf. sense 1.—11. See go in a buster.—12. In come a buster, to fall, or be thrown, heavily from a horse: Aus. coll.:—1888. Cf. come a purler.—13. In a buster, adv., hollow; utterly: low: ca. 1885–1910. See quo'n at molrowing.—14. (Cf. sense 5.) By late C.19 merely 'a fellow, chap, as in "at that fat old buster next the fire—present—Fire!" ... I let the old buster have a volley in the fattest part' (The Second Relief of Kimberley', in War's Brighter Side, 1901). Here, perhaps, a euph. for bastard or bugger.

bustle, n. A dress-improver. Recorded 1788 and presumably coll. for a few years before becoming S.E., as in Dickens, Miss Mitford, Trollope.—2. Money: from ca. 1810. At first c., but fairly gen., low s. by ca. 1860; ob. Vaux, Hotten.—3. In on the bustle, cadging; engaged in the sly acquisition of small objects: Aus. c.: since ca. 1920. B., 1943.

bustle, v. To confuse; perplex: coll., from ca. 1850. Cf. the transitive S.E. senses.

bustle-punching. The practice, not uncommon in dense crowds, of a male rubbing his penis against the buttocks of females. The penis may or may not be exposed' (Powis): police s.: current in 1970s.

bustman. A burglar. See bust, n., 2.

busty. (Of a girl, woman) generously breasted: low coll. > gen.: since mid-C.20. Ex S.E. bust, 'bosom'. (P.B.)

busy, n. A detective, a CID officer: c.: C.20. Ex-Sgt B. Leeson, in Lost London, 1934, implies its use ca. 1908, and Asst. Commissioner Powis attests its continued use into the 1970s. Earlier, occ. busy fellow.

busy, get. To become active: coll.: US (1905), anglicised by 1910. OED Sup.

busy as a bee in a treacle-pot. Very busy: coll.:—1923 (Manchon).

busy as a hen with one chick. Anxious; fussy; ludicrously proud: C.17–20 (ob.); proverbial coll. Shirley, 1632; Grose. busy as a one-armed paper-hanger, as. Bustlingly, or excessively, busy: NZ: since ca. 1939. (Slatter.) 'Common in Canada also,' says Dr Leechman, who cites the lengthened ... with the itch. P.B.: in Brit. and Aus. also elab. with (the) crabs.

busy as the devil in a high (in mid-C.19–20, often in a gale of wind). In a great flurry: low coll.: from ca. 1780; ob. Grose, 2nd ed.

busy foot, have a. (Of a horse) to be speedy: Aus.: since ca. 1920. Baker.

busy-sack. A carpet-bag: coll.: from ca. 1860; ob. by 1930. (H., 3rd ed.) Cf. American grip-sack.

but, for that, after it is not unlikely, impossible, etc., is sol.: from ca. 1660.—2. but, expressing 'mere surprise or recognition of something unexpected', as in 'I say! but you had a narrow escape', 'Excuse me! but you have smut on your nose', is coll.: from ca. 1850.—3. For the conjunctive but that generates a redundant negative (for but properly = that ... not), see Fowler.—4. When placed at the end of a sentence, as however often is, but is coll. verging on sol.: C.20. E.g. 'I didn't do it, but!' This usage has also been Aus. since ca. 1935. Nino Culotta's novel, Cop This Lot, 1960, contains many examples, as "'Yer gettin' enough to eat, ain't yer?"—"Gettin' enough, matey. Dunno the bloody names, but..."—5. See buts.

but what. In e.g. 'I don't know but what ...', = but that. Coll.: C.19–20; earlier, S.E. (Fowler.)

Butch. A nickname given to boys by fathers proud of their own muscles and virility and desirous of the same qualities in their offspring: Can. coll.: adopted, ca. 1920, ex US. Ex S.E. butcher. (Leechman.)

butch, n. An obviously active, as opposed to a passive, male homosexual: American, adopted, ca. 1950, by English-speaking homosexuals everywhere. It occurs in, e.g., Evelyn Waugh, The Ordeal of Gilbert Pinfold, 1957.—2. Hence, a Lesbian; loosely, a masculine sort of woman: homosexuals' (both sexes): since ca. 1945. Cf. dike, q.v.

butch and camp, adj., 'seen to have acquired additional meanings [or nuances]—"butch" being the dominant and "camp" the submissive partner in a [indeed in any] homosexual relationship' (Alan Wykes, 1977): since ca. 1973.

butch, v. To be a butcher, act as or like a butcher. In late C.18–early 19, S.E.; thereafter, and still, dial.; but in non-dial. circumstances it is, from ca. 1900, coll. (cf. buttle, q.v.): so too with the vbl n. butching.

butcha. A baby, a young child: Anglo-Indian:—1864 (H., 3rd ed.; Manchon). Ex Hindustani.

butcher. The king in playing-cards. Orig., ca. 1850, and, though ob., still mainly public-house s.; still extant, 1960s, among Aus. poker-players. Cf. bitch, n., 4.—2. Stout (the drink): public-houses': from ca. 1890. (Ware). Butchers are often fat.—3. A medical officer: military: WW1. Ex C.19 c.—4. A slop-master: artisans': ca. 1850–1900. Mayhew.—5. A (careless) barber: Aus., esp. Sydney: since ca. 1945. (B.P.)—6. A medical student: Univ. of Sydney undergraduates': C.20. (B.P.) Cf. sense 3.—7. A small glass of beer—a South Australian term, equivalent to the pony or lady's waist of NSW.—8. As exclam., mid-C.18–early 19, nautical and military: a joc. comment (on need of bleeding) when a comrade falls down. Grose, 1st ed.

butcher about. To make a din; humbug or fool about. Wellington College: late C.19–early 20. Perhaps a euph. for bugger about. butcher and bolt. A political c.p. applied contemporaneously to Egyptian policy of 1884–5. Baumann.

butchering, adj. and adv. Far; much; great(ly); low: from ca. 1870; ob. E.g. 'a butchering sight too forward' (J. Greenwood). Cf. bloody and other violences. Baumann.

butcher's. Noon: low (Parlyaree). R.H. Emerson, Signor Lippo, 1893.—2. As a butcher's, the more usu. later C.20 form of butcher's hook, a look, q.v. Often as 'Take a butcher's!'

butcher's apron. A blue-and-white striped blazer; at a certain Scottish Public School: late C.19–20. (Ian Miller, School Tie, 1935.) Ex the colouring.—2. The ribbon of the United Nations medal for active service in Korea. Ex the narrow vertical white stripes and the washed-out blue. The nickname was already current in 1954' (P.B.).

butcher's bill. The casualty list of a battle, esp. of those killed: coll.: as a naval term it occurs so early as 1829, in Fredk. Marryat, Frank Mildmay: 'Having delivered his "butcher's bill", i.e., the list of killed and wounded ...' (Moe.) Occ. for the monetary cost of a war: coll. (—1887). If this term, in either sense, is employed sarcastically and indignantly, it is then, for all its cynicism, rather S.E. than coll.

butcher's canary. A blowfly: Aus.: since ca. 1925. (Baker.) It infests butchers' shops and buzzes loudly.

butcher's daughter, like the. A c.p. used as an elab. of dripping for it: perhaps esp., but far from being only, Aus.: since ca. 1910.

butcher's dog, be or lie like a. To 'lie by the beef without touching it; a simile often applicable to married men' (Grose, 2nd ed.): low coll.: late C.18–early 19.

butcher's (hook). A look: rhyming s.: late C.19–20. B. & P.—2. (Adj.) Angry: Aus. rhyming s.: C.20. On crook and gen., as sense 1, in abbr. form.

butcher's horse ... See that must have been a ... butcher's jelly. Meat 'licked' or damaged by warble fly, which had to be pared off by the butcher to make the remainder more sightly. EDD notes the term as s. and quotes the Standard, 24 Sep. 1889.

butcher's meat. Meat had on credit and not yet paid for: late C.18–19 joc. punning the S.E. sense of the phrase. Grose, 3rd ed.

butcher's mourning. A white hat with a black mourning hat-band: from ca. 1860; ob. (H., 3rd ed.) Apparently ex butchers' distaste for black hats.

butcher's overall. A surgeon's white operating overall: RN: since ca. 1940. Capt. D.M.J. Clark, Suez Touchdown, 1964, dealing with the Suez episode of 1956. (P.B.) butcher's shop, the. The execution shed: prison officers': late C.19–20. Ernest Raymond, We the Accused, 1935.

bute. Coll. abbr. of Butazoladin, a pain-killing medicine: show-jumpers' and horse world: later C.20. David Broom, in BBC Radio 4 'Desert Island Discs', broadcast 14 Feb. 1981 (P.B.).

[butler-English.] 'The broken English spoken by native servants in the Madras Presidency... thus I telling = "I will tell"; I done tell = "I have told; done come = "actually arrived"...' Masters as well as servants used it: C.18–20; ob. by 1903. Y. & B. J butler's grace. A 'thank-you' but no money: coll.: 1609, Melton; † by 1700. Apperson.

butler's revenge. A particularly noisome but inaudible fart: current at Tonbridge School in mid-C.20, but prob. much more widespread, at least among Public Schools. (P.B.)

buts. Halibuts: trawlermen's coll.: C.20. D. Butcher, Trawlermen, 1980, glossary.

butt. A buttock; also the buttocks: low coll. in C.19–20 after being, in C.15–17, S.E. (Also dial. and US coll.)—2. Arse, as in 'working his butt off to find a solution' (Guardian, 23 June 1982); increasing Brit. use being made of this Americanism since ca. 1980. There is also some recent use of the synon. US. ass.—3. A buttery: Oxford and Cambridge undergraduates': mid-C.19–20. (Marples, 2.) Also at certain schools, e.g. Dulwich.

butt in. To interfere; interrupt: v.i. V.t., butt into, rare. From ca. 1895; coll. >, by 1920, S.E.

butt-notcher. A sniper: military: 1915–18. (F. & G.) Ex the tally of his victims kept by notches on his rifle-butt.

butteker. A shop: late C.18–19. Prob. ex Fr. boutique or Sp. bodega. Cf. buttiken, q.v.

butter, n. An inch of butter: C.18–19 Cambridge. E.g. in pl, 'Send me a roll and two butters.' Grose who, in 2nd ed., corrects the Oxford of the 1st.—2. Fulsome flattery, unctuous praise, 'soft soap'. From ca. 1820; coll. Blackwood's, 1823, 'You have been daubed over by the dirty butter of his applause.' Cf. the slightly earlier buttering-up.

butter, v. In c. and low, to increase the stakes at every game or, in dicing, at every throw: ca. 1690–1840. B.E.; Grose.—2. Flatter, or praise, unctuously or fulsomely: coll.: from late C.17; S.E. by 1850. Congreve, in the Way of the World, 1700: 'The squire that's buttered still is sure to be undone.'—3. 'To cheat or defraud in a smooth or plausible manner' (A New Canting Dict., 1725): c.: C.18.—4. To whip; from ca. 1820; ob. by 1930. Gen. as buttered, past ppl. passive.—5. To miss (a catch): cricket: 1891. Lewis. Ex butter-fingers.

butter and cheese of, make. To humbug; bewilder: C.17; coll. Cf. Gr. τυρεθειν. OED.

butter-and-eggs. The feat of butter-and-eggs consists in going down the [frozen] slide on one foot and beating with the heel and toe of the other at short intervals' (Macmillan's Magazine, Jan. 1862): coll. Cf. knocking at the cobbler's door, q.v.—2. A popular, i.e. (when not sol.) coll., name for flowers of two shades of yellow, esp. toadflax and narcissus: from ca. 1770. SOD.

butter-and-eggs trot. A short jig-trot: coll.; mid-C.18–early 19. Ex market women's gait. Grose, 3rd ed.

butter-bag or -box. A Dutchman: C.17–early 19. Dekker and B.E. have the latter, Howell the former. ?ex Holland as a formerly important butter-producing country, or rather ex 'the great quantity of butter eaten by people of that country' (Grose, 1st ed.).

butter-basher. A taxi-cabman employed during the 1913 taxicab strike: taxicab drivers': 1913. Herbert Hodge, Cab, Sir?, 1939, 'These new drivers, it was rumoured, were mostly unemployed shop assistants drawn mainly from the "grocery and provision" trade.'

butter-boat, empty the. To lavish compliments: also, to battle: coll.: from early 1860s. A butter-boat is a table vessel in which one serves melted butter.

butter-box. A full-lined coasting brig: nautical coll., orig. (—1840) US; anglicised ca. 1850; ob. by 1930. Bowen.—2. A Dutch ship or seaman: nautical coll.: C.19–20; ob. (Ibid.) Cf. butter-bag, q.v.—3. A fop: early C.18. See FOPS AND GALLANTS, in Appendix.

butter-boy (usu. in pl.) A sailor: army: 1945+.—2. A novice taxi-driver: taxi-drivers': 'coined during the 1913 cab strike' (Hodge). Cf. butter-basher.—3. 'A very young policeman' (Powis): underworld: current in 1970s.

butter (one's) bread on both sides. To be wasteful: coll.: from ca. 1660.

butter-churn. A turn (on the stage): music-halls' rhyming s.—1909 (Ware).

butter-coloured beauties. 'A dozen or so pale yellow motor-cabs' appearing in 1897: London: 1897. (Ware.) Cf. margarine messes.

butter dear, don't make. A jape addressed to patient anglers: mid-C.18–early 19. (Grose.) The origin of the phrase is (fortunately, I suspect) obscure.

butter-fingered. Apt to let things, esp. (1841) a ball, slip from one's hand: coll. (Meredith in Evan Harrington.) Ex-butter-fingers. One who lets things, esp. a ball, slip from his grasp: coll.: Dickens, 1837; Hood, 1857, 'He was a slovenly player, and went among the cricket lovers by the sobriquet of butter-fingers.'

butter-flap. A trap, i.e. a light carriage: rhyming s.:—1873; ob.—Also (—1859), but † by 1870, a cap. (H., 1st ed.) Cf. baby pap.

butter in (one's) eyes, have no. To be clear-sighted, hence alert and shrewd: coll.: ca. 1810–70. Alfred Burton, Johnny Newcome, 1818. (Moe.)

butter-mouth. A Dutchman: pej. coll.: mid-C.16–19. Cf. butter-bag, q.v.

Butter-Nut. A soldier in the Southern Army in the American Civil War: 1863 and soon anglicised. 'The Confederate soldiers' clothes were often dyed with butternut bark' (Leechman).

butter-patter. A grocery or dairy shop assistant: C.20. Often contemptuous. Cf. butter-basher.

butter-print. A child, esp. if illegitimate: Fletcher, 1616; † by 1800. Cf. buttercup. OED.

butter-queen and -whore. A scolding butter-woman: coll.; resp. C.17 (H. More), late C.16–18 (Nashe, T. Brydges).

butter-slide. A very slippery ice-slide: children's coll.: late C.19–20. (Collinson.) Prob. ex the sense current ca. 1850–90, 'a mischievous trick of Victorian small boys who put a lump of butter down where their elders would tread on it and take a fall' (Andrew Haggard, letter, 1947).

butter-snout. 'An epithet hurled at people cursed with a nose oily in appearance': ca. 1890–1920. (Leechman, 'I first heard it at Gravesend in 1905'.)

butter the fish. To win at cards: from ca. 1920. Manchon.

butter the whiting, esp. as vbl n., buttering... Doing something excessive or unnecessary: coll., mostly nautical, esp. naval (Bill Truck, 1826). I suspect that it's semi-proverbial and goes back to early C.18.

butter upon bacon. Extravagance; extravagant; domestic coll.:—1909 (Ware).

butter-weight. Good measure: ca. 1730–1900. Coll. Swift, 1733, 'Yet why should we be la'd so strait?/I'll give my monarch butter-weight' (OED). Ex b.w., formerly 18 (or more) ounces to the pound.

butter when it's hot, it will cut. Of a knife that is blunt. Coll. from ca. 1860.

butter will stick on his bread, no. He is always unlucky: C.17–19: coll. (B.E.; Scott.) With cleave: C.16–17.

butter would not melt in (one's) mouth, (look) as if. (To seem) demure. Coll. from the 1530s; Palsgrave (OED), Latimer, Sedley, Swift, Scott, Thackeray. In ref. to women, Swift and Grose add: yet, I warrant you, cheese would not choke her, the meaning of which must be left to the reader who will look at cheese.

butterboy. See butter-boy.

buttercup. A child. A pet name: coll. Mrs Lynn Linton, 1877. From ca. 1865; ob. by 1930.

battered bun(s). A mistress: ca. 1670–90, as in W. Cullen, 1679, in ref. to Louise de Quérouaille.—2. (In C.19–20 only battered bun.) A harlot submitting sexually to a number of men in quick succession: mid-C.17–20; slightly ob., but extant in certain Public Schools, mid-C.20. B.E.; Grose, 1st ed., 'One lying with a woman that has just lain with another man, is said to have a battered bun.'—3. (battered bun.) 'A Man pretty much in Liquor' (A New Canting Dict., 1725): low: ca. 1720–60.—4. Early C.18 term for a 'country fool'. See DUPES. Matthews, however, may err in distinguishing it from sense 3.

battered eggs in (one's) breeches, make. To defecate through fear: mid-C.17–18.

butterflies in the (or one's) stomach (occ. tummy), feel (or have). To experience tremors, either of excitement or of apprehension—or of both: aircrews': 1940+; by 1948, fairly gen.

butterfly, n. A river barge: nautical; from ca. 1870; ob. Ironical.—2. The reins-guard affixed to the top of a hansom cab: cabmen's, from ca. 1870; ob.: coll.; in C.20, S.E.—3. A coin that, when tossed, fails to spin: Aus. two-up players': late C.19–20. Baker.—4. A pawnbroker's ticket: lower-classes' euph.: Lancashire: early C.20. 'A pretty euphemism' (Robert Roberts, A Ragged Schooling, 1976).

butterfly, v., corresponds to the n., 3.

butterfly boat. A paddle (esp. if excursion) steamer: nautical: mid-C.19–20. (Bowen.) Ex the 'wings'.—2. Hence, a cross-Channel leave boat (esp. Southampton–Le Havre): military: 1915–18. F. & G.

butterfly boy. A fickle man that 'flits' from girl to girl: Services', in Hong Kong, 1960s. A term picked up from the Chinese bar-girls. (P.B.) butterfly cabman. A taxi-driver working only in the summer: taxi-drivers': since ca. 1910. Herbert Hodge, 1939.

buttering-up. Fulsome flattery or praise: coll.: since ca. 1815. Tom Moore, 1819, 'This buttering-up against the grain'.

Buttermilks, the. The 4th (Royal Irish) Dragoon Guards. 'Due to their long stay in Ireland, where many men acquired farms after their discharge, they were known as "The Buttermilks"... They were universally known throughout the British Army as "The Mounted Micks"' (Carew).

buttery. Addicted to excessive flattery: from ca. 1840; coll. passing to S.E. Cf. butter, v., 2.—2. The adj. to butter-fingers, q.v.: cricketers' coll.: 1864. Lewis.

buttery Benjie. A Scottish Universities' s. synonym for bejan, q.v.: from ca. 1840; ob.

buttiken. A shop: c.—1857; † by 1890. ('Ducange Anglicus.') While ken = a place, butti prob. = Fr. boutique. Cf. butteker, q.v.

buttie, butty. A comrade, a mate; a policeman's assistant (†): coll. and dial.: from ca. 1850. (Henry Kingsley, 1859.) Either from mining, where butty = a middleman, or from Romany booty-pal, a fellow workman, or, most prob., ex Warwickshire butty, a fellow servant or labourer (Rev. A. Macaulay, History of Claybrook, 1791). See esp. OED, F. & H. and Words! at 'Terms of address'. Perhaps cf. the US buddy. See also butty-boat.—2. Buttered bread; a sandwich, e.g. 'a jam butty': orig. Northern, esp. Liverpool, dial., since late C.19, the term later spread under the influence of Liverpool comedians such as Ken Dodd, to >, by 1970s, widespread and gen. s. for a sandwich.

butting. An obscure C.16 endearment: coll. (Skelton.) Perhaps cognate with butting.

buttiniski, n. An inquisitive person: Aus. (—1924) and English (—1933). Jice Doone. Ex US pun on butt in.—2. Hence, also as buttinisky, 'the one-piece telephone used by P.M.G. linesmen' (B.P.): since ca. 1930.

buttiniski, v.i. To interrupt, esp. when one's presence is undesired: NZ soldiers': 1915.

buttle. To act or serve as a butler: in C.20 coll. Earlier, dial. Cf. † suttle ex sutler.

buttock. A low whore: ca. 1660–1830: c. (Head, Shadwell, B.E., Grose) James Dalton, in A Narrative, 1728, defines her as 'One that dispenses her Favours without Advantage'—free of charge.

buttock and tongue. A shrew. C.18–19. ?punning c. buttock and tuang (late C.17–early 19), a common prostitute but no thief (also a down buttock and sham file, Grose, 1st ed.) and perhaps glancing at c. buttock and file (late C.17–early 19: B.E.), a prostitute that is also a pickpocket; if in the latter c. phrase sham is inserted before file, the sense of the former c. phrase is obtained.

buttock and trimmings. A Irish wager, of steak and claret. See rump and dozen.

buttock-ball. A dance attended by prostitutes: low coll.: late C.17–early 19. (Tom Brown, 1687.) Cf. ballum-rancum. See buttock.—2. Human coition: late C.18–early 19. (Grose, 1st ed.) Here the ref. is doubly anatomical.

buttock-banqueting. Harlotry: coll.: C.16–early 17.

buttock-broker. A procurer; the proprietress or manager of a brothel; a match-maker. Late C.17–early 19; low. (B.E., Grose.) In the first two senses, buttock = a harlot, in the third a cheek of the posteriors.

buttock-mail. A fine imposed for fornication: Scottish pej. coll.: C.16–19. Lyndesay, Scott.

buttocker. A wrestler: sporting: ca. 1805–60. Blackwood's, Dec. 1823, 'Wrestliana' (Moe).

buttocking-shop. A low brothel: low: C.19. (Lex. Bal.) Also buttocking-ken: c.: C.19.

button, n. A shilling: good, ca. 1840–1900; counterfeit, from ca. 1780; orig. c., then low; †. (Grose, 1st ed.) Cf. Brummagem buttons.—2. An illicit decoy of any kind: from ca. 1840; c. and low. Mayhew.—3. A baby's penis: low: C.19–20.—4. Clitoris: low: C.19–20.—5. In to have lost a button; to be a button short, to be slightly crazy, 'not all there': proletarian: C.19–20. (F. & H. rev.) Var. not to have all one's buttons, q.v. at buttons.—6. With not care a (brass) button, not to care at all, cf. not care...—7. In take by the button, to button-hole (someone): C.19–20; coll., soon > S.E.—8. See start off the button; win the button.

button, v. Decoy, v.t.; v.i., act as an enticer in swindles: c. and low: ca. 1840–1940. Cf. button, n., 2, 7.

button B. Penniless; very short of money: since ca. 1938. I.e. pushed for money as, until the 1960s, you pressed Button B in a telephone-booth when you wanted your money back.

button-boy. A page: coll.; from ca. 1875. Cf. boy in buttons.

button-bung. A button thief: 'old', says F. & H.; prob. C.17.

button-bu(r)ster. A low comedian: theatrical, from ca. 1870; ob. It is the audience that suffers.

button-catcher. A tailor: mostly nautical: from ca. 1870; ob. Cf. snip.

button(-)hole. Abbr. buttonhole flower(s) or bouquet. Recorded in 1879. Coll.—2. The female pudend: low: mid-C.19–20. Hence button-hole worker, working, penis, coition, and button-hole factory, a brothel, a bed.—3. In take one (down) a button-hole; occ. take a b-h lower, to humiliate; to de-conceit: coll.: from late C.16. (Shakespeare.) Cf. take down a peg, synon.

button(-)hole, v. To button-hold, i.e. to catch hold of a person by a button and detain him, unwilling, in conversation. Orig. (—1862) coll., in C.20 S.E. and displacing button-hold.

button-holer. A tedious detainer in conversation: C.20; coll., soon to > S.E.—2. A button-hole flower: coll. App. first in Punch, 29 Nov. 1884 (OED).

button (one's) lip. See button your lip!
button loose, (have) a. (To be) silly, crazy, slightly mad: military: C.20. (F. & G.) See also button, n., 5. button lurk, the. The 'dodge' whereby a plausible man removes from his coat a button to serve as a contraceptive pessary when a girl insists on protected coition: Aus. since ca. 1915. Prob., as a correspondent has suggested, a Serviceman's trick.
button mob, the. 'Uniformed police officers, especially in large numbers, e.g., at a political demonstration' (Powis): those affected: current in 1970s. button on, have a. To be despondent; temporarily depressed. Tailors', from ca. 1860; ob. button on to. To get hold of (a person), to buttonhole (him); to cultivate (his) company: 1904 (Charles Turley). Perhaps ex buttonhole (v.) + cotton on to.
button-pound. Money, esp. cash: provincial s., ca. 1840–1900. Extant in dial., whence prob. it came.
button short, be a. See button, n., 5. button-tosser. A radio telegraphist: R Aus. N: since ca. 1925. B., 1943. button up. To refrain from admitting a loss or disappointment: coll.: from ca. 1890. Ex US stockbroking (1841). button (up) your lip! Stop talking (now!); say nothing (later!): Can. c.p., adopted, ca. 1935, ex US. By ca. 1945, gen. throughout British Commonwealth. P.B.: but in another entry, E.P. had button (one's) lip: gen. in imperative: C.19–20: s. verging on coll.; once (—1868) common among schoolboys. Cf.:- button your flap! Be quiet!—stop talking!: RN: since ca. 1920. (H. & P.) In ref. to fly of male trousers: cf. keep (one's) lip buttoned. buttoned has, since ca. 1940, often been used for sense 1 of buttoned up. (Of a situation, a plan, a job) well in hand, all prepared: Services: since ca. 1935. English Digest, Feb. 1941, Hector Bolitho. Admitting neither wind nor water. Cf. laid on and teed up.—2. 'Silent, refusing to answer questions' (Petch, 1959): since ca. 1950. Obeying the injunction to button up your lip!—3. (Of persons) alert, well-prepared: since ca. 1960 (Bournemouth Evening Echo, 11 Aug. 1967.) Ex sense 1. buttoner. A decoy (see button, v.): c. >, ca. 1870, low; from ca. 1839. Ob. Brandon; Blackwood's, 1841; Cornhill Magazine, 1862.
buttons. A page: coll.: 1848, Thackeray. Ex numerous jacket-buttons. Cf. boots.—2. The warden or superintendent: workhouses':—1887 (Baumann).—3. In boy in buttons, a page: from ca. 1855: coll. until C.20, when S.E.—4. In get (one's) buttons, to be promoted from Leading Hand to Petty Officer: Wrens' coll.; since ca. 1939. Granville, 'Given a set of brass buttons to replace the black ones on her uniform.'—5. In it is in (one's) buttons, one is bound to succeed: coll.: late C.16–18. Shakespeare, 1598, 'Tis in his buttons, he will carry't' (OED).—6. In make buttons, 'The nervous fingering of one's buttons by a culprit under interrogation' (Basil Hall, 1831): mostly naval: from early C.19. Usu. as making buttons. Perhaps a euph. explanation of:—7. In (one's) arse or breech makes buttons; also make buttons (C.17–19). To look or be sorry, sad, in great fear: coll.; mid-C.16–early 19. Gabriel Harvey, captious critic, laborious versifier, and patterning prosateur; playwright Middleton; Grose, 3rd ed., 'His a—se makes buttons,' he is ready to befool himself through fear; in Ainsworth's Latin Dict., 1808, we find his tail maketh buttons (OED). Apperson. Ex buttons, the excreta of sheep.—8. In not to have all (one's) buttons, to be slightly mad; weak-minded: mid-C.19–20. (H., 2nd ed.) In dial. the affirmative form, indicative of great shrewdness, is common. Cf. button, n., 5; button loose; and KNOW, in Appendix.—9. In put (one's) buttons on, to 'bet one's shirt' on; hence, to trust absolutely in: army:—1923 (Manchon).—10. See damn (one's) buttons (includes dash my b -l); soul above buttons.
butty. See buttie.
butty-boat. A boat working in company with another; esp. a boat towed by a motor-boat: canal-men's: C.20. L.T.C. Rolt, Narrow Boat, 1944. See buttie, 1. buturakie. To jump on a person and either rob him or beat him up: 'used in Fiji and understood in Auckland and Sydney along the waterfront where it was picked up from Fijian or part-Fijian sailors. The equivalent of the Australian put the boot in. From Fijian buturaka' (Edwin Morrisby, letter, 1958).

buvare. Any drinkable: Parlyaree and low: from ca. 1840. Cf. beware, q.v. buxed. 'Hard up'; without money: London schools': ca. 1870–95. A perversion of busted: cf. broke and smashed up. buxie. An occ. var. of bakshee.
Buxton bloaters. Fat men and women wheeled in bath-chairs, at Buxton: late C.19–early 20. (R.G. Heapes, 1948.)
Buxton limp. The hobbling walk of invalids taking the waters': Society; esp. at Buxton: 1883–ca. 1890. (Ware.) On Alexandra limp, q.v. buy, n. A purchase; an opportunity to purchase: Stock Exchange coll.: from ca. 1925. In Time and Tide, 8 Sep. 1934, 'Securitas' writes thus: [Anglo-Dutch rubber] looks... one of the soundest of the solid buys, as opposed to the exciting gambles, in the market.'—2. In on the buy, actively buying: commercial coll.: adopted ex US ca. 1929. OED.
buy, v. To incur, hear, receive, be 'landed with' (something unpleasant) with one's eyes open or very credulously: since ca. 1800. An early occurrence is in W.N. Glascock, The Naval Sketch-Book, 1, 1825 (Moe). Cf. ask for it.—2. To wangle (something): military: WW1+. F. & G. buy a brush. See brush, n., 1. buy a prop! Buy some stock!: stockbrokers' c.p.: from ca. 1885. (B. & L.) 'The market is flat and there is nobody to support it.'
buy a pup. To be the victim of one who sells a pup, q.v. at sell a pup.
buy a white horse. To squander money: nautical: late C.19–20. (Bowen.) Ex the fleeting splendour of a 'white horse' wave.
buy and sell. To betray for a bribe: coll. verging on S.E.: C.18–19.—2. To be far too clever for (a person): coll.: C.20.—3. In able to buy and sell (a person), to be much superior (orig. financially) to: coll.: since ca. 1920. Cf. own, v. buy (one's) boots in Crooked Lane and (one's) stockings in Bandy-Legged Walk. To have crooked or bandy legs: c.p.: mid-C.18–early 19. Grose, 3rd ed.
buy goose. 'To suffer punishment' (Alfred Burton, Johnny Newcombe, 1818): lowerdeck: late C.18–mid-19. (Moe.) Cf. goose without gravy.
buy it. Orig. in I'll buy it!, tell me the answer or catch: c.p.: from ca. 1905. Ex buy, v., 1. Cf. "'Oh, no! I won't buy that!' I'll not accept that as an excuse or an argument' (Leechman): since ca. 1930. See also I'll bite. P.B.: in later C.20, if not before, also with other persons, as 'That sounds rather a dicey idea. D'you think they'll buy it?'—2. To become a casualty, usu. but not always, fatally: WW1 and 2: more in RN and RFC/RAF than army. Cf. He bought it (or He bought a packet), he was shot down: RAF: 1939+. H. & P., both forms: Brickhill & Norton, Escape to Danger, 1946, the shorter. buy me and stop one. See stop me...
buy money. To bet heavily on a favourite: racecourse coll.: since ca. 1930 (OED Sup.). Weekend, 11 Oct. 1967: 'Ways of "buying money"—getting on so-called "good things" at odds-on.'
buy old boots. See boots, 6.
buy on the never tick. To buy 'on tick': lower classes':—1923 (Manchon). A blend of never-never and tick, n., 2, qq.v. buy (one) self out. To get oneself discharged: Aus. c.: 1932 (Melbourne Age, 29 Apr.). Ironic, on the Services' coll. sense of 'purchasing one's discharge'. buy the rabbit(s). To have the worst of a bargain; to be a dupe: orig. (1825) US; anglicised ca. 1850; very ob. Cf. the C.16 proverb, who will change a rabbit for a rat?

buy the sack. See sack, n., 5.

buy (one's) thirst. To pay for a drink: adopted ex US ca. 1884; virtually † by 1909. Ware.

buyer. A 'fence', a receiver: C.20 c. Charles E. Leach.

buz(z), n. A parlour and a public-house game, in which the players count 1, 2, 3, 4, etc., with buz(z) substituted for seven and any multiple thereof: coll., then, by 1900, S.E. From ca. 1860; ob. by 1930. Miss Allcott, Little Women, 1868.—2. As the buzz, the picking of pockets: c.: late C.18–20. Cf. v., 2.—3. A rumour: orig. RN, from late C.19 (Bowen); adopted, ca. 1937, by the RAF (H. & P.) and then Services generally. Ex ob. S.E. buzz, a busy or persistent rumour.—4. Hence, news: RN:—1940 (Michie & Graebner, Their Finest Hour).—5. The n. corresponding to sense 1 of the v.: mid-C.19–20. 'It's your buzz' = 'It's time you filled your glass. (Marples, 2.)—6. A pickpocket: c.: C.18–early 19. James Dalton, A Narrative, 1728, 'They might defy all the Buzzes in London to haul the Cly'—i.e. to steal their purses.—7. Soup: training ships': latish C.19–earlyish 20. J.R. West, TS Indefatigable, 1909 (Peppitt).—8. A thrill, a 'kick': drug addicts': since late 1940s. (Bournemouth Echo, 28 Nov. 1968.) 'Methadone linctus—a drug which... offers neither the pleasure of shooting up, nor the same buzz as a shot of smack' (Time Out, 15 Feb. 1980).—9. A telephone call, as 'Give us a buzz Monday, then, all right?': coll.: since ca. 1950. (P.B.) buzz, v. Drain (a bottle or decanter) to the last drop: coll.: early C.18–19. Anon., Tyburn's Worthies, 1722; Gentleman's Magazine, 1795; Moncrieff, Thackeray. ? booze, corrupted. See buzza. In C.19, to share equally the last of a bottle of wine, when there is not a full glass for each person.—2. V.i. and t., to pick pockets: from ca. 1800: c., then—ca. 1860—low. Whence the late C.18–19 c. terms, buz(z)-man, buz(z)-gloak, buzz-bloke or -cove, and buzz-napper, a pickpocket.—3. To cast forcibly, throw swiftly: coll.: 1893, Kipling, 'Dennis buzzed his carbine after him, and it caught him on the back of his head' (OED Sup.).—4. To pass by, esp. buzz the bottle: University: C.20.—5. Often buzz off. To depart; esp. to depart quickly: from ca. 1905. Edwin Pugh, The Cockney at Home, 1914. (An occ. var. is buzz away.) See also buzz off!—6. (Of music) to become lively and energetic: 'pop'-music executants' and audiences': adopted, early 1970s, ex US. Melody Maker, 8 July 1972: 'The Gells band really began to buzz after their third number' (Janssen).

buzz about, or around, like a blue-arsed fly. To be—qr appear to be—excessively or officiously busy: late C.19–20: Cockneys', and then, during and since WW2, Services'. Often as buzzing about...

buzz-bomb. 'The German V1 flying bomb: civilians'' (R.S.): latish 1944—earlyish 1945. Superseded and supplanted by the more widely popular term doodlebug.

buzz-box. A motor-car: 1930s. (Passing Show, 12 May 1934.) Esp., a noisy taxicab: Herbert Hodge, Cab, Sir?, 1939.

buz(z)-faking. Pocket-picking. C.19 c. Ware has buz-faker.

buz(z)-gloak. A pickpocket. See buzz, v., 2.

buz(z)-man. See buzz, v., 2.—2. More gen., however, an informer: c.:—1864 (H., 3rd ed.).

buzz-merchant. A constant spreader of rumours: R Aus. N: WW2. (B., 1943.) Cf. buzz, n., 3.

buzz-nagger. A too talkative person: military: C.20. F. & G.

buz(z)-nappers' academy. A school for the training of thieves: late C.18—mid-19 c. George Parker, 1781; see, e.g., Oliver Twist.

buz(z)-napper's kinchin. A watchman: late C.18—early 19 c. Grose, 2nd ed.

buzz off! An imperative dismissal to a troublesome person or child; in some instances (but not necessarily) a euph. for bugger off!: C.20. See also buzz, v., 5.

buzz-wag(g)on. A hydro-glider, 'attaining a high speed with an aeroplane engine and propeller': RN: 1916. Bowen.—2. A motor-car: 1923, Manchon. By mid-C.20, †.

buzz(-)word (or written solid). Any resounding but hackneyed, and by misuse almost meaningless, word, borrowed from the jargons of the professions or technology to enhance the utterances of the ignorant: adopted, ca. 1970, ex US. Hence buzz-word generator, three columns of such words, placed side by side; a great number of utterly empty yet impressive combinations may be formed by taking a word at random from each column in turn and stringing the three words together. See Swift, Gulliver's Travels, Part III, Ch. 5, for the prototype. (P.B.)

buzza. An early form of to buzz, sense 1: late C.18 only. Grose, 1st ed.: 'To buzza one is to challenge him to pour out all the wine in the bottle into his glass, undertaking to drink it', i.e. the whole of the wine, 'should it prove more than the glass would hold; commonly said to one who hesitates to drink a bottle that is nearly out'. In the 3rd ed., he adds: 'Some derive it from bouze all, i.e. drink it all.'

buzzard. A stupid, ignorant, foolish, gullible person: C.14–19, extant in dial. B.E. gives as s., SOD as S.E.; prob. it wavered between coll. and S.E. before it > dial. Often, in C.18–20, in form blind buzzard. Ex buzzard, a useless hawk.—2. In old buzzard, q.v., a contemptuous term for an old man.

buzzed, be. To be killed: army: WW1. (F. & G.) Ex the buzz of a bullet.

buzzer. A whisperer of scandal and gossip: C.17–18; coll. Shakespeare.—2. A pickpocket: from ca. 1850; c. and low; ob. Cf. buz-nappers academy. Ex buzz, v., 2.—3. A motor-car: non-aristocratic: 1898 (Ware); † by 1920.—4. A signaller by Morse: military coll.: from ca. 1910; † by 1950, if not some time earlier. F. & G.—5. A wireless rating: RN: from ca. 1922. Bowen.—6. A telephone, esp. on a house telephone system: Services: since ca. 1939. H. & P.—7. That workman who 'puts wet yarn or cloth under hydro-extracting machines' (Evening News, 28 Sep. 1955): industrial: C.20. Also coll. slinger or swisser or whizzer or wuzzer. All are echoic; all, originally, were s. (or dial. > s.); ever since ca. 1940, they have been semi- or entirely official.

buzzing. Pocket-picking: c.:—1812 (Vaux). See buzz, v., 2. Powis, 1977, 'A near-archaic term... nevertheless, still used by old East Londoners.'—2. Law-copyists' s., dating from ca. 1870, as in Edwin Pugh, Harry the Cockney, 1912, 'They were both writing swiftly and beautifully the words that McGuffney dictated, this arrangement being known as "buzzing" from the use of the word "buzz" to indicate the end of a line.'—3. In be buzzing, esp. of a criminal activity, to be happening: since mid-1940s. Frank Norman, in Encounter, 1959.—4. 'Circulating, as in a crowded public house' (Powis): low coll.: later C.20.

buzzing about like a blue-arsed fly. See buzz about...

buzzword. See buzz-word.

buzzy. Crazy: ca. 1880–1914. F. Brett Young, in Jim Redlake, 1930, 'Ladylike poses and high-class music and scenery that sends you buzzy' (a description of Russian ballet). Lit., making one's head buzz.

[by occurs in many oaths, strong or (e.g. by golly) mild, blasphemous or ludicrous or innocuously senseless. Although many of these are neither s. nor coll., some of the funny or witty ones are coll. or s.: e.g. by the jumping Moses, by the living jingo, by my bootlaces. The psychology of oaths is akin to that of s., but that fact does not make an oath necessarily s. See Words!; also, Slang; also, esp., Robert Graves, Lars Porsena, 1927.]

by (properly agential) is in C.20 used more and more for the merely instrumental with; it is a pity that this useful distinction—L. a(b) and cum—is disappearing.—2. In S. African coll.: late C.19–20. E.g. 'He is by', he is in, 'the house'. Ex Dutch bij, by, with, in. Pettman.

by a long chalk. By much: since ca. 1840; coll. (C. Brontë in The Professor.) Slightly earlier is by long chalks, as in Barham, while by many chalks appears ca. 1880, as in 'the best thing out by many chalks' (Grenville Murray, 1883). Often with beat, and in C.20 gen. in the negative. Ex 'the use of chalk in scoring points in games', W. P.B.: In later C.20, the phrase is nearly always negative, not by a . . ., with the meaning 'by comparison, grossly inferior', as: 'Like to think of themselves as top class, of course, but they're nowhere near it. Not by a long chalk!'

by and by. Presently; soon. C.16–20; coll., but S.E. (though not dignified) after ca. 1700.

by-blow. A bastard: late C.16–20: coll. till 1800, then S.E. Cf.:-

by-chop. A bastard: coll.: C.17–18. (Ben Jonson.) Cf. by-scape.

by Christchurch – hooya? Euph. and Maorified form of 'By Crikey, who are you?': NZ juvenile c.p.: earlier C.20. B., 1941.

by guess and by God (occ., euph., Godfrey). (Of steering) at hazard: RN:—1909 (OED Sup.); also, of navigation, RAF (P.B.).

by hand, adj. (In the predicate), as in church by hand, improvised: RN: since ca. 1910.

by injection. See injection.

by Jove – I needed that! A late 1960s–early 70s c.p. used by the Liverpool comedian Ken Dodd: it is readily adaptable, but is most applicable, perhaps, to alcoholic refreshment. See DCpp.

by-scape. A bastard: mid-C.17; coll. verging on S.E. Cf.:-

by-slip. A bastard: late C.17–18; coll. soon > S.E. 'Ungracious by-slips', Hackett, 1693, in the Life of Williams, one of the great biographies. Cf. by-blow.

by the book. See book, n., 8.

by the by(e). (In conversation only.) Incidentally: C.18–20; coll. > S.E. So, too, by the way.

by the (bloody, or other adj.) centre or left! Emphatic exclamations: military: C.20. E.g., from a senior NCO, early 1950s: 'By the centre! Stuff me, standin' load! You're a bit pushed, ain't yer, soldier.' = 'My word, you are in trouble!' When a long line of soldiers is to advance in review order, the command is given '[Dressing] by the centre—slow march!' In Alan Hunter, Gently at a Gallop, 1971, it is used by a detective constable: "In fact, it'd fit pretty well, sir," he said. "A man she might see a lot of—and Creke's wife can't be a lot of good to him." "By the centre," Bayfield said. "That's an angle, sir."

by the great god Bingo! A c.p. sort of asseveration: since ca.

1962. Satirical of the craze for the game. [Thus E.P.; but I feel it was prob. simply self-conscious, joc.—and ephemeral. P.B.]

by the string rather than by the bow. By the most direct way: late C.17–18: coll. > S.E. OED.

by the wind. In difficulties; short of money: nautical: C.19–early 20.

byce. £2. See bice.

bye! or 'bye! Good-bye!: coll.: since late C.17. Richard Steele, The Tender Husband, 1705, end of Act III: 'NIECE: Farewell, rustic.—HUMPHREY: Bye, Biddy.' And a decade later, in Henry Carey, The Contrivances, at II, i.

bye-bye. A sound made to induce sleep in a child: coll.: C.17–20. Hence, go to bye-bye, orig. an imperative, > go to sleep, fall asleep; go to bed: C.19–20: coll. In C.20, often go (to) bye-byes. ?Perhaps connected with lullaby.

bye-bye! Good-bye!: coll.: C.18–20. Recorded in 1709.

bye-bye for just now!, freq. prec. by well –. Blaker, referring to the latter half of 1916, thought it was still used early in 1917: 'An infantry phrase of the moment.'

bye-byes! Good-bye! But go to bye-byes is to go to sleep. C.20. Both occur, e.g., in H.A. Vachell, Martha Penny, 1934.

bye-commoner. One who mistakenly thinks he can box: pugilistic: ca. 1820–50. (Bee.) Ex commoner, 2.

by(e)-drink or -drinking. A drink, gen. stronger than tea, at other than meal-times. From ca. 1760; coll., but S.E. in C.19–20; ob. by 1930.

'bye for now! Good-bye for the present! coll.: since late 1930s. An inevitable shortening of bye-bye for just now! Particularly popular with radio disc-jockeys of the 1970s.

bye-lo. A bed; to sleep: children's: C.20. A var. of bye-byes. ?Ex Li-Lo, an airbed: mid-1930s + . . .

'byes! Good-bye!: society: ca. 1920–30. (Noël Coward, 'Shop Girls'—a sketch written in 1928 and printed in Collected Sketches and Lyrics, 1931.) It gave rise to the girlish var., still current in the 1970s, byesie-bye! (P.B.)

bymeby. See bime-by.

Byng Boys, the. The Canadian troops: Can. army: 1917–18. Ex Lord Byng, commanding them in 1917, and 'The Bing Boys Are Here', a very popular revue. F. & G.; B. & P.

byoki. Sick. See PRISONER-OF-WAR SLANG, §7, in Appendix.

byte. See bite, of which it is a frequent C.17–18 spelling.

C. or c. Abbr. of racing cant cop, v., q.v., written in 'the book' when the 'bookie' wins on a race.—2. But with the c is put against that horse of which, besides the favourite, bookies should be careful: C.20.—3. Cocaine: addicts': adopted, ca. 1950, ex US.

C or K or M or O. One's, or the, C.B.E.—Knighthood—M.B.E.—O.B.E.: Civil Servants' hence clubmen's; C.20. Cf. C.M.G., q.v.

C. and E. Such Church of England (C. of E.) members as go to church only at Christmas and Easter: joc. since ca. 1945. (Petch, 1966.)

C.B. A confinement to barracks: military j.: >, in C.20, also coll. Ex Confined to Barracks.

c.d.f. Common sense: RN lowerdeck: since ca. 1930. For naval 'common dry fuck', common sense.

C.G.I. or Corticene-Grabber's itch. A strong desire to throw oneself upon the ship's deck during a dive-bombing attack: R Aus. N: 1940–5. (B., 1943.) A cork floor-covering.

c.h. or C.H. A conquering hero: coll.: Nov. 1882; † by 1915. (Ware). Ex the frequent playing, to soldiers returned from the Egyptian War, of 'See the Conquering Hero Comes'. Like hero in WW1, c.h. soon > derisive among the soldiers.

C.M.A.R. (, the). The Royal Army Medical Corps, the reversed initials representing 'can't manage a rifle': a joc. c.p. of 1915–18. F. & G.

C.M.G. 'Call Me God', a pun on the initials of a Commander of the Order of St Michael and St George. The higher ranks, K.C.M.G. and G.C.M.G., are 'translated' as 'Kindly call me God' and 'God calls me God'. See E.P.'s note at M.B.E. (P.B.)

C.O. bloke. A Public Carriage Officer: taxi-drivers': since ca. 1918. (Herbert Hodge, Cab, Sir?, 1939.) Hence, simply COs, 'Taxi drivers' term for police officers engaged in enforcing the laws affecting cabs and the prosecuting of illegal or dishonest cab practices' (Powis): current in 1970s.

c.o.d. (or C.O.D.), a or that's a. A military c.p. applied to a heavy gun just fired: 1915–18. (F. & G.) I.e. 'there would be the deuce to pay'—cash on delivery—when the shell landed.

CO lot, that. The Special Patrol Group (the letters "CO" meaning "Commissioner's Office" are on these officers' shoulder straps). The (SPG) is a squad of experienced, uniformed officers, skilled in thief taking, deployed tactically to deal with outbreaks of street crime. Often operating in plain clothes' (Powis): current in 1970s.

c.p. or C.P. A euph abbr. (—1923) of cunt-pensioner, q.v. Manchon.

C.P.R. strawberries. Prunes: Can. railwaymen's: since ca. 1918–40. (Priestley.) I.e. Canadian Pacific Railways.

c.-t. Cock-teaser, q.v. at cock-chaffer.

C.T.A. The police: circus and showmen's: from ca. 1860. Origin?

C3. Inferior; highly unfit: coll.: since 1915. Ex the WW1 classification of physical fitness, C3 being the lowest.—2. A 'bradbury' (first issue £1 notes): army (esp. Aus.) in WW1. Ex the emaciated figure of St George.

ca'-canny. Adj., applied to an employee's policy of working slowly, 'going slow'. Coll., recorded in 1896 and, since 1918, considered as S.E. Ex Scottish; lit., call shrewdly, i.e. go cautiously.

ca sa or ca-sa. A writ of capias ad satisfaciendum. See casa, 1. cab, n. Abbr. cavalier influenced by Sp. caballero (or by Eng., e.g. Sussex, dial.): ca. 1650–1710: coll. SOD.—2. A cabbage: Shelta: C.18–20. B. & L.—3. A brothel: ca. 1800–50. Lex. Bal.: 'How many tails have you in your cab? i.e. how many girls have you in your bawdy house?' Prob. ex cabin.—4. Abbr. cabriolet, a public carriage, two- or four-wheeled, seating two or four persons, and drawn by one horse, intro. into Eng. in 1820, the term appearing seven years later, at first s., then soon coll., then by 1860 S.E. Occ., a cab-driver (1850: Thackeray: OED). Also, from ca. 1910, an abbr. of taxi-cab: coll.; comparatively rare, taxi being the preferred form; latterly perhaps less rare, under US influence.—5. Abbr. cabbage, a crib or translation: Universities' and Public Schools': from ca. 1850. As in, e.g., 'Cuthbert Bede', Verdant Green, 1853: 'Those who can't afford a coach get a cab'—one of this author's best puns. Ex cabbage, n., 5.—6. The second gig of the Conway: Conway Training Ship s., in the 1890s. Masefield.—7. A motor-car: RN: since ca. 1920. P-G-R.—8. A lavatory: Felixstowe Ladies' College: since ca. 1925. Perhaps ex cabin or caboose.—9. 'A destroyer commanding officer's affectionate term for his ship; e.g., "I was driving my cab up the Channel when . . ."' (Cdr C. Parsons, RN, ret., 1977): RN: WW2 and after. Cf. cab-rank.

cab; gen. cab it, v. To go by cab: coll.; from ca. 1830; Dickens has it in Pickwick Papers; ob.—2. (Schoolboys') to use a crib: from ca. 1855. Like the corresponding n., ob. by 1930. Ex cabbage, v., 2.—3. To pilfer: schoolboys' (—1891); ob. Perhaps ex Scots: see EDD.

cab-happy. Very keen on driving motor vehicles: army: since ca. 1950. Sometimes contracted to cabby. Cf. the other adjectival formations with suffix -happy, e.g., bomb-, wire-happy.

cab-horse knees. The effect produced by the wrinkling at the knees of a ballet dancer's tights when on: ballet dancers': C.20. Felicity Gray, Ballet for Beginners, 1952. (Mr Barbara Huston.)

cab-moll. A harlot professionally fond of cabs and trains, but also a prostitute in a brothel: low: ca. 1840–1900. See cab, n., 3.

cab-rank. 'A destroyer "trot" or a line of motor launches, motor torpedo boats, etc.' (P-G-R.): RN: since ca. 1925.

cab-rank technique. 'A number of aircraft raiding in line, one after the other' (P-G-R.): RAF coll., verging on j.: 1940+.

cab-ranker. A cheap cigar: C. 20 (Gilbert Frankau, Peter Jackson, Cigar Merchant, 1920.) Prompted by cabbagio profumo and punning on rank, evil-smelling.

cab-talk. Taxi-cabmen's cab-shelter gossip, sometimes contemptuously called cabology: taxi-drivers' coll.: resp., since ca. 1910, 1925. Herbert Hodge uses both terms in Cab, Sir?, 1939.

Cabal. The English ministry of 1672: Clifford, Arlington, Buckingham, Ashley, and Lauderdale; coll. nickname. Ex Cabal as applied by Pepys in 1665 to the junto of the Privy Council: itself ex cabal, intrigue: ex Hebrew. W cabbage. Pieces of material filched by tailors; small profits in the shape of material. After ca. 1660, coll.; by 1800, S.E. Randolph, 1638; Dyche, 1748; Grose, 1st ed.; Cobbett, 1821. Perhaps ex garbage; but Julian Franklyn proposed a derivation from the heraldic caboshed (it has several var. spellings), and Scots hunting caboch or cabage or cabbage, to cut off a deer's head close behind the horns. This theory might also explain kibosh. See also OED and F. & H.—2. A tailor: late C.17—early 19. B.E.—3. A late C.17 mode of dressing the hair similar to the chignon: coll., ca. 1680–1720, as in the anon. Mundus Muliebris, 'Behind the noddle every baggage/Wears bundle "choux", in English cabbage.'—4. A cigar, esp. if inferior: coll.: from ca. 1840, ob. Punch's Almanack, 12 Aug. 1843, punningly: 'The cigar dealers, objecting to their lands being cribbed, have made us pay for the cabbage ever since.'—5. A translation or 'crib': from ca. 1850; schoolboys'; ob.—6. The female pudend: C.19–20, ob. Cf. greens.—7. As the Cabbage, the Savoy Theatre: 1881 (Ware); ob. by 1940. A pun on Savoy cabbage.—8. A 'chap' or 'fellow': ca. 1750–70. Johnson, 1756, in the Connoisseur (quoted by OED), 'Those who ... call a man a cabbage, an odd fish, and an unaccountable muskin, should never come into company without an interpreter.' Suggested by the Fr. mon chou (as endearment).—9. A bomb: RAF: WW2. Jackson, 'Thus, "and then we sowed our cabbages". (See "egg", "cookie", "groceries".)'—10. Lettuce: Cranbrook School: C.20.—11. Paper money: Can. c. (C.20) >, ca. 1950, (low) Can. s. Also, occ., British: of banknotes, 'the green stuff'.

cabbage, v. To purloin: orig. and mainly of tailors: from ca. 1700; soon coll. and by 1800 S.E.; Arbuthnot, in John Bull, 1712. Cf. cabbage, n., 1.—2. (Schoolboys') to 'crib', from ca. 1830, recorded 1837: this precedes the n. cabbage, whence cab, a 'crib'. Vbl n., cabbing: pilfering; cribbing: C.19—early 20.

cabbage-contractor. A tailor: low (perhaps c.): C.19. Ex cabbage, n., 1.

cabbage-garden patriot. A coward: political coll.: 1848—ca. 1910. (Ware.) William Smith O'Brien (1803–64) led, in the summer of 1848, a pitiable insurrection in Ireland; his followers having fled, he successfully hid for several days in a cabbage-patch.

Cabbage Gardens, the or Cabbage Garden Patch. The State of Victoria, Aus.: Aus. nickname: C.20. Hence cabbage-gardener or -patcher, a Victorian. (B., 1943.) In 1959, B. noted the derivative The Cabbage Patch.

cabbage-gelder. A market gardener; a greengrocer: late C. 19—early 20.

cabbage hat. 'Royal Marine (green beret)' (Hawke): Services': 1960s–70s.

cabbage-head. A fool: coll.: from ca. 1660. A broadside ballad of ca. 1880: 'I ought to call him cabbage-head./He is so very green.' In F. & H., a synonymy.

cabbage-leaf. An inferior cigar: ca. 1840–1930. Cf. cabbage, n., 4.—2. The tiny bronze oak-leaf worn on medal ribbon, to indicate a mention in despatches: Services': 1914–18, and decreasingly since. V.M. Yeates, Winged Victory, 1934.

cabbage leaves. An allusion to a rank cigar, in the offensive query to a smoker, 'Who's smoking cabbage leaves?', q.v. See also cabbage, n., 4, and prec., 1.

Cabbage-looking. In not so green as I'm cabbage-looking, q.v., I'm not such a fool as I may appear.

Cabbage Patch, the. 'That little triangle of grass behind the Admiralty Arch which they call the Cabbage Patch': London vagrants: C. 20. Gilt Kid.—2. Victoria, Aus. See Cabbage Gardens.

cabbage-plant. An umbrella: c.: ca. 1820–60. Egan's Grose, where also summer cabbage.

Cabbage Stalks, the; the Ox-tails. The Cambridge crew; the Oxford crew in the Boat Race: ca. 1887. Mr Compton Mackenzie, broadcasting on 27 Apr. 1937.

cabbage-stump. A leg: C.19–20; gen. in pl. Cf. drumstick.

cabbage-tree. A hat, large, low-crowned, broad-brimmed, made from cabbage-tree leaves: Aus.: from ca. 1850; †. Morris.

cabbage-tree mob; cabbagites. Roughs: Aus.: ca. 1850–80. Ex their cabbage-palm hats. This word gave way to larrikin(s), q.v. Lt-Col. G.C. Mundy's Our Antipodes, 1852. Morris.

cabbage-tree, my. An Aus. exclam. recorded by B., 1943. Presumably=the harmless 'My hat!'; cf. the two prec. entries.

cabbager. A tailor: C.19—early 20. See cabbage, n., 1 and 2.

cabbaggio profumo; fior di cabbaggio. A cheap, rank cigar; jocular: late C.19–20. Ex cabbage+the Sp. suffix -o.

cabbagites. See cabbage-tree mob.

cabber. A cab-horse: coll.: 1884. The Times, 27 Oct. 1884 (OED). Cf. busser.

cabbie, cabby. A cab-driver: coll.: from ca. 1850. (Smedley, Lewis Arundel, 1852.) Ex cab, n., 2.—2. Hence, in C.20, a taxicab driver. Usu. as cabby.—3. As Cabby. A fairly common nickname of men surnamed Harris: C.20; superseded, after WW2, by Bomber.—4. A ride in a motor vehicle: army: since late 1940s. (P.B., 1974.) Hence:-

cabbie, cabby, v.i. To drive a motor vehicle; occ., to be driven in one: id.: Ibid.

cabbie, cabby, adj. Addicted to the joys of motoring: id. (Ibid.) A contraction of the more usu. cab-happy.

cabbing. (Vbl n. ex cab, v., 2.) The use of a crib: esp. at Shrewsbury School. See notably Desmond Coke's wholly admirable school-story, The Bending of a Twig, 1906.

cabin. Fourteen days' confinement to the ship's cells: RN lowerdeck: late C.19—earlyish 20. (Knock). Partly euph., partly joc.

cabin-boy's breeches, the. Southern nautical, esp. around Chatham and Rochester, from ca. 1870, as in Neil Bell, Crocus, 1936, "'Dog's nose with a squirt of rum," Delfontaine replied; "called round here, the cabin boy's breeches and up in the north Devil's rot-gut."' Dog's nose is defined as 'gin and beer mixed'.

cabin-cracker, -cracking. A thief breaking into a ship's cabins; the act or action: nautical:— 1887 (Baumann).

cabin-window, through the. (Of an officer obtaining his position) entirely through influence: RN officers': late C.19–20. (Bowen.) Opp. hawse-pipe, q.v.

Cabinetable. Fit to belong to the Cabinet: political and journalistic coll.: 1896 (OED Sup.).

cable. Abbr. telegram: coll.: 1883; in C.20 virtually S.E.—2. V.i., seldom t., to send a telegram by cable: recorded for 1871: coll., but almost imm. S.E. SOD. The inland telegram service was discontinued in UK in Oct. 1982.—2. For slip (one's) cable, see slip (one's) breath; cf. cable has parted.

cable-hanger. An illicit catcher of oysters: C.18–20; coll.; ob. Defoe in his Tour Through Great Britain.

cable has parted, (one's). One dies: nautical coll.:—1887 (Baumann).

cable home about, nothing to. Unimportant. See nothing to cable ...

cable out to clinch, run (one's). To go, to ask, as far, as much, as is safe: RN lowerdeck: late C.18—mid-19. L.L.G., 6 Dec. 1823 (Moe).

cabman's rest. A female breast; gen. in pl: rhyming s., from ca. 1870.

cabobbled, ppl adj. Perplexed; confused: nautical, C.19–20, ob. Perhaps an intensive (see ker-) of bubble, to deceive; the word occurs also in dial. which has bobble, a ground swell of the sea (EDD).

cabology. See cab-talk.

cabon. Much: Aus. (orig. and mainly Queensland) 'pidgin':—1872. (Chas. H. Allen, A Visit to Queensland and her Goldfields, 1872: Morris.) Ex Aboriginal.

caboodle. See whole caboodle.

caboose. A kitchen: tramps' c.: mid-C.19–20. Ex caboose, a ship's galley.—2. A small dwelling: Aus.:—1916 (C.J. Dennis).—3. A prison ashore: nautical: late C.19—early 20. Bowen.—4. An office; a small cabin or compartment: RN: C.20. Cf. sense 1.—5. 'Brake van. Used especially of uncomfortable box tacked on back of liner train for ornamental purposes only (W[estern]R[egion]': railwaymen's: since late 1940s. Railway, 2nd.—6. A motorcycle sidecar: motorcyclists' s.: since ca. 1950. (Dunford.) Perhaps influenced by sense 5.

cabooosh. RN lowerdeck var. of prec., 4. Heart, 1962.

cacafuego. A spitfire; braggart; bully: C.17—early 19. Until

ca. 1680, S.E.; ca. 1680–1750, coll.; then s. Fletcher; Phillips's Dict.; B.E.; Grose. Its descent in the wordy world was due to its lit. meaning, shit-fire, for ca. 1750 it began to be considered vulgar.

caccle. Jon Bee's spelling of cackle.

cache. A private store or reserve, esp. of under-the-counter goods: coll.: since ca. 1910; by 1950, S.E. 'Undoubtedly Canadian (Fr. cache, to hide), from the caches (two syllables) left by voyageurs on their fur-trading journeys, i.e., of supplies, etc., left for later use.' (Robert Claiborne, 1976.)

cack, n. and (rare) v. (To void) excrement. Orig. S.E.; in late C.19–20 dial. and low coll. Among children, often as a semi-interjection, acky. Ex L. cacare; prob. echoic.

cack-handed. Left-handed; hence, clumsy; orig. London and Home Counties dial., in C.20 > gen.s., perhaps through influence of Service life. For this, and the many other dial. terms for left-handedness, see Orton & Wright, Word Geography of England, 1974, maps 119 and 119A.

cack school. A kindergarten or infants' school 'which need facilities for relief of nature constantly and instantly at hand' (L.A.): educational circles': since ca. 1945.

cack street. An occ. C.20 Brit. var. of Shit Street, q.v. 'To be up (or in) cack street' = to be in trouble.

cackle. Idle talk. Without the it is S.E.; with inseparable the, it is coll., as in Punch, 10 Sept. 1887, 'If a feller would tackle/A feminine fair up to Dick./He 'as got to be dabs at the cackle.' C.19–20. Ex:—2. (As for sense 3: cackle.) The patter of clowns: from ca. 1840.—3. Hence, the dialogue of a play: from ca. 1870. Cf. v., 2.

cackle, v.i. To reveal secrets by indiscreet or otherwise foolish talk: late C.17–20 c. and low; ob. B.E.—2. The v. corresponding to n., 2 and 3: theatrical: same periods.—3. See cut the cackle!; swallow the cackle; up to the cackle.

cackle-berry. (Gen. pl.) An egg: Can., late C.19–20; Aus., since ca. 1943; both ex US. Also occ. joc. British, C.20. Cf. hen-fruit, cackling fart.

cackle-chucker. (Theatrical) a prompter: from ca. 1860; ob. by 1930.

cackle-merchant. (Theatrical) a dramatic author: from ca. 1860; ob. by 1930.

cackle (one's) fat. 'To brag; to express self-opinionated, esp. if contradictory, point of view' (L.A., 1960): low: since late 1940s.

cackle-tub. A pulpit: c. > low; from ca. 1850. (H., 3rd ed.; Musgrave, Savage London, 1888.) Cf. tub-thumper.

cackler. A blabber: coll., C.18–20. Other senses, S.E. Bailey's Dict.—2. A showman with a speaking part: from ca. 1840. In C.20, loosely, an actor. Dickens.—3. A fowl (—1673); orig. c.; by 1730, low; in C.20, almost coll. and certainly ob. Hence, cackler's ken, a hen-roost; a fowl-house: 1788, Grose, 2nd ed.

cackling cheat or chete. A fowl: c.: ca. 1550–1830. Harman, Grose.

cackling-cove. An actor: theatrical: from ca. 1830. (H., 3rd ed.) Lit., talking or talkative man. Also called a mummery-cove.

cackling fart. An egg: c.: late C.17–18. Coles, 1676; B.E. Cackling here = cackler's.

cacks. Children's shoes: c.:—1923 (Manchon). Ex dial.: EDD cites its use in Cumberland in 1880, and also, no date, but—1897, in Hampshire.—2. or kacks. Trousers: teenagers': early 1980s. (James Williamson, 1982.) Var. of synon. kex.

acky, n. Human excrement: mostly children's and, domestically, women's coll.: since ca. 1880. Ex cack, n. Hence: acky, adj. Of or like excrement, hence yellowish-brown; hence, filthy, malodorous: coll., mostly children's: late C.19–20. There may be some influence also from khaki, for the colour sense.

cacto. Cactoblastis: Aus. coll.: C.20. B., 1942. This S. American moth was introduced into Queensland and northern NSW in 1920s–30s to control and destroy the noxious prickly pear that had grown over large areas in those States. Reinforced by the Cockney > Aus.-o suffix. (Mrs Camilla Raab.)

cactus, in the. In an awkward situation: Aus. and NZ: since ca. 1925.

cad. At Oxford and certain Public Schools (esp. Eton), from ca. 1820, a townsman: pej. † by 1918. (Hone.) Abbr. caddie, cadee (i.e. cadet): W.—Hence, 2, an ill-bred, esp. if vulgar, fellow: since ca. 1820. (Wm Maginn, Whitehall, 1827.) Since ca. 1900, a man devoid of fine instincts or delicate feelings: coll. (Kingsley, Thackeray, Anstey.) Both senses ob. except in joc. usage.—3. A passenger taken up by a coachman for his own profit: coll., from ca. 1790; † by 1870.—4. An omnibus conductor: coll.: ca. 1832–70. Hood, Dickens, Mayhew.—5. An inferior assistant or an assistant in a low association: coll., ca. 1834–1900. Theodore Hook.—6. A messenger, errand-boy: coll., ca. 1835–1914, as in Hood, 'Not to forget that saucy lad/(Ostentation's favourite cad)/The page, who looked so splendidly clad'.—7. A familiar friend; a chum: ca. 1840–1900; coll.—8. A private tutor: Eton: ca. 1810–60. (Spy, 1825.) Cf. sense 1.—9. Cadmium: coll.: since (?) ca. 1930. Wilbur Smith, Hungry as the Sea, 1978.

cad-catcher. A picture 'painted to attract the undiscriminating' (The Artist, 1 Feb. 1882: OED): art s. >, by 1890, coll; ob. Cf. pot-boiler, q.v.

cadator. A beggar pretending to be a decayed gentleman: low or c.: late C.17—early 18. Not in OED, but in Ned Ward and Tom Brown. Ex L. cadere, to fall.

cadaver. A bankrupt; a bankruptcy: US (—1900) anglicised, in commerce, ca. 1905: coll. Ware.—2. In by my cadaver, a Cockney oath: from ca. 1880; ob. Pugh (2).

Cadborosaurus (affectionately, Caddie) is 'a mythical (?) sea monster ... often reported near Victoria, B.C. Named after a local bay—Cadboro Bay, where it was first reported. Cf. Ogopogo' (Leachman): Can.: C.20. Cf. also Nessie, the Loch Ness monster.

caddee (or caddy). A thief's assistant or abetter: c. according to Baumann; S.E. accorded to OED. Baumann is prob. right. Note that in Jon Bee, A Living Picture of London, 1828, we have these two senses: (1) a fellow that hangs about the yards of an inn and, for a shilling or two, procures, for the landlords, 'customers from other inns': inns' and taverns': ca. 1820–60; (2) such a hanger-on, who permits himself to pass counterfeit money: c.: ca. 1820–80.

caddle, caddy. 'A bush name for a slouch hat': Aus.:—1898 (Morris). Perhaps a corruption of cady, q.v., a hat.—2. As C—, The Academy literary weekly: printers' † by 1920. (Baumann.) Cf. Athie, q.v.—3. See Cadborosaurus.

caddish. Offensively ill-bred: from ca. 1860 (recorded, 1868); coll. Shirley Brooks in Sooner or Later, Mrs Lynn Linton in Patricia Kemball. In C.20 it tends to mean glaringly deficient in moral and/or aesthetic delicacy. Ex cad, 2, and like that term, old-fashioned by later C.20, although still extant in joc. usage (P.B.).

Cade, the. Burlington Arcade: Society: since ca. 1870; ob. by 1940.

caddee smasher. A professed tout to innkeepers, but one who occ. acts as a 'smasher' (sense 4): c.: ca. 1810–70. Here cadee = cadet, inferior, but cf. Jon Bee's 1st sense in caddee. cademy. Academy: lower-class coll.: late C.19–20. W.L. George, The Making of an Englishman, 1914.

cadey. See cady.

cadge, n. The act or the practice of begging: low coll., from ca. 1810. Vaux.?ex catch.—2. A message: low Glasgow:—1934.—3. See do a cadge.

cadge, v. To go about begging: from ca. 1810.—2. V.t., to beg from (a person): low:—1811 (Lex. Bal.).—Also, 3, beg, obtain by begging: recorded in 1848. Low coll. N. and v. are recorded in Vaux's Flash Dict., 1812, and since ca. 1880 the words have occ. been used jocularly and inoffensively. Perhaps imm. ex Dutch, ultimately ex Fr. cage, a wicker basket carried on back of cadger (pedlar) or his pony: W. For a synonymy, see F. & H.

cadge-cloak or -gloak. A beggar: c.: C.18–early 19. (Bamfylde-Moore Carew.) See gloak.

cadger. A beggar, esp. if whining; from ca. 1820; low coll. (But in Scots as early as 1737: see EDD.) Egan's Groser, where wrongly classified as c.—2. Whence, a genteel, despicable 'sponger': coll.; from ca. 1880. A transitional use occurs in James Greenwood's The Little Ragamuffins, 1884. For synonymy, see F. & H.—3. 'Slangily applied to cabmen when they are off the rank soliciting fares, or to waiters who hang about and fawn for a gratuity': ca. 1870–1910. B. & L.

cadging. Esp. cadging-bag and cadging-face. Vbl n., abject begging; 'sponging'. Coll.; recorded in 1839 (Brandon), but prob. much earlier. Henry Kingsley, James Greenwood.—2. Applied esp. to 'cabmen when they are off the ranks, and soliciting a fare': ca. 1855–1900. 'Ducange Anglicus'.

cadl. An occ. and, by 1930, † var. of cadly.

Cadogan Light Horse, the. 'The Special Constables mounted on the horses from Smith's riding school in Cadogan Square, London, during the general strike of 1926. Ex a cavalry officer on leave from India at that time who was specially enrolled for this "force"' (Peter Sanders): 1926; then historical.

Cads' Bar. The junior officers' corner in any favourite 'pub': RN: since ca. 1914. P-G-R. Cf.:-

Cads' Corner. That corner of the wardroom in which the junior officers gather: RN: since ca. 1914. P-G-R.

cad's (or cads') crawlers. Suède shoes: since ca. 1930. Cf. brothel-creepers.

cads on castors. Bicyclists: ca. 1880–5. Daily News, 10 Sept. 1885: Ware.

cadyl; occ. cadely or kadi. A hat. From ca. 1885. (Recorded in Lancashire dial. in 1869: see EDD.) Walford's Antiquarian, April 1887: 'Sixpence I gave for my cadyl, / A penny I gave for my stick.' Perhaps ex Yiddish; perhaps, however, a corruption of Romany stadi, a hat, itself prob. ex Modern Gr. σκιάδι (Sampson). Cf. caddie, q.v.—2. Hence, a Kilmarnock or Balmoral cap worn by Scottish regiments: army: earlier C.20; esp. in WW1. F. & G.—3. Hence also, a straw hat: NZ: from ca. 1920. Cf. caddie, 1.

Caesar. A Caesarian section or operation: medical coll.: C.20.

cafe, occ. written kayf. A café, a small restaurant: low, esp. London: since ca. 1920. Simply café without the accent.

café au lait, adj. or n. (A half-caste) with a touch of colour: since ca. 1920.

caff. A café: low: since ca. 1920. Desmond Morse-Boycott, We Do See Lifel!, 1931.

Caffre's lightener. An early spelling of Kaffir's lightener, q.v., a full meal.

caffy avec. Coffee and rum; coffee-and-chicory mixture with a little cognac: coll.: late C.19–20, the former; 1914–18, the latter. Ex the Fr. coll. café avec, short for café avec du rhum (or du cognac).

Cafishio. An Argentine that is a professional pimp. See Créolo.

cag. A quarrelsome argument; gossip: nautical: from ca. 1870, slightly ob. (Bowen; F. & G.) Granville records the term as kagg, and defines it as 'a conference' but also as 'a naval argument in which everybody speaks and nobody listens', adding 'A "branch-kagg" means talking shop.' Presumably this nautical usage is ex cag, v.—2. Short for caggie, q.v., a cagoule.

cag, v. 'To irritate, affront, anger': schoolboys': 1801, Southey (EDD).—2. And as early as 1811 (Lex. Bal.) it = to render sulky, ill humoured. Prob. ex dial. Hence to carry the cag, to be vexed or sullen. Ibid.—3. 'To "argue the toss"': RN: C.20. Granville spells it kagg. Musings, 1912, p. 178. See cagg, cag-mag. See cagmag.

cake. In C.16–17, S.E. (as in Shakespeare) and = a prison. In C.17–19, low if not indeed c., in C.20 low and ob., for a lock-up. In WW1, esp. as bird-cage, a compound for prisoners; in WW2, and after, a prisoner-of-war camp was simply a cage, and in the cage synon. with in the bag. At cage, F. & H.

has a list of synonyms, English, French, German, Spanish, and Italian, for a prison.—2. A dress-improver: coll.; from ca. 1850; †. Cf. bird-cage.—3. A bed: ca. 1860–1900. Abbr. breeding-cage, q.v.—4. (The Cage.) the Ladies' Gallery in the House of Commons:—1870, London Figaro, 10 June 1870.—5. A military tender covered with netting against bombs: Anglo-Irish: from 1916; ob.—6. A caboose: Can. railroad-men's: C.20.—7. Goal-net: ice-hockey players': since ca. 1938.

cake of ivories. A set of (good) teeth. See ivories, 1.

cagey. 'Up-stage'; conceited: from ca. 1935; this meaning was supplanted by—2. Cautious; suspicious; unforthcoming; reserved: since ca. 1940; by 1946, coll. Ex animals in cages.—3. 'Keeping a look-out': prisoners' (Home Office): current in 1970s. A specialisation, perhaps, of sense 2.

cagg, n. and v. reflexive. (A vow) to abstain from liquor for a certain period: mid-C.18–early 19 military. (Grose, 1st ed.) Perhaps cognate with cag, v.: thus, to vex or mortify oneself by abstention from liquor.

caggie (or kaggie). A cagoule or kagool, defined in Chambers's C.20th Dict., 1977 Supp., as 'a lightweight weather-proof anorak, often kneelength (Fr. cagoule, a monk's hood)': domestic coll.: since ca. 1978.

caggy. Unfit to eat: dial. and low coll., now † as latter: 1848 (Marryat). OED. Ex:-

cagmag, cag-mag. (Of food, esp. meat) odds and ends, scraps, refuse. From ca. 1810; ob.: coll. ex dial. (Lex. Bal., 1811.) Mayhew, London Labour, 'Do I ever eat my own game if it's high? No, sir, never, I couldn't stand such cag-mag.' Also as adj., tainted, inferior (—1860); ob. Origin obscure: but prob. the term derives ex cag(g)-mag(g), an old goose (see Grose, 2nd ed.).—2. Hence, gossip, idle talk: Cockney coll.: from ca. 1880. Manchon. (Also in dial.)

cagnas. Barracks: Can. military: WW1. Ex a Fr. Army term via the French Canadians; orig. an Annamite word. F. & G.; B. & P. cahootchy. Indiarubber: Glasgow: C.20. Ex caoutchouc.

cahoots. In cahoots (with): 'they are in cahoots together over this'; go into cahoots with: in collaboration or co-operation, often with some suggestion of conspiracy or exclusiveness: coll.: adopted, ex US, ca. 1945. (P.B.)

Cain. Short for Cain and Abel: C.20.—2. See raise Cain.

Cain and Abel. A table: rhyming s.:—1857. 'Ducange Anglicus', 1st ed., classifies it as c., but it very soon > gen. Cockney.

Cainsham smoke. The tears of a wife-beaten husband: C.17–18; coll. (Dunton's Dict.) Etymology obscure: presumably topographically proverbial.

cairn. See add a stone...

cake, n. A fool, gull, or blockhead: late C.18–early 20; in C.19–20, coll. Grose, 1785; J.R. Planché, 'Your resignation proves that you must be/The greatest cake he in his land could see!'; Mrs Henry Wood. From either the softness of some cakes or the flatness of others: in either case, a pun.—2. A stroke with a cane: Christ's Hospital (School): C.19–early 20.—3. A pile of currency or bank-notes: (low) Cockney: C.20. Cf. wad, 2.—4. A gold nugget: Aus.: C.20. B., 1942.—5. A prostitute: low Aus.: since ca. 1910. Baker, 'Whence "cake-shop", a brothel'. Euph. for cat, etc., but prob. suggested by tart, 1.—6. In get (one's) share of the cake, to succeed: coll.: C.17–18. Cf. take the cake, q.v.—7. In in the cake, in the army. In, e.g., Peter Hill, The Enthusiast, 1978: 'So? When we capture Bennett maybe we'll find that he's been in the cake, will that make you happy?' (context refers to query whether Bennett has ever been in the army). P.B. adds: in 20 years in the army I never heard the term; perhaps it is a mishearing of Kate, short for Kate Carney, imperfect rhyming s. for army.—8. In the devil owed (e.g. her) a cake and has paid (her) a loaf, a great instead of a small misfortune has befallen her: coll.: C.17–19. B.E.

cake, v. To cane: Christ's Hospital (School): C.19–early 20. Cf. n., 2.

cake(-)eater. 'A guy in the 1920s who wore sideburns and flapping pants was called a "cake eater".' Daily Colonist (Victoria, BC), 6 Feb. 1971. (Leechman.)

cake-hole. The mouth: RAF: since ca. 1936. H. & P. Adopted ex Yorkshire s., where current at least as early as 1914. P.B.: in later C.20 much more widespread, and esp. in the phrase 'Shut your cake-hole!', popularised by such comedians as the late Tony Hancock.

cake is dough (, one's). One's project, or one's business, has failed: mid-C.16–20: coll. (Becon, 1559; Shakespeare; B.E.; Hardy.) The SOD, app. misled by Nares, says †, but this is incorrect, though the phrase may—only may—be ob. A Scottish var. (Ramsay, 1737) is one's meal is dough (EDD).

cake is getting thin, the. One's money is running short: (low) Cockney: C.20. See cake, 4.

cake-shop. A brothel. See cake, n., 6.

cake-walk. 'A raid or attack that turns out to be unexpectedly easy': military coll.: WW1. (B. & P.) Ex that easy-motoned pre-War dance.—2. Money very easily obtained: Glasgow coll.:—1934.—3. Any project or obstacle that is easily overcome, e.g., a viva voce examination that has proved much less difficult than expected. 'It will be a c.w.' is hubris; 'It was a c.w.' is sheer relief—or boasting; coll.: civilianisation of sense 1, so presumably since ca. 1919. (P.B.) cake'd up. Well provided with money: low: since ca. 1940. (Norman.) See cake, n., 3.

cakes. Female breasts: raffish: early 1970s. (Observer, TV review, 13 Jan. 1974: R.S.) Ex cheesecake, q.v.—2. See Land of Cakes; like hot cakes.

cakes and ale. Pleasant food; good living: coll., from ca. 1570. Shakespeare, 1601, 'Dost thou think, because thou art virtuous, there shall be no more Cakes and Ale?'

cakey. See synon. cake, n., 1.—2. Cake: domestic, esp. children's, coll.: C.20. (P.B.)—3. (As adj.). Half-witted: Glasgow:—1934. Ex Northern and Midland dial. (—1897: EDD). Cf. batchy for the semantics.

cakey bar. An excuse; a 'tale'. See bar, n., 3.—2. Used in a Guards' regiment for a 'soapy' type—difficult to swallow, i.e. 'take' or tolerate: (?1920s—)1930s. (Mrs Camilla Raab, 1977.)

cakey-pannum fencer. A street seller of pastry: C.19 c. See pannam.

Cal. Abbr. Calcraft, the common hangman: ca. 1860–70.—2. Calcutta: mostly in the Indian peninsula: latish C.19–20. (Berkeley Mather.)

calabash. See calibash.

calaboose, n. and (rarely) v. Prison, esp. a common gaol: nautical: adopted, late C.18, ex US; occ. use in Aus., since ca. 1895 (Sarah Campion, Bonanza, 1942.). Ex Spanish; Dana, 1840, has the Sp. form, calabozo.

Calathumpian. One who claims an imaginary religion: joc.: since ca. 1920. Perhaps cf. the US calithump, a boisterous, or a burlesque, parade or serenade, hence callithumpian, a practitioner, or a supporter, of such goings-on.

calculate, v. Think, believe, expect, suppose; intend. Coll., anglicised ca. 1870 ex US (—1812) usage. John Galt in Lawrie. (Thornton.)

Calcutta Home Guard, the. 'A battalion of the Royal Warwickshire Fusiliers, victims of some incalculable military permutation, spent the whole of the Second World War on garrison duties in Calcutta and achieved [this] unenviable sobriquet' (Carew).

Caleb Quotem. A parish clerk; jack of all trades: coll.: ca. 1860–80. From a character in The Wags of Windsor.

Calendar, The. The Racing Calendar: from ca. 1820: turf coll. >, by 1900, S.E. Established in 1773.

calendars. See give out calendars.

caleys. Ordinary stock(s) of the Caledonian Railway: Stock Exchange, from ca. 1880.—2. see Calies.

calf. A meek, harmless, (and occ.) brainless person: C.16–20. SOD gives as S.E., but it is surely coll.?! Hamilton Aidé, Morals and Mysteries, 1872, 'She had a girlish fancy for the good-looking young calf.'—2. 'Ten shillings. (Rhyming slang for "half"). A "cow" is one pound sterling. "Cow and calf" is, therefore, thirty shillings.) (Tempest): mid—C.20.—3. In slip or cast the (or one's) calf, (of women) to have a miscarriage; to suffer abortion: C.17–18: facetiously coll. Pepys.—4. In you are a calf!, you do weep a lot, don't you!: c.p.:—1923 (Manchon). Cf. sense 1, and perhaps influenced by Fr. tu pleures comme un veau.

calf-bed. Bovine parturition: joc. after child-bed: Southey, 1822. Rare.

calf-clingers. Very close-fitting trousers, i.e. pantaloons: ca. 1830–1914. James Greenwood, The Little Ragamuffins, 1884.

calf-dozer. A small bull-dozer (earth-shifter): WW2.

calf in the cow's belly, eat the. To anticipate unduly: mid-C.17–20 proverbial coll.; ob. Fuller; Richardson in Clarissa Harlowe. Apperson.

calf-licked. (Of human hair) hanging in a quiff: North Country coll.: C.20. Bernard Hesling, Little and Orphan, 1954.

calf-lolly. An idle simpleton: coll., mid-C.17–18. (Urquhart.) Cf. calf and lo(bio)lly.

calf-love. A youthful and romantic attachment: coll.; from ca. 1820; in C.20, S.E.

calf-sticking. The selling of worthless, on the pretence that they are smuggled, goods: c.: ca. 1850–1920.

calf-, cow-, and bull-week. Coll., ca. 1830–80. The 1st, 2nd, and 3rd week before Christmas: among operatives, who, during this period, worked hours increasing in length in each successive week, until in bull-week they had extremely little time free. Echo, 4 Dec. 1871. See also bull-week.

calf's head. A very stupid fellow: late C.16—early 19: coll.—2. 'A white-faced man with a large head': lower classes': from ca. 1860; †. B. & L.

calfskin, smack. To swear on the Bible: low: mid-C.19–20; ob. Baumann.

calfskin fiddle. A drum: late C.18—early 19. Grose, 1st ed.

calibash. A New South Wales farmers' term (ca. 1860–1900), thus in R.D. Barton's Reminiscences of an Australian Pioneer, 1917: 'In those days... everyone [on the station] was paid by orders, "calibashes" we used to call them, drawn on himself by the person paying. The townships all followed the same system.' Prob. ex some Aboriginal word. Wilkes spells it, more plausibly, calabash.

calico. Thin, attenuated; wasted: coll.: C.18–20; ob. N. Bailey, Colloquies of Erasmus, 1725; Sala, 1861.—2. See selling calico.

calico ball. A cheap public dance: ca. 1860–1915; coll. The rare adj. calico-bally, derivatively = somewhat fast, occurs in a ca. 1890 ballad, 'The Flipperty-Flop Young Man'. Calico hop, heard occ. in England, is the US version.

calicot. A 'cad' (sense 2): trade: ca. 1885–1910. (Ware.) Ex coll. Fr. calicot, a counter-jumper.

Calies, the. The Caledonian Association Football Club: sporting: C.20. (Daily Telegraph, 24 Nov. 1937.) More usu. spelt as pron., Callies. See also Caleys.

California or Californian. Gen. in (-ns) pl. A gold piece: from ca. 1860; ob. by 1915; now (1937) almost †. (H., 3rd ed.) Ex the gold-fields rush (1849) and wealth of California.—2. A 'spot in Barnsbury, which rarely yields a fare' (Clarkson & Richardson, Police!, 1889); cabmen's: ca. 1860–1905. Ironic upon the Californian gold-fields. California 'is often pronounced Californi-ay in five syllables; facetious' (Leechman): mostly Can.: since ca. 1945.

Californian. A red, a hard-dried, herring; from ca. 1850; ob. Actually, Scottish herrings, the name coming from the Californian gold-discoveries. Cf. Atlantic ranger.

calk. See caulk.—2. To throw: Eton College, C.19–20, ob.

call, n. The time when the masters do not call 'absence', Eton Coll. C.19–20.—2. In have the call, to be in the most demand: from ca. 1840, coll.; by 1880, S.E.—3. In have a call upon, to have the first chance of or with: coll.: adopted ex US ca. 1895, but never very gen.

call, v. To beg through (e.g. a street): c.: mid-C.18–20.

Bamfylde-Moore Carew, 'I called a whole street.' Ex the v.i., to call, to call at a house to beg: which is S.E.—2. (Nearly always in passive.) Abbr. call to the bar: legal: from ca. 1830. Dickens in Sketches by Boz.—3. To blame: lower classes' coll.: late C.19–20. 'Don't call me, sir, if I'm a bit clumsy at first.' Ex call down, q.v., or call names. P.B.: prob. the latter, for in East Midlands dial. it = to abuse, reprimand. Cf. call down.

call a cab. 'A jockey is said to "call a cab" when he waves one arm to balance himself crossing a fence' (John Lawrence in Sunday Telegraph, 13 Aug. 1961): racing: since late 1940s.

call a chair. To appoint a president 'at a tavern-party, when discussion ensues' (Bee): public-house: ca. 1820–60.

call a go. See call it a day.

call-bird. In the Observer, 5 Jan. 1958, the writer of 'Call-Bird at the Sales' explains the term as the name shopkeepers 'give to extraordinary bargains as lures for the sale-minded': East-End Londoners': late C.19–20. Ex Ger. Lockvogel, a decoy-bird, prob. via Yiddish. (L.A.) call (one's) bluff. To challenge a person, with implication of showing up his weakness: coll.: C.20. Ex US.

call down. To reprimand: coll.: mid-C.19–20. Cf. + S.E. call down, to denounce. See quot'n at monkey up.

call for a damper. To break wind: RN: C.20.

call for Bill; ... Herb; ... Hughie. See calling for ...

call (one) for everything under the sun. To abuse thoroughly, vilify vigorously: coll.: late C.19–20. Cf. the C.17–early 19 (then dial.) call, to abuse, vilify. P.B.: in later C.20 the same meaning was usu. expressed in the version call (someone) all the names (or every name) under the sun.

call-girl. A prostitute, esp. one who advertises by shop-window announcement of services as so-called model: since ca. 1945. Adopted from the American—hence, by 1944 at latest, also Aus.: a prostitute available only by telephone-call; a use that, by 1950, is coll.

call in. (At makes it v.t.) To visit a place incidentally: coll.: from ca. 1700.

call it a day. To state one's decision to go no further, do no more; rest content, e.g. with one's gain or loss. Occ. call it a night, if night lends point to the locution, as in James Spenser, Limey Breaks In, 1934, 'There were at least sixty pounds [£60] there, and I quickly collared the lot and called it a night.' C.20; coll. Perhaps ex low call a go, to change one's stand, alter one's tactics, give in: mid-C.19–20. H., 1st ed.: itself prob. ex cribbage. Call a go has in C.20, perhaps influenced by call it a day, > more usually call it a go.

call it eight bells! A nautical c.p. serving as an excuse for a drink before noon, before which hour it is not etiquette to take liquor: C.20. Ware.

call it 'it'. To say that a job is done, as in 'I'll just write this last little bit in here, see, and then we'll call it "it", OK?': mostly domestic: since ca. 1950. A shortening of call it a day or a go.

call me—or you can call me—anything (you like), so (or as) long as you don't call me late for breakfast. A c.p. used by one who has been addressed by the wrong name: mostly Aus.: C.20. (B.P.)

call of the great outdoors. 'The "call of nature" and response, in a trip to the "gents"'. L.A. cites Maurice Leitch, The Liberty Lad, 1965.

call-out. A summons: coll., esp. Londoners': late C.19–20. Jane Brown, I Had a Pitch, 1946.

call over the coals. To call to task; to reprimand; address severely: coll.: C.19–20. Ex the treatment once meted out to heretics. The orig. form was fetch over ..., q.v. Cf. haul over ...

call-party. A party 'given in hall by students called to the bar in the Middle Temple': law coll.: from ca. 1860. B. & L.

call sir and something else. To address as sirrah; hence, to speak contemptuously to: coll.: ca. 1660–1800.

call the game in. To cease doing something; to admit one has had enough: Aus. and NZ coll.: since ca. 1912. B., 1942.

call up. To speak to, over radio or telephone: coll.: adopted ex US by ca. 1940, at latest. 'A pilot's wife has called up [the aerodrome] to say he is sick' (Anthony Phelps, I Couldn't Care Less, 1946).

Callao painter. An evil-smelling gas arising from sea at that port: nautical coll.: late C.19–20. Bowen.

Callao ship. 'One in which the discipline is free and easy', Granville: RN: C.20 At Callao, the principal seaport of Peru, things seem, to a naval rating, to be free and easy. Hence, Callao routine, one that is free and easy. P-G-R.

calfe. A cloak; a gown: c.: ca. 1670–1840. Coles; B.E.

calliante-stroke, the. A rather clumsy method of boat-pulling that, adopted from the Italian Navy, results in many broken oars: RN: since ca. 1918. P-G-R.

callibisters. (Human) testicles. See male-mules.

calling. Begging, esp. as a tramp: tramps' c.:—1935. Ex calling at houses.

calling for Bill or ... Hughie, adj. and n. Vomiting, as a result of drinking too much alcohol; the former of a hiccupping, the latter of a violent, retching nature: army: 1960s. (P.B., 1974.)

calling for Herb. Aus. var. of prec. See big spit, the.

Cally, the; Cally Market. The Caledonian Market: Londoners': late C.19–20.

Calm-Laylas, the. The Egyptian Labour Corps: military: 1914–18. Ex kam laya, kam yom! (how many nights, how many days), 'The droning chant of the men leading camels on the march' (F. & G.). calonkus. A stupid person: Irish-Aus.: late C.19–20. (Ruth Park, Poor Man's Orange, 1950.) Arbitrary.

calp (C.19) or kelp (C.18–19). A hat: ca. 1750–1850. (John Poulter.) Cf. calpac(k), a Turkish and Tartar felt cap (recorded 1813); any oriental or exotic cap. (SOD.) See kelp, v.

Calvert's Entire. The Fourteenth Foot: from ca. 1835 to ca. 1880. Sir Harry Calvert was its Colonel in 1806–26 and, when Adjutant General, he had three entire battalions maintained. The name was suggested by the earlier (from ca. 1770) Calvert's entire, which, as in Tomlinson's Slang Pastoral, 1780, meant liquor, esp. if malt, Calvert being a maker of malt liquors.

calves gone to grass. Spindle shanks, meagre calves. Late C.17–20 (ob.); coll. Ray, 1678, 'His calves are gone down to grass.' A late C.18–19 var. is veal will be cheap, calves fall (Grose, 2nd ed.).

calves' heads, there are many ways of dressing. I.e. of doing any, but esp. a foolish, thing. C.19–20; ob.

calves' heads are best hot. A jeering apology for one who sits down to eat with his hat on: coll.; C.19–20. Cf. calf's head, 1.

calx. (Eton Coll.) the goal line in football. Not recorded before 1864. Ex the L. word.

cam. A camisole: C.20. Also cami, cammy. Cf. com, 3, q.v.

Cam roads. 'Retreat to Cambridge by way of a change' (Egan's Grose): Oxford University: ca. 1820–40.

Camarhas, the. The 79th—from 1881 the Cameron—Highlanders: military: C.19–20. Ex Old Cia Ma Tha (lit., old how-are-you), the nickname of its first colonel, Sir Alan Cameron. F. & G.

Camberwell Death-trap, the. The Surrey Canal: Camberwell (London): ca. 1870–1900. (Ware.) Ex the number of children that, playing on its crumbling banks, were drowned there.

cambra. A dog: Shelta: C.18–20. (B. & L.) Anthony Cash, who learnt the language as a child, prefers the spelling komra; he recalls his grandmother saying 'that glork's komra's kanyed in the keyna'—that man's dog's made a mess in the house. Article reprinted in Gypsy Lore Soc. Jnl., 1977, vol. 1, pt 3. (P.B.)

Cambridge fortune. A woman without substance: late C.17–early 19. B.E. Like Whitechapel fortune, it is scabrous, Grose defining: 'A wind-mill and a water-mill'. These objects, here indelicately punned, being in the C.18 very common in Cambridgeshire.

Cambridge (occ. Cambridgeshire) oak. A willow: mid-

C.18–20 coll.; ob. (Grose, 1st ed.) Willows abundant in the Fen district.

Cambridgeshire camel. A native of, one long resident in, Cambridgeshire: mid-C.17–mid-19. (Fuller, 1662; Grose in his Provincial Glossary.) Ex stilt-walking in the Fens. Apperson.

Cambridgeshire, or fen, nightingale. A frog: C.19–20. Ex the dykes and canals so common in that county. Cf. Cape nightingale, and the Chinese tian ji, frog, lit. 'cockrel of the padi-fields' (P.B.).

Cambridgeshire oak. See Cambridge oak.

Camcreek. Cambridge: undergraduates: since ca. 1920.

Camden Town. Orig. a halfpenny: rhyming s. on 'brown': —1859 (H., 1st ed.); since ca. 1920 also a penny. Used mostly by buskers. Franklyn, Rhyming.

came over with the onion boat. Often said with the usual British insularity and contempt for foreigners. From the Breton onion-vendors. Sometimes used as: 'You don't think that I came over with the onion boat, do you?' Sometimes 'cattle boat' is used, ex the boats from German ports. Of Italians it is sometimes said: 'Came over with an ice-cream barrow.' Other similar expressions, used facetiously, are, 'Came over with the Mormons', or 'Come over with the morons' (Petch, 1946): coll.: C.20; morons, not before 1930. came up with the rations, it or they. Army c.p. applied to medals and decorations easily won: during and since WW1; still current (with an undertone of jealousy) in 1970s. See DCpp, for a typical E.P. entry on the subject.

camel. A giraffe: S. African coll., esp. among hunters: mid-C.19—early 20. Pettman.—2. 'It did not arrive [in Dec. 1916] as a Camel, but as the Sopwith Biplane F.1. It was not formally christened... Because of its looks, everybody began to refer to it as the Camel, and very soon the nickname was officially recognised' (John Pudney, The Camel Fighter, 1964). Ex distinctive hump behind the cockpit.—3. See camels.

Camel Corps, the. The infantry: joc. military of 1915–18. Because they were so heavily laden. B. & P.

camel night. Guest night on a warship: RN: late C.19–20. (Bowen.) Why? Perhaps because, on that night, one did not 'get the hump', for lucus a non lucendo etymologies are fairly common in s.

Camel to Consumer. 'C. to C.' (Cape to Cairo) cigarettes, sent to the troops in North Africa by kindly S. Africans: ca. 1940–3. P-G-R.

camel wallah. A native camel-driver: army coll.: WW1. (F. & G.) See wallah.

camelier. A member of the Camel Corps proper: Aus. military: 1916–18. On muleteer. But also camellia, ex the flower. See:-

camelies! Muster the camels!: Aus. pidgin: late C.19–20. (Archer Russell, A Tramp Royal in Wild Australia, 1934.) Cf. the Aus. camaleer, a camel-driver: not 'unconventional', but S.E., on analogy of muleteer. But cf. prec.

camels. Turkish, or Egyptian, cigarettes: NZ soldiers': WW1. Ex their odour.

camel's complaint. The 'hump', low spirits: ca. 1870–1930.

cameo part. A minor role in a play or film, but one in which the actor can make effective use of his or her talents: theatre- and film-goers' coll.: since early C.20. (Mrs C. Raab, 1982.)

camera obscura. The posterior:—1900: facetious. Perhaps ex US.

Camerer Cuss. A bus: London: since ca. 1925. (Arthur Gardner, Tinker's Kitchen, 1932.) Rhyming. Ex the name of a well-known London firm.

Cameronians. The 26th Regiment of Foot, British Army (now the 1st Battalion of Scottish Rifles): C.18–20 military coll. Ex Richard Cameron, whose religious followers espoused the cause of William III. In 1969 the Cameronians chose disbandment rather than amalgamation.

comesa, camisa, camiscia, camise, kemesa. A shirt or a shift: c.; ca. 1660–1880. Ex Sp. camisa. Cf. commission.

cami. Abbr. camisole: from ca. 1900; shop and women's. Also cammy and cam. Cf.:-

cami-knicks. Abbr. cami-knickers (1915): from ca. 1917; shop and women's.

camisa, camiscia. See comesa.

camister. A clergyman: c.:—1851. Ex L. camisia, an alb, after minister; cf., however, canister, 3.

camouflage. Disguise; pretence, 'eye-wash': ex military j., itself ex Parisian s. camoufle, a person's description by the police (i.e. standard-French signalement), and camouflet, to disguise. Also as v. 'Naturalised with amazing rapidity early in 1917' (W.). G.B. Shaw, 'I was in khaki by way of camouflage' (Daily Chronicle, 5 Mar. 1917: W.). For its military senses, see, e.g., B. & P.

camp, n. A station with or without an airfield—a unit's or a detachment's location—a training school—a depot—a landing ground; even if it (any of them) is situated in a town: RAF coll. (since ca. 1920) >, by 1943, j. (Jackson.) The ubiquity of Camp Commandant and the versatility of camp commandants have been operative.—2. Whether in ref. or in address, Camp Commandant: Army coll. late C.19–20. 'Oh, you had better ask Camp; he deals with such things.'—3. A short sleep, a rest, a sleep for the purpose of rest: Aus. coll.: since ca. 1890. Vance Palmer, Golconda, 1948.—4. Effeminate esp. homosexual mannerisms of speech and gesture: mostly Society: since ca. 1945. 'The momentary absence of the customary "camp" once again calmed Elizabeth's hostility' (Angus Wilson, Hemlock and After, 1952).—5. Hence, a male homosexual: since ca. 1950. Adrian Reid, The Confessions of a Hitch-Hiker, 1970: 'There's a lot of camps in Tangier, especially English ones.' Cf. the adj., 4, and the v., 4. For all homosexual senses of camp, see esp. The Queens' Vernacular: a Gay Lexicon, 1972, by Bruce Rodgers. See also entry at butch and camp.—6. In high and low camp, both n. and adj., extravagance of gesture, style, form, esp. if inappropriate; if used consciously, deliberately, it is high camp, but if unself-consciously, ignorantly, unskillfully, it is low camp: since early 1960s in US, whence adopted by 1965 at latest. Recorded by the Random House Dictionary, 1966, and occurring in Jagger, 1974. (With thanks to Paul Janssen.) Both camp and high camp have, since ca. 1965, also been non-pej. and even indicative of praise: Brit., Aus., and doubtless elsewhere. 'I have many examples' (B.P., who in 1969 reminded me of this unexpected, although perhaps not unexpected, sense development).—7. As the Camp, Sydney: ca. 1790–1830; Hobart: ca. 1830–50: both Aus. coll.—8. In go to camp, to go to bed; lie down to rest: Aus. coll.: from ca. 1880. Also have a camp, to rest for a while. Cf. camp, v., 2, and camp down. Hence, look for a camp, to seek a room, esp. a bedroom: id.: late C.19–20. B., 1943.—9. In take into camp, to kill: adopted ex US ca. 1880 (Mark Twain); ob. by 1930.

camp, v. To sleep or rest in an unusual place or at an unusual time:—1893: Aus. coll.—2. Hence, 'to stop for a rest in the middle of the day' (Morris): id.: 1891. Occ. as a n.—3. To prove superior to: Aus.: 1886, C.H. Kendall; very ob. (Morris.) Perhaps ex † S.E. camp, to contend, and camping, warfare.—4. To be a male, or a female, homosexual: theatrical: since ca. 1945. Ex the adj., senses 3 and 4.—5. (Of a shearer) to go slow, in order to leave a difficult sheep for another shearer: Aus. shearers': since ca. 1910. (B., 1943.) Ex sense 2.—6. To act in a characteristically (male or female) homosexual manner, esp. if showily: since the late 1930s. Cf. senses 3 and 4 of the adj. The Lavender Lexicon, 1965.—7. Covering such other shades, v.i. and v.t. (as camp it up), of the adj. and the n., as have not been indicated here.

camp, adj. Added to 'actions and gestures of exaggerated emphasis... Prob. from the Fr.' (Ware); pleasantly ostentatious or, in manner, affected: London proletarian (—1909) >, by 1920, gen. coll. Perhaps rather ex the C.19–20 dial. camp or kemp, uncouth, rough: see esp. the EDD.—2. Whence, objectionable; (slightly) disreputable; bogus: Society: from ca. 1930.—3. Effeminate: theatrical (—1935) and Society (—1933). M. Lincoln, Oh! Definitely, 1933.—4. Homosexual; Lesbian: orig. theatrical (cf. 3): since ca. 1920; by 1945, fairly gen.—5. Hence, characteristic of homosexuals, as in 'camp words, phraseology, signs, greetings'. See n., 6.

camp about. 'To pirouette and gesture eloquently' (Robin Cook, 1962): since ca. 1945. Cf. camp it up, 1.

camp as a row of tents, as. Extremely homosexual; also, very histrionic and affected in speech and gesture, manners and movements: c.p.: since ca. 1960. John Gardner, Madrigal, 1967, p. 155.

camp and butch. See butch and camp.

camp bicycle. A Servicewoman readily available on camp, or any notorious harlot living near the camp: Services': since ca. 1940. Cf. town bike.

camp candlestick. An empty bottle; a bayonet: late C.18—early 19. Military. Grose, 2nd ed.

camp comedian. A Camp Commandant: army and RAF: since ca. 1930. Jackson.

camp dollies. The cinema on camp: FAA: since late 1940s. 'What's on at camp dollies tonight?' (Miss Margaret Wood, 1978.)

camp down. 'To go to bed; to die' (Wilkes): Aus. coll.: late C.19. Cf. camp, v., 1.

camp it up. To render unnecessarily effeminate the part one is playing: theatrical: since ca. 1935. Ex camp, adj., 3.—2. To have a homosexual affair; to spend a 'queer' week-end together: homosexuals': since ca. 1945. Cf. camp, v., 4.—3. To exaggerate something to the point where it becomes almost too ridiculous. In, e.g., an article about the film Superman, 1978, in New Society, 1 Feb. 1979: 'Avoiding what must have been a very grave temptation to camp things up, in the manner of the old Batman TV show' (P.B.).

camp-master. See TAVERN TERMS, §6.

Camp of the Tartars, the. 'From the rapacity of the shopkeepers in the wooden galleries, this part of the Palais Royal has been nicknamed the "Camp of the Tartars"' (David Carey, Life in Paris, 1822): Anglo-French: ca. 1815–40. Ex the late-medieval armies of victorious Tartars.

camp-stool brigade. The early waiters outside a theatre, etc.: coll., from ca. 1880.

campaign coat. A late C.17 mode in men's dress; orig. military and S.E.; then loosely and coll.; the word > † ca. 1750.—2. In C.18 c., a tattered cloak worn to move compassion. A New Canting Dict., 1725.

campery. That quality of 'camp' talent which is shown by, e.g., a musician with flair and wit: since ca. 1970. (L.A., 1976.)

Campbell's academy. The hulks. Ca. 1770–1820; c., then low. A Mr Campbell was the first director. George Parker, 1781; Grose.

campness. 'Degree of homosexual (camp) inclination': L.A. cites a review of the film Some of My Best Friends... in The Times, 24 Dec. 1971: 'The sensitive [male] lover of the married man (heavy blue eye shadow to establish sensitivity rather than campness, I think)'.

campo. A playground or playing field: schools': C.17. (OED.) Ex in campo.—2. As the campo (or C-), the country, i.e. all that part of Argentina which is not Buenos Aires: white-slavers' c.: from the 1890s. (Londres.) Direct ex Sp.

campy. Adj. corresponding to and deriving from camp, adj., and camp, n., 6: since ca. 1970. Jagger: 'He never looked campy with make-up' (Janssen).

Cams, the. The Cameronians, q.v.: army: late C.19—early 20. Siegfried Sassoon, Sherston's Progress, 1936.

can, n. A reprimand: nautical: late C.19–20. (Bowen.) See also carry the can.—2. A barman: a Lambeth term, dating from ca. 1890. Rook.—3. A simpleton: army: ca. 1890–1930. Prompted by mug, 5.—4. A lock-up or prison: Aus.: adopted ca. 1994 ex US. Dick.—5. 'A racing silencer for a motorcycle' (Dunford): motorcyclists': since ca. 1920. Cf. Brooklands can.—6. As the Can, HMS Canopus: RN: early C.20. Ware.—7. As the can, the w.c., esp. and orig. 'an outdoor privy with a can or other receptacle under the seat' (Leechman): Can.: C.20.—8. See take the can back; MOVING-PICTURE SLANG, §6, in Appendix.—9. A pint of beer: RAF officers': early WW2. Hence also, half-can, a half-pint. 'Blake' (Ronald Adams), Readiness at Dawn, 1941 (P.B.).

can, v. To decide not to use an article or pamphlet: Public Relations Directorate, the Air Ministry: since ca. 1943. I.e. to put into the swill-can. Cf. spike, v., 1.—2. Usu. be canned, to be taken out of service: Can. railroadmen's:—1931. But can, to discharge (an employee), existed in British Columbia at least as early as 1910. (Leechman.)

can (occ. does) a duck swim?! Yes, of course!; obviously!; well, naturally!: a C.20 c.p.

can do. I can (do it); can you (do it)? 'pidgin': mid-C.19–20.—2. Hence, all right!: military: late C.19–20. Both senses have the negative no can do, but it is more commonly associated with sense 1; and there is a var. spelling candoo, early C.20. See DCpp.

can I do you now, sir? A c.p., adopted from 'Itma' and dating since 1940. In that BBC radio programme, the 'gag' was spoken by 'Mrs Mopp' (Dorothy Summers) to Tommy Handley. Cf. it's that man again, q.v.

can I help you with that? A non-aristocratic c.p. (1895; ob.) implying 'I'd like some of that.' Ware, 'When said to the fairer sex the import is different.'

can I speak to you? 'The commonest euphemism for "Are you willing to listen to a corrupt proposal I am about to put to you?" The phrase is used with intensity and a "knowing" glance' (Powis, 1977).

can it! Be quiet! Stop talking: from ca. 1918; ex US.

can of oil. A boil: rhyming s.: late C.19–20.

can of worms. 'A Pandora's box of stinks' (Leechman): Can.: adopted, ca. 1960, ex US; by 1970, coll. (Daily Colonist (Victoria, BC), 7 Dec. 1968.) W. & F., 1960, offer no date; they define its American usage as 'a very complex, unsolved problem'. For Brit. usage see open a can of worms.

can-opener. A tank-busting aircraft, e.g., the Hurricane fighter-bomber: RAF: 1940–5.

can spanner. A tin-opener: RM: later C.20. Hawke.

can you beat it (or, more specifically, that)? 'Can you better that—for impudence, or excellence, or unexpectedness': a C.20 c.p. adopted ex US. See DCpp.

can you 'ear (or hear) me, Mother? A c.p. originated by the comedian Sandy Powell in 1928. See DCpp.

can you say uncle to that? A dustmen's c.p. (—1909), in which say uncle = 'reply'. Ware notes that the c.p. answer is yes—I can. Perhaps there is a pun on dust-bins.

Canack. See Canuck, a Canadian.

Canadas, oceans, tons and eddies I believe you! A sarcastic expression of utter disbelief: Leicestershire schoolgirls' (perhaps wider spread): ca. 1977; ephemeral. (Miss Jane Long.)

canader. A Canadian canoe: Oxford undergraduates': —1909; ob. (Ware). By 'OXFORD -ER'. Cf. canagger.

canadoe. A drink from a can: rare: C.17 joc. coll. Histrio-Mastix, 1610, 'And now, my maisters, in this bravadoe, I can read no more without Canadoe./Omnes. What ho! some Canadoe quickly!' (OED). ? can + d'eau, macaronic for a can of water, the water being eau de vie.

canagger. A Canadian canoe: Oxford undergraduates': since the 1880s; ob. (Marples, 2). By the 'Oxford -agger' formation. See 'OXFORD -ER'. Cf. canader.

canaldin. Coles's spelling of canniken, -kin, q.v.

canal boat, the. The 'tote' (racecourse totalisator): rhyming s.: C.20.

canaller. One who works or lives on a canal-boat (1864); a canal-boat (1887): coll.: mostly US. OED.

canaries. Bananas: since ca. 1930. Ex Canary Island bananas.—2. Squeaks in the bodywork of one's motorcar: motorists': since ca. 1950. Cf. flatter.—3. See canary, sense 13.

Canaries, the. Norwich City 'soccer' team: sporting: late C.19–20. Ex yellow jerseys.

canary; occ. in senses 1–4, canary-bird. An arch knavish boy, a young wag; late C.17–18. B.E.—2. A gaol-bird; c. and low; mid-C.17–20; ob. (Head.) Recorded in Aus., 1827–90, of a convict. Peter Cunningham, 1827, says: ex the yellow clothes they wear on landing; Morris.—3. A mistress: C.18—early 19, ex c. sense, a harlot.—4. A guinea: C.18—early 19; from ca. 1830, a sovereign; ob. Ex its yellow colour: cf. yellow boy, q.v.—5. A written promise of a donation or a subscription: Salvation Army: 1882. Coined by General Booth ex the colour of the demand-slips. (The semantics of the senses 1–5: resp. liveliness, cage, nos 3–5 colour.)—6. Also a sol., orig. malapropistic as in Shakespeare's Merry Wives of Windsor, for quandary.—7. In c. (—1862), a thief's female assistant. Cf. crow, q.v.—8. A 'chorus-singer amongst the public—gen. in gallery': music-halls': 1870; ob. Ware.—9. 'An ideal hip-adornment', actually a modified codpiece: costermongers' dress and term: 1876. Ware notes that it has some connexion with the 'nightingale' of Boccaccio's sprightly story.—10. 'Any soldier wearing a yellow brassard' (e.g. a gas-instructor): army: 1915–18. F. & G.—11. A girl singer with an orchestra: Can. (and US): since ca. 1945. Cf. sense 8.—12. 'A mouse is a young lady. (So is a slick chick, duck, canary, pig, beast, head, sun or sunflower, or doll.): Beatnik s., dating from the late 1950s. (Anderson.) But also Aus.—since ca. 1930. (Lawson Glassop, Lucky Palmer, 1949.)—13. 'Women working on T.N.T. ran grave health risks and were nicknamed "canaries" as they developed a yellow discoloration of the skin' (Arthur Marwick, concerning munition workers, in The Deluge: British Society and the First World War, 1965).—14. A hundred lashes: Aus. convict s.: mid-C.19. Wilkes.—15. See hairy canary; sing like a canary.

canary-bird. See prec., 1–4.

canary ward, the. The VD ward in a RN hospital: lowerdeck: C.20. Ex its predominant colour. P-G-R.

cancer, catch or capture a. (Rowing, university) 'catch a crab': coll., ca. 1850–1900. (Hood in Pen and Pencil Pictures, 1857.) Ex L. cancer, a crab.

cancer stick. A cigarette: grim humour: later C.20. Simon Hoggart, in a Guardian article on the language of businessmen in pubs, noted that 'they always smoke "coffin nails" or "cancer sticks"', i.e. that is what the businessmen call them.

candidate. To stand as a candidate. (Vbl n. and adj., candidating.) Coll.: from ca. 1880. Not common.

candle. Short for candle-sconce, q.v., a ponce. Franklyn 2nd.—2. Short for Roman candle, q.v. at Roman-candle landing. Also for the faulty parachute itself. Martin Page, Songs and Ballads of World War II, 1973.—3. In not able (or fit) to hold a candle to: not fit to be compared with; 'not in the same street' (q.v.). From ca. 1640; a coll. that was S.E. by 1800. Developed from the affirmative form of the phrase (to help as a subordinate): C.15–18 and S.E.—4. In sell or let by inch of candle, to sell or let, hence to do anything, under fantastic or trivially precise conditions. Coll.: from ca. 1650; S.E. after ca. 1750. Ex an auction at which bids are received only while a small piece of candle remains burning. (Var.: by the candle.)—5. (Usu. in pl.) Sparking plugs, as in 'She's had a new set of candles': car-dealers'. Clive Graham-Ranger, Sunday Times mag., 9 Sep. 1981, p.42.—6. See burn (one's) candle ... ; dewdrops; game is not worth ... ; see stars.

candle-basher. A spinster: low: late C.19–20. Outmoded by 1967. The connotation is of masturbation.

candle-ends, drink off or eat. Lit. and fig., thus to express devotion while drinking a lady's health: ca. 1590–1640. The OED gives as S.E., but this is prob. because its users are Shakespeare, Fletcher, Ben Jonson: orig., it was prob. coll.

candle-keeper. (Winchester Coll.) A privileged senior not a prefect: C.19—early 20.

candle money. Fire-insurance paid out: police and underworld: C.20. (Maurice Proctor, Man in Ambush, 1958.) Ex candle purposely left burning.

candle-sconce. A prostitute's protector: low rhyming s. (on ponce): since ca. 1920. Jim Phelan, 1943.

candle-shop. 'A Roman Catholic chapel, or Ritualistic church—from the plenitude of lights' (Ware): Low Churchmen's:—1909.

candle-stick. A candidate: Winchester Coll., from ca. 1840. Ob. For this and for candle-keeper, see Mansfield's and Adams's books on the College.—2. Gen. in pl., a fountain in Trafalgar Square, London, WC2: from ca. 1840; ob. Mayhew.—3. In pl., bad, small, or untunable bells: 'Hark! how the candlesticks rattle' (Grose, 1st ed.): mid-C.18—early 19.

candle to the devil, hold or set a. To be actively evil: C.19–20, coll.; the earlier sense (mid-C.15–18), with before instead of to, is to placate with a candle, i.e. to treat the devil as a saint. The two senses tend to overlap.

candle-waster. One who studies, one who dissipates, late at night: coll.: late C.16–20; rare after C.17. Shakespeare in Much Ado about Nothing.

candy. Drunk: mid-C.18—early 19. Rare outside of Ireland. Grose, 1st ed.—2. A sugar cube of the drug LSD: addicts': adopted, ca. 1965, ex US. (Janssen, 1968.)

candy-boy. A prostitute's handy-man. See bumper-up, 3.

candy(-)man. A bailiff, process-server: Northern, from 1844; ob. Ex an 1844 army of ejectors among whom were a few 'candy-men' or hawkers of sweets; the term spread rapidly.

candy-slinger. A vendor of toffee that he has pulled into wisps: grafters': C.20. Cheapjack.

cane, n. A thieves' 'jemmy', q.v.: c.: C.20. Charles E. Leach, Now!, 10 Apr. 1981.

cane, v. (Gen. in passive.) To punish, e.g., by confinement to barracks: army: WW1. F. & G.—2. To damage considerably, to shell heavily: id.: Ibid.—3. Hence, to treat badly, e.g. a motorcar: from 1918.—4. To defeat, esp. as vbl n. canning: 'a beating, a defeat': since ca. 1918. With senses 1–4 cf. the perhaps later 'give it stick', to punish.—5. To coit with (a woman): C.20. Cf. bang, belt, and other rough terms that imply a hitting or striking.

cane nigger. A happy-go-lucky fellow: West Indian coll.: from ca. 1870. B. & L.

cane upon Abel. A stout stick stoutly laid about a man's shoulders: late C.17—early 19 coll. (B.E.) Cf. raise Cain and Cain and Abel.

cane. A young woman carrying a cane: Society: 1886, then only historical, there having been a vogue lasting only that summer. Ibid.

caniculars. Doggerel verses: joc. pedantic coll.: 1872. Ex L. canis, a dog. OED.

canine. A dog: joc. coll.: from 1869; ob.

canning. See cane, v., 4.

canister. The head: from ca. 1790; mainly pugilistic; ob. Moncrieff, 1821, 'I've nobb'd him on the canister.'—2. See canister-cap.—3. A clergyman; a preacher: London streets':—1909. Ware proposes derivation ex a preacher surnamed Kynaster (or even Kynaston?); more prob. a corruption of canister, q.v.

canister-cap. A hat: from ca. 1820. Ca. 1870 it was abbr. to canister.

canfinflero. See Créolo.

cank (occ. in C.17, e.g., Randle Holmes's spelling, 1688, canke). Dumb: from ca. 1670: c. >, in C.18, s.; >, in early C.19, dial.; † by 1885. (Coles, 1676; B.E.; Grose.) Extant in dial. is cank, to gabble, chatter, gossip.

kanker. See kanker, 2, a var. of kanga[roo], rhyming s. for a Jew.

cannaken, -kin. An occ. var. of canniken, the plague.

canned. Topsy: c. and low s.: since ca. 1910 in Britain and ca. 1938 in S. Africa; adopted ex US. A WW1 army var. was canned up. (Charles E. Leach; F. & G.; Prof. W.G. Mackie in the Cape Argus, 4 July 1946.) Cf. tanked.

canned music. Music from phonograph or gramophone: adopted, ca. 1925, from US.

cannibal. C.17–18 coll.: 'a cruel rigid Fellow in dealing' (B.E.) Ex lit. S.E. sense.—2. (Cambridge University) a College's second boat that beats, i.e. 'bumps', its first, or a third that beats its second: from ca. 1880. Earlier (—1864), a training boat for freshmen, i.e. a boat racing in 'sloggers'; also its rowers. In the former sense, cannibalism is punned-on, while in the latter cannot-pull is jocularly corrupted.

canniken, cannikin. The plague: c. of ca. 1670–1820. (Coles, 1676; Holme; B.E.) ?etymology: perhaps cognate with S.E. canke.

cannon. A round beef-steak pudding: low:—1909 (Ware). Ex resemblance to small cannon ball.—2. A pickpocket: c.: from ca. 1920. (Evening News, 9 Dec. 1936.) Prob. suggested by gun, n., 4. Hence cannon mob, a team of pickpockets.

can(n)on, adj. Drunk: c.:—1879. ?abbr. cannoned, mod. s. 'shot'. Cf. Ger. er ist geschossen.

cannot ball. A nickname (1852–ca. 1880) for an irreconcilable opponent of free trade. Gen. in pl. Saturday Review, 30 Oct. 1858.—2. A human testicle: likewise gen. in pl.: from ca. 1885.

cannon fodder. Those soldiers whose destiny was to do or die, not to reason why. A newspaper or political agitator's phrase occasionally used by the troops' (P-G-R.): derivative: 1939–45. 'Cf. the Ger. coll. Kanonenfutter' (R.S.).

cannot (gen. can't) seem to. Seem (to be) unable to; be apparently unable to; cannot, apparently: coll. (and catachresis): C.20. Thus Kathleen Norris in The Passing Show, 6 Dec. 1933, 'I must be nervous this afternoon. I can't seem to settle down to anything.' Careless thinking, perhaps via I cannot, it seems, do (something or other) and I don't seem to be able to.

canny Newcasel. Newcastle-upon-Tyne: North Country: late C. 19–20. Newcastleletonians also call it 'The Pride of the North'.

canoe inspection. Service women's weekly inspection for VD: Can. army: WW2.

canoe it. To travel, or go, in a canoe: coll.: from ca. 1880 in US, soon adopted in England.

canoeer. A canoe: Oxford undergraduates':—1909 (Ware). By 'OXFORD -ER'. Cf. canader and canagger.

canœuvre. 'A low manoeuvre or essay at deception' (Bee): rare London: ca. 1820–50.

canoneer. One skilled in canon law, i.e. a cononist: ca. 1640–1800: joc. coll. after canoneer. Baxter, 1659, 'We turn this Canon against the Canoneers' (OED).

canoodle, v.t. and i. Fondle; bill and coo: coll. Orig. (—1859) US, thoroughly anglicised by G.A. Sala in 1864. Perhaps ex canny, gentle, on firkytoodle; but cf. the Somersetshire canoodle, a donkey, which may be noodle (fool) intensified.—2. Also as n., though canoodling (Sala, 1859) is more gen.—3. To coax: from ca. 1870; ob.—4. At Oxford University, ca. 1860–70, to propel a canoe. By a pun on canoe.—4. To make off: early C.20. Manchon.

canoodler. A persistent biller and cooer. From ca. 1860. See canoodle, 1.

canopy. The human head: nautical: (?)ca. 1800–70. Bill Truck, 1822: 'a clank over the canopy'—clank, a resounding flow or punch.—2. In under a canopy of Havannah, 'Sitting where there are many people smoking' (Sinks, 1848).

canov. Short for can of oil, a boil. Franklyn 2nd quotes 'E's gotta lovely canov on 'e's nick, ain' 'e' canpacs (or C-). Shares in the Canadian Pacific Railroad: Stock Exchange:—1895 (A.J. Wilson, Stock Exchange Glossary).

cans. Earphones used by operators and technicians of radio and TV: Can. since ca. 1950; Brit. perhaps a little later: s. > j. (Leechman; P.B.)

Can't is the 'secret' speech of the underworld. This word cant dates from ca. 1700—canting is much earlier—and was long contemptuous and almost coll., as is the v., which dates from ca. 1600; likewise canter, canting. See my Slang; Grose, P.; OED; F. & H.; and Weekley.

cant. In c. (vagrants'), both food (—1860) and (—1839) a gift (see cant of togs).—2. (Pugilistic) a blow: coll.; from ca.1750. Ex S.E. sense: a toss, a throw.

cant, v. In c., v.i. and t.: to speak; to talk: mid-C.16–19. Harman.

can't. Abbr. cannot, the C.20 form of can not: coll.; C.18–20.

cant a slug into your bread(-)room! Drink a dram! Nautical: mid-C.18–early 19. Grose, 2nd ed.

can't be bad! A term of approbation or congratulation, popularised by a Beatles' song, 'she loves you... and you know it can't be bad': since mid-1960s. See DCpp.

can't be did! Impossible! See did, 3, sol. for done.

can't claim (a) halfpenny. A c.p. indicative of 'a complete alibi which is carefully concocted when one is about to face a charge,' H. & P.: Services, esp. Army: since ca. 1930.

can't complain! Things are tolerable: a C.20 phrase; akin to 'mustn't grumble' or 'can't grumble'. See DCpp.

can't get the wood, y'know! A meaningless c.p. applied to a shortage of almost anything material: orig. in the BBC radio-comedy series 'The Goon Show', 1950s; still extant 1983. (P.B.)

can't-keep-still. A treadmill: rhyming s.: ca. 1850–90. Franklyn, Rhyming.

cant of dobbin. A roll of ribbon: c.: ca. 1810–60. (Vaux.) See Dobbin.

cant of togs. A gift of clothes: beggars' c.:—1839. (Brandon). Ware shrewdly remarks, 'The mode of begging for clothes affords a word to describe the present or benefit gained by canting.'

can't see a hole in or through a ladder. Of a person very drunk: from ca. 1855. ('Ducange Anglicus', 1st ed.) Sometimes, and at least as early as 1882, ... a forty-foot ladder (Ware).

can't see it! I don't see why I should!; no!: non-aristocratic coll.:—1909 (Ware).

can't show itself (or oneself) to. To be inferior to: lower classes': 1880; ob. Ibid.

can't take a trick. 'To be constantly unsuccessful (from card games)' (Wilkes): Aus.: since ca. 1940.

can't you feel the shrimps? Don't you smell the sea?: Cockney c.p.: 1876; ob. Ib.

Cantab. A member of the University of Cambridge: coll., first in Coventry's amusing novel, Pompey the Little, 1750. Abbr. Cantabrigian.

cantabank. A common or inferior singer of ballads: from ca. 1840; coll. Earlier, S.E. for a singer upon a platform. Ex It. cantambanco.

cantankerous. Cross-grained, ill-humoured; acridly self-willed; quarrelsome: coll.: ?coined by Goldsmith in She Stoops to Conquer, 1772; Sheridan, The Rivals. Perhaps, says OED, ex M.E. contak, contention, after cankorous; H., 3rd ed., suggests a corruption of contentious; W. thinks that the word may be of Irish formation (as suggested by OED).—2. Also, adv. with -ly, abstract n. with -ness.

canteen. A public house: S. African coll., prob. at first military: from ca. 1830. Pettman.—2. Hence, canteen-keeper, the proprietor of one: 1832.—3. 'Goods purchased against earnings credited, or cash: prisons and penal establishments' (Home Office): current in 1970s.

canteen boat. 'Rear ship in a minesweeping formation: R.N.: 1950s' (Peppitt)—and later.

canteen cowboy. A ladies' man: RAF: since 1940. Jackson, 'The origin is in the American expression, "drug-store cowboy"... (See "Naafi Romeo" and "Poodle-faker").'—2. Hence, orderly corporal on duty in a Station Institute, Naafi or Junior Ranks' Club: since 1941; still current early 1970s. (L.A.; P.B.)—3. 'Footplatemen taking a cup of tea in the messroom or shed while awaiting the foreman's instructions. Canteen cowboys were either maintenance men on shed duties, taking a rest between the shunting of locomotives and trains, or drivers and their mates who had signed on in a spare capacity and were there awaiting foreman's orders' (McKenna, Glossary, quoting Mr Bill Handy): railwaymen's: since WW2.

canteen damager. Naafi canteen manager. See damager, 3.

canteen eggs. A gas attack: army: 1917–18. 'The age of eggs used at the canteen was not guaranteed' (F. & G.). in gen.: coll. Pettman.—2. As c-, short for Cape of Good Hope, q.v. Franklyn 2nd.—3. See cape; at GUARD-ROOM, in Appendix.

cape, v. To keep a course: nautical coll.: C.19—early 20. Bowen.

Cape Cod turkey. Salt fish: ?mainly nautical:—1874 (H., 5th ed.). On Bombay duck, q.v.

Cape doctor, the. A strong S.E. wind: Cape Colony coll.: C.19–20. 'In the earlier days . . . when the Cape was used by Anglo-Indians as a sanatorium, they were wont to term these winds the Cape Doctor and they still retain the name' (Pettman, 1913).

Cape Flyaway. Imaginary land on the horizon: nautical coll.: C.19–20. Bowen.

Cape Horn, double. To be made a cuckold. See double Cape Horn.

Cape Horn fever. Malingering in bad weather: sailing-ship seamen's: mid-C.19–20. Bowen.

Cape Horn rainwater. Rum: nautical: late C.19–20; slightly ob. Bowen.

Cape nightingale. A frog: S. African coll.: from ca. 1880. (H.A. Bryden, Kloof and Karoo, 1889.) Cf. Cambridgeshire nightingale.

Cape of Good Hope. Soap: rhyming s.:—1914. (F. & G.) Soon abbr. cape.

Cape smoke. 'A brandy manufactured in nearly all the vine-growing districts of the Colony' (Pettman): S. African coll.: 1848 (H.H. Methuen, Life in the Wilderness). Described in 1879 as 'a poison calculated to burn the inside of a rhinoceros' (Pettman). It is of a cloudy colour.

Cape Stiff. Cape Horn: nautical: mid-C.19–20. (Bowen.) Because, to a sailing ship, it was stiff work to beat round it.

Cape Turk. In not to have rounded C-T-, still to regard woman solely as an instrument of pleasure: coll.:—1923 (Manchon). Ex the Turks' reputation in sexual matters.

caped. Train cancelled through lack of traffic, or bad weather conditions. From Kaput (McKenna, Glossary): railwaymen's: mid-C.20.

capella. A coat: theatrical, C.19—early 20. Direct ex It.

capevi. Sick, ill: costermongers', from ca. 1860; ob. Cf. capivoy.

caper, n. A dodge, device, performance: coll., orig. (—1851) low. London Herald, 23 Mar. 1867, 'He'll get five years penal for this little caper,' said the policeman.' Ex the S.E. senses and cf. play the giddy goat, for ultimately caper is the L. caper, a goat.—2. Whence, a chorister boy; a ballet-girl: low: mid-C.19–20; ob. Mayhew (OED).—3. Trick or 'game', as in 'You can shove that caper!' (Slatter): widespread in Brit. Commonwealth: since ca. 1920.—4. 'A large-scale crime (once exclusively an American term, now quite common)' (Powis): underworld: current in 1970s. Both senses 3 and 4 derive from sense 1.—5. See flying caper.

caper, v.i. To be hanged: late C.18—mid 19. Wolcot (EDD). Prob. ex cut a caper upon nothing, q.v.

caper-corner-ways. Diagonally: nautical coll.: C.19–20. (Bowen.) Presumably caper is a corruption of cater, four.

caper-merchant. A dancing master: mid-C.18–19. (Grose, 1st ed.; H., 5th ed.) Cf. hop-merchant.

caper (upon) nothing, cut a; occ. cut capers . . . Like cut caper sauce = to be hanged: low coll., C.18–19. Hanging has many synonyms, some much grimmer than these.

caperdewie, occ. caperdochy (as in Heywood, 1600) or cappadochio. Stocks; a prison. Low: late C.16–17.

Capey. A Cape-coloured person. See Kapenaar.

capital, n. See make capital out of; work capital.

capital. Excellent: coll., from ca. 1760; S.E. after ca. 1820. Often as exclamation. Ex capital, important. Cf. the tendency of awful.

capitally. Very well, as in 'I am happy to inform you that I am getting on capitally' (Sgt T. Gowing, letter from convalescent hospital in Malta, 21 Dec. 1854: P.B.).

capitation drugget. Cheap and inferior drugget: coll., late

C.17–18. Ex the capitation tax on this clothing-material. B.E. capite. Law-Latin s. for a kind of drunkard. See TAVERN TERMS, §9.

capivvy, cry. To be persecuted to death, or near to it: sporting s., from ca. 1840; ob. Orig. a hunting term, as in Surtees, Handley Cross, 1843.

cap'n. Captain: coll.: mid-C.19–20. (Baumann.) Cf. capting.

capon. A red herring: from ca. 1640. Orig. joc. S.E., it > coll. ca. 1700. Cf. Yarmouth capon, q.v.

capot me! A coll. imprecation: mid-C.18—early 19. (Foote.) Ex capot, to 'score off'. OED.

cappadochio. See caperdewie.

capped, be. 'To be checked by strong currents': nautical coll.: mid-C.19–20. Bowen.

capper. (Auctioneers') a dummy bidder at an auction: from ca. 1870.

capping. Flying on CAP, combat air patrol: RAF: later C.20. Phantom.

Cappo. A 'Capstan' (brand name) cigarette: Aus.: since ca. 1918. B., 1942.

capricornified. 'Hornified', cuckolded: mid-C.18—early 19. Grose, 1st ed.

capron hardy. An impudent fellow: coll.; ca. 1450–1630. Awdelay.

caps. Capitals (letters of alphabet): printers' j. >, by 1920, authors' and typists' coll. Manchon.—2. Capsules of drugs, e.g., heroin. See cap, n., 7.—3. In pull caps, (only of women) to wrangle in unseemly fashion: from ca. 1750; ob. if not †; coll. Colman, 1763, 'A man that half the women in town would pull caps for'; Scott, 1825, 'Well, dearest Rachel, we will not pull caps about this man.' Cf. set (one's) cap at.

capsize, v.t. To overturn, upset: orig. nautical s. (witness use by Dibdin and Grose, 2nd ed.), prob. ex Sp. cabazar (—1788); S.E. by 1820.

capstan, the. A punishment whereby the arms were outstretched on a capstan-bar and a weight suspended from the neck: naval coll.: C.17—early 18. Bowen.

capstan-step. The time or beat kept by the old ship's fiddler for capstan work: nautical: C.19. Bowen.

captain. A familiar and/or jesting term of address: coll.; C.17–20. (Shakespeare.) Cf. US judge.—2. In C.18, a prosperous highwayman, a gaming or a bawdy-house bully: both low, the latter perhaps c.—3. Money, esp. in the captain is not at home, I have no money: C.18—early 19. Dyche.—4. A glandered horse: knackers' s., from ca. 1830.—5. 'Inevitable' nickname of any man surnamed Kidd or Kydd. Cf. entries at NICKNAMES.—6. The 'leader' of a drinking group, esp. if he buys the drinks: Aus. joc.: since ca. 1945. B., 1953.

Captain Armstrong. A dishonest jockey: from ca. 1860. More gen. in phrase, come Captain Armstrong, to 'pull' a horse and thus prevent him from winning: from ca. 1850: turf. Sporting Life, 5 Nov. 1864.

Captain Bates. See Bates's Farm and been to see . . .

Captain Bow-Wow. A famous Clyde passenger-boat skipper: C.19. (Bowen.) He used a dog as a makeshift fender.

Captain Cook. Orig. (—1879), a wild pig; hence (—1894), 'a gaunt, ill-shaped, or sorry-looking pig' (E. Wakefield): NZ: ob. by 1930. Also Cooker, or c-. (Morris.) Also Captain Cooker (B., 1941). Pigs were introduced into NZ by Capt. Cook.—2. A book: rhyming s.: late C.19–20. B. & P.—3. A cook: Aus. rhyming s.: C.20. B., 1942.—4. A look: Aus. rhyming s.: since ca. 1948. (B.P.) It occurs in Nino Culotta, Cop This Lot, 1960, 'Let's have a Captain Cook.' But see also cook, n., and synon. Brit. rhyming butcher's hook.

Captain Copperthorn's crew. All officers; a crew in which everyone wishes to be captain: mid-C.18–19; nautical. Grose, 1st ed.

Captain Cork. A man slow in passing the bottle: C.19–20, ob.; military.

Captain Crank. The leader of a group of highwaymen: C.18—early 19.

Captain Criterion. A racing sharp; mostly London theatrical and smart Society: ? ca. 1880–1905. Ex a music-hall song: I'm Captain Criterion of London, Dashing and never afraid.

If ever you find a mug's been well done,
Be sure that it's by our brigade.

The Criterion Theatre and Restaurant (founded in 1874) obtained an injunction against the singer, and the song was suppressed.

Captain Grand. A haughty, blustering man: C.18–19; coll. Cf. furioso.

Captain Grimes. The Times: Londoners' rhyming s.: later C.20. Mr Patrick Glass, in a letter to that paper, pub. 10 June 1982, records hearing this, and Currant Bun for the Sun, in a Wimbledon hospital, at the time of writing.

Captain Hackum. (Hack 'em.) A fighting, blustering bully. Ca. 1600–1850. B.E., Grose.

captain is at home (or come), the. Menstruation proceeds: late C.18–19: low. (Grose, 3rd ed.) Punning catamenia.

Captain Kettle. To settle (vigorously), v.t.: rhyming s. of ca. 1899–1950. Ex the famous character of fiction: Cutcliffe Hyne's stories were published over the years 1893–1938. Franklyn, Rhyming.

captain lieutenant. Meat half-way between veal and beef: military: late C.18–19. (Grose, 2nd ed.) Ex the brevet officer, who, receiving lieutenant's pay, rank as a captain. (The rank was abolished before 1893.)

Captain MacFluffer, as in take C.M. badly. (To have a bad bout of) loss of memory on the stage: theatrical (—1909); ob. (Ware.) An elab. of fluff, n., 2, and v., 3, qq.v.; the Mac may pun the Scottish mak', to make,—whence MacFluffer is, lit., a 'fluff'-maker.

captain of a foot company. 'He that drinks in silk stockings'. See TAVERN TERMS, §6.

Captain of the Heads. Seaman in charge of naval latrines. See Heads, the, 2.

Captain of the poll. See poll, n., 1.

Captain Podd. An C.18 nickname for a puppet-showman. Grose, 3rd ed.

Captain Queernabs. An ill-dressed or shabby man: late C.17—early 19. In C.17—mid-18, either c. or low s. B.E.

Captain Quiz. A mocker: C.18; coll. Amplifying quiz.

Captain Sharp. An arrant cheat; a huffing, sneaking, cowardly bully: late C.17—early 19. B.E.—2. Hence, a gamesters' bully: mid-C.18—early 19. Grose, 1st ed.

Captain Swing. The signature on threatening letters sent by 'agricultural Ludlites' during the rural uprisings of late 1830. See esp. E.J. Hobsbawm & G. Rudé, Captain Swing, 1969.

Captain Swosser. A blustering naval officer: non-aristocratic coll. (—1882); ob. (Ware.) Ex 'a character of Marryat's'.

Captain Tom. The leader of mob; the mob itself: late C.17—early 19. B.E., Grose.

captain's blue-eyed boy. 'The officer most in favour at the moment' (Granville): RN coll.: C.20.

captain's cloak, the. The 36th Article of War: RN: C.20. (Bowen.) It relates to powers of punishment. Granville has 29th Article.

captain's tiger. A boy that waits upon the captain (and him alone) at table: nautical, esp. on ocean-liners: late C.19–20. Cf. tiger, 3.

captain. Captain: low coll.: C.19–20. (Baumann.) Cf. cap'n.

capture the pickled biscuit. 'Take the biscuit': Aus.: ca. 1895–1950. B., 1942. See take the bun or cake.

captured a sugar-boat, they (occ. we) must have. A c.p. explaining the issue of a liberal ration of sugar: NZ soldiers': WW1. See also sugar-boat's...

capurtle, n. Females as providers of sexual solace to males: rhyming s. on myrtle: since ca. 1950. Douglas Clark, Premeditated Murder, 1975, 'So you spent the morning gizzing at bits of capurtle in flouncy dresses'. Here, gizz, to gaze, blends gaze + quiz: since ca. 1945. But see also kerpurtle, which may be connected.

caput. The monitors' big study in a School house: Sherborne: mid-C.19–20. (Desmond Coke, Wilson's, 1922.) Ex L. caput, head: cf. the relationship of block, head, to block-house.—2. (Also kaput, kapout.) Finished; no more: military: 1915; ob. by the mid-1930s, but given fresh impetus by WW2 and subsequently by the British Army of the Rhine. Ex Ger. kaputt, done for, ruined, insolvent. Used, in WW1, similarly to napoo, q.v. F. & G.; my Words!

car it. To go by car (of whatever sort the context indicates): coll.: from ca. 1860.

car knock; car toad; car tonk; car whack or whacker. A car repairman: Can. railroadmen's:—1931.

car-ringing, n. Putting a stolen car onto the road with a wrecked car's log-book (Motor Trader, 12 Jan. 1977): since ca. 1950.

Carab. An occ. form of Carib. P-G-R.

caravan, n. A dupe; a man swindled: late C.17–28. C. and low. Etherege, in The Man of Mode, 'What spruce prig is that? A caravan, lately come from Paris.' Perhaps ex caravans frequently robbed.—2. ?hence, a large sum of money: late C.17–18 c. (B.E.) Cf. carago, 2.—3. A railway train carrying people to a prize-fight: from ca. 1845; boxing. Prob. ex its length: cf., however, Blount, 1674, 'Of late corruptly used with us for a kind of waggon to carry passengers to and from London' (W.). caravan, v. To have or hold a picnic: prob. sol. (—1923) for or ex carnival. Manchon.

caravansera. A railway station: ca. 1845–1900; boxing. Ex caravan, 3.

carb. See bicarb.—2. Carburettor: motorists' coll.: since ca. 1910.

carbic or carby. A carburettor: Aus.: since ca. 1920. (B.P.) carbolic naked is a punning, not very common, C.20 var. of starbolic naked.

carbon. A carbon copy (opp. to the top) of a typewritten MS. or sheet thereof: coll.: C.20: authors' and typists'.

carbonado. To cut, hack: late C.16–17. Coll. soon S.E. Shakespeare.

Carbs, the. 'The 6th Dragoon Guards (Carabiniers) are today no more, having been amalgamated with the 3rd Dragoon Guards. The 6th were raised in 1685... They first became called Carabiniers in 1692, the original carbine being a type of long horse pistol... [they] were never strong on nicknames and referred to themselves, somewhat uninventively, as "The Carbs"' (Carew).

carbuncle face. A red, large-pimpled face: coll.: late C.17–18. B.E., Grose.

carby. See carbic.

card, n. A device; expedient: ca. 1700–1900. (Frances Brooke, Lady Julia Mandeville.) Prob. ex the older that's a sure card, that's a safe device or expedient, or one likely to bring success; also of such a person. C.16–20; coll. Thersites, an Interlude, ca. 1537; B.E. Cf. (one's) best card, one's best plan or action; occ., a last resort: coll.: C.19—earlier 20.—2. A 'character', an odd fellow: from ca. 1835. Dickens, 1836; The Card, a novel (1911) by Arnold Bennett. 'It may be an extension of the metaphorical good card, sure card, etc., or... an anglicised form of Scottish caird, tinker (cf. artful beggar, etc.)' (W.). Often with downy, knowing, queer.—3. As the card, the correct number, price, or thing, the 'ticket': from ca. 1850, coll. (Mayhew.) Perhaps ex the correct card of racing.—4. A troublesome rating: RN: late C.19–20. (Bowen.) Ex sense 2.—5. See cooling card; go through the card; leading card; speak by the card; mark (someone's) card.

card, v. To torture with a loom-card: from ca. 1550; col., passing to S.E. In C.19, an Irish political diversion. The Scots Observer, 1889, 'to card a woman's hide'. Ob. The n. is carding.—2. To fix on a card: trade coll.: from ca. 1880. OED. card-con(e)y-catching. Swindling: c.: late C.16. Greene. (OED.) See cony-catching.

card of ten, brag or face it out with a. To assume a bold front: ca. 1540–1700; coll. Ex cards; a card of ten pips being none too high.

cardboard box. The pox: rhyming s.: later C.20. (Red Daniells, 1980.)

cardboard foc'sle. 'The peak on the cap worn by officers and petty officers (and "men not dressed as seamen")': RN lowerdeck: since ca. 1930. 'Just because you wear a cardboard foc'sle, don't think you can come in with the troops!' (Granville, letter, 1963.)

cardi. Var. spelling of cardy, a cardigan.

Cardiganise. To destroy (a cannon): ca. 1855–1900. Surtees, Plain or Ringlets, 1860, 'Talk of the courage of facing an enemy, or Cardigan-ising a cannon.' DNB, Epitome: 'The seventh Earl of Cardigan commanded the light cavalry brigade in the Crimea, and destroyed it in the famous "charge", 1854.' (I.e., the Russian guns.)

Cardigan's Bloodhounds. The 11th Hussars: from the Earl of Cardigan—see prec.—who became the Regiment's colonel in 1836. (Carew). See also Cherubims, 2.

cardinal, n. Mulled red wine: from ca. 1860. In Tom Brown at Oxford.—2. Gen. in pl, a shoeblack. From ca. 1880; † by 1915. Cf. city red.—3. See-cardinal is come, the. Menstruation is proceeding: mid-C.18–mid-19. (Grose, 3rd.) By a pun on red, the colour held to characterise a Cardinal of the Catholic Church. Cf. the captain is come.

cards. In get or be given (one's) cards, to be dismissed: since ca. 1925: coll., perhaps orig. busmen's, but in later C.20, very common and widespread among workers. I.e., wrote E.P. in 1937, citing James Curtis, The Gilt Kid, 1936, one's employment card; but by 1970s this had become one's National Insurance card (—1974–5) and several other bureaucratic impedimenta. Cf. ask for one's cards, to leave a job voluntarily, or, at least, request to do so; and see books, 3. (P.B.)—2. In on the cards, possible; almost probable: coll. >, by 1880, S.E.; gen. from 1849, when popularised by Dickens; in use earlier, being adumbrated by Smollett in 1749. Opp. to out of the cards, which lasted only ca. 1810–70. Perhaps ex cartoman-cy.—3. In have or go in with good cards, reasonably to expect success: late C.16–18: coll., > S.E., in C.17.—4. See house of cards; play (one's) cards ... ; show (one's) cards; throw down (or up) (one's) cards.

Cardwell's men. Ca. 1869–90, military coll.: officers promoted not by purchase but on merit (and still, inevitably, by influence). Edward, Viscount Cardwell (1813–86) was in 1868 appointed Secretary for War; he thereupon reorganised the British Army (DNB).

cardy. A cardigan: domestic coll.: C.20. (P.B.)

care a pin; damn; fig, not to, and all similar phrases of dismissal. See not care a ... care-grinder, gen. prec. by vertical. The treadmill: c.: ca. 1860–1900.

care if I ... , I don't. See I don't care if I ...

careen is, in Can. (imitating the US), misused for 'to career', to go wildly and rapidly, esp. of a motor-car: in Can., frequent only since ca. 1935.

careening; careened. Physic-taking; forced to take physic: naval: ca. 1820–60. (Bee.) Ex lit. S.E. sense.

career boy. One who, in a combatant Service, puts self-success before the public, esp. the nation's, welfare: RAF s. (1942) >, by 1944, all three Services' coll. Cf. back-room boy.

careful. Mean in money matters: coll.: from ca. 1890.

careless talk. (A stick of) chalk: mostly darts-players': since ca. 1945; but soon ob., if not †, as the memory of the WW2 admonition 'Careless talk costs lives', which prompted it, faded from the national consciousness. Franklyn, Rhyming; P.B.

Careys. A coll. ellipsis of Mother Carey's chickens: 1829, W.N. Glascock, Sailors and Saints (I, 179). (Moe.)

carfindo. A ship's carpenter: RN: C.19. (F. & G.) Perhaps a corruption of carpenter influenced by dial. carf, a notch in wood.

cargo. Contemptuous for a person: C.17; coll. Ben Jonson.

Perhaps ex Sp. cargo (SOD).—2. Money: c. and low, late C.17–18. (B.E.) For semantics, cf. caravan, 2, q.v.—3. (Winchester Coll.) a hamper from home: from ca. 1840; ob. cargo (or C.) Bill. A RN Reserve officer serving in the Navy: RN: ca. 1870–1914. (Bowen.) Before WW1 he used to be considered a 'passenger'.

cargo brand. Pilfered cargo: MN: since late 1930s. (Peppitt.) Carib (or c-). A member of the Carabinieri: prisoners-of-war in Italy: 1942–4, then historical. (Michael Gilbert, Death in Captivity, 1952.) Influenced (C-) by Carib, one of a Caribbean tribe and (c-) by cannibal. Cf. Carab and Carbs, the.

Carl Rosa. 'A poser. Someone who is not what he seems. The name refers to a well-known operatic society. Fraud or deceit is sometimes referred to as "the old Carl Rosa"' (Powis): rhyming s.: current in 1970s. Mrs C. Raab: the Carl Rosa ceased performing in 1958.

Carl the caretaker's in charge! This is a quiet sector (of the line)!: army c.p.: 1915–18 (Western Front). This imaginary German was occ. called Minnie's husband (see minnie) or Hans the grenadier (ex the bombing-parties). F. & G. See DCpp.

Carmagnole. A French soldier: ca. 1790–1800. Burns uses it of Satan. Ex the Fr. revolutionary song. SOD.

carnes or carnes. Flattery; blandishments: rather low: ca. 1860–1910. Ex Romany. B. & L.

carmine. Blood: sporting (—1860); † by 1900. Chambers's Journal, 1860. Cf. ruby and claret.

car. A carnation: flower-sellers': late C.19–20. Richard Llewellyn, None But the Lonely Heart, 1943.

carnapper. One who habitually, rather than incidentally, steals—or 'borrows'—motor-cars: since ca. 1955. On pattern of kidnapper; cf. hijacker, as a neat formation.

carney; carny, n. Seductive flattery; suave hypocrisy: coll.: 1818 (The London Guide). Perhaps more common as v.i. and t.; and in C.20, esp. in come the (old) carney.—2. Hence, a hypocrite: RN: C.20. Granville.—3. A lizard: Aus.: C.20. Dal Stevens, The Gambling Ghost, 1953.—4. A carnival show; hence, a man employed there, a carney (or carni) guy: Can.: adopted ex US ca. 1930; not unknown in UK.

carne(y), v. To coax, wheedle insinuatingly: coll. (—1811) and dial. † ex It. carne, flesh. Cf. the n. and the next two entries.

carney, adj. Sly; cunning, artful: low and military:—1914 (F. & G.). "'Carney" ... means cunning, but not in the subtle snake-in-the-grass way: "a carney sod" is a coarse and untrustworthy fellow' (Muvver).

carneying, ppl adj. Wheedling, coaxing, insinuating, seductively flattering, suavely hypocritical: from ca. 1830. Coll. Mayhew; R.L. Stevenson, 1884, 'the female dog, that mass of carneying affectations'. This and its radical prob. come ex L. caro, carnis, flesh (cf. S.E. carnal and c. carnish, meat), via It. carne and after blarney.

car. Carnival. See carney, n., 4. carnish. Meat: C.19–20 c. Ex Lingua Franca ex It. Hence carnish-ken, a thieves' eating-house or 'prog-shop'. North Country.

carnovsky. See TIDDLYWINKS, in Appendix.

carny. Alternative spelling of carney.

carob. To cut: Shelta: C.18–20. B. & L.

carol singer. Police car with loud-speaker: Brisbane, Aus.: since ca. 1930. B., 1942.

caroon. In low Cockney and Parlyaree: a crown(piece). Ca. 1845–1915; surviving in medza caroon, half a crown. Perhaps ex It. corona, perhaps merely crown mispronounced; Sampson's note at kuruna suggests a gipsy origin (cf. Romany koirona).

carpark. A 'nark' (informer): rhyming s.: later C.20. Haden-Guest, 1972.

carpenter's scene. Comic dialogue, in front of the curtain, while elaborate sets are being erected: theatrical: ca. 1860–95. It occurs in The Athenaeum, 1864, and earlier in the Cornhill Magazine, Dec. 1860. OED.—2. The raising of the curtain: theatrical (—1923). Manchon.

carpenter's herb. 'Erroneously, bungle and yarrow': C.18–20. (OED.) Properly, self-heal.

carpet, n. A prison sentence or term of three months: abbr. of carpet-bag, rhyming s. on synonymous drag: C.20: c. (Charles E. Leach; Slang.) Tempest, however, writes, 'In days gone by it was calculated that it took a man three months to make a certain kind of carpet produced in the shops [i.e. prison workshops].' Hence, other things involving the number 3, e.g.:—2. The sum of £3: spivs' c.: since ca. 1942. Picture Post, Jan. 1954.—3. But in Aus., according to B., 1943, a £1 note: 'since ca. 1925; ob.—4. Odds of 3 to 1: racing, esp. bookmakers': C.20. Sunday Telegraph, 7 May 1967.—5. The sum of £300: secondhand-car dealers': since early 1950s. Woman's Own, 28 Feb. 1968. Contrast sense 2—inflation at work!—6. A carpet snake: Aus. coll.: late C.19–20. Archer Russell, In Wild Australia, 1934.—7. In on the carpet, at—or very near—ground level: RAF: 1918—ca. 1939. Perhaps it survived a little longer, but in my RAF service days, 1942–5, I never once heard it. (Owed to OED Sup., 1972.)—8. See bring on the carpet; sweep (includes push) under the carpet; walk the carpet.

carpet, v. To reprimand: coll.: recorded in 1840, H. Cockton's once famous novel, Valentine Vox. Ex walk the carpet, q.v. P.B.: C.20 Services' coll., as in 'He was carpeted for some minor offence', i.e. marched in and stood on the CO's office rug.

carpet-bag recruit. (Military) a recruit worth more than what he stands up in: from ca. 1875; t. Cf. the US adj., carpet-bag, and n., carpet-bagger: see Thornton.

carpet-biter; carpet-biting. One (usu. male) who gets into a fearful rage, a visibly very angry man; a distressing exhibition of uncontrollable rage: coll. since ca. 1940. Ex the stories of Hitler biting carpets in his insane rages, and ob. as the memory faded after 1945. Cf. that great US fighting general, 'Vinegar Joe' Stilwell's phrase, 'I felt like biting the radiator' (The Stilwell Papers, ed. Theodore H. White, 1st UK ed., 1949, passim.)

carpet-dance. An (informal) drawing-room dance: Society coll. (1877); ob. Ware.

carpet-knight. Prior to 1800 the stress is on the boudoir; after, on the drawing-room (see carpet-man). A stay-at-home soldier: from ca. 1570; coll.; in C.19–20, S.E. Etymologically, 'one knighted at court, kneeling on the carpet before the throne, instead of on the battlefield' (W.).

carpet-man or -monger. A frequenter of ladies' boudoirs and carpeted chambers: late C.16–17; coll. The occupation is carpet-trade: late C.16–17, coll.—2. (Carpet-man only.) A RN officer promoted by influence: RN: late C.19–20. Bowen.

carpet-road. A level, well-kept road: coll.: late C.17–18. B.E. carpet-slippered bugger. 'A heavy shell passing far overhead, therefore with but a faint noise': army: WW1. (B. & P.) Also carpet slipper, a shell passing silently, esp. if of the naval high-explosive type: the two words, therefore, are virtually synonymous.

carpet-swab. A carpet bag: from ca. 1835; coll. Barham in his poem, 'Misadventure at Margate'.

carpet tom-cat. An officer often with and very attentive to the ladies: military: ca. 1875–1910. B. & L.

carpet-trade. See carpet-man.

carpeting. A scolding: coll.: from ca. 1870; ob. Ex carpet, v., q.v.

carpurtle. See kerpurtle.

carpy. 'To be locked in the cell at the end of the day (from carpe diem)' (Tempest): prisons': mid-C.20.

carra or carrer. A motor caravan: Aus.: since ca. 1925. B., 1942. Cf. chara.

carriage, Her Majesty's. A prison van. See Her Majesty's... and cf. Queen's bus.

carriage-company. People—orig. merchants and tradesmen—having their own carriages: coll. > S.E.; from ca. 1830; ob. Thackeray, 1855, 'No phrase more elegant... than ... "seeing a great deal of carriage-company"'. (OED.) carried. Married: rhyming s.:—1909; ob. Ware.

184

carrier, in (?late C.17)–C.18—early 19 c., is a criminal band's spy or look-out. A New Canting Dict., 1725.—2. A Bren-gun carrier: army coll. since 1940, soon > j. These vehicles were 'phased out' soon after WW2 and term transferred, as an abbr., to other 'carriers' such as the APC, armoured personnel-carrier. (P.B.)—3. Abbr. aircraft-carrier, and occ. for commando-carrier: military coll./j.: since ca. 1950. (P.B.)

carrier pigeon. (Racing) a person running hither and thither with 'commissions'. From ca. 1850. In C.20, however, it is also racing s. for a thief, according to Manchon: but I suspect an error here.—2. In c., a victimiser of lottery-office keepers: mid-C.18—early 19. G. Parker, 1781.

carrion. A harlot: C.18–19.—2. The human body: C.19–20; pejoratively indicated in C.17=low coll.—3. Draught cattle: Aus.: since ca. 1860. ('Tom Collins', Such is Life, 1903.) By humorous depreciation, but with a ref. to the grim potentialities of severe and widespread drought.

carrion-case. A shirt; a chemise: low: C.19. Sinks, 1848.

carrion-hunter. An undertaker: ca. 1780–1850. (Grose, 1st ed.) Carrion=corpse was S.E. of ca. 1760–1900. Cf. cold cook.

carrion-row. A place where inferior meat is sold: ca. 1720–1800. Swift.

carrot. 'Tobacco, done up in a similar but larger shape than salt's pricker, q.v., was an important trade item in the fur-trading days of Canada, and was called a carrot' (Leechman): mid-C.18–19.—2. See take a carrot!

carrot-cruncher. 'A country visitor to London' (Powis): Cockneys': since mid-C.20, if not considerably earlier.

carrot-nob. See carrots.

carrot-pated. See carrots.

carrots. Red hair: coll.: Wesley père seems to have been, in 1685, the first to print the term, as B.E. was the first to record it of a red-haired person; as the latter, a rather uncouth nickname, with the C.20 var., carrot-nob (Manchon).

carrots! Run away!, or slangily, piss off!: RN lowerdeck: since ca. 1960. (Peppitt.) Origin unknown.

carrotty. Having red hair: from ca. 1740; coll. >, by 1880, S.E. (Smollett in Roderick Random, Thackeray in The Newcomes.) Mark Lemon, the mid-Victorian humorist, noted of the Greeks that all the Graces were Χάρυττα. Earlier was carrot-pated (B.E.), likewise coll. (Often misspelt carrotty.)

carry, n. The distance for which an occupied stretcher is, or has, to be carried: Royal Army Medical Corps coll. in WW1—and since. Philip Gosse, Memoirs of a Camp-Follower, 1934.—2. 'A load of drugs' (Home Office): addicts's.: current in 1970s.

carry, v. At cricket, to continue to bat: Aus. schoolboys': since ca. 1930. 'Last man doesn't carry.' Short for carry on, to continue. (B.P.)

carry a (or some) clout. See clout, n., 4, and cf.:-

carry a (great) stroke. To have, wield much influence: ca. 1640–1800; coll. > S.E. Cf. the later C.20 replacement of clout, q.v., for stroke. The threat of violence is inherent in both.

carry a (or the) torch for (someone). 'To be devoted to someone' (Leechman), but often with the implication of unrequited passion, love unconsummated because of impossible circumstances, or uninterest by the one for whom the torch is carried: Can., adopted ca. 1945 ex US; soon afterwards some use in Britain too. (P.B.) Perhaps ex US torchlight processions in honour of a political, or a local-government, candidate. (Leechman.)

carry (someone) around or, usu., round. 'To do a man's job for him until he knows the routine' (P-G-R.): Services' coll.: since ca. 1910.

carry ballast. To hold one's drinks well: RN: C.20 (Granville). Moe cites the var. carry lots of ballast, from W.G. Carr, 1937, ref. to the year 1914.

carry both ends of the log. To do all the work, esp. in a complementary pair: Aus. coll.: C.20. 'Rann Daly' in 1924.

carry both sheets aft. To walk around with both hands in trouser pockets: RN: C.20. (Granville.) By a technical pun.

carry coals. To endure, put up with an insult or an injury: late C.16–17: coll. >, by 1620, S.E. Shakespeare, in Romeo and Juliet, 'Gregory, o' my word, we'll not carry coals.'

carry corn. To behave well in success: mid-C.19–20, gen. as '...doesn't carry corn well'. Ex the behaviour of corn-fed horses. Doubtless adopted from dial. (EDD records it for 1845) and at first mainly rural.

carry dog. To put on 'side'. See put on dog.

carry heavy rakes. To swagger; put on 'side': coll.: C.17. Terence in English, 1614.

carry (someone) in (one's) heart. 'If the "sky blue", languishing in prison, considers that he has been framed by one of his previous cronies (variously known as chummies, pallie blues, or beans) he will "carry him in his heart" until he can ... get his revenge' (Cape Times, 23 May 1946): S. African c.: C.20.

carry-knave. A low harlot: C.17–18; coll. Taylor the Water-Poet.

carry Matilda. NZ var. of waltz Matilda, q.v., to carry one's swag.

carry me out and bury me decent(ly)! An exclam. indicative of the auditor's incredulity or, occ., displeasure: coll.; from ca. 1780. After ca. 1870, gen. abbr. to carry me out! Post-1850 variants, all † by 1930, were carry me out and leave me in the gutter, carry me upstairs, carry me home, and whooa, carry me out: cf. let me die and good night!, qq.v. Ware.

carry milk-pails. Presently a gentleman, "carrying milk-pails", as the [London street] boys called it—that is, with a lady on each arm—advanced up the colonnade' (Augustus Mayhew, Paved With Gold, 1857): ca. 1830–80. Cf. milk-shop.

carry no coals. To be unlikely to be imposed on, swindled, or tamely insulted: coll.: C.16–19. B.E., whose definition is somewhat more racy. A C.16–17 variant, as in Skelton, is bear no coals.

carry on. To behave conspicuously; frolic; flirt: coll.: from ca. 1850. Whyte-Melville. 1856, 'Lady Carmine's eldest girl is carrying on with young Thriftless.' Prob. nautical in origin: ex carrying on sail. See carrying-ons.—2. To endure hardship; show quiet and constant fortitude: a C.20 coll. popularised by WW1. An imperative, orig. a military order, then (1917)=go ahead!, continue!, esp. continue as you are now doing. Cf.:-

carry on, London! A public-spirited c.p., used in 'the London Blitz' of Aug. 1940–May 1941 and again in the 'V weapons' blitz of June 1944–March 1945. 'It was the "sign-off" of a BBC radio weekly magazine programme, "In Town Tonight", which ran for several years [in mid-C.20]' (R.S., 1967).

carry on or carry under. A c.p. slogan employed by old sailing-ship captains, 'whose creed was to clap on sail regardless of risk' (Bowen): C.19–20; ob. Cf.:-

carry on, Sergeant-Major! Go ahead; Oh, you do that!; I've finished, you can do as you like: military (rarely among officers) c.p.: from 1915. B. & P., 'Often a lazy or incompetent officer's evasion, [it] was originally the Company Commander's order to his S.M.'

carry out (one's) bat. To outlast all others. See bat, n., 8.

carry-over, n. A 'hang-over' in which one is still slightly tipsy: coll.: since ca. 1912. J.B. Priestley, Three Men in New Suits, 1945.

carry-tale. A tale-bearer: ca. 1570–1840; coll. in C.16, then S.E.

carry the banner. To tramp the road; to be homeless; be a tramp: vagrants' c.: 1903 (Jack London, The People of the Abyss).—2. (usu. with for.) 'To support or praise some movement, often one of the not so popular type' (Petch): coll.: since ca. 1950. Ex banner-carrying at protest meetings or on protest marches.

carry the cag. To be vexed or sullen: low:—1811 (Lex. Bal.). See cag, 1.

carry the can. To be reprimanded: RN: late C.19–early 20. (Bowen.) Perhaps influenced by carry the keg. The orig., RAF form, later common to all Services, and current ca. 1920–45, carry the can back, meant to be made the scapegoat; to do the dirty work while another person gets the credit; to accept the blame for one's own or another's error; to be landed with (usu. unwanted) responsibility for an unpleasant task. 'Blake' (Ronald Adams), Readiness at Dawn, 1941, writing of late 1939, has "'What is a [Fighter-] Controller?', MacMurray went on questioning. "The man who carries the can", Placket told him.' Hector Bolitho, in The English Digest, Feb. 1941, noted the can-back king, one who was very good at it. Since ca. 1945 the phrase has reverted to the shorter, orig. form yet still, 1980s, carries all the senses listed above. See also left carrying the can and take the can back. P.B.) carry the keg. A c. pun on carry the cag: 1812, Vaux; † by 1890. Whence walking distiller, an irascible person.

carry the knot. To 'hump a bluey' or go on tramp: Aus.: since ca. 1930. B., 1943.

carry the mail. To stand drinks: Aus.: C.20. Baker.

carry the organ. To shoulder the pack at defaulters' or at marching-order drill: army: ca. 1870–1910.

carry the stick. Applied to the operation whereby a woman, in conversation, robs a well-dressed elderly, or drunk, man, and her male associate, masquerading as a detective, makes a fuss and enables her to depart: Scottish thieves': ca. 1860–1920. The London equivalent, same period, is to trip up.

carry the stockwhip. (Of a domineering wife) to be 'the boss': N.T., Aus.: since ca. 1930. Ernestine Hill, The Territory, 1951.

carry the torch for. See carry a torch...

carry the wind. To be mettlesome, or high-spirited: sporting:—1904 (F. & H.); ob. by 1930. F. & H., 'Properly of horses tossing the nose as high as the ears.'

carrying all before her. (Of girl or woman) having a well-developed bust, or being obviously pregnant: raffish joc.: since ca. 1920.

carrying three red lights. Drunk: nautical: C.20. Bowen, 'From the "Not under Control" signal'.

carrying weight. 'Loaded with depression' (Anderson): beatniks': since ca. 1959. A burden.

carryings-on. Conspicuous behaviour; frolics; flirtation: from ca. 1840; coll. G. A. Sala, 1859. A much earlier coll. sense is: questionable proceedings, as in Butler, Hudibras, 'Is this the end/To which these Carryings-on did tend?' Cf. goings-on.

carser. Occ. var. of casa, 2, a brothel.

carsey, carzey. A C.19–20 c. var. of case (q.v.), a house, a den, a brothel.—2. A place; grafters': C.20. Philip Allingham.—3. A public house: Parlyaree: since ca. 1860. P.H. Emerson, Signor Lippo, 1893.—4. A privy: low Cockney: since ca. 1870. Cf. case, n., 9. This is now, late 1970s, the commonest sense of the term, and has produced quite a number of var. spellings from writers unaware of its Lingua Franca derivation, e.g., kharsie, khazi, perhaps indicating also variations in pron. (P.B.).—5. See kahsi, a poss. var.

cart, n. A racecourse: racing-men's: ca. 1855–70. ('Ducange Anglicus', 1st ed.)? connected with correct card, q.v.—2. The upper shell of a crab: coll. and dial.:—1860 (H., 2nd ed.).—3. A bed: army: mid-C.19–early 20. (F. & G.) Cf. synon. chariot.—4. Hence, a bunk: ships' stewards': from ca. 1919.—5. See keep a cart on the wheel; traverse the cart; walk the cart; carts.—6. In in the cart, wrong; in the wrong; in a 'fix'. Esp. as put in the cart, to deceive, trick, embarrass, incommode seriously, as a jockey his owner. Racing and gen. from ca. 1865. Occ. as carted or as in the box. 'Perhaps goes back to the cart in which criminals were taken to execution' (W.).—7. In in the cart, in the know: later C.19. The Referee, 1 Apr. 1883.—8. In in the cart, applied to the lowest scorer: gaming: mid-C.19–early 20. Occ. as on the tail-board. Cf. 6.

cart, v.t. To defeat, surpass, do better than: Oxford and Cambridge University: from ca. 1850; † by 1934. Esp. as we carted them home, defeated them badly. Cf. the next entry.—2. To arrest: low Glasgow:—1934 (Alastair Baxter; MacArthur & Long). Gen. in the passive.—3. To hit vigorously at cricket: Public Schools': from ca. 1890. V.i. in P.G. Wodehouse, A Prefect's Uncle, 1903: v.t. in id., Tales of St Austin's, 1903.

cart away, occ. off or out. To remove: coll., C.19–20.

cart before the horse, set or put. To reverse the usual order, whether of things or of ideas. From ca. 1500; a coll. that, in C.17, > S.E.

cart-grease. Bad butter, then any butter: from ca. 1875. Cf. cow-grease. In C.20, applied to margarine: Cockneys' (Muvver).

cart off or out. See cart away.

cart out with. As 'He's carting out with Liz' = he's courting her: Cockneys': since ca. 1880. Ex, not 'he's carting her out', but 'he's carting himself out with her.'

cart-wheel. Var. coach-wheel. Both gen. abbr. to wheel. A crown piece: low: from ca. 1855. 'Ducange Anglicus', 1st ed.—2. A broad hint: C.19.—3. In turn cart-wheels, to execute a series of lateral somersaults (the arms and legs resembling wheel-spokes): from ca. 1860; coll.; in C.20, S.E. Earlier (ca. 1840–75), do a Catharine wheel, q.v.—4. A silver dollar: Can., adopted ex US: late C.19–20. Cf. sense 1.

cartload of blancmange. Carte blanche: facetious: since ca. 1900.

cartload of monkeys and the wheel won't turn! A children's c.p., 'shouted after a crowd of people cycling, or riding, slowly past, or sitting in a bus, or a coach, awaiting departure' (Peter Ibbotson, letter, 1963): since late C.19; by 1960, slightly ob.

cartoon. A technical drawing or blueprint: motorcyclists': since ca. 1950. (Dunford). It is curious that this s. term, derived from the idea of newspaper or film cartoons, should in fact be a return to one of the orig. meanings of the word. (P.B.)

carats. A pair of shoes: mid-C.19—early 20. Hotten explains by Norfolk cart, a crab's shell; Ware refers it to the noise made by a labourer walking heavily. Cf. boats and two feet . . . , qq.v.

carty. Of the build and/or breed of a cart-horse: 1863; coll. (OED.) In C.20, rare.

carve. To slash (a person) with a razor: c., and low (esp. Cockneys'): C.20.

carve (oneself) a slice. To copulate (from the male point of view): Cockney: C.20. Cf. cut off the joint, have a.

carve-up, n. A fight or even a war: mostly Cockney: since ca. 1905.—2. A swindle: lower classes':—1935.—3. The amount of money left by a will: C.20. (M. Harrison, Spring in Tartarus, 1935.) Cf. cut up rich (or warm).—4. See v., 4.

carve up, v. To spoil the chances of (a person) in business: London commercial and taxi-drivers': since ca. 1910.—2. To swindle an accomplice out of his share: c.: C.20. Charles E. Leach.—3. To beat up and esp. to slash with a knife: C.20: orig. c.; by 1940, fairly gen. s. Cf. carve, and the quot'n at duff up.—4. (Of a driver) to cut in sharply after overtaking another vehicle; to commit similar acts of bad driving: coll.: since late 1970s. Hence, as n., carve-up, an instance of this. (With thanks to Dr John Sykes, of the COD: P.B.) carved out of wood. Stupid. See cedar, 3.

Carvel's ring. The female pudend: mid-C.18—early 19: low coll. P.B.: Partridge orig. wrote: 'Ex a scabrous anecdote in the inimitable Grose'; and that is irritating, or tantalising, according to one's mood and urgency of enquiry, if Grose is not available. I therefore quote Grose, 1st ed.: 'The private parts of a woman. Hans Carvel, a jealous old doctor, being in bed with his wife, dreamed that the Devil gave him a ring, which, so long as he had it on his finger, would prevent his being made a cuckold: waking, he found he had got his finger the Lord knows where.'

carver and gilder. A match-maker: from ca. 1820; ob. Egan's Grose.

carving knife. A wife: military rhyming s.:—1914 (F. & G.) Much more gen. is trouble and strife.

Cas, the. The Chief of Air Staff: Air Ministry, and the higher RAF formations: since ca. 1930. Jackson.

casa, ca-sa, or ca. sa. A writ of capias ad satisfaciendum: legal coll.: late C.18–20; ob.—2. casa, case. A house, a brothel, c., C.17–20, leads to C.19–20 c. and low s. case-house, a brothel, and late C.18–18 c. and low s. case vrow, a harlot attached to a particular bawdy-house.—3. The case form, in C.19, also means a water-closet. Ex It. casa. With this and the previous sense, cf. carsey, in all its senses.—4. A ladies' man; a masher: R Aus. N: WW2. (B., 1943). Prob. ex Casanova.

casabianc. The last of anything, esp. of cigarettes: Services': mid-C.19—early 20. (Bowen; B. & P.) Ex Casabianca, the boy hero of Mrs Hemans.

casant. (Usu. pl.) Chrysanthemum: a slovening of the word: C.20. Cf. 'mum and chryssie. (P.B.)

cascade, n. A trundling and gymnastic performance: theatrical, from ca. 1840; ob.—2. Beer: in Tasmania, then slightly on the Aus. continent: from ca. 1880. Ex the cascade water from which it was made: the firm that, at Hobart, makes it is known as the Cascade Brewery Company.

cascade, v. To vomit: low coll.: from the early 1660s. Pepys once 'cascaded' at the theatre; Grose has it in his 2nd ed. Smollett's 'She cascaded in his urn', 1771, is only analogous.

case, n. A bad crown-piece: c. and low, ca. 1835–1900. (Brandon.) Hence, the sum of five shillings: C.20 low. Prob. ex Yiddish caser.—2. An eccentric person, a 'character', a 'cure'. Orig. (—1833) US, anglicised ca. 1850. H., 1st ed.—3.

The female pudend: C.17 (e.g. in Fletcher's The Chances).—4. An unfortunate matter, end, as 'I fear it's a case with him': from ca. 1864.—5. The certainty to fall in love: from ca. 1870, as 'it's a case with them.' Miss Braddon, in To the Bitter End, 1872.—6. A love-affair: schoolgirls', from ca. 1860 (H., 2nd ed.); still actively extant in S. Africa, mid-C.20. Prof. W.S. Mackie in the Cape Argus, 4 July 1946.—7. Hence, a 'love-affair' between two boys: Public Schools': C.20.—8. 'A Baudy-house' (James Dalton, A Narrative, 1728): c.: C.18 and prob. C.19. also. Cf. casa, 2.—9. A privy: occ. c. or low s.:—1864 (H., 3rd ed.). Cf. carsey, 4.—10. In C.20 racing c., a fool, a 'mug'. Wallace in The Twister.—11. (Westminster School) the discussion by 'seniors' and 'upper election' of a thrashing, likewise the tanning itself: from ca. 1860; ob.

—12. That which is, in the circumstances, to be expected: coll.:—1924 (OED Sup.).—13. (As n. and v.) An adulterous relationship; in such phrases as 'a bit of case', 'I'm going case', 'she's case': S. London criminals'. 'It can even mean taking up with a woman in a semi-legitimate way' (Deputy Asst. Commissioner David Powis, QPM, 1979). Prob. ex and elliptical for cased up with, q.v. Tempest, 1950, has "to go case with" = to sleep with. "I went case with a tart at the gaff" = I slept with a woman at (my) home.' Cf. sense 8, and casa, 2, q.v.

case, v. In C.20 c., to report (a prisoner) for slackness; punish with solitary confinement.—2. To spoil; delay inevitably: c. (—1934). James Spenser, 1934, 'Well, this cases things for a while. We'll have to lie low.'—3. To weep: Marlborough Coll.: since ca. 1920.—4. Short for, and synon. with, case a joint, q.v.: Aus. police: adopted, ca. 1918, ex US. (Vince Kelly, 1955.) Also Eng. low by 1950 (Tempest, who has 'The job [prospective burglary] has been well cased').

'case. Abbr. in case (= to ensure against the possibility, or the fact, that): coll.: from ca. 1890.

case a (or the) joint. To make a reconnaissance of, before robbing, a house or other building: Can., since ca. 1925; Eng. by 1930, as in Nicholas Blake, The Whisper in the Gloom, 1954. P.B.: hence, by ca. 1950, loosely, to reconnoitre any building, as 'What's this pub like?' 'Dunno. Let's go in and case the joint', i.e. 'Let's go in and find out'.

case-fro. Var. of case-vrow, q.v. at casa, 2, a harlot (B.E.): c.: late C.17–18. The vrow is Dutch for a woman, the fro indicates German influence thereon.

case-hardened. 'Tough'; of one who is a hard case: both coll., the latter (orig. US) from ca. 1860, the former from ca. 1700 and S.E. by 1800.

case-keeper. The keeper of a brothel: (? C.19), C.20 c. See casa, 2.

case of crabs. A failure: coll., ca. 1870–1920. ? ex catch a crab.

case of pickles. An incident, esp. if untoward; a breakdown, -up: coll.: from ca. 1870; † by 1920.

case of stump, a. (E.g. he is) penniless: coll.: ca. 1870–1900. Cf. stumped.

case-ranging. An inspection of houses with a view to robbery: c.:—1923 (Manchon). See casa, 2, but cf. also case a joint.

case-vrow. A harlot: low: C.18.–19. See casa, 2, and case-fro.

cased. 'Charged with an offence' (Tempest): prison coll. or j.: mid-C.20. See case, v., 1.

cased-up, be. To be in a brothel: low: C.20. (Herbert Hodge, 1939.) Cf.:-

cased up with, be. To live with (a woman, esp. one's mistress): c.: C.20. Gilt Kid, 1936.

casein(e). 'The correct thing'; punning the cheese, q.v. Rare. † by 1900. Charles Kingsley in a letter of May 1856. (The -ine form is incorrect.)

caseo. A C.20 var., in c., of casa, n., 2. Gilt Kid, 1936.—2. A full night in bed with a prostitute: low: since ca. 1930. New Statesman, 10 May 1947.

caser. A crown-piece; the sum of five shillings: Aus. and Brit. c. or low: late C.19–20; ob. as the currencies were decimalised, in 1966 and 1971 respectively. In C.20 in Britain the term was associated with 'low life' on the race-courses. Cf. case, 1, and, like that, ex Yiddish.—2. A careless var. of casa, 2, a brothel.—3. One who 'cases' buildings, houses, etc., for burglars: c.: since ca. 1950; adopted ex US. I.e. the agent of case, v., 4; cf. case a joint.—4. 'Nickname for an officer with a reputation for "casing" or putting people on report. A strict disciplinarian' (Tempest): prisons': mid-C.20. See case, v., 1.

cases. Boots: military (esp. the Guards): C.20; ob. by 1945. (John o' London's Weekly, 3 Nov. 1939.) Cf. trotter-cases.—2. In get down to cases, to 'get down to brass tacks'; talk seriously: lower classes': C.20. Gilt Kid, 1936.

casey; occ. casey. Cheese: C.19–20 c. Cf. cassam, cash, caz, qq.v. Ex L. caseus.—2. A var. of carsey, 1, a house, den or brothel.

Casey's Court or Donnelly's Hotel (or the hotel; the cottage; the villa; the drum). The sailors' (the ratings) or lowerdeck mess: RN: late C.19–(?)mid 20. (Sidney Knock, via Moe.) Kept scrupulously clean.

cash. Abbr. cassam, cassan, cheese: c.: late C.17–19. (B.E.) Also cass and caz.—2. An accountant officer on duty: RN: C.20. Bowen.—3. In in or out of cash, having plenty of no: money. (In cash occurs in Thackeray.) Coll.: from ca. 1840.

cash a dog. (Gen as vbl n.) To cash a cheque against non-existent funds: bank-clerks' (esp. Anglo-Irish): C.20.

cash a prescription. To have a prescription made up: coll.: from ca. 1880; ob.

cash and carried. Married: rhyming s.: late C.19–20. Cf. cut or dot, and carried.

cash and carry. Generic for any large, wholesale supermarket: coll.: since early 1970s. 'Have you got the [recognised retailer's] card—I'm just going up [=to] the cash and carry.' (Mrs Daphne Beale, 1981.)

cash in. To succeed, esp. financially: coll.: from ca. 1920. Ex cash in, to clear accounts, terminate a matter.—2. To die: coll.: C.20. Ex:-

cash in (one's) checks. To die: adopted ex US ca. 1875. Checks = counters in the game of poker. Also hand in ... or pass in ... Cf.:-

cash (or throw) in (one's) chips. Var. of prec. To die: Can., adopted, ex US, ca. 1880; common usage in UK, C.20, perhaps earlier. As prec. ex the S.E. sense, to stop gambling, esp. at cards, notably poker.

cash on the knocker. Cash down: Aus.: since ca. 1925 (B.P.). E.P. suggested ex paid at the door; I suggest the auctioneer's gavel, perhaps influenced by S.E. on the nail, q.v., at nail, n., 6. (P.B.)

cash up, v.i. and t. Settle a debt; pay: from ca. 1830; ob. Barham; Dickens, in Martin Chuzzlewit; Sala, 'They'll never cash up a farthing piece.'—2. To earn or make money; often as get cashed up, to earn and save money: Aus. coll.: C.20. D'Arcy Niland, 'But I thought the idea would be to work on here for a bit longer ... Get cashed up a bit, then move' (Call Me When the Cross Turns Over, 1958).

cashied-in. Dead; killed: military: early C.20. F. & G. Ex cash in, 2, q.v.

Cashels. Great Southern and Western of Ireland Railway stock: money-market, from ca. 1878; ob. The line had, at first, no station at Cashel.

cashier. 'A "good cashier" is a driver whose average taxi-meter-money is high; a "bad cashier", one whose average is low' (Herbert Hodge, Cab, Sir?, 1939); taxicab owners' and drivers' coll.: since ca. 1910.—2. A front trouser pocket: pickpockets' c.: since ca. 1930 (Ronald Palmer in Sunday Times, 25 Aug. 1974). Because that is where a person often carries coin.

cashier. To deprive of one's cash: late C.16–early 17. Shakespeare—? elsewhere.

casik. A (small) brougham: ca. 1853–1900; Society. Less gen. than pill-box.—2. See bull the casik.

caso. A prostitute that takes a man for the night: c.: C.20. Ex case, n., 8.—2. A brothel: since ca. 1910. (Herbert Hodge, Cab, Sir?, 1939.) Var. of caseo, itself dissyllabic.—3. See go caso.

cash. Short for cassam (etc.)

Cass, the. The Casino, a low-class music-hall at Manchester (on the site now occupied by the Manchester Social Club); also known as Mr Burton's Night School, because run by a Mr Burton: mostly Mancunians': ca. 1890–1910. John o' London's Weekly, 13 Oct. 1934.

cassam, cassan, cassom, casson, casum. Cheese: mid-C.16–20 c. The earliest and commonest form is cassan; cash, an abbr., appears in C.17; casum in C.18. See casey, cash, and caz. Cf. the cas of Romany.

casie. 'Wrinkled, stained, or outside sheets of paper': printers': mid-C.19–20. (B. & L.) Cognate with Fr. casé, broken.

cast. Very drunk: Anglo-Irish:—1935.

cast an optic. To look: sporting:—1909; slightly ob. Ware.

cast beyond the moon. To make wild guesses: coll. soon > S.E.: from ca. 1540; ob. Heywood.

cast (one's) cap at. To show indifference to, give up for lost': coll.: C.16–17. In proverbial form: cast (one's) cap into the wind. Contrast set (one's) cap at.

cast-iron or bullet-proof. Irrefutable: Services, resp. coll. and s.: since the 1920s. H. & P.

cast-iron (or stone-wall) horrors, in the. Suffering from delirium tremens: Anglo Irish: C.20.

Cast Iron Sixth, the. The 6th City of London Rifles: army: early C.20. (F. & G.) ex endurance in training on Salisbury Plain. P.B.: but more plausibly, according to John Gaylor, Military Badge Collecting, 1977, '[they] were known as the "Cast-iron Sixth" from their black KRRC [King's Royal Rifle Corps]-type badge.'

cast nasturtiums. To cast aspersions: joc., mostly lower-middle class: C.20. By a kind of Hobson-Jobson process.

cast-off. A discarded mistress: coll.: from ca. 1800.—2. In pl., landsmen's clothes: nautical: C.19–20.—3. Also, any discarded clothes: coll.; C.19–20. P.B.: also, in later C.20, usu. pl: e.g., 'Any old cast-offs?'

cast off, v. To unbind; to set free: nautical: C.19. Moe cites the Dublin University Magazine, March 1834, where 'cast him off!' is glossed as 'Unbind him!'

cast (one's) skin. To strip oneself to the buff: low: ca. 1815–80. (Sinks, 1848.) Cf. synon. cap (one's) skin.

cast stones against the wind. To work in vain: C.17–18: coll. soon > S.E.

cast up (one's) accounts. To vomit: C.17–19; in C.20, rare; † by 1930. (Dekker; Grose, 2nd.) A more gen. early var. was cast up (one's) reckoning; the C.19–early 20 nautical version: audit (one's) accounts at the court of Neptune.—2. To turn King's evidence: c.: mid-C.19–early 20. Cf. come (one's) cocoa.

castell. To see, look: early C.17; perhaps c. or coll., its history being problematic. Recorded in Rowlands, Martin Mark-All, 1610. ?ex castle as a vantage-point.

caster. See castor.—2. A cast-off or rejected person, animal, or thing; from ca. 1850; coll.—3. In mid-C.16–18 c., a cloak. Harman.—4. A broadcaster or newscaster: Can. coll., adopted, ca. 1960. ex US.

Castieu's Hotel. The Melbourne gaol: Aus. c.: ca. 1880–1910. Ex a man's name.

casting couch. A divan in a casting-director's office: coll.: adopted, ca. 1955, ex US (Mencken, 1948; OED Sup., 1972). Ex the widespread impression that many female minor parts are assigned on a basis of bedworthiness.

castle. Abbr. castle in Spain or the more gen. and Eng. castle in the air: coll.: C.19–20.—2. As the Castle, Holloway Prison: c.: late C.19–20. Gilt Kid.—3. As the castle, the stumps: cricketers': since ca. 1925. (Ian Peebles, in Sunday Times, 31 May 1959.) The batsman defends them.

Castle of St Thomas. The Penitentiary in St Thomas's parish, where the frail part of the Oxford belles are sent under surveillance' (Egan's Grose); Oxford University: ca. 1820–40.

castle-rag. A 'flag', i.e. a fourpenny piece: rhyming s. (—1859); † by 1914. H., 1st ed.

castor; occ. caster. A hat, orig. of beaver's fur: in C.17–early 18, S.E.; ca. 1760–1810, coll.; then s. Entick's London, 1640; Martin's Dict., 2nd ed., 1754; Moncrieff's Tom and Jerry, 1821; H., 1st—5th edd. (1859–74).—2. See:

castor, adj. and exclam. All right!; excellent: Aus.: from ca. 1905. Suggested by 'dinkum oil'. But Wilkes, who lists also on the castor, writes 'rare. ? from castor sugar hence "sweet".' See castor with.

castor-oil artist or merchant. A surgeon; a physician: army: early C.20. (F. & G.; B. & P.) Cf.:-

Castor-Oil Dragoons, the. The Royal Army Medical Corps: army: early C.20. (F. & G.) Cf. synon. Linseed Lancers; Poultry Wallopers.

castor with, be on the. To be popular with or well regarded by: low Aus.: since ca. 1930. (Kylie Tennant, The Joyful Condemned, 1953.) See castor, adj.

castors. A bicycle. See cats on castors.

castrating, (very). A pun on frustrating. L.A. notes its use by Honor Tracy in the Sunday Telegraph, 12 Aug. 1973: '[The predicament of the book's hero] is all, in the current speech, very castrating'. Esp. if the frustration is caused by dominant women?

casual, n. A casual ward in a hospital: coll.: from ca. 1850.—2. An occasional workman, pauper, visitor, etc.: coll.: from ca. 1820. E.g. boarder in a lodging-house, which Bee noted in 1823.—3. 'A casual payment of "something on account" to an officer or rating whose pay documents are still in his last ship' (Granville): perhaps orig. RN, but also army and RAF: coll. > j.: C.20.

casual, adj. Uncertain, undependable, happy-go-lucky, slightly careless and callous: coll., from ca. 1880 (SOD records for 1883). In the 1930s, on the verge of S.E. casualty. A casual labourer: Londoners' coll.: ca. 1850–1910. Mayhew, London Labour, II, 'The "casuals" or the "casualties" (always called amongst the men "cazzelties")' (EDD). Hence casualty boy, q.v. casualty, adj. Casual: Londoners' coll.: mid-C.19–20; ob. Mayhew, 1851, 'Red herrings, and other cas'alty fish'. Ex the dial. adj. casualty, for which see EDD.

casualty boy. 'A boy who hires himself out to a costermonger' (EDD): London coll.: ca. 1850–1910. (Mayhew.) Often casualty boy.

Cat. St Catherine's Street, Oxford. See Cat Street.—2. A

Catalina long-range amphibious aircraft: Services': WW2, and the few years they remained in service afterwards.

cat. A harlot: C.16–20. (Lyndesay, 1535, in his satire on wantons; B.E.; Dyche; Grose.) By ca. 1910 it had come to mean esp. 'a drunken, fighting prostitute' (B. & L.). This sense of cat is due to Dutch influence.—2. Abbr. cat o' nine tails: apparently first in 1788, in Falconbridge's African Slave Trade: coll.; by 1820, S.E.—3. In C.20 c., punishment by the 'cat'.—4. Abbr. tame cat, q.v., 'a woman's fetch-and-carry'.—5. The female pudend: coll., C.19–20: otherwise pussy, cf. Fr. le chat.—6. Related is mid-C.19–20 (ob.) c. sense, a lady's muff (see muff). Brandon, 1839.—7. Also c. (—1812), a quart pot, a pint pot being a kitten. It is implied by Vaux's cat and kitten rig.—8. A landlady in lodgings (rooms or boarding-house): from ca. 1820; ob. Peake's comedy, Comfortable Lodgings, 1827.—9. Abbr. Cheshire Cat, q.v., an inhabitant of Cheshire.—10. Abbr. cat and mouse, q.v., a theatrical house.—11. A gossiping woman: upper-middle class: since ca. 1927. (Angus Wilson, Such Darling Dodos, 1950.) A back-formation from S.E. catty, spiteful.—12. (Usu. in pl.) A lion or a tiger or a leopard: circusmen's: C.20. Also, the big cats, all of these collectively.—13. A catamaran: boating coll.: since ca. 1955.—14. A caterpillar tractor: orig., Can.: since early 1930s.—15. A hydraulic catapult on an aircraft carrier: FAA: since late 1930s. John Winton, H.M.S. 'Leviathan', 1967.—16. A category, either medical or, esp. in RAF, of flying ability: Services' coll.: since ca. 1945, (?) earlier. (P.B.)—17. 'Hippy term for any male within the hippy world or the drug scene. "He's a cool cat" would mean "He is a self-assured, "knowing" man who is one of us"' (Powis): adopted, ex US, in the late 1950s.—18. Hence, a 'fan' or devotee: adopted, ca. 1965, ex US (Jagger). A specialisation of sense 17.

cat, v. To vomit: late C.18–20: low coll.; in C.20, mainly dial. (Grose, 1st ed.) See also shoot the cat. A further var. is do a cat.

[cat. There are many phrases in unconventional English that include cat. They will gen. be found under the first operative word, e.g. like a cat on hot bricks, shoot the cat, whip the cat, etc.]

Cat and Cabbage, the. The York and Lancaster Regt.: 'The badge of the Regiment was an aggressive looking tiger with the Union Rose above it, giving rise to the nickname' (Carew).

cat and class. Cataloguing and classification: librarians' coll.: C.20. (P.B.)

cat and dog life, lead a. (Of married couples) to be constantly quarrelling: coll., from ca. 1560. B.E. has agree like Dog and Cat.

cat-and-kitten hunting or sneaking. The stealing of quart and pint pots (see cat, n., 7): c. (—1859); ob. H., 1st ed.

cat and kitten rig. The ca. 1810–50 form (Vaux) of the prec. cat and mouse. A house: rhyming s. (—1857); ob. 'Ducange Anglicus', 1st ed.

Cat and Mouse Act. The Prisoners (Temporary Discharge for Ill-health) Act of 1913 to enable hunger-strikers to be released temporarily' (Punch, 23 July 1913). OED Sup.

Cat and Mutton lancers. Militia: East London: 1870; † by 1920. (Ware.) They often drilled on Cat and Mutton Fields.

cat board. A board of officers convened to decide a man's medical category, or to judge his ability to continue flying duties: Services' coll.: since ca. 1945 (?earlier). Hence, as a v., to be cat-boarded, to be considered by such a board. Ex cat, n., 16. (P.B.)

cat-burglar. A burglar that nimbly enters houses from the roof: from ca. 1919: coll.; S.E. by 1933. Cf. garreteer and dancer.

cat crept into the crypt – crapped – and crept out again, the. A mock tongue-twister, popular in the Services: ca. 1950–70. (P.B.)

cat cuff. A sly punch: Aus. sporting: C.20. B., 1942.

cat-faced. Ugly: low coll. (North of England): mid-C.19–20.

(H., 3rd ed.) Its original, cat-face, a pej. n., may be dial. cat-fart about, mostly as vbl n. cat-farting about. Fussy actions, irritating in their effect: low coll.: since ca. 1950. (L.A.) Cf. synon. faff about.

Cat Fleet, the. 'The First Battle Cruiser Squadron of the Grand Fleet' (Bowen): RN: 1913–21. It included the Lion and the Tiger.

cat got your tongue? Elliptical for has the . . . ?, it is often used in speaking to a child that, after some mischief, refuses to speak or answer questions: orig. domestic coll., mid-C.19–20, it has extended into wider usage, where usu. joc. in intent. See DCpp. for examples.

cat-harping fashion. Nautical, late C.18–19: 'Drinking cross ways, and not as usual over the left thumb' (Grose, 1st ed.). Ex catharpin-fashion, q. v.

cat has kitteden in (one's) mouth, to feel as if a. To 'have a mouth' after being drunk: from ca. 1600; coll. Field in his indelicate play, Amends for Ladies, 1618. Cf. Fr. avoir la gueule de bois.

cat-heads. Female breasts: Naval, mostly lowerdeck: late C.18–mid-19. The Night Watch (II, 89), 1828, but also, much earlier, in John Davis, The Post Captain. Ex nautical j. In W.N. Glascock, The Naval Sketch-Book, II, 1826, it seems to mean 'falsies'.

cat house. A brothel: Can.: adopted, ca. 1925, ex US. Cf. cat, n., 1, 5.

cat in hell without claws, no more chance than a. A late C.18–mid-19 c.p. applied to 'one who enters into a dispute or quarrel with one greatly above his match' (Grose, 3rd ed.). Cf. icicle's chance in Hades, not an, q. v. Cf. the abbr.:-

cat in hell's chance. Orig., ca. 1930, only a very slight chance; but very soon only in the neg., not a cat . . .: no chance whatever. (L.A.; P.B.)

cat in the pan, turn. To change sides, from self-interest; be a turncoat. Coll.: from—1384; ob. E.g. in Wyclif; Bacon's Essays; an anon. song entitled 'The Vicar of Bray' (ca. 1720); Scott in Old Mortality. Whence cat in (the) pan, a turncoat or traitor. Perhaps ex cake in the pan, i.e. a pancake: which is often turned.

cat jumps, see, occ. watch, how or which way the. To observe the course of events: coll.; from ca. 1820. (Scott; Lytton.) Cf. sit on the fence.

cat-lap. Thin beverage, esp. tea: coll.: from ca. 1780. (Grose, 1st ed.; Scott; Miss Braddon.) Also, C.19–20, applied to milk.

cat-lick (and a promise). Contemporaneous var. of lick and a promise.

cat-market. Many persons all speaking at the one time: coll.; C.19–20.

cat-match. A bowling match in which a dishonest expert is engaged with bad players: late C.17–18 c. B.E.

cat-meat pusher. A street vendor of cooked horse-flesh: Cockney:—1909 (Ware). He sold it from a barrow.

cat-nap. A short sleep had while sitting: coll.; from ca. 1850.

cat-o-nine-tails. A nine-lashed scourge, until 1881 employed in the British army and navy; now historical. Orig., ca. 1670, s.; from ca. 1700, coll.; from ca. 1780, S.E. In Head's The English Rogue; Vanbrugh, in The False Friend, 'You dread reformers of an impious age, / You awful cat-o-nine tails to the stage'; Smollett in Roderick Random.

cat on hot bricks, like a, adj. and adv. Restive(ly); uncomfortable (or -ly): coll.: from ca. 1880. J.S. Winter, 'Lady Mainwaring looked . . . like a cat on hot bricks.'

cat on testy dodge, a. 'A ladylike beggar worrying ladies at their houses for money—if only a sixpence (tester)' (Ware): c. of ca. 1870–1914.

cat out of the bag. See let the cat . . .

cat-party. A party of women only: coll., C.19–20. Also cats' party: sporting (—1888); slightly ob. Cf. bitch- and hen-party, cat-skin. An inferior make of silk hat: 1857, Hughes; ob. by 1900, + by 1920. (OED.) Cf. rabbit-skin.

cat-skinner. Driver of a caterpillar tractor: Can. lumbermen's: since ca. 1930. A blend of caterpillar + mule-skinner.

'No longer restricted to lumbering. Any man who drives a "cat"' (Leechman, April 1947).

cat speak (and a wise man dumb), enough or able to make a. Astounding: coll.: late C.16–20, ob. D'Urfev, 1719, 'Old Liquor able to make a Cat speak'; Dickens elaborates. The man addition appears in 1661, in a form that shows D'Urfev to be repeating a proverb: 'Old liquor able to make a cat speak and a wise man dumb': a proverb implicit in Shakespeare's Tempest, I, ii, 'Open your mouth', etc., and in one—perhaps an earlier—Shirburn Ballad, 'Who is it but loves good liquor? 'Twill make a catte speake.' (Apperson.) cat-stabber. An army clasp-knife; a bayonet: army: early C.20. F. & G.; B. & P. cat-sticks. Thin legs: late C.18–19: coll. (Grose, 1st ed.) ?ex trap-sticks.

Cat Street. St Catherine's Street: Oxford undergraduates': late C.19–20. (Collinson.) Orig. Cat.

cat up. A var. of cat, v.: late C.19–20.

cat-walk. A 'brick-paved pathway, usually one brick (nine inches) wide, laid down across farm fields in Flanders': army: WW1. F. & G.—2. A horizontal 'ladder' whereby the crew of a zeppelin or large rigid dirigible could move from one gondola to another, inside the envelope of the airship. R.S. cites the caption of an illustration in The Wonder Book of Aircraft, 1919.—3. Hence, 'The long plank on bomber aircraft stretching between cockpit and tail' (H. & P.): RAF: since ca. 1938. In this sense, occ. cat's walk; but as cat-walk, post WW2, and with other applications, e.g., a means of walking across a fragile roof, or a gangway at theatrical and mannequin shows, it >, by 1960 at latest, S.E. (P.B.).

cat-whipper. One who 'cries over split milk': Aus.: since ca. 1916. B., 1953. Cf. whip the cat, v.

cat with laughter. To laugh 'fit to burst': low:—1923 (Manchon). See cat, v.

cat-witted. Obstinate and spiteful: coll.: ca. 1660–1930. Contrast the dial. senses: scatter-brained, silly, conceited, whimsical.

catamaran. 'An old scraggy woman' (Grose, 3rd ed.): from not later than 1791. Whence the soon prevailing nuance: a cross-grained person, esp. if a woman; a vixenish old woman: coll. (—1833). Marryat; Thackeray, in The Newcomes, 'What an infernal tartar and catamaran!' ?a corruption of cat o' mountain (as in Fletcher's The Custom of the Country, 1616), which, in US, has, since ca. 1830, meant a shrew.

cataract. A black satin scarf worn by 'commercial' for the surface and effect it offers to jewellery: ca. 1830–70. Ware.

catastrope. The tail, the end. Late C.16—early 19 joc. coll., as in Shakespeare (Falstaff.) 'I'll tickle your catastrophe.' James Joyce uses it in Ulysses, 1922.

catawamp(o)us; occ. catawamptions. Avid; fierce, eager; violently destructive: orig. US; almost imm. anglicised by Dickens in Martin Chuzzlewit. The adv. (-ly) appeared notably in England in Lytton's My Novel, 1853. Perhaps, says W., suggested by catamount.

catawampus. Vermin and insects, esp. the stingers and biters. From ca. 1870; Mortimer Collins, 1880, 'catawampuses, as the ladies call them'. Ex prec.

catch, n. A person matrimonially desirable: coll.; anticipated by Dryden's 'The Gentleman had a great Catch of her, as they say,' and Jane Austen's 'on the catch for a husband', the term > gen. only ca. 1830–45. (SOD.) Moe cites its occurrence in W.N. Glascock, Sailors and Saints, 1829, at II, 145.—2. A prize; a booty: c.: C.17–19.—3. 'A sheep taken by a shearer from his catching pen' (B., 1959): Aus. rural coll.: C.20.

catch, v.i. To become pregnant: coll., mostly lower classes': late C.19–20.—2. To eat a snack or have a drink, hurriedly, between other activities; e.g. 'I just had time to catch a sandwich before rushing off': coll.: later C.20. (P.B.)

catch a cold. 'To get oneself into trouble by being too impetuous' (H. & P.): Services: since ca. 1930. Cf. catch cold; prob. ex the earlier:—2. To 'get the wind up' (become or feel afraid): army: WW1. Ex that chilly feeling.

catch (rarely cut) a crab. In rowing, to mull one's stroke, esp. by jamming the oar in the water as if a crab had caught it: coll.: late C.18–20; after WW1, S.E. Grose, Marryat, Hood.

catch a horse; or go and catch ... To urinate: Aus.: C.20. (B., 1942.) Cf. water one's nag.

catch a Tartar. Unexpectedly to meet one's superior; be hoisted by one's own petard. Late C.17–20; coll. till ca. 1850, then S.E. (Dryden, Smollett, Fanny Burney.) For semantics, see Tartar.

catch afire. To set fire to: Cockney coll.: mid-C.19–20. Edwin Pugh, A Street in Suburbia, 1895, 'It blazed up in the pan an' caught the chimney afire almost.'

catch bang to rights. To catch (a person) doing something he ought not to do: c.: since ca. 1860. Cf. bang to rights. catch bending. To catch (a person) at a disadvantage: joc. coll.: C.20. (P.G. Wodehouse, Psalmist in the City, 1910; Lyell.) Esp. in a c.p., don't let me catch you bending (ob.). A person bending is in a favourable position to be kicked.

catch-bet. A bet made to inveigle the unwary: low coll.; from ca. 1870. H., 5th ed.

catch cocks. To obtain money on false pretences: military c., late C.19–20; ob. Ware, who notes that the vbl n. is cock-catching.

catch cold. I told her if she did not give it me again she would catch cold, meaning she would repent of it' (rather, get into trouble, be 'for it'): 1775. As you will catch cold at that, a c.p. or proverbial form of advice or warning to desist. Grose, 2nd ed.

catch cold by lying in bed barefoot (, e.g. he would). A mid-C.18–early 19 c.p. applied to a person fussy about his health. Grose, 2nd ed.

catch copper. To come to harm: C.16–17; s. > coll. Palsgrave (OED).

catch (one's) death. Elliptical for catch (one's) death of cold, to catch a very bad cold, a severe chill: coll.: since ca. 1870; the shorter version slightly later. G.B. Lancaster, Sons o' Men, 1904.

catch 'em (all) alive-o! A c.p. of ca. 1850–80. Orig. a fisherman's phrase, but by 1853, if not a year or two earlier, it had a tremendous vogue. Its intent was to raise a smile, its meaning almost null.—2. (Gen. without the '-o'.) A fly-paper: from ca. 1855; ob. Mayhew; Dickens in Little Dorrit. P.B.: with the '-o', in J. Milne, Epistles of Atkins, 1902.—3. A small comb (cf. louse-trap): ca. 1860–1910. H., 3rd ed.—4. The female pudend: low: from ca. 1864; ob.—5. A press-ganged recruit: coll.: C.20. A.J. Barker, The Neglected War: Mesopotamia 1914–1918, 1967: 'Not only was it rumoured that strong Turkish reinforcements—albeit "Catch 'em alive-o's", hastily scraped together in Basra with a few obsolete guns—were on their way down the river, but ...'

catch-fake. The doubling of a rope badly coiled: nautical coll.: late C.19–20. (Bowen.) I.e. a faked 'catch'.

catch-fart. A footman or a page: late C.17–19. (B.E., Grose.) Cf. later po-juggler.

catch fish with a silver hook. To buy a fish (or several fish) to 'conceal unskilful angling', as F. & H. delicately say: anglers': C.19–20; ob. Perhaps on the proverbial angle with a silver (or golden) hook, to get things by bribery, or only through paying for them.

catch (one) flatfooted. To catch at a disadvantage: coll.: mid-C.20. Rhodes Farmer, Shanghai Harvest, 1945, 'We were again caught flatfooted, this time by a real bomber. There was no cover' (P.B.).

catch (one's) fleas for. To be very intimate with (of a man with a woman): low coll.: C.19–early 20.

catch hand. A 'casual workman who moves from job to job, esp. at commencement of new jobs, to get more favourable rate and conditions, and who has no intention of staying on one job until the end' (L.A., 1967): urban labourers' coll.: since ca. 1950.

catch it. To be scolded, reprimanded; castigated: coll. An early example occurs in Bill Truck, 1821. Marryat, Jacob Faithful, 1835, 'We all thought Tom was about to catch it'.

catch larks. See sky falls ...

catch me; catch me at it! I'll do no such thing! Coll.: from ca. 1770. Mrs Cowley, Galt, Dickens ('"Catch you at forgetting anything!" exclaimed Carker').

catch meself on, gen. in imperative. V.i., to pull oneself up or together; recover one's common sense: lower classes' coll.: C.20.

catch on. To join on, attach oneself to: coll.: from ca. 1884.—2. To 'take', be a success: from ca. 1886: coll.—3. To understand, grasp the meaning or significance, apprehend: orig. (—1884), US, anglicised ca. 1888: coll.

catch on the fly. To board a train while it is moving: Can., orig. hoboos': C.20. Frederick Niven, Wild Honey, 1927.

catch, occ. get, on the hop. To surprise; find unprepared. From ca. 1861: coll. 'The Chickaleary Cove', a popular song—the famous Vance its singer: 'For to get me on the hop, or on my "tibby" drop, /You must wake up very early in the morning.' A joc. var., from ca. 1880, is on the h.o.p.

catch on the rebound. To get engaged to (a person) after he or she has been refused by another: coll.: from ca. 1908. Ex lawn tennis. (Collinson). Hence to be caught on the rebound, of the jilted or bereaved person, thus to become engaged. See also rebound, on the.

catch on the wheel. To get, to encounter, someone at the best time to give a little much-needed advice, esp. from a senior to a junior, 'as sportsmen say' (Basil Hall, 2nd series, p. 3: 1832): sporting (?or nautical): ?ca. 1790–1860. Origin baffling: ?as they wheel or turn, and can thus be re-directed.

catch out. To detect in a mistake or a misdoing: 1815 (Jane Austen): coll. >, by 1900, S.E. Ex cricket; cf. bowl out. OED Sup.

catch-penny. A penny 'gaff' (show or exhibition); a broad-sheet describing an imaginary murder. Coll.: ca. 1820–1910. Other senses are S.E.

catch the bird. To have a short sleep: nautical: late C.19–20. Bowen.

catch the boat up. To get VD: RN: since ca. 1930.

catch the wind of the word. Quickly to apprehend (cf. catch on): orig. Irish. C.19–20; ob.

catch the zig. To get 'done'; 'buy a pup': C.20 racing c. John Morris: see Slang, p. 243.

catch (a girl) under the pinny. To coit with her: raffish: early C.20.

catch up. To interrupt, 'pull up', correct (a person): from ca. 1840; coll. till ca. 1900, then S.E. Dickens, in Barnaby Rudge, 'You catch me up so very short.'

catch (someone) with his trousers down. See caught with ...

caught. Caught: S.E. >, by 1800, sol.

catchee. Pidgin English for (orig.) catch, as havee for 'have'; hence also 'to get or obtain; to find out; to hold, to win': C.18–20.

catcher. In ball-games, a catcher; esp. knock up a catcher, q.v.: coll.: C.20.

catching flies, n. or predicative adj. (Of persons) gaping foolishly, mouth hanging open, in surprise or witlessness: coll.: C.19–20.

catching harvest. A dangerous time for a robbery on account of congested roads: coll.: C.18–mid-19. A New Canting Dict., 1725.

catching the bird, ppl and n. Cruising in one's car, persuading a girl to go for a drive, finally intercouring with her: Aus. raffish: since ca. 1930. Cf. bird, n., 8.

catchpole rapparee. Early C.18 s. for a constable. See CONSTABLES for other terms.

catchup; catsup. Incorrect, via slovenly pron., for ketchup: the first since ca. 1690, the second since 1730—and still, late C.20, current. OED; W.

catchy. Attractive, esp. if vulgarly so: 1831: coll., as orig. were the senses: soon popular (e.g. of a tune), from ca. 1880, and tricky (as of examination questions), from ca. 1884. But from ca. 1890 all three meanings have been S.E. SOD.—2. Inclined to take an (esp. undue) advantage:—1859 (H., 1st ed.).—3. Spasmodic: coll.: US, 1872; England, 1883. OED.—4. Merry: Scots coll.: 1804, Tarras, OED.

catechi. Catechism(-lesson): Public Schools': late C.19–20. E.F. Benson, David Blaize, 1916.

category. Inferior; second- or third-rate: military coll.: late 1915–18. F. & G., 'This is a category sort of road.' Ex the 1915–18 military j. category man, a man pronounced unfit for front-line service or for very heavy service elsewhere.

Caten (or c-) wheel. A Catherine wheel; a fig. cartwheel: London streets' illiteracy: mid-C.19–20. Augustus Mayhew, Paved with Gold, 1857.

caterpillar. An illicit or an illegal liver-by-his-wits: late C.16–17: orig. c., then s., then almost S.E.—2. Whence, a soldier: mid-C.18–early 19. Grose, 2nd ed.—3. A ladies' school a-walking: Society: 1848; † by 1920. (Ware.) Cf. crocodile, 2, q.v.—4. Habitual drunkard: Aus.: C.20. (B., 1942.) A caterpillar crawls; so does a pub-crawler.

caterwaul, v. To make sexual love: late C.16–20 (ob.): coll. until ca. 1700, then s. The vbl n. caterwauling is more gen. Nashe; Congreve; Smollett, concerning the servant-maids in Humphry Clinker, 'junketting and caterwauling with the fellows of the country'.

catever, n. and adj. (A) queer (affair), (a) bad or inferior (thing). Low and Parlyaree: from ca. 1840. The spelling is various. Ex It. cattivo, bad.

catgut-scraper. A fiddler: late C.17–20; ob.; coll. Ned Ward, Wolcot, Mayhew.

cath. A catheter: medical coll.: C.20. See quot'n at bag, v., 8. Catharine Puritans. (Cambridge) members of St Catharine's Hall: ca. 1860–1914. Punning Gr. καθαίρειν, to purify. Cf. Doves.

Catharine or Catherine wheel, do a. To do a lateral somersault, a 'cart-wheel': coll., ca. 1850–1900.

catharpin fashion. 'When People in Company Drink cross, and not going about from the Right to the Left' (B.E.): drinkers': late C.17–18. Ex Gr. κατὰ πίνειν, to drink. The early form of cat-harping fashion, q.v.

cathedral. A high hat: Winchester Coll., C.19–20.

cathedral, adj. Old-fashioned; antique. Coll.: late C.17–early 19. B.E., Johnson, Grose.

Catherine Hayes. A drink made of claret, sugar, and nutmeg: ca. 1858–1890; Aus. Prob. ex the Irish singer so popular in Australia. Frank Fowler, 1859.

Catherine wheel. See Catharine wheel.

catheter. In pass the catheter, a joc. pedantic form of take the piss, q.v.

Catholic. Incorrectly, by Anglicans, pronounced cartholic ca. 1870–1910. John Gibbons (private letter, 1935). Catholic for Roman Catholic is a catachresis noticed as early as 1676 by Elisha Coles, whose English Dict. has not received the attention it deserves.

catolla, catoller. A noisy fellow, either prating or foolish—or both. Early C.19. Pierce Egan used it of a foolish betting man (1825).

Cat's. (Cambridge) St Catharine's Coll.: since ca. 1870. (Oxford) St Catherine's Society: from 1900—i.e. thirty-two years before the Non-Collegiate Delegacy attained St C. S.—and often as St Cat's. Hence, Cat's man: a member of either college.

cats. Atlantic Seconds: Stock Exchange: ca. 1875–85.—2. As the Cats, the Canadian Auxiliary Territorial Service: mostly Can.: WW2.—3. As the Cats, Geelong VFL footballers: Aus., esp. Melbourne, coll.: C.20.

cats and dogs, rain. See rain cats ...

cat's arse or miaow, the. Can. var. of cat's pyjamas.

cat's breakfast. A very common Scottish and N. Country var. since ca. 1920—of dog's breakfast, a mess.

cat's eyes. Usu. in pl., cat's eyes, 'the pilots to our night-fighter squadrons' (H. & P., 1943). Origin, a journalistic term, it was jocularly adopted by RAF flying-crews; by Jan. 1945, however, it was already ob.—2. (Or hyphenated). Marbles thus coloured: children's coll.: late C.19–20.

cat's face. A 'worker wanted' notice in the window: tailors': C.20. Tailor and Cutter, 29 Nov. 1928.—2. Ace (in cards): rhyming s.: since mid-C.20. Hillman.

cat's foot. See live at the sign ...; under the cat's foot.

cat's got his balls caught in the mangle (again), the. A low c.p. applied to any caterwauling noise: C.20. (L.A., 1976.) cats have nine lives and (or but) women ten cats' lives. A mid-C.18–mid-19 c.p. Grose.

cat's head. The end of a shoulder of mutton: Winchester Coll., from ca. 1830; ob. Cf. dispar, q.v.

cat's head cut open. Pudendum muliebrie: low: C.20.

cat's meat. The human lungs: low coll.: from ca. 1820. (Egan's Grose.) Ex the 'lights' of animals, a favourite food of cats.—2. 'Small pieces of mutton and bacon ... skewered on a stick and boiled', Pettman defining bobbetjes: S. African (—1913).

cat's mother, the. A c.p. reply to 'Who are you?': C.20. Repressive of impertinent curiosity. (Petch, 1969). Perhaps ex the old reproof "'She'" is the cat's mother', q.v.

cat's nouns! An early C.18 minced oath = God's wounds. See EJACULATIONS, in Appendix, for others.

cats of nine tails of all prices, he has. A late C.18–early 19 low c.p. applied to the hangman. Grose, 3rd ed. (at cart).

cat's party. See cat-party.

cat's paw. A dupe: late C.18–20; coll. until ca. 1820, then S.E. Cat's foot was so used a century earlier.

cat's pyjamas, the. Anything very good, attractive, etc.: American (—1920) anglicised by 1923; ob. in UK by ca. 1939, but still, in 1965 anyway, 'far from dead in Australia' (B.P.). Cf. the bee's knees.

cats' tails. See catstails.

cat's walk. See cat-walk, 3.

cat's water. Gin: low: mid-C.19–20. (H., 1st ed.) Cf. bitches' wine and esp. the semantic determinant, old Tom.

cat's whisker. A thin wire for establishing contact on a crystal (wireless) set: from ca. 1920; ob.

cat's whiskers, the. A var. of the cat's pyjamas (see above): 1927, Dorothy L. Sayers in Unnatural Death; by 1970s poss. ob., but by no means quite dead. B.P.'s comment re cat's pyjamas, that in 1965 it was 'far from dead in Australia' applies to this expression as well.

catskin. See cat-skin.

Catskin Earls. The three senior earls in the House of Lords: Parliamentary; from ca. 1860. The etymology is obscure: see F. & H.

catso. The male member: C.17–early 18. Also, same period, a scamp, rogue, 'cullion'. The former sense, recorded in 1702, precedes the other by six years. Also an exclam. with later form gadso. Ex the It. cazzo, the membrum virile, the word has, in its different senses, several very English parallels.

catsoo'd. Drunk (1915–18); ex catsoos, a drink of beer at an estaminet (WW1), the price—in the early days of the War—being quatre sous, approximately 2d. F. & G.

catstails all hot. It is perilous to say "he's a poet" to a Cockney lest he "come out with" the time-honoured riposte "but he doesn't know it", and one runs a grave risk in saying "What?" forcibly of being assailed with "Catstails all hot" (W. Matthews, Cockney Past and Present, 1938).

catsup. Like catchup, q.v., incorrect for ketchup.

cattie or catty, n. A catapult: schoolchildren's: late C.19–20.

catting, vbl n. Practising the practical joke known as whipping the cat, q.v. at whip the cat: coll.: late C.17–19.—2. A vomiting: low: C.19–20. Cf. shoot the cat.—3. Running after harlots and near-harlots: coll.: late C.17–early 19. See cat, n. 1.

cattle, a pej. fairly strong in C.16–18, fairly mild (as in kittle cat = women) in C.19–20, applied to human beings: Gosson, 1579, 'Poets, and Pipers, and suche peevish Cattel'; Shakespeare, in As You Like It, of boys and women; Evelyn,

'concubines, and cattell of that sort'; G.R. Sims, in The Dagonet Ballads, 'Queer cattle is women to deal with.' Strictly, S.E.; but the contemptuous usage makes the term analogous to coll. It is the etymological kinship with chattels which prompted—perhaps rather it determined—the contempt. Note, too, that in the late C.17–early 18, the word was wholly coll. in the sense recorded by B.E.: 'Cattle, Whores. Sad Cattle, Impudent Lewd Women', with which cf. Evelyn's phrase, preceded as it is by a ref. to 'Nelly', i.e. Nell Gwynn. In C.18–early 19, sad cattle also meant gipsies, while in c. black cattle = lice; in C.19 low coll., small cattle = vermin, lice (Baumann).—2. See spring (one's) cattle.

cattle, v. To coit with: low Cockney: C.20. Cf. bull, v., 1, but see cattle truck, v.

cattle(-)banger. A cattle-station hand; a milker: Aus.: since ca. 1910. (B., 1942.) Cf. stockbanger.

cattle boat, came over with the. See came over...

cattle-racket. A system of plunder: Aus. coll.: ca. 1850–1900. Ex a wholesale plunder in cattle in New South Wales, app. in the 1840s. Morris.

Cattle Reavers, the. Nickname for The Border Regiment: 'From the reavers' old custom of "rustling" or reaving cattle across the Scottish border, from which area the Regiment was recruited' (Carew).

cattle truck, n. A one-man, i.e. driver only, bus. (Heard on radio, on 23 Nov. 1973. L.A.) cattle truck, v.; since ca. 1945, always shortened to cattle. To copulate with, also fig.: (esp. racing): rhyming, s.: C.20. (Franklyn 2nd.) On fuck. 'The favourite was well catted when he fell at the last fence.'

cattley man. A cattleman: Aus. coll.: since ca. 1880. Archer Russell, A Tramp Royal in Wild Australia, 1934.

Catts or Catt's is a mere var. of Cat's.

catty. Spiteful and sly: gen. of women: from ca. 1885: coll. >, by 1910, S.E. Cattish, S.E. in the same sense, occurs a few years earlier. SOD.—2. Agile, smart; skilfully careful: Can. (esp. lumbermen's) coll.: C.20. John Beames.

caucus as a pej. was, at first (say 1878–90), so close to being coll. as makes no difference. Its other senses, ex the US, have always been S.E. For this interesting and significant word see esp. the OED, Thornton, Weekley, SOD.

caudge-pawed. Left-handed: coll. and dial.: mid-C.17–20; ob. (B.E., Grose.) Cf. cack-, car- and caw-handed, also lefty and maul(e)y. See esp. maps 119 and 119A in Orton & Wright, A Word Geography of England, 1974, for the distribution of these, and many other, terms for left-handedness.

caudle of hemp-seed, or hempen caudle. Hanging: joc. coll.: late C.16–early 17. The latter in Shakespeare.

caught short. Experiencing the onset of menstruation when no pads or tampons are available: feminine coll., esp. in Aus.: since middle 1930s. On analogy of taken short, but also of being embarrassed by untimely lack of, e.g., money (esp., formerly, 'a shilling for the gas-meter'), candles, contraceptives, petrol, tea-bags...

caught with (one's) trousers down. Taken unawares; unready: Services', since ca. 1920; gen. since ca. 1940; since ca. 1930, more commonly with the ex US var. ... pants down. To the sense of 'totally unprepared' has been added the nuance 'caught in an undignified position and without excuse'. The var. gave rise to the WW2 abbr. caught p.d. (H. & P.; L.A., 1976). Cf. stand on one leg, q.v.

Cauldron, the. 'a notorious journalistic mistranslation of standard Ger. "Kesselschlacht", a battle of encirclement; although ... "Kessel" does mean a cauldron, in hunting "kesseltreiben" means driving game into an enclosed killing-ground' (R.S., 1967): the term was applied to part of the N. African, WW2, battlefield known as Knightsbridge.

cauli. Cauliflower: coll.: late C.19–20. W.L. George, A Bed of Roses, 1911.

cauliflower. A clerical wig modish temp. Queen Anne; hence, v.i. and t., to powder a wig: both soon t.—2. Whence, 'any one who wears powder on his head' (Bee): ca.

1820–40.—3. The female pudend: C.18–19. See Grose (1st ed.) for a witty, broad, and improbable origin.—4. The foaming top to (e.g. a tankard of) beer: from ca. 1870, ob. Ex Scots, where recorded as early as 1813: EDD. Contrast the Fr. un bock sans faux-col.—5. A goods-engine drawing wagons laden with cauliflowers and other greenstuff that had come from the Channel Islands: railwaymen's: late C.19–early 20.—6. A locomotive with a crested front: railwaymen's: since ca. 1910. Railway.—7. Short for cauliflower ear: coll.: from ca. 1925.

Cauliflower Alley; Tin-Ear Alley. The boxing world: boxing journalists': since ca. 1935.

cauliflowered and mashed. A c.p. description of a boxer's face: since the 1930s. Cauliflower ears and mashed nose.

cauliflower top. An upper deck full of passengers: busmen's (esp. London): since ca. 1935.

Cauliflowers, the. The 47th Regt. of Foot, from 1881 the 1st Battalion The Loyal North Lancashire Regt. 'When the 47th was first formed, white facings were rare on uniforms: the facings of the 47th were white, and for this reason they became known as "The Cauliflowers"' (Carew). They were known also as the Lancashire Lads.

caulk or caulking. A (short) sleep: nautical: since very early C.19. The Night Watch, 1828, at II, 117: 'Wrapped up in a pea-jacket for a caulk in the waist [of the ship]' (Moe). Perhaps ex.—2. A dram: nautical: from ca. 1800. Semantics: 'something to keep out the wet' or 'the damp'.

caulk, v. To sleep, esp. if surreptitiously: nautical: since early C.19. Alfred Burton, Johnny Newcome, 1818; W.N. Glascock, Land Sharks, 1838, has 'Caulking—napping on deck. (Moe.) Peppitt cites the var. sense 'to snore', from F.W. Mant, The Midshipman, 1876, where it is spelt cork. Cf. n., 1.—2. V.t., to cease, 'shut up': nautical: since ca. 1880. W. Clark Russell (OED). Ex the lit. sense.—3. To copulate with: nautical: since ca. 1840. Cf. the M.E. cauk, (of birds) to tread, ex L. calcare—[but cf. also stuff, v., 4. P.B.] A C.20 elab. was caulk a few seams.

caulk my dead-lights! Damnation: nautical:—1887 (Baumann). Cf. damn my eyes!

caulk off. A mostly Can. var. of caulk, to sleep: C.20. (Leechman.)

caulk up. To stamp, with one's spiked boots, on (a man): among Can. lumbermen (playful little fellows): C.20. John Beames.

caulker; occ. misspelt cawker. Nautical: a dram: from ca. 1805; e.g. in Charles Kingsley. It has, in C.20 Aus., the nuance 'a stiff brandy to end an evening's potations' (B., 1943). Cf. caulk, n., 2, and perhaps v., 1.—2. Anything incredible; esp. a lie: from ca. 1860. (H., 3rd ed.; Clark Russell's Jack's Courtship.) Perhaps influenced by corker. Cf. crammer: OED.—3. 'A stranger, a novice' (Spy, 1825): Eton: ca. 1815–60. Spy spells it cawker.—4. 'A greatcoat or blanket for sleeping on deck during a "make and mend"' Granville: RN: late C.19–20. Ex caulk, n., 1, and v., 1.

caulks to (someone), put the. To stamp on his face with spiked boots. See caulk up and logger's smallpox.

cause. 'A particular local organization, enterprise, mission, or church' (OED): religious coll. (—1893) >, ca. 1920, S.E. Ex make common cause (with).

'cause. Because. In mid-C.16–early 17, S.E.; ca. 1640–1780, coll.; thereafter, sol. (and dial.).

cause it. To cause trouble to, to damage something, as, e.g., drilling a hole in the kitchen wall, hitting the cable and putting all the lights out: 'O Lor! That's caused it!': since late 1940s. (P.B., 1974.)

'cause why? or I Why; the reason why; the reason. In C.14–16, S.E.; 17–18 coll.; 19–20 dial. and, elsewhere, increasingly sol. As for 'cause alone, the pron., as a sol., varies from caws through coz and cuz, to even case.

causey, causy; cawsey, cawsy. Latrines: low: late C.19–20. Brendan Behan, Borstal Boy, 1958 (causy). Ex one or other of the secondary meanings of dial. causey, causeway, highway, street, perhaps influenced by c. carsey.

caustic. An acoustic mine: RN: WW2. It exploded when the ship's engines synchronised with the beat of the mine's clock' (Granville). By Hobson-Jobson, but also perhaps ex:—2 (Old) Caustic: 'Nickname for a surly or querulous type of man' (Ibid.): RN: C.20.

caution. A person or a thing wonderful, unusual, or esp., odd, eccentric: coll.: anglicised by Whyte-Melville in 1853 (Digby Grand; again in Good for Nothing) ex US (—1835). I.e., one with whom caution should be employed.—2. Hence, at Oxford, from 1865, a 'cure', a 'character'; and this has, in England, been the predominant usage, likewise coll.; by ca. 1950, slightly ob., but in earlier C.20 very common, esp. as 'a proper caution'.—3. Hence also, since ca. 1880, a person mildly bad. E.g. 'Dad's a bit of a caution when he's had too much to drink'. The comment on sense 1 applies again.

caution to snakes, a. (Something) very surprising, odd, eccentric, or unusual: 1897, 'Pomes' Marshall, 'Her Sunday best was her week-day worst,' 'Twas simply a caution to snakes'; ob. Cf. caution (q.v.), which, prob., it merely elaborates.

Cav and Pag. Radio Times, 16 Apr. 1976, "'Cav" was first performed in 1890, and "Pag" two years later', Cav being the opera Cavalleria Rusticana and Pag, Pagliacci: musical circles': C.20. (P.B.).

Cavalier; Roundhead. (Usu. in pl.) A male uncircumcised; circumcised: schoolboys' and RN: C.20—and prob. earlier. L.A. notes that Katharine Whitehorn was prob. the first to get it into reputable print.

cavalier, v. To play the cavalier, escort a lady: coll. >, by 1890, S.E.; ca. 1860–1910.

cavalry. A very French moustache: army:—1923 (Manchon).—2. Army muleteers in WW1. See dirty face.

cavalry are coming, or are here, the. Help is coming, or has arrived: c.p.: late C.19–20. Ex the lit. military sense.—Cf. the American c.p., the marines have landed, occ. completed with and the situation is well in hand: C.20.

cavalry curate. A curate that, in a large parish, rides a horse in the discharge of his duties: from early 1890s: coll. >, by 1920, S.E.; by ca. 1950, at latest, †—killed by the motor-car or -cycle. OED Sup.

cavaulting, cavolting. Sexual intercourse: c. or low s.: C.17–early 19. Whence cavaulting-school, a brothel: late C.17–early 19 (B.E.). Ex Lingua Franca cavolta, riding and 'horsing', q.v.; ex Low L. caballus, a horse. Cf. cavorting.

cave. (Political) a small group of politicians seceding, on some special bill or cause, from their party; the secession: 1866. (Cf. Adullamites.) Orig. cave of Adullam—see 1 Samuel 22: 1–2.—2. Coll. abbr. Cavalier: ca. 1647–81. A. Brome, in Songs, 1661.

cave, v.i. See cave in, 1.

cave! (pron. kay-tee) Beware! schoolboys, and later, girls; perhaps orig. at Eton: since (?)ca. 1750. Direct ex the L. word. Hence keep cave, to keep watch in order to warn of impending peril, e.g., from an approaching master. (E.P.; P.B.)

cave-board. A creaky board or stair-step: Public Schools': since ca. 1880. Ronald Knox, Double Cross Purposes, 1937. Ex prec.

cave-dwellers. Brutal atavists: Society coll.: 1890; ob. (Ware.) Cf. cave-man, q.v.

cave in, v.i. To yield, esp. when further opposition is futile or impossible; occ. cave. With in, coll.; without, s. Anglicised ca. 1855 ex US (—1840) ex East Anglian dial., as is the v.t., to break down, smash, bash in: anglicised ca. 1885; but cf. the S.E. cave (C.16–20), to hollow (out), and cave in, to subside concavely (late C.18–20)—2. (Political) to form a 'cave', a cabal: ca. 1880–1900.

cave-man. A 'he-man', a rough and virile fellow: coll.: from ca. 1895. Hence cave-man stuff, rough treatment: C.20. Cf. sheik, q.v.

cave of antiquity. 'Dépôt of old authors' (Egan's Grose): Oxford University: ca. 1820–40. More prob., Cave of Antiquity, the Bodleian Library.

cave out. (Gen. ppl adj., caved out.) To come to an end, be finished: coll. anglicised (—1909) ex US. 'From the metal ceasing in a tunnel' (Ware).

caves is the Winchester Coll. pron. of calves (of the legs). Wrench.

cavey. See cavy, 1.

caviar(e). The obnoxious matter 'blacked out' of foreign periodicals by the Russian Press Censor: from ca. 1888. St James's Gazette, 25 Apr. 1890, uses caviar(e) as a v.t. In Tsarist days, irreligious or socialistic matter; temp. Soviet, powerfully religious or insidiously capitalistic opinions. The word, a good example of literary s., is ob.

cavish. See cavy.

cavity gremlin. A mole-like gremlin that digs large holes just before and where the pilot is about to land: RAF: 1940–5. P-G-R.

cavolting. See cavaulting.

cavort. To prance (of horses); make a horse prance. Hence, to frisk, lit. and fig. Anglicised ca. 1900 ex (—1834) US; coll.—rather low coll.—after ca. 1918. 'Perhaps cowboy perversion of cuvoet' (W.).

cavy, cavey. A Cavalier: coll.: ca. 1645–70 (OED). Whence adj., cavish, 1664.—2. A caged rabbit; rabbit fanciers': mid-C.19–20. (Josephine Bell, Death on the Borough Council, 1937.) A corruption of cag(e)y. R.S., 1967, suggested that the corruption may have been in part due to S.E. cavy, a kind of guinea-pig.

caw-handed, late C.17–20 (B.E.); caw-pawed, late C.18–20; both ob. Awkward. In dial., caw is a fool, whence caw-baby, an awkward or timid boy (EDD). Cf. caudge-pawed, q.v., and the Scottish border dial. car-pawed, left-handed (op. cit. at caudge-p.). cawbawn or cobbon. Big, large: Aus. (mostly Queensland) coll.: from ca. 1860; ob. (B. & L.) Ex Aboriginal.

cawfin. A badly found ship: marine: 1876, the date at which Samuel Plimsoll (d. 1898) finally got 'the Plimsoll line' incorporated in law; ob. A corruption, or rather a Cockney pron., of coffin.

cawker. See caulker.

cawsey, cawsy. See causey.

caxon, caxton and Caxton, (theatrical) a wig, C.19–20, ob., is perhaps a corruption, after Caxton the printer's name, of † caxon, which = an old weather-beaten wig, says Grose (1st ed.), but 'a kind of wig', says SOD; the latter gives it as S.E.—as prob. it was.

caz, in C.19 c., is cheese. As good as caz, easy to do, a 'sure thing'. Vaux. Cf. (the) cheese.—2. An easy dupe: c.: mid-C.19–early 20. Ibid.

caze. The female pudend: low: C.19–early 20.

cazo. A Service casualty: Aus. Servicemen's: 1939–45. (B., 1943.) That is, casualty + the Aus. -o.

cedar. In late C.19–20 c., a pencil. Obviously ex the wood of that tree. Cf. East Anglian cedar-pencil, a lead pencil (EDD).—2. A pair-oared boat, canvasless, in-rigged, easily upset: Eton, C.19–20, ob.—3. A simpleton, a dupe: Aus.: since ca. 1930. B., 1953, adduces the synon. log and mahogany and (someone) carved out of wood.

cee. A small quantity of beer: C.17–18, university s. > S.E. Cf. cue, q.v.

celebrate, v.i. To drink in honour of an event or celebration; hence, to drink joyously: C.20; coll. Ex S.E. celebrate (e.g. an occasion).

Celestial. A Chinese: from ca. 1860: coll.; by 1880, S.E.—if joc., for otherwise the word is pure journalese, which has been described as 'not the language written by journalists but that spoken by politicians'.—2. A joc. coll. applied to a turned-up nose: from ca. 1865. It points to heaven. Cf. star-gazer, q.v.—3. See Celestials, 2. celestial poultry. Angels: low coll.: from ca. 1870; virtually † by 1930.

Celestials. The 97th Regiment of Foot, which in 1881 became the West Kents: military: from ca. 1830. Ex its sky-blue facings.—2. (Rare in singular; celestials.) Occupants of the gallery: 1884 (Rejere, 5 Oct.); ob. (Ware.) On the gods.

cellar-flap. A dance performed within a very small compass: low coll. (—1877); ob. Prob. short for 'tap dance': therefore rhyming s. Cf.:—2. To borrow: C.20. Rhyming on tap, and often shortened to cellar.

cellarous. Of, in, belonging or natural to a cellar. The joc. intention of Dickens's word—in The Uncommercial Traveller, 1860—makes it a coll., which, since it has not been seriously adopted, it remains.

cellars. Boots: London streets':—1909; ob. (Ware.) Opp. garret, the head.

cellier. An unmitigated lie: ca. 1681–1710; coll. Ex the impudently mendacious Mrs Elizabeth Cellier of the Meal Tub Plot, 1680. In The Pope's Harbinger, 1682, 'a modern and most proper phrase to signifie any Egregious Lye'. See, e.g., the anon. pamphlet The Tryal and Sentences of Elizabeth Cellier, for Writing . . . A Scandalous Libel Called Malice Defeated, 1680.

cello. Abbr. violoncello: from ca. 1880. Coll. >, by 1910, S.E. celly. Cell-mate: prisoners'. Clement & La Frenais, A Further Stir of Porridge, 1977.

cement. Kaolin mixture, or any other cure for diarrhoea: (?mainly) Aus.: later C.20. (Mrs Camilla Raab, 1982.)

cement-mixer; esp., have a cement-mixer, 'to have a ball or dance' (Anderson): beatniks': since ca. 1959.

cements. Stock Exchange shares: since ca. 1935. 'Often jocularly, as "Cements are hardening"' (Petch, 1946). Stock Exchange j. 'to harden' originated the term.

cemetery (or C-), the. The Dogger Bank: fishermen's coll.: C.19—early 20. (Bowen.) So many 'come to grief there every winter'.

ensor. A blue-pencilled comma that should be a semicolon: journalists' and printers' since ca. 1915.

cent per cent. A usurer: coll.: C.17–19. Cf. sixty per cent.

Centipedes, the. The 100th Foot Regiment: military: late C.19–20. (Ware.) Ex the insect.

centipees. A tailor of soldiers' clothing: late C.18–19. See sank.

centrals (or C-). Shares in the New York Central Railroad: Stock Exchange coll.:—1895 (A.J. Wilson, Stock Exchange Glossary).

Centre, the. Orig. half j., half c., it has, since ca. 1925, been j. for the organisation that sent girls and women out to the Argentine to become courtesans or prostitutes. Londres, 1928.

centre man, the. A syn. of boxer, the organiser and arbitrator of a two-up game: Aus.: C.20. B., 1959. See boxer, 1.

centre of bliss. The female pudend: coll. verging on S.E.: since ca. 1790.

centurion. One who scores 100 or over: cricketers' coll.: from ca. 1885; ob. Graphic, 31 July 1886.

century. £100: the turf: from ca. 1860. Cf. Can. railroadmen's (—1931) a hundred-dollar bill, a sense adopted from US c. See esp. Underworld.—2. 100 runs or more: from ca. 1880: coll. >, by 1900, S.E. Graphic, 11 Aug. 1883.

'cept. Except: low, when not childish, coll.: C.19–20. Baumann. (Also in dial.)

cert. Abbr. certainty: from mid-1880s (still mainly sporting): s. >, by 1915, coll. Often a dead cert. The Man of the World, 29 June 1889, 'Pioneer is a cert. for the St James's.'

Cert or Certif, the Higher (School) and the School. The Higher School Certificate; the (lower) School Certificate: C.20; rendered ob., in 1951, by the introduction of 'O' and 'A' (Ordinary and Advanced) levels to replace them: Cert, mostly Public Schools'; Certif mostly other schools', and teachers'. certain sure, for. Absolutely; with certainty; unhesitatingly: (rather illiterate) coll.: mid-C.19–20. Dorothy L. Sayers, Have His Carcase, 1932, 'We're all agreed, for certain sure, as deceased come to his death by cutting of his throat.'

certainty. (Gen. in pl.) A male infant: printers': from ca. 1860. Cf. uncertainty.

certified. Certified as insane: C.20: coll. rather than euph.

Ironically as a virtual c.p., time you were certified, to a person acting the fool or having been exceptionally stupid.

Ces, the. The Cesarewitch, run in mid-October: sporting coll.: late C.19–20.

cess. In S. African coll. (from ca. 1860), 'an expression of disgust in common use, occasionally elaborated into "pooh-ga-ciss"' (Pettman). Ex Cape Dutch sis or sies employed in the same way.—2. 'Extreme rails of track' (Railway, 2nd): railwaymen's: since ca. 1930 (?). Origin? Perhaps excess.—3. See bad cess; good cess.

c'est la guerre! A military c.p. by way of excuse, apology: 1915–18. Anon., C'est la Guerre: Fragments from a War Diary, 1930. Ex the Fr. explanation ('It's the war, don't you know!') of any deficiency. See DCpp.

Chad. The British Services' counterpart of Kilroy... is known variously as Chad, Flywheel, Clem, Private Snoops, the Jeep, or just Phoo. His chalked-up picture is always accompanied by the theme song: "What no...?" (a newspaper cutting, 17 Nov. 1945). The 'picture', a rudimentary cartoon, showed the semicircular top of a head above the top of a brick wall, its single strand of hair in the form of a question-mark, its eyes mere crosses, and a nose drooping over the edge of the wall-top; sometimes a hand clutched the wall-top on each side of the 'head'. (Mr Chad was mostly RAF and civilian usage; in the army he was Private Snoops and, in the RN, The Watcher. See also Kilroy was here. (P.B.) chafe, v. t. To trash: from ca. 1670; ob. Prob. orig. c. (Coles, 1676; B.E.) Cf. Fr. chauffer and (to) warm.

chafe-litter. In mid-C.16—early 17 c., a saucy fellow; cf. bawd physio.

chafer, v. To copulate: low coll.: C.19—early 20. For etym., cf. chawering.

chaff, n. Banter, ridicule; humbug: coll. Clearly in The Fancy, vol. I, 1821, but perhaps anticipated in 1648. For etym., see chaff, v.—2. (Christ's Hospital) a small article: from ca. 1860. Perhaps ex chauffer, haggling, influenced by chattel.—3. Money: low Aus.: C.20. Kylie Tennant, Foveaux, 1939, 'He—a barrowman—gave money its rightful designation of "chaff", "sugar" or "hay".'

chaff, v. To banter, lightly rail at or rally, 'quiz'. SOD dates at 1827, but cf. chaffing-crib and F. & H.'s extremely significant C.17 example from the anon. ballad entitled 'The Downfall of Charing Cross': like the n., it > gen. only ca. 1830. Prob. ex chafe, to gall, fret, irritate. It occurs in Boxiana, III, 1821, rather in the sense 'to rebuke': 'Wood... was severely chaffing Randall for interference'. Perhaps by confusion with S.E. chide.—2. Cf. the c. sense of ca. 1820–50: 'to blow up [i.e. to boast]; to talk aloud', Egan's Grose, 1823.—3. (Christ's Hospital) v.t., to exchange, esp. small articles. From ca. 1860. W.H. Blanch, Blue Coat Boys, 1877.

chaff, adj. Pleasant; glad: Christ's Hospital (School), from ca. 1865. Occ. chaffy, q.v.

chaff! Interjection indicative of pleasure, joy. Christ's Hospital, from ca. 1865.

chaff-cutter. A slanderer: c. of ca. 1840–90. Ex:—2. A knowing and plausibly talkative person: c.:—1823; † by 1860. (Egan's Grose.) Cf. chaff, v., 2.—3. A typewriter: Aus.: since ca. 1920. (B., 1942.) Ex the noise it makes.

chaffer. A banterer; a joker at the expense of others: coll.: since early C.19. It occurs in, e.g., Boxiana, III, 1821; in 'Idyl' in Blackwood's, July 1823; and Mayhew has 'She was... the best chaffer on the road; not one of them could stand up against her tongue.'—2. The mouth, or throat: early C.19 s. In Boxiana, III, 1821: 'Cool their chaffer with a drop of heavy wet'; David Carey, in Life in Paris, 1822: 'For there you may damp your chaffer in fifty different ways.'?Etym.—3. An Arctic whale, an Arctic grampus: nautical coll.: mid-C.19–20 (Bowen). Ex Shetlands chaffer, the round-lipped whale.

chaffing-crib. A man's 'den'; the room where he receives his intimates. (Moncrieff in Tom and Jerry, 1821.) Low coll.; † by 1900.

chaffy. Full of banter, ridicule, or badinage: mid-C.19–20; coll. >, by 1890, S.E.; rare.—2. '... Slang current sixty years ago when I was a boy at Christ's Hospital: a slap on the face was a fotch, bread a krug and butter flab. A fag was a swab. Chaffy meant pleased—"I'm awfully chaffy"' (A.B.S. in correspondence columns of Sunday Times, 8 Sept. 1963). Cf. chuffed.

chaft. 'Chafed': see chafe.

chai. Tea. In C.17, among merchants and in middle-class society, chai was occ. used in England; in C.19, revived among soldiers as char, it > s. Ex Chinese. See also char, n., 2.—2. A girl: Romany, heard occ. among tramps, mid-C.19–20. Sometimes spelt chy.

chain and crank. A (financial) bank: rhyming s.: C.20. Cf. rattle and crank.

chain and lock. Pocket: rhyming s.: early C.20. Recorded in an article by W.McG. Eagar in Contemporary Review, 1922.

chain-breaker. An under-vest or singlet: military: from ca. 1920. Formerly, those men taking part, as principals, in a strong-man act, wore only a vest and shorts.

chain-gang, the. Jewellers; watch-chain makers: c.; from ca. 1860; ob.—2. 'A special set of stewards to help cope with a spate of passengers': nautical: C.20. (Bowen.) Punning a convicts' chain-gang.—3. Those waiters who, not on saloon duty, perform the odd jobs: passenger ships': Dave Marlowe, 1937.—4. The Lord Mayor and Mayoress of London: late C.19–20. Ex their chains of office. (L.A., 1976.)—5. Married men: joc., in, e.g., public houses: prob. since ca. 1920. I first heard it during the 1930s.—6. A bus-running inspector: busmen's: esp. London: since ca. 1930.—7. Aircrafthands, General Duties: RAF: since ca. 1930. Partridge, 1945: 'the RAF's maids of all work'.

chain-lightning. Potato-spirit: lower London: 1885, Daily News, 22 Dec.; † by 1920. In US as early as 1843 of any raw whiskey. Ex its effect: 'poisonous to a degree. Smuggled chiefly' (Ware).

Chain-Locker, the. The old Board of Trade office close to the Tower: C.19.—2. The Registry-General of Shipping: C.20. Both nautical. Bowen.

chain-smoke, v.i. To smoke (esp. cigarettes) incessantly: C.20: coll. >, by 1935, S.E. Ex S.E. chain-smoker.

chain up! 'Shut up!': low:—1923 (Manchon). Ex chain up that dog!

chain up a pup. To get drinks on credit from a hotel: Aus. See tie up a dog.

Chainy Tenth, the. The 10th Royal Hussars (amalgamated with the 11th Hussars in 1970 to form The Royal Hussars (Prince of Wales Own)). The officers of the 10th Hussars have always [since 1820] worn a unique pouch-belt decorated with chain mail, and for this reason they were known as "The Chainy Tenth". The magnificence of their accoutrements on Parade earned them yet another nickname—"The Shiny Tenth" (Carew).

chair. A motorcycle sidecar: motorcyclists': since ca. 1950. (Dunford.)—2. As the chair, electric chair (for criminals): coll.: US, anglicised by 1931. COD, 1934 Sup.

chair-borne divisions, the. Those members of the Services who work in offices: mostly RAF: since 1942. Ironically, ex Airborne Divisions. Also called chair-borne types or forces.

chair-bottomer. A cane-plaiter of chair-bottoms: proletarian coll. (—1887) >, by 1920, S.E. Baumann.

chair days. Old age: Society coll.: 1898, Sir E. Arnold; virtually †. Ware.

chair-marking. To write, not figure, the date in, or heavily to endorse, a cab-driver's licence, as a hint of the holder's undesirability: cab-owners', from ca. 1885. (Pall Mall Gazette, 15 Sep. 1890.) Later, among taxi-drivers, an illicit marking of their licences by their employers. Herbert Hodge, Cab, Sir?, 1939.

chair-warmer. A physically attractive woman 'who does nothing on the stage beyond helping to fill it' (Ware): theatrical: C.20; ob.

chairs, have (got) all (one's). To be 'all there'—sane and alert: only since (I think) ca. 1960. Mr A.B. Petch tells me that he heard it used in an ITV comedy, Dec. 1975. Semantics: all one's 'bits and pieces' of furniture. Cf. synon. have all (one's) change.

chal. A man, fellow, chap (the feminine is chai, chie): Romany; in C.19–20 used occ. in low coll. Its ultimate origin is unknown: see esp. Sampson at čal. Cf. pal, much more gen.

chal droch. A knife: Shelta: C.18–20. B. & L.

C(h)aldee, C(h)aldese. To trick, cheat, impose upon. Butler, 'He... Chows'd and Caldes'd you like a blockhead', Huadibras, II. Ca. 1660–1720; coll. ?ex Chaldee(s)=an astrologer.

Chalfonts, the. Haemorrhoids: abbr. rhyming s., on Chalfont St Giles=piles: later C.20. (Red Daniells, 1980.) Cf. synon. Farmer Giles; Seven Dials.

chalk, n. A point in one's favour: coll., from ca. 1850, ex the S.E. sense of a score chalked up in an ale-house. Edmund Yates, 1864.—2. A scratch, more gen. a scar: nautical, ca. 1830–1915. Marryat in Poor Jack.—3. A body of troops being transported by air: military coll. > j.: since WW2. Orig. from the use of blackboard and chalk numbers to list the various parties and their aircraft, hence chalk number, and chalk commander, the officer in charge of a party or the whole body.—4. See by a long chalk.

chalk, v. To make (a newcomer) pay his footing: nautical, ca. 1840–1900.—2. In C.18–19 c., to strike or slash, esp. a person's face. Cf. chalk, 2, q.v.—3. See chalk off, chalk up.—4. In imperative=silence!: tailors': mid-C.19–20. (B. & L.) Cf. chalk your pull!

chalk, adj. Unknown; hence, incompetent. Whence chalk-jockeys, jockeys unknown or incompetent or both. Racing: since ca. 1870. 'From the practice at race-meetings of keeping blank slides at the telegraph board on which the names of new jockeys can be inscribed in chalk, while the names of well-known men are usually painted or printed in permanent characters... The public argued that [the latter] were incompetent, being unknown' (F. & H).

chalk against, n. and v. (To have) 'an unsettled misunderstanding or grudge' (Ware): lower classes': mid-C.19–20; ob. Ex chalking a debt against a name.

chalk and talk; also chalk-and-talk. A school-teacher: Aus.: since ca. 1920. (B., 1942.) In UK, in the 1970s, the phrase has come to be slightly derogatory, 'mere chalk-and-talk', of 'old-fashioned' teaching methods, i.e. those not using visual aids, language laboratories and all the rest of the 'educational technology'. (P.B.)

chalk down. See chalk out.

Chalk Farm. An arm: rhyming s.:—1857; by late 1920s, ob., and by 1960, virtually †. ('Ducange Anglicus', 1st ed.) In WW1, the Tommies preferred false alarm.

chalk head. A person smart at figures: coll., from ca. 1850. Punch, 1856.—2. Hence, a waiter, rarely so called outside of London. Punch, 1861.

chalk is up (one's). One's credit is exhausted: public-house coll. (—1887); ob. Ex chalk up.

chalk it up! Just look at that!: coll. (—1923). Manchon ('Regarde-moi ça!'). In later C.20 often accompanied by a gesture as of chalking a figure 1 on a wall. See also challik it oop!

chalk jockey. See chalk, adj.

chalk marquis. A sham marquis: lower classes':—1909; very ob. Ware, 'Never applied to any other title than this. [Prob. ex] some forgotten pun or play upon a name.' See chalk, adj.

chalk off, v.t. To 'observe a person attentively so as to remember him': c.:—1857; † by 1920. 'Ducange Anglicus', 1st ed.—2. (Gen. in passive.) To rebuke: Glasgow:—1934.

chalk out, occ. down. To mark out a course of action or conduct: from ca. 1570. Coll. in C.16, thereafter S.E. (Contrast H. with F. & H. and with SOD.)

chalk up, occ. chalk. To consider in a person's favour: coll., from ca. 1890. Ex the S.E. sense, C.16–20, to put to one's account, orig. by chalking the (usually, drinking) score on a wall. Cf. challik it oop, q.v.

chalk your pull! Hold on!; steady!; printers':—1887 (Baumann).

chalkier. A London milkman: ca. 1850–1900. Ex the addition of chalky water to milk. Cf. cow with the iron tail.—2. (Gen. in pl.) One who, at night, slashes the face of innocent citizens: a C.18 Irish practice; cf. mohock. Coll. whence chalking, 'the amusement [so] described' (Grose, 1st ed.).

chalkie. A schoolteacher: Aus.: since ca. 1930. (B., 1953.) P.B., 1979; and British too: vide Giles's famous cartoon schoolmaster 'Old Chalky', who, with the perhaps even better known 'Grandma', has been delighting readers of the Beaverbrook newspapers for over thirty years.—2. See chalky.

chalking him in. The steward's action of drawing a chalk line round any Western Ocean passenger who sits in the captain's chair, the penalty for which is a drink for every steward in the saloon': nautical coll.: late C.19–20. Bowen.

chalks. Legs: low: ca. 1825–70. (Sinks, 1848.) Esp. in walk or stump (one's) chalks, to move or run away; make one's departure: from ca. 1840; perhaps orig. US, for Haliburton uses it in 1840 and De Vere includes it in his Americanisms, yet H., F. & H. and SOD say nothing about US; cf. notably the evidence of the EDD. Bowen notes that walk one's chalks and walk Spanish, in late C.19–20 nautical, = to desert. The origin is obscure: F. & H. notes a fanciful theory; perhaps the phrase derives ex the walking of a chalked line.—2. In make chalks (often as vbl n., making chalks). To be punished standing on two chalk lines and bending one's back: the Royal Naval School at Greenwich: ca. 1840–1900.—3. In by chalks, an Aus. coll. var. (ca. 1880–1910) of by a long chalk, q.v. Boldrewood, 1888, in the best of the bushranging novels. Ex Cumberland dial. (EDD.)

Chalky. A frequent nickname of men surnamed White: Services': late C.19–20. Cf. Blanco, the same.

chalk it oop! Put it to my credit (esp. in a tavern): theatrical c.p. (—1909) introduced, presumably, by some dialectal (?Nottinghamshire) comedian; ob. Ware. See also chalk it up! and DCpp.

cham or chammy. Pronounced sham: whence many puns. Abbr. champagne. (All the Year Round, 18 Feb. 1871.) Cf. bubbly.

cham, v. To drink champagne: from ca. 1875. † chamber-day. 'A day at the beginning of each half when "chambers" [the bed-rooms of scholars] were open all day for the re-arrangement of their occupants' (EDD): mid-C.19–20: Winchester s. verging on j. N.B., one says in (not in the) chambers.

chamber-music. The sound made by a chamber-pot being used: joc. domestic: late C.19–20.

Chamber of Horrors. The Peeresses' Gallery in the House of Lords (contrast cage, 4); Parliamentary, from ca. 1870. Ex the room so named at Madame Tussaud's. Cf. senses 3, 4.—2. A sausage; gen. in pl. From ca. 1880. Cf. bag of mystery.—3. Room at Lloyd's (Royal Exchange) where are "walled" notices of shipwrecks and casualties at sea' (Ware): City of London: late C.19–20.—4. 'The corridor or repository in which Messrs Christie (King Street, St. James's) locate the valueless pictures that are sent to them from all parts of the world as supposed genuine old masters' (Ware): Society:—1909.—5. A family album: workmen's:—1935.—6. See House of Corruption.

chambering, chamberer. Sexual indulgence, a loose fellow: despite F. & H., always S.E.

chambers. See chamber-day.

chameleon diet. A very meagre diet: hence, nothing to eat: late C.17–18; coll. B.E.

chamfer up. To tidy up, make things tidy: RN: C.20. (Granville.) Ex the stonemasonry and carpentry senses.

chamming. Indulgence in champagne: from ca. 1875; †.

chammy. See cham.

champ. A champion: coll.: from ca. 1915.

champ up. To chew (up); eat up: (low) coll.:—1887; ob. (Baumann.) Ex horses eating.

Champagne Charley. Any noted drinker of champagne; hence, any dissipated man: mostly Londoners': from 1868; ob. B. & L., 'The name of a song which appeared in 1868. ... The original Charley was a wine-merchant that was very generous with presents of champagne to his friends.'

champagne-glass. A Hampden (or less frequently a Hereford) aircraft in the plan view: RAF: ca. 1940–3, then ob. (Partridge, 1945.) Resemblance.

champagne shoulders. Sloping shoulders: Society: ca. 1860–80. Ware, 'From the likeness to the drooping shoulder of the champagne bottle as distinct from the squarish ditto of the sherry or port bottle'.

champagne weather. Bad weather: ironic Society coll.: ca. 1860–1910. Ware.

champagner. A courtesan: music-halls': ca. 1880–1912. (Ware.) Ex the champagne formerly so frequently drunk by these perfect ladies.

Champagne Country. Dining and wining; champagne drinking: Oxford and buckish: ca. 1810–40. Pierce Egan, Life in London, 1821.

champer. Champagne: since ca. 1920: Oxford undergraduates': the 'OXFORD -ER(S)'; hence, since ca. 1950, also among the smart young set. (Gilderdale, 2.)

champeen. An Aus. var. (—1915), e.g. in C.J. Dennis, of: champion. Excellent; arrant: coll., from the 1890s. Esp. predicatively, as 'That's champion!' Ex such phrases as champion fighting-cock, champion pugilist.—2. Also adv.: coll.: late C.19–20.

champion slump of 1897, the. The motor-car: London, 1897—ca. 1910. Ware alludes to the unsuccessful début of the motor-car in 1896–7. Cf. butter-coloured beauties.

chance, n. In on the chance, (acting) on the possibility of or that: from ca. 1780; coll. >, by 1830 at latest, S.E.—2. See (as) much chance as ...; cat in hell's chance; Buckley's chance. chance, v.t. To risk, take one's chances of or in: coll.: since ca. 1830. 'Some would "chance" everything to be transported' (anon., A History of Van Diemen's Land, 1835). Esp. chance it, used absolutely.

chance child. An illegitimate child: from ca. 1838; coll. till C.20, then S.E. and somewhat archaic.

chance is (or would be) a fine thing! An almost proverbial c.p., often, though not necessarily, of sexual implication; it may even be used in pure envy rather than sarcasm. See DCpp for full treatment.

chance it, and. A C.20 var. and derivative of next: lower classes' coll.

chance the ducks, and. Come what may, as in 'I'll do it and chance the ducks'. A pleonastic c.p., from ca. 1870; ob. Recorded in H., 5th ed., and Northall's Folk Phrases, 1894. Cf.:-

chance (one's) mitt. To make an attempt; to risk it, take a chance: army: WW1. Cf.:-

chance your arm! Chance it!, try it on!: coll., orig. tailors': from ca. 1870; ob. Among soldiers, chance one's arm meant 'to take a risk in the hope of achieving something worth while', from the late 1890s, the implication being the loss of one's stripes; the phrase, however, prob. arose ex boxing. (B. & P.; OED Sup.) Cf. prec.—2. Hence, make an attempt: late C.19–20: tailors'.

chancellor of the exchequer. Joc. coll.: C.20: the one who holds the purse-strings.

chancellor's egg. A day-old barrister: legal: late C.19–20; ob. Ware.

chancer. A liar; also, an incompetent workman, or one too confident of his ability: tailors' >, as to nuanie 1, military by 1914: from ca. 1870; coll.—2. 'One who tries it on by telling the tale; or one who just takes chances' (H. & P.): Services: since the 1920s. See chance your arm.—3. Hence, one not too smart in appearance or at drill: Army: since ca. 1930.—4. An expensive motor-car, oldish and of unusual make: motor trade: since ca. 1920. The dealer 'takes a chance' when he buys it.—5. A bluffer: Anglo-Irish: C.20. Desmond O'Neill, Life Has No Price, 1959.—6. A trimmer; one with 'an eye to the main chance': coll. 'Chancer may smack of the [19] twenties or thirties' [Harry Whewell: see quot'n at hack, n., 5]. chancery, v. To put 'in chancery': pugilistic: ca. 1815–50. (Boxiana, III, 1821.) Ex-chancery, in. Fig. from ca. 1835: coll. In parlous case, an awkward situation. Lit., pugilistic: the head under an opponent's weaker arm to be punched with his stronger: from ca. 1815 and as in Moore's Tom Crib's Memorial, 1819. Cf-chancery (or C-) practice. Habit of putting opponent's head 'in chancery': pugilistic: ca. 1815–60. Boxiana, II, 1818.

chancy; occ. chancey. (Seldom of persons) unsure, uncertain, untrustworthy: coll.: 1860. George Eliot. (In C.16–18 Scottish, lucky. SOD.) Chanciness, coll., is rare.

chandler-ken. A chandler's shop; c.:—1812; † by 1890. Vaux.

chancey-eyed. One-eyed; rarely and †, glassy-eyed: low coll.: from ca.1860; ob. Chaney=chiney, China, china, or Chinese, hence with small eyes or eyes like those of a China doll.

change, n. In have all (one's) change about one, to be clever, esp. to be quick-witted: coll.: from ca. 1880. Cf. synon. have all (one's) buttons or chairs.—2. See get no change; put the change on; take change out of...

change, v.t. and i. To 'turn', curdle (e.g. milk): coll. and dial.: from ca. 1830.—2. V.i., to change one's clothes: coll.; C.17–20.

change about or over, v.i. To change or be changed in position, circumstances, or post: coll.; the former from ca. 1840 (Dickens, 1844), the latter from ca. 1860.

change bags. Knickerbockers for football, flannel trousers (?orig. grey) for cricket: Eton Coll., from ca. 1855; ob.

change foot. To play the turcoat: coll.: ca. 1600–1750.

change (one's) note or tune. The former from ca. 1700, the latter from ca. 1570: coll. To alter one's behaviour, professed opinion, speech, expression.

change the record; also put another record on! A c.p. addressed to a nagging spouse or to anyone else 'going on about something': C.20. 'Heard as "Oh, for God's sake, put another record on, will you!"' (Petch, 1966).

changes. See ring the changes.

Channel crossing. Bread-and-butter pudding: Marlborough Coll.: since ca. 1920. Resemblance to vomit.

Channel-fever. Homesickness: nautical: mid-C.19–20. (Bowen.) I.e. the English Channel. L.A., 1967, however, gives a more likely definition of the term: 'the nervous state that overcomes some sailors as their ship nears home after long absence or relatively long abstinence'. Cf. the gate-fever of time-expired prisoners, those nearing completion of sentence. In either sense, adds Peppitt, the term was obsolete by 1948.

Channel fleet. A street: Irish rhyming s.: C.20 Franklyn, Rhyming.

Channel-gropers. Initially, the English Channel Blockading Fleet: Lt Cdr F.L. Peppitt, RNR, cites the nickname's occurrence in 'Jack Nastyface', Nautical Economy, 1836, and Col. Moe notes its use in Marryat, The King's Own, 1830. Later it came to mean just cruising in home waters, and was in RN use into the C.20: Grainger has 'Old Navy term for the one-time Channel Squadron'.

Channel-money. Subsistence-money paid to sailors waiting on a ship in dry dock: nautical coll.: late C.19–20. Bowen.

Channel swimmers, the. The fighting man's self-description, Mar.–April 1918, as a result of Haig's famous order, during the spring retreat, 'to fight it out with our backs to the wall': British troops', not Dominion troops'. Those who couldn't swim called themselves 'the non-Channel swimmers'. (Petch.)

chant, n. Any distinguishing mark on personal effects. Vaux.—2. A person's name or address. Ibid.—3. A song sung in the street. Ibid. (at chant).—4. An advertisement in newspaper or hand-bill. All ca. 1810–90; c. >, except sense 4, low s. ca. 1850. For senses 1,2,4, the semantics are that these things proclaim a person's identity.

chant, v. To talk; sing songs in the street: c. and low, often as chant: from ca. 1840, ob. Mayhew, 'A running patterer ... who also occasionally chaunts'.—2. To sell (a horse) by fraudulent statements: c. and low: from ca. 1810. (English Magazine, 1816.) Prob. 'sing the praises of'.—3. Orig. c., then low, from ca. 1800: to mark a person's name, initials, etc., on clothes, plate, etc. † (Vaux.) I.e. to proclaim his identity. Cf. chant, n., 1, 2, 4.—4. To be advertised for: c. of ca. 1810–90. (Vaux.) Cf. n., 4.—5. V.i., to swear: sporting: 1886—ca. 1914. Ware.—6. V.t. In vagrants' c. of C.20, thus in W.A. Gape, Half a Million Tramps, 1936, 'To "chant" this town', i.e., to sing in it for alms.

chant the poker. To exaggerate; to swagger: s. or low coll.: C.19. Usu. in don't chant...! Cf. don't sing it!

chanter, chaunter; often horse-cha(unter). A horse-dealer that sells by fraudulent representation: from ca. 1817. Moncrieff, Dickens, Thackeray, Henley. Often horse-chanter.—2. In vagrants' c., a street patterer: ca. 1830–1900.

chanter(-)coll. A contemporaneous c. var. of chanter, 2: Ainsworth, 1834.

chant(e)y. See shanty.

chanticleer. Penis: literary and cultured: mid-C.19–20; ob. Punning cock.

chanting, chaunting, vbl n. The dishonest sale of a horse by the concealment of its condition or temper and/or by bishoping, q.v. From ca. 1818. Often horse-cha(unt)ing.—2. In c., street ballad-singing: ca. 1818–1900.

chanting ken. A music-hall: late C.19–20 c. Ken=a house or a place. Cf-chanting slum. A music-hall: fast life: ca. 1830. (Anon., The New Swell's Guide to Night Life, 1846.) Cf. chanting ken.

chap, n. A 'customer', a fellow. From ca. 1715; coll. In C.20, rarely (unless prefaced by old) of an old or 'oldish' man. (Abb. chapman; ex the C.16–early 18 sense, extant in dial., a buyer, a customer. But cf. Romany chav in this sense, q.v. at qust'n under bewer.) Gross, 'an odd chap'; Byron; Scot; Thackeray; Mrs Henry Wood, 'You might give a chap a civil answer.' In post-WW1 days, often used by and of girls among themselves. Cf. customer, merchant, qq.v., and the Scottish callant. P.B.: Mrs Camilla Raab has perceptively pointed out, 1978, that in C.20 and esp. in Public Schools' usage—though the term is by no means confined to that class—it has come to mean, nearly always, a fellow who is 'one of us'. 'We' are 'chaps'; the rest, the outsiders, are 'oicks', 'yobboes', or whatever the current pej. may be.—2. A male sweetheart: non-aristocratic coll.:—1887 (Baumann). Doubtless ex dial., where recorded before 1850.—3. A sailor: proletarian coll.:—1887; ob. Ibid.—4. 'Top of the pecking order—a champion': Borstals and detention centres: current in 1970s (Home Office). Contrast div.

chap, v.t. To chaperon: from ca. 1921. D.L. Murray, The English Family Robinson, 1933, 'Mrs. M. would chap. us if you're so fussy.'

Chapel; only as the Chapel. Whitechapel: Cockneys': mid-C.19–20. (Ware.) Cf. Ditch, 1, and chapel, adj.

chapel; chapel of ease. A privy: from late C.17. Moe notes its use in Restoration comedy, as in Dryden, 1680. H. has it in his 3rd ed. Cf. the S.E. meaning and the Fr. cabinet d'aisance. chapel, v. (Of a don, gen. the Dean) to order (an undergraduate) to attend chapel twice a day for a specified period: university, passing to coll. and S.E.: from ca. 1845.

Chapel, adj. Of Whitechapel (London): Cockneys': mid-C.19–20. Ware.—2. The C.20 abbr. of chapel-folk, q.v. 'Oh, them! They're chapel, so of course they sing much louder.' (P.B.) chapel-folk. Nonconformists as opp. to Episcopalians (esp. Anglicans): a snobbish coll.; from ca. 1830.

chapel of ease. See chapel, n.

chapel of little ease. A police station; detention cell: c. (—1871); ob. Cf. chapel, n.

chaperon. The cisbeo, or gentleman usher, to a lady', Grose, 3rd ed.: mid-C.18—early 19 coll.

[chaperonee, chaperonless, chaperonship, are perhaps coll.—see the OED—but they much rather belong to semi-facetious journalese. They date from ca. 1884.] chapped, chapt. Thirsty: from ca. 1670. Ob. by 1930. Orig. c.: from ca. 1820, low. Head.

chapper. The mouth: low London:—1909. Ware, 'From associations with chaps, chops, and cheeks': cf., however, chaffer, 2. R.S., 1971, suggests 'Any possible Yiddish influence? ... There was a big immigrant Jewish influx into the East End [of London] ca. 1900.'

chapper, v. To drink: low London:—1909; ob. Ware. Ex the n. chappie; occ. chappy. Coll., from ca. 1820. At first=little fellow, but from ca. 1880 it=chapp, esp. as a term of address with old, my good or dear, etc., or as = a man about town; G.A. Sala, Illustrated London News, 24 Mar. 1883, 'Lord Boodle, a rapid chappie always ready to bet on everything with everybody.' As a Society term it flourished in the '80s (Ware). chappow. A raid: Anglo-Indian: from ca. 1860. (Mayne Reid.) Ex a Pushtoo word.

chappy, adj. For the n., see chappie.—Talkative: a late C.17—mid-18 coll. I.e. given to using his chaps, chops, jaws. chaps me that! (Galt's chapse is incorrect.) I claim that: Scottish children's coll.: mid-C.19—20. Ex chap, to choose, bespeak. Cf. bags 1, q.v. OED.

chapt. See chapped.

chapter, to the end of the. Always; to the end; until death: coll.: from ca. 1840. Occ. used in C.20, in facetious endings to letters: cf. to the last drop, till hell freezes, for ever—and after.

chapter herald. A Hell's angel, [q.v.]: motorcyclists' (Dunford): since (?)ca. 1960. Hell's angels are grouped into 'chapters' (cf. the printing trades' unions); herald ex the famous Wesley carol, 'Hark! The herald angels sing ...'

char, n. Abbr. charwoman: coll.: since ca. 1875. Cf. charlady and S.E. chore.—2. Tea: in late C.19—early 20, army coll.; post WW1, vagrants' c.; by mid-C.20, widespread and gen., esp. in a cuppa char and char and wads, though the latter, meaning 'tea and buns', was ob. by ca. 1960 and had always, perhaps, been confined to Forces' canteens. Ex cha, a S.E. form of C.16—19.

char, chare, v. To come in to do the cleaning work in a house, shop, office, or institution. The SOD records for 1732; in the C.18, the meaning was simply, to do odd jobs. Coleridge, of all people, uses the word in 1810 in its mod. sense. Vbl n., charing or charring, C.19—20.

char-wallah. A teetotaller: army: C.20. (Frank Richards, Old Soldiers Never Die, 1933.) Ex char, n., 2, and wallah. Cf. bun wallah and wad-shifter.—2. In India this is a native servant who brings the early morning tea. In Gibraltar, a dining-hall waiter' (H. & P.): Services: since ca. 1930. (Gerald Emanuel, 1945.) Also used as an adj.; e.g. charwallah squadron, an Air Force squadron consisting of Indian personnel. P.B.: when the British Army left India in 1947, the faithful char-wallahs followed it overseas and set up their little shops, to complement the official canteens by providing 'char', Horlicks, cocoa, cold soft drinks, and banjos (sandwiches or filled rolls) of all sorts. They were in Malaya during the Emergency, 1948—60; in Cyprus from the mid-1950s; and by the 1970s had even reached the Army camps in Northern Ireland. The spirit of Gunga Din yet lives!

chara. A lower classes' abbr. (1927, F.E. Baily: OED Sup.) of char-à-banc. Also charrie, -y (1926: Ibid.). Cf. charabang (ch- pron. tch). Sol., from ca. 1835, for char-à-banc (since 1918 gen. spelt charabanc). Occ. charrybong (ch- pron. sh). The Fr. is char à bancs. P.B.: the term was ob. by ca. 1970, being replaced by the S.E. [motor-] coach. In 1930s—40s usu. pron. sharrabang.

character. An eccentric or odd person: coll.: Goldsmith, 1773, 'A very impudent fellow this! but he's a character, and I'll humour him'; Lamb, who was himself one. From ca. 1870, an odd person of much humour or wit: likewise, coll.—2. A character part: theatrical coll.: late C.19—20. Leonard Merrick, Peggy Harper, 1911.—3. Whereas the RAF speaks of types and the RN and the Army imitate, the RN speaks of characters and the other two services imitate: since ca. 1925. Indeed, since ca. 1945, the term has become increasingly popular everywhere and now means simply 'fellows' or 'guys'.—4. The Southern English coll. form of characters, q.v., a reference: since (?)late C.19. (P.B.) Cf. character academy. 'A resort of servants without characters, which are there concocted' (F. & H., rev. ed., at academy): c.: late C.19—20.

charactered. Branded on the hand; 'lettered', q.v.: C.18—early 19, low if not indeed at first c. A New Canting Dict., 1725; Grose, 2nd ed.

characters. One's references, as regards employment: Midland and N. Country coll.: C.20. F. B. Vickers, First Place to the Stranger, 1955.

charades. The Christmas play performed at Bootham': Bootham School coll.: late C.19—20. Bootham, 1925.

charas. Cannabis grown in India: prisoners': later C.20. Sean McConville, in The State of the Language, 1980.

chare, char(r)ing. See char, v.

charge, n. A prisoner brought up for trial on a charge or accusation: from late 1850s. (Sala.) As 'A person arrested and held in charge' (G.F. Newman, Sir, You Bastard, 1970, glossary), still police coll.—2. In hospitals, the charge is a Charge Nurse (esp. if male), i.e. one in charge of a ward or set of wards: coll.: C.20.—3. Marijuana: c.: since ca. 1943. It contains a 'charge'—produces a 'kick'.—4. 'Cocaine (US) (Home Office): drug-users' s.: current in 1970s.

charge, v. To run at full speed: (orig.?) Winchester Coll. coll.: from ca. 1860. (B. & L.)

Charing Cross (pron. crose). A horse: rhyming s.:—1857 ('Ducange Anglicus', 1st ed.).

chariot. An omnibus: c.; from ca. 1850; almost t. Whence chariot-buzzing (H., 1st ed.), pocket-picking in an omnibus; cf. the neater Fr. argotic faire l'omnicroche.—2. A caboose; occ. a passenger car: Can. railroadmen's:—1931. Derisive.—3. (Also walking chariot.) A bed: Army: since ca. 1940.—4. A motor car: joc.: since ca. 1945.

charity-bob, the. The quick, jerky curtsy made by charity school-girls', a curtsy rapidly vanishing as long ago as 1883: coll.: ca. 1870—1915. Ware.

charity dame or for-free. A prostitute undercutting the prices; an 'enthusiastic amateur': Aus. c., esp. prostitutes': resp. since ca. 1930 and ca. 1944 (US influence). B., 1953. Wilkes lists later C.20 var. charity moll.

charity sloop. A 10-gun brig: naval coll. during Napoleonic wars. Bowen, 'Officially rated as sloops for the benefit of their commanders'.

charity tails. A tail-coat worn by a Lower School boy taller than the average: Harrow School: from 1890s. Ex tails, 1. charlady. Joc. coll. for a charwoman: since the 1890s. (E.P.) But since mid-C.20, there is no jocularly implied, and this flattering contradiction in terms is the only socially acceptable name for a charwoman. Cf. tea-lady, cleaning-lady, and similar functionaries. (P.B.)

Charles de Gaulle. The gall-bladder: proletarian joc. or euph.: later C.20. Prof. A.S.C. Ross, in U and Non-U Revisited, 1978 (P.B.).

Charles his friend. The young man serving as foil to the jeune premier: theatrical: from ca. 1870. (B. & L.) Ex description in the dramatis personae.

Charles James. A (theatrical) box: rhyming s.: late C.19—20. (Edward Shanks in John o' London's Weekly, 8 Dec. 1934.) Ex the famous politician, Charles James Fox (1749—1806).—2. Hence also a fox: hunting s.: late C.19—20. See also charley, 3.

Charles O'Malley's Own. The 14th Hussars: an occ. military nickname of ca. 1842—80. (F. & G.) Ex Lever's novel (Charles O'Malley, 1841), 'in which the hero figures as an officer of the regiment'.

Charles William. The dummy man in life-boat exercises: Dartmouth RN College: C.20. Bowen.

charley, charlie; or with capitals. A night watchman: from ca. 1810. (Vaux, 1812; Hood, 1845.) † by 1900, except historically. Etym. unknown; but prob. ex the very common Christian name.—2. A small, pointed beard: coll.: from ca. 1830. (Hook, 1841.) Ex Charles 1.—3. With capital C, a fox: from ca. 1850; coll. (Hughes in Tom Brown's School-days.) Cf. Charles James, 2.—4. The nap on glossy cloth: tailors': from ca. 1865; ob. by 1930.—5. A gold watch: c.: from ca. 1830. By a pun on sense 1.—6. A round-shouldered figure or person (tailors'); a spinal hump (market-traders'): mid-C.19–20. F. & G. record that a hunchback used to be said to 'carry his little brother Charley on his back' Cf. charleys, 5.—7. Hence, (also as old or Uncle Charley) an infantryman's pack: army: C.20. Little (or young) Charley was his haversack. Both senses ob. by mid-C.20.—8. The inevitable nickname of anyone surnamed Beresford: RN: C.20. Ex Charlie B., Admiral Lord Charles Beresford. (Bowen.) And of any man surnamed Peace: military: early C.20. (F. & G.) Ex the notorious murderer.—9. Reveille: RN: C.20. Granville, 'The bugle call, to which the Navy has given these words: "Charley! Charley! Get up and wash yourself!/Charley! charley! Lash up and stow!"'—10. Short for Charley Ronce, q.v., a ponce: low: mid-C.19–20. New Statesman, 29 Nov. 1941.—11. A male homosexual: since ca. 1945.—12. A chamber-pot: domestic coll.: C.20, perhaps earlier. (P.B.)—13. A fool, a 'softie': C.20 among Cockneys, but only since late 1940s at all gen.; by ca. 1960, however, very common and widespread (influence of radio and TV), esp. in such phrases as a proper or a right charley, a complete fool. Short for Charley Hunt, q.v.—14. Esp. in 'your Charlie', your girl: Aus., esp. Sydney: since ca. 1945. (Lawson Glassop, Lucky Palmer, 1949.) Short for Charley Wheeler, q.v.—15. Hence, by specialisation, a prostitute: low Aus.: since late 1940s. B., 1953.—16. A bottle or glass of Carlsberg beer: army in Germany: 1950s–60s. (P.B., 1974.)—17. 'Cocaine (US)' (Home Office): drug-users' s.: current in 1970s.—18. In hop the Charley, to decamp; it is short for Charley Wag, q.v.—19. See Charley Oboe.

charley, charlie, adj. Afraid; 'windy': low: since ca. 1930. 'I was dead charlie' (Norman). Hence to turn charlie, to turn coward or become frightened.

Charley Brady. A hat: rhyming s. (on cady): late C.19–mid-20. Franklyn, Rhyming.

Charley (or Charlie) Chaplin. An officer's moustache, about half an inch in extent: military: 1915. (B. & P.) Ex the moustache affected by the great comedian.—2. The village of Camblain Châtelain: army: WW1. Ibid.—3. A, usu. prison, chaplain: mostly S. African: since 1930s. Angus Hall, On the Run, 1974.

Charley Chaplin's Army Corps. The Canadian Casualty Assembly Centre, at Shorncliffe, England: Can. army in WW1. B. & P.

Charley Dilke. Milk: ca. 1880–1940. Franklyn, Rhyming.

Charley Fox. A politically minded seaman tending to harangue: Naval: ca. 1790–1815. W.N. Glascock, Sailors and Saints (II, 186), 1829. Moe.

Charley Freer. Beer: sporting rhyming s.:—1909; † by 1930. Ware.

Charley Frisky. Whisky: navvies' rhyming s.: ca. 1860–1910. D.W. Barrett, 1880.

Charley Howard. A coward: rhyming: C.20. James Curtis, 1936.

Charley (or Charlie) Hunt; often in C.20 shortened to Charley (Charlie). The female pudend: rhyming s.: since ca. 1890. A var. of Joe Hunt—cf. Berkeley (Hunt), q.v.—2. Hence, a 'softy', a fool: C.20; in gen. use only since the late 1940s and increasingly in the shortened form, for which see charley, 13.

charley-ken. A watchman's (post or) box: c.: ca. 1810–50. (Vaux.) See charley, 1.

Charley Lancaster. A 'han'kercher' = handkerchief: rhyming s.:—1857—ca. 1930. 'Ducange Anglicus', 1st ed.

charley-man. A var. of charley, 1, a night-watchman. Bee.

Charley Mason. A basin: rhyming s.: since ca. 1880.

Charley More, act. To act honestly. See act...

Charley Noble. The galley funnel: RN: mid-C.19–20; ob. (Bowen.) Ex a Commander Noble (ca. 1840), who insisted that the cowl of the galley funnel be kept bright. (F. & G.)

Charley (or Charlie) Oboe. Often merely Charley. The Commanding Officer: Army and RAF: from 1942, when, in the signals phonetic alphabet, 'Oboe' replaced 'Orange' for O. Charlie for C has remained constant since 1927; 'Orange' lasted 1938–41, and 'Oboe' was replaced by 'Oscar' in 1956. See Appendix for the evolution of the phonetic alphabet. Charlie Orange was used for CO in the RAF, 1939–41 (W./Cdr Robin P. McDouall, 1945).

charley-pitcher. A prowling sharper: c., from ca. 1855. (Sala; Besant & Rice.) In C.20, low; ob. Etym. doubtful; perhaps via Charley [a] pitcher.

Charley Pope. Soap: Cockney and military rhyming s.:—1914 (F. & G.).

Charley Prescott. A waistcoat: rhyming s.:—1857 ('Ducange Anglicus', 1st ed.).

Charley Randy. Brandy: navvies' rhyming s.: ca. 1860–1910. D.W. Barrett, 1880.

Charley (or -ie) Ronce. A souteneur or prostitute's bully: late C.19–20: rhyming s. on ponce. Often shortened to Charley which, derivatively, = very smart, 'one of the boys'.

Charley Sheard. A beard: rhyming s.: C.20. (Red Daniells, 1980.)

Charley Smirke. A berk, q.v.: rhyming s., perhaps 'twice removed': later C.20. 'Too many flatties understood "berk"' (Red Daniells, 1980). Charley Smirke, one of the leading jockeys of earlier C.20, enjoyed a chequered career, 1922–53; he rode the Derby winner in 1934, 1936, and in 1952, on Tulyar, he won both the Derby and the St Leger. (P.B.)

Charley Skinner. Dinner: navvies' rhyming s.: ca. 1860–1910. D.W. Barrett, 1880.

Charley Wag, play the. To play truant: from mid-C.19. Charles Hindley, 1876. Henley, in 1887, ellipsed the phrase to Charley-wag, but he created no precedent. There were var.: hop the wag, to play truant, and hop the Charley, to decamp.

Charley Wheeler. A girl: Aus. rhyming s., on sheila: 1945 (Baker). McNeil.

Charley Wiggins. Lodgings: mainly theatrical rhyming s., on diggings pron. diggins: late C.19–20. Franklyn, Rhyming.

charleys, charlies. (Always in pl.) The female breasts: from ca. 1840. I am inclined to think that derivation is ex personification; if, however, the term was orig. c., it may derive ex Romany chara (or charro), to touch, meddle with, as in Smart & Crofton. (Ware suggests origin in the opulent charms displayed by the mistresses of Charles II). Hence occ. Bobby and Charley.—2. Thick twine-gloves: Winchester Coll., ca. 1850–80. Introduced by a Mr Charles Griffith.—3. Testicles: low: C.20.—4. (Mostly Charlies.) Sailors in general: R Aus. N; since ca. 1925. B., 1943.—5. Shoulders: N. Country, esp. Yorkshire: C.20. 'Straighten your charleys, lad' is said to a stooping boy. Cf. charley, n., 6, q.v.

Charley's coat. A Carley float: Aus. rhyming s., mostly R Aus. N and RAAF: 1942–5. B., 1943.

Charley's dead. A schoolgirls' allusive warning that another's slip (petticoat) is showing below the hem of her skirt: since mid-C.20, perhaps earlier. See DCpp. (P.B.)

charley's fiddle. A watchman's rattle: fast life: ca. 1815–40. (W.T. Moncrieff, Tom and Jerry, 1821.) See charley, n., 1.

Charlie(s). See Charley(s).

charm. A picklock: c.: C.16–18. Greene; Grose. Cf. S.E. moral suasion.—2. See enough to charm...

charmer. One's girl friend: Services': ca. 1935–45. H. & P. charming! —with, among the less squeamish and never among the decent-speaking, the elab., charming, fucking charming! 'Was, for a short period in the early 1970s, a stock response to an unpleasant situation or remark. Said with heavy emphasis on the first syllable. E.g., teller of tale: "So she screams across the pub at him, 'You're nothing but a big, fat, idle swine!'" Interested listener, encouragingly: "Charming!" Still part of some people's speech pattern' (P.B., 1976.) I have to add only that I first heard it in late 1968 and that, although much less common now (Apr. 1977) than at its peak in 1970-5, it is far from being dated; much less, outmoded. The reason for its very wide currency is that it presents irony at its best and disarmingly understates and gently implies a social animadversion.

charming mottle. A bottle: Aus. rhyming s.: ca. 1880-1910. (Sydney) Bulletin, 18 Jan. 1902—cited by Baker, 1945.

charming wife. A knife: rhyming s.:—1914 (F. & G.) Contrast trouble and strife.

charms. A woman's breasts: C.18-20. Until ca. 1840, S.E.; then coll. and, very soon, s. as in 'flashes her charms', displays...? ex Fr. appas.

charp. A bed: army and, since ca. 1920, RAF: late C.19-20. Jackson, 'From the Hindustani, charpoy'. P.B.: hence, also as a v., to sleep. Cf. charpoy-bashing.

charperer; or charpering omee (or omer). A policeman: Parlyaree: since ca. 1860. (P.H. Emerson, Signor Lippo, 1893.) The shorter prob. derives from the longer term. Cf.:-

charpering carsey. A police station: Parlyaree: since ca. 1870. (P.H. Emerson, 1893.) Cf. prec., where omee=a man; here, carsey=casa=a house. The dominant element, charpering= 'searching': ex It. cercare, 'to search (for)'.

charpoy-bashing. Sleeping; sleep: RAF: since ca. 1920. (Gerald Emanuel, letter, 1945.) See charp, and cf. square-bashing.

Charps and Dils, the. The Bedfordshire and Hertfordshire Regt.: 'In India between the wars they were sometimes known as "The Charps and Dils"—from the Hindustani, charpoy meaning bed and dil meaning heart' (Carew).

charring. See char, v.

charrshom or chershom. A crown (coin): Shelta: C.18-20; very ob. B. & L.

charry. See chara.

Charsies, the. The 4th Royal Hussars: late C.19-20. Ex 'the 4-anna coin of India' (Spike Mays, The Band Rats, 1975).

Chart and Evans. Knees: RN: C.20. (Granville.) A rationalised form of chart an' 'eavens, itself incorrect for chart in 'eavens. The semantic key is supplied by s. benders, knees—what you get down upon to say the Lord's Prayer, 'Our Father, which art in Heaven'—and strengthened by the second verb in the predominant construction and usage, 'Get down on your chart 'n eavens and holystone the deck.'

chart-buster (s.) and chart-topper (coll.). A very successful song or record; the former term, the stronger, for it means 'a smash hit': both since ca. 1955. "Please, Please Me" was the first of an unbroken chain of chart-toppers' (Beatles).

charter, v. To bespeak or hire, esp. a vehicle: from ca. 1865, coll.; by mid-C.20, S.E. Ex to charter a ship.

Charterhouse. See sister of the Charterhouse.

charver, n. A sexual embrace: theatrical (orig. Parlyaree): late C.19-20.—2. Hence, a girl, a woman, esp. as sexual partner: market-traders': late C.19-20. (M.T.) Also spelt charva, as in bona palone for a charva, a good-time girl. (John o' London's Weekly; 4 Feb. 1949.) See chauvering and charver, v. To despoil; to interfere with and spoil (one's business): grafters': late C.19-20. (Cheapjack, 1934.) Ex the Romany for 'to copulate with (a woman)'. Hence: charvered, ppl.adj. Exhausted, tired out: id. (Ibid.) Cf. the low fucked in the same sense.

chase. 'To stand over and keep urging (someone) to do and get on with a piece of work': Services' coll.: since ca. 1920. H. & P.—2. To court (a girl): S. Africa: since ca. 1935. Prof. W.S. Mackie in Cape Argus, 4 July 1946. But also Cockney since late C.19.

chase-me-Charley. 'A radio-controlled glider-bomb used by the Germans': RN: ca. 1940-5. (Granville.) Ex a c.p. of the 'Naughty Nineties' and Edwardian days which survived until mid-C.20 as a harmless, mild exclaim. See DCpp. and cf.:-

chase me, girls! An Edwardian c.p. expressive of high male spirits. B. & P.

chase my (or me) Aunt Fanny round the gasworks! See cor! chase me...

chase yourself! Oh, go away!: Aus. s. (—1915) now verging on coll. (C.J. Dennis.) Cf. buzz off! and go and play trains!

chase the hares; usually as n. or participle, chasing the hares. To run after women: C.20. A pun on hairs.

chase the nimble pennyweight. To pick gold from a dish: Aus. miners': C.20. (B., 1942.) Journalistic in origin?

chase-up. A race; a speedy driving: since late 1940s. Peter Crookston, Villain, 1967, 'There were ten of us and we each stole a car from a car-park to have a bit of a chase-up.'

chaser. A drink taken immediately after another: coll.: C.20. Esp. a 'tot of spirit taken after coffee [or a pint of beer: P.B.]; small quantity of water taken after drinking neat spirits (also fig.)' (COD, 1934 Sup.).—2. A woman-chaser: Can. coll.: adopted, ca. 1935, es US. Cf. chase, v., 2.—3. A message sent after another: military coll.: WW2 and after. John Connell, Wavell: Supreme Commander, 1969, 'Wavell's signal to Churchill left the strategic directors of the war little or no choice. [Signal quoted]. A "chaser", sent off early the following morning, amplified this instruction.' Also means a signal demanding to know what action has been taken on the sender's previous message. (P.B.)—4. Short for progress-chaser, one who, in industry, ensures that work is being processed quickly and efficiently: coll. > j.: since mid-C.20. (P.B.) chasing, vbl n. The exceeding of a stated amount, or standard, of production: workmen's, from ca. 1880; s. tending to coll. Rae's Socialism, 1884.

chasing the red. (Of a flagman) going back with a red flag or a red light to protect a train: Can. railroadmen's:—1931.

chasp (pron. with short a). A joc. corruption of chap, voc. and usu. pl, as 'Morning, chasps!' in general greeting to assembled (male) company; occ., perhaps by back-formation, singular, 'I say, old chasp...': first heard by me, in Services, 1970. (P.B.)

chass. To chase; to harry: RN cadets': from ca. 1880. (Taffrail, The Sub, 1917.) Perhaps a blend of chase + harass; cf. chassé, and chase, 1.

chasse. A drink after coffee: 1860, Surtees, Plain or Ringlets; † by 1920. Cf. chaser, 1.

chassé. To dismiss: Society, ca. 1845-1900. Thackeray, 1847, 'He was chasséd on the spot'; Yates, 1868. Ex Fr. chasser, to chase away, though perhaps imm. ex dancing j. chassis, in a terrible state of. Extremely 'plastered' (drunk); profoundly perturbed, and showing it: Anglo-Irish: C.20. (Sean O'Casey, Juno and the Paycock, 1924.) (Thanks to librarian John O'Riordan, who vouched for its extant in the 1970s.) The original quot'n refers to 'the world', so the phrase can describe any state of disorder.

chaste though chased. A middle-class c.p. of ca. 1900-27. Too pedantic ever to have > very gen.

chastity belt. 'By the 1970s this S.E. [term] had started in some "intellectual circles" to be applied to the car safety-belt' (R.S., 1972). A fairly short-lived pedantic pun like the prec.

chat, n. As free-and-easy talk, always S.E., C.16-20.—2. The female pudend: C.19-20, ob. Ex the Fr. word. Cf. cat and pussy.—3. The truth; 'the correct thing', 'the ticket' (?coll.): from ca. 1815. Moore.—4. The subject under discussion; the point: coll. (ob.): 1848, Lover (EDD); Trollope, 1862, 'That's the chat as I take it.'—5. In mid-C.19-20 Parlyaree, a thing, an object; it may even occ. be extended to mean enterprise, esp. a criminal job: from ca. 1870. Pugh (2): 'The chat we're on is called The Observatory, an' it's got a sort of tower stickin' out o' the roof.' But cf. also sense 9. P.B.: ?ex old c.

cheat, q.v.—6. Impudence, in C.20 as back chat: ca. 1870-1900 (chat is extant in dial.): coll.—7. WW1+, a search for lice. Ex chat(t), a louse: see chatt.—8. A seal (to a letter): c. of ca. 1810–60. (Egan's Grose.) Gen. in pl.—9. A house: c.:—1879; ob. Ex cheat, q.v.—10. Also chate, chatt, often in pl.: the gallows: mid-C.16–18 c.—11. (Usu. in pl chats.) A person: circusmen's: late C.19–20. 'Fake the chats' = talk to the crowd to keep them quiet.—12. The gift of the gab': low: since late 1940s. James Barlow, The Burden of Proof, 1968.—13. Language; way of speaking or writing; terminology: since ca. 1950. Laurence Henderson, With Intent, 1968, "Says he's a nice fellow, likes hurting people, knocks girls about, sticks knives in people. An emotional pauper."—"How much?"—"That's college chat for a right bastard."—14. 'An old man, usually a vagrant, deadbeat and alcoholic. The term connotes poor hygiene and general slovenliness' (McNeil): Aus. low coll.: later C.20. McN. derives it, via Vaux, ex sense 7, but see also chatty, n., 2.—15. See full chat.

chat, v. More frequent as v.i. than as v.t.; more correct spelling, chatt. To search for lice: from ca. 1850 to WW1, low and perhaps c.; in WW1+, so gen. as to > a coll. for de-louse. Vbl n., chatting, has since 1914 been much used and occ. responsible for obvious puns. (In Gavin Douglas's Æneis, chat may = to hang.)—2. To address tentatively; to 'word': Aus.:—1916 (C.J. Dennis). Cf. chat up, 3.—3. Hence (?), to talk to or with (someone): since ca. 1920. 'Chatting a bogey' (Gilt Kid, 1936).

chat-hole. A hole made by convicts in a wall so that they can talk: c.: from ca. 1870.

chat marks. Quotation marks; mostly authors': C.20. Berta Ruck, A Story-Teller Tells the Truth, 1935.

chat-show. A radio or TV programme in which a person of some fame, or none, is invited to converse informally with the show's 'host': coll.: since ca. 1960.

chat-state, in. Filthy: army: since ca. 1950. 'His bunk [room] was left in chat-state'. Perhaps better spelt chatt, since it prob. derives from chatt, 1, a louse; influenced also by 'in shit state'. (P.B.) chat up, n. Corresponds to next-chat up, v.i. Var. of chat, v., 1, to de-louse: army: WW1.—2. As v.t., to bluff; to 'con': since ca. 1925. Robin Cook, The Crust on Its Uppers, 1962.—3. (Of a male) to talk to a girl, a woman, persistently and persuasively, esp. with a view to sexual dalliance: since ca. 1936. Also to chat (a girl). Ronald Harwood, The Lads, a television play shown on 15 Aug. 1963. (L.A.)

chate. See chat, chatt, cheat.

Chateau Dif. The Stock Exchange; brokers':—1909; virtually †. Punning the Château d'If and diff(s), 'differences' on settling days. Ware.

Chatham and Dover. Over; as v., give over: London public-houses' rhyming s.:—1909. Ex the London, Chatham and Dover Railway, which was thus named by Act of Parliament in 1859, and was absorbed into Southern Railway in 1923. Cf. Chats, 2.

Chatham Dockgard. See when Adam...

Chatham rat. A seaman from the Medway depot: RN: late C.19–20. (Bowen.) Rats were once abundant there.

chati. A louse: NZ: C.20. Ex chat; prob. by Maori influence: see koota.

Chats. The RN Barracks and Divisional HQ at Chatham: RN: late C.19–20.—2. Shares in the London, Chatham and Dover Railway (1859–1923): Stock Exchange: from ca. 1875; ob. with its disappearance as an independent company.—3. The 'inevitable' nickname of anyone surnamed Harris: lower classes' and RN: late C.19–20. (Bowen.) Cf. Bomber.—4. As chats, articles of clothing: Glasgow:—1934. Perhaps ex chat, n., 5.

chatsby. Anything the name of which one has forgotten: theatrical—1935; RAF, WW2. Perhaps ex chat, n., 5, but cf. also chattamaranta.

chatt, in C.20 gen. chat, before WW1 rarely in singular. A louse: late C.17–20. Orig. c., from ca. 1830 s., but very gen. only in WW1+. (B.E.; Grose; H.) Prob., as Grose suggests, ex chattels = live stock (q.v.) or chattels = movable property. Synonymy in F. & H.; cf. crabs, gentleman's companions, German ducks. See chat, n., 7, and v., 1.—2. Var. of chat, n., 10, and chate, often in pl: the gallows: c.: mid-C.16–18.

chatta. An umbrella: Anglo-Indian coll.: from ca. 1690. Y. & B.

chattamaranta. Any large object not immediately identifiable; a thing; market-traders': C.20. (M.T.) Poss. a fanciful extension of chat, n., 5; cf. chatsby.

chatte. Occ. var. of chat, n., 10: the gallows.

chatter-basket. A prattling child: esp. among nurses: original, coll. since ca. 1850. Much less gen. are the variants chatter-bladder (low), chatter-bones (mainly US), chatter-cart. Cf.:-

chatter-box, mod. chatterbox. Grose, 1st ed.: 'One whose tongue runs twelve score to the dozen'. Coll. till 1880, then S.E. (Dickens, The Old Curiosity Shop.) On the C.16–17 sauce-box.—2. A machine-gun: RAF aircrews': adopted in mid-1940 from the American Eagle Squadron; ob. by 1946. (Reader's Digest, Feb. 1941.) Also Aus. (B., 1942). The genuinely English form is chatter-gun (or one word), as in Brickhill & Norton, Escape to Danger, 1946, 'The chatter-guns opened up'.

chatter-broth. Tea: the drink and the party: late C.18–19. (Grose, 1st ed.) Cf. scandal-broth and the joc. S.E. chatter-water, which is very ob.

chatter-cart. See chatter-basket.

chatteration. Persistent or systematic chattering: from 1862 (OED). Perhaps rather a pedantic jocularly than a coll.

chatterer. A blow,—esp. if on the mouth,—that makes the recipient's teeth chatter: pugilistic: from ca. 1820; † by 1919. (Boxiana, IV, 1824.) Cf.:-

chatterers. The teeth: c.: C.19—early 20. (Boxiana, III, 1821.) Cf. grinders.

chattering. 'A blow given on the mouth' (Egan's Grose): c.: ca. 1820–60. Prob. ex prec.

chattering-box. A dissenting chapel: Oxfordshire s., not dial.:—1905 (EDD Sup.).

chattering-broth. Provincial (Staffordshire) var. of chatter-broth, tea. EDD.

chattermag. Chatter (1895); a chatterbox (C.20); to chatter (1909): coll. Cf. mag, v. OED Sup.

chattery. Cotton or linen goods or, occ., separate article: c.:—1821; ob. Haggart.

chatting, vbl n. To chat, v., q.v.

chattry-feeder. A spoon: C.19 c. (Brandon.) Orig. and mainly at Millbank Prison.

chatts. Dice: low: C.19.

chatty, n. A pot, esp. if porous, for water: Anglo-Indian coll.: since mid-C.18. P.B.: the term spread to other British colonies and was still in use in, e.g., Malaya and Cyprus in the 1950s. Y. & B. define it as spheroidal, but in Malaya and Cyprus it was amphora-shaped.—2. A filthy man. Abbr. chatty dossier (see dossier). Ca. 1810–80: low.—3. Among sailors, it survives as 'any seaman who is dirty or untidy, or careless in his appearance' (Bowen).—4. (Chatty.) The inevitable nickname of anyone surnamed Mather: nautical and lower classes': late C.19–20. Bowen, 'From a celebrated character in naval fiction... whether the uncomplimentary meaning applies... or not'.—5. Var. spelling of chati, q.v., NZ word for a louse: since ca. 1915. B., 1941.

chatty, adj. Lousy: low until WW1: from ca. 1810. Vaux, 1812. A WW1 jest ran: 'He's a nice chatty little fellow.' Ex chatt, 1.

chatty but happy. (Of a ship) 'not very smart in appearance': RN c.p.: C.20. (F. & G.) See chatty, adj.

chatty, catty, and scatty. This c.p. disparages those girls and women who chatter, are spiteful, and scatter-witted: since ca. 1955. (Petch, 1969.)

chatty feeder. Var of chattry feeder.

chauff. To act as chauffeur: to since ca. 1925. Gavin Holt, The Murder Train, 1936, 'Sorry, I'm chauffing Cynthia'.—2. To drive: since ca. 1925. Herbert Adams, The Crooked Life, 1931, 'Not fit to chauff a dust-cart'.

chauld. See chokey.

chant. See chant.

chant the play. To expose and/or explain the ways and tricks of thieves: ob. c.; from ca. 1845.

chaunted, properly chanted. Celebrated, hence famous. Lit.: in street ballads. Reynolds in his boxing verses, The Fancy. Reynolds (not to be confused with the prolific serial-writer) was the latest-comer of the great 'pugilistic' trio of 1815-30: Tom Moore, Pierce Egan, J.H. Reynolds.

chaunter. See chanter.

chaunter cove. A newspaper reporter: c. from ca. 1840. Contrast chaunting cove.

chaunter-cull. A writer of street ballads, carols, songs, last dying speeches, etc., for ad hoc consumption; gen. to be found in a 'pub'. Not recorded before George Parker, 1781, but prob. existent from ca. 1720. C.; ob. by 1890, † by 1900.

chaunter upon the leer. C. and low, ca. 1830-70: an advertiser. (By itself, chaunter is c. for a street singer, C.18-19: see chanter.)

chaunting cove. A dishonest horse-dealer: c. of ca. 1820-90. (Egan's Grose.) See chanting.

chauvering. Sexual intercourse: Lingua Franca (?) and low: from ca. 1840. Whence the low chauvering donna or moll, a harlot. Cf. charver, q.v. Etym. obscure: but there is perhaps some connexion either with Fr. chauffer, to heat, with S.E. chafe, and with Northern dial. chauve, to become heated, to rub together or, more prob., with Romany charoo (or charva-er), to touch, meddle with.

chav(v)y. A child: Parlyaree: from ca. 1860. Ex romany chavo or chavi. See also bewer.

chaw, n. A yokel: from ca. 1850. Thomas Hughes. Abbr. chaw-bacon, q.v.—2. The process of chewing; a mouthful (e.g. a quid of tobacco). From ca. 1740: orig. S.E.; from ca. 1860, either a low coll. or a sol. or—see EDD—dial. for chew.—3. A trick, a hoax: University, ca. 1870-1900. Cf. a bite, q.v.—4. See ETON, §2, in Appendix.

chaw, v. To eat, or chew, noisily: C.16-20. Until ca. 1850, S.E., then either low coll. or sol.—2. To bite: from ca. 1870. Kipling in The Scots Observer, 1890 (in a poem called 'The Oont'), 'And when we saves his bloomin' life, he chaws our bloomin' arm.'—3. (University) to deceive, hoax, impose upon: ca. 1869-1914. Cf. bite, v.—4. To defeat, overcome: coll.:—1887 (Baumann).

chaw-bacon. A yokel: coll.; from ca. 1810. Lex. Bal.; Whyte-Melville in General Bounce.

chaw(-)over. To repeat one's words to satiety: low coll. (?ex Yorkshire dial.); from ca. 1820.

chaw the (or one's) fat. A RN var. of chew the fat, q.v., to grouse or 'spin a yarn': late C.19-20. Goodenough, 1901.

chaw(-)up. To destroy, smash, 'do for': from ca. 1840, mainly US. Dickens.

chawer. One who chews, esp. if roughly:—1611: orig. S.E.; in C.19-20, low coll. (Cotgrave.) Rare. The same applies to the C.16-20 chawing, chewing, (fig.) rumination.

chaws. Sexual intercourse: low coll.: from ca. 1860; ob. Cf. chauvering.

chay, pron. shay. A sol. for chaise, as in post-chay. From ca. 1702. Mackenzie, 1771, 'The pleasure of keeping a chay of one's own' (OED).

cheap. In on the cheap, cheaply; economically: coll.: since late 1850s. H., 1st ed.—2. In dirt or dog cheap, the former from ca. 1835 (Dickens, Oliver Twist, 1838); the latter from ca. 1570 (Holinshed has it) and † by 1840: coll. In C.20, often cheap as dirt (Lyell) or as muck (a blend with common as muck).—3. See feel cheap.

cheap and cheerful. 'Used deprecatingly, e.g., of a carpet one has bought for a weekend cottage and wouldn't have at home; or critically of someone else's choice of decoration or clothing' (Michael Goldman, 1978); middle-class coll.: since ca. 1950. Simon Hoggart, New Society, 10 Mar. 1983, notes the var. cheap but cheerful. Contrast cheap and nasty, adj.

202

cheap and nasty, n. A pasty: Aus. rhyming s.: C.20. (A.A. Martin, 1937.) Ex:-

cheap and nasty, adj. Either lit. or =pleasing to the eye, inferior in fact. From ca. 1830: coll. >, by 1890, S.E. Athenaeum, 29 Oct. 1864, 'or, in a local form, "cheap and nasty, like Short's in the Strand", a proverb applied to the deceased founder of cheap dinners'; this gibe no longer holds good.

cheap and nasty bargain. An apprentice: nautical officers': late C.19-20. (Bowen.) Ex prec.

cheap as dirt. See cheap, 2.

cheap at half the price! 'That's a very reasonable price': a c.p. used when one is satisfied with a price either asked or charged: since ca. 1920 (?much earlier). P.B.: there is some dispute about the meaning; different people use it in different ways. Perhaps orig. a perversion of the more sensible 'cheap at twice the price'; cf. the nonsensical apples a pound pears, and see DCpp.

cheap beer. 'Beer given by publicans at night-time to officers': policemen's:—1909 (Ware).

cheap-tripper. One who goes on cheap trips: coll.: from ca. 1858. James Payn.

cheapie. Anything very cheap later C.20. Private Eye, 16 Mar. 1979, 'We rang British Leyland and asked if they had provided a car for [a public figure]. They said, "He got a cheapie, all right!"' [i.e. with considerable discount, in this instance]. (P.B.) cheapness. A 'hangover'. See feel cheap.

cheapo. Cheap; perhaps implying 'cheap and nasty', but still an unnecessary elab.: coll.: since mid-1970s. 'The first fanzine was Sniffin' Glue (1976). The style is cheapo, spontaneous...' (Peter York, in Harpers & Queen, 1977); 'the purveyors of cheapo home accessories' (S. Lyall, in New Society, 26 Nov. 1981, p. 381). May also be used as n. (P.B.)

cheaps, the. A cheap edition, as of a 7s. 6d. novel re-issued at 3s. 6d. Publishers', booksellers', and bookbinders': from ca. 1910; since ca. 1930, coll.

Cheapside, come at it, or home, by (way of). To buy a thing cheap: mid-C.18-19; coll. (Grose, 2nd ed.) Var.: get it by way of Cheapside.

cheapskate. A stingy fellow given to cheating; adopted, ca. 1944, ex US, where, by 1960, 'standard' (W. & F.).

cheat, occ. chate, chete, etc., is a mid-C.16-19 c. word—gen. = thing, article—appearing in many combinations, e.g. belly-cheat, an apron, and quacking-cheat, a duck: in only a very few instances has this term penetrated English proper even to the extent of becoming s. (Harman; Grose.) Etym. obscure, but prob. related to 'chattel'. The unprecided pl means the gallows: cf. chatts. (As a sham sleeve, it is S.E.) See also peck in combination.

cheat-sheet. An instructor's aide-mémoire: RAAF: since (?) ca. 1960; I heard it in the late 1960s. (P.B.)

cheat the worms. To recover from a serious illness: proletarian coll.:—1887 (Baumann).

cheated the starter, they. A c.p., applied to a married couple whose first child arrives before it is formally due: since ca. 1910.

cheatee. One who is cheated: coll.; from ca. 1660, very rare in C.18, revived in C.19.

cheaters. Close-fitting (male) pants, esp. if with elastic leg-bands: from ca. 1910; †. Cf. draughters, the female version.—2. Spectacles (glasses): Can. s.: adopted, by 1930 at latest, ex US, where it was certainly gen. s. (orig. underworld) by ca. 1920. (With indirect thanks to Mr. R.W. Burchfield.)—3. Foam-plastic bust-forms (falsies): Aus.: since ca. 1945. Lawson Glassop, Lucky Palmer, 1949, "'Cheaters," said Mrs Shendon, as if instructing a class of dull children, "make mountains out of molehills."' Cf. falsies.—4. 'Eyes. Sometimes spectacles or sunglasses' (Powis): underworld: current in 1970s. Cf. sense 2, which prob. referred also to dark glasses.

cheating law. Card-sharpping: late C.16-early 17 c. Greene.

cheats. Sham cuffs or wristbands: c. and low, late C.17–early 19.—2. In Randle Holme's Armoury, 1688, a showy, fur-backed waistcoat. (See also note on cheat.)

cheaty-wop. A middle-class feminine softening, prob. orig. for nursery use, of the bald assertion 'cheat!': C.20. (P.B.)

check. 'To reprimand, to take to task, during the exercise of one's duty' (Partridge, 1945). Proleptic: it should check the recipient's evil ways.—2. The Artillery's Check! (As you were) came, in the Army and then in the other Services, to serve for 'I have checked', all is now well, all right, O.K.: coll.: since 1940. By 1950, check!, O.K., had become fairly common, and by 1955 very common, among civilians; but this civilian use was aided by adoption of American check!, O.K.—3. In get (one's) check, to receive one's discharge, esp. from a medical board: Services' coll.: 1916–18. F. & G.—4. In get (one's) check, to be killed: army: WW1. (Ibid.) Cf. cash (one's) checks.

check it up or check up. To enter a theatre with another person's discarded pass-out check: theatrical and theatre-goers':—1909: ob. Ware.

check up on. To eye amorously: since ca. 1936. To assess a woman's sexual charms.—2. A synonym of keep tabs on: adopted, ca. 1960, ex Can., where current since ca. 1920.

checker. An inspector: busmen's coll.: from ca. 1925. Daily Herald, 5 Aug. 1936.—2. A homing pigeon: C.20. H.U. Triston, Men in Cages, 1938.

checks. See cash (one's) checks, and cf. check, 3, 4.

chee, adj. Long: pidgin: from ca. 1870. (B. & L.) Abbr. muchee.

chee-chee. Of mixed European and Indian parentage: Indian Army and Anglo-Indian coll.; in army usage, and esp. in first half of C.20 (after which, ob.) it meant half caste, usu. applied to a girl. Ex Hindi exclam. = fi! Late C.19–20 spelling usu. chi-chi.—2. As a n., the minced English of Eurasians; the half-breeds as a class (cf. Bombay Welsh). Both n. and adj. date from mid–late C.18. Y. & B.

cheechako. A tenderfoot: Can. (Yukon and NW): late C.19–20; by 1949, ob. Note Robert W. Service, Ballads of a Cheechako, 1909. A Chinook j. word, lit. 'new-comer': chee, new; chako, to come. (Leechman.)

cheek, n. Audacity, effrontery, assurance: coll.: since ca. 1820. Bill Truck, Sep. 1823; have the cheek (to do something), Ibid., Dec. 1825. Mayhew, of doctors: 'They'd actually have the cheek to put a blister on a cork leg.' In C.20, often, if 'bare-faced', cool cheek. Cf. face.—2. Hence, insolence to an elder or superior: coll.: since ca. 1830. An early occurrence of this sense is in Sessions, June 1835; also recorded in Marryat's Poor Jack, 1840, a locus exemplifying give cheek = to cheek, q.v.; George Moore, The Mummer's Wife, 1884, 'If he gives me any of his cheek, I'll knock him down.' Cf. lip.—3. A share: from ca. 1820: low coll. Esp. in 'where's my cheek?' and the set phrase, to one's own cheek, all to oneself, as in 'Jon Bee', 1823, and Lever's Charles O'Malley, 1841.—4. See checks.—5. A cheeky lout: London schools':—1887; † by 1920. Baumann.

cheek, v. To address saucily: from ca. 1840: coll. (Mayhew, Dickens.) Occ., though † by 1920, to cheek up. Commonest form: give cheek; v.t. with to.

cheek-ache, get or have the. To be made to blush; to be ashamed of what one has done: artisans' and tailors' from ca. 1860: ob.

cheek it. To face it out: coll.: 1851 (Mayhew: OED); 1887, Baumann (cheek it out). Ex cheek, v., q.v. cheeker. One who speaks or addresses others impudently: 1840 (OED): coll. Rare in C.20. Ex cheek, v.

cheekiness. Impudence; cool confidence; audacity; tendency to 'give cheek'. Coll., recorded in 1847; Aytoun & Martin; Trollope in The Three Clerks. Ex cheek, n., 1.

cheekish. Impudent; saucy: coll., ca. 1850–1900. Mayhew.

cheeks. The buttocks: coll., from ca. 1750. (Grose, by implication.) Cf. blind cheeks. When, in 1928–30, dresses were the soul of wit, London club-men heard, prob. ex the Stock Exchange, the rhyme, 'If skirts get any shorter,' said the flapper with a sob, 'There'll be two more cheeks to powder, a lot more hair to bob', sometimes known as 'The Flapper's Lament'.—2. 'Cheers, an imaginary person; nobody; as in "Who does that belong to? Cheers!"' (Sinks, 1848): low: ca. 1780–1870. (Sessions, Feb. 1791, p. 203.) Cf. Cheeks the Marine.—3. A jeering, insulting interj.: ca. 1860–80. (H., 3rd ed.) Cf. cheeks near cunnyborough for a poss. source.

cheeks and ears. A fanciful name for a headdress not long in fashion: coll.: C.17. The London Prodigal, 1605.

cheeks near cunnyborough, ask. (Cf. cheeks, 1.) Ask my arse! Mid-C.18–early 19 low London c.p. used by women only. See cheeks; cunnyborough = cunny = cunt. Grose, 1st ed.

Cheeks the Marine. Mr Nobody. A character created by Marryat, who conscientiously popularised it: Peter Simple, 1833. Fifty years later, Clark Russell, in his nautical glossary, defined the term as 'an imaginary being in a man-of-war'. By 1850 there had arisen the now ob. tell that to Cheers the Marine = tell that to the marines, q.v. See cheeks, 2.

cheeky. Saucy, impudent, insolent, 'cool'. 'Ducange Anglicus', 1857; Henry Kingsley, 1859. Ex cheek, n., 1, 2.

cheeky-arsed. As in 'You cheeky-arsed young bugger' (kid, youth): workmen's: C.20. (F. Leech, 1972.)

cheeky monkey! A Lancashire phrase popularised by the radio comedian Al Read in the late 1950s.

cheeky new fellow. A first-term naval cadet. She new fellow.

cheeky possum. Cheeky fellow: esp., cheeky child (mostly boy): Aus. juvenile: since ca. 1935. B., 1953.

cheer, give (one) the. To bid a person welcome: proletarian coll.: from ca. 1870; ob. Baumann.

cheer!, what. See what cheer!

cheer-chaser, -chasing; chase cheers. The agent, the verbal noun, the verb, for 'curry favour with the mob': Aus. coll.: since ca. 1930. (B., 1943.)

cheer up (, cully), you'll soon be dead! A c.p. of C.20. (Musings, ca. 1912, p. 56.) It either comes from or, at the least, occurs in an early C.20 music-hall song: 'I've got a motter "Always be merry and bright"'—rendered, Julian Franklyn tells me 'in a painfully miserable tone'. See DCpp.

cheerer. 'A glass of grog, or of punch' (Bee): public-house coll.: ca. 1820–80. Ex its effect. (The term occurs in Scots as early as 1790: EDD.)

cheerful giver. Liver (bodily organ): rhyming s.: C.20. An allusion, not a designation; the designation is bow and quiver. See esp. Franklyn 2nd.

cheeri! Cheerio!: NZ: since ca. 1930. (Slatter.)

Cheeribye! Good-bye, or au revoir: 1942+. A blend of cheerio + goodbye. Cf. cheerioski.

cheerio!; cheero! A parting word of encouragement, an informal 'Goodbye!'; in drinking, a toast: coll.: resp. 1915 and ca. 1910. The first is rather more familiar, less aristocratic, esp. after WW1 (although B. & P. attribute the development of cheerio out of cheero the to officers). While cheerio is perhaps the commoner in later C.20 usage, both forms are still (1980s) heard, though perhaps > slightly ob. There was until ca. 1960, when it was replaced by a Hilton Hotel, an Other Ranks' club in Hong Kong called 'The Cheero Club'; Punch cartoons of WW1 tend to use cheero. Cf. cheers! and cheery-ho! (E.P.; P.B.).—2. Hence, adj. (from ca. 1919), mostly upper-class in use, as in Dorothy L. Sayers, Clouds of Witness, 1926, "He seemed particularly cheerio . . .", said the Hon. Freddy . . . The Hon. Freddy, appealed to, said he thought it meant more than just cheerful, more merry and bright, you know.' Ob.—3. Hence, tipsy: S. Africa: since ca. 1936. Prof. W.S. Mackie in Cape Argus, (?29) June 1946.

cheerioski. 'Cheerio!' ca. 1925–38. Phillip Macdonald, The Rynox Mystery, 1930.

cheers! Often three cheers! A coll. expression of deep satisfaction or friendly approval: from ca. 1905.—2. Since ca. 1945, replacing cheerio, a drinking toast; by 1950, and still, mid-1980s, perhaps the commonest salutation on raising the glass. It has become, since ca. 1960, much commoner than cheerio as a farewell also, and is often used, moreover, since ca. 1970, as 'Thanks!' as acknowledgment or for a small favour. All usages coll. (P.B.)

cheers are running up my legs!, the (sometimes prec. by dead comical). 'Sarcastic remark greeting callow outlook or uncritical enthusiasm: ca. 1930-50' (L.A., 1978).

cheery. Cheerful, lively: C.17-20. Also, apt to cheer or enliven: C.18-20, ob. On the borderline between coll. and S.E.; Johnson considered it a ludicrous word—it is certainly unnecessary beside cheerful.

cheery-ho! A post-WW1 var. of cheerio!

chees and chaws. The Italianate pronunciation of ecclesiastical Latin: British Catholics': ca. 1850-1900. See, e.g., Bernard Ward, The Sequel to Catholic Emancipation, 1915, and F. Brittain, Latin in Church, 1934. Ex c > ch, long o > aw, etc.

cheese, n. An adept; a smart or a clever fellow: Public School and university: ca. 1860-1900. Ex 4.—2. Smegma: low: mid-C.19-20.—3. A round disc used in such games as skittles: sporting: since ca. 1950 (Merriam-Webster's Sports Dictionary, 1976.) Ex circular flat cheeses.—4. As the cheese, the fashion; the best; 'the correct thing'. Recorded in The London Guide in 1818, apparently soon after the birth of this phrase, which seems to have > gen. only ca. 1840. Barham; Reade, 1863, a character, concerning marriages, saying 'I've heard Nudity is not the cheese on public occasions.' Prob. ex the Urdu chiz, a thing (see Y. & B.; F. & H.); but see caz. Cf. the derivative the Stilton, and 'people get married every day, and no one thinks cheese of it but themselves' (Mrs H. Wood, Johnny Ludlow, 1st series, ca. 1870: Mrs B. Huston). See also howling cheese.

cheese, v.t. Very rare except in cheese it!, be quiet!: low from ca. 1855; previously c. (—1812), when also=run away! (Vaux). Ex cease.—2. V.i. To study hard: Bradfield Coll.: since ca. 1917. Marples.—3. To smile (esp., broadly): Oundle School: since ca. 1918. (Ibid.) E.P. suggested 'ex grin like a Cheshire cat', but a derivation from the photographers' persuasive 'Say cheese!' seems much more prob. (P.B.)—4. To hurry, to stride out: Lancing Coll.: since mid-1930s. Ibid.

cheese and crust! A proletarian perversion and evasion of Jesus Christ!:—1909 (Ware); ob. by 1930.

cheese (or cheeses) and kisses. Wife: rhyming s., on missus: late C.19-20. E.P. gives—1931 as date for the pl form; Franklyn, Rhyming, records: 'Has more currency in Australia (where it is generally reduced to cheese) than in England.'

cheese-cutter. A prominently aquiline nose: from ca. 1870; ob. H., 5th ed.—2. The large, square peak of a cap: whence cheese-cutter caps. Ca. 1870-1910.—3. A peaked 'full-dress' cap: Conway Training Ship: from ca. 1895; ob. Masefield, The Conway, 1933.—4. A sword: army: C.20. H. & P.—5. A bicycle seat: Aus., esp. Sydney motor mechanics': since ca. 1950. (B.P.)—6. See:— cheese-cutters. Bandy legs: from ca. 1820; ob. Francis Place, 1824, as mentioned in Dorothy George's London Life in the Eighteenth Century, 1925. (Thanks to David B. Gardner.)

cheese down. 'To coil rope into neat spirals for a harbour stow' (P-G-R): RN coll.: late C.19-20; by 1940, perhaps rather j. So to coil the rope that it assumes the shape of a large cheese.

cheese-eye(d). Phonetic rendering of Japanese chisai, small (Granville): RN, esp. on China stations: late C.19-early 20. 'Bartimeus', A Tall Ship, 1915.

Cheese-head; mostly in pl. A Dutchman: nautical: C.20. "The cheese-heads have one [tug] lying handy." Probably Witterzee or one of the other big Dutch tugs, Nicholas thought swiftly' (Wilbur Smith, Hungry as the Sea, 1978).

cheese it! See cheese, v., 1.—2. Occ.=cave!, q.v., 'look out!': low: late C.19-20. F. & G. cheese-knife. A sword: military: from ca. 1870. Cf. toasting-fork.

Cheese(-)mongers, the. The First Life Guards: from ca. 1788; ob. 'Come on, you damned Cheesemongers!' was heard at Waterloo. Ob. Also, from before 1890, called the Cheeses. The real 'etymology' is obscure: perhaps many tradesmen > officers.

cheese-toaster. A sword: coll.: ca. 1770 (?earlier)—1913. (Grose, 1st ed.; Thackeray.) Adumbrated in Shakespeare, Henry V, II, i: 'Cpl. Nym: ... I will wink and hold out mine iron. It is a simple one; but what though? it will toast cheese, and it will endure cold as another man's sword will'.—2. Hence, also, a bayonet. It occurs in Fredk. Chamier, The Life of a Sailor, 1832, at II, 104, as a RN, esp. a RM term. (Moe.). It was a popular term with the army in WW1. Cf. cheese-knife and toasting-fork.

cheesecake. 'A display, esp. pictorial, of feminine beauty and physical charm: adopted, ca. 1944, ex US. The display is of as much anatomy as the law will allow.' [Thus E.P., writing ca. 1950, before the onslaught of the 'permissive society.'] Claiborne suggested, 1976, that 'the ultimate source is the "girlie" photographer's injunction to his subject, "Say cheese"', which produces an attractive, if spurious, smile.' However, the quo'n below antedates any photography by a couple of centuries, and it may be that cheesecake is simply synon. with, but richer than, any tart. (P.B.) Rump: or an Exact Collection of the Poems and Songs relating to the Late Times, 1662, contains a lament on the occasion of Oliver Cromwell's rustivating the ladies of the town. It contains this couplet: 'But, ah, it goes against our hearts/To lose our cheesecake and our tarts'—upon which find E.P. commented, 'certainly relevant semantically and may even be relevant lexically'. Cf. derivative beefcake.—2. See steamer.

cheesed. Has, since 1941, been often used for the next. Jackson, 1943.

cheesed(-)off. Disgruntled: Liverpool boys' (—1914); Liverpool troops' (1914-18); common in all Services since ca. 1935; but since 1940, esp. RAF; and, since ca. 1950, gen. (Grenfell Finn-Smith, in list communicated in April 1942; H. & P., 1943; Partridge, 1945.) Perhaps suggested by browned off, q.v., via the brown rind of cheese. Professor Douglas Hamer derives it ex the Liverpool boys' cheese off!, run away and don't be a nuisance, itself current since ca. 1890.

cheeser. An eruption: low coll.: C.19-20, ob.—2. 'A strong smelling fart' (Lex. Bal., 1811); ob.—3. A chestnut: Cockneys': late C.19-20.—4. 'One who is, or whose feet are, smelly is known as a smelly cheeser': since ca. 1965. (Jonathan Thomas, 1976.)

cheeses. The Utility sign; called in its day [WW2] "the cheeses", this was two capital Cs, standing for civilian clothing, plus 41 for the year 1941' (Illustrated London News, Oct. 1974, p. 28).—2. See Cheese-mongers; make cheeses.

cheeses and kisses. See cheese and kisses.

cheesing rows (3, three). (Three) rousing cheers: C.20. A deliberate Spoonerism.

cheesy. Showy, fine (opp. dusty): coll.; from mid-1850s. (Surtees in Ask Mamma.) Ex the cheese, q.v., at cheese, n., 4.—2. Smelly: (low and schoolboys') coll.: late C.19-20. Ex the smell of strong cheese (B. & L.) Cf. cheeser, 4.

cheesy-feet. A derogatory term of address: proletarian: C.20. (F. Leech, 1972.) Malodorous.

Cheesy Gordons, the. The Gordon Highlanders 'have always been known as "The Gay Gordons" but a more recently-heard [nickname] within the Highland Brigade is "The Cheesy Gordons"', said to derive from the pronounced yellow line incorporated in the Gordon tartan' (Carew). Perhaps also cf. cheesy, 1, as 'recently' here=late C.19.

cheesy-hammy-eggy-topsides. A savoury popular with those who have sailed with Chinese cooks: (nautical) officers': late C.19-20. Cheese and ham with an egg on top.

chef. A ship's cook: joc. RN coll. on the border-line of joc. S.E.: C.20. F. & G.

cheild (pron. che-ild). A derisively coll. C.20 pron., esp. with my, of child: in ridicule of the agonies of the transpontine drama. Infrequent before WW1, common in military fun, fairly gen. since.

chello. A var. of jillo=jildi, make haste!

Chelsea, get. To obtain the benefit of Chelsea military hospital: military, mid-C.18—early 19. Grose, 3rd ed.

Chelsea College to a sentry-box. The longest possible odds. See Lombard Street to a...

Chelt. A resident or frequenter of Cheltenham: sporting and fast life: ca. 1820–60. (Spy, II, 1826.) An abbr. of Cheltonian.

Cheltenham (Cold). Cold: rhyming: late C.19–20. This is an intensive var. of Cheltenham bold. (Franklyn, Rhyming.) P.B.: this does not make much sense as it stands. I suggest a mishearing of Cheltenham Gold, ex the famous 'Cheltenham Gold Cup' horse-race.

chem, n. and adj. Chemistry, esp. as a subject of study; in or of chemistry: Aus. students': since ca. 1910. (B.P.) Not only in Aus. Even pupils in the Anglo-Chinese schools in Hong Kong talk of chem—and math, geog, phiz, etc. (P.B.)

chemise-lifter. 'A female invert or daphne (obs.)' Barry Humphries, Nice Night's Entertainment, 1982, glossary): Aus.

chemist, the. A medical officer: RN and army: since ca. 1918; ob. by 1930. F. & G.; Granville.—2. See mangy cat.

chemmy (pron. shemmy). The game of chemin de fer: coll. from ca. 1920.—2. (Pron. kemmy). Chemistry as a subject in school. Cf.:-

chemmy lab. Chemistry laboratory: schools': C.20. S.F. Hutton, Yarn of a Yeoman, 1930.

chemozzle. Occ. var. of shemozzle, q.v., 'an affair of any sort'.

Chepmans. Cheapside Market: C.17 c. See -MANS, in Appendix.

cheque, have seen the. To have exact knowledge: coll., from ca. 1870; ob.

cheque, little. See little cheque.

Cher, the. The River Cherwell: Oxford undergraduates': late C.19–20. Collinson.

cheri or Cheri. A charming woman: Society: ca. 1840–60. Ware, 'From Madame Montigny, of the Gymnase, Paris. Her stage name remained Rose Cheri. She was a singularly pure woman, and an angelic actress. Word used by upper class men in society ... to describe the nature of their mistresses.' (?rather chérie.)

cherpin. A book: c.: ca. 1840–1900. ('No. 747'.) A loose, almost sol., abbr. of cherpin llwyer, Shelta for a book (B. & L.).

Cherries, the. Boscombe Association Football Club: sporting: since ca. 1950.—2. 'The dogs' (greyhound racing). See cherry-hog and cherry oggs, 2.

cherrilet, cherrylet. Gen. in pl. A nipple: late C.16–17. Sylvester, 'Those twins ... Curled-purled cherrilets'. On the borderline between coll. and S.E.

cherry. A young girl: c.: ca. 1850–1900. Cf. cherry-pie and cherry-ripe, 4.—2. The hymen: late C.19–20. Cf. cherry-popping.—3. Hence, a girl's virginity: C.20.—4. Hence, a young man's (physical) virginity: Can. and Brit.: C.20.—5. Hence, a virgin boy or youth: adopted, late 1960s, ex US. 'Both of his sons were cherries' (Hollander).—6. In take the cherry, to take the new ball: Aus. cricketers': since ca. 1950. (Observer, 21 June 1953.) Ex the ball's redness.

cherry ace. A face: rhyming s.: only ca. 1940–55. Franklyn, Rhyming.

cherry berry. See cherryberry.

cherry-bounce. Cherry-brandy: col.; from ca. 1790; but in Robertson's Phraseologia Generalis, 1693, as cherry-bouncer. Cf. the S.E. sense, brandy and sugar.—2. A charabanc: late C.19–20. By perversion ex char à banc.

Cherry-Breeches or -Bums. See Cherubims.

cherry-colour(ed). Either black or red: in a common card-cheating trick: low coll.: from ca. 1850. Cf. Grose's cherry-coloured cat, a black one.

cherry-hog. A dog: mid-C.19–20. Rhyming. In greyhound racing, the cherries = the dogs. Cf. cherry oggs, 2.

cherry-merry. Merry; convivial; slightly drunk: coll.:—1775. Perhaps the same as Middleton's kerry merry. ?cherry corrupted; but cf. chirping-merry, q.v.—2. (Anglo-Indian) a present of money: coll.: from ca. 1850. (H., 3rd ed.) Cf.:- cherry-merry bamboo. A thrashing: Anglo-Indian, from ca. 1860; ob. (H., 3rd ed.) Lit., a present of bamboo: see cherry-merry, 2.

cherry nob. (Very rare in singular.) Military policeman: military: C.20. F. & G., 'From their red cap covers'. More gen. red caps.

cherry(-)nose. Sherry: S. African low (?c.). C.20. Cape Times, 3 June 1946, article by Alan Nash.

cherry oggs. A game played with cherry-stones on the pavement: London children's: since ca. 1880.—2. Greyhound racing: rhyming s., on dogs: since ca. 1920. Often shortened to the cherries. See ogg, 2.

cherry-picker. A pathic, catamite: RN: C.20.—2. A crane-like vehicle, whether grab or lifter or both: builders': C.20. Illustrated Carpenter and Builder, 24 Feb. 1967.—3. £1: rhyming s. on nicker (Hillman, 1974).—4. An inferior seaman: nautical: late C.19–20. (Bowen.) Cf. sense 1.

Cherry-Pickers, the. The 11th Hussars. See Cherubims.

cherry-pie. A girl: from ca. 1870; ob. Cf. cherry, 1 and 2.—2. Extra money earned by a performer doubling two roles, as, e.g., a clown acting as a ticket-collector: Can. circus s.: adopted, late 1950s, ex US. Heard on TV, 5 Sep. 1973 (Leechman).

cherry-pipe. A woman: low rhyming s. on c. cherry-ripe, a woman. From ca. 1880; ob.

cherry-popping. Defloration: low and raffish: adopted, mid-1960s, ex US. (Hollander.) Hence, also, pop the cherry, to deflower. Prompted by cherry, 2.

Cherry Ripe. Centuripe, in Sicily: Army: 1944–5. By the process of Hobson-Jobson. P-G-R.

cherry-ripe. A Bow Street runner: C.18—early 19. Ex the scarlet waistcoat.—2. A footman dressed in red plush: from ca. 1860; ob.—3. A pipe: rhyming s. (—1857). 'Ducange Anglicus', 1st ed.—4. In c., a woman: from ca. 1840. Cf. cherry.—5. Nonsense: rhyming s. (on tripe): C.20.

cherry-ripe! A way of calling ripe cherries! Coll.: from ca. 1600. Herrick. One of the street-cries of London.

cherry-tree class; or the cherry trees. HMS Rodney and HMS Nelson British battleships, because they were erroneously supposed to have had their tonnage reduced by the Treaty of Washington, the US capital: RN (wardroom): 1930s—very early 1940s. Bowen, 'Because they were cut down by Washington', the cherry-tree hero of the truth.

cherryberry. '(Red beret of) Parachute Regiment soldier' (Hawke): RM: 1970s.

chershom. See charrshom.

cherub. See Cherubims, 3.

Cherubims. (Military) the 11th Hussars: from ca. 1813. From their cherry-coloured trousers. Cherry-Pickers, because some of their men were captured when on outpost duty in a Spanish orchard. By low jocularly, Cherry-Bums. Also Cherry-Breeches. Cherubs, says the SOD, 'in early Christian art ... were app. coloured red'.—2. As c-, peevish children: late C.18—early 19: coll. Facetiously allusive to 'To Thee cherubim and seraphim continually to cry' in the Te Deum. Grose, 1st ed.—3. Chorister, mod. choir, boys: from ca. 1850; ob. Also cherubs. Perhaps ex the Te Deum verse.

cherubims (or -ins), in the. Unsubstantial; 'in the clouds': C.16–17; coll.; rare. Udall.

Chesby or c-. A good-natured fellow: RAF: WW2. P-G-R.

Cheshire, the. Var. of cheese, n., 4: ca. 1870–1900. (Ware.) Cf. Stilton in this sense.

Cheshire cat; often cat. An inhabitant of Cheshire: coll. nickname:—1884 (Ware, at webfoots). Ex:—2. In grin like a Cheshire cat, to laugh, or smile, broadly. Pej. coll.: from ca. 1770. Wolcot, 'Lo, like a Cheshire cat our Court will grin!'; Thackeray; 'Lewis Carroll' in Alice in Wonderland. In C.19 one often added eating cheese, chewing gravel, or evacuating bones. Origin still a mystery. I surmise but cannot prove cheeser, a cat very fond of cheese, a cheeser having > a cheeser cat > a Cheshire cat; hence grin like a Cheshire cat would = to be as pleased as a 'cheeser' that has just eaten cheese. Or the development might be cheeser: Cheshire-cheeser: Cheshire cat. chessy. Characteristic of good play at chess: coll.: 1883 (OED).

chest. See chuck a chest; chuck out (one's) chest; cock a chest; get it off (one's) chest.

chest and bedding. A woman's breasts: nautical (—1785); † by 1900. Grose, 1st ed. (at kettle drums).

chest-plaster. A young actor: theatrical: 1883—ca. 1890. A satirical description by the older actors: 'From the heart-shaped shirt-front worn with a very open dress-waistcoat, and starched almost into a cuirass' (Ware.) See shapes and shirts.

chest stooge. A junior detailed to keep a Cadet Captain's sea-chest tidy for him: RNC, Dartmouth: since 1939. Granville.

chestnut. Abbr. chestnut-coloured horse: coll.: from ca. 1840.—2. A stale story or outworn jest. Coll., 1886+, ex slightly earlier US. Perhaps ex 'a special oft-repeated story in which a chestnut-tree is particularly mentioned' (W.; cf. OED quotation for 1888); perhaps ex roast chestnuts (cf. done brown).—3. See chestnuts.

Chestnut Troop, the. 'A' Battery, Royal Horse Artillery: 1793: military coll. >, in late C.19, j. (F. & G.) Ex colour of the horses. chestnuts. Bullets: army: WW1. Not very gen. (F. & G.) Cf. Fr. châtagnes.—2. The female breasts: since (I'd guess) ca. 1960. Lindsay Mackie mentions it, in reviewing a book by Miss Joy Parkinson, in the Guardian, 5 Apr. 1976. Not very gen.; at least I hadn't heard it.

chestol, chest-ol 'Request to anyone to get off a chest lid, so that the chest may be opened' (Masfield): Conway Training Ship: from ca. 1880.

chesty. Weak in the chest; of tuberculosis or pneumonia: coll.: C.20. OED Sup.—2. Hence (of a patient), coughing; hospital nurses' coll.: late C.19—20.

chete. See cheat, a thing.

Chiv; Chevvy (pron. Shev). A Chevrolet motor-car: motorists' coll.: adopted, with the vehicle, ex US, ca. 1925.—2. Specifically, a Chevrolet truck: Forces: WW2. P-G-R. cheval de retour. An old offender: occ. found in English books of ca. 1850—90; never used by the underworld, rarely by the police.

Chevalier Atkins. A journalistic coll. var., ca. 1895—1910, of Tommy Atkins. Ware.

chevo. See shevo.

Chivy Chase. A face: rhyming s.:—1859; † by 1914, except as abbr., chivy or chivvy. H., 1st ed.; Manchon.

chew, n. A quid of tobacco: low coll.: from ca. 1820. An early occurrence is in Dublin University Magazine, Dec. 1835. (Moe.)—2. Food: S. African schools': C.20.—3. Fellatio: RN lowerdeck: mid-C.20. 'When I was pissed I wouldn't refuse anything, slut, beef, chews, anything' (Heart, 1962: P.B.).

chew, v. To talk: NZ: since ca. 1920. Jean Devanney, Kiven, 1929, 'Chewing about homely women and chasing the gay birds.' Ex chew the fat.

chew (someone's) ballocks off. To rebuke or reprimand severely: Services', esp. the Army: C.20. A var. of chew the balls off.

chew (someone's) ear. Aus. var. of bite (someone's) ear, to borrow money from that person: C.20. B., 1942.

chew it over. C.20 Aus. var. of chew the fat, q.v.

chew (someone) out. To reprimand severely: Can.: C.20. (Leechman.)

chew the balls off (someone). To reprimand severely: military: C.20.

chew the cud. To be very thoughtful: coll., from ca. 1860.—2. To chew tobacco: from ca. 1845.

chew the fat or rag; in C.20, occ. chew the grease (Manchon). To grumble; resuscitate an old grievance: military: from ca. 1880. (Brunlees Patterson, Life in the Ranks, 1885.) In WW1 there was a tendency to distinguish, thus: chew the fat, 'to sulk, be resentful'; chew the rag, 'to argue endlessly or without hope of a definite agreement' (B. & P.). Moreover, in the C.20 RN, chew the fat additionally = 'to spin a yarn' (Bowen), and 'Taffrail' has chew (one's) fat, to argue. With the rag version, cf. rag, n., 9, the tongue.

chew the mop. To argue on and on: military.

chew the rag. See chew the fat, and note that, since ca. 1920, it has predominantly signified 'to talk, to chat, to yarn'—with no undertone of grumbling, sulking, or brooding.

chew tobacco. See make dead men...

chew up. (Gen. in passive.) To reprimand, to 'tell off': mostly military: C.20. F. & G.—2. To savage; to mangle (the body of): C.20. Jean Devanney, Travels, 1951.—3. See chewed up.

chewed rag or string. See feel like a piece of ..., to feel excessively limp.

chewed to loon shit. Ground up, hence ruined: Can.: since ca. 1930. Robin Leech, 1974, applies it to, e.g., a road.

chewed up, be. To be very nervous and/or off colour: from ca. 1920. G. Heyer, Why Shoot a Butler?, 1933.—2. See chew up.

chewey; chewies; chewy. Chewing gum: Aus. juvenile: since ca. 1944. (B., 1953.) Ex the habit rendered even more popular by the multiple and ubiquitous presence of US servicemen in Aus. in late 1942—5.

chewing her oakum. (Of a wooden ship) beginning to leak, the caulking being bad: nautical: mid-C.19—20; ob. Bowen.

chewre. To steal: c.: C.17—18.

chi-a(c)k, -hike, -ike. See chiike.

chi-chi, n. For Anglo-Indian and half-caste senses see chee-chee.—2. Unnecessary fuss; affected protests or manners: Society coll.: C.20. Adopted ex Fr. coll. Perhaps ex preceding term, but prob. an arbitrary formation.—3. Hence, excessive red-tape: Army officers': since ca. 1939. P-G-R.

chi-chi, adj. Affected, particularly in manners. Ex the n., 2. chiack is the predominant Aus. and NZ C.20 form of chiike.

chib, n. A low Cockney corruption of the mainly dial. jib, mouth, lower part of the face: 1899, Rook, Hooligan Nights, 'He slings a rope ... round her chib, and fastens it to a hook in the wall. Then [she] can stand, but can no longer argue.'—2. A weapon, particularly a razor: Glasgow teenage gangsters': since ca. 1930. (Observer, 4 Feb. 1973, cited by R.S.) Probably a deformation of synon. chiv, 1.

chib, v. To stab. Ex the n., 2, same usage and date.

chic, n. Skill, dexterity, esp. in the arts; finish, style; elegance: coll.: from ca. 1855. Ex the Fr. Lever; Yates, 1866, 'A certain piquancy and chic in her appearance.'—2. 'Style': artists' coll.: late C.19—20.

chic, v. 'To chic up a picture, or to do a thing from chic = to work without models and out of one's own head': artists' s. (—1891) verging on coll. (F. & H.) Ex prec.

chic, adj. Elegant, stylish: from late 1870s: coll. after ca. 1890. (Not so used in Fr.)

Chicago piano (or hyphenated). A multiple pom-pom gun: RN and MN: WW2, from ca. 1940. (Michie and Graebner, Lights of Freedom, 1941.) As Claiborne pointed out, 1976, 'The ultimate reference must be to the sub-machine-guns used by American gangsters in 1920s, perhaps esp. in Chicago' (itself perhaps named from the rattle of the nicleodeon, or other mechanical producer of 'music'. P.B.). Cf.—

Chicago typewriter. A 4-barrelled US-made .5 in. pom-pom: RN: WW2. (Peppitt.) Var. of prec.

Chicargot. Americanism in speech: RN (wardroom): ca. 1940. (Granville). A blend of 'Chicago' and 'argot'. Mostly in to 'talk Chicargot', to affect American expressions; it has the air of a fairly ephemeral pun.

chice; chice-am-a (or -a-ma)-trice. Nothing; no good; low and vagrants': C.19. An early occurrence is in Boxiana, III, 1821 (the longer form). Egan's Grose has both forms and implies that the term was orig. Yiddish. Prob. ex Romany chichi, nothing, and the source of shicer, q.v.

chick. A child; whether endearment or neutral term. From M.E. onwards. Coll. almost S.E.—2. Anglo-Indian coll. (—1866): abbr. chicken, a Venetian coin (= 4 rupees). Esp. in 'I'll buy you a chick.'—3. One's girl friend: dance-fanatics' and Teddy-boys': adopted, ca. 1940, ex US. This is a specialisation of US s. chick, a girl; cf. sense 1.—4. A male prostitute: prostitutes' and homosexuals': since ca. 1945.

chickabiddy. A young girl: orig. (—1860) costers'. Ex the nursery name for a chicken often employed as an endearment (—1785) for a child. (Grose, 1st ed.) The -biddy may orig. have been birdy: W.

chickaleary cove. An artful fellow: costers'; from ca. 1860. 'The C. C.' was one of the famous Vance's songs ca. 1869, but it was anticipated by chickle-a-leary chap in chorus of underworld song quoted by W.A. Miles, Poverty, 1839. Perhaps originated in cheeky, impudent, and leary, suspicious, alert, wide-awake: cf. downy bird, q.v.

chickee. A girl. See chickie.

chicken, n. C.17–18 coll., 'a feeble, little creature, of mean spirit' (B.E.). Whence the † hen-hearted and chicken-hearted, adj., and chicken-heart, a coward, also coll.—2. A child (C.18–20, coll.), chick being more usual.—3. In (—1851) c., a pint pot: cf. cat-and-kitten sneaking, q.v.—4. A fowl of any age; the chicken, fowls collectively: coll.: C.19–20. OED Sup.—5. A boy homosexual: c. and low C.20. Cf. senses 1 and 2.—6. 'A young runaway schoolboy, likely to be preyed upon by homosexuals. The male equivalent of a "mystery" [q.v.]' (Powis); police and underworld: current in 1970s. An extension of sense 5.—7. In that's your chicken, a var. of that's your pigeon (properly pidgin)=that's your concern:—1931 (Lyell).—8. See no chicken.

chicken!, exclam. Coward!: 'a derisive cry hurled at one who shows signs of cowardice, or even of commendable prudence': Can.: teenagers': since ca. 1950. (Leechman.) P.B.: also Brit. juvenile, and joc. adults': since ca. 1955. See also chicken out and play chicken.

chicken, adj. Cowardly: adopted, ex Can., ca. 1946 in Britain. Cf. chicken!—2. Petty, insignificant; petty cheating: Can.: ca. 1910–40. The origin of sense 1. (Priestley.)

chicken-berries. Hen's eggs: RN (lowerdeck): C.20. (P-G-R). Cf. cackle-berries.

chicken-butcher. A poulterer; also, anyone shooting very young game: coll.: late C.18–20; ob. (Grose, 2nd ed.) In C.20 Glasgow, chicken-choker.

chicken-feed. Small change: Can. (and US), C.20; by 1937, also English. John Beames, Gateway, 1932.—2. Hence, a mere pittance (financial), or, less common, a bare minimum of food: coll.: since ca. 1941.

chicken-fixing, n. A gadget. See gilguy.

chicken-food. Blanquette: RN: late C.19–20. Bowen.

chicken-fruit. Hen's eggs: RN: C.20. (Granville.) Cf. chicken-berries.

chicken-hammed. Bandy-legged: mid-C.18–19 coll. Grose, 1st ed.

chicken nabob. A man returned from India with but a moderate fortune: late C.18–early 19 coll. Grose; 2nd ed.

chicken out. To retire from fight, risk, adventure: Aus.: adopted, ca. 1943, ex US. Cf. chicken! (B.P.) Current in RAF since ca. 1950, and general Eng. s. since late 1950s. The RAF usage has var. go chicken. Cf. chicken, exclam. and adj.

chicken-perch. A church: rhyming s.: late C.19–20. B. & P.

chicken-picker. A one-finger typist: Aus. joc.: since ca. 1930. Ex plucking a chicken.

chicken-run, the. The goal-mouth (a netted area) in Association Football: sporting: C.20; but little used since ca. 1960. It occurs in, e.g., Frank Richards's school stories. (Petch.)

chicken-shit. Information from a superior: Can.: since ca. 1920. But Can. have chicken-shit in one's blood (since ca. 1930)=to be a coward.—2. Adj. Petty, insignificant; petty cheating: Can.: ca. 1910–30. The orig. of chicken, adj., 2.—3. As exclam., = 'rubbish!'; gen. contemptuous. Adopted ex Can./US, current in 1970s.

chickery-pokery. Spelling var. of jiggery-pokery.

chickie (also spelt chickee, -ey, -y). A serviceman's girl-friend or sweetheart: Aus. soldiers': WW2. (B., 1943.) Cf. the US chick, a girl.—2. Hence, any young girl; Aus. teenagers': since ca. 1945. (Dick.)

chicko, chico, n. and adj. (A) very young (person, esp. a soldier): army: C.20. (B. & P.) E.P. suggested, for this sense, 'i.e., a mere chicken', but cf.:—2. 'Used on RAF Iraq stations, ca. 1925–45, for 1, a bearer, a personal servant (esp. bungalow chico); 2, a child, a baby. Prob. ex Sp. chico, "small boy: lad: dear fellow"' (L.A.) P.B.: the term, used for a child, was still current in the Army in the 1960s–early 70s.

chickster. Var. spelling of shickster, a girl: in Sinks, 1848.

chicot. Verminous: military: 1916–18. B. & P., 'From the French ill-success with hitchy-koo'.

Chidley Dyke. The line between Cheltenham and Southampton Docks: railwaymen's: C.20; ob. Known to the passengers as the Pig and Whistle Line.

chief (the chief). The Chief Engineer, or, loosely, the First Mate: nautical coll.: mid-C.19–20.—2. A chief inspector: police coll.: late C.19–20.—3. A Petty Officer: RN: C.20. Bowen.—4. A—gen. joc.—form of address: coll.: since ca. 1880. Esp. in OK, chief! (post-WW1). See OK.—5. A Flight-Sergeant, RAF. See chiefie.

chief buffer, the. The Chief Boatswain's Mate: RN: late C.19–20. Bowen.

Chief Con, the. The Chief Constable, head of an English county police force: policemen's: C.20; by ca. 1930, at latest, also journalists'. (Petch, 1969.)

chief cook and bottle-washer. The most important 'dogsboddy' in an organisation, often used in self-deprecation, 'Oh, I'm the ... around here!': coll.: C.20. (P.B.)

chief housemaid, the. A 1st Lieutenant, RN: RN: C.20. He is 'responsible for the cleanliness and good order of the ship' (Bowen).

chief muck of the crib. 'A head director in small affairs' (Bee): low: ca. 1820–80. Cf. Lord Muck, and chief cook ...

chief pricker. Regulating petty officer: stoker: RN: since ca. 1910. (Granville.) Cf. chief stoker.

chief scribe, the. Chief Petty Officer, Writer: RN: since ca. 1910. Granville.

chief stoker. 'A seagull said to be the incarnation of one' (Granville): RN: late C.19–20.

chiefie. A Flight-Sergeant: RAF: since April 1918. (Sgt-Pilot Rhodes, letter, 1942.) Ex the days when in the RN Air Service the corresponding man held the rank of Chief Petty Officer (3rd Class). Also, in more formal address, simply chief.

chife. An occ. var. of chive: see chive-fencer. (Grose, 1st ed.) As is chiff (Lex. Bal.).

chigger. A var. of gigger or jigger, esp. as a private still. Bee.

chiike, occ. chy-ack (or chiack) and chi-hike; rarely chi-ak. A street (orig. costers') salute; a hearty word of praise heartily spoken. From ca. 1855; low coll. (H., 1st ed.; The Chickaleary Cove, where it is spelt chy-ike). Echoic, prob. a perverse reduplication of hi (as a call).—2. Whence, in Aus., a jeering call, a piece of 'cheek': from ca. 1880... Cf.:—

chiike, chy-ack, v. To hail; praise noisily: low coll.: from ca. 1855.—2. Among tailors: to chaff ruthlessly: from ca. 1865. In this sense it has been current in NZ since ca. 1890. G.B. Lancaster, Sons o' Men, 1904, 'Feared o' the boys chiacikin' yer?—3. Whence, in Aus., to 'cheek', of which it is a corruption: from mid-1870s. (Morris). But in C.20, chiack has meant, predominantly, 'to tease', and is sometimes used intransitively.—4. V.i., to make a 'row', 'to kick up a din': low coll.: from ca. 1880. OED Sup.

chiike with the chill off, give. To reprimand, scold, abuse. From ca. 1866; ob.

child of darkness. A bell-man: c.: late C.17–early 18, B.E.

Childe Harold. Any male having the given name Harold tends, in Aus., to be nicknamed Childe Harold: C.20. Ex Byron's famous poem so titled. (B.P.) childer. Children: in C.19–20, low coll. when not dial.

Childers. A holding in 2¼% Consols redeemable in 1905: Stock Exchange from 1884, when Mr Childers originated this stock in an 'attempt to reduce the interest on the whole of the Three per Cent. Debt' (A.J. Wilson, Stock Exchange Glossary, 1895); † by 1906, except historically.

children in the wood, the. 'Dice in the box' (Renton Nicholson, An Autobiography, 1860, p. 64): gambling: ca. 1850–1900. Perhaps a pun on the Babes in the Wood.

children's shoes. In make . . ., to be occupied absurdly or trivially; (to be made) to look ridiculous: coll.: late C.17–19; in C.19, mainly dial. Behn, 1682, 'Pox! shall we stand making children's shoes all the year? No: let's begin to settle the nation, I say, and go through-stitch with our work.' Cf:—2. In make feet for children's shoes, to coit: late C.18–mid-19. Ex 1. Child's Guide. See bible.

child's play. Something very easy to do: coll. >, by 1880, S.E.; from ca. 1839, but dating from late M.E. in form child's, or childer, game.

chill, v.t. and i. To warm (a liquid): coll.: from ca. 1820. Dickens, in Boz, 'A pint pot, the contents . . . chilling on the hob'. Abbr. take the chill off, also coll.

chill off, with the. An expression of disbelief. See with the chill off, and chiike with . . .

chiller. A 'thriller' that chills the blood: book world: since late 1950s. On the back of the jacket of Alistair Maclean's Fear Is the Key, 1961, his Night without End is described as 'A "chiller" by Alistair Maclean'. Elliptical for spine-chiller.

chilli-cracker (or written solid). 'Anyone of mixed White and Indian parentage or ancestry, a half-caste or Eurasian; presumably from the Indians' love of hot spiced dishes. I heard it used in Malaya, among Service people, in the mid-1950s' (P.B., 1974): after ca. 1970, nostalgic. See quot' n at blackie-white.

chillum. (Anglo-Indian, from ca. 1780) a hookah, the smoking thereof, a 'fill' of tobacco therein: coll. rather than s. The orig. and proper meaning is that part of a hookah which contains the tobacco. Ex Hindi chilam.

chilo. Child: Anglo-Chinese pidgin: mid-C.19–early 20. B. & L.

Chiltern Hundreds, accept the. 'To vacate a favourable seat at the alehouse' (Bee): public-house: ca. 1820–60. Punning S.E. sense.

chimbl(e)y, chimley. A chimney: (dial. and) sol.: C.18–20. chime, n. The even firing of a multi-cylinder engine: motorcyclists' coll. (Dunford): since ca. 1950.

chime, v. In c., to praise, esp. highly; puff; canoodle mercenarily: C.19.

chime in, v.i. To join harmoniously in conversation, etc.: from ca. 1830; coll. soon S.E. Cf-chime in with. To be in entire (subordinate) agreement with: since ca. 1800; coll. soon > S.E. Moe cites its use in The Port Folio, Nov. 1805.

chiming. (See chime, v.) 'Praising a person or thing that is unworthy, for the purpose of getting off a bad bargain' (Bee): c.: C.19–early 20.

chimley. See chimbly.

Chimleyco. Pimlico: Londoners': from ca. 1860. Bee.

chimmel; chimmes. Resp., a stick; wood, or a stick: Shelta: C.18–20.

chimmy. A chemise. See the more gen. shimmy. (A.S.M. Hutchinson, 1908.) chimney. One who smokes (esp. a pipe) a great deal: from ca. 1880; coll. Cf. smoke like a chimney.—2. See make the chimney smoke.

chimney-chops. A Negro: coll.; late C.18–mid-19 pej. Grose, 1st ed.

chimney-pot. The tall silk hat worn by men, also (long †) a riding-hat for women: coll.: from ca. 1865. Abbr. chimney-pot hat. Cf. bell-topper, stove-pipe.

chimney-sweep(er). The aperient more gen. known as the black draught: ca. 1850–1900. (H., 3rd ed.) Cf. custom-house officer.—2. A clergyman: from ca. 1870; ob. Cf. clergyman = a chimney-sweep.

208

chimozzle. A var. (recorded in 1900) of shemozzle.

chimp. A C.20 coll. abbr. of chimpanzee; orig. among the keepers at the Zoo; but Edward Lear, in Laughable Lyrics, 1877, had 'the wail of the Chimp and the Snipe'. ?Poetic licence.

chin, n. A talk: coll.: late C.19–early 20. A shortening of chin-wag, 2.—2. An actor: Aus.: since ca. 1920. B., 1942, 'Cf. "blue-chin"'.—3. In up to the chin, deeply involved; extremely busy: coll.: from ca. 1860. P.B.: in later C.20 more usu. up to the ears or eyes (in it).

chin, v. To talk, esp. if loquaciously or argumentatively: orig. (—1880), US; anglicised ca. 1890. From ca. 1920, also chin-chin. Vbl n., chinning, a talk.—2. To hit (a person): low: from ca. 1910. Orig. on the chin, and esp. in Glasgow.

chin-chin! A salutation; in C.20, a c.p. toast. This Anglo-Chinese term dates from late C.18, but it > popular, outside of China, only in WW1, though it was general in the RN in late C.19 and, by 1909, common in 'club society' (Ware). Chinese ts'ing-ts'ing, please-please. (W.)—2. Hence also v., to greet: 1829 (Y. & B.). Whence chin-chin joss.—3. See chin, v., 1.

chin-chin joss. Religious worship: pidgin-English (in Chinese ports): mid-C.19–20. Ex prec. + joss, an idol. Y. & B. chin-chopper. A blow under the chin: boxing, from ca. 1870; ob. by 1930.

chin-food. A bore's conversation: Army and RAF: since the 1920s. H. & P.—2. In RN: idle prattle (Granville): since ca. 1920.

chin-music. Conversation; oratory: coll.: early C.19–early 20. Bill Truck, 1822.

chin-prop. A brooch: ca. 1820–80. Renton Nicholson, An Autobiography, 1860, p. 256.

chin-strap. The buttocks: low Cockney: from ca. 1918. Derisive. See-chin-straps, be on (one's). To be utterly exhausted: Army: since ca. 1920. Ex come in on (one's) chin-strap.

chin-wag. Officious impertinence: ca. 1860–1900. H., 3rd ed.—2. Whence, talk, chatter: from ca. 1875. Punch, in 1879: 'I'd just like to have a bit of chin-wag with you on the quiet.' chin-wag, v.i. To talk: C.20. Ex chin-wag, n., 2.

China. This Cockney coll. dates from ca. 1870 and is defined by Mr Julian Franklyn as 'The whole world other than Europe and English-speaking lands. The place rich folk go to for their holidays. The place any person not wearing European dress comes from. Also distant-local, as in "Yeh sends that boy aht fer a errind an' 'e goes orf teh bleed'n Choina!'" china, chinex. A pal, a mate, a friend, of either sex: abbr. china plate, q.v., rhyming s.: since ca. 1890; in C.20, esp. in WW1, and in later C.20 it occurs most often in joc. address: 'Me (or my) old china!' In later C.20 also Aus. (McNeil).

China-bird. A naval man serving on the China station: RN: earlier C.20 (Bowen). Granville observes, esp. 'one whose conversation is interlarded with "Chop Chops" and "Can do's".'

China Dragons, the. 'The Royal Berkshire Regiment distinguished itself in the China War of 1840–2, and in commemoration of its service was granted a dragon on its colours, superscribed "China". For this reason [they] were sometimes known as "The China Dragons"' (Carew).

china plate. A pal, friend: rhyming s. on mate: since ca. 1870. D.W. Barrett, Navvies, 1880.—2. With the, the First Mate: MN.: C.20. Franklyn 2nd.

china orange. See all Lombard Street . . ., an expression of long odds.

China-side. The China station: RN coll.: C.20. Granville.

China Street. Bow Street (London): c.: ca. 1810–50. (Vaux.) Ex proximity to Covent Garden and its oranges.

China Street Pig. A Bow Street officer: c., or low s.: ca. 1810–30. (Lex. Bal.) See pig, 2.

China Tenth, the. The 10th Hussars: military: 1810; slightly ob. In that year the Prince Regent was its colonel; hence it was handled as carefully as valuable china. (F. & G.) See also Chai Tenth.

Chinaman. A left-hand bowler's leg-break: cricketers': from ca. 1905. Ex the manner of Chinese script, right to left, or perhaps, simply, damnably devious.—2. An Irishman: English, esp. Londoners': late C.19–20. Brendan Behan, Borstal Boy, 1958.—3. 'An unshorn lock on the sheep's rump, like the pigtail of Orientals' (Straight Furrow, 21 Feb. 1968): NZ shearers': C.20.

Chinaman's copy. An exact copy, including mistakes and emendations: typists' coll.:—1935.

Chinaman's shout. 'Dutch treat', q.v.: Aus.: C.20

Chinas. Eastern Extension Australasian and China Telegraph shares: Stock Exchange, ca. 1885–1914.

China's cow. The soya bean, abounding in the Far East, and very nutritious: journalistic: C.20.

chine. See chinese.

Chincha dung-boat. A sailing ship engaged in the guano trade from the Chincha islands: nautical coll.: C.20. Bowen.

Chinee. A Chinese: coll.; orig. and mainly US; anglicised ca. 1870. Esp. in the phrase the heathen Chinee. 'This must be a back formation from S.E. Chinese—i.e., if several Orientals are Chinese, a single one must be a Chinese. The same holds good for Portugee.' Thank you, Robert Claiborne!

chiner. See china.

Chinese, n. A Chinese restaurant: coll.: since later 1970s. Time Out, 22 Feb. 1980, 'pubs, a few pints and a Chinese before home' (P.B.).

Chinese attack. 'A lot of noise and activity to delude the enemy that an attack was brewing in that spot, and to distract his attention from the real one' (P-G-R): Army, mostly officers', coll.: WW2.

Chinese burn. 'Cruelty perpetrated by grabbing someone's arm with both fists close together and twisting in opposite directions' (B.P.): Aus. and Brit. schoolchildren's: since ca. 1930. (B.P.) Var.: Chinese burner, as in Dick. P.B.: in Eng. applied also to nipping short hairs at the nape and pulling with a small circular motion: schoolboys': mid-C.20.

Chinese compliment. A pretended deference to, and interest in, the opinion of another when actually one has fully made up one's mind: from ca. 1880; coll. soon S.E.

Chinese consumption. The possession of only one effective lung; hence also the so-called 'smokers' cough': Aus.: since ca. 1935. A pun on Wun Bung Lung, one defective lung. (B.P.)

Chinese dominoes. A load of bricks. See HAULIERS' SLANG, in Appendix.

Chinese drive. A snick through the slips (cricket). See French drive.

Chinese fashion. The sexual act performed with the partners lying on their side: Forces in the Far East, 1939–45. 'The Chinese fashion of writing at right angles to ours led the Far Eastern troops to assume that other things were at right angles to normal. Hence the female pudend was assumed to be transverse externally': thus a valued correspondent writing late in 1961.

Chinese fours. 'B.R. standard 4 freight locomotives' (Railway, 2nd): railwaymen's: since ca. 1945.

Chinese gunpowder. Cement, See HAULIERS' SLANG, in Appendix.

Chinese landing. A landing made with one wing lower than it should be: Can. airmen's: since ca. 1917. A pun on Wun Wing Low. Dr Leechman heard it in WW1.

Chinese National Anthem. A loud exhortation: RN: C.20. Granville.

Chinese Rolls-Royce. A Ford car: Royal Army Service Corps's: WW1+. (F. & G.) Ex Chinese as a pej. in, e.g., Chinese compliment.

Chinese wedding-cake. Rice pudding: RN, C.20; thence to the other Services. (Sunday Chronicle, 1 Mar. 1942.) Ex rice as the staple food of S. China.

Chinese screwdriver. A hammer: Aus.: since ca. 1950. 'Ex the folk belief that the Chinese, like sloppy Australian handymen, use a hammer to drive and extract screws' (B.P., 1974). Cf. Brummagem screwdriver.

ching! ching! ching! and whop! whop! Exclamations descriptive of 'events happening quickly in succession': since ca. 1955. (P.B., 1974.) The former, evocative of bells ringing, the latter of heavy impacts.

chinger. To grumble; scold; complain; hence, to deter a prospective customer: market traders': C.20. Hence, chingerer, one who does this. (M.T.) Cf. chunter, and see get the chingerers.

chink. Money, esp. in coins. In pl, either coin (collective) or ready cash: only the latter sense (C.16–20) has always been coll. After ca. 1830, chinker is very rarely used, chink taking its place. Shrewdly honest Tusser, 'To buie it the cheaper, have chinks in thy purse'; Jonson.—2. The female pudend: low coll.: C.18–20.—3. As C-, a Chinese: mainly Aus.; from ca. 1890. Cf. Chinkie and John (abbr. John Chinaman). In later C.20, also much used in Brit.—4. Prison: Devonshire s.: 1896 (Eden Phillpots in Black and White, 27 June: EDD). Ex lit. S.E. sense of chink, a hole, on s. chink, prison.

chinkers. Money, esp. in coin: coll.: from ca. 1830. Sir Henry Taylor, 1834; Baumann in his 'Slang Ditty' prefacing Londonismen, 1887. Derivatively developed from chink(s) and likewise echoic.—2. In C.19–20 c., handcuffs joined by a chain.

Chinkie, -ky, n. A Chinese: Aus. from ca. 1880. A.J. Boyd, Old Colonials, 1882. (Morris.) By perversion of Chinaman [or from 'slit-eyes?', P.B.]. Cf. chink, 3.—2. 'A rating who is always reminiscing about the good old days on China-side' (Granville): RN: earlier C.20.—3. A Chinese restaurant: gen. coll.: late 1970s. E.g., a young commercial traveller, a 'rep', complaining: 'A flat in London? No chance! Everlastin' bed'n' breakfast. King of the chip-shops and chinkies, me!' (P.B.)

Chinkie, -ky, adj. Chinese: rare before ca. 1950. (P.B., 1977.)

Chink-chonks. A patronising English term for all Asians dwelling East of India. 'We could fill the school with candidates with four A-levels if we took all the little chinki-chonks who flood the public schools' (the Dean of a London medical school, quoted in the Guardian, 18 Dec. 1978). Cf. nig-nogs.

Chinky-toe-rot. A foot-complaint prevalent in the East (and in other tropics): RN: C.20. (Granville.) Unpleasant to see—or to smell.

chinless wonder. Applied to any young male of the upper classes that, because of a receding chin, gives the appearance of dull-wittedness or lack of resolution: gen. coll. derogatory: since mid-C.20. Cf. titless wonder. (P.B.) chinner. A grin: Winchester Coll.: ca. 1885–1900. Wrench.

chinning, vbl n. See chin, v.

chiny. Sugar: army: later C.19—early 20. (F. & G.) Ex Hindustani chini.

chinqa soldi. (Properly cingua s.) Fivepence: theatrical and Parlyaree from ca. 1840. Ex It. via Lingua Franca.

chinese. A chance: a Winchester Coll. deliberate corruption: C.19–20. Wrench (chine).

chintz. A bed-bug: ca. 1880–1900. (G.A. Sala, in the Daily Telegraph, 14 Aug. 1885.) Most prob. ex Sp. chinche.

chip, n. A child: late C.17—early 19. (B.E.; Grose.) Cf. chip of the old block, q.v.—2. A sovereign: from ca. 1870. Miss Braddon in Phantom Fortune.—3. A slight fracture; a piece chipped off: coll.; from ca. 1870.—4. In C.20 racing c., a shilling—the coin or its value. Cockney, in the late 1930s (Muover). Hence half a chip, sixpence (Tempest).—5. With not to care, a chip=at all; C.16–20, ob.; coll. > S.E. by 1600.

—6. See chips.—7. A rupee: Army: late C.19—early 20. Cf. sense 4, prob. a derivative.—8. A quarrel: Aus.: C.20. 'We had a bit of a chip over one thing and another' (Kylie Tennant, Lost Haven, 1947).—9. In have (got) a chip, short for chip on (one's) shoulder: coll.: since ca. 1960. (Petch.)

chip, v. To 'cheek', interrupt with (gen. deliberate) impertinence: Aus. and NZ: from ca. 1890. (C.J. Dennis.) Perhaps ex the 'flying-off' of wood-chips; cf. chip at, q.v.—2. Hence, to chaff, in any way whatsoever: C.20. Olive Dent, A V.A.D. in France, 1917: 'Most nervous patients are reassured by "chipping", for chipping is the language they [wounded soldiers] understand.' (Mrs Barbara Huston).—3. To reprove; criticize adversely: Aus.: C.20. Baker.

chip at. To quarrel with; to criticize adversely: coll.: from ca. 1880. Cf. chip, v., and the orig. US phrase, with a chip on one's shoulder.—2. As have a chip at, to make fun of, to chaff: coll.:—1923 (Manchon).

chip back. To rebate, to discount; to reduce (a price) by a stated sum, as in 'I'd want some change out of that. Can't you chip me a tenner back?': secondhand-car dealers', esp. in London: since ca. 1945. Anthony Cowdy in colour sup., Sunday Times, 24 Oct. 1965.

chip in, v.i. To join in an undertaking; contribute a share; interpose smartly in a conversation, discussion, or speech: orig. (ca. 1870) US; anglicised ca. 1890. Perhaps ex chips, 5.—2. Hence, to interfere: C.20. F. & G.

chip in broth, pottage, porridge. Resp. C.17—early 19, late C.17—18, mid-C.17—early 20: all coll. for a thing or matter of no importance. Church Times, 25 June 1880, 'The Burials Bill... is thought... to resemble the proverbial chip in porridge, which does neither good nor harm' (OED); Moe cites the use of this form in Dryden, 1680.

chip of the same (old) block. Of the same character; with inherited characteristics: coll.: C.17—20; ob. In a sermon, Sanderson, 1627: 'Am I not a child of the same Adam, a vessel of the same clay, a chip of the same block with him?' (OED).

chip off the old block. The perhaps orig. Aus. form of the prec. entry, which it has now, late C.20, largely replaced in England.

chip on (one's) shoulder, have (got) a (or to carry) a. To bear a grudge against the world, often for some specific and individual reason, as 'Oh, him! He's got a chip on his shoulder the size of a blooming wood-yard. And all just because...': coll.: US, since ca. 1880; Can. since ca. 1890; Eng., only since 1942, Aus. and NZ since 1943 or 1944, all introduced by US servicemen. Orig., lumbermen's, from chips falling on to the shoulders of men working beneath or very near a tree that is being felled. But Professor F.E.L. Priestley, letter, 1965, tells me that it 'comes from the American boy's method of challenge to a fight—putting a chip on his shoulder and daring the other to knock it off... There are chips in the yard of every American farm where they burn wood. To go round with a chip on your shoulder is to be looking for a fight, constantly challenging all comers, and this is what the expression means in America.' This is the origin accepted by Craigie & Hullbert and by Mitford M. Mathews.

chip one off. To salute a superior officer: RN: since ca. 1930. Granville.

chipe. (Usu. of a woman) to talk in a high-pitched voice, often persistently, with a suggestion of complaint; as in, 'Oh, turn it [the radio] off! It's only that Maggie woman chiping on again...': C.20: South Country coll., poss ex dial., though not in EDD. Perhaps a blend of cheep+whine; certainly echoic. (P.B.)

chipper, n. A lively young fellow: 1821, Pierce Egan, Life in London; † by 1870. Cf. the adj.—2. A crisp blow or punch: pugilistic: ca. 1840—90. Augustus Mayhew, Paved with Gold, 1857.—3. 'A prison tinder-box' (Tempest): prisons' coll.: mid-C.20.

chipper, adj. Well, fit; lively: coll.: adopted, ex US, ca. 1880. Cf. Northern dial. kipper.

chipperow. 'Shut up!' See chub-a-row.

chippery. 'Chipping'; (an exchange of) banter: Cockneys': C.20. Pugh, 'She hadn't 'alf got over that bit of chippery with the rozzer in the station.' Cf. chip, v., 2.

chipping. Vbl n. (Ex chip, v.) Impudence; the giving of 'cheek': Aus.: from ca. 1890.—2. The action of giving a tip: C.20. (Manchon.) Prob. ex chips, 3.—3. Grumbling or incessant talking; theatrical coll.: from ca. 1870. (B. & L.) Cf. chowing.

Chippy. The inevitable nickname of a man surnamed Carpenter: mostly military: late C.19—20. (F. & G.) Ex chips, 1. Cf.:-

chippy, n. A var. of chips, 1, 'carpenter': Services': since ca. 1918. (H. & P.) But also builders' s., C.20, for either a carpenter or a joiner.—2. A fish-and-chip shop: orig. Merseyside, from early C.20; by mid-C.20, with a currency far more widespread. Cf. chinkie, n., 3.—3. Hence, since late 1940s, the owner of such a shop.—4. A semi-professional prostitute: Aus. and Can.: adopted, ex US, ca. 1942. B., 1943.—5. Hence, since ca. 1950, any girl: Aus. low. B., 1953.

chippy, adj. Unwell, esp. after liquor: cf. Fr. gueule de bois: from ca. 1870. Ex feel cheap, q.v.—2. Apt to be impudent: coll.:—1888 (OED). Cf. chip in, q.v.—3. Cheap: Can.:—1949.—4. Resentfully envious; with a 'chip on one's shoulder', q.v.: coll.: 1970s. (Martin Amis in the Observer, 19 June 1977.)

chippy chap. A sailor of carpenter's rating: RN: late C.19—20. ('Taffrail', passim.) Cf. Chippy and wood-spoiler. Ex chips, 1. Cf.:-

chippy rigger. A carpenter rigger: RAF: since ca. 1930. Jackson. Ex:-

chips. A carpenter: esp. in Army and Navy; from ca. 1770; in C.20, coll. (Grose, 1st ed.; Clark Russell.) Cf. the C.17—19 proverb, a carpenter is known by his chips (Apperson).—2. Hence, in the Army of late C.19—20, a Pioneer sergeant. F. & G.—3. Money: from ca. 1850. (H., 1st ed.) Cf.:-4. Counters used in games of chance:—1880: s. soon > coll. ?ex US.—5. A kind of grill, from its hardness: Wellington Coll.: late C.19—early 20.—6. Knees; esp. on (one's) chips, exhausted: RAF: from ca. 1930.—7. Chipolata sausages, the small, thin sausages, as opposed to traditional large, fat English 'bangers': lower and lower-middle classes': since ca. 1950. (Anthony Burgess, letter, 1967.) Anglicised spelling of It. cipollata.—8. As the Chips, a train by which people working in Sydney commute to the towns in the Blue Mountains: Aus., esp. NSW: since late 1940s. Prompted by similar the Fish, whose journeys start later. (B.P.)—9. In to have had (sometimes got, one's) chips, to have died, to be dead: since 1917. Adopted ex US pass in (one's) chips, itself from the game of poker. See also cash in...—10. Hence, though more usu. get (one's) chips, to be dismissed or discharged from one's job: since ca. 1960. (Petch, 1969.)—11. In give (someone) full chips; (his) chips are high, both of which signify approval: R Indian N: WW2. Here chip=rupee (cf. chip, n., 7). P-G-R.

chips are down, the. 'This is final; whatever is done now is irrevocable': C.20 c.p. See DCpp.

chirromancer. See conjuror.

chirp. To sing: coll.; C.19—20.—2. In c., to talk; hence (—1864), to inform to the police. H., 3rd ed.

chirper. A singer: C.19—20, coll.—2. A glass or a tankard: from ca. 1845. Meredith in Juggling Jerry, 1862, 'Hand up the chirper! ripe ale winks in it.' Cf. chirping-merry, Grose note.—3. The mouth: C.19—20.—4. One who, gen. as member of a gang, haunts music-hall doors, tries to black-mail singers, and, if unsuccessful, enters the auditorium and hisses, hoots, or groans: music-halls', ca. 1887—1914.

chirpiness. Liveliness; cheerfulness; pleasing pertness: coll., from ca. 1865.

chirping-merry. 'Very pleasant over a Glass of good Liquor' (B.E.); convivial: late C.17—early 19: coll. Either the orig. of cherry-merry, q.v., or its explanation. (The Lancashire dial. form is cheeping-merry.) Grose, 1st ed., adds: 'Chirping glass; a cheerful glass, that makes the company chirp like birds in spring.' See chirper, 2.

chirpy. Cheerful; lively: coll., from ca. 1835. Justin M'Carthy; Besant.

chirrup. To cheer or hiss at a music-hall according as a singer has paid or not: coll.: from ca. 1888; ob. Cf. chirper, 4, and chirruper.—2. Vbl n., chirruping (Pall Mall Gazette, 9 Mar. 1888) suggests Fr. chantage.

chirrup and titter. A bitter (beer): mostly theatrical rhyming s.: late C.19–20. Franklyn, Rhyming.

chirrufer. An additional glass of liquor: public-house coll.: ca. 1820–80. (Bee.) Cf. chirper, 2, q.v.—2. A blackmailing hisser, occ. applauder, at a music-hall: coll. 1888. James Payn in an article, 17 Mar. and Pall Mall Gazette, 6 Mar. 1888. See chirrup, v.

chirruping like a three-badge budgie. ‘Ceaseless woman’s nattering: WRNS: 1970s’ (Peppitt.) But earlier than that, I believe; am almost certain that it went back to 1940. ‘Three-badge’ refers to RN long-service stripes.

chirrupy. Cheerily; lively; ‘chirpy’: coll.: from ca. 1870. Burmand, 1874 (OED); but in US at least as early as 1861 (OED Sup.).

chise; occ. chis. Var. of chiv(e), n. and v., (a) knife: c.: ca. 1820–40. (Bee.) Cf. chiser.—2. Var. of chice, nothing. Boxiana, IV, 1824.

chisel. To cheat: from ca. 1800. Prob. orig. dial., it > gen. only ca. 1840. Mayhew, who spells chissel; Sala, who prefers chizzle; also chizzel; even chuzzle. Hence the old conundrum, ‘Why is a carpenter like a swindler?—Because he chisels a deal.’ Chiseller and chiselling are natural but infrequent derivatives.

chisel-mouth. A sheep with teeth in good condition: Aus.: C.20. (B., 1943.) Contrast gummy, n., 7.

chiser, chiver. Variants (ca. 1820–40) of chiv(e), a knife: c. (Bee.) Cf. chise.

chisler (loose but usual for chiseller). A young fellow: Anglo-Irish (—1951). Rarely offensive.

Chiswick. A study at Westminster School. See WESTMINSTER SCHOOL, in Appendix.

chit. A letter or a note: used by Purchas in 1608, while its orig., chitty (still in use), is not recorded before 1673: Anglo-Indian coll.; since WW1, virtually S.E., esp. as = note, written authorisation, pass, an invoice.—2. Hence, an order or a signature for drinks in clubs, aboard ship, etc.: Society, ex India; from ca. 1875; coll.—3. A pill: showmen’s: late C.19–20. Night and Day, 22 July 1937. Hence, chitworker, a fellow who sells pills on the markets. ‘A “crocus” would say, “I’m grafting chits”’ (P. Allingham, letter, 1937).—4. Have a good chit and give a good (or bad) chit. See at have ... and give ...—5. As a very young or an undersized girl, always S.E., but as a pej. for any girl or young woman it has a coll. flavour.

chit-chat. Light and familiar conversation; current gossip of little importance. C.18–20; coll., by 1760 S.E. By alternation-reduplication.

chit-up. To seek (someone) through the head of his department: RN, officers’: since ca. 1940. (P-G-R.) Ex chit, 1.

chitterlings. Shirt frills: C.16–19: s. > coll., then—the frills going out of fashion—S.E. Lit., a pig’s (smaller) entrails. Cf. frill.—2. Hence, the human bowles: mid-C.18–19. Grose, 1st ed., ‘There is a rumpus among my chitterlins, i.e. I have the cholick.’

chitty. An assistant cutter or trimmer: tailors’: from ca. 1870; ob.—2. See chit, 1.

chitty-face. One who, esp. a child, is pinched of face, C.17. In C.18–19, baby-face. A pej. Extant in dial., mainly an adj. in -d. SOD ranks it as S.E., but the authors’ and the recorders’ names connote coll.: Munday, ‘Melancholy’ Burton, B.E., A New Canting Dict. (ca. 1725), Grose (1st ed.), H.

chiv, chive, n. (pron. also shiv). A knife, a file, a saw: Romany and c.: C.17–20; in C.20, applied esp. to a razor-blade set in a piece of wood and used as a weapon in the underworld. See also ochive.—2. The face: low Aus.: —1916 (C.J. Dennis). Ex chivvy as at Chevy Chase (rhyming s.)

chiv, chive, v. ‘To cut with a knife’ (James Dalton, A Narrative, 1728): c.: C.18–20. As in the threat ‘I’ll chive him’ (Ibid.)—2. Hence, to smash a glass in someone’s face, or to use the weapons in chiv, n., 1: c.: C.20. Vbl n., chivving. Charles E. Leach, On Top of the Underworld, 1933.

chiv-man. A criminal that is a professional knifer: c.: C.20. (Pawnshop Murder.) Cf. chivver.

chivalry. Sexual intercourse: late C.18–19: low: ex Lingua Franca. Cf. cavaulting, chauvering, horsing, and:

chivar(e)y. Human coition: C.19 low. See prec.

chive-fencer. A street hawker of cutlery: costers’: from ca. 1850. See chiv(e) and fencer(r).—2. One who ‘fences’ or protects murderers from arrest: c.:—1909.

chiveau. See shevoo, a party.

chiver. An occ. var. (—1887) of chive, esp. as v. Baumann.

chivey, n. A knife: nautical ex Romany: from ca. 1890. Cf. chiv, n., 1.—2. (Also chivy, chivvy.) A shout, greeting, cheer, esp. if rough or chaffing; a scolding. Coll.; a corruption of chevy with sense deflected. From ca. 1810 (Lex. Bal.) and pronounced chivvy.—3. In c., the face, with further var., chevy: from ca. 1860; ob. Prob. early rhyming s., on Chevy Chase.

chiv(e)y, v. To run, go quickly, as in Moncrieff’s Tom and Jerry, 1823, ‘Now, Jerry, chivey! ... Mizzle! ... Tip your rags a gallop! ... Bolt!’ Perhaps ex S.E. Chevy Chase.—2. To chase round (—1830), as in H. Kingsley’s Austin Elliot, ‘The dog... used to chivy the cats.’—3. (Gen. as ppl adj., chiv(v)ted.) To slash (a person) with a knife: c.: C.20. Ex the n., 1.

chiving lay. The robbing of coaches by cutting the rear braces or slashing through the back of the carriage: mid-C.18–early 19 c. Grose, 2nd ed.

chivoo. See shevoo, a party.

chivver. A professional knifer, a var. of chiv-man: since ca. 1920. (John Gosling, 1959.)

chivvy, n. See senses 2 and 3 of chivey, n.—2. As a term of address, ‘old chap’: lower classes:—1923 (Manchon.) Perhaps ex chivvy, a face: cf. old top.—3. The chin: army in Boer War. J. Milne, The Epistles of Atkins, 1902.—4. A moustache: London, mostly low, but not c.: since ca. 1940. Hank Hobson, Mission House Murder, 1959.

chivvy, v. To make fun of, ‘guy’, worry, as in chivey, v., 2: coll.: since ca. 1850.—2. Hence, to scold: c.: C.19–20.—3. To keep (someone) up to the mark by word or gesture: army: late C.19–20.—4. To slash with a knife. See chivey, v., 3.

chivy. Adj., relating to the use of the knife as a weapon: C.19–20 (ob.) c. E.g. chivy duel, a duel with knives.

chizz. To cheat or swindle: Public and Grammar Schools’: since ca. 1880; by 1950 at latest, archaic. From ‘to chisel’.—2. Hence n., as in ‘What a chizz!’ (What a nuisance): C.20. Cf. swiz.

chizzel, chizzle. Var. spellings of chisel, q.v., to cheat. The latter in Sinks, 1848.

chizzer. A ‘chiseller’: (preparatory) schoolboys’: C.20. Nicholas Blake, A Question of Proof, 1935.

chizzy wag. A charity boy: Christ’s Hospital (School): late C.18–19. The ref. in Leigh Hunt’s Autobiography is valid for 1795 (Marples).

Chloe, blind as; drunk as Chloe (loosely Cloe). Exceedingly drunk. The former, ca. 1780–1860, occurs in The New Vocal Enchantress, 1791; the latter dates from ca. 1815, and though ob. by mid-C.20 was not then completely †. Moore, 1819, has like Cloe, vigorously: a s. phrase † by 1890. The Eng. origin is lost in the mists of topicality, but the phrase’s popularity in Aus. owed much to the painting mentioned in do a Chloe, q.v., a reference to nudity.

chlorhin. To hear: Shelta: C.18–20. B. & L.

choagy. See chogey.

choak; choakee; choaker. See choke; chokey; choker.

chobey shop. A second-hand shop: circus hands’: late C.19–20. Perhaps cf. chovey.

choc. (Often in pl.) Abbr. chocolate: C.20; since 1934, almost coll. Cf. choccy.—2. A militiaman (also choco and chocolate soldier): Aus.: WW2. B., 1943.

choc-absorber. ‘A girl or woman who can consume all the chocolates some fool of a man can supply her with. Derived from S.E. shock-absorber’ (Petch, 1966): since ca. 1955.

choccy (or chocky), n. and adj. Familiar term for chocolate: domestic, nursery coll. become widespread, middle-class:

C.20. E.g., 'Have another choccy!'; 'Would you like some choccy cake?'; 'My God, the price of those choccies!' Cf. choc. (P.B.) chock. To hit a person under the chin: Cockney coll.; from ca. 1860. A semi-dial. var. of chuck (under the chin).

chock-a-block (or written solid). Crammed full; as full as may be: coll., orig. nautical, esp. RN: C.19–20. In, e.g., Fredk Chamier, The Life of a Sailor, 1832, at I, 23, 'I was ushered into the larboard berth thus:—"Here, my lads, is another messmate..."—"What another!" roared a ruddy-faced midshipman of about eighteen; "he must stow himself away, for we are chock-a-block here."' Ex the lit. S.E. sense. (Moe.) Also chockablock with, full of. Brian Penton, Inheritors, 1936. "'Chockablock with skite," he growled', is an Aus. example, but the usage is common also in UK.

chocka. Var. of chocker, n. and adj. This, according to a letter from Capt. E.T. Graham, RN, in The Times, 25 July 1980, is the 'correct' spelling; he derives it ex prec.

chocker, gen. old chocker. A man. Not, like codger, a pej. Cockney coll.; from ca. 1860.

chocker, adj. Disgruntled, 'fed up': RN lowerdeck: since ca. 1920 (H. & P.) Ex chock(-)full (which SOD dates to C.18, and shows as a var. of C.17 choke-full). Earlier (?ca. 1900), chock-full was the orig. sense. A WW1 var., chokka, occurs in Mark Bennett, Under the Periscope, 1919. In the 'disgruntled' sense it corresponds to the army's browned off. A WW2 RN var. was at chocker stations (H.R. Spencer). The simple chocker reached the RAF by 1943 at the latest. 'When used in the Service [RN] it... is frequently accompanied by the raising of the right hand, palm down, to chin height, and the addition of the words "... up to here". It seems possible that this expression joined the R.A.F. via the R.N.A.S. over sixty years ago' (Capt E.T. Graham, RN, letter in The Times, 25 July 1980).

chockers. Feet: market-traders': late C.19–20. (M.T.) Origin? chockhead. An Air Frames and Engines Branch rating: FAA: since ca. 1950. (Miss Margaret Wood.)

chocks, pull the. To depart. See pull the chocks and cf.: chocks away! Get on with it!: RAF: since ca. 1935. H. & P., 'Remove the wooden chocks and let the 'planes get off the ground'. Short for pull the chocks away.

choco. A conscientious objector: Aus.: 1939+. Glassop, Rats, 1944.—2. See choc, 2.

chocolate. Abbr. chocolate frog, q.v. McNeil.—2. See bar of chocolate; get a bar and give (someone) chocolate.—3. The word occurs in certain arbitrarily varied phrases implying sycophancy: Services' (esp. RAF): since ca. 1930. The semantic clue lies in brown-nose and brown-tongue.

chocolate bobbies. See hobby-bobby.

chocolate boy. A half-caste, a dark-skinned man: army: since (?ca. 1935. E.g., an elderly sergeant discussing a common acquaintance, a man of mixed parentage, father English, mother Indian: 'Yus, I remember 'im. Black as the ace o' spades—proper chocolate boy, 'e was.' [It was a gross exaggeration!]) (P.B.) Cf. chocolate drop, 2.

chocolate box. 'Time was when "chocolate box" was a term of artistic reproach; nowadays we invite the flower of our art schools to apply their talents and training to chocolate box decoration' (The Times art critic, writing in 1924; quoted in John Lewis, Rowland Hilder: Painter and Illustrator, 1978). I.e., what was later known as kitsch.

chocolate drop. An under-the-age-of-consent girl in the habit of 'sleeping with' seamen: since ca. 1960. (Peppitt, who refers to a Daily Telegraph report, published in 1971.)—2. Name given by white primary-school children to coloured immigrant children: usu. pej. or provocative: 1970s. (Harré, Morgan, O'Neill, Nicknames, 1979.) Contrast ice-cream, q.v.

chocolate frog. An informer: Aus. rhyming s., on dog, n., 11: later C.20. McNeil.

chocolate gale. A strong wind blowing from the NW of the Spanish main: RN coll.: mid-C.19–20. Bowen.

chocolate soldier. See choc, 2.

Chocolate Staircase, the. A road with forty hairpin bends, N. of Tiddim, Burma: army: 1941–5. P-G-R.

chocolate teapot. See much use as a..., useless.

chohey, n. and adj. (A) Chinese: army in Hong Kong: 1960s. 'The place was swarming with choheys'; 'Fancy coming out for some chohey nosh [a Chinese meal]?' The spelling is arbitrary, as I have never seen the term in writing; it replaced tids and was in turn supplanted by slope or slopehead. (P.B.)—2. A Pakistani char-wallah (q.v.) in N. Ireland: army: 1970s. New Society, 24 Apr. 1980, spelling it choghi.

choice. See you pays yer money...

choice riot. A horrid noise: streets': ca. 1890–1915. Ware.

choice spirit. The S.E. sense began with Shakespeare, but in C.18 s., the term meant 'a thoughtless, laughing, singing, drunken fellow' (Grose, 1st ed.).

choke, n. Prison bread: low: from ca. 1880; ob. by 1930.—2. Usu. in pl: chokes, Jerusalem artichokes: greengrocers': late C.19–20.—3. A garotting: Aus. c.: since ca. 1920. B., 1953.—4. A nervous shock; something grievous: low: since ca. 1945. (L.J. Cunliffe, Having It Away, 1965.) Ex sense 2 ofchoke, v. A synonym of strangle, 2.: racing: since ca. 1920. Dick Francis, Dead Cert, 1962, 'He said if I wanted a lesson in how to choke a horse I'd better watch him on Bolingbroke.'

—2. To jolt or shock; to disgust: since ca. 1930.—3. See enough to make a black man choke.—4. In didn't that choke you?, and it's a wonder that didn't choke you!, c.p. comments on a bare-faced or notable lie: C.19–20. Cf. the C.17–18 semiproverbial 'If a lie could have choked him, that would have done it' (Ray).

choke away – the churchyard's near! (Cf. churchyard cough.) A late C.17–early 19 c.p. joc. admonition to anyone coughing. Ray, 1678; Grose, 3rd ed.

choke, chicken: more are hatching. A similar C.18–early 19, then dial., Job's comforting. Swift; Grose, 3rd ed. (Apperson.)

choke-dog. Cheese: low coll.; orig. and mainly dial.: ca. 1820–1920.

choke'em arse. Cheese: Can.: heard by Douglas Leechman in 1908. A costive comestible.

choke-jade. 'A dip in the course at Newmarket a few hundred yards on the Cambridge side of the running gap in the Ditch' (B. & L.): turf: from ca. 1860. It 'chokes off' inferior horses.

choke (someone's) luff. To assuage (his) hunger; to keep (him) quiet: nautical: Moe cites its use in Alfred Burton, Johnny Neucome, 1818. See also choke your luff.

choke-off, n. An admonishment: military (ex choke off, v., 2) and prison officers': since ca. 1914. L.W. Merrow-Smith & J. Harris, Prison Screw, 1962.

choke off, v. To get rid of a person; put a stop to a course of action: coll. (–1818) >, by 1890, S.E. OED.—2. To reprimand or 'tell off' or retort successfully upon: military coll.: late C.19–20.

choke-pear. A difficulty; a severe reproof; a 'settler' (+); a gag (+): from C.16. Ex the instrument of torture (so named from an unpalatable kind of pear) so called. Coll. > S.E. by 1700; first two senses, archaic.

choke your luff! Be quiet!: nautical: early C.19–20; ob. It is implied in The Night Watch, 1828, II, 301. See also choke (someone's) luff.

choked, adj., predicative only, as in 'I was, or I felt, real or proper choked'—disgusted; 'fed-up' or 'browned off', disgruntled: since ca. 1945. Cf. double-choked, and choked off, qq.v.

choked by a hempen quinsy. Hanged: C.16–early 19. Grose, 2nd ed.

choked off. 'I'm frustrated with cars, cheesed off with buses, and choked off in tubes' (Time Out, 4 Jan. 1980). See choked.

chokee. See chokey.

choker. A halter, the hangman's rope: c.: C.18–19.—2. A rebuff: C.19. (Bill Truck, Mar. 1826.) It chokes off.—3. A garrotter: from ca. 1800: coll. Cf. wind-stopper.—4. A cravat; orig. a large neckerchief worn round the neck. Often white choker, q.v. First record, 1848, Thackeray (Book of Snobs): 'The usual attire of a gentleman, viz., pumps, a gold waistcoat, a crush hat, a sham frill, and a white choker.'—5. A high all-round collar: from ca. 1868.—6. A rare form of chokey, a cell, a prison: c.: from ca. 1860.—7. A notable lie; a very embarrassing question: low: late C.19–early 20. (Ware; Manchon.) Cf. choke, 4.—8. A cigarette: army: ca. 1915. (F. & G.) Prob. a var. of gasper.

chokered. Wearing a choker, q.v. London Review, 7 Apr. 1866; OED records it at 1865.

chokey, choky; rarely cho(a)kee or chaunki. A lock-up; a prison. In Anglo-Indian form C.17, and adopted in England ca. 1850; recorded in Aus. ca. 1840. (B., in a letter, 1946.) Michael Scott has it in his Cruise of the Midge, 1836; Besant & Rice. Ex Hindustani chaunki, lit. a four-sided place or building (Y. & B.).—2. Hence, imprisonment: from ca. 1880; rare.—3. WW1+, a detention-cell, occ. a guard-room, ex the (—1870) c. sense, a dark cell. Hindi chaunki, a shed. Cf. Queen's Chokey.—4. Derivatively, a prison diet of bread and water (1884). Cf. choke, n., 1.—5. 'Serving time in punishment block': prisoners' (Home Office): a specialisation of sense 2; since mid-C.20. Tempest.

Chokke. Var. of chogey. Gareth Parry reporting on life on board a Royal Fleet Auxiliary vessel during the recent Falkland Is. campaign, in Guardian, 2 July 1982, ref. Hong Kong Chinese crew members.—2. As choki or chokie, var. of chokey.

choking (or cold) pie (or pye). 'A punishment inflicted on any person sleeping in company: it consists in wrapping up cotton in a case or tube of paper, setting it on fire, and directing the smোক up the nostrils of the sleeper' (Grose, 3rd ed.): coll. (—1650); ob. by 1860; † by 1890. Howell's edition (1650) of Cotgrave's Dict.

chokker. Var. spelling of chocker, adj.

choky. Having a gen. tendency or a momentary feeling of choking: from ca. 1855; T. Hughes, 'To feel rather chokey', 1857. Cf. the early and S.E. senses, which are, in C.20, almost coll.: apt to choke the eater; suffocating.

chomp, off one's. Crazy. Occ. var. of off (one's) chump, q.v. chonkey(s). A mincemeat, baked in a crust and sold in the streets: low coll.: mid-C.19–early 20. (H., 1st ed.) Etym. obscure: perhaps ex some noted pieman (Ware).

chony bars, fifteen, with an appropriate v. To beat (someone) up, not to kill: Can. marginal c.: since ca. 1950. Leechman cites A. Schroeder, Shaking it Rough, 1976. Chony seems to be a deliberate alteration of chocolate.

chooch hat. 'A soft hat of the Homburg type with a dent in it. From an indelicate Maltese word' (Granville): RN, and army (esp. in India): since 1920s; by 1960, ob. Cf. the even more obviously indelicate cunt-hat.

choof (off). To go, depart: Aus., esp NSW: since, at latest, 1945. Frank Hardy, Billy Barker Yarns Again, 1967, 'Soon as my mate gave her the house-keeping money, off she choof to the club'. Echoic? Perhaps cf. childish chuff-chuff, a train.

chook. A chicken; collectively, chickens: Aus. and NZ coll.: mid-C.19–20. Ex E. and Irish dialect.—2. A woman, esp. if an older one: Aus. pej.: since ca. 1935 (Culotta.).

chookle. 'A girl friend, a young woman' (B. 1942). Aus. since ca. 1925. Cf. chuck, n., 1.

choom; properly, but less gen., chum. A term of address much used by the Aus. and NZ soldiers to an unknown English (not Welsh, Scottish or Irish) soldier: 1915–18. Ex chum, n., 1, pron. with an English Northern accent.—2. Cf. Chooms, Englishmen in general; the C., a team of English cricketers or footballers: Aus.: late C.19–20; not very gen. before ca. 1919.

choops! Be quiet! C.19–20 var. of chub-a-row, q.v.

choose. To wish to have; want: low coll.: from ca. 1760. In C.20, almost S.E.

choosy. Fastidious; given to picking and choosing: low coll.: C.20. Gilt Kid, 1936.

chootah. Small; unimportant: Anglo-Indian: C.19–20. Gen. chota or choter; ex Urdu chota, small.

chop, n. A blow with the fist: boxing s.: mid-C.18–early 19. (Grose, 3rd ed.) This use revived since mid-C.20, with the interest taken in Oriental martial sports; cf., e.g., a 'karate chop'.—2. Wood-chopping contest: Aus. and NZ coll.: late C.19–20. K.S. Prichard, Working Bullocks, 1926.—3. A share: Aus.: C.20. See in for (one's) chop.—4. A swoop and the ensuing kill: N.E. Aus. coll.: since ca. 1910. Jean Devanney, Travels in North Queensland, 1951, 'A school of large trevally in process of making what was known as a "chop"'.—5. See get the chop.

chop, adj. In 'pidgin', C.19–20; Quick. See chop-chop!

chop as in first-, second-chop, first- or second-rate or -class, rank or quality. Anglo-Indian and -Chinese coll., ex Hindi chhap, lit. a print, hence a seal or brand. The attributive use is the more gen. and dates from late C.18: thus Thackeray, 'A sort of second-chop dandies'. Y. & B., whence no chop, q.v., inferior. An early occurrence of first chop, first-rate, is in John Davis, The Post-Captain, 1806. Aus. no chop = no good (Wilkes, quot'n dated 1955); also no great or not much chop (Ibid.): since mid-C.19.

chop, v. (The barter-exchange senses are S.E.).—2. To eat a chop: ca. 1840–1900. Mrs Gore, 1841, 'I would rather have chopped at the "Blue Posts"'.—3. To eat (a human being), gen. in passive: W. Africa, from ca. 1860; ob. But, simply as 'to eat', it is current, with corresponding n., 'food'. Either ex † chop, to devour, or suggested by chopsticks. W.—4. In c., to speak, as in chop the whiners, to say prayers: C.18–19. Cf. chop up, q.v.—5. Esp., however, to do, or speak quickly: c.: C.17–18. In nuance 'to move, come, go quickly, hurriedly, flurriedly': Sessions, 3 Sep. 1740.—6. To beat in a race: turf: from ca. 1860. Ex hunting j. (to seize prey before it clears cover).—7. To hit (a horse) on the thigh with the whip: coach-drivers': C.19. (W.O. Tristram, Coaching Days ..., 1888. This author notes fan, to whip (a horse), towel, to flog it, and the nn. chopping, fanning, towelling.)—8. 'To hang, Probably dates from the days of the executioner's axe' (Tempest): prisons' c.: mid-C.20. Cf. the more common top in this sense.—9. To fail (someone) from a course: Services': since late 1940s. Ex get the chop, 2. Cf. chop-board, chop-ride. (P.B.)

Chop-Back. (Gen. pl.) A Hastings fisherman: nautical: C.18–20; ob. Bowen, 'From an old-time incident in a fight with Dutch traders'. Also Hatchet-Back, for the same grim hand-lopped reason: EDD. (Sussex nicknames.)

chop-board. A board of officers and/or NCOs that sits to decide the fate of these doing badly on a training course: Services': since late 1940s. Ex get the chop, 2, perhaps infl. by S.E. chopping-board. Also, by extension, chop-test, a crucial examination on a training course. Cf. chop, v., 8, 9.

chop by chance. 'A rare Contingence, an extraordinary or uncommon Event' (B.E.): coll.: late C.17–18; never very gen.

chop-chop, n. A meal: UN troops in Korean War, 1950–3. Ex chop suey, a pseudo-Chinese dish, equivalent of Western hash, put perhaps infl. by chop, v., 3, to eat.—2. 'The green top [of sugar-cane] isn't trash. That's chop-chop—horse feed—when it's chopped up' (Jean Devanney, By Tropic Sea and Jungle, 1944): Aus. cane-cutters': since ca. 1910.

chop-chop, v. To make haste. Ex-chop-chop! Quickly! Hurry!; immediately; recorded in The Chinese Repository, IV, Jan. 1836, in article 'Jargon Spoken at Canton' (Moe): pidgin, ex an ob. Cantonese phrase for 'Hurry up!'—but it must have found a ready acceptance by early sailors in the China Sea already familiar with chop, v., 5, q.v. Still, 1970s, popular in the Services and, as L.A. notes, it is a 'senior's, foreman's "friendly" exhortation to speed up work.' (P.B.)

chop-church. In C.16–early 17, S.E.; in late C.17–18, coll.; in C.19, archaic S.E.: an unscrupulous dealer or trafficker in benefices.

chop-logs. A C.16–17 coll. perversion of chop-logic.

chop-ride. Test flight to examine a pilot's suitability to continue flying: RAF: later C.20. (Phantom.) See chop, v., 8, 9. chop sticks. The number 6: bingo callers': later C.20. (Jack Jones, ed., Rhyming Cockney Slang, 1971.) See chopping sticks, also TOMBOLA. Franklyn, Rhyming, has chopsticks.

chop to pieces. In fisticuffs or boxing, to defeat severely: Aus. sporting coll.: late C.19–20. (B., 1943.) P.B.: also Brit. military for more serious mayhem, e.g., 'We lure the enemy into the killing zone and there we simply chop him [i.e. them] to pieces'. With the Aus. sense, cf. chop, n., 1.

chop-up, n. A division of plunder: Aus. c.: C.20. (Baker). Cf. chop, n., 3, a share, and see in for one's chop.

chop up, v. To hurry through, esp. in c. chop up the whiners, to gallop through prayers: late C.17–19. B.E.

Chopburg. Hamburg: RAF (operational): 1941. (W/Cdr R.P. McDouall, 1945.) Obviously ham prompted chop. Another operational officer writes, in late 1961, thus, 'I always felt that Chopburg referred to the possibility of "getting the chop" over Hamburg rather than to any link between ham and a pork chop.' Both of these 'causes' were, I suspect, at work. chopped. Killed, esp. by machine-gun fire: army and RAF: WW2. Perhaps cf. the US underworld chopper, a machine-gun, but see also get the chop.—2. To have failed a military training course: Services': since ca. 1950. 'The camp was a miserable place, full of chopped aircrew trainees, all chopped for one reason or another'. (P.B., who was one of them in 1953.) chopped hay. Knowledge imperfectly assimilated: coll.: —1923 (Manchon). Ex the stables.

chopper, n. A sailor's broad-brimmed hat: RN: ca. 1805–40. W.N. Glascock, The Naval Sketch Book (II), 1826, 'I powders my pate, and claps on a broad-brimm'd chopper over all' (Moe).—2. A blow, struck on the face with the back of the hand' (Moore in Tom Crib's Memorial, 1819): pugilistic; ob. Occ. in coll. form, chopping blow. Cf. chop, n., 1.—3. A blow given from behind, esp. on the nape of the neck: Aus.: since ca. 1915. (B., 1943.) Cf. rabbit-punch.—4. A sausage-maker: tradesmen's: from ca. 1860.—5. A tail: mostly Cockneys': late C.19–20. 'Pleased as a dog with two choppers, 'e was, silly little bleeder' (Alexander Baron, There's No Home, 1950). Perhaps euph. for:—6. Penis: low: C.20. P.B.: a serviceman with a particularly large one is liable to be known as whopper chopper.—7. A helicopter: FAA since ca. 1955; by 1975 > gen. coll. Prob. ex US. Ex the chopping motion and sound of the rotor blades.—8. A car taken in part exchange: secondhand-car dealers': since ca. 1955. (Anthony Cowdy in Sunday Times colour sup., 24 Oct. 1965.) Cf. S.E. 'chop and change'.—9. 'A motorcycle that has been extensively modified, with frame altered and forks extended' (Dunford): motorcyclists': current in 1970s.—10. 'A bicycle' (Powis): underworld: current in 1970s. Perhaps ex sense 9, or from the trade name of a children's bicycle.—11. See choppers; choppery.

chopper, v. To go, or to convey, by helicopter: orig. and mainly flying s.: since ca. 1960. (David Walker, Devil's Plunge, 1968.) Ex chopper, n., 7.

choppers. Teeth; china choppers = false teeth: Can. s.,—1949; Brit., since ca. 1950, e.g., in National Choppers, provided by the National Health Service.

choppery. 'A companion is choppery when he is surly and unapproachable and therefore looks hatchet-faced: hence having a chopper on' (G.E. Rowles, The 'Line' Is On, 1948): printers' (compositors)': from ca. 1850 (chopper [bad mood] on); ob. by 1960s. Cf. synon. have a button on.

Chopping. Chopin, as in 'Oh, just something by Chopin'—'Um! Thought it was chopping.' Lower-middle and lower class joc.: late C.19–20.

chopping. (Of girls) vain and ardent; sexually on-coming: late C.19–20; ob. Coll. Ex the S.E. sense. Cf. the idea in Fr. avoir la cuisine gaie.

chopping-block. In boxing, an unskilled man that yet can take tremendous punishment. From ca. 1830: coll.

chopping sticks. In the game of House, it = 6: rhyming s.: late C.19–20. (Michael Harrison, Reported Safe Arrival, 1943.) See also chop sticks.

choppy, n. A choppy wave: Aus. surfers' coll.: since ca. 1950. (B.P.)

choppy. (Of a temperature chart) uneven, esp. of a fever patient: hospital nurses': since the 1920s. If even, it is flat.

chops. The mouth: coll.: C.18. Cf. S.E. senses.—2. See down in the chops; lick (one's) chops.

chops of the Channel, the. The Western entrance to the English Channel: nautical coll.: C.19–20. Bowen.

chopsticks. See chop sticks.

chordy, adj. Stolen, as in 'chordy gear' = stolen goods: market-traders': C.20. (M.T.). Exchore, v. To thief; hence chorer, a thief: market-traders': C.20 (M.T.). Ex Romany cor, to steal: cf. core, q.v. chores, do (the). To 'char', q.v., do the cleaning work of a house: from ca. 1745: coll. when not dial. Latterly, C.20, do all the chores may well include the cooking as well.

chortle. To chuckle gurglingly or explosively. Coined by 'Lewis Carroll' ex chuckle + snort (Through the Looking Glass, 1872) and soon popular, e.g. in Besant & Rice, 1876. For a while considered coll., but by 1895 definitely S.E. See My Slang at Portmanteau Words.—2. Hence, to sing: 1889, The Referee, 29 Dec., 'Chortle a chansonette or two'.—3. Hence, chortle about or over, to praise excessively: 1897, Daily Telegraph, 31 Mar. (Ware).

chosen pals or pells. Highwaymen robbing in pairs, esp. in London: c.: mid-C.18—early 19. Grose, 2nd ed. See pal, n. chosen twelve. See Twelve Apostles.

choss up. To wreck, esp. a vehicle: army: since ca. 1946. Prob. ex the widespread deliberate pron. of chaos as choss.

choter. Var. of chota or chootah, Hindustani for small. See barrow wallah.

chots. Potatoes: Cotton College: C.20. In C.19, the form was chotties: ex teeties, the latter being a deliberate (?) variant of taties or taters; cf. totties. Frank Roberts, in The Cottonian, autumn 1938. Mrs C. Raab: or a var. of OED dial. chat, a small, poor potato? My Mother, 'Pat' Betbeder; would throw out those chats from her potato crop that were not worth cooking.

chounter. 'To talk pertly, and (sometimes) angrily' (B.E.): late C.17–18. Most prob. an earlier var. of the originally dial. chunter, q.v., to grumble. Chunter was Northern dial, but note that EDD records Devon dial. ppl adj. chounting = 'taunting, jeering, grumbling' with the date 1746.

chouse, n. A swindle, hoax, humbug, imposition: from ca. 1700; ex chouse (= chiaus), a S.E. term of perhaps Turkish orig., the etym. remaining a partial mystery. From ca. 1850 at Eton and, as we see in R.G.K. Wrench, at Winchester, a shame, as in 'a beastly chouse', or an imposition, whence (—1864) chouser, a 'sharp' lad. See OED; Y. & B.; F. & H.; and W.

chouse, v. To cheat; deceive; impose on: coll., from the 1650s; ob. Pepys, 15 May 1663, 'The Portugalls have choused us, it seems, in the Island of Bombay'; the anon. Hints for Oxford, 1823; Scottish Public School s. at least as late as 1884. Cf. diddle. Vbl. n., chousing.

chouser. See chouse, n.

chout. An entertainment: East-End Cockney, ca. 1855–1910. (H., 2nd ed.) Etym. slightly problematic: ?a perversion of shout; or rather an adaptation of E. Anglian and Norfolk chout, a frolic or a merry-making (see EDD).

chovey. A shop: costers': from ca. 1835; ob. (Brandon, 1839; H., 1st ed.) Whence man-chovey, a shopman, and Ann-chovey, a shop-woman. ?etym., unless a corruption of casa (perhaps on chokey).

chow, n. Food: mainly nautical, ex 'pidgin': from ca. 1870. Abbr. CHOW-CHOW, q.v. in the Appendix.—2. Talk; 'cheek': theatrical: ca. 1870–1920. Hence, have plenty of chow, to be very talkative: from ca. 1875: id.—3. As c-, a Chinese: Aus.:—1876 (Wilkes). Prob. ex 1.—4. A term of contempt for a person: Aus.: C.20 (B., 1942.) Perhaps ex 3.—5. Cabbage: Aus.: since ca. 1920. (B., 1953.) ?Ex Fr. choux.

chow, v. To talk much; grumble; theatrical: from ca. 1870. Cf. n., 2, and chounder.

chow! An Anglo-Italian coll. (esp. in London) salutation: mid-C.19–early 20. After going out of gen. use, it suddenly, in the late 1950s, became common in the Espresso bars of Britain, Aus. and elsewhere. This resurgence prompted a letter to E.P. from Nicholas Bentley, 1961, noting its popularity as form both of salutation and goodbye, and particularly at the Royal College of Art. Ex It. ciào (coll. for schiaivo), at your service.

chow line, the. A food queue in RN Barracks: lowerdeck: since ca. 1925. P-G-R.

chow miaow. 'A generic term (punning) for Chinese food': Aus.: since ca. 1945. (Edwin Morrisby, 1958.) Cf. chow, 1.

chow-up. A hot argument; a quarrel, a squabble: military: C.20 (F. & G.) Ex chow, n., 2.

chowdar. A fool: from ca. 1860. Anglo-Chinese, says H., 5th ed.; but is it not an abbr. of the dial. chowder-headed, i.e. jolter-headed?

chowing or chipping is theatrical (from ca. 1870) for grumbling or incessant talking (B. & L.). Cf. chow, n., 2, and v.

Chowringhee star. The 1939–45 Service medal. See Firpo star.

Chriggie, -y, n. and adj. Var. of Chrissie, 2, Christmas: coll.: heard early 1970s. (P.B.)

Chrisake! Usu. as oath 'Oh, for (or fer) Chrisake!' and occ. spelt Chrissake: slovenly: C.19–20.

chrissie. A chrysanthemum. See chryssie.—2. Chrissie, n. and adj. Christmas: domestic coll.: C.20. (P.B.)

Christ Almighty wonder. One who thinks very highly of himself; one who 'really has something', an exceedingly able person, some thing or event that is astounding or extremely surprising: late C.19–20. 'He's a C.A.w. with cars'; 'It's a C.A.w. he's not run over twice nightly.'

Christchurch, by. A euph. oath, current since ca. 1945 (?earlier) in NZ and UK. From Christchurch, Canterbury Province, NZ; and Dorset.

christen. To call by the name of, give a name to: coll., from ca. 1640; in C.20, almost S.E.—2. To change the markings on a watch: from ca. 1780 (G. Parker, 1781); orig. c.; not low s. until ca. 1850, as in H., 1st ed. (1859), and in Doran's Saint and Sinner, 1868. (Equivalent C.19–20 c. is church.) Vbl n., christening, late C.18–20.—3. To add water to wines or spirits; any light liquor with a heavier: from ca. 1820. Scott, 1824, 'We'll christen him with the brewer (here he added a little small beer to his beverage)'. Cf. drown the miller.—4. To souze from a chamber-pot: from ca. 1870. A school and college ceremony that is on the wane; but youth finds a chamber-pot symbolically ludicrous and emblematically important.—5. To celebrate (a meeting, a purchase, a removal, etc.): late C.19–20. F. & H.—6. To soil, chip, damage (something new or hitherto unmarked): late C.19–20.

christened by the baker. Freckled: 'He carries the bran in his face' (Grose): coll.: mid-C.18–early 19. Cf.:—christened in (or with) pump-water. Red-faced: coll. or, in form he (she) was christened ..., c.p.: late C.17–mid-19. Ray; Grose, 2nd ed.

christening. In be out in (one's) c., to be in error: proletarian coll.:—1887 (Baumann).—2. See demure ...

christening-wine. The 'champagne' used in launching ceremonies: nautical: mid-C.19–early 20. Bowen.

Christer. An exclamation mark: authors' and typists': C.20. Ex exclamatory Christ!

Christian. A 'decent fellow'; a presentable person. Coll. In Shakespeare's Two Gentlemen of Verona, 1591, and until ca. 1840, it meant merely a human being, not an animal, the mod. sense beginning, as so many mod. senses have begun, with Dickens (see Slang).—2. Ca. 1805–40, the term = a tradesman willing to give credit. Lex. Bal.—3. The adj. (of a person, 1577: humane; of a thing or action, 1682: civilised, respectable) follows the same course. OED.

Christian born, donkey-rigged — and throws a tread like a cabby's whip. C.p. used to describe a 'stout' fellow: London's East End: prob. since late C.19. See DCpp., and chuck a tread.

Christian compliments. 'A cough, kibed heels, and a snotty nose' (Grose, 3rd ed.): C.18–19. Grose meant to write Christmas—see his ref. at compliments and his MS. addition to the B.M. copy of the 1st ed.; the 2nd ed. has 'Christmass compliments. A cough', etc.

Christian pony. A sedan-chairman: late C.18–early 19. W.N. Glascock, Sailors and Saints, 1829, at II, 89 (Moe). Cf. Christian, 1: the meaning = a human animal.—2. Grose, 2nd ed., glosses it as the chairman, or president, of a meeting: Anglo-Irish. Perhaps by a pun on sense 1, with which dates recorded more or less coincide.—3. A handcart man: Can., esp. in East? ca. 1860–1905. Canadian History Department's Bulletin, Dec. 1953. (Leechman.) Prob. ex sense 1.

Christianable. As befits, fit for, a Christian: coll.: 1920. OED Sup.

Christians. Members of Christ's College, Cambridge: from ca. 1870.

Christians Arise. A Turkish big gun (or its shell) at the Dardanelles: military: 1915. (F. & G.) Ex:—2. (C. a.) The reveille bugle-call: military: from ca. 1910. Ibid.

Christmas, Christmassing. Holly and mistletoe serving as Christmas decorations: from ca. 1820, 1840. Dickens, the former; Mayhew, the latter. SOD says it is nursery slang, F. & H.—coll. (The latter, I think).—2. Something special to drink at Christmas time: Aus. coll.: late C.19–20.

Christmas, v. To 'provide with Christmas cheer': very rare: late C.16–17. Adorn with decorations for Christmas: from ca. 1825. Celebrate Christmas: from ca. 1806. All three senses, coll. See 'The Philology of Christmas', in Words!; also OED.—2. To believe. See Christmas Eve.

Christmas! A mild, euph. expletive: late C.19–20. (Ware; A.P. Herbert, Holy Deadlock, 1934.) It is an evasion of Christ!

Christmas beef. See dressed like Christmas beef, in one's best clothes.

Christmas box. A Christmas present: low coll. (and dial.): from ca. 1860. By mid-C.20 it usu. implied money.

Christmas card. A guard: mostly theatrical rhyming s.: C.20. Franklyn, Rhyming.

Christmas comes but once a year — thank goodness (or God)! A c.p. dating from ca. 1945 and used by those who detest what Christmas has been turned into by the profiteers, or who get annoyed by the upheaval it may impose upon their own normal routine.

Christmas compliments. See Christian compliments.

Christmas crackers. Knackers (= testicles): rhyming s. 'Less commonly heard', wrote David Hillman in 1974, 'than its derivative Christmas crackered for knackered (physically [or mentally] exhausted).'

Christmas Eve. To believe: rhyming s.: C.20. (P.P., Rhyming Slang, 1932.) Less gen. than Adam and Eve.

Christmas hold. 'A hold applied by grabbing an opponent's testicles (a "handful of nuts")' (B., 1953): Aus. prison s.: mid-C.20.

Christmas log(s). Dog(s): rhyming s.: occ. var. of Yuletide log(s). (Hillman, 1974.)

Christmas tree. See Christmas tree order, heavy marching order.—2. 'RAF Intruder pilots' slang [1940–5] for the Luftwaffe's airfield lighting system: flare-paths, boundary-lights and, in particular, the "visual Lorenz" approach-path lights, which from the air looked like a stylised pine-tree.' (R.S., 1967.)—3. 'The complex arrangement of pipes and valves at the head of an oil well to control the flow of oil' (Leechman): Can. oilmen's: since ca. 1950. William Haggard, The Telemann Touch, 1958.—4. 'Colour [?coloured] light multiple aspect gantry' (Railway, 2nd): railwaymen's: since ca. 1950.—5. An effect observed on an airborne radar screen used in interception by all-weather fighter aircraft: RAF coll. > j.: late 1940s–early 50s. (P.B.)—6. 'Drinamyl Spansules (US): drug users' slang' (Home Office): current in 1970s.

Christmas-tree order, in. In heavy marching order: military: 1915: ob. (F. & G.) Ex the soldier's appearance when he had full pack up, itself military coll. of C.20. Sailors preferred Christmas-tree.

Christmassing. See Christmas, n.

Christmas(s)y. Pertaining to, looking like, Christmas: coll.: from ca. 1880. Baumann.

Christys. A coll. (in C.20, S.E.) abbr. of Christy('s) minstrels (—1873): Ruskin, in 1875, was app. the first to use the term in print. Ex one George Christy of New York.

chro. Short for chromo, 2, a prostitute: since 1930. (B.P.) chromo. Abbr. chromolithograph, -ic: coll.: 'in use shortly after 1850' (OED).—2. A prostitute: Aus.: since ca. 1925. (B., 1942.) Ex gay-coloured dresses.

chronic, n. 'Those pathetic figures called "chronics"—middle-aged men [students] who haunted medical schools for ten years on end and yet, somehow, never managed to become qualified' (Francis Brett Young, Dr Bradley Remembers, 1938): medical: since ca. 1870.

chronic, adj. Unpleasant; objectionable; unfair; 'rotten'. (Rarely of persons: in same senses; hence, formidable, excellent: C.20. Manchon.) Late C.19–20, ex the S.E. sense, acute (pain), invertebrate (c. complaint). Ware, recording it for 1896, defines chronic rot as 'despairingly bad'. Whence something chronic, badly, severely, most objectionably: lower classes: C.20.

chronometer. A watch, however small: coll., either joc. or pretentious: C.20.

chrony. A C.17 var. of crony, 1.

chryasant. A chrysanthemum: coll.: from ca. 1890. (R.H. Mottram, Bumphrey's, 1934.) Also chrysanth (C.20), as in The Passing Show, 20 Jan. 1934. Cf. 'mum and-chryssie (loosely chrisssie). A chrysanthemum: Aus.: since ca. 1920, B., 1953.

chu-shung! You little beast (or, animal)!: pidgin: from ca. 1860; ob. B. & L. I.e. Chinese hsiao chu sheng, and pron. approx. joo-shung. 'Often used jestingly in conversation with flower-boat girls [prostitutes]'. (Orig. entry amended by P.B.)

chub. An inexperienced person, esp. a callow youth: C.17–18. B.E.—2. A blockhead: ca. 1600–1850; coll. Ex the short, thick river fish, whence also chubby, plump, S.E. (despite H.).

chub! An abbr. (military: C.20; B. & P.) of:

chub-a-row or chubarrow!; chuprow!; occ. chipperow! 'Shut up!': military, esp. the Regular Army's (resp. s., coll., s.): mid-C.19–20. F. & G. Ex Hindustani chuprao.

chubb. To lock. To chubb a man in is to lock him in. "Unchubb" = unlock. From the well-known make of lock, [Hence] chubbed in. Locked in cell' (Tempest): prison c.: mid-C.20.

chubbingly. A late C.17–early 18 c. variant of S.E. chubby. B.E., s.v. bulchin.

chubby or dumpy. A short, squat umbrella: coll.: 1925. Collinson.

Chuck. Charles: Can. (and US): mid-C.19–20.

chuck, n. A coll. endearment: C.16–20, but ob. by 1800. ? ex chick.—2. Food of any kind, but esp. bread or meat (—1850): orig. c., but popularised in WW1. ?origin: cf. next 3 senses, esp. sense 5, and senses 7–9. Perhaps such food as one can chuck about without spoiling it.—3. Scraps of meat (cf. block ornaments): from ca. 1860.—4. A particular sort of beefsteak: from ca. 1855; ob.—5. A measure for sprats: Billingsgate, from ca. 1840. Otherwise a toss; cf. next.—6. A toss, jerk, or throw: coll.: from ca. 1840.—7. See biscuit: nautical, from ca. 1840. (As for the next two senses) cf. 2–4.—8. (Military) mealy bread: from ca. 1855.—9. A schoolboy's treat: Westminster School: from ca. 1855. H., 2nd ed.—10. Abbr. chuck-farthing, a national sport: from ca. 1710: coll.—11. In get or give the chuck, to be dismissed, to dismiss: low coll.: from ca. 1880. G. & W. Grossmith, Dairy of a Nobody, 1892, at date 'August 6'.—12. Hence, of a proposal for marriage or a courtship: from ca. 120. Dorothy L. Sayers, Clouds of Witness, 1926, 'I got the chuck from Barbara and didn't feel much like bothering about other people's heart-to-hearts.' In this sense give the chuck = to jilt, as Petch noted, 1969.—13. In have a chuck, to vomit: Aus.: later C.20—14. See dry chuck.

chuck, v. In c., to eat:—1876 (Hindley's Cheap Jack). App. later than and ex the n. 2nd sense.—2. As to toss, to throw with little arm-action, it has always been S.E., but as throw in any other sense, it is low coll. of C.19–20.—3. (Pigeon fanciers') to despatch a pigeon: coll., then j.; from ca. 1870.—4. To spend extravagantly (—1876): coll., as is the gen. late C.19–20 form, chuck-away.—5. To abandon, dismiss, discharge (from gaol); (v.i.) give up (in C.20, occ. = go back on an invitation that one has accepted): often varied as chuck up: from ca. 1860. Whence chuck it up!, in C.20 gen. chuck it! = drop it! stop (talking, etc.)!—6. Also, in low coll., chuck often = do, perform (e.g. chuck a jolly, to begin bantering, chaffing, to support heartily, noisily): the sense and the connotation of all such phrases will be obvious from the definition of the 'complementary' nouns.—7. V.i., to be sexually desirous: late C.18—mid-19. (Grose, 3rd ed.) Perhaps suggested by chuck, n., 1.—8. 'We chucked everything we had at them' (shelled them heavily): army: WW2. P-G-R.—9. To vomit: Aus.: since mid-1940s (if not a decade or more earlier). (Alex Buzo, Norm and Ahmed, produced 1968.) A shortening of the older chuck up.—10. To throw a case out of court: police s.: since ca. 1920. G.F. Newman, Sir, You Bastard, 1970, glossary.—11. 'To eat excessively when being withdrawn [from drug dependence]: drug addicts' s.' (Home Office): current in 1970s. Perhaps a re-emergence and specialisation of sense 1.—12. Further to sense 5: 'Chucked. Acquitted. "Of three men on trial two were weighed off and one got chucked" = two men were sentenced and the third was acquitted' (Tempest): c.: since mid-C.19.—13. See chucked.

chuck a charley. To have a fit: Aus.: C.20. B., 1942.

chuck a chest. To 'tell the tale': C.20 vagrants' c. Prob. ex:—2. To throw forward the chest, as though prepared to meet the world: streets: late C.19–20. Ware.—3. Whence, 'to attempt to exercise undue authority', 'throw one's weight about': military: C.20. (F. & G.) Cf. chuck out (one's) chest, q.v. The RN equivalent was to cock (one's) chest.

chuck a curly. To mangle: military, from ca. 1870; ob. Curly = a writhing.

chuck a dummy. To faint on parade: military, from ca. 1890. Ex chuck the dummy, q.v.—2. Hence, 'to report sick without reasonable cause': military: C.20. F. & G.—3. To lie down in the boxing ring: military:—1935.

chuck a fit. To pretend to have a fit: (low) coll.: mid-C.19–20. B. & L.

chuck a jolly. To begin bantering, chaffing; to support heartily, noisily: costermongers': from ca. 1850.

chuck a seven. To die: Aus.: C.20. (Baker.) 'From the game of craps, in which to throw a seven (except on the first roll) is to lose' (Claiborne), but cf. also chuck seven.

chuck a shoulder. To give (a person) the cold shoulder: costers':—1909 (Ware).

chuck a sixer. To have a figurative fit: Aus.: later C.19–20. Baker.

chuck a stall. To attract someone's attention while a confederate robs him: c.: from ca. 1850. (H., 2nd ed.) See stall.

chuck a tread. (Of the male) to coit: low: later C.19—early 20. Ex cock-frows.

chuck (or throw) a willy. To have a fit: Aus.: C.20. (Baker.) Cf. US whing-ding.

chuck (oneself) about or into. To move or act quickly, vigorously (—1860): coll. The into phrase also (—1880) = fall into.

chuck and chance it is an anglers' descriptive c.p. applied to rough-and-ready, artless fishermen: late C.19–20. H.A. Vachell, 1924.

chuck and toss. Tossing for halpence: proletarian coll.: mid-C.19–20; ob. B. & L.

chuck-barge. 'Cask in which the biscuit of a mess is kept. Also equivalent to [fig.] bread-basket' (Ware): RN: late C.19–20. Cf. chuck, n., 2.

chuck-bread. Waste bread: late C.19–20 vagrants' c. Ware.

chuck-farthing. A parish clerk: late C.17–early 18. (B.E.) Ex a character in the Satyr against Hypocrites.

chuck (one's) fat about. To talk loudly and ignorantly: proletarian: late C.19–20.

chuck (one's) hand in. To die: gen. coll.: late C.19–20. 'Taffrail', Pincher Martin, 1916.—2. To refuse to do, or stop doing, something: orig., military: C.20. F. & G.—3. Hence, a specialised use, 'To refuse duty in order to state a "case" at the defaulter's table' (Granville): RN: C.20. All 3 senses ex cards.

chuck her up! In cricket, the fielding side's expression of delight: coll.: from ca. 1875.

chuck-hole. A coll. var. for the game of chuck-farthing: ca. 1830–1930.

chuck-in, n. A voluntary subscription: Aus.: late C.19–20. (Baker.) See also—chuck in, v.i. To challenge: boxing; from ca. 1820. Ex the old throwing a hat into the ring. Also, to compete. † by 1914. Hence, have a chuck-in, to try one's luck: ca. 1860–1914; sporting.

chuck it! Stop it! Drop it! Leave off!: coll.: C.20. G.K. Chesterton's poem 'Antichrist', satirising the pontificating of F.E. Smith on the Welsh Disestablishment Bill, ends bluntly: 'Chuck it, Smith!' (P.B.) chuck off, to employ sarcasm; chuck off at, to banter or chaff: Aus.:—1916 (C.J. Dennis).

chuck one up. To salute, as There was the general, so I chuckled him one up, but he never even saw me': army: C.20. An elab. of chuck-up, q.v. (P.B.)

chuck-out, n. A dismissal, esp. from a job: NZ coll.: late C.19–20. G.B. Lancaster, The Tracks We Tread, 1907.—2. Closing-time at a public house: since ca. 1920. Abbr. chucking-out time, itself ex—chuck out, v. To eject forcibly (—1880); to discard (thing or plan), from ca. 1910. Coll.—2. Hence, loc., to cause to leave: from ca. 1915.

chuck out (one's) chest. To pull oneself together; stand firm: coll.: from ca. 1860; ob. The C.20 sense (likewise coll.) is to make oneself appear manly, to show confidence. An occ. var., throw a chest.

chuck out hints. To hint: low coll.:—1887. Baumann.

chuck out ink. To write articles: journalists':—1909. Ware.

chuck over. To abandon (e.g. a sweetheart): low coll.:—1887. Baumann.—2. Hence, n.: late C.19–20.

chuck seven. To die: low: late C.19–20. (John G. Brandon, West End, 1933.) A dice-cube has no '7'.

chuck the dummy. To feign illness; esp. to simulate epilepsy: c.:—1890. Whence chuck a dummy, q.v.

chuck the gab. To talk fluently or well; to 'tell the tale': low: C.20. (Frank Jennings, Tramping with Tramps, 1932.) Ex gab, n., 2. Cf. also gift of the gab, and the early C.19 flash the gab.

chuck-up, n. A salute: army, other ranks': from not later than 1915; by mid-C.20 had > v., as chuck (him) one up, 'him' being the officer. 'From the act of throwing up the hand to the forehead in saluting' (F. & G.)—2. Timely encouragement; a cheer (occ. ironical): RN: C.20. 'Taffrail', Pincher Martin, 1916; Granville.—3. 'Term used of a buyer refusing to accept a catch of herring' (D. Butcher, Driftermen, 1979, glossary): nautical: C.20.—4. In give (something) the chuck-up, to abandon it, to send it 'to the devil': low coll.:—1923 (Manchon). Ex chuck up as at chuck up the sponge.

chuck up, v. To vomit: low: late C.19–20. (B.P.)—2. To abandon: coll.: from ca. 1860. Ex chuck up the sponge, and often corrupted, says H., 5th ed., to jack up. Cf. n., 4.

chuck up the bunch of fives. To die: boxers':—1909 (Ware).

chuck up the sponge. To give in; submit: coll.: since ca. 1875. In, e.g., Rolf Boldrewood, 1889. Ex throwing, where this action signifies defeat. A later var. of throwing up the sponge.

chuck-wag(g)on. A cowboys' cook-wagon: Western prairies of Can.: since ca. 1910. Cf. chuck, n., 2.

chuck (one's) weight about. To 'show off' in an unpleasantly domineering way: orig. Services':—1909 (Ware). Var. of throw (one's) weight . . ., q.v.

chuckaboo. A street endearment: mid-C.19–20. Ware. Cf.: chuckaby. A C.17 endearment: coll. So is chucking. (OED.) Cf. chuck, n.

chuckaroo. A boy employed about a regiment: coll. among soldiers in India (—1886). A corruption of Hindustani chhokra, a boy or youngster. Y. & B.

chuckaway. See Bryant & May's chuckaway.

chucked. Slightly drunk: from ca. 1880. †. Cf. screwed.—2. Disappointed; unlucky; 'sold'. From ca. 1870; ob., except among artists, who, from late C.19, apply it to a picture refused by the Academy. Cf. that delightful ca. 1879 ballad, 'Chucked Again'.—3. Abbr. chucked out, forcibly ejected: see chuck out.—4. In c., amorous; 'fast': from ca. 1800. Ex chuck, v., 7.—5. See chuck, v., esp. 12 (also chucked up).

chucked all of a heap. Fascinated; infatuated: London proletarian:—1909 (Ware).

chucked-in. Into the bargain; for good measure: coll.: from ca. 1875. Punch, 11 Oct. 1884, 'Arry at a Political Picnic, reproduced in Baumann's Londonismen.

chucker. In cricket, either a bowler apt to throw the ball or a defaulting player. Both are coll. and both date from ca. 1880, the latter † and, post-1918, replaced by quitter.

chucker-out. A man, often ex-pugilist, retained to eject persons from meetings, taverns, brothels, etc.: low coll. (—1880). Saturday Review, 31 Mar. 1883. Cf. bouncer, 7.

chucking cabbage. (A bunch of) paper currency of low denomination: Aus. journalists: adopted in 1942 or 1943 from US. Ex the predominant green of the notes or bills.

chucking-out. forcible ejection: from ca. 1880; since 1881, and at first rare, an adj., esp. in chucking-out time, closing time at a 'pub' and similar establishments.

chuckle. Vomit. See big spit.

chucklehead. A stupid fellow: Newfoundland coll., adopted—ca. 1920—from US. Either American dial. chuckle, clumsy, stupid + head, or a pun n. The American chucklehead, the popular name of the woolly-headed clover. L.E.F. English, Historic Newfoundland, 1955.

chuckler. Anglo-Indian coll.: a native shoemaker. From ca. 1750. Ex Tamil.

chucks. A naval boatswain: nautical: since ca. 1820. Cf. Mr Chucks in Marryat's Mister Midshipman Easy, 1836.

chucks! Cave! Schoolboys'; from ca. 1850. (H., 3rd ed.) Perhaps cf. shucks!

chucky. A coll. endearment (cf. chuck, n., 1): from the 1720s; ob. except in dial.—2. A chicken or a fowl: late C.18–20; coll. Cf. chook, 1.

chuddie, -y. Chewing-gum: teenagers' (D. & R. McPheely): since ca. 1975 in UK, prob. adopted ex Aus.; cf. chutty. (P.B.)

chuff, n. Food: Services', esp. army: since ca. 1930; ob. H. & P. Ex chow, n., 1: chow > chough > chuff.—2. Stimulation of male member by lumbar thrust in coition: low: late C.19–20. In Durham dial., chuff = to cuff.—3. Hence, chuff chums, male homosexual associates, a chuff being a catamite; and chuff-box, puendum muliebree; C.20.—4. Anus: Aus.: C.20. Also, since ca. 1945, English.—5. Bottom, backside: NZ: C.20. Hence, sit on one's chuff, to sit back and do nothing, as used by 'P.M.' Holyoake on 30 July 1967 (Christchurch Star, the next day). P.B.: also Brit., as in 'And that's the fellow [motorist] you get driving up your "chuff"' (a police officer, quoted in an article about the M1 motorway, in Observer colour sup., 20 Dec. 1981, p. 31).

chuff, adj. Impudent: low coll.: from (?)late C.19—early 20. (A. Neil Lyons, Arthur's, 1908.) Ex dial. chuff, happy.

chuff adder. 'Sodomite, "bum-chaser": jocular on puff adder' (L.A., 1969). Cf. chuff, n., 3.

chuff chum. A companion or 'pal', without, necessarily, any suggestion of homosexuality (cf. chuff, n., 3): Services' from 1930; † by 1950.

chuff it! Be off! Take it away! Coll.: ca. 1850; ob. (H., 1st ed.) Perhaps ex chuff as a term of reproach, or from shove it. chuff-nuts. Faecal nodules on anal hair: RN: C.20. Cf. chuff, n., 4.

chuff piece. 'I got to wash a shift every night—if I don't want to feel like an old cow's chuff piece that is' (Heart): RN: mid-C.20. See chuff, n., 3.

chuffed. Pleased, delighted; but also, displeased, disgruntled: army: C.20. If one needed to distinguish, one used chuffed to fuck or chuffed to arseholes or chuffed pink or bo-chuffed, in the former, dead chuffed in the latter sense. Cf. chuff, adj. P.B.: in the 1950s–60s, chuffed pink and bo-chuffed were † replaced by chuffed to (little) naffy [NAAFI]-breaks, or occ., oil-bombs, while the reverse became dischuffed.—2. Flattered: teenagers', esp. jazz-lovers': since ca. 1955. 'Janet Murray says: "I'd be chuffed" (current 'Cat' word for flattered). "It's nice to think someone fancies you"' (Woman's Own, 1959). Both of the main senses derive ex English dialect chuff, which perhaps has two entirely different origins.—3. Hence, real chuffed, excited: since late 1950s.

chug-a-lug! An Aus. drinking toast, esp. in Sydney: since the 1950s. Bonhomously echoic. Perhaps cf. buggerlugs. (It became the chorus of a popular song in the early 1950s. P.B.) chugar(x)ow! A corruption of chubarow! or a contraction of chuck (or even shut) your row!: low: C.20 chul(l) or chullo! Hurry! Military and Anglo-Indian, from ca. 1800. In C.20, gen. chello or, in WW1, jillo or jildi. Hindi chullo, go along. Sala, in Illustrated London News of 19 June 1886, says 'In Calcutta chul is a word that you may hear fifty times a day'; and n.b. Y. & B.

chul(l), v. To succeed; be satisfactory: of things or plans, as in 'It won't chul', i.e. answer, do; of. ackle, q.v. From ca. 1860. Etm. obscure; but perhaps suggested by chull!

chum, n.; in C.18, occ. chumm. First recorded in 1684—Crech's dedication, 'To my chum, Mr. Hody of Wadham College'—this term seems at first to have been university s., which it remained until ca. 1800; a contemporaneous sense was 'a Chamber-fellow, or constant companion' (B.E.). Almost immediately the term came to mean, also, an intimate friend and, in C.18, a mate in crime: cf. college chum, q.v. Either s. or coll. in C.17–18, it has in C.19–20 been coll. Perhaps by abbr. and collision of chamber-fellow or -mate: cf. the Fr. chambrière (a roomful of people, oneself included) and Grose's camerade. Cf. mate, pal and the US buddy. See also long-eared; long-faced; long-haired. See Terms of Address, in Words!—2. On the Conway Training Ship, from ca. 1880 or a few years earlier, chum denoted anyone junior, new chum a newly joined cadet (Masfield, The Conway, 1933).—3. In Aus. a chum is an English immigrant: from ca. 1890. It represents new-chum, a new-comer—esp. from England: this term dates from (—)1839, while old chum, an experienced settler, antedates 1846 (C.P. Hodgson, Reminiscences of Australia); the latter has never, after ca. 1880 (see Morris), been much used. This use of new and old comes ex that, 4, in prisons for newcomers and old hands: c. (—1812); † by 1900. Vaux.—5. See choom.—6. One of the Old Contemptibles: army: 1915+; but ob. by 1947.

chum, v. To live together: from ca. 1730 (Wesley); coll., as is the rare C.19 v.t., put as a chum (Dickens in The Pickwick Papers).

chumm. See chum, n.

chummage. The practice of rooming together; more gen., money made, in several very different ways, from such practice: coll.: 1837 (Dickens). Hence, chummage-ticket.—2. Among prisoners in gaols, garnish, footing: low s. verging on c. Orig. a London term:—1777. Howard's State of Prisons in England and Wales; Grose, 1st ed.—3. See jury, chummage and conter.

chummy. Friendship; friendliness; rooms shared with a friend: coll., from ca. 1870; never very gen.; ob., except in India, where it='a house where European employees of a firm ... live together' (Lyell). Besant & Rice.

chummie, -y. A chimney-sweep's boy: from ca. 1835; by ca. 1870 it signified an ordinary sweep. Dickens; Thackeray; Mayhew, in vol. II of London Labour, 'Once a common name for the climbing boy, being a corruption of chimney'. See napper, 7.—2. A coll. dim. of chum=friend, 'pal'. Charles Clewearing, Simon Solus, a one-act farce played and published in New York in 1843, contains this passage: 'Nicer fellows, stouter hearts, freer souls, than some of my chummies just paid off.' As Colonel Albert Moe, USMC, Ret., has remarked, 'As American naval speech of that period was taken almost entirely and directly from British naval speech, I suggest that [this passage] represents a British expression appearing in an American publication': with so great an authority on American naval speech, I gladly agree.—3. A low-crowned, felt hat: ca. 1858–1900. (H., 2nd ed.) A friendly, comfortable piece of head-gear.—4. In Aus. a post-1895 var. of new-chum (q.v.), an English new-comer: cf. chum, n., 3, q.v.—5. A prisoner; joc. euph. police term: since ca. 1925. Free-Lance Writer, April 1948.—6. Hence, the prime suspect; the perpetrator of the crime under investigation: police s.: since ca. 1950 (?earlier). Alan Hunter, Gently Where the Roads Go, 1962.—7. See chummy, adj., 2.

chumming or chumming-up. Same as chummage, esp. as to garnish, footing: C.19–2. In C.20, the forming of a friendship: coll.

chummy, n. See chummie.

chummy, v. To 'go partners' (with someone); work along with: Aus.: since ca. 1870. 'Tom Collins', Such is Life, 1903, 'He chummied for a few weeks with a squatter'.

chummy, adj. Friendly, intimate; sociable: coll.: from ca. 1880. Besant.—2. (Of a motor-car) affording comfort and space for three or four persons: coll.: 1922; ob. by ca. 1940. OED Sup.

chummy ships. Ships whose crews are 'friends': nautical coll.: late C.19–20. (Bowen.) 'A ship's next door neighbour in an anchorage' (Granville)—the two definitions are not always compatible, the opp. of chummy being enemy.

chump. (S.E. or coll. > S.E. in sense of a blockhead).—2. The head; occ. the face: from ca. 1860. Esp. in off one's chump, very eccentric; mad to almost any degree. H., 3rd ed.; 'Master ... have gone off his chump, that's all' (Besant & Rice, 1877).—3. A var. of chum=friend; ca. 1880–1920. Punch, 11 Oct. 1884.—4. In get or provide (one's) own chump, to earn one's own living: c.: ca. 1860–1914. See esp. that prison classic, Five Years' Penal Servitude, anon., 1877, not to be confused with James Greenwood's Seven Years' Penal Servitude, 1884.

chump, or chunk, of wood. No good: rhyming s.:—1859. Also, a 'chump' or fool, ca. 1870–1900.

Chumps Elizas. Champs Elysées: 'London, Five Pounder Tourists' 1854, on' (Ware).

chumpy. Eccentric; idiotic; insane. Ca. 1870–1914. Ex off one's chump.

chunder, n. and v. (To) vomit: Aus.: since ca. 1925. (B.P.) The term was given a new lease of life, and branded as 'typically Australian', by Barry Humphries in the late 1960s and 1970s. Cf. English dial. chouunter, chunter or chunder, an echoic word meaning to grumble. Wilkes, however, comments, 'variously explained as an abbreviation of [nautical] "watch under" [=look out below!] and as rhyming slang Chunder Loo = spew from Chunder Loo of Akin Foo, a cartoon figure in a long-running series of advertisements for Cobra bootpolish in the Bulletin from 8 Apr. 1909'.

chunk. A thick solid piece or lump cut off anything (esp. wood or bread): coll. and dial.: mid-C.17–20. (Ray's Country Words, 1691.) App. ex chuck (OED).—2. 'Among printers, a journeyman who refuses to work for legal wages' (Grose, 2nd ed.): late C.18–early 19. Cf. flint and dung among tailors.—3. A School Board officer: ca. 1870–1910. Thor Fredur, Sketches from Shady Places, 1879.

chunk of wood. No good. See chump of wood.

chunka or chunker. A boss or 'head': Aus. rhyming s.: C.20.

(B., 1942.) Short for chunk of beef (late C.19–20), rhyming on chief.

Chunkies, the. The Royal Pioneer Corps: army: WW2 (?since mid-WW1). 'Ex the legend that they are all so tough they can open tins of pineapple chunks by crunching them between their ballocks' (P.B., 1974).

chunky. Thick set. From ca. 1870; coll. Ex US (1776). Thornton.

chunter. To grumble; to go on talking at length, esp. in a disgruntled way, or occ., merely tediously: orig. Northern dial. >, since ca. 1950, gen. coll. 'He went chuntering on for hours about how ghastly the government was...' Cf. chounter, of which chunter is perhaps the S.E. pron. (P.B.)

chup. Silence; mostly in keep chup, to keep quiet: Army: late C.19–20. Ex Hindustani. P-G-R.

chuprassy, in civilian use (—1865) a messenger, in military usage, an Indian orderly (from ca. 1880), is Anglo-Indian coll., direct ex Hindi chaprasi, the wearer of a chaprass or badge.

church, n. An endearment; esp. my church, my dear: non-aristocratic: ca. 1870–1910. B. & L.—2. See go to church.

church, v. Illicitly to disguise a watch by changing its 'innards': c.: from ca. 1835; gen. as church a yack. (Brandon, 1839.) Cf. christen, q.v.

church-by-hand. 'An emergency or makeshift performance of Divine Service on board ship on Sunday, when the regular service cannot be held': RN: from ca. 1914. (F. & G.) See also by hand.

church-folk. Members of the Church of England as opp. to 'chapel folk', Dissenters. From ca. 1870; coll. (Other senses, S.E.)

Church of Turkey. A non-existent religious denomination; any 'fancy religion': RN: C.20.

church parade. The walk-and-talk after church on Sunday mornings: coll.: from ca. 1870. Cf. prayer-book parade, q.v.

church-piece. A threepenny bit: Society:—1909; ob. (Ware.) Prob. ex the contribution to the 'collection'. See also churcher.

church-service. A church-service book, i.e. one containing the Common Prayer, the lessons, the psalms in metrical version, etc.: low coll. (—1859). Sala. OED.

church with a chimney in it. (Often at a...) A private house; also applicable to an inn: C.18—earlier 20. Swift, Polite Dialogues, I, 1738.

church work. Work that proceeds very slowly: coll.; from ca. 1600. Ex church-building.

churcher. A threepenny piece: Cockneys': late C.19–20. (J.W. Horsley, I Remember, 1912.) Cf. church-piece.

churchify. To render 'churchy' (q.v.): 1843, Miall (OED): coll. >, by 1900, S.E.

Churchill. A meal: taxi-drivers': late 1920s. Winston Churchill gave the taximan the right to refuse a fare while having a meal (newspaper cutting, 11 June 1945).

churchiness. The being 'churchy', q.v.: from ca. 1880: coll. >, by 1900, S.E.

churchwarden. A long-stemmed clay pipe: from ca. 1855; coll. Hood, 1857, 'Hang a churchwarden by my side for a sabre.' Churchwardens affected this ob. instrument. Cf. alderman, yard of clay.

churchy. 'Redolent' of the Church; obtrusive in religious observance: coll.: from ca. 1860.

churchyard clock, as many faces as a. Unreliable. See many faces... churchyard cough. A severe cough: coll.: late C.17–20. (B.E.) Mainly joc.

churchyard luck. The death of a child in a large, poor family: proletarian coll.:—1909 (Ware).

churl upon a gentleman, put a. To drink malt liquor immediately after wine: late C.16—early 19. Coll. after ca. 1700. Esp. Apperson.

chury. A knife: c.: ca. 1810–60 (Vaux). Ex Welsh Romany chury (čuri); cf. Hindi chhuri, (itself of Sanskrit origin.

chut. Short for chutty, q.v., chewing-gum.—2. A var. of chuff, n., 2 and 3, and hence 'homosexual practices between men' (L.A., 1977): C.20.

chute (or 'chute). A parachute: RAF coll.: since ca. 1930. Partridge, 1945.—2. See up the chute.

chute, v. To throw away: R Aus. N: since ca. 1930. (B., 1943.) Cf. up the chute.

chutney. Sodomy. See Navy cake and cf. chut, 2.

chutty. Chewing-gum: Aus.: since ca. 1925. 'Whence "chut-to", masticate easily and pleasantly' (B., 1942). Ex chew it. Cf. chuddie.

chutzpah. See chuzpah.

chuvvy. A flea; hence, chuvvied up, infested with fleas: market traders': C.20. (M.T.) Perhaps ex E. Anglian dial. chovy, a small, chestnut-coloured beetle. EDD.

chuzpah (pron. khootspa, and often written in the 'phonetic' form chutzpah). Tremendous self-confidence; sheer barefaced effrontery or impudence; selfish action, esp. tricky; unlooked-for resource, that secures advantage at any cost: US Yiddish, adopted in Britain ca. 1974. (L.A.) See esp. Leo Rosten, The Joys of Yiddish, 1968.

chuzzle. To cheat. See chisel.

chy. A girl. See chai, 2.

chy-ack, or -like; chyacke. Variants of chiike, q.v., to taunt.

ciào! A greeting. See chow!

ciacisbeo. A ribbon-knot attached to hilt of sword, neck of walking-stick, etc.: ca. 1770–1820: Society. (SOD gives as an unassimilated Italianism, but this usage of the word is slangy.) Ex the C.18–20 sense, imported direct from Italy: a married woman's recognised gallant or 'servente'.

-cide, -icide. A suffix denoting -murder or -murderer. Often used in joc. coll. by the cultured, as in timécide, a fribble or a pastime, and the happier warricide, a pacifist. This sort of thing easily > pedantic or otherwise objectionable, and should be Fowlericided.

cider-and. Cider with something else (esp. if liquid): C.18–20; ob. Coll. Fielding in Joseph Andrews, 'They had a pot of cider-and at the fire.' Cf. hot with.

cig. A cigar: ca.1885–1900. B. & L.—2. From ca. 1890, a cigarette. (P.G. Wodehouse, Not George Washington, 1907.) Earliest record: 1895, W. Pett Ridge, Minor Dialogues.

cigar. A Woodbine or Player's Weight or any other similar cigarette, small but wholesome: from ca. 1930 and mostly Cockneys'.

cigar-box. A violin. See fish-horn for related terms.

cigaresque. Well furnished with cigars; smoking or 'sporting' a large or very expensive cigar. A joc. coll. (1839), in C.20, almost S.E., after picturesque or picaresque.

cigarette card, talk like the back of a. See talk like...

cigarette swag. 'A small swag carried by a tramp when he comes into a city' (B., 1943): Aus.: since ca. 1930. Ex shape and relative size.

cigga. A cigarette: Aus. coll.: later C.20. McNeil.

cig(g)aboo. A cigarette: Aus., esp. Sydney-siders': since ca. 1948. (Edwin Morrisby, 1958.)

Cigs. Chief of the Imperial General Staff: Service officers': 1939–45. Ex the initials C.I.G.S. P-G-R.

cinch. (In Can., as in the Northern States of USA, the c was orig. hard; in Eng., as in the Southern States, soft; and in other parts of the Brit. Empire, it varied. However, since ca. 1910, the c has, all over the world, been soft.) As v., = 'corner', get a grip on, put pressure on: orig. (1875) US, anglicised ca. 1900, though never gen. It's a cinch! = 'the screw is on!', it's as good as a certainty, did catch on during WW1 (F. & G.); since ca. 1930 the predominant sense has been 'something (very) easy to do'. (E.P.; B.P.; P.B.) See -ville, also DCpp.

cinder. Any strong liquor mixed with water, tea, lemonade, etc. (—1864); ob. H., 3rd ed., 'Take a soda with a cinder in it.'—2. A running-track: abbr. cinder-path or -track: coll.: from ca. 1880. Occ. cinders.—3. A window: thieves' rhyming s.: C.20. Gilt Kid, 1936.—4. See yous to a cinder.

cinder-cruncher. A switchman: Can. railwaymen's:—1931. cinder-garbler. A female servant: late C.18—early 19. Grose, 1st ed., adds: 'Custom House wit'. Cf. cinder-grabber. A female drudge: C.19—early 20. Ex prec. Cf. slavey. cinder-knotter. A stoker: RN:—1909 (Ware); ob. by 1930. cinder-shifter. A motorcycle speedway rider: Aus.: since ca. 1924 (B., 1942). Ex cinder-track. Cf. shale-shifter. cinder-sifter. A woman's 'hat with open-work brim, the edge of which was turned up perpendicularly': Society: ca. 1878—1912. Ware. cinderella. Abbr. Cinderella dance, one ceasing at midnight: from ca. 1880: coll. >, by 1900, S.E.
Cinderella's coach; glass coach. A District Engineer's coach; railwaymen's: since ca. 1920. Railway. cinders. See cinder, 2. cine. (Pronounced simy.) In compounds, it = cinema, cinematographic: 1928 (OED): coll. >, by 1935, S.E. owing to its frequency as a trade abbr. cinema. Cinematograph, -graphic: coll. (1910) >, by 1920, S.E. (OED Sup.) Cf. prec.
Cinema slang. See MOVING-PICTURE SLANG, in Appendix.
cing bon. Excellent. See bon, and sang... cinquantier. An old 'hand' or 'stager': ca. 1600—1800. Pedantic; ex Fr. cinquante, 50.—2. A 'gamester and scurrilous companion by profession': ca. 1600—60. OED. cinque and sice, set at. 'To expose to great risks, to be reckless about' (OED): ca. 1530—1720: s. > coll. > S.E. Cf. at sixes and sevens.
Cipher Queen. See Cypher Queen.
circle train. A London underground train: London coll.: 1887, Baumann.—2. In C.20, a train on the Inner Circle Line: coll. circiers. Occupants of the dress-circle: theatrical (—1909). Ware. circling boy. A 'rook', a swindler, a gambler's or a thief's decoy: C.17 c. (Jonson.) Cf. run rings round, q.v. at rings round. circs. Circumstances: trivial coll.: from ca. 1880. (Baumann.) Prob. orig. commercial.
circuit, the. 'The worn track round the compound... which kriegies "pounded" or "bashed" (walked)... to get away from their own thoughts' (Paul Brickhill & Conrad Norton, Escape to Danger, 1946): prisoners of war in Germany, 1940—5.
circuit and bumps. 'Exercise flights consisting of repeated take-offs and landings' (E.P., 'Air Warfare and its Slang' in New Statesman, 19 Sept. 1942): since ca. 1925.
circuit-and-bumps boy; usually in pl. A flying pupil: RAF: since ca. 1930. (Jackson.) Ex prec. circumbendibus. A roundabout way (lit.): coll.: from 1681 (Dryden); ob. Ex bend + L. circum, around, + L. dative and ablative pl, -ibus.—Whence, 2, a long-winded story: coll.: from ca. 1780. Grose, 1st ed. circumference. The waist of a large, fat person: coll.: C.20. Cf. girth. circumlocution office. A Government Office; any roundabout way of doing things. Coined by Dickens in Little Dorrit, 1857. Derisively coll.: S.E. by 1900.
circus. A noisy and confused institution, place, scene, assemblage or group of persons: coll.: American anglicised ca. 1895.—2. A raiding-party that moves from sector to sector: military: 1917. Also travelling circus. OED Sup.—3. An aeroplane squadron: military: 1917. (B. & P. and, esp., F. & G.) The most famous was Richthöfen's.—4. Artillery s., from 1914, as in R. Blaker, Medal without Bar, 1930: 'Cartwright rode at the tail of the firing battery with "the circus"—G.S. wagons, mess-cart, water-cart and the odd bicycle-pushers.—5. Any temporary group of persons housed, together, working at the same task, e.g. at an encyclopædia (for the masses rather than the classes): coll.: 1932.—6. The Security Intelligence Service; its operatives: civil servants': since ca. 1945. In, e.g., Ted Willis, The Left-Handed Sleeper, 1975, and the novels of John Le Carré, passim. Like the other senses, a specialisation of the orig. sense; senses 4—6 are normally the circus.—7. In it's a or was a (real) circus, it is, or was, very comical: army: WW1.—8. See Kaffir circus.

circus cuss. A circus rider: c.: from ca. 1850.

Ciren (pron. as S.E. syren). Cirencester: local and railwaymen's coll.: late C.19—20.

cirri or cirry (pron. with c soft). Molasses, treacle: training ships': late C.19—20; esp. in TS Indefatigable, according to J.R. West, 1909 (Peppitt). Hence cirry bin, 'molasses spread on ships' biscuits. A treat.' (Ibid.)? Ex syrup.

ciss! See cess!

cissie, -y. An effeminate boy or man. See sissie.

cistern. A motorcycle fuel-tank: motorcyclists' s.: since ca. 1950. (Dunford.)

cit. Abbr. citizen: pej. coll.; from ca. 1640; ob. by 1830, and in C.20, S.E. Rarely applied, in a city, to others than tradesmen; in the country, to other than (gen. non-aristocratic) townsmen born and bred. 'The cits of London and the boors of Middlesex' (Johnson: SOD). Citess, ca. 1680—1750, is rare.

citizen. A wedge for opening safes: c.: from ca. 1860. Whence, citizen's friend, a wedge smaller than a citizen, itself smaller than an alderman; larger still, though only occ. used, is a lord mayor. The tools are used in the order of their size; the terms are ob.

Citizens, the. The Leicester, or the Manchester, City 'soccer' team: sporting: from the 1890s. (The former occurs in Observer, 29 Oct. 1933.)

citt. A C.17—early 18 var. (e.g. in B.E.) of cit, q.v.

City. (Always the City.) The district, or the business men therein, round the Exchange and the Bank of England: from ca. 1750; coll. till ca. 1800, then S.E. Abbr. the City of London, orig. the part within the old boundaries. Contrast la Cité in Paris.—2. See something in...

city bull-dog. Early C.18 term for a constable. See CONSTABLES, in Appendix.

City College. Newgate: c. (—1791); † by 1890. (Grose, 3rd ed.) Cf. college, q.v.

city morgue: duty corpse (speaking): A joc.(!) c.p. used to answer the telephone: army: 1950s—60s. Obviously ex US. (P.B.)

City of the Saints, the. Grahamstown: S. African coll. nickname of ca. 1865—90. Pettman.

City Road Africans. Harlots of that quarter: London streets': ca. 1882—1910. Ware.

City sherry. Four-ale: East London: ca. 1880—90. Ware. Ex colour (!).

city slicker. A smart, smooth fellow from the city: Aus.: adopted, ca. 1944, ex US servicemen.—2. Hence, loosely, any city chap: since ca. 1950. (Jon Cleary, Back of Sunset, 1959.) See slicker.

city stage. The gallows: C.18—early 19. (Once in front of Newgate, London, 'E.C.4'.)

City's Light Horse, the. Female secretaries that have become their bosses' mistresses: the 1930s. (L.A., 1976.) A pun on horses easy to mount, and on light-hearted.

civet. C.18—19, low coll.: puendum muliebree.

civet-cat. A person habitually using civet perfume: C.18; orig.—Pope, 1738—S.E., it soon > coll. and quickly ob.

civies. See civvies, now, since ca. 1945 at latest, the usu. spelling.

civil, do the. To do the civil—the polite—thing: coll.: C.19—20; by 1960, slightly ob. A. Trollope, Barchester Towers, 1857.

civil reception, a house of. A bawdy house: mid-C.18—early 19. Grose, 1st ed.

civil rig. In vagrants' c., C.19—20 (ob.), an attempt to obtain alms by extreme civility. Rig, a trick.

civilian. Any person, esp. a man, that is not a criminal: C.19—20 (ob.): c.—2. See TAVERN TERMS, §3, d, in Appendix.—3. 'The surgeon, purser, and chaplain, are commonly designated... civilians' (W.N. Glascock, The Naval Sketch-Book, I, 12, 1925): naval: ca. 1800–60. Moe.

civility money. A tip claimed by bailiffs for doing their duty with civility: C.18–early 19; orig. coll. it was S.E. by 1880. Motteux, 1708, 'four Ducats for Civility Money'.

civvie. See civvy, n. and adj.

civvies (formerly spelt, logically but unphonetically, civies). Civilian clothes: Services': mid-C.19–20. B. & L.; F. & G. (The army officers' word is S.E. mufti.)

civvy, civy, n. (As with civies, the former i is, in either spelling, short.) A civilian: coll.: orig. (1895), military. H.W. Nevinson, Neighbours of Ours, 1895.—2. Hence, a recruit waiting to be issued with a uniform: Services': since ca. 1920; ob. by 1950. H. & P.—3. 'Anyone who is not a prisoner or member of the uniformed Prison Service' (Tempest): prisons', mid-C.20. Cf. civilian, 1.

civvy, adj. Civilian, esp. with clothes, life, and street: military coll.: C.20. Cf. the famous WW1 (and still going strong 50 years later) song, to the tune 'What a Friend (we have in Jesus)'; 'When I get my civvy clothes on,/Oh, how happy I shall be...'

civvy kip. A real bed as opp. to a shake-down: army: WW1. (F. & G.) Cf. prec.

Civvy Street. The condition and status of a civilian; 'What did you do in Civvy Street?' was often heard, WW2, in the Services, where its use persists. (H. & P.) On the analogy of Easy Street, it was first used in ca. 1917 by the army. See civvy.

cla. (School) class. See COLSTON'S, in Appendix.

clack. As chatter, gossip, S.E.; as tongue, coll.: late C.16–20; ob. Greene, 'Haud your clacks, lads.' As 'a prattler or busybudy' (Dyche), coll.: C.17–early 18.—2. A loud talk or chat, coll.: from ca. 1810; ob. James Payn, 1888, 'The old fellow would have had a clack with her.' Esp. in cut your clack!, 'shut up!': late C.19–20 (Manchon).—3. The v. is S.E. The word is echoic.

clack-box. The mouth: C.19.—2. A persistent chatterer: C.19–20, ob. Both have a dial. tinge. Ex the S.E. sense, the container of a pump's clack-valve. Cf.:-

clack-loft. A pulpit: late C.18–20; ob. by 1930. (Grose, 2nd ed.) Cf. hum-box.

clacker. A person, esp. a soldier, delighting to spread rumours: mostly military: C.20 (F. & G.) Ex the S.E. v. —2. Pie crust: RN: C.20. Granville, 'Any gash clacker loafing?' means "Any more pie?" Echoic (but Granville derives it from dial. clag, to stick, adhere).—3. Hence, a collective for young women; individually, 'a nice piece (or bit) of clacker': RN, thence to other Services: since ca. 1950. (P.B.) clackers; or jam clacker. 'Pastry, "duff", spread over with currants (or jam), prepared (by the ratings) on a small dish and which would be cooked in the galley' (L.A., 1967): RN: C.20. Cf. prec. entry, sense 2, and clagger.

clackometer. An imaginary instrument for measuring female attractiveness, as 'What does she read on your clackometer?': RN and army in Cyprus, late 1950s—perhaps more widespread, perhaps merely what E.P. duffed an 'ephemeral parochialism'. (P.B.)

clag. Cloud; a cloud: RAF: since (?)mid-1930s. Ex dial. clag, clay, and clag to, stick to. Hence, clagged in, conditions too cloudy or foggy for aircraft to take off (before the advent of sophisticated blind-flying techniques). 'Ten-tenths clag', completely overcast with low cloud. (E.P.; P.B.)

clagger. A duff made of flour and slush: nautical: late C.19–20. (Bowen.) Ex dial. clag, to adhere. Cf. clacker, 2, and clackers, perhaps both later variants.

claggy. (Of clothes) wet, from weather or sweat, and clinging, as in 'all claggy round the crutch': low coll.: since mid-C.20. Ex dial. (P.B.) claim. To steal: late C.19–20 c.; ob. Cf. convey, win, scrounge, liberate, etc.—2. As to arrest (gen. in passive) it was current in the 1930s. (David Hume); but in the sense of simply 'catch hold of, seize, grasp (a person)' it occurs in Sessions, 19 Nov. 1902; 'Tyler jumped out at the window—I claimed him and tustled [sic] with him.'

claimed. Under arrest. See claim, 2.

clam. One who says extremely little or is excessively secretive: coll.: C.20. (The US sense is a close-fisted person.)

clamber aboard. 'Physical address to a woman for sexual intercourse' (L.A., 1974); low and raffish; perhaps esp. Services': WW2 and after. (P.B.)

clammers. Grappling-irons: used fig. in 'Get the clammers on him'='Don't let him get away [without buying anything]': market-traders': C.20. (M.T.) EDD glosses clammers as (Cumbrian) 'a yoke for the neck of a cow, to prevent her from leaping hedges'.

clamp, v. To assume very close formation: RAF: later C.20. 'Boss calls, "By the IP [instructor pilot] chaps, tighten up!" That is the signal to "clamp"' (Phantom). Cf. hang in, q.v. clamp down on (e.g. delinquents or malefactors). To apply the full severity of the law or the regulations: since mid-1940s: coll. >, by ca. 1960, S.E. clamped down is an RAF brevity for 'The cloud is now very low, or visibility bad': Flying-Officer Robert Hinde, letter, 1945: since ca. 1925. Cf. clamp down, v. to become foggy: RAF: since ca. 1930. Cecil Lewis, Pathfinders, 1943.

clampers, often elab. to Harry Clampers. It's (Harry) Clampers' = It's non-flying weather: RAF: since ca. 1930. Prob. ex clamped down. Cf. clagged in.

clampy. A flat-footed person: RN: since ca. 1925. (Granville.) Echoic; app. reminiscent both of clatter and stamp (about).

clang, v. To commit a faux pas: not common before late 1960s, and clearly a back-formation ex clanger, as in drop a clanger, e.g., 'I realised I'd clanged as soon as...', and in the abbreviatory exclam. clang!, applied usu. to one's own stupidity, uttered with some gesture of contrition such as clapping a hand to the forehead. (Based on a note from P.B., 1975.)

clanger. An error, a faux pas, a hideously obvious mistake; usu. in phrase drop a clanger, q.v., but occ. make a clanger (prob. influenced by make a boo-boo): coll., orig. Services', now (1970s) widespread: since (?)WW2, poss. earlier. Either a synon. for testicle, cf. clappers, or merely echoic—bad blunders do resound. (P.B.)—2. A coward: Aus.: since ca. 1940. B., 1953.—3. Diminutive of double clanger, q.v., a gear-change on a bicycle.

clangeroo. A memorably bad misjudgment: mainly theatrical: since late 1940s. Terence Rattigan, in Introduction to Mander & Mitchenson's Theatrical Companion to Coward, 1957, 'Not just a floater but a real old-fashioned clangeroo'. Ex clanger, 1, intensified by the -oo from the American suffix = eroo.

clank. In c., a pewter tankard: C.19; late C.17–18 (B.E.), a silver one. Hence, rum clank, a double tankard, as in B.E., who also records clank-napper, a stealer of silver tankards.

clank clank! An Aus. interj. uttered when someone claims ancestry back to early settler days; a ref. to the chains of the transported convicts: mid-C.20. (WO Ron Tyler, RAAF, 1968.)—2. In clank clank, I'm a tank! (uttered in a dull, ponderous voice), an army jibe at the Royal Tank Regiment: 1960s. (P.B.)

clanker. A notable lie, cf. clinker: ca. 1690–1840. (B.E.; Grose, 1st ed.) Ex the noise of heavy metal: cf. clank, q.v., and clanker, silver plate, C.17–18 c.

clanker-napper. A thief specialising in silver plate, esp. tankards: late C.17–early 19 c. Cf. clank-napper (see clank).

clap, n. Gonorrhœa: late C.16–20; S.E. until ca. 1840, then low coll. Respectably: 'They sing, they dance, clean shoes, or cure a clap'—almost the sole instance in Johnson's formal works (this occurs in 'London', an admirable satirical poem, 1738) of a monosyllabic sentence. Ex Old Fr. clapoir.—2. In in a clap, immediately; occ., instantaneously: coll.: early C.17–early 20.

clap, v. To infect with gonorrhœa: from ca. 1650. S.E. until

ca. 1840, then low coll.—2. To take, seize: low (—1857); ob. 'Ducange Anglicus', 1st ed. Ex clap one's hands on.

clap-em. See Had'em.

clap eyes on. To see, esp. unexpectedly or finally: coll.:—1838 (Dickens).

clap hands! (Also, Now, clap hands! or clap your hands!) A silly witticism often addressed to anyone carrying a load needing both hands, effort and concentration: since ca. 1940. See DCpp.

clap hands Charley (or Charlie), do a. To fly an aircraft in such a way as to cause the wings—or the rotor blades of a helicopter—to meet overhead: RAF: ca. 1945. (With thanks to an operational RAF officer) P.B.: ex the refrain of a popular song, 'Clap hands, here comes Charlie...'

clap in, v.i. To come or go decisively; enter vigorously; put oneself forward: coll.: ca. 1600–1780. Marvell, 1672, 'Hearing of a vacancy with a Noble-man, he clap'd in, and easily obtained to be his Chaplain' (OED). Cf. C.20 slap in.

clap of thunder. A glass of gin: coll.; ca. 1810–40. Cf. flash of lightning.

clap on, v.i. To 'set to'; apply oneself energetically: coll.: from ca. 1850. Surtees (OED).

clap on (one's) rags. To dress oneself: lower and lower-middle class: ca. 1810–40, if not for a much longer period. London Magazine, Aug. 1822, 'English Smugglers' (Moe).

clap on the shoulder, n. and v. (An) arrest for debt. C.18 (?also C.17) coll. Grose, 1st ed.

clap-shoulder. A bailiff or a watchman: rare coll.: C.17–early 19. Adj. in Taylor the 'Water-Poet'. The gen. form is shoulder-clapper.

clap-trap. Much talk; idle chatter; nonsense and windbagery: perhaps orig. Londoners': C.20. Perhaps ex S.E. sense of 'language designed to win applause'.—2. Mouth: low, esp. Londoners': from ca. 1910. Perhaps ex sense 1, or shortening of clapper (=tongue)-trap.

Clapham (or Clap'em). In a low C.18 pun, q.v. at Had'em. clapped, adj. Utterly exhausted: coll.: later C.20. (Hugh Tracy, Death in Reserve, 1976.) A shortening of sense 2. of: clapped out. (Of aircraft) unserviceable, worn out: orig. RAF, and at first esp. in Far East: since 1942. Post-WW2 it was applied derivatively, esp. among racing drivers, to car engines; whence, by the 1970s, widespread and gen. coll. in phrases like 'a clapped-out old banger', an old car in the last stages before being sent for scrap.—2. Hence, (of persons) exhausted, no longer effective: since ca. 1946: esp. among teenagers since ca. 1955 (Gilderdale): ob. in this sense. (E.P.; P.B.) Claiborne suggests: 'both senses [prob.] derive from the images of a person sexually incapacitated by [the] clap.'

clapper. The human tongue, esp. that of a very talkative person: coll.: 1638, H. Shirley; H., 1st ed. OED; EDD.—2. A study ventilator: Shrewsbury School coll.: from ca. 1880. (Desmond Coke, The Bending of a Twig, 1906.) Ex the noise it makes as it is being closed.—3. A sandwich-board man: street s.: since ca. 1910. Desmond Morse-Boycott, We Do See Lifel, 1931.—4. Hence, a sandwich-man's boards: c.: ob. by 1932.

clapper-claw. To thrash soundly and crudely: late C.16–early 19: coll. (B.E., Grose.) Lit., to scratch noisily.—2. Hence, to revile: late C.17–20; ob. coll. almost S.E. (OED).

clapper-doggon or, more correctly, -dudgeon. A beggar born, a whining beggar; also as an insult. Mid-C.16–19: c. till ca. 1800, then low s. with an archaic tinge. (Harman; Jonson; Ned Ward; Sala.) ?lit., one who assumes ('claps on') grief, indignation, distress. Or, as OED suggests, clapper + dudgeon, the hilt of a dagger.

clappers. Testicles: mostly servicemen's: since ca. 1930. John Winton, We Joined the Navy, 1959, 'Don't let me hear you making another report like that again or I'll have your clappers for a necktie'. Cf. clanger, 1.—2. See like the clappers.

clappy. Strictly, infected with 'clap'; loosely, with either gonorrhoea or syphilis: Anglo-Irish: C.20. Nicholas Blake, The Private Wound, 1968, 'You son of a clappy whore.'

222

clapster. A frequent sufferer from clap (q.v.); a very loose man. C.19–20; low coll.

clar. In piece-work, to earn as much as possible: factory-workers': 1932.

Clara and Mona. 'Mona and Clara, the air-raid and all-clear signals... the moaning of the warning sirens and a contraction of the welcome "all-clear"' (Berrey, 1940): WW2, on the Home Front.

Claras. Caledonian Railway stock; money market: from ca. 1880; ob.

Clare Market Cleavers. Butchers of that district: London coll.: ca. 1850–1900. 'The glory of Clare Market... was practically gone in '98', Ware (whom see for an excellent account).

Clare Market duck. 'Baked bullock's heart stuffed with sage and onions—which gave a faint resemblance to the bird' (Ware): London: ca. 1850–1900. See prec.

Clarence. Like, though less than, Cuthbert, apt to be used as a joc. coll.: C.20. See my Name This Child, 1936. P.B.: a Punch cartoon of 2 Feb. 1916 may be relevant; it shows an officer and a sergeant discussing a distant sentry: 'Officer. "Why do you think he wouldn't make a good corporal?"—Sergeant (indicating sentry). "'Im a corporal! Lor Lumme! Why, 'is name's Clarence!'" claret, n. Blood: from ca. 1600 (Dekker, e.g. in The Honest Whore, 1604). From ca. 1770, mostly in boxing 'circles' (e.g. in Moore's Tom Crib's Memorial, 1819). Ex the colour. Cf. badminton and bordeaux. The term is still, 1970s, current, 'especially common in South London' (Powis). Hence:— claret, v. (Usually in passive.) To draw blood from, to cause to be covered with blood. 'Purcell's mug was clareted' (Boxiana, II, 1818). Ex claret, n. See also tap (someone's) claret.

claret-christening. The first blood that flows in a boxing match: pugilistic:—1923 (Manchon). See claret.

claret-jug. The nose: pugilistic; from ca. 1840; ob. Ex claret, q.v.

clargyman. A rabbit: provincial, esp. Cheshire, s. (—1898), not dial. EDD.

Clarian. A member of Clare, Cambridge University: from ca. 1850. Charles Whibley, witty Augustan, embalms it in Cap and Gown as 'stuke-struck Clarians'. Without the pun on clarian, the term would obviously not be unconventional. Clarkenco. The Fourth Party in the House of Commons: political: late June–July 1885. A telescoping of Mr Edward Clarke and Co., as it was also called (The Referee., 19 July 1885). Ware.

clarts. Trouble, often in (drop) in the clarts: euph. for 'shit' in this sense: used extensively in Clement & La Frenais, A Further Stir of Porridge, 1977. Ex dial. clarty, viscous. (P.B.)

clash. A set battle, planned and announced, between two gangs of hooligans and/or near-criminals: Glasgow c. and lower-class s.: from ca. 1920. MacArthur & Long. It differs from a rammy, q.v.—2. In do a bit of class, to commit a crime between two quite small groups. Cf. rumble, n., 4.

clashy. Anglo-Indian (coll. rather than s.) for a native sailor or tent-pitcher, loosely for a labourer, a 'low fellow': late C.18–20. Ex Urdu khlas, which has thus been corrupted; has var. classy.

class. Distinction; sheer merit; athletics and, slightly, the turf: from ca. 1850: coll. 'He's not class enough', 'There's a good deal of class about him': he is not good enough; pretty good. Cf. classy, q.v.—2. In do a bit of class, to commit a crime that is, by criminals, considered notable or, at the least, not below one's abilities: c.: from ca. 1880. Rook.—3. In take a class, to take an honours degree: Oxford: mid-C.19–20: coll. >, by 1880, S.E.—4. See no class.

class man. A 'prisoner who has passed out of the first stage' (George Ingram, Stir, 1933): c. classic. Excellent, 'splendid': from ca. 1880: coll. Ex burlesque S.E. sense: 'approved, recognised "standard"' (OED).

classy. Stylish: fashionable; smart; well-turned-out: from ca.

1890: coll., lower-middle class downwards. Cf. class, q.v.—2. var. of clashy.

clatter, n. 'He has just finished a "clatter", fourteen days in the compound' (R. Grinstead, They Dug a Hole, 1946): Guardsmen's: since ca. 1925. Echoic.

clatter, v. To smack; to hit: market-traders': C.20 'I clattered him'; 'clatter on to the chavvy [child]': these examples appear in M.T. Echoic.

clatters. A smacking: market-traders': C.20. Ex prec.

clattery, adj. Clattering: coll.: from ca. 1880. OED. (Also in Yorkshire dial.: EDD.)

claw. A stroke of the cat-o'-nine-tails: (—1876) c.; ob.

claw me and I'll claw thee. The C.17–early 19 form of the C.16 claw me, claw ye and the C.20 scratch my back and I'll scratch yours: coll.

claw off. Severely to defeat or thrash: late C.17–19, low coll., as is the sense, venerally to infect. B.E.—2. Also, to scold: same period and kind. Occ. c. away. Cf. earlier S.E. senses.

claw-back. See claw-poll.

claw-hammer (coat). The tail coat of full evening dress: coll.; from 1869 in US (Thornton); anglicised in 1879 (OED). (The coat is gen. omitted.) Ex a claw-hammer.

claw-poll, more gen. claw-back. A toady: coll., resp. C.16–17, C.16–19. Both S.E. after 1600.

claw (one's) toes. To indulge oneself: coll.: mid-C.15–early 16. OED.

claws, in one's. In a person's power or possession: jocular of oneself, pejorative of another: late C.16–20: S.E. till C.20, then virtually coll.

claws for breakfast. Punishment with the cat-o'-nine-tails: (—1873) c.; ob. James Greenwood, in Strange Company. Cf. claw.

clay. Abbr. clay-pipe: coll.: from ca. 1860. Calverley in the Ode to Tobacco.

clay-brained. Very dull-witted: coll. >, by 1700, S.E.; late C.16–20, ob. Shakespeare.

clayey or clayie. A home-made marble of sun-baked clay: Aus. children's: ca. 1890–1945. (B.P.)

Clean, Mr or Miss, etc. One who, in politics, show-business, sport, etc., maintains an image of virtue as a selling point: adopted ca. 1980 ex US. 'I'm fed up with playing little Miss Clean. I'd like to take on a really naughty role.' (P.B.) clean, v. To change one's clothes: RN coll.: C.19–20. (Basil Hall, 2nd series, 1832.) Bowen notes: 'Even "clean into dirty clothes" is permissible.'—2. To scold severely: to chastise: (low) Cockney: late C.19–20. 'I won' 'alf clean yer when I gits yer 'ome!' Ex the lit. sense of that threat.

clean, adj. Expert, clever: c.:—1811 (Lex. Bal.); † by 1890.

—2. Cleared by the security vetting services: coll. > j. of those governed by the Official Secrets Act: since ca. 1950 (? earlier). (P.B.)—3. In adj. and adv. sense 'completely', it is archaic S.E. rather than coll.: cf. 'until all the people were passed clean over Jordan' (Joshua iii. 17).—4. Carrying no drugs: addicts': adopted, ca. 1955, ex US.—5. See come clean.

clean and polish – we're winning the war. A military c.p., by the ranks condemnatory of 'spit and polish' (q.v.): 1915–18. (F. & G.) Cf.:

clean as a button-stick. (Of a soldier) smart in appearance: army coll.: earlier C.20. (F. & G.) A button-stick was a flat brass plate, about 5 in. × 1 in., slit along the middle from one end; a row of buttons could be gathered in the slit for brushing and polishing, so as to keep the polish and brush-marks off the uniform cloth. Through constant use (by a good soldier), it was itself always as bright as the brightest of brass buttons. (P.B.) clean as a penny. (Very clean: S.E., C.18–) Completely: coll. (and dial.): ca. 1820–1910. Cf. the 'brightness = completeness' semantics of clean as a whistle.

clean as a pig-sty (, as). An Anglo-Irish ironic c.p. applied to a dirty house: late C.19–20.

clean breast. Esp. make a c- b- of, to confess in full: coll., from ca. 1750; by 1800, S.E.

clean gone. Quite 'cracked'; mad: coll.: C.20. Manchon.

clean job of it, make a. See job of it...

clean leg up. Assistance, as in give (one) a clean leg up, q.v.

clean out. To deprive of money, gen. illicitly: orig. low, verging on c.: from ca. 1810. Vaux, 1812; Dickens, in The Old Curiosity Shop, 'He was plucked, pigeoned, and cleaned out completely.' Cf. modern take to the cleaners.—2. To thrash: ca. 1840–70.

clean pair of legs, give or show. To run away; decamp: coll.:—1883. Var. synon. ... of heels.

clean potato. The right, occ. the 'correct', thing, esp. morally: coll.: from ca. 1870; ob.—2. 'A person of unblemished character' (B., 1943): Aus.: ca. 1850–1910.

clean round the bend. An intensification of round the bend, q.v., crazy.

clean ship. A whaling ship returning whale-less to port: whalers' coll.: late C.19–20. Bowen.

Clean-Shirt Day. Sunday: lower-classes' coll.: since ca. 1820; † by 1900. Sinks, 1848.

clean skin. (Usu. in pl.) Unbranded sheep or head of cattle: Aus. coll.:—1881 (Morris); by 1900, S.E.—2. Hence, a person without a police record: Aus. police: since ca. 1910. B., 1943; Vince Kelly, The Shadow, 1955.—3. Hence, a person of (esp. political) integrity: Aus. C.20. B., 1942.—4. (Written solid.) A first offender: Aus. c.: since ca. 1950. (Ian Grindley.) Cf. sense 2.

clean straw. Clean sheets: Winchester Coll., ? C.16–20; ob. 'Before 1540 the beds were bundles of straw on a stone floor' (F. & H.). The same meaning is extant at Bootham School (Bootham, 1925).

clean the board. To clear the board, etc., of all it contains; make a clean sweep: coll. (—1884). OED.

clean the fish. To 'skin' (= lead on) the victim: Can. carnival s.: since ca. 1920. Also feed the fish. See fish, 8.

clean the (or one's) front. To clean one's front doorstep and proportionate share of the adjoining pavement: lower- and lower-middle-class coll.: late C.19–20.

clean the slate. To pay all debts: non-aristocratic coll.: from ca. 1860. (B. & L.) (The slate on which, in public-houses, drinking debts are noted.)

clean-up, n. A victory; a rout: Aus.: since ca. 1920. (B., 1942.) Ex sense 2 of:

clean up, v. To acquire (something) as profit or gain: coll. C.20. US, anglicised by 1910. OED Sup.—2. To defeat: Aus., since ca. 1915, NZ since ca. 1916. (Slatter.) Perhaps short for:

clean up on. To get the better of, e.g., in a brawl: RN: ca. 1905–40. (W.G. Carr, 1939; Moe.)

clean wheat, it's the. I.e. the best of its kind: coll., ca. 1865–1910. Cf. A1.

clean wheels. 'A motor vehicle to be used in crime that has never been previously stolen or come under prior police suspicion in any way' (Powis): underworld: 1970s.

cleaners, get (or be) taken to the. To be cheated or swindled very badly. See take to the...

cleanie. One's best girl: military: from ca. 1919. Perhaps a blend of clean + clinah.

clear. (Exceedingly) drunk: c. and low: from late 1680s; † by 1890. B.E.; Vanbrugh, The Relapse, I suppose you are clear—you'd never play such a trick as this else.' Cf. clear as mud.—2. In in the clear, with no evidence against one; innocent, or app. so: c.: C.20. The Passing Show, 26 May 1934.

clear an examination paper. To answer all the questions: coll.:—1893. On the analogy of clear a dish, eat all its contents. OED.

clear as mud (, as). Anything but clear; confused: coll.: 1842 (Barham: OED). Perhaps from New England, as in T.C. Haliburton, The Clockmaker, 1837, 'There is no doubt about it, said the clockmaker [a wag], it is as clear as mud.' A late C.19–early 20 var. was... as ditch-water (Manchon).

clear (one's) coppers. To clear one's throat: 1831 (Trelawney: OED). Cf. cool (one's) coppers.

clear crystal. White spirits, esp. gin; loosely, brandy and rum: ca. 1860–1930.

clear decks. To clear the table after a meal: nautical coll.: mid-C.19–20. (Bowen.) P.B.: as clear the decks, it is still, 1970s, common for to clear a space in order to work or play, and is not restricted to the orig. sense given here. Also used fig. and metaphorically.

clear grit. (Canada) a member of the Can. Liberal Party: ca. 1880–1900. (Fortnightly Review, May 1884.) Ex US clear grit, the real thing.

clear off or out. To depart: from ca. 1830. The SOD gives it as S.E., but in C.19, at least, the term had a coll. taint, perhaps because it was used slightly earlier in US—e.g. Neal, in Brother Jonathan, 1825, had 'Like many a hero before him, he cleared out.' Monetarily, clear out is gen. S.E., but as 'clean out', q.v., or 'ruin', it is coll. (—1850), as in Thackeray's Pendennis.

clear-out, have a. To defecate: low coll.:—1923 (Manchon).

clear-skin. Var. of clean-skin in all senses: C.20. B., 1943.

clear (one's) yard-arm. To prove oneself innocent; to shelve responsibility as a precaution against anticipated trouble: nautical: late C.19–20. (Bowen.) Cf. look after (one's) own yard-arm, q.v.

clearing-out at custom-house, n. and adj. Easing (or eased) of an encumbrance: nautical: ca. 1820–60. Egan's Grose.

cleat. Glans penis: low: late C.19–20.

cleave, v.i. To be wanton (said of women only): C.18–early 19; low. The two opp. meanings of cleave—due to independent radicals—are present in this subtle term. A New Canting Dict., 1725; Grose, 1st ed.

cleavage. The gap between a woman's breasts, esp. when revealed by a low-cut dress: coll.: since ca. 1965. Chamber's C.20 Dict., 1972.

cleaved. Spuriously virgin. See cloven.

cleaver. A butcher: coll.: C.18–19. Ex the butcher's cleaver or chopper.—2. In late C.18–early 19 low s., a forward woman; a wanton. (Grose, 2nd ed.) See cleave.

cleavin(g). Boastful: Clare Market, London: ca. 1850–1900. Ex Clare Market Cleavers, q.v.

cleek. 'A wet blanket (at a party)': beatniks': since ca. 1959. (Anderson.) Adopted ex American jazz s. for 'a sad or melancholy person' (W. & F.). Cf. party-pooper.

cleft. The female pudend: coll., C.17–20. Ex the earlier S.E. (in C.19–20, dial.) sense: the body's fork. In late C.19–20 usage, as much euph. as coll.—2. Adj. See cloven.

cleft stick, in a. In a very difficult position: from ca. 1700; coll. in C.18; in C.19–20, S.E.

Clem. See Chad.

clem, v. To starve: C.20 vagrants' c., ex dial.—2. In C.20 circus s. (perhaps ex US), a fight.

clencher. A conclusive argument. See clincher, 2.

clenchpoop, an occ. var. of clinchpoop, q.v., a lout, seems to have gone underground for two or three centuries and then to have come again to the surface. Mr Spencer heard it applied, in July 1967, by a Mod to 'some typically repulsive Rockers' in the High Street, Camberley, Surrey. P.B.: but R.S. reported it, in the 7th ed. of this Dict., as clenchprop.

clergyman. A chimney-sweep; C.19. Cf. chimney-sweep, 2.

clergyman or clerk, St Nicholas's. A highwayman. See Nicholas.

clericals. A clergyman's dress: coll.; from ca. 1860. Cf. academicals.

clerk, the. A hospital registrar's amanuensis. See firm, the, 2.

clerk, v. To impose upon; swindle: c. and low coll.: C.18–early 19. (A New Canting Dict., 1725; Grose, 1st ed.) Ex ignorance's suspicion of learning.—2. To act as a clerk: C.19–20; coll. The vbl n., clerking, occurs in C.17, the ppl adj. in mid-C.16. Lamb, in 1834, 'I am very tired of clerking it' (OED).

clerk of the kitchen. A C.17 term for one who, nowadays (late C.20), enjoys a 'pub snack' while he drinks. See TAVERN TERMS, § 5, in Appendix.

clerk of the works. 'He who takes the lead in minor affairs' (Bee): public-house: ca. 1820–50. Punning S.E. sense.

clerk to the teethward (properly teeth-ward). A coll. of late C.16–early 17 as in Hollyband's, i.e. Claude Desainliens's, Dictionnaire French and English, 1593, 'He is clarke to the teethward, he hath eaten his service book; spoken in mockage by [?] of] such as maketh shew of learning and be not learned.'

clerk's blood. Red ink: coll.: C.19–early 20. Charles Lamb.

clever. 'At first a colloquial and local word' (SOD); it still is coll. if = 'cunning' or 'skilful' and applied to an animal or if = 'well', 'in good health or spirits' (mid-C.19–20). Esp. not too clever, indisposed in health; the health sense is common in Britain, Aus. and NZ.—2. Convenient, suitable: coll.: ca. 1750–1820.—3. 'Nice'; generally likable or pleasant: coll.: from ca. 1730; ob. P.B.: not ob.—or perhaps revived: on 5 Feb. 1983 the forecaster on BBC Radio Leicester announced that the East Midlands' weather for the weekend would be 'not very clever'. He was right!—4. (Of persons) well-disposed, amiable: coll.: ca. 1770–1830, extant in US. Goldsmith, 'Then come, put the jorum about, [And let us be merry and clever' (OED).—5. (Of planks, etc.) steady: Aus.: from ca.1910.—6. Proficient: Aus.: C.20. (B., 1959.) Senses 5 and 6 both prob. ex sense 1.

clever boots. Gen. as a comment: a clever, occ. a sly, person: C.20. Perhaps ex clever shins, q.v., and see also boots, 3, for other examples of this usage.

clever boys, the. Servicemen (or others) with only theoretical knowledge: Services: since 1940. Derisively: the really clever boys, 'people with positively academic knowledge' (H. & P.).

clever chaps these Chinese; sometimes damned (or dead) clever these Chinese! A RN c.p., heard occ. in the other Services: C.20; by late 1940s, also fairly gen. among 'U' rather than 'non-U' civilians; used as a comment upon an explanation given about some device, especially if it hasn't been understood. A back-handed tribute to Chinese ingenuity. (John Winton, We Saw the Sea, 1960.) P.B.: Emily Hahn, The Soong Sisters, 1942, describing the reaction of foreigners in China to the kidnapping and subsequent release of Chiang Kai-Shek in Dec. 1936: 'Now the Chiangs knew who was with them and who against. It was a very good trick. Damn clever, these Chinese . . .' [dots in the orig.] The RN c.p. was presumably picked up from civilians (who would use it literally) ashore on China stations. Influenced also, no doubt, by the use of Chinese as pej., cf. Chinese compliment.

clever clogs. A N. Country var. of clever boots: C.19–20 (EDD). Petch, 1974, notes that it occurred in, e.g., 'Our Kid'—an ITV comedy series—on 20 May 1973. P.B. adds: it was neatly used in a British Island Airways' advertising slogan, mid-1970s, 'Clever clogs fly BIA to Amsterdam'.

clever creeps. Forensic chemists. See whiz(z) kids, the.

clever Dick. A clever, rather, too clever, person: used derisively or sarcastically: Baumann records it as 'London schools' in 1887, but it is still in—much more widespread—use in the 1970s, although with a slightly old-fashioned ring to it. J.I.M. Stewart, in The Man Who Won the Pools, 1961, uses var. cleverdick. It is also occ. used as adj. Cf. smart Alec, and clever boots, shins, etc.

clever Mike. A bicycle: rhyming s., on bike: C.20.

clever shins. A person sly to no, or little, purpose: schools', ca. 1870–1910. (Baumann.) Cf. sly-boots.—2. Hence, more gen., a C.20 coll. var. of clever boots. Manchon.

clever sides. Another var. of clever boots; cf-clever sticks. Synon. with clever boots, clogs, Dick, shins: a juvenile taunt: since early 1940s (? much earlier). (P.B.)

clew to ear-ring, (esp. know) from. In every detail, thoroughly: RN coll.: late C.19–20.

clew-up, v.i. To join another ship: RN: since ca. 1895. H. & P., 'To fix one's hammock by the clew system.'—2. To finish a job: RN: since ca. 1920. Granville, 'The original meaning was to draw the clews of the sail to the yard-arm for furling.'—3. To meet an old messmate: RN: since ca. 1930. Granville, 'I clewed up with old Dusty Miller in the Smoke'.—4. For sense 'holed up', of a person in hiding, see quot'n at up the line.

cleymans. A rare var. of:

cleyme; occ. clyme or cleym. An artificial score: ca. 1670–1830: c. Head; B.E. furnishes an excellent account of this beggar's device. ?etym., unless ex cly, to seize.

click, n. A blow, a punch: boxing; from ca. 1770; ob. except in dial. Grose, 1st ed.; Moore, in Tom Crib's Memorial, 'clicks in the gob'. (The wrestling term is j).—2. A clique; a 'push' (Aus. senses): Aus. since—1914 (C.J. Dennis); as a somewhat pej. term for a group or set, also Brit. since ca. 1925.—3. A successful meeting with an unknown member of the opposite sex: WW1+. Much rarer than the corresponding nuance at the v., 4.—4. Hence, a girl; a sweetheart: Glasgow:—1934.—5. A kilometre: since ca. 1960 (?earlier). Thanks to Miss Barbara Martin, who heard the term while serving, late 1960s, at the 'Project Concern' Hospital in Vietnam. (P.B.)—6. As the Click, The Clique, the advertising journal of the antiquarian and secondhand book trade: booksellers' illiteracy; hence, educated booksellers' joc. coll.: C.20.—7. In in the click, in the act of cutting: tailors' coll.: from ca. 1860. (B. & L.) Also in the crook.

click, v. To 'stand at a shop-door and invite customers in' (Dyche, 1748). C.18—early 19. Ex:—2. In c. and low, to seize: late C.17—mid-19. B.E., Grose.—3. In printers' s., from slightly before 1860, 'A work is said to be "clicked" when each man works on his lines, and keeps an account thereof' (OED Sup.).—4. To be successful; to have a piece of very good luck, as in click a Blighy, to get a 'Blighy' wound (F. & G.): 1914+. See also click with and click for.—5. (Of a woman) to become pregnant: C.20.—6. (Of a cow) to become pregnant: Aus. rural: since ca. 1919. B., 1953.—7. To send to prison: low: C.20. Ex sense 2.—8. To understand suddenly; as in 'Ah, now it's clicked'=I see: since ca. 1930. Ex lock tumblers, or other small mechanical device, falling into place; or perhaps ex a light coming on. (P.B.) click for. To be put down for, e.g., a fatigue or duty: army: since WW1. Perhaps ex the idea of 'to do a drill movement with a click' (Collinson).

click with. To have a successful encounter with a hitherto unknown member of the opposite sex: coll.: since ca. 1910. Cf. Scots cleek in (or up) with, to take up with a person (EDD); chiefly, however, ex the interlocking of mechanical devices, as when a key is turned. Absolutely, as 'they clicked', they took to each other at once: see click, v., 4.

clicker. A shopkeeper's tout: late C.17–19. Ned Ward in The London Spy: 'Women here were almost as Troublesome as the Long-Lane clickers'.—2. A foreman shoemaker apportioning leather to the workmen: orig. (C.17) s., soon j.—3. In printing, from ca. 1770, a foreman distributing the copy: soon j.—4. In C.18—early 19 c., one who shares out the booty or regulars, q.v.—5. A knockdown blow: boxing, from ca. 1815; ob.—6. One who, once or, esp., often, meets successfully with an unknown person of the opposite sex: WW1; ob. by 1940. See click with.

clicket. Sexual intercourse: c. or low coll.: C.16 (or earlier)—18. Gen. as be at clicket. Wilkes cites Skeat and Mayhew, A Glossary of Tudor and Stuart Words. Ex S.E. term, applied to foxes.

clickety click. (In the games of House [Tombola or Bingo] and Darts) 66: orig. Services': C.20 (F. & G.) By rough-and-ready rhyming. Occ. shortened to clicketties. See TOMBOLA. clicket(ty)-clicks. Rhyming s. on knicks=(female) knickers: C.20. It occurs in one of Neil Bell's short stories—? A Proper Beano.

clicking, vbl n. Success; 'getting off' with a girl: from ca. 1915; ob. See click with. Cf. P.G. Wodehouse's The Clicking of Cuthbert, 1922.

clickman toad. A watch: late C.18—early 19. Perhaps orig. dial. Ex clicking sound. Whence—2. A West-Countryman: s. (—1788) and dial.; † by 1890. Grose (2nd ed.), who tells an amusing anecdote.

clicky. Cliques: coll.: C.20. Cf. click, n., 2.

clie. A pocket: var. spelling of cly, q.v.

client. A person, a fellow or chap: army: from ca. 1912; still, 1970s, heard occ. (F. & G.) Suggested by customer.—2. Hence, client for Rouen, a case of venereal disease: army: WW1. (B. & P.; F. & G.) The main VD hospital was there. cliffhanger. 'A (silent) film shown in weekly serials; from the precarious predicaments in which the heroine'—so often played by Pearl White—'was left at the end of each part. Dates probably from before 1914 but has been revived to describe similar T.V. serials and extended to anything exciting and drawn out, e.g. a suspense novel'. (Peter Sanders, letter, 1965.) By 1980s, familiar S.E.

clift. To steal: c.: mid-C.19–20; † by 1920. (H., 2nd ed.) Prob. ex. S.E. cleave, 'adhere to'; sticky fingers; or perhaps an early example of army borrowing words from the East: cf.:

clifty, to steal; cliftying, stealing, act(s) of theft: Services'; also known in NZ (Iddiwaah, July 1953): C.20 Ex Arabic klefti, a thief. Hence:—

clifty wallah. A thief; by extension and dilution, a too smart man: army: WW2+. Ex Arabic klefti + the all-purpose wallah, which the British Army in India took to mean simply chap, fellow, bloke, from the Hindustani or Urdu; see etym. at competition wallah.

cligh. To steal. See cloy, v.

climb. In on the climb, adj. and adv., by cat-burglary: c.: C.20. Gilt Kid, 1936.

climb down. To abandon a position, an assertion or boast: from mid-1880s: coll. >, by 1910, S.E.

climb the golden stairs. 'At Rugby, the lodge was connected to the engine shed by a short staircase; trainmen lodging there were invited by the foreman to "climb the golden stairs"—local slang for lodging' (McKenna, 2, p. 200); railwaymen's: C.20. Cf. the nursery climb the little wooden hill to Bedfordshire.

climb the mountain of piety. To pawn some of one's effects: joc. coll.:—1891; ob. by 1930. By itself, mount(ain) of piety is S.E., C.17—early 20. Italian pawnshops are called Monte di Pietà, ex early connections with the Church; this name also found in Aus.

climb the rigging. To lose one's temper: RN: late C.19–20. (Bowen.) Cf. hit the roof and rear up.

climb the three trees with a ladder. To ascend the gallows: c.: late C.18—early 19. (Grose, 2nd ed.) Ex the three pieces of a gallows.

climb the wooden hill. To go upstairs to bed. See little wooden hill.

climb Zion. 'To rush up the fo'c'sle, chased by armed seniors' (Masfield): Conway Training Ship, from ca. 1890.

climbing Mary. A woman window-cleaner: WW2. See whistler, 9.

climbing trees to get away from it. An Aus. male c.p. reply to the question 'Getting any?', q.v., where 'any' is sexual satisfaction.

climbs (up) like a fart in a bath. 'Said of an aircraft with a high rate of climb' (F.J. French): RAF: WW2.

clinah. Occ. var. of cliner, q.v., a girl.

clinch. A person cell: mid-C.19–20 c. (ob.). (H., 3rd ed.) Hence get, or kiss, the clinch or clink, to be imprisoned.—2. A prolonged and passionate embrace: adopted, ca. 1945, ex US.

clinch, v. To identify a rare bird. See BIRD-WATCHERS' SLANG, in Appendix.

clinched. Imprisoned: C.20: Aus. c. >, by 1940, low s. Cf. clinch, 1.

clinchex. A great lie: C.19–20; ob.; coll. Cf. corker.—2. A conclusive statement or argument: coll.; 1804 (OED).

clinchpoop. A loutish fellow with no manners. See clenchpoop.

cliner; occ. clinah. A girl: Aus.: early—mid-C.20. (C.J. Dennis; B., 1942.) Ultimately, via Yiddish, ex Ger. kleine, small.

cling-rig. see clink-rig.

clinger. A female dancing very close to her partner: from ca. 1890; ob. by 1930.

clinic. A public-house: office- and shop-girls': ca. 1955–60. (Gilderdale.) There one finds exactly what the doctor prescribed.

clink, n. A prison in Southwark, London: C.16–17. In C.18–20, any prison, esp. if small; a lock-up; a detention cell, this last nuance dating only from ca. 1880 and being mainly military (cf. clinch, q.v.); from 1919, occ. school s. for detention. Barclay, 1515; Marryat, 1835, 'We've a nice little clink at Wandsworth.' Echoic from the feters (see clinkers).—2. Money (cf. chink): Scottish coll. rather than dial.: from the 1720s. (Ramsay, Burns, Hogg.) Also, a coin: mostly military: from ca. 1870. Frank Richards, Old-Soldier Sahib, 1936.—3. Very inferior beer: from ca. 1860; ob. (Sala.) Cf. bum-clink.—4. As the Clink, the Royal Military College, ACT: Aus. army officers': C.20. (Brig. C.M.L. Elliott, OBE, 1970.) A particularisation of clink, n., 1, in ref. to the very strict discipline.

clink, v. t. To put in prison: from ca. 1850. See also clinch, 1. clink-rig; occ. corrupted to cling-rig. The stealing of (esp. silver) tankards from public-houses: c.; ca. 1770–1880. Ex clank, q.v.

clinker. In c. of ca. 1690–1830, a crafty, designing fellow. B.E.—2. In c. C.18–19, any kind of chain.—3. A hard, or smartly delivered blow: from ca. 1860; boxing. (Thackeray.) Ex S.E. clink, a quick, sharp blow.—4. A person or thing of excellent quality, a 'real brick': orig., ca. 1860, sporting s. >, ca. 1900, coll.—5. A notable lie: mid-C.19–20; ob. Cf. clinch.—6. A prisoner: army: 1914 or 15; ob. (F. & G.) Ex clink, 1.—7. (Contrast 4.) A failure, as in 'Before "10" [a film] was released in America, its producers were so certain it was a clinker that they unceremoniously tore up the contracts for two other Blake Edwards pictures' (Time Out, 8 Feb. 1980): media circles.—8. Manchon, 1923, records it as short for clinker-knocker. A naval stoker: nautical, esp. RN: late C.19–20. Bowen.

clinker link. A lower-grade employee, engaged in furnace-cleaning: railwaymen's: since ca. 1920. Railway.

clinkers. Fetters: c. and low; late C.17–early 19. B.E. Echoic; cf. clink.—2. 'Deposits of faecal or seminal matter in the hair about the anus or the female pudendum' (F. & H.): low coll., from ca. 1830. Hence, have clinkers in (one's) bum, to be restless or uneasy: id.: from ca. 1840. Cf. the S.E. sense, a hot cinder.—3. Bed bugs: homosexuals': current ca. 1970.

clinkerum. A prison; a lock-up: C.19 Clink influenced by clinkers, 1.

clinking. First-rate; remarkably good: from ca. 1855: coll.; esp. in racing and games. Sporting Times, 12 Mar. 1887, 'Prince Henry must be a clinking good horse.'

clip, a smart blow, has a coll. 'look', but it is genuine S.E. The corresponding v., however, is coll., late C.19–20, and is always in forms clip a person one or clip a person on the (gen.) ear. P.B.: a clip round or 'side the ear(-ole)' is also common. clip, v. To move quickly; run: coll., from ca. 1830. (Michael Scott in Tom Cringle's Log, 1833.) Until ca. 1844, rarely of anything but ships.—2. See prec.

clip-joint. A night-club, or a restaurant, where the prices are high and the patrons are fleeced: Can.: adopted, ca. 1930, ex US. Ex sheep-shearing. P.B.: by 1950 at least, also Brit.

clip-nit. A dirty ruffian: c.: 1703. See ROGUES, in Appendix. clip-ons. 'Short handlebars which are clipped on low down the fork legs' (Dunford): motorcyclists': current in 1970s.—2. Dark glasses that can be clipped on to ordinary spectacles: coll.: later C.20. (Mrs Camilla Raab.)

clip the King's English. To be drunk: drinking s. of C.18 >, ca. 1800, coll.; † by 1890. Moe cites an early use, by Benjamin Franklin, in The New England Courant, 10 Sep. 1722. clip-up, v. i. A Cockney coll. that, dating from ca. 1890 (or earlier), has no synonym in S.E. and should therefore, by this time, have been considered S.E. It is a schoolboys' 'method of casting lots by approaching each other from opposite kerbs, with a heel-to-toe step'. He who finds that the last gap is too small for the length of his foot is the loser.

clipe. To tell tales: schools', ca. 1860–1900. Cf. Chaucer's clipe, to speak of, and O.E. clipian, to call, to name.

clipped corner, the. The mark, on a discharge-paper, of a thoroughly bad character: RN coll.: C.20. Also called a blanker.

clipper. A splendid or very smart specimen of humanity or horseflesh: orig. (—1835), US, anglicised ca. 1845. (Thackeray, 1848.) Ex clipper, any fast-moving ship or (from ca. 1830) the special kind of vessel; as horse, influenced by Dutch klepper (W.).—2. A cut-purse: c.: early C.18. See ROGUES.—3. "'clippers"', the police term for the professional store thieves' (Godfrey Winn, in Woman, 11 Dec. 1965): C.20. Ex clip, to rob.

clippie-y. A girl conductor on bus or train: since 1939. (New Statesman, 30 Aug. 1941; H. & P.) Ex clipping tickets; R.S. suggested, 1967, 'perhaps influenced by Messrs Lyons's waitresses, advertised by their employers in the 1920s and 1930s as "Nippies"'.—2. An employee checking and clipping tickets at railway stations: Aus.: since ca. 1940. (B., 1953.) Sense 1 is also Aus. (Wilkes).

clipping, vbl n. 'Posing as a prostitute and knocking the client out with sleeping pills' (and then robbing him): mostly London and esp. among West Indians: since ca. 1960. Gavin Weightman in New Society, 7 July 1977.

clipping, adj. (Of pace) very fast, 'rattling': coll.: 1845, Punch (OED Sup.). Cf. clipper.—2. Hence, excellent; very smart; dashing; showy: from ca. 1855. H., 1st ed.; Thackeray, Philip, 'What clipping girls there were in that barouche.' Ex (to) clip. Adv. in -ly.

clique, v. i. and t. To act as, or form, a clique: coll.: from ca. 1880.

cliqu(e)y. Pertaining to or characterised by cliques: from ca. 1875, though recorded in 1863 for US (OED Sup.): coll. for a decade, then S.E.

clishpon. To break (a thing) by letting it fall: Shelta: C.18–20. (B. & L.) Cf. Shelta clisp, to fall or to let fall.

clit (gen.) and its diminutive, clitty. The clitoris: low: C.20. The latter perhaps mostly Aus. B.P. cites David Hare, Slag, 1971, 'The fingers of the nation siddling for the clit.'

clo. Clothes: low (mostly Cockney) coll. pron., chiefly in the street cry, clo! old clo!: C.19–20. Baumann.

cloak, n. A watch-case: c.: C.19. Ainsworth.—2. See Ply-mouth cloak.

cloak, v. To place (hat, coat, etc.) in a cloakroom: Aus.: since ca. 1920. Tom Ronan, Only a Short Walk, 1961.

cloak and dagger. Phrase used by Service officers in WW2, and after, for 'secret service' (work, etc.). In the cloak and dagger club was prisoner-of-war s. for having access, via radio or other means, to outside information. See PRISONER-OF-WAR SLANG, 4.

cloak-father. 'A pretended author whose name is put forth to conceal the real author' (OED): coll.: ca. 1639–1700. (Fuller.) The OED cites as S.E., but surely not?

cloak-twitcher. A thief specialising in cloaks: C.18–early 19: c. A New Canting Dict., 1725; Grose, 1st ed.

clob lout. A man very heavy on his feet: Army: C.20. Clob is echoic.

clobber; occ. clobber, n. Clothes: from ca. 1850; at first, old clothes but from ca. 1870 also new; among soldiers in WW1, one's (full) equipment. Chiefly Jewish, Cockney and C.20 Aus. Prob. ex Yiddish (klibr). (W.H. Davies, 'the super-tramp', considers it to be c.) P.B.: in later C.20, gen. coll., not only for clothes, but for any impedimenta.

clobber, v. (Occ., and gen. in passive) to dress up. See clobber up, 2.—2. Hence to re-decorate a (usu. plain) piece of china to enhance its value; whence clobbered china: antique dealers': late C.19–20.—3. To punch or strike; to assault: since ca. 1910: orig., low; by ca. 1945, fairly gen. Echoic. A Guardian article, 21 July 1982, used the term metaphorically: 'the British Treasury's predilection for clobbering the poor.' clobber out. An occ. C.20 var. (Manchon) of sense 2 of: clobber up. To patch, 'transform' (clothes). Orig. a cobbling device. From ca. 1850.—2. To dress smartly, v.t. and reflexive: from ca. 1860. (W.E. Henley.) Also, occ. (gen. in passive), clobber: not before ca. 1880. P.B.: a common var. is to be clobbered about with, e.g., motorcycling gear, or any other similar encumbrance that is uncomfortable and hampers one's movements: C.20 coll.

clobber with. To impose an onerous duty or unwelcome burden on (someone). 'I got clobbered with finishing the weeding.' Cf. lumber, land with.

clobbered by. (Always in this form.) Applied to the victim of the imposition in prec., as in 'I was clobbered by the adjutant for (or with) an extra duty'; 'He was clobbered by the police for speeding'; 'She was clobbered by her boy-friend—he put her in the pudden club', etc.: coll.: later C.20.

clobberer. A transformer of old clothes: from ca. 1855. Ca.1880 it > j. (The Times, 12 Nov. 1864.) Cf. clobber up, 1.

clobbering. A heavy bombing: RAF: 1941–5. Echoic. Ex clobber, v., 3.

clobber. See clobber, n.

clock, n. A watch: C.19–20 c. and low. (In C.16–18, S.E.) If of gold, a red c.; if of silver, a white c.: gen. abbr. to a red, a white, 'un.—2. A face: from ca. 1870, ex US. Cf. dial.—3. A dynamite bomb: London: 1880s. Ex a topicality of the dynamite scare at that time. Ware.—4. A taxi-meter: taxi-drivers': C.20; by 1930, coll. It has other names: the "ticker", the "kettle", "Mary Ann", and the "hickory". "Hickory" seems abstruse until you remember the nursery rhyme and add "dickory dock" (Herbert Hodge, Cab, Sir?, 1939). See also clock and a half.—5. Hence, an air-raid indicator: RAF: since ca. 1930. Jackson.—6. (Also round the clock) A year's prison sentence: Aus. c.: C.20. (B., 1942.) As 12 hours, so 12 months.—7. A speedometer: coll.: since ca. 1920.—8. By extension, any instrument with a dial face, e.g., an altimeter, as in the famous RAF pilots' 'line-shoot': 'There I was, upside down in cloud, nothing on the clock—and climbing hard': fliers': since the 1930s (?earlier). Cf. clock-basher. (P.B.)

clock, v.t. To time by a stop-watch: from ca. 1880: sporting s. >, ca. 1910, coll.; now verging on S.E.—2. To punch, to strike (with one's fist): Aus.: since ca. 1925 (Baker); by ca. 1930 also Brit., in such phrases as 'I could have clocked him' or 'clocked him one'. Perhaps orig. 'to strike on the face'.—3. To watch (someone) patiently: c.: since ca. 1930. (Norman.) Perhaps ex sense 1.—4. To catch sight of, to notice: c., mostly prisons': since ca. 1935. Frank Norman, in Encounter, 1959.—5. To "clock" someone is to follow someone and see what he backs. This is sometimes expressed as "Get on his daily" [i.e. tail; rhyming s. on Daily Mail] (Sunday Telegraph, 7 May 1967, anon. article on bookies' s.): racing: since ca. 1930. Cf. sense 3, and clock and house.—6. To register on the speedometer; to attain a speed of (so many miles/kilometres per hour): since ca. 1925. Ex clock, n., 7.—7. To turn back a speedometer [i.e. mileometer] to make the mileage registered appear to be much less than it is: second-hand-car dealers': since ca. 1945. (Women's Own, 28 Feb. 1968.) Hence, vbl n., clocking.

clock and a half, gunvor? 'Unscrupulous cab-drivers' term for the metered fare plus an extra half. Unknowing or foreign fares are sometimes duped into paying this unlawful excess' (Powis): current in 1970s. See clock, n., 4. clock and house. 'Slang terms meaning to see and remember [suspects'] faces, and then to follow [the suspects] to their home' (Powis): police s.: current in 1970s. Cf. senses 3–5 of clock, v.

clock(-)basher or watch(-)basher. An instrument maker or repairer, as an RAF 'trade': RAF: since ca. 1937. Jackson. See basher, 6.

clock-calm. (Of the sea) dead-calm: nautical coll.: late C.19–20. (Bowen.) Ex a clock's shiny face.

clock captain. A captain that alters the bowling, not by a tactical but by a chronological calculation: cricketers' coll.: C.20.

clock in (or on), off (or out). To sign the time book on arrival or departure: from ca. 1905; coll. >, by 1930, S.E. Factory and office phrases.

clock-in a beef. To make a 'regulation' complaint or a big fuss: Wrens': since ca. 1939. Cf. S.E. put in a complaint and prec.

clock-setter. A busybody, a sea lawyer: nautical:—1890 (Century Dict.). Ex.—2. One who tampers with the clock to shorten his hours: nautical coll.: from ca. 1880.

clock stopped. No 'tick', i.e. no credit. Tradesmen's c.p.: from ca. 1840; now rare, but not (1935) ob.

clock-watcher. A lazy, uninterested employee, who spends most of his hours at work waiting for 'knocking-off time': coll.: C.20. (Mrs C. Raab.)

clocking. Very fast time, esp. in athletics and racing: 1888; coll.; ob. (OED).—2. 'The objectionable and mischievous practice ... of hitching the bell-rope or a separate cord round the "flight" of the "clapper", while the bell is "at rest", in order to pull the "clapper" against the bell, with the frequent result of cracking the latter': bell-ringers' s. (—1901) >, by 1920, coll. Rev. A. Earle Bulwer, A Glossary of Bell-Ringing, 1901.—3. Vbl n. from clock, v., 7, q.v., the fraudulent alteration's of a vehicle's milometer.

clockwork mice. 'Aircraft and aircrew engaged on continuous dummy deck-landing to train deck-landing officers or to test mirror landing sights: FAA: 1950s' (Peppitt).

clockwork orange. 'A male homosexual: "He's as queer as a clockwork orange"' (Powis). See also queer as ...

clocky. A watchman: ca. 1820–70. (Sinks, 1848.) He makes his rounds at regular intervals.

clod, n. (Gen. pl.) A copper coin: rhyming s., abbr. clod-hopper: since ca. 1870. Among Cockneys, a penny (Evening News, 20 Jan. 1936); also among grafters (Cheapjack, 1934); still current among market-traders (M.T.).—2. Any non-Etonian: Eton: ca. 1800–60. (Spy, 1825.) De haut en bas!—3. At certain Scottish schools, a pupil: mid-C.19–20.

clod, gen. v.i. To shell heavily: military: 1915. F. & G., 'Suggested by the heaving up of the earth as shells burst on impact'.

clod-crusher. A clumsy boot (gen. pl): coll.: from ca. 1850. Cf. beetle-crusher.—2. Hence, a large foot (gen. in pl): coll.; from ca. 1860.—3. Also, a heavy walker: coll.; from ca. 1870.

clod-hopper. A clumsy boor: coll.: C.18–20, ex the C.17–18 sense, ploughman. After ca. 1800, S.E.—2. Gen. in the now more usual form:—

clodhopper. A street dancer: c.:—1933 (George Orwell, Down and Out in Paris and London).—2. A penny. See clod, n., 1.

clod-pate, clod-poll or -pole. A dolt: C.17–20, ob.; coll.; S.E. after ca. 1750. Like the preceding, in B.E., though the OED and SOD say nothing of their almost certainly coll. origin and beginnings. Cf. clod-skulled, q.v. at EPITHETS, in Appendix.

cloddy. Aristocratic in appearance; proletarian: late C.19–20. Ex well-formed or cloddy bull dogs ('low to the ground, short in the back, and thickest' (Daily Telegraph, 13 Nov. 1895). Ex dial. cloddy, thick set, full-fleshed like a bull. Ware; EDD.

clods and stickings. Skilly: paupers': ca. 1840–1920. Skilly is, of course, gruel, but low s. has, I think, perverted the sense of this phrase to mean soup and dumplings or perhaps lumps of fat to make the dish more nourishing, or, at any rate, more filling. (Based on a query from Mr T.L. Daintieth, 1977.)

Cloe. See drunk as Chloe, very drunk.

clog; cloggie. A clog-dancer: coll.: since ca. 1880. (Josiah Flynt & F. Walton, The Powers that Prey, 1900.) The 2nd form popularised, since the late 1960s, by the serial cartoons of Bill Tidy, 'The Cloggies', concerning the antics of a clog-dancing team.—2. The Dutch language; also, occ., a Dutchman. See cloggy, 1.

Clog and Knocker (Railway), the. The old Great Central Railway running from Marylebone to Manchester: railway-men': C.20; after ca. 1950, merely historical. (Railway.) Ex the clogs formerly much worn by Lancashire women. The Knocker element prob. derives ex 'that other Lancashire institution the knocker-up, who in pre-alarm-clock days used to do the rounds of the mill-hands' homes, waking them in time for work by knocking on bedroom windows with the pole which he carried' (R.S.).

clog down. Driving very fast; accelerating, as in 'Right! You know the ambush drill: anything happens—it's clog down, and away!', i.e. in the event of an emergency, get the vehicle away fast: army: since ca. 1950, at latest. Cf. put (one's) foot on the floor. (P.B.)

cloggy. Dutch (language), as 'Hey, Bill, what's cloggy for "a dozen eggs"?': among those Servicemen who were detached from the British Army of the Rhine to duty in Holland: since ca. 1945. Ex the extensive use made of clogs there. (P.B.).—2. Deaf: perhaps dial., though not in EDD; I heard it from Northerners in the early 1960s. Poss. a corruption of cloddish or cloth-ears, q.v. (P.B.)

cloi. A cloister. Christ's Hospital (School): late C.19–20. Marples.

cloister-roush. At Winchester Coll., 'a kind of general tournament' (Mansfield): from early C.19, † by 1890.

cloke. See cloak.

clonked (out). Of, e.g. a mechanical device, not working: teenagers': early 1980s. (Joanna Williamson, 1982.) Var. of conked out, q.v.

Clootie; Cloets. The devil: Scots coll. (and Northern dial.): from the 1780s. Burns has both; Barham (Clootie). Ex cloot, a division of a hoof; the devil has a cloven foot. OED.

close aboard of the gangway. In bring (one)self close ..., to 'sail close to the wind', to risk punishment: naval coll.: C.19. Basil Hall, 1832.

close as God's curse to a whore's arse or as shirt and shitten arse. Very close indeed: mid-C.18–early 19 c.p. or proverb. Grose, 1st ed.

close as oak. Very retentive of secrets; secretive: semi-proverbial coll.: C.17–18. Shakespeare; Colman, 1763, 'I am close as oak, an absolute free-mason for secrecy.' Apperson. close as wax. Extremely mean or secretive: 1772, Cumberland (OED): coll. >, by 1850, S.E. Because impermeable to water and perhaps because sticky.

close call. A near thing; an incident almost fatal: coll.: US (1880s) anglicised in late 1890s. (OED Sup.) close (one's) dead-lights. To 'bung up' one's eyes: nautical: ca.1820–1910. Egan's Grose.

close file. A secretive or uncommunicative person: c. or low, from ca. 1820; ob. File (cf. blade)=a man.

close hangar (or the hangar) doors! with var. hangar doors closed! An RAF c.p., meaning 'Stop talking shop!': from ca. 1935; by 1975, ob. H. & P.; Jackson. See DCpp.

close hug, the. Coition: coll.: C.18–early 19. D'Urfey, 'They've a new drug/Which is called the close hug.'

close in. Shut up: C.14–17: coll., soon > S.E.

close mouth. A disreputable establishment or resort: C.20. Scottish c.

close-poling. Two (trolley) buses running very close together: busmen's coll. (prob. j.): since ca. 1935; ob. Ex the trolley-poles.

close thing. A narrow escape; an even contest: coll. > S.E.: early C.19–20. Often as close-run, as in the Duke of Wellington's remark about Waterloo: 'A damned close-run thing'. Cf. close call.

close to (a person), be. to enjoy the act of love, as 'I was close to her last night': WW2. (L.A., 1978.)

close your eyes and guess what God has sent – or brought – you! Often heard, in C.20, as a joc. c.p. P.B.: cf., e.g. in giving child (or, joc., adult) a sweet or other present, 'shut your eyes and open your hands!'

closet. As n. and adj., this term has been extended from the next entry since later 1970s, and applied as 'secret': e.g. '[Commercial] sponsors [of sporting events] are bringing their motives out of the closet. Not everyone is quite so upfront ...' (Time Out, 30 May 1980); and, 'Am I wrong, or are there millions of closet workers all over the country waiting to come out ...' (Christopher Wood, in Telegraph Sunday mag., 14 Sep. 1980), i.e. are they against the apparently prevailing mood of 'strike over anything and everything'? In the latter quot'n, come out = to stand revealed, is also borrowed from 'gay' coll. (P.B.)

closet queen. A crypto-homosexual (male, passive): Can. 'gay': since ca. 1950. The Daily Colonist (Victoria, BC), 24 Feb. 1972, 'I'm 24, have a good job, I enjoy good health and am a happy homosexual. I'm what is known as closet queen' (cited by Leechman). It may have migrated to Can. ex US (W. & F., not in 1st ed.), but I believe it to have been adopted from the UK, esp. Eng., notably London, for from several highly accredited sources I've been informed that it has existed in Eng. since the late 1940s and perhaps earlier.—2. A male transvestite. Landy, 1971.

Closh. Collective for Dutch seamen: mid-C.18–early 19. Grose, 1st ed. Ex Dutch Klaas, abbr. Nicolaas, a favourite Christian name in Holland.—2. Hence, a seaman from the Eastern counties of England: nautical: mid-C.19–20. Bowen.

closhy. Stupid; simple: prob. ex dial.; cf. clush, q.v. Punch, 18 Apr. 1917, has a cartoon showing an NCO addressing an awkward recruit as 'You closhy put'. Perhaps cf. prec. (P.B.)

clot. A fool, a 'stupid'; an incompetent: since ca. 1920: at the first, upper-middle class. Peter Chamberlain, 'The man's a bigger clot than I took him for.' By a pun on equivalent S.E. clod.

cloth. One's profession: C.17–19; coll. > S.E. in C.18. Esp. the cloth: the Church; clergymen: C.18–20; coll. Swift, 1701; Dickens, 1836, of another profession, 'This 'ere song's personal to the cloth.'—2. Also, from ca. 1860 and coll., the office of a clergyman.—3. See cut (one's) coat ...

cloth-capper. A veteran motorcyclist: motorcyclists' s. (Dunford): current in 1970s. I.e., one from the days before it became compulsory to wear a safety helmet when riding.

cloth-ears, he has (got) or he's got. A c.p. applied to one who doesn't wish to hear: Cockneys': C.20. Ex caps with ear-flaps.

cloth in the wind. See cloths ...

cloth is all of another hue, the. That's a very different story: proverbial coll.: C.15–17. Cf. horse of another colour.

cloth market. (Or with capitals.) Bed: late C.17–19: coll. (gen. with the). Ray, 1678; Swift. (Apperson.) Cf. Bedfordshire.

clothes-line, able to sleep (up)on a. Able to 'rough it'. See sleep on a clothes-line.

clothes-peg. An egg: rhyming s.: C.20.

clothes-pegs. Legs: rhyming s.: late C.19–20. B. & P. clothes-pin I am, that's the sort of. That's me! That's my nature. (Of men only; cf. hair-pin.) Coll.; from ca. 1865; ob.

clothes sit on her like a saddle on a sow's back, her. A late C.17–mid-18 c.p. applied to an ill-dressed woman. (B.E.) clothing-crusher. A 'ship's policeman superintending the mustering of kits': RN: C.20. (Bowen.) See crusher.

cloths in the wind, shake (or have). (Sometimes in sing.) 'I'd too many cloths in the wind'—glossed as 'drunk, in nautical slang': W.N. Glascock, The Naval Sketch-Book (II, 136), 1828 (Moe). From early C.19–early 20.

cloud. Tobacco smoke. Late C.17–early 19 (cf. blow a cloud). B.E. gives it as tobacco, but his example shows that he means either tobacco being smoked or, more prob., tobacco smoke.—2. See under a cloud.

cloud-cleaner. Nautical of mid-C.19–early 20. 'An imaginary cloud jokingly assumed to be carried by Yankee ships' (Clark Russell).

cloud-compeller. A smoker, esp. of tobacco: from ca. 1860: joc.-pedantic >, ca. 1880, coll. (Like cloud-assembler, this is a Homeric epithet for Zeus.)

cloud-creep, mostly be cloud-creeping. To keep under cloud cover: RFC–RAF: 1916–28, and again in WW2. 'Trying to get into position to attack some Huns that were cloud-creeping' (V.M. Yeates, Winged Victory, 1934).

cloud nine. In to ride, or be riding around on, or simply on, cloud nine, to be in a state of euphoria, mental or physical, or of felicitous fantasy; 'up-to-date version of "have one's head in the clouds"' (L.A., 1976); adopted, ca. 1972, ex US—at least, the on cloud nine part was. Gerald Green, The Hostage Heart, 1976, 'Dr Motzkin will pump you so full of pain-killers you'll be on cloud nine.' Cf. over the moon.

cloud on the deck. 'A cloud base coincident with a sea or land surface' (E.P. in the New Statesman, 19 Sep. 1942). See deck, 4, and cf. clagged in and clampers.

cloud, in the. Fantastic; fanciful; metaphysical. Also as adv. In C.17, coll.; then S.E.

cloudy. In disgrace or disrepute; 'shady': coll.: 1886, Stevenson (OED); ob. Cf. murky, and under a cloud.

Cloudy Joe. Nickname for a meteorological officer: RAF: 1940–5.

clout, n. A heavy blow: M.E. onwards. S.E. until ca. 1850, when it > low coll. and dial.; indeed it was far from literary after ca. 1770 (see Grose).—2. A handkerchief (unless of silk): the SOD implies that this is S.E., but Jonson's Gipsies, B.E., John Hall's Memoirs, Fielding's Jonathan Wild, Grose (edd. of 1785–1811), Brandon, and H. tend to show that, from ca. 1600, it was low coll. verging on c.—3. A woman's 'sanitary': low coll., C.19–20, ob.—4. Power or influence: coll.: since ca. 1960. Ex the physical sense; the threat of violence is (usu. fig.) there to enforce the welder's will. Hence the phrase carry a (or some) clout, to command considerable influence. (P.B.) Cf.:-

clout, v. To strike (a person) heavily: M.E. onwards; S.E. until ca. 1850, when it > low coll. and dial. Cf. sense 1 of the n.—2. Hence, to do eagerly, despatch vigorously: mostly military: C.20 F. & G., 'That fellow clouted six eggs this morning for his breakfast.'—3. To seize; to steal: NZ: C.20. See ding, 3, for semantics. The Aus. var. is clout on (B., 1942). Prob. ex US underworld.—4. To palm cards dishonestly; often as n. clouting: Aus. card-players': since ca. 1940. B., 1953.

clout-shoe, clouted shoe. A yokel; a boor: ca. 1580–1750: coll. Cf. Spenser's Colin Clout.

clouter. A pickpocket; one specialising in handkerchiefs; c.:—1839; ob. Brandon.—2. Vbl n., clouting.

clouting. A thrashing or a cuffing: see clout, v., 1.—2. In C.20 c., the carrying, by a woman shop-thief, of rolls of silk or cloth between her legs. Charles E. Leach. Cf.:-

clouting lay. The stealing of handkerchiefs from people's pockets: late C.18–19 c. (Grose, 2nd ed.) Occ. abbr. to clouting (Vaux).

clouts. A woman's underclothes, from the waist down. Also her complete wardrobe. Low coll.: C.19–20; ob. Cf. clout, 3.—2. Hence, the kilt of a Scottish soldier (L.A., 1974): army coll.: C.20 cloven, occ. cleaved or cleft. Ppl adj., spuriously virgin: C.18–early 19. (A New Canting Dict., 1725; Grose, 1st ed.) Cf. cleft, n., q.v.

clover, in. (Gen. with be or live.) In great comfort; luxuriously; in pleasant and most welcome safety or security: C.18–20: coll. >, in late C.19, S.E. B.P. notes, 1975, that the Aus. version is always on clover. Ex cattle richly pastured.

clow. (Pronounced clo.) A box on the ear: Winchester College: C.19. Perhaps on the auditory analogy of bout—bow, lout—low, as F. & H. suggests. Also, v.t.: P.B.: cf. South Country clout 'side the ear', a var. of clip round the ear.

clower. A basket: c.: ?C.18–mid-19. B. & L. derive it ex Gaelic clíah (a basket). Open to suspicion, this entry!

clown; clown wagon. A switchman, a yard brakeman; a caboose: Can. railroadmen's:—1931. Humorously pej.

clows. (Gen. as pl.) A rogue: late C.17–18 c. (B.E., Grose.) Perhaps cognate with:- cloy, cloye. A thief; a robber: C.18–early 19 c. Cf.:- cloy, cligh, cly, to steal, is—like its derivatives—c., not s.: C.17–early 19. Cf. C.16–17 S.E. cloyne, cheat or grab.

cloyer. A thief habitually claiming a share of profits from young sharpers: C.17 c.—2. Also in c., the less specialised sense: a thief, a pickpocket: mid-C.17–early 19. B.E.

club. The membrum virile: low: C.19.—2. A very thick pigtail: coll.: 1760–1920; S.E. after ca. 1800.—3. Short for benefit club: coll.; from ca. 1880. To be on the club is to receive financial help from a benefit club.—4. (the Club.) Blackheath Rugby Football Club: sporting coll.: late C.19–20.—5. An illicit drinking-den: Glasgow lower classes': C.20. MacArthur & Long.—6. A propeller: RAF: since ca. 1925. (H. & P.) Ex shape.—7. A heavy cricket bat or lawn-tennis racket: Cranbrook School: C.20.—8. In (she's) in the club, she is pregnant; short for the pudden club, q.v.; to make a woman pregnant is to put her in the club: raffish coll.: since ca. 1940. M. Harrison, Reported Safe Arrival, 1943, for put...—9. See join the club!

club, v. (Of an officer) to get one's men into an inextricable position by confusing the order: from ca. 1805: coll. > S.E. by 1890. Thackeray, Whyte-Melville.

club-first. A man rough and brutal: late C.16–17; coll. > S.E. by 1620.

club-land. The social district of which St James's (London) is the centre: coll.: from ca. 1870.

club run, the. A routine convoy trip in wartime: RN (mostly officers'): WW2.

club-winder. A switchman, a brakeman: Can. railroadmen's: ca. 1880–1910. Ex a club used to 'wind' the brake (Leechman).

clubbability. The possession of qualities fitting a person to be a member of a club: coll.: from ca. 1875. P.B.: hence, unclubbable, used by social workers in the 1960s and 1970s, of individuals who will not fit into schemes designed for their own benefit.

Clubs. Nickname for physical training instructor: RN (lower-deck): since ca. 1910. Ex Indian clubs.

clubs are trump(s). Brute force rules, or is to rule, the day: coll. in C.19–20; S.E. in late C.16–18. Punning the card-suit.

clucky. Pregnant. Aus. low: C.20. (B., 1942.) Ex hens. Wilkes notes 'used by women only'.

clue. A girl, or young woman: Aus.: since ca. 1930. Baker.—2. See:- clue, have no; have you a clue? To be ignorant, have no information; have you heard anything, do you know anything?: mostly Army: 1942+. Ex clueless.

clue up. To 'put (someone) in the picture', to brief, inform, instruct: since the middle 1940s. Cf. gen up.

clued(-)up. Well-informed; alert: since ca. 1941. (B.P.) Cf. clue up and contrast clueless. Intensified, in the Services, to, inevitably, clued-up to fuck = very well informed.

clueless. Ignorant; esp. in clueless type (opposite of gen wallah) and, in answer to a question, 'I'm clueless': RAF, since ca. 1939; hence Army, since ca. 1941. (Jackson.) Ex crime-detection. Also, since ca. 1941, NZ airmen's and soldiers'. (Slatter.)

cluey, adj. and n. (One who is) well-informed or alert: Aus.: since ca. 1945. Ex clued-up. B.P. quotes 'He should be on T.V.; he's a real cluey' and 'Ask Bert, he's pretty cluey', and it also occurs in Alex. Buzo's play, Norm and Ahmed, produced in 1968.

clump. A heavy blow, gen. with the hand: mid-C.19–20: coll. (mostly Cockney) and dial.—2. Incorrect for a clamp: C.19–20. (OED).

clump, v. To hit heavily: mid-C.19–20: coll. and dial. The ppl adj. clumping = heavily walking.

clumper. A thick walking boot: coll., from ca. 1875. Ex clump, an additional half-sole. Cf. 'Cut-down, worn-out thigh-boots of ankle height known as "clumpers"' (Steven Piper, The North Ships, 1974): trawlermen's. Prob. echoic, as is the v. (P.B.).—2. A heavy hitter: C.19–20: coll. Ex clump, v.

clumperton. A countryman; a yokel; C.16–early 19; coll. clumping. See Clump, v.—2. Occ. var. of thumping, adj., to describe something both large and clumsy, as 'clumping great thing—I wouldn't give it house-room!': C.20 coll. (P.B.)

clumsy as a cub-bear handling his prick. Very clumsy indeed: a low Can. c.p.: C.20.

clumsy cleat. A wedge of wood against which a harpooner, for steadiness, braced his left knee: whalers' coll. verging on j. Bowen.

clumsy Dick. An awkward and/or clumsy fellow: non-aristocratic coll.:—1887; ob. by 1930. (Baumann.) Contrast clever Dick.

clunk. A man; a chap: Aus. low, esp. Sydney: C.20. (Ruth Park, The Harp in the South, 1948.) Echoic.—2. Hence, since ca. 1950, predominantly a simple fellow, or even a fool. (B., 1953.)—3. All ill-bred or ill-mannered person: Can.: since late 1950s. (Leechman.) Perhaps semantically 'a lump': cf. the clunk, clunk-, words in the EDD.

clunk! intensively ker-lunk! Echoic of sounds deeper than those expressed by boink and doink: late C.19–20, but perhaps going back for centuries.

clunker. An old motorcar: Can.: since ca. 1965. Dr Leechman quotes the Daily Colonist (Victoria, BC), 23 May 1976. Echoic; cf. banger.

clunky. Ill-bred or ill-mannered: Can.: since late 1950s. (Leechman.) Ex clunk, n., 3.

clush. Easy, simple; 'cushy': c.: from ca. 1840; ob. by 1880, † by 1900. Etymology? P.B.: cf. cloushy, q.v.

clutch, put in (one's). To fall silent: motorists' (ca. 1920) > gen. by: 128, Galsworthy, Swan Song. Exmotoring.

clutch-fist. A miser: C.17–20; coll. till ca. 1800, then S.E. Adj., clutch-fisted, as in B.E.

clutching hand, the. Joc. coll., C.20: greed. On the verge of S.E.—2. A quartermaster-sergeant: military: WW1. Prob. ex a lurid film so named. F. & G.—3. A D.H.6 aeroplane: RAF: 1917–18. F. & G.: a de Havilland used 'as an elementary training machine'. Ex its appearance in profile. Cf. synon dung-hunter.

clutter. A crowded confusion, a mess or litter: in C.17–early 19, S.E.; then coll. and dial. A var. of clotter (ex clot). Whence: clutter, v. To litter confusedly and abundantly: ca. 1670–1840, S.E.; now coll. and US. (SOD). P.B.: in the active voice, often with up, as 'you cluttered it [the room] up—you jolly well tidy it up!'

clutz. A stupid and worthless person—a clot (Janssen, citing Peter McCabe, Apple to the Core, 1972, adds: var. of US klutz, n. and adj.): adopted, ex US, ca. 1960. W. & F. derive it ex Yiddish.

cly, n. A pocket; a purse; money: c., ? and low: late C.17–19. Indubitably c. is the late C.17–early 19 sense, money. (B.E., Dyche, Grose.) So is file a cly, late C.17–18, to pick a pocket. See also file, in all senses, and fake a cly.

cly, v. To haunt; molest: c.:—1688 (Randle Holme).—2. To seize, take, to pocket, to steal: c., ? and low: C.16–18. See cloy, n. and v.

cly-faker. A pickpocket: c.:—1812; ob. by 1930. Vaux.—2. Hence the vbl n., cly-faking:—1851, id.

cly off. To carry off, away: C.17 (? 18) c. Brome in his Jovial Crew.

cly the gerke or jerk. To receive a whipping, a lashing: c. of ca. 1550–1850. See jerk.

clye. A C.16–17 var. of cly.

clyme. See cleyme.

clyster-pipe. A doctor: C.17.—2. An apothecary: C.18–early 19. Both senses are low coll., the latter in Grose. Ex S.E. for a syringe.

co. A shortening of cofe or cove, q.v. In this sense, occ. coe.—2. Co., or coy so pronounced, is a sol. for company: since early C.19. Esp. . . . and Co., the rest of them [people]. For 'the rest of [the things]', see and Co.—3. co-, as prefix, where used joc., is either pedantic or coll., according to circumstances.—4. In in co, esp. act in co, to be leagued together:—1817 (article by Jon Bee in New Monthly Magazine): coll.—5. A co-respondent: mostly Society:—1923 (Manchon); ob.—6. Call-over: Rugby Schoolboys': from ca. 1880. Printed C.O. in the call-over lists.—7. In join co; part co, to join (the company; to part company: since ca. 1810. In Sailors and Saints, 2 vols, 1829, W.N. Glascock has 'Joining Co.' as title of Chapter 2 in Vol. I, and 'Parting Co.' as title of ch. 22 in II; earlier The Port Folio, 2 Nov. 1805 (p. 341), quotes ex a British song the words 'one King and Co' (the King of England and his subjects). Moe.

co-ed. Co-educational, i.e. educating girls and boys together: coll.: from ca. 1920, when the practice was not common. Hence, as n., a girl (never a boy) at a co-educational institution, esp. a college or university: coll.: in this sense adopted, ca. 1950, ex US, where it has long been regarded as Standard.

co-Joe. The second pilot of a two-pilot aircraft: RAF: since ca. 1945; ob. Cf. second dicky.

co-op; co-op store. A co-operative store: the longer form, early 1870s; the shorter, early 1880s. Also a co-operative society: from early 1890s. OED Sup. P.B.: since mid-C.20, at latest, the local branch shop of the Co-operative Wholesale Society (or, 1982: Co-operative Retail Services Ltd) has been known as the Co-op.—2. Hence, on the co-op, on the co-operative principle: from ca. 1910: like the others, it is coll. Ibid.

co-pilot. A 'soft' drug: mostly addicts': since ca. 1960. Petch cited 'Cassandra' in the Daily Mirror, 14 June 1966.

co-re. A co-respondent: Society: since ca. 1921. Cyril Burt, The Case of the Fast Young Lady, 1942.

co-respondent's shoes. Brown-and-white sports shoes: since ca. 1925. P.B.: by 1945 the term had > co-respondent shoes; by late 1970s, it was ob.

coach. A private tutor: at first (1848, says SOD) a university word, orig. Cambridge; s., says Frank Smedley in Frank Fairleigh, 1850; but very soon coll. If not connected with a college, he was, until ca. 1880, known as a rural coach.—2. As a trainer of athletes (1885), a coll. now almost S.E. Whichever of cab, a 'crib' (q.v.), and coach is the earlier, that one presumably suggested the other: since cab comes ex cabbage, q.v., the earlier is prob. cab.—3. See who's robbing this coach?

coach, v. To travel, go, in a coach: coll.: C.17–20; ob. Occ. with it.—2. To prepare (a pupil), teach him privately: from ca. 1848; s. soon coll., orig. university, as in Thackeray.—3. To train athletes: from ca. 1880; coll.—4. V.i., to read or study with a private tutor: from ca. 1849; s. > coll.

coach-fellow, occ. -companion. A companion, fellow worker, mate: joc. coll.: ca. 1590–1800. Shakespeare, in the Merry Wives, 'You, and your Coach-fellow Nim'.

coach-horses. The crew of the State or Royal Barge: late C.18–19. John Davis, The Post-Captain, 1806. (Moe.)

coach-wheel. A crown piece: late C.17–early 20. (Grose.) In late C.17–19, fore c.-w., half a crown; hind c.-w., a crown. B.E.

coach-whip. A Navy pennant: nautical: an early occurrence is in L.L.G., 19 Apr. 1823. (Moe.) Cf. duster, 2, q.v.

coachee, coachie, coachy. A coachman: late C.18–20; ob. Coll. Thomas Moore, 1819, in Tom Crib's Memorial, in form coachee.

coachers. Tame cattle as decoys to wild: Aus. coll.: C.20. Ion Idriess, Men of the Jungle, 1932.

coaches won't run over him, the. He is in gaol: coll.:—1813; † by 1900. Ray, 1813 (Apperson). Cf. where the flies won't get at it (see flies).

coaching. Private instruction (actively or passively): from ca. 1845. Coll.—2. (Rugby School) a flogging: C.19; ob. by 1891.—3. The obtaining of high auction-prices by means of fictitious bidders: commercial:—1866; ob. OED.

coachman on the box. Syphilis: rhyming s. (on box): from ca. 1870. In C.20, the coachman.

coachy, n. A coachman. See coachee.

coachy, adj. Resembling a coach-horse: coll.:—1870. OED.—2. Concerned with coaches or coach-driving: from ca. 1880; coll.

coal. Money. See cole.—2. A penny: grafters': C.20. (J.H. Horsley, I Remember, 1912.) Prob. ex lost rhyming s. coal-heaver, a 'stever', q.v. at stiver.—3. Petrol: army drivers':

WW2. P-G-R.—4. See pour on more coal; put the coals on coal and coke. Penniless: rhyming s., on broke: C.20. See also coals and coke.

coal-box. A chorus; perhaps orig. nautical, then music-hall: early C.19—early C.20. Moe cites W.N. Glascock, Sketch-Book, II, 1826, and a quotation from his Sailors and Saints (II,119), 1829, 'Now, my boys, reg'lar coal-box.' Mark Lemon used it in Up and Down London Streets, 1867. It derives ex the din made by a coal-box being vigorously shaken.—2. A German shell that, of low velocity, burst with a cloud of black smoke; esp. a 5.9: army: WW1. B. & P. Cf. black Maria.

coal-heaver. A penny, esp. in the game of Crown and Anchor: Services': C.20. (F. & G.) See coal, 2.

Coal-Heavers, the. The Grenadier Guards: military: mid-C.18—20. (F. & G.) Ex officers letting out soldiers to civilian employers. In C.19—20, also the Coalies.

coal-hole, a. Work down in the coal-hole, often given as punishment to a working hand: Conway Training Ship: from ca. 1890.

coal-sack. (Gen. pl.) A dark patch of cloud near the Milky Way: nautical: mid-C.19—20. Bowen.

coal-scuttle (bonnet), n. and adj. A poke bonnet: from ca. 1830; ob., the fashion being outmoded by 1880—if not earlier. Dickens, in Nicholas Nicckleby, 'Miss Snevellici... glancing from the depths of her coal-scuttle bonnet at Nicholas'. The short form occurs in Sinks, 1848.—2. coal-scuttle, n. A Japanese heavy-mortar bomb: army in Far East: 1942—5. (P-G-R.) Ex the heavy smoke; cf. coal-box, 2.

coal up. To eat (heartily): stokers':—1909; slightly ob. Ware.

coal warrant. See sign the coal warrants.

coal-whipper. A dock coal-heaver: nautical: C.19. Bowen, 'Unloading..by jumping off a staging in the days of primitive equipment'.

coaler. A coal-heaver: coll. (—1887) verging on S.E. (Baumann.) Cf. coaly.

coaley, coalie. See coaly and Coal-Heavers.

Coalies, the. The Grenadier Guards. See Coal-Heavers.—2. Abbr. for the Coldstream Guards, but this is perhaps better spent Coleys, to avoid confusion.

coaling or coally. (Of a part) effective, pleasant to the actor: from ca. 1850, ob. Also, fond of, partial to: ca. 1870—1910, e.g. Miss Braddon in Dead Sea Fruit. Theatrical.

coals. Several coll. phrases involve 'coals': they are listed at the appropriate verbs, e.g., blow, call over, fetch, carry, haul, etc. For think (no) small coals, see small...

coals (and coke). Penniless: rhyming s. on broke: late C.19—20. Emphatically, it >, ca. 1930, stone coals and coke (Jim Wolveridge, He Don't Know 'A from a Bull's Foot, 1978); cf. stony broke. A later var. is coal and coke.

coals to Newcastle, carry. To do something ludicrously superfluous: late C.16—20, being coll. till ca. 1830, then S.E. Heywood, Fuller, Scott. (Apperson.) In C.20 usu. allusively, as 'Oh, that's coals to Newcastle'.

coaly; coalay; coalie. A coal-heaver or porter: C.19—20. An early example is in Boxiana, II, 1818.

Coast, the. The bank of the River Paraguay: coll., among Englishmen in S. America: C.20. C.W. Thurlow Craig.—2. The coast of British Columbia: Can. coll., except, naturally, in the eastern maritime provinces: C.20. (Leechman.)

coast, v. To loaf about from station to station: Aus. coll.:—1890 (Morris); ob.—2. Esp. as vbl n. 'Coasting. Walking near people in crowds' (Duncan Webb in Daily Express, 11 Sep. 1945); Black Market: 1943+.

coast about. Synon. of prec., 1: C.20. B., 1943.

coast-crawling. Cruising along the coast of N. Africa: RN: 1940—5. P-G-R.

coast is clear, the. The w.c. is vacant: euph. c.p.:—1923 (Manchon). Ex the fig S.E. sense.

coaster. One who coasts: see the v.—2. (Or Coaster.) A white man living on the Gold Coast: coll.: late C.19—early 20.

coat, n. In baste or coil or pay (a person's) coat, to beat him: coll.: C.16—18. Cf. dust (one's) jacket.—2. In on the coat, (of a person) in, or sent to, Coventry: Aus.: since ca. 1930. (B., 1942.) See v., 3.—3. See cut (one's) coat.

coat, v. To reprimand, esp. of a warder reprimanding a prisoner: c.: C.20.—2. To arrest (a person): c.: from ca. 1910. Gen. as ppl adj., coated.—3. 'To ostracise. The unfavoured one is indicated to others by a tug on the lapel as he passes by' (McNeil): Aus. prison s.: later C.20. See n., 2.

coat and badge. To cadge: rhyming s.: mid-C.19—20. (B. & P.; Len Orzzen, Down Donkey Row, 1938.) Franklyn records 'sometimes given in full as Doggett's...'; Doggett's were Thames watermen. He goes on: 'The term is still [1960] in use, and is generally, prefixed with "on the"—"He's on the C. and B. again!"' coat of arms. The rank badge of Warrant Officers, Class 1: Army: since ca. 1920. H. & P., 'When a man is promoted to this majestic rank he is said to "have his coat of arms up".' Humorous; the badge is in fact the Royal coat of arms. Cf. the later synon. fighting cats and Tale and Lyle.

Coathanger, the. The Sydney Harbour Bridge: Melbourne, Aus.: from 1932, when the bridge reached completion, until ca. 1940. (B.P.) coating, vbl n. Giving a prisoner's history: c.:—1935 (David Hume). I.e. fitting him up nicely. Cf. coat, 1.—2. Hence (?), a thrashing: Army (esp. in the Guards): 1939+. (Gerald Kersh, They Die with Their Boots Clean, 1941, and The Nine Lives of Bill Nelson, 1942.) P.B.: more prob. ex coat, n., 1.

Coats an' 'Ais. Messrs C. & A., Ltd, the London outfitters: since ca. 1950.

coax. One who coaxes or is skilled in coaxing: coll.: from ca. 1860. Ouida (OED).

coax, v. To hide a dirty or torn part of one's stocking in one's shoes: mid-C.18—early 19; coll. Grose, 2nd ed.—2. Hence, to deface or alter (a service-certificate): nautical: mid-C.19—20. Bowen.

Cob or Cobb. 'Inevitable' nickname for a man surnamed Webb: C.20. A pun on S.E. cobweb. (Petch, 1966.)

cob. A chignon: coll.: ca. 1865—1914.—2. (Winchester College, ca. 1870—1930) a hard hit at cricket. Ex cob, v., 1.—3. In c., a punishment cell: from ca.: 1860; ob.—4. (Usu. pl.) A testicle: low: C.19—20. Brendan Behan, Borstal Boy, 1958. 'Now, no knee and nut stuff and no catching by the cobs.' Ex dial. (EDD).—5. In have or get a cob on, to be annoyed: MN,—1935; since ca. 1939, also RN. Prob. ex dial. cob, a piece, esp. a large piece. Cf. Sweat cobs.

cob, cobb, v. To strike, esp. on the buttocks with something flat (gen. a hand-saw, says Hotten): nautical (—1769). Marryat in the King's Own: 'Gentlemen, gentlemen, if you must cobb Mrs. Shrimmage, for God's sake let it be over all', i.e. with no clothes raised. Widespread dial. use (EDD).—2. Hence, to humbug, deceive: coll., C.19—20, ob., perhaps influenced by cod.—3. To detect, catch: schoolboys'. C.19. A var. of cop, v., q.v.

cob o' coal. Unemployment relief: workmen's rhyming s., on dole: ca. 1925—60. John o' London's Weekly, 9 June 1934.

Cobar shower. A dust storm: Aus.: C.20. Baker, 'Other inland place-names are often used instead of Cobar'; Cobar is an inland town in NSW.

Cobb, by. By coach: Aus. coll.: from 1870s; slightly ob. (Morris.) The Cobb who started a system of coaches long before 1860 was an American; the coaches ceased to run in Aug. 1924.

cobber. A great lie: C.19—early 20. Cf. thumper.—2. A friend, comrade, companion: Aus.: late C.19—20; ob. by 1975 (Wilkes). A trustworthy correspondent (a writing man) tells me that he heard it among racing-men of the lower sort in the year 1900. Ex Yiddish chaber, itself ex Hebrew, a comrade. Thomas Wood, Cobbers, 1934.

cobber-dobber. 'One who betrays a friend' (B., 1959); Aus.: since early 1930s. Cf. dob in, q.v.

cobber-up. To become friends (with someone): Aus.: since ca. 1920. B., 1959.

cobbing, vbl n. To cob, v., 1.

cobble. To detect; catch: schoolboys': C.19. Ex to cob, 3. cobble-colter. A turkey, late C.17–18 c., was resuscitated by Disraeli in Venetia, his most picaresque novel. Cobble = gobble. cobbler. A drink of wine mixed with lemon-juice, sugar, and ice, gen. taken through a straw: coll.; from ca. 1840; ex US. ?short for sherry-cobbler; cf. cobbler's punch; perhaps, however, 'as patching up the constitution' (W.).—2. The last sheep to be shorn: Aus. and NZ sheep-shearers': late C.19–20. Ex cobbler's last. Morris; Straight Furrow, 21 Feb. 1968.

cobblers. Human testicles: low: C.20. (Gilt Kid, 1936.) A shortening of cobbler's awls or stalls.—2. Hence, nonsense, rubbish; as an exclam., but esp. in the scornful phrase 'A load of old cobblers': widespread and popular, and used in all innocence by those unaware of its derivation: since ca. 1960. (P.B.).—3. The past: late C.19–20; rare, and supplanted by senses 1 and 2. Rhyming s. on cobbler's last.—4. As the Cobblers, the Northampton Association Football Club: sporting: late C.19–20. News Chronicle, 27 Dec. 1934, caption, 'Cobblers Yield a Point.' Boots and shoes are made in profusion at Northampton.

cobbler's awls. Testicles: low rhyming s., on balls: late C.19–20. Franklyn, Rhyming.

cobbler's door, knock at the; give the cobbler's knock. In sliding or, less often, in skating, to rap the ice in series of three taps with one foot while one moves rapidly on the other. This rapping is occ. called the postman's knock. Dickens in Pickwick Papers. Coll.; from ca. 1820.

cobbler's last. The past. See cobblers, 3.

cobbler's punch. Urine with a cinder in it: low: ca. 1810–60. Lex. Bal.

cobbler's stalls. Human testicles: low rhyming s., on balls: C.20. Cf. orchestra stalls.

cobblers to you! 'Balls to you!': since latish 1960s; slightly ob. by 1975. It may have begun as a semi-euph. 'Heard fairly often on TV' (Petch, 1974). See cobblers, 1 and 2.

cobbo. A familiar form of cobbler, 2: since ca. 1920. B., 1942.

cobbon. Large. See cawbawn.

Cob's body (, by). In oaths, a coll. corruption of God's body: C.18. (OED).

cobweb, in late C.17–early 18, seems to have been coll. for transparent or flimsy: B.E. cites cobweb cheat, a swindler easily detected, and cobweb pretence.

cobweb in the throat, have a. To feel thirsty: coll.: from ca. 1830.—2. Hence, cobweb throat, a dry throat after drinking liquor: late C.19–early 20. (A.H. Dawson's Dict. of Slang, 1913.) Cf. wash the cobwebs out..., q.v.

cobweb rig, the. Some form of swindling: late C.18–mid-19. In the anon. ballad (published ca. 1800) 'The Rolling Blossom', we find: 'The cobweb and the robbing rigs,/I practise every day, sir.'

cocam. An occ. form of cocum, q.v., ability, shrewdness.

cochineal dye. Blood: pugilistic; ca. 1850–1910. 'Cuthbert Bede', 1853: 'He would kindly inquire of one gentleman, "What d'ye ask for a pint of your cochineal dye?"' For semantics, cf. bordeaux and claret.

Cock. Cockfosters: London Transport Board employees': since ca. 1930.—2. 'Inevitable' nickname of a man surnamed Robin or Robinson. See NICKNAMES, in Appendix.

cock, n. The penis: an early occurrence is in N. Field, 1618. Always S.E. but since ca. 1830 a vulg. Prob. ex cock, a tap.—2. A plucky fighter; hence, a coll. term of appreciation or address. Massinger, in 1639, has 'He has drawn blood of him yet: well done, old cock.'—3. As chief or leader, despite the coll. tang of cock of the walk, the school, etc., it has, since 1800 in any case, been S.E., the term arising in early C.15.—4. A horse not intended to run or, if running, to win: racing; from ca. 1840; ob.—5. In boxing, a cock=out, senseless, as in 'He knocked him a regular cock' or simply '... a cock', where the term > an adv: ca. 1820–1920, but ob. by 1900.—6. A fictitious narrative sold as a broadsheet in the streets: low coll., recorded by Mayhew in 1851 but prob. in use as early as 1840; † by 1900. From ca. 1860 it derivatively meant any incredible story, as in The London Figaro, 1 Feb. 1870, 'We are disposed to think that cocks must have penetrated to Eastern Missouri.' Prob. ex cock and bull story.—7. In c., abbr. Cockney, cockney. Recorded by B. & L.: mid-C.19–20.—8. Among printers, a cock ensues when, in gambling with quads, a player receives another chance by causing one or more of the nine pieces to fall, not flat as desired but, crosswise on another: from ca. 1860, ob. by 1920.—9. Among tailors, from ca. 1840, a good cock is a good, a bad cock a bad workman.—10. 'A man who buys more than his share of drinks in a public house or club so as to have company pleasing to him. A man easy to sponge upon' (Powis): underworld: current in 1970s.—11. See old cock.—12. See cocks, 1. [—13. In ancient oaths, cock=God.]—14. Short for poppycock, nonsense: since ca. 1938. 'You're just talking a lot of cock, and you know it!' But cf. also ballocks in this sense, and all to cock.—15. Check, impudence: Oundle School: since late 1920s. (Marples.) Ex cocky.—16. A cockle: mostly Welsh fishermen's: C.20. (Granville, 1967.)

cock, v. To smoke (v.t.): C.19. Cf. broseley.—2. To copulate: raffish coll.: C.19–20; at first gen. in the passive, but in later C.20, also v.t., of the male. Whence vbl n., cocking, and cf. (with) a cock in her eye: sexually desirous. Bill Naughton, Alfie Darling, 1970.—3. To see, examine; speak of: gen. as cock it: tailors', from ca. 1850; ob.—4. See cock it over.

cock. Adj. ex the n., 3: chief; foremost: coll.; from ca. 1660; ob. Etherege, in The Man of Mode, 'The very cock-fool of all those fools, Sir Fopling Flutter'.—2. Male: beakniks': since late 1950s. (Anderson.) Contrast hen, adj.

cock-a-brass. App. this c. term belongs to C.18–19. B. & L., 'A confederate of card-sharpers who remains outside the public-house where they are operating. When they have left, cock-a-brass protects their retreat by misleading statements to the victim on the direction taken by them.'

cock-a-bully. The gray (fish): NZ coll.:—1896 (Morris). A corruption of the Maori name, kokopus.

cock a (or one's) chest. To preen oneself; to put on 'side'; to brag: RN: C.20. (Granville.) Cf. chuck a chest, 2 and 3.

cock-a-doodle. A 'donkey-drop' (q.v.): schoolboys': ca. 1880–1910. Ex its 'high note'.

cock-a-double broth. Beaten eggs in brandy and water: 1856; very ob. (Very strengthening.)

cock-a-double (-doo). Nursery and joc. for a cock: C.18–20. Echoic ex its cross. (1573, OED.)

cock-a-hoop (incorrectly -whoop). From ca. 1660: coll., in C.20 S.E.: in C.17–early 19, 'upon the high Ropes, Rampant, Transported' (B.E.), but only predicative or complementary; ca. 1830 it > an ordinary adj. Ex the earlier set (the) cock on (the) hoop or, as in Shakespeare, set cock-a-hoop, which Ray explains by the practice of removing the cock or spigot, laying it on the hoop, i.e. on the top, of a barrel, and then drinking the barrel dry.

cock-a-loft. 'Affected lofty' (OED): coll.: from ca. 1860; ob. Ex cock-loft.

cock a snook. See cock snooks.

cock-a-wax; occ. cock-o-wax. A cobbler: ca. 1800–50. Lit., a fellow working with wax.—2. Hence, anyone familiarly addressed: C.19. An early occurrence is in Wm Maginn, Whitehall, 1827, thus, 'What will you drink, my cock-of-wax, my Trojan, true as ever whistled' (Moe). H., 3rd ed. Ex cock, n., 2. Var. lad (of) wax.

cock-ale. A strong ale: 'pleasant drink, said to be provocative' (B.E.): coll.: ca. 1680–1830. Ned Ward; Grose.

cock-alley. Also c.-hall, -inn, -lane, -pit, and Cockshire. All low coll.: C.18–20, the second and the third being †, the fifth and sixth ob. Pudendum muliebre.

cock-and-breeches. A sturdy boy, a small but sturdy man: low coll.: from ca. 1830; ob.

cock-and-bull story. In this form from ca. 1700; as story or tale of a cock and a bull from ca. 1608: coll., passing ca. 1850 to S.E. At first, a long rambling tale, then (C.18–20) an idle, silly or incredible story. John Day in Law Tricks, Sterne in Tristram Shandy, Mrs Henry Wood in Henry Ludlow. Cf. the Fr. coq-à-l'âne.

cock and hen, n. A £10 note: thieves' and low rhyming s.: from ca. 1870. (Slang, p. 243.) Hence half a cock, £5. (Tempest).—2. Hence, ten: C.20. B. & P.—3. (Gen. cockermen.) A pen: rhyming s., esp. grafters': C.20. Cheappack, 1934.—4. A man and wife (together): taxi-drivers': since ca. 1910. Herbert Hodge, Cab, Sir?, 1939.—5. Odds of 10 to 1: racing, esp. bookmakers': C.20 (Daily Telegraph, 7 May 1967). Ex sense 2.

cock-and-hen. (Gen. with club, occ. with house.) Adj.: admitting both sexes, for the once or constitutionally: coll.; from ca. 1815. Moore in Tom Crib's Memorial.

cock and (by) piel, by. A mild oath: coll: mid-C.16—mid-19. (Thackeray.) Perhaps Cock, God + pie, a Roman Catholic ordinal. OED.

cock-and-pinch. The beaver hat affected by dandies of ca. 1820—30; † by 1900: coll. (Cocked back and front and pinched up at the sides.)

cock-bawd. A man keeping a brothel: ca. 1680—1830: low-coll. B.E., Grose.

cock-billed. With yards crooked as a sign of mourning: nautical: late C.19—20. (Bowen.) Cf. a-cockbill.

cock-brain. A silly light-headed person: late C.16—18; coll. Adj., cock-brained.

cock (one's) beaver. To assume a swaggering air: coll.: C.17. As in that strange Cambridge Platonist, Henry More, in 1642.

cock-broth. Nutritious soup: tramps' c.: C.20. Esp. at the Brighton casual ward: see W.A. Gape, Half a Million Tramps, 1936.

cock (one's) cap at. See set (one's) cap at.

cock-catching. Obtaining money on false pretences. See catch cocks.

cock-chafer (or solid). A girl or woman permitting—and assuming—most of the intimacies but not the greatest: low coll.: C.19. Much more common is cock-teaser: C.19—earlier 20. Cf. the gen. C.20 low prick-tease.—2. The female pudend: low coll.: C.19—20.—3. The treadmill: c.: 1860—90. H., 2nd ed.

cock-cheese. Smegma: low: late C.19—20.

cock (one's) chest. See cock a chest.

cock-eye. A squinting-eye: recorded in 1825; cock-eyed, squinting: Byron, 1821. Both are coll. (OED).—Hence, 2, cock-eye and cock-eyed, from ca. 1895 = crooked; inaccurate; inferior. Lit., like a 'tilted' eye.—3. A coastal storm in NW Aus. See cock-eye(d) Bob.

cock-eyed. See cock-eye, 2.—2. Tipsy: since ca. 1930. Maurice Lincoln, Oh! Definitely, 1933.

cock-eye(d) Bob. A coastal gale, a violent thunderstorm, in NW Aus.: since late C.19 (Morris); hence pearl-ers' (Bowen). Variants are cock-eye bob (Ion Idriess, Forty Fathoms Deep, 1937—his Flynn of the Inland, 1932, has the entry form); a short form, as 'another cock-eye brewing' (Idriess, 1937); and Cocky Bob (Jon Cleary, 1954). In Western Aus. it means 'a small whirlwind a few feet wide rushing across the country': C.20 (C.M.L. Elliott, 1970.) cock-fighting. For senses concerning excellence, see beat cock-fighting.

cock-hall. See cock-alley.

cock-happy. Over-confident: Services': mid-C.20. 'We won, but remember, it might not be so easy another time, so don't get cock-happy about it' (J.W.G. Moran, Spearhead in Malaya, 1959). Perhaps ultimately ex cock, n., 3, and adj., 1.

cock-hoist. A cross-buttock: late C.18—early 19: coll. till C.19, then j. Grose, 2nd ed.

cock-horse. Elated, cock-a-hoop, in full swing: ca. 1750—1870; coll. Ex (ride) a cock-horse, a child's improvised horse.

Cock Inn. The female pudend: low: C.19—20; ob. Cf. Cupid's Arms and see cock-alley.

cock it! There it is!; that's done it!; gone! lower classes': —1923 (Manchon).

cock it over (a person). To 'boss', to impose on: coll.:—1923 (Manchon). Ex cock, n., 3.

cock it up. To make a complete mess of a job, as in 'All he had to do was fit this bit into there; and now look at it: he's gone and cocked it all up something rotten!': low coll.: C.20. Cf. make a cock-up, and see cock-up, n., 2, and v., 2. (P.B.) —2. 'Used of a woman offering herself sexually' (Wilkes): Aus.: since mid-C.20. Wilkes quotes X. Herbert, Soldiers' Women, 1961, 'that nervous that if you cocked it up to him he'd put his hat over it and run.'

cock-lane. See cock-alley. Grose, 1st ed.

cock-linnet. A minute: rhyming s.:—1909 (Ware).—2. A dapper lad: East London:—1909 (Ibid.).

cock-loft. The head: mid-C.17—18; coll. Fuller, 1646 (Apperson). Lit., a garret; cf. the proverbial all his gear is in his cock-loft and garret and upper storey.

cock-maggot in a sink-hole, like a. Very annoyed or peevish: proletarian coll.:—1887; slightly ob. by 1930. Baumann.

cock-my-cap. Some kind of strong liquor fashionable in the 1720s. Anon., The Quaker's Opera, 1728.

cock on; usually as cock it on. To charge excessively; to exaggerate: since ca. 1910; by 1960, slightly ob. Perhaps ex haymaking.

cock-o-wax. See cock-a-wax.

cock of a different hackle. An opponent of a different, gen. better, character: coll.:—1865. See hackle(s).

cock-pimp. A supposed, rarely an actual, husband to a bawd; i.e. a harlot's bully: late C.17—18 coll. B.E.

cock-pit, cockpit, the. A Dissenters' meeting-house: late C.18—early 19. Grose, 1st ed. (at pantile-house).—2. The Treasury; the Privy Council: a London coll.: from ca. 1870. Ex an old Whitehall cockpit.—3. See cock-alley.

cock-quean. A man concerning himself unduly in women's affairs: either a sol. or a joc. perversion of coquean: ca. 1830—80.

cock-robin. A soft, easy fellow: coll.: from ca. 1690; ob. B.E.; Grose; Montagu Williams, Leaves of a Life, 1890.—2. Penis: (?) mostly Anglo-Irish: C.20. 'I hope no one's seriously suggesting we've more than one artist bucketing about with a knife in one hand and his cock robin in the other' (Michael Kenyon, The Rapist, 1977). An elab. of cock, n., 1.

cock-robin shop. A small printery: printers', from late 1850s; ob. H., 1st ed.

cock-shot. Anything set up as a target; a shot thereat: coll.: resp. ca. 1840, 1880. OED.

cock-shut. Twilight (also an adj.): coll. > S.E. > dial. Recorded in 1598, 1594: 'perhaps the time when poultry are shut up' (SOD).

cock-shy. Coll.; in C.20 verging on and by 1930 being virtually S.E. Cock-throwing and similar games: mid-C.19—20. Mayhew.—2. A free 'shy' at a target: from mid-1830s.—3. The missile: rare and ob.: from late 1830s.—4. The target (lit. or fig.): 1836.—5. A showman's cock-shy 'booth', etc.: from late 1870s. OED.—6. cock-shying: see 1 and 2: late 1870s. OED.

cock-smitten. Enamoured of men: low coll., C.19—20.

cock snooks or a snook. To put one's fingers derisively to nose: coll.; late C.19—20. See snooks, 2.

cock-sparrow. A barrow: rhyming s.: late C.19—20. J. Phillips, Dict. of Rhyming Slang, 1931.—2. (As cock-sparrer.) Mad: Aus. rhyming s., on Yarra, q.v.: later C.20. McNeil.

cock-stand. A priapism: a vulg.: C.18—20.

cock-sucker. A toady: low coll.: C.19—20. Mostly (?orig.) US.

cock-sucking bastard. An epithet of extreme disgust: adopted, ca. 1944, ex US troops. 'The imputation of fellatio [is] a deep down pejorative' (L.A., 1974). The ugly pej., current in US since late 1960s, cock-sucking mother-fucker, has not so far (1979) caught on in UK—for which we must be thankful. (P.B.)

cock-sure. Feeling quite certain (from ca. 1660): dogmatically sure of oneself (from ca. 1750). Coll. till ca. 1890, then S.E. Semantics obscure; perhaps ex the action of a cock or water-tap; perhaps a euph. for God-sure (W.)—cf. cock for God in oaths. P.B.: could it not simply reflect the superbly self-assured arrogance of the farmyard cock, crowing atop his dung-heap?

cock-tail. A harlot: low coll.; C.19—early 20.—2. A person of energy and promptness but not a 'thoroughbred': from ca. 1855; coll. Ex racing j.—Hence, 3, a coward: coll.; from ca. 1860.—4. A whisked drink of spirits, occ. wine, with bitters, crushed ice, etc.: orig. (1809), US; recorded in Aus. in 1867 (Baker, in a private letter); and anglicised ca. 1870; popularised in England during WW1, when it > S.E. In senses 3 and 4, the usual spelling is cocktail, which, in C.20, is the only spelling of sense 4.

cock-tail, -tailed, adj. Unsoldierly; guilty of 'bad form': military, ca. 1880–1914. Either ex the n., 2nd and 3rd senses, or ex turn cocktail, i.e. to cock the tail, turn, and run.

cock-tails, the. Diarrhoea: Aus.: since ca. 1925. B., 1942.

cock-tax. Alimony: Aus.: since ca. 1950. Ian Fleming, You Only Live Twice, 1964.

cock-tease, v.t. To excite sexually: low coll.: C.20. (Angus Wilson, A Bit off the Map, 1957.) Cf.:-

cock-teaser. See cock-chafer. Often, as Manchon (1923) mentions, euph. abbr. to c.-t.

cock the eye. To wink; leer; look incredulous or knowing: from ca. 1750: coll. until ca. 1800, then S.E. Smollett, in Peregrine Pickle, 1751, 'He . . . made wry faces, and, to use the vulgar phrase, cocked his eye at him.' (Cock an eye is merely, to glance.) Cf. cock the nose, (S.E. for) to turn it up in contempt.

cock (one's) toes up; cock up (one's) toes. To die: since ca. 1860; ob. (H., 3rd ed.) Cf. the much more gen. turn up one's toes.

cock-up, n. (Printers') a superior, i.e. a superior letter, as the 0 in N^o; from ca. 1860.—2. A blunder; an utter mismanagement of the task in hand: perhaps orig. Services': since ca. 1925. Usu. as make a cock-up, or as in 'The whole affair was a monumental cock-up from start to finish!' Cf. balls-up and fuck-up, n. and v., for which this may be a slightly less offensive euph. Or it may be quite 'innocent', as in a discussion in the correspondence columns of the Guardian, early Nov. 1981, a number of other, older (?) origins for this term were suggested, among them book-keeping (amendments written at an angle), ale-barrels (cock = spigot), and poaching (an evasive woodcock). (P.B.) cock up, v. To cane (a boy): Charterhouse (ca. 1870–1925) and St Bees (1915+). Whence vbl n. cocking-up. Marples.—2. To make a mess of. Ex n., 2; cf. cock it up.—3. P.B.: my father, from years as a Territorial 'Gunner' officer, would recall orders such as 'Elevation: plus five degrees' being translated by gun-crews as 'Cock 'er up a bit, Charlie!': army: earlier C.20.

cock won't fight. See that cock . . .

cockalorum, occ. cockylorum. A very confident little man: coll.: 1715. Often as slightly contemptuous vocative. As adj., self-confident or -important: 1884+. Ex cock, a leader (see cock, n., 2, 3), pseudo-L. orum; cf. cock-a-doodle-doo (W.).

cockalorum (fig), hey or high. A coll. exclam.: from ca. 1800; ob. Prob. ex an old song-refrain.—As a schoolboys' game (leap-frog), S.E.

cockatoo. A small farmer: orig. in the wool districts and by the big squatters: from ca. 1863. (In C.20, always cocky.) Aus.: coll. Henry Kingsley in Hillyars and Burtons, 'The small farmers contemptuously called cockatoos'. Ex the fact that a farmer trying to live off a small piece of land resembles, in this, a cockatoo. (B.P.) See cocky, 3.—2. A scout that gives warning of a policeman's approach: Aus. c.: C.20.

cockatoo, v. To be a (small) farmer: coll.:—1890 (Boldrewood; Morris). Ex n., 1.—2. To act as look-out for a gang of criminals: Aus. c.: since ca. 1910. (Baker.) Ex n., 2.

cockatoo, adj. Pertaining to Aus. small farmers. See cocky and, e.g.:-

234

cockatoo fence. A fence made by a small farmer: Aus. coll.:—1884 (Boldrewood in Melbourne Memories: Morris).

cockatooer. A 'cockatoo' (sense 1): Tasmanian: ca. 1850–80. Morris.

cockatoo's weather. Weather that is fine by day and wet at night; also, fine on weekdays but wet on Sunday: Aus. coll.: since ca. 1925. B., 1943.

cockatrice. A harlot; a kept woman: late C.16–18: coll. Ben Jonson in Cynthia's Revels; Marston in his most famous work, The Malcontent: 'No courtier but has his mistress, no captain but has his cockatrice'; Taylor, 1630; Killigrew.—2. A baby: coll.: C.18–19. Resp. ex the fascination of the fabulous monster's eye, and the egg from which it was fabulously hatched.

cockchafer. See cock-chafer.

cocked-hat. An error in reckoning: RN, and hence RAF, navigators' coll., verging on j.: C.20: Granville, 'When pencilling a course on a chart, instead of the lines meeting, they cross and form a "cocked-hat"'.—2. A Lord Mayor; a State Governor: Aus.: C.20. (Baker.) Ex hat worn on official occasions.—3. In knock into a cocked hat, to damage very considerably (things, persons, and fig.): coll.; from ca. 1850. Orig. (1833: Thornton), US. An officer's cocked hat could be doubled up and carried flat. By late C.20, other violent verbs could occ. be substituted for knock: e.g., beat, smash, trounce, etc.

cocked-hat club. 'The principal clique amongst the members of the Society of Antiquaries.' At their meetings, a cocked hat lies before the president: ca. 1860–90. H., 3rd ed.

cocker. A foreman: tailors' form ca. 1860.—2. A coll. Cockney term of address, dating from ca. 1870; ob. (Rook.) An extension (influenced by cocky, 3) of S.E. cocker, a supporter of cock-fighting.—3. A cockroach: Aus.: late C.19–20. (Ruth Park, A Power of Roses, 1953.) But also widespread nautical, as in Elleston Trevor, Gale Force, 1956.—4. See according to . . .

cockerel. The penis: mid-C.17—early 18. (Pepys, 7 Feb. 1669.) Prompted by S.E. cock.

cockermen. See cock and hen, n., 3.

cockers-p. A cocktail party: middle-class young women: early 1980s. (Simon Hoggart, New Society, 10 Mar. 1983, p.384.) Yet another revival of the 'OXFORD -ERS'.

cockie, n. See cocky.

cockies' joy. Treacle: Aus.: late C.19–20. See cocky, 5. cockily. In a cocky manner: coll.; from ca. 1860.

cockiness. Conceit; undue self-assertion: coll.: from early 1860s.

cocking. Pert; impudent: ca. 1670–1830; coll. The Spectator, 1711, 'The cocking young fellow'.

cocking a chest like a half-pay admiral. Putting on 'side': RN: late C.19–20. Bowen. Cf. cock a chest.

cocking-up. See cock-up.

cockish. 'Wanton, uppish, forward' (B.E.): C.16–20: coll. > S.E. ca. 1800. As = 'lecherous' it is applied gen. to women and, except in dial., it > ob. by 1860.

cockle. Short for:- cockle-and-hen. A deformation (conscious?) of cock-and-hen, 1–3.

cockle to a penny, a. 10 to 1 the field: racing: since ca. 1920. Cockle = cock (and hen), 10; and penny = penny bun, 1. Rhyming s.

cockles. (Always in pl.) Labia minora: low coll.: C.18–20. Play at hot cockles—see Northall's English Folk Rhymes—is, in addition to its S.E. sense, to tickle a woman's private parts: low coll.: C.18—early 20. Cf. handful of sprats.

cockles of the heart, rejoice, warm, tickle the. To please mightily, cheer up: coll.; from ca. 1669. Eachard, in his Observations, 1671, 'This contrivance of his did inwardly rejoice the cockles of his heart.' The SOD mentions the proposed derivation ex the similarity of a heart to a cockle-shell and that ex cardium, the zoological name for a cockle; F. & H. refers to Lower's once famous Tractatus de Corde (A Treatise of the Heart), 1669, where the term cochlea is found. The first is the likeliest.

cockloche. (Apparently =) a foolish coxcomb: C.17. ?ex Fr. coqueluche.

cockney or Cockney, n. and adj. (One) born in the city of London: since ca. 1600: coll. till ca. 1830 and nearly always pej. Orig. and until ca. 1870, 'born within the sound of Bow-bell' (B.E.). Ex cockney = a milksop, earlier a cockered, i.e. pampered, child, a sense that developed from (?) cock's eggs, small eggs. The full history of this fascinating word has not yet been written, but see esp. OED, Sir James Murray in The Academy, 10 May 1890; also W. and Grose, P. For an account of Cockney 'dialect', see Slang, pp. 149–59., and, esp., Muvver.—2. Hence 'Western Region staff name for Midland Region lines and trains, in South Wales. Also Eastern Region term for North London train crews' (Railway, 2nd): railwaymen's: C.20.

Cockney's luxury. Breakfast in bed and defecation in a chamber-pot; in the truly Cockney idiom, breakfast in bed and a shit in the pot, which is often added to—indeed, constitutes the orig. form of—the c.p.: late C.19–20. Dating from the days of backyard privies.

Cockney-shire. London. coll.: C.19–early 20.

cocko. In address, a var. of (my old) cock, and cocker, 2, q.v.: Cockney and Services': since ca. 1920. Gerald Kersh, The Nine Lives of Bill Nelson, 1942.

Cockoolu. In Mounseer Cockoolu, a Frenchman. See mounseer.

cockpit mess. Eating one's meals in the cockpit with a marine sentry at hand—a punishment in the old training ship Britannia: RN: late C.19–early 20. Bowen.

cockroach. A very small pearl-fishing boat: pearl-fishers': early C.20. Alex. Macdonald, In the Land of Pearl and Gold, 1907.—2. A motor coach: rhyming s.: since ca. 1946. Franklyn, Rhyming.

cockroach-crusher. A policeman, or RN police: var. of crusher, 1 and 4.

cockroaches. In the phrase box the Jesuit..., q.v., to masturbate.

cocks. (In trade, applied to) anything fictitious: ca. 1860–1910. Ex cock, n., 6.—2. Hence, esp., concoctions: pharmacutists':—1909 (Ware).—3. At Charterhouse (school), a gen. lavatory: from ca. 1860; ob. Ex the taps over the wash-bowls. See esp. A.H. Tod, Charterhouse, 1900.

cock's egg, give one a. To send on a fool's errand, esp. on April the First. Coll.: rare before C.19, and ob. in C.20. Cf. pigeon's milk, strap oil, and see All Fools' Day in Words!

cock's eggs. A cock's droppings: poultry-keepers': C.20.

Cockshire. See cock-alley.

cocksy, coxy. Pert; impudent; bumptious; 1825: (mostly schoolboys') coll.; in C.20 S.E. Ex cocky after trickys'. For second spelling, cf. coxcomb ex cock's-comb.

cocksy fuss. 'Billing and cooing' (Sinks): ca. 1825–80. In Sinks it is spelt coxy.

cocktail. See cock-tail.

cocktail route, be on the. To be drinking excessively: Society: ca. 1934–40. Horace Annesley Vachell, Quinney's for Quality, 1938.

cockwood. 'Firewood "stolen" from work. Scots use pussy-wood' (W. Forster, ed., Pit-Talk, ca. 1970: coal miners'.

cocky, n. An endearment: coll.: from ca. 1680; ob., except among Can. and Cockneys.—2. A low coll. form of address, ex cock, and influenced by sense 1. An early example is in Sessions, 8th session of 1735: "Never fear, Cocky," says the prisoner; and as a nickname in Sessions, 1736.—3. Abbr. of cockatoo, n., 1, q.v., a small farmer in Aus.; used also in NZ. An early example is in A. Bathgate, Colonial Experiences, 1874; very gen., often non-pej., in C.20.—4. Abbr. of cockatoo, n., 2, a criminals' look-out man: Aus. c.: C.20. B., 1942.—5. The bird cockatoo itself: Aus. coll.: mid-C.19–20.—6. 'A sheep which has lost some of its wool' (B., 1959): C.20. Cf. parrot and rosella.

cocky, v. To farm: Aus.: C.20. Kylie Tennant, The Battlers, 1941, 'A job "cockying" for one of her uncles.' Ex the n., 3.

cocky, adj. Very pert; saucily impudent; over-confident:—1768: coll. Cf. cocking. Thomas Hughes, Tom Brown's School-Days, 1857, 'It seems so cocky in me to be advising'. The C.20 form would be 'cocky of me'.—2. Brisk, active, as applied to the money market: Stock Exchange: ca. 1860–1910.—3. Of, for, like small farmers, hence, rural: Aus.: hence NZ: C.20. E.g., 'cocky roads', rough dirt roads.

Cocky Bob. A storm or whirlwind. See cock-eyed Bob.

cockylorum. See cockalorum.

cockyolly bird. Dear little bird: nursery and pet term (coll.): from ca. 1830.—2. An Aus. trooper: during the S. African War, 1900–2. Ex the feathers in his slouch-hat. Cf. the Punch cartoon, 1917, depicting two old Cockney women watching a 'Digger': "How do you know he's an Australian?"—"Cos of the kangaroo fevers in 'is 'at!'" cocky's clip. Close-shearing: Aus.: C.20. B., 1942.—2. A (sheep) dip: Aus. rhyming s.: since ca. 1920. B., 1945.

cocky's coal. 'Corncobs used as fuel for a fire' (B., 1959): Aus.: C.20. By 1959, rare.

cocky's crow. Dawn: Aus.: C.20. (Baker.) As in 'We have to be up at cocky's crow'. Ex S.E. cock's crow.

cocky's joy. Treacle. See cockies' joy.

cocky's string. Fencing wire: Aus.: C.20. (B., 1943.) 'Because, on farms, fencing wire is used to repair things' (B.P.).

coco-nut (here, as in S.E., erroneously cocoo-nut); sol., cocker-nut. The head: mainly boxing: from ca. 1830. Ainsworth. Cf. boco, q.v., and US coco(a).—2. (As coconut.) 'Coconut is the Southall term for Uncle Tom [q.v.]: coconuts are brown outside, white inside' (Ian Walker, in New Society, 24 Sep. 1981, p. 515): London coloured people, (?) esp. Sikh youngsters. See swing coco-nuts...

coco-nut shy. An amusement (and its means) consisting in throwing balls at coco-nuts: 1903 (SOD): coll. >, ca. 1920, S.E.

cocoa for coco dates from an error in Johnson's Dict.; moreover, as used for the earlier cacao, cocoa was orig. (C.18) erroneous. W.—2. A schoolboys' perversion of toko, q.v.: late C.19–early 20. Ware.—3. (Also coco.) The head: 1828 (George Godfrey, History of George Godfrey). Ex coco-nut.

cocoa, n. Semen. See come (one's) cocoa, also used fig.

cocoa, v. To say; say so: rhyming s.: C.20; orig. prob. c. as in Gilt Kid; by ca. 1945 no longer so, and by 1965, very common, esp. in the derisive 'I should cocoa!' See coffee and cocoa.

Cocoa Press, the. The Daily News, and other newspapers owned by Messrs Cadbury (chocolate manufacturers): journalists': early C.20 (Maisie Ward, G.K. Chesterton, 1944.) P.B.: this may have been Chesterton's own coining: in his 'Song of Right and Wrong' are the splendidly prejudiced lines 'Cocoa is a cad and a coward/Cocoa is a vulgar beast/Cocoa is a dull, disloyal/Lying, crawling cad and clown...'

cocum(-am), cokum, kocum. Ability, shrewdness, cleverness; that which is seemly, right, correct; luck, advantage: rather low:—1851. Mayhew in London Labour; The Flippity Flop Young Man', a ballad, ca. 1886.—2. A sliding scale of profit: publishers', ca. 1870–1914. Ex Yiddish c. kochem, wisdom. Cf. fight cocum, q.v.

coconut. See coco-nut.

cod. The scrotum: from M.E.; S.E., but in C.19–20 a vulg. Ex O.E., M.E., S.E. and dial. sense, a pod.—2. In pl, a sol. for testicles: also from M.E.—3. In c., a purse; whence cod of money = a large sum: late C.17–early 19. B.E.—4. A fool: from ca. 1690; ob. Perhaps ex cod's head, also a fool: B.E. has both. Sinks, 1848, defines this sense as 'haughty meddling fool'.—5. A friend, a 'pal': from—1690, B.E. giving 'an honest Cod, a trusty Friend'. Abbr. codlin(g), says F. & H. with reason.—6. (Often as codd) a pensioner of the Charterhouse: Charterhouse, ca. 1820–1905. (Thackeray in The Newcomes.) Perhaps ex codger.—7. A drunkard; a drinking bout: tailors':—1909 (Ware). Cf. n., 4, and cod, v., 2.—8. A foreman: builders': late C.19–20. Cf. coddy.

cod, v. To chaff; hoax; humbug; play the fool: v.t. and i.: from ca. 1870. (H., 5th ed.) See quot'n. at fav. Ex cod, n., 4.—2. To go on a drinking or a womanising spree: tailors'; from ca. 1870; ob. by 1930. Hence on the cod, drinking heavily: id.—3. To cheat: c.: C.18. ?Orig. of 1.

cod, adj. Burlesque; esp. cod acting, as in acting a Victorian melodrama as though it were a post-1918 farce or burlesque: actors': from ca. 1890. Since ca. 1965, it has been used coll. for 'pretence, or mock', e.g., cod German, cod Russian. (L.A., 1976.) Both nuances ex the v., 1.

cod and six. Fish and chips: since late 1950s. Cod is a commonly sold fish, and, once upon a time, one could get a generous helping of chips for sixpence (2½ new pence).

cod-banger. A gorgeously arrayed sailor: Billingsgate: —1909 (Ware). Cod are banged on the head when wanted for market.

cod-hauler. A ship, or a man, from Newfoundland: nautical: mid-C.19–20. (Bowen.) Ex the fisheries there.

cod-heids. Boots (or shoes) burst at the toes: Glasgow proletarian: —1934.

cod(-)piece. 'In the latter half of the First World War it became a common practice with the front-line infantry to wear the entrenching tool in the leather cover across the front of the body, so as to protect the private parts . . . Some of us called it the "cod piece", from the ornamental piece of clothing worn thus when men wore very tight hose' (Petch, 1966).

cod-piece or collar?, do they bite in the (with slight variations). 'A jocular attack on a patient angler by watermen, &c.' (Grose, 1st ed.): a mid-C.18–early 19 c.p. Cod(-)piece: fore-flap of a man's breeches, C.16–18.

Cod Preserves, the. The Atlantic Ocean: nautical: from ca. 1840; ob. P.B.: perhaps a pun on 'God preserve us'.

Cod War, the. A journalistic term for the considerable friction between Brit. and Icelandic fishermen over fishing rights off Iceland in the 1970s; RN vessels were involved, on protection duties. The solution to the problem gave journalists the opportunity to use the punning cod-peace.

cod-whanger. A man engaged in fish-curing in Newfoundland: nautical: late C.19–20. (Bowen.) Cf. cod-hauler.

codd. A pensioner of the Charterhouse. See cod, n., 6.

coddam, coddem, coddom. A public-house and extremely elementary guessing-game played with a coin or a button: from ca. 1880; coll. I.e. cod 'em.

codder. One very fond of hoaxing or chaffing: from ca. 1860. Ex cod, v., 1.

codding, vbl n. Chaff, humbug; fooling,; nonsense: from ca. 1860.

coddle. One who is coddled or who coddles himself: coll., (—1830, when used by) Miss Mitford in Our Village. OED.

coddom. See coddam.

coddy. 'A temporary foreman over a stevedore's employees': nautical: late C.19–20. (Bowen.) He 'cods' 'em along.—2. Hence, also a builder's foreman: builders': C.20.

coddy-moddy. A young gull: nautical: mid-C.19–20. Bowen.

code two. An escape from prison: Can. c.: since ca. 1950. A. Schroeder, Shaking it Rough, 1976.

codge, n. and v. (To) repair; tailors': since (?)mid-C.19, prob. much earlier in dial. Perhaps a perversion of badgel botch. Cf. codging job.

codger; occ. coger. (Whimsically pej. of) an old man: low coll.: 1756. Gen. with old, as in Colman's Polly Honeycomb, 'A clear coast, I find. The old codger's gone, and has locked me up with his daughter'; Smollett; Barham.—2. During the approximate period 1830–1900, it occ. = a fellow, a chap. (Dickens.) ?ex cadger.

codging job. A garment to repair: tailors': from ca. 1870. (B. & L.) Cf. codge.

Codi. A codeine tablet: since late 1950s. Roderic Jeffries, A Traitor's Crime, 1968.

codling. A raw youth: ca. 1600–1750; coll. In late C.18–early 19 (cf. C.19–20 ob. pippin), a familiar term of address; an endearment.

codocity. Gullibility: printers': 1874; ob. Ware. Ex cod, n., and v., 1. Cf.:

codology. The practice of chaffing and humbugging: Anglo-Irish: since ca. 1910. Alan Smith, letter, 1939.

Codrington's Manors; Mostyn's Hunting District; Somerset Range. The three packs of hounds contiguous to Oxford': Oxford University: ca. 1820–40. Egan's Grose.

cods. Testicles. See cod, n., 2.—2. (Cf. ballocks, q.v.) A curate: mid-C.18–early 19 low. (Grose, 1st ed.) Often as cods the curate.—3. Bookseller, 4 Nov. 1871: 'The Cods and Hooks were the Whigs and Tories of Dutch William's land.'—4. With var. cod's; a mid-C.16–early 18 perversion or corruption of God's.

cod's eyes and bath-water. Tapioca pudding: Charterhouse: C.20.

cod's-head. A fool: ca. 1560–1850. (Dunton in his ironically titled Ladies' Dict., 1694.) In mid-C.19–20 (ob.), as cod's-head and shoulders. Both forms are coll. Perhaps the source of cod = a fool.

cod's head and mackerel tail (, with). A sailing ship with the greatest beam well forward: nautical: mid-C.19–20; ob. Bowen.

cod's opera. A smoking concert: tailors': C.20. Perhaps a euph. for sods' opera, q.v., although a derivation from cod, adj., is equally likely.

cod's(-)wallop. Drivel, utter nonsense: C.20; orig. low, but by 1930 gen. With the phrase a load of (old) cod's wallop, a lot of nonsense, compare the synon. a load of (old) cobblers, a lot of utter nonsense (balls). The testicular parallel of cods and balls may, of course, be accidental: but is it? Note also that there is a derivative var., as in 'It's all cods' wallops', as if it were euph. for cod's ballocks. In S.E. cod = scrotum, and, loosely, cods = testicles: cods therefore may have suggested ballocks, with cods-wallops a tautologism, hence cod's (or cods') wallop.

coe. An occ. shortening of cofe or cove, q.v.

coey. A thing; any object; market-traders': C.20. (M.T.) Etym.? cofe. An early var. of cove, q.v. (E.g. in B.E.) Likewise coff: C.16.

coffee-and-b. Coffee and brandy: night-taverns': 1880; ob. Ware.

coffee and cocoa; often reduced to cocoa. To say so: rhyming s.: C.20. The longer form is occasionally varied to tea and cocoa. (Franklyn, Rhyming.) See also cocoa.

coffee-bar Casanova. A dashing frequenter of coffee bars, one who seeks stimulation in coffee, dialectic, amour: since ca. 1955. Nina Epton, Love and the English, 1960.

coffee-colour. (Applied to persons) of mixed parentage: Anglo-Indian coll.:—1886 (Y. & B.). cf. blackie-white.

coffee-grinder. A pedestal winch: Aus.: since ca. 1945. Ex appearance. (B.P.) coffee-house, n. The puđendum muliebrem: low: late C.18–19. Ex the popularity of coffee-houses in late C.17–18.—2. A water-closet (var. coffee-shop): late C.18–20, ob. Grose, 3rd ed.

coffee-house, -houser, -housing. To gossip during a fox-hunt, esp. while the huntsmen wait for hounds to draw a covert; one who does this; the act of doing this: sporting: from ca. 1875. Hawley Smart, in Play or Pay, ch. iv, 1878, speaking of horses: 'A hack, just good enough to do a bit of coffee-housing occasionally'. F. & H.; OED Sup.

coffee-mill. The mouth: ca. 1800–70. Moncrieff, 'Come, come, silence your coffee-mill.'—2. A marine engine: nautical: late C.19–20. (Bowen.) Cf. sewing-machine. See also grinder, 4.

coffee-milling, vbl n. 'Grinding', working hard. Dickens, 1837. Aytoun & Martin's 'coffee-milling care and sorrow' illustrates c.-m. as a v., to thumb one's nose at. Both ca. 1830–1900.

coffee-pot. One of the former small tank-engines of the Midland Railway: railwaymen's: late C.19–20; ob.—2. 'That part of a barrage balloon winch from which the cable emerges' (Jackson): Balloon Barrage s.: WW2. Ex its shape.

coffee royal. The first mug of coffee in the morning under sail': nautical: late C.19–20. Bowen.

Coffee Ship, the. HMS Raleigh: naval: early C.19. Captain Tryon, who perished in the Victoria, established a canteen on board. Bowen.

coffee-shop. A privy. See coffee-house, n., 2.—2. A coffin: proletarian: from ca. 1880; ob. B. & L.

coffee stall. A landing-craft kitchen, supplying meals to small craft off the Normandy beaches: nautical: 1944.

coffee stalls. Testicles: C.20. Rhyming on balls and much less used than orchestra stalls or orchestras. Franklyn 2nd.

coffee swindle. See swindle, n., 4.

coffin. Var. of cuffin, q.v. at cuff, 1, an old chap, fellow. Randle Holmes.—2. A serviceable but unreliable aircraft: RAF: since ca. 1915. Jackson.—3. That posture in surf-board riding which consists in the surfer's lying flat on his back, with arms folded on chest: Aus. surfers': since ca. 1960. (Pix, 28 Sep. 1963.) Like a corpse in its coffin.—4. Hence, by extension, the same posture in skateboarding: late 1970s. (P.B.)—5. As the coffin, a large box wherein, under a tarpaulin, an outcast may sleep: gen. price, fourpence: c.: post-WW1. Orwell.

coffin-brig. An overweighted 10-gun brig: naval: early C.19.—2. Hence, any unseaworthy vessel: mid-C.19—early 20. Likewise, Bowen.

Coffin Company, the. A certain English insurance society: Cockneys': from ca. 1920. Ex the very large number of assurance policies taken out with it to ensure decent burial.

coffin-nail. A cigarette: from ca. 1885; in WW1 and after, occ. nail. Often in form of c.p., another nail in one's coffin. Cf. gasper.

coffins. The Funeral Furnishing Company's shares: ca. 1880–1915: Stock Exchange.

cog, n. Money; esp. a piece of money: C.16—mid-18 c., mostly gamesters'.

cog, v. To cheat, wheedle; beg: C.16—mid-19. Orig. either dicing s. or gen. coll.: cf. B.E.'s cog a dinner, 'to wheedle a Spark out of a dinner'. The SOD, like the OED, considers wholly S.E. Perhaps ex cog, a wheel.—2. Hence, v.i., to cheat by copying from another: Scottish Public Schools': mid-C.19—early 20. It was extant, at least as late as 1938, in this sense at Cotton College (Cottonian, autumn 1938); and among Liverpool University students for any form of cheating, as Marples records in 1930.—3. V.i., to agree well with another, as cog with cog: C.19: coll.—4. Hence, perhaps, Aus. low for 'to understand': C.20. B., 1942.—5. 'In school slang, to chastise by sundry bumpings or "coggings" on the posteriors for delinquencies at certain games' (EDD, 1898.).—6. As cog up (or down), to change gear: motorcyclists' coll.: since ca. 1950. (Dunford.)

cog box, the gear box; cog swapper, the gear-change pedal or lever; and cog stick, 'as in "knock (or kick) out the cog stick", to 'coast in neutral gear', are all motorcyclists' coll. since mid-C.20 (? earlier), as Douglas Dunford of the Beaulieu Motor Museum informs me, 1979. (P.B.) cog over. To crib from another's book: schoolboys', C.19. Cf. cog, v., 2.

cogger. See codger.

cogey. See coguy.

coggage; coggidge; coggish. Paper; writing paper; a newspaper; any 'bumf': army coll.: mid-C.19—mid-20. (F. & G.) Ex Hindustani kaghaz.

coggling, the coggling of dice, may orig. (—1532) have been c. or low s. G. Harvey in Four Letters.

cogy. A nightwatchman: training ships': latish C.19—early 20. (Peppitt's information from J.R. Watt, TS Indefatigable, 1909.)

cogman. A beggar pretending to be a shipwrecked sailor: c.: C.19. Bowen.

cogue (occ. cog) the nose. To take, hot, a good strong drink:

nautical; C.19–20; ob. Ex cogue, to drink brandy, drink drams.

coguy. Drunk: ca. 1820–60. (Bee.) Ex cogue, a dram. It is recorded in Staffordshire dial., as copy, in 1816 (EDD). Franklyn has it in 1737.

coigne. Money: printers'—1909. Ware, 'A play upon coin and coigne or coin, or quoin, a wedge'.

coil up (one's) cables or ropes. To die: nautical: mid-C.19–20. (Bowen; F. & G.) Ex slip one's cable.

coiler. A dead-beat that sleeps in parks and on wharves: low Aus.: C.20. (B., 1942.) He just coils up and goes off to sleep.

coin it (in). To make money, esp. quickly, as 'They had a stall in Cutler Street—fairly coining it in, they were!': coll.: C.20. Ex:-

coin money. To make money both easily and quickly: from ca. 1860: coll. Cf.:-

coiny. Rich: coll.: from ca. 1890. Cf. prec. and tinny. OED Sup.

coiny cove. A man in funds: Aus. low: since ca. 1920 (B., 1942.) Cf.:-

coiny-moneyed. Well-off: since ca. 1920. Cf. prec.

coit. See quoit.

coke. Cocaine: c. and low; orig. US (ca. 1910), anglicised ca. 1920. Esp. in Edgar Wallace's novels. Hence, cokey, a cocaine-addict: anglicised, as c., ca. 1920. John G. Brandon, The One-Minute Murder, 1934.—2. (A drink of) Coca-Cola: adopted, ca. 1930, ex US: s. until ca. 1950, then coll.—3. Hence any soft drink: soft drinks in gen.: Can.: since ca. 1935. Evening News, 9 Jan. 1940.

Coke upon Littleton. A mixed drink of brandy and text (a red Spanish wine): ca. 1740–1800. Ex the famous legal text-book. (OED.)

coker. A lie: ca. 1670–1830; c. > low s. Coles, 1676; B.E.; Grose (= caulker, q.v.). Cf. caulker, corker: undetermined cognates.

coker-nut. See coco-nut.—2. In pl, 'Well-developed feminine breasts': low London:—1909 (Ware).

cokes. A fool, a simpleton: ca. 1560–1700. B.E. indicates that the term was first used at Bartholomew Fair and in plays; it is almost certainly (despite OED) either s. or coll., orig. at least. Perhaps ex cockney.—2. An eating-house: Liverpool: late C.19–20. Ex cocoa. (Frank Shaw.)

cokey. See coke, n.

coikum. An occ. var. of cocum, q.v.

col. A Parlyaree form of cole, or coal, money: see cole.

colcher; occ. colsher. A heavy fall; esp. come a colcher: dial. (—1888) >, by 1893, coll. (OED.) Ex dial. colch, colsh, a fall.

Colchester clock. A large, coarse oyster: from ca. 1850; ob. A Londonism.

colco pari? How much, what price?: among British soldiers on the Salonika Front: 1915–18. Direct ex Bulgarian. F. & G.

cold, n. In have a bad cold, to be in debt; a very bad cold indicates a rent-unpaid departure: mostly a Londonism: ca. 1850–1920.—2. In have a bad cold, to have gonorrhoea: gen. low: C.19–20.—3. In in the cold, imprisoned, in gaol: Aus.: since ca. 1910. B., 1942.

cold, adj. Ignorant: from ca. 1920. Will Scott, in The Humorist, 10 Feb. 1934, 'You don't want to start cold.' Ex the disadvantage implied in have (got) someone cold, to have him at one's mercy or badly beaten: C.20: prob. ex US. P.B.: since mid-C.20 start cold implies an internal combustion or other engine; out of context, E.P.'s chosen quot'n may well refer to that.

cold biting. 'A straight-out request by a tramp or dead-beat for money' (B., 1941): Aus. and NZ c.: since ca. 1920. Cold here = cool = cheeky; cf. cold pigging. But cf. cold-canvass, q.v.

cold blood. A house with an off-licence only: from ca. 1858 (ob.): licensed victuallers' and public-houses'. H., 2nd ed.

cold-blooded. (Of a person) having a slow circulation: coll.:—1893 (OED).

cold blow. A taxi-rank, esp. in windy weather. Specifically, the Cold Blow is Euston taxi-drivers': C.20 (Evening News, 20 Jan. 1936). But cf. Rat's Hole, where the Cold Blow is given as St Pancras.

cold burning. A private punishment by the pouring of water down a man's upraised arm so that it comes out at his breeches-knees: mid-C.18—early 19; military (rank and file). Grose, 1st ed.

cold-canvas. 'Breaking in with just your visiting-card. Best thing to do is to use your intros. first, and leave the cold-canvas until you've found your feet' (Michael Harrison in Springs in Tartarus, 1935): insurance s. verging on coll.: C.20. Cf. cold biting, q.v.

cold coffee. A hoax: Oxford University, ca. 1860–1910. (H., 3rd ed.) Because cold coffee is, except in very hot weather, a poor drink.—2. Bad luck; misfortune: from ca. 1860; ob. (H., 3rd ed.) Var., cold gruel.—3. A snub or other unkindness in return for a proffered kindness: nautical, then gen.: from ca. 1870; ob. H., 5th ed.—4. Beer: artisans': ca. 1870; ob. H., 5th ed.—5. Beer: artisans': ca. 1874–1920. Ware.

cold comfort. Articles that, sent out on sale or return, or on approval, are returned: tradesmen's: from ca. 1870.

cold cook. An undertaker: from the 1720s. Grose, 1785; H., 1860. Whence:— cold cook's shop or cookshop. An undertaker's premises: from ca. 1830.

cold cream. Gin: from ca. 1860. (The Comic Almanack, 1864.) Cf. cream of the valley.

Cold Creams, the. The Coldstream Guards: military:—1909 (Ware).

cold enough to freeze the balls off a brass monkey. Exceedingly cold: low coll.: late C.19–20. It may have orig. in Aus., but a plausible nautical explanation has also been offered. Brass-monkey weather is a natural derivative. In Musings, 1912, p. 68, occurs the var. whiskers off... See entry in DCpp. and cf:—

cold enough to make a Jew drop his bundle. An army var. (C.20; ob. by 1945) of prec.

cold feet, get or have (got). To become, to be, discouraged, afraid: coll.:—1904 (OED Sup). The US cold-footer has not 'caught on' in England.—2. Simply as cold feet. Trench fever: army in WW1, 1915 onwards. Not very gen.—I never heard it, even though I had it in 1918 [and E.P. suffered from it intermittently for the rest of his life. P.B.J.]. Recorded in R.H. Mottram, The Spanish Farm Trilogy, 1924.

cold four. Inferior beer (four ale): public-houses':—1909 (Ware).

cold iron. A sword: ca. 1650–1800: coll. Moe cites an early example in Abraham Bailey, The Spightful Sister, 1667, at I, i. B.E. adds, 'Derisory Periphrasis'. Cf. cold steel.

cold meat. A corpse: from ca. 1780. (Grose, 2nd ed.); Moore, in 1819, 'Cold meat for the Crowner'.

cold-meat box. A coffin: from ca. 1820. E. Sue, The Mysteries of Paris, vol. I, trans. anon., 1845.

cold-meat cart. A hearse: ?earlier than 'Peter Corcoran' Reynolds in The Fancy, 1820.

cold-meat job. A case involving a corpse: police: late C.19–20. Free-Lance Writer, April 1948.

cold-meat ticket. An identity disc: military: WW1. (B. & P.; F. & G.) Because it served to identify the corpse.

cold-meat train. Any train plying to a cemetery: from ca. 1860.—2. Also, however, the last train by which officers can return to Aldershot in time for their morning duties: from ca. 1870. (H., 5th ed.; R. M. Jephson in The Girl He Left Behind Him, 1876.) Properly a goods train, it pulled one ad hoc carriage, called the larky subaltern, or the larky subaltern's coach.

cold muffin. Mediocre; (almost) worthless: Cockney: ca. 1890–1910. Milliken.

cold north-wester. A bucket of sea-water poured over a new hand, by way of initiation: sailing ships'; mid-C.19–20; ob. Bowen.

cold pickles. A corpse: medical students'; from ca. 1840.

cold pie (pye). See choking pie.

cold pig, n. Goods returned from on sale: ca. 1820–80. Bee.—2. Hence, the 'empties', i.e., empty packing-cases, returned by rail to wholesale houses: commercial travellers': ca. 1870–1920.—3. A corpse: medical and c.: mid-C.19.—4. A person robbed of his clothes: c.: from ca. 1850.—5. In give cold pig, to awaken by sluicing with cold water or by pulling off the bed-clothes: s. passing to coll. (Grose, 2nd ed.; J.R. Planché; Thackeray.) From ca. 1750 in this form (now ob.); but from ca. 1600–1750, the form is give a cold pie: see choking pie.

cold pig, v. Synon. with n., 5: coll.: from ca. 1830.—2. See: cold-pigging. 'The practice of hawking goods from door to door' (B., 1942): Aus. and NZ: C.20. Here cold = cool = cheeky; cf. cold biting. P.B.: or does it mean 'starting from cold', as an engine?

cold potato (pron. potater). A waiter: theatrical rhyming s.: C.20. Franklyn, Rhyming.

cold shivers, the. A fit of trembling: coll.; from ca. 1840. cold shoulder of mutton. A mid-Victorian s. var. of the S.E. cold shoulder in its fig. sense.

cold steel. A bayonet, Army: since ca. 1930. (H. & P.) With ironic humour ex journalistic to use cold steel, make a bayonet charge.

cold storage. Cells; prison: low and military: C.20. B. & P. cold tea. Brandy: a coll. of ca. 1690–1910. B.E. (Esp. among women.) Also see tea.

cold tongue. A senior's lecture or long reprimand: RN: ca. 1840–1900. Bowen.

cold turkey. Door-to-door selling; travelling salesmen's, mostly Can.: since ca. 1930. Ex a probably apocryphal story. (Leechman.) Cf. cold-pigging.—2. Intense withdrawal discomfort and pains resulting from cessation of drugs; the treatment involved: adopted, late 1950s, ex US. Sometimes used joc. of someone trying to give up any habit, e.g., eating sweets, or smoking.

cold-water army. The generality of teetotalers: coll.: from ca. 1870; ob. Cf. water-wagon.

cold without. Spirits mixed with cold water without sugar: coll.; from ca. 1820. Barham; Bulwer Lytton, 1853, 'I laugh at fame. Fame, sir! not worth a glass of cold without.'

colder than a witch's tit. Extremely unfriendly: Can.: later C.20. (Leech, 1981.)

Coldstreamers. The Coldstream Guards: from ca. 1670: coll. verging on S.E. (OED Sup.) Cf. Nulli Secundus Club, q.v., and Coleys.

cole, much more frequent than coal, though the latter (money = coal = the fuel of life) is prob. correct, is money collectively; there is no pl. From ca., 1660; it was c. until ca. 1730; in C.20 rarely used except among Cockneys and soldiers, and at no time has it been applied to 'futures' such as bills, promissory notes, bonds. In Abraham Bailey, The Spightful Sister, 1667, at III,i (Moe); Grose. (For alternative etymologies, see coliander and cf. cabbage, n., 1, for cole = cabbage; poss. ex foreigners' pron. of gold as göl.)

col. (gen. coal) up! They're paying out!; there's a pay-parade!; military: late C.19–20. (B. & P.) Ex cole.

Coleys, the. The Coldstream Guards. 'The band on the forage cap is white, providing one of the regiment's nicknames—'The Lilywhites', although this one is rarely used within the Brigade of Guards, to whom they are inevitably "Coleys"' (Carew): C.20.

colfabi(a)s. A water-closet at Trinity College, Dublin: from ca. 1820. Latinised Irish.

coliander or coriander (-seed or seeds). Money: c.: from ca. 1690. B.E.

Colinderies. The Colonial and Indian Exhibition held in London in 1886. A fairly gen. term. Current only in late 1886, 1887, and for a year or two later. Prob. suggested by the telegraphic address, Colind. Ware.

coll. A C.18 var. of cull: c. Harper, 1724, 'I Frisky Moll, with my rum coll.'—2. College: orig. undergraduates' s., since prob. mid-C.18; by mid-C.19 also schoolboys', esp. at schools with College in the title. It occurs in the Gentleman's Magazine, May 1784 (p. 366), in 'A Familiar Epistle, paraphrased from Horace'. (Moe).—3. By specialisation, college ale: 1726, Amherst; † by 1800. OED.

coll, adj. College, as in, e.g., coll-chap. See prec., 2.

collabo, n. and adj. A collaborator, esp. of French with Germans; in, e.g., 'collabo money': ca. 1940–5. June Drummond, The People in Glass House, 1969.

collah carriage. A railway carriage filled with women: nigger minstrels': ca. 1880–1900. Ware, 'Collah being Yiddish for young girls'.

collapse. To 'cave in'; suddenly lose courage: coll.: from ca. 1860.

collar, n. In in and out of collar, employed and unemployed: mostly Midland and southern N. Country, esp. Lancashire; not among professional men: mid-C.19—mid-20. Robert Roberts, A Ragged Schooling, 1976. Ex the stable; cf. collar-work, and the Aus. soft collar, an easy job: late C.19—earlier 20 (Wilkes).—2. See against the collar; collar and cuff.—3. In have (one's) collar felt or touched, to be arrested or stopped by the police: low (but also police s.):—1950 (Tempest); still current 1979 (Rev. K.R. Cracknell). Tempest, 'From the police habit of touching a man on the collar, or shoulder, when it is wished to interrogate him.'

collar, v. To appropriate; steal: 1700. Leman Rede in Sixteen-String Jack; Dickens in Bleak House.—2. To seize: from early C.17: coll. till ca. 1680, then S.E. though somewhat loose and undignified.

collar and cuff. An effeminate: c., and—esp. among grafters—low: from ca. 1920. Cheapjack. Rhyming s. on puff, n., 2. Often abbr. to collar.

collar and elbow, n. The Cronwall and Devon style of wrestling: coll.: from ca. 1820.

collar and tie. A lie: rhyming s.: C.20. Not very common. Franklyn, Rhyming.

collar-band pint. A short-measure pint. See cap-tally drink.

collar-day. Execution day: late C.18—early 19; low. Grose, 2nd ed. Ex the hangman's noose.

collar felt. See collar, n., 3.

collar (or get) the big bird. To be hissed: theatrical: from ca. 1840; ob. Cf. get the goose.

collar-work. Severe, laborious work: coll. from ca. 1870; in C.20, S.E. Ex an uphill pull—all collar work—for horses. collared. Unable to play one's normal game; 'funky': C.19–20, mostly gaming.

collared on, be. To be in love with: Aus.: ca. 1860–1914. Tom Collins', Such Is Life, 1903.

collared up. Kept hard at work, close to business: coll.; from ca. 1850; ob.

collarology. The discussion, by tailors, of coat-collars: tailors' joc. coll.: 1928 (Tailor and Cutter, 29 Nov.) Cf. shouldology, sleeveology.

colleckers, colleckers. Terminal examinations with interviews: Oxford, from ca. 1895. Ex collections.

collect, n. 'A gathering (in line) for an official purpose': Bootham School: late C.19–20. Bootham, 1925.

collect, v. To retrieve (objects) from a place: coll.: 1875. OED Sup.—2. Hence, to call for a person and then proceed with him: C.20 coll. 'I'll collect you at Selfridge's and we'll tea at the Corner House'.—3. V.i. and v.t., to receive (something as) one's deserts: Aus.:—1916 (C.J. Dennis).—4. To receive one's salary or wages: coll.: from ca. 1920.—5. 'To shoot down an aircraft. Thus "He was a sitting bird, I gave him a burst [of gun-fire] and collected"' (Jackson): RAF: WW2. collect a gong. To be awarded a decoration: Army and RAF officers': since ca. 1925. Partridge, 1945.

collector. A highwayman; occ., a footpad: late C.18—early 19. Grose, 1st ed.

Colleen Bawn. An erection: rhyming s., on horn: since ca. 1862. Franklyn, Rhyming.

college, n. A prison: this gen. sense arose ca. 1720, the orig. sense (C.17) being Newgate, as indeed it remained until ca.

1800, when, too, from c. the term > low s. 'Welcome to the college, gen'I'mem,' says Sam Weller in Dickens.—2. (Often prec. by New) the Royal Exchange: late C.17–18: c. B.E.—3. (Gen. the college.) The workhouse: poor people's: late C.19–20. Ware.—4. A C.17 term for a certain type of public house. See TAVERN TERMS, §3.—5. A brothel. See ladies' college.

college, v. To hit (a ball) high into the air: Cotton College: mid-C.19–20. 'The height of the High House from the sloping Bounds [at Sedgley Park] was probably the origin' (Frank Roberts in Cottonian, autumn 1938).

College Boys, the. 'With the departure of the RAF from South Africa, it is now nearly forgotten that they were christened "The Blue Orchids" (1941) and "The College Boys" (1942)' (Prof. W.S. Mackie in Cape Argus, 4 July 1946): blue uniform; orchids: good looks; College: so many had recently left University or Public School.

college chum, collegian, collegiate. The first, C.19 and not very gen.; the second, C.19–20, as in Dickens; the third, the commonest, from ca. 1660: the first and the third were c. before they > low s.: A prisoner (orig. of Newgate, the City College).—2. (Only collegiate.) A shopkeeper to a prison: c.: late C.17—early 19. B.E.; Grose.—3. College chum. An old acquaintance or companion: workers' facetious coll.: late C.19–20.

college-cove. A turnkey: c.:—1823 (Egan's Grose); † by 1890. Ex college, n., 1. college telegraph; often shortened to telegraph. A college servant given to telling tales: Oxford: 1815–60. Spy, 1825.

colleger. The square cap worn at universities: the mortar-board. University and Public School: from ca. 1880. Cf. the S.E. senses.

collegers. See *collecker*s.

collegian, collegiate. See college chum.

collek(k)ers. See *collecker*s.

Colletburo, the. 'Collet's International bookshop in Charing Cross Road, unkindly known as the "Colletburo" because of its Soviet affiliations...' (Time Out, 20 July 1979). By a pun on Poliburo. (P.B.)

colley or colly. Columbine: theatrical: from ca. 1860. B. & L. Colley thumper. A thumping good hand at cards: card-players': since 1881. In 1881, General Sir George Pomeroy Colley was defeated, and killed, by the Boers in the battle of Majuba Hill.

colli-mollie. Melancholy. See colly-molly.

Collie, -y. The Military Corrective Establishment at Colchester; detention therein, as 'and 'fore he knew where he was, he'd landed six months' Collie': army: since late 1940s. (P.B., 1974.)—2. As colly, a written var. of caulif-flower].

Collie Knox. The pox: rhyming s.: mid-C.20. (Red Daniells, 1980.) Cf. synon. Nervo and Knox, and Reverend Ronald Knox. collier's nag. A seaman born north of Yarmouth: RN: C.18 (Peppitt).

Collins. A letter of thanks sent by departed guest to hostess: 1904: coll. >, by 1930, S.E. Ex the Collins in Jane Austen's Pride and Prejudice. (OED Sup.) Cf. bread-and-butter.—2. A 'strong' drink; a 'long' drink; esp. Tom Collins, made with gin, and John Collins, q.v., made with rye whisky: since ca. 1860; by 1900, coll.

collogue. To confabulate: from ca. 1810 (Vaux, 1812; Scott, 1811): coll., perhaps whimsical. The earliest sense, to wheedle or flatter, v.i. and v.t., may possibly be coll.—it is hard to be dogmatic with C.16–17 words—as Nashe's and Rochester's usage and B.E.'s recording seem to indicate. ? ex Gr. λόγος, a word, influenced by colloque (or colloquy) and colleague.

colloquials. Familiar conversation: Society: ca. 1890–1910. Ware.

colly-molly; colli-mollie. Melancholy, of which it is a C.17 joc. perversion. (Nares.) Cf. solem(on)choly.

colly-wobbles. A stomach-ache: coll.; from ca. 1820. (Egan's Grose, 1823; 'Cuthbert Bede'.) Ex colic. Cf. the Aus. wobbles, a cattle-disease from eating palm-leaves.

colney. A match: rhyming s. on 'Colney Hatch' [see next]: C.20. James Curtis, You're in the Racket Too, 1937.

Colney Hatch for you! You're crazy!: a c.p. of ca. 1890–1914. Colney Hatch was the lunatic asylum for London, as Winick, q.v. at winnick, was for Lancashire.

colo. Cold: pidgin: mid-C.19–20. B. & L.

Colonel. A joc. form of address: Aus.: since ca. 1945. (B.P.)—2. As the Colonel, abbr. Colonel Bogey, q.v.: coll.: C.20.—3. See Colonel Prescott.

Colonel Barker; Colonel Barker's Own. A woman masquerading as a man; the Middlesex Regiment (a fighting term, so 'watch it'): since early 1930s. Ex the assumed name of a woman masquerader once prominent in the news.

Colonel Bogey; the Colonel. 'The number of strokes a good player may be reckoned to need for the course or for a hole' (OED Sup.): resp. golfers' s. (1893) >, by 1920, coll. >, by 1935, j.; and, hence, golfers' s. (1900) >, by 1925, coll. The former term is a personification of bogey, bugbear (of golfers).

Colonel of a regiment. See TAVERN TERMS, §6, in Appendix.

Colonel Peerless's Light Infantry. NZ soldiers working at the base at Etaples: NZ military: latter half of WW1. Ex Colonel Peerless, the medical officer in charge.

Colonel Prescott; often shortened to Colonel. A waistcoat: rhyming s.: since ca. 1930. Cf. Charley Prescott. The Colonel was a well-known sporting character.

colonel's cure, the. Cockney term of ca. 1870–1905, thus: 'I sent my yard-boy round for six-penn'orth o' physick, an' I took it all standing—one gulp, you know: what we useder call "the colonel's cure"' (A. Neil Lyons, Arthur's, 1908).

Colonial duck. 'A boned shoulder of mutton . . . stuffed with sage and onions' (B., 1942): C.20; rare by 1960. Contrastcolonial livery. A bloody nose and a black eye: Aus.: C.19. (B., 1943.) Cf. Botany Bay coat-of-arms.

Colonial goose. 'A boned leg of mutton stuffed with sage and onions': Aus.:—1898; ob. (Morris.) Ex predominance of mutton as bushman's diet.

colonial oath, my. A mild Aus. expletive, sometimes shortened to my colonial! See my colonial oath!

Colonials, the. One of the nicknames of the 100th Regt. of Foot, later (1881) The Prince of Wales's Leinster Regt (Royal Canadians): the battalion was raised in Can. in 1858, and the Leinsters were disbanded, with the other Southern Irish regiments, in 1922. Carew.

Colonies, the. Aus. and NZ: Merchant Service coll.: C.19–20; slightly ob. by 1930. Bowen.

colonist. A louse: ca. 1810–70. David Carey, Life in Paris, 1822. A neat pun.

colory. See coloury.

colour. A coloured handkerchief: sporting, chiefly boxing: from ca. 1840; ob. Adumbrated in Pierce Egan; Mayhew.—2. Any oil paint: builders' coll.: since ca. 1870.—3. A colour-sergeant, esp. in address: army coll.: late C.19–20. Patrick MacGill, The Amateur Army, 1915.—4. See raise the colour. colour-chest. A locker for signal-flags: naval coll.: C.19. Bowen.

colour (one's, or) the meerschbaum. To become red-faced through drink: from ca. 1850; †.

[coloured. In South Africa: Cape Coloured—i.e., [of] mixed blood and definitely not tribal Africans'. Roderick Thomson, 1976. He adds: 'Black: now the accepted word among "black-conscious" peoples in Africa, Caribbean and USA: Black power, "Black is beautiful", etc. Perhaps orig. coll., but, if so, almost immediately S.E.—and, I'd suppose, official.] coloured clothes. Civilian clothes: military coll. of ca. 1860–1914. B. & L.

coloured on the card. With a jockey's colours inserted on a specific-race card: racing; from ca. 1870; †.

coloury; occ. colory. Coloured; two-coloured: coll.; from ca. 1850. C. Brontë. (OED).—2. Hence of such colour as shows good quality: commercial coll.: from ca. 1880. Ibid.

colquarron. The neck: late C.17–early 19 c. (B.E.) Prob. Fr. col, neck + c. quarron, body.

colsher. See colcher.

colt, n. A barrister attending on a serjeant-at-law at his induction (1765): legal, †. SOD.—2. A life-preserver, a 'neddy' (q.v.): a weapon affected by thieves and law-keepers: c. and low; from ca. 1850.—3. In c., a man (esp. an inn-keeper) that hires horses to highwaymen, thieves or burglars (B.E.); also, 4, a lad newly initiated into roguery: late C.17–early 19.—5. One acting as a jurymen for the first time: ca. 1860–90. H., 3rd ed.—6. A professional cricketer in his first season: coll.; from ca. 1870. Ex young males of the horse family. In C.20, S.E.

colt, v. To make a newcomer pay his 'footing': late C.18–20; coll. Ex colt, a very old term for an inexperienced or a newly-arrived person. Whence the † coltage: such a fine.

colt veal. Very red veal: coll.: late C.17–early 19. (B.E.; Grose.) Because 'young', fresh.

colting. A thrashing: C.19 coll. Ex colt, to beat with a colt, which is S.E. colt's tooth, have a. To be fond of youthful pleasures; to be wanton: late C.14–19: coll. till ca. 1790, then S.E.; †. Chaucer; Greene, 1588; Fletcher (the dramatist); Walpole; Colman. Ex the lit. sense, one of a horse's first set of teeth. (Apperson.)

Columbine. A harlot: theatrical; from ca. 1845; ob. Ex Harlequin's mistress.

Columbus. A failure: theatrical; from ca. 1870; †.

column, dodge the. See dodge the column.

column-dodger. Ibid.

column of blobs (or lumps). Column of route: joc. army: from ca. 1899. (B. & P.) From 1915, the Can. army adopted the lumps version. Cf.:

column of muck-up (or fuck-up). Column of route: army: C.20. (Lewis Hastings, Dragons Are Extra, 1947.) On a long march it tends to tangle.

column snake. Single file: Army in Burma: 1942–5. 'An old Standard Ger. word (C.16, perhaps earlier) for an army on the march was "das Heerwurm"—lit., army-worm (or snake)' (R.S., 1967).

columns. 'Rows of words, written vertically from a dictionary, as a punishment': Bootham School coll.: late C.19–20. Bootham, 1925.

colondrum. A conundrum: music-halls' facetious: ca.1885–90. (E.P.) Perhaps an individual's mispronunciation that 'caught on': l and n are very easily interchanged. (P.B.)

com. A commercial traveller: businessmen's: late C.19. G.R. Sims in The Referee, 28 Dec. 1884 (Ware). Cf. rep.—2. A comedian: theatrical: late C.19. The Referee, 27 July 1887.—3.

(com or comb, more gen. com(b)s), and esp. combies, q.v. at combie, 2.) A woman's combination[-garment], (in C.20, combinations): C.20. George Baker, Ebenezer Walks with God, 1931.—4. Commission in the agential or ambassadorial, not the pecuniary, sense: sporting: from ca. 1860; ob. Reginald Herbert, When Diamonds Were Trumps, 1908.—5. Commission in the commercial sense: since ca. 1880. H.A. Vachell, Quinney's, 1914.—6. (Also Com, and with later var. Comm.) A Communist: perhaps orig. Aus., ca. 1925, but by late C.20, spread to the UK and the rest of the Commonwealth of Nations. In, e.g., Anthony Grey, The Bulgarian Exclusive, 1976, and earlier, Leonard Mann, The Go-Getter, 1942. Its later spread may well be due to the inevitable use of abbreviation in official documents, where, e.g., Chinese Communist Forces becomes Chicom Forces. Cf. commie. (E.P.; P.B.) comb and brush. 'Lush', n. and v.: rhyming s.:—1909; ob. Ware.

comb-brush. A lady's maid: ca. 1749–1820; coll. (? > S.E.). Fielding.

comb cut, have one's. To be humiliated; hence, down on one's luck. Coll. soon > S.E.; from ca. 1570. (Middleton.) Cf. Scott's 'All the Counts in Cumberland shall not cut my comb.' But be comb-cut, to be mortified or disgraced, has always been coll. (—1860); ob. (H., 2nd ed.) Ex cock-fighting.

comb down. To ill-treat; thrash, Aus. coll.: from ca. 1860. B. & L.

comb (someone's) hair. Var of next, 1:—1783 ('The Athole Highlanders' Triumph', a song quoted in The Rambling Soldier, ed. Roy Palmer, 1977. P.B.).

comb (someone's) head. To scold that person: C.18–19. A later C.18–early 20 var., esp. as to rebuke, is comb one's hair.—2. With the addition of with a joint or three-legged stool, it means—as sometimes it does in the shorter form—to beat, thrash. Shakespeare, 1596, 'Her care should be, | To combe your noddle with a three-legg'd stoole.'

comb out, n. and v. Much used in the latter half of WW1, when every available man was 'combed out' and pressed into the fighting forces: coll. >, very soon, informal S.E. See Punch, passim, for those years. (P.B.)—2. 'To sweep over in formation, attacking ground targets with gun-fire. Thus, "We're combing out the North of France this afternoon"' (Jackson): RAF coll. (1939) >, by 1944, j. Ex the military sense.—3. To 'sort out' or bring someone to order, to 'put him in his place': since ca. 1960. (L.A., 1976.)

comb the cat. To run one's finger through the cat-o-nine tails in order to separate the tails: nautical and military; ca. 1800–95.

combie. (Pron. com-bee.) Abbr. combination-room, the Fellows' common room: Cambridge University, from ca. 1860, ob.—2. A woman's combination(s): from ca. 1870: women's, nursery, and shop. Since early C.20, always coms or combies. See also com, 3. The garment is a combination of vest and knickers. Cf. drawers drac.

combine. A combination of persons, esp. in commerce: orig. (ca. 1887) US, anglicised ca. 1910: coll. till ca. 1930, when it > S.E.

combine harvester. 'Class 9 goods locomotive' (Railway, 2nd): railwaymen's: since late 1940s; ob.

combined chat. A bed-sitting room: theatrical:—1935. Prob. ex chat, n., 5.

combined operations. Marriage, with esp. ref. to sexual aspect: Services': since ca. 1942; ob. Cf. coöperation. See next, 2.

combined ops. Combined operations (i.e., with two or more Services taking part in an action): Services' coll.: since 1940. P-G-R.—2. Hence, a much more usu. var. of prec.

combo, n. Very soon > short for comboman: Aus.: since ca. 1925. (K.S. Prichard, Working Bullocks, 1926; B., 1943; Sidney H. Courtier, The Glass Spear, 1951.) Hence, go combo, to cohabit—to live—with an Aboriginal woman, as in H. Drake Brockman, Men Without Wives, 1938.—2. A small jazz band: adopted, in late 1950s, ex US. Ex combination.

combo, v., (Of a white man) to live with an Aboriginal woman: Aus.: since ca. 1930. (B., 1959.) Ex n., 1.

comboman. 'The name given in Central Australia to a white man who associates with native women' (TLS, May, 1934, in a review of Conrad Sayce's novel, Comboman, 1934): coll.: from ca. 1925. I.e. a 'combination' man.

combs. See com, 3.

come. The low n., noted by Manchon (1923); corresponding to, and ex, sense 1 of the v.—2. Hence, semen: low: C.20. (P.B.)

come. (Occ. come off.) 'To experience the sexual spasm' (F. & H.): low coll.: C.19–20. Considered coarse, but it was orig. a euph. and, in C.20, how, if the fact is to be expressed non-euphemistically, could one express it otherwise with such terse simplicity?—2. To perform; practise: coll., recorded in 1812 (Vaux) but prob. from ca. 1800.—3. To play a dodge, a trick (v.t. with over): 1785; coll. Greenwood, in Tag, Rag, and Co, 1883, 'We ain't two ... as comes that dodge.'—4. To act the part of: OED records it at 1825: coll. or s.; cf. come the old soldier, q.v.—5. To attain to, achieve: from ca. 1885: dial. and coll.—6. To experience, suffer, as in come a cropper: this once coll. usage is now S.E. where the 'complement' is S.E.—7. See come it.—8. To become; esp. in come(s) of, happen(s) to: non-cultured Can. (and US) coll.: late C.19–20.

E.g. in the novels by John Beames.—9. To yield to bribery or corruption: police s.: since late 1940s. (G.F. Newman, Sir, You Bastard, 1970.) Cf. S.E. come to hand.—10. C. of ca. 1810–50, as in Vaux, 1812: 'A thief observing any article in a shop, or other situation, which he believes may be easily purloined, will say to his accomplice, I think there is so and so to come.'

come a clover. To tumble over: rhyming s.: ca. 1910–30. Franklyn 2nd.

come a colcher. To fall heavily. See colcher. Cf-come a cropper. To fall heavily. See cropper, and come, v., 6. Cf.:-

come a gutser. 'To come off a motorcycle accidentally' (Dunford): motorcyclists': since ca. 1950. Cf. drop the plot.

come about (one). To circumvent: C.18; coll. Mentioned by Johnson.—2. To have sexual intercourse with: C.19–20 (ob.); coll.: said of men by women.

come across. To meet accidentally: mid-C.19–20: coll., > S.E., not literary, in C.20.—2. To be agreeable, compliant; v.t. with with, to agree to; give, yield; lend: since ca. 1919. Hence the command come across (with it)!, Confess!, speak out!; Hand it over! Adopted, imm. post-WW1, ex US—the influence of the cinema.

come again (!, or, more often, ?) Repeat, please!, or Please explain! As question, What do you mean?: coll.: since ca. 1919. See DCpp for citations.

come all over (someone). To thrash; defeat utterly: Aus.: C.20. B., 1942.—2. With adj., as come all over (e.g.) queer, with var. come over all queer: to feel suddenly physically indisposed, or emotionally upset: coll.: C.20. Prob. ex dial. usage. Also as the passive voice of make (one) go all unnecessary, q.v.: come over all unnecessary. E.P. notes come-all-over-queer as a n., a je ne sais quoi of discomfort; late C.19–20. (P.B.) come-all-ye. Irish folk-songs and music; 'an old country song': Anglo-Irish: since ca. 1890. (P. W. Joyce, English ... in Ireland, 1910.) Ex the type that begins: 'Oh, come all ye maidens and listen to me...'

come aloft. To have an erection: coll.: ca. 1550–1840. Spenser, The Faerie Queene, 1590–6; Dryden, The Maiden Queen, 1668, 'I cannot come aloft to an old woman.'—2. As jovial command, it was a C.17 c.p. meaning 'Let's enjoy ourselves'. See DCpp.

come and get it. The cooks', or the orderlies', cry, amounting almost to a c.p., 'The meal is ready'; mainly Army: late C.19–20. Since ca. 1945, gen. in Aus. (B.P.) See DCpp.

come and have a pickle! 'An invitation to a quick unceremonious meal' (Ware): Society: 1878–ca. 1910.

come and have one!; come and wash your neck! Come and have a drink! resp., gen. coll. (from ca. 1880) and nautical s. (from ca. 1860). Ware. Cf.:-

come and see your pa! come and have a drink! C.p.: ca. 1870–1910.

come apart at the seams. To lose one's composure; fig., to break up: since ca. 1945.

come at. To agree to (something); to agree to do (it): Aus.: C.20: s. >, by 1950, coll. H. Drake-Brockman, 1938; Gavin Casey, 1947; D'Arcy Niland, 1958.—2. To try (to do) something: Aus.: since ca. 1930; by 1960, coll. 'I wouldn't come at that if I were you'; 'I wouldn't come at eating frogs' legs'; 'I couldn't come at a prostitute'. (B.P.)

come-at-able. Approachable; accessible: 1687 (SOD); coll. till ca. 1900, then S.E.

come-back, n. A successful return, after a long break, to the scene of former success; esp. in phrase make (or stage) a come-back: orig. sporting coll.: since ca. 1920.—2. Redress; compensation: Aus. coll.: since ca. 1930.—3. 'The progeny of a merino ram and a cross-bred ewe' (B., 1959): Aus.: C.20.

come back, v. To fall back, lose position: sporting: ca. 1880–1930.—2. To take back; perhaps orig. Aus., since ca. 1920, but by 1950s widespread also in UK. Esp. in the apologetic phrase, meant to cancel the effect of one's previous remark, because either wrong or hurtful: 'Now I've put my foot in it—skin deep. Come back all I said' (Vance Palmer, Seedtime, 1957). [Italics mine: P.B.] come back to the field. To return to earth: to cease being fanciful or romantic: Aus.: since ca. 1910. (Rats, 1944.) Ex straying animals.

come back when the leaves are brown! You have failed this examination—try again in the autumn: 'as the old medical examiners used to say' (Dr Colin Douglas, on BBC Radio 4, 21 May 1981).

come-by-chance. A person or thing arriving by chance, a bastard. Coll.: from ca. 1760.

come clean. To tell, or confess, everything; to give no trouble to the police when one is arrested: orig. c., adopted ex US ca. 1920; by 1939, s. An early example is in Dorothy L. Sayers, The Five Red Herrings, 1931, 'I'll come clean, as they say. I'd better do it at once, or they'll think I know more than I do.'

come (one's) cocoa. (Of men) to experience an orgasm: low: C.20. See come, v., 1.—2. 'To make a complete confession of guilt' (Powis): police and underworld: current in 1970s.

come copper. To inform the police: c.: C.20. (Charles E. Leach.) Cf. copper, v., turn copper, and come grass.

come countryman over. To cajole or wheedle; to 'con': C.19. Bill Truck, March 1824.

come Cripple-gate. To attempt to hoodwink officers: nautical: C.19—early 20: W.N. Glascock, Sketch-Book (I, 209), 1825 (Moe); Bowen. Ex the tricks of crippled beggars.

come-day, go-day with (a person), it's. He's extravagant: military: ca. 1890—1915. Ware.

come dish about. A C.18 drinking c.p. Ned Ward, 1709. (W. Matthews.)

come-down, n. A social or a financial fall or humiliation or pis-aller: from ca. 1840; coll. till C.20, when S.E.—2. In (to be) on a come-down, to be suffering from the diminishing effects of a drug: mostly teenagers': since ca. 1955. See come down, v., 3.

come down, v. To give, subscribe, or lend money (or an equivalent): from ca. 1700, perhaps ex late C.17 c. come it, to lend money. V.t. with with, from a few years later: coll. The v.i. in Steele's play, The Funeral; Thackeray's Pendennis. The v.t. in Gay's Beggar's Opera: 'Did he tip handsomely?—How much did he come down with?'—2. To be 'ploughed' in a university examination: Aus. coll.:—1886; ob. Also as be down.—3. 'To lose drug-induced exhilaration as it wears off' (Home Office): drug users': adopted, ex US. late 1960s, as v. ex n., 2. Recorded as US usage in W. & F., 1975, and exemplified in Hollander.

come down on a jump. (Of a docker) to turn up at a job on the chance of taking an absentee's place: Aus. ports', esp. dockers': since ca. 1925. (B., 1943.) Perhaps cf. jump the gun.

come down (up) on (a person) like a ton of bricks. To scold, blame, reprimand severely: coll.; from ca. 1850. In C.20, also var. be down on...

come (one's) fat. 'To make a complete confession of guilt' (Powis): police and underworld: current in 1970s. Cf. come (one's) cocoa, 2; the semantics here are likewise ex the male orgasm.

come-from. Place of birth: lower-middle class: since ca. 1920.

come good. To make money; be in credit or in form; to be succeeding: Aus.: since ca. 1930. Jean Devanney, By Tropic Sea and Jungle, 1944; D'Arcy Niland, The Shiralee, 1955.—2. Also, to 'turn up trumps', as in Jon Cleary, The Climate of Courage, 1954, 'I did a bit of smooching to the wife of the pub owner in town, and she came good.'—3. Hence, to accede to a request for, e.g., a loan: Aus.: since ca. 1940. (B.P.) come grass. To 'turn copper', i.e. to become an informer, or to involve a confederate in trouble: c.: C.20. (David Hume.) Ex grass, a policeman. Since mid-C.20, at latest, the form is predominantly the simple v., to grass. See grass, v., 6.

come (one's) guts. To 'spill' information: low Aus.: since ca. 1920. (Kylie Tennant, 1953.) Also, since ca. 1930, Brit. c. Gilt Kid, 1936.

come handsomely over. To win over, persuade, convince: late C.18—19. Bill Truck, March 1824.

come-hither girl; come-hither look. A 'good time', money-seeking type of girl, a 'gold-digger'; a girl's inviting glance: resp., s., since ca. 1920; and coll. of C.20.

come home. (Of lost gear) to be restored to its proper place; (of an anchor) to drag: nautical: late C.19—20. Bowen.

come home — all is forgiven. A late C.20 c.p. deriving from a frequent pre-WWI advertisement in the 'agony column' of The Times. Sometimes in the version come back..., it may be addressed, joc., in his absence, to someone moved on from a job, by his former colleagues who now need his particular 'know-how'. See entries in DCpp.

come home by Weeping Cross. See Weeping Cross.

come home with your knickers (earlier drawers) torn and say you found the money? C.20 c.p. of extreme scepticism at an unlikely story. Prob. of anecdotal orig. Also... and say you found a shilling!

come-in, n. The 'glad eye'; esp. in give the come-in, 'To give the eye': since ca. 1945. (Petch, 1969.) Cf. come-on, n., 2.

come in if you're fat! A C.18 c.p. Swift, ca. 1708, 'Who's there? ... come in, if you be fat' (Apperson). A thin person is prob. more expensive to entertain.

come in on (one's) chin-strap. 'To finish a march or a carrying party so fatigued that (fig.) only the chin-strap kept the body upright' (B. & P.): military coll.: 1914. Cf. chin-strap.

come inside. 'A man who supplants another in any pursuit or design is said to "come inside him"' (P. W. Joyce, English ... in Ireland, 1910): Anglo-Irish coll.: late (?/mid) C.19—20. To get on the inside track?

come it. To cut a dash; to move (lit. and fig.) fast: coll. (—1840); ob., except in Glasgow, where it = 'talk big'. Cf. go it. Thackeray, 'I think the chaps down the road will stare ... when they hear how I've been coming it.'—2. To inform the police, disclose a plan, divulge a secret: c.:—1812. Vaux; H., 1st ed.—3. To tell lies: low: ca. 1820—80. Bee, 1823.—4. To show fear: pugilistic, ca. 1860—1910. H., 3rd ed.—5. To succeed, manage: ex US, anglicised ca. 1895; coll., ob.—6. To lend money: c.: late C.17—19. B.E.—7. A late C.19—20 var. (low; military) of come the old soldier. F. & G.—8.

To 'try it on': Glasgow:—1934.—9. Esp. in imperative: 'Be quiet!': c.: from ca. 1880; ob. B. & L.

come it as strong as a horse. (Of a criminal) to turn King's evidence: c. of ca. 1810—50. Vaux, who cites the synon. be coming all one knows. Elaborations of come it, 2, q.v.

come it as strong as mustard. An intensive of come it, q.v., esp. in sense 3, or of come it strong, q.v.: low: ca. 1820—90. Bee.

come it at the box, or the broads. To dice; to play cards: c.: from ca. 1860.

come it over. To get the better of: C.19 s., >, by 1900, coll. An early occurrence is in John L. Gardner, The Military Sketch-Book (II, 30), 1829. (Moe.) Hence:—

come-it-over man. A dominating, domineering man that rides roughshod over people's feelings to get his own way: coll.: C.20. (John Walton, FLA.)

come it strong. To go to extremes; exaggerate; to lie: coll.; from ca. 1820. (Bee; Dickens in Pickwick; Barham; Thackeray.) Cf. make it hot and see come it as strong as mustard.

come it with. Var. of come it over, to get the better of: C.19 s.

come-love tea. Weak tea; esp., tea made with leaves already used: Aus.: since ca. 1930. (B., 1943.) Ex the mildness of 'Come, love'.

come (one's) mutton. To masturbate: low: late C.19—20.

come of. To eventuate. See come, v., 9.

come off, v.i. To pay: coll.: ca. 1580—1750. Var. of come down, q.v.—2. (Gen. of the man.) To experience the sexual orgasm: see come, v., 1.

come off it. See:—

come off the grass! Not so much 'side'! Don't exaggerate, or tell lies! Ex US; anglicised ca. 1890. In C.20, often abbr. to come off it! or even come off!

come off the roof! Var. of prec. 'Don't act so superior!': lower-middle and lower class: ca. 1880–1940. (W. Pett Ridge, Minor Dialogues, 1895.) Cf. the C.20 theatrical equivalent, 'Come down from the flies!'

come(-)on, n. Swindler's 'bait' to dupe: Aus. c.: since ca. 1925. (B., 1942.) Adopted from US. See Underworld. By 1945 no longer c. By mid-C.20 also Brit.—2. A look, a gesture, of sexual invitation from a girl: since ca. 1910.

come on, v. An extension of come, v., senses 1 and 4: since ca. 1945.—2. To start to menstruate: feminine coll.: C.20. come-on guy. He who gets hold of the 'mug' for a gang of 'con men' (confidence-tricksters): c.: from ca. 1920. Gilt Kid, 1936.

come on in out of the war! Take shelter!—during a bombing raid: civilians': a WW2 c.p. A pun on 'come on in out of the rain'.

come on, my lucky lads!; come on, you don't want to live for ever! These two c.p.p., which were sometimes spoken together, were the CSM's or RSM's cries to his men the moment before the jump-off for an attack: military: in WW1. See, e.g., the description of the great attack in Hugh Kimber's very arresting novel, Prelude to Calvary, 1933. 'The second... was used by Frederick the Great to his hesitating Guards at the battle of Colin (1757): "Ihr Racker, wollt ihr ewig leben?", You rascals, do you want to live for ever? The adjuration must be as old as warfare.' (R.S., 1971.) See also DCpp.

come on, Steve! A (mainly Cockney) c.p. adjuration that one should hurry: from ca. 1925; ob. Ex the fame of Steve Donoghue as jockey.

come on tally plonk? How are you?: British Expeditionary Force: WW1. Hobson-Jobson for Fr. comment allez-vous? The phrase was further mangled into come on taller (=tallow) candle?

come-out, n. Exodus of the audience after the show: circusmen's coll.: C.20.

come out, v. (Of girls) to make one's début in Society, gen. by being presented at Court: from ca. 1780; a coll. that, ca. 1840, > S.E.—2. Abbr. come out on strike: coll. at first; since, WW1, S.E.: from ca. 1890.—3. 'Openly to declare oneself as homosexual' (Chambers's C.20 Dict., 1977 sup.): homosexuals', and hence, via the media, into wider usage: since ca. 1970 (?earlier). See also closet.

come-out, adj. 'Execrable' (Sinks, 1848): low: ca. 1830–80. come out in the wash, it'll all. It will be discovered eventually: hence, never mind—it doesn't matter: c.p.: from ca. 1902. (W.L. George, The Making of an Englishman, 1914.) Cf. it'll all be all right on the night, at come right...

come out of that hat – I can't see yer feet! a boys' c.p. cry to a man wearing a topper: ca. 1875–1900. (Mostly London.)

come out of the cupboard. To go to work on one's first job: proletarian:—1909 (Ware).

come out strong. To express oneself vigorously or very frankly: coll.; from ca. 1850. Cf. S.E. come out with, to utter, and coll. come it strong.—2. To be generous: Public Schools': from ca. 1890. P. G. Wodehouse, The Pothunters, 1902, "I'm a plutocrat. "Uncle came out fairly strong then?" "Rather. To the tune of one sovereign, cash."

come outside! A challenge: 'Come and fight it out with me!': coll.: late C.19–20. Sometimes come outside and say that!, i.e. repeat your insult, and we will fight where it is more convenient. Occ., abruptly. 'Right! Outside!' Ex lit. sense.

come over. (Cf. come it over, q.v.) To cheat; trick; impose on: C.17–20: until ca. 1750, S.E., then coll. From ca. 1860, gen. get over; in C.19–20, occ. come it over.—2. With faint, ill, queer, sick, etc., to become suddenly faint, etc.: coll.; from ca. 1850.—3. In C.20 NZ c., to admit an offence: cf. come clean, q.v.

come over at. To excite passion in (a person of the other sex): US, partly anglicised by 1928. A.E.W. Mason, The Prisoner in the Opal.

come over on a wheel-stall, (have). To be 'dressed to the nines': costers':—1909 (Ware).

come Paddy. To steal, to thieve: naval, esp. lowerdeck: C.19. Landsman Hay, early C.19, ed. M.D. Hay, 1963. (Peppitt.)

come right on the night, it will all. This—dating from ca. 1880—is perhaps the commonest c.p. of the theatre. Ex mishaps and mistakes that, happening at a—esp. at the dress—rehearsal, will probably not recur. (See esp. Wilfred Granville, A Dictionary of Theatrical Slang.) Soon in use in the world outside, as a palliative when small things go wrong. Claiborne cites its use in Kipling's Stalky & Co. as an early example.

come round. To persuade; make a deep impression on; influence: coll.; from ca. 1830. Thackeray, in Vanity Fair, "The governess had come round everybody... had the upper hand of the whole house."

come round on the paint. (Of a racehorse) to take the turn on the inside: Aus. sporting: since ca. 1935. B., 1953.

come souse. To fall heavily: boxing: from ca. 1815. Tom Moore, 1819.

Come the ... as 'to perform, practise, or act the part of' (cf. come, v., 2–4) occurs in many slang and coll. phrases, a number of which follow here. It should be noted that a very frequent var. of nearly all of them is the insertion of old, prob. influenced by come the old soldier, itself perhaps the very origin of this popular phrase-form. (P.B.)

come the acid. To exaggerate; exaggerate one's authority; make oneself unpleasant; try to shift one's duty onto another: military: from ca. 1910. F. & G.—2. To wax sarcastic: orig. Cockneys', then much more widespread: C.20. Evening News, 7 Mar. 1938.

come the artful. To try to deceive: coll.: from ca. 1840.

come the bag. To 'try it on', to bluff; to attempt something irregular: army and low: C.20 (Manchon). Ex horse's nose-bag. Rare without the inserted old.

come the bat. To mention the price: grafters':—1934 (Philip Allingham). See bat for.

come the blarney over (someone). To be very sweet to; to flatter: since ca. 1810 or a decade earlier. Without the phrase occurs in W.N. Glascock, Sailors and Saints (I, 185), 1828. (Moe.)

come the bludge on. To sponge upon (someone): Aus.: since ca. 1925. D'Arcy Niland, Call Me..., 1958, 'What's the big idea, coming the bludge on us?' Cf. bludge, n.

come the carney. To act or speak flatteringly: low:—1923 (Manchon). See carney, n., 1.

come the cunt. To be particularly obstreperous or unpleasant; usu. in the neg. imperative: 'Don't you come the old cunt with me, mate!' uttered as a threat: low: C.20. (P.B.)

come the don. To put on airs: from ca. 1855; ob. by 1930. Mostly lower classes'. A rarer var. of come the nob.

come the double. To exercise trickery: Aus.: since ca. 1880. (Baker, in a letter.)—2. To take more than one's due or share: orig. military: C.20. (F. & G.) Esp. to try, unfairly, to obtain an extra helping of food. Perhaps ex sense 1, perhaps merely from the 'double helping'.

come the drunkard. To pretend tipsiness; rarely, to be tipsy(+): coll.: from ca. 1860.

come the gammon (over). To wheedle (someone): a C.19 var. of gammon, v., esp. senses 1 and 2, and cf. the n., 1.

come the gipsy. To attempt to cheat or defraud: coll.: from ca. 1840; ob.

come the heavy. To affect a much superior social position: from ca. 1860.

come the lardy-dardy. To dress oneself showily: from ca. 1860. Mostly London.

come the nob (occ. the don). To put on airs: from ca. 1855; ob. Mostly lower classes'.

come the old man. To shirk: gen. coll.: late C.19–20. F. & G.

come the old soldier. V.t., over. To wheedle; impose on: coll.: C.19–20. An early occurrence is in Alfred Burton, Johnny Newcome, 1818. (Moe.) Scott, in St Roman's Well, 1825: 'He has scarce the impudence ... [Otherwise,] curse me but I should think he was coming the old soldier over me.' The idea is adumbrated in Shadwell's Humours of the Army: 'The Devil a farthing he owes me—but however, I'll put the old soldier on him.'—2. To hector and domineer, by virtue of (self-)supposed greater knowledge, as, quite literally, the oldest-serving private soldier in barracks might do to recruits; hence, fig. in this sense: army version of come it over: since mid-C.20, at latest. (P.B.) See also come the tin man. come the raw prawn (with). To impose, or try to impose, upon someone: Aus. coll. Wilkes says it was Service s., arising ca. 1942, which is the date of his earliest citation. See also raw prawn, 1. A var. is try the raw prawn act (on someone).

come the revolution ... A joc. c.p. (in quite different form from surrounding entries) used, e.g., in answer to an unanswerable complaint, as 'Oh, never mind! Come the revolution and it'll all be changed. In the meantime—how about another drink?': since mid-C.20 at latest. Variants are come the red revolution and when the red revolution comes.

come the Rothschild. To pretend to be rich: coll.: ca. 1880–1914. Ex the legendary wealth of that famous family.

come the rubber pig. To be recalcitrant, 'stroppy' and 'bloody-minded': heard among Irish labourers on a Lancashire construction site: late 1970s; poss. earlier and more widespread. (John Davies, 1979.)

come the sergeant. To give peremptory orders: from ca. 1855; coll.

come the spoon. To make love, esp. if sentimental: from ca. 1865.

come the tin man. To bluff: to 'flannel'; make oneself a nuisance: RN, C.20 (Granville); also popular in Glasgow in the 1950s, esp. in the horrifying threat, 'Don't ye come the little tin man wi' me, laddie, or I'll melt ye!' (With thanks to Mrs Dorothy Birkett.) Powis notes don't come the old tin soldier with me!, don't be impertinent, or obstructive. See melting. come the Traviata. In (harlots') c., to feign phthisis: C.19; † by 1891. La Traviata is a Verdi opera, in which the heroine is a consumptive prima donna, based, of course, on La Dame aux Camélias.

come the ugly. To make threats; from ca. 1870; coll.

come this side. Arrived here: pidgin: mid-C.19–20. B. & L. come through a side door. To be born out of wedlock: coll.: from ca. 1860; ob., in a ca. 1880 broadside ballad, 'The Blessed Orphan'.

come to a sticky end. To die murdered; to go to gaol: coll.: since ca. 1915. See sticky, adj., 4.—2. To masturbate: a rather neat, low Aus. pun: C.20.

come to bat for. Tautological var. of bat for, to set a price on. Perhaps due to a conflation with come the bat.

come-to-bed eyes. A girl's eyes considered as particularly sexually attractive: raffish: 1960s. Cf. come-hither look and the glad-eye. (P.B.)

come to cues! Come to the point!: theatrical: late C.19–20. Ex rehearsal practice of giving a hesitant actor the cue line only. (Wilfrid Granville, letter, 1948.)

come to grass; usu. coming ... To come up to the surface of a mine: Cornish miners': mid-C.19–20. R. M. Ballantyne, Deep Down, 1869.

come to grief. To get into serious trouble; to fail: coll.: —1837. See grief, 1.—2. To fall from a horse or a carriage: coll.: —1855; mainly sporting. Thackeray in The Newcomes, 'We drove on to the downs, and we were nearly coming to grief.'

come to hand like a pint pot. An extension of the S.E. come to hand: coll.: C.20. Alan Hunter, Gently Sahib, 1964, of a blackmailer's victim: 'She'd be a wide-open touch for [the blackmailer] ... She'd come to hand like a pint pot.'

come-to-Jesus collar. A full-dress collar: Can.: C.20. Because affected by revivalist preachers.

come to stay. To become permanent, established, recognised, regularly used: coll.: orig. (1863, Abraham Lincoln), US; Anglicised in late 1890s. Athenæum, 13 Apr. 1901, 'Lord Byron as a letter-writer has come to stay.'—2. Hence, (of merchandise, etc.) to secure a position in public favour as fulfilling a general need: coll.: 1903, The Referee, 8 Feb., 'No one with half a grain of sense could ... question the autocars' many merits, nor their having come to stay and become a great power in the land.'

come to that! In point of fact!, since you mention it!: lower classes' coll.: —1923 (Manchon); by mid-C.20, gen. 'Come to that, it was nothing special!'

come to the heath. To give or pay money: c. of ca. 1810–40. Vaux suggests that there is a pun on tipping + Tiptree Heath (a place in Essex).

come to the mark. 'To abide strictly by any contract ...; to perform your part manfully ...; or to offer me what I consider a fair price ...', Vaux: c. of ca. 1805–80. Whence the S.E. come up to the mark.

come to the Russian war! 'Down the stone stairs I went with Yutke trailing after me yelling "Come to the Russian war, boys! Come to the Russian war!" (I know it was forty years after the Crimean campaign but we stuck to old slogans in Stepney and this was still our battlecry)' (Charles Drage, Two-Gun Cohen, 1954: P.B.).

come to, or up to, time. In boxing, to answer the call of 'time!'; hence in sporting circles, to be ready, to be alert. Whyte-Melville, M. or N., 1869.

come town(ey) over (someone). To cajole, as a 'city slicker' might: C.19. (Bill Truck, Sep. 1823.) Cf. come countryman over.

come tricks (over). To dupe. See come, v., 3.

come (one's) turkey. To masturbate: low: late C.19–20.

come unbuttoned. To meet with disaster; be greatly perturbed, esp. if visibly: a Society joc. coll.: from ca. 1926. Dornford Yates, As Other Men Are, 1930, 'I don't want her to come unbuttoned,' said Roger musingly.' Cf. S.E. burst with excitement, and come apart at the seams.—2. Of a good racing tip or of any reasonable expectation: to fail: sporting: from ca. 1910. Prob. orig. of sense 1. Cf.:

come undone, unput, unstuck. To fall to pieces, lit. and fig.; to experience disaster: coll., orig. Services': since start of WW1.—2. As a persuasive command, 'Come unstuck!' = 'come on, please tell me what I want to know', as in Josephine Tey, A Shilling for Candles, 1936. (P.B.)

come-up, n. No. 11 punishment: RN: since ca. 1930. The sufferers come up on deck to eat their meals.

come up, v. (Of favourites) to win: racing c.: C.20.

come up! Elliptical for before you come [i.e. came] up, q.v., before you enlisted—the old soldier's snub to a bumptious recruit: RAF: since ca. 1930. Partridge, 1945.

come up and see me sometime! A c.p. since 1934, ex a 'gag' of Mae West. Extensively treated in DCpp.

come up for air! Take a rest!: Aus. c.p.: since late 1940s. (B.P.) Ex pearl-diving?—2. 'To terminate a prolonged kiss' (Leechman): since ca. 1930.

come up on. To succeed at or with, e.g., the football pools: coll.: since ca. 1950. (Petch.) Cf. come up, v.

come up smelling of violets. To emerge from trouble unharmed, or even with one's situation improved; allusive, to if (e.g. he) were to fall in the cess-pit (shit, etc.), he'd only come up smelling of violets (occ. roses), an almost proverbial c.p. applied to somebody consistently and remarkably lucky: C.20, perhaps earlier. (P.B.)

come up smiling. To smile though (esp. if heavily) 'punished': boxing; from ca. 1860.—2. Hence, to face defeat without complaining or flinching: coll.; from ca. 1870. John Strange Winter, in That Imp, 1887, 'And yet come up smiling at the end of it'.

come up to scratch. See scratch, n., 6.

come Westminster Hall over. To come the old sailor over, to try to baffle and bluff: naval: late C.18–19. (L.L.G., 10 Jan. 1824: Moe.) Perhaps a ref. to naval medical HQ.

come Yorkshire over. To practise business sharpness or trickery on someone: coll.: since mid-C.19. See entries at Yorkshire, esp. the v.t.

comeuppance, get (formally receive) (one's). To receive one's due rebuke or deserts, punishment or retribution: adopted, ca. 1944, ex US, where orig.—ca. 1850—dial., I'd guess. Perhaps ex a pupil coming up to teacher for a caning.

comedian, the. Short for the camp comedian, the camp commandant, usu. of such establishments as transit camps and stores depots: RAF, hence army: since ca. 1930. H. & P.

comedy-merchant. An actor: ca. 1870–1914. (Merchant, q.v. = chap, fellow, man.)

cometh'er on, put the (or one's). To coax, wheedle; influence strongly: Anglo-Irish coll. (?dial.): from ca. 1830. Ex come hither.

comflobistigate or comflogisticate. Comflobistigation appears in L.L.G., 26 June 1824, 'Greenwich Hospital' (Moe); a fore-runner of conflogisticate, which Manchon records in 1923 as a nautical term for 'to astound, or puzzle sorely'. Cf.: comfoozled. Overcome; exhausted. Rare; ?ca. 1830–1900. Perhaps coined by Dickens, when, in The Pickwick Papers, he makes Sam Weller say: 'He's in a horrid state o' love; reg'larly comfoozled, and done over with it.' Like the preceding term, it is an artificial facetiousness.

comfort. (Gen. with to do, occ. with that ...) A cause of satisfaction: C.19–20 coll.; earlier, S.E.—2. A sort of strong liquor in vogue ca. 1725–30. (Anon., The Quaker's Opera, 1728.) Cf. the liqueur known as Southern Comfort: C.20. (Leechman.)

comfort for the troops. A catamite: Services': since ca. 1925. Ex the pl, comforts for the troops: 'According to [the] Tommy, these included W.A.A.C.s, nurses, and anything seen in skirts on active service' (Petch): WW1.

comfortable. Tolerable: coll.:—1720.—2. 'Placidly self-satisfied' (SOD): coll.: since 1865.—3. Esp. in Are you comfortable?, 'Have you been to the w.c.?' : domestic (mostly feminine) euph. coll.: late C.19–20.

comfortable importance or impudence. A wife: also a mistress virtually a wife: late C.17–early 20. (B.E.) Cf. Fr. mon gouvernement.

comforter. "'Can't I have a prick, sister? Can't I have a comforter?' (hypodermic injection)' (Olive Dent, A V.A.D in France, 1917): military hospitals': WW1.

comfy. Comfortable: coll. (orig. Society): from ca. 1830. Prob. influenced by cosy.

comic, n. A comic periodical: coll.; SOD records it for 1889.—2. A music-hall comedian: coll.: from ca. 1920.

comic business. Flying: RFC: 1915+. F. & G.

comic cuts. Admiralty intelligence reports: GHQ communiqués: RN and army: 1915–18. Bowen.—2. A comical fellow, esp. one who overdoes the funny stuff: since ca. 1920; ob. by 1950.—3. The confidential reports written on ratings' ability and conduct by divisional officers: RN: since ca. 1945. Granville.—4. Guts. See comics. 1.

comic-song faker. A writer of comic songs; music-halls': ca. 1880–1910. Ware.

comical, n. A napkin: ca. 1870–1910. (Mostly proletarian.)

comical, adj. Strange, queer, odd: 1793 (SOD); coll.

comical Chris. A urination: rhyming s., on piss: C.20. (Red Daniells, 1980.) Cf.:-

comical farce. A glass: rhyming s.: late C.19–early 20. The London Evening Standard, 19 Aug. 1931.

comics. Belly: short for comic cuts, rhyming s., on guts: Aus. underworld: since early C.20.—2. As the comics, 'the weekly motorcycle newspapers and magazines' (Dunford): motorcyclists': current in 1970s. 'The terms The Green'un and The Blue'un were affectionately applied to the two popular motorcycle magazines through the vintage period [ca. 1920–40], The Motorcycle and Motorcycling. They alluded to the colour of the covers' (Mike Partridge, 1979).

coming. (Gen. of women) forward; wanton: C.17–20; coll. till ca. 1850, then S.E. Fielding.—2. Sexually capable: C.18–19; low coll.—3. Pregnant: coll.; C.17–18.

coming! Directly! In a minute! Coll.: from ca. 1700. Cf. coming?, so is Christmas, said, C.18–20, to a slow person.

coming all (one) knows. Turning King's evidence; informing. See come it as strong as a horse.

coming and going. (Of an aircraft) fitted with radio: RAF: since ca. 1938; ob. H. & P.

coming on, be. To be learning the ways of the world, e.g. of women: coll.: mid-C.19–20. Ex S.E. coming on, growing (up).

coming over with the pin out! An army c.p. of 1916–18 addressed to one to or at whom something is tossed or thrown. Ex the withdrawal of pin from a hand-grenade before it is hurled at the enemy.

coming to town, they're. Enemy aircraft approaching: RAF c.p.: 1940+.

coming up in the next bucket. An evasive answer to a question about someone's whereabouts: joc. coll.: late C.19–20. Ex mining. Cf. up in Annie's room and just gone by with a barrow-load.

coming up on a lorry; often preceded by it's. A joc. c.p., dating since ca. 1910, in ref. to something small—a pocket, a letter—that has not arrived when expected.

comings. Seminal fluid: low coll.: mid-C.19–20. Var of come, n.; See come, v., 1.

comma-hound. A proof-reader: publishers' and authors': from ca. 1930.

commandeer. To gain illicit possession of, gen. by pure bluff: coll.: Boer War+. Cf. S.E. sense.

commander's cooks. The bugle-call for defaulters: RN: late C.19–early 20. Goodenough, 1901.

commandments. See ten commandments.

commando tickle. A forceful pinching of the thigh between thumb and forefinger: Services': 1941+.

Commem. Commemoration Day, Week, or Ball (Cambridge): universities': late C.19–20. Collinson.

commencer. 'Kickstart mechanism on a motorcycle' (Dunford): motorcyclists' joc. pedantic: since ca. 1950.

commend me to. Give me preferably, by choice: coll.; from ca. 1710. (Orig. of persons; post-1850, things.)

commercial. In c., a thief or a tramp that travels considerably: ca. 1855–1914.—2. Abbr. commercial traveller: from ca. 1850: coll.; in C.20 S.E.

commercial legs. Legs unfitted for drill: recruiting sergeants': late C.19–20; ob. Ware.

commercial traveller. A person with bags under his eyes: from ca. 1930; †. Ex a music-hall joke. Cf. bagman, 1.—2. A swagman: Aus. joc.: since ca. 1920. B., 1943.

commie, n. and adj. (U.) Communist: coll.: since ca. 1943. Perhaps adopted ex US. See also com, 6, and cf. commo.

commish. Abbr. commission, a percentage on sales: from ca. 1895.

commissariat. The pantry: joc. coll.; from ca. 1915. Popularised by WW1.

commission. A shirt: mid-C.16–early 19 c. (Harman.) Ex It. camicia. See comesa and mish.

commissionaire. A better-class harlot in the Argentine white-slavers' c.: C.20. Londres.

commissioned knob (or, presumably, nob). A naval officer: late C.18–mid-19. (Basil Hall, 2nd series, 1832.) Cf. knob, n., 4.

commissioner. A book-maker: from ca. 1860. Little used since ca. 1890.

commissioner of Newmarket Heath. A foot-pad: late C.16–17. Nashe.

commister. A rare var. (H., 1st ed.) of camister (q.v.), a clergyman.

committal, adj. Compromising; involving, committing; rashly revelatory: coll.: 1884, Punch. Ex non-committal. OED.

commo. A communication trench: army: WW1. (B. & P.) For the shape, cf. ammo = ammunition.—2. A Communist: coll.: since ca. 1918; also Aus. usage, since ca. 1925. B., 1942; Daily Express, 20 Dec. 1946.—3. Vocalised acronym of the combined officer of Merchant Navy Operators: nautical: 1940+.

commodity. The puđendum muliebre: coll.; late C.16–19. Shakespeare, in King John, 'Tickling commodity; commodity—the bias of the world.'—2. Occ., but only in c., a whore: late C.16. Greene. - common. Common sense: lower classes': C.20. Gilt Kid, 1936, 'Use a bit of common'.

common as cat-shit and twice as nasty, as. A Cockney c.p., applied either to a person regarded as 'beneath' one or, less often, to an inferior article: since ca. 1920. (Franklyn, 1968.) Cf. soft as shit... and mean as pig-shit... common as the hedge, as. Applied to whore or strumpet: coll.: late C.17–18. B.E. Cf. the S.E. hedge-whore, 'a low beggarly prostitute' (Grose). Var. (as) common as the highway.

common bounce. 'One using a lad as a decoy to prefer a charge of unnatural intercourse': low, orig. perhaps c.: from ca. 1850; ob. in s. Baker notes, in a letter, that the Aus. form was, in 1897, common bouncer.

common dog. Common sense: RM: later C.20. Hawke.

Common Garden. A C.17–19 facetious var. of Covent Garden.

common garden gout. Syphilis: late C.17–18. (B.E.) Ex Covent Garden after common-(or)-garden.

common jack. A harlot; military: C.19–early 20.

common John. A species of marble (in the game of marbles): children's: late C.19–20. (Manchester Evening News, 27 Mar. 1939.) Cf. commoney, -o.

common law, the. Copulation. L.A. cites Robbie Burns's Cummock Psalms.

common-roomed, be. To be brought before the head of a college: University coll.:—1886.

common sewer. A drink; a taking or 'go' of drink; from ca. 1860; ob. H., 2nd ed. Ex sewer=a drain.—2. A cheap prostitute: low: from ca. 1870; ob. by 1930.—3. An indiscriminate tippler: coll., bordering on S.E.: C.19–early 20.—4. The throat; mid-C.19–early 20. Cf. synon. red lane.

commoner. An ordinary harlot: late C.16–early 19; coll. > S.E. by 1660.—2. An inexperienced boxer; an amateur: pugilistic: early C.19. Boxiana, I–IV, passim: 1818–24.

commoner-grub. A dinner given, after cricket matches, by 'commoners' to 'college': Winchester College: C.19, † by 1890. (A 'commoner' is not on the foundation.)

commoney. A clay marble: schoolboys', ca. 1830–1900. (Dickens.) Cfcommono. A cheap marble: Aus. children's: C.20. (B.P.) Cf. common John.

commonsensical. Possessing, marked with, common sense: coll.: from ca. 1870. 'The commonsensical mind' occurs in Fraser's Magazine, Sep. 1880. After nonsensical; the S.E. term being common-sensible.

commugger. Communion: St Bees and Uppingham: since ca. 1905. (Marples.) By the 'OXFORD -ER'. communicator. A bell: joc. coll.: from ca. 1840. Esp. in agitate the communicator.—2. A communicating trench: army: WW1. (J.D. Strange, The Price of Victory, 1930.) Clearly a pun.

communio bloke. A religious hypocrite: prison c.: from ca. 1870. B. & L.

communioist. A Communist: joc.: since ca. 1919; by 1950, ob.; by 1960, †.

communist. Ca. 1916 it > coll. for any lawless person; from ca. 1926–41 it took a very secondary place to bolshie. In ca. 1941 it returned to 'favour' for a few more years, but since then bolshie has been the preferred use, though since ca. 1960 the latter has implied usu. simply aggressive non-cooperation. Cf. the early C.20 use of anarchist for a lawless person; in, e.g., Josephine Tey, The Man in the Queue, 1927.

comp. A compositor: printers': from ca. 1865. Tit-Bits, 31 July 1886, 'Applications for work from travelling comps are frequent.' Cf. ass, donkey, galley-slave, qq.v.—2. A newspaper competition: since ca. 1925—a use preserved yet (1980s) by the New Statesman, with its mysterious, cliquish 'comp complex'. (P.B.)—3. A complimentary ticket: orig. and mainly theatrical: C.20. (John Bingham, I Love, I Kill, 1968.) Cf.—comp list. Complimentary list (for free tickets): Aus.: since ca. 1905. Dal Stivens, 1951.

comp number. See compo, 6.

Company. As the C-, the Central Intelligence Agency of the US, usu. referred to as the CIA. An American colloquialism that, in appropriate circles, was adopted, in the mid-1970s, by the UK. Frank Ross, Sleeping Dogs, 1978.—2. See see company.

compass-buster. An RAF instrument-mechanic. See basher, 6.

compassionate. A coll. shortening of compassionate leave: Services': WW2 and ever since. Sometimes, of course, referred to punningly as passionate leave. (P.B.)

comped. Matter up or composed: printers': from ca. 1870. B. & L.

compete; gen. I'll compete. I'm available; I'll do it if you like: schoolgirls': from ca. 1920; ob. by 1940.

competition wallah. A competitor, i.e. one who enters the Indian Civil Service by examination: the competition and the name began in 1856: Anglo-Indian coll. The wallah is ex Urdu wala=Arabic walad=L.-arius, signifying a 'doer', 'maker', 'actor'.

comple. In cricket, to make abundantly, score freely to the extent of, as in 'England compiled 480 (runs).' SOD records it for 1884.

comping, n. Type-setting: printers' coll.: late C.19–20. Ex composing. Cf. comp.1.

complaining. 'The creaking of a ship at sea': nautical coll. verging on S.E.: C.19–20. Bowen.

compleat. Apt to be used as a jocularly archaic coll. by the pedantically, the affectedly, or the ever-so-facetiously cultured, esp. in the book world: from ca. 1880. Ex Izaak Walton's The Compleat Angler; e.g., in Oliver Onions's The Compleat Bachelor, 1901. Complete, obviously, has not the same antique connotation.

complete; gen. pron. complee. Complete; finished: soldiers': 1915–18. Direct ex Fr. See finni.

complete and utter, n. Elliptical for 'complete and utter bastard': Aus.: since late 1940s. 'You'll have trouble with him. He's a complete and utter.' (B.P.)

complex. An obsession, esp. in inferiority complex (excessive modesty): from 1910 but not at all gen. till ca. 1919: orig. coll., but by 1936 verging on S.E. Ex Jung's—not Freud's—psychology, the term properly meaning 'a group of ideas associated with a particular subject' (SOD). See esp. Collinson, pp. 106–7.

compo. A monthly advance of wages: nautical coll.: from ca. 1850. Prob. ex compo, j. for a composition paid by a debtor (see OED).—2. Whence, pay: orig. RN, late C.19, and hence also, esp. in WW1, army coll.—3. Compounding (e.g. an annuity for a cash payment): insurance: C.20.—4. A busman holding a licence both as conductor and as driver: busmen's: since ca. 1920.—5. Compensation: Aus. workers': since the 1920s. (Dymphna Cusack, Southern Steel, 1953.) Hence, of workmen, on the compo, in receipt of compensation (B., 1943); since ca. 1950, usu. on compo (B.P.).—6. Compensation allowance—in lieu of rations—to men ashore: RN: C.20. Such a job is a compo number.—7. A further shortening of compo rations, q.v.: Services' coll.: since WW2.

compo king. One who, to get workers' compensation, injures himself or malingers: NZ and Aus.: since ca. 1925. (B., 1941.) See compo, 5.

compo rations. A composition pack of one day's rations for fourteen men: Services' (mostly Army) coll.: WW2 and ever since. Usu. shortened to compo, as in 'At the Suez do we lived on compo for a week or so, until the NAAFI got really organised' (P.B.).

compound, v. (Of a horse) to fail, esp. to maintain speed or strength: racing: since ca. 1860. The OED Sup. records it for 1876. Ex compound, to compromise.

comprador. In India, but † by 1900, a house-steward; in China, a butler: coll.: from C.16. The Portuguese comprador, a purchaser. (Y. & B.) As compradore, a middle-man between Chinese and foreign commercial enterprises, it has long been Standard, if exotic and specialised, English. (P.B.)

compree? or ! (Do you understand? or! military coll.: WW1. I.e., Fr. compris, understood. F. & G.

comprehensively. Thoroughly, or indisputably, in a very big and a delightfully humorous way: cricketers' coll., prob. orig. either at Lord's or at Oxford or Cambridge, ca. 1960; taken up by journalists and duly by the sporting public. 'He was comprehensively bowled', i.e. middle wicket, either without a stroke offered or with a stroke ludicrously inadequate or wild. (Not, I notice, in OED Sup.) By 1976, very close to achieving '(informal) S.E.'.

compty. Deficient, as in 'What are you compty?': Army: late C.19–20. (Ex Hindustani?)—2. Hence, mentally deficient: Army: since ca. 1920.

compul. Compulsory: Harrow School: mid-C.19–20. Marples.

compulsory. That irregular kind of football which is now called run-about: Charterhouse coll.: ca. 1850–90. A.H. Tod.

compy-shop. A truck-shop: workmen's coll. ca. 1850–1900. Ex company-shop.

coms. A combination-garment. See combie, 2.

comsah. A military var. (1916–19) of oojah (q.v.) on Fr. comme ça, like that, in that way. B. & P.

con, n. As abbr. for many words; some are: confidant, which, at Eton = a friend (Spy, 1825); conundrum, 1841; conformist, 1882; Constitutional, 1883 (Ware); contract, 1889; construe (as n.), 1860; convalescent camp, 1915. All are rare since early C.20. OED.—2. A previous conviction: c.: late C.19–20. Charles E. Leach.—3. A convict: low:—1909 (Ware); by ca. 1920, also Aus. (Alex. Buzo, 1973).—4. A lavatory attendant: c., and low: C.20.—5. A consultation; a conference: lawyers': late C.19–20. Collin Brooks, The Swimming Frog, 1951.—6. As the con, it = 'I ain't a shark ... trying to throw the con into you fellows'. But also as a con, a tale intended to deceive (Alan, Hunter, Gently Instrumental, 1977). See v., 2, 3; and con-game.—7. Condensation- or vapour-trail: aviation: later C.20. Cf. earlier smoke-trail.—8. As Con, 'inevitable' nickname for men surnamed O'Connell: army: early C.20. John Aye, Humour in the Army, 1931.—9. See Chief Con.

con, v. To rap with the knuckles: Winchester College, C.19–20; ob. Ex the much older n., perhaps cognate with the Fr. cogner. Wykehamists, pre-1890, traditioned it ex Gr. κόρυθος, a knuckle.—2. To subject to a confidence trick: c., > coll.: C.20.—3. Hence, by dilution, to persuade someone to do something, usu., though not necessarily, against his natural inclination, and usu. with into, as 'I don't suppose old George'll be very keen—but see if you can con him into lending a hand, eh?': coll.: since mid-C.20. (P.B.)—4. In late C.19–20 c., abbr. of convict, v.—5. To construe: Charterhouse: late C.19–20.

con camp. A convalescent (i.e., convalescence) camp: army coll.: WW1. (B. & P.) Occ. abbr. to con.

Con Club, the. 'That ambiguous [see con, v., 2] abbreviation for every provincial headquarters of the Conservative and Unionist Association' (Sunday Times mag. 20 Aug. 1978).

con course. A conversion course: RAF: since ca. 1935. (H. & P.) For men remustering from one trade to another.—2. Hence, substitution of one type of armament for another on an aircraft: since ca. 1940. Partridge, 1945.

con depot: WW2 version of con camp, q.v.

con into; out of. For first, see con, v., 3. The second, to persuade someone to part with, or cease doing, anything, as 'I conned him out of his favourite magazine' or 'I conned it out of him', but 'I conned him into lending it to me'; and 'We think we've conned old George out of going quite so early': coll.: since mid-C.20. (P.B.)

con-game, -man. A confidence trick, trickster: C.20 (slightly earlier in US): c. >, by 1910, low. The English locus classicus is Percy J. Smith, Con Man, 1938.

Connan Doyle. Boil: rhyming s.: from ca. 1895. (P. P., Rhyming Slang, 1932.) Sir Arthur Conan Doyle achieved fame with the Adventures of Sherlock Holmes, 1892, a fame that was reinforced by The Memoirs of Sherlock Holmes late in 1893.

concaves and convexes. A pack of cards devised for sharpening: from ca. 1840; ob. Low and c. concentric bird. A mythical bird 'that flies round and round, in ever-decreasing circles, until at last it disappears up its own arsehole, from which safe but insanitary refuge it hurls shit and abuse at all its pursuers' (Services' traditional monologue). Also known as the oozlum bird, q.v. (P.B.)

concern. Any object or contrivance: somewhat pej.; from ca. 1830; coll., in 1930s verging on S.E.—2. The male or female genitals: from ca. 1840; s., whereas thing is perhaps more euph. than unconventional.

concerned. Often used in c. periphrasis or c.p.: late C.18–19. See e.g. Alderman Lushington, Bolt-in-Tun, Mr Palmer.—2. (Occ. with or in drink.) Intoxicated: from ca. 1680; S.E. till ca. 1860, then coll. Ob.

concert grand. A grand piano suitable for concerts: coll. (—1893) >, by 1920, S.E. (OED.)

concertina. A collapsible wire-entanglement: military: 1916. B. & P.—2. A side of mutton: Aus.: since ca. 1925. B., 1943.—3. 'A sheep that is hard to shear because of the wrinkles in its skin' (B., 1959): Aus. rural: since ca. 1930.

concertise. 'To assist musically in concerts' (Ware): musicians' coll.: 1885.

conchers. Cattle, either tame or quiet—or both: Aus.: from ca. 1870. † by 1912 and ob. by 1896.

conchie, -y; occ. conshie, -y. (Pron. kónshēe.) Abbr. conscientious objector, i.e. to military service: 1917. Sep esp. George Baker's arresting, yet delicate, autobiography, The Soul of a Skunk, 1930.

conchologise. To study conchology; collect shells: coll.: 1855, C. Kingsley. OED.

Concordskid. The Russian Tu 144 airliner: journalistic, Brit. and Aus.: since late 1973. 'It is similar in appearance to the Concorde' (B.P., 1974); -ski, a frequent Russian suffix.

concrete, the. The track: racing motorists' coll.: since ca. 1910. Hence, take the concrete, to go on to the racing track, whether in a race or for a practice run.

concuss. (Gen. in passive.) To produce cerebral concussion in (a person): C.20. Prob. without reminiscence of, or allusion to, the S.E. sense, to injure by concussion: it is almost certainly a semi-joc. abbr. of concussion.

condemn. To curse, swear at: C.20. Ex the euph. condemn it!, damn it!

condenseritis. Leaking condensers (esp. in old destroyers): RN officers': since ca. 1925. (Granville.) Caused by old age. 'You get salt water in the closed feed system: Condenseritis, it's called. Keeps Senior Engineers awake at nights' (John Winton, We Joined the Navy, 1959).

condiddle. To purloin, steal: coll.; ca. 1740–1860; extant in dial., where it arose. Scott in St Ronan's Well, 'Twig the old connoisseur ... condiddling the drawing.' Ex diddle, a, and to, cheat.

condition. See delicate condition, i.e., pregnant.

condog. To concur: coll.: ca. 1590–1700; almost S.E. by 1660. -dog puns -cur.

Condolence. See Bay of Condolence.

condom. The preferred modern spelling of cundum, q.v., a sheath contraceptive conduit. The two Winchester senses (a water-tap, a lavatory)—see Wrench—are, now, almost certainly j.; but orig. (?ca. 1850) they may have been s.

condumble. In your humble condumble, q.v., a Swiftian elab. of 'your humble servant'.

Condy. Condy's fluid: coll.: 1886 (OED Sup.).—2. Condy's crystals: coll.: C.20 Cf. condys, the. Advice: Aus.: since ca. 1920. (Rats, 1944.) Ex the curative Condy's fluid.

coner. A pickpocket who gets a prospective victim 'set up' by dropping an ice-cream cone on his feet: since ca. 1950. (Brian Moynahan in Sunday Times, 11 May 1969.) Cf. gum-worker.

coney and its compounds: see cony, etc.

confab. A talk together, or a discussion, esp. if familiar: coll.: 1701 (SOD). 'In close confab' (Wolcott, 1789). Ex confabulation. Also as v.: from ca. 1740: not much used. Richardson.

confect. Counterfeited: late C.17–18 c. (B.E., Grose.) OED considers it S.E.; perhaps it is c. only as confeck (Coles, 1676); Randle Holmes also spelt it confeck.

conference, in. Engaged, busy: 'In use in Fighter Command [RAF] in 1942–3 ... We quickly adopted it, in the jocular coll. sense [for any close co-operation] from our allies [the Americans]. Who appeared to use it so seriously' (R.S., 1971): its use spread after WW2, because of the continuing pretentious use of conference for any discussion or meeting, however trivial.

confess. Confession, as in go to confess: Roman Catholic: from ca. 1890.

confess and be hanged! A proverbial c.p. equivalent of You lie!: late C.16–17. Lit., be shrived and be hanged!

confessional, the. 'Coppers [policemen] have their own pet names for interview rooms. "The Confessional", "The Sweat Box", "The Truth Chamber". They are flamboyant names—slightly exaggerated no doubt—but they convey a little of the atmosphere of these official booths of candour.' Thus ex-policemen, worth-while novelist, John Wainwright, in The Last Buccaneer, 1971: police s., dating ca. 1950, if not a decade or two earlier.

confetti. Machine-gun bullets: adopted in 1940 ex American airmen. The Reader's Digest, Feb. 1941.—2. In cowyard, farmyard, or Flemington c., 'bullshit', q.v.: Aus. joc.: since 1930s. Flemington = a well-known stockyard. Wilkes.

confi (or -y). Confidential: among the lower echelons of law and commerce; since ca. 1950. (Petch, 1974.)

confidence buck. A confidence trick: from ca. 1885; ob. B. & L. confidence dodge, game, trick; confidence man. Orig. (ca. 1880), these terms were perhaps coll.—witness F. & H.—but they very soon > S.E. cf. con-game, q.v.

confident as a Yorkshire carrier (, as). Cocksure: C.18—early 20. (Ward, 1706.) See Yorkshire.

confiscate. To seize as if with authority: from ca. 1820; coll. until C.20, when, for all its looseness, the word is S.E.—2. Hence confiscation, 'legal robbery by or with the sanction of the ruling power' (OED): from ca. 1865; coll. till C.20, when S.E.—3. And confiscatory, adj. to 2: coll.: 1886 (OED). confiscate the macaroon. An elab. (ca. 1918–24) of take the cake. W.

confiab. A fairly frequent C.20 corruption of confab, q.v., a close discussion. The intrusive I perhaps results from an awareness of the term's shortening from confabulation, but cf. also conflabberation.

conflabberate. To upset, worry, perturb (gen. as past ppl. passive). Ca. 1860–1920.

conflabberation. A confused wrangle; an 'awful din'. Ca. 1860–1930. One of the half-wit jocularities so fashionable ca. 1840–1900, e.g. obsquatulate, spificate, more popular in the US than in the British Empire, which did but adopt them.

confloption. An unshapely or twisted thing, a distorted representation or grotesque figure: joc.:—1887; ob. (Baumann.) Perhaps a perversion of contraption. Contrast the dial. senses: flurry, confusion (EDD).

confummox is an intensive of flummox, v.: from ca. 1860; virtually †.

confo. A conference: Aus.: since ca. 1939. B., 1953.

confound it! A coll. expletive: C.19–20. Cf. sense 1 of: confounded. Inopportune; unpleasant, odious; excessive. This coll., like awful, beastly, is a mere verbal harlot serving all men's haste, a counter of speech, a thought-substitute. From ca. 1760. Goldsmith, in The Vicar of Wakefield, 'What are thythes and tricks but an imposition, all confounded imposture.' From ca. 1850 its emotional connotation has been brutalised by association with confound it! = damn it! —2. Hence confoundedly, very: coll.: C.18–20.

Confucius he say. This c.p. introductory 'gag' is followed by the 'words of wisdom'—mostly of genuine or cynical homespun philosophy—couched in 'Chinese' grammar: since ca. 1920. P.B. adds: by ca. 1950, if not earlier, the 'words of wisdom' were usu. plain smutty double entendre, e.g. 'Confucius he say.' 'Girl who sit on jockey's knee get hot tip'. By 1960 perhaps slightly ob., but still, 1979, far from †. See DCpp.

confused operations. Combined Operations: RN officers': ca. 1941–3. (Granville.) Ex the viewpoint of the more conservative, the 100 per cent service-minded officers: yet even they relented.

confusion. 'A street fight (West Indian origin)' (Powis): current in 1970s.

Cong. A Congregational chapel; (usu. in pl) a Congregationalist: C.20. Also as adj., e.g., the sect's hymnary, The Book of Congregational Praise, was known as Cong Praise. R.S. noted, 1971, 'At Bishop's Stortford College (1930s) the local Congregationalist chapel was known as "The Conger".' The Congregational Church merged with the Presbyterian Church of England in 1972 to form the United Reformed Church, whose members quite soon became, in church circles, termed Urks.

congee-house. See conjee-house.

congenital. Abbr. congenital idiot: C.20 coll. (Not among 'the masses'.)

conger. An association of London bookseller-publishers that, ca. 1680–1800, printed and sold books as a close corporation, a none-too-generous 'combine': late C.17—early 19: coll. >, by 1750, S.E. >, by 1830, historical. See esp. B.E. Prob. (pace the OED) ex the conger or sea-eel, a lengthy, unpleasant creature.—2. Whence, to enter into such an association: coll. (—1785); † by 1823. Grose, 1st ed.; Egan's Grose.

Congo. A Congregationalist: Aus.: since ca. 1925; ob. after 1972. (B., 1953.) See Cong.

congraggers. Var. of congratters, q.v. D.L. Murray, The English Family Robinson, 1934.

congrats. A coll. abbr. of congratulations. Anthony Hope, The Dolly Dialogues, 1894, 'Dear old Dolly—So you've brought it off. Hearty congrats.'

congratters. Congratulations, gen. as an exclam.: C.20. By 'OXFORD -ER'.

conish. Genteel; fashionable: low (? also, or orig., c.); ca. 1800–40. Perhaps = 'tony' and a corruption from the ton, q.v.

conish cove. A gentleman: Scottish c. of ca. 1820–50. Egan's Grose.

conjee- or congee-house. A lock-up: military coll. (in India mostly): from ca. 1830. Ex Tamil karñji; congee—the water in which rice has been boiled—being a staple food of prisoners in India. Y. & B.

conjobble. To arrange, settle; discuss; v.i., to chat together: 1694; ob.: coll. OED.

conjugal. Conjugal rights: C.20 cultured s. >, by 1930, coll.

conjure. As in 'Buying up horses [by the Army, on the outbreak of WWI] from the stables in Park Lane ... was a "good conjure"; rankers were treated like "toffs", and how the officers fared, I can only imagine' (S.F. Hatton, The Yarn of a Yeoman, 1930): army: early C.20. (P.B.)

conjurer, -or. A C.17–18 sol. for all 'Astrologers, Physiognomists, Chiromancers, and the whole Tribe of Fortune-tellers' (B.E.). Chiefly among the ignorant.—2. The evidence tends to show, however, that these terms were also employed in c. to = either a magistrate, a judge, or as for cunning man, q.v. See also fortune-teller.

conjurer (-or), no. One lacking brains and/or physical skill: coll. > S.E.; from ca. 1660.

conk. The nose; esp. a large nose: low: 1812 (Vaux). H. Cockton, in Valentine Vox, 1840, 'Oh! oh! there's a conk! there's a smeller!' Prob. ex conch, L. concha: cf. L. testa (a pot, a shell) = a head. A rare var. spelling was conque, q.v. Hence, late C.19–20, a lower-middle class nickname for a large-nosed person.—2. 'A spy; informer, or tell-tale': c. of ca.

1810–40. Vaux, who shrewdly relates it to sense 1: cf. nose, an informer.—Hence 3, a policeman: low: ca. 1820–1910.—4. A blow on the nose: low: from ca. 1870: ob.—5. Hence, any blow on the body: from ca. 1920. Senses 4 and 5 have the occ. var. spelling konk.—6. The head: Aus., esp. Sydney: since ca. 1920. (B.P.) Cf. deriv. of sense 1.

konk, v.t. To punch (someone) on the nose: pugilistic (Boxiana, III, 1821): since ca. 1810; ob. in this specific sense (cf. konk, n., 4 and 5), but revised, perhaps first in Aus., to mean gen. 'to hit, to bash': since ca. 1925. In this later sense perhaps merely echoic.—2. V.i., gen. konk out. To fail, break down, esp. of an engine, a machine: to die: aviation s., 1918, >, by 1921, gen. coll. The Aus. version, dating from the same period, is go konk, to fail in the sense of to cease gradually, to peter out. (Baker.) Cf.:- konked, (be). Dead, to die; (of an engine) to stop, be stopped: aviation s., 1917, >, by 1920 gen. coll. Perhaps echoic, from the last few thumps of a failing motor.

konker. A blow on the nose: coll.: ca. 1820–1920. (Boxiana, III, 1821.) Cf. konk, n., 4.—2. 'Internal user motor. Motor not licensed for road' (Railway): railwaymen's: current in mid-C.20.—3. '[A trog, i.e. a slow, careful, trundling, driver] can establish behind him what we call a "konker" of up to 50 other road users' (Charles Gardner, 'Spot the Trog' in Daily Telegraph mag., late June 1972): motorists'. Presumably ex a string of horse-chestnuts. Note that konkers, the name of the game, is S.E.

konker-nut. A red-haired person, esp. if young: schoolchildren's: C.20. (Petch.)

konk(e)y, -kie, n. A nose: market-traders': C.20. (M.T.) Dim. of konk, n., 1.

konk(e)y, adj. Having a large nose. 'Waterloo' Wellington was called Conkey at least a decade before 1815; Old Conkey, after 1815. Alternatively Atty Conkey, lit, 'Arthur the Long-Nosed'. (During his campaigning years in Europe, his staff called him The Peer, from his aloofness. See esp. C.S. Forester's Death to the French, 1932.) See also doork, 3.—2. Hence, 'nosy', inquisitive: from ca. 1840. Cf. bowsprit, beak, nozzle; for synonymy, see F. & H.—3. Worthless; useless: Aus.: since ca. 1925. (B., 1942.) Ex konk, v., 2.

Connaught!, go to hell or. Go away! See go to hell...

Connaught Rangers. 88 in the game of housey-housey (later tombola, then bingo): I last heard it thus called in the late 1950s. The Connaught Rangers, disbanded in 1922, were the 88th Regt of Foot. See Devil's Own. (P.B.) connect, v.i. To understand: C.20. Ex telephones.—2. 'To make a buy' (Hearings, 1955) of narcotics: drug traffic: since ca. 1920. Cf. connection, one's contact.

connect with. In boxing, from ca. 1920, to hit. John O'London's, 4 Feb. 1933.

connection. A trafficker in drugs, it can = 'peddler'; usu., however, of a supplier; also as in 'The French connection', that organisation as a whole: orig. a euph.; by the late 1960s, coll.; by late 1970s virtually S.E.

conner. Food: army: late C.19–20; ob. (B. & P.) Ex Hindustani.—2. Tinned food: army: since 1939; ob. (H. & P.) P.B.: E.P. noted 'Ex Maconochie [q.v.], the manufacturer's name, rather than sense 1'; I feel however that both had an influence. I last heard the term in the early 1970s, and then only among the longest-serving senior non-commissioned ranks.

Connie. A Constellation airliner: since early 1950s; ob. Nino Culotta, Cop This Lot, 1960.—2. The Royal Enfield 'Constellation' motorcycle: motorcyclists': since the early 1950s. (Dunford.)—3. See:- connie or conny. A tram conductor: Melbourne's: C.20. (B., 1943.) As if a pet-form of Constance.—2. A cornelian marble: Aus. children's: C.20. (B.P.)—3. A convict: Aus. juvenile: C.20. Ross Campbell, Mummy, Who Is Your Husband?, 1964.

conning, n. Generic for the confidence trick: C.20: c.>, by 1930, also police s. Ex con, v., 2. conniving about. Aimlessly wandering or pottering: Aus.: since ca. 1935. Cf. buggerising about. B., 1953.

conny-onny. Condensed milk: Merseyside: since ca. 1920. A reduplication.

conny wobble. Eggs and brandy beaten up together: Anglo-Irish: C.18–19. P.B.: ?Any connection with colly-wobbles: I and n are very close together—try saying "Snell's Nook Lane" quickly. Cf. also coniwobble in Ned Ward's list of 'suckers' at DUPES, in Appendix.

conque is a rare var. of konk, n., 1: Boxiana, III, 1821.

conqueror. (As in play the conqueror.) A deciding game: games coll.: from ca. 1870. Cf. decider, q.v.

conrod. Connecting rod to piston: engineers' and mechanics': C.20.

conscience. An association, gen. in a small company, for the sharing of profits: theatrical: ca. 1870–1900.—2. In in (all) conscience, equitably; in fairness or in reason: coll.; from ca. 1590. (Swift.) A mid-C.16–17 var. is of (all) conscience. OED. conscience-keeper. 'A superior, who by his influence makes his dependents act as he pleases' (Grose, 2nd ed.): coll.: late C.18–mid-19.

consequence, of. As a result; by inference: low coll., C.19–20; earlier, S.E. OED.

conservati've. A conservative. Joc., ex Gilbert & Sullivan's opera Iolanthe, 1882, but popularised (as a coll.) only in C.20.

conservatory (roof). The transparent, streamlined roof fitted over the cockpit of a high-speed aeroplane: aviation: from 1934. (Daily Telegraph, 9 Feb. 1935.) Cf. synon. greenhouse.

conshie, -y. Less correct var. of conchie, -y, q.v., a conscientious objector.

conshun's price. Fair terms or price: Anglo-Chinese; from ca.1850; ob. H., 3rd ed. Ex conscience.

considerable amount of concerted action. Conspiracy: Parliamentary: 1883. Mr Herbert Gladstone, asked to withdraw 'malicious conspiracy', substituted this phrase; the younger Conservatives took it up for a few months. Ware.

considerable bend, go on the. To engage in a bout of dissipation: from ca. 1880; cf. bender, 3.

considering, adv. If one considers everything, takes everything into account: coll.; from ca. 1740. Richardson, 'Pretty well, sir, considering' (OED).

consign. To send, wish, as in consign to the devil: coll., from ca. 1900.

consolidate, v.i. To make sure of a job, to make good one's advances to a girl: military coll.: 1916. Ex military j., 'to take measures for holding a captured position to meet a counter attack' (F. & G.).

consols. Abbr. consolidated annuities: (1770) in C.18, Stock Exchange s.; then gen. coll.; finally (from ca. 1850) S.E. The consolidation of all Government securities into one fund took place in 1751.

consonant-choker. One who omits his gs and slurs his rs: ca. 1870–1910.

constable, the. An unwanted companion; a burr that will stick: Services': since ca. 1930; †. H. & P.—2. In outrun (occ., overrun) the c-, to go too fast or too far (lit. and fig.), as in an argument (Butler's Hudibras, I, 1663): coll.; † by 1850.—3. Hence, mid-C.18–20, to change the subject; fall into debt (Smollett, in Roderick Random; Dickens): coll. >, ca. 1880, S.E.; very ob.

Constant. Constantinople (Istanbul): among Britons in E. Mediterranean and Near East: late C.19–20; ob. by 1945, virtually † by 1960.

constant screamer. A concertina: proletarian: ca. 1860–1915. (Ware.) Perhaps, as Franklyn suggests, loose rhyming s., or perhaps a Hobson-Jobson perversion.

consti. Abbr. constipated: young women's: early 1980s. (Joanna Williamson, 1982.)

constician. A member of the orchestra: theatrical; from ca. 1875; †.

constipated. Slow to part with money: from ca. 1925.

constituter. The 'OXFORD -ER' form of the next: Oxford undergraduates': from late 1890s. Ware.

constitutional. A walk taken as exercise (for the good of one's constitution or health): coll.: recorded by SOD in 1829. Smedley, 1850, 'Taking my usual constitutional after Hall'; 'Cuthbert Bede', 1853.—2. Gin and bitters: Aus.: since ca. 1930. B., 1942.

constitutionalise. To take a walk for health: coll.; from ca. 1850. Like its origin, constitutional (q.v.), it is a university term, app. arising at Cambridge.

consumer. A butler: Anglo-Indian; from ca. 1700. Semijocular on consumah.

consult the book of numbers. To call for a division, put the matter to the vote: Parliamentary: ca. 1780–1850. (Grose, 1st ed.) Cf. (the) book of words. Ex the Biblical Book of Numbers, which contains a census of the Israelites (W.).

contact. An acquaintance(ship); a connexion: both with a view to business or self-interest: coll., from ca. 1930, ex commercial j. (—1925); prob. ex US, where the v. is frequent. Fast verging on S.E., at least the near-S.E. of trade.

contacts. Contact lenses: since very soon after the widespread use of these aids, mid-1960s: coll., perhaps adopted ex US.

[contango is so technical that it must rank as j; s., however, in its splashy formation. Ex continue. 1853.]

content. Dead: C.18—early 19; c. and low. (A New Canting Dict., 1725; Grose, 1st ed.) I.e. content in death.

conter. An eating fork. See jury, chummage and conter.

context. To discover, or approximate, the sense of a badly written word from the context: printers' and typists' coll. (—1909) >, by 1925, S.E. Ware.

continent, adj. and adv. On the sick list: Winchester College, C.19–20. See also the entry at WINCHESTER, in Appendix.

continental, not worth a; not care (or give) a. To be worth nothing; care not at all. Orig. (—1869) US; anglicised ca. 1895. In allusion to continental money, a worthless American currency note of ca. 1775–8. Thornton. Cf. dam. See also not care ... and not worth.

continuing, with a. For days on end; for a long time. Often prec. by drunk. Coll.: ca. 1680–1750. B.E.

continuations. Trousers, for they continue the waistcoat: from ca. 1840. Whyte-Melville, 1853. (Cf. dittoes, inexpressibles, unmentionables.) Ex continuations, gaiters (as continuing knee-breeches: OED).

contour-chasing, n. and adj. (Of an aircraft) 'flying very low, and as it were following the slopes and rises of the ground' (F. & G.): RFC > RAF: since ca. 1915. Cf. hedge-hopping.

contours. The curves of a woman's body: C.20: joc. coll. Ex contour as in the SOD's quot'n from Scott: 'The whole contour of her form ... resembled that of Minerva.'

contra. 'A novel "not passed" by Form-master': Bootham School: C.20. (Bootham, 1925.) I.e. L. contra, against.

contra prep. 'Preparation at the end of term, when "contras" are allowed': id. Ibid.

contract, n. A hard task undertaken, a rather difficult job: orig. US (ca. 1880), adopted in England ca. 1890, in Aus. early C.20. OED Sup.; Vance Palmer's novels, e.g. Golconda, 1948.—2. A professional killer's engagement to kill someone: adopted, ca. 1960, by British underworld, espionage and, later, police, ex US. In, e.g., TV's 'The Untouchables' on 16 Dec. 1967. (Petch, 1974.)—3. See bugger the contract.

contraption. A contrivance, device; small tool or article: dial. (1825: EDD) >, ca. 1830, US coll. (Thornton) and, ca. 1850, English coll. Perhaps ex 'contrivance' + 'invention'.

contr'ry. Adverse, inimical, cross-grained, unpleasantly capricious: from ca. 1850: coll. Prob. influenced by the Scottish contrair(y).

control. See everything's under control, all is going smoothly.

control fortune. Not a euph. but a c. term: to cheat at cards: C.19–20; ob. by 1930.

conundrum is s. in that sense, a pun, play on words, which arose at Oxford in 1644 or 1645; in C.18 coll.; ob. by 1800, † by 1830. Prob. ex a lost parody of a scholiast phrase. (Tom Brown; Ned Ward.) W. notes the similarity of panjandrum.—2. Female pudend: ca. 1640–1830. App. earliest in R. W., A Pill to Purge Melancholy, 1652.—3. A sausage: demotic:—1923 (Manchon). Suggested by mystery.

convalescence. A slack period: busmen's: from ca. 1930. (Daily Herald, 5 Aug. 1936.) Opp. belting, 2.

convalescent home. A place of work where conditions are 'good'—i.e. easy: joc. coll.: since ca. 1905.

convavo. Convalescence: army: WW1. R.H. Mottram, The Spanish Farm Trilogy, 1924. (Petch.)

convenience. A privy; chamber-pot: C.19–20; orig. euph., after ca. 1918 a mildly humorous coll. P.B.: E.P. wrote that gloss ca. 1935. The term, certainly as in 'public convenience', has been S.E. since mid-C.20 at latest.

conveniency. A mistress; primarily, however, a wife: c. and low: late C.17—early 19. B.E. Cf.: convenient. A mistress; also, a harlot: c. and low: ca. 1670–1830. Etherege, 1676, 'Dorimant's convenient, Madam Loveit'; Shadwell; B.E.; Grose. Cf. comfortable importance.

convenient, adj. Handy, i.e. conveniently situated or placed: coll.: 1848. Thackeray.

conversation, a little. Cursing and/or swearing: C.20; ob. Ware, 1909. Cf. language, q.v.

conversion job, as in the threat, 'If you don't knuckle under, someone will do a conversion job on you', i.e. a severe bashing about the head, or a razor-slashing of the face: thugs' and police: since late 1940s. 'Heard on TV in crime plays' (Petch, 1969). Ex, e.g., the remodelling of a motorcar.

convey. To steal: mid-C.15–20. Shakespeare: 'Convey, the wise it call.' Orig. euph.; but in mid-C.19–20 decidedly coll. in its facetiousness.

conveyance, a theft, C.16–20; conveyancer, a thief, C.18–19; conveyancing, thieving, swindling, from ca. 1750; conveyor, a thief, esp. if nimble (see Shakespeare's Richard II), late C.16–20. In C.19–20, all these are coll. and more or less joc., though conveyance and conveyer were ob. by 1890, † by 1920.

convincing. Effective; notable; journalistic s. > j.: C.20. In literary and art criticism, it was displaced, ca. 1929, by significant.

convincing ground. 'The site for a grudge fight' (B., 1942): Aus.: C.20.

Convocation Castle. 'Where the ... heads of colleges ... meet to transact and investigate university affairs' (Egan's Grose): Oxford University: ca. 1820–40. Punning Convocation.

cony, coney. 'A silly Fellow', a simpleton: from ca. 1590, archaic after 1820; coll. (Greene, B.E., Grose.) Cf. the C.20 s. use of rabbit. (Var., Tom cony.) Whence:

cony-catch, to cheat, trick, deceive: c. and low: late C.16–18. Greene; Shakespeare, in The Taming of the Shrew, 'Take heed, signor Baptista, lest you be conny-catched in this business.' Ex:

cony-catcher. A deceiver; trickster; sharper: c. and low; ca. 1590–1840. John Day, Robert Greene, Walter Scott.

cony-catching. Trickery; cheating; swindling: c. and low: late C.16—early 19. Shakespeare, Middleton, Ned Ward; the locus classicus, however, is Greene's series of pamphlets on cony-catching: and very good reading they are (see Dr G.B. Harrison's reprints in the Bodley Head Quartos and my Slang, pp. 46–7). Cf. gull, warren.—2. As adj., cheating, swindling: late C.16–17. Greene.

cony-dog. One who assists in cheating or swindling: c.: late C.17–18. B.E.

cool indicates astonishment or disbelief: mostly lower classes' coll.: from ca. 1890. Prob. ex good gracious (or Lord!): cf. the frequent cool lummy! and cor lummy! Mrs C. Raab: a var. is coo-er, dragged out for emphasis into almost four syllables.

cooee, cooey. (The oo sound is long drawn out; the ee, though also long, is sharper.) The Australian Aborigines' signal-cry, adopted by the colonists. Recorded in 1790—see esp. Morris—it has, since ca. 1840, been the gen. hailing or signalling cry. Coll. > S.E. As early as 1864, H. can say that it is 'now not unfrequently [sic] heard in the streets of London'. S.E. Rawson, In Australian Wilds, 1889, 'the startling effects of Jim's cooee'.—2. The v.i. dates from 1827—or earlier.—3. In within cooee, within hail; hence, within easy reach. From ca. 1880; coll.

cook, n. In give or have or take a cook, to take a look: rhyming s.: since ca. 1946. Ex Yiddish guck. (Franklyn, Rhyming.) The Yiddish v.i. itself derives from the coll. Ger. v.i. gucken, to look, to peep, inquisitively. But see also Captain Cook, 4.—2. See who called the cook...

cook, v. To manipulate, tamper with; falsify: coll.; recorded in 1636 (SOD). Smollett, 1751, 'Some falsified printed accounts, artfully cooked up... to mislead and deceive'. H., 5th ed., 'Artists say that a picture will not cook when it is excellent and unconventional and beyond specious imitation'.—2. To kill, settle, ruin, badly worst: from ca. 1850. (Mayhew.) Cf. cook one's goose and cooker.—3. (Of persons) to swelter in the heat: coll.; from ca. 1860.—4. See cook up, to prepare drugs.

cook (someone's) goose (often with for him, her, etc.). To ruin; defeat; kill: from ca. 1850. 'Cuthbert Bede', 'You're the boy to cook Fosbrooke's goose'; Trollope, 1861, 'Chaldicotes... is a cooked goose.' Cf. do brown and settle one's hash. (At this phrase, F. & H. gives an excellent synonymy of 'do for' in its various senses.)

cook hot water for a barber, she couldn't. C.p. applied to a poor housekeeper. See she couldn't... cook-house official. Army var. of latrine rumour, q.v.: WW1. B. & P.

cook of the grot. A mess-orderly: RN officers':—1925 (F. & G.).

cook-off, n., and cook off, v. (To effect) a premature or accidental discharge of a firearm or a cannon: common during WW2, esp. in the Army. Ex the too-high temperature of the barrel. Gerald Pawle, The Secret War, 1956.

cook — esp. be cooking — on all four. To be very busily employed: Can.: adopted, ca. 1945, ex US, which seems now to prefer cook with gas (on the front burner), using all elements, in a slightly different nuance. (Leechman.)

cook-ruffi(a)n. A bad or bad tempered cook: ca. 1690—1830; c., then low. (B.E.) Prob. ex the proverbial saying recorded by Ray in 1670, cook-ruffian, able to scold the devil in (or out of) his feathers (Apperson).

cook-shop. A kitchen on a station: rural Aus.: C.20, but not common. B., 1943.

cook up. To falsify (e.g. accounts): late C.19—20. Var. of cook, v., 1.—2. Hence, to cook up a story, to produce a plausible, and by implication untruthful, account of, e.g., an incident or affair: coll.: C.20 (? earlier). (P.B.)—3. 'To prepare an injection (dissolving heroin in spoon)' (Home Office): drug addicts': current in 1970s.

cooked. Exhausted, ruined, killed: early C.19—20. (Sessions, 1925.) Ex cook (one's) goose.

cookeem fry. Hell: RN: since ca. 1870. (Granville.) Presumably ex 'to cook and fry (in hell)'; however, in John Laffin, Jack Tar, 1969, it is rhyming s. for 'to die': C.20.

cooker. A decisive or a fatal act, a 'settler' or finisher': low:—1869; ob. (OED). Cf. cook, v., 2, and cook (one's) goose.—2. A wild pig. See Captain Cook, 1.—3. A Gurkha knife: army: WW1. Ex the native name, kukri. F. & G.

cookery. 'Many modern painters affect to despise the technique of their art, and deprecate attention to what they irreverently term "cookery"' (Thomas Bodkin, The Approach to Painting, revised ed., 1945): artists': since ca. 1920. Cf. cook, v., 1, q.v.

cookery nook. A ship's galley; a shore station cookhouse: RN: since ca. 1926. (H. & P.) Prob. ex Shore Nook, the title of one of the best-known Aldwych farces. cookie, —y. A cook, often as term of address; in RN, esp. the lowerdeck cook: coll.: from ca. 1770.—2. A harlot: Glasgow s.:—1934.—3. A heavy bomb: RAF: 1940—5 (Jackson). Cf.

groceries. 'In 1943—45, the 4,000 and then the 8,000 lb. bomb' (Partridge, 1945).

cookie-shine. A tea-party: joc. coll.: ca. 1863—80. (Reade.) Ex cookie, a small cake. OED.

Cookies, the. The 55th (or Coke's) Rifles. Regular Army in India: C.20. (F. & G.) The Regt. later became the 13th Frontier Rifles, Indian Army.

cooking-day. Twenty-four hours devoted to Bacchus': RN:—1909; ob. (Ware.) Ex special allowance of grog to the cook (Bowen).

cooking-fuel. Low-octane petrol: motorcyclists' s.: since ca. 1950. (Dunford.)

cook's galley yarn. A (wildly improbable) rumour: the RN equivalent of the army cook-house official: C.20. (Bowen.) Cf. latrine rumour, q.v.

Cook's guide; C. tour, tourists. He who conducted, those who took part in a tour of the trenches by officers and NCOs of an incoming battalion or by visitors: army joc. coll.: 1915—18. F. & G.

cook's last hope. 'A heavy steamed duff' (B., 1943): R Aus. N: WW2.

Cook's (or Cooks') Own, the. The Police Force: ca. 1855—90. Mayhew, ca. 1860 (see Slang, p. 93). On names of regiments and ex police predilection for cooks.

cook's tormentors, a cook's gig-forks (?big forks)—see tormentors, 2—occurs in The Night Watch (II, 88), 1828, and earlier in W.N. Glascock's Sketch-Book, 1825—6. Moe.

cook's warrant. A surgical operation, esp. if amputation: nautical:—1887; ob. Baumann.

Cool and Kal. Coolgardie and Kalgoorlie: Aus. (esp. Western Aus.): late C.19—20.

cool, n. A cut-purse: late C.16—early 17 c. Greene in 2nd Cony-Catching.—2. 'Hippy expression for confidence or self-assuredness' (Powis). Ex the adj., 7. See also keep (one's) cool.—3. '[A] look (back s., "take a cool at that")' (Powis): ex the v., 2, q.v.

cool, v. To kick hard and clear: Eton College: mid-C.19—20.—2. In back s. (—1857), look. 'Ducange Anglicus'; H., 1st ed. Thus cool him! is a costers' warning to 'look out' for the policeman.

cool. (Esp. with fish or hand.) Impertinent, impudent, audacious, esp. if in a calm way: from ca. 1820; coll. till ca. 1880, then S.E. The same with the adv. coolly.—2. Stressing the amount in a large sum of money: from 1728 (SOD); coll. Fielding, in Tom Jones, 'Mr Watson... declared he had lost a cool hundred, and would play no longer'.—3. At Eton College, clear, effective, as in cool kick: mid-C.19—20. Cf. cool, v., 1.—4. (Of jazz) good and modern: jazz-lovers': since ca. 1945. (The Observer, 16 Sept. 1956.)—5. (Of a singer) slow and husky: since ca. 1948. (Ibid.)—6. Very pleasing or attractive or satisfactory: Canadian (esp. teenagers)': adopted, ca. 1955, from US. All these senses came from US: 4 and 5 were adopted at least five, perhaps ten, years earlier in Canada than in Britain. 'Cool became a word of praise when hot ceased to be one; that is, when hot jazz went out of fashion, to be displaced by bop or bebop, a later—a "progressive" or "modern jazz"' (F.E.L. Priestley, in letter of 20 Dec. 1959).

—7. Self-possessed; real cool, devilishly self-possessed: jazz, beatnik, teenage: since ca. 1950. Cf.—in S.E.—'a cool hand' and 'cool-headed'. Nigel Dempster, discussing fashionable trends in 'The Ins and Outs of Our Social Minefield', Daily Telegraph mag., 11 Mar. 1979, noted that the term 'cool' was now démodé among 'the smart set'.—8. Retaining complete control—or so the addict believes—while 'turned on' (drug-exhilarated): since late 1960s. John Wyatt, Drugs, 1973. An extension of sense 7.—9. 'Not carrying illegal drugs' (Peter Fryer in the Observer colour sup., 3 Dec. 1967): addicts': since early 1960s.

cool as a cucumber, adj. and adv. Cool(ly) and calm(ly): from ca. 1700; coll. Gay, Scott, DeMorgan. The C.17 form was cool as cucumbers, as in Fletcher.

cool as a virgin. Relaxed and self-possessed: RN: WW2.

(D. Bolster, Roll on My Twelve, 1945.) Cf. the earlier 'Yet the troops keep as cool as lambs' (James Milne, Epistles of Alkins, 1902).

cool cat. An addict of modern jazz: jazz-lovers': since ca. 1945. Observer, 16 Sept. 1956.—2. A rock-and-roller: adopted, 1956, from US.—3. (Ex. 1.) A fine fellow: Can.: since ca. 1956.

cool (one's) coppers. To quench the morning thirst after over-night drinking: from ca. 1860: coll. (T. Hughes in Tom Brown at Oxford, 1861.) P.B.: boilers, rather than coins.

cool crape. A shroud: C.18—early 19: low. (A New Canting Dict., 1725.) Ex c.-c., 'a slight Chequer'd Stuff made in imitation of Scotch Plad [sic]' (B.E.). Hence, be put into one's cool crape, C.18, is to die.

cool (one's) heels. To be kept standing; esp. waiting: from ca. 1630; coll. > S.E. by 1700. A slightly earlier from was hoofs, applied lit. to soldiers. Cf. cool (one's) toes.

cool it! Lam down! Relax! orig. teenagers', soon > gen.: adopted, ex US, ca. 1960. Sometimes elab. to cool it, man! following the Black style. See DCpp.

cool lady. A female camp-follower that sells brandy: late C.17—early 18. B.E. Ex-cool Nant(e)s or Nantz. Brandy: ca. 1690—1830: coll. (B.E., Grose.) Ex the city of Nantes.

cool out. As in 'Most kids use (glue-sniffing) to cool out from pressure—pressures from jobs, from school...' (Time Out, 8 Jan. 1982, p. 15).

cool tankard. (Like cool crape—lady—Nantes, it may be, but rarely is, spelt with a hyphen.) 'Wine and Water, with a Lemon, Sugar and Nutmeg' (B.E.): coll.: late C.17—18; in C.19—20 (ob.), S.E.

cool (one's) toes. To have to wait: coll.: ca. 1660—1770. (Brathwait, 1665: OED.) Cf. to cool (or kick) (one's) heels.

coolaman. A drinking vessel: Aus. coll.: from ca. 1870. (B. & L.) Ex Aboriginal.

cooler. A woman: late C.17—early 19: low, ? orig. c. (B.E., Grose.) Ex the cooling of passion and bodily temperature ensuing after sexual intercourse.—2. Ale, stout, or porter taken after spirits (even with water): from ca. 1820. (Pierce Egan's Tom and Jerry.) Cf. dampier.—3. A heavy punch: boxers':—1823; † by 1900. 'Jon Bee'.—4. A prison: orig. (—1884) US; anglicised, in c., ca. 1890; generalised, esp. as a detention cell, to s. in WW1, and used thus in the Services ever since.—5. A chilly glance: Aus.: C.20. B., 1942.—6. See bring in a cooler.

Coolgardie safe. A makeshift safe for keeping food cool in country districts: Aus.: since ca. 1920. Baker, 1959, 'The stress in on cool rather than on the place-name, Coolgardie' (in Western Aus.).

coolie, cooly. 'A common fellow of the lowest class': orig. nautical use: from ca. 1880; †. Ex Tamil for 'day labourer' (see esp. Y. & B.).—2. Hence, a private soldier:—1859 (H., 1st ed.); † by 1900.—3. 'A locomotive fireman. [Among] the hardest physical tasks in industry [is] firing on a steam locomotive' (McKenna, Glossary, 1970): railwaymen's.

Coolie Christmas. The Moharram as observed by the Indian immigrants: Natal coll.: C.20. Graaf Reinet Advertiser, 2 May 1902. Pettman.

coolieing, go. To hawk vegetables and/or fruit: S. African coll.:—1913 (Pettman).

cooling card, a. Anything that cools enthusiasm: ca. 1570—1750; coll. Ex an obscure card-game.

cooloo, the (whole). 'The whole lot' of whatever it is: since ca. 1935. Perhaps ex US. the whole caboodle. But prob. from Arabic cooloo, all: cf. a cooloo.

coolth. Coolness: S.E. >, ca. 1890, joc. coll. OED Sup.

cooly. See coolie.

coon. A man, esp. if sly and shrewd. Ex US, anglicised by Punch in 1860.—2. A Negro: ex US (—1870), anglicised ca. 1890. Ex raccoon. Thornton.—3. Hence, in Aus. coll., an Aboriginal: since ca. 1920. (Jean Devanney, 1944.) Cf. boong.—4. As in... or I'm a coon' = a highly unlikely alternative: earlier C.20 (G. Mitchell, The Longer Bodies, 1930). Cf. synonym. (or) I'm a Dutchman. (Mrs C. Raab.)

252

coon's age, a. A very long time, the racoon being notably long-lived: ex US (—1845), anglicised ca. 1870 but now ob. Thornton.

coop. A prison: c.: an early example is in Sessions, Sep. 1785, but cf—cooped-up. In prison: c. and low: from ca. 1690. B.E.

cooper. Stout half-and-half, i.e. stout with an equal portion of porter: coll.: from ca. 1858. (H., 2nd ed.) Ex the coopers of breweries.—2. A buyer or seller of illicit spirits; a ship engaged in such contraband: nautical coll.: from ca. 1880. Ex S.E. senses.—3. In C.20 vagrants' c., a casual ward to be avoided. Ex sense 2 of coopered. Cf:—4. A bungling, or something bungled; a mistake: on borders between tramps' and Romany s.: C.20. (Robert M. Dawson.) coöperation. Sexual play and intercourse with no implication of marriage: searchlight crews': 1939—early 40; in short, during 'the phoney war'—'before Combined Operations had become a Staff concept' (H. R. Spencer). Contrast combined operations. See also co-op.

coopered. Made presentable: coll.: 1829 (Scott: OED). Prob. ex horse-co(oper).—2. Illicitly tampered with; forged; spoiled; betrayed, ruined: the c. and low, esp. the turf: from ca. 1850. (Mayhew.) The other parts of the verb are rare. Cognate with scuppered, q.v. (In vagabondia, denoted by the sign ∇: H., 2nd ed.)—3. Topsy: late C.19—early 20. It occurs in a letter written by Kipling to Rider Haggard on 5 May 1925, where he refers to a famous man being 'richly coopered' at a banquet: in Morton Cohen, Rudyard Kipling to Rider Haggard: the Record of a Friendship, 1965. Ex either sense 2, or 'in a barrel'. (P.B.) coopering. The vbl n. corresponding to cooper, 2: the practice of such sales: nautical: mid-C.19—20. Bowen.

Cooper's ducks with, be. To be all over with: London butchers' (—1902); slightly ob. Apperson from Notes & Queries. Presumably of anecdotal origin.

Cooper's Snoopers. Social-survey investigators: 1940, then ob. Investigators proposed by the Rt Hon. Duff Cooper.

coopetty-coop. Money: RN: early C.20. F. & G. note an anecdotal origin.

coopy (pron. with oo short). A hen: proletarian: late C.19—mid-20. That which lives in a coop. (P.B.)

coox. To whip: Scottish c. of c. ca. 1810—80. (Haggart's Life, 1821.) Prob. ex S.E. coir.

coosh. Good, comfortable, easy: Aus.: since ca. 1919. (Baker.) Ex either cushy or—cooshy. Sleep: army: WW1. Ex Fr. coucher. F. & G.

coot. A simpleton: orig. (1794), US; anglicised mid-C.19; also Aus.: C.20 (Alex. Buzo, 1973, defines it as 'a foolish person'). Gen. as silly coot or old coot. (Thornton.) Ex the common coot's stupidity.—2. Hence, a person of no account: Aus. contemptuous:—1916 (C.J. Dennis).—3. A body-louse. A shortening of cootie, q.v.

coota. Occ. form of cootie.

cooter. A sovereign (coin). See couter.

cooter goosht. Bad food: army: late C.19—early 20. (F. & G.) Ex the Hindustani for 'dog's meat'.

cootie. A body-louse: nautical (C.20) >, by 1915, at latest, military. Ex Malayan for a dog-tick. Moreover, kutu is common throughout Polynesia for any kind of louse: see, e.g. Tregear's Mangareoa Dict. See Words!, revised ed.

cooty. Lousy: army (ex RN): C.20 Ex cootie or coot, 3.

cop, n. A policeman (—1859); abbr. copper. H., 1st ed.—2. An arrest, as in It's a (fair) cop (spoken by the victim): from ca. 1870: low (? orig. c.). Sessions, Aug. 1886, 'What do you want to search me for, you have a good cop.' (In Cumberland dial. it = a prison. EDD.) Ex cop, v., 4.—3. A vocation or a job: Aus.:—1916 (C.J. Dennis). Hence be on a soft (or sweet) cop, to have an easy job.—4. Whence or cognately, an easy matter, gen. as be no cop, q.v. at no cop: coll.: since late C.19.—5. The sighting of a 'wanted' locomotive number: train spotters': mid-C.20. Colin Clifford, Each a Glimpse, 1970. (P.B.) Ex—cop, v. Catch, capture: from ca. 1700, SOD recording at 1704.—2. Hence, to steal: low: mid-C.19–20. EDD—3. In mid-C.19–20, it also = take, receive, be forced to endure, as in cop it (hot), (occ. simply as cop), to be scolded, to get into trouble,—cop the bullet, get-the sack,—cop the needle, become angry. The C.20 cop out is a var. of cop it hot. In WW1, cop it = to die, while cop a packet = to be wounded, gen. severely.—4. As = arrest, imprison, perhaps as = steal, it was orig. (C.19) c.; in C.20, low.—5. In racing c., since ca. 1860, if a 'bookie' wins on a race, he has 'copped'; and his clerk accordingly marks the book with a C. John Morris.—6. In the card game Prop and cop, q.v. at prop, v., 2.—7. To catch on to; to notice, to detect: Aus., since ca. 1930 (Cusack & James, Come in Spinner, 1951); also Brit., as in, e.g., one young man, eyeing a girl, to another, 'Cop a load of that lot!'—in admiration or, sometimes, derision.—8. 'To receive corrupt payments: "Did he cop?" means "Did he receive a gratuity (or bribe)?"' (Powis): police and underworld: current in 1970s. The word derives 1—prob. ex L. capere. 2—via the Old Fr. capere, to seize. 3—whence the C.17 S.E. cap, to arrest: cap to cop is a normal argotic change. Whence copper, q.v.

cop! Beware! Take care! Anglo-Indian: mid-C.19—early 20. (H., 3rd ed.)? ex cop, v., 3.

cop a coronation. To be caned. See coronation.

cop a dark 'un. To be given overtime work on a winter's night. See dark'un.

cop a deaf 'un. To pretend not to hear or not to have heard: (c. and) low: since ca. 1920. Powis, 1977, has cock a deaf'un.

cop a dose. To become infected with venereal disease: low: since ca. 1870. (Manchon.) See dose, n., 5.

cop a flower-pot. A Cockney synonym (by rhyming s.: C.20) of cop it hot (see cop, v., 3). A news-vendor, in late Sep. 1935, said of Mussolini: 'He will cop a flower-pot if he goes on like this' (New Statesman and Nation, 28 Sep. 1935).

cop a mouse. To get a black eye: artisans':—1909 (Ware).

cop a packet. To be severely wounded: army: WW1. See cop, v., 3.—2. Hence, of a place, to be badly bombed or shelled: gen. coll.: WW2. 'I hear Southampton didn't half cop a packet in the raids last night.' (P.B.)—3. 'Copped a packet. Given a sentence of preventive detention' (Tempest): c.: mid-C.20.

cop a plea. ' "We went to the magistrates and copped a plea (pleaded guilty to a much reduced charge) and got a two hundred and fifty fine." "A trade?" asked John McVicar. "Cost us two gee (£2,000)"' (Laurie Taylor, New Society, 23 Dec. 1982, p. 500): c.: later C.20. And see cop, v.

cop bung! 'A warning cry when the police make their appearance': c.: from ca. 1875. (B. & L.) See cop, n., 1.

cop it. To die: army: WW1. See cop, v., 3. Contrast:—2. To become pregnant: Aus. feminine (low): since ca. 1920. (Margaret Trist, Now That We're Laughing, 1944.) Some Brit. usage also. Ex the nuance 'get into trouble' at cop, v., 3.

cop it hot. To be severely reprimanded. See cop, v., 3.

cop on is the Northern equivalent of Southern get off (with a member of the other sex): late C.19–20.

cop on the cross. Cunningly to discover guilt: c.: late C.19–20.

cop-out, n. The action from any of the meanings at cop-out, v., 3.

cop-out, v. To get into trouble. See cop, v., 3.—2. To die: army in Boer War and, occ., later. J. Milne, Epistles of Atkins, 1902.—3. To evade an ethical issue; to make a cowardly denial of one's beliefs; to compromise, take the easy way out; to go back on one's word; to withdraw from a project, programme, etc.: adopted, ca. 1960, ex US, where used, since ca. 1920, for 'to plead guilty'. (P.B.) cop-out man. He who, in a crooked game, takes the winnings: Aus. two-up players': since ca. 1920. B., 1953.

cop-shop. Police station: Aus. c.: C.20 (B., 1942); by mid-C.20, common in Brit. also.

cop that lot! Just look at those people or that scene or display or incident; with an implication of admiration or astonishment or derision: Aus. c.p.: since ca. 1930. (Nino Culotta, Cop This Lot, 1960.) Cf. cop, v., 7.

cop the brewery. To get drunk: low: from ca. 1860; ob. Ware.

cop the bullet. To be dismissed from a job. See cop, v., 3.

cop the curtain. 'To gain so much applause that the curtain is raised for the performer to appear and bow': music-halls' (ca. 1880) >, by 1890, theatres'. (Ware.) Cf. curtain-taker.

cop the drop. (Of a policeman.) To accept bribes: c.: from ca. 1910. Cf. drop, n., 4, and dropsy. See also take the drop.

cop the needle. To become angry. See cop, v., 3.

cop the tale. To swallow a confidence-trick story: c.: from ca. 1919.

cop this, young Harry! A c.p. used during horse-play (e.g. pie-throwing): Aus.: since ca. 1950. (B.P.) Ex a 'gag', originated by Roy Rene in the McCackie sketches, late 1940s, which was actually, 'Young Harry, cop this!', uttered just before he clipped the lad on the ear. Later applied in such 'ordinary' situations as passing someone a cup of tea.

copasetic. All safe, wholly safe; all clear; excellent; most attractive: Can. adaptation, ca. 1925, of US copasetic (Berrey and Van den Bark). Ex 'Chinook jargon, developed as a trading pidgin by the water-borne tribes of western Washington [State] and British Columbia. The original is copasenee, meaning "everything is satisfactory"' (Dr Donald L. Martin).

copbusy, n. 'A thief handing over plunder to a confederate to escape the law' (B., 1942): Aus. c.: C.20. Excopbusy, v. To hand over the booty to a confederate or a girl: c.:—1839 (Brandon); ob. by 1930.

cope, n. 'An exchange, bargain; a successful deal': low: from ca. 1840; ob. ('No. 747'.) Prob. independent of the same word recorded, for C.16–17, by the OED.

cope, v. 'To do one's duty satisfactorily' (Grenfell Finn-Smith in list communicated in 1942): Services' (esp. Army officers') coll.: since 1935; adopted from Society s. (from ca. 1933), as in D. du Maurier, Rebecca, 1938. Short for cope with things, cope with it, etc. 'Can you cope?' is perhaps the most frequent form.

copemate. An accomplice: late C.16—early 17 c. or low s.; T. Wilson, 1570; Greene. Cf. the S.E.

copman. A policeman: Aus. c.: C.20. B., 1942.

coppa dah! Catch this: army: C.20. (F. & G.) Ex cop there! and cop that!

copper, n. A policeman, i.e. one who 'cops' or captures, arrests: orig. theatrical: from early 1840s. Sessions, 16 May 1846.—2. A penny or a halfpenny: from ca. 1840. In pl., coll. for halfpennies and pennies mixed. 'Still used of the bronze which has superseded the copper coinage' (OED, 1893)—and through further debasements; the term is perhaps still only slightly ob. in late 1970s.—3. An informer to the police: c.: C.20. Cf. sense 1.—4. Hence, also, a prison informer: c.: C.20. (H.U. Triston, 1938.)—5. See skying a copper.

copper, v. To inform against; cause to be arrested: c.: C.20. Edgar Wallace, Room 13, 1924.—2. To be a 'copper' or policeman: mostly police: since the 1940s. In, e.g., John Wainwright's novels.

copper-arse. 'A cabman who works long hours, that is, one who is able to sit on his cab longer than most. It is also applied to a man who is always cruising' (Herbert Hodge, Cab, Sir?, 1939). Cf. the nautical S.E. copper-bottomed.

copper(-)belly. A fat man: Cockneys': late C.19–20. The copper being that used on washing day.

copper bolts. Excrement: low (?orig. artisans'): C.20.

copper-bottom. 'A lorry driver who breaks the law by driving more than 11 hours in 24 to undercut other drivers. Also day-and-night merchant' (Peter Sanders): since late 1940s. (Daily Telegraph, 26 Jan. 1964.) The legal maximum hours since 1982, are eight. Cf. copper-arse.

copper-captain. A pretended captain: from ca. 1800 (?orig. US); coll. > S.E. copper-clawing. A fight between women: London streets': from ca. 1820; ob. Ware suggests cap-a-clawing, but more prob. a corruption of clapper-claw, q.v.

copper-house. A police-station: c.: C.20. (Gilt Kid, 1936.) Ex copper, a policeman. Cf. the later and more succinct cop-shop.

copper Johns. ?A sixpence; ca. 1700. See MONEY, in Appendix.

Copper Knob. Nickname for red-headed person, esp. man: since ca. 1860; by 1960, slightly ob. D.W. Barrett, Navvies, 1880.

copper(-)knocker. A metal worker; in pl, the metal-workers' shop on an airfield: RAF: since ca. 1925. H. & P. copper-man. A policeman: Aus. c.: ca. 1870–1910. Later shortened to copman. Ex copper, n., 1.

copper-nose. The red, pimply, swollen nose of habitual drunkards: coll.; from early C.17; B.E. records the adj. copper-nosed, which until ca. 1660 was S.E. copper-rattle. (Irish) stew: RN: late C.19–early 20. (Good-enough, 1901.) Ex the noise made by the bones in the pot.

copper-shop. A police station: police: since ca. 1910. Cf. copper-house, and the later and more succinct cop-shop.

copper-show. A copper-mine: Aus.:—1916 (C.J. Dennis).

copper-slosher. One apt to 'go for' the police: 1882. Ware.

copper-stick. The membrum virile: low: C.19–early 20. Analogous is C.19 coral branch.—2. From ca. 1880, a policeman's truncheon.

copper-tail. A member of the lower classes: Aus.: late C.19–early 20. (B., 1942.) Hence, adj., copper-tailed. Opp. silver-tail, q.v.

copper-top. Mostly Aus. version of copper knob, a red-haired person, and, like the latter, often used as a nickname:—1916 (C.J. Dennis).

Coppers in Disguise. Members of the Criminal Investigation Department: joc.: C.20.

copper's mark. A police spy or informer: c.: from ca. 1860. (Henley.) Mark = spy.

copper's shanty. A police-station: low: ca. 1890–1915. Ware.

coppers wore high hats, when. A long while ago. See when coppers...

coppiest. A boy—or even a man—that, at level crossings, takes the plate numbers of railway engines: since ca. 1930. (Daily Mirror, 19 Sep. 1946.) Ex cop, 'to catch; to take'. See cop, n., 5.

copy, a tufted fowl; adj., crested: dial. (1880) >, by 1885, coll. Ex dial. cop, the top of anything. OED.

copter. A helicopter: aviation: 1944+. Superseded by chopper, q.v.

copus. A drink of wine or beer imposed as a fine in hall: Cambridge University, C.18–19. Johnson derives ex episcopos (cf. bishop, q.v.); H. ex hippocras.

copy(-)cat. A child given to copying others' work: elementary schools'.—2. Also a person annoyingly given to repeating or imitating others. Both, C.20 coll.

copy-holder. A C.17 drinking term. See TAVERN TERMS, §9 (near end), in Appendix.

copy of (one's) countenance. A pretence, hypocrisy; sham, humbug: from ca. 1570; coll., passing in C.17 to S.E. In Westward Ho, a play of 1607: 'I shall love a puritan's face the worse, whilst I live, for that copy of thy countenance.'

copy of uneasiness. 'A copy of writ in any court' (Bee): ca. 1820–40.

cor. God, as a low expletive: C.19–20. Via Gor'. As, e.g., in corblimey, a var. of gorblimey, q.v., God blind me. Cf. the entries at Gawd!

cor! chase me (i.e. my) Aunt Fanny round the clock tower!—RN, Chatham Division, C.20; ... round the gasworks!—gen. proletarian, C.20; ... round the bomb 'ole!—children's (?more gen.), WW2. C.pp. expressing either astonishment or incredulity. Chatham clock tower is a prominent feature of the townscape; bomb 'ole = bomb crater, with which Great Britain grew all too familiar in WW2. (E.P.; P.B.).

cor! chase me, winger, round the wash-(h)ouse! A RN lowerdeck var. of prec., current ca. 1947–57.

cor fuck a duck! A—for the army (ex Cockney)—mild expletive of surprise: mid-C.20. P.B., 1974, compares the army fuck my old boots! (C.20) and the Aus. root my boot! (since ca. 1920).

cor lummie (or -y)! A Cockney expletive: mid-C.19–20. I.e. God love me. See cor and cf. gorblimey.

coral. Money: 1841 (W. Leman Rede, Sixteen String Jack); † by 1900.

Coras. The stocks and shares of the Caledonian Railway: Stock Exchange: from ca. 1885. On the analogy of Doras, q.v. A.J. Wilson, 1895; Daily Telegraph, 5 June 1935.

'cordion or c. An accordion: coll., esp. Cockneys': from ca. 1890. (Pugh.) Cf. tina.

cordite jaunty. 'Chief Gunner's Mate responsible for regulating duties at a Naval Gunnery School' (Granville): RN: since ca. 1920.

corditer. A sporting team from the Excellent: RN: C.20. (Bowen.) Because 'hot stuff'.

Cordle, Lord and Lady. Two finely bedecked canaries sitting in a little carriage: London street-performers' coll. nickname:—1887 (Baumann).

corde. A pair of corduroy trousers; clothes of corduroy: from ca. 1880: lower classes' s., now verging on coll. W.A. Gape, Half a Million Tramps, 1936.

corduroy brigade. The workmen, plumbers, bricklayers employed by Bricks: since ca. 1930. H. & P.

corduroys. (A pair of) corduroy trousers: from ca. 1780; coll.; in C.20, S.E.

core, v.i. To pick up small articles in shops: ca. 1810–60. Vbl n., cor(e)ing. Perhaps ex Romany cor, to steal (Sampson).

corella. 'A sheep with patches of wool hanging loose' (B., 1959): Aus. rural: since ca. 1915. A corella is a kind of cockatoo: cf., therefore, rosella, 2.

corey or corie. Penis: circus hands' and Cockney (and Kentish dial.): C.20. Perhaps sadistic: cf. coring mush. More prob. ex Romany kori, a thorn, the penis. Robert Barltrop, 1981, notes 'established, though not often used'.

coriander seed. Money: c.: from ca. 1690. Var. of colliander seed. B.E. coring mush. A boxer; a fighter: c.: C.20. (Gilt Kid, 1936.) Ex Romany koor, strike, to fight: The Romany kooromengro is, lit., a fight-man. For the second element, see mush, n., last sense.

Corinth. A brothel: C.17–19; coll. >, by 1800, S.E. The ancient Greek city was noted for its elegance and modernity, also for its licentiousness.

Corinthian. A rake: late C.16–18; coll. soon S.E., as is the adj.—2. A dandy, hence a fashionable man about town: ca. 1800–50; coll. > S.E., precisely as swell, which was in vogue by 1854, > S.E. One of the characters in Pierce Egan's Life in London is Corinthian Tom.

corn, n. A bankrupt: ca. 1870–1900 (H., 5th ed.). Ex his lack of 'ballast'.—2. A small employer; a foreman: Scottish coll.: from ca. 1820. Blackwood's, Sep. 1822. (Moe.)—3. A workman bringing a charge against his fellows: workshops':—1909 (Ware, who derives it ex caucus).—4. New bread: Cotton College: C.19–20. Anecdotal—but almost certainly correct—origin (boys asking for cork received bread), Cottonian, autumn 1939, article by Frank Roberts.—5. See corks: a butler; money.

corn! Shut up!: St Bees School: since ca. 1914 (Marples). I.e. cork the bottle.—2. 'Code!', as an order: RN: since ca. 1920. Occ. used in other grammatical moods. 'Decode!' was, naturally, uncork! Granville.

cork and water. Any bottle of medicine: Bootham School: late C.19–20. Bootham, 1925. Cf.:-

cork-and-water club. Old scholars at Oxford University: id. Ibid.

cork-brained. Foolish, light-headed: C.17–20; coll.; S.E. after ca. 1820. In B.E. as corky-b.

cork eye (at someone), have a. To look hard and disapprovingly: Aus.: since ca. 1930. F.B. Vickers, First Place to the Stranger, 1955.

corked. (Of wine) tasting of cork: coll. (—1864), > S.E. H., 3rd ed.—2. Very drunk: C.20. Lyell.

corker. Something that ends an argument or a course of action; anything astounding, esp. a great lie. Recorded for 1837; app. orig. US (OED): s. >, by 1920, coll. Cf. caulker, settler, whopper, and esp. put the lid on (W.).—2. In contrast, something, usu. some person, particularly estimable or, in the instance of a girl, attractive: coll.: earlyish C.20. Ex corking, 1. Cf. brick for good-will, stunner for good looks. (P.B.)—3. See play the corker.

corking. Unusually large, fine, good: from early 1890s: mostly US, s. >, by 1930, coll. App. ex corker, q.v., on the model of other percussive adj. (whacking, whopping, etc.). OED Sup.—2. Hence, semi-adv., as in 'A corking great thing' (Manchon, 1923).

corks. A butler: from ca. 1860. (H., 3rd ed.) Cf. chips, a carpenter.—2. Money: nautical and military; from ca. 1858. (H., 2nd ed.) Ex the floating property of corks.

corks! A lower classes' coll. interj.: not recorded before 1926, but heard by the writer in late 1921. Either a corruption, prob. euph., of cock's as in cock's (God's) body (OED Sup.), or an abbr., as I think, of corkscrew!, q.v. corkscrew, n. A funnel on the early ships of the General Steam Navigation Company: nautical: late C.19—early 20. (Bowen.) Ex the black and white bands painted spirally. Hence the Corkscrews, the ships of that line. Cf. Blue Flue Boats.

corkscrew, v. To move spirally: Dickens, 1837: 'Mr. Bantam corkscrewed his way through the crowd' (SOD).—2. Cork-screw out. To draw out with a corkscrew: coll.: Dickens, 1852. (OED).

corkscrew! An evasion of God's truth: low London:—1909 (Ware). Cf. cheese and crust.

corkscrewed(-up). Having Dutch courage after resort to the whisky or brandy bottle: applied to officers by Tommies: WW1. (Petch, 1966.)

corkscrewing. The uneven walk due to intoxication: coll.: from ca. 1840.

corkscrews. Abbr. corkscrew curls: coll.; from ca. 1880. Displaces bottle-screws.—2. Ships of the GSN Co. See cork-screw, n.

corky. Frivolous; lively; restive: from ca. 1600: coll.; ob. Contrast the S.E. senses.

corky-brained. A coll. var. (C.17–19) of cork-brained, q.v. corn. Hackneyed or old-fashioned, esp. of entertainment. Noun ex corny, 2, q.v., and cf. corn off the cob.—2. As the Corn, the Cornmarket, Oxford: Oxford undergraduates': late C.19–20. Collinson.—3. See carry corn.

corn fake; corn fake worker. A corn cure; a market-place or fair-ground chiropodist: showmen's: since ca. 1880. Cf. noB fake. Mostly a corn-plaster.

corn-holer. A pederast: low Can.: C.20.

corn in Egypt. Plenty, esp. of food: coll. (in C.20, S.E.); from ca. 1830.

corn off the cob, as in 'Don't give me that—it's corn off the cob'—i.e. 'corny' (see corny, 2): Aus.: adopted, ca. 1944, ex US. (B.P.) corn-snortex. The nose: low: ca. 1825–70. Sinks, 1848.

corn-yak. Corned beef: Merseyside: since ca. 1930.

Cornucuer. HMS Conqueror: RN: C.20.

corned. Drunk:—1785 (Grose). Cf. pickled and salted for semantics. Not, as often supposed, an Americanism, as, however, have corns in the head (to be drunk) may possibly be. In dial., corny.—2. Pleased; well content: tailors': from ca. 1870. B. & L. See corned with...

corned beef. thief: rhyming s.; C.20. Hence the var. bully beef.—2. A Chief Officer in a British prison: rhyming s., orig. and still esp. in prisons. Tempest.

Corned Beef Island. A Corporation housing-estate: urban: from ca. 1925. 'Like bully-beef tins' (Allan M. Laing).

corned dog. Bully beef: military: C.20. F. & G.

corned with (one)self, be. (Very) well pleased with oneself:

tailors': late C.19–20. (Tailor and Cutter, 29 Nov. 1928.) See corned, 2.

Cornel Wilder. A hair-fashion (hair worn long) among Aus. urban, esp. Sydney, youths: Aus.: ca. 1950–9. (B., 1953.) Ex the American film star, Cornel Wilde (hair not excessively long).

cornelian tub. A sweating-tub: late C.18—early 19 coll. Grose, 3rd ed.

corner, n. A money-market monopoly with ulterior motives. From the 1850s. Coll. >, by 1900, S.E. Thornton.—2. As the Corner, Tattersall's subscription rooms: mid-C.19–20, †; sporting. It is more than sixty years since 'Tatts' was near Hyde Park Corner.—3. Also, Tattenham Corner on the Derby course at Epsom: sporting, from ca. 1870.—4. In c. (—1891), a share; the chance of a share in the proceeds of a robbery. By 1925, also Aus. low s. (Rats, 1944.) Prob. ex US rather than ex Eng. (See Underworld.)—5. As the Corner, the junction of the boundaries of Queensland, NSW, and South Australia: Aus. coll.: C.20.—6. As the C, the Garden Island Naval Prison, Sydney: R Aus. N: since ca. 1930. B., 1943.—7. In on the corner, out of work; on the dole: coll.: since late 1920s. F.D. Ommanney, North Cape, 1939: 'When he gets too old for a job, he is "on the corner", one of a sad little crowd.' The natural urban focal-point for those with nothing to do; cf. corner-ender.—8. See hot corner.

corner, v. Drive into a fig. corner: ex US (1824), anglicised ca. 1840: coll.—2. Monopolise a stock or a commodity: from the mid-1830s in US (whence, too, the corresponding n.) and anglicised before 1860.

corner-boy. A loafer: Anglo-Irish coll.: from ca. 1880; but recorded in US in 1855 (Thornton). Prob. suggested by corner-cove, q.v. Cf. corner-man.

corner-cove. A hanger-on: pugilistic: ca. 1815–60. See quo'n at Q-in-the-corner.—2. A street-corner lounge or loafer: coll.: from ca. 1850. Mayhew.

corner-creeper. An underhand and furtive person: coll.; ca. 1560–1720; S.E. after 1600.

corner-ender (mostly in pl.). A loafer: since late 1920s. Cf. euph. free, 'out of a job'.

corner like a postman. (Of a cyclist) to round a corner gingerly and sedately, rather than 'leaning into it': racing cyclists': later C.20. (P.B.)

