Hackney Gurkhas, the. The 10th County of London Battalion, of the London Regiment, 're-raised in 1912 as the Hackney Regiment... During the First World War they acquired the redoubtable nickname of "The Hackney Gurkhas" (not surprising, perhaps, to those who knew their London)' (John Gaylor, Military Badge Collecting, 1977).—2. The army has already trained engine drivers, signalmen and platelayers in the Royal Corps of Transport. "Hackney Gurkhas" as the railwaymen call them' (New Society, 1 July 1982, p. 4).

Hackney Marsh. Glass (of liquor): rhyming s.: late C.19–mid-20. (Franklyn 2nd.) Cf. Jack Surpass and Khyber Pass, 1.

hackslaver. To splutter, hesitate in speech, stammer: low coll.:—1864; ob. (H., 3rd ed.) Ex † S.E. hack, same meaning.

hackum, occ. -am or -em. A bravo, a blustering bully: coll.: from ca. 1650; ob. by 1820, † (in England) by 1860. Var.: Captain Hackum, in B.E. and Grose, the former designating it—wrongly, I think—as c. Obviously a var. of S.E. hacker ex hack, to gash. (But hackster, its var., is S.E.)

hacky. Of, or like, a hack (horse): coll.: 1870.—2. (Of a cough) hacking: coll.: from ca. 1899. OED.

had. Deceived, tricked, 'done'. See have.

Had'em, Haddums. Rare except in to have been at Haddums, late C.17–18 (B.E.), or in the mid-C.18—early 19 c.p. (Grose, 1st ed.) to have been at Had'em and come home by Clapham, punning Hadham and clap: properly, to have caught clap or gonorrhoea; loosely, syphilis. (These topographical and coll. puns were much commoner before ca. 1830 than after.) had enough (, have). (To be) tipsy: coll.: C.19–20. I.e. more than enough.

had it. See have had it.

had on! 'Sucks!', a term of triumph or defiance at certain schools: from the 1880s. See esp. Ernest Raymond, Once in England, 1932, at p. 12.

had one and (or but) the wheel came off (, we). A lower-class and military c.p. directed at an unintelligible speaker or speech: C.20. (B. & P.) Common also in Aus. (B.P.).

had-up. An examination (of a person) by the police: ca. 1820–70 ('Jon Bee'). Ex S.E. had up, brought before a magistrate.—2. A person 'had-up': legal coll.: late C.19–20. R. Hichens, The Paradine Case, 1932.

had your penn'orth or do you want a ha'penny change? A c.p. addressed to someone staring: mostly Londoners': since ca. 1920. (L.A., 1967.)

had your time. See you've had your time.

haddie. A haddock: Cockneys', esp. costermongers', coll.: C.19. (Mayhew, I, 1851.) Prob. independent of Scottish dial.

haddock. A purse: (low or) c.: from ca. 1810; ob. Vaux; Ainsworth.—2. Money: fishmongers':—1874 (H., 5th ed.).—3. 'Haddock is the English version of the Latin ad hoc. (Cf. Rt. Hon. J.H. Thomas),' editorial footnote to editorial entitled 'Haddock Intervention', in Week-End Review, 7 Oct. 1933: cultured s.: late 1933–4.

haddock to paddock, bring. To lose everything: C.16 coll. and proverbial.

haddocks. Great North of Scotland Railway ordinary stock: Stock Exchange: from ca. 1885.

Haddums. See Had'em.

hadee. See ha'd. (Rare.)

Hades. Hell: orig. euph. S.E.; in C.20, esp. in go to Hades!, joc. coll. hadland. One who has lost the land he once owned: coll.: ca. 1590–1660. Cf. lackland.

haematoid. A cultured euph. for unconventional bloody: ca. 1920–6. Manchon.

haeremail! occ. horomail! († by 1898). A 'Maori term of welcome, lit. come hither... It has been'—from ca. 1880—'colloquially adopted': NZ. Morris.

hag, an old or ugly woman, is S.E., as is the † hagged, haggard.—2. At some Public Schools, any female, e.g., housemaster's wife, housemaid; and at some others, esp. the house-matron, or matron of the school sanatorium: later C.19–20.—3. See hags.

haggard. A proposed dupe that keeps aloof: c. of ca. 1592. (Greene.) Ex the S.E. sense: a wild, unreclaimed bird that does not return to the wrist.

haggis-basher. A Scot: RAF joc.: since mid-1930s. (L.A.) Haggis, one of the toothsome national dishes of Scotland; see basher.

haggis debate. A debate referring to Scotland: Parliamentary:—1909 (Ware). Cf.:

Haggisland. Scotland: joc. coll.: C.19–20; ob. (Until C.18, haggis—as is very little known—was a popular English dish.)

haggle, despite F. & H., is S.E., as is haggler, except as, in London vegetable-markets, a middleman (ca. 1840–1900; Mayhew).

hagzerwa(i)ters is a var. of aggerawator, q.v. Ware.

hags, the. The nuns: Catholic priests' joc.: C.20. Not, of course, ex the S.E. hag (although, naturally, there's an allusion), but from Greek hagiai, holy women.

hag's bush. Synonym of Sikh's beard, q.v. at PRISONER-OF-WAR SLANG, §5, in Appendix, a coarse, local Singapore tobacco. Here bush prob. = public hair.

hagship, your. A contemptuous term of address, occ. of ref., applied only to women: C.19–20 (ob.) low coll. Ex S.E. sense, personality of a hag.

hail and rain. A train: rhyming s.:—1923 (Manchon).

[hail fellow well met, be, to be on very easy or over-familiar terms, is prob. to be considered S.E. (From ca. 1580. Occ. hail-fellow.)] hail smiling morn. An erection: rhyming s., on horn. (Red Daniells, 1980.) Cf. synon. September morn and Colleen Bawn.

hail up. To 'put up, as at an inn': Aus. coll.: ca. 1880–1910. (Ware.) Does this represent a perversion of hale oneself up?

hailed for the last time, be. To die: nautical, coll. rather than s.:—1891 (Clark Russell, An Ocean Tragedy); ob. by 1930.

Haines! 'Intimation of sudden retreat. Heard in Liverpool, whence it arrived from New York', says Ware in 1909. But it did not spread to the rest of England, and even in Liverpool it has long been †.

hair. The female sex; women viewed sexually: low: ex hair, the female pubic hair. This, like the following, is: C.19–20: after hair, looking for a woman, ob.; bit of hair, the sexual favour; plenty of hair, an abundance of girls; hair-monger, a womaniser; hair to sell, a woman prepared—at a price—to grant the favour. Contrast (of a male) get (one's) hair cut, to visit a woman: low: late C.19—early 20. Cf. the synon. euph. see a man about a dog.—2. In (bush natural), having more hair than wit, (rather) stupid, silly: C.16–19 coll. > proverbial. Apperson.—3. In within a hair of, almost: coll.:—1933 (Lyell), 'He was within a hair of being dismissed'.—4. In comb (someone's) hair, var. of comb (someone's) head, q.v.: to rebuke: C.19—early 20.—5. With not worth a hair, cf. all the other synon. phrases at not worth a...—6. See the following hair phrases at their respective entries: get in (one's) hair; keep (one's) hair on; lose (one's) hair; tie (one's) hair; get your hair cut; let (one's) hair down.—7. The following, despite F. & H., are S.E., though it is arguable that the third and fourth have at first been coll.: against the hair, of a (or † one) hair, to a hair; split hairs (earlier cut the hair). S.E. also are put up one's hair, (of women) to become grown-up, and not to turn a hair, orig. of horses.

hair about the heels. Underbred: coll. when, from ca. 1880, applied to persons. Orig. of horses. Cf. hairy about the fetlocks. hair-brush (grenade). A handled grenade used in 1914–15: army coll. (F. & G.) Ex its shape.

Hair Court. Sexual connexion, esp. in take a turn in Hair Court, occ. amplified take ... Court, Girl Street: C.19–20 (ob.) low.

hair curl. See make (one's) hair curl, to frighten or astonish.

hair-cut. Barber's coll. for a customer wanting his hair cut. See shave, n., 7.—2. 'Any very short term of imprisonment. In a local prison, one or two months or weeks. In a convict prison, three to five years' (Tempest): c.: mid-C.20.—3. See haircut.

hair-divider or -splitter. The male member: low coll.: from ca. 1850, 1810 (Lex. Bal.) resp.; ob. Cf. beard-splitter.

hair-do. Having one's hair dressed in a fashionable style: feminine coll.: since ca. 1920.—2. Hence, a style of coiffure: (feminine) coll.: since ca. 1925.

hair down. See let (one's) hair down, to relax and enjoy oneself.

hair grows through his hood, his. 'He is on the road to ruin': coll.: mid-C.15–early 18. Skelton, Deloney, Motteux. Apperson.

hair of the dog that bit (one). A drink taken to counteract drunkenness; usu. of the same liquor that caused the state, e.g., the previous night: coll.:—1546. By C.20, frequently shortened to 'hair of the dog'. 'The allusion is to an ancient notion that the burnt hair of a dog is an antidote to its bite' (Brewer's Dict. of Phrase and Fable, 1956 ed.).

hair off. To lose one's temper: Scottish Public Schools': C.20. Ian Miller, School Tie, 1935, where it is spelt hare. Ex get-one's hair off.

hair on your chest, it'll (or that'll) put (or grow) (more). A c.p. invitation to drink: C.20. (B.P.)

hair-raiser. An exciting adventure-story: coll.: from ca. 1910. See make (one's) hair stand on end.

hair-restorer. A made-up story; humbug: mostly lower classes': 1914, A. Neil Lyons in Arthur's, cited by Manchon; ob. by ca. 1935. Prob. a play upon the words fairly story.

hair-splitter. See hair-divider.

hair stand on end. See make (one's) hair ...

haircut with a hole in it. 'Jocular for barbering of bald man's tonsure' (L.A.): C.20.

hairies. See hairy, n.

hairing, adj. Tearing; furious: Scottish Public Schools': C.20. Ian Miller, 'It was not worth risking a hairing great row.'

hairless. Very perturbed and/or angry: army, since ca. 1955; by ca. 1970, fairly gen. 'Cor, you should've seen him: he went hairless!' (P.B.)

hairs. See short hairs, for get (or have) by the ...

hairly, n. A draught-horse; any rough-coated horse: military: 1899 (Conan Doyle: OED Sup.). Hence, G.S. hairly, a Government Service horse: military: 1915 (see B. & P.).—2. The hairy, as in the following quot'n, hence, sing., a hairly; 'She was "one of the hairy"—a hatless slum girl conscious of her station in life'; Glasgow slum girls collectively: lower-class Glasgow: late C.19–20. 'In Glasgow, as in Rome, the hat is the badge of feminine quality' (MacArthur & Long).—3. A lineman of the Royal Corps of Signals: army, esp. in R. Sigs: WW2 and after. They need to be, and are, tough for their often hazardous outside work. (P.B.).—4. (Usu. in pl.) 'Unkempt and bearded proponent of self-expression' (R.S., citing the Observer, 13 June 1976): since ca. 1970.—5. 'Former NCO, generally an old sweat, training to become an officer'

(Strong & Hart-Davis, Fighter Pilot, 1981): RAF: later C.20.
hairy, adj. Difficult: Oxford University: ca. 1850–1900. Clough.—2. Splendid, famous: from ca. 1890; ob. Kipling, 'The Widow of Windsor with a hairy gold crown on her head.'—3. (Of women only) desirable: low: from ca. 1860.—4. Ill-bred; bad-mannered: 1906 (OED Sup.). Ex hairy about (or at) the fetlocks or heel, q.v.—5. Angry; (angry and) excited: since ca. 1900; poss. orig. Anglo-Irish, > gen. coll. Cf. hairless; Collinson notes get hairy.—6. Unpleasant; rough: army: since ca. 1935. 'We had a hairy time on patrol last night.'—7. Hence, dangerous, exciting; since ca. 1945. 'Applied esp. to wild, reckless driving in a race—to the limits of the car and safety' (David Mann, 1963). Claiborne, 1975, notes, 'Some influence, perhaps; from small-boat sailing, in which "bald spots" (calms) on the water are contrasted with "hairy patches"—i.e., where the wind is gusting perhaps dangerously.'—8. In feel hairy, to feel amorous: low: from ca. 1860; ob. Cf. sense 3.

hairy about (or at or in) the fetlocks (or heel). See hairy, adj., 4. From late 1890s. Ex the stables. OED Sup.

hairy-arsed. No longer young: low: late C.19–20.—2. Mature and hirsute and virile: RN: since ca. 1947. A young servicemen's term of the 1950s for a 'type' of rugged masculinity and maturity; esp. in the gen. Services' phrase 'a hairy-arsed mat'lo'.

hairy bit. An amorous and attractive wench: low: from ca. 1860.

hairy-bottomed tramp. A term of abuse: Cambridge undergraduates': early 1930s. I.e. tramp with a joc. 'Dutch' twist.

hairy canary. 'Unlikely eventuality/hypothesis. Used by a doctor of my acquaintance in June 1979 in discussing the (unlikely) possibility that someone was suffering from a particular illness' (John B. Smith, of Bath, 1979). JBS adds, 1981: 'Cf. Don't look for the canaries, look for the sparrow first. This, or variants, is used as a warning to medical students not to assume the existence of some comparatively rare disease... where a commoner one might be possible.'—2. See my mother would have ...

hairy devil. A flying fox: Aus.: late C.19–20. B., 1942.

hairy dive. A dive made into a (very) fast and dirty current and with the diver hanging on to an anchor line: skin divers': since ca. 1950. Cf. hairy, adj., 7.

hairy fairy. (Of a man) displaying feminine traits of personality: a pun on airy-fairy, adj.: later C.20. (L.A., 1978.)

hairy goat, run like a. (Of a horse) to perform badly in a race: Aus.: C.20. Baker.

hairy-heeled. Same as hairy, adj., 4, ill-bred, bad-mannered: 1930 (A.E.W. Mason: OED Sup.). Ex hairy about ..., q.v.

hairy Jock. (Gen. pl.) An elab. of Jock, 2, a Scottish soldier: army: WW1. B. & P.

hairy mary (or Mary). 'The prickles that cover the cane' (Jean Devaney, By Tropic Sea and Jungle, 1944): Aus. cane-cutters': C.20.—2. A tangle of rope: RN lowerdeck: since ca. 1950. (Peppitt.) Partly anatomical, partly alliterative.

hairy oracle or ring. The female pudend. Whence work the hairy oracle, to go wenching. Low: from ca. 1870. Cf.:-

hairy wheel. Low Aus. synon. of prec.: from ca. 1860.—2. But also low English s. for the male genitals: since ca. 1870.

Hairyfordshire. The female pudend: low: from ca. 1865. Whence go to Hairyfordshire, to coit. Obviously punning Herefordshire.

hake's teeth. 'A series of deep soundings in the Bristol Channel': nautical: late C.19–20. (Bowen.) A hake's teeth being well-defined.

hakim. 'A medical man.—Anglo-Indian' (H., 1864): C.17–20.—2. (Y. & B.) 'the authority'; a governor. Anglo-Indian coll.: late C.17–20. Both ex Hindi; the former ex hakim, wise, the latter ex hakim, a master.

Hal, the. The Hallé orchestra: music-lovers': since ca. 1920.

halbert. Whereas get the halbert, to be promoted sergeant, and be brought to the halberts, i.e. flogged, are † j. or S.E., carry the halbert in one's face, (of officers) to show that one rose from the ranks, is C.18 military s. > coll.: cf. the WW1 temporary gentleman and the S.E. C.18 old halbert.

hale and hearty. A party: rhyming s. David Hillman noted, 1974, that it has superseded gay and hearty. P.B.: presumably because of the devaluation and degradation of gay.

half, when used as elliptical n. with the orig. n. omitted, is gen. to be considered coll.: e.g. = a half-year at school, a half-back at football, a half-pint or gill of liquor. Rare before 1820 and not common before 1865.—2. A half-holiday: schools' coll.: C.20. S.P.B. Mais, A Schoolmaster's Diary, 1918.—3. A child travelling half fare: coll.: C.20.—4. See one, 6, a specialised Stock Exchange use.—5. See not half, much, very.—6. See half seven, for use in time-telling.—6. In ... and a half, used as an intensive: coll.: since (?) ca. 1930. 'This turned out to be a wedding and a half' (Spike Mays, No More Soldiëring for Me, 1971). Cf. he's a cunt and a half, he's an extraordinarily obnoxious person.

half, v. Go halves: coll.: 1889 (OED).

half a (pint, mile, hour, million, etc.), a. Half a (pint, etc.): C.20: Can. sol. >, by 1955, non-educated coll. (Leechman.) P.B.: but for how many years have British children been chanting 'A half a pound of tuppency rice, a half a pound of treacle...?'

half a bar. Ten shillings: Cockneys' > gen. low: C.20. (W.L. George, A Bed of Roses, 1911.) Powis notes that, since decimalisation of currency in 1971, it has been applied to 50 pence. Has var. half bar.

half a bean or couter. Half a guinea (Vaux) or sovereign: C.19 c., C.19–20 c. > low. See bean and couter; cf. half a quid.

half a borde. Sixpence; var. half board. (Holme.) See bord(e).

half-a-brewer. Tipsy: low: mid-C.19–early 20. Ware.

half a bull or tusheroon. Half-a-crown: C.19–early 20; low. (H., 1859.) See bull and tusheroon.

half a caser. Half-a-crown: Aus. low: C.20; †. (B., 1942.) See caser.

half a cock. 'Five pounds (from rhyming slang, cock and hen—ten)' (Tempest): c.: mid-C.20.

half a couter. See half a bean.

half a crack. 'In (or just wait) half a moment': low coll.: C.19.—2. Half-a-crown: C.20; †. R. Knox, The Body in the Silo, 1933.

half a crown. 26 at Tombola or darts: C.20; † by decimalisation, 1971. I.e. two (shillings) and six (pence). Cf. bed and breakfast, q.v.

half a cup of tea. Tea and whisky mixed: Covent Garden: C.20. Partly rhyming s.

half a dog-watch. See dog-watch, 2.

half a dollar. Half-a-crown: ca. 1890–1971. ('Taffrail', Pincher Martin, 1916.) Due to US influence.—2. A collar: rhyming s.: late C.19–early 20. B. & P.

half a farthing I'd (do, have done it), for. It wouldn't take (have taken) much to make me ... coll.:—1887 (Baumann); ob. by 1930.

half-a-finnuff. Two pounds and ten shillings; e.g., in a Whitechapel tailor's humorous handbill made up for Punch, 2 Feb. 1861: 'Upper Benjamins, built on a downy plan, a monarch to half-a-finnuff' (= Greatcoats, fashionably made, £1–£2/10/0). Ex finnuff, a £5 note.

half-a-foot o' port. A glass of that wine at Short's in the Strand: London: mid-C.19–20. (Ware.) Because served in a long champagne-beaker.

half a grunter. Sixpence: low: C.19. (H., 2nd ed.) Cf. grunter, 3, q.v., where the sense 'sixpence' is either loose or incorrect, and—half a hog. Sixpence: late C.17–19: c. then low. (B.E., Grose.) Cf. grunter and hog.

half a jiffy. 'In (or just wait) half a moment': s.: C.19–20; ob. See jiff.

half a mo. Half a moment: coll.: late C.19–20.—2. A cigarette: Cockneys' and soldiers': ca. 1910–40. B. & P.

half a nicker. Vicar: rhyming s.: later C.20. (Hillman.) Ex

—2. Ten shillings or 50 pence: low coll.: 1895 (EDD). In mid- and later C.20, more usu. than var. half-nicker. See nicker, 3.

half a one. £500: Stock Exchange coll. (—1895) >, by 1920, j. (A.J. Wilson.) See one, 6. half a quid. Half-a-guinea (Vaux, 1812); by 1830, half-a-sovereign: c. >, by 1850, low.

half a sheet. Punishment incurred by prison warders, mostly a fine: prisons', both warders' and prisoners': since ca. 1930. Frank Norman in Encounter, July 1959.

half a stretch. Six months in prison: c.:—1859 (H., 1st ed.); still current 1950 (Tempest). See stretch.—2. Hence, odds of 6 to 1: racing, esp. bookmakers': C.20.

half a surprise. A black eye: Londoners': ca. 1885–1905. (B. & L.) Ex a music-hall song. The chorus began, 'Two lovely black eyes,/Oh, what a surprise!'

half a tick. 'In (or just wait) half a moment': low s. > coll.: C.19–20.

half a ton. £50. See ton, 3.

half a ton of bones done up in horsehair. 'A thin ill-conditioned young horse': sporting:—1909. (Ware); ob. by 1930.

half a tusheroon. Half-a-crown: low:—1859 (H., 1st ed.)—1971.

half a yennork. Half-a-crown: back s.: from ca. 1855; † with decimalisation, if not so several years earlier. Yennork = a crown piece, five shillings (25 pence).

half an eye. See see with half an eye.

half an hour. Flour: Aus. rhyming s.: late C.19–20. B., 1942.

half an hour past hanging time, (it's). C.p. reply to 'What's the time?': C.18–19. In Swift's Polite Conversation (early C.18). Cf. half past kissing time...

half an ounce. Half-a-crown: C.18–early 19. Silver, in C.18, being assessed at five shillings an ounce. A New Canting Dict., 1725.

half an Oxford. Half-a-crown: from ca. 1870. (P.P., Rhyming Slang, 1932.) On Oxford scholar = dollar.

half and half, n., gen. hyphenated. A drink of ale and beer, or ale and porter, in equal quantities: from ca. 1710 (ob.): s. >, ca. 1800, coll.; in C.20, S.E. Ned Ward, A Vade Mecum for Maltworms, 1715; 'Peter Corcoran' Reynolds, 'Over my gentle half-and-half'.—2. As in 'Give me a half-and-half', a man's request to a prostitute to copulate and to practise fellatio: prostitutes': C.20. Landy.

half and half, adj. Half-drunk: from ca. 1715 (slightly ob.): in C.18, s.; in C.19 coll.; in C.20, S.E.

half-and-half coves, occ. boys, men, etc. Cheap would-be dandies: low: ca. 1820–60. Moncrieff.

half-and-half laugh. See half-laugh...

half-and-halfier. A person, an object, that is neither the one thing nor the other: coll.: late C.19–20.

half and in-between. Middling; neither one thing nor the other; often 'sort of half...': coll.: since ca. 1950. (P.B.)

half-arsed. (Of things) imperfect; (of persons) ineffective, indecisive: Can., late C.19–20; to which R.S. adds, 1977, 'Not only Can. My wife remembers it in Hampshire in the early years of C.20.'

half-back. See His Master's Voice.

half-baked, n. An immature person: Aus.: ca. 1890–1940. G.B. Lancaster, Jim of the Ranges, 1910. Cf.:-

half-baked, adj. Irresolute: ca. 1800–60: coll. Ex the C.17 S.E. sense, 'not thorough-going.—2. (? hence) half-witted; silly: perhaps orig. (1842) US and anglicised ca. 1860, though recorded in dial. in 1855: coll. H., 1860; Besant, 1886, 'Not quite right in her head—half-baked, to use the popular and feeling expression'; Notes and Queries, 1864, records the Cornish proverb, 'He is only half-baked; put in with the bread and taken out with the cakes'—so perhaps not American in origin. In C.20, it implies lack of intelligence (but not downright silliness) plus a lack of culture.

half bar. Ten shillings. See half a bar.

half board or borde. Sixpence: mid-C.17–early 19 c. (Coles.) See borde.

half brass. 'A girl or woman who associates freely with men but who does not accept money in return for her favours' (Tempest): low: mid-C.20. See brass, n., 4.

half-bull white. Half-a-crown. See white, n., 1.

half-can. A half-pint tankard of beer: RAF officers': early WW2. 'Blake' (i.e. Ronald Adam), Readiness at Dawn, 1941.

half-canned. Half drunk: since ca. 1925.

half-chat. An Indian Army term dating from ca. 1880, thus in Richards: 'Half-caste, or "half-chat" as the troops in my time [ca. 1901-9] contemptuously called them.' Also, C.20, an Aus. and Pacific Islands term, as, e.g., in Sydney Parkman, Captain Bowker, 1946. P.B.: the term was still in use, among Brit. soldiers in the East, in the 1950s.

half-cock, go off at. (Var. half-cocked.) 'To ejaculate before completing erection' (F. & H.): low: from ca. 1850. Ex a gun.

half-cocked. Slightly intoxicated: Aus.: 1888 (Fergus Hume: OED); ob. Ex dial., where recorded over fifty years earlier.

half-colonel. A lieutenant-colonel: army, orig. officers', by mid-C.20 all ranks': C.20.

half-cracked. Somewhat unintelligent or mad: low coll.:—1887 (W.P. Frith, 'What is vulgarly called half-cracked').

half-crown ball. Generic for: 'a respectable, commonplace hop': middle-classes' coll.: ca. 1880-1914. Ware.

half-crown battalion. Any Second Sixth Battalion: military: 1915. F. & G., 'From the notation [2/6] entered in official documents'. Also, in 1915+, half-crown brigade.

half-crown word. A rare or, esp. a difficult word: low coll.: from ca. 1860; ob. Cf. jaw-breaker and sleeve-board, qq.v.

half-crowner. A publication priced at 2s. 6d.: booksellers' coll.: from ca. 1880; ob. Baumann.

half-cut. Half-drunk: lower classes': from ca. 1860; ob. See cut.—2. (Prob.) hence, stupid; silly; foolish: Aus.: late C.19-20. B., 1942.

Half-Dirties. 'Willesden men on dual steam and electric duties' (Railway, 2nd): railwaymen's: 1950s.

half flash and half polish. Having a smattering of cant and an imperfect knowledge of the world: c. of ca. 1810-50. (Vaux; Egan's Grose.) Cf. foolish, q.v.

half-fly flat. A criminal's rough-work: c.: from ca. 1830.

half foolish. Ca. 1855-88: 'Ridiculous: means often wholly foolish' (H., 1st ed.).

half-go. 'Three pennyworth of spirits, for mixing with... water': public-houses': ca. 1890-1914. (Ware.) See go, n., 1 and 2.

half-gone. Half-drunk: coll.: late C.19-earlier 20. F. & G.

half-hard. (Of the penis) semi-erect; hence, not very intelligent: C.20. (L.A.) Cf. lazy lob. A var. is half-mast.

half-hour gentleman. A man whose breeding is superficial: society coll.: ca. 1870-1914. (Ware.) Cf. temporary gentleman, q.v.

half-inch. To steal: c. and low s.:—1914 (Charles E. Leach). Rhyming s. on pinch.—2. To draw near to (an object): NZ: from not later than 1915. Perhaps ex inch by inch.

half-iron. 'One who associates with homosexuals but who is not [one] himself' (Tempest): low: mid-C.20. See iron hoof.

half jack. Half a sovereign: c., or low: mid-C.19-early 20.

half-joe. Eight dollars: see joe, 4.

half-laugh and purser's grin. A sneer or an unpleasant innuendo: nautical, esp. naval: ca. 1880-1915. (Clark Russell; Bowen.) A shortening of the much earlier half-and-half laugh and purser's grin recorded by W.N. Glascock, Sketch-Book, II, 1826 (Moe).

half-man. A landsman or a youth rated as an A.B., but not with his pay: nautical coll.: ca. 1860-1910. Bowen. Cf.:-

half-narrow. An incompetent sailor; a seaman that, having served his time, is not yet rated as A.B.: (mainly Northern and Scots) nautical: ca. 1850-1930. Cf. miner's half-marra or -marrer or -marrow, a partner or closest work-mate (EDD).

half-mast. See half-hard.

half-masters. See hoist (one's) half-masters.

half-moon. A wig: coll.: C.18-19.—2. The female pudend: C.17 low.

half-mourning. A black eye: rather low:—1864; ob. Cf. full mourning, two black eyes.

half-nab or -nap. At a venture; hit or miss: a C.18-early 19 low corruption or perversion of hab-nab, q.v.

half-nelson. Partly drunk: low:—1923 (Manchon). Ex the wrestling-hold.

half-nicker. Ten shillings: Brit., Aus., NZ: C.20, until decimalisation in resp. countries. In UK often half a nicker, q.v. Cf. half-bar/half a bar, and:-

half-note. A ten-shilling note; hence its value: mostly Aus.: C.20. On the other hand, half a note = the sum of ten shillings. (B.P.)

half-off or -on. (Often without hyphens.) Half-drunk: low: from ca. 1870. See on.

half-ounce. To cheat (v.t.): rhyming s. (on bounce): late C.19-20. Franklyn, Rhyming.

half-past five. In it's half-past five with him, 'he is dying or dead': rural euph.: C.19-early 20. Christine Salmon, Observer mag., Feb. 1983.

half-past kissing time and time to kiss again (, it's). A low c.p. reply to a female asking a man the time: mostly London: ca. 1870-1910. Ex a popular ballad. Cf. an hour past hanging time in Swift's Polite Conversation and see also kissing-time.

half-past nines. Very large feminine foot-wear: Cockneys':—1909 (Ware). Nines being a large size for women.

half-past two. A Jew: rhyming s.: C.20. Franklyn, Rhyming.

half-pie. Insincere; little respected; (rather contemptible): Aus. and NZ: C.20. Cf. pie on, q.v.—2. Hence, worthless: Aus.: since ca. 1925. (B., 1959.) McNeil, 1973, glosses half-pie(d) as 'half-baked, dilettante'.

half-pie farm. 'A small nondescript holding' (Harold Griffiths): NZ: since ca. 1930. (Slatter.)

half-pint, adj.; Half-Pint. (Very) short; an often complimentary nickname for a short man: since ca. 1925. (News Chronicle, 13 July 1954.) Also 'a term of endearment applied to a very small woman. Heard in 1938' (Leechman).

half-pint hero. A boaster, a swaggerer: RAF: since ca. 1930. (Jackson.) The implication being that a half-pint of beer or ale will make him 'shoot a line'.

half-pissed. Mildly tipsy: low: C.20.

half-rats. Partially intoxicated: low: 1897; ob. Ware, who notes the equally low var., half up the pole, dating from a decade or so earlier.

half-rem. A half holiday. See WINCHESTER, §6, in Appendix.

half-ringer. A pilot officer. See ringer.

half-rinsed. Tipsy: Aus. and NZ: since ca. 1912; perhaps a little later in Aus. B., 1959.

half-rocked. Half-witted; silly: dial. >, ca. 1860, coll. Ex a West Country saying that fools have been cradle-rocked bottom upwards. A West Country synonym (wrongly, I think, included by F. & H.) is half-saved: see Mortimer Collins's Frances, ch. xlii. Cf. rocked in a stone kitchen.

half round the bend. Not mad, but often doing very silly things: RN: late C.19-20. Bowen.

half-srag. (Collective n.) Half-castes: c.: from ca. 1860. The ref. in 'No.747' at p.16 is to ca. 1865.

half-screwed. Half-drunk: from ca. 1835. Lever, 'He was, in Kilrush phrase, half-screwed... more than half tipsy.' See screwed.

half sea. Mid-Channel: nautical coll.: from ca. 1860. Bowen.

half-seas over. Half or almost drunk: late C.17-20: nautical > gen.; in C.19-20, coll. (B.E., Smollett, Thackeray.) Either half sea's over or a corruption, as Gifford maintained, of op-zee zober, 'over-sea beer', a heady drink imported from Holland; but, in C.16, the phrase = halfway across the sea, which rather rebuts Gifford. Cf. the nautical slewed, sprung, three sheets in the wind, and water-logged.

half section, (one's, usu. my). One's particular friend: Services': earlier C.20. Sometimes applied, usu. loc., to one's wife.

half seven (one, four, etc.), (at). At half-past seven, etc.: orig. army, prob. throughout C.20; by mid-C.20, gen.

proletarian. Perhaps ex the military method of indicating direction, e.g., 'At three o'clock from the bushy-topped tree...'; cf. the German and Dutch way of telling the half-hours, which is, however, an hour ahead of this Brit. usage. (E.P.; P.B.)

half-sharp. 'Dialect, e.g. Sussex dial., or mock dialect: said of one who lacks understanding of his (or the) circumstances. "E be 'arf sharp 'e be"' (L.A., 1978).

half-shot. Half-drunk: nautical: prob. from late C.19 till well after WW1, and by 1955, at latest, much more widely distributed. Dr Leechman cites a Can. example: H. Dempsey, Bob Edwards, 1975. According to Col. Moe, it existed in US very much earlier in C.19.

half-slewed. Half-drunk: nautical > gen. See slewed; half-slewed may, however, have been prompted by half-screwed, q.v.

half-snags. Half-shares: low coll.: C.19–20 (ob.). Ex half-snack(s). See esp. Walford's Antiquarian, 1887, p. 252.

half-soaked. Only half-awake; slow; rather stupid: Midlands: C.20. (Dr R.L. Mackay, MD; 1967.)

half-squarrie. A prostitute: Aus. low: since ca. 1920. (B., 1942.) Ironic.

half-stamp. A tramp (the person): rhyming s., orig. underworld: C.20.

half-termer. A half-term holiday: Public Schools': C.20.

half-timer. A scholar working half the day and going to school the other half: primary schools' coll. (from 1870) >, by 1900, S.E.—2. A kipper: nautical: C.20. (Bowen.) Because so small on a dish.

half tusheroon. Half-a-crown: c.:—1857 ('Ducange Anglicus').

half-un. A half-glass of spirits and water: low coll.: from ca. 1865; ob.

half up the pole. See half-rats.

half your luck! A coll. ellipsis of 'I wish I had even a half of your good luck': Aus.: since ca. 1915. B., 1942.

halfie, -y. A half-caste Aboriginal: Aus. coll.: since ca. 1910. B., 1943.

halfpenny. See ha'penny.—2. In think (one's) halfpenny good silver, to think extremely well of one's abilities: coll.: ca. 1570–1700. Gascoigne.

halfpenny howling swell. A pretender to fashion: ca. 1870–80. Ware.

halfperth, halfporth, halfp'worth. See ha'p'orth.

Halibag, Halibasher, Hallie, -y. A Halifax bomber aircraft; RAF: 1941–6. The first by analogy with Stringbag, a Swordfish or Albacore of the FAA, WW2.

Halifax, go to. Go to blazes!: coll.: 1669 (OED); in C.19–20, mostly US and re-anglicised ca. 1870, esp. in dial. (See Apperson.) Euphemising hell but ultimately ex the C.16–20 hell, Hull, and Halifax, q.v. Cf. Bath, Jericho, Putney, qq.v.; see also Hull.

hall, n. (Gen. pl.) A music-hall: coll.:—1887 (Baumann).—2. See TAVERN TERMS, §3, in Appendix.—3. The Hall: Trinity Hall, Cambridge: undergraduates' coll.: late C.19–20.—4. The Hall: Leadenhall Market: fishmongers' s. > coll.: mid-C.19–20. (H., 3rd ed.) Cf. (The Garden, the Lane).

hall, v. Dine in hall: Oxford University coll. rather than s.: from ca. 1860. Ex j. hall, dinner in hall (1859: SOD).

Hall by the Sea, the. The Examination Hall of the Royal Colleges of Physicians and Surgeons: medical: ca. 1880–1915. Situated on the London Embankment, i.e. near the Thames!

hall of delight. A music-hall: Aus.: ca. 1890–1910. (Hume Nisbet.) I myself did not hear it; never, I believe, very gen.

hallabaloo. An early form of hullabaloo.

hallan(d)-, or hallen-, shaker. A vagabond; esp. a sturdy beggar: Scots coll.: C.16–20; ob. Hallan, a partition wall in a cottage.

hallelujah gal(l)op. A hymn in a quick, lively measure, 'invented by General Booth to attract the multitude': Salvationists' coll.: from the 1890s. Ware.

hallelujah-hawking. Religious speaking; evangelism; esp., city-mission work: Aus.: since ca. 1910. B., 1942.

hallelujah hell-sniffle of a(n). A truly 'awful' (something or other): Can.:—1932 (John Beames).

hallelujah-lass. A female member—esp. if young—of the Salvation Army: coll.: from ca. 1899.

hallelujah stew. Soup served at a Salvation Army hostel: C.20. D. Crane, A Vicarious Vagabond, 1910.

haller. A hard biscuit—served in Hall: Marlborough College: C.20.

Hallie (or -y). See Halibag.

halligator. A herring. See alligator, 1.

hallyon, hallyon; hellyon; hullion. 'A rogue; a clod; a gentleman's servant out of livery; also a shrew' (F. & H.): Scots coll. and Northern dial.: late C.18–19. Scott, 1817, 'This is a decentish hallyon'; Crockett, 1895, 'I can manage the hullions fine.' ?ex Fr. hailion, a rag, a tatter.

hallo. See hullo.

halloo-baloo; halloo-bo-loo; hallybaloo. Early forms of hullabaloo. OED.

halls. See work the halls.

halo racket, work the. To grumble, be discontented: low: from ca. 1860. Ex the Heaven-placed saint dissatisfied with his halo. See racket.

halperthe, hal(w)orth(e). Early forms of ha'p'orth, q.v.

halt, tomatoes, turds! An army parody of the sentry's command to halt, used in Cyprus, 1950s–60s, where the Greek = Stamata! and the Turkish = Dur!: all three words had to be uttered. A modern example of military Hobson-Jobson. (P.B.)

halter-sack. A gallows-bird; also as a gen pej.: late C.16–mid-17: coll. Beaumont & Fletcher, in A King and No King, 'Away, you haltersack, you.'

halvers. An equal division of, e.g., supplies: coll.: late C.19–20.—2. As exclam., a claim to something found: coll. and dial.:—1816; ob. except in dial. (ca. 1935). Scott.

halves. Half-Wellington boots: Winchester College, ca. 1840–85. (Pron. hāves.)—2. In cry or go halves: to claim, or to take, a half share or chance: since late C.18. Charles B. Burr, Life and Letters of Joel Barlow (New York, 1886, p. 294), quotes an imaginary dialogue by Joel Barlow, American poet and ambassador, familiar with Britain. (Moe.) Mayhew, 'He'll then again ask if anyone will go him halves'. P.B.: the later C.20 form would more likely be, '...if anyone will go halves with him'. Cf.:—3. On the halves: sharing 50–50; e.g., in farming: Aus.: since ca. 1925. B., 1953.

ham, n. An amateur wireless transmitter: wireless s. adopted in late Sep. 1936 ex US. (Daily Herald, 19 Sep. 1936.) Hence in combination, ham-radio, ham-station, etc. Ex ham-bone, 1, q.v.—2. Hence, ex US, an (inferior) telegraph operator: Can. railroadmen's:—1931.—3. 'Overtime. "Fatty ham", excessive overtime' (McKenna, Glossary): railwaymen's: C.20. Cf. fat, n., 1–3.

ham, v. To be an inferior actor: esp., to act badly: adopted, ca. 1939, from US. Campbell Dixon in Daily Telegraph, 18 Nov. 1946, 'After a deal of hamming'. Ex the n. in ham-bone. Also adj.: 'inferior': adopted ca. 1930. See also ham it up. ham! A warning cry when authority threatens to 'intrude' upon an unlawful activity: Cotton College (under other names): ca. 1860–1910. (Cottonian, autumn 1938.) Origin? ham(-)and(-)beef. A chief warder: prison rhyming s.: C.20. Jim Phelan, Murder by Numbers, 1941.

ham(-)and(-)egg shift, the. A shift from 10 a.m. to 6 p.m.: British miners': late C.19–20. 'Derived from former days—the ham was eaten before the shift began and the eggs in the evening at its finish' (Toronto Globe, 6 Jan. 1950).

ham and eggs. Legs: rhyming s.: from ca. 1870. (P.P., Rhyming Slang, 1932.) Cf. synon. Scotch eggs and Scotch pegs.

Ham and High, The. The Hampstead and Highgate Express—a weekly founded ca. 1860: London local and London journalistic. Paraphrased by 'Peterborough' in Daily Telegraph of 24 Oct. 1960.

ham-bags. Female drawers: girls': ca. 1890–1914. Cf. ham-frill.

H ham-bone. A greenhorn or an amateur among itinerant musicians: showmen's: since ca. 1880. (P.H. Emerson, Signor Lippo, 1893.) Whence, prob., the American ham, 'inferior actor', re-transported to England ca. 1925; hence, ham, n., as above.—2. A sextant: RN: C.20. (Granville.) Ex the shape.—3. A Hampden bomber: RAF: earlier WW2. (Jackson.) Ex name, influenced by shape-resemblance. See also flying suitcase.—4. (Usu. printed solid.) A male strip-tease (act); a nude dance: Aus.: since ca. 1960. (B.P.) Prob. ultimately ex sense 1 (W. & F., 1960).

ham-cases, hams. Trousers: c.: ca. 1770–1860, ca. 1720–1830 resp., though ham-cases may be the earlier: those things which encase the hams. Cf. Romany hamyas, knee-breeches. ham diet, be for. To be 'crimed': Scot. military: WW1. F. & G.

ham-fisted. Clumsy, maladroit: orig. RAF, esp. of pilot or mechanic, since 1940; since WW2 much more widespread in distribution. (W/Cdr R.P. McDouall, 1945.) Cf. ham-handed, and ham pilot.

ham-frill. A pair of female running shorts: (University girls': from ca. 1925. H.H. Stanners, At the Tenth Clue, 1937. ham-handed is the RN's form of ham-fisted: since early C.20. (Musings, ca. 1912, p.62.) 'Hands like hams' are usually clumsy—or look it.—2. Hence, almost imm., fig., 'of clumsy people and those who lack tact' (L.A., 1976). This applies also to ham-fisted.

ham-handle. 'To handle ham-fistedly' (gloss to WW1 song, 'R.F.C. Alliterations', in C.H. Ward-Jackson, Airman's Song Book, 1945, containing the line 'See how heavy-handed Hans ham-handles handy Halberstadts!').

ham it up. To act a part extravagantly; hence, to wreck (something) by ill-advised conduct: Can. (ex US): since ca. 1930; by 1945, Eng.

ham-match. A stand-up lunch: low, mostly London: late C.19–early 20.

ham pilot. A clumsy pilot and/or one rough on his machine: RAF: adopted, ca. 1932, ex US. Perhaps ultimately ex ham-bone, influenced by ham-handed.

Ham Shank. See Hamshank.

hambone. See ham-bone.

Hamburg. A 'bazaar', i.e. false, rumour: Anglo-Indian: late C.19–20; very ob. (Ware.) Semantics: made in Germany.

hamlet. A high constable: c.: ca. 1690–1830; it survived in US till ca. 1900. (B.E.) Cf. Yorkshire play Hamlet, or hamlet, with, to play the devil with, to scold.—2. (Hamlet.) An omelette: theatrical: 1885. Ware, 'Started on Ash Wednesday [of that year] by the actors of the Princess's Theatre, where Mr. Wilson Barrett was then playing Hamlet. These gay souls dined and supped at the Swiss Hotel, Compton Street, and necessarily therefore found themselves before omelettes.' Hamlet, I am thy father's gimlet. Punning theatrical c.p., based on the ghost of Hamlet's father: ca. 1880–1925. (Frank Shaw, 1968.) hammer, n. A vigorous puncher, esp. with the stronger arm: pugilistic: from ca. 1830; ob. Also hammerer, as in Moore's Tom Crib, 1819, and hammerman, as in Bee's Dict.—2. Hence, a boxer; a stalwart bodyguard: late C.19–20. John G. Brandon, Th' Big City, 1931.—3. An impudent lie: from ca. 1840; ob. Cf. whopper.—4. Penis: Can. low:—1949.—5. In (right on (one's) hammer: (right) on one's tail; immediately behind: Aus.: since ca. 1920. (Rats, 1944.) Also flat on (one's or its) hammer, as in Jean Devanney, Travels in North Queensland, 1951. Prob. ex hammer and tack or hammer and nail, qq.v.—6. In that's (tense variable) (just) the hammer, that's excellent; that's just what is needed: low coll.: since ca. 1860; still extant in the Services, 1950s; by 1980 perhaps slightly ob. (P.B.)—7. See down as and down like a hammer; swing the hammer; under the hammer; up to the hammer.—8. Hard wear and tear; rough usage of, e.g., machines: coll.: since ca. 1960. 'The photocopier's certainly taken some hammer this week' (P.B.).—9. A ham sandwich: since ca. 1930. (Charles Drummond, Death at the Furlong Post, 1967.) By the 'OXFORD

-ER' on ham.—10. In putting in the big hammer, working to rule: railwaymen's: since mid-C.20. (McKenna, 2, p. 13.) Cf. put a spanner in the works. (P.B.)—11. In get the hammer, 'to be mined or torpedoed' (Granville): RN: WW2. Cf. v., 1.

hammer, v. To punish; beat: pugilistic s. (—1887) and then gen. coll. Baumann.—2. To declare (a member) a defaulter: Stock Exchange:—1885. Ex the hammer-taps preceding the head porter's formal proclamation. Frequently as a ppl adj., hammered: see esp. A.J. Wilson, Stock Exchange Glossary, 1895, for the procedure. In the printing and allied trades a youth is said to be hammered out when he completes his apprenticeship and leaves the shop, at which point all those who are working in the shop seize a hammer and bang on a bench: this is a coll. verging on j., and belongs to late C.19–20. Cf. bang-out, n. and v., 2, qq.v.—3. To depress (a market, stocks, prices): Stock Exchange: 1865 (SOD). Vbl n., hammering.—4. To shell heavily; to defeat severely: army: since ca. 1940. P-G-R.—5. See:— hammer(-)and(-)nail. To follow (someone, as a detective would): rhyming s. (on tail), orig., and still in 1966, mainly underworld: C.20. (Franklyn 2nd.) Often shortened to hammer.

hammer and tack. A track, e.g. a metalled road: Aus. rhyming s.: since ca. 1920. (Baker.)—2. The human back: id.: later C.20. (McNeil.) Cf. right on (one's) hammer, at hammer, n., 5.

hammer and tongs. Occ., as in Marryat's Snarley-Yow, an expletive (†); gen. an adv. = violently, and prec. by at it, as in G. Parker's 'His master and mistress were at it hammer and tongs.' Coll.: from ca. 1780; with h. and t., ca. 1708–80. Ex a vigorous smith's blows on the iron taken with the tongs from the fire.

hammer-chewer. An amateur: ca. 1910–40. (Petch, 1969.) A somewhat clumsy would-be jocular.

hammer-headed. Stupid; oafish: coll., perhaps: the OED considers it S.E. Mid-C.16–20; ob. (Nashe.) Ex the hardness of a hammer.—2. Hammer-shaped: mid-C.16–20; S.E. till C.19, then coll. Dickens.

hammer into. To succeed, finally, in teaching (a person something) or convincing (a person of something): coll.: mid-C.17–20: S.E. until ca. 1830, then coll.—2. To fight and defeat: coll.:—1931. Lyell, 'One of the boys lost his temper and fairly hammered into him.' Cf. pitch into.

hammer on, v.i. To reiterate again and again: coll.:—1888: ob. by 1930.

hammer out. To discuss (v.t.) until settled, gen. with connotation of difficulty, occ. with that of obtuseness: late C.16–20; coll. till ca. 1720, then S.E. (D'Urfey.) See hammer, v., 2.

hammered. Married: metal workers': since ca. 1880. (Ware.) P.B.: in C.20 some wider use, perhaps with a side-glance at the Gretna Green blacksmith. See hay, lass, let's be hammered.—2. Tippy: Can.: since ca. 1960. Leechman cites the Islander (Victoria, BC), 30 May 1976, 'All it took was a case of beer to get hammered to the eyeballs'.—3. See hammer, v., 2.

hammerer. See hammer, n., 1.

hammering. Heavy punishment; a defeat: pugilistic s. > gen. coll.: from ca. 1830.—2. Overcharging for time-work, e.g. corrections (which are, from author's and publisher's stand-point, always over-charged): printers': from ca. 1860; ob. 3. See hammer, v., 3.—4. The transmission of wireless messages: nautical: from ca. 1924. Bowen.

hammering-trade. Boxing: boxers':—1819; ob. by 1900, † by 1920. Moore, 'The other ... made, express, by Nature for the hammering trade.'

hammerish. Same as, and ex, down as a hammer: ca. 1810–50. (Vaux.) I.e., 'wide awake' and nobody's fool.

hammerman. See hammer, n., 1.

Hammers, the. The West Ham 'soccer' team: sporting: C.20. Sunday Referee, 15 Oct. 1933.

hammers of hell, go like the. To move very fast. (Cdr C.

Parsons, RN ret'd., 1973.) Var. of bat out of hell, q.v.

hammers to (one), be. 'To know what one means' (F. & H.): (low) coll.: ca. 1860–1910.

Hammersmith, have been at or gone to. To be soundly drubbed: boxing coll.: from ca. 1820; ob. (Egan's Grose.) Punning the London suburb, part of which is 'tough', and hammer, n., 1.

hammock. The dip in TV audience viewing produced by, e.g., a dull, factual programme set between two more 'attractive' programmes; hence hammocking, as 'It's to do with the technique of hammocking—in which you put a thing like Coronation Street before and a strong situation comedy after it' (Listener, 17 Jan. 1980). An attempt to counter the 'sag' by 'anchoring' the dull feature to two strong ones.—2. In the moon's stepping out of her hammock, the moon is rising: nautical coll.:—1887 (Baumann); ob. by 1930.

hammock-man. A seaman attending to the midshipmen: RN: C.19. (The Night Watch, 1828; Bowen.) Cf. midshipmen's devil, q.v.

hammy. A hamster: domestic: since ca. 1925.

hampered. Entangled: ca. 1630–90, S.E.; late C.17–18 coll.; then S.E. again. Ex hamper, a fetter, as in Browne's Britannia's Pastorals, 'Shackles, shacklocks, hampers, givens and chaines'.

Hamps. Teeth. Short for Hampstead Heath, via Hampsteads: C.20. (New Statesman, 29 Nov. 1941.) Rhyming Cockney Slang, ed. Jack Jones, 1971, 'Like me new 'amys?'

Hampshire hog. A native of Hampshire: C.17–20: coll. (Drayton in Polyolbion.) Ex the county's famous breed of hogs. See quot'n at Hogs, the.

Hampshire Tigers, the. The Royal Hampshire Regt. See quot'n at Hogs, and entry also at Tigers.

Hampstead donkey. A louse: low: ca. 1865–1900.

Hampstead Heath. The teeth: rhyming s.: from ca. 1880. (Referee, 7 Nov. 1887.) Cf. Hounslow Heath, q.v. It is, in C.20, often abbr. to Hampsteads: witness the Daily Express, 25 Jan. 1932.

Hampstead Heath sailor. A landlubber: ca. 1875–1905. Cf. freshwater sailor.

Hampsteads. Teeth: a late C.19–20 abbr. of Hampstead Heath, q.v. Daily Express, 25 Jan. 1932.

Hampton Wick, often abbr. to Hampton. The penis: rhyming s.: late C.19–20. (B & P.) On prick.—2. Hence, a fool; 'He's a right Hampton' (Powis): low: later C.20.

hams. See ham-cases.

hams shrunk. 'Sides of trousers shrunk at thigh': tailors': from ca. 1820. B. & L.

Hams Hank, or hyphenated. An American: rhyming s. (on Yank): since ca. 1944. Mark McShane, The Straight and Crooked, 1960.

hanced. Topsy: C.17 coll. (Taylor the 'Water-Poet'.) Cf. elevated.

hand. Orig. (C.17), nautical for a sailor, a sense it has retained; but as early as 1792 it had > gen. coll. for one skilful at anything; in C.20, it verges on S.E. Cf. a cool or fine or good or neat or old or rare hand, all of which mean an expert: coll.: resp. 1845,—1880,—1748,—1892,—1861, (?—) 1797. In cool, and occ. for the others, the stress is on character, not skill: this gen. coll. tendency dates from ca. 1798 (SOD). Old hand, q.v., has other connotations in Aus. Contrast a green hand, an inexperienced person, esp. workman: C.18–20: orig. coll.; but since ca. 1860, S.E. See green, adj.—3. A skilful touch with horses: coachmen's and sporting: from ca. 1855, j. > s. or coll.; ob. Whyte-Melville.—4. In bring down or off by hand, (of men) to masturbate (v.t.): low coll.: from ca. 1800; down † by 1930. Cf. bring up by hand, manually to induce an erection: low coll.: from ca. 1850.—5. In get or give a hand, to be applauded or to applaud: theatrical: since ca. 1870. Ex the S.E. give one's hand, as in Shakespeare. In later C.20, often heard, sometimes in parody, as, e.g., 'Let's give a big hand to ...'—6. In heavy on hand and hot at hand, hard to manage: coll.: ca. 1860–1910. The opposite, same period, is light in hand.—7. In (such a thing) fell into his hand, he has improved another's notion, invention, etc.: coll.: ca. 1660–1800. B.E.—8. In get (one's) hand in, v.i., to practise so as to become proficient: coll.: from ca. 1875. Ex much earlier cognate S.E. phrases.—9. See long hand; stand (one's) hand; upper hand...—10. In his (or her) hand is (or was) out, he or she is or was 'ready to take all and everything at all times' (Ware): proletarian:—1909; ob. by ca. 1935.—11. Make a hand of it, to turn something to account; to profit by it: coll.: C.17—early 19. Ex C.16 S.E. make a hand, v.i.—12. Get a hand on, to suspect; be distrustful of: tailors': ca. 1870–1930. Contrast get a hand on it, to caress a woman genitally: low coll.: from ca. 1850.—13. In have his hand (or heart) on his, e.g., halfpenny, 'To have an eye on the main chance, or on any particular object' (Apperson): C.16–20: coll. till C.19, then dial. See also keep your hand... hand and pocket shop, the first three words being often hyphenated. An eating-house where cash is paid for what one orders: coll.: ca. 1785–1840. Grose, 2nd ed.

hand Bible. A holystone: RN: C.19–20. Peppitt cites 'Jack Nastyface', Nautical Economy, 1936; listed in P-G-R.

hand-cart cavalry. Stokes trench-mortar brigades: army: 1916–18. (F. & G.) The mortar was transported in a hand-cart.

hand-grenade. An Army water-bottle: military: 1915. (F. & G.) Ex its shape.

hand gunner. A machine-gunner: Artillery men's: ca. 1890–1920. Gilbert Frankau, 1920.

hand-in, give (someone) a. To help: Aus. coll.: C.20. (B., 1942.) As into tram or train.

hand in (one's) checks or chips. Mostly US var. (cf. cash in (one's) checks) of:— hand in (one's) dinner pail. To die: since ca. 1920. (P.G. Wodehouse.) Perhaps suggested by kick the bucket. See pass in (one's) checks.

hand it to (someone). To admit the superiority of, to give credit to: coll.: adopted, ex US, by 1914. (W.J. Carr; Moe.) In later C.20 usu. in ... must (or got to) hand it to...

hand-jive. 'System of rhythmic hand-movements in time to music where floor is too crowded to allow people present to jive (dance), esp. as in coffee bars' (L.A.): jazz-lovers': since ca. 1950.

hand like a fist. A handful of trumps; an unbeatable hand: gamblers' (at cards): from ca. 1870.

hand like a foot. A large, rough hand; vulgar, clumsy handwriting: coll.: from ca. 1705; ob. Swift.—2. In have a hand like a foot, to have a very bad hand of cards: card-players': C.20; by 1950, ob., except in Can. (Alan S.C. Ross in Sunday Times, 15 July 1956.) Sometimes intensified to ... like a club-foot (Jack Slater, 1978).

hand-me-downs. Second-hand clothes: low coll.:—1874 (H., 5th ed.).—2. In C.20, also = 'ready-mades': cf. reach-me-downs. A C.19 var., in the former sense, is hand-em-downs.—3. Whence hand-me-down shop, a shop where such clothes may be bought; also (—1909), an illegal pawnbroker's: low coll. Ware.

hand organ. A late C.19—earlyish 20 var. of hand Bible, a holystone. (Peppitt.)

hand-out. A meal handed out to the indigent; hence, a gift of money to the needy: Can. by late C.19 (Niven); adopted, ex N. America, ca. 1920. M. Harrison, Spring in Tartarus, 1935.

hand out the slack. To cheek a superior, be rude to a colleague: Services (esp. RN): since ca. 1925. (H. & P.) See slack, n., 3.

hand over fist. Hand over hand; very quickly: coll.: since early C.19. Moe cites W.N. Glascock, Sketch-Book (I, 23), 1825. In later C.20 applied to, e.g., making money, 'He was coining it in hand over fist'.

hand over head. Hurriedly; without method or reason; thoughtlessly: coll.: from ca. 1440; ob. except in dial. Latimer.

hand over the baby. 'To pass on a responsibility no one particularly desires' (Daily Express, 5 Apr. 1937): coll.: C.20. Ex holding the baby, q.v.

hand-rag. 'An underling, e.g. a clerk uninstructed in profession, etc.; assistant to a skilled senior' (L.A., 1974): coll.: since ca. 1930.

hand-reared. Phallically well-endowed: low: C.20. A ref. to masturbation.

hand-running. Straight on; in due succession: coll. when not, as gen., dial.: from ca. 1825; † except in dial. OED.

hand-saw. Same as chive-fencer, q.v., a street hawk of cutlery: Cockney:—1859 (H., 1st ed.). Prob. the correct term (ob. by ca. 1930) should be hand-saw fencer: H. is here ambiguous.

hand (someone) the cold and frosty. To snub; to treat coldly: since ca. 1920. Cf. frozen mitt.

hand to fist. Cheek by jowl; intimate(ly): mid-C.17–19 coll. Dryden, The Wild Gallant (? 1668), IV, i. (Moe.) Ex the † S.E. hand to hand.

hand-to-hand. Hand-to-hand fighting: army coll.: C.20. Gerald Kersh, Bill Nelson, 1942, 'We done a bit of the good old hand-to-hand with the good old Wogs.'

hand up. To betray; sneak on: Winchester College: ca. 1860–1910.

hand-warmers. Female breasts: Aus. raffish: since late 1920s. Cf. synon. British standard handfuls, at B.S.H.s. handbag. Money: male homosexuals': current ca. 1970. Simply because that's where a woman usually keeps it.

handbasket portion. A woman whose husband receives numerous presents from her parents and/or relatives: late C.18–mid-19: coll. Grose, 2nd ed.

handbinders, manacles, may (see F. & H.) possibly be C.17–early 18 coll.

handbolts. Handcuffs: police coll.: (? late C.19–) early C.20. Punch, 26 July 1916.

handed. Caned. See WESTMINSTER, in Appendix. Cf. hander, 2.

handed to (someone) on a plate, (something) was or has been. A c.p. in ref. to easy acquisition: since ca. 1910.

hander. A second or assistant in a prize fight: sporting:—1860; † by 1921.—2. A cane-stroke on the hand: school-boys':—1868; ob. J. Greenwood, 'You've been playing the wag, and you've got to take your handers.'

handful. Five: racing c.: C.20. Cf. fives (, a bunch of). Hence, win by a couple of handfuls, by ten lengths, i.e. easily.—2. Hence, £5: c.: C.20.—3. Odds of 5 to 1: racing, esp. bookmakers': C.20. Ex sense 1.—4. A prison sentence of 5 years: since ca. 1940: c. >, by 1960, s. Frank Norman, in Encounter, July 1959.—5. 'Troublesome person, usually a young person' (Powis): gen. coll., also domestic, as in 'Oh, Baby's a right handful, I can tell you': C.20.—6. See B.S.H.s.—7. In to have a handful, 'To fondle a woman's bosom or other sexual parts (taboo expression)' (Powis): low coll.: C.20. Ex:-

handful of sprats. A sexual groping: low: late C.19–20. Claiborne, 1976, adds: 'cf. fish [in sense of the female pudend]. The semantics ultimately have to do with odor, I think.' See ling.

handie-dandie, handy-dandy. Sexual connexion; (mainly Scots) coll.: C.16–18. Ex the child's game.

handies. 'A fondling of hands between lovers': (C.J. Dennis): Aus.: C.20. Esp. in play at handies, or play handies, to fondle thus, or merely to hold hands: joc. coll., Brit. also: C.20. An English var. is play at handy (Manchon, 1923). Cf. play footie.

handkercher, hankercher. Handkerchief: sol. and dial.: C.19–20. (OED.) Cf. hankie.

handky is a rare var. of hankie (-y), q.v.

handle, n. A nose: low: ca. 1790–1910. The Port Folio, 29 Dec. 1804 (p. 413), quoting a Brit. source, 'the handle of his face, cycled the nose'. (Moe.) This is the full C.18 joc. phrase; cf. 'A[n]... intriguing... old lady, with an immense handle to her face' (Modern Society, 27 Aug. 1887).—2. A title; nearly always in form a handle to (one's) name: coll. An early example is in L.L.G., 11 Oct. 1823 (Moe). In C.20, occ. loosely used to include Dr or Mr.—3. See fly off the handle.

handle, v. As = to use, e.g. handle one's fists, it is S.E., but as = to palm (cards) it is cardsharper's c.: from ca. 1860.

handle the ribbing. To punch (someone) in the ribs: pugilistic: ca. 1830–70. Sinks, 1848.

handle the ribbons. To drive a coach or a carriage: coll.:—1827: ob. Moncrieff; Milliken, 'He 'andled the ribbings to rights', 1892 in his lively 'Army Ballads.

handle to (one's) name. See handle, n., 2.

handle without mittens. To handle roughly: coll. soon > S.E.: later C.17–early 20. (Roger Boyle, Mr Anthony, 1672; Johnson.) In late C.19–20, gen. handle without gloves or with the gloves off.

handlebars. Moustaches resembling bicycle handlebars: since ca. 1910.

Handley Page. A stage: rhyming s.: since ca. 1920. 'Mainly theatrical' (Franklyn 2nd). Ex the famous firm of aircraft designers and manufacturers.

handraulic power. See Johnny Armstrong.

hands. See all hands.

hands off! Keep off or away! Coll.: from ca. 1560. See also f.h.o.

hands off cocks – feet in socks! is a mid-C.20 var. of hands off your cocks and pull up your socks!, the army orderly NCO's reveille call to men in barracks: prob. since late C.19. A vulgar version of Wakey wakey!

hands to fishing-stations. The picking-up of dead fish after a depth-charge has been dropped at a test: RN: since ca. 1938. P-G-R.

Hand's turn. A stroke of work: coll. (—1881) ex dial. (1828). OED.

hands up! Oh, stop talking! (low) coll.:—1888. Ex police command to surrender.—2. See put (one's) hands up, to admit to charges.

hands-upper. A surrendered Boer that eventually took (esp., fought on) the Brit. side: 1900–2, then merely historical.

handsaw. See hand-saw.

handshake. A 'backhander'—a tip, or a bribe, handed surreptitiously: since ca. 1930. See also golden handshake.

handsome, n. In to do the handsome (sc. thing), to behave extremely well; esp. to be very generous: coll.:—1887 (Manville Fenn, This Man's Wife).

handsome as an adj. is, despite F. & H., ineligible. As an adv., esp. in handsome is that handsome does ('a proverb frequently cited by ugly women', Grose), it was, in C.15–mid-18, S.E.; then coll.; then, after ca. 1850, low coll.

handsome-bodied in the face. Ugly: derisively coll.:—1678; † by 1793, ob. by 1860.

Handsome Harry. A 'gay Lothario' or exponent of the love-'em-and-leave-'em technique: feminine, esp. shop-girls' and office-girls': since ca. 1930.

handsome reward, ca. 1785–1830, meant, as a joc. coll., a horse whipping. (Grose, 3rd ed.) Ex the ambiguous language of 'lost' advertisements.

handsomely! Carefully!, not so fast!: nautical. (F. & H.; Bowen.) 'An official order to lower a boat "slowly and with care"' (Granville). Handsomely, handsomely occurs in, e.g., W.N. Glascock, Sailors and Saints, 1829, at I, 182, and II, 19. (Moe.) A latish C.19 var., ob. by ca. 1930, was handsomely over the bricks!: go cautiously; be careful.

handspike hash. The enforcing of discipline: sailing-ships': late C.19–20. (Bowen.) Cf. belaying-pin soup.

handsprings, chuck. To turn somersaults: low coll.: from ca. 1860.

handstaff. The male member: from ca. 1850: coll. (mainly rural). Ex the handling of a flail.

handwriting. 'Habits of technique' (John Le Carré, The Honourable Schoolboy, 1977): perhaps orig. espionage and police, but by 1970s, gen. coll., as 'It's got his handwriting all over it': since late 1940s. Cf. the now ob. cliché fine Italian hand.

handy Billy. Var. of next. 'Traffrail'.

Handy Billy. 'Jigger-purchase, a small tackle so designated by seamen' (W.N. Glascock, Sailors and Saints, 1829, at I, 182; cited by Moe): RN coll. (Granville notes, in glossing it as 'small tackle', the pron. taykle): C.19–20.—2. A housewife (pron. hussif or hussuf), a small sewing holdall (needles, thread, etc.): RN: since ca. 1940, says Peppiatt, but I think since ca. 1930.

[handy blows. Fisticuffs: late C.16–mid-19. The OED considers it S.E.; F. & H., coll., as do B.E. and the editor of A New Canting Dict. Prob. coll. ca. 1660–1740.]

handy-dandy. See handie-dandie.

handy for. Conveniently situated for: coll., since late C.19, >, by later C.20, at least in estate agents' advertisements, informal S.E., almost j.

handy Jack. A lower classes' coll. and pej. form of Jack of all trades: C.19–20. Ware.

handy-man. A man unable to 'bring off' his female partner and therefore obliged to resort to manual caresses to 'finish her off': since ca. 1950, if not a decade earlier. (Hollander.) A pun on the S.E. term for a man of all work.

hang, n. The general drift or tendency, gen. in get the hang of: coll.:—1847 (Darley); perhaps orig. US, where recorded—see Thornton—in 1845 as acquire the hang of. 'He gets what some call the hang of the place' (Daily Chronicle, 4 Apr. 1890). P.B.: in later C.20 often applied to the knowledge of a task or the knack required to do it properly, as 'I can't seem to get the hang of this computer-programming lark at all'.—2. (Always in a negative sentence.) A (little) bit: pej. coll.:—1861; ob. H. Kingsley, 'She can't ride a hang.' Prob. hence in not care or give a hang: see not care...—3. See penny hang.

hang, v. In expletive locutions, as hang him! (and) be hanged!, (go and) hang yourself!, hang it!, and hang!, it indicates disgust, annoyance, or disappointment, and sometimes hang (it)!—damn (it)! Coll.: late C.16–20, though anticipated in C.14, as in Chaucer's 'Jelousie be hanged be [by] a cable!' Shakespeare, 'He a good wit? Hang him, baboon!'; Grant Allen, 'Hang it all...'—a common form of the exclam. Cf. the † prob. hang hang yourself for a pastime (—1678). See esp. OED.

hang a monkey. To buy a suit: proletarian (?mostly Liverpool): C.20.

hang aback. A coll. nautical var. of hang back (to show reluctance), in the specific sense, to shirk duty: C.19–20. Bowen.

hang about. To haunt, v.t., loaf, v.i.: coll.: adopted, ex US, ca. 1895. Also hang around.—2. As hang about!, always in the imperative, a demand to 'wait a moment!': gen. coll.: since ca. 1960. 'Teacher requires a swift answer from a boy in class; the response may well be "Hang about, Miss! Ain't got me book open yet"—this to my wife, 1973' (P.B., 1974). Cf. hang on!, 3.

hang an arse. To hold (oneself) back; hesitate: late C.16–20, ob.: S.E. in C.17, then coll., then in C.19–20 low coll. (Marston, Smollett, Tomlinson in his valuable Slang Pastoral.) Cf. S.E. hang a leg or † the groin.

hang (one's) bat out to dry. To place one's bat in an impotent position: cricketers': 1895 (C.B. Fry; Lewis.)

hang-bluff. Snuff: rhyming s.:—1857; †. ('Ducange Anglicus'). Displaced, ca. 1870, by Harry Bluff.

hang-by. A hanger-on, a parasite: coll.: late C.16–17; then dial. Jonson.

hang-dog. A pitiful rascal: C.18 coll. (Fielding.) The adj. is S.E., as, indeed, the OED considers the n. Lit., fit only to hang a dog.

hang five—hang ten; hang eleven. To hang with one foot (five toes)—with both feet—over the nose or front of the board; 'ten toes and rider over nose of board': Aus. surfers', esp. teenagers': since ca. 1960. (Pix, 28 Sep. 1963.) Hence also, skateboarders': late 1970s.

hang-gallows look. A villainous appearance: coll. on verge of S.E.: late C.18–19. (Grose, 1st ed.) The n. hang-gallows, a gallows-bird, is wholly S.E.

hang (one's) hat up. To become engaged to a girl; hanging (one's) hat up, thus engaged; hang (one's) hat up to (a girl), to make pronounced matrimonial advances (to): proletarian: mid-C.19—early 20.—2. See hang up (one's) hat.

hang in. To set to work; do one's best: low coll.: C.19—early 20.—2. (Of aircraft) to maintain formation, as in 'I close up on my leader's wing and wedge my wing-tip solidly behind his and hang in' (Phantom): RAF aircrews': 1970. Opp. hang loose.

hang-in-chains. 'A vile desperate fellow' (Grose, 1st ed.): coll.: ca. 1780–1830.

hang in the bellropes. To postpone marriage after being 'banned' in church: coll.: from ca. 1750; ob. by 1900, † by 1930, except in dial. Apperson.

hang in the hedge. (Esp. of a lawsuit) to be undecided: coll.: late C.17–18. B.E.

hang in there! (with emphasis on in). Don't give up!: adopted, ca. 1971, ex US; ob. See esp. DCpp.

hang it! See hang, v.

hang it on. See hang on, eligible sense, and cf.:

hang it on with (a woman). To make her one's mistress: low:—1812; † by 1900. Vaux.

hang it out. To "skulk" on a job—not to do justice when on time work' (B. & L.); printers': from ca. 1870.—2. Hence, to delay a matter: coll. P.B.: E.P. considered this an Australianism, and cited 'Rolf Boldrewood' (1890); but in C.20, at any rate, certainly Brit., as 'the unions hung it out, hoping for a settlement'.

hang it up. See hang up, v., 1.

hang (one's) latchpan. To look and/or be dejected; to pout: low coll. when not dial.: C.19—early 20. Ex latchpan, a pan to catch the drippings of a roast.

hang loose. See hang in, 2.

hang of, get the. See hang, n., 1.

hang off, v.t. To fight shy of: printers': from ca. 1860. A slight deviation from C.17–20 S.E. senses, to hesitate, hang back, raise objections.

hang-on. 'A hanger-on, a mean dependant' (OED): coll., I think, though given as S.E. by the OED: late C.16—early 17.

hang on, v. To sponge on; pursue a person or a design, is, despite F. & H., ineligible. But (gen. as hang it on) in sense, to delay a matter, it is low: from ca. 1810. (Vaux.) Cf. hang it out, q.v.—2. To wait: coll.: C.20. Perhaps ex telephoning; as 'I'll just hang on (for you) until you come, then.'—3. Hence, as imperative, hang on!, 'Don't be so hasty!', or 'Oh, come! Be reasonable!': coll. P.B.: E.P. dates this usage 'mid-C.19–20', so it may, in fact, have given rise to sense 2, with the telephone influence as a reinforcement. Cf. hang about, 2.

hang on by the (or one's) eyelashes (-lids, -brows). To be extremely persevering, courageously tenacious, esp. in a difficulty. Hang by the eye-lids is the gen. ca. 1770–1850 form; hang on by the (or one's) eyelashes from ca. 1850; and in C.20 -brows is the usu.—2. Also, in C.20, to be near to ruin, death, or defeat, eyebrows being much preferred in this sense. A var. of both senses is the likewise coll., hang on by the skin (one's) teeth.

hang on by the splashboard. To catch a bus, tram, etc., as it moves; hence, barely to succeed: coll.: late C.19—early 20.

hang on like... See hold on like...

hang on that, Dook! Shake hands! (non-aristocratic) Londoners': from ca. 1920. With a pun on doork, 1, 2.

hang on the slack! Don't be in a hurry!: RN: C.20. (John Malin, 1979.) Perhaps an elab. of hang on, 2 and 3.

hang one on. To get (very) drunk: Can.: adopted, ex US, ca. 1935. Also tie one on.—2. To strike (someone), esp. in the eye: adopted, late 1960s, ex US. In, e.g., a Sunday Express cartoon, 28 Sep. 1969. (R.S.) hang-out, n. A residence or lodging: low s. > coll.: since ca. 1820. 'Ducange Anglicus' has hangs-out. Ex sense 1 of v.—2. 'A feasting, an entertainment': Cambridge undergraduates': ca. 1845–70. B. & L.

hang out, v. To reside, live, lodge; be temporarily at (e.g. a dug-out in the trenches): orig. low or prob. c. (—1811); by 1835 gen. s.; in C.20, coll. Lex. Bal., 'The traps [police] scavey where we hang out'; Dickens. Ex the ancient custom of hanging out signs. Cf. (—1871) US hang out a shingle, to carry on a business.—2. Hence (of inanimates), to be, to exist, be located: coll.: from ca. 1910. Lyell, 'I hear you've got a job in Foster's factory. Where does it actually hang out?'—3. To last, to endure: Aus.:—1916 (C.J. Dennis). Cf. (perhaps ex) hang it out, q.v.

hang out of. To coit with (a woman): RN lowerdeck: C.20. Cf. dangle from.—2. Hence, to commit sodomy: id.: since ca. 1920.

hang out the flag of distress. See flag of distress.—2. To live in furnished lodgings: urban:—1923 (Manchon).—3. To be an ordinary street-harlot: low:—1923 (Ibid.).

hang out the washing. To set sail: nautical: mid-C.19–20. Bowen.

hang-over. A 'morning after the night before' feeling: from ca. 1910. Since ca. 1945 the preferred form has been hangover.

hang saving! 'Blow the expenses!': coll. c.p.: C.18. (Swift, Polite Conversation, II.) Nowadays, hang the expense!: C.19–20.

hang-slang about, gen. v.i. To 'slang', vituperate: low: ca. 1860–1910. An elab. of slang, v.—2. To 'hang about' with illicit intention: c. or low:—1923 (Manchon).

hang-up, n. A gallows-bird: coll.: ca. 1560–1660. (Hang-rope and -string are S.E.)—2. Delay; frustration: Can. jazz-lovers': since ca. 1956. Victoria Daily Colonist, 16 Apr. 1959, 'Basic Beatnik': 'Man—Omnibus salutation extended to men, women, domestic animals—saves cool cat hangup of remembering names.' The distribution, prob. owing to the rapidly increasing use in US, covered, by ca. 1970, the entire English-speaking world; along with it, a widening of the sense to 'any problem, emotional, psychological, professional' and 'any considerable difficulty, esp. if irritating': cf. 'Ringo [Starr], while the least creative, had no hangups about not being the equal of [the other Beatles]' (Apple). It occurs also in Adrian Reid, Hitch-Hiker, 1970, in the nuance 'embarrassment; a grave nuisance'. The adj. for a person with a hangup, or hangups, is hung up.

hang up, v. (Gen. as hang it up.) To give credit, lit. chalk it up: prob. orig. (—1725) c.; by 1785, low; ob. by 1890, † by 1921.—2. V.t., to rob, with assault, on the street; to garotte: c.: ca. 1870–1915. Cf. S.E. hold up.—3. V.t., to postpone, leave unsettled: coll.: G. Rose, 1803 (OED, which considers the phrase S.E., as it certainly is in C.20). Cornhill Magazine, June 1887.—4. V.i., to be in dire straits, physical or monetary; e.g. a man hanging is one 'to whom any change must be for the better' (F. & H.): low coll.: ca. 1860–1910.—5. V.t., to tie up a horse: Aus. coll.:—1860 (W. Kelly, Life in Victoria). Ex securing horses to posts.—6. Hanging it up, cruising or dawdling near a given spot: taxi-drivers': since ca. 1910. Herbert Hodge, 1939. See hanging up.—7. To end a tic-tac message. See phone, 3.

hang up (one's) boots. To be forced by age, ill-health, etc., to stop playing football: sporting: C.20. By analogy, applied in other circumstances, as hang up (one's) tits, of a female impersonator, to leave the music-halls after one's career has ended. Ex either hang up the fiddle, or the phrase made familiar by 'Western' films, of the aged gun-fighter 'hanging up his guns'.

hang up (one's) fiddle when (one) comes home. To be merry or witty abroad, but not at home: coll.: C.19–20. Ex the C.18–20 synon. Derbicism hang the fiddle at the door.

hang up (one's) hat. To die: (?low) s. > coll.: ca. 1850–1914.—2. See hang (one's) hat up.

hang up the fiddle. To desist, esp. from an enterprise: coll.: ca. 1870–1920.

hang up the hatchet. See bury the hatchet.

hang up the ladle. To marry: society: mid-C.18—early 19. Ware.

hang your number out to dry! A post-1920 var. of before you...!: Services. H. & P. hangar doors closed! A var. (Partridge, 1945) of close hangar doors!

hangashun or hangava, adv. Very: Aus. children's: since ca. 1920. (B., 1942.) E.g., "hangashun good", very good, excellent. Cf. helluva.

hanged. Confounded, gen. as in 'Oh that be hanged!' or 'Be hanged to that!': coll.: since mid-1880s. (OED.) Ex dial., where recorded in 1864 (EDD). Cf. hang, v. [I'll be hanged if... is familiar S.E.] hanged (or hung) higher than Gilderoy's kite, (to be). To be punished with excessive severity; hence and gen., out of sight, gone: mid-C.19–20; ob. Prob. of Scottish origin: see Notes & Queries, 7th Series, V, 357, and Thornton.

hangers. Gloves; esp. gloves held in the hand: ca. 1875–1910.—2. (Gen. in pot-hooks and hangers and very rare in the singular.) Strokes with a double curve, as l: a nursery coll: from ca. 1705. Swift.—3. Female breasts: Aus. raffish: since ca. 1930.

hanging. Fit to be hanged: coll.: C.19—early 20. See hang up, v., 4.

Hanging Committee. The Royal Academy committee that chooses pictures: painters' coll.:—1887 (Baumann). A pun. hanging Johnny. The male member; esp. if impotent or diseased: low: C.19–20 (? ob.).

Hanging judge, the. This nickname on the verge of being mere sobriquet has been given to various judges apt to give the capital sentence; e.g. Toler (early C.19), Hawkins (late C.19), Avory (1920s and early 30s).

hanging on the (usu. the old) barbed wire. An army c.p. reply to an enquiry as to a man's whereabouts: late 1915–18. (F. & G.; B. & P.) Ex men left dead on the wire after an attack. Cf. died of wounds; gassed at Mons; gone for a shit...; see esp. DCpp. It forms the climax of a bitter song: 'If you want the old Battalion, I know where they are: they're hanging...' A var. was on the wire at (e.g. Loos).

hanging on the slack. 'Waiting for something to happen' (Granville): RN coll.: C.20. See hang on...;

hanging-up. Unscrupulous cab driver's illegal practice of deliberately failing to move up on an official (or unofficial) cab rank and not taking hiring in rotation. Done to enable obtaining more favourable hirings. Causes of disputes and bad feeling between cab drivers' (Powis). See brooming off and hang up, v., 6.

hangings. 'While the flogger was fixing me up [to the triangles] he said to me quietly, "Is there any hangings to it?" meaning had I anything to give him to lay it on lightly' (Louis Becke, Old Convict Days, 1897): prison warders' (esp. in Aus.): ca. 1820–70.

hangman. A pej. term; a joc. endearment: mid-C.16–20, but rare after 1650. By the OED considered S.E.; the latter use is, I believe, coll.

hangman's day. Monday (in US, hanging day, Friday): low coll.: ca. 1830–1900.

hangman's wages. Thirteen-pence-halfpenny: 1678, Butler: ob. by 1820, † by 1880: coll. Dekker, 1602, has 'Why should I eat hempe-seed at the hangman's thirteen-pence-half-penny ordinary?'; and thirteen-pence half-penny wages occurs in 1659. The C.17 execution fee was a Scottish mark, fixed by James I at 13½d.

hangover. See hang-over.

hangs-out. See hang-out, n.

hangtelow. See hanktelow.

hangup. See hang-up, n., 2.

hank, n. A spell of rest or comparative (physical) ease: coll.: from ca. 1810; ob. Vaux; Egan's Grose; Sporting Life, 7 Dec. 1888, concerning a boxing-match, 'The company... called out, "No hank!"' See no hank.—2. In (a) hank, in trouble; in difficulty: coll.: C.17–19. The sense changed slightly in later C.19, to that in '(Of a person ridden by a fixed idea, e.g. sexual drive) esp. of a woman, to catch a man in a hank' (L.A., 1974, who notes further 'My mother [a Londoner] used it 1920, but she prob. heard it 50 or more years before').—3. On the hank, on the look-out (for booty): c., and low Cockney: from ca. 1890. Clarence Rook, 1899.—4. In to have a hank (up)on (someone), to have a profitable, e.g. a blackmailing, hold on a person: coll.: ca. 1640–1800 (extant, ca. 1930, in dial. and US). In Vaux it takes the form, have (a person) at a good hank. Ex hank, a coil of rope.—5. See Smithfield hank, an enraged ox.

hank, v. To tease, bait, worry; persecute: coll.: ca. 1820–1920.—2. To hesitate, be diffident; also as ppl adj., hanking: proletarian coll.: from ca. 1870. Nevinson, 1895, 'Lina's style, full of 'ankin' artful little ways'; 'Don't stand 'ankin' there; you're not the only person in the world.' Cf. S.E. hank, v.i., to hang, to hanker.

hanker, v.i. To long. V.t. with after. From ca. 1640; it seems to have, ca. 1680–1825, been considered coll.,—witness B.E., and Grose (edd. of 1785–1823). The same applies to the vbl n. hankering.

hanker (one's) heel. To hook an opponent's heel at wrestling: sporting: ca. 1800–60. Moe cites Blackwood's, Dec. 1823.

hankercher; hank(e)ycher (Baumann). See hankercher. Cf.:- hankie, hanky; rarely handky. A handkerchief: nursery coll., much used also by women: late C.19–20. C.J. Dennis.

hankin, n. Passing off bad work for good: commercial: ca. 1870–1930.

hankins. Breaches: c.: C.18. Anon., Street-Robberies Consider'd, 1728.

hanktelo. 'A silly Fellow, a meer Cods-head' (B.E.): late C.16–early 19: coll. verging on S.E. In Nashe as hangtelow; Grose, 1st ed.

hanky. See hankie.—2. Abbr. hanky-panky: 1924 (Galsworthy: OED Sup.).

hanky-panky. Legerdemain; hence, almost imm., trickery, double or underhand work: 1841 (Punch). Also adj., as in hanky-panky business, conjuring or 'dirty work', and hanky-panky tricks or work, double-dealing. Julian Franklyn (letter, 1962) suggests that it is prob. a reduplication of hanky, handkerchief—the conjuror's handkerchief used 'to assist the quickness of the hand in deceiving the audience's eye'.—2. Hence, sexual caressing or intercourse, esp. in infidelity: C.20.

hanky-panky bloke. A conjuror: theatrical: ca. 1860–1920. Ex prec., 1.

hanky-spanky. Dashing (of persons); esp., well-cut, stylish (of clothes): ? low: from ca. 1880. Prob. ex spanking, q.v., by hanky-panky, q.v.

hanky worker. One who gets out of strait jackets: showmen's:—1934 (P. Allingham, London Evening News, 9 July). Cf. hanky-panky bloke.

Hannah. A Wren serving with the Royal Marines: 1939+. 'From the famous Hannah Snell, who, disguised as a man, fought with the Marines on land and sea in the eighteenth century' (M.o.I.'s News-Clip, 16 Feb. 1944).—2. In that's the man as married Hannah, and its occ. var. that's what's the matter with the man ...; Excellent!; Good for you! Most certainly! Orig. to designate a good or happy beginning. A rather low c.p., mostly Shropshire, then London: ca. 1860–1905. (H., 1864.) Still extant in North Country coll., mid-C.20, for 'Good! I've found the object I was looking for' (Mrs Barbara Huston).

Hanover, go to. Go to hell: Jacobites': ca. 1725–80. (Ware.) Cf. Halifax, Jericho, Bath, etc. EDD notes also the dial. what the Hanover! and, concerning the Suffolk go to Hanover and hoe turnips!, remarks: 'Said to date from the time of the [first two] Georges, who were very unpopular in the east [of England].'

Hanover (or to Hanover) jack. An initiation sovereign: low (? orig. c.): ca. 1880–1914. Ware, who cites a police report of 1888, offers an unconvincing derivation. Cf. Hamburg, q.v.

Hans. A Dutchman; a German (in C.20, the only sense): coll.: from ca. 1570. Abbr. Johannes, John. Cf. Fritz, q.v.

Hans Carvel's ring. The female pudend: C.17–19 low coll. In Urquhart's Rabelais, 1653. Ex a tale by Poggio.

Hans-en (or in) Kelder. An unborn child: low: perhaps orig. c.: often as a toast to the expected infant: ca. 1630–1830.

(Brome, Dryden, Grose.) Ex Dutch, lit. Jack in (the) cellar. For an interesting anecdote, see Thornbury's London, iii, 315.

Hans the Grenadier. See Carl the caretaker. Cf. Hans Wurst, 'the popular German nickname for a German infantryman' (F. & G.).

Hansard. The reports of Parliamentary proceedings and speeches: coll.: 1876, Leslie Stephen (OED). Published by Messrs Hansard since 1774; the firm has for some years ceased to have the monopoly.

hanseller, han-seller. A low coll. form of S.E. hand-seller, a cheapjack: ca. 1850–1910. Hindley, Adventures of a Cheap Jack.

hansom. A chop: costermongers': ca. 1870–1925. ? punning the notions 'goes quickly' and 'good to look at', or ex the normal shapes.

Hants. Hampshire. Such abbr., when written, are S.E.; but if spoken as genuine equivalents of the original names they are coll. This notice is to serve as generic for all the British counties that are so abbr. in coll. speech: e.g. Bucks, Lancs, Wilts, but not, e.g. Som. or Camb. Rare before ca. 1890.

hap, adj. Happy: upper-class feminine: 1920s–30s. (Nicholas Mosley, Rules of the Game, 1982.) Opp. mis, q.v.

hap-harlot. A rug, a coarse coverlet: coll.: ca. 1550–1760, then dial. (in C.20, †). Lit., a cover-knave. Cf. wrap-rascal, q.v.—2. A woman's undergarments: C.19. Also corrupted to hap-parlet. B.&L.

hap worth a cop(p)eras. See ha'porth o' coppers.

ha'penny (mainly pron. haypny, at least in C.20). A coll. form, since C.16, of halfpenny. OED.—2. The female pudend; sometimes as 'little ha'penny': feminine: C.20. See keep your hand ...

Ha'penny Bumper, the. A horse-drawn tramcar that survived in Bermondsey long after the LCC had electrified the rest of the system: Londoners': C.20; now only historical.

ha'penny dip. A ship: Dockland rhyming s.: C.20. (Franklyn 2nd).—2. A bed: 'Kip, "Steaming in his ha'penny when he ought to be doing a bit of George Raft (graft, work)"' (Red Daniells, 1980): rhyming s.: later C.20.

ha'penny harder, a. (Of the money-market) slightly better in tendency: Stock Exchange coll.: C.20. Ex the lit. sense as applied to a specific 'security'.

ha'porth. A coll. contraction of halfpennyworth: 1728, Swift (OED). Earlier contractions, also to be rated as coll., are—see the OED at halfpennyworth—halpworthe, ca. 1490,—halporth, 1533,—halfperth, 1692,—halfp'worth, 1719. Swift also has halfporth, but this is rare. A late (? before 1873, Browning) contraction is ha'p'worth.—2. A term of contempt for someone considered silly, a 'poor doer'; always qualified, often as soppy (ha'p'orth, or daft ... C.20. (P.B.)) ha'porth o' coppers. Habeas corpus: legal: from ca. 1840; ob. Ex the C.18 sol. pron. hap worth a coperas quoted by Grose (3rd ed.).

ha'porth (or, less common, pen'orth) of. Contemptible of either small cost or, usu., potency (or efficacy) of a measure, as 'She gave me a haporth of gin to soothe my toothache' (L.A., 1976), or as in 'Such an effective controlled revelation marred by a ha'porth of sensationalism' (Allan Morrison in The Times, 10 Mar. 1976). P.B.: often in 'It won't make a ha'porth of difference whether ...'

ha'porth of liveliness. Music: costers': from ca. 1845; ob. Mayhew.—2. A dawdler, a slow-coach: low:—1893; ob. by 1930.

happen, v. To achieve success: prob., not certainly, ex US: current among jazz musicians and their public since the early 1960s or perhaps even as early as mid-1950s. 'They're not happening and I think they were finished as Beatles the day Brian [Epstein, their manager] died. I don't think the Beatles would have happened at all if Brian had been motivated exclusively by money' (thanks to Paul Janssen for this quot'n from Apple). Cf. happen for.—2. See it happens all the time.

happen. Adv. (orig. a subjunctive: cf. maybe), perhaps, perchance: at first (—1790) and still mainly Northern dial., but from ca. 1845 it has been increasingly used as a coll., esp.

in the non-committal happen it does, happen it (he, etc.) will. happen for (someone) with (something). "I hope it may happen for her with this one" (meaning "I hope this one may be a success") (Anthony Lejeune in Daily Telegraph, colour sup., 10 Mar. 1967); since ca. 1965. Cf. happen, v.

happen in, v.i. To pay a casual visit: coll.: adopted, ca. 1895, ex US. Cf. drop in.

happening, n. A 'spontaneous eruption of feeling or display' (Peter Fryer in Observer colour sup., 3 Dec. 1967): jazz and drug addicts', and hippies: since ca. 1966.—2. See it's all happening.

Happy. The inevitable nickname of anyone surnamed Day: late C.19–20: mostly Services'. (Bowen.) Ex O, happy day! happy, adj. Slightly (and, properly used, cheerfully) drunk: coll.: 1770 (OED). Marryat.—2. As suffix, in, e.g. bomb-happy, flak-happy, with nerves shattered by exposure to imminent death or mutilation; or, as in demob-happy, recklessly by reason of impending escape from present circumstances: WW2 and after: orig. Services, > gen. coll. (P.B.)

Happy and Chatty, the. HM cruiser Immortalité: RN: when, in 1895–8, she was on the China Station under Sir Edward Chichester. (Bowen.) Partly rhyming, partly allusive to her condition.—2. Hence, applied to any slack-disciplined, untidy ship: nautical: C.20.

happy as a boxing kangaroo in fog time. Thoroughly discontented: Aus. coll.: C.20. (B., 1942.) Cf. the variants cited by Wilkes: happy or lucky or miserable as a bastard on Father's Day.

happy as a nun weeding the asparagus. Exceedingly happy: ? mostly Can.: since ca. 1910. 'Uncommon but not rare' (Leechman). Erotic.

happy as a pig ... See happy as pigs ...

happy as Larry, (as). Very happy; delighted at the way things have turned out: Brit. and Aus. coll.: late C.19–20. Prob. ex Northern dial.

happy as pigs (or a pig) in shit, (as). Very happy (though perhaps rather dirty); esp. quite content with one's surroundings: low: since ca. 1870. (Gerald Kersh, Faces in a Dusty Picture, 1944.) Also happy as a pig in muck. Cf. US pig in clover. happy days. Strong ale and beer mixed: public-houses' (esp. at Glasgow); from ca. 1920.

happy days! A toast that has something of the quality of a c.p.: prob. since ca.1910. It occurs in 'Bartimeus', Naval Occasions, 1914, with the reply Salute!—from either Sp. salud! or, more prob., Fr. salut!

happy dossier. See dossier.

happy Eliza. A female Salvationist: 1887–ca. 1910. Ex a broadside ballad that points to 'Happy Eliza' and 'Converted Jane' as 'hot 'uns in our time'.

happy-ender. A story with a happy end: coll. (esp. in the book-world): late C.19–20. Berta Ruck, 1935.

happy family. A collection of various animals, of different natures, living quietly in one cage: coll.: 1845–1915. Albert Smith, Natural History of the Gent, 1847.

happy hours. Flowers: rhyming s., mainly theatrical: late C.19–20. Franklyn, Rhyming.

happy hunting-ground. 'A favourable place for work or play' (F. & H.): coll. (—1892) >, ca. 1900, S.E.—2. The puendum muliebrem: low: from ca. 1870.

happy in the Service?, (are you). 'Cheery greeting to someone who obviously isn't; irony in moments of harassment' (P-G-R). See are you happy ...

happy landings! (Esp. over a drink) good luck!: airmen's: since ca. 1915.

happy returns. Vomiting: Aus.: low: ca. 1880–1930.

Happy Valley. A Somme valley famous in the Battle of the Somme (July–Nov. 1916): ironic military nickname in late 1916–18. B. & P.—2. Any city or locality, area, region, that is being (very) heavily bombed; esp. the Ruhr: RAF, esp. Bomber Command: 1941+. H. & P.; Jackson.—3. A valley between Taungmaw and the Mankat Pass in Burma: army: 1942–5.—4. (Usu. lower-case.) Female genitals: C.20.

ha'p'worth. See ha'p'orth.

haramzeda. A scoundrel; very gen. as term of abuse: Anglo-Indian:—1864. Ex Arabo-Persian for son of the unlawful. Y. & B.

harbour. See our 'arbour!

harbour light. All right: rhyming s.: late C.19–20; since ca. 1920 'nearly always reduced to all harbour ... as an expression of satisfaction and well-being' (Franklyn 2nd.).

harch off. 'To abandon or leave' (B., 1953): Aus. (orig. Services'): since ca. 1940.

hard, n. Hard labour, as punishment; e.g. 'Seven years hard': late C.19 c. >, in C.20, low.—2. Third class, on e.g. a train. 'Do you go hard or soft?', i.e. third or first: late C.19–earlier 20. Abbr. hard seat or hard arse.—3. The hard: whisky: since ca. 1850. Often a drop of the hard (sc. stuff); sometimes applied to other spirits.—4. Plug tobacco: from ca. 1895; coll. >, by 1930, S.E. (Bowen; OED Sup.) See got any hard?—5. In the hard or in hard card, cash down: coll.: ca. 1830–1930.

hard, adj. (Of beer or cider) stale or sour: late C.16–20: S.E. till ca. 1680; then coll. till mid-C.19, then s. when not dial. 'Hard drink, that is very Stale, or beginning to Sower' (B.E.).—2. Intoxicating, spirituous: coll.: orig. (ca. 1874) US, anglicised in mid-1880s. OED.—3. See tired; die hard.

hard-a-Gilbert. Hard-a-port: RN officers': late C.19–early 20. Bowen, 'Gilbert being an old-time wine merchant whose port was supplied to ward-rooms'. P-G-R suggests, however, 'presumably a corruption of hard a-Gilbey, a pun on Messrs Gilbey, wine-merchants to the Navy and noted for their excellent port wine.'

hard-a-weather. Weather-proof; physically tough: nautical coll.: 1848. Clark Russell, 'They were hard-a-weather fellows.—2. Hence, a sailor: nautical coll.: C.19–early 20. In, e.g., L.L.G., 1 Jan. 1825, in Matthew Barker's 'Greenwich Hospital' (Moe), and in Manchon, 1923.

hard-arse. A wooden chair: cf. T.S.R arse, the effect of the hard chairs in Temple Speech Room: Rugby School: resp. since ca. 1910 and since ca. 1945. (D.F. Wharton.) hard as a bone. Very hard: unyielding; physically or morally tough: coll.: resp. ca. 1860–1930 and from 1838 (Dickens in Oliver Twist). See also hard as nails.

hard-arsed. Very niggardly, monetarily costive: low: from ca. 1850; supplanted by tight-arsed, q.v.

hard as a goat's knees. Extremely hard: Aus.: C.20. B., 1959.

hard as Brazil, (as). Extremely hard: from ca. 1635; coll. till 1700, then S.E.; ob. by 1935. Either ex Brazil-wood or, much less prob., ex brazil, iron pyrites. SOD.

hard as nails. In good condition: from ca. 1860: coll. till ca. 1905, then S.E.—2. Unyielding, harsh, pitiless: coll. (—1889) >, ca. 1920, S.E.

hard as the hobs of hell. Extremely hard: C.19. It occurs, referring to bread baked by the boss's wife, in 'The Tarriers' Song', about Irish quarry workers in US, in The Pocket Song Book, Workers' Music Assn, 1948. (Mrs C. Raab.) Also Ted Walker, High Path, 1982, uses it to describe a chunk of greenheart wood. (P.B.)

hard at it. Very busy, esp. on some particular work: coll.: from ca.1870 hard-bake. A sweetmeat of boiled brown sugar (or treacle) and blanched almonds: schoolboys':—1825: in C.20, gen. considered S.E. Hone, 'Hardbake, brandy-balls, and bull's-eyes'.

hard-baked. Constipated: low coll.:—1823; ob. by 1893. Bee.—2. Stern, unflinching: coll.: ? orig. US (—1847).

hard bargain. A lazy fellow; an incorrigible: coll.: from ca. 1850.—2. A defaulting debtor: trade: from ca. 1860; ob.—3. Occ. as synonym. with hard case, 4.

hard bit or mouthful. An unpleasant experience: coll.: ca. 1860–1910.—2. (Var., bit of hard) the male member in priapism; hence (for women) the coitus.

hard boy. See hard man, 2.

hard case. An incorrigible: orig. (1842), US; anglicised ca.

1860.—2. In Aus. and NZ, a person morally tough but not necessarily incorrigible; also a witty or amusing dare-devil—one who loves fun and adventure; a girl ready for sexual escapades: all coll. from ca. 1880.—3. A defaulting debtor: trade: from ca. 1865. Cf. hard bargain, 2.—4. A brutal officer: nautical: from ca. 1865. Cf. hard horse.—5. (Usu. hardcase.) 'A Hardcase—or Aggro leader—commands the greatest respect of all within the Rowdies' group. He is the person who will lead attacks against rival fans... In achieving his position, the Hardcase must convincingly demonstrate his masculinity through acts of courage and fearlessness' (Peter Marsh, 'Careers for Boys', New Society, 13 May 1976); youth gangs', esp. soccer rowdies': later C.20. A specialisation of senses 1 and 2.

hard cheddar. See hard cheese.

hard cheek. See hard lines.

hard cheese. Bad luck; orig., esp. at billiards: Royal Military Academy (—1893); in C.20, gen. in sense and in distribution. A humorous var. is hard cheddar (e.g. Neil Bell, Andrew Otway, 1931). Comment/exclam. cf. hard titty!

hard chuck. A long or a difficult flight: pigeon fanciers': from ca. 1875; in C.20, j. Cf. chuck, v., 3.—2. Ship's biscuit: nautical: late C.19–20. (COD, 1934 Sup.) See chuck, n., 7, and cf. hard tack.

hard-cut. Dropped cigar-ends: low (? c.): ca. 1890–1920. Cf. hard-up, n., 1.

hard doer. A wag; an irrepressible, devil-may-care, dryly amusing person; a 'sport': Aus.: s. >, by 1930, coll.: C.20. Cf. hard case, q.v., and the US hard doings, hard work, rough fare. Occ., from ca. 1910, abbr. doer.

hard-drinking. Vbl n., drinking to excess: C.17–20: coll. till ca. 1750, then S.E. hard-faced. Impudent: Liverpool; half-way between coll. and dial.: late C.19–20.

Hard-Faced Parliament, The. The one elected in 1919: coll.: ca. 1919–22, then merely historical. It contained many war-made millionaires. (Jack Lawson, 1932.)

hard for soft, give. (Of men) to have sexual intercourse: low coll.: from ca. 1860.

hard-hat man. An inspector: railwaymen's: C.20. (Railway.)

hard head. A 'hard case': Aus.: since ca. 1910. Caddie, A Sydney Barmaid, 1953.—2. A top operator in crime; a real professional: Aus. c.: since ca. 1950. (Jan Grindley, 1977.)

hard hit. Defecation: rhyming s. on shit; as in 'go for a hard hit': C.20. (Jack Slater, 1978).—2. In be hard hit, to have had a heavy loss, esp. of money: coll.: 1854.—3. To be very much in love: coll.:—1888 (Miss Braddon, Gerard). Occ. hit hard.

hard(-)hitter. A bowler hat: Aus.: C.20. Jice Doone.

hard horse. A brutal or tyrannical officer: nautical:—1893; †. F. & H.; Bowen.

hard in a clinch—and no knife to cut the seizing. In a very difficult position—and no app. way out: to a nautical c.p.: late C.19–20. (Bowen.) Here, seizing is cordage.

hard jack. Bully beef (in tins) and biscuits: army: WW1 +. See jack, n., 21.

hard-liner. A wicked, greedy and unscrupulous person, e.g. a professional and confirmed shop-thief: 'When you arrest these "hard-liners" with adequate evidence... you may think it all over bar the formalities' (Powis): later C.20.—2. One who takes an inflexible, rigid, line in politics, etc. See hard man, 2.

hard lines. Hardship bad luck: coll., prob. orig. nautical: 1824, Scott, 'The old seaman paused... "It's hard lines for me," he said, "To leave your honour in tribulation"' (OED). ?ex ropes unmanageable from wet or frost; lines, however, was in C.17 lot. Difficulty; an unfortunate occurrence, severe action: coll.: from ca. 1858. W. Black, 'I think it's deuced hard lines to lock a fellow up.' In S. Africa, also hard cheek (Petman): late C.19–20.

hard-lyers. WW1 and 2 form of next. (Taffrail', Pincher Martin, 1916; Granville, 1945.) By 'OXFORD (OT RN) -ER(S)'. hard-lying money. The extra allowance granted to officers and men for service in destroyers and torpedo boats... compensation for wear and tear of uniform and clothing, etc. Extended in the War to crews of motor launches and other auxiliary small craft. (Abolished in 1923.): RN coll.: C.20; ob. F. & G.

hard man. Term used in the Services to describe a 'hard case': since ca. 1950. Usu. with some disparagement implied, 'Oh, him! Fancies himself as a bit of a hard man—take no notice!' (P.B.).—2. A strong, rigid man, a hard-liner of the trades unions—and of politics in general: political coll.: since ca. 1960. (Bruce Forsyth, 'Left out in the Middle', Sunday Telegraph mag., 24 Jan. 1976.) A var. is hard boy.—3. A professional thug or hit-man: c.: since late 1960s. Alistair Maclean, Seawitch, 1977.

hard-mouthed, wilful, is S.E., but as = coarse-spoken it is coll. of ca. 1860–1910. Ex the stables.

hard neck. Extreme impudence: low coll.: late C.19–20. "You had the hard neck to pass the time of day with him" (Brendan Behan, Borstal Boy, 1958). Cf. neck, n.—2. Hence, a very impudent or brazen person; occ. as adj.: C.20, esp. in Glasgow.

hard-nosed. Stubborn; adopted, as coll. rather than s., ex US, late 1960s. Claiborne defines its US sense as 'Unyielding, often unscrupulously so, hence likely to prevail in a "nose-to-nose" confrontation'. L.A. reports hearing on BBC Radio, Nov. 1973, this very phrase, 'hard-nosed confrontation', of a situation in which neither, esp. political, party will give way.—2. Full of commonsense, as in 'there are good, hard-nosed practical reasons for the carrying out of mini road-blocks... in minor streets' (Powis): coll.: 1970s.

hard nut. Abbr. hard nut to crack: a dangerous foe; a 'hard case' (senses 1 and 2): coll. (? orig. s.): from ca. 1875.

hard O'Brien, the. A complimentary remark: Anglo-Irish: since ca. 1925. Perhaps ex some famous Irish flatterer surnamed O'Brien.

hard-on, adj. With the membrum virile in erection: low: from ca. 1860.—2. Also as a n.: from ca. 1890 (? ex US). Cf. horn.—3. As in "He's got a hard on for me" means either he doesn't like me, or he's going to try to beat me up (fight)' (Leech, 1981): Can.: later C.20.

hard on the setting sun. A journalistic coll. phrase indicative of scorn for the Red Indian: in 1897, the People (on 13 June) refers to it as 'a characteristic bye-word'; virtually and happily †. Ware.

hard-puncher. The fur cap of the London rough' (F. & H.): low: ca. 1870–1905. (H., 5th ed.) Ex a vigorous boxer's nickname. Cf. bendigo and hard hitter, qq.v.

hard-pushed. In difficulties, esp. monetary: coll.:—1871. Cf. hard-up, adj., and:

hard put to it. In a—gen. monetary—difficulty: coll.: cf. hard-run. It may well go back as far as to ca. 1690, for B.E., 1699, has the entry, 'Ox-house... The Black Ox has not trod upon his Foot, of one that has not been Pinch'd with Want, or been Hard put to it.'

hard row to hoe. A difficult task: coll.: adopted, ca. 1860, ex US. Gen. as, e.g., he has a hard...

hard-run. Very short of money; 'hard up': coll.: late C.19–20.

hard scran! Hard luck!: Aus.: mid-C.19–20. (B., 1942.) Ex commiseration on hard fare. Norman Lindsay, Saturdee, 1933.

hard shot. A 'hard case': NZ: since ca. 1930. (Slatter.)

hard simpson. Ice: milk-sellers': ca. 1860–80. (Ware.) See simpson.

hard-skin. 'A rough, wild-living man': coll., esp. military: 1915. (B. & P.) After rough-nick (?)

hard-skinned. (Of vehicles) armoured: army: since 1940; by 1944, coll. > j. P-G-R.

hard stuff. Intoxicating liquor: Aus., whence NZ: from ca. 1890. Also Brit. Prob. ex US, where hard = intoxicating (1879). Cf. a drop of the hard stuff, a drink.—2. Whisky: low coll.: C.20. Gen. as the hard stuff; cf. hard, n., 3.

hard tack, whether ship's biscuits or coarse fare, is S.E. in C.20; perhaps orig.—1841—nautical s. Lever in Charles O'Malley.—2. As = insufficient food, it is coll., mostly Cockneys': ca. 1810–1910.

hard(-)tail. (Gen. pl.) A mule: military: early C.20. (F. & G.) Cf. long-eared bastard, q.v.

hard thing. (Only of men) Aus. and NZ var. of hard case, 2: C.20. B., 1943.

hard titty! Hard luck!: c.p., often ironical: Can.: since ca. 1930. Also Brit. Hard on the baby. See also tough titty.

hard to navigate. In Brass Hats..., 1939, W.G. Carr, in glossary: 'Lost, Uncertain where you are going': RN: late C.19–20.

hard-up, n. A gleaner and seller of cigar-ends: low:—1851; ob. by 1920, † by 1930. (Mayhew.) See also topper-hunter and hard-cut.—2. Hence, a very poor person: low coll.:—1857; ob. 'Ducange Anglicus'.—3. Hence, one who is temporarily penniless: from ca. 1860.—4. A cigarette-end: low: 1923 (Manchon)—but prob. dating from ca. 1870. Ex sense 1.—5. Hence, a cigarette made from fag-ends: c. and low. from ca. 1924. (M. Harrison, Weep for Lycidas, 1934.) Also known as kerbside Virginia and pavement twist.—6. Tobacco from picked-up stumps of cigarettes: c., mostly vagrants': from ca. 1920. Ex sense 5.—7. An erection, esp. in have a hard-up: low: late C.19—early 20; superseded by hard-on.

hard-up, adj. In want, gen. of money: s. >, ca. 1880, coll.: an early occurrence is in Alfred Burton, Johnny Newcome, 1818 (Moe). Hence hard up for, sorely needing. Haggart, Hook; London Figaro, 25 Jan. 1871, 'For years, England has been a refuge for hard-up German princelings.' Ex nautical j. (steering). Cf. hard-pushed—put to it—run, qq.v.; dead-broke; stony.—2. Impeded; detained: naval: ca. 1790–1850. W.N. Glascock, Sketch-Book, II, 1826 (Moe).—3. Hence, distressed, exhausted: id.: C.19. Bill Truck, Sep. 1823.—4. Tough; experienced: id.: C.19. Basil Hall, 1832.—5. Out of countenance; exhausted, esp. in swimming: Winchester College: mid-C.19—early 20. Cf. sense 3.—6. Intoxicated: low coll.: ca. 1870–1900.—7. (Of an engine) short of steam: railwaymen's: earlier C.20. (Railway, 2nd.) Ex sense 1.

hard-up merchant. A C.20 var. of hard-up, n.1. Desmond Morse-Boycott, We Do See Life, 1931.

hard-upness, uppishness, uppiness. Poverty, habitual or incidental: coll.: resp. 1876, 1870, ca. 1905.

hard wood, the. A useful 'tip' (information), a verbal warning: Anglo-Irish coll.: late (?mid-)C.19–20. 'They were planning to betray... me, but Ned gave me the hard wood, and I was prepared for them' (P.W. Joyce, 1910).

hard word on, put the. To ask (a person) for something, esp. a loan: Aus. (—1914: Jice Doone) and NZ (Crump, 1961). Cf. put the nips in and sting.—2. Of a man urging a woman to lie with him: Aus.: C. 20. (B., 1942.) The phrase has, in Aus., long been applied to any request or approach difficult or unpleasant to make. (B.P.)

hardened tea-drinker. A person as fond of tea as a drunkard of his liquor: joc. coll.: since ca. 1910.

hardening squad. 'Men being trained before returning to France after convalescence' (B. & P.): army coll.: 1915–18.

harder than pulling a soldier off your sister, it's or that's. A c.p., stigmatising circumstances in which compliance goes against the grain: low (mostly RN): since ca. 1939; ob. by ca. 1950.

hards. The difficult part; difficult times: late C.18–19. Bill Truck, 1826.

hardships. See ships?...

hardware. 'Ammunition in general, and shells in particular. Jocular' (Ware): Services': since ca. 1880; very gen. in WW1.—2. 'The mechanical, electrical, or structural components of a computer or other automatic machine' (Barnhart): adopted, ex US, ca. 1960: orig. s.; very soon > j. and by mid-1970s, S.E. hardware bloke. A native of Birmingham; a 'Brum', q.v.: c. of ca. 1870–1915. Ex Hardware Village, Birmingham: ca. 1860–1930. H., 3rd ed.

hardware-swag. Hardware carried by them for sale: tramps' c.:—1887 (Baumann).

hardy annual. A constantly recurring bill: Parliamentary: from ca. 1880.—2. A stock subject: journalistic: from ca. 1885. Pall Mall Gazette, 16 Aug. 1892, 'The readers of the Daily Telegraph are once more filling [its] columns... with "Is Marriage a Failure?" The hardy annual is called "English Wives" this time.'

hare, n. See make a hare of; run with the hare...; swallow a hare.

hare, v.i. To run very fast: Shrewsbury School coll.: late C.19–20. (Desmond Coke, The House Prefect, 1908.) By 1920, fairly gen. S.E.—2. Hence, to fly at full speed: RAF: ca. 1925–45. Jackson.

hare in a hen's nest, seek a. To try to do something (almost) impossible: late C.16–17 coll. Hare synonyms, all (I think) S.E. rather than coll. and all certainly proverbial, are catch, or hunt for, a hare with a tabor, C.14–20,—take hares with foxes, C.16–17,—and set the tortoise to catch the hare, C.18–20, ob. OED and Apperson.

hare-sleep. Feigned sleep: C.17–18: coll. > S.E.

hare's foot. In kiss the hare's foot, to be (too) late: coll.: C.17–18. Cf.:—2. Get the hare's foot to lick, to obtain very little—or nothing. Coll.: C.19–20; ob. Scott, 'The poor clergyman [got] nothing whatever, or, as we say, the hare's foot to lick.'

harem, the. The living-quarters of the Waafs or the Wrens (Waffery or Wrennery): Forces', mostly RAF and esp. in the Near or the Middle East: WW2.

hari-kari. A corrupt, almost sol. form of hara-kiri: from ca. 1860. Ex low coll. Japanese for belly-cut, long and often Englished as happy dispatch. Still more corrupt is hurry-curry. (The practice is mentioned as early as in Cock's Diary, 1616.)

haricot beans. Bullets: some army usage, 1915–18. G.H. McKnight, English Words, 1923.

hark (usu. 'ark) at her! A derivative C.20 c.p., directed at a man 'uttering supposedly very little-meaning or high-sounding sentiments' (L.A.). Evocative of back-street disputes.

hark-ye-ing. 'Whispering on one side to borrow money' (Grose, 1st ed.): mid-C.18—early 19. The late C.17—early 18 preferred harking, as in B.E. harker. A man on listening-patrol: army coll.: WW1. (F. & G.) Ex Scot. harker, a listener.

harlequin. A sovereign: theatrical: ca. 1860–1905. Ex its glitter.—2. The wooden core of a (gen. red) india-rubber ball: Winchester College: ca. 1870–1900.

harlequin Jack. 'A man who shows off equally in manner and in dress': lower classes': late C.19—early 20. Ware.

harman. A late C.17–19 abbr. (as in B.E.; Lytton, The Discrowned) of:

harman-beck. A constable: c. of ca. 1560–1880. (Harman; B.E.; Scott; Borrow.) Prob. ex next + beck (=beak), q.v.; but perhaps ex hard man, a severe one; or even ex postulated har-man, he who cries ha(r), stop!—cf. † harr, to snarl.

harmans. The stocks: c.: ca. 1560–1820, though ob. by 1785. (Harman, B.E., Grose.) If the -MANS is the c. suffix (q.v.) found in darkmans, lightmans, etc., then the har- is prob. hard, for the notion, hardness = the gallows, is characteristic of c. harness, the routine of one's work, as in in harness, at work, and die in harness, i.e. at one's post or still working, is held by the OED to be S.E. But I think that at first (say 1840–80) it was coll.; in C.20 it is certainly S.E. ?suggested by Shakespeare's 'At least we'll die with harness on our back', Macbeth, V, 5 (W.).—2. An infantryman's equipment: army, joc. coll.: WW1. (B. & P.) The re-use of a historic or archaic term for military equipment, but the P.B.I. were, no doubt, likening themselves to beasts of burden.—3. Parachute straps: RAF: perhaps orig., ca. 1935, s., but very soon > j.—4. A passenger-train conductor's uniform: Can. railroad-men's:—1931.—5. Foundation garments: feminine coll., mostly Aus.: since ca. 1930.

harness bull. A uniformed policeman: low Can.: adopted, 1930s, ex US, where orig. 'underworld. Cf. harness, 4.

haro. To yell: coll.: C.19. (Ware.) Ex cry haro.

Harold Lloyd, often shortened to Harold. Celluloid, 'an instrument of housebreaking' (cf. loid, q.v.): rhyming s., dating from ca. 1917; orig., underworld; by 1940, also police s. (John Gosling, The Ghost Squad, 1959.) Ex the deservedly famous American cinematic comedian, whose heyday was ca. 1914–35.

harp. The tail of a coin, esp. as a call in toss-halfpenny: Anglo-Irish:—1785; ob. by 1860. (Grose, 1st ed.) The tail of a coin bore Hibernia with a harp. Cf. music and woman, qq.v.—2. A harmonica: 'pop' musicians' and their public: adopted, early 1960s, ex US. (Melody Maker, 8 July 1972; Jagger.) See W. & F., 3rd ed., 1976.—3. See playing the harp, drunk.

harper. A brass coin, value one penny, current in Ireland in late C.16—early 17: coll. (Ben Jonson.) S.E.: harp-shilling. Ex the harp thereon represented.

harpers. See have among you, blind harpers!

harpic. Mad, crazy; bomb-shocked: orig. RAF, since early 1930s, then by ca. 1945, gen.; ob. A pun on the claim of the makers of Harpic, the famous lavatory cleanser, that it will clean round the bend: See round the bend.

harridan. A woman half whore, half bawd: c. late C.17–18. B.E.—2. 'A hagged old woman', a disagreeable old woman: orig. (—1725) coll.; S.E. by 1895. A New Canting Dict., 1725.

Harriet. (Properly, 'Arriet.) A typical Cockney girl; often in 'Arry and 'Arriet, q.v.: late C.19—early 20. Phil May in Punch, passim; S.F. Hatton, The Yarn of a Yeoman, 1930. (P.B.)

Harriet Lane. 'Australian canned meat—because it had the appearance of chopped-up meat; and Harriet Lane was chopped up by one Wainwright': lower classes': ca. 1875–1900. (Ware, 'Taffrail'.) Cf. Fanny Adams, q.v.

Harriet the Chariot. In Aus., any Harriet has, since ca. 1930, tended to be thus nicknamed. The nickname is derogatory—with chariot, semantically cf. town-bike below. 'Myrtle the Turtle and Harriet the Chariot are so well known that any Australian male would veto the choice of such a name for his daughter. I have never heard of a Harriet, no matter how virtuous, who was not called Harriet the Chariot' (B.P.).

Harrington. A brass farthing: ca. 1615–40 coll. Jonson, 1616, 'I will not bate a Harrington o' the sum.' Ex Lord Harrington, who, in 1613, obtained the patent of coining them. Just as Bradbury will doubtless come to be considered S.E., so, because of its historical associations, has Harrington been listed by the OED as S.E.

HARROW School slang. See Appendix.

HARRY, as a meaningless prefix to n. or adj. + 'OXFORD -ER(S)'. See Appendix.

Harry. A rustic: late C.18—early 19 c., then dial. (ob.) Grose, 2nd ed.—2. The 'literary' shape of 'Arry, q.v.: 1874: coll. > S.E.—3. See Lord Harry; old Harry; Tom, Dick, and Harry.

Harry Bluff. Snuff: rhyming s.:—1874; ob. by 1930. (Cf. hang-bluff, q.v.) H., 5th ed.

Harry Common. A womaniser: joc. coll.: late C.17–18. Cf. Shakespeare's Doll Common.

Harry Freeman's, it's. There's nothing to pay. See Freeman's Quay and, in the Appendix, the entry at HARRY.

Harry gave Doll, what. Sexual connexion: low coll.: C.18–19.

Harry Hase. See Henry Hase.

Harry James. Nose; nostrils: low: since ca. 1940. 'There is plenty of dust floating about ... which gets in your north and south and up your Harry James' (Norman). Prob. ex the idea of 'trumpet' as nose (cf. hooter) connected with Harry James the famous trumpet-player and band-leader.

Harry Jessell's gratitude, 'i.e., none at all—became a by-word' (C. Hindley, Cheap Jack, 1876): cheapjacks': ca. 1840–70.

Harry Lauder. A prison warder: rhyming s.: since ca. 1905.—2. Order: Aus. rhyming s.: later C.20. (McNeil.) Sir Harry Lauder (1870–1950), Scot. comedian and singer. Cf.:

Harry Lauders. Stage hangings: theatrical rhyming s. (on borders): from ca. 1905. London Evening Standard, 19 Aug. 1931.—2. 'Contrary to popular opinion, the use of "rhyming slang" is not exclusively a product of London, and the Border Regiment sometimes referred to themselves as "The Harry Lauders"' (Carew).

Harry Lime. Time (of day): rhyming s.: late C.20. (Haden-Guest.) Ex the villain, played by Orson Welles, in the film The Third Man, 1950. 'The Harry Lime Theme', played on the zither, swept the country.

Harry Randall (loosely Randle). A handle; also, a candle: rhyming s.: C.20. (B. & P.) Ex a comedian, famous ca. 1900. Cf. Jack Randall.

Harry-Soph. One who, having kept the necessary terms, ranks, by courtesy, as a bachelor: Cambridge University (—1720, as in Stukeley's Memoirs); > † before 1893 but after 1873. Earlier (—1661), Henry Sophister. ?ex Henry VIII—see Fuller's Worthies, p. 151—and Sophista, in the form sophista Henricanus. A University joke refers to Gr. ἐμσοφος, very wise. OED.

Harry Tagg. A bag: rhyming s., mostly theatrical: late C.19–20. Franklyn, Rhyming.

Harry Tate. A free-and-easy rating: RN lowerdeck: ca. 1905–30. (Knock.) Ex the great comedian and performer († 1940).—2. Late: rhyming s.: ca. 1905–15. Franklyn, Rhyming.—3. First Officer: MN rhyming s., on mate: since ca. 1910. Franklyn 2nd.—4. A plate: rhyming s.: from ca. 1910. B. & P.—5. 'The R.E. 8, a slow 'plane used solely for observation' (B. & P.): RFC/RAF: from 1915, then historical after the aircraft became obsolete.—6. State: rhyming s.: from ca. 1920. (P.P., Rhyming Slang, 1932.) Cf. two-and-eight.—7. (Usu. pl.) Player's Weights, the brand-name of small, once-cheap cigarettes, competitors of the perhaps more famous Woodbines: rhyming s.: later C.20. (David Hillman, 1974.)

Harry Tate's Cavalry. The Yeomanry: army: ca. 1910–20. F.&G.

Harry Tate's Light Horse. See Fred Karno's Navy.

Harry Tate's Navy. The Royal Naval Volunteer Reserve: RN: ca. 1905–14.—2. The Motor Boat Reserve: RN: 1915–18. (Bowen.) Ex the great comedian. Cf. Fred Karno's Army.—3. Hence, in WW2 (and after), the c.p. what do you think this is—Harry Tate's Navy? Cf. Harry Tate, 1.

Harry Tate's Own. Var. of prec. 'Taffrail', Stand By!, 1916.

Harry, Tom and Dick. Unwell: rhyming s.: C. 20. Cf. Tom, Harry and Dick.

Harry Wragg. A cigarette: rhyming s. on synonym. fag: since ca. 1930. Ex the famous ex-jockey and racehorse-trainer.

hartichoke, -chough. In C.19–20, C.17–18 resp., low coll. > sol. for artichoke.

hartmans. The pillory: c.: ?C.18—early 19. (Baumann.) A var. of harmans, q.v.

harum-scarum, n. Four horses driven 'tandem': sporting: ca. 1862–1900. Cf. suicide.

harum-scarum. Adv., 1674; adj., 1751; n., 1784 (OED). Coll. Wild(ly); reckless(ly); giddy, giddily. Anon., Round about Our Coal Fire, 1740, 'Tom run harum scarum to draw a jug of ale.' Perhaps, as W. suggests, hare'em scare'em ex † hare, to harass: cf. Smollett's hare'um scare'um and Mme D'Arblay's haremscarem. Cf. Westcott's famous novel, David Harum, 1899. (Harum-scarumness, though coll., is comparatively rare.)

harumfrodite. A Cockney sol. for hermaphrodite, late C.19—early 20; included here only because Kipling uses it of a Royal Marine: 'Ee's a kind of a giddy harumfrodite—soldier and sailor too'. Wm McFee, North of Suez, 1930, parodying Kipling's verse, spells it harumphrodite.

harvest for, of, or about a little corn, make a long. To be tedious about a trifle: coll. proverbial: C.16–20; since ca. 1820, mainly dial.—indeed, in C.20, otherwise †. Greene; Richardson in Clarissa.

Harvest Moon. A racial term used, since ca. 1945, in the London docks. (New Statesman, 31 Dec. 1965.) Rhyming coon.

Harvey. An abbr. of the next. P.P., 1932.

Harvey Nichol. Trouble, predicament: rhyming s. on pickle: C.20. (P.P., Rhyming Slang, 1932.) Ex the well-known London West End linen-draper and furnishers. Pl.: Harvey Nichols, the orig. form; and in this form it usu. denotes 'pickles', condiments. Franklyn, Rhyming.

Harvey Smith sign. The 'V' sign made with the fingers, back of hand to viewer: gen. coll.: since 15 Aug. 1971, when the show-jumper Harvey Smith was seen by the spectators at Hickstead, the British show-jumping Derby, and by the many watches of the event on TV, to make this defiant and derogatory gesture at the judges. The term is still in occ. use 1980, with its var. doing a Harvey Smith. (P.B.) See also touch of the ...

Harwichi, they're all up at (old). They're in a nice mix-up or mess!: semi-proverbial c.p.:—1923 (Manchon). Why? Perhaps by folk-etym. Ex dial. harriage, disorder, confusion (EDD).

has(-)been. Any antiquated thing or, more gen., person: coll. from ca. 1825; orig. Scots (C.17–19) as in Burns. In C.20, S.E. Rare as adj. Cf. never(-)was.

has-beens. Greens: rhyming s., orig. and still mainly underworld: C.20.

has everything, she. A c.p., applied to a—esp., physically—very attractive woman: since ca. 1945. Also has two of everything.

hash, n. As a medley, S.E.; as a fig. mess, coll., esp. in make a hash of, to fail badly with or at: C.19–20.—2. One who 'makes a hash' of his words: coll. when not Scots: mid-C.17—early 20. Burns.—3. In settle (someone's) hash, to subdue, silence, defeat; kill: s. >, in C.20, coll. An early occurrence is in Isaac Cruikshank, Olympic Games, 16 June 1803 (thanks to Mrs M.D. George). Cf. cook one's goose.—4. In flash the hash, to vomit: c.: mid-C.18—mid-19. Grose, 2nd ed.—5. Any food; food in gen.: coll., esp. common in the Services, as in 'Sling the hash!', pass the food: late C.19 (? earlier, if sense 4 is connected)—20. Moe cites W.G. Carr, Brass Hats ..., 1939.—6. Work in school: Charterhouse:—1900. (A.H. Tod.) Cf. v., 2.—7. Hence, a class or form: Ibid.: C.20.—8. Hashish: teenage drug addicts': since early 1950s. By 1960, all addicts', as in Alan Diment, The Dolly Dolly Spy, 1963.—9. 'A usage ... peculiar to those concerned with computers. In their jargon ... hash refers to the "field mark", which indicates the end of a section or "data field". The word in this context is presumably a corruption of hatch as it occurs in "cross-hatching" [#]. So I regard it not as a technical term but as slang' (J.L. Mainprice, British Museum Dept of Printed Books, 1975): since ca. 1970.

hash, v. To spoil: coll. but not very gen.: C.19–20.—2. Study hard: Cheltenham School: ca. 1860–1915. Also at Charterhouse: witness A.H. Tod, 1900. Cf. hasher, q.v.

hash-me-gandy. Station stew: NZ and Aus. rural: since ca. 1920. B., 1942, suggests: ex Mahatma Gandhi's frugal meals. An elab. of hash. 'Could the form of this word be based on S.E. salmagundi' (R.S.)—a spiced dish of minced meat and eggs, hence a medley? It does indeed sound a plausible suggestion. P.B.: cf. the form of synon. oos-me-goosh, q.v.

hash pro. A scholarship pupil: Charterhouse School: C.20. See hash, n., 6.

hash-slinger. A cook: Services': C.20. Also, occ., slinger of hash. See hash, n., 5.

hash tea. 'Concoction of herbs (containing cannabis)' (Home Office): drug addicts': later C.20.

hash-up, n. A 'mess', a bungling; fiasco: coll.: from ca. 1905. Ex:

hash up, v. To spoil, ruin (a chance, an entertainment, etc.): coll.: C.20. James Spenser, Limey Breaks In, 1934.—2. To re-serve; mangle and re-present: coll. (in C.20, S.E.): from ca. 1740.

hasher. A football sweater: Charterhouse: from ca. 1880. (A.H. Tod, Charterhouse, 1900.) Cf. hash, n.

hashy. Clever: Charterhouse School: C.20. Cf. hash pro.

hasik. A fish-basket: nautical (esp. fishermen's) coll.: mid-C.19–20. (Bowen.) Prob. ex dial. hask, hard; but perhaps cognate with husk (n.).

Haslar hag. A nurse at the Haslar Hospital: nautical: ca. 1880–1914.

hasn't had it so long, she or occ. he; sometimes preceded by but. A c.p. reply to the frequently heard plaint, 'What has she (or he) got that I haven't got?': since late 1950s. (Petch, 1966.)

hasn't the brains he (or she) was born with! C.p. applied to a very stupid person: C.20.

hassle, n. A fuss, a disagreement, a row; a hullabaloo: Can., adopted ex US ca. 1860 (Leechman); by ca. 1975, increasingly common in UK (P.B.). Perhaps a blend word, from, e.g. haggle + tussle; or ex Cumbrian dial., to hack at with a blunt knife (EDD). Duff Hart-Davis, Spider in the Morning, 1972, "'Aggro"? Big trouble ... Opposite of "hassle", which is small.' Nigel Dempster noted in the Telegraph Sunday mag., 11 Mar. 1979, that the term was 'on its way out' among smart society.

hassle, v.t. To harass, annoy: adopted, ex US, ca. 1970. Ex the n. 'They're being hassled ... by [his] old friend ... Chief Inspector Molt' (Alex Stuart, Bikers, 1971).

haste! 'Look out! Mainly used in criminal jargon. Whence haste it!, to cease some activity, equivalent of Stop it! Synonymous is ace it!' (B., 1959): Aus. c.: since ca. 1935.

haste, adv. Quickly; immediately: Aus.: since ca. 1930. Kylie Tennant, The Joyful Condemned, 1953, 'So hand over the two quid and give it haste.' Probably ex S.E. post-haste.

Hastings sort, be none of the. To be too slow; slothful: esp. of one who loses a good chance by being dilatory: mid-C.16—mid-19: proverbial coll. Grose, 3rd ed., explains by 'the Hastings pea, which is the first in season'; but is not the phrase merely a pun? The personal is recorded before the vegetable sense; the capital H is folk-etym. Cf. Hotsprurs, q.v.

hasty, precipitate, 'very Hot on a sudden' (B.E.),—which dates from early C.16,—seems to have, ca. 1680–1810, been coll.: witness B.E. and Grose.

hasty g. A hasty generalisation: Cambridge University: ca. 1880–1900.

hasty as a sheep — as soon as the tail is up the turd is out. A low, mostly rural c.p.: ca. 1850–1950.

hasty pudding. A muddy road: coll.: ca. 1790–1870. Grose, 3rd ed., 'The way through Wandsworth is quite a hasty pudding.'—2. A bastard: low: from ca. 1870.

hat. A gentleman commoner; a 'tuff', q.v. Cambridge University:—1830; ob. by 1900, † by 1920. In the Gradus ad Cantabrigiam, 1803, he is a hat commoner; in Earle's Microcosmography, 1628, a gold hatband.—2. An occ. abbr. of old hat, the female pudend: ca. 1760–1830. See old hat.—3. Hence, an old-hand harlot: Scots: ca. 1820–1910. Ex prec.—4. In such asseverations as by this hat (Shakespeare), my hat to a half-penny (Ibid.), and I'll bet a hat (? C.18—early 19). OED.—5. A condition or state, thus be in a deuce of a hat = to be in a 'nice mess'; get into a hat, to get into a difficulty: low: late C.19—earlier 20.—6. In get a hat, to do the 'hat-trick', q.v.: cricketers': ca. 1890–1914.—7. As exclam. my hat!: mild, coll.: C.20. Cf., e.g., my aunt!, my stars!—8. In need a new hat, to have become conceited; the implication: 'swollen-headed': earlier C.20.—9. Price: showmen's: late C.19–20. (Night and Day, 22 July 1937.) Ex hat used for taking up a collection of money.—10. Hat occurs in the following entries, qq.v.: all around my hat!; bad hat!; black hat!; eat (one's) hat!; hang up (one's) hat!; I'll have your hat!; keep under (one's) hat!; old hat!; pass round the hat!; shoot that hat!; talk through (one's) hat!; what a shocking bad hat!; where did you get that hat!—11. In wear more than one hat, as, e.g. 'I was actually wearing three different hats by then': to hold more than one post, or position of responsibility, simultaneously: Services', thence also gen. usage: since ca. 1960. (P.B.)—12. As the Hat, Medicine Hat, Alberta; Can.: since ca. 1920. (Leechman.) hat covers (e.g. his) family, (his). He is alone in the world: coll.: from ca. 1850.

hat off. In with his hat off, (of a soldier) charged with a 'crime': army: from ca. 1920; † by 1950. A soldier must remove his hat when he is being tried for an offence. Cf. hat on.—2. In, e.g., I take my hat off to him or take off my hat to him, I compliment him, I praise him (sometimes with the nuance 'for tackling something I couldn't, or wouldn't, do myself'): C.20. Moe cites W.G. Carr, Brass Hats..., 1939. Sometimes absolute, as in 'So hats off to...!', let us compliment...

hat on. Formally dressed for (esp. disciplinary) interview with a senior officer: RAF officers': late C.20. "'See the Boss pronto—with hat on!'" (Phantom). Contrast prec.

hat-peg. The head: low: ca. 1875–1915. Cf. block.

hat rack. Thin, scraggy horse or ox: Aus.: C.20. B., 1942.

hat(-)trick. Three wickets with successive balls: cricket: 1882. Orig. s.; in C.20, j. > S.E. Sportsman, 28 Nov. 1888, 'Mr. Absolom has performed the hat trick twice.' In the good old days, this feat entitled its professional performer to a collection or to a new hat from his club. An article in The Times, 14 Aug. 1937, suggested a connexion with bowler hats.

hat-work. Hack-work; inferior writing; journalists':—1888; † by 1921. (Rider Haggard, Mr Meeson's Will.) Perhaps work that could be done with one's hat almost as well as with one's head.

hatband. See Dick's hatband.

hatch, n. A bomb hatch (a bomb-aimer's compartment): RAF coll. > j.: WW2.

hatch, be hatching. To be confined in childbed: low: from ca. 1860; ob.

hatch, match, and dispatch column; or hatches, matches, despatches; or the hatched, matched, dispatched column. Births, marriages, and deaths announcements: journalistic: ca. 1885–1914. Occ., also †, cradle, altar and tomb column.

Hatch-Thoke. A Founder's Commemoration day: Winchester College: C.19–20. Wrench, 'Said to be from the old custom of staying in bed [see thoke] till breakfast, which was provided at Hatch'.

hatches. See under the hatches, in serious trouble, or dead. hatchet. A very plain or an ugly woman: tailors': ca. 1870–1920. Ex hatchet-faced.—2. See bury the hatchet; sling the hatchet; send the axe...

Hatchet-Back. See Chop-Back.

hatchet-face(d), applied in S.E. to a long, thin face, was, ca. 1680–1750, coll. and = very plain or even ugly: B.E., 'Hatchet-fac'd. Hard-favor'd, Homely'—whence, by the way, the US as distinct from the mod. Eng. sense of homely.

hatchet job. A 'murderous' undertaking: policemen's and, thence, politicians': since (?) ca. 1960; orig. s., but soon coll. and, by 1978, virtually S.E. 'I have heard that there were a few hatchet jobs taking place along the corridors of police power, but isn't this [the murder, by decapitation, of the Commissioner] going a bit far?' (James Barnett, Head of the Force, 1978). Cf. the fig. stab in the back, and—hatchet man. That executive in a business, an institution, who is chosen to tell employees when they're no longer wanted: adopted, ca. 1974, ex US. (DCCU.) Ex US underworld sense, the appointed killer in a gang or mob. Cf. hit-man, q.v.

hatchway. The mouth: nautical > low gen.: from ca. 1820; ob. Egan's Grose.—2. The female pudend: nautical > low gen.: from ca. 1865. Cf. fore-hatch, q.v.

hate, n. A bombardment: 1915; military. In 1916–18, the usual German night or morning bombardment. 'An allusion'—furthered, I believe, by Frank Reynolds's famous cartoon in Punch, in Feb. 1915—'to the Hymn of Hate, perpetrated (Aug. 1914) by one Lissauer' (W.).—2. Since WW1, but ob. by 1934, a scolding or esp. a (gen. morning) grumble.—3. In stir up a little hate, 'To shell the enemy when he seemed quiet' (F. & G.): army: 1915–18. Ex sense 1.—4. In have a hate against, to dislike (person or thing) intensely: Aus. coll.: 1918+. B., 1942.

hate, v. To dislike: Society coll.: from ca. 1919. Denis Mackail, Greenery Street, 1925, 'I should hate it, of course, but I shouldn't mind it.'

hate (someone's) guts. To hate someone intensely: adopted, ca. 1937, from US. Agatha Christie, Towards Zero, 1944.

hate oneself, as in 'You do hate yourself, don't you': ironic coll., applied to a person with a fine conceit of himself: since ca. 1938.

hatfler. A 'flat' (person): centre s.: from ca. 1860; ob.

hatful. Much, esp. money and in horse-racing: coll.:—1859. Miss Braddon, 'He had won what his companions called a hatful of money on the steeple-chase.'

hatful of worms. See silly as a hatful...

Hathern band. In don't give me Hathern band!, don't keep on repeating yourself! N. Leicestershire s.: C.20. Ex the village band of Hathern, alleged at one time to know only one tune, and to keep on playing it. (Keith Clarke, 1980.) A good example of local s. that is not dial., but allusion.—2. Everyone 'doing his own thing': id. (Eric Oldham, 1980.)

hatless brigade, the. Those men who do not wear hats: early C.20: coll. >, by 1930, familiar S.E. (Collinson.) See also no hat brigade.

hats, the. The 'brass-hats' or high-ranking, esp. staff, officers: military: WW1. C.E. Montague, Fiery Particles, 1923.

hatted; in hatted order. Used randomly, in a systematically unsystematic order, as e.g. radio calligns changed to obscure a station's identity: 'Services', esp. cypher clerks', coll. > j.: WW2 and since. Ex 'put in a hat and drawn out like, e.g., raffle tickets.' (P.B.) hatter. A miner that works alone: Aus., 1864: s. >, by 1890, coll. R.L.A. Davies, 1884, 'Oh, a regular rum old stick; he mostly works [as] a "hatter"'.—2. Hence, a criminal, esp. a thief, working on his own: Aus. c.:—1893; ob. By 1890, the term has the connotation, 'A man who has lived by himself until his brain has been turned' (Marriott Watson, in Broken Billy): this sense was prob. prompted by mad as a hatter, q.v. The loneliness part is perhaps connected with (his) hat covers his family, he is alone in the world. See esp. Morris.—3. A pal, a mate, usu. in a homosexual sense: C.20. Cf. brown-hatter, q.v.—4. See who's your hatter?

Hatters, the. The Stockport Association football team: sporting: since ca. 1925. Chronicles of the Chelsea Football Club, 23 Oct. 1937.—2. Also the Luton A.F.C.: since ca. 1930. Hats are made in the town.

hating. Vbl n. and ppl adj. corresponding to hatter, 1: Aus. (—1890) coll.: ob. Morris.

hatty, an elephant: Anglo-Indian coll. See hutty.

haul. To worry, pester: coll.: ca. 1670–1750. Gay.—2. (Gen. with up) to bring up for reprimand: coll.:—1865. Ex the more gen. haul over the coals, q.v., and cf. haulable.

haul a cly. To snatch a purse: c.: C.18. James Dalton, 1728.

haul arse. To go off or away, often quickly: Can.: since ca. 1930. 'Come on, Jack! Let's haul arse out of here.' (Leechman.)

haul (one's) ashes. To coit: Can. low: late C.19–20.

haul ashore. To retire from the sea: nautical: late C.19–20. (Bowen.) Cf. swallow the anchor.

haul-cly. A pickpocket: c.: C.18 (James Dalton, A Narrative, 1728.) Ex haul a cly.—2. As the haul-cly, purse-snatching: id. Ibid.

haul-devil. A clergyman: low: ca. 1865–1910. Cf. devil-dodger.

haul-down promotion. 'Flag Officer's promotion on hauling down his flag on retirement' (Granville): naval coll.: C.19. After 1874 merely historical, for as R/Adml P.W. Brock, RN (Ret.), CB, DSO, pointed out, 1963, it was 'a promotion by a retiring flag officer, usually of his flag lieutenant, who might be his son or nephew. This injustice to many more experienced officers was very properly abolished in November 1874.'

haul(one's)leg. Var. of pull (one's) leg, q.v.
haul off and take a binge. See binge, 2. haul (someone) one off. To strike someone hard with one's fist: low coll.: later C.20. (P.B.) haul over the coals. To reprimand; address severely: coll.: late C.18–20. Ex the treatment once meted out to heretics. The orig. form was fetch over...; cf. also call over... See also haul, 2. haul (one's) wind. To get clear: nautical coll.:—1823 (Egan's Grose). Ex lit. sense. haulable, adj. Applied to a girl whose company renders an undergraduate liable to a fine: university (Oxford and Cambridge): ca. 1870–1914. Ex haul, 2.
HAULIERS' SLANG of mid-C.20. See Appendix. hauling sharp. On half rations: nautical: late C.19–20. Bowen. häuser. A meat pie: Bootham School: late C.19–20. Origin? Bootham, 1925.
hava no and hava yes. (Mostly of persons, occasionally of events) to be ineligible or unattractive or inferior; to be very eligible or attractive; hence also n. and adj.: United Nations troops (in Korea): ca. 1951–5. (Iddiwah, July 1953.) As it were, the 'have-nots' and the 'haves'; ex pidgin hava, to have.
havage (or havidge). 'An assemblage or family of dishonest or doubtful characters' (Bee): low: ca. 1820–50. Ex dial. havage, lineage, family stock, + (William) Habberfield, a criminal whose family was such.
Havannah. See canopy, 2. have, n. (Gen. in pl.) One who has, esp. money and/or property; gen. contrasted with have-not, a needy person: coll.: 1836 (SOD).—2. A trick or imposture; a swindle: from ca. 1880. Hence, is this a catch or a have?, a low c.p. acknowledgment that the speaker has been 'had' or fooled. Should the other essay a definition, the victim turns the tables with then you catch—or, as the case may be, have—your nose up my arse. Ca. 1885–1900.—3. Hence, a disappointment, a 'let-down': gen. coll.: C.20.
have, v. To cheat (—1805): perhaps orig. c. G. Harrington, in The New London Spy, 'Had, a cant word... instead of... cheated'.—2. Hence, to trick, deceive (1821): low. Egan.—3. Hence, to humbug, fool (—1893; prob. as early as 1825), low > gen.—4. To possess carnally: a vulgarism of C.16–20. In C.20, gen. of women by men, but previously said 'indifferently of, and by, both sexes' (F. & H.).—5. (Gen. have it.) To receive, or to have received, punishment, a thrashing, a reprimand: coll.: late C.16–20. Shakespeare.—6. To have caught (someone) in discussion, argument, or put into a fix: coll.: 1820 (OED).—7. To represent as doing or saying something: coll. The OED states that it is US and cites a passage, written in 1928; but surely it has been used in England since at least as early as 1921? have a baby. See have kittens. have a ball. To have a good time: among teenagers, since ca. 1945; among beatniks, since ca. 1957. In 1960s–70s, as an encouragement to enjoyment: 'Have yourself a ball!'
have a banana! See banana, 4. have a bash. To have a determined try at something: coll.: since ca. 1935. have a beat. To try; in cricket, to bat vigorously: since ca. 1925. have a beat on. To have an erection: low and schoolboys': C.20. have a binge. To get some sleep: nautical: late C.19—early 20. have a bit. A shortening of:
have a bit off (with). To copulate with: Cockney, then gen.: C.20. have a cab. To be drunk: London: late C.19—early 20. Ware. have a cob on. To be annoyed. See cob, n., 5. have a cook. Have a look: rhyming s.: C.20.
have a crack (at it). See crack, n., 13.
have a down on. See down, n., 4.

have a feel till Friday. 'Until pay-day, enjoy what is offered. A feel instead of a fuck. Cockney girls' (a correspondent, 1969): C.20. have a go. To hit the bowling, esp. if rashly: cricketers' coll.: 1894, Norman Gale. (Lewis.)—2. To coit: late C.19–20. Very gen.—3. To try to prevent a crime, esp. to apprehend a criminal: coll.: since early C.20. Cf. go, n. have a go, Joe, your mother will never know! often shortened to have a go, Joe. A c.p. of encouragement to a reluctant man: Cockneys' and Forces': since ca. 1935 (L.A.) 'Have a go, Joe' became the signature tune of Wilfred Pickles' radio quiz-show, 'Have a Go!' Cf. give him the money... (P.B.) have a go at. See go, n., 9. have a good chat. To be well spoken, or thought, of: army officers': since ca. 1930. Ex chat, 1 and 2. Cf. give (someone) a good chat. have a good look round for you won't see anything but the ceiling for a day or two! A military c.p. of 1915–18; applied to the ardour of servicemen-on-leave towards their wives. Cf. feet uppermost. have a gorilla! A c.p. from the BBC radio comedy-series 'The Goon Show': 1950: used extensively for 'have a cigarette?' The standard reply was 'No thanks, I only smoke baboons', or 'No thanks, I'm trying to give them up'. have a heart! Show mercy!; steady on!: coll.: late C.19–20. Often joc., esp. as 'ave an 'eart! Ex have the heart (to do something), according to E.P.; but surely more from show a (kind) heart. (P.B.) L.A. notes, 1974, 'A plea for understanding, humanity'.—2. To suffer from a weak heart: coll.: late C.19–20. 'Auntie can't go far, you know. She has a heart.'
have a heat! Warm yourself (by the fire)!: Anglo-Irish c.p. invitation: late C.19–20.
have a quick one. Have a, e.g., drink, urination, copulation: coll.: late C.19–20. have a roll! (usu. prec. by go and). Go to the devil! Aus.: since ca. 1925. B., 1943.
have a scratch! 'A c.p. of satirical encouragement to someone at a loss for answer or information' (L.A.): C.20. Ex scratching one's head in puzzlement.—2. A phrase of contemptuous dismissal, as 'Oi, go orn! 'Op it! Go an 'ave a scratch!' (Franklyn): Cockneys': since ca. 1910.
have a shot (at). See shot, n., 15 and 16.
have a stab (at). See stab, n., 2. have a tickle. See tickle, n., 2. have among (or at) you (my) blind harpers! A c.p. 'used in throwing or shooting at random among a crowd' (Grose): ca. 1540–1830. Considered proverbial as early as 1542 (Heywood). Cf. share that among you!, accompanying a tossed grenade. See esp. extensive quot'n in DCpp. have (one's) brains on ice. 'To be very cool-headed and collected' (Lyell): coll.:—1931; ob. have (one's) cut. (Of a male) to coit: low: late C.19–20. have down the banks and have high-ding-dong. To have a 'row', a fight: Liverpool: late C.19–20. 'High-ding-dong suggests a noisy fight; the banks refers to Canal banks, where fights often took place' (Frank Shaw, 1952). have fifty (or a hundred) up. To coit with a girl: sporting: C.20. Ex billiards.
have for breakfast; occ. before breakfast (as a rare appetiser). A humorous way of implying that a thing is easy to do, (gen.) a man easy to beat. E.g. 'Why! I have one like him every day before breakfast' or 'I could have or do with six like him for breakfast.' For task or feat, the before breakfast, often with do or have, is preferred. C. 20 coll.: perhaps orig. mostly Aus. and NZ.
have fun. See fun, n., 3 and 4. have got=have. See got.
have gun – will travel. A comic c.p. arising from an entirely serious advertisement in a newspaper personal column, prob. soon after WW1. Not much use pre-WW2, but in later C.20 subject to many trivial alterations, e.g. 'Have B.A.—will travel' (a teacher); 'Have pen—will write', etc. See DCpp. have (one's) guts for garters. See I'll have your guts... have had it. To have been seduced: C.19–20 low coll.—2. In C.20, however, usu. (of a girl) to have had sexual experience,—there having arisen a (mostly subconscious) opinion that no woman but a half-wit, or in sheer ignorance, is ever, in the strict sense, seduced against her will.—3. Esp. in You've had it, You won't get it, you're too late, etc.: RAF: since 1938 or 1939; current in Army since late 1940 or early 1941; >, 1944, fairly gen. civilian. (New Statesman, 30 Aug. 1941; Grenfell Finn-Smith, in list communicated in April 1942; H. & P.; Jackson; Partridge.) Ironic—perhaps short for 'Somebody else has (or, may have) had it, but you certainly won't.' See esp. Partridge, 1945.—4. "He's had it" and "He's gone for a Burton" indicate that's he's been killed' (F. Rhodes, letter, 1942): RAF: since late 1939. I.e. 'copped' it. This sense, according to Jock Marshall & Russell Drysdale, Journey among Men, 1962 (p. 17), 'originated in the Gulf Country of northern Queensland, where one of us heard it as early as 1929. Oddly enough, the phrase was never current in the populous south before the war. It was taken to Europe by Queensland troops or airmen and there, where lots of chaps were having it, so to speak, it came into general currency. It was circuitously from Europe, and not directly from the north, that the expression reached the southern parts of Australia.' R.S. adds, 1971, 'This usage is rooted in the sands of the Roman circus; of a stricken gladiator it was said (or shouted): "Habet" or "Hoc habet"—he has it (his death wound). Virgil et al. Kipling uses it of a death wound in "The Church That Was at Antioch", one of his last stories, Limbs and Renewals, 1932—but he had a classical education. The Australo-English use of the perfect tense makes for even more graphic finality.'—5. To have had more than enough, be 'sick and tired' of it: by 1950, at latest.

have had it in a big way. To have no chance whatever that hope being fulfilled: since ca. 1944. An extension of prec., 3.

have had it up to here, (usu. I). With a gesture at the throat or top of head, to indicate the depth to which one is 'fed up'; an extension of have had it, 5: since 1950s.

have (someone) in. To make a fool of: Aus.: since ca. 1940. (Nino Culotta, Cop This Lot, 1960.) A var. of have on.

have it. See have, v., 5, and let (someone) have it.

have it away. To escape: prison c.: since ca. 1940. (Norman.) See quot'n at over the wall, 2.—2. A shortening of have it away together or get (one's) end away, to copulate: since mid-1950s. Cf. also have it away with, 2.

have it away on the hurry-up. To depart, to leave, smartly or hurriedly: since ca. 1945: c. >, by ca. 1955, low s. (Robin Cook, 1962.) An extension of prec., 1.

have it away together. To copulate: mostly teenagers': since ca. 1950. Cf. sense 2 of—

have it away with (something). To steal it: since ca. 1925. Robin Cook, 1962.—2. As have it away with (someone, of either sex), to copulate with: mostly upper and middle classes': since late 1940s. (The Times, 26 Aug. 1975.) Semantics less obvious than appears, 'it' being, I think, 'sexual urge' and have away 'to get rid of'. Also of homosexual acts between men, as in John Mortimer, Come As You Are, 1971.

have it in. To effect sexual intromission: low coll.: late C.19–20. Partly euph. Esp. in 'Had it in lately?', low joc. among workmates: since early 1920s. (L.A., 1976.)

have it in for (someone). To bear a grudge against: coll.: since ca. 1820. (Alex. Harris, The Emigrant Family, 1849.) Cf. carry (someone) in (one's) heart.

have it off. To engage successfully in a criminal undertaking, esp. by oneself: c.: from ca. 1925. (Gilt Kid, 1936.) Prob. ex Yorkshire dial. have off, as in 'He has a good deal off,' he knows a lot about it or is well acquainted with the matter (EDD Sup.). It is the c. equivalent of pull it off. 'It is also used by a punter who has had a successful bet or by a man that has contrived to seduce a girl' (James Curtis, letter to E.P., 1937).—2. Hence, simply to copulate: low: since ca. 1940. (Robin Cook, The Crust on its Uppers, 1962.) See quot'n at nine ways ...

have it on (one's) dancers. A later C.20 elab. of the next. (Powis.)

have it on (one's) toes. To run away; 'escape from legal custody' (Home Office): prison c.: since ca. 1940. (Norman.) Cf. the S.E. heel and toe it, to walk in a race.

have it out, v.i. To settle the matter, the question, esp. the quarrel: coll.: C.19–20. (Bill Truck, Dec. 1825.) As v.t., have it out with (someone), i.e. bring the problem into the open.

have (or take) it out of (one). To punish; exact a compensation from: coll.: from ca. 1870.

have it up. To coit: low: late C.19–20.

have kittens. To become nervous, agitated, 'all hot and bothered': coll.: since ca. 1933. In, e.g., The Times, 15 Feb. 1937, in the form having kittens; in later C.20, in phrases like, 'You should've seen him—he nearly had kittens'. Ex a cat's perturbation during this crisis. Since ca. 1938, also have (having) a baby, and, among RAF officers, ca. 1940–5, having a set of metal jugs. In each phrase have=to give birth to.

have-not. (Gen. in pl.) See have, n., 1.

have-on. A var. (—1931) of have, n., 2, gen. as 'A mild joke to deceive a person' (Lyell).

have on. To engage the interest or the sympathy of, esp. with a view to deceit (seldom criminally): dial. (—1867) > (low) coll. ca. 1870. (OED Sup.; F. & H.) Cf. string on, q.v., and the S.E. lead on and (see have on toast) the † S.E. have in a string.—2. To have someone on is to be prepared, or actually, to fight: Aus.: C.20 B., 1942.

have on the raws. To touch to the quick; tease: low coll.: from ca. 1860; ob. Lit., raw flesh, raw places.

have on the stick. To make fun of, pull someone's leg: ca. 1870–1914. (William Westall, Sons of Belial, 1895.) Perhaps ex the toy monkey on a stick.

have on toast. To deceive utterly, hence to defeat heavily in argument: from ca. 1870: (orig. low) s. > coll.—2. In C.20, to have at one's beck and call or 'just where one wants him'. Cf. the C.16–18 S.E. have in a string, i.e. at command (see Apperson, have).

have one for the worms. To take a drink of liquor: ca. 1880–1940 (J.J. Connington, Truth Comes Limping, 1938.) Ex joc. pretext of medicinal use. 'Compare Spanish matar el gusano—to kill the worm—applied to the first drink of the day, particularly if spirituous' (H.R. Spencer).

have one on the house. '(Of men) to take opportunity to make water before leaving a friend's house rather than need public facilities at a possibly inopportune moment' (L.A., 1976): joc. coll.: since late 1940s. 'From pub landlord's complimentary drink to good customer.'

have (someone) over. To outwit that person; or, if the person had over be a woman, to seduce her' (Powis): c.: later C.20.

have (someone) over a barrel. To have him at a grave disadvantage: adopted, ca. 1950 (earlier in Can.), ex US. Actively, get (someone) over a barrel, 'We've got them over a barrel on this one'.

have (one's) packet. To incur disaster, as by bombing: since ca. 1940. (Margery Allingham, More Work for the Undertaker, 1947.) Cf. cop a packet.

have the bird. To be sent about one's business: non-cultured: from ca. 1910. Edgar Wallace, The Avenger, 1926, 'In the vulgar language of the masses, I have had the bird.' Ex get the bird, to be hissed while on stage.

have the dead needle. See have the needle.

have the dirt on (someone, -thing). To know some scandal about that person or affair; since ca. 1930. Later, merely to know about the person or affair, to have the news on. Cf. what's the dirt?, and see dirt, 7.

have the edge on. See edge, n., 4.

have the goods on. To have abundant evidence for the conviction of a person: NZ c.,—1932; by 1935 also Aus., and by 1940, > s. B., 1943.

have the needle – intensively, dead needle – to (someone). To be (extremely) angry with: since ca. 1925; c. >, by 1940, low s.

have the painters in or have the rags (on). See rags on ... at rags, 6.

have to. To be sure to, as in 'They have to know more than they've been saying' (Alan Hunter, Gently Coloured, 1969), where no compulsion other than historical circumstance is implied; also much used in sporting commentaries, as 'This just has (got) to be the greatest match of the season', said not before, but in subsequently reporting, the game: coll., prob. influenced by US usage: since mid-1960s. Ex S.E., e.g., 'I have to go now' = I must go. (P.B.) have (a person) to rights. (Gen. in passive.) To defeat: lower classes' coll.: from ca. 1880. (Ware.) See also bang to rights.

have towards, occ. with or at. To pledge in drinking: the first and third, C.17–18 and S.E.; the second, C.19 and coll. Michael Scott, "Have with you, boy—have with you," shouted half-a-dozen other voices.

have (someone) well under the cosh. To have someone completely in one's power: since ca. 1935. Cf. cosh, n., 1. have words. See words.

have you a licence? A c.p. addressed to one clearing his throat noisily: mid-C.18–early 19. (Grose, 1st ed.) Punning hawking and 'the Act of hawkers and pedlars'. P.B.: in later C.20 have you got a licence for that thing? is used facetiously to remark on anything, usu. new to its owner, e.g. an offensive pipe, a new baby; or ... a licence to drive?, e.g. to someone typing laboriously and inexpertly.

have you any kind thoughts in your mind? A c.p. preliminary to asking for a loan or other favour: since the 1920s. have you (or got) any more funny stories? Tell me another!: c.p. of boredom or polite scepticism, esp. in Aus.: since ca. 1930. (B.P.)

have you been? I.e., to the w.c.: a mid-C.19–20 euph. (A reminder from Mr A.B. Petch, 1969.) Cf. go, v., 16.

have you got the time? This request for the correct time is sometimes deliberately misunderstood, and facetiously answered, 'Yes, if you've got the money!'; and '... the money?' elicits 'Yes, if you're got the time!': since at least as early as the 1920s. And see have you the time?

have you got the weight? Have you 'caught on?', do you understand?: RN: since ca. 1930. Semantically cf. 'the onus of the proof'.

have you heard the latest? – pause – it's not out yet. A joc. 'catch': C.20. See DCpp.

have you heard the news? The squire (or The squire's daughter) has been (most) foully murdered. C.p. satirising late Victorian and Edwardian melodrama: ca. 1905–30; esp. among the troops in WW1. See DCpp.

have you quite finished? 'Very genteelly "sarky"' (Frank Shaw) c.p. to stop someone complaining, criticising, or merely rambling pointlessly on: since early C.20. Also in form, 'When you've quite finished ...' (implication: then we can get on with the business in hand).

have you shat? Var. of who's shat?, q.v. at shat, v.

have you shit the bed? (usu. prec. by what's up then or similar.) A low c.p. addressed to someone rising earlier than usual in the morning: late C.19–20. In Dave Dutton, Lanky Spoken Here, 1978, is listed the Lancashire dial. version: Th' art up early—ast peedibed?

have you the time? A var. of have you got the time? (q.v.), to which the riposte (usu.) is: 'No, nor the inclination': from the 1920s, if not earlier. (Mrs C. Raab.)

Havelock's saints. Teetotallers: army: mid-C.19–early 20. Dating from—and the time—of the Indian Mutiny (Ware). P.B.: more precisely: 'The 13th [Regt of Foot, from 1881 the Somerset Light Infantry] did good service in [the Ave Campaign, Burma, 1827]; they were nicknamed "Havelock's Saints", but when anything rough was to be done, General Campbell knew well who to send for (T. Gowing, A Soldier's Experience, 1902 ed.; he says elsewhere that the Regt. was called this 'for years'). Ex their commander, Gen. Sir Henry Havelock, KCB (1795–1857), a true 'Christian soldier', who led a regt of 'praying men'.

haven-screamer. A sea-gull: nautical: late C.19–20. Bowen. haven't his best friends told him? A joc. c.p.—based on the advertisements of a well-known deodorant—current since the late 1950s. Not necessarily in ref. to body odour. P.B.: the advertising slogan was 'Even (his/her) best friends won't tell (him/her)'.

Havercake Lads. The 33rd Foot Regiment, since ca. 1881 the 1st Battalion of the West Riding Regiment: military: late C.18–20; ob. (F. & G.) Its recruiting sergeants, in leading a party, had an oatcake on their swords. (Also the self-given name of the inhabitants of part of Lancashire: from before 1855.)

haves. Half-boots: Winchester College. See halves, the better spelling.

haves and the have-nots, the. The comfortably off and the poor; the privileged and the non-privileged: 'used in Leftist political circles for a good many years' (Petch, 1974); indeed, since ca. 1920: coll. >, by 1940, familiar S.E. P.B.: see have, n., 1.

hav(e)y-cav(e)y. (Of persons only) uncertain, doubtful, shilly-shally: also an adv. Late C.18–early 19: coll. ex dial. (Grose, 2nd ed.) A Northern and Midland anglicisation of L. habe, cave, have (and) beware!

havage. See havage.

havil. A sheep: c.:—1788: † by 1860 in England. (Grose, 2nd ed.) Origin?

havildar's guard. The cooking of the fry of fresh-water fish spitted in a row on a skewer: coll., in and around Bombay: —1886. Ex havildar, a Sepoy non-commissioned officer. Y. & B.

having a baby. See have kittens.

having a good arm? A military c.p. (C.20) applied to a man with numerous badges on his sleeve; e.g. 'marksman', 'farrier', 'Lewis gunner'.

having an easy. See not off.

having fun? A c.p. addressed to someone in obvious difficulties: since ca. 1950. Cf. are you happy in your work? (or ... in the Service?) having kittens. See have kittens.

havoc(k). In late C.17–mid-18, esp. in make sad havoc, this term app. had a strong coll. taint.

havy-cavy. See havey-cavey.

Haw-Haw; in full, Lord Haw-Haw. William Joyce, broadcaster of propaganda from German wireless stations: 1939–45. Executed as traitor. Ex his tired and affected voice. Cf.: haw-haw, adj. Affected in speech (rarely of women); rather obviously and consciously English upper-class: (mostly Colonial) coll.: mid-C.19–20, esp. in and since WW1. Cf. bit of haw-haw, and wahwah, qq.v.

hawbuck. An ignorant and vulgar rustic: 1805 (SOD): coll. till C.20, then S.E. and ob. Ex haw, either the fruit of the hawthorn or a hedge+buck, a dandy (W.). Cf. John Masefield's novel, The Hawbucks, 1929, about fox-hunting people.

hawcubite. A noisy, violent street roisterer, one of a band infesting London ca. 1700–1; hence a street bully or ruffian. Coll. > S.E. Except historically, used very rarely after ca. 1720. F. & H.: 'After the Restoration there was a succession of these disturbers of the peace: first came the Muns, then followed the Tityre Tus, the Hectors, the Scourers, the Nickers, the Hawcubites, and after them the Mohawks.' Ex hawk; cf.:

hawk. A sharper, esp. at cards; a 'rook': orig. (C.16), c.; from ca. 1750, low; ob. B.E.—2. A bailiff; a constable: C.16–early 19: s. > coll. Jonson, Ainsworth.—3. In ware hawk, a warning, esp. when bailiff or constable is near: low coll.: C.16–mid-19. Skelton has the phrase as a title; Grose, 1st ed. hawk, v. To act as a decoy (cf. button, n.) at a fair: c.:—1851; ob.—2. The v., to spit with difficulty and noise, is, despite

F. & H., ineligible.—3. V.i., to pull: Can.: C.20. John Beames. hawk and buzzard, between. Perplexed and undecided: proverbial coll.:—1639; ob. by 1780, † by 1820, except in dial. L'Étrange, 'A fantastical levity that holds us off and on, betwixt hawk and buzzard, as we say, to keep us from bringing the matter in question to a final issue.' Apperson. hawk and pigeon. Villain and victim: Society coll.: late C.19—early 20. (Ware.) P.B.: this is perhaps rather metaphor than coll.: cf. the 1960–70s US use of hawk and dove, q.v. at hawkish.

hawk (one's or the) bod. To sell one's body, to prostitute oneself: Aus. low coll.: later C.20. (McNeil.) Cf.:

hawk (one's) brawn. To be a male prostitute (i.e. a man offering his 'charms' to woman); to be a passive homosexual for money: low (esp. Cockneys'): C.20.

hawk from a handsaw (when the wind is southerly), know a. (Gen. in negative.) To be discerning; occ. lit., have good eyesight, hence to be a person of sense: proverbial coll.: C.17–20. Shakespeare and Barbellion, the longer form; Mrs Centlivre, the shorter in the negative. (Apperson.) Cf. the entries at KNOW, in Appendix.

hawk it. To be a prostitute on the streets: low: late C.19–20. Cf. hawk (one's) mutton.

hawk (one's) meat. (Of a woman) to peddle, i.e. display, one's charms, esp. of breast: low: late C.19–20. Cf. sport, or air, (one's) dairy, q.v. at dairy. Contrast:

hawk (one's) mutton. To be a prostitute: mostly Cockney, and, in C.20, Services': mid-C.19–20.

hawk (one's) pearly. (Of a woman) to be promiscuous, to 'put herself about': low raffish: early 1970s. (Tom Sharpe, Wilt, 1976.) Cf. prec. Perhaps a shortened blend of pearly ace (q.v. at ace, adj.) and red ace.

hawker, vbl n. hawking. Pedlar, peddling: C.16–20; app. coll., ca. 1680–1820, when it was applied specifically to news-vendors.—2. A severe cough: lower-class coll.: from ca. 1870. (Neil Bell, Crocus, 1936.) Ex hawking, or clearing one's throat.

hawker's gag. Boot-laces carried as an excuse for begging: tramps' c.:—1932 (Frank Jennings, Tramping with Tramps).

Hawkesbury Rivers. The shivers: Aus. rhyming s.: C.20. Hence Hawkesburies. B., 1942.

hawkish. Descriptive of one who adopts a hard, warlike line: political j. > gen. coll., and, by 1983, informal S.E.: adopted ex US, where current since ca. 1962 (the Cuban missile crisis), late 1970s. Ex hawk, such a person; opp. is dove. See esp. Barnhart.

hawks. An advantage: London: ca. 1835–60. (Sinks, 1848.) Ex Fr. haussé.—2. As the Hawks, Hawthorn VFL footballers: Aus., esp. Melbourne, coll.: C.20.

Hawkshaw. 'CID officer. A derivative term, originally exclusively US, but used by West Indians' (Powis): 1970s.

hawse or hawses, cross or come across or fall athwart (one's). To obstruct or check; fall out with: nautical: C.19. (W.N. Glascock, Sailors and Saints, 1829, at I, 82, and I, 89 (come across and cross): Moe.) A hawse is 'the space between the head of a vessel at anchor and the anchors, or a little beyond the anchors' (OED). See also I'll cut your cable ...

hawse-holes, creep (or come) in (or through) the (or enter by the). To rise from the forecabin, i.e. from the ranks: nautical, esp. RN (—1829); ob. by early C.20. Marryat, 'A lad who creeps in at the hawse-holes ... was not likely to be favourably received in the midshipmen's mess.' Hence, hawse-pipe officer, one so risen: RN: mid-C.19–20 (Bowen). Cf. halbert, q.v.

hawser, esp. in C.17–18, is occ. used in error for hawse (see hawse, cross ...).

hay, n. Money: see chaff, n., 3.—2. See hit the hay; make hay; make hay while the sun shines.

hay! or hey!, as interpellation or in address, evokes—not among the cultured—the c.p. reply, no, thanks! or not today! or, rarely, straw! Late C.19—early 20. Cf. hay is for horses. hay-bag. A woman: c.:—1851; in C.20, mainly US. Mayhew.

'Something to lie upon' (F. & H.); also perhaps from the appearance of old drabs. See also old haybag.

hay-band. An inferior cigar: low:—1864; † by 1915. H., 3rd ed.

hay is for horses; occ.—with conversion of hey to eh—'ay is for orses'. A c.p. used when someone says hey! or eh? for I beg your pardon: C.18–20. This, the oldest of all c.pp., is recorded in Swift's Polite Conversation, 1738; see esp. my Comic Alphabets, 1961, and commentary ed., 1963, of Swift's Conversation.

hay, lass, let's be hammered for life on Sunday! A lower classes' c.p. of late C.19—early 20. (Ware.) Prob., at first, metal-workers'. P.B.: more likely, as Ware suggests, to do with the blacksmith at Gretna Green.

Hay Lee. A rare var. of Rosie Lee, tea: C.20. John Lardner, Strong Cigars and Lovely Women, 1951, in the article thus titled.

hay-seed, hayseed. A countryman, esp. if very rustic: adopted, ex US, in Aus. and NZ ca. 1895, as coll., ca. 1905. Perhaps ex hay-seeds clinging to garments.

hay-tit or haytit. A woman (tit) given to sleeping under haystacks; hence, a tramp prostitute: c., mostly tramps': C.20. W.L. Gibson Cowan, Loud Report, 1937.

hay while the sun shines. See make hay while ...

hay-wire, gen. haywire. In wild, or utter, disorder; chaotic: adopted, ex US, just before WW1; used in this sense by the RN in 1914 (Moe cites W.G. Carr, Brass Hats ..., 1939).

—2. Hence, to be beside oneself with anger; crazy, very eccentric: adopted, ex US, 1936. (Ernest Weekley, Observer, 21 Feb. 1937.) Hence, to go haywire, to go crazy; of mechanisms, to get (completely) out of order. For origin and US usage, see Irwin.

haybag. See hay-bag.

haying. Haymaking: coll.:—1887 (Baumann). Ex dial.

haymaker. A jolly sort of fellow: tailors': C.20. Ex make hay while the sun shines.—2. A swinging blow: boxers': from ca. 1920. (OED Sup.) Cf. cow-shot and agricultural, qq.v.

haymaking. Practical joking: University and Army: from ca. 1880; extremely ob. (Ware.) Perhaps ex making hay while the sun shines.

haymaking drill. Bayonet exercise: military: late C.19–20; ob. (F. & G.) Ex prodding sacks filled with straw.

Haymarket hector. A whore's bully: C.17–19; coll. (Marvell.) Cf.:

Haymarket ware. An ordinary prostitute: C.19–20, but ob. by 1910, † by 1920. Cf. prec., and barrack-hack.

hayseed. See hay-seed.

haystack. As in I, he, etc., couldn't hit a haystack (at, e.g., five yards): a coll. c.p. applied to a bad aim, esp. a bad shot: mid-C.19–20. Cf. couldn't hit ...—2. In sails like a haystack, sails that are ugly or clumsy to look at: nautical coll.: late C.19—early 20.

hazard(-)drum. A gambling den or house: c.:—1860 (H., 2nd ed.); ob. by early C.20.

haze. To harass or punish with overwork or paltry orders; constantly find fault with: nautical coll. > j. > gen. S.E.: Dana, 1840, Ex dial. haze, to ill-treat, frighten: W.—2. Hence, a specialisation: 'Slang term for violent bullying of a homosexual, combined with insulting banter and ridicule' (Powis): later C.20.

haze about. To loaf; roam aimlessly about: coll.: ob.: 1841, Tait's Magazine, VIII, 'Hazing about—a capital word that, and one worthy of instant adoption—among the usual sights of London' (OED).

hazel-geld, -gild. To beat with a hazel stick: (? joc.) coll.: late C.17—early 19; the former, perhaps an error, is in B.E.; the latter in Grose, 1st ed. (For oil of hazel, see oil.)

hazy. Stupid or confused with drink: 1824 (T. Hook): coll.; in C.20, almost S.E. and slightly ob. by 1930. Barham, 'Staggering about just as if he were hazy'.

Hazy Brook. Hazebrouck on the Western Front: military coll.: WW1. F. & G.

he, hee. A cake. A young he, a small cake. Charterhouse (school): from ca. 1860; ob. Cf. she, q.v.—2. It, where personification does not hold good: coll.: C.19–20. Baumann cites 'Shut him up well,' close the door well.—3. By particular personification, the penis: euph. > coll.: prob. almost immemorial. As in Bill Naughton, Alfie Darling, 1970, 'Abby puts her hand under the table, then gives him a squeeze', exemplifying him for it; therefore also his for its. he bought it. See buy it.

he can put his shoes under my bed any time he likes. He's sexually acceptable to me: feminine, mostly Aus.: since ca. 1920. (B.P., 1974.)

He-Cat. (Any) HMS Hecate: RN: C.19–20. Bowen. he could fall into the shit... See fall into a cart...

he doesn't know where his arse hangs. C.p. jibe at a 'young man with inflated estimate of his ability and standing from lack of judgment' (L.A., 1974): C.20.

He-Face. A Public Schools', esp. Harrovian, nickname for men surnamed Baker. Ex he, a cake. For further details, consult my 'Inseparables' in A Covey of Partridge.—Hence, He-Face Street, Baker Street, London.

he has had it. See have had it.

he is none of John Whoball's children. 'You cannot easily make him a fool' (Terence in English, 1598): a semi-proverbial c.p. of C.17. See whoa-Ball.

he-male. A very manly fellow indeed, all confidence and coition: middle classes': ca. 1881–1910. On she-male, q.v. (Ware.) Whence:

he-man. A virile fellow; a 'cave-man'; one who 'treats 'em rough': from ca. 1906: s. >, ca. 1930, coll. (Collinson.) Whence he-man stuff. Cf. B.E.'s great he-rogue, 'a sturdy swinging Rogue'.

he-man stuff. 'Cave-man' methods: from ca. 1908. ? orig. US.

He, Me and You. Familiar German types (of aircraft) are summarised in the technical jock, "He, Me, and You", the Heinkel, Messerschmitt, Junkers' (E. P., 'Air Warfare and its Slang', New Statesman, 19 Sep. 1942); earliest printed record, however, is a terse paragraph in the Daily Express, 3 July 1940.

he never does anything wrong! An ironic c.p. applied to one who never does anything right: music-halls' (1883), then gen.; † by 1920. (Ware.) Ex a Gaiety Theatre play wherein the 'Rajah of Bong' sings, 'In me you see the Rajah of Bong Who never, no never, did anything wrong.'

he never had no mother - he hatched out when his dad pissed against a wall one hot day. A low military c.p. of C.20.

he thinks it's just to pee through! 'Said of an unsophisticated youth' (Leechman): c.p.: C.20. He thinks his penis is for urination only.

he worships his creator. A Society c.p. (—1909) directed at a self-made man with a high opinion of himself. Ob. Punning Creator, God. Ware.

he would (usu. he'd) drink the stuff if he had to strain it through a shitty cloth. He's a hopeless drunkard: low Can. c.p.: since ca. 1920.

he wouldn't say 'shit' (even) if he had a, or his, mouth full of it. A low Can. c.p., describing a man excessively mealy-mouthed. since ca. 1930.

head, n., the obverse of coin or medal, and head, a coiffure, are, though cited by F. & H., clearly S.E.—2. A man-of-war's privy: nautical, but perhaps rather j. than s. or coll.: since early C.18; it occurs, e.g., in Woodes Rogers, A Cruising Voyage round the World, 1708, and in Smollett's Roderick Random, 1748. (Moe.) The gen. C.20 form is heads, q.v. at heads, the, 2.—3. A postage stamp: mid-C.19—earlier 20: dial. >, by ca. 1860, coll. Ex the sovereign's head thereon. OED Sup.—4. A racing sharp: c.: since mid-1880s. Hence, a professional gambler: Aus. c. and low: from ca. 1890.—5. A long-term prisoner: Aus. c.: C.20. (B., 1942.) Looked up to by his fellow convicts.—6. A girl, a young woman: beatniks': late 1950s—early 60s. (Anderson.)—7. Habitual user of a drug, as in acid-head, hop-head: adopted, ex US, late 1960s.

P.B.: but no doubt influenced by piss-head, a habitual heavy drinker: since ca. 1930 in NZ. (E.P.) and in Services since ca. 1960 at latest; cf. also shit-head, an objectionable person.—8. In (can/able to) do on (one's) head, or standing on (one's) head: orig. c., from ca. 1880, for 'to do easily and joyfully'; in C.20 > gen. s., and not necessarily joyful, but merely easily. The second form is a C.20 elab.—9. In to get or have a big head, or a swelling in the head, or a swelled head, to become or (have=) be conceited: since 1893, prob. adopted ex US, where recorded 1888.—10. Fat, or soft, in the head, stupid: coll.: C.19–20.—11. In have a head, to have a hangover, suffer the after effects of a drinking bout: coll.: from ca. 1870. In C.20 often have a (shocking) head on (one) (Lyell). Have a head on can also, later C.20, mean merely that one has a headache, and esp. (though no longer merely) a migraine. A further meaning of to have a head on: to be alert and/or knowing: low coll.: late C.19—early 20, with which cf. the S.E. have a head on (one) or on (one's) shoulders.—12. Head occurs in many other coll. and s. phrases; others may be found listed at: bundle out head and heels; get (one's) head down; get (or put) the head in a bag, at bag, n., 2; knock on the head; maggots in the head; no head; off (one's) ...; out of (one's) own head; wear a head.—13. Hurt in the head, to cuckold: C.18 coll. Cf. head-marked.—14. See pull or slew a head, in AUSTRALIAN UNDERWORLD, in Appendix. Several more 'head' phrases are listed below.

head, v.t. To toss (a coin); head browns, to toss pennies: Aus.: late C.19–20. (C.J. Dennis.) Lit., to make a coin turn up heads.

head-and-gun money. The... bounty of £5 a head on the crew of an enemy armed ship captured or sunk': RN: coll.: 1915–16; ob. (Bowen.) Prob. after S.E. blood-money.

head-banger. See headbanger.

head-beetler. A foreman or ganger: (? orig. Anglo-Irish) workmen's:—1864; ob.—2. Hence, almost imm., a bully: workmen's: ob. by 1910, † by 1915. Chambers's Journal, 18 Sep. 1886, 'The "beetle" was a machine for producing figured fabrics by the pressure of a roller, and head-beetler probably means the chief director of this class of work.'

head bloke. See head screw.

head boy. Senior under-officer: Royal Military Academy: from ca. 1875. B. & L.

head bully, or cully, of the pass (or the passage) bank. 'The Top Tilter of that Gang, throughout the whole Army [of criminals and vagabonds], who Demands and receives Contribution from all the Pass Banks in the Camp' (B.E., who has bully, Grose (1st ed.) preferring cully). C. of ca. 1670–1820. See pass(age) bank and top.

head bummaroo, the. A chief organiser; most important person present; manager: mid-C.19—mid-20. A perversion of bumper.

head cook and bottle-washer. One in authority (cf. head-beetler); a foreman; a boss: low coll.:—1876 (Hindley).—2. A general servant: pej.:—1887 (Baumann).—3. In C.20, often applied to a person temporarily doing a general servant's work. In C.20, often chief cook...

head cully of the pass, or the passage, bank. See head bully...

head (or beard) for the washing, give (one's). To yield tamely: C.17 (?—18) coll. Butler, in Hudibras, 'For my part it shall ne'er be said, [I] for the washing gave my head.' A late C.16—early 17 var.: ... polling. Cf. Fr. laver la tête à quelqu'un.

head-guard. A hat; esp. a billy-cock: c.:—1889; †.

head hag. Headmistress: schoolgirls': C.20. John Brophy, Behold the Judge, 1937.

head is full of bees, (one's). One is very anxious, fanciful, restless: coll.: ca. 1540–1850. (Apperson.) Cf.:

head is full of proclamations, (one's). Or have a head full... To be 'much taken up to little purpose' (B.E.): coll.: ca. 1560–1770. Fenton's Bandello; Cotgrave; Berthelson's English-Danish Dict., 1754. Apperson.

head (or skull) job. Cunnilingus; fellatio. Head jockey, a practitioner of cunnilingus: since ca. 1950 (? much earlier). (Landy, 1971; Hollander, 1972.) Also give head: to engage in 'soixante-neuf' (Hollander). Also abbr., as in Alex Stuart, The Bikers, 1972 (heavily influenced by US), 'treated to as expert a spot of head as ever he's experienced.'

head(-)lamp. An eye; usu. in pl.: pugilistic: ca. 1840–90. Augustus Mayhew, 1857.

head like a sieve, have a. To be extremely forgetful: coll.: mid-C.19–20.

head-mark. In to know (a man) by the head-mark: to recognise (a cuckold) by his horns: low: mid-C.18–early 20. Punning the S.E. sense. Hence, head-marked, adj., cuckold(ed): id.

head off. In argue or talk (one's) head off: to be excessively argumentative or talkative: coll.: from ca. 1885. (Milliken.) In fact, one's head off is an adv. = excessively. We can speak of a person's yawning his head off. Cf.:—2. In beat (someone's) head off: to defeat utterly: coll.: from ca. 1850. Thackeray, 'He pretends to teach me billiards, and I'll give him fifteen in twenty and beat his head off.'—3. In bite (someone's) head off, to snap at angrily and reprimand, sometimes—in the speaker's opinion, not taking the biter's mood into account—unjustifiably, as in, 'I only asked her the time, and she bit my blooming head off': coll.: C.20.—4. In to eat (one's or its) head off: to cost, in keep, more than one's or it's worth: C.18–20: coll. Orig., of horses; gen. from ca. 1860. Anon., The Country Farmer's Catechism, 1703, 'My mare has eaten her head off at the Ax in Aldermanbury.'

head off, v.i. To begin a journey: Aus.: since ca. 1925. 'Supposing that we get everything squared away, when'll you be ready to head off?' (A.M. Harris, The Tall Man, 1958). Ex cattle-droving?

head office. 'Prison department of Home Office' (Home Office): prisoners' s.: later C.20.

head on. See head, n., 11.—2. In this and following senses, put a (new) head on, to damage a man's face: ?orig. US (—1870), Anglicised by 1890.—3. Hence, to defeat, gen. heavily; get much the better of: ?orig. (—1880) US; Anglicised by 1890. Also put a new face on.—4. To make malt liquors froth: public-house s. > gen. coll.: from ca. 1860. (Head, froth on top, is itself S.E.)

head or tail. See heads or tails.

head over heels, for earlier and logical heels over head, was orig. coll.—a popular corruption: from ca. 1770. Thackeray: OED.

head over tip. Head over heels: 1824 (Boxiana, IV); ob. Cf. arse over tip; base over apex, and head over turkey, a C.20 Aus. var. (C.J. Dennis).

head picket. Defecation; the faeces: RN training ships: recorded for 1946, but prob. earlier. A ref. to RN j. heads, privy. (Peppitt.)

head-piece, brain(s), late C.16–20, was S.E. until C.20, when increasingly coll.

head pin. The head brakeman: Can. railroadmen's:—1931. Cf. English king pin.

head-rails. The teeth: nautical (—1785) >, ca. 1840, gen.; extremely ob. Grose, 1st ed.; 'Cuthbert Bede' in Verdant Green; Baumann, who cf.'s the Homeric ἑρκος ὀδόντων, the hedge or fence of the teeth; Bowen.

head-robber. A plagiarist: journalistic: ca. 1880–1914.—2. A butler: low: later C.19. In, e.g., a Whitechapel tailor's humorous handbill of 1875.

head screw (occ. head bloke). A chief warder: prison c.:—1893.

head screwed on right. See screwed on...

head-serag, in C.20 -serang. An overseer, master; one in authority or a 'big-wig': Bengali English coll. and nautical s. (—1864) >, ca. 1900, gen. s. Ex Persian sarhang, an overseer, a commander.

head-shrinker. A psychiatrist, esp. if a psychoanalyst; in prison s., also a psychotherapist (Home Office): adopted, ex US, late 1950s. In Woman's Own, 31 Oct. 1964, Monica Dickens writes, 'Deliver me from the head shrinkers, I have prayed.' An allusion to the shrinking of corpses' heads practised by certain South American tribes. P.B.: by ca. 1970, at latest, the (orig. US) abbr. shrink had become gen. coll. in UK.

head them. To play two-up: Aus. coll.: late C.19–20. (B., 1942.) Cf. heading 'em.

head-topper. A hat; a wig: c.: mid-C.19–early 20. B. & L.

head-worker. A schemer, a shirker, a malingerer: military coll.: WW1. F.&G.

headache. A problem; a worry ('That's your headache!'): since ca. 1920: coll. >, by 1947, familiar S.E.—2. See much use as a (sick) headache, useless.

headacher. A severe punch on the head: pugilistic: ca. 1840–90. Augustus Mayhew, Paved with Gold, 1857.

headbanger (or hyphenated), A moronic teenager given to shaking his head very violently in time to very loud music, instead of dancing: from late 1970s. 'Headbangers—the zombies' revenge' (Peter York, Style Wars, 1980, p. 20). Earlier, in Harpers & Queen, Dec. 1977, P.Y. wrote, 'The music... was boring. Its appeal was to the acidheads... banging their heads on the bass speakers.'—2. Hence, loosely for a teenage 'hard case' or 'nutter' (qq.v.): Fife secondary school pupils', hence staffs': early 1980s. (Harold Hindle, 1981.)

header. A blow on the head: boxing: 1818; ob. OED.—2. A notability: tailors': ca. 1860–1920. Cf. big-wig. Perhaps ex + S.E. sense, a leader.—3. In take a header, to plunge, or fall, headlong into the water: coll.: implied in 1849. Hence, to leap, app. dangerously: theatrical: from ca. 1860.—4. Also, take a header, to go direct for one's object: coll.:—1863.

headie. One who favours the 'heads' at two-up. See tailie.

heading-'em, vbl n. The tossing of coins for bets: low: from ca. 1880. Cf. head them.

headlights. Spectacles: Aus.: since ca. 1905. B., 1942.—2. Female breasts: Aus.: since ca. 1910. Baker.

headlines. In make the headlines, to get one's name into the headlines or on to the front page: journalistic coll.: since ca. 1925. P.B.: in later C.20, just as often in the negative, as in the derogatory 'Huh! That'll never make headlines!'

headquarters, often 'capitalled', Newmarket: turf s. (—1888) >, in C.20, j. Because the most important racing and training centre.

heads, the. Those in authority, the singular being one of the heads: coll.: from ca. 1895: more gen. Colonial [written early 1930s] than English: very common in the AIF.—2. Seamen's latrines: RN coll.: late C.19–20. Granville, 'Right forward'. Hence the Captain of the Heads, the rating responsible for their cleanliness. It prob. goes back much further: W.N. Glascock, Sketch-Book, II, 1826, has the var. captain o' the head, naval s. of ca. 1790–1850. (Moe.) Cf. head picket.

heads and tails, lie. To sleep heads to head-rail and foot-rail alternately: low coll.: ca. 1860–1920.

heads-and-tails school. A two-up school: Aus. coll.: C.20. B., 1942.

heads I win, tails you lose. A mock bet; also = I cannot fail! Occ. used as an adj. Coll., orig. low:—1846. Anticipated by Shadwell, 1672, in Epsom Wells: 'Worse than Cross I win, Pile you lose.' Apperson.

heads on 'em like boils. Aus. two-up players' c.p., applied to coins that have yielded a long run of heads: since before 1914. (Lawson Glassop, Lucky Palmer, 1948.) Cf. the Aus. card-players' heads on 'em like mice, applied to a very strong hand: since ca. 1935. B., 1945.

heads or tails; head or tail. A phrase used in tossing coins to gain a decision: coll.: late C.17–20. Otway: OED.

heady, intoxicating, was by B.E. considered coll., as it may well have been in his day.—2. Very ingenious (things) or shrewd (ideas, plans, actions): C.20: coll.: mostly Aus. and NZ.—3. Biliouly headachy: mostly aviators' coll.: 1934 (Nov.), Air Review.

heady whop. A person with an extraordinarily large head: Cockney: ca. 1880–1900. Merely whopping head corrupted.

heaf. A var. of heef, q.v.

health, for (one's). (Always in negative or interrogative.) For nothing, the implication that one is there, doing this, etc., for money, i.e. for profit: coll.: orig. (1904), US, Thornton citing 'I'm not in politics for my health'—nor, presumably, for the body politic's: anglicised ca. 1912.

Healtheries, the. The Health Exhibition, London, 1884: coll.; ob. by 1900, † by 1915. Prompted by the Fisheries, q.v., of 1883. Cf. also Colinderies, Inventories.

healthy. Large; excellent: coll.: from ca. 1920. E.g. 'a healthy cheque'.

heap, n. A large number, a great deal: coll.: mid-C.17–20. (Keats.) Often, mid-C.16–20, in pl., as in Hughes, 'She will be meeting heaps of men.'—2. A person, a section, a detachment that is very slack and slovenly: army: 1940+. (H. & P.) Cf. shower.—3. An old car, esp. if owned by youths: Can.: since ca. 1939. Ex 'heap of old iron'. (Prof. F.E.L. Priestley, who, 1949, writes: 'Displaces jalopy, which barely survives, though still heard.') P.B.: since mid-C.20, also Brit., as in Alan Hunter, Gently with the Painters, 1960.—4. In go over the heap, to relieve oneself: colliery surface workers': late C.19–20. Ex using a slag heap for this purpose.—5. In the heap, (of a horse) losing: Glasgow racing:—1934. It is in the ruck.—6. See all of a heap.

heap, adv. Much: orig. (1834), US; anglicised ca. 1850. Also, from ca. 1880, heaps.

heap big. Joc. use of term used by Indians in 'Western' films; applied not only to objects, but also to persons, e.g., of the head of an organisation 'Him heap big man': earlier and mid-C.20. (P.B.)

heap of (f) coke. A fellow, man, comrade: thieves' rhyming s. on bloke:—1851 (Mayhew, I). In theatrical s., it refers to 'the gov' nor' (father, managing director): from ca. 1890. (London Evening Standard, 19 Aug. 1931.) Sometimes shortened to heapy (Ware, 1909).

heap of pot. A quantity—5 pounds in weight—of marijuana: drug addicts': since ca. 1960. The Times, 19 Feb. 1964.

heap of (f) saucepan lids. Money: rhyming s. on dibs [? quids]. P.B.: late C.19—early 20. Ware.

heaped, ppl adj. Joined in the sexual act: C.16–20: low coll. Tourneur, 'O, 'twill be glorious to kill 'em... when they're heaped.'—2. Hard put to it, 'stumped': racing: ca. 1880–1915. Hawley Smart in From Post to Finish.

heaps. See heap, n. and adv.

heapy. See heap of coke.

hear. To attend church; v.t., sit under the preaching of: coll.: ca. 1780–1910. Cowper, 1783, in a letter, 'There are, however, many who have left the Church, and hear among the Dissenters' (OED).

hear a bird sing. To learn privately: coll.: late C.16–17. (Shakespeare.) In C.19–20, a little bird told me (so).

hear (one's) belly knocking against (one's) backbone. To be near starvation: C.20. (L.A. cites Douglas Hayes, My Father in His Dizzerbell, 1968.) Cf. synon. (one's) belly thinks...

hear from you. See let's hear... hear of it. To be blamed, reprimanded for it: coll.: late C.16–20. (Shakespeare.) Occ. in C.19–20, about.

hear (a pupil, a child) out. To test his knowledge: elementary schoolteachers' coll.: late C.19–20.

hear say or tell, to. Hear it said, related (that...): in C.20, 'considered vulgar' (W., 1920), i.e. low coll. Orig. S.E. with ellipsis of people, persons, someone, etc., before the second v. P.B.: in C.20 often, at least in Sussex dial., 'I did hear tell as how...' Elsewhere in the 1st ed. of this Dict., E.P. noted: 'C.13–20: S.E. until mid-C.19, then coll. and dial.; absolutely, as in "So I've heard tell", so I've heard.'

hear (oneself) think. Always neg., and with ref. to excessive noise, in such complaints as 'Turn that damn radio down, I can't hear myself think, even' or 'the disco was so deafening she could hardly hear herself think': coll.: since ca. 1916. (E.P.; P.B.)

heard the news? See have you heard...

(have you) heard this one? A c.p. introduction to a story:

since ca. 1910. As preliminary to a joke, often (have you) heard the one about...?

hearing. A scolding, a reprimand: coll. when not, as gen., dial.: from ca. 1810; ob. (Scott, Old Mortality.) Ex hear of it, q.v.

hearing cheat. (Gen. in pl.) An ear: c.: mid-C.16—early 19. Harman, Grose.

hearse. An enemy submarine: RN and RAF on Western Approaches: 1941+. Derogatory rather than macabre.

heart appears in various ejaculations, e.g. (Lord or God or Lord God) bless my heart: coll.: C.19–20; heart alive!, C.19–20 coll. The earliest, for God's heart, appears in Chaucer. OED.—2. See have a heart; next the heart; slave (one's) heart out; you may have broke your mother's...—3. As The Heart, a coll. for the Dead Heart (of Australia), Central Aus.: since ca. 1930. B., 1959.

heart alive! See heart.

heart and dart. A fart: rhyming s.: ca. 1860–1930.

heart bleeds for, usu. my heart bleeds for you, Although lit. 'I grieve for you', it is always ironic, often quite bitterly ironic: since the late 1950s. Probably by a wincing reaction against that gushing sympathy which is insincere and, indeed, hypocritical—and wouldn't part with a penny. A var., c.p., more US than Brit., is I weep for you.

Heart-Break Corner. A store-room for postal matter wrongly or insufficiently addressed or too loosely tied: post office workers': since ca. 1935.

Heart-Break Hilda. Frau Sperling: lawn-tennis world: ca. 1931–9. (H.W. Austin, London Evening News, 29 June 1937.) Ex her powers of retrieving and her steadiness in return: ineffectual, however, when playing against a Marble wall. P.B.: here E.P., who was a great 'tennis fan', and supplemented his income in the 1930s by reporting on the Wimbledon tournament, is punning on Alice Marble (b. 1913), the American woman champion, who won at Wimbledon in 1939.

heart-breaker. See heartbreaker.

heart in (one's) boots (, one's). (In sentences with is or sinks; in phrases, prec. by with.) Afraid, extremely dejected: coll.: C.19–20; anticipated by Garrick's 'soul and spirit... in her shoes', a form still heard. The C.15—early (? all) 18 form is in one's hose, as in Skelton, Breton, Motteux. (Apperson.)

heart of oak. A var. of hearts of oak, q.v. Binstead, Pitcher in Paradise, 1903.

heart on (one's) halfpenny. See hand, n., 13.

heart-throb. One's girl friend; occ. one's boy friend: Cape Town University: 1940+. Prof. W.S. Mackie in Cape Argus, 4 July 1946.—2. A glamorous film-star (either sex): mid-C.20, usu. joc.

heart-to-heart. A heart-to-heart talk: coll.: C.20.

heart to grass, take. A C.16–17 coll. form of heart of grass, a corruption of heart of grace, esp. when prec. by take.

heart-trouble. Euph. for 'fear' or 'cowardliness': 1940+.

heart up. In to have or bring (one's), to spew: low coll.: C.19. Baumann, 1887, records enough to have (one's) heart up, and Moe cites John L. Gardner, The Military Sketch-Book (II, 34), 1831, 'The rough sea had already almost "brought his heart up".' Cf. next the heart for use of heart = stomach.

heartbreaker. A love-lock; a pendent curl: coll.: 1663, Butler, who applies it to Samson: ob. by 1860, † by 1900.

heartburn. A bad cigar: ca. 1870–1925: mainly Cockney.

heart rug. A dupe, a simpleton: rhyming s.: since ca. 1910. On mug.—2. (Usu. in pl.) A bug, esp. a bed-bug: rhyming s.: C.20. Both senses, ob. by 1960. 'Never was so popular as steam tug' [q.v.] (Franklyn 2nd.).

hearthstone. Butter: eating-houses'; late C.19–20. (Ware.) Prompted by doorstep, q.v.

heartie. See heartly, 5.

hearts. See hearts of oak.

heart's ease. (Occ. as one word without apostrophe.) A twenty-shilling piece: c.: late C.17—early 19. B.E.—2. Gin: c.: ca. 1690–1830. B.E.; Grose.

hearts of oak. Penniless: late C.19–20: (ironic) rhyming s. on broke. (Passing Show, 7 July 1934.) Often shortened to hearts.

hearty, n. and adj. Strong drink; drunk; low: ca. 1850–1915.—2. (Gen. a hearty.) A person enjoying boisterous health and few brains, esp. if a devotee of outdoor games and sport: from ca. 1910: coll., orig. undergraduates', >, by 1935, S.E. Partly in opp. to arty. (See also more guts than brains, and, in Michael Harrison's Weep for Lycidas, 1934, a devastating description and indictment.)—3. Hence, adj., sporting; occupied in sport or in strenuous exercise: mostly, as brig., university coll. Not, it would seem, before 1924 or 1925. E.g. 'I've just had a very hearty week-end.'—4. (Slightly) tipsy: Anglo-Irish: late C.19–20. (P.W. Joyce, 1910.) Cf. sense 1, and happy.—5. As my hearty (incorrectly, heartie), a Northern dial. (1803: EDD) and hence nautical form of address. In Bill Truck, 1822, and perhaps dating from ca. 1750—or even earlier. Whence, the 'only just' S.E. sense, a sailor.

hearty-choke (and, or with, capser-sauce) for breakfast, have a. To be banged: orig. (—1785), c.; in late C.19, low; in C.20, †, except in the doubly-punning a (h)artichoke and a (h)oyster, a hanging-breakfast. Grose, 1st ed.; Danvers, in The Grantham Mystery, 'Compelled to have a hearty-choke for breakfast some fine morning'. Punning artichoke. Cf. vegetable breakfast, q.v.

heat, n. A being wanted by the police: adopted, ca. 1936, from US. ('The bleeding heat's on here for me', James Curtis, They Ride By Night, 1938) and >, by 1946, low s. See esp. Underworld.—2. On heat, sexually excited, is low coll. when applied to women: C.19–20.—3. See give the heat; have a heat!; take the heat off.—4. Ex sense 1, the police themselves: low: later C.20. 'I had you sussed for the heat... I thought, here's another of them comic camouflaged coppers come to give us business girls a hard time' (Red Daniells, in Brit. Jnl Photography, 1 Aug. 1980).—5. As heat, short for 're-heat': afterburner: RAF: later C.20. 'In the land of 'heat, hundreds of knots appear from nowhere in seconds' (Phantom).

heater. Revolver. This word is the English equivalent of "gat" or "rod", expressions used by those who affect Americanisms' (Tempest): c.: mid-C.20. P.B.: but heater too smacks of the US gangster film.

heathen philosopher. One whose breech is visible through his trousers: late C.17–18. (B.E.) Ex dress-despising philosophers.

heathenish. Abominable, offensive, 'bestial': coll.: from ca. 1855. (OED.) Ex S.E. sense of 'barbarous', as in Shakespeare.

Heathens. The Blackheath Rugby Football Club: 1891: a journalistic jocularly >, ca. 1905, sporting s. Pall Mall Gazette, 16 Nov. 1891, 'The Oxonians... got two goals, while the Heathens were unable to score' (OED).

heave, n. An attempt to cajole, deceive, or swindle, esp. in a dead heave, a flagrant attempt to do so: C.19, and prob. earlier: c. Bee.—2. An effort; display of energy: Guardsmen's: since ca. 1925. 'To tell us "to get a powerful heave" on our kits and lay them out neatly,' (Roger Grinstead, 1946). But to get a heave on a person is to treat him unpleasantly or severely.—3. A bouncer or chucker-out: Sydneyites': since ca. 1943. (London Evening News, 16 Feb. 1949.)

heave, v.t. To rob: c.: ca. 1560–1830: extant, according to F. & H., in 1893 in Shropshire dial., but unrecorded by EDD. Esp. in heave a bough, rob a booth, mid-C.16–18, and heave a case, rob a house, C.18–early 19: occ., by confusion of these two senses (as in Head), heave a booth=to rob a house. (Harman; Coles's and Dyche's dictionaries.) Ex the S.E. sense, to lift: cf. lift, v.—2. To throw, toss, hurl: late C.16–20: S.E. until ca. 1830, then nautical j. and gen. coll. (OED) and dial.—3. Hence, to discard; to throw away: mostly Aus.: since ca. 1920; more use in UK in later C.20.

heave ahead or on, v.i. To hurry, press forward: nautical coll.: C.19. (Marryat.) Ex the advancing of a ship by heaving on a cable attached to some fixed object in front of her heave around. To proceed vigorously: Conway cadets:—1891 (John Masefield, The Conway, 1933).

(Smyth).—2. Hence, gen. in imperative, get on with one's job or story: nautical coll.: mid-C.19–20. Bowen.

heave-ho. See give the old heave-ho.

heave in sight. When not nautical j., this is gen. coll.: from ca. 1830.

heave to! 'Stop! Wait for me!': RN lowerdeck: late C.19–20. Moe cites W.G. Carr, Brass Hats..., 1939.

heaven. In feel (one's) way to heaven, to caress a woman with progressive intimacy: low coll.: C.19–early 20. By itself, heaven, thus used, is a euph.—2. Heaven(s) occurs in mild ejaculations which are, in C.20, almost coll.—3. 'Seven or Eleven. A good example of a one-word rhyme. It is used by dice-gamblers only—the score is possible with not less than a two-dice throw' (Franklyn 2nd).—4. See go to heaven...

heaven and hell. A shell: army rhyming s.: WW1.

Heaven(-)Born, the. The members of the Indian Civil Service, esp. its higher echelons: late C.19–earlier 20. ?Ex an Indian honorific. (P.B.)

Heaven, Hell, and Purgatory. Three taverns situated near Westminster Hall: C.17. Jonson in The Alchemist.

heaven-tormentor. (Gen. pl.) A sail above the sky-sail: late C.19–20; ob. Bowen.

heavenly collar; heavenly lapel. A collar, or a lapel, that turns the wrong way: tailors': from ca. 1860. B.&L.

heavenly plan. A man: Aus. rhyming s.: ca. 1885–1914. B., 1945, citing the Sydney Bulletin, 18 Jan. 1902.

heavens, adv. Very: a coll. (ob.) and dial. intensive: from ca. 1875. Esp. of rain and with hard, as in D.C. Murray's The Weaker Vessel, 'It was raining heavens hard.'—2. Exclam.: see heaven, 2.

heavens above. Love: rhyming s.: C.20. Franklyn 2nd.

heaver. A thief; esp. one who steals tradesmen's shop-books (Grose, 2nd ed.): c.: late C.18–early 19. Ex heave, v., 1.—2. A breast; the bosom: c.: mid-C.17–early 19. Coles.—3. (Gen. pl.) A person in love: ?C.18–19. (B. & L.) Ex sense 2.—4. A coin of low value; a penny: C.20. (A.E. Coppard, Adam and Eve and Pinch Me, 1921.) A shortening of synon. coal-heaver, rhyming s. on stiver. (Franklyn.) heaves, the. Spasms: proletarian:—1909 (Ware, 'Graphic description').

Heavies, the. 'The regiments of Household Cavalry, 4th and 5th Dragoon Guards, and 1st and 2nd Dragoons' (F. & H.): military coll.:—1841 (Lever). Ex their heavy equipment.—(In next three senses, small h).—2. Bugs, esp. bed-bugs: low: ca. 1850–1910.—3. In late C.19–20, esp. in WW1, the heavy artillery: military. Cf. sense 1.—4. 'Group of prison officers coping with incident/riot' (Home Office: prison c. A shortening of the heavy mob, q.v.) heavy, n. For 1 and 2, see prec. entry.—3. A heavy bomber or large bomb: RAF coll.: 1940+. (Jackson.) Cf. Heavies, 3.—4. A serious actor: film world: since ca. 1915. (Cameron McCabe, 1937.) Cf. heavy line, q.v.—5. A girl: Aus. teenage surfers': 1960+. Pix, 28 Sep. 1963.—6. As the heavy, Claiborne notes, 1966, 'In recounting the incident, he made me the heavy (= he made me the villain of the piece)'. Prob. ex sense 4; cf. heavy merchant.—7. As the heavy, porter and stout: C.19 coll. Boxiana, III, 1821.—8. In come or do the heavy; occ. do it heavy, to put on airs; affect superiority: s. or low coll.: from ca. 1880. But in C.20, esp. since WW1, abbr. do the heavy father, to be severely parental. Ex heavy father (1898), heavy uncle (ca. 1899), repressive or pompous father, pompously dignified uncle: theatrical s. >, by 1925, gen. coll. (OED Sup.) Cf. heavy stuff, q.v.—9. 'A couple who were "at the heavy" (i.e., robbers)' (Laurie Taylor, New Society, 4 Nov. 1982, p. 203).—10. See heavy metal; heavy, in AUSTRALIAN UNDERWORLD, in Appendix.

heavy, v. To 'beat up'; to slash; to disfigure (a person): c. and low s.: since ca. 1955. James Barlow, The Burden of Proof, 1968.—2. See heavy metal.

heavy, adj. 'Hard' or 'killer', as applied to drugs: since ca. 1960. (R.S., 1969.)—2. Important; prominent; esp. in popular entertainment: adopted, late 1960s, ex US. Jagger.—3. Wonderful; 'marvellous' = fine or excellent, and adjacent nuances: adopted, ca. 1971, ex US. Melody Maker, 8 July 1972: 'Just the funkiest, heaviest set of girls ... and complete with outstanding new back-up band.' (With thanks to Paul Janssen for senses 2 and 3.) See also heavy metal.—4. Sexually aroused; prostitutes': later C.20. 'He was getting heavy, and I'm trying to get myself together to split from this car...' (Time Out, 30 May 1980: P.B.).

heavy-arse. A sluggard: low coll.: late C.19–20. Cf.:

heavy-arsed. Inert, lethargic, apathetic: C.17–18 coll. One of Richard Baxter's titles was, Shove to Heavy-Arsed Christians.

heavy baggage. Women and children: late C.18–19 (Grose, 2nd ed., records it); cf. Fr. pas de bagage en train de plaisir.

heavy brown. See brown, n., 2 and cf. heavy wet, q.v.

heavy cavalry or dragoons or horsemen or (the) heavy troop. Bugs; esp. bed-bugs: ca. 1850–1910. The commonest are the first two; h.d. is recorded by H., in 1864, as of Oxford University. Cf. heavies, 2, and contrast light infantry.

heavy father. See heavy, n., 8.

heavy grog. Hard work; workmen's: ca. 1860–1914. Ex the drink.

heavy grubber. A hearty eater; a glutton: low coll.: from ca. 1858; ob. Dickens, Great Expectations.

heavy hand. Deep trouble: lower classes' coll.:—1909 (Ware).

heavy-handed. 'Said of one who makes his drinks, and those of others, too strong' (Leechman), e.g. 'Don't be so heavy-handed with the gin!' (R.S., 1971): coll., in Britain since 1930s, in Can. since ca. 1955. Ultimately ex the S.E. sense, 'clumsy'.

heavy horseman. (Gen. pl.) A ship-looter working in the daytime, esp. on the Thames: nautical: C.19. (Bowen.) Contrast heavy cavalry.

heavy line, the. Tragic or, at least, serious rôles: theatrical: ca. 1820–90. Sessions, Dec. 1840 (p. 286), 'He played various characters ... perhaps the King, in Hamlet he played what we call the "heavy line" of business.' Cf. heavy, n., 4.

heavy lurker. A 'teller of the piteous tale' in a large way: c.: C.20. 'Stuart Wood', 1932.

heavy merchant. He who represents the villain: theatrical:—1909 (Ware).

heavy metal, n., whence heavy-metal, adj. and v.; often shortened to heavy, n., and to metal, n., and v.i. (= to play 'heavy metal'). The full n. means 'a type of very loud [and] dense blues music that uses electronic instruments, drums, and many amplifiers' (W. & F., 1975, but giving no date). There is even metallurgist, a player of 'heavy metal', included, as is metal, n. and v., by W. & F. Heavy metal apparently orig. in the adj. heavy (of music), 'important', thence 'loud, forceful'. Heavy-metal, adj., is used in Beatles, 1975.—2. Powerful, military jet fighter and bomber aircraft, as opp. to 'real' aeroplanes: vintage aircraft enthusiasts' joc., punning sense 1: since late 1970s. (Mrs Barbara Huston, 1980.) I have seen it applied also to battleships: same period. (P.B.)

heavy mob, the. The prison police: prison c.: since ca. 1944. (Norman.)—2. 'Any gang that specialises in warehouse-breaking. Gangs which go in for big-scale robberies. (Particularly the former)' (Tempest): c.: mid-C.20.

heavy petting. 'Petting' that is very passionate and stopping just short of coition: mostly teenagers': adopted, in late 1940s, ex US.

heavy plodder. A stockbroker: c.: ca. 1845–90. Sinks.

heavy stuff. Unsympathetic and over-paternal advice or moralising: coll.: C.20. Ex heavy, n., 8, q.v.; ult. ex the theatrical sense, serious, esp. sombre or tragic (1826).—2. In WW1 army coll. verging on S.E., it signified (as it still does) heavy shelling or, properly, big shells. F. & G.—3. 'Motorised police who follow up a raid on club or "gaff"'. Reinforcements to a police raid, often using the Black Maria for transport' (Tempest): c.: mid-C.20.

heavy sugar, the. 'The big money': low: since ca. 1925. (Gerald Kersh, Night, 1938.) See sugar, n., 1.

heavy, or howling, swell. A man, occ. a woman, in the height of fashion: ca. 1830–1910: perhaps rather coll. than s. Anstey, 1892, 'We look such heavy swells, you see, we're all aristo-crats.' Punning heavy, having great momentum, and undoubtedly prompted by heavy swell, a sea running high.

heavy uncle. See heavy, n., 8.

heavy wet; occ. abbr. to heavy. Malt liquor; esp. porter and stout: 1821, Egan: ob. Lytton, 'I had been lushing heavy wet,' 1830.—2. An extremely 'severe' drinking-bout: ca. 1850–1925.

heavy worker. A safe-breaker: c.: C.20. Because most safes are heavy.

hebdomadal. A weekly magazine or review: 1835 (SOD): orig. joc. S.E.; in late C.19–20, journalistic; ob.

Hebe or hebe, a waitress or a barmaid, is (now trite) S.E., but as pubic hair and the genitals, a sense omitted by the OED though given by Bailey, it is perhaps coll.—2. See Heeb.

Hebrew. Unintelligible speech, jargon: coll.: C.17–18. In Middleton & Rowley, A Chaste Maid in Cheapside (before or by 1627), at IV, i (Moe); Vanbrugh, 1705, has 'Mighty obscure ... All Hebrew.' Cf. S.E. Greek in the same sense.—2. Spiced wine, hippocras. See TAVERN TERMS, §3 c, in Appendix.

Hebrew congee (or leg), make a(n). To take leave of someone in a courteous manner: Restoration period. Moe cites Roger Boyle, Mr Anthony, 1672, for both.

heck, by; what the heck! Orig. (—1892), Lancashire exclamations of surprise or indignation: by 1905, at latest, they had > gen. coll. Prob. ex dial. (h)eck!, indicating surprise or conveying a warning; heck is perhaps a euph. for hell!: cf. the Lancashire ecky, a mild oath, and go to ecky, 'go to hell!', of mid-C.19–20, and possibly the Scottish and Irish hech (or hegh), as in hech, sirl!, though this expletive hech is more prob. an elemental like ha or ho. (EDD.) See also 'eck-as-like.

hectic. Exciting, esp. with tendency to dissipation or to excessive activity (as in a hectic time); (of a book) sensational in theme, luridly indelicate in language, or both: C.20 coll., esp. since WW1.

hectic show, a. Dangerous flying: RFC: 1915 +. (F. & G.) Ex prec. + show.—2. A bitter infantry battle: infantry officers': 1916 +. B. & P.

Hector, hector, as a bully, a swashbuckler, is rather S.E. than coll., though († 1670) John Hackett's 'One Hector, a phrase at that time'—ca. 1640—'for a daring ruffian' tends to show that at this period it was, by some at least, held to be coll. *The Hector*s were a swashbuckling band: see hawcubite.—2. The v. is S.E., as is hectoring, adj. and n.

Hector's cloak, wear. To be rightly rewarded for treachery: coll.: C.17—early 18. Ex Hector Armstrong who, the betrayer of Thomas Percy, Earl of Northumberland in 1569, died a beggar. But take Hector's cloak, C.17—early 18 (then dial, now †), is 'to deceive a friend who confides in one's fidelity' (Apperson).

hedge, a covering bet, and hedge, to bet 'opposite' for safety, are, despite F.&H., ineligible, as are the figurative senses.—2. A market stall: market-traders' and showmen's: C.20. A shortening of hedge and ditch.—3. Hence, the people gathered round a stall or a stand: fair-grounds': C.20. W. Buchanan-Taylor, Shake it Again, 1943.—4. See common as the hedge; hang in the hedge; take a sheet off a hedge. hedge, as adj., is a (mainly †) pej. prefixed to nn. to connote 'connected with, born under, plying a trade under a hedge, esp. one by the roadside; hence low, paltry, rascally, ignorant'. That many of these terms had a coll. taint appears from B.E. and Grose; yet it is more correct to regard as S.E. all hedge compounds except the few that follow.

hedge and ditch. A market or street stall or stand: rhyming s. on pitch: late C.19–20. Often abbr. to hedge.—2. Hence, since ca. 1910, a football, or a cricket, pitch. Franklyn, Rhyming.

hedge-bird. 'A Scoundrel or sorry Fellow' (B.E.): C.17–mid-18 coll. (?S.E. till ca. 1680).

hedge-bit. A hedge-whore; a (gen. dirty) harlot favouring the open air: C.19–20 low; ob.

hedge-bottom attorney or solicitor. An unqualified or a disqualified attorney or solicitor doing business in the shelter of a proper solicitor's name: legal: mid-C.19–20; ob. B. & L.

hedge-creeper. A robber of hedges: mid-C.16–early 19: coll. till ca. 1690, then low s. or c.

hedge-docked. Seduced in the open air: low: C.19.

hedge-hop, v.; hedge-hopping, n. Flying very low: orig. airmen's coll., since 1915 (F. & G.); in later C.20, informal S.E.

hedge or by stile, by. By hook or by crook: late C.17–18: coll. B.E.

hedge-popper. 'A trumpety shooter' (F. & H.); hedge-popping, the shooting of small birds in and about hedges. Both sporting s. > coll.: ca. 1860–1920.

hedge-square (occ. street), doss or snooze in. To sleep in the open air, esp. in the country: vagrants' c.:—1876; ob. (J. Greenwood, Under the Blue Blanket.) Cf. starry.

hedgehog. A many-oared boat: nautical: C.19. (Bowen.) Ex that animal's appearance.—2. Veal: London streets': ca. 1840–1900. (Augustus Mayhew, Paved with Gold, 1857.) The two kinds of flesh, cooked, are not unlike.—3. An anti-submarine weapon: RN coll.: WW2.

Hedgehogs. The Hedjaz troops of Lawrence of Arabia: British army in Palestine: autumn 1918. (S.F. Hatton, The Yarn of a Yeoman, 1930.) An example of Hobson-Jobson. (P.B.)

hee. See he, 1.

hee-haw. A donkey: nursery coll.: mid-C.19–20.

Heeb. A Jew: adopted, mid-1970s, ex US. Abbr. Hebrew. The film The Life of Brian, 1979. (P.B.)

heeb, the. A post-1930 var.—and derivation—of—heebie (or -y-jeebies, the. A fit of depression or irritation: US (1927) >, by 1928, Anglicised. Ex a dance that, so named, resembled the Blues (OED Sup.); perhaps a reduplicated perversion of S.E. creepy, or the creeps: cf. the Scottish adv., heepie-creep, 'in a creeping, sneaking manner' (1873: EDD).

heef dry or wet. To fight, make a campaign, on dry land or on sea: military:—1923 (Manchon). P.B.: E.P. suggests ex dial. heaf, to settle down, to reside or live; I prefer a deriv. ex heave, on analogy with the earlier C.20 army pron. of leave (furlough), as leaf. However, as E.P. noted in the Addendum, heef was military s., esp. in India, for 'beef on the hoof'. 'The word heef became a parable for camping in the military areas and all its miseries', Rudyard Kipling, 'The Army of a Dream', in Traffics and Discoveries, 1904: the n., therefore, was current ca. 1870–90. Unless, of course, Kipling 'invented the word, to flesh out his "dream" army with appropriate slang' (Robert Claiborne, 1966); I agree with R.C.'s reading.

heel. 'A fellow who seeks your company for the sake of a free drink' (H. & P.); Services, esp. among officers: since 1940. Adopted from US airmen, ex the US sense, 'hanger-on'. 'Thus heeling, paying a heel for something' (H. & P., 1943).—2. Ex US, ca. 1938, the sense 'objectionable fellow'—esp., 'one who is untrustworthy or treacherous'. You can't usually see your heel.—3. Apparently it was at first a polite short form of shit-heel.—4. See hairly, adj., 4; not a heel!

heel and toe. To apply accelerator and then brake in rapid succession, a jerky means of progress: motorists': since late 1940s. (B.P.) A pun on heel-and-toe dancing.

heel-tap. [As liquor left in the bottom of a glass, is S.E.] The toasts take off your heel-tap! and no heel-taps!, injunctions to drain one's glass, the first mid-C.18–mid-19 (Grose, 2nd ed.), the second a C.19–20 abbr. of it; are perhaps coll.—2. Heel-taps, a London dustmen's † dance: coll.—3. Heel-taps, Etaples, a famous base in France: military: WW1. (Edmund Blunden, Undertones of War, 1928.) A good example of Hobson-Jobson; cf. Eat-Apples.

heel up, v.i. To follow behind a person: Glasgow:—1934.

heeler. A plunge, feet first, into water: Winchester College:

from ca. 1860.—2. A lurch to the side: coll.: from ca. 1890. OED Sup.—3. Hence, a boat inclined to lurch thus: coll.: 1926 (OED Sup.).—4. A fast sailing-ship: nautical coll.: late C.19–20. (Bowen.) Prob. ex dial. heeler, a quick runner.—5. A cattle dog: Aus. coll., esp. in NSW: late C.19–20. They snap at the heels of the animals they herd' (Dr J.W. Sutherland, 1940).

heels. His heels, the knave of trumps: cribbage s. > j.: late C.18–20. (Grose, 1796.) Cf. nob, q.v.—2. In kick, or lay or tip or topple or turn, up (one's) heels, to die: coll. The last, much the most gen., C.16–20, e.g. Nashe, in Price Penniless; topple, late C.16–19, in Nashe's Lenten Stuff; none of the others outside C.17–19.—3. See cool (one's) heels; kick (one's) heels; lift (one's) heels; bless the world with (one's) heels.

Heffer, the. 'A desk diary published by W. Heffer & Sons [the famous booksellers]' (D.F. Wharton, 1965): University of Cambridge: since ca. 1950.

hefty. Big and strong: coll.: orig. US—Moe cites Rebecca Harding Davis's 'Waiting for the Verdict' in The Galaxy (IV, 336), July 1867, 'This water's gettin' too hefty for me'; adopted in UK ca. 1905. (Thornton defines it as 'heavy, bulky', which prob. derives ex Eng. dial., but in Eng. coll. usage the connotation of strength is essential, unless the ref. is to a thing—and then the tendency is to join it to another adj. as in 'a hefty great book'). P.B.: EDD notes it as E. Anglian dial., applying to rough weather, late C.19–20, and derives it ex Ger. heftig.—2. Hence, adv.: exceedingly: coll.: late C.19–20. OED Sup.

heifer. A woman, gen. a girl: low coll.: C.19–early 20.—2. A charwoman: Charterhouse: † by 1900, as A.H. Tod notes in his Charterhouse.

heifer-dust. Airy or meaningless talk: Aus.: since ca. 1930. (B., 1942.) Prob. adopted ex US; certainly it was, at first, euph. for bullshit; also Can., but not common. Aus has synon. bull-dust (D'Arcy Niland, 1955).

heifer-paddock. A school for older girls: Aus.: ca. 1880–1900. Mrs Campbell Praed, Australian Life, 1885, 'I shall look over a heifer-paddock in Sydney, and take my pick.'

heigh-ho. Stolen yarn: Norwich c.: ca. 1855–1910. Ex the form of apprising the 'fence' (q.v.) of stolen yarn. H., 2nd ed. heights of connubial bliss, scale the. If joc., it is coll.: otherwise, obviously, it is a weak S.E. euph. C.19–early 20. heighth. Height: in late C.18–early 19, it was coll.; since ca. 1860, it has been low coll. >, in C.20, sol. This represents a comparatively rare spelling, a frequent pron.—until Johnson's day, in fact, a var. S.E. pron.

Heine, Heinie; occ. Hiney. The Can. (and later the US) soldiers' name for 'Fritz' or 'Jerry', qq.v.: WW1 (and after). Ex Heinrich, an extremely common Ger. first name. F. & G.

Heinz; (one of) the 57 varieties. A mongrel dog: since ca. 1925. A ref. to the 57 varieties of tinned edibles and potables manufactured by Messrs Heinz, the American food-product manufacturers.—2. Heinz varieties=57, in Bingo: since ca. 1955; earlier in Services' tombola.—3. 'Six selections in every combination of doubles, trebles, fourfolds, fivefolds and sixfolds. A total of 57 bets. So named after a famous canned food firm's 57 varieties' (John Evans, Weekend, 16 Mar. 1983): the turf: later C.20.

heist, n. Robbery, theft, and the originating v.: c. >, ca. 1965, low s. Adopted ex US. Ex hoist, perhaps via Yiddish—cf. Ger. er heisst, he hoists (R.S.).

(h)elbat. A table: back s.:—1859. 'The aspirate is a matter of taste' (H.).

helch(er)wer; helsh-. A welsher: centre s.: ca. 1860–1920. held at (occ. a) long saw. Held in suspense: coll.: ca. 1730–1830. North's Lord Guilford, 1733, 'Between the one and the other he was held at the long saw over a month.'

heli. Helicopter: journalistic: 1970s. Sunday Times mag., 25 Nov. 1979.

helicopter. A ski-ing manoeuvre. See hot-dog.

helio, n. and v. Heliograph: by coll. abbr.: from ca. 1890. Kipling, in Many Inventions; Daily News, 4 Sep. 1897, he'll. He will (cf. she'll, she will): coll. contraction: C.18–20.

'Messages had to be helio'd under a hot a fire at short range' (OED).—2. Heliotrope: coll.: from ca. 1920. OED Sup.

Hell. 'A dark corner near Third Pot, famed for its growth of violets', Wrench: Winchester College: C.19–20: prob. rather j. than eligible. Ex the Hampshire hell, a dark place in the woods.—2. Little Hell: 'A small dark covered passage, leading from London-wall to Bell-alley' (Grose, 2nd ed.): mid-C.18–early 19.—3. See Lower Tartary; Upper Tartary; Hell Passage.

hell is frequent in imprecations, esp. in hell!, go to hell!, hell's bells! (Colonial), and the quaint go to hell and pump thunder!—2. As a place of confinement, the 'den' in prisoner's base, a workman's receptacle for refuse or stolen remnants (see eye), and as a gambling house—all listed by F. & H.—it is S.E., though the third sense may, orig., have well been coll. or even c.—witness anon.'s Defence of Cony-Catching, 1592 (pp. 57–8).—3. As the female pudent, C.18–20, it is low coll.; esp. in put the devil into hell, to have sexual connexion, a 'literary' coll., ex Boccaccio.—4. In all to hell or gone to hell, utterly ruined: coll.: C.19–20.—5. Give (someone) hell, to trounce, punish severely; vituperative: coll.: since ca. 1830. In C.20 often elab., with a v. of violent action, e.g. knock, punch, thump, hell (or the hell) out of (someone), to treat that person extremely roughly, of fig., harshly. Cf.:—6. Kick up or play or raise hell or raise merry hell, to cause a (tremendous) disturbance, noise or great trouble: coll.: the first two, since ca. 1830; the third and fourth, C.19, and, in C.20 > S.E., giving rise to n. hell-raiser, one who does this. Occ. kick up (etc.) hell's delight, as intensive. A W. Can. elab., since ca. 1908, has been raise hell and slip a shingle (or shim) under one corner (or under it).—7. To hell! intensely. Always with hope or wish: low coll.: since late C.19. Nat Gould, Double Event, 1891, 'I hope to h—the horse will break his neck and his rider's too.'—8. The hell! 'To hell and the hell are often confused in the US and Canada. Apparently the abbreviated Go t' hell has been misapprehended, resulting in the ridiculous "Get the hell out of here!"' (Leechman): coll.: since ca. 1930.—9. See also: much chance as a snowball; I'll go hopping to hell; just for the hell of it; lead apes in hell at apes; like hell; not a hope in hell; silver hell; what the hell.—10. In such emphatic expressions as, e.g. 'Will I hell!' = no, I most certainly will not!: coll.: later C.20. (P.B.)

hell and high water, between. In a great difficulty: nautical coll.: C.20 (W. McFee, The Beachcomber, 1935). A deviation from S.E. between the devil and the deep sea, perhaps influenced by the cliché come hell and/or high water, come what may.

hell and spots. A C.20 var. (s. >, by 1934, coll.) of the next. Richard Blaker, Night-Shift, 1934, 'Another sort of woman could have knocked hell and spots off of you.'

hell and tommy, esp. in play h. and t. and, in C.20, like h. and t. A picturesque intensive (s. > coll.): by ca. 1930 slightly ob.; by 1980, † in UK (but see below). An early occurrence is in John L. Gardner, Sketch-Book (II, 68), 1831 (Moe). P. MacDonald, R.I.P., 1933, has var.: 'Where the devil and Tommy did I put that corkscrew?', with which cf. prec. Genesis obscure; and tommy is a tag added to (play) hell, precisely as and Betty Martin is tagged to (all) my eye. Ware, who does support Hal and Tommy (Henry VIII and Thomas Cromwell playing havoc with Church property), proposes hell and torment (by corruption or perversion), than which I have not heard, nor can I think, of a likelier origin. In Northumberland dial. (1894: EDD Sup.), play hell and tommy with = 'to set utterly at variance'. The phrase is (1950s) very much alive as an oath (hell and Tommy!) in Aus.: witness, e.g., D'Arcy Niland, Call Me ..., 1958.

hell around. To fly furiously 'all over the place': airmen's: since ca. 1915. Guy Fowler, The Dawn Patrol, 1930, 'He's been helling around the front since the start.'

hell-bending, vbl n. Preaching; esp., fervid preaching: Can.: from ca. 1910. John Beames.

hell-born babe, hell-cat, -hag, -hound, -kite. A man or a woman of a devilish character: C.16–20, ob. Perhaps orig. coll., but certainly soon S.E.

hell-box or -hole. A coll. var. of hell, a receptacle for (esp. stolen) remnants. Cf. cabbage, q.v.—2. (Only hell-box.) A galley-stove: nautical: late C.19–20. Bowen, 'Most frequently in the Canadian and American ships.'—3. A box for old, battered type: printers': C.20. Cf. hell-matter.

hell breaks loose, gen. hell is broke loose, describes extreme disorder; hell broke loose as a n. = anarchy, noisy topsyturvydom: coll. soon > S.E.: late C.16–20. Byron, in Vision of Judgement, 'And realised the phrase of "Hell broke loose".'

hell-broth. Bad liquor: (low) coll.: from ca. 1850; ob. Ex S.E. sense.

hell-cart. A hackney carriage: coll.: ca. 1630–1700. Perhaps orig. hell-cart coach.

hell-driver. A coachman: late C.17–mid-18 coll. B.E.

Hell-Fire is short for Hell-Fire Pass, which is soldiers' Hobson-Jobson for Halfaya Pass in N. Africa: 1940–3, then merely reminiscent. See quot'n at basinful, 1. hell-fire, adv. Extremely, 'damned', damnably, 'devilish': coll.:—1760; ob. C. Johnston, in Chrysal, 'The weather in summer is hell-fire hot, in winter hell-fire cold' (OED). Cf. and (?) ex hell-fired, q.v.

Hell-Fire Corner. The Dover area, subject to shelling from German guns across the Channel, 1941–4; earlier (Aug.–Sep. 1940), S.E. England, conspicuous in the Battle of Britain.—2. In WW1 the sobriquet was applied to several particularly dangerous, exposed places on the Western Front.

Hell-Fire Jack. A violent or reckless officer, not necessarily unpopular: sailing-ships' nickname: mid-C.19–20. Bowen.

hell-fired, adv. Extremely, 'damned': coll.: 1756; ob. Toldervy, in The Two Orphans, 'He is a h–ll–fir'd good creature' (OED). Ex S.E. sense.

hell for leather, often hyphenated. Desperately and vigorously (or swiftly): coll.: from ca. 1875 (W.). Kipling, The Story of the Gadsbys, 1888, 'Gaddy, take this chit to Bingle and ride hell-for-leather. I'll do you good' (Kipling Jnl, June 1983, p. 42). Perhaps out of all of a lather by leather, skin as affected by riding (W.). S.F. Hatton, in The Yarn of a Yeoman, 1930, uses the var. hell for lick.

hell hath – or holds – no fury like a woman's corns. A joc. c.p. (C.20)—punning on the famous quot'n. 'Heaven has no rage like love to hatred turn' d./Nor hell a fury like a woman scorn'd' (Wm Congreve, The Mourning Bride, 1697).

hell, Hull and Halifax – Good Lord deliver us, from. A proverbial coll. = save us from evil: C.16–20. (The most usual form is from Hull, hell, and Halifax, Good Lord deliver us!) Ex the celebrated Gibbet-Law of Halifax: this consisted in execution of prisoners and subsequent inquiry into their demerits; as early as 1586, to have had Halifax law had been extended to the procedure of inquiry made after condemnation. (Apperson, at Halifax.) See Halifax!, go to.

hell-matter. 'Matter' set in type rescued from the hell-box or box for old battered type: printers': from ca. 1865.

hell mend (him)! Curse (him)! coll.: late C.19–20.

hell of a (e.g. mess). Very much of a—. A coll. intensive: 1778 (SOD). Cf. devil of a—, and:

hell of a note!, that's a. It's a grave situation: Can. c.p., adopted, ca. 1950, ex US. (Leechman.) Out of tune.

hell or Connaught. See go to hell or Connaught!

Hell over the Hill. RMC, Sandhurst: Wellington College boys': ca. 1850–80. Major A.F. Mockler-Ferryman, Annals of Sandhurst, 1900.

Hell (late C.19); Hell Passage (C.20). St Helen's Passage, Oxford: undergraduates'. Collinson.

'hell' said the Duchess. A c.p., the point of which was its incongruity (cf. a modern example, cited in Michaels and Hicks (eds), The State of the Language, 1980: 'Well, ta-ta, your Holiness'): since ca. 1895; esp. popular among officers in WW1, and still far from ob. Elaborations are (Brit.)... when (or as) she caught her teats (later C.20 prefers tits) in the mangle, and (Can.)... as she flung down her cigar. A further var. is 'hell' said the Duke, pulling the Duchess on like a jack-boot (or a sweaty old sea-boot): C.20, but this properly follows on 'fuck me!' said the Duchess, q.v. See DCpp. for allusive uses within the literary world.

hell-scrappers. Shrapnel: a Boer name: 1899–1901. J. Milne, The Epistles of Atkins, 1902.

hell-ship. A ship with brutal officers: nautical coll.: late C.19–20. Bowen, 'Borrowed from the Americans'.

hell week. A husband's or boy-friend's term for bad week, q.v.

Hell with the fire gone out. 'Aden has been compared by wicked men, to "H— with the fire gone out"' (Albert Smith, To China and Back, his diary entry for 25 July 1858).

hellish, adv. 'Sometimes a mere coarse intensive' (OED): coll.: from ca. 1750.

hellishun, adv. Very: Aus. children's: since ca. 1920. (B., 1942.) Cf. hangashun, obviously a euph. for adv. hellish or hellishly.

hellite. A professional gambler: coll. (—1838) >, ca. 1870, S.E.; ob. by 1900, † by 1920. 'Ducange Anglicus'.

hello. See hullo.

helluva, helluva, heluva. Hell of a: coll. slurring, as in A.A. Milne, Two People, 1931, 'Making a heluva bad job of it'; or in the c.p. 'that's a helluva way to run a railroad!' It can also = 'hellishly', i.e. extremely—or (no more than) very: low, esp. Glaswegian: from ca. (? earlier than) 1919. MacArthur & Long, 'They're looking helluva well too, aren't they?'

hell's angel. (Usu. in pl.) One of an intimidating gang of young men on powerful motorcycles, characterised particularly by the wearing of black leather jackets decorated with metal studs, and other eccentricities of dress, a fashion popularised by the US film The Wild Ones, 1954. The motorcycle gang movement developed until it became organised into 'chapters'; hence the name chapter herald for a hell's angel (from Wesley's familiar Christmas hymn, 'Hark, the herald angels sing...'). Also known as leather jacks—cf. the S.E. term for the grub of the crane-fly—and coffee-bar cowboys. (Dunford; P.B.) Hell's Angels was orig. the title of a film, 1930, about the air war over the Western Front, WW1.

hell's bells! Hell!: coll.: late C.19–20; orig. Colonial. In 1932, at Sydney, Lieut Joe Maxwell brought out his typically Australian war-book, Hell's Bells and Mam'selles. By rhyme: cf. here's cheers! Also in construction (C.20) as in 'Regular hell's bells of a fuss' (H.C. Bailey, Mr Fortune Wonders, 1932). P.B.: sometimes elab. (usu. mock-)ferociously to hell's bells and buckets of blood!: mid-C.20.

hell's delight. As in 'She would kick up hell's delight' (Sessions, Apr. 1835). See hell, 6.—2. As exclam. it = hell!: since ca. 1880.

hell's kitchen. A ship that, below deck, tended, even in temperate zones, to be intolerably hot: nautical, esp. RN lowerdeck, coll.: late (? mid-)C.19–20. Knock.

hell's like! 'Like hell!': a coll. intensive: C.20. (John Brophy, Waterfront, 1934.) Cf. 'eck as like.

hell's own, adj. and adv. Intense(ly), as in 'hell's own busy': since ca. 1930. Prob. of Public Schools' orig. (P.B.)

hell's teeth! A mild exclam. that can be made to sound quite vicious: since late C.19. (P.B.)

Helluva (or Hell of a) Bellow Chorus, the. The Hallelujah Chorus in Handel's Messiah: C.20. Derivative among the unmusical. (Petch, 1974.) I knew it as the 'Hullabaloo Chorus'. See helluva.

help, v. With can, could, often erroneously with not omitted: coll.: from ca. 1860. Whateley, 'In colloquial language it is common to hear persons say, "I won't do so-and-so more than I can help," meaning, more than I can not help,' as when J.H. Newman, in his Apologia, wrote, 'Your name shall occur again as little as I can help, in the course of these pages' (OED). See esp. Fowler.

help! A derisory exclam. on hearing a tall story: rare before C.20. (So help me God > coll. only in its corrupted forms, e.g. s'elp me Bob: see s'elp.)

help in. To join in (a gang fight): Teddy boys' coll.: late 1940s—early 50s. Observer, 1 Mar. 1959.

help me out?, can (or will) you. A polite request for a small loan of money: since late 1940s. In 1962, Julian Franklyn told me of a Soho café that had the notice, 'Of course I'll help you out. Which way did you come in?'

help! sharks! See too late! too late!

help yourself! Just as you please!; please yourself!: c.p.: from ca. 1917. Richard Blaker, Enter, a Messenger, 1926. 'Often said in reply to "Can I use your 'phone?"' (Petch, 1967.) Cf. be my guest!

helpa. An apple: back s.:—1859 (H., 1st ed.). The h is optional: cf. helbat.

helping foot!, he deserves a. He needs kicking: ironic c.p.:—1923 (Manchon).

helping Uncle Antony to kill dead mice. Wasting one's time; idling: coll.: early C.20. C. Lee, Our Little Town, 1909 (Apperson).

helpless. (Very) drunk: coll.: from ca. 1860. Cf. gravelled and paralytic.

helsh(er)wer. See helch(er)wer.

helter-skelter, n. A privateer: RN: C.19. (Bowen.) Ex his methods: see the adv.—2. An air-raid shelter: (mostly Londoners') rhyming s.: 1939+. New Statesman, 30 Aug. 1941.

[helter-skelter, adv., is by B.E. and Grose regarded as coll.: in their time, ca. 1690–1800, it prob. was. Etym. unsolved: I tread helter, to put a halter on (cf. dial. heltering, the breaking-in of colts), to hang, + kelter, order,—hence, in defiance of order (the s being euphonic); helter-kelter is, by the way, found in the Essex and Kentish diall.]

helluva. See helluva.

helve. See send the axe...

hemispheres. The female breasts: 'literary' coll. when not a mere euph.: C.19–20.

hemp, hempy, hemp-seed or -string, like stretch-hemp, a candidate for the gallows, rarely a halter, are rather S.E. than coll. (although hempy, it seems prob., was orig. coll.). The same holds for hempen candle, circle, collar, cravat, croak, garter, habeas, necktie, the hangman's noose, a halter; for hempen fortune, bad luck, i.e. death by the gallows; and for Randolph's hempen squincy, hanging. Young hemp, 'an appellation for a graceless boy' (Grose, 1785), was late C.18—early 19 coll.; coll. also was the rare wag hemp in the wind, to be hanged, which occurs in Sir Thomas Moore's writing: ca. 1530–1620. The later, mid-C.19—early 20, c. version was simply stretch the hemp. Cf. hempen fever. —2. Marijuana: (mostly teenage) drug addicts': since ca. 1955. This drug is extracted from a plant resembling hemp, and the term is merely an ellipsis for American s. Indian hemp.

hemp is growing for the villain, the. A c.p. applied to a rogue: C.19. (Bee.) Earlier, hemp is grown for you (Ware).

hempen bridle. A ship's rope or rigging: coll.: C.18.

hempen fever, die of a. To be hanged: mid-C.18—mid-19: (? s. >) low coll. Grose, 1st ed.; Ainsworth, 'Three of her [four] husbands died of hempen fevers.' Cf. Nashe's hempen circle, Skelton's hempen snare (Onions), Hoccleve's hempen lane, and Dekker's hempen tragedies.

hempen widow. A woman widowed by the gallows: late C.17—mid-19: (? s. >) low coll.; perhaps orig. c. B.E., Grose, Ainsworth.

Hempire, the. The British Commonwealth of Nations: C.20: sometimes joc.; sometimes disparaging.

hen, n. A woman: from ca. 1620: joc. s. > coll.—2. A mistress: same period; ob.: low. Brome.—3. Drink-money: Cockney:—1892; ob. Milliken.—4. Its use as a mode of address, or as an endearment, is, unless joc., dial. (P.B.)—5. As Hen, a (German) Henschel aircraft: RAF: 1940+. (Partridge, 1945.) Cf. He, Me and You.

hen, v. To act cautiously, e.g. towards the law: (?)ca. 1800–60. (Bill Truck, Dec. 1825.) A hen is much less quarrelsome than a cock.

hen, adj. Female: beatniks': late 1950s—early 1960s. Anderson.

Hen and Chickens, the. See Queen's Arms.

hen-cackle. A mountain easy to climb: NZ mountaineers': C.20. (B., 1941.) Difficult enough to cause a cackle among the women. Cf.:—2. In a mere hen cackle, a trifle: NZ: C.20. B., 1941.

hen-convention or -tea. See hen-party.

hen-frigate. A ship 'bossed' by the captain's wife: nautical:—1785; ob. (Grose, 1st ed.) Cf. hen-house, q.v.; but prob. an abbr. of B.E.'s hen-pecked frigate.

hen-fruit. Eggs, collectively: Can.: C.20. (John Beames.) Cf.

hen's fruit and cackle-berry, qq.v.

hen-house. A house in which the woman rules; also called a she-house (cf. hen-frigate, above): coll.:—1785; ob. by 1870, † by 1900. Grose, 1st ed.—2. A building in which live soldiers' wives: military: C.20. Manchon.

hen-party. An assemblage of women: coll. (orig. low): from ca. 1885. Occ. -convention or -tea. Cf. bitch-, cat-, tabby-party.

hen-peck (or henpeck), n. A hen-pecked husband: domestic coll.: since ca. 1920.

hen-peck, v. (Of a wife) to rule, domineer over the husband: coll.: 1688 (SOD). Byron. Ex:

hen-pecked. Ruled, domineered over by a wife: coll.: 1680, 'Hudibras' Butler (SOD); B.E. gives hen-pecked frigate (see hen-frigate) and hen-pecked husband; Spectator, no. 479, 'Socrates... the undoubted head of the sect of the hen-pecked'. Perhaps suggested by the C.16–18 proverb, It is a sad house where the hen crows louder than the cock.

hen-roost. That gallery in the old chapel (1872–1927) in which the masters' wives used to sit: Charterhouse (School): from ca. 1880; ob.

hen-toed. With one's feet turned in as one walks: coll.: C.19–20; ob. Cf. the commoner pigeon-toed.

hen wife. See old haybag.

hence the pyramids! A c.p., applied to a non sequitur or uttered as an ironic joc. non sequitur: late C.19–20. Ex the very rude, very droll recitation entitled 'The Showman', in which occurs the passage, "I will now show you the camel. This peculiar animal eats mud, shits bricks, and has a triangular arse-hole. Hence the Pyramids." (The whole may be found in B. & P., repub., 1965, as The Long Trail.)

Henri Clark. To flatter: theatrical; esp. at Drury Lane: 1883—ca. 90. Ware, 'From the flattering stage-mode of a singer of this name'.

Henry. Occ. used as a mock-solemnity for HARRY, q.v. in the Appendix.—2. Heroin: drugs world. (Observer, 24 Apr. 1983.) Prob. an extension of H.—3. See look for Henry.

Henry Hase. A bank or currency note: 1820, W.J. Moncrieff, The Collegians: 'A twenty pound Henry Hase'. In Boxiana, IV, 1824, it occurs in a var. form, 'When to pass on the whip-hand makes his tender in browns, or glister, Harry Hase or bender.' Cf. Abraham Newland and bradbury.

Henry Meville. Devil: rhyming s.: since 1887. Prompted—? originated—by 'Tottie', a Dagonet ballad written by G.R. Sims and pub. in the Referee, 7 Nov. 1887: 'What the Henry Meville/Do you think you're doing there?' Franklin 2nd.

Henry Nash. Cash: rhyming s.: C.20.

Henry Sophister. See Harry-Soph.

hens. 'Gillygate end of old 3rd and 4th XI's playing pitch' (Bootham, 1925).

hens and bitches. Bends and hitches: RNVR rhyming s.: WW1. (Gordon Maxwell, The Motor Launch Patrol, 1920.) Orig. a spoonerism.

hens and chickens. Pewter measures; esp. quarts and pints: c.:—1851; ob. Mayhew.

hen's fruit and hog's body. Bacon and egg(s): RN stewards': from ca. 1925. Sunday Chronicle, 1 Mar. 1942.

hens' teeth, as scarce as. Very scarce indeed: mostly Aus.: late C.19–20. (B.P.) John Smith, of Bath, 1981, notes the Eng. var. as rare as hens' teeth.

hep. In the know; having good taste: Brit. jazz-lovers', since

ca. 1945; ex Can. jazz-musicians' and -lovers', who adopted it, ca. 1925, ex US. Cf. hep cat and hip, qq.v. Ultimately ex the ploughman's, or the driver's, hep! to his team of horses ('Get up!'); the horses 'get hep'—lively, alert. In US, hence Can. rural dial. of late C.19–20, 'He's mighty hep' = he's very shrewd.—2. Hence, alert and progressive and well-informed: beatniks' (as in 'hep doll') and others', esp. teenagers': late 1950s—early 60s. Anderson.

hep! 'Left!' in military commands, as being so much easier to pronounce explosively: C.20.

hep cat. See jive, in Appendix. A jazz 'fiend' (swing music): adopted in Can. ca. 1925, in Brit. ca. 1935, ex US; ob. by 1950. (Observer, 16 Sep. 1956.) Superseded by hipster.

her ladyship. See his lordship and cf. (at my gentleman) my lady. This is a working-class disparagement of a 'stuck-up' female: coll.: C.20.

Her Majesty. 'A sneering reference to prudish and stand-offish girl or woman. A parody on Her Majesty' (Petch): late C.19–20.

Her Majesty's carriage. A prison van: ca. 1880–1901; then His M. c., ob. Baumann.

Her (or His) Majesty's hospitality. Gaol. See partake of...

Her or His Majesty's naval police. See naval police.

Her Majesty's tobacco pipe. The furnace in which forfeited tobacco from the Customs is burnt: ca. 1850–80. (Echo, 27 Jan. 1871.) This wasteful custom was changed ca. 1880 and the forfeited tobacco went to workhouses (? always).

herb. Cannabis: drug-users': later C.20. Home Office.

herbaceous border. A RN sloop of the Flower class: RN officers': 1915–8. Bowen.

Herbert. A chap, a fellow, a guy: mildly pej.: C.20. Usu. pron 'Erbert and sometimes shortened to 'Erb, q.v.

herbs. Oats: Aus. racing: C.20; by 1960, ob. 'When a horse became sluggish, it was given more "herbs"' (B.P.).—2. Hence, power of engine or motor: Aus. motorists': since ca. 1930.—2. In good or sweet herbs or erbs. Excellent(!y): a c.p. attrib. by Manchon, 1923, mostly to postmen.

herder. An employee that, at a station, couples and uncouples rolling-stock: Can. railroadmen's:—1931. Ex ranching.

here. Redundant between this and its n. (cf. that there, e.g. thing): mid-C.18–20 sol. Foote, in The Orators, 'I should be glad to know how my client can be tried in this here manner' (OED). Ex this, e.g., thing here, where here is added for emphasis: cf. Fr. ce(lte)...-ci or -là.—2. Redundant after belong, as in 'I'm a stranger, I don't belong here': coll.: from ca. 1890. OED.—3. Cf. here, as n. = this place, as 'Between here and London': coll.: C.19–20. OED Sup.—4. In I'm not here, I feel disinclined for work or conversation: tailors': ca. 1860–1915.

here and there. Hair: Aus. rhyming s.: C.20. (A.A. Martin, letter, 1937.)

here-and-thereian. A 'rolling stone': coll.: ca. 1700–1860. Cibber, Grose (2nd ed.).

Here-before-Christ Company, the. 'The Hudson's Bay Company, ex initials and long presence in Canada' (Leechman, who cites an early occurrence in R.B. Johnson, Very Far West Indeed, 1872, "I calc'late "H.B.C." to mean "Here before Christ".'); by 1960, ob.

here comes the bride! 'A jocular catchphrase, used when an engagement is announced' (Petch): since ca. 1920. P.B.: cf. the children's parody, 'Here comes the bride/All fat and wide;/See how she wobbles/from side to side.'

here endeth the first lesson. A (non-Catholic) c.p., used by the bored after a long speech or lecture or gratuitous exposition: since ca. 1870.

here goes! (In C.20 often prec. by well!) Now for it!; there's not much chance, but I'll try: coll.: since late C.18, if not earlier. Moe cites Edinburgh Weekly Magazine, 16 Oct. 1783.—2. Hence a toast, equivalent to here's how! The Port Folio, 6 Sep. 1806 (p. 144) reprints an unidentified British song, with the lines, 'So here goes what the world appals,/Old England and her wooden walls' (fighting ships). Moe.

here he comes – the man they couldn't hang. An Aus. c.p., directed at a man approaching a group of people: since ca. 1920. (B.P.)

here we (or you) are! This is what's needed: coll.: both from ca. 1845.

here we are again! A C.20 c.p.; orig. (from ca. 1880) a form of greeting. Possibly originated by Harry Paine (?Payne), that clown who, at Drury Lane in the 1870s and 80s, began the Boxing Night harlequinade with a somersault and a cheerful 'here we are again!' See esp. DCpp.

here (or yere) they come smoking their pipes! A c.p. by Billingsgate fish-buyers when, at auctions, the bids were rapid and high: 1870s. Ware, 'It probably meant independence and determination.'

here we come, mum – dad's on the axle. A schoolboys' c.p., current since ca. 1910 and expressing delight at speed on bicycle or scooter, hence at completion of some other activity.

here we go! or, implying repetition, here we go again! A c.p.: late (?mid-)C.19–20. (Petch, 1966.) P.B.: the latter phrase usu. in tones of resignation or disgust. Cf., with the first, here goes!

Herefords. 'Used at Birch Coppice and Desford [S. Midlands collieries] to denote the oncoming shift; a reference to their white faces. Also known as the others' (Pit-Talk, ed. W. Forster, 1970). Ex the distinctive breed of cattle; cf. Grasshoppers, q.v.

Herefordshire weed. An oak: (when not Herefordshire dial.) coll.:—1860 (EDD). Cf. synon. Sussex weed.

here's ... introduces many toasts, e.g.: here's cheers!:—1931 (Lyell); ... fun!: C.20; ... God bless us!: C.20; ... hair on your chest!: Can.: since ca. 1920 (Leechman); ... jolly good luck!: C.20 (Lyell); ... hoping!: WW1 and 2; ... how!: late C.19–20 (?used before Kipling, Seven Seas, 1896); ... looking!: late C.19–20: short for ... looking towards you!: id.; ... luck!: C.20; ... more hair on your navell!: Aus.: C.20; ... to it!: indelicately anatomical: C.19–20; ... to you!: in some form or other, from late C.16. At first coll. (with ellipsis of a toast); by 1700, S.E.; ... stuff in your latch-key: RAF officers': WW2 (Terence Rattigan, Flare Path, 1942); See here's mud ...

here's a couple of match-sticks. A mostly workmen's c.p. addressed to someone sleepy early in the day: late C.19–20. To prop open his eyelids.

here's a five-pound note for you. A c.p. addressed to someone receiving mail obviously consisting of bill(s) and/or circular(s): C.20.

here's a ha'penny (or a penny) – don't spend it all at one shop (or ... all at once)! A joc. (to the adult—infuriating to the child) c.p. accompanying a small gift to a young child: late C.19—earlier 20; the sum stated: killed by inflation; but don't spend it all at once! is still current, 1983, when handing out very small change among adults. (E.P.; P.B.)

here's luck! See here's ... —2. 'I don't believe you!': tailors': later C.19.

here's mud in your eye! An officers' toast, prob. orig., ca. 1915, in the filthy trenches of the Western Front: taken into 'civvy street', but ob. by ca. 1950. The here's has often been omitted, even since very early days. One of the earliest written references is provided by H.V. Morton, In Search of England, 1927, p. 71.

here's my (or me) head, my (or me) arse is comin(g). A workman's c.p., dating from ca. 1895, but, owing to the lesser frequency of the female type, not much used since 1940: in ref. to a girl or woman that, wearing high heels, walks with the head and shoulders well forward and with buttocks (esp. if shapely or buxom) well behind. Orig., of any forward-sloping person. 'Oh, he's all here's me head, me arse is comin''—he walks very much head-forward: esp. the Midlands: late C.19–20. (Richard Merry.) here's Peter the Painter! See Peter the Painter.

here's where you want it! with one's head touched or indicated. A c.p. = you must use your brains: since ca. 1910.

heresy-shop. A Nonconformist church: Roman Catholic priests': C.19–20. Cf. schism-shop, q.v.

Herman Finck. Ink: theatrical rhyming s.: C.20. Franklyn, Rhyming.

hermaphrodite brig. See schooner orgy.

hermaphy. A hermaphrodite: joc. diminutive, used in medical circles: C.20.

hermit, or bald-headed h. The male member: low: C.19–20, ob.—2. In gipsy s., a highwayman: C.19. Longfellow.

herohotic. (Of novels) sexually outspoken: literary: 1897—ca. 1900. (Ware.) Punning erotic and hot (amorous) hero.

herring. In neither or no or never a or, gen., the devil a barrel the better herring, all (gen. bad) alike: proverbial coll.: mid-C.16–20. Bale, in his play, King John, ca. 1540; Jonson, Fielding, FitzGerald (Apperson).—2. See dead as a door-nail; sprat to catch a herring, ...

Herring Choker. 'A man or ship from New Brunswick' (Leechman): nautical: late C.19–20.

herring fleet, the. 'The flock of wives and marriageable girls who followed the Fleet from home waters to Malta on its summer cruise': RN officers': late C.19—mid-20. 'Double pun on fleet and her ring (anatomical)'. G. Hackforth-Jones, Sixteen Bells, 1948. (Peppitt.) See also fishing fleet.

herring-gutted. Tall and very thin: coll.: C.18—mid-19. Arbuthnot.—2. 'Gutless' (lacking courage): coll.: mid-C.19—mid-20.

herring-hog. A porpoise: nautical coll.: mid-C.19–20. (Bowen.) Ex dial.

Herring-Pond, be sent across the, or cross the H.-P. at the King's expense. To be transported (—1785): coll.; perhaps orig. c.: † by 1870. (Grose, 1st ed.) By itself, herring pond, the sea, or H.-P., the North Atlantic Ocean (1616), is joc. S.E. rather than coll. (In Cornish, herring-pool.)

herrings in. A coll. ellipsis for '... tomato sauce': RN: since ca. 1940. (Peppitt.)—2. Hence, 'a query when offering a cup of tea or coffee: herrings in? or just herrings? = with or without sugar: RN: since ca. 1965. (Peppitt.) For usage, cf. the Fr. café avec, with du rhum understood.

herrings in a barrel, like. Very crowded; packed very close: coll. (—1891): ob., the post-WW1 preference being for like sardines (in a tin).

Hertfordshire kindness. An acknowledgment—or a return in kind—of favours received; also and esp. a drinking twice to the same man: coll.: ca. 1660–1830. (B.E., Swift, Grose.) Ex a Hertfordshire custom, says Fuller in his Worthies.

Herts Guards, the. The Hertfordshire Territorials of the Bedfordshire Regiment: military: late 1915–18. (F. & G.) From Oct. 1914 to Aug. 1915 they served with the 4th Guards Brigade.

he's a poet! A c.p. directed at a male whose hair is long: C.20—until long hair became the fashion, in the 1960s.

he's a prince! He's the best of good fellows: Can. c.p.: since ca. 1930.

he's gone north about. He's dead. See north about, at north.

he's got it up there. See this is where you want it.

he's got ten bob each way on himself. Female teenagers' c.p. used to 'deflate' a conceited young man: late 1950s. (Gilderdale.) Cf. get you!

he's not so well since he fell off the organ. A joc., communal c.p. addressed to a man present: C.20. The ref. is to the organ-grinder's monkey: 'with a sexual double entendre.

he's saving them all for Lisa (or Liza)! A now ob. c.p. applied, from before 1909, by the lower classes to 'a good young man who will not use oaths or strike blows' (Ware). Ex the youth who wouldn't give a beggar a penny because he was saving them all for his girl.

Heselrigge's Lobsters. The first recorded nickname of the Royal Horse Guards (The Blues), raised by Sir Arthur Heselrigge in the Northern Counties in 1650 on instructions from Oliver Cromwell. Carew.

hess-u-hen! 'A way of asking for a copy of the Sun newspaper' (Ware, 1909): lower middle classes': † by 1920. I.e. s u n.

het. A shortening of hetero. In, e.g., a letter from G. and P. Phillips in Radio Times, 21 Feb. 1976. (P.B.)

het-up; often all het-up. Excited; 'in a state': adopted (as a coll.), ca. 1935, from US. I.e. heated up. Contrast steamed-up.

hetero, adj. and n. Heterosexual: coll.: since late 1940s. 'All kinds of fun and games, hetero and homo.' Cf.:-

heterers. Heterosexuals: s.: mid-C.20. Philip Larkin, in Guardian, 23 Mar. 1980 (J.B. Mindel).

hevethoe. A thief: centre s.: ca. 1860–1930.

hex (esp. put a hex on). To lay a spell upon a person or, e.g., a machine: Aus. (and occ. Brit.): adopted, ca. 1950, ex US. 'Directly from German [Hexe, a witch], via the Pennsylvania Dutch (i.e., Deutsch) dialect. Barns in East Pennsylvania still are occasionally painted with "hex signs" (to ward off witchcraft) and as late as 1930s there were occasional "hex murders"—i.e. of supposed witches' (Claiborne, 1976).

hey! See hay!

hey(-)diddle(-)diddle. A violin: rhyming s. on fiddle: late C.19–20. Cf. hi-diddle..., q.v.

hey-gammer-cock, play at. To coit: C.18–early 19. C. Johnson.

hey, Mudder, give my brudder the udder udder! This Can. c.p., used almost as a tongue-twister and clearly issuing from one, has been current since ca. 1930, although never—for rather obvious reasons—very gen. P.B.: not unknown in UK; I heard it at preparatory school ('for the sons of gentlemen') in the early 1940s.

hey-nonny-no. Female pudend: ca. 1590–1750. E.g. in a ballad in John Aubrey's Lives.

heye-glass weather, it's. It's foggy: a proletarian c.p. aimed at the wearer of a monocle or eye-glass: 1860; very ob. Ware.

hi! Of Can. coll. usage, Dr Douglas Leechman, in 1959, remarked: 'This is becoming almost the universal informal greeting. Juveniles use it, even when first introduced, and babes in arms will answer "Hi!" when spoken to.'

hi-de-hi, greeting, answered by ho-de-ho (Gerald Kersh, They Die with Their Boots Clean, 1941). Hi there!: ho (or hullo) there!

hi- (or 'i-)diddle-diddle. The middle, as 'right in the i-diddle-diddle': rhyming s.: C.20. (L.R. Rogers, 1980.)

hi-fi. Of a gramophone recording, tape recorders, etc.: having high fidelity in tone and pitch: since the middle 1950s: coll. <, by 1960, S.E.

hi-jack (in later C.20, usu. hijack), v.t. (Of one criminal) forcibly to deprive (another criminal) of booty: c.: adopted ca. 1931 ex US, where orig. and mostly of one bootlegger's robbing another on the highway. Pawnshop Murder. —2. To seize ('kidnap') an aeroplane: since early 1970s. The derivative skyjack is rather journalistic j. than true s.

hi-jacker. One who acts as in prec., 1: c.: adopted, ca. 1932, ex US. (Pawnshop Murder.) For American usage and suggested etym., see esp. Irwin (next entry).

hi, Rube! 'The signal given to circus people that rubes (townies [q.v.]) are causing trouble': Can. circus s., adopted, ca. 1925, ex US. See, e.g., that unjustly forgotten book, Godfrey Irwin's American Tramps' and Underworld Songs and Slang, 1931 (pub. in London by E.P., and then by Sears in NY). For Can. usage, Leechman quotes Islander (Victoria, BC), 19 Dec. 1971.

Hi-You. A WW1 Brit. army nickname for Canadians (and Americans). Ex a frequent form of address.

Hibs, the. The Hibernian Football Club: sporting: C.20. —2. The Hibernians, an Irish political group: Anglo-Irish: 1914; ob.

hic is a slovenly spelling (e.g. in Street-Robberies Consider'd, 1728) of hick.

hiccus-doccus, hictus-doctus, hixius-doxius, etc., the variants being unrecorded after ca. 1790. A juggler; a trickster, a shifty fellow: c.: ca. 1678–1810. (Butler, Wycherley.) Either an artificial word of spurious L. (cf. hocus-pocus), or a corruption of hicce est doctus. The term was orig. (1676, Shadwell) and frequently used in jugglers' patter.

hiccus-doccus or -doctus, etc. Slovenly: ca. 1730–1800. North, in the Examen, 'The author with his hiccus-doxius delivery'. —2. Drunk: ca. 1780–1820. (Grose, 1st ed.) Perhaps ex hick, to hiccup.

[Hiccobites, a C.18 drinking club, is s. by formation: hiccup-ites.]

hiccup, n. A fault in administration: Service officers': since ca. 1965. (P.B., 1974.)

hick. An (easy) prey to sharpers: c.: ca. 1685–1750. B.E. —2. Whence, a—gen. simple—countryman: s. > coll.: ca. 1680–1830: now mostly US: see esp. Irwin. Ex the familiar by-form of Richard, as Bob is of Robert. This sense is common in Aus. since ca. 1890.

hick(a)boo. A air-raid; a warning that an air-raid is imminent: RFC: 1916+. (F. & G.); Manchon suggests corruption of an Indian word for eagle, while Leechman proposes an alteration of peekaboo.

Hickenbothom, Mr. 'A ludicrous name for an unknown person, similar to that of Mr. Thingamob' (Grose): coll. (—1791); † by 1890. Grose's etym., Ickenbaum (an oak-tree), is nonsense; the word is perhaps a pun on hick, q.v., and bottom, the buttocks.

Hickery-pickery. Hiera picra (a purgative drug): low coll., or sol.: C.19–20.

hickety. Rough: trowlermen's: C.20. D. Butcher, Trawlermen, 1980, glossary.

hickey, n. (Often elab. to do-hickey.) A 'thingummy, what-chermaclait': NZ: late C.19–20. (B., 1941.) Perhaps influenced by a Maori word, but the form do-hickey has long been common in the mid-west US. —2. An unsophisticated person: Aus.: since ca. 1943. (Ruth Park, 1950.) Ex hick, 2. —3. A long, hard, 'suction' kiss that raises a blister; hence the blister so caused: Can.: since ca. 1930 (?). Origin?

hickey, adj. (Not quite) drunk: late C.18–19: low (? orig. c.); more US than Eng. (Grose, 1st ed.) Ex hiccus-doccus, adj., or else ex dial. hick, to hiccup.

hickey(-)hockey. A jockey: Aus. sporting rhyming s.: since ca. 1920. Lawson Glassop, Lucky Palmer, 1949.

hickitserpu. A sticker-up (esp. of skittles): centre s.: from ca. 1860; ob. (? by 1900).

hickory. A taximeter. See clock, n., 4.

hicra-picra. Hiera picra: sol., or low coll.:—1857 (OED). See hickery-pickery.

hictus-doccus. A late C.17 var. of hiccus-doccus.

hidden treasure. A landlady's husband that, rarely seen, does much work below stairs: joc.: C.20.

Hide, the. The Covered Market: Caledonian Market pitchholders': C.20. Jane Brown, I Had a Pitch on the Stones, 1946.

hide, n. The human skin: O.E.—mod. Eng.: S.E. >, ca. 1710, low coll. C. Coffey, in The Devil to Pay, 1731, 'Come, and spin, you drab, or I'll tan your hide for you.' —2. Impudence; excessive self-assurance: Aus.: C.20. Jice Doone.—3. A hide-out: coll. > j. of, e.g., bird-watchers: since ca. 1910. Revival of M.E. sense (SOD). In WW2, esp. a hide-out for vehicles—against enemy aircraft (P-G-R). —4. In all hide, (of cattle) mere skin and bone: Aus. coll.: since ca. 1870. B., 1942.

hide, v. To flog, thrash: low coll., prob. ex dial: C.19. 'I was afraid to go back to my vessel as the captain would hide me for loosing my clothes' (Sessions, 1825). Ex tan (one's) hide, to thrash.

hide and find. That strap trick in which the gull is invited to put a pencil into the loop of a strap: c.: from ca. 1885. Anstey, The Man from Blankley's, 1901.

hide and seek, he plays at. 'A saying of one who is in fear of being arrested... and therefore does not choose to appear in public' (Grose, 1785); ob. by 1860, † by 1890. (Hide and seek, as a game, has, in dial., at least thirteen variants.)

hide the snobbery. To conceal bad workmanship. See snobbery.

hide-up, n. A 'hide-out' (hiding-place): Aus.: since ca. 1920. B., 1942.

hide up, v. (Of police or other authorities) to defend or shield (a wrongdoer): c.: from ca. 1920. Edgar Wallace, The Flying Squad.

hideously. Very: mostly Society: from ca. 1920. Denis MacKail, Greenery Street, 1925, 'It was so hideously awkward.' Cf. fearfully.

hidey (or highdy or hidyy)!—How are you?: Aus. and elsewhere: since ca. 1935. (B., 1942.) Adopted from US, it > how d'ye do; cf. hi-de-hi.

hidey hole. A hiding-place: children's coll.: mid C.19–20. A hole to hide in.—2. 'Also a place to hide things in' (Leechman): late C.19–20.

hiding. A thrashing; occ. from ca. 1890, a heavy defeat. Low coll.: 1809 (SOD). 'When you get home, Jack, you'll get a hiding for not going to school' (heard in Hull by a correspondent to the Gentleman's Magazine, 1825, pt I, p. 395).

hiding to nothing, (be) on a. (To be) confronted with a thrashing (lit., whence also fig.), without the slightest chance of avoiding or escaping it; to face virtually impossible odds. I don't clearly remember hearing it until the early 1960s, although I faintly recall it as early as ca. 1955; nor have I yet (late 1976) seen it in print. It was the justly eminent 'Bob' Burchfield who, in autumn 1976, asked me about its longevity, and thus 'set up' this belated entry. P.B.: E.P. may be right in his recollection, but the phrase did not, I think, become widespread until it was suddenly the vogue in the earlier 1970s. 'It appeared in print in a headline in The Sunday Times, 25 Sep. 1977' (Sir Edward Playfair).

higgledy-piggledy, adv. and adj. In a confused jumble: coll.: late C.16–20: from ca. 1895, S.E. Florio; Miss Broughton, in Nancy, 'We are all higgledy-piggledy—at sixes and sevens.' Johnson, 'corrupted from higgle... any confused mass', and therefore connected with higgler, a hawker,—higgler being S.E., not coll.; but more prob. a 'reduplicated jingle on pig, with reference to huddling together' (W.).

High, the. The High Street, Oxford: undergraduates' s.: mid-C.19–20. Punch, 27 Mar. 1852, a line in some stanzas on 'The Freshman's Progress': 'In "beaver," now, he roved "the High";' perhaps contributed by 'Cuthbert Bede', author of Verdant Green, 1853–7, i.e. Rev. E. Bradley. Cf. the Broad, the Corn, the Turl.

high, n. A peak or record in, e.g., production or sales, the opposite being low: coll.: since 1940.—2. Drug exhilaration: adopted, ca. 1960, ex US. Janssen cites Jagger. Ex the corresponding adj.—3. Hence, any period of exhilaration, however produced or inspired: since early 1970s.

high, adj. Intoxicated: 1627, May in his Lucan (OED): from ca. 1880, mostly US.—2. As (of game) tainted, it is S.E., but as (of a prostitute) venereally infected, it is low coll.—3. Obscene: low coll.; like prec. from ca. 1860 and ob.—4. Under the influence of an exhilarating drug: Can. since ca. 1925, Eng. since ca. 1930.—5. 'The bird'—girl—'might be high (high principled) in which case he would get no dice or merely "a bit of bazooka"—'petting' (correspondence columns in Sunday Times, 8 Sep. 1963): since ca. 1960.—6. Over-excited, abnormally bright, e.g. from relief, or before the onset of depression or migraine; ex sense 4, but no alcohol or drugs are involved: coll.: since mid-1970s. (P.B.)—7. See you can't get high enough; how is that for high?

high and dry, adj. = stranded, is, despite Egan and F. & H., ineligible, but the High and Dry, the High Church party, is Church s.: 1854, Conybeare, in Church Parties. Also adj.:—1857. Graphic, 10 Apr. 1886, 'In the Church have we not the three schools of High and Dry, Low and Slow, and Broad and Shallow?' See the other two terms.

high and mighty. Arrogant; imperious: coll.:—1825. J.W. Croker; Nat Gould, 'None of your high and mighty games with me.'

high as a kite, (as). Extremely drunk: since ca. 1944. Perhaps adopted ex US. Occ. higher than a kite.—2. An intensive of high, adj., 4 and 6: coll.: since early and mid-1970s, respectively. Home Office; P.B.

high as six penn'orth of coppers, (about) as. Applied to a short person: coll.: C.19. Claiborne cites R.S. Surtees, Jorrock's Jaunts and Jollities, 1838, reprinted from The New Sporting Life of 1831 onwards; the phrase therefore prob. orig. in the 1820s. A C.20 var. is ... three penn'orth of coppers.

high-ball. A signal to go: Can. railwaymen's: since ca. 1910. Hence, in gen. s. (since ca. 1925), give (someone) the high-ball, to approve, to sanction; hence also high-balling, n. and adj., travelling fast, succeeding.—2. See highball.

high-bellied; high in the belly. Advanced in pregnancy: low coll.: from ca. 1850. Also high-waisted.

high boost. See boost, n., 4.

high boy or H-B-. 'A High Tory and Churchman, supposed to favour Jacobitism': C.18. B.&L.

high-brow. See highbrow.

high camp. See camp, adj., 4, and n., 6.

High Church. 'From 1848, "Railway Time" [i.e. London time] was seen to be in the ascendant as more and more towns adopted it. The great divide was between "High Church" (local time) and "Nonconformist" (railway time)' (McKenna, 2, p. 246).

high collar and short shirts. A music-halls' (1882), hence urban c.p. directed at cheap 'swells'; † by 1900. Ware.

high cost of dying, the. A trenchant c.p. parodying high cost of living: since ca. 1942.

high eating. Eating skylarks in a garret: joc. coll.: late C.18—early 19. (Grose, 2nd ed.) Cf. high liver, q.v.

high-falutin(g). See highfalutin(g).

high feather. See feather, n., 7.

high-flier. See high-flyer.

high-fly, n. To be on the high-fly, to practise the begging-letter 'game' or 'lay' (C.16 law): c.:—1839; ob. (Brandon in Poverty, Mendicity and Crime.) Collectively, the high-fly is those who carry on this trade.—2. Also to be on the high-fly, to tramp as a beggar: ca. 1850–1920.—3. High-falutin; 'side': Cockney coll.: late C.19–20. Pugh, 'She went in for so much style—sounding her "atches", and all that kind of high-fly.' high-flyer, -flier. As a very ambitious or pretentious person, S.E.; s. as a bold adventurer, a fashionable prostitute, an impudent and dissolute woman: from ca. 1690, only the second nuance being extant. Perhaps s. is sense 3, a fast mail-coach: Scott, 1818, in Midlothian; † by 1870.—Also old s. are:—4. One who frequents the gallery of a theatre: C.18. D'Urfev, 1719.—5. And, a gross exaggeration: ca. 1770–1910. G.J. Pratt, in The Pupil of Pleasure (OED).—6. In c., a genteel beggar (—1851), as in Mayhew's magnum opus; a begging-letter writer, from ca. 1839.—7. Ex the c. senses comes that of a broken-down gentleman, as in the Standard, 20 June 1887; ob. by 1915, † by 1920.—8. 'A swing fixed in rows in a frame much in vogue at fairs' (F. & H.): circus:—1859.—9. A slave-ship: nautical: late C.19–20; ob. Ware.

high-flying (over-ambitious, -pretentious, or -extravagant, is S.E., as is the corresponding n.; but) in c. signifies begging, esp. by letter: from ca. 1839; ob.

high gag, on the, adj. and adv. Telling secrets; 'on the whisper': c.: ca. 1820–80. (Kent; Sinks) Cf. gag, v., 7, to lay information. Contrast low gag.

high game, high-game. A mansion: c.:—1889; ob. by 1930.

high(-)gig, in. Lively: ca. 1815–70: coll. Moore, 'Rather sprightly—the bear in high-gig'. See gig.

high(-)go. A frolic; a drinking-bout: low coll.: from ca. 1820; ob. Cf. go, n., 2 and 6.

high-grading, n. Stealing—or dealing in stolen—processed gold ore; illegal trading in gold from a mine: Can. miners': since ca. 1918. (F.E.L. Priestley.)

high-hat, v. To treat (a person) superciliously: an American coll. partly anglicised by 1930. P.B.: it was never fully adopted as v., but as adj., see next, is still extant, 1983.

high-hat, adj. 'Superior'; supercilious: since ca. 1930. (Gerald Kersh, Night and the City, 1938; Oliver Onions, Cockcrow, 1940.) P.B.: also as adv., e.g., 'She was acting very high-hat and à la; thought no end of herself, she did.'

high, home, and easy. Very slow, under-hand lob bowling: cricketers': ca. 1825–1900. Lewis.

high hook. That angler of a party who hooks the heaviest fish:

anglers' coll.: from early 1890s. OED Sup. Prob. ex.—2. Same as high line, 2.

high horse. Orig. usu. ride (occ. mount) the high horse, to put on airs, stand on one's dignity; (haughtily) take offence: coll.: since ca. 1715. (Addison has great horse.) In C.19–20, increasingly commonly, the phrase > get on, be on, or get off (one's) high horse. Perhaps ex a high hobby-horse in the nursery.

high in the belly. See high-bellied.

high in the instep, be. To be (over-)proud: coll.: from ca. 1540; in C.19–20, mostly dial. Fuller, in his Church History.

high in tooth. Bombastic: low: later C.19—early 20. Baumann.

high jinks. A gambler who, at dice, drinks to intoxicate his gen. 'pigeon', adversary: c.: ca. 1770–1820. (In S.E., a dicing game for drinks.)—2. A frolic; a very lively, and often noisy, party or gathering or behaviour: coll.:—1815. (Scott's notes to Guy Mannering.) Ex the S.E. sense.—3. In to be at (one's) high jinks, to be stiffly arrogant in manner; 'ride the high horse': low coll.: ca. 1865–1925.

high jump. In be (later C.20: up or in) for the high jump (orig., occ. jumps), to be about, or obliged, to face a difficult or a very unpleasant task: military: since ca. 1912. Esp., to be on the crime-sheet, hence due for trial (F. & G., who note WW1 var. be up for the long jump). L.A., 1974, noting the phrase's widespread use in later C.20, writes 'esp. to have a decisive interview, surgical operation, test or examination in prospect at fixed date'. Ex steeplechasing.—2. In take the high jump, to be hanged: police: late C.19–20. Free-Lance Writer, Apr. 1948.

high kick. A thrill obtained by taking a drug: drug addicts': since ca. 1940. John Gosling & Douglas Warner, The Shame of a City, 1960.

high-kicker. A dancer specialising in the high kick; whence, almost imm., a wild 'spreester': coll.: from ca. 1870.—2. In C.20, gen. 'a girl who is over fond of "a good time", somewhat fast' (Lyell): coll.

high-kilted. Indecorous; obscene: Scots coll. (in C.20, standard): C.19–20. The same holds of Highland bail, the right of might, as in Scott's Antiquary.

high law. Highway robbery: c.: ca. 1590–1660. Greene, Cony-Catching pamphlets, no. 1.

high-lawyer. A highwayman: c.: late C.16—mid-17. Greene, 1591; John Day in The Blind Beggar, 'He wo'd be your prigger, ... your high-lawyer.' Lit., one who practises the high (i.e. the highway) 'law' or 'lay' or 'game'.

high line. A good catch: Grand Banks fishermen's coll.: from ca. 1890. Bowen.—2. Hence, 'the most successful fishing boat or clipper of the season': from ca. 1895: id. (Ibid.) Also, occ., high hook.—3. The high line: a method of logging with high-boom transport: Can. lumbermen's coll. (since ca. 1920), >, by 1950, S.E. (Priestley.)

high-liver. A thief lodging in an attic: C.19 c. Ex the gen. s. or joc. coll. sense, one who lodges in garret or loft, with its vbl n., high living (—1788), as in Grose, 2nd ed. Cf. high eating, q.v.

high-lows. Laced boots reaching up over the ankles: orig. (1801), trade s. >, ca. 1860, gen. coll., and, by 1895, S.E. 'In contrast with "top" boots and "low" shoes' (SOD).

high(-)men or runners. Dice so loaded that they fall 'high': orig. (1592), c.; by C.18, low s.; in C.19–20, gen. considered S.E. The runners form, 1670. (Extremely rare in sing.)

high-nosed. Arrogant; supercilious, 'superior': (low) coll: ca. 1860–1930 Cf. hard-nosed, q.v.

high old. Excellent; very merry, jolly, or joyous: coll.: from ca. 1880: high old time occurs in Illustrated London News, 10 Feb. and Referee, 11 Mar. 1883; high old liar, in J. Newman's Scampering Tricks, 1891; high old drunk, a mighty drinking-bout, before 1893. Orig. (—1869) US. All the high old phrases except h.o. time are ob. An extension of † high time in this sense. Ware; F. & H.; OED Sup.

high(-)pad or -toby or, occ., -toby-splicer or splice toby. The highway, esp. as a place for robbery: c.: resp.

mid-C.16—early 19, C.18—mid-19, first half C.19, latter half C.19. See pad and toby and cf. drum, q.v., and:

high pad or high-toby man or high-toby gloak. A highwayman, esp. if well armed and well mounted: c.: resp. C.17—early 19, C.19, C.19 Vaux).

high part, the. The gallery: Dublin theatrical:—1909 (Ware). Cf. the gods.

high pike. An exorbitant price: mid-C.19. '... about £50. Now this is what the inferior members of the equestrian order call a high pike, and the vulgar in general denominate a heavy fork-out' (Punch, 27 Apr. 1861, p. 169).

high-poooped. Heavily buttocked: nautical s. > low coll.: ca. 1830–1930.

high port, at the. See at the high port.

high-priori. A burlesque coll. perversion of a priori: from ca. 1740. 'coined' by Pope ('We nobly take the high Priori Road').

high-vented. Hot: low coll.: ca. 1850–1930.—2. Very well known to the police: c.: ca. 1860–1930. Cf. hot, q.v.

high-roller. A big gambler, orig. with dice, then on the race-track: Can.: adopted, ca. 1960, ex US. Dr Leechman cites H. Robertson, Grass Roots, 1973. For Am. usage, see W.&F., 1960.

high ropes, be on the. To be excited: late C.17—early 19; (very) angry: C.18—mid-19; standing on one's dignity: C.19–20, ob. All coll. Resp. B.E., Grose (2nd ed.), Mrs Henry Wood (in Trevelyn Hold). ?ex circus tight-rope walking and trapeze-work.

high(-)runners. See high men.

high-seasoned or highly spiced. Indelicate; obscene: coll. verging on S.E.: C.19–20.

high shelf, the. The ground: lower classes':—1909 (Ware). Cf. dog-shelf.

high-, or clouted-, shoe(s). A rustic: mid-C.17—early 19: coll. > S.E. The occ. form, high-shoon, is often used as an adj.

high-sniffing. Supercilious; pretentious, 'superior': (low) coll.: ca. 1860–1930. Cf. high-nosed, q.v.

high spot. (Often pl.) The outstanding part or feature of something; e.g. 'the high spot of the evening's entertainment', 'the high spots of the recording': coll.: adopted, ex US, ca. 1925. OED Sup.—2. See hit the high spots.

high-stepper. A very fashionably dressed or mannered person: from ca. 1860: coll. until C.20, when S.E. Adj., high-stepping: same period, same comment. Ex a high-stepping horse.—2. Pepper: rhyming s.; C.20. F.&G.

high-stomached. Very courageous: prob. S.E. rather than coll.—2. Disdainful, haughty: coll. rather than S.E. Both from C.16; ob. and, since ca. 1850, archaic.

High Street, China. Any remote place beyond one's ken: mostly RAF: since 1938. 'The underlying sense is that it is too remote to be taken seriously' (L.A.) But this 'address' was Cockney humour much earlier: either in this sense; or as a 'mind your own business' answer to 'Where do you live?' Muover.

high(-)strikes. Hysterics: if unintentional, a sol. (—1838); if deliberate, joc. coll.: mid-C.19—early 20.

high-tail, v. To make off speedily without looking behind; to bolt; e.g. 'We high-tailed out of there': Can. coll., adopted ex US: C.20. Ex the stiffly upright tails of bolting cattle. Recorded in F.&G. P.B.: some Brit. use in later C.20.

high tea. An ample tea with meat: coll. (1856); from ca. 1895, S.E. (Sporting Life, 15 Dec. 1888.) Perhaps high is here merely intensive (W.).

high(-)tide or water. Temporary richness or plentifulness of cash: resp. late C.17–20, C.19–20: ob. (B.E.; Bee.) Contrast low water. Orig., prob. c.; by 1830, coll.

high-toby. Highway robbery, but only by mounted men: ca. 1810–70. (Vaux, Ainsworth.) For this term, and high-toby gloak, see also high pad.

high-top(pher). A 'swell' thief: c.: ca. 1850–1900. Burton, Vikram and the Vampire, 1870.

high-up. High; fig., of high rank or position: dial. >, in late 1890s, coll. (OED Sup.) Hence:—2. As n., usu. pl., persons with high rank; politicians enjoying their brief authority 'on top of the world': coll.: since ca. 1937. An occ. var. is higher-ups, i.e. those not quite 'at the top of the pile', as in, e.g., John Bull, 28 Aug. 1943.

high up the stick, be. To be eminent in one's profession or at one's work: 'So high up the stick, they have no time... to answer inquiries' (Sir C. Morgan, 1818); † by 1890. OED.

high-waisted. See high-bellied.

high water. See high tide.

high-water mark, up to (the). In excellent condition; also, a gen. approbatory locution: coll.: ca. 1860–1930.

high, wide and handsome. Going all out—swimmingly—very successfully: Can. coll.: C.20. (Leechman.) Also in the London Fire Brigade, of a building well alight: C.20.

high wood, live in. To hide, esp. to lie low and keep quiet: low: from ca. 1840; ob. by 1900, † by 1920. Ex High Wood, i.e. that H.W. which was the nearest to London. Cf. hide and seek, q.v.

highball. A drink of whisky served in a tall glass: s., 1899 (SOD); by 1930, coll.: orig., and still (1983) mostly US. P.B.: in, e.g., the 1950s parody of the song 'Jealousy': 'Leprosy! Goddam, I got leprosy! There goes my eyeball, straight into my highball...' See high-ball.

highbrow. A person affecting intellectual superiority: coll., orig. (1911), US.; anglicised ca. 1917. Cf. lowbrow, q.v.—2. Hence, as adj., anglicised at about the same time. (Mencken.)

higher Malthusianism. Sodomy: cultured s.: ca. 1860–1900. Ex Thomas Malthus, the political economist's (d. 1834) Essay on Population, 1798.

higher prostitution, the. The writing of books sponsored by great firms, corporations, institutions (e.g. universities): humorously among the authors thereof: since the late 1940s. I first heard it from that delightful man, the late David Keir, in 1954 or 55. Such writers jocularly implying that they are comparable with the great demi-mondaines. The prostitution is of their talent.

Higher Schools. A var. of Highers, q.v.

higher than a giraffe's toupet. Very 'high' on drugs: beatniks': ca. 1959–62. (Anderson.) P.B.: the more gen. phrase is higher than a kite; see high as...

Highers. Higher School (or leaving) Certificate: schools: ca. 1920–50, when superseded by General Certificate of Education, Advanced level (GCE 'A' levels).

highfalute. To rant; use fine words: mainly and orig. US: anglicised ca. 1875 as s., but never very gen. Cf.:

highfalutin(g), n. Rant or bombast: orig. (—1850), US; anglicised ca. 1865: coll. till C.20, when S.E. Pall Mall Gazette, 3 May 1886, 'A glib master of frothy fustian, of flatulent high-falutin', and of oratorical bombast'.

highfaluting(g); gen. without g. Bombastic, absurdly pompous, whether in conversation or in behaviour: orig. (1848), US s.; anglicised, as coll., ca. 1862; 'now common in Liverpool and the East End of London' (H., 1864); in C.20, S.E.—a very useful word. Friswell, in Modern Men of Letters, 1870, 'High-falutin' nonsense'. (In C.19, hyphenated very often, in C.20 rarely.) Ex Dutch verlootten, says H.; more prob. an elab. of high-flown, perhaps influenced by floating (W.).

highflier, highflyer. See high-flyer.

Highgate. See sworn at Highgate.

Highland bail. See high-kilted.

Highland fling. A speech, or series of speeches, delivered in Scotland: political: 1880–ca. 1915. (Ware.) Applied orig. to Gladstone's famous Midlothian speeches.—2. King (playing cards): rhyming s.: later C.20. (Hillman.)

Highland frisky. Whisky: rhyming s.: since ca. 1870; by 1950, ob. (Franklyn, Rhyming.) Perhaps a blend of Highland whisky and gay and frisky.

highly spiced. See high-seasoned.

Highlytalian. Italian: an occ. var. of Eyetalian. Rook, Hooligan Nights.

highly-tighty, hoity-toity. A wanton, or, as B.E. phrases it, 'a Ramp, or Rude Girl': resp. late C.17–18, C.18—early 19: orig. low, then gen., coll. But hoity-toity is rare as a n.; usu. it goes with wench, as in Grose.

highly-tighty, hoity-toity, adj. Peremptory, quarrelsome: C.19–20.—2. Uppish: late C.19–20; this, the prevailing C.20 sense, comes ex dial. The -i- form is coll., the -oi- orig. coll., in C.20 S.E. 'The earliest record, upon the hoity-toity (1668), suggests the high ropes [q.v.] and tight rope, or simply a jingle upon high' (W.). See esp. W.: More Words Ancient and Modern. Or, perhaps, hoity comes ex haughty and toity is a simple rhyming duplication.

highway. See common as the hedge.

highway surfer. One who 'rides highways with board on top of car but never surfs' (Pix, 28 Sep. 1963); Aus. surfers': since ca. 1961.

highly-pigly. A ca.1660–1800 var. of highledy-piggledy, q.v.

higry-pigry. See hickery-pickery. Graves, in The Spiritual Quixote.

hijack; hijacker. See hi-jack.

hike, n. A blow, a knock: schools': ca. 1860–90. (Solely on the evidence of a MS. note in the British Museum copy of the 1864 Hotten).—2. A long walk, esp. for exercise and (?) pleasure: dial. and US, > Eng. coll. ca. 1926. Ex the v.—3. A sharp lift, esp. a rise in pay; 'Miners seek pay hike' (any tabloid newspaper): journalistic: adopted, ex US, mid-1970s. Prob. influenced, in UK, by hoick. (P.B.)

hike, v., orig. (1809) dial., = to tramp (from 1927, for pleasure and/or exercise); hike off, orig. (—1728) c., = to run away. (Grose, 2nd ed.) Becoming, except in dial., disused in England, hike went to US, whence it returned, to gen. coll. usage in Eng., ca. 1926. In late C.19–20 also Can. coll. (Niven.) Like hick, q.v., it has been very gen. considered an Americanism [note of ca. 1935]. P.B.: in later C.20, informal S.E.—2. To pull, or drag, esp. with a great effort: coll., ex dial.: 1867 (SOD). P.B.: now gen. supplanted by hoick, although this usu. = a quicker, more jerky, movement. Cf. hike, n., 3.—3. To arrest: low London: ca. 1960–1914. B. & L.—4. See hitch-hike, and hyking.

hike about. Wander about: coll., ex dial.: C.19—earlier 20. Perhaps influenced by US college use.

hike off. To run away, make off: c.:—1728 (James Dalton, A Narrative, 'He hyk'd off with the Cly'). Cf. hike, v., 1.—2. Also, to carry off; to arrest: both (low) coll.: mid-C.19–20; the latter, ob.

hiked up, be. 'To be shanghaied, or shipped unwillingly': nautical: late C.19–20. (Bowen.) Cf. hike, v., 2.

hiker; hiking. One who 'hikes' (hike, v., 1); n. and adj. (connected with, characteristic of) the going for long walks. Both coll.: 1927. See hike, v., 1. P.B.: like the v., it has become, in later C.20, informal S.E. See also hitch-hike.

hiki. See hickey.

Hill, the; the Plain. Harrow School; Eton College: Harrow School coll.: mid-C.19–20. (H.A. Vachell, The Hill, 1905.) The former comes from Harrow-on-the-Hill; hence, by contrast, the latter.—2. The Hill, among Londoners, is a coll. for the Notting Hill district: late C.19–20. Nicholas Blake, The Whisper in the Gloom, 1954.—3. See over the hill; Hillite.

hill and dale. 'The tale' as practised by 'con men' and their like: orig., and still mainly, underworld rhyming s.: C.20. Jim Phelan, The Underworld, 1953.

Hill (or hill) captain. A military officer that spends his summer leave in India in a Hill station in preference to spending it in some more manly way, e.g. in shooting: military, esp. Indian Army's: ca. 1890–1947. It implies undue addiction to feminine society.

Hillgate. See get off at Hillgate.

Hill-parrot. (Gen. pl.) An Indian Army term, dating from ca. 1890 to ca. 1907, as in Richards: 'Some men managed to work it to be sent to the Hills every year with the first party, and to stay there the entire summer; these were sarcastically called Hill-parrots by the men who did not have the luck to go to the Hills at all. A year or two later the custom of one party relieving the other at the Hills was abolished.

hill-topper. A 'sex-novel': journalists': ca. 1894–1900.

Hillite. A spectator 'barracking' from the Hill, an uncovered portion of the Sydney Cricket Ground: Aus. coll.: since ca. 1920. (B.P.)

hillman. The foreman of the dustmen: Cockney:—1887; very ob. Baumann.

hills or Hills, the. The Gog Magog Hills, a common morning's ride: Cambridge University:—1803.—2. St Catherine's Hill: Winchester College: C.16–20 (Wrench). Without the.

hills are closing in on him—(poor So-and-So, the. He's becoming very odd, beginning to go mad: United Nations troops in Korea: ca. 1953–5. Ex the forbidding Korean hills and mountains. (Anon., 'Slangue'—in Iddiwah, the New Zealanders' periodical of 1953–4.)

hilltop literature. Solid advice: journalistic coll. of ca. 1898–1914. Ware, 'Derived from danger-board warnings to cyclists on the summits of steep hills'.

hilly. Difficult, as in hilly reading and hilly going (hard to do): coll.: from ca. 1870; ob. Cf. steep, q.v.

hilt. See loose in the hilt.

him all bugger (i.e. buggered) up finish. Papua New Guinea pidgin for 'dead': adopted, ca. 1950, by Australians for anything 'that has finally failed, e.g. a car or a university career' (Mrs C. Raab, 1977).

himses or H-. A fellow workman or -men: tailors': C.20. Tailor and Cutter, 29 Nov. 1928, 'A bit of a case Himses'. Cf. umses, q.v.

hinchinarfer. A woman of gruff voice and shrieking-sisterhood tendencies: proletarian: ca. 1880–1915. 'Implying that her husband has but an inch and a half, hence her bad temper' (Julian Franklyn, 1962).

hind. Person, fellow, chap: coll.: C.16. Douglas's Aeneid: OED.

hind boot. The breech: low: C.19—early 20. Cf. hinder end. hind coach-wheel. A five-shilling piece: late C.17—early 20; †. Cf. fore c.-w., q.v.

hind leg, kick out a. To make a rustic bow: coll.: mid-C.18–20, ob. Grose, 3rd ed.

hind leg off a horse (dog, donkey, etc.), talk the. See talk the ...

hind legs. See get on (one's) hind legs, at legs, 2.

hind-paw. (Gen. pl.) A foot; loosely and rarely, a leg; joc. proletarian:—1923 (Manchon).

hind-shifters. The feet or heels: coll.: ca. 1820–70. Lamb, in Eliu, 'They would show as fair a pair of hind-shifters as [anyone] in the colony.'

[hinder blast, C.16 for crepitation, is only very doubtfully eligible.]

hinder end, parts, world. The breech: (low) coll.: C.19–20; ob. Cf.:

hinder entrance. The fundament: low coll.: C.19–20; ob. Cf.:

hindlers. Hind-quarters: coll.: ca. 1890–1940. (OED Sup.) Ex dial.: 1857 (EDD).

Hindoo punishment. The 'muscle-grind' in gymnastics: circus:—1875; † by 1920. Frost, Circus Life.

Hindoos. (Singular very rare.) 'Such Europeans as came from India to the Cape either to recruit their health or to take up their residence' (Pettman): S. African coll.: ca. 1825–70. Cf. Cape doctor, q.v.

Hiney. See Heine.

hing aff. Get off!: Glasgow:—1934. Lit., 'hang off!' Cf.:

hing-on, a. A walking arm-in-arm: Glasgow coll.:—1934.

hinge and pluck. The heart, liver and lungs of a killed pig: butchers':—1887 (Baumann).

hinges, off the, adv., adj. Confused(ly); slightly indisposed: coll.: C.17–20; † by 1820, except in dial. Cotgrave, Motteux.

hinterland. The breech: (low) coll.: cf. hinder end, etc. 'Old', says F. & H. in 1893, but not, I feel sure, older than 1880, the S.E. sense being recorded only at 1890. F. & H. may well be thinking of hinderlands, rare for hinderlings, the buttocks. Perhaps cf. Romany hinder, to defecate.

hinting gear. See MOCK-AUCTION SLANG, in Appendix, q.v. also for hinton.

Hip, the. The Hippodrome: London coll.: late C.19–20. (A. Neil Lyons, Arthur's, 1908.) Cf. Hipp, the.

hip (1762), hip(p)s (1710), n. Morbid depression: 1710: coll.; ob. by 1870; † by 1910. (See hyp.) Usu. 'spelt with y in the [n.] but with i in the v., etc.' (SOD). Ex hypochondria.
hip, v. To depress the spirits of: coll.: from ca. 1840. Prob. ex hipped, q.v.

hip, adj. 'Equipped with enough wisdom, philosophy and courage to be self-sufficient, independent of society; able to swing on any scene' ('Basic Beatnik' in Victoria, BC, Daily Colonist, 16 Apr. 1959); Can. jazz-lovers' and musicians': adopted, 1956, ex US. A boppers' alteration of hep, which, in 1958, began to regain its virtue and its potency: see Norman D. Hinton, 'Language of Jazz Musicians', American Dialect Society, Nov. 1958. By 1961 (Anderson), it was old-fashioned among beatniks—cf., however, hip duck.—2. Hence, aware, realistic, worldly: coll.: since early 1960s. Alan Hunter, Gently Coloured, 1969, a 'tough cop' interrogating a Black suspect: 'I do think so ... And if you're hip you'll think so too, because you're up to here in trouble' (P.B.).

hip(-)disease. The habit of carrying a hip flask: Aus.: since ca. 1925. B., 1942.

hip duck. A nice girl, i.e. an attractive or sympathetic one: beatniks': since ca. 1959. Anderson.

hip flask. A revolver: RAF: 1939+. (Reader's Digest, Feb. 1941, Michie & Waitt, 'Air Slangue'; New Statesman, 19 Sep. 1942, E.P., 'Air Warfare and its Slang'.) Ex the position in which it is worn and its appearance in the case.

hip-hip-hurrahs. Engine-room artificers: RN (lowerdeck): since ca. 1920. (Granville.) Ex the initials ERA.

hip-hop, adv. Hoppingly: coll.: ca. 1670–1920. (Villiers, in The Rehearsal; Congreve.) Reduplication of hop. The OED, perhaps rightly, considers it S.E.—at least after ca. 1700.

hip-inside. An inner coat-pocket, hip-outside being an outer: c.:—1839; ob. Brandon.

hip, Michael, your head's on fire! A low c.p. addressed to a red-haired man: mid-C.18—mid-19. Grose, 1st ed.

hipe (occ. hyp or hype). A rifle: as a gen. term for the weapon, esp. in WW1 army coll.; as an element in arms-drill command, e.g. slope hipe, order or port hipe (whence, presumably, the orig.), simply a barked, shrill noise to indicate the 'executive word of command', arms, since late C.19. In later C.20, the usu. term for a rifle continues, as it has since C.18, to be burndook. (B.&P.; Punch, 1914–18, passim.) The RN version is ipe. (E.P.; P.B.) See ARMY SLANG, verse 3, in Appendix, for use in S. African war, ca. 1900.

Hippo, the. The Hippodrome (anywhere): theatrical: since ca. 1880. Cf. Hip, the, and Hippo, the.

hipped. Melancholy, bored, depressed; slightly indisposed: coll.: 1710 (SOD); ob. Ex hypochondria; cf. hyppo, hyps, nn., and hippish, q.v.

hippen. The green curtain: theatrical, but perhaps only in Northumberland; certainly never very gen.: ca. 1870–1905. ?ex Scots coll. hippen (i.e. hippening cloth), a baby's napkin.

hipper. A wrestler skilled in using his hips: sporting: late C.18—mid-19. Moe cites Blackwood's, Dec. 1823.—2. 'Something soft placed under the hip when sleeping on hard ground' (B., 1943): Aus. tramps': C.20.

hippie. See hippy, n., of which it is prob. the commoner spelling.

hippish. Low-spirited: coll.: 1706 (SOD). Gay, 'By cares depress'd, in pensive hippish mood'. Cf. hipped, q.v., and hip, hyp(pos), nn.

Hippo, the. The London Hippodrome: Londoners': late C.19–20.

hippo, n. An occ. var., in, e.g., anon., The Bragadoccio, 1691, at III, ii (Moe), of hyppo, hyppo, q.v. (Never hippo).—2. Hippopotamus: coll.: 1872 (OED).—3. Ipecacuanha: Anglo-Irish:—1900 (EDD).

hippy, hippie, n. 'The hippies, latter-day beatniks, along with the younger "teeny boppers", met in Stanley Park' (Daily Colonist, Victoria, BC, 28 Mar. 1967) and 'hippies, a latter-day beatnik type, some of them barefooted and waving flowers' (Ibid., 16 Apr. 1967): Can.: since 1966 or perhaps 1965. (Leechman.) By 1967, also Brit. In the Observer colour sup., 3 Dec. 1967, Peter Fryer defines a hippy as a 'product of Haight-Ashbury district of San Francisco. Anarchic successors to Beat generation. Essential beliefs: protest, legalised drugs, opting out. Not to be confused with plastic hippies, conventional youth who like to dress up at week-end.' P.B.: hence hippiedom, hippyism. Ultimately ex hip, adj., 1. Cf. yippie, q.v.

hippy, adj. Morbidly depressed: coll.: from ca. 1890. Cf. hipped, hippish, qq.v.—2. Adj. ex hippy, n. Also spelled hippie.

hips. In down in the hips, dispirited; indisposed: coll.: 1729 (Swift); ob. by 1890, † by 1910. Ex a phrase applied to horses injured in the haunch-bone [thus E.P.]; but cf. hipped, hippish, hypo, etc. P.B.].—2. In free of her hips, free of her hips, proverbial coll.: C.19—early 20. Hips here = buttocks, hence sex.—3. Long in the hips, broad-buttocked: coll.: C.19—early 20. Cf. the low coll. phrase of same period, (with) hips to sell.—4. In walk with the hips, 'To make play with the posteriors in walking' (F. & H.): C.19—20 coll.; ob. by ca. 1935. A lower rather than a middle or upper class allurement to lewdery.

hipster. A jazz 'fiend' (modern jazz): adopted, ca. 1950, ex US. (Observer, 16 Sep. 1956.) Cf. hep cat, its predecessor.

Hipsy hoy. A boy: rhyming s.: C.20. B. & P.

hircarra(h). See hurkaru.

hire it done. To hire someone to do something: Can. coll.: since ca. 1930. 'I never mow my own lawn. I hire it done' (Leechman).

hiren, a harlot, is, despite F. & H., ineligible. As a sword, a fighting hector or bully, it is, so far as I know, unrecorded save by F. & H.: at present, it is suspect.

his. The use of his with familiar words, as "he knew his Homer from beginning to end", is purified slang' (Greenough & Kittredge, 1902): coll.: mid-C.19—20.—2. The enemy's: military coll.: WW1. (B. & P.) Opp. ours. E.g., of a shell, aircraft, etc., 'It's one of his'; WW2 preferred theirs in this context.

his dibs. Applied, punningly to a wealthy man (on his nibs, q.v. at nibs): ca. 1925—40.

His Ex. His Excellency (the Governor-General): Aus. and NZ: C.20. B., 1941.

his (or his royal highness). My husband: feminine, either joc. or derisive: mainly lower-middle class: late C.19—20. Cf. his lordship.

his legs grew ... See legs grew ...

his lordship. He: derisive coll.: mid-C.19—20. Feminine: her ladyship: same period. Cf. my gentleman.

His Master's Voice. The assistant [engine-shed] foreman was known to all as "His Master's Voice" or "the foreman's half-back" (McKenna, 2, p. 101): railwaymen's C.20.—2. A sycophant, a 'crawler': id. (Ibid.) Both are puns on the well-known gramophone record company's name. (P.B.)

his mother never raised a squib. See squib.

his nabs; his nibs. See nabs and nibs. hishee-hashee. See soap and bullion.

hiss, the. The warning of a master's approach: Winchester College: C.19—20.

hissy. The Tommies' Hobson-Jobson for Fr. ici, 'here': WW1. hist! We are observed. Joc. ironic c.p.: early C.20. Burlesqued by Hilaire Belloc in his 'spy' novel, But Soft—We Are Observed, 1928. See DCpp.

historical. (Of a costume or hat) seen more than three times: Society: 1882 (Daily News, 26 Dec.); † by 1915. Ware.

[historical or wrought or illustrated shirt. Not coll. but † S.E.: late C.16—19. 'A shirt or shift worked or woven with pictures or texts', F. & H.]

history of the four kings, study the. To play at cards: coll.:

mid-C.18—mid-19. Cf. the mid-C.18—early 19 coll. a child's best guide to the gallows, a pack of cards, as also is the n. part of the defined locution. Grose, 1st ed. (both).

hit, n. A success; like 'make a hit', to score an outstanding success, it was orig., I think, coll., pace the OED: since ca. 1815.—2. Also hit-up. A game of cricket or lawn tennis: Aus. coll.: C.20. B., 1942.—3. Only hit-up. A practice game; a few preliminary exchanges at lawn tennis: gen. sporting coll.: C.20.—4. An attempted crime, esp. robbery or theft: c.: late C.18—mid-19. In The Rolling Blossom (active prostitute), pub. ca. 1800 and reprinted in an American magazine, The Port Folio, 8 Aug. 1807 (pp. 125—6): 'To nimming Ned I went to bed,/Who look'd but queer and glumly,/Yet every hit, he brought the bit,/And then we spent it rumly: where bit = booty, and rumly = excellently.—5. A killing by gangsters; hence by spies: orig. c.; by early 1970s, also police: adopted, ca. 1965, ex US [? earlier: cf. hit-man]. (Petch, 1969.)—6. The taking of a drug, as in 'musicians getting a quick hit while [the police] are out of the way' (A. Stuart, The Bikers, 1972): a borrowing ex US. Applied even to the sniffing of glue, as in '[They] take deep, practised hits from a white, plastic supermarket bag' (Time Out, 8 Jan. 1892, p. 14).

hit, v. Hit (it), to guess a secret, attain an object, is, pace F. & H., certainly S.E., as, prob., was hit in the teeth, to reproach (v.t., with).—2. To go to and then travel along or work or play at or rest in, as in hit the road or trail, the high spots, the haystack, was orig. and still US: these usages can hardly be said to be fully anglicised; but they prob. will be—very soon too! [Note in 1st ed., 1937. E.P. made no entry for hit the haystack, but hit the hay is presumably a shortening of it. See also hit a haystack, at haystack, 1.] hit, ppl adj. Convicted: c.: orig. and mostly at the Old Bailey: from ca. 1860.—2. See hard hit, be.

Hit and Miss. Hitler and Mussolini: since mid-1940; ob. by 1947.—2. hit and miss, rhyming s. for both 'kiss' and 'piss': later C.20. (Rhyming Cockney Slang, ed. Jack Jones, 1971.) Franklyn records both as US, but notes that piss is 'of Australian antecedence', and that the meaning kiss occurs in George Orwell, Down and Out in Paris and London, 1933. Var. hit or miss, since late C.19.

hit dirt. To become de-railed: railwaymen's: C.20. McKenna, Glossary, 1970.

hit (someone) for six. To rout decisively in argument or business or other battle of wits: since ca. 1920. Cf. gone for six. Ex cricket.

hit him where he'll feel it or where it hurts him most. See knee, v.

hit it in the head with a heavy hammer, but mostly with the four aspirates abandoned, is either a genuine or a mock Cockney expression to indicate a threat used as a means to persuade: C.20. (L.A., 1976.)

hit it off. To agree well with a person: coll. on verge of S.E. (in C.20, indubitably S.E.): from ca. 1780. Trollope, in Barchester Towers.—2. To describe accurately: the (from ca. 1735) coll. form of S.E. hit: in C.20, S.E., which, acc. to the OED, it always has been. Trollope, in The Duke's Children.

hit it up; orig. hit things up. To behave strenuously; riotously' (C.J. Dennis): Aus.: C.20.

hit it with (someone). To get along well with: Aus.: C.20. (B., 1942.) Var. of hit it off.

hit-man. One who will, for hire, kill or maim a specified victim: underworld, whether central or peripheral: adopted, ca. 1955, ex US; by 1970s journalistic, and more widespread; occ. used fig. Cf. hatchet man.

hit on the tail, v.t. To coit with: C.16—17 coll. Skelton.

hit or miss. A kiss: rhyming s.: late C.19—20. See also hit and miss, 2.

hit (the) pay-dirt. The strike it rich; to so manage an enterprise that it becomes suddenly financially rewarding: coll.: adopted, ca. 1975, ex US. Also used fig., e.g. in research. Ex prospecting for minerals, where 'pay-dirt' is S.E.

hit that broad. See broad, n., 2.

hit the deck. To land: RAF: since ca. 1925. (Jackson.) See deck.—2. Hence, to crash-land: RAF: since ca. 1940.—3. To sleep, cf. hit the hay' (Robert Hinde, letter, 1945).—4. To fall prone: Services': later C.20. Perhaps ex US; may be used as imperative. (P.B.)

hit the hay. To go to bed: Can., by 1900; anglicised in 1929 by Conan Doyle (OED Sup.); prob. orig. US tramps'.

hit the high spots. To go to excess (of dissipation or merry-making); to attain a very high level: adopted, ca. 1927, ex US.—2. 'To do something superficially' (Leechman): Can.: since ca. 1925.—3. To 'have a night out on the town'; i.e. to visit some of the best places of entertainment, restaurants, etc., in a city or town: coll.: later C.20. (P.B.)

hit the jackpot. See jackpot.

hit the kellicks. To apply the brakes: Aus. motorists': since ca. 1940. Cf. the synon. anchors; kellick is an Aus. form of S.E. killick. (B.P.)

hit the road. See hit, v., 1. An interesting parallel is the Norfolk dial. hit the road, to walk fast, as in P.H. Emerson, On English Lagoons, 1893 (EDD).

hit the roof. To flare up, be or become extremely angry: coll.: C.20. Cf. and see housetop, the idea being that of S.E. fly into a rage. A later C.20 intensive is go through the roof.

hit the sack. 'To go to bed ... In New Zealand, probably used before 1900, and certainly since' (Arthur Gray, 1969). 'In early Colonial days, people in rural areas sometimes slept on a bag of chaff, or used sacks railed to a wooden frame.' Not of US origin. P.B.: some Brit. use in, e.g., army s., where perhaps it is of US orig.; but see also sack, n., 2.

hit the taps. To open the throttle: RAF: 1939+. Charles Graves, Seven Pilots, 1943.

hit the ties. To 'tramp the ties' or walk along the railway track: Can. (? ex US): since ca. 1905; by 1959 somewhat ob. (Leechman.) Here, ties = (transverse) railway sleepers.

hit the toe. To go: Aus. rhyming s., esp. surfboard riders': since ca. 1958. (B.P.)

hit the wall. To reach the point of exhaustion: athletes', esp. long-distance runners': later C.20. (Rod Newport, 1982.) Cf. the cyclists' synon. bonk.

hit the white. To succeed: Aus. sporting: C.20. (Baker.) Ex games j. hit their hobbles. (Of horses) to gallop despite their hobble chains: Aus. coll.: C.20. A. Buzo, 1973.—2. (Of persons, esp. in sports) to make a glorious comeback: Aus.: since ca. 1950, as in Buzo's The Roy Murphy Show, prod. 1971.

hit things up. See hit it up.

hit under the wing. Tipsy: 1844 (Albert Smith: OED); ob. by 1930. Lit., disabled as a bird shot there. Cf. wing'd.

hit-up, n. See hit, n., 2 and 3.

hit (a person) up for (something). To ask (a person) for: Colonial and South-American-English s.: C.20. C.W. Thurlow Craig, Paraguayan Interlude, 1935, 'I ... hit him up for a job, and here I am.'—2. Hence, to charge (someone) unreasonably for a purchase, etc.: Aus.: C.20. Baker.

hit where (one) lives. To mean much to, make a great impression on, a person: 1907, P.G. Wodehouse, Not George Washington, 'This is just the sort of thing to get right at them. It'll hit them where they live.' Ex US: Artemus Ward (1834–67) uses it.

hit with. (More gen. struck with, q.v., at struck.) Prepossessioned by: coll.: ca. 1885–1915.

hitch. Temporary assistance; unimportant help through a difficulty: coll.: from ca. 1890; ob.—2. A term of enlistment: Can. Services': adopted, ca. 1935, ex US.

hitch, v. To marry; gen. in hitched, ppl adj., married: orig. (1857) US, app. first as hitch horses: anglicised ca. 1890. In C.20, the prevailing form is hitched up, which is very gen. in Aus. and NZ. Hence, commonly, get(ting) hitched. Ex hitch (up), to harness.—2. A coll. shortening of hitch-hike, n. and v.: later C.20. 'He got there by a series of hitches, by truck, aircraft, anything going' (P.B.).

hitch-hike. To obtain a free ride on a walking tour, or, esp., to obtain a series of free rides, going on, or returning from, leave, vacation, etc.: adopted, ca. 1936, ex US; orig. coll. >, in later C.20, S.E. (SOD). Hence hitch-hiker—hiking; also as n. hitchy-koo. Verminous, lousy: military: WW1. (B. & P.) Ex a music-hall refrain's resemblance to itching, itchy.

hitherao jildi! Come here, quickly!: army: ca. 1880–1945. (Observer, 20 Sep. 1936.) Hitherao is the Hindustani idher ao influenced by hither; see jildi.

Hitler. See little Hitler.

Hitler's War. WW2, to distinguish from the Kaiser's War, 1914–18: later C.20.

hitsville. Success, as opp. squaresville, failure: early 1960s. (BBC Light Programme, 30 June 1963.) Ex hit, n., 1, +-ville, q.v. See also square, n., 6.

Hittite, hittite. A prize-fighter: a pugilistic pun: ca. 1820–1910. More gen., however, as Bee (1823) phrases it: 'Hittites—boxers and ring-goers assembled'.

hive. The female pudend: low: from ca. 1850; ob. Ex honey, q.v.

hive it. To effect coition: low: from ca. 1860; ob. Ex prec. hive off. To depart: Aus.: since ca. 1910. B., 1942. Ex bees. P.B.: some use still, 1983, in UK. In the sense 'to form a separate group' it is S.E. (SOD, 1977.)

Hivite. A student of St Bees, Cumberland: schools' and universities' (—1860). H., 2nd ed.

hici(o)us-doci(o)us. See hiccius-doccicus.

ho. See out of all ho.

ho-de-ho. See hi-de-hi.

ho gya, ho-gya, hoga. In trouble: nonplussed or stumped; failed: Anglo-Indians': mid-C.19–20. (B. & L.). Poss. connected is "'That won't Hoga," i.e., that won't do, one of the very commonest of the Anglo-Indian slang phrases' (H., 3rd ed.).

hoaky or hokey, by (the). An expletive: mainly nautical, but perhaps orig. Scot.: early C.19–early C.20. Bill Truck, Jan. 1822; Manchon, 1923.

hoax, v. and n., and its derivatives hoaxer and hoaxing, were orig. (1788) coll., which they remained until ca. 1830. First recorded in Grose, 2nd ed. Orig. university wit, says Grose. Prob. ex hocus (-pocus); cf., possibly, Romany (hoax or) hokano, to cheat, and hookapen, a hoax, a falsehood.

hob. A dolt; a rustic clown: C.14–early 19: until ca. 1680, S.E.; then coll. when not dial. Ex Robert.—2. In (to be) on the hob, to be a teetotaler: army: late C.19–early 20. F. & G.: 'The tea-kettle on the hob'.

hob and nob, hob or nob, hob nob. Orig. mere variants, but the only C.19–20 forms, of hab or nab (etc.), q.v.—The only specific 'individual' senses are, 1, as v.: to drink together, 1763, coll.—in C.20, S.E.; be on very friendly terms (v.t., with), 1828; coll. till C.20, when S.E.—2. As n.: a toast (very rarely as h.n., occ.—in C.18–19—as hob a nob), 1756, always coll.; adv. or adj., on terms of close friendship or good-fellowship, 1851, coll. till C.20, then S.E.—See also hob-nob, below. (Dates: SOD.) The hab, nab form was influenced by Hob, a familiar by-form of Robert (W.).

Hob Collingwood. The supposedly unlucky four of hearts: C.18–19 Northern coll.

hob-job. An unskilled or clumsy job; an odd job: s. and dial.: from ca. 1855.

hob-jobber. A man or boy alert for small jobs on the street: (low) coll.: mostly London: from ca. 1850; ob.—Also vbl n., hob-jobbing.

hob-nob. A c.p. gracing a 'mutual' drinking: ca. 1760–1830: coll. > S.E.—2. A drinking together or to each other's health: 1825; coll. till C.20, then S.E. See hob and nob.—3. A familiar, intimate conversation: coll.:—1876; in C.20, S.E. hobbadehoy, hobbe(x)dehoy. See hobbledehoy.

hobber-nob(ber). A corrupted form of hob or nob (see hob and nob): from ca. 1800; ob.

Hobbes's voyage. An act of coition: coll.: late C.17–18. Vanbrugh, The Provoked Wife, 1697, 'So, now, I am in for Hobbes's voyage; a great leap in the dark.' R.S. glosses hobble, n. An awkward or puzzling situation: coll. and dial.: from ca. 1775. Hence in a hobble, in trouble; hampered; perplexed: coll.; and in c.: committed for trial: both late C.18—early 20. The latter has var. hobbled.

'Vanbrugh quotes Thomas ("Leviathan") Hobbes's [+ 1679] last recorded words, "I am about to take my last voyage, a great leap in the dark".'

hobble, v. [As amorous v. (see F. & H.): ob. S.E.]—2. Come, or go: joc. coll.: late 1970s. A lady editor recounting, on the BBC Radio 4 programme, 'Quote, Unquote', 7 Aug. 1979, a faux pas she had recently made: 'I rang this writer up and invited him to hobble over and see me sometime. He turned up in a wheel-chair!' An American popular song, ca. 1950, had the refrain, 'hobble off and hit the hay' = go to bed. (P.B.)—3. To hobble a plant is to spring it (see plant, cache): c.: ca. 1810–50. Vaux.

hobbled (upon the legs). On the hulks; in prison; transported as a convict: c.: late C.18—mid-19. Parker, Vaux.—2. See hobble, n.

hobbledeg (or j)ee. A jog-trot: coll.:—1788: ob. by 1880, † by 1900. (Grose, 2nd ed.) I.e. hobble + a fanciful ending.

hobbledehoy; also hobba(r)d(e or y)hoy, hobbe(r)dehoy. A boy not yet quite a man: coll.: 1540, as hobbledehoye in Palsgrave. In C.18, gen. in rhyme, 'hobbledehoy, neither man nor boy'. Prob. hob (see above) + some now indeterminate ending—perhaps Fr. de haie, de haye, of the hedge (see hedge)—with -le- (rare before 1700) or -a(r)-, -e(r)-, acting as a euphonic.

hobbledehoyish; hobbledehoyhood. Awkwardly youthful; the age when a boy is such: the former (—1812), coll.; the latter (1836) hardly gen. enough to be coll.

hobbler. An unlicensed pilot; a landsman acting as tow-Jack: orig. (1800), nautical s.; by 1900, j. As a boatman, Isle of Man dial.

hobbs. A fad, an eccentricity: Tonbridge School: late C.19—early 20. (Marples.) Prob. ex a master's surname; perhaps, however from S.E. hobby.

hobby. (A horse in common use: S.E.—) A translation: university. Whence to ride hobbies, to use 'cribs'. Ca. 1870–1910.—2. See Sir Posthumous(s) Hobby.

hobby-bobby. 'Derisive terms used on several occasions to describe community [police] officers were "hobby-bobbies" and "chocolate bobbies"' (The Times, 16 July 1981): among police lower ranks.

hobby-horse. A wanton, a prostitute: late C.16–17: coll. (Other senses, S.E.) Ex the S.E. sense, a horse in common use: cf. hobby. Cf. the C.20 synon. town bike.

hobby-horse, v. To romp; play the fool, esp. in horse-play: coll.: ca. 1630–1890.

hobby-horsical. Connected with, devoted to a hobby; whimsical: joc. coll.: 1761 (Sterne).—2. In late C.18—early 19, and perhaps orig., 'a man who is a great keeper or rider of hobby horses', i.e. hacks. Grose, 1st ed.

hobdayed. Applied to 'a horse that has been operated on to improve its breathing. Its vocal chords are cut and it cannot afterwards neigh' (John Evans, Weekend, 16 Mar. 1983): the turf: later C.20.

hobnail. A countryman; a boor: coll.: from ca. 1645; in C.19–20, S.E.; ob. Beaumont & Fletcher, in Women Pleas'd, 'The hob-nail thy husband's as fitly out o' th' way now.'

hobnailed. Boorish: coll. till C.19, then S.E.: C.17–20; ob. Ex prec. Occ. hobnail (earlier, by the way, as adj. than as n.).

hobo, pl hoboes. A tramp; esp., in C.20, one who works. Orig. (—1891, Flynt), US; anglicised ca. 1905. The v. has not 'caught on' in England. 'Americanism rarely heard in English prisons' (Tempest, 1950).—2. Hence, a useless fellow: military: from ca. 1910.—3. In NZ and Aus., in post-WW1 days, it is often applied to a rough-and-ready fellow. The etym. remains a puzzle: see esp. Irwin, who quotes a tramp's C.20 distinction: 'Bums loafs and sits. Tramps loafs and walks. But a hobo moves and works, and he's clean.' hobson-jobson. 'A native festal excitement; a tamasha ...; but especially the Moharram ceremonies' (Y. & B.): Anglo-Indian: in this form, C.19 (Moe cites George R. Gleig, Log-Book (I, 214), 1828), but the form hossy-gossy occurs as early as 1673. Ex Shia (or Shia-Muhammadan) wailing cry, Yā Hasan! Yā Hosain! (In S.E., a certain linguistic process.)

Hobson's. See sense 2 of:-

Hobson's choice. That or none: coll.: 1649, Somers Tracts, 'I had Hobson's choice, either be a Hobson or nothing'; B.E.; Steele, Spectator, no. 509; Cibber, in The Non-Juror, 'Can any woman think herself happy that's obliged to marry only with a Hobson's choice?' The etym. ex Thomas Jobson, that Cambridge livery-stable keeper (d. 1630) who let out his horses only in strict rotation, is seriously damaged by Richard Cock's 'We are put to Hodgson's choice to take such privilegese as they will geve us, or else goe without,' 1617—one of W.'s happiest discoveries.—2. A voice: theatrical rhyming s.: late C.19–20; now gen. abbr. to Hobson's, as in 'I've lost my Hobson's' (Michael Warwick, the Stage, 3 Oct. 1968).

hock, n. An active male homosexual: rhyming s. on cock: c.: C.20. Franklyn 2nd.—2. In old hock, stale beer: late C.18–19: (low) coll. Ex hock, the white German wine—orig. Hochheimer, that made at Hochheim, on the Main.—3. In in hock, laid by the heels; swindled: low: late C.19—early 20. Cf.:—4. In in hock, in prison: c.: late C.19–20. Prob. ex Dutch s. hok, debt, as the COD (1934 Sup.) notes, and perhaps influenced by hock, a rod, a chain, with a hook at the end. See:

hock, v. To pawn: orig. s. >, in later C.20, coll. Hence the sense of in hock, in pawn: C.20. See prec., 4.

hock-dockies; in C.19, occ. hock(e)y-dockies. Shoes: c.:—1789; † by 1893, perhaps by 1880. Rhyming reduplication on hocks, q.v.

hockelty; hockly. The hock or penultimate card, esp. in faro: from mid-1860s. OED Sup.

hockey, n. See hoggins.

hockey, adj. Drunk, orig. with stale beer: later C.18—later 19. (Gentleman's Magazine, 1770, p. 559.) Cf. hickey and see hock, n., 2.

hockey club, the. A, the, venereal hospital: NZ soldiers': WW1. Ex a hockey-stick-shaped instrument used in the treatment of VD.

hock(e)y-dockies. See hock-dockies.

hockey stick. The hoist used for loading an aircraft with bombs' (Jackson): RAF: WW2. Ex the shape.

hocking. Var. of houghing.

hocks. The feet: low coll.:—1785; in C.19–20, gen. the feet and ankles; ob. (Grose, 1st ed.) Ex a quadruped's hocks.

hocky. See hockey.

hockly. See hockelty.

hocum. See hokum.

hocus, n. A juggler, a conjuror; an impostor: ca. 1650–1720. Abbr. hocus-pocus, q.v. In Witts's Recreations, ca. 1654, as hocas.—2. Jugglery; deception: from ca. 1650; in C.19–20, S.E.; † except in sense of criminal deception, shady trickery.—3. Drugged liquor: orig. (—1821), s.; by 1890, S.E. Also hocus-pocus. Bee.

hocus, v. To 'hoax' (q.v.): 1675: coll. till C.19, then S.E. Whence hoccusser and hoccusing, C.19–20 nn.—2. To drug, esp. with liquor:—1821 (Boxiana, III); ex slightly earlier, now ob. sense, to stupefy with liquor (and then rob): coll. until ca. 1880, then S.E.: cf. snuff, q.v. Bee, 1823, records to hocus horses. All senses ex n., 3.

hocus, adj. Intoxicated:—1725; ob. by 1830, † by 1860. Ex the v. A New Canting Dict., 1725; Grose.

hocus-pocus; in C.17, often hocas-pocas, n. The name of, or for, a juggler: Jonson, in The Staple of News, 1624; in 1634, a title runs, 'Hocus Pocus Junior, The Anatomie of Leger de main'; in 1656, defined by Blount. Hence, play focus-pocus: to play the juggler (fig.): coll.: mid-C.17—mid-18. Bentley.—2. Hence, a trickster: from ca. 1720.—3. A juggler's trick; hence, imm., deception, trickery: 1647.—4. As a juggler's formula: 1632.—5. A juggler's or impostor's stock in trade: from ca. 1650. Also hocus-trade, C.17.—6. Drugged liquor: —1823; † by 1893, hocus being then gen.—All these senses were orig. s.; prob: low s., but soon > coll.; by 1850, only the 3rd, 4th and 5th were much used; in C.20, only the 3rd and 5th, both of which have, since ca. 1810, been S.E. Either ex an actual juggler's name (slightly latinised, no doubt), or ex hoc est corpus (fili), mentioned (by Tillotson) as a juggler's phrase, the latter theory being bolstered by the Scandinavian hokuspokusfiliokus (W.). N.B., the C.17 sense, a bag used by jugglers, was too rare to be coll.—7. An astrologer: early C.18. Cf. OCCUPATIONAL NAMES, in Appendix.

hocus-pocus, v. To cheat, trick: from ca. 1770.—2. V.i., to juggle, practise trickery: 1687 (L'Estrange). Both orig. coll., but in late C.19–20, S.E. (Dates, OED.) Ex the n.

hocus-pocus, adj. Juggling, cheating, fraudulent: 1668 (SOD): coll. until C.19, then S.E. Wycherley; Macklin, in Love à la Mode, 'The law is a sort of hocus-pocus science that smiles in yer face while it picks yer pocket.'—the adv. is rare: hocus-pocusly.

hocus-trade. See hocus-pocus, n., 5.

hocus-trick. A juggling trick, hence a swindle: coll.: ca. 1675–1700. Ex hocus, n.

hod or Hod; occ. Brother Hod. A bricklayer's labourer: coll.:—1791; ob. (Grose.) Ex the hod used for carrying bricks and mortar; abbr. hodman.—2. A bookmaker's money-bag: turf c.: C.20. Slang, p. 243.—3. A bit of hod, a fast girl, a prostitute: teenagers': since late 1950s.

hod of mortar. A pot of porter: rhyming s.:—1859 (H., 1st ed.); ob. by ca. 1930.

hodad. A 'non-surfing beach bum' (Pix, 28 Sep. 1963) or, alternatively, 'a surfer not loyal to one beach' (B.P.) or ephemerally (ca. 1962–4) 'a youth who has a surfie haircut and a rocker's clothes' (B.P.): Aus. surfers', esp. if teenage: since ca. 1961. Perhaps, as Dr Leechman suggests, a mock Black Am. pron. of 'Who's that?'

hoddie. A hod-carrier, one who carries bricks: Aus.: since ca. 1920. B., 1953.

hoddie-doddie; better -y. A squat person: coll.: ca. 1530–1900. Edward Lear, 1877, uses -y. In C.17–18, gen. in form of jeering rhyme or c.p., Hoddy-doddy, All arse and no body; the rhyme was, in a contemporary song, applied to the Rump Parliament.—2. A fool; a cuckold: ca. 1595–1800; cf. hoddyp-peak (the ref. being to a snail's horns). Cognate with hodmandod, q.v., in being prob. a rhyming perversion of dođman, a snail.—3. A lighthouse's revolving light: nautical: late C.19–early 20. (Bowen.) Ex West Country dial.

hoddyp-doddy, adj. Dumpty: coll.: from ca. 1820; † except in dial. Ex n.

hoddyp-peak; in C.16, often peke. A fool, a dolt: C.16–early 17.—2. A cuckold: ca. 1585–1640. Both senses orig. coll., but by 1590, at latest, S.E. The hoddyp, as in hoddyp-doddy, may at first have been = a snail; cf. hodmandod. (Hoddy-poll, C.16, same meanings, may orig. have been coll.)

hodman. Oxford University s. > coll.: 1677, SOD, which defines thus, 'A term of contempt applied by [those] undergraduates of Christ Church... who were King's Scholars of Westminster School, to those who were not, and hence to other undergraduates'. After ca. 1790, merely historical. (Cf. squill.) Ex the S.E. sense, a bricklayer's labourer: cf. hod, q.v.

hodmandod. A shell-snail: coll.: 1626 (SOD); ob. except in dial. Ex dođman, a snail: cf. hoddyp-doddy, q.v.—2. A deformed person: coll.: ca. 1660–1900.—3. A Hottentot: low coll., almost sol.: 1686; † by 1850. Captain Cowley in Harris's Voyages.

hodmandod, adj. Short and clumsy: from ca. 1820; ob.: coll. when not dial. Ex prec.; prob. suggested by hoddyp-doddy, q.v.

hoe into (a task). To work hard and diligently at (something): Aus.: since ca. 1920. Agricultural metaphor. (B.P.)

hog, n. A shilling: orig. (ca. 1670) c.; in C.19–20, low s. Coles.—2. Half-a-crown: low s.: ca. 1860–1910. (B. & L.) In these coin-names, as with sense 3, the pl. is also hog.—3. In C.18–early 19, occ. a sixpence: also c., whence the US sense. Prob. ex the figure of a hog on a small silver coin.—4. A student of St John's College, Cambridge: Cambridge (—1690); † before 1889. Also Johnian hog. A. de la Pryme, Diary, 1690.—5. The Hog, nickname for King Richard III of England. Ex heraldic device.—6. A locomotive; hence hogger or hog-head, a locomotive engineer: Can. railroadmen's:—1931. Ex US.—7. See cherry-hog; go the whole hog; road-hog; Hampshire hog; fits and starts...—8. A home-built motorcycle: motorcyclists': later C.20. (Dunford.) Adopted ex US.

hog, v. To appropriate, esp. appropriate and eat or drink, greedily: orig. (1887), US; anglicised ca. 1912; > coll. ca. 1930.—2. To coit, v.i. and t.: low: C.19–20, ob.—3. As hog it, to sleep soundly, esp. snoringly: coll.:—1923 (Manchon).—4. To be, behave like, a road-hog: coll.: 1925. (OED Sup.) Also hog it.

hog-fat. (Of a person) a nuisance, useful-for-nothing, a parasite: Aus.: C.20. K.S. Prichard, Haxby's Circus, 1930.

hog-grubber. 'A narrow-soul'd sneaking Fellow' (B.E.): coll.: late C.17–early 19. Hence adj., hog-grubbing: C.18–early 19.—2. 'A Thames waterman, licensed by the Trinity House': London watermen's: ca. 1840–80. Mayhew, cited by EDD.

hog in a squall or storm, like a. Beside oneself; out of one's senses: nautical coll.:—1887; slightly ob. Baumann.

hog in armour. A lout in fine clothes: coll.: ca. 1650–1930. Hence 'Thackeray's "Count Hogginarmoo"' (SOD). In C.20, S.E.—2. Larwood & Hotten, in Signboards, 1867, 'a favourite epithet applied to rifle volunteers [from ca.1850] by coster-mongers, fishmongers and such-like'.—3. An iron-clad: RN: ca. 1860–90. Bowen.

hog it. See hog, v., 3 and 4.

hog-rubber. A(n ignorant) rustic: pej. coll.: C.17. Jonson, Burton (OED).

hog-shearing; shearing of hogs, vbl n. Much ado about nothing: coll.: C.17–18. Ex the full text of the much cry and little wool proverb.

hog-trough. A most unseaworthy ship, a mere excuse for a ship: RN: C.19. Bill Truck, Dec. 1825.

hog-wash. Bad liquor, esp. 'rot-gut', q.v.: an early occurrence is in B.E., 1699: 'Toplash, Wretched, sorry Drink, or Hog-Wash': coll. >, 1800, S.E.—2. Hence, worthless, cheap journalism: journalistic: from ca. 1880. Cf.—3. The sea. See ogwash.

hog-yoke. Nautical, C.19, thus in Bowen: 'The old-fashioned wooden quadrant in American ships and Grand Bankers, so-called from its likeness to the wooden yoke put over hogs to prevent them breaking through fences'.

hoga. See ho gya.

Hogan(-Mogan), Hogen(-Mogen). A Dutchman: a coll. affected by satirists, ca. 1670–1700. Ex hoogmogenheien, the Dutch for high and mighty lords, as applied to the Dutch States-General. See that fine scholar, G. Aitken's Satires of Andrew Marvell, 1892, p. 128.—2. Hence any 'high and mighty' person: coll.: ca. 1640–1750.—3. Also as corresponding adj., with additional sense, potent (of drink): ca. 1650–1730. Cf.:

hogan-mogan rug. A strong drink, esp. ale: coll.: ca. 1650–1720. Dryden, in The Wild Gallant, 'I was drunk; damnably drunk with ale; great hogan-mogan bloody ale.' Cf. prec.

hoggers. 'Day dreaming. (Perhaps not unconnected with the after-effects of Hogmanay?)' (H. & P., 1943): Services: since ca. 1930. Rather, I think, a sense-development ex hogya (see ho gya).

hoggin. See oggin.

hoggins or oggin. A due share, esp. in pleasure—e.g. sexual, i.e. 'hoggish', pleasures: low C.20. 'Cf. hoggins line at darts' (L.A.) The (h)oggins line, the line or position at which one stands to make the throw, has, since 1957 or 1958, been predominantly the (h)ockey.

hogmagundy. Sexual intercourse: orig. Scots: ca. 1820–90, (not very gen.) Southern coll. ? ex hogmanay.

hogmanay. A wanton: Scots C.19–20 (ob.) coll. Ex the Scots national festival of Hogmanay, New Year's Eve.

hogo, a flavour, a taint, may orig.—ca. 1650—have been coll., but it very soon > S.E. Ex Fr. haut goût. Also fogo, which is a C.19 corruption.

hogs. About The Hogs, Carew writes: 'The Royal Hampshire Regiment are short on nicknames, and unlike the famous cricket team are averse to being known as "The Hogs"; their cap-badge sometimes led to them being known as the "Hampshire Tigers".' See also Hampshire hog.—2. In bring (one's) hogs (or pigs) to a fair or to a fine market, to profit; do well: coll.: C.17—earlier 20. From C.18 onwards, also used ironically. Contrast:—3. Drive (one's) hogs (or pigs) to market: to snore: C.18–20: coll. Swift, 'He snored so loud that we thought he was driving his hogs to market'; Grose, 1st ed., has the abbr. form drive one's hogs. Ex the notable grunting of driven pigs.

Hogs Norton, have been born at. To be ill-mannered, uncouth: proverbial coll.: mid-C.16—mid-19. Often in orig. form, which adds: where the pigs play on the organs. The ref. is to 'the village of Hock-Norton, Leicestershire, where the organist once upon a time was named Piggs!', so it is said (Apperson, q.v.).

hog's wash of the fo'c'stle head. The deck-hands on a merchant ship: nautical: C.20.

hogshad, couch a. To lie down and sleep: c. of ca. 1560–1840. Ex hog's head, a person, 1515 (SOD).

hogya. See ho ya.

hoi (Rossall and Haileybury: C.20), the lowest team, set, or game at Rugby football: oips (Haileybury: C.20) and hoips (Christ's Hospital: C.20), beginners at football; hoy (Bishop's Stortford: C.20), a townsman, a 'cad'; polloi (Cheltenham: since ca. 1925), the lowest football team or set: all these terms come from the Greek hoi polloi, lit. 'the many', hence, 'the multitude, the masses, the common people'. Marples. Cf.: hoi polloi. Candidates for pass degrees: university: ca. 1860–1915. Ex the Gr. for 'the many'. Cf. S.E. sense.

hoick, n. A jerk as one's stroke begins or ends: rowing coll.:—1898 (OED Sup.).—2. Hence, any swift, jerking movement, as 'Is it caught? give it a hoick': C.20 coll. (P.B.) Ex:-

hoick, v. To raise, hoist, esp. with a jerk: coll.: late C.19–20. Prob. ex hike, v., 2.—2. Hence, to force (an aeroplane) to mount steeply: coll.: 1916 (OED Sup.).—3. Hence, v.i., to climb steeply, jerk oneself up (and out of): coll.: from ca. 1925 (OED Sup.).—4. To spit (mostly as v.i.): Bootham School (Bootham, 1925); also more gen., and Aus.: C.20. (Baker.) In phrase, e.g., 'he hoicked and spat', where it represents a blend of hawk+hoick, v., 1. (P.B.) hoick off, v.i. To become airborne: RAF: since ca. 1925. (H. & P.) An elab. of hoick, v., 3.—2. Hence, to depart, to begin a journey, to be on one's 'way to somewhere' (H. & P.): since ca. 1930; † by 1950.

hoips. See hoi.

hoise. A C.19 var. of:

hoist, n. A confederate helping a thief to reach an open window: late C.18—mid-19 c. Grose, 2nd ed.—2. Hence, a shop-lifter: C.19, c. > low Cf.:—3. The hoist, shop-lifting: c.:—1812 (Vaux).—4. In go upon the hoist, to enter a building by an open window: c.: ca. 1787–1860. (Grose, 2nd ed.) See sense 1 and cf. heave, v., 1.—5. In give a hoist, v.t.: to do a bad turn: tailors': late C.19—early 20.—6. On the hoist, on 'the drunk': low coll.: later C.19—early 20. Cf. the v., 3.

hoist, v. To rob by means of the hoist (see prec., 3); to shop-lift: c.: C.19–20.—2. See hoist-lay, 2.—3. To drink, v.i. (low) coll.: ca. 1860–1920. P.B.: still extant, later C.20, in such joc. phrases as 'let's go and hoist the odd jar', let's go for a drink.—4. To strike (someone) with one's fist: Aus. low: C.20. (B., 1942.) Cf. lift, n., 4, q.v.—5. To discard: Aus.: since ca. 1930. (B.P.) Cf. heave, v., 3.—6. To steal: Aus.: mid-C.19–20. (B., 1959.) A generalisation of sense 1.

hoist a cock. To win a regatta and display a silver or tin cut-out of a cock in the rigging of a winning ship' (Granville, letter, 1962): RN coll.: C.20.

hoist (one's) half-masters. To at least appear to act willingly and seriously: naval, mostly lowerdeck: (?) ca. 1790–1870. (Bill Truck, Mar. 1824.) Cf. hoist in, v.

hoist-in, n. A drink of liquor: ca. 1865–1920. Ex hoist, v., 3.—2. Do or have a hoist-in, (of males), to coit: low: later C.19—earlier 20.

hoist in, v. To endure, tolerate; to accept: RN: since ca. 1945. 'I put it to the Commander but he wouldn't hoist it in' (Granville).

hoist-lay. Shop-lifting: c.: ca. 1810–60.—2. 'Shaking a man head downwards, so that the money rolls out of his pockets' (F. & H.): ca. 1830–1900: c. Also hoisting, 2, q.v.

hoist merchant. A shop-lifter: c.: late C.19–20. Var. of hoister, 1.

hoist (one's) pennants. To grumble; be severely critical: nautical: late C.19–20. A display of all pennants means 'I don't understand your signal'. Cf:-

hoist the Jolly Roger. To 'defy discipline and authority' (W.G. Carr, Brass Hats ..., 1939): late C.19–20.

hoister. A shop-lifter; since ca. 1940, restricted to female operators: c.: C.19–20. Ex hoist, v., 1.—2. A pickpocket: c.: C.19. J.H. Jesse, London, vol. I, 1847.—3. A sot: low coll.: later C.19—early 20. Ex hoist, v., 3.

hoisting. See hoist-lay, 2. Also as vbl n. to the various senses of hoist, v.

hoistings. See hustings.

hoik. An occ. var. of hoick, esp. the v.

hoity-toity. See highy-tighty, of which it is the usu. C.20 form.

hok. See hough.

hokey. Prison: low: late C.19–20. Perhaps ex chokey on hokey-pockey.—2. In by (the) hokey, see hoaky. Occ. varied by the hokeys and, in late C.19, to by the hokey-pokey.

hok(e)y-pok(e)y. A cheat, a swindle: low coll.: from ca. 1845.—2. Nonsense: low coll.: from ca. 1875.—3. A, indeed any, cheap ice-cream sold in the streets: low coll.: from ca. 1884. A C.19 street-cry ran 'hokey-pokey, pokey ho'; a C.19–20, 'hokey-pokey, a penny a lump'. All these senses are ex hocus-pocus; the third is not—as some wit proposed—ex It. o che poco!, oh, how little. (The form hokery-pokery is Northern dial.)

hokey-pokey, adj. Swindling; illegal, illicit: low coll.:—1887 (Baumann). Ex n., 1.

hokey-pokey, penny a lump, the more you eat the more you pump. It is often chanted derisively at children who have some ice cream, bought on the streets, by those who have none' (Petch, 1946): working-class children's c.p.: earlier C.20. Cf. hokey-pokey, 3.

Hokitika swindle. 'Hotel bar game played to create a jackpot from which payment for drinks may be made' (B., 1941): NZ: C.20: of topical origin.

hokum, occ. hocum. Anything designed to make a melodramatic or a sentimental appeal; bunkum: US (ca. 1920), anglicised by 1926. Prob. ex hocus(-pocus) on bunkum. OED Sup.

hol. See hois.

Holborn, the. The Holborn Restaurant in London: coll. (—1887), verging on S.E. Baumann, 'feines Restaurant in Holborn'.

Holborn Hill, ride backwards up (Grose, 1st ed.). To go to be hanged: mid-C.18—early 19 s.: perhaps orig. c., but certainly soon low coll. Congreve has go up Holborn Hill; ride up Holborn occurs at least as early as 1659 (see Nares), while Jonson, in Bartholomew Fair, alludes to the heavy hill ... of Holborn. Such was the route to Tyburn, where criminals were hanged, the criminals riding backwards. The last execution at Tyburn, so therefore the last procession thither, was in 1784, the executions thereafter taking place near Newgate.

hold. (To bet, wager: S.E.—) V.i. To conceive a child: coll.: C.18–20. Ex the C.17–20 S.E. sense of animal conception.

Var. hold it.—2. In billiards, to hole, v.t.: s. > j.: 1869. 'A corruption of hole, by association of holed and hold' (SOD).—3. (V.t.) To hold one's own against, be (clearly) a match for: sporting s. (—1883)>, in C.20, gen. coll. OED.—4. To be in funds: low coll. (? orig. s.): at first, Cockney: from ca. 1870. In C.20, mostly Aus. Esp. in do you hold?, C.19, and, C.20 Aus., are you holding?

hold a candle to, and hold a candle to the devil. See candle. hold a good wind. (Of a ship) to have 'good weatherly qualities': nautical coll.: mid-C.19—earlier 20. Bowen.

hold a spear. 'To take a very minor non-speaking part' (P.B.): Aus. theatrical: since 1950; by 1965, coll. Cf. Brit. spear-carrier.

hold a tangi. See tangi.

hold (one's) corner. To hold one's own against others: coll., esp. Lancashire: (?) mid-C.19—20. (Robert Roberts, A Ragged Schooling, 1976.) Perhaps ex boxing.

hold down (e.g. a job). To overcome the difficulties of; hence to do satisfactorily, with the connotation of keeping abreast of the 'snags' and problems of a difficult job: coll., orig. (ca. 1890) US, anglicised ca. 1910. Perhaps ex:

hold down (a claim). To reside long enough on a claim to establish ownership under the homestead law: mining s.: US (1888) and Aus. (ca. 1890).

hold everything! See hold your horses!

hold (one's) gulsh. To keep quiet, refrain from talking: from ca. 1840: more dial. than (provincial) coll. Ex Northamptonshire gulsh, silly talk; ribaldry.

hold (one's) hair on. See keep (one's) hair on, to keep one's temper.

hold hard!; hold on! Wait a moment!; stop!: coll.: the former (orig. in S.E., of pulling at a horse's reins) from ca. 1760; the latter from ca. 1860 and orig., and long mostly, nautical. Colman, 1761, 'Hold hard! hold hard! you are all on a wrong scent'; Edmund Yates, 1864, in Broken in Harness, 'I told Meaburn to hold on.' (Although hold on often occurs in moods other than the imperative, hold hard very rarely does.) hold (h)er, Newt! She's a-rarin! This Can. (esp. prairies) c.p. was adopted, ca. 1948, ex US: 'pseudo-rural, with a tinge of contempt for the rustics' (Leechman). The 'she' naturally refers to an imaginary horse. See esp. DCpp.

hold in hand. To amuse; vividly to interest; have a marked ascendancy over: coll.: from ca. 1860; ob. Ex the † S.E. sense, keep in expectation.

hold it. To feel angry or resentful; to sulk or not speak: Cotton College: C.20. Ex hold one's backside in angry desperation.—2. (As imperative.) Stay in precisely that position! painters' s. (from ca. 1895) > coll. ca. 1910 in the theatrical, and ca. 1925 in the cinematographic world.—3. Hence, Wait!: later C.20 var. of hold everything, q.v. at hold your horses! Cf. hang about! (P.B.)

hold my hand and call me Charlie! A mostly derisive c.p., usu. addressed by youth to girl: 1930s.

hold no brief fox. Not to support, defend, actively sympathise with (a person): coll.: since ca. 1910. OED Sup.

hold on! See hold hard!

hold on by the eyebrows, or eyelashes, or eyelids. A var. of hang on by the eyebrows, etc., q.v.

hold on like grim death; hold on to. To be courageously or obstinately persistent about; apply oneself diligently to: the former, coll.; the latter, coll. in C.19, S.E. in C.20. Both from ca. 1850; the former was perhaps orig. US. Also hang on like ...; cf. prec.

hold on the slack. To do nothing: nautical coll.: mid-C.19—20. (Bowen.) I.e. the slack of the rope. In later C.20, hang on ...

hold-out. A mechanical device, esp. in poker, for 'holding out', i.e. concealing, desirable cards until they are useful: gamblers' c.: ca. 1860—1900, though app. not recorded before 1893. Maskelyne, in Sharps and Flats, 1894 (OED).

hold out on. To keep something (esp. money or important information) back from (a person): adopted, ex US, ca. 1924.

hold the baby. See holding the baby.

hold the bag. To be duped: c.: from ca. 1920. By 1940, at latest, it was gen. s., usu. in the form be left holding the bag. Can. has, since ca. 1950, used also an extended form: (be holding the nose bag, 'left in a ridiculous position after somebody has stolen the horse' (Leechman). 'Rather, I suggest, from the "snipe hunt", a practical joke current (among hunters, cowboys, etc.) in 1900 or earlier, in which the victim (usually a "greenhorn") is literally left holding the bag. Cf. under "snipe hunt" in Bernard Botkin, A Treasury of American Folklore' (Claiborne, 1966).

hold the fort. To mind the shop for someone while he's away (e.g. urinating): coll.: C.20.

hold the market. 'To buy stock and hold it to so large an extent that the price cannot decline' (F. & H.): Stock Exchange s. (ca. 1880) >, ca. 1890, gen. coll.

hold the stage. To have the eye of an audience: theatrical: from ca. 1875.—2. To attract most of the attention; do all the talking: coll.: from ca. 1895.

hold the sticks to; hold sticks with. 'To compete on equal terms with': resp., dial. (ca. 1817) >, ca. 1860, coll.; and coll.: 1853 (Reade: OED). Both are, as coll., rare in C.20. Perhaps ex single-stick.

hold tight! Stop!; don't move!; Steady!: coll.: since ca. 1910. Ex bus-conductor's adjuration.

hold-up, n. (A highwayman; a bushranger: orig. (ca. 1888), US; never properly anglicised, and never gen.)—2. A highway robbery; any robbery in which a person is held up at firearm-point: orig. US; anglicised ca. 1905 as a coll.; by ca. 1933, S.E.

hold up, v. Rob on the the highway, hence waylay and rob, hence to cheat: orig. (1887), US; anglicised as a coll. ca. 1895; in C.20, S.E. Cf. Aus. stick up.—2. In c., to arrest: ca. 1880—1915.

hold up your dagger hand. A C.17 drinking c.p.

(hold up your head): there's money bid for you. (Don't be so modest! for) people think well of you: C.17—mid-19: a semi-proverbial c.p. Swift, the longer form; Marryat, the shorter, prec. by 'as the saying is'. Apperson.

hold with. To approve of; agree with: coll.: from ca. 1895. Ex S.E. sense, to side with: cf., in S.E., the † hold on, the ob. hold of or for (SOD). In C.20 usu. in negative, as 'I don't hold with all this ...'

hold with the hare. See run with the hare ...

hold your horses! 'Hold the job up until further orders. [Comes from the Artillery]' (H. & P.): since ca. 1890 in the RA; since ca. 1930, as a phrase common enough in also the RAF and even the RN. Var. (RAF): hold everything!: coll. (1940) >, by 1944, j. hold your jaw! Be quiet (low) coll.: from ca. 1750. (Foote.) Occ. in other moods than the imperative. Cf. hold hard!

hold your water! Don't get impatient!: C.20: orig. RN; by 1960, in much wider use.

holding, ppl adj. In funds: Aus. and NZ: C.20: s. > coll. Esp. how are you holding?, how much money have you? See hold, v., 4, and cf. financial.

holding back. Trying to avoid being cured of wound or sickness: military coll.: 1915. (B. & P.) Merely an extension of the S.E. sense.

[holding the baby (, left)]. Joc. S.E. rather than s. or coll.: late C.19—20. E.g. of a person left with stocks and shares that cannot be sold. Ex men holding the baby outside a shop while the wives take an unconscionable time inside. See quot'n at sell a pup.]

holding the line with a man and a boy. A c.p. applied to any very thinly held line or trench: common during WW1, but prob. dating since late C.19. Edmund Blunden, Undertones of War, 1928.

holding up the corner. A coll. phrase satirical of a learning idler: C.20. (Ware.) Var. holding up the wall.

Hole, the. The Severn Tunnel: railwaymen's: late C.19—20.

(Railway.) A specialisation of hole, n., 9.—2. The underground Operations Room at Fighter Command Headquarters, Bentley Priory, 1940–5: RAF: after 1945, merely historical. (R.S.)

hole, n. The pendulum muliebre: low coll.: C.16 (?earlier)—20. See also better hole.—2. Hence, like cunt, it has come to signify coition or women viewed as sexual potentialities or actualities, as in 'He likes a, or his, bit of hole' or 'Hole means everything to that blighter'.—3. The anus: low coll. in C.19–20, but in C.14–18 a vulgarity (as in Chaucer's ribald Milner's Tale). Abbr. arse-hole.—4. As a prison-cell, a dungeon, it is, despite F. & H., perfectly good Eng., and as, in C.17–18, a printery specialising in unlicensed books, it is rather printers' j. than coll. or printers' s.—The following two senses were S.E. previous to ca. 1870, then, pace the OED, they > coll.: 5, a small, dingy abode or lodging (1616); 6, a monetary or social difficulty, a mass, a scrape: 1760, Smollett. (Dates, SOD).—7. A place: mostly military and society: from ca. 1915. Perhaps ex better hole, q.v.—8. (Gen. in pl.) A shilling: tramps' c.—1935. Also grafters' s.—1934 (Cheapjack).—9. A tunnel: railwaymen's coll.: mid-C.19–20. Passing Show, 7 Apr. 1934.—10. In the hole, (of a compositor) that, being behindhand with his portion, is holding up compositors working on the same publication: printers': from ca. 1860. B. & L.—11. For put a bit of wood in the hole!, see wood in it!; for put in the hole, see put in the garden.—12. See suck his hole!; better (h)ole; water, n., 4.

hole. (Gen. v.t.) 'To effect intromission' (F. & H.): low: C.19–20. Ex n., 1. The v.i. is gen. expressed by to hole it. hole-and-corner, underhand or secret, is S.E., as is h.-and-c. work, 'shadiness'; but h. and c. work, sexual connexion, is mid-C.19–20 low coll.

Hole below the Naval, the. A certain Piccadilly club: C.20. Pun.

hole in (something), make a. To use up largely, esp. money or drink: coll.: from ca. 1660. In C.20, S.E.—2. To interrupt, break; upset, spoil: coll.: from ca. 1850. Only in such locutions as: make a hole in one's manners, to be impolite (ob.); ... in one's reputation, (of a man) to seduce a girl, (of a girl) to allow herself to be seduced; ... in the silence, to make a noise, esp. an excessive (and occ. continuous or continual) noise: orig., these were prob. to be considered joc. S.E., but they promptly > coll.

hole in a ladder, unable (or too drunk) to see a. Excessively drunk: coll.: from ca. 1860.

hole in (one's) coat (, pick a). (To find) a cause for censure, a moral flaw: coll.: late C.16–19. Shakespeare, 'If I find a hole in his coat, I will tell him my mind'; Burns on Grose, 'If there's a hole in a' your coats, I rede you tent it' hole, or hole out, in one. To become pregnant as the result of one's first amour: Aus.: since ca. 1910. (B., 1942.) Ex golf.—2. Often used at male parties just before the marriage of the guest of honour, in relation to first-night intercourse. 'A man who "does it the first night" is a "man". One who does not is a "mouse" and one who has already done it is a "rat" (a valued correspondent): Aus.: since ca. 1920.

hole in (one's) pocket, burn a. See burn (a hole)...

hole-in-the-wall employer. A small employer of sweated labour: Labour coll. (almost j.): C.20. Dorothy Sells, The British Trade Boards System, 1923.

hole in the water, make a. To commit suicide by drowning: (joc. > low) coll.: from ca. 1850. Dickens, 1853 (SOD); E. Phillpotts, Yellow Sands, 1926. Cf. hole in (something), 2.

hole it. See hole, v.

hole of content or of holes. The female pudend: C.16–19: orig. euph., but in C.18–19 low coll. Also queen of holes.

hole to hide it in, give or lend a. To grant the sexual favour: low coll.: C.19–20.

hole up, v.; hole-up, n. To hide; a hiding place: Aus. c. (B., 1942), adopted, ca. 1930, ex US; in later C.20, also occ. Brit. coll. In N. Africa, 1940–2, Aus. troops used hole up for 'to lie hidden'; later Brit. usage seems to prefer, e.g., 'I was holed up in this dreadful hotel...'

holed, ppl adj. (Of the woman, with well-, large-, etc.) having a pudend of a specified kind: C.19–20: low coll.—2. (Of a man) in, or at, sexual congress: C.19–20 low coll. holer. A man promiscuously and actively amorous: low coll.: C.16–20, ob. Also hole-monger.—2. A whore; a light woman: C.18–mid-19: coll. This word, not nearly so gen. as F. & H. implies, is a reminiscence of the C.13–15 use, gen. as holour, applied only to men.

holey dollar. See holy dollar.

holiday. (Gen. pl.) A spot carelessly left untarred or unpainted: nautical coll.:—1785 (Grose, 1st ed.; Bowen). Also among builders and house-painters: C.19–20.—2. Hence, a gap 'left between slung hammocks or clothing hung up to dry': nautical: late C.19–20. Bowen.—3. (Ex sense 1.) Gone for a holiday, imperfect, incomplete, flawed: coll.: later C.19—early 20.—4. In take a holiday, to be dismissed, esp. from a job: ironic (low) coll.: C.19—early 20. Cf. get the bag or sack (at bag).—5. See blind man's holiday; speak holiday; a holiday at Peckham, see Peckham.—6. A transfer from a position to an easier one: c.: C.20.

[holiday bowler, a bad bowler (at bowls), is cited by B.E. and Grose as coll., but holiday, suited only for a holiday, frivolous, hence inferior, is S.E., as in the C.17–18 proverbial she's a(n) holiday dame.]

holiday cutter, a. A minor punishment, the delinquent pulling in the cutter instead of going ashore: Conway cadets': from ca. 1890. (John Masefield, The Conway, 1933.) Analogous is the Conway's holiday messenger, the delinquent attending on lower deck instead of going ashore: Masefield.

holing, n. Whoring; womanising: low coll.: C.19–20; ob. See hole, v.

holla-balloo. A var., recorded by Baumann, of hullabaloo. holla (or holler or holloa) boys holla (etc.); often shortened to holla (etc.) boys. A collar: rhyming s.: late C.19–20. Franklyn notes 'generally pronounced 'oller'; ex an old Guy Fawkes Night chant.

Holland. See LOVERS' ACRONYMS, in Appendix.

Hollanders. Pointed wax moustaches: S. London: 1875–85. (Ware.) Ex W. Holland, a popular theatre-lessee owning 'the finest pair of black-waxed sheeny moustaches ever beheld'.

holler, v. To shout; cry for mercy: a low coll. form of hollo, holloa, hollow: app. orig (—1699), US, anglicised ca. 1870. OED Sup.

Holler Cuss. The Fr. race-horse Holocauste competing in the Derby of: 1899: sporting. Ware.

holler wagon. The police radio car. ("holler" = to shout) (Tempest): c.: mid-C.20.

hollis. A small pebble: Winchester College: ca. 1870–1920. ? ex a boy's name. Wrench.

hollow, n. Cooked poultry: gourmets':—1823 (Egan's Grose). Because disembowelled. Both this and its var., bit of hollow, occur in Maginn's translation of Memoirs of Vidocq, III, 1829. See hollow meat.

hollow, adj. Complete, thorough; very easy: coll.: 1750 (SOD). Esp. with thing and victory (or defeat), the former (synon. with the latter) being a set phrase in C.18—early 19, as hollow win is in C.20. Ex:

hollow, adv. Completely, thoroughly, very easily: 1668 (SOD). Esp. with beat, as in Townley, 1759, 'Crab was beat hollow.' Skinner, in his fascinating Etymologicon, pertinently suggested that hollow = wholly corrupted. The mainly US form, all hollow, occurs in Foote's The Orators, 1762.

hollow-legs. Applied to a thin person, usu. male, who habitually eats a great deal; often in the potential, never quite realised, c.p., he's (occ. she's) got hollow legs, and sometimes also as a nickname. As 'Mr Hollowlegs' it appears in Wallace Hildick's novel, Bracknell's Law, 1976. The term goes back to C.19—I first heard it ca. 1904.—2. Hence anyone, again usu. male, who habitually drinks a considerable quantity of beer: heard in Service messes, post WW2. (P.B.) hollow meat. 'Rabbit or hare ... unpopular when served out to a ship's company': nautical coll.: late C.19–20. (Bowen.)

Prob. suggested by dial. h.m., poultry as opp. to butcher's meat (EDD); cf. hollow, n., q.v.

Hollow Tooth, the. 'Ironic and disgruntled term for New Scotland Yard, used by some police, and thus by certain knowledgeable criminals. Very much an "in" term' (Powis, 1977).

Holloway. The female pudend: low punning: ca. 1860–1930.

Holloway Castle. Holloway Prison: London lower classes': —1893. Ware, who mentions that it is occ. called, evasively, North Castle: it is situated in N. London.

Holloway, Middlesex. The lower bowel: low, doubly punning: ca. 1865–1910.

Holloway's Unfinished Symphonies. The Maunsell forts erected in the estuary of the Thames: WW2. Ex the contractor's name? P-G-R.

Holly. A philippic: Society: ca. 1880–90. Ex John Hollingshead, who, as lessee of the Gaiety Theatre, 'for many years issued scathing proclamations signed with his name, printed in the house bills' (Ware).

hols. (Rarely hol, a single day's holiday; and in half-hol, a half day's holiday.) Holidays: orig. and mainly schools': C.20. The OED Sup. dates at 1906, but the term was in use at least five years earlier. The term is often treated as a singular. Thus Arnold Lunna, Loose Ends, 1919, 'Where are you going this hols?'; 'Did you have a good hols?'

Holstein. A police car: Can.: since the mid-1950s. The black and white cars are likened to the black and white cattle. (Leachman, 1968.)

holt. A hold, a grip: adopted, ca. 1880, ex US, ex Eng. dial. of C.14–20; orig. low coll., but by ca. 1940, no longer low, esp. in the phrase *in holt*s with, at grips with. OED; Thornton. —2. Hence, a speciality: Can.:—1932 (John Beames).

holus-bolus, n. The head; occ. the neck: nautical: ca. 1870–1905.

holus-bolus, adv. All together; completely; at a gulp; in confusion; helter-skelter: orig. (—1847), dial.; coll. from ca. 1860, perhaps thanks to T. Hughes (as dial.) in Tom Brown's Schooldays; Wilkie Collins, in The Moonstone, 'He put [the silver] back, holus-bolus, in her pocket.' The OED suggests by facetious latinisation of (the) whole bolus or as through Gr. ὅλος βῶλος.

holy. See more holy than righteous.

holy as a horse, (as). Extremely holy: C.16 coll., somewhat proverbial. Palsgrave.

Holy Aunt. A High Anglican c.p. term for the Roman Catholic Church: late C.19–20. On the Roman Catholics' 'Holy Mother Church'.

Holy Boys, the. The 9th Regt of Foot, >, 1881, The Norfolk, and in 1935, The Royal Norfolk Regt; it lost individual identity as a regt in late 1950s. There are two explanations for the nickname: Frank Richards, in Old Soldier Sahib, 1936, wrote 'they once [in the Peninsular War] sold the Bibles given them by a pious old lady, before going overseas, to buy beer.' Carew mentions this, but inclines to the explanation that the Spanish mistook the regimental crest—a figure of Britannia—for the Virgin Mary, which, as he observes, does not say much for Spanish religious education in the early C.19. N.W. Bancroft, From Recruit to Staff Sergeant, 1885, refers to 'the "9th Holy Boys"', covering our guns', at the battle of Ferozeshah, 21 Dec. 1845. (P.B.)

Holy City, the. Adelaide: Aus. coll.: from ca. 1870. (R. & F. Hill, in What We Saw in Australia, 1875.) Ex its many churches. (Morris.) Cf. Farinaceous City, q.v.—2. St Albans: railwaymen's: C.20. Railway, 2nd.—3. Married quarters at the RN submarine base at Faslane, Holy Loch: RN: later C.20. Peppitt cites John Winton, The Fighting Temeraire, 1971. Prob. ex Holy Loch, with a pun on hole, vagina.

Holy Cod. Good Friday: atheists': 1890; ob. by 1930. Adopted from Fr. free-thinkers' la Sainte Morue.

Holy Communion. 'Rum collected by the Coxswain in a bottle and drunk quite illegally by the Chiefs' and Petty Officers' messes on Sundays, especially in small ships' holy day. 'In well disciplined ships of war, many officers devote a certain day in the week, purposely, that the crew "may overhaul their bags", and repair their clothes—gloss, on holy-day' (W.N. Glascock, Sailors and Saints, 1829, at I, 97: Moe).

(Humphry Osmond, formerly Surgeon Lieutenant, RN, letter, 1948): RN: C.20.

holy dollar. A dollar out of which a dump (q.v.) has been punched: Aus.: ca. 1820–80. Elsewhere, ca. 1850–1910, also as holey d. Referred to in Hobart Town Gazette, 10 Aug. 1822, though not so named. Punning holey. Morris.

holy father. 'A butcher's boy of St. Patrick's Market, Dublin, or other Irish blackguards [pl., sic], among whom the exclamation, or oath, by the holy father, (meaning the pope) is common' (Grose, 1785): Anglo-Irish: (prob.) ca. 1750–1850. Cf. holy lamb, q.v.

holy fowl. A pious (esp. outwardly pious) woman: ecclesiastical: late C.19–20.

holy friar. A liar: rhyming s.: late C.19–20. Manchon.

Holy Ghost. The winning post: turf rhyming s.: C.20. P.P., Rhyming Slang, 1932.—2. Toast (bread): orig. WW2 army rhyming s. (Franklyn, Rhyming); the term soon > gen., and still is so; I heard it casually uttered in June 1976.

Holy Ghost shop. A church: low:—1909 (Ware).—2. The Theatre Royal: low (—1909); † by 1930. Ibid.

holy ground. A portion of the Conway's main deck consecrated by the Bishop of Liverpool for church-services: Conway cadets': from ca. 1885. John Masefield, The Conway, 1933.

—2. Those parts of a ship prohibited to the lower deck: C.20. Knock.—3. Used joc. and gen., C.20, for any area of restricted access. E.g., in the army: 'You mustn't walk on the drill square! My God, that's the RSM's holy ground!' (P.B.)—4. As the Holy Ground, Ireland, in traditional ballads; the boys of the Holy Ground: C.20 (?earlier) coll. (Mrs C. Raab.)—5. See holy land.

holy iron. See holy poker.

holy Joe. One who is good at Scripture: Conway cadets': from ca. 1865. John Masefield, The Conway, 1933.—2. A threepenny piece, the week's pocket money: RN boy trainees': C.19. Peppitt cites Patrick Riley, Memoirs of a Bluejacket, 1872–1918, 1927. Cf. jo, 2, fourpence and joey, 3, a Cockney term for threepence.—3. A parson, a chaplain: nautical:—1874 (H., 5th ed.).—4. Hence, 'the shallow, circular-crowned hat worn by clergymen' (Slang, p. 198): ecclesiastical: C.20.—5. Hence, any, esp. ostentatiously, pious man: coll.: late C.19–20. (B. & L.)—In Aus., C.20, a narrow-minded 'goody-goody'. B., 1942.

holy (jumping mother of) Moses! See Moses and cf. the former of:

holy kicker! holy smoke! Exclamations expressive of amazement: late C.19–20.

holy lamb. A thorough-paced villain: Anglo-Irish: ca. 1760–1870. (Grose, 1st ed.) Orig., prob. blasphemous. Cf. holy father, q.v.

holy lance! See holy show!

holy land or ground (occ. with capitals). St Giles's, London, or rather (Seven Dials) the underworld part thereof: perhaps orig. c.: the former—1821, the latter—1819; both prob. from ca. 1810. Ob. by 1890, † by 1920. A pre-1819 chant runs: 'For we are the boys of the holy ground, And we'll dance upon nothing'—i.e. be hanged—'and turn us round.' An early explanation has it that the name is 'in compliment to the superior purity of its Irish population' (The Fancy, vol. 1: 1821), while Licensed Victuallers' Gazette of 3 Apr. 1891, refers to 'the Irishmen of the Holy Land'. Cf. Palestine, q.v.

—2. Any neighbourhood affected by Jews: (low) coll.: from ca. 1875. Cf. New Jerusalem, q.v.—3. See holy ground.

holy mackerel! A mild oath, imported, ca. 1944, ex US. 'Probably euphemistic for "Holy Michael!" but perhaps with a hidden dig at [US] "mackerel snappers"—Roman Catholics, who were (then) supposed to eat fish on Fridays' (Claiborne, 1976).

holy nail. Bail (legal): mostly c.: late C.19–20. Underworld, 1961.

holy of holies (or capitalised). The Grand Hotel at Brighton: from ca. 1890. Because a favourite with the Jews. Cf. holy land, 2.—2. A private room; a 'den' or 'sanctum': coll. (—1875); in C.20; S.E., as indeed it was in C.19 except when joc. or derivative. Nat Gould, in The Double Event, 'Fletcher did not venture into that holy of holies.'—3. The female pudend: low: C.19–20. Punning holy.—4. The Admiralty, Whitehall: RN: C.20. Granville.

holy poker or iron. A university bedel (rarely as h. iron): ca. 1850–1910.—2. As an oath (in C.20, mild): the former (—1840) has var. h. pokers, without the; the latter (—1886), ob. by 1910, was † by 1920. Ex the mace carried by an esquire bedel.—3. The penis: low: from ca. 1860; ob. Punning hole, n., 1; cf. poke, v.—4. In by the holy poker! (occ. ca. 1840–90, the wholly Irish by the h.p. and tumbling Tom!) Occ., ca. 1870–1910, by the holy iron! A mainly joc. expletive, of uncertain meaning (cf., however, old poker, q.v.) and Irish origin: 1804, Maria Edgeworth (OED).

Holy Rollers, the. The Roman Catholics: since ca. 1920.

holy show!; h. lance! A mild oath: ca. 1850–1910: the latter, not gen. Cf. holy poker, 2, q.v.

holy smoke! See holy kicker.

holy terror. A very formidable person; a person of tiresome manner or exasperating habits: coll.: from ca. 1890.

holy water. Water 'laced' with whiskey: C.20.—2. In as the devil loves holy water: not at all: coll.: mid-C.16–20. (Holy water, having, in theology, the virtue of routing the devil.)

holy-water sprinkler. A spiked club: coll.: C.19 (and prob. centuries earlier). The S.E. is h.-w. t'springle or sprinkle, though, in this sense, even those forms must orig. have been coll., as the sense, a fox's brush (C.18 and prob. C.17), was orig. sporting s.

Holy Week. Menstrual period: (Catholic) girls': late C.19–20. Abstinence from intercourse.

holy workman, he is a. An ecclesiastical c.p. of C.16 applied to 'him that will not be saved by Christ's merits, but by the works of his own imagination' (Tyndale, 1528). Cf. a merely moral man.

hom forty. A frequent var. of hommes-forty, q.v. B. & P. homage, to tender. See TAVERN TERMS, §9, in Appendix.

home. As H, Great Britain and Ireland; esp., and gen., England; Colonial, prob. first in US (by 1912 very ob., says Thornton) in C.18. In C.20, mostly Aus. and NZ; esp. as at Home, go Home. A coll. usage bordering on—indeed, by OED considered as—S.E.—2. As the Home, the preventive-detention part of Camp Hill prison: c.: from ca. 1925. Cf.:—3. A convict prison: c.:—1932 ('Stuart Wood', Shades of the Prison House).—4. A dug-out in the front trench: NZ army: WW1.—5. In carry or send home, to bury; to kill: coll.: C.18—early 20. Ex late C.16–20 coll. > S.E. send to (one's) last or long home.—6. In make (one)self at home, to make oneself very comfortable in another's abode or lodging: coll. (—1892) >, by mid-1920s, S.E.—7. In get home, to 'land' a blow effectively: boxing s. > gen. coll.: C.19–20. Ex S.E. pay or touch home. Also fig., as in 'That appeal really got home to them'.—8. In get home, to reach the winning-post: turf and athletics: late C.19–20 s. > coll.—9. Specifically games and the turf, orig., is the sense of get home, to recover a loss, come out quits: from ca. 1809; in C.20, S.E. Also bring (one)self home, from ca. 1760, as in Miss Burney; likewise S.E. in C.20.—10. In get home, to induce the sexual spasm in a woman; also, to get her with child: low coll.: C.19–20.—11. In go home, to die: C.19–20. Esp. in gone home, dead. Cf. 5.—12. In go home, (of clothes) to begin wearing out; to wear out: lower classes:—1923 (Manchon). B., 1941, notes this also as NZ: 'When an article of clothing, etc., ceases to be of service it is said to have gone home', and relates it to visiting Home, i.e. Britain, in old age; more likely ex sense 11, and taken out by emigrants from UK.

Home and Colonial. 'One would think that [since its foundation in 1537] the Honourable Artillery Company would have acquired a multitude of nicknames, but only one is recorded—the homely and domestic sobriquet "Home and Colonial"' (Carew). After the famous chain of foodstores.—2. The London-based Regional Crime Squad office, comprising Metropolitan detectives ("Home") and provincial officers ("Colonial") (Powis): police nickname. Etym. as sense 1.

home and dried (or dry); home and fried; home and hosed; home with a rug on. F. & G. define home and fried as 'Safe and correct': military: late C.19—earlier 20. Poss. rhyming, or a pun on home and dried, the more common C.20 Aus. version; UK prefers home and dry. An Aus. elab., as in, e.g., Vance Palmer, The Passage, 1930, is home and dried on the pig's back—but this is a blend of two phrases; see on the pig's back. This set mean both 'easily done', and also, like the last two, 'successful and secure': home and hosed, Aus. and NZ since mid-C.20; home in the stall with a rug on occurs in Thomas Wood, Cobbers, 1934 (Wilkes, whose gloss on all is 'used of successfully completing some enterprise with a margin to spare [ex horseracing]').

home-bird. A hen-pecked husband; a milksop: coll.: from ca. 1870.—2. In C.20, merely someone who, perhaps unadventurous, prefers the comforts of his own home: coll. (P.B.) home-bug or h.b. A home-boarder, i.e. day-boy: at certain Public Schools, e.g. Harrow: from ca. 1880. Lunn.

home-folks. One's relatives and/or friends, neighbours: coll.: adopted, ca. 1900, ex US. OED Sup.

Home for Lost Dogs. A medical (now ob.) nickname, from ca. 1875, for a large and well-known London medical school, whither flock those who, even if there they obtain their degree, would never have been brilliant physicians or surgeons.

Home for Lost Frogs, The. London; or England or even Britain: joc.: since ca. 1930. Punning home for lost dogs; and, as Claiborne points out, with ref. to the British climate. A var., noted by Petch, is The Home for Lost Fogs.

home, James! A c.p., dating from ca. 1870—if not earlier; James being the coachman, later the chauffeur. At first usu., and still occ., home, James, and don't spare the horses. Often used to a friend giving one a lift home. See DCpp.

home on the pig's back! Very successful; thoroughly (and easily): c.p., mostly Aus. and NZ, but known also in UK: from ca. 1910. Cf. home and dried and on the sheep's back.

Home Rule or h. x. Irish whiskey: ca. 1880–1914. Cf.:

home-rulers. 'Roast potatoes, as baked in the streets': London: 1882—ca. 1914. (Ware.) Because so many potatoes came from Ireland.

home stretch. See get on the home stretch.

home sweet home. The female pudend; orig., no doubt, the conjugal one: low: ca. 1870–1930.

[home to, come. To touch deeply, esp. in one's conscience; impress lastingly: from ca. 1620: S.E. till ca. 1850, then tending more and more to coll.]

home was never like this! A c.p. expressing deep satisfaction and content experienced in a home other than one's own: WW2 and after.

home with the milk, come or get. To reach home in the early morning: coll.: since ca. 1890.

homee. Rare for omee.

Homeless Fleet, the. The pre-War Home Fleet... always being pushed about from port to port': naval: early C.19. Bowen.

homers. A 'home from home' in a port not one's own; a homely, comfortable place: RN since ca. 1925. By the 'OXFORD -ER'.—2. Homework: Public and Grammar school-children's: since ca. 1930. The 'OXFORD -ER'.

homesters. A team playing on their own ground: sporting s. (1891) >, ca. 1900, coll. >, ca. 1920, S.E.

homeward-bound stitches are designed to last only till one is paid off: nautical: from ca. 1870. (Bowen.) Peppitt notes RN and MN C.20 var. homeward-boublers. Cf.:- homeward-bouder. A vessel bound for home: coll.:—1867 (Smyth).

homework. Girls in gen.; one's girl in particular: RAF since ca. 1935, RN since ca. 1940, army since 1940 or 1941. (Jackson.) Also piece (or bit) of homework (Partridge, 1945). Cf. knitting.—2. In do (one's) homework, to do all the preliminary work necessary for the successful completion of any job, e.g., prepare a lecture, write a book, etc.: coll. from ca. 1955; by early 1970s, S.E. Often negative, in condemnation, 'Unfortunately, the speaker hadn't done his homework.'

homey, n. An Englishman: Aus. and NZ: C.20. (B., 1941, 1942.) Ex Home, 1. For NZ use, cf. Jean Devanney, Old Savage and Other Stories, 1927, and John Mulgan, Man Alone, 1939.—2. Theatrical and grafters' var. of omee, a man: C.20. Cheappjack, 1934.

homey, adj., and hominess. See homy.

hommes-forty. A French railway van or truck for the transport of troops: Western Front Army, WW1. (F. & G.) Ex the marking, '40 hommes, 8 chevaux' (40 men or 8 horses). Cf. omms and chevoos, q.v.

homo. A man: the orig., and a C.19 alternative (never gen.), of omee. Lingua Franca. This, as opp. adoption pedantic or joc. of L. homo, occurs in, e.g., Pierce Egan, Life in London, 1821; Moncrieff, 1843. Cf. the US hombre (ex Sp.). In earlier C.20, occ. in joc. opp. to woman, but supplanted by:—2. A (usu.) male homosexual: since ca. 1925. Compton Mackenzie, Water on the Brain, 1933.

homo, adj. Homosexual: since ca. 1925. 'Mr Arkham's thinkin' very serious abah't the 'omo stuff' (Michael Harrison, Vernal Equinox, 1939). Ex sense 2 of the n.; both n. and adj. were superseded, 1970s, by gay, q.v.

homo genius. A genius:—1887 (Baumann); † by ca. 1930. Punning homogeneous and genus homo.

homo sap. A derisive alteration, virtually a c.p., implying that man (homo) is more of a 'sap' or fool than a wise man (sapiens): since ca. 1930; by 1965, ob.

homon(e)y. A woman; a wife; C.18 c. The Discoveries of John Poulter, 1754, 'My homoney is in quod.' Cf. homo, with which it is cognate.

homy, occ. homey. Home-like; resembling or suggesting home; unobtrusively comfortable: coll.: from ca. 1855. Kingsley, 'I like to ... feel "homey" wherever I be.' Whence hominess, homeliness, quiet comfort: coll.: 1885 (OED).—2. Affable; friendly: coll.: C.20. See quo'n at crasher.

Hon. An Honourable: upper classes' coll.: late C.19–20. Nancy Mitford, The Pursuit of Love, 1945.

hon. 'Honey' (endearment): Aus. coll.: adopted, ca. 1920, ex US. (Jon Cleary, You Can't See Round Corners, 1949.) Cf. Aus. use of 'Darl' = darling.

hondey. An omnibus: Manchester: ca. 1860–1900. Abbr. hondeybush (i.e. omnibus corrupted).

hone. The female pudend: either euph. or low coll.: C.18–19. D'Urfey, 'So I may no more pogue the hone of a woman.'

honest, chaste, was always S.E., despite F. & H., whose second sense, a coll. one, immoral but within the law, arose ca. 1850 and disappeared with the C.19.—2. As the honest, the truth: proletarian: late C.19—earlier 20. Abbr. the honest truth; F. Brett Young, White Ladies, 1935, 'Why, I'm proud to drive anyone there, miss, and that's the honest.'

honest? or ! As question: do you mean it?; are you speaking the truth? As affirmation: I do mean it; I am speaking the truth. Coll. for honestly: since ca. 1880. Cf. honour!

honest a man as (any in the cards) when all the kings are out, as. A knave: C.17—mid-19 coll., the longer form being gen. till C.19.

honest as the skin between the brows or horns (, as). As honest as may be: coll.: resp. mid-C.16–17, C.17. Still, Jonson, Shakespeare; Jonson. Cf. the coll. > S.E. similes as honest a man as ever broke bread, late C.16–20 (ob.); as ever trod on shoe-leather, late C.16–19; as the sun ever shone on, late C.18–20; and as honest a woman as ever burnt malt: late C.16–17. Apperson.

honest broker. A matrimonial agent: lower middle classes': from ca. 1880; ob. Ware.

honest fellow. See jemmy, n., 2. Cf. the C.20 stout fellow.

honest Indian, or gen., Injun! Honour bright!; Honestly! An orig. (1876) US coll., anglicised ca. 1905: mostly among boys. Ex (Red) Indian, very rarely used in this phrase. Cf. the US get up one's injun, = British irish and paddy (temper), qqv.

honest injun. An honest citizen: coll.: adopted, ca. 1943, ex US; ob. since its adoption, 1950s, as the name of a short-range ballistic missile.

honest man and a good bowler, an. A person that combines two qualities rarely found together—for, says Quarles in 1635, 'He hardly can be a good bowler and an honest man,' the special combination soon being made generic and then proverbial. Coll.: late C.16—early 18. Shakespeare, in Love's Labour's Lost, V, ii; Ray. (Apperson.)

honest(-)to(-)dinkum. Aus. var. of-honest-to-God or -goodness, adj. and adv. Real(ly), genuine(ly), thorough(ly): coll., orig. (—1916) US, anglicised by Galsworthy in 1921. OED Sup.

honest trout. A respectable woman (? a 'good sort'): early C.18. Cf. trout; and women, in Appendix.

honest woman (variant of), make an, v.t. To marry a mistress: low coll. (and dial.): from ca. 1560. Wycherley, in Love in a Wood, 'Dap. Why she was my wench. Gripe. I'll make her honest then.'—2. From ca. 1890, often joc. and meaning simply to marry (and thus give a higher official status to), and, as such, ordinary coll. Collinson.

honestly! (Often prec. by Oh! or Well!) An expression of disgust, exasperation, unpleasant surprise: C.20. (Petch, 1966.) In later C.20, usu. a middle-class feminine usage. (P.B.)

honey, an endearment,—the same applies to compounds, e.g. honeycomb,—is S.E., as the semen virile it is C.19–20 low s., and, in form poor honey, a harmless, foolish, good-natured fellow, it is C.18—early 19 coll. when not dial.—2. Abbr. pot o' honey, money: rhyming s.:—1923 (Manchon).—3. An American Stuart tank: army: 1943–5. P-G-R.—4. 'A shot you are pleased with is a "honey" or a "peach" or an "eagle"' (London Evening News, 7 Nov. 1939): cinema: since ca. 1920.—5. Anything choice or excellent: Can., since ca. 1945; Brit. from soon after. Prob. ex US. 'Have you seen Jane's new hair-do? It's a honey!' (Leechman).—6. See it ain't all honey.

honey-blob. (Gen. in pl.) A large and ripe yellow gooseberry: Scots coll. Horace Walpole, in a letter of 1744.

honey-bucket. A latrine-receptacle for excreta: Can. military: from 1914. (B. & P.) P.B.: prob. earlier, and certainly later, e.g. in the Far East, esp. in Hong Kong, where the night-soil is still, 1980, removed from older dwellings by municipally-employed 'honey-bucket women'. See also honey-wagon.

honey-bun or -bunch. An attractive girl; also an endearment to one: adopted, ca. 1943, ex US servicemen; also in Aus.

honey-do day. A man's odd, or unexpected, day off from his work, a day his wife will seize upon to urge him to 'Please do this, honey—please do that, honey': adopted, 1966, ex US. Daily Telegraph, 8 Oct. 1966 (Owed to Mr Anthony Burgess.)

honey-fall. A piece of good fortune: ca. 1820–50. It is, however, extant in dial. (EDD; Bee.) Perhaps by fusion—or a confusion—of honeymoon and windfall.

honey for a halfpenny, sell. To think very poorly of: coll.: late C.16–17.

honey moon. (In C.19–20, one word.) The first month after marriage: coll. (at first low): mid-C.16–18.—2. In C.19–20, the holiday spent together by a newly married couple before they settle down in their home: at first, perhaps coll., but very soon S.E. Ex sweetness = tenderness. Cf. the proverbial it is but honeymoon with them: C.16–17.

honey or all turd with them, it is all. They are either sworn friends or bitter enemies: coll. c.p. or perhaps proverb: C.17—mid-19. R.S. cites Pepys, 13 Dec. 1663.

honey-pot. The female pudend: C.17–20, low s. > coll. or euph. > coll. R.S. cites Francis Osborne, Advice to a Son, 1658.—2. A jumping into water with hands clasped around the knees: Aus. children's: C.20. B., 1942.

honey-star. One's sexual mistress: since ca. 1925.
honey thighs. A Can. endearment to a girl: since ca. 1945. honey-wag(g)on. A night-cart (only in outback towns): Can.: C.20. In Can. army, WW1, the corresponding truck was called the honey-cart. Cf. honey-bucket. honeymoon. See honey moon.
honeymoon cystitis. 'Jocular medical term for inflammation caused by frequent sexual activity in women who have recently lost their virginity' (B.P., 1974): esp. in Aus.: since ca. 1950. Cystitis: an inflammation of the female urinary bladder. honeymoon salad. Lettuce: joc.: C.20. 'Let us alone!'
Honeysuckers, the. The 85th Regt of Foot, later 2nd Bn The King's Shropshire Light Infantry, 'were called "The Honeysuckers" for the pains of the men of the 85th who were flogged for stealing honey in the Peninsula [Napoleonic war in Spain]—against Wellington's express orders' (Carew).
Hong Kong, go to. Go away!: coll.: late C.19–20. Hong Kong is go a euph. for Hell; cf. go to Bath, Halifax, Jericho, Jerusalem.
Hong Kong bibles. Small, locally produced, usu. badly printed volumes of pornography, available in Hong Kong: Services': 1960s. (P.B.)
Hong Kong dog. A tropical fever: RN: C.20. ('Taffrail'). Cf. Malta dog.
honk. A bad smell: Aus.: since ca. 1925. B., 1953, suggests origin in Maori haunga, ill-smelling.—2. The nose: Aus.: C.20. (D'Arcy Niland, The Big Smoke, 1959.) Echoic. Cf. honker.—3. A wild party, with much drinking: Eng.: since ca. 1945. (The 'William Hickey' column in Daily Express, 23 July 1959.) Ex honking. honk, v. To vomit: Services', esp. RAF: since ca. 1940. Echoic. (Sgt R. Farley, 1967).—2. To stink: Aus.: since ca. 1925. (B., 1959.) Ex honk, n., 1. P.B.: also Brit: low coll.: later C.20. Prob. ex honk, n., 2. Cf.:—
honk like a gaggle of geese. To stink very much indeed: Aus.: since ca. 1930. (B., 1959.) An elab. of honk, v., 2. honk (one's) ring up. To vomit violently: army and RAF: since ca. 1950. An elab. of honk, v., 1. Here, ring = anus. (Sgt R. Farley; P.B.) Cf.:—
honk up (one's) tank (or no. 6 tank). To vomit after a 'beer-up': RAF: WW2. honked, adj. Drunk: Services': since ca. 1950. (John Winton, We Joined the Navy, 1959.) Ex drunken vomiting; cf. honk, v., 1. honker. A (large) nose: Aus., esp. Sydney: since ca. 1910. (Ruth Park, The Harp in the South, 1948.) Ex the honk of a motor horn. Cf. hooter.
Honkers. Hong Kong: Services', esp. officers': C.20. By the 'Oxford/RN -er(s)'; cf. Singers, Singapore. (P.B.) Hence, also, the Honkers and Shankers, the Hong Kong and Shanghai Banking Corp. (Granville).
honkers, like fried, jugged, sloshed, is 'drunk' among office- and shop-girls—and presumably their companions—of ca. 1955–60, with one or two of these terms likely to last for another few years. (Michael Gilderdale's article 'Fugitives from Fowler: A Glossary for Our Times' in News Chronicle, 22 May 1958.) With honkers, cf. honk, n., 3, and honking; with jugged, cf. jug, n., 5, and v., 3; with sloshed, cf. slosh, n., 2. Honkers was orig. (ca. 1950) and is still, 1975, Services' s. for 'very drunk'. Sgt R. Farley attests its currency in the RAF, 1967.
Honkie, -y. 'Racist negro expression (unpleasant) for a white person (usually male)' (Powis): since (?)mid-1960s in UK. ?cf. honker. honking, n. 'A drinking session' (Granville): RN: since ca. 1940.—2. As adj., drunk: synon. with honked. (P.B.) Cf. minging q.v. at ming. honkoe. A loafer; a seedy punter: Aus.: since ca. 1930. (Dick.) Origin? Perhaps ex Aus. s. honk, a bad smell. Wilkes, 1977, notes 'rare'.
honky-donks. A marine's feet: RN: late C.19–20. (F. & G) Ex

East Anglian honka-donka, thick, heavy boots. Cf. hock-dockies, and contrast dab-dab, q.v.

honky-tonk (or one word). Jangling piano music; noisy jazz: adopted—? rather adapted—ca. 1950 ex US, where it predominantly means 'a low place of amusement, or a low burlesque show, esp. where strong drink is available'. Origin unknown. Perhaps either a rhyming reduplication of honk, to make a honking noise (cf. honk, n., 3, and honking), or related to N.W. England dial. honk, to idle about. Also as adj. honour! honour bright! Upon my honour! or as an emphatic or anxious query. Coll., orig. Anglo-Irish and somewhat low: resp. ca. 1840–80 (as in Selby's Antony and Cleopatra Married, 1843) and from ca. 1819 (e.g. Moore's Tom Crib and W. Black's Beautiful Wretch). Cf. honest! used in the same way, perhaps influenced by this usage.

honour mods. Honour moderations: Oxford University coll.: C.20. OED Sup.

honourable mention. Peris: upper class raffish: C.19. L.A. cites Fernand Kolney, Amours and Adventures of a Gentleman of Quality, ?1922: 'His honourable mention grew visibly less.' honours (are) easy or even! We (etc.) are level: coll.: C.20. Ex bridge.

hoo. A fuss; perturbation: later 1930s. (Ngaio March, Overture to Death, 1939.) A shortening of the still, 1983, more common hoo-ha.

Hoo Flung Dung. A Chinaman: joc. mock-Chinese: C.20. (In fact, 'flung' is a syllable/sound non-existent in native Chinese speech. P.B.) cf. One Hung Low.

hoo-ha. An argument; a 'row' or fuss: coll.: C.20.—2. Hence, an artillery demonstration: army: early C.20. B. & P.—3. See hoo-hah, for further observations on these two senses.—4. 'Twaddle. (A term revived by Margaret Whitlam)' (Barry Humphries, Nice Night's Entertainment, 1982 glossary): Aus. hoo-jahs, the. Delirium tremens: Aus.: since ca. 1930. Arthur Upfield, The Battling Prophet, 1956.

hooa. See hoor.

hooch, hootch. Alcoholic liquor, esp. spirits: coll.: adopted, during WW1, ex US. Ex Alaska Hoochino, a very strong drink, made by Alaskan natives. F. & G.; Irwin; OED Sup.

hooch in quarters. 'Hooching in quarters. Holding a party in one's room' (H. & P.): Services: since ca. 1940; ob. by 1950. Ex prec.

hooched. Tipsy: S. Africa: since ca. 1939. Professor W.S. Mackie in Cape Argus, 1946.

hoochie or hoochy. A temporary shelter serving as living-quarters: among United Nations troops in Korea: ca. 1951–5. Ex Japanese uchi, a house. Idditwah, July 1953.

hood. A hoodlum: Can.,—1949; in Brit. Eng., since ca. 1965, a (usu. petty) gangster: adopted ex US.—2. By my hood is a mid-C.14–early 17 coll. asseveration. (Shakespeare.) Origin unknown (OED).—3. In put a bone in (one's) hood, to cuckold: mid-C.16–17 coll. The anon. play, The Nice Wanton, 1560, 'I could tell you who putteth a bone in your hood.'—4. See two faces under one hood, double-dealing, n.

hood for this fool, a. A proverbial c.p. of ca. 1550–1620.

hoodlum. (A boy rough: US only: from ca. 1872. Hence:) Any, esp. if dangerous, rough: orig. (ca. 1876) and still mainly US; anglicised ca. 1895. Prob. by printer's error for mooldum, ex Muldoon, the name of the leader of a San Franciscan gang of street arabs; another suggestion is that it comes from the gang-cry, huddle 'em!: unlikely. (Bartlett; Thornton.) Cf. hooligan, larrikin and tough, qq.v.—2. Also hoodlumism, coll., never very gen.

hoodman. A blind man (cf. groper, q.v.): C.18–early 19: ? orig. c.

hoodman, adj. Blind: C.18–early 19.—2. Intoxicated: C.19 low. Prob. ex:

hoodman blind. Blind drunk: C.19 low. ?ex hoodman, adj., 1.

hoodoo. Such an adverse charm as the evil eye; any person or thing causing bad luck (cf. Jonah, q.v.): orig. (—1885), 1881 resp., US; anglicised, as a coll., ca. 1910, but common in Aus. several years earlier. Prob. voodoo corrupted; voodoo being a Dahomey native word. (The v. has not been welcomed in Great Britain—nor in its Dominions.)—2. Hence, adj.: unlucky: anglicised ca. 1920.—3. A useless hand shanghaied by a crimp as an AB: nautical: from ca. 1910. Bowen.

hoocer. See hoor.

hooney. Nonsense; 'eyewash': adopted, ca. 1937, ex US. Short for ballyhooney.—2. A (loud) disturbance: 1940s. (Margery Allingham, More Work for the Undertaker, 1947.) Like hoo, q.v., prob. ex hoo-ha.

hoof, n. A human foot: low coll.: late C.16–20. 1836, M. Scott's Cruise of the 'Midge'; Sydney Watson, 1892, 'Teddy, look out, yer've got yer hoof on my trotters.' Cf. trotters, q.v.—2. In bang or beat or pad the hoof, to walk, tramp, run away: low coll.: resp. C.17, mid-C.17–mid-19 (in C.17, beat it on the hoof), and—1838 and ob.; the first in Cotton, the second in Grose and, the older form, in B.E., the third in Dickens. Also, occ., be upon the hoof, ca. 1710–78. Cf. hoof it, q.v., and Shakespeare's 'Rogues, hence, avaunt... Trudge, plod, away ith' hoof' (Merry Wives). Cf. hoof the pad.—3. In get the hoof, to be dismissed or turned out: proletarian: C.20. W.L. George, The Making of an Englishman, 1914.—4. Recognise or see (a person's) hoof in (an affair), to discern personal interference or influence in a matter: coll.: 1860 (Thackeray). Ex the devil's hoof.—5. Under the hoof, down-trodden: coll., from ca. 1840; in C.20, S.E.

hoof, v.t. To kick: low coll.: from ca. 1860. Cf. toe, q.v., and hoof out.—2. V.i.; also hoof it. To dance: from mid-1920s. OED Sup.

hoof-and-mouth disease. Boasting, esp. at night to one's wife, of one's exploits at golf: joc. coll.: from ca. 1923. Also foot and mouth disease, q.v.

hoof it. To go on foot; tramp: low coll.: late C.17–20. B.E.; Cumberland, in The Fashionable Lover, has hoof without it—prob. for the metre, though the usage occurs from ca. 1640. Cf. hoofing, q.v. Not low in C.20 Aus., where it is used esp. by motorists temporarily and perforce pedestrian. (B.P.)—3. To decamp: c.: from ca. 1870. B. & L.—4. To dance. See hoof, v., 2.

hoof out. To eject; dismiss, discharge: low coll.: from ca. 1850. Ex hoof, v.

hoof-padder. A pedestrian: low: C.19. Cf. hoof, n., 2, and—hoof the pad. To go on tramp; be a tramp: Aus.: mid-C.19–20; by 1930, ob. (G.B. Lancaster, Jim of the Ranges, 1910.) Cf. hoof it.

hooper. A dancer: Can.: since ca. 1925. Ex hoof, v., 2.—2. A chorus girl: Aus.: adopted, ca. 1930, ex US. John Cleary, The Climate of Courage, 1954.—3. 'Proud [a schoolmaster], whose nickname, derived from the size of his feet, was "hooper"' (Kipling, Stalky & Co, 1899): later C.19.

hoofing, vbl n. Walking; tramping: (low) coll. mid-C.17–20. From ca. 1850, gen. hoofing-it. Brome: OED.

hoofy. Splay- or large-footed: low coll.: C.19–20, ob.

Hooghly mud. Butter: nautical: late C.19–20. Bowen, 'Originating in the ships on the Indian trade'.

hoohah (or hoo-ha). A water-closet: since ca. 1920: domestic coll. Christianna Brand, in Death in High Heels, 1941, spells it huhhah. R.S. suggests it orig., perhaps not entirely seriously, as 'the grunting hoo! of effort, followed by the ha! of satisfaction. But see 3.—2. A two-tone warning horn, as on an ambulance: since ca. 1955. Petch cites the Bournemouth Evening Echo, 21 Apr. 1966.—3. But earlier is the linked group of nuances noted, or implied, at hoo-ha: 'argument' or 'a row', a noisy fuss; an artillery demonstration: C.20. Of these, the military sense had > rare by and during WW2; but the others are extant, indeed, active, during the 1970s and they look like being with us for some time, as in make a (big) hoohah or fuss over something. Of this sub-group, Robert Claiborne wrote in 1976: "'Hoo, hah!" is a not uncommon Yiddish exclamation, meaning approximately "What's all this?" Hence also the n. meaning fuss—which is decidedly relevant to the origin of the term. Cf. Fr. brouhaha.

hook, n. (Gen. pl.) A finger: c.: from ca. 1820; ob. Maginn, in Vidocq Versified.—2. A thief, esp. a pickpocket: c.: from ca. 1560. Jack juggler, an anon. C.16 play, 'So yonder cometh that unhappy hook'; Edgar Wallace, passim; Powis, 1977, records it as North Country s.—3. An advantage, 'catch', imposture: low coll. (?s.): from ca. 1860; ob. Cf. on the hook, at an advantage: coll.: late C.17–18. Congreve, 'Consider I have you on the hook'.—4. That member of a confidence-trick gang whose job it is to introduce the prospective victim: c.:—1935 (David Hume).—5. A shirker: military: early C.20. (F. & G.) Perhaps ex Hooky Walker.—6. A shop-lifter: c.: C.20. A deviation from sense 2.—7. An anchor: nautical: since ca. 1890. Hence, an anchor badge: RN: C.20.—8. A chevron, NCO's badge, usu. in pl hooks: Aus. army, since ca. 1910; also occ. in Brit. army, C.20. B., 1943; P.B.—9. A '7': Aus. poker-players': since ca. 1920. (B., 1953.) Cf. crutch, 3, a 7 at Tombola.—10. On the hook, on the 'thieve': c. C.19–20. Ex sense 2, and v., 1. On the hook, in HAULIERS' s. (see Appendix)=on tow: since ca. 1920.—11. On (one's) own hook, on one's own account, at one's own risk and/or responsibility: coll.: adopted, ca. 1845, ex US. Thackeray in Pendennis.—12. Off the hook has two senses: Aus., since ca. 1920, of a married man 'out with the boys' (B.P.); and Can., since ca. 1945, hence also Brit., 'out of a difficult or embarrassing situation: often as get (one) off the hook. (Leechman; P.B.)—13. See sling (one's) hook; take (one's) hook.

hook, v. To rob, steal, esp. to steal small articles from a (gen. shop-)window by cutting a small hole in it and 'fishing' with a piece of string that has a hook attached: mid-C.16–18 c. in specific sense; C.17–20, low coll. in gen. sense.—2. Overreach, trick, gen. in past ppl. passive: low (? orig. c.): late C.17–18.—3. To obtain, esp. in marriage: coll.: from ca. 1800: gen. of a woman, as in John Strange Winter's Army Society, 'I wonder if Mrs Traff has contrived to hook him for her sweet Laura.' Ex hook a fish.—4. See hook it.—5. 'To move with a sudden twist or jerk': M.E.-Mod.E.; till C.19, S.E.; then coll. rapidly > s. and dial. SOD.—6. To punch (someone): Aus.: since ca. 1925. (Dick.) Ex boxing: the punch known as the hook.—7. See hooking.

hook! An exclamation implying doubt: Oxford University: ca. 1860–1910. ? ex '?' or ex hook, v., 3, or ex Hooky Walker, q.v. Cf. also hook at the end, q.v.—2. Run away!: 1908, A.S.M. Hutchinson, Once Aboard the Lugger, "'Hook!" said Bob. David asked: "What's hook?" "Run away."' Ex hook it.

hook and eye, adv. Arm in arm: tailors': from ca. 1860. Ex the S.E. term, a metallic fastening, as for a dress.

hook and snivey; hook-em (or 'em or hookem)-snivey, a corruption dating from ca. 1800; (after ca. 1820, the corrupted) hookum snivey. (In C.20, snivey often > snivv(e)y.) Abbr. hook and snivey, with nix the buffer, an underworld trick for feeding a dog (buffer) and an additional man for nothing (nix); see hook, n., 2. C.: ca. 1775–1850. G. Parker's illuminating View of Society; Grose, 2nd ed.—2. Hence (of course omitting with nix the buffer), an impostor specialising in this trick: ca. 1790–1860. (Cf. hook-um-snivey, v.)—3. Cognately, and gen., like the next sense, in form hook-um (or hookum) snivey, 'a crook of thick iron wire in a wooden handle, used to undo the wooden bolts of doors from without' (F. & H.): likewise c.: ca. 1800–1905.—4. A sarcastic or derisory affirmation accompanied with hand to nose, or as an irrelevant answer (= no one) to, e.g. 'Who did that?': low, orig. and mostly Cockney: ca.1850–1915. H.—5. Hence, adj. in senses 1 and 2: late C.19–20: mostly dial.

hook (at the end), with a. (Often tagged with of it.) A phrase implying 'Don't you believe it!': low, ob.: the shorter form, (—)1823; the longer, (—)1864, and resp. Bee and Traill. Accompanied by a crooking of the forefinger. Cf. over the left for the practice, Hooky Walker for the phrase; see also hook!, with its suggestion of deriv. ex question mark.

hook (one's) bait (or mutton). To depart; to decamp, make off: Aus. and NZ: C.20. (Baker.) Elab. of hook it.

hook 'em snivey. Var. of hook and snivey.

hook it. To decamp; depart hastily: (low) coll.: since ca. 1830. 'Hobbs said, "Hook it, you b—s."' (Sessions, Aug. 1835). As hook, v.i., however, it dates from much earlier and comes ex hook, v., 4. Whence sling (one's) hook, q.v.

hook, line and sinker. Completely, utterly: coll.: late C.19–20. Ex fishing. Roget's Thesaurus, edition of 1962.

hook-me-dinghy. Anything whose right name has temporarily slipped one's memory: RN from ca. 1890. (Bowen.) Cf. wiffow gadget and the prob. derivative ooja-ka-piv.

hook off. To remove (illicitly): low:—1887 (Baumann). Cf. hook, v., 1 and 5.—2. To go away: Cockneys': late C.19–20. 'Oi — 'ook orf! 'op it!' (Julian Franklyn.)

hook on to. To attach oneself to; follow up: (orig. low) coll.: from ca. 1890. Milliken, 1892, 'It's nuts to 'ook on to a swell.'

hook-pointed (Scots -pintled), Imperfectly erected: low amorous coll.: C.19.

hook-pole lay. To plunder a man after pulling him from his horse by means of a long, hooked pole: c.: C.18. Smith's Highwaymen, 1720.

hook-pot. The 'lower regions' of a warship, or even the ship itself regarded adversely: RN lowerdeck: (?) ca. 1890–1940. (Knock.)

hook-um-snivey. To cheat, esp. by feigned sickness: low: ca. 1855–80. The and of hook and snivey, q.v., corrupted to um. H., 1859.

hook up (a horse) is applied to a jockey that prevents it from winning, usually by strong-arm tactics: Aus. sporting: since ca. 1930. (B., 1953.) Jason Glassop uses it in Lucky Palmer, 1949. By 1940, also Brit., as in 'The occasional horse will be "stopped" or "hooked up"' (John Lawrence, in Sunday Telegraph, 13 Aug. 1961).

hook-up party. Men who, for some reason, avoid Divisions' (Granville): RN: C.20.

hook up with. To join forces with; occ. merely 'to encounter': coll., also Can.: since ca. 1910. (Leechman.)

hooked, ppl adj. Duped, tricked: coll.: since later C.19. See hook, n., 3.—2. (Hopelessly) addicted to drugs: orig. US, adopted in Can., ca. 1925; by 1945 also Brit. and Aus.: esp. among drug addicts. The Times, 19 Feb. 1964.—3. Hence, in later C.20, used fig. of addiction to anything, from a girl, to golf, to chocolates: coll. Usu. as hooked on. (P.B.) hooked on. (Of a woman) casually 'picked up': Aus.: C.20. B., 1942. Cf. sense 2 of:-

hooked up. Dead: low:—1923 (Manchon); ob. Ex hooks, 5.—2. Provided with a sweetheart or a temporary girl: low: C.20. Alan Hyder, Black Girl, White Lady, 1934.

Hookey Walker (Lex. Bal. spelling). See Hooky Walker.

hookem snivey. See hook and snivey.

hooker. A thief, esp. a pilferer from open doors and windows: c.: ca. 1560–1870. (One of the third rank of canters: Harman.) See angler, 1.—2. A sharper: C.17–18 c. B.E.—3. A pickpocket, esp. a watch-stealer: c.: late C.19. Tit Bits, 17 Nov. 1888.—4. A ship: depreciative or affectionate nautical s. from early C.19 >, by late C.19, coll. Bill Truck, Blackwood's, Nov. 1821, p. 417, with ref. to ca. 1812: 'Every one of them agreeing as well with each other as the older hooker does to her course with the wind all round the compass'. Often old hooker. Ex Dutch hooker, a term applied to specific types of vessel (SOD).—5. A shunter: railwaymen's: C.20. Railway, 2nd.—6. A drink of strong liquor: Can.: since ca. 1930. (Leechman, 1976.)—7. 'Transatlantic term for a prostitute becoming current [in UK], probably because of American hippy influence' (Powis, 1977). Well enough naturalised to appear in the New Statesman leader, 13 May 1983: '[Mrs Thatcher] alone appeared not to know that Ms [Maggie] May was a celebrated Merseyside hooker—a ref. to the Prime Minister's nickname Maggie in the press, and the old ballad about 'Maggie May, they have taken away...' (P.B.) hookerman. A ship: nautical coll.:—1894 (OED). Ex hooker, 4.

hooky. Truant; esp. play hooky: adopted, ex US, ca. 1890. Cf. hop the wag.

Hookey (Walker). See Hooky (Walker).

hooking. 'A dishonest informer attempting to entangle public officials or police officers in a proposed crime, for his own benefit' (Powis): c., and police s.: later C.20.

hooks. The hands: c.: from ca. 1825. Ex hook, a finger. Also hooks and feelers, as in the anon. Five Years' Penal Servitude, 1877; a thief, referring to hard work in prison, says that, when a man is released, 'in a week or two [he] can bring his hooks and feelers into full trim again'. Cf. cunt hooks.—2. Spurs: army: late C.19—early 20. F. & G.—3. Brakes: motorcyclists' s.: later C.20. (Dunford.) Cf. anchors used in this sense, and hook, n., 7.—4. Catch hooks, to get into trouble: army: early C.20. (F. & G.) Prob. ex sense 2.—5. In pop, or drop, or go, off the hooks, to die: low s.:—1837, —1859, —1872 resp. The phrase off the hooks prob. goes back to ca. 1800. John L. Gardner, The Military Sketch-Book (II, 17), 1831, 'The French, now at our right and left, opened fire on us, which knocked many a poor fellow off the hooks, and we fell back to the main body of our troops.' (Moe.) Perhaps ex a felon's corpse dropping, from sheer decay, off the hooks from which it has been suspended. As go off the hooks, it was applied (usu. of women) to getting married: coll.: later C.19—early 20. See also entries at off the hooks, adj. and adv.—6. Get (or got) her hooks into (a man), (of a woman) to have him in tow, or engaged, or married: since ca. 1920.—7. See put the hooks on.

hooks and feelers. See hooks, 1.

hookum. A regulation; the hookum, 'the correct thing': army coll.: late C.19—early 20. (F. & G.) Ex Hindustani hukam.—2. Hence, true information: army: ca. 1920–40.

hookum-snivey. See hook and snivey and hookum snivey.

Hooky. The inevitable nickname of any man surnamed Walker: late C.19–20: mostly Services'. (Bowen.) Ex Hooky Walker, q.v.:-

hooky, n. A Leading Seaman: RN: since ca. 1900. (H. & P.) 'Ex the anchor he wears as badge of office' (Granville).—2. In do hooky, to apply fingers and thumb contemptuously to one's nose: streets': from ca. 1860. B. & L.—3. See hooky.

hooky, adj. Rural Can. coll. (mid-C.19–20), as in John Beames, An Army without Banners, 1930, "'Hooky", as country folk call a cow given to using her horns'.

Hooky Walker! A phrase signifying that something either is not true or will not occur: (low) coll., from ca. 1810. (Lex. Bal.) Also Hook(ey)!, as in Bee, and by hooky!, as in Manchon.—2. Be off!: (low) coll.: from ca. 1830. Since ca. 1840, gen. abbr. to Walker!, as in Dickens's Christmas Carol, 1843, "'Buy it," said Scrooge. "Walker!" said the boy.' Acc. to Bee, ex John Walker, a prevaricating hook-nosed spy. See esp. DCpp.

hooler hoop. The ringed keel of a nuclear submarine of the Dreadnought type: RN and dockyards': early 1960s, when the hula hoop craze raged briefly (Granville).

hoolerfer. A fool: centre s.: ca. 1860–1930. Cf. hugmer.

Hooley, n. A magnificent fur-collared and lined overcoat: London: 1897—ca. 1912. At first, favourable; after Millionaire Hooley's bankruptcy in 1898, pej. Ware.—2. As hooley, a spree; later (by 1970), simply a party: orig. Anglo-Irish, perhaps from the Irish Guards: C.20. Perhaps ex Hindustani huli, a festival. (Dr H.W. Dalton; P.B.) More likely a var. of the Irish ceilidh (pron. kaley). (Mrs C. Raab)

Hooley, v. 'To pile success on success': City of London coll.: 1894–8. On 10 Dec. 1897, Horatio Bottomley spoke thus significantly, 'But, you know, when you apply, if I may use the phrase, "Hooleying" finance to any good industry, there must be a certain finality about it.'

hooligan. A lively rough, not necessarily nor usually criminal: from ca. 1895: s. till ca. 1910, then coll.; in later C.20, S.E. See Appendix for etym.—2. An Oerlikon gun: RN: WW2. By a pun. Granville.—3. ' "Holligan" is the half-fearful, half-respectful term for the kind of blizzard that lashed Southern Cornwall in December 1981' (Shyam Bhatia, Observer, 20 Mar. 1983 reporting the Inquiry into the Penlee Lifeboat disaster): a local specialisation of sense 1.

hoon, whence the rhyming silver spoon. A procurer of prostitutes: Aus. c.: since ca. 1935. (B., 1953.) The term occurs in Xavier Herbert's novel, Capricornia, 1939, "You flash hoon," he went on, "Kidding' you're white, eh?" Perhaps of immigrant origin, as R.S. has suggested; he suspects, German. P.B.: ?cf. hone, q.v.

hoop, n. The female pudend: low: C.19—earlier 20.—2. A jockey: Aus. sporting: since ca. 1920. (B., 1942.) E.P. has 'with a pun on race-course ring': I suggest ex the jockey's colours (P.B.).—3. Go through the hoop, as in circus tricks, was C.19 s. for to pass through the Insolvent Debtors' court. Hence, in C.20 coll., to have a bad time of it; and, as military specialisation, to be up for punishment (F. & G.): from ca. 1910; ob. by mid-C.20.—4. Active mode of 3 is put through the hoop, to give a bad time to, to punish: C.20 coll. Hence, to reprimand, or question closely: from ca. 1912.

hoop, v. To beat, thrash: late C.18—mid-19. (Grose, 1785.) Cf.:-

hoop (one's) barrel. Elab. of prec. Grose, 1st ed.

hoop it. To 'go through the hoop'. See hoop, n., 3.—2. To run away: c.:—1839 (Brandon); † by 1900. Perhaps a blend of hook + hop it, or ex bowling a hoop.

hoop-stick. The arm: low: later C.19.

hooped up. Get hooped up is a var. of 'go through the hoop'. See hoop, n., 3.

hooper's or hoopers, hide. Cf.ion: C.18—mid-19 low, but never very gen. (D'Urfev, 1719, in the notorious Pills.) Ex the S.E. sense, hide-and-seek.

hooping, out of all; in C.19, occ. past all hooping. See out of all ho.

hoops-a-daisy! A var., or possibly the origin, of upsadaisy!, up!: coll.: C.19—20.—2. Occ. a joyful exclamation, as in D.L. Sayers, The Nine Tailors, 1934, 'Hoops-a-daisy!... I've got it', Wimsey speaking as he uses a fishing-line.

hoopy (? whoopy). Superlatively good; excellent: teenagers': early 1980s. (James Williamson, 1982.) Cf. synon. smearly, below.

hoor, hooser, hooa or hua. A sol. pronunciation of whore: C.19—20. Sometimes used joc., in mock-Scot, 'Ye dirty wee hoor'; but may be used fig., to a man, with serious intent to insult or abuse. Also NZ and Aus., as in D'Arcy Niland, The Shiralee, 1955: 'Get out of here, you drunken hooser.'

hooray, n. Good news, as in 'the other bit of hooray that the truck fraternity has been telling me ...' (a reporter on BBC Radio 4 News, 14 Apr. 1983).

hooray! This coll. form of hurrah, hurray is half-way between dignity and impudence: C.18—20.—2. Good-bye!: Aus. and NZ: since ca. 1930. Leonard Mann, Mountain Flat, 1939, "'Good-bye, Jim, good-bye, Lottie." "Hooray, George," Jim answered.' Cf.:-

Hooray Henry. An upper-middle class (or would-be upper-middle class), 'wawah' (q.v.)-speaking male, often affecting a heartiness that appears bogus to ill-disposed observers: journalistic: from late 1970s. 'A gang of Hooray Henrys from Sotheby's travel round the country crying "Bring out your junk"' (Julian Barnes, in New Statesman, 30 Mar. 1979, p. 456). (P.B.)

hooroo! Goodbye!: Aus.: since early C.20. B., 1942, who lists also aroo. Perhaps ex au revoir.—2. C.20 var. of hooray!, 1.

hoorooosh. A tremendous fuss or uproar or row, in, e.g., politics: since ca. 1930. In its earlier form hurroosh it occurs in Kipling's Plain Tales from the Hills, 1887, 'There was a wild hurroosh at the Club'; in the US it existed from very much earlier—1836 in the Knickerbocker Magazine as hooorooosh: see, e.g., Craigie & Hulbert, Dict. American English, 1938—44, and Mathews, Dict. Americanisms, 1950. It seems to be an extension of hurroo, a loud cry of exultancy or triumph, recorded by the OED for as early as 1824 (a reminder from Paul Janssen). In WW1 it had a military sense, 'a hard-fought, a bloody, battle', ob.—not entirely †—in WW2. Dr R.L. Mackay, MD, 1967, 'Often used in my battalion in France, 1916—18.'—2. A C.20 var. of hooray!, 1.

hoor's get or hoorsget. See whore's get, 2.

hoosegow. A jail: US s.; some joc. use in UK: since early C.20. Ex 'S. Amer. or Mex. Sp. juzgao = juzgado, tribunal' (OED). hoosh. A thick soup with plenty of body: 1905, R.F. Scott, The Voyage of the 'Discovery' (OED Sup.)—2. 'Hoosh—corned beef prepared as a hash with potatoes' (Daily Colonist, Victoria, BC, 19 June 1960): R Can. N: ca. 1900—25. Cf. the RN spud-oosh, 'Kind of stew in which rather sodden potatoes predominate' (Granville), and oos-me-goosh.

hoosh out. To force (water) out:—1923 (Manchon). E.P. proposes derivation ex Irish dial. hoosh, to heave or raise; more prob. merely echoic (P.B.). Also in form oosh, q.v.

hooshgoo. A cook: Can.: C.20. Cf. hoosh.

hooshing. Landing at high speed: RAF: 1938+. (H. & P.) Echoic.

hoot, n. Money; payment, wage; compensation: NZ, from the early 1840s, and soon Aus. Morris derives it ex Moori utu (money), often pron. with clipped terminal. In var. oot, it occurs in Glassop, Rats.—2. A cause for laughter; nearly always in such exclamation as 'That's a hoot!' (sarcastic) or 'What a hoot!', that is funny (not necessarily kindly meant): coll.: since ca. 1940. Ex the sound, to hoot with laughter. (P.B.)—3. Not care a hoot: cf. with other entries listed at not care a... hoot, v. To stink: Aus. low: since ca. 1920. (B., 1942.) Cf. honk, v.

hoot him! A derisory and contemptuous c.p., roughly 'Look at him!' or, according to the context, 'Hark at him!': Aus. juvenile: ca. 1920—40. It often occurs in Norman Lindsay's novel about boys: Saturday, 1933.

hootch. See hooch.

hooter. A wooden trumpet designed to make a horrible noise: C.20 coll. >, by 1930, S.E.—2. (?) Hence, the nose: low joc.: since ca. 1940.

hootin' Annie. A var., partly joc. and partly folk-etym., of the American hootenanny, an informal variety show held around a so-called camp fire: Aus. surfers' coll., adopted ca. 1962. (Pix, 28 Sep. 1963.) Hootenanny is of obscure origin and, in 1963, was still mainly dialectal. At first, as in 'I don't give a hootenanny, I don't care a damn.

hooting pudding. A plum-pudding containing so few plums that they can be heard hooting to one another across the vast: provincial: from ca. 1860; ob. Cf. prairie pudden.

hoovering. 'The now famous "sweeps" by Fighter Command over Northern France. They get into all the corners!' (H. & P., 1943): RAF. Ex the Hoover vacuum-cleaner.—2. 'In use among Cockneys during the 1940 blitz: applied to the undulating note of the unsynchronized engines of the German Heinkel 111 bomber' (H.R. Spencer).

hooya! A children's derisive cry: Aus. and NZ: C.20. (B., 1943.) See by Christchurch...

hop, n. A ball, if informal; a dance: coll.: from ca. 1730. Jane Austen, 'At a little hop at the park, he danced from eight o'clock till four.'—2. (hop or Hop, A policeman: low Aus.:—1935. Perhaps suggested by synon. cop. Cf. John Hop, q.v.—3. A stage (the flying done in one day, or at a stretch: e.g. 'We did it in two hops) of a long journey by air: RAF coll.: since ca. 1925. Jackson.—4. (In this and next 4 senses, on the hop.) Esp. catch on the hop, unawares: (orig. low) coll.:—1868 (that famous ballad The Chickaleary Cove).—5. In the nick of time: coll.: ca. 1872—1905.—6. At a disadvantage: coll.: since ca. 1880. Perhaps ex on the hip (W.). P.B.: but someone caught on one leg is at a disadvantage.—7. On the go; unresting: coll.: from ca. 1890. Milliken.—8. Hence, enjoying oneself, having a riotous time: coll.:—1923 (Manchon).

hop, v. To get a lift on (a vehicle), as in 'I'll hop a lorry'; whence lorry-hopping. Services (originally army): since ca. 1918; by 1946, civilian. (P-G-R.) Elliptical for hop on to.—2. Hence, simply to board, as hop a tram or a bus: coll.: since ca. 1945.

Hop- in Hop-Monday and -tide is an error for Hock-: C.16. (Hob- for Hock- may, as the OED points out, be only a scribal error.)

hop along, Sister Mary, hop along! 'When the yobbos ogled the girls in the local "monkey run" [at York, ca. 1919] and the girls passed by, the yobs used to sing, or call, after them "Hop along, Sister Mary, hop along". I do not know the origin' (Granville, letter, 1973). See monkey-parade.

hop-and-go-kick. A lame person: tailors': ca. 1860–1930. hop and hang all summer on the white spruce. A Can. lumbermen's c.p.: from ca. 1890. John Beames.

hop-harlot. See hap-harlot, of which it is an occ. var.

hop Harry. A bowler hat: Aus.: since ca. 1920. (B., 1942.) It'll just bow along.

hop headless. To be beheaded: grimly joc. S.E. > coll.: C.14–17. OED.

hop in. To arrive: coll.: from ca. 1820; virtually †. Cf. pop in.

hop into. To attack (a person), tackle (a job), with alacrity: Aus.: late C.19–20. (B., 1942.) Ex a sprightly boxer's footwork. Cf. hop-out and hop out.

hop it. To depart quickly: coll., orig. Cockney: from ca. 1912. Cf. hop the twig, 1. In the form 'op it!', it is (when not illiterate) a joc. c.p.: see esp. the leading article in John o' London's Weekly, 23 Mar. 1935.

hop-merchant. A dancing-master: low coll.: late C.17–19. (B.E.) Occ. hoppy. Cf. cap-merchant.—2. A fiddler: C.19–20.

hop-o'-my-thumb. A dwarf: coll.: C.16–early 20. (Palsgrave has upon, the usual C.16 form.) Smollett, 'You pitiful hop-o'-my-thumb coxcomb'. In C.20, gen. considered S.E. Cf. Jack Sprat, q.v.

hop off. To die: 1797, Mary Robinson, 'Must look in upon the rich old jade, before she hops off' (OED); ob. Cf. Craven dial. hop and hop the twig, 2, q.v.—2. To depart: coll. (? orig. Cockney): late C.19–20.

hop on, v.i. (Of men) to coit: low: C.20. George Ingram, Cockney Cavalcade, 1935.

Hop Out. Hopoutre, a suburb of Poperinge: army on the Western Front, WW1. F. & G.

hop-out. A definite challenge to fight: mostly Aus.: from ca. 1908. Ex:

hop out, v. To challenge (a person) to fight: lower classes' and military: C.20. F. & G.

hop-over. An attack: military coll.: 1916. (Ibid.) Ex hop the bags, q.v.—2. Also as v.i.: likewise mostly facetious. B. & P.

hop (or jump) over the broom(stick). See broomstick.

hop-picker. A harlot: low (? orig. c.): from ca. 1880. Also hopping wife.

hop-pickers. The queens of all four suits: gambling, c.: from ca. 1885.

hop-pole. A tall, slight person: (low) coll.: 1850, Smedley.

hop, skip and jump, -do with a. To do with ease: coll., mostly Cockneys': from ca. 1890.

hop the bags. To attack; 'go over the top': military: from 1916. (B. & P.) Ex sandbags forming the parapet of the trench.

hop the Charley (or -ie). To decamp: low: from ca. 1870; ob. (B. & L.) Ex Charley Wag.

hop the twig. To depart, esp. if suddenly: orig. (—1785), c.: from ca. 1860, low; slightly ob. Grose, 1st ed.; All the Year Round, 9 June 1888, 'To hop the twig... and the like are more flippant than humorous.' Ex bird-life.—Whence 2, to die: low: 1797 (Mary Robinson, Walsingham). (Cf. hop off, above). Punch, in its 1st volume, 'Clare pines in secret—hops the twig and goes to glory in white muslin.' Partridge, 1945, notes that it had, among Service (esp. Can.) aircrews in WW2 the particular nuance, 'to crash fatally'. Cf. and see croak, go west, kick the bucket, lose the number of one's mess, slip (one's) breath, snuff it. Contrast:—hop the twigs. To walk with crutches: nautical coll.:—1923 (Manchon).

hop the wag. To play truant or 'Charley Wag' (q.v.): low: from ca. 1850; ob. Mayhew, 'They often persuaded me to hop the wag.'

hop-thumb. A C.16–17 var. of hop-o'-my-thumb, q.v.

hop whore, pipe thief (, hangman lead the dance)! A proverbial c.p. of ca. 1530–1660. 'Proverbs' Heywood; Davies of Hereford. (Apperson.)

hope in hell. See not a hope...

hope it keeps fine for you! A parting-phrase c.p., which may refer to prospects other than meteorological: since ca. 1915: often derisive. An occ. var.: hope you have a fine day for it. See DCpp. for fuller treatment.

hope (or I hope) your rabbit dies (or your rabbits die)! A joc. imprecation: C.20. (Dorothy L. Sayers, Have His Carcase, 1932.) Orig. a curse, 'I hope you lose your virility!' (cf. the eroticism of pop goes the weasel): that's one theory; my own is that it is merely a child's threat to another.

hope (you've got)!, what a; some hope! A discouraging c.p. reply to one confident of obtaining some privilege: C.20. Cf. hopes!, some, q.v.

hopeful; much more frequently young hopeful. A boy, youth, young man: ironic coll. from ca. 1855, ca. 1720, resp. 'Cuthbert Bede', in Tales of College Life, has the former. Occ. of a girl.

hopes!, some or what. A c.p. expressive of extreme scepticism: C.20, esp. among the Tommies in WW1. Cf. hope you've got!, what a, above.

hophead. A wild fellow; a rash, foolish one: NZ: since ca. 1943. (Slatter.) Ex:—2. A drug addict: orig. US, an opium addict, early C.20 (Underworld); in later C.20, adopted ex US, usu. of a marijuana-user.

Hopkins, Mr Hopkins. A lame person: joc. coll. (—1785); ob. (Grose, 1st ed.) Cf. hoppy and:—2. In don't hurry Hopkins!, in mid-C.19–20 US, ironic to slow persons; but in C.17–18 England it implied, 'Don't be too hasty, and took the form as well come (or hasty) as Hopkin(s), that came to jail over night, and was hanged the next morning.

hopped up. Under the influence of an exhilarating drug: Can.: adopted, ex US, ca. 1935; by ca. 1945, s. Cf. hophead, 2.

hopper. The mouth: low: mid-C.19–early 20.—2. A grass-hopper: Aus. coll.: late C.19–20.—3. One who (often) goes dancing: esp. in Lancashire: late C.19–early 20. (Robert Roberts, 1976.)—4. A bus inspector: Londoners': since ca. 1935. He keeps hopping on and off buses.—5. Go a hopper, to go quickly: sporting: ca. 1870–1915.

hopper-arsed. Large-bottomed: coll.: late C.17–early 19. B.E.; D'Urfey, 'Hopper-arsed Nancy'; Grose, 'from...resemblance to a small basket, called a hopper'.—2. Sometimes, however, it appears to = shrunken-arsed: B.E.'s definition is susceptible of this meaning; not so Grose's.

hopper-docker. A shoe: c.: ca. 1810–50. (Vaux.) Perhaps a corruption of hock-dockies, q.v.

hoppies. Fleas: Cockneys': C.20. Muvver.

hopping around like a gin at a christening. An Aus. c.p., adapted ex demure as a(n old) whore at a christening: C.20. Petch cites Radio Times, 9 Feb. 1967.

hopping Giles. A cripple: s. (—1785) >, ca. 1850, coll.; ob. Ex St Giles, the patron of cripples. (Grose, 1st ed.; Household Words, 27 June 1885.) Cf.:

hopping Jesus. A lame person: low: ca. 1860–1930. Cf. creeping Jesus.

hopping pot, the. The lot; esp. 'That's the hopping pot', the end of the day's work: rhyming s. late C.19–20. But Franklyn 2nd notes that it is often used at the beginning of a list, e.g.: 'So they charges him with the hoppin' pot; drunk and disorderly, resistin' arrest, obstruction, ... the lot.'

hopping to hell. See I'll go hopping to hell!

hopping wife. See hop-picker. In anon., Indoor Paupers, 1888.

hoppo. A customs-house officer: Anglo-Chinese coll.: from ca. 1710. Ex Chinese hoo-poo, the Board of Revenue; abbr. hoppo-man. Y. & B.

hoppy. A lame person: coll.: C.19–early 20.—2. A dancing-master: mid-C.19–20.—3. A fiddler: low coll.:—1892; ob. S. Watson, in Wops the Waif.—4. See hoppies.

hops. To be on the hops is to be on a drinking bout: c.: ca. 1920–50. I.e. on the beer.—2. Hence, (to have) got (one's) hops in: to be tipsy: c.:—1933 (Charles E. Leach, On Top of the Underworld).—3. As exclam., (acclamation for) a winning throw: darts-players': since ca. 1930. 'A double thirteen achieves this. If you get a single, you are said to be split or cracked, with two darts left and thirteen to make' (Granville). hophthalmia. Ophthalmia: medical students':—1887 (Baumann).

Horace. 'A jocular form of address, often used by men to boys in offices, etc.' (Petch, 1946): coll.: earlier C.20.—2. See stop it, Horace!

horizontal, n. A courtesan: fast life: 1886; †. (Ware.) Ex Fr. horizontale. Cf. horizontal exercise, refreshment, etc.—2. A bad crash: RFC: WW1. F. & G.

horizontal, adj. Tipsy—very tipsy: Service officers': since ca. 1935. H. & P. horizontal champion. 'One with an infinite capacity for sleep' (Granville): RN: since ca. 1930. Ironic. Ex boxing.

horizontal exercise. Sexual intercourse: RN (?Aus. only): since ca. 1930.—2. Merely, sleep: Services' joc. coll.: mid-C.20.

horizontal refreshment. Food taken standing, esp. a snack at a bar: joc. coll.: from ca. 1890; ob.—2. Coition: low pedantic coll.: from ca. 1870. Cf.:

horizontal relaxation. Sexual intercourse: Aus. and NZ low joc.: since late 1940s. (Jack Slater, 1978.)

horizontalise. To have sexual intercourse: low pedantic: ca. 1845–1925.

horn, n. The nose, esp. if noisy: low coll.: C.19–early 20. Cf. hooter. Also horn(ey).—2. As a drink, almost wholly US since C.18. See Thornton. In later C.20, at latest, it appears to have been adopted in Canada, to judge from H. Dempsey, Bob Edwards, 1975, 'Take down flask from shelf and pour stiff horn down your throat'. (Leechman).—3. Gen. in pl., indicative of one's having been cuckolded: despite F. & H., this sense and the v. horn, to cuckold, are definitely S.E.: likewise S.E. are most of the horn(s)=cuckoldom terms listed by F. & H.; all that are relevant follow hereinafter.—4. The penis; esp. in erection; low coll.: since C.18. (In C.19 often used loosely of women when sexually excited.) Always as the horn, e.g., in get, or have, the horn, to have an erection: C.18–20; cure the horn, to coit: C.19–20: both low coll. Hence, get (or give) cheap horn, to be sexually excited by smutty talk or pornography: late C.19–20.—5. In come out of the little end of the horn, to get the worst of a bargain, be reduced in circumstances; after great efforts, to fail: coll.: the first two senses, C.17–early 18; the third, from ca. 1840 and mostly US. Moreover, in the C.17–18 usages, the form is almost always be squeezed through a horn.—6. In a horn, a phrase that advises disbelief or refusal: (ex Eng. dial.) mostly US; where recorded as early as 1840; it never > very gen. in Britain and was † by 1910.—7. At the sign of the horn, in cuckoldom: late C.17–early 19 coll.—8. See wind (one's or) the horn. horn and hide, all. (Of cattle.) Nothing but skin and bone: Aus.:—1890. In C.20, S.E.

horn and the hoof, by the. C.17: 'A Butcher . . . swears by the horse and the hoof (a poor othe . . .)', Day, 1640 (OED).

horn-colic. A temporary priapism: mid-C.18–mid-19 low. (Grose, 1st ed., horn cholick.) Cf. Irish toothache, q.v.

horn-fisted. With hard, callous hands: nautical coll.: mid-C.19–20. (Bowen.) Cf. the journalistic 'poetic' cliché 'horny-handed sons of toil'.

horn-grower or -merchant. A married man: coll.: C.18.

horn in (on). To interfere; to intrude upon: Aus., late C.19–20; Brit. since earlyish C.20. D.L. Sayers, Have His Carcase, 1932, 'Glaisher might not like this horning in on his province.' Ex cattle.

horn-mad. As stark-mad, even at being cuckolded, it is—like horn-work—S.E., but as extremely lecherous it is a C.19–20 (ob.) low coll.

horn-pills. Aphrodisiacs: low: since ca. 1910. Ex horn, 4.

horn-pipe or hornpipe. A cry of condemnation by the audience: theatrical: 1880s. Ware cites the Daily News, 6 May 1885.—2. In dance the horn-pipe, to be a cuckold: C.17–18 joc. coll.

horn-pipes in fetters. A jiggling dance: Cockney:—1851; † by 1900. Mayhev.

horn-rimmers. Horn-rimmed spectacles: coll.: from ca. 1927. (OED Sup.) The 'OXFORD -ER(S)'. horn sticks. Celery: Cockneys': C.20. Muvver.

horn-thumb. A pickpocket: ca. 1565–1620. Jonson, 'A child of the horn-thumb, a babe of booty . . . a cut-purse'.
Horncastle, the member for. A cuckold: C.18–early 19 joc. coll.

horned range(s). A fife-rail; a shot-rack: nautical coll., the latter naval (and † by 1890): C.19–20. Bowen.

Horner, Miss. The female pudend: C.19–early 20: low.

hornet. A cantankerous person: (low) coll.: from ca. 1840; ob. Ex the S.E. sense, a virulent and persistent enemy. Cf. the ironical Gloucestershire saying, he is as mild as a hornet.

Hornet's Nest, the. Heligoland Bight: RAF Bomber Command: 1939–41. Ex multitudes of German fighters based near by.

horney and hornie. See horny.

hornification; hornify. A priapism; to procure one: late C.18–20; ob.: low coll.

horning, vbl n. and ppl adj. of horn, 4, q.v.

Hornington, old. The male member: C.19 low. Cf. horny, n.; and Lushington, a drunkard, for the Victorian -ington suffix.

hornpipe. See horn-pipe.

horns. Cattle: Aus. coll.: late C.19–20. Archer Russell, A Tramp Royal, 1934, 'A mob of "horns" for the markets of the south.'—2. In draw or pluck or pull or shrink in (one's) horns, to retract, withdraw, cool down: coll.: from C.14, mid-C.17 (ob.), late C.16, and C.15 († by C.17), resp. All were orig. coll., but they quickly > S.E.; then, excepting the last, they seem to have been coll. ca. 1760–1890, from which date they have certainly been S.E. Cf. retire into one's shell, also ex a snail.—3. See horn, n., 3.

horns-to-sell. A loose wife: coll.: C.18–mid-19.—2. A cuckold: coll.: same period.

Hornsey, knight of. A cuckold: mid-C.17–early 19 punning coll. (The anon. play, Lady Alimony.) Cf. Horncastle, member for.

hornswoggle. Nonsense, humbug: ca. 1860–1905. Ex US hornswoggle, to cheat, deceive (1852). 'Believed to be of American origin' (H., 1864; Thornton). P.B.: both n. and v. have appeared in English print in 1980, used resp. by Bruce Page in New Statesman, 25 Jan. and Philip Howard in The Times, 5 Mar.

horny, horney, hornie, n. Scots coll. for the Devil: late C.18–20. Gen. auld Hornie.—2. A constable: c. of ca. 1810–70. (Vaux.) Extant in Anglo-Irish s.: witness EDD.—3. The nose: low: ca. 1820–1910. (Bee.) Ex horn, 1.—4. A street horn-player: proletarian: from ca. 1880. Arthur Morrison, 1896.—5. A bull, steer, cow: Aus.: C.20.—6. As old horny (or with capitals), the penis: C.19–20 low coll. Cf. sense 1. horny, adj. With rising membrum; disposed for carnal woman: C.19–20 low coll. Esp. in feel horny.—2. Hence, sexually exciting or stimulating, as, e.g., a pornographic book or picture: low coll.: since ca. 1950. (P.B.)—3. To sleep horny, to go to bed naked and be sensually aware of it: later C.20. L.A. cites Philip Calow, Going to the Moon, 1968.

horny-steerer. A bullock driver: Aus.: ca. 1920–50. B., 1943.

horomai! A Maori greeting: var. of haeremai, q.v.

horrible, n. A larrikin: Aus.: ca. 1925–55. B., 1943.

horrible, adj. Excessive; immoderate: mid-C.15–20: S.E. till ca. 1830, then coll. Lady Mary Wortley Montagu, 1718, 'This letter is of a horrible length'. (OED.) The same applies to the adv. Cf. horrid.

horrible den, the. The gunroom or junior officers' habitat: RN officers': latish C.19–earlyish 20. 'Taffrail', Pincher Martin and Carry On!, both 1916.

horrible man. 'Sergeant's sarcastic mode of address' (H. & P.): army, mostly in recruit training, as, 'Come 'ere, you 'orrible little man, you!': since ca. 1930.

horrid, adj. Offensive; detested; very bad or objectionable: coll.: from ca. 1665. Esp. as a feminine term of strong aversion. SOD.—2. Topsy: ca. 1780.

horrid, adv. Horridly; very objectionably: 1615: coll. till ca. 1830, then low coll., and finally, in C.20, sol.

horrid horn. A fool, a half-wit: Anglo-Irish of the streets: ca. 1850–1900. Ex Erse omadhaun, a brainless fellow. H., 1859.

horridly. An intensive before adj. denoting qualities objected to: coll.: late C.18–20.

horrors. (Gen. with the.) The first stage of delirium tremens: low coll.: from ca. 1859. (H., 1860.) Baumann, 1887, records to have the blue horrors, coll.: later C.19—early 20; and a C.20 Anglo-Irish var. is in the cast-iron (or stone-wall) horrors: both = to be suffering from DTs.—2. Low spirits, a fit of horror: coll.: from ca. 1765; ob. Goldsmith; Miss Ferrier; F.W. Robinson, in Mr Stewart's Intentions, 1864, 'Sermons always gave me the horrors'.—3. Handcuffs: c.: later C.19.—4. (a) Acute psychosis caused by amphetamines. (b) Depression after stopping amphetamines. (c) Heroin withdrawal symptoms' (Home Office): drug addicts': later C.20. Cf. senses 1 and 2.—5. (Rare in sing.) Oro cigarettes: Services': 1916–18. Occ. 'errors'.—6. Menstruation: schoolgirls': later C.20. Douglas Clark, Golden Rain, 1980.—7. See Chamber of Horrors. horroroscope. A frightening horoscope-reading: since ca. 1930.

hors d'oeuvre book. An order book: Aus. joc.: since ca. 1950. (B.P.)

Horse. Horsemonger Lane Gaol: c.: ca. 1850–90. Mayhew. Also the Old Horse.

horse, n. A lottery ticket hired out by the day: ca. 1725–80. Fielding.—2. A day's rule, i.e. leave of absence, from the Fleet Prison: debtors': ca. 1815–50. Pierce Egan, Life in London, 1821.—3. Work charged for before completion: workmen's: since ca. 1760. Abbr. the orig. form horse-flesh, C.17 printers' s. Hence, flog (also work, or work for) the dead horse. See dead horse. From this comes the coll. flog (or mount) a dead horse, 'to engage in fruitless effort': from ca. 1840; in C.20 S.E., almost proverbial.—4. A £5 note: low: later C.19—early 20.—5. An arrogant or supercilious officer: nautical:—1867 (Smyth); ob. by ca. 1930.—6. Hence, a strict disciplinarian: RN: mid-C.19—early 20. Ibid.—7. A mud-bank, esp. in estuary waters: bargees' and yachtsmen's: since ca. 1880. 'Because, if you get astride it on a falling tide, you must keep your seat until rescued by the next flood' (Julian Franklyn, in a letter).—8. A prostitute's customer: S. African prostitutes': C.20. (Communicated in 1946.) Cf. v., 1.—9. A vocative to a man whose name isn't known: RN: since ca. 1917; some later use in other Services. Cf. old horse.—10. A practical joke: University of Alberta: 1930s. Prob. ex S.E. horse-play.—11. A prostitute: RN lowerdeck: since late 1940s. Ex the pl. whores.—12. Hence, 'a casual girl-friend, as opposed to a party, who is a more steady acquaintance' (Granville, 1962): since ca. 1950.—13. Heroin: drug addicts'; hence, very soon, police: adopted, ca. 1945, ex US, where orig. c. 'Because it has more "kick" than the softer drugs' (R.S., 1969).—14. All horse, (of a jockey) very small: coll.: 1860 (O.W. Holmes).—15. Horse occurs in many s. and coll. phrases; see the following: cart before the horse; eat like a ...; good as a shoulder ...; grey mare ...; high horse; holy as a ...; live horse!; old horse; one-horse; run before (one's) ...; saddle, 4; salt horse; short horse ...; sick, 4; as a ...; strong as a ...; talk horse; water (one's) nag; good a scholar ...; turn a horse ...

horse, v. To possess a woman: coll.: C.17—early 20. Ex a stallion covering a mare.—2. To flog: C.19 coll. Cf. horsed, be (q.v.).—3. To outdo another, esp. at piece-work: workmen's: ca. 1860–1910. All the Year Round, 13 July 1867.—4. See horse it and cf. dead horse and horse, n., 3.

horse-and-buggy. Old-fashioned; antiquated: Can. (prob. ex US) coll.: since ca. 1925; by 1955, S.E.

Horse and Cart, the. The 'Wolverhampton to Willesden parcels train' (Railway, 2nd): railwaymen's:—1966.

horse and cart. Heart: rhyming s.:—1909 (Ware). Cf. horses and carts, darts.—2. 'Fart. "orsed" and "orsin"' give the past and present participles of the verb. The term is not generally used for the verb's infinitive' (Hillman, 1974): rhyming s.: later C.20.—3. 'A locomotive and guard's brake van' (McKenna, Glossary, 1970): railwaymen's: mid-C.20.

horse and foot. With all one's strength: coll.: ca. 1600–1760. (Extant in dial.) Horace Walpole.

horse and harness, come for. That is, for one's own ends: coll.: C.15–16. Caxton (OED).

horse and horse. 'When shaking dice, best two out of three, if the first two throws result in a tie, the players have a horse apiece, or are horse and horse' (Leechman): Can.: C.20. See also horse on one.

horse and man. (Often prec. by undone.) Completely: C.17 coll. ? ex jousting.

horse and trap. Gonorrhœa: rhyming s. (on clap): since ca. 1870.—2. To defecate: rhyming s., on crap, 1: C.20. Franklyn, Rhyming.

horse away. To spend in a lottery (cf. horse, n., 1).

horse-box. The mess-room of the sergeant-major(s) of Marines: RN: late C.19–20. Bowen.—2. 'Control station in the engine room containing the engine controls, switch-board, alarms, etc.' (John Malin, 1979: Townsend Thoresen ferries' crews.—3. See:

horse-boxes. (Rare in singular.) 'The senior military officers' cabins in the old naval troopers': RN: ca. 1850–1910. Bowen.
horse-breaker. A woman hired to ride in the park: ca. 1860–70: Society.—2. Hence, a courtesan given to riding, esp. in the park: Society (—1864); ob. by 1900, † by 1915. Public Opinion, 30 Sep. 1865, 'These semi-monde people, anonymas, horse-breakers, hetairæ... are by degrees pushing their way into society.'

horse-buss. A resounding kiss; a bite: coll.:—1785; † by 1890. (Grose, 1st ed.) A development from horse-kiss, q.v.

horse-capper (or -coper), -courser (or -coser), or -chaunter. A dealer in worthless or tampered horses. The last, C.19–20 (ob.) has always been low coll.; h.-capper is a corruption of h.-coper, which, despite its taint of unsavouriness, was always S.E.; both -courser, low coll. after ca. 1750, and -coser were orig. S.E., the latter being somewhat dial.

horse-collar. A halter: an occ. var., mainly C.18, of horse(s)-nightcap, q.v.—2. The female pudend: low: C.19–20; ob.—3. A very long wide collar: tailors': from ca. 1860.—4. Inferior cheese: rural s.: late C.19—early 20. (Fred Lester, Looking Back: Memories of Lovely Mayfield, an Old Sussex Village, 1950.) Prob. ex the smell. (P.B.) horse-coser or -courser. See horse-capper.

horse-doctor. A medical officer: occ. Forces' usage in WW2. Cf.:-

Horse Doctors, the. The Royal Army Veterinary Corps (formed 1903, became 'Royal' 1918): army nickname, taken from S.E.: earlier C.20.

horse-duffing. See duff, v., and duffing (esp. cattle-duffing).

horse-faker. A horse-dealer: low:—1887 (Baumann). Cf. horse-capper.

horse-flesh. See horse, n., 3; horse it; and dead horse. (Horse-flesh is orig.—C.17—printers' s.)

horse foaled on an acorn, a or the. The gallows: ca. 1670–1850: low proverbial > literary s. (Smollett, Grose; Lytton, Ainsworth.) Gen. in ride a horse... Cf. synon. three-legged or wooden mare.—2. 'The triangles or crossed halberds under which soldiers were flogged' (F. & H.): ca. 1790–1870: military.

horse-godmother. 'A large masculine woman' (Grose, 1st ed.): (rather low) coll.: ca. 1570–1890; now—and perhaps orig.—dial. Wolcot, 'In woman angel sweetness let me see, | No galloping horse-godmother for me'; Thackeray.

horse is troubled with corns, that. That horse is foundered: joc. coll.: mid-C.17—mid-18.

horse it. To charge, in one's week's tally, for work not yet completed, the unprofitable remainder being dead horse, q.v.; workmen's—1857.—2. See also horse, n., 3, and cf. horse, v., 2.—3. To work hard: coll.: C.20.

horse-kiss. A rough kiss: coll.: ca. 1670–1760. Cf. horse-buss, q.v. Extant in dial. as 'a pretended kiss which is really a bite' (EDD).

horse ladder, send for a. To send on a fool's errand: rural (esp. Wiltshire) coll.: mid-C.18–early 19. The victim was told that it was needed to get up the horses (to finish a hay-mow: Grose, 3rd ed.).

horse-latitudes. That space in the Atlantic which, lying north of the trade winds, is noted for baffling winds: nautical: from ca. 1775; ob. 'Perhaps adapted from Sp. golfo de las yeguas, "the gulph of mares, so the Spaniards call the great ocean, betwixt Spain and the Canary Islands" (Stevens), supposed to be from contrast with the golfo de las damas (of ladies), from Canaries to West Indies, usually smooth and with favourable winds' (W.).

horse-laugh. A guffaw: coll. >, ca. 1890, S.E.: from ca. 1710. (Pope.)? punning hoarse.

horse-leech. An insatiable person; a whore: coll.: mid-C.16–mid-17. (Jonson.) Prob. ex.—2. A quack: late C.16–17. Hall, in Satires, 1597, 'No horse-leech but will look for larger fee.' Ex lit. S.E. sense.—3. Whence too: an extortioner; a miser: coll.: from ca. 1545; ob. (This sense should not, perhaps, be distinguished from the first. The OED considers it S.E.) horse-load to a cart-load, fall away from a. To put on weight suddenly: ironic coll.: mid-C.17–early 19. B.E.; Swift.

horse lop. A pudding—or puddings—of plumless suet: military: from ca. 1870; ob. B. & L.

horse-marine. An awkward person: earlier C.19. Moe cites W.N. Glascock, Sketch-Book, II, 1826; H., 1860. Perhaps ex heraldic and † horse-marine, a sea-horse (Ware). Cf.:-

horse-marines, the. 'A mythical corps, very commonly cited in jokes and quizzes on the innocent' (F. & H.): coll.: from ca. 1820; ob., except in form the marines. Scott, 'Come, none of your quizzing... Do you think we belong to the horse-marines?' Imm. ex.—2. The 17th Lancers: army: C.19–early 20. (F. & G.) In 1796, on a passage to the West Indies, they did duty as marines.—3. Men that contract for the horse-traction of casual vessels: canal-men's (esp. in N.E. England): late C.19–20. L.T.C. Rolt, Narrow Boat, 1944.—4. In tell that to the horse-marines!, Don't be silly!, or Do you think I'm a fool?! coll.: ca. 1830–1910. Occ. amplified with the sailors won't believe it or when they're riding at anchor. Prob. an elab. of tell that to the marines!

horse-milliner. As a dandified trooper, hardly eligible.—2. A saddle- and harness-maker: coll.: ca. 1815–80. Ex the S.E. sense.

horse-nails. Money, esp. cash: low:—1859 (H., 1st ed.). Cf. brads and haddock.—2. In feed on horse-nails: 'So to play as not so much to advance your own score as to keep down your opponent's' (F. & H.): cribbage: ca. 1860–1914.—3. Knock into horse-nails: to defeat heavily: low coll.: ca. 1870–1930. Cf. knock (or beat) into a cocked hat, q.v. at cocked hat, 3.

horse-nightcap. See horse's nightcap.

horse of another colour, (that's) a. (That is) quite another matter: coll. (in C.20, S.E.): orig. (1790s) US, anglicised ca. 1840 by Barham. Undoubtedly suggested by Shakespeare's 'My purpose is indeed a horse of that colour' (Twelfth Night, II, iii, 181). In C.20, more often a horse of a different colour.

Horse of Troy, the. The collier River Clyde: Services': 1915. (F. & G.) She lay off 'V Beach', near Cape Helles, throughout the fighting on Gallipoli.

horse on one, have a. When rolling best of three, to be one down: Can. dice-players': since ca. 1925. See also horse and horse.

horse-painting. The disguising of racehorses: racing-world coll.: C.20. Margaret Lane, Edgar Wallace, 1938.

horse-pox. An intensive of pox, esp. in adjunction or asseveration: mid-C.17–18 low coll. E.g. 'Ay, with a horse-pox'.

horse-Protellant. A churchman: tailors': ca. 1860–1920.

horse(-)pug. A horse-driver on a labouring job: Aus.: since ca. 1910. (B., 1942.) Rough on the horse's mouth.

horse-sense. Common sense, esp. if unrefined and somewhat earthy: coll.: adopted, ca. 1895, ex US, where extant C.19.

horse-shoe. The female pudend: C.18–early 20. Cf. horse-collar.—2. See ringing the horse-shoes.

horse-sovereign. 'A twenty-shilling piece with Pistrucci's effigies of St. George and the Dragon' (F. & H.): coll. (mostly low): ca. 1870–1900. London Figaro, 26 Jan. 1871.

horse to a hen, a. Long odds: sporting coll.: ca. 1810–60. Boxiana, III, 1821.

horse with (or Bayard of) ten toes, ride (up) on a. To walk: coll.: C.17–early 19. Cf. marrowbone (punning Marylebone stage[-coach] and Shanks's mare, qq.v).

horse with the green tail. See showing the girls...

horsed. Exhilarated with heroin: drug addicts': since ca. 1950. (Robin Cook, 1962.) See horse, n., 13.—2. Be horsed: to be flogged; to take on one's back a person to be flogged: coll.:

ca. 1675–1895. ('Hudibras' Butler; Smollett; Notes & Queries, 1 Jan. 1881.) Ex the wooden horse used as a flogging stool.

horses. Short for galloping horses, q.v.: RAF: since ca. 1930. 'He's got his horses' = he's been promoted to Warrant Officer. (Bebbington.)—2. See horse's hoof.—3. For water (one's) horses see water (one's) nag, to urinate.—4. In they cannot set (occ. hitch or stable) their horses together, they cannot agree: mid-C.17–18 coll., as in Swift and Garrick; C.19–20 dial.

horses and carts. (The game of) darts: rhyming s. mostly theatrical: C.20. (Franklyn, Rhyming.) Contrast horse and cart, q.v.

horses and mares, play at. To coit: schoolboys': mid-C.19–early 20.

horse's arse or hoss's ass is contemptuous for a person disliked and distrusted: Can. (esp. soldiers'): C.20. Joc. elab.: (the north end of a horse going south. Cf.:-

horse's hang-down. Var. of prec.: Can.: later C.20. (R.F. Pearsall, of Marton, 1980.)

horse's head is swollen so big that he cannot come out of the stable, his. He owes much money to the ostler: a C.17 c.p.

horse's hoof; often shortened to horses. A male homosexual: rhyming s. (on poof): since ca. 1910. Cf. the commoner iron (hoof).

horse's leg. A bassoon: military bandmen's:—1909. Ware, 'From its shape'.

horse's meal. Food without drink (esp. without strong liquor): ca. 1780–1850: s. >, by 1820, coll. (Grose, 1st ed.) Cf. dial. horse-feast.

horse's neck. A drink of ginger ale and brandy: Public Schools' and RN: since ca. 1925. Granville; Daily Telegraph, 14 Aug. 1956.—2. A polite form of horse's ass: Can.: since ca. 1920.

horse's neckiace. A contemporaneous var. of:—horse's (or horse-) nightcap. A halter; esp. in die in a horse's-nightcap, to be hanged: (?) orig. c. > low s. > coll.: late C.16–19. Cf. anodyne neckiace; hempen cravat, at hemp; Tyburn tippet, at Tyburn.

horses sweat, men perspire and ladies (or women) glow. A c.p. directed in mild (often joc.) reproof at a man saying that he sweats, and esp. at a man saying that a woman does: C.20. By 1960, slightly ob.; since that date, many women have preferred to 'sweat'. P.B.: an army version is privates sweat, sergeants perspire and officers glow; no doubt the other Services have their versions also, in the class- (rather than sex-)war.

horseshoe. See horse-shoe.

horsing around. The playing of practical jokes: Can. Service-men's: since not later than 1939. (H. & P.) Cf. S.E. horse-play.

horsy-face. An unpopular officer, esp. if he had a long face: RN: mid-C.19–20; slightly ob. by 1930. Bowen.

hortus. A perfect example of C.18 pedantic s.: the female privy parts. (Bailey.) L. for 'garden', q.v.

hose, n. See in my other hose!: not likely!

hose or hosepipe, v.i. and v.t. To spray liquid fire from a hand-thruster: army: 1941+. P-G-R.

hosed and shod. (Gen. prec. by come in and in past tense.) Born to a good estate: ca. 1670–1750. Cf. born with a silver spoon...

hosing. 'Failure meant a beating with a length of rubber pipe. Even that had its special euphemism; it was called a hosing or siphoning' (Andrew Sinclair, The World of the Public School, 1977): Eton: mid-C.20.

hospital bum. 'A young doctor who, having completed his medical training, cannot persuade himself to leave the hospital and enter general practice. This psychological block is so well known to the profession that those afflicted by it have become known as "hospital bums"'. I first heard it in October 1961' (Leechman). Can. medical: since late 1950s.

hospital game. Football, esp. Rugby: coll.: late C.19. Ware, 'From the harvest of broken bones it produces.'

hospital grounds. A flat, easy run: coach-drivers': C.19. W.O. Tristram, Coaching Days..., 1888.

hospital sheep. Sick sheep that are segregated: Aus. rural coll.: since ca. 1925. B., 1943.

hospitals, walk the. See walk the hospitals.

hoss, as a familiar term of address, is US (1844), but old hoss, occ. old horse (q.v.), has to some extent been anglicised. See also horse, n., 9.

hoss's ass. See horse's arse.

host. To reckon without (one's) host, to count one's chickens before they are hatched, was orig. (C.15), in this its fig. sense, coll., to judge by Caxton's 'It ys sayd in comyn that...' (see OED); but it very soon > S.E. hostel. See TAVERN TERMS, §3, in Appendix.

hosteller. A 'scrounger' and/or adventurer frequenting Work Aid Homes and such places: vagrants' c.: from ca. 1920. W.A. Gape, Half a Million Tramps, 1936.—2. [Grose, wrongly, held hosteler (sic) to be coll., and gave it the punning etym. of oat-stealer.]

hostie. An airline hostess: Aus.: since ca. 1955. Nino Culotta, Cop This Lot, 1960, "That hostie's a slashin' line," Dennis said.

hostile. 'Inimical, esp. to hoboes' (Niven): Can. tramps': late C.19–20; adopted ex US.—2. (Often pron. horstie.) Angry, annoyed; esp. go hostile: Aus. and NZ military: WW1+. In later C.20 > Aus. gen.

hostile ord. An ordinary seaman enlisted for 'hostilities only' (q.v.): RN: WW1, and revived in 1939. OED Sup. 1977; P. Janssen.

Hostile Territory. Eastern Region: railwaymen's: since mid-1940s. Railway, 2nd.

hostilities (only). Those who joined the Navy for 'the duration of hostilities only': RN: WW1. (Bowen.) Cf. duration, q.v.

hot, n. A mellay at football; a crowd: Winchester College: —1878. The second sense is ob.—2. 'I... had a pot of hot, which is beer with gin in it' (Sessions, Mar. 1847): public houses': ca. 1830–90. Cf. hot flannel, and hot pot, 1, qq.v.—3. A penny; hots, money: Felsted School: late C.19–20.

hot, v.i. To crowd, or form a mob: Winchester College: —1878; ob. Also hot down and hot up: R.G.K. Wrench.—2. To heat: coll. from mid-C.19; earlier—from late M.E.—it was S.E.; but in C.20, except when playfully or jocularly among the cultured, it is low coll.—indeed almost a sol. Normal coll. in later C.20 for 'to (re-)heat', as, e.g. left-overs of food, is 'I hotted it up.'—3. To reprimand severely: coll.: 1920s. (OED Sup.) Ex give it hot, in the same sense.

hot, adj. Of F. & H.'s six senses, two—justful (or passionate) and violent (sharp, severe)—have always been S.E., as, of course, has hot-blooded, amorous, lecherous.—2. Alive; vehement: coll.: from ca. 1860.—3. Very reckless, boisterous; careless of decorum; (of a literary work) licentious: coll.: from ca. 1885. J. Runciman, in The Chequers, 1888.—4. In c., well known to the police: from ca. 1830; ob. by ca. 1930, by cf. sense 13. (F. & H.'s appended senses, dangerous and uncomfortable, are S.E.)—5. Venerably diseased: low: C.19–20 (? ob.).—6. (Of a horse, in C.20 also of persons) much betted-on. Esp. in hot favourite. Orig. (1894) racing, from ca. 1905, gen. sporting s. Esp., in C.20, regarded as likely to win, e.g. of a candidate in an election.—7. Exceedingly skilful: C.20. Cf. hot on and hot stuff, qq.v. Collinson.—8. In C.20 insurance s., applied to a very likely insurer, a promising 'prospect', q.v. Ex hot in children's games.—9. Excessive, extreme: from ca. 1910. C.J. Dennis.—10. (Of a Treasury bill) newly issued: coll.: 1928. (OED Sup.) Cf.:—11. Novel, new: orig. Bootham School, 1925 (Bootham); by 1933, gen. This anticipated the sense 'recent or fresh' as applied to information, as in hot gen, q.v. P.B.; and presumably a shortening of hot from the [news-] press.—12. Stinking; (e.g. of fish) stale: Aus. traders': since ca. 1930. B., 1953.—13. Stolen: Can. (ex US) since ca. 1925; Brit. and Aus., since ca. 1935. Orig. c.; by 1945, at latest, s. Cf. hot-stuff, v.—14. Hence, smuggled: Aus.: since late 1930s. (B.P.)—15. As a term of 'all purpose praise', it was noted as 'in' (= vogue) by Nigel Dempster, in Telegraph Sunday mag., 11 Mar. 1979.—16. In catch (from ca. 1859), get (ca. 1872), and give (ca. 1680) it hot, to be severely thrashed, defeated, or reprimanded; to thrash, defeat, reprimand severely: coll. For cop it hot, see cop, v., 3.—17. In make it hot, to ask too much; exaggerate grossly; in short, to behave as if one were ignorant of the limits and limitations imposed by the commonest decency: C.20 s. >, by 1930, coll. Esp. in don't make it too hot! Prob. ex S.E. make it hot, i.e. uncomfortable, for.—18. Not so hot, bad; unattractive; inefficient; ineffective: adopted, ca. 1930, ex US. In fact, the fore-running negative of sense 15.

hot a stomach as to burn the clothes off his back, have so. To pawn one's clothes for drink: mid-C.18—early 19: coll. Grose, 2nd ed.

hot air. Boastful or exaggerated talk; talk for the sake of effect: from ca. 1910. Ex US, where used by George Ade in 1899.—2. Hence, hot-air merchant, rare in England, and hot-air artist, a person indulging in this sort of thing; anglicised ca. 1913. OED Sup.—3. For hot-air round, see round, n., 2.

hot and bothered, all. See all hot and bothered.

hot and cold. Gold: rhyming s.: C.20. Franklyn 2nd.

hot and heavy like a tailor's goose. See goose, n., 1.

hot and hot, adj.-adv. and n. (Dishes) served, in succession, so soon as cooked: 1771, Smollett, the adj.-adv.; 1842, Tennyson, the n.: coll. till ca. 1880, then S.E. Occ. in fig. usage. OED.

hot and strong. In give it (to) (someone) hot and strong, 'to punish severely, either physically or verbally' (Lyell): coll.: late C.19–20. An elab. of give it hot, at hot, adj. 16.—2. In I like—or he likes—my (his) women hot and strong: an Aus. c.p.: since ca. 1945. Ex I like my coffee—and my women—hot and strong, or some var. thereof.

hot-arsed. Extremely lascivious (only of women): low coll.: C.17–20. Dr Niels Haisiund cites anon., The Ten Pleasures of Marriage, 1682–3. Cf. S.E. † hot-backed, and hot-bot.

hot as similes to be considered for this dictionary are these:—(Perhaps, but most prob. not) hot as (a) toast, C.15–18, and warm as (a) toast, C.19–20, hot as coals, ca. 1550–1620, and hot as fire; hot as blazes, C.19–20, however, is downright s., while hot as hell is merely coll.; hot as buggerly is low s. > low coll.; (of a person only) hot as if (e.g.) he had a bellyful of wasps and salamanders, ca. 1700–50.

hot as a fire-cracker. Sexually hot-blooded and promiscuous: Can.: since ca. 1910.

hot at. See hot on.

hot beef. See hot meat.—2. In give hot beef, to cry 'stop thief!': underworld rhyming s.:—1877 (Horsley); ob. by 1930. Cf. beef, n.

hot blanket. 'A woman who pawns her blankets while they are warm from being slept in—she redeeming them before night-time': proletarian: late C.19–20; ob. Ware.

hot-bot. A highly sexed or over-sexed girl; often Miss Hotbot or Lady Hotbot: non-aristocratic, non-cultured: since ca. 1920. hot-box. An overheated axle-bearing on a railway car: Can. railwaymen's: C.20. Ex US, witness Rudyard Kipling, -007, 1897 (R.S.). hot cack. Good; very good: Aus. low: C.20. (B., 1942.) With a low pun on go like hot cakes. Mr Barry Prentice doubts the pun and thinks hot cack a semi-euph. for shit-hot.

hot cakes. See like hot cakes.

hot cock. (Utter) nonsense: Aus.: since ca. 1940. (B., 1959.) Cf. a lot of cock at cock, n., 14. Not to be confused with: —2. Give (usu. a female) (usu. six inches of hot cock, to copulate with: low, raffish: since mid-C.20. (L.A., 1974.)

hot coppers. (Occ. singular.) The parched throat to be expected after a drinking-bout: low: C.19—early 20. Moe cites John Davis, The Post-Captain, 1806. Thackeray, "Nothing like that beer", he remarked, "when the coppers are hot." Cf. cool one's copper, also moult.

hot corner. 'A position in which one is threatened or bullied': non-aristocratic coll.: '1854 on', says Ware. Frequent in Gowing's memoirs of the Crimean and later C.19 wars (P.B.).

hot cross bun. Son: theatrical rhyming s.: late C.19—20. London Evening Standard, 19 Aug. 1931.—2. A Red Cross ambulance: army: WW1. Ex the marking.—3. On the run (from the police): rhyming s.: C.20. Franklyn, Rhyming.

hot cup of tea, a. 'Hot stuff': ca. 1880—1914. William Westall, Sons of Belial, 1895.

hot dinners. occurs often in such hyperbolic boasts and statements as 'I've been in more pile-ups [crashes] than you've had hot dinners'; 'she's been shafted more times than she's had hot dinners', etc.: low: (? late C.19) C.20. (Petch; P.B.) Cf. (more) sea-miles, q.v., which is perhaps the orig. shape of the boast.

hot dog. A Malibu board, i.e. a wide, not very large, board, made of 'foam' and sheathed with fibreglass: Aus. surfers': adopted, ca. 1960, ex Hawaii. Hence, hot-dogging (n. and adj.), making 'fast turns and fancy stunts on waves' (Pix, 28 Sep. 1963): since ca. 1961.

hot down. See hot, v., 1.

hot drop, the latest. The latest fad or fashion; the latest craze of any kind: Aus.: since ca. 1950. (B.P.)

hot flannel; warm flannel; flannel. A drink of gin and beer, heated after the addition of sugar, nutmeg, etc.: coll.: resp. 1789 (Parker), 1823 (Bee), and 1858 (Mayhew). Cf. hot, n., 2, and hot-stopping, q.v.

hot fog. Steam: RN (engineers'): since ca. 1930.

hot foot, v. To hasten; walk very quickly, to run; to decamp speedily: adopted ca. 1917 from US. (A.P.G. Vivian in Fifty Amazing Stories of the Great War.) But mostly hot food it. As adv. it is, despite F. & H., S.E.

hot gen. Up-to-the-minute information: RAF: 1939+. See also hot, adj., 11.

hot gospeller. A fanatical preacher, or a preaching fanatic: coll.:—1893. Since WW1, gen. thought to have come from the US—an opinion probably wrong.

hot joint. 'A [taxicab] rank is a "mark", and the first position is the "point" or "hot joint"' (Herbert Hodge, Cab, Sir?, 1939): taxi-drivers': since ca. 1920. Cf. the army's sweat on the top line.

hot line. A telephone line without a switchboard: coll., orig. political: since ca. 1960.

hot lot. A late C.19—20 var. of hot member, q.v. Manchon.
hot meat; occ. hot mutton or beef. A fast woman, a prostitute; the female pudend: low: C.19. Cf. bit, q.v.

hot member; hot un. A debauchee, an either sex rake: C.19—20 (ob. the former).—2. A person contemptuous of the conventions: C.19—20. (Both senses are low coll.)—3. A dangerous and/or quarrelsome person: low s. > coll.: from ca. 1880, h. m. being very ob. (Ware.) The earlier term—h. m.—may have been suggested by hot shot, q.v. Cf. hot stuff, q.v.

hot milk. 'The semen virile': low: C.19—20 (? ob.).

hot money. Stolen notes of numbers known: c.: from ca. 1930. Ex US. Cf. hot, adj., 10 and 13.

hot mutton. See hot meat.

hot on. Extremely severe towards or in respect of: C.20 s. > coll.—2. Unusually good or skilful at: from ca. 1895: coll. Var., hot at. Cf. hot stuff (at or on).

hot pants. In have hot pants (for someone): esp. of women: to be very much in love: adopted, ca. 1938, from US. Peter Cheyney, passim. Cf. 'La rage de la culotte m'est passée', Duplax, letter, 4 Oct. 1738 (communicated by N.H. Prenter, Esq.). P.B.: as absolute, e.g., 'She's got hot pants, that one' or 'She's a hot-panted one', it is synon. with the earlier hot-arsed, extremely lascivious.—2. Tight-fitting female short trousers, a form of lederhosen in other materials, designed to indicate, or even to emphasise, the vulval crease: a short-lived fashion of ca. 1970—1. Cf. mini-skirt.

hot place, the. Hell: orig. (ca. 1840) euph.; but from ca. 1890, coll. Blackwood's Magazine, Mar. 1891.

hot-plater. 'A person who drives a car that is painted to look like a taxi and operates mainly at night to avoid detection' (B., 1953): since ca. 1945. Also called a flea. P.B.: prob. a ref. to the vehicle's number-plate, as in Hong Kong Cantonese baak pai (= white plate, where taxi plates are red), for an illegal taxi.

hot poop. Latest information: RAF: 1970s. (Strong & Hart-Davis, Fighter Pilot, 1981.) Presumably shit-hot.

hot pot, a heated drink of ale and brandy, has, despite Grose and F. & H., been prob. always S.E. Cf. hot flannel and huckle-my-buff, q.v.—2. An 'engine emitting steam from safety valves' (Railway, 2nd): earlier C.20.

hot potato (pronounced potater). A waiter: late C.19—20. (Franklyn, Rhyming.) Also cold potato.—2. A political, or a sociological, problem too hot to handle comfortably: adopted, ca. 1954, ex US; by 1965, coll. Ex.—3. Drop like a hot potato, to abandon with—often callous or unseemly—alacrity: (orig. low) coll. >, ca. 1920, S.E.: from before 1893. F. & H.

hot press. 'A particularly vigorous comb by the Press Gang': nautical: late C.18—mid-19. (Bowen.) The Press Gang was disenrolled in 1835.

hot prot. An enthusiastically committed Protestant: church circles': ca. 1980. See prot. (P.B.)

hot pudding for supper, have a. (Of women only) to coit: low: C.19—20. Ex pudding, the male member.

hot rod. A very fast motor-car: Can. motorists': adopted, ex US, ca. 1948; by ca. 1950, also Aus. and Brit. Cf. jet job.

hot roll with cream, a. Coition: low: late C.19—20.

hot score. A policeman or detective: Aus. rhyming s. on John, 4: since 1920s. Also score.—2. See score-hot.

hot seat – Irishman – second horse – split ace; all prec. by the. The confidence trick: c.: the 1st and 4th from ca. 1919; the others from ca. 1905; the 1st, orig. US. Hot seat occurs in C.E. Leach, On Top of the Underworld, 1933; its extension, hot seat mob, confidence tricksters, in F.D. Sharpe, 1938.—2. (To be in) the hot seat, (to be in) a very difficult, or even a dangerous, position, esp. of responsibility; (to be in) grave trouble: adopted, ca. 1950, ex US. Ex.—3. The hot seat or hot squat, the electric chair: adopted, ca. 1935, ex US—but as allusive s. not as c. See Underworld.

hot session. Coition: low coll.: ca. 1920—50.

hot shot (indeed), a; hot shot in a mustard pot (when both one's heels stand right up), a. Always prec. by the v. to be, which is gen. in the present tense, and indicative of contemptuous irony: C.17—early 18. Ex hot-shot, one who shoots eagerly with a firearm. E.P. omitted the meaning, but this presumably refers to male sexual expertise—or lack of it (P.B.).

hot socks. 'Gaily coloured hose' (C.J. Dennis): Aus.:—1916.
hot spot; esp. be in a ... Trouble: c.: anglicised, ca. 1928, ex US; by 1945, s. Cf. hot seat, 2.

hot spud. Drop like a hot spud was a Services' var. of ... hot potato, 3. Recorded by Knock.

hot stomach. See hot a stomach...

hot-stopping. Hot spirits and water: 1861, Whyte-Melville, 'No man can drink hot-stopping the last thing at night, and get up in the morning without remembering that he has done so' (OED); ob. Cf. hot flannel and hot tiger, qq.v.

hot stuff. A person very excellent, skilful or energetic (at, e.g., a game): coll.: from the early 1890s.—2. A person out of the ordinary in degree;—dangerous,—(mostly of women) sexually hot or lax: coll.: C.20. Collinson.—3. A thing that is remarkable, behaviour that is either remarkable or censurable, a striking action: coll.: C.20. In WW1 Services' s., a heavy shelling, a sense remarkably anticipated in a song written by one of General Wolfe's officers, and sung by officers and men in 1759. It begins thus, 'Wolfe commands us, my boys; we shall give them'—the French—'Hot Stuff.' Quoted by Edith & Alan Milles in Canada's Story in Song, Toronto, 1960. (Leechman.)—4. 'Stolen property that is liable to be traced with comparative ease' (Tempest): c.: mid-C.20. Cf. hot, adj., 4 and 13, and:-

hot-stuff, v. To requisition, take without permission, steal: Services', perhaps orig. RN:—1914. Moe cites W.G. Carr, Brass Hats..., 1939. Perhaps the fore-runner of hot, 13, stolen.

hot stuff, adj. or admiring exclam. of gen. approbation: coll.: from ca. 1910; ob. by mid-C.20, except perhaps for pornography.

hot-stuffer. A thief; an illicit scrounger: Services': 1915. B. & P. Ex hot-stuff, v.

hot, sweet and filthy. See PRISONER-OF-WAR SLANG, §11, in Appendix. With a pun on the prescription, 'Coffee should be as hot as hell, as sweet as love, and as black as night.'

hot-tailed. (Of women) to be of passionately amorous nature: later C.20 version of hot-arsed, low coll.

hot that broad. See broad, n., 4, and MOVING-PICTURE SLANG, in Appendix.

hot tiger. Hot-spiced ale and sherry: Oxford University:—1860; ob. by 1919, † by 1930. Cf. hot flannel, hot pot, and hot-stopping, qq.v.

hot time (of it), give (a person) a. To make him thoroughly uncomfortable; to reprimand severely: coll.: late C.19–20. (Manchon.) See also hot, adj., 16.—2. There'll be a hot time in the old town tonight is a c.p., adopted ex US, and current in earlier C.20. Ex a song popular with US troops in Cuba, 1898. See DCpp.

hot to trot. Ready and eager to be away: Aus.: heard late 1960s, prob. current since 1950s. The influence of rhyme. (P.B.)—2. Of a nuclear reactor heated enough to start a submarine: adopted by RN, ca. 1960, ex USN. Peppitt cites G. Jenkins, Hunter Killer, 1966.

hot 'un. A severe punch or blow: pugilistic: mid-C.19–20. Augustus Mayhew, Paved with Gold, 1857.—2. See hot member and cf. hot stuff.

hot under the collar, get or grow. To become annoyed or angry: since ca. 1920.

hot up. See hot, v., 1 and 2.—2. Both v.i. and v.t. To become lively or esp. exciting; to render so; to enliven: C.20 (I remember the v.i. during WW1): s. >, by 1930, coll. (A reminder of the v.t. occurs in Gavin Weightman's article in New Society, 7 July 1977.)

hot(-)watcher. One who, at Winchester football, plays just behind the 'hot' or scrummage: Winchester College: since ca. 1870. E.H. Lacon Watson, In the Days of His Youth, 1935.

hot water. (Constructed, sense 1 with cost (one), sense 2 with be in.) Trouble; great discomfort: coll.: ca. 1535–1750.—2. Hence, a scrape: coll.: from ca. 1760. Gayton, 1659, 'This same search hath not cost me hot water (as they say)', cited by Apperson; Lord Malmesbury, 1765, 'We are kept, to use the modern phrase, in hot water', cited by OED; Punch's Almanack, 29 Nov. 1846, 'The Times newspaper first printed by steam, 1814, and has kept the country in hot water ever since.' (Until ca. 1890, The Times, until ca. 1900 Punch, had much less of a reputation for respectability than they now enjoy(?). [E.P.'s note of mid-1930s.]

hot-water play. A farce: theatrical coll., adopted in 1885 from US; ob. Ware, 'The actors [characters] in the play always being in difficulties until the fall of the curtain'.

hot wire, n. and v. 'Apparatus used to bypass ignition systems. Once entry has been gained, a skilled motorcar thief can "hot wire" the older style in less than two minutes' (Powis): c.: later C.20. Cf. jumper lead.

hot with. Spirits with hot water and sugar: coll.: 1837 (SOD); Thackeray, 1862, fig. (OED). Cf. cider and and cold without, and contrast Fr. café avec.

hotel; occ. Cupid's hotel or Cupid's Arms. The female pudendum: low: C.19–20, ob. Cf. Cock Inn. (This kind of coll. humour is moribund, thank heaven!)—2. See Casey's Court.

hotel barber. A thief that lives in a hotel to rob it: Aus. c.: C.20. (B., 1942.) Ex:-

hotel-barbering, n. Bilking: lodging at hotels and departing without paying the bill: low: 1892; † by 1930. Daily Chronicle, 28 Mar. 1892.

hotel-beat. 'A frequenter of hotels with no means of payment': adopted, before 1909, from US. Ware.

Hotel Bolo. A var. of Bolo House. Sir Ralph Cochran, obituary for Anthony Armstrong, The Times, 18 Feb. 1976. (P.B.)

Hotel Crowbar. A gaol: Can.: since ca. 1920. 'Only one guest had occupied Hotel Crowbar overnight.' Leechman cites P. St Pierre, Chillicotin Holiday, 1970.

Hotel Lockhart. A lower classes' c.p. 'satirical attack upon doubtful grandeur': ca. 1890–1914. (Ware.) Ex the Lockhart chain of cheap eating-houses in London. By itself, Lockhart was a pej. Cf. galloping Lockharts, field-kitchens in WW1.

Hotel Tropicana. The staff and patients at the London Hospital for Tropical Diseases have nicknamed it "Hotel Tropicana" (Observer mag., 26 Nov. 1978).

hotel warming-pan. A chambermaid: C.19—early 20. In C.18, Scotch warming-pan. A C.19–20 var.: warming-pan.

hots, the. In, e.g. have the hots for, to lust after: later C.20. Posy Simmonds, True Love, 1981.

Hottspurs, you are none of the. A c.p. retort to, or comment on, a noisy braggart, with the implication that he is a coward: ca. 1720–1870. Cf. Hastings sort, q.v.

hotten up (one's) copper. To take warm food or a hot drink: NZ: C.20. (B., 1941.) Cf. hot coppers.

Hottentot. 'A stranger come from the West [sc. of London]' (G.R. Sims): East End of London:—1880; † by 1919. Esp. in the playful street-cry, Hottentots!—2. A fool: low coll.: C.19. Ex the Hottentots' reputation for stupidity.

hotter. A crumpet: Harrovians': from ca. 1895. (Lunn.) Ex hot (crumpets being only by idiots eaten other than hot) by the 'OXFORD -ER'.

hotters. Hot water: RN: since ca. 1920. By the 'OXFORD -ER(S)'.

hottie. An Edinburgh High School term for 'one who has something pinned to his back of which he knows nothing' (EDD): mid-C.19–20.—2. A very tall story: Aus.: C.20. Baker.—3. A hot-water bottle: domestic: C.20. (Petch, 1974.) Cf.:-

hotty-watty bottles (or b's). Hot-water bottles: upper-middle class domestic s.: since ca. 1945.

Houdini, do a. To escape, esp. from a seemingly inextricable position: mostly Aus.: since ca. 1920. Ex the feats of the late Harry Houdini. (B.P.) hough; occ., erroneously, hok. To kick; act roughly towards: Hampton Grammar School:—1935. Ex:—2. To hack, in Rugby football: Ibid.: from ca. 1920.—3. See all of a hough.

hougher, dirty. A term of contempt: Hampton Grammar School:—1935. Ex sense 1 of hough.

houghing. Rough or 'dirty' play: Ibid.: from ca. 1925. Ex hough, q.v.

hound. An undergraduate not on the foundation: King's College, Cambridge: late C.18—early 19. The Anecdotes of Bowyer.—2. Applied pej. to a man, it is S.E., whence dirty dog, whence dusty pup, q.v. But when=person, as in drinkhound, a drunkard (Evelyn Waugh, Vile Bodies, 1930) and gloom-hound, a gloomy person (John G. Brandon, The One-Minute Murder, 1934), it is s., verging on coll., of the upper and upper-middle classes, and it dates from ca. 1919. Cf. the use of wallah.—3. Orderly officer: Army officers': from ca. 1925. Suggested by orderly dog, q.v.

Hounslow Heath. The teeth: rhyming s.:—1857 ('Ducange Anglicus'). Also Hampstead Heath, which displaced it ca. 1890. hour-grunters. See CONSTABLES, in Appendix, and cf. yow-lie, q.v. The term seems to have been unknown to Grose: it had prob. > † by 1870.

hour past hanging time, an. A C.18 rejoinder to 'What's the time?' (Swift). Cf. kissing time.

hour of Fleet Street. A harlot: orig. (ca. 1880) journalistic, > gen. ca. 1890, † ca. 1910.

House, always preceded by the. The Stock Exchange: coll.: from ca. 1810.—2. The House of Commons: from ca. 1820: coll. till C.20, then S.E. ('Jon Bee', 1823.) Hence, father of the House, the oldest elected member of the House of Commons: from ca. 1850: Parliamentary s. >, ca. 1890, coll.; by later C.20, S.E.—3. Christ Church, Oxford: from ca. 1868: s. till ca. 1890, then coll. till ca. 1930, then S.E.; cf. Peterhouse, q.v. Dorothy L. Sayers, Clouds of Witness, 1926, "Used to know him at the House." "...Whose house?" "...Oh, Christ Church, Oxford."—4. The workhouse: proletarian coll.:—1861 (Mayhew).—5. The public house: coll., mostly Cockney:—1887 (Baumann). Esp., in C.20 coll., It's on the house, it's free, as of a drink offered by the landlord. Applied, often joc., to other services offered free.

house, the audience in a theatre, is always S.E. (Abbr. playhouse).—2. An 'exclusive set at parties and dances—a group whose members sit together and dance together': middle classes':—1909; † by 1935. (Ware.) Post-war Society would speak of a 'gang' [i.e. post-WWI; note of ca. 1935].—3. A gambling form of lotto: military s. (from late 1890s) >, by 1915, coll. Its other name [† by 1950: P.B.], box and numbers, partly explains the semantics. P.B.: by 1950 it was known throughout the Services as tombola, under which an entry will be found in the Appendix. As an organised 'amusement' it entered civilian life on a large scale in the 1960s as bingo. The traditional cry from the first player to achieve a completed card was 'House!', perhaps short for 'House full!': the name may have derived from that.—4. A brothel: c., and low: from ca. 1860. Short for, e.g., house of civil reception, or of tolerance. Cf. Fr. maison de tolérance, and the title of Polly Adler's autobiography, pub. US 1953, UK 1954, A House Is Not a Home.—5. A lowerdeck mess: RN joc.: late C.19–20. (Knock.) Cf.:—6. An officer's cabin: RN: C.20. 'I'll drop the book in at your house when I pass' (Granville).—7. In be atop (occ. on) the house, a C.17 var. of ... housetop, q.v.—8. See make yourself at our house!, senses 4 and 5 of House; house on (one's) head; house out of the windows; big house.

house-bit or, occ., -piece. A paramour servant: low: mid-C.19–early 20. See also house-keeper.

house broke up. A military other ranks' c.p. indicating complete despair: ca. 1870–1940. Ware.

house dog. House tutor: several Public Schools': from ca. 1880. Ian Hay, Housemaster, 1936.

house-dove. A stay-at-home: 1579 (SOD): coll. till ca. 1660, then S.E.; † by 1800.

house-farmer or -knacker. Resp. London coll. and s. for 'landlord', gen. pl., as in Baumann, who, in 1887, scathingly describes them as 'Londoner Blutsauger, die den Armen schlechte, wohlfeile Wohnungen vermieten.'

house-keeper. A paramour servant: low: since ca. 1850. E.P. glossed the term 'ob.' in mid-1930s, but Petch, 1974, notes the use of housekeeper as 'a kept mistress', since (?) mid-C.20. Cf. house-bit or -piece.

house lighter. A lighter (boat) fitted with a cabin: canalmen's (esp. Fenland) coll.: C.20. (L.T.C. Rolt, Narrow Boat, 1944.) On S.E. house-boat.

house of call. 'The usual lodging Place of Journey-men

Tailors' (B.E.): late C.17–18 tailors' s. > coll. in early C.18 and S.E. by 1790. (Also of other occupations.)

house of cards. An unsafe project or circumstance: since ca. 1800; coll., soon S.E.

house of civil reception. A brothel: C.18–early 19 coll. Grose.

House of Commons; house of office. A water-closet, privy: the latter orig coll. but S.E. by 1690; the former, coll. since early C.18; ob. by later C.20. Cf. parliament, 2. Chapman, in May-Day, 1611, 'No room save you turn out my wife's coal-house, and her other house of office attached to it'; Smollett.

House of Corruption, the. 'The Glasgow Municipal Buildings were commonly known [among the city's slummies] as the "Chamber of Horrors" or the "House of Corruption": C.20. MacArthur & Long.

House of Lords, the. A urinal: Glasgow schoolboys': C.20. house of parliament. A 'convention of workmen in their shop': tailors':—1909 (Ware). Cf. a printer's 'chapel'.

house of waste. See waste, n., 2.

house on fire, like a. Very quickly or energetically: coll.: from ca. 1805. W. Irving, 1809, 'like five hundred houses on fire'; 1837, Dickens. P.B.: applied as often, in later C.20, to initial relationships between people: 'I introduced him to Janet, and they got on like a house on fire', i.e. very well together.

house on (one's) head, pull (in C.19 occ. bring an old. To involve oneself in trouble: coll.: C.17–mid-19. Topsell (OED).

house out of the windows, throw (in C.16–17 occ. cast, in C.17 often fling) the. To make a great noise or disturbance in a house: mid-C.16–mid-19 coll., then dial. Dickens, in Boz, quotes it in form 'regularly turned out o' windows', i.e. in an uproar. Apperson.

house-roof, up in the. See housetop, be at the.

house-tailor. An upholsterer: coll.: late C.17–18. B.E.

house that Jack built, the. A prison: low: from ca. 1860; ob. Baumann.—2. 'The first permanent building in the Whale Island Gunnery School': RN: late C.19–earlier 20. Bowen.—3. 'The Government Savings Bank, Sydney, opened in 1928' (B., 1942). Prompted by jack, n., 29.

house tic-tac. A 'tic-tac man' that acts for a group of small, subscribing 'bookies': race-course s.: C.20. Robert Westerby, Wide Boys Never Work, 1937.

house (or tenement or apartments) to let. A widow: resp. mid-C.18–20 (ob.), C.18–19, C.19–20 (ob.). Grose, 2nd ed.—2. A bet: rhyming s.: late C.19–20. F.D. Sharpe, The Flying Squad, 1938.

house under the hill. The female pudend: low: C.19–early 20.

house-wallah. One who, esp. a gipsy who, lives in a house in contradistinction to a tent: gipsies' coll.:—1900; esp. in Hampshire. EDD.

housebreaker. A breaker-up of houses: industrial: from ca. 1895. Ware.

household brigade, join the. (Of men) to marry: coll.:—1881; ob. (Home Tidings, Apr. 1881.) Punning the name of the English [Royal] Household Brigade.

housekeeper. See house-keeper.

housekeeping. Housekeeping money: lower and lower-middle class coll.: C.20. (Gerald Kersh, Slightly Oiled, 1946.) P.B.: usu., within the home, the housekeeping.

housemaid's knee. Sea: rhyming s.: later C.20. Ronnie Barker, Fletcher's Book of Rhyming Slang, 1979.

Houseman. A member of the college of Christ Church, Oxford: from ca. 1868: orig. s.; by 1890, coll.: by 1905, familiar S.E. The Oxford Spectator, late 1868, 'While [it] is called Christ Church by strangers, by others it is called the House, and they themselves Housemen.' Ob. OED.

houser. A house-match: Public Schools': from late 1890s. P.G. Wodehouse, Tales of St Austin's, 1903.

houses. See safe as ...

housetop (or top of the house or, C.16–early 17, house-roof), be at (or up in) the. To be, become, very angry (cf. hit the roof: coll.: up in, ca. 1540–1660; at, ca. 1630–1800, then dial. Anon., Scoggin's Jest, 1626. (Apperson.) Cf. boughs, up in the housewife. The prudendum muliebri: C.19–early 20: low.

housey. Christ's Hospital: -mid-C.19–20. (W.H. Blanch, 1877.) Hence, adj., belonging to the hospital.

housey-housey! The c.p. cry with which players of 'House' are summoned: coll., mostly military: C.20. P.B.: hence, also, a var. name for the game itself. See TOMBOLA in Appendix.

housle. To hustle, of which, presumably, it is a corruption: Winchester College: ca. 1850–1920.

houtkop. An aboriginal: S. African (C.20) c. and low s. Afrikaans: hout, wood, and kop, head.

hove-down. Bed-ridden, confined to bed: nautical:—1887 (Baumann).

hovel. Any vessel abandoned on the high seas: trawlermen's: C.20. W. Mitford, Lovely She Goes, 1969.

hoveller. A beach-thief, a lawless boatman: nautical (in C.20, S.E.): from before 1769, when recorded by Falconer. Ex his living in a hovel. Cf. beach-comber, q.v.

how, n. A howitzer: army coll.: since late 1914. B. & P.—2. A patrol flight (?): RAF: ca. 1939–41. James Aldridge, Signed with Their Honour, 1942, "We're going on a how. Eleven hours," Hickey said.'

how! A coll. Aus. salutation, adopted, ca. 1944, ex US. 'Often with right hand raised, palm forwards, and with an expressionless face. Ex Amerindian greeting.' (B.P.) Not unknown in UK; the influence of 'Western' films.—2. See and how!; here's (toasts).

how in as how = how = conjunction that. E.g., 'I don't know as how I can'; frequently seeing as how, sol., sometimes used joc. by those who know better: mid-C.17–20; earlier, S.E. Cf. as = conjunction that.—2. Interrogatively, as how? = in what way?: coll.: C.20. Ronald Knox, Still Dead, 1934, "I think he's too stupid..." "As how?" "Oo, I mean about why he ran away..." A blend, or perhaps a confusion, of as for instance and how.—3. Also, tautologically, as in Morning Post, 8 July 1785, 'Bet Cox swears... that, though as how she was with the Prince, one night when he was drunk, yet that did not compensate her for the wear and tear with his attendants,' quoted in Beside the Seaside, 1934.—4. See not very how; very how.

how about that, with emphasis on 'bout. Not a question so much as an exclam. of surprise at something one has just been told: adopted, late 1960s, ex US. See DCpp.

how and about. Concerning; all about: coll.: ca. 1750–1830. Richardson, in Grandison, 'Emily wrote you all how-and-about it' (OED, which—wrongly, I feel—gives it as S.E.).

how are the bots biting? How are you?: NZ medical: ca. 1929+. See bot, n., 2—and perhaps, by a pun, 6; cf. bite, to ask for a loan.

how are the troops treating you? A WW2 Aus. women's c.p. (B.P.)

how are we?, (and). A joc. c.p. of greeting: C.20.

how are you diddlin(g)? A joc. var. of, e.g., How are you?: coll.: heard late 1970s. (Mrs Jane Riddles.) Cf. are you winning?

how are you going? How are you? How do you do?: Aus. coll.: since ca. 1930. (B.P.) Cf. that cheerful Aus. greeting which comes out, almost as one word, 'owyer goinmate-orrhight?' (P.B.)

how are you off for soap? A city c.p. of ca. 1830–1910. Marryat, Peter Simple, 1834, 'Well, Reeper, how are you off for soap?'; Baring Gould, 1886 (OED).

how are you popping? (or 'ow yer poppin?') How are you?: Aus., mostly juvenile: ca. 1910–65. Norman Lindsay, Saturday, 1933, 'How yer poppin' s'mornin?'

how came, or come, you so? (Often hyphenated and occ. prec. by Lord!) Intoxicated: 1816 (OED Sup.): low s. >, by 1840, coll.; ob. by 1880, † by 1900.

how come? How does that come about? or Why is that?: adopted, ca. 1943, ex US Servicemen.

how do or how-do. A shortening of how do you do?: Society:—1887 (Baumann).

how do we go? What chance is there ('of obtaining something unspecified yet known to the person questioned')?: military c.p.: WW1+. (B. & P.) Prob. an abbr. of how do we go about (getting) it?

how-do-you-do, how-d'ye-do. A fuss, a noisy difficulty, a 'mess': low coll.: from ca. 1835. In C.20, gen. prec. by (a) pretty, perhaps, as Claiborne suggests, influenced by Gilbert & Sullivan, The Mikado, 1885, Act I: 'Here's a pretty state of things! Here's a pretty how-de-do.'—2. Hence, a source—or an instance—of trouble; a quarrel, a brawl: since ca. 1910; by ca. 1960, coll. 'A nice—or what a—how-d'you-do!' Eric Burgess, A Killing Frost, 1961.—3. A shoe: rhyming s.: since ca. 1890. P.P., Rhyming Slang, 1932.

how do you like your eggs cooked or done? An Aus. c.p. (from ca. 1908), gen. as an unkind comment on misfortune: very soon, however, there was evolved the c.p. reply, scrambled, like your brains, yer (or you) bastard!

how do you sell your string? Do you take me for a fool?; I see through your planned swindle, hoax, etc.: underworld: C.19. H.D. Miles, Dick Turpin, 1841.

how do you work? How do you make a living now?: underworld: ca. 1770–1840. (George Parker, Life's Painter, 1789.) Cf. the modern police sense of modus operandi or manner of committing a crime.

how does that grab you? What do you think of that?; does that interest, or excite, you?: adopted, ca. 1970, ex US.

how-d'ye-do. See how-do-you-do.

how goes? How goes it?: C.20. Dorothy L. Sayers, Have His Carcase, 1932.

how goes the enemy? What's the time?: C.19—earlier 20. A quot'n from Frederic Reynolds, The Will, 1797, I, i. See DCpp.

how high is a Chinaman? A c.p. reply to a question either unanswerable or stupid: since ca. 1950, perhaps earlier. Ex a children's punning catch question; if the 'victim' gave an answer, it was explained that How Hi was the Chinaman's name. (E.P.; P.B.)

how-howish. See howish.

how in hell's name ...? A common intensifier of how the hell?, itself an intensifier of how?, coll.: C.20. (P.B.)

how is ... See how's ...

how long have you been in this regiment, chum? How long have you been in the Navy?: RN lowerdeck: C.20. Granville.

how many times? 'I heard this on and off during the First World War. When a Tommy had got married while on leave, his chums would generally pull his leg and ask "How many times?" when he got back. They meant how many times had he made love to his bride on the first night' (Petch, 1966): WW1 c.p. Cf. lately?

how much? What do you say, mean? A coll. request for an explanation: from ca. 1850; not quite extinct, though ob. so early as 1914. F. Smedley, 1852, "Then my answer must... depend on the..." "On the how much?" inquired Frere, considerably mystified.' In later C.20, supplanted by the equally brusque 'You what?'

how nice and what a lot! A facetious c.p., expressive of pleasure: since ca. 1930.

how the blazes ... See blazes.

how the other half lives. A c.p., dating since ca. 1930, and used as in 'Hobbes, go down to one of the section bases and see what's going on. It won't do you any harm to see how the other half lives' (John Winton, We Saw the Sea, 1960). The orig. meaning is '(to see) how the poor live', and as such it was a literary allusion; but soon it came to mean little, if anything, more than 'other people' or even 'anyone else'.

how to do it and not get it; occ. with addition, by one who did it and got it. An Aus. c.p.: since ca. 1950. A ref. to books on marriage.

how to win friends and influence people, loosely, ... make friends ... Since ca. 1935 in US and since ca. 1945 in Britain, a c.p.—often ironic and derisive. Ex a book so titled, written by Dale Carnegie (1888–1955), pub. in 1936. See esp. DCpp.

how we apples swim! (, quoth the horse-turd). A c.p.

applied to a parvenu, a pretender, a person 'out of the water': mid-C.17–19. The longer form occurs in Ray's English Proverbs, 1670. Hogarth, in Works, vol. iii, 'He assumes a consequential air ... and strutting among the historical artists cries, how we apples swim.' how will (gen. how'll) you have it? Either a specific or, hence, a vague general invitation to take a drink: late C.19–20. (Lyell.) See DRINKS, in Appendix.

how would (pron. how'd) you be? An Aus. greeting, often prec. by g'day, mate: since early 1950s. Unlike 'how do you do?' it seems, on occasion, to demand an answer. (B.P.; P.B.)

Howard's Buffs; Howard's Old Buffs. See Buff Howards.

Howard's Garbage. See Green Howards. Contrast:

Howard's Greens, the. The 24th Foot Regiment, in late C.19–20 the South Wales Borderers: military: from ca. 1720; ob. Ex its facings and the name of its colonel, 1717–37. Contrast Green Howards.

howdy, -ie. A midwife: low Scots coll. (and Northern dial.): C.18–20, ob. ?ex holdie ex hold, friendly. (Ramsay, Scott, Galt.) OED; EDD.—2. (Only howdy), how do you do?: C.19–20 dial. and slightly ob. low coll. P.B.: in later C.20 recognised as a US provincialism. Cf.:-

howdydo? How do you do?: C.19–20: coll.; now archaic. Denis Mackail, Summer Leaves, 1934.

however. (Interrogative and conjunctive as in 'However did you manage it?') How, in any manner or circumstances?: coll.: 1871. SOD.—2. Placed at the end of a sentence, however is coll.: mid-C.19–20. EDD.

howish. Vaguely feeling somewhat indispensed: mid-C.18–early 19.—2. 'All overish' (q.v.): late C.18–mid-19. Both coll. In late C.17–early 19, also I know not howish and I don't know howish, while how-howish occ. occurs ca. 1720–80. Dryden, 1694, 'I am—I know not howish' (OED). Cf. not very how; moreish.

howl, n. Something very amusing: earlier C.20, since mid-C.20, hoot has been the common synon. (D.L. Sayers, Murder Must Advertise, 1933.) Ex howlingly funny, or ex howler.—2. See fetch a howl, to weep noisily.

howler. A glaring (and amusing) blunder: from before 1890; recorded first in 1872 (SOD) of a bitterly cold day; then 2, at least as early as 1875 (though this sense is ob.) of a—lit. or fig.—heavy fall, a serious accident, esp. in come, or go, a howler, as in Stephens & Yardley's Little Jack Sheppard, 1886, 'Our hansom came a howler'; also, a tremendous lie: C.20 (Lyell). Lit., something that howls or cries for notice, or perhaps, as W. proposes, by way of contracting howling blunder.—2. A fashionably dressed man: London: 1896–ca. 1914. Ware. Ex howling swell, q.v. in next.—3. A child: upper-middle-class s.: later C.20. 'The ideal deb ... will raise a few children (howlers or kiddi-winks)' (Peter York, Style Wars, 1980).

howling, adj. A general intensive: 1860, H., 2nd ed. (see bags); 1865, Sala, 'howling swells', a howling swell, orig. low, being, ca. 1865–1910, a very fashionably but over-dressed man. Applied also to, e.g., a lie, a cad, trousers (e.g. howling bags, i.e. extravagantly cut or patterned: † by 1905: see bags). S.E. itself has howling as an intensive, as e.g. in the Biblical h. wilderness.

howling-box. A gas chamber: RAAF: WW2. B., 1943. P.B.: Perhaps a decompression chamber is meant.

howling cheese. An overdressed dandy or 'blood': Cambridge University version of howling swell: ca. 1860–95. Cf. cheese, n., 1.

howling comique. A 'very bad comic singer indeed': music-halls:—1909; ob. (Ware.) Cf. howler, 1, and howling.

howling-stick. A flute: low, mostly London: ca. 1840–90. Augustus Mayhew, Paved with Gold, 1857.

howling swell. See howling.

howlingly. A gen. intensive adv.: late C.19–20: s. till ca. 1910, then coll.: now on the verge of S.E. (E.P.'s note of mid-1930s: as it 'verged' so it > ob. P.B.)

how's about ...? How about?: Can. coll.: adopted, ca. 1953, ex US. 'How's about having a drink?' (Leechman). In later C.20, some UK use; in, e.g., 'How's about that, then!', as an exclam. of admiration. (P.B.)

how's battle. A coll. greeting of 1934–6, among the cultured. A result of the Crisis: battle of life.

how's biz? How's business?: Aus. c.p.: since ca. 1945. (B.P.)

how's it all going to end? A joc. c.p. (ca. 1906–10) based on a comic song current ca. 1906: 'Little Winston, little friend, / ... / How's it all going to end?' P.B.: the phrase enjoyed some slight revival in the late 1970s, with the extension ... I ask myself.

how's it going? A c.p. of greeting, or friendly enquiry: C.20. Cf. how's things.

how's that for high? What do you think of that?: coll.: ca. 1885–1900. Adopted ex US. See esp. DCpp.

how's that, umpire? What do you say to that?; 'What price—?': coll.: later C.19–early 20. Ex the appeal at cricket.

how's the body? How are you—how do you feel?: Anglo-Irish: late C.19–20. Brendan Behan, Borstal Boy, 1958.

how's the fag-trade? A not very subtle oblique request for a cigarette: coll.: ca. 1960–75. (F. Leech, 1972.)

how's the way? How are you?; good-day to you!: NZ coll.: C.20.

how's the weather up there? A would-be amusing query addressed to a tall person (such people must get heartily sick of hearing it): C.20. (P.B.)

how's the world treating you or ... been treating you? A popular form of greeting, usu. to someone not seen for some time: C.20.

how's things? How goes it?: coll.: C.20. (Lyell.) See quot'n at old socks.

how's tricks? A friendly greeting; adopted, ca. 1920, ex US. Cf. prec. and see DCpp, which derives it either from card games, or from the nautical trick at the wheel.

how's your (often yer) belly (off) for spots? A lower classes' c.p. (=how are you?): ca. 1900–25.

how's your dandruff? A joc., vulgar, mostly lower-middle-class greeting: since ca. 1950; by 1965, ob.

how's your dirty rotten form? or shortened to how's your form? 'This c.p. is not really a question, but is used when someone wins a lottery, passes an exam or gets a promotion. It is sometimes elaborated to ... dirty, rotten, stinking form?' (B.P.): Aus.: since ca. 1955.

how's your father? A c.p. from the music-halls, which became a Services' c.p. par excellence in WW1, 'turned to all sorts of ribald, ridiculous and heroic uses' (B. & P.).—2. Hence, as n., hyphenated, or written howsyerfather, used, esp. in Services, for 'Whatsisname' ('where's old howsyerfather got to now, then?') or, more gen., as ribald 'thingummy', sexual dalliance, as in 'a spot of the old howsyerfather behind the haystack'. See esp. more extended treatment in DCpp. (P.B.)

how's your love life? (1950s); ... sex life (1960s). 'A c.p. question addressed to a girl or girls by youth(s) wanting to "get off"' (Granville, 1969).

how's your old bum? A low, Services' c.p. greeting of the 1960s; it gave rise to the 'ritual' exchange: 'How's your old bum?', 'Oh, shut up!', 'Ah, so's mine—must be the weather'. (P.B.)

how's your poor (often pore) feet? A mainly London c.p.: ca. 1862–70; revived ca. 1889, but ob. again by 1895, † by 1910. (G.A. Sala, in Breakfast in Bed.) According to Ware, (presumably as how are your poor feet?, an occ. var.) 'from a question addressed by Lord Palmerston to the then Prince of Wales upon the return of the latter from India': but that visit 'postdates' 1862, when (see All the Year Round, 1863, x, 180) it was indubitably current. Another source, proposed by Benham's Dictionary of Quotations, 1948, and confirmed by John Leech's sketches, is the Great Exhibition of 1851; a retort to the enquiry was 'better since you licked them'.

how's your rotten form? Earlier (since ca. 1941) version of how's your dirty ...?, q.v. B., 1953.

how's your sex life? See how's your love life?

how's your sister? A pointless c.p.: since 1910; † by 1950. A friend writes: 'I believe this to be based on an anecdote. A punter, colliding with a barge, complained: "See what you've done? Broke one of my oars!" "Did I, lovey? Speakin' of oars, how's your sister?"—this may be in [Robert Graves's] Lars Porsena, 1927. Cf. Fr. et ta soeur!, and See DCpp.

howsoever. Nevertheless; however. M.E.—C.20: until ca. 1750, S.E.; then (dial. and) coll.; from ca. 1830, low coll.; in C.20, low coll. > sol. Dorothy L. Sayers, Have His Carcase, 1932, 'Howsoever, it looks like a plain suicide.'

howsyerfather. See how's your father?

howzat. How's that?, esp. in cricket: coll.: mid-C.19–20.

hoxter. An inside pocket: c.: ca. 1810–80. (Vaux, 1812; Egan's Grose, 1823; Ainsworth.) P.B.: prob. ex Scot. and Northern dial. oxter, the armpit or underside of the upper arm.—2. Additional drill: Royal Military Academy: ca. 1885–1914. Ex extra via hextra.—3. Money: see huxter.

hoy, n. See hoi.—2. The game of TOMBOLA (q.v. in Appendix) or bingo: Aus., esp. Queensland: later C.20. Wilkes.

hoy, v. To haul: Aus. (? coll. rather than s.): since ca. 1920. (Jean Devanney, 1944.) Perhaps a blend of hoist and haul.—2. Hence; to take, as in 'I had to hoy myself down to Bega': Aus.: since ca. 1920.—3. To discard: Aus.: since ca. 1930. (B.P.) Cf. hoist, v., 5.

hoy! A coll. exclam. of address at a distance (see also whyoi), hence a summons to attention (esp. in give a person a hoy); also = steady!: late C.19–20. Used very much earlier in dial. (EDD). A mean between archaic ho! and hullo! See also oy!

Hoyle. See according to Hoyle.

hoys, hoise. See hoist. C.19 var., in Egan's Grose.

hua. See hoor.

hub. As an, or the most, important city (gen. hub of the universe), it is S.E., but as a husband, it is a low coll. abbr. of hubby, q.v.: from ca. 1810; ob. by 1930. (Combe, 1812; Hood, ca. 1845.) OED.

hubba! hubba! An Aus. c.p., referring to a pretty girl: mostly teenagers': since ca. 1930. Cf. Cornish hubba, a fishing cry. (B.P.)—2. 'But also domestic and conventional when a young wife shows a new gown to her admiring husband' (B.P.): Aus.: since ca. 1935. P.B.: the exclam. has an extension, prob. of US orig., which I heard in the late 1950s from a veteran of the Korean War, 'a hubba hubba ding ding!' hubbie. An incorrect form of hubby, q.v.

hubbie-de-shuff. Quickly and irregularly: military s. > coll.—2. Hence, confusedly: coll. Both senses, C.18. 'Old military term', says Grose. ?ex Northern dial. hobbleshoo, (a) tumult, rattle, confusion.

hubhub may possibly, in C.17–18, have been coll.; in C.19–20, definitely S.E. Perhaps ex an Irish cry or interjection (W.)

hubby. A husband: coll.: E. Ravenscroft, in London Cuckolds, 1688 (OED); 1798, Morton, in the epilogue to his comedy, Secrets Worth Knowing. 'The wife poor thing, at first so blithe and chubby, | Scarce knows again her lover in her hubby.' Cf. hub, q.v., and:

hubbykins. A still more hypocoristic form of husband as a vocative: coll.: late C.19–20. Dorothy L. Sayers, Clouds of Witness, 1926, 'She called him hubbykins.'

hubris. 'Accomplished, distinguished insolence' (Ware): academic s. >, by 1890, coll.: from early 1880s; ob. Direct ex Gr. On 28 Oct. 1884, the Daily News wrote thus: 'Boys of good family, who have always been toadied, and never been checked, who are full of health and high spirits, develop what Academic slang knows as hubris, a kind of high-flown insolence.'

hubshee. Applied in India to anyone, or to a pony, with woolly hair: coll.: from ca. 1850. A corruption of Arabic Habashi, Persian Habshi, an Abyssinian, an Ethiopian, a Negro.

huck. To bargain: C.15–17: coll. prob. in C.16 only, otherwise S.E.; in C.18–20 (ob.), dial. Holinshead, 1577, 'If anie man hucked hard with him about the price of a gelding [, he said]: "So God helpe me... he did cost me so much," or else, "By Jesus, I stole him."' huckle. To chatter: 1703. See VERBS in Appendix.

huckle-my-buff or butt. 'Beer, egg, and brandy, made hot', Grose, 1785, at which date Grose spells it butt; in the 2nd and 3rd edd., however, it is buff, as again in the Lex. Bal. and in Egan's ed.; Ainsworth, in Rookwood, returns to butt. Since the term is extant, though ob., in Sussex dial. as h.-my-buff, butt is prob. a misprint: see too huggle-my-buff.

huckster, n., despite F. & H., has always been S.E., but in huckster's hands, late C.16–early 19, prob. was coll. orig., at least in sense: in a bad way.

hucksum, the hip, may be C.19 coll. ex Southern dial. (see EDD at hock), but huck- or huckle-bone, the same, is certainly S.E.

huddle. To have sexual connexion: low coll.: C.18–19. Ex C.17 S.E., C.18–20 dial., where it = to hug or embrace. EDD.—2. In to go into a huddle, to go into secret or private conference; (of several people) to 'put their heads together': joc. coll.: since ca. 1930.

hue. To lash; punish (esp. severely) with the lash: late C.17–18 c. (B.E.)? ex the resulting hue of the victim's flesh, or, more prob., ex S.E. hue, to assail or drive with shouts. P.B.: ? or ex S.E. hew.—2. Hence, to belabour (a person) with a cudgel: c.: C.19–early 20. (B. & L.) Proleptic.

Hue and Cry, the. The Police Gazette: mostly journalistic:—1923 (Manchon). Ex the wanted's.

Huey. The (Melbourne) Police Gazette: Aus.: late C.19–20. (B., 1942.) A shortening of prec.—2. As h-, a town or a village: tramps' c. of ca. 1840–80. (Mayhew.) Origin?

huff, as a Winchester College abbr. of huff-cap (q.v.) is s. from before 1870 and now †. Mansfield, 1870; Adams, 1878.—2. In c. (—1832), now †, to rob by throwing one's arms over the victim's shoulders and then taking (esp. money) from the pockets (OED).—3. As a low coll. for a (mean) trick, an (artful) dodge, ca. 1860–1910, it is prob. ex the removal of a piece at draughts, wherein huff, v. and n., is j.—4. In stand the huff, 'to be answerable for the reckoning in a public-house' (Grose, 2nd ed.): coll.:—1788; ob. by 1860, † by 1893. Prob. joc. on huff, a slight blast.

huff and ding. 'To Bounce and swagger' (B.E.): low coll.: C.17–early 18. See ding.

huff-cap as † a swaggering bully, —likewise the corresponding adj., —was always S.E., but as strong ale it was orig. (1577) coll., soon S.E., by 1700 † (except at Winchester Coll., where in C.19 it survived as huff, q.v. 'From inducing people to set their caps in a bold and huffing style' (Nares). Cf. hum-cap, q.v.

huff - duff. HF - DF, high-frequency direction-finding device, by phoneticised initials. [It] was in use in the R.N. in 1943... When [it] started to play an important part in winning the Battle of the Atlantic' (R.S., 1973). See also shuff-duff.

huff of a boo, do a. To weep: Cockneys': C.20. (Pugh.) A corruption of hullabaloo.

huff-snuff, a bully, a person apt to take offence, was prob. coll. orig., but if so it very quickly > S.E. († by 1800). Lit., blow snuff, i.e. show resentment.

huffa! An exclam.: C.16–early 17. Ex C.15 interj. huff.

huffed. Killed; esp. by a fall from an aeroplane: military, esp. Air Force: 1915. (F.&G., Manchon.) Ex the game of draughts.

huffer, a threatening swaggerer, may possibly have been orig. (C.17) coll.

huffie. A C.18–early 19 var. of bagpipe, v., q.v.

huffy, n. A Service girl that refuses one's invitation: Service-men's: 1940 †. (H. & P.) Cf. toffee-nosed. Perhaps ex the S.E. adj.

hufty-tufty, huftie-tuftie, adj. Swaggering: coll.: late C.16–early 17. Nashe.

hug, n. The act or (as in put on the hug) the practice of garrotting: c.:—1864 (Home Magazine, 16 Mar.); ob. by 1890, † by 1910.—2. Give the hug, to close (with) and grapple the body (of): pugilistic: C.19—early 20.—3. See close hug.

hug-booby. Contemptuous term for a married man: 1703. See MEN, in Appendix.

hug brown Bess. See brown Bess, 2.

hug-centre. 'Head-quarters of public love-making': coll.: US (—1882), anglicised ca. 1885; ob. by 1915, † by 1930. Ware: hug-me-tight. A jersey, a jumper, a pull-over: Glasgow: —1934. Cf. huggers, q.v.

hug it as the devil hugs a witch. To hold a thing as if one fears to lose it: coll.: mid-C.18—early 19. Grose, 2nd ed.

hug the ground. To fall; be hit off one's legs: pugilistic: C.19.

hug the gunner's daughter. See gunner's daughter.

hug the limelight, often as vbl n. hugging. To try to become the outstanding player in a scene: theatrical: late C.19—mid-20. (Michael Gilbert, the Stage, 1968.) Also used fig., of a constant 'show-off'. (P.B.)

hugger-mugger, whether n., v., or adv., has, despite F.&H., always been S.E., but in hugger-mugger, 'secretly', was S.E. C.16 till ca. 1830, then (in C.20, low) coll. The C.16 form is in hucker-mucker. 'Perhaps partly suggested by M.E. huke, ... cloak' (W.).

Huggers or St Huggers. St Hugh's College: Oxford undergraduates':—1922 (Marples, 2).

huggers. Stockings: Glasgow lower classes':—1934. They cling.

hugging, n. Garrotting: c. of ca. 1850—90. Ex hug, q.v.

huggle-my-buff. A ca. 1750—80 form of huckle-my-buff, q.v. Toldervy, 1756.

Hugh Prowler. A generalised (?low) coll. nickname for a thief, a highwayman: mid-C.16—17. Tusser, 'For fear of Hugh Prowler get home with the rest'.

Hughie. See send her down, Hughie.

Hughli, -y. See Hooghly.

hugmatee. Some kind of ale: either c. or fashionable s. of ca. 1698—1710. In Letters to Phalaris, Bentley names it along with humpty-dumpty, q.v.; 'facetious' Tom Brown, ca. 1704. Perhaps, as Murray (always ingenious on drinks,—cf. his bingo) brilliantly suggested, ex hug me t'ye.

hugmer, ugmer. A fool: centre s. on mug: from ca. 1860; ob. by 1930.

hugsome. Sexually attractive (rarely of men): esp., sexually cuddlesome: coll.: late C.19—early 20.

huh. See all of a hough.

huhhah. See hooah.

hula hoop. See hooler hoop.

hulk, n. A hulk-ship report on a convict: ca. 1810—70. 'Price Warung', Tales, 1897.—2. A severely damaged aircraft: RAF coll.: since ca. 1925. H. & P.

hulkey. See hulky.

hulking, adj. Bulky, unwieldy; ungainly, clumsy: coll.: late C.17—20. Ex S.E. hulk, an unwieldy mass (as in J. Beresford, 1806), a heavy ungainly person (as in Ned Ward, 1698). Cf.:

hulky, adj. (Occ. as n.) Unwieldy; ungainly, clumsy: coll.: —1785 (Grose, 1st ed.).

hull between wind and water, to. Possess a woman: C.19—20 (†): nautical s. > low coll. Cf. shoot between wind and water, q.v.

hull-cheese 'is composed of... mault and water... and is cousin germane to the mightiest ale' (Taylor the 'Water-Poet', 1622): C.17 c. > s. By 1670 it was proverbial in the form, you have eaten some hull-cheese, you are drunk, and as such, latterly only in dial., it remained in C.19.

hull down, or turret down, under cover, hidden, occurs esp. in get ..., to take cover: army: since ca. 1940; by 1960, slightly ob. Ex tank j. P-G-R.

Hull, hell, and Halifax. See Halifax; also hell, Hull ...

hullabaloo. A tumultuous noise or confusion; an uproar: from ca. 1760: coll. till ca. 1840, then S.E. Prob. ex Northern or Scot. dial. Smollett, 1762, spells hollo-ballo; another frequent early form is halloobal(l)oo. Evidently a rhyming reduplication on halloo.

Hullabaloo Chorus, the. The Hallelujah Chorus. See Helluva Bellow ...

hullo, baby — how's nurse? A civilian c.p., from early C.20; adopted by 'the licentious soldiery' in WW1. Addressed 'to any girl pushing a perambulator' (B. & P.) By the late 1940s 'baby' had become the girl herself, and hullo, baby! was the forward male teenagers' version of the US hi, baby! Cf.:

hullo, beautiful! A male 'getting off' c.p. addressed to a girl: since ca. 1935; by ca. 1970, ob.

hullo, features! See features. (Ware classifies this † 'friendly salute' as proletarian.)

hullo, handsome! Since ca. 1940 the corresponding, girl-to-boy, version of hullo, beautiful!

(hullo (or whatcher) my (or me) old brown son, 'ow are yer? WW1 soldiers' greeting, promptly taken into civilian life. The 'brown' refers to the khaki uniform.

hullo, unconscious! A familiar greeting to a girl who is either 'sexy' or dumbly blonde: 1938+.

hullo yourself (or your own self) and see how you like it! A lower-classes' c.p. of ca. 1890—1910. W. Pett Ridge, Minor Dialogues, 1895.

hulver-head. 'A silly foolish Fellow' (B.E.). Whence hulver-headed, adj. Coll. in late C.17—18, then dial. Lit., hulver=holly.

hum. Very strong ale: ca. 1615—1720: coll. (1616, Jonson; Fletcher.) Perhaps orig. c. Cf. stingo, q.v.—2. A hoax, a trick, a cheat: 1751 (SOD); ob. by 1900; † by 1920. From ca. 1850, the word was somewhat low. The World, no. 164 (1756); Lamb, 1806, 'I daresay all this is hum', where its derivation ex humbug appears very clearly.—3. A lie: ca. 1820—1900.

Bee, 'Hum—a whispered lie'.—4. A person at church: c.: C.18—early 19. (A New Canting Dict., 1725.) ?ex amen mumbled into a resemblance to hum!—5. A stink: low: from ca. 1890. Cf. hum, v., 5. (Collinson.) Perhaps ex Northern dial.

humming, anything gnawed and then left by rats (see EDD).—6. The Hermes: RN:—1909 (Ware). Cf. Dead Loss.—7. A professional sponger: Aus.: since ca. 1920. (Caddie, A Sydney Barmaid, 1953.) He 'stinks'. Cf. the v., 3, and hummer, 3, of which this is a shortening.

hum, v. To be all astir, very lively: coll.: 1726 (SOD). Esp. in form is (are) (was were), etc., humming.—2. Cheat, bamboozle, humbug: 1751 (SOD); ob. by 1860, † by 1880: orig., prob. s., but by 1760 it was coll. Goldsmith, in his Life of Nash, 'Here Nash, if I may be permitted the use of a polite and fashionable phrase, was humm'd.' Ex humbug, q.v.

—3. Hence, to cadge: Services', late C.19—early 20 (F. & G.); by ca. 1915, also Aus. (Wilkes.)—4. As = to mumble, esp. in hum and ha(w), it has always been S.E.—5. To stink: low: from ca. 1895. Prob. ex the corresponding n. (hum, sense 5); Ware, however, implies that the v. is the earlier and that it dates from considerably before 1895, and states that 'this is an application from the humming of fermentation in an active manure heap'.—6. In make things hum, to accelerate, lit. and fig.; keep busy and moving: coll.: adopted, ca. 1895, ex US. Ex the hum of activity (W.).

hum-box. A pulpit: c.: ca. 1720—1895. A New Canting Dict., 1725; Mayhew, in Paved with Gold. The idea: the box noted for humming and hawing. Cf. cackle tub, q.v.

hum-box patterer. A parson, esp. when preaching: c.: C.19. G.W.M. Reynolds.

hum-cap. 'Old, mellow, and very strong Beer' (B.E.): late C.17—18 c. Ex hum, n., 1. Cf. huff-cap, q.v.

hum-drum. Late C.17—early 18 nickname for a parson. Cf. hum-box. See OCCUPATIONAL NAMES in Appendix, and hum-drum.

hum durgeon. See humdudgeon.

hum it and I'll pick up the tune (often prec. by no, but you). A facetious answer to an innocent query 'Do you know [whatever it happens to be]?': late C.19—20. Ex pub or smoking concert pianist's response to request for a tune he doesn't know. See DCpp.

human. A human being; mid-C.16–20; S.E. till ca. 1830, then US (see Thornton), as it still is, but in C.20 it is in England either affected S.E. or joc. coll. according to the context. human sausage-machine. A woman having a baby every twelve months: Aus. coll.: since ca. 1930. (B.P.)

Humber keel. See Billy boy.

humble-bee in a cow-turd thinks himself a king, a. A proverbial c.p. of ca. 1650–1800. See also how we apples swim! Apperson.

humble condumble (or -cum-dumble). See Your humble...

humble-pie, eat. To apologise; be very submissive, even to humiliation: from ca. 1830: dial. till ca. 1850; coll. till ca. 1895, then S.E. Thackeray, 1855; Manville Fenn, 'Our savings are gone and we must eat humble pie for the future.' By a pun ex umble pie, i.e. one made from a deer's umbles; cf. dial. to eat rue-pie (W.).

humbug, n. A † hoax, † befooling trick; an imposture, fraud, sham: coll.: ca. 1740; perhaps not (see OED) till ca. 1754, when F. Killigrew issued The Universal Jester, a collection of 'conceits... drolleries... bon-mots, and humbuds', tracked down (see ed. 1860) by H., who also discovered that 'Orator Henley [d. 1756] was known to the mob as Orator Humbug'. The term, however, occurs for certain in 1751—in The Student, ii, 41, a notable locus.—2. An impostor, a cheat, a 'fraud': coll.: 1804 (SOD). Dickens in Pickwick, 'You're a humbug, sir... I will speak plainer... An impostor, sir.' Prob. this sense dates back to ca. 1762, for in 1763 we find a mention of the quasi-Masonic society, the Humbugs.—3. Deception, pretence, affectation: coll.: 1825 (SOD). Cf. humbug!, q.v. Etym. obscure; perhaps ex hum (and haw) + bug (bear). Cf., however, Nashe's 'without humdrum be it spoken', in Saffron Walden.

humbug, v. Impose upon, hoax, delude: coll.: 1751, Smollett, 'The most afflicted of the two taking his departure with an exclamation of "Humbugged, egad!"'—2. V.i., to practise or be a humbug: coll.: 1753 (SOD). Whence humbug about, q.v.—3. Change or transfer by fraud or trickery (v.t.): 1821 (SOD): low coll.; ob.—4. V.t. and, more often, i., to cajole: esp. in h. of, cajole or cheat out of something (ca. 1760–1870), and h. into, cajole or hoax into doing something (from ca. 1810). These four nuances are all coll. As used in the following quot'n, humbug is ob.: H. Kingsley, in Raven-shoe, 'She was always ready to help him, provided, as she told him, "he didn't humbug".' Cf. prec. for etym.

humbug, adj., corresponding to senses 1 and 2 of the n.: coll.: 1812 (OED).

humbug! Stuff and nonsense! Coll.: from ca. 1825. Ex the n., 3.

humbug about. To play the fool: C.19–20: coll. Ex the v., 2. humbug-and-derricks. (Gen. pl.) A cargo steamer: sailing-ships': mid-C.19—early 20. Bowen.

humbug into and † humbug of. See humbug, v., last sense. humbug(g)able. Gullible: coll.: 1825 (Southey). Rare in C.20. But the seldom-used humbug(g)ability is recorded as early as 1798.

humbugger. A cheat: low coll.: ca. 1751–1890.—2. A hoaxer: coll.: from ca. 1752; ob.—3. One who constantly fools about, a habitual deceiver: coll.: from ca. 1760. Henry Brooke, in Poems, at that 'On Humbugging': 'To you... the humbuggers of hearts', 1778.

humbuggery. Imposture; deception; pretence: from ca. 1830; ob. More gen. in US than in Britain, where the word is apt to recall buggery.

humbugging, n. Deception, hoaxing (C.18—early 20); pretence, foolery (C.19–20): coll. A. Murphy, 1752, 'The never enough to be admired Art of Humbugging came into Vogue'; Henry Brooke, 1778, see humbugger, 3. OED.

humbugging, adj. Swindling (ob.); hoaxing: from ca. 1800: coll.—2. Deceitful, pretentious: coll.: from ca. 1830. Thackeray, 1840, 'Do you not laugh... at the humbugging anniversary of a humbug?'—3. Apt to cajole or to play the fool: (rather low) coll.: from ca. 1860.

humbuggism. An occ. coll. var., ob. by 1930, of humbugging, n., q.v.: from ca. 1840. Tom Moore, 1842, 'By dint of sheer humbuggism'.

humdinger. A fast aircraft or vehicle; a smooth-running engine: Services, but mostly RAF: adopted in mid-1940 from American airmen. American s.: echoic: hum (speed) + ding (something forceful).—2. Anything superlatively good: Aus.: adopted, ca. 1945, ex US (B.P.) Also Brit. in this sense, applied even to an attractive girl, 'She's a real...' (P.B.)

humdrum. A wife, occ. a husband: C.17—early 19 coll. (Other senses of the n., like all senses of the adj., are S.E.) By 'reduplication on hum, with reminiscence of drum' (W.).—2. A parson. See hum-drum humdudgeon, humdurgeon. An imaginary illness: coll.:—1785. Grose, 1st ed., spells it humdurgeon, the OED humdudgeon, thus linking the word with dudgeon, ill humour. Grose, 'He has got the hum durgeon, the thickest part of his thigh is nearest his a*se; i.e. nothing ails him except low spirits.' The saying was † by 1890. humdurgeoned, adj. Annoyed: late C.18—mid-19 coll. (Lynton.) Ex prec.

humging. A whip-top: Restoration period. Lit., 'goes with a hum'.

humgruffin. A hobgoblin; a repulsive person. Also, a derisive term of address: 1842 (Barham) coll.; ob. Prob. hobgoblin corrupted by association with griffin. OED.

humgumptious. Knowingly deceitful or artful: low: ca. 1820–70. Ex † dial. humgumption, self-importance, nonsense, itself presumably ex humbug + gumption. Bee, at hum.

humid. Stupid: RN: since ca. 1939. 'A pun on synonymous wet' (P-G-R).

humla. An attack: army: early C.20. (B. & P.) Ex Hindustani.

hum. A C.17–18 var. of hum (esp. n., 1).

hummer. (Cf. raper, whopper.) A notable lie (B.E., Grose): late C.17—early 19—being a special application of the sense, 'a person or thing marked by extreme energy, activity, etc. ... 1681' (SOD); of persons, it has since ca. 1880 been mainly US. Ex hum, v., 1.—2. An impostor, a pretender: s. > coll.: ca. 1760–1820. Henry Brooke, 'Our hummers in state, physic, learning, and law', 1778. A var. of humbug, n., 3, which it may have preceded.—3. A 'scrounger': Aus.: since ca. 1910. (B., 1942.) See hum, n., 7.

hummerskew. A Can. joc. perversion of humoresque: since ca. 1950. (Leechman.) The preferred Brit. version is humorous queue. (P.B.)

hummie or hummy. Bursitis (inflammation of a sac), caused by carrying weights: London dial. (see EDD) >, ca. 1890, coll. App. an easing of humpy. Ex hump, v., 3.

humming. Extremely intense, active, busy, (of blows) hard, or (ob.) large: from ca. 1650: s. >, ca. 1790, coll. Fielding, 'Landlord... You seem to drive a humming trade here.' Ex hum, v., 1.—2. (Of liquor) very strong: coll.: 1675 (SOD); ob. B.E., 'Humming Liquor, Double Ale, Stout, Pharaoh [q.v.]'; humming tippie, Ned Ward, 1714. Cf. hum, n., 1, stingo, and humming October. Perhaps ex the hissing of frothy-liquor, perhaps ex subsequent humming in the head (OED).

humming, adv. Exceedingly: coll.: C.18. (Farquhar.) Ex adj., prob. sense 1.

humming bird. (Gen. pl.) A shell that, in its flight, makes a humming sound: military: WW1.

humming October. Very strong ale from the new season's hops: coll.: from ca. 1710; ob. by 1890, † by 1910. Often just October, lit. ale brewed in October.

hummm(s). A brothel: the form hummm is prob. coll., while hummmms is either s. or, more prob., coll.: late C.17–18. (B.E.; Grose.) See OED and esp. Beresford Chancellor's informative Covent Garden. Ex Arabic hammam, a hot bath, some Turkish bath establishments (hummmms in S.E.) being or becoming little better than brothels.

Hump, the. The mountain range, rising to peaks of 15,000 ft, over which supplies had to be flown from Assam to Kunming for the relief and support of China in WW2; an extraordinarily hazardous route, and esp. for the unpressurised aircraft of the time. (In memory of my gallant cousin, Flt Lt Rodney Millard, RAF, † 1980, one of the Dakota pilots on that route. P.B.)—2. Portland: nautical: late C.19—earlier 20. (Bowen.) Ex the Bill's shape and the feeling induced.—3. See-hump; sense 1 always prec. by the. Temporary ill humour; a sulky fit: from ca. 1725, but not gen. before ca. 1860. Esp. in get, or have, the hump: Jerome K. Jerome, in Idle Thoughts, 1886, 'He has got the blooming hump.' Also have the hump on or up (recorded by H., 1860): ca. 1862–1900. Perhaps ex hip on dump(s) (W.).—2. 'A long walk with a swag on one's back': Aus.: ca. 1890–1914. (Boldrewood.) See hump, v., 3.

hump, v.i. To have sexual intercourse: ca. 1760–1800, Grose in 1785 remarking: 'Once a fashionable word'. It occurs in Sessions, 1769, Fifth Session. It was transported to the US, where it survived in c., as Irwin noted, 1931, and re-surfaced in UK in later C.20. L.A. cites its use in Richard Allen, Boot Boys, 1972; cf. also its use in dry hump, simulated sexual intercourse.—2. To spoil, botch: low (mostly Cockney): ca. 1850–1900. Mayhew.—3. To shoulder and carry: Aus.: from ca. 1850, perhaps orig. gold-diggers' s., as W. Howitt's Two Years in Victoria, vol. i, 1853, tends to show. As early as 1857, one spoke of humping it, but gen. the phrase is hump one's swag (Howitt), one's drum (—1866) as in Lawson's When the World was Wide, 1896, and in C.20 (one's) bluey, this last being recorded in 1890. See bluey and cf. hump, n., 2. (Morris.) Ex the hump of a bent back. Cf. the familiar-S.E. hump oneself (to depart).—4. Hump (one)self, at Shrewsbury School, had the special meaning of 'to hurry', as in Desmond Coke, The Bending of a Twig, 1906. By 1910, this sense was also Aus. hump it. See hump, v., 3. In WW1, esp. 'to march with full kit' (F. & G.). See humpty, n., 2.—2. To die: lower classes: —1923 (Manchon). Ex hump, v., 3.—3. To depart: Cockney: late C.19–20. A. Neil Lyons, Arthur's, 1908.

humped off. Noted for punishment by the captain: RN: C.20. humpey, -ie. See humpty.

Humphrey. See dine with Duke Humphrey: to go hungry. humpty-dumpty. Ale boiled with brandy: coll.: late C.17–20, ob. B.E.; Disraeli, in Venetia.—2. A short, dumpy, round-shouldered, gen. clumsy person: coll. (—1785): in C.20, usu. considered S.E. (Grose.) Prob. by reduplication on hump by reminiscence of dump, with intrusive t (OED); or perhaps a reduplication on a corrupt or diminutive form of Humphrey (W.).—3. Also adj. Both n. and adj. are occ. abbr. to humpty. A Dict. of Slang and Colloquial English (the abridged F. & H.), 1905: 'As adj. and adv., short and thick, all of a heap, all together.'—4. A stretch of desert road that, with tarmac laid straight on to the sand, follows every ridge and hollow: army in N. Africa: ca. 1940–3.—5. A rank or disastrous failure; a fiasco: c.: ca. 1920–40. (Gilt Kid, 1936). Ex 'Humpty-Dumpty had a great fall' in the nursery rhyme.

humpty, n. As an Australian native hut, it is coll. (1846 as umpee, 1873 as humpty) >, ca. 1880, j.; but as a settler's small and primitive house, it is s. (1881) >, ca. 1910, coll. (A.C. Grant, R.M. Praed, 'Rolf Boldrewood', Gilbert Parker.) Ex Aboriginal oompi; 'the initial h is a Cockney addition' (Morris). Cf. gunyah, q.v.—2. Full Service marching order: army: WW1. 'Their style of marching gave a good indication of their excellent fitness, for they simply swept along even although they were all wearing "tin hats" and were weighed with the full "humpty"' (Olive Dent, A V.A.D. in France, 1917).—3. A hump-backed person: since ca. 1870. Sessions, 30 June 1885.—4. A camel: Aus.: late C.19–20. Archer Russell, A Tramp Royal in Wild Australia, 1934; B., 1942. humpty, adj. Depressed; dispirited: coll.: C.20. (P.G. Wodehouse, Not George Washington, 1907.) Ex hump, n., 1.

humstrum, despite Grose and F. & H., is S.E., except when, as in C.18, it is applied joc. to a violin: then, it is coll.

Hun. Joc., or pej. for a very objectionable person: coll.: in WW1 applied to the Germans. E.P. noted 'from 1914 to ca.

1920 strongly; virtually † by 1929', but WW2 revived the term in full force, if anything more strongly yet; often collectively as the Hun. Hun was the main pej. for the enemy in WW2, as Boche had been in WW1. For pre-coll. history, see Ware. (P.B.)—2. A German aircraft: RFC/RAF: WW1 and 2. Partridge, 1945.—3. A flying cadet: RFC: mid-WW1. (F.&G.) He was destructive of the instructional 'planes.

Hun-hunting. A search for enemy aircraft: Air Force coll.: WW1. F.&G.

Hun-pinching, n. 'Raiding an enemy trench in order to secure prisoners for the benefit of the Intelligence Department': military: 1917–18. Ibid.

Hun-pox. Chicken-pox: military: 1915. (B. & P.) Suggested by S.E. German measles.

hunch. A suspicion; an intuition or premonition: orig., and in 1930s still considered mainly to be, US (—1904); adopted, via Can. army, by 1916. In later C.20, verging on informal S.E. In phrase play (one's or) a hunch, to act according to a suspicion or intuition, as a gambler might. [The v.i. and t., to jostle, is ineligible.]

hunder-hand. A 'sudden blow given with advantage': street boys': 1880. (Ware.) I.e. underhand blow.

hundred-per-center. A thoroughly good fellow (or girl): one whole-heartedly devoted to a cause: coll.: since ca. 1930.

hundred to thirty. Dirty: rhyming s.: later C.20. 'An alternative to two thirty [q.v.] no longer confined to racing-men and used in the manner outlined for the latter term [i.e. grimy]' (David Hillman, 1974).

hundred-year wave, the. In re 'The Cape of Storms': 'This was the breeding ground of the freak wave, the one that mariners called the "hundred-year wave", because statistically that was how often it should occur' (Wilbur Smith, Hungry as the Sea, 1978).

hung. A shortened form of hung up, 3: since early 1960s. Paul Janssen cites the Beatles' song album 'Strawberry Fields Forever', released 17 Feb. 1967.—2. To be hung, to have one's picture accepted and hung at an exhibition, esp. that of the Royal Academy: artists' coll.: mid-C.19–20. Ware.

hung beef. 'A dried bull's pizzle', esp. as an instrument of castigation: low:—1811 (Lex. Bal.); very ob. by 1930.

hung like a jack donkey. Endowed with a large penis: low: C.20. Cf. donkey-rigged. (P.B.)

hung on. Very round of and, to some degree, dependent on (another person): teenagers' and other young people's raffish s.: since ca. 1955. John Sherwood, The Half Hunter, 1961, defines it as 'emotionally dependent on' (Penguin edn, p. 86). Cf. sense 2 of-hung over (or solid), adv. Suffering from a hang-over, q.v.

hung up, (to be). To be held up, hence at a standstill, (ob.) in a fix: coll.: 1879, says Ware, who implies that it came from America and that it is a Society phrase—which, it may be added, had > gen. by 1910 if not a decade earlier.—2. To be (foolishly) involved or entangled; to be stalled or frustrated: Can. jazz-lovers': since ca. 1956. The Victoria, BC, Daily Colonist, 16 Apr. 1959, article 'Basic Beatnik'.—3. Hence, annoyed; irritated, irritable; tense and under nervous strain, because of delay, difficulty or dilemma: Brit. jazz-lovers', hippies': since ca. 1960, when adopted by Canada and UK almost simultaneously, ex US. (W. & F. Sup. of 1975.) Cf. hang-up, q.v. Which came first? Claiborne, 1976, notes 'Surely derives from, or is a variant of the US form ... hung up on.'—4. Addicted to, obsessed by, e.g. ambition, revenge: adopted, ca. 1965, ex US. Janssen cites Jagger.—5. 'Unable to get drugs, depressed, let down, disappointed' (Home Office): drug addicts' specialisation of sense 3: 1970s.

hungarian. A hungry person: C.17: ? orig. c. or merely and prob. joc. coll.; certainly punning Hungarian.—2. Hence, a beggar, a thief, a freebooter: C.17, perhaps orig. c. (Occ. adj. in both senses.) hunger drops out of (one's) nose. One is extremely hungry: proverbial coll.: C.16–17. Skelton; Cotgrave; Howell in his Letters. Apperson.

hunger-knock. Exhaustion: since ca. 1945 a cyclists' synonym of the bonk, q.v.

Hungry, the. The Hungarian Restaurant: London taxi-drivers': since ca. 1920. Herbert Hodge, 1939.

hungry. Close-fisted; selfish: Aus.: later C.19–20. (Wilkes.)—2. Greedy: Aus.: since ca. 1925. Leonard Mann, The Go-Getter, 1942.—3. Determined to win, to overcome all opposition: some adoption, late 1960s–early 70s, ex US, where applied to, e.g. football teams. '[He] is hungry and ambitious. He's pulled himself all the way from his childhood in the dole-ridden North-East to Conservative M.P. And he doesn't intend to stop there' (A. Stuart, The Bikers, 1971). In US, pron. hongry. (P.B.) hungry as a hunter, as. Very and healthily hungry: coll.: from ca. 1800 or slightly earlier. Lamb, in a letter of 1800, 'I came home... as hungry as a hunter'; Marryat; Mrs Henry Wood. Other hungry as phrases, all coll., are hungry as a church mouse (C.17–20, dial. from ca. 1800), as a hawk (from ca. 1640, e.g. in R.L. Stevenson), as a June crow (C.19–20, ob., proverbial), as a kite (C.16–20, in C.19–20 dial.: cf. as a hawk), as a wolf (from ca. 1540, e.g. in Lytton, cf. the C.19 Leeds hungry as a dog), and as the grave (C.19–20, ob., mainly dial.). Apperson.

hungry dog will eat dirty pudding, a. A c.p.—virtually a proverb—deprecating fastidiousness: mid-C.19–20. L.A. compares that other virtual proverb, you don't look at the mantelpiece when you're poking the fire, which by the way, is occ. used instead of the equally sexual proverb, at night all cats are grey.

hungry enough to eat the arse out of a dead skunk. Famished: low Can.: C.20. P.B.: in Dave Dutton, Lanky Spoken Here!, 1979, are listed (I translate from the dial. spelling): I could eat a scabby pig without bread;... a flock bed;... a cow between two bread-vans. See also eat a scabby horse...; I'm so hungry...

Hungry Forties, the. The years 1940–5, when food was short: since ca. 1946; by 1951, merely historical. Ex Ireland's famine years, the 1840s.

Hungry Hundred, the. The first batch of [RNR] lieutenants admitted... on the Emergency List in the 'nineties': RN; † by 1914. Bowen.

hungry Liz.—'A 6-inch howitzer now (Oct. 1918) collecting war-loan subscriptions in Bethnal Green [London] is called' (W.).

Hungry Mile, the. Sussex Street, Sydney: Sydneyites': since ca. 1925. B., 1942.

hungry quartz. Unpromising quartz: Aus. mining s. >, ca. 1900, coll.: from ca. 1880. Ex the S.E. application to poor land and fishless rivers. Cf. the Aus. coll. use of hungry, 1, mean, stingy, and:- hungry rock. 'Rock carrying little or no mineral' (Leechman): Can. miners' coll.: late C.19–20.

Hungry Six, the. 'The first Flying Squadron [of warships] sent round the world under Admiral G. Phipps Hornby in the 'seventies. They were on "bare navy"' (Bowen): RN: ca. 1875–90.

hungry staggers, the. Faintness or staggering caused by hunger: proletarian coll.: from ca. 1860. B. & L.

hunk, n. A steward in the 3rd class: nautical: C.20. (Bowen.) Perhaps ex Scots hunk, a slut, or, more prob., ex the v.—2. A big man: Aus.: since ca. 1920. (Baker.) Ex hunk of beef.—3. An attractive boy, not necessarily large or muscular: teenage girls': 1982. (Mrs Helen Burt.) Cf. slice, q.v.

hunk, v. To clean: Services': late C.19–early 20. (F. & G.) Origin ? Also, among telegraph-messenger boys, hunk up, to polish (one's buttons).

hunk of dodger, a. A slice of bread: Aus., since ca. 1920 (Culotta); also Brit. army, C.20. (P.B.) See dodger, n., 8 and 9.

hunkers, on (one's). In a squatting position: Scottish coll.: late C.18–20. R.L. Stevenson (OED). P.B.: by later C.20 > gen. coll., and also as, e.g., hunkered down.

hunks or hunky-dory; esp. everything's hunky-dory. Predicatively, as in 'That's hunky-dory'—fine, just the thing: adopted ca. 1938 from US.

hunky, adj. Good: since ca. 1945. Ex prec.

Hunland. The country behind any enemy lines occupied, wholly or in part, by German soldiers: RFC/RAF coll.: 1915. (F. & G.) Some revival of the term in WW2. (P.B.)

Hunnery, the. The Department of German: Liverpool University students': 1915–18. Collinson.

Hunnish. Joc., or seriously pej. for objectionable, unsporting: from 1914; ob. by 1921, † by 1929. Ex Hun, q.v.—The adv. (in -ly) was seldom used.

Huns. Cricklewood men (i.e., employees): London transport men's: since ca. 1920 (?). Railway, 2nd. Why?

hunt, n. In in or out of the hunt, having a (good) chance or none; in or not in 'the swim': coll.: late C.19–earlier 20.—2. Hunt. See Hunts, destroyers.

hunt, v. To decoy a 'pigeon' (q.v.) to the gaming tables: c.: late C.17–19. Mostly as vbl n. (B.E.).—2. To drive away; dismiss: Aus.: late C.19–20. Wilkes.—3. 'A compass needle (or similar indicator) is said to hunt when it oscillates about the true reading without coming to rest' (Leechman): scientific coll.: since ca. 1920. P.B.: in later C.20, verging on S.E.—4. See hunted.

hunt-about, n. A prying gossip: coll.: ca. 1850–1930.—2. A harlot ever walking about: low coll.: id.

hunt-counter. A beggar: late C.16–17 coll. Shakespeare.

hunt grass. To be knocked down: pugilists': C.19. Cf. grass.—2. Occ., though mostly US, to be very puzzled:—1869; ob. by 1900, † by 1910.—3. At cricket, to field: ca. 1880–1910. A var. of:-

hunt leather or the leather. To field: cricket s.:—1892 >, ca. 1900, coll. Now mostly journalistic j.—and something outmoded [note of ca. 1935].

hunt the dummy. To steal pocket-books: c.:—1811 (Lex. Bal.); ob. by 1930. A Catnach chorus: 'Speak to the tattler, bag the swag, [And finely hunt the dummy.]' See dummy.

hunt with the hounds. See run with the hare...

huntaway. 'A sheepdog which drives sheep forward when mustering' (B., 1959): Aus. rural coll.: C.20. Cf. force, n., q.v.

hunted, be. 'A man whose turn comes for him to drink, before he has emptied his former glass, is said to be hunted' (Grose, 1st ed.): drinkers': ca. 1770–1840. Cf. chaser, q.v.

hunters, pitch the, v., with vbl n. pitching the hunters. Low coll. (mostly costermongers' and cheapjacks'): ca. 1845–1914. Mayhew, 1851, 'Pitching the hunters is the three sticks a penny, with the snuff-boxes stuck upon sticks; if you throw [? knock down] your stick, and they fall out of the hole, you are entitled to what you knock off.'

hunter's moon, the. An October moon, the moon next after the harvest moon: rural coll. >, in C.20, S.E.: C.18–20, ob. Kingsley, 1855.

hunting. The vbl n. corresponding to hunt, v., 1; its pre-eminent c. sense, mid-C.19–20, is 'card-sharping'.—2. See good hunting.

hunting flotilla. An anti-submarine flotilla in the Grand Fleet: RN coll.: WW1. Bowen.

Huntingdon sturgeon. A native or an inhabitant of Huntingdon: 1667–ca. 1900, though ob. by 1830. Ex a young, flood-drowned donkey thought, in May 1667, to be a sturgeon by the people of Huntingdon, a black pig by those of Godmanchester, the latter being called Godmanchester black pigs, the former Huntingdon sturgeons. Braybrooke's Pepys (the Diary), cited by Apperson.

Huntley and Palmer. See take the Huntley...

Hunts, the. The Hunt Class destroyers (named after famous packs, as Pytchley, Quorn, etc.): RN coll.: 'These ships did splendid service in both World Wars' (Graville).

Hunt's dog, (which) will neither go to church nor stay at home, - like. A mid-C.17–20 ob., mainly rural and latterly dial., proverbial c.p. applied to any very unreasonably discontented person. Grose, who explains it by a certain labourer's mastiff. (Ascribed to, or claimed by, various counties: see Apperson.) hup, v.i. and t. To cry hup (to a horse) in order to urge on or to turn to the right: coll.: from ca. 1820. (Scott, St Ronan's Well.) OED.

hupper sukksles. Upper circles: Society: ca. 1845–70. Ware, 'Introduced by Thackeray in the De la Pluche [Yellowplush] Papers.' These Papers appeared in Fraser's Magazine in 1838–40; in book-form, in 1841.

hurdy-gurdy. As = a barrel-organ, this term was orig. (ca. 1800) coll., for properly it once meant a lute-like instrument. Moe cites an early use of the barrel-organ sense in an 'Imitation of Ode XVI. Book II of Horace', reprinted, from an unidentified Brit. source, in The Port Folio, 1 June 1804, p. 183: 'In London.../The poor Savoyard, doom'd to roam,/In search of halfpence, sighs for home,/And spins his hurdy-gurdy.'

hurdy-gurdy girls. 'In the Klondike gold rush of 1897–98 there were many dance hall girls, mostly German, who would dance for a fee, but stopped at that (except perhaps now and then). They were known as hurdy-gurdy girls and the references to them are numerous' (Leechman, 1967). Ex Western American hurdy-gurdy (house), such a saloon.

hurkaru. A messenger: Anglo-Indian coll.: from ca. 1800; earlier as hirca(r)a(h), hurca(or u)-ca(or u)rra(h). Ex Hindustani harkara, messenger, emissary, spy. Y. & B.

hurly-burly, strife, a commotion, an uproar: mid-C.16–20. Until ca. 1850, S.E.; since, increasingly though still but slightly coll. Also adj. and † adv. Ex S.E. hurling and burling.

hurrah. In Aus. labour s. on the hurrah = with hustling and shouting: since ca. 1930. B., 1942, 'The boss works us on the hurrah'.

hurrah-boat. In excursion steamer: RN:—1909 (OED Sup.; Bowen).

hurrah boy. (Gen. pl.) A college student: 1928+. OED Sup.

hurrah clothes. One's best clothes: mostly RN: from ca. 1905. OED Sup.

hurrah cruise. 'A naval cruise to attract popular attention': RN: from ca. 1920. (Bowen.) 'So called because of the cheering which usually greeted the ships [as they dropped anchor off British popular seaside resorts]' (Granville). Cf. hurrah party.

hurrah for Casey! Splendid! Excellent! That's 'great!': Aus.: C.20. (Baker.) Ex a political election.

hurrah party. 'Naval men going ashore for a spree' (Bowen): RN: C.20. Cf. banzai party.

hurra(h)'s nest. The utmost confusion: nautical from ca. 1845, but orig. (1829 or earlier) US; prob. anglicised mainly by the popularity of R.H. Dana's Two Years Before the Mast, 1840. Rare in C.20; † by 1910 (i.e. in Britain); P.B.: but familiar to the generation that read Kipling's Captains Courageous, 1897.

hurribombs. Pilots and ground crews operating Hawker Hurricane fighters and 'tank-busters' ('Hurribombers'): RAF: 1940–5. See also Hurry.

hurricane. A very crowded—properly a fashionable—assembly at a private house: ca. 1745–1815: fashionable s. > coll. (Mrs Delany, Mrs Barbauld.) Occ. as v., spend in or at a 'hurricane'. (OED.) Cf. bun-worry, tea-fight, qq.v.

hurricane buttie. 'The little hand-carried oil lamps, issued to all army units and known as "hurricane butties" ...' (Brig. Peter Mead, Soldiers in the Air, 1967). A blend of hurricane lamp + buttie, y, a friend, mate. (P.B.) hurricane deck. Neck: theatrical rhyming s.: C.20. Franklyn, Rhyming.

hurricane-jumper. A rating that joined the Navy as a youth without going to a training-ship: RN: late C.19. (Bowen.) See also northo-rigger.—2. (the H.J.) HM cruiser Calliope, after escaping from the Samoan hurricane (1889): id. (Ibid.) See esp. R.L. Stevenson, A Footnote to History.

hurridun. A late C.17—early 18 var. of hurridan, q.v. B.E. hurroosh. Var. spelling of hooroosh, q.v.

Hurry, Hurribird, Hurribox, Hurry-back/Hurryback, Hurri-buster. A Hawker Hurricane fighter (as Hurribuster, in fighter-bomber form): RAF: WW2. The first, and the commonest, was noted by E.P. in New Statesman, 19 Sep. 1942; it, and the rest, are recorded by Jackson, 1943.

hurry. 'A quick passage on the violin, or a roll on the drum, leading to a climax in the representation' (F. & H.): from ca. 1835: musical s. > j. (not in OED). Dickens, in Boz, 'The wrongful heir comes in to two bars of quick music (technically called a hurry).'¹—2. Not ... in a hurry, not very soon.: coll.: from ca. 1835 (OED). 'I'm glad you've spoken to her [i.e. reprimanded her]—she won't do that again in a hurry' (P.B.).—3. In be in no hurry, to have, or take, plenty of time: coll.:—1858 (Buckle). OED. P.B.: often ironic, as 'Well! They were in no hurry to help, were they!', a comment on no, or only grudging, assistance.

Hurry Boys. See hurriboys and Hurry.

Hurry-buster. A Hurricane aircraft employed as a tank-buster: RAF and army: ca. 1940–5. (P-G-R.) See Hurry.

hurry-durry, hurrydurry. Rough, boisterous, impatiently wilful: mainly nautical coll.: ca. 1670–1720. Wycherley, in The Plain Dealer, 'Tis a hurrydurry blade.' Reduplication on hurry.—2. As a comparatively rare n., C.18, it is a coll. var. of Scottish hurry-burry.—3. A late C.17 exclam. of impatience or indignation: coll. Otway; Mrs Behn.

hurry-scurry, n. A (hurried, disorderly) rush or a crowded rushing-on or -about: coll.: 1754 (SOD). Ex the adj.—2. A hack race: Aus. sporting: since ca. 1920. K.S. Pritchard, 'Dark Horse of Darran', in Kiss on the Lips, 1932.

hurry-scurry, v. 'To run or rush in confused and undignified haste' (SOD): coll.: from ca. 1770. Prob. ex the n.

hurry-scurry, adj. Characterised by hurried disorder: coll.: 1732 (SOD). A reduplication on hurry suggested by scurry.

hurry-scurry, adv. Pell-mell; in hasty and marked disorder: coll.: 1750 (SOD). Ex the adj.

hurry-up, n. A hastener, esp. a shell or two fired to make the enemy hurry: army coll.: since ca. 1941.—2. A police car: since late 1940s: orig. c.; by 1960s, s. Frank Norman in Encounter, 1959. Cf. hurry-up van.—3. On the hurry up, 'Very quickly, perhaps taking action before there was time to prepare' (Powis): low coll.: later C.20.

hurry up. (Gen. in imperative.) To hurry: coll.: late C.19–20; Ware, however, dates it from 1850, makes it Anglo-Indian, and goes so far as to say that it 'originated in the river steamer navigation of U.S.A.' at, presumably, a date earlier than 1850. N.B., both v.i. and v.t.

hurry up and take your time! A humorous exhortation: c.p.: C.20.

hurry-up van. [Police] vans, sometimes known to older members of the public as "Black Marias" or "Hurry-up vans", were in those days [later 1950s] the cornerstone of the force transport' (Harry Cole, Policeman's Progress, 1980, p. 130). Cf.:-

hurry-up wag(g)on. A 'black Maria': Can.: since ca. 1945. (Leechman.) Also Brit. c.: mid-C.20. Tempest.

hurry-whore. A harlot ever walking: C.17 (—1630) coll. Taylor the 'Water-Poet', 'Hyreling hackney carryknives and hurry-whores'. Prob. with ref. also to what is coarsely known as 'a short time' (q.v.).

hurt, v.i. To suffer injury, esp. to feel pain: C.14–20: S.E. till ca. 1880, then coll. E.g. 'Does your foot still hurt?' OED.

husband. Active member of a homosexual partnership: late C.19–20. Cf. wife, 4, q.v.

husband's boat. The Saturday London-to-Margate boat in the summer season: (lowish) coll.: ca. 1865–1914. A Vance ballad, ca. 1867, was entitled The Husband's Boat.

husband's supper, warm the. To sit, with lifted skirts, before a fire: low: ca. 1860–1930.

husband's tea. Weak tea: low coll.: mid-C.19—early 20. Cf. water bewitched, and weasel-pee.

hush, n. Silence: coll. when used, as in Adam Hall, The Kobra Manifesto, 1976. 'He was keeping strict hush'; but cf. S.E. 'There's a breathless hush in the Close tonight ...': since (?) ca. 1945. P.B.: often as in 'All right, all right! Let's 'ave a bit of 'ush, then!' Cf. shoosh, q.v.

hush, v. To kill, esp. to murder: c. of C.18–19. A New Canting Dict., 1725; Grose, 1st ed., 'hush the cull'. Cf. silence.

hush-boat. See hush-ship.

hush-crib. See hush-shop.

hush-hush, n. A caterpillar tank: army: 1917–18. Ex-hush-hush, adj. Secret; not to be divulged: orig. Service s., WW1>, in WW2, widespread gen. coll. 'Of course, it's all very hush-hush still, so don't breathe a word to a soul!' (P.B.). Early usages follow; WW2 gave rise to many more: Hush-Hush Army, the. General Dunsterville's force in the Caucasus and at Baku in 1918–19: military of that period. (F. & G.) Ex the secrecy observed in its formation and departure. Cf.:

Hush-Hush Crowd, the. The Tank Corps in its early days (June–Dec. 1916): military: late 1916–17. (F. & G.) Cf.:

Hush-Hush Operation. A projected, never executed attack on that part of the Belgian coast which was occupied by the Germans: military coll.: 1916–17. Ibid.

hush-(hush)-ship. (Often hush-boat.) A seemingly peaceable vessel that, carrying several guns, lures German submarines to its eager arms: 1915–18, and after: orig. coll., but by 1918 S.E. (Bowen.) Cf. Q boat, q.v.

hush-hush show. 'A very secret affair' (Lyll): coll.: orig. (1917), military >, by 1919, gen. On prec. phrases; see show.

hush-money. Money paid to ensure silence; blackmail: C.18 coll. (the OED records at 1709); C.19–20 S.E. Grose, 1st ed.

hush puppies. 'German made gateway supports; a corruption of the trade-name "usspuiwies"' (Pit-Talk, 1970, ed. W. Forster): S. Midlands' coal-miners'.—2. 'Silencing equipment on a diesel rail car' (McKenna, Glossary, 1970): railwaymen's. Both senses later C.20, and punning or Hobson-Jobson on the brand-name of a popular make of shoe, which, as Sue Arnold explains in Observer mag., 13 June 1982, derives in turn ex the name orig. given by US hunters to the small corn fritters thrown to their dogs to keep them quiet. (P.B.) hush-shop, occ. -crib. An unlicensed tavern: low coll. (h.-crib may well be c.): from ca. 1843; ob. Globe, 18 Sep. 1872, 'At Barrow-in-Furness the new Licensing Act has had the effect of calling numerous hush-shops into existence'; first recorded in Bamford's Life of a Radical, 1844 (OED).

hush up, v.i. To be, more gen. become, quiet, silent, or still: coll.: C.18–20, ob. Cf. the v.t. sense, which is S.E. OED.

husky, n. Gooseberry fool with the husks retained: Winchester College: ca. 1840–80. (Mansfield.) Without the husks it was non-husky.—2. An Eskimo or his language; esp. an Eskimo dog: 1864 (SOD): coll. till C.20, then S.E.: mostly Can. Eskimo corrupted.

husky, adj. Well-built and sturdy and rough: coll.: ex US (—1889), anglicised ca. 1918, though Canadianised by 1900. Perhaps because so many such men have husky voices; perhaps influenced by husky, an Eskimo dog (strong and hardy).

husky-lour, huskylour. A guinea: c.: late C.17–18. (B.E.) Ex lour (q.v.), money, + husky, dry. (Dry money = hard cash = a specific coin.)

hussy, huzzy. When, in C.19–20, used joc. as = woman, lass, esp. as a term of address, verges on coll.; otherwise wholly S.E.—2. See huzzy. Ex housewife.

hustings (occ. hoistings), you are all for the. A mid-C.17–18 proverbial c.p., app. = you're all due for trouble. ? ex Hustings, long the supreme law court of London. (The political sense of hustings did not arise before C.18.)

hustle, n. 'Push'; energetic activity: coll. verging, in later C.20, on S.E.: adopted, ca. 1905, ex US.—but see sense 2 ofhustle, v.i. and t. To have sexual connexion (with): low: ca. 1830–1910. But see hustler, 5.—2. As = to hurry, bustle, greatly bestir oneself, it is gen. considered as a coll. ex the US, but it is S.E. of more than a century's standing.—3. Cadge, as a beggar: coll.: adopted, ex US, late 1970s. Ian Walker, 'East Germans on Both Sides of the Wall' in New Society, 31 Jan. 1980: 'He hustles a deutschmark off the G.I.s, then disappears to the bar.'—4. See hustling, 2.

hustler. A pickpocket that relies on jostling and hustling his victims: ca. 1825–1910: c.—2. One who works energetically and impatiently: ex US (1886), where, however, there is frequently a connotation of (often slight) unscrupulousness: anglicised ca. 1905, coll. till ca. 1925, then S.E. Ex hustle, v., 2.—3. An employee whose duty is to hurry people on to 'Tube' (q.v.) trains in London: 1920: s. > j. > coll. (W.)—4. A pedlar of peanuts, etc., at a fair: Can. carnival s.: C.20. Ex sense 2.—5. A prostitute: low coll.: adopted, ex US, in Canada ca. 1925, in UK ca. 1970. Cf. hustle, v., 1 and 2. Powis records the UK usage.

hustling. Impatiently energetic work: genesis as for hustle, v., 2.—2. 'Forcible robbery, by two or more thieves seizing their victim round the body, or at the collar' (Bee): c.: early C.19—early 20.—3. Prostitution: low coll. (Powis.) Cf. hustler, 5.

hut. A caboose; the cab of a locomotive: Can. railroad-men's:—1931.

hut-keep. 'To look after a hut in the bush or outback. Whence, "hut-keeper"' (B., 1943): Aus. coll.: since ca. 1910. Cf. S.E. house-keep. Wilkes defines Aus. coll. (? Standard Aus.) the (men's) hut: 'On a station, the accommodation provided for the station-hands, usually a large structure, but distinct from "the house" and "the barracks"'; his earliest citation for this sense is 1843.

hutch. A place of residence, sojourn, or occ. employment: low coll.: ca. 1860–1915. Ex S.E. sense, a hut, cabin, small house. Cf. diggings, q.v.—2. Hence, the hutch, the guard-room: military: C.20. F. & G.—3. A study: Public Schools': late C.19–20. Desmond Coke, The House Prefect, 1908.—4. (A sheep's) crutch: NZ shearers' rhyming s.: C.20. B., 1941.

hutchy. (Of atmosphere) stale, frowsty, as the inside of a, e.g. rabbit-, hutch: coll.: C.20. (P.B.)

huty. An elephant: Anglo-Indian coll.: post-1886 but pre-1892; hatty, however, was used prob. as early as C.18. Kipling, in The Road to Mandalay. Ex Hindustani hattee, properly hathi, an elephant.

huxter; occ. hoxter. Money: low, being 'much in use among costermongers and low sharpers' (H., 1874), therefore prob. c. at first and mainly: ca. 1860–1910. Also in pl. ? ex hoxter, 1, q.v.

huzzy, -ie; also hussy. A housewife's companion, i.e. a pocket-case for needles, thread, etc. A reduction of housewife: C.18—early 19. Richardson, Scott (OED).—2. See also hussy.

hy-yaw! An exclam. of astonishment: Anglo-Chinese coll.: —1864 (H., 3rd. ed.). P.B.: directly ex commonest Chinese exclam., now better rendered ai-yah! Cf. Eng. Oh! or oo-er!

hyæna. A Society term of ca. 1770–80. Scott, Diary, 9 May 1828, in ref. to Foote's play, The Cozeners, 1774: 'She had the disposal of what was then called a hyæna, that is, an heiress.'

Hyde Park. An actor's mark: rhyming s.: the film world: since ca. 1950. Haden-Guest.

Hyde Park railings. A breast of mutton: West London street s.: late C.19–20; ob. (Ware.) Ex appearance of the bone-system.

hydraulic (jack). 'Nickname for anyone with the habit of "lifting" things, i.e. a thief, esp. on the waterfront' (Wilkes): Aus.: later 1970s.

hydro. Abbr. hydropathic (establishment): orig. (1882), coll.; in C.20, S.E. OED.—2. A hydroplane: coll.: 1930s.

hydromancy. Applied to a maudlin drunkard. See TAVERN TERMS, §3d, in Appendix.

hycling, n. 'Calling out at or after any one': proletarian: —1909; ob. (Ware.) A perversion or a corruption of chyack, esp. in the form chy-ike.

hymns and prayers. (Esp. unmarried) men and women: late C.19–20 ob. joc. coll. Suggested by hims and hers.

hyp (1736), gen. the hyp. Also in pl., (the hyps (1705). Low spirits: coll.; ca. 1705–1895. (See hip, n. and v., and hypo, hyppo.) Ex hypochondria. Lamb, in The Pawnbroker's Daughter,

'The drops so like to tears did drip,/They gave my infant nerves the hyp.'—2. Var. of hipe, q.v., a rifle.

hyp! Michael. See hip! Michael.

hyp'd. An † var. of hypped=hipped, q.v.

hype, n. Something intended to stimulate sales, etc.; a publicity stunt; the person or thing promoted by such a stunt: s. > coll.: adopted, early 1970s, ex US. (Chambers's C.20th Dict., 1977 Sup.) 'Most PR [public relations] hypes are crass, and the Poor Little Rich Girl hype is the crassest of the lot' (Angela Carter, reviewing filmstars' 'autobiographies' in New Society, 20 Dec. 1979). Barnhart derives the term ex the US s. for a 'hypodermic injection (especially of a narcotic drug)'.—2. 'Addict (from hypodermic) US' (Home Office): drugs world: 1970s.

hype, v. To stimulate by publicity stunts. (A. Stuart, The Bikers, 1971.) Ex the n. Also hype up.—2. 'He fabricated—or, as journalists prefer it, hyped—a "dawn interview" with a disconsolate and fictitious bar-girl' (John Le Carré, The Honourable Schoolboy, 1977): since ca. 1960 (?). Ex US, where current since the latish 1940s.

hyper. Abbr. hypercritic and hyper-Calvinist: coll.: resp. late C.17—early 18 (as in Prior) and mid-C.19—20, ob., as in Spurgeon. OED.—2. A promoter or publicist: s.: since latish 1960s. Ex hype, n. and v. Barnhart quotes Sunday Times, 11 Aug. 1968.

hyper- (as prefix). Extremely: coll. when used in such compounds as 'hyper-filthy', 'hyper-interesting': teenagers': ca. 1980. (Miss Rachel Paterson.) Perhaps suggested by 'hyper-market'. (P.B.) hypnese. 'Ziph', q.v.; schoolboyish gibberish (e.g. pegen- napy, penny): Winchester College: ca. 1830—60. The Press, 12 Nov. 1864.

hyppo; occ. hyppo. (Very) low spirits: coll.: 1711; † by 18. Abbr. hypochondria. (Cf. hip, hyponon, and hyp, qq.v.) In 1711 Mandeville brought out his Treatise of the Hypochondriack and Hysterick Passion, vulgarly called the Hypo in Men and Vapours in Women. In the same year, Joseph Collett, merchant, wrote from Rio de Janeiro, 'I have a better Stomach than usuall and have perfectly forgot what the Hyppo means' (15 Oct., in his Private Letter Books, ed. H.H. Dodwell in 1933).—2. (Only hyppo.) Abbr. hyposulphite (now technically known as thiosulphate) of soda: from ca. 1860: coll., though not perhaps till thiosulphate arose in 1873.—Also adj. (Both: OED).—3. War-time sugar, hard and insoluble: St Bees: 1915—18. 'From its resemblance to photographic hypo' (Marples).—4. A hypochondriac; a valetudinarian; one who is both: Aus.: since late 1930s. (B.P.) Cf. sense 1.

hyponon, occ. hyponon. Abbr. hypochondria: coll.: 1704 to ca. 1710. ('Facetious' Brown.) This is earlier than hip(p), hip(p)s, hyp, hyps, qq.v.

hypothenus. Hypotenus: an erroneous spelling that, in late C.16—mid 19, was S.E.; from then till C.20, catachrestic; and in C.20, coll. So too the adj. hypothenusal. Ex late L. hypotenusula. OED.

hypped (1710) and hyppish (1732). See hipped, hippish.

hyps, gen. the hyps (1705). See hyp and cf. hyppo, q.v. (For a tabulation of the earliest records of the various forms of the various hip, hyp, words, see Grose, P., s.v. hyp.)

hypt. An † var. of hyp'd=hypped: see, however, hipped.

I.B.A. Ignorant bloody aircraft-hand: RAF: since ca. 1930. Jackson, 'Aircraft-hands are the jacks-of-all-trades of the R.A.F. ... Officially, they are unskilled.' On the analogy of the IRA and the P.B.I., q.v. Cf. Ibach, q.v.

I.C., the. The officer, NCO or senior man in charge of a squad, a detachment, a barrack-room, a hut, etc.: Service (esp. RAF) coll.: since ca. 1930. Partridge, 1945, 'I must ask the I.C. about that; he's sure to know.' P.B.: in army col., sometimes joc. extended (wrongly) to O.C. ilc, the 'Officer Commanding in charge'.

I.D.B. An illicit diamond-buyer: S. African coll.: 1884. Ex IDB, illicit diamond-buying. Pettman.—2. Ignorant Dutch bastard: Cockneys': 1920s.

I.D. Herb (? or !). How are you?; Hullo!: Aus.: since ca. 1925. (B., 1942.) I.e. hidey! (q.v.) + generic Herb.

I.I.s. Illegal immigrants: army in Hong Kong; from later 1970s. (J.B. Mindel cites the Weekly Guardian, 14 Sep. 1980.) Prob. coll. ex official abbr., > almost imm. j.

I.M.F.U. or imfu. An Imperial military fuck-up: Services', esp. army: WW2. (P-G-R.) Cf. s.a.m.f.u., snafu, etc.

I.T.A. See Irish toothache, 2.

I am. See great I am.

I am becalmed – the sail sticks to the mast. 'My shirt sticks to my back... a piece of sea wit sported in hot weather' (Grose, 1785).

I am here to tell you! I tell you emphatically: a coll. when not used by showmen: ca. 1945–75. See DCpp.

I am (or I'm) not here. I don't feel inclined to work; or, I wish to be left alone: tailors' c.p.: from ca. 1870. B. & L.

I ask you! (often prec. by well), An intensive of the statement to which it is appended: coll.: since late C.19. See esp. DCpp for several examples.

I beg your garden! I beg your pardon: rhyming s., or simply a joc. malapropism: not at all gen.: ca. 1920–45. Michael Harrison, Reported Safe Arrival, 1943.

I believe you, (but) thousands wouldn't. A c.p., tactfully implying that the addressee is a liar: late C.19–20. P.B.: in later C.20, sometimes allusively, as 'I believe you, but!'—merely implying the well-known continuation. Perhaps an elab. of:-

I believe you (or yer) my boy! A c.p. popularised by John Buckstone's play, The Green Buses, produced in 1845. Albert Smith, The Natural History of the Geni, 1847: 'Possibly the next [imitation by 'the Geni'] will be Mr Paul Bedford, when he rolls his r and says, "Come along, my r-r-r-rummy cove; come along comealongcomealongcomealong! how are you? how d'ye do? here we are! I'm a looking at you like brickywickywicksies—I believe you my boy-y-y-y!"' As c.p. it lasted at least a century, many decades after its origin was forgotten, although Buckstone was only giving prominence to an expression, I believe you!, which was already in use, either ironically, or as emphatic agreement, among Londoners. Cf. prec., and see esp. DCpp for fuller treatment. (P.B.)

I bet! or I'll bet! Elliptical for 'I'll bet you can (or did or will, etc.): coll.: since ca. 1870. Either as encouragement to a narration, as 'So she was ever so cross...—'T'll bet she was! Go on!'; or, as often, ironic: 'T'll bet you have!' = 'I'm very sure you haven't!' (DCpp; P.B.)

I bet you say that to all the girls. Orig. and still frequently [mid-1970s] a feminine defensive conventionalism; also used, since mid-1930s, as a derisive counter-attack, even between males.

I can hardly wait! or I can't wait! Ironically applied to an imminent and undesired encounter or other occurrence: since ca. 1930. See esp. DCpp. Sometimes, as L.A. notes, 1976, 'A retort to (pretended) sexual aggression'; and sometimes—in my experience, predominantly—an ironic rejection of some unwanted or inferior object or occasion: c.p. since ca. 1960, although occ. heard earlier.

I can take a hint (often prec. by all right), A palliative, as L.A. notes, 1978, 'when someone in messdeck, workshop, etc. has said "Bugger off!" as though he meant it': later C.20.

I care naught (or not) for your predicament, John – I am suitably catered for. A joc. pedantic var., since mid-C.20, of fuck you Jack, I'm all right!, q.v. (P.B.)

I chased a bug around a tree; I'll have his blood – he knows I will. When slurred produces 'bugger round' and 'bloody nose', a joc. trap enjoyed by small boys experimenting with swear words: C.20. (A reminder from L.A.)

I could do (whatever it is) before breakfast! That's easy: perhaps orig. and mainly Aus.: C.20.

I could do her (or, coarsely, that) a (real) favour! 'A tribute to the charms of an attractive woman, or a picture of one' (L.A.): since ca. 1945. Contrast I could do you a favour, from one man to another, menacingly intimidating physical superiority, or merely a joc. threat: since ca. 1930.

I could eat her (or, coarsely, that) without salt. A would-be smart youth's tribute to a pretty girl passing by: lowish coll.: since ca. 1945. Contrast I couldn't eat...

I could go for you in a big way. Used among men, it imputes (usu. joc.) effeminacy or softness; if by a man to a woman, desire manifested in the usual way: since ca. 1942—perhaps ex the GIs, 'over-sexed, over-paid—and over here'.

I couldn't agree (with you) more. Orig. (from ca. 1936) a Society c.p. of emphatic agreement, its use was spread far wider by the social upheaval of WW2. The prompter of the even more widespread I couldn't care less. See esp. DCpp.

I couldn't care fewer;...less. See couldn't care...

I couldn't eat that. I couldn't tolerate that female: lower- and lower-middle class c.p.: C.20. Also gen. (with var. cannot or can't), as in 'I couldn't eat the last one' (a lodger), Pamela Branch, The Wooden Overcoat, 1951.

I desire. A fire: rhyming s.:—1859; ob. Cf. I suppose, 1.

I didn't ask what keeps your brains apart. A counter to the rejoinder or comment balls! or ballocks!: low c.p.: since ca. 1940.

I didn't blow it out of my nose! "I didn't do it offhand, or without trouble." Ex a French c.p., I believe. Heard in the last few years' (Leechman, 1967): Can.: since late 1950s.

I didn't come up with the last boat or in the last bucket; I didn't fall off a Christmas tree. I'm no fool or greenhorn; I know my way about: mostly Services': the 1st and 3rd since mid-1940s (? earlier); the 2nd, RN, C.20. (L.A., 1967; Granville.)

I didn't get a sausage or...so much as a tickle. I got nothing, esp. in money: c.p.: since ca. 1945. Cf. not a sausage.

I didn't know (or I never knew) you cared. Usu. spoken gushingly and simperingly, often to disguise genuine gratitude for a gift or compliment; also, ironically, to deflect an insult: since ca. 1945. Cf. this is so sudden: both mock a girl's cliché response to a declaration of male affection. (E.P.; P.B.)

I don't care if I... I am disposed to...: from ca. 1840; coll.: in later C.20 verging on S.E. Adaptable, unlike:-

I don't care if I do. Yes, all right; I am glad to accept. An early occurrence is in Francis Boothly, Marcella, 1670, at IV, vii (Moe). By mid-1940s the phrase had become, thanks to 'Colonel Chinstrap' in 'Itma' (q.v. in Appendix), almost invariably 'I don't mind if I do, (sir)!' Both versions were used in accepting something to eat or, esp., drink, and both, by 1970s, when not joc., smack of the genteel. See DCpp. for long, full treatment, and I don't mind...

I don't care if I do go blind. 'Joc. ref. to persistence in masturbation despite possible dire consequences' (L.A., 1978): low c.p.: C.20. Cf. I don't want to be...

I don't care if you burst into flame. Somewhat irritable c.p. reply to anyone's query 'Do you mind if I smoke?': mid-C.20. Sometimes you can burst into flames for all I care. (P.B.)

I don't go much on it (myself). I don't much care for it; as understatement for 'I dislike it': since ca. 1925.

I don't know who (or what) all. See and I don't...

I don't mind if I do. See I don't care if I do, and note also 'At the end of his... diary [for 1903] Morrison made a few random notes on the Australian scene... The commonest phrase in Australia was "Well, I don't mind if I do."' (Cyril Pearl, Morrison of Peking, 1967: P.B.)

I don't think! Reverses the ironical statement it follows: mainly proletarian: since ca. 1880 in gen. use. Cf. the slangy not half!, most decidedly so. OED cites an early occurrence, from Dickens, 1837: "'Amiably disposed...', I don't think," resumed Mr Weller, in a tone of moral reproof.' In earlier C.20 fink was often substituted, Cockney fashion, for think. P.B.: Punch, 16 Aug. 1916, contains this brief dialogue: 'Jones: I don't think. / Brown: I know you don't. You can't. / J: Yes, I can. / B: Well, think, then. / J: So I do think. / B: I don't think.' See esp. DCpp.

I don't want to be a sergeant-pilot anyway! A joc. c.p. ref. to persistence in masturbation: the RAF version of I don't care if I do go blind: since ca. 1935, from the days when that was the ambition of many an 'erk'.

I don't want to know. C.p. refusal to accept unwelcome news or facts: coll.: since early 1940s. 'I have heard all that before and I just don't want to know' (Anthony Phelps, I Couldn't Care Less, 1946). (P.B.) A var. of:-

I don't wish to know that... See I say, I say, I say!

I dreamt I met you - unfortunately! A humorous greeting: C.20. (Frank Shaw, 1968.)

I feel an awful heel. A c.p., uttered to the accompaniment of a hand placed on the hearer's back: Aus. juvenile: since ca. 1930. (B.P.) Not unknown among Brit. schoolboys. (P.B.)

I flit (or hyphenated). An actor's temporary lodging: theatrical, esp. provincial touring companies': ca. 1880-1940. Michael Warwick, in the Stage, 3 Oct. 1968.

I guess! I'm pretty sure: coll.: orig. (1798) US, anglicised ca. 1885 but still recognised as from abroad. (Baumann.) Ex the M.E.-early Mod. Eng. guess, (rather) think, suppose, estimate. Cf. Thornton.

I have... See I've...

I haven't a thing to wear. The widest-spread and most popular female c.p.: late C.19-20, and prob. very much earlier.

I haven't laughed so hard since my mother caught her (left) tit in the wringer. I haven't laughed so much for years: Can.: C.20. Cf. 'hell!' said the duchess.

I hear you cry. Cliché from political rhetoric and claptrap, popularised into a later C.20 c.p. by the brilliant satire of Peter Sellers. There has been no cry, and no response is expected. 'Why, if it causes him such distress, does he go on with it then, I hear you cry' (Red Daniells, in Brit. Jnl of Photography, 29 Aug. 1980: P.B.)

I heard the voice of Moses say. See roll on, my bloody twelve.

I hope it keeps fine for you! See hope it keeps fine...

I hope we shall meet in Heaven. A pious ecclesiastical convention (late C.17-20) that soon acquired a wider currency, as in Swift, Polite Conversation, 1738, first dialogue, in the opening exchange.

I hope your rabbit dies! See hope your rabbit dies!

I kid you not. I mean it; I'm being serious: coll.: adopted, mid-1950s, ex US; popularised by being the deposed Captain Queeg's 'trademark' in the film, 1954, of Herman Wouk's book, The 'Caine' Mutiny, 1951. By ca. 1960, also Aus.; ob., but still lingering, in 1983. (P.B.)

I know and you know, but (the thing) doesn't know, where 'the thing' is usu. a machine or a mechanical device: a mostly Aus. c.p.: since late 1940s. Used mostly by workmen to justify, in part at least, some malpractice. (B.P.)

I know something you don't know. A chanted taunt by the possessor of news unknown to his hearer(s), to stimulate curiosity, or merely to irritate: C.20. 'Borrowed' by adults from the taunts of children. (P.B.)

I left you in this position. An army drill-manual phrase that lays itself open to, and receives, all sorts of parody and abuse: popular among NCOs, late 1960s-early 70s. (P.B.)

I like it (, I like it) (with emphasis on like). A c.p. of approval: since ca. 1955, but particularly noticeable in later 1970s. (P.B.) Contrast I like that!

I like it but it doesn't like me. A semi-joc., ruefully serious, c.p. referring to food, drink, or activity that one likes but that disagrees with one: C.19-20. In early C.18 the form was I love it; but it does not love me: witness Swift's Polite Dialogue, I. I like me - who do you like? A c.p. comment on another's conceit: since ca. 1950. (P.B.)

I like that! (usu. prec. by well!) A derisive or indignant 'Certainly not', 'I certainly don't think so': coll.: since late C.19. Cf. not half, q.v.

I like work - I could watch it all day. A mid-C.20 version, in Aus. and UK usage, of Jerome K. Jerome's famous passage in Three Men in a Boat, 1889: 'I like work: it fascinates me. I can sit and look at it for hours...' (Oliver Stonor; B.P.)

I looks towards you (or yer), with response I catches your eye. Drinking conventions: prob. orig. Cockney: from mid-C.19 or even earlier. Nevil Shute, Pastoral, 1944. (Peter Sanders.)

I Love You Only, Kid. See Keep Off Young...

I must have killed a Chinaman. An Aus. c.p. referring to a run of bad luck: since ca. 1905. (B.P.)

I must or I'll bust. I simply must go to the w.c.: a (mainly Aus.) c.p.: since ca. 1925.

I need (or want) a piss so bad my back teeth are floating (or I can taste it); or... a shit so bad my eyes are brown. Low Can. c.pp.: C.20.

I need that like I need a hole in the head! I don't need it at all—indeed, it would be hateful, disastrous, or ludicrous: adopted, ex US, ca. 1950. Ex Jewish.

I never remember a name and I always forget a face. 'A c.p. used when people are discussing their inability to remember names and faces' (B.P.): Aus.: since the late 1940s. Ex 'I never remember a name but I always remember a face.'

I refer you to Smith! An allusive imputation of a lie or a boast: 1897-ca. 1899. Ware, 'From a character named Smith with an affliction of lying in The Prodigal Father (Strand Theatre, 1897).'

I resemble that (remark). A facetious, malapropistic retort to any joc. insult: since 1920s. Orig. a childish pun on 'I resent that remark'; cf. are you casting nasturtiums? (= aspersions), at cast nasturtiums.

I say! A preliminary utterance used to attract attention, and to give emphasis: coll.: C.19-20. "'To the Bush Rangers?" "Yes, I say, you won't blow me?"' (George Godfrey, History, 1828).—2. A coll. exclam. of surprise or admiration: late C.19-20. Ware implies that orig. it was proletarian.

I say, I say, I say! Became a recognised and integral part of comic turns in the music-halls, late C.19: the 'lead' man on stage would be constantly interrupted by one or more 'comics' rushing on exclaiming 'I say, I say, I say' as a prelude to absurd 'corny' questions. The usual attempt to 'crush' the onslaught was made with the phrase I don't wish to know that—kindly leave the stage! The echoes of this routine linger in coll., joc. exchanges still, 1983. See esp. DCpp. for full treatment.

I say, what a smasher! A c.p. dating from late 1945. Ex the BBC radio programme, 'Stand Easy' (a post-war version of 'Merry-Go-Round'). Cf. Smashing, 3. E.P., 'Those Radio Phrases', in Radio Times, 6 Dec. 1946. See DCpp.

I say, you fellows! A schoolboys' c.p.: since ca. 1940. In Frank Richards's Greystones School stories, the now famous character Billy Bunter is constantly using these words.

I see no ships. See ships?...

'I see, said the blind man. An elab. and would-be humorous way of saying 'I understand': orig. US, but used in UK since 1950 at latest.

I should be so lucky! See you should be so...

I should coco! 'I should say so!' See cocoa, v., and DCpp. at I should...

I should worry! 'I'm certainly not worrying about that!': adopted, ca. 1910, ex US Yiddish. See DCpp.

I subscribe! Yes (on being offered a drink): coll.: ca. 1870–1910.

I-sup. A shortening of the next, I: Lester (1937) has 'She's got... a terrific I-sup (she has a beautiful nose).'

I suppose. The nose: rhyming s.:—1859 ('Ducange Anglicus'). Cf. I desire.—2. I suppose so: coll.: rare before C.20 and not, even now, very widespread. E.g. "'Will you be coming to town next month?' "Yes, I suppose."

I tell you what. See tell you what.

I was there when they were needin' 'em – not just feedin' 'em! An old soldier's c.p. taunt to young soldiers considered to be 'having it cushy': since ca. 1920. (A P.B. reminder, 1975.) A var. of the earlier boast of old-soldiery, I was doing it (anything) when you were running up and down your father's backbone: WW1 and 2.

I wasn't born yesterday, you know! 'I'm not a fool; I know my way around: coll., almost proverbial: C.19–20.

I weep for you (or him or her or...). An occ. var. of my heart bleeds for you.

I will... See I'll...

I wish I had a man – I wouldn't half love him! Service-women's c.p. of amorous longing: WW2.

I wish I had as many shillings! An 'Itma' (q.v. in Appendix) c.p. popular in the 1940s–early 50s.

I won't – slightly. I certainly shall!: Services' c.p.: ca. 1925–39.

I won't take me coat off – I'm not stopping. 'Trade-mark' of the North Country comedian Ken Platt, it became a gen. c.p. in the 1950s, and is still heard occ. 20 years or so later.

I won't work. A c.p. applied since ca. 1912 to a member of the Industrial Workers of the World.

I work like a horse – (so) I may as well hang my prick out to dry! A c.p. palliation of accidental or ribald exposure: late C.19–20.

I would (or I'd) rather sleep one night with her than three weeks with you! A c.p. approval of the charms of women: Forces': 1939+. Cf. I wouldn't crawl...

I wouldn't be seen (less often, found) dead in it! I certainly shan't wear that!: feminine: C.20.

I wouldn't crawl over her to get at you. Low c.p. between males, with ref. to the sexual attractions of the girl under discussion; often as a last word on the subject, 'Well, let's put it this way: I wouldn't...': ca. 1955–75. (P.B.)

I wouldn't give you the sweat off my balls or the steam off my shit. A low Can. c.p. (C.20), indicating detestation.

I wouldn't have—in ref., her; in address, you – any other way. A mainly Aus. c.p., used in ref. or address to one's wife: since ca. 1956. Often joc., as in: 'Do you realise that I'm just an unpaid servant? I get your breakfast, look after your children, entertain your friends...—(with demonstration of affection) 'I wouldn't have you any other way.' (B.P.) I wouldn't kick her (coarsely, that) out of bed. Normal healthy male's comment on picture of attractive female: since ca. 1920.

I wouldn't know. (Occasionally '(S)he wouldn't know.) This orig. American c.p. for the usual British 'I couldn't say' (= I don't know) came to Britain during the 1930s, and in a British film of 1940, Pimpernel Smith, Leslie Howard remarked, 'In the deplorable argot of the modern generation, "I wouldn't know."' This phrase has been much used ever since. Dr Brian Foster (The Changing English Language, 1968) thinks that it was a translation of ich wüsste nicht, taken to America by German immigrants. Therefore cf. d'you know something? See DCpp.

I wouldn't put him out. Elliptical v. (? mainly Northern Irish) of I wouldn't spit... (J.B. Smith, Bath, 1979.)

I wouldn't say No! Yes, please!: since ca. 1920. 'Would you care for a drink?' 'Well, I wouldn't say no!' Rather coy.

I wouldn't spit (or piss) on (him) if (he) was on fire. I detest the person: low coll.: since mid-C.20. Red Daniells, in Brit. Jnl of Photography, 1 June 1979: 'I wouldn't spit on a copper if he was on fire.' (P.B.)

I wouldn't stick my walking-stick where you stick your prick! A c.p. common-reportedly spoken by physicians to men going to them with V.D: C.20. Or vice-versa, you stick... where I wouldn't... See also put (one's) prick where...

iambi. Iambic verse(s): Harrow School coll.: mid-C.19–20. H.A. Vachell, The Hill, 1905.

Ibach (short i, stressed; indeterminate a = ë). Ignorant bastard aircraft hand: RAF: since ca. 1939. Also fibach, when f = fucking.

Ibsenity. A characteristic, or the chief characteristics, of Ibsen (d. 1908), esp. of his plays: ca. 1905–14: joc. coll., coined by Punch on obscurity. (W.)

ice. Diamonds; loosely, gems: c.: anglicised ca. 1925 ex US. (Pawnshop Murder.) Ex the icy sheen of diamonds. Tempest, 1950, 'This word has completely supplanted the old word "rocks"'.—2. Impudence, effrontery: Society: from ca. 1927. (Rebecca West, The Thinking Reed, 1936.) Cf. cool, impudent.—3. See cut no ice.

ice-box. A solitary cell: Aus. c.: adopted, ca.1920, ex US. (B., 1942.) See Underworld, and cf. cooler, 4. Hence, not only in Aus., put him on ice = put the man in solitary confinement for a while, to 'soften him up' before interrogation.—2. See fry, v., 2.

ice-cream, short for ice-cream freezer. A person, usu. male; a fellow: since ca. 1920; c. >, by 1960, also low s. (Robin Cook, The Crust on Its Uppers, 1962.) Rhyming on s. geezzer.—2. (Gen. pl.) Nickname given by coloured immigrant primary-school children to the white children; used as a 'defence', a retort against Blackie, Nig-nog, Enoch: 1970s. Harré, Morgan, O'Neill, Nicknames, 1979.

ice-cream barrow. See came over...

ice-cream freezer. See ice-cream, 1.

ice-cream ship, the. The Cunard liner Antonia: nautical: 1922; ob. Bowen.

ice-cream suit. Except at Port Darwin and in the York Peninsula, ironic for the white tropical clothes worn by newcomers: Aus.: C.20. (Baker.) Probably adopted from US, where it isn't ironic and where it denotes 'men's summer garb, light in weight, cream or white in color' (Alexander McQueen), as also in Can. (Leechman).

ice-creamer. An Italian: since ca. 1955. A var. of—and obviously a derivative from—the prec.: 1916, 'A Post Mortem'—a University of Sydney song written in 1916 (and reprinted in The Company Song Book, 1918) and therefore presumably current from a few years earlier. (B.P.) P.B.: but the derivation may equally well be ex the traditional Italian immigrant trade of ice-cream vending.

ice-jack. An ice-cream seller: coll.:—1923 (Manchon); †.

ice-o. An iceman: Aus.: since ca. 1920. D'Arcy Niland, The Big Smoke, 1959.

iceberg. One who always goes swimming, no matter how cold the water: Aus.: since ca. 1925. B., 1943.

icicle's chance... See not a cat in hell's chance.

ickitserpu. See hickitserpu.

ickle. Little: child's attempt at pron., occ. 'borrowed' by adult females, e.g., 'ickle me': in the nursery, prob. for centuries; as coll., since (?) ca. 1930. (Norah March in London Evening Standard, 28 May 1934.) See lickell.

Icky, pronoun. I; me: often in conjunction with Joe Soap or Muggins, qq.v., as 'So who gets lumbered? Icky, Muggins again!': Services', perhaps esp. army in Germany: since ca. 1945. Ex Ger. Ich. (P.B.)

icky, adj. Overly sentimental, 'corny': orig. US jazz musicians', ca. 1935 (W. & F., 1960). Used, perhaps as var. of yucky, q.v. at yuckl, by John Coleman, in a New Statesman, 21 Mar. 1980, film review: 'Ms Streep... is no mess, in an extremely icky role as a none-too-motivated runaway parent.' Perhaps ex sticky, either 'goeey' or difficult. (P.B.)

ictus. A lawyer: C.19 legal. A telescoped corruption of L. iuris consultus.

I'd hate to cough. A c.p. spoken by one who is suffering from diarrhoea: late C.19–20.

I'd have to be lifted on (and off). 'Worldly weariness of old, or older, man at unpledged youth's enthusiasm for a girl's charms' (L.A., 1974): C.20.

I'd (or, as common, I'll) have you know. Let me tell you!; emphatic affirmation: adopted, early 1940s, ex US.

I'd like a pup off that. A c.p., indicative of covetous approbation: Services': since ca. 1930. (I.e. out of that bitch.)

I'd like to get you on a slow boat to China (starting from England). I'd like to have the time to gradually influence you: a nautical, usu. joc., c.p.: C.20. P.B.: became, mid-C.20, the title and refrain of a very popular song.

idder! Here!: army: late C.19–early 20. (B. & P.) Ex Hindustani. Cf. kidder!, there!

Iddy-Umpies, the. The Royal Corps of Signals: army: ca.1920–40. See next, 1.—2. (Or Itty-.) The 17th Division: army: from ca. 1910. (F. & G.) Ex their dot-and-dash sign.

iddy (or itty) umpy. A signaller: army: late C.19—earlier 20. (F. & G.) Ex a phrase used in India for teaching morse to native troops.—2. Hence, a Royal Engineers (later, Royal Corps of Signals) lineman repairing telephone and telegraph wires: army: WW1. F. & G.

idea. Exclam. the ideal!; often the very ideal!: what an ideal!, always disapprovingly: (usu. feminine) coll.: C.20. Manchon.—2. See what's the big idea?

idea-box or -pot. The head: resp. C.19, late C.18—early 20. (Grose, 1st ed.) Cf. knowledge-box, 1, q.v.

ideas about, have; get ideas into (one's) head. To have or get amorous ideas (about a girl): coll. mid-C.19–20. P.B.: e.g., in a warming such as '... so don't go getting any ideas in your head about my sister, right?'

idee. (An) idea: C.15–20: S.E. till C.18, then low coll.

ident. An identification, as in 'Did you make a positive ident?': Services' coll. > j.: since ca. 1955.—2. A signature tune: musicians' and entertainment world: since ca. 1960. Terence McLaughlin in Daily Telegraph mag., 6 Feb. 1976. (P.B.) identical, the. The very (same) person, thing, or statement: coll.:—1891. N. Gould, in The Double Event, "I'm the identical," said Jack.'

identity. A person, esp. of some—gen. rather quaint—importance. Chiefly in phrase, an old identity: coll.: orig. (1862) NZ; then (—1879) Aus. Ex a topical song by R. Thatcher. Morris.—2. 'A person long associated with a locality' (Jice Doone): NZ,—1862; Aus., C.20. The anon. writer of Otago, Its Goldfields and Resources, of 1862, declares that "the exclusive spirit of the old identity" was part of the curse of Dunedin', Baker (1941), who indicates its prob. origin in 'the early settlers should endeavour to preserve their old identity'.—3. Hence, as adj., 'effete': NZ: ca. 1870–90. B., 1941.

idiot board. A teleprompter or similar device used out of camera range to prompt persons appearing on television: world of TV: since ca. 1970. (B.P.) Cf.:

idiot box and idiot's lantern. A television receiving set: since ca. 1955: the former (cf. goggle box) is fairly gen.; the later also Can. (Leechman.) See box, n., 20.

idiot broth. Cider: West Country s.: later C.20. Cf. jumble juice. (Bob Patten, 1979.)

idiot-fringe. Factory-girls' hair combed down, fringe-wise, over the forehead: London joc.: ca. 1885–1900. (Baumann.) Cf. the S.E. term lunatic fringe.

idle. Careless, slovenly ('an idle salute'—'Idle on parade'); dirty ('an idle cap-badge'): Guards Regiments': C.20; hence, since ca. 1939, RAF. By ca. 1955, verging on jargon.—2. Hence, slow, as applied to, e.g., a batsman in a cricket match: since ca. 1960.

idle fellowship. (Gen. pl.) A sinecure fellowship: Oxford and Cambridge Universities' coll.:—1884; ob. Ware.

idle-itis. Laziness: joc. coll.: C.20. Cf. synonym. lazy-itis. (P.B.)

idlers, the. 'Officers or men who don't keep watch at sea, the Accountant Branch, for example' (Granville): RN: since latish C.18. The OED cites it for 1794, and it occurs in W.N. Glascock, Sailors and Saints (I, 166), 1829, where it is glossed as 'Surgeon, Purser, &c. &c.' and in his Sketch-Book (I, 15, 16), 1825. (Moe.)

idles, the. Idleness, whether healthily deliberate or morbidly lazy: C.17–20: coll. Gen. prec. by sick of, i.e. with. Apperson.

idonk. An idea: army: 1915+. (F. & G.) Perhaps influenced by Fr. dis donc!

ietqui. Quiet: sporting: centre s.:—1909 (Ware).

if – a big if. A c.p. comment upon a startling hypothesis: C.20; by 1960, slightly ob.

if a louse miss its footing on (one's) coat it will break its neck. To have a very threadbare coat, clothes: proverbial coll.: mid-C.14–mid-18. Langland, Palsgrave, 'Gnomologia' Fuller. (Apperson.)

if and and. A band (of instrumentalists): rhyming s.: since ca. 1945. (Franklyn 2nd.) See ifs and...

if God permits. White Horse whisky: public-houses': late C.19–20. This whisky has on its label the old coaching notice, 'If God permits'.

if he had the 'flu, he wouldn't give you a sneeze. A c.p., imputing extreme meanness: since ca. 1930.

if I stick a broom up my arse I can sweep the hangar at the same time. A c.p. uttered by one who has received a string of orders that will keep him very, very busy: RAF: since ca. 1925.

if it moves – salute it; if it doesn't – paint (or whitewash) it! Army and RAF advice to recruits: middle and late 1940s and 1950s. Almost a motto. B.P., 1975, notes the Aus. derivative version: if it moves—shoot it; if it doesn't—chop it down! Wilkes, 'Reputedly an Australian national motto.'

if it were a bear it would bite you or, more commonly, if it'd been a bear, it'd have bit you. A semi-proverbial c.p. applied to 'him that makes a close search after what lies just under his Nose' (B.E., 1698): since early C.17. P.B.: E.P., in DCpp., dates it C.17–18; but it is still extant, at least in dial: I heard it in 1979 used quite naturally. Cf. it's staring you in the face.

if it's too big to shift – paint it! 'Used when any awkward job confronts the men, or when taking heavy stores on board' (Granville): RN lowerdeck: C.20. Cf. if it moves...

if my aunt had been a man she'd have been my uncle. A mid-C.17–20 proverbial c.p. in derision of one who has laboriously explained the obvious. (Apperson.) L.A., 1974, notes the late C.19–20 var., usu. prec. by 'if, if!', used as 'a derisive protest expressing impatience with provisos': if my aunt had been me uncle she'd have had a pair of balls between her legs! See also if your aunt... Ray supplies the later C.17 version if my aunt had been an uncle, she'd have been a man. if only I had some eggs I'd make (or cook) eggs-and-bacon — if I had the bacon, with slight variations. A military c.p. of WW1, and since.

if rape is (or be) inevitable ... See when rape ...

if-shot or -stroke. An unsound stroke: cricketers' coll.: 1897, Ranjitsinhji. (Lewis.) Cf. iffy, 1.

if so be as how. If: coll., mainly rural: (?) mid-C.18–20. An elongation of if so be, if.

if that's nonsense, I'd like some of it. A c.p. rejoinder to a charge of talking nonsense, esp. if sex be involved: since ca. 1950. (L.A., 1967.) Reminiscent of Lincoln's famous comment on being told that General Grant drank excessively: 'If that's so, I'd like to send a barrel of it to some of my other generals!' if they're big enough they're old enough. A cynical male c.p., referring to the 'negotiability' of young teenage girls: since ca. 1910 (? earlier). No nonsense about 'the age of consent'. 'Even more coarse [and brutal] and, I think, just as well known is, "If she's/they're old enough to bleed, she's/they're old enough to fuck"' (correspondent, 1976); the ref. is to menstruation.

if you are angry you may turn the buckle of your girdle behind you. 'To one Angry for a small Matter, and whose Anger is as little valued' (B.E.): late C.16–early 18 coll.

if you ask me. An introductory c.p., a feeble conversational make-weight: since ca. 1920. (Nobody has asked.) if you call yourself a soldier, I'm a bloody Army Corps! A military c.p. implying superior soldierliness in the speaker: WW1. B. & P.

if you can name it (or tell what it is), you can have it. A c.p., referring to an odd-looking person or object: C.20.

if you can pee (or piss), you can paint. 'Painters get knocked because their work is thought easy ("if you can pee you can paint")' (Colin Sheffield in Telegraph Sunday mag., 18 Dec. 1977): house-painters are meant—and it's not true. (L.A.)

if you can't beat (Aus. lick) 'em – join 'em. A cynical c.p., dating since the 1940s. Origin, perhaps political: ? applying to areas where one party is predominant. (William Safire, The New Language of Politics, 1968.) See DCpp.

if you can't fight – wear a big 'at! An army jibe directed at anyone dressed in best uniform, where this includes 'a big 'at': since ca. 1950. (P.B., 1976.) Earlier, as a taunt among Cockneys, 1930. Wolveridge, He Don't Know 'A' ..., 1977.

if you can't stand the heat, get (loosely keep or stay) out of the kitchen! If you can't stand the pace or the strain, don't get involved: a US political c.p. coined by President Harry S. Truman ca. 1950; in Brit. use since ca. 1970. Julian Symons, A Three Pipe Problem, 1975.

if you can't take a joke you shouldn't have joined. Addressed to anyone expressing dissatisfaction with Service life; e.g., after having his weekend leave cancelled: Services': L.A. attests to its use in WW2, 'mainly by conscripted men; in the enlisted tradition'. It is foreshadowed in Olive Dent, A V.A.D. in France, 1917: "Pinching" is always quite an accepted condition of affairs ... All the consolation the late owners of any article may receive is the overworked tag, "You're unlucky, mate. You shouldn't have joined".' (P.B.)

if you don't like it take a short stick and pike it! A London c.p., rhyming variety, of ca. 1870–1900. (H., 5th ed.; Baumann.) Ex pike it, q.v.

if you don't like it you can lump it (or you can or may do the other thing). You will just have to endure it, willy-nilly: coll.: since ca. 1860; Dickens, a version of the first form; H., 1864, the second. See DCpp.

if you don't want the goods don't muck 'em about! Orig. Cockney stall-holders', later C.19; extended to wider activities in C.20, and with the occ. substitution of whelks for goods, but always with an attempt at the Cockney pron. It even became the chorus of a song, in the 'whelks' version. Cf. if you're going to buy ... and if you want ...

if you looked at him sideways you wouldn't see him. A c.p. ref. to a very thin man: earlier C.20. Cf. synon. matchstick with the wood shaved off.

if you see anything that God didn't make, throw your hat at it! A c.p. deprecating undue modesty: since ca. 1930. (L.A., 1967.)

if you want to buy a watch, buy a watch, (but) if you don't want to buy a watch, keep your snotty nose off my clean window! A semi-joc. Jew-baiting phrase, C.20; sometimes shouted by boys outside a jeweller's shop. Cf. if you're going ...

if your aunt had balls, she'd be your uncle. 'That's a hell of a big if!': a c.p. comment, earthy and blasting, on excessive supposition or conditional optimism: since 1920s. See also if my aunt ..., from which it derives.

if your face fits. If you're in favour with the authorities: Services: since ca. 1930. P-G-R.

if your head was loose, you'd lose that too. A c.p., addressed mainly to children: late C.19–20.

if you're going to buy, buy; if not, would you kindly take the baby's bottom off the counter! A Can. c.p. addressed by butchers to customers, or even vice versa: since ca. 1920. (Leechman.) Cf. if you want ...

if you've got the money. C.p. response to 'Have you got the time?' (= what o'clock is it?): derives from a popular song of mid-C.20, 'If you've got the money, Honey, I've got the time'; may also, though less commonly, be used the other way round, 'Have you got the money?'—'Yes, if you've got the time'. (P.B.)

Iffies, the. A once-famous North of England syndicate or group of companies, noted for engaging actors on conditional terms: late C.19–early 20. Michael Warwick in the Stage, 3 Oct. 1968.

iffy (incorrectly iffey). Uncertain: unsound, risky: coll., esp. in Aus.: since ca. 1920. B., 1942.—2. Addicted to excessive ifs in conversation: coll.: since ca. 1925.—3. 'Doubtful or dishonest. An "iffy brief" would mean a dishonest lawyer, an "iffy motor" would mean a (probably) stolen car' (Powis): underworld: later C.20.

ifs. (Rare in sing.) Spavins, etc.: horse-dealers': C.20. They lead to doubts and queries.

ifs and ands. Conditions and stipulations; circumlocution; hesitation: coll.: C.16–20, but since ca. 1820, mainly dial. and rurally proverbial. More, 1513; Davenport, 1624; Richardson, 1748; Sir Robert Horne, in The Times, 30 May 1924 (Apperson.) P.B.: in C.20 more often ifs and buts, as 'there's too many ifs and buts in it for my liking'.—2. See if and and. igaretsay. A cigarette: Aus. (urban): adopted, ca. 1944, ex US servicemen. 'Centre slang and, as far as I know, the only example in use in Australia' (Edwin Morrisby, letter, 1958). 'Surely not centre slang but rather Igpay Atinlay, or Pig Latin, which as you no doubt know is one of the most venerable of children's secret languages. ixnay (= nix) is one of the few PL terms that penetrated the adult world'. (Robert Claiborne, 1966; he states that even ixnay is ob.) iggerance or igorance; iggerant. Ignorance; ignorant: coll. when used joc. to reinforce the rebuke, e.g., 'Ooh, you aren't 'alf iggerant!': C.20.

iggri, -ry. Hurry up!: coll. of soldiers with service in the Middle East: since late C.19. Ex Arabic. Hence, get an iggri on, to hurry, get a move on. Cf.:-

Iggry Corner, at Bullecourt, Western Front, a spot dangerous because of shell-fire: 1917. F. & G. Ex prec.

ighna. Night: back s.: late C.19–20. See quot'n at ouya. ignoramus. An ignorant person: C.17–20. In C.17, coll.; then S.E. Ex Ignoramus, a nickname for the title-role lawyer in Ruggle's lawyer-satirising play, 1615—this latter being ex a Grand Jury's endorsement to a bill of indictment.

Ignoramus Jury. The Grand Jury that, in 1681, rejected a bill of indictment against the Earl of Shaftesbury: late C.17: coll.: then historical, therefore sanctuaried among the museum-pieces of reconditely allusive S.E. OED.

ignorant. Ill-mannered; unaware of the proper or conventional way to act in any given situation: Services' and proletarian: since ca. 1950 (prob. earlier). 'Proper ignorant, that was, bawling out the corporal in front of the whole platoon like that'—'Well, he always was an ignorant bastard'. A specialisation of the S.E. sense, 'lacking in knowledge'. (P.B.)—2. In make ignorant, 'make angry' (South London) (Powis): later C.20.

ignorant as a pump (, as). Extremely ignorant: coll. verging on S.E.: late C.19—earlier 20. Manchon.

ignorant as pig's muck. Extremely ignorant, with an implication of comparable illiteracy: late C.19—20. L.A. cites Bill Naughton, One Small Boy, 1966. Cf. synon. pig-ignorant.

ignorance. See iggerance.

Ikey, n. A Jew, esp. a Jewish receiver of stolen goods: c. (—1864) in C.19, low in C.20. H., 3rd ed., also Ikey Mo, q.v. Ex Isaac.—2. In C.20, occ. a pawnbroker of any nationality.—3. The 'inevitable' nickname of men with Jewish surnames or features: late C.19—20.—4. In play the Ikey, to play a sharp trick: Cockneys: from ca. 1880. V.t. with on. Also as in Rook, Hooligan Nights, 1899: 'I don't think any Lambeth boy'll play the ikey like that wiv them girls again.'—5. See Ikeys.

ikey, adj. Smart or smartly dressed; alert, wide-awake, artful: low: ca. 1870—1930. Ex the prec., 1.—2. Hence, conceited: low:—1889; ob. by ca. 1930. B. & L.—3. (Ikey.) Jewish: C.20. James Joyce, Ulysses, 1922, 'Ikey touch that.'

Ikey Mo. Same senses, period, and genesis as Ikey, n., 1—3. Ex Isaac Moses, and prob. popularised by the Ikey Mo who was partner in the nefarious doings of the original Ally Sloper, the first British strip-cartoon 'character', in the series which started in Judy magazine, 1867, and ran for many years.

Ikeys. 'Students of the old South African College, now the University of Cape Town, so called by their rivals of Victoria College, Stellenbosch, because of their large Jewish enrolment (late C.19)' (Prob. A.C. Partridge, 1968, letter).

—2. (ikeys.) Icecream: joc. childishness sometimes affected by adults: later C.20. (P.B.)

ikona! No, you don't (or, won't): certainly not!: a c.p. current during the Boer War (1899—1901). Perhaps ex Zulu.

ile. Dance, n. and v.: rhyming s.: Ware's version (1909) of Isle of France, recorded by H., 1859; † (Franklyn, Rhyming).

iligant. See illigant.

I'll be a monkey's uncle! (often prec. by well). A c.p. expressing astonishment: Can.: adopted, ex US, ca. 1945. (Leechman.) P.B.: heard occ. in Brit. Eng., later C.20.

I'll be hanged. See hang, v.

I'll be one up ... See tau.

I'll be there. A chair: orig., and still mainly, underworld, esp. convicts', rhyming s.: C.20. Franklyn 2nd.

I'll bite; I'll buy it. 'I'll bite' is often said and understood as 'I'll buy it', which leads to the further c.p., No. I'm not selling—serious!, itself hardly before 1930. See bite and buy.

I'll buy that. A Can. c.p. = 'I'll agree to that plan or decision or explanation': since ca. 1930. Also Aus. Contrast I'll buy it in prec.

I'll cut your cable if you foul my hawse! A nautical threat: late C.18—early 20. (Moe cites L.L.G., 27 Dec. 1823.) See hawse.

I'll do (or fix) you! A c.p. threat, 'I'll settle your hash': often joc.: since ca. 1910 (do) and ca. 1920 (fix). When used by man to a girl, it carries a playful sexual innuendo—if joc. and not serious.

I'll eat my hat. See eat (one's) boots.

I'll first see thy neck as long as my arm. I'll see you hanged first; you be hanged!: c.p.: mid-C.17—mid-18. Ray, 1678 (Apperson).

I'll give you Jim Smith! I.e. a thrashing: (mostly London) streets' c.p.: 1887—ca. 90 (Ware.) Ex a pugilist prominent in 1887.

I'll go he! A NZ exclam. of surprise: since ca. 1920. (Slatter.) Ex children's games.

I'll go hopping to hell! often prec. by well!: a C.20 c.p. indicative of astonishment or admiration.

I'll go out in(to) (or down) the garden and eat worms. I'll now eat humble pie: often ironic. Prob. rural in orig.: since ca. 1880. More a feminine than a masculine c.p. Elsie J. Oxenham, Two Form Captains, 1921, 'Nobody loves me—I'll go in the garden and eat worms.'

I'll have a basinful of that! A (mostly lower-classes' and lower-middle-classes') c.p. directed at a long word or a new one: 1934—5. A synon., from ca. 1910, is I'll have two of those!, as in Michael Harrison, Spring in Tartarus, 1935.

I'll (h)ave to ask me dad. One of the most famous of the 'Itma' (q.v. in Appendix) c.pp.: uttered by the ancient 'Mark Time'. At the height of the craze it was almost impossible to ask a question of an 'Itma' fan without getting this answer, say late 1944—5. It lingered in popular speech for several years and is still, 1983, not utterly dead. See DCpp.

I'll have you know. See I'd have ...

I'll have your gal! 'A cry raised by street boys or roughs when they see a fond couple together': from ca. 1880; ob. B. & L.

I'll have your guts for garters! A hyperbolic threat much favoured by, e.g. drill-instructors and other Services' 'hard men', and thus only too well known to the generation of young men who passed through National Service; its attraction lies in the alliterative ring. But it goes back to mid-C.18, poss. even a century or more earlier. See esp. DCpp. (P.B.)

I'll have your hat! A derisive c.p. retort: mainly Londoners': ca. 1860—1900. (Punch, 11 Dec. 1869.) Cf. all round my hat! and shoot that hat!

I'll knock out two of your eight eyes! A mid-C.18—early 19 Billingsgate fishwives' c.p. The other six, as Grose, 2nd ed., enumerates them, are the two 'bubbies' (q.v. at bubby), the belly (prob. implying the navel), 'two pope's eyes' (? the anal and anal orifices), and 'a  eye' (? what): by the 'pope's eyes' he perhaps means rump and anus, while by the asterisks he almost certainly understands the sexual aperture.

I'll pay that (one). I 'bought' that: a c.p. admission that one has been 'had': Aus.: since ca. 1930: ob. (Kylie Tennant, The Honey Flow, 1956.) Cf. I'll bite.—2. As I'll pay that, that's a good story or joke: Aus. c.p.: since ca. 1950. (B.P.)

I'll push your face in; I'll spit in your eye and choke you. Working-class threats, often playful: c.pp.: late C.19—20.

I'll put my kudos on the ... To back, to place one's bets on, the object: Can.: 1970s. (Robin Leech, 1978.)

I'll put you where the rooks won't shit on you! Joc. version of I'll kill you, used humorously: army: ca. 1935—45. I.e., underground.

I'll saw your leg off! See my word, if ...

I'll say! An enthusiastic affirmative, as 'Isn't she a beauty?'—'I'll say [she is]!': adopted, ex US, ca. 1925. See esp. DCpp.

I'll see you further (first). I certainly will not!: coll.:—1851 (Mayhew, London Labour and the London Poor, I, 29); in C.20, first is omitted.

I'll tell you what. See tell you what.

I'll tell your mother! A c.p. addressed to a young girl (or occ., one not so young) out with a boy: late C.19—20.

I'll try anything once. A c.p., affected by the adventurous or the experimental, sometimes joc.: since ca. 1925. Frank Clune's very readable autobiography—published in 1933—is titled Try Anything Once.

I'll work for my living! An underworld c.p., expressive of improbability, a preliminary 'in the unlikely event of that happening' being implied: since ca. 1950. (Franklyn, letter, 1968.)

ill. In do ill to (gen. in negative), to coit with (a woman): Scots coll.: C.19—early 20.—2. Be ill, to vomit: C.19—20; euph. >, ca. 1910, coll.

ill-convenient and its n. in -ence. (The being) inconvenient, ill-suited: C.18—20; S.E. till ca. 1820; coll. ca. 1820—70; then low coll. OED.

ill fortune. Ninepence (as a single coin): c.: late C.17–early 19. (B.E.; Grose, 2nd ed.) Because not a shilling. Cf. picture of ill luck, its synonym.

illegit. Illegitimate, n. and adj.: schoolboys': C.20. Lunn, "Was he a blooming illegit?" asked Kendal.'

illegitimate, n. A counterfeit sovereign, young illegitimate being a 'snide' half-sovereign: c. of ca. 1820–70. (Bee, 1823). By a pun.—2. A low-grade costermonger: from ca. 1840; ob. by 1915, † by 1920.—3. A free settler: (Aus.) convicts': ca. 1830–70. B., 1942.

illegitimate, adj. 'Applied to steeple-chasing or hurdle-racing, as distinguished from work on the flat' (F. & H.): racing (—1888): in C.19, s.: in C.20, coll. or j. illegitimate glow-worm. A 'bright bastard' (= a 'smart Alec'): Aus. pedantic: since ca. 1950. (B.P.)

illegitimus non carborundum. You mustn't let (or don't let) the bastards grind you down (—wear you down—get you down): Intelligence Corps (1939–45), hence (1940+) a more gen. army motto, esp. among officers. Carborundum (silicon carbide), being very hard, is used in grinding and polishing—and here the word serves as a mock-Latin gerund; lit., 'There is not to be any carborunduming—grinding with carborundum—by the illegitimate.' I wonder which Oxford 'Classic', exacerbated almost to desperation, coined this trenchant piece of exquisite Latinity? For lack of evidence I suggest that it may have been my friend Stanley Casson, who, born in 1889, became Reader in Classical Archaeology at Oxford, directed the Army Intelligence School early in WW2, and then went to Greece to lead the Resistance; he was killed in mid-April 1944, a gallant, learned, urbane and witty scholar, who has never received his due meed of praise. Had Casson lived a century earlier, Carlyle would, to Heroes, have added a chapter: The Hero as Scholar. B.P., in mid-1965, comments thus, 'This is general slang in Australia. It is by no means confined to those with a knowledge of Latin' and adduces the following Latin 'translations' or equivalents of gen. or Aus. s.; tauri excretio, bullshit, and belli bustum, a 'belly-buster' (sense 2). P.B.: in later years, it sometimes took the form nil illegitimus (carborundum), and was still well known in the 'I Corps' when I retired in 1974. It occurs, allusively, in Martin Woodhouse, Rock Baby, 1968, as nil carborundum.

illicit; more correctly illicit. Elegant: Anglo-Irish: C.18–20; † except as an archaic jocularity or as a typical example of the Irish pronunciation of English. See also elegant.

illumina. An abbr. of illumination: Winchester College: mid-C.19–20. B. & L.

illustrated clothes. See historical shirt.

illustrious Garrison, the. Sobriquet of the 13th Regt of Foot, later The Somerset Light Infantry: ex their brilliant success in raising the siege of Jellalabad in 1842. They were also known as 'The Jellalabad Heroes'. Carew.

illywhacker. A trickster, esp. a confidence man: Aus. c.: since ca. 1930. (B., 1943.) Cf. whack the illy, to trick or swindle someone: id. (Ibid.)? illy = 'silly'.

I'm a. An (over)coat: C.20. Short for I'm afloat, 2, q.v. Lester writes it I'm-a.

I'm a bit of a liar. A c.p. adopted, ex US, ca. 1900; now †, it perhaps gave rise to I'm a bit of a bullshitter..., q.v. at bullshitter, 1.

I'm a Dutchman if I do! Certainly not!: coll.: from ca. 1850. Earlier (1837) is I'm a Dutchman, i.e. I'm somebody else: a coll. equivalent for disbelief; Reade, 'If there is... gold on the ground...', I'm a Dutchman.'

I'm a stranger here myself. When used to mean 'I don't know what's going on and I shouldn't care to guess', it qualifies as a c.p.: since ca. 1950. See DCpp.

I'm afloat. A boat: rhyming s.:—1859 (H., 1st ed.).—2. A coat: id.:—1874 (H., 5th ed.). See I'm a.

I'm afraid to go home in the dark. A lover's excuse for staying the night: c.p.: earlier C.20. Ex a popular song.

I'm all right, Jack. See fuck you, Jack!; Jack policy; I care naught...

I'm always out of the picture – just clambering round the frame. 'Current [among RN personnel] in the Indian Ocean ca. 1942–3' (R/Adml P.W. Brock, 1975): a graphic c.p., good even if only local and ephemeral. Contrast in the picture. I'm as mild a villain as ever scuttled a ship. A c.p. applied to oneself in a tone of joc. reproach, yet not entirely condemnatory: earlier C.20.

I'm bomb-proof; I'm fire-proof. Army and RAF adaptations of the RN I'm inboard: all = fuck you, Jack, I'm all right, q.v. I'm going to do a job (or something) that no one else can do for me. Used among men by one excusing himself to visit the w.c.: since ca. 1950 (? earlier). (Petch, 1974.) Cf. I've something to do...

I'm going to get my head sharpened. I'm going to get a hair cut: RAF: 1950s. Cf. have one's ears put back, at ears, 3.

I'm in the boat – push off! WW1 army version of: I'm inboard – bugger you Jack! See fuck you, Jack! and Jack policy. This is a C.20 RN version.

I'm not here. See I am not here.

I'm not out for chocolates, just had grapes! 'No thanks!' in an intensive, rather contemptuous form: c.p. of ca. 1905–14. W.L. George, The Making of an Englishman, 1914.

I'm not so green as I'm cabbage-looking. See not so green...

I'm off in a shower (or cloud) of shit. Goodbye!: Can. army: WW2. P.B.: some Brit. Services' use since WW2.

I'm only here for the beer. See only here...

I'm so. Whisky; short for orig. I'm so frisky: rhyming s.: C.20. Lester, 1937, 'A tumbler of hot I'm-so.'

I'm so hungry I could eat a shit sandwich – only I don't like bread! 'A rather repugnant self-explanatory c.p., which is not used in vice-regal circles' (B.P.): Aus.: since ca. 1950. See also hungry enough...

I'm speaking (or talking) to the butcher – not the block. A 'put-down' used by Cockneys to anyone (unqualified to speak) interrupting a discussion; may be used joc.: C.20. DCpp.

I'm sure! Certainly; certainly it is (or was or will be, etc.): lower-class coll.: from ca. 1870. Edwin Pugh, A Street in Suburbia, 1895, "'Ah, that was a funeral!" "I'm sure! Marsh Street ain't likely to see another for many a, etc.'" P.B.: also used for emphasis, as in 'Oh, beg pardon, I'm sure!', where the speaker is taking umbrage against what (usu. she) feels is an unjustified rebuke: proletarian, and occ. middle-class joc.: mid-C.20.

I'm telling you. A c.p. indicative of emphasis: since ca. 1920.

I'm trying to give them up. See have a gorilla!

I'm willing. A shilling: rhyming s.: C.20. Lester.

I'm willing – but Mary isn't, with emphasis upon I and Mary. A c.p. used by a dyspeptic or other stomach-sufferer when some food is offered: C.20. See little Mary.

ima(d)ge. Imagination: ca. 1905–20. A. Neil Lyons, Simple Simon, 1914.

image, esp. in you little image. A term of affectionate reproach: coll.: ca. 1870–1930.

imaginitis. A tendency to imagine things: coll.: since the late 1940s.

imbars bidbib. An army 'motto', current in WW2 and composed of the initial letters of I may be a rotten sod, but I don't believe in bullshit.

imbo. A smpleton; a dupe: Aus. c.: since ca. 1935. (B., 1953.) Prob. ex shortening of imbecile + Aus. gen.-purpose suffix -o.

Immelmann. To have or to get one's own back: aircraft engineers': ca. 1917–37. (Daily Telegraph, 1 Aug. 1936.) Ex the name of a well-known fighter pilot—one of the three greatest German WW1 'aces'. He died in action 18 June 1916. Max Immelmann was known as der Adler von Lille, the eagle of Lille, and his name is commemorated in the aerobic manoeuvre he perfected, the 'Immelmann turn', by which he 'turned the tables' on a pursuing aircraft.

immense. A general superlative; splendid: from ca. 1760. G.A. Stevens, 1771, 'Dear Bragg, Hazard, Loo, and Quadrille,/Delightful, extatic! immense!' Cf. great, adj., q.v. immense, adv. Immensely; very: 1754, Murphy, 'An immense fine Woman'. OED.

immensely. As a mere intensive: coll.: C.19–20. Cf. immense, q.v.

immensikoff. A fur-lined overcoat: ca. 1868–1905. Ex a song, 'The Shoreditch Toff', sung ca. 1868 by Arthur Lloyd, who described himself as Immensikoff and wore a coat heavily lined with fur (F. & H.).

immortal. Excessive; inhuman: coll.: ca. 1540–1650. OED.

immortally. Infinitely; superhumanly: coll.: from ca. 1540.

Immortals. See Old Immortals.

imp. As a mischievous child, S.E.—2. One who prepares cases for a (law) 'devil', q.v.: legal: ca. 1855–1925.

impale. To possess a woman: low: C.19—early 20.

impayable, adj. Beyond anything; 'the limit', 'priceless': coll.: 1818 (SOD); ob. Direct ex Fr.; cf. Fr. c'est impayable!

imperance, -ence; also + impudence. Impudence, impertinence: sol.: 1766, Colman, 'I wonder at your impudence, Mr. Brush, to use me in this manner.'—2. Hence, an impudent person: from ca. 1835. Dickens, in Pickwick, ch. xiv, "Let me alone, impudence," said the young lady.' Corruption of impudence, not a contraction of impertinence. Cf.:

imperent. Impudent; impertinent: sol. James Grant, 1838 (OED). Cf. prec.

imperial, as a tuft of hair on lower lip, has, despite F. & H., always been S.E., but as adj., (of a fall) on one's head, it is sporting s.: 1861. Suggested by imperial crown. Cf. crown, 2—2. See I.M.F.U.

imperial pop. Ginger beer: Cockneys': in 1854. The imperial was in honour of Napoleon III, who in that year passed in state through London. Ware.

imperial raspberry or rocket. A severe or very severe reprimand. See raspberry and rocket.

Imperials, the. British soldiers: Colonial military coll.: 1915–18. F. & G. impixicated. Tipsy: mid-1930s. A blend of intoxicated and pixilated, q.v.

implement, n. 'Tool, a Property or Fool, easily engag'd in any (tho' difficult or Dangerous) Enterprize' (B.E.): coll.: late C.17–18.

implement, v. Fulfil (a promise). Ca. 1927–33 this term was so abused that it might, for that period, be fairly considered as cultured, even pedantic, s.

imp. See impot.

importance. A wife: from ca. 1640; in C.19–20, low coll.; ob. (Rochester.) Less gen. than comfortable importance, q.v.

importunity of friends. Book-world c.p. or coll., ca. 1660–1780: 'the stale Excuse for coming out in Print, when Friends know nothing of the matter' (B.E.). Still a frequent make-believe.

impos. See imposs.—2. Occ. var., from ca. 1890, of impot.

impose. 'To punish (a person) by an imposition': † university and ob. school s.: from ca. 1885. (OED.) Cf.:

imposh. A Public Schools' var. of impot: earlier C.20. E.F. Benson, David Blaize, 1916.

impos or impos. Impossible: coll.: from early 1920s. OED Sup.

impost. That weight which, in a handicap race, a horse has to carry: racing: 1883 (SOD).

impost-taker. A usurer that, attending the gaming tables, lends money at exorbitant interest: ca. 1690–1830: c. (B.E., Grose.) Cf. sixty per cent, q.v.

impot. Schoolboys' contraction of imposition (a punishment-exercise): since ca. 1880; in C.20 coll. In Aus. and NZ, occ. impo; cf. also imposh. At Colston's School, Bristol, it was known as impos.

imprac. Impracticable: coll.:—1923 (Manchon).

improve, on the. Improving: coll., mostly Aus.: from ca. 1925.

improve the occasion, to turn to spiritual profit, seems, ca. 1855–90—nor is it yet †—to have been 'much in use among Chadbands and Stigginses' (H., 5th ed.). H. calls it s., but it is perhaps rather a Nonconformist c.p. Lawrence, in Guy Livingstone, 1857 (OED).

imps or imps. Imperial Tobacco Company shares: Stock Exchange: from ca. 1919.

imps file. A file or dossier on important persons: journalistic: since ca. 1975. John Gardner, To Run a Little Easter, 1976.

impudence. Penis: lower-middle and lower-class women's: ca. 1760–1900. Sessions, July 1783 (no. VI, Part V, p. 723), Margaret Shehan, raped spinster, in evidence, "He put his impudence . . ."—"What, do you mean his private parts?"—"Yes."

impudent stealing. 'Cutting out the backs of coaches, and robbing the seats' (Grose, 2nd ed.): ca. 1788–1830. (Not a mere description (hence S.E.), but a definition).

impure. A harlot: fashionable s. until ca. 1830, then coll.: 1784. Ob. by 1890; † by 1930; being S.E. in C.20.

impureness. See imperance.

Impuritans. People anything but puritanical: since ca. 1950. Ex impurity on Puritan.

imshee, imshi, imshy! Go away!: WW1—mid-C.20; orig. military. Ex Arabic. (Also, intensively, imshee yaller!) imshee (etc.) artillery. Trench-mortar batteries, esp. the 3-inch Stokes: Aus. military: 1915+. Because, after firing, they hurried away.

in, n. Elliptical for 'a way, a means, of getting inside'; lit. and fig.: coll.: later C.20. 'If only we could think of some way of getting an in into the organisation . . .' = how can we get in? (P.B.)—2. Have an in, 'To have a contact in a place to be robbed or in a place where secret negotiations would be advantageous' (Powis): underworld: later C.20. Cf. sense 1.

in, adj.; esp. be in, to be accepted by, and a welcome member of, a group or a place: coll.: esp. Aus.: since ca. 1920. 'Always written within inverted commas' (B.P.)—2. As in in-joke and in-thing, was orig., ca. 1960, coll. chamber's C.20the Dict., 1972 ed., has the former; Paul Beale uses it, early in 1974, as a term long familiar to him. Such idiomatic terms as these are the most difficult to pin-point: implying intimacy, they are themselves so intimate, so unconsciously employed, that one doesn't think to record them. Prob. elliptical for in fashion.

in, adv. In office: C.17–20: political coll. >, in C.19, S.E. Shakespeare.—2. In season: from ca. 1850, though anticipated in C.17: coll. till C.20, then S.E. Mayhew, 1851, 'During July cherries are in as well as raspberries'.

—3. Fashionable: coll.: from ca. 1860.—4. See in it and in with.—5. At the wickets: from ca. 1770: cricket coll. >, ca. 1860, S.E.—6. In c., in prison (—1862). 'It is the etiquette among prisoners never to ask a man what he is in for' (anon., Five Years' Penal Servitude). Cf. inside, adv., q.v.—7. To the good; with a profit (of e.g. £1,000): from ca. 1890: s. >, ca. 1905, coll.—8. In to London: tramps' c.: C.20. W.L. Gibson Cowan, Loud Report, 1937, 'Will you give us a lift in?'—9. In and a bit in, with a little extra; with a tip in addition: coll.:—1923 (Manchon).—10. See well in.

in, preposition: all phrases not found here—and only a few are listed here—must be sought at the dominant n. or pronoun.—2. If suppressed, as before these days (at this time or age), it produces a coll.: C.19–20.—3. 'Within the sphere of (a particular class or order of things)': coll.: 1866, Ruskin, 'The newest and sweetest thing in pinnacles' (OED Sup).

-in' for -ing, when not a coll. affection by the upper and upper-middle classes (huntin', shootin' and fishin', you know), is a low coll. bordering on, and in C.20 considered as in fact being, sol. It is contemporaneous with the whole of Mod. E.

in a flat spin. See flat spin.

in a pig's eye. See pig's eye, 3.

in a spot. See spot, n., 6.

in-and-in. See play at in-and-in, to coit.

in a while, crocodile. See see you later, alligator!

In-and-Out, the. The Naval & Military Club, London: 'From the words "In" and "Out", painted on the pillars of the approach to the courtyard in front' (F. & G.): C.20, among RN and military officers; but Julian Franklyn thinks the nickname originated years earlier among the cab-drivers. In full, The In-and-Out Club.

in-and-out (also, and gen., in pl), inside working, intimate or secret details, is S.E., but the adj., when=variable, uneven (as applied to a horse's 'form'), is sporting s. (—1885) >, in C.20, coll. >, ca. 1930, S.E.—2. An in-and-out is a pauper frequently returning, for short periods, to the workhouse or casual ward: low: from ca. 1880. Ware.—3. Stout (the drink): rhyming s.: late C.19–20. B. & P.—4. Tout: id.: C.20.—5. The nose: rhyming s. on snout: late C.19–20.—6. Gout: rhyming s.: C.20. (6, 7: Franklyn, Rhyming.)—7. Copulation: raffish: late C.19–20. Cf. play at in-and-in, q.v.—8. Continuous turns in (and out of) the trenches: Tommies' coll.: WW1. (Petch, 1966.)

in and out job. A passenger that returns to his point of departure: taxi-drivers': since ca. 1915. Herbert Hodge, 1939.

in-and-out man. An opportunist thief: London's East End: since ca. 1945. (Richard Herd, 12 Nov. 1957.) Quickly in and soon, or furtively, out.

in-and-out shop. 'A shop through which one can walk in and out along a passage, where the goods are hung up for inspection' (OED Sup.): coll., orig. and mainly Londoners': C.20.

in Annie's room. See up in Annie's room.

in dead trouble. See in stook.

in everybody's mess and nobody's watch. A cadger chary of work: a RN c.p. of ca. 1880–1910. Bowen.

in flaggers. In flagrante delicto (caught in the crime): in ca. 1920 in Brit., and ca. 1950 in Aus. (A. Buzo, 1973.) By the 'OXFORD -ER(S)'.

in for, gen. with it. Due to receive punishment, incur trouble: C.17–20. Coll. till late C.18, then S.E.—though not dignified. Cf. the modern for it, q.v.—2. Get it in for (a person) or have it in for (one), to remember to one's disadvantage; to make life as difficult as possible for, to bear a grudge and hence be constantly spiteful to one: (rather low) coll.: since ca. 1860. Derby Day, 1864 (p. 121).

in for (one's) chop, (be). Engaged solely for one's share; esp. for more, if poss.: NZ, since ca. 1920; Aus. since 1940s. 'From the best cut of the carcass' (Alex Buzo, 1973). Cf. chop, n., 3, a share.

in for it. (Of a woman), pregnant: lower classes':—1923 (Manchon). Cf. in for, 1.—2. Drunk: coll.: C.18. One of many synonyms noted in the Gentleman's Magazine, 1770, p. 559. (P.B.) in for patter, adj. and adv. Waiting for trial: c.:—1859; ob. Also in for pound (1887, Baumann.) See patter, n., 4.

in for the plate. Venereally infected: low: ca. 1810–70. Lex. Bal.

in from out. Moored in Scapa Flow between operations: RN: WW1. Peppitt cites M. Brown, Scapa Flow, 1968.

in good arrow. See arrow.

in her (or his) skin. A pert—orig. a smart—evasive c.p. reply to 'Where's so-and-so?': C.16–20. In George Gascoyne, Supposes, 1566; in C.19–20 it has largely been one of the domestic c.pp.

in her Sunday best. With all canvas set: sailing-ships' coll.: mid-C.19–20; ob. Bowen.

in inverted commas or in quotes. 'Have you noticed that, during the past year or so, people have started saying "in inverted commas" or "in quotes" after some phrase just used, and at the same time sketching quotation marks in the air with the forefinger(s) of one or both hands?' (P.B., 1975). I have indeed! Since 1971; but, since 1974, with the gesture usually omitted. Since 1973 an at least incipient c.p., limited to the literate and their would-be imitators. P.B.: the phrase was used either for emphasis; or by way of apology for inability to find the apposite phrase, and the lazy use of the nearest equivalent. The usage was ob. by 1980, although in early 1982 I heard the phrase 'with inverted commas at each end' used on BBC Radio 4.

in it, be. See in with.—2. Sharing in the benefits of robbery or swindle: c.:—1812 (Vaux).—3. See like the man who...—4. To be in trouble: coll.: from ca. 1880. B. & L.—5. To agree to (a suggestion); to share in (an undertaking): Aus.: since ca. 1925. 'I put the hard word on him for a cut [a share, a commission], but he wouldn't be in it'; 'You've got to be in it to win it.'—6. (There's) little or not much or nothing in it, (it's) much of a muchness; virtually no difference: racing s. (ca. 1905) >, by ca. 1912, gen. coll. OED Sup.—7. Play (one's) hand for all there's in it, to one's or its utmost capacity: (somewhat low) coll.: late C.19—earlier 20.

in-laws. One's parents-in-law: 1894 (OED): s. >, ca. 1905, coll. Attributed to Queen Victoria by Blackwood's Magazine, 24 Jan. 1894.

in like Flynn, (be). 'To be well in, to have it made. Refers to the athletic and sexual prowess of the late Australian-born actor' (A. Buzo, 1973): Aus.: later C.20. Hence also in like Errol, but the rhyme makes the main form the more attractive. See DCpp. for more detail, and an independent US source and usage.

in more strife than a pork chop in a synagogue or ... than a pregnant nun. In an extremely embarrassing, difficult, troublesome situation: Aus. (low) coll.: later C.20. (Jack Slater, 1978, notes hearing both forms at Rum Jungle, N.T., in 1959.)

in my book. In my opinion: coll.: since ca. 1950. (P.B.)

in my other hose! Expressive of refusal or disbelief: late C.16–17 coll. (Florio.) The early C.20 equivalent is not in these trousers. Cf. I don't think!, in a horn, (at horn, 6), and over the left, qq.v.

in on. Participating in, admitted to a share of, some thing or some affair of unusual interest or importance: coll.: from ca. 1919. 'Am I to be in on this?'

in Paris. Eloped: Society: mid-C.19—early 20. (Ware.) Because elopers so often went there.

in smoke. In hiding: Aus. and NZ c.:—1932. (B., 1942.) Thereby shrouded.

in stitches. Highly amused, 'in tucks': coll.: C.20. Perhaps ex the 'stitch' brought on by shortage of breath. (P.B.) in stook or in dead trouble. Very short of cash; extremely embarrassed financially: London's East End: since ca. 1945. (Richard Herd, 12 Nov. 1957.) Cf. stook, 3; the 2nd, illiterate for 'in deadly trouble'. Stook sometimes pron. shtook.

in the bag. See bag, n., 8–11.

in the blue. Gone astray, gone wrong; having failed, a failure: army: early C.20. (F. & G.) Perhaps = 'gone off into the blue haze of the horizon'.—2. Hence, in a 'deserted place far away and difficult of access': coll.:—1931 (Lyell). See also blue, n., 13.—3. In debt; in a 'fix': Aus.: since ca. 1927.—4. Out of control: Aus.: since late 1920s. (B., 1942.) Cf. senses 1 and 3.—5. Being a policeman: C.20. M. Allingham, More Work for the Undertaker, 1942.

in the book. See book, n., 12 and 14.

in the cuds. In the hills. See cuds.

in the death. Finally: since ca. 1945; by 1960, also s. (Robin Cook, 1962.) Perhaps a blend of 'in the end' and 'at the death'.

in the drag. Behindhand: tailors':—1909 (Ware).

in the firing line or kept on the jump. In danger of dismissal from one's job; since ca. 1917. Cf. next, 2.

in the gun. Tippy: late C.17—early 19. (B.E.) Ex gun, 1.—2. (Of a person) about to be dismissed from job: Melbourne: ca. 1910–30. I.e. about to be fired.—3. Hence, in trouble: gen. Aus.: since ca. 1920. (Dymphna Cusack, 1951.) Vance Palmer, Legend for Sanderson, 1937, has get (someone) in the gun, and earlier in his 'Rann Daly' novel, The Outpost, 1924.

in the lurch. Church: Aus. rhyming s.: C.20. 'Left in the lurch, waiting at the church.'

in the mood. Desirous of sexual intimacies: euph. coll., mostly feminine ('I'm not in the mood'): late C.19–20.

in the nude (pron. as Cockney, nood). Food: rhyming s.: later C.20. Ronnie Barker, Fletcher's Book of Rhyming Slang, 1979.

in the picture. Aware of what is going on, either immediately, or in a wider context: orig. Services', WW2, it soon > gen. coll., as in 'Is he in the picture about what we're doing tonight?' See: I'm always out of the picture ...; picture, 7.

in the pipeline. Already in train; waiting to be produced; (of measures, things) prepared in anticipation: coll., almost j.; in widespread use: since ca. 1965. (P.B.) Cf. in the works.

in the tub. 'In the bad book of seniors'; (of a ship) having incurred the Admiral's displeasure: RN: late C.19–20. Bowen. Prob. ex tub, n., 2.

in the wind. Drunk; nautical: early C.19–early 20. (Alfred Burton, Johnny Newcome, 1818 (Moe); Bowen.) See three sheets.

in the words of the Chinese poet. A c.p. expressive of disgust on hearing of bad luck or unpleasant instructions: Can.: since ca. 1910. If a friend hears one say this, he is expected to ask, sympathetically, 'What Chinese poet?'—thus affording the opportunity for, 'Ah Shit, the Chinese poet.' By ca. 1919, also current in England, with the var. name Hoo (or Who) Flung Dung.

in the words of the prophet. A joc. c.p. used meaninglessly, and sometimes most inappropriately, to introduced a statement or order, as 'In the words of the prophet—I've really no ideal', or '... get stuffed!': C.20. No particular prophet is meant, although the form is Biblical. (P.B.) in the works. 'In preparation; being effected. "Your two weeks' leave? Oh, yes, it's in the works now. Come back for it at three."' (Leechman.) Can.: since the middle 1940s. Cf. in the pipeline.

in tow with, be. To be courting, as in 'John is in tow with Jane Sullivan' (P.W. Joyce, English ... in Ireland, 1910): Anglo-Irish coll.: late C.19–20. Ex shipping.

in town. 'Flush of money' (Vaux): c. of ca. 1810–60.

in tucks. Highly amused, 'creased with laughter': coll.: C.20. (Mrs Daphne Beale, 1982.) Cf. synon. in stitches and the more modern fall(ing) about; also crack up.

in waiting. On duty: Guards Regiments': C.20. Ex performance of Palace guards. With a pun on lady-in-waiting? P-G-R.

in with (or in it with), be. To be on guard against or 'even with' (a person): low coll.: ca. 1860–1905.—2. To be on intimate or profitable terms with: late C.17–20: coll. till C.19, then S.E. Surtees, in Hillingdon Hall, 'He was in with the players too, and had the entrée of most of the minor theatres.'—3. Hence, to be in partnership with: (orig. low) coll.; in C.20, S.E.: from ca. 1810; Vaux.—4. Hence, in the swim: coll.: from ca. 1860.—5. To be compared with, count beside: coll.:—1889.

in your dipper! NZ expression of defiance: ca. 1920–40. Cf. up yours!

inboard, n. 'A motor permanently installed inside the hull [of a small boat]' (Leechman): Can. coll.: since ca. 1935. See also kicker, 3.—2. See I'm inboard.

Inch and Pinch. Gallipoli Peninsula: NZ soldiers': 1915; ob. Ex 'Peninsula' reversed. Cf. Pinch an Inch. [For an account of E.P.'s experience as an Anzac at Gallipoli, see his moving share in Three Personal Records of the War, 1929. R.H. Mottram and John Easton wrote the other two.]

inch before (or beyond) (one's) nose, not to (be able to) see. To find oneself in the dark: C.17–20 coll. Apperson cites two examples of the now rare affirmative.

inch in, v.i., to encroach, seems to have been coll. in C.17–18. (B.E., Grose.) So too the vbl. n., inching-in.

incident. An illegitimate child: Society: adopted, before 1909 (Ware), ex US; ob. by 1930.—2. There are no occasions, occurrences, or events in an airman's life. Anything that happens to him is an "incident" ... why, nobody knows' (H. & P.): coll. since 1938.

include me out! Leave me out: since late 1940s. Ex one of the few genuine Goldwynisms. 'Most of the zany cracks attributed to Sam Goldwyn are the work of Hollywood gagmen' (Petch).

including the kitchen sink. See kitchen sink.

incog. A coll. abbr. of incognito, n., adj., and adv.: resp. from ca. 1690, 1705, 1709. B.E., Gray, Disraeli.—2. Intoxicated: ca. 1820–1900: low. (Bee.) Ex cog(ue), a dram, by way of disguised, q.v.

incognita. A disguised harlot: fashionable s. > coll.: C.18. Cf. anonyma, q.v.

income-tax. Those periodical fines to which they are subject for soliciting: prostitutes': since ca. 1930. New Statesman, 10 May 1947.

incon(e)y. 'Rare, fine, delicate, pretty, nice': fashionable s. of the c.p. kind: ca. 1585–1640. (Shakespeare, 1588.) ?etym.—Also adv. (OED.) increase. Another baby: bourgeois joc.: C.20.—I.e. in (or of) the family.

Incubator, the. HMS King Alfred (a shore establishment), 'where embryo R.N.V.R. officers are trained': RN: since ca. 1939. Granville.

incumbrances. Children: (?low) coll.: C.19–20. Gen. encumbrances.

incy, pron. insy. An incendiary bomb: Services': 1940–5. (H. & P.) Prob. ex abbr. in written reports (P.B.).

indaba. A(n) important) meeting or conference: from ca. 1907: S. African coll. >, ca. 1920, s. Ex indaba, 'a native council meeting for the discussion of business important to the tribe' (Pettman).

indeed and indeed! Really and truly: coll.: from ca. 1670. Wycherley, 'Indeed and indeed, father, I shall not have him' (OED).

indentures, make. To stagger with drink: C.17–18 coll. Rowlands; Franklin, Drinker's Dict., 1745. (The legal documents had their tops or edges indented, mainly for identification.) Apperson. For fuller form, see TAVERN TERMS, §8, in Appendix.

indescrībables. Trousers: coll. (joc.): 1794. (Dickens.) Of this orig. euph., but by 1850 joc. and semi-satirical group, the two commonest synonyms are inexpressibles and unmentionables, qq.v.; others are indispensables, ineffables, inexplicables, innuminables, unutterables and unwhisperables. The earliest is inexpressibles (1790), the latest unutterables. By 1900, all except indescrībables, indispensables, inexpressibles, and unmentionables were †; the second > † ca. 1920. Not belonging to this class, yet cognate, is sit-upons (—1860).

index. The nose: sporting: 1817; ob. Cf. gnomon, q.v.—2. The face: (low) coll., or s. > coll.: from ca. 1818; ob. (Egan.) Cf. dial, 2.

India. 'Cannabis' (Home Office): drug-users': 1970s. [—2. As 'the female pudend', it is literary rather than coll. Donne.]

India husband. That actual owner of an East Indian who chartered her to the Company: nautical coll.: mid-C.18–mid-19. (Bowen.) By deviation from S.E. ship's husband.

India-rubber gun. A German high-velocity gun, e.g. the ·77: army: WW1.

India-rubber man. A physical training instructor. See bunjie.

India wipe. A silk handkerchief: ca. 1790–1840: low. (Grose, 3rd ed.) See wipe, n, 2.

Indian, he's a regular; he's on the Indian list. A Can. c.p., applied to habitual drunkards, esp. to one to whom it is illegal to sell liquor: since ca. 1925. It is illegal to sell liquor to Indians coming from any of the settlements or reserves. (F.E.L. Priestley.)

indicated, ppl adj. (Always with v. to be.) Necessary (occ.); (gen.) desirable, advisable: coll.: from ca. 1915. E.g., 'a drink was indicated'. Ex S.E. sense, to suggest, to point to.

Indies. See Black Indies, Newcastle, etc.

indigragger. Indignation: Aldenham School: C.20. (Marples.) See -agger and cf.:

indijaggers. Indigestion: Oxford undergraduates' and Public Schools': from ca. 1908. In, e.g., D.L. Sayers, Strong Poison, 1930 (used by Lord Peter Wimsey); Nancy Spain, Poison for Teacher, 1949; and used to good satirical effect by Posy Simmonds in her admirably observant weekly cartoon-strip in the Guardian, late 1970s. (E.P.; P.B.)

Indispensables, the; occasionally, the Loyal Standbacks. 'Those who, although fit and of military age, were kept at home working. This is from The Fencibles, name of the old militia. Another term used was The Loyal Standbacks' (Petch, 1966), on the analogy of several regimental names: servicemen's: WW1.

indispensables. Trousers: coll.: 1841 (OED); by 1900 + by 1920. Cf. indescrībables, q.v.

individual, when merely = person, dates from ca. 1740: until ca. 1870, S.E.; then coll. when contemptuous, low coll. > sol. when unintentional. See esp. Fowler.

Indo. Indonesia; Indonesian, adj. and n.: Aus. journalistic coll.: since late 1950s. (B.P.) Cf.:-

Indon. n. and adj. Indonesian: Services', esp. during the period of 'Confrontation' against Sukarno's Indonesian forces in Borneo, 1962-6. Influenced by commonly used abbr. in written reports. (P.B.)

indorse; more gen. endorse. To cudgel. Esp. indorse with a cudgel. Coll. (—1785); † by 1880. With a pun on † dorse, the back. Grose, 1st ed.—2. V. t. and i., to practise sodomy (on): low: C.18. Whence:- indorser. A sodomite: low: from early C.18; ob. by 1870; † by 1900. An early occurrence is in James Dalton, A Narrative, 1728, p. 34.

indulge, as in 'He doesn't indulge'. To take strong drink, whether habitually or incidentally: late C.19-20; by 1930, coll.—2. To have sexual intercourse: Aus.: joc. rather than euphr.: since ca. 1930. (B.P.)—3. 'Take free, non-duty passage in RAF transport aircraft' (Strong & Hart-Davis, Fighter Pilot, 1981). Ex the j. 'indulgence flight', Service term since early 1950s, poss. earlier.

industrial dungeon. Engine room: RN, esp. HM submarine Astute: mid-1960s. (John Malin, 1979.)

Indy. India: C.16-20: until C.18, S.E.; then coll. till late C.19, when it > sol.

ineffable, the female pudend, is a literary synonym, but as one not to be named, an anonymous journalist (1859), or a tremendous swell (1861, †), it is coll., while ineffables, trousers, is a coll.: 1823 (OED); ob. by 1880, † by 1900. Leigh Hunt, 'The eatables were given up for the ineffables'.

inexplicables. Trousers: coll.: Dickens, 1836, in Boz: † by 1890. Cf. indescrībables and:

inexpressibles. Trousers: coll.: from ca. 1790. Grose, 3rd ed. Wolcot; Dickens, 'Symmetrical inexpressibles, and scented pocket-handkerchief'. Cf. indescrībables, q.v.

infant. Walter Hancock's steam-carriage, 1832: coll.: 1832-ca. 1840.

infanteer. An infantry man: army joc.; orig. Royal Artillery, but in later C.20 used by any non-infantry army or branch. On analogy with musqueteer, carbineer, etc. (E.P.; P.B.)

infantile. Infantile paralysis: coll.: since ca. 1910; originally, medical; only since ca. 1945 at all general. P.B.: by ca. 1950, the term polio, short for poliomyelitis, had > more gen.

infantry. Children: from 1613; in C.17-18, S.E.; in C.19-20 (ob.), joc. coll. Jonson describes a teacher as 'terror to the infantry'.—2. See light infantry.

Infants, the. The Infantry: cavalrymen's: late C.19-early 20. Cf. the derogatory reverse, gee-gees; and infanteer.

inferior. Any non-prefect member of the school: Winchester College: from ca. 1840; ob. Mansfield.

Inferior Portion, the. The younger Tories: political: 1885-ca. 90. Ex a Gladstone-written phrase, which 'took at once, and was satirically used' (Ware).

inferiority complex. See complex.

infernal. Execrable, detestable, excessive: coll.: 1764 (SOD).—2. In C.17-early 19, sometimes an adv.: 1646, Lady Mary Verney, 'Besides coaches which are most: infer[n]ell dear.'

infernally. An intensive adv.: C.19-20. Ex the idea of hellish(ly), q.v.

infernals. A coll. ellipsis of infernal machines as applied to sea-mines: Crimean War (1854-6). Peppitt cites R.F. Mackay, Fisher of Kiberstone, 1973.

Infinitely More So. A pun on the initials I.M.S, the Indian Medical Service: earlier C.20. (Carew.) Cf. The Heaven(-)born, the Indian Civil Service.

infirmary. See answer's in the infirmary.

infla. An occ. var., early C.20, of flu, short for influenza. Manchon, 1923.

influence. See 'fluence.

influence in the right quarter, have. A virtual c.p., naively ironic, applied to a man that has got a menial or otherwise distasteful job: NZ soldier's: WW1.

info. Information: perhaps orig. Aus., mostly low and esp. among racing touts, since ca. 1930 (E.P.); but it had, by 1940, > very widely known—and coll. Moreover, by 1955, it was, in the Services, also used as v., 'to inform'; this usage ex the 'copy to' lists appended to signals and letters, '[for] info[rmation] off'. (P.B.) Cf.:-

infor. Information: C.20: convicts' c. until ca. 1940, then gen. prison s. Jim Phelan, Jail Journey, 1940.

infra dig. Unbecoming (act); undignified: coll.: 1824 (SOD). Scott. Abbr. infra dignitatem.—Hence, 2. Scornful, proud: Winchester College: from ca. 1860. Also sport infra-dig duck, to look scornful: id. Wrench.

-ing added to a n., e.g. admiralling, indicates the active state of being that which the n. (e.g. admiral) denotes. Often prec. by a-, as in 'Hudibras' Butler's a-colonelling. Certain final consonants of the original n. are doubled. Coll.

Ingee, Injee. India: late C.18—late 19. As n. and as adj., it occurs frequently in the works of W.N. Glascock—e.g. The Naval Sketch-Book, 1825-6, and Sailors and Saints, 1829. Baumann records it, with injee-rubber, 1887. Cf. the injun of honest injun!

ingie-bungie. See bunjie.

ingle, a catamite, and v., to sodomise, to caress, are, despite F. & H., ineligible, as is ingler, a sodomist; but we may note ingle used (from ca. 1840) catachrestically for an open fireplace; ingle-nook, the female pudend, is a mere literary synonym.

ingler. A dishonest horse-dealer: ca. 1820-1910. The Modern Flash Dict., 1825.

ingot(t)ed. Rich: coll. (in C.20, S.E.): ca. 1860-1905. (E. Yates.) Cf. inlaid.

Iniskillen men. The militia: late C.17-18 pej. Ex a regiment 'fam'd... in the late Irish Wars' (B.E.).

injection. A bullet: c.: since ca. 1960. Petch cites a report, June 1968, of the Kray brothers' trial.—2. In by Dutch (or French or German, etc.) injection, a Londoners' c.p. dating from ca. 1925 and applied to a woman living, as wife or as mistress, with a foreigner. Punning by extraction (or birth) and the act of copulation; cf. meat-injection.

Injun. See honest Indian!

injury. Euph. for 'rupture', in the (usu. joc.) c.p. don't do yourself an injury!, to someone about to lift something heavy: since ca. 1950, at latest. Noted by Prof. A.S.C. Ross, in U and Non-U Revisited, 1978. (P.B.)

ink. In ink, to be journalistically occupied: journalists': since ca. 1910.—2. In sling ink. See ink-slinger.

ink-bottle. A clerk: artisans':—1909 (Ware); ob. by 1940.

ink in (one's) pen. Since ca. 1910, an occ. var. of lead in (one's) pencil, q.v., sexual vigour. Contrast:—2. Have no ink in (one's) pen, to be penniless, occ. witless: C.16-17 coll.

Ink-Line, The. Fleet Street: London taxidriver's: from ca. 1905. (Evening News, 20 Jan. 1936.) Cf. cold blow, Pill Avenue, Spion Kop, 2. qq.v.

ink-slinger. An author, a journalist: coll.: adopted, ca. 1890, ex US. Milliken.—2. Occ., in late C.19-20, a clerk; esp. in RN, where used for a purser's clerk, as in Goodenough, 1901. Cf. inky fingers and ink-slinging.

Ink-Slingers, the. An occ. nickname for the Army Pay Department (1878), later (1920), the Royal Army Pay Corps: army. (Carew.)

ink-slinging. Authorship, journalism: coll.: from ca. 1890. Milliken.—2. In C.20, occ. 'clerking'. Cf.:

ink-spiller. A clerk: Cockney:—1887 (Baumann). Cf. ink-slinger, 2.

inked. Tippy: Aus.: since late C.19. (Wilkes.) Cf. inky, adj., 2.

Inky. Inevitable nickname for any man surnamed Black: earlier C.20. (Petch, 1974.)

inky, n. See MOVING-PICTURE SLANG, §3, in Appendix.

inky, adj., often as a one-word reply evasive of a direct answer; 'can't talk about it now!': tailors': from ca. 1860; ob. Cf. S.E. dirty.—2. Tippy: orig. (ca. 1915) military; ob. (F. & G.; Manchon.) Perhaps suggested by blotto, q.v.

inky blue. "A touch of the inky blue" means flu [influenza] (Muvver): rhyming s.: later C.20.

inky fingers. The Accountant staff; one of them: RN: since ca. 1920. (P-G-R.) Cf. ink-slinger, 2, q.v.

inky smudge. A judge: underworld rhyming s.: late C.19–20. Gilt Kid, 1936.

inlaid; well-inlaid. Rich; temporarily in funds: late C.17–early 19. (B.E.; Grose.) Cf. ingotted, q.v., and Yorkshire inlaid for, provided with.

inland navy and waterborne were applied, by the army, to British and Canadian troops using Ducks and Buffaloes for fighting in the flooded areas between Nijmegen and Cleve: 1944–5. (P-G-R.) P.B.: code names for amphibious vehicles.

inn of court. See TAVERN TERMS, §3, in Appendix.

Inn of the Morning Star. See at the inn...

innards. The stomach; guts: C.19–20; orig. euph., then, ca. 1870, coll.; in C.20 regarded as low coll. Corruption of S.E. inwards. Hence, fill (one's) innards, to eat: low coll.: since ca. 1860.—2. The internal mechanism of any mechanical or electronic appliance: coll.: C.20. (B.P.) inner, the. 'The enclosure of a racecourse' (Baker): Aus. sporting coll.: since ca. 1910.

inner being (—1923) or inner man (from ca. 1855), the. The stomach; one's appetite: joc. coll. Esp. in satisfy the inner man. Ex the i. m., the mind, the soul. Cf. inside lining and M. le Ministre de l'Intérieur.

innings. As a spell, a turn, is S.E. ex cricket; but have a good or long innings, to be lucky, esp. in money matters; to live a long time, were both coll. from ca. 1860: in C.20, S.E. Cf. 'to have had a (good) long innings', to die at a ripe old age, and 'not out (96)', 96 and still alive, another cricketing image.

innocent, n. and adj., half-wit(ted), is S.E. (latterly dial.).—2. An undeserved term of imprisonment: c.:—1896 (Ware).

innocent as a devil of two years old (, as). A mocking assent to a declaration of innocence: coll.: ca. 1660–1770. Ray, Swift. (Apperson.) The equivalent new-born babe (or child unborn) simile is S.E.

innocent of. Free from, devoid of: coll.: 1706 Addison (OED). innocents, massacre or slaughter of the. 'Devoting to extinction a number of useful measures which there was not time to pass' (The Times, 20 July 1859): Parliamentary: the former from—1859, the latter from—1870.

innominables. Trousers: coll.: ca. 1835–90. (Southey.) Cf. indescrībables, q.v.

inns a court is a coll. form of inns of court: C.17–early 19. OED.

inoc. An inoculation: Services coll.: since ca. 1930. (Part-ridge, 1945.) Cf. jab, n., 3.

inquest. A joc. var., esp. among players at whist drives, of post mortem, 2, q.v.: since ca. 1946.

inquiry. An inquiry: London joc.: ca. 1885–1900. (Baumann.) Prob. ex Essex dial.

inquisitive. A magistrate: white-slavers' c.: late C.19–20. Londres.

ins and outs. See in-and-out; you want to know...

insane, when applied to things, is coll.: from ca. 1845.

insanitary suspecter. A sanitary inspector: joc.:—1935. P.B.: Punch was making fun of the illiterate housemaid with 'Please, ma'am, it's the insanitary spectre' very early in C.20.

insects and ants, often simply insects. Trousers; knickers: C.20. Rhyming on pants.

insecty. Abounding in, or of the nature of, insects: coll.: 1859, Alex. Smith (OED).

598

inside, n. A passenger riding inside a vehicle: coll.: 1798 (SOD); ob. (Scott.) Cf. outside, 1.—2. The entrails: coll. and dial.: from ca. 1740. Also in pl: from ca. 1760.—3. In the innermost circle of the underworld: c.: from ca. 1910. Pawnshop Murder: 'A man's got to be right on the "inside" before he'll get as much as a breath over the "grapevine"'.—4. See Inside, below.

inside; adj. Secret, intimate, trustworthy (information): from ca. 1880: coll. till C.20, when S.E.

inside, adv. Inside a prison: c.:—1888 (Ware).

Inside, the. Central Aus.: Aus. coll.: late C.19–20. Ex coll. inside, in the interior. Hence, Insider, one either born or long resident in this region. All three terms occur in the one or the other of Tom Ronan's Vision Splendid, 1954, and Moleskin Midas, 1956.

inside and outside! A low coll. toast of ca. 1805–50. (Lex. Bal.) Abbr. the inside of a cunt and the outside of a gaol. Cf. tight cuts...

inside country; inside squatter. 'Well-populated country near or in coastal areas'; hence, a farmer or large landowner in such country: Aus. rural coll.: C.20. (B., 1959.) Inside squatter since ca. 1870.

inside job. A crime, esp. a burglary, a theft, committed by, or with the help (e.g., vital information, door left unlocked and unbolted) of someone inside the house or the business premises (e.g. a bank): orig., ca. 1920, c. and police s., both US and within the Dominions—later called the Commonwealth nations; by 1935, at latest, used more generally. (Recorded by Webster's International, 1934.)

inside lining. Food and drink, a meal. Esp. in get an inside lining. Low coll.:—1851; slightly ob. by 1930. (Mayhew.) Cf. inner being.

inside of. Within (of time): mid-C.19–20. coll., mostly Colonial ex US. 'Rolf Boldrewood', 1888, 'He knocked the seven senses out of him inside of three rounds.'

inside of a(n). 'The middle or main portion of a period of time, exclusive of the beginning and end' (OED): coll.: from ca. 1890; ob. Hardy, in Tess, 'Home for the inside of a fortnight.' Ex prec.

inside of everything, know the. To be especially well informed: from ca. 1880: coll. till C.20, then S.E.

inside out of, take the. To empty (a glass); gut (a book): coll.:—1843; ob. Moncrieff, 'Haven't you taken the inside out of that quart of gatter yet?' (See gatter.)

inside running. An advantage: late C.19–20: orig. a sporting coll.; in C.20, S.E. 'The inside track of a curved race-course being shorter than the outside' (W.). Cf. inside track, q.v.

inside squatter. See inside country.

inside the mark. Moderate: coll.: adopted, ex US,—1909 (Ware); ob. by 1940.

inside the probable. Probable; within probability: coll.:—1909; perhaps orig. American, certainly ob. (Ware.) Cf. prec.

inside track. The truth: sporting s. > coll.: ca. 1880–1930. Cf. have the inside running, i.e. an advantage, and inside information, valuable 'tips'.—2. In be on (or have) in inside track, to be safe or at a point of vantage; (with of) to understand thoroughly: sporting s. >, by 1890, coll.: from ca. 1865; ob. See inside running.

inside walkee. A screw-steamer: nautical: late C.19–20. Bowen, 'Borrowed from "Pidgin" English.'

inside worry, do an. To copulate: low coll.: from ca. 1840.

insides. See inside, n., 2.

insinuator. A slow, twisting ball: cricketers' joc. coll.: 1845; ob. Lewis.

insinuating. Usu. in pl (—oes). A coll. blend of insinuation + inuendo. Herbert Adams, The Chief Witness, 1940.

-insky. A comic suffix added to almost any word; often abbr. to -sky, as in buttsinsky, one who butts in. C.20. Prob. ex US.—2. Also in imitation of Russian, as is offsky.

inspector of city buildings. One who, looking for work, hopes he won't find it: Aus.: since ca. 1920. (B., 1943.) Cf. inspector of public...

inspector of manholes. A sanitary inspector: since ca. 1920.—2. A male homosexual: low: since ca. 1930. P.B.: but see also entries at manhole.

inspector of pavements. A person in the pillory: ca. 1820–40. Egan.—2. A man out of work: from ca. 1840; ob. by 1914, † by 1920; also as:

inspector of public buildings. A man out of work: from ca. 1870; † by 1920.

inspire. To impart—unavowedly—a tendential, esp. an official tone to an article: journalists':—1884; orig. coll.: in C.20, gen. S.E. Daily Telegraph, 14 Feb. 1889, 'All the inspired papers keep laying stress upon this fact.'

inspired. Tipsy: coll.: C.19–20; ob.—2. See inspire.

instalment mixture. 'Rain is "Instalment Mixture"—at least, to owner-drivers. The owner-driver is a "mush", and when still buying his cab, a "starving mush". Rain is sometimes referred to by journeyman drivers, therefore, as "Mush's Lotion". Otherwise it is simply "Franny" (France and Spain)' (Herbert Hodge, Cab, Sir?, 1939): taxi-drivers' terms: since ca. 1910.

instant, n. Powdered coffee, as in 'a big tin of instant'. See:

instant mum. A foster mother: since ca. 1960. 'From the common use of "instant" [as applied] to certain food products [esp. coffee]' (Petch, 1969).

institution. A widely recognised and established practice or object; an idea, an invention: coll.: 1839; ex US. (1788). In C.20, almost S.E. OED.

instrument-basher. An instrument-mechanic: Services'. See basher, 5. instrumentation. 'Erroneously used for: Performance of instrumental music; playing on instruments (with reference to style) 1856' (OED).

insult, the. One's pay: RN (lowerdeck): since ca. 1925. Granville.

insurance-anchor. A spare bower: merchant-servicemen's joc. coll.: late C.19–20. Bowen.

inay. See incy.

in't, i'nt. An † coll. abbr. of is not via isn't: ca. 1740–1850. OED.

in't. Abbr. († except in poetry, where archaic) of in it: except in poetry, coll.: C.17–19. OED.

int. A sharper: C.17 c. Brathwayte, 'His nippis, ints, bungs and prinados.' ?ex interest or ex L. intus.

intellects. Intellectual power(s); 'wits': late C.17–20: S.E. until ca. 1860, then—when not an archaic survival—coll.: from ca. 1890, low coll. OED.

intelligence department. The head: joc.: ca. 1916–30.

intelligencer. See TAVERN TERMS, §6 end, in Appendix.

intended. A prospective and affianced husband or wife: coll.: 1767 (SOD). Gen. as my, your, etc. intended.

intense. Serious: soulful: coll.: ca. 1878–1920. Du Maurier, 1889, Fair Aesthetic to Smith who has just been introduced, "Are you intense?"—2. Hence, excited; excitable: Society coll.: from ca. 1920. Evelyn Waugh, Vile Bodies, 1930, "Darling, I am so glad about our getting married." "So am I. But don't let's get intense about it."

intentions. One's hitherto unavowed intention in regard to a proposal of marriage: coll.: 1796 (Jane Austen: SOD). Only of the man, esp. if bashful or 'dishonourable'.

Inter. The University of London Intermediate Examination: from ca. 1870 until the advent of the GCE 'O' and 'A' level examinations in 1950: coll. in C.20; orig. s. Cf. matric, which, likewise, was orig. an abbr.—2. Hence, adj., as in Inter arts: late C.19–20.—3. Esp. the Third Inter, the Third International: Socialist coll.: post-WWI. James Cleugh, Orgy by Numbers, 1934.

inter-uni. Inter-university: Aus. coll.: C.20. (B., 1942.)

intercom. Inter-communication telephonic system of an aircraft, ship, etc.: orig., ca. 1936, RAF coll.; by 1939, all-Services' j. Michie & Graebner, Their Finest Hour, 1940.—2. Hence, of a factory, a school, a business, a post office, etc.: coll.: since ca. 1946.

intercourse. Exhausted, 'done up': joc. pedantic for fucked. Nigel Dempster, in the Telegraph Sunday mag., 11 Mar. 1979, notes it as a new 'in' word, with the example: "How was the office, darling?"—"I feel utterly intercoursed".

interested. See men are interested ... and not (or not much) interested ...

interesting condition, be in an. To be with child: coll.: from ca. 1745. Smollett, 'I cannot leave her in such an interesting condition'; Dickens, in Nicholas Nickleby.

interflora. Love-making: among the Flower Boy and Girl 'hippies', esp. in London: 1967. Intercourse between 'Flowers', with a pun on Interflora, the large firm of florists. (Communicated by Max Mack, 1967.)

interloper. An unlicensed trader, interfering smuggler; hanger-on; busybody: C.16–20; ob. Coll. till ca. 1750, then S.E. Minsheu; B.E.

internal economy. 'You aren't in the best of spirits when your internal economy feels like a skittle alley in full swing' (J. Milne, quoting a soldier with typhoid in the S.African War: Epistles of Atkins, 1902). Cf. the C.20 Services' j. 'interior economy', more familiarly known as 'bulling the billet'. (P.B.)

international fuck-your-buddy week. See what is this?

international milk thief (or gas-meter screwsman). 'Ironic terms for a petty thief' (Powis): police s.: 1970s.

internatter. An international player: Oxford undergraduates': from the middle 1890s. Charles Turley, Godfrey Marten, Undergraduate, 1904, 'He is an "internatter", you see, and I don't think he ever forgets it.' By the 'OXFORD -ER'.

interrogative QRN. 'An offer of sexual dalliance. QRN, preceded by the interrogative prefix in Morse="Are you being interfered with?" It arose, ca. 1950, among Royal Navy communicators' (Peppitt). P.B.: pace Lt Cdr Peppitt, but QRM seems more likely, since that signifies 'man-made interference' (other signals) as opp. QRN which means 'natural interference' (static from electrical storms, etc.). The joke has helped for many years to lighten the rigours of learning morse and the 'Q' code.

interrupter. An interpreter: joc. Can. mispronunciation (Civil Service): since ca. 1910. (Leechman.) Powis, 1977, notes it as 'A court interpreter' (sc. court of law).

into. To be into (a man), to fight him: coll.:—1864 (H., 2nd ed.) Cf. pitch into, slip into, qq.v. and contrast:—2. Be (or get) into (a woman), 'To possess a woman carnally' (F. & H.): low coll.: C.19–20. Cf. be or get up, at up, prep.—3. Be into (something), to be very interested, involved in, and hence enthusiastic about that thing; a vogue usage, adopted ex US, current in 1970s. Charles M. Schulz, the famous American cartoonist, 'sent up' the usage, 1978, in his strip 'Peanuts', by depicting the dog-character Snoopy 'saying' of his little bird friend: 'Woodstock is into macramé. He's also into running, and he's into poetry, He's into meditation and he's into genealogy. Actually, he's into "into"!'. (P.B.) into (a person) for (a sum of money), be. To owe a person so-much, to have let him down for a stated amount: Can. coll.: late C.19–20. John Beames, Gateway, 1932, 'I wouldn't give that fellow Dow much rope ... He's into me for ninety dollars, and I can't get a cent out of him.'

into (the middle of) next week. Violently, even fatally. See week, 1.

into the blue. With no horizon whatsoever: Mediterranean skin-divers': since ca. 1955. (Granville, letter, 1964.)—2. See blue, n., 13.

intro. An introduction (to a person): coll.: 1899, Clarence Rook; Michael Harrison, see the quot'n at cold-canvass.

introduce Charley (or -ie). Of the male: to coit: C.20. The penis is frequently personified.

introduce (the) shoemaker to (the) tailor. To kick on the posterior: lower classes':—1909 (Ware); ob. by 1930.

[invade.] To grope, or to coit with, a woman: C.17–19. A literary euph., as are F. & H.'s be improperly intimate, or have improper intercourse, with, and intercrural trench.] invalid fire. Enfilade fire: army: 1915–18. It caused many casualties.

Invalids, the. The 41st Regt of Foot. See quot'n at Fogies. invalidish, invalidly. Valetudinarian; rather ill: coll.: resp. 1855 (in C.20, S.E.), 1894. SOD.

inveigle. To wheedle (one) out of something: coll.: from ca. 1845; ob. E. E. Napier, 1849, 'He managed to "inveigle" me out of sixpence' (OED).

Inventions; Inventories. The Inventions Exhibition, London, 1885: coll.: 1885; ob. by 1900, † by 1920. (Ware.) Cf. Colinderies, Fisheries, Healtheries, qq.v.

inverted commas. See in inverted...

invest, v.i. (v.t. with in). To spend money (on), lay out money (for): coll.: from ca. 1860.

inveterate. Obstinately prejudiced; malignant, virulent; embittered: C.16–20. S.E. till ca. 1860, then coll.; in C.20, low coll. Dickens, 1861, 'I felt inveterate against him' (OED).

Invincibles. Invincible Brotherhood: Fenian coll.: 1883–ca. 1900. Ware.—2. Preston North End Football Club in 1888–89, when they 'won the League Championship without losing a match and... the F.A. Cup without having a goal scored against them' (Athletic News Football Annual: 1935–6): sporting coll.: 1888–90.

invisibles. Invisible exports: economic and financial circles' coll.: since ca. 1956.

invite, n. An invitation: late C.16–20. At first S.E., then coll. since ca. 1815 (Spy, 1825); in C.20 low coll. if not indeed sol. Dickens, 'The invites had been excellently arranged'.

inwards. See innards.

Iodines, the. The Australian Army Medical Corps: Aus. soldiers': 1939+. (B., 1942.) Cf. poultice-walloper.

-ious as a pej. suffix tends to be s. or coll. E.g., robustious. ipe. RN adaptation of hipe, q.v., a rifle: C.20. H.&P. ipeccac. A coll. abbr. of ipeccacuanha: late C.18–20: S.E. until ca. 1890, then coll.

Ips. Ypres: military coll.: 1914–18. (B.&P.) Also Eeps, and Wipers, q.v.

ipsal dixal. An unsupported statement: Cockney:—1860; ob. by 1895, † by 1910. (H., 2nd ed.) Ex ipse dixit.

ira. Hair: homosexuals': current ca. 1970. Centre s.

Irish, n. Irish whiskey: from ca. 1880; ob.: coll. verging on S.E. (Crackanthorpe.) But see TAVERN TERMS, §3c, in Appendix, for its use in C.17.—2. Anger: orig. dial. >, ca. 1870, s. See also Irish up and cf. paddy, a synonym. Presumably ex Irish impetuosity.—3. Three cold Irish. See Fenian.—4. A wig: show business rhyming s., on Irish jig: C.20. (Red Daniells, 1980.) Cf. synonym syrup, 2.

Irish, adj. A derogative: from ca. 1690. In addition to the ensuing phrases, there are many in dial. (see esp. Grose, P.). Probably ex Irish uncouthness and lack of general education before C.19. Many of the phrases are forerunners of the 'Irish joke' so prevalent in the 1970s.—2. In weep Irish, to shed insincere tears: C.19–20: coll. verging on S.E.—3. In You're Irish, you're talking gibberish: low coll.: C.19–20.—4. See too bloody Irish!

Irish apricot. A potato: late C.18–19. (Grose, 1st ed.) C.19 variants, Irish apple or lemon. 'It is a common joke against the Irish vessels, to say that they are loaded with fruit and timber; that is, potatoes and broomsticks' (Grose).

Irish Arms, the; occ. Irish arms. Thick legs: mid-C.18–mid-19. 'It is said of the Irish women', remarks Grose, 1st ed., 'that they have a dispensation from the Pope to wear the thick end of their legs downwards'. Also Irish legs.

Irish as Paddy's (or Patrick's or Pat's) pig; or, Irish as Paddy Murphy's pig. Very Irish indeed: coll.: from ca. 1890. Cf. straight from the bog, q.v.

Irish assurance. 'A bold forward behaviour' (Grose, 1st ed.): mid-C.18–mid-19. Cf. dipped in the Shannon, q.v. at Shannon.

Irish battleship or man-of-war. A barge: RN: mid-C.19–early 20. (Bowen.) Irish man-of-war is also Thames-side joc.: late C.19–20.

Irish beauty. A woman with two black eyes: mid-C.18– early 19. (Grose, 3rd ed.) With allusion to pretty, black-eyed colleens.

Irish compliment. A back-handed, an oblique, compliment: C.19–20; by ca. 1920, rather ob. Fredk Chamier, The Life of a Sailor, 1832, at II, 157. (Moe.)

Irish confetti. Brickbats: C.20. Gerald Kersh, I Got References, 1939.

Irish draperies. (Exceedingly rare in sing.) Cobwebs: (English) lower classes':—1909 (Ware).

Irish evidence. False evidence; a perjured witness: late C.17–mid-19. B.E., 1699, has 'Knight of the Post, c. a Mercenary common swearer, a Prostitute to every Cause, an Irish Evidence'.

Irish fortune. Pudendum muliebri and patters: C.19. Cf. Whitechapel fortune, and portion, qq.v.

Irish guinea-man. A ship full of emigrants: naval: ca. 1810–40. (Basil Hall, 1832.) P.B.: prob. a ref. to the slave trade from the Guinea coast.

Irish harp. A long-handled shovel: Can. railway-builders: since ca. 1905. (Leechman.) Cf. banjo, n., 2, and Mexican dragline.

Irish horse. Salt meat; corned beef: nautical:—1887; ob. Baumann.

Irish hurricane. 'A flat calm with drizzling rain': nautical: mid-C.19–20. Bowen.

Irish jig. A wig: rhyming s.: later C.20. (Haden-Guest, 1972.) Often shortened to Irish.

Irish legs. See Irish arms.

Irish lemon. See Irish apricot.

Irish Mail. Potatoes: nautical, esp. RN: C.20. (H. & P.) So many potatoes are shipped from Ireland to Britain.

Irish man-of-war. See Irish battleship.

Irish mile. A mile plus: coll.: late C.19–20.

Irish pennants. Flag-ends of ropes, etc.: nautical: C.19–early 20. W.N. Glascock, Sailors and Saints, 1829 (Moe); Bowen.

Irish promotion. See Irish rise.

Irish rifle. A small comb: from ca. 1840; † by 1920.

Irish rise. A reduction in pay or position: coll.: ca. 1850–1910. Also Irish promotion.

Irish root. The penis: low: ca. 1830–1914. Cf. Irish toothache.

Irish rose. Nose: rhyming s.: C.20. Franklyn 2nd.

Irish theatre. A guard-room: military:—1864: ob. by 1900, † by 1914. (H., 3rd ed.) Cf. mill.

Irish toothache. A priapism: low: C.19–early 20. In late C.19–20, gen. simply toothache. Cf. Irish root, q.v.—2. Pregnancy: lower classes':—1909 (Ware). Also I.T.A.

Irish toyle. A thief in the semblance of a pedlar: mid-C.16–18 c.—2. A member of the twelfth order of rogues: C.17 c. Both in B.E.

Irish up, get (one's). To become angry: low: from ca. 1880. See Irish, n.

Irish wedding. The emptying of a cesspool: low: ca. 1820–50. (Bee.) Cf.:—2. In to have danced at an Irish wedding, to have two black eyes: coll.: ca. 1840–1940. Earlier, you have been to an Irish wedding, a c.p. addressed to one who has a black eye: from ca. 1785. Grose, 2nd ed., 'Where black eyes are given instead of favours.'

Irish welcome. An invitation to come at any time: coll. verging on allusive S.E.: late C.19–20. Benham.

Irish whist (, where the jack takes the ace). Coition: low: ca. 1850–1930.

Irishman, the. A confidence trick. See hot seat.—2. The Irish mail train. See Wild Irishman, 2.

Irishman's coat of arms. A black eye: mid-C.18–mid-19. 'Wednesday, 13 Aug. 1806. Goedike and La Rammer had a quarrel. The latter got an Irishman's coat of arms': the Journal of the fur-trading post of the North West Company at Dunregan, Canada. (Dr D. Leechman.)

Irishman's dinner. A fast: C.19–20 joc. coll.; ob.

Irishman's harvest. The orange season: London costermongers': ca. 1840–1910. Cf. Irish apricot and Irish lemon, qq.v.

Irishman's hurricane. A dead calm: nautical: C.19–20, ob. Cf. Irish hurricane.

Irishman's promotion or rise. A reduction in wages: coll.: —1889 (B. & L.). Also Irish rise.

Irishman's reef. 'The head of a sail tied up': nautical s. (—1880) > j.

Irishman's rest. 'Going up a friend's ladder with a hod of bricks': lower classes:—1909 (Ware).

Irishman's rise. See Irishman's promotion.

irk. A troublesome seaman: nautical: late C.19–20. (Bowen.) Abbr. irksome. Also bird and fowl. Cf. erk, which is prob. a derivative.—2. An early (WW1) spelling of erk, an aircraft-mañ. B. & P.

iron, n. Money: ca. 1780–1840. (Grose, 1st ed.) Cf. brass, tin, etc.—2. A hand-gun, esp. a pistol or revolver: from ca. 1835. See also shooting iron.—3. A male harlot: shortening of iron hoof, q.v. Gilt Kid, 1936.—4. A bicycle: cyclists': since ca. 1925; ob. Cf. grid, 1, and grid-iron, 5, both synonyms for bicycle.—5. See good iron; bad iron; iron horse; irons.

iron, v.i. and t. To speak ironically: to sol. when not deliberate: ca. 1820–95. Bee's Dict. of the Turf.—2. To kill: low: late C.19–20. Pamela Branch, The Wooden Overcoat, 1951.—3. Hence, to attack or fight (someone) successfully: Aus. (B., 1953.) See also iron out, 2.—4. See iron horse; polish the King's iron...

iron bomb. 'Conventional' aerial bomb, as opp. guided missile: RN; Falkland Is. campaign, 1982. Gareth Parry, Guardian, 2 July 1982.

iron-bound, n. A hard-baked pie: low: ca. 1870–1915.

iron-bound, adj. Laced with metal. E.g. iron-bound hat, a silver-laced hat. Coll.: ca. 1780–1930. Grose, 1st ed.

iron compass; esp. follow the ... To follow railway lines leading to a target area: RFC/RAF: since ca. 1917, but little used during WW2. (V.M. Yeates, Winged Victory, 1934.) Cf. Bradshaw.

iron cow. The village pump: C.19 coll. Cf. cow-juice, q.v.

Iron Division, the. The 13th Division: army: WW1. Rather sobriquet than nickname. P.B.: by the 1950s the 'sobriquet' had been transferred to 3 Division, which was known as the Iron Div when I joined it a few months before the invasion of Port Said, Nov. 1956.

iron doublet. A prison: C.18–early 19. A var. of stone doublet.

Iron Duke. A lucky chance: late C.19–20. Rhyming on fluke.

iron-fighter. A constructional engineer: master-builders' and engineers': since ca. 1930.

Iron-Footed Bastards, the. Sobriquet of the 15th Regt of Foot (from 1881, the East Yorkshire Regiment): 'In the performance of long and punishing marches [in C.19 India], it seems, the Regiment set up a number of records and their prowess on their feet earned them the sobriquet' (Carew).

iron foundries. Heavy shelling: military: 1915–18. (B. & P.) Cf. coal-box, 2.

iron hand, the. The Closure of 1876: political coll. of Victoria, Aus. (Morris.) Ex the iron hand in the velvet glove.

iron hoof. A male homosexual: rhyming s. on poof: C.20 c. > low coll. In later C.20, shortened to iron. Cf. nigh enough and collar and cuff, which both rhyme on var. puff; a further var. is horse's hoof.

iron hoop. Soup: rhyming s.: late C.19–earlier 20 (B. & P.); superseded by loop(the-loop).

iron horse, n. A locomotive: from ca. 1860, ex US (1846). In C.19 coll.; in C.20, outworn S.E.—2. A bicycle; occ. a tricycle: cyclists': ca. 1875–1900.—3. A racecourse: rhyming s.: C.20. Franklyn, Rhyming.—4. (Of coins) a toss. Sometimes abbr. the iron or ironing. See next:-

iron horse, v. To toss (a coin): rhyming s., on Cockney pron. torse: late C.19–20. (P.P., Rhyming Slang, 1932.) F.D. Sharpe, Sharpe of the Flying Squad, 1938, has 'I'll iron you for it', and notes the abbreviations in prec., 4.

iron lung. A Nissen hut: Barrage Balloon personnel's: WW2. H. & P.—2. A shelter in the deeper Tube stations: Londoners': 1940–5.—3. As The Iron Lung: 'The new Underground line, running from Shoreditch to Essex, known to the criminal classes as the "iron lung"' (New Statesman, Nov.

1950): c.: 1950+; by 1960, rather ob.—4. A '2–8–0 ex W.D. locomotive' (Railway, 2nd): railwaymen's: ?ca. 1940–50.—5. 'Old-fashioned street urinal with iron fixtures' (Powis): low coll.: later C.20.

iron making. 'Occupying a berth or billet where money is to be put by': proletarian: late C.19–early 20. (B. & L.) Cf. iron, n., 1.

iron man. A £1 note: Aus.: sense-adapted, ca. 1944, ex US iron man, a dollar.—2. 'At the heart of all trawling operations is the winch known as the "iron man"' (Steven Piper, The North Ships, 1974): trawlermen's: C.20.

iron mitten. A manacle, a handcuff: mostly nautical: late C.18–mid-19. Matthew Barker in L.L.G., 20 Dec. 1823 (Moe).

iron (something) out. To put (it) right; perhaps orig. Aus.: since ca. 1930. (Gwen Robyns, article 'Holiday City' in the London Evening News, 16 Feb. 1949.) Ex the removal of creases by ironing.—2. Iron (someone) out, to attack or fight (a person) and hence to flatten him: Aus.: since mid-C.20. (B., 1953.) Wilkes quotes a fig. usage from Jim McNeil, How Does Your Garden Grow, 1974: 'How many [pills] yer take?' 'Told yer. Half a dozen.' 'Oh well, that'll iron yer right out' (but this would apply as well to sense 1).

iron rations. Tinned meat: nautical and military coll.: from ca. 1860. In C.20, S.E.—2. Whence, shell-fire, esp. if severe: military: WW1. (B. & P.) Cf. iron foundries.

iron skull. A boiler-maker: Can. railroadmen's:—1931.

iron tank. A bank (for money): rhyming s.: since ca. 1918. Franklyn, Rhyming.

iron toothpick. A sword: military: ca. 1870–1910. Cf. toothpick, 3.

ironbark, adj. Unyielding; hard: Aus.:—1888; ob. 'Rolf Boldrewood', in Robbery under Arms, 'I always thought he was ironbark outside and in.' Cf.:

ironclad, adj. Severe, hard; unyielding: ca. 1884–1910. Mostly US, ex the vessel.

ironing. Irony: sol. when not a joc. perversion: from ca. 1740. Rare in C.20. OED.

ironmonger's shop by the side of a common, keep an. (To which is often added: where the sheriff sets one up.) To be hanged in chains: ca. 1780–1830. (Grose, 1st ed.) Cf. polish the King's iron...

ironmongery. Arms, from small arms (hand-guns) to cannon to bombs, aerial or other: WW1 and WW2 and since: orig. 'Services', but by 1940, esp. in London, also civilian. (Mr Petch's note on the term, 1971, reminded me that I heard it—not inappropriately—on the Somme in 1916.)

ironmongery department, the; His or Her Majesty's School for Heavy Needlework. Prison: cultured: since ca. 1945.

irons. As a coll. shortening of eating irons, knife, fork, and spoon: since ca. 1925. H. & P.—2. In in irons, 'A sailing ship is said to be "in irons" when she is head to wind and cannot pay off on either tack' (Granville): nautical: mid-C.19–20.—3. Fresh (or new) off the irons, fresh from school or college; inexperienced; brand-new: coll.: late C.17–early 20. OED.—4. have many (or other) irons in the fire (or on the anvil), to have many interests; to employ various means to one end: C.16–20: coll.; in C.20, S.E. The on the anvil form, recorded in 1612, was ob. by 1850, † by 1900. For many, other or more is occ. found. (Apperson.) Ex a smithy.

Ironside(s). 'Common as an Eng. nickname, from Edmund II onward', W.—2. Cromwell: 1644–7.—Hence, 3, his men: 1648+; perhaps ex Ironside's men. In all senses, coll. (Extant as surname.) irrigate (one's canal). V.i. and t., to take a drink; pour drink down: joc. coll.: C.18–early 20. Ex the L. sense, to moisten. is used jocularly. See 'am and is'. A notable example is the American popular song, popular in UK also, 'Is you is or is you ain't my baby?' (Austin & Jordan, 1944): see this entry in DCpp. See DCpp also for several phrases beginning is ...; some may be found in this dictionary at the operative word, e.g. room for a little one.

is all. That is all: Can. coll.: adopted, ca. 1947, ex US. 'I'm tired, is all' (Leechman). Some Brit. use in later C.20, but with awareness of its trans-Atlantic origin.

is everybody happy? Lit. 'is everybody satisfied? Comfortable?'; but uttered in imitation of red-nosed comic in music-hall, or of hosts at holiday camps, it > a sometimes morale-boosting, sometimes ironic, c.p.: since early C.20. See DCpp. (P.B.)

is he (she) with you? — No, I thought he (she) was with you. An interchange between two friends directed at a third friend's gaffe: since ca. 1955. See DCpp. and cf. excuse my pig—he's a friend and you can't take him anywhere!

is it cold up there? A joc. c.p., to a tall person: late C.19–20. [E.P. himself was a tall man, and prob. suffered! Cf. how's the weather up there? P.B.] is it fuck! (or buggery!). Emphatic negative: low: C.20. L.A. cites Frederic Raphael, [n.d.]: 'Is that being truly adult? Is it fuck!' See also like fuck!

is it? — or is it? Tucked onto a question, and relegating the first is it? to the status of mere verbal question-mark, means 'or perhaps you don't agree with me', as in, 'It's not really quite like that, is it?—or is it?': coll.: C.20. (P.B.)

is my hat on straight? After the Edwardian fashion of huge hats for women, the c.p. lingered to mean simply 'How do I look?' See DCpp.

is that all? 'Still heard as a sarcastic exclamation, in reference to high prices, etc.' (Petch, 1966): c.p. C.20. P.B.: and, as a comment on, e.g., the price of a Rolls-Royce: 'Oh! Is that all? Let's have two!'

is your journey really necessary, a war-time official slogan (1940+), has, since as early as 1944, been used as a joc. c.p.; by 1960, slightly ob.

Isa, The. Mount Isa in western Queensland: Aus. coll.: C.20. Jock Marshall & Russell Drysdale, Journey among Men, 1962.

Isabella. An umbrella: rhyming s.:—1859 (H., 1st ed.); † by 1930.

I'se. I am; occ., I shall: dial. and sol.: C.18–20. Included here for its (usu. feminine) C.20 joc. usage.

-ise as a v. suffix is often coll. in tendency in late C.18–20.—So also -iser as a n. suffix.

Ish. Ismailia, in the Suez Canal Zone: army: late C.19–mid-20.—2. As ish, short for issue, q.v.

-ish. A suffix that, when added to adj., is either coll. or of a coll. tendency: C.18–20. Grose P., at moreish; Collinson.—2. When attached to cardinal numbers, esp. when indicative of the time (as in fourish, at about four o'clock), it is decidedly coll.—and C.20. (Cf. all-overish, q.v.). 'Now, in coll. use, possible with nearly all monosyllabic adj., and some others' (SOD).—3. Added to proper names, it is coll.: from ca. 1840. Tennyson, 1845, 'I feel... Martineauish about it' (OED).

ish-ka-bibble! 'I should worry!': c.p.: ca. 1925–35. Ex US. Perhaps ex Yiddish ich geblicke. In the US it had a tremendous vogue ca. 1913. (Leechman.)

ishkimmisk. Drunk, tipsy: Shelta: C.18–20. B.&L.

Island, the. Camp Hill, the prison on the Isle of Wight: police and criminal coll.: C.20.—2. 'Cockatoo Island Gaol (until 1919)' (Wilkes): Aus.—3. The Isle of Man: motorcyclists—they associate it with the famous Tourist Trophy races: C.20. (Mike Partridge, 1979.)—4. See-island, the. A battleship's, but esp. an aircraft carrier's, superstructure: RN: since late 1930s (? earlier). John Winton, HMS 'Leviathan', 1967, 'The flight deck and the island were scenes of continuous activity.'—2. In drink out of the island, to drink until—and after—one seen the rising bottom of a wine bottle: drinking s.: late C.18–early 19. Grose, 2nd ed.—3. See keep it on the island!

island-hopping, n. The capture of one island after another: Allies in the Pacific: 1945. P-G-R.

Island of Bermudas. See Bermudas.

isle. See Isle of France and ile.

Isle of Bishop. 'Orthodox', i.e. good, mead: Oxford University: ca. 1820–40. Egan's Grose.

Isle of Bull-Dogs. The area within the proctors' authority: Oxford University: ca. 1820–40. Egan's Grose.

isle of fling. A coat: East End of London: ca. 1875–1910. ?origin. Perhaps rhyming on lining.

Isle of Flip. Eggs and sherry: Oxford University: ca. 1820–40. Egan's Grose.

Isle of France. Dance, n. and v.: rhyming s.:—1859 (H., 1st ed.); ob. by 1930. Often shortened to Isle (spelt ile by Ware).

Isle of Matriculation. Entrance into the University: Oxford University: ca. 1820–40. Egan's Grose.

Isle of Wight. Right: rhyming s.: C.20. Franklyn, Rhyming.

ism. A doctrine or a theory: 1680 (OED): coll. Ex such words as Jesuitism, Puritanism. Cf. ology, q.v.

isn't. A coll. form of is not: from C.16.

issue, the (whole). The complete set number, amount; the lot': military: from 1915. Ex an issue or distribution of, e.g., cigarettes. (B. & P.) By 1919, also civilian; soon shortened, perhaps mainly in Services, to the ish.—2. See pool (one's) issues.

is't. Abbr. is it: coll. when neither dial. nor poetic: before C.19, normal S.E.

-ist. A n. suffix; often joc., occ. coll., in C.19–20. Shelley.—2. (Without hyphen) a holder of an ism, q.v.: from ca. 1810: coll. till ca. 1880, then S.E. OED.

Isthmus of Suez. The bridge at St John's College, Cambridge, also called the Bridge of Grunts: Cambridge University: ca. 1850–1910. Punning its synon. Bridge of Sighs and sues, swine, with ref. to hog, n., 4, q.v.

it. As an indefinite object of a v., as in walk it, cab it: orig. S.E.; but from ca. 1880, coll. (So too in curses).—2. A chamber-pot: C.19–20; ob.—3. The female, occ. the male, sexual organ: C.19–20; orig. and still mainly euph.—4. 'Coll. use of it for the consummate is [orig.] U.S.' (W.): from ca. 1910 in England. E.g. 'He thinks he's it' or 'just it'.—5. In quotation from books or newspapers, etc., it used with says or tells dates from C.12: S.E. till C.19, then coll.—6. Sexual appeal: from ca. 1920. Now joc. coll. Ex the novels of 'Victoria Cross' and Elinor M. Glyn. Adumbrated by Rudyard Kipling when, in his story of 'Mrs Bathurst', 1904, he wrote: 'Tisn't beauty, so to speak, nor good talk necessarily. It's just it'.—7. In gin and it, it = Italian vermouth: coll.: since ca. 1910. Cf. gin and French (vermouth).—8. Of it, as in 'We had a nice time of it': coll., gen. ironic:—1887 (Baumann).—9. See for it. it adds up (or doesn't add up). It makes sense (or nonsense). See add, 2.

it ain't all honey! It isn't wholly pleasant: c.p. of ca. 1904–14. Cf. 'It ain't all honey and it ain't all jam./Wheelin' round the 'ouses at a three-wheeled pram' in a music-hall song of Vesta Victoria's, ca. 1905.

it ain't gonna rain no more! A humorous c.p. (since ca. 1935), elicited by a downpour or by set-in rain. Ex a popular song.

it can't be did! See can't be...

it couldn't happen to a nicer chap! Generously congratulatory, when in address or in ref.: since late 1940s. See DCpp. it didn't fizz on me. This affair, this action, etc., had no effect on me: Can. c.p.: since ca. 1945. It fell flat.

it didn't go into his boots, (well). There was an effect, inevitable yet not immediately obvious: mostly Londoners': C.20. It did at least go somewhere.

it doesn't grow on trees (or, of currency and banknotes, they don't). C.p. directed at those who think that money is easily obtained: late C.19–20.

it had my name (or number) on it. Applied by a soldier to the bullet that wounded him: WW1 (F. & G.); revived in WW2 (P-G-R). it happens all the time. A c.p. = it's just one of those things: since ca. 1925. P.B.: this is not a bound form; one may just as well say 'things like that happen (or are happening) all the time'.

it is... See it's...

it isn't done. See done thing.

it just goes to show. A conventional stop-gap of vague comment: since the 1920s.

it just isn't true. Used as intensifier, with so or such, as in 'He's such a fool it just isn't true': coll.: later C.20. Noted by Prof. A.S.C. Ross, in U and Non-U Revisited, 1978. Var.: quot'n from James Galway, in Sunday Express mag., 3 Jan. 1982, 'I just wanted to play the flute like you wouldn't believe it.'

it just shows to go. A nonsensical var. of it just goes...: later C.20. Aus.: (B.P.) it only wanted a man on the job. A joc. c.p. (late C.19–20) by a willing helper.

it says. See it, 5.

it shouldn't happen to a dog (let alone to a human being): c.p.: since ca. 1945: still mainly US, but by 1965 at latest, heard occ. in Brit. Of Yiddish origin, according to Leo Rosten in Encounter, Sep. 1968.

it snowed! A c.p. indicative of misery or disaster: proletarian: adopted, ex US,—1909 (Ware).

it takes all sorts. C.p. ellipsis of the proverb it takes all sorts to make a world, late C.19–20.

it takes one to know one. You're as bad as the person you're criticising: late C.19–20. (B.P.) Ex the proverb it takes a thief to catch a thief.

it takes two to tango. Premarital coition, like the begetting of large families, requires co-operation between the sexes: a mainly feminine c.p., implying that either of these two activities is not operated only by selfish males: mostly Aus.: since ca. 1935. 'Ex a popular song thus named' (B.P.).

it takes you! It's your turn to, e.g., hand round the cigarettes, buy the drinks, perform a duty, etc.: army: mid-C.20. See take, v., 6.

it wasn't there. 'Reproof addressed to a stage manager who pinches a curtain call on a dead house. The applause wasn't there' (Granville): theatrical: C.20.

it will... See it'll... it won't do. Signal for desisting from a burglary: c. esp. burglars': ca. 1800–80. Anon., The London Guide, 1818.

Italian. Bastard (a sweet spanish wine). See TAVERN TERMS, §3, in Appendix.

Italian quarrel. 'Death, poison, treachery, remorselessness': Italy:—1909; virtually t. Ware.

Italy. See LOVERS' ACRONYMS, in Appendix.

itch. To feel a sexual urge: C.17–20 low coll. Cf. itch in the belly.

itch and scratch. A match (ignition): rhyming s.: late C.19–20. B. & P. itch-buttocks, play at. To have sexual intercourse: late C.16–19; coll. Florio.

itch in the belly, have an. To be sexually excited: ca. 1660–1900: coll. Cotton, D'Urfey.

itch pitch. 'Cells reserved for cases of scabies' (Tempest): prison s.: mid-C.20.

itcher. The female pudend: C.19—early 20: low. Ex itch, v. Also itching Jenny.

itchiness. In C.20, coll.; in C.19, S.E. See itchy.

itching Jenny. See itcher.

itchland. Wales: late C.17—early 18. B.E.—2. Scotland: C.18—mid-19. (A New Canting Dict., 1725.) Cf. Scratchland, q.v.

itchlander. A Scotsman: C.18—mid-19. Ex prec.

itchy. Affected with or like an itch: C.16–20: S.E. until ca. 1840, then coll.

itchy back, have an. (Of women) to desire intercourse: Aus.: since ca. 1920. 'Women in bed with dozing husbands reputedly ask them to scratch their backs. The resulting propinquity often has the desired effect' (a valued correspondent). Perhaps cf. the English a bitch with an itch, a lascivious woman: C.20.

itchy feet. Attributed to 'potential absconder/inmate thought to be unsettled' (Home Office): prison staffs': later C.20. A specialisation of the C.20 coll. to have itchy feet, to be restless, as 'After 20 years of moving on every two or three years, we're starting to get itchy feet even though there's no reason to go', the ex-regular serviceman's reaction to settling down in 'civvy street'. (P.B.)

Itē. An Italian: 1940–5. (P-G-R.) Ex Ities, var. spelling of Eyeties.

item. A hint or a warning: c.: C.19. Bee, 'It was I that gave the item that the traps were a coming.'

Ities. Var. spelling of Eyeties, q.v., Italians. Michie & Graebner, Lights of Freedom, 1941.

-itis. A suffix indicating—or facetiously imputing—a disease: often a joc. coll. in late C.19–20. E.g. jazzitis (1919). W.

it'll all be the same in a hundred years. A consolatory C.20 c.p.; by 1940, verging on proverbial S.E. See DCpp.

it'll all come out in the wash. It'll all be discovered eventually; hence, It'll all be settled eventually; hence, Never mind—or don't worry—it doesn't matter: C.20.

it'll be over by Christmas— which Christmas? A WW1 Tommies' c.p., ironic of the fatuous optimism current in latish 1914.

it'll cost you (or yer)! You will be obliged to me for this favour; often used ironically when granting a very small favour: orig. (1920s) prisons' (see cost yer! in DCpp); in 1970s gen. and widespread coll. (P.B.)

it'll last my (or our or your) time, to which the cautious add I hope. A 'famous last words' c.p., dating since ca. 1945, but not in general use until ca. 1948. Nostalgic rather than cynical; and therefore not to be apprehended as synon. with après moi le déluge.

it'll pass with a push. Aus. c.p. of grudging approval: since ca. 1950. (B.P.)

'Itma'. See Appendix.

its. 'When modern youths and girls look so much alike... some [people] refer to them as "its"' (Petch, 1969): ca. 1965–75. Ex calling a baby it, before its sex is known.

it's. Coll. for it is: C.17–20. It's starts many coll. and catch-phrases: some follow here, others may be found entered at their first key word. Inconsistencies must be excused, please; there is no system, except that here are listed phrases from which the initial it's is less likely to be dropped even in slovenly speech. See esp. DCpp.

it's a bastard; often ... proper bastard or (Aus.) fair bastard. A very common expression among workers and servicemen for anything difficult or exasperating: C.20. Cf. the Aus. it's a fair cow: late C.19–20.

it's a breeze! It's easy: Aus.:—1945 (Baker).

it's a bugger (or proper, or right, bugger). Synon. with it's a bastard, q.v., and used in just the same way and circumstances. (P.B.) L.A., 1976, notes the joc. elab. it's a bugger up a teapot: C.20. The former: mid-C.19–20.

it's a deal. Agreed! I'll (etc.) do that: late C.19–20 coll. See DCpp.

it's a dog's life. 'Said of a rotten life on the breadline, the dole, etc.' (Granville, 1969): C.20 c.p., prob. derived ex C.17–19 proverb, it's a dog's life, hunger and ease.

it's a freak country. 'Sometimes heard in regard to the "sights" we see nowadays, like the dirty, long-haired teenagers. From the other expression, It's a free country' (Petch, 1966): ephemeral, punning c.p. of early 1960s. The orig. free c.p. expressive of tolerance (or apathy depending on paints of view), dates from late C.19.

it's a gas (or gasser)! It's wonderful: Aus. teenage surfers': 1960s. (B.P.) See also gas, adj., and gasser, 3.

it's a gig! That's very nice—very nice indeed!: Aus. c.p.: since ca. 1925. Cf. gig, n., 1.

it's a go! Agreed: Aus. and NZ: C.20. Cf. it's a deal!

it's a good flat that's never down. Even the biggest dupe (flat) finally has his eyes opened: underworld c.p.: ca. 1790–1870. Vaux.

it's a good game— (if) played slow (or slowly). Ironic c.p. evoked by repeated manual maladroitness, repeated inconvenience, idling, or imposed tedium of waiting, etc.' (L.A., 1959): Services': WW2.

it's a great life – if you don't weaken. See great life... it's a great war! An ironic Services' c.p.: WW1, not before 1915.

it's a little bit over. 'A phrase taught to every apprentice butcher in Australia. They'—butchers in general—'always sell you more meat than you ask for and excuse it with the above words' (B.P.): c.p.: late C.19–20. P.B.: the practice is by no means confined to Aus.: Brit. butchers and greengrocers have been using this trick, and the phrase, for many, many years.

it's a poor arse that never rejoices. A punning c.p. uttered, when somebody breaks wind, by a member of one of those 'fraternities' of mighty wits in which public-houses abound: C.20. Cf. better out than in!, applied in the same situation.

it's a way they have in the Army. An army, mostly officers', c.p. of 1915–18; a revival of the opening of a popular song, c.a. 1880. It occurs in Kipling, Stalky & Co., 1899.

it's all good for trade. It helps things along—promotes amity or understanding or both: since ca. 1930. See DCpp.

it's all happening! (Usu. loc.) c.p. uttered when more than one thing happens at a time; sometimes said to emphasise the essential triviality of what is happening. E.P., in DCpp., q.v., dates it from 1939; but it was more widespread and gen. late 1960–1970s. (P.B.) Mrs C. Raab suggests: a general state of excitement, e.g., several projects all seem to be 'taking off' together; tourists' comments on London theatres, films, concerts, political events, etc., almost too rich a programme to absorb fully.

it's all in a lifetime. It's no use grumbling: c.p.: (?)mid-C.19–20. Cf.:-

it's all in (or it all comes in) the seven (or the twelve). Servicemen's versions, (7, Army; 12, RN) of the prec.: the figures refer to the years of a man's engagement with the colours: earlier C.20. Cf. if you can't take a joke you shouldn't have joined.

it's all money. The c.p. reply to an apology for paying with small change, or with more small change than is either necessary or sensible: since ca. 1945.

it's all over bar the shouting. See all over bar...

it's all right for you (or for some)! See all right for...

it's all right if it comes off. A mostly Aus. c.p., concerning an (apparent) attempt at a swindle: since ca. 1930. (B.P.)

it's always jam tomorrow... See jam tomorrow...

it's an old (some)where; South custom. In 1935, this, in the Southern form, > c.p.; it is a line from a popular song. By the end of the year, and in fact by Oct., other words had begun to be substituted for Southern. In Evening News, 4 Jan. 1936, we read of the man who, on being upbraided by his wife for kissing a girl in a square in London, W.2, explained that 'It's an old Bayswater custom'.

it's bad manners... See bad manners...

it's been known. It's not uncommon: c.p.: since the middle 1940s. Elliptical for 'It's been known to happen'.

it's being so (pron. s') cheerful as keeps me going! One of the most 'successful' of all the 'Itma' c.pp.: since 1946, and still (1983) not quite †. See ITMA in Appendix.

it's Friday – so keep your nose tidy. A c.p., employed only on a Friday (a folklorishly unlucky day) and meaning either 'keep out of mischief' or 'mind your own business': non-aristocratic, non-cultured: late C.19–20. Based upon the mispronunciation Fridee.

it's got a back to it. See back to it...

it's in your eye! 'Exclamation when an opponent's bowl comes to rest in the line of draw to the jack': S. African bowls'-players: since ca. 1930. (Prof. A.C. Partridge, 1968.)

it's not much if (or occ., when) you say it quick! A c.p. in ref. to a large sum of money or a very high price: since ca. 1910.

it's not (or it just isn't) my day. A rueful, philosophical acceptance of a day when everything seems to go wrong for one: since late 1940s. But this is not a bound form: person and tense may vary, as 'Jane felt it just wasn't going to be her day'. (P.B.)

604

it's not so much the cross we have to bear – it's the (qualified) splinters on it! It's the little irritations that we find hardest to bear: mostly, perhaps orig., RN: C.20. (R/Adml P.W. Brock, 1968.)

it's not the bull they're afraid of – it's the calf. (Of girls) a c.p. implying that they fear, not the loss of virginity but pregnancy: Aus.: C.20.

it's not the end of the world! A consolatory c.p. offered to sufferer from a minor (or fairly minor) mishap or set-back: since ca. 1945.

it's on! A fight is starting: Aus.: since ca. 1945. (B.P.)

it's only lent. 'A nonchalant acceptance of defeat, either physical or moral. It is sometimes embellished with the addition, "I'll get my own back"' (Julian Franklyn, 1962): c.p., mostly Cockney: since ca. 1920.

it's only money. 'Said to a reluctant spender or party-sharer': c.p.: orig. (?ca. 1945) Can.; by ca. 1955, also Brit. (Leechman.)—2. 'A c.p. addressed to one'—including oneself—'suddenly confronted with an unexpected expenditure' (Leechman): since ca. 1945–50.

it's staring you in the face. It is obvious. See if it were a bear...

it's that man again! A c.p. dating from late 1939; during the bombing of Britain by the Luftwaffe, esp. in 1940–1, applied chiefly to bomb-damage, 'that man' being Hitler. Ex Tommy Handley's scintillating BBC radio programme 'Itma' (It's That Man Again; as the traditional opening warns us). See ITMA in Appendix.

it's the beer speaking (or talking). A public-house c.p. directed at one who breaks wind in public-house company: C.20. P.B.: but in Bartrop & Wolveridge, Muvver, the authors note, '[This saying] is given wrongly by Partridge... Cockneys say it about belligerence or bravado shown by a person who is half-cut.' Agreed; but E.P. is recording a loc. adaptation.

it's what your right arm's for! C.p. addressed to someone raising a large glass, a 'jar', of (usu.) beer: public-house conviviality: since 1920s. (Mrs Shirley M. Pearce, 1975.) P.B.: adopted (?invented) as an advertising slogan for Courage ales, early 1970s.

it's winning the war! (often prec. by anyway.) A bitterly ironic military c.p. of WW1, à propos of something disliked: 1915–18. F.&G.

it's wonderful how they make guns, let alone touch-holes! 'A c.p. used by women... to deflate male superiority, esp. about sex' (L.A., 1967): late C.19–20, esp. in Service circles. The erotic imagery of gunnery is involved: gun, penis; touch-hole, vulva.

it's your ball. The initiative lies with you: Can. c.p.: since ca. 1946. (Leechman.) Ex ball-games. Cf. the Eng. the ball's in your court, q.v., at ball is...

it's your corner. 'It's your turn to pay': low coll.: later C.20. (Powis.) Cf. it takes you.

itsi-gitsi. So-so. See etsi-ketsi.

itty umpty. See iddy umpty.

Ivan. A Russian private soldier: military coll.: 1914; † by 1920. (B. & P.) Cf. Tommy. P.B.: revived in WW2 and current ever since; sometimes Ivans for Russians in general.

Ivanhoe. Home-distilled liquor: Can.: since ca. 1950. Leechman cites the (Victoria, BC) Islander, 13 June 1976. Origin?

I've. I have: coll.: from ca. 1740. Richardson, 'A queer sort of name! I've heard of it somewhere' (OED).

I've (or I've got) a feelin(g) in me water. I have a premonition, a 'hunch', an instinctive feeling: c.p.: C.19–20. (P.B.)

I've (or I've got) a picture of Lord Roberts, (usu. prec. by No, but ...). 'A c.p. rejoinder to someone asking for something [that one hasn't got]' (L.A.): mostly army and RAF: since ca. 1918; ob. by ca. 1950. Cf. I've got a bit of string with a hole in it, equally unhelpful.

I've arrived – and to prove it, I'm 'ere. C.p. originated by Max Bygraves in a radio comedy series, 'Educating Archie', 1950–3: still heard occ., 30 years later. See DCpp.

I've seen 'em grow! and I've shut 'em! Army c.pp. of WW1, resp. indicative of contempt at rapid promotion and of scorn for soldiers of another unit. B. & P.

I've (or I've got) something to do (that) nobody else can do for me. I must go to the w.c.: raffish joc.: C.20. (Petch, 1966.) Cf. I'm going to do a job...

ivories. The teeth: from ca. 1780, ob. Egan; Thackeray, 'Chatter your old ivories at me'; Punch, 1882, 'Sluicing his ivories' (= drinking), with which cf. synonym. rinse or wash (one's or the) ivories: C.19-early 20. (Moncrieff.) Hence, also, box or cage of ivories, a set of (good) teeth in one's mouth: low:—1860 (H., 2nd ed.); and flash the ivory, q.v., to grin, smile.—2. Dice; billiard-balls: from ca. 1830. (Very rare in sing.) Cf. touch ivory, to play at dice.—3. As the ivories, a piano, esp. in phrases of playing, e.g.: hammer, punch, spank, thump, tickle the ivories, of which only tickle implies anything like real competence; the rest are derogatory: all except punch (early C.20) date from mid-C.19. The ivories continues coll. in this sense: cf. the instrument names listed at fish-horn.—4. Checks and counters: card-players': from ca. 1860. (B. & L.) P.B.: before the arrival of plastic, they were so often made of ivory, or, at least, of bone.

ivory. See ivories, various senses. Rare in singular, except when collective.—2. A pass-ticket on a railway, to a theatre, etc.: ca. 1855-1910.—3. See black ivory, Negro slaves.

ivory box. The mouth: pugilists': ca. 1880-1910.

ivory carpenter. A dentist: low joc. coll.: ca. 1885-1915.

ivory-hammerer or -thumper, occ. -spanker. A pianist: from ca. 1860; ob. Cf. ivories, 3.

ivory pearl. Girl: rhyming s.: C.20. (John o' London's Weekly, 9 June 1934.) More gen. is ocean pearl. The ivory form was ob. by ca. 1960 (Franklyn, Rhyming).

ivory-snatcher. A dentist: ca. 1880-1940. (G.B. Shaw, You Never Can Tell, 1897.) Cf. fang-farrier.

ivory-turner. A skilful dicer: fast life: ca. 1820-40. (Spy, 1825.) See ivories, 2.

ivy-bush. See owl in an...

ivy cottage. An outside privy: a late C.19-20 euph. coll. Formerly, often ivy-covered.

ivy-leaf. See pipe in...—2. (Usu. in pl) Small plaice: trawlermen's: C.20. (D. Butcher, Trawlermen, 1980, Glossary.) Cf. penny stamps, q.v.

Ixta. Mount Ixtaccihuatl: Brit. and American coll.: late C.19-20. So too Popo, Mt Popocatepetl, also, since ca. 1930, Popeye. Malcolm Lowry, Under the Volcano, 1947.

-ize. See -ise.

j or J. A simpleton. See jay, 3. Also J.A.Y. (Ware).—2. (J'.) Used as written representation of slurred 'Do you': earlier C.20. Garnett Radcliffe, Passing Show, 27 Jan. 1934: 'Stick 'em up! J'hear me, you big stiff?'—3. A Jesuit: Catholic coll.: mid-C.19–20.—4. Jesus: Anglo-Irish: late C.19–20.

J. Arthur Rank. A bank (financial): rhyming s.: since late 1940s. 'Evolved when Mr Rank was making both films and news' (Franklyn 2nd). Mostly shortened to Jay Arthur.—2. 'Wank. Usually in the sense "not worth a..." rather than masturbation' (Red Daniells, 1980): rhyming s.: mid-C.20. Cf. synon. Yorkshire Penny Bank; tiger tank.

J.B. Johore Bahru. See K.L.

J.C. and His ten grey donkeys couldn't have done better. Congratulatory praise for an action well performed: army joc.: mid-C.20. (WO1 Ronald 'Barge' Pearsall, R. Sigs.)

J.C.'s area representatives (or reps). Dignitaries of the Church: RAF, but not very gen.: since ca. 1950. Cf. God rep.

J. Carroll Naish. A urination: rhyming s. on slash, q.v.: later C.20. Ronnie Barker, Fletcher's Book of Rhyming Slang, 1979.

J.P., the. Husband: at mothers' unions and meetings: since ca. 1935. (People, 14 Oct. 1945.) I.e. junior partner.

J.S. or N. or D. Judicial Separation or Nullity of Marriage or Divorce: legal coll.:—1896 (Ware).

J.T. A euph. for John Thomas, 2, the penis:—1923 (Manchon).

Jaapies, the. 'These are Afrikaners./The burly Jaapies, the Saray Marays', glossed thus, "'Jaapies" was a slang name for the South Africans, also known as "Saray Marays" from the title of the Afrikaans song they sang' (Hamish Henderson's poem, 'Alamein, October 23, 1942', written late in that year and revised for publication in the Sunday Telegraph, 22 Oct. 1967). P.B.: pron. yawypys; Jaapie is, in later C.20, sometimes used loosely as an adj. = S. African generally, not confined to Afrikaner.

jab, n. A poke, prod, or stab: coll. and dial. (Scottish form of jab): from ca. 1820.—2. In boxing s. (in C.20, gen. coll.), an abrupt blow with the fist: from ca. 1850.—3. An inoculation: Services': since 1914. (H.&P.) Hence, get a jab, to be inoculated: Services' coll. >, in later C.20, also civilian, as 'Going abroad? Had (or got) your jabs yet?' Ex sense 1.

jab, v.i. and t. To poke, prod, stab, thrust: coll. and dial.: from ca. 1830. Both n. and v. may have owed their widespread coll. usage in part to US influence: witness F. & H.'s error.—2. Hence, to strike smartly (e.g. jab him one!): late C.19–20. C.J. Dennis.—3. To inoculate or vaccinate: Services': since 1939. (P-G-R.) More usu. in passive, as, 'I've been jabbed so many times, me, I'm like a bleedin' pin-cushion' (P.B.).

jabber, n. Chatter; incoherent, inarticulate, or unintelligible speech: in C.18, coll.; then S.E. Ned Ward, in Hudibras Redivivus, 'And stopp'd their bold presumptuous labour, By unintelligible jabber.'

jabber, v. To chatter; speak fast and indistinctly, talk gibberish: from ca. 1500: coll. till C.19, then S.E. Pope, in The Dunciad, 'Twas chatt'ring, grinning, mouthing, jabb'ring all.' Imitative: cf. gab(ble) and gibber.

jabberer. One who jabbbers (see the v.): from ca. 1675: coll. till C.19, then S.E. with a coll. tinge. 'Hudibras' Butler.

jabbering. Vbl n. of jabber, v., q.v.: C.16–20: coll. till C.19, then S.E.—2. The same applies to the adv. in -ly.

jabber(k)nowl. See jobbernowl.

[jabberment, chatter, nonsense, gibberish, from ca. 1640, is a rare literary form.]

Jab(ber)er(s) or Jabez or, rarely, Japers, by (Anglo-Irish be). A low oath: first recorded in 1821 and as by jappers. Presumably a corruption of Jesus via the Anglo-Irish Jasus. Cf. begorra!, q.v.

Jabberwock. A weird monster: coined by Lewis Carroll in Through the Looking Glass, 1871. In C.19, s.; in C.20 verging on coll. and, by 1920, recognised by W. as S.E. Globe, 25 Aug. 1917, 'This super-Jabberwock.'—2. 'The Navy's affectionate name for the [WW1] Sopwith Baby seaplane' (Observer colour sup., Oct. 1979).

jabez. See jabbers.—2. Whence (?), v., to play a dirty trick; 1923, Manchon.

Jabo Club, the. 'Any airman Just About Browned Off automatically qualifies' (Jackson): RAF since ca. 1934. In India, in the 1930s, often J.A.F.B.O., 'just about feeling (or fucking) browned off' (W/Cdr A.J. Wild, 1945).

jack, n. (The capital is fairly gen. where a person is designated; otherwise the initial letter is in lower case.) The c. senses are a farthing (late C.17—early 18); a seal (C.17—18, a corruption of jark, q.v.); an abbr. (not later than 1845) of jack in a box, 6; and a policeman (ca. 1865)—this last > gen. Aus. s. ca. 1910. (Ware.) This, one of the main senses of jack, has remained current both in UK, and in Aus., where it also = a police informer, a 'dog' (McNeil). Michael Nally, 'Hunt the Ripper', New Society, 14 June 1979: 'A barman in a [Leeds] shebeen [says], "I don't care what the jacks say... He may not be a blackie, but we've had the lot round here".'—2. Almost c. is the (—1851) gaming sense, a counter resembling a sovereign.—3. The least bit: coll.: ca. 1500–1650. (In negative and interrogative sentences.)—4. A var. of polyanthus: coll.:—1879.—5. A single carnation (sold as a choice carnation): horticultural s.:—1878 (OED).—6. A variety of tea-rose: coll.: abbr. Jacqueminot: 1883.—7. A jack-boot: coll.: C.19–20; ob.—8. A Jacobin pigeon: coll.: ca. 1740–1830.—9. A coll. abbr. of jackal: from ca. 1890. OED.—10. Orig. s. or coll. but long recognised as S.E. are the senses: the small bowl aimed at in the game of bowls (C.17–20), as in Shakespeare's Cymbeline; a pitcher, gen. one of leather and often as black jack (late C.16–20); a boot-jack (late C.17–20); an ape (from ca. 1500; long ob.); a peasant (C.16–20; ob. by 1800); a male, as in jack-hare, -rabbit, etc. (C.16–20); a male sweetheart (C.15–20; now archaic).—cf. Jill; a term of contempt (from C.14, but rare after C.18).—11. Orig. (ca. 1660) S.E., but in C.19–20 coll., is the sense a knave in a suit of cards.—12. A privy: coll.: C.18–19. James Woodforde, Diary, 25 Jan. 1779, 'Busy this morning in cleaning my Jack, and did it completely.' This Jack or jack forms the effective origin of john, 14, a jakes.—13. The Union Jack: nautical: from ca. 1650. Kipling.—14. A sailor: coll.: from ca. 1700. (Dibdin.) Earlier as sailor Jack, Jack the sailor. The pl Jacks is, in the RN of C.20, generic for 'other ranks' (L.A.).—15. A Jacobite: coll.: ca. 1689–1750. Swift.—16. A post-chaise: low: ca. 1810–50. Vaux.—17. In amorous ventry and low s., both the penis and an erection thereof: C.19–20, ob.—18. See Jack in the water.—19. (Jack.) A low coll. term of address to any man one doesn't know: C.19–20. Prob. orig. nautical.—20. A native soldier: Anglo-Indian coll.: 1853 (Y.&B.); † by 1886. Abbr. Jack-Sepoy.—21. Horse-flesh salted and so washed as to lose its horsy flavour: 1904 (OED Sup.) Cf. hard jack, q.v.—22. The inevitable nickname of any man surnamed Sheppard (etc.): Services: late C.19—early 20. (Bowen.) Ex the C.18 prison-breaker.—23. H., 2nd ed., has 'a low prostitute', but this definition of 1860 is not repeated in 1864: I suspect it to be an error caused by confusion with 'a male sweetheart' (see sense 10).—24. Money: low: adopted, ex US, 1937.—25. (Jack.) 'Familiar name for a kookaburra' (B., 1942): Aus.: late C.19—20. Ex 'laughing jackass'. Also Jacko (Baker).—26. A locomotive: Can. railroadmen's:—1931. Personification.—27. Syphilis: Aus. low: C.20. Also Brit.: cf. jack in a box, 11, q.v.—28. Short for black-jack, a bludgeon: Aus. coll.: C.20. Dal Stevens, Jimmy Brockett, 1951.—29. A double-headed penny: Aus.: C.20. B., 1943.—30. Methylated spirit taken as an intoxicant: low: since ca. 1930. Gavin Lyall's article, 'Prison Saves the Jack Drinkers', Sunday Times, 13 Aug. 1961.—31. Arse; anus: low: C.19—20. Notably in up your jack!, either defiant or derisive, or both, and in jack after East, q.v. Cf. jacksie, 1.—32. Copulation: raffish: since ca. 1950. Ex sense 17, and the v., 2.—33. 'A treatment of one tablet [of a drug, e.g., heroin] dissolved in water' (Bournemouth Echo, 19 Aug. 1967): since ca. 1955. Home Office glosses specifically 'a heroin tablet'. Cf. jack up, 6, q.v.—34. In lay (occ. be) on the jack, v.i. and t., to thrash or to scold soundly: coll. of ca. 1550—1640. In Jacob and Esau, a play, 'If I wrought one stroke to-day, lay me on the jack'; North, 1579, 'Lay it on the jacks of them.'—35. Poor Jack, (a) dried hake: 1667 (OED); coll. till ca. 1705, then S.E. Also dry or dried Jack.—36. On (one's) Jack, alone; short for Jack Jones, q.v.: C.20. Gilt Kid, 1936.—37. See Cousin Jack; every man Jack; play the jack; fuck you, Jack!

jack, v. In c., to run away quickly: from ca. 1840; ob.—2. In low s., to copulate: C.19—20, ob.—3. See jack it.—4. App., to lock, as in gig(g)ers jacked in anon., The Catterpillers of the Nation Anatomized, 1659: c.: C.17.—5. See jack in; jack up. jack, adj. Mentally or morally tired or sick, esp. as get jack of, occurring both in Margaret Henry, Unlucky Dip, 1960, and in 'I'm getting jack of these holidays' (Dick): Aus.: since ca. 1920. Cf. jack up, 3.

Jack-a (occ. -o') dandy; occ. Jack Dandy. A little fop, a petty dandy, an insignificant little fellow: coll.: ca. 1630—1920. Brome, Cumberland, Ainsworth.—2. Brandy: rhyming s.:—1857: gen. as Jack Dandy. 'Ducange Anglicus' has the shorter form.

Jack-a-green. See Jack in the green.

Jack-a-Lent, occ. Jack o' Lent. A dwarf, a puppet: late C.16—18: coll. till ca. 1660, then S.E. Shakespeare.—2. A simpleton, a nobody: C.17—19: coll. till C.18, then S.E. Both ex the puppet thrown-at during Lent.

Jack Adams. A fool: late C.17—19: coll. till ca. 1850, then nautical s. for a foolish and stubborn person.

Jack Adams's parish. Clerkenwell: C.18—early 19. Prob. ex an actual idiot.

jack after East. 'Arse over apex': RN: ?ca. 1820—80. Peppitt cites F.W. Mant, The Midshipman, 1868.

Jack and Jill. A (small) hill: rhyming s.: C.20. John o' London's Weekly, 9 June 1934.—2. A till: rhyming s.: since ca. 1890. P.P., Rhyming Slang, 1932.—3. A bill (account): id.: Ibid.—4. A fool: Aus. rhyming s., on dill, 2, q.v.: later C.20. McNeil.

Jack and Tom. A couple of officers, close friends, aping the lowerdeck: lowerdeck: ca. 1800—60. Basil Hall, 2nd series, 1832.

Jack ashore. A lower classes' coll. (—1909) for a 'larky', rather tippy sailor. Ware.

Jack at a pinch. A person employed in an-emergency; esp. a stop-gap clergyman: coll.: from ca. 1620; very ob., except in dial. B.E.

Jack at warts. A conceited little fellow: C.19 coll. Ex dial. Jack at the wat, the small bag of a pig's intestines.

Jack Barrel. A minnow: nautical: late C.19—20. Bowen.

jack-bit. Food: army: 1939 †. Daily Mail, 7 Sep. 1940.

Jack Blunt. A blunt fellow: 1898 (OED): coll. till ca. 1910, then S.E.

Jack boot(s). The 'boots' (q.v.) at an inn: ca. 1800—50: coll. till ca. 1820, then S.E.

jack-boy. A postilion: low: ca. 1810—50. (Vaux.) Cf. jack, n., 16, a post-chaise.

Jack Brag(ger). A boaster: C.16—early 20 coll.

Jack Club, the. See PRISONER-OF-WAR SLANG, §14, in Appendix.

Jack Dandy. See Jack-a-dandy.

Jack doesn't care. See Jack loves a fight.

Jack Drum's entertainment. Ill-treatment, esp. an ignominious dismissal: coll.: ca. 1570—1660. Gosson; Nashe, 'I would give him Jacke Drummes entertainment, and send him packing'; John Taylor, 1649. Occ. Tom Drum's entertainment, as in Holinshed. Apperson.

Jack Dusty, Jack in the dust. A ship's steward's assistant: resp. nautical, mid-C.19—20, and RN, early C.19—20. (Bowen; Bill Truck, 1821: Moe.) In late C.19—20, in RN esp. a stores assistant, later known as a supply rating. Semantically, cf. dustie, 2.

Jack Frost. A coll. personification of frost: since ca. 1825.

Jack-hold-my-staff. A too humble servant: coll.: C.17. Mrs Behn (OED).

Jack Horner. A corner: rhyming s.: C.20. (B. & P.) See also the more usu. Johnny Horner.

jack (it) in. To abandon, v.t.; to give up, v.i.: proletarian: since ca. 1910; by ca. 1930 sometimes reduced, as v.t., simply to jack, as in Alexander Baron, From the City, from the Plough, 'Jacked me for a civvy'. The v.i. sense, as in 'Here, I've had enough of this! I'm jacking (it) in', derives perhaps from jack it, to die, recorded by Ware, 1909; a later var. is jag (it) in, q.v. See also jack up, and cf. Aus. dice, 2, to abandon. (E.P.; P.B.)

Jack in a (or the) box, gen. hyphenated. A child's toy: recorded in 1702, but prob. much earlier: coll. soon > S.E.—2. A sharper, a cheat: c.: ca. 1570—1830. (Dekker.) Prob. ex sense 5.—3. A street pedlar: late C.17—18: coll. Ned Ward.—4. See Jack in the cellar.—5. The consecrated host: pej. coll.: ca. 1545—1700.—6. A small but powerful screw, used by burglars: c. of ca. 1840—1910. 'No. 747', in a 'locus' valid for 1845, likewise valid for the abbr., Jack (pp. 423, 439 resp.); Albert Smith, 1848. Prob. ex the nautical s. > coll. sense (—1801), 7, a large wooden male screw.—8. The male member: C.19—20 ob. Ex sense 1.—9. A game in which one throws at an object placed on the top of a stick set in a hole, beyond which the object, if hit, must fall clear to become the thrower's property: C.19—20 ob. (low) coll.—10. A coll., mainly Aus., name of the plant Stylyidium graminifolium: from ca. 1850. Ex the sensitive stigma-column.—11. Syphilis: low coll., rhyming s. on pox: since ca. 1870.

Jack in (C.17—18 an) office. An imperious petty official: from ca. 1660: coll. till C.19, then S.E. Cf. Jack in the pulpit, q.v.

Jack in the basket. A mark (orig. a basket) 'on top of a pole to serve as a beacon': nautical coll.: mid-C.19—20; ob. Bowen.

Jack in the (low) cellar; occ. ... in the box. A child in the womb: late C.17—19. Wycherley, 1672, has Hans en Kelder, q.v.; Smollett the Eng. version.

Jack in the dust. See Jack Dusty.

Jack in the green. A chimney-sweep enclosed in a framework of boughs in a First of May procession: from ca. 1800; ob. by 1890: coll. >, ca. 1850, S.E.

Jack in the orchard, get. To achieve sexual intromission: C.19—20 low.

Jack in the pulpit. A pretender; an upstart: coll.: C.19.

Jack in the water; occ. Jack. A handy man at boat-house or landing-stage: (low) coll.; from ca. 1835. Dickens in Boz.

jack it. To die: low:—1909 (Ware). See also jack (it) in.

Jack Johnson. A heavy Ger. shell, esp. a 5-9: WW1: army. Ex the large and famous Negro boxer (fl. 1907—12) via the black smoke issuing voluminously from the shell burst: moreover, Johnson's American nickname, as the OED Sup. reminds us, was the Big Smoke. Occ. abbr. to Johnson, 1, q.v.

Jack Jones, (usu. on one's). Alone: (imperfect) rhyming s., orig. Services': C.20. (F. & G.) Among Servicemen in WW2, and since, it has often implied a feeling of being abandoned: 'There I was, all on me Jack Jones...' Frequently abbr. to Jack. Cf. the rarer Jack Malone, and the equally common Tod Sloan, q.v. at Tod, 3, both of which provide better rhymes. (L.A.; P.B.)

Jack Ketch, occ. J. Kitch. A hangman, an executioner; c. >, ca. 1750, s. > coll. in C.19: ca. 1705–1880. Earlier allusions are to the actual person; e.g. anon., 1676, 'There stands Jack Kitch, that son of a Bitch.' Ex the famous executioner of ca. 1670–86. Cf. Derrick, 1.

Jack Ketch's kitchen. That room in Newgate in which the hangman boiled the quarters of those dismembered for high treason: C.18: perhaps orig. c. Ex prec.

Jack Ketch's pippin. A candidate for the gallows: C.18 low. Also called a gallow's apple.

jack-knife carpenter! 'A cry of derision hurled at a man, especially a carpenter, who uses a pocket knife in an emergency. Legend has it that all jack-knife carpenters end up in hell' (Leechman): Can. c.p., dating since ca. 1910, but by 1960 ob.

Jack loves a fight and Jack doesn't care are C.20 c.pp., mostly RN, referring to the seaman's love of a scrap and to his insouciance. (W. Kenneth Hubbard, 1968.) Cf. Jack ashore.

Jack Malone, on (one's). Alone: rhyming: C.20. (Jackson.) Often abbr. to on (one's) Jack, which also abbreviates on (one's) Jack Jones. Cf. Tod, 3.

Jack me hearty. Knock's var. of Jack-my-hearty.

Jack Muck. A merchant seaman: RN: ca. 1870–1914. Bowen.

Jack-my-hearty. 'Boisterous "Jack's the boy" type of rating who makes himself a nuisance ashore' (Granville): RN: since ca. 1895. Cf. Jack Strop.

Jack Nasty. A sneak; a sloven: (low) coll.: from ca. 1855; ob. (T. Hughes.) Cf.:

Jack Nasty-Face. A common sailor: nautical: late C.18–early 19.—2. A cook's assistant: C.19–20 nautical.—3. A dirty fellow: mid-C.19–20 coll. (now ob.), prob. orig. nautical.—4. Any ugly man: RN: C.20. Bowen.—5. Female pudend: low: ca. 1820–70. Jon Bee.

Jack northwester. The north-west wind: nautical coll.: from ca. 1740; ob.

Jack-o'-dandy. See Jack-a-dandy.

jack of. Weary of or bored with: Aus.: since ca. 1890. Edward Dyson, The Gold Stealers, 1901, 'Oh, well, Twitter's jack of it, an' I don't think it's much fun.' Cf. jack in and jack up.

Jack of all trades. One who (thinks he) can do everything: C.17–20: coll. till C.18, then S.E. and gen. contemptuous. Minshull, Dryden.

Jack of Dover. A sole: late C.14–17: coll.; then, in C.18–early 19, dial. (Chaucer.) Dover is famed for its soles. Apperson.

Jack of legs. An unusually tall man: coll.: ca. 1770–1890. Grose, 1st ed.—2. A large clasp-knife; late C.18–19. A corruption of joctleg. Also as jackyleg, q.v.

Jack of or on both sides. A neutral; a runner with both hare and hounds: coll.: ca. 1550–1880: extant in dial. (Nashe, Defoe, Spurgeon.) Apperson.

jack off. (Of males) to masturbate: adopted, mid-1940s, ex US. Cf. jack, n., 17.

Jack out of doors. A vagrant: C.17: coll. quickly > S.E. Jack out of office. A discharged official: derivative coll.: ca. 1540–1790. Shakespeare, 'But long I will not be Jack-out-of-office.' Contrast Jack in office, q.v.

Jack policy, or Jack System, the. An attitude—the habitual expression of—utter selfishness: Aus.: since ca. 1945. (B., 1953.) 'Spontaneously combusted' ex fuck you, Jack, I'm all right (RN, hence army, hence gen.)—the peculiarly RN ... I'm inboard—and the specifically RAF ... I'm fire-proof. Cf. also the Jack Club, at PRISONER-OF-WAR SLANG, §14, in Appendix. This attitude has, among civilians, and since ca. 1954, been widely expressed in the c.p. I'm All Right, Jack, as in the 1959 film of that title: the Dishonourable Company of the Jacquerie has, since 1945, gained an increasingly large membership, with the result the freemasonic Men of Good Will have, unnoticed by the 'Jacks', quietly intensified their Resistance to the general rot.

Jack Portuguese. A Portuguese, esp. sailor: naval: ?ca. 1810–60. W.N. Glascock's Naval Sketch Book, 2nd series, 1834, at II, 137. (Moe.)

Jack pudding (or Pudding). A merry Andrew; a clowning assistant to a mountebank: coll.: 1648 (SOD); ob. by 1830, † by 1900. Cf. Fr. Jean Potage.

Jack rag, every. A C.19 (mainly dial.) var. of every man Jack, q.v.

Jack Randall. A candle: rhyming s.:—1859. Ex the famous boxer. (H., 1st ed., erroneously spells as Randle.) Cf. Harry Randall.

Jack Robinson. The penis: low: C.19–20, ob. Cf. John Thomas.—2. In before (one, usu. you) can (or could) say Jack Robinson, instantly: late C.18–20 coll. (Fanny Burney, Dickens, Hardy.) According to Grose, 1st ed., 'from a very volatile gentleman ... who would call on his neighbours, and be gone before his name could be announced': which seems improbable. Apperson.

Jack Sauce (or S). An impudent fellow: coll.: ca. 1560–1750. (Cf. sauce-box.) G. Harvey, 'A Jack-Sauce, or unmannerly puppy.' See sauce, n., 1.

Jack-Sepoy. A native soldier: Anglo-Indian coll.: ca. 1840–70. Y. & B.

Jack Shalloo. A braggart: RN: ca. 1850–1900. (Bowen.) Perhaps ex dial. shallock, a dirty, lazy fellow; the etym. at Jack Shilloo, q.v., is more prob.; a third suggestion comes from Granville: 'A corruption of John Chellev, who was a Naval Officer of the bonhomous, devil-may-care type'.—2. Whence 'a happy-go-lucky careless officer, and hence a slack ship is called a Jack Shalloo ship' (Bowen): RN: C.20.

Jack Sharp, a stickleback (small river-fish with spiny back), lies, I'd guess, between dial. and s.: ?C.18–20. Recorded in Robert Chambers, The Book of Days, 1862–4. (Based on a reminder from F.L. Peppitt.) It was still current in Liverpool, mid-C.20.

Jack Shay; jackshea. A tin quart-pot: Aus.:—1881; ob. ?prompted by char, n., 2, q.v.; more prob. punning, or rhyming on, tay, † S.E. and present Irish pronunciation of tea; possibly at first Jack Shea (rhyming with tay). Morris.

Jack Shilloo. A boaster: RN: late C.19–early 20. (F. & G.) A Jack-personification of Anglo-Irish shilloo, a loud shouting, as in Lover, 1840 (EDD). Also jack Shalloo, q.v.

Jack Smithers. A drink taken by a man alone: Aus.: ca. 1900–30. B., 1943.—2. Hence, a man drinking alone: Aus.: since ca. 1930. (B., 1959.) Cf. Jimmy Woodser, 1.

Jack Snip. An inferior tailor: C.19–early 20.

Jack Sprat. An undersized man or boy: mid-C.16–20; ob., except in dial. Pej. Jack with pej. sprat. Whence presumably Jack Sprat could (or would) eat no fat, his wife could (or would) eat no lean. Perhaps, in its post-1850 career, rhyming s. on brat.—2. Fat (of meat): rhyming s.: late C.19–20. Franklyn, Rhyming.

Jack stickler. A busybody: coll.: ca. 1570–1690.

Jack Straw. A nonentity: coll.: ca. 1590–1910. Nashe, 'These worthless whippets and Jacke-Strawes'. Ex the C.14 rebel (cf. Guy Fawkes).

Jack Straw's castle. The female pudend: C.19 low.

Jack Strop. 'A truculent "Jack-my-hearty" [q.v.]' (Granville): RN: since ca. 1900. 'The mess-deck sobriquet for a conceited man who fancies himself a dashing buccaneer, but is better at boasting than acting' (John Laffin, Jack Tar, 1969); Claiborne notes the spoonerism on jack strap, while Granville derives the term 'from the lower deck obstrousulous for obstreperous, hence the adjective stroppy [q.v.]'. Hence Jack Strop's old woman, a dogmatic know-all (Knock): late C.19–20.

Jack Surpass. A glass (of liquor): beggars' rhyming s.: 1851. Mayhew, 1; app. † by 1910.

Jack tar (Tar). A sailor: since (?) late C.17 or early 18; Moe cites the South Carolina Gazette, 30 Aug. 1735, 'One who was no better than a common Jack Tarr': coll., that, like bluejacket, now verges on familiar S.E. Often abbr. jack, and sometimes tar. Granville: 'Short for jack tar (pot). As a primitive form of waterproof, C.17 sailors used to put tar on their canvas breeches and were consequently known as Jack tars (or tarry breeks). The first reference to this is in Congreve's Love for Love (1695) with reference to Ben the Sailor.'—2. A hornpipe: ca. 1820–90.—3. A bar (for drinks): rhyming s., mainly theatrical: C.20. Franklyn, Rhyming.

jack the contract. To leave a job, esp. if difficult: Aus.: since ca. 1910. (B., 1943.) A specialisation of jack in, v.t. Cf. bugger the contract.

jack the interim. To be remanded: c. of ca. 1860–1914.

Jack the Jew. A Jewish thief or 'fence' of the lowest order: c. of ca. 1820–60. Jon Bee.

Jack the lad. 'I was always Jack the Lad—the one everyone liked but nobody wanted to know' (New Society, 4 June 1981); since mid-1970s applied to the most conspicuous member of any gang of young men of the 'larky', trouble-making sort, though not necessarily vicious. (P.B.)

Jack the Painter. Very strong tea, drunk in the bush: Aus.: from ca. 1850; ob. (G.C. Mundy, Our Antipodes, 1855.) Ex the mark it leaves around one's mouth. Morris.

Jack the Ripper. A kipper: rhyming s.: late C.19–20.

Jack the slipper. A treadmill: c.: from ca. 1860; by 1930, historical.

Jack-trap. Railway points. See man-trap, 5.

jack up. To give way, collapse, become bankrupt, become utterly exhausted.—2. V.t., to ruin; exhaust utterly; destroy. Both from ca. 1870 and both coll. (perhaps orig. dial.: see EDD). Perhaps ex jacked, q.v.—3. To abandon, 'chuck up': late C.19–20; slightly ob. Ex dial. Andrew Lang wrote, ca. 1887, to Rider Haggard: 'If you jack up Literature, I shall jack up Reading!' (quoted by Peter Ellis in H. Rider Haggard, a Voice from the Infinite, 1978). Perhaps cognate with S.E. jerk. As v.i., 'to abandon a job', it was orig. navvies' and apparently rhyming s. on pack up (one's belongings): D.W. Barrett, Navvies, 1880.—4. To reprimand for slackness: Can.: since ca. 1920. 'Harry's not doing his job. He needs jacking up.' (Leechman).—5. To arrange: NZ: since ca. 1930. 'I'll get an early start tomorrow—I've jacked up a lift into town' (Fiona Murray, Invitation to Danger, 1965). Ex 'to jack up a car'. P.B.: used in this sense in Brit. army, later C.20.—6. 'Take an injection of a narcotic' (Home Office): drug-users': 1970s. Cf. jack, n., 33, q.v.

Jack Weight. A fat man: coll.: late C.18–mid-19. Grose, 1st ed.

jack whore. 'A large masculine overgrown wench' (Grose, 1st ed.): ca. 1760–1860. (Extant in Hampshire dial. for 'a strong Amazonian sailors' trull': EDD).—2. A wencher: low: mid-C.19–early 20. Manchon.

Jack with the feather or with a plume of feathers. A trifling person: coll.: late C.16–17.

jackanapes.—'old colloquial', says F. & H.—was prob. such only in the C.16–17 sense, a tame ape or monkey; otherwise S.E.—2. Hence, (as) full of tricks as a jackanapes, exceedingly mischievous: C.17–18. (B.E.) Cf. the C.17–18 proverb, there is more ado with one Jack-an-apes than (with) all the bears.

Jackanory. A glib excuse: rhyming s. on story: entertainment world: since ca. 1970. Ex the title of a very popular TV show for children. Haden-Guest, 1972.

jackaroo, jackeroo, n. A young Englishman learning sheep-and/or cattle-farming: Aus.:—1873 ('Rolf Boldrewood', quoted in Wilkes): s. >, by 1900, coll. Either ex Johnny Raw after kangaroo or ex the Brisbane Aborigines' name (orig. for a garrulous bird) for a white man. (Morris.)

jackaroo, v. To lead the life of a jackaroo, q.v.: Aus. (ca. 1887); ob.: s. > coll. Morris.

jackass. A stupid, ignorant fellow: coll. > S.E.: from ca. 1830; ob. Barham.—2. A rowing boat that plies between ships and shore: naval: ca. 1805 (earlier)—1880. W.N. Glascock, Naval Sketch-Book (I, 140), 1825. (Moe.) Cf. the derivative sense in:

jackass frigate. A small frigate that sails slowly: nautical s. > coll.: ca. 1830–70. (Marryat, in Peter Simple.) The term perhaps refers to its structure, not to its speed, and is unrelated to jackass, a heavy rough boat used off Newfoundland. Moe cites from 'Scenes from the Life of Edward Lascelles, Gent.', Dublin University Magazine, March 1834 (p. 249), 'the Hesperus, being a frigate of the class denominated Jackass frigates, had no magazine forward'; elsewhere, the Hesperus is praised for its excellent sailing qualities.

jackdaw. The jaw: rhyming s. (London streets'): 1857 (Augustus Mayhew, Paved with Gold); † by 1930.

jackdaw, v. 'To acquire dockyard paint or other materials with which to beautify your ship' (Granville): RN: C.20. Ex the jackdaw's acquisitiveness.

jackdaw and rook. A theatrical 'book of words': rhyming s. (theatrical): C.20. Franklyn, Rhyming.

jacked. (Of a horse) spavined, lamed: late C.18–19 coll. In late C.19–20, jacked up. (See jack up.) Perhaps ex to jerk.

jackee-ja or Jacky-ja(r). 'A canoe on the Greenland coast': nautical: C.20. (Bowen.) Perhaps by Hobson-Jobson ex an Eskimo word.

jackeen, Jackeen. (Often Dublin jackeen.) A self-assertive but worthless fellow; esp. a Dublin rough: Anglo-Irish: from ca. 1840; ob.: coll. Ex Jack + pej. -een, as in squireen. In Newfoundland coll., late C.19–20, it = 'a rascally boy' (L.E. F. English, Historic Newfoundland, 1955).

jacken-closer. A (legal) seal: c.: ca. 1820–60 Corruption of jackrum.

Jacker. The Hon. F.S. Jackson: cricketers': since early 1890s. Born in 1870, he played for Harrow, Cambridge, Yorkshire, England: at his best, 1894–1910, he was a magnificent all-rounder: after retiring, one of the moguls of the game. [E.P. was an ardent lover of cricket, both as player and spectator, and so I have left this as one example of the personal nicknames which were dotted throughout the 1st ed. of this Dict.: P.B.]—2. Or jacker, a boy in a training-ship: RN: late C.19–early 20. Bowen.

jackeroo. See jackaroo.

Jackery. (Gen. in pl.) A favoured station-hand: Aus.: ca. 1885–1910.

jacket, the cooked skin of an unpeeled potato, S.E.—2. 'A soldier who wears a jacket (chiefly cavalry or horse artillery)': army: latish C.19–early 20. (Ware.) Cf. get the jacket, to receive an appointment to the Royal Horse Artillery: army coll.: earlier C.20. F.&G.: 'In allusion to the R.H.A. uniform jacket, in contradistinction to the tunic of the Royal Artillery'.—3. Give a red-laced jacket, to flog: military: ca. 1800–50.—4. Line (one's) jacket, to fill one's stomach: coll.: C.17–early 19.—5. Send in (one's) jacket, to resign: jockeys': ca. 1870–1905. Hawley Smart.

jacket, v. To swindle; betray; deprive of one's birthright or situation: c. of ca. 1810–50. Vaux.—2. To thrash: coll.: from ca. 1875. Ex the vbl n., itself ex fall upon, or dust or lace, the jacket of.—3. To put in a strait-jacket; threaten to lock (a person) up as a madman: lower classes':—1909 (Ware).

Jacket and Vest, the. The West End of London: rhyming s.: since ca. 1910. Charles Prior, So I Wrote It, 1937—cited by Franklyn, Rhyming.

jacket job. A good job (e.g., a barman's) in the steward's department: nautical: C.20. Bowen, 'From the distinctive uniform.'

jacket-reverser. A turn-coat: joc. coll.: C.19.

jacketing. A thrashing; severe reprimand: coll.: as 'thrashing' it occurs in Sessions, Mar. 1848; Mayhew, 1851, has 'I don't work on Sundays. If I did, I'd get a jacketing.' See jacket, v., 2, for variants. Hence:—2. A policeman's (very) severe report on a prisoner in the dock: police, and legal:

since ca. 1920. Fredk P. Wensley, Detective Days, 1931, 'After I left the box the prosecuting counsel beckoned to me, "That was a pretty fierce 'jacketing,'" he said. "I don't think you should have rubbed it in so hard."' jacketing concern. The vbl n. of jacket, v., 1, q.v.: c.: ca. 1810–50. Vaux.

jackety. Of or like a jacket: coll.: from ca. 1850. Surtees (OED).

jackey, -ie. See jacky.

Jackies. American sailors: 1942+.—2. (Also jackies.) Aborigines in general: Aus.: since ca. 1930. (B., 1953.) Cf. jacky, 2.

jackman. See jackman, for which it is merely erroneous. Jacko. A Turk, esp. a Turkish soldier: military (Gallipoli and Palestine forces): 1915–18. F. & G.—2. A laughing jackass or kookaburra. See jack, n., 25.—3. A shunting engine, esp. in spoken ref.: railwaymen's: C.20. Railway.

jackpot. In crack, hit, or strike, the jackpot, to meet with exceptionally good luck: adopted, ex US servicemen, 1943 in Brit., which favours hit . . . , and 1944 in NZ, and Aus. where crack . . . is the preferred form, as B.P. notes. Orig. ex the game of poker, but, as Claiborne writes, 1976, 'more directly from slot- (or fruit-) machines, which at (very long) intervals will disgorge a "jackpot" of accumulated coins. Current in this sense [in US] at least since 1930s'.—2. A dangerous situation; a grave difficulty: Can.: since ca. 1965. Leechman cites H. Dempsey, Bob Edwards, 1975. Adopted ex US.

jackrum. A marriage-licence: c. of ca. 1800–50. Cf. jukrum, q.v.

Jack's alive. A sharp run round: coll.: early C.19—early 20. (W.N. Glascock, Naval Setch-Book, 2nd series, 1834, at II, 38: Moe.) Ex the mainly Scottish game.—2. The number 5, esp. in the game of House: military rhyming s.: earlier C.20. B. & P.—3. Hence, £5 note: low: C.20. F.D. Sharpe, The Flying Squad, 1938. Rhyming five. Often shortened to Jack's (or Jacks), as in 'I'll bet you a Jacks' (Norman).

Jack's come home. A slap-dash hotel or boarding house: theatrical: C.20. Ngaio Marsh, Vintage Murder, 1938.

Jack's delight. A sea-port harlot: sea-port s. > coll.: ca. 1840–1940.

jacks. In be upon their jacks, to have an advantage: coll.: C.17–18. Ex bowls.—2. As the jacks (very rare in sing.), the Military Police: Aus. and NZ soldiers': WW1. Hence, in NZ c., post-WW1, the police. See jack, n., 1, for Brit. usage in late 1970s.

jacksharp. See Jack Sharp.

jackshea. See Jack Shay.

jacksie, -y. The buttocks; later, the anus, as in 'Up your jacksie!': Services': late C.19–20. (H. & P.) Cf. jacksy-pardy, and see also jaxy.—2. Hence, a brothel: Aus. low: C.20. B., 1942.—3. The rear of an aircraft: RAF: WW1.

Jackson. See fly up with Jackson's hens; gone over Borough Hill after Jackson's pig; jammed like Jackson.

jacksy-pardy (occ. -pardo). The buttocks: low: from ca. 1850; ob. See jacksie, 1.

jacky (occ. var. jackey). Gin: orig. (1799) either c. or low. Lex. Bal.; W.S. Gilbert, in H.M.S. 'Pinafore', 'I've snuff, and tobacky, / And excellent jacky.' Cf. old Tom for the semantics.—2. A male Aboriginal, esp. in address (Jacky): Aus. coll.: mid-C.19–20.—3. A kookaburra: Aus.: C.20. (B., 1943; Jean Devaney, 1944.) Ex 'laughing jackass'.—4. Var. of Jacko, 1, a Turkish soldier: army: 1915–18. Ex Johnnie, 8.—6. In sit up like Jacky, to sit up straight; to be on one's best behaviour: Aus.: C.20; s. >, by 1930, coll. (B., 1942.) Like a monkey on a barrel-organ, Jacky or Jacko being a common nickname for a monkey. B., 1959, however, derives it ex sense 2. Wilkes, '[sitting up] almost cheekily'.

Jacky (or Johnny) hangman. A Jack hanger, i.e. Lanius collaris: Natal coll. (mostly juvenile): from ca. 1890. Ex 'the bird's habit of hanging his captures on thorns until they are to his taste' (Pettman).

Jacky Howe. A sleeveless shirt or singlet worn by shearers:

Aus. and NZ rural: late C.19–20. 'After the noted shearer of that name' (B., 1941).

Jacky Raw. A 'new-chum': Aus.: late C.19—early 20. (B., 1942.) Ex Johnny Raw, 1.

Jacky Rue. A squatter: Aus.: C.20. (Baker.) Perhaps a blend of prec. with jackaroo.

Jacky Winter. The brown flycatcher, a small bird common about Sydney: coll., New South Wales: from ca. 1890. 'It sings all through the winter, when nearly every other species is silent' (Morris).

jackyleg(s). A large pocket-knife: Scots coll.: late C.19–20, ob. Ex jocleleg.

Jacky's yacht. The battleship Renown: RN: ca. 1892–94. (Bowen.) The flagship of Admiral Fisher, whose nickname throughout the navy was Jacky.

jacob. A ladder: C.18–20 c. >, by 1900, low. (Memoirs of John Hall, 1708.) Perhaps, as Grose suggests, ex Jacob's dream.—2. A thief using a ladder: c. of ca. 1710–80.—3. A familiar name for a jay: C.18—mid-19. Cf. poll, 5.—4. Hence, a soft fellow; a fool: ca. 1810–60. Lex. Bal.—5. The male member: C.19 low. Cf. dick.

Jacobite, jacobite. A sham shirt; a shirt collar: late C.17—mid-19. B.E.

Jacob's join. What is sometimes called a 'faith supper' in church circles, i.e. the eating equivalent of a bottle party, each participant making a contribution to the communal meal. (Cf. the Aus. and NZ invitation 'Ladies, a plate'.) Miss Margaret Pilkington, of Accrington, Lancashire, a teacher of English, from whom I first heard the term, writes 'evidently belonging to a quite limited region. But no one could suggest an origin for it, though all say it should be Biblical' (P.B., 1976). Such terms are difficult to provide with an etym.; for one thing, some of them are far more widely distributed than one has suspected.

Jacob's ladder. A rent in which only the woof threads remain, e.g. 'a longitudinal flen in the leg of a ballet-girl's tights' (H.); theatrical > gen. s.:—1859; ob. Sala.—2. The female pudend: C.19 low. Cf. jacob, last sense.

jade. A long prison-sentence: Aus. c.: C.20. (B., 1942.) There is prob. an obscure pun on S.E. sorry jade.

Jafbo Club. See Jabo Club.

Jaffas. 'Large chunks of coal, too big to put into fire box without first breaking up with coal pick' (McKenna, Glossary, 1970): railwaymen's: earlier C.20. Ex jaffa oranges.

Jag. A Jaguar motor-car: coll.: since ca. 1946.—2. As the Jag, the Turf Club races: S. Africa (mostly Cape Town): c. and low s.: C.20. (Cape Times, 3 June 1946.) In Afrikaans, jag = hunt; cf. Dutch jagen, to hunt.

jag, (a bout of) intoxication, on a jag, on a drunken spree, and have a jag on, gen. supposed to be US, were orig.—C.17–20, ob.—Eng. dial., whence US and Eng. s. usage in late C.19–20. Lit., a load. (But jagged, tipsy, is a solely US term.) Jag in this sense was Can. by late C.19 (Niven).—2. An injection: medical: adopted, ca. 1905, from US. Cognate with jab; indeed cf. jab, n., 3.—3. In Aus., 'a dose of a narcotic administered for purposes of addiction' and 'in any way whatsoever' and therefore having nothing to do with jab: since ca. 1945. (B.P.)—4. An 'organic solvent inhaled from a handkerchief' (B.P.): Eng.: since ca. 1955. 'The child becomes dependent upon a regular "jag"' (New Society, 20 June 1963).

jag, v.t. To hunt, pursue: S. African coll.: 1850 (Gordon Cummings, A Hunter's Life in South Africa). Ex Dutch jagen, to hunt, chase. Pettman.—2. Hence, to arrest: military: C.20. B. & P.—3. To depress; get on the nerves of: NZ: C.19—earlier 20. G.B. Lancaster, Sons o' Men, 1904.

jag-cure, the. Treatment for alcoholics: Can.: since ca. 1950. (Leechman.) See jab, n., 1.

jag it in. To give up: RN: since ca. 1945. John Winton, H.M.S. 'Leviathan', 1967, 'The messdeck dodger got discouraged and just jagged it in.' A slurring of jack it in, q.v. at jack in.

jag up. To punish: army: early C.20. (F. & G.) Cf. jag, v., 2.

Jagger. A Cornish rating: RN (lowerdeck): C.20. An -er adaptation of the common Cornish surname Jago. (P-G-R.) Cf. Janner, q.v. at Jan, 2.—2. As jagger, a gentleman: c. of ca. 1835–1910: more US than Eng.? ex Ger. jäger, a sportsman (Brandon).—3. See:-

Jaggers. Undergraduates at Jesus College, Oxford; hence the college itself: undergraduates: the former,—1899 (Ware); the latter, earlier C.20 (Collinson). See -agger.—2. As the Jaggers, the 5th Battalion of the 60th Rifles, in late C.19–20 the King's Royal Rifle Corps: military coll.: C.19–20. When raised in 1798, they were composed mainly of German Jäger (riflemen, marksmen). F. & G.—4. A messenger-boy: late 1890s and early C.20. Ex 'the name of one who went from London to Chicago at a moment's notice in the 'nineties' (A.H. Dawson, Dict. of Slang, 1913).

jagging, go. To make social visits, esp. in order to gossip: NZ: C.20. B., 1941, who recalls gad and on the jag. Also, since ca. 1920, Aus. (B., 1959.)

Jago. A victualling paymaster: RN (lowerdeck): C.20. Granville, 'After the officer who introduced improved messing and victualling conditions in R.N. barracks'. Hence, going to Jago's, 'Feeding, pre-canteen-messing in the Royal Navy: ca. 1920s: used only in Plymouth Command' (Peppitt, 1977). Cf.:-

Jago's Mansion. Royal Naval Barracks, Devonport: RN: C.20. jags. Self: itinerant entertainers': C.20. Always in combination, as my jags, I or me: your jags, you; his or her jags, he or she, him or her. 'Mind that your jags (self) keeps this book in your skyrocket (pocket) until you have mastered the lingo' (Lester). Perhaps an imperfect blend of jills and nabs used similarly.

jague. A ditch: c. of mid-C.17–mid-19. (Head & Kirkman; Grose.)? cognate with jakes.

Jail, the. That public playground which occupies the site of the demolished Horsemonger Lane jail: local London: late C.19–20.—2. See worse in gaol.

jail-bait. See bait, 4, and cf. gaol-bait.

jail-bird. A prisoner; a thorough scoundrel: C.17–20; coll. till. C.19, then S.E. (Davies of Hereford.) See gaol-bird.

jail-kham(n)a. A gaol (jail): Bengal Presidency coll.:—1886. A hybrid ex khan(n)a, a house, a room. Y.&B.

jailer; loosely jailor. A policeman: Glasgow:—1934. Not ex the current S.E. sense, but coined anew from jail.

jaissy. An effeminate and polite man: Midlands: C.20. The Merseyside shape is jessey. Cf. Jessie.

jake (or Jake), n. A Jebacca boat: Can. (and US) nautical: mid-C.19–early 20. Jebacca is at Cape Ann, Mass. Bowen.—2. As jake, methylated spirits: c., mostly tramps': from ca. 1920. W.A. Gape, Half a Million Tramps, 1936.

jake, adj. Honest, upright; equitable correct; 'O.K.', excellent: Colonial and US: C.20. (I cannot adduce an early example, but jake was certainly used, in these senses, at least as early as 1910.) In Aus., we're jake = we're all right; she's jake [or she'll be jake] = it's jake, all is well. (Culotta.) Prob. ex jannock, q.v. Often elab. to jake-a-loo or jakerloo, occ. to jake-a-bon or tray jake, i.e. très (very) jake. A Can. superlative, from ca. 1920: jake with the lever up, excellent; extremely satisfactory or pleasant.

jake, adv. Well, profitably; honestly, genuinely: Colonial: from ca. 1905. Ex prec.

jake-drinker. An addict to methylated spirits: c.: C.20. The first recorded by T.B.G. Mackenzie in the Fortnightly Review, Mar. 1932; the second by W.A. Gape, Half a Million Tramps, 1936. Cf. feke-drinker, also mentioned by Mackenzie. Also jake-wallahs, as in Toby: a Bristol Tramp Tells his Story, Bristol Broadside, 1979, where spelt wallars.

jakealoo, jakerloo. See jake, adj.

jakes. A privy: from ca.1530; ob.: S.E. till ca. 1750, then coll. Shakespeare, in Lear, 'I will tread this unbolted villain into mortar, and daub the walls of a jakes with him'; Sir John Harington's Metamorphosis of Ajax, ed. Jack Lindsay, 1928. Prob. an abbr. of jack's place.

jalopy, jalopy. A cheap, or an old, motor-car: adopted, ca. 1950, ex US. The term always implies some degree of dilapidation.

jalouse. To infer; to guess: Scottish coll.: from ca. 1860.

jam (n.), a crush, a crowd, is ineligible, as is jam, excellence, good luck, though jam on it, luxury, is (late C.19–20) coll.—2. A difficulty, awkward 'mess': coll.: from ca. 1920. Ex sense, crowd, crush. Esp. in get into a jam.—3. As clear profit, an advantage, or a certainty of winning, it is late C.19–20 s. (orig. racing) > coll.—4. Hence, a joy, a great pleasure: preparatory schools': C.20. E.F. Benson, David Blaize, 1916, 'It had been "jam" to see the Head stamp on that yellow-covered book'.—5. A sweetheart; a mistress: low: from ca. 1870. (Also bit of jam, esp. as an attractive girl.) Hence, lawful jam, a wife: late C.19–20, ob.—6. The female pudend: C.19–early 20. Whence have a bit of jam, to coit.—7. The pool at the game of nap: gaming s.: from ca. 1850.—8. A gymnastics shoe: Bootham School: late C.19–early 20. (Bootham.) I.e. gym with the vowel from the second syllable: P.B.: or ex jim-jam?—9. Affectation: Aus.: since ca. 1905. (B., 1942.) Remembered by E.P., ca. 1910–14. Hence, put on jam, to put on 'side' (Wilkes).—10. See jam-jar; money for jam.—11. Not all jam, despite its coll. tinge, is S.E. But real jam is coll., † jam and fritters is s.: ex sense 3.

jam, v. To hang: c.: mid-C.18–early 19. (Grose, 2nd ed.) ? = jamb.—2. To spread with jam: coll.: from ca. 1850.—3.

Jam (Granville); jamb ('Bartimeus'), to cancel, e.g., leave: RN: since ca. 1910. R.S. cites 'Bartimeus', A Tall Ship, 1915.

jam, adj. Smart; neat: low: ca. 1880–1905. Ex jam + excellence.

jam bosun. A victualling officer: RN: since ca. 1920. Granville.

jam-buster. An assistant yardmaster: Can. railroadmen's:—1931. He disentangles the 'snarled-up' rolling-stock in a station yard.

jam clacker. See clackers, pastry with currants on.

jam-jar. A tram-car: rhyming s.: early C.20. B. & P.—2. A motor-car: id.: since ca. 1925. (Cheappack, 1934.) Often abbr. jam.—3. Hence, an armoured car: army and RAF: since 1938. Jackson.

Jam-Jug(, the). The Russian cruiser Zhemtchug: RN: ca. 1915–20. (Bowen.) By Hobson-Jobson.

jam on both sides. See d'ye want jam.

jam on it. Something pleasant: RN (—1900) > military. See jam, n., 3, and cf. jammy, q.v.—2. An (agreeable) surplus or addition: Services: since ca. 1920. 'D'you want jam on it?' = Aren't you satisfied? or Haven't you already got enough? (P-G-R.)

jam-packed. (Usu. of a crowd) 'jammed together, closely packed' (L.A., 1976): coll.: since ca. 1950.

jam-pot. A high collar: Aus.: ca. 1880–1900.—2. The female pudend: low: C.19–20.—3. 'A rear-suspension system shaped like a jam-pot, used during the 1950s on A.J.S. and Matchless motorcycles. Indeed there is [1979] a "Jam-pot Club" whose members use these machines' (Dunford).

Jam-Pusher. A member of the Army Service Corps: infantrymen's jibe during WW1. (Petch.) Cf. Jam Stealers.

jam-sampler. Motorcyclist turned car-driver: motorcyclists': later C.20. (Dunford.) Ex jam-jar, 2.

jam-soldier. A short-service soldier: army: ca. 1900. See ARMY SLANG, verse 2, in Appendix.

Jam Stealers, the. 'In WW1 a frequent delicacy on the soldiers' menu was plum and apple jam, and inevitably the much-reviled Army Service Corps became known as "The Jam Stealers"' (Carew). Cf. Jam-Pusher.

jam-strangling bastard. 'A man whose phenomenal luck suggests a degree of manoeuvring to ensure it, esp. R.N. sailor lucky in time and place of duties, privileges, etc.' (L.A.): Services': current by ca. 1950. Later shortened, sometimes, to jammy bastard, though the latter's luck may be really pure luck. (P.B.) See strangle, 1.

jam-tart. A mart: rhyming s.: mid-C.19–20. B.&P.—2.

Whence, a sweetheart; a wife; a mistress; a harlot: low: from ca. 1860.—3. The market, esp. if favourable; buyers and sellers thereat: Stock Exchange: ca. 1880–1914.—4. Heart: rhyming s.: C.20.

jam-tin. A hand-grenade improvised from a jam-tin: military coll.: 1915, then rare. B. & P.

jam tomorrow (but) never jam today, it's always. A c.p. synon. with pie in the sky when you die: since ca. 1917. Its occasion was prob. the sugar shortage experienced during WW1, but its ultimate source is supplied by 'Jam yesterday and jam to-morrow, but never jam to-day' in Lewis Carroll's Through the Looking Glass, as Robert Claiborne reminds me. jam-up, adj. and adv. (In) the pink of perfection: low coll.: ca. 1850–90. Also real jam: from ca. 1880. Cf. jammy, q.v. Jamaica discipline. 'The regulated distribution of booty among the crew of a pirate': nautical coll.: C.19–20; ob. Bowen.

Jamaica tea. See rummy tea.

jamb, v. See jam, v., 3.

jambereo. A 'good time'; esp. a drinking-bout: Aus.:—1935. A perversion of:- jamboree. A frolic, a spree: s. >, in C.20, coll., and (via the Scouts' rally, started 1920) S.E.: orig. US (ca. 1864); adopted, esp. in Aus., ca. 1890. Orig. unknown: ex the game of euchre (Origins). A.S.M. Hutchinson, If Winter Comes, 1921, uses joc. var. jamborino.

james. A crowbar: c.: C.19—early 20. Cf. jemmy, q.v. Vaux.—2. A sovereign (money): c.: from ca. 1855; ob. Mayhew, in Paved with Gold.—3. A sheep's head: low: from ca. 1825; ob. Cf. bloody jemmy, q.v.

James and Mary. A famous sandbank in the Hooghly River below Calcutta: Anglo-Indian coll.: C.18–20. Ex the wreck, there, of the Royal James and Mary in 1694. Y. & B.

James the First. The First Lieutenant in an HM ship: RN (officers') joc.: since ca. 1920. Prompted by Jimmy the One.

Jamie Duff. A professional mourner: mid-C.19–20. Prob. ex the name of a firm that supplied them.

Jamie Moore, have been talking to. To be tipsy: Scots coll.: C.19—early 20.

jammed, be. To be hanged (see jam, v.), hence to meet any violent death: ca. 1800–50. Lex. Bal.

jammed like Jackson. A C.19–20 naval c.p. verging on the proverbial, 'and when something goes seriously wrong, or leads to a disaster' (F. & G.). Ex John Jackson who, in 1787, refused to listen to his pilot and 'nearly wrecked his ship in consequence'. It occurs in, e.g., W.N. Glascock, Naval Sketch-Book (II, 136), 1826, and Sailors and Saints (I, 182), 1829. (Moe.)

jammys. (Also pron. jahmies.) Pyjamas: middle classes': C.20. Ex nursery. (P.B.) Occ. spelt jarmies (Barry Humphries in Sunday Times mag., 22 June 1980).

Jammy. (Gen. pl.) A native of Sunderland: nautical: late C.19–20. (Bowen.) Possibly a corruption of Sammy, 1, q.v.

jammy, adj. Exceedingly lucky or profitable: from ca. 1870: (low) coll. Hence, in C.20, excellent, 'topping'. Ex jam, good luck. Cf. jam on it and jam-up, qq.v.—2. Unwashed: Aus. low coll.: later C.20. McNeil.

jammy bastard. See jam-strangling, and cf. spawny git.

jammy bit of jam. An intensive of jam, n., 5: 1883, says Ware.

Jampans, the. The Japanese: among East African soldiers in Burma: ca. 1943–5. P-G-R.

jams. Abbr. jimjams, q.v. Always the jams.

Jan. See Feb.—2. Frequent nickname of ratings with a Devon burr: RN: C.20. Hence, Janner, a West Countryman: id.: since ca. 1910. (Granville.) As in the chorus, sung in a mock-West-Country accent: 'Take me back to the West Countree, where the oggies [q.v. at tiddy oggy] grow on trees—Gord, bugger, Janner!' (P.B.).—3. As jan, a purse: C.17 c. Rowlands, in Martin Mark-All; Jonson.

Janc, the. The Junior Army and Navy Club: RN and Army officers': C.20. F. & G.

jane, n. A sovereign: c.: ca. 1860–1910. (The Times, 14 Apr. 1864.) Prob. suggested by the t S.E. sense, a small silver coin of Genoa.—2. A woman; a girl: Aus.:—1916 (C.J. Dennis); by ca. 1918, also Can. ?ex US. Cf. judy, 1, and sheila. Brit. in this sense by 1933 (D.L. Sayers, Murder Must Advertise).—3. Hence, by specialisation, a sweetheart or girlfriend: coll.: mid-1920s. Josephine Tey, The Man in the Queue, 1927.—4. See straight Jane...

Jane, adj. Glasgow c., from ca. 1925, as in MacArthur & Long, 'Isobel was clearly a real 'Jane bit o' stuff'—a girl of quality who wore a hat, without affectation, because she was accustomed to it.' Ex Jane, a girl. Contrast hairly, n., 2, q.v.

Jane Shaw. See:-

Jane Shore. Tinned meat: RN: C.20. (Bowen.) Suggested by Harriet Lane and Fanny Adams, for they too were decapitated. Since ca. 1940, more commonly Shaw.—2. A whore: rhyming s.: mid-C.19–20. More gen. Rory o' More. B. & P.

jank, janky. Impudence; impudent: Oundle: since mid-1920s. (Marples.) Perhaps jank is a back-formation ex janky, and janky may be a perversion of jaunty.

janker(-)wallah; rarely jankers wallah. An airman undergoing punishment: RAF: since ca. 1920. (Jackson.) See:- jankers. Defaulters; their punishment; punishment cells; defaulters' bugle-call: since early C.20. There is doubt about whether the term was orig. army, as Granville suggests, or RN, as E.P. maintains, following Bowen. Echoic: prob. ex janglers or jangles. The term was ob. by mid-1960s, when the form of punishment was largely superseded by fines, but to thousands of national servicemen (1939–62), to be on jankers meant parading at all sorts of awkward hours, in various modes of uniform, being confined to barracks, and performing menial, usu. very dirty, and often pointless, tasks. The defaulter, a jankers man, was at the whim and mercy of the jankers king, the provost sergeant: both terms in F. & G., and dating from (prob.) early WW1. 'Well, what did you get? [i.e. what punishment?]'—'Worse than I thought: ten days effing jankers!' (E.P.; P.B.) Support for E.P. comes from Good-enough, 1901, who records the RN var. jenker, a defaulter.

Janner. See Jan, 2.

jannock, jonnick, jonnock, jonnuk. Honest, loyal, equitable; proper, customary; conclusive: s. since ca. 1820 (Sessions, 1825—as jonnock), > in 1914, fairly gen. coll. (Its use in Lancashire has been wittily satirised by C.E. Montague, A Hind Let Loose, 1911.) In Aus., where it dates ca. 1880–1960, it is gen. pron. jonnuk. In RN usage, since ca. 1925, it has meant 'in accordance with Service etiquette' (Granville). Hence C.19 die jannock, to die game or with bravado. Also used adverbially.

jantry. A ship dressed with flags: nautical, esp. naval: C.19. (Bowen.) Ex jaunty, elegant.

January chickens, have. To have children in old age: proverbial coll.: C.19.

janusmug. An intermediary, esp. in shady arrangements or transactions: Aus. c.: since ca. 1915. (B., 1942.) I.e. Janus (facing two ways) + mug (not necessarily a fool: merely small-town, insignificant).

jaol See jaw, v., 3.

Jap. A Japanese: late C.19–20 coll.—2. Also adj.: dated by Ware as early as 1860 and classified, as to Jap crock, as a Society term. (Cf. Chink, Chinese.)

Jap-happy, often contracted to Jappy. Unduly afraid of, or subservient to, the Japanese: prisoners-of-war in Far East: 1942–5. (Rohan Rivett, Behind Bamboo, 1946.) Jap-happies. See PRISONER-OF-WAR SLANG, 13, in Appendix.

japan, n. Bread: army in France, WW1. (F. & G.) Ex Fr. du pain (some bread). Also dupan.

japan, v. To ordain (a priest): from ca. 1755; ob.: mainly university. Ex the clerical black coat. (The sense, to make shiny and black, is S.E.)

Japanese knife-trick. Eating with one's knife: low: ca. 1885–1910.

jappaned. (Of a criminal) converted by a prison chaplain: Aus. c.: C.20. (B., 1942.) Ex japan, v.

japper. 'In theory, discipline [in the engine-cleaning sheds] was very strict... However, the "japper" fights, messy affairs of throwing clods of oily waste at each other, still went on' (McKenna, 2, p. 114): railwaymen's: C.20.

jap(p)ers, be or by. See jab(b)ers.

jar. (A source of) annoyance: Public Schools' coll.: 1902 (P.G. Wodehouse, The Pot hunters). That which jars on one.—2. A pint or 'handle' of beer: Aus.: since ca. 1920. Baker.—3. A glass of beer: since ca. 1950. Recorded as Lincolnshire dial. in EDD Sup., 1905.—4. Imitation jewellery so skillfully made that it seems real; to do a jar up is to sell it to a 'mug' or 'sucker' and the jar comes when the trickery is discovered: c.: since mid-1940s. (Frank Norman in Encounter, 1959.) I.e. jar, a shock. P.B.: or is it short for jargoon, q.v.? Tempest, 1950, has, 'faked diamonds. "Phoney" diamonds = Schneide [see snide, adj.] jars [from jam jar—glass]'. But Laurie Taylor, in New Society, 2 Dec. 1982, p. 382, defines it as a replica jewel used in shoplifting jewellery, and offers yet another etym.: 'so called because, nine times out of ten, the stone would be made of jargon, a derivative of the relatively valueless zircon.'—5. On or upon a or the jar, ajar: from ca. 1670; S.E. till ca. 1850, then coll.—6. A stoneware hot-water bottle: Anglo-Irish gen. coll.: C.20 or earlier; less used with the arrival of the modern rubber/plastic 'hottie'. (Mrs C. Raab.) Perhaps to be considered dial., but this sense not recorded in EDD.

jar of jam. A tram: Cockney rhyming: C.20. (Len Ortzen, Down Donkey Row, 1938.) Cf. jam-jar, 1.

jar-up. See jar, n., 4.

jarbee. An able seaman: RN:—1909 (Ware); ob. by 1930. (Bowen.) A perversion of Ab.

[jargoon, n., considered by Charles E. Leach (On Top of the Underworld, 1933) to be c., is actually S.E.]

jargoon, v. To show (a person) a real diamond and sell him a paste: c.: C.20. Ex the S.E. n. Cf. jar, 4.

jargoozle. To mislead, lit. and fig.: C.19—early 20: coll. Prob. by hamboozle ex † S.E. jargogle, to confuse.

jark; often jarke. A seal: c.: mid-C.16—19. (Harman.) Often corrupted to jack. ?cf. Romany jarika, an apron. The term survived among Liverpool street arabs—and presumably vagrants and beggars—well into C.20. Witness Arab. Hardly a word one would have expected to last, yet I don't doubt its currency.—2. Whence, a safe-conduct pass: C.19—20, ob.—3. A watch: low (? orig. c.): C.19—20, ob. More gen. yack. jack it. To run away: low: ca. 1820—60. (Bee.)? ex jerck: cf. C.20 put a jerk into it.—2. In C.17—18 c., it occurs in blot the scrip and jark it, where jark=to seal.

jarkman. A writer of begging letters; a habitual carrier, or a fabricator, of false papers: c.: mid-C.16—mid-19. Harman, B.E., Ainsworth.

jarmies. See jammies.

jaro, give (someone). To scold, vituperate: NZ: C.20. First recorded by G.B. Lancaster (1873—1945) who derives it ex Maori whauran, to scold. Cf. jiro.

jarrah-jerker. A Western Australian timber-getter: Aus.: since ca. 1920. (B., 1943.) The jarrah is an Aus. hardwood.

jarred off. Depressed (and disgusted); 'fed up': Services (mostly Army): since ca. 1930. Gerald Kersh, The Nine Lives of Bill Nelson, 1942; H. & P., 1943.

jarrehoe. A man-servant: Wellington College: C.19—early 20. ?origin.

jarring. A reprimand: Public Works':—1935. Ex give a person a jar (jolt) or else ex jar on one's nerves.

jarrock is a much-copied error for † jarrecork, a red or purple dye-stuff. OED.

jarvel. A jacket. 'Old', says F. & H.: I find no other record.

jarvis or jarvis; jarv(e)y, jarvie. A hackney coachman: s. >, ca. 1870, coll.: the -is forms in late C.18—early 19: the -(e)y, -ie forms from 1819, ob. by 1898, † by 1910 except as = the driver of an Irish car. Grose, 3rd ed.; Serjeant Ballantine in his Experiences.—2. Hence, a hackney coach: ca. 1819—70. Moncrieff.—3. Occ. as v.i., to drive a carriage: 1826: † (OED).

Ex the proper name, 'perhaps in allusion to St. Gervase, whose attribute is a whip or scourge' (W.).

jas(e)y or jaz(e)y. A (worsted) wig: ?orig. c.: by 1840 coll.: by 1870, S.E.: 1789 (George Parker). Ex Jersey (flax). Hence cove with a jazey, a judge: ?orig. c.: C.19.

Jason's fleece. A citizen swindled out of his money: late C.17—early 19: either c. or low s. B.E. jaspers. Cockroaches: MN: since ca. 1930. (Peppitt.) Origin? jasy. See jasey.

jaum. To discern; discover: c. of ca. 1815—1900. (Haggart; Egan's Grose, where it is spelt jaun.) Origin? Possibly cognate with dial jaum (= jam), to corner in an argument (EDD).

jaundy, jaunty. A master-at-arms, the ship's 'sergeant-major': RN. Ware (1909) records the first version, while the OED Sup. has 1904 for the second. However, see jaunty's boat's crew. Also jonty. 'Supposed to be from "gendarme"' (Ware); but cf. janity and its deriv.

Jaunties, the. The Royal Naval Brigade: Servicemen's: WW1. In Boyd Cable, The Old Contentibles, 1919, but I've never heard it and never seen it elsewhere.

jaunty's boat's crew. 'The men remaining in one of the old naval hulks after the ships had drawn their companies': ?ca. 1800—40. Cf. jaundy; this affects the dating.

java (or Java). Coffee (only rarely, and not since ca. 1920, tea): Can., C.20 (B. & P.); it is noted in RM (and hence, prob. RN) use in later C.20, in Christopher Hawke, For Campaign Service, 1979.

javel. A dock-loafer, gen. also a thief: nautical: C.18. (Bowen.) An extension of † S.E. jael, a low fellow, a rogue.

jaw, n. (Continual) talk; impudence: coll. >, in C.20, undignified S.E.: mid-C.18—20. Smollett, "'None of your jaw, you swab," ... replied my uncle.'—2. A talk, speech, lecture: low coll.: from ca. 1800.—3. Hold (one's) jaw, to ball or be silent: since ca. 1780: coll. >, ca. 1890, undignified S.E. In C.19—20, often stop, as in H. Kingsley's Geoffrey Hamlyn, and stow. The hold form occurs in Charles Dibdin's 'Jack Fidelity', published in the Britannic Magazine (I, no. 11, p. 345), 1793 (Moe).

jaw, v. To chatter; speak, esp. if impudently or violently; (v.t.) abuse grossly: (low) coll.: mid-C.18—20. Smollett, 'They jawed together ... a good spell'; Thackeray.—2. To address abusively, scold or address severely: low coll.: from ca. 1810. An early record: 1826, Sessions (trial of Leakes & Gould).—3. To go: tramps' c.: from ca. 1860. B. & L. derive ex Romany java, I go, and cf. Anglo-India jao (or jaw), go, of mid-C.19—20.

jaw-bone, n. Credit ('tick'): Can. (ca. 1860) >, ca. 1880, military. OED Sup.—2. Hence, call one's jaw-bone, to live on credit: from ca. 1890. F. & H.

jaw-bone, v. See jawbone.

jaw-box, the. Journalism: C.20. Neil Munro, The Brave Days, 1931.—2. The kitchen sink, with the constant chatter over the washing-up: Glasgow domestic: C.19—20; somewhat ob. by 1970. A late example is in Jane Duncan, My Friend Monica, 1960.

jaw-breaker. A word difficult to pronounce: coll.: since early C.19. Moe cites W.N. Glascock, Sketch-Book (II, 117), 1826. Baumann, 1887, has the rare var., break-jaw. Cf. the US form, jaw-cracker.—2. A hard punch on the jaw: pugilistic coll. of ca. 1860—1900.—3. (Usu. pl.) A cheap, large, hard or sticky sweet: late C.19—20.

jaw-breaking, adj. Difficult to pronounce: coll.: since early C.19. An early occurrence is in Wm Maginn, Tales of Military Life, 1829, at III, 225.—2. The adv. in -ly is recorded for 1824 (OED).

jaw-jaw. Talking; discussion. Harold Macmillan gave the term wide currency when, speaking at Canberra on 30 Jan. 1958, he declared: 'Jaw-jaw is better than war-war', prob. consciously echoing Churchill's dictum of 1954, 'Talking jaw to jaw is better than going to war.' Angela Singer, in an article in the Guardian, 5 May 1980, on Barlinnie Special Unit, Glasgow, used the headline "The prison where "jaw-jaw" replaced "war-war"'. (P.B.)

jaw like a sheep's head, all. Nothing but talk: coll.: from ca. 1870. Hindley.

jaw-mag. Talk: mostly Cockneys': from ca. 1880; ob. Pugh (2): 'He made her head ache, she declared, with his noisy jaw-mag.'

jaw-me-dead. A very talkative fellow: late C.18—earlier 20. (Grose, 1st ed.) An occ. late C.19—20 pl. is jaw-me-deaths; Baumann (1887) has jaw-me-down, which he classifies as nautical: so, too, Bowen. Among Cockneys, the version is jaw-me-dad (father), late C.19—20. (Julian Franklyn, 1962.)

jaw-smith. A (demagogic) orator: coll.: ca. 1860—1900: more US than English.

jaw- (or jawing-)tackle. The organs of speech: nautical: from ca. 1830, 1858 resp.; ob. Trelawney, 1831; C. Reade, 'Ah! Eve, my girl, your jawing tackle is too well hung.' Baumann, 1887, records the var. jawing-gear. Moe notes earlier var. jawing-tacks in Glascock, 1826. It also has var. jawing tacks aboard, haul one's, as in W.N. Glascock, Sailors and Saints (I, 145), 1829.

jaw-twister. A (—1874) ob. coll. elab. of jaw-breaker, q.v. H., 5th ed.

jaw-work! 'A cry used in fairs by the sellers of nuts' (Grose, 1st ed.): coll. or c.p.: mid-C.18—mid-19.

juwaub. See juwaub.

juwbacious. 'High old juwbacious argument we had' (H.G. Wells, The History of Mr Polly, 1910): adj. ex-jobation. (Also jobation, q.v.) A general confabulation: coll. and dial.: C.19—20. Ex:—2. A scolding: coll.: C.18—20. Cf.:

jobbone, v. To urge, as by political, trades union, leaders, etc., to comply with government policy: adopted, ex US, early 1970s. (Barnhart; Chambers, 1977.) Hence n., jobboning. Ex jaw, v., 2, and jawing.

jower. A punch to the jaw: pugilistic coll.: since ca. 1810; ob. Boxiana, III, 1821.

jawing. A talk: (low) coll.: late C.18—20.—2. A scolding: low coll.: C.19—20.

jawing-gear. See jaw-tackle.

jawing-match. Wordy warfare: (low) coll.: from ca. 1815; ob. Moore.

jawing-tackle on board, have (one's). 'To be saucy or impudent' (Egan's Grose): ca. 1820—1920. See jaw-tackle.

jawkins. A club bore: clubmen's coll.: ca. 1846—50. Ex Thackeray's Book of Snobs.

jawl. To decamp: market-traders': C.20. (M.T.) Adopted and adapted ex Romany.

jaxy and joxy. Female pudend: prostitutes' (notably Liverpool): C.20. Cf. jaxsie, 1, the buttocks.

jay. A wanton: late C.16—early 17 coll. > S.E. Shakespeare.—2. An amateur; an inferior actor: theatrical: ca. 1870—1905.—3. A simpleton (occ. as j.): coll.: latish C.19—earlyish 20. (Ware dates it at 1880.) Punch, 22 Feb. 1890, 'She must be a fair j as a mater.' The j. prob. abbr. juggins. Its US orig. shows clearly in the C.20 nuance, a fool, and in the NZ c. sense (—1932), an easy victim. More US than Eng. are the phrases flap, play or scalp (one) for a jay, to befool or swindle a simpleton, recorded by Baumann, 1887.—4. See Jays.

jay-walker. (Hence, jay-walking.) One who crosses a street to the peril of the traffic: 1925: s. (ex US) >, ca. 1934, coll., and, by 1960, S.E. Ex US jay, a provincial 'loon'. See esp. Logan Pearsall Smith in New Statesman, 15 June 1935.

jaybird. 'A housewife who does her housework in the nude. An American term often used in Australian newspapers' (B.P., 1974): potentially Aus. since 1973. See naked similes.

Jays, the. Members of the Society of Jesus: gen. Catholic coll.: C.19—20. The Jays merely phoneticises 'the Js'.

jaz(e)y. See asey.

jazz. Nonsense, 'baloney': adopted, ex US, 1960, but heard occ. in UK as early as 1957. In Sunday Times, 26 Nov. 1961, with var. razzmataz(z). See also all that jazz., q.v. at JAZZ.—2. In get a jazz on, (to) get a move on, esp. in imperative: mostly army: WW2. P-G-R.—3. See JAZZ TERMS, in Appendix.

jazz trains. '1920 suburban stock with coloured strips over doors denoting class of compartment (GWR)': railwaymen's: 1920s. Railway, 2nd.

jazz up. To modernize; to add decorative touches to; (jocularly of a book) to revise and augment' (B.P.): since ca. 1950. To enliven; esp., to convert classical music into 'pop': since ca. 1945.

jazzier. A 'K3 N.E.R. locomotive' (Railway): railwaymen's: ?ca. 1940—50.

jazzing. 'The rapid shooting and hauling of nets in the path of the incoming salmon' (Granville): trawlermen's: since ca. 1945.

jazzy. Loud-coloured; 'flashy': since ca. 1935. Michael Harrison, Reported Safe Arrival, 1943, 'He wore a blue jumper of that inarticulate boisterousness called "jazzy".'

jeames. A flunkey; a footman: 1846: coll. in C.19, S.E. in C.20. Thackeray instituted the term in the Diary of C. Jeames de la Pluche, Esq.—2. (As J.) the Morning Post: journalists': ca. 1859—1885. (H., 2nd ed.) Ex James affectedly pronounced.

Jean(-)Baptiste. A French Canadian: Can. coll.: late C.19—20. A common Fr., esp. Fr.—Canadian, pair of given names.

Jean Crappeau is an occ. var. of John(ny) Crappo.

Jeanie boy is the North Country's equivalent of Nancy boy: C.20.

Jebbel. The inevitable military nickname, on Egyptian service, of men surnamed Hill: ca. 1920—50. Ex Arabic for hill.

Jedburgh, Jeddart, or Jedwood justice. Hanging first and trying afterwards: C.18—20: Scots coll. > historical S.E. A. Shields, 1706, 'Couper Justice and Jedburgh Law.' Ex a piece of summary justice done at this Scots border town. Cf. Čupar justice, Lydford law.

jee. A var. of grafters' gee (q.v.). George Orwell, Down and Out, 1933.

jee! or gee! An orig. euph., now mostly US, coll. corruption of Jesus!: mid-C.19—20. Whence, jee whizz!, indicative of surprise: late C.19—20, as in C.J. Dennis. Facetious variants of the latter are jee w(h)illikins! (mid-C.20) and jee whiskers! (NZ, early C.20).

jeed. Slightly derogatory term, used by technical and specialist soldiers in a signals regt in Cyprus, late 1950s, for one of those vitally necessary members of the unit who had no special 'trade' and who did all the hard manual work. Used also as adj. Ex G.D. = general duties; cf. next, 2. (P.B.)

jeep. A member of the R Can. NVR: ca. 1938+. (H. & P.) Prob. ex Eugene the jeep, name of an animal in the US comic strip 'Popeye the Sailor-man' by E.C. Segar.—2. A utility, orig. military, small truck: adopted, ex US, by the Canadians in 1939, by the Brit. army in 1941 and by the RAF early in 1942 (H. & P., 1943); since mid-C.20, S.E. Ex G.P. (= general purposes) vehicle.—3. Hence, late 1942+, 'Services' term for a girl friend.—4. A junior production- (or programme-) engineer: BBC: since ca. 1944. Francis Worsley, Itma, 1948, remarks that 'These Junior Programme Engineers, known in the B.B.C. as "Jeeps", are very important people'. A vocalisation of j—p.—5. The Jeep. See Chad.

jeepable. (Of roads or tracks) usable by jeeps (see jeep, 2): army coll. > j.: since ca. 1944. P-G-R. jeepers creepers, occ. merely jeepers! An exclamation adopted, ca. 1944, ex American servicemen; ob. by ca. 1970. Euph. ex Jesus Christ!

jeer. In C.20 the more usual spelling of jere, 2, q.v.

Jeese or Jeezi! Jesus!, as exclamation or oath: low: C.20. Ex US.

jeff. A rope: circus s. >, by 1900, j.: from ca. 1850. Dickens in Hard Times.

jeff, v. 'To throw or gamble with quadrats as with dice' (Jacobi): printers':—1888. Ex US (1837).

jeffy. See jiffy.

jegger. See jigger, n., 1.

Jehoshaphat. See jumping Jehoshaphat. (A sonorous name for the mild purpose.)

jehu, a furious driver, hence a coachman, is merely joc. S.E.

Jekyll. 'Have a Jekyll... Have a brandy and Coca Cola'

614

(C.P. Wittstock, letter of 23 May 1946): S. African: since ca. 1930. Ex 'Jekyll and Hyde'; the mild and the violent.—2. See: Jekyll and Hyde. Crooked; spurious, counterfeit: since ca. 1920; orig. and still mainly underworld, but, by 1940 at latest, also police s. It rhymes on snide, adj. q.v., and, esp. in the underworld, is often shortened to Jekyll (John Gosling, The Ghost Squad, 1959). A neat pun on R.L. Stevenson's characters.

jel. Jealous: girls' Public Schools': since ca. 1920. Nancy Spain, Poison for Teacher, 1949.

jeldi (-y). Quickly. See jildi.

jell, n. A coward: Aus.: since ca. 1950. (Dick.) Cf. the S.E. 'to tremble like a jelly', and jelly belly, 2. See sense 2 of: jell, v.i. (Of ideas, plans) to take full shape, to fall into place, to become settled: adopted, ca. 1945, ex US; by 1955, coll.; by 1975 perhaps, by 1977 certainly, familiar S.E. Ex a jelly's cooling and setting.—2. As jell it, to act like a coward: Aus. (Dick.) See jell, n.

Jellah-coffee runner. 'A West coast [presumably of Africa] fowl—a wretched thing' (Goodenough, 1901): RN: late C.19—early 20.

Jellalabad Heroes, the. Sobriquet of the 13th Regt of Foot (1881–1959, Somerset Light Infantry), from their brilliant success in withstanding the siege of Jellalabad by the Afghans, 1842. They were also known as 'The Illustrious Garrison'. Carew.

jellico, occ. jeelyco. Angelica sylvestris: coll. (—1853) >, ca. 1880, S.E. OED.

Jellicoe Express, the. 'The all-Service train from London to Thurso (for Scapa Flow). Predominantly Naval. This train became famous in the 1914–18 war and was put back into service in the war of 1939–45' (P-G-R). Hence simply Jellicoes, these trains. Peppitt cites M. Brown, Scapa Flow, 1968. Ex John Jellicoe, Commander (1914–16) of the Grand Fleet, based at Scapa; he was created 1st Earl Jellicoe.

jelly. A buxom and pretty girl: low: ca. 1840–1910. Perhaps ex Scots jelly=excellent; but B. & L. record var. all jelly, which points to deriv. from the sweet.—2. The semen virile, low coll.: C.17–20. Fletcher, in The Beggar's Bush.—3. Gelnignite: poss. orig. Aus., since ca. 1918 (B., 1942); by 1925, gen. British s.—4. A gelatine diffuser. See put a jelly...

jelly baby. A gelnignite expert: since late 1940s. (Angus Hall, On the Run, 1974.) Ex prec., 3, and the children's jelly sweet in the shape of a baby.

jelly-bag. The scrotum.—2. The female pudend. Both low coll.: C.17–20, ob.

jelly-belly. A fat person: low coll.: C.19–20. Cf. forty-guts, q.v. at forty-foot.—2. A coward: Aus.: since ca. 1930. (B.P.) Hence the adj. jelly-bellied: since ca. 1935. Cf. jell. The adj., in its lit. sense 'fat', occurs in Kipling's Stalky & Co., 1899, and may safely be presumed to date since ca. 1870.

jelly-dog. A harrier (dog): sporting:—1897. With harriers, one hunts hares, which are gen. eaten with jelly. OED.

jelly-dogging. Vbl n., hunting with harriers: sporting s.: 1889 (R.S.S. Baden-Powell: OED).

jelly-legged. (Of a boxer) groggy: sporting coll.: C.20. L.A. records hearing it in 1960.

jem. A gold ring. (A rum jem=a diamond ring.) Early C.18—mid-19 c. Grose, 1st ed. Cf. fam, 2.

Jem (occ. Jim) Mace. A face: rhyming s.: late C.19—early 20. (B. & P.) Ex the noted boxer.

jemeny! An occ. spelling (—1923) of jeminy!, q.v. Manchon.

jemima. A chamber-pot: low: C.19—early 20.—2. A servant girl: Londoner's joc. coll.:—1887; ob. (Baumann.) Cf. biddy, 2.—3. A dressmaker's dummy: domestic: ca. 1880–1930.

jemimas. Elastic-sided boots: coll.: C.20.

jeminy!, often prec., occ. followed, by o(h). A var. of ob. gemini, q.v.

jemmy. Neatly: coll.: ca. 1830–90. Ex jemmy, adj., 1.

jemminess. Neatness, spruceness: low coll.: ca. 1755–1890. See jemmy, adj.

jemmy (in C.19, occ. jimmy). A short crowbar used by housebreakers: ?orig. (—1811) c.: by 1870, coll.; by 1910, S.E. (Lex. Bal.; Dickens, in Oliver Twist.) Earlier jenny, 1, q.v.; ca. 1810–30, occ. called a jemmy rook (Lex. Bal.); in US, jimmy. Cf. James, 1, q.v.—2. A dandy: coll.: ca. 1752–1800, thereafter gen. jemmy jessamy († by 1900), though the two terms were orig. distinct. The Adventurer, no. 100, 1753, 'The scale... consists of eight degrees; Greenhorn, Jemmy, Jessamy, Smart, Honest Fellow, Joyous Spirit, Buck, and Blood.' See also jemmy jessamy, adj., separate entry.—3. Hence, a light cane, orig. and esp. one carried by a 'jemmy' or dandy: ca. 1753–1800.—4. Hence, also, a finicky fellow: naval: ca. 1760–1800. Bowen, 'Adopted by the mutineers of 1797 for all officers.'—5. A sheep's head cooked: coll.: from ca. 1820; ob. Cf. bloody jemmy. It occurs in Sinks, 1848, as 'the head' (human or animal).—6. A shooting-coat; a greatcoat: coll.: ca. 1830–1910. Dickens, 'Your friend in the green jemmy.'—7. A term of contempt, esp. as all jemmy (more gen. all jimmy), all rot!: ca. 1860–1910.—8. A sovereign (coin): 1857 (Augustus Mayhew, Paved with Gold, 'Short for Jemmy O' Goblin').

jemmy, v. To open (a door, window, etc.) with a jemmy (see prec., 1): late C.19–20: c. until ca. 1910, then low and police s. J.V. Turner, Homicide Haven, 1933.

jemmy, adj. Dandified, smart, neat: coll.: ca. 1750–1860; extant in dial. G.A. Stevens, 'Dressed as jemmy... as e'er a commoner in all England.' Ex † gim, smart, spruce.—2. Hence, sharp, clever: ca. 1760–80.—3. A pej.: low: ca. 1860–1910. Ex jemmy, n., 7.

Jemmy Donnelly. A joc. coll. name given to three kinds of large timber tree: Queensland: from ca. 1880; ob. Morris.

Jemmy Ducks. (Occ. Billy D.) The ship's poulticer: nautical: ca. 1860–1905.

Jemmy Grant. See Jimmy, n., 2, and Jimmy Grant, 2.

jemmy jessamy, adj. (gen. with capitals). Dandified, effeminate: ca. 1753–1860. Ex Eliza Haywood's The History of Jenny and Jenny Jessamy, 1753. Var., Jemmy Jessamine, not before 1823. See jemmy, n., 2.

jemmy-john. A low coll. corruption (—1864) of demijohn. T.B. Aldrich.

Jemmy o' Goblin. A sovereign: (orig. theatrical) rhyming s.: from ca. 1850. More frequently Jimmy o' Goblin, occ. abbr. (—1909) to Jimmy (recorded by Ware).

jemmy rook. See jemmy, n., 1.

Jemmy Squaretoes. The Devil: nautical: C.19–20. (Bowen.) Cf. Old Squaretoes, q.v.

jenker(s). An occ. var. of jancker(s), q.v. The sing. version recorded by Goodenough, 1901, for a default: RN.

Jenkins is the journalistic nickname, ca. 1880–1910, for that person on the staff of the Morning Post who reports the doings of Court and Society. B.&L.—2. See die like Jenkins'...

Jennies. See Jenny Hills.

Jenny. See Jenny Wren.

jenny, n. A small housebreaking crowbar: late C.17—early 19 c. (B.E.) Cf. jemmy, n., 1., bess, betty, and the Ger. Peterchen, Klaus, Dietrich (W.).—2. A she-ass: C.19–20: coll. >, by 1890, S.E. Abbr. jenny ass.—3. 'A losing hazard into the middle pocket off a ball an inch or two from the side cushion' (F. & H.): 1856 (SOD): billiards s. > j. >, in C.20, S.E.—4. A hot-water bottle: coll.: ca. 1880–1930.—5. A var., e.g. in the police novels of Alan Hunter, of genny, q.v., a generator.

jenny, v. To comprehend: c.:—1909 (Ware). Perhaps a perversion of jerry, v., or granny, v.

Jenny Darbies. Policemen: ca. 1830–70. Charles Martell, The Detectives' Note Book, 1860, 'Well, I joined the [police] force...

There was a good deal of animosity against us for a long while and all sorts of opprobrious epithets were bestowed upon us. We were "Bobbies", "Bluebottles", "Peelers", and "Jenny Darbies" (gens d'armes).'

Jenny Hills. (Very rare in sing.) Pills: rhyming s.: it prob.

dates from the late 1870s, for it was in the 1870s that Jenny Hill, the music-hall performer, was at the height of her fame. (Lester.) Often shortened to Jennies.

Jenny Lea or Lee. Tea: rhyming s.: late C.19–20. Also Rosy Lee and you and me.—2. A flea: id.:—1923 (Manchon). P.P., Rhyming Slang, 1932, differentiates thus: Jenny Lea, tea; Jenny Lees, fleas.—3. A key: id.: C.20.

Jenny Lind. 'A cradle used by gold prospectors for panning gold. After "the Swedish Nightingale", but why?' (B.P.): Aus.: late C.19—early 20. Cf.:-

jenny linda or -er, Jenny Linda or -er. A window: rhyming s.:—1857 ('Ducange Anglicus'.) On winder, the low coll. pron., ex Jenny Lind., the famous mid-C.19 singer.

Jenny Scribe. A member of the WRNS with Writer rating; RN: since ca. 1940. Cf. Jenny Wren, 2.

Jenny Willocks. A very effeminate male; a hermaphrodite; Glasgow:—1934.

Jenny Wren. A wren: coll.: mid-C.17–20. An excellent example of the people's poetry ('twopence coloured').—2. Hence, inevitably, a member of the WRNS, a 'Wren': since 1939. (H. & P.) Cf. fill Tar.

jere or jeer. A turd: c.: since C.17. This sense survives in market-traders' s., e.g. 'He's gone for a jeer' = he is at stool (M.T.).—2. Hence (?) , one's backside: low; esp. showmen's: C.19–20. Neil Bell, Crocus, 1936, and (an Aus. example) Ruth Park, Poor Man's Orange, 1950.—3. A male homosexual: Franklyn records this sense as deliberate rhyming s.: C.20.—4. In off the jeer, it = 'off the rear', 'mid-20 C. pickpockets' slang for a wallet removed from the victim's rear trousers pocket' (Franklyn 2nd).

jerecase or jeercase. The buttocks; arse: market-traders': C.20. As in, e.g., 'I'm not going to lick his jerecase' (M.T.). An extension of prec., 2; cf. arse-piece, at -piece.

Jeremiah. A fire: rhyming s., esp. urban labourers': C.20. (John o' London's Weekly, 9 June 1934.) Cf. Anna Maria.

Jeremiah, v. To complain: lower classes' coll.:—1909 (Ware); ob. by 1935. Cf.:-

Jeremiah-mongering. 'Deplorable and needless lamentation': Society: 1885–6. 'Invented to describe the behaviour of those who after the fall of Khartoum—the country is going to the dogs, sir!—went around maintaining that England had indeed come to a finality' (Ware).

jeremy diddler (or with capitals). A shark or sharper; a shabby and dishonest borrower: coll.: 1803, Kenney names thus a man in Raising the Wind; ob. Personification of diddler, q.v.

Jericho. A place of banishment, retirement, concealment, or desirable distance, esp. in go to Jericho, which in the imperative = go to the Devil: s. > coll.: from ca. 1635. Ex 2 Samuel 10. 4–5. Cf. Halifax, q.v.—2. A privy: since ca. 1750; gen. † in C.20, except among builders and masons. Parson Woodforde, Diary, 26 Apr. 1780.—3. A rough quarter of Oxford: Oxford University: ca. 1840–80. 'Cuthbert Bede', 1853, 'The purloins of Jericho would send forth champions to the fight.' John Betjeman notes that it is extant among conservators of old Oxford University s.—4. In, e.g., he has been to Jericho, he is drunk: C.18—early 19: drinkers'. Apperson.—5. In from Jericho to June, a long way: coll.: ca. 1835–1915. Barham.

Jericho Jane. A long-range Turkish gun firing into Jericho from the Shunet Nimrin hills in 1918: among Aus. soldiers in that region. (F. & G.) Cf. Asiatic Annie.

jerk. A witty sally, a retort; a lash with a whip: both, despite F. & H., are S.E. But Dr jerk, a flogging schoolmaster, was coll. ca. 1740–1830. Foote.—2. A muscular-tendinous reflex (action): medical students':—1933 (Slang). E.g. a 'knee-jerk'.—3. A chap, fellow, 'guy'; usu. with pej. tinge: adopted, 1943, ex US servicemen. Duncan Webb, Daily Express, 11 Sep. 1945.—4. Custard: Aus. army: WW2. (B., 1943.) ?ex jerk off.—5. In jerk the cly, to be whipped at the post: c.: C.17–18.—6. In a jerk, instantly: coll.: ca. 1760–1820. G.A. Stevens, 'Put wine into wounds/You'll be cured in a jerk.' Extant in dial.—7. In had a jerk in, 'Mileometer turned back (now illegal)' (Clive Graham-Ranger, in Sunday Times mag., 9 Aug. 1981, p. 42): car dealers': later C.20.—8. See jerks, 3; jerk in it.

jerk, v. To write, as in jerk a poem: (low) coll.: later C.18–19. An early occurrence is in a letter from Charles Burney to his friend Twining, 1773.—2. To accost eagerly: coll. or s.: ca. 1740–1810.—3. To rob (a person of): c.: from ca. 1880. Baumann.—4. Elliptical for jerk off, q.v., to masturbate.

jerk a gybe. To forge a licence: mid-C.17–18 c. Head & Kirkman.

jerk a part. See sling a part.

jerk a wheeze. To tell a 'wheeze' with brilliant effect: theatrical: 1860, says Ware, but he, I believe, antedated it by a decade—perhaps even by two decades.

jerk chin-music. To talk: ca. 1870–1910: coll., mostly US.

jerk in (to) it, put a. To act smartly or vigorously; hurry: from ca. 1912. Ex physical training and prob. suggested by jump to it. (B.&P.).—2. See jerk, n., 7.

jerk-nod. See yerknod.

jerk off, v.i. and v. reflexive. To masturbate: low coll.: C.18–20. An ob. low s. var. is jerk (one's) jelly or juice. Other, extant, variants are jerk (one's) mutton or turkey. Jerkin' (one's) gherkin (low: later C.20) is obviously ex the shape, but is heavily influenced by rhyme, as in 'Perkin was furkin' jerkin' his gherkin' (George Forwood, 1962). Cf. gallop... and pull... in this sense, which may, like jerk, also be v.t. (E.P.; P.B.) jerk the cat. To vomit. See shoot the cat, 1.

jerk the tinkler. To ring the bell: joc.: ca. 1830–1925. Dickens, Oliver Twist.

jerkbump. So to strike or flog (someone's) bum as to cause him to jump or, at the least, to writhe: Liverpool street arabs': late C.19—mid-20. Arab.

jerke is Randle Holme's var. (1688) of jark, a seal. Also, he has jerkt, sealed.

jerker. A tippler: low: ca. 1830–1900. ?ex jerk one's elbow.—2. A steward: nautical: from ca. 1850; ob.—3. A harlot: urban (mostly London): from ca. 1860; ob. Ex jerk, v., 2.—4. A chamber-pot: low: from ca. 1870; ob.—5. Tapioca: RN lowerdeck: late C.19–20. (Knock.) Cf. jerk, n., 4.

jerks. Delirium tremens: coll.: from ca. 1820.—2. Physical training: from ca. 1905: perhaps orig. naval or military. Abbr. physical jerks.—3. Elliptical for fly-jerks, 'small pieces of cork suspended from the brim of a tramp's hat to ward off flies' (B., 1943): Aus. coll.: C.20.

jeroboam, wine-measure, -bottle, or -goblet, is S.E.—2. A chamber-pot: ca. 1820–80. Whence jerry, 3.

jerran. Anxious; (greatly) concerned: Aus.: ca. 1820–1900. Peter Cunningham, 'Rolf Boldrewood'. Ex jirrand, Botany Bay Aboriginal for afraid (Morris).

jerrawicke. Australian-made beer: Aus. coll.: ca. 1850–60. (Morris.) ?ex Aboriginal.

jerrican. A petrol can captured from the Germans (Jerries); then any petrol can of similar type: army in N. Africa: 1940–3. (P-G-R.) Extant and, since ca. 1945, S.E.

Jerry; occ. Gerry. N. and adj., German; esp. (of) a German soldier: 1914+; ob. From mid-1916, more gen. than Fritz(y). Often half-affectationately, as in 'Poor old Jerry's copping it hot from our heavies.' (B. & P.) There is much to be said for derivation from jerry, n., 3: the German soldier's large steel helmet did, in fact, look rather like a chamber-pot.—2. Hence, 'a German aircraft': since ca. 1915 and current again in 1939–45; in 1940–1, frequently used by civilians (Berrey, 1940).—3. The inevitable nickname for anyone surnamed Dawson: C.20. (John o' London's Weekly, 12 Dec. 1936.) Why?—4. Jerry, ex and synon. with the pot, the headmaster: Cheltenham: resp. since ca. 1919 and since ca. 1890. Marples.

jerry, n. A fog, a mist: c. of ca. 1810–80. Vaux.—2. Also c. (—1887), a watch: ob. (Baumann.) The gen. C.20 term is kettle.—3a. A chamber-pot: low: from ca. 1825. Ex jeroboam. A var. nuance, 'water-closet': Sessions, May 1850 (Surrey cases). It has the further nuance, 'a Jeroboam' of drink, as in 'The naval officer . . . came into the Clarendon for a Jerry of punch' (Wm Maginn, Whitehall (p. 140), 1827: Moe).—Hence, 3b, a cup, as in the cricket or sports jerry: Charterhouse: late C.19–20.—4. A (hard, round) hat: ca. 1840–1900.—5. A celebration of completed indentures: printers': from ca. 1870; ob.—6. A low beer-house: from ca. 1850: coll. >, ca. 1880, S.E. Abbr. jerry-shop.—7. A jerry-builder: 1890 (SOD): >, ca. 1920, coll.—8. A recognition, discovery, 'tumble': low: from ca. 1880. Ex the v.—9. A var. of gerry, q.v.

jerry, v.i. and t. To recognise; discern, discover, detect; understand: low: from ca. 1870. Prob. ex jerrycummumble, q.v. Cf. rumble, itself prob. suggested by tumble, the latter prob. ex jerrycummumble. It occurs in Aus. and NZ as jerry to, as in 'He hadn't jerryed it before' (cf. tumble to): earlier C.20 (Slatter; Wilkes); McNeil, 1973, records simply 'jerry'. Cf. adj., 2.—2. To jibe (at); chaff maliciously: low: ca. 1850–90. Ex jerr.

jerry, adj. Unsubstantial; constructed unsubstantially: from ca. 1880: coll. till C.20, then S.E. Cf. next two entries. ? etym.: perhaps ex Jerry, familiar and/or contemptuous for Jeremiah. More prob. a corruption of jury (as in jury-mast, -leg, etc.), as W. suggests.—2. Mostly in be full jerry to (someone), to be fully aware of his tricks or schemes or ulterior purpose: since ca. 1930. (Harold Griffiths, 1960.)

jerry-builder. 'A rascally speculating builder' (F. & H.): recorded in 1881 (SOD) but arising in Liverpool ca. 1830 (F. & H.). The vbl n. jerry-building occurs in a Liverpool paper of 1861 (W.).

jerry-built. Unsubstantial(ly built): 1883: coll. till C.20, then S.E. (Daily Telegraph, 23 Mar. 1883; J. Newman in Scamping Tricks, 1891.) ?ex or = jury-built (W.): see jerry, adj., 1.

jerry-come-tumble. A water-closet: lower classes'—1860; † by 1920. (H., 2nd ed.) Ex jerry, n., 3, influenced by jerry-gonimble or by jerrycummumble or by both (qq.v.).

jerry(-)diddle, or one word. 'A drink on the house' (B., 1942): Aus.: C.20. Cf. Jerry Riddle.—2. (Also Jerry Diddle.) A violin: rhyming s.: late C.19–20. Franklyn, Rhyming.

jerry-getting, -nicking, -stealing. The stealing of watches: c.—1888; ob. by 1930.

jerry-gonimble. Diarrhoea: coll.: C.19. Earlier, thorough-gonimble.—2. An antic or 'jack pudding' (q.v.): C.19 coll. > S.E. Henley & Stevenson.

Jerry Lynch. A pickled pig's-head: low: mid-C.19–early 20.

jerry-nicking. See jerry-getting.

Jerry O'Gorman. A Mormon: rhyming s.: C.20.

Jerry over!; Jerry up! Resp. a night and a day warning that a German plane was overhead: military coll.: 1917–18. F. & G.

Jerry Riddle (or Riddell), n. and v. Urination; to urinate: rhyming s., on piddle: mid-C.19–earlier 20; the usu. later C.20 form is Jimmy riddle.

jerry-shop. A (low) beer-house: from ca. 1830: s. > coll >, ca. 1860, S.E. Often abbr. jerry, as in Mayhew, 'A beer-shop or, as he called it, a jerry.'

jerry sneak. A henpecked husband: 1763, Foote instituted the character in The Mayor of Garratt: coll.: † by 1860.—2. In c., a watch-thief: C.19–early 20.

jerry-stealing. See jerry-getting.

Jerry up! See Jerry over!

jerry wag. A spreester, esp. if half drunk: ca. 1820–70. Jon Bee.

jerry-wag shop. A coffee shop or stall: ca. 1820–70. Ibid.

jerrybuilder; -ing. See jerry-builder.

jerry(cum)mumble. To shake, touse, tumble: C.18–early 19. Clobber the shorter, Grose (1st ed.) the longer form. Perhaps on stumble. Whence, perhaps, tumble, to understand (v.t. with to), jerry, the same, and rumble, the same: qq.v.

jerrymander. See gerrymander, for which it is erroneous.

Jerry's Backyard. The Skagerrak and Kattegat: RAF Coastal Command: 1943–5. (S/Ldr Vernon Noble, 1945.)

jersey. A red-headed person: Aus.: ca. 1870–1920. B., 1942.

Jerry hop. 'An unceremonious assembly of persons with a common taste for valsing; from Jersey, U.S.A.': ca. 1883–1900. Ware.

Jerusalem! Indicative of surprise. Mid-C.19–20. Perhaps the origin of Jeel! (q.v.). Cf. go to Jerusalem!, go to blazes!: C.19–earlier 20. See quot'n at shark, v., and contrast its use in:—2. In be going to Jerusalem, to be drunk: drinkers': C.18–early 19. Cf. Jericho, 4. Both terms occur in Franklin's Drinker's Dict., 1745. (Apperson.)

Jerusalem artichoke. A donkey: rhyming s., on moke, 1: ca. 1870–1930. Franklyn 2nd. Cf. Jerusalem pony.

Jerusalem cuckoo. A mule: army, in Palestine: 1917–18. 'From its melodious note' (B. & P.). In Warwickshire dial., an ass (EDD).

Jerusalem (or Jews') letters. Tattooing: nautical:—1923 (Manchon).

Jerusalem on Sea. See Jerusalem the Golden.

Jerusalem parrot. A flea: low:—1923 (Manchon).

Jerusalem pony. An ass: from ca. 1820; ob.: s. >, ca. 1850, coll. (Bee.) Ex Christ's entry into Jerusalem on an ass. Cf. Egyptian charger. Often abbr. to Jerusalem (B. & L.).—2. Hence, a needy clergyman doing locum tenens work: clerical: from ca. 1850; ob. Cf. guinea-pig, 5.

Jerusalem screw. 'A strict disciplinarian. The term refers to a base Provost unit which earned displeasure at Tel Aviv in 1941 during World War II' (McNeil): Aus. coll.

Jerusalem the Golden. Brighton: from ca. 1870. Ex the numerous rich Jews there. Applied also to other, similar areas, e.g. Golders Green. In C.20 Brighton is also known as Jerusalem on Sea.

jervis. See jarvis.

Jes (pron. jéz). A Jesuit: Catholics': C.19–20.

jessamine. A C.19 var. of:

jessamy. As n., a fashionable man next above a 'jemmy' (see n., 2): ca. 1750–1830.—2. As adj., dandified, effeminate: ca. 1680–1850. (Head, G.A. Stevens.) For both, see also jemmy jessamy. Like jessamine, of which it is a corruption, it is ex the flower (jasmine).

Jesse. 'Inevitable' nickname of men surnamed James: since ca. 1935. Ex Jesse James (1847–82), American desperado, who reached height of fame—via the films—in the 1930s.

Jessie. An effeminate man: Glasgow:—1934. Cf. Nancy and Pansy.—2. In more hide or arse or cheek than jessie, displaying an excess of effrontery: Aus. coll.: from mid-C.20. 'From the elephant at Taronga Park Zoo [Sydney], d. 1939 aet. 67' (Wilkes).—3. In give (someone) jessie or jessy, to thrash: proletarian: mid-C.19–early 20. (H., 2nd ed.) It almost certainly derives from Isaiah 11, 1, 'There shall come forth a rod out of the stem of Jesse.' (Jespersen.)

Jessies. Custard: RN lowerdeck: since ca. 1915. Semantics: custards quiver like Jessie's breasts. Cf. bathing beauty.

Jesso. The inevitable nickname of anyone surnamed Read: RN and, hence, army: late C.19–early 20. (Bowen.) What folk hero does this commemorate?

jessy. See jaisy and Jessie, 3.

jester. A 'joker' (q.v.), chap, fellow: coll.: ca. 1860–1905. See also artist, merchant. A very interesting s. and coll. synon. exists for a fellow.

jesuit. A sodomite: coll.: ca. 1630–1820. Whence jesuits' fraternity, the world of sodomy, as in Rochester, 'The Jesuits' fraternity/ Shall leave the use of buggery.' Cf. box the Jesuit and the opprobrious sense attaching to Jesuit even in S.E. The Society of Jesus is here made the scapegoat for all monastic orders,—against whom, as against sailors, the charge of masturbation is often laid.—2. A graduate or an undergraduate of Jesus College, Oxford: Oxford University: ca. 1760–1890. Smollett, in Humphrey Clinker.—3. A member of Jesus College, Cambridge: Cambridge: late C.19–20. Cf. sense 2.—4. See box the Jesuit.

Jesus appears in blasphemous oaths; often disguised, as in jab(b)ers, by, q.v.—2. See juggle with Jesus.

Jesus boots. 'Used in reference to any requirement to cross water barriers: e.g. "You'll need Jesus boots for that" (F.J. French): RAF: WW2.—2. Sandals: teenagers', and thence army (where sandals are part of WRAC tropical kit): since early 1960s. (P.B.) K.S. suggested, 1972, 'A by-product of the contemporary ... Jesus-cult?'

Jesus'-eyes. Forget-me-nots: Roman Catholic coll.:—1909 (Ware). P.B.:?ex the extremely unlikely bright blue of the eyes in some European portraits of Jesus.

Jesus factor. 'The extra safety-margin allowed for imponderables' (Peppitt): RN: since ca. 1940. (G.J. Jenkins, Hunter-Killer, 1966.) Cf.:-

Jesus nut. 'The helicopter' depends on the "Jesus nut", the nut that keeps the main blades on ...' (Sunday Times mag., 25 Nov. 1979): RN helicopter crews'.

Jesus wept! A low c.p. expressive of commiseration or disgust or annoyance: C.20. See John 11. 35.

Jet, n. A lawyer: c.: C.18—early 19. (A New Canting Dict.) Cf. autem jet, a parson (see autem).—2. A jet-propelled aircraft: RAF (and aircraft engineers') coll.: mid-1944; by ca. 1960, S.E.

jet, v. To travel by a jet aircraft: coll.: since ca. 1960.

jet job. An extremely fast racing car: Can. motorists': 1948+.

jet jockey. 'A fighter pilot' (S/Ldr G.D. Wilson, 1979): RAF: later C.20.

jet (one's) juice. (Of men) to experience the sexual spasm: low: C.19—earlier 20. Cf. come.

jet set, the. The very rich socialites flying by 'jet' from one 'in' capital or resort to another: since early 1960s: at first, coll., but by 1975, S.E. Hence jet-setter, one who belongs to this society and way of life: since late 1960s. Paul Janssen cites Apple.

jeuced infernal. See deuced infernal.

Jeune Siècle. 'Conversion of fin de siècle, and describing people ... of the same social behaviour. Of course from Paris: Society coll.: first decade of C.20. Ware.

Jew, a hard bargainer, despite F. & H. is S.E., but the v.i. and t., jew, to drive a very hard bargain, to overreach or cheat, is coll.: 1845 (SOD).—2. A ship's tailor: nautical: late C.19—20. (OED Sup.). Cf. jewing, q.v.

Jew(-)bail. Insufficient or worthless bail: mid-C.18—mid-19: coll. Grose, 1st ed.; Bee.

Jew-balance. A hammer-headed shark: nautical: late C.19—20. Bowen.

Jew boy. A (young) Jewish male: mid-C.19—20: coll. >, ca. 1920, S.E. Mayhew, 1861.

Jew chums. Jewish refugees from Germany and Central Europe: Aus.: since ca. 1936. (B., 1942.) With a pun on new-chums: cf. US refujews.

Jew fencer. A Jewish street buyer or salesman, esp. of stolen goods: low: from ca. 1850. See fencer, 2 (not fence).

Jew food. Ham: Charterhouse: C.20. Ironic.

Jew-Jack. See Jack the Jew.

Jew parade. Sunday cookhouse fatigue for those who dodge the church parade, whether they are Jews or not: army: late C.19—mid-20.

Jewburg. A C.20 S.African punning var. of Jo'burg, q.v.

Jewel of Asia. 'A certain heavy Turkish gun at the Dardanelles' (F. & G.): army: 1915. Cf. Asiatic Annie.

jeweller's shop. A pocket of free (i.e. loose) gold in a shaft: Aus. miners': since mid-C.19. Wilkes.

jewer. A rating who, for money (or rum or tobacco), will make another man's uniform for him: RN lowerdeck: late C.19—20. (W.G. Carr, Brass Hats, 1939: Moe.) See jew, 2.

Jewie. A Jew: Anglo-Irish coll.: late C.19—20. (James Joyce, Ulysses, 1922.) Cf. Jewy.—2. As j-, a Jewish; a Jew lizard: Aus. coll.: C.20. B., 1953.

jewing, vbl n. Tailoring; 'To do "jewing" is to make or repair clothes' (Taffrail): nautical: late C.19—20. (Goodenough, 1901.) Hence:-

jewing-bag or -bundle. The bag in which a sailor keeps his sewing gear: id. The 1st, in Goodenough; the 2nd, in Knock. Cf.:-

jewing-firm. 'A tailoring concern run by one or more of the ship's company' (Granville): RN: C.20.

Jewish forest. Three threes: poker-players': C.20. Ex the pron. t'ree t'rees. (Alan S.C. Ross.)

Jewish Joanna. 'Ironic term for a cash register' (Powis): low coll.: later C.20. Joanna=piano (rhyming s.)

Jewish nightcap. Foreskin: low: late C.19—20. With ref. to circumcision.

Jewish Oxo. Money: Londoners' joc: later C.20. (George Dures's play Who's Talking About an Arrest, broadcast on BBC Radio 4, 14 Aug. 1982.) Oxo is a famous beef extract.

Jewish piano or pianola. 'Ironic term for a cash register' (Powis): low coll.: C.20. The 2nd form is Aus., recorded by Baker, 1943.—2. 'Although taximeters were not made compulsory until later in 1907, the General Cab Co. Ltd were adamant that they were not running cabs without them, and they had been steadily recruiting drivers pledged to take out cabs with the "jewish pianos" or "zeigers", as they called them' (P. Warren, Taxicab, 1976).

Jew's Bentley. Var. of Jew's Rolls-Royce.

Jew's compliment. See Judische compliment.

Jew's eye, worth a. Extremely valuable: late C.16—20; ob. Perhaps ex eyes put out by medieval torturers to enforce payment. G. Harvey, 'Let it everlastingly be recorded for a sovereign Rule, as deare as a Jew's eye'; Grose.

Jew's(-)harp. A hair-comb with tissue paper applied to one side: on humming against the other, one can produce distinctive music: C.19—20: s. >, ca. 1890, coll. Punning the S.E. musical instrument so named.—2. 'A shackle so shaped, used to join an anchor-chain to an anchor' (Granville): RN: since late C.19.

Jew's letters. Tattooing. See Jerusalem letters.

Jew's poker. One who lights Jews' fires on Saturdays (the Jewish Sunday): from ca. 1870. Lloyd's Weekly, 17 May 1891.

Jew's Rolls-Royce. A Jaguar motor-car: since ca. 1938. Much chromium plating 'and all that'.

Jew's typewriter. 'Ironic term for a cash register' (Powis): low coll.: C.20. Cf. Jewish Joanna or ... piano.

Jews. See thick as ...

Jewtocracy. The art of hatching or developing mysteries: cultured: since ca. 1930. On plutocracy.

Jewy or Jewey. An inseparable nickname for Jews, esp. if surnamed Moss: from ca. 1890 (Pugh). Cf. Ikey.

jewy. Var. of jewie. (Cecil Mann, 1945.)

Jezebel. The penis: low: C.19—early 20. Perhaps ex 2 Kings 9. 33: 'And he said, throw her down. So they threw her down.'

jib, n. The underlip (as in hang one's jib, to look dejected); also, the face (as in nautical cut of one's jib (q.v.)), one's personal looks or look): coll. and dial.: from late C.18: it occurs in Charles Dibdin's The Five Engagements, cited by The Port Folio, 21 Sep. 1805, p. 295. (Moe.)—2. A first-year undergraduate: Dublin university: ca. 1840—1930. Lever.—3. A horse given to jibbing: 1843 (SOD): coll. >, ca. 1895, S.E. Mayhew.—4. A 'flat-folding, "chimney-pot" hat, closed by springs set in centre of vertical ribs': Society: 1848—80. (Ware.) Ex Fr. gibus (from the inventor's name).—5. In Long may your big jib draw!, 'Good luck!', esp. to a man leaving the service: RN:—1909 (Ware). Of erotic origin.—6. See booze the jib; jib show; jibb.

jib, v. As to shirk or funk, prob. to be considered S.E.—2. To depart (esp. hastily or slyly): low coll.: from ca. 1850.

jib-and-staysail Jack. The seaman's name for an officer given, whether inexperienced or a martinet, to tormenting the men by constantly 'making and shortening sail' to keep the ship in station when it forms one of a fleet: RN: late C.18—mid-19. (W.N. Glascock, Sketch-Book, I, 1825: Moe.) jib of jibs. An impossible sail: nautical coll.: ca. 1850—1910. Ex nautical j. for the outermost jib (a triangular stay-sail). Cf. sky-scraper.

jib show. A show featuring only girls: Can. carnival s.: since ca. 1920.

jibb, the tongue; hence language, speech: C.19—early 20 tramps' c. Ex Romany chib, jib.

jibber the kibber. To deceive seamen and thus wreck ships 'by fixing a candle and lantern round the neck of a horse, one of whose fore feet is tied up; this at night has the appearance of a ship's light' (Grose, 2nd ed.): late C.18—early 19. The phrase is mysterious: jibber—by itself, however, unrecorded before 1824—gen. = to talk confusedly, here prob. = to confuse. But what is kibber? unless it be a rhyme-tag?

jickajog. A pushing; a commotion: low: C.17—mid-19. (Jonson.) Euphonic reduplication on jog. Cf. jig(ga)-jog(gy).

jiff (1790, ob.); gen. jiffy (1785); occ. jeffy (—1791). A moment: coll. Rare except when prec. by in a. (Grose, 3rd ed.; H. & J. Smith; Thackeray; Milliken (jiff)) ? etym., perhaps suggested by jiffle, to fidget. OED; EDD.—2. A man, chap, fellow: tailors': late C.19—20. Gen. in combination: e.g. flat-iron jiff, q.v.

jiffess. An employer's wife: tailors': ca. 1860—1930.

jifty. See jiff.—2. jifty-quick is a var. of in a jifty: coll.: 1927 (OED Sup.).

jig. Abbr. jigger, c. senses, q.v.—2. Applied to a person, a domestic animal, etc.: joc. coll.: C.18—19. Bentham, 'This Lord and Lady Tracton are the queerest jigs you ever saw' (OED).—3a. A swindler: Winchester College: ca. 1840—70.

—3b—Hence, a clever fellow: id.: from ca. 1860.—4. A swindle, a low joke, an object of sport: id.: from ca. 1870.—5. On the jig, fidgety: coll.: from ca. 1880. Jefferies, in Wood Magic (OED).—6. In the feather-bed or the buttock or Moll Peatley's jig, copulation: low coll.: C.17—early 20. The last also as gig: see Moll Peatley.

jig-a-jig; in C.19 often jig-jig. N. and v. for sexual intercourse: low: v. from ca. 1840, n. from ca. 1900. F. & H. says US, but this is very doubtful: almost certainly Eng., perhaps orig. dial. In the 1840s there was a street-ballad entitled 'Jig jig to the Hirings', wherein jig-jig occurs as a v. (B. & P.) Popularised in and by WW1, when used by French touts in form jig-a-jig très bon. Echoic. Cf. jig-jog and jiggle, and see esp. jiggy-jig.

jig by jowl. Cheek by jowl: late C.17—18 coll. D'Urfey.

jig is up, the. The game is up: late C.18—20: S.E. till ca. 1850, then coll.; in C.20, s. and dial.—2. 'The last line of type has been set and the forme can be locked and put on the press' (Leechman): Can. printers': C.20.

jig-jog, jigga-jog(gy). A jolting movement: coll. verging on S.E. C.17—20. Marston.

jigery pokery is B. & L.'s form of jiggery-pokery, and jig(g)aree is a C.20 var., esp. RN (Granville) of:

jig(g)amaree. A trick; a fanciful contrivance: recorded in England from ca. 1845; ob.: coll., esp. in US (where recorded in 1824). Ex various dial. (Halliwell.) Fanciful on jig.

jiggalarum. A fanciful, gen. worthless, trifle: coll. C.17—18. Cf. cockalorum.

jig(g)ambob, occ. jiggembob. See jiggumbob.

Jigger. An 'inevitable' nickname of men surnamed Lees: mostly Services': late C.19—20. F. & G. jigger, n. Its c. senses are:—A door: mid-C.16—19. (Harman, Coles, Mayhew.) Also as jig, gigger, gyger, jegger.—2. A door-keeper: C.18—20, ob. by ca. 1930. (Parker.) Also jigger-dubber.—3. A key, a lock: ca. 1815—70. Bee.—4. A whipping-post: C.18—early 19. John Hall.—5. A private or secret still: ca. 1820—1910. Bee.—6. Its s. senses.—7. A fiddlestick: C.18—19.—8. A bridge or rest: billiards: 1847 (SOD).—9. The curtain: theatrical: from ca. 1850; ob.—10. A prison cell: 1896 (Max Pemberton: OED). Ex next.—11. A guard-room: military (—1882).—12. Army in WW1: the front line, esp. as a trench, a sense merging (the semi-coll., esp. as a trench, a sense merging (the semi-coll., semi-S.E.) jigger, gadget + jigger, an alternative of digger, a trench.—Low s. are:—13. The penis;—14. the female pudend: C.19—20.—15. A bicycle: army in France: WW1. Ex sense C.19—16. A man; esp., silly jigger: since ca. 1918. Orig. euph. for bugger, 2.—17. An entry; a passage between terrace-house backyards: Merseyside: late C.19—20. P.B.: is this a survival of sense 1, or dial.?—18. In not worth a jigger, worthless: (low) coll.: 1861, Punch, 'The churches here ain't worth a jigger—nor, not half-a-jigger.' Cf. other entries at not worth a... jigger, v.t. and i. To shake or jerk often and rapidly: coll.: 1867 (SOD). Ex jig, v. of motion.—2. To circumvent, damage, ruin: from ca. 1860. Ex jiggered, q.v. Cf. jiggered up.—3. To imprison, shut up: 1887 (Hall Caine: OED); ob. Gen. with up. Cf. jigger, n., 10 and 11.

jigger-dubber. A door-keeper, turnkey: c.: ca. 1770—1880. (Parker, Bee.) See jigger, esp. 1, 2, 3.

jigger it! Curse it! A C.20 var. of jiggered, 2, q.v.

jigger-stuff. Illicitly distilled spirits: ca. 1840—1900: low (? orig. c.).

jigger-worker. A vendor of illicitly distilled spirits: ca. 1840—1905.—2. A drinker of whisky, esp. if illicitly distilled: low:—1896; ob.

jiggered, ppl adj. Made from a secret still: from ca. 1880. Judy, 4 Aug. 1886, 'Jiggered gin.' Suggested by jigger-stuff, q.v., and jigger-gin.—2. As in I'm or I'll be, jiggered!, you be jiggered! Marryat, 1837 (SOD). Poss. a deliberate fusing and perversion of Jesus and buggered; cf. however, sniggered.

jiggered up. Exhausted: nautical:—1867 (Smyth). Cf. jigger, v., 2, but prob. ex prec., 2.

jiggers. Stairs: market-traders': C.20. (M.T.) Prob. simply ex S.E. jig, v., to move jerkily, but cf. jigger, n., 1 and 17.

jiggery-pokery; occ. jackery-pokery. Humbug; underhand work: ?orig. (ca. 1880) tailors' s.; coll. by 1900. Ex Scot. joukery-paukery ex jouk, a trick. Cf. hanky-panky, hocus-pocus (W.) B., 1942, records Aus. var. jiggery-pook.

jigget, occ. jiggit, v.i. To jig, fidget; hop about, shake up and down: coll.: 1687. Mrs Behn, Miss Mitford, Kipling (OED). Diminutive of jig.

jiggety, jiggity. Having a hopping or jerky movement: coll.: from ca. 1880.

jiggle, v.i. and t. To have sexual intercourse with: low: from ca. 1845. Ex the S.E. sense. Hence jiggling-bone, the male member. Cf. jig-a-jig, q.v.

jiggle and jog. A Frenchman: rhyming s., on Frog: later C.20. Ronnie Barker, Fletcher's Book of Rhyming Slang, 1979.

jiggle juice. Special fuel for racing cars: racing motorists': adopted, ex US, ca. 1955. Autocar, 8 June 1962.

jiggler. 'Skeleton key for pin tumbler lock' (Powis): c.: C.20. Poss. ex US: Underworld records its use in the American car-stealing racket, late 1920s.

jiggly, adj. Of a woman, inclined to jiggle, q.v.: C.20.

jiggot o' mutton. A leg of mutton: c.:—1909 (Ware). Fr. gigot. jig(g)umbob. Also jig(g)ambob, -embob, -ombob; gig(g)umbob, etc.; gingam (or um)bob. Something odd or very fanciful; something unspecified: coll.: C.17—20; ob. Beaumont & Fletcher, 'What Giggombob have we here?' Rare of a person. Ex jig, n.: cf. kickumbob and thingumbob, q.v.

jiggy. A jigsaw puzzle: domestic coll.: C.20. Sunday Times mag., 27 Sep. 1981, p.11.

jiggy-jig, n. and v. Sexual intercourse: Services'. Not necessarily a var. of jig-a-jig, q.v.: Mr T.C.H. Raper (1973) thinks—prob. correctly—that the term comes from Hindi jigjigi, 'an exclamation of delight used by Indian women during sexual intercourse' (quot'n from a Hindi-English dictionary). If this be indeed so, then it was adopted by Brit. soldiers stationed in India and thence spread throughout the Brit. Army; whence to Egypt, where I first heard it (1915).

jil-crow-a-berry. The Anglicised pronunciation and spelling of the aboriginal name for the indigenous Rat-tail Grass: Aus. coll.:—1898 (Morris).

jildi, jildy, jildo; occ. jeldi(-y). Adj. and adv., 'lively'; as imperative, 'Look sharp!'; as v., to be quick, move quickly or promptly; also used as n., in on the jildi, get a jildi on: army: late C.19—20; ob. by 1975. Blaker (ex-Indian-Army sergeant speaking): 'Come on. We'll catch 'im if we jildi'. The n. uses, esp. get a jildi on, are WW2+, as is do a jildi move, to retreat hastily or, among tank men, to take evasive action (P-G-R).

Ex Hindustani n. jildi, quickness. Cf. Romany jido, jidilo, lively; and jillo, q.v.

jill, hence also jill. A girl: since ca. 1945; not very common. Probably ex 'Every Jack has his jill'.

jill (or J) mill. Venetian shutters or blind: Anglo-Indian: mid-C.19–20. B. & L.

jill Tar or Jiltar. A member of the WRNS: 1939+. (H. & P.) Prob. a journalistic coinage; never much used, and soon supplanted by Jenny (Wren), q.v. Cf.:-

jillaroo or J-. A land girl: Aus.: WW2. (B., 1943.) A joc. feminine of jackaroo.

jillol Hurry up!; look lively!: army: late C.19–mid-20. Ex Hindustani chalo, move off!, get going!, imperative of chalna, to move off. Influenced by jildi, q.v.

jillpots, his or her. He, she—him, her; that person: itinerant entertainers': C.20. See quot'n at vardi, 2. Often shortened to his, or her, jills. Lester.

jilt, n. A crowbar: c.:—1859 (H., 1st ed.); ob. by 1930. In pl, housebreaking tools in general.

jilt, v. To enter a building slyly or on false pretences, and then steal: c.: ca. 1860–1930.

jilter. A thief acting as in prec.: id. Also called a note-blanker. (Such thieves work in pairs.)

Jim. The sum of £1: Aus.: earlier C.20. (B., 1943; Wilkes.) Ex Jimmy o' Goblin, a sovereign, q.v. at Jemmy o' Goblin. —2. (Or jimmie, -y.) 'Wherever prostitutes congregate with their clients... there will be other loiterers—the "jims", the "men in raincoats" [see dirty mac], who watch the transactions and purchased intimacies in a morbid and unhealthy silence' (Powis): c. and police s.: later C.20.—3. 'Sparks is just the universal word for a working electrician—though in the film studios usually preceded by Jim: Jim Chippy [carpenter], Jim Rigger, Jim Sparks... Never Jim Producer, though' (Red Daniells, 1980).

Jim Brown. Town: rhyming s.: late C.19—early 20.

Jim Crow. See Billy Barlow.—2. A roof spotter of aircraft: civilian Services: 1939+. H. & P.—3. Hence, one who keeps watch while, e.g., gambling is in progress: combatant Services: since 1940. H. & P.—4. A plate-layer: railwaymen's: since ca. 1945. (Railway, 2nd.) He needs to keep a look-out for oncoming trains. Cf. senses 2 and 3.—5. Racial prejudice, esp. against Negroes: since ca. 1955. Cf. the song 'Jim Crow Blues' sung by the American Negro folk-singer Huddie Ledbetter ('Leadbelly'), ca. 1870?–1949.—6. A professional: itinerant entertainers': C.20. Rhyming s. on pro, 2. Lester.

Jim-jam. A knick-knack: coll.:—1592; † by 1700. A reduplication on the first syllable of gimcrack.

Jim(-)jams. Delirium tremens: since ca. 1885. Often called the jams (ob. by 1930). Perhaps influenced by whim-whams.—2. Peculiarities: coll.:—1899 (OED).—3. The fidgets; nervousness; the 'creeps'; low spirits: coll.: C.20. (A.S.M. Hutchinson, 1908; Galsworthy, 1926.) Ex sense 1. Cf. dial. antrims, whims, perhaps ex tantrums. Also the jimmies: coll.: from ca. 1920. OED Sup.

Jim Mace. See Jem Mace.

Jim Skinner. Dinner. C.20 var. of Joe Skinner. (Len Ortzen, 1938.) Also Jimmy Skinner (—1896).

jimbugg. A sheep: Aus.: from ca. 1850; ob. More gen. is jumbuck (—1845): orig. the natives' pidgin English: the word meaning, in Aboriginal, a white mist, the only thing with which a flock of sheep could be compared. Morris.

Jimmy (or Jimminy) Crickets! A widespread Can. (ex US) expletive: since ca. 1920. W. & F. suggest that it stands for Jesu Domine; Dr Douglas Leechman and I, that it is a euph. for Jesus Christ. Cf. esp. gimini, q.v.

jimkwim, jimmunt. A soft broad-brimmed hat. See Doctor Jim. (Ware.)

Jimmie's. See Jimmy's; also, short for Jimmy Britts and Jimmy Grants, qq.v.—The jimmies. See Jim-jams, 3.

Jimmies' Union. The First Lieutenants in a flotilla of destroyers, an informal association presided over by the senior 'Jimmy': RN officers': since the 1920s. Cf. watchkeepers' union.

Jimmy or jimmy (capital where appropriate), n. A mainly US var. of jemmy, n., 1.—2. A new-chum or immigrant: Aus. (—1859); † by 1897. Also (—1867) Jimmy (or Jemmy) Grant, presumably after immigrant, though see Jimmy Grant. Morris. (Only Jimmy.—In S. Africa (esp. Natal) by 1878, notes Pettman.—3. A contrivance; anything faked; a concealed helper: showmen's: from ca. 1850.—4. Abbr. Jimmy o' Goblin, q.v. at Jemmy o' Goblin. Both forms occur in Neil Bell's Andrew Otway, 1931.—5. The nickname used as an alternative to Shiner for all naval Greens' (Bowen): late C.19–20. Also, in C.20, for military Greens.—6. St James's Palace, London: mostly Regular Army, esp. Guards': late C.19–20. This, and Jimmy guard, q.v., occur in, e.g., Gerald Kersh, They Died with Their Boots Clean, 1941.—7. See Jimmy the One.—8. 'Piece of metal illicitly placed in blast pipe causing [=to cause] greater draught on fire and better steaming. Used in 1890–1930 period when drivers were paid a bonus for saving coal and oil and Railway Companies bought cheap coal' (Railway): railwaymen's, esp. among drivers and their mates.—9. In all Jimmy, all nonsense: Cambridge University: ca. 1860–1910. See also jemmy, n., 7.—10. The figure of Mercury in the badge of the Royal Corps of Signals: Royal Signals': prob. since soon after the Corps' formation, 1920. (P.B.) Cf. Jimmy on a rock cake.—11. 'An injection of a narcotic. (Canadian)' (Home Office): drug addicts': later C.20.—12. See Jim, 2.

jimmy, v. Powis glosses jimmying as, '(a) Obtaining entry into cinemas, theatres, dog tracks and enclosures at race meetings by subterfuge and without paying. (b) Urinating': (a) is c., (b) low coll.: C.20. For (b) see Jimmy Riddle.

Jimmy Britts, often shortened to Jimmies and always preceded by the. Diarrhoea: Aus. rhyming s., on the shits: C.20.—2. Hence, fig., 'a fit of nerves; a state of anger' (Wilkes): Aus.: B., 1941, lists have the Brits up, to be afraid, and T.A.G. Hungerford, The Ridge and the River, 1952, uses the var. 'a touch of the Jim-brits'.

Jimmy Bung(s). A cooper: RN:—1909 (Ware); † by 1945 (Granville). Ware has Bung; Bowen and 'Tafrail' (in Carry On!, 1916) Bungs. Prob. ex bung-hole. Also Bungs, q.v. Cf.:-

Jimmy Ducks. The rating in charge of the ship's poultry: naval: ca. 1800–50. (Bowen.) Cf. duck-fucker.—2. Hence, a galley boy, a butcher's assistant: nautical: mid-C.19–20. Ibid.

jimmy (or J) fixing. 'A mechanical contraption of any description': merchant service: late C.19–20. (Bowen.) Cf. hook-me-dinghy, q.v.

Jimmy Grant. An emigrant or immigrant: rhyming s., orig. NZ (E.J. Wakefield, Adventure, 1845), soon also Aus., and shortened to Jimmy (see Jimmy, 2); ob. by early 1920s. Wilkes quotes Xavier Herbert, Disturbing Element, 1963: 'When we kids saw people on the street dressed like that we would yell at them: "Jimmygrants, Pommigranates, Pommies!"' See Pommie, 1.

Jimmy Green. A sail set under the bowsprit: sailing ship nautical: ? ca. 1860–1910. (L.D.M. Roberts, 1951).—2. As in I was Jimmy Green on that, I let myself be taken in or duped about that: coll.: C.20. (L.A.) A personification of green, naive, gullible.

Jimmy guard. Ceremonial guard duty at St James's Palace: Army, esp. Guards': C.20. See Jimmy, 6, and cf. Buck guard, duty at Buckingham Palace.

Jimmy Low. A eucalyptus timber-tree: Aus.:—1889. After some New South Wales 'character'. (Morris.) Cf. Jemmy Donnelly, q.v.

Jimmy-o, like. 'Like billy-o,' which prob. suggested it: military:—1923 (Manchon).

Jimmy o' Goblin. See Jemmy o' Goblin.

Jimmy on a rock cake. Joc. description of the Royal Corps of Signals' badge, the figure of Mercury, one foot resting on a tiny globe: army, esp. RCS: since early 1920s. (Spike Mays, Fall Out the Officers, 1969.) In later C.20 usu. abbr. Jimmy. Cf. a pansy on its laurels, the Intelligence Corps' badge. (P.B.)

Jimmy Prescott. Waistcoat: rhyming s.: C.20. Lester.

Jimmy Riddle, n. and v. A urination; to urinate: rhyming s., on piddle: late C.19–20. (B. & P.) In later C.20 usu. have a Jimmy Riddle. Cf. rarer and, in later C.20, ob. var., Jerry Riddle. See Jimmy, v. Occ., facetiously, a James R.

Jimmy Rollocks. Testicles. A C.20 var. of Tommy Rollocks, q.v. Franklyn 2nd.

Jimmy Round. (Gen. pl.) A Frenchman: naval: late C.18–early 19. Ware derives it from the Fr. je me rends, I surrender. Cf. keramad, q.v.

Jimmy Skinner. A dinner. See Jim Skinner.

Jimmy the Bunting. A signalman: RN: late C.19–20. (Bowen.) With a pun on Baby Bunting and bunting, flags in the mass.

Jimmy the One. The first lieutenant (a lieutenant-commander as he usually is in these days [1916]) is “Jimmy the One” (“Taffrail”): RN. Often simply Jimmy (Granville). Cf. one-pipper, and see Jimmies’ Union.

Jimmy Woodser. A person who drinks alone; a drink by oneself: Aus.: late C.19–20. Wilkes cites Acland, 1933, who derives it ex an actual ‘loner’, one Jim Woods; one drinking alone was said to be ‘doing a Jimmy Woodser’. Cf. drink with the flies.—2. Hence, a person alone, esp. an orphan: Aus.: since ca. 1935. D’Arcy Niland, When the Cross Turns Over, 1958.

Jimmy Woods-ing, vbl n. Solitary drinking: NZ, esp. miners’: C.20. (Jean Devanney, Down Below, 1928.) Ex prec., 1.

Jimmy’s. St James’s Restaurant in Piccadilly: ca. 1870–1910. (The site of the present Piccadilly Restaurant.)

jimpie, -y. The Argentine troops ‘were doomed the moment the commandos set up their “jimpies” (general-purpose machine-guns) on Wireless Ridge’ (Christopher Wain, Listener, 17 June 1982, p. 2): Services’: later C.20.

jing (or J-!), by. A var. and derivative of by jingo!: C.20. (Philip MacDonald, The Crime Conductor, 1932.) Imm. ex Scottish use, q.v. at jings!

jingbang, occ. jimbang. (Sometimes hyphenated. Always prec. by the whole.) A lot, or group, complete: mainly Scots coll.:—1891. Stevenson, ‘The only seaman of the whole jingbang.’ Cf. the whole shebang at shebang.

jingle. Money: Aus. and NZ: since ca. 1925. (B., 1942.) Echoic.

jingle-box. A leathern drinking vessel tipped with silver and hung with bells, in C.17 use among toppers: C.17–18. B.E., who says ‘formerly’; Grose.

jingle-boy. See gingle-boy.

jingle-brains. A wild harum-scarum fellow: C.17–18; coll. Extant in dial.

jingled. Topsy: ca. 1910–30. Ward Muir, Observations of an Orderly, 1917.

jingler. A horse-dealer or -courser frequenting country fairs: c.: C.17–18. An early occurrence is in Dekker’s Lantheorne and Candelight, 1608–9.

Jingling Johnnie (or -y). A Turkish crescent, i.e. a noise-making instrument (a stick, with small bells depending from a crescent-shaped attachment): C.19–20; ob. Percy Scholes, The Oxford Companion to Music. The Johnnie may be short for Johnny Turk, ‘Turk’. The instrument was introduced into military bands when, late in C. 18, so-called Turkish music became popular in Europe. The instrument (usu. home-made) survives, under this name, in Aus. bush bands (Mrs C. Raab, 1982).—2. Seejingling johnnies. ‘We find shears called jingling johnnies and tongs’ (B., 1942): Aus. and NZ rural: since ca. 1870. Ex prec. jingo!, by the living. A C.19–20 (ob.) elab. of:

jings!; more gen. by jingo!; in late C.18–20 Scotland, always (by) jing(s). A mild oath: coll.: from ca. 1694 as an exclam., but in 1670, and prob. much earlier, it was a piece of conjurer’s gibberish. (SOD.)—As a noisy patriot, it is S.E. The word comes prob. ex Basque J(a)inko, God, via the Basque harpooners on British whalers. W.

jiniper-, in C.18–19 juniper, lecture. A scolding: late C.17– mid-19: coll. B.E.’s jiniper-l. is obviously a misprint, but it may have reproduced a Cockney pron.

jink, n. Coin, money: late C.19–20. Perhaps on chink, q.v.: but cf. jingle, 1.—2. In pl, see high jinks.

jink, v.; jinking; jinks. Resp., ‘To turn quickly and skilfully in the air to avoid enemy action; the activity or the practice of making these turns; the turns themselves. Also jink away, noun and verb’ (Partridge, 1945); 1943, H. & P., the 2nd and 3rd; Reader’s Digest, Feb. 1941, the first, which dates from at least as early as 1937 in the RAF, whose use thereof is merely an application of S.E. (mainly Scottish) jink, ‘to make a quick elusive turn’ (OED).—2. To swindle (someone): Aus.: since ca. 1920. Kylie Tennant, Foveaux, 1939.

jink (one’s) tin. To pay, ‘shell out’; rattle one’s money: low: mid-C.19–early 20.

jinker. A light sulky, with room for only one person; esp. one used in speed-trotting trials: Aus. coll.: since ca. 1875; by ca. 1930, verging on S.E. (‘Tom Collins’, Such is Life, 1903.) Ex jinker, a vehicle for transporting timber.—2. Now the usu. form of junker, q.v. B., 1943.—3. A bringer of bad luck: Newfoundland: since ca. 1920. A back-formation ex jinx (apprehended as jinks). L.E.F. English, Historic Newfoundland, 1955.

jinket. To be very merry; dance about: coll., the former 1742, ob., the latter 1823, ob. Ex jink. OED.

jinks. See high jinks.—2. Jinks the Barber. A secret informant: middle classes’: mid-C.19–early 20. Ware, ‘The general barber being such a gossipier. Jinks is a familiar name’—coll., from ca. 1820—‘for an easy-going man’.—3. See jink, v.

jinyy. A Geneva watch: c.: late C.19–early 20. Ex Geneva. Jiny Spinner (or lower case). A cockroach: nautical: late C.19–20. Bowen.

Jinties; the sing. Jinty is rare. ‘Class 3 0–6–0 tank engines (MR)’; railwaymen’s: ?ca. 1940. Railway.

jintoe. A girl of poor reputation; a whore: S. African (low s. and c.): late C.19–20. See Underworld.

jinx, n. A bringer, a causer, of bad luck: adopted, ca. 1936, from US. Walter Greenwood, Only Mugs Work, 1938, ‘Lay off the dames, Mario, they’re all jinxes.’ Cognate with jink, the implication being that ‘they are all twisters’. Hence, bad luck, as in, ‘That’s put a jinx on it.’ More precisely: something that, midway between a devil in a thing and a curse on it, causes it to go repeatedly wrong, as in, ‘This machine—this undertaking—has a jinx on it.’ P.B.: in later C.20, verging on S.E. SOD proposes deriv. ex jynx, a spell or charm.

jinx, v., corresponds to both senses of the n. and follows within a year or two; likewise adopted from US.

jip!; esp. stick of jip. Indian ink: c.: mid-C.19–20. ‘No. 747’. Cf. jipping, q.v.—2. See gip and gyp.—3. Energy: Aus.: C.20. D’Arcy Niland, Call Me ..., 1958.

jipper, jippo. Gravy: nautical: from ca. 1850. Occ. it = juice, syrup, or even dripping (EDD). In the C.20 Brit. army, jippo, and among the Aus. occ. = stew. A correspondent remembers it being, ca. 1905 at school, used of the slimy outside of pudding. Perhaps ultimately ex † jippo a tunic, ? hence a scullion. Just possibly, a Gippo being a man of brown colour, ex sense 2; but I shouldn’t be surprised if it were proved to be a corruption of sipper. See also gippa, and ARMY SLANG, verse 2, in Appendix.

jipping, vbl n. Staining (part of a horse) with Indian ink to conceal a blemish: c.: mid-C.19–20. ‘No. 747’: cf. jip.

jippo. See jipper.—2. Jippo, an incorrect form of Gypso, an Egyptian.

jirknod or jirk-nod. See yerknod.

jirrand. See jerran.

jitter-bug. A very nervous or ‘jittery’ person: adopted, ex US, 1938; by 1945 superseded by:—2. A dancer to hot rhythm music: adopted, ex US, early 1940s. Hence jitterbuggery or jitterbugging, this style of dancing. See jitters.

jitter party. A party of Japanese sneaking around a camp’s perimeter and trying to cause alarm by making noises and throwing grenades: Burmese front: 1942+.

jitters, the. A feeling, a bout, of (extreme) nervousness or of irritation, annoyance: from ca. 1930. (Passing Show, 15 July 1933.) Cf. jim-jams. Perhaps a perversion of S.E. twitter, a trembling.

jittery. On edge; very nervous: adopted in 1935 or 1936 from U.S. Somerset Maugham, Theatre, 1937, 'For two or three weeks she was very jittery'. Ex prec.

jive, n. and v. (A form of) dance: orig. devotees of the form, late 1940s, then gen.; ob. with change of fashion, by late 1950s. 'In the palais [de danse] you don't dance. It is—care to jive, or, get terpsichoral (Terpsichore was the Greek muse of dancing)' (Gilderdale, 2). Ex the n., itself probably of Negro origin (perhaps synon with jazz). See jive, in Appendix.—2. To talk: a talk: jazz fanatics': since ca. 1948. (Observer, 16 Sep. 1956.) Ex the talking that accompanies, or ensues, upon dancing.—3. Hence, in don't give me that jive!: don't talk such (utter) nonsense!: jazz addicts': early 1950s. (L. Fordyce, letter in the Observer, 23 Sep. 1956.) Cf. and all that jazz at JAZZ.

jix, occ. -y. A two-seat 'taxi' licensed in 1926: coll.: 1926–7. Sir Wm Joynton-Hicks was then Home Secretary. On taxi. (OED Sup.) The H.S.'s nickname was jix.

jizzup. Var. of jossop, gravy, etc.: Birmingham s.: late C.19–20. (Dr C.T. Onions, privately, 1939.)

jo. See joe, n., 4 and 5.—2. A banjo (the musical instrument): mostly Can.: C.20. (John Beames.)

jo-bag. A condom: mostly Servicemen's: mid-C.20.

jo-jo. A man with much hair on his face: Melbourne (Aus.): low: ca. 1880–1905. Ex a Russian 'dog-man', ostensibly so named, exhibited in Melbourne ca. 1880. Morris.—2. 'A small grass-seed with a double-pronged head that sticks in the feet. Like a blindy-eye, only much smaller' (Edwin Morrisby, 1958): Aus.: since ca. 1925. Either Aboriginal or imitative of Aboriginal. Blindy-eye is a rare var. of bindy-eye, itself app. an elab. of bindy or bindi—a term belonging to S.E. (B.P.) joag. A shilling; market-traders': mid-C.19–20. (M.T.) The modern form of jogue.

joan, Joan. A fetter, esp. in Darby and Joan, fetters coupling two prisoners. C.18–19. Suggested by darbies, handcuffs or fetters.—2. In homely Joan, a coarse, ordinary woman: coll.: C.17–18. (B.E.) In dial., Joan Blunt.

Joan of Arcs. Sharks: Aus. rhyming s.:—1945 (Baker).

Joanna; occ. Johanna or -ner. A piano: rhyming s., on pianner: C.20. (A. Neil Lyons, Clara, 1912.) Often the old joanna.

Job. A henpecked husband: lower and lower-middle classes' coll.: 'coined' by Douglas Jerrold, in Mrs Caudle's Curtain Lectures, 1846; ob. by 1930. (Ware.) Ex the Biblical character.

job as transaction—situation—piece of work—occurrence—a jab—is S.E., despite F.&H.—2. A guinea: c. of ca. 1670–1830. (Coles.) Whence half a job, half a guinea. Occ. jobe.—3. A robbery: C.18–20, c. >, ca. 1850, low. Defoe, in Moll Flanders, 'It was always reckoned a safe job when we heard of a new shop' (OED). Hence, in later C.20 police coll., any crime. James McClure, Spike Island, 1980.—4. A clock: c.:—1923 (Manchon). Why?—5. A recruit: military: from ca. 1910. Perhaps abbr. a bad job.—6. A passenger: taxi-drivers': since ca. 1910. (Herbert Hodge, Cab, Sir?, 1939.) A specialisation of the S.E.—7. An aircraft: RAF: since ca. 1939. (Jackson.) Ex a job of work.—8. Hence, fig. as in blonde job, blue job, brown job. "I saw a wizard job in the village this morning." . . . He had seen a beautiful girl.' Hector Bolitho in The English Digest, Feb. 1941; Jackson, 1943, "Thus, 'She's a blonde job'; et (how many?) alii.—9. A drunk: Aus.: since ca. 1939 at least. B., 1943.—10. See make a job of (someone).—11. An inferior worker; a fool; 'a bit of a mess': Aus.: since ca. 1930. Cf. senses 5 and 9. Gavin Casey, Downhill is Easier, 1945.—12. In to have got the job, to have a commission to bet on a horse: racing: from ca. 1875.—13. In do (a woman's) job for her, to accomplish the sexual act with her—and to her pleasure: low coll.: from ca. 1850. Contrast:—14. Do (a man's) job for him, to ruin him; to knock him out, or even to kill him: low coll.: ca. 1860–1930.—15. Do a job for oneself, to defecate: late C.19–20: (? orig. low) coll.—16. Make a clean job of it, to do thoroughly: coll.: since ca. 1885. Anstey, Voces Populi, II, 1892.—17. See do a job; on the job; just the job.; job's jobbed.

job, v. To coit with: coll.: C.16–20. Anon. play of Thersites, 1537; Burns.—2. job = jobe, q.v.—3. To smite: coll.: C.20. (C.J. Dennis.) Ex job, to prod; cf. jab, v., 2, q.v. See quot'n at lamp, v., 2.

job and finish. 'A set task that may be finished in half a working day if the crew put their backs into it, a whole working day if they do not. Once the job is complete they have the rest of the day off' (Peppitt): MN coll.: since late 1930s.

Jobanjeremiah. A mauderer: lower classes':—1909; ob. Ware, 'Combination of the two doleful patriarchs.'

jobation. A (tedious) reproof or rebuke: coll.: early C.19–early 20. Moe cites Blackwood's, Nov. 1823 ('Night'). Ex jobe, v. The alternative form jabuation has been influenced by jab, n. and v. Colman, 1767, in The Oxon in Town, 'As dull and melancholy as a fresh-man . . . after a jobation.'

jobbed. See job's jobbed.

jobber. Defecation: RAF: 1970s. (S/Ldr. G.D. Wilson, 1979.) Cf. job, n., 15. By the 'OXFORD -ER'.

jobbernowl, -nol(l), -nole. A fool's head; a fool: coll.: late C.16–20; ob. ? ex job(b)ard, a simpleton. The -nol(l) forms not before ca. 1670, and rare after 1750.—2. Adj., stupid: coll.: from ca. 1825; ob.

jobberknot, -nut. (Or hyphenated.) A tall, clumsy fellow: C.19 c.

jobbing. Sexual intercourse: mainly Scots coll.: C.17–20.

jobe. See job, n., 2.

jobe, occ. job. To rebuke lengthily and tediously: coll.: ca. 1670–1830. 'Cambridge term', Grose, 2nd ed. (following Ray). Ex 'the lengthy reproofs of Job's friends' (SOD).

Job's dock, he laid up in. To be treated in hospital for a venereal disease: coll.: C.18–early 19. (Grose, 2nd ed.) Cf. Job's ward, q.v.

job's jobbed. It's finished: coll.: 1840, Marryat, 'That job's jobbed, as the saying is' (OED); still extant, as in Ruth Rendell, One Across, Two Down, 1971: 'Right, he thought, another job jobbed.'

Job's tears. The seeds of Coix lachryma, 'which are used for necklace-making by the native tribes on Cape York peninsula, are there called Job's tears' (Morris): Aus.:—1897. But also of the natives of Papua, where they are worn only by widows as a sign of mourning; cf. Job when 'separated' from his family.

Job's turkey, as poor as. Exceedingly poor: coll. of ca. 1820–1910: mainly and perhaps orig. US.

Job's ward. The ward for venereal patients in St Bartholomew's Hospital: mid-C.18–mid-19: prob. orig. medical. Grose, 2nd ed.

Job's wife. A wanton and scolding woman: coll.: C.19.

Joburg, Joburg. Johannesburg: Ware says, 'Military, 1900 on,' but it is more prob. miners' coll. originated a decade earlier. (The city was founded in Sep. 1886.)

joby. A vendor of sweets and refreshments: Eton College: late C.19–20. Saturday Review, 14 July 1934.

Jock. A North Country seaman, esp. a collier: coll.: mid-C.18–19. Also crowdy-headed jock. 'Jock being a common name, and crowdy the chief food, of the lower order of the people of Northumberland' (Grose, 2nd ed.).—2. A Scot; in WWI, and since, a Scottish soldier (B. & P. note the var. Hairy Jock (gen. in pl)—but caution against its use within hearing of Scotsmen!): coll.: from ca. 1870. In C.16–19 dial., Jocky. See also Jocks.—3. Hence, the 'inevitable' nickname of men with Scottish surname or accent: since late C.19.

jock, n. 'Private parts of a man or woman' (Potter, Dict. of Cant and Flash, 1790): low. (Of a woman, very rare after ca. 1880.) See jock, v., and jocky. N.B., jock-strap is athletes' and footballers' S.E.—2. Abbr. jockey: coll.: from ca. 1825; ob.—3. Food, as in jock tin, a food container: railwaymen's: C.20. Railway.

jock, v. To coit with a woman: late C.17–19: c. till C.19, when low. (B.E.) Cf. jockum-cloy; also jockum, which it prob. abbr.; hence jock, n., 1.

Jock, adj. Scottish: Services': later C.20. See Jock, 2, and Jocks.

Jock Blunt, look like. To be out of countenance through disappointment: C.18–early 19. (Ramsay.) Contrast Jack (occ. John) Blunt, q.v., and its dial. counterpart Joan Blunt.

Jock columns. Highly mobile bodies of troops in the Western Desert: army coll.: 1942–3. Ex Brigadier Jock Campbell. P-G-R.

Jock Guards. See Jocks.

jockam. See jockum.

jocked off, be. (Of a jockey) to be deprived of an agreed mount: racing: since ca. 1930. Dick Francis, Nerve, 1964, 'I discovered that two of my three prospective mounts were mine no longer. I had been, in the expressive phrase, jocked off.' Ex jock, n., 2.

jockey. Athletes' 'jock-strap' [see jock, n.]: Public Schools': C.20. By the 'OXFORD -ER'.

jockey, n. The piece of bread added to a 'toke' (small loaf) to make up the correct weight: prison c.: C.20. James Spenser, Limey Breaks In, 1934.—2. (Usu. in pl.) A top boot: trade: mid-C.19–early 20. Mayhew, II, 1851.—3. A bus-driver: busmen's: from ca. 1920. (Daily Herald, 5 Aug. 1936.) The driver of any heavy-load vehicle: hauliers' s.: from ca. 1925.—4. A policeman: c.: mid-C.20. (John Gosling, 1959.)—5. A pilot: RAF: since ca. 1950. Esp. jet-jockey, a fighter-pilot. Cf. sense 3.—6. 'Wherever prostitutes congregate with their clients, or "jockeys" as they contemptuously call them' (Powis): later C.20.—7. 'Early English thieves' cant... which is occasionally used today [ca. 1950], particularly by gypsies and "didikais". "Hullo, Jockey, how are you?"' (Tempest).

jockey, v. At Winchester College, from ca. 1820, to appropriate, engage, supplant: all ob.

jockey not!; jockey up! Winchester College ob. cries of (a) exemption, (b) participation. (Cf. bags I and finny, qq.v.) Mid-C.19–20. Wrench.

jockey-stick. The thin piece of wood with which the 'jockey' (see n., 1) is attached to the 'toke': prison c.: C.20. James Spenser, Limey Breaks In, 1934.

jockey sticks; often shortened to jockeys. 'Two pieces of a flat stick, split lengthwise and fastened on to the two handles of a pair of shears to give a larger and softer grip' (B., 1942): Aus. shearers': C.20.

jockey (or bag) the over. So to run as to get all the bowling to oneself: cricketers': from ca. 1860. In C.20, bag is much the commoner.

jockey up, v.i. To ride pillion: since late 1940s. Ted Willis, Man-Eater, 1976.—2. See jockey not!

jockeying. 'Vehicular racing': London streets': C.19. Ware.

jockeys. Top-boots. See jockey, n., 2.—2. A pole-roofing to keep bark of hut in position: Aus.: C.20. (B., 1943.) They 'ride' the hut.—3. See jockey sticks; jockey's whip.

jockey's whip (occ. jockeys). A bed; (a) sleep: rhyming s., on kip: ca. 1940–60. Franklyn, Rhyming.—2. (In pl.) Potato chips: trawlermen's rhyming s.: C.20. W. Mitford, Lovely She Goes, 1969.

[jocko, a chimpanzee, is familiar S.E. verging on coll.]

Jocks. Esp. the Jocks, the Scots Guards; in full, the Jock Guards: army: late C.19–20. Gerald Kersh, They Die with their Boots Clean, 1941, cites also the Micks and the Taffs, the Irish and the Welsh Guards.

jockum; occ. jockam. The penis: c.: mid-C.16–early 19. (Harman.) Cf. jocky.

jockum-cloy. To coit with (a woman): C.17–early 19 c. (B.E.) Ex jockum + cloy, qq.v. Cf. jock, v.—2. Also n.

jockum-gage. A chamber-pot: c.: C.17–19. (B.E.) Ex jockum.

jockum-gagger. A man living on his wife's harlotry: ?C.18–early 19: c.

jocky. Penis; 'A Man's Yard' (Holme, 1688). Whence jock, n., q.v.; cf. jockum.

Jodrell Bank. A worn-out old whore: since ca. 1965. Rhyming s. on synonym. tank. Haden-Guest.

Joe, n. (and Joe). Abbr. Joe Miller, q.v. Moe cites W.N. Glascock's Naval Sketch-Book, 2nd series, 1834, I, 144, 'To avoid the appearance of official stiffness or dullness at dinner, relax in the recital of an occasional "Joe".'—2. (Also joey.) A fourpenny piece: ca. 1840–1910. Ex Joseph Hume, politician and financial expert (1777–1855). E. Hawkins, Silver Coins of England.—3. A marine: nautical: ca. 1850–1900. Abbr. Joseph. It is recorded in Fraser's Magazine, Aug. 1875, as a 'household word' (Moe).—4. A Portuguese and Brazilian gold coin: 1772 (SOD): coll. >, ca. 1880, S.E. Ex Johannes, recorded in 1762 in US, where jo occurs in 1765. Derivatively a nautical name for the sum of 16 dollars: ca. 1790–1850: John Davis, The Post Captain, 1805 (ed. R.H. Case, 1928).—5. (More gen. jo) a companion, a sweetheart: S.E.—6. (Also jo, joey.) 'On the Victorian goldfields, a trooper enforcing the regulations of Governor Charles Joseph La Trobe; [hence] a warning cry of the approach of a trooper' (Wilkes, who cites examples from 1854, Raffaello Carboni, The Eureka Stockade, ed. G. Serle (1969), to Caddie, A Sydney Barmaid, 1953).—7. A penny: NZ:—1935. Cf. 2.—8. An imaginary person, as in 'who did that?'—"Joe" (Simks, 1848): ca. 1830–70.—9. 'A name for anyone in the Service' (Jackson): RAF: since ca. 1920.—10. Short for Joe Soap, q.v. (Gerald Emanuel, 1945).—11. Joe, since ca. 1935, but esp. since June 1941, denoted Joseph Stalin; by 1960, ob. Also Uncle Joe.—12. Short for Joe Blake, q.v., a snake.—13. An 'inevitable' nickname of all men surnamed Beckett: Services': 1920s. Ex the English boxer so named.—14. In such phrases as 'a good Joe', a good fellow, 'an honest Joe', an honest man, 'the ordinary Joe', 'the ordinary man-jack, esp. RN' (L.A.), it was, ca. 1944, adopted ex US.—15. 'Weak person, easily imposed on' (Home Office): prisoners' c.: later C.20. See div, 3, and cf. Joe Soap.—16. See not for Joseph!; rolling Joe; and all the Joes below.

Joe, joey, v. To poke fun; to take liberties with text or audience: theatrical: ca. 1865–1900. (H. Kingsley.) Prob. ex Joe Miller, but perhaps influenced by:—2. To insult; ridicule: Aus.: later C.19. Ex the insults heaped on 'the Joes', the Victorian Governor's troopers: see n., 6.—3. To warn; give a warning exclam.: Aus.:—1861 (T. McCombie, Australian Sketches).—4. See also joey, v.

Joe Blake. A cake: rhyming s.: late C.19–20. B. & P.—2. A snake: Aus. rhyming s.: C.20.—3. Beefsteak: rhyming s.:—1933.

Joe Blake the Bart(h)lemy, v. To visit a prostitute: c. and low:—1859; ob. H., 1st ed.

Joe Blakes, the. Delirium tremens: Aus. rhyming s., on snakes: C.20. Alan Marshall, These Are My People, 1946.

Joe boy, Joe job. One who is detailed for an unpleasant job (a 'Joe job'): Can. army: since ca. 1940.

Joe Brown. (A) town: rhyming s., ?orig. showmen's: 1893 (P.H. Emerson, Signor Lippo). Cf. Jim Brown.

Joe Buck. Coition: low Aus. rhyming s.: not very common: since ca. 1930. (B.P.)

Joe Cardboard. A synonym of Joe Soap, a softie, a constant dupe: mostly Services': early 1950s.

Joe Cunt. The man who gets all the dirty work to do; the one who lets himself be imposed upon: Services': since ca. 1920. Joe Hunt is the rhyming euph.: id.

Joe Erk. A peculiar and ingenious combination of "Joe" (Canadian abbreviation of "Joe Soap"), "erk" (British) and "jerk", American for a dull-witted fellow' (Elgin Blair, 1947): RCAF: 1939+. Perhaps rhyming s. on US, hence Can., s. jerk. Franklyn, Rhyming.

Joe Goss. Boss: Aus. rhyming s.: since ca. 1910. Franklyn, Rhyming.

Joe Gurr. Prison: c.: since ca. 1930. (F.D. Sharpe, The Flying Squad, 1938.) Rhyming on stir.

Joe Hook. (A) crook: rhyming s.: C.20. P.P., Rhyming Slang, 1932.—2. A book: rhyming s.: since ca. 1930. Cf. Joe Rook.

Joe Hunt. See Joe Cunt. Hence, a fool: C.20. Franklyn.

Joe job. See Joe boy.

Joe Manton. A fowling-piece made by Joseph Manton (d. 1837), a well-known London gunsmith: coll.: 1816 (SOD); ob. by 1890, † by 1910. Also Manton. See Joe Miller, 2.

Joe Marks. Sharks: Aus. rhyming s.:—1945 (Baker). Cf. Joan of Arcs.

Joe Miller. A jest-book: coll.: 1780 (George Parker); ob. Ex comedian Joseph Miller (1684–1738), whose name was 'identified' with a book pub. in 1739 but not compiled by him.—2. Hence, a jest, esp. if a stale one: coll.: 1816. Scott, 'A fool and his money are soon parted, nephew; there is a Joe Miller for your Joe Manton' (SOD). Cf. chestnut.—3. Hence, in I don't see the Joe Miller of it, I don't see the joke, or, the fun, of doing it: coll.: ca. 1830–95.

Joe Morgan. Aus. var. of Molly O'Morgan, an organ:—1945 (Baker).

Joe O'Gorman. A foreman: rhyming s.: late C.19–20.

Joe Pokes. A justice of the peace: lower classes'; from ca. 1875. (B. & L.) By elab. of J.P.

Joe Rocks. Socks: rhyming s.: C.20. Suggested by almond rocks, q.v.

Joe (occ. Jo) Ronce. A harlot's bully: rhyming s., on ponce: C.20. Hence, the Jo(e) Roncing stakes, 'poncing'. Both are in Gilt Kid, 1936.

Joe Rook. A book: rhyming s.: C.20. (P.P., Rhyming Slang, 1932.) Cf. Joe Hook.—2. A crook: C.20. Rhyming. Cf.:

Joe Rooks (singular very rare). Bookmakers, esp. those who ply on the course: racing rhyming s., on synon. books: C.20. Franklyn 2nd.

Joe Rourke. A thief, esp. a pickpocket: c.: mid-C.19–20. (F.D. Sharpe, 1938.) Rhyming on fork, n., 1 and 2.

Joe Savage. A cabbage: imperfect rhyming s.:—1859.

Joe Shmo. Everyman, as in 'Every Joe Shmo on the street will say...' (Ian Walker, New Society, 12 Mar. 1981).

Joe Skinner. Dinner: rhyming s.: late C.19–20. Cf. Jim Skinner and Lilley & Skinner.

Joe Soap. An unintelligent fellow that is 'over-willing' and therefore made a 'willing horse': Services', esp. RAF: since ca. 1930. (H. & P.) Rhyming s., on dope, n., 6. Also as v.: 'Thus, "Yes, I'm always Joe Soaping for somebody"' (Jackson). P.B.: in later C.20 usage has > gen. and widespread; the origin prob. now, 1938, almost obscured. Hence:—

Joe'd, in be joe'd. To be given the dirty work, or to be left 'carrying the can': RAF, then other Services' and gen.: since ca. 1945. Ex prec.

joes, the. Melancholy thoughts: (low) Aus.:—1915 (C.J. Dennis). Perhaps ex the Joe Blakes, q.v.—2. Hence, (a state of) nerves: Aus.: since ca. 1925. Vance Palmer, Seedtime, 1957, 'What I saw in the sugar country gave me the joes'.

Joey or joey (capital where appropriate). A fourpenny piece: from ca. 1855; †. 'Ducange Anglicus', 1857; H., 1859, 'The term originate with the London cabmen.' See Joe, n., 2, and sense 7 below.—2. A marine: nautical: from ca. 1830; ob. by 1950. (F. & G.) Cf. Joe, n., 3; but prob. ex jolly, n., 2.—3. A clown: theatrical: from ca. 1830. Ex Joe Grimaldi, who to the early C.19 was what Grock was to earlier C.20. Cf. Auguste—4. A very young kangaroo: Aus. coll.: 1839. Hence, a hewer of wood and drawer of water (1845), punning kangaroo as typical of an Aus.; from ca. 1870, any other young animal; hence, from ca. 1880, a little child, a baby. Ex Aboriginal joé. (Morris.) See also wood-and-water Joey.—5. A newly entered prisoner in a convict prison: c.: ca. 1865 is the date of the ref. in 'No. 747'.—6. A humbug: prison c.: mid-C.19–20. (Mayhew.) Perhaps ex 5, or ex holy Joe.—7. A silver threepenny bit: Londoners': earlier C.20. Cf. sense 1.—8. A hermaphrodite: a sodomite; an effeminate or foppish young man neither hermaphrodite nor sodomite: Aus. low: C.20.

(B., 1942.) Perhaps ex sense 4, 3rd nuance.—9. An evasion; a small lie: Aus.: C.20. (B., 1943.) Cf. sense 6.—10. A worthless cheque: Aus. (low; police): since ca. 1910. Ibid.—11. Hence, a fake: Aus. servicemen's: WW2. B., 1953.—12. The senior RM officer in the wardrobe: RN officers: C.20. P-G-R.—13. As in 'I'm having my Joey' or menstrual period: middle- and upper-middle-class feminine: C.20.—14. In it's Joey, a call at knocking-off time: Midlands collieries': C.20. Manchester Guardian, 19 Aug. 1954.—15. A familiar form of Joe Hunt or Joe Cunt, q.v. Franklyn, Rhyming.—16. See Joe, n., 2 and 6.—17. 'A small double-ended canal boat without sleeping berths' (D.D. Gladwin, The Canals of Britain, 1923): canalmen's: late C.19–20. (Peppitt.) Perhaps mere personification.—18. 'Illegal parcel sent into—or out of—prison' (Tempest): prison c.: mid-C.20.

joey, v. See Joe, v.—2. To 'mug' or attract the public's attention, while the 'mugger' is up-stage: theatrical: mid-C.19–early 20. (Ware.) Ex joey, n., 3.

joey! Exclam. of warning. See Joe, n., 6.

jog the loo. To pump briskly: nautical coll.: C.19–20. (Bowen.) Obviously loo is water (Fr. l'eau).

jogari (homey or polone(y)); joggering omee. Any instrumentalist or singer, esp. if itinerant, resp. male (homey) or female: Parlyaree: late (?mid)-C.19–20. The first form in Lester, 1937. Ex It. giocar, to play. Cf.:

jogger, v. To play and sing: Parlyaree: late C.19—earlier 20. See prec. and PARLYAREE in Appendix.

jogue. A shilling: c. from ca. 1810; in C.20 market-traders' argot (as joag). It occurs in George Elson, The Last of the Climbing Boys, 1900, as jug. Vaux; M.T.

jogul. To 'play up', or simply to play, at any game, esp. cards: gaming c.:—1859. Ex Sp. jugar. H., 1st ed.

Johanna, -ner. See Joanna.

John. A cadet in his first two years: Royal Military Academy, Sandhurst: from ca. 1860. (Maj. A.F. Mockler-Ferryman, Annals of Sandhurst, 1900.) Perhaps ex Johnny Raw. Contrast Reg.—2. A chap, a fellow (C.19–20); occ. a male sweetheart: C.20. Ex Johnnie, 1.—3. Abbr. Sir John, a priest: rare and rather S.E. than coll.; Sir John being certainly S.E.—4. A policeman: C.20: mostly Aus. OED Sup. cites Westminster Gazette, 18 Sep. 1901; C.J. Dennis, 1916. Poss. abbr. John Hop, q.v., but cf. jack, n., 1. It has, since ca. 1910, been common also in Can.—'I think, in this case, from John Darm (gendarme): F.E.L. Priestley.—5. A Chinese. See John Chinaman.—6. Dried fish: nautical: late C.19–20. Bowen.—7. A coll. term of address, C.19–20, as in Desmond Coke, The Bending of a Twig, 1906: 'All men-servants are Johns at Shrewsbury'; for its Westminster usage, see WESTMINSTER in Appendix.—8. Short for John Thomas, penis; NZ: C.20.—9. A kookaburra: Aus.: C.20. B., 1943.—10. An arrest: since ca. 1945: c. >, by ca. 1965, also low s. Short for John Bull, rhyming on s. pull, an or to arrest.—11. A 'mark' or the victim (whether potential or actual) of a theft, esp. pickpocketry: c.: since ca. 1945.—12. 'Prostitutes' contemptuous term for a client. A ponce might say to a prostitute: "Don't you treat me like a john or I'll mark your face" (Powis, 1977).—13. 'Prostitutes' contemptuous term for a sheath contraceptive' (Ibid.). A shortening of Johnnie, 16.—14. As the john, the privy: in earlier C.20 upper and middle class; in mid-C.20 predominantly US, returning to more gen. UK usage in later 1970s. Prob. a pun on dial. jack's house or on jack, n., 12, q.v.

John-and-John. A male homosexual: C.18—mid-19 coll.

John Audley; occ. Orderly! Abridge the performance!: theatrical: from ca. 1810. Ex the actor-manager John Richardson (d. 1837), who used to ask 'Is John Audley here?' whenever another 'house' was waiting, though tradition (H., 1864) has it that John Audley or Orderly taught him the wheeze.—2. Also occ. as a v. Also, to depart: circus s.: C.20. E. Seago, Circus Company, 1933.

John Barleycorn, or Sir J.B., is nobody with him. He's no drinker: proverbial c.p.: C.17–18.

John Barleycorn's, or Sir John Barleycorn's, the strongest knicht. Malt liquor is strong stuff: proverbial c.p.: C.17–18. Ray.

John Bluebottle. A policeman: C.20. Cf. blue bottle, 1, and John Hop.

John Blunt. see Jack Blunt.

John Bull. In Toby: a Bristol Tramp Tells his Story, Bristol Broad-sides, 1979, simply 'a policeman in tramps' c. See John, 10.

John Chinaman. A Chinese: C.19–20; by 1940, ob.; by 1966, virtually t. John Hall, Voyage to Loo-choo, 1826 (p. 37), 'The seamen... not caring whether John Chinaman, as they called him, understood them or not.' (Moe.)

John Collins. A drink made of soda water, gin, sugar, lemon and ice: orig. Aus., from ca. 1860; in C.20 gen. throughout the English-speaking world, and > drinkers' j. 'That most angelic of drinks for a hot climate' (Australasian, 24 Feb. 1865).

John Company; occ. Johnny Company. The Honourable East India Company: coll.: from ca. 1785; now only historical. Ex Dutch Jan Kompanie, by which the Eastern natives speak of the Dutch East India Company and government.

John Cotton. See Dolly Cotten.

John Crap(p)o. See Johnny Crapose.

John Davis. Money: c.:—1926 (F. Jennings, In London's Shadows).

John Des paper. See WINCHESTER, § 7, in Appendix.

John Dillon. A shilling; NZ rhyming s.: since ca. 1930. 'From the name of a famous racehorse' (Franklyn 2nd).

John Drawlatch. A sneaking person: coll. > S.E.: C.16–17. Heywood's Proverbs, 1546.

John Dunn; usu. pl, John Duns, policemen: Aus.: since ca. 1920. (B., 1942.) For origin see johndarm.

John Ford's altar (a master's desk), John Ford's bath (horse-trough), John Ford's hat (= ?), John Ford's leg (roly-poly pudding): Bootham School:—1925 (Bootham).

John Fortnight. The tallyman: London workmen's: late C.19–20; ob. Ware, 'From his calling every other week.'

John Gray's bird, like. Fond of company, even if it be rather above one: coll.: C.16. Gascoigne (Apperson).

John Henry. The penis: late C.19–mid-20. Cf. synon John Thomas, 2. Bill Naughton, One Small Boy, 1966. (L.A.)

John Hop. A policeman: rhyming s., on cop: Brit., Aus., NZ and S. African: earlier C.20. (P.P., Rhyming Slang, 1932.) Aus. var. Johnnie Hopper.

John Hughes won't save yer! Shouted after eligible-for-Service types: Liverpool c.p.: 1917+. 'A shopkeeper named John Hughes was alleged, in a court case, to have found ways of getting exemption from conscription for young men (often Irish) in his employ' (DCpp.).

John Long (in C.18–19, occ. Tom Long) the carrier, stay for or send by. To wait, or postpone for, a long time: coll.: C.16–19. Cotgrave.

John L.s. 'Long underpants, after the old-style boxing gear worn by John L. Sullivan: Merchant Navy and Royal Navy: 1940s' (Peppitt)—but I suspect since late 1880s, Sullivan being at his height in 1882–92. Also known as long Johns or longjohns.

John o' Groat. A coat; pl, John o' Groats, coats: rhyming s.: since ca. 1900. Cf. I'm afloat, 2.

John Orderly. See John Audley.

John Plush. A footman: coll.: from ca. 1845; ob. by 1930. Ex plushes, such plush breeches as are worn by footmen + Thackeray's The Yellowplush Papers, 'by Charles Yellowplush, Esq.', the former recorded in 1844 (OED), the latter pub. in 1837.

John Roberts. A, or enough, drink to keep a man drunk from Saturday to Sunday night: Anglo-Welsh:—1886. Ex the author of the Sunday Closing Act.

John Roper's window. See Roper, 2.

John Thomas. The penis: coll. and euph.: since ca. 1840 in Brit., 1867 in Aus. (Baker, letter), and NZ—1874 (A. Bathgate, Colonial Experiences). Occ. abbr. J.T. See also Thomas.—2. A flunkey: low coll.: ca. 1860–1910.

John (occ. Joan) Thomson's man. A uxorious husband: Scots coll.: C.16–19. Dunbar.

John Trot. A bumpkin: upper classes': ?ca. 1710–70. A letter, dated 17 Dec. 1733 and cited in Lord Hervey and His Friends, ed. the Earl of Ilchester, 1950.

John Tuck. 'A slang name for the [Chinese] Viceroy at Canton, being the corruption of Tsung-tuk [approx. Joong duk], Governor-General, as pronounced by the sailors of H.B.M.'s fleet during the occupation of Canton': nautical: from late 1830s. H.A. Giles, Glossary of Reference on Subjects Connected with the Far East, 1878; Bowen.

John Whoball. See he is none...

John Willie. Synon. of John Thomas, 1: since ca. 1930.

John Willie (or Willy), come on! A North Country c.p. of exhortation to a slow-witted or mentally deficient youth or man: late C.19–20. Also, Julian Franklyn tells me, a London streets c.p. of ca. 1910: 'I believe from a song.' Cf. Willie, 1. johndarm (or J). A policeman: London taxi-drivers': since ca. 1917. (Herbert Hodge, Cab, Sir?, 1939.) Ex Fr. (gens d'armes >) gendarme.

Johnian. A student of St John's College, Cambridge: Cambridge University coll. >, in C.19, S.E.: mid-C.17–20. But Johnian hog (—1785, Grose, at hog) and J. Pig (from ca. 1800) are s.

Johnnie, Johnny. A fellow, a chap; a sweetheart: coll.: from ca. 1670; ob. Ramsay, Kipling.—2. A (fashionable) young man about town: from ca. 1880.—3. A tiger: sportsmen's: 1815 (OED).—4. A penguin: nautical:—1898.—5. A policeman: low: from ca. 1850. Occ. (ca. 1860–80) Johnny Darby, perhaps influenced by darbies and Fr. gendarmes. Mayhew, Besant & Rice.—6. A half-glass of whisky: Anglo-Irish: from ca. 1860; ob. (Earlier (—1827), Dumbartonshire dial.)—7. A Greek: nautical: late C.19–20. (Bowen.) Perhaps ex prevalence of the name Johannides.—8. A Turk; rarely a German: military: WW1. F. & G.; B. & P.—9. The nickname of men surnamed Walker: Services': late C.19–20. Ex the celebrated whisky. F. & G.—10. Short for Johnny Horner, q.v.: C.20.—11. A Chinese: Aus.: since ca. 1905. (B., 1942.) Ex John Chinaman.—12. As the Johnny, the water-closet: C.20. (C.S. Archer, China Servant, 1946.) Ex john, 14.—13. An Arab: army: WW2. P-G-R.—14. Penis: mostly feminine: late C.19–20. Cf. John Thomas, a personification, and dick.—15. A kookaburra: Aus.: C.20. (K.S. Prichard, Haxby's Circus, 1930.) Also john, 9.—16. A condom: Services': since early 1940s. Cf. John, 13.—17. A member of a ship's crew (the Johnnies): RN: C.19. (Basil Hall, 1831.) Contrasted with a jolly or Royal Marine.—18. A sanitary pad: polite feminine s. of the 1930s. (A trustworthy correspondent.)—19. Var. of John, 12, q.v.

Johnnie, -y. This familiar form of the name occurs in a great number of slang and colloquial phrases, many of which are entered below. To avoid a 'double run', I have chosen the (prob.) commoner form Johnny, this being the majority usage in the 7th edition of this Dict., for them all.

Johnnies and Sallies. Kinds of 'Kaffirs', the former being specifically shares in the Johannesburg Consolidated Investment Company (Continental Daily Mail, 29 Aug. 1933). Stock Exchange: C.20. Evening Standard, 5 Feb. 1935.

Johnny Armstrong. Manual work, hand-power: joc. nautical: from ca. 1920. (OED Sup.) Cf. elbow-grease, and 'the elementary motive power known as "handraulic"' (Granville): RN.

johnny bait (or one word). A sexually attractive girl. See bait, n., 4.

Johnny Bates's) Farm. See Bate's Farm.

Johnny Bliss. (A) urination: Aus. rhyming s., on piss: later C.20. (A. Buzo, 1973.) Cf. Mickey Bliss, the Brit. form.

Johnny Bono. An Englishman: East End of London: from ca. 1850; ob. by 1930.

Johnny Bum. A male donkey: joc.: late C.18–mid-19. (Grose, 1st ed.) Ex a euph. for jack ass, ass being pronounced arse. Grose.

Johnny (or J) cake. A cake cooked in a frying pan or baked in the ashes: Aus. (—1846): coll. Adoption of a US term, which (orig.—1739—journey-cake) denotes a thin cake made of Indian meal and toasted before a fire. Morris; Thornton; Wilkes.

Johnny-come-lately. 'A nickname for a farm hand recently arrived from England,' (B., 1942): NZ rural: since ca. 1910. Cf. Johnny Newcome, 2.—2. In Aus., any newcomer: C.20. B., 1942.

Johnny Cotton. Rotten: rhyming s.: C.20. Everyman, 26 Mar. 1931.

Johnny Crapose, Crapo or Crappo. Frenchman: low: C.19—early 20. (Ware; Bowen.) Johnny Crappo occurs in W.N. Glascock, Naval Sketch-Book, 2nd series, 1834, at II, 137. (Moe.) It also occurs as Jean Crappeau in Alfred Burton, Johnny Newcome, 1818. (Moe.) Ex Fr. crapaud, a toad (not a frog); perhaps influenced by crap, v., 1.—2. (Gen. John Crappo.) Hence, a British seaman wearing a moustache: nautical: ca. 1815–50. Bowen.

Johnny Darby. See Johnny, 5.—2. In pl, handcuffs: ca. 1860–1915.

Johnny Gallacher (or Gallagher). A uniformed policeman: tramps' c.:—1935. Cf. the synonym John.

Johnny go home! A coll. phrase applied, since early 1970s, to those children or adolescents who flock to London (or other great cities) in search of excitement or jobs and, failing to find them, become a problem for the authorities. Penny Symons's article in The Times, 9 Apr. 1976.

Johnny Gurk (or more politely) Gurkha. A Gurkha soldier: army: since ca. 1915.

Johnny hangman. See Jacky hangman. (Woodward, The Birds of Natal, 1899.)

Johnny Haultaut. A man-of-warsman: merchant service: ca. 1870–1910. (Clark Russell.) Prob. ex the Navy's pride in a 'taut ship'; cf. 'All-A-Taut... is a ship fully rigged and everything in its place' (Admiralty Manual of Seamanship, vol. 1, 1937).

Johnny Hopper. A policeman: Aus. rhyming s., on copper: since ca. 1920. (B.P.) Cf. John Hop.

Johnny Horner. Round the corner; i.e. to, at, a 'pub': rhyming s.:—1909 (Ware). P.B.: but in mid-late C.20 often in 'round the Johnny 'Orner.—2. See Jack Horner.

Johnny in the middle. One 'who can see both sides, and more clearly than the contending parties' (L.A., 1976): coll.: later C.20.

Johnny in the stalls. A (vapid) young man haunting the theatre stalls on account of the actresses: from ca. 1895. (Leonard Merrick, The Call from the Past, 1910.) Cf. synonym stage-door Johnny.

Johnny Newcome. A new-born child: coll.: from ca. 1830; ob.—2. An inexperienced youth; a landsman: nautical: prob. dates from late C.18: cf. A. Burton, Johnny Newcome, 1818.

Johnny pocket. A long narrow pocket, close to the fly-buttons, in battledress trousers: army: WW2+. (? Mythically) for contraceptives. (B.S. Johnson, ed., All Bull, 1973.) Cf. johnnie, 16. (P.B.)

Johnny Randall. A candle: navvies' rhyming s.: ca. 1860–1900. D.W. Barrett, 1880.

Johnny Rann. Var. of Tommy O'Rann, food. Franklyn 2nd.

Johnny Raw. A novice; a recruit: coll.: 1813; ob. Sydney Bulletin, 26 Feb. 1887, 'He was a new-chum—a regular Johnny-Raw.'—2. A morning drink: provincial: later C.19—early 20.

Johnny Rollocks. Var. of Tommy Rollocks, testicles.

Johnny Ronce. Var. of Joe Ronce, ponce. Gerald Kersh, Night and the City, 1938.

Johnny Russell. A bustle: Aus. rhyming s.: C.20. B., 1942.

Johnny Rutter. Butter: rhyming s.: since ca. 1880. P.P., Rhyming Slang, 1932.

Johnny Scaparey, do a. To abscond: circus employees': mid-C.19–20. It. scappare, to escape.

Johnny Skinner. Var. of Jim, or Joe, Skinner, dinner: C.20. Franklyn, Rhyming.

Johnny Squarehead. A German soldier: army: WW1.

Johnny Turk. The orig. form of Johnnie (-y), 8. B. & P.

Johnny Walker. See still going strong...

Johnny Warder. An idler that hangs about public-houses in the hope of a free drink: Aus.: ca. 1880–1920. (B., 1942.) Ex John Ward, the landlord of a low 'pub' in Sydney.—2. A lone drinker: Aus.: ca. 1910–40. (B., 1959.) Cf. Jimmy Woodser.

Johnny Woodser. Aus. and NZ var. of Jimmy Woodser, q.v. Cf. Johnny Warder, 2.

Johnny's. A doss-house: Aus. servicemen's: WW2. B., 1943.

Johnson. Abbr. Jack Johnson, q.v.: 1916, Wipers Times, 12 Feb. 'The Johnsons. A Shout. A Scream. A Roar,' a very apt description of their advent and explosion. B. & P. (2nd ed.).

—2. The penis: mid-C.19—mid-20. Leechman cites Cheddle's Journal of a Trip across Canada, 1862–3 (Ottawa, 1931), entry for 2 Feb. 1863: 'Neck frozen. Face ditto; thighs ditto; Johnson ditto, and sphincter vesicæ partially paralyzed'.—3. A prostitute's bully, esp. if a black: c., and low: from ca. 1910.

join! 'Get some Service in!'; old soldiers' taunt to younger: from ca. 1925 (H. & P.); superseded by, e.g., 'Get some in!'

join a brick wall. To crash into a wall: since ca. 1925. In 1939–45, young fellows thinking of volunteering for the Forces were sometimes told that they would do better to join a brick wall.

join giblets. To marry: coll. verging on S.E.: 1681 as j. g. together, 1769 as j. giblets. OED.—2. Whence, to copulate: late C.18–20 low. In C.19–20, also do or have a bit of giblet-pie, and join paunches.—3. To cohabit unmarried: late C.18—early 19. Grose, 2nd ed. (for 2 and 3).

join the Army and see the world — the next world! A joc. gibe by disgruntled soldiers: since ca. 1948. Ex the poster carrying—without the last three words—that slogan.

join the back of the queue! A c.p. addressed to someone slow in the uptake: since ca. 1944. (Petch, 1966.)

join the club! An invitation to join a group drinking, discussing, 'or whatever': c.p.: since ca. 1960.—2. Hence, almost immediately, 'an expression of sympathy over a commonly-held, usually disagreeable, experience' (Mrs C. Raab, 1976).

join the gang. To become a thief: low: from ca. 1860; ob. B. & L.

join up, v.i. To enlist: coll., from ca. 1914; >, by mid-C.20 at latest, familiar S.E.—2. As exclam., var. of join!

join? When I get out of this (lot) they won't get me to join a Christmas Club: Forces' c.p.: 1939+.

joined. In be joined, to be married: coll.: C.19—earlier 20. Cf. join giblets, 1.—2. In get joined!, an occ. var. of get knotted!, get stuffed!, etc., exclam. of contemptuous dismissal: low: later C.20. (P.B.)—3. See when I joined...

joint. In c. (—1885) partnership; a concerted robbery (—1887, Baumann): ob.—2. 'An outside bookmaker's paraphernalia of list-frame, umbrella, etc., some of which are joined together in movable pieces' (OED): the turf from ca. 1896.—3. A wife: low: early C.20. (Ware.) Because joined. In theatrical circles, it often meant 'a married couple' (Michael Warwick, The Stage, 3 Oct. 1968).—4. Any place or building: low: prob. orig. Anglo-Irish, early C.19; thence to US (—1883) and Aus., where adopted ca. 1905 (very common in the AIF, WW1), and so, ca. 1910, in England. 'A Real Paddy', Real Life in Ireland, 1822, 'I slips the joint' = I ran away from the place (a boarding-school).—5. Hence, a brothel: NZ c.:—1932.—6. In grafters' and market-traders' s. of late C.19–20: a tent; a stall; any stand from which, or object with which, a grafter provides amusement. Chappack, 1934; M.T. Cf. esp. sense 2 and 4.—7. A fellow, chap: from ca. 1895, but not very gen.; mostly Cockneys'. Edwin Pugh, The Cockney at Home, 1914, 'I'm a joint as likes plenty of room'; Ernest Raymond, Mary Leith, 1931. Perhaps cf. sense 3.—8. In jump the joint, to assume command: low Aus.:—1916 (C.J. Dennis).—9. In work the joint, to swindle with a jockeyed lottery table: c.:—1895. Cf. sense 1.—10. A 'reefer'. To roll a joint is to make up a marihuana cigarette. This is the commonest synonym in current use among young people (1968).

joke. See no joke.

joke damper. 'Inefficient suspension or springing' (Dunford): motorcyclists': later C.20.

joke over! or when do we laugh? A sarcastic c.p., directed at a feeble witticism: since the 1920s. The former is sometimes uttered by the joker himself when he sees that his wit has misfired.—2. Joke over! may be used by one in authority, e.g., a schoolteacher or group-leader, to recall wandering attention after any sort of disruptive incident: since (?)ca. 1940. (P.B.)

jokee. The 'victim' of a joke: coll.: from ca. 1870.

joker. A man, chap, fellow: from ca. 1810. (Pepys's 'At noon... to the Trinity-house, where a very good dinner among the old jokers' is misleading.) Very common in Aus. and NZ since late C.19. Cf. artist, merchant, shaver.—2. See little joker.

jokey. Funny: teenagers': from ca. 1955. Nicholas Blake, The Sad Variety, 1964, 'Leake,' I said, "your mind's as jokey as your clothes".

joking. See you must be joking for such phrases as you're joking or you have (got) to be joking, which are synon. with are you kidding?, q.v.

joky. Var. spelling of jokey.

jol. To have fun: S. African: C.20. Adoption of Afrikaans (ex Dutch jolen, to make merry).

jolah. A haversack: army: late C.19—early 20. (B. & P., 3rd ed.) Ex Hindustani.

jole. To hit or strike (esp. a person): market-traders': ?late C.19—20. (M.T.) Var. of joll, itself a var. of + S.E. jowl, to jolt, shake, strike, now very widely distributed dial.

Jollies, the. The Royal Marines. See jolly, n., 2.—2. In, e.g., get (one's) jollies, get one's pleasure or one's special thrills from (something); e.g. 'He gets all his jollies from watching soccer on TV': since ca. 1950. By mid-1970s had acquired a rather derogatory or patronising tone, and often a sexual innuendo: 'getting his jollies squalidly, like one of the dirty mac brigade'. (P.B.) jollification. Jollity; a merry-making: coll.: 1798 (SOD). Scott. Whence:

jollify. To behave merrily; become, occ. make, slightly drunk: coll.: from ca. 1820.

jollily. Excellently, splendidly; delightfully: from ca. 1560: S.E. till ca. 1850, then coll.; slightly ob. (Cf. jolly, adj., 1 and 2.) M.C. Jackson, 1878 (OED).

jollo. A festive occasion; a party: Aus.: since ca. 1925. (B., 1942.) Ex jollification. Aus. s. is fond of the jolly terminal -o.

jollocks, jollux. A parson: low: late C.18—19. Possibly a euph. (suggested by jolly, adj.) of ballocks, q.v. (cf. cods, a curate); prob. ex dial. jollock, jolly, hearty (OED).—2. (jollux.) A fat person: ca. 1795—1815. OED.

jollop. 'Strong liquor, especially whisky' (B., 1942): Aus.: C.20. Ex:—2. A laxative, a purgative: Aus. coll.: late C.19—20. A corruption of S.E. jalap.

jolly, n. The head: late C.18—mid-19. Also jolly nob. Grose, 1st ed.—2. A Royal Marine: nautical: since early C.19. Also (—1867) a Royal (or royal) jolly. (Cf. tame jolly, a militiaman.) Moe cites W.N. Glascock, Sketch-Book (I, 14), 1825; also in Marryat; Kipling; Bowen, 'Taken from the old nickname of the City Trained Bands.'—3. The confederate of a thief or a swindler; esp. a sham purchaser: c.:—1856; ob. Mayhew, Greenwood.—4. A pretence; an excuse: c.: ca. 1850—1930. J.W. Horsely.—5. Praise, a recommendation; chaff, abuse: low (orig. Cockney) coll.: from ca. 1855. H., 1859; Vance, in The Chickaleary Cove.—6. Hence, a cheer: from ca. 1870; slightly ob. Esp. in give (e.g. him) a jolly, chiefly in imperative.—7. Abbr. jollification: coll.; prob. orig. Public Schools': since ca. 1910. Siegfried Sassoon, Memoirs of an Infantry Officer, 1930, has 'a bit of a jolly' in quot'n marks.—8. Hence, a pleasant excursion: army: 1960s. 'We're off on a jolly down to Fama-G [Famagusta], are you coming?' or 'Some big nebbly from the War Box out here [Cyprus] on a jolly'. (P.B.)—9. See chuck a jolly, to start a bantering exchange.

jolly, v.t. and i. To joke; rally, chaff; vituperate: from ca. 1860.—2. To cheer: from ca. 1890.—3. V.i., to make a sham bid (at an auction): 1869 (OED): c. > low; ob.—4. To treat (a person) pleasantly so that he stay in, or become of, a good humour: coll.: adopted, ex US, ca. 1910. Esp. with along, occ. with up or on.—5. (Cf. sense 3.) 'To impose upon, to act as an accomplice or abettor': c.: from ca. 1860. B. & L.

jolly, adj. Excellent; fine; indicative of gen. approbation (in mid-C.19—20, often ironical): C.14—20; S.E. till C.19, then coll. Daily Telegraph, 1869, 'He is annoyed when young ladies use slang phrases, such as awfully jolly.'—2. Extremely pleasant, agreeable, suitable, charming: mid-C.16—20: S.E. till ca. 1860, then coll.—3. Slightly drunk: from ca. 1650; euph. S.E. till C.19, then coll.—4. 'Healthy and well developed; well conditioned; plump': coll. and dial.: from ca. 1660. (SOD). Whence.—5. Fat; too fat: the turf: from ca. 1885.

jolly, adv. with adv. or adj. (In mid-C.19—20, often ironical.) Very; exceedingly: mid-C.16—20: S.E. till C.19, then coll. Dickens in Oliver Twist, "'He is so jolly green," said Charley.' See also jolly well.

jolly along. Usual form of jolly, v., 4: C.20. Manchon, 1923.

jolly beans. 'Benzedrine (US)' (Home Office): drug addicts' s.: later C.20.

jolly boat, take the. To break out of barracks: RN lowerdeck: since ca. 1920. P-G-R.

jolly boys. 'A group of small drinking vessels connected by a tube, or by openings one from another' (F. & H.): coll.: late C.19—early 20.

jolly d. 'Jolly decent', i.e. very good: girls' Public Schools': C.20. 'I say, that's jolly d of you' (Nancy Spain, Poison for Teacher, 1949). Also as exclam., 'Oh, I say, jolly d!' 'Not ironically in Australia' (B.P., 1963). In later C.20, often used ironically or satirically. 'Oh, jolly D!' was the c.p. of the character 'Dudley Davenport' (played by Maurice Denham) in the very popular radio-comedy series 'Much-Binding-in-the-Marsh', mid-1940s.

jolly dog. A boon companion, merry fellow: coll. (—1785) >, ca. 1870, S.E.: slightly ob. by 1930. (Grose.) Cf. S.E. jolly fellow.

jolly fox. To support a friend with kindly chaff or praise: ca. 1850—1925: mostly Cockney. Cf. jolly, v., 4.

jolly hockey-sticks, adj., or as exclam. Mildly derisive of the jolly, hearty, games-loving atmosphere encouraged in many Brit. girls' Public Schools, and used to parody the feminine 'country' accent: later C.20. Coined by the actress Beryl Reid in her role as Monica in the BBC radio-comedy series 'Educating Archie' (later 1940s—early 50s). See DCpp.

jolly Jack. Sailors' term for the civilian conception of (and illusions about) the seaman in the Navy: RN coll.: since ca. 1920.

jolly jumper. A light sail set above a 'sky-scraper', q.v.: nautical: C.19. An early occurrence is in Blackwood's, 1821 (Moe).

jolly nob. See jolly, n., 1.

Jolly Polly. Gallipoli: military: 1915+. (B. & P.) By Hobson-Jobson.

jolly Roger; in late C.19—20, occ. Rogex. A pirate's flag: 1785, Grose: coll. >, ca. 1850, S.E. Earliest record, 1723, as old Roger (W.). A white skull in a black field; ironic.

jolly stick. An early occ. var. of joy-stick, 1.

jolly tit. A pleasant companion: early C.18. See MEN, in Appendix.

jolly-up. A 'beano'; a drinking-bout: lower-middle class: from ca. 1905; ob. Alec Waugh, The Balliols, 1934.—2. Hence, a 'good time': middle class: since the early 1920s; by 1960, ob. Evelyn Waugh, Put Out More Flags, 1942, 'One gives a jolly-up to a girl in a shop. She goes her way, he goes his.'

jolly utter. Unspeakable: London cultured: 1881—ca. 1890. Punch, 1881; W.S. Gilbert's Patience, 1881; Referee, 18 Feb. 1883. (Ware.) Cf. utterly utter, q.v. at utter.

jolly well. An intensive adverb: middle-class coll.: apparently since the 1880s. (The OED cites Rudyard Kipling, 1898.) It occurs, always with a verb, as in "'Sorry!"—"You jolly well ought to be!" and "You'll jolly well go there yourself, and not ask someone else to go." In later C.20 sometimes as jollywell; cf. bloodywell.

Jolson Story. The penis: rhyming s. on synon. cory. (Red Daniells, 1980.) Ex the title of a popular film, made in 1946, based on the life of the American Al Jolson, the singer.

jolt, n. A drink, esp. of brandy and whisky: Aus.: since ca. 1920. Godfrey Blunden, No More Reality, 1935, "'Take another jolt, sport," said Clarrie with a grin.' Adopted ex Can., where current since ca. 1900. (Niven.)—2. In pass (someone) a jolt, 'to deliver a short sharp blow': Aus.:—1916 (C.J. Dennis). jolt, v. To coit with (a woman): low: C.19–20.—2. To strike (someone): Aus.: since ca. 1920. (B., 1942.) Cf. jole, and prec., 2.

jomer. A fancy girl: a sweetheart: c. (—1839) >, ca. 1850, theatrical and Parlyaree; † as theatrical. Perhaps a corruption of It. donna (cf. dona(h), q.v.), it is always—in contradistinction to blower, blowen—a complimentary term, says Brandon.

Jonah. A frequent nickname for a man surnamed Jones: late C.19–20. 'Lieut.-Colonel L.B. ("Jonah") Jones of the Rajputana Rifles' (Michie & Graebner, Lights of Freedom, 1941).

jonah, v. To bring bad luck to; to hinder: Aus. coll.: C.20. Baker.

Jonah's whale. Tail: rhyming s.: 1887—ca. 1920. It first occurs in G.R. Sims's 'Tottie', a Dagonet Ballad published in the Referee, 7 Nov. 1887 (Franklyn 2nd).

Jonas is a C.20 coll. RN lowerdeck var. of S.E. ill-luck Jonah. Granville.—2. A kookaburra: Aus.: since ca. 1910. Via Johness ex John, 9+ laughing jackass.

Jonathan. An American seaman: RN: C.19. Ex S.E. brother Jonathan, an American citizen. Diary of C.H. Clarke, 1834, quoted in R.C. Bell, Diaries from the Age of Sail, 1974 (Peppitt).

Jones. See keep up with the Joneses and Mrs Jones.

Joneses' disease. Synon. with 'keeping up with the Joneses', q.v. at keep up... Robert Mellar, The New Classes, 1966. (P.B.)

jonna, jonnop. Aus. var. of John Hop, q.v., a policeman. (Sarah Campion, Bonanza, 1942; Xavier Herbert, Capricornia, 1939.) In Western Australia, since WW2, pron. jonnap.

jonnick, jonnock, jonnuk. See jannock.

jonty. See jaundy.

jonto. A fellow, a chap: East End of London: recorded in the London Evening News, 27 Nov. 1947.

Jordan; in C.17–18, often Jordain; in C.16–17, occ. Jurdain(e), Jurdan or Jurden. A chamber-pot: C.14–20; ob.: S.E. till ca. 1840, then dial. and low coll. (In C.19, occ. a slop-pail.) 'Prob. an application of the baptismal name Jordan, very common in M.E.' (W.).—2. A blow with a staff: c.: late C.17–mid-19. B.E.—3. The Atlantic: journalists': ca. 1870–1910.—4. In over Jordan; this side of Jordan: resp., dead; alive: coll.:—1889 (B. & L.); Manchon. Ex its use in 'pietistic language to symbolise death' (OED Sup.).

Jordan Highlanders, the. See King's Own Schneiders.

jorrie. A girl: low Glasgow: late C.19–20. (MacArthur & Long.) Perhaps ex gipsy—ultimately Syrian gipsy—djürü, a woman (Dr C. Dowsett, Pembroke College, Oxford).

[Jorum, a drinking bowl, despite F. & H., is S.E. But the derivative sense, a large number or quantity, is dial. and, thence, in late C.19–20, s. verging on coll.]

José. A canteen attendant: RN: C.20. 'Enough to employ all the Joseys for three days lookin' for the cheese that 'e swore 'ad escaped from the canteen' (Musings, 1912, p. 99). Bowen, 'A relic of the days when the Maltese did a lot of this business.'—2. Any Maltese, usu. Josie—or Malts: RN: prob. since late C.19. (Knock.) 'José [is] a very common Maltese Christian name' (Granville).

Joseph. A marine: nautical: C.19—early 20.—2. See not for Joseph!

Joseph and Jessel. A political c.p. of 1886. Satiric of Joseph Chamberlain and Jesse Collings, imm. after the latter assumed office. 'As Mr. Chaplin rather neatly put it... "the voice is the voice of Jesse, the hand is the hand of Joseph"' (Daily News, 26 Feb.: Ware).

Joseph's coat. A many-coloured coat; a dress of honour: coll.: from ca. 1890. Kipling, 'A Joseph's jury-coat to keep his honour warm.' Ex Genesis 37.3.

Josephus rex, you are. You're joking: a late C.18—early 19 c.p. Jo-king, rex being L. for king. Grose, 1st ed.

josh, n. A fool; a sleepy fellow: coll: mid-C.19–20; ob ? ex joskin, q.v.

josh, v.t. and i. To banter; indulge in banter: US (1880s), anglicised by 1935, thanks to the 'talkies'. (OED and Sup.) Perhaps ex Northern dial. and Scottish joss, to jostle, push against: possibly influenced by 'Josh Billings', that humorist whose writings were, ca. 1866–95, a household name in the USA. An early English occurrence is in Josephine Tey, The Man in the Queue, 1927, "'Look here... all joshing apart—do you believe the man didn't do it?'" (P.B.).

josh about or around, v.i. To move clumsily or carelessly: C.20. (John G. Brandon, Th' Big City, 1931.) Prob. ex S.E. jostle influenced by josh, n., q.v.

josh man. Occ. name for a RN master-at-arms: RN, esp. lowerdeck: late C.19—early 20. (Knock.) See also jaundy, and joss, 4.

joshier. Occ. var. of josser, 6.—2. A boat belonging to Messrs Fellows, Morton & Clayton, Ltd, canal carriers: canal-men's: C.20. (L.T.C. Rolt, Narrow Boat, 1944.) The late Mr Fellows's name being Joshua.—13. A deprived old woman: Aus.: ca. 1880–1910. B., 1942.

Josie. Var. of José, q.v.

joskin. A country bumpkin: low: since ca. 1810; still extant among market traders, who, I'd guess, have used it since mid-C.19. (Lex. Bal.; M.T.) Prob. ex dial. joss, to bump, after bumpkin itself (OED).—2. Hence, 'a green hand under sail':

nautical: early C.19—early 20. (Bowen.) In G.E. Evans, Where Beards Wag All, 1970, it has the nuance 'farm-labourer casual-fishing in Winter'. Peppitt suggests that it is perhaps East Anglian dial., but it is not in the EDD with this meaning.—3. Hence, a recruit: army: C.20. Particularly popular among National Servicemen in the late 1940s—early 50s (P.B.).

joss. An idol: Anglo-Chinese 'pidgin': C.18–20. Ex Portuguese Deos, God. Whence joss-house, an idol temple: mid-C.18–20. Y. & B. Cf. chin-chin joss, q.v.—2. Hence, luck: nautical: late C.19–20. Bowen.—3. As the joss, a master-at-arms: RN: C.20. Lt Cdr Peter Whitlock, in the Globe and Laurel, Sep. 1976, derives it ex sense 2, 'from the burning of joss-sticks to ward off evil spirits'; cf. var. josh man, recorded earlier by Knock.—4. Synon. and derivative of josser, 6.

joss-house man; joss-pidgin man. A priest; missionary; parson: orig. Anglo-Chinese pidgin, C.19 (B. & L.); adopted as RN joc. coll. (Granville).

joss man. 'Measure of Phymouth gin; from the picture of a monk on the label' (Granville): RN wardrobe: C.20. Ex prec.—2. Var. of josh man and joss, 3, qq.v. Granville. Also R Aus. N. Ex his power (L.A.).

joss piece. A talisman or mascot: RN: C.20. P-G-R.

josser. A simpleton: coll.:—1886; still in use among tailors, early C.20. (Tailor and Cutter, 29 Nov. 1928.) Prob. ex joskin, 1.—2. An old roué:—1892; †.—3. (Gen. with old.) A fellow: late C.19—earlier 20. Cf. codger.—4. A parson: Aus.: ca. 1885–1910. Cf. joss-house man.—5. A 'swell': Hong Kong:—1909 (Ware). Ex joss, 1.—6. An outsider: Parlyaree: (? late C.19—)C.20. (Edward Seago, Circus Company, 1933.) Prob. ex sense 1 influenced by joskin, 2. Also joshier, and joss.—7. 'A synonym for a "prosser" or sponge' (Ibid.): rather low: late C.19—earlier 20.

Jossop. Syrup, juice, sauce, gravy, broth: schoolboys'; Cockneys': later C.19—earlier 20. (J.W. Horsley, I Remember, 1912; Manchon.) Cf. jizzup, the Birmingham version; and jollop, jipper and gism (and its variants), all of which seem to form a 'family'.

jostle. To cheat: c.: late C.18–20. Cf. hustle.

jostled about like turds in a piss-pot. Applied to ships crowded together: MN: C.20. (H.P. Mann, 1972.)

jostler. A swindler: Glasgow c.: (prob.) mid-C.19–20. Cf. hustler.

jotter. A pad on which to take or make notes (jotting pad): secretaries' and typists' coll.: since late 1930s. P.D. James, A Mind to Murder, 1963, 'Let's have a look at that jotter.' jottle (v.i.); do a jottle; go jotting. To copulate: low: C.19–early 20.

journalese. Inferior journalistic writing: 1882 (SOD): coll. till ca. 1930, then S.E. According to a certain journalist, most journalese is written—or spoken—by politicians.

journey. A term in prison: c.:—1932 ('Stuart Wood', Shades of the Prison House).—2. In this journey, on this time or occasion: coll.: later C.19—earlier 20.—3. In not (one's) journey, not a successful day: turf: from ca. 1860; ob. B. & L., 'It is not his journey.' Ex Fr. ournée.

journeyman gentleman tailor. A silk hat; a frock coat: tailors': C.20.

journeyman parson. A curate: London: ca. 1820–1900. (Bee.) Because apt to be moved about far more than is a full-blown clergyman.

journeyman soul-saver. A scripture-reader: ca. 1860–1900. journey's end. Prison: low: 1929+. Ex R.C. Sherriff's famous play of that title, first performed in that year.

journo. A journalist: Aus.: since ca. 1940. (B.P.) The almost ubiquitous Aus. -o, taken over—in part, at least—from Cockney immigrants.

jousey or jowsey. Lucky: Leicestershire schoolboys': 1982. (Julian Burt.) Cf. jammy. Perhaps a var. of juicy, 6.

jovah. Gaol: c.: from ca. 1870. Pugh (2): 'All I can say is, you never kept your brains clear while you was in jovah.' Perhaps a perversion of jail suggested by chokey; or, 'Rhyming slang, perhaps jovah—Jehovah—God—quod' (R.S., 1968). Spectacularly ingenious—and it could be right.

Jove!; by Jove! A coll. exclam., asseveration: from ca. 1570. Shakespeare, 'By Jove, I always took three threes for nine'; Miss Ferrier. (OED).

jaw. (Gen. in imperative.) To go away; be off: Anglo-Indian: from ca. 1860; slightly ob. H., 1864. Ex Hindustani; cf. Romany jav (and Sampson's ja). Cf.:-

jaw out. To get someone away, to prise loose, 'winkle out', from a place or situation, e.g., from a drinking session at the mess bar: army: C.20. By 1970s, mostly among older soldiers. (P.B.) Ex prec.

jowl-sucking. Kissing, kisses: lower classes': from ca. 1865; ob. (B. & L.) Cf. synon. gum-sucking.

jowler. A lane between back-to-back houses: Liverpool: late C.19–20. 'You pass cheek-by-jowl' (Frank Shaw). P.B.: or is it dial., from jowl, to bump into. Such passage-ways have a wide variety of dial. names, e.g., twitten (Sussex), jitty (East Midlands), snicket (N. London), gimmel (Yorkshire).—2. See ARMY SLANG, verse 1, in Appendix.

joxy. See jaxy.

joy. Satisfaction; luck; success: mostly in 'Any joy?' and 'No joy!': RAF, since ca. 1930; RN by ca. 1935, and army soon after. (Partridge, 1945; Granville.) Brickhill & Norton, Escape to Danger, 1946, 'At 9.15 the workers had been down [the escape tunnel] nearly forty minutes and still "no joy"'.—2. Hence, effective operation, as in 'Is the W/T giving any joy?'—'Is the radio working?': RAF: since ca. 1930. (G. Emanuel; R. Hinde, 1945).—3. As the Joy, Mountjoy Prison, Dublin: Anglo-Irish: late C.19–20. Desmond O'Neill, Life Has No Price, 1959.

joy-bag. A (sand-)bag in which a man carries souvenirs to take home on leave: military: 1915–18. F. & G.—2. A condom: mostly RAF: 1950s. Cf. jo-bag, and joy-stick, 2.

joy boy. A male homosexual: undergraduates': earlier C.20.

joy(-)flip. A short (unauthorised) 'joy-ride' in an aircraft: RFC/RAF: ca. 1916–20. Anon., A Soldier's Diary of the Great War, 1929.

joy-juice. Strong liquor. See fight-water.

joy of my life. A wife: rhyming s., mostly military: ca. 1880–1920. (Richards.) Perhaps a rejection of the much more gen. trouble and strife.

joy pop, v. and n. To inject, and injection of, a drug under the skin, as opp. to 'main-lining' into a vein: addicts': adopted, ex US, ca. 1966. John Wyatt, Drugs, 1973.

joy-prong. Penis: adolescents' coy or facetious: since ca. 1920. Cf. mutton dagger, pork sword and joy-stick, 2.

joy-ride. A ride at high speed, esp. in a motorcar: orig. (1909), US; anglicised ca. 1912 as a coll.—2. Hence, v.i. and joy-rider, -riding.

joy-spot. Any well-known place of enjoyment: Western Front officers' coll.: 1915–18. F. & G.

joy-stick. The control-lever of an aeroplane: 1915: s. > by 1925, coll.; now verging on S.E. 'Phallic symbolism' ex:—2. The penis: low: late C.19–20.—3. Either of the two levers by which the steering of tanks and certain other tracked vehicles was controlled: army: since ca. 1925. (P-G-R.) Ex 1 and 2.

joy-wag(g)on. A practice aircraft at a flying school: RFC/RAF: ca. 1915–25. F. & G.

joy-wheeler. A girl given to pleasure, esp. 'joy-rides': 1934 (H.A. Vachell, Martha Penny).

joyful, O be. See o be joyful.—2. Cf. sing 'O be joyful' on the other side of one's mouth, q.v. at 'o be joyful' on ...

Joynson Hicks. Six: theatrical rhyming s.: since ca. 1927. Ex a famous Home Secretary. Franklyn, Rhyming.

joyous spirit. See jemmv, n., 2. (Transient s.)

jabber. An iron bar used by a burglar to force a door: c.: C.20. (R. Samuel, East End Underworld, 1981.) ?var. of jabber or jobber. (P.B.)

jube. A coll. abbr. of jujube (the lozenge): from ca. 1840.

jubilee. A very pleasant time (Winchester College: C.19–20; ob.—2. A postage stamp commemorating the Silver Jubilee of King George V, 6 May 1935, or any of the later royal jubilees: philatelists' coll. > j.—3. Posterior; buttocks: sporting, and low: ca. 1887–97. B. & L.

jubilee track. A 2-foot gauge track used mostly by petrol-locomotives and wagons: Public Works': 1935. Cf.:-

jubilee wagon. A 2-foot gauge skip: id.

jubileeve it? Do you believe it? (or,) a c.p. dating from the Silver Jubilee (6 May 1935) to the death (20 Jan. 1936) of H.M. King George V. Ex an advertisement by Shell. In 1887 (Queen Victoria's first Jubilee), moreover, there was a popular song in which the singer, speaking of the contemporary jollifications, declared that they were, 'would jubileeve it, quite driving me mad'.

juck, with diminutive juckle. A dog; hence, disparagingly, of a man, as in 'the old juck' (M.T.): market traders': perhaps since mid-C.19. Directly ex Romany jook, a dog; cf. jugelow, q.v.

juck's, or juckle's, lips. A personification of a quarrelsome or otherwise vocally disagreeable man: market traders': C.20. (M.T.) Cf. prec.

Judaic superbac(e)y. A Jew in all the glory of his best clothes': Covent Garden Theatre and vicinity: 1887–ca. 1899. Ware.

judder, n. and v.i. Engine noise; to shake convulsively: orig. RAF: from ca. 1925; by 1950, coll. A blend of jar + shudder. P-G-R.

jude. A harlot: low:—1886 (Henley). Also judy, q.v.

judge. An expert, sagacious thief or swindler: c.: ca. 1810–50. Vaux.

judge and jury. A mock trial, the fines being paid in beer: tailors': from ca. 1870.

Judge Davis. Three tens: poker-players': C.20. Ex a judge who mostly awarded 'thirty days'.

judge of a circuit. See TAVERN TERMS, §4 (end), in Appendix.

judgmatic. Judicious; judicial. So judgmatical. Adv. judgmatically. All coll. and slightly ob.: resp. 1835, 1826, 1814. OED dates. But judgmatical (even 1826 = J. Fenimore Cooper) was orig. US, Thornton recording it at 1774. On dogmatic.

Judische (or Jew's) compliment. A large penis but no money: low: from ca. 1850; ob. Cf. Yorkshire compliment, q.v. Judy or judy (as appropriate). A girl, esp. one of loose morals: from ca. 1810; prob. orig. c.; always more or less low; common among C.19 sailors. Also, later, jude. (Vaux, 1812; Runciman, The Chequers.) Ex Punch and Judy, or, like jane, direct ex the Christian name.—2. A simpleton, a fool: adopted, ex US, ca. 1840. Esp. in make a judy of oneself, play the fool, act the giddy goat.—3. In C.20, gen. = a woman of ridiculous appearance, but also, in low s., any woman.—4. A policewoman: RN lowerdeck: since ca. 1930. Granville.—5. A Palestine Jew: army, both in 1914–18 and in 1939–45. Ex Arabic Yehudi, 'a Jew'.—6. A duodenal ulcer: since ca. 1930. Ex 'duodenal'. (Peter Sanders.)

Judy Fitzsimmons. In make a Judy Fitzsimmons of (one)self, to make a fool of oneself, to appear foolish: coll.; since ca. 1840. Prof. Harold Shapiro cites Ruskin, in a letter of 1845 and concerning a proposal to paint frescoes in England, 'We shall make such Judy Fitzsimmonses of ourselves as never were.' In John Brougham, Po-Ca-Hon-Tas; or, The Gentle Savage, prod. 1855, a play full of (mostly outrageous) puns, final scene: 'SMITH: Judas! You haven't yet subdued John Smith!—KING: Don't make a Judy of yourself!' Is this latter a shorter version, or the former an elab.—and who was the original foolish Judy Fitzsimmons? See prec., 2.

Judy scuffer. A policewoman: Liverpool s.: later C.20. (Rev. John Walker, 1981.) Cf. Judy, 4, and see scuffer.

judy-slayer. A 'lady-killer': London Jews':—1909 (Ware). Cf. judy, 1.

[juff. The cheek; in pl, the buttocks. F.&H., adding 'old'. In neither OED nor EDD nor, as far as I know, elsewhere. Perhaps—cf. spurious joves,—by error on Fr. joues cheeks.] Jug. A Jugoslav: since 1919 (the Peace Conference): orig., Civil Service; in 1940–5, army (Val Gielgud, Fall of a Sparrow, 1949).

jug, n. A prison: C.19 c., C.20 low. Also stone jug, q.v. at stone doublet. Ainsworth, 1834, the first English user, the term occurring in US in 1815 (OED Sup.); Dickens, Thackeray. Ex Fr. joug, a yoke, via ob. Scots joug(s), a pillory.—2. As a mistress and as a term of contempt, it is, despite F.&H., indubitably S.E.—3. Abbr. juggins, q.v.—4. A bank: c.: from ca. 1860. Cornhill Magazine, 1862; Charles E. Leach, 1933.—5. A can of beer: RAF officers': since ca. 1930. (W/Cdr R.P. McDouall, 1945.) P.B.: also used in 'hearty' bar talk elsewhere; cf. jar, and jug, v., 3.—6. See jogue.—7. A female baby: see tea-pot, 4.

jug, v. To imprison; lock up: orig. (ca. 1840) c.; by ca. 1860, low. See the n., and cf. Scots joug, to confine in the jugs.—2. To deceive, humorously or, more gen., illicitly: low: from ca. 1870; ob.—3. To drink: RAF since ca. 1930. (Jackson.) Ex the holding of a jug to one's mouth and drinking therefrom, also ex the idea of jugs of beer: cf. sense 5 of the n. P.B.: in later C.20, also army usage, esp. in jug on, to keep on drinking. Cf. jug up, and the much earlier jug-bitten, tipsy.

jug and pail. Prison: rhyming s. (on jail): C.20. Franklyn 2nd. jug-bitten. Tipsy: coll.: ca. 1620–1750. Taylor the 'Water-Poet'. jug-handle; jug lug (both usu. pl.) Prominent ears: C.20. (Petch, 1969.)—2. See Wagga grip.

jug-loops. Hair worn with tiny curls on the temples: low Cockney: ca. 1885–1905. Baumann.

jug troupe. A 'highly efficient team [of pickpockets], specialising in banks' (Brian Moynahan, in Sunday Times, 11 May 1969). Ex jug, n., 4, a bank.

jug up or scupper up. To drink liquor, esp. beer: office- and shop-girls': ca. 1955–60. (Gilderdale.) P.B.: jug up had a wider and longer usage than E.P. allows here; also jug on, to keep on drinking, hard. Cf. jug, v., 3.

jugelow. A dog: c.: ca. 1810–50. (Vaux.) Ex Romany guggal, pl juggalor. Cf. juck, juckle, the modern form.

jugful. See not by a jugful.

jugged. Arrested; imprisoned. See jug, v., 1.—2. Drunk. See honkers.

juggins; occ. jug. A fool: s. >, in C.20, (at first low) coll.:—1882 (SOD). Punch, 17 July 1886, 'Yah! Wot a old juggins he is!' It has, in the sporting world, the nuance: 'An aspirant, usually young, and always more largely provided with money than with brains' (B. & L.). Prob. suggested by muggins, q.v.

juggins-hunting. 'Looking for a man who will pay for liquor' (Ware): taverns':—1909. Ex prec. Contrast:

juggins's boy. 'The sharp and impudent son of a stupid and easily ridiculed father': low London: 1882. Ware.

juggle with Jesus. 'To fly dangerously' (F.J. French, 1979): RAF: WW2. P.B.: The idea, if not the exact wording, is almost as old as Service flying itself: A. Boyle, Trenchard, 1962, p. 120, has an account of Gordon Bell, a pioneer pilot, complaining that another man was 'jaunting with Jesus in my craft'.

juggler. An employee that has to find and remove part of the contents of a freight car: Can. railroadmen's:—1931.

juggler's box. The branding-iron: c.: late C.18—early 19. Grose, 2nd ed.

juggling law. In late C.16—early 17 c., it is a branch of criminal activity practised among the devotees of certain games. Greene, A Disputation, 1592, 'The Juggling Law, wherein I will set out the disorders at Nyneholes and Ryfling [i.e. dicing], how they are only for the benefite of the Cutpurses.'

juggo. In the punishment-cell; hence, out of action, ill: military: from ca. 1910. (F. & G.); † by 1950. Ex jugged: see jug, v., 1.

Jugland. Jugoslavia: coll.: since WW2. Cf. Jug, q.v. (P.B.)

jugs. Female breasts: low Aus.: since ca. 1920. Ex 'milk-jugs'. Also Brit., later C.20. See quot'n at jujubes.

Juice, the. The North Sea: RAF aircrews': WW2. (H. & P.) Contrast the Gravy.

juice, n. Emoluments, profits of office or profession: coll.: ca. 1520–1640. Latimer, Sir E.Hoby (OED).—2. Money: ca. 1695–1730. Ned Ward in The London Spy, 1698 (see Slang, p. 69).—3. Juiciness of colour: C.19–20 artists. (SOD.) Cf. juicy, 5, q.v.—4. Abbr. sky-juice, q.v. Also, gravy, solely Charterhouse sense, as is 'dampness on, or of, a playing field or a court': earlier C.20.—5. Petrol: 1909. Hence, from ca. 1918, step on the juice, to accelerate. OED Sup.—6. Electricity; electrical current: electricians' s. (1903) >, ca. 1920, gen. s. OED Sup.—7. Hence, on the juice, 'Running on electrified lines' (Railway): railwaymen's (esp. London Underground): since ca. 1955.—8. See bright-work juice; bug juice; cow-juice.

juice, v.i. To rain: low:—1932 (Slang, p. 244). Ex juice, n., 4.—2. To weep; v.t., to reprimand: Bootham School (—1925). Cf. juice-meeting.

juice for jelly, give. (Of a woman) to experience the sexual spasm: low: C.19–20. (Otherwise, juice in this sense is rare.) Cf. jelly, q.v.

juice joint. A stand where refreshments are sold: Can. carnival s.: C.20.

juice-meeting. A reprimand; any address to the school: Bootham School:—1925. (Bootham). Cf. juice, v., 2.

juice money. Extra money paid for working on an electrified line: railwaymen's: since ca. 1920. Ex juice, n., 6.

juiced. Drunk. Var. of juicy, 7. Alan Hunter, Gently Does It, 1955.

juicer. See MOVING-PICTURE SLANG, §5, in Appendix.

juicily. Excellently; 'splendidly': 1916 (E.F. Benson).

juicy, n. 'Telegraphist' (Granville): RN: C.20. Ex juice, n., 6, electricity. Cf. sparks, 1.

juicy, adj. As (of women) amorous, it is S.E.—2. Piquant, bawdy: low coll.:—1880 (Greenwood).—3. (Of weather) wet, very rainy, drenching: coll.: 1837 (SOD).—4. Rich in money, etc.: coll.: from ca. 1620.—5. In artists' s.: 'characterised by rich liquid colouring, 1820' (SOD).—6. Excellent: 1916: E.F.

Benson (OED Sup.). Cf. juicily.—7. Drunk: Glasgow.—1934. But it was being used in this sense at least two centuries earlier: in Franklyn, 1737.—8. (Of stocks and shares) attractive in price: Stock Exchange: from ca. 1920. Time and Tide, 8 Sep. 1934, 'But still, with this juicy price in prospect, the shrewd professionals are hesitant.'—9. (Of targets) either easy or profitable: artillerymen's: WW2. (P-G-R.) A specialisation of the S.E., as in, e.g., 'a nice, fat, juicy steak' (P.B.).

juicy about. Aware of: Aus.: since ca. 1925. B., 1942.

jujubes. A woman's breasts: low and raffish: later C.20. Red Daniels, in an article on 'The Photographer's Child' in the Jnl of Brit. Photography, 9 May 1980: 'Daddy says tits. Daddy says knockers and jugs and bazooms and dingleberries and jujubes. And then he laughs and goes "wuff! wuff!"' juke-box (or written solid). An automatic, coin-operated, gramophone-record player: adopted, ca. 1945, ex US; by ca. 1970, familiar S.E. See also jute box.

jukrum. A licence: late C.17—early 19 c. (B.E.) Cf. jackrum.

Julia Creek. See Tallarook for things is weak at Julia Creek.

Julius Caesar. The penis: low: ca. 1840—1920.—2. Dead as Julius Caesar, certainly, or long, dead: coll.: C.19—early 20.—3. In not since Julius Caesar was a pup, in, or for, a devilish long time: late C.19—early 20. All three reflect the influence of Latin taught in schools.

Julyflower is a coll. perversion of gillyflower: mostly C.19, though dating from C.16. OED.

jumbaree. Jewellery: theatrical: ca. 1870—1905. ?ex jamboree.

jumble, n. A jumble-sale, or articles therefor: coll.: from ca. 1930. OED Sup.—2. (Also jumbling.) An unintentional confusion in the ringing of the bells; i.e., technically, a 'breakdown': bell-ringers' coll.:—1901 (H. Earle Bulwer's Glossary).

jumble, v.i. and t. To have sexual intercourse (with): late C.16—18; S.E. >, ca. 1650, coll. Stanyhurst, Barnfield, Randolph, D'Urfev.—2. To take for a drive: coll.: C.19—early 20. For orig., cf.:

jumble-gut lane. A rough road: low coll.: late C.17—early 19. B.E.

jumble-juice. Cider: Dorset s.: later C.20. (J.B. Smith, Bath, 1979.) Perhaps a conflation of jungle-juice with jumbling effect of powerful liquor on the brain. (P.B.)

jumbler. A performer of the sexual act: coll.: C.17—18. Ex jumble, v., 1.

jumble, -y. A jumble sale: domestic coll.: later C.20. Merilyn Winterborn, New Society, 11 Aug. 1977, p. 288.

jumbling. See jumble, n., 2.

Jumbo or jumbo (as appropriate). A clumsy, heavy fellow: from ca. 1820: coll. >, ca. 1900, S.E. 'Jon Bee.'—2. In C.20, gen. of a very fat boy or man: coll. > S.E.—3. An elephant: coll.: from ca. 1882. 'Chiefly in allusion to a famous elephant at [the London] Zoo (d. 1885)' (W.); it was sold to Barnum in Feb. 1882 (OED).—4. Whence jumbo, the Elephant and Castle Tavern in South London: public-house frequenters': from 1882. Ware.—5. 'The big fore-staysail': Grand Banks fishermen's: from ca. 1883. Bowen.—6. A big goods-train engine: railwaymen's: from late C.19. Railway.—7. The backside: NZ: since ca. 1945. Simon Kay, Sleepers Can Kill, 1968, 'Parry for the high kick, or you'll land flat on your jumbo sir.' In many persons, the largest part.—8. A heavy-lift derrick; a mobile crane: MN: since ca. 1940. (Peppitt).—9. A half-wit, slow-wit, fool: detectives' term for unformed constable: since late 1940s. (G.F. Newman, Sir, You Bastard, 1970.) Also S. African for a raw, clumsy, stupid police constable. Angus Hall, On the Run, 1974.—10. A Boeing 747 airliner, which, on its introduction in the late 1960s, was the largest aircraft in operation with civil airlines: coll., verging, within a decade, on familiar S.E. Abbr. jumbo-jet.

jumbo-size, adj. Very large, or, in commercial coll., slightly larger than normal for whatever 'line' is being 'plugged': since ca. 1950. 'Notably in advertisements' (R.S., 1967). Cf. king-size.

jumboism. 'The hesitative policy of the Liberal Whigs': Conservatives' nickname therefore: 1882, at the time of 'the Jumbo craze' (see jumbo, 3). Ware.

Jumbo's trunk. Topsy: rhyming s. on drunk: esp. ca. 1880—5. (Manchon.) On elephant's trunk, q.v.

jumbuck. See jimbugg.

jump, n. 'Robbery effected by ascending a ladder placed by a sham lamp-lighter, against the house intended to be robbed ... Because, should the lamp-lighter be put to flight, the thief ... has no means of escape but that of jumping down' (Grose, 2nd ed.): c. from ca. 1787; † by 1890. Occ. dining-room jump.—2. A window on the ground floor: c.: C.19—20.

Vaux.—3. An act of sexual intercourse: coll.: since C.17. Esp. have, or get, a jump; or e.g., a good jump, (of a girl) sexually compliant or readily available: C.20. Occ. var., mid-C.20, jumpies. Cf. v., 5.—4. A fright, a start: coll.: late C.19—20. Desmond Coke, The House Prefect, 1908, 'Good heavens, Manders! ... You did give me a jump.' P.B.: but this is merely a var. of familiar S.E. 'You made me jump' = you startled me.—5. A journey from one 'stand' to another, circus and fair-ground: late C.19—20. Eleanor Smith, Satan's Circus, 1931.—6. A bar in a public house: Western Aus.: since ca. 1970. E.g., 'up at the jump' or 'go to the jump and get a beer'. (Jack Slater, 1978).—7. In at the first jump, at the very beginning (of proceedings): coll.: ca. 1570—1700.

Cf.—8. From the jump, from the beginning: coll.: adopted, ex US, ca. 1870; ob. by mid-C.20.—9. In go the jump, to rob, as in sense 1: c.: C.19. Baumann.—10. In not by a long jump, not by a long way: proletarian:—1887 (Baumann); ob. by ca. 1930.

Cf. by a long chalk and ... not by a jugful.—11. In On the jump, on the move; active; restless: coll. OED cites the Daily News, 4 May 1900, 'Keeping the foe on the jump'.—12. 'An unexpected attack' (Home Office): prisoners' c.: later C.20.—13. See high jump; see how the cat ...

jump, v. To seize and rob (a person): c.: ca. 1780—1890. Also to rob (a building) by way of jump, n., 1: c.: C.19.—2. To seize and arrest: Aus.: ca. 1870—1900. 'Rolf Boldrewood'.—3. To possess oneself of a mining right, in the owner's absence. Gen. with a or the claim. From ca. 1854, when in the (Melbourne) Argus; jumping of claims, however, occurs in US in 1851 (Thornton): coll. >, ca. 1870, S.E. Marryat, in Mountains and Molehills, 'If a man jumped my claim, ... I appealed to the crowd.'—4. Hence, in S. Africa, to appropriate (goods) wrongfully: 1871, Queenstown Free Press, 19 Aug. 'Five thousand bricks were jumped the other night from —'s brickyard at Klipdrift.' Pettman.—5. To copulate, v.i. and t.: C.17—20 coll.; ob.—6. To try a medicine: medical: from ca. 1860; ob.—7. To get a free ride on (train, lorry, etc.): Services' coll.: C.20. Short for jump on to.—8. To attack suddenly in the air: RAF: since ca. 1940. Short for jump on. (P-G-R.) Hence, to attack (a person); cf. n., 12.—9. To understand, deduce: Aus.: since ca. 1910. B., 1943.—10. To forestall. Short for jump the gun.

jump a bill, to dishonour an acceptance, like jump one's bail, to abscond, is orig. and mainly US, partly anglicised ca. 1890.

jump a claim. To seize, or gain possession of, fraudulently. Lit., S.E. ex US; but fig. it is a coll. anglicised ca. 1880. See jump, v., 3.

jump at. To accept eagerly: coll. >, ca. 1905, S.E.: 1769 (SOD). J. Payn, 1882, 'He might well have jumped at such an offer.'—2. To guess: coll.: from ca. 1890.

jump-down. 'The last place ... in course of erection on the outskirts of ... civilised life' (Staveley Hill, in From Home to Home, 1885): Can.: ca. 1880—1910.

jump down (someone's) throat. To criticise that person severely; to flare up in anger and snap at him: coll.: C.19—20. An early occurrence is in John Davis, The Post-Captain, 1806 (Moe).

jump (one's) horse over a (or the) bar. To sell horse, bridle and all, to the landlord of a public house: Colonial: ca. 1880—1905. Daily Telegraph, 20 Mar. 1886.

jump in the box. To give Queen's evidence: Aus. c.: later C.20. McNeil.

jump off the dock. (Of a man) to get married: RN: C.20. Granville. Suicidal.

jump on. C.20 version of jump upon, q.v.

jump on the bandwagon. See bandwagon... jump on the binders. To apply one's brakes: Can. (and US) Services': since 1939. H. & P.—2. Hence, to brake hard: RAF: since ca. 1940; † by 1950. P-G-R.

jump-out, the. The beginning: Aus.: C.20. (B., 1942.) Ex sport.

jump out of (one's) skin, (usu. nearly or almost). To be greatly startled: coll.: C.19–20.

jump out (of) the window(s). To make a parachute descent from an aircraft: RAF: WW2. Allan A. Michie & Isabel Waitt in Reader's Digest, Feb. 1941 (jump out the windows); E.P., New Statesman, 19 Sep. 1942 (jump out of the window).

jump-rope, n. and v. A skipping-rope; to use one: Can. coll.: adopted, ca. 1950, ex US. (Leechman.) jump ship. To desert: nautical: C.20.

jump the besom. To go through a mock marriage: ca. 1700–1820. Manchon implies its survival into C.20. Cf. synon. jump the broomstick, and live over the brush.

jump the gun. To be premature, act—esp., to publish 'news'—prematurely: journalistic: since ca. 1920. Ex athletics.—2. Hence, 'to have [had] sexual intercourse or to have a baby "on the way" before marriage (L.A., 1974): coll.: since ca. 1943.

jump the queue. To get ahead of one's turn: coll.: since ca. 1943. Ex:—2. To cheat for a place in a queue: coll.: since 1940.

jump to it. To bestir oneself; often as imperative: Services', esp. NCOs': since ca. 1912. (B. & P.) Cf. put a jerk in it (at jerk).

jump-up, n. 'A mixture of flour and water boiled into a paste with sugar added' (B., 1943): Aus. outback: since ca. 1910.

jump up, v. To get the best of (a person); or the reverse: tailors': from ca. 1850.

jump up behind. To endorse the bill of a friend: commercial: from ca. 1870.

jump-up lark, the. 'The practice of stealing commercial travellers' cars loaded with samples, and then driving to an agreed rendezvous to meet a van, transferring the stolen goods and then driving off... described in an article by John Tilley in Reynold's News, 6 May 1951' (Petch); but applies also to any other van or lorry containing liquor, or other goods, e.g. a van left driverless outside a 'pub' or a café: orig. c., since ca. 1930; then soon police s. Hence jump-up man, 'lorry hijacker' (Powis).

jump up (on). To criticise, or to punish, severely: coll.: 1868 (SOD). M.E. Braddon, 'In vulgar phraseology, to be "jumped upon".'

jumpable. 'Open for another to take': Aus. coll.: 1884 ('Boldrewood'). Ex jump, v., 3.

jumped-up. Conceited, arrogant (orig. low) coll.: from ca. 1870. (H., 5th ed., 1874.) Ex dial. Elab. in C.20 Services' pej. as jumped-up-never-come-down (P.B.).—2. Upset, nervous: low coll.: ca. 1880–1910. Cf. S.E. jumpy.

juniper. A thief entering houses by the windows: c.: from ca. 1787; ob. (Grose, 2nd ed.) See jump, n., 1.—2. A tenpenny piece: Scottish c. of ca. 1820–50. Haggart.—3. The illegal appropriator of another's mining-claim: from ca. 1855: coll. >, ca. 1880, S.E.—4. 'Now the technical term for the seaman's upper garment, but originally [ca. 1850–75] a slang term for a duck jacket slipped on to protect clothing during a dirty job on deck' (Bowen).—5. The inevitable nickname of a man surnamed Collins or Cross: Services': late C.19—earlier 20. (F. & G.) The latter a pun, ex jump across, the former of anecdotal orig.—6. A travelling ticket-inspector or -collector: orig. (1900), railwaymen's. OED Sup.—7. A light buggy; also, a crude sled: Can. coll.: prob. since ca. 1830 or 1840 (Mathews, Americanisms, records it for 1823). Ex its motion.—8. A flea: ca. 1810–60. David Carey, Life in Paris, 1822.—9. In (You can stick it) up your jumper!, euph. for up your arse: since ca. 1930. Very common in the Services, WW2; and in the children's derisive chant: oompah, oompah, stick it up your jumper! Ex sense 4, which, since early C.20, has been S.E. for a woollen jersey.—10. Short for:—

juniper lead (or wire). Thieves... steal the car of their choice by shorting the ignition with a "juniper" wire' (Powis): since (?)ca. 1940. Wire is underworld, but lead is more gen. usage, even j. Cf. hot wire.

jumpies. Copulation: mostly Services': mid-1950s–60s. Ex jump, n., 3. (P.B.)

jumping, adj. Lively. See JAZZ TERMS, in Appendix. But by ca. 1960, also fairly gen. s., as in Zoe Progl, Woman of the Underworld, 1964, 'By the time I arrived the place was jumping.' Often, by alliteration, the joint is (or was) jumping.

jumping cat, the cult of the. The practice of waiting before committing oneself: coll.:—1896; † by 1920. See see how the cat jumps.

jumping-jack. A sea gull: nautical:—1896: coll. rather than s. jumping Jehoshaphat or Jupiter or Moses (, by the). Mild oaths: mid-C.19–20 coll.; ob. Jehoshaphat is occ. employed alone, often in the col. form Jehoshaphat.

jumping jinn. A mechanical stamper used in road-repairs: workmen's: from ca. 1920. The London Evening News, 7 Dec. 1936.

jumping-off place. A point of departure: coll.: orig. (1826), US; anglicised ca. 1870. In C.20, S.E.

jumping over the fat-pot. A stipulation that all players should assist in the old-fashioned pantomime, The Man in the Moon: theatrical of ca. 1830–80. (B. & L.) Ex flame from burning fat in the days before gas was in gen. use for lighting.

jumping-powder. A stimulant: s. >, ca. 1890, coll.: ca. 1825–1914. Blaine, 1840, in Encyclopædia of Rural Sports, 'Fortified... by a certain quantum of jumping powder.'

jumps. Delirium tremens:—1879.—2. The fidgets: coll.:—1881. (Both with the).—3. (Cf. sense 2.) Excitement; craze: ca. 1885–1900. B. & L.: 'He's got the Jubilee jumps.'—4. See high jump, 1.

jumpy as a bag of fleas. Extremely nervous; 'windy': Services' coll.: from 1915. Frank Richards, Old Soldiers Never Die, 1933.

jump. Junction: transport-workers': late C.19–20. E.g. Clapham Junc. Clarence Rook, London Side-Lights, 1908. Cf.: Junction, the. 'Clapham area of South London' (Powis): Londoners': later C.20.

June too-too. 22 June 1897, the sixtieth anniversary of Queen Victoria's reign: non-aristocratic c.p.: 1897 only. Punning '22' and satirising the 'too-too' of the Æsthetes. Ware.

Jungle, the. The W. African share market: Stock Exchange: C.20. Abbr. jungle-market, which the OED records for 1901.—2. The Salvation Army Hostel in Blackfriars Bridge Road: c.: from ca. 1920. Michael Harrison, Weep for Lycidas, 1934; W.A. Gape, 1936.

jungle, adj. Wild, untamed; hence, rarely, angry: army in Burma and India: 1942–5. See esp. PRISONER-OF-WAR SLANG, §10, in Appendix.

jungle-bashing. Forcing one's way into and through the jungle and, esp., fighting there: Services', in Malaya, 1948–60 ('The Emergency'), and wherever campaigns or training have taken soldiers into the jungle during and since that time. Hence jungle-bashers, troops so engaged. (P.B.)

jungle(-)bunny. 'Patronising and unpleasant racist expression for a Negro, never used in black company' (Powis). One might add 'except with intent to insult'. But it is applied not only to people of African origin; schoolchildren in an East Midlands market town were using it of Asian fellow-pupils in 1971: since late 1960s in the Services. (P.B.)

jungle-bunny outfit. 'Camouflaged combat kit, known officially as disruptive-pattern clothing and unofficially as jungle-bunny outfits' (Strong & Hart-Davis, Fighter Pilot, 1981): RAF Officer Cadets': later C.20. Cf. synon. flower-power suit.

jungle(-)juice. African rum: Liverpool: since ca. 1920.

—2. Hence, any cheap, strong liquor: Services': WW2 and since.—3. Cider: West Country s.: later C.20. (Bob Patten, 1979.) A specialisation of 2.

jungle telegraph, the. The way in which gossip and rumours are disseminated by men and women in public-houses: disparaging and joc.: since late 1940s. (Petch, 1966.) Ex-jungle wireless. Inside information; a rumour: army: 1940+. Also jungle telephone. (P-G-R.) Cf. bush telegram, and grapevine.

jungles. Shares in W. African businesses: Stock Exchange coll. (1904) >, by 1930, j. (OED Sup.) Ex Jungle, 1.

jungli. Uncouth; unrefined: Anglo-Indian coll.:—1927 (OED Sup.). Ex Urdu; jungli means, lit., 'belonging to jungle', hence uncouth or uncultured.

jungly, n. A commando officer or marine: Services' s.: late 1970s. See quot'n at pinger. Trained in 'jungle-bashing'. junior. Smaller; lower; the less good. (So tight junior, the smallest, lowest.) Winchester College: C.19–20; ob. The opp. is senior. Wrench.

junior Nelson. A Lieutenant-Commander: RN lowerdeck: C.20. Granville.

junior wolf. See CANADIAN..., in Appendix.

juniper. Gin: from ca. 1820; ob. by 1910, † by 1920. (Bee, 1823; J.E. Ritchie, in The Night Side of London.) Gin=de genièvre=juniper, though gin is actually abbr. of geneva.

juniper-lecture. See jiniper-lecture.

junk, as old or inferior cable, fig, salt beef, is S.E. Whence, however, sense of (a) miscellaneous, second-hand stuff, hence (b) rubbish: orig. (1842), US; Anglicised as coll., resp. ca. 1880 and ca. 1900; both nuances now verge on S.E.—2. Whence liquor; dregs: Aus. (and US) nautical: C.20. Bowen.—3. Perique tobacco: RN: C.20. Weekly Telegraph, 13 Sep. 1941.—4. Opium: Can. drug addicts', adopted ex US ca. 1925; by 1930, also Eng.—5. Hence, any narcotic; narcotics in gen.: addicts': adopted, ca. 1945, ex US.—6. Short for junkie, a drug addict: Aus. c.: since late 1950s.

junker. 'A [orig.] low four-wheeled vehicle used for transporting logs' (B., 1942): Aus. coll.: C.20. Ex junk, unvaluable stuff. The usu. later C.20 form is jinker: Mrs C. Raab.

junket, n. A mixture; mix-up, confusion: coll.:—1923 (Manchon). Ex the dish.

junket, v. To exult (over): Winchester College: from ca. 1850; ob. Ex the S.E. v. junket! Indicative of self-congratulation: Winchester College: C.19–20; ob. Wrench.

junket around. To waste time, play the fool: Aus. coll.: C.20. Baker.

junket bosun. A ship's steward: RN: since ca. 1910. (Granville.) Cf. custard bosun, a cook.

junkie, -y. A drug addict: orig. teenage drug addicts, adopted ca. 1955 ex US; by ca. 1970, gen. coll. Ex junk, 4 and 5. junky, adj. Pertaining to narcotics: drug addicts': since ca. 1950. Ex junk, n., 5.

Jupiter. Used in mild oaths of C.17–20: literary until C.19, then coll. if used with a smile.—2. (Also Jupiter Tonans. Cf. the Thunderer.) The Times newspaper: Fleet Street: ca. 1850–1900.

Jupiter Junior. The Daily Telegraph: Fleet Street: ca. 1870–1900. Ex Jupiter, 2.

Jupiter Pluvius has got out (or put, or turned, on) his watercan. A coll. c.p. for 'It is raining'; applied mostly to a heavy shower: ca. 1870–1930.

Jupiter Scapin. 'A tricky minister': political and Society's coll.: late C.19–early 20. (Ware.) Ex the Parisians' nickname, ca. 1810, for Napoleon I.

Jupiter Tonans. See Jupiter, 2.

jupper. Sexually 'up her': low Aus. rhyming s. (rare): since ca. 1930. Cf. skinner, 8.

jurk. A rare C.19 var. of jark, q.v., a seal. 'Ducange Anglicus', 1857.

jury, n. An assertion; a profession of faith, etc.: costermongers': mid-C.19–early 20.

jury, v. As in 'I'll have to jury this pair of socks, the others are at the laundry'—to wear them upside down: ?orig. nautical, for the usage clearly stems from 'a jury mast', a makeshift mast: C.20. (W.J. Barr, 1976.)

jury, chummage, and conter. Knife, fork, and spoon: army: late C.19–early 20. (B. & P.) Ex Hindustani.

jury – hang half and save half. The jury may be a Kentish, a London, or a Middlesex jury: a proverbial c.p.: resp. C.18–19; late C.18–mid-19; C.17–19. The implication, as Middleton in 1608 suggested of the third, 'Thou... wilt make haste to give up thy verdict, because thou wilt not lose thy dinner.' (Apperson.)

just. Certainly; indeed; 'rather!': 1855: coll. till ca. 1920, then S.E. Milliken, 1892, 'Wouldn't I just!'—2. Quite, very, truly, as in 'It's just splendid!': coll.: from ca. 1905.

just as I feared. A beard: theatrical rhyming s.: C.20. Franklyn, Rhyming.

just come up. Inexperienced, stupid: C.20. 'Don't come that old caper on me. I ain't just come up', James Curtis, You're in the Racket Too, 1937. Ex plants very recently come up above the ground: green. But, among Londoners, it means 'just come up from the country for the day'.

just escaped, e.g. he's. A c.p., applied to someone who is acting strangely: C.20. (From a lunatic asylum.)

just fancy that! A c.p., inviting the other party either to admire, or to be astonished by, something or other: C.20.

just for kicks. Later C.20 var., adopted ca. 1955, ex US, of the next. Gilderdale records its use among office—and shop-girls during the late 1950s, but it was more widespread, and is still, 1983, by no means ob. Soon shortened to for kicks.

just for the hell of it. Just 'for fun', because one feels like it; out of devilment or, occ., sheer malice: coll.: C.20. (James Spenser, Limey Breaks In, 1934.) Cf. prec. Prob. of US origin.
just for the record. Orig. a police cliché, it >, ca. 1945, a gen. coll.—and a c.p. 'Merely to get things straight between us, to make my position clear'. See DCpp.

just hold one! Wait just a moment while, e.g., I look for someone, or something: Servicemen's coll.: since ca. 1955. Cf. the commoner wait one!

just isn't true. See it just isn't true.

just my handwriting! A c.p. = I can do that very easily; that's 'right up my street': since ca. 1930; ob. Cf. alley-marble, q.v.

just nicely. Tippy: euph.: from ca. 1930. (G. Heyer, Death in the Stocks, 1935.) Abbr. S.E. just nicely drunk.

just one of those things, it's or it was. A c.p., applied to something there's no explaining, or to something that, although inexplicable, simply has to happen: since the late 1930s. Nevil Shute, The Chequer Board, 1947, 'It wasn't his fault he got taken by the Japs. It was just one of those things.' This was the title of a Cole Porter song extremely popular in the 1930s.

just quietly. A virtually meaningless tag-c.p. among NZ soldiers in WW1.—2. In Aus., it = 'just you and I'. B., 1942.

just the hammer. Synon. with next: since ca. 1950. (P.B.)

just the job. Precisely what I need or wish: Services: since ca. 1935. H. & P.

just the job for my brother from Gozo. Try to get someone else; not for me: RN: ca. 1860–1914. Gozo, one of the Maltese islands; many Maltese were employed by RN.

just the shiner. Precisely what was, is, needed: Aus.: since ca. 1920. Baker.

just the shining. Perfect; a synon. of, and commoner than, the prec. B., 1943.

just the shot. Exactly what is needed: Aus.: since ca. 1918. Jon Cleary, Back of Sunset, 1959.

just the ticket (, esp. not). See ticket, n., 12.

just what the doctor ordered. A c.p. of approval applied to anything particularly applicable or suitable or to anything very good or very pleasant: C.20.

justass. A C.18–early 19 coll. pun on justice (the officer). Captain Alex. Smith, The Life of Jonathan Wild, 1726; Grose, 1st ed.

justice, do. To pledge (a person); drink to: late C.17–18. B.E.

Justice Child, do. To inform to the police or to a magistrate: c. of ca. 1690–1750. (B.E.) The ref. is prob. to Sir Francis Childe, the elder (1642–1713); A New Canting Dict., 1725, makes child a vocative,—which seems less likely and certainly less pointed.

justices' justice. Justice (esp. if severe) of the kind administered by petty magistrates: from ca. 1830: coll. till ca. 1890, then S.E.

justice of the peace. See TAVERN TERMS, §4 (near end), in Appendix.

jute box or jukebox. A player-piano or pianola: RN: since ca. 1916. (Granville.) The first is perhaps a mishearing of the second; see also juke-box.

jutland, Jutland. The buttocks: low punning coll.: C.18–mid-19.

juve. Juvenile; hence, a juvenile part or act: theatrical and music-halls': late C.19–20. 'Trev's accustomed to leading child-juves', Ngaio Marsh, Death at the Dolphin, 1967. Cf. juvenile John.

juvenile. (Gen. pl.) A book for children: booksellers' and publishers': from ca. 1898. S. >, ca. 1920, coll.; now almost S.E.

juvenile John. An actor of juvenile parts: theatrical: C.20. (Granville, 1948.)

juwaub, a refusal, a dismissal; as v., to refuse, reject. Anglo-Indian: from ca. 1830. (H., 1864.) Ex synonym. Hindustani jawaub. (Also, and better, jawaub.)

jybe. See gybe.

jyro. Horse-play; rough treatment: Cockneys': C.20. Pugh, "I'll prong yer!" she says. Then I give her a bit of jyro, till she squealed and bash'd my 'at in.' Origin? Prob. the same word (Cockney pron.) as jaro, and cognate with dial. jart, to whip, or S.E. jār, a quarrel.

K

K or k (as appropriate). See C or K or M or O.—2. A kilometre: orig. (late 1940s) Services; by 1965, gen.—3. See ka' me, ka' thee.—4. Coll. abbr. for knighthood of any British Order, a shortening of the initials KBE, KCVO, etc., as in 'I see old Buggins has got his K at last. Well, he's worked hard enough for it!' among those in the running for such honours: C.20. (P.B.) Richard Osborne writes: 'I understand that there is a phrase in the upper echelons of Whitehall known as Knight-starvation: used derogatorily by the already gazetted about lesser beings hungry for their K's (book review, Guardian, 23 Sep. 1982): a pun on 'night-starvation', a term used by the advertisers of Horlicks.—5. [For such obscure words gen. spelt with a c as are looked for in vain under k, see c: e.g. kushy is a possible form of cushy, but it will be found only at cushy.]

K.A. is a coll. shortening of HMS King Alfred. (Granville.) See Incubator.—2. A 'know-all': Aus.: since ca. 1950. (B.P.)

K.A.B.G.N.A.L.S. These letters, which, in back s., form back slang (the needless c being omitted), are 'uttered rapidly to indicate that this mode of conversation will be agreeable to speaker' (Ware): mostly Cockneys: —1909. Also kabac genals.

K.b.b. See K.h.b.

k.b.o. 'Keep buggering on', as in Winston Churchill's comment, recorded in Gilbert's Churchill, vol. VI, Finest Hour, p. 1273, 'We must just KBO', i.e. 'we must keep plugging on, struggling against adversity'. The phrase, and the abbr., have an earlier C.20, upper-class, ring to them; contrast the far more common bugger off, and cf. the politer keep on keeping on. (I am grateful to Mr Conrad Dehn for the ref., 1983: P.B.) k-bar. 'United States Marine Corps survival knife' (Christopher Hawke, For Campaign Service, 1979): RM: 1970s.

K Block. A building, a wing, a ward set aside for the (temporarily) insane: RN: since ca. 1935. (H. & P.) I.e. for the knuts in the nuthouse.

K.C.M.G. See C.M.G.

k.d. or K.D.! Say nothing about it!: printers' c.p.: from ca. 1860. (B. & L.) I.e. keep it dark.

K.G. Common Jew: 'used by "better-class" Jews. I first heard it ca. 1933' (Julian Franklyn). A pun on Knight of the Garter.

K.G. Five; K.G. Vee; Kay Gee 5, or vee. HMS King George V: RN coll.: 1912–mid-1950s. F. & G.; P.B.

K.h.b. A 'King's hard bargain', more gen. 'King's bad bargain'; an undesirable serviceman: Services' coll. 'Taffrail', 1925 (OED Sup.) The term, as Queen's . . . , remains, but usu. in full. (P.B., 1975.)

K.L. Kuala Lumpur: Europeans in Malaya/Malaysia: C.20. Towns in the Malay Peninsula lend themselves to this treatment, e.g.: K.K.B., Kuala Kubu Bahru, and J.B., Johore Bahru. Apart from their use by colonial administrators, planters, etc., they became particularly well known among Servicemen, 1948–60, 'The Emergency', (P.B.)

k-legged. Knock-kneed; shaky on one's legs: printers': from ca. 1860. In dial., k or kay denotes 'left', as in k-pawed, Cheshire and Lancashire for left-handed.

k-nut. See knut.

k.o.; occ. kayoe. V. and occ. n. Knock-out. Also give one the k.o. Orig. and mostly pugilists': C.20, ex US.

K.P. King's Parade: Cambridge undergraduates' coll.: since ca. 1880.—2. A common prostitute: Aus. low: since ca. 1945. B., 1953.

ka' me, ka' thee. One good turn deserves another: proverbial coll. (—1546) >, ca. 1700, S.E. Other forms k, kay, kawe, kob; Ray, C.17, has claw, which, being also the earliest form, may provide the origin. Cf. the late C.19–20, scratch my back and I'll scratch yours.

kabac genals. See K.A.B.G.N.A.L.S.

kacks. See cacks.

kadi. See cady.

kadoova. See off (one's) kadoova.

kady. See cady.

kaffir. A prostitute's bully; hence, a low fellow: low: ca. 1860–1910. Ex Arabic kafir, an infidel.

Kaffir circus. The market where, on the Stock Exchange, transactions in S. African land, mining, and other stocks are effected: S. African and London financial: from the early 1890s. (A.J. Wilson, 1895; Pettman.) Ex Kaffirs, q.v.

Kaffir piano. The marimba, a musical instrument: S. African coll.: 1891. Pettman.

kaffir truck. 'General name for trade goods' (Archer Russell, Gone Nomad, 1936): Central and S. African coll.: since ca. 1890.

Kaffirs. S. African mining shares: Stock Exchange s. >, by 1920, coll., and by ca. 1935, almost S.E. Rialto, 23 Mar. 1889, 'Even Kaffirs raised their sickly heads'.

Kaffir's (occ. Caffre's) lightener. A full meal: S. African: from ca. 1860; ob.

kafuffle. Var. of kerfuffle.

kag(g), n. and v. See cag.—2. (Only kag.) Tank crew's equipment and rations stored on the side of a tank: army in Burma: 1943+.

kaggie. See caggie.

kahsi. Rectum; esp. in up your kahsil, a gratuitous, usu. humorous c.p., mostly on meeting or parting: Services': 1940s. P.B.: prob. a var. of carsey, 4, q.v., a privy.

kai-kai. Food; feasting: NZ: mid-C.19–20. Reduplication of Maori kai (food), itself used by the NZ troops in WW1. (F. & G.) Also used in the simple form kai, and doubled, by Aus. soldiers too.

kaifa. Var. of khyfer, q.v., woman.

kail through the reek, give (one) his. To reprimand, or punish, severely: Scots coll.: C.19–20. (Scott.) Ex the unpalatableness of smoke-tasting soup.

kailed up, get. To become drunk: late 1920s–30s. As though alcoholised. Perhaps cf. canned; note also alc, q.v. P.B.: was this a var. of synon. ka(y)lied?

kaio. A 'popular corruption in the South Island of New Zealand of Ngaiio', the Maori name for Myoporum laetum, a tree whose wood is used for gun-stocks: from ca. 1870. Morris.

Kaiser's War, the. The war of 1914–18: coll.: since ca. 1945. An avoidance of such question-begging labels as 'The Great War' and 'The First World War'. Often used to distinguish the first great conflict from Hitler's War, the second.

kakker-boosah. Prematurely voided excrement: low:—1823; † by 1890. (Bee.) See cack.

Kal. Kalgoorlie. See Cool.

Kalahari oysters. Two raw eggs with a layer of sauce between them [:S. African]: since ca. 1920' (Prof. A.C. Partridge, 1968). An anti-hangover tonic; a S. African version of prairie oyster, with ref. to the Kalahari Desert.

Kalapoosh. The recruiting sergeant of the 14th Hussars said, 1863, 'I've done sixteen years of [army life], and the best part of them in Kalapoosh (which was army slang for India)' (Edwin Mole, A King's Hussar, 1893).

kali-water. Champagne: later C.20 (D. Clark, Roast Eggs, 1981.) Ex kali'ed drunk.

kamerad! Stop; that's enough; don't make it too hot! military: 1915; ob. Ex the Ger. soldiers' cry (lit., 'comrade!') on surrendering. B. & P.—2. Also (1916), v., to surrender; cry 'enough!'; ob. Ibid. (3rd ed.).

kan du! Early C.20 army var. of can do, q.v.: as if ex Hindustani.

kanakas. Testicles: low Aus.: C.20. A pun on knackers, 1, and Kanakas, who formerly used to do the hard work on the sugarcane fields.

kanga. Money: Aus. s.: later C.20. Wilkes, who suggests perhaps ex rhyming s. kangaroo = screw.—2. As abbr. for kangaroo, the animal: Aus. coll.: since ca. 1890.—3. Hence, abbr. kangaroo, 3, 4.

Kangaland. See Kangerland.

kangaroo, n. A native—not an Aborigine—of Aus.: 1827 (SOD): coll. >, ca. 1860, S.E. Cf. wallaby; a post-WW1 Aus. Rugby-team called itself the Wallabies.—2. 'A tall thin man, especially ill-shaped and round-shouldered': nautical coll.: late C.19–20; ob. Ware.—3. 'Harry was a Jew. In his own phrase: a "tin lid". Otherwise, a "four-by-two", a "kangaroo", or a "five-to-two"' (Michael Harrison, Reported Safe Arrival, 1943): rhyming s.: since ca. 1930. The Leader, Jan. 1939.—4. A prison warder: rhyming s. (on screw), orig. and still mainly c.: since ca. 1920. Often shortened to kanga (Underworld, 2nd ed., 1961.) Also Aus. c. (B., 1953).—5. A pneumatic drill: labourers': since ca. 1935. It was soon shortened to kanga, which, indeed, has been predominant since ca. 1950. It's always jumping.—6. Mostly in pl, kangaroos, wild young cattle: Aus. rural: since ca. 1920. (B., 1943.) They're always rushing and leaping.

kangaroo, v. 'To move jerkily (used of a car when the engine is warming up)' (Wilkes): Aus. and Brit. s.: later C.20. Cf. kangaroo juice and ... start.

kangaroo-droop or, more gen., -hop. A feminine affectation, hands being brought, palm downward, to the breast: cf. Grecian bend, Roman fall. Coll. Aus.: ca. 1875–1900. Morris.

Kangaroo Gulch. A var. of Kangaroo Valley.

kangaroo it. To have a kangaroo shit, q.v.: Aus.: since ca. 1920.—2. To kangaroo, v., q.v.: Aus. s.: since ca. 1946. See next, and kangaroo start.

kangaroo juice. 'A driver making an awkward, jerky start may be asked, "What are you using? Kangaroo juice?" (instead of petrol). Services.' (P.B., 1974): later C.20. Cf. kangaroo, v., and ... start.

kangaroo (or Anzac) poker; also double-ace poker. A gambling game played by confidence-trickers: c., and police s.: from ca. 1916. (Charles E. Leach, On Top of the Underworld, 1933.) Prob. introduced by Aus. soldiers in 1915, when hundreds of them were evacuated, wounded, from Gallipoli to England.

kangaroo shit. A defecation from the haunch sitting position: Aus.: C.20. B., 1942.

kangaroo start. 'A kangaroo start is caused by a faulty clutch or bad technique. The car shudders and moves off jerkily' (B.P.): Aus. s.: since late 1930s.

Kangaroo Valley. Earl's Court (London), an area popular among Aus. expatriates: since ca. 1950. 'There is a Kangaroo Valley in N.S.W., but the term was probably coined by a newspaper.' (B.P.)

kangarooer; kangarooing. A kangaroo-hunter; kangaroo-hunting: Aus. coll.: C.20. B., 1943.

kangaroos. West Australian mining shares; dealers in these: Stock Exchange: 1896 (Morris).

kangaroos in (one's) top paddock, have. To be crazy or very silly: Aus. rural: earlier C.20. Wilkes cites the Australian Magazine, Nov. 1908, and Dal Stivens, The Courtship of Uncle Henry, 1946. Cf. bats in the belfry.

kangaroooster. An eccentric—or very amusing—fellow: Aus.: since ca. 1920. Baker.

Kangerland. Australia: Aus. soldiers': WWI. 'Certain nicknames are given as a matter of course... "Aussy" to Australians or otherwise "we from Kangerland"' (Olive Dent, A V.A.D. in France, 1917).

kango. An Australian: since ca. 1945. (F. Leech, 1972.) Ex kangaroo.

kanits. A stink: back s.:—1874. Whence kanitseno, a stinking one. Ob.

kanker. A corruption of kanga, esp. sense 3.

Kansas cocoa. 'Coca Cola' (Powis): London low: later C.20.

kanurd. A loose form of ken(n)urd, q.v.

kapai. Good; agreeable; (mostly North Island) NZ: mid-C.19–20. New Zealand Herald, 14 Feb. 1896. Borrowed direct from Maori, where kapai = this is good. Morris.

Kapenaar. '[In S. Africa] the Cape-coloureds and Malays are known, respectively, as Capeys and *Gamat*s (the latter a corruption of Mohammedans). Afrikaans Kapenaar is colloquially permitted in English for a resident of the Cape Province; but if he lives in the mountainous South-Western area, he is a Bolander' (Prof. A.C. Partridge, 1977). A var. spelling is Kapenaar (Adam Hall, On the Run, 1974).

kap(ou)t. Finished, dead; no more: military: 1915. B. & P. (Only predicatively.) Ex Ger. kaputt. Cf. Low Ger. kaputt (or kapuut) gaan, to die; Devonshire dial. has rare go capooch, to die, recorded by the EDD Sup. for 1881. Kaput was, in 1945, revived among servicemen stationed in Germany and so passed into occ. gen. use in later C.20.

karibat. Food: Anglo-Indian:—1864 (H., 3rd ed.). Ex Hindustani for curry and rice, the staple dish of people of all races in India.

Karno. See Fred Karno... karzy. Var. of carsey, 4, a privy.

kate. A master or skeleton key: c. of late C.17–mid-19. (B.E.) Cf. bess, betty, jenny; also jimmy: see esp. betty.—2. Hence, a picklock: C.18–mid-19. Grose, 1st ed.—3. (Also katy, Katy.) A wanton: (mainly Scots) coll.: C.16–early 19.—4. As the Kate, short for Kate Carney.

Kate and Sydney. A steak-and-kidney pudding: rhyming s.: from ca. 1880. W.L. George, The Making of an Englishman, 1914.

Kate Carney or Karney. The Army: defective rhyming s., orig., army: late 1890s–early C.20; then gen., esp. among WW2 soldiers, shortened to Kate, as in 'He's in the Kate' (Franklyn 2nd). Occurs in phrase 'The Kate and Andrew', the Army and the Navy (P.B.). In the 1890s there was a very popular comedienne named Kate Carney. 'Three Pots a Shilling' was one of her songs (F.W. Thomas).

Kate Mullet, as knowing as. Stupid: C.19–early 20. Quiller-Couch, in Troy Town, 'They say she was hanged for a fool.'

kath or Kath. An indefinitely long term of imprisonment: Aus. and NZ c.:—1914.—2. Hence, 'the duration' (q.v.): Aus. and NZ military: 1915–18. (O.J.T. Alpers, Cheerful Yesterdays, ca. 1930.) Cf. Kathleen Mavourneen, from which these senses derive.

Kathleen Maroon. A three-year prison-sentence: Aus. c.: C.20. (Baker.) A corruption of sense 2 of—Kathleen Mavourneen. A non-paying debtor: commercial:—1909 (Ware); ob. by 1930. Ex the title of the song, by Louisa Macartney Crawford, in which occur the words 'It may be for years, and it may be for ever'. An occ. var. was Eiley Mavourneen.—2. An indeterminate gaol-sentence: Aus. and NZ: C.20. (B., 1943.) Cf. kath, 1.—3. (Often corrupted to Mavoureenn). A habitual criminal: Aus. c.: since ca. 1910.—4. Morning: defective rhyming s.: C.20. Lester.

Kathleen Mavourneen system. The hire-purchase system: Anglo-Irish:—1932. See prec., 1.

katterzem. A parasite: Scottish:—1909 (Ware). Ex Fr. quatorzième, fourteenth: he being willing to go, at a moment's notice, to prevent the number of guests being thirteen.

Kay Gee 5. See K.G. Five.

kaylied. Drunk: perhaps mainly N. Country: C.20. Spelt thus in Jonathan Gash, Gold from Gemini, 1978, p. 53, but poss. better kali'ed, if, as I surmise, it derives ex kali, a N. Country children's sweet of sherbet, wrapped in a triangular bag and sucked through a liquorice straw. Cf. the use of pop for alcoholic liquor, chiefly beer, and kailed up, q.v. (P.B., with thanks to Rev. Ernest Sheard.)

kayoe. See k.o.

keaster. Occ. var. of keester, backside.

kebrock. A cap: Can. mary: WW1. Ex Fr.-Can. F. & G.

keck or kek. A specially heavy mail: Post Office telegraph-messengers' (esp. in London): from ca. 1920. Perhaps ex dial. keck, a jolt, a blow.

keck-handed. Left-handed: one of the many dial. forms that have become coll.: C.19–20. Cf. cack-handed and k-legged.

kecks is the Liverpool shape (C.19–20) of kicks, trousers. Hence the 'camp' punch up the kecks; C.20.

keddums. A cooks' and children's perversion (—1923) of kettle. Manchon.

kedger. A fisherman; a mean fellow: nautical:—1867 (Smyth). Prob. cadger influenced by kedger, a kedge-anchor. Imm. ex:—2. A beggar specialising in fees for trivial services: c.:—1823; † by 1890. Bee adds kedgers' coffee-house and hotel, a resort resp. daily and nightly of 'every kind of beggars'.

kedgereev-pot. A round pipkin: Anglo-Indian coll.: C.19–20. Y. & B.

keeg-gee. 'Go, vigour': East London: ca. 1860–1915. (Ware.) Prob. ex qui-vive, for cf. key-vee.

keekers. The eyes: Scots c.: C.19–20. Ex keek, to look. Cf. peepers.

keel. The buttocks: Scots coll.: C.19–early 20.

keel-bully. A lighterman carrying coals to and from the ships: late C.17–18: c. >, ca. 1770, s. >, ca. 1800, coll. >, ca. 1860, S.E. See B.E., Grose. Mostly derisive.

keel the goods. 'To code consigned goods for loading' (Railway, 2nd): railwaymen's: C.20. Ex Sc. dial. keel, to mark with ruddle (EDD).

Keeley. A water-can for cooling heated bearings: Can. railroadmen's:—1931. Ex the Keeley cure for drunkenness.

keelie. A (gen., street) rough: from ca. 1850: Scots s. >, ca. 1870, coll. Ex the Keelie Gang, an Edinburgh band of young blackguards, ca. 1820 (OED). Cf. hoodlum and hooligan, qq.v.; see also larrikin and Glesca Keelies.

keen. Excellent; highly desirable: Can., esp. teenagers': adopted, ca. 1955, ex US. 'Seen Tom's new girl? Boy, is she ever keen! (Leechman.) keen as mustard. Very keen: coll.: since late C.19. (Good-enough, 1901.) Ex the next, orig. with a pun on Keen's mustard.

keen (on). Fond (of); eager (for); greatly interested (in): coll.:—1897; by 1930, almost S.E. Mary Kingsley, 'If they don't feel keen on a man surviving' (OED). 'Keen on a girl.' keeno, n. Among schoolchildren, a 'swot'; among adults, any enthusiast: mid-1970s. (P.B.) keep, v. To live; reside; lodge: C.14–20: S.E. till ca. 1770, then coll. and mainly Cambridge and US: Shakespeare; Grose.

keep a cart on the wheel. To keep an affair alive: semi-proverbial coll.:—1887 (Baumann); ob. by 1930. In Yorkshire dial. it is keep cart on wheels.

keep a chapel. To attend chapel once: universities', > coll. and j.: from ca. 1850.

keep a cow. See as long as I can buy milk...

keep a fourth. To visit the privy. See fourth, 1.

keep a nestling. To be restless and/or uneasy: late C.17–18 coll. (B.E.) Ex the restlessness and anxiety of a mother bird for her chicks.

keep a pig. To have a lodger: Oxford University: mid-C.19–early 20. Esp. of a freshman quartered on a senior undergraduate.

keep a stiff upper lip is coll. (orig.—ca. 1815—(US) >, in C.20, S.E. Not to show fear or sorrow.

keep a ten. To get back into college or one's rooms before 10 p.m., when fines start being levied at some colleges: Cambridge University:—earlier C.20 ca. 1885.

keep a week than a fortnight. See rather keep for a week...

keep (one's) appointment, unable to or cannot. To fail to come-to in time: pugilistic: ca. 1810–60. Anon., Every Night Book, 1827.

keep (a person) back and belly. To clothe and feed: coll.: C.18–early 20.

keep (one's or the) boiler clear. (Esp. in the imperative.) To 'watch your stomach—in reference to health' (Ware): engineers': mid-C.19–20. As a C.20 wit has said, in approximately these words: 'What a lot of trouble people would spare themselves if only they would keep their bowels open and their mouths closed.'

keep cave (pron. kay vee). To keep watch, and give warning: schoolboys': C.19–20. Ex L. cave, beware! Cf. keep nit, q.v.

keep company. As=go into society, S.E.—2. (V.t., with.) To be or act as a sweetheart; coll.: from ca. 1830. Dickens in Sketches by Boz, 'Mr. Wilkins kept company with Jemima Evans.'

keep (one's) cool. To retain one's self-possession: coll.: adopted, ex US, ca. 1960; and in Aus. ca. 1967 (B.P.). Opp. lose one's cool. Cf. cool, adj., 7. Distinguish this s. > coll. usage from familiar S.E. keep cool.

keep down. To retain, hold (a job) against difficulties: Aus. coll.: C.20. (B., 1942.) Var. of the S.E. hold down.

keep down the census. To abort; masturbate: low: mid-C.19–early 20.

keep (one's) end up. To rub along; maintain one's status, reputation, etc. From the late 1870s; coll. >, by 1910, S.E. Ex cricket.—2. Hence, to 'do one's bit': Aus. coll.: since ca. 1925. B., 1943.—3. Among Londoners, esp. Cockneys, it has a double meaning when the phrase is used by a man seeing a fellow out with yet another girl; thus, 'Keeps 'is end up, don't 'el': since ca. 1910. Able to keep rising to the occasion.

keep (one's or the) eye down. To keep one's head down; to watch oneself, take care: Guardsmen's: from ca. 1915.

keep (one's) eyes skinned. To maintain a sharp look-out: coll.: adopted, ex US, ca. 1860. Occ. peeled for skinned.

keep (one's) fingers crossed. To 'pray' for success or merely to avert defeat, failure, or bad luck: coll.: C.20, but, to me at least, uncommon before ca. 1925. A layman's modification of the ecclesiastical sign of the Cross. Cf. touch wood!

keep (one's) fives going. Constantly to thieve, esp. to pickpocket: c. or low s.: ca. 1820–80. (Jon Bee, 1823.) Fives=fingers.

keep for a week... See rather keep for a week...

keep (one) going, they. Used of aperient, e.g. prunes, that keep one going to the w.c.: almost a c.p.: C.20. A pun on the S.E. sense.

keep (one) guessing. To keep one uncertain or 'in the dark': coll.: adopted, ca. 1910, ex US. OED Sup.

keep (one's) hair on. To keep one's temper: since late 1860s ('Quotations' Benham). Gen. in imperative. Var. wool for hair. 'App. playful advice not to tear one's hair' (Ware). A less common var. is hold for keep.

keep (one's) hand in. To remain actively able: prob. since mid-C.18: coll. >, by late C.19, informal S.E. Bill Truck, Dec. 1825.

keep him (or it) in—he'll get pecking if let out. A low, ?mostly North Country, c.p., addressed to a man with his trousers-flap open: late C.19–20. A pun on cock.

keep hold of the land. 'To hug the shore': nautical coll.: late C.19–20; slightly ob. Bowen.

keep in with. To maintain, esp. friendly, relations with: late C.16–20: S.E. till ca. 1875, then coll. W. Black, in Yolande, 1883.

keep it. To pay heed: coll.: C.20. (Humfrey Jordan, Sea Way Only, 1937.) Ex keep it in mind.

keep it clean! Don't be indelicate, smutty!: c.p.: from the late 1920s. Cf. S.E. clean fun, and see keep the party clean!

keep it dark! Say nothing about it; gen. imperative. From ca. 1856; coll. 'Ducange Anglicus', 1857; Dickens, 1861 (OED). Prob. ex the long †, keep a person dark, i.e. confined in a dark room, as madmen formerly were; cf. the treatment of Malvolio in Twelfth Night. In 1940s, formed the basis of a very popular c.p., 'Hush! keep it dark!'

keep it on the island! Keep the ball in play: Association Football spectators': from ca. 1895. 'That monotonous "Keep it on the island" when the ball is banged into the grand-stand to clear a dangerous position... I am told it was born on Whale Island, Portsmouth, back in the 90's, when teams of H.M.S. "Excellent" played on the officers' lawn. A lapse by the defenders resulted in the ball ending in the ferry, to loud yells of "Keep it on the island"' (Frank Butler, Daily Express, 17 Jan. 1944). A naval war. is keep it on the deck!

keep it out! Mind your own business: low coll.: later C.20. The 'it' is the nose, 'sticky beak' or 'cherry-picking shonk'. (P.B., with thanks to Mr George Forwood.) Cf. the c.p. too much of this (speaker points at his nose) will get you that (the gesture of a throat being cut)!

keep it up. To prolong a debauch: from ca. 1780: coll. (Grose, 2nd ed.) Ex the S.E. sense, to continue doing something.

keep (one's) lip buttoned. To maintain silence; to tell nothing: Cockney: since ca. 1910. Gerald Kersh, Night and the City, 1938, 'Pay, and I'll keep my lip buttoned.' Cf. button your flap!

keep nit. To keep watch; to be on the 'qui-vive': Aus.: late C.19–20. (Edward Dyson, The Gold Stealers, 1901.) Possibly nit is an abbr. of dial. nitch, a notch: if so, keep nit = keep tally = keep tab. But much more prob. a corruption of keep nix (q.v. at nix). Cf. keep cave, and knit it!

keep (one's) nose clean. To avoid drink: army:—1909 (Ware). Usu. in imperative.—2. Hence, a c.p. addressed, usu. on parting, to a person one is warning to keep out of trouble: since ca. 1925.—3. To mind one's own business: id.

keep off the grass! Be cautious!: a coll. c.p. orig. proletarian: late C.19–20. (Ware.) Ex notices in parks. See DCpp.

keep off the knots! Avoid the edges of the trap-door on the stage: theatrical: ca. 1870–1930. Michael Warwick, Stage, 3 Oct. 1968.

Keep Off Young Ladies' Insides and, by reversion, I Love You Only, Kid. Punning nicknames of the King's Own Yorkshire Light Infantry: Army: ca. 1910–60.

keep on keeping on. To persevere in the face of all discouragement or misfortune: a Salvation Army exhortation: C.20.

keep on truckin(g)! Persevere!: c.p. adopted, ex US, mid-1970s; ob. See DCpp. for its orig. in the dance-marathon competitions of the 1930s; orig. Black American.

keep oneself to oneself. Coll. form of keep to oneself, i.e. avoid the society of others: from ca. 1890.

keep open house. To sleep in the open air: tramps' c.: from ca. 1850; ob. See also hedge-square, star-pitch, and starry.

keep out of the rain. To avoid, evade trouble: Aus. coll.: late C.19–20. Baker.

keep (one's) pecker up. To remain cheerful in the face of adversity; often in the imperative: coll.: since ca. 1840. See pecker, beak, hence chin.

keep sheep by moonlight. (V.i.) To hang in chains: C.18–early 19 c.

keep sloom. To keep quiet: stock-cutting tailors': from ca. 1870. (B. & L.) Here, sloom is slumber; it is now Scottish, when not Northern dial, but was once S.E. Cf. keep stumm, q.v.

keep smiling! A morale-boosting slogan of WW1; it quickly palled, and its use became bitter or ironic. See DCpp.

keep stumm (pron. shtumm)! keep quiet!: underworld: since ca. 1950. See shtoom.

keep tabs on. To observe (someone) long and closely, in order to see what he's up to or how he's getting on: coll.: adopted, ex US, early C.20. An early occurrence is in D.L. Sayers, The Nine Tailors, 1934 (R.S.). The US phrase orig. meant to keep a (tabulated) list of, e.g., winnings and losses, cards in and out, etc. (See esp. Mitford M. Mathews, A Dict. of Americanisms.) In Aus. usage, keep tab of, 'for any record, esp. the bill at restaurants... for taxation purposes' (B.P., 1963). Also Aus. is the var. tab (up) on, to note the doings of a person (Gavin Casey, Downhill Is Easier, 1945).

keep (one's) tache on. To remain unruffled; 'keep one's hair on': Anglo-Indian: late C.19—earlier 20. With a pun on thatch (head of hair) and with a ref. to Tatcho, the hair-restorer. Ex Hindi sac, sacca: cf. Prakrit sacca, Sanskrit satya, true or genuine, and the Continental gipsy čaćo, Welsh gipsy tačō, which have the same meaning (present in 'Tatcho'): witness Dr John Sampson in his magnum opus, 1926. P.B.: or is it simply short for moustache?

keep (one's) tail clear. (Of a pilot or his plane) to stay out of the sights of an enemy aircraft: RAF: since 1939. Berrey.—2. Hence (?), to prevent a rear attack: 1940+. Partridge, 1945. Cf. watch (one's) six o'clock, at six o'clock.

keep (on) taking the tablets! Go on as you are: a c.p. of the late 1960s–70s. Ex doctor's advice.

keep that in! That's worth repeating; theatrical c.p.: since ca. 1910. Ex the producer's instruction to an actor to retain in the script a spontaneous gag uttered at rehearsal. See DCpp.

keep the ball rolling. To keep things going: coll.: since ca. 1910. Ex Association football.

keep the doctor. To sell adulterated drinks: low coll.: C.19—early 20.

keep the door. To be a brothel-keeper: low coll.: C.18—mid-19.

keep the line. To behave becomingly, decently: ca. 1815–50. Pierce Egan, London, 1821.

keep the obs (or obbs) on (someone). To keep under observation: since ca. 1945: c. >, by ca. 1950, also police s.

keep the party clean! No dirty stories or loose behaviour, please!: c.p.: since ca. 1930. A correspondent sends me this gloss:—'But often does not quite mean it. "Give me my hat and knickers," she said. "I thought you were going to keep the party clean."' keep the pot boiling. To keep things moving; to sustain and maintain interest in an activity, a cause, a novel of suspense: C.19 (I'd say, C.18)—20: coll. until ca. 1930, and then familiar, or homely, S.E. See also keeping the pot...

keep the tambourine a-rolling! Keep things moving and lively: Londoners': ca. 1830–70.

keep (something) under (one's) hat. (Esp. in imperative.) To say nothing about: coll.: late C.19–20.

keep up (one's) end. See keep (one's) end up.

keep up (one's) frock. To keep (information, plan, etc.) secret: mostly Services' (esp. army): since ca. 1930. P-G-R.

keep up, old queen! A c.p. (—1909) of farewell 'addressed by common women to a sister being escorted into a prison van'; slightly ob. Ware.

keep up to the collar, v.t. Keep hard at work: coll.:—1861; ob. T. Hughes, 'Hardy kept him pretty well up to collar.'—2. Hence, v.i., to work hard, to be flustered, worried: coll.:—1923 (Manchon).

keep up with the Joneses. To hold one's own in 'the rat race' of survival at a decent level: coll.: since ca. 1950. As Claiborne notes, 1976, it refers 'rather to conspicuous consumption than to mere survival'. Cf. Joneses' disease, the compulsion to do this.

keep (one's) wig cool. To remain calm: orig. legal, but soon gen.: from ca. 1910. Cf. flip (one's) wig, to lose one's self-control.

keep your cherry-picking shonk out of it! Mind your own business!: Cockney: C.20. (George Forwood, 1962.) Shonk = nose; perhaps an allusion to the beaks of fruit-stealing birds.

keep your eye on uncle! See uncle, n, 7.

keep your hair on! See keep (one's) hair on.

keep your hand on your ha'penny till the right man turns up! A c.p. of earlier C.20. 'Don't let any but the right man take (sexual) advantage of you!' Cf. ha'penny, 2, the female pudend, and:-

keep your legs together. C.20 Aus. c.p. 'used to a girl. It is equivalent to "Be good!"' (B.P.).

keep your nose clean! See keep (one's) nose clean.

keep your pecker up! See keep (one's) pecker up.

keep your sheets full! 'A farewell with sexual overtones. Royal Navy, 1950s and later' (Peppitt, 1977). A pun on sheets, sail-corner ropes, and bed-sheets.

keep your shirt on! Don't lose your temper!: Aus. and NZ: C.20. (B.P.) Ex the custom of stripping for action before a fight, as Claiborne points out. See DCpp.

keep your thanks to feed your chickens! I don't need, desire, any thanks: semi-proverbial c.p.:—1681; very ob. W. Robertson, Phraseologia Generalis.

keep your wool on! Don't lose your temper! See keep (one's) hair on.

keep yourself good all through! Be entirely good!: a Society c.p.: 1882—ca. 1890. Ware.

keep yow. To keep watch: low Aus.: since ca. 1925. (B., 1943.) Perhaps cf. yowlie, an ob. term for a night-watchman.—2. Hence, to act as an observer: RAAF: WW2. Ibid.

keeper of overdrafts, the. The manager: bank-clerks': C.20. Joc. on the titles of museum-officials.

keeping. 'A man is on his keeping when he is hiding away from the police, who are on his track for some offence' (P.W. Joyce, English ... in Ireland, 1910); late C.19–20. Elliptical for 'keeping out of the way'.

keeping-cully. 'One who keeps a mistress, as he supposes, for his own use, but really for that of the public' (Grose, 1st ed.): c.: 1660–1840.

keeping the flies off the paintwork. A minor punishment (abolished—1932): standing still on the upper deck and facing the bulkhead: RN lowerdeck: ca. 1890–1920. Knock.

keeping the pot boiling; winding the chain. In R.W. Vanderkiste, A Six Years' Mission among the Dens of London, 1852, these two proletarian phrases are explained thus, 'They ran up stairs, jumped out of the window, up stairs again, and so on—called by them "Winding the chain", and "Keeping the pot boiling",—hordes of ruffians—men and boys': ca. 1830–80.

keeping up with the Joneses. See keep up with ... and DCpp.

keeps. In for keeps, for good; permanently; in cricket, defensively: coll. >, by 1920, S.E.: from 1880 in Aus. (app. earliest in cricket sense), ca. 1890 in England. I.e. to keep for good. Cf.:—2. In the cry no keeps!, a school-children's c.p. (—1923) in playing games: 'We won't keep things this game', or 'We're not playing for keeps.' Mancheon.

keester. Human backside: adopted and adapted, ca. 1930, ex US, where, orig. c., predominantly spelt and pron. keister. (Based on information received, 1974, from Robin Leech.)

keet. A parakeet: Aus. coll.: since ca. 1860. Archer Russell, Gone Nomad, 1936.

keff. A horse: c.: late C.17—mid-19. (B.E.) It survives in dial., where first recorded 1825. Ex Welsh Ceffyl (EDD).

keg. The stomach: low: late C.19. Orig. dial.—2. In a little bit of (f) kg, human copulation: low:—1909 (Ware). Ex either sense 1, or the lit., a small piece of common meat. Cf.:—

keg-meg. Tripe; derivatively keg-meg shop: low:—1857 ('Ducange Anglicus'). A var. of dial. cag-mag, inferior meat, refuse. Cf. cag mag above.—2. Hence (?), an intimate talk: (low) coll.: 1883 (J. Payn in Thicker than Water).

kegged, adj. Irritated, exasperated, angered: nautical: C.19—early 20. (Bill Truck, Dec. 1825.) Cf.:—2. In to be kegged, to be jeered at: id. (Bowen.) Ex cag, q.v. keifer. F. & H. var. of khyfer, q.v., woman as sex object.

kek. See keck.

kelder. Belly; womb: low coll.: mid-C.17—early 19. Brome.

Kelly. A crow: Aus.: C.20. B., 1942.—2. An axe: Aus.: C.20. Baker, "'On the kelly", engaged in axe work'. Ex a famous axeman. 'Kelly is reputed to be from the name of a manufacturer of axes, rather than from that of an axeman' (B.P.).—3. A ticket inspector on the buses: Aus.: since ca. 1945. Perhaps 'because often Irish' (B.P.).—4. See Ned Kelly.

Kelly from the Isle of Man. A C.20 (now ob.) c.p. ex a popular song. Collinson.

Kelly's eye. The number 1, esp. a solitary one: mostly in House (the gambling game): military: C.20. Anecdotal ex a one-eyed Kelly. Also Kelly's wonk. Cf.:—

Kelly's legs. A C.20 var., esp. army, of legs eleven, the number 11 in the game of House/Tombola. Prob. influenced by prec. See TOMBOLA, in Appendix.

kelp. Hard-earned money; wages: workmen's: late C.19–20. Opp. bunce, money for overtime work. Ex kelp, large seaweed.—2. A hat, var. of calp, q.v. Cf.:—

kelp, v.t. To lift one's hat to (a person): c. of ca. 1800–50. Vaux.

Kelper. A Falkland Islander: nickname that received wide publicity during the crisis of 1982.

[Kelso boots, heavy feet-shackles: C.18—early 19. Kelso convoy, the act of accompanying a friend a short distance: C.19–20 ob. Scots: ?coll. or dial. The same query applies to kelly, a bumper glass, also listed by F. & H.: I consider all three to be dial.—except perhaps the third. EDD.]

kelter; occ. kilter. As order, condition, it is dial. and S.E.—2. As money, it is c. of ca. 1780–1820. George Parker, 1789. Also dial: ?before it was c.—the earliest dial. record being 1808. EDD; OED.

kemesa. See comesa.

Kemp's shoes to throw after you, would (that) I had. I wish I could bring you good luck: c.p.: C.17—early 19. (Grose, 1st ed.) 'In 1600 William Kemp, an actor type-cast as a buffoon, whom Shakespeare had in the previous year ejected from the repertory troupe at the Globe ... tried to restore his public-relations image by successfully dancing from London to Norwich in nine days ... and then writing a book about it' (R.S., condensed from Anthony Burgess, Shakespeare, 1970). Wilkes cites Jonson, Every Man out of His Humour, IV, viii, 145–6.

ken, n. A house (in compounds, house or place): c., ca. 1560–1860; it passed, in (?) earlier C.19, into the argot of market traders', who still (late 1970s) use it frequently (M.T.). Harman, B.E., Lytton, Henley & Stevenson. The OED essays no etym., W. proposes abbr. kenel, I suggest a corruption of Romany tan, a place, or a corruption of the original whence tan itself springs. (H., 3rd and later ed., refers us to 'khan, Gipsy and Oriental.' The word does not exist in Romany in this form; but there is the Hindustani khan(n)a, a house, a room, which appears, in various forms, in the various gipsy dialects.) For bob- or bowman-ken, see bob-ken; see boozing ken; also burn the ken, and kenner.—2. Disraeli in Venetia uses it as =bed; this is almost certainly an error.—3. A boat: mostly Romany: C.20. Ex sense 1—perhaps via 'house-boat'.

ken-crack lay. Housebreaking: c.: C.19—early 20. Ex the C.19—early 20 c. crack a ken, to rob a house, which in turn derives from the late C.17–18 (B.E.) synon. bite a ken. A housebreaker was, in late C.18—early 20 c., a ken-cracker, and earlier, late C.17—early 19, a ken-miller. B.E.; Grose, 1st ed. (both).

kenird. Drink: back s.:—1887 (Baumann). Cf. kennurd for the euphonic e.

kennedy. A poker: low London: ca. 1820–1900. (Bee, 1823.) Ex one Kennedy killed in 'tough' St Giles's by a poker. Hence, give one kennedy, hit one with a poker, as in Henley's Villon's Good Night. 'Frequently shortened to neddy' (H., 1859).

Kennedy rot. Land scurvy: Aus. coll.: ca. 1850–1930. B., 1959.

kenner. A C.19 (?–20) var. of ken. (Manchon.) Influenced by khanna, q.v. kennetseeno. Stinking; manipulated back s. or central s.:—1851 (Mayhew, I).

kennick. 'A mixture of flash-patter [i.e. cant] and padding-ken [or low lodging-house] talk', says 'No. 747' at p.17 in a ref. valid for the year 1865. Fanciful ex ken, q.v.

kenning by kenning, vbl n. 'Increasing a seaman's wages by the work he does, a term principally used by the old whalers'; nautical coll.: from ca. 1860; ob. (Bowen.) A natural development ex Scottish and Northern dial. kenning, a little. Kennington Lane. Pain: rhyming s.: C.20. Franklyn 2nd. ken(n)urd. Topsy: back s. (—1859) on drunk. (H., 1st ed.) Since knurd is ugly. Mayhew has it in 1851 in form kanurd (EDD).

Kensington Gore. Artificial blood, e.g. tomato juice, as used on the stage: theatrical: since the 1920s. (Petch, 1974.) A pun on the fashionable London area so named—and obviously on S.E. gore, spilt blood.

Kensington High (School). The University of New South Wales in the days when its name was the NSW University of Technology (founded in 1949): Sydneysiders', esp. University of Sydney undergraduates'. Perhaps ex Kensington High School, London. (With thanks to Mr David Holloway.) See also Kenso, 2.

Kenso. Kensington racecourse, Sydney; Aus. sporting: C.20. B., 1942.—2. 'The University of NSW' (Wilkes). See prec. kent. A coloured cotton handkerchief: low: from ca. 1810; ob. (Vaux.) Also:

Kent clout or rag. See prec. H., 1859.

Kent-Street ejection or distress. The removal, by the landlord, of the street door when rent is in arrears: (low) coll.: ca. 1780–1830. (Grose, 1st ed.) Ex a Southwark practice.

Kentish knocker. A Kentish smuggler: C.19: local coll. > S.E. Ex Kentish Knock, the sandbank facing the Thames-mouth. OED.

Kentish long-tail. A native of Kent: coll. nickname: C.13–20; since ca. 1750, dial. The legend behind the name is in Layamon's Brut, vv. 1955–86. Apperson.

Kentish Town. A halfpenny or penny: occ. var. of Camden Town, q.v. Franklyn 2nd.

Kentucky loo; fly loo. Betting on certain antics of flies: students': mid-C.19—early 20. Ware.

kenurd. See kennurd.

kep. Occ. var. of kip, n., 3.

Keppel's snob, put up at the. To be a snob: RN: ca. 1870–1910. (Ware.) I.e. at The Keppel's Head, an inn named after Admiral Keppel (d. 1786): pun on nob, head.

kept on the jump. In danger of dismissal from one's job. See in the firing line.

kerb boy. A vendor of combs, elastic and other such things: London-street coll.: C.20.

kerb-crawling, n. and adj. Looking out for a street prostitute: since ca. 1925.

Kerb Market, the. Very frequent for Street, 2, q.v.

kerb-walker. A singer on the pavement-edge: Glasgow: —1934.

kerbside Virginia. A cigarette made from fag-ends. See hard-up, n., 5, and cf. kerbstone mixture.

kerbstone broker. A stockbroker operating outside the Stock Exchange: orig. (1860), US; anglicised ca. 1890 as coll.; by 1920, S.E.—2. A guttersnipe: mid-C.19—early 20.

kerbstone jockey. A soldier in the Transport (Army Service Corps): NZ soldiers': WW1. A safe job, comparatively; esp. as the horses were heavily harnessed.—2. A street, or other unreliable tipster: Aus.: C.20. B., 1942.

kerbstone mixture (or with capitals). Such tobacco for pipe or cigarettes as has been made up from fag-ends: C.20. For sale among the very poor. Cf. O.P.B., and kerbside Virginia.

kerbstone sailor. A harlot: from ca. 1830. Cf. cruiser.

kerel. A chap, a fellow: S. African coll.: late C.19–20. Also (simply kerel), a term of address = 'old chap'. Ex Dutch; cf. † S.E. carl (cognate with churl). Pettman.

kerdoying, -doing, -doink, or ger-. Echoic of impact, as crash!, wallopi!, etc.: perhaps orig. RAF: since ca. 1939. 'He was cruising along, when—gerdoying!—he suddenly crashed.' (S/Ldr H.E. Bates, 1945.) [E.P. and H.E. Bates worked together at the Air Ministry during the latter part of WW2, E.P., 'the oldest soldier', as junior clerk. P.B.] Sgt Gerald Emanuel, 1945, noted the phonetic var.—the more exact form—kerdoink and defined the term 'interjection to indicate crash of aircraft, etc.' Cf.:

kerdumfl Exclam. of surprise, amazement, etc.: RAF: since ca. 1938. Jackson, 'Its origin is the crump of a crash-landed aircraft. Sometimes used as a verb, meaning to crash into.' Cf. prang, v., q.v. P.B.: this 'noise' has not lasted, whereas the prec. became more gen. and is still, early 1980s, extant.

kerfuffle; gefuffle; cufuffle. An amorous embrace: Anglo-Irish: late C.19–20.—2. A row, a brawl, a disturbance: Can.: since ca. 1930. (Leechman.)—3. Hence (?), a to-do, a fuss; a 'flap': RAF, since 1939, then other Services' and gen. (W/Cdr R.P. McDouall, 1945.) Partly echoic and prob. reminiscent of such terms as fluster and waffle. The immediate origin lies in Scots curfuffle, n., ex curfuffle, v., based on Sc. fuffle, to throw into disorder, whence the n. fuffle, violent effort, fuss. The cur- may, as OED suggests, be Gaelic car, to bend or twist or turn about. (With thanks to Mr R.W. Burchfield.) The modern s. usage arises, naturally enough, in the dialectal, and the cu(r)-, ge(r)-, ke(r)- element has been influenced—perhaps even superseded—by the echoic ge- or ke(r)- indicative of effort or noise (cf. kerdoying, kerdumfl, and esp. kersplish for an earlier use.) So widespread is this use of the prefix that the American cartoonist Charles Schulz could even, for comic effect, use 'ker-leaf' to represent the sound of a falling leaf landing (ca. 1970).

kerfuffle valve. 'An imaginary valve ... supposed to be at risk when one lifts heavy weights' (B.P., 1977): Aus.: later C.20.

kernel of the nuts. See k-nut and filbert.

ke-ro. Kerosene: Aus.: since ca. 1920. (B.P.) P.B.: and Brit., where the stuff (paraffin) is used: e.g. ke-ro-tin, a container for kerosene.—2. Beer: Aus. joc.: since ca. 1930. Xavier Herbert, Capricornia, 1939.

kerplonk, kerplunk, adv. Slap-bang; also an exclam., cf. kerdoying: adopted, ca. 1944, ex US. Echoic. See kerfuffle, 3. kerpurtle. Esp. in 'it won't kerpurtle', work, function, act: RAF: ca. 1940–4. An arbitrary formation; see kerfuffle, 3, and cf. synon. ackle.—2. See capurtle.

ker'rb. To hit, strike, punch: Shelta: C.19–20. B. & L.

Kerry security. 'Bond, pledge, oath— and keep the money' (Grose, 1785): coll.: late C.18—mid-19.

Kerry witness. One who will swear to anything: coll.: ca. 1825–1925.

kersplish! Splash!: Aus.:—1916 (C.J. Dennis). See kerfuffle, 3. kerter(x)ver-cartzo. A venereal disease, esp. syphilis: low London: ca. 1850–90. Cf. catever and catso (gadso), qq.v. (H., 1859.) Ex Lingua Franca.

kerworten. A quartern: a Cockneyism: mid-C.19—early 20. ('No. 747', = ref. of 1845; H., 5th ed.) By perversion.

Ketch. See Jack Ketch.

ketchup. Beer: Aus.: C.20. (Baker.) Ex colour.

Ketir Mug. The inevitable nickname, on Egyptian service (—1935), of men surnamed Braines or Brayne (etc.). Ex the Arabic for 'big' + mug, face.

kettle. The female pudend: low coll.: C.18—early 20. D'Urfev.—2. An ironclad or other ironbuilt vessel: nautical: ca. 1870–1914.—3. In c., a watch. A red kettle is a gold watch; a white, a silver one. Mid-C.19–20.—4. Hence, a wrist-watch: since ca. 1920: c. >, by 1930, fairground s. (Robin Cook, 1962).—5. A locomotive: Can. railroadmen's:—1931. Cf. sense 2, and:—6. A (usu. ship's) boiler: RN: from ca. 1870. '[The destroyer's commanding officer] thought of the Chief [engineer] with his three "kettles" brewing up nicely' (Warren Tute, in his magnificent WW2 novel, The Rock [Gibraltar, of course], 1957). Affectionate belittlement. See next entry.—7. In cook the kettle, to make the water in the kettle to boil: S. African coll.: from the late 1890s. Hicks, The Cape as I Found it, 1900. (Pettman.) Cf. the English run the bath.—8. In the pot calling the kettle black. See black arse and cf. the proverbial the kiln calls the oven burnt house (C.17–19). Apperson.—9. See kettle on the hob; take the kettle.

kettle and coffee-mill. Boiler and engine: from ca. 1870; ob. Bowen remarks that it was applied by sailing-ship men to wind-jammers ruined by the intrusion of 'these monstrosities'.

kettle brandy. 'Scandal water', i.e. tea: ca. 1870–1910. B. & L.

kettle of fish, (that's or here's) a fine (or pretty, or nice). A quandary; muddle: coll.: C.18–20. Perhaps ex Scottish kettle of fish, a picnic. P.B.: cf. the later C.20 can of worms.

kettle on the hob; often shortened to kettle. A shilling: rhyming s. (on hob): late C.19–20.—2. The pet-name Bob: rhyming s.: C.20. Only very rarely the full term. Franklyn 2nd.

kettled. Tipsy: mostly Midlands and lower North: late C.19–20. Robert Roberts, A Ragged Schooling, 1976.

kettledrum. An afternoon tea-party, or an evening reception at which there was no dancing: coll.: from ca. 1850; ob. by ca. 1900. Mrs Henry Wood, 'Bidding the great world to a kettle-drum'. Later shortened to drum: see drum, n., 8. kettledrums, or Cupid's kettledrums. A woman's breasts: low: ca. 1770–1850. Grose, 1st ed.

kevo(e)y. A 'cove' or 'covey', a fellow: Cockney var. of covey, it occurs in Punch, 13 Dec. 1862, in a Tennial cartoon. (P.B.) kew. A week: back s.:—1859 (H., 1st ed.). Pl. either kews or skew.

key, a translation, is S.E.—2. The penis: C.18–early 20: sometimes euph., but gen. low coll. 'Lets a man in and the maid out' (F. & H.). Cf. lock, n., 6, q.v. Whence keyhole, the female pudend, for which F. & H.'s keystone of love is a mere literary euph.—3. A habitual criminal: Aus. c.: C.20. (B., 1942.) To the police he is a 'key' suspect.—4. Detention under the Habitual Criminals Act (1905); hence, key(-)man, a prisoner under this Act: Aus. c.: since ca. 1910. B., 1959.—5. In his wife keeps the key, he is addicted to drinking on the sly: proletarian:—1887 (Baumann).

key, v.t. So to word (an advertisement) that one can check its selling-appeal: publicity men's and publishers': from ca. 1920: s. > j. >, by 1934, S.E.

key-basher. A wireless-telegraphy operator: army: 1939+.

key of the door. The number 21 at Tombola/Bingo: since early 1950s (? earlier). Ex the old-fashioned coming of age, and receiving the key, on one's 21st birthday. See TOMBOLA, in Appendix.

key of the street, have the. To be shut out for the night; to have no home: from ca. 1835: coll. till C.20, then S.E. Dickens in Pickwick.

key under the door (occ. threshold), leave the. To go bankrupt: C.17–19: coll. Swift; Ray, 1670, lay the key..., a var. (Apperson).

key-vee (, on the). Alert: lower classes': 1862. (Ware.) Ex qui-vive. Cf. kee-gee.

keyhole. See key, n., 2.—2. In be all keyhole (occ. keyholed), to be tipsy: low: ca. 1860–1930. Perhaps because a drunk man has difficulty in finding the keyhole.

keyhole-whisperer or whistler. A night's lodger in barn (see skipper, whence skipper-bird) or outhouse: tramps' c., resp. 1845 ('No. 747') and 1851 (Mayhew); ob. by 1930.

keyholing, n. A singing, and a playing of musical instruments, at public-house doors: since ca. 1950. L.A. notes having heard it in 1961.

keystone under the hearth (, keystone under the horse's belly). A C.19 smugglers' c.p. > proverbial, the ref. being to the hiding of contraband spirits below the fireplace or in the stable. Wise, The New Forest, 1863 (Apperson).

khabbar, khubber. See kubber.

khaki, n. A Boer War volunteer: military: 1900; †.—2. Pease-pudding: low: early C.20. (Ware.) Ex colour.

khaki brains, get or have; khald-brained. To become, to be, excessively military-minded: army: since late 1960s. Cf. action man. (P.B., 1974.)

Khaki Election, the. The General Election in Britain at the time of the Boer War: political coll.; historical. Collinson.

Khaki Marines, the. The Royal Marine Commandos: RN: 1940–5. P-G-R.

khaki patch. An Indian Army term, dating from the 1880s; thus in Richards: 'From our meat rations a small steak was cut for each man's breakfast. These steaks were called khaki patches, and a man's jaws would ache for hours after he had masticated one of them.' Since ca. 1940, merely historical.

khalishee. (Gen. pl.) A native Indian sailor: nautical coll.: mid-C.19–20; ob. (Bowen.) ?a corruption of Khalsa(h), the Sikhs collectively.

khaloss. Exhausted; finished; dead: Aus. soldiers in Palestine and N. Africa: 1940–2. (Rats, 1944.) Arabic.

khanna. A house, compartment: often used very incongruously in Anglo-Indian coll.: late C.18–earlier 20. (Y. & B.) See ken.

khorocho. Very good; quite correct: army in N. Russia, 1918–19. (F. & G., who spell it xaroshie.) Direct ex Russian for 'good'.

Khyber Pass. Glass: rhyming; since ca. 1885. Often merely Khyber.—2. Backside: late C.19–20. Michael Harrison, Reported Safe Arrival, 1943, 'Not known' wevver they was on their 'eads or their kybers.' Almost invariably in shorter form. Rhyming, of course, on arse.

khyfer. (Prob. the 'proper' spelling of the term variously rendered as kaifa, keifer, or kyfer.) The female as sexual partner; woman in general regarded sexually, as in 'What's the place like? Any good khyfer?', or 'a bit of khyfer', = 'a bit of skirt': orig. army, from latish C.19, then all Services', and still extant 1975. Hence the term khyfer-mashing, vbl n.: courting a girl: still current in 1940, but † by 1950. This spelling in Charles Allen, ed., Plain Tales from the Raj, 1977. (P.B.) Ramsey Spencer, 1973, suggests a prob. distortion of Arabic kèyif, solace, esp. 'the amiable beauty of a fair woman' (C.M. Doughty, Arabia Deserta, 1888). Powis, 1977, notes the vbl n. kifering, 'Act of sexual intercourse, sometimes specifically an act of adultery'. Ware, 1909, notes kypher, v.i. and t., to dress (of a woman).

ki. 'Cocoa or prison chocolate' (Tempest, 'medium usage'): prison s.: mid-C.20. See kye, 3.

kia ora! Good health to you!; Good luck!: NZ (and occ. Aus.): from ca. 1870. Ex Maori keora ta-u and keora tatu. See esp. Morris.

kibber. See jibber the kibber.

kibe? To whose benefit?: universities': late C.19–early 20. (Ware.) Ex cui bono.

kibitz, v.i. Corresponding to kibitzer: adopted ca. 1962 ex US. 'The Yiddish word "kibitz" is a valuable import because it has no equivalent in English' (Anthony Lejeune, Daily Telegraph colour sup., 10 Mar. 1967).

kibitzer. A watcher, esp. if inquisitive or interfering, rather than a participant; e.g. one who plays your game of patience, or does your crossword puzzle for you, over your shoulder: adopted, ca. 1960, ex US, but not as gen. as its usefulness warrants. Ex Ger. Kiebitz, the peewit.—'the little bird very much an onlooker in life' (Wallace Reyburn, Sunday Times, 8 July 1962).

kibosh, v.; and n. as in put the kibosh on. To ruin, spoil; check; bewilder; knock out (lit. and fig.): early C.19–20: if not low, then joc.—2. Kibosh, n. Nonsense; anything valueless: from mid-C.19.—3. Fashion; the correct thing: later C.19.—4. Eighteen pence: costermongers': from mid-C.19.—5. Hence, an 18-month prison-sentence: mid-C.20. For theories on the word's etym., with additional notes and nuances, see КИБОШ, in Appendix.

kick. The fashion; vogue: from late C.17; very ob. Prec. by the. (If prec. by a, a singularity is indicated.) Hence, high kick, 'the top of the Fashion' (B.E.); all the kick, 'the present mode' (Grose).—2. A sixpence: from ca. 1700; slightly ob., except in two and a kick, half-a-crown. Only in compound sums, e.g. 'fourteen bob and a kick' (Moncrieff). † with decimalisation of currency 1971.—3. The hollow in the butt of a bottle: trade: from ca. 1860. Occ. kick-up. (Mayhew.) ?cognate with kink, W. pertinently asks.—4. A pocket: c.: from ca. 1850. (Mayhew.) Prob. ex kicks. See cramp in the kick.—5. A moment (cf. jiffy): low coll.: from ca. 1855; ob. Esp. in a kick, H., 1st ed.—6. (Cf. the boot) dismissal from a job: 1844 (SOD). Prec. by the and esp. in get the kick. Cf. kick-out, n., q.v.—7. A complaint, a 'grouse'; a refusal: coll.: mid-C.19–20; orig. (1839), US. E.g. 'He has kick coming.' Ex the C.14–20 S.E. v., to resist, be recalcitrant. Cf. make a kick, to raise an objection.—8. A chance; an attempt, 'go', as in 'Let's have one more kick' (Baumann): coll.: latish C.19–early 20.—9. A thrill: coll.: adopted, ca. 1943, ex US servicemen. Perhaps ex (? or the orig. of) just for kicks, q.v.—10. A trick; a 'line' or 'stunt': low: since ca. 1945. (Norman).—11. A half-knot: RN: C.20. ('Taffrail', Sea Spray and Spindrift, 1917.) Granville defines it as 'a fraction of a nautical knot', and derives it ex sense 2 above, where sixpence = half a shilling. Cf. onion, 3.—12. In have the kick, to be lucky: athletic ex football: ca. 1880–1915.—13. A period of intensive drug-taking, as in going on a kick, q.v.: later C.20.

kick, v. To die: ? c. (—1725) > s. Perhaps ex kick the wind, c. from late C.16 for 'to be hanged'. Cf. kick the clouds or the bucket.—2. To escape: C.18 c. Also kick away (A New Canting Dict., 1725). In C.19–20, but ob., is kick it: low.—3. V.t., ask for (money): borrow from (a person): low: from ca. 1790; ob. Mayhew, 'Kick him for some coppers.' Cf. break shins and kick for the boot, qq.v.—4. V.t., demand money, work, a rest, etc., from (a person): esp. tailors': 1829 (OED). See also the n., 7.—5. To dismiss (a man from a job): Aus.: since ca. 1925. (F.B. Vickers, First Place to the Stranger, 1955.) Cf. get the kick (-out), at kick-out.—6. To reject, overcome or forswear, as in kick it, where 'it' = the habit. See kick the habit.

kick a gong. To start a quarrel: RN: since ca. 1910. (Granville.) Cf. synon. open a tin. Prob. ex boxing.

kick at waist. To fit badly at the waist: tailors': ca. 1870–1920.

kick away. See kick, v., 2.

kick away the prop. To be hanged: low coll.: early C.19.

kick-back. A sub rosa payment, esp. as commission on a more or less shady deal: adopted, ca. 1944, ex US. (B.P.)—2. That portion of a fee which, in the unethical practice of fee-splitting, is returned (or not collected): adopted, in late 1940s, ex US, perhaps via Can.

kick coming, a. A (gen. a serious) objection; obstacle.—2. An effort. Both late C.19–20 coll. Cf. kick, n., 7, 8.

kick for the boot. To ask for money: tailors': from ca. 1850. Cf. kick, v., 3, and:

kick for trade. To ask for work: tailors': from ca. 1855; ob. Cf. prec.

kick (one's) heels. See cool (one's) heels, to wait in enforced idleness.

kick her into a manœuvre. To take evasive action: RAF: 1940–2. (Berrey.) Adopted from American airmen.

kick-in, n. 'A doing-over and putting the boot in': police: since latish 1960s. Petch cites 'Dixon of Dock Green', BBC TV, 6 Jan. 1969.

kick in, v. To subscribe to a kitty or pool, charity collection, etc.: later C.20. 'Yes, I'll kick in, but I haven't any change on me just now' (P.B.).

kick (or odd kick) in (one's) gallop. A whim; strange fancy: mid-C.18–19 coll.

kick in the guts. A dram of spirits: low: ca. 1770–1860. Grose.

kick in the pants, a. Applied fig. to any grave disappointment or set-back: coll.: C.20.—2. See better than a...

kick it. See kick, v., 1, 2, and 6.

kick (someone's) lung out. To castigate him severely: low:—1909 (Ware). Prob. ex US.

kick-off, n. A start: City s. >, ca. 1900, gen. coll. Esp. for a kick-off, with which cf. for starters. (Punch, 27 Feb. 1875 (OED); Baumann.) Ex football.

kick off, v. To begin. See prec.—2. To die: Aus.: C.20. B., 1959.

kick on. To carry on, with just enough funds for the purpose' (Wilkes): Aus. coll.: mid-C.20.

kick on (one's) side, have the. To have the luck: sporting coll.:—1887 (Baumann); ob. by ca. 1935. Cf. kick, n., 12.

kick-out, n. In get or give the (dirty) kick-out, to be dismissed; to dismiss (from employment): C.19—early 20: with dirty, s.: without, coll. till ca. 1920, then S.E. Also get or give the kick: coll.: late C.19—earlier 20. Lyell.

kick out, v.i. To die: 1898 (OED). Prob. ex US. Cf. kick the bucket.—2. Hence, to run away; make off: C.20. Manchon.—3. Hence, to get out of bed: from ca. 1910.

kick out of, get a. To find that something is exciting or absorbing: coll.: since ca. 1925. Adopted from drug addicts? Cf. just for kicks.

kick over the traces. To 'go the pace'; to be recalcitrant: from ca. 1860: the former sense verging on S.E., the latter S.E. since ca. 1905. Ex a fractious horse.

kick-shoe. A dancer; a buffoon: coll.: 'old', says F. & H.—but how old?

kick the arse off an emu, able to. Feeling very fit: Aus.: C.20. Baker.

kick the arse out of it. Var. of tear the arse..., to take something to an unnecessary extreme; to exaggerate.

kick the bucket. To die: late C.18–20. Grose, 1785; Wolcot, 'Pitt has kicked the bucket', 1796. Prob. ex the beam or yoke from which, as in Norfolk, pigs are hung; bucket in this sense is C.16–20 S.E.

kick the cat. (Gen. he kicked the cat.) To show 'signs of domestic dissatisfaction' (Ware): lower classes' coll.:—1909. The poor cat being the lowest in the pecking order, the only one on whom, e.g. the private soldier, can work off his anger or frustration.

kick the clouds or the wind. To be hanged: resp. c. (—1811), ob., often amplified with before the hotel door (Lex. Bal.), and s. or coll.: late C.16—early 19 (Florio).

kick the eye out of a mosquito, can or be able to. This coll. Aus. expression (—1888; ob. by 1930) indicates superlative capacity. 'Rolf Boldrewood'.

kick the habit. To cease, intentionally, an addiction (whether, as orig., drugs, or else smoking, alcohol, etc.): drug addicts' s. > gen. coll.: adopted, ca. 1955, ex US.

kick the stuffing out of. To maltreat; to get the better of: (orig. low) coll.: adopted, ca. 1900, ex US.

kick the tin. To make a financial contribution: Aus. coll.: since early 1960s. (Wilkes, who suggests 'from the rattling of collection box'.) Cf. kick in, v.

kick the tyre, light the fire and smash off. Applied to an earlier generation of devil-may-care airmen's attitude to taking off: aviation circles'. Recalled by John Winton in the Telegraph Sunday mag., 2 Sep. 1979. Cf. the 'line-shoot', 'There I was, upside down, climbing hard, and nothing on the clock but the maker's name'. (P.B.) kick the wind. See kick the clouds. Manchon, erroneously (I believe), gives it as kick up the wind.

kick-up, n. A disturbance; quarrel: late C.18–20: coll. (in C.20, S.E.). Grose, 3rd ed.; Wolcot, 'There'd be a pretty kick-up—what a squall'; Dickens.—2. A dance: late C.18—early 19. Grose, 3rd ed. Cf.:—3. A party: Aus.; mostly rural: ? mid-C.19—earlier 20. G.B. Lancaster, Jim of the Ranges, 1910.

kick up, v. Elliptical for 'kick up a breeze, dust, fuss, shindy, trouble, etc.', to cause trouble: coll.: since late 1940s. Kick up a fuss, coll., prob. dates from ca. 1880. See breeze; dust; shindy, PUBLIC... SCHOOL SLANG, and cf.:-

kick up a dido (or Dido). To 'kick up a row': Cockneys': earlier C.20. 'Used solely for kids... adults [would say] to grizzling children "It's no use you kicking up a Dido! You ain't getting your own way"' (Jim Wolveridge, He Don't Know 'A' from a Bulls Foot, 1978). Cf.:-

kick up a lark. To cause a commotion or disturbance: ca. 1810–60. Pierce Egan, 1821.

kick up a stink. See stink, n., 2.

kick up at. To reprimand; at certain Public Schools, esp. Marlborough: late C.19–20. Charles Turley, Godfrey Marten, Schoolboy, 1902 (pupil loquitur), 'Pollock... has been kicking up badly at me in the last week. He says my prose is "the immature result"'. kick up Bob's-a-dying. To make the devil of a fuss (about something): C.19. W.N. Glascock, Naval Sketch-Book, 2nd series, 1834, at II, 142 (Moe).

kick up daisies. WW1 var. of push up daisies, to be dead. (Graham Seton, Pelican Row, 1935.) See daisy-pushing.

kick up (one's) dust in the park. To stroll there: Society: early C.20. (Ware.) Ex Fr. faire sa poussière... kick up (one's) heels. To die: C.16–19: orig. coll. but soon S.E. Cf. kick, v., 1, kick out, and kick the bucket. Contrast: —2. To enjoy 'a high old time': coll.: C.20. Ex dancing, or perhaps suggested by cattle released into a field after being penned up for a while. (P.B.) kick up Meg's devotion. To make a row, cause a disturbance: RN: late C.19–20. Some piece of naval folklore; perhaps also a prompting by commotion or a pun on diversion.

kick up the backside. One jeep pushing another out of the mud: Army in Burma: 1942–5. Gerald Hanley, Monsoon Victory, 1946.

kick up the wind. See kick the wind.

kick (someone) upstairs. To promote to a higher-sounding, but, in the fact, less important position: coll.:—1887 (Baumann). The s. var. is boot upstairs; the kick version orig. political.

kick with the left foot. As in he (she, they, etc.) kick(s)..., he (etc.) is a Catholic; an elab. of left-footer, q.v.: Services': later C.20. (P.B.)

kicker. A dancing-master: coll.: ca. 1830–70. (Cf. hop-merchant.) Selby, 1838.—2. A horse: nautical:—1887 (Baumann).—3. An auxiliary motor fitted into a sailing ship: Can. (and US) nautical coll.: from ca. 1890; ob. (Bowen.) Ex its action on the ship. 'Now applied to portable outboard motors for small boats. An "inboard" is... a motor permanently installed inside the hull' (Leachman, 1959).—4. A small boy: Milton Junior School, Bulawayo: since ca. 1930. (A.M. Brown, 1938).—5. A triple valve that functions eccentrically: Can. railroads:—1931.

kickaroo or -poo. Dead: West Indies 'pidgin': late C.18–19. (Grose, 1st ed.) Prob. ex kick over the bucket rather than ex kick the bucket.

kickers. The feet: low: C.19–20; ob.—2. A fit of nervousness, or of nerves: 1930s. R.H. Mottram, Bumphreys, 1934 (concerning aviation), 'I won't go if it gives you the kickers.' Cf. jitters, which it may 'folk-etymologise'.

kicking-in. A fag's duty at football: Winchester College: ca. 1820–70.

kicking-strap. An elastic strap inside a garment: tailors': from ca. 1860. Ex the strap adjusted on a horse to prevent his kicking.

kicks. Breeches: late C.17—early 19; trousers: C.19–20, ob. The former, c.; the latter, low. B.E.; Moore, 'That bedizen'd old Georgy's bang-up togs and kicks.' Cf. kickseys, kickies, kecks, and pair o(f) kicks, qq.v.—2. Thrills, esp. in for kicks or just for kicks, q.v.

kicks than halfpence or ha'pence, more. Esp. with get, more trouble than profit or money; hence, more unkindness than kindness: coll. (in C.20, S.E.): 1824, Scott, 'Monkey's allowance... more kicks than halfpence.' Cf. monkey's allowance, q.v. The phrase has an early var. more kicks than coppers: W.N. Glascock, Naval Sketch-Book (II, 134), 1826 (Moe).

kicksees, kickseys, kickies. Breeches: C.18—mid-19.—2. Trousers: mid-C.19–20, ob. (As breeches, perhaps orig. c.) Cf. kicks, q.v.—3. Shoes: low:—1823; † by 1895. Bee. kickie. See kickie.

kickies. See kicksees.

kickies-builder. A tailor: c. or low:—1887; ob. (Baumann.) Ex:—2. A trousers-maker: c. or low:—1857 ('Ducange Anglicus').

kicksters. A pair of breeches: c.:—1839; † by 1900. Brandon. kicksey; occ. kickie. Disagreeable; apt to give trouble: ca. 1850–90. ('Ducange Anglicus'; H., 1st ed.) I.e., apt to kick. kicky, adj. Kicking (ball): cricketers' coll.: 1888 (A.G. Steel: Lewis).

kid, n. (The 1599 Middleton-Massinger quot'n given by both F. & H. and the OED may belong to sense 1; perhaps to sense 3.) A child, esp. if young: late C.17–20; orig. c. or low; ordinary s. in C.19–20. J. Payn, 'He thinks how his Missis and the kids would enjoy the spectacle.' Ex the young of a goat.—2. A thief, esp. a young and expert one: c.:—1812; ob. by 1880, † by 1896. Vaux; Bee; Egan's Grose.—3. A man, esp. if young: low:—1823; ob., except in US and, in England, except when applied to a (clever) boxer, e.g. Kid Berg; this boxing nuance is allied to the prec. sense. 'Jon Bee'; Bulwer Lytton.—4. A policeman: c. of ca. 1875–1905. Thor Fredur.—5. Chaff, leg-pulling, 'gammon and devilry' (Hindley); H., 5th ed.: low:—1874 >, ca. 1900, ordinary s. Esp. in no kid (! or ?). Ex kid, v., 2, q.v.—6. See kids.—7. A flat dish wherein sailors measure their ration: nautical: C.19. See W.N. Glascock, Naval Sketch-Book (I, 24), 1825 (Moe). By 1887, usu. kiddy (Baumann). See spit-kid.—8. Cheese: Winchester College: late C.19–20. (Wrench.) Cf. orig. of sense 1.—9. A pretty young harlot: white-slavers' c.: earlier C.20. Londres. Cf. kid-leather, q.v.—10. As the (or my) kid, one's younger brother or sister: mostly Cockneys: since ca. 1880. Cf. kid brother, and contrast our kid, q.v., the eldest boy in the family.

kid, v. To lie in; v.t., get with child: low coll., low s., resp.: C.19–20; ob. by ca. 1930. See also kidded; hence also with kid, pregnant.—2. To cheat; hoax; wheedle, flatter: from ca. 1810, orig. c. Lex. Bal.—3. Hence (mostly v.t.), to chaff, quiz: low (—1859) >, ca. 1900, ordinary s. (H., 1st ed.) Cf. kid on, q.v. Senses 2 and 3 ex the idea: to treat as a child.—4. Hence, v.i. (often with that...), to pretend, to give the impression...: from late 1870s. Esp. stop kidding!, let's talk seriously: late C.19–20. See are you kidding?

kid brother or sister. One's (however slightly) younger brother or sister: coll.: adopted from US ca. 1925. Cf. Cockney 'one's kid'—'brother' or 'sister' understood.

kid-catcher. An official who seeks non-attendants-at-school: London School Board's: late C.19—early 20. Ware.

kid gloves, use (on someone) or handle (someone or -thing) with. To treat gently and with circumspection; handle in such a way as to avoid upsetting things: coll.: C.20. (P.B.) kid-ken. See kidden.

kid-lay and -rig. The robbing of apprentices or errand-boys of the parcels entrusted to them: c.: resp. late C.17—early 19 and C.19 (ob. by 1859). B.E.; Vaux and H., 1st ed.—2. (Only kid-lay.) One of the gang practising this 'lay': c.: C.18. New Canting Dict., 1725.

kid-leather. Generic for young harlots: low: C.19–20.

kid on. To lead on, persuade, by 'gammon' or by deceit: c. (1839, Brandon) > low (1851, Mayhew) >, ca. 1900, ordinary s. Cf. kid, v., 2. Contrast:

kid-rig. See kid-lay and cf. kinchen-lay, q.v.

kid(oneself) occ. (on). To be conceited; to delude oneself: low > ordinary s.: from ca. 1860. See kid, v., 2, kid on, and kid up, 2.

kid-stakes. See kidstake.

kid-stretcher. A man fond of young harlots (see kid-leather): low: C.19—early 20.

kid-stuff (or kids'). Any activity (from games to reading) characteristic of, or suitable for, children: adopted, ca. 1945, ex US. (Petch, 1976.) P.B.: usu. derogatory, for something one has (perhaps only recently) 'grown out of'.

kid the troops; esp. as vbl n., kidding... , leg-pulling, 'telling the tale': army: 1914–18 and occ. since. In the c.p. you wouldn't kid the troops (? or !), you wouldn't (try to) fool us (or me), would you?

kid up. To dress oneself properly or in style: military:—1923 (Manchon). Contrast:—2. In kid (one)self up, to delude oneself: lower classes' coll.:—1923 (Ibid.). Ex kid (one)self. kid-walloper. A schoolmaster: coll.: late C.19–20. Recorded in Yorkshire dial. in 1889 (EDD). Also Aus.: C.20. Vance Palmer, Golconda, 1948.

kidd. A var. (not very gen.) of kid, n., esp. sense 2, with the additional sense: swindler.

kidded; occ. with kid, Pregnant: low: C.19–early 20. See kid, v., 1.

kidded, slurring of less usual kid-ken; occ. kiddy-ken. A lodging house frequented by thieves, esp. by young thieves: c.:—1839; ob. by 1890; † by 1920. Brandon in Poverty, Mendacity and Crime.—2. 'A place of child-corruption—under guise of lodging' (Glyn Hughes, 1969): Liverpool street arabs': late C.19–mid-20. Arab.

Kidder. Kidderminster: natives', inhabitants', regionals': mid-C.19–20. F. Brett Young, Far Forest, 1936.—2. A Kidderminster carpet: Cockney:—1887 (Baumann).

kidder. As dealer, huckster, S.E. > dial.—2. A glib, persuasive speaker; an expert in chaff: low (—1859) >, ca. 1900, ordinary s.—3. Hence, one given to pretending: low (—1880) >, by 1900, gen.—4. A person employed by a (usu. hawker-/tradesman to "buy" and therefore to stimulate genuine sales: tramps' c.:—1932 (F. Jennings, Tramping with Tramps).

kidder? Where?: army: late C.19—earlier 20. (B. & P.) Ex Hindustani. Opp. idder!, here!

kidder from Kidderville. An elab. of kidder, 2: C.20. H.A. Vachell, Quinney's Adventures, 1924.

kidderbunk. A youth, boy: proletarian: mid-1940s. Elab. of kid, n., 1.

kiddey, kiddie. See kiddy.

kidder. A pork-butcher: low: from ca. 1860; ob. (H., 2nd ed.) ?pej. on kid, a young goat.

Kiddies, the. 'When there were only three regiments of Foot Guards [i.e. C.17–19], the Scots, the junior regiment, were known as "The Kiddies"' (Carew).

kiddie winks. See kiddywinks.

kiddily. Fashionably, smartly, showily: low: from ca. 1820; † by 1914. Bee.

kidding. Vbl n. of kid, v., 2 and 3, and of kidder, 4. Cf. kid, n., 5.

kiddish. Childish: 1897 (Daily News, 13 Dec.): s. >, ca. 1920, coll. OED.

kid(d)l(e)ywink. Humorous word for a place, esp. a building, as in 'a sertain kidlie wink that is called "The House of Commons"' : Moe quotes J.H. Lewis, The Art of Writing, 7th ed., 1816.—2. A beerhouse. Mr Peter Fryer quotes a footnote to p. 58 of G.B.H., Teetotalism Unmasked, 1845: a song sung at early teetotalers' meetings, to the tune of Babylon is Fallen, was 'Kidley-winks must fall for ever/At Teetotalers' powerful sound;/Public houses too must quiver,/Landlords' signboards must come down.'—3. A small village shop: late C.19—early 20. H., 1st ed.—4. A woman of unsteady habits: later C.19—early 20. H., 2nd ed.—5. See kiddywinks.

kiddo. A term of address to a girl or, mostly by the father, to a daughter of any age whatsoever: mostly Aus. and NZ: from the late 1880s. (Christina Stead, Seven Poor Men of Sydney, 1934; Jean Devaney, Dawn Beloved, 1928.) Cf. boyo, and:—2. A chap, a fellow; also as term of address to a young man: low coll.: mid-C.20. Alan Hunter, Gently Coloured, 1969, 'He's a bright kiddo'. Both senses by the Cockney/Aus. suffix -o, on kid, n., 1 and 3. (P.B.) kiddology. Humbug; pseudo-scientific: later C.20. A BBC Radio 4 programme on class distinctions, 4 Feb. 1980.

kiddy, n. A man, youth, boy: low coll.: an early occurrence is in J.H. Lewis, The Art of Writing, 7th ed., 1816 (Moe). P.B.: in the 1st ed. of this Dict. E.P. noted that this sense was '† by 1920'; but in RAF, early 1950s, I heard a first-rate officer described as 'a gen kiddy', and this phrase was quite popular among aircrew under training.—2. A little child: 1888, 'Rolf Boldrewood', 'They'd heard all kinds of rough talk ever since they was little kiddies': s. >, ca. 1910, coll. Occ. kidlet. Ex kid, n., 1.—3. A flash, but minor, thief: 1780 (Tomlinson in his Slang Pastoral); ob. by 1875, † by 1914. Whence rolling kiddy, a dandy thief (1840, Lytton).—4. (Only with difficulty separated from prec. sense.) A dandy, esp. one who dresses like a flash thief (see prec. sense): low: ca. 1820–1910. Byron, 'A kiddy... a real swell.'—5. A harlot's bully: c. (or perhaps low): ca. 1830–1910.—6. 'A hat of a form fashionable among "kiddies"' : ca. 1860–1900: c. or low. OED.—7. A stage-coach driver, says F. & H., citing Dickens in Boz: actually Dickens uses it as the adj., q.v.—8. See kid, n., 7.

kiddy, v.t. To hoax, humbug: low (1851) >, ca. 1880, ordinary s.; ob. Mayhew.

kiddy, adj. Fashionable, smart, showy, flash: low: ca. 1805–1900. Also, arrogant: nautical:—1887; ob. (Baumann.) Moncrieff, 'That kiddy artist... the dandy habit-maker'; Dickens, 'In the celebrated "kiddy" or stage-coach way.'—2. Of, concerned with, for, children, as in kiddy lit, q.v.

kiddy blade. A midshipman, a very young officer, aping the ways of 'the fore-mast men' or experienced ratings: RN lowerdeck: ca. 1810–40. Basil Hall, 1832. Also known as tarpaulin man.

kiddy-ken. See kidden.

kiddy (or -ie) lit (or one word). Books for young children: librarians' coll.: since ca. 1970. C.S. Hannabuss, article 'Muscular Ideology', Signal, May 1976. (P.B.)

kiddy-nipper. 'Taylors out of work, who cut off the waistcoat pockets of their brethren... thereby grabbling their bit', or money, says Grose, 1st ed.: c.: late C.18—mid-19.

kiddyish. Stylish; somewhat showy: low: ca. 1815–60. 'Think of the kiddyish spree we had' (Jack Randall's Diary, 1820). Ex kiddy, adj.—2. Gay; frolicsome: low:—1860 (H., 2nd ed.); ob. by 1930.

kiddywinks (kiddiwinks); kiddliwinks (kiddywinks). Sometimes affectionate, but more often disparaging, term for children: schoolteachers' and domestic: since ca. 1930. Elab. of kiddies (cf. kiddy, 2), influenced by older kiddleywink. (P.B.) See quot'n at howler, n., 3.

kidger. A cadger: low Aus.: late C.19–20. (Ruth Park, Poor Man's Orange, 1950.) P.B.: prob. Aus. rendering of Cockney form kedger.

kidnapper. A C.17–18 form of kidnapper, q.v.

kidlet. See kiddy, n., 2, and kid, n., 1. Cf.:

kidling. A young thief, esp. if his father is in the same profession: c. of ca. 1820–60. 'Jon Bee', 1823.—2. A baby; a little child: 1899 (OED): s. verging on coll.

Kidman's joy. Treacle: Aus.: C.20. (B., 1942.) Var. of cockies' joy. The surname of a famous and very wealthy Australian pastoralist. Also known as Kidman's blood mixture (B., 1943). Sir Sidney Kidman, 1857–1935 (Wilkes).

kidment. Humbug; 'gammon', 'blarney': c. (—1839) >, by 1860, low; ob. Brandon.—2. Hence, a false story, a begging letter, etc.: c.: from ca. 1845.—3. Professional patter: cheap-jacks' s.: from ca. 1850.—4. A pocket handkerchief, esp. 'one fastened to the pocket, and partially hung out to entrap thieves': c. of ca. 1835–1910. Brandon; H., 1st ed.—5. Hence, from ca. 1860, any inducement to crime: c.; ob. by 1930.

kidna, kitna. How much: Anglo-Indian:—1864; ob.: coll. H., 3rd ed.

kidnap. To steal children: orig. (late C.17), c. >, ca. 1750, s. >, ca. 1800, coll. >, ca. 1840, S.E. Ex kid, n., 1, + nap = nab, to steal. Recorded four years later than:

kidnapper; occ. † kidnapper. A child-stealer, orig. one who sold the children he stole to the plantations in North America: 1678 (SOD). In late C.18 used also 'for all recruiting crimps' (Grose). For rise in status, see back-formational kidnap.

kidnapping, n. The activity in the two prec. entries, hence: marriage to a person much younger than oneself: joc. coll.:

from ca. 1950. Suggested by baby-snatching, which itself dates from the same time as baby-snatcher, ca. 1920; cf. also cradle-snatcher (-ing).

kidney. As kind, class, disposition, S.E. (mid-C.16–20) although ca. 1740–1890 it had a coll. tinge.—2. A fractional part of a shilling; Stock Exchange: from ca. 1890. Ex Cadney, the first broker known to deal under $\frac{1}{16}$.

kidney-hit. A punch in the short ribs; boxing: from ca. 1860.

kidney-pie. Insincere praise: Aus. and NZ: from early C.20. (Baker.) Cf. kid, v., 2, to flatter.

kidney punch. A, to, lunch: theatrical rhyming s.: C.20. Franklyn, Rhyming.

kidney-wiper. Penis: low: C.20. Ex a ribald song. Also kidney-scraper. More Rugby Songs, 1968.

kids. Kid gloves: coll.: from ca. 1885. Baumann, 1887; in Illustrated Bits, 13 July 1889, a shop-dialogue runs: 'Certainly, miss... Some undressed kids.'—'Young man! I only require gloves.'—2. The study of children's diseases; 'the children's department in a hospital': medical students':—1933 (Slang, p. 192).

kid's-eye. A fivepenny piece: Scottish c. of ca. 1815–50. Haggart.

kidsman. One who teaches boys how to steal, esp. one who also boards and lodges them: c. of ca. 1835–1900. Brandon; Baumann.

kidstake(s) (or hyphenated). Pretence; nonsense; both, esp. in cut the kidstake(s), stop beating round the bush, or stop talking nonsense: Aus.: C.20. (C.J. Dennis, 1916; B., 1959.)

kie. A var. of kye.

kie show. A wild-man or wild-beast show: grafters': C.20. (Cheapjack, 1934.) Origin?

kief. 'Cannabis (N. Africa)' (Home Office): drug-users': later C.20. Var. kif (Sean McConville, in The State of the Language, 1980).

Kiel whale. 'A nauseous fish-meal, served... as a staple dish': among British prisoners of war in Germany: 1915–18. F. & G.

kif. See kief.

kifer. Woman as sex object. See khyfer.

kiff. Tea, coffee, cocoa: Christ's Hospital School: since ca. 1870. Marples.

kiff (usu. all kiff). Correct; all correct, all right: RN lower-deck, pre-WW1 (Knock); thence army in WW1; ob. by ca. 1930. Gen. as an (emphatic) affirmative and prob. suggested by Fr. s. kif-kif, equal, similar, the same (esp. in c'est kif-kif, it makes no odds). B. & P., 3rd ed.

kift. A 'booze' (?): Ayrshire s.: 1892, Hew Ainslie, A Pilgrimage to the Land of Burns, 'To... invite them all to that ancient hostelry for a "kift owe a chappin"' (EDD Sup.).

kike. A Jew: adopted, ca. 1935, ex US: low, and usu. offensively derogatory (cf. sheeny). An early Eng. occurrence is in Raymond Postgate, Verdict of Twelve, 1940. Leo Rosten, in The Joys of Yiddish, 1st UK ed. 1970, convincingly derives it ex Yiddish kikel (pron. ky-keel), a circle: illiterate Jewish immigrants to the USA would sign their names with a circle, never with the cross.—2. A cheque: c.: since ca. 1950. (Bournemouth Evening Echo, 20 Apr. 1966.) P.B.: a mishearing of kite, n., 3? I have seen cake for Kate, where 'The Army' was meant.

kikimoreyism. 'Swank', 'side', pose: 1923 (Manchon). Origin? (I surmise an error.)

kiko. To say so: low: C.20. R. Llewellyn, None But the Lonely Heart, 1943. "I should bloody kiko," says Slush... "He's the Smasher, he is." Rhyming on *sy*e (Cockney for 'say') so. It is a Cockney alternative spelling of cocoa, v., q.v. Franklyn, Rhyming.

Kildare, the. 'A major operation, with full outfit, masks, white overalls, etc. "Will it be a major op?"—"Yes, at 19.30 to-morrow; the full Kildare."' Ex the T.V. programme 'Dr Kildare', a glamourised, American version, in serial form, of a surgeon's life: mid-1960s. (Granville, 1967.)

kiley. A two-up 'kip': Aus.: since ca. 1920. (B., 1943.) Ex the Aboriginal kiley, a boomerang.

Kilburn. 'Diary, especially a plain clothes officer's official diary (which may be examined in court)' (Powis): rhyming s., shortening Kilburn Priory: London policemen's: later C.20.

kilkenny. A frieze coat: late C.17—early 19: c. > low ca. 1760. B.E.—2. A penny: from ca. 1870. P.P., Rhyming Slang, 1932.

Kilkenny cats. Often used allusively, from the proverbial fight like Kilkenny cats, meaning to fight each other even unto mutual destruction: coll.: mid-C.19–20. 'The origin of this expression as I have heard is this. Cromwell's soldiers in Ireland used to amuse themselves by tying two cats together by their tails and hanging them over a clothes line. Of course the wretched animals clawed each other to death.' (Andrew Haggard, letter, 1947.)

kill, n. A ruined garment: tailors': from ca. 1860. Ex v., 1.—2. See v., 5.—3. In make a kill (or killing): to win substantially from the bookmakers, or on the stock market: Aus. sporting, since ca. 1919 (Baker); also Brit.

kill, v. To ruin (a garment): tailors': mid-C.19–20.—2. 'To hurt badly, put hors de combat' (Wrench): Winchester College: C.19–20. Perhaps ex the Anglo-Irish use: cf. kilt, q.v.—3. As 'kill a story', to suppress or discard it: journalistic: since ca. 1910; by 1940, coll.—4. To get rid of, as kill that baby, q.v.: cinema: since ca. 1930. In later C.20, more gen. coll., verging on informal S.E., for 'to douse a light', switch or turn off anything inanimate, e.g. an engine (Keene & Haynes, Spyskip, 1980: Camilla Raab).—5. To destroy (aircraft or tanks); hence as n.: army and RAF coll.: WW2. P-G-R.—6. For dressed (or got up) to kill, see dress to death.—7. See killing, vbl n.

kill a snake. To 'see a man about a dog': Aus.: C.20. (B., 1942.) With a pun on penis erectus. Contrast killing a snake?, q.v.

kill-calf or -cow. A butcher; a murderous ruffian; a terrible person: coll.: ca. 1580–1750: coll. quickly > S.E.; extant in dial.—2. Also as adj., murderous. (Nares.)

kill cobbler. Gin: ca. 1715–60. (Anon., The Quaker's Opera, 1728.) Contrast kill grief, q.v.

kill-cow. See kill-calf.—2. An arrant boaster: lowest classes': C.19—early 20. B. & L.

kill-devil. Rum, esp. if new: mid-C.17—early 20: coll. (orig. West Indian). Thus also in C.18 America: see, e.g. W.E. Woodward, Washington, 1928.—2. A gun: C.18. Ned Ward, 1703.

kill grief. Some kind of strong liquor, prob. rum (cf. kill-devil), fashionable in the 1720s. Anon., The Quaker's Opera, 1728.

kill-me-quick. 'We sat down to a dinner of rice, tinned meat, "kill-me-quick" (a sort of fritter), jam, and tea' (Alex. Macdonald, In the Land of Pearl and Gold, 1907): Aus.: ca. 1880–1920.

kill-priest. Port wine: provincial: late C.18—early 20. (Grose, 1st ed.) Cf. kill-devil, 1.

kill that baby! Turn out the spot-light: film-industry c.p.: from ca. 1930. A baby because it is only a small light. See MOVING-PICTURE SLANG, §3, in Appendix, and kill, v., 4.

kill-the-beggar. Inferior whiskey: Anglo-Irish: from ca. 1850. Cf. kill-devil and -priest.

kill the canary. To evade, or malingering at, work: bricklayers':—1909 (Ware).

kill the widow. 'As young journalists, we were horrified on being told to: "Kill that widow in column three." (Don't be frightened—it merely means "Alter the spacing so that there isn't a word all by itself in one line")' (Woman, 19 Dec. 1964): journalistic s.: C.20. Cf. kill, v., 3 and 4.

kill-time. A pastime; a stop-gap: mid-C.18–20: coll. >, ca. 1890, S.E.—2. Also adj.

kill who? Ca. 1870–1915, a proletarian c.p., 'satirical protest against a threat' (Ware). In the same order as 'you and who else?' or 'you and whose army?'

Kil'larney. Synonym, more gen. as n. (madman) than as adj., of lakes, q.v., and likewise an abbr. of lakes of Killarney, imperfect rhyming s.=barmy: C.20. Margery Allingham, Flowers for the Judge, 1936.

killed off. Removed from (or lying under) the table because intoxicated: ca. 1805–1900. Bee, 1823, 'Borrowed from a phrase used of our brave defenders by Mr. Windham, minister-at-war' (William Windham, 1750–1810); Baumann.

Killer. The Aus. 'inevitable' nickname of men surnamed Caldwell: since ca. 1945. Ex 'Killer' Caldwell, famous war 'ace' of WW2. (B.P.)

killer. A 'lady-killer', as in 'He was a killer with the sheilas' (Dick): Aus.: since ca. 1925.—2. (Also whispering death.) 'A Diesel unit' (Railway): railwaymen's: since ca. 1955. Ex its stealthy approach.—3. 'The final action or argument which means the end to whatever hopes have been held' (B., 1959): Aus.: since ca. 1945. P.B.: this sense is also Brit. in later C.20.—4. 'A bullock or sheep to be killed for meat [on a station]' (Wilkes): Aus. coll.: late C.19–20.

killerdiller. A wildly good time: beatniks' and teenagers': adopted and adapted, ca. 1959, 'ex US s. killerdiller, any remarkable or attractive or successful thing or person or occasion (W. & F.). A reduplication of killer. P.B.: in later C.20, some use in Brit. and Aus. of the US sense.

killers. Eyes (never in singular): Society s. of ca. 1775–1800. C. Whibley, in Cap and Gown, quotes one Mansell (1780): 'Their eyes (in fine language... killers).'

killick. The arm-badge of a Leading Hand: RN: later C.19–20. Hence to get the (or one's) killick, 'To be rated Leading Seaman, the killick, or anchor, being the badge of this rating' (Goodenough, 1901). The complement to this is dip the killick, to lose the rank ('Taffrail', Pincher Martin, 1916).—2. Hence, 'Nickname and vocative for any leading hand' (Granville, who adds, 'from the Erse word killech, a wooden anchor): RN: C.20. Cf. RAF props.

killick scribe. A Leading Writer: RN: C.20. Ex prec.

killling, n. See kill, n., 3.—2. A term used in cross-country running at Shrewsbury School: perhaps. j. rather than coll.: C.20. '“Killing” is derived from the extraordinary pretence that the [race] is indeed a hunt, and that the runners are hounds (there is also a huntsman, and Senior and Junior Whips)' (Prof. Richard Cobb, letter to P.B., 1981).

killling, adj. Extremely funny: coll.: from ca. 1890. Prob. ex killingly funny.

killling a snake? A joc. golfing c.p., addressed to players killing many strokes in a sand-trap: Can.: since ca. 1930.

killling match. A fierce battle: army: 1940–5. P-G-R. killings. 'The offals and heads of the animals killed for homestead use' (Jean Devaney, Travels in North Queensland, 1951): Aus. cattlemen's and farmers' coll.: late C.19–20. Cf. killer, 4.

kilo. Abbr. kilogramme: coll.: OED cites the Daily News, 2 Dec. 1870.—2. Abbr. kilometre: coll.: C.20, esp. in WW1, by the soldiers, who rarely used it in sense 1. See K, 2, and click, n., 5.

kilos, 17 or 18 or 20, etc. (Girls) aged 17 or 18 or 20, etc.: white-slavers' c.: C.20. Londres.

Kilroy was here. Perhaps the best known of all C.20 graffiti, it started in the USA, ca. 1940, and, following the Allied Forces in WW2, spread almost worldwide. See under this heading in the Appendix for an additional note.

kilt, n. See go and piss up your kilt!

kilt, ppl adj. Killed (gen. as a gross exaggeration and merely=severely hurt, beaten, defeated): Anglo-Irish and joc.: C.19–20. Marryat.

kilted brickie (or -y). A woman employed in the building trade: WW2. See whistler, 9.

kilter. See kelter.

kiltie (-y), or K. A Highland soldier: coll.: from late 1840s, orig. Scottish. (EDD); J. Milne, Epistles of Atkins, 1902; B. & P.) Ex their kilts. Cf. Jock, and—kilts, the. Kilted soldiers, esp. Highlanders: military coll.:

C.19. Wm Maginn, Tales of Military Life, 1829, at III, 250. Cf. prec.

kidlwack. 'A derogatory term for mixed European and Asian blood' (S.H. Ward): Royal Sussex Regiment: C.20. Roussillon Gazette, April 1911.

kim kam (occ. hyphenated), adv. and adj. (In) the wrong way; out of order: coll.: late C.16—early 19, then dial. In Cotgrave and Shakespeare, clean kam; North, 1740, chim-cham. (Apperson.) Prob. clean (wholly) cam (awry, crooked).

kimbow. To cheat, trick; esp. beat severely and then rob: c. of ca. 1690–1830. (B.E., Ainsworth.) Ex a kimbo (akimbo): cf. (to) cross, q.v.

Kimberley. Nickname of the diamond symbol in the game of Crown & Anchor: ex the famous diamond fields of S. Africa.—2. Used derog. or joc. in Aus., as in, e.g., Kimberley mutton, roast goat; K. oyster, a meat fritter: C.20. Wilkes. After the area in N-W Aus.

kin. A thief; the kin, thieves collectively: c.: C.18. A New Canting Dict., 1725.

kinchen, kinchin. A child; a young boy (or girl), a young man: c.: from ca. 1600, though forty years earlier in combination. In C.19–20, convicts' c. Ex Ger. Kindchen, a little child (SOD). Cf. next three entries.

kinchen- (or kinchin) co (C.16–18) or cove (C.17–19). A boy brought up to stealing: c.: from ca. 1560. (Before C.19, rare in cove form.) Harman, B.E., Lytton. See co and cove.—2. (Only as k. cove. Head, Grose.) A small man (cf. kinchen, q.v.): c. of ca. 1660–1830.—3. A man who robs or kidnaps children: c.: C.19.—4. See kinchen-mort, 1.

kinchen (or -in) lay. The practice of robbing children: c.: ca. 1835–1910. Dickens, Oliver Twist; see also the quot'n at not much frocks, and kid-lay.

kinchen-mort or -cove. One of 'Beggars' children carried at their mother's backs' (Grose, 2nd ed.), who, to distinguish from the second sense, adds in slates, i.e. in sheets: c.: ca. 1560–1830. Cf. kinchen co(ve), q.v.—2. Also a young girl trained to thieve: mid-C.18—early 19 c. Grose.

kinco. 'Uniform, fine clothes, rich embroidered dresses' (H., 3rd ed.): Anglo-Indian coll.: from ca. 1840; ob. Loosely ex proper sense, gold brocade (1712). Persian-Hindustani origin. See esp. Y. & B.

kin'd. A satirical pron. (kinned) of kind: Society: late 1884, only. Ex Barrett's production of Hamlet, in which, in Oct. 1884, 'he made this reading, "A little more than kin and less than kin'd'" (Ware).

kind, adj. Friendly: North Country children's coll.: late C.19–20. 'Are you kind again?'

kind. Adv., kindly: C.17–20: S.E. till ca. 1820, then coll.; since ca. 1880, sol. Dickens, 1849.

kind-heart. A dentist: joc. coll.: ca. 1610–40. Jonson.

kind of. Adv., in a way, somewhat; as it were: coll.: orig. (—1800), US; anglicised ca. 1850, Dickens using it in David Copperfield. (Cf. sort of.) Often—this is a sol.—spelt kinda, kinder. See Usage and Abuse for treatment of 'these kind of', etc.

kind of a sort of. A coll. (gen. joc.) var. of kind of a and sort of a, themselves both coll. forms of kind of, sort of (e.g. thing).

kinda, kinder. See kind of.—2. Hence, kinderway, in a: somehow or other; mediocly. Manchon.—3. A kindergarten class in a school, but not a kindergarten itself, which is a kindy, q.v.: Aus.: since ca. 1950.—4. Hence, a child in such a class: since ca. 1955. (B.P.)

kindly, adv. Easily, readily, spontaneously, congenially: C.15–20; S.E. till ca. 1880, then coll.—and dial.

kindly leave the stage! A joc. dismissal to one who has just made a minor faux pas, a dreadful pun, etc.: since mid-C.20. Often prec. by I don't wish to know that. See I say, I say, I say!

kindness. E.P. noted in the 1st ed. of this Dict. that 'as the sexual favour, [it] is euph. S.E.' However, in a later ed. he included do a kindness to, to coit with (a girl): late C.19–20: low Scot. >, ca. 1930, Society—esp. London Society.—2. See all done by kindness!

kindy. A kindergarten school: Aus. coll.: since ca. 1950. (Mrs C. Raab.)

kinell! An exclam.; short for fuckin' 'ell!, i.e. fuckin' hell!, very low but, in late C.19–20, very common, it occurs, e.g., in John Prebble's fine war novel, The Edge of Darkness, 1947, in the sensible form, 'kinell!

King. King William's Town (on Buffalo River): S. African coll.: 1880. Pettman.—2. See King Death.—3. As The King, the National Anthem: coll., prob. orig. British Armed Forces officers'; 'We always stand for "The King".' Since 1952, of course, the Queen.

king, n. The man in charge of anything: e.g., a steward on a liner may be the liner king, the crockery king, the silver king (Bowen); also, in the Services, the jankers king (see jankers), even the latrine king. Robert Hinde, for the RAF, wrote in 1945, 'Someone who is good at a particular thing, e.g. Met[eorology] king, Navigation king'. With latrine king, cf. the Aus. and NZ compo king, q.v., equally ironic. These uses arose at the beginning of, or fairly early in C.20. Aus. usage app. began earlier: Wilkes cites several late C.19 examples of cattle king, sheep king, wool king, for powerful men owning large stocks. (Brit. Eng. might substitute baron, as tobacco baron, cotton baron, for leaders of those industries.) In these examples the epithet is given in admiration, however grudging, for the man's achievements; not so, perhaps, in the obviously ironic squatter king, although the Australian Journal, July 1869, equates 'Wool King, a squatter'. (See esp. Wilkes.) Also Aus. is the use of king for the leader of a push (or gang) of larrikins: ca. 1890–1940 (B., 1953), perhaps here abbr. of king-pin, q.v. Among Can. railroadmen,—1931, the title was accorded to a freight-train conductor, or, occ., to a yardmaster. EDD records the use of king as 'adept' in dial., 1865. Cf. queen. (E.P.; P.B.)—2. Abbr. king hit, n.—3. See kings, 2.

king, v. Abbr. king-hit, v., q.v.

king, adj. Super-eminent or excellent: coll.: C.20. See several phrases below.

king Canute. The crane-fly or 'daddy-long-legs': Midland children's: mid-C.20. (Christopher Harrison, 1962.)

King Death. Breath: rhyming s.: mid-C. 19–20. In C.20 only in abbr. form, king. Clarence Rook, London Side-Lights, 1908.

King Dick. A brick: rhyming s.: late C.19–20.—2. A leader, boss, overseer: Aus.: C.20. B., 1942.

King Dicky. A bricklayer: builders' rhyming s. (on bricky): C.20. (Franklyn 2nd.) Cf. prec., 1.

king duck. See golden duck.

king hit, n. A knock-out blow: Aus. sporting coll.: since ca. 1920. Baker.—2. 'A surprise punch, probably unfair' (Wilkes): Aus. coll.: since ca. 1940.

king-hit, v. From both senses of prec.: Aus.: datings similar.

king-hit merchant or artist. A brawler; a bully; one who employs unfair tactics: Aus.: since ca. 1935. Rats, 1944; B., 1959.

King John's men, one of. Occ. amplified with eight score to the hundred. A little under-sized man: late C.18–19: from ca. 1850, mainly nautical. Grose, 1st ed.

king kong. A drink of methylated spirits mixed with lavender water: beatniks': since ca. 1959. (Anderson.) Deadly; ex the film King Kong.

King Lear. An ear: from ca. 1870. P.P., Rhyming Slang, 1932.—2. Homosexual: rhyming s. on queer: since ca. 1940. Franklyn, Rhyming.

King of Spain's trumpeter. See Spanish trumpeter.

King of the Road! '[It] was an advertising slogan of, I believe, Lucas cycle lamps and dynamos. This would be shouted at lone racing or sports cyclists or the leader of a bunch of tourist cyclists' (Mrs Shirley M. Pearce, 1975): 1950s. Cf. get off and milk it!

King Parnee. Rain: late C.19–20 showmen's var. of parnee, 2, q.v. John o' London's Weekly, 19 Mar. 1937.

king-pin (, the). The leader; most important person: Aus., —1916 (C.J. Dennis); also some Brit. metaphorical use. Cf.

S.E. mechanical king-bolt, itself prob. influenced by much earlier architectural king-post.—2. Hence, the airman in charge of a ground-crew gang: RAF: WW2. Cf.:

king pippin. An important, usu. the most important, person: since ca. 1910. Cf. prec.

king-size(d). Very large; relatively large (esp. in advertising, e.g. cigarettes, where the difference between that and 'normal' may be very slight indeed): Aus., since ca. 1920; Can. (?ex US), since ca. 1930; Eng. since ca. 1945: by 1950, coll. In later C.20, taken over by advertising copy-writers, and so used by 'ordinary' people only ironically. There exists queen-size(d), e.g. of beds, a little smaller than king-size. (P.B.; B.P.)

King Street Run, the. A tie awarded to those who successfully drink a pint of beer in each of the eight public-houses in King Street, without any form of physical relief and within two hours; a competition held twice a term and supposed to have been instituted by Ted Dexter; present record (D.F. Wharton tells me on 24 Oct. 1965), 28 minutes: Cambridge undergraduates': since early 1950s.

kingdom come. The after-life: late C.18–20: s. >, ca. 1920, coll. Grose, 1st ed.; Wolcot, 'The Parson frank'd their souls to kingdom-come.' Hence, go, send, to k.c., to die, kill. Ex thy kingdom come in the Lord's Prayer (OED).—2. Rum (the drink): rhyming s.: C.20. Lester.—3. Bum (the buttocks): id.: later C.20. Ronnie Barker, Fletcher's Book of Rhyming Slang, 1979.

kinger (with hard g). 'A good customer, especially at the end of an otherwise bad day' (M.T.): market-traders': C.20. The king among the day's customers.

kings or kings and crosses. Children's cry for truce, the first in E. and N.E. England, the second in E. Anglia, where also occurs exes. The Can. equivalent combines both in king's ex! Iona & Peter Opie, The Lore and Language of Schoolchildren, 1959. Cf. fainites.—2. Kings (rare in sing.) Drivers: railwaymen's ironic: since ca. 1945. Railway, 2nd.

King's (or Queen's) bad bargain. A worthless soldier or sailor. See bad bargain and K.h.b.

King's Bench. A ship's galley: RN: ca. 1790–1860. (W.N. Glascock, Sailors and Saints (I, 130), 1829.) Cf. next two entries.

King's Bench debater. A 'sea lawyer': RN: ca. 1810–60. Ibid. Hence:—

King's Bencher. A notable galley orator: nautical: late C.18–early 20. (W.N. Glascock, Sketch-Book, II, 1826 (Moe); Bowen.) Cf. prec. and bush lawyer.

King's birthday. Pay day: Services': earlier C.20. F. & G. king's books; books or history of the four kings. A pack of cards: ca. 1650–1850: coll. >, ca. 1800, S.E. (Urquhart, Foote.) Cf. devil's books, q.v.

King's College. The King's Bench Prison: c. late C.18–mid-19. Grose, 3rd ed.

King's Dancing Girls, the. A nickname bestowed, derisively, on the King's Dragoon Guards by other cavalry regiments: C.19–earlier 20. (Carew.) A pun on the initials.

King's English. See clip the Kings ..., to be drunk.

kings ex! See kings.

King (or Queen's) hard bargain. C.19–earlier 20 var. of King's bad bargain, q.v. (Moe cites Alfred Burton, Johnny Newcome, 1818; Bowen.) Cf. King's poor cousin.

King's (or Queen's) Head Inn. Newgate Prison: c. of ca. 1690–1830. (B.E.) Also called the Chequer Inn in Newgate Street.—2. Any prison: c.: ca. 1790–1850.

king's horse, (you, he, etc.) shall have the. A c.p. directed at a liar: ca. 1670–1840.

King's keys, the. Crowbars and hammers used to force locks and doors: legal: ca.1810–60. Scott in The Black Dwarf.

King's man or K.-m. See kingsman.

King's Men, the. The 78th Regiment of Foot, from 1881 the Seaforth Highlanders: army coll.: C.19–early 20. (F. & G.) Ex a Gaelic motto: Cuidich'r Rhi, Help the King. Also the Kingsmen.

Kings on the roof; kings up. A pair of kings and a lower pair: Aus. poker-players': C.20. B., 1953.

King's Own Schneiders, the. The 38th Battalion, Royal Fusiliers: WW1. See Appendix.

King's (or Queen's) parade, the. The quarterdeck: RN: C.19—early 20. W.N. Glascock, Naval Sketch-Book, 2nd series, 1834, I, 38 (Moe); Bowen.

king's peg. Champagne laced with brandy: later C.19—20. Kipling, At the End of the Passage, 1890; J. Symons, The Gigantic Shadow, 1958.

King's (or Queen's) Pictures. Money; esp. coins: C.17—20, ob.: c. >, ca. 1780, s. >, ca. 1850, coll. (Brome, B.E., Grose.) Also, in C.19—20, King's (or Queen's) portrait.

King's plate. Fetters: low:—1811; ob. by 1880, † by 1910. Lex. Bal.

King's poor cousin. A synonym of King's hard bargain above: naval: 1830, Fredk Marryat, The King's Own (p. 212 of the 1896 edition: Moe).

King's Proctor. A doct. rhyming s.: C.20. 'Never popular, and now obsolete' (Franklyn 2nd).

King's Silly Little Idiots, the. 'The King's Shropshire Light Infantry, the KSLI, known irreverently as the King's Silly Little Idiots, or, reversing the initials, "I Love Soldiers' Kisses"' (Julian Critchley, Illustrated London News, Sep. 1981): army: 1881—1958.

King's whiskey. Customed whiskey (the illicit stuff being plain whiskey): Anglo-Irish coll.: mid-C.19—20.

king's yarn. An illegitimate son of the ship's captain: naval: late C.18—mid-19. Bill Truck, in Blackwood's, Sep. 1821.

Kingsley's Stand. The 20th Foot, in late C.19—20 the Lancashire Fusiliers: military: late C.18—early 20. Their commander of 1754—69 was Wm. Kingsley; despite heavy losses at Minden, the regiment volunteered for guard-duty the next day. F. & G.

kingsman. A handkerchief green-based, yellow-patterned: costermongers:—1851; ob. Mayhew; 'The favourite coloured neckerchief of the costermongers' (F. & H.). A very emphatic one is a kingsman of the rortiest († by 1910): Ware.—2. (Gen. with capital K.) A member of King's College, Cambridge: Cambridge University:—1852: coll. >, ca. 1900, S.E.—3. A member of the King's Regiment: army coll.: C.20. (P.B.)

Kingsmen, the. See King's Men, the.

Kingswood lion. An ass: ca. 1820—90: coll. or s. (Egan's Grose.) Cf. Jerusalem pony, q.v.

kinichin. A rare C.19 var. of kinchen. 'Ducange Anglicus'.

kinifee. "'Yeah," said Ritchie, "they could get three months for carrying a kinifee." This was our bodgie slang word for a knife' (Dick): since early 1950s; by 1966, ob.

kinik. A whim; a mental twist: S.E. (The adj. kinky is US coll.) But—2, as large number (of persons), it is Bootham School s., † by 1925.—3. A fig., esp. a technical, 'wrinkle'; a smart idea: Aus.: since ca. 1930. (B.P.)—4. An odd, an eccentric, person: since ca. 1960. (Petch.) Cf. kinky, adj., 2.

kiniker. (Usu. in pl.) A contortionist: circus and variety: C.20.

kiniking. (Gen. pl.) A periwinkle: nautical: mid-C.19—20. (Bowen.) By corruption. Also in Dorset dial.:—1851 (EDD).

kinky, n. A homosexual, whether male or female: semi-medical: from ca. 1920. (Neil Bell, I Am Legion, 1950.) Cf.:-

kinky, adj. As in 'the surface is a bit kinky—it has rucks and kinks in it' (Jonathan Thomas, 1976); crinkled or wrinkled: coll.: C.20. This, ex dial., is prob. the orig., the prototype, of all the following senses and of the n.—2. Eccentric; mentally twisted: coll.: C.20. Ex S.E.: see kinik, n.—3. Homosexual: from mid-1920s. Cf. the n.—4. ?Hence, addicted to unusual or abnormal sexual practices: coll.: since ca. 1930.—5. Hence, anything, esp. clothes (see kinky boots) so contrived as to excite sexuality in the opposite sex: coll.: since ca. 1935. A revival of this meaning in the 1960s prompted Suzy Menkés, in her article 'Switched on Jargon' in The Times, 3 July 1967, to write, 'For the past few months, the word "psychedelic" has been used by certain sections of the press and public much as "way out" or "kinky" was once employed.'

kinky (or -ey) boots. Tight-fitting calf- to thigh-length boots with very high, spiky heels; usu. black, and worn for display rather than practicability by fashionable women: ca. 1963—early 1970s. From later 1960s, applied joc. and loosely to similar boots of more moderate, practical pattern. (P.B.) kingsman. A corruption of kingsman, 1: in P.H. Emerson, Signor Lippo, 1893.

kinynas. Spirituous liquor(s): RN: ca. 1860—1910. (Bowen.) Origin?

kip, n. A brothel: 1766, Goldsmith, 'Tattering a kip'—wrecking a brothel—as the phrase was, when we had a mind for a frolic: low (? orig. c.): † by 1880, except in Dublin, where it has > s. Ex Danish kippe, a hut, a mean ale-house; ?cf. Romany kipsi, a basket, kitcheana, an inn.—2. A bed; a hammock: low (—1879, perhaps orig. c.) and nautical. Cf. doss, letty, lib(b), and lig, qq.v.—3. A lodging or a lodging-house, a doss-house: low:—1883 (Answers, 31 Jan. 1891).—4. Sleep: unrecorded before C.20; perhaps it arose in WW1, when it was much used by British soldiers. [—5. The skin of a large calf, Grose's sense, has always been S.E.]—6. 'A small chip used for tossing pennies in the occult game of two-up' (C.J. Dennis): late C.19—20: s. >, by 1920, coll. >, by 1930, j. Perhaps a corruption or a perversion of chip.—7. A job (employment): Anglo-Irish: late C.19—20. James Joyce, Ulysses, 1922, 'I get paid this morning, Stephen said.—The school kip? Buck Mulligan said.' Perhaps ex sense 1.

kip, v. To play truant: low (?c.): ca. 1815—60. Haggart.—2. To lodge; sleep: c., from ca. 1880 (B. & L.); > in C.20, via n., 4, gen. s. or low coll. Cf. doss, v., and:-

kip down. To go to bed; dispose oneself for, go to, sleep: a C.20, mainly Services', var. of kip, v., 2. B. & P.

kip-house. A tramps' Podging-house: tramps' c.: since ca. 1885. T.B.S. Mackenzie, 1932, has var. kip-shop. Cf. kip, n., 3.

kip in. To 'shut up': low: late C.19—20. (Brendan Behan, Borstal Boy, 1958.) Ex kip, to go to bed (and sleep).

kip-in, adj. Easy: C.20. 'It's only right that they should get the kip-in jobs when they're here longer than anyone else' (Brendan Behan, Borstal Boy, 1958). Ex kip, to go to bed.

kip-shop. A brothel: Services': WW1. (B. & P.) Ex kip, n., 4, and ultimately ex kip, n., 1. Cf. knocking-shop.—2. See kip-house.

Kiplingism, gen. pl. (One of) the errors and/or solecisms in Dr T. Kipling's ed. (1793) of the Codex Bezae: Cambridge University coll. rather than s.: ca. 1794—1840. OED Sup.

Kipper. Occ. nickname for a man habitually sleeping in doss-houses: C.20. (Petch, 1966.) P.B.: and, indeed, for any man given to sleeping a lot: mostly Services'. Ex kip, v., 2.

kipper, n. (Esp. giddy (young) kipper.) A person; a child: C.20. (OED Sup.) Cf. queer fish.—2. A stoker: RN: early C.20. (Ware.) Ex his being constantly roasted.—3. A tailoress help: tailors':—1933. ?Cf. sense 8.—4. A serviceman, esp. a soldier, from Britain: Aus. servicemen's, esp. soldiers': 1940—5. Of obscure origin: hardly that proposed by Baker, 1953.—5. 'I evaluate its firing power as eighteen torpedoes—I think Kipper is a distressing piece of naval slang—in thirty minutes' (Geoffrey Jenkins, A Twist of Sand, 1959): since ca. 1930. Suggested by fish, 9.—6. Of an English person, usu. male, visiting Aus., being very nice about everything while he is there, and then, back in Eng., writing 'nasty little things that he failed to mention while among the people whose hospitality he accepted. This unlovable trait has led to the application of the expression kipper to a certain type of Englishman. A kipper, by virtue of the processing, has become two-faced with no guts' (Jack Marshall & Russell Drysdale, Journey among Men, 1962, at p. 190). This sense, deriving ex sense 4, arose ca. 1945.—7. A doss-house, a bed, or indeed anywhere to sleep: down-and-outs': C.20. Var. of kip-house.—8. The female pudend. A Cockney fellow-soldier, on reading of the birth of Siamese twins, 1954, exclaimed pityingly of the mother, 'Poor cow! I bet that split 'er old kipper'. (P.B.)—9. Coll. term for 'the kipper-shaped tie with a broad, pointed blade as much as five or six inches wide introduced in the mid 1960s in a striking range of new designs and bold colours' (Penelope Byrde, The Male Image, 1979): as ephemeral as the fashion. (P.B.)—10. In not, or only, as far through as a kipper: of anything or person, very thin; of a village, wood, etc., very small: Lancashire coll.: C.20. (Miss Margaret Pilkington, 1980.) kipper, v. To ruin the chances of (a person): from ca. 1920. Prob. ex scupper influenced by cook (one's) hash.

kipper and bloater. Motor: rhyming s.: later C.20. Red Daniells, Brit. Jnl of Photography, 1 June 1979.

kipper kites. 'Aircraft engaged on convoy escort duties over the North Sea and casually giving protection to the fishing vessels' (H. & P.): esp., Coastal Command RAF: since 1940. See kite, n., 5.—2. Hence, Coastal Command aircraft in general: RAF: WW2+.

kipper season, the. The period from Christmas to Easter: costermongers': late C.19–20. 'No trade—the customers are kipping' (sleeping): Julian Franklyn.

kipper trip. An anglers' special train: railwaymen's: C.20. Railway.

kippers. See box kippers. In phrases like 'He couldn't box kippers—he's no boxer.

kipping(-)house (often pron. kippin' ahse) is a low s. var. of kip-house: C.20. Eustace Jervis, Twenty-Five Years, 1925.

kipps. Bed; sleep: C.20. (Michael Harrison, 1943.) On kip, n., 2, 4.

kipsey. A house; the home: low Aus.:—1916 (C.J. Dennis). ? ex kipsey, a wicker-basket, influenced by kip, n., 3.—2. (Also kipsie.) A cheap lodging-house: Aus.: since ca. 1910. Tom Ronan, Vision Splendia, 1954, and Only a Short Walk, 1961.

kirk. A brick: back s.:—1859 (H., 1st ed.).

kirk, v.i. To break into a house while its occupants are at church: c.:—1933 (Charles E. Leach). See also kirkling.

kirk and a mill of, make a. To make the best of: C.18.—2. To use as one wishes: C.19–20. (Galt.) Both senses are Scots coll. OED.

kirkier is Scots > gen. coll. in Auld Kirker and Free Kirker: from ca. 1880. (The secession was in 1843.)

Kirke's (wrongly Kirk's) Lambs. The 2nd Foot, British Army: military: 1682; but in C.19–20 merely historical. Ex its first colonel, Percy Kirke (d. 1691), and ex the Paschal Lamb on its colours.

kirkling; crack'ng a kirk, vbl nn. Breaking into a dwelling while its occupants are at kirk or church: c.; from ca. 1850. Cf. US c. kirk-buzzer.

kish. A cushion; a small, flat, square squab used for sitting on and for carrying books: Marlborough College: late C.19–20. By corruption of 'cushion'. Also spelt kysh.—2. In (one's) kish, quite at home and well pleased: tailors': from ca. 1860. Perhaps cf. S.E. cushion, or cushy.—3. See: kish!; keep kish. Cave!; to keep watch: Scottish Public Schools': since ca. 1870. (Ian Miller, School Tie, 1935.) Ex cave! + hist! or whish!

kisky. Drunk; stupid with drink: ca. 1860–1930. Perhaps ex fuddled speech or ex Romany kushto, good (cf. feel pretty good) or else, as Baumann suggests, on frisky and whisky.

kismisses. 'The raisins issued as rations in Indian waters': nautical: late C.19–20. Bowen. ? ex Hindustani.

kiss. As the sexual favour, S.E.—2. 'A drop of wax by the side of the seal' of a letter: coll. (mostly rural): from ca. 1825; ob. Thackeray, Dickens.—3. (Gen. pl.) A full-stop: shorthand-typists':—1935.

kiss (one's) aircraft goodbye. To bale out: RAF aircrews': WW2. H. & P.

kiss-curl. A small curl lying on cheek or temple: coll. (in C.20, S.E.): from 1854, says Ware. Punch, 1856, 'those pastry-cook's girl's ornaments called kiss-curls'.

kiss me, Hardy! A joc., nonsense c.p.: late C.19–20. Given fresh impetus by the 'dovetail' retort, dating from WW2 or earlier, 'Kiss [you] my arse! I'm next in line for Admiral' L.A., 1976, notes the usu. London form 'Kiss me, 'Ardy, and I die 'appy' (always unspirated), always extrovert. Ex Nelson's famous, and prob. mythical, last words. Some historians (?) have supposed that he said Kismet, Hardy—which I doubt.

kiss-me-quick. A small bonnet, once fashionably worn on the back of the head: 1852 (OED): coll. >, ca. 1890, S.E.—2. A 'kiss-curl', q.v.: from ca. 1890; ob.: coll. >, in C.20, S.E.

kiss me, sergeant! A military c.p. to a sergeant when unusually officious or to the orderly sergeant ordering 'Lights out!': 1914–18. B. & P.—2. E.P. notes the use of this phrase in the late 1940s, 'satirising the mollycoddling of recruits'. The phrase had gone by 1953: I think it is possible that E.P. was confusing it with a popular song of WW2, 'Kiss me goodnight, Sergeant-major', for which see Martin Page's comprehensive anthology so titled (pub'd 1973). (P.B.) kiss my arse! A contemptuous dismissive, from 'time immemorial'. (Also as adj.) Cf. the old proverbs, He that doth kiss and do no more, may kiss behind and not before and Kiss one where one sat on Saturday (or Sunday). (Apperson.) See also easy as damn..., and esp. DCpp.

kiss my foot! Rubbish!: Aus.: late C.19–20. (Baker.) Also Brit. and Can. But the prec. is much commoner, everywhere.

kiss my hand. See easy as damn it.

kiss my tail! A contemptuous retort: C.18–19. Var. of kiss my arse!

kiss of death, the. A fatal, or at the least a very dangerous, contact: coll.: since ca. 1950. Ex Judas's kissing of Jesus, thence to any other callous betrayal; perhaps with a famous US thriller of that title intervening. Dr Brian Foster, in The Changing English Language, 1968, defines it as 'an apparently advantageous action which in reality will bring trouble or destruction' and adds that it 'seems to be a fairly new expression, current in speech for some time before it was met with in writing. A recent instance from the Observer supplement clearly illustrates the meaning. "Allying with Churchill was regarded as the political kiss of death even in 1939" (Sep. 18, 1966).' In his The New Language of Politics, New York, 1968, William Safire defines it as 'unwelcome support from an unpopular source'.

kiss of life, the. 'Used jocularly of the usual type of kiss between lovers' (Petch, 1966): since ca. 1964. Ex mouth-to-mouth resuscitations, and, like that, in contradistinction to the prec.

kiss the babe. To take a drink: bon viveurs':—1913 (A.H. Dawson, Dict. of Slang); †.

kiss the book on that, you can. A coll. c.p. dating from ca. 1890 and = 'it's a dead cert!'

kiss the Clink, the Counter. To be confined in the Clink (see clink, n.) or in the Counter prison: mid-C.16–18 coll. (J. Wall, Rowlands.) A C.19 var was get the clinch, q.v. at clinch, 1.

kiss the cross (?Cross). To be knocked out; in, e.g., boxing: Aus.: since ca. 1925. B., 1943.

kiss the dealer! A c.p. used 'when four players throw down cards numbered ace, two, three and four of a suit on a single trick' (Baker): Aus.: C.20.

kiss the hare's foot. To be (too) late. See hare's foot, 1.

kiss the maid. To lose one's head in an early form of the guillotine: late C.17–mid-18. B.E.

kiss the master. To hit the jack: bowls: ca. 1570–1660. Gosson.

kiss the parson's wife. To be lucky in horseflesh: semi-proverbial coll.: late C.18–mid-19. Grose (3rd ed.) gives a somewhat longer form.

kiss the Pope's toe. Respectfully to set one's lips to the golden cross on the Pope's right sandal: 1768, the Earl Carlisle: s. > ca. 1890, coll. OED.

kisser. The mouth: pugilists' (—1860) >, ca. 1900, gen. low s. Often in phrase 'a smack in the kisser', a punch in the mouth. P.B.: Punch, 30 Nov. 1861, p. 224, has a paragraph headed 'A Real "Smack on the Kisser"', which seems to show that this phrase was then already quite widely known outside boxing circles. Cf. kissing-trap.—2. A baby: Romanies' and tramps' s.: since ca. 1920. So many women kiss it.

kissers. The lips: boxers': late C.19—early 20.

kisses. Shares in the Hotchkiss Ordnance Company: Stock Exchange: ca. 1890—1910.

kissing bug. A (young) man intent on kissing: Can. C.20; by 1940, ob. 'Fifty years ago,' writes Leechman in May 1959, 'Canadian girls on a picnic might cry the warning, "There's a kissing bug about!"' With a pun on the true kissing bug, a blood-sucking insect of N. America.

kissing cousins. Cousins sufficiently close or familiar to allow mutual kissing; hence, loosely, friends unrelated by either blood or marriage: Can. coll.: late C.19—20. (Leechman.) Also, in C.20, Aus. (B.P.) By 1940, at latest, S.E.

kissing-crust. The soft-baked surface between two loaves; also the under-crust in a pudding or pie' (F. & H.): coll.: 1708 (W. King's Art of Cookery); Barham, 'A mouldy piece of kissing-crust as from a warden pie.'

kissing-time (, it's); or half-past kissing-time (, it's time to kiss again). A c.p. (—1923) to children (continually) asking one what time it is. Manchon.—2. See half-past...

kis-ang-trap. The mouth: low and boxers': from ca. 1850; ob. On potato-trap, q.v.

kisswosh, kisswoasty. A thingummy: army: late C.19—mid-20. Perhaps ex a (?) Hindi word.

kistmugar. See kitmegur.

kit. A dancing-master, a fiddler: ca. 1720—1830. Ex kit, a small fiddle formerly much used by dancing-masters. A New Canting Dict.—2. A set, collection of things or (rarely in C.20) persons, esp. in the whole kit: coll.: 1785, Grose; Shelley, in Cædipus Tyrannus, 'I'll sell you in a lump the whole kit of them' (OED). Cf. the US whole kit and boodle. Prob. ex the military sense.—3. Hence, as an example of one specialisation of prec. sense: paint-kettle and -brushes: house-painters' coll.: late C.19—20.—4. As the whole kit, the male external genitals: low: since late C.19.

kit-check, have a. To vomit, usu. as a result of over-drinking: army: since late 1940s. Var. of lay out (one's) kit. (P.B.)

Kit has come. The monthly period is here: feminine: late C.19—20. Cf. (the) captain is at home.

Kitch. Field Marshal Kitchener: late C.19—early 20. Neil Lyons, Kitchener Chaps, 1915.—2. (Also as kitch.) A recruit in Lord Kitchener's New Army: army: late 1914—16. F. & G.—3. (kitch.) Kitchen: mostly lower and lower-middle class: since ca. 1920. (Norman.)

kitchema. A public house: market traders': C.20. (M.T.) Ex Romany: see kip, n., 1.

kitchen, the. The stomach (cf. victualling office, q.v.): low coll.: from ca. 1850.—2. The female pudend: low: from ca. 1860.—3. That part of the Monte Carlo casino which 'caters' for small-stakes habitués: C.20. Mrs Belloc Lowndes, The House by the Sea, 1937.—4. See go into the kitchen, to drink tea from the saucer.—5. 'I knew him to be the second percussion player—one of the "Kitchen", in orchestral slang' (Thomas Wood, True Thomas, 1936: P.B.).

kitchen co, kitchen mort. Awdeley's variants (1561) of kinchen co(e) and kinchen mort, qq.v.

kitchen range. Change (of scene or costume): theatrical rhyming s.: C.20. Franklyn, Rhyming.

kitchen sink. In (usu. throw in) everything but the kitchen sink, applied notably to a bombardment: WW2. Hence, since 1945, to an intense collective effort. Mrs C. Raab notes, 1982, its derivative, almost lit., use when applied to e.g. those tourists or campers who pack everything conducive to home comfort, by those who prefer to carry little more than a toothbrush. P.B.: by later C.20. often in the form (e.g. their car seemed to contain) everything including the kitchen sink.

kitchen stoves (singular rare). Cloves: Aus. rhyming s.: C.20. Franklyn 2nd.

kitcheener. A thief haunting a 'thieves' kitchen': c.: from ca. 1840.

Kitcheener wants you! A military c.p. to a man selected for filthy, arduous or perilous work: 1915—16. (B. & P.) Ex a famous enlistment-poster.

Kitcheener's mob. A late 1914—15 military coll. for 'the men who joined up in response to Lord Kitchener's Appeal, in Aug., 1914' (F. & G.). Cf. Kitch, 1 and 2, q.v.

kitchenite. 'A loafing compositor frequenting the kitchen of the Compositors' Society house' (F. & H.): printers': from ca. 1870.

kitchin-coes is Randle Holme's var. of kinchen coes.

kitchy-ko. The noise made by adults when tickling an infant: C.19—20. Ex Irish dial. kitchy, kitchy, kaw, 'used to a baby when tossing it in the arms' (EDD).

kite, as a shark or sharper, or in gen. detestation, is S.E.—2. An accommodation bill; a bill of exchange, esp. if worthless: commercial: 1805 (SOD). Hence fly a kite, to 'raise the wind' by such bills.—3. Hence, a cheque; esp. a blank or a worthless cheque: c.: C.20. (Edgar Wallace, The Gunner, 1928.) See also kite-lark and fly a kite, 2.—4. Any type of aircraft: RAF: from ca. 1919; ob. by ca. 1950, but still, 1983, occ. heard ironically, as in the exclam. by an anonymous voice in a BBC Radio programme about the 'Red Arrows' formation aerobatics team, 'To the kites, chaps!' In the earliest days of aviation, aeroplanes looked like, and were called, box-kites. Early in the Great War (1914—18) design changed, and "box" was dropped. But kite was not generally used by the Royal Flying Corps till 1917—18, when "crate" came to be confined to obsolescent or obsolete types, "kite" taking its place. It has since been the most generally used slang-word for "an aircraft" (Jackson).—5. Belly: low: mid-C.19—early 20. Ware records blow out the kite as a Cockney phrase, to have a full stomach.—6. In pull a kite, to make a face, to grimace: c.:—1887 (Baumann).—7. A ship's sail: nautical: C.20. Sydney Parkman, Captain Bowker, 1946.

—8. A newspaper: Aus. low: later C.20. McNeil.—9. An omnibus. See barrow, 2.—10. See bill, 7.

kite, v. To move like a kite through the air; also fig.: coll.: 1863, Le Fanu, 'He has been "kiting" all over the town' (OED).—2. V.i., same as fly a kite: see kite, n., 2: from ca. 1860: commercial.—3. As v.t., to convert into an accommodation bill, it is not very gen.: from ca. 1900: commercial.

kite blue. A worthless cheque: Aus. c.: C.20. See AUSTRALIAN UNDERWORLD, in Appendix, and kite, n., 3.

kite-dropper. An issuer of worthless cheques: since ca. 1945. (Peter Sanders.) Cf. kite, n., 3.

kite-flyer. One who raises money or maintains credit by the issuing of bills of exchange and/or accommodation: commercial: from ca. 1830. See kite, n., 2.—2. Hence, a passer of worthless cheques: c.:—1935 (David Hume).

kite-flying. The vbl n. corresponding to the prec. senses 1 and 2: resp. from ca. 1820 and in C.20.—2. Whoremongering: low: ca. 1820—60. 'Jon Bee'.

kite-lark. (With lark, cf. the c. senses of law and lay.) 'Stealing letters in transit, removing any cheques they may contain, and, after suitable manipulation, cashing them at the banks': c.: C.20. A gang that operates this 'racket' is known as a kite mob. (Charles E. Leach, On Top of the Underworld, 1933.) See kite, n., 3.

kite-man. A crook specialising in cheques and bills of exchange: from ca. 1920. (See kite, n., 2, 3.) Edgar Wallace, The Double, 1928.

kite-mob. See kite-lark.

kite; kiting, n. An issuer, or the issuing, of worthless cheques: c.: since ca. 1930. (G.F. Newman, Sir, You Bastard, 1970.) See kite, n., 3, and kite-flyer.

kites. The practice of forging cheques, and/or issuing cheques against a merely nominal bank-balance: c.: C.20. (Gilt Kid, 1936.) Ex kite, n., 3.

kitmegur. An under-butler, a footman: Anglo-Indian (Bengal) coll.: from ca. 1750. More correctly kitmutgar or khedmutgar, khid; kistmutgar is an † sol. Y. & B.

kitna. See kidna.

kitsch. Rubbish or trash: in any of the arts, such work as is inferior or pretentious or in poor or dubious taste: since the late 1960s: s. rapidly > coll. >, in literary or artistic or musical circles, j. Chambers's C.20th Dict., 1972 ed.—whose definition I paraphrase—gives it as S.E., without modification or comment; so also the COD of 1976. Not Yiddish but Ger., it comes from kitschen, to throw together, esp. if hastily; hence the n., a work devoid of aesthetic value. Imported from the US. (With thanks to Dr Joseph T. Shipley.) kitten, n. A pint or half-pint pewter pot: c.: mid-C.19—early 20. See cat and kitten...

kitten, v. To be brought to bed of a child: low coll.: C.19—early 20.

kittens. Esp. in having kittens, nervous, agitated; 'all hot and bothered': from ca. 1933. (The Times, 15 Feb. 1937.) Ex a cat's perturbation during this crisis. Since ca. 1938, also having a baby and, among RAF officers of ca. 1940–5, having a set of metal jugs (? cf. kitten, n.). P.B.: in later C.20, as frequent in the form, e.g., 'I nearly had kittens'.—2. In like kittens in a basket, (of two girls that are) very friendly to each other: WAFF: ca. 1942–5. H. & P.

kitties, -ys. Effects, furniture, stock: s. or coll.: late C.18—mid-19. Grose, 3rd ed.

little cargo. A clergyman: nautical s. (—1923) verging on coll. (Manchon.) Ex necessity to mind one's language.

little-pitchering. 'A jocular method of hobbling or bothering a troublesome teller of long stories' (Grose, 1st ed.) by constant inquiries about minor points: ca. 1780–1850.

Kitty. The inevitable naval, hence military, nickname of any man surnamed Wells: late C.19–20. (Bowen.) Ex some naval celebrity or 'character'.—2. A Kittyhawk fighter aircraft (1941–2): RAF coll.: Brickhill & Norton, Escape to Danger, 1946.—3. See:—

kitty. The prison at Durham; hence, esp. in the N. of Eng., any prison: 1825: s. and dial. (Hone.) ?ex kid-cote.—2. In card games, the pool: 1892, Daily Chronicle, 5 Mar.: coll. >, in C.20, S.E.—3. A pet-name form of kitten: C.18–20: coll. till C.19, then S.E.—4. for kittys, pl only, see kitties.—5. (The Kitty) The female pudend: mostly card-players': late C.19–20. Suggested by the synon. pussy, q.v. at puss, 1.—6. (The Kitty) The jack at bowls: London and Southern bowls-players': current in 1970s. (Maurice Butcher, 1979.) The Midland version is synon. the pot.

kitz. See put on the kitz.

livey. A man, fellow, chap: ca. 1850–1930: low. (Bradley, in Verdant Green.) This diminutive of cove (see also covey) was possibly influenced by L. civis, a citizen.

Kiwi, kiwi. 'A man on ground duty and not qualified for flying service' (F. & G.): RFC/RAF: from ca. 1917; superseded, by WW2 at latest, by penguin—another flightless bird.—2. A New Zealander: orig. Aus., then gen. Eng. coll.: C.20. (B., 1942.) New Zealanders have retained their national title from World War II and are widely known to other soldiers as "Kiwis": Iddiwah (the NZ periodical in Korea), July 1953: United Nations troops: ca. 1951–5. And Brit. Services ever since. Cf. Fernleaves, q.v.

kiwi (or Kiwi) king. 'Any officer fussy about polish': military: 1916–18. (B. & P.) Ex 'A well-known dressing for leather'.

klaar. Ready (1852); clear (—1912): S. African coll. Ex Dutch klaar, which is used in both these senses. Pettman.

klep, n. A thief: from ca. 1880. A somewhat low abbr. of kleptomaniac.

klep, v. To steal: from ca. 1885; ob. Ex prec.

klepto. A kleptomaniac: since ca. 1920.

klina(h). See cliner. A rare spelling.—2. Adj. Very poor: Aus. c.: C.20. Ex Ger. klein, little.

klip. A diamond: S. African diamond fields' s. >, by 1920, coll.: from mid-1880s. (Matthews, Incwadi Yami, 1887.) Ex Cape Dutch klip, a rock, a pebble. Pettman. Cf.:

klip, v. To put a stone behind (a wheel) to prevent a vehicle from running backwards: S. African coll.: 1878 (Roche, On Trek in the Transvaal). For origin, cf. the n. Pettman.

klobber. See clobber.

klondyke. Money easily obtained: Glasgow:—1934. Cf. bonanza for semantics.

klondyke, adj. Mad: lower classes': 1897—ca. 1914. (Ware.) Ex Klondyke gold-fever.

klondyking, n. 'Catching herring on Dogger Bank, salting, barrelling at sea, sailing to Russia to sell it' (Peppitt): North Sea fishing trade s.: from ca. 1890; in the 1930s applied to taking fish to Germany. Hence klondyker, a North Sea captain (or owner) who does this. With a pun on Klondyke mines and 'gold-fever'. D. Butcher, Trawlermen, 1980, notes klondyke herring for the fish thus exported to Germany.

kloop. A coll. imitation of a cork being drawn: from ca. 1870.

klootch, an Indian woman of the Canadian Pacific Coast, is short for the synon. klootchman, a Chinook jargon word ex Nootka Indian: Can.: C.20. (Leechman.)

Klosh. Var. spelling of Closh, q.v. (Bowen.)

klutz. A stupid lout: adopted, ca. 1970, ex US. (An Observer TV review, 17 June 1973.) Via Yiddish ex the coll. Ger. Klotz, blockhead, lout. (R.S., 1973.)

kn- Common to the Teutonic languages, but, in S.E., silent since C.17. In C.20 'there has been a s. tendency to reintroduce the k- sound in knut, Knightsbridge' (W.). Cf. the joc. pron. (connotative also of emphasis) of twenty as ter-wenty.

knab, and compounds. See naab.

knacked. Contraction of knackered, q.v.: teenagers': early 1980s. (Joanna Williamson, 1982.) Cf. knick-knacked.

knacker, n. An old and worn-out horse: coll. ex dial.: from ca. 1858. H., 1st ed.; W. Bradwood.

knacker, v. (gen. in passive). To kill; ruin: c. or perhaps merely low s.:—1887 (Baumann). Ex S.E., to slaughter a horse.—2. (Rare except as knackered, ppl adj.) To rob (a person) of something: Conway cadets:—1891 (J. Masfield, The Conway, 1933).—3. To geld, castrate: Aus.: since ca. 1860. (Brian Penton, Inheritors, 1936. Ex knackers, 1.)—4. See knackered.

knacker crusher. A rough road or a pothole: motorcyclists': since mid-C.20. (Dunford.) Ex knackers, 1.

knackered. See knacker, v.—2. Thwarted; in a predicament: low: C.20. Ex knackers, 1; cf. balls-up, ballsed up.—3. (Usu. physically) exhausted. Occ., as adj., knackering, as in 'that new assault course is absolutely bloody knackerin'g'. Both, Services': since ca. 1950, (? much earlier). (P.B.)

knackers. The testicles, occ. of animals: low: C.19–20. Prob. ex dial. knacker, a castanet or other 'striker'. P.B.: hence, also, as exclam. = nonsense!, or in a dismissive, e.g., 'knackers to you, mate!': cf. identical use of synon. balls and ballocks. A retort to knackers! is, sometimes, yours or mine?—2. The shares of Harrison, Barber & Co., Ltd (horse-slaughterers): Stock Exchange: ca. 1890–1910. A.J. Wilson, Stock Exchange Glossary.

knap and compounds. For those not found hereunder, see nap.

knap, n. A cheating trick at dice: ca. 1650–1720: ?orig. c. > j. > S.E. 'Hudibras' Butler (OED).—2. 'A manual retort rehearsed and arranged' (F. & H.): theatre: ca. 1850–1900.—3. A sham blow, as in give or take the knap: ca. 1850–1900.

knap, to strike crisply, is S.E.—2. Its other senses, receive, endure, steal, all derive from that of 'to take': c. or low: from ca. 1810. Vaux; H., 1864, 'Oh, my! won't he just knap it if he can!', i.e. take anything if there's a chance. (Cf. the Whitby knap, a person not strictly honest.) In combination:—knap a clout, to steal a handkerchief; knap the swag, to grab the booty; knap seven penn'orth, to be sentenced to seven years: all being c.

knap a jacob from a danna- (or dannaken-, dunnigen-) drag. To steal a ladder from a nightcart: c.: ca. 1810–90. Vaux; Egan's Grose.

knap a hot un. To receive a hard punch: boxing: from ca. 1820; ob.

Knap is concerned, Mr; Mr Knap's been there. She is pregnant: low: ca. 1810–1910. (Vaux, 1812; Egan's Grose, 1823.) See knapped.

knap the glim. To catch VD: c.: C.19. Vaux's spelling: see nap, n., 1.

knap the rust. To become (very) angry: c.: C.19.

knap the stoop. To be made 'inspector of pavements', q.v.: ca. 1820–70.

knapped, be. To be pregnant: low: ca. 1820–90. (Egan's Grose.) See Knap is ...

knapper. See napper.

knappers. Knees: from ca. 1760; since ca. 1820, dial.; ob. by 1920. T. Brydges (OED).

knapper's poll. A sheep's head: late C.18–early 19 c. Grose's (in 2nd ed.) var. of nap, n., 4. knapping-jigger. A turnpike or toll gate: c.: mid-C.19. (Ainsworth.) H., 1st ed, 1859, records dub at the k-j, to pay at the turnpike. Perhaps cf. nap, v., 2 and 3, or napping, cheating.

knapsack descent. A soldier or soldiers in every generation of a family: non-aristocratic coll.: late C.19–20. Ware.

knark. A later C.19 var. of nark, q.v. In Mayhew; Baumann.

knat. A hard task; a tyrant; a person not easily fooled: tailors': later C.19. Perhaps cognate with gnat.

knave. A dunce: Christ's Hospital School: ca. 1820–1920.

knave in grain. A corn-factor, a miller: joc. coll.: late C.17–mid-19. B.E., 1699, at Pack of Knaves; Grose, 2nd ed.

knave's acre. A mid-C.16–early 17 var. of weeping cross, q.v. See also beggar's bush for a pertinent quot'n.

knave's grease. A flogging: C.17 joc. coll. Withals's Dict. knee, v. Short for knee him in the balls: low coll.: C.20. Euph. variants: hit him where he'll feel it and hit him where it hurts him most, both dating from ca. 1930.

knee-drill. Kneeling, to order, for prayers: Salvation Army j. (1882) >, ca. 1895, joc. coll., gen. used loosely as = praying. Ware.

knee-high to a grasshopper. Very small or young: coll.: adopted, ca. 1890, ex US. Thornton notes, in American Glossary, 1912, variants ... to a mosquito or a duck, but grasshopper is the predominant C.20 form in UK, as in Can. (Leechman). An Aus. C.20 version is ... to a daisy (B.P.). Often in 'since I (he, etc.) was ...'

knee-trembler. A standing sexual embrace: low coll.: from ca. 1850; in C.20 predominant meaning is 'copulation in a standing position', as in 'We hadn't got long, so she gave me a knee-trembler'. Also, occ., have a knee-tremble. (E.P.; P.B.)

kneeling on it, you're. Your hair is too long: Guards' Regiments' c.p.: C.20. By ca. 1950, borrowed by drill instructors in the rest of the Army, in such forms of heavy sarcasm as 'Am I hurting you? No? I ought to be—I'm kneeling on your hair' (to a recruit whose neck-hairs were barely visible).

knees. In sit on (one's) knees, to kneel down: coll.: C.19–early 20.—2. On (one's) knees, exhausted physically, as after a route-march, or a long day's grinding housework: since ca. 1920.—3. See get your knees brown, 'get some tropical service in!'

knees-up. A jovial evening, esp. with some kind of dance: mostly Londoners': since ca. 1945. Ex the song (and dance) 'Knees up, Mother Brown'. (A.G.E. Jones, 1978.)

kneller. See knuller.

knick-knack, trinket, is S.E.; female pudend, low, C.19–20.

knick-knacked. Euph. for knackered, ruined (see knacker, v., 1), when the derivation has become confused with that of knackers: coll.: mid-1970s. (P.B.) knicker. Incorrect for nicker.

knicker-nicker. A C.20 version of the various names for stealers of clothes from clothes-lines (Petch). A ca. 1960 var. is knicker-spong'er, but he is one who specialises in 'lifting' women's knickers. (P.B.) Cf. knickers bandit, snow-dropping.

knicker-sticker. Woman traffic warden: motorcyclists': 1970s. (Dunford.)

knicker-twisting, adj. From knickers in a twist, q.v., esp. senses 2 and 3.

knickers, n. Men's knickers; women's drawers: a coll. abbr. of knickerbockers, >, in later C.20, informal S.E.: since 1881 (SOD).—2. See grip, n., 5, and knickers in a twist.

knickers! A piece of abuse borrowed from the school playground, where it is a 'naughty' word (cf. stocking-tops!); euph. for knackers, 1: 1970s. Powis notes, 'A (usually) not unfriendly rebuff. For example: "Jim, lend me a quid"; reply, "Knickers!" As an example of genuine primary-school use, early 1970s, the riddle: "What is it that sits on the water shouting "knickers!""?—'Crude oil'. (P.B.) A c.p. comment on the exclam. is yours—or clean ones?

knickers and stockings. A term of penal servitude: c.: —1932 ('Stuart Wood', Shades of the Prison House).

knickers are (or were) on fire, as if her. In a state of flustered fear and excitement: since ca. 1960. Petch, 'Used in the "Coronation Street" episode of 27 Jan. 1975.' (A long-running TV serial of working-class life.)

knickers bandit. 'A petty thief stealing from clothes lines' (Powis): police s.: later C.20. See bandit, and cf. lully-prigger, his C.18–19 counterpart.

knickers in a twist. Don't get your ..., don't become cantankerous or contentiously touchy: both among men (implying femininity) and from men to women: since ca. 1950. (L.A., 1976).—2. Get (one's) knickers in a twist, to get flustered, to panic: coll.: since ca. 1960 at latest. [A petty officer speaking:] 'Just pay attention to what I say and then we'll have nobody adrift or roundabout mid-forenoon getting his knickers in a twist' (Heart).—3. To be under a misapprehension, or muddled, about something, as ' 'fraid he's got his knickers in a twist on that one': since late 1960s: coll. Cf. get (one's) wires crossed, or have a leg over. This nuance perhaps influenced by the earlier, synon. get (one's) knitting twisted. (P.B.) Cf. grip, n., 5, q.v. knickers to you (or him, etc.)! See knickers!

knicks. Women's drawers: C.20. Abbr. knickers, q.v.

knife. A sword: M.E.—mod. E.: literary till C.19, when it > military coll. (—2. As = to stab, it is, despite F. & H., ineligible; as = to strike at secretly, it is American).—3. A shrew: lowest London: C.19. Ware, 'Suggestive of being "into you" in a moment.'—4. To 'blue-pencil' (a manuscript): theatrical: ca. 1880–1915. (Ware.) Punning cut.—5. In before one can (or could) say "knife", very swiftly, quickly, or suddenly: coll.: 1880 (Mrs Parr, Adam and Eve); 'Rolf Boldrewood'; Kipling (OED). Perhaps slightly less common than ... say "Jack Robinson", q.v. at Jack Robinson, 2.

Knife and Fork, the. The Master Cutler, the express train running between Sheffield and London: railwaymen's: C.20. McKenna, Glossary, 1970.—2. In lay down (one's) knife and fork, to die: low coll.: from ca. 1860. (S.E., however, is play a good knife and fork.)

knife-and-fork course. Course for servicemen commissioned from the ranks: Services', esp. RN lowerdeck: WW2. (Douglas Rendell, Brit. Jnl of Photography, 13 June 1980.) Supposedly to teach course-members manners acceptable to an officers' mess. (P.B.)

knife and fork tea. High tea: lower-middle class's coll.: 1874; slightly ob. Ware.

knife-board. A street running lengthways on the roof of an omnibus: 1852 (SOD): coll. >, ca. 1890, S.E. Leech's cartoon in Punch, 15 May 1852 (OED).

knife-edge. A sand-dune ridge in the N. African desert: Aus. army: 1940–2. B., 1943.

knife it. To decamp; esp. as imperative, stop!, go away!, run!: low:—1812; ob. (Vaux; H., 1st ed.) Cf. cut it out!

knifer. A sponging shark: low: ca. 1890–1930. F. & H.—2. A rough apt to stab with a knife: low:—1905 (OED Sup.) knifey. (Of a person, esp. a customer) that cuts things painfully fine when dealing in the money-market: stock-brokers:—1935.

kniff-knaff. Some kind of jest: ca. 1680–1700. E. Hooker (OED).

knifish. Spiteful: tailors': ca. 1860–1930.

knight and barrow pig. 'More hog than gentleman. A saying of any low pretender to precedence' (Grose, 1st ed.): c.p. of ca. 1780–1840.

knight of the ... 'Forming various jocular (formerly often slang) phrases denoting one who is a member of a certain trade or profession, has a certain occupation or character, etc.' (OED). Most are ironical (cf. carpet-knight, q.v.) and orig. were, prob., derisive, of the many sets or classes of knights and/or of the various orders of knighthood. Some are c., some s., some coll., some S.E., even literary, and long demoded. A few arose in C.16, many in C.17–18; the numerous C.19 additions are s. or coll.; the practice is, fortunately, †. [Where dated 'ob.' add 'by ca. 1930'.] The principal phrases—drawn mostly from OED and F. & H.—are these:—awl, a cobbler (in Sinks, 1848);—blade, a bully: late C.17–18: c. > s.—brush, an artist (—1885): coll.; also, a house-painter: joc. coll.: from ca. 1890; ob.—brush and moon, a drunken fellow (Sinks, 1848);—cleaver, a butcher: joc. coll.: early C.19—early 20. Moe cites Spirit of the Times, 23 Nov. 1839 (p. 446, col. 2): although an American publication, it implied a Brit. source:—cloth, a tailor: ca. 1790–1860. The Port Folio, quoting a 'London paper', records it on 31 Dec. 1803 (p. 442);—collar, one who has been hanged: ca. 1550–1660.—cue, a billiard-marker: joc. coll.: 1887 (OED); †.—elbow, a sharpening gambler: late C.17—mid-18.—field, a tramp: C.16—early 17.—forked order or (without the) Hornsey: joc.: resp. ca. 1660–1750, ca. 1630–1700. (Cf. order of the fork, below.)—grammar, a schoolmaster: perhaps merely literary: ca. 1690–1740.—green cloth, a gambler: adopted, ex US, ca. 1885; † by ca. 1930;—hod, a bricklayer (Sinks, 1848);—Hornsey. See forked order, above.—industry (the being occ. omitted): from ca. 1650: prob. literary. Fr. chevalier d'industrie.—jemmy, a burglar: Society: late C.19—early 20. Ware.—knife, a cutpurse: C.17. Jonson.—lapstone, a cobbler: joc. coll.: C.19–20; ob.—napkin, a waiter: from ca. 1850: joc.; ob.—needle, shears, thimble, a tailor: resp. 1778, Footie; from ca. 1780, Grose (1st ed.); late C.18–20, Grose, 1st ed. All orig. joc. s. or coll. but by 1860, almost S.E.—order of the fork, one who digs with a fork: joc. coll.: from ca. 1620. (J. Taylor the Water Poet.) Contrast forked order, above.—pen, a clerk or (cf. Quell) an author: from ca. 1860; ob.: resp. joc. coll. and near-literary.—pencil, a bookmaker: joc.: from ca. 1880; ob. or †.—pestle, an apothecary: C.17–20; ob.: joc. coll.—petticoat, a brothel's bully: low coll.: ca. 1880–1910.—pigskin, a jockey: sporting. Sporting Times, 26 Nov. 1898. 'Riding rings round their crack knights of the pigskin'.—piss-pot, a physician or an apothecary: from ca. 1860; ob.—pit, a fancier of cock-fighting: from ca. 1870; ob.: joc. coll. or perhaps journalistic.—post, a notorious and/or a professional perjurer: from ca. 1580; ob.: c. till ca. 1750, then s.; since ca. 1840, S.E. Also, the K. of the P., Titus Oates of the Popish Plot: C.17. (The most widely used of all.) Nashe, Ford, Mrs Centlivre, W.T. Moncrieff. ?ex (fit for) the whipping-post. F. & H.'s other sense is suspect: see whipping-post and knighted in Bridewell.—quill, an author: late C.17–20; ob.: coll. soon > S.E.—rainbow, a footman: ca. 1780–1880. Grose, 1st ed.—road, a highwayman, esp. a notable one: from ca. 1660: c. till ca. 1750, then s.; from ca. 1840, S.E. and literary. In C.19, occ. a footpad, and in C.20 a tramp. In late C.19–20, occ. a 'commercial', (OED Sup.)—rumpad, the same: c.: ca. 1815–40. Moore.—shears. See needle.—spigot, tapster or publican: from ca. 1820; ob.: joc. coll. Scott.—sun, an adventurer: literary: from ca. 1720; † by 1910. Punning the Knights of the Golden Sun, an order of chivalry.—thimble. See needle.—trencher. A good trencher-man: from ca. 1780: joc. Grose, 2nd ed.—triple tree, a prisoner (Roger Boyle, Mr Anthony (at I, i), 1672).—vapour, a smoker: C.17; perhaps a nonce-word (Taylor the 'Water Poet').—wheel, a cyclist: prob. S.E.: from ca. 1880; ob.—whip, a coachman: from ca. 1810; ob.: joc. s. > coll. Bee.—whipping-post, a disreputable person, esp. a sharper: ca. 1815–60. Scott.—yard, a shop-assistant: ca. 1885–1910.

knighted in Bridewell or bridewell, be. To be whipped in prison: late C.16–17. Cf. knight of the post and of the whipping-post, qq.v.

Knight's. Shares in the Witswatersrand Mining Company: Stock Exchange:—1895 (A.J. Wilson, Stock Exchange Glossary).

knights. See guest of the cross-legged ...

knight's service. See TAVERN TERMS, §9, in Appendix.

knit it! Stop!; 'shut up!': Glasgow:—1934. Cf. keep nit.

knits. Knitted comforts, esp. garments, for Service men and women: feminine coll.: WW2. Superseded, in later C.20, by knitteds, applied to knitted garments in general.

knitting. Girls generally or one girl particularly: RAF: since ca. 1930. (Jackson.) Also piece of knitting (Partridge, 1945). It belongs to the homework genus of metaphor, and was used by RN and army also, in WW2.—2. Minesweeping gear. See knitting's out.

knitting-needle. A sword: military: ca. 1850–1910. Cf. tooth-pick, 3.

knitting twisted, get (one's), as in 'You've got your ...', you're wrongly informed; you're getting one fact or incident or statement confused with another: since ca. 1950. (L.A., 1976.) Cf. get (one's) wires crossed and get (one's) knickers in a twist, q.v. at knickers in a twist, 3.

knitting's out (often prec. by her). RN c.p. applied, WW2, to a minesweeper with her gear over the side. P-G-R.

knob, n. and v., and compounds. In many senses it is interchangeable with, a var. spelling of, nob, q.v. E.P. tried to be consistent with S.E. spellings, and I adhere to his orig. arrangement. (P.B.)

knob, n. The head: from ca. 1720. Hence, one on the knob, a blow on the head (Grose). Gen. nob.—2. Abbr. knobstick, q.v.: 1838 (SOD).—3. A 'nob' or 'big wig': see nob, n. 4. Cf.:—4. An officer: naval: ?mid-C.17—mid-19. Bowen, 'Apparently introduced into the British service with the amalgamation with the Scottish Navy.'—5. (Also nob.) A doubled-headed penny in the game of two-up: Aus., hence also NZ: late C.19–20. Jean Devanney, 1928.—6. (Also nob.) Penis; playing with one's nob, male masturbation: low: late C.19–20. With ref. to glans penis. Indeed, knob also = glans penis, as in a knob like a policeman's (or bobby's) helmet, applied to a circumcised penis, esp. if noticeably large: since ca. 1920. (L.A., 1977.). Hence, bobby's helmet, too = glans penis (P.B.). Cf. the army c.p. at display of feminine flesh, get in there, knob, it's your birthday, with which, again, cf. get in, knob, you're posted, q.v. Sense 6 is, in both nuances, so very widespread that from it there has arisen the further c.p.: you wouldn't knob it, 'you wouldn't think, or realise, it'—with the implication that the speaker does know. Cf. you wouldn't chuckle; you wouldn't knob it; and get a knob, qq.v.

knob, v. To hit: early C.19 coll. Prob. ex hit on the knob. P.B.: or perhaps hit with the knob: cf. nut in this sense.—2. See n., 6.

knob of a chair and a pump handle, a. A c.p. reply to an inquiry concerning what there is to eat; 'wait and see!': lower-middle class: from ca. 1890.

knob of suck. A piece of sweetmeat: provincial: C.19—early 20.

knob on to. To pay court to; fall in love with: Cockney:—1887; slightly ob. by 1930. Baumann.

knobber-up; knobbing-up, n. A shunter operating points in a marshalling yard; the operation: railwaymen's: ca. 1910. Railway.

Knobby is the inseparable nickname (occ., loosely, Nobby by confusion with Nobby Clark) of men surnamed Cole: from ca. 1890. Ex the associations of the phrase 'knobby coal (or, coals): cf. the associations in 'Happy Day', 'Dusty Rhodes', 'Smoky Holmes'.

knobby, n. A knobby opal: Aus. opal-miners' coll.: C.20. K.S. Prichard, The Black Opal, 1921.

knobby nose. A friar bird: Aus.: late C.19–20. Baker.

knobs. See with knobs on.—2. In make no knobs, not to hesitate or be scrupulous: coll.: ca. 1670–1770. Cf. make no bones about.

knobstick; occ. nobstick. A non-unionist; a workman that takes less than the agreed price or one who works while his fellows are on strike: workmen's: from ca. 1825; ob.: s. >, ca. 1870, coll. >, ca. 1900, S.E.—2. A master paying less than union wages: workmen's: from ca. 1850; s. >, ca. 1880, coll. >, ca. 1905, S.E. Mayhew.

knobsticked, be. To be beaten: railwaymen's: since ca. 1920. Railway.

knock, n. A copulation: low coll.: C.16–17. The term prob. 'wager underground', for it recurs in low Aus. s. of C.20. 'I had caused him to miss out on a knock... with Elaine' (Dick). See the v.—2. The penis: C.18–20. More gen. knocker.—3. A lame horse: horse-dealers': from ca. 1860. London Review, 18 June 1864, 'The knock... is a great favourite for horse-coping purposes, as he is often a fine-looking animal.'—4. An innings: cricketers' coll.: from ca. 1919. Vance Palmer, The Swayne Family, 1934.—5. A synonym of bonk, the: cyclists': since ca. 1945. Short for hunger-knock.—6. A promiscuous, easy girl: low Aus.: since ca. 1910. (Dick.)—7. Stolen goods: policemen's (mostly, N.E. England), also fringe of the underworld: since ca. 1950. (John Wainwright, Coppers Don't Cry, 1975.) Ex knock off, steal.—8. 'Used by anglers for a bite [by a fish]' (Petch, 1969): C.20.—9. In get the knock, to drink too much, become drunk: later C.19—early 20. Manchon, 1923, records synon. take the knock.—10. Also in get the knock, to be dismissed from employment; id. Cf. get the sack or push.—11. In take the knock, to lose to the bookmaker more than one can pay: the turf (—1890). Hence, from ca. 1895, to suffer a financial loss.—12. On the knock, shortening of on the knocker, on credit. Prob. influenced by on tick. Later C.20.—13. On the knock. 'Calling at houses, as canvassers, market researchers, etc.' (Petch, 1969): coll.: since late 1940s.—14. On the knock, engaged in hire-purchase: since ca. 1950. (Woman's Own, 28 Feb. 1968.) Cf. senses 12 and 13.

knock, v.t. and i. (Of a man) to have sexual intercourse (with): low coll.: late C.16–20. Florio, 'Cunnata, a woman knocked.' See nock, n., for poss. etym., and cf. the mainly US knocked-up, pregnant.—2. To rouse or summon one by knocking at his door, v.t.: coll.: C.18–19. Abbr. C.19–20 S.E. knock up.—3. To astound, alarm, confuse; to 'floor': coll.: from ca. 1715; ob. except in that knocks me!, that confounds or is too much for me.—4. To impress greatly, to 'fetch', to surprise: 1883, Referee, 6 May "'It's never too Late to Mend"... is knocking 'em at the Pavillion'. Cf. Chevalier's song title, 1892, 'Knocked 'em in the Old Kent Road'.—5. V.i., to welsh: racing c.:—1932. Prob. ex sense 3.—6. To be unable to make a move in a game, e.g. dominoes, when it is one's turn to do so: players': C.20. '(I'm) knocking' or 'Knock, knock!', prob. ex the signal of tapping the table to indicate the same thing.—7. To kill: Aus.: C.20. Vance Palmer, Legend for Sanderson, 1937.—8. To wound; esp. knocked, q.v., wounded: Aus. army: WW1 and 2. Rats, 1944.—9. To disparage: adopted ex US, ca. 1943 in UK, ca. 1944 in Aus.—10. To sell (a car) at a loss: secondhand dealers': since ca. 1950. (Sunday Times, 24 Oct. 1965.) Cf. knock down, v., 2.—11. To 'date', to flirt with (a girl): Aus.: since ca. 1920. Norman Lindsay, Saturdee, 1933—see quot'n at bum, v., 5.—12. 'To get an article or meal on credit and not pay, or pay by bad check' (Robin Cook, 1962): since ca. 1945. Cf. sense 5.

knock, as an intensive adv. 'Will you lend me some money?'—'No, will I knock!' North Country grammar-school s., since ca. 1955. Cf. heck and thump!; qq.v.: both may be euph. for fuck! used in this emphatic way.

knock-about (or -around), n. See knock-about man: and AUSTRALIAN UNDERWORLD, in Appendix.

knock about, v.i. To wander much, roam, gen. aimlessly: coll.: C.19, perhaps even late C.18. It occurs in W.N. Glascock, Sailors and Saints (I, 16), 1829, 'Had you been served as I was—kept knocking about the North Seas'. (Moe.) In C.20, however, one can say, e.g. 'He's knocked about the world for many years,' where knock=knock about, v.i. From ca. 1880, also knock (a)round.—2. To pass round, esp. in knock about the bub (drink): low:—1781; ob. G. Parker. knock-about, adj. Noisy and violent (e.g. comedians): theatre: 1891.—2. The n., a 'knock-about' performer or performance, is recorded four years earlier.—3. Abbr. of next.

knock-about man or hand. A handy man: Aus. coll.: from ca. 1875. W. Harcus, 1876, 'Knockabout hands, 17s. to 20s. per week'. Also (—1889) knock(-)about. Cf. rouseabout, q.v. Morris.

knock about spare. (Gen. as p. ppl.) To have nothing particular to do: military coll.: WW1. B. & P. knock acock, to 'floor'; astound: coll.: C.19. See cocked hat, 3.

knock all of a heap. See all of a heap.

knock along. An Aus. var. (commented on in the Tichborne case, 1874) of knock about, v., 1: later C.19, Ware.—2. V.i., to move on: army: earlier C.20.—3. (Often with together.) To get on (with a person): coll.: since ca. 1910.—4. To get through life, as 'Oh, we'll knock along all right', i.e. without too much difficulty, though perhaps in reduced circumstances: coll.: later C.20. (P.B.)

knock around. Var. of knock about, v., 1. As knock around with, to keep company with, as 'Who's she knocking around with now, then?' or 'He generally knocks around with his mates from the club': lowish coll.: C.20. (P.B.) knock at the cobbler's door. See cobbler's door.

knock(-)back, n. A refusal; a grave disappointment: coll.: C.20. A specialisation is 'a bad result re adjudication/petition/parole' (Home Office, 1978): prisoners'. The broader meaning is common also in Aus. and NZ.—2. A participation in a 'back-up': Aus. gangsters': since ca. 1945. (Dick.)

knock back, v. To cost a person so-much: coll.: C.20. 'That knocked him back a fiver.'—2. Hence, to fine: Cockney: since ca. 1910.—3. To refuse; to reject: mostly Aus.: C.20. (Kylie Tennant, Foveaux, 1939.) Cf. the n., 1.—4. To consume, usu. drink, less commonly, to eat: C.20. Cf. knock it back. Variants are knock over or just knock: B., 1942, records all three; the Eastbourne Herald (England), 6 May 1939: knockback.

knock bandy. To astound, 'flabbergast': tailors': from ca. 1860.

knock (someone's) block off. To punch him on the head; esp. as a joc. threat, I'll k. your b. off: since ca. 1870.

knock cold. To render (someone) unconscious by striking him; hence, to astound, to flabbergast: Aus.: C.20. (Baker.) Cf. knock 'em cold.

knock commission out of, e.g., a vehicle. To damage, by either misuse or over-use: Aus.: since late 1940s. (B.P.) Cf. out of commission, 2.

knock corners off. See knock off corners.

knock (or let) daylight into. See daylight into.

knock-down, n. Strong liquor: late C.17–19. (B.E.) In mid-C.18—early 20, knock-me-down. Grose, 1st ed.—2. An introduction: Aus.: C.20. (C.J. Dennis.) Adopted ex US; cf. the v., 4.—3. A loan: Aus.: C.20. Dal Stevens, Jimmy Brockett, 1951.

knock down, v. To call upon, nominate, urgently invite: coll.; slightly ob. 1759, Goldsmith, 'Had knocked down Mr. Spriggins for a song' (OED). But knock down for a song, to sell very cheaply, is S.E.—2. To reduce considerably in amount or degree: coll.: from ca. 1865. E.g. to knock down prices, colours.—3. To spend in drink or other riotous living: NZ, from—1853 (B., 1941); Aus., 1869: Marcus Clarke, 'Knocked down thirteen notes, and went to bed as light as a fly' (Morris). Wilkes cites an Aus. quot'n (from C.R. Read) for 1853, and notes that, since later C.19, the form has gen. been knock down (one's) cheque.—4. To introduce (one person to another): C.20. Aus., adopted ex US. But Wilkes notes the gen. form give the knockdown. Cf. the n., 2.—5. To shirk, to idle: Can.: since ca. 1950. Dr Leechman cites H. Dempsey, Bob Edwards, 1975: 'and the boss thinks you are knocking down.'

knock down ginger, n. and v. The 'game' of knocking at doors and running away; to knock on a door and run away: South London schoolchildren's: C.20.—2. See knocking-down ginger.

knock 'em. To 'make a hit' or achieve success: C.20. (H.A. Vachell, Loot, 1913.) Cf. knock, v., 4, and:

knock 'em cold. To amaze 'them': to have a sensational success: since ca. 1920. Ex boxing. A famous song of the 1890s was 'Wotcher! or Knocked 'em in the Old Kent Road', sung by Albert Chevalier.

knock 'em down. To gain applause: proletarian:—1887 (Baumann).

knock-'em-down business. Auctioneering: low coll.: from ca. 1860.

knock-'em-downs; k-me-d. A coconut shy: coll.: from ca. 1825. Bee.—2. Loosely, skittles: from ca. 1860.

knock for a (or the) loop. To astound: s. > coll.: since ca. 1910 or earlier (Leechman).

knock for six. To overcome drastically, foil utterly, inconvenience gravely: from ca. 1899. 'It knocked me for six' is a Tommy's description of a knee-wound in the Boer War (J. Milne, The Epistles of Atkins, 1902). J.C. Masterman, An Oxford Tragedy, 1933; A. Berkeley, 1934 (see quot'n at crashing bore). Ex cricket.

knock (someone's) hat off. To astound: mostly Cockneys': since ca. 1940. 'It would knock your hat off if I told you.' As a result of a heavy blow on the head.

knock hell out of. To damage severely; to trounce: mostly Aus.: late C.19–20. (B., 1943.) P.B.: in later C.20, common also in Brit.

knock-in. The game of loo; a hand at cards: from ca. 1860: low s. > coll.—2. The same as knock-out, n., 1.

knock in, v.i. To return to college after the gate is closed: university: 1825. C.M. Westmacott.—2. To join in (cf. chip in) a game of cards: clubmen's and gamblers': from ca. 1860.—3. To make money: costermongers':—1872 (Diprose, Book About London); Ware, 1909. I.e., into the pocket.—4. See knock out, n., 1.

knock in the cradle. A fool; but gen. as to have got a knock..., be a fool. Coll.: ca. 1670–1850. Resp. B.E., Ray. knock into. To encounter: coll.: late C.19–20.—2. To fight with (someone): Aus.: since ca. 1910. Baker.

knock into a cocked hat. See cocked hat. — knock into fits. Synon. with beat into fits. — knock into (gen. the middle of) — next week. See week. — knock spots off or out of. These four = to defeat utterly, be much better than: C.19–20. The first and second are coll., the others s.

knock it back (invariable). To eat; occ. to drink: mostly military: from ca. 1912. (B. & P.) In later C.20, more widespread, and usu. referring to drinking, as in 'he knocked back his pint quicker than that, and rushed out' (P.B.).

knock it down. To applaud by hammering or stamping: low: later C.19—early 20. Cf. knock 'em down.

knock it off! Stop talking! (or whatever else is being done to annoy the complainer): coll.: since late 1930s. Cf. pack it in!

knock it on the head! Shut up!: Aus.: since ca. 1920. (Dick.) Ex killing a snake.

knock it out of (one). To exhaust; punish severely: coll. >, ca. 1910, S.E. Punch, 1841, 'The uphill struggles... soon knock it all out of him.'

knock-knock (usually in pl—knock-knocks). An acoustic mine: RN: 1941+. (Granville.) Echoic.

knock! knock! A c.p., dating from the middle of Nov. 1936. Ex this phrase used effectively on the wireless (music-hall programme, Saturday night, 14 Nov. 1936. Wee Georgie Wood). Orig. ex US. It is used, esp. among busmen, by a person about to tell a dirty story or, esp., to make a pun, gen. in doubtful taste. Contrast thump!; also whack! 'Is it possible that this derives from the Porter's scene in Macbeth, Act II, Scene iii? It looks uncommonly like it' (Alan Smith, letter, 1939).—2. The invariable gambit in a game involving 'awful' puns on names; the form is 'Knock! Knock!'—'Who's there?'—'Ailsa'—'Ailsa who?'—'Ailsa alive to the sound of music.' (A ref. to 'The Hills are alive...', title song in an immensely popular film of the mid-1960s, The Sound of Music). Another: 'Knock! Knock!'—'Who's there?'—'Thelonius'—'Thelonius who?'—'Thelonius long distance runner' (The Loneliness of the Long Distance Runner, a famous novella by Alan Sillitoe, 1959). Further examples may be found in The Crack-a-joke Book, pub'd 1978 by Puffin (Penguin) in aid of Oxfam. Orig. among children: since (?) 1930s. (P.B.).—3. The verbal equivalent of an actual knock on the door, when entering another's room, office, etc.: coll.: later C.20. (P.B.)—4. See knock, v., 6.

knock me. See knock me silly.

knock-me-down. See knock-down, n., 1.—2. As adj., violent, overpowering, overbearing: coll.: 1760, Foote, 'No knock-me-down doings in my house.' (ODD).

knock-me-downs. See knock-'em-downs.

knock me silly; usually shortened to knock me. A billy can: Aus. rhyming s.: C.20. B., 1945.

knock-off, n. Time to leave off work: coll.: C.20. Abbr. knock(ing)-off time.—2. Something that has been 'knocked off', stolen: low: mid-C.20. (P.B.) See the v., 4, and:—3. On the knock-off (adj. and adv.), a-thieving in any way: c.: from ca. 1925. Gilt Kid, 1936.—4. 'Public taste [in cutlery has] changed from the stark stainless steel shapes to reproduction grandure [sic]. That is all that is left. This too is being eroded by Far Eastern knock offs' (President of the Federation of British Cutlery Manufacturers, in a letter pub'd in Caterer & Hotel-Keeper, 27 Mar. 1980).

knock off, v. [Two of F. & H.'s senses—v.t., to deduct, and v.i., to cease (esp. work)—are S.E.]—2. To die: C.18–19. Tom Brown in a letter of 1704.—3. To complete, write, or despatch easily or hastily: coll.: since late C.18. It occurs in the anon. song 'Brick Dust Ben', quoted by The Port Folio, 24 Aug. 1805 (p. 261, col. 2).—4. Hence, to steal: nautical (C.20) > military in 1915. (Bowen.) Cf. S.E. sense, to deduct.—5. To do, commit, esp. in knock off a job, to commit a crime: c.:—1932 (Anon., Dartmoor from Within). Ex sense 3.—6. To arrest (a person): c.:—1933 (Charles E. Leach, On Top of the Underworld).—7. As in 'I could knock off a pint': since ca. 1920. Var. of knock back, v., 4.—8. To kill: army: WW2 and since. P-G-R.—9. To seduce: low Aus.: since ca. 1910. 'Remember the time old Ethel tried to knock off Terry?' they would start' (Dick).—10. To coit with (a girl): perhaps orig. mostly Aus., since ca. 1930 (B.P.), but by ca. 1960 at latest, common in Brit., often with implication of marital infidelity or mere sexual gratification. L.A. cites Angela Carter, Love, 1971, e.g., 'knocking off this chick', and 'I've been knocking off one of my fifth form...' knock off corners. To be successful: music-halls': ca. 1880–1914. Ware cites Entr'Acte, 16 April 1885: 'Just as Arthur Williams had commenced to "knock corners off" at the music hall, he is once more summoned to the Gaiety. More study!'

knock-on effect. The effect that an event has upon subsequent events, e.g., in multiple vehicle 'pile-ups'; the effects of a strike being complicated by later strikes; etc.: coll., verging on j.: late 1970s. BBC Radio 4 News, 24 June 1979. (P.B.)

knock on the head. To destroy, kill; put an end to, e.g., a proposal: from ca. 1870; in later C.20, verging on S.E. Weekly Dispatch, 21 May 1871, of a disorderly house.

knock-out, n.; occ. (—1860: knock-in). One who, at auctions, combines with others (hence, also, the combination) to buy at nominal prices: from ca. 1850: coll. >, in C.20, S.E. Ex:

—2. An illegal auction: from ca. 1820: coll. >, ca. 1890, S.E. 'Jon Bee.' (These auction senses are also used as adj.)

—3. Applied in admiration, or by way of outraged propriety, to a person, esp. one who does outrageous things; also to an astounding or outrageous thing. Chiefly as a regular knock-out. Since ca. 1885. In 1892, Albert Chevalier, pride of the music-halls, was singing, 'Oh! 'e's a little champion, do me proud, well 'e's a knock-out'. Perhaps ex boxing, a knock-out being a champion, but more prob. ex knocker, 3, q.v.—4. A division of spoils among illicit hangers-on at an auction: 1873, James Greenwood, In Strange Company. Ex sense 1, 2.—5. A knock-out competition (one in which a single defeat entails elimination): since ca. 1925: coll. >, by 1965, S.E.

knock out, v. Corresponding to the n., senses 1 and 2: from ca. 1870: coll. >, ca. 1905, S.E.—2. To make (very) quickly or roughly: coll.: from ca. 1855. Dickens, Hardy. (OED)

—3. Hence, to earn: Colonial: from ca. 1895. Ex knock up, 4.—4. To render bankrupt: from ca. 1890.—5. To leave a college by knocking at the gate after it has been shut: university: from ca. 1860. Cf. knock in, v., 1.—6. 'To bet so persistently against a horse that from a short price he retires to an outside place,' F. & H.; to force out of the racing quotations: from ca. 1870: mostly the turf. (—7. To defeat: S.E.)—8. To fail (a candidate) in an examination: late C.19–20. Ex boxing.—9. To fascinate; to impress profoundly; to 'enthuse': mostly teenagers': since earlyish 1960s. In, e.g., the Beatles' song, 'Back in the U.S.S.R.', in their 'White Album', released in Nov. 1968 (Janssen).—10. 'To knock out a place is to burgle it thoroughly, leaving it cleaned out of anything of value' (Tempest): c.: mid-C.20.

knock-out drops. A liquid drug—gen. butyl-chloride—'put in liquor to facilitate robbing': US (1876), anglicised ca. 1904: low. (OED Sup.) H.C. Bailey, Mr Fortune Wonders, 1933, "'Chloral hydrate" ... "That stuff! Knock-out drops. The common thieves' dope for putting a man to sleep"'.—2. In Aus., 'drugged or impure liquor': from ca. 1910. C.J. Dennis.—3. A soothing syrup (containing either opium or laudanum) for babies: late C.19–20. Robert Roberts, The Classic Stum, 1971.

knock out an apple. To beget a child: 1818, Keats in a letter of 5 Jan.; † by 1890. (Thanks to Allen Walker Read.)

knock out (one's) link. To get drunk. See link, n., 2.

knock out of time, v.t. To punch so hard that one's opponent cannot rise at 'Time': boxers': from ca. 1870: s. >, ca. 1890, coll. >, ca. 1910, S.E.

knock-outs. Dice: gamblers' s.: from ca. 1850.

knock-over, n. A considerable, esp. if surprising success: Aus.: since ca. 1920. (Baker.) Cf. pushover.

knock over, v.i. To give way; to die: from ca. 1890: s. >, ca. 1905, coll.; ob. by 1930.—2. As v.t. To kill (man or beast): Aus.: C.20. (D'Arcy Niland, 1958.) Cf. knock off, v., 8.

knock over a doll. 'To incur the consequences entailed in any activity (? from the contest of throwing at dolls at a sideshow)' (Wilkes): Aus.: since mid-C.20.

knock (someone) rotten. To trounce; to defeat heavily: Aus.: C.20. B., 1942.

knock round. See knock about, v., 1.

knock saucerpans or smoke out of. To attack violently: gen., however, to defeat utterly: Aus.: ca. 1885–1905. 'Rolf Boldrewood', both uses in Robbery under Arms.

knock seven bells out of (a man). To knock him out; give him a thrashing: nautical: late C.19–20. (Bowen.) Cf.:-

knock seven kinds of shit out of you (him, etc.), Til (he'll). A low minatory c.p.: RN: since ca. 1920.

knock(-)shop is a post-1910 var. of knocking-shop.

knock silly. See silly, v.

knock-softly. A fool; a simpleton; a too easy-going person: coll.: 1864; ob. by 1930.

knock spots off. See the group at knock into a cocked hat.

knock the bottom (or filling or inside or lining or stuffing or wadding) out of. To confound, defeat utterly; render useless, valueless, or invalid: coll.: resp. 1875, ca. 1880, ca. 1890, ca. 1890, 1889, ca. 1895. The OED compares it won't hold water. Cf.:

knock the end in (gen. v.i.) or off (gen. v.t.). To 'spoil the whole show': military: 1915. (F. & G.) Ex prec. Cf. tear the arse out of.

knock the shit out of. To thrash; (of a job) to exhaust or strain: low coll.: late C.19–20.

knock the skin off a rice pudding. E.g., 'He couldn't ...' = he's no fighter: see box kippers and now then, shoot ...

knock them in the Old Kent Road. See knock 'em ...

knock three times and ask for Alice. 'A jocular c.p.—used, for example, to short-circuit someone else's long-drawn-out directions as to location' (L.A.): C.20: orig., Cockneys'; since 1939, mostly Forces'. P.B.: number, and the girl's name, may vary, but the formula is still current, 1980.

knock to (the) windward of (someone). To get the better of: RN lowerdeck: late C.18–19. Moe cites L.L.G., 1 Jan. 1825.

knock-toe. A 'Deal lugger-rigged galley-punt, in which there was little room for the feet': nautical: C.19. Bowen.

knock-up, n. 'An unpleasant device by which dealers conspire to rig the bidding at antique auctions' (Evening Echo, Bournemouth, 17 Apr. 1966): antique dealers': C.20. Cf. knock-out, n., 1, 2 and 5, qq.v.

knock up, v. To exhaust, become exhausted, is S.E., as are to rouse by knocking at the door, to put together hastily.—2. To gain, in class, a place (v.i. and v.t., e.g. 'He knocked Jones up'): Christ's Hospital: from ca. 1830. Cf. ox up, q.v.

—3. Make (so many runs) by hitting: cricket coll.: 1860 (Lewis).—4. Hence, to earn: coll.: from ca. 1885. Cf. knock out, v., 3.—5. See knocked up, its only part.—6. To arrange (e.g. a dance): (low) coll.:—1887 (Baumann).

knock up a catcher. To be detected: army: WW1. Ex cricket.—2. Gen. to have knocked up ..., to be put on an easy job: dockers'. Daily Herald, late July or early Aug. 1936.

knock with, do a. To arrange a meeting with (one of the opposite sex): Aus.: since ca. 1920. (Norman Lindsay, Saturday, 1933.) See knock-down, n., 2.

knock-unable. Easily fatigued: coll.: from ca. 1870. George Eliot (Ware).

knockabout, n. and adj. See knock-about.

knocked, wounded; knocked cold, killed. See knock, v., 7 and 8.

knocked down for a crop. 'Condemned to be hanged' (Lex. Bal.): c.: ca. 1810–50. Cf. crap, n., and v., 2, of which crop is a var.

knocked-knees and silly and can't hold his water. A pej. c.p.: Public Schools': late C.19–20.

knocked (one's) link out, to have. To be tipsy: ca. 1730–80. The Proceedings on the King's Commission of the Peace ... for the year 1754 (London, 1754, p. 176). Here, link = torch.

knocked off (one's) pins. Flabbergasted: coll.:—1880 (Trollope). See pins.

knocked out. Unable to meet engagements: commercial coll.: from ca. 1860.

knocked to the wide. Utterly exhausted: army: since ca. 1940. (P-G-R.) Cf. knock up, 1. knocked up. Exhausted: see knock up, 1.—2. Pregnant: low: C.19–20; mainly US. Ex knock, v., 1.

Knocker. An 'inevitable' nickname of men surnamed Walker or White: Services': late C.19—earlier 20. (F. & G.) But cf. Hooky and Chalky.

knocker. A (notable or frequent) performer of the sexual act: low coll.: C.17—early 20. Barry, in Ram Alley.—2. Penis: low (? coll.): mid-C.17–20.—3. One of striking appearance: coll.: C.17–19. (Middleton & Rowley, A Chaste Maid ...,—1628, at II, i: Moe.) Whence knock-out, n., 3.—4. A (kind of) pendant to a wig: ca. 1818–38. OED.—5. A person given to discouraging or fault-finding: coll.: adopted, ex US, in Aus. by ca. 1920 (Wilkes), in Brit. by ca. 1930.—6. A person taken by the police: tramps' c.:—1932 (Frank Jennings, Tramping with Tramps).—7. A person who contracts debts without the intention to repay them: army: since late C.19. In later C.20, more gen. for 'a hire-purchase defaulter' (Woman's Own, 28 Feb. 1968).—8. Hence, a welshing bookmaker: Aus. sporting; since ca. 1925. (B., 1943.) Hence take the knock on, to welsh his clients: since ca. 1930. The phrase occurs in Lawson Glassop's Aus. racing classic, Lucky Palmer, 1949. In later C.20, British prisoners' c. for 'person who welshes on a bet' (Home Office).? An elab. of take on, v., 4—or did the knock version come first.—9. A 'Class E freight train (Midland Region)' (Railway); railwaymen's: mid-C.20.—10. Camshaft: motorcyclists': C.20. Hence, double knocker, twin camshafts. (Dunford).—11. On the knocker: applied to one who sells things by going from door to door (i.e., constantly using the knocker): orig. low s., esp. grafters', C.20 (Cheapjack, 1934); >, by ca. 1965, coll., as used by the Financial Times, 16 Nov. 1973, in go on the knocker, to be a door-to-door canvasser.—12. On the knocker: on credit: Londoners': from ca. 1930. (London Evening News, 11 Dec. 1936.) In later C.20 sometimes shortened to on the knock, and more gen. Cf. knock, n., 12, q.v.—13. Up to the knocker, (very) healthy, fit, or fashionable; as adv., exceedingly well: s.: mid-C.19. Selby, London by Night, 1844.—14. On the knocker, 'Promptly, on demand, esp. in the expression "cash on the knocker"' (Wilkes): Aus. coll.: later C.20.—15. Knocker, common sense: Aus. low coll.: late C.19—earlier 20. Wilkes cites Henry Lawson, 1900.

knocker-face or -head. An ugly-face (or its owner): low: ca. 1870—1930.

knocker-off. A thief specialising in motorcars: c.: from ca. 1920. Ex knock off, v., 4. Edgar Wallace, The Door with Seven Locks, 1926.

knocker on the front door, have a. To have achieved respectability: lower and lower-middle classes' coll.:—1909 (Ware). knocker-worker. A door-to-door pedlar: low s., esp. grafters': C.20. (Allingham.) See knocker, 11, for which this is the n.

knockers. Small curls worn flat on the temples: coll.: ca. 1890—1915.—2. Female breasts: low Aus.: C.20. By late 1950s, also English, as in James Kennaway, Some Gorgeous Surprise, 1967, 'She was slight... but with great little knockers—breasts being for mothers.' Cf. also quot'n at jujubes.

knocking. Sexual intercourse: low coll.: late C.16—20, ob. except in combination.—2. See knock, v., 6.—3. See last knocking.—4. 'Pretending to be an antique dealer, knocking on doors' (Now!, 10 Apr. 1981): c.

knocking company. A hire-purchase company: since late 1940s. (Robin Cook, 1962.) See knock, n., 14.

knocking-down ginger is a London street-boys' coll. (C.20) for the game of follow-my-leader, during which boards and loose goods outside shops are thrown down. The practice is also called ginger-knocking; a practitioner, ginger-knocker. See also knock down ginger.

knocking-house or, more gen., -shop. A brothel: low: mid-C.19—20. H., 2nd ed., has the latter.

knocking-jacket. A nightgown, nightdress: low coll.: ca. 1700—1850. D'Urfey.

knocking-joint. A brothel: C.20: c. >, by 1915, low s. Ex knock, v., 1.—2. The stand of a bookmaker that intends, if unlucky, to welsh: racing' c.:—1932.

knocking on (a bit). Growing middle-aged—or elderly; or merely being older than the speaker: low coll.: since ca. 1930. (P.B.) knocking-shop. See knocking-house.

knofka. A harlot. Var. of noffgur, q.v.

knot, n. [As a set or group of persons, it has always been S.E.: in C.17—18, however, it was, like crew, used often in the underworld.]—2. The swelling (or shoulder) of the glans penis: coll.: mid-C.19—20.—3. See carry the knot.—4. In tie with Saint Mary's knot, to hamstring: C.19 coll.

knot, v. [As to coit, it is S.E., but see get joined!].—2. In knot it, to abscond: low: later C.19—early 20.

knot-flashing. Heterosexual self-exposure by men: police s.:

C.20. (James Fraser, The Evergreen Death, 1968.) Cf. knot, n., 2. knot with the tongue that cannot be undone or untied with the teeth, knit or tie a. To get married: coll.: late C.16—mid-19; then dial. Lyly, Swift, Scott. (Apperson.)

knots. 'The status mark of the surfer—lumps on knees and top of foot from knee paddling' (Pix, 28 Sep. 1963): Aus. (teenage) surfers': since ca. 1961.

knotted. As in 'Do you think that Passmore who goes chasing arse every time he's ashore has got much self-respect left? Or Harvey? Or Hatch? They're all knotted in some way' (Heart, 1962, a Naval NCO speaking); i.e. with problems. Cf. (all) bitter and twisted, and the hung-up ex 'suffering from a hang-up'. (P.B.)—2. See get knotted!

Knotty, the. The North Staffordshire railway: railwaymen's: ca. 1890—1940. Railway.

know, n. In in the know: possessing special and/or intimate knowledge: coll.: since later C.19. 'As everybody immediately interested knows all about them, perhaps Refreaders would like to be in the know likewise' (Referee, 29 Apr. 1883).—2. In be all know, to be a bookworm: proletarian coll.:—1887 (Baumann).

know, v., occurs in over 30 phrases expressing whether a person is intelligent and alert, or is ignorant and dull. These will be found in the Appendix, at KNOW.—2. See do you know; don't you know; you know.—3. See not if I know it; not that I (you) know of; not know from a bar of soap or a crow.

know a trick worth two of that. To be better informed, and thus more able to take appropriate action to turn the affair to one's own advantage: coll.: since late C.16.

know all the answers. Applied to a person smart in repartee or in circumventing the cunning; often ironic or exasperated: adopted ca. 1939 ex US. Ultimately ex Ger. Bescheid wissen, 'reaching the US with German immigrants' (R.S.). It becomes ironically apposite when the answerer, not necessarily a young know-all, doesn't even understand the questions.

know an ace... See know one point.

know (one's) book. To be correctly informed: coll.: later C.19—early 20. (B. & L.) Elsewhere in earlier edd. of this Dict. E.P. defined the phrase, 'To come to a decision; see one's potential advantage.'

know-how, n. Skill; the knack of doing something: coll., adopted, ca. 1943, ex US; >, by ca. 1955, S.E. Short for the 'know how to do it'.

know how... v. See KNOW, in Appendix for, e.g., know how many beans make five.

Know-it of Know-all Park. A know-all: coll.: from ca. 1910. Compton Mackenzie, Water on the Brain, 1933.

know life, in the C.19 underworld, meant, to know the shady tricks and the criminal acts, but not necessarily to be a criminal oneself. (Vaux.) Cf. know (one's) life at KNOW, in Appendix.

know one point or trick, occ. an ace, more than the devil. To be (very) cunning: coll.: C.17—18. Prob. ex Spanish. Cf. the Cornish know tin—tin occurring in many forms. Both are much stronger than know a thing or two, etc.

know one thing and that ain't (or isn't) two; gen. I know ... To know a thing for certain or emphatically: coll., esp. Cockneys': from ca. 1880. Passim in the Cockney stories and novels of Edwin Pugh (fl. ca. 1895—1925); e.g. 'But one think I do know, and that ain't two; he used to be very dirty.'

know someone who knows someone. To be able to obtain an article wholesale: commercial (Eng. and Aus.): since ca. 1945.

know the difference between shitting and tearing his arse, he doesn't (or don't). He ignores the golden mean: Can. c.p.: since the 1920s.

know the ins and outs of a duck's bum. 'To know the "trick" of mechanism or formula, to be familiar with complicated process, or obscure facts' (L.A., 1974): C.20. Cf. (she) wants to know all the ins and outs of a cat's arse, (she) is very inquisitive.

know the length of (someone's) foot. See length of foot...

know the score. To know the risks involved, mostly in personal relationships and esp. in amorous ones: coll.: C.20. Perhaps ex cricket or billiards.

know whether (one) is Agnes or Angus, not to. 'A c.p. used in very cold weather or after swimming in cold water, by males only. "I'm so cold I don't know whether I'm Agnes or Angus!"' (Leechman): Can.: since ca. 1930. Physiological reaction.

know whether (one) is Arthur or Martha, not to. Not to know which of two things one is: Aus.: since ca. 1920. D'Arcy Niland, Call Me..., 1958.

know whether (one) is coming or going (or vice versa), not to. To be in a muddle; or, flustered, agitated: coll.: since ca. 1915.

knowed. Knew; known: sol.: C.18–20. (Often as deliberate jocularity.)

knowing. Stylish; knowing 'what's what' in fashion, dress, manners: coll.: ca. 1795–1860. Jane Austen; T. Hughes, 'Tom thought his cap a very knowing affair.'

knowing bloke. A sponger on recruits: military: later C.19–early 20. (Brunlees Patterson in Life in the Ranks.) But knowing one is S.E.

Knowit of Knowall Park. See Know-it...

knowledge, the. 'In London, on a small scooter, you [a policeman] can make yourself look exactly like a probationary taxi-driver learning "the knowledge" (of London streets) for the Public Carriage Office written examination' (Powis): taxi-drivers' coll. > almost j.: C.20.

knowledge-box. The head:—1765 (Miss C.Y.'s Cabinet of Curiosities) coll. >, ca. 1890, S.E. But knowledge-casket (—1901) has not taken on. (In US c., knowledge-box is a school: Irwin.) —2. Yardmaster's office: Can. railroadmen's joc.:—1931.

knowledgeable. Having or showing knowledge or mental ability: from ca. 1830: dial. >, ca. 1860, coll. Hence knowledgeably (—1865) and knowledgeableness (—1886). OED.

known, n. A well-known person: coll.: 1835 (OED). Never very gen.

knows. In all (one) knows, to the best of one's ability; (to) the utmost: coll.: from ca. 1870. Other forms are possible, as, e.g. 'They tried all they knew to persuade her...'—2. In she knows all about it now, or now she knows..., a c.p. in ref. to a bride, the first night having elapsed: C.20.

Knubs. German soldiers: 1939+. Perhaps ex Ger. Knabe, a youth.

knuck. A thief, esp. a pickpocket: c. of ca. 1810–60. (Vaux; Ainsworth, in Rookwood.) Ex knuckle, n., 1.

knuckle, n. A pickpocket, esp. an expert: c.: ca. 1780–1840. (Parker.) Cf. the v., and go on the knuckle, to practise pickpocketry: c.: ca. 1810–70.—2. Abbr. knuckle-duster, q.v.; never very common: coll.: late C.19–early 20.—3. A fist-fight: low: since ca. 1930. Norman.—4. In down on the knuckle, (almost) penniless: either c. or low: ca. 1840–1940. 'No. 747' (ref. to year 1845).—5. In near the knuckle, slightly, or even quite, indecent: coll. (1895, W. Pett Ridge) >, by 1930, S.E. The contemporaneous Aus. var. is close to the knuckle. Cf. the proverb the nearer the bone the sweeter the meat.—6. See lie on the knuckle.—7. In go the knuckle, to punch, fight: Aus. In earlier C.20, with on, which carries the nuance rather 'to cheat, defraud, take down' (B., 1959). Wilkes cites D'Arcy Niland, The Big Smoke, 1959, and later authors, for the shorter, 'fighting' form. Cf. sense 3, and knuckle-boy.

knuckle, v. To pick pockets, esp. if expertly: c. of ca. 1785–1870. Parker; Grose, 3rd ed.—2. To pummel, punch, fight with one's fists: c.: from ca. 1860; ob.

knuckle-bleeders. Those spiky balls of the plane tree with which children hit one another over the knuckles: Cockneys': from ca. 1880.

knuckle-bone, down on the. Penniless: c.: from ca. 1880 (Baumann). Jim Wolveridge in He Don't Know 'A' from a Bulls Foot, 1978, expands it to 'down on the knucklebone of [one's] arse', and implies that, by the 1930s, it was in gen. Cockney use.

knuckle(-)boy. A bare-fisted fighter: Aus.: C.20. (Dick.) See knuckle, n., 3 and 7.

knuckle-confounders or -dabs. Handcuffs: c. of ca. 1780–1850. Grose, 1st ed.

knuckle-duster. A knuckle-guard that, made of metal, both protects the hand and gives brutal force to the blow: orig. (—1858), US and c.: anglicised, ca. 1865, as coll.; by 1900, S.E. The Times, 15 Feb. 1858.—2. Hence, a large and either heavy or over-gaudy ring: low: from ca. 1870. H., 5th ed. knuckle-head. 'A fool or [a] thick-head' (Petch, 1969): adopted, ca. 1944, ex US servicemen.

knuckle pie. See slice of..., and cf.:

knuckle sandwich. A punch on the mouth or the jaw: since ca. 1920, esp. in the North; then, post-WW2, more widely used, perhaps, as Petch suggests, thanks to the long-running Independent TV serial 'Coronation Street', where used, e.g., on 22 May 1974. In later C.20, also Aus. (A. Buzo, 1973). Cf. the C.16–17 eat fist-meat; and prec.

knuckle-up. A fight, esp. with bare fists: NZ: since late 1940s. (Harold Griffiths, 1970.) Cf. Brit. punch-up.

knuckle up sky-high! A C.20 Aus. c.p., derived ex game of marbles. (B.P.) knuckled, adj. Hand-sewn: tailors': later C.19–early 20.

knuckler. A pickpocket: c.: ca. 1810–90. (Vaux.) Ex knuckle, v., 1. Also knuckling-cove.

knuckles on the ground (or deck), (with his). Applied to a youth or (usu.) young man of low intellect and primitive appearance: coll.: since ca. 1930 or perhaps a decade earlier. Tom Forester, 'A Soldier's Life', New Society, 7 Aug. 1975, reports a recruiting sergeant as saying, 'sometimes you get a right thickie, with his knuckles on the ground [i.e., ape. like], who wants to be a brain surgeon.' (P.B.)

knuckling-cove. Var. of knuckler, q.v.

knuller; occ. kneller. A chimney-sweep given to soliciting custom by knocking or ringing at doors: low: ca. 1850–1900. ?ex knell.—2. A clergyman: low: ca. 1860–1910. Ex sense 1 via clergyman, q.v.

knut, k-nut. (The k-pronounced.) A very stylish (young) man about town; a dandy: from ca. 1905. Prob. nut orig. = head and knut has perhaps been influenced by knob, q.v. See also filbert and kn-.

Knuts, the. Important persons crossing to France during WW1: Dover Patrol nickname. Ex prec.

knutty. The adj. of knut: 1915; ob. by ca. 1930.

koala. A motorist—e.g., a diplomat—immune from being booked for parking offences: Aus.: since ca. 1945. (B., 1953.) A koala is a protected creature.

koala bear. A militiaman: Aus., mostly servicemen's: WW2. B., 1943.

koboko. An elab. of boko (q.v. at boco): ca. 1905–14. W.L. George, The Making of an Englishman, 1914.

ocks nownes! A coll. perversion of God's wounds: C.16–mid-17. OED.

Kokky-Olly Birds, the. The King's Own Scottish Borderers: army nickname: C.19–20. (Carew.) Presumably a fanciful filling-out of the initials K.O. See also Kosbies, and Botherers.

kokum. Sham kindness: Aus. c.:—1896; ob. Also cocum, q.v. Perhaps this strange word is cognate with Sampson's χοχανο, lying, counterfeit: cf. χοχani, a sham horoscope (Welsh gypsy).

Kolis, the. '... was the nickname given to the 51st Foot, which was raised in 1755 and in 1821 became the 51st, or 2nd Yorkshire, West Riding, King's Own Light Infantry' (Carew). Cf. Coalies, Coleys; and Koylis, which the Kolis became in 1887.

komate. 'A dead or wounded soldier or horse (from the Maori ka mate') (B., 1941): NZ: 1915+.

kone; hence koniacker. Counterfeit money; counterfeiter: Aus. c.: C.20. (B., 1942.) Adopted from US. See Underworld.

konk is a rare var. of conk, n., esp. in senses 4 and 5. Henry Holt, Murder at the Bookstall, 1934, 'A konk on the head'.

knoblin rig. The stealing of large pieces of coal from coal-sheds: c.:—1811; † by 1900. (Lex. Bal.) This may be the original of noble: but what is its own etymology?

koofered, be. To be killed: naval (African Squadron): ca. 1860–1910. Bowen, 'Borrowed from the Swahili.'—2. 'Now considerably watered down to merely "exhausted" rather than "quite dead"' (P.B., 1974): army: since 1950, at latest.

kook. A clown; a simpleton: Aus. (teenage) surfers': since ca. 1961. (Pix, 28 Sep. 1963.) Ex American kook, an odd person, a simpleton, in short anyone the speaker dislikes. Ex cuckoo, as in 'you silly cuckoo!'

kooka. A kookaburra: Aus. coll.: late C.19–20. B., 1942.

Kookaburras, the. The Australian Light Horse: Aus. soldiers': 1939+. Baker.

kool. To look, or n., as in 'take a kool': back s.: since—1859 (H., 1st ed.)

koota, kooti, kuti. NZ forms (late C.19–20) of cootie, q.v., a louse.

kop, kopper. Occ., long t, var. of cop, copper, a policeman.

kop-jee. The head: lower classes': 1899–1901. (Ware.) Boer War influence. Cf.:

kopje walloper. A diamond-buyer visiting the Kimberley fields: from ca. 1886; ob. Ex kopje, a small hill. Pettman.

kosal kasa. One shilling and six pence: Yiddish trading coll.: C.19–20. Ex Hebrew words for '1' and '6'. Ware.

Kosbies, the. Throughout the British Army they are known as "The Kosbies", although if you were to ask an officer of the Regiment about the Kosbies he would curtsy inform you that he had never heard of them and presume that you referred to The King's Own Scottish Borderers' (Carew). Ex the initials, of course: cf. Wasbees and wosby, qq.v. See also Kokky-Olly Birds.

kosh, kosher, and compounds. As bludgeon, etc.: see cosh, cosher.

kosher, adj. (pron. with o long). Fair, square; proper: orig. and predominantly East End of London: since ca. 1860. Ex Hebrew kasher, lawful, esp. as applied to meat.

Koyl(e)s, The. The King's Own Yorkshire Light Infantry: army nickname/acronym: late C.19–20. See also Kolis and Keep off Young Ladies... F. & G.

Kozzie. Mt Kosciusko: Aus.: C.20. B., 1942.

kradying-ken. A low lodging-house: c.: 1845 ('No. 747', p. 419). A corruption of (the only app. later) praiting-ken.

Krakenhohe. A local, late 1918–early 1919 military c.p. 'cuss-word'. F. & G. 'A German town, found hard to pronounce by our men, who passed it in their advance after the Armistice.'

Kraut. A German, esp. a German soldier: army, mostly in Italy in 1944–5. 'It is the only building left standing in the village. The Krauts blew up the rest'; 'The Kraut will have to fall back' (J.M. Scott, The Other Side of the Moon, 1946). Ex that favourite dish of the Germans: sauerkraut. P.B.: owing more to US influence than to 'the D-Day Dodgers', the term has, in later C.20, > much more widespread and is applied, not necessarily disparagingly, to Germans in general. Also used as adj., as in:

Krautrock. 'What the music press called Krautrock, the generic name for the work of the rather highbrow German pop bands who developed after 1967, playing synthesised electronic music' (Peter York, in Harpers & Queen, Dec. 1977).

kree. Short for kreegy, q.v. at kriegy. Peppitt, who adds: 'P.o.W., Allied Services, 1940'—and, of course, for the remainder of WW2, and then historic.

Kremlin, the. The headquarters of British Railways: railwaymen's: since ca. 1950. Railway.—2. New Scotland Yard: later C.20. Powis.—3. May be applied, joc. or ironic, to any imposing, important building in Service camp, barracks, or other similar establishment: later C.20. (P.B.)

kriegy. 'A prisoner of war (from the German "Kriegsgefangener"). Kriegydom: The world of kriegies, or, as the Germans put it so succinctly, "Kriegsgefangenenschaft"' (Brickhill & Norton, Escape to Danger, 1946); 31 Aug. 1944, World's Press News (only kriegy): prisoners-of-war in Germany; 1940–5. Var. kreegy; shortening, kree.

krop. Pork: back s.:—1874 (H., 5th ed.)

krug. Bread: Christ's Hospital School: ca. 1900. See quot'n at chaffy, 2.

Kruger-spoof. Lying: 1896–7. (Ware.) Ex promises made by President Kruger in 1896—but not kept.

Kruger's tickler or tiddler. A little feather brush used, in the celebrations after Ladysmith and Mafeking, to tickle fellow-celebrants' faces: coll.: Boer War. Collinson.

Krupp boat. 'A German submarine, after the makers; became obsolete when WW1 submarines were numbered in the "U" series, when "U boat" became and remained the accepted term' (Peppitt, who refers to P. Cawburn, The Warship in History, 1965).

Kruschen feeling, that. Verve and energy: a c.p.: from ca. 1925; ob. (Collinson.) Ex an advertisement of Kruschen Salts.

kubber, properly khubber, occ. khabbar (or -er). News: Anglo-Indian:—1864 (H., 3rd ed.). Hindustani khabbar, news—esp. of game.

kudize. To esteem, honour; praise, extol: students':—1887 (Baumann). Ex:

kudos. Glory, fame: university s. (from ca. 1830) >, ca. 1890, gen. coll. Gr. κῦδος. As rare t v., kudos occurs in 1799, kudize in 1873: both, pedantically ineligible.

kurl or kurl-a-mo. Excellent: Aus.: since ca. 1920. (B., 1942.) Fanciful.—2. Hence, kurl the mo, to succeed brilliantly or far beyond expectation; to win 'in a big way': since ca. 1925. B., 1943.

kushy. See cushy.

kutchu. A mule; hence, mulish: army: earlier C.20.—2. See cutcha.

kuti. NZ var. of cootie, q.v., a louse.

kweis(s); occ. kway-ess or quis. Usu. as exclam.: 'Good!', 'Capital!', 'O.K.': army and RAF: earlier C.20. Directly ex Arabic. See quies kateer.

kwy. Death: fast life: ca. 1800–40. (Ware.) Ex quietus.

kyacting. Playing the fool, or jocularly, during hours of work: RN: late C.19–early 20. (Goodenough, 1901.) This may be a confusion of chy-ack (or -ike)ing and sky-larking.

kybo. A privy; a w.c.: low: C.20. Ex Khyber Pass, 2.

kybosh. See KIBOSH, in Appendix.

kye. Eighteen pence: costermongers': from ca. 1860. Abbr. Yiddish kye, 18, + bosh, pence. Cf. KIBOSH, q.v.—2. Hence (?), a bluejacket mean with his money: naval: late C.19–20. Bowen.—3. Ship's cocoa of a rich and delicious consistency served during the Middle Watch (midnight to 4 a.m.): naval: C.20. (H. & P.; Granville.) Perhaps ex kai-kai, q.v., but, according to Granville, 'The origin of the word is dialectal, from the adjective kyish, muddy-looking, brown...' See kye-boy, and ki.—4. Hence, chocolate: RAN: C.20. B., 1943.

kye-boy; often simply kye. That member of the watch whose turn it is to make cocoa: since ca. 1910. Ex prec., 3.

kyebosh, kyebosk. Variants of kibosh. See KIBOSH, in Appendix.

kyfer. See khyfer.

kynchen. See kinchen.

'kyou! (Pronounced as the letter q.) Thank you!: slovenly coll. (verging on sol.) abbr.: from the 1890s.

kyphex, v.i. and t. To dress (her): lower classes':—1909 (Ware). Ex Fr. cotffer; but perhaps cf. khyfer, q.v.

kyrie eleison, give or sing a. To scold (v.t. with to): ecclesiastical (1528, Tyndale) >, ca. 1600, gen. coll. (as in Taylor the Water Poet): † by 1780. Ex the Gr. for 'Lord, have mercy'. OED.

kysh. A cushion. See kish, 1.

l.b.d. The 'little black dress' suitable for almost any social or official occasion: feminine: mid-C.20. (Mrs Daphne Beale, who recalls its use at Leicester University, late 1950s.)

l.b.w. See leg before wicket.

l.f. gear. The proceeds of a long firm [q.v.] fraud often offered at very low prices; often, too, quite honestly obtained property of low quality is falsely described as "LF gear" to explain cheapness and stimulate customer interest' (Powis): c.: later C.20.

l.l. The offence known as 'loitering with intent': spivs' coll. and police j.: since late 1940s. Article on young spivs in Picture Post, 2 Jan. 1954.

l.l.l. 'Live-in Lover', one's unmarried partner for the time being: coll.: later C.20. (J.B. Mindel, 1981.) Cf. tally, n., 3.

L.K., short for L.K. Clark. Mark: racing and underworld rhyming s.: C.20. 'We get off the L.K. at nine' (o'clock): Franklyn 2nd.

l.l. (Slightly) fraudulent: financial: 1870. (Ware.) I.e. limited liability.—2. The best whiskey: Dublin taverns': late C.19—early 20. (Ware.) Ex Lord Lieutenant.

l. of c. swine. Lines-of-communication troops: front-line troops': 1940–5. P-G-R.

L.P.C. Army boots, 'Leather Personnel Carriers—in fond of memory of the APCs, the armoured personnel carriers' (Sunday Express mag., 13 Mar. 1983, p.19); Services': Falkland Is. campaign, 1982.

Ls. See three Ls.

L.S.D. Money: coll.: from ca. 1835: in C.20, S.E. Hood, 'But, p'raps, of all the felonies de se, ... Two-thirds have been through want of £ s. d.' (OED). I.e., librae, solidi, denarii, pounds, shillings and pence; ob. with decimalisation, 1971.

la. A lavatory, a public convenience: Aus.: since ca. 1945. Bernard Hesling, The Dinkumization and Depommification of an Artful English Immigrant, 1963.

la! An exclam.: C.16–20: polite till ca. 1850, then low coll. and dial. Cf. la, la!, q.v.—2. (Often pronounced law): in C.17–20, a low coll. euph. for Lord!, this sense merging with the prec. Cf. lor', lawkl, qq.v.

la-di-da (occ., as in Baumann, la-de-da), lah-di-dah, lardy-dah. Very stylish; affectedly smart of costume, voice, manners: from ca. 1860: coll. 'Its great vogue was due to a music-hall song of 1880—He wears a penny flower in his coat, La-di-da!' (W., who suggests imitation of affected haw-haw (q.v.) speech).—2. A fop, a 'swell': derivative coll.: 1883 (OED). Cf. † US la-la, a 'swell'.—3. 'Elegant leisure, and liberal expenditure' (Ware): (mostly London) streets': late C.19—early 20.—4. Occ. as v.: 'I like to la-di-da with the ladies' (S. Coyne, 1867: OED).—5. A tramcar or motorcar: rhyming s.: C.20. (Arthur Gardner, Tinker's Kitchen, 1932.) Cf. jam-jar.—6. 'Cigar (sometimes just "lardy")' (Powis): rhyming s.: later C.20.—7. In come (or do) the la-di-da (or lardy-dah), to dress for the public; to show off in dress and manner: low: from ca. 1883.—8. See lardy-dardy.

la, la!, or la-la! A coll. imitation of a French exclam.: C.18–20.—2. Also, C.16–20 (ob.), an expression of derision: polite >, ca. 1850, somewhat trivial and coll. Cf. lal, q.v. La Lin. La Linea, street of bars, etc, just over the Spanish border from Gibraltar: Services' in Gibraltar: C.20. Heart, 1962.

lab. Laboratory: school and university s. >, by 1910, coll.:

late C.19–20. J.C. Masterman, An Oxford Tragedy, 1933, "I must go too. I want to go up to my Lab," said Mottram.' labbering. 'The struggling of a hooked fish': nautical coll.: late C.19–20. (Bowen.) Ex dial labber, 'to dabble or splash in water' (EDD).

labbie. A Labrador dog: coll.: C.20. (P.B.)

label full of dents. To beat, thrash. See tune, v.

Labour, the; gen. on the Labour, on unemployment-relief: working classes' coll.: from ca. 1921. Michael Harrison, Spring in Tartarus, 1935.—2. The, or a, Labour Exchange: working-class coll.: since early 1920s. Still used, for the local office of the DHSS, later C.20 (New Society, 23 July 1981, p. 142).

lac, lack, lakh, esp. in pl. A large number or quantity: Anglo-Indian: from ca. 1885. (Kipling.) Ex Hindustani lak(h), a hundred thousand.—2. Earlier, in (—1864) Anglo-Indian coll. that, ca. 1910, > standard, it meant 100,000 rupees.—3. Only lac. Lacquer; lacquer work: antique-dealers': from ca. 1870. H.A. Vachell, Quinneys, 1914.

lace, n. Strong liquor, esp. spirits, added to tea or coffee: coll. >, ca. 1750, S.E.: C.18–20, ob. Spectator, no. 488 (i.e. in 1712).—2. By inference, sugar: C.18. Ex the v.—3. See lace curtain, 2.

lace, to intermix with spirits: S.E. (from ca. 1675). (With sugar, ca. 1690–1720, is prob. s. or coll.) Ex lace as an adornment, an accessory. W.—2. To wear tight stays (v.i.) from ca. 1870; coll. >, ca. 1895, S.E.; ob.

lace curtain. Foreskin: raffish; homosexual: C.20.—2. Beer: rhyming s. on Burton, hence any beer: since ca. 1930. Usu. shortened to lace.

lace into. A C.20 coll. var. of S.E. lace, to thrash. Lyell. lace-ups. Laced-up boots: coll.:—1887 (Baumann). P.B.: in mid- and later C.20 applied to laced-up shoes, as opp. to sandals, 'slip-ons', etc.

laced, ppl adj. Intermixed with spirits: S.E.—2. Sugared: ca. 1690–1750: s. or coll. B.E.

laced mutton. A woman, esp. a wanton: ca. 1575–1860. Whetstone, 1578; Shakespeare, in Two Gentlemen, 'She, a lac'd mutton, gave me, a lost mutton, nothing for my labour'; B.E.; Lex. Bal. Cf. mutton and mutton dressed as lamb, the latter at lamb.

Lacedemonians, the. The 46th Foot Regiment, since ca. 1881 the 2nd Battalion of the Duke of Cornwall's Light Infantry: military: late C.18—early 20. (F. & G.) Ex its colonel's speech, made in 1777, under fire, about the Lacedemonian discipline. Also Murray's Bucks and the Surprisers.

lacing, spirits added to tea or coffee, is S.E. But as a flogging, it is C.17–20 coll. B.E., Grose.

Lack(ery). Nickname for any man surnamed Wood: army: late C.19—early 20. (F. & G.) Ex:—2. lack(ery). A stick, a piece of wood: army: mid-C.19—early 20. Ex Hindustani lakri.

lacks or lax. Lacrosse: schoolgirls': since ca. 1950. (Peter Sanders, 1965.)

lad. A dashing fellow: coll.: late C.19–20; anticipated in Udall's Roister Doister, ca. 1553, 'I trowe they shall finde and feele that I am a lad.' Applied also to a humorous, or a saucy, girl, as in 'she's a lad'. Often as a bit of a lad. Cf. lad of the village; lads; ear-(h)ole, n.—2. 'A mischievous tricky fellow;—"There's no standing them lads"' (Gerald Griffin, quoted by P.W. Joyce, 1910). Anglo-Irish coll.: C.19–20.

lad o(f) wax. A cobbler: coll.: late C.18–early 20. Baumann notes var. cock-a-wax.—2. A boy; a poor sort of man (contrast man of wax, a ‘proper’ man): coll.: C.19. Bill Truck, 1822; Wm. Maginn, Whitehall, 1827.

lad of the village (gen. in pl.) A dashing fellow or cheerful companion, esp. if a member of a set: coll.: late C.19–early 20. Cf. lads, the. Perhaps an extension of lad, q.v. (or vice versa), or, more prob., ex.—2. (Gen. in pl.) One of a set of thieves and pickpockets congregating at a given spot: c. of ca. 1820–80. ‘Jon Bee.’

ladder. The female pudend: C.19–20 low. Semantics fairly obvious.—2. Ladder in a stocking: orig. (ca. 1830) coll.; by 1890, S.E.—3. In climb or go up or mount the ladder, to be hanged: semi-proverbial coll.: ca. 1560–1870. In C.17–19, to bed or to rest is gen. added. Harman, climb three trees with a ladder. Hence groom of the ladder, a hangman: either S.E. or joc. coll.: ca. 1640–1700. Cf. (and see) the following few of many synonyms: catch or nab the stifles (q.v. at stifle, 1), dance the Paddington frisk (q.v. at dance, v., 1), preach at Tyburn cross, trine, wear hemp or a Tyburn tippet (q.v. at Tyburn).—4. See hole in a ladder; and PRISONER-OF-WAR SLANG, §14, in Appendix.

laddie, laddy. A coll. endearing form, mainly Scots, of lad: mid-C.16–20.—2. In mid-C.19–20, a coll. term among actors: Leonard Merrick, Peggy Harper, 1911.

laddio. A fellow, a chap: Anglo-Irish: C.20. ‘By the time you’ve finished with them laddios you’ll have the back teeth out of their heads. I wouldn’t cod you’ (Patrick Campbell, Come Here Till I Tell You, 1960).

laddle. A lady: chimney-sweeps’ (esp. on 1 May): mid-C.19–early 20. On that date, the sweeps’ wives, collecting money for the men, carried brass ladders. (H., 1860). ‘Ducange Anglicus’, 1857, classifies it as c.

laddidah. See la-di-da.

ladies. Cards: gambling (hence almost c.):—1890 (Standard, 15 Mar.)—2. Always the ladies, the women’s lavatories: coll.: C.20. Monica Dickens, The Happy Prisoner, 1946.—3. See lady’s... ladies’ cage. The Ladies’ Gallery: parliamentary:—1870. See also cage, n., 4.

ladies’ college. A brothel: low: C.18–early 19.

ladies’ dingdong night. See winkle trip.

ladies’ finger or wish. A tapering glass of spirits, esp. if gin: (low) coll.: ca. 1850–1910.—2. In Aus., but gen. as lady’s finger, a very short, sweet banana: from ca. 1890: coll. on the verge of standard, which latter it > ca. 1920.

ladies’ grog. Grog that is hot, sweet, strong, plentiful: from ca. 1840; ob. by 1930.

ladies’ ladders. Rattlins set (too) close: nautical: C.19–20. Moe cites W.N. Glascock, Naval Sketch-Book, 2nd series, 1834, at I, 8.

Ladies’ Mile, the. Rotten Row, in London’s Hyde Park: Society > gen.: ca. 1870–1930. (Daily News, 10 May 1871.) Punning the names of horse-races.

ladies of Barking Creek, like the. (Of women, esp. of girls still virgin) excusing themselves from intercourse on the grounds that they are menstruating: Eng. since ca. 1910; adopted, ca. 1920, in Aus. Ex the well-known limerick about the ladies of Barking Creek, who have periods three times a week.

ladies’ tailoring. Sexual intercourse: low: from ca. 1815; ob. Cf. stitch, n., 2.

ladle. To enunciate solemnly and pretentiously: theatrical coll.: from ca. 1870; ob. by 1930.

lads, the. The later C.20 shortening of lad(s) of the village, q.v., but with wider connotation, ‘the men of a familiar group; in the team, drinking companions, in pub or NAAFI; men without notable rank, as distinct from commissioned officers [or managerial class]; a company of convivial men on equal terms: coll., among Servicemen, sportsmen, shop-floor, etc.: ex North Country use of “lad” for grown man’ (L.A., 1974). ‘I believe he holds quite a high position, but at weekends, down here in the village, he likes to think he’s “just one of the lads”—you know the sort!’ (P.B.).—2. See ear-(h)oles.

lady. A hunch-backed woman: ca. 1690–1870. (B.E.) Cf. lord (q.v.), by which suggested.—2. A wife (esp. my old lady: cf. old woman): low coll.: from ca. 1860; earlier, S.E. Hence, your good lady, your wife (rare in other ‘persons’): id.—3. Madam, as term of address: M.E.—C.20: polite till ca. 1860, then increasingly coll. and low. (See W.’s comment.)—4. The reverse of a coin: low: C.19–20, ob. Ex tail, via sex.—5. A quart or a pint pitcher upside down: low: C.19–early 20.—6. He who attends to the gunner’s small stores: nautical:—1711; † by 1920. Whence, in the same period, the † lady’s hole, the place where such stores are kept. Both terms were coll. by 1750, S.E. by 1800 at latest.—7. With sense 2, cf.: mother, gen. the old lady: (joc.) coll.:—1887 (Baumann).—8. In old lady, the female pudend: low: C.19–early 20.—9. In old lady, a coll. term of address to animals, esp. mares and bitches: since ca. 1840. OED.—10. In perfect lady, q.v., a prostitute.

lady-and-gentleman racket men. Hen-and-chicken thieves: Aus. low (?orig. c.): C.20. B., 1942.

lady-bird, ladybird. As endearment, S.E.—2. A whore: C.16–20; ob. (Brome, Moncreiff.) Cf. bird, q.v.—3. A WAAF officer: RAF: 1941+. (Jackson.) Cf. bluebird.

Lady Dacre’s wine. Gin: ca. 1810–50. Lex. Bal.

lady-fender. A woman given to nursing the fire, esp. a woman giving herself airs and being too proud to assist with the housework: domestic servants’: C.19–early 20.

lady from Bristol. A pistol: rhyming s.: C.20. This Week, 10 Mar. 1968.

Lady Godiva. A note or sum of £5 sterling: rhyming s., on five: C.20.

lady green, or with capitals. A clergyman, esp. a prison chaplain: c.: late C.19–early 20. ?ex inexperienced mannerism.

Lady Hotbot. See hot-bot.

Lady in mourning. A Hottentot girl: ca. 1830–60. Sinks, 1848.

lady-in-waiting. A woman visibly pregnant: ?orig. and mainly Can.: since early 1960s. (Leechman.) Adopted in Brit. by 1965 at latest; it occurs in the Bournemouth Evening Echo, 24 Feb. 1966.

lady, or Lady, Jane. The female pudend: low: from ca. 1850; ob.—2. ‘A stout, handsome, cheery woman’: Society: 1882–ca. 1915. Ware.

lady-killer. A male flirt: from ca. 1810: coll. >, ca. 1890, S.E. Whence lady-killing, n. and adj., which arose, the adj. in 1825, the n. in 1837 (OED): same change of status. Cf. masher.

Lady Lavery. (Gen. in pl.) An Irish Free State legal-tender note: Anglo-Irish, esp. among bank-clerks: from ca. 1925. Obviously ex that notability.

Lady Magger Hagger. Lady Margaret Hall: Oxford undergraduates’:—1922 (Marples, 2).

lady marm. An affected, pretentious woman: lower classes’ coll.:—1923 (Manchon). Var.: stuck-up marm.

Lady Muck. The female complement, a further var. of the prec., of Lord Muck, q.v.: low coll.: since the 1890s. ‘Stuck-up pair—think they’re Lord and Lady Muck, don’t they just!’ (P.B.).

Lady Nevershit. A ‘c.p. shock reproach to woman who seeks to opt away from fact seen as contaminating’ (L.A., 1967): C.20. Cf. think (one’s) shit..., q.v.

lady of easy virtue. See easy virtue.

lady of pleasure. S.E. euph.

† lady of the lake, a mistress: S.E.

lady of the gunroom. A C.19 var. (coll. verging on S.E.) of lady, 6. Bowen.

lady (or Virgin) of the Limp. A coll. var. (military) of the S.E. the Hanging Madonna or, esp., the Leaning Virgin, the displaced Basilique de Notre-Dame de Brébrières, at Albert: 1914–18. B. & P.

lady of the manor. An occ., late C.19–20 var. of lord of the manor, sixpence. B. & P.

lady penguins. Nuns in general: Aus. Catholics': C.20. (B.P.) Ex their black-and-white habits.

lady-sitter. A lady who allows herself to be appraised—and painted: painters':—1887; ob. by 1930. Baumann.

ladyfied. Having the appearance (l'air mais pas la chanson) of a fine lady: coll.: from ca. 1880.

lady's finger. See ladies' finger.

lady's hole. See lady, 6.

lady's ladder. See ladies' ladders.

lady's pocket-handkerchief. 'Any light fancy sail or flying kite': nautical pej.: C.19. Bowen.

lady's waist. A waisted glass in which beer is served; hence, the beer itself; Aus.: since ca. 1920. (B., 1942.) Cf. ladies' finger, 1.

ladyship, her. Our ship: nautical coll. rather than s.:—1887; ob. Baumann.

lag, n. (Also lage, q.v.). Water: c.: ca. 1560–1870. Harman.—2. Also, wine: c.: late C.16–19.—3. Hence (also lage), a 'wash' of clothes: c.: ca. 1560–1860. (Harman.) Esp. in lag of duds, in C.17–18 often corrupted to lag-a-duds.—4. A transported convict: c.:—1811; † by 1895. (Lex. Bal.) Prob. ex lag, v., 4 (It may well date back to 1740 or so.) Hence, any convict: from ca. 1830; also c. Prob. via returned lag (1828, Bee).—5. A sentence of transportation: c.:—1821; † by 1895. Hence (also lagging) a term of penal servitude: c.: from ca. 1850.—6. Hence, a prison-term of 3 years: Aus. and Brit c.: C.20. (B., 1942; Tempest, 1950, specifies 'three years penal servitude.') A lagging is, in C.20 Aus., a sentence of more than 2 years.—7. A ticket-of-leave man: c.: from ca. 1855. ('Ducange Anglicus') Usually old lag (—1856), which also = a one-time convict.—8. A fag: Westminster School:—1881.—9. A urination, as in 'I'm going for a lag': market-traders' (M.T.): a survival into later C.20 of the v., 1. Ex sense 1.

lag, v. To urinate: c. and low coll.: ca. 1560–1860. But see prec., 9.—2. Wash (gen. with off): c.: ca. 1560–1700. Harman.—3. Also v.t., to water (spirits): c. of ca. 1810–60. Vaux.—4. To transport as a convict: c.: from ca. 1810; † by 1900. (Vaux; Dickens.) Ex † lag, to carry away.—5. To send to penal servitude: c.: from ca. 1850. Edgar Wallace, passim.—6. Midway between these two senses: to arrest: from ca. 1823: c. >, by 1900, low and military. De Quincey; Nat Gould (OED).—7. V.i., to serve as a convict: c.: C.20. Ex sense 5.—8. To inform on (a person) to the police, to 'shop': c.: from ca. 1870. As 'to give up to the authorities; to convict' (McNeil), current in Aus., later C.20.

lag-a-duds. See lag, n., 3.

lag-fever. Illness feigned to avoid transportation: ca. 1810–90. Lex. Bal.

lag-ship. A convict transport: c. of ca. 1810–80. Vaux.

lage, n. See lag, n., 1, 3. Esp. lage of duds. Ex Old Fr. l'aige or l'aigue, the water: ?cf. newt for (a)n ewt.—2. Hence, weak liquor: C.17–18. (Brome, A Jovial Crew, 1652.) Cf. v., 1, and the C.20 low piss in this sense.

lage, v. Var. of lag, v., 1–3.

lagger. A sailor: low (? orig. c.) > nautical: from ca. 1810; ob. (Vaux.) Perhaps ex lag, to loiter.—2. A convict during or after imprisonment: c.: 1819 (OED); ob.—3. An informer to the police: from ca. 1870: c. Ex lag, v., 8. Current in Aus., later C.20. (McNeil).—4. A bargeman that, lying on his back, pushes the barge along with his feet on the roof of a subterranean canal: nautical: from ca. 1880. (Bowen.) Granville proposes deriv. ex dial. lagge or lig, to lie, but a corruption of legger seems just as plausible (P.B.).—5. A water-closet: market-traders': late C.19–20. By extension, laggerena: cf. crapperena. M.T.—6. Hence, a commode or a chamber-pot: id. (Ibid.) Senses 5 and 6 ex lag, n., 1 and 9, and v., 1. Cf. lagging-gage.

lagging. The vbl n. corresponding to lag, v., 4–7, qq.v. Esp. as a penal term of three years: c.:—1932 (anon., Dartmoor from Within). To be lagging is a C.20 c. var. of lag, v., 7. (Edgar Wallace, The Brigand, 1927.) Cf. fetch a lagging, q.v.

lagging and a lifer. Transportation for life: c. of ca. 1835–90. (Dickens.) See lifer.

lagging-dues will be concerned. He will be transported: c.: ca. 1810–60. Vaux.

lagging-gage. A chamber-pot: low if not indeed c.: C.18–19. Ex lag, v., 1.

lagging-matter. A crime potential of transportation: c. of ca. 1810–60. Vaux.—2. Hence, a crime likely to result in penal servitude: c.: from ca. 1860.

lagi. See PRISONER-OF-WAR SLANG, §9, in Appendix.

lahdee or lahdie. Smart (clothes); fashionable (hotels, resorts, etc.): Cockneys': since ca. 1930. (Tom Barling's 'thriller', Bergman's Blitz, 1973.) Ex la-di-da, q.v.

laid, n. A pollack: nautical: mid-C.19–20. (Bowen.) Possibly ex dial. laidly, ugly: it is not a handsome fish, for its lower jaw protrudes.

laid, adj. In pawn: Aus. low: late C.19–20. (Baker.) Ex laid on the shelf, etc.

laid back, adj. 'Being relaxed in style and character; easy-going, unhurried' (6000 Words, 1976); adopted, ex US, ca. 1977. (Listener, 19 Oct. 1978, once with ref. to an American concert audience, once to West African music.) "Laid back" can mean anything from "uninterested" to "lazy slob", and it is used usually by people who don't want to do anything' (George Berry, Sunday Times mag., 6 Aug. 1979).

laid on. See lay on, to arrange.

laid on the shelf. Pawned: C.19–20. Cf. lavender, 1, q.v.

laid on with a trowel. Applied orig. to a lie (see lie, n.), but more usu., since mid-C.19, to flattery: coll. >, by 1910, S.E.

lair. 'A flashily-dressed man. "Dead Lair": one who overdoes this vulgar dressing—lair-up: To dress, esp. to don one's best clothes for a festive occasion. [Esp. all laired-up.]—lairy: Vulgar, flashily or showily dressed' (B., 1942). This lairy comes ex leary, 2, q.v., and it originates the n. and the v. See also the var. lare. In Hot Gold, 1940, H. Drake Brockman has 'a regular lare' (synon. with 'dead lair') and 'lare around' (synon. with 'lareup').—2. Hence a larrikin or young hoodlum, esp. if flashily dressed: since ca. 1935. Hence, since ca. 1946, such compounds as mug lair, two-bob lair, ten-cent lair, all pej. B., 1953.

lairise. To behave flashily; 'to act or dress as a lair' (B., 1953): Aus. low: since ca. 1940. (Kylie Tennant, The Joyful Condemned, 1953.) Ex prec.

laury. 'Slow, slack; also cunning': Conway cadets:—1891 (John Masefield, The Conway, 1933). A corruption of leary, leery.—2. Conceited: Teddy-boys: mid-1950s. (Gilderdale, 2.)—3. See lair.

laker-lady. An actor's whore: theatrical: C.18–early 19. ?ex lady of the lake or ex lake (now dial.), to play amorously.

lakes, abbr.; Lakes of Killamey. Mad: rhyming s. (on barmy), esp. among grafters: C.20. (Cheapjack, 1934.) Patrick O'Shaughnessy (M.T., 1979) glosses lakes, and var. lakesy, simply as 'stupid'.

lakin, by (our). A (low) coll. form of by our Lady!: C.15–mid-17. OED.

laking, n. and adj. (The) being out of work: N. Country, esp. Yorkshire: since ca. 1920. Ex dial. lake, to play (John Hillerby, 1950.) Cf. playing.

lakh(s). See lac, 1.

Lal Brough. Snuff: rhyming s., perhaps mostly feminine usage: C.20. Pre-WW1 Lal or Lally, a Cockney dim. of Alice, was a gen. nickname for an old woman: 'the inference was that elderly women were snuff-takers' (Franklyn 2nd).

laldie, give (something). To enjoy it greatly: Glasgow:—1934. Ex dial. give laldie, to punish.

lall-shraub. Claret: Anglo-Indian coll.: from ca. 1780. Ex Hindustani lal-sharab, red wine. Y. & B., 'the universal name... in India'. From ca. 1815 occur variants loll-schraub, loll-shrob.

lallies. Legs: 1960s–early 1970s. Popularised by Hugh Pad-dick and Kenneth Williams in their 'camp' dialogues for the BBC radio comedy series 'Round the Horne', mid-1960s. Hunter Davies, The Rise and Fall of Jake Sullivan, 1970, 'strip off naked and flash yourself to the viewers. "What do you think, sexy?" Jake shouted to the make-up man. "Are you in the mood to see my lallies?"

lally. Linen; shirt: c.: late C.18—mid-19. (Parker.) Gen. lully, q.v.—2. A var. of Lal Brough, snuff, esp. in Holloway (women's) Prison. Franklyn 2nd.

lam, n. A hard hit: cricketers' coll.: since later C.19. (EDD.) Ex v., 2.—2. On the lam, on the run from justice, or as a deserter: in Britain adopted, ca. 1944, ex US servicemen; in Can., adopted ca. 1935.

lam, v.; lamb; old spelling lamm(e). To beat, thrash: 1596, though implied in 1595 in belam: S.E. >, in C.18, coll.; in late C.19—20, low coll. Dekker, 'Oh, if they had staid I would have so lamb'd them with flouts'; Grose; Anstey (d. 1934). Cognate with Old Norse lemja, lit., to lame; fig., to flog, thrash. Cf. lamback, lambaste, lambeak, lamb-pie.—2. To hit hard: cricketers' coll.: 1855. Lewis.

lam (it) into (one); lam out, v.i. To hit out; give a thrashing: mainly schoolboys': from ca. 1875.

lamb, as an easy-going person, a simpleton—as (esp. as Nottingham lamb) a cruel or a bludgeon man—and as a term of endearment: despite F. & H., it is S.E.—2. See Kirke's Lambs.—3. An elderly woman dressed like a young one: C.19—20, coll. mostly Cockney, and gen. as mutton dressed as lamb, mutton dressed lamb-fashion. Earliest (?) in The London Guide, 1818, 'Old harridans ... dress out lamb-fashion, wear false curls, and paint a little'.—4. Short for lamb chop, rhyming s. on pop, 'An injection of a narcotic' (Home Office): drug addicts': later C.20.—5. See skin the lamb.

lamb, v. See lam, v.

lamb and salad, give, v.t. To thrash: mid-C.19—early 20. Elab. on lam, q.v. Cf. lamb-pie.

lamb down, v. 'To defraud a "chequed-up" bushman by keeping him drunk until his funds are supposedly exhausted: ex helping a ewe to give birth' (Wilkes, whose earliest citation is 1869): low Aus.: later C.19.

lamb-fashion. See lamb, n., 4.

lamb-pie. A thrashing: low coll.: C.17—mid-19. Cf. lamb and salad.

[lamback, 1589, to beat, thrash, and as n.; lambacker, 1592, a bully; lambeak, 1555 as v., 1591 as n.; lambskin, to beat, a heavy blow (1573): these began as S.E. and did not survive long enough to > coll.]

lambaste. To beat, thrash: 1637: S.E. >, in C.18, coll.; in C.19—20, (dial. and) increasingly low coll. Davenant, 'Stand off awhile, and see how Ile lambaste him.' Ex lam, q.v., on bum-baste, q.v.

lambasting. A thrashing: 1694, Motteux, 'A tight lambasting': S.E. >, ca. 1750, coll.; from ca. 1860, low coll. and dial.

Lambeth, n. and v. Wash: South London:—1909; very ob. Ware, 'From the popular cleansing place in S. London being the Lambeth baths.'

lambie. See lamby.

lambing. See lamming.

lambing-down. Vbl n. of lamb-down, q.v. Hence lambing-down shop, a public house: Aus.: late C.19—early 20. B., 1942.

Lambra, the. 'The old Alhambra Theatre, Melbourne': Aus. coll.: ca. 1880—1920. B., 1942.

Lambs, the. The Royal West Surrey Regiment: military: late C.18—20. Ex Kirke's Lambs, q.v., and the orig. Regiment's badge of a lamb. F. & G.—2. See Sweet Lambs, the.—3. As Lambs, Light Armoured Motor Batteries: army, mostly in Mesopotamia: later WW1. F. & G.; A.J. Barker, The Neglected War, 1967.

lambskin (occ. lamb-skin) man. A judge: c. of ca. 1690—1830. (B.E.) Ex judge's gown, lined and bordered with ermine (Grose). Cf. furman, q.v.—2. See lamback.

lamby. (Gen. pl.) A mizzen-top man: RN:—1891 (Ware); John Masefield, The Conway, 1933.

lame as a tree. Extremely lame: proletarian coll.:—1887 (Baumann). Perhaps ex the noisy walking of a man with a wooden leg.

lame as St Giles, Cripplegate (, as). Very lame indeed—'applied to badly-told untruth': coll.: C.17—19. (Ware.) Ex the frequenting of that church by cripples, St Giles being their patron.

lame-brain(ed). (One) feeble of intellect; silly, daft: coll. verging on informal S.E.: C.20. Prob. adopted ex US. Jeff Nuttall, King Twist, 1979, 'the minions, the also-rans, the lame-brained underlings'. Sometimes used where 'lame' alone would suffice, as 'a lame-brained excuse'; prob. influenced by, e.g. a lame-brained idea, a bad or useless one. (P.B.) lame duck. A defaulter on the Stock Exchange: Stock Exchange: ca. 1760—1870. (Grose; Spy, II, 1826.) Sometimes simply 'duck', as at duck, n., 9.—2. A scapegrace: Aus. coll.: late C.19—early 20.—3. A stock-jobber: Aus.: since ca. 1920. B., 1942.—4. As anyone handicapped or disadvantaged it is, in later C.20, informal S.E. 'A few lame ducks at the bottom of the class ...' (P.B.) lame-hand. An inferior driver: coaching: ca. 1800—70.

lame post, come by the. To be late (esp. of news): from ca. 1650: coll. >, ca. 1700, proverbial S.E. Fuller, 1732, records, 'The lame post brings the truest news.'

lamentable, despicable, wretchedly bad: late C.17—20: joc. S.E. verging on, indeed occ. descending to, the coll. Cf. deplorable. OED.

Lamington. A Homburg hat: Aus.: since ca. 1910. B., 1942.—2. A small sponge-cake covered with desiccated coconut: Aus. coll.: C.20. (Mrs C. Raab.)

lamm(e). See lam.

Lammermoor lion. A sheep: C.18—mid-19 mainly Scots joc. coll. Cf. Cotswold lion; contrast Essex or Rumford lion, qq.v. Lammie Todd! I would—if I got the chance! From ca. 1860; ob.: tailors'. Prob. ex a well-known tailor's name.

lammikin, a var. of lambskin (see lamback).

lamming. A beating, thrashing: 1611, Beaumont & Fletcher, 'One whose dull body will require a lamming': S.E. till C.18, then coll.; from ca. 1850, low coll.

lammy. A term of address: dustmen's: earlier C.19. Bee suggests deriv. ex Fr. l'ami, as in 'Ohé! l'ami'.—2. A blanket: c.: from ca. 1885. (B. & L.) Ex nautical S.E. sense, a thick quilted jumper, from which comes also lammy coat, a thick, hooded duffel coat, as in 'Taffrail', Pincher Martin, 1916.

lamp, n. An eye: late C.16—20: S.E. till C.19, then s., gen. in pl. (Lex. Bal.) In C.19 c., a queer lamp is a blind, squinting, sore or weak eye. Cf. Fr. c. lamper and US lamp (partly anglicised as c. by 1920), to gaze at.—2. (Extremely rare in singular.) Spectacles: late C.19—20: low, mostly Cockney. (Miliken.) Abbr. gig-lamps, q.v.—3. See light the lamp; under the lamp.

lamp, v. To see, to spy; to gaze at: some use in Brit. c. since ca. 1920 (see n., 1), adopted ex US; Aus. c. and low s. since ca. 1944. Kylie Tennant, The Joyful Condemned, 1953; McNeil.—2. 'To lamp a bloke is to attack him with your bunch of fives [fists] or knives or razors. To job 'im means the same thing. A street corner fight is a bundle or a tole' (Gilderdale, 2); Teddy-boys': 1954 +. Cf. bundle up, q.v. But earlier as Brit. c.: in Graham Greene, Brighton Rock, 1938.

lamp country. 'Walking out at night without money in one's pockets' (B. & L.): army: late C.19. I.e. when the lights are lit.

lamp-lighter. See lamplighter.

lamp-post. A tall, very thin person: (low) coll.: from ca. 1870. Cf. hop-pole and lamper.—2. See between you (and) me and ...

lamp-post navigation. Going from buoy to buoy: RN: C.20. (John Irving, Royal Navalase, 1946.) There may be here, as Claiborne suggests, a ref. to 'a "drunk" tacking from lamp-post to lamp-post'.

lamper. A lamp-post; hence, a tall, thin person: ca. 1920—40. By the 'OXFORD -ER'.

lampie, -y. A lamp-trimmer: RN lowerdeck coll.: ca. 1880—1920. Knock.

lamplighter. A species of cicada: Aus. coll.: late C.19—20. B., 1959.—2. In (off) like a lamplighter, (off) 'like a streak': coll.: ca. 1840—1920. In EDD, which notes var. like lamp-lighters.

lamps. See lamp, n., 1 and 2.

Lanc or Lank. An Avro Lancaster bomber aircraft: RAF coll.: 1942–6. Partridge, 1945.—2. A Lancashire man: navvies': since ca. 1870. (D.W. Barrett, 1880.) Cf. Lancy.

Lancashire Lads, the. The 47th Foot, in late C.19–20 the Loyal (North Lancashire) Regiment: military: 1782; ob. F. & G. details an anecdotal explanation.—2. The Lancashire Fusiliers: military coll.: late C.19–20. Ibid.

Lancashire lass; gen. pl. A tumbler: rhyming s. (on glass): from ca. 1880. (P.P., Rhyming Slang, 1932.) Cf.:

Lancashire lasses. Spectacles: Manchester: C.20. Rhyming on (eye)glasses. (Jacob Jaffe, 1959.)

lance. Lance-corporal: coll. late C.19–20.

lance-comical. Lance-corporal: army: since ca. 1946.

Lance-Corporal Trolope. A driver mechanic: army: since ca. 1939. 'These "driver mecs" were not usually highly trained, and the tow-rope was the tool they used most to get a broken-down truck to workshops. Not complimentary' (Peter Sanders).

lance-jack. A lance-corporal: army coll.: late C.19–20. (F. & G.) Cf. sauce-jack, q.v.

lance-knight, lanceman, lanceman-prigger. A highwayman: c. of ca. 1590–1640. The first in Nashe, the other two in Greene. See prigger. Perhaps lanceman was suggested by Fr. se lancer. Lance-knight prob. 'comes directly from S. German Landsknechte, the mercenary soldiers who looted and murdered all over Germany in C.16–17, at a period when touring companies of English actors were popular over there' (H. R. Spencer).

lance- (or rear-rank) private. A private 'on approbation', on trial; inferior: joc. army coll.: from ca. 1906. B. & P.

lancepresado, lanspresado, lansprizado. One who comes into company with but two pence in his pocket: c. of ca. 1650–1800. (B.E.) See TAVERN TERMS, §6, in Appendix. Ex lancepesade, lanceprizado, a lance-corporal in an army of mercenaries.

lancer. A shot missing the target: army: early C.20. (F. & G.) Perhaps a jibe at the Lancer regiments.

Lancers (pron. lanks), the. The Lancashire regts: army coll.: C.20. (F. Brett Young, Jim Redlake, 1930.) As in, e.g., 'The Yorks and Lancers'.

Lancy or Lanky. A Lancashire—hence, loosely, also a Yorkshire—employee: railwaymen's: C.20. Railway.—2. An Avro Lancaster bomber aircraft: mostly Can.: WW2. Spelt Lanky, 'under the influence of a very popular radio serial entitled "L for Lanky"' (Leechman). Cf. Lanc, 1.

land, n. In my land!, a mild Can. (and US) oath: mid-C.19–20. (John Beames.) Ex Eng. dial.; land = Lord.—2. See live off the land; see how the land lies.

land, to arrive, cause to arrive, set down, is S.E.—2. To cause a horse to win (v.t.); (v.i.) to win: sporting coll.: 1853, Whyte-Melville.—3. To establish, set one 'on his feet', make safe: 1868, Yates (OED); Hindley, 'I bought a big covered cart and a good strong horse. And I was landed.'—4. (V.t.) to deliver, get home with: boxers':—1887 (Baumann); 1888, J. Runciman, 'Their object is to land one cunning blow.' Earlier lend, playful for give (W.).

land and sea. 'Last night, near Shepherd's Bush, I caught an airman, not from this Depot, eating "land and sea" (fish and chips)' (T.E. Lawrence, The Mint, 1955, but dealing with the year 1922): airmen's: ca. 1918–40.

land crab. A loutish or oafish landlubber: naval: late C.18–mid-19. Bill Truck, 1821.—2. A sailor who forsakes the sea: nautical, esp. RN: C.20. Peppitt cites E. Karlsson, Pully-hauly, 1966.—3. A military policeman: Services' (not very gen.): WW1. F. & G.—4. The super-express engine of the London, Midland & Scottish: railwaymen's: ca. 1930–50. Ex the abundance of outside machinery.—5. See Matelots.

land-face. See ship (one's) land-face.

land-loper or -lubber. A vagabond, a pilfering tramp: C.17–early 19 coll.; after ca. 1860, low. (B.E., Grose.) The earlier form, land-leaper, was S.E.—2. As a nautical term, S.E.

land navy, the. Pretended sailors: vagabonds' c.: C.19. Mayhew, 1862; Ware.

Land of Cakes, the. Scotland: coll.: C.18–early 20.

Land of Hope. Soap: C.20 rhyming s. (Franklyn 2nd.) Var. Cape of Good Hope.

land of incumbents. Good clerical livings: Oxford University: ca. 1820–70. (Egan's Grose, 1823.) See also land of promises and land of sheepishness.

Land of No Future. The Ruhr: RAF, esp. Bomber Command: 1941–3. (S/Ldr John Pudney, 1945.) Cf. no future and Happy Valley, 2.

land of nod. (Occ. with capitals; always prec. by the.) Sleep: C.18–20: coll. till C.19, then S.E. Swift, 'I'm going to the land of Nod'; Grose; Scott, 1818, in The Heart of Midlothian. Punning the Biblical place-name.

land of promises. A freshman's ambitions: Oxford University s. > coll.: ca. 1820–60. (Egan's Grose, 1823.) Cf. land of incumbents and-land of sheepishness. The being a schoolboy: Oxford University: ca. 1820–50. (Egan's Grose.) Cf. prec., and land of incumbents, qq.v.

Land of Sweet F.A. with a river running up it, the. Mesopotamia (later Iraq): Services': WW1. (A.J. Barker, The Neglected War, 1967.) Cf. miles and miles...

land office. An on-shore police station: Metropolitan River Police term, midway between j. and coll.: later C.20. Peppitt cites the London Evening News, 29 June 1972.

land-pirate, -rat. A highwayman, footpad, or vagabond thief: C.17–early 19: the former, c.; the latter, S.E.: resp. Dekker, Grose; Shakespeare.

land-raker. A vagabond, esp. if a thief: late C.16–mid-18: coll. (Shakespeare.) Cf. land-pirate, -rat, q.v.

land-security. A C.19 var. of leg-bail, q.v.

land-shark. As land-grabber and as one preying on sailors: S.E.—2. A user: C.19–20 (ob.) coll., mostly low when not US.—3. A custom-house officer: coll.: 1815 (Scott, in Guy Mannering); ob. by 1930.—4. A lawyer: nautical:—1860: coll. H., 2nd ed.

land squatters. (Very rare in singular.) Those tramps who, in their begging, do not specialise in either themes or localities: tramps' c.:—1932 (Frank Jennings, Tramping with Tramps).

land-swab. A landsman; an incompetent seaman: nautical: from ca. 1840. See also swab.

land with. To impose an onerous duty or unwelcome burden on (someone): coll.: C.20. Cf. synon. clobber with and lumber, v., 4.

landed estate. The grave: coll.: C.19–early 20. Cf. Darby's dyke and landowner.—2. Dirt under one's nails: low coll.: late C.19–early 20.

lander. A blow or punch that reaches its mark: pugilistic:—1923 (Manchon).

landies. Gaiters: Winchester College: ca. 1840–80. Ex Landy & Currell, the firm that supplied them.

landlady. See bury the landlady.

landowner, become a. To die: late C.19–20, esp. among soldiers in WW1. Prob. a development ex landed estate, q.v.

Land's End or land's end, at (the). At last; sooner or later: proverbial coll.: ca. 1540–1600. ('Proverbs' Heywood.) Ex the geographical feature, perhaps; prob., however, in ref. to land-end, 'a piece of ground at the end of a "land" in a ploughed field' (OED). Cf. the 1970s political j. or cliché at the end of the day.

Land's End to John o' Groats, from. All the way; thoroughly: proverbial coll.: from ca. 1820; ob. Scott, Peacock.

lands in Appleby. See who has lands...? land's sake(s); for the land's sake! A proletarian exclam.: late C.19–early 20. (John Galsworthy, The White Monkey, 1924.) I.e. Lord's sake; cf. land, n., 1.

landslip. A caterpillar tank: army: 1917–18. Ex the landslides a tank may cause.

lane. (Always as the Lane, the following 7:) Drury Lane Theatre: theatrical:—1880 (G.R. Sims). Hence another murder down the Lane, another (melo)drama at Drury Lane Theatre: ca. 1880–1920. Cf. the Garden, Covent Garden Theatre.—2. Mincing Lane: (mostly Colonial) brokers': from ca. 1870.—3. Mark Lane: corn-factors': from ca. 1860.—4. Chancery Lane: legal: from ca. 1850.—5. Petticoat Lane: c.: from ca. 1870. See also Petticoat Lane.—6. Other roads or streets with 'Lane' in the title, e.g., East Lane, Walworth, and Horsham Lane, naturally tend to be known to local inhabitants as the Lane.—7. Horsemonger Lane Gaol: c. ca. 1850–90. (Mayhew.) This gaol was demolished in 1896.—8. As the lane, the throat: from ca. 1550. (Udall.) Esp. the narrow lane (Udall, 1542: † by 1800) or the red lane (1785, Grose) and Red Lion Lane (1865: OED); † by 1930. Cf. gutter lane, q.v.—9. See Harriet Lane.

langers and godders. (The singing of) Auld Lang Syne and God Save the King: Oxford University, but not very gen.: C.20. by the 'OXFORD -ER(S)'. langolee. The male member: low: mid-C.19–early 20. ? a perversion of Welsh gipsy trangluni, tools (Sampson.)
langret. A die so loaded that it shows 3 or 4 more often than any other number: mid-C.16–18: c. > s. > coll > j. >, by 1700, S.E. and archaic. (Greene.) Ex lang = long.
Langtries. Fine eyes: Society: ca. 1880–1900. Lily Langtry, 'the Jersey Lily', shone as one of the most beautiful women of her time (1852–1929); went on the stage in 1881 and had a tremendous success; married Sir Hugo de Bathe in 1899. Just as in the Orient, to the natives every gentleman is Mr Mackenzie (occ. MacGregor), so, at Aden and Suez, every pretty woman is (or was until 1924, at the least) Mrs Langtry. (I.e. in address.)—2. Hence, during the same period, female breasts.

language. Bad language; swearing, obscenity: 1886 (SOD): low coll. (Besant.) Often in the imperative = 'Mind your (bad) language!', or simply 'language!', in disapprobation. language of flowers, the. 'Ten shillings—or seven days; the favourite sentence of Mr Flowers, a very popular and amiable magistrate at': Bow Street Police Court: 1860–83. (Ware.) Contrast say it with flowers.

Languisher and Yawner, the. The Lancashire & Yorkshire Railway: railwaymen's: ca. 1890–1925. (Railway, 2nd.) Also known as the Lanky and York. Cf. Lancy.
Lank. See Lanc.—2. In after a lank comes a bank, a proverbial c.p. in ref. to pregnant women: ca. 1650–1820.
Lanky, the. The London & North-Western Railway: railwaymen's: earlier C.20. (Mr Ritson Graham, quoted in McKenna, 2, p. 173.) Cf. synon Lean and Narrow-Waisted; Wessy; and see Languisher...

Lannet. A slotted kip: Aus. two-up players': since ca. 1910 (?). (B., 1943.) Origin? lanspresado, -prisado. See lancepresado. lantern. In dark lantern (late C.18–19) or lanthorn (late C.17–19), a servant or an agent receiving a bribe at court: ca. 1690–1820. B.E.—2. In hold the lantern, 'to relax while someone else does the work' (B.P.): mostly Aus.: C.20. Ex the song, 'I hold the lantern while my mother chops the wood'—3. See Ballarar lantern.

lantern-jaw. 'There are no set of men so badly used as the pursers... They are called nip-cheeses, lantern jaws, with many other equally elegant cognomens on board' (Fredk Chamier, The Life of a Sailor, 1832, at I, 174: Moe).
lap, n. Any potable: from ca. 1565; ob. In C.16–19 c., butter-milk, whey (Harman); in late C.17–19 c., also pottage (Head). In C.18–20, also tea (G. Parker) and, from 1618, less gen. strong drink: low except, as often in mid-C.19–20, when joc. Among C.19–20 (ob.) ballet-girls, it gen. denotes gin. Ex the v. Hence go on the lap, to drink (strong liquor): low s. > low coll.: late C.19–early 20. Punch, 25 Sep. 1885: 'Grinds 'ard, never goes on the lap./Reads Shakespeare instead of the Pink 'Un.'—2. See under the lap.

lap, v. As = to drink, it is S.E., though undignified when used of persons; in C.19–20, joc. or trivial.

lap-clap. A copulation; a conceiving; low coll.: C.17–mid-18. Hence, get a lap-clap, to become pregnant.

lap-feeder. A silver table-spoon: low: C.19–early 20.

lap-gunner. 'The member of a (Sherman tank) crew seated in the hull alongside the driver and firing a machine-gun' (B.A. Liddell Hart, The Tanks, 1959): army: ca. 1943–5.

lap it up. To enjoy the fictions of novelists and film-producers: coll.: since ca. 1920. Berta Ruck, A Story-Teller Tells the Truth, 1935.—2. To be susceptible to flattery. See lap up.—3. (Usu. as lapping it up.) To have a safe, or easy, time; to be aware of this advantage and to be actively appreciative of it: orig. Guardsmen's, from 1939 (Roger Grinstead, They Dug a Hole, 1946); later, widespread coll. throughout the Army, and applied to the enjoyment of anything (P.B.).

lap the gutter. See gutter, n., 3.

lap up. To flatter (a person): c.: C.20. (F.D. Sharpe, 1938.) Ironically ex lap it up, to swallow flattery as a cat does cream: coll.: C.20.

lapel. See ship the white lapel.

lapful. A husband, a lover; an unborn child: resp. low s., low coll.: C.19–20, ob. by 1930.

lapland, Lapland. The female pudenda: low: from ca. 1840.—2. The society of women: low coll.: from ca. 1850. Punning lap and Lapland.

lapper. Drink, esp. if liquor: c.: C.19–early 20.—2. But rare lapper = a hard drinker: id.—3. A lap dog: late C.19–early 20. W.N. Willis, The White Slaves of London, 1912.

lappy cull. A drunk man: c.: C.18. (C. Hitchin, The Regulator, 1718.) Cf. lushing man.

laprogh. A goose: a duck; loosely, a bird of any kind: Shelta: C.18–20. B. & L.

larboard peeper. The left eye: nautical:—1887; ob. Baumann.

larbolians, -ins (both in Smyth); larbowlines (Bowen). Men in the larboard, or port, watch: nautical: late C.18–early 20. Bill Truck, Nov. 1822, larbolians.

lard head. A fool; a very simple fellow: Aus.: C.20. B., 1942. lardy, lardy-dardy, lardy-dah. Adj., affected, 'swell', though lardy (abbr. lardy-dardy) very rarely = affected. Somewhat low: resp. 1890 and ob., 1861 (Miss Braddon), ca. 1870 and a mere var. of la-di-da, q.v.

lardy-dardy, v.i. To act the 'swell'; be affected; show off: 1887, G.R. Sims, 'Other men were lardy-dardy about... enjoying themselves' (OED). See la-di-da. lardy-dardy toff. An effeminate 'swell': proletarian: from ca. 1885; ob. B. & L.

lare. A loud-voiced, flashily dressed man: c.: C.20. Cf.: lare up, n. A smart, shrewd fellow: Aus. low: C.20. (Kylie Tennant, The Battlers, 1941.) See lair, and cf.:

lare up, v.i. To boast: c.: C.20. Origin? Prob. ex.—2. To dress flashily: see entry at lair. lareover (or lare-over); lay-over, layer-over. A word used instead of one that must, in decency, be avoided: late C.17–early 20: the first, coll. and dial.; the others, S.E. (B.E.) Cf:

lareovers for meddlers. 'An answer frequently given to children, or young people, as a rebuke for their impertinent curiosity' (Grose): c.p.: C.18–20. It survives as lay-overs, or layers, for meddlers, esp. in the N. Country and Midlands. Cf. ockle-cockle box, q.v.; and see DCpp.

large, adj. gen. used as adv. Excessively: (low) coll.: from ca. 1850. Thus, dress large, i.e. showily; go large, i.e. noisily; play large, i.e. for high stakes; talk large, i.e. boastfully. Cf. all very large, q.v., and see the entries at big..., in many of which large may be substituted for big.

large as life and twice as natural (, as). A US c.p. ex T.C. Haliburton's The Clockmaker, 1837: adopted in Brit. well before the end of C.19. A Brit. var. from ca. 1910 is (as) large as life and twice as ugly. Sometimes simply as in 'There he was—large as life'. See DCpp.

large house. A workhouse: low coll.: from ca. 1850. Cf. big house.

large order. Something big or exaggerated or very difficult: coll., by 1930 verging on S.E.: 1890 (Pall Mall Gazette, 17 Feb.). Ex commerce. Cf. fall order., at order, n., 3.

larikin. An occ. var. of larrikin, q.v.

lark, n. A game; piece of merriment or mischief; trick: an early occurrence is in Sessions, Apr. 1802 (p. 221): s. >, ca. 1870, coll. Dickens, in Pickwick, "Here's a lark!" shouted half a dozen hackney coachmen.' Hence to go on or have or take a lark, to be mischievously merry; go on the spree: from ca. 1815: s. >, ca. 1870, coll. Vaux, 1812, records synon. knock up a lark, prob. c. > low s.: † by 1890. Cf. fuck this for a lark, q.v. at fuck that for a game... Ex the Northern dial. lake, sport, play. P.B.: but no doubt influenced by the apparent gaiety of the bird.—2. A boat: from ca. 1785: c. > s. >, ca. 1850, nautical s., > ca. 1870, nautical j.; ob. by 1930. (Grose, 2nd ed.) Prob. ark (q.v.) perverted.—3. Abbr. mud-lark, q.v.—4. A line of business; grafters': late C.19–20. (Cheapjack, 1934.) Cf. lay, 2, and law, 2.

lark, v. See the amorous and the sporting sense of larking.—2. To play (esp. the fool); be mischievously merry; go on the 'spree': 1813 (Colonel Hawker); Barham, 'Don't lark with the watch, or annoy the police.'—3. To ride in a frolicsome way or across country: 1835, 'Nimrod' (OED): sporting s. >, ca. 1870, coll.—4. V.t., tease playfully: 1848, Thackeray (OED): s. >, ca. 1880, coll.—5. V.t., to ride (a horse) across country: from ca. 1860: sporting s. >, ca. 1880, coll.; ob.—6. To jump (a fence) needlessly: 1834 (Ainsworth); ob. (OED). Ex the n., 1, q.v. for etym.

lark about or around. C.20 extension of lark, v., 2.

larker. A person given to (mischievous) fun: from ca. 1825: s. >, ca. 1870, coll.

larkin. A girl: Shelta: C.18–20. B. & L.—2. 'A very strong spiced punch': Anglo-Indian: from ca. 1860. (Ibid.) Prob. ex concocter's name.—3. See down to Larkin.

larkiness. The abstract n. of lark, q.v.: coll.: C.20. OED Sup.

larking, n. Cunnilingism: low: C.18–19 (?20). Grose, 1st ed.; absent in latter ed.—2. Fun; a mischievous frolic: from ca. 1812: s. >, ca. 1870, coll. Beddoes, 'Professors of genteel larking.'—3. Sporting senses of lark, v., q.v.—4. Theft: c., and police s.: since ca. 1920. Norman.—5. In down to larking, wrongly convicted: c., hence low plebeian s.: since ca. 1945. Cf. down to larkin, which Powis, 1977, glosses as 'free', as of 'a free drink'; this may be connected with sense 4.

larking, adj. Given to 'larks' (see lark, n., 1); sportive: from early C.19; s. >, ca. 1870, coll. Moe cites W.N. Glascock, Sketch-Book (II, 135), 1826.

larkish. Fond of, or of the nature of, a 'lark' (q.v.): from ca. 1880. Whence larkishness.

larks. In come half larks with (someone), to impose on that person's credulity: low:—1923 (Manchon); ob. See lark, n., 1.

larks in the night, the. A 'jocular c.p. for birds which are regarded as responsible for more births than the stork' (B.P.): Aus.: since ca. 1930. A double pun: on lark, n., 1, and on bird in the sense of a girl.

larksome. Fond of a 'lark', apt to indulge in 'larks': coll.: from ca. 1870.

larky. Ready or inclined to play 'larks' (see lark, n.): 1841 (OED Sup.): s. >, ca. 1870, coll. H. Mayo, 'When the Devil is larky, he solicits the witches to dance round him' (OED).—2. Hence, occ. as adj.: C.20. OED Sup.

larky subaltern's train. See cold-meat train, 2.

Larrence. See lazy Laurence.

larries. A C.18 var. of lurries (see at lurry). The Scoundrel's Dict., 1754.

larrikin; occ. larikin. A (gen. young) street rowdy: orig. and mainly Aus.: 1870 or a few years earlier: s. >, ca. 1890, coll. >, ca. 1910, S.E. (Melbourne) Herald, 4 Apr. 1870, 'Three larikins... had behaved in a very disorderly manner in Little Latrobe-street.' Cf. hoodlum, hooligan, tough, qq.v. Also as adj.: 1870 (Marcus Clarke). See esp. Morris. Etymologies proposed: leary kinchen (see separate words), fantastic; a pron. of larking, ineptly fantastic; Larry, a common Irish pet-form of Lawrence, + kin (OED); perhaps orig. Cornish, where larrikin = a 'larker' (q.v.), suggested by W., not to the exclusion of the prec., which seems the most likely.—2. Wilkes notes, with quot'ns from early 1970s, 'a more favourable sense, as though referring to authentically "Australian" characteristics of non-conformism, irreverence, impudence (projected on to the larrikin as romanticized by Lawson and C.J. Dennis)'.

lar(r)ikiness. A female larrikin: 1871: same remarks as for prec., q.v.

larrikinism. The habits and tricks of larrikins: 1870: remarks as for larrikin, q.v. The Australian, 10 Sep. 1870, 'A slight attempt at "larrikinism" was manifested.'

larrop; occ. larrop and † lirrop. To beat, thrash: coll. and dial.: from ca. 1820. Fonblanque, 1829, 'Is this land of liberty, where a man can't larrop his own nigger?' (OED). ?ex lee-rope, as an early glossarist proposed, or, as W. proposes, suggested by lather, leather, and wallop, qq.v.

larroping. Vbl n. of prec.: a thrashing. Coll. and dial.: from ca. 1825. Peake.

larry. A familiar of larrikin: Aus.: from ca. 1875.—2. See happy as Larry.

Larry Dooley. Esp. in give (someone) L-D-, 'To administer punishment, give a hiding (unexplained, although a connection has been claimed with the pugilist Larry Foley)' (Wilkes): Aus.: since mid-C.20.

Larry Dugan's eye-water. Blacking: mostly Anglo-Irish: ca. 1770–1820. Ex a very well-known Dublin shoe-black. Grose.

larstin(g)s. Elastic-sided boots: Aus. low: since ca. 1910. (Baker; Sarah Campion, 1942.) Blend of 'elastic' + 'things'? Or perhaps 'lastics', from lahstics and 'softened' to lahstins or larstins, as Dr Douglas Leechman has proposed.

lary. Cheeky; 'cock-a-hoop': low: C.20. (Arthur Gardner, Tinker's Kitchen, 1923.) Cf. lare, and latry, q.v. at lair.

lascar. A tent-pitcher; (in full, gun-lascar) an inferior artilleryman: Anglo-Indian coll.: from late C.18; both ob. (As a sailor, S.E.)

lash, n. Violence: Aus.:—1916 (C.J. Dennis). Perhaps ex lash out at.—2. A trick: Aus.: since ca. 1920. B., 1942.—3. In have a lash (at), to try (v.i.); to attempt (v.t.): Aus.: C.20. (B., 1942.) Cf. have a bash at, and similar phrases.

lash, v. To envy. Gen. as lash!, used as a taunt: the Blue Coat school:—1877; ob. by 1930. Blanch.

lash-out. 'A sudden burst of work on the approach of an officer' (Granville): RN: since ca. 1905. Ex a (horse's or a) boxer's lashing out; cf. lash, n., 1.

lash-up, n. A break-down; a failure, a fiasco or 'mess-up': RN (late C.19–early 20) >, by 1915, army. F. & G.—2. Hence, a turmoil: nautical:—1935.—3. Anything makeshift: RN coll. (late C.19–20) > widespread gen. 'Taffrail', Mystery at Milford Haven, 1936, 'The boat... was what a blue-jacket would have called a "lash-up", a thing of bits and pieces.' I.e. lashed together.—4. An informal social occasion, esp. an informal party: since ca. 1950. (Desmond Bagley, The Vivero Letter, 1968.) Ex sense 3.

lash up, v. To stand (someone) treat: RN since ca. 1905. Granville, "'T'll lash you up to a couple of pints when we have a run ashore", originated from lashing up a messmate's hammock.'

lash up and stow, n. 'Meat cut small, placed in dough' (Knock): lowerdeck: late C.19–20.

lash-up repairs. Rough-and-ready repairs: RAF coll.: 1939+.

lashin(g)s. Gen. of drink, occ. of food, rarely of anything else.) Plenty: coll., orig. Anglo-Irish: 1829, Scott, 'Whiskey in lashings'; 1841, Lever, 'Lashings of drink,' these quotations illustrating the gen. forms; the former is ob. Perhaps ex, or for, lavishings (W.); prob. ex † S.E. lash out, to squander. Cf. whips, q.v., and:

lashin(g)s and lavin(g)s. Plenty and to spare: Anglo-Irish coll.: from ca. 1840.

lashington uppers. Any form of treat: RN: earlier C.20. A fanciful elab. of lash up, v. (Granville.) la'ship. A coll. form of ladyship: C.18–early 19. OED.

lashool. Pleasant: Shelta: C.18–20. B. & L.

lass in a red petticoat. A wife well-endowed: proverbial coll., esp. in the lass in the red petticoat shall pay for, or piece up, all ca. 1660–1800. J. Wilson, The Cheats, 1664 (Apperson.).

lassitudinarian. A person of infirm health: Society: 1894–1914. (Ware.) Punning Latitudinarian and valetudinarian.

last, n. A person's most recent joke, witticism, etc.: coll.: 1843 (SOD). E.g. 'X's last is a scream.'—2. Also elliptical, and always as the last: 'The end of one's dealings with something': coll.: 1854 (SOD). Dickens, 'If it ever was to reach your father's ears I should never hear the last of it.'

last, v. "'To last'", derived from lashing a boat, meant that the man who actually got the money or cheque defrauded them of some part of their share' (Bournemouth Evening Echo, 20 Apr. 1966): c.: since ca. 1930.

last bit o(f) family-plate, the. The final silver coin: artisans':—1909 (Ware).

last bucket, I (or he) didn't come up in the. I'm no fool; I wasn't born yesterday: RN: C.20. (Granville.) Cf. the Aus. C.20 versions didn't come down in the last rain (1906), and the more common ... in the last shower (Wilkes). Granville notes the latter also as RN, with the counter-retort, 'You mightn't have come down in the last shower, but you're pretty wet, all the same!'

last card of (one's, or the) pack. The back: rhyming s.: 1857, Augustus Mayhew, Paved with Gold. Since ca. 1920, t.—2. Usu. last card in the pack, a snack: theatrical rhyming s.: C.20. Franklyn, Rhyming.

last cast, at the. At one's last chance or shift: ca.1450–1750: coll. >, by 1600, S.E. Ex dicing.

last compliment. Burial: coll.: late C.18–early 20.

last drink, take (one's). To die by drowning: Can. lumbermen's coll.: late C.19–20. (John Beames.)

last hope. An iron ration: army: 1915–18. (F. & G.) Used only in emergency.

last knocking, the. The late(est) fares: taxi-drivers': since ca. 1920. Herbert Hodge, Cab, Sir?, 1939.—2. Be on the last knockings, to be nearing the end of a job or an undertaking: since ca. 1925.—3. (In pl.) 'Last calls for drinks near pub. closing time, and comparable last calls' (L.A., 1978): coll.: C.20.

last of its tribe. Aus. version of the last of the Mohicans, q.v.: C.20. 'Be careful of the chisel; it's the last of its tribe' (B.P.).? With ref. to the Aboriginal tribes.

last of the Barons, the. 'A nickname given to the "Baron of Exchequer" last appointed, since afterwards the Court of Exchequer was done away with': legal: ca. 1875–1910. (B. & L.) Pun suggested by the title of Bulwer Lytton's historical novel.

last of the big (-time) spenders, the. Ironic c.p. directed either at one extremely and notoriously mean, the Aus. nuance, either directly or in ref. (B.P.); or, ruefully, e.g., about oneself, as in 'Fiveness each? [for raffle tickets] Give me two—last of the big-time spenders, me!' (P.B.): since ca. 1955.

last of the Mohicans, the. A c.p. applied to the last of anything, e.g. a cigarette in a packet: C.20; by 1950, ob. Ex Fenimore Cooper's famous novel.

last one (to complete a dare) is a cissy! In children's play, one may shout, arbitrarily 'last one back to the house is a cissy!'; adopted, for joc. use, by adults: C.20. (P.B.) Contrast play chicken; cf. chicken!, q.v., and—last out, lousy! Children's (esp. Aus.) c.p., mostly in games: C.20. B.P.

last shake o(f) the bag. Youngest child: proletarian: C.19–20; ob. Ware.

last ship, a. A nautical coll. (C.19–20), thus in Bowen, 'Anything that is the epitome of excellence, for the sailor always has good things to say, and odious comparisons to make, of his last ship, no matter what she was like.'

last shower. See last bucket.

last the full distance. See go the full distance.

last thing. Late at night: coll.: mid-C.19–20. Short for last thing at night. Cf. first thing.

last three (, one's). The last three figures of a serviceman's or -woman's number: Services' j. rather than coll.; and certainly not s. The last three figures are often used instead of the full number. Esp. useful in the Welsh regts, with their paucity of surnames. (E.P., who thought it was used only in the RAF; amended by P.B., formerly 697 Pte Beale, P.C.)

laster. The flow of the tide: nautical: C.19. (Bowen.) ?the ebb-flow, 'the last of it'.—2. A large piece of toffee, designed to last a long time: Lancing: ca. 1890–1935. Marples.

lasting, adj. (Of a horse) having staying power: sporting: from ca. 1810.

lastins. var. of larstins.

lat or lat-house. A latrine: C.20 military. (B. & P.) Occ. the lats.

latch. To let in: c. of ca. 1720–1850. A New Canting Dict.

latch-key. A crowbar: Irish Constabulary's: 1881–2. (Ware.) Because so often used by them in evictions.

latch-key kid. A child whose parents are away at work all day, and who must therefore let himself into the home after school, etc.: coll. verging on informal S.E.: later C.20. (Mrs Daphne Beale.)

latch lifter. 'The first drink of the evening. An aperitif' (McKenna, Glossary): railwaymen's: C.20.

latch on, usu. intransitive, as in 'He didn't latch on'. To understand: since ca. 1919. Ex dial. latch, to catch, to seize, to grasp.

latch-opener. The 'price' of a drink (cf. entrance-fee): military: C.20. B. & P.

latch-pan. The under lip. Hence, hang one's latch-pan, to pout, be sulky: coll. and dial.: C.19–20. Ex lit. sense.

late. Keeping late hours: coll.: from ca. 1630. 'Having to do with persons or things that arrive late': coll.: 1862, 'the "late" mark'. But late fee, earlier late-letter fee, has passed from coll., via Post Office j., to S.E. (SOD.)

Late and Never Early, the. The London & North-Eastern Railway: railwaymen's: 1923–47. (Railway, 2nd.) Cf. Lean and Narrow-Waisted.

Late Arrivals Club, the. Those aircrews who had, in the desert, been forced to walk back to their lines: RAF in N. Africa: WW2. (P-G-R.) Cf. the Resurrectionists of the Crimean War, soldiers believed killed or missing, who later returned to their units.

late night final. 'That last drink before the wardroom bar closes' (Granville): RN officers' joc.: mid-C.20. With ref. to the last edition of an evening newspaper.

late on. See early on.

late play. A holiday beginning at noon: Westminster School: C.19–20 coll.

[late unpleasantness, the. In US, before 1916, the US Civil War. In British Empire, the Great War. Perhaps orig. coll., but prob. always S.E.]

lately? A form of raffish greeting, very common, esp. in Merseyside, during the 1930s (A.H. Lewis, 1975), and thence among Servicemen, where still current, early 1970s: elliptical for 'Had it in lately?' (q.v. at have it away, 2). 'Our Cypriot mess-waiter was baffled, late 1950s, by the daily query at breakfast-time, "Lately, then, George?"', until its significance was at last explained to him. Thereafter he would reply, with a satisfied grin, "Fre-quent-lee!"' (P.B., 1974).

-later, -latry; -olatex, -olatry. One who worships; (excessive) adoration, worship. In mid-C.19–20, this suffix is occ., as in babyolatry, so joc. as to verge on coll., even in nonce-words.

latest, the. The latest news: coll.: C.19–20. Baumann, 'What's the latest?'

lath-and-plaster. A master: rhyming s.:—1857 ('Ducange Anglicus').

lather, n. The sexual secretion: low: C.19–early 20. Hence lather-maker, the female pudend.

lather, v. To beat, thrash: from ca. 1795: coll. >, ca. 1890, S.E. Cf. lace, lather, larrup, strap, qq.v.

Latin. Alicante wine. See TAVERN TERMS, §3c, in Appendix. Latin for 'goose'. A dram: ca. 1820–50. 'Jon Bee.' Ex brandy is...

Latiner. A Latin scholar; one who speaks Latin: coll.: 1691 (SOD).

latitat. An attorney: coll., though perhaps orig. legal s.: 1565, Cooper's Thesaurus. Foote, in The Maid of Bath, 'I will send for Luke Latitat and Codicil, and make a handsome bequest to the hospital.' † by 1860 in England, the term derives ex an old form of writ. (For legal s., see my Slang, published in 1933.)

latrine rumour. False news; a wild story; a baseless prediction: military: 1915. Ex the fact that latrines were recognised gossiping places. Cf. synon. cook-house official or rumour, ration-dump r. or yarn, and transport r. or tale. See esp. B. & P. and Stephen Southwold's essay on rumours in A Martial Medley, 1931.

latrine wireless, the or a. Rumour in gen.; a particular rumour: Aus. army coll.: WW2. Rats, 1944, 'Time was so short, the latrine wireless insisted that we would sail any day.' Adaptation of prec.

latrino. A short form (1940+) of:

latrinogram. Army officers' (1939+) var. of latrine rumour.

lats. See lat.

latfer end. The buttocks: early C.19–20: joc. coll. >, ca. 1910, S.E. Pierce Egan, Finish to Tom, Gerry, and Logic, 1828.

latfy. See letty, a bed; latfy is a stage, and variety, var.

laugh, n. Shortened form of laugh and joke. Jim Phelan, Tramp at Anchor, 1954.

laugh, v. To complain. See stop laughing!

laugh and joke. A smoke: rhyming s.: later C.19–20. D.W. Barrett, Navvies, 1880; Val Davis, Gentlemen of the Broad Arrows, 1939.

laugh? I thought I should ha' died! C.p. of reaction to the ridiculous: since ca. 1880. In, e.g., the popular song 'Knock-ed 'em in the old Kent Road'. See DCpp.

laugh like a Chief Stoker. To laugh a raucous 'belly laugh': RN: C.20. Granville, 'Ex the harsh cackle of a seagull, which is said to possess the soul of a departed Chief Stoker.'

laugh like a drain. To chuckle heartily: orig. RN ward-rooms': C.20. (Granville.) Water gurgles down a drain-pipe: babies gurgle with pleasure and a similar noise. The phrase has an intensive: laugh like a row of drains ('a jovial display of dentures, symbolised by the common iron grille over a kerbside drain, brings about this phrase' (RAF officer, 1962): since ca. 1950, and esp. in the RAF.

laugh of (someone), have the. To outdo, outwit someone: coll.: C.20.

laughing(, be). To be 'comfortable, safe, fortunate': Services' coll.: WW1; revived in WW2, and still, 1983, extant. Hence, more gen., to be winning. B. & P., 'He's got a job at Brigade Headquarters, so he's laughing'. Ex one's laugh at such good luck.

laughing academy. Joc. var. of funny farm, q.v., a mental hospital. George Dures's play Who's Talking About an Arrest?, broadcast on BBC Radio 4, 14 Aug. 1982.

laughing all the way to the bank, be. To have, financially, been very successful, esp. in a coup, and in the face of long odds or disapproval: verging on c.p.: since ca. 1965.

laughing boy. 'Saturnine or gloomy-looking people are disliked by Cockneys... Often the person is dubbed "Smiler" or "Laughing Boy" (Muvver): also Services': C.20.

laughing haversacks, I'll (he'll, etc.) be. A c.p. indicative of anticipated pleasure upon fulfilment of given conditions: Forces': since ca. 1930. (L.A.) An extension of laughing. P.B.: post-WW2 variants, 1950s and 60s, were laughing kitbags, and the ephemeral... little oil-bombs, and... Naffy breaks.

laughing-side. An elastic-sided boot or shoe: Aus.: since ca. 1920. (Ruth Park, The Harp in the South, 1948.) It stretches in, as it were, a grin. For sense, cf. larsting.

laugha. A make-up: theatrical:—1935. I.e., putting on one's laughs.—2. In for laughs, often as only or just for..., as a joke; for the fun of it: coll.: since ca. 1950. Cf. just for kicks.

laughy. A farce: filmland: since ca. 1925. Cameron McCabe, The Face on the Cutting Room Floor, 1937.

lauk! See lawk!

launch. A lying-in: coll.: from ca. 1786; ob. by 1880, † by 1910. (Grose, 2nd ed.) Prob. ex nautical v., but perhaps cognate with † dial. launch, to groan.

launch, v. (Gen. in passive.) To reverse a boy's bed while he is asleep: Public Schools: ca. 1810–90. G.J. Berkeley, My Life, 1865.

launching pad. A water-closet seat in a (moving) train: railwaymen's: since ca. 1962. (Railway, 2nd.) Evacuation into outer space.

launder; laundering. To whitewash, as a sepulchre; the concealment by states and governments of their own hypocrisy: political coll. > j.: since ca. 1975. 'Special long-range shells and artillery were shipped last year to South Africa by way of Antigua, the... Caribbean island for whose foreign affairs and defence Britain is responsible. This allegation of "laundered" arms traffic in defiance of the U.N. embargo is being shown tonight in the BBC Television programme Panorama' (The Times, 6 Nov. 1978: P.B.). Cf.: [presumably?]- launderer, be a. To commit a Stock Exchange 'washing' (itself, not s.): Stock Exchange: from ca. 1930. 'A City Man's Diary' in the London Evening Standard, 26 Jan. 1934.

Lauras. Chocolates: Can.: since ca. 1930. (London Evening News, 9 Jan. 1940.) 'Made by the firm "Laura Secord" [a name commemorating] a Canadian heroine of the war of 1812' (Leechman).

Laurence. See lazy Larrence.

lav. Lavatory: coll.: C.20. (D.L. Sayers, Murder Must Advertise, 1932.) Nigel Dempster, in Telegraph Sunday mag., 11 Mar. 1979, noted lav as an 'in-word', supplanting loo.

lavatory (or lavatorial) bombing. The dropping of bombs from a great height. Army, World War II, generally referring to the Italian Air Force, which preferred staying out of the range of A.A. guns to accuracy. Cf. pull the plug, which is probably connected' (Peter Sanders).

lavatory brush. 'Description of a certain cut of beard peculiar to Submariners in WW2' (Granville): RN.

Lavatory Lancers, the. The Westmorland and Cumberland Yeomanry: army: early C.20.

lavender. In to lay (up) or put in lavender: to pawn: late C.16–early 20; the put form not before C.19. (Greene, in his Upstart Courtier.) Cf. laid on the shelf. Like the next sense, ex the preservative virtues of lavender.—2. To put out of the way of doing harm, as a person by imprisoning him or the like': ca. 1820–1920. Scott, in Nigel (OED).—3. Laid (up) in lavender, ill; out of the way: turf: from ca. 1870.—4. In not all lavender, not all fun or all pleasant: coll.: later C.19–early 20. Manchon.

lavender-cove. A pawnbroker: low: ca. 1850–1930. Ex prec., 1.

lavish. Bacon fat; the fat on 'shackles' (q.v.): mostly military: C.20. Semantics: 'rich'.

lavo. Lavatory: Aus.: since ca. 1920. B., 1942.

lavvy. A Scottish, esp. children's, easing of lavatory: C.20. law, n. (Usu. the law.) The police; a policeman: London's East End: coll.: since ca. 1945. (Richard Herd, 1957; Norman, 1958.) Cf. the US John Law. Also as in 'Two law came up to me and grabbed hold of me' (Norman). Cf. Lily Law, q.v.—2. A phase of crime, esp. of theft; a trick or 'lay' (q.v.): c.: ca. 1550–1650. Esp. in Greene's 'coney-catchers'. See also lurk, racket, rig, slum.

law, v. 'The villainy [of posing as a policeman] became so widespread that the crooks' word for it went into their argot. They began to talk of "Law-ing" a man—robbing him in the guise of a policeman' (John Gosling, The Ghost Squad, 1959): c.: since late 1945.—2. See lawed.

law! or Law! Lord!: late C.16–20; in C.19–20 low coll., perhaps orig. euph. Prob. arising from cumulative force of la!

(q.v.), lol, and lor (q.v.). W. See also lawk(s), laws, and lors. law in the Mat(t)o. A .44 Colt revolver: among Englishmen in Brazil: C.20. C.W. Thurlow Craig, A Rebel for a Horse, 1934. law-lord. A judge having, by courtesy, the style of 'Lord': Scots coll.: from ca. 1770. In later C.20, (? informal, journalistic) S.E.

law you there! A C.17 expletive: Moe cites Roger Boyle, Mr Anthony, 1672.

lawed, it is (was, etc.). It is settled by law: coll. and dial.: C.19—early 20.

lawful blanket or jam. A wife: low: the former from ca. 1810; the latter from ca. 1850; ob. (Lex. Bal.) Henley, 1887, 'Gay grass-widows and lawful jam.' Cf. Dutch, contrast jam tart.

lawful picture. A coin; in pl, gen. money: coll.: C.17—18.

lawful time. Playtime: Winchester College: C.19—20; ob.

lawk, lawks. Lord!: coll. (rather low): from ca. 1765; earliest as lauk, latest as lawks. Dickens in Pickwick, 'Lawk, Mr. Weller... how you do frighten me.' The var. lawk-a-daisy occurs in Sessions, 5th session of 1734; i.e. lackadaisy = lackaday!; ob. by early C.20. Also lawk(s)-a-mussy, a corruption of 'Lord have mercy!': C.19—early 20. Either ex lack as in good lack! or ex Lord influenced by lack and la! or law!, qq.v. See also lor!

lawless as a town-bull. Quite lawless; very unruly: proverbial coll.: ca. 1670—1800.

lawn. A handkerchief, esp. if of white cambric: low coll.: from ca. 1810; ob. Vaux.—2. As the Lawn, the lawn at Ascot: sporting coll.: from ca. 1860. B. & L.

lawner. Refreshment served on the lawn to a hunt: middle and upper classes': from ca. 1925. (Evelyn Waugh, A Handful of Dust, 1934.) By the 'OXFORD -ER', as is—2. Lawn tennis: earlier C.20, ('Incident in Azania', a short story in Evelyn Waugh's Mr Loveday's Little Outing, 1936.) Cf.:

lawners and royallers. Lawn tennis and royal tennis: Oxford and Cambridge undergraduates': earlier C.20. By the 'OXFORD -ER(s)'.
Lawrence. See lazy Larrence.

laws!; laws-a-me!; lawsy! A low coll. form (cf. law, lawk, lors, qq.v.) of Lord!: from ca. 1875.

lawt. Tall: back s.:—1859 (H., 1st ed.).

lawyer. An argumentative or discontented man, esp. one given to airing his grievances: military coll.: late C.19—20. (F. & G.) Usu. in compounds, e.g. barrack-room, or sea-lawyer, qq.v. In Aus., such a man is called a bush-lawyer, coll.: C.20.—2. In high (occ. highway) lawyer, a highwayman: c.: ca. 1590—1640. (Greene.) Ex law, 2. Cf. oak, scripper, qq.v.—3. In a good lawyer must be a great liar, a frequent c.p. in conversations turning on the law: ca. 1670—1780. Ned Ward, 1703; Apperson.

lawyering, n. and adj. (Concerning, of) a lawyer's profession: coll.: from ca. 1860.

lawyers go to heaven, as. (Gen. prec. by fairly and softly or by degrees, etc.) Very slowly: from Restoration days: proverbial coll; in C.19—20, mainly dial. Apperson.

lax, n. Lacrosse. See lacks.

lay, n., a wager, is S.E.—2. An occupation, esp. if criminal; a 'line'; a trick: from ca. 1705: c. >, ca. 1840, low. (A New Canting Dict.) Hence avoidupois-lay, q.v.; fancy-lay, pugilism, C.19 low; kinchen-lay, q.v.; etc., etc. Prob. ex law, 2, q.v.—3. Hence, a hazard, chance: 1707, Farquhar: c. >, ca. 1800, low: † by 1850. Cf. stand a queer lay, to run a great risk: c.: C.18—early 19. (A New Canting Dictionary, 1725.) The line between this and sense 1 is perhaps thin (P.B.).—4. A quantity: c.: ca. 1815—50. (Haggart.) Perhaps ex fusion of senses 1 and 2.—5. Hence, some; a piece: Northern c.: from ca. 1850; ob. H., 1st ed.—6. ?hence, a share in the capture: whale-fishers':—1887 (Baumann).—7. (Also from sense 5.) Goods: c.: ca. 1820—50. Haggart.—8. From senses 5—7 comes also, perhaps, that of 'a seaman's wages': MN: C.20. "Give your mate my lay, will you. That's it, that one there." The money in its envelope was passed through the hatch' (Steven Piper, The North Ships, 1974).—9. (Butter)milk: c.: C.17.

(Middleton & Dekker in The Roaring Girl.) Ex Fr. lait.—10. Borrowed money: army: ca. 1925—40. See v., 4.—11. A girl, a woman, regarded as copulatory partner: adopted ex US, in Can., ca. 1945, by ca. 1955 also in Brit. As in 'an easy lay', 'a good (or a great little) lay'. See v., 5.—12. In a good lay, anything advantageous; esp. an economical way of cutting: tailors's.: C.19—20 >, ca. 1890. coll.—13. In on the lay (ex sense 2), at (illicit) work: C.18—early 20 c.; and, in C.19—20 c., on the alert, e.g. for something to steal.

lay, v. As to wager, as to search or lie in wait for (also lay by; lay for): S.E., despite F. & H.—2. To lie (down): M.E.—C.20: sol. in C.18—20, except when nautical. Cf. laid, q.v.—3. See lay into.—4. V.i. and v.t., to borrow (money): army: ca. 1920—40.—5. To coit with, usu. of a man with a woman: low: adopted, ca. 1944, ex American servicemen. 'But a dame's only a dame, Charlie-boy, you lay 'em and leave 'em' (Douglas Warner, Death of a Snout, 1961).

lay a duck's egg. In cricket, to score nothing: sporting: from ca. 1870; ob. See duck's egg and blob.

lay a straw. To stop (v.i.); mark a stopping-place: coll.: C.16—mid-17. Barclay, Bullein, Barnaby Rich. Apperson.

lay a or in water. To defer judgment; esp. too long: coll.: C.15—early 17; in not before C.16. (The a is, of course, the preposition as in a-board.) Lyly, 'I see all his expeditions for warres are laid in water; for now when he should execute, he begins to consult' (Apperson).

lay-about (later, layabout). A man that lives by cadging from thieves: c.: from ca. 1919. I.e. 'lie-about'.—2. Hence, a professional loafer: c.:—1932 (Scott Pearson, To the Streets and Back).—3. Hence, as in 'There are always "layabouts"—out-of-works—hanging around [law] court buildings': police s. since ca. 1935; by ca. 1960, gen. s. John Gosling, The Ghost Squad, 1959.

lay an egg. To make a great fuss; esp. 'Don't lay an egg!'—stop worrying: Aus.: since ca. 1920. D'Arcy Niland, 1958.—2. 'In show biz in Canada and US, to "lay an egg" is to put on a performance that fails to please the audience. This applies to a single actor or to the show as a whole' (Leechman): since ca. 1910 in Can. The implication is that it's a bad egg.

lay at. To (attempt to) strike: C.15—20: S.E. till C.19, then dial. and coll.

lay-by, n. and v. 'To secure an item for sale by making a deposit and paying instalments until the full price is paid, without interest charges, the goods being taken only when payment is complete' (Wilkes): Aus. coll.: since ca. 1925. Ex money laid aside, esp. from 'the housekeeping'.—2. Hence, on the lay-by, on the 'never-never' (hire-purchase): Aus. coll. >, by 1960, S.E. Heinemann Dict. of Aus. English.

lay by the heels. To put in stocks (†) or in prison: C.18—20: coll. >, ca. 1860, S.E.

lay-down, n. A rest; a sleep: sol.: C.19—20. Ex lay, v., 2, q.v.—2. Hence, a (fortnight's) remand: c.: C.20. F.D. Sharpe, 1938.

lay down, gen. lay them down. To play cards: c.: mid-C.19—20; ob.—2. See lay, v., 2.—3. 'To remand is custody' (Powis). Cf. n., 2.

lay down (one's) ears. See TAVERN TERMS, §2 (near end), in Appendix.

lay down (one's or the) knife and fork. To die: low coll.:—1859 (H., 1st ed.); ob. by 1930. Cf. hop the twig, lose the number of one's mess (q.v. at mess, n., 4), peg out, qq.v.

lay down the law. To dogmatise: coll.: 1885 (OED). Ex lit. sense, declare what the law is.

lay (or lay himself) down to his work. (Of a horse, etc.) to do his best: sporting: ca. 1885—1935. Illustrated Sporting and Dramatic News, 20 May 1893 (OED).

lay down tracks. To put songs on records: pop music practitioners' and devotees': since mid-1960s. Janssen cites Jagger.

lay eggs. 'To lay mines; not to drop bombs' (H. & P.): RN and RNAS/RAF: since 1915 at latest. Moe cites W.G. Carr, Brass Hats ..., 1939. Cf. gardening, 2.

LAY IN

lay in, v.i. To attack with vigour: coll.: from ca. 1888.—2. V.i., to eat vigorously: from ca. 1800: S.E. >, ca. 1880, low coll. Cf. lay into.

lay (occ. cast) in (one's) dish. To object to something in a person; accuse of: coll.: mid-C.16—mid-19. T. Wilson in Rhetorique, Harington in Epigrams, Butler in Hudibras, Scott in Old Mortality (Apperson).

lay into. To thrash: 1838, Douglas Jerrold: s. >, ca. 1870, coll. Cf. pitch into.

lay into its collar. (Of a horse) to pull hard: Can. coll.: late C.19—20. (John Beames.) lay it down. To come off a motorcycle accidentally: motorcyclists': later C.20. 'I laid it down' (Dunford).

lay it on. To exaggerate, etc.: S.E. But see thick, adj., 2.

lay it on the line. To explain thoroughly, with the implication that the hearer must act accordingly: coll.: since 1950s. Patrick Campbell, Come Here Till I Tell You, 1960.—2. An elab. of lay on, q.v., to organise. Ibid.

lay (one's) legs on (one's) neck or to ground. To decamp; run away: coll.: C.17—early 19; C.17—early 20.

lay me in the gutter. Butter: rhyming s.:—1923 (Manchon).

lay-me-true. (?) A gunboat: RN lowerdeck: late C.19—early 20. Mark Bennet, 1918.

lay of the last minstrel, the. A cultured c.p., applied to a particularly unattractive girl: Can.: since ca. 1960. (Leechman.) An allusion to the famous poem by Sir Walter Scott, and a pun on lay, n., 11.

lay off! Stop! (the activity that is annoying the speaker): coll.: C.20. Ex dial., to take a rest. Cf. give over!; pack it in!—2. As the lay-off, 'the off-season when the seasonal jobs are over' (Petch, 1969): Aus. coll.: since ca. 1930.

lay off to (someone). To try to impress (him): lower classes' coll.:—1923 (Manchon). Perhaps ex nautical j.

lay off with. To lie with—copulate with (women): Aus.: C.20. Rats, 1944, "Eddie," I said, "You like laying off with girls better than anything else in the world, don't you?"

lay on; esp. in 'It's all laid on'—planned, arranged, assured: army, since ca. 1930. (E.P., 'In Mess and Field', New Statesman, 1 Aug. 1942.) Adopted by the RAF, where it tends to be restricted to availability (Jackson, 1943). Also by the Navy (Granville). Ex plumbing. Cf. the army's synonym tee up and RAF's organise and:—2. To lay (someone) on, to put in the way of finding, as in 'He laid me on here' ('Tom Collins', Such is Life, 1903): Aus. coll.: since ca. 1860; ob.

lay on air. To arrange for, obtain, provide, air support: Service: 1940+. J.L. Hodson, The Sea and the Land, 1945.

lay (or lie) on the face. To be exceedingly dissipated: lower classes':—1909 (Ware); ob. by 1930.

lay on to be. To pretend to be: lower classes, esp. Cockneys': 1914, A. Neil Lyons, 'I don't lay on to be a saint' (Manchon).

lay-out, n. A confidence-trickster's plan of action: Aus. c.: adopted, ex US, ca. 1925.

lay out, v., to intend, propose, is S.E., but to overcome or disable, esp. with a punch, also to kill, is s.: orig. (1829), US; anglicised ca. 1860. Ex the laying-out of a corpse.—2. Var. of show out, v.

lay out (one's) kid. To vomit, usu. as a result of drunkenness: army: later C.20. (P.B.) lay-over. See lareover.

lay (one's) shirt. To stake one's all: sporting s. > coll.: mid-C.19—20. If the stake is lost, one does (or has done) one's shirt: late C.19—20 sporting.

lay the dust. To take a drink of beer, spirits, etc.: since ca. 1910.

lay the leg. To copulate: Can.: since ca. 1930. As in H. Dempster, Bob Edwards, 1975, 'She could not very well have her admirers know that she was laying the leg with Old Horny.' (Leechman.)

lay the razor. A term, ca. 1865, in racing c. (or perhaps s.), as in 'No. 747'; of obscure meaning: Possibly, to judge precisely when to spur one's horse to win the race.

lay-up. A drink, a 'go' (q.v.): low:—1891; ob. Newman, in Scamping Tricks, 'A strong lay-up of something neat.'—2. A period in prison: c.: C.20. George Orwell, Down and Out, 1933.

lay up in lavender. See lavender.

layabout was orig. hyphenated: see lay-about.

laycock. See Miss Laycock.

layer. A bookmaker; a betting-man: mid-C.19—20: sporting s. >, ca. 1880, coll. >, in C.20, S.E.—2. A lazy fellow: lower classes' coll.:—1923 (Manchon). I.e. one given to lying in bed.

layer-over. See lareover.

laying or lying?, (are they). 'A domestic c.p. applied to hens cackling noisily' (Petch): C.20.

laze. A lazy rest: coll.: from ca. 1860. Ex the S.E. v.

laze-off. A rest from work: coll.: 1924 (Galsworthy, The White Monkey).

lazy, n. A period of rest and relaxation: RN lowerdeck: C.19—20. Bill Truck, Mar. 1824.

lazy, adj. Applied to person or thing 'serving no particular purpose at the moment' (Granville): RN: C.20.

lazy as Ludlam's, or (David) Laurence's, dog. (Sussex dial. has Lumley's.) Extremely lazy: proverbial coll. from ca. 1660: ob. by 1870, † except in dial. by 1900. According to the proverb, this admirable creature leant against a wall to bark. Cf.:

lazy as Joe the marine who laid down his musket to sneeze. Exceedingly lazy: C.19. semi-proverbial coll. Prob. ex:

lazy as the tinker who laid down his budget to fart. The acme of laziness: late C.18—early 19 low, semi-proverbial coll. (Grose, 3rd ed.) Cf. two prec.

lazy-bed cooking. Cooking in the ashes of a camp-fire: Aus. coll.: C.20. (B., 1943.) Practised by, and copied from, the Aborigines.

lazy-bones. A loafer or a very lazy person: coll.: from ca. 1590. Harvey, 'Was... vivacitie a lasie-bones?' Cf. lazy-boots.—2. Lazy-tongs or, as it is occ. called, lazy-back: coll.:—1785; ob. by 1930. (Despite F. & H., lazy-tongs itself is S.E.) lazy-boots. 'A lazy-boots' (q.v.): coll.: from ca. 1830; ob. (Mrs Gaskell.) Cf. sly boots and clever boots.

lazy-dazy. Lazy: Aus.: since ca. 1945. Cf. the Devonshire hazy-dazy. (B.P.)

lazy Eliza. A big, long-distance shell passing high overhead with a slow rumble: army: WW1. (F. & G.) 'Most shells with personal names are feminine', wrote E.P.—but cf. the Whistling Dick of the Crimean War.

Lazy K. Long Kesh, HM prison, N.Ireland: Services', in N.Ireland: since ca. 1970. Christopher Hawke, For Campaign Service, 1979.

lazy Larrence, Laurence, Lawrence. The incarnation of laziness: from ca. 1780 or perhaps even from ca. 1650: coll. (ob.) and dial. Perhaps in ref. to the gen. heat of St Lawrence's Day, 10 Aug., or to the legend of the martyred St Lawrence being too lazy to move in the flames. (Apperson; EDD; Prideaux's Readings in History, 1955.) Hence in get Laurence (e.g. 'I've got Laurence') or Laurence has got, e.g., me; and have Laurence on (one's) back or have a touch of old Laurence, to be lazy: C.19—early 20, except in dial.

lazy-legs. A 'lazy-bones' (q.v.): coll.: C.19—early 20. Dickens (OED).

lazy lob. A semi-erection of the penis: low coll.: C.20. (P.B.) Cf. lob, n., 6.

lazy man's load. An excessive load carried to save a second journey: coll.:—1791 (Grose, 3rd ed.); in C.20 almost S.E.; ob. in Brit., but not, as B.P. notes, 1965, in Aus.

lazy-roany. Lazzaroni, or Neapolitan beggars: nautical:—1887 (Baumann).

lazyitis. Mere laziness, used as a pretext for shirking: since ca. 1945. Petch cites the BBC TV comedy series, 'Till Death Do Us Part', episode broadcast 12 Aug. 1967. Joc. use of the medical suffix -itis, disease. Cf. synon. idle-itis.

ld. (Pronounced ud.) Would: coll.: late C.16–20. (Shakespeare.) In C.19–20, gen. 'd.

le. Will or shall, as in sheele (C.16–17) and shele (C.17). OED. Cf. 'll, q.v.

Lea toff. 'One who displays his distinction, in a hired boat, rowing up and down the River Lea': Cockneys':—1909; ob. Ware.

lead in its theatrical senses is S.E.—2. Abbr. friendly lead, an entertainment designed to assist some unfortunate: from ca. 1850: c. >, ca. 1880, s.—3. In get the lead (metal), to be shot: late C.19—early 20.—4. In strike the lead (metal), to be successful: Aus. coll.: C.20. (B., 1942.) Ex gold-mining.—5. See dull as lead; get the lead out...; swing the lead.

lead (someone) a dance. To cause that person needless or excessive worry or exertion: from ca. 1520; coll. >, by 1900, S.E. The 'dance' is often qualified, as a pretty dance, a merry or a right dance, and give is occ. substituted for lead.

lead apes in hell. To be an old maid: C.16—early 20. 'Euphues' Lyly was one of the first to record the phrase; Gascoigne was app. the first. Apperson.—Whence, ape-leader, an old maid: mid-C.17—early 19. Brome; Grose; OED.

lead from the duckhouse. To lead from lowest card of suit: Aus. card-players': since ca. 1910. (B., 1953.) Perhaps cf. the entries at duck-house.

lead in (one's) arse. Laziness; torpor: Can., esp. labourers': since ca. 1945. 'Shake (or get) the lead out of your arse!'

lead in (one's) pencil. Sexual vigour: raffish, > gen.: C.20. Hence, esp. of, e.g., a drink of strong liquor, 'Here, that'll put lead in your pencil!' Cf. 'That'll put hairs on your chest!', in the same context. Also used, derivatively, of women.

lead me to it! That's easy!: with pleasure!: a coll. c.p. of C.20. Dorothy L. Sayers, The Nine Tailors, 1934, "'Can you ride a motor-bike?" "Lead me to it, guv'nor!"

lead-off, n. The first or most important article in a newspaper: journalists' coll.:—1887 (Baumann).

lead off, v. To lose one's temper, be angry: orig. Services', from ca. 1910 (F. & G.); by ca. 1930, fairly gen. (Roy Vickers, Dead Ends, 1949.) Perhaps ex boxing.

lead on, Macduff! A c.p. (late C.19—20) based upon a frequent misquotation of 'Lay on, Macduff' in Shakespeare's Macbeth (V. vii. 62). The c.p. occurs in, e.g., Edward Burke, Bachelor's Buttons, 1912.

lead-pipe cinch. An absolute certainty: Can.: since ca. 1945. (Leechman.) Ex the effectiveness of a short length of lead-pipe as a weapon.

lead towel. A pistol: low: mid-C.18—early 19. 'Jon Bee.'

lead-swinger. A loafer, schemer, malingerer: C.20 military. (B. & P.) Ex swing the lead, q.v., and cf. synon. leg-swinger.

lead (someone) up the garden (-path). To blarney (a person), humbug, entice, mislead: since early 1920s. Ex gently suasive courtship.

leaden favour. A bullet: adopted, ex US,—1909 (Ware). Cf.:— leaden fever, esp. in die of l.f., to die from a bullet wound: late C.18—mid 19. The phrase occurs in 'The Rolling Blossom', an anon. ballad of ca. 1800. (Moe.)

leaden pill. A bullet: low coll.: mid-C.17—early 20. (Roger Boyle, Guzman, 1669, in III, ii (Moe); Ware, 1909.) Cf. the two prec. entries.

Leadenhall Market sportsman. 'A landowner who sells his game to Leadenhall market poulterers': sporting: ca. 1870—1915. Ware.

leader. 'A remark or question intended to lead conversation (cf. feeler). 1882' (SOD): coll.; ob. by ca. 1940. Cf. S.E. leading question.—2. As the leader, the commanding officer; the grand leader, the senior general or other officer commanding a garrison: semi-joc. army (officers)': ca. 1933+. Ex newspaper accounts of Adolf Hitler (der Führer). Cf.:—3. A leading seaman; esp. in address: RN coll.: from ca. 1934. C.S. Forester, The Ship, 1943.

leading article. The nose: coll.:—1886; ob.—2. The female pudend: low: mid-C.19—early 20.—3. The best bargain in the shop—one that should lead to other purchases': tradesmen's: from ca. 1870. In later C.20, loss leader.

leading card, a. An example or precedent: coll.: C.17–19. B.E.

leading heavy. (Gen. pl.) The role of a serious middle-aged woman: theatrical: from the late 1880s; prob. from USA. Ware.

leading-strings. 'The yoke-lines on a ship's rudder': nautical: late C.19–20. Bowen.

leaf. Furlough: RN lowerdeck (late C.19—early 20) >, by 1914, army. (F. & G.) Almost † by 1950 (P.B.). A perversion of leave, ?influenced by Welsh pron.—2. In drop (one's) leaf, to die: low (? orig. c.): C.19—early 20. (Manchon.) Ex:—3. In go off with the leaf, to be hanged: Anglo-Irish c. > low: from ca. 1870; ob. (Grose, 2nd ed.) Either ex the autumnal fall of leaves or ex a hanging-device shaped like the leaf of a table. Cf. next.—4. In take a leaf out of (someone's) book, to follow his (gen. his good) example: C.18–20; coll. till C.20, when S.E. leafless tree. The gallows: c. of ca. 1825–70. Lytton in Paul Clifford.

leak, n. The female pudend: low: C.18—early 20. Gay.—2. A urination: a vulgarity or a low coll.: mid-C.19–20. Esp. in do or have a leak. Spring a leak was a later C.19 low adaptation of nautical j.—3. See leek, 3.—4. A police informer: Aus.: since ca. 1925. Vince Kelly, The Shadow, 1955.—5. A trick, a dodge: Aus.: since ca. 1930. Alan Marshall, These Are My People, 1946, "'I use Eno's Fruit Salts instead of baking powder," he said. "I know all the leaks." A mere var. of lurk, 1 and 2. (B.P.) leak, v. To make water: a vulgarity: ca. 1590 (Shakespeare)—early C.20; superseded by more gen. use of forms in leak, n., 2.

leak-house; leakery. A urinal: Aus., mostly juvenile: since late 1940s. (B.P.) Cf. leak, n., 2.

leaky, unable to keep a secret, despite F. & H. is S.E.; but leaky, in the particular sense, talkative when drunk, is a proletarian coll. dating from ca. 1880 (Ware).—2. Fearful, apt to weep: lower classes':—1923 (Manchon).

lean, adj. and n. Unprofitable (work): printers':—1871. From C.17 in a different sense, but this (e.g. in Moxon) is j. Contrast fat, n., 3.—2. Unremunerative: (dial. and) coll.:—1875.

lean and fat. A hat: rhyming s.:—1857 ('Ducange Anglicus').

lean and hungry. The markings on the ships' funnels of the Lampert & Holt Line: ca. 1900–40. The conditions have long since been improved. P.B.: did E.P. miss the pun on the initials?

lean and lurch. A church: rhyming s.:—1857 ('Ducange Anglicus').

Lean and Narrow-Waisted, the. A railwaymen's pun on the initials of the London & North-Western Rly: early C.20. (McKenna, 2, p. 125.) Cf. Lanky and Wessy.

lean as a (1) rake, (2) shotten herring. Extremely thin: resp. late C.16–20, S.E. >, ca. 1700, coll., but in C.19–20 mainly dial.; and proverbial coll. from ca. 1650 (after ca. 1830, mainly dial.).

lean-away. A drunkard: Aus.: ca. 1890–1910.

lean off it or that! Cease leaning on it!: coll.: 1829, Maryat, 'Lean off that gun'; ob. by 1930.

lean on. Of a gangster, to use force in order to persuade or convince: underworld: since ca. 1940. Of a policeman, esp. a detective, to threaten, to manhandle a known or suspected criminal, for the same reason: since late 1940s. N.J. Crisp, The London Deal, 1978.—2. Hence, in more gen. coll., the use of power, veiled or naked, in 'bringing pressure to bear on' a person, body, or even state: later C.20. (P.B.) lean on your chin-straps! An army c.p., 1915–18, heard when troops were either marching up a steep hill or coming to the end of an arduous route-march. F. & G.; B. & P.

lean trot. A bad or hard time: Aus. coll.: later C.20. 'He had a lean trot for a couple of years.' (Camilla Raab, 1980.) See trot, n., 4.

lean over backwards. Later C.20 predominant form of fall over backwards (since ca. 1945), to go beyond the normal and the expected in order to show how honourably disinterested or how honest or upright one is: coll. 'We leant over backwards to try and help these people, and what happened? ...' Cf. two inches beyond upright.

leap, n. 'I have been to Germany many times before on Phantom [aircraft] "leaps"', the nickname given to those weekend forays from the UK to sample [all the good things there]' (Phantom): RAF: later C.20.—2. In do a leap, to copulate: low coll.: C.19–20. But see:—

leap, v. As 'to copulate' it is, like leaping-house, S.E.—2. As exclam., leap! = All safe!: c.: C.18. A New Canting Dict., 1725.—3. In let leap (occ. go) a whiting: to let an opportunity slip: proverbial coll.: ca. 1540–1780. Heywood, Breton (Apperson).—4. See ready to leap ... leap at a crust. ? to be very hungry; or, snatch at any chance whatsoever: semi-proverbial coll.: ca. 1630–1750. Draxe; Swift (Apperson).

leap at a daisy. To be hanged: coll.: ca. 1550–1620. Anon., Respublica; Greene; Pasquil's jests, 1604, 'He sayd: Have at yon dasie that growes yonder; and so leaped off the gallows' (Apperson).

leap at Tyburn or in the dark, take a. To be hanged: low (? orig. c.): C.17–early 19. D'Urfev, 'All you that must take a leap in the dark ...' (In S.E., leap in the dark is often applied to death or to any other great risk.)

leaper. A stimulating or keep-awake pill, the opposite of a sleep: drug-users': since mid-1960s. Groupie, 1968.

leap-frog, n. A crab: c.:—1857 ('Ducange Anglicus').

leap-frog, v. Ex:—

leap-frogging, vbl n. 'Penetration by successive "waves", each "wave" or "leap" remaining in the trench or other objective that it [has] captured. Introduced by the British in 1917': military coll. >, by late 1918, j. (B. & P.) Revived in WW2; by 1945, S.E.

leap in the dark. A copulation: low: C.18–early 20. Cf. leap, n., 2, and leap up a ladder.—2. See leap at Tyburn.

leap over the hedge before (one) comes to the stile. To be in a violent hurry: proverbial coll.: ca. 1540–1800. Heywood, Gascoigne, Ray, Motteux.

leap (or jump) the besom, broom(-stick), sword. (US, book.) To marry informally: C.18–19 coll. See the nn. separately. The sword form, military. Also in form jump over ...

leap up a ladder, n. A copulation: C.18–early 20 low. Cf. leap in the dark.

Leaping Lena. The train running between Darwin and Birdum: Aus. (esp. NT): since ca. 1930. (B. 1953.) Also known as the Abortion Express (Marshall & Drysdale, Journey Among Men, 1962, quoted by Wilkes). Leaping Lena is recorded as US (W. & F.) s. for an automobile: ca. 1915.

leapt, to have. (Of frost) to thaw suddenly: coll., mainly rural: 1869, H. Stephens, 'When frost suddenly gives way ... about sunrise, it is said to have "leapt"' (OED).

learn. To teach: from M.E.; S.E. till ca. 1760, then coll.; from ca. 1810, low coll.; since ca. 1890, sol. Chiefly in I'll learn you! (often joc. allusive). Cf. Fr. apprendre, to learn, also to teach.

learn manners in Seville. To learn respectable though somewhat childish manners: coll.:—1923 (Manchon). By a pun on civil.

learned men. C.19 nautical coll., thus: 'In the old coasters, certified officers shipped for foreign voyages to satisfy the regulations' (Bowen).

learning-shover. A school-teacher: Cockneys': 1869; ob. Ware.

learning the follows. The ringing of 'call changes': bell-ringers':—1901 (H. Earle Bulwer's glossary of bell-ringing).

leary, leery. Artful; wide-awake; (suspiciously) alert; c. >, ca. 1830, low: from ca. 1790. (Grose, 3rd ed.) Prob. ex dial. lear, learning, cleverness (cf. S.E. lore). Cf. peery, q.v.—2. 'Flash'; showy of dress and manners: low: ca. 1850–75. (H., 1st ed.) Cf. chickaleary.—3. (Of personal appearance) somewhat wild: from ca. 1850.—4. In Aus. (—1916), low, vulgar. (C.J. Dennis.) See also lair, with which cf. senses leary bloke. A showy dresser, gen. of lower classes: low: —1859; † by 1880. (H., 1st ed.) Cf. leary, 2, and chickaleary cove.

2–4.—5. Leery: 'Bad-tempered, disagreeable, and cheeky' (Powis): low: later C.20.

leary-cum-Fitz. A vulgar actor: theatrical: ca. 1890–1914.

leat in sight, play. To hide; make oneself scarce; keep out of the way: low: ca. 1780–1870. Grose, 1st ed.

leastaways. A C.19–20 var. of leastways.

leatest. Least: trivial coll.: from ca. 1890; ob. W. Pett Ridge, Minor Dialogues, 1895, 'If I have anything, it must be the leatest drop of claret-cup.'

leastways; leatwise. At least: C.16–20: S.E. till C.19, then coll.; in C.20, low coll. In C.19–20, also dial.

leather, n. Skin: C.14–20: S.E. till ca. 1700, then coll. till ca. 1780, when it > s. Hence, lose leather, C.18–20 (ob.), to be saddle-galled.—2. Hence, the female pudend: C.16–20 low coll. Whence, labour or stretch leather, to coit, C.16–19 and C.18–20, and nothing like leather, nothing like a good copulation. C.19–20. P.B.: but it cannot always have been taken as this, for nothing like leather appears, quite innocuously, as a para. heading in Punch, 1 Sep. 1860, p. 81.—3. As a football or a cricket ball, it is S.E., as are hunt leather and leather-hunting.—4. A wallet: c.: C.20. F.D. Sharpe, The Flying Squad, 1938, 'An inveterate pickpocket is sometimes called "A Leather Merchant"'.—5. As the leather, a kick with a booted foot: c.: C.20. (Gilt Kid, 1936.) Cf. later C.20 put the boot in.—6. See tongue is well hung.

leather, v. To beat, thrash: from ca. 1620: coll. >, ca. 1820, S.E. Prob. at first with a strap. Cf. lather, tan, dust, qq.v.

leather and prunella. This misquotation of Pope's leather or prunella has been misapplied to mean something to which one is completely indifferent. (Fowler.) See prunella.

leather-bottom; usu. in pl. A Civil Servant tied to his desk: C.20. Compton Mackenzie, Thin Ice, 1956, 'It's worse than ever with these Colonial Office leather-bottoms'. Cf. arse-polishing.

leather-bumper. (Gen. pl.) A cavalryman: infantrymen's: late C.19–20. F. & G. leather-flapper. A keen horseman: sporting: from ca. 1865; virtually †. 'No. 747'.

Leather Hats, the. The 8th Foot, in late C.19–20 the King's Regiment (Liverpool): military: C.19–early 20. (F. & G.) Carew explains that the Regiment replaced its lost headgear with the leather hats of dead American rebels.

leather-head, n. A blockhead: late C.17–early 20. (Davenport; B.E.) Hence adj., leather-headed.—2. A swindler: Can.: later C.19. B. & L.—3. See leather-head.

Leather-Heads. Men of Stafford: London clubs': 1812–ca. 1850. (Charles Marsh, Clubs of London, 1832.) Attributed to R.B. Sheridan, who was rejected by them as their MP in 1812.

leather-jacket. (As fish, S.E.—) 2. Applied to various Australian trees: Aus. coll. (—1898) verging on S.E. Ex their tough skin. Morris.—3. A rough-and-ready pancake: Aus. coll.: 1846, G.H. Haydon, Five Years in Australia Felix, 'Dough fried in a pan' (Morris). Tough eating!—4. Another name for a rocker, 2, q.v., a young motorcyclist of rough appearance and behaviour, whose distinctive form of dress is a leather jacket: coll.: later C.20. Poss. also influenced by S.E. leather-jacket, the grub of the crane-fly. (P.B.) leather-lane. The female pudend: C.18–early 20. Cf. leather, n., 2.—2. As an adj., paltry, it is c. of ca. 1810–60. (Vaux; Egan's Grose.) Always as Leather Lane concern.

leather-neck. A lowerdeck term for a soldier ('Taffrail'), or a Royal Marine (Bowen): nautical, esp. RN: since ca. 1880; ob. by 1930. (B. & L.) As a US term, it is unrecorded before 1909 (Moe). Cf. synon. boot-neck.—2. A station 'rouseabout': Aus.: since late C.19. Baker; Wilkes.

leather-stretcher. The male member: C.18–early 20: low. Ex leather, n., 2. Hence, go leather-stretching, to have sexual intercourse. leatherhead. A friar bird: Aus.: late C.19–20. B., 1942.—2. See leather-head.

leathering. A thrashing; from ca. 1790: coll. Ex leather, v. leathern convenience, -cy. A stage-coach; a carriage: Quakers' j. >, ca. 1790, joc. coll.; † by 1860. B.E.; C.K. Sharpe, 1801, 'I left Oxford with Stapleton in his mama's leathern conveyency.'

leathers. A person wearing leggings or leather breeches, e.g. a postboy: coll.: ca. 1835–1910. (Dickens; Thackeray, in Pendennis.) Cf. boots, buttons, q.v.—2. The ears: low: from ca. 1860.

leave. A (favourable) position for a stroke: billiards: from ca. 1850.—2. See French leave.

leave a monkey. To pay one's (weekly) bill only in part: Midlands and Lancashire: ca. 1880–1940. Robert Roberts, 1976.

leave...be. To let be; cease, or abstain, from interfering with: coll.: from ca. 1825.

leave an R in pawn. To desert: RN: C.19–20. Bowen, 'The man's name in the ship's books being marked "R" for "run".'

leave (one) cold. To fail to impress or convince or please: coll.: C.20. 'My dear fellow, that leaves me cold.' Cf. the Fr. cela me laisse froid (F. & G.)

leave (one) for dead. To be vastly superior to (a person): perhaps mainly Aus., but with some Brit. use; ? adopted ex US: since ca. 1930. Ex horse-racing. (B.P.; P.B.) Cf. left, be, q.v., of which this may be an elab.

leave go (of), hold (of), (loose of), v.i. To let go: coll.: from ca. 1810.

leave in the air. To leave without support: army coll.: since ca. 1940. P-G-R.—2. To promise, warn, inform someone of an intended action, and then to tell him nothing further, as in 'They practically promised to do it about a month ago, but since then we've heard nothing, so we're left rather in the air': coll.: later C.20. (P.B.) leave in the briers or seeds. To bring to, or leave in, (grave) trouble: semi-proverbial coll. 1533, Udal (briers); ca. 1590, Harvey (seeds). Rare since ca. 1820. Apperson.

leave in the lurch. S.E., except perhaps in B.E.'s sense 'Pawn'd for the reckoning'.

leave it all to the cook, I'll. I won't take that bet: sporting c.p. of ca. 1820–40. (Egan's Grose.) A cook is a good judge of meat, a betting-man of horseflesh.

leave it for the cleaners! 'A c.p. often heard when someone drops small change on the floor' (B.P.): Aus.: since late 1940s.

leave it out! Shut up!; stop it!; leave off!: c. > lowish coll.: early 1980s. (George Dures's play Who's Talking About an Arrest?, broadcast on BBC Radio 4, 14 Aug. 1982.) Now very "in" (Robert Barltrop, 1982).

leave it with me. 'Leave it to me': coll.: later C.20. Noted by Prof. A.S.C. Ross, in U and Non-U Revisited, 1978, as 'non-U'.

leave me alone... See let me alone for that.

Leave Nothing Loose. The Loyal North Lancshires: army: late C.19–20; † by 1940. Punning the initials L.N.L.

leave (someone) out in the cold. To neglect (a person); to ignore him: from ca. 1860: coll. >, by 1890, S.E.

leave the deck to the last! An ironic shout greeting 'that hapless rating working aloft who has spilled paint onto the deck': C.20. Wilfred Granville.

leave the lickings of a dog, not. 'Give a sound rating and leave one without a reputation. Often used in the North Country when there has been a row and one of those involved has had his past raked up' (Petch, 1946): late C.19–20.

leave the minority. To die: Society: 1879; ob. (Ware.) On the euph. cliché join the majority.

leave the sea and go into steam. To transfer to a steam-driven ship: sailing-men's c.p.: ca. 1860–1900. Bowen.

leave the world with (one's) ears stuffed full of Cotton. To be hanged: Newgate c. of ca. 1820–40. ('Jon Bee', 1823.) Ex the name of the Newgate chaplain, by a pun. A var. was die with cotton in their ears.

leave visiting cards. To bomb a locality: RAF: WW2. Berrey, 1940, records leave calling cards, a var. among the Americans in the RAF.

leave-ye-(h)omer. 'A handsome, dashing man... Derived, very satirically, from "That's the man I'm goin' to leave me 'ome for"' (Ware): lower class women's: late C.19–20.

leaver. A paroled convict: Aus.: ca. 1840–70. (B., 1942.) One who is on ticket-of-leave.—2. A racehorse that won't eat enough: racing coll.: late C.19–20. (John Winton, Never Go to Sea, 1963.) Obviously because it leaves its food.

leaves. Money: beatniks': 1959+. (Anderson.) Ex 'lettuce leaves'.—2. Dungerees: beatniks': 1960+. Ibid.

leaving-shop. An unlicensed pawnbroker's shop: low coll.:—1857; ob. Morning Chronicle, 21 Dec. 1857; J. Greenwood.—2. Hence, allusively, the female pudend: low: later C.19–early 20.

lec. A lecture: Exeter undergraduates':—1940 (Marples, 2). Cf.:-

leccers. (Pron. lekkers.) Lectures: Oxford undergraduates': from late 1890s. (Ware.) By the 'OXFORD -ER(S)'. The Cambridge form, late C.19–early 20, was lekki or lekky. Miles Malleson, A Man of Ideas, performed in 1913 and pub'd in 1918, uses the former.

lech. A sexual attraction towards, or urge for, someone: since early C.20. 'She has what is vulgarly known as a "lech" for The Times Peking correspondent' (G.E. Morrison, diary, 1910, quoted in Cyril Pearl, Morrison of Peking, 1967: M. refers to himself). A back formation ex lechery. See also letch.

lechery-layer. See HARLOTS, in Appendix.

lechy. Lecherous: since ca. 1950, prob. orig. underground. Groupie, 1968.

lecky or leccy. An electric tram: Liverpool: earlier C.20.—2. As adj., electric, as in lecky blanket, kettle, etc.: domestic coll.: later C.20. (P.B.)—3. See leccers.

led-captain. A toady, sponge, pimp: from ca. 1670: coll. >, ca. 1800, S.E.; † by 1880. Wycherley, in Love in a Wood, 'Every wit has his culley, as every squire his led captain.' Prob. ex a led horse. (But † led friend, a parasite, was always S.E.)

leddy, the. A ship's figurehead, no matter what it represents: nautical: mid-C.19–20. (Bowen.) Ex the old Scots and dial. leddy, a lady.

ledger. (Gen. in pl.) A ledger-clerk: bank-clerks' coll.: late C.19–20. Cf. voucher, 2.

ledger boson or dollar boson. A Warrant Writer in charge of pay accounts: RN: since ca. 1925. Granville.

Leeds. Lincolnshire and Yorkshire ordinary shares: Stock Exchange: ca. 1885–1915.

leek. A chimney-sweep not brought up to the trade: ca. 1850–1910: low. (Mayhew.) Ex his greenness.—2. A Welshman: very late C.17–early 19 c. (Street Robberies Considered, ca. 1728.) Cf.—3. The Leek, a fast goods-train running to Llanelli, S. Wales: railwaymen's: ca. 1910–40. (Daily Telegraph, 15 Aug. 1936.) Cf. the Bacca, q.v., the train up from Bristol.

Leekshire. Wales: low: C.18–19. Ex the Principality's emblem.

leer. A newspaper: c. of ca. 1785–1870 (G. Parker, in Life's Painter, 1789.) R.S. suggests an orig. in Sp. leer (dissyllabic), to read; but see lure, and cf. etym. in leary, 1.—2. See roll the leer, to pick pockets.

leerily. The adv. of leary: 1850. See leary. Farrar, in Julian Home, 1859 (OED).

leery. See leary.

leetle. Little: late C.17–20: on borderland between S.E. and (gen. joc.) coll. Cf. lickell, q.v. P.B.: often used for ironic emphasis: see quot'n at niggled.

leeward. Occurs in nautical coll., e.g., get to leeward of or on, to fall foul of (someone): late C.19–earlier 20. (Bowen.) Also go to leeward, to put oneself at a disadvantage: C.19. Moe cites W.N. Glascock, Naval Sketch-Book, 2nd series, 1834, at II, 34. Both ex nautical j.

lef. As in 'the second lef', the second-lieutenant: army: WW1. It occurs, e.g., in the song entitled 'The Conscientious Objector', part of the revue Round the Map, presented in 1916 or 1917. (Mr Stephen A. Burke.) Cf. second lovie.—2. See lep.

left, adj. Revolutionary; socialist(ic); communistic: coll. (? before 1918); in 1930s verging on S.E. 'In Kiel, where the revolution started, matters appear to be going "left" with a vengeance' (Daily Chronicle, 2 Dec. 1918).—2. See over the left (shoulder).

left, be or get. To fail; to be outdistanced metaphorically; be placed in a difficult position: coll.: adopted, ex US, ca. 1895. Abbr. be or get left in the lurch (Ware). Cf. leave for dead.
left and right. Fight: rhyming s.: late C.19–20. (Franklyn 2nd.) Cf. read and write.

left-breast technique, the. 'A technique for seducing women, the first step of which consists in caressing the left breast. Fairly common' (T.C.H. Raper, 1973): raffish coll.: C.20.

left carrying the can, (to be). To be made the scapegoat, or to be burdened with (usu. unwanted) responsibility, or both, as in 'Wavell was appointed supreme commander in the Far East just as everything was crumbling under the apparently invincible Japanese onslaught, and there he was—left carrying the can': coll.: since mid-C.20. Cf. (left) holding the baby, and see carry the can. (P.B.)

left-footer. A Catholic: orig. N. Ireland Protestants'; common in the Armed Forces: C.20. In Eire, it is said, farm labourers use a spade pushed into the ground with the left foot. Cf. kick with the left foot, a Services' elab. of this term.

left-forepart. A wife: tailors': mid-C.19—early 20. ? ex left rib.

left-hand man of the line, the. 'The sentry on the last post westward of the British line in Flanders': joc. army coll.: WW1. F. & G.

left-handed bricklayer. A Freemason: army: since ca. 1950 (? earlier). Perhaps cf. left-footer. (Capt. J.A.G. Bigam, 1975.)

left-handed spanner. An imaginary tool which an apprentice may be sent to fetch: workshops': C.20. See FOOLS' ERRANDS, in Appendix.

left hanging Judas. (Of a rope) left hanging over the side: RN: late C.19–20.—2. Hence (of a sailor) left in the lurch: RN: C.20. P-G-R.

left her purse on her piano. A c.p. constituting a 'satirical hit at self-sufficiency': non-aristocratic: late C.19—early 20. Ware.

left hook. An attack delivered from the left flank: army coll.: 1941–5. Ex boxing. P-G-R.

left in the basket. Rejected, abandoned: mid-C.19—earlier 20: coll. >, by 1890, S.E. (Barham OED.) Like the worst fruit.

left in the lurch. (A) church: rhyming s.: since ca. 1880.

left-offs. Left-off clothes: coll.: from ca. 1890. Cf. cast-off, n., 3.

left, right, and centre. (Of bombs) dropped accurately upon the target: RAF: 1939+. H. & P.—2. Hence, as an injunction, 'Put your cap on straight!': RAF: 1940+. 'In fact, to get everything just right' (Ibid.): id. (Not a v., but an adj. or an adv.)—3. Hence, in post-WW2 civilian use, but esp. among ex-servicemen, 'how retribution will strike: "Wait until the 'old man' gets back, then you'll cop it, left, right, and centre"' (L.A., 1974).

left shoulder. See over the left...

left sucking the mop, be; or, to have blown out. 'When a cabman puts on a theatre or restaurant rank, and gets first just as the lights go out and the door shuts, he has "blown out" and is "left sucking the mop"' (Herbert Hodge, Cab, Sir?, 1939): taxi-drivers': since ca. 1920. The lights have 'blown out', the driver is like a servant-girl out of a job, left with nothing to do but 'suck the mop'.

leftster. See over the leftster.

Lefty. A proletarian 'inevitable nickname' (late C.19–20), as in Francis D. Grierson, Murder at Lancaster Gate, 1934, 'Lefty Harris, they called him, on account of his being left-handed.'—2. Nickname for any man surnamed Wright: Services': late C.19—earlier 20. For the sake of contrast; cf. Blue for a red-head, and Tiny for a tall man.—3. A socialist or a communist: coll.: from 1936. In Phoenix News-Progress, Spring, 1937, we find the caption, 'COUNTERBLAST TO LEFTIES'. Ex S.E. left wing. In later C.20, often in sneer trendy lefties! leg, n. A swindling gambler at race-courses: 1815 (OED); ob.

by 1930. Abbr. blackleg (see black-leg, 1 and 2). Dickens in Pickwick. 'He was a horse-chauter: he's a leg now'.—2. A point: card-players': from ca. 1860 (H., 3rd ed.).—3. A footman: fast society: ca. 1860–1910. Ware, 'From the display of the lower limbs'.—4. 'A stage between landings on a long-distance flight' (Jackson): RAF coll. > j.: since ca. 1925. Prob. ex the tack of a sailing ship.—5. Hence, a stage—a portion—of a journey; hence, of an undertaking: coll., since ca. 1930; by 1960, S.E.—6. In get (one's) leg, to obtain a person's confidence: tailors': from ca. 1865. B. & L.—7. In have a leg, (of a horse) to have an injured leg: racing, esp. steeplechase, coll.: C.20. (John Lawrence, in Sunday Telegraph, 13 Aug. 1961.) Cf. have a heart, of a person suffering from heart-disease.—8. In make a leg, (of a woman) to display her leg(s): proletarian coll.:—1923 (Manchon). Contrast make (one's) leg, to feather one's nest: id.: Ibid.—9 See bone in the throat; break a leg; cut (one's) leg; drop the leg; lift (one's) leg; right as ...; show a leg and show-leg; swing the leg; pull (someone's) leg. E.P. noted that many 'leg' phrases, although they have a coll. tinge, were considered by him, because recorded without qualification in the OED, to be S.E. leg, v.t. To trip up: from ca. 1880; also dial. 'They legged the copper, and he fell to the ground' (Saturday Review, 22 Apr. 1882).

leg-and-leg, adv. and adj. (Of a game) when each player has won a 'leg' or point; level: cards coll.: from ca. 1860. In Anglo-Irish, horse-and-horse.

leg-bags. Trousers: coll.: later C.19; supplanted by simple bags.—2. Stockings: ca. 1870–1910.

leg-bail (and land-security), give or take To escape from custody; to decamp: from mid-C.18 (in the song quoted at hot stuff, composed 1759); semi-proverbial coll. >, ca. 1800, S.E.; slightly ob. by 1930. Ray, Grose.—2. Give leg-bail, to hoodwink (someone) or catch unawares: Aus.: since ca. 1910. B., 1943.

leg before wicket, occ. L.B.W. A ticket: rhyming s.: C.20. Note esp. 'That's the l.b.w.'—That's good. Franklyn 2nd.

leg-business. Sexual intercourse: low coll.: C.19—early 20.—2. Ballet-dancing: from ca. 1870. Cf. leg-shop and leggy.

leg-drama, -piece, -show. A play or a ballet distinguished for the amount of leg shown by the female participants: resp. from ca. 1870, 1880, 1890.

leg-grinder. A revolution round the horizontal bar as one hangs by one's legs: gymnastic coll.:—1887 (Baumann). Cf. muscle-grinder, the same exercise as one hangs by one's arms.

leg in. As get a leg in, an extension of leg, n., 6, q.v.: to win another's confidence, esp. to gain proof of confidence and/or esteem: coll.: from ca. 1890. Nat Gould.—2. Also get a leg in, to win on the first horse of a 'double': Aus. sporting: C.20. B., 1942.—3. As own a leg in, to have an interest, a share in (horses): sporting: ca. 1865–1935. 'No. 747'.

leg-lifter. A male fornicator: low: C.18—early 20. So leg-lifting, fornication. Ex lift (one's or the) leg, to coit; cf. leg on. See lifter, 1.

leg-maniac. An 'eccentric, rapid dancer': theatrical coll.: ca. 1880–1915. Ware.

leg of mutton. A sheep's trotter: low: from ca. 1850. (Adj.: S.E.) leg of the law. A lawyer: C.19—early 20: low. Varying limb of the law.

leg off or shot off, have a. (Of an animal) to have a leg broken, e.g. by a shot: S. African coll.: 1906 (Watkins, From Farm to Forum). Ex Cape Dutch idiom. Pettman.

leg on or over, lay or lift a. To coit with a woman: low coll.: C.18–20. (D'Urfey, Bruno.) Cf. leg-lifter.

leg-opener. A strong drink, esp. gin: raffish: since ca. 1945. Douglas Hayes, Quite a Good Address, 1973, 'Did you make my gin as strong as this on purpose? I know what you men call it... Leg-opener.' On the assumption that 'liquor is quicker' (L.A., 1976). Also Aus. (Wilkes).

leg over. As in 'He's got a leg over', he is under a misapprehension: army, esp. officers (at first, particularly Royal Artillery): C.20. Ex a horse getting a leg over the traces.—2. In a bit of leg over, (of a woman) give, or (of a man) have, to copulate: raffish: later C.20. Cf. leg on ... L.A. cites Peter Tinniswood, A Touch of Daniel, 1969. Hence, also throw a leg over; low coll.: since late C.18.

leg-over and chips. A good night out: RAF: since ca. 1950. (Peter Reynolds, 1979.) See prec., 2.

leg-piece. See leg-drama.

leg-pull. A good-natured, innocuous hoax or deception: coll.: C.20. Ex pull (someone's) leg, q.v.

leg-roping out, put the. To tame or master a recalcitrant person: Aus. coll.: C.20. (B., 1943.) Ex leg-roping cattle.

leg-shaker. A dancer: (low) coll.: C.19—early 20. Cf. synon. hooper.

leg-shop. A theatre specialising in the display of the female form: from ca. 1872; ob. Cf. leg-business, -drama, -show.

leg shot off. See leg off.

leg show. See leg-drama. Very common in 1914–18, leg-show is applied less to the programme as a whole than to the underclad personnel in action or to a leggy 'number'. B. & P.

leg-swing. A loafer; malingerer: nautical: from ca. 1860. Hence, leg-swinging, n., malingering. See swing the leg.

leg-up; esp. give (someone) a leg-up, to assist him: coll., esp. Aus.: late C.19–20. B. 1942.

leg-zeph. Short trousers; running shorts: St Bees: since ca. 1914. Marples, 'Apparently from the trade use of zephyr—a thin vest (through which the zephyrs blow).'

legal. A passenger that pays only the legal fare: taxi-drivers' coll.: since ca. 1910. (Herbert Hodge, Cab, Sir?, 1939.) Ex—2. The legal, abbr. 'the legal fare': proletarian coll.:—1923 (Manchon).

legal beagle. A lawyer more than averagely keen, with a sharp nose for errors and omissions: Can., mostly journalistic: since ca. 1950. (Leechman.) Ex—legal eagle. A lawyer: adopted, in late 1940s, ex US. This sort of rhyming is very common in post-WW2 US s.: see esp. W. & F.'s Appendix.

leger. A giver of short weight in coals.—2. legering (law), this practice. Ca. 1590–1650: c. (Greene.) Ex Fr. léger, light.

legged. In irons: c. > low: ca. 1830–70. Brandon.

legger. One pretending to sell smuggled, but actually selling shop-worn, goods: ca. 1785–1830: c. Grose, 2nd ed.—2. A reprimand by a master: Charterhouse: C.20. Ex lecture, by the 'OXFORD -ER'.

leggings. Stockings: (somewhat low) joc. coll.: ca. 1870–1920.

leggism. The art or the character of a 'leg' (q.v., sense 1): ca. 1820–1920.

leggnr. 'Sometimes used instead of "stretch" when referring to one year's imprisonment' (Tempest, who notes 'rare usage'): c.: mid-C.20. ?cognate with lag (P.B.).

leggo! 'Leg it!'; run!: low: late C.19–20.—2. Let go!: sol.: mid-C.19–20. D.L. Sayers, Murder Must Advertise, 1933.

leggy, n. See PRISONER-OF-WAR SLANG, §6, in Appendix.

leggy, adj. As long-legged, S.E.—2. Notable for the display of leg: from ca. 1865. Cf. leg-business, -shop, qq.v. OED cites 'Leggy burlesques' (Daily Telegraph, 10 Jan. 1866).

leggy-peggy. A (little) leg: nursery:—1887 (Baumann).

Legion of the Lost, the. Those elderly or mentally infirm persons in homes or institutions who have been abandoned by relations and friends and who receive neither visits nor letters: coll.: since ca. 1925. As Claiborne points out, this is from the first line of Kipling's poem 'Gentlemen-Rankers', pub'd in Barrack-Room Ballads, 1892: 'To the legion of the lost ones, to the cohort of the damned...'

legit, the. A C.20 theatrical abbr. of legitimate drama. See legitimate, n., 2.

legit, adj. and, derivatively, adv. Legitimate(ly): low s., verging, at least orig., on c.: C.20. "I get my maggot [money] legit these days" (J.F. Straker, Sin and Johnny Inch, 1968).

legit joint. A game of chance where the genuine player has a chance of winning: Can. carnival s.: C.20. Contrast gaff joint.

legitimacy. The reason for much early emigration to Australia: Aus.: ca. 1820–60. Ex the legal necessity of the voyage. Peter Cunningham. Cf. legitimates.

legitimate, n. A sovereign (coin): Londoners': ca. 1820–50. (Bee.) Prob. ex legitimate sovereign (king).—2. As the legitimate, legitimate drama, i.e. good (mainly Shakespearean) drama, as opp. to burlesque: theatrical:—1887.

legitimate, adj. Applied to flat racing as opp. to steeplechasing: racing:—1888.

legitimates. Convict emigrants: Aus.: ca. 1820–60. (Morris.) See legitimacy.

legless. Drunk: low coll.: since ca. 1965. (P.B.)

legs. A tall, thin person, esp. if a man: coll.: C.19–20. Cf. lamp-post.—2. In be or get on one's hind legs, to be speaking, rise to speak, esp. if formally: joc. coll.:—1897. (Without hind, it is S.E.).—3. In get (occ. rear) on one's hind legs, to fall into a rage: earlier C.20. Ex a horse rearing.—4. In give or show a clean pair of legs, to run away, decamp: coll.:—1883.

—5. In have legs, to be (considered) fast (e.g. of ship, train, runner): coll.: from ca. 1870. Cf. have the legs of, (esp. of a ship) to out-distance (or out-sail) another: nautical: late C.19–20. 'Taffrail'.—6. In put legs on, to cause (a person) to hurry: from ca. 1880. Graham Seton, Pelican Row, 1935, 'That'll put legs on 'im'.—7. Merry-legs. A harlot: low coll.: C.19—early 20.—8. Masts: RN: C.19. (Matthew Barker, in L.L.G., 26 June 1824.) Smyth, 1867, has long-legged, tall-masted, and long-legger, such a ship (Moe).—9. A ship's main engines: MN, esp. Townsend Ferries: later C.20. (John Malin, 1979.) Cf. synon. sewing machines.—10. See four bare legs ...; lay (one's) legs ...

legs and arms. Weak beer: tailors': from ca. 1860. Because without body.

legs eleven. The number 11 in the game of house: military: C.20.—2. Hence, eleven o'clock: military: from 1914.—3. A very tall thin man: army: earlier C.20. F. & G.

legs grew in the night, therefore could not see to grow straight, - his. A jeering c.p. addressed to a crooked-legged man. (Grose, 3rd ed.) Cf. buy one's boots ...

legs man. See arse man and legsmen.

legs up to her bum, she's got. A mid-C.19–20 c.p., addressed by men to boys in order to imply a common humanity: 'She has legs too, you know; just like you, son'.—2. Often as she's got legs right up to her bum, a low male phrase of lusty approval at a pair of shapely female legs: since ca. 1930. (P.B.)

Legshire. The Isle of Man: C.19—early 20. Ex the heraldic bearings. Cf. Leekshire, Wales.

legsgman. A racecourse swindler who invites one to 'find the lady': c.: late C.19–20. Cf. leg, n., 1, q.v.

leisure hours. Flowers: rhyming s.:—1909 (Ware).

lekki, -y. A lecture: see leccers.

lel or lell. To take, seize, arrest: low London s. verging on c.: from ca. 1860. (B. & L.) Ex Romany.—2. Hence, to summons or prosecute (someone): market-traders': late C.19–20. M.T.

lemme. Written representation of slovened 'let me', pron. lemmy: C.20.

lemon. Something undesirable: coll.: since ca. 1920. OED Sup. cites 'Middlesbrough seem to have picked a lemon, for the draw gives them South Shields as opponents' from Daily Express, 13 Dec. 1927.—2. An unattractive female, esp. if a girl: adopted, ex US, ca. 1932. COD, 1934.—3. A Rugby football: sporting: from ca. 1895. H.G. Wells, The New Machiavelli, 1911, 'Naylor... negotiated the lemon safely home'.—4. A car that is hard to sell: motor trade: since early C.20.—5. A car that has many defects, discovered one after another: Can. car-owners': since ca. 1945. (Leechman.)—6. A woman's pubes; hence, loosely, the female pudend: low: C.20. The raffish will remember a well-known parody to the tune of 'Men of Harlech' (L.A., 1976).—7. In hand (someone) a lemon, to swindle, esp. in a business deal: commercial: since early 1920s.—8. See answer's a lemon; squeeze the lemon; standing about ... and:-

lemon and dash; often shortened to lemon. A wash-place (public lavatory): since ca. 1950: orig. and still mainly underworld. (Franklyn 2nd.) Cf.

Lemon and Balkan States. "'Wash and grease" up, greasing the hair being an important part of the "spiv's" toilet. (Greece—grease. Lemon squash being the rhyming slang for wash.) (Tempest): prison c.: mid-C.20.

Lemon Avenue. Spiritual home of 'wowers': Aus.: since ca. 1920. B., 1943.

lemon-rob. Lemon- or lime-juice as an antiscorbutic: nautical (—1867); slightly ob. (Smyth.) Subjectively pej.

lemon squash, n. and v. Wash: rhyming s.: C.20. See Lemon and Balkan...

lemon-squeezer. A peaked hat worn by NZ soldiers: NZ army, WW2; adopted, ca. 1940, by Aus. army. (B., 1953.) Ex the shape.—2. A fellow, chap, bloke: rhyming s., on geezer, q.v.: later C.20. Ronnie Barker, Fletcher's Book of Rhyming Slang, 1979.

lemon tea. A urination: rhyming s., on pee: C.20. (Red Daniells, 1980.)

lemon time. A break for rest and light refreshment: railway shunters: C.20. (McKenna, Glossary, 1970.) Cf.:

lemonade turn, the. The shift from 2 to 10 p.m.: railwaymen's: since ca. 1920. (Railway, 2nd.) The shift on which it is easiest to obtain refreshments.

lemonade wallah. A teetotaller: Army, esp. the Regulars: late C.19—earlier 20.

lemoncholy. Melancholy: London:—1909; ob. Ware. By joc. transposition and slight distortion of melan. Cf.:

lemonjolly. A joc. distortion of melancholy: ca. 1860—1910. Occ. lemon colly, lemon punning melan. Cf. colly molly, q.v.

lemons, adv. With a will; vigorously: Aus.: ca. 1860—1910. 'Tom Collins', Such Is Life, 1903, "'Grass up over yer boots, an' the carrion goin' into it lemons," he remarked.' Cf.:

lemony. Disgruntled, irritated, angry: Aus.: C.20. B., 1942, 'go lemony at, to become angry, express anger towards someone'. A lemon is sour.

lend, n. A loan: coll. from ca. 1825 ex C.16—20 dial. 'For the lend of the ass you might give me the mill,' old ballad.—2. A person to whom one lends money: Aus.: since ca. 1930. 'He was a safe lend all right' (Dick).—3. In take a lend (or loan) of, to impose on (someone); treat as a fool or a 'softie': coll.: since ca. 1910. Also have a lend of.

lend, v. Give, as in 'Lend me a lick of the icecream!': proletarian coll.:—1887 (Baumann). P.B.: cf. the later C.20 synon. use of borrow, as 'Can I borrow the Sellotape?' (as unreturnable as the orig. 'lick of icecream').

lend his arse and shite through his ribs, he would. A c.p. applied to 'anyone who lends his money inconsiderately' (Grose, 2nd ed.): ca. 1780—1860.

lend us your breath to kill Jumbo! A proletarian c.p. of 1882—ca. 1910. Ware, 'Protest against the odour of bad breath.' (See jumbo, 3, and jumboism.)

lend us your pound! Pull your weight (on the rope): a joc. nautical c.p.: late C.19—20. Bowen.

lends. See play for lends.

length. 42 lines: 1736 (OED): theatrical s. >, ca. 1980, theatrical coll. Fielding; G. Parker; Dickens, 'I've a part of twelve lengths.'—2. Six months' imprisonment: c.: from ca. 1850. (H., 1st ed.) Cf. dose, n., 2; moon, 1; stretch, n., 2, qq.v.—3. In go the length of a (e.g. guinea), to lend that much: coll.:—1887 (Baumann).

length of (someone's) foot, get or know or have the. To know a person well; discover his weakness: coll. > S.E.: late C.16—early 18. Later, have or get...; ob. (Apperson.) Prob. orig. a shoemaker's metaphor (W.).

Lenin's tomb. That part of the Admiralty building—officially 'the Citadel'—which faces St James's Park and which, built during WW2, was regarded as impregnable: RN officers': since ca. 1943. Granville.

lens louse. 'Bane of the news-reel cameraman is what he calls a "lens louse". They come in male and female species, publicity-hunters who never miss a chance of getting in front of a newsreel camera and hogging the scene as long as they can. Then there are the "anglers" ... who have learned at which angle they photograph best, and always try to present that angle to the camera' (John Hall in Daily Mail, 24 May 1950): since ca. 1945.

Lents. The Lent Term boat-races: Cambridge University: 1893 (SOD): coll. till C.20, then S.E.

Leo, The. The Red Lion Inn: Cambridge undergraduates': late C.19—20.

leopard's crawl. An allegedly noiseless approach towards sentries to be overpowered: army (prob. orig. in the East): coll., since 1941; >, by 1950, j., and gen. leopard-crawl, n. and v. P-G-R; P.B.

lep; occ. lef. Left, esp. in words of command: military: C.19—20. (Andrew Buchanan, He Died Again, 1933.) In the same way, right > ri, as in lep, lep ... lep, ri, lep, in squad drill; sometimes reduced even to ep and i.—2. A leprechaun: Anglo-Irish: late C.19—20.

lepper. A dog (esp. as runner): dog-racing: since ca. 1925. (Robert Westerby, Wide Boys Never Work, 1937.) Ex dial. lepper, lit. 'leaper'.

leprosy. Cabbage: Aus.: C.20. B., 1942.

leracam. Mackerel: back s.:—1859 (H., 1st ed.). Occ. luracham.

lerry-come-twang. A fool: Restoration period. Ex a popular refrain-tag of the time.

Les. A Lesbian: Society: from ca. 1930. Since ca. 1950, fairly gen.

Les be friends! 'A mixture of a bad joke'—Les, Lesbian, and le's, illiterate for let's—and a catch-phrase ... more generally used than one would expect' (a correspondent, 1965): since ca. 1963.

Lesbian. A woman sexually devoted to women: coll. (—1896) >, ca. 1930, S.E. Ex the Sapphic legend. Not in the Oxford dictionaries by 1937 (1st ed. of this Dict.), the term reached the SOD in the mid-1940s.

Lesbo or lesbo. A Lesbian: Aus.: since ca. 1935. Also lezo. By the Cockney/Aus. '-o'.

Leslie. A Lesbian: Aus.: since ca. 1945. (B., 1953.) Perhaps by euph. elab. of Les.

Leso. Var. spelling, in Wilkes, of Lezo, a Lesbian.

-less in mid-C.19—20 usage often borders on the coll.; see, e.g. legless.

'less or less. Unless: Can. (and US) coll.: mid-C.19—20. Ex English dial. usage. Cf. 'cept, except.

-let. A diminutive that, in C.18—20, occ. has a coll. force.

let, to. (Of a canvas) sparsely filled: painters':—1909; ob.

Ware.—2. See apartments to let.

let alone. (Prepositional phrase.) Much less; not to mention: coll.: 1816, Jane Austen; Barham, 'I have not had ... [a] brown to buy a bit of bread with—let alone a tart.' Occ. letting alone (1843; ob.). OED.—2. let me, him, etc., alone († for doing), to do something: coll.: C.17—20. Shakespeare, 'Let me alone for swearing': Dryden, 'Let me alone to accuse him afterwards.' OED.

let daylight into. To stab, shoot; kill: coll.: C.19—20. See also daylight into.

let-down. A disappointment; deception: coll.:—1894.—2. The v.: S.E.

let down (a person's) blind. To indicate that he is dead: coll.:—1923 (Manchon).

let down easily or gently. To be lenient to: coll.: 1834, M. Scott, 'By way of letting him down gently, I said nothing.'—2. Occ. = let down, to disappoint: late C.19—20: coll.

let down (one's) hair. See let (one's) hair...

let 'em all come! A c.p. expressive of cheeky defiance: 1896: lower classes' >, by ca. 1912, gen. Ware relates its origin to the manner in which the British received the German Emperor's message of congratulation to Kruger, on the repulse of the Jameson Raid, the USA's communication concerning the English boundary dispute with Venezuela, and the shortly ensuing tricoloured agitation in the Fr. press. Cf. let her rip!

let 'em trundle! 'Clear out!', go away: app. ca. 1695–1730. Congreve, The Way of the World, 1700 (cited by G.H. McKnight).

let fly. V.t., to hit out: coll.:—1859. Punch, 25 July 1859, 'Lord Lyndhurst let fly and caught him ... an extremely neat one on the conk.' Also in, e.g. 'he let fly a few choice words', i.e. he swore.

let George do it! A journalistic c.p., dating from ca. 1910 and applied to the calling-in of an unnamed expert and putting the writer's own words into his mouth. Perhaps ex Fr. Laissez-faire à Georges, as Alexander McQueen has proposed. See DCpp. for fuller treatment.

let go. To achieve sexual emission: low coll.: C.19–20.—2. Not to mention; all the more reason, e.g. 'Let go he wasn't there': lower classes' coll.:—1923 (Manchon). On let alone ...

let go a razzo. To break wind: low raffish, or merely rather low: C.19–20. Hence, in C.20, simply let one off or go. (F. Leech, 1972.) Razzo, razzer and razzo are all var. abbr. of raspberry (tart), rhyming s. = fart.

let go the painter. To deliver a (heavy) punch: boxers':—1887 (Baumann); ob. by 1930. A pun on paint (one's) eye black, and nautical j.

let (one's) hair down, let down (one's) hair. To let oneself go; to enjoy oneself thoroughly; to be very friendly, intimate; to be (perhaps uncharacteristically) uninhibited: coll.: since ca. 1925, but not very common in UK before ca. 1950. Ex a number of girls talking together, esp. late at night. Also take (one's) back hair down and unpin (one's) back hair, prob. the orig. form. 'Although strictly applicable to women only, the phrases have, even in short-hair days, been used by men of themselves, or by either sex of men' (L.A., 1967).

let (someone) have it. To strike hard; punish (lit. or fig.) severely: coll.: recorded in US, 1848; adopted in UK 1880s.

let her fizzle. To keep all possible sail in a strong wind: Can. (and US) nautical: ca. 1870–1930.

let her go, Gallagher! A c.p., equivalent to 'Let's begin!': Aus., C.20 (Baker); recorded in US 1888. See esp. DCpp. at let her go, Deacon.

let her rip! Let it (etc.) go freely!; damn the consequences! coll.: mid-C.19–20. Perhaps orig. US (as Ware and Thornton think).—2. Hence, as a callous pun on n. i. p. (requiescat in pace, let (him or her) rest in peace), let her (or him) rip: late C.19–early 20.

let her roll! Let's have it!; 'on with the dance!': Can. lumbermen's: C.20. (John Beames.) Ex logging.

let him that hath need blow the coals. 'Let him Labour that wants' (B.E.); also, stop no man from working. Coll. and proverbial: C.17–18.

let-in. An illegal victimisation; a robbery; a gross deception: coll.:—1923 (Manchon), Ex:

let in, v. To victimise; deceive, cheat: coll.: from ca. 1830. Thackeray, 'He had been let in terribly ... by Lord Levant's insolvency.' Ex ice giving way.—2. V.i., to deal, gen. followed by with: university (mostly Oxford): from ca. 1860; ob. (T. Hughes, Tom Brown at Oxford.) Cf.:

let (another or oneself) in fox. To involve in: coll.: late C.19–20; by 1935, S.E. Always with—occ. joc.—implication of unpleasantness.

let (one) in on (a secret, a project, etc.). To tell about (the affair) in confidence: coll.: since ca. 1940. (Petch, 1974.)

let into. To attack; abuse; beat: from ca. 1850; ob. Mayhew, 'Those that let into the police, [got] eighteen months.' Cf. S.E. let out at.

let it all hang out. A US c.p. of the 1970s that had some use in UK. It means 'to be completely frank', as in, e.g. group therapy. Prob. sexual in orig., though there may be a glance at shirt-tails and dirty linen. See DCpp.

let it run. To write as fully as the facts allow: journalistic coll.: late C.19–20.

let it slide! Let it go!; don't trouble! coll.: C.20. Leonard Merrick, The Position of Peggy Harper, 1911.

let it spread! 'And what about the "Aw, let it spread" attitude to fat? ... It might be all nice curves to begin with, but soon all you'd have would be circumference: today Rubens, tomorrow the world' (Katharine Whitehorn, Observer, 7 May 1972).

let it sweat! Let things now take their natural course; don't interfere any more: c.p.: since ca. 1920. P.B.: perhaps suggested by 'sweating out' a fever; contrast use when lit., e.g. of a suspect being left in solitary confinement before submission to interrogation: 'let him sweat for an hour or two' (with fear).

let (oneself) loose. To speak or act without restraint: coll.: C.19–20. Cf. let (one's) hair down.

let-loose match. A bull-baiting: sporting: ca. 1820–40. Egan's Grose.

let me alone (for that)! Take my word for it!; You can depend on me for that!; You don't need to worry about me, I'll manage: c.p. very common in Restoration comedy and, indeed, until ca. 1880. See DCpp. for numerous examples.

let me be hanged! Occ. Restoration var. of let me die, 1.

let me chat you (or yer)! Take my advice!; let me tell you!; Aus. and NZ soldiers' c.p.: WWI. Cf. chat, v., 2 and 3.

let me die! C.p. of asseveration, roughly 'let me die if I lie': ca. 1660–1850. Occ. intensive var. let me die in a ditch!—2. Also as c.p., meaning 'You'll cause me to die laughing': proletarian coll.: ca. 1860–1914. Cf. carry me out, q.v., and the cliché, you'll be the death of me!

let me out – I'm (or I'm not) barmy! Services' pantomimic c.p., sometimes, in the 1950s, with fingers outstretched before the face to represent a barred window or cage, expressing a lively desire to be rid of Forces' restrictions: ca. 1940–60.

let me perish! Var. of let me die!, 1.

Let Me Sleep. Railwaymen's pun on the initials of the London, Midland & Scottish Railway Co.: 1923–48. Railway, 2nd.

let me tell you! A c.p.: 1944+. As an emphatic tag, prob. since C.18; but as c.p., only since the BBC radio programme, 'Happidrome', popularised it: Enoch, in every instalment, says at least once, 'Let me tell you, Mr Lovejoy ...' (every word emphasised).

let off steam. To give vent to pent-up exuberance, or, occ., anger: coll.: C.20.

let on. To admit; betray: dial. (—1725) >, ca. 1830, coll. Haliburton, 1835; Boucicault, 'Don't let on to mortal that we're married.'—2. Hence, mostly in Aus. and NZ and from ca. 1880, occ. to pretend, make believe, give to understand: coll.: orig. dial.

let one off. See let go a razzo.

let-out, n. Exoneration; alibi: coll.: since ca. 1920. Ex v., 4.—2. 'A spree, an entertainment' (P.W. Joyce, English ... in Ireland, 1910): Anglo-Irish: late C.19–20.

let out, v. As speak strongly, strike out, it is, despite F. & H., clearly S.E.—2. To disclose a secret, information, v.i.: from early C.19. Moe cites Fredk Marryat, Frank Mildmay, 1829. (The v.t. is S.E.)—3. A gen. v.i. of action, but esp., v.t., to give a horse his head; v.i., to ride at greater speed: coll.: from ca. 1885. 'Rolf Boldrewood.'—4. To exonerate, vindicate, clear from all suspicion of guilt: coll.: C.20. Adopted, ca. 1918, from US, where employed before 1909 (Ware). 'This new piece of evidence certainly lets him out.' See almost any post-WW1 detective novel.—5. v.i. To sing heartily: coll.: C.20. Eric Horne, What the Butler Winked At, 1923.—6. See lies backwards ... let out a reef. To unbutton after a meal: from ca. 1850: nautical >, ca. 1880, gen. coll.

let out at. To aim a blow at: Aus. coll.: C.20. B., 1943.

let rip. To loose, let go, with considerable force, as 'he let rip a few choice words' (he swore forcibly) or 'he let rip with a massive punch': coll.: C.20. cf. let her rip, 1.

let the cat out of the bag. To disclose a secret or a trick: since ca. 1750: coll. >, by 1840, S.E. (Wolcot; Mrs Gaskell.) 'It was formerly a trick among country folk to substitute a cat for a sucking-pig, and bring it in a bag to market. If [the buyer] opened the sack, "he let the cat out of the bag", and the trick was disclosed' (Brewer's Dict. of Phrase & Fable, 1952 ed.).

let the dog see the rabbit! Get out of the way or the light: dog-track frequenters' c.p.: since ca. 1938.—2. A c.p. in ref. to one who wishes to do or see something: mostly Services': C.20. (L.A.) Loosely, show the dog the rabbit.

let-up. A pause, a cessation: orig. (1837) and still mainly US; partially adopted ca. 1880: coll. till C.20, when S.E. (Thornton.)—2. Hence, 'a sudden disappearance of artificial causes of depression' (F. & H.): Stock Exchange: from 1880s. In C.20, S.E.

let up, v.i., to become less (esp. less severe), to cease, is orig. (ca. 1857) and still mainly US: rare in England before C.20. Coll. Cf.:

let up on. To cease to have—esp. anything pejorative—to do with: coll.: orig. (1857) and still mainly US (Thornton).

let you off this time!, (I'll). By joc. transference of responsibility, a face-saving apology for one's own misdemeanour: mostly schoolchildrens': 1970s. (P.B.)

let your braces dangle (and let yourself go), often prec. by you want to. Relax and enjoy yourself: c.p.: since ca. 1945.

letari. Var. of letary, a lodging. Laura Knight, Oil Paint and Grease Paint, 1936.

letch, n. and v. (To have) an amorous feeling: s. > coll.: since early 1900s. Ex lechery. See also lech.—2. Hence, as v. (usu. with at) to look, not necessarily amorously, at women: orig. Services', since ca. 1940 (P-G-R); post-WW2, more widespread. 'Sitting in the window of a caff, having a mild letch at the birds as they stroll self-consciously by in pairs' (P.B.).

letch-water. The sexual secretion: low coll.: late C.18–20; ob. See S.E. letch. P.B.: SOD glosses letch as, 1, a stream running through a bog, and 2, a longing, a craving; the latter, as in 'the letch for blood', 1862, could well='lust', with which cf. prec., 1.

letching-piece. A loose woman: low: C.20.

lets. Bed-and-breakfast visitors: landladies' coll.: C.20. Frank Vosper, Murder on the Second Floor, 1929.—2. See no lets.

let's! Let us (sc. do something expressed or implied): coll.: late C.19–20. Mrs Barbara Houston, 1978, suggests as an example the signpost in Kent that points the way to 'Letts Green|Pratt's Bottom', to which the invited response is obviously 'Yes, let's!'

let's appeal against the light! Let's object, just for the hell of it: Aus.: c.p.: since ca. 1950. Ex cricket.

let's be having you! A foreman's call to start work; hence, the orig. form of let's have you. C.20.

let's call it eight bells! 'An excuse for drinking before noon' (Granville): RN officers' c.p.: C.20.

let's face it! 'Let's be honest in facing (whatever is confronting us, or is under discussion)': c.p.: adopted, ex US, ca. 1959. Often used merely as 'padding': 'I mean to say, the thing is this—I mean, you know, let's face it, right? ...' (P.B.).

let's feel your pulse! A joc. c.p.: late C.19–20.

let's go back to square one. See back to square one.

let's have one! I.e. 'let's have a drink!' Cf. DRINKS, in Appendix.

let's have some light on the subject! Turn on the lights!: c.p.: C.20. See DCpp.

let's have you! NCOs' c.p., addressed to men due to turn out for a parade or a fatigue: since ca. 1910. Cf.:-

let's hear from you! Hurry up!; look lively: army c.p.: WW1. (F. & G.) Ex the vocal numbering of a rank of soldiers.

let's jol. See let's slaat ..., of which it is a var.

let's play silly buggers! Let's pretend we're mad!; (playfully) Let's do something silly!: a lower classes' (from early C.20)

>, by late 1914, military c.p.; ob. (B. & P.) See also play silly ...

let's slaat it out. Let's 'beat it' (make off): S. African: c. (C.P. Wittstock, 1946.) Ex Afrikaans.

letary. A lodging; lodgings: grafters': late C.19–20. (Cheap-jack, 1934.) A var. of letty, q.v.

letter. Abbr. of French letter, q.v., a condom:—1896.

—2. Hell; only in what the (bloody) letter!, what the (bloody) hell!: euph.:—1923 (Manchon); † by mid-C.20. Ex 'ell=(the letter) l.—3. Go and post a letter, to coit: low: mid-C.19—early 20. Cf. see a man about a dog, with which also cf.:—4. Go and post a letter, to visit the w.c.: occ. euph.: earlier C.20.

letter-box. An accommodation address or the person(s) operating it for a spy-ring: since ca. 1950.

letter-fencer. A postman: low London:—1909 (Ware).

letter in the post office, (there is) a. A ref. to the monthly period: late C.19—early 20.

letter-man. (Gen. pl.) A steward doing his first trip with a company: nautical: late C.19–20 (Bowen.) Because presumed to have had a letter of introduction to the seniors.—2. One who has been in prison an indicated number of years: prison c.:—1933 (Charles E. Leach). Each year an alphabetical letter is assigned by the prison authorities to indicate the current year of a sentence.

letter Q. An underworld dodge known also as the billiard slum or mace, q.v. Hence, go on the (letter) Q, to practise this dodge: c.: ca. 1810–60. Vaux, 'Alluding to an instrument used in playing billiards'.

letter-racket. Begging by letter: vagrants' c.: from ca. 1810. Vaux.

lettered. Branded; burnt in the hand: C.18—early 19 c. Cf. charactered.

letters. Degree-letters after one's name: coll.: mid-C.19–20. (E.P.) In C.20, if not earlier, applied also to abbrev. of awards for gallantry, and other honours; the phrase is often used in full, as 'he's got a load of letters after his name' (P.B.).—2. Service certificates: Can. railroadmen's:—1931.

letting alone. See let alone, 1.

letting (one's) little finger laugh. See little finger, 3.

lettuce. Money: adopted, ca. 1945, ex US. Prompted by Am. green stuff, paper—hence any—money. Hence: lettuce leaves. Money in cash, orig., £1 notes: since ca. 1960. In, e.g., the ITV serial 'Coronation Street', episode broadcast 21 Sep. 1966.

lettuce turnip and pea. A feminine euph. of ca. 1914–40. In its WW1 period, it was 'daring'—and often a 'come-on'. letty. A bed; a lodging. Also v.i., to lodge. Parlyaree:—1859; in C.20, mainly theatrical. Ex It. letto, a bed, via Lingua Franca. (H., 1st ed.); J. Frost, Circus Life, 1875; Ware; E. Seago, Circus Company, 1933.) Also occ. latty. (See section on Parlyaree, in my Slang.)

leuc (or leuk or even luke or Luke), as in 'He's had a leuc', a leucotomy operation: doctors' and nurses': since ca. 1935.

level, n. Esp. in do (one's) level, do one's utmost: coll., esp. Cockneys': from ca. 1890. In Rook, Hooligan Nights. Ex level best, q.v.—2. In on the level, adj., and adv., honest(ly), fair(ly): coll.: adopted, ex US, ca. 1905. Perhaps ex US (act or work) on a broad level, be trustworthy. Cf. square, straight, and contrast crook, cross.

level, v. To speak or act honestly and frankly: Can. coll.: adopted, ca. 1950, ex US. (Leechman.) In later C.20 Brit. usage, occ. level with, to speak frankly, as 'Look, I'll level with you. It's like this ...' (P.B.).

level best. One's best or utmost: coll.: orig. (1851), US; anglicised ca. 1870. E. Hale, 1873, 'I said, "I'll do my level best, Doctor."' level-coil, play. To coit: C.17—early 18: low. Ex S.E. † level-coil, a rough, noisy game.

level money. "Level money" means the most appropriate exact multiple of £100' (Anthony Cowdy in colour sup. of Sunday Times, 24 Oct. 1965): secondhand-car dealers' coll.: since ca. 1945.

level pegging. (Of competitors) keeping level; also n. This s. (from before 1900) has, by 1920, > coll. Collinson.

levels on the splonk. Evens, as betting odds: racing, esp. bookies': C.20. Sunday Telegraph, 7 May 1967.

leven. 'In back s., is sometimes allowed to stand for eleven, for... it is a number which seldom occurs. An article is either 10d. or 1s.' (H., 1st ed.):—1851 (Mayhew, I).

Levi Nathan. The US Leviathan: nautical: early C.20. By Hobson-Jobson and 'from the favour she won with wealthy Hebrews' (Bowen).

leviathan. A heavy backer of horses: sporting journalists': —1887 (Baumann); † by 1930. Ex S.E. sense.—2. As the Leviathan, the Bank of Australasia: Aus. journalistic nickname of ca. 1900–30, B., 1942.

levy. A shilling: low: from ca. 1860. H., in 3rd ed., says Liverpool. Ex US levy (1832), an abbr. of eleven or perhaps even elevenpenny bit: see esp. Bartlett, 1848, and Thornton.

Levy and Frank. (An instance of) male masturbation: low rhyming s., on wank: from ca. 1880: often shortened to Levy: C.20. Franklyn, 'the name of a well-known firm of public-house and restaurant proprietors, Levy and Franks.' lewd infusion. Coition: low joc.: since ca. 1925.

Lewie. WW1 var. of next. (Anon., A Soldier's Diary of the Great War, 1929.) I heard it early in 1917.

Lewis. A coll. military abbr. (1915+) of Lewis gun, 'a kind of magazine-fed, gas-operated, and air-cooled machine-gun' (SOD). Ex its American inventor, Colonel Isaac Newton Lewis. (See esp. B. & P., pp. 214, 328.)

Lewis Cornaro; gen. a. A water-drinker: London: ca. 1820–40. (Bee.) Topical.

Lewis and Witties. Breasts or nipples: Aus. rhyming s.: since ca. 1890. (B., 1945.) Ex a now defunct trading house in Melbourne. Cf. Bristols.

Lewo. Lewisham (a suburb of Sydney): Aus., esp. Sydneysiders': since ca. 1925. (B.P.).

Lexicon Bay. The language or phraseology of the undergraduates: Oxford: ca. 1815–40. Pierce Egan, Life in London, 1821.

Lezo or lezo. A Lesbian: Aus.: since ca. 1925. (B., 1942.) Cf. Eng. Les.

liar myself, I'm a bit or something of a. A c.p. reply to a liar: orig. (—1896), US; adopted in British Empire ca. 1900 as a coll.; since WW1, S.E. See bullshitter, 1.

liaise. To get into touch (with someone); hence, to co-operate (with), confer (with): Army officers': 1938+; by 1941 coll.: by mid-1943 j. (E.P., 'In Mess and Field', New Statesman, 1 Aug. 1942). Ex liaison (as in Liaison Officer).

lib. Sleep: c. of ca. 1670–1800. R. Head.—2. A bank-note: c.: C.19.—3. (Lib; gen. pl.) A Liberal: 1885, Punch (Baumann).—4. (Always the Lib.) The Library: Charterhouse:—1900. A.H. Tod, 'A collection of Library books is "Lib. Coll."'—5. A liberty: trivial Cockney: from ca. 1895; ob. Pugh (2): "'Wust o' women." he said bitterly. "Treat 'em kind an' they take libs."—6. A Liberator bomber aircraft: RAF: 1943–6. (G. Emanuel, 1945.)—7. In the 1970s Lib or lib referred only (when not abbr. 'Liberal') to the women's liberation movement directed against sexism and male domination, usu. in the term 'women's lib', n. and adj.: OED Sup., 1976, notes it as coll. abbr., and dates its derivatives libber and libby to 1970 and 1971. (P.B.) lib, v. To sleep, lie down; also to coit: c. of ca. 1560–1870. (Harman, B.E., Grose.) Also lyp (C.16–17).—2. As castrate, S.E.

lib-beg, libbege; lyb beg(e), lybbege(e); lib(b)edge. A bed: c. of ca. 1560–1860. Harman, Rowlands, Head, B.E., Grose.

lib-ken, libken; lipken, lypken; lib- or lybkin. A house; a lodging: c. of ca. 1560–1880. (Harman, Jonson, B.E., Grose, Scott, Mayhew.) Ex lib+ken, qq.v. Cf. libben.

Lib Lab. Any one of the Liberal–Labour alliances (ca. 1915–22) professing Radical principles: political: 1916+; by 1925, merely historical. P.B.: revived, late 1970s, in 'the Lib–Lab pact' against the Conservative opposition.—2. 'A member of the Liberal–Labour Federation, 1899' (Keith Sinclair, A History of New Zealand, 1959): NZ coll.: 1899, then historically. Cf. Red Fed.

libb. An early var. of lib, n., 1 and v., 1.

libben. A private house: c.: ca. 1670–1860. (Coles.) Ex lib-ken.

libber. Usu. women's libber, a member or supporter of the women's liberation movement. See lib, n., 7.

libby, adj. 'Giving up that strident "women's libby thing" in order to blossom into Real Women' (Jill Tweedie, Illustrated London News, Jan. 1980). See lib, n., 7.

liberate. To gain illicitly or deviously; to steal: army: 1944 (Italy) and 1945 (Germany). By humorous euph.

liberating, n. Stealing, e.g. shoplifting: since late 1940s, mostly among the lawless. Ex prec.

liberty!, on my. On my oath!: low coll.: C.20.

liberty boat; liberty bus. Boat taking leave-personnel ashore; free vehicular transport for men on leave: Can. (1940), hence Eng. (1941); adopted from US Navy and Army: j., not coll.—much less, s.

liberty kit. 'Outfit for discharge. Borstals and Detention centres' (Home Office): later C.20.

library. A drinking school; a convivial club, meeting at a tavern: drinkers' or taverns': ca. 1640–90. Anon., The Eighth Liberal Science, 1650.—2. A book borrowed from a lending library: coll.: C.20.—3. A theatre-ticket agency: theatrical: C.20. Denis Mackail, Romance to the Rescue, 1921, 'In the Christmas holidays people will go to any show that the libraries tell 'em to go to.'

library cad. 'Two juniors who have to keep the library in order': Winchester College: mid-C.19–20. B. & L.

licence. See flying without..., and have you a licence? licet. Allowed, permissible: Winchester: C.19–20. (Wrench.) Ex L. licet, it is permissible.

lick, a blow, is S.E. and dial. But see licks.—2. A hasty wash; a dab of paint: coll.: from ca. 1650. Cf. lick and a promise and licked.—3. A drinking bout: low:—1886 (Daily Telegraph, 3 Mar.); ob. by 1930.—4. A turn of speed or work, esp. if great or vigorous: (dial. and) US and Aus coll.: 1837 (SOD). Hence, adv., (at a great or, more gen., full lick, at a great or full speed: (perhaps orig. US) Aus.: from ca. 1888 ('Rolf Boldrewood'). P.B.: both usages: Brit. coll. by mid-C.20.—5. See licks.

lick, v. To beat, thrash: perhaps orig. c. or low (it's in Harman) >, ca. 1700, gen. s.: from ca. 1535. (See also lick into fits).—2. To defeat, surpass: s. >, in C.20, coll.: from ca. 1800. De Quincey; Bixiana, II, 1818.—3. To astound, puzzle: from ca. 1855. ('Ducange Anglicus.') See licks me, it.—4. V.I., to ride at full speed: Aus.:—1889 ('Rolf Boldrewood'); ob. by 1930, except of a motorcar (Lyell). Occ. lick along. See n., 4.—5. To pander to; to be servile towards: Liverpool street arabs': late C.19–early 20. (Arab.) Elliptical for lick(someone's)arse; cf. licker, and lick you.

lick and a promise, a. A piece of slovenly work, esp. a hasty, inadequate wash of hands and/or face: coll.: from ca. 1870.

lick and a smell, a. Almost nothing, esp. as to food; a 'dog's portion', q.v.: coll.: mid-C.18–20. Grose.

lick (one's) chops. To gloat: coll. in C.17–18; S.E. thereafter, but hardly literary.

lick into fits. To defeat thoroughly: from ca. 1875. (Baumann.) Ex lick, v., 1. (Lick into shape is S.E.)

lick of the tar-brush, a, the. A, the, seaman: nautical: late C.19–20. (Bowen.) Ex the utility of tar on shipboard.—2. (Also a touch of...) Applied to one who has a touch of 'coloured' blood in his make-up: coll.: mid-C.19–20.

lick out of. To drive (something) out of (a person) by thrashing: from ca. 1880; ob. OED.

lick-spigot; l.-twat. Resp. fellatrix, fellator. Low: resp. C.18–20, ob.; C.17–20.

lick the (or, one's) eye. To be happy, joyous: proletarian: mid-C.19–early 20. Manchon.

lick-up. Trade s. of mid-C.19–20 as in quot'n at smother, n., 2.

lick you, I'll. This threat in C.18–early 19 evoked the following 'dovetail', i.e. c.p. reply: If you lick me all over, you won't miss my a. Grose.

licked, lickt, ppl. adj. Applied to 'Pictures new Varnished, Houses new Whitenod, or Women's faces with a Wash' (B.E.): coll.: late C.17–20.

lickell. Little: C.18–mid-19 coll. Ex little on mickle. Cf. leettle, q.v. P.B.: more prob. ex childish pron.; there exists the even nastier ickle, e.g. in the coy feminine ickle me=I, me.

licker. Anything excessive, in size, degree, quality: C.18–20; ob. Cf. the adj. licking, also spanker, thumper, whopper, qq.v., and lick, v., 3, its imm. origin. Cf. the mid-C.19–20 Cockney, it's a lick to me, I don't understand it. I.e. it licks (beats) me.—2. An ice-cream cornet: mostly children's: since ca. 1910.—3. One who 'creeps' for favours: a toady: Loughborough Grammar School: late 1970s. (Roger Willson.) Ex lick-spittle or arse-licker.

lickerish all sorts. Strongly sexed: since ca. 1925. 'It takes all sorts to make a world.'—'Yes; and some are lickerish' (lecherous). Ex the well-known brand of confectionery, Liquorice All Sorts.

lickety-split. At full speed; in a tearing hurry: (mostly) juvenile: adopted ca. 1918 from US. Cf. lick, n., 4. licking, n. A thrashing: from ca. 1755: s. >, ca. 1800, coll. Toldervy (OED).—2. A defeat: from ca. 1800: s. >, in C.20, S.E. licking, adj. First-rate, splendid, excellent: from ca. 1680; ob. by 1900; by 1936, all but †. Cotton, Eden Phillpotts. (OED.) See licker, 1.

lickings. See leave the lickings...

lickle. See lickell.

licks. (With my, your, his, etc.) A thrashing: late C.18–early 20. (Burns.) Ex lick, n., 1. The sense of putting all one's effort into, i.e. fig. thrashing, survives in give (something) big licks, adapted, ca. 1950, in the Services—'You should've seen him bullying up his kit for guard. Really giving it big licks, he was'—from the Glasgow nuance, earlier C.20, of 'to enjoy greatly'. This latter meaning has the mid-C.20 var. go big licks on, or, as in J.W.G. Moran, Spearhead in Malaya, 1959, 'Asians go great licks on Roy' (i.e. Roy Rogers, the popular cowboy filmstar of the 1940s). In these phrases the accent is always on big. Big licks, by itself, was Aus., from ca. 1888 ('Rolf Boldrewood' for 'hard work'; also adv., by hard work, 'great guns', in, e.g., going it big licks. Cf. lick, n., 4. (E.P.; P.B.) licks me, it. It's beyond my comprehension: coll.: from ca. 1855. (Anon., Derby Day, 1864.) Ex lick, v., 2; cf. it beats me. (The past tense occurs: e.g. in 'It licked me how the bottom itself did not tumble clean away from the ship,' Durham County Advertiser, 10 Nov. 1871.)

lid. A hat, a cap, or (in Glasgow, at least) even a bonnet: from ca. 1905. Hence the early C.20 Aus. dip (one's) lid, to raise (lit. lower) one's hat (C.J. Dennis).—2. A steel helmet: Services': since 1915. (B. & P.) Cf. battle bowler and tin hat.—3. Submarine hatch cover: RN Submariners': later C.20. (John Malin, 1979).—4. In go over the lid, to go over the top (of a trench), to make an infantry attack: WW1, but not before latish 1915: officers' rather than men's. Petch cites Sapper's War Stories.—5. In like pot, like pot-lid (or with such for like), and in a lid worthy of such, or the, kettle. A proverbial coll. expressive of suitability, similarity, adequacy: C.16–18. Palsgrave, Urquhart, Fuller (Apperson).—6. In that's put the (occ. the tin) lid on (it), that's done it!; nothing more's to be said; that's finished it; 'good night!': late C.19–20 c.p. Cf. tin hat, 4.—7. For that's a lie with a lid on see lie with a latchet.

lie, v. To be in pawn: C.17: coll. Anon., The Man in the Moon, 1609.—2. To lay: late M.E.—C.20: erroneous, and—as such—coll.; rare in C.19–20. Fielding.—3. In not let anybody lie by (one), to be a liar: C.17–18 coll. Ray.

lie as fast as a dog can lick a dish; as fast as a dog (or horse) will trot. To tell lies 'like anything'; semi-proverbial coll.: resp. C.16–17; C.16–20, but in C.19–20 mainly dial. Apperson.

lie at the Pool of Bethesda. (Of theological candidates) to await employment: theological students':—1909 (Ware). Ex Ger.

lie back. See laid back; lies backwards... and when rape is inevitable...

lie by the wall. To be dead: C.15–20: coll. till C.18, then dial. Apperson.

lie doggo. See doggo, 2.

lie-down, n. A reclining and a rest; a siesta: coll.: late C.19–20.

lie down. To take a reprimand, a lie, a beating, etc., abjectly. Only in take lying down. Saturday Review, 4 Aug. 1888 (OED) lie down and I'll fan you! A c.p. reply to such request for service as the auditor thinks unjustifiable: RAF (esp. among NCO regulars): since ca. 1925. Ex the services of punkah-wallahs in India and with the implication that the requester must be distraught or feverish to make the request.

lie down on a, or the, job. To loaf: Aus.: since ca. 1925. (Dal Stevens, The Scholarly Mouse, 1958.) P.B.: in later C.20, also in Brit. Eng., with the implication not only of loafing, but of actual inefficiency.

lie flat. See lie low; † by 1910.

lie in. To remain in one's room when one is supposedly out on leave: Royal Military Academy: ca. 1870–1914. Ex the S.E. sense. P.B.: but lie-in as a n. is coll.: C.20. 'I thought I'd have a bit of a lie-in this morning', i.e. stay longer than usual in bed, just for the pleasure of it.

lie in state. To lie between two women: low: C.19–20 (? ob.). Recorded in A Complete Collection of Remarkable Tryals, 1721: in vol. IV. p. 248. Grose, 1st ed., goes one better, 'in bed with three regular harlots'.—2. To sleep protected by mosquito nets: Services': 1939+.

lie laid on with a trowel. An outrageous and obvious lie: coll.:—1931 (Lyell). Ex S.E. lay it on with a trowel.

lie like a bastard. To tell bare-faced lies, shamelessly: low: later C.20. (P.B.) lie like a flat-fish. To tell lies adroitly: nautical: late C.19–20. (Bowen.) By pun on lie.

lie like a pig. To tell clever lies: Aus.: C.20. (B., 1942.) Cf. lying hound, q.v.

lie like truth. To tell a lie with seemly verisimilitude: coll.:—1876. C. Hindley, '[Cheapjacks] are always supposed, and by common consent allowed, to lie like truth.'

lie low. (Also † lie flat.) To hide one's person or one's intentions; occ., but † by 1910, to keep to one's bed: coll.: from ca. 1845. F. Anstey, 'So you've very prudently been lying low.' To lay low, in this sense, is low coll. or rather sol.

lie-off, n. An afternoon siesta, which was 'a word that soon gave way in the newcomer's vocabulary to the curiously nautical "lie-off", used throughout the Far East' (Charles Allen, ed. Tales of the South China Seas, 1983): (?) late C.19–mid-20.

lie off. To make a waiting-race' (F. & H.): the turf:—1896.

lie on the face. See lay on the face.

lie on the knuckle. (Of a ship) to be 'drawn alongside the entrance to a dock, generally waiting for a tug': nautical coll.: late C.19–20. Bowen.

lie out of (one's) ground. To 'lie off' (q.v.) too long and so, unintentionally, lose the race: the turf:—1896.

lie with a latchet. A thorough-going lie: coll.: C.17–20, but since 1820, only dial. Ray, Fuller. (Apperson.) Also known as a † lie made of whole cloth, or (in dial.) out of the whole stuff, and one laid on with a trowel. Cf. that's a lie with a lid on: coll. > dial.: 1880 (Spurgeon).

lies backwards and lets out her fore-rooms, she. She is a harlot, esp. one not professed: proverbial coll.: ca. 1630–1850. Motteux.

life! Aphetic for 's'life (God's life)! Middleton & Rowley, The Chaste Maid... (IV, i), before 1628: 'Life, call you this close keeping?—She was kept under a double locke' (Moe).

life occurs in the following, qq.v.: bet (one's) boots; great life...; know life; lifer, 1; nothing in my young life; not on your life!; this is the life!; we ain't got much money...; while there's life...

life and everlasting, for. (Esp. of sales) final; without appeal: lower and lower-middle classes' coll.: mid-C.19–early 20. Ware.

life begins. The figure 40 at Tombola, gen. called as 'four oh, life begins': since 1940s. Ex the advertising slogan of Phyllosan, 'Life begins at forty'. See TOMBOLA, in Appendix.

life of him, me, etc., for the; for my, etc., life (ob.). Gen. prec. by cannot. To save one's (exaggerated) life: coll.: 1809, Malkin, 'Not knowing how for the life of him to part with those flattering hopes' (OED).

life of Reilly (or Riley), the; esp. live the ..., (to live) a carefree and comfortable life: poss. orig. Anglo-Irish: C.20. P.B.: in later C.20, it carries a strong suggestion of luxury.

life-preserver. A loaded bludgeon or stick, properly one used in self-defence. F. & H. gives as US c.: rather is it S.E. (1837: SOD).—2. The penis: low: ca. 1840–1920.

lifeboat party, the. A nucleus battalion left out of an engagement: joc. army: 1916–18. F. & G.

lifer. One sentenced, for life, to transportation (1830; † by 1890) or (from ca. 1860) to penal servitude: c. R. Dawson, The Present State of Australia, 1831; Dickens. Also, lag for life (ob.).—2. Penal servitude (orig. transportation) for life: 1832: c. Besant, 'Twenty-five years... as good as a lifer.' Cf. lagging and a lifer, q.v. OED.

Liffey water. Porter (the drink): rhyming s.: late C.19–20: before 1914, mostly Anglo-Irish. (Franklyn 2nd.) P.B.: but Guinness stout is sometimes joc. called the waters of the Liffey: since ca. 1950, at latest.

lift, n. A thief, esp. from shops: c.: late C.16–early 19. Greene, 'A receiver for lifts, and a dishonourable supporter of cut-purses'. Cf. lifter and shop-lift, -lifter.—2. A theft; plunder: c.: late C.16–mid-19. Also lifting.—3. A kick: coll.: orig. footballers': late C.19–20.—4. Hence, a punch: lower classes' coll.:—1923 (Manchon). Also Aus., since ca. 1870. 'Tom Collins', Such Is Life, 1903.—5. Conceit, 'side'; presumption: Shrewsbury School: from ca. 1885. (Desmond Coke, The Bending of a Twig, 1906.) Whence the adv., liftily, recorded by the same author. Cf. roll, n., 1, q.v.

lift, v. To steal, v.i. and t.: c. (1526) >, ca. 1750, gen. s. (Skelton, Greene.) From ca. 1850, gen. applied to stealing cattle and horses.—2. Hence, to transfer matter from one periodical to another: journalists' and printers':—1891.—3. To bring (a constellation) above the horizon in sailing, etc.: coll.: 1891 (Kipling; OED).—4. The sporting senses are S.E.—5. See lifted, be.—6. To arrest: low Glasgow, —1934: also Northern Ireland, later C.20 (Christopher Hawke, For Campaign Service, 1979). Hence, lifted, under arrest.—7. To move stock overland from one place to another far away: Aus.: late C.19–20. Archer Russell, Gone Nomad, 1936.—8. To punch or strike (someone): Aus.: C.20 (B., 1942.) Cf. sense 4 of the n. and the S.E. raise one's hand to (a person).—9. (Of the penis) to become erect: coll., orig. low: C.20. L.A. cites T.E. Lawrence, The Mint, eventually pub'd 1955, 'Golly, I didn't half want it: she [the organ] fair lifted'.—10. In a good hand at a dead lift, a person reliable in an emergency: coll. >, by C.19, S.E.: C.17–mid-19. Grose.

lift a rope. To be in employment: since ca. 1950 (?). Peppitt cites J. Seymour, Journey into England, 1966. Presumably ex nautical coll.

lift arse on (or over). '(Of a man) to engage in an act of extra-marital sexual intercourse (with)' (L.A.): low coll.: C.20.

lift (or raise, one's or the) elbow, hand, little finger. To drink, esp. to excess: late C.18–20: s. >, ca. 1860, coll. The hand phrase admits the addition of † to (one's) head (Grose, 2nd ed.); ... little finger occurs in, e.g. Alfred Burton, Johnny Newcome, 1818 (Moe).

lift (one's) heels. (Of a woman) to lie down for coition: low coll.: C.18–20.

lift-leg, n. Strong ale; 'stingo', q.v.: low: C.18–mid-19.—2. In play at lift-leg, to copulate: id. Cf.:-

lift (one's) leg. To coit: low: C.18–early 20. (Anon., 'Duncan Davidson', a song.) Also as lay or lift a leg on or over, with which cf. lift arse... Cf. too leg-lifter, -ing, a male fornicator; fornication.

lift (up) the hand(s); occ. the arm. To do a little physical work: from ca. 1890. 'Rolf Boldrewood' (OED). Contrast lift (one's) elbow, etc.

lift your undercarriage! Get out!; Go away!: RAAF: WW2. B., 1943.

lifted, be. 'To be promoted unexpectedly or undeservedly': naval coll.: C.19. Bowen.—2. To be arrested. See lift, v., 6.

lifter. A thief, esp. from shops: c.: ca. 1590–1830; from ca. 1750, gen. s. Shakespeare, 'Is he so young a man and so old a lifter?' Ex lift, v., 1. In combination shop(-)lifter (or written solid) it is, in later C.20, if not earlier, S.E. But the quot'n, from Troilus and Cressida, could equally well refer to leg- or limb-lifting, fornication (P.S. Donert, 1980).—2. A heavy blow: from the late 1880s. (OED.) Cf. lift, n., 4.—3. A horse given to kicking: stables' coll.:—1909 (Ware).—4. See also: lifters. Crutches: S.E. or coll. in C.16–mid-17, then low or c. until ca. 1870, when it fell into disuse. Coles and B.E. classify the term as c.—2. Hands: since ca. 1930: c. >, by ca. 1955, low s. (Robin Cook, 1962). Ex lift, v., 1; cf. pickers and stealers.—3. The arms: since ca. 1960. (Petch, 1974.)

lifting. Thieving; theft; late C.16–20; ob., except for the stealing of live stock: c. >, ca. 1750, gen. s. (Greene.) Also in late C.16–mid-17, lifting law (Green, passim). P.B.: but in shoplifting (cf. lifter, 1) it is, in later C.20, S.E.

lifting lines, vbl n.; rare as v.l. 'A young man earning a fairly good weekly wage by "lifting lines"—or acting as runner—to a baker in Bridgeton' (MacArthur & Long). Low Glasgow s. of C.20.

liftly, n. A liftman: mostly Aus.: since ca. 1930. Bernard Hesling, The Dinkumization, 1963.

liftly, adj. Conceited. See lift, n., 5.

lig. A bed: c. of ca. 1720–1840. (A New Canting Dict., 1725.) Perhaps lib (q.v.) influenced by dial. lig, to lie (down). Cf. US c. lig-robber in Irwin.—2. A weighted fish-hook: nautical coll.: late C.19–20. Ex East Anglian lig, a load.—3. n. and v. A freeloader, freeloading (ligger, liggig); one who takes, taking, the advantage of free drinks: 'pop' music, media, journalistic: since earlier 1980s. (John Ryle.)

light, n. Credit: low or rather workmen's: from ca. 1820. Bee, 1823, says that it is orig. printers' s. and gives 'strike a light, to open an account, of the minor sort, gen. applied to ale-house scores.'—2. Hence get a light, obtain credit; have one's light put out, exhaust one's credit. H., 1st ed.—3. As a notable or conspicuous person, even when the applications is joc., the term is S.E.—4. In he (she, etc.) wouldn't give you a light!, he (she, etc.) is exceedingly mean: Cockney c.p.: late C.19–20. I.e. a light (or match) for one's cigarette; poss. also a pun on sense 1. Cf. not worth a light, useless, valueless.—5. A light ale: coll.: C.20.—6. See bring to light; make a light; not worth a ...; put out (someone's) light; strike a light; out like a light.

light, adj. In or of silver: c.:—1923 (Manchon). Prob. on white, n., 1.—2. Rather short of money: coll.: C.20. Gen. as very light.—3. Also light of, which it shortens. Short of (something); 'I'm light a haversack': (mostly Forces') coll.: since ca. 1925. Cf. diffy, 1.

light ale bandit. 'A beer scrounger' (Powis): police s.: later C.20.

light and dark. A park: late C.19–20. P.P., Rhyming Slang, 1932.

light as ... The similes verge on but do not > coll. (E.g. light as a feather, a fly, a kiss, the Queen's groat, though the last—C.17—may after all be coll.) Apperson.

light-blue. Gin: ca. 1820–40. ('Peter Corcoran' Reynolds: Randall's Scrapbook; Egan's Grose.) Cf. light-wet, q.v.

light bob. A light-infantry soldier: 1785 (Grose): military s. >, ca. 1880, S.E. Whyte-Melville, 'A light-bob on each side, with his arms sloped'.

Light Bobs, the. The 13th Foot Regiment, from ca. 1881 the 1st Battalion of the Somerset Light Infantry: military: C.19—early 20. F. & G.

light-comedy merchant. A comedian pure and simple: theatrical: Ware cites the Referee, 13 Mar. 1887.

light fantastic, the. The foot as the means of dancing; dancing: coll.: from ca. 1840. Stirling Coyne, 'Then you're fond of sporting on the light fantastic.' Ex Milton's 'Come and trip it as you go/On the light fantastic toe' (L'Allegro).

light-feeder. A silver spoon: c.: ca. 1850–1920.

[light-fingered, despite B.E., Grose, F. & H., has always been S.E.]

light food. Tobacco for chewing instead of meal to eat: lower classes':—1909 (Ware).

light frigate. A woman of loose morals: ca. 1690–1760. B.E. Cf.:

light horse. A courtesan; a harlot: ca. 1620–1700: Society s. > coll.—2. See ROGUES, in Appendix.

light horseman. A thief operating as one of a gang on the Thames: C.19—early 20. Colquhoun; Daily News, 9 Jan. 1899 (OED).—2. 'A large species of ant' (B., 1943): Aus.: C.20. Swift.

light-house, lighthouse. A red-nosed person, gen. male: ca. 1810–90. Lex. Bal.—2. A tramp acquainted with the police or with their methods: tramps' c.:—1932 (Frank Jennings, Tramping with Tramps).—3. A watch-house: Londoners': ca. 1805–40. Pierce Egan, Life in London, 1821. Cf. pilot, 2, q.v.—4. A salt- or pepper-castor: RN: since late C.19 (pepper prob. before salt, according to written refs). 'Pepper' in Goodenough, 1901; 'salt' in M. Brown, Scapa Flow, 1968. Ex shape, usu. conical.—5. See play lighthouses.

light infantry. Fleas: C.19—early 20. Cf. light troops.

light master. A go-between to the landlord of a house of call and the workmen using it: printers': from ca. 1840. (B. & L.) Ex light, n., 1.

light-ol! A request for more light, shouted to anyone standing in the light: Conway cadets' coll.:—1891 (John Masefield, The Conway, 1933).

light of. Lacking. See light, adj., 3.

light of (f) love, the. The Prison Governor: prisoners' rhyming s., on guv: mid-C.20. Tempest.

light on. Aus. var. of light of, q.v. Rats, 1944, "'You're a bit light on too, aren't you?'"—"Purely a temporary state of poverty".

light out. To leave hastily and, gen., secretly: coll. of ca. 1800; taken into US usage, from whence it re-emerged into Brit. s. ca. 1900, coll. by ca. 1930. For orig. Brit. use, Moe cites John Davis, The Post-Captain, 1806.

light pastry hand, a. One who is able to handle, lightly and easily and tactfully, any relationship or situation or negotiation, either with an adroit bonhomie or, diplomatically, as if no difficulty existed: since ca. 1970. (Based on a letter from L.A., 1976.)

light the fire. To start an (esp. aircraft-)engine. See kick the tyre...

light the lamp. (Of a woman) to have sexual intercourse: rather literary: late C.19–20. Londres.

light the lumper. To be transported: c. of ca. 1795–1830. Perversion of lump the lighter.

light the re-heat. More or less synonymous with turn up the wick. To light the afterburner of a jet engine: a phrase which obviously started as S.E. but is now used to denote rapid acceleration of any form of mechanical transport' (Peter Sanders): RAF: since ca. 1960. Cf. burner, 3.

light-timbered. (Of persons) limber; slender-limbed; weak: coll.: late C.17—mid-19. (B.E.) Cf. the S.E. light(ly) built.

light troops. Lice: ca. 1810–90. (Lex. Bal.) Cf. light infantry and heavy cavalry.

light up, v.i. To light one's pipe, cigar, cigarette: coll.: from ca. 1860. (T. Hughes.) OED.—2. V.I., to light the lamps; put on the lights: coll.: late C.19–20.—3. To give (a person) a dose of cocaine: c.: from ca. 1920. E. Wallace, The Flying Squad, 1928.—4. (V.i.) To reach—to experience—an orgasm: mostly teenagers': from ca. 1945.

light-wet. Gin: ca. 1820–60. (Randall's Scrap-book, 1822.) Cf. light blue, blue ruin, satın, and lightning. Contrast heavy wet.

lighter. See lump the lighter and light the lumper.—2. An animal's lights: low Cockney and tramps' c.:—1932 (Scott Pearson, To the Streets and Back).—3. See beside the lighter.

lighters. The merest wetting of the lips in your pal's tot of rum' (Granville): RN: since ca. 1905. Ex 'light drinking'; by the 'OXFORD -ER(S)'; cf. sippers, q.v.

lightmans. Daylight, dawn, day: c. of ca. 1565–1860. (Harman, B.E., Grose.) Opp. to darkmans, q.v. Ex light; see -MANS, in Appendix.

lightning. Gin: low (perhaps orig. c.): from ca. 1780; ob. (G. Parker.) Cf. blue ruin. Hence, flash o' lightning, a glass of gin:—1811 (Lex. Bal.)—2. See greased lightning.

lightning-conductors. Naval officers' full-dress trousers: RN: since late C.19. They have broad gold stripes down the seams. Cf. the synon. lightning-conductor pants, recorded by Goodenough, 1901.—2. As the Lightning Conductors, the 22nd Regiment of Foot, the Cheshire Regt: army nickname: C.19—early 20. 'For reasons which remain obscure' (Carew). Also known as the Two Twos.

lightning curtain-taker. A performer rushing in front of the curtain on the least approbation: theatrical coll. >, by 1920, S.E.: 1884. Ware.

lightning jerker (or squirter). A telegraph operator: Aus.: since ca. 1910. (B., 1942.) Among Can. railroadmen the term is lightning slinger.

lights. The eyes: from ca. 970: S.E. till ca. 1810, then boxing s. Sporting Magazine, 1815, 'He mill'd the stout Caleb and darken'd his lights' (OED); 1820, 'Peter Corcoran' Reynolds. Also daylights and top-lights.—2. A fool: low: ca. 1858–1910. (H., 2nd ed.) Ex an animal's lights, influenced by light-headed.—3. As in 'if the family catch her [a second wife] slipping, it'll be lights for Lady Laura' (Alan Hunter, Gentry Sahib, 1964): low coll.: mid-C.20. Elliptical for 'lights out' = the end. (P.B.) lights of Piccadilly Circus shining out of his arsehole, he thinks he's got the; or you think you've got ... your ... A low c.p., satirical of someone's self-esteem: mostly Services': since ca. 1920. An elab. and adaptation of the older and much more widely used think the sun shines out of (someone's) arse or arsehole, to regard almost with idolatry: low coll.: late C.19–20, for certain; and perhaps since late C.16.

lights up! A play-goers' c.p. indicative of condemnation: ca. 1900–15. Ware.

lightsome, the. Dancing: C.20. Prompted by S.E. the light fantastic, but never very gen.

lignum. Polygonum, a wiry plant: Aus. coll.:—1880. By contraction.

Ligoniers, the. The 7th Dragoon Guards: military coll.: mid-C.18–20; ob. (F. & G.) Ex Earl Ligonier, their colonel in George II's reign.

like, n. Always prec. by the and (esp. from ca. 1860) gen. in the pl. and followed by of (rarely † to): such a person or thing, in C.19–20 often pej.: coll.: from ca. 1630, the first record being a letter by Rutherford in 1637, 'In a broken reed the like of me'; likes occurring in 1787 ('the likes of me'); Cobbett, 'the like of this'; Du Maurier, in Trilby. OED.

like, v. Misused as in the next, 3 (had liked to...), q.v. like, adj. Inaccurately constructed with the dative, etc., instead of with the elliptical possessive: C.14–20: catachrestic verging, in C.18–20, on coll. Historian Freeman, 'His domestic arrangements... are rather like a steamer' (OED).—2. Likely, with to and the infinitive: i.e. 'that may be reasonably expected to...': C.14–20: S.E., indeed literary, to ca. 1790, then increasingly coll. A.E. Housman, 1896, 'Such leagues apart the world's ends are, /We're like to meet no more.' OED.—3. Apparently about to: sometimes confusedly as in had like to = was like (i.e. likely) to, or, worse still, had liked to = had been like (i.e. likely) to. From ca. 1550: S.E. (except in the † and ob. confused constructions) until ca. 1820, then coll. and dial. Mrs Carlyle, in letter of 1853, 'I am like to cry whenever I think of her.' OED.—4. See anything, as; feel like, and its imm. following entries; what like? For most or very like see like as not.

like, adv., at the end of a phrase or a sentence. Somewhat, not altogether; as it were, in a way; in short, expressive of vagueness or after-thoughted modification: (dial. and) low coll.: 1801, 'Of a sudden like'; Scott, Lytton, De Quincey, E. Peacock. (OED.) Cf.:-

liké. 'Man and like have'—in beatnik s.—'no actual meanings. They are code-signs, as in Morse or Semaphore, to show that communication has begun and ended' (Anderson); adopted, ex US, ca. 1955. The American satirical musician Stan Freberg (fl. 1950s), in his parody of 'The Banana-boat Song', had a tremulous-voiced drummer say 'Oh man! Like I don't dig spiders'. W. & F., 'Prob. to avoid making a definite, forthright statement, part of the best philosophy; reinforced by Yiddish speech patterns.' Cf. prec. (P.B.)

like, conjunction. Like as: the v. being often omitted in the like clause. Late C.15–20: S.E. till ca. 1880, then increasingly coll., in C.20, low coll.; from ca. 1930, gen. considered a sol. J.K. Jerome, 1886, 'Did [Robinson Crusoe] wear trousers? ... Or did he go about like he does in the pantomime?' Prob., in the main, ex the semi-prepositional force of like combined with the suppression of as in like as. OED. (See esp. Fowler.)—2. Also in such phrases as that in H.C. Bailey, Mr Fortune Wonders, 1932, 'I came down [at] half-past seven, like usual': sol.: late C.19–20.

like, anything – nothing – something, in comparison (e.g. Payn, 'Not that Pye is an archangel, nor anything like it'), are S.E.; but the elliptical something like, something like what is obligatory, intended, or desired, is late C.18–20 coll. The OED quotes "'This looks something like, Sir"', said she, 1798. Often by itself.

like a ... , like anything, etc., where speed, energy, or intensity is indicated, have a coll. tendency that often > coll. or, if the second member is coll. or s., even s. Many of the following phrases, which are s. unless otherwise designated, are found at the resp. n., pronoun, adj., or adv.:—like a basket of chips (Moore, 1819), †; like a bat (or bats) out of hell: see below; l. a bird (from the 1860s: 'Quotations' Benham), coll.; l. a dog in a fair (Barham), †; l. a house on fire (1857, see house on fire), s. > coll.; l. a shot (1850, Smedley), coll.; l. a streak (—1890), coll.; l. a thousand, or a ton, or a cart-load, of bricks (from ca. 1840), cf. l. bricks; l. a tom-tit on a horse-turd; l. anything (from ca. 1680; as anything, 1542), coll.; l. be(-)damned:—1899 (E.H. Hornung, Raffles, 'Drive like be-damned!'); cf. smart as be damned, i.e. 'damned smart'; l. beans (ca. 1820–1900); l. billy-(h)o (late C.19–20); l. blazes (—1845; Disraeli, De Quincey), cf. l. a house on fire, q.v.; l. † boots or old boots (1868, Miss Braddon; prob. earlier), cf. l. the very devil; l. bricks (1835, Dickens), † by 1914; l. buggery (see buggery); l. fun (1819, Moore), s. > coll.; l. hell (see hell); l. hot † cake or cakes (—1888), orig. US; l. mad (from ca. 1660), coll., as in Pepys's 'A mad coachman that drove like mad'; l. old boots (mid-C.19–20); l. one o'clock from before 1847: orig. 'of a horse's movement' (very rapid), says Halliwell, contrast l. one o'clock half-struck, separate entry; l. shit to a shovel (late C.19–20, low, ob.); l. smoke (C.19–20); l. thunder (from ca. 1830, ob.; M. Scott); l. the very devil (from ca. 1830; M. Scott); l. wink(ey) (—1896) and l. winking (Barham).

like a baby's fist (or arm) holding an orange. Proverbial, low description of a particularly large male organ: C.20. (P.B.) like a (or the) barber's cat – all wind and piss. See all wind ... and cf. like a snob's ...

like a birch-broom in a fit. See birch-broom.

like a bird. See bird, 12.

like a book. See speak like a book.

like a cat in a tripe-shop – overjoyed. Self-explanatory Lancashire phrase of fairly recent origin. (Jack Slater, 1978.)

like a cat on hot bricks, adj. and adv. Restive(ly); uncomfortable (or -ably); 'on tenterhooks', prowling about: coll.: since ca. 1880.

like a dose of salts. See dose of salts.

like a fart in a bottle. See pea in a colander.

like a fat woman – all behind. A c.p. in ref. to lateness or delay: C.20. The Aus. shape is ... like Barney's bull.

like a fight between a fox and a chief steward. Very devious: MN: since ca. 1940. (Peppitt.)

like a halfpenny, or a penny, book – you talk like. A c.p. remark to a fluent or an affected or pedantic speaker: low coll.: ca. 1880–1910. Cf. speak like a book.

like a lizard drinking. See flat out like ...

like a mad woman's shit. See all over the place ...

like a one-armed paperhanger with crabs. Extremely restless; prowling about: mostly Services': C.20. Crabs = bodylice. Cf. like a cat on hot bricks for meanings.

like a pea in a colander. See pea in a colander.

like a pea on a drum. Applied to a small hat on a large head, e.g. a cap that a schoolboy has long since grown out of, but persists in wearing: coll.: C.20. (P.B.)

like a pig, as in the common sweet like a pig, is a very frequent Aus. coll. intensive: C.20. (B.P.) Cf. lie like a pig.

like a pimple on a cow's (or bull's) arse, or ... on a pig's bum. Synon. with like a pea on a drum; but also used to express insignificance: low coll., rural in orig.: C.20. (L.A.; P.B.)

like a purser's shirt on a handspike. 'Of clothes, baggy and ill-fitting': RN: ca. 1820–80. Peppitt adduces F.W. Mant, The Midshipman, 1876.

like a snob's cat – all piss and tantrums. Low c.p.: ca. 1820–50. ('Jon Bee'.) Cf. like a barber's cat. Snob here = cobbler.

like a spare prick (at a wedding). See standing about ...

like a whale. See whale, 4, and very like a whale.

like all get out. 'Like anything'; vigorously; thoroughly; very fast or hastily: since ca. 1930s. 'In the 1930s ... I occasionally heard "like all get out"' (R.S., 1969); a dating that long prec. its American use (as recorded by W. & F., 1960)—yet during WW2, esp. from 1943 onwards, its currency accelerated because of US servicemen's presence in Great Britain.

like anything. See anything, as.

like as not (, as); like enough; most (ob.) or very like. Probably: coll. and dial.: resp.—1897 (but as like as, without not, occurs in 1681); 1563, Foxe; 1611, Shakespeare, 'Most like I did'; 1610, Shakespeare, 'Will money buy 'em? ... Very like.' (OED.)

like as two peas (, as). Very similar indeed: late C.16–20: coll. >, in C.19, S.E. In C.16–17, as ... pease; Horace Walpole; Browning, in James Lee's Wife (OED).

like bats out of (1) Hell or (2) a cave. In great haste, or with alacrity, esp. of departure: (1) mainly Eng.; (2) mainly Can. (Leechman.) Since middle 1930s.

like beans; like billy-o. See like a ...

like blazes. See blazes, and like a ...

like boots; like bricks. See like a ...

like Brown's cows. In (we're) all together like ..., (we're) alone: Anglo-Irish c.p.: C.20. The anecdotal Brown possessed only one cow.—2. Hence, 'In single file, in a straggling manner' (A. Buzo, 1973): Aus.: since ca. 1920.

like buggery. See buggery, and cf. like fuck!

like Chloe (or Cloe). See, blind as Chloe.

like Christmas beef. See dressed like ...

like Christmas Day in the workhouse. Uncomfortable; niggardly; 'lousy': army: since ca. 1910. Ex a famous soldiers' song, adapted from one of G.R. Sims's Dagonet Ballads, published in 1903.

like death (or, much later, like grim death). Very firmly or resolutely: coll.: from ca. 1780.

like for to (do something). Likely to: proletarian coll.: C.19 (perhaps a century earlier)—20. Bill Truck, Jan. 1822.

like fuck! Expressive of extreme scepticism or aversion; certainly not!: low: late C.19–20. Synonyms: like buggery! and like hell!

like fun. Very quickly; vigorously: coll.: from ca. 1815. See like a ...—2. Also ironically as a decided negative: since ca. 1870.

like fury. 'Like mad', furiously, very hard or vigorously: coll.: from ca. 1840.

like greased lightning. See greased lightning.

like hell. With extreme vigour; desperately: coll.: prob. since late C.18. 'Cutting them up like hell' (severely criticising them): W.N. Glascok, 1826. (Moe.)—2. Very badly: C.20 coll.—3. Certainly not! Not at all; as, e.g., 'Did you go? —Like hell (I did)!': C.20 s. > coll. Hence, since early 1920s, like hell I (or he, you, etc.) will!, I (you, etc.) certainly won't do anything of the sort.

like hot cakes. Esp. sell or go like ..., very quickly, promptly: adopted ex US ca. 1888.

like it but it doesn't like me, I. Applied to food, drink, work, etc.: a semi-joc. coll. c.p.: late C.19–20.

like it or lump it. To like or, disliking, put up with it: from ca. 1860: coll. The sense of dislike comes ex 'a sort of block-acceptance, as if, not liking what was offered you, you anyhow swallowed it whole'. (Basil de Selincourt, Manchester Guardian, 19 Feb. 1937.) Usu., in later C.20, in the imperative: 'Well, that's it! Either like it or lump it!'; sometimes with the implication, 'either put up with it, or go without'. See lump, v., 3. (E.P.; P.B.) like it you may do the other thing, if you don't. Equivalent, and allusive to, the prec.: coll.:—1864 (H., 3rd ed.).

like ... , like ... These proverbial 'consequences', e.g. like mother, like daughter, look—or some of them look—rather coll., but they are the very flesh and bone of S.E. (Apperson for examples.)

like MacArthur I shall return. A c.p., mostly Aus., 'denoting that one's absence will be only temporary, esp. if it is suspected that one is trying to escape hard work' (B.P.): since 1942. Ex the famous promise of General Douglas MacArthur to the Filipinos. ('He promised to return and to liberate them from the Japanese'): B.P.

like mad. See like a ...

like mother makes it, (just). Very well cooked; extremely tasty: proletarian coll.: late C.19–20. (Collinson.) Prob. with allusion to many married men's stock complaint, 'Umph! not like (my) mother makes it'.

like nobes. An ephemeral shortening of the next. Hector Bolitho, in The English Digest, Feb. 1941.

like nobody's business. An adverbial intensive: c.p.: since ca. 1939.

like nothing on earth. See feel like nothing on earth.

like old boots. Vigorously thoroughgoingly: coll., C.19–20. Lit., like the devil. Var. with as: Miss Bridgman, 1870, 'She's as tough as old boots' OED.

like old gooseberry. Like the devil: coll.:—1865. Old gooseberry is an † term for the Devil; see 'The Devil and his Nicknames' in Words!

like one o'clock half-struck. Hesitatingly: low: 1876 (Hindley); of, by 1930. Contrast like one o'clock, q.v. at like a ...

like shaking hands with a pair of gloves on. A coll. phrase 'deprecating diminished ardour from use of contraceptive device' (a condom): since ca. 1930. (L.A., 1976.)

like shit through a goose. Very fast: low Can.: C.20. Cf. like a dose of salts, at dose of ...

like shit to a shovel. See like a ...

like smoke. See smoke, n. 5, and like a ...

like something the cat has brought in, or, in Aus., like something the cat brings in of a wet night. A c.p. applied to a person looking utterly disreputable or very bedraggled: from ca. 1920. Also look what the cat's brought in!

like sticks a-breaking. (Very) vigorously: proletarian coll.:—1851 (Mayhew, I); app. † by 1910.

like taking pennies from a dead man's eyes. Easy; unimpeded: coll.: C.19–20. (L.A., 1969.) Unscrupulously taking advantage of easy pickings; cf. easy as taking money from a child or ... pennies from a blind man.

like that! See I like that!

like the clappers. 'Very fast, or very hard (e.g. "run like the clappers"; or "the clappers of hell")' (Gerald Emanuel, 1945): coll.: C.20. E.P. noted, 'As clapper suggests bell, so hell rhymes on bell: and go like hell is to run very hard indeed'; but an equally common low intensive is like the clappers of fuck. (P.B.)

like the man said. 'No particular man, any man. A throw-away introduction to a remark' (Vernon Noble, 1974): cliché adopted, ex US, early 1970s.

like the man who fell out of the balloon (or lifeboat or plane) — he wasn't in it. A c.p., orig. (ca. 1890), Eng., but, in C.20 common throughout the Brit. Commonwealth.

like the story of Pharaoh's daughter (who found Moses in a basket): 'a well-known Australian c.p.' (B.P.): C.20. Cf. you'll be telling me ...

like the wrath of God. See wrath of God ...

like there was no tomorrow. With desperate vigour: adopted, ex US, late 1970s. 'The free travel scheme aimed at encouraging cyclists to use trains unearthed a biking underground which took to the trains like there was no tomorrow' (Time Out, 4 Jan. 1980). Sometimes 'corrected' to as if there were to be ... Cf. the idea behind 'spending money as if (or like) it was going out of fashion'. (P.B.)

like thunder. See like a ... like to bet on it? Are you absolutely sure it won't happen? (the speaker has strong reservations): C.20. (Granville, 1969.) Prob. elliptical for 'Are you so sure that you'll bet on it?'

like to meet her in the dark (, he'd, I'd, etc.). Plain: lower classes': from ca. 1884; slightly ob. by 1930. (Ware.) Supplanted by:-

like to meet (some person or animal) in the dark, I or you or he, etc., would not. A c.p., applied to any fearsome person or other creature: C.20. Var. ... on a dark night.

like trying to open an oyster with a bus-ticket. Hopelessly ineffectually: RN: C.20. (Peppitt.)

like two of eels. Nonplussed; at a loss: Londoners': late C.19–20. L.A.

like winking. Very quickly or suddenly: coll.: 1827, Hood, 'Both my legs began to bend like winking'. 'Lit., in the time it takes one to wink.—2. Hence, vigorously; 'like one o'clock': coll.: 1861, Dickens, 'Nod away at him, if you please, like winking.' Var. like winky (Lytton, 1830; Begbie, 1902: OED).

likely. See not likely!

likely story, a. Always used ironically, as an expression of profound disbelief: coll.: C.20. 'Come home with your knickers torn, and say you found a shilling? A likely story!' (P.B.)

likeness, take a. To take a criminal's measurements and record physical characteristics, almost solely of the face: c. of ca. 1810–1910. (Lex. Bal.) Ex likeness, a portrait. In C.20, often a joc. invitation at the taking of photographs: 'Come here and have your likeness took' (P.B.).

liker. A hobble or a halter: horse-copers' c.:—1914 (Pugh). Prob. ex Fr. licou.

likes. See like, n.—2. In not (one's) likes, not one's wish: Cockney coll.: from ca. 1870. Pugh (2): "Why have you not brought him with you?" "Tain't my likes," said the man."

likewise. I agree; I share the sentiment. Thus: 'Mr A. "Well, we must be off. We've had a wonderful time. Thank you so much!" Mrs A. "Likewise."' Can.: since ca. 1965. (Leechman.) P.B.: in Brit. 'genteel' usage long before 1965, esp. in reciprocating a compliment, and in joc. parody, often with I'm sure added.

lil. Little: a drunken or an endearing contraction: C.19–20 coll.

lil(l). A pocket-book: c.: from ca. 1810. (Vaux.) Prob. ex Romany lil, paper, a book. See esp. Sampson. Cf. Borrow's Romano Lavo-Lil, i.e. Romany Word-Book or Glossary. —2. Hence, any book: from ca. 1840: tramps' c.—3. A five-pound note: c.:—1896; ob.—4. Hence, any bank-note: c.: C.20.—5. See I.i.l.

lilac. Effeminately homosexual: c. or low coll.: later C.20, Clement & La Frenais, Going Straight, 1978.

lilac wonder. A day-return ticket: railwaymen's (MB): ?ca. 1920–50. (Railway). Ex its gay colour.

Lillian Gish. A fish: theatrical rhyming s.: since ca. 1920. Ex the famous film actress. Franklyn, Rhyming.

lilies. Floating runways for aircraft: FAA: WW2. John Irving, Royal Navalese, 1946.

lill for loll (or law). Tit for tat: C.15–17: coll. Perhaps jinglyly ex A.-S. lael, a bruise. OED.

Lilley and Skinner. Dinner: London rhyming s.: from ca. 1910. Ex the well-known boot- and shoe-makers and retailers; the firm was established in 1835.—2. A beginner: retail trade rhyming s.: C.20. Franklyn 2nd.

lily. An ear-trumpet; also fig., as in "'Get your lily at the key-hole"' = "Eavesdrop" (M.T.): market-traders': C.20. A shape-resemblance.

lily benjamin. A white greatcoat: C.19 low. See benjamin; cf. lily shallow.

Lily Law (and Inspector Beastly). The police; the fuller form is intensive: London barrow-boys': since ca. 1930. Prob. of 'camp' origin.

lily-pond, the; or sweet-pea ward; or male gynae ward. A ward set aside for male pelvic-organs and prostate-gland patients: hospital nurses': C.20. (Cf. 'The Pitfalls of Using Nursing Slang', Nursing Mirror, 7 May 1949.)

lily shallow. A white driving-hat: Society, esp. the 'whips': ca. 1810–30. Lex. Bal.

lily-white, n. A chimney-sweep: c. of ca. 1690–1830. B.E.—2. A Negro: C.18—early 19: low.—3. A young pathic: late C.19—early 20. Cf.:—4. But 'the lily-white boys' signifies a complementary pair of not necessarily youthful male lovers: since ca. 1920. David Jones, In Parenthesis, 1937.

lily-white, adj. Cowardly: Aus. (teenage surfers': from ca. 1960. (Sydney Bulletin, 30 Mar. 1963.) Perhaps suggested by a lack of sun-tan, and influenced by S.E. lily-livered.

lily-white groat. A shilling: low: ca. 1890–1914. See white.

Lily-Whites, the. The 17th Foot (later the Leicestershire), also the 59th Foot (later the East Lancashire) Regiment: military: resp. C.19 and C.19–20. Ex their white facings. F. & G.—2. Also, since ca. 1930, the Coldstream Guards (Gerald Kersh, 1941; Michael Harrison, 1943). Ironic on Coleys.

limb, n. A very mischievous child: 1625. Jonson, 'A limb of the school... a little limb of nine year old': coll.; slightly ob.—2. Hence, depreciatively, of older persons: coll.: C.18–20; ob. except in combination, e.g. limb of Satan (Estcourt, 1706).—3. Elliptical for limb of the law (q.v.) in its Aus. sense 'a policeman': Aus.: since ca. 1930. 'Carefully searching among the straw, the limb found nothing': Hay, Hell and Booligal, Melbourne, 1961. (B.P.)—4. In out on a limb, in a dangerous situation; hence, at a grave disadvantage: adopted, ca. 1945, ex US. Implying a precarious branch high up.—5. See blow off my last limb!

limb, v. To tear to pieces; to thrash: c. or low:—1857; ob. 'Ducange Anglicus.'—2. To cheat: c.:—1878; ob. Hutton, Cruel London.—3. To bring to the stocks: low: C.19. Baumann.

limb of the bar. A barrister: 1815: coll. >, ca. 1860, S.E. Ex:

limb of the law. A lawyer; a lawyer's clerk: 1730: coll. >, ca. 1800, S.E.

limber up. To answer one's name: RN: from ca. 1916. (Bowen.) Indicative of military influence.

limbered, ppl adj. Arrested; in detention or prison: C.20 military. Ex limber, to imprison—cf. in lumber, n., 3, lumbered, 2, Lombard Street, qq.v.—influenced perhaps by limbo, q.v., and certainly by S.E. limber, the detachable front of a gun-carriage.

limbo. A prison; any place of confinement: from ca. 1590; † by 1910: coll. till C.18, then s.; in C.19–20, c. Grose; Moncreiff; anon., Five Years' Penal Servitude, 1877, 'It was a heartless, cruel robbery... Before that occurred he had never been in limbo.' Ex the theological sense, esp. the phrase in limbo patrum.—2. Pawn; a pawnshop: ca. 1690–1820. Congreve.—3. The female pudend: C.19 low.—4. Bread: military: late C.19–20. (F. & G.) Perhaps because often it is, on active service, 'as hard as hell'.

limbs, duke or duchess of. A gawk: from ca. 1780; ob.: low. Grose, 1st ed.

Limburger, that's the. That's 'the cheese', i.e. excellent, correct, splendid: late C.19—early 20. See cheese, n., 4.

limby. A man that has lost a leg: Aus. (B., 1942) and NZ (E.P.): WW1. Cf. wingy, q.v.

lime, in the. Popular; much publicised: Aus.: since ca. 1925. (Baker.) I.e. 'in the limelight'.

lime-basket or -kln. See dry as a lime-basket.

lime-juice. Limelight: theatrical: ca. 1875–1915. (Ware.) Thus does sound generate sense!—2. A 'new-chum': Aus.:—1886; ob. by 1896, † by 1910. Ex the lime-juice served on out-going ships. Cf.:

lime-juicer. The same as lime-juice, 2: Ibid.: ca. 1858–1900. Cornwallis, The New World, 1859 (OED). In Wm Kelly, Life in Victoria, 1859, = an Englishman; an English sailor. Cf. limey, q.v.—2. An English sailing-vessel: Can. (ex US): later C.19—early 20.

lime slime. See PRISONER-OF-WAR SLANG, 11, in Appendix.

Lime Tank, the. The RN Hospital, Haslar: RN: since ca. 1920. Granville.

lime twig, -twig, limetwig. As a snare, S.E.—2. A thief: late C.16—early 17: c.: Greene, third Cony-Catching, 1592.

Limehouse. 'To use coarse, abusive language in a speech' (Lyell): coll.:—1931. Ex the S.E. sense, 'to make fiery (political) speeches such as Mr Lloyd George made at Limehouse in 1909' (OED Sup.).

Limericks. Shares in the Waterford & Limerick Railway: Stock Exchange coll. (—1895) >, by 1910, j. A.J. Wilson, Stock Exchange Glossary.

limers. Limejuice: RN: since ca. 1930. (John Winton, We Joined the Navy, 1959.) By the 'OXFORD -ER(s)' limes. Limelight: theatrical: C.20. Cf. lime, in the. Electric footlights are, of course, included.

limey, Limey. An Englishman: C.20 US >, in 1933, partly anglicised, thanks to Spenser's Limey, a notable book on the US underworld. Ex lime-juicer, the US (—1881 but †) term for a British ship or sailor, lime-juice being served on British ships as an antiscorbutic. Adopted in Aus., ca. 1943, ex US servicemen.—2. Hence, esp., a Can. name for a Brit. seaman: since ca. 1925 (H & P.); and a S. African name for an RN rating: 1939 + (Cyrus A. Smith, 1946).

limit. Esp. in that's the (usu. qualified) limit, a person, act, or thing that is the extreme (or beyond) of what one can bear; gen. in joc. use, although qualification may be suited to degree of exasperation caused: coll.: adopted, ex US, ca. 1908 (OED Sup.). It may be the dizzy or giddy or frozen or outside limit, or even just about the fucking limit.—2. In the sky is (one's or the) limit, one is ambitious; one rises in the world; (with the) the possibilities are boundless. An early occurrence is in Daily Mirror, 26 Oct. 1933.—3. See drive at the limit.

limiting law. In c. of late C.16—early 17, as explained by Greene in A Disputation, 1592, 'The lymitting Lawe, discouraging the orders of such [professional criminals] as followe ludgets, in their circuites, and goe about from Fayre to Fayre.'

limmick. Salt: army: late C.19—early 20. (F. & G.) A perversion of Hindustani namak.

limo (pron. limmo), n. A limousine car: motorists': since ca. 1960. Ian Kennedy Martin, Regan, 1975.

limo, adj. Luxurious, as a limousine car: early 1980s. '[She] may have taken to the limo treatment accorded to hot cinema property, but...' (Sunday Express mag., 30 May 1982, p. 7). Ex n.

limo-limo. See PRISONER-OF-WAR SLANG, 11, in Appendix.

limpet. A 'base-wallah'; a 'Cuthbert': army: WW1. He clings to his job.

limping Annie. See Annie, 2, an Anson aircraft.

limping Jesus. A lame person: low: C.19—early 20. Cf. dot and carry one.

Limps, the. The Liberals: political: very late C.19—earlier 20.
Lincoln and Bennett. A superior men's hat: Society coll.: ca. 1840–1910. (Ware.) Ex the maker's name. (The firm was established ca. 1800; later styled Lincoln, Bennett & Co., Ltd.) Cf. Dunn's three-and-ninepenny for any cheap bowler hat, this make being the best of the lower-priced hats: coll.: late C.19—early C.20. (Alexander McQueen.)

Lincoln's Inn. A £5 note: racing rhyming s. on synon. (orig. underworld) finn, q.v. at finnif: late C.19–20.—2. A hand: rhyming s. on fin, 1: late (?mid) C.19–20.—3. Gin (the drink): rhyming s.: late C.19–20. Cf. Brian O'Linn. All three senses: Franklyn 2nd.

Lincolnshire gremlin. A sharp-toothed gremlin, fond of biting the control wires: RAF: 1940–5. See gremlin, 1.

Lincolnshire Yellow-Belly (or y-b). A native of Lincolnshire: C.18–20. Ex the yellow-bellied frogs of the Lincolnshire fens.

line, a vocation, a profession, a 'lay', is, despite F. & H., excellent S.E.—2. A hoax: low coll.: ca. 1850–1910. Esp. in get (e.g. him) in a line, get some sport out of him. Cf. get into a line, at sense 10 below.—3. As the line, the line of bookmakers on a race-course: racing-men's s. verging on c.: C.20—4. A large amount of stock; a large number of shares: stockbrokers' coll.:—1935. (Cf. the technical sense in insurance: see OED Sup.).—5. A customer that has purchased heavily is known to drapers, hosiers, and their like as a good line: C.20. Ex a good line of drapery-stock: a sense that is S.E.—6. A printed form: Public Works':—1935.—7. A girl or a young woman, e.g. nice line, (not so) good line: Aus.: since ca. 1920. B., 1942; Lawson Glassop, 1944. Since ca. 1950, esp. a slashing line, a very attractive girl. (Culotta.) Prob. ex sense 5, but cf. the (perhaps coincidental) v., 1.—8. A special verbal approach, esp. from male to female: coll.: since ca. 1920. Ex the S.E. 'line of goods (for sale)'. Cf. shoot a line, q.v., to boast.—9. In cut the line or string, to end suspense: c.: ca. 1810–60. (Vaux.) Cf. 2nd nuance of:—10. In get into or on a line; keep in a (tow-)line, to end suspense; to engage in conversation a person to be robbed by one's confederate(s), also get in a string,—cf. sense 2; to keep in suspense, also keep in tow or in a string. C. of ca. 1810–60. Vaux.—11. In go (for a trip) up the line, to go to prison: C.20. (F. Brett Young, This Little World, 1934.) Contrast:—12. Up the line, on leave: RN: C.20. (Granville.) Up the railway from a Service port.—13. In have in line, to have the measure of (a person): army: earlier C.20. Frank Richards, 1933, 'Even the young soldiers ... had him in line.' Cf. have (a person) taped.—14. In take (one's) line (in the Service), to take, esp. early, a vital decision affecting one's entire career: RN officers' coll.: C.19. Basil Hall, 2nd series, p. 1.—15. In, e.g., 'she's got line', she is graceful and vigorous in dancing: theatrical: ca. 1870–1920. Ware.—16. In get a line on, to get information about, or a clue to (either identity or meaning): coll.: adopted, ex US, not later than 1925. (OED Sup.) Ex marksmanship.—17. As exclam., short for '(That's a) line-shoot!': Forces': 1940+. Observer, 4 Oct. 1942.—18. In on the line, in jeopardy, as in 'Our stripes [NCOs' badges] will be on the line for this' (BBC TV programme, 'Dixon of Dock Green', broadcast 12 Mar. 1968: Petch).—19. See also: all down the line; draw the line; fake a line; good line; pay-off line; sub-line; toe a and the line. line-age; also linage. Payment by the line: journalists': from ca. 1888: s. till C.20, then j. Punning lineage.

line book. See lines book.

line mob. An infantry regiment: army: since ca. 1916.

line-o'-battler. A battleship: RN coll.:—1887 (Baumann); ob. by 1930.

line of country. One's vocation, profession, or particular interest, hobby, etc.: Service officers': C.20. "What's your line of country in civvy street?" asked [a Yeomanry major, 1937] (John Verney, Going to the Wars, 1955). 'Not quite my line of country, old boy. Better see the Adj. [= adjutant] on that one'. (P.B.)

line of the old author, a. A dram of brandy: late C.17—early 19. B.E.

line on. See line, n., 16.

line-shoot, n. A tall story; boasting: RAF: since 1940. (Observer, 4 Oct. 1942.) Ex shoot a line, q.v. Hence, line-shooter, one who specialises in, or is addicted to, 'line-shoots' (Jackson); and line-shooting, the corresponding vbl n.

line the pencil. 'Make a bee-line for anywhere, especially the beach' (Granville): RN: C.20. Ex a device, invented by Adml Sir Percy Scott (1853–1914), to facilitate accuracy in firing; it included a pencilled line of dots, and was known as a 'dotter'.

line up. To approach (v.i.); as v.t. with to; to accost: Aus.:—1916 (C.J. Dennis).—2. In the Services, to form up before an interview with the commanding officer, usu. as a defaulter, for disciplinary action: C.20. Hence, to be lined up, to stand thus. (Granville.)—3. To arrange: since ca. 1920. Ex setting things or persons in an orderly line: 'Not to worry, old boy! I've got it all lined up.' Cf. lay on, in sense of 'to organise'.

lined, be. (Gen. of women) to be married: lower classes': —1909 (Ware). Ex lines, 1.

lined up. See line up, 2, and synon. sighted.

linen. As the linen, the stage curtain: theatrical: ca. 1880–1910. Cf. rag., n., 6.—2. Short for linen-drapeer, paper. Hence, newspapers collectively: since ca. 1945. (Angus Hall, On the Run, 1974.) But also pl, as in 'I'm just poppin' out for the linens'.—3. See wrap up in clean linen.

linen-armourer. A tailor: late C.17—mid-19: c. >, ca. 1800, joc. S.E. (B.E.)

linen-drapeer. Paper: rhyming s.:—1857 ('Ducange Anglicus').—2. Esp. a newspaper. See linen, 2.

Linneapolis. Belfast: coll. (—1886) >, ca. 1910, S.E.; ob. Cf. Cottonopolis.

liner. As abbr. penny-a-liner, S.E.—2. A picture hung on the line: artistic s. (—1887) >, in C.20, coll. W.P. Frith in his Autobiography.—3. A battleship: RN: C.19. W.N. Glascock, Sailors and Saints (I, 15), 1829 (Moe); Baumann. Cf. line-o'-battler.

lines. A marriage certificate: from ca. 1825: dial. and coll. >, ca. 1900, S.E. Anon., Fast Life: An Autobiography, 'Those good-natured ladies who never had their lines'.—2. Reins: from ca. 1850: dial. and (mostly US) coll.—3. On lines, 'Used by composers to intimate that the companionship is in full swing': printers' coll.: from ca. 1860. B & L.—4. In on his lines, engaged in work paid according to scale: printers' coll.: C.19–20. Ibid.—5. See hard lines.

lines book. A book kept in the Mess for the recording of exaggerations by its members. 'Sometimes called a "Shooting Gallery". From the early 1920's' (Jackson). In the Observer, 4 Oct. 1942, John Moore uses the occ. var., line book. Cf. line-shooter and shoot a line.

lines like a butter-box. A nautical c.p. (late C.19–20) applied to 'a clumsy, full-bodied ship' (Bowen). Cf. sardine-tin, 1. liney, liny. Wrinkled: coll.:—1887 (Baumann). E.g. 'a liney face'.

ling. A stink: Aus.: since ca. 1920. (B., 1942.) Cf. ling-grappling and:—2. The word "ling" ... had a nineteenth-century slang meaning as the female sexual organ, as in the term "ling-grappling". It appears from this song that it was also applied to the female sexual odour ('Bawdy Songs of the Early Music Hall, selected and intro. by George Speaight, 1975). The song annotated concerns a girl trying to remember the name of the fish she wants to buy; she asks the fishmonger if he could guess it from the smell: 'Then the girl shoved her hand 'neath her clothes, in a shot, / And rubbed it about on a certain sweet spot; / Then, blushing so sweetly, as you may suppose, she put her hand up to the fishmonger's nose. / The fishmonger smelt it, and cried, with delight, / ... / 'I'll tell you directly—you wanted some ling.'" G.S. comments further, referring to sense 1 and this Dict.: 'It seems possible there is an association of ideas here, and it is interesting to observe this hitherto unrecorded English usage of the 1830s to be current in Australia a century later. Perhaps it was carried there by transported convicts.'

-ling. A diminutive S.E. suffix, gen. contemptuous; in nonce-usages, verging, in C.19–20, on coll.

ling-grappling, vbl n. Caressing a woman sexually: low: C.19–20: app. ob. Cf. handful of sprats, and ling, 2, q.v. lingo. 'Slang is termed lingo among the lower orders' (H., 1859): coll.: C.19. Except in this specialised sense the term is S.E. linguist. A practitioner of cunnilingus: Aus.: since ca. 1950. linguistic exercise(s). Kissing: since ca. 1925.

liniment. Alcoholic liquor: joc. coll.: C.20. (McKenna, Glossary.) Cf. oil, 5; tincture, 2.

linings. 'In the North of England, underpants were [late C.19–mid-20] called linings, because originally working-men's trousers were lined' (Petch, 1969).

link, n. A group of porters working under a foreman: railway porters': since ca. 1940. (Radio Times, 21 Jan. 1965.) A link—often somewhat tenuous—between staff and public.—2. In knock out (one's) link, Sessions, 1754 (no. IV, part iii), 'He said he supposed she had knocked out her link (meaning she was drunk)': Londoners': ca. 1730–80. P.B.: presumably this refers to linkmen's torches.

link, v. To steal from a person's pocket: c.: ca. 1820–60. Haggart.

link and froom. These related terms in Yiddish and hence in low London s. date, as to the latter at any rate, from the 1880s. (Ware.) See froom, religious in the orthodox manner, of which link is the opp.

linkster. A linguist; esp. an interpreter: nautical:—1867 (Smyth). Also dial.

linkman. A 'general man-servant about kitchen or yard': West London coll.:—1909. An extension of S.E. sense.

links of love. Sausages: RN: since ca. 1925. (Weekly Telegraph, Nov. 1942; Granville.) Phallic symbolism. Note that simple links = sausages is not s. but dial. Because linked together.

lino. A coll. abbr., from ca. 1880, of linoleum (1863).—2. In C.20, among printers and journalists, a coll. abbr. of linotype (1888), itself contracting line of type.

linseed Lancers. The Royal Army Medical Corps: C.20 army, esp. WW1; not, however, derive after July 1916. F. & G.; P. Gosse, Camp-Follower, 1934.

lint-scraper. A surgeon, esp. if young: coll.: 1763 (Foote); Thackeray. Ex the lit. S.E. sense.

lintie, gen. pl. A sprite: theatrical: from ca. 1870; ob. (B. & L.) Prob. ex Scottish lintie, a linnet; perhaps influenced by Fr. lutin.

liny. See liney.

lion, n. A person or a thing of (esp. fashionable) interest; hence, see the lions, to go sight-seeing: both, S.E. Show (someone) the lions, to show him the sights, occurs in L.L.G., 10 Jan. 1824. (Moe).—2. A great man's spy: C.18: coll., perhaps > S.E.—3. An inhabitant of, or a visitor to, Oxford: Oxford University: from ca. 1780; in C.20, ob. Grose, 1st ed.—4. A citizen: London smart s.: ca. 1780–1800. OED.—5. A hare: ca. 1825–35: coll. verging on S.E. (Westmacott; Lytton.) Ex certain restrictions on game.—6. See Cotswold lion; Essex lion; Lammermoor lion; Romford lion (all = sheep or calf); tip the lion; shoot a lion.

lion, v. To intimidate: Aus.: since ca. 1930. B., 1942.

lion comique. A leading comic singer: music-halls' coll.: ca. 1880–1905. Ware.

lion of Cotswold. A sheep. See Cotswold lion.

lion-tamer, adj. As in "lion-tamer" rig-out', the full dress uniform, with frogging on the tunic, of cavalry regts: army: early C.20. (S.F. Hutton, The Yarn of a Yeoman, 1930.) Ex the fanciful dress affected by circus-folk. (P.B.)

Lionel Blair. Chair: rhyming s.: later C.20. (Ronnie Barker, Fletcher's Book of Rhyming Slang, 1979.) Ex the well-known dancer. Cf. lion's lair.

Honess. A harlot: prob. s.: C.16.—2. A lady visitor to Oxford: s.: 1808. Cf. lion, n., 3.

Lions, the. The 4th King's Own, now the King's Own Royal Regiment: military: C.18—early 20. Ex the lion badge. (F. & G.) Badges, facings, and mottoes are responsible for many nicknames of regiments.—2. Millwall Football Club: sporting: C.20. Their ground is the Den.—3. Fitzroy VFL football team: Aus., esp. Melbourne, coll.: C.20—4. See lion, n., 1, and tame lions...

lion's den. The headmaster's study: various schools': late C.19–20.

lion's lair. A chair: rhyming s.: since ca. 1860. Cf. Lionel Blair.

lip, n. Impudence; abuse: low (perhaps orig. c.); Public Schools' in mid-C.20: since early C.19. Moe cites Alfred Burton, Johnny Newcome, 1818.—2. A house: c.: ca. 1820–50. (Egan's Grose.) Ex lib-ken, q.v.—3. In give it lip, 'To talk vociferously' (C.J. Dennis, 1916): Aus.—4. See button (up) your lip; keep a stiff upper lip.

lip, v. To sing: c. (1789, G. Parker) >, ca. 1860, low s.; ob. Esp. in lip a chant, sing a song.—2. To speak, utter: coll.: from ca. 1880; rare after 1918. Punch, 10 Jan. 1885, 'I had great power, millions lipped my name.'

lip-lap. A child born in the East Indies; esp. if Eurasian: East Indian coll.: mid-C.18—earlier 20. Perhaps ex Javanese lap-lap, a dish-clout. (Y. & B.) Cf. chee-chee, q.v.

lip read. "Lip" or kiss features or physiognomy in amorous dalliance' (L.A., 1974): teenagers': later C.20. Cf.:-

lip service. By a pun on S.E. lip service, it has, in s., come to mean 'female penilingism': adopted, mid-1960s, ex US. Hollander.

lip-thatch or -wing. A moustache: joc. coll. verging on S.E.: resp. 1892 (Kipling), 1825 (Westmacott): ob. OED.

lipey; occ. dial. lippy. A low London term of address: ca. 1870–1915. B. & L. suggest poss. ex Ger. liebe, 'beloved'. ?via East End Yiddish (P.B.).

lipish or lippish. Impudent: ca. 1835–70. (Sinks, 1848.) Ex lip, n., 1. Cf. lippy, adj., a later synonym. var.

lipken. See lib-ken.

lippy, n. Lipstick: Aus.: since ca. 1930. 'Not heard from women under forty' (B.P., 1963).

lippy, adj. Impertinent: from ca. 1890. Ex lip, n., 1. OED Sup.—2. See lipey.

lips hang in your light, your. (Occ. his, her, etc.) A proverbial c.p. = you're a (born) fool. C.16–17. Skelton (eye for light); Davies of Hereford; 'Phraseologia' Robertson. (Apperson.)

Lipton's orphan. A pig: ca. 1890–1914. Ex illuminated sign, advertising the bacon sold by Lipton's shops.

liq. See what will you liq? and liquor, n., 1.

liqueur of four ale. A glass of bitter: City:—1909; ob. Also City sherry. Ware.

Liquid fire. Bad whisky: (low) coll.: C.19—early 20.

Liquid sunshine. Rain: railwaymen's joc. ironic: mid-C. 20. (McKenna, Glossary, 1970.) Parodying advertisements for alcohol. (P.B.)

liquor, n. A drink: from ca. 1860; mostly US. Also liquor-up. Hence what's your liquor?, what will you drink?: coll.:—1887 (Baumann); ob. by 1930. Cf. what will you liq?, an Edwardian var. In liquor, drunk, is S.E.—2. The water used in adulterating beer: publicans':—1909 (Ware). Obviously, a euph.

Liquor, v.t. To supply, or to ply, with liquor: mid-C.16–20: S.E. till C.18, then coll. till ca. 1850, then s. Also, late C.19–20, liquor up. Surtees.—2. V.i., to drink alcoholic liquor: orig. (1836), US; anglicised ca. 1840. (Marryat.) Also, from 1845, liquor up.—3. To thrash, esp. in liquor someone's hide: ca. 1680–1800. (D'Urfey.) Punning lick.

Liquor (one's) boots. To cuckold: C.18. T. Brown.—2. To drink before a journey (cf. S.E. stirrup-cup); among Roman Catholics, to administer extreme unction: ca. 1780–1890. Grose.

Liquor up. See liquor, v., 1 and 2; and the n., 1. liquored, drunk, 1667, now gen. liquored up (not before C.19); liquorex, a hard drinker (—1885; ob.); liquoring, vbl n., hard drinking, C.19–20, now gen. liquoring-up. All ex the v., 1 and 2.

liquorice legs. 'Naval officers' black gaiters for ceremonial parades, and also the Gunnery officers who wear them: RN: 1970s' (Peppitt)—and rather earlier, I think.—2. As a taunt, a schoolboys' cry directed at a schoolgirl wearing black stockings: Aus.: 1950s. (B.P.) Obviously ex the colour in both senses.

liquorice stick. A clarinet: dance bands' (whether jazz or not): since ca. 1945. 'Obviously because (a) it is of black wood; and (b) it is sucked vertically to the lips' (Richard Merry).

Liquorpond Street, to have come from. To be drunk: ca. 1825–1910. Buckstone, in 23, John Street, Adelphi, 'I don't know where you are, sir; but you seem to have just come from Liquorpond Street.' liquors. Water: Bootham School:—1925 (Bootham).

Lisa. See Liza.

listers. The teeth: c. of ca. 1785–1860. (G. Parker.) Cf. listeners.—2. The lips: C.18–mid-19. B. & L.

list. Short for list of geldings in training: the turf: 1890. Hence, put on the list, to castrate. (SOD.) See also added to the list.—2. But on the list, by itself, = in disfavour: coll.: from 1885. Introduced in The Mikado (the song, 'I've got a little list ...'), 1885. Abbr. S.E. on the black list; cf. shit-list.

listen, n. An act or period of listening: coll.: since ca. 1890. Usu. have a good listen (coll.) or do a listen (s.), but also as in 'Out you'll go ... and give a good listen' (Christopher Bush, The Case of the Green Felt Hat, 1939).

listen to (one)self. To think: Anglo-Irish coll.: C.19–20. Ware.

listener. An ear: low and boxers': from ca. 1805. Boxiana, II, 1818. (Gen. in pl.)

lister. An enthusiastic bird-watcher. See BIRD-WATCHERS' SLANG, in Appendix.

listman. A ready-money bookmaker: from ca. 1885; ob.: the turf. Ex the list of prices exhibited by his side.

lit, n. See smack the lit, divide the booty.

lit (slightly), gen. well lit (quite), tippy: from ca. 1920. Cf. light-house, q.v. Also lit up, slightly drunk (Lyell).

literally. When used merely, and inaccurately, as an intensive, is C.20 slovenly coll.

literature. Any printed matter whatsoever, as in 'the literature of patent-medicines': coll.: 1895 (SOD).

lithia. Short for lithia water: coll.: 1893 (SOD).

little alderman. A sectional 'jemmy': c.:—1889. Cf. alderman, 4.

Little Arthur. The ARP (Air Raid Precautions) wardens' pet name (1939–45), then (1941–5) used by the RAF, for arsenic gas. (H. & P.) By personification and by phonetic approximation.

little Audrey. The bull's-eye in the game of darts: C.20. The term bears sexual implications. (Jack Slater, 1978.)

Little Barbary. Wapping: s. > coll.: late C.17–early 19. B.E., Grose.

little beg. Little beggar, as a 'friendly term applied by upper form to lower form boys': Public Schools': late C.19–20. Ware.

little ben. A waistcoat: c.: C.19–early 20. Ex benjamin, q.v.

Little Benjamin Our Ruler. 'The cane kept by the Sub-Lieutenant in charge of the Gunroom' (Granville): RN: C.20. The Gunroom is the Midshipmen's Mess.

little bird told me, a. A semi-proverbial c.p. (C.19–20) in reply to the (not necessarily expressed) question, 'Who told you?': by 1890, S.E.—though far from literary.

little bit of ... See the entries at bit of ...; little bullshit; little of what ...

little bit off the top, a. Some of the best: coll.: C.19–early 20.—2. See top, n. 7.

little black book. The notebook in which bachelors are reputed to keep girls' telephone numbers: mostly Aus.: since ca. 1930. (B.P.)—2. In Brit., applied to the (prob. non-existent) list of anyone suspected of 'keeping tabs on' people for any reason, as in, e.g., 'You want to watch him. He'll have you down in his little black book': coll.: C.20. Influenced by black list. (P.B.)

Little Bo-Peep. An occ. var. of bo-peep, 1, q.v. Franklyn 2nd.

little boy in the boat. A mostly Can. var. of little man in the boat, 2, clitoris.

little boys' (or little girls') room, the. The men's—the women's—lavatory: euph.: adopted, ca. 1944, ex US servicemen. The former occurs in, e.g. Angus Wilson, A Bit off the Map, 1957.

little breeches. A familiar term of address to a boy: ca. 1770–1850. Grose, 1st ed.

little brother. Membrum virile: low: mid-C.19–20. On analogy of little sister.

Little Brown Men. A var. of Little (Yellow) Men: B., 1943.

little bullshit goes a long way, a. It pays to flatter or to boast: Aus. c.p.: since ca. 1919. (B.P.) The Brit. version usu. has a little bit of bullshit ... (P.B.) little Charley, -je. See Charley, 6 and 7.

little Chats (or little chats). Arbitration ordinary stock in the London, Chatham & Dover Railway: Stock Exchange:—1895; † by 1920. (A.J. Wilson, Stock Exchange Glossary.) Cf. Chats, 1 and 2, q.v.

little cheque, a. A c.p. à propos of the repayment of a loan: ca. 1893–95. Ex Two Roses, a popular comedy, in which this phrase is often spoken by Digby Grant played by a famous actor. A.E.W. Mason, The Dean's Elbow, 1930.

little clergyman. A young chimney-sweep: ca. 1787–1860. (Grose, 2nd ed.) See clergyman; contrast chimney-sweep.

little dabbler. The decimal halfpenny ... derived from Cockney children's "daddler" for the old farthing before the first world war' (Muvver): since early 1970s.

little Davy. The penis: low: C.19–early 20.

little deers. Young women, esp. if associated—or declaring themselves associated—with the stage: Anglo-American Society:—1909; † by 1920. (Ware.) Punning dear to form the feminine of stag in its Society sense.

little devil. See devil, n., 15.

little devils. Three '2' cards: Aus. poker-players': since ca. 1920. (B., 1953.) A ref. to children of two years—with which cf. little horrors.

little drive with Bales, a. Imprisonment, or the going there: London streets': ca. 1880–1900. Ex that policeman who at one time superintended 'the Black Maria'. B. & L.

little end of the horn, the. A difficulty; distress: hence, come out at the little end of the horn = to come to grief, be worsted. Coll.: C.17–20; after 1800, mostly dial. and US. (See esp. Apperson and Thornton.)

Little England. Barbados: West Indies': C.19–20, ob. Cf. Bim.

Little England beyond Wales. Pembrokeshire: late C.16–20; coll. till C.19, then S.E. See esp. E. Laws's History of Little England beyond Wales, 1888. (Apperson.) But Little London, Penrith, is prob. dial., as is Little London beyond Wales, Beaumaris.

little fields have big gates. A c.p.—? rather an unrecorded rural proverb—referring to the fact that many little women bear large families: (?).C.19–20. The true reason is that they possess an invincible vitality.

Little Fighting Fours, the. The 44th Foot Regiment, since ca. 1881 the Essex Regiment, rather the 1st Battalion of the Essex army: C.19–early 20. Ex low stature and high courage. (F. & G.; R.J.T. Hills.) Cf. S.E. Bantams, and see also the Pompadors.

little finger. The male member: female euph.: C.20.—2. In cock (one's) little finger, to drink often—and much: coll.: C.19—earlier 20.—3. In let(ting) one's little finger laugh, board-school girls' term, from ca. 1890, thus in W. Pett Ridge, Mord Em'ly, 1898: 'One of the most painful jibes that a girl could offer to another in school was to point her finger, and inflect it slightly—an act called "letting one's little finger laugh".'

little friend, (one's). The menses: Can. (a feminine euph.): since ca. 1920. But also Aus.; deriving mainly ex the fact that the menses are often welcome as a sign of non-pregnancy. little gentleman in (the) (black) velvet (coat)! (to the). A mole. This was a Jacobite phrase after the death of William III, whose horse was said to have stumbled over a molehill. C.18–19. (Scott.) F. & H. erroneously give brown and the phrase, or toast, as Tory.

little go. The first examination to be passed for one's B.A. degree: university coll.: 1820: Oxford († by 1864) and Cambridge. (Thackeray.) Cf. smalls.—2. Hence, one's first imprisonment: c.—1909. Ware, 'First invented by a fallen university man.'

little-go-vale. 'Orderly step to the first examination' (F. & H.): Oxford University: ca. 1820–40. Egan's Grose.

little green men. Mysterious beings alleged to have been seen emerging from flying saucers; often associated with bug-eyed monsters, q.v. at B.E.M.s.: since mid-1950s; prob. adopted ex US, where the illustration of pulp 'sci-fi' has always been greater than in UK. (Leechman; P.B.)

Little Grenadiers, the. The Royal Marines: military: 1761; ob. (F. & G.) Ex their grenadier caps and their stature less than that of the average grenadier in C.18.

little grey home in the west. A vest: rhyming s. in WW1, and after. B. & P., 'From the popular song of that name.' The term was † by 1960 (Franklyn 2nd).

Little Hell. That part of Cow Cross, London, known thus to the inhabitants and as Jack Ketch's Kitchen to others; infested, at one time, with criminals: c.: ca. 1820–1900. B. & L.

little Hitler. Opprobrious sobriquet for any minor jack-in-office, throwing his weight about and abusing his tiny power, one rung up from the bottom; may also apply to a female: since WW2. (P.B.)

little horrors; little monsters. Young children: mothers': perhaps orig. among those women who cook and serve primary-school dinners: since the late 1940s. Leechman notes that the 2nd term is also Can., esp. (in sing.) if the child is objectionable: since ca. 1950.

little house. A privy: from ca. 1720: S.E. till ca. 1850, then dial. In Aus. and NZ, it has remained coll. Ex petty house, q.v. Leonard Mann, Mountain Flat, 1939, 'Another yard in which were the pigsty, the henhouse, the tool-shed and what they called jocosely "the little house".'

little joker. The hidden pea in the thimble-rigging game: c.: from ca. 1870. ?ex the card-game sense of joker.

Little Lons. Little Lonsdale Street, Melbourne: Aus.:—1916 (C.J. Dennis).

little man. A footman: Eton College: ca. 1850–1915.—2. Upper and middle-class females' (sometimes quite unconsciously) patronising term for a tradesman, artisan, etc., as 'I have a little man deliver from the village twice a week': C.20. (P.B.) Cf. little woman round the corner.

little man in a (or the) boat. The navel: trivial: late C.19–20.—2. The clitoris: id. Occ. little old man ... or little boy ... Hence, to sink the little man in the boat, (of the male) to copulate: C.20 (L.A., 1977).

little Mary. The stomach: coll.: 1903. Ex Barrie's Little Mary. (OED Sup.) Ob. by 1950.

Little men, the. (Often the little brown, or yellow, men.) The Japanese: coll., mostly in the army: 1942–6.

little men with (their bloody) hammers, the or those. Rueful ref. to a (usu. drink-caused) headache: coll.: later C.20. L.A. cites Richard Allen, Boot Boys, 1972.

little monster. See little horrors.

little more Charley behind. 'More lumbar width—speaking of feminine dress or costume': theatrical:—1909; ob. Ware.

Little Moscow. Chopwell, County Durham: during the General Strike, 1926. It was the strikers' HQ.—2. Mardy, a town in S. Wales: Daily Worker, 16 Nov. 1949.

Little Muddy. 'The River Yarra, Victoria (from colour of water. Big Muddy is the Missouri)' (Wilkes): Aus.: C.20.

little number, (one's). What one wants: since ca. 1940. Angus Wilson, Hemlock and After, 1952.—2. (Without the possessive.) Any object, gadget, as in 'I bought this little number [a metal detector] for Nigel at Christmas ...' (Private Eye, 16 Mar. 1979); or a dress, 'a slinky little number': would-be smart coll.: later C.20. Perhaps ex its use to describe a song, as radio music-hall comedians of the 1940s would finish their acts with 'a little number here, written specially for you ...' (P.B.) As dress, recorded in US in 1928, and therefore of Am. orig. (Claiborne).—3. A girl, young woman, mostly as regarded sexually, as in 'a hot little number': since ca. 1945. Cf. number, 2, q.v.

little of what you fancy does you good, a. Marie Lloyd (1870–1922)—one of the most famous music-hall and musical-comedy stars of the late Victorian and all Edwardian music-halls—sang, with gusto and earthy good sense, this refrain of an immensely popular song; a refrain that became, ca. 1900, a c.p. and is not yet (1976) extinct. Often as a little bit of what ...

little-pigger. A supporter of a modified Colonial Preference: political coll.: ca. 1905–10. (Collinson.) Opp. whole-hogger in its political sense.

little rabbits have big ears. A warning to speak more quietly or less frankly in front of children: Aus., partly c.p. and partly modification of the proverb little pitchers ... C.20. (B.P.)

little red book. See crook, adj., 2.

Little Rome. Liverpool (England): coll.: C.20. Ex the large number of Catholics there. (Petch, 1966.)

little shillings. 'Love money' (Sinks): ca. 1830–70.

little side (also written littleside). A game between teams from one house: Rugby School: mid-C.19–20. Complementary to big side.

little sister. The female pudend: low: C.19—early 20.

little smack. A half-sovereign: c.:—1926 (Frank Jennings, In London's Shadows.)

little snakesman. A young thief that, entering by a window, opens the door to the gang: c. of ca. 1780–1890. G. Parker. little something, a. A dash of spirits: coll.: C.20. 'Would you like a little something in it?'—2. A snack, a bite, between meals: domestic coll., C.20. Popularised, or given fresh impetus, by A.A. Milne's Winnie-the-Pooh, 1926, who was always on the look-out for 'a little something'. (P.B.) little song and dance. See song and dance, 1.

little spot. See spot, n., 1.

little steps. Children: coll.:—1923 (Manchon). Either ex their gait or ex the staircase effect of a normal family.

little terror or Toby or Turk. An extremely mischievous child: domestic coll.: later C.19–20. Cf. little horrors. (P.B.)

little tin god. As in 'He thinks he's a ...': coll.: late C.19–20. 'Was this perhaps coined by Kipling in "Public Waster" ("Little Tin Gods on the Mountain Side"), ca. 1888?' (Claiborne, 1976).

little two shoes. A little girl. Cf. little breeches and see two shoes.

little visitor, have a. To be undergoing one's period: feminine, esp. in suburbia, and notably in the 1920s–1930s.

Little Willie, -y. A (small) boy's penis: Primary schoolchildren's (esp. girls) and teachers': heard in 1920s, but not very common before ca. 1945. A euph. at once playful and sensible. Willie by itself is recorded in EDD as North-Western s. for the same thing, 1905; and L.A. notes that the term may be elab., as in Archie Hill, A Cage of Shadows, 1973, to Little Willie Winkle, a conflation of Wee Willie Winkle of the nursery rhyme and winkle, another children's term for the penis.—2. Oneself, or another person: 1890–1940. Mark Bennett, Under the Periscope, 1919.

Little Witham, be born at; go to school at; belong to, etc. To be stupid: coll. (more or less proverbial): late C.16—mid-19; extant only in dial. Punning wit; Nashe, e.g., has small Witam ... little Brainford. (Apperson.)

little woman, the. 'This revoltingly coy way of referring to one's wife ... Cf. the Chinese husband's "my inside person"' (P.B., 1975): coll.: prob. since mid-C.19. Ex male condescend-sion, sometimes at least half-affectionate. Cf. little man, 2. little woman round the corner, (often my). One's dressmaker or sewing-woman: middle-class feminine patronising coll.: C.20. Cf. little man, 2. (P.B.)

little wooden hill, the. The stairs: nursery coll.: mid-C.19–20. Esp. in 'Now we'll go up the little wooden hill to Bedfordshire'; cf. Bedfordshire.

Littlehampton. Littlehammer, Norway: army: 1940–1. By Hobson-Jobson.

littleish. Rather small: coll.: since ca. 1825. Sessions, 1832.

littler, littlest. Smaller, -est; younger, -est: C.19–20: unintentional, they are sol. or dial.; deliberate, they (though rarely littler) are joc. coll., as in the littlest ones (the youngest children). Observer, 1932, Christmas number.

littlies. 'Heard recently among younger mothers as a general term for the smaller children. "Sorry, no, I can't then. Katy's just started at the littlies' ballet class and I've got to take her"' (P.B., 1976): coll.: also Aus.: since ca. 1965. These diminutive nn. have become very common since the late 1940s: notably the baddies and the goodies of films, the meanies, etc. They help to reduce people and things to a comfortable and friendly size. Cf.:-

littly, before a surname at Christ's Hospital School in C.20, as in Littly Smith, corresponds to minor elsewhere.

live, energetic, forceful, is S.E. (though mostly in US). —2. Joc. s. verging on coll., esp. as a real live —; e.g. 'A real live glass milk jug', 1887 (SOD), 'A real live philosopher', 1890 (Ibid.).

live and let live! A c.p. addressed to a person head- or body-scratching, with implication of nits, fleas, lice: since ca. 1918.

live at the sign of the cat's foot. To be henpecked: C.19. live at the sign of the cock's tooth and head-ache, I. A late C.18–early 19 c.p. answer to an impertinent enquiry where one lives. Grose, 3rd ed.

live bach(e). To live as a bachelor: Society coll.:—1909 (Ware).

live eels. Fields: rhyming s.:—1857 ('Ducange Anglicus').

live even in a gravel pit, he would. A semi-proverbial, mainly rural, c.p. applied, ca. 1660–1750, to a cautious, niggardly person. Ray, Fuller (Apperson).

live horse. Work additional to that included in the (gen., week's) bill: workmen's: C.19–early 20. Opp. to, and suggested by, dead horse, q.v.

live horse! and thou shalt have grass. Well, let's wait and see! Later on, we'll see! In C.18–early 19, coll., as in Swift's Polite Conversation; then dial., mainly Lancashire. Apperson.

live in a glass-house. To lay oneself open to criticism: coll.: from ca. 1845; now virtually S.E. Prob. suggested by the C.17–20 proverb, those who live in glass houses shouldn't throw stones.

live in (one's) boxes. Lacking a fixed abode, to move from place to place: coll.: C.20. (Ian Hay, Carrying On, 1917.) Cf.

live in (one's) trunks, q.v.

live in (one's) chest(s). (Of midshipmen) to sleep in a hammock in the gun-room; where one's chest is kept: RN coll.: late C.19–20. P-G-R.

live in (someone's) pocket. To be constantly accessible and instantly available to him: since 1930s: coll. >, by 1960, informal S.E. (P.B. cites a coll. usage, 1956; COD, 1976, adjudges it S.E.)

live in (one's) trunks. To be at a place for so short a time that it is not worth while to unpack; to live in a confined space, esp. a ship's cabin: coll.:—1931 (Lyell). Cf. in later C.20 more gen. live out of (one's) suitcase.

live it up. To lead a gay extravagant life: coll.: since ca. 1960. P.B.: E.P. is here using 'gay' in its orig. sense, happy.

live lumber. Soldiers or passengers on board ship: nautical: ca. 1780–1910. Grose, 1st ed.: Baumann.

live message. (Gen. pl.) A message in course of transmission: telegraphers' coll. (1870) >, by 1910 j., Ware.

live off the land. To live the life of a tramp: Aus. coll.: late C.19–20. (B., 1942.) The tramp is non-productive.

live-on. A fine girl or woman: low: late C.19–20; ob. Ware. Cf. leave-ye-r-homer.

live on the smell of an oil-rag. 'To subsist on very little' (B.P.): Australian coll.: since ca. 1920. In, e.g., Cusack & James, Come in, Spinner, 1951. Adopted ex Anglo-Irish usage of late C.19–20. 'A penurious miserable creature who starves himself to hoard up:—He could live on the smell of an oil-rag': P.W. Joyce, English... in Ireland, 1910.

live one. A shell that will explode: military coll. verging on j.: G.W. B. & P.

live out of (one's) suitcase. See live in (one's) trunks.

live over the brush. (Of man and woman) to cohabit, unmarried: NW Eng. coll.: C.20, prob. earlier. (Mrs P.M.C. Pearsall, 1980.) Cf. live tally, and jump or leap over the brush or broomstick.

live over the shop, when lit. is S.E., but merely living near one's work, as say a university lecturer living on campus, it is coll.: since the late 1940s. P.B. cites Peter Dickinson, The Lively Dead, 1975.

live rabbit. The penis: low: C.19–early 20. Whence skin the live rabbit or have a bit of rabbit-pie, to coit. Cf. dial. rabbit, 'to coit'—as in John Masefield, Reynard the Fox, 1919, 'I'll larn 'ee rabbit in my shed!'

live sausage. Penis: on the borderline between coll. and familiar S.E.: later C.19–earlier 20.

live square. To be an honest citizen: Aus. c. and low s.: since ca. 1950. See AUSTRALIAN UNDERWORLD, in Appendix.

live stock. Fleas; lice; in short, body vermin: from ca. 1780. Grose, 1st ed.—2. House bugs: domestic: C.20. Orig., and still mainly, euph.

live tally. See tally, n., 3.

live up to (one's) blue china. To live up to or beyond one's means: ca. 1860–1915. Ex blue china as a sign of gentility. Cf.:-

live up to the door (or the knocker). To live up to one's means: proletarian: mid-C.19–early 20. B. & L.

live with. In can, or able to, live with, to be able to play (a person) on level terms: sporting: from ca. 1928.—2. In live with it, to accept, endure, task or difficulty, esp. of small things and with preceding can or will, as in 'Oh, we'll manage to...': since late 1940s. William Haggard, The Antagonists, 1964 (P.B.).

live wire. An indefatigable but not necessarily reliable news-gatherer: journalistic coll.: C.20. Ex the familiar S.E. sense.

liveliness, a certain. A bombardment; officiousness: military: 1915–18. (B. & P.) Ex a meiosis sponsored by Mr Winston Churchill.

lively. A lively person: coll.: 1889, Clark Russell, in Marooned. OED.

lively-hearty. A sailor: nautical coll.:—1923 (Manchon).

lively kid. 'A funny fellow, a brave man' (Sinks, 1848): coll.: not entirely t even by 1948.

liven. To make, or to become, lively: coll.: 1884 (SOD). In C.20, gen. liven up.

livenex. A 'pick-me-up', q.v.; a morning dram: s. (—1887) >, by 1910, coll. Baumann.

liver. In have a liver, to be irritable, bad-tempered: coll.: from ca. 1890.—2. See make (one's) hair or liver curl.

liver and grapes. 'Fried liver and bacon for the wardrobe breakfast': RN: C.20. (Bowen.) Why grapes?—unless it = grapeshot.

liver-faced. Pale- or white-faced; cowardly: low:—1857 ('Ducange Anglicus').

liver-jerker. A tricycle: ca. 1890–1914. G. & W. Grossmith, The Diary of a Nobody, 1894.

liver-pad. A chest-protector, usu. of flannel: ca. 1850–1905.

liver-shaker. A riding hack: late C.19–20. 'Sapper', The Lieutenant, 1915.

livering, vbl n. In wrestling, an overcoming or beating: provincial sporting: late C.18–mid-19. 'A contraction of delivering': Blackwood's, Dec. 1823. (Moe.)

liverish. 'Livery' (q.v.); having the symptoms attributed to a liver out of order: coll.: 1896. Daily News, 9 July, an advertisement (OED).

Liverpool Blues. The 79th Foot, British Army: military: ca. 1778–84.

Liverpool button. 'A kind of toggle used by sailors when they lose a button' (F. & H.): nautical s. > j.: from ca. 1850; ob. by 1930.

Liverpool house. The midship deckhouse: sailing-ship coll.: C.19. Bowen.

Liverpool sailor's (or sailors') walk. 'Splay-footed walk, with fallen arches: MN: 1960s' (Peppitt)—?much earlier.

Liverpool tailor. A tramping tailor (status of workman): tailors': ca. 1870–1910.

Liverpool weather. 'In the Merchant Service, a special brand of dirty weather': coll.: late C.19–20. Bowen.

livery. 'Liverish': coll.: from ca. 1895. Cf. liverish, q.v.—2. Hence, in C.20, irritable, bad-tempered, morose, gloomily silent. Cf. liver, 1.—3. In be one of the livery, to be a cuckold: ca. 1680–90. Betterton (OED).

Lives of the Saints. Crockford's Clerical Directory established ca. 1871: Clerical: from ca. 1880.

livestock. See live stock.

Liveyer(e), Livyere. A permanent inhabitant of the Labrador coast: Can. coll.:—1901. Ex live here. OED Sup.

livid. Furiously angry; very much annoyed: since ca. 1920. Short for livid with rage.

living bloody wonder, a. A c.p. of ironic appreciation: Aus.: since ca. 1930. (B.P.)

living daylight. See frighten the living... Also in belt, smash, thump (and other vv. of violence) the living daylight out of, thoroughly to physically damage someone: coll.: C.20. (P.B.)

living(g) doll. A very attractive girl: adopted, ca. 1945, ex US. Cf. doll, n., 4.

living end, the. The very end, 'the last straw': Aus. ('not common': B.P.): since ca. 1950. Either living is ironic or it's an intensive—cf. its use in the prec., where, however, it may = vital; hence, lively and attractive.—2. 'Perfection, the ultimate, the ideal.' 'But, Daddy, you should meet Harry! He's the living end!'" (Leechman): Can.: since ca. 1955.

living in seduced circumstances. A joc. c.p., applied to a pregnant unmarried woman: since ca. 1920.

living tally. See tally, n., 3.

living with mother now. A females' c.p. addressed to proposals of marriage or mistress-ship: 1881–ca. 1914. Ware notes that orig. it was 'the refrain of a doubtful song'.

livvener. A drink; alcoholic liquor: market-traders': C.20. (M.T.)? A deliberate mispronunciation of livener.

Liz. Abbr. Lizzie, 1, and 5. The 2nd in E.P.'s article in New Statesman, 19 Sep. 1942.

Liza. In outside, Liza!: be off! low c.p.: ca. 1880–1905.—2. See he's saving them all...

lizard. 'A shepherd; a man maintaining boundary fences (and so crawling along and stretching out in the sun)' (Wilkes): Aus. and NZ rural: since ca. 1880. Also topwire lizard (Baker).—2. See flat out a like...

lizards. See starve the lizards!

Lizzie. A (cheap) motor-car, orig. and mainly a 'Ford': 1921. By personification. Also tin Lizzie. Occ., from ca. 1924, Liz.—2. A big gun, or its shell: RN: 1915; ob. F. & G., 'Suggested by the firing of the big fifteen-inch guns of H.M.S. Queen Elizabeth'—3. (Also l—) Cheap Lisbon red wine: c. and low: from ca. 1920. Gilt Kid, 1936.—4. HMS Queen Elizabeth: RN: C.20. ('Taffrail'.) Also Big Lizzie.—5. A Lysander reconnaissance and liaison aircraft: RAF: WW2. (P-G-R.) Partly ex Lys(ander), partly an allusion to sense 1.—6. A Lesbian: since ca. 1928. (Angus Wilson, The Wrong Set, 1949.) Ex Lesbian; cf. Les.—7. A London, Midland & Scottish Pacific class locomotive: railwaymen's: mid-C.20. Railway, 2nd.

ll. A contraction of will or shall: from ca. 1575: in C.16–mid-18, S.E. after I, she, thou, we, ye, you; later, coll., as always after any other word. Occ., before C.19, written 'le, as in 'I'le, lle. OED.

Lloyd. See Harold Lloyd and loid.

lol Short for hollo(a), hullo: late C.19–20: coll., mostly Colonial.

load, a; loads. A great quantity or number: coll.: both being of C.17–20. Shakespeare: Clough, 'Loads of talk with Emerson all morning' (OED).—2. A venereal infection: Aus.: late C.19–20: low. Hence get a load.—3. An idler or 'loafer'; a lazy person: coll.: earlier C.20. He is a load on those who have to 'carry' him.—4. Fabricated evidence: Aus. c.: since ca. 1930.—5. 'Stock of illegal drugs' (Home Office): drug-users': later C.20.—6. In have taken a, or get (one's) load, to have as much drink as one can carry: in late C.16–17, S.E.; thereafter dial. and US s. But see also get a load on.—7. In get a load of, to see, to perceive; to understand. See the two entries at get a load of.

load, v.i. To buy heavily; unload, v.i. and t., sell heavily: Stock Exchange: 1885: coll. till C.20, then S.E.—2. V.t., to conceal a horse's broken wind by putting well-greased shot into its throat: c.: from ca. 1860. 'No. 747'.—3. To fabricate evidence. See AUSTRALIAN UNDERWORLD, in Appendix.

load bummer. A 1941–5 var. of line-shooter, a boaster. (Partridge, 1945.) See bum (one's) load, 2.

load of cods. A shortening of a load of codswallop. See cod's wallop; cf. next 2 entries, and load of old cobblers.

load of crap. A lot of, or all, nonsense: a US synonym of load of old cobblers, etc.: fully adopted by late 1960s, but first used in Brit., by Britons, in 1943.

load of guff. 'A lot of humbug or nonsense' (Jackson): RAF (mostly officers'): since ca. 1937.

load of hay. A day: rhyming s.:—1859 (H., 1st ed.).

load of loose. The debris thrown up by, or the burst of, a big shell: military: WW1. (B. & P.) I.e. a load of loose stuff.

load of old cobblers, a, esp. in 'That's a load...—that's rubbish or nonsense: since ca. 1960. Often used by people ignorant of its origin in cobbler's awls. A comparison with cod's wallop is unavoidable. Cf. also:—

load of old wank. A lot of nonsense; synon. with prec., which prompted it: late 1960s—early 70s: army, perhaps esp. in N. Ireland. (P.B.) Cf. wank! wank!, q.v. at wank, n., 2.

load of rabbits. See trap, v.

load of rough. A bus-load of pass-holders: London busmen's: since ca. 1930.

load of wind. A light load. See HAULIERS' SLANG, in Appendix.

load (or weight) off (one's) behind. A defecation: low: since ca. 1925. Parodying:—

load (but usu. weight) off (one's) mind. A haircut: mostly in working-class barber-shops: since ca. 1920. Especially if the 'crop' is heavy.—2. Also (cf. prec.) a defecation, by pun rather than parody (cf. shit-head): low: later C.20. (P.B.)

loaded. Well off; having plenty of money: coll.: since ca. 1945.—2. Tippy: adopted, ca. 1958, ex US, and used esp. by beatniks.—3. Hence, 'full of drugs' (Home Office): drug-users': later C.20.

loaded-up, be. Have in hand large quantities of a thing—e.g. stocks—as security. Stock Exchange: from ca. 1886: coll. till C.20, then S.E.

loaded with it. Elab. of loaded, 1: since ca. 1950.—2. Over-sexed: beatniks': since ca. 1959. (Anderson.)

loads of. See load, a.

loaf, n. A dawdle; a lounge: s. >, in C.20, coll.: orig. (ca. 1855), US; anglicised ca. 1870. Ex the v., which, however, probably comes ex loafer, q.v.—2. In be in a bad loaf, to be in trouble, in a difficulty: ca. 1780–1850. Grose.—3. In later C.20 the usu. form of loaf of bread, 2, head.

loaf, v. To lounge, idle, take things very easily: coll.; in C.20, S.E. Orig. (ca. 1838), US; anglicised ca. 1850, though Dickens uses it in 1844. H. Kingsley, 'This one loafed rather energetically.' Cf.

loaf away. Pass (time) in idling: from ca. 1850 (orig. US.): coll. till C.20, then S.E. Cf. prec.

loaf o(f) bread. Dead: rhyming s.: late C.19—early 20. (B. & P.) Much more common is:—2. The head; predominantly in the sense of brains, thought, and, in the very common phrase 'Use your loaf', a certain amount of cunning is implied: rhyming s., used by a very wide register of speakers: since late C.19. B. & P.; Franklyn.

loafer. An idler: coll.; in C.20, S.E.: orig. (1835), US; anglicised ca. 1850, though Dickens uses it earlier in his American Notes. Prob. ex Low German (Landläufer, a land-loper. See esp. OED, Thornton, W.—2. Hence, a cadger: rare coll.: C.20. Manchon.

Loaferies, the. The Whitechapel Workhouse: East London: 1898—ca. 1905. Ware, 'From the tenderness shown towards the inmates' and on such names as Colinderies and Freakeries.

loafing, vbl n. Aimless lounging; deliberate idling: orig. (1838), US; anglicised ca. 1850 as a coll. >, in C.20, S.E. Cf.:

loafing, adj. Lounging; deliberately idle: orig. (ca. 1838), US; anglicised ca. 1850 as a coll. >, by 1905, S.E. T. Hughes, 'A... poaching, loafing fellow'.—2. (Of gear) left lying about: RN: C.20. (Granville.) Cf. lazy.

loafing number. 'A nice easy job in depot' (Granville): RN: C.20. Ex prec.: cf. next.

loafing stations. Shore stations where men await drafting to ships: RN: C.20.

loamick. See lomick.

Loamshire dialect. Faulty dialect as used by ignorant writers: authors' coll.: C.20. There being no such county, there is no such dialect. Cf. synon. Mummerset.

Loamshires, the, as applied by novelists to an unspecified line regt, has been so much used, and abused, that, though S.E., it verges on coll.: late C.19—20.

loap. C.18 var. of lope, q.v.

loather. A cad: Rugby: since early 1920s. Ex loathsome by the 'OXFORD -ER'.

loaver. Money: orig. c.,—1851 (Mayhew), >, ca. 1880, low and market-traders' s. (M.T.). Prob. a corruption of lowre (= lour, q.v.) by Romany luva (pronounced loover),—cf. Sampson at lovo. Lingua Franca, says H. in 1864.

lob, n. (In C.18, often lobb.) A snuff-box; any box; a till: c.: resp. 1718 († by 1800); ca. 1750—1810; from ca. 1810 (slightly ob.), as in valuable Vaux.—2. Hence, dip or frisk or pinch or sneak a lob, to rob a till; ca. 1810—1910: c. See also lob-sneak... Hence also, make a good lob, to steal much money from a till: c.: ca. 1810—60. (Vaux).—3. In go on the lob, to go into a shop to get change for gold and then secrete some of the change: c.: ca. 1750—1820. C. Johnson; Grose, 2nd ed.—4. A haul of money: Aus. c.: C.20. B., 1942.—5. The head: boxing: ca. 1850—1910. (H., 1st ed.) Cf. sense 1, and, e.g. brain-box.—6. A partial erection of the penis: low coll.: since C.18. Cf. lazy lob and lobcock, 2.—7. A yorker: Winchester College cricketers': ca. 1850—90. Wrench.—8. One's turn to 'lob out'—distribute or pay for—cigarettes and drinks at a convivial gathering: mostly Services': since ca. 1930. (L.A.)—9. As the lob it also means 'the w.c.': Londoners': C.20.—10. In crash lob or force lob as nn., crash- or forced-landings. See lob, v., 4.—11. 'Pay. The weekly pay received by prisoners. "Gash lob" = spare money. [See gash.] (Tempest): prison c.: mid-C.20.

lob, v. To droop; sprawl: late C.16—early 20: S.E. >, ca. 1800, s. Egan.—2. The cricket term, whether v. or n., is S.E.—3. To arrive: Aus.:—1916 (C.J. Dennis). Also military, esp. in lob back, to return to one's battalion. 1915—18. B. & P.—4. lob, crash lob, force lob, (of pilot or aircraft) to land, crash-land; force-land: RAF: WW2+. All three occur in Brickhill & Norton, Escape to Danger, 1946. Also as lob in, to land. Cf. lob in, 1.—5. To distribute. See n., 8, and lob out. lob-crawler. See lob-sneak.

lob in. To arrive; to call at a place: Aus.: C.20. Wilkes cites C.J. Dennis, 1915, 'lob along', and E.J. Brady, Land of the Sun, 1924, 'A man who would insist on telling things lobbed in'. Cf. lob, v., 3.—2. Hence, to intromit the penis: low: C.20. Also, derivatively, lob in. P.B.: but this is also ex S.E., 'to chuck'.—3. See lob, v., 4.

lob onto. To obtain or discover by a stroke of luck: Aus.: since ca. 1925. B., 1943.

lob out. See lob, n., 8. Hence applied to anything that must be distributed: pay, issues from stores, rations, etc.: Services': later C.20. (P.B.)

lob-sneak, -crawler; lob-sneaking. A till-robber; till-robbing: c.: ca. 1865—1935. See lob, n.

lob the snout. Usu. as a demand: 'Hand out your cigarettes!': army and RAF: since early 1950s; ob. Hence 'It's your lob!' = it's your turn to give me (or us) a cigarette; or 'Is it my lob?' Cf. crash the ash, and lob, n., 8. (L.A.; P.B.)

lobb. See lob, n., 1.

lobcock, a blockhead, is S.E.—2. A large, relaxed membrum virile: mid-C.18—19 low coll. (Grose, 1st ed.) Ex lob, v., 1.

—3. An alderman: early C.18. See OCCUPATIONAL NAMES, in Appendix.

lobe. A conforming schoolboy. See ear-(h)ole.

lobkin. A house; a lodging: c.: late C.18—early 19. (Grose, 2nd ed.) A survival and perversion of lib-ken, q.v.

loblolly is S.E., but loblolly-boy, a doctor's assistant, is naval s. (1748, Smollett) >, ca. 1860, S.E., and merchant-service s., in C.19, for a steward, also for a spiritless boy at sea (from ca. 1850; ob.), while loblolly-doctor, a ship's doctor or surgeon, is nautical s. of C.18. Both ex loblolly, gruel.—2. A cadging, lazy fellow: nautical: C.19. Bill Truck, Sep. 1823.

lobs. An under-gamekeeper: ca. 1860—1920.—2. Abbr. lobster, q.v.—3. Talk: tramps' c. of ca. 1840—1910. A perversion of Romany lavau, pl. of lav, a word.

lobs! Look out! schoolboys': ca. 1850—1910. Baumann.—2. Truce, truce!: id.: C.20. Manchon.

lobscouse, a meat-and-vegetable hash, is nautical j. and dial., but lobscouser, a sailor, is nautical s. (—1884) >, in C.20, S.E. and ob. The term, as dialect, is recorded as early as Hone's Every-day Book, 1826; in 1706, Ned Ward, The Wooden World Dissected, the 'first inventor' of lobscouse was invited to go to the devil. (Ronald Hjort.) See also Scouse and related entries.

lobster, n. One of Hazelrigg's regt of Roundhead cuirassiers: 1643—77. Ex the complete suits of armour, encasing them as a lobster's shell the lobster. Clarendon.—2. A British soldier: 1687. T. Brown, is app. the earliest indisputable record; ob. by 1901, † by 1915. (B.E., Grose, W.W. Jacobs.) Ex the red coat. (OED.) Hence, by derivation, 'a marine', as several times in W.N. Glascock, Sketch-Book, I and II, 1825—6 (Moe). A soldier was also known as a boiled lobster (both lobster and the elab. being ex his red coat—but cf. sense 1): this ca. 1875—1905, in contradistinction to, and suggested by, raw or unboiled lobster, a policeman: 1829—ca. 1910: s. >, ca. 1870, coll. (ex the blue uniform equated with the colour of a raw lobster). Cf. boil (one's) lobster, (of a clergyman) to turn soldier: army: ca. 1785—1840. (Grose, 2nd ed.) Again, ex the change from bluish-black to red. Grose also notes 'a reply frequently made by the nymphs of the Point at Portsmouth, when requested by a soldier to grant him a favour': I will not make a lobster-kettle of my cunt: later C.18.—3. As a bowler of lobbs in cricket, joc. S.E., the normal word being lob-bowler.—4. 'Often carelessly used in Australia for the crayfish': mid-C.19—20. (Morris.) Cf. locust, 2. lobster, v. To cry; cry out: Winchester College: ca. 1850—1910. Prob. ex the Hampshire dial. luster, to make an unpleasant noise.

lobster-back. Var. of lobster, n., 2: Bill Truck, Jan. 1822.

lobster-box. A military transport: nautical: 1833, M. Scott, 'Lobster-box as Jack loves to designate a transport'; † by 1915, as is the sense, a barrack: mainly military:—1860 (H., 2nd ed.). Ex lobster, n., 2.

lobster-cart, upset (one's). To knock a person down: coll.: orig. (1824) and mainly US; † in England. Cf. apple-cart, q.v.

lobster-pot. The female pudend.: low: C.19—early 20.—2. An Indian troopship of the Serapis class: RN: late C.19—early 20. (Bowen.) Cf. sardine-tin.

lobster-smack. A military transport (cf. lobster-box, q.v.):

1829, Marryat (OED): joc. coll. >, ca. 1880, S.E. Ex lobster, n., 2.

lobster soldier. A Marine: RN: late C.19–early 20. See lobster, n., 2.

lobtail. To sport or play: nautical: ca. 1850–1910. Ex a whale smacking the water with his flukes.

loc man. (Gen. pl.) A pilot: nautical: ca. 1850–1910. (Bowen.) Perhaps abbr. local man.

local, n. A public house is one's own district: coll.: C.20. London Evening News, 11 Sep. 1934.—2. A local newspaper: coll.: since ca. 1910.

local, adj. Extremely eccentric; mad: S. Africa: 1944+. (Prof. W.S. Mackie in Cape Argus, 4 July 1946.) Corruption of American loco.

local yokel. Slightly contemptuous term for an indigenous inhabitant of the area where one is stationed: army and RAF: since ca. 1950. As in 'stationed in some God-forsaken spot the other end of nowhere. Organised a darts match against the local yokels. They thrashed us, of course—but it was a great evening.' (P.B.) In later C.20, > also civilian, usu. joc.

Lochinvar, (do) the. To catch, the catching of, Aboriginal women (lubras) to work cattle and perform other rough services: NT, Aus.: C.20. Ernestine Hill, The Territory, 1951.

lock. A place for storing stolen goods: c.: late C.17–early 19. B.E.—2. Hence, a receiver of such goods: c. of ca. 1690–1870. (B.E.) This sense is also expressed by lock-all-fast, q.v.—3. A line of business or behaviour: ca. 1780–1830; low; perhaps orig. c. G. Parker.—4. A chance, gen. in stand a queer lock, have a poor one: c. of ca. 1720–1860. (A New Canting Dict., 1725.) Hence, prob., the next sense.—5. As in Grose (1st ed.), to stand a queer lock, bear an indifferent character; †.—6. The female pudend: mid-C.18–20; low. Also lock of all locks (G.A. Stevens, 1772). The male counterpart is key, q.v.—7. In on the lock, attending to prisoners: prison warders': mid-C.19–20. B. & L.

lock-all-fast. A late C.17–18 var. of lock, 2. B.E.

lock 'em ten ends. A ship's corporal: RN: late C.18–early 19. (Matthew Barker, in L.L.G., 6 Sep. 1823: Moe.) Prob. a pun on locum tenens (P.B.). lock on with. To fight: Aus. juvenile: C.20. Wilkes cites Gerard Hamilton, Summer Glare, 1959. Hence locked on, fighting.

lock, stock and barrel; bob, line and sinker. Whole; wholly; the whole lot or completely, entirely: RN coll. c.p.: from ca. 1880. An elab. of the S.E. idiom, lock, stock and barrel.

lock up, v. 'To have an engine or transmission seize up' (Dunford): motorcyclists': later C.20.

lock-up chovey. A covered cart: c. >, ca. 1860, low: ca. 1810–1910. Vaux.

lock-ups. Detention in study: Harrow School: from ca. 1830; ob.

lock wheeling, n. and adj. 'Cycling between locks on a canal, to open and close locks'; and thus to ensure 'a faster passage than if the "wheeler" travelled with the boat': coll.: C.20. C. Cove-Smith, Pilotage on Inland Waterways, 1970 (Peppitt).

lockees. Lockhouse: Westminster School: C.19–20.

locker. A thieves' middleman: C.18 c. (C. Hitchin, 1718.) Ex lock, 2.—2. A bar-room: nautical coll.: from ca. 1850; ob.—3. The female pudend: C.19–20 low, mainly nautical.—4. A purse: lower classes' coll.:—1923 (Manchon).—5. See Davy Jones; shot in the locker.

lockers, be laid in the. To die: nautical (1813, Scott) >, ca. 1890, S.E. Cf. lose the number of one's mess, q.v.

locket. A pocket: Aus. rhyming s.: C.20. (Baker.) One might expect Lucy (P.B.).

locksmith's daughter. A key: ca. 1780–1890. (Grose, 1st ed.) Cf. blacksmith's daughter.

loco, n. A coll. abbr. of locomotive, an engine: 1896 (SOD).

loco, adj. Insane; crazy; 'daff': adopted, ex US, in Can. ca. 1930; by the MN (Granville); and into Brit. coll. by mid-C.20. (Alan Hunter, Gently Sahib, 1964.) Ex the effects of the loco weed. The weed itself derives its name ex the Spanish loco, mad, which 'presumably reached N. America with the Jesuit missionaries in California, etc., in C.17–18' (H.R. Spencer).

loco da poco. 'Fanciful elaboration of the preceding' (Granville): MN, adopted from the US Merchant Marine.

locomotive. A hot drink of burgundy, curaçao, egg-yolks, honey, and cloves: coll.: ca. 1885–1910.

locomotive tailor. A tramping workman tailor: tailors': from ca. 1870.

locomotives. The legs: from 1841; ob. by 1900, † by 1920. W.T. Moncrieff, in The Scamps of London.

locum. Abbr. locum tenens: medical, clerical: from ca. 1900. Scotsman, 11 Mar. 1901, 'Acting... as "locum"... during the severe illness of the minister' (OED).—2. Hence, a locum-tenency: medical: C.20. R. Austin Freeman, 1926, 'I am doing a locum. Only just qualified, you know.'

locus away. See locust, v.

locus away. To remove under the influence of drink: low (orig. c.): 1831 (OED); Aus., 1893 (Baker). See locust, v.

locust, n. Laudanum: c.: mid-C.19–early 20. (Mayhew.) Also locus(s), esp. when used in the wider sense, a drug ('generally... snuff and beer': H., 1st ed.). The term occurs in combination (locus-ale) as early as 1693. Perhaps ex Sp. locos, pl of loco, lunatic. OED.—2. In Aus., 'popularly but... erroneously applied to insects belonging to two distinct orders', cicadas and grasshoppers: 1846. Morris.—3. A very extravagant person: Society—1909; ob. (Ware.) A resuscitation of the C.16–17 S.E. sense.

locus(t), v. To drug a person and then rob him: c.:—1859 (H., 1st ed., where spelt locuss).—2. Earlier (locus, 1831), to stupefy with drink. Cf. locus away and locust, n., 1.

lody. A perverted abbr. of laudandum: ca. 1810–70. (L.M. Hawkins: OED.) Cf. dial. lodlum and lodomy (EDD).

lodge. The school sanatorium: Bootham School:—1925 (Bootham).

lodge and comp. Lodging-and-provision allowance granted to officers and men living ashore: RN: C.20. (Granville.) Short for 'Lodging and Compensation' Allowance.

lodger. A person of no account: low: from ca. 1840; ob. Ex 'It's only a lodger!'—2. A convict awaiting his discharge: prison authorities':—1889.—3. Applied chiefly to head-lice but also to all vermin—even rats and mice: mostly Cockneys': from ca. 1870. In the WW1 Army, it meant 'body lice'. 'I found it in my diary, 11 April 1918' (Petch); in the Australian Army, I never heard it.

lodging-slum. The stealing of valuables from high-class lodgings hired for the purpose: c. of ca. 1810–70. (Vaux.) See slum.

lodgings. Prison: Aus.: late C.19–20. Baker.

Lofty. Nickname for any tall, thin man: mid-C.19–20.—2. Ironically for any very short man: late C.19–20. P-G-R.

log, n. The lowest boy in form or house: Public Schools': ca. 1860–1910.—2. Abbr. logarithm, coll.: C.19–20: universities'; since ca. 1920, common also in schools. Equally frequent in pl.—3. An energetic afternoon's exercise: RNC Dartmouth: C.20. (Granville.) Cf. nautical j. a day's log.—4. A person without brains or ability or energy: Aus.: since early 1930s. (B., 1959.) See also cedar, 3.—5. In go up a log, to hide: Aus.: since ca. 1910. (B., 1942.) As snake or lizard does.—6. In make up the log, to note the wages: tailors': from ca. 1850, B. & L.

log-juice. Cheap port-wine: 1853, Cuthbert Bede; ob. OED.

log-roller. A political or a literary ally, gen. not too scrupulous: orig. (ca. 1820), US; anglicised ca. 1865: coll. till C.20, then S.E. See:

log-rolling. 'Co-operation in the pursuit of money, business, or praise' (F. & H.): orig. (1823), US; anglicised ca. 1865: coll. till ca. 1895, then S.E. Ex mutual assistance in the actual rolling of logs. See esp. OED and Thornton.—2. Also adj.

log up, v.i. To make a log-support for a windlass: Aus.:—1890: coll. Morris, who quotes 'Rolf Boldrewood', 1890, The Miner's Right.

loge. A watch: c.: late C.17–early 19. (B.E.) Ex Fr. horloge. loges. A pass or warrant: c.: early C.17. Hence, feager of loges, a professional beggar with false passes. Rowlands.

logged. (Of a ship) on her beam-ends: nautical coll.: late C.19–20. (Bowen.) Perhaps ex dial. log, v.t., to rock.—2. Utterly drunk: from ca. 1920. (R. Knox, Still Dead, 1934.) Ex water-logged.

logger's smallpox is those markings on a man's face which are caused by a man's stamping on it with his spiked boots, an activity known as putting the caulks to (a man): Can. loggers': C.20. Gerald Kersh, I Got References, 1939.

loggo. Logs, esp. in 'Any loggo?': a London street cry: mid-C.19—early 20.

logician. A drunk who accuses another of being drunk. See TAVERN TERMS, §3d, in Appendix.

logie. 'A bit of hollowed out pewter, polished in various concavities, and called, in the terms of theatrical jewellery, a Logie' (Albert Smith, The Natural History of the Ballet-Girl, 1847); in C.20, S.E. and ob. by ca. 1930. Ex David Logie the inventor. Hence, sham jewellery.—2. Sewage: Winchester College: ca. 1870–1930. logier. A pocket-book: c. of ca. 1820–50. (Bee.) Ex Dutch or Yiddish.

logia. A logotype, in its commercial/advertising, rather than its typographical sense: advertisers' coll.: since mid-1960s, >, by mid-1970s, S.E. (B.P.; P.B.) logs. A lock-up; a minor prison: Aus. coll.:—1888. 'Rolf Boldrewood', 'Let's put him in the Logs.' Morris, 'In the early days'—see G. Barrington, in his History of New South Wales—'a log-hut, and often keeping its name when made a more secure place'. Ob. however, by 1910, † by 1930. Cf. the † US log-box.—2. (Rare in singular.) 'Logs. Fines inflicted at sea ... officially logged by the captain': nautical coll.: late C.19–20. Bowen.—3. As the Logs, 'The timber pond in Portsmouth Harbour': RN: late C.19—early 20. Ibid.—4. Turds: teenagers': early 1980s.—5. See log, 2.

logue. Var. of loge.

-logy. See -ology.

loid. Celluloid: since ca. 1910. Hence, the loid, the art of using a piece of celluloid to slip open the latch of a door: mostly police: since ca. 1920. (Maurice Procter, Man in Ambush, 1958.) See also Harold Lloyd.

loiner. A townsman: Leeds undergraduates':—1940 (Marple, 2). Perhaps cf. oiner, q.v., or dial. lointer, to loiter. loke. A locum tenens: medical: from ca. 1905. (Ware.) Ex locum, q.v.

lol; occ. loll. A students' social evening or spree: Stellenbosch students': ca. 1885–1900. Pettman, who derives it ex Dutch lollen, to sit by the fire, to chat'.

Lola Montez. 'A drink of rum, ginger, lemon and hot water' (B., 1942): Aus. c.: ca. 1870–1910. Hot and comforting, like that famous person.

loll. Rare shortening of lollipop.

loll-shraub, -shrob. Var. lalshrub. See lall-schraub.

loll-tongue, play a game at. To be salivated for syphilis: ca. 1785–1850. Grose, 2nd ed.

lollied. See lolly, v.

lollipop, lollypop, n. A sweetmeat: coll.:—1784 (London Chronicle, Jan. 17–20, p. 72: 'sweetmeats, called lollypops': cited by S.H. Ward, who, by the way, was a descendant of Ned Ward—see EPIPHETS, in Appendix—and a great authority on him). By mid-C.20, informal S.E., and gen. ref. specifically to a sweet stuck on the end of a small wooden handle. ? Ex Northern dial. lolly, the tongue.—2. The penis: low: C.19—early 20. Also ladies' lollipop.—3. Fig., over-sweet writing: coll.: ca. 1850–1930.—4. A policeman: rhyming s., on slop or cop: C.20. Franklyn, Rhyming.—5. A 'shafted tool with iron ball for testing sleepers' (Railway): railwaymen's: C.20. Ex shape.—6. One's girl friend: RAF: WW2. (R.S.) She is sweet.—7. Acronym: Lots of local leave in place of Python (military code-name given to leave due at end of overseas service): army: 1944–5.—8. A 'sugar-daddy': shopgirls' and typists': ca. 1955–60. Contrast sense 6.—9. Anything specially good, e.g. the pride of one's collection: coll.: since ca. 1965. In, e.g., BBC Radio 4 programme 'The Living World', 24 Apr. 1975. Perhaps influenced by the famous conductor Sir Henry Wood, who used the term for his favourite pieces of music. (P.B.)—10. A (money) tip: rhyming s., on drop: C.20. Franklyn, Rhyming.—11. See lolly, n., 3, and cf.:

lollipop, v. To inform (on someone): rhyming s., on shop: C.20. Franklyn, Rhyming.

lollipop dress. A 'stripy dress, generally red and white, suggestive of sticks of confectionery': theatrical coll.: 1884. Ware.

lollipop lady or man. A traffic warden specially recruited to shepherd children at street-crossings, esp. near primary schools: orig. coll. >, by 1980, informal S.E.: later C.20. Ex shape of sign, a disc on top of a pole, used to signal traffic to stop.

lollop, n. A lounger, loafer: coll.: from ca. 1840. Ex the v. —2. The action or an act of lolling: coll.: 1834 (SOD). Ex the v.

lollop, v. To lounge about: coll.: 1745, C.H. Williams, 'Next in lollop'd Sandwich, with negligent grace.' Ex loll, v.—2. To bob up and down: coll.: from ca. 1850. Mayhew, 'Its head lolling over the end of the cart' (OED).—3. To proceed clumsily by bounds: coll.: 1878, Lady Brassey, 'We lolloped about in the trough of a heavy sea.' But for date cf. lolloping, adj., 2.

lolloping. Vbl n. of lollop, v., in all senses: coll.—2. Adj., lounging, slovenly, idle: coll.: 1745.—3. Moving by clumsy bounds: coll.: 1844, Stephens in Advice of a Gentleman, '[Long-pasterned horses] have usually a lumbering lolloping action, neither fast nor pleasant.'

lollypop. Lazy: coll.: from ca. 1855. Cf. lolloping, adj.

Lollos. Female breasts, esp. if impressive and shapely: Aus.: since ca. 1955. 'Not common. Probably originally journalistic. Ex the famous Italian film star, Gina Lollobrigida' (B.P.).

lollpop. 'A lazy, idle drone': coll. verging on S.E.: C.17–18.

lolly, n. Sweetmeat: 1862 (OED): dial. and, in Aus. and NZ, coll. Ex lollipop, 1.—2. The head: boxers': ca. 1855–1910. (H., 1st ed.) Cf. crumpet.—3. A shop: short for lollipop (cf. the v.): grafters' C.20. Cheapjack, 1934.—4. Money: orig. Cockney (Franklyn derives it ex lollipop, n., 10) >, in later C.20. gen. low coll. M. Harrison, Reported Safe Arrival, 1943, 'Touches the Gov'tment for a nice drop of lolly—which is almost tautologous.—5. Anything easy: Aus. c.: C.20. Baker.—6. An easy catch: cricketers': earlier—C.20. Hugh de Sélincourt, The Cricket Match, 1924.—7. A trickster's (easy) victim: Aus.: since ca. 1910. B., 1943.—8. 'Soft ice beginning to form in harbours' (L.E.F. English, Historic Newfoundland, 1955): Newfoundland, C.20.—9. A criminal either timid or half-hearted, esp. towards a coup: Aus. c.: since ca. 1920.—10. In do (one's or) the lolly, to get very angry: Aus.: since ca. 1950. (Dick.)—11. Shortening of lollipop, n., 4, a policeman. Tempest.

lolly, v.t. To give (a fellow crook) away to the police: c.:—1933 (Charles E. Leach, On Top of the Underworld). Prob. abbr. lolly-shop by a grim pun on shop, to betray to the police. See also lollipop, v. Still extant in 1970s: 'He was lollied' (Powis).

lolly-banger. A ship's cook: nautical: ca. 1872–1914. Perhaps ex lolly influenced by loblolly, q.v.

lolly (-) water (in later C.20, written solid). 'Soft drink, esp. if coloured' (Wilkes, whose earliest quot'n is B., 1945): Aus.: since early 1940s. Esp. among those who prefer something stronger.

lolly-worker. 'A swindler who starts a shop and immediately sells the alleged goodwill' (Cheapjack, 1934): grafters': C.20. Cf. lolly, n., 3.

lollypop. See lollipop.

Lombard fever. The 'ides': coll.: 1678 (Ray); † by 1870. A perversion of the S.E. † fever-lurden (cf. S.E. † lurden).

Lombard Street, in. In prison: c. of ca. 1810–60. (Vaux.) See lumber, n. and v. (esp.), lumbered, limbo, and limbered.

Lombard Street to a Brummagem sixpence, ... a China orange (the commonest form), ... an egg-shell, ... ninepence. (Gen. prec. by all.) In C.20, the second occ. > all China to an orange. A c.p. indicative of very heavy, indeed the longest possible odds; a virtual certainty: coll.: resp. 1826, G. Daniels, ob.: 1849, Lytton; 1752, Murphy, †; 1819, Moore, ob. Ex the wealth of this London street. (See esp. Apperson.) Also Chelsea College to a sentry-box (1819) and Pompey's pillar to a stick of sealing-wax (1819, likewise in Tom Moore).

Lombards. Shares in the Lombard-Venetian Railway: Stock Exchange coll.:—1887 (Baumann).

lomick, loamick. The hand: Shetland and Orkney islanders' s., not dial.: from ca. 1880. (EDD.) Ex Orkney dial. lomos, the hands.

London. In put or show or turn the best side to London, to make the best display one can: coll.: 1873 (Cassell's Magazine, Jan.); Baumann; Ware, 'Making the best of everything'. Cf. Humphrey's toppers.—2. See agree like the clocks of London.

London and Yorks. Navvies' bowyangs: navvies': ca. 1860–1910. The Rev. D.W. Barrett, Life and Work among the Navvies, 1880, derives the word ex the Great North Road (London to York).

London Blizzard. Leighton Buzzard: railwaymen's: from ca. 1920. (Daily Herald, 5 Aug. 1936.) By rhyming equivalence.

London Closet-Cleaners. London County Council: Londoners': C.20. By pun on the initials of the body which came into existence in 1888 and was replaced by the Greater London Council in 1965.

London English, the. The 23rd County of London Battalion (TA): 'At one time [earlier C.20] they were brigaded with the London Scottish and the London Irish, thus earning themselves the inevitable title of the "London English" (John Gaylor, Military Badge Collecting, 1977 ed.: P.B.).

London flitting. See moonlight flit.

London fog. A dog: rhyming s.: late C.19–earlier 20. B. & P.

London ivy. Dust: Cockneys':—1909 (Ware).—2. See London particular.

London jury. See jury.

London ordinary. Brighton beach: ca. 1860–1915. Peppitt cites Anon., Brighton: the Road, the Place, the People, 1862; also in H.I., 3rd ed.

London particular. A Madeira wine imported especially for the London market: coll.: 1807, Washington Irving (O.E.D.): ob. by 1900, † by 1930. Perhaps the origin of glass of one's particular (see particular, n., 1).—2. Hence, ex the colour, a London fog: 1852 (Dickens): s. >, ca. 1890, coll. Also called London ivy (London fog in gen.; not a particular one): also 1852 (Dickens, Bleak House); ob. by 1920. Cf. synonym. pea-souper.

London Pets. "Those men of the Guards have long been called the "London Pets" and "stay at homes" and "feather-bed soldiers", but they very quickly lived down their nicknames in South Africa" (Julian Ralph, War's Brighter Side, 1901, p. 249).

London Smash 'em and Do for 'em Railway;... and Turn-over. The London, Chatham & Dover Railway (1859–1922): railwaymen's. Cf. Chatham and Dover, q.v.

London smoke. A yellowish grey: Society coll.: ca. 1860–90. Ware, 'Became once a favourite colour because it hid dirt.'

London-super-Mare. Brighton: since ca. 1955. Peppitt cites M. Brown, Scapa Flow, 1968.

London Thieving Corps, the. The London Transport Corps (later the Army Service Corps): Crimean War military. (F. & G.) Cf. the Murdering Thieves.

London wagon. 'In the days of the Press Gang [abolished in 1835], the tender which carried the victims from the Tower of London to the receiving ship at the Nore': nautical: ca. 1770–1840. Bowen.

Londons. Shares in the London & North-Western Railway: Stock Exchange coll. (—1895) >, by 1910, j. A. J. Wilson's glossary.

Londony. Characteristic of London: coll.: 1920, Denis Mac-kail, What Next?, 'More Londony than any native'.

Londrix. London: ca. 1860–80. (H., 3rd ed.) Prob. ex Fr. Londres.

lone, on (one's). Alone: Aus. coll.: late C.19–20. (Vance Palmer, The Passage, 1939.) Cf. lonesome..., q.v.

lone duck or dove. A woman no longer 'kept'; a harlot 'working' in houses of accommodation: low: later C.19—early 20.

lone star. A second lieutenant, whose badge of rank is a single star: army officers': WW1. (F. & G.) Prob. influenced by 'The Lone Star State' (Texas). (P.B.) Contrast lonely star.

lone wolf. 'Fighter pilot who leaves formation' (W/Cdr P. McDouall, letter, 1945): RAF: mid-1940+. Ex wild-life wood-lore; cf. lone wolf in Underworld.

lonely star. A woman advertising that she wishes to write to lonely soldiers: military: 1916–18. F. & G.

loner. One who prefers solitude or independence, or both, to 'running with the herd': coll.: adopted, ca. 1945, ex US; by early 1970s, S.E. (COD, 1976). Cf. lone wolf, of which it is perhaps a shortening.

lonesome, (all) on (one's). Alone: coll.: late C.19–20. (W.L. George, The Making of an Englishman, 1914.) Cf. S.E. all on (one's) own.

lonesome pine. 'A person with unusual ideas or views' (McKenna, Glossary): railwaymen's: mid-C.20.

long, n. A 'bull': Stock Exchange:—1888; ob. by 1930.—2. A rifle: Fenian: from ca. 1885. Cf. short, a revolver.—3. See John Long.—4. The long, the summer vacation: university coll.: 1852 (Bristed); Reade, 1863.

long, adj. Tall: M.E.—C.20: S.E. till ca. 1870, then coll., mostly joc.—2. (Of numbers, or of numbered things) large. Chiefly in l. trump, l. suit (both in cards), l. family, odds, price: 1746 coll. (OED).—3. (Of liquor) diluted: lower classes' coll.:—1923 (Manchon). Ex long drink, big one.—4. That long, thus or so long: low coll.: late C.19–20. See that, adv.—5. See so long!

long, adv. Along; e.g. 'Come long, Bill!': coll., mostly lower classes':—1923 (Manchon). P.B.: this is merely a slovening of along; cf. cause for 'because'.

Long Acre. A baker: rhyming s.:—1857 ('Ducange Anglicus').

long and narrow – like a Welsh mile. Either thus or as like... mile, applied to anything so shaped: coll.: ca. 1785–1850. (Grose, 2nd ed.) Ex Welsh mile, a mile unconscionably long: cf. the equally S.E. Welsh acre. Contrast short and thick...

long and slender like a cat's elbow. A C.18–mid-19 ironic proverbial c.p. T. Fuller, Gnomologia, 1732.

long and (the) short of it, the. The plain truth: coll. from C.18; by C.20, S.E. In Francis Boothby, Marcellia (V, i), 1670, occurs the short and the long of it, perhaps the orig. form. (Moe.) Cf. long attachment.

long arm. See make a long arm.

long as a piece of string (, as). 'A teasing reply (mainly) to questions about length of time, e.g. "How long will you be?"' (L.A., 1974): C.20.

long as (one's) arm (, as). Very long, as in 'He's got a record sheet [of petty crimes] as long as your arm': coll.: since late C.19.

long attachment. One tall, one short (other-sex) person walking together: coll.: later C.19—early 20. In joc, S.E., the long and (the) short of it.

long bacon. The derisive gesture of thumb to nose, with fingers extended and waggling: juvenile: C.20. The action is make or, occ., pull, long bacon. Cf. cock snooks at; (Queen Anne's fan). (P.B.) Also make a long nose.

long balls. See long bowls.

long beer, drink. A large measure of liquor: coll.: 1859 (Trollope: OED).

long Bertha. Var. of big Bertha, s.v. Bertha. F & G.

long bill. A long imprisonment: c.: from ca. 1860. Cf. lifer, q.v. A short term is a short bill.

long blow, the. 'Paddy was beginning the longest cut, "long blow", from the flank to the top of the head' (Jon Cleary, The Sundowners, 1952): Aus. sheepshearers': late C.19–20.

long bow. See draw the long-bow.

long-bow man. A liar: coll.: ca. 1678–1830. Ray, Motteux. OED long bowls. Long-range firing: perhaps orig. RN, as in Basil Hall, 1831, but by the Crimean War, 1854–6, also army (Gowing). Ex long bowls, whether in sense of ninepins or in the Scottish one of a game played by throwing heavy bullets is not certain. An occ. var. was long balls.

long chalk. See by a long chalk.

long clay. A long clay pipe: coll.: from ca. 1860. Cf. churchwarden, q.v.

long-cork. Claret: 1829, Marrayat: † by 1900. Ex the long corks.

long crag. A long purse: Aberdeen, either c. or low: late C.18–mid-19. (Shirrefs, 1790: EDD). Perhaps because a long purse (vaguely) resembles a long neck (Scot. crag or craig = neck).

long-crown. A clever fellow, esp. in the proverb, 'That caps long-crown, and he capped the devil': coll. and dial.—1847; † except in dial. Cf. long-headed, shrewd, which is S.E.

long dispar(s). The loin: Winchester College. See dispar.

long-distance. 'Long service. Thus, a long-distance medal' (Jackson): RAF: since ca. 1930. Esp., also, long-distance type, a long-service airman (Partridge, 1945). P.B.: in the army, since 1950 at latest, long-distance gong is common for the long-service medal; cf. rooty gong. Granville notes it as RN usage also.

long drag, the. The 'uphill run from Carlisle to Settle' (Railway): railwaymen's: C.20.

long drink of water. Tall, very thin man: late C.19—earlier 20. Cf. long streak...

long drop, the. Familiar term for the DTL (deep trench latrine, or earth closet): army. I met it in Cyprus, later 1950s, but the name was prob. in wider usage—wherever such a primitive arrangement was needed. (P.B.)

long-eared bastard or chum. A mule; the former term, affectionate or neutral, the later contemptuous: army: earlier C.20. (B. & P.; F. & G.) Cf. long-faced...

long Eliza. A blue and white vase ornamented with tall china-women: sailors' and traders': from ca. 1880. See esp. Pall Mall Gazette, 4 Dec. 1884. Ex Ger. lange Lischen, tall Lizzies.

long enough I, you, etc., may (do something). It's pretty hopeless: coll.: C.16–20. In C.19–20 gen. followed by before + v. Palsgrave, Browning. OED.

long eye. The female pudend: pidgin: from ca. 1850.

long face. A solemn or a downhearted expression: coll.: from ca. 1785.

long-faced chum or friend or one. A horse: army:—1896. Cf. long-eared... and see long-haired...

long feathers. Straw; bedding stuffed with straw: army: C.19. Thomas Jackson, in his Narrative, 1847, writing of early C.19.

long fiftens. Some class of lawyers: C.17. L. Barry, in Ram Alley (OED).

long firm. A swindling group of phantom capitalists: commercial coll. An early occurrence is in Orchestra, 2 Jan. 1869. Powis defines a long firm fraud as 'a type of fraud where a great deal of property is ordered on credit through legitimate channels and then sold at "knock-down" prices. Suppliers are not paid and fraudsmen abscond.' In C.20 usu. abbr. l.f.

long fork. A stick used as a toasting fork: Winchester College: ca. 1830–70.

Long Forties, the. Part of the North Sea, east of Aberdeen: nautical coll.: C.19–20.

long-G. 'Long gunnery course at Whale Island Gunnery School, Portsmouth' (Granville). RN: C.20.

long gallery. The act or the practice of trundling the dice the whole length of the board: ca. 1790–1850. Grose, 3rd ed.

long ghost. A tall, awkward person: ca. 1860–1910. (H., 3rd ed.) Cf. lamp-post.

long glass. A very long, horn-shaped glass filled with beer on special occasions: Eton College s. > j.: ca. 1820–70. Brinsley-Richards, Seven Years at Eton, 1883.—2. 'General nautical colloquialism for a telescope' (Granville): C.20; prob. earlier.

long grass, the. The Provinces: theatrical: C.20. (L.A., 1967.) Cf. the sticks, q.v. at sticks, 10.

long-hair. An intellectual; a highbrow: Aus.: adopted, ca. 1944, ex US. (Dymphna Cusack, 1951.) P.B.: some Brit. use also, usu. contemptuously, 'long haired intellectuals' being a cliché, until the advent of 'The Beatles' in the early 1960s set the fashion for long hair in males for a couple of decades.

long-haired chum. A female friend or sweetheart: from ca. 1870: tailors' >, in C.20, soldiers' and sailors'. Prob. the orig., or at least influential in the formation of, long-faced chum and long-eared chum. Ob. by ca. 1925.

long hand, the. Pickpocketry: c.:—1923 (Manchon). Therein, a long, thin hand is useful.

long-handled underwear. Men's 'extra-warm winter woollen underclothes, with long legs and sleeves' (Leechman): Can.: since ca. 1950. Also Long Johns. Cf.:

long hangers. Long knitted woollen underpants supplied to seamen on the convoys to Russia: WW2.

long-head. A 'shrewd-head' or very shrewd or cunning person: proletarian coll.:—1923 (Manchon). Prob. back-formation ex S.E. long-headed, shrewd.

long hogs. A sheep's first growth of wool: coll.: ca. 1840–1900.

long home, (one's). The grave: C.14–20: S.E. >, ca. 1820, coll. Dickens.

long hope. Long expectations in studying for a degree: Oxford University: ca. 1820–40. Egan's Grose.

Long-horn. The Maurice Farman 57 pusher biplane. See bird-cage, 12.

long hundred. Six-score fresh herrings: Billingsgate coll.: from ca. 1870. Ex long hundred, 120. H., 5th ed.

long in the arm. Addicted to theft: ca. 1870–1920. (Sessions, Sep. 1893, Surrey cases). Of one who will reach for things.

long in the mouth. Tough: low coll.: ca. 1850–1930.

long in the tooth. Elderly: from ca. 1910: (low) coll. >, by 1930, S.E.

long-jawed. (Of rope) so strained and so far untwisted that it oils both ways: (of an eye-splice) badly tucked: nautical: late C.19–20.

long Johns. Long-legged underpants. Also written long-johns (Phantom, 1979). See John L.s and cf. long-handled...

long jump, the. The transference of a squadron to active service overseas: RFC/RAF: later WW1+. F. & G.—2. A being hanged: c.: from ca. 1921. Also take the..., to be hanged.—3. See high jump.

long lady. A farthing candle: late C.18—early 19 coll.

long lane. The throat: C.19—early 20. See lane, 8.—2. In for the long lane, of something borrowed without intention of repayment or restoration: coll.: C.18–mid-19. ?ex the proverb it is a long lane that has no turning.

long leg. 'A big difference in the draught forward and aft in a sailing ship': nautical coll.: mid-C. 19–20; ob. (Bowen.) Ex nautical j. long-legged, (of a ship) drawing much water.

long legs; long 'un. A tall person: C.18–20 coll. Cf. lamp-post.—2. Long-legs, a hare: Aus.: late C.19–20. (B., 1942) Cf. long one.

long lib. 'Long lying, last end' (Randle Home, 1688). See lib, n., 1, and cf. long home.

long lie. Additional time in bed on certain days: Shrewsbury School coll.: from ca. 1880. (Desmond Coke, The Bending of a Twig, 1906.) Cf. the Public School sense of froust (froust) and thoke, qq.v. Cf. lie-in as n.

long Meg. A very tall woman: late C.17—early 19. (B.E.) Ex an actual woman, known as Long Meg of Westminster.

long neck. A camel: Aus.: late C.19–20. Archer Russell, A Tramp Royal in Wild Australia, 1934. 'He is the despised "humpie", the "filthy camel", the "stinking old long neck"', that "mangy brute" of the traveller; but he is also ... the great utility animal of the Inland.'

long nose. See long bacon.

long nose is a lady's liking, a. Low c.p. of C.19—early 20: in a male, a long nose is, in popular mythology, said to denote a long penis.

long-nosed chum. A horse: army: late C.19—early 20. Cf. long-faced ...

long oats. 'A broom- or fork-handle used to belabour a horse' (F & H.): army: ca. 1870–1914—but see also ash beans, which it helps to explain.

long one or 'un. A hare: poachers': from ca. 1810 (Lex. Bal.) Contrast long tail, 4.—2. A pheasant: poachers:—1909 (Ware). Prob. suggested by long tail, 4.

long paddock, the. The open road: NZ and Aus. coll.: C.20. B., 1941 and 1942.

long paper. Paper for impositions: Winchester College: from ca. 1860.

long pig. Human flesh as food: 1852 (Mundy, in Our Antipodes): nautical >, ca. 1895, S.E. Prob. ex Fijian phrase.

long-playing record. 'A non-stop gossipier; a very talkative woman' (Petch): proletarian coll: since ca. 1960.

long-plummer. 'Engineer officer who has taken the long-E (the old engineering scheme, which was abolished in 1948—the course seemed endless)' (Granville): RN: earlier C.20. Should this perhaps be -plumber? (P.B.).

long pull. An over-measure of liquor, given (customarily or occ.) to improve trade: publicans' coll.:—1909 (Ware).

long saw. See held at the long saw.

Long Shanks. A tall man: coll.: late C.17–20. B.E., Grose.

long shilling. A drive 'from the Royal Exchange to the east corner of Catherine-street, in the Strand' (Grosse): London hackney-coachmen's: ca. 1740–80.

long ship. A ship 'in which it is a long time between drinks': nautical: C.20. Bowen.

long-shore butcher. A coastguardsman: nautical: ca. 1820–1905.

long short'uns or short long'uns? A c.p. addressed to a man wearing trousers that fail to cover the ankles: Aus.: since ca. 1930. (B.P.)

long shot. A bet laid at large odds: turf s. (—1869) >, in C.20, gen. coll. Leisure Hour, May 1869.

long sight, not by a. Not by a long way: coll.: late C.19–20.

long slab. A tall, very thin woman: Londoners': C.20.

long-sleeved top. A silk hat: c.:—1889; ob. by 1930.

long-sleeved 'un. A long glass (of liquor): Aus.: from ca. 1890; ob. Ex:

long-sleever. The same; also the glass itself: Aus.:—1888 (Morris).

long sticks of sealing-wax. Guardsmen (with red tunics): ca. 1815–70. Mark Lemon, My Sister Kate (a play), 1838, quoted in William Matthews, Cockney Past and Present, 1938.

long soup. See short soup.

long stomach. A greedy eater: ca. 1780–1870: coll. Grose, 2nd ed.

long-stopper. A look-out man: Aus. c.: C.20. (B., 1959.) Ex cricket.

long streak of misery. A (very) tall, thin person, even if not miserable-looking: late C.19–20. A C.20 var. is long string ... and, lower down the scale, long streak of piss.

long strokes, the. Intromission in coition: raffish: C.20. (L.A., 1974.) Cf. short strokes.

long suit, (one's). One's forte or speciality: C.20: coll., now verging on S.E. Ex card-games.

long swabs. (?) Best uniform: army: late C.19—early 20. See ARMY SLANG, chorus 2, in Appendix. (P.B.)

long tail, as applied to one of the riff-raff, is S.E.—2. A native of Kent: from ca. 1620: coll. till ca. 1750, then dial. Also Kentish long-tail, q.v.—3. A Chinaman: nautical: later C.19–1911. Ex his queue, the Manchu-imposed hairstyle, abolished with the emergence of the Republic.—4. A pheasant: sporting coll.: 1854 (Smedley).—5. A greyhound: coursers' and dog-fanciers':—1864; ob. (H., 3rd ed.) Cf. Sussex dial. long-dog, a greyhound.—6. Treacle: Aus.: C.20. B., 1942.

long-tailed bear, (that's) a. You lie!: non-U evasive c.p.: late C. 19—early 20. Ware, 'Bears have no tails.'

long-tailed beggar. A cat: low (mostly nautical) coll.: from ca. 1830; ob. Marryat, in Peter Simple; H., 5th ed.—2. In c. (—1923: Manchon), the same as:

long-tailed finnip or 'un. A bank-note of high denomination: c.: from ca. 1835. (Brandon; Snowden's Magistrate's Assistant.) Cf. finnip and flimsy, q.v. Long-tailed'un is still extant, 1970s: Powis records its use for £10 and £20 notes.

long tea. Tea poured from a high-held pot; urine: school-boys': ca. 1850–1910.

Long Thinkers, the. The 7th Australian Infantry Division: 6th Division soldiers': 1941–2. (Rats, 1944.) Cf. Palestine Militia.

long time dead, you'll be a. A c.p. addressed to someone failing to make the most of life: late C.19–20.

long time no see! I haven't seen you for a long time: Brit. and US c.p.: C.20. See notes at this entry in Appendix.

long togs. A landsman's clothes; esp. full-dress clothes: nautical: from ca. 1810, perhaps even late C. 18: it occurs in, e.g., The Night Watch (II, 51), 1828, and W. N. Glascock, Sailors and Saints (II, 206), 1829. (Moe.) Also adj. as in Marryat's 'them long-tog, swallow-tailed coats'.

long Tom. A large, long-range gun: nautical (also † long Tom Tuck: Bowen) and military coll.: from ca. 1865. Cf. long-winded whistler, q.v. Also, a nickname for specific cannon.—2. Hence, a penis: low: from ca. 1898.—3. A 'paintbrush lashed to the end of a 4-foot stick: Merchant Navy: 1940s' (Peppitt)—and after.—4. A 'riding crop used by racecourse starter. ITV Racing Commentary, 16 Jan. 1975' (Ibid.)—and for at least a generation earlier.—5. (Usu. written long tom.) A camera with long-distance lenses: photographers':—1945 (Rhodes Farmer, Shanghai Harvest).—6. See:

long Toms. 'Yorkshire coal, delivered in long, jagged pieces' (McKenna, Glossary): railwaymen's: earlier C.20.

long-tongued as Granny. Very apt to blab: coll.: ca. 1720–1830. Ex Granny, an idiot (d. 1719) who could lick her own eye. 'As for sweethearts ... the "pretty little dears" ... had as long tongues in 1856 as they have now (early 1880s)' (Gowing).

long tot. A lengthy set of figures for addition, esp. in examinations: from ca. 1885: coll. Ex tot, 1 (q.v.), itself abbr. total. P.B.: at the preparatory school that I attended in the early 1940s, long tots were set as punishment; a refinement was cross tots, sums to be added sideways across the page.

Long Town. Anglo-Irish:—1823; † by 1900. 'Jon Bee.'

long trail, the. 'In the China clippers, the homeward route round Australia': mid-C.19—early 20. Bowen.

long trot, to do the. To go home: low London: from ca. 1860; ob. B. & L.

long 'un. A tall person: coll.: mid-C.19–20. Also as vocative.—2. See long legs and long one.

long underwear. Highbrow music: beatniks': ca. 1959+. (Anderson.) Adopted ex US, where applied also to other forms of music, e.g. sweet, 'corny' jazz (W. & F.). 'The implication is that highbrow music, like long underwear, is old-fashioned' (Claiborne, 1976). But can it ever become so?

long 'uns. Long trousers: boys' coll.: late C.19–20.

long vac. The summer holiday: at schools, some universities, the law-courts: coll.: late C.19–20. Cf. long, n. 4, q.v.

long-winded. Slow in doing something, not talk: coll.: late C.19–20.

long-winded paymaster. A person that takes long credit: late C.17—early 19. B.E., Grose.

long-winded whistler. A chase-gun: nautical: ca. 1865–90. (Smyth.) Cf. long Tom.

long word, a. A word indicative of a long time: coll.: from ca. 1860. 'Since I've been in London, and that's saying a long word' (Cornhill Magazine, Dec. 1861); "'Never" is a long word.' (Standard, 28 July 1883). OED.

longer and linger. Finger: rhyming: C.20.

longers. Fence-rails: Newfoundland: C.20. (L.E.F. English, 1955.)

longjohns. See long johns.

Long's. Short's winery almost opposite Somerset House: the Strand, London: mid-C.19—early 20. Ware.

longs, the. The latrines at Brasenose: Oxford University: from ca. 1870; † by 1930. Built from funds donated by Lady Long. Still so called at Trinity College, Oxford: but because of their length.

longs and shorts; also longs and broads. 'Cards so manufactured that all above the eight are a trifle longer than those below it' (F. & H.): cardsharper's c.: from ca. 1860. H., 3rd ed.—2. Orig. (—1823), longs and broads=cards. Egan's Groce.

longshore lawyer. An unscrupulous lawyer: coll.:—1823; ob. Bee.

longshore owner. (Gen. pl.) A shipowner that sent ill-found ships to sea: nautical coll.: ca. 1850—1910. (Bowen.) Cf. S.E. arm-chair tactician or strategist.

Lonsdale (Belt), give (someone) the. To dismiss, get rid of: low: since ca. 1940. (Norman.) An elab. of give the belt.

Lonsdale's ninepins. Those nine boroughs for which Lord Lonsdale used to provide the members: Parliamentary: late C.18—early 19.

Loo, the. Woolloomooloo, a rough district of Sydney: Aus. coll.: C.20. C.J. Dennis.

loo. A lieutenant: RN: ca. 1880—1914.—2. As a street-cry, 'Milk!': milkmen's:—1823 ('Jon Bee'); E.P. noted 'ob.' in the 1st ed. of this Dict. Ex Fr. lait.—3. Always the loo, the water closet; late C.19—20, but esp. gen. in later C.20. (Angus Wilson, The Wrong Set, 1949.) See note in the Appendix on suggested derivation.—4. See jog the loo.

looard. A nautical spelling of leeward: coll.:—1887 (Baumann).

loob. A cigarette: Plumtree School, Southern Rhodesia: since ca. 1920. Ex Dutch?

loobilly occurs among Ned Ward's EPITHETS (see Appendix), but is more prob. the adv. of looby.

looby. A fool; an idle, dull fellow: C.14—20: S.E. till ca. 1820, then coll. and dial. Disraeli, 'Her looby of a son and his eighty thousand a year'. Cf. loopy, q.v.—2. In C.20, occ. as adj. in sense of loopy, q.v. B. & P.

loocha, -cher. 'A blackguard libertine, a lewd loafer': Anglo-Indian coll.: from ca. 1820. Ex Hindustani luchcha. Whence Loocha Point, Louisa Point, Matheran, India. Y. & B.

loo'd, or looed, be. To be very short of money: nautical:—1923 (Manchon). I.e. to be to leeward. Imm. ex:—loo'd. 'beaten, defeated' (B. & L.): coll.: mid-1880s—ca. 1930. Ex the game of loo (EDD).

loof-faker. A chimney-sweep: 1859 (H., 1st ed.); ob. by 1930. Doubtless loof is an approximate back-s. perversion of flue: flue > floo > oolf > loof.

look. To look surprised; stare: C.17—20: S.E. till ca. 1850, then coll.

look a gift-horse in the mouth. To criticise a gift or a favour: C.16—20: coll. till C.18, then S.E. 'Hudibras' Butler.

look after (one's) own yard-arm. To consider one's own interests first (F. & G.): RN: C.20. Cf. clear (one's) yard-arm, q.v.

look alive. To be alert; bestir oneself: coll.: C.19—20. Often in the imperative=make haste!, as in T. Hughes, 1858, '[He] ... told [them] to look alive and get their job done' (OED). P.B.: a Punch theatrical cartoon, 8 Dec. 1860, p. 221, was captioned: 'Prompter to Ghost of Hamlet's Father, "Come on, now! Look alive!"' Cf. look sharp and look slippery, which >, in lower classes' coll., late C.19—early 20, look slimy.

look as if butter would not melt in (one's) mouth. See butter would not...

look as if (one) has eaten live birds. To be unwantedly lively: from ca. 1867; ob. by early C.20. Quarterly Review, 125, p. 231 (Apperson).

look as if (one) has lost a pound and found (a) sixpence or occ. ... a shilling and found a ha'penny. A coll. virtually a c.p.: C.19—20.

look as if the devil has shit (one) flying. To be filthy, or deformed: low coll.: C.19—early 20.

look at. In have a look at, 'to look at for the purpose of examining' (SOD): coll.: since 1885.—2. In cannot look at, to have no chance against: coll.: 1895 (OED). Ex cricket, where it appears as early as 1862 (Lewis).—3. In to look at him (it, me, you, etc.), judging from his (my, etc.) appearance: coll.: 1846, Bentley's Miscellany (vol. 20), 'No one would think me more than five- or six-and-thirty, to look at me.' OED.

look at every woman through the hole in (one's) prick. To regard every woman as a mere potential instrument of pleasure: low coll.: late C.19—20.

look at the crops, (go and). To visit the privy: joc. euph.: mid-C.19—earlier 20. Cf. pluck a rose, squeeze a lemon, etc. A var. is look for birds' nests (if in the open air); see also look upon a hedge.

look at the maker's name. To drain a glass: coll.: from ca. 1860; ob. Also bite one's name in the pot.

look at the place. (Of thieves) to examine a house, etc., beforehand, to see if there is anything unusual about it: C.19—20: c. Vaux.

look behind (one), not or never to. Advance or prosper without interruption: coll.: 1852 (Serjeant Bellasis: OED). The gen. C.20 form is never to look back (1893, OED). Perhaps ex racer leading easily (W.).

look big. To attempt an impressive manner: coll.: since C.16. Shakespeare, Winter's Tale.

look blue. To be confounded, astonished, disappointed, wretched: coll.: late C.16—20.—2. See till all is blue, 2.

look botty. See botty, adj.

look Cro'-Jack-eyed. To squint: nautical: mid-C.19—20. Bowen.

look down (ones) nose. To look glum: coll.: C.19—early 20. Displaced by:—

look down (one's) nose at (someone or -thing). To dispise: coll.: since ca. 1840.

Look Duck and Vanish Brigade, the. The Local Defence Volunteers: late-1939—early 1940. See quot'n at Dad's Army.

look'ee. A low coll. from of look you! (C.18—20)=mind this!

look for a needle in a bottle of hay or in a haystack. To look for something virtually impossible to find: proverbial coll.: resp. late C.16—19, C.19—20. Greene, Hood.

look for a pin's head;... a thimble. See pin's head.

look for Henry. (Of a confidence-trickster) to look for a victim: c.: from ca. 1920.

look for (one's) swag-straps. 'To consider leaving one's job in search of another' (B., 1941): NZ (mostly rural), late C.19—20; In Aus., sherrers' s.: C.20. B., 1942.

look goats and monkeys at. To gaze lecherously at: see goats and monkeys.

look here! Mind this!; mind what I say!: coll.: C.17—20 (Shakespeare.) Also look you!: late C.16—20. Shakespeare, 'Look you how he writes' (OED).

look here! do me a favour, will you? Run away!; Stop talking: c.p. since late 1940s. See also do me a favour!

look-in. A chance of success: sporting. (Bell's Life, 12 Feb. 1870.) P.B.: in later C.20 usu. doubtful or negative, as 'Do you think he has a look-in?' or 'She never even had a look-in'.—2. Var. of look-up, q.v., a short visit: 'Give us a look-in when you're around next'.

look in, v.i. To use a wireless receiver adapted for television': coll.: Aug. 1928. OED Sup.

look into the whites. To be about to fight: lower classes': from ca. 1885; ob. (Ware.) Sc. of each other's eyes.

look like a billy-goat in stags. To look very silly: nautical: late C.19—20. Bowen.

look like a tooth-drawer. To be thin and meagre: coll.: C.17. Beaumont & Fletcher, in Philaster; Ray (as a semi-proverbial phrase). Apperson.

look like a wet week. To look miserable or wretched: coll.: C.20.

look like death warmed up. To look seriously indisposed or even gravely ill: perhaps orig. Aus., but by ca. 1940 also Brit. coll. (B.P.) Cf. feel like death...

look like nothing on earth. To look wretched, ill; or, eccentric, ludicrous: coll. (←1927) >, by 1933, informal S.E. (Collinson.) Also as feel like... look like the wrath of God. See wrath of God.

look lively. To be drunk: low coll.: from ca. 1850.

look marlinspikes. To 'look daggers': nautical, esp. naval: ca. 1790–1860. The Night Watch (II, 119), 1829, 'Then comes the captain with the articles of war in his hand, looking marlinspikes, and calls for Paddy.' (Moe.)

look nine ways for Sunday(s). To squint: nautical: from ca. 1850; ob. Ex the C.16–18 coll. look nine ways confused with the dial. look both (later all) ways for Sunday.

look – no hands! A c.p. often applied to something cleverly done, but not conspicuously—if, indeed, at all—useful: since ca. 1910. Ex cycling. P.B.: occ. look, Mum—no hands! look old. To be severe or cautious: streets' coll.:—1909 (Ware).

look on, v.i. Applied to a horse meant not to do its best: the turf: from ca. 1870.—2. To read (a book, etc.) at the same time (with another person): coll.: late C.19–20.

look on the wall and it will not bite you. A derisive c.p. addressed to a person 'bitten with mustard' (Ray): late C.17–early 20.

look one way and row another. To do the opposite of what one seems to intend to do: coll.: ca. 1580–1880. Melbancke, 1583; D'Urfey; Spurgeon, 1869 (Apperson).

look-out. Responsibility, concern, business; usu. as a disclaimer, e.g., 'Well, if that's the way they want it, then that's their look-out!': coll. SOD has 1844. (E.P.; P.B.)

look out for. 'To take over a shipmate's watch for a spell. "Look out for me for ten minutes, there's a good chap"' (Granville): RN coll.: C.20.

look-out house. The watch kept 'by ordained masters on defunct incumbents' (Egan's Grose): Oxford University: ca. 1820–40.

look over the wood. To preach: late C.18–mid-19. (Grose, 2nd ed.) Sc. of the pulpit.

look-see; occ. looksee. A look-round, an inspection: from early 1880s. (OED Sup.) Almost certainly ex pidgin, hence nautical, look-see, to look and see. Used in the RAF, from 1918, for 'a reconnaissance' (Jackson).—2. Hence, a periscope (RN) or a telescope (army): 1915–18. F. & G.—3. Hence, looks, appearance: 1926 (OED Sup.); soon ob.

look-see, v. See prec., 1. The usual form is 'have a look-see', but, e.g. 'let's go look-see' is occ. heard. (P.B.) look-see pidgin. Hypocrisy; mere pretence: pidgin: from ca. 1880. B. & L.

look sharp. To exercise great care or vigilance: S.E.—2. To be quick; to hasten: coll.: from ca. 1815. Cobbett, 'They shall look sharp if they act before I am ready for them'; Dickens; Manville Fenn. (OED.) Cf. the next two entries.

look slimy. See look alive.

look slippery. To be quick: see slippery, adj. (Ware, 1909, considers it essentially naval.) look slippy. See slippy.

look spare. See spare, adj., 1.

look-stick. A telescope: RN: late C.19–20. (Bowen.) Cf. look-see, 2, and looking-stick, q.v.

look through a glass. To become tipsy: low coll.: ca. 1840–1920.

look through a hempen window. To be hanged: coll.: ca. 1625–1700.

look through the wood. To stand in the pillory: late C.18–mid-19. Grose, 2nd ed.

look to be. To seem (as if); to look as though (it) will; as, e.g., a sports commentator about an approaching success, 'Oh, and it looks to be a good one... Yes! He's scored!'; hence, also, in political comment, 'The Prime Minister looks to be set for a clash with...': in sporting circles since ca. 1976; extensions since ca. 1979. Perhaps ex the idiolect or dial. usage of some individual commentator. (P.B.)

look to (or watch, someone's) water (for him). To follow a person's movements, watch him very closely: coll. (semi-proverbial): from ca. 1540: in C.19–20, dial. only. Heywood, 1546; Manley, The New Atlantis. (Apperson).

look towards (one). To drink his health: low coll.: 1848, Thackeray; ob. See also looks towards.

look-up; occ. look-in. A short visit: coll.:—1923 (Manchon). Ex sense 2 of:

look up, v.i. To improve: s. >, in C.20, coll. (in C.19, mainly commercial): 1822, Examiner, 'Foreign Securities are generally looking up.' OED.—2. V.t., to visit, gen. informally: coll.: since later C.18. In Sessions, Jan. 1788 (p. 159). Dickens, in Pickwick, 'He used to go back for a week, just to look up his old friends.'

look up nor-west-and-by-well. To look cheerful: naval (? gen. nautical): late C.18–mid 19. W.N. Glascock, Sailors and Saints (I, 210), 1829. "Never mind that, boy," cried Cheerly, the captain's coxswain, "It can't be so bad with us either, for you see the skipper still looks up nor-west-and-by-well." (Moe.) Perhaps 'by-all's-well'.

look upon a hedge. To urinate or defecate (in the open air): euph. coll.: C.20. (E. Arnot Robertson, Four Frightened People, 1931.) An Elizabethan relic? See also look at the crops.

look what the cat's brought in! See like something the cat has brought in. Also see what the cat's...

look who it isn't! Facetious greeting on surprise meeting, or when someone joins a group: mostly teenagers', church circles': mid-C.20. Cf. do you see what I see! (P.B.)

look you! See look here!; see esp. DCpp. for its use as a stereotype Welsh characteristic, by non-Welshmen.

looker. A pretty girl: coll.: since ca. 1920. Short for good-looker. 'I say, she's a real looker—oh, boy! what a smasher!'

looker-out. A cab-rank attendant: taxi-drivers' coll.: since ca. 1905. Herbert Hodge, Cab, Sir?, 1939.

looking all ways for Sunday. Bewildered; stupefied; stupid: North Country: late C.19–20. Cf. look nine ways...

looking as if (one) could not help it. Looking like a simpleton or a faint-heart: coll.: late C.18–early 20. Grose.

looking as if he hadn't got his right change. Mad- or wild-looking: Cockneys':—1909 (Ware).

looking as if he'd left the room too late. I.e. as if he had been taken short: partly joc. and partly euph.: since ca. 1950. (Petch, 1970.)

looking for a big penny for a little ha'penny. A North of England coll., almost a c.p., applied to those who always want the best of a bargain: late C.19–20.

looking for maidenheads. A lower-class c.p. directed at people looking for something unprocurable or, at the least, very scarce: since ca. 1890.

looking-glass. A chamber-pot: ca. 1620–1830, then dial.; N.B. the EDD entry. (Beaumont & Fletcher; B.E.; Grose.) Prob. ex the attention paid to it by physicians.

looking like a bit of chewed string. Version of feel like a boiled rag, q.v.

looking like a kookaburra that has swallowed the kangaroo. Looking delighted: Aus.: since the 1930s. Philip Howard, in a review in The Times, 24 Mar. 1977.

looking lively. Slightly intoxicated: coll.: late C.19–20. Lyell.

looking seven ways for Sunday. Squinting: London lower and lower-middle classes': late C.19–20. (Ware.) Cf. look nine ways, q.v.

looking-stick. 'Binoculars (rather surprisingly not telescope): RN: 1970s' (Peppitt). A pun on S.E. walking-stick. But see also look-stick.

looking up your kilt(s), here's. A facetious toast: poss. orig. Aus., but also Brit.: B., 1942; Posy Simmonds, 1979.

lookit! Look!: Can. children's: since ca. 1950. A slovening of 'Look at it!' Adopted ex US, where so much used that Charles Schulz could draw a cartoon in which one of his 'Peanuts' children, urged to 'Lookit, lookit!', responds irritably 'I am lookiting!' See also gee, lookit! (P.B.)

looks good, (it). It looks very promising (to me): coll.:

adopted, ex US, ca. 1918. (OED Sup.) P.B.: also as in sports jargon, 'things are looking good for this top player now'. looks like a wet week-end. An Aus. c.p., used—since ca. 1930—by girls menstruating at week-end, and, since late 1930s, by (mostly teenage) males to a girls carrying a parcel that may well, to judge by its size, contain a box or carton of sanitary pads. A pun on a var. of wet week, q.v.

looks towards you! I. Your good health!: lower classes' coll.: mid-C.19–20. See look towards.—2. Hence, I congratulate you!: lower classes' ironic c.p.:—1923 (Manchon).

looksee. See look-see.

loon, v. To fool about, like a lunatic: the underground, since early 1960s; by 1970, more gen. (Groupie, 1968.) P.B.: E.P. emphasises lunatic, but there is prob. influence from the Scot. and dial. n. loon and, since the term is adopted ex US, from the bird-name. The hippy penchant for play survives in the way sisters [in the Women's Lib movement] enjoy "bopping" and "looning" together, that is, dancing and clowning around for fun' (Angela Carter, 'The Language of Sisterhood' in The State of the Language, 1980). Cf.:-

loon about. Extension of prec., as in "OK, girls, just loon about and sign a few autographs," said the producer for Radio Orwell... (Andrew Duncan, 'Undumb Blondes', Telegraph Sunday mag., 23 Dec. 1979).

loon shit. 'The mud or muck on the bottom of a pond' (Robin Leech, 1974): (mainly Eastern) Can.: C.20.

looney. See loony.

Loonies. 'Bootham Park Asylum; that end of the playing pitches': Bootham School:—1925 (Bootham). Ex loony, n.

loonslate, loonslatt. Thirteen pence halfpenny: c.: late C.17–18. (B.E.) Cf. hangman's wages, q.v. B. & L. record the term, erroneously, as loon-flat.

loony (also loonie, looney, lunny), n. A fool; a lunatic: proletarian coll.:—1869 (EDD). Ex lunatic influenced by loon.

loony, adj. (with var. as prec.). Crazy: proletarian coll.: since 1872. Hence be taken loony, to go crazy, mad: id.: late C.19–20. A Neil Lyons, Arthur's, 1914, 'Took looney, or what is it?' (Manchon). Cf. dippy, dotty, potty.

loony-bin. A lunatic asylum: orig. Cockneys', since ca. 1890; by mid-C.20 very widespread, and also Aus.

loop, n. In up the loop, mad: army: late C.19—early 20. Frank Richards, 'The doctors were undecided as to whether he had lost his mental balance or not. A lot of us believed that he was really up the loop from having played at it so long.' Prob. by a fusion of loopy and up the pole.—2. (?) Hence, a fool; a simpleton: Aus. low: since ca. 1920. B., 1942.—3. Short for loop the loop, 1.

loop-liner. A short pint, sold at about three-quarters of the price of a full pint: Anglo-Irish, esp. Dubliners': from ca. 1920; ob. A play on porter, the short pint being invariably of this beverage: the Loop Line, running through the centre of the city of Dublin, is an accommodation line linking two systems; similarly a loop-liner is an accommodation porter that lacks the dignity of a full pint.

loop off. To run away: c.: C.18. James Dalton, A Narrative, 1728, 'To loop off with the Cole'. A corruption of lope.

loop-the-loop. Soup: rhyming s., Aus. and Brit.: C.20. 'Gimme some more loopers' (Rhyming Cockney Slang, ed. Jack Jones, 1971).—2. (Also written loop-de-loop.) 'Soixante-neuf': since late 1950s. Landy, 1971.

loopy. Slightly mad: s. (or coll.): late C.19–20. ?ex looby, q.v., influenced by ironic allusion to Scots loopy, crafty. Occ. looby.—2. In go loopy, to become very excited, esp. angry, to 'get mad': schoolgirls': later C.20. (Miss Brigid Irwin, 1980.)

loos-wallah. A rascal; a thief: army: late C.19–20. (F. & G.) In Hindustani, 'thief-fellow'.

loose. (Of time) not strictly observed: coll.: late C.19—early 20. 'Breakfast is not on the table till a loose ten' (Sir H. Maxwell, 1892: OED).—2. On the loose, earning money by prostitution: low coll.: from ca. 1860. B. & L.—3. On the loose, out of prison: proletarian. mid-C.19–20. Ibid.—4. Hence, loose, absent without leave: NZ army: 1915–18. P.B.: and prob. other English-speaking armies over a wider time-span.—5. On the loose, on a drinking bout: Aus.: C.20. (B., 1942.) Hence, by diminution, merely 'on a quite innocent spree': coll.: C.20.—6. In let loose, to express one's anger or other emotion freely, to 'let fly': coll.:—1939. Dal'Stevens, The Courtship of Uncle Henry, 1946.—7. In run loose, (of a horse) to race unbacked: the turf: 1884 (Hawley Smart).—8. In turned loose, (of a horse) handicapped at a very low rate: the turf: late C.19—early 20.—9. See fast and loose; screw loose.

loose a fiver. (To have) 'to pay extravagantly for any pleasure or purchase': proletarian:—1909 (Ware).

loose-box. A carriage kept for a kept woman's use: C.19. Cf. mot-cart.

loose end. A late C.19—early 20 var. of loose fish, 2. Manchon.—2. In at a († after or on a) loose end, not regularly employed; not knowing what to do, or not having anything particular to do—the latter senses derive from the first: coll. ex dial. (OED); at a... recorded first in 1860. Ex freedom from tether (Ware). Cf. at loose ends, neglected (of persons); (of things) precarious: coll.: later C.19—early 20. Orig. nautical, of an unattached rope (Ware).—3. In leave (a matter) at a loose end, to leave it unsettled: coll.: from ca. 1864. Ex at loose ends.

loose ends. See prec., 2.

loose fish. A harlot: coll.: C.19. Moe cites The Port Folio, 19 Nov. 1803, p. 375, and 11 Oct. 1806, p. 219.—2. A person of irregular, esp. of dissipated habits: coll.: 1827, Egan, 'Known among the loose-fish who frequent races by the name of thimble-ig.'—3. An independent member: Parliament: 1864; ob. by 1930.

loose French. (Gen. loosing F.) To use violent language in English: urban (mostly Cockney): ca. 1890–1915. Ware.

loose hold. To let go: coll.: from ca. 1695. (Dryden.) Cf. leave go, q.v.

loose-hung. (Of persons) unsteady: low coll.: from ca. 1820; ob. by 1930. Cf.:-

loose in the hilt(s). Unsteady; conjugally unfaithful: coll.: mid-C.17—early 18. Cf.:-

loose in the (or her) rump. (Of women) wanton: coll.: C.18—mid-19. D'Urfev.

loose off, v.i. and v.t. To fire a machine-gun or rounds therefrom: RAF: since ca. 1938. (Jackson.) Of American origin.

loose (or loosen) out. To unspan a team (of, e.g., draught cattle): Aus. coll.: mid-C.19–20. 'Tom Collins', Such Is Life, 1903 (both forms). Cf. S. African outspan.

loose screw, a. Var. of (a) screw loose, 1: 1821 (Pierce Egan, Life in London).

loose-wallah. Occ. var. of loos-wallah, q.v. B. & P. loosen (a person's) hide. To thrash. Daily Chronicle, 11 Apr. 1902 (OED).

loosies. 'Cigarettes bought "individually" are called loosies because they are bought loose, or at least [they] were when I was not much younger' (Peter F. Holt, London, in a letter to the Guardian, 1978).

loot, n. Pillage; plunder: 1788: military coll. >, ca. 1870, S.E. Ex Hindustani lut, but prob. influenced by lootie, a native irregular of India, hence a bandit. See esp. Y. & B.—2. A lieutenant: late C.19–20 naval and military. (Bowen; B. & P.) Ex mispron. as lootenant. Cf. luff, loo, louie, etc.—3. 'Scottish slang for money received on pay day' (H. & P.): adopted by the Services, ca. 1925; in later C.20, gen. and widespread, usu. joc., as 'hard earned loot' (Time Out, 30 May 1980). 'The money in the "game" or business: since late 1940s' (L.A., 1976).—4. Wedding presents, esp. those garnered collectively: Aus. joc.: since late 1940s. (B.P.) loot, v. To plunder; carry off as booty: from ca. 1840: military coll. >, ca. 1870, S.E. The same ascent characterises looter and looting.

lop, n. A slight choppyness of the sea: RN: late C.19–20. (Granville.) Cf. N. Country lope, v.i., 'to curdle'.—2. A wave that, in a choppy sea, is 'big enough to break inboard in a rowboat or dory' (Leechman): Newfoundland coll.: late

C.19–20.—3. A penny: Anglo-Irish:—1935. Perhaps ex dial. lop, a flea: cf. the fig use of flea-bite.

lop in. See lob in, 2, and contrast:

lop it out. To expose one's penis for medical inspection: low: since ca. 1930.

lope. To run; run away: from ca. 1570: S.E. till ca. 1690, then s. and dial. B.E.; Grose, 'He loped down the dancers'.—2. To steal: c.:—1874 (H., 5th ed.).

loper. Abbr. landloper, q.v.

loppy, n. A station 'rouseabout': Aus. rural: since late C.19. Wilkes.

loppy, adj. Louse-infested; infected: Services': ca. 1930–45. (H. & P.) Ex Yorkshire dial. loppy, 'flea-ridden'.

lor', Lor'! A slovenly form of Lord: low coll.: 1835 (SOD). Cf. law, q.v.

lor (or Lor')-a-mussy! Lord have mercy! (= surprise): low coll.: 1865 (prob. much earlier). Dickens. Cf. Lord-a-mercy!, q.v. OED.

lord. A hunchback: late C.17–20; ob. B.E.; Lamb, 'A deformed person is a lord.' A hunchback used often to be addressed as my lord. Perhaps ex Gr. λορδός, bent backward, a technical and medical term. Cf. lady, q.v.—2. An occ. abbr. of lord of the manor, q.v.—3. See also drink like a lord; swear like a cutter: all intensives of the v.

Lord! In C.14–16, dignified; in C.17–20, trivial when not profane. Shakespeare, 'O Lord, I must laugh' (SOD).

Lord-a-mercy (on us)! 'The Lord have mercy (on us)!' as an exclam. of surprise: low coll. when not sol.: C.19–20. Eleanor Smith, 1808, 'Lord-a-mercy upon those that had a hand in such a business' (OED).

Lord Adam Gordon's Lifeguards. The 3rd Hussars: military coll.: late C.18—early 20. (F. & G.) They served as escorts to Lord Adam Gordon, in 1782–98, commanding the Forces in Scotland.

Lord Aggie! Var. of Gawd Aggie!: Aus.: C.20. (B.P.)

lord and master, my or the. Husband, as in 'My lord and master will soon be home—and hungry': feminine joc. coll.: since ca. 1910. (B.P.)

Lord Baldwin is dead. Var. of Queen Anne is dead, q.v.

Lord George, the. The Lloyd George old age pension: working-class sol.: from ca. 1917. (M. Harrison, 1935.)

Lord Harry. See old Harry.—2. By the Lord Harry!, exclam., perhaps joc. ex app. later old Harry, the Devil: later C.17—early 20. (Congreve, Byron, Besant: OED). Moe cites an earlier appearance, in Thomas Betterton's comedy The Revenge, pub'd 1680.

Lord have mercy (upon me). The 'ilic passion', a 'colic' of the small guts: late C.16–17 medical coll. used, according to Junius' Nomenclator, by 'the homelier sort of Physicians'. OED.

Lord Haw-Haw. See Haw-Haw.

Lord John Russell. A bustle or dress-improver: rhyming s.:—1859; ob. by 1900. Lord John Russell (1792–1878) was twice Prime Minister, mid-C.19. Occ. just Lord Russell.

Lord Kelvin's balls. Two large spheres of soft iron set on either side of a ship's binnacle. By [adjustment of] their position, they compensate the compass for the effects of magnetism in the ship's hull. Nautical colloquial [rather, s.], certainly C.20 [perhaps late C.19–20], from the inventor. It is said that lady passengers visiting the bridge were sometimes shown the balls as evidence that the ship was a "mail" packet! (Claiborne, 1976). William Thomson (1824–1907), created 1st Baron Kelvin, invented and improved, esp. during the 1870s, several devices invaluable to mariners.

Lord knows how or what or who, the. Some person or thing of unspecified but considerable potentialities; phrases indicative of irritation, wonderment, admiration, or, as gen., the completeness of one's own ignorance. Coll.: late C.17–20. Gentleman's Journal, Mar. 1691–2, 'Here's novels, and new-born adventures . . . and the Lord knows what not.' In C.20, usu.—but, I believe, wrongly—held to be S.E.

Lord love a duck! A mild, mostly proletarian expletive: C.20. 'Taffrail', The Sub, 1917. Cf.:-

Lord love us! A joc., also a low coll., form of Lord love me! (itself trivial): late C.19–20.

Lord love you! A mild expletive: coll.: late (? mid-)C.18–20. L.L.G., 6 Dec. 1823 (Moe).

Lord Lovel. A shovel: rhyming s.:—1857 ('Ducange Anglicus').

Lord lumme or lummy! See lumme!

Lord Mansfield's teeth. The spikes along the top of the wall of the King's Bench Prison: ca. 1790–1830. Ex Sir Charles Mansfield (1733–1821), Lord Chief Justice.

lord mayor, n. A large crowbar: c.:—1889 (D.C. Murray). Opp. alderman.

lord mayor, v. To swear: rhyming s.: late C.19–20. B. & P.

lord mayor's coal. A (piece of) slate: coll.: ca. 1840–80. Barham.

Lord Mayor's fool, like my or the. Fond of everything good: proverbial coll.: from ca. 1670. Ray; H. Kingsley in Geoffrey Hamlyn: † by 1910. Often as the Lord Mayor's fool, who likes everything that is good. Swift has like my Lord Mayor's fool, full of business and nothing to do. Apperson.

Lord Mayor's men. Recruits to the Navy via City Magistrates' Court: late C.18—mid-19. 'Jack Nastyface', Nautical Economy, 1836. (Peppitt.)

Lord Muck. A person unjustifiably, or in the speaker's opinion unjustifiably, important or esteemed: (low) coll.: from the 1890s. The female complement is, of course, Lady Muck.

Lord Nelson. 1 cwt 1 qr 1 lb, or three ones: London warehousemen's: since ca. 1870. Of the same origin as Three Ones.

Lord Northumberland. See Northumberland's arms.

lord of the foresheet. A sailing-ship's cook: joc. nautical: late C.19–20. Bowen.

lord of the manor. A 'tanner' (q.v.), i.e. sixpence: rhyming s.:—1839 (Brandon); H., 1st ed. This is the earliest record of a rhyming s. term; its inclusion, in Brandon, moreover, significantly implies that 'Ducange Anglicus', 1857, was right in classifying all such terms as c.

Lord Russell. Occ. var. of Lord John Russell. Franklyn 2nd.

Lord Wellington's Bodyguard. The 5th Foot Regiment, in late C.19–20 the Northumberland Fusiliers: military: 1811, when they 'furnished the guard at Wellington's headquarters'; ob. by early C.20. F. & G.

lords, the. The first cricket eleven: Winchester College: from ca. 1860; ob. by 1930.

Lord's My Shepherd, the. A pun on the initials of the London, Midland & Scottish Railway: railwaymen's: 1923–48 was the period of the company's existence. Railway, 2nd.

Lord's Own, the. HMS Vengeance: RN: C.20. Bowen, 'Vengeance is Mine, saith the Lord'.

lordsake. For the Lord's sake: Scots coll.: from ca. 1860. OED.

lordy! or Lordy! Lord!: (dial. and) low coll.: mid-C.19–20. Cf. lawl, lawkl, lor'. Abbr.:

Lordy me! A (dial. and) low coll. corruption of Lord (have or help me: C.19–20. Ware.

lorry. See fell off a lorry, an implication of theft.—2. Motoring enthusiasts' pej. term for a dull car: later C.20. 'I do not share his enthusiasm for the MGC [sports car]—which we all consider a sluggish lorry . . .' (Editor, Motor, 18 Apr. 1981: P.B.).

lorry-hopping. Obtaining a ride in a lorry when one would otherwise have had to walk; gen. by stopping the driver and asking his permission, but occ. by clambering aboard as it is in progress; practised esp. on a pleasure-jaunt: army: WW1, from 1915. (F. & G.) From 1916 also as v., either lorry-hop (v.i.) or lorry-hop it; e.g. 'I lorry-hopped (it) to Amiens.'

lors! Lord!: low coll.: 1860 (George Eliot OED). Cf. laws!

lorst, in the. Engaged in shoplifting: c.: ca. 1850–1900. Burton, Vikram and the Vampire, 1870. (The term is suspect.)

lose, n. The act, or an instance, or losing (a horse-race): racing: 1884. OED.

lose, v.t. To be much superior to; overcome, defeat easily: coll.: C.20.

lose a meal. To vomit: Aus., joc. euph.: C.20. B., 1942.

lose (one's) arse. As in he would lose his arse if it were loose, a c.p. 'said of a careless person' (Grose, 2nd ed.): ca. 1780–1860; but in a more gen. form C.16. Cf. the C.20 you'd lose your head if it weren't screwed on!

lose (one's) bottle. See bottle, n. 4.

lose (one's) cool. To lose one's self-possession; to become nervous, (over-)excited, very angry: adopted, ex US, ca. 1955; in Aus., (?) a decade, later: hippy s. > gen. coll. Opp. keep (one's) cool. Cf. cool, adj., 7.

lose (one's) dash. To lose one's energy and ability: since ca. 1880: coll. >, by 1930, S.E.

lose (one's) hair. To lose one's temper: C.20.: orig. s. >, early 1930s, coll. Opp. keep (one's) hair on. Cf. synon, lose (one's) wool; keep (one's) wool on.

lose (one's) head. See lose (one's) arse ...

lose (one's) hook. To be demoted from Leading Seaman: RN: C.20. (Heart, 1962.) I.e. the anchor badge of rank. (P.B.)

lose it. To come off one's motorcycle accidentally: motorcyclists': later C.20. (Dunford.)

lose (one's) legs. To become tipsy: ca. 1770–1930. Cf. later C.20 legless, drunk.

lose (one's) name or (earlier) number or monnickex. To be 'crimed', charged with a Service 'crime': army: C.20; the name form since ca. 1920. The latter perhaps from the inspecting officer's formula to the accompanying NCO, 'Take his name, Sergeant!', when charging a man in the ranks with, e.g., having an 'idle' (i.e. dirty) bayonet. (B. & P.; P.B.) See monaker, 3, and ARMY SLANG, verse 1, in Appendix.

lose out, v.i. To lose; be swindled or merely fooled: coll.: Aus.: late C.19–20. SOD records it in sense of 'to fail' as US, 1889. In later C.20 also Brit., and, as v.t., lose out on.

lose (one's) punch. To lose one's energy and ability: since ca. 1900: coll. >, by 1930, S.E.

lose (one's) rag. To lose one's temper: Glasgow, —1934, > more gen. widespread. Ex get (one's) rag out, to bluster or grow angry.

lose (one's) ring. See ring, n. 4.

lose (one's) shirt. See shirt, 2.

lose the match and pocket the stake(s). (Of women only) to coit: low: C.19–early 20.

lose the number of (one's) mess. To die; to be killed. See mess, n., 4.

lose the run of (one's)self. To lose one's self-control; to 'run amok': Anglo-Irish. David Gardner notes hearing, 9 Nov. 1978, the phrase 'Don't lose the run of yourself' used facetiously on an RTE phone-in programme, to a quiz-contestant who had just won a small sum of money.

lose the ship for a ha'porth of tar. See spoil the ship ...

lose (one's) vest. To get angry: low: ca. 1890–1910. A mere elab. of get (one's) shirt out: cf. shirty.

loser. A handicap, obstacle, disappointment: low: from ca. 1920. (Gilt Kid, 1936, 'It was a bit of a loser, feeling bored before the trial had started.') losh! Lord!: C.19–20. Cf. gosh! P.B.: in C.20 considered to be mainly Scot.

loss-leader. Something displayed prominently, and at cut-price rate, to encourage further buying of other stock: Can.: C.20. (Leechman.) Prob. ex US (SOD); by early 1970s Brit. commercial j. Cf. draw-boy. (P.B.)

lost it, he's. He is in a bad temper: Charterhouse: C.20. I.e. lost his temper.

lost lemon. See standing about ...

lost the key of the 'angar door. An RAF c.p.: from ca. 1930. (Flying Officer B.J. Hurren, Stand Easy, 1934.) Ex a topicality explained in that book.

lot, n. A group of associated persons, or of things of the same kind: from ca. 1570: S.E. until ca. 1875, then (except for merchandise and live stock) coll. W. Benham, 1879, 'Their crew seem to have been a lazy lot' (OED). P.B.: in mid- and later C.20 much favoured by Service NCOs for such orders as 'Right, you lot! Outside—on the double!' A useful group-vocative.—2. A person, gen. pej. as in a bad lot, or ironically as in a nice lot: from ca. 1846: coll. >, in C.20, S.E. Thackeray, in Vanity Fair, (à propos of Miss Sharp) 'A bad lot, I tell you, a bad lot'. Ex the auction-room (W.).—3. Independently, as in 'I know the lot you mean, I was there' (Sessions, 17 Feb. 1902), or (ironically/sarcastically) 'Yes, I was in the Suez do of '56—nice little lot that was!' (P.B.): coll.—4. In the (whole) lot, the whole of a stated quantity or number: coll. OED quotes Mrs Henry Wood, 1867, 'He's crunching the lot' (a quart of gooseberries).—5. In red lot and white lot, resp. a gold and a silver watch: c.:—1933 (Charles E. Leach). Tempest, 1950, lists 'the lot. Watch and chain together'. See red, adj., and white, 3.—6. In hot lot, a var. of hot member, q.v.—7. A taxicab: taxi-drivers': since ca. 1915. Herbert Hodge, Cab, Sir?, 1939. Ex the auction-room sense.—8. (With possessive pronoun—his, your, etc.) A man's genitals: feminine: late C.19—early 20.—9. In do the lot, to lose all one's money: C.20 coll.—10. See that's your lot! and lots (which includes a lot).

lot, v. To allot: proletarian coll.: 1914+.

lot going for (one), to have a. See going for ...

Lothbury, go by way of. To be loth: coll.: ca. 1560–1660. (Tusser.) For punning topicalities, cf. Needham, Peckham, qq.v.

lotherwite. Corrupt for lairwite (a fine for fornication or adultery): C.16–17. OED.

lotion. A drink—rarely of aught but liquor, and esp. of gin: 1876 (Hindley). Cf. † lotium, a low coll. form of lotion. P.B.: by later C.20, rather dated.

lotman. A pirate: nautical coll.: ? late C.18—mid-19. (Smyth; Bowen.) 'Alleged', says OED: but why should Admiral Smyth fabricate the word? Ex lot, a share (in the booty).

lots; a lot. Many; a considerable number or quantity: coll.: late C.18–20. By later C.20, verging on S.E. Boxiana, IV, 1824, 'Hundreds were seen scampering... lots looked like drowned rats.' A lot from ca. 1835. Also with adj. as in a good lot (Keble, 1835), a great lot; either with or absolutely. As adv., a good deal.

Lot's wife. Salt: nautical, late C.19—early 20; in early C.20 also army. (Bowen.) Cf. salt as Lot's wife's backbone, very salt. Ex the Biblical story.

Lottie. 'Inevitable' nickname of men surnamed Collins: Services': earlier C.20. (F. & G.) Ex the celebrated music-hall artist, Lottie Collins, who may also have given rise to:

Lotties. Female breasts: raffish: latish C.19—earlier 20. (Reminder by F. Leech, 1972.) Cf. prec. and-Lotties and Totties. Harlots: orig. (—1885) and mainly theatrical. (Ware.) Ex the frequency of those diminutives in that class.

lotus, n. and esp. v. (To) hocus: low rhyming s.: 1885. (Ware.) Influenced by locust.

loud. (Of dress or manners) showy: 1847 (Albert Smith, 'Very loud patterns'): coll. till C.20, then S.E. (As strong-smelling: S.E.; ob. by 1930, except in US.)

loud-mouth. One, usu. male, who speaks loudly, excessively and either boastfully or bullying or very indiscreetly: coll.: adopted, ca. 1944, ex US.

loud one, a. A big lie: coll.: ca. 1670–1850. Ray; Scott, in Ivanhoe, "'That's a lie, and a loud one," said the Friar.'—2. A noisy breaking of wind: low: mid-C.19–20.—3. A misfortune: army: WW1. Prob. ex the bursts of heavy shells. (F. & G.) Cf.:—4. A severe wound: army: WW1.

loud pedal. The accelerator: Aus. motorists': since ca. 1940. (B.P.) loudly. Showily, of dress or manners: 1849 (Thackeray): coll. till C.20, then S.E. OED.

louie (pron. looée). A lieutenant: Forces: adopted ca. 1939 from US.

Louis. A harlot's bully: low: adopted,—1935, ex US. Cf. Fr. Alphonse.

lounce, lownce. A drink: nautical: mid-C.19—early 20. Ex allowance, as is:—2. A ration of food: RN coll.: id. Manchon. lounge. A chief meal; a treat: Eton and Cambridge: 1844 (Disraeli); The Press, 12 Nov. 1864, 'I don't care for dinner ... Breakfast is my lounge.'—2. As a loitering-place, it is, despite Grose, S.E.—3. A lounge suit: C.20: tailors' coll., now verging on S.E. See, e.g., Tailor and Cutter, 29 Nov. 1928.—4. 'The prisoner's box in a criminal court' (B., 1942): Aus. c.: C.20. Ironic. lounge-lice. An Aus. var. (pl) of the next: since ca. 1930. Baker. lounge-lizard. A sleek adventurer frequenting lounges in the expectation of women, their money and caresses: US s. (1923), anglicised by 1925; by 1935, coll. (Krapp's prophecy as to its lack of viability has been proved false.) lounge Lizzie. A (usu. female) writer of gossip for a newspaper: journalistic, mainly: since ca. 1925. (Sydney Horler, The Dark Journey, 1938.) Ex prec. lour, loure, lowr(e). (See also loaver.) Money; in C.19, gen. of coin: c.: from ca. 1565. (Harman, Head; Grose; Brandon; Richardson, author of The Police, 1889). Ex C.14–16 S.E. lower, a reward, recompense, itself ex Old Fr. louier, a reward; cf. Romany loop, to plunder, and loopipen, plunder, booty. Hence gammy lour, counterfeit coin: c.:—1839 (Brandon). louse, n. See mean as a louse; prick a louse; three skips of a louse; skin a louse ...; not care or give a louse at not care ...; if a louse miss its footing ... louse, v. In he will never louse a grey head of his own, he will never live to be old: C.18—early 19 c.p. Grose.

louse-bag. 'A black bag worn to the hair or wig' (Grose, 1st ed.): coll.: ca. 1780–1830.—2. A term of opprobrium or deep scorn for a person: C.20. Gerald Kersh, Bill Nelson, 1942. louse-bound. 'Lousy' as a disparaging adj.: since ca. 1920. (T.C.H. Raper, 1973.) louse cage. A caboose: Can. railroadmen's:—1931. louse-house. A lock-up; a prison: late C.18—early 19. Grose, 1st ed. louse-ladder. 'A stitch fallen in a stocking' (Grose, 1st ed.): ca. 1780–1840. Extant in dial.—2. A run in a woman's stocking: since ca. 1935. Ex sense 1: either a revival or a subterranean survival. (These words which go underground for a generation or a century or even longer provide one of the prettiest puzzles in the whole network of a language.)
louse-ladders. Side-whiskers: since ca. 1920. Contrast prec. and cf. louse-traps.
Louse-Land, Louseland. Scotland: late C.17—early 19. (B.E.) Cf. Itchland. louse-preserver. A shirt(?): lowerdeck: C.19. Bill Truck, Jan. 1827. louse-trap. A fine comb: low: late C.17–20. In B.E., a Scotch l.-t.—2. A woollen body-belt or sheepskin coat: army: WW1. B. & P. louse-traps. Var. of louse-ladders, side-whiskers: C.20. (L.A., 1976.) Cf.:- louse-walk. A back-hair parting: low: ca. 1820–80. louse up. To ruin an opportunity, a plan, an operation; in short, to spoil anything: since ca. 1919. Ex the Tommy's vivid memories of WW1. Often as louse it up. louser. An objectionable person: Anglo-Irish: since ca. 1945. (Brian Moore, The Luck of Ginger Coffey, 1960.) One who louses things up. Rather, since ca. 1920, teste Nicholas Blake, The Private Wound, 1968, ref. the year 1939. lousie-look'd. I.e. lousy-looking. See EPIPHETS, in Appendix.
Lousy. The village of La Houssoye near Albert: Western Front military in WW1. lousy. Contemptible; mean; filthy: late C.14–20: S.E. till C.20, when, esp. after WW1, coll. and used as a mere pej.—2. (Of paint) full of skin from too long keeping: painters': later C.19—early 20. lousy as a bandicoot, (as). Extremely lousy (lit. sense): Aus. coll.: since ca. 1916. (B., 1943.) Cf.:-
lousy as a cuckoo, (as). Brit. army var. of prec.: since ca.

1915. (B. & P.) Cf. the Yorkshire phrase as scabbed as a cuckoo (EDD).

Lousy Brown, the. The Rose and Crown (tavern or inn): rhyming s., esp. Londoners': C.20. (Frankly, Rhyming.) Brown here = brown ale.

lousy with. Full of: 1915: orig. military, as in 'lousy with guns'; esp. in 'lousy with money'. Ex the prevalence of lice.

Lousy Wood. Leuze Wood, the scene of fierce fighting on the Somme in 1916: military: late 1916–18. (F. & G.) By Hobson-Jobson. Cf. Lousy.

lout, 'a heavy idle Fellow' (B.E.): S.E.—2. Anyone of the poorer classes: Rugby School: from ca. 1855; ob. T. Hughes in Tom Brown's Schooldays.

louter. A professional thief and thug: c.:—1923 (Manchon). Perhaps ex prec.

lovanenty!; occ. lov(e)anendie! A C.19–20 Scots coll. exclamation of surprise.

love, no score, is S.E.—2. An endearing term for a person or a thing; a 'duck': coll.: 1814, Jane Austen, 'The garden is quite a love.' OED.

love a duck! (Usu. prec. Cor, Lor(d) or Gawd, and occ. spelt luvvaduck.) A mild proletarian expletive: C.20. The var. spelling by, e.g., Will Scott in the Humorist, 7 Apr. 1934.

love-bubbles. Female breasts of a pleasing contour: army (not very common): since ca. 1930.

love-curls. Hair that, cut short, is worn low over the forehead: Society coll.: ca. 1880–1914. (Ware.) Cf. kiss-curls.

love 'em and leave 'em, adj. and n. Given to philandering; a philanderer: coll.: late C.19–20. Cf. love you ...

love-in. 'A gathering associated with groovy scene' (Peter Fryer, in Observer colour sup., 3 Dec. 1967): beatniks' and then hippies': since early 1960s. On analogy of the prototypical -in compounds sit-in and teach-in. Cf. think-in.

love in a punt. Very weak beer; orig. and specifically 'a brew sold in the Portsmouth area (mid-1950s)': RN lowerdeck. 'That is, fucking-near-water', as a correspondent told me in 1973. A double pun and prob. and allusion to cunt.

love-lane. The female pudend: C.19—early 20: low coll. verging on S.E. euph. Hence, a turn or an ejection in l.-lane, an act of copulation.

love-letter. (Gen. in pl.) A bill of exchange: bank-clerks': —1935. Ironic.

love of Mike! See for the love of Mike!

love-pot. A drunkard: C.19 coll. Cf. toss-pot and lushington.

love-truck. A 'small covered-in lorry' (New Statesman, 30 Aug. 1941): Services': WW2. Cf. passion-waggon, 2.

love-up, n. Intimate caresses; love-making: Aus. low coll.: C.20. Caddie, A Sydney Barmaid, 1953. 'Come on, what about a little bit of a love-up?' he went on.' Ex-love up, v. To caress intimately, make love to: Aus.: low coll.: C.20. K.S. Prichard, 'Two Men', in Kiss on the Lips, 1932.

love us!, Lord. See Lord love us!

love your heart!, or you or it, Lord. A low coll. exclamation. (cf. Lord love us!, q.v.): resp. 1833 (T. Hook), † by 1910; 1841, Lytton; 1843, Dickens. OED.

love you and leave you as sailors do their wives, I'll or I must. 'C.p., esp. between women at the end of chat when leaving. I heard my mother use it many years before (WW1); prob. Victorian' (L.A., 1974): coll.: late C.19–20. By mid-C.20, at latest, usu. shortened to (Well) I (or we) must love you and leave you, then. (P.B.)

loveage. Tap droppings, a mixture of spirits, sweetened and sold to habitual dram-drinkers, principally females' (H., 2nd ed.:—1860); †.

lovely, n. A very pretty girl: from ca. 1930. Ex—2. (Gen. pl.) A débutante; a young married woman in Society: from ca. 1926; ob. by 1939.

lovely, adj. Attractive, delightful; excellent: coll.: C.17–20. Markham, 1614; Walton, 'This trout looks lovely.'—2. Hence: well; fitting; satisfactory; as in 'How are you, then?'—'I'm lovely, ta'; or 'Here's your change, dear—'

'Lovely!'. In the latter it = almost 'thank you' in itself: coll.: since late 1970s. (P.B.) lovely and... See beautiful and...

lovely bit of boy. A Servicewomen's c.p. in approval of a man: WW2.

lovely drop of. See nice drop of.

lovely grub! Very nice indeed!: orig. Services', from 1939, the c.p. soon > very gen. and widespread: WW2+. It was applied to anything, from tasty food (grub) to a furlough or any other agreeable experience or thing. P.B.: orig. the c.p. of the 'Itma' character 'George Gorge', played by Fred Yule; see ITMA in Appendix.

lovely money. Good money; esp. plenty of money: Londoners: from ca. 1931.

lover, in address, was adopted, ca. 1965, ex US: coll., not s. Often it connotes little, or indeed nothing, more than 'man', as in Archie Hill, A Cage of Shadows, 1973, '[The landlord] grinned and fetched me a drink over. "Have that one on me, me lover," he said'. (L.A., 1976.) P.B.: but this could be West Country dial.

lover boy. 'Man of age and appearance to be disposed to love: sometimes mock-affectionate or contemptuous' (L.A., 1967); 'A would-be Romeo or one of the Casanova type' (Petch, 1969): coll. rather than s.: adopted, ca. 1960, ex US. lover under the lap. A Lesbian: Aus.: C.20. Not very gen. loverly. A late C.19-20 sol., also an ironically joc. s. form of lovely (q.v.), due partly to mis-pron., partly to S.E. loverly, like or in the manner of a lover. See also lully. Given impetus in later C.20 by Eliza Doolittle's song, 'Oh, wouldn't it be loverly' in the musical My Fair Lady, based on Shaw's Pygmalion.

lover's knot. In tie the true lover's knot, to copulate: C.19-early 20. ?Low coll. or euph. S.E. lover's leap. 'The first early-morning train from London to Portsmouth' (Granville): RN wardrooms': C.20.

lover's nuts. See blue balls.

lovey; in C.18, occ. lovy. A term of endearment; from ca. 1730: S.E. till ca. 1820, then increasingly coll. Fielding, 1731; Foote, 'I go, lovy.' Cf.:

lovely-dovey. An endearment, whether in address or in ref.: (low) coll.: 1819 (OED). A reduplication of prec. It may well have been current throughout C.18 as well, for Sessions, 1735, has "Why; Dovee," says she... In C.20, when not a genuine endearment, it tends to be used contemptuously, as in:- lovely-dovey stuff. 'Sentimental fiction published for the servant-girl type' (Petch, 1946): book-world coll.: since ca. 1925.

low, n. Opp. of high, n., in all senses: the very depths of depression, whether mental, physical, or of market or fortune generally: coll.: later C.20.

low or Low, adj. Low Church: coll.: 1854 (S. Wilberforce); 1881, Trollope, 'Among [these Low Church prelates] there was none more low, more pious, more sincere.' OED. —2. See lie low; for in low boost, see boost, n., 4.

low and slow. An epithet-c.p. applied to the Low Church: from ca. 1855; ob. Cf. high and dry, q.v.

low as... (, as). 'There's no way we're flying out of here today, the clouds are as low as a penguin's backside...' (Mike Harding, in Guardian, 22 Mar. 1981, reporting an observation by an Aus. pilot). Cf. lower than..., q.v.

low-brow (or solid), n. and adj. One who is not, occ. one who does not claim to be, intellectual: orig. (1913), US; Anglicised (both n. and adj.) ca. 1923, as s.; by 1932, coll.; now almost S.E. (OED Sup.; Mencken's The American Language). Opp. highbrow, q.v.

low comedy. A low comedian: theatrical: 1884 (Jerome K. Jerome: OED). Prob. an abbr. of low-comedy merchant, a low comedian: recorded by Ware for 1883.

low countries, Low Countries. (Prec. by the.) The female pudend: low: C.17-mid-19. See, e.g., my Shakespeare's Bawdy.

Low-Country soldier. A good drinking companion; a 'good bloke': C.17. Perhaps ex prec. See TAVERN TERMS, §2, in Appendix.

low-down, the. A mean trick, as 'They did the low-down on him': C.20 s. >, by ca. 1935, coll.—2. Information, esp. incriminating or scandalous: adopted, ex US, ca. 1930 as s.; by 1950, coll. K.G.R. Browne, in the Humorist, 28 July 1934, 'He will lurk for days in the most unlikely places... to get the low-down on the home-life and marital customs of the pink-chested buzzard or the mottled wattle-rat.'

low flying. 'No speed limits enforced now [during the guerrilla war], so you put your foot down and hope for the best. The Rhodesians call it "low flying"' (Listener, 9 Nov. 1978); travelling along the roads as fast as possible to avoid being shot: pre-Zimbabwe Rhodesia.

low Fulhams. See low men.

low lag, on the. In extreme destitution; in lowest beggary; with appalling bad luck; in utter despair: c.: ca. 1820-80. Opp. high gag.

low-heel. A prostitute: Aus.: C.20. B., 1942.—2. A dead-beat: Aus.: since ca. 1920.

low in the lay. Almost, or quite, penniless: c.: 1830 (Lytton); ob. by 1930.

low man. A Junior as contrasted with a Senior Optime or Wrangler: Cambridge University: from ca. 1850.

low men. False dice so loaded as to show low numbers: late C.16-19: prob. orig. c., but by 1700 prob. S.E. (Nashe, Florio.) Also low Fulhams (later C.17-early 19) and low-runners (C.17-18), the latter being almost certainly c.

low pad. A footpad: c. of mid-C.17-mid-19. (Head, Grose, Ainsworth.) Contrast high pad, q.v., and see also pad, n. and v.

Low Road, the. The 'Glasgow line via Dalry' (Railway, 2nd): mid-C.20. Prob. ex the famous Scot. song, 'Ye take the high road, and I'll take the low road...'

low-runners. See low men.

low tide or water, be at, in. To be in difficulties, rarely other than monetary: coll.: resp. late C.17-early 19, late C.18-20 (in C.20, S.E.) B.E.; Dickens, 'I'm at low-water mark, only one bob and a magpie.' Nautical in origin: stranded by ebbing tide (W.).

low toby and low-toby man. See toby.

lowance. A coll. form of allowance: esp. nautical: mid-C.19-20. Manchon.

lowbrow. See low-brow.

lowdah. 'A native pilot in Eastern waters': nautical coll. verging on j.: late C.19-20. (Bowen.) ? ex Hindustani.

lowex. To drink (a glassful, etc.); low coll.: C.19-20.

lower regions. Hell: from ca. 1870: coll. >, ca. 1915, S.E.

Lower Tartary. See Upper Tartary. (Also called Botany Bay and Hell: Spy, 2, 1826.)

lower than a snake's belly. Despicable: Aus. coll.: since ca. 1920. (Wilkes quotes Leonard Mann, Flesh in Armour, 1932.) Adopted by Brit. Services, WW2, with var. ... snake's hips; hence, since ca. 1945, the shortened form, lower than a snake and, since ca. 1947, the derivative he'd (or he could) crawl under a snake's belly with a top hat on. (L.A., 1959.)

lowerdeck wireless. 'The grapevine': RN: ca. 1910-40. (Mark Bennett, Under the Periscope, 1919.) A naval shape of bush telegraph.

lowerdeckese. The slang used by the lowerdeck (non-commissioned officers and men): RN officers' coll. (since ca. 1900) >, by 1945, S.E. (Granville.) lowest form of animal life, the. A reporter; journalistic: since ca. 1925.—2. Hence, an Aircraftman, 2nd Class: RAF: since ca. 1935.—3. Hence, joc. for apprentices, trainees, office boys et hoc genus omne: since ca. 1945.

lowie. A prostitute: low Aus.: since ca. 1930. Cf. low-heel, 1. Kylie Tennant, The Joyful Condemned, 1953.

lowing(-)cheat or (-)chete. A cow: c.: ca. 1560-1750. (Harman.) See cheat.

lowing-lay or -rig. The stealing of cattle, esp. cows: c. of ca. 1810-60. (Lex. Bal.) See lay and rig.

lowlands, the. The female pudend: low: late C.18–mid-19. Cf. Low Countries.

lownce. See lounce, and cf. lowance.

lowr(e). See lour.

lowze (occ. written lowse). A whistle indicating the end of a shift; knocking-off time: N. Country miners': late C.19–20. Ex loose?

Loyal Standbacks, the. See Indispensables.

Loyals, the. The 81st Foot, in late C.19–20 the Loyal (North Lancashire), Regiment: military coll.: from the mid-1790s. (F. & G.) Ex the regimental motto.

lozenge. (Gen. pl.) A bullet, from rifle, revolver, or pistol: army: C.19–early 20. Moe cites John L. Gardner, The Military Sketch-Book (II, 17), 1831, thus. 'The French ... opened fire on us, which knocked many a poor fellow off the hooks, and we fell back ... for we were only treating the enemy with a few steel lozenges.' Cf. leaden pill.

lubber, n. A sailor: early C.18. See OCCUPATIONAL NAMES, in Appendix.—2. A black-marketeer in furniture: furniture trade: mid-1940s. (John Bull, 1 Apr. 1944.) Cf. synon. dabblers.

lubber's(-)hole; until ca. 1830, occ. lubber-hole. An opening in the mainport, preferred by tyros and timids to the shrouds: from ca. 1770; ob. by 1910: nautical s. >, ca. 1840, coll. >, ca. 1880, S.E. Captain Cook; Wolcot; D. Jerrold, 'Go up through the futtock-shrouds like a man—don't creep through lubber's-hole.' OED.—2. Hence, any cowardly evasion of duty: nautical:—1860; ob. H., 2nd ed.

lube. Lubrication, as in 'a lube job': motorists': since ca. 1920; by 1950, coll.—2. 'A drink, esp. of beer' (B., 1959): Aus.: since late 1940s. Lubrication of the throat.

luba. A woman: low pej. coll.: late C.19–20 rural Aus. Ex the 'standard' sense, a black woman, recorded first in 1834. Much less gen. than gin, q. v. Morris.—2. (In game of bridge) a Yarborough: Aus. rhyming s.: since ca. 1926. B., 1942.

lubricate. (Of the male) to copulate with: raffish London: C.18–early 19. Boswell's London Journey.—2. To ply (someone) with drink; v. i., to drink: since ca. 1880; by 1940, ob.; by 1960, virtually †. Hence, (well) lubricated, (very) drunk: C.20. Cf. (well) oiled.

luck. (Often good luck.) A treading in (esp. human) dung; a beraying: C.18–early 19. (Grose.) Cf. shitten luck, good luck: ca. 1670–1830. Ex the proverb, 'shitten luck is good luck.' (Ray, Grose.) Cf. the belief that a bird's droppings falling on a person confer good luck on him.—2. In do (one's) luck or have done ... , to lose or have lost one's good fortune: Aus.: C.20. (C. J. Dennis.) Do here in the sense of 'lose or forfeit' (Wilkes); cf. do the lot, to lose all one's money.—3. In down on (occ. in, one's) luck, unlucky; impoverished: from ca. 1848: s. till ca. 1920, then coll. Thackeray, 'When Mrs C. was particularly down on her luck, she gave concerts and lessons in music.'—4. Fisherman's luck, the being wet, hungry, and 'fishless': coll.: from ca. 1855.—5. Greasy luck, a full cargo of oil: whalers': from ca. 1830.—6. In bad or good luck to (e.g., him, it), a c.p., pej. or approbatory (occ. ironically or joc. congratulatory): coll.: C.19–20.—7. In worse luck!, more's the pity! coll.: 1861 (Miss Yonge). OED.—8. See best of British luck.

luck, fuck, and a fiver! A prostitutes' toast in first decade, C.20. The 'fiver' is £5. luck of Eric Connolly, the. An Aus. 'byword for luck in betting; [he was] a noted punter (d. 1944)' (Wilkes): mid-C.20.

luck of a fat priest or of a pox doctor, the. 'Both said of one consistently and uncannily fortunate, esp. in gambling' (Cdr C. Parsons, RN, ret., 1973). Both go back to (I'd guess) mid-C.19; and both are semi-proverbial coll.

lucky, n. Plunder: c.: C.19–early 20. Mostly US.—2. A recruit: army: WW2. (Richard Cobb, A Sense of Place, 1975.) In a letter to P.B., 1981, Prof. Cobb amplifies: '[Luckies] was certainly the word in use in 1941–2 for new recruits. When we reached the entrance to Chestow ... initial training camp, we were greeted with "Come on you luckies" and of course ... we called our successors "luckies".' Prob. ex NCOs' ironic summons 'Come along, my lucky lads—let's be 'avin' you!'—3. In cut (one's) lucky, to decamp: low London: ca. 1820–1940. M.C. Dowling, 1834, 'You'd better cut your lucky.' A var. is make (one's) lucky; B., 1942, records the C.20 Aus. cap (one's) lucky.

lucky, adj. (Of persons) handy: C.18 coll. (The OED considers as S.E.)—2. See strike me lucky! and touch lucky.

lucky bag. The female pudend: mid-C.19–early 20: low. Punning the S.E. term.

lucky bone. The small bone of a sheep's head, this being considered a charm: c. (—1883). Sala in Illustrated London News, 10 Nov. 1883. Cf. S.E. wishbone or merrythought.

lucky Charlie. See getaway man.

lucky for some. 13 in game of House: C.20. Michael Harrison, Reported Safe Arrival, 1943. P.B.: more often unlucky for some. See TOMBOLA, in Appendix.

lucky lads, the. Those who were too young for WW1 and too old for WW2: coll., mainly during the latter. (Petch, 1969.)

lucky man, the. The bridegroom: coll.: late C.19–20. Used by women, not by men.

lucky old saddle! Rude boys' shout after girls on bicycles: C.20. (P.B.)

lucky old sergeant-major, the. The ace (shaped like a crown) in the game of CROWN AND ANCHOR (q. v. in Appendix): military: C.20. (F.&G.) Ex the sergeant-major's badge: a crown.

lucky piece. An illegitimate son (occ. daughter) by a well-to-do father, generous enough to set up the mother in comfort: lower classes' (esp. rural): late C.19–20. Lit., a lucky coin.

Lucy and Mary (or vice versa). The Lusitania and the Mauretania: nautical: ca. 1912–40.

Lucy Locket. Pocket: rhyming s.: later C.20. (Rhyming Cockney Slang, ed. Jack Jones, 1971.) Ex the well-known nursery rhyme.

lud! A trivial ejaculation: coll.: ca. 1720–1850. Ex Lord!—2. In address to a judge (my Lud or even m'Lud): a form so minced as to be coll. or, at the least, near-coll. ?recorded in law before 1898, Besant, "My Lud," said Mr. Caterham, "my case is completed" (OED). In the House of Lords, the clerks used my Lud as early as 1830 (Ibid.).

Ludgate, take. To go bankrupt: coll., mostly commercial: 1585, Higgins; † by 1700. Ludgate Prison was mainly for bankrupts and debtors. OED.

Ludgate bird. A person imprisoned for debt; a bankrupt: C.17. John Clarke, 1639.

Ludlam's dog. See lazy as Ludlam's ... dog.

Lud's bulwark. Ludgate Prison: c.: ca. 1690–1830. (B.E.) Cf. Ludgate, take.

luff, n. Speech, talk: low: ca. 1820–60. Egan, 1821, 'Hold your luff'.—2. A lieutenant: RN: C.19. (John Davis, The Post-Captain, 1806; E. Howard, 1836.) Cf. loo, loot, lowie, and see lufftackle, of which it may be a shortening.—3. In spring (one's) luff, q. v., to climb well.

luff, v. 'To do someone's work as well as your own [in order] to allow a workmate an early relief: Thames watermen' 1970s' (Peppitt)—and considerably earlier, I think. A pun on the S.E. nautical sense, (of ship) to turn against the wind or, of a seaman, so to turn it.

luffed in for, be. 'To be put in the way of something either pleasant or unpleasant. "We got luffed in for paint ship"' (Granville): RN: late C.19–20. Ex the S.E. senses—as, e.g., in luff the helm.

lufftackle. A lieutenant (?of marines): RN lowerdeck: late C.18–mid-19. (John Davis, The Post-Captain, 1806; W.N. Glascock, Sailors and Saints (I, 16), 1829; Moe.) A lowerdeck pun.

lug, n. An ear: standard in Scots; in late C.16–20 English, s.—mainly joc. Lyly, 'Your clumsy lugs'; Moncrieff, 'The napp'd it under the lugs, too.' Scots coll., since C.14, is if worth his lugs!, (sc. he would) if worth his while.—2. In in lug, in pawn: low (? orig. c.): from ca. 1840. (H., 2nd ed.) See lug-chovey.—3. In on the lug, 'on the borrow' or 'ear-biting' (seeking a loan): N. Country: C.20.

lug, v. To pull violently, carry with effort, there being the implication of ponderousness in the object: without that implication, S.E.; with it, as in next, coll. of mid-C.17–20. Culpepper; Horace Walpole; Help (OED).

lug around (a person). 'To have an unpleasant person in one's company because of orders received for a sale to be made' (Powis): low coll.: later C.20.

lug-chovey. A pawnbroker's shop: c.: from ca. 1830. Cf. lug, n., 2.

lug (one's) ear. To ask for, to borrow, money from: Aus. low: C.20. (B., 1942.) Cf. lug, n., 3.

lug-(h)ole. Ear-hole; 'much used by certain comedians [see pin back . . .] in the 1940s and '50s . . . Less often heard in the 1960s' (R.S., 1968). An affectation of proletarianism? The term has been common throughout C.20 and prob. since mid-C.19 Cf. lug, n., 1.

lugger. A sponger; defaulter; 'one who drinks with others but never buys a round' (M.T.): market-traders: C.20. Perhaps ex Midlands dial. lugger, a burden; more prob., cf. lug, n., 3.—2. See once aboard the lugger . . .

lugow. To fasten, place, put: Anglo-Indian coll.: from 1830s. Ex Hindustani lagana. Y. & B.

lugs. Affected manners, 'airs', 'swank'. Hence, put on (the) lugs, put on style, be conceited. Both low coll. from ca. 1890.—2. See lug, n., and punish lugs, to talk incessantly.

luke. Nothing: c. of ca. 1820–70. (D. Haggart, 1821.) Problematically ex dial. luke, a leaf (hence a trifle) or, more prob., Northern dial. luke, a look (?not worth a look); H., 1864, describes it as N. Country cant; also, note the earliest record.—2. See leuc.

lullaby. The male member: low: mid-C.19–20. (? ob.)

lullaby-cheat. A baby: c. of ca. 1670–1840. (Head, Ainsworth.) See cheat.

lully; occ. lally (q.v.) Wet or drying linen: c. of ca. 1780–1870. Grose.—2. Hence, a shirt: low: from ca. 1860. Ware.

lully-prigger, -prigging. A stealer, stealing, of linen, esp. hanging on the fence or line: c. of ca. 1780–1880. (G. Parker.) Cf. C.20 synon. knickers-bandit.

lulu. A very good show-place, where much money is made: Can. carnival s.: since ca. 1925. Ex US s. lulu, anything very attractive—or profitable.—2. The US sense was adopted in Aus. ca. 1944 (B.P.), and in Britain, esp. with ref. to a dizzy, pretty girl, 'she's a real lulu', mid-C.20 (P.B.).—3. Hence, it's a lulu, 'It's a good one, it's a winner, of wrestling hold; noted from TV, but no doubt with applications in other sports' (L.A., 1969).—4. As the lulu (or lulu), a water-closet: upper classes': since ca. 1925. (Noël Coward, The Step Aside, 1939.) An elab. of loo, 3.

lumb. Too much: c. of ca. 1720–1800. (A New Canting Dict., 1725.)? a perversion of lump.

lumber, n. A room: c. of ca. 1780–1830. (G. Parker.) Ex the Lombard Room (for the storing of valuables).—2. Hence, a resort of confidence tricksters, swindlers, thieves: c.: since ca. 1850; † by 1920. Renton Nicholson, An Autobiography, 1860, defines it as 'a place known to the "magsman", generally a public-house or beer-shop kept by a friend of the "school"'.—3. In be in lumber, to be in detention; in prison: C.19–early 20. (Vaux.) Cf. lumbered, Lombard Street, lumbered and limbo.—4. 'Hide-out for stolen property' (F.D. Sharpe, The Flying Squad, 1938: c.: C.20.—5. Trouble: low: since ca. 1935. Peter Crookston, Villain, 1967, 'One night I got into a bit of lumber because I started giggling at the efforts of a fat lady who was a terrible singer.' Often in dead lumber. A dilution of sense 3.—6. See live lumber.

lumber, v. To pawn: somewhat low (? orig. c.): from ca. 1810; ob. (Vaux.) Ex S.E. put to lumber, hence ultimately ex Lombard. (Pepys in 1668 uses Lumber Street for Lombard Street).—2. To arrest, imprison: c. of ca. 1810–90; rare except, and extant only in, the passive; see lumbered. (Vaux.) It has survived in Aus.: witness Kylie Tennant, The Joyful Condemned, 1953.—3. (As v.i.; but usually in form lumbering.) To court a girl: Teddy-boys': since ca. 1954. 'Lumbering, mate. You know—courting. Going steady with a chick.'—4. As v.t.: to land a person with an unwelcome burden, an onerous or thankless task, etc.: gen. coll.: later C.20. Cf. lobber with or for, and see lumbered. Ex either S.E., 'to encumber'; or to land in lumber (see n., 5); or a back-formation ex to be or to get lumbered. (P.B.).—5. 'Biddy the Chiver [see chiv] would have a go at anything, "lumbering" a man and all the rest of it—i.e. luring him into some dark alley and then stripping him' (R. Samuel, ed., East End Underworld, 1981). See quot'n at string up, 2, and cf. lumberer, 6.

lumber gaff. A prostitute's professional bedroom or 'bed-sitter': prostitutes': since ca. 1930. (Frank Norman, 1959.) Soon > more gen. Cf. prec., 5.

lumber-house. A house for the storage of stolen property: c.:—1811 (Lex. Bal.); Ally Sloper's Half-Holiday, 4 May 1889. Ex S.E. l-house, a pawnbroker's.

lumber out. To eject (a person): Aus.: C.20. B., 1942.

lumbered, ppl adj. Pawned: from ca. 1810; ob.: low (? orig. c.).—2. Arrested; in prison: c.:—1812 (Vaux). Cf. lumbered, q.v. Re-emerged (?) in Aus., earlier C.20. See AUSTRALIAN UNDERWORLD, in Appendix.—3. Short of cash: financially embarrassed: London's East End: since ca. 1946. (Richard Herd, 1957).—4. In any sort of trouble: see lumber, v., 4, which gives, as passive, to be or get lumbered: coll.: since ca. 1950. At first, esp. in sense 'landed with an onerous task, an unwelcome burden'; by ca. 1970, often used more loosely.

lumberer. A tramp, a vagrant: ca. 1760–1820: perhaps orig. c.; certainly low.—2. A swindling tipster: low: from ca. 1887. B. & L.—3. Hence (?), a lying adventurer: Society: ca. 1890–1914. Ware.—4. A confidence man: c.:—1933 (Charles E. Leach).—5. A pawnbroker: C.19–early 20: S.E. till 1880, then (mostly US) c.—6. A brothel tout; one who lures men down alleys in order that others may rob them: Aus. c.: since ca. 1920. See Underworld, and lumber, v., 5.

lummel, lummy! Esp. as Lord l! A low coll. exclam.: C.19–20. Ex love me.

lummy, adj. First-rate: low: 1838, Dickens in Oliver Twist; Milliken, 1892, 'Ardly know which is lummiest'. Prob. ex dial.: cf. the N. Yorkshire lummy lick, a delicious mouthful (EDD). And see shyure.—2. As exclam.: see prec.

lump, anything exceptional (gen. as to size): S.E., as is the sense, a party, an association.—2. (Also in pl.) A great quantity; adv. (a lump), a lot, greatly: s. (in C.20, perhaps rather coll.) and dial.: a lump from ca. 1710, lumps from ca. 1520. Skelton; Leigh Hunt; Farmer, 'I like that a lump.'—3. (Gen. the lump.) The workhouse: vagrants' c.: from ca. 1870. (H., 5th ed.) Also Lump Hotel. Cf. pan, n., 3, and spinniken, qq.v.—4. As the Lump (by 1970 it had lost the capital L), 'The highly organised pool of labour in the building trade' (R.S., 1968); non-union, mobile labour: orig. building industry, then esp. in the media. Early in 1967 BBC 1 produced a TV play so titled. Ex the j. lump labour?—5. Short for lump of lead, 1.

lump, v. To thrash; ca. 1780–1840; then dial. Grose, 1st ed.—2. To punch, strike: low: late C.18–early 20. (Grose; A. Neil Lyons, Hookey, 1902.) Like prec. sense, ex the S.E. meaning, to thresh.—3. To dislike, be displeased at: coll.: orig. (1833), US; Anglicised: ca. 1860. Dickens, 1864, 'If you don't like it, it's open to you to lump it.'—4. To carry: Aus.: C.20 Prob. influenced by hump in the same sense. P.B.: also Brit., usu. of heavy or cumbersome load: lump (it) about. Lump Hotel. See lump, n., 3.

lump and bump. A fool; a simpleton: rhyming s. (on chump): late C.19–20. Cheapjack, 1934.

lump into. To do (a job) with vigour: Cockneys': late C.19–20. Esp. as adjuration, lump into it!

lump of, a. A large quantity; much: Aus. coll.: late C.19–20. 'Still a big lump of sea on down at the bar' (Kylie Tennant, Lost Haven, 1947). P.B.: but a lumpy sea, cut up into small waves, is S.E.

lump of bread. C.20 var. of lump of lead, 1. Manchon. lump of coke. A man, chap, fellow: s. rhyming on bloke:—1859 (H., 1st ed.) In C.20, gen. heap of coke. lump of ice. Advice: rhyming s.:—1909 (Ware). lump o(f) jaw on (, have a). (To be) talkative: low:—1909 (Ware).

lump of lead. The head: rhyming s.:—1857 ('Ducange Anglicus'). Cf. pound of lead.—2. (Loaf of) bread: Aus. rhyming s.: C.20.

lump of school. A, rarely to, fool: rhyming s.:—1909 (Ware). lump o(f) stone. A county jail: c.:—1909 (Ware). Cf. stone-doublet and -jug.

lump the lighter. To be transported: c. of ca. 1780–1875. (Grose, 1st ed.; H., 5th ed.) Perhaps lump here = strike, hit (as in hit the track), i.e. unpleasantly or forcibly meet with. P.B.: but cf. cop or nab used in this sense of 'get'.

lumper, a riverside labourer: S.E., as is the scientific sense (opp. to splitter).—2. A riverside thief: ca. 1780–1840: c. G. Parker.—3. A contractor for loading and unloading ships: from ca. 1780, ob.: s. >, in C.20, S.E. (Grose, 1785; Mayhew.) Cf. OED dating.—4. Such a fraudulent seller of clothes-materials as makes the worse seem the better case, e.g. the old new, the flimsy solid: c.: ca. 1850–1910. (Mayhew.) Cf. the somewhat different duffer.—5. A militiaman: 1869, Blackmore; ob. by 1920, † by 1935.—6. A potato: from ca. 1840: Anglo-Irish coll. >, in C.20, S.E.

Lumpers, the. The Household Cavalry: army: C.19–20. (F. & G.) 'Because of the tremendous weight their horses have to carry' (Carew).

lumping. Great; heavy; bulky; awkward, ungainly: coll. and dial.: 1678, 'lumping bargains'; 1887, 'a lumping yokel'. Stigmatised by Johnson as 'low'.

lumping pennyworth. A (great) bargain: coll.: late C.17–mid-19; then dial. Moe cites John Dryden, The Husband..., 1692, at II, i.—2. Hence, as get or have got a lumping pennyworth, to marry a fat woman: coll. verging on c.p.: C.18–early 19. Grose.

lumps. See lump, n., 2.—2. As the Lumps, the 2nd Battalion, Royal Inniskilling Fusiliers (1881–1968), formerly the 108th Regt of Foot or 3rd Madras European Infantry: army nickname. (Spike Mays, The Band Rats, 1975.) Cf. the Skins.—3. In knock lumps out of, to command much applause from: theatrical: ca. 1884–1914. Coun, Nutts about the Stage, 1885.—4. In get or take (one's) lumps, to be given, or to receive, punishment or other unpleasantness, either physically or by reprimand; loosely, to be badly treated: orig. and mainly US, but some Brit. usage late 1960s–early '70s. See esp. W. & F. (P.B.) lumpshi(o)us. Delicious: low coll. (orig., prob. s.): 1844 (Buckstone); ob. by 1930. ?by scrumptious out of lovely. Cf. luptious, q.v.

lumpy, pregnant, is low coll. verging on S.E.; (of ground) rough, S.E.—2. Tippy: from ca. 1810; ob. by 1910, † by 1930. Sessions, 28 Nov. 1833; Punch, 1845.—3. Costly: booksellers': ca. 1890–1915.

Lumpy Gravy, the. The Royal Navy: RAF rhyming s.: 1970s, says Peppitt; yet I think it arose late in, or very soon after, WW1.

lumpy roar. A grandee, or a 'swell of the first water': low London: 1855–ca. 1860. Ware says that it may represent l'Empereur Napoleon III, 'who became popular in 1855 by his visit to England... and [by] his encouragement of English trade'.

lun. A harlequin: late C.18–early 19: theatrical. (Grose, 1st ed.) By 'collision'.—2. A clown: C.19, mainly US and theatrical. ?a contraction of harlequin or, more prob., ex Shakespearean lunes, mad freaks, as in Winter's Tale, II, ii, 30. (Onions.) P.B.: does this represent an early spelling of synon. loon, fool?

lunan. A girl: vagrants' c.: from ca. 1835 (Brandon.) Ex Romany loobni (cf. Sampson at lubni), a harlot.

lunar. A glance, a look at: see take a lunar.

lunatic hat. A (very) wide-brimmed hat: Aus.: since ca. 1930. B., 1943.

lunatic soup. Strong drink: NZ: C.20. B., 1941, 'Lack of vigour or colour could not... be a charge levelled against such terms for strong drink as lunatic soup, Africa speaks, plonk, steam, red Ned, or sheep wash.' In Aus. it specifically = 'cheap, red wine' (B., 1942). Elsewhere (Michael Harrison, Reported Safe Arrival, 1943) we find the var. lunatic's broth; and earlier, Daily Telegraph, 20 June 1902, has in lunatic's broth = drunk. Cf. Aus. madman's broth, brandy.

lunch. Luncheon: 1829 (SOD): coll. till ca. 1919, then S.E. Abbr. luncheon. For lunch(eon) and its synonymy, see 'The Art of Lightening Work' in Words!—2. A paper sold at lunch-time, esp. one giving the cricket scores: newsvendors' coll.: 1921.—3. Any meal other than breakfast; a term used for food taken at almost any time of the day, 'used in the older sense of a "lump", especially if it is, in some way, out of the usual run of events' (Leechman, 1959): Can. coll.:—1932. Ex dial. (EDD).—4. 'What you become after a wipe out' (Pix, 28 Sep. 1963): Aus. teenage surfers': 1961+. Prob. ex US s. lunch, = 'a fool' (W. & F., 1975).

lunch. (The v.i., always S.E.—) To provide lunch for: coll.: 1892 (SOD).

luncheon reservoir. The stomach: low joc.: ca. 1860–1930. Cf. bread-basket and virtualling office.

lung. A drawbar: Can. railroadmen's:—1931.—2. The female bosom, as in 'Get a load of that doll! She's got plenty of lung' (prominent breasts): Aus. low: since ca. 1955. 'Ex proximity of breasts to lungs?' (B.P.)

lung-box. The mouth: low: from ca. 1850. Cf. potato-jaw. lung-disturber. Penis: low: C.20. Ex the same ribald song as kidney-wiper.

lunger. A person diseased or wounded in the lungs: coll.: 1893. Kipling (OED).

lungs. 'A large and strong-voiced man' (Johnson): coll.: ca. 1680–1740.—2. An underworkman in the 'chymical art' (Johnson): ca. 1610–1750: coll. >, ca. 1700, S.E. Jonson, 'That is his fire-drake, his lungs, his zephyrus, he that puffs his coals.'

Lunnon. London: (dial. and) low coll.: C.18–20.

luny. See loony.

luppers. Fingers: Palyare: C.20. (With thanks to Mr Kenneth Williams: P.B.)

luptious. Lovely; delicious: late C.19–early 20. Ex voluptuous + delicious. Cf. lumpshious and scrumptious. (This type of 'made' words was common in the Victorian period; the vogue has waned.)

luracham. Var. of leracam, q.v., back s. for 'mackerel'.

lurcher, a rogue, is S.E., but lurcher or lurcher of the law, 'a bum bailiff, or his setter' (Grose, 1st ed.) is s. of ca. 1780–1840. Ex dial. lurch, to slink about.—2. A street 'tough', a 'larrikin': Aus. low: C.20. B., 1942.

lure, n. 'An idle pamphlet' (B.E.): c. of ca. 1690–1780, when it > leer, q.v.

lurid limit, the. The very limit: Aus.: since ca. 1925. (Baker.) Cf. English the ruddy limit.

lurk 'is mostly applied to the several modes of plundering by representations of sham distress' (Mayhew): c.: from ca. 1850; ob. Prob. ex the v. Cf. law, lay, racket, rig, slum; also bereavement lurk, dead lurk, lurker. Sidney J. Baker, in a letter to the Observer, 13 Nov. 1938, noted that lurk, in its nuance 'a racket', was then still current in Aus.—2. 'A regular occupation' (C.J. Dennis): Aus. coll.: late C.19–20.—3. 'A dodge, scheme, stratagem' (Wilkes): since ca. 1940: Aus. low > coll. Hence up to all lurks, wide-awake, alert; and a good lurk, a smart plan, a good idea. (B.P.)—4. In app. temporary c. of ca. 1840–60, it = an eye or eyesight. 'No. 747' with valid ref. to the year 1845. Directly ex Shelta (B. & L.)—5. An occasional customer: grafters': late C.19–20. (Cheap-jack, 1934.) Cf. v., 3.—6. A hanger-on; an eavesdropper; a sneak: Aus. low: C.20. Baker.—7. (Ex sense 1.) In go on, or upon, a lurk, to get money by a 'lurk': c.: mid-C.19—early 20. Mayhew.

lurk, v. To beg with 'faked' letters: c.: from ca. 1850; ob. (Mayhew.) Perhaps a corruption of dial. lurch, to slink about: cf. lurcher.—2. In be lurked, 'To be ordered to do some unpleasant job without a chance of avoiding it' (Bowen): nautical: mid-C.19–20. Musings, 1912, p.15, 'Always being lurked for other people's watches.' Cf. (?ex) the † S.E. lurk, to shirk work.—3. V.i., to sell, on the move, to an occasional customer: grafters': C.20. (Allingham.) Ex n., 5.

lurk artist. See lurkman, 3.

lurked. See lurk, v., 2.

lurker. A none too honest Jack of all trades: c.: from ca. 1860; ob.—2. A begging impostor equipped with sham documents, false letters, faked seals and crests and signatures, etc.: c.: from ca. 1850; ob., except as a professional teller of the piteous tale. See esp. Mayhew's London Labour, I, 233, and 'Stuart Wood', Shades of the Prison House, pp. 78–9. Also lurksman.—3. A petty crook: Aus. low.: C.20. (B., 1953.) Cf. lurcher, and lurkman, qq.v.—4. 'A new breed of market stallholders, known to veterans of the trade as "lurkers", has arrived with a new breed of market' (Radio Times, 30 July 1983, p. 11); i.e. traders not 'born to the job', and operating in private, weekend or one day a week flea-markets. Prob. ex lurk, v., 3. lurkie, -y, n. A very wide-awake person, 'up to' all the 'Turks' or tricks: Aus.: since ca. 1940. (B.P.) Cf. lurk, n., 3. lurking, n. and adj. Fraudulent begging; being a 'lurker' (sense 2): c.: both from ca. 1850 and both in Mayhew's London Labour, vol. I.

lurkman. A petty criminal: Aus.: later C.19—early 20. Cf. lurker, 3.—2. Hence, one who cheats at cards; a cardsharp: Aus.: C.20. B., 1953.—3. A racketeer or a 'shady' schemer. Also lurk artist: Aus.: C.20.

lurkmanship. The art and practice of the lurk, n., 1 and 3. B., 1959.

lurksman. See lurker, 2.

lurn. Scrotum: since ca. 1910. Origin? R.S. tentatively suggests Fr. luron, 'a strapping fellow, one of the boys'.

lurries. The more gen. form of:

lurry. (Gen. in pl.) Money: c. of ca. 1670–1830. (R. Head in The Canting Academy; Grose.) In the pl, the sense is rather 'all manner of clothes (Coles, 1676), or 'Money, Watches, Rings, or other Moveables' (B.E.). Prob. a corruption of lour(e), lowre, influenced perhaps by dial. lurry, to pull, drag (EDD).

luscious. Very pleasant; very fine: Bootham School:—1925. Synon. is mellow: the two are frequently conjoined. (Bootham.) Luscious in this sense was more widely used than E.P.'s entry indicates, and is still, 1980, occ. heard. (P.B.) Cf. lush, adj., 4, 5, qq.v.

lush, n. Drink, i.e. strong drink: from ca. 1790; ob. by 1930. ?orig. c.; certainly low. Potter; Vaux; Lytton, "'Bring the lush and the pipes, old bloke!" cried Ned . . . ; "we are never at a loss for company"'.—2. A drink: low:—1892; ob. by 1930.

Hume Nisbet.—3. A drinking-bout: from ca. 1840; ob.: low. Colonel Hawker's Diary (OED); Licensed Victualler's Gazette, 16 Jan. 1891.—4. A drunkard: low: from ca. 1890; ob. Abbr. lushington, q.v. These four senses are either ex S.E. lush, adj. (cf. lush, adj.), as the OED proposes, or ex Lushington, a well-known London brewer, as F. & H. claims, or ex the City of Lushington (see lushington), or, as W. suggests, ex Shelta lush, to eat and drink. P.B.: thus E.P. in the 1st ed.; in the Addendum he noted that the term was still current, mid-C.20 in Can., 'owing something . . . to its widespread use in C.20 US'. In later C.20 the term lush for a drunkard, or, in modern parlance, 'an alcoholic', has either re-surfaced, or has been adopted back from N. America: witness Powis, who records it as an occ. usage, and who notes also its more widespread c. use in sense 1. Pace Powis, my impression is that, while lush = 'alcoholic drink' is c., lush = 'drunkard' is more common in a slightly higher register, say 'low coll.', e.g. among Servicemen.—5. Beer: RN lowerdeck: C.20. Ex sense 1. (Granville.) Cf. lush-up.—6. a dainty: Eton College: C.19.—7. As a fig. extension of sense 4, a very heavy drinker, in such expressions as 'the car was a lush for petrol'—it consumed much more than the average car: coll.: later C.20. (P.B.) lush, v. To drink, v.i.: from ca. 1810; ob.: low. (Lex. Bal.) Also lush it: from ca. 1830; ob. Cf. boose, bub, liquor, soak, wet.—2. To drink, v.t.: low: perhaps from ca. 1810 (see Lex. Bal.); certainly from 1830, when used by Lytton in Paul Clifford, 'I had been lushing heavy wet'; Dickens, 1838, 'Some of the richest sort you ever lushed.'—3. To treat, ply with drink: low: from ca. 1820; ob. Haggart, 'We had lushed the coachman so neatly, that Barney was obliged to drive' (OED). Ex the n., first three senses. For an excellent synonymy of all three senses, see F. & H. at lush, v.

lush, adj. Tippy; low: from ca. 1811; ob. (Vaux.) Also lush(e)y, from ca. 1810. Lex. Bal., 'The rolling kiddeys . . . got bloody lushy.' Either ex S.E. adj. lush or ex s. lush, n., q.v. above. (The lush, n., v. and adj., are now extant mainly in dial. and in US c. [note of ca. 1935].)—2. Hence, paralytic or half-witted: c.: earlier C.20.—3. Dainty: Eton College: later C.19. B. & L.—4. (Of a girl) extremely attractive: since ca. 1915. Esp. 'a lush bint', which dates from WWI, and was still in Service use in 1960s. Granville, 'Rivals "smashing" in popularity on the lower deck.' Granville derives it ex luscious and he may be right. I propose, however, an extension of lush as in S.E. 'lush grass', where it = 'fresh and juicy': cf. juicy, 1. and 6.—5. (Of creature comforts) rich; appetising; plentiful: Services: since 1939. Ex 4.

lush at Freeman's Quay. To drink at another's expense. See Freeman's Quay.

lush cove. A drunkard: c.:—1839. Brandon's definition (in 'Ducange Anglicus'), 'public house', is an error—prob. for 'a frequenter of the public house'. P.B.: although the form is not, to my knowledge, recorded, perhaps Brandon was confusing cove with chovey, a shop. With putative lush-chovey, Cf. the following synonyms:

lush-crib. A low public house; a gin-shop: c.: from ca. 1810; ob. (Vaux.) Cf. lush-ken. Ex lush, n., 1. Cf. boozier, drum, panney, pub, Tom and Jerry shop.

lush-house. The same: c. or low:—1896; ob. by 1930. F. & H., in lush-crib synonymy.

lush it. See lush, v., 1.

lush-ken. A low public house or alehouse; a gin-shop: c.: from ca. 1790; ob. (Potter, Vaux.) Ex lush, n., 1. Cf. lush-crib and lushing-ken.

lush merchant. A drunkard: Aus.: late C.19–20. (Baker.) Cf. piss artist.

lush-out. A drinking-bout: low:—1823; † by 1920. 'Jon Bee.' lush-panny. Synon. with lush-ken: c. or low: C.19 See panney, and cf. lushery.

lush-roller. A pickpocket operating on drunkards, half-wits, paralytics: c.: C.20. (Evening News, 9 Dec. 1936, in an able essayette by Graveney Lodge.) See lush, n., 4.

lush (someone) up. To stand someone a treat (of strong liquor); as v.i., lush up, to drink heavily: since ca. 1930. Granville derives the v.t., in its RN lowerdeck usage, ex lush, n., 5, beer.

lushery. A low public house: low:—1896. F. & H. in lush-crib synonymy.

lushey. See lush, adj., 1.

lushing. The vbl n. of lush, v., all senses. Cf.:

lushing, adj. Given to drink: low: mid-C.19–20; ob. Mayhew; 1861, speaks of a harlot nicknamed Lushing Loo.

lushing-ken. A low public house, a drinking bar: c.: from ca. 1880. L. Wingfield, 1883, 'Unable . . . to steer clear of lushing-kens' (OED).

lushing-man. A drunkard: c. of ca. 1850–1910, mostly US. Ex lush, v.

lushing-muzzle. A punch on the mouth: boxing and nautical: ca. 1820–1900. (Egan's Grose.) See lushing and muzzle.

lushings. Aus. var. of lashings, an abundance: C.20. Baker.

lushington or Lushington. A drunkard: rather low: from ca. 1840. The Comic Almanack, 1840; Mayhew; 'Rolf Boldrewood', 1890, 'The best eddicated chaps are the worst lushingtons when they give way at all'; Powis, 1977. (Cf. Admiral of the red, boozier, gin-crawler, pot-walloper, soak(er), wetster.) Either ex lush, n., 1, and punning the surname Lushington, or ex Lushington the brewer, or else ex the City of Lushington, a convivial society that, flourishing ca. 1750–1895, had a 'Lord Mayor' and four 'aldermen'. The term occurs notably in these phrases: deal with Lushington, to take too much drink: ca. 1820–90. (Bee.); Vaux has Alderman Lushington is concerned and he has been voting for the Alderman, both applied to one who is drunk: low: ca. 1810–1900; Lushington is his master is the ca. 1825–90 equivalent of the C.20 the booze has got him down, he is apt to drink too much.

lushy. See lush, adj., 1.

lushy cove, a drunkard: c. (ob.): from ca. 1810. (Vaux; Mayhew.) Also lush cove.

luvly. 'With this spelling it takes on a Cockney pronunciation or a Cockney setting . . . In the musical version of Shaw's Pygmalion, "My Fair Lady", it was used for an extra beat (see lovely), but without authority from either Shaw or Cockney' (L.A., 1976). 'Mandrake', in the Sunday Telegraph, 23 Nov. 1975, has 'Everything luvly in the Garden' (Covent).

luvvaduck! See love a duck!

lux. An excellent or splendid thing: Christ's Hospital (School): from ca. 1840; ob. Prob. ex luxuriant, says Blanch, the Hospital's annalist. Cf.:

luxer. A handsome fellow: Winchester College: ca. 1850–1915. Either ex luxury, as Adams suggests, or ex L. lux, a light.

luxon, adj. De luxe: Christ's Hospital (School): C.20. (Marple.) Ex luxury one or de luxe one?

lyb-beg, lybbege. See lib-beg.

Lyceum, the. See Academy, 4.

Lyceum Charley. A (young) male entrant in, and for, the 'Mecca dancing' contests at the Lyceum Ballroom (formerly the Lyceum Theatre); or any youth in full evening dress, whether he intends to dance or not: Cockneys': since ca. 1960.

Lydford law. To hang first and try afterwards; hence, any arbitrary procedure in judgment: late C.14–20 (ob. by 1870, except in dial.): coll. >, by 1700, S.E. Langland, T. Fuller, 'Molière' Ozell, Kingsley. (Apperson.) Ex Lydford, 'now a small village on the confines of Dartmoor . . . formerly the chief town of the stannaries' (OED). Cf. Jedburgh justice, q.v.

lyesken chirps. Fortune-telling; telling a fortune: Shelta: C.18–20. B. & L.

lying down, take it. See lie down.

lying hound; lying fuck-pig. Bitter denunciation of someone who has lied, esp. when the lie has been detrimental to the plaintiff: low: since mid-C.20, prob. earlier. (P.B.)

lying in. See lie in.

lymitting law. See limiting law.

Lymps, the. The Olympic theatre: theatrical:—1864; † by 1920. H., 3rd ed.

lyonch. See gone to lyonch.

lyp. To lie down: c. of ca. 1560–1700. (Cf. lib, the gen. form.) Whence:

lyp-ken, lypken. See lib-ken and cf. libben and lobkin.

lyre-bird, be a (bit of a). To be (a little) apt to tell lies: Aus.: C.20; ob. Punning liar and (native to Australia) lyre-bird.

lyribling, warbling, singing, is prob. S.E. (long †). I have not discovered on what F. & H.'s 'Old Cant' is based. Cf. the joc. synon., lyribbising (recorded by A.H. Dawson in 1913), app. a blend of lyric + improvising.

M. See entries at 'C or K...'; M.B.E.; M under the girdle. 'm. Am: coll.: from ca. 1640. Cowley, 1647, 'No: I'm undone' (OED).—2. 'Abbr. ma'am (q.v.): low coll.: C.18–20. Pronounced as brief and indistinct um or em.

m'. My: slovenly coll., as in m'dear (vocative): C.19–20.

m. and v. (A) tinned-meat-and-vegetable ration: military (officers') coll: 1915–18. (F. & G.) Also Maconochie, q.v.

M.B.; suffer from M.B. Topsy; to be tippy: Aus.: since ca. 1930. Ex the well-known brand of beer, Melbourne Bitter. B., 1953.

m.b. coat and/or waistcoat. A long coat and/or a cassock waistcoat worn by some clergymen: clerical: from ca. 1840, but not recorded till 1853, in Dean Conybeare; ob. Ex 'mark of the beast' in reference to Popery.

M.B.E. "'My [own] Bloody Efforts'"—as opposed to O.B.E., "Other Buggers' Efforts". Compare the Order of St Michael and St George [q.v. at C.M.G.] (P.B., 1975). This irreverent set of ribald and adverse comments [E.P. refers here also to C.M.G., etc.] seems to have originated among Army officers [P.B.: and the Diplomatic Corps] during the disillusioned period, 1946–60, when the British possessions were being gaily surrendered, yet the Army had still to operate in Malaya, Cyprus, Aden, and other troubled areas. See also old boiled egg.

M.C. or m.c., n. and v. (Sometimes emcee.) Master of ceremonies, and to act as one: provincial journalists' and function-organisers': the v. since ca. 1950, the n. very much earlier. 'The dance was ably emcee'd by... ' (P.B.)

M.C.P. 'Male chauvinist pig' (common usage among 'women's libbers'): Aus. since early 1970s (B.P.); and Brit. since late 1970s: adopted ex US.

m.d. or M.D. A physician; a person holding the degree of Doctor of Medicine: coll. when spoken, i.e. pron. em dee: mid-C.18–20. OED.—2. Money down: political coll. (in ref. to electioneering bribery): 1857. Ware.

M.F.U. 'Military fuck-up' or muddle: Services', mostly army: WW2. Cf. T.A.B.U., q.v.

m.i.k. Go ahead and eat it!: domestic c.p.: late C.19–20. I.e. more in the kitchen: contrast f.h.o. (F.W. Thomas, letter, 1939).

M.O.T.d. (Of a motor vehicle) officially tested: coll., hence occ. joc. of things other than vehicles, e.g. a wife of some years' standing: since latish 1960s. (P.B.) Ex the Ministry of Transport (test).

M I. 'A hovercraft saved a woman's life after a difficult birth in a midnight dash up the "M1"—the great Rejang river that is the only highway in an anarchy of peaks and jungle completely devoid of road or rail in central Sarawak' (Dennis Bloodworth, An Eye for the Dragon, 1975): Brit. troops in the Borneo Campaign, 1962–5. (P.B.)

m.p. A policeman: from ca. 1860. (H., 3rd ed.) ?ex Metropolitan Police(man).

m.t. An empty truck, van, or gen., carriage: railway: from ca. 1860. (H., 3rd ed.) By pun on empty. Cf. Moll Thompson's mark, q.v.—2. An empty bottle: from ca. 1858; ob. More usual in US than in Commonwealth. Cf. dead marine, q.v.

M (occ. by but gen.) under the girdle, carry or have an. To be courteous of address: coll.: ca. 1550–1820; extant in dial. as keep 'Master' out of sight, to be lacking in respect. Udall, 'Ne'er an M by your girdle?'; Haughton, in a late C.16 play, 'Hark ye ... methinks you might do well to have an M under your girdle'; Swift. Ex 'master' and 'mistress'. Apperson. M.Y.O.B. Mind your own business: C.20. Also M.Y.O.B.B. (... bloody business).

ma. Abbr. mamma: from ca. 1820 (?orig. dial.): coll. >, ca. 1890, low coll. Cf. pa.—2. (ma.) See me, 2.—3. At certain Public Schools, ma and mi indicate (Smith) major and (Smith) minor: mid-C.19–20. These terms are rather coll. than s. See also ETON, in Appendix.—4. One's wife: lower-middle-class term of address: mid-C.19–20. Robert Eton, The Bus Leaves for the Village, 1936.

ma-in-law. Mother-in-law: humorous: late C.19–20.

Ma State, the. New South Wales: Aus. coll. nickname: late C.19—earlier 20. NSW was the first Australian State to be founded.

ma'alish, maalish, maaleesh. See maleesh.

ma'am. A coll. contraction of madam: 1668 (Dryden). Very gen. in C.18—mid-19 in Society, and still etiquette in addressing a queen or a royal princess; since ca. 1850, chiefly parenthetical or terminal. 'Also written as vulgar marm, mem, mim, mum, -m' (SOD).

ma'amselle. A coll. abbr. of mademoiselle: late C.18–20. Fr. ma'm'selle.

mab, n. A cabriolet: ca. 1820–95. (Moncrieff; Baumann.) A personifying perversion of cab.

mab, gen. mab up. To dress carelessly: late C.17—early 19: coll. verging on S.E. Ray (mab), B.E. (mab up). Gen. in ppl. form mabbed up. Ex S.E. mab, a slattern.

Mabel. A girl friend: Aus. army: WW2. B., 1943.

mabsoot or mabsut. Happy: Services': WW1—2. Ex Arabic. Mac; m-. McMaster University, Hamilton, Ontario: Can. coll.: C.20.—2. A non-cultured Can. (?ex US) form of address to a man whose name is unknown to the speaker: since ca. 1930; and so to UK in the mid-1960s, via the hippy movement. ?Orig. ex mack.—3. A coll. abbr. of macadam: Mayhew, II, 1851; he notes also the nuance 'mud scraped or swept from macadamised roads'.—4. Hence abbr. of tarmac (lit. and fig. senses): RAF: 1930s.—5. (Also mack.) Abbr. mackerel, a pimp: low s.: 1887 (Henley).—6. (Also mack.) Coll. abbr. of a mac(k)intosh: late C.19–20.

Mac. - Paps., the. The Canadian Mackenzie - Papineau Battalion of the XV International Brigade in Spain, 1936–8. The Book of the XV Brigade, 1938.

McAlpine Fusilier. Irish labourer employed in the construction business (from the name of the famous building firm) (Powis): joc. coll.: later C.20.

macaroni, occ. maccaroni, a dandy (1760–75), is S.E., as is the adj.—2. A merry fool, esp. if an Italian: coll.: C.18. Addison, 1711, The Spectator, No. 47.—3. An Italian: somewhat low: C.19–20. Also, esp. in 1940–4, an Italian aircraft (Jackson). Ex the national dish, as is sense 2.—4. A pony: rhyming s.:—1857 ('Ducange Anglicus') Cf. macker.—5. Hence, £25—a 'pony': C.20.—6. Lengths of electric flex: cinematographic: since ca. 1925. Laurence Meynell, The House in the Hills, 1937.—7. Nonsense; folly: Aus.: since ca. 1930. B., 1943.—8. (Also as v.) Excrete, excreta: prison s.: later C.20. John McVicar, McVicar by Himself, 1974.

Macaroni Boats or Liners, the. The Norddeutscher Lloyd vessels: nautical: ca. 1890–1914. They carried many emigrants from Italy to US.

macaroni-stake. A race ridden by a gentleman rider: ca. 1820–30. (Bee.) Prob. ex macaroni, 1, q.v.

macaroon. A new recruit: RAN: WW2. B., 1943.—2. In confiscate the macaroon, an elab. (ca. 1918–24) of take the biscuit. (Ware.) B. & L. note var. monopolise the ...

maccacco. See murkarker.

macaroni. See macaroni.

MacDonald, do a. To desert one's party: Labour leaders' since ca. 1930. Like most political gibes, this one is unfair. Long since superseded by the names of subsequent defectors.

mace, n. 'A rogue assuming the character of a gentleman, or opulent tradesman, who under that appearance defrauds workmen, by borrowing a watch, or other piece of goods, till one [that] he bespeaks is done [swindled].' (1785, Grose): c. of ca. 1780–1850. Parker, 1781.—2. Any dressy swindler of tradesmen: from ca. 1850; ob. H., 1st ed.—3. Swindling; fraudulent robbery: c.: from ca. 1800.—4. A sham loan-office: c.:—1879; ob. Hence, man at the mace, an operator of such an office: id.—5. In give it (to a tradesman) on or upon the mace, to obtain goods on credit and never pay for them: c.: C.19—early 20. (Vaux; H., 1st ed.) Vaux records the var. v.i. form of mace, v.: strike the mace.—6. In on (the) mace: on credit: c.:—1893 (P.H. Emerson, Signor Lippo). Still, 1983, current among market-traders (M.T.).—7. In on the mace, on the 'mace' racket: c.: C.19–20. Vaux, 1812; W.T. Moncrieff, 1830, 'He's been working on the mace'. Yorkshire Post, late May 1937, has getting stuff on the mace, obtaining goods by false pretences.

mace, v.t., occ. v.i. To swindle, defraud, whether gen. or in sense of mace, n., 1: from ca. 1790, when recorded by Potter (OED); 1821 (Egan, in Life in London): c. Still current, later C.20, among market-traders (M.T.). Ex mace, n., 1.—2. To Welsh: c.:—1874 (H., 5th ed.).—3. Hence, ex both senses, to owe (money) to (someone): market-traders': late C.19–20. 'He maces me a fiam [£5]' (M.T.).—4. Powis, 1977, glosses macing, 'Stealing or cheating (especially at the three-card trick)': c.

mace-cove, -gloak, -man (and macex, q.v.). A swindler: c.: resp. from ca. 1810 (e.g. in Lex. Bal.); 1812, Vaux, †; from ca. 1780, and often spelt maceman.—2. The third is also, from ca. 1870, a Welsher, and, ca. 1880–1900, a 'swell mobsman', q.v. Ex mace, n., q.v.

mace the rattler. To travel in a train without paying: c.: from ca. 1880. (Manchon.) See rattler, 3.

macex. A swindler, whether gen. (from ca. 1819) or, ca. 1820–50, as an exponent of mace, n., 1: c. Ex mace, v.—2. A Welsher: c.:—1874 (H., 5th ed.). Powis, a century later, glosses the term, 'Thief or cheat'.

McFluffer. See Captain MacFluffer; Major McFluffer.

MacGimp. A pimp: low rhyming s.: adopted, ca. 1930, ex US. Franklyn 2nd, 'It is rarely used in Britain.'

MacGinnis (or McGinnis or Maginnis) on, put the. To render an opponent hors-de-combat: Aus.: C.20. (B., 1942.) Ex wrestling?—2. Hence, to put pressure on: since ca. 1910.

McGinty's goat. See up goes ...

MacCorrey's Hotel. Chelmsford Gaol: c.: C.19. (Ware.) Ex a governor so named.

MacGregor, Mr. See Langtries.

machine, a carriage, bicycle, etc., is S.E., as is † machiner, a coach-horse.—2. The male, the female pudend: low coll.: C.19–20; ob. Prob. ex Fr. machine, the male member. (Cf. thing and Fr. machin.)—3. A 'French letter': low coll.: ca. 1790–1860. Grose, 3rd ed.—4. Shortening of next (Home Office):-

machine gun. A syringe: drugs world: later C.20. Sean McConville, in The State of the Language, 1980.

macho, n. and adj. 'Male bravado' (Leechman): Can., adopted, via US, ex Mexican Sp., since ca. 1972; the term crossed the Atlantic soon afterwards, 'We don't have to bother with the strutting, the cockiness, the macho routines' (A. Schroeder, Shaking It Rough, 1976). Ex the Continental, hence American, Sp. Machismo, belief in male supremacy, and the need to demonstrate virility; Sp. macho=male.

macing. See mace, v.—2. 'Severe, but regulated thrashing by fists': non-aristocratic: mid C.19—early 20. Ex Jem Mace, a notable English pugilist.

macing-cove. A var. of mace-cove. Mayhew, 1861.

Mack or mac. A Celtic Irishman: derivative coll.: ca. 1615–1700. (OED.) Perhaps the ultimate orig. of Mac, 2.—2. See mac, 5 and 6.—3. As the Mack, the training ship Macquarie: nautical: early C.20. Bowen.—4. In by (the) mack!; occ. simply mack!, a trivial coll. asseveration: ca. 1560–1670. (Anon., Misogonus; Cotton.) Ex by the Mass prob. influenced by by Mary. OED.

Mack Sennett. See MOVING-PICTURE SLANG, §8, in Appendix Coll., not s.

Mackay. See real Mackay.

macked steamer. Nautical, thus: 'In the middle 19th century ... a shoddily built ... steamer' (Bowen): nautical. I.e., a 'made' steamer in Northern dial.

Mackenzie, Mr. See Langtries.

macker. A familiar Aus. form of macaroni, 4, a pony (horse). B., 1945.

mackerel, a pimp, is S.E., despite F. & H.'s inclusion and despite B.E.'s classification as c.—2. Adj., smeared; blurred: printers': from ca. 1730; ob. A corruption of mackled, ex S.E. mackle.

mackerel-back. 'A very tall, lank Person' (B.E.): late C.17–18. Hence mackerel-back(ed), long-backed: late C.18—early 19. Grose.

Mackie, A bottle, or a drink, of Mackeson's stout: public houses' and spirits-wine-beer merchants': since ca. 1945— or even much earlier.—2. See real Mackay.

mackintosh trade, the. 'The less flamboyant, the less well dressed or smart, patrons of music-halls and theatres' (L.A., 1976): coll.: since late 1940s.

macky. See makki.

macnoon. A loose, mainly Aus. var. of maghnoon, crazy. Ion L. Idriess, Lasseter's Last Ride, 1931.

Maconochie (incorrectly -achie). A tinned stew of meat and vegetables: military coll.: from 1915. (B. & P.) Abbr. ration of Maconochie's stew; prob., as the OED Sup. implies, even Maconochie ration was orig. coll. Ex the makers' name. Cf. m. and v., q.v.—2. A telephone-box; stomach: military: 1916. (B. & P., 3rd ed.) Ex the shape, and the receptacle.

Maconochie Cross; M. Medal. Military Cross; Military Medal: army: WW1+. F. & G.

Macready pauses! A theatrical c.p. applied to an actor that pauses too long: since ca. 1855. William Macready (1793–1873), the great mid-C.19 actor, had a habit of pausing inordinately in any emphatic or dramatic speech. (Granville.)

Macrooms. Shares in the Cork & Macroom Railway: Stock Exchange coll. (—1895) >, by 1910, j. Wilson's Stock Exchange Glossary.

mad, app. as n., in get out (one's) mad. To become angry: Aus.: since ca. 1920. B., 1959.—2. For like mad see like a ...

mad, adj. (Construction: mad at, with a person; mad about, about a thing or person.) Angry, vexed: C.14–20. S.E. till C.19, then coll. and mostly US. Nat Gould, 1891, 'My eye! won't he be just mad.—2. (Of a compass-needle) with its polarity disturbed: nautical coll.: late C.19–20. (Bowen.) Suggested by erratic.—3. See so many minds ...

mad as a buck. Very angry; crazy: late C.16–17: proverbial coll. Shakespeare, 'It would make a man mad as a buck to be so bought and sold.' Cf. dial. mad as a tup (ram).

mad as a cut snake. Very mad; exceedingly angry: Aus.: from ca. 1890. Here, cut=castrated. Other Aus. similes are mad as a beetle—a Chinaman—a dingbat—a goanna—a gum-tree full of galahs—a meat-axe—a snake (B., 1942). Also silly as a curlew—a two-bob watch—a wet hen. B., 1959.

mad as a hatter. Exceedingly angry (an ob. sense); crazy: coll.: 1837, Haliburton; 1849, Thackeray; cf. Lewis Carroll's '(the) Mad Hatter', which definitely fixed the English sense.

'In the eighteenth century, felt for hats was tanned by the use of mercury compounds. The hat makers in England absorbed into their bodies traces of mercury, which produced mental aberrations—hence the expression "mad as a hatter"' (New Scientist, 5 Feb. 1970, quoted in Barnhart).

mad as a maggot, with or without prec. as. Extremely eccentric: hence, egregiously foolish: NZ: C.20. (Slatter.)

mad as a March hare. (In late C.14–15, e.g. in Chaucer, March is omitted.) Eccentric; mad; proverbial coll.: from ca. 1500. Skelton, 'Thou mad March hare.' Ex sexual excitement. mad as a meat-axe. Extremely angry; dangerously crazy: Aus.: since the 1920s. (Nino Culotta, Cop This Lot, 1960.) Cf. mad as a cut snake, q.v.

mad as a weaver. Very angry; crazy: proverbial coll.: C.17.

mad as a wet hen. Intensely annoyed: Can.: C.20. (Leechman.) Cf. mad as a cut snake.

mad as May-butter. Exceedingly eccentric; mad; excited: C.17: proverbial coll. (Fletcher, 1626.) Ex difficulty of making butter in May.

mad as mud. Exceedingly angry: from ca. 1925. Richard Keverne, The Haverling Plot, 1928, 'Joan will be as mad as mud with me for telling.' Cf. mad, 1.

mad dog. Strong ale: c.: ca.: 1580–1620. Harrison's England.—2. 'An account which the debtor refuses to pay' (B., 1942): Aus.: C.20. See tie up a dog.—3. 'An unpaid score at a public house' (Baker): Aus.: C.20.

mad ear. See ear-mad.

mad Fan. The bird Grey Fantail: Aus.: late C.19–20. B., 1943.

mad Greek. See TAVERN TERMS, §2, in Appendix.

mad haddock. A very eccentric, a crazy, or a very foolish person: Aus.: C.20. Baker.

mad house. See up the mad house.

mad major, the. 'Any very eccentric or excessively daring officer, especially if... of that rank' (B. & P.): military coll.: 1914–18. Ex a legend about a foolhardy and bloodthirsty officer. P.B.: the legend lingers: one of my schoolmasters, late 1940s, was so nicknamed; and I met the sobriquet several times during my army service, 1953–74.

mad Mick. A pick: Aus. rhyming s.: since late C.19. (B., 1942.) Hence mad Mick and banjo, a pick and shovel: Aus., esp. army: C.20.—2. Penis: Aus. rhyming s., on prick: since ca. 1910. Franklyn, Rhyming.

mad mile, the. That part of the Perth–Fremantle road which runs through Claremont: W. Aus.: since ca. 1920. Baker.—2. Hence (?), the round made by a man either on draft, in or out of a depot, or in being demobilised: R Aus. N: WW2.—3. Any such stretch of a road as was continually being shelled by the enemy: army: WW2.—4. A straight, flat stretch of road where cars are likely to speed unchecked; heard with ref. to a realigned length of road south of Chichester: coll.: ca. 1970. (Mrs C. Raab.) mad minute. Bayonet drill, esp. in its finale: Aus. army: WW2. B., 1943.

mad money. A girl's return fare, carried lest her soldier friend got 'mad', i.e. too amorous for her: NZ soldiers': 1916–18. Mostly a legend, and concerning only English girls. The term has, since ca. 1918, meant money that a girl carries as a precaution against any such quarrel with her boy friend as might leave her monetarily stranded, and been widely used also in Aus. and Can.—2. Money saved up for 'splurging' while on holiday, or on some other special occasion; 'as long as me mad money lasts, I'm going to have a good time': coll.: since ca. 1950. (P.B.) mad nurse. 'A nurse attending on insane patients' (OED): coll.: mid-C.18–20; ob. by 1930. The World, 1753.—2. A teacher, usu. female, in a school for mentally handicapped children: mostly primary schoolteachers': since ca. 1920.

mad on, have a. To be in an ugly mood: Can. coll.: from ca. 1870. I.e. a mad fit. Ex mad, a fit of anger: same period and status. (John Beames.)

mad Tom. A rogue that counterfeits madness: c.: C.17–18. Also Tom of Bedlam.

mad up, get (one's). To become very angry: since ca. 1880; mostly US, ex Eng. dial. (OED.) Cf. mad, n.

mad woman. An empty coach: coaching: ca. 1800–70.—2. See all over the place like a mad woman's...

madam, as a kept mistress, as a bold girl or artful woman, and as an ironical address, is, despite F. & H., certainly S.E. But it has long borne also the well-known sense, 'prophetress, or manageress, of a brothel': coll.: C.18 (? late C.17)–20. James Dalton, A Narrative, 1728, p. 46, 'A Madam pick'd him up, and he being very much in Liquor, went along with his false Guide, who soon conducted him to a Baudy-House.' Also as madame, q.v.—2. As proper madam, it = a girl with a bad temper; a proper little madam, a girl child with one: lower-middle and lower classes': C.19–20.—3. A pocket handkerchief: c.:—1879; ob. Perhaps because a mark of at least outward respectability.—4. Nonsense; line of talk: c.: from ca. 1930. (Gilt Kid, 1936.) Hence, it's or that's all madam, it's all nonsense or bunkum or 'eye-wash': since ca. 1935: orig. low, but by 1940 gen. Cf. Madame Misharty, q.v.

madam, v. To tell a tall story; 'pitch the tale': c.: from ca. 1930. (F. D. Sharpe, The Flying Squad, 1938.) Ex madam, n., 4.

madam-sahib. See mem-sahib.

Madam Van. (In Grose, 1st ed., erroneously M. Ran.) A whore: c.: late C.17—early 19. B.E.

madame the. The owner or the manageress of a brothel: mid-C.19–20. So often she was French... Cf. madam, n., 1. Madame Bishop. A drink (port, sugar, nutmeg): Aus.: ca. 1880–1920. (Baker.) Ex a formerly well-known hotel-keeper. But 'the drink's attribution to a well-known Australian hotel-keeper may be coincidental' (Ramsey Spencer); in short, the Aus. term may be an extension of C.18–19 S.E. bishop, 'mulled and spiced port' (OED). Note, however, that R.S., 1968, adds that Sir Arthur Bryant, in The Age of Elegance (1950), dates it firmly back to 1814, on the basis of contemporary menus.

Madame de Luce. Deceptive talk: rhyming s. (on spruce): late C.19–20. (Franklyn, Rhyming.) Since ca. 1930, usually madam: cf. madam, 4, and:-

Madame Misharty. 'The personification of sales-talk, exaggerated claims, wild predictions, blarney, flattery and claptrap. "Don't give me the Madame Misharty"' (M.T.): market-traders': C.20. Patrick O'Shaughnessy suggests that the original may have been a fortune-teller. Cf. prec. and madam, n., 4, and v.

madder, n. An unusual or eccentric boy: Harrow School: C.20. (Lunn.) By the 'OXFORD -ER' on mad.

madder than... May be applied to many of the mad as... entries as an intensive. E.g.: Robin Leech notes, 1981, the Can. madder than a wet hen.

madding is gen. misunderstood as = maddening (actually it there = raving) in far from the madding crowd, itself a casual alteration of far from the madding crowd's ignoble strife. (Gray's Elegy.) W.

maddy. A large mussel: nautical coll.: C.19–20. (Bowen.) Ex ob. (?+) Scots moddy, the same.

made. Stolen: see make, v., 1.—2. Lucky: tramps' c.:—1933. Week-End Review, 18 Nov. 1933, anon. article, 'Down and Out'.—3. Hence, perhaps, as in 'We've got it made', everything is satisfactory; often conditional, as 'Once he's done that, well, then he's got it made': coll.: later C.20. (P.B.)

made beer. College swipes bottled with rice, nutmeg, etc., to recondition it: Winchester College coll.: ca. 1840–90. Mansfield.

made in Germany. Bad, valueless: late C.19–20: coll. >, by 1915, S.E. Ware.

made of money?, do you think I'm; or you must think I'm... A c.p. to a financial importunate: C.20.

made to walk up Ladder Lane and down Hemp Street. Hanged at the yard-arm: nautical: C.19. Bowen. By 'allusive topography': cf. gutter lane.

made up. Promoted: Services': C.20. 'He was made up to corporal one day, and busted straight back down again the next' (P.B.).

made up strong. Heavily yet effectively painted and powdered: (low) coll.: C.20.

madge, occ. madge howlet. The female pudend: low: later C.18–late 19. (Grose.) Cf. -dial. madge howlet, barn owl.—2. (Only madge.) A woman: Scots coll.: C.19. (Jamieson.) Cf. maggie, 1.

madge-cove or -cull. A sodomite: resp. ca. 1820–60 (Bee) and c. of ca. 1780–1850 (Grose, 1st ed.). Cf. mag, n. 10. Mademoiselle from Armentiers has, from 1919 and esp. among Cockneys, been the female counterpart—occ. the companion—of Ballocky Bill the Sailor.

madhouse! The call for three (one plus double one): darts players': since ca. 1930.

Madhouse, the. The Public Relations Office at Algiers: Army officers': 1943–4. P-G-R.—2. Granville glosses it as 'The Admiralty, Whitehall, London' (RN: C.20), but it is frequently applied to any headquarters, administrative office, or even one's own establishment ('Welcome to the madhouse!'): coll.: later C.20. (P.B.) madman's broth. Brandy: Aus.: C.20. (Mary Durack, Keep Him My Country, 1955.) Cf. lunatic soup, q.v.

madza. Half. Hence madza caroon, half a crown; madza saltee, a halfpenny; madza poona, half a sovereign; also madza-beargered, half drunk, and madza round the bull, half a pound of steak. Parlyaree: from ca. 1850. Ex It. mezzo, a half, via Lingua Franca, and gen. pronounced medzer. Variants are medza, -er; midzer; qq.v.

Mae West. A life-jacket worn by aircrews: RAF: since 1937 or 1938. 'A pilot "goes to the movies" ... wearing a "Mae West" —a life-jacket which bulges in the right places—in case he lands in the water' (Allan A. Michie & Isabel Waitt, 'Air Slangage', Reader's Digest, Feb. 1941); Jackson, 1943, 'The film actress Mae West being especially notable for her buxom bosom thereby assuring for herself a place in the dictionary. Now used officially.'—2. Hence, a lifebelt issued to troops at sea: army: 1940–5.—3. A breast: rhyming s.: ca. 1930–50. Franklyn, Rhyming.

mafeesh! Finished; done with; dead: Eastern Front military in WW1. (C.J. Dennis, 1916; B. & P.) Ex Arabic. P.B.: the term continued in army use until well into later C.20, esp. in mafeesh feloos, no money!, or, occ., 'free!'

Mafeking is relieved! A c.p. used by shift workers on being relieved; also, vulgarly, by workmen after defecation: Aus.: C.20. (B.P.) See DCpp.

maffick, to rejoice wildly as a crowd, orig. s., rapidly > coll. and, by 1902, S.E. Ex the rejoicing at the relief of Mafeking (S. Africa) onay 1900. Revived in Nov. 1918, it is now moribund. W.: OED.

maña. Occ. joc. use: see e.g. quo't n at edge, n., 2.

mafish is an occ. var. of mafeesh.

mag, n. Talk; chatter: coll.: 1778, Mme D'Arblay, 'If you have any mag in you, we'll draw it out'; slightly ob. Ex maggie.—2. A chatterer: coll.: from ca. 1890.—3. A magazine: coll.: C.19–20. Wolcot, 'Hawkesbury ... who wrote in mags for hire.'—4. A halfpenny: c.: 1781 (G. Parker). Ex make, a halfpenny, influenced by meg, a guinea. Cf. maggie, 4. 'Ducange Anglicus' defines it as a penny (1857).—5. A maggie: C.17–20 coll. verging on S.E.—6. A 'maggie': shooting: 1895 (OED). See maggie, 6.—7. A magnet: motorists' coll.: 1919.—8. A face: low: 1899 (Clarence Rook). ? var. of mug.—9. (pron. madge). A magistrate; policemen's: since ca. 1870. Ernest Raymond, We the Accused, 1935.—10. In C.18 c. and low s., a sodomite. (James Dalton, A Narrative, 1726.) Perhaps short for Maggie. P.B.: cf. also madge-cove, q.v.—11. The magazine of a rifle or machine-gun: Services': C.20. As in the joc. parody of the 'immediate actions to be performed' when a Bren-gun jammed: 'Mag. off, butt off, fuck off!' (P.B.)—12. In on the mag, on the look-out for victims: c.: ca. 1845–60. 'No. 747'.

mag, v.i. To talk (noisily), chatter; to scold: coll.: 1810 (OED). Ex the n., 1.—2. To steal: Scots c.: from ca. 1815; ob. Scott.—3. To talk to or at: Aus.: C.20. 'You magged the poor boy into a daze. You and your silly stories' (H.D. Williamson, Sammy Anderson, 1959).

mag-flyer; mag-flying. A player of, a game of, pitch and toss: c.: resp. 1882, 1883. Ex mag, n., 4, q.v. Powis, 1977, notes its continued currency.

mag-stake. Money obtained by the confidence trick: c.: from ca. 1838; ob. See magsman.

Maga. Blackwood's Magazine: literary s. >, ca. 1860, coll. >, ca. 1890, S.E.: 1825, in Blackwood's itself. Abbr. magazine: cf. mag, n., 3.

Magdalen marm. An unsatisfactory servant: Southwark coll.: ca. 1840–90. Ware, 'A servant from the Magdalen, a refuge for fallen women in the Blackfriars Road, which existed there until about the middle of the [19th] century. The women who went out as servants had been too often pampered there.'

magg. A var. of mag, n., 4.

maggd. Irritable, irritated; (of a rope) frayed: nautical: late C.19–20. (Bowen.) Cf. Bedfordshire maggd, exhausted, itself prob. ex the very old dial. maggie, to tease, to exhaust, itself perhaps cognate with L. maclare (to afflict or punish), as Joseph Wright seems to imply.

Magger of Bagger, the. The Master of Balliol: Oxford undergraduates':—1920 (Marples, 2). Cf.:-

Maggers' Memugger, the. The Martyrs' Memorial: Oxford Undergraduates': from late 1890s. (Ware.) The 'OXFORD -ER'.

maggie, a girl, is Scots.—2. As = maggie, 6, it is shooting s.: C.20.—3. A magnetic detector: wireless operators': from ca. 1925. (Bowen.) Cf. mag, n., 7.—4. As M-, HMS Magnificent; the White Star liner Majestic: resp. RN (C.20) and nautical (late C.19–20). Bowen.—5. A Miles Magister elementary training aircraft: RAF: since ca. 1938. (E.P., 'Air Warfare and its Slang', New Statesman, 19 Sep. 1942.) I.e. 'Magister'.—6. A magnetic mine: RN: 1939+.—7. A machine-gun nest: army: 1940–5. (P-G-R.) Maggie is the diminutive of Mag: here we have mag, derived thus: machine-gun nest.—8. Mostly in pl Maggies, matrons at Borstal institutions: since ca. 1930. Home Office.—9. A magpie: C.20, Aus. coll. Cf. cocky. (Mrs C. Raab.)—10. See where Maggie wore the beads.

Maggie, adj. Pertaining to Newcastle United Football Club: sporting: later C.20. Paul Corrigan, in New Society, 5 July 1979, quotes a local teenager describing his leisure activities: 'We find a few Maggie supporters and kick them in', and glosses "'Maggies" are Newcastle United supporters: the team's black and white are supposed to make them look like magpies'. Cf. Maggies. (P.B.)

Maggie Ann. Margarine: from ca. 1910: military >, by 1919, gen. (B. & P.) Cf. marge.

Maggie Miller. That method of washing clothes which consists in towing them over the stern while the ship is under way: RN: late C.19–20. Granville, 'The origin, like that of most naval slang terms, is lost in obscurity': true; yet perhaps it is Maggie because that is a name common among washerwomen, and as for Miller—well, see Andrew Millar. The Navy's washerwoman?

Maggie Moores, often shortened to maggies, is Aus. rhyming s. for (women's) drawers: C.20. B., 1942.

Maggie Rab or Rob(b). A bad halfpenny or wife: Scots coll.: C.19–20.

Maggies, the. The French Maquis: army in France: 1944–5. P-G-R.

maggng. Talk(ing); chatter: 1814 (Pegge). Ex mag, v., 1. In C.20 Aus., 'chaffing, gossipping' (Culotta).—2. Confidence-trickery, swindling, mostly on a small scale: c.: since ca. 1840. Renton Nicholson, An Autobiography, 1860, at p. 30.

maggot. Money: low s. and c.: C.20. See quo't n at legit, adj. Origin?—2. 'A non-specific term of abuse' (McNeil): Aus. coll.: C.20.—3. See acting the maggot; gallop (one's) ante-lope; mute as a maggot; fool at one end...; when the maggot... maggot-boiler. A tallow-chandler: from ca. 1786; ob. Grose, 2nd ed.

maggot-brained. See EPITHETS, in Appendix, and cf.: maggots in the head, have. To be eccentric; crotchety: low coll.: later C.19—early 20. Cf. bee in (one's) head.

maggoty. Very drunk: Anglo-Irish, esp. public-house s.: C.20. Cf. mouldy, adj., 3.—2. 'Angry, irritable, "snooty"' (Baker): Aus.: since ca. 1915.

maghnoon, n. and adj. A fool, dolt, idiot; mad, silly: coll. among troops in Egypt, late C.19—early 20, and esp. in Mesopotamia and the Middle East in WW1. (F. & G.) Directly ex Arabic. Also maknoon, and other spellings.

magic. Excellent; first-rate; adj. of gen. approbation: popularised by the TV 'Selwyn Froggit Show', character created by the actor Bill Maynard, 1975: in later 1970s, gen. and widespread among the younger generation. Opp. is tragic, for the sake of rhyme, in taunts like 'Leicester City [Football Club] are magic, Nottingham Forest are tragic'. (P.B.)

Magic Carpet, the. A fast goods-train 'not from Arabia, but Kidderminster, bringing fine weaves to London's floors': railwaymen's: from ca. 1920. (Daily Telegraph, 15 Aug. 1936.) Cf. the Biscuit and the Bacca (q.v.).

magic circle, the. The area within a quarter-mile radius of Piccadilly Circus' (Herbert Hodge, It's Draughty in Front, 1938): London taxi-drivers: since ca. 1920. Plenty of 'jobs'.

magic doctors. Ground-staff engineers: RAF: ca. 1930—42, then ob. Weekly Telegraph, 25 Jan. 1941.

magic wand, the. That effectual peacemaker, the penis: joc. rather than euph.: since mid-1960s (?occ., very much earlier). R.S. cites a book-review in the Observer, 29 June 1969.

Maginnis. See MacGinnis.

magistrate. A herring: Scots: C.19—early 20. Cf. Glasgow magistrate.

magnet. The female pudend: low coll.: C.18—early 20.

Magnificat at matins, like or sing. (To do things) out of order: late C.16—17: coll. soon > S.E. (Bishop Andrewes, 1588; Urquhart, 1653.) Cf.—2. Correct Magnificat, to find fault unreasonably and presumptuously: mid-C.16—mid-18: coll. till C.17, then S.E. (Palsgrave, Nashe, L'Estrange.) Ex the idea of changing the Church service. Apperson.

magnificent, high and mighty, is S.E.—2. In pl. 'a state of dignified resentment': 1836. Marryat, 'Jack walked his first watch in the magnificents.' Ob. by 1910, † by 1930.

magnify. To signify: from ca. 1710; after ca. 1870, dial. Steele, 'This magnified but little with my Father' (OED).

magnolia, a piece of. A piece of 'tail', sexual intercourse: Can.: since ca. 1960. (D.J. Barr.)

magnolious. Large, splendid, magnificent: ca. 1870—1930. Ex the splendour of the magnolia.

magnoon. Var. spelling of maghnoon.

magpie. An Anglican bishop: C.18—20 coll. Ex the black and white vestments.—2. His vestments: coll.: from ca. 1880.—3. Whence, the 'blue naval uniform with white trousers for semi-tropical service': RN: C.20. Bowen.—4. A halfpenny: c.: 1838, Dickens (OED). An elab. of mag in same sense.—5. A pie: low: C.19—20, ob.—6. 'A shot striking a target, divided into four sections, in the outermost but one' (F. & H.): 1884 (The Times, 23 July): military coll. >, by 1900, j. Ex the black and white disk (cf. a magpie's colour) with which such a shot is signalled from the butts.—7. A Magpie, a South Australian: C.20. Baker.—8. An official who leaves State papers in a car or taxi: since ca. 1938.—9. A 'scoop' or even a 'clean sweep': racing s.: (?)1770—1840. It occurs in a letter, dated 28 July 1790, from the Duke of Cumberland to the Prince of Wales. (In The Correspondence of George, Prince of Wales, 1770—1812, ed. A. Aspinall in 8 vols, 1963—71. With thanks to Prof. Anthony Brown of N. Carolina.) magpie rig. The distinguishing, degrading uniform worn by non-swimmers—white duck trousers and blue jumpers' (Peppitt, citing D.L. Summers, HMS 'Ganges', 1966): C.20. Cf. magpie, 3.

Magpies, the. Newcastle United Football Club: sporting: C.20. Ex their magpie-coloured jerseys. See Maggie, adj.

—2. 'In N.S.W., the Western Suburbs Rugby League team' (Wilkes): Aus. sporting: later C.20.—3. Collingwood VFL footballers: Melbourne: since ca. 1910. (B., 1943.) 2 and 3 for the same reason as 1.

magpies' nest. The female pudend: low coll.: C.18—early 20.

mags. A gratuity expected by servants: Scots coll.: ca. 1830—1930.

magsman; occ. megsman. A street swindler; a confidence trickster: 1838 (The Town, 27 Jan.); Mayhew; G.R. Sims. Ob. Ex mag, n., talk.—2. In 'No. 747', the ref. being to 1845—the sense was † by 1900, he is a fashionably dressed swindler travelling in, or awaiting trains.—3. Of magsmen or, better, megsmen, Powis, 1977, notes 'Petty thieves and cheats, in a small way of business, and used contemptuously'.—4. A talkative person, a chatterer: Aus.: since ca. 1925. (D'Arcy Niland, Call Me When the Cross Turns Over, 1958.) Cf. mag, v., 1, 3.

mahcheen. A merchant: Anglo-Chinese:—1865 (H., 3rd ed.). Ex Chinese pron.

mahleesh. See maleesh.

mahog. 'Occasional use for mahogany' (Petch, 1969): joc.: C.20; prob. since the 1880s, as in get (one's) feet under the old mahog. Cf.:-

mahogany. A dining-table: coll.: 1840, Dickens, 'You three gentlemen with your legs under the mahogany in my humble parlour.' Also mahogany tree, q.v. Hence have one's feet under another man's table, to dine with another person; a slightly later nuance was 'to live on another': coll.: mid-C.19—early 20.—2. A drink of two parts gin to one part treacle: from ca. 1790: s. ex Cornish dial.; long † except in dial. (Boswell.) Ex the colour.—3. A strong mixture of brandy and water: from ca. 1815; ob.—4. Salt beef: nautical; from ca. 1840; ob. Ex its hardness.—5. In amputate (one's) mahogany, to run away: ca. 1850—80. Cf. cut (one's) sticks.—6. In the mahogany, (of locomotive crews) 'Returning to home depot as a passenger after working a special train. Also known as returning "on the cushions"' (McKenna, Glossary): railwaymen's: C.20.—7. See cedar, 3.

mahogany bomber. The desk which an office-bound pilot 'flies': RAF: later C.20 Strong & Hart-Davis, Fighter Pilot, 1981.

mahogany-flat. A bug: ca. 1860—1905. Cf. heavy cavalry; Norfolk Howard; flats and chits.

mahogany slosh. Cook-shop, or coffee-stall, tea: Cockneys': ca. 1870—1914. Ex the colour and the taste.

Mahogany Top. Nickname for a red-headed man: ca. 1860—1900. (D.W. Barrett, 1880.) Cf. Copper Knob.

mahogany tree. A dining-table: 1847 (Thackeray): coll.; † by 1920. Cf. mahogany, 1.

Mahometan gruel. Coffee: ca. 1787—1900; coll. (Grose, 2nd ed.) Because orig. coffee was drunk mostly by the Turks.

maid, — neither wife, widow, nor. See maiden-wife-widow, 2.

maid, v. To act as maid to: theatrical coll.: C.20. Somerset Maugham, Theatre, 1937, "'I'm young enough to dress 'er. And maid 'er.'"

Maid tends, in Aus., to be prefixed to any girl named Marion: C.20. Ex the Maid Marion of the Robin Hood legend. (B.P.) Cf.:-

Maid Marian in the usual sense is (despite F. & H.) S.E.—2. A big woman: Leicester Square, London: ca. 1882—90. (Ware.) Ex a giantess so named.

maidan (pronounced mydahm). A plain, an open space; parade-ground: army, resp. coll. and s.: late C.19—20. (B. & P.) Ex Hindustani.

maiden. A decapitating machine: late C.16—19: coll. (mostly Scots) >, ca. 1800, S.E. To be executed by this device was to 'kiss the maid'.—2. A maiden speech: Parliamentary coll.: late C.19—20.—3. Cloves; peppermint: Aus.: ca. 1870—1920. B., 1942.—4. Probationary nurse that is paid less and works more: Norland nurses': since ca. 1920.

Maiden Town. Edinburgh: Scots coll.: C.18—mid-19. Ex 'a tradition that the maiden daughter of a Pictish king sought protection there during a time of civil war' (F. & H.).

maiden-wife-widow. The widow of a man 'that could never enjoy her maidenhead' (Randle Holme, 1688): coll.: ca. 1680–1800.—2. A whore: coll.: ca. 1670–1850. (Ray, Fuller.) Gen. neither maid, wife, nor widow.

Maidenhead maggot. A shirker: WW1. ('Sapper' in the Lieutenant, 1915.) Ex 'lounge lizards' disporting themselves at Maidenhead. maidenheads. Parentheses: Can. printers': late C.19–20. Cf. parentheses.

maiden's blush. Ginger beer and raspberry cordial: Aus.: C.20. Baker.

maiden's prayer, the. A (sausage-shaped) observation-balloon: military: 1915–18. (Anatomical.) Also the virgin's dream.

maiden's water. Any weak drink, esp. of beer: since ca. 1880. Whence, probably, maid's water.

maids adorning. The morning: rhyming s.:—1859 (H., 1st ed.).

maid's ring. The hymen: Cockney coll.: C.19–20.

maid's water. Any weak drink; esp. of tea: Aus.: late C.19–20. Baker.

Maidstone jailor. A tailor: rhyming s.:—1857 ('Ducange Anglicus'); ob. by 1930.

mail, n. A liquor-carrier for an illicit grog-shop: S. African c.: C.20. (Cape Times, 23 May 1946.) He carries important 'messages'.—2. In get up the mail, to find the money for a prisoner's defence: c.: from ca. 1840; ob. Ex mail, payment: cf. blackmail.

mail, v. To post (a letter): orig. (1828), US: anglicised ca. 1860 as coll.; in C.20, S.E., but not at all gen. H., 3rd ed.; SOD.

mail run, the. Regular air-raids on Benghazi: RAF in N. Africa: 1941–3. Cf. milk round, 1.

mail up! A coll. c.p. 'shout of joy and expectation when letters and parcels [have] arrived from home': military: C.20. B. & P.

mailed fist. Needless threats; boasting: 1897–ca. 99. Satiric of the Kaiser's farewell speech to his brother Henry, when sent forth by him 'to conquer China with a fleet of two sail—all of which ended in leasing a coaling-station by China to Germany' (Ware).

mailhas or mailyas. Fingers: Shelta: C.18–20. (B. & L.) See mauley.

mails. Mexican railway shares: Stock Exchange: from ca. 1890. F. & H.

main, n. The main line: railwaymen's coll.:—1887 (Baumann).—2. See turn on the main, to weep.

main avenue. The vagina: low: C.19–early 20.

main-brace. See splice the mainbrace.

main chance. By itself, the main chance occurs as early as 1597 in Shakespeare and notably in 1693, in Dryden's translation of Persius: 'Be careful still of the main chance, my son.' An eye to the main chance appears first in Jonson's play, The Case is Altered, 1609, it is often prec. by have (a var. is stand to the main chance, 1579), and it may have orig. in the game of hazard. Orig. = the most important issue or feature or possibility, it has, in C.19–20, very rarely meant other than the chance of profit or advantage to oneself. Prob. always coll. (except in C.20, when it is S.E.), though the OED hints a c. complexion.

main-drain loungers. See main-drain rangers.

main drain on the wallet. 'A heavy expense, usually female. After one of the large bore pipes' (John Malin, 1979): RN, esp. HM submarine Astute: mid-1960s.

main-drain rangers. Fish of an indeterminate species served at dinner in the wardroom. A pej. term' (Granville): RN officers': C.20. Cf. prec. Also main-drain loungers.

main iron. A main track (railway line): Can. railroadmen's:—1931. Also main stem.

main-line, v. 'To inject [a narcotic drug] intravenously' (Home Office): drugs world: adopted, ex US, ca. 1950 (? earlier). Hence, main-liner, 'Confirmed "hard" drug addict who injects drugs directly into a vein' (Powis), and main-lining, the practice: id. See esp. Underworld.

main pin. An official: Can. railroadmen's:—1931.

main-sheet. Strong drink; esp. brandy: Jamaica: from ca. 1880.

main stem. Var. of main iron.

main toby. A main road: c. of ca. 1800–90. See toby.

main vein, the. The female pudend: to stab in the m.v., to coit with (a woman): low, esp. among drug addicts: since ca. 1950.

mainbrace. See splice the mainbrace.

mainga. Water: S. African coll.: C.20. (F. & G.) The perversion of a Zulu word, amanzi or manzi, in which the a is pronounced ah.

maids, the. A brothel: Brit. Army in Germany: late 1918+. B. & P. maipan. A steward: (Canton) pidgin: mid-C.19–20. (B. & L.) The Chinese word means 'compradore or purveyor'.

Majesty's School for Heavy Needlework, Her or His. See ironmongery department.

major, the. The (usu., Regimental) Sergeant-Major: army and marines' coll.: earlier C.20. Vocative: Major. Good-enough, 1901; Bowen.—2. 'Wardroom form of address, or term for, the senior Royal Marine, though he be only a captain' (Granville): RN: C.20. Musings, 1912, p. 12.—3. For major and minor as used at Eton, see ETON, §3, in Appendix. See, further, ma, 3.

major domo. See TAVERN TERMS, §5, in Appendix.

Major Grocer. Incorrect for Major Groce, an Aus. fruit: C.19–20. (Morris.) Groce is, presumably, itself incorrect for Grose: see quot'n in Morris at Major Buller, and Grose, P., p. 383.

major in. To take (e.g. Latin) as a major subject: from ca. 1925: coll. >, by 1933, S.E. Ex major subject(s) or perhaps direct ex US major, a major subject.

Major Loder. Soda: rhyming slang: C.20. 'From Major Eustace Loder (b. 1867), owner of the famous racehorse Pretty Polly (Franklyn 2nd). Chiefly in 'whisky and soda'. Cf. Rosy Loader.

Major McFluffer; Fluffy. A 'sudden lapse of memory, and use of words to call the attention of the inattentive prompter': theatrical:—1887.—2. fluffy is also an adj. See fluff, v.i. Ware gives an anecdotal origin. Cf. Captain MacFluffer.

major operation. Cutting a person dead: since ca. 1935.

major sa(u)ltee. A corruption of madza sa(u)ltee, q.v. at madza.

Major Stevens. Evens (in betting): rhyming: C.20.

mak gauw! Be quick: S. African coll.: late C.19–20. Ex Dutch maken, to make, to do; gauw, quick. Pettman, who confines it to Dutch-speaking districts.

make, n. A halfpenny: c., from ca. 1545; since ca. 1860, only dial. and Scottish and Dubliners'. Harman.—2. A successful theft or swindle: c.:—1748; † by 1910. (Dyche, 5th ed.; H., 5th ed.) Cf. OED dating.—3. In on the make, (of either sex) seeking sexual adventures: Can.: since ca. 1920. Cf. make, v., 6, to copulate.—4. On the make, (of either sex) engaged in winning affection: Aus.: since ca. 1925. (B., 1943.) Senses 3 and 4 are ex.—5. On the make, intent on booty or profit: orig.,—1887 (Baumann), c. >, by 1900, s. >, by 1930, coll. Adopted ex US.

make, v. To steal: late C.17–20: c. >, in C.20, low; very common, e.g., among soldiers in WW1 (B.E.) Cf. the exact synonym in Fr. c.: faire.—2. Hence, to appropriate: Winchester College: late C.18–20 (Wrench). Ex dial. The sense of unlawful acquisition was very common in 1914–18, as in 'We've made three shovels last night; that brings us up to correct' (B. & P., 3rd ed., p. 321).—3. The sense, 'to earn' is S.E.—4. With ellipsis of infinitive: coll.: not recorded before, but prob. at least ten years earlier than, 1888, The Times, 11 Aug. 'The enemy will not play the game according to the rules, and there are none to make him' (OED).—5. To catch (a train, boat, etc.): from ca. 1885: in 1930s, verging on coll.

Ex the C.17–20 S.E. sense, orig. nautical, 'arrive at'.—6. Hence, to coit with (a girl): Can., adopted ca. 1918 ex US; Aus. since ca. 1944; and, by ca. 1955, Brit.—7. See as—as they make 'em.

make a balls (of). To make a thorough mess (of a job). See balls, 3, and cf. make a box.

make a big feller (occ. fellow) of (one)self. To give the impression that one is magnanimous' (B.P.): Aus.: since ca. 1945.

make a blue with a rat. To cause a die to hit an obstruction: Aus. gamblers': since ca. 1920. B., 1953.

make a bolt of it. To run away: decamp: coll.: from ca. 1850; slightly ob. B. & L.

make a bomb. To become rich, to 'make a packet': low: since ca. 1945. (Norman.) 'Sold the house just at the right moment, luckily—made a bomb on it, too'.

make a box of. To muddle: Aus.: C.20. (B., 1942.) Cf. make a balls of; prob. euph. for ballocks.

make a break. To run away from the police: Aus. and NZ c.—1932, > by 1940, s. The Eng. is usu. make a break for it; used by prisoners of war, WW2.

make a cat laugh, it's enough to or it would. It is extremely funny, droll, ludicrous: coll.: 1851 (Planché); 1898, Weyman. Still, 1970s, occ. heard. Cf. make a dog ...

make a clean job of it. See job, n., 16.

make a cock-up. See cock-up, n., 2.

make a come-back. To succeed again after a (long) retirement: orig. sporting coll.: since ca. 1920. (Punch, 11 Apr. 1934.) Var. stage a comeback.

make a dead bird of. See bird, n., 10.

make a dead set. See dead set.

make a dog laugh, enough to. Synon. with make a cat ...: C.17—early 19 coll. (Pepys; Wolcot.) A further var., recorded by Apperson, is 'twould make a fly laugh: (?C.17) C.18 coll.

make a duck. (Batsman at cricket) to score nothing. See duck, n., 7.

make a (good, poor, etc.) fist at (or of)it. To do, or attempt to do, a thing, with good, bad, etc., result: US, perhaps orig. Brit.: since early C.19: coll. W.N. Glascock, Naval Sketch-Book, 2nd series, 1834, at I, 280: 'Now, Ned, d'ye know, I doesn't think you'd make a bad fist yourself at a speech' (Moe). By mid-C.20 'poor' or 'bad' could be merely implied, as in 'He began to pack his belongings. He made such a fist of it that I joined in to help' (J.W.G. Moran, Spearhead in Malaya, 1959).

make a go of (it). To succeed: since ca. 1920.

make a hare of. To render ridiculous; expose the ignorance of: coll., mostly and orig. Anglo-Irish: from ca. 1830. Carleton; Lever, 'It was Mister Curran made a hare of your Honor that day.'

make a hole in (something). See hole in ...

make a job of (someone). To thrash or trounce; to defeat severely: Aus.: since ca. 1905. (B., 1943.) Cf. job, v., 3; 'a good job' is implied.

make a Judy (Fitzsimmons) of (one)self. See Judy, 2, and Judy Fitzsimmons.

make a kick. To raise an objection: proletarian: from ca. 1860. (B. & L.) Cf. kick, n., 7.

make a light. To see, look; to find: Aus. 'pidgin':—1859 (Henry Kingsley; Morris).

make a long arm. To stretch one's arm after something: coll.: from ca. 1830.

make a long nose. See long bacon.

make a loose. To escape. See VERBS, in Appendix.

make a meal of (what normally needs only one swallow). To go on and on about some matter; to wallow in it: coll.: since ca. 1925.—2. To be over-conscientious, looking for problems: publishers' coll.: later 1970s. 'There's no need to make such a meal of those straightforward proofs.' (Mrs C. Raab.)

make a meet. To meet the immediate seller of the drug (the connection): drug addicts': since ca. 1930, if not a decade earlier. Hearings, 1955.

make a mess of. See mess, n., 1.

make-a-million-quick merchants. The modern get-rich-quick types' (Petch, 1974): since late 1940s. Cf. merchant.

make a monkey of. To make someone look ridiculous: adopted, ex US, ca. 1930. Cf.:-

make a monkey out of; be made a monkey of. To use, be used, as a dupe, esp. as a cat's-paw: adopted, ca. 1943, ex US Servicemen.

make a napkin of (one's) dish-clout. To make a misalliance in marriage. See napkin, 4.

make a night of it. To spend the night in gambling and/or drinking and/or whoring: coll.: since ca. 1870.

make a noise and make a noise like a ... See noise.

make a pass at. To attempt (a person's) virtue; to try to caress: adopted ex US ca. 1930. Cf. Dorothy Parker's famous couplet: 'Men seldom make passes/At girls who wear glasses.' (Usu. of the male) to suggest sexual intimacies to: the nuance predominant in Britain since ca. 1945.

make a pay-day. To earn extra money by doing odd jobs for other ratings: RN lowerdeck: latish C.19–20. Goodenough, 1901.

make a row over the stones. (Of a ship) 'to pound heavily in the sea': nautical: late C.19—early 20. Bowen.

make a sale. To vomit: NZ and Aus. low: C.20. B., 1941; 1943.

make a straight arm. To offer a bribe: nautical: late C.19–20. Bowen.

make a welter of it. See welter, 2.

make a wry mouth. To be hanged: semi-proverbial coll.: C.17. Cotgrave.

make all right. To promise to pay for vote: electioneering coll.: mid-C.19—early 20. Ware.

make (one's) alley good. Aus. var. of make (one's) marble good.

make an honest woman of. To marry: joc. coll.: C.20. Ex lit. sense, to marry a woman one has seduced or lived with. Collinson.

make and break. To make and mend (clothes): lowerdeck: late C.19–20. (Knock.) Cf.:-

make and mend. The naval half-holiday on Thursday, nominally for attending to one's clothes: RN:—1899 (Navy and Army Illustrated, 14 Oct.: Moe).—2. Hence, off-duty hours: since ca. 1930. Cf.:-

make and mend pudding. 'Baked jam roll, a heavy helping of which induces sleep on a sailor's half-holiday' (Granville): RN: C.20.

make brick. See making brick.

make (or making) buttons. Nervous. See buttons, 6, 7.

make capital out of. To turn to account; to take advantage of an opportunity presented: coll. almost immediately > S.E.: since ca. 1850.

make cheeses. (Schoolgirls') the making of one's dress and petticoat, after a rapid gyration of the body and a quick sinking to the ground or floor, spread into a cheese-like form. Hence, to curtsy profoundly. Coll.; from ca. 1855. (Thackeray, De Quincey, Besant & Rice.) Ex Fr. faire des fromages: even Littré records it.

make children's shoes. To be fooled, mocked, depreciated: coll.: C.17–19. Mrs Centlivre.

make (one's) coffin. To charge (a person) too highly for an article: tailors':—1909 (Ware). P.B.: cf. the later C.20 comment on strikers for higher wages, 'They're cutting their own throats.'

make cold meat of. To kill: prob. from ca. 1820. Dickens, in Pickwick, causes a game-keeper to say to a bad shot, 'I'm damned if you won't make cold meat of some of us!' Cf. cook one's goose, and cold meat, q.v.

make dead men chew tobacco. To keep the names of dead men on the books: naval: late C.18—early 19. John Davis, The Post-Captain, 1805.

make down. To re-make so as to fit a smaller wearer: coll.: from ca. 1890. OED.

make easy. To gag; to kill: mid-C.18—early 19, low if not c.

(Grose, 1st ed.) For the latter sense, quiet was occ. preferred. make 'em. See as—as they make 'em.

make ends meet. To copulate: low joc.: C.19–20.

make (one's) expenses. To gamble in the train: cardsharper's c.: late C.19–20.

make faces. To beget children: C.18—early 19.—2. In make faces at, to deceive, disappoint, or verbally attack a friend: c.: ca. 1870–1920.

make free with the land. To hug the shore: nautical coll.: C.20. Bowen.

make (someone) go all unnecessary. To excite, esp. sexually; to arouse passion or a mere momentary 'letch': since ca. 1930. 'She made him go all unnecessary, the hussy.' Also 'He makes me come over all unnecessary.' Var. do things to. The implications are functional.

make good. To succeed: coll.: adopted, ex US, ca. 1913. P.B.: in later C.20, esp. in phrase 'Local boy makes good', often used ironically or mockingly, parodying cliché headline in provincial newspaper.

make (one's) hair curl. To cause one to shudder, to frighten: coll.:—1931 (Lyell). 'Quite frequently heard during WW2 when a particularly potent drink was being offered, "This'll make your hair curl"—i.e. do you good' (R.S., 1971). Low variants are make (one's) liver (C.19–20) or teeth (mid-C.20) curl. Cf. 'put hairs on your chest' or 'put lead in your pencil', and contrast curl (one's) hair.

make (one's) hair stand on end. Usu. enough to ..., or, e.g., 'It'd make your ... the things they do!' A var. of the prec., but always in sense of 'to frighten, horrify': coll., and, perhaps in C.20, S.E. (P.B.)

make hay. (Transitively with of.) To cause confusion; defeat heavily whether manually or verbally; upset; 'kick up a row': university:—1817; the v.i. was ob. by 1920. H. Kingsley, the v.i.; v.t. in Maria Edgeworth and Pall Mall Gazette, 9 June 1886, 'Sussex made hay of the Gloucestershire bowling.'

make hay while the sun shines. Profitably to employ one's time: proverbial coll. (—1546) >, ca. 1800, a S.E. metaphor. Anticipated by Barclay in 1509.

make horns. A † coll. var. of make faces.

make indentures. To stagger drunkenly. See indentures.

make it. To succeed; to become prosperous: coll.: adopted ex US ca. 1933. Ex make, v., 5.—2. To cope with anything: Can. (hence Brit.): adopted ex US ca. 1942. Hence the punning slogan, ca. 1951, 'Britain can make it!' Cf. hack, v., 2, 3.

make it a welter. See welter.

make it bad for other people. To set too good an example in one's work: Services: since ca. 1925.

make it fly. To spend money very freely; go on the spree: coll.: late C.19–20. 'He's making it fly.'

make it stick. To assert or plead convincingly: coll.: since ca. 1940. (Petch, 1969.) P.B.: ex police or lawyers' coll. of 'making a charge stick' on a criminal it is hoped to convict.

make it, usu. be making it, together. To copulate: mostly teenagers': since late 1940s. Cf. make, v., 6.

make it warm for. To punish, thrash: coll.: from ca. 1880. (Ware.) Cf. warm, v., 1. Cf. hot, adj., 16.

make leg. To become prosperous: London lower classes': —1909 (Ware).

make legs. To run (esp., away): (?) mid-C.17–18. (Roger Boyle, Guzman, 1969, at III, iii: Moe.) Cf., semantically, the Am. make with the feet.

make like ... To act like; e.g., make like a bird, go away; like an oyster, make no noise; like a rich guy, pretend to be rich: Can.: mid-C.20, adopted ex US. 'From the Yiddish "mach wie ..."' (Leechman, 1967). Make like a boid, in CANADIAN ADOLESCENTS' SLANG in Appendix, is the US form. Cf. make with ...

make (one's) marble good. To improve one's position or status: Aus.: since ca. 1925. (Kylie Tennant, 1956.) Ex the game of marbles.

make (one's) money. To make money 'on the side', e.g. by giving short change, purloining cigarette-cases: waiters': late C.19–20. Cf. makesures, q.v.

make (one's) mouth go. To talk too much: since ca. 1960. Applied esp. to a gossiping mischief-maker. (Petch, 1969.)

make mouths. To grin; jeer: late C.16–20: S.E. >, ca. 1880, coll. Shakespeare, Hamlet, IV, iv.

make mutton of. To kill (a person): low coll.: late C.19—earlier 20. Manchon.

make no bones. To hesitate not; make no scruple: C.16–20; coll. Udall, Greene, Wycherley, Thackeray. In C.15–16 the more gen. phrase was find no bones (in the matter): this,—along with without more bones, without further obstacle, delay, discussion (late C.16–19),—would indicate that the reference is to bones in soup or stew.

make no never mind. To be either unimportant or of no importance whatever, as in 'That makes no never mind'; the palliative or the consolatory 'Never mind!' doesn't apply: Can. coll.: adopted, ca. 1930, ex US, where prob. orig. dial. (Leechman.)

make noises about. To talk about, to discuss, not necessarily in public; often with implication of being concerned about, or pressing for, something, as in, 'They're making noises about wanting to take it to higher authority': coll.: since early 1970s. (P.B.) Cf. make the right noises.

make (one's) numbers. To make oneself known: RN: C.20. (Bowen.) Ex 'a ship showing her pennant numbers when entering harbour' (Granville, who glosses it further, 'to report for duty in a new ship'). Adopted, ca. 1930, and still current 1970s, among army officers, as make (one's) number, and in the sense 'to get oneself acquainted in the right quarter'. E.P., New Statesman, 1 Aug. 1942; P.B.

make on. To make-believe, to 'pretend': children's: C.20. 'Let's make on!'

make one, as in 'The Jerries are making us one', the Germans are making fools of us: army: since ca. 1930. P-G-R.—2. 'Make (or attempt to) escape, make a demonstration, riot' (John McVicar, McVicar by Himself, 1974): prison s.: later C.20.—3. In make one with (another person), to partner him in a robbery or other crime: c.: since ca. 1940. G.F. Newman, The Guvnor, 1977.

make out. In how do you make it out that ..., or how do you make that out, in what way do you come to believe that?: coll.: 1887 (Lewis Carroll: OED).—2. In sense 'get on (badly, well)', it is S.E. of mainly US usage, despite its coll. ring.

make passes at. See make a pass at.

make perde. To cause trouble: S. African c. (and, by 1940, also low s.): late C.19–20. (Cope Times, 3 June 1946.) Lit., perde is Afrikaans for 'horses': cf. Dutch paarde, a horse.

make (one's) pile. To amass a fortune: coll.: adopted, ca. 1875, ex US.

make rabbits. See rabbits, 4.

make (one)self scarce. See scarce.

make settlement in tail. To copulate; a pun on the legal S.E. tail (ex Fr. taille, assessment), limitation as to freehold or inheritance. K.W., 1661, has tenure in tail (OED).

make shuffling mutes like a cardsharp. To play the trumpet with muted or muffled notes with exceptional skill: entertainers' (in 'pop' music and among their devotees): since ca. 1960. The Times, 2 Oct. 1973. (L.A.) make strange. (Of a child) to behave shyly: Can. coll.: C.20. 'See the nice lady? Don't make strange now!'

make (a machine) talk. To design, or to use, it with extraordinary skill: coll.: since ca. 1920.

make the chimney smoke. To cause the female to experience the orgasm: low: mid-C.19–20.

make the county. To become an accepted member of County society: since ca. 1945. Angus Wilson, A Bit off the Map, 1957.

make the fur (or feathers) fly. To attack successfully (someone's for the): to quarrel noisily; to cause an uproar: coll.: adopted ex US ca. 1860.

make the grade. (Gen. in negative or interrogative.) To be able to do a thing; to meet a standard, 'come up to scratch': US (late C.19) adopted in Brit. ca. 1930. Ex railway j.

make the right noises. (Often all the right ...) To use unexceptionable platitudes, as, e.g., Civil Servants often do; to keep to the letter of the party line, as politicians are wont; or simply, in general, to be polite and politic in circumstances where courtesy demands: coll.: since ca. 1950. (L.A. reminder, 1976.) Cf. make noises about.

make the scene. Paul Janssen, 1968, quotes Miss Needham, an American authority, as defining it thus: 'To become part of a social, artistic, or political movement. Loosely ... to go "someplace" and ... indulge in a specific activity.' He then quotes Mr Peter Stansill: 'The expression ... is (in England at least) a rather loose phrase. Essentially ... to get involved with something. For example, "to make the country scene" means quite simply "to go to the country". In publicity ... "Glamour, the lipstick that makes the scene" ... just implies that it is the lipstick that gives your lips the grooviest (best) look ... It is a rather flexible, loose and vague expression that is slowly becoming more widely used in Standard English'—well, hardly that! Let's say that, even by 1977, let alone 1968, it was—and still is—becoming widely used in gen. Brit. s. P.B.: by 1983, it feels 'dated'.

make the sties look blue. To carouse; have a very jolly time: ca. 1660–1750. Reuben Bourne, The Contented Cuckold, 1692, at I, i. (Moe.) make them. See as—as they make 'em.

make tracks. To depart hurriedly: orig. (1833), US; anglicised ca. 1860. Thornton.

make up, v.i.; make up to, v.t. To make love (to a person): coll.: from ca. 1820. EDD.—2. See made up.

make up (one's) leg. To make money: costermongers': —1909 (Ware). Cf. make leg.

make up (one's) mouth. To obtain one's living: low coll.: from ca. 1880; ob. Cf. † S.E. sense, to finish a meal with something very delicious.

make up the log. To note the pay: tailors': from ca. 1850. B. & L.

make V. To make horns (the first and second fingers being derisively forked out) as an implication of cuckoldry: coll.: early C.17. Chapman.

make waves. To upset established or accepted routine or procedure: Civil Service, politicians', businessmen's: since ca. 1972. (Sir Edward Playfair, 1972.) In short, to 'rock the boat'.—2. Hence, to stir up (usu. unnecessary) trouble. In Clement & La Frenais, A Further Stir of Porridge, 1977, a prisoner says of himself: 'Only eight months to do if I keep my nose clean. Why make waves, eh?' (P.B.)

make way for a naval officer! A WW1 army c.p. which survived into later C.20. I.e. 'I'm (or we're) coming through—so look out! A var., make way for Woolwich Arsenal!, was applied, WW1, by satirical, though not unkindly, onlookers, to the 'Poor Bloody Infantry' so heavily encumbered with weapons and equipment. See also gangway for ...

make with. To make: adopted, ca. 1959, ex US. "Has he tried to blackmail you?" "Well, not exactly. But he sort of makes with sinister hints, you know" (Nicholas Blake, The Sad Variety, 1964). There are other nuances, esp. 'to use', the others more or less deriving therefrom. Of Can. usage, Dr Leechman has, 1967, noted that "Now, Fritz. Make with the fiddle!" and similar expressions are often heard. "Make with the accelerator!" "Make with the beer!" From the Yiddish "mach mit der ..."

make yes of it. To agree; to accept: lower classes' coll.: —1923 (Manchon).

make your hair (or liver, or teeth) curl, this'll. See make (one's) hair ...

make yourself at our house! A joc. coll. var., in C.20, of S.E. make yourself at home. It is a c.p., now ob.

makee. 'To make, do, cause, effect': pidgin: C.19–20. B & L.

makee-learn. A new-hand, a beginner: RN: C.20. ("Taffrail", Stand By!, 1916.) Ex (prob. China Stations') pidgin.—2. Hence, in the Army, a young officer: earlier C.20. (F. & G.) In later C.20, may be applied, in the Services, to anyone learning a job, on the job; for euphony or greater effect, makee-learnee, which applies also to the actual activity of learning. Cf. the fishing fleet's deck learner, an apprentice deck-hand. (P.B.)

makes you shit through the eye of a needle. See shit through the eye ...

makes you (or yer) think, doesn't it (or don't it)! A c.p., gen. humorous, among Londoners since (?)late C.19, esp. popular among Services in WW2, and still going strong, 1983. See DCpp.

makesures. Petty pilferings: potmen's: C.19–20; ob. Cf. make one's money, q.v.

-making; as, and esp., in shy-making and sick-making. An adjectival 'suffix' fathered, perhaps in derision of the German love of compounds, by Evelyn Waugh: the fashion (not yet quite extinct) raged in 1930–3. See esp. Evelyn Waugh's Vile Bodies, 1930. Rather s. than coll. and restricted almost wholly to the educated and/or the cultured, esp. in Society and near-Society; never very gen. outside of London. P.B.: so wrote E.P. in mid-1930s. The form 'caught on' and is still, 1983, in use in much the same circles: Nigel Dempster, in Telegraph Sunday mag., 11 Mar. 1979, noted that '-making, e.g., blush-making' was an 'in' term in Society. It is a usage subject to the waves of fashion, like, e.g., the prefix 'HARRY' or the 'OXFORD-ER(S)'. making a trundle for a goose's eye or a whim-wham for a goose. See weaving leather aprons, and cf. making dolls' eyes.

making brick. Defrauding the public and the Passenger Transport Executive: busmen's s.: late 1970s. See quo'n at brick, n., 7.

making dead. Making a garment already paid for: tailors': late C.19–20. Cf. dead, adj., 2.

making dolls' eyes, or putting spots on dominoes. A c.p. reply to somebody asking what one does for a living: C.20. Cf. synon. putting holes in pikelets (crumpets or muffins): ob.

making (one's) will. As in 'He or she is or 's ...', a c.p. applied to someone writing a letter or making notes or even merely filling in a form: joc.: C.20. (Petch, 1966.)

makings, material: S.E. But as=(small) profits, earnings: coll.: 1837, H. Martineau (OED).—2. 'Cigarette papers and tobacco, the materials for a roll-your-own cigarette': coll.: C.20. Also Aus. (McNeil).

makki (pron. macky). A machine-gun: infantrymen's: 1914+; ob. by 1940. Ex 'machine'.

malnooon. See maghnoon.

makoo. (Predicative only.) Out of stock; gone; none: army: WW1. Corruption of napoo.

malad. A 'maladjusted' child: social workers': later C.20. New Society, 20 Nov. 1980 (P.B.).

malarkey. Nonsense; risible exaggeration; stuff and nonsense; 'bull': Can., adopted, early 1940s, ex US, where current since the early 1930s in s., and prob. since the mid-1920s in the underworld. Perhaps ex modern Greek malakia. The term made only an entirely negligible impact on Britain. P.B.: I feel E.P. errs here; the impact has been far from negligible. The term is still extant, and the phrase 'come the old malarkey', to pitch a tall story, has an almost Cockney ring to it. Cf. Madame Misharty.

Malay. Muhammadan: Western Province (S. Africa) coll.: from ca. 1840. (James Backhouse, A Visit to Mauritius and South Africa, 1844.) Ex the importation of Malacca slaves (who were Muslims) by the Dutch. (Pettman.) Cf. Coolie Christmas and Hindoos, qq.v.

Malayan madness. 'Bloody-mindedness': Aus. Servicemen's: 1942–5. (B., 1943.) Ex the bitter campaign waged against the Japanese invaders, Dec. 1941–Feb. 1942, in which Australian Forces were notably and heavily involved.

Malcolm Scott. Hot: theatrical rhyming s.: C.20. Franklyn, Rhyming.

male gynae ward. See lily pond.

male-mules; callibisters. (Human) testicles: C.16–17. In Rabelais, callistris = the penis.

maleesh, malish; or, properly, ma'alish (pron. marleesh), v. To be completely indifferent to or about; to ignore; to consign to the waste-paper basket: army and RAF since ca. 1925. As injunction, 'maleesh!' or 'maleesh it!', Never mind!, Forget it! ex-maleesh (and variants as prec.), adj. Indifferent; even, fatalistic; 'easy'; esp. 'I'm maleesh', I don't mind, either way; I'm agreeable: among Brit. troops in Egypt since late C.19; given fresh impetus, and wider service usage, in the Middle Eastern campaigns of WW1, and again in WW2. Ex Arabic. malkin. The female pudend: low Scots: from ca. 1540; ob. Cf. puss, 1, q.v.

malkin-trash. A person dismally dressed: coll. late C.17-early 19. B.E.

maliky. Any weapon neither firearm nor bomb: Glasgow teenage gangsters': since ca. 1960. (Observer, 4 Feb. 1973.) Perhaps ex a broken milk-bottle. (R.S.) mall. Credit ('tick'): metal trades':—1909 (Ware.) Possibly ex mall (or maul), a heavy hammer, or a shortening of mallet.

Mallee bull. See fit as a Mallee bull.

mallee root. A prostitute: Aus. rhyming s.: C.20. (B., 1942.) With a pun on root, to coit with a woman. 'The mallee [is] equivalent to "the scrub" in expressions like "take to the mallee" (from the mallee scrub in Victoria)' (Wilkes).

mallet, n. In on the m-, 'Having goods on trust' (Sinks): low: ca. 1825-80.—2. See bagdadder.

mallet, v. To smash or defeat: SAS, in the Falkland Is.: 1982. (Robert Fox, Listener, 1 July 1982, p. 16.) Cf. syn. Paratroopers' banjo and RM wellie.

malleted. Reprimanded (by an officer): Gibraltar servicemen's (since c. 1930) >, ca. 1940 gen. servicemen's. (H. & P.) Forcible.

malleting bout. A bout with fisticuffs: low: ca. 1820-50. (Bee.) On hammering.

malley. A gardener: Anglo-Indian:—1864 (H., 3rd ed.). Ex Hindustani mali, a gardener.

Malley's cow is an Aus. c.p., applied to one who has departed traceless: C.20. Ex Aus. folklore. B., 1953.

mallum, malum. To understand (gen. v.t.): army: since late C.19. (F. & G.) Hence, 'Yes, mallum' = Yes, fair enough (or, that's good); interrogatively, mallum = Got that?; 'Use your mallum' = Use your common sense. 'A blank cheque of a word' (John Bebbington): Forces' (in the East): 1939-45. P.B.: and, among older soldiers, for two decades or so longer, esp. in the sense 'common sense'—'Oh, come on! Use a bit o' mallum!'

Mals. Members of an amalgamated society': political coll.: 1897, Sidney & Beatrice Webb, Industrial Democracy (EDD).

Malt. A Maltese: mostly nautical: late C.19-20. (John Davies, See Naples and Die, 1961.) Cf. José.—2. In shovel of malt, a pot of porter: London public houses': ca. 1820-60. Bee.—3. In have the malt above the meal or the water or the wheat, to be tipsy: Scots coll.: resp. C.19-20; from ca. 1670; from ca. 1540, ob. Heywood, 1546 (wheat); Ray (... water); Scott (... meal). Apperson.

malt, v. To drink malt liquor: low coll.: 1813, Colonel Hawker (OED); 1835, Marryat, 'Well, for my part I malt.'

malt-horse, or M-H-. A native of Bedford: C.17-early 20. 'Because of the high quality of malt produced from [Bedfordshire] barley' (Hackwood); cf. Drayton's Polyolbion, XXIII (1622). Apperson.

malt-pie. Liquor: joc. coll.: C.17. Heywood the dramatist. OED.

Malta dog; often simply dog. Diarrhoea; mild dysentery: RN: late C.19-20. Cf. the all-Services' gippy tummy. John Winton, We Joined the Navy, 1959, 'There's a very awkward and unpleasant disease which people catch in the Mediterranean. It's a form of dysentery and it's known as the Malta Dog. Some people catch it because they're not used to the water... You can catch it from shellfish or from meat that's a bit too old... or from greens that have not been washed.' Maltese lace. Frayed edges of well-worn bell-bottomed trousers (RN); frayed shirt-cuffs, etc. (RN & MN): since ca. 1905. (Granville.) Also Spanish pennants.

Maltese shuffle. 'Shambling gait that is supposed to pass for a quick march in the Navy' (Granville): RN: C.20.

Maltese style. 'Any lackadaisical manner of doing a job. The reverse of smart and orderly, "any old how"' (Granville): RN lowerdeck: C.20.

Malteser. A Maltese: joc. coll.: mid-C.20. Ex a popular brand of chocolate sweets. (P.B.)

maltooling. The picking of pockets in omnibuses: c.:—1861; ob. (Mayhew.) Properly by a woman (mal = moll); and cf. tool, to drive.

maltoot, maltout. A sailor, esp. in address or as a nickname: 1785, Grose; † by 1880; (after that, matlo, q.v. at matelot. All versions ex Fr.

malty. Topsy: prob. since late C.18; ob. by 1930. (Bill Truck, Jan. 1821; 'Jon Bee'.) Cf. malt, n., 3, and v.

malty cove. A beer-drinker: low London: ca. 1825-80. (Sinks, 1848.) Cf. malt, v.

malum. See mallum.

mam. Mother: childish coll.: C.16-20; ob. except in dial. Cf. mammy, dad, qq.v.—2. Also a var. abbr. of madam: coll.: C.17-20. Cf. ma'am.—3. A Lesbian: low London: since ca. 1945. John Gloag, Unlawful Justice, 1962, 'You're more than half a Lizzie, aren't you? I've met lady mams before: one of 'em kept a girl I wanted. It was easy for her: she had the lolly.'

mama. 'A (real) mama: a promiscuous female' (Powis): low coll.: later C.20.

mammoth. Huge: coll.: from ca. 1920. The reviewer of the 1st ed. in TLS, 20 Mar. 1937, 'If "demon" is an adjective, why not "mammoth"?' Ex circus- and show-men's hyperbole.—2. Hence, excellent: RN: since 1938.

mammy. Mother: except perhaps when used by children, coll.: from ca. 1520. Skelton, 'Your mammy and your dady/Brought forth a godely babi!' (OED).

mamsell. Mademoiselle: coll.: from ca. 1840. Thackeray.—2. A French girl: coll.: late C.19-20, esp. in WW1 among the soldiers. Cf. ma'amselle.

man. A husband, a lover: C.14-20: S.E. till ca. 1850, then coll. and dial. Esp. in my or her man.—2. In its university sense, it is S.E.—3. The 'head' of a coin in tossing: coll.: 1828 (Bee). Contrast woman.—4. In the late or the present man: the former, the present holder of a post, an office: coll.: 1871 (Beaconsfield: OED).—5. As used in c., see -MANS.—6. A C.20 coll.: 'an exclamatory form of address in common use all over South Africa, employed often enough quite irrespective of either the age or the sex of the person addressed' (Pettman). Cf.:—7. In English Public Schools (C.20) as in P.G. Wodehouse, Mike, 1909, 'Awfully sorry, you know, man.' Coll. See also note at like. The beatniks adopted the vocative man (cf. 6) ex jazzmen's usage, itself taken from the very numerous Negro jazzmen.—8. A pimp: white-slavers' c.: late C.19-20. Londres.—9. In get behind a man, to endorse a bill: mostly commercial: C.19-early 20.—10. See dead man; old man; see a man ...; Sick Man; ninth; man at the duff, at duff, n., 5; feel (one's) own man.

man, v. To coit with a woman: low coll.: C.19-early 20.

man-a-hanging. A person in difficulties: coll.: C.18-19. H., 5th ed.

man alive! A term of address, esp. in surprise or reproof: coll.: ca. 1829 (J.B. Buckstone). In C.20, occ. as one word. Cf. Thornton.

man among the geese when the gander is gone, he'll be a. He'll be important if nobody of importance is there; also a gen. c.p. derivative of a man's ability: C.18. Apperson.

man and wife. A knife: rhyming s.:—1914 (F. & G.). Contrast trouble and strife.

man before his mother, he'll be a. A derivative c.p. either in retort or, more gen., in comment: C.17-early 20. Not in polite circles. Cf. man among the geese ...

man-box. A coffin: ca. 1820–70. ‘Peter Corcoran’ Reynolds in The Fanny.

man-chovey. See chovey.

man-eater. A horse prone to biting (people): coll.: 1879 (Mrs A.E. James: OED).—2. ‘A particularly tough officer’: (mostly Atlantic) sailing-ships’: late C.19–20; virtually †. Bowen.—3. An exceptionally strong, tough fellow; esp. as a pugilist: lowerdeck: C.20. Knock.

man fat. ‘Semen virile’ (L.A., 1974): low coll.: C.20.

man for my money, the. The right person: coll.: since late C.17. Moe cites Farquhar, Love and a Battle, 1699, at I, i. P.B.: in C.20 it has also the sense of ‘the man most likely to win, or succeed’; influenced by the idea of a wager.

man Friday. A factotum: C.19–20, ob.: coll. verging on S.E. Ex Daniel Defoe’s story of Robinson Crusoe, and his Black fellow-castaway.

man help. ‘Paintbrush lashed to a 4-foot pole’ (Peppitt): MN: since 1940s. Cf. synon. long Tom.

man-hunters. Women, esp. spinsters and widows: joc. coll.: late C.19–20.

man (usu. men) in blue. A policeman: coll.: ca. 1870–1930. (Contrast man in black, a parson, S.E.)

man in the boat, the little. See little man...

man in the box, the. The announcer of weather forecasts over the radio telephone: deep-sea fishermen’s: since ca. 1946. Granville.

man in the moon, as a dolt, is S.E.—2. ‘A mythical personage who finds money, for electioneering, and for such electors as vote straight’ (F. & H.): joc. coll.: mid-C.19–early 20. OED cites John Bull, 1 Sep. 1866.

man in the street. The average person: 1831 (Greville: OED): Newmarket s. >, ca. 1840, coll. >, ca. 1890, S.E. Cf. US man in the car and see ‘Representative Names’ in Words! P.B.: the 1970s saw the revival of the synon. man on the Clapham omnibus.

man-killer. ‘Porter, stout, cooper—the black beers’ (Ware): teetotallers’.—1909.—2. ‘A hard-working sailing ship in which accidents were frequent’: nautical coll.: ca. 1850–1910. Bowen.—3. The cumbersome, very heavy tank-engine of the LMS: railwaymen’s coll.: first decade, C.20.—4. ‘A piece of machinery geared to run so fast as to tire the men who feed it’: Can.: since ca. 1925. (Leechman, who in 1930, heard it applied to a concrete-mixer.)

man-mad. Of a girl or a woman: extremely sexy: since the early 1920s: coll. >, by 1955, S.E.

man(-)man. Gradually: little by little: pidgin: from ca. 1860. (B. & L.) Directly ex Chinese for ‘slowly’ (P.B.).

man o’ war. Any among the bottom boats at ‘Bumpers’ (q.v.): Shrewsbury School: late C.19–20. Desmond Coke, The Bending of a Twig, 1906.

man of cash. A gambler in luck: London sporting: ca. 1820–60. Bee.

man of many morns. A procrastinator: Scots coll.: C.18–early 20.

man of remnants. A tailor: coll.:—1923 (Manchon).

man of the world. A professional thief: c.: ca. 1870–1930. B. & L.

man of wax. See lad o(f) wax.

man or (a) mouse? See are you a man...

man outside Hoyt’s, the. ‘A mythical person alleged to create rumours’ (B., 1959): Aus.: since late 1940s. Cf. furphy, and Tom Collins, qq.v. Wilkes, ‘The commissionaire outside Hoyt’s Theatre in Melbourne in the 1930s, so elaborately dressed as to seem a person of consequence.’

man shall have his mare again, the. All will end well: a proverbial c.p.: late C.16–mid-19. Shakespeare, Addison, Creevey (Apperson).

man-sized job. A difficult task: since ca. 1925: coll. >, by 1945, familiar S.E.

man that’s carrying the brick. A man at all religious: army: from ca. 1905. (Frank Richards, Old Soldiers Never Die, 1933.) Perhaps by rhyme: hod > God, hod man > God man.

man Thomas. The penis: low: C.19–20. Cf. John Thomas, q.v.

man-trap. A widow: coll. (mostly low): 1773 (Goldsmith). Cf. the macaronic pun vir-gin (late C.19–20).—2. The female pudend: low: from ca. 1775. (Grose, 1st ed.) Ex prec. sense.—3. A lump of excrement: low: C.19–early 20.—4. Cf. sense 1: any attractive man-hunting female: C.20. Eden Philpotts, The Beacon, 1911.—5. ‘Catch points to prevent unauthorised entry from siding’ (Railway): railwaymen’s: since ca. 1920. Also jack(-)trap.

man who brings home the bacon, the. The breadwinner: Can. (and US) and domestic coll.: C.20. (Leechman.)

man with no hands, like a, adj. and adv. Miserly; in a miserly manner, esp. in throw money around like a...: Aus.: since ca. 1945. B., 1959.

man with the brass knackers, the. ‘The boss’: Can. railroad labourers’ (—1910), hence general labourers’ (—1914).

manablins, manave(i)lins. See menavelings.

manage. To succeed against odds; contrive to make the inadequate serve: coll.: 1899 (OED), The Speaker, 29 July, ‘He managed almost without a hitch.’

manage it. To ‘get off’ with a fellow; to get married: feminine coll.: C.20.

management (or M-), the. The officers, esp. the senior ones of a unit: Territorial Army’s: from ca. 1925. Cf.:-

manager. The head of one’s department at a H.Q.: Army officers’: since ca. 1934. Ex:-

managing director, the. The commanding officer: Army officers’: from ca. 1933. Prob. ex leader, 2 (q.v.).

manalive. See man alive!

manany. ‘A sailor who is always putting off a job of work’: nautical: C.20. (Bowen.) Ex Sp. mañana, tomorrow.

mana(r)vel. To pilfer small stores: nautical: from ca. 1865. (Smyth.) Perhaps ex, or at the least prompted by:

manav(i)lins. See menavelings.

Manc. A native of Manchester; a pupil at Manchester Grammar School: Manchester: late C.19–20. Ex Mancunian.

Manchester, manchester. The tongue: c.: 1812 (Vaux); ob. by 1900. ?via yarn; perhaps rather a pun on mang, q.v.—2. See empties back...

Manchester-bred. Explained by the gen. affixed tag, long in the arms and short in the head: a c.p. (—1869) > proverbial. (W. Carew Hazlitt.) Only one of several pej. jingles; for instance, Derbyshire born and bred is common.

Manchester City. A var. of Bristol City, q.v. at Bristols; mostly in pl and shortened to Manchesters. (Franklyn 2nd.) I.e. female breasts.

Manchester school of nutrition. ‘High-feeding, emphatically introduced by certain medical men of that city’: Society: ca. 1860–70. Ware.

Manchester silk. Cotton: commercial: from ca. 1850.

Manchester sovereign. A shilling: low: ca. 1860–1930.

mand. See maund.

mandarin (or M.). A politician; a Government official, esp. if pompous: coll.: 1916. (F. & G.) Ex S.E. mandarin, a very important or a great man.

mander. A remand: c.:—1877; ob. (Greenwood.) Ex remand.—2. A remanded prisoner: c.:—1887 (Baumann).

mandozy. A telling hit: low: ca. 1800–70. Ex Daniel Mendoza, the Jewish boxer, who (1764–1836) did not, however, possess a powerful punch and who published a book on boxing in 1789 and took an inn in Whitechapel ca. 1800; perhaps with a pun on man dozy.—2. Hence, an endearment among London’s East-End Jews: from ca. 1820.

mandrake. A bugger (in the legal sense): among folk of the road: prob. since C.17. In Nov. 1948, an octogenarian didekei was heard, in S.W. England, to remark of a certain man: ‘E’s a bloody mandrake. E’s a bugger, that’s what ‘e be, a bugger. Small boys and such.’ (My distinguished informant wishes to be nameless.) See mandrake in the glossary of Shakespeare’s Bawdy, in reference to 2 Henry IV, I, ii, 15, and esp. III, ii, 324–5 (Shakespeare Head edition). Yet, when that book appeared in 1947, several ivory-tower’d scholars accused me of seeing evil where none existed. I wonder what they'd do 'on the road'—yell for a policeman?—2. (Usu. in pl.) A waterproof cape worn in the tropics: Aus. army: 1942–5. (B., 1943.) P.B.: perhaps ex the cape costume worn by the hero of the American comic-strip, 'Mandrake the Magician', started by Lee Falk and Phil Davis in 1934, and still, 1980, going strong.

mang. To talk; boast (mainly Scottish) c. of ca. 1810–90. (Vaux.)? a corruption of mag, to talk, influenced by Romany mong, beg, request.

mangaree, mangarlee or -ly. See mungaree, mungarly.

mange. A var. (—1909) of mungaree, q.v. Ex Lt., 'through the organ-grinders' lodging-houses' (Ware).

mangle. The female pudend: low: ca. 1860–1930.—2. A machine-gun: Air Force: 1915–18. (F. & G.) Proleptic.—3. A bicycle: Aus. juvenile: earlier C.20.—4. A mangel-wurzel: farm labourers': late C.19–20. Via mangol, slovenly for orig. mangold.—5. A manual drilling-machine: railwaymen's: since ca. 1945. (Railway, 2nd.) A pun both on manual and on the effect it has on the nerves.

mangy cat. "The mangy cat" is the man who's told to go to a distant dock a bus-ride away and says, "I 'aven't got de fur"; the "chemist" is the one who loads up a truck and says "'Ere's more f'yer (morphia)"' (New Society, 18 Sep. 1980): Liverpool dockers' s.: later C.20. "...dockers' nickname slang—the Scouse equivalent of Cockney rhyming slang' (Ibid.).

manhandle. To handle roughly; maltreat: from ca. 1864: s. >, ca. 1910, coll. (H., 3rd ed.) Perhaps handle as a man would or, as Ware suggests, ex Devon dial. manangle, to mangle. P.B.: in later C.20, S.E., or at least journalistic.

manhole. The female pudend: low: from ca. 1870. Ex S.E. sense. Cf.:-

manhole cover. A sanitary pad: Aus. low male: since ca. 1950. A pun on prec.

manhole covers with custard. Bread pudding: perhaps mostly lower-middle classes': since ca. 1945. (Petch, 1974.)

-mania, in C.19–20, occ. so fanciful as to verge on coll.

manjaree. Var. of mungaree.

manlike, -(e)y. Rotten; very inferior: orig. Cockneys': C.20; esp. popular among National Servicemen mid-C.20 in sense of 'dirty'. Largely supplanted in this by 'gungey'. Prob. ex Fr. manqué. (E.P.; P.B.)

manner(s). See all manner; after you is manners; learn manners in Seville.

mannigant. 'A conceited person' (M.T.): market-traders': C.20, perhaps several decades earlier. ? A blend of 'mana ging' (sort of person) + 'arrogant'.

manny. A derivative of mandozy, 2 (q.v.): Jewish East London: from ca. 1880. Baumann; Ware defines it as 'a term of endearment or admiration prefixed to Jewish name, as "Manny Lyons"'. Contrast dial. senses. Mrs C. Raab: but surely much more likely to derive ex diminutive of Emanuel, a common Jewish forename.—2. A strong sleeping pill: since early 1960s. Fabian & Byrne, Groupie, 1968.

manoeuvre the apostles. To rob Peter to pay Paul: mid-C.18–early 20. Grose, 2nd ed.

manor. A police-district: orig. c., from ca. 1920 (Edgar Wallace, The Gunner, 1928); by 1940 police s. for a police Division or area, 'He's Superintendent of this manor' (Powis, 1977). Cf. midden, 3; patch.—2. Hence, 'The area where one lives and is known' (Robin Cook, 1962): Londoners': since late 1940s.—3. The district where a 'Teddy-boy' gang lives and operates. See team, 2.

-mans. For use as c. suffix in, e.g., the crackmans, see Appendix.

man's, a. A man-sized, esp. a large, membrum virile: low coll.: C.19–20. Elliptical rather than euph.

Mantalini. A male milliner: middle-class coll.: ca. 1840–60. Ex 'the milliner's husband in Dickens's Nicholas Nickleby' (Ware).

Manton. A fowling-piece. See Joe Manton.

manual compliment or subscription. A blow; a 'sign-manual', q.v.: C.19–20, ob.: coll. ?prompted by Fielding's 'manual remonstrances'.

manual exercises. (Mostly male) masturbation: low: C.20.

manufacture. Liqueur prepared from English products: ca. 1720–1850: coll. A New Canting Dict., 1725.

many a good tune. See good tune...

many a one. Many a person: C.16–20: in C.20, gen. considered coll.

many faces as a churchyard clock (usu. prec. by he has as). (He's) thoroughly unreliable: C.19–early 20: 'Old navy' (F. & G.). I.e. worse than 'two-faced'.

Maori P.T. 'Taking it as easily as possible, i.e. resting when one should be undertaking physical training' (W. Colgan): NZ Servicemen's: WW2. Cf. Egyptian P.T.

map. A dirty proof: printers': from ca. 1860. Ex the markings.—2. A young whiting; nautical: ?mid-C.19–20. (Bowen.) Origin?—3. Face, head, skull: military and lower classes': C.20. (B. & P.) Cf. dial. and the Scottish sense: a portrait.—4. In not on the map, barely credible; impossible: Services' coll.: 1916+. (F. & G.) Cf. off the map, insignificant, obsolete (coll.: from ca. 1915), and on the map, important, prominent (coll.: from ca. 1915). OED Sup.

map of England (occasionally Ireland). A stain on bed-linen: Forces', esp. RAF: since ca. 1918. The latter occurs in T.E. Lawrence's The Mint, published in 1955 but dealing with 1922. Ex the outline.—2. In, e.g., he has the map of Ireland written all over his face, he is unmistakably Irish: since ca. 1930. Petch cites BBC TV police serial, 'Z Cars', episode broadcast 10 Apr. 1967. Cf. map, 3.

maple. 'In New Zealand, a common settlers' corruption for any tree called Mapau': C.19–20. Morris.

mapsticks, cry. I cry you mercy!: low coll.: ca. 1705–50. (Swift: OED.) Prob. mapsticks is a low perversion of both mopsticks and mercy.

marble. 'A word I have heard used in the Cape [Province], mostly from people attending Rhodes University College, Grahamstown, is marble. Examples are: "His marble is high"—he is "well in" (with such-and-such a person). "He is polishing his marble with so-and-so"=he is trying to ingratiate himself' (A.M. Brown of Bulawayo, 1938).—2. See alley, 1; good marble...; pass in (one's) checks; mivvy, 1; law.—3. In make (one's) marble good, 'To make the grade, confirm or improve one's status or prospects (Wilkes): Aus.: since mid-C.20. Cf. sense 1.

Marble Arch. The female pudend: low: from ca. 1850. Punning some such phrase as (at the entrance to Hyde Park.—2. The Arco Philaeorum near El Agheila, N. Africa: army: 1943.—3. See guard-room, in Appendix.

marble orchard. A cemetery: Can.: since ca. 1920.

marbles. Furniture; movables: somewhat low: 1864 (H., 3rd ed.); 1867 (Trollope); ob. Ex Fr. meubles, furniture. Hence, money and marbles, cash and effects.—2. As syphilis (gen. French m.), S.E.—3. Testicles: low: C.19–20. Cf. pills.—4. Shares in the Marbella Iron Ore Company: Stock Exchange:—1895. (A.J. Wilson, Stock Exchange Glossary).—5. Money, cash; salary: mostly Londoners', esp. theatrical: since ca. 1950. 'The big marbles are not earned at the Festival Theatres or the Old Vic'.—6. In have lost some of (one's) marbles, to be not quite sane: Can.: adopted, ex U.S. ca. 1930. (Leechman).—7. Hence to have all (one's) marbles, to be no fool; lit., 'to be all there': since ca. 1950.

marbles for old men. The game of bowls: joc.: since ca. 1930.

marbles to manslaughter, from. 'About the year 1831 or 1832, play [i.e. gambling] first became common. Harding Ackland... an inveterate and spirited player at anything, "from marbles to manslaughter", as the saying is, opened the first shilling hell in the metropolis' (Renton Nicholson, An Autobiography, 1860, p. 77): a London c.p.: ca. 1830–70.

march. See dirty-shirt march.

March hare. See mad as a March hare.

march in the rear of a whereas. See whereas, follow a.

march-past. 'Roast meat and vegetables in the lower-deck dinner': RN: C.20. Bowen.

marched, get. To make a formal complaint to the CO: Army coll., esp. among régulars: C.20. One is marched in by an NCO. (CO = Commanding Officer.)

marching in marmalade, n. and adj. Working hard but getting nowhere; struggling to achieve a useful purpose while being hampered and obstructed by red tape or one's superiors: army (mostly officers'): WW2+. (P.B., with thanks to Pat Fox.)

marching money. Travelling expenses: Aus.: since 1918-19. (Baker.) Also, since ca. 1945, English, as in Robin Cook's (1962) definition, 'small change to get from place A to B'. Influenced by the WW2 army.

marchioness, a slatternly general maid, is allusive S.E. verging on coll., just as mare, a woman, is allusive S.E., as in grey mare proverb. P.B.: but see mare.

Marconi, Generic nickname for telephone operator in the foreman's office of an engine shed: railwaymen's: C.20. McKenna, 2, p. 101.

Marconi mast. 'The tall racing yacht's mast in which the top-mast is socketed instead of being fiddled. First seen in Istria, whose owner was facetiously said to have fitted it to wireless for more whisky when supplies ran out': nautical: from ca. 1925. Bowen.

Marcus Superbus; Marcus Superfluous. A grandee: theatrical: 1896-ca. 99. The former, ex 'the name given to himself by Mr. Wilson Barrett in his play, the Sign of the Cross (1896)'; the latter, coined by Miss Louie Freear, a burlesque actress, a few months later. Ware.

mare. 'Unpleasant and bad-tempered woman. "Bitch" connotes contrariness in addition to slight bad temper; "cow" the next degree of unpleasantness. "Mare" is easily the worst and most insulting' (Powis, 1977): low coll.: C.20. In Underworld, E.P. notes its use, 1930s and '40s, for 'prostitute'; see also his remark at marchioness, and esp. moor.—2. In go before one's mare to market, to do ridiculous things: coll.: ca. 1670-1830.—3. In whose mare's dead?: what's the matter?: rural coll.: late C.16-mid-18. Deloney; Shakespeare; Swift. (Apperson.) Cf. C.20 where's the fire?—4. See money makes the mare...; Shanks'; win the mare.

mare with three (occ. two) legs; (two- or three-legged mare). The gallows: coll.: ca. 1565-1850. Ainsworth, in Rookwood.

Maren or marinette. A Marine Wren: RN: 1941+. Granville, 'Employed at a Royal Marine Barracks... distinguished from their sisters by the Marine badge on their caps in place of the H.M.S. ribbon'.

margarine mess. (Gen. pl.) A motor-car: Nov. 1897-8, mostly in London. Ware.

marge. Margarine: from ca. 1905. (Margarine itself, 1873: OED.) An early example is in Ada E. Jones, In Darkest London, 1926. Also margin.

margariny. Of or like margarine: coll.: C.20. A. Neil Lyons, Clara, 1912.

Margery. An effeminate: low London: ca. 1850-1900. (Ware.) Cf. Nancy.

Margery Jane. Margarine: lower-classes: ca. 1900-20. (Mary Higgs, Glimpses into the Abyss, 1906.) Cf. marge.

margery-prater. A hen: c. of ca. 1570-1820. Cf. cackling-cheat, q.v.

marl. A marijuana cigarette. since late 1920s: c. until ca. 1935, then s. Cf. Mary Jane, 2.

Maria. See black Maria.

Maria Monk. Spunk, in all senses: rhyming s. late C.19-20. (Franklyn, Rhyming) Ex title of a C.19 pornographic novel.

Marie Corelli. Television: rhyming s., on telly: later C.20 (Rhyming Cockney Slang, ed. Jack Jones, 1971.) Powis notes that it is usu. shortened to Marie. M.C. was the pen-name of Mary Mackay (1855-1924), English romantic novelist sensationally popular around the end of C.19.

marigold; occ. marygold. A gold coin, esp. a sovereign: ca.

1660-1700. (Cowley.) Ex the colour.—2. One million pounds sterling: City men's: from ca. 1855. H., 1st ed.

marinated. Transported as a convict: c.: ca. 1670-1830. (Head, Grose.) Ex 'the salt pickling fish undergo in Cornwall' (H., 1st ed.).

marine. An ignorant and/or clumsy seaman: nautical: C.19. W.N. Glascock, Sailors and Saints (I, 149), 1829 (Moe); Dana, 1840.—2. An empty bottle: from ca. 1800; ob. (John Davis, The Post Captain, 1805 (ed. R.H. Case, 1928); Trelawney.) Also dead marine. Cf. marine officer, Grose, 1785, the term being † by 1840, and marine recruit (—1860; †), in H., 2nd ed. See esp. Mark Lemon's Jest Book (1864), p. 161, for anecdotal etym.

mariner, freshwater. See freshwater.

Mariners, the. Grimsby Town football club: sporting, esp. Association football: since ca. 1945.

marines. See tell that to the marines, I don't believe you! Marine's breakfast. Rare for '11' in the game of House: mostly RN: C.20. Michael Harrison, Reported Safe Arrival, 1943. See TOMBOLA, in Appendix.

marinette. See Maren.

marionette. A minaret: army: mid-C.19-20. By Hobson-Jobson.

maritimes. Men of the Royal Artillery Marine Regiment, serving as AA gunners in merchant ships: RN: WW2. P-G-R.

Marjie. Marijuana: Aus. c. (since ca. 1943) >, by 1950, low s. (B. 1953.) Cf. Mary Jane, 2.

mark. A fancy or preference: 1760, Foote, 'Did I not tell you that old Moll was your mark?': coll.; in late C.19-20, low coll.—2. A person: c.: from ca. 1850. Perhaps slightly earlier is the Aus. use of good or bad mark, a man who does, or does not, pay his employees regularly and in full. A good mark was the earlier. (R. Howitt, 1845; Morris.) In earlier C.20 this had become a gen. term of (dis)approval. B., 1943.—3. A victim, esp. a prospective victim (Cf. the v.): c.:—1885. Since WW1, among pickpockets, it has tended to mean the person already robbed (Brian Moynahan, in Sunday Times, 11 May 1969). Hence, perhaps, the late C.19 US easy or soft mark, a person easily fooled or persuaded: adopted in Brit. by 1933 (OED Sup.; COD, 1934 Sup.).—4. A newcomer, esp. if she is ingenuous, among prostitutes: prostitutes' c.:—1923 (Manchon). Cf. 3.—5. A good giver: tramps' c.:—1935. Prob. ex sense 3.—6. Always the mark, the pit of the stomach: boxing: 1747 (J. Godfrey, The Science of Defence: OED). Also (—1823; †) Broughton's mark, ex the famous C.18 boxer.—7. A taxi-cab rank: taxi-drivers': since ca. 1910. Herbert Hodge, Cab, Sir?, 1939.—8. A humorist: mid-C.19-20; by 1950, slightly ob. Probably ex Mark Lemon (1809-70), who helped to found Punch and was its first editor (1841).—9. In get a mark, (of a publican) to be fined for illicit practice: Aus.: C.20. (Baker.) Short for get a black mark.—10. In off (one's) mark, having run away: Glasgow:—1934. Ex foot-racing.—11. See mark of the beast; work the mark.

mark, v. To watch; pick out a victim: c.: from ca. 1860; perhaps, however, implied in Brandon, 1839, 'Marking—watching, observing'. Perhaps the orig. of the n., 2 and 3.—2. 'Abbr. of "earmark" generalised to cover the whole process of ear-marking, docking and castrating lambs; also a euphemism for "castrate"' (Wilkes): Aus. rural: since late C.19.—3. To realise; to see and understand: low coll.: later C.20. (G.F. Newman, Sir, You Bastard, 1970.) Cf. synon. book, v., 5.

mark (someone's) card. To give him the information he needs; to put him right: barrow-boys': since ca. 1945. Ex the race-course.—2. 'To tell or warn him', with wider connotation and distribution: since late 1940s. (Robin Cook.) Tempest, "A" marks "B's" card when he tells "C" that "B" is planning to do him, "C", an injury. A tip-off.' Also, 'When you[a gangster chief]ve got just yes-men [in your gang], you're in danger. You'll never get your cards marked (Laurie Taylor, New Society, 6 Jan. 1983, p. 13)—i.e., you do not receive the information or warnings that you need.—3. To bear someone in mind for, e.g. a particular job of work:

business world; later C.20. (Norman Franklin, 1982.) Cf. synon. to slate.

mark four (written IV) biscuits. The army biscuits supplied to the Other Ranks: late C.19–earlyish 20. Extremely hard. (Petch.)

Mark Foy. Boy; Aus. rhyming s.: since ca. 1910. (B., 1943.) 'The term is clearly of Cockney origin, being based on the name of a firm of cartage contractors who functioned in the London area in late C.19 to early 20C.' (Franklyn, Rhyming). Perhaps later reinforced by the name of the Aus. department store? (Mrs C. Raab.)

mark it. To be careful: Cockney coll.: from ca. 1880. Pugh (2): '“Let's go,” said Judith. “It's nearly twelve o'clock. Must be. I'll get the key of the street if I don't mark it.”' I.e. 'watch one's step'. Julian Franklyn believes this to be a misprint in Pugh, for mark it; on second thoughts, so do I.

Mark Lane. See walk penniless...

mark of the beast. The female pudend: low: from ca. 1715. D'Urfev. Also mark.—2. 'The white patches on the collar of a midshipman's uniform': RN: late C.19–20. Bowen.—3. See M.B. coat.

mark-off or tick-off or tick-down. The process of checking the entries in one set of bank account-books with those in another set: bank-clerks': C.20: s. verging on coll.

mark on..., a. A person with a very pronounced fondness for (something): dial. and s.: from ca. 1880; ob. Miss Braddon, 'Vernon was... a mark on strawberries and cream.'

mark one. A nursing sister, esp. one belonging to Queen Mary's Nursing Service: RN: WW1. F. & G.

mark-one eyeball. The human eye, as opp. to electronic vision: RAF: later C.20. Strong & Hart-Davis, Fighter Pilot, 1981.

mark time on. To keep (a person) under observation, have a 'down' on him; to retain, stick to (a thing): military, resp. coll. and s.: WW1+. (F. & G.) Ex drill j.—2. To wait for: army: WW2. Ex the drill movement.

mark-up, n. 'At the mark-up: secretly taking more than your "rightful" share of a bribe or blackmail payment. Often done by the middleman or stakeholder who actually receives the total money from the briber or victim, or their agents... Also referred to as "creaming"' (Powis); c.: later C.20. Cf. next, 2.

mark up, v. To know or learn all about (a person): tailors': from ca. 1870.—2. To give credit for: coll.: 1899, Tit-Bits, 22 July. 'I shaved a gentleman who asked me to mark it up' (OED).

marked with a T. Known as a thief: coll.: late C.18–mid-19. 'Formerly convicted thieves were branded with a "T" in the hand' (F. & H.).

marker, a Cambridge word, is S.E., despite F.&H.—2. But as a receiver of stolen goods it is late C.16–early 17 c. Greene.—3. Something worthy to be compared: 1895, H. P. Robinson, 'It ain't a marker to what's ahead' (OED); ob. by 1930.—4. A rear-end signal: Can. railroadmen's coll.:—1931.

markers steady, be on. To be quite sober and without a tremor, esp. after a drinking-bout: army: since ca. 1930. Ex the order 'Markers steady!' given to the NCOs (or others) acting as markers to the platoon or squads before a parade.

market. The betting-ring: racing: from ca. 1880.—2. In go to market, to attempt something: coll.: 1890, 'Rolf Boldrewood' (OED); ob. by 1930.—3. Go to market, to become angry or complain bitterly: Aus.: C.20. B., 1942.—4. In in the market, having plenty of money: c.:—1935 (David Hume). Opp. on the floor.—5. On the market, (of a girl) available for marriage: coll.: late C.19–20. Maud Diver, The Great Amulet, 1908.

market-dame, a harlot, is C.18 coll. verging on S.E.

market-fever. See pencil-fever.

market-horse. A horse kept on the lists simply for the betting: turf: from ca. 1873. (H., 5th ed.) Cf. market and marketeer.

market-place. The front teeth: provincial s. verging on dial.: from ca. 1850; ob.

market ranger. 'Fish-wharf thief: a "spiv" of the fisheries' (Granville): nautical: C.20.

marketeer. A betting-man specialising in the study of horses that are favourites: racing s. verging on c.: from ca. 1870; ob. H., 5th ed.

marking. A watcher; a watching: c.: from ca. 1830; mostly US, though see mark, v. marking M, n. and adj. Rapid(ity) of action: Anglo-Irish:—1909 (Ware). M., the Virgin Mary.

Marks. A Marks & Spencer store: coll.: since ca. 1925. Cf. Timothy's and Woolies.

Marks and Sparks. An elab. of prec.: since late 1940s. Sunday Times, 5 Apr. 1964.

marley-stopper. A splay-footed person: streets':—1887; ob. Ex marble and the stopping of a marble with one's feet.

marling. Tobacco: lowerdeck: ca 1890–1950. Knock.

marm. See ma'am.—2. Marmalade: low coll.: late C.19–20. Cf. marge.

marm-puss. A wife: tailors': ca. 1870–1930.—2. (Also marm-poosy.) A showily dressed landlady: public-house frequenters': 1863; slightly ob. Ware.

marmalade. The gold braid worn on the cap-peak by officers of Group Captain and higher ranks: RAF: early WW2. (H. & P.) Cf. the commoner synon. scrambled eggs.—2. In the true marmalade, a † var. of real jam, q.v.—3. See marching in marmalade.

marmalade boat. 'Thames sewage barge' (Granville): nautical: C.20. Cf. honey bucket.

Marmalade Country, the. Scotland: music-halls' coll.: ca. 1905–14. (Ware.) Ex the marmalade that is a staple industry of Scotland. Cf. Land of Cakes.

marmite. A pot-shaped bomb (or, loosely, shell): military officers': 1917–18. Adopted from Fr. s.

maroon, n. In "'what a maroon!"—what a dolt, what a dummy!' (Mrs R. Leech, 1981): Can.: later C.20. P.B.: a perversion of moron—or of macaroon; hardly ex the firework.

Maroon Machine, the. An occ., mostly journalistic, sobriquet for the Parachute Regiment. (Carew.) Ex the colour of their berets; cf. cherryberry.

marouski, marowsky, See marrowskying.

Marquess of Lorn. An erection: rhyming s. (on horn): C.20; rare. Franklyn, Rhyming.

marquis. A shortened var. of the prec., as in 'a prolonged attack of the marquis' (Bill Naughton, Alfie Darling, 1970).

Marquis of Granby. A bald-headed person: C.19—early 20. P.B.: prob. ex the portrait on the signs of so many 'Marquis of Granby' public houses.

marquis of marrowbones. See marrowbones, 2.

marriage. See four bare legs...

marriage face. A sad face: middle classes':—1909; ob. Ware, 'Because generally a bride cries a good deal, and so temporarily spoils her looks'.

marriage music. The crying of children: late C.17—mid-19. B.E. married. Chained or handcuffed together: c.: mid-C.18–20, ob. Grose, 1st ed.

married but not churched. A living-together unmarried: almost a c.p.: late C.19–20. Cf. live tally.

married crocks. An Army term dating from ca. 1885. Richards, 'Men and wives married on the strength of the Regiment were called the "married crocks". One had to have five years' service and be twenty-six years of age before one could get married on the strength. A regular number of married men were allowed in each regiment.' Cf. married pads.

married man's friend, the. The war-time black-out: WW2. It enabled him to take out other women without fear of being seen by 'friendly' neighbours.

married man's side. The left-hand half of the dart board, presumably because the "doubles" are found there' (Granville): darts players': since ca. 1950.

married man's trade. 'Ships of the Port Nolloth copper ore trade, so called because the crews were seldom able to get ashore and spend money (William MacFee, In the First Watch, 1947) (Granville).

married on the carpet and the banns up the chimney. Living together as though man and wife: coll. (somewhat low): C.19—early 20.

married pads. Later C.20 version of married crocks; may be applied also to the married men by themselves, as in, e.g., a single mess-member's complaint, 'You pads come down here and scoff all our breakfast ...': army. Often reduced, allusively, to (the) pads. From late C.19 pads = (in army s.) wives; see pad, n., 13. N.W. Bancroft, From Recruit to Staff Sergeant, 1885, concerning the Indian Army of the 1840s, has 'padgere (the married quarters)—perhaps the orig.? (P.B.) Cf. married patch, the. Married quarters in permanent barracks: army: C.20. (P-G-R.) In later C.20 also RAF (Phantom). Cf. prec.

married the widow, have. To have 'made a mess of things': C.19. Ex Fr., with pun on the guillotine—'the widow'. Ware. married to brown Bess. (Having) enlisted: military: late C.18—19. Ex hug brown Bess. (Ware.) See brown Bess, 2. marrieds, esp. young marrieds. Married couples: Aus. coll.; since ca. 1925; Brit., perhaps rather later. D'Arcy Niland, Call Me ..., 1958.

marrowbone(-and-cleaver), like marrow-pudding, is low for the penis, as obviously is a bellyful of marrow-pudding, pregnancy: C.19—20, ob.

marrowbone (occ. Marylebone) stage or coach, go in or ride by, the. To walk: C.19. It occurs for 28 Apr. 1820, in British Columbia Historical Quarterly, April 1937, p. 120 (Leechman). Prob. suggested by Marybone = Marylebone. Cf. Bayard of ten toes and Shanks's mare, q.v.

marrowbones, the knees, is joc. S.E., but as pugilists, C.17, e.g. in Fletcher, 1625, and as fists (regarded as weapons), ca. 1810—1910, it is s.—2. In marquis or marquess of marrowbones, a lackey: late C.16—17. Nashe.

marrowskying. The transposition of the initials of words (as in poke a smipe, smoke a pipe), with var. adj. and n. marrowsky or marrowsky: ca. 1860—1900. (H., 2nd ed.) In 1848 described by Albert Smith as Gower Street dialect (cf. medical Greek), it was affected by students of London University and constitutes spoonerism before the letter. Perhaps ex the name of a Polish count, as the OED suggests.

marry. See marrying.

marry! An exclam.: C.14—mid-19. Orig. an oath, it soon > harmless. Ex (the Virgin) Mary. Often, in C.16—19, with asseverative tags or with gip, up, etc. Cf.:

marry! come up, my dirty cousin. A c.p. addressed to one affecting excessive delicacy: from ca. 1670; in C.19—20, dial. Apperson.

marry Mrs Roper. See roper, 3.

marry poor blind Nell?, and did he. 'A rhetorical question asked about anything improbable. Also as a euph. for like fucking hell! Ex the saga of Poor Blind Nell. (Cf. Ballocky Bill the Sailor, The Bastard from the Bush, etc.) As in "And did he marry ...?"—"He did!—(softly) Like fuckin(g) hell!" Poor blind Nell itself is used to describe any simple girl who is over-trusting where men are concerned' (B.P.): Aus.: since ca. 1910 or a little earlier.

marry the mixen for the sake of the muck. To marry an undesirable person for the sake of the money: proverbial coll.: from ca. 1730; since ca. 1850, dial. A mixen is a dung-heap; muck, q.v., is a pun. Apperson.

marry up. To bind or busy in marriage: coll.: from ca. 1820. J. Flint, 1822, 'I believe that the girls there are all married up.' OED.—2. An expression often used by auctioneers, it means 'to put one lot with another'; often an article of little value that would be difficult to get a bid for by itself is 'married up' with something for which there is likely to be a good demand and the two articles sold as one lot: coll.: C.20.—3. 'To add additional (sheets of) notes to filed papers; collate new information or additional facts with original notes' (L.A., 1974): coll.: later C.20.

marrying, vbl n.; marry, v.t. Stockbrokers' s. (—1935), thus:—'When a broker receives simultaneous orders to buy and sell the same security, he can marry the deal. I.e. he puts one bargain against the other.' (A correspondent.)

Mar's Grey-Breeks. The 21st Regiment of Foot: 'The Regiment was raised in 1678 in Scotland by Charles Erskine, Fifth Earl of Mar and were nicknamed "The Earl of Mar's Fusiliers" or "Mar's Grey-breeks"' (Carew).

Mar's production. The manufacture of armaments: since ca. 1946. A pun on Mars, the Roman god of war, and 'mass production'.

Marsel. Marseilles: army: C.20.

Marshall or marshall. A £5 Bank of England note: ca. 1860—80. Ex a Bank of England official. Cf. Abraham Newland, Bradbury, Fisher, qq.v.

marshall of the field. See TAVERN TERMS, §6, in Appendix. marsingan. A machine-gun: army: earlier C.20. ?Ex some colonial troops' approximate pronunciation.

marter, in Greene's Second Cony-Catching, 1592, is either a perversion of, or a misprint for, marker, 2 (q.v.).

martialist. An officer in the army: Society: 1885 (Daily News, 31 Dec.); † by 1915. Ware.

martin. An honest victim of rogues: c.: late C.16—mid-17. (Greene.) ?ex the bird.—2. A boot: tramps' c.:—1893; ob. (P. H. Emerson.) ?origin.—3. See St Martin; all my eye ...

Martin 'Enries. Reach-me-down clothes: Liverpool: late C.19—20. Apparently ex a manufacturer's name, Martin Henry.

Martin-Le-Grand. See martins.

martingale. The doubling of stakes at every loss: 1815 (OED): s. >, by 1850, j. Whence:

martingale, v.i. To double the bet at every loss: s. (—1823) >, by 1850, j. Bee.

martins. The hands: low (and Parlyare?): ca. 1860—1914. (P. H. Emerson, Signor Lippo, 1893). Ex It mani (cf. Fr. mains)? P.B.: a simpler explanation is a shortening of rhyming s. (St Martin-'s)Le-Grand, q.v., hand.

Martin's hammer knocking at the wicket. Twins: C.18—mid-19 coll. In C.19—20, dial. and gen. in form, she has had Martin's hammer knocking at her wicket, she has twins. (Halliwell.) Ex the Fr. Martin (or, as in Lafontaine, Martin-bâton), a man armed with a staff.

mart's. Fingers: homosexuals': current ca. 1970. A shortening of martins.

martyr to be smarter, a. A mid-C.20 c.p. directed at modern women in general or at some particular heroine. Ex fashionable masochism.

marv. Marvellous: teenagers': since late 1950s. Cf. the much more popular fab(ulous), and:- marvellous (mar-veĕ-li-us). A joc. intensive of marvellous: since ca. 1925; virtually † by 1960.

marvellous as used in Society since ca. 1920 is s. for 'pleasant', 'nice'; a mere counter of a word! See, e.g., 'Slang Words', in Daily Mirror, 1 Nov. 1933, and Ibid., 26 Oct. 1933 (too, too marvellous); M. Linchon, Oh! Definitely, 1933, 'If you forbade that girl to say "marvellous", then stopped her from saying "definitely", she couldn't speak at all.'

marwooded, ppl adj. Hanged: lower classes': ca. 1875—83, executioner Marwood dying at the latter date. Ware.

Mary or mary. A girl or woman: Aus. pidgin: since ca. 1875. See esp. Wilkes. Cf. benjamin, 3, a husband.—2. 'Inseparable' nickname of men surnamed Hook: Services': earlier C.20. Why?—3. 'Marys ... Post war suburban units' (Railway, 2nd): railwaymen's: mid-C.20.—4. The liner Mauretania: nautical: ca. 1912—40. Cf. Lucy, the Lusitania.—5. A Glenn-Martin Maryland bomber: airmen's: WW2.—6. As exclam., (in 'jeffing' with quads) no score! printers': from ca. 1870; ob. Ex marry!, q.v. For the very interesting printers' s., see Slang.

Mary Ann. A female destroyer of recalcitrant labour-sweaters: ca. 1865—90: mostly Sheffield. H., 5th ed.—2. A dress-stand; dress-makers': from ca. 1870.—3. A sodomite: from ca. 1890; ob. Cf. Cissie, Jessie, Margery, Nancy, and Pansy. (Reynolds's Newspaper, 2 June 1895.) Hence, 4, an effeminate actor: theatrical: late C.19–20.—5. An exclam.: 'san fairy ann', whence it derives: 1916–18. F. & G.—6. The hand: rhyming s., rare: C.20. Franklyn, Rhyming.—7. A taxi-meter. See clock, n., 4.—8. See maryanning.

Mary Blane. A train: underworld rhyming s.: ca. 1880–1914.—2. Rain: rhyming s.: ca. 1860–1910.

Mary Ellen. 'If you are in Liverpool, stroll in the evening up the Scotland Road, and talk to the fascinating people you meet there, such as the "Mary Ellens"—the picturesque women who wear shawls over their heads, carry babies in their arms, work in the markets all day, and always have a good "tip" for tomorrow's race' (Robert Lynd, Things One Hears, 1945): Liverpool: since ca. 1910.

Mary Jane or mary jane. The female pudend: low: ca. 1840–1940.—2. Marijuana: drugs world: since ca. 1950. J. Maclaren-Ross, 'Bop', in Laugh with Me!, 1954.

Mary Lou. See bet on the blue.

Mary Warner. Marijuana: prison c.: mid-C.20. Tempest. maryanning. 'Cleaning, sweeping, polishing' (Radio Times, 21 Jan. 1965): railway porters': since ca. 1930. Ex Mary Ann, a type-name for a housemaid or a charwoman. Cf. 'To wash up the dishes and tidy the table, a duty known in the [Wormwood] Scrubs as "Mary Ann"' (Richmond Harvey, Prison from Within, 1936).

marygold. See marigold.

Marylebone kick. A kick in the belly: ca. 1820–80. Sinks, 1848.

Marylebone stage. See marrowbone stage.

marzipan. 'Filler used on bodywork after accident or corrosion' (Clive Graham-Ranger, in Sunday Times mag., 9 Aug. 1981, p. 42): car-dealers'. Cf. pudden, n., 3.

mas; Mas John or mas john; also mess-John. By itself, mas is a low coll. abbr. of master: ca. 1570–1730, as in Middleton, Blurt Master-Constable, 1602 (Moe) and Mrs Centlivre. Mas John, however, is joc. or contemptuous coll., ca. 1660–1840, for a Presbyterian minister as opp. to a Roman or an Anglican clergyman (in C.19, S.E.), as in Jeremy Taylor, Burke, and Scott. OED.

masby. A motor anti-submarine boat (with an affectionate y added for euphony): RN: since ca. 1940. Granville.

mascot. A person or thing that brings, or is believed to bring, good luck: 1881: s. >, ca. 1905, coll. >, ca. 1930, S.E. Ex E. Audran's opera, La Mascotte, played in London on 29 Dec. 1880, the word deriving ex Provençal masco, a sorcerer. OED.

mask. A sweetheart: 1882; † by 1915, except in Aus. (C.J. Dennis, 1916). Also masher, q.v.—2. A dandy: from ca. 1883; †. Cf. masher. Ex mask, v.—3. Only in make (Society) or do (rather vulgar) a mask, to make a 'conquest': 1883—ca. 1912. (Ware.) Hence, on the mask, constantly courting or ogling women: later 1880s—ca. 1912. Ex mask, v.—4. Mashed potatoes: orig. 'lower classes' coll. verging on sol.' (C.20); but by mid-C.20, in dishes such as 'sausage and mash', gen. and widespread. Mashed, in this sense, is also coll. (Manchon). See also baked.—5. Sentimental nonsense: Aus.: since ca. 1920. (B., 1942.) Ex sense 1.

mask, v.t., occ. v.i. To court or ogle or (attempt to) fascinate a girl or a woman; not often used of a woman 'bewitching' a man: 1882, Leland, 'These black-eyed beauties—gipsies—'by mashing men for many generations'; ob. Prob. ex the S.E. sense, to crush, pound, smash utterly, but perhaps, as Leland suggests, ex Romany mask (masher-ava), to allure, entice. Orig. (ca. 1860), US. Also mask it; see also n., 3.—2. To study very hard: Aus. RMC, Duntroon: since (?) ca. 1920. B., 1953.

mask-note. A love letter: Can.: since ca. 1920. Cf. mask, n., 1. and v.

mask that! Hold your tongue! low London:—1909 (Ware). Prob. ex S.E. sense of mask, v.

mask-tub. A brewer: coll.: from ca. 1850; ob. Hence, ca. 1870–1900, The Morning Mash-Tub: The Morning Advertiser, because of its brewery interests: Fleet Street.

mashed. See mask, n., 4.

mashed, adj. Flirtatious; 'smitten'; amorous: 1883; † by 1920. Ex mask, v., but perhaps suggested by spoony on, 'mash being regarded as spoon-diet' (W.). Also masky (Baumann, 1887).

mashed on. In love with: from ca. 1883; † by 1920. See esp. Pall Mall Gazette, 11 Oct. 1883, quoted by OED. Ex mask, v. mashed (the) potatoes for the Last Supper, he or she. 'Know him? Why, he helped me mash the potatoes for the Last Supper! Known him for years.' A Can. c.p. dating since ca. 1940. (Leechman.) See also since ...

masheen. A cat: Shelta: C.18–20. B. & L.

masher. A 'lady-killer': 1882, but not very gen. till 1883; ob. Ex mask, v., q.v.—2. A dandy, a fop: 1883; ob. The two senses merge, for the term was almost always applied to a flirtatious dandy, as T.A. Gartham in Pall Mall Gazette, (see mashed on), makes clear.—3. A lover: Glasgow: C.20.

masher, adj. Smart; dandified: 1884 († by 1915), The Globe, 7 Feb. 'What are ... masher canes to students immersed in Mill or Emerton ... ?'

masher blue. A weak blue, with tiny white dots: ca. 1884–90. Affected by 'mashers' for their waistcoats. Girl's Own Paper, Nov. 1884: OED.

masherdom. The world of the 'masher', q.v.: coll.: 1883; † by 1920. Also maskery.

mashers' corners. 'The O.P. and P.S. entrances to the stalls of the old Gaiety Theatre': Society: late 1882—ca. 85. (Ware.) Ex masker, n., 1. O.p. and p.s. (qq.v.) are the backstage opposite prompt and prompt side, resp.

maskery. † by 1920. 'Masherdom': 1887 (Baumann).

masking. Dandified flirtation by men; as adj., given to or characterised by such flirtation: 1883; ob. Ex mask, v.—2. 'A little screw of paper containing tea and sugar mixed': lower classes': late C.19–20. W.A. Gape, Half a Million Tramps, 1936.

Mashona piano. A late C.19–20 S. African coll. (cf. Kaffir piano) for 'a somewhat crude, but ingenious musical instrument made by the Makalakas, consisting of a wooden frame, with iron tongues of different lengths fastened upon it in a row, each emitting when struck a different musical note' (Pettman). Mrs C. Raab: these versatile instruments are made commercially, later C.20, and are known as Kalimbas or thumb-pianos, as the thumbs 'pluck' the metal 'reeds'.

masky. See mashed, adj.

maskel! Never mind! it doesn't matter: Anglo-Chinese: —1864 (H., 3rd ed.). Origin problematical: cf., however, ma'alish, ex the Arabic, and Skeat's ingenious derivation ex Portuguese mas que. P.B.: the vocabulary to Charles G. Leland's Pidgin-English Sing-Song, 10th ed., 1924, glosses thus: 'all right; correct; never mind; notwithstanding; nevertheless; however; but; anyhow. This word is used in a very irregular manner. It is not Chinese, its equivalent in Mandarin being [bu yao jin].' maskin. Coal: c.: C.18—mid-19. ?origin.

maskins!, by the. A corruption of by the mass!: C.17–20; in C.19–20, dial.

mason. A person, esp. a horse-dealer, giving worthless notes in payment for horses: c. of ca. 1750–1800. (The Discoveries of John Poulter, 1753.) Ex superstitions regarding masonry.—2. Also, v.i.

masoner. The same as mason, n., q.v. Poulter.

masonics. Secrets: Society coll.: mid-C.19—early 20. Ware, 'From the secret rites of Freemasonry. Not that there are either secrets or rites in Freemasonry—at all events in England—where combined secrets are neither wanted nor expected.'

masoning. The giving of worthless notes for horses purchased: c. of ca. 1750–1800. See mason.

masonry. Secret signs and passwords: coll.: 1841, Lytton; ob. Ex S.E. sense.

mason's maund. A sham sore that, above the elbow, counterfeits a broken arm: c.: late C.17—early 19. (B.E.) Cf. maund, q.v.

M

[mass. Frequently employed in oaths in late M.E. and early Mod. E.]

massa; occ. mas'r. Master; in Negroes' English: recorded 1774, Foote (OED); doubtless in use very much earlier. Mostly in US, but not to be considered US.

massacre of the innocents. See innocents.

massacree. 'Unlettered pronunciation for massacre' (Bee, 1823). Also in dial. In later C.20, sometimes used joc.

masse-stapler. A rogue disguised as a woman: c.: C.18-early 19. ?origin.

Massey-Harris. Cheese: Can., C.20; by contacts made in WWI, also Aus. (B. & P.; B., 1953.) Ex the Massey-Harris self-binder (a forerunner of the combined harvester) + the costiveness of cheese.

massive vassal with a passive tassel. See crap-happy pappy.

massy. A corrupt, sol. form of mercy, chiefly in exclamations, e.g. massy sakes and Lord-a-massy: mid-C.19-20; ob. OED.

mast. A pin (in golf): trawlermen's: since ca. 1920. (Daily Mail, 16 Aug. 1939.) Humorous.

master. A master-at-arms: RN coll.: C.20.—2. As the master, conductor of a train: Can. railroadmen's:—1931. Humorous.—3. As the Master, the Navigating Officer: RN: latish C.19-mid-20. Goodenough, 1901.

Master Controller; Master Gunner. See TAVERN TERMS, §5, §7, in Appendix.

Master Gyppo, the. In the Household Cavalry and the Foot Guards the senior NCO of the cookhouse was inevitably known as "The Master Gyppo". Anything hot or liquid, custard, soup, stew, was "gyppo" (Carew); late C.19-20.

master knob, the. The ship's captain: lowerdeck: C.19. Basil Hall, 1832.

master maniac; master mind. A master mechanic; train-master or yardmaster or conductor or train-dispatcher: Can. railroadmen's: C.20.

master of (a person), get the. To become, or act the, master over: proletarian coll.:—1887 (Baumann).

master of a ship (or) of Art. See TAVERN TERMS, §7, §3b, in Appendix.

Master of ceremonies. That 'plane which hovers high over the target to direct a bombing raid: RAF: 1941+.—2. See TAVERN TERMS, §5, in Appendix; and m.c.

master of impediment. 'Troublesome preparation for the schools' (Egan's Grose): Oxford University: ca. 1820-40.

Master of Mizrul. See TAVERN TERMS, §5, in Appendix.

master of the black art. A beggar: c.: late C.16-17.

Master of the mint. A gardener: joc. coll.: a mid-C.18-19 pun. Grose, 2nd ed.

Master of the Novelties (or) of the Ordnance. See TAVERN TERMS, §5, §6, in Appendix.

master of the rolls. A baker: mid-C.17-20, ob.; joc. coll. (Peacham, Grose.) Cf. burn-crust, doughy.

master of the wardrobe. One who pawns his clothes to buy liquor: mid-C.17-early 19. This is apparently one of the few TAVERN TERMS (q.v., §5, in Appendix) to have survived any length of time; it is recorded in Grose, 2nd ed.

master-vein, be hit on the. To take a man; to conceive: late C.16-17. Greene, 'My faire daughter was hit on the master vaine and gotten with child' (OED). Cf. masterpiece.

masterpiece. The female pudend: low: C.18-early 20. Cf. master-vein, q.v.

masterpiece (of) night work. A very pretty harlot: low:—1909 (Ware).

master's mate. See TAVERN TERMS, §7, in Appendix.

masticate the matrimonial muscle with a munching movement of the molar. Joc. c.p., an elab. of 'munch my bunch': Services': 1960s. (John Malin, 1980.) A further example of the barrack-room delight in alliteration; cf. 'bring me my brass-bound buggery-box'.

mat. (A) matter, esp. in what's the mat?: schoolboys': late C.19-20.—2. A matinée: theatrical coll.: 1914, Gertrude Atherton (OED Sup.).—3. In on the mat, up for trial (from late 1890s); hence, in trouble (ca. 1915): Services' >, by 1920, gen. coll. (F. & G.; Lyell.) Ex the small square mat on which the accused soldier stood in a barracks orderly-room.

mat-boy. A professional wrestler: Aus.: since ca. 1946. Vince Kelly, The Greedy Ones, 1958.

mataby. Cannabis grown in Zaire: drugs world: later C.20. Sean McConville, in The State of the Language, 1980.

Matapan hammer tapper. 'Anyone who favoured the hammer [as opp. to any more delicate tool]' (John Malin, 1979): RN, esp. HM submarine Astute: mid-1960s. A ref. to the battle of Cape Matapan, 28 Mar. 1941, in which the Brit. Mediterranean Fleet decisively defeated the Italian fleet with no loss to itself. A hammer blow indeed! (P.B.)

Matapan stew. A stew made of odds-and-ends: R Aus. N: 1942-5. (B., 1943.) Cf. prec.

match, a. Agreed!; done!: coll. >, by 1650, S.E.: late C.16-early 18. Shakespeare, 'A match, 'tis done'; Farquhar. OED.—2. See lose the match...; fat as a match.

match and make a dispatch. S. African low s. var. of hatch, match and dispatch column, q.v., birth, marriage and death announcements in a newspaper: C.20. Cape Times, 3 June 1946.

match! quoth Hatch (or Jack or John) when he got his wife by the breech or when he kissed his dame (, a). A c.p. of ca. 1670-1750. Ray, 'Proverbial' Fuller (Apperson).

matchbox (or hyphenated). A troop-carrying glider: RAF and army: 1941-5. P-G-R.—2. A Matchless motorcycle: motorcyclists': since 1930s. (Dunford).—3. A 57 XX locomotive: Western Region railwaymen's: mid-C.20. Ex its small pannier tank. (Railway.) Like the comparable nickname spam-can, the term was applied to several types of locomotive.

matches. Shares in Bryant & May, Ltd, the English manufacturers of matches: Stock Exchange: from ca. 1890.

matchstick with the wood shaved off, a. A very slightly-built person (usu. male): joc.: C.20. (P.B.) Cf. if you looked at him sideways...

mate. A companion, partner; comrade; friend: late C.14-20: S.E. except in Greene's Third Cony-Catching (1592), where it verges on c., and except when—from ca. 1450—it is used as a vocative, this being (in C.19-20, somewhat low) coll.: orig. nautical. Stanyhurst, Miss Braddon. (OED.) Cf. matey, q.v., and mate up.

mate of the beer cask. 'Junior midshipman who used to have the job of seeing that the gunroom beer barrel was properly stowed and not leaking. (Obsolete)' (Granville): RN: (?) late C.19-early 20.

mate up. To become mates or companions: Aus. coll. (? esp. W. Aus.): C.20. Tom Ronan, Only a Short Walk, 1961.

matelot, mateloe, matlo(w). ('Taffrail' has pl matloes.) 'Self-adopted nickname of all blue jackets' (Granville): RN >, by 1939 at latest, much more widespread: E.P. gives ca. 1880 for matlo(w), SOD 1909 for matelot.—2. (Esp. matlow.) Hence, like Fleet Air Arm wallah, a member of the FAA: Services', esp. RAF: since ca. 1918. (Partridge, 1945.) Ex Fr. matelot, a sailor; cf. maltout, q.v., and:-

Matelots, the. The London River Police: esp. among the other branches of the Metropolitan Police: since ca. 1945. The River Police return the compliment with the Land Crabs, all the other Metropolitan policemen. In, e.g., BBC TV programme 'No Hiding Place', 24 Sep. 1963.

mater. Mother; one's mother: from ca. 1860: chiefly schoolboys' and undergraduates'. (Hemyng in Eton School Days, 1864.) Simply the L. word adopted in English. Cf. pater, q.v.

materials. Whiskey-punch: Anglo-Irish evasive coll.: late C.19-20. Ware.

maternal. A mother: 1867 (Routledge's Every Boy's Annual, Dec.); ob. (OED). Either short for maternal parent or the adj. used as a n.

Maternity Home, the. 'The war-time nickname for the Liverpool Naval Base, whose headquarters were in the Liver Buildings, which had two storks or "livers" on the roof (P-G-R): RN: 1939-45. That the liver means a stork is a piece of folklore, because strictly liver, a back-formation ex Liverpool, represents—on the city arms—the eagle of St John the Evangelist. (OED.) There are no storks in the armorial bearings of Liverpool, nor (begging the OED's pardon!) is there an eagle of St John the Evangelist: Julian Franklyn, who knows as much about heraldry as he does about Cockneys and their speech—which is saying quite a lot.

maternity jacket. The double breasted, plastron-fronted tunic worn by the RFC, 1912-18: RFC: WW1. F. & G.

mat(e)y, n. A mate, companion, comrade: from early C.19 (Bill Truck, 1821): eligible only as a term of address (for it is then coll.), as in H. Kingsley's Geoffrey Hamlyn, "Matey," says I, (you see I was familiar, he seemed such a jolly sort of bird), "matey, what station are you on?" Cf. mate, q.v. —2. (Gen. in pl and as maties.) A dockyard labourer: nautical: C.20. ('Taffrail'). In later C.20 often in full as dockyard matey; occ., as a worker at a airfield, airyard matey: RN. (P.B.) —3. A (hospital) matron, esp. in a workhouse: 1857 (A. Mayhew, Paved with Gold). P.B.: at my preparatory school, early 1940s, it denoted the school matron; favoured boys were permitted to use it as an informal mode of address.

mately, adj. Characteristic of a mate, q.v.; friendly, 'chummy': coll., from ca. 1910; by ca. 1935, verging on S.E.

math, matha, maths, mathy. Coll. abbreviations of mathematics: the 1st mainly N. American; noted also by Collinson at Dulwich College, early C.20; the 2nd at Christ's Hospital School, later C.19, where also was used the term mathe-mat = a mathematician (J.S. Farmer, Public School Word Book, 1900); the 3rd by far the most common in Britain: since ca. 1875; the 4th, at Manchester Grammar School: later C.19-20.

Matilda. See waltz Matilda. Among New Zealanders (—1932), gen. carry Matilda.

matin-bell. A thieves' meeting-place: c.: C.19-early 20.

matinée dog. Mostly in try it on the matinée dog: theatrical: ca. 1885-1915. (Ware.) Satiric both of vivisection and of frequenters of matinées, at which the dramatic performance is gen. inferior to the acting done in the evening. Whence try it on the dog.

matineer. A frequenter of matinées: theatrical coll.: from either 1884 or 1885, the two years during which there was a rabies for matinées. Punning mutineers. (Ware.)

matings and evenanog. Joc. perversion of matins and even-song: later C.20. (Rev. David Paterson, 1975.)

matloe, matlo(w). See matelot.

matric. A coll. abbr. of matriculation: 1885 (Punch, 16 Mar.: OED).

matrimonial. Coition in the usual position: occ. m. polka. Low: mid-C.19-earlier 20. Hence, as L.A. notes, 1974, do or have a matrimonial. It is, an ethnographer communicates, known among English-speaking South Sea Islanders ('noted for their ingenuity in these matters') as the missionary position: late C.19-20. It was rumoured also to be known thus to the Chinese (P.B.). Claiborne, 1976, adds: 'The missionary position is perhaps folklore; a recent survey of sexual behaviour around the world concludes that this position is in fact the most popular among almost all cultures. Among Anglo-Saxons, it is almost an article of faith that other peoples have a better time of it in bed.'

matrimonial peacemaker. The penis: mid-C.18-20. (Grose, 2nd ed.) It is doubtful whether this is not sometimes a mere S.E. euph.

matrimony. A mixture of two drinks or edibles: s. and dial.: 1813. OED.

matr. (Virtually non-existent in singular.) Trench 'duckboards': army: WW1. F. & G.—2. Matrimonial cases: probation officers', hence local government: since ca. 1960. (G. Parkinson, 'Marriage on Probation', New Society, 22 May 1969.) By ca. 1975, coll. Perhaps a blend, both phonetic and semantic, of matrimonial + matters.

matrspeak. 'Sixpence from everyone for the seats in the cathedral': church s.: ca. 1870-1900. B. & L.

matter. See near as no matter; what's the matter with? matter of form, a (mere). 'A merely formal affair; a point of ordinary routine': coll.: 1824 (H.J. Stephen: OED Sup.). Ex the legal a matter of form, 'a point of formal procedure' (ibid.). matter will keep cold, the. The matter may rest without harm or loss: coll.: ca. 1660-1800. (B.E.) Cf. the C.20 put (something) on ice, to put aside for the time being.

matress-jig. Sexual intercourse: low coll. when not S.E. euph.: C.18-19.

maturing in the wood. A joc. c.p., applied 'to men whose heads are full of ideas that never get any further than their heads' (Petch, 1966): since ca. 1950. A pun on liquor maturing in the cask, and a sly allusion to wooden heads.

maty. See matey.

Mau Mau, the. RAF Air Traffic Control officers: RAF Fighter Command aircrew officers': early 1950s. Ex the terrorist organisation waging guerrilla warfare in Kenya at the time. (P.B.) Cf.:-

Mau Mau dancing. Scottish country dancing (e.g. reels)—a wardrobe fad: RN: 1950s. (Peppitt.) Cf. prec.

Maud. A male prostitute: prostitutes' and homosexuals': since ca. 1940.

Maud and Ruth. Truth: rhyming s. Clement & La Frenais, A Further Stir of Porridge, 1977.

Maud, Lily and Kate. An occ. var. of Pip, Squeak and Wilfred, the three army service medals of WW1. Gilbert Frankau, Self-Portrait, 1940.

maukes. See mawkes.

maulkin. See malkin.

maul. A, or to, wrestle for the ball when, in Rugby football, it is 'held' over the goal-line. London schools' coll.: ca. 1875-1914.—2. 'Since ca. 1950, a coll. increasingly used by radio and press commentators to mean a wrestle for the ball in any part of the field. One even hears of "a loose maul", and a scrum has become "a set scrum"' (H.R. Spencer, 1963).

mauld is an occ. spelling of mauled.

mauldy. Left-handed: Aus.:—1926 (Jice Doone). Possibly cognate with Aberdeenshire mauly, abbr. mauliff, a woman without energy, a girl apt to make a fuss (EDD); but prob. a corruption of mauley, q.v., for this latter form also occurs in Aus. in the sense of mauldy.

mauled. Exceedingly drunk: late C.17-mid-19. B.E., Grose.

mauler. (Gen. pl.) A fist: C.19-20. (W.T. Moncrieff, The Collegians, 1820; Sessions, 1832; Manchion, 1923.) That with which one mauls an opponent, and influenced by:-

mauley; occ. mawley or morley. A fist, the hand: low: 1781 (G. Parker); Moncrieff; Miss Braddon. Hence slang or sling a person one's mauley, to give a person one's hand, shake hands with; tip a mauley, give a hand; fam the mauley, shake hands.—2. Hence, a finger; virtually always in pl.: c.: 1845 in 'No. 747'; ob.—3. Handwriting, 'a fist'; a signature: low: from ca. 1850. (Mayhew, 1851; Powis, 1977.) The term derives ex maul, v.; or is perhaps 'a transposition of Gaelic lamh, hand, used in tinkers' s. or Shelta', W., 'in form malya'; the Romany s. is mylier.—4. See mauldy.

maum, in phrase maum and gaum and gen. as mauming and gauming. To 'paw' (a person): low coll.: ca. 1735-1860. (OED.) Perhaps cognate with dial. malm, to besmear.

maund. Begging; (with prefixed word) some specified begging imposture: C.17-early 19 c. Rowlands, B.E., Grose (mason's maund, q.v.). Cf. maunder.

maund, v.t. and v.i. To beg: c.: ca. 1565-1800. (Harman, Beaumont & Fletcher, B.E.) Prob. ex Fr. mendier or quémancier influenced by Romany mang. OED.—2. To ask: c.: ca. 1565-1700. Harman.

maund abram. To beg as a madman: C.17-18 c. (Rowlands.) See abram.

maund it. To go a-begging: c.: C.17-18. Ex maund, v., q.v.

maunder, n. A beggar: c.: C.17-mid-19. (Rowlands, Lytton.) Ex maund, v.

maunder, v. To beg: c.: ca. 1610–1770. (Middleton & Dekker; Dyche.) Ex maund, v., of which it is a mere extension, perhaps suggested by Fr.

maunder on the fly. To beg of people in the streets: c.: ca. 1850–90. H., 1st ed.

maunderer. A professional beggar: c.: ca. 1610–1840. (Middleton & Dekker; Ainsworth, in Rookwood.) Ex maunder, v. Cf.:

maundering, ppl adj. Begging; given to begging: c.: ca. 1610–1700.

maund(e)ring-broth. A scolding: late C.17–early 19. (B.E.) Ex maunder, to grumble.

maunding. The, or an, act of begging: c.: 1610 (Rowlands); † by 1850. OED.—2. Adj., begging; given to or characteristic of begging: c.: ca. 1600–1720. W. Cartwright, ‘Some counterfeiting trick of such maunding people’ (OED).

maunding cove. A beggar: c.: C.17–18. Anon., Sack for my Money, ca. 1603.

mauravalins. Aus. var. of menavelings, 2. (Jean Devanney, 1944.)

maut is an occ. C.17–18 spelling of mort, q.v. Ned Ward has it in 1709. (Matthews.)

maux. See mawkes.

maw. The mouth, when applied to human beings (its S.E. sense, in this connection, is jaws or mouth of a voracious mammal or fish): c. or low coll.: C.18–19. (‘Ducange Anglicus’.) Esp. in hold your maw!, stop talking!

maw-wallop. A filthy dish of food: low coll.: late C.18–mid-19. Grose, 2nd ed.

maw-wormy. Captious; pessimistic: coll.—theatrical, and non-aristocratic. Ware cites Entr’Acte, 6 June 1885. (Stomach-worms cause peevishness.)

mawkes. A whore: coll.: C.17–18. Lodge; Street Robberies Considered.—2. A slattern, esp. if dirty or vulgar: coll. verging on S.E.: late C.17–20; dial. after ca. 1820. Grose, 2nd ed.

mawkish. Slatternly: ca. 1720–70. A New Canting Dict., 1725.

mawley. See mauley.

mawpus. See mopus.

max, n. Gin; properly, very good gin; low: C.18–19. James Dalton, A Narrative, 1728: ‘Max, Geneva’; Baumann, 1887. Abbr. maxima, -e, -us, or um.

max, adj. Coll. shortening of maximum, as in ‘involving max effort from masses of aeroplanes’ (Phantom): Services: later C.20. Influenced by technological j.; taken from written abbreviations such as ‘max revs’ (maximum revolutions) or ‘max temp’ (m. temperature). (P.B.)

maxi. A full-length skirt; reaction to the ‘mini’: mostly feminine: since Sep. 1967: by Jan. 1968, coll. See mini.

maxie. A great error, big mistake: Scottish: 1868, G. MacDonald, Robert Falconer, ‘Horror of horrors! a maxie’; ob. EDD.

May. The college Easter Term examination, says Bristed, 1852; more safely defined as the college May examination: Cambridge coll. > j. > S.E. In C.20, always Mays.

May-bees don’t fly all the year long. A c.p. reply to one beginning a statement with it may be: mid-C.18–20; ob. (Grose, 2nd ed.) In Swift, May-bees don’t fly now. Also this month. The Scots form is maybes (or May-bees) are no aye honey-bees.

May-game of (one), make a. To befool a person: coll. > S.E.: late C.16–early 19. B.E., who defines May games as ‘Frolics, Plaies, Tricks, Pastimes, &c.’.

May-gathering. Sheep-stealing: c.: C.19.

may God blind me. The original invocation—† by 1909—‘of the gutterling’: whence Gorblimey (q.v.), etc. Ware.

may he dance at his death! ‘May he be hanged!’ (Matsell): ca. 1840–1914. I.e., at the end of a rope.

May hill, to have climbed or got over (or up). To have survived the late spring, gen. considered a tricky month: proverbial coll.: from ca. 1660; ob. Perhaps in allusion to an actual May Hill. Apperson.

may I die! A C.18 c.p. used either in vehement protestation or in vigorous asseveration. (Charles Macklin, Love à la Mode, 1759.) See DCpp. and cf.:

may I gasp my last if...! A proletarian asseveration: coll.:—1887 (Baumann); † by mid-C.20.

may I never do an ill turn! C.18 c.p. of emphasis. (Isaac Bickerstaffe, Love in a Village, 1763.) See DCpp.

may I pee in your cap (or hat)? A N. Country working men’s c.p., requested by someone taken short: C.20; by 1965, ob.

May-term. The Easter, i.e. the summer, term at Cambridge: coll. (—1905) verging on S.E. OED.

may you live in interesting times! Said to be an ancient Chinese curse: some joc. use in Britain, later C.20, prob. ex US. (P.B.)

may your prick and (your) purse never fail you! occ. may his... him. Half-toast, half-c.p. of C.18–mid-19. James Dalton, A Narrative, 1728, ‘They bid the Coachman drive on, and civilly saluted the Player, wishing his — and Purse might never fail him.’

may your rabbits flourish! An Aus. expression of good-will, whether as farewell or as ironic comment: since ca. 1920. (Camilla Raab, 1977.) Rabbits have, in the past, been a ‘curse’ in Australia. Cf. hope your rabbit dies!—is there a connection?

may your shadow never grow (occ. be) less! May you prosper: a Persian phrase introduced to England by Morier in 1824 and, ca. 1880, generalised as a coll. Referee, 2 Jan. 1887 (OED).

Mays. See May.—2. The Cambridge May (now held in early June) boat races: s. (—1879) > j. >, by 1900, S.E. OED.

mazard. See mazzard.

mazarine. A common-councilman of London: coll.: from ca. 1760; ob. (The Annual Register, 1761.) Ex the gown of mazarine blue.—2. A platform under the stage: theatrical: ca. 1840–1940. (Albert Smith, The Natural History of the Ballet Girl, 1847.) ?ex It. mezzanino.

mazer. See mazzard.

mazuma. Money; esp. cash: orig. US, adopted in Can. —1914 (B. & P.), and Aus. ca. 1944 (via US servicemen), esp. in sporting circles (Lawson Glassop, Lucky Palmer, 1949); not unknown in Brit., but never common. Ex Yiddish.

mazzard; also mazard and mazer. The head: joc. coll. verging on S.E.: mazer, ca. 1580–1660; maz(z)ard, C.17–20, ob.—2. The face (not mazer): ca. 1760–1890: joc. coll. verging on S.E. Horace Walpole, ‘His... Christian’s mazard was a constant joke’ (OED). Sense 2 ex sense 1, which, as to mazzard, derives ex mazer, a drinking-bowl.—3. (Again, not mazer) the head of a coin: Anglo-Irish: C.19–20; ob. Maria Edgeworth (OED).

mazzard. To knock on the head: C.17–18 coll. verging on S.E. (Not very gen.)

Mc—. See Mac—.

Me. A Messerschmitt fighter ‘plane: 1940 (Berrey). See He, Me and You and cf. Mess and Messer.

me. (As nominative, i.e.) I: C.16–20: loose S.E. till C.18, then, as subject, dial. and sol., as in Dickens’s ‘Me and Mrs. Boffin stood the poor girl’s friend’; predicatively, coll.—somewhat low coll. verging on sol., as in Swift’s ‘Impossible! it can’t be me.’—2. My: mid-C.13–20: S.E. till C.16, then dial. and, when not dial., sol. (Cf. dial. and slurred, almost sol. mū, my.)—3. Myself: when deliberate, it is a literary affectation; when unintentional, it is coll. verging on sol. Baumann, ‘I turned me round.’ (Not to be confused with the ethical dative, ‘I’ll buy me a paper,’ itself ob.)—4. In construction and me: ‘especially in view of the fact that I am...’: low coll.: from ca. 1810. Maria Edgeworth, 1812, ‘Which would be hard on us and me a widow’ (OED).

me and you. A menu: from ca. 1910. P.P., Rhyming Slang, 1932.

me I. ‘Used expletively in passages of a narrative character’ (OED): in C.17–early 19, low coll. verging on sol., in such phrases as then says me I (e.g. in Vanbrugh’s Aesop) and what did me I but... (Not to be confused with, though perhaps generated in part by, the ethical dative.) OED.

meadow mayonnaise. Airy talk; worthless assurances: Aus.: since ca. 1930. (B., 1942.) With a pun on bull-shit (found in meadows). Cf. confetti, 2.

meal is dough, (one's). See cake is dough.

meal-mouth. 'A sly sheepish Dun' (B.E.): coll. or s.: late C.17–18.

meal-sack, gen. -tub. A stock of sermons: clerical: later C.19–early 20.

meal ticket. 'Wren's boy friend' (Granville): RN: WW2+. —2. More seriously, a person regarded as one's (often sole) financial support: coll.: in this sense, adopted ex US mid-1970s. In J.C.W. Brook, A Dream of Murder, broadcast early 1979, 'He was using her as a meal-ticket' [he was unemployed and on drugs, while she earned the money to support the two of them]. Or, of a woman in pursuit of alimony, 'She was trying to secure a meal-ticket for herself.' (Camilla Raab.) 'Their names never became household-words synonymous with "Punk Rock", but all four [bands] consoled themselves with hooking a meal-ticket from a major label [= recording company]' (Burchill & Parsons, The Boy Looked at Johnny, 1978, p. 49).

mealier. One pledged to drink intoxicants only at meals: —1890 (B. & L.). —2. One who, lodging at one place, eats elsewhere: adopted, ex US, ca. 1887.

mealy-back. A cicada: Aus.: late C.19–20. Baker.

mean, v. 'To intend with determined purpose' (OED): coll.: from ca. 1840. E.g. 'Well, anyway, I mean to do it!' Esp. in mean business.

mean, adj. Disobliging; petty; (of a horse) vicious: coll., with a childish tinge; orig. S.E. for small-minded, ignoble in action; in early C.20 mainly US in this sense, but current among children, for the first two senses, by ca. 1940 at latest. —2. The phrase to feel mean, to feel ashamed or guilty, is recorded by Marryat in 1839 as US: adopted, ca. 1860, as s. >, by C.20, coll. —3. So good as to be unfair (mean): Can. coll.: adopted, ca. 1910, ex US. 'He swings a mean bat' —in baseball. (Leechman.) —4. Sly; crafty: Aus. adopted, ca. 1944, ex US coll. senses. 'This job usually takes an hour, but I know a few mean tricks.' (B.P.) mean a thing. (Always in negative or interrogative sentences.) To mean, to signify, anything; be of importance: coll.: from ca. 1927. 'He doesn't mean a thing in my young life.' mean as a Christian, as. Very mean: Jewish coll.: C.19–20. Tit for tat.

mean as a louse, (as). Stingy; miserly: proletarian coll.: —1887 (Baumann).

mean as pig-shit and twice as nasty, (as). Extremely close-fisted and very nasty-minded: low: since ca. 1930. (P.B., 1974.) Occ. as cat-shit...

mean he (or she) wouldn't give anyone a fright, he (or she) is so. A c.p. applied to a very mean, close-fisted person: C.20. Variants: (s)he wouldn't spit in your mouth if your throat was on fire: since ca. 1915; (s)he wouldn't give you the time of day: prob. since mid-C.19; ... wouldn't give you his cold: C.20.

mean to do without 'em! (, I). I.e. without women: a c.p. popularised on the music-halls by Arthur Roberts in 1882; † by 1910. Ware.

mean to say, I. A coll. tautological form, dating from the early 1890s, of I mean, itself verging on coll. when, as frequently, it connotes apologetic modification or mental woolliness. (The phrase occurs in Yorkshire and Cheshire dial. before 1900: EDD.)

meanie or -y. A person reluctant to pay his share: Services: since ca. 1930. (H. & P., 1943.) Diminutive of mean. Ex the more usual sense, a mean person: lower-middle class coll.: C.20. —2. A spoilsport; one mean in sense 1 of the adj.: coll.: since mid-C.20. The Beatles, in the cartoon film, The Yellow Submarine, 1968, popularised the term 'the blue meanies' as an intensification for those that cast a blight on joyfulness; cf. Aus. grey meanies, traffic wardens. (P.B.).

meaning-like. In earnest: low coll.: —1887 (Baumann). For meaningly.

meant. (Of a horse) meant to win: turf: from ca. 1840; ob. (B. & L.) By cryptic abridgement.

measle, v.i. To become pitted with measles-spots: coll.: from ca. 1880.

measles. Syphilis: medical students' ironic: —1933 (Slang, p. 192).

measly. Contemptible; of little value: 1864, Miss Braddon, 'To think that the government ... should have the audacity to offer a measly hundred pounds or so for the discovery of a great crime!' —2. Miserable-looking, 'seedy': ca. 1860–1900. H., 3rd ed.

measure, n. In to be (one's) measure, to be just the person needed: low s. (—1857) >, by 1880, non-aristocratic coll. 'Ducange Anglicus'; Baumann, 'He's our measure das ist unser Mann.' —2. In get (late C.18–mid-19) or take (late C.17–early 19) (one's) measure, to coit with; to marry: coll., the former sense being low. Lacy, in Sir Hercules Buffoon, 'Gin I'd let him alone, he had taken measure o' th' inside of me as well as o' th' out.'

measure a twig. To act absurdly: coll.: ca. 1670–1750. Ray. measure (someone's) daylight for mourning. To give (him) a black-eye: boxing: ca. 1810–50. (George Godfrey, History, 1828.) Cf. measured for.

measure out. To knock down; to kill: low coll. (—1891) verging on s.

measured, be. To be exactly suited, e.g. with a part written to one's fancy or ability; theatrical: 1859, Blanchard Jerrold.

measured for a new umbrella, been. Dressed badly; hence, embarked on a course of doubtful wisdom: c.p.: late C.19–early 20. Only his umbrella fits.

measured for a suit of mourning, be. To receive a black eye: boxing: 1819 (Moore in Tom Crib's Memorial); ob. by 1900, † by 1930.

meat. Something profitable or pleasant: coll.: from ca. 1885. Westminster Gazette, 28 Dec. 1897, 'There is a good deal of meat for the actors' (OED). —2. Generic for the human body (rarely the male) as an instrument of sexual pleasure; hence, for the female pudend and/or the male: low coll.: late C.16–20; slightly ob. Gosson; Killigrew, 'Your bed is big enough for two, and my meat will not cost you much.' Hence, a bit of meat, coition: low (s. rather than coll.): C.18–20; also, a harlot: low: late C.19–20 (Manchon). With the latter sense, cf. fresh meat, a harlot new to her trade, C.19–20 low, and contrast raw meat, a harlot (less gen., any woman) naked in the sexual act: id.; the price of meat, the cost of a sexual embrace: id. Meat, in the sense of a prostitute, or the female pudend, is often referred to as hot meat, q.v. (contrast cold meat). Those who are 'frequently amorous' are said to be fond of meat: low: C.19–20. Pursuing the sexual connotation, see flash it; mutton, and nearer the bone...

—3. 'The thickest part of the blade of a bat': cricketers' coll.: 1925 (D.J. Knight; Lewis). —4. Tissues for microscopical examination: medical students': —1933 (Slang, p. 192). —5. See feed (one) meat.

meat and drink. An amorous carouse: low: C.19–early 20. Cf. meat, 2. —2. A cocktail in which an egg is beaten up: West Indian: from ca. 1870. B. & L.

meat and two veg. A man's sexual organs: low: C.20. See meat, 2, and cf. veg.

meat-axe, savage or mad as a (, as). Extremely angry: coll.: the 1st, adopted, ex US, ca. 1905 (Thornton), and † by mid-C.20; the 2nd, an Aus. var., since early 1940s, and denoting also 'insane'.

meat-box. The Gloster Meteor, the first operational British jet-fighter (in action, 1944): RAF: mid-C.20. (S/Ldr Ron Glynn, RAF, ret'd.) By affectionate perversion.

meat-drink-washing-and-lodging. A spirituous liquor, prob. gin: ca. 1720–50. Anon., The Quaker's Opera, 1728 (see quot'n at bunter's tea).

meat-flasher, -flashing. An exposer, the exposure, of the person in public: low: C.19–20. See flash, v., 4.

meat-fosh. A (warm) meat-hash: Cockneys': —1887 (Baumann). ?Fr. farci.

meat-head. 'Derogatory term for a member of the Royal Military Police. Current [since mid-1940s]. Usage: the rest of the Army' (P.B., 1974): adopted ex US. Implication: stupidity.

meat-hook. A curl on the temple (as worn by the London coster): Cockneys':—1887 (Baumann); † with the fashion.

meat-house. A brothel: low: C.19—early 20.

meat-injection, give (her) a. To coït with a woman: Services': since late 1940s. (P.B.)

meat-market. A rendezvous of harlots; the female breasts; the female pudend; low: C.19—20.

meat-merchant. A bawd: low: C.19—early 20.

meat-mincer. The mouth: pugilistic: ca. 1840—90. (Augustus Mayhew, Paved with Gold, 1857.) The prototype of mechanical mincers.

meat-monger. A man given to wenching: low: C.18—19.

meat of, make (cold). To kill: orig. (1848), US; anglicised ca. 1870.

meat rack, the. 'Pavement beside railings under the colonnade of the County Fire Office, Piccadilly Circus, where male prostitutes gather' (Powis): 1970s. Adopted ex US generic term for such gathering-places (Bruce Rodgers, The Queens' Vernacular, 1972).

meat-safe. A pugilistic var. (—1920, but by 1930 already ob.) of bread-basket, q.v. W.—2. That oblong box-pew (gauze-fronted and curtain-sided) in which, at divine service, the condemned murderer sits in the prison chapel: c.:—1932 ('Stuart Wood', Shades of the Prison House).

meat-skewer. A bayonet: joc. army coll.: from ca. 1910. F. & G.

meat-tag. An identity disc: Services', esp. Aus.: WW2. Cf.: meat-ticket. An identity-tag. Var. of cold-meat ticket. F. & G.

meat wag(g)on. An ambulance: Services', esp. RAF (Jackson), and low coll. (Home Office): since ca. 1925. In RAF, also a flying ambulance.—2. A 'black Maria': policemen's and prisons': since ca. 1930. Norman; Home Office.

meater. A cowardly dog (lit., one that will bite only meat), hence a cowardly man: low (mostly Cockneys'): late C.19—20. Ware.

meaters. A dissection class; dissection as part of a medical course: medical students': from ca. 1910. Ex meat by the 'OXFORD-ER(S)'.—2. Hence, esp. at Cambridge, the laboratory in which it is conducted: since ca. 1910. (R.S.)

meaty, plump, is S.E.—2. Sexually enjoyable: low coll.: from ca. 1820.—3. Obscene: book-world coll.: C.20.

mebbe. Perhaps: (dial. and) proletarian coll.: C.19—20. Lit., maybe.

mebu. A 'pill-box': Army officers': late 1917—18. (F. & G.) Ex the Ger. technical name, 'maschinengewehr-eisenbeton-unterstand'.

mech. Mechanic; esp. in the old air mech (see erk) of the RFC, and the later flight mech of the RAF: coll.: since ca. 1912. Also as adj., in, e.g. mech enge, the mechanical engineering department of an establishment for technical education. Cf. tech. (E.P.; P.B.) mechanic. A dishonest card-player; a card-sharp: Aus. (B., 1953) and Can., adopted ex US where orig. c. (Leechman): since (?)ca. 1940.

mechanical, n. A factory hand: coll.: ca. 1860—1930. By ellipsis. Robert Roberts, A Ragged Schooling, 1976.

mechanical cow. A Maurice Farman biplane. See shorthorn.

mechanical man, the. The chief parade-ground instructor at the Gunnery School, Whale Island: RN: 1940s. (Peppitt.) I suspect: for longer—and elsewhere.

Med, the. The Mediterranean: C.20. (Richard Llewellyn, None But The Lonely Heart, 1943.) Hence Med as adjective, as in a Med, a bird-watchers' s. abbr. of 'a Mediterranean bird' (cf. BIRD-WATCHERS', in Appendix).

med, medic, medical, medico. A doctor, whether physician or surgeon or both combined; a student of medicine. Thus, med, orig. (1851) US, was anglicised ca. 1860 and in C.20 is ob.; medic, as doctor, is C.17—18 S.E., C.19 rare coll., and as medical student is s., orig. (1823) US and very rare in Great Britain, where it is ob. in C.20; medical is coll. in both senses, and, though recorded first (1823) in Hawthorne, it may be orig., as it is mainly, English (Halley, 1834; Masson, 1864); medico, student, is C.19—20, but the more gen. sense of doctor arises in late C.17, is S.E. till ca. 1850, and is thereafter coll. See esp. OED and F. & H.

med lab. Medical laboratory: medical students' coll.:—1933 (Slang, p. 190).

medal(s). In medal showing! or you're wearing your medal(s) today, your fly is undone; you have a fly-button showing: joc. c.p. verging on euph. S.E.: since mid-C.19; slightly ob. by 1983.—2. In a putty medal, or occ. (though † by 1930), a paper medal with a wooden string, recognition of merit, 'by way of humorous encouragement' (Collinson): Services' coll.: earlier C.20.—3. In he (she, etc.) didn't win any (or no) medals, he (etc.) profited nothing: Cockneys': from late 1918.

meddlers, lareovers for. See lareovers.

meddling duchess. An 'ageing, pompous woman who fuses about and achieves nothing': lower classes': ca. 1880—1915. (Ware.) See the corresponding sense of duchess.

Meddy, the. 'The Navy's alternative for Med' (P-G-R): since ca. 1910.

Medes and Persians. Jumping on a boy when he is in bed: Winchester College: ca. 1840—1910.

medi (pron. meddy). Medicine: nursery, as 'Come on, now, drink your medi like a good girl!': C.20. (P.B.) medic. See med and Medics.

medical. An examination by a Medical Board: since ca. 1914: coll. >, by 1940, S.E.—2. See med.

medical Greek. 'Marrowskyng', q.v.: coll. verging on S.E.: from ca. 1800; ob. (H., 2nd ed.) Also known as Gower Street dialect, or Spoonerising.

medicine. Liquor: from ca. 1850. (Mayhew.) Cf. poison, q.v.—2. Sexual intercourse: from ca. 1855; ob. Hence take one's medicine=to drink; to copulate.—3. In take († a) medicine, to take a purgative: coll.: 1830, Southey (OED).

medicine and duty. The number 9 in the game of House: military: 1915. (B. & P.) For semantics, cf. number nine, 2.

medico. See med.

Medics, the. The Royal Army Medical Corps: army coll.: orig., WW1, not very gen. (F. & G.), but by ca. 1950 at latest, the commonest informal term for the RAMC. Hence such j. compounds as para-medics, members of the RAMC trained as parachutists. (P.B.)

Mediterranean Greys, the. The 50th Foot Regiment: military: 1793 and for a few years after. Ex 'the elderly look of all ranks' stationed at Gibraltar in that year. (F. & G.) Cf. the Blind, or Dirty, Half-Hundred.

medium. 'A person engaged by a squatter, part of whose "run" is offered by Government at a land lottery' or ballot. 'The medium takes lot-tickets . . . , attends the drawing, and, if his ticket is drawn before his principal's land is gone, selects it, and hands it over on payment of the attendance fee' (F. & H.): Aus. coll.: from ca. 1880: coll. >, ca. 1900, S.E.; ob.

medlar. The female pudend: low: C.17—mid-19.

medza, medzer. A halfpenny: Parlyaree: mid-C.19—20. See also madza, and-medzies, metzes. Money: Parlyaree and theatrical: (?late C.19—)C.20. (E. Seago, Circus Company, 1933.) Ex It. mezzo: cf. madza, q.v. Hence, nanty metzes, 'broke', penniless. A further var., noted by Lester, is medzas, and yet another is midzers, q.v.

meech, meecher, meeching. See miker, etc., and mooch, etc.

meer-swine. A porpoise: nautical coll.: mid-C.19—20; ob. (Bowen.) By Ger. influence ex sea-hog; but imm. ex Scots.

meerschau. The nose: boxing:—1891; ob. by 1930. Sporting Life, 25 Mar. 1891.

meet, n. An assignation: Aus. coll.,—1916 (C.J. Dennis); by 1919 also Eng. proletarian coll. See make a meet for drug-world specialisation.

meet (one)self coming back. Applied, since ca. 1945, to a slow or dilatory person, as in 'Hurry up or you'll meet yourself coming back!' Petch cites BBC TV serial 'Coronation Street', episode broadcast 13 Sep. 1976.

meg; occ. megg, n. A guinea: c. ca. 1685–1820. (Shadwell.) Cf. mag (coin).—2. In late C.19–20 dial. and till ca. 1860 in c., a meg is a halfpenny; in the US C.19–20 underworld, me(i)g is a five-cent piece. ? etym.—3. A megaphone; cinematic: since ca. 1912. (Cameron McCabe, The Face . . ., 1937.) Cf. megger, 1.

meg, v. To swindle: c.—1887 (Baumann).

Meg of Westminster, as long as. Very tall (esp. if of a woman): coll.: late C.16–18. (The Life and Pranks of Long Meg of Westminster, 1582; Grose.) In C.18, long Meg was a nickname for any very tall woman. Ex a 'legendary' character.

mega. Used as prefix to form a superlative: teenagers': adopted ex US 1983. 'Oh, Dad! You are mega inconsiderate, playing my hi-fi at full blast like that' (Miss Deborah Cracknell). Prob. ex its evil use in, e.g. mega-death, rather than from electrical j. (P.B.)

megg. See meg, n.

megger (properly, mega). A megaphone: coll. abbr.: since ca. 1920. Cf. meg, n., 3.—2. A reversed cone exhaust extractor: motorcyclists'. Used particularly on racing machines, for 'the lack of baffles would be—to say the last—frowned upon by the law' (Dunford): since mid-C.20. Ex the shape; cf. sense 1.

megging, n. and adj. Swindling: c.—1887 (Baumann). Cockney var. of magging, 2.

megs. First Preference Stock in the Mexican Railway: Stock Exchange: from ca. 1890.—2. Spectacles: market-traders': C.20. M.T.

megsman. 'North Country term for cardsharper' (F.D. Sharpe, The Flying Squad, 1938): c.: late C.19–20. Phonetic var. of magsman, q.v.

meh-meh-meh . . . The beat, repeated ad nauseam, of troops queuing for breakfast, dinner, tea and supper, for clothing, supplies, inoculation; flocking here and shepherded there. A World War II contribution by the ordinary man in uniform to philosophy and language' (L.A.): Services': WW2 and since.

mein gamp. 'Had a passing use in reference to Neville Chamberlain and his famous umbrella, carried when he visited Hitler' (Petch). There were, in fact, two meetings, the earlier at Berchtesgarden and then with Hitler, Mussolini and Daladier, 29–30 Sep. 1938, at Munich. A double pun on s. gamp, umbrella, and Hitler's Mein Kampf, 'My Struggle', an inflammatory political manifesto.

mejoge. A shilling: c. of ca. 1750–80 and perhaps much later. (John Poulter.) ? ex meg, q.v. Cf. synon. midgic, ex Shelta.

melancholy, as . . . , as. Apperson (to whom praise be!) cites the following four coll. similes: as melancholy as a (gen. gib) cat, ca. 1590–1840, e.g. Lyly, Shakespeare, D'Urfey, Lamb; as m. as a collier's horse, ca. 1650–1750; as m. as a sick monkey, from ca. 1830 (ob.), as in Marryat's Midshipman Easy; and as m. as a sick parrot, ca. 1680–1840, as in Mrs Behn. Cf. sick as . . .

Melba. 'To do a Melba: to make a habit of returning from retirement, in a number of "farewell" performances (from Dame Nellie Melba 1861–1931)' (Wilkes): Aus. coll.: later C.20.

Melbourne Pier. Ear: Aus. rhyming s.: since ca. 1930. B., 1945.

mell. The nose: c.: ca. 1720–1850. Perhaps ex childish pronunciation of smell, or poss. from † S.E. sense, a mace or club.—2. In dead as a mell, quite dead: Scots coll.: late C.18–early 20.

mellish. A sovereign: (mostly Londoners') low s.: ca. 1820–50. (Bee.) Also, money in general: mainly pugilistic or, rather, sporting: ca. 1815–60. Boxiana, IV, 1824, 'The victor . . . handing him over a little Mellish; "Welcome sweetener of human ills"', the inner quotation suggesting that the etymology is Latin mel, 'honey'.

mellow. Almost drunk: C.17–20: coll. till C.19, then S.E. Cotgrave, Garrick.—2. See luscious.

melon. A new cadet: Royal Military Academy: late C.19–early 20. Ex his greenness. Cf.—2. A simpleton, a fool: Aus. and NZ: late C.19–20.—3. Abbr. paddymelon, a small kangaroo: Aus. coll.: from ca. 1845. Paddymelon is itself a corruption of an Aboriginal word (Aus. POD).

melon-cutting. A sharing of spoils or profits: Stock Exchange: 1908 (OED Sup.). Perhaps ex the Chinese phrase, 'carving up the melon', applied in the late C.19 to the dividing up of China into 'spheres of influence' among the imperialist nations, Great Britain, France, Japan, etc. (P.B.)

melon-head. A C.20 elab. of melon, 2. B., 1942.

melt. To spend (money): c. from ca. 1690; ob. by 1930. (B.E.) Also melt away (C.18).—2. Hence, to cash (a cheque or a bank-note): 1868 (Reade and Boucicault in Foul Play: OED): low s. verging on c.—3. Hence, to discount (a bill): financial:—1909 (Ware).—4. V.i., to be spent on drink: ca. 1760–1800. Foote.—5. To defeat: boxers':—1823; † by 1900. See melting.—6. To experience the sexual spasm: (slightly euph.) coll.: mid-C.19–20.—7. See butter would not melt . . . ; come the tin man.

melt (one's) grease. See grease, n. 6.

melted butter. The semen virile: low: C.18–20.

melter. He who administers a sound beating: boxing: ca. 1820–1900. (Bee.) Cf. melting.

melthog. See mill-tag, a shirt.

melting. A sound beating: pugilistic: ca. 1820–1900. Ex malleting, says 'Jon Bee'; much more prob. ex Scots melt, to knock down, orig. by a stroke in the side, where lies the melt or spleen (Jamieson). See quo'tn at come the tin man.

melting moments. The coition of a fat man and woman: low: ca. 1810–90. Lex. Bal.—2. Hence, ardent passion: non-aristocratic coll.:—1887 (Baumann).

melting-pot. The female pudend: low: C.19. Cf. melted butter, q.v.

melton. Dry bread: tailors': from ca. 1860; ob. Prob. ex Melton (cloth), a strong smooth cloth with close-cut nap.

Melton hot day. A melting hot day: sporting and clubs': 3 June 1885, and for a week or two later. The Derby, run on that day, was won by Melton. Ware.

mem. A low coll. form of ma'am, q.v.: 1700 (Congreve: OED).—2. A memorandum: of which word, as of memento (Baumann, 1887), it was orig. a mere written abbr.: coll., 1818 (Moore: OED). Cf. memo, q.v.—3. As the mem, the mistress of the house: coll., esp. in India and Malaya: late C.19—earlier 20. (Somerset Maugham, The Casuarina Tree, 1926.) Abbr.: mem-sahib, the. One's wife: Anglo-Indian (orig. Bengal Presidency) coll.: late C.19–20. Adoption of the Indian alteration (itself dating from ca. 1857) of ma'am, madam. (SOD; Y. & B.) Cf. the † madam-sahib, the form used at Bombay, and burra be(e)bee.

member. A person: C.16–20: S.E. till mid-C.19, then s. and dial. Gen. as hot m. (q.v.), warm m., etc. Ex member of the community.

'member. To remember: childish coll.: C.18–20.

member for Cockshire, the. The penis: from ca. 1840; ob. Punning male (or privy member and cock).

member-mug. A chamber-pot: low coll.: late C.17–19. Ex member, the male member.—2. An out-of-doors boy: Westminster School: ca. 1850–1910.

member of the catch club. A bailiff or his assistant: late C.18—early 19: joc. coll. Grose, 2nd ed.

memo. Orig. (1889) a mere written abbr. of memorandum, it was by 1895 a gen. accepted coll.; by 1930 it may well have > S.E. Cf. mem, 2.

memory-powder, you want a little. Your memory is bad: c.p. of ca. 1885–1910. Baumann.

Memugger. See Maggers' . . .

men. See man for all senses and phrases, except—men are interested in only one thing. (I.e. sexual intercourse.) A cynical feminine c.p.: since, prob. ca. 1880, or even earlier. Cf. one-track mind, and contrast it takes two to tango.

men dress as Jesus. 'Bearded: Royal Navy: 1950s' (Peppitt). Mock pidgin.

men in blue. (Rare in sing.) The police: coll: later C.19—early 20. In later C.19 also a gentleman in blue and white.

menace. A person that is a bore or a general nuisance: coll.: since early 1930s.

menagerie. The orchestra: theatrical:—1859; ob. (H., 1st ed.) Ex the noise.

menavelin(g)s, maniv(i)lins, manablins. Odd money in the daily accounts: railway clerks': from ca. 1863. H., 3rd ed., gives the 1st and 3rd forms; the latter he defines as 'broken victuals'—but they are merely the town and country pron. of the same word (cf. Sussex dial. dabble = devil.) Cf. manavel, a nautical term for 'to pilfer', which E.P. dates from 1865. Which did come first, n. or v.? By C.20, the n. had come to mean 'the trimmings', as opp. the main issue; odds and ends, extras. (E.P.; P.B.) mend. To bandage: lower classes' coll.: mid-C.19—20; ob. Ware.—2. To produce (e.g. a story) better than (somebody else): coll.: from ca. 1870; earlier, S.E.

mend as sour ale mends in summer. To become worse: from ca. 1540: coll. till C.19, then dial. 'Proverbs' Heywood, Wither, Swift (Apperson).

mend or correct the Magnificat. See Magnificat.

mendic. Sick, ill: Aus.: since ca. 1925. (B., 1942.) Ex 'mendicant'? Many beggars look sick, many are ill.

mending, vbl n. Something to be repaired; nautical for repairing (as in mending wool): coll.: from ca. 1860. (OED.) In C.20, if not sooner, gen. domestic (P.B.).

Mendinghem. See Bandagehem.

menjar(i)ly. A rare var. of munjar(i)ly.

meno, n. Menopause; hence adj., experiencing the menopause: domestic, esp. conjugal; educated and cultured: since the 1920s. Richard Llewellyn, The End of the Rug, 1968, 'I saw, then, that she hadn't been meno at all.' Perhaps on the analogy of the mainly Brit. nympho and the mainly US psycho—or rather, their prototype.

men's hairy legs! See stocking-tops!, to which it was sometimes the 'dovetail retort'. (P.B.)

mensch (as abbr. mention). See don't mensch!

mental, n. A person mentally deranged, mad: coll.: 1913 (OED Sup.). Ex mental case or m. defective. (The adj. is S.E.) mention. See don't mention it!

mentioned in despatches. To have one's name appear in a newspaper, a parish magazine, or even on a notice-board: joc.: 1940+.

mentisental. Sentimental: East London:—1909; ob. (Ware.) By transposition: cf. lemoncholy.

mephisto. A foreman: tailors': ca. 1870—1930. Abbr. Mephisto-ropheles.

Merc or Mercede. A Mercedes motor-car: orig. Society, from ca. 1920; by ca. 1950, at latest, gen. and widespread, and always pron. merk. An early example occurs in M. Lincoln, Oh! Definitely, 1933.—2. (Pron. merk.) A professional mercenary soldier, hiring himself out to (almost) any country: since ca. 1960. Frederick Forsyth, The Dogs of War, 1974.

mercenary's book, the. Proverbial coll., ca. 1590—1602, for debt, esp. the debts of a gallant. Nashe, 'Divers young Gentlemen shall creepe further into the Mercers Booke in a Moneth, then they can get out in a yere'; Jonson. OED.

merchant. A fellow, 'chap': S.E. in mid-C.16—early 17, lapsed till ca. 1880, then revived as a coll. (esp. among actors) verging on s. Cf. customer and client. (play the merchant: S.E.)—2. As the Merchant, elliptical for the Merchant Navy: nautical coll.: since late 1920s.

merchant of capers. Var. of caper-merchant.

merchant of eel-skins. No merchant at all: semi-proverbial coll.: ca. 1540—1670. Ascham, in Toxophilus; A. Brewer, 1655. (Apperson.) merchant venturer. See TAVERN TERMS, §3d, in Appendix.

merchantable. See scruff, n.

Merchy. Merchiston: Scottish Public Schools': late C.19—20. Ian Miller, School Tie, 1935.

mercy. See cry (one) mercy.

mercy blow-through. A WW1 soldiers' Hobson-Jobson of Fr. merci beaucoup, many thanks. (Frederick Manning, Her Privates We, 1930.) P.B.: still occ. used in the army, 1960s. Cf.:—

mercy bucket (or buttercup). C.20 Aus. var. of prec. (B.P.)

mercy buckets. Thank you: middle-class young women's: later C.20 use of schoolchildren's Hobson-Jobson. (Simon Hoggart, 'The St Ockwell Girls', New Society, 10 Mar. 1983, p.384.) Perversion of Fr. merci beaucoup.

mercy launch. An air-sea-rescue launch: RAF: WW2.

mere. Foolish; inept; ridiculous: mostly Society: since ca. 1939. Perhaps ex 'merely ridiculous'.

mere country put, a. A virtually c.p. elab. of put, n., 1 (q.v.): ca. 1690—1750.

Meredith! we're in! A c.p. uttered when one succeeds in entering a place (e.g. a teashop) just before closing-time: from ca. 1910. (C.F. Gregg, Tragedy at Wembley, 1936.) Ex a music-hall turn.

merely fooling about, or with capitals. A RN term of 1915, thus in W. McFee, North of Suez, 1930. "'Merchant Fleet Auxiliary..."' "... They used to call them Merely Fooling About, but that's a libel. They're good men." Cf. Really Not A Sailor.

meridian. A drink taken at noon: app. ca. 1815—1910: Scots coll. verging on 'standard'. EDD.

Merino(e)s, pure. (Members of) the 'very first families': Aus., esp. New South Wales: from ca. 1825; ob. Peter Cunningham, 1827. The pure merino is the most valuable sheep', Morris.—2. Hence pure merino, adj., 'of the best quality': Aus. coll.: late C.19—20. B., 1942.

merits. Ca. 1820—50 as in 'Jon Bee', 1823: 'High flash'—i.e. fashionable s.—'for the extreme of a thing, used negatively in general; as, "Sir, you do not enter into the merits of—the wine, the joke", &c.'

merkin. An artificial vagina for lonely men: coll. (? , rather, S.E.): mid-C.19—20. Ex the two S.E. senses, 'female pudend' and 'artificial hair for a woman's pudend'.

mermaid. 'Department of Main Roads weighbridge inspectors... are called "mermaids"... because they have scales' (Wilkes, quoting the Sun, 28 May 1976): Aus. Prob. an ephemeral pun.

merp. A species of marble (as used in the game of marbles): children's: late C.19—20. (Manchester Evening News, 27 Mar. 1939.) Ex dial mirk, 'dusky, dingy, drab'?

Merry Andrew, the. The Royal Navy: RN: late C.19—20. A pun on the archaic S.E. merry-andrew; see Andrew.

merry-arse(d) Christian. A whore: low coll.: ca. 1810—70. Lex. Bal.

merry as ... Of the following similes listed by Apperson, all or nearly all must orig. have been coll.:—merry as a cricket (mid-C.16—20); m. as a Greek (mid-C.16—18); m. as a grig (from ca. 1560; in C.20, dial.); m. or happy as a king (mid-C.16—mid-19); m. as a [mag]pie (late C.14—early 17); m. as beggars (ca. 1650—1750); (who so) m. as he that hath nought to lose (?) (ca. 1660—1780); m. as mice in malt (ca. 1630—1880); m. as the maids (ca. 1630—90); m. as three chips (ca. 1540—90); m. as tinkers (ca. 1650—1700). P.B.: Sgt T. Gowing, 7th Royal Fusiliers, a Norfolk man, writing to his parents from India, 1864, uses merry as a cuckoo and m. as wedding bells. The latter, often as m. as a wedding bell, is extant, late C.20.

merry bit. A willing wench: C.19—early 20. Cf. merry-legs.

merry bout. A copulation: ca. 1780—1830. The Newgate Calendar, 1780: OED.

merry Cain. See raise Cain.

merry dancers. The Northern Lights: from ca. 1715: coll. and dial. Also (the) dancers.

merry Dun of Dover. A legendary ship—drawn from Scandinavian mythology—'so large that, passing through the Straits of Dover, her flying jib-boom knocked down Calais steeply; while the fly of her ensign swept a flock of sheep off Dover Cliff. She was so lofty that a boy who went to her mast-head found himself a grey old man when he reached the deck again' (F. & H.): nautical: ca. 1840–1900. H., 3rd ed.

merry-go-down. Strong ale: ca. 1470–1620 (Golding, Nashe); then dial. Not c., though described as such by F. & H.: see esp. Apperson.—2. A sharp push, a jolt: sporting, esp. in boxing: ca. 1805–50. 'Idyl' in Blackwood's, July 1823 (Moe).

merry-go-round. A pound (£1): rhyming s.: late C. 19–20.

merry-go-sorry. Hysteria: coll. verging on S.E.: late C.16–early 17. Breton.

merry-go-up. Snuff: ca. 1820–50. Egan, 1821, 'Short but pungent like a pinch of snuff.'

merry grig. A pleasant or boon companion: coll.: early C.18. Cf. MEN, in Appendix, and merry as...

merry heart or merryheart. A sweetheart: C.20. Rhyming on tart.

merry-legs. A harlot: low coll.: C.19–early 20.

merry-maker. The penis: low: mid-C.19–early 20.

merry men, (name) and his. Phrase much used in army sergeants' messes, 1950s–60s, when informal working parties were detailed by the RSM or mess president, as in 'Right then: the Foz and his merry men will be responsible for setting up the tannoy', i.e. the Foreman of Signals and his helpers were to arrange a loud-speaker system. Ex the legend of Robin Hood and his merry men. (P.B.)

merry men of May. Currents caused by the ebb-tides: nautical: C.19–early 20.

merry-merry. Intoxicating liquor of dubious origin, esp. in Gibraltar: RN: C.20. ?A pun on beri-beri.

merry pin, on a. Tippy: coll.: later C.18. Gentleman's Magazine, 1770, p. 560.

merry snob. Synon. with merry grig, q.v.

Merry Widow, the. Champagne: since ca. 1906. Punning both the champagne 'Veuve Clicquot' and Franz Lehár's light opera The Merry Widow (1905).

merry widows. 'Broad-gauge shearing combs and cutter used by fast machine shearers' (B., 1942): Aus. rural: since ca. 1910. They fairly dance over the sheep's body!

Mersey Funnel, the. 'The Catholic Cathedral in Liverpool, from its shape' (Petch, 1969): Lancashire: since ca. 1960. An article in the Universe, 21 Apr. 1967, was thus titled. A pun on the Mersey Tunnel.

nervousness. Fear of Russia: political:—1887; † by 1915. Ex Merv, a Russian city, + nervousness. Baumann.

meself. Myself: S.E. in C.9–16; coll. in C.17–mid-18; then low coll. till ca. 1830; then sol. except in dial. (Myself > gen. in C.14.)

meshuga. (Tolerantly humorous in application.) Crazy: Jewish coll.: mid-C.19–20. Ex Yiddish; cf. Hebrew meshuga, error (whence the Yiddish word and sense). James Joyce, Ulysses, 1922, 'Meshuggah. Off his chump.'—2. 'There's a further nuance. A Jew might say "I never look at the moon through glass. That's my meshuga"—my personal idiosyncrasy. I heard a Jewish comedian say it only a few weeks ago' (Leechman, 1967). In this sense properly meshegoss (Leo Rosten, The Joys of Yiddish, 1968).—3. Genuinely mentally deficient; Cockneys': C.20. Muover.

Mesop. See Mespot.

Mesopotamia. A destination on the Eastern Front, it not being certain whether Mesopotamia or Salonica was intended: Army officers': 1916–18. F. & G.

Mesopotamia. Belgravia, also known as Asia Minor, the New Jerusalem: ca. 1860–4.: fashionable. (E. Yates, in Broken to Harness.) Cf. Cubitolis, q.v.—2. A walk at Oxford: Oxford University:—1886. ('those windings of bits and pieces of the Cherwell which provide Magdalen's Water Walks and the region known as Mesopotamia' (J.I.M. Stewart, A Memorial Service, 1976).—3. In the true Mesopotamia ring, pleasing, high-sounding, and incomprehensible: coll.: ca. 1880–1910. Ex the or that blessed word Mesopotamia, itself almost eligible on the same count, with the same meaning, and arising ex a plausible ascription of spiritual comfort.

Mespot. Mesopotamia: Services'; at first, officers': 1915–ca. 1960. (F. & G.) Also, occ. Mess-pot, Mesop and Mess-up.—2. Hence, 'letter from wife or sweetheart announcing unfaithfulness or break with husband or sweetheart serving in Forces overseas, esp. RAF Iraq and Middle East' (L.A., 1959): since ca. 1919.—3. Hence, but usu. Mespot piss-up, 'ritual of group excretion of unfaithful wife or sweetheart, at which beer was drunk. On this occasion a letter was written to the woman; of which each of the injured man's hut-mates wrote his unhampered part. The woman's offending letter, pinned to the floor, was treated to gestures of contempt. RAF Habbaniya, and current throughout Iraq 1940–5 and no doubt earlier' (Ibid.): app. since ca. 1925; by 1960, ob., RAF links with Iraq virtually ceasing in 1959.

Mess; Messer. A Messerschmitt (German fighter aircraft): RAF: since 1939. (Jackson, 1943 (Messers); Partridge, 1945.) Cf. He, Me and You.

mess, n. A difficulty, notable failure, muddle: Bill Truck, 1821; Sessions, 28 Nov. 1833: coll. till ca. 1890, then S.E. Hence, make a mess of, to bungle; clear up the mess, to put things straight; get into a mess, to involve oneself in difficulties. J.W. Palmer, 'What a mess they made of it!'—2. Applied to a person either objectionable or pitifully ineffectual: since ca. 1921. J.B. Priestley, They Walk in the City, 1936.—3. See bit of mess.—4. In lose the number of (one's) mess, to die, to be killed: RN: C.19–20. Moe cites Alfred Burton, Johnny Newcome, 1818; John Malin attests its currency in the 1960s. Baumann, 1887, notes the var. be scratched out of (one's) mess, and Manchon, poss. in error for this, has be stretched of (one's) mess. F. & G. cite be put out of (one's) mess as a WWI army phrase, while earlier, in the S. African War, a military var. was lose (one's) number, as in J. Milne, The Epistles of Atkins, 1902.—5. C.20 euph. for excrement, as 'a lump of bird's mess landed on her ha'. (P.B.)

mess, v. To interfere unduly; gen. as vbl n. messing, applied to police interference: low coll.: ca. 1870–1930. Also mess about, extant, as is mess with.—2. (Of a married person) to go (sexually) with someone else: low: from ca. 1915.

mess! A proletarian exclam.:—1923 (Manchon). Euph. for shit!; cf. n., 5.

mess about. See mess (the v.).—2. To take (sexual) liberties: low coll.: from ca. 1873. V.t. form, mess about or m. a. with.—3. V.i. and t., to play fast and loose; swindle, put off: low coll.: from ca. 1890.

mess clout. The duster supplied weekly to each mess: Conway cadets' coll.:—1891 (J. Masefield, The Conway, 1933).

mess-deck Peggy. Elab. of peggy, 2, q.v., the odd-job man who cleans the mess-deck: RN: WW2. (Tom Gamble, 1979.)

mess-John. See mas John.

mess of, make a. See mess, n. 1.—2. To defeat utterly, overcome easily or signally: from ca. 1910.

Mess-Pot. See Mespot.

mess-traps. 'Mess utensils, pots, pans, cutlery, etc.' (Granville): RN: C.19–20. See traps.

mess treat. A 'tip given by an old boy to his former mess to provide a special feed (usually at tea)': Conway cadets' coll.:—1891 (John Masefield, The Conway, 1933).

mess-up. An elab., or perhaps merely a slovenly derivative, of mess, n., 1.: coll.: from ca. 1916, when I remember hearing it at Pozières.—2. Mess-Up. See Mespot.

mess up the contract. A euph. for the more usu. bugger the contract, q.v., to spoil anything.

message. In do a message, to run an errand: N. Country coll.: late (? mid) C.19–20. 'Heard as "I want you to do a message for me", when somebody wanted a child to get something from a shop, etc.' (Petch, 1966).—2. "'The message," he said impatiently, "you know, the news. He was passing on the news. If we had a fancied runner, he would tip off a professional backer"' (Dick Francis, Nerve, 1964): racing: since ca. 1920.—3. In get the message, to understand; to 'catch on': widespread s.: since late 1940s. Ex either sense 2, or message received, q.v., or as in JAZZ TERMS, q.v. in Appendix.

message by wireless. See wireless, earlier C.20 s. for 'a rumour'.

message received (loud and clear). 'I understand what you're getting at, I grasp your point—there's no need to go on about it!': coll.: since mid-1940s. Directly ex radiotelephony j. Cf. message, 3.

messenger. A heaving-line: RN coll.: late C.19–20. P-G-R. messer. A bungler, muddler: coll. (slightly low): since ca. 1905.—2. A 'near' prostitute; an amateur not above taking money or a present: prostitutes' c.: from ca. 1915. Low also, though little used by harlots, is whore's robber, dating from ca. 1916.—3. A man, or a woman, that does not keep to one lover: low: from ca. 1916.—4. 'One who puts the stall-holder to a great deal of trouble without buying anything' (M.T.): market-traders': prob. since ca. 1920.—5. See Mess.

Messerschmitt Alley. Any road subject to attention from German aircraft; esp. the long, straight stretch from Ghardi-maou to Souk el Arba in Tunisia: army in N. Africa: WW2. P-G-R.

messman's horror. A hungry man: RN: C.20. (Bowen.) The messman thus loses his 'perks'.

mesty, mestee, mestez. A half-caste: Anglo-Indian coll.: mid-C.19–20; ob. (B. & L.) Ex Spanish mestizo, a half-caste, itself ex L. mixtus, mixed.

Met, the. The Metropolitan music-hall: London:—1896; † except historically.—2. The Metropolitan Railway: London coll.: late C.19–20.—3. In pl (Mets), stocks and shares therein: from ca. 1886: Stock Exchange s. >, by 1910, coll. Baumann.—4. The Meteorological Office: Services: since ca. 1925. Hence, Met man or Mets, Meteorological Officer: Services: since ca. 1920. (E.P., 'In Mess and Field', New Statesman, 1 Aug. 1942.) Also met, a weather report: RAF: 1939+, > gen.—5. Enemy vehicles (not tanks nor guns): Eighth Army: 1941–5. (H. & P.) Ex M.T., 'mechanical transport'.—6. Always the Mets, the Metropolitan Police: police-officers': C.20. (David Hume, Toast to a Corpse, 1944.) In later C.20, usu. the Met.—7. Mets, 'trains, usually freight, operating over Metropolitan widened lines section from King's Cross to Southern Region' (Railway): London railway-men's: since late 1940s.

Met man. See prec., 4.

metal. Money: coll.: C.19–20, ob. (Cf. S.E. usage for precious metal, gold.) Ex precious metal.—2. Sweetmeats: Anglo-Indian:—1864 (H., 3rd ed.).—3. See heavy metal, and mettle.

metal rule. An oath; an obscenity. Also as v., in you be metal-ruled!, you be damned! Printers': from ca. 1860; ob. Ex the dash (—) in print.

metal (or, as gen., mettle) to the back. Constantly courageous and/or energetic: coll.: ca. 1590–1760. Shakespeare; Coffey, 1733, 'The girl is mettle to the back.' Apperson.

metallician. A bookmaker: racing: ca. 1870–90. (H., 5th ed.) Ex bookmakers' use of metallic pencils and even books. Cf.: metallics. Money: turf:—1923 (Manchon). An elab. of metal, 1.

metals. Rails: railwaymen's coll.:—1887 (Baumann).

Metaphysics. See TAVERN TERMS, §3d, in Appendix.

Meteors. The Meteorological Service at the Front: military: 1916–18. F. & G.

meter. See -ometer.—2. A term of abuse in the Army: late C.19–20. Ex Hindustani: lit., a scavenger.

meter maid. A female traffic-warden: since ca. 1970; orig. coll., but very soon S.E. Paul Janssen cites Beatles. Also US: Barnhart cites an example from 1968.

meter thief. Term of contempt for a petty thief (Powis): police s.: later C.20. Cf. gas-meter bandit.

meth. Methylated spirit: C.20 abbr. (Matt Marshall, Tramp Royal on the Toby, 1933.) P.B.: since ca. 1940, at latest, the usu. form has been meths.—2. Methadine ('Speed'): drugs world: adopted, ca. 1970, ex US. DCCU.

metho. Methylated spirits, esp. as drunk by 'down-and-outers':—1935. Hence, from slightly later, an addict of 'metho'; also metho artist (B., 1959): Aus. By the Cockney/Aus. suffix -o.—2. A Methodist: Aus.: since ca. 1920. B., 1942.

Methody. A Methodist: (dial. and) semi-literate coll.: mid-C.19–20.

meths. Methylated spirits: coll.: since earlyish C.20. Also NZ.

Methusalem. Esp. in old as Methusalem. Methuselah: mid-C.17–20: always corrupt; in mid-C.19–20, low coll. (Cowley.) Influenced by Jerusalem. OED.

Methuselier or -ilier. A member of the Australian Remount Unit: Aus.: 1916. (F. & G.) Ex Methuselah on fusilier: most of the men were over military age.—2. A member of the Volunteer Training Corps (special constables, etc.): mostly Anglo-Irish: 1915+.

methy. Synon. with meth, metho, 1, and meths: C.20.

metro, the. The underground-train system of Paris; hence occ. that of London: C.20. Fr. (le) métro (abbr. Métropolitain), itself often loosely used.

Metrollops, the (great). London; a perversion of metropolis: joc.: C.20. Cf. the Metrollope, any hotel with Metropole in its name: id. (P.B.)

Mets, mets. See Met, the.

mettle. The semen virile: low coll.: C.17—early 20. Field, 1612, (mettle of generation). The gen. late C.19–20 term, esp. in the Colonies, is spunk. Ex S.E. mettle, (of animals) natural ardour and vigour.—2. Hence, fetch mettle, to masturbate: C.18–19. Grose, 1st ed.—3. mettle to the back. See metal to ...

metzes. See medzies.

mew-mew! Tell that to the marines: tailors': later C.19.

Mexican drag-line. A shovel: Can.: since ca. 1930. Leechman cites P. St Pierre, Chilicotin Holiday, 1970, and adds, "'Irish harp" is another facetious [Can.] name for it'.

mezzo brow. Middle-brow (of taste): cultured coll.: since the late 1930s; by 1947, slightly ob.

mhutti. Muck, dirt, shit: RAF in Iraq: ca. 1920–55. One of the RAF's most famous songs, 'Those Shaibah Blues', begins, 'A little piece of mhutti fell from out the sky one day' (C.H. Ward-Jackson, Airman's Songbook, 1945). Ex local Arabic.

mi. See ma, 3.

mia-mia (pron. mi-mi); occ. miam, mimi or mi-mi. An Aboriginal hut: Aus. coll. (—1845) >, ca. 1870, 'standard'; in 1871 and later, applied to any hut: coll. >, by 1880, 'standard'. Ex Aboriginal. (Morris.) Cf. gunyah and hump(e)y, qq.v.

miaow! miaow! A cry uttered by a third party when two people are engaged in malicious gossip: since ca. 1925. Ex the fact that the gossip is caty.

mibbies. Marbles: Cockney schoolchildren's: late C.19–20. (J.W. Horsley, I Remember, 1912.) By affectionate 'thinning' of the predominant vowel-sound. Cf. mivvy.

mic-a-mic. Scrub: NZ coll.: since ca. 1870. (G.B. Lancaster, The Tracks We Tread, 1907, glossary.) Perhaps Hobson-Jobson for Maori ukuiki, scrub.

mice. Synon. with pl of widgie, q.v.: Aus.: early 1950s. B., 1953.

mice-feet o', make. To destroy utterly: Scots coll.: C.18–19.

mices, like mouses, is sol. except when joc.: C.18–20.

Michael, your head's on fire. (Often prec. by hip!). A c.p. addressed to a red-headed man: mid-C.18—mid-19. (Grose, 2nd ed.) P.B.: Michael because so often Irish?

Michaelmas rent in Midsummer noon, spend (one's). To spend money that should be laid by for a definite purpose: proverbial coll.: ca. 1600–1860. Camden. (Apperson).

miching Malicho, or mallecho in Shakespeare's Hamlet, is prob. s.: meaning and etym. are alike uncertain, though miching prob.=skulking, perhaps=a dirty trick (OED). Note, too, Romany malleco, false (Smart & Crofton), and Welsh gipsy malekol, look out for yourself! (Sampson). Moreover, Ware states that in Apr. 1895, he 'heard a man in the gallery of the Palace of Varieties (London), after several scornful phrases, say derisively, "Oh—ah—minchin maleego". I believe that the phrase may = our modern 'dirty dog', for the Roman malleco is prob. cognate with Turkish gipsy maklo, spotted. (L. maculatus.)

Mick or mick. An Irishman: orig. (—1869), US; adopted ca. 1890 but, at first, more gen. in the old Dominions. Ex common Irish name Michael, whence also variants, Mick(e)y and Mike, q.v.—2. Hence, an Irish seaman (nautical: late C.19–20) or soldier (army: id). Cf. the Micks, q.v., and jock; both jock and Mick are now vocatives of a wide range.—3: Hence, a Roman Catholic: Aus. low coll., since late C.19; in Brit. not common until later C.20. (Wilkes; P.B.) See Micks, 2.—4. 'A car used for several years in Ireland, then imported and re-registered in England. The log book gives the impression of a much newer car' (Woman's Own, 28 Feb. 1968): car dealers': since late 1940s. Ex sense 1.—5. 'Short for 'ammick: lower deck for hammock' (Granville): RN: C.20.—6. The tail of a penny: Aus. two-up-players': late C.19–20. (B., 1942.) See also harp.—7. See Crooked Mick; mad Mick; old Mick; soft mick.

mick, adj. Corresponding to prec., senses 1 and 3, i.e. Irish or Roman Catholic.

Mick O'Dwyer. A fire: rhyming s.: late C.19–20. Much less usual than Anna Maria.

Mick-takers, the. Scotland Yard's anti-IRA Intelligence Unit: police: ca. 1974. (Daily Telegraph, 30 Nov. 1974.) Ex Mick, 1, via S.E. thief-takers, and take the mickey.

Mickey, Micky; or m-, n. A young bull running wild: Aus.: from ca. 1880. Grant, 1888, 'There were two or three mickies and wild heifers'. Prob. ex 'the association of bulls with Irishmen' (B. & L.).—2. NZ corruption (—1898) of Maori mingi, orig. mingi-mingi, a shrub or small tree (Cyathodes acerosa). Morris.—3. The penis: Anglo-Irish: late C.19–20. It occurs, sub finem, in James Joyce, Ulysses, 1922.—4. A pint flask of whisky or other 'hard' liquor: Can. (and US): since ca. 1920. (Leechman.) Ex 'Irish whiskey'.—5. A casual ward: tramps' c.: late C.19–20. Ex rhyming s. Mike on spike, q.v.—6. See Mick, 1; Mike, 3; take the mickey.—7. In chuck a micky, 'To throw a fit; panic' (Wilkes): Aus.: mid-C.20.
mick(e)y, adj. Sick, esp. after liquor: low: late C.19–20. Ex Bob, Harry and Dick, the same: rhyming s.: 1868. (Ware.) Also mikey. Cf. old Mick.

Mickey Bliss. Var. of Mike Bliss, q.v., piss: C.20. (Franklyn 2nd.) Chiefly (shortened) in phrase take the mickey.

Mickey Finn. A drink drugged with, e.g., chloral hydrate; a liquid knock-out: orig. US (W. & F. note that it was first, —1930, applied only to a laxative pill made for horses); adopted in Britain ca. 1943. Perhaps ex a trade-name. Margery Allingham, More Work for the Undertaker, 1947; the American author Elliot Paul wrote a satirical detective story, pub. 1939, titled The Mysterious Mickey Finn. Later, an ostensibly harmless drink 'spiked' with a stronger, 'hard' liquor, used as a practical joke. (Claiborne; P.B.).—2. See quot'n at gee-man.

Mickey Mouse. 'The bomb-dropping mechanism on some types of bomber aircraft is so called because it strongly resembles the intricate machinery portrayed by Walt Disney's [Mickey Mouse] cartoons' (H. & P.): RAF: 1939+. Walt Disney began to produce Mickey Mouse cartoon films in 1928.—2. A motor mechanic: RN: since early-WW2. (Granville.) He does such very odd things, and there may be influence by motor mech.—3. A house, in its theatrical senses: rhyming s.: since ca. 1930. Franklyn, Rhyming.—4. A small, inshore minesweeper used during WW2: RN: ca. 1940–6. (Granville.) mickey-mouse book-keeping. 'Fiddling' the books for the company to outwit the Inland Revenue authorities: Aus.: later C.20. (Bruce Irwin, 1978.) Cf.:-

mickey-mouse money. Any unfamiliar currency, e.g. Scottish pound notes, the 20p coin when first introduced in 1982: Eng. parochial joc.: adopted ex US, later C.20. (P.B.)

Mickey Mouse movies. Films so called, 'because they show lots of pubic hair but little else, the trade [in 'exploitation-of-sex'] contemptuously dubs [them thus]' (David White, New Society, 12 Aug. 1976).

mick(e)y off. To decamp, run away: St Bees: since ca. 1910. (Marples.) At St Bees, do a mick is to break bounds; the N. Country has do a micky. Cf. mikey, v.

mickle and muckle are mere variants, therefore many a mickle makes a muckle is erroneous. Fowler.

Micks, the. The Irish Guards: military: C.20. (F. & G.) In later C.20 often the Mick Guards. Cf. Mick, 1.—2. The Teaching (or Christian) Brothers: Catholic Aus. schoolchildren's: late C.19–20. 'The Brothers formerly came from Ireland' (B.P.). In general s., the Micks = all Catholics whatsoever.—3. In at the mick's (or mix), 'Causing trouble' (Powis): low coll.: later C.20.

Mickser. An émigré Irishman: since ca. 1950. (Patrick Campbell's column in the Sunday Times, 12 Apr. 1964.) Ex Mick, an Irishman.

Micky or micky. All senses and phrases: see Mickey...

mid. A midshipman: coll.: 1798, Mrs Ann Bennett (OED). Also midy, q.v.—2. Jewish pron. of with: since time almost immemorial. Cf. 'Jon Bee', 1823, 'The Cockneys come it vid,'—but not in C.20.—3. Middling, esp. as adv.: mostly lower-middle class: C.20. Herbert Jenkins, passim.

mid-day, a. Bread and cheese: tramps' c.: from ca. 1920. When he leaves a casual ward in the morning, a tramp receives an issue of bread and cheese.—2. See Sunday.

mid-Vic. A mid-Victorian: cultured s.: 1932+. The adj. was rare.

mid vire. A midday 'wire' or telegram, 'giving last prices in the coming-on races': sporting men's, orig. (—1909) and mainly in Paris; ob. Ware.

midden. A filthy slattern: Scots coll.: C.19–20.—2. eating midden, a glutton: Scots coll.: C.19–20.—3. A district, a 'patch', q.v.: police coll.: C.20. 'Mark Hebden', A Pride of Dolphins, 1974.

midder. A midwifery case. i.e. a childbirth attended by a doctor; physicians': late C.19–20. A. Neil Lyons, Sixpenny Pieces, 1909, 'We get about seven "midder" every day'.—2. A midwife: since ca. 1925. By the 'OXFORD -ER'.—3. Midwifery: medical students':—1933 (Slang, p. 192).

middie. See middy.

middies. Midland Railway ordinary stock: Stock Exchange: from ca. 1885.

middle. A social, literary or scientific article for the press: 1862: coll. till C.20, then S.E. Abbr. middle article. Hence middle(-)man, a writer of such articles; ob.—2. A finger: c.: C.17–mid-19. In Breton, Court and Country, 1613.—3. A middle-weight: boxing coll.: 1902, P.G. Wodehouse, The Pothunters.

middle, v. To cheat, befool: ca. 1869–1905. E. Farmer, Scrap-Book: OED.

middle-age spread. Paunchiness coming in middle age: coll.: late C.19–20.

middle finger or leg. The male member: low: C.19–20.

middle for diddle. The method of deciding who shall start a darts game: darts' players': since ca. 1920. Each side throws a single 'arrow'—and the side landing the dart nearest to the centre has first throw.

middle hills. See morning hills.

middle name, (something or other) is his, my, etc. A c.p. indicating that some quality or tendency forms a marked characteristic, as 'Gossiping is her middle name': C.20. (I first heard it in 1920, but I'm sure it's much older—perhaps going back to ca. 1870.) 'One years, when I was doing field work in the Yukon, an entomologist appeared in Whitehorse. He was a nice lad and much admired for his intimate knowledge of the "bugs" he studied. As one incredulous old-timer said, "He knows every damn bug by his middle name"' (Leechman, 1967).

middle-page spread. 'Matter printed over the centre of pages, not uncommon since paper shortage' (Petch, 1946): journalistic: 1941+. Punning on middle-age spread.

middle pie. That stomach; non-aristocratic: ca. 1870–1910. B. & L.

middle piece. The chest; boxing: ca. 1800–70. Sporting Magazine, 1817, 'A terrible blow in the middle piece' (OED). Head (1), trunk (2), legs (3).—2. Sinks, 1848, defines it as the stomach or belly. Perhaps the midriff is implied both in sense 1 and in sense 2.

middle storey. The stomach: ca. 1670–1800: joc. coll. Crowne.

middle stump. Penis: cricketers': C.20.

middle-watcher. The slight meal snatched by officers of the middle watch (about 2.30 a.m.): nautical coll.: C.19. W.N. Glascock, Naval Sketch-Book, 2nd series, 1834, at I, 48. (Moe.)

middleman. One who, professionally, recovers property from the thief or thieves concerned: c.: ca. 1830–90. B. & L.

Middlesex clown (gen. in pl.) A native or an inhabitant of Middlesex: joc. coll.: mid-C.17–early 19. Fuller; Grose, in the Provincial Glossary. (Apperson.)

Middlesex jury. See London jury.

Middlesex mongrel. A C.18 var. of Middlesex clown. Lord Hailes, 1770.

middling. Moderately large: late C.16–20: S.E. till ca. 1850, then coll. (somewhat low) except in middling size, stature, degree. Blackmore, 'A middling keg of hollands, and an anker of old rum'. OED.

middling, adv. Moderately, tolerably: C.18–20: S.E. till ca. 1830.—2. Fairly well (success, health): coll.: since late C.18, as in 'I did it pretty middling', in a Charles Dibdin song written pre-1805 and quoted in The Port Folio of 13 Apr. 1805, p. 110, col. 2. (Moe.)

middling! I don't think so!; I don't believe you!: tailors': later C.19.

middlingish, adv. Somewhat; moderately: (low) coll. and dial.: 1820. OED.

middy. A midshipman: coll.: C.19. An early occurrence is in Alfred Burton, The Adventures of Johnny Newcome, 1818. (Moe.) 'Taffrail' writes: 'We read in newspaper articles and boys' books of adventure of "middies". We sometimes even hear the term used in conversation round tea-tables ashore, but to call a present-day midshipman a "middy" to his face would make him squirm.' Granville, 'Mids = Midshipmen. Never "middies" in the Royal Navy.' Ex mid, q.v.—2. 'A measure of beer: in N.S.W., 10 oz; in W. [Aus.], 7 oz' (Wilkes): Aus.: since ca. 1930. John O'Grady, It's Your Shout, Mate!, 1972, 'Because it's midway between nothing and a pint'.

midge-net. A lady's veil: (low) coll.: ca. 1858–1910. H., 2nd ed.

midgic. A shilling: Aus. and NZ c.: earlier C.20. (B. & L.; B., 1942.) Directly ex Shelta of C.18–20. Cf. synon. mejoge.

Midlands, the. The female pudend: low joc.: ca. 1830–1930.

Midlothian. See fine old Midlothian...

Midnight Horror, the. A train running between Townsville and Cairns: Queenslanders': since ca. 1920. B., 1953.

midnight's arse-hole. See white as midnight's...

Mids or mids. Shares in the Midland Railway: Stock Exchange: early C.20. Cf. synon. middies.—2. The Mids, The Middlesex Regiment: 'Within the British Army they were universally known as "The Mids", but their proudest and most famous nickname was "The Diehards" [q.v.]' (Carew).

midshipman with money in both pockets, like a. Most unusual; eccentric: C.19. Peppitt cites G.S. Parsons, Nelsonian Reminiscences, 1843.

midshipman's half-pay. Nothing: nautical: from ca. 1850.

midshipman's nuts. Broken biscuit, esp. and properly if hard (as dessert): nautical coll.: from early C.19. Moe cites The Night Watch (II, 50), 1828.

midshipman's roll. A hammock badly rolled: RN coll.: since ca. 1800 or a little earlier; W.N. Glascock Sketch-Book (I, 7), 1825, has it. (Moe.)

midshipman's watch and chain. A sheep's heart and pluck: ca. 1780–1850: orig. nautical. Grose, 1st ed.

midshipmen have guts, ward-room officers have stomachs, and flag officers have palates. RN var., mid-C.19–mid-20, of privates (or horses) sweat ... perspire ... glow, etc.

midshipmen's devil. The steward who looked after the midshipman's mess in the Blackwallers': RN: latter half of C.19. Bowen.

midshipmen's parade. The lee side of the quarterdeck, the weather side being reserved for seniors: naval: ca. 1820–60. Bowen.

midshipmite. A midshipman: when not nautical, it gen. connotes smallness (mite): 1833 (Marryat): coll. A perversion. midsummer, be but a mile to. To be somewhat mad: coll.: ca. 1460–1570. The English Chronicle (OED). Cf.:

Midsummer noon. Madness. Gen. as 'tis Midsummer noon with you, you are mad: late C.16–mid-19. Cf. Shakespeare's midsummer madness, midsummer noon, popularly associated with lunacy, and the old proverb, when the moon's in the full, then wit's in the wane. Apperson.

midties. '[In Cyprus, late 1950s] we worked 24 hours, and doing the midnight to early morning shift was always called "going (or being) on midties"' (P.B., 1974): Royal Signals'. A pluralised elision of 'midnight to ...'

midwaaf or midwaf. A 'Waa!' NCO 'very officious with her girls' (H. & P.): WAAF and RAF: 1940+. Punning mid-WAAF and midwife.

midwife's friend, the. Quinine contraceptive pessaries: since ca. 1925. Ex their unreliability. Lancet, 1935, p. 1133.

midzer. A half, as in midzer caroon, a half-crown: showmen's: since ca. 1860. Cf. madza, q.v., of which this is a thinned var., and:- midzers. Money; esp. cash, coins: showmen's: late C.19–20. (John o' London's Weekly, 4 Mar. 1949.) A thinning of medzers, q.v.

miesli. Occ. form of misli: see mizzle.

miff. A petty quarrel: a tantrum, a fit of anger: coll. and dial. (since ca. 1850, mainly dial.): 1623, C. Butler, 'Lest some of the bees take a miff.' Cf. miffy and mifty, qq.v.

miffed. Offended; annoyed: coll.: late C.19–20. Ex prec.

miffiness. A tendency to take offence: coll. and dial.: 1845 (Ford's Handbook of Spain). OED.

miffy. The Devil: (low) coll.: C.19. ? ex miff. Also in dial.; the EDD derives it ex Old Fr. maufé, devil.

miffy, adj. Easily offended: coll. and dial.: C.18–20. (Cibber, Blackmore.) Whence miffiness, q.v. Also:

mifty. Apt to take offence: late C.17–18. (B.E.) Like prec., ex miff, q.v.

mighty. Very considerable in amount, size, degree: late C.16–20: S.E. till ca. 1840, then familiar S.E. rapidly > coll. Borrow, 'mighty damage' (OED).—2. See high and mighty.

mighty, adv. Very greatly: C.13–20: S.E. till ca. 1750, then coll. Johnson, 'Not to be used but in very low language'. (In C.19–20, often ironical.)

mighty! mighty me! Coll. interjections: Scots: from ca. 1865. (Also in dial.)

mighty in Gath, be. 'To be a Philistine of the first magnitude' (F. & H.): coll., verging on S.E.: mid-C.19–early 20. Gath, a city in Philistia, is here employed for Philistia (the land of the Philistines) itself. Cf. prevail against Gath. Philistine = one 'uncultured and commonplace' (SOD).

mike or Mike. An Irishman, esp. if a labourer: coll.: from ca. 1873. Cf. mick, q.v., and, like that term, ex Michael.—2. A wasting of time; idling, esp. in do, or occ. have, a mike, to idle away one's time: low: 1825 (Egan). Prob. ex S.E. mich(e), to skulk. (OED.) Cf. mike, v.—3. In do a mike, to decamp; to evade duty: Services' and low:—1914. (F. & G.) Also do a mick.—4. A microphone: coll. abbr.: since ca. 1927.—5. A microscope: medical students':—1933 (Slang).—6. A cup of tea: low Aus.: earlier C.20. (Ruth Park, Poor Man's Orange, 1949.) Wilkes notes 'rare'. ? ex sense 2.—7. A 'shunting yard engine (Eastern Region)': railwaymen's: C.20. (Railway, 2nd.)—8. A microgramme of LSD: drugs world: since early 1960s. (P. Janssen, 1968).—9. Take a (or the) Mike out of is a var. of take the mickey . . . , q.v., but take a mike at = to have a look (at): low: C.20. John Brandon, West End, 1933.—10. A casual ward: tramps' c.: late C.19–20. Either rhyming s. on spike, q.v., or ex sense 2.—11. See Mike Bliss.

mike, v. To 'hang about', either expectantly or idly: low: 1859 (H., 1st ed.). Where tramps are concerned, the gen. word is mooch, mouch. Ex S.E. mich(e). Cf. miker.—2. A var. (early C.20: F. & G.) of n., 3. May also be used as v.t., to cause to decamp, i.e. to steal: earlier C.20. Gladys Mitchell, The Longer Bodies, 1930, a workman speaking: 'Somebody miked a . . . Flemish Giant off me.'

Mike and George. A decoration of the Order of St Michael and St George: military: 1915; ob. by ca. 1935. F. & G.

Mike Bliss, n. and v. Piss: rhyming s.: late C.19–20. Often shortened to Mike; a var. of Mickey Bliss. See take the mickey. mike boom; mike slinger. 'To follow the players about, the "mike" [microphone] is moved across the floor on a long arm called a "mike boom", and its operator is a "mike slinger"' (London Evening News, 7 Nov. 1939).

mike fright. (Extreme) nervousness in front of television, or news-reel, camera: radio and television operators': since ca. 1934. Daily Mail, 24 May 1950.

mike up. To take accurate measurement with a micrometer: engineers': prob. since the process of 'miking up' began. Cf. mike, n., 4 and 5, 'microphone' and 'microscope'. (P.B.)

miker. A loafer; a 'scrounger' (q.v.): low: from ca. 1880. Ex mike, v. Cf. miking, q.v.

mikey. See mickey, adj.

milking, n. and adj. Idling; skulking; 'scrounging': low: from ca. 1880. Ex mike, v.

mil-mil, v.t. To see: Aus. pidgin: from ca. 1860. (B. & L.) Ex Aboriginal.

milch-kine. (The singular, milch-cow, is very rare.) Applied by gaolers to their prisoners, who, when they 'bleed' freely, will 'have some favour, or be at large' (B.E.): c.: late C.17—early 19.

mild, draw it. See draw it mild.

mild-bloater. See bloater, 5.

mild a villain. See I'm as mild . . .

mild as maiden's water (, as). 'Proverbial and alliterative phrase, expressing degree of mildness [of liquor or language], and perhaps innocuousness' (L.A., 1976): coll.: since early C.20.

mildewed. Pitted with smallpox: euph. (—1923) for poxed. Manchon.—2. A synonym. of measly and mouldy, adj., 2, q.v.v.: 1920–30. Ibid.

mile. (With a pl numeral) miles: late C.13–20; S.E. till C.19: ca. 1800–50, coll.: since ca. 1850, dial. and low coll. Dickens, 1850, 'I'd go ten thousand mile.' OED.—2. See midsummer, be but a mile to, and within a mile of an oak.

mile, v. To ride on the Ladies' Mile in Hyde Park: Society: ca. 1870–1905.

mileage. Something extra; that which may be extended: as in 'Paradoxically the fact that there is no "mileage" in [The Barnhart Dictionary of New English] contributes to the feeling that there is plenty of mileage in it for future reviewers' (Graham Nixon, Lore & Language, Jan. 1975), and 'although [the playwright] wrings some dramatic mileage out of keeping us guessing . . .' (Time Out, 29 Feb. 1980); also negatively, as in Nixon's word play: coll.: since early 1970s. Ex motorists' j., estimates of how many more miles, or mileage, a vehicle is capable of being run. (P.B.) mileage yard. 'Station siding yard (Western Region)' (Railway, 2nd): railwaymen's coll.: C.20.

miler. Also myla. A donkey: vagabond c.: from ca. 1850. Ex Romany meila, occ. moila, prob. ex dial. moil, moyle, a mule, and perhaps ultimately ex L. mulus. Cf. Romany Meilesto-gav, lit. donkey's town, i.e. Doncaster. (Smart & Crofton).—2. A man or a horse specially trained or qualified for a mile race: sporting: from ca. 1886. Baumann.—3. As suffix, -miler, a journey, esp. a walk, of a stated number of miles: coll.: 1856, Dickens, 'I went out this morning for a 12-miler' (OED Sup.).

miles and miles and (bloody) miles of sweet fuck-all. A c.p. that is a ruefully joc. description of the African desert, esp. among soldiers (WW1 and again in WW2) or of the Can. prairies (1919 onwards). Also . . . miles of bugger-all; Mesopotamia, WW1+, attracted the elab. . . . with a river running up (or through) it (A.J. Barker, The Neglected War, 1967).

miles away, be. To be either day-dreaming or lost in thought; coll.: since ca. 1910.

Miles' (or Miles's) boy. 'A very knowing lad in receipt of much information' (B. & L.); tailors': later C.19. Ex-

Miles's boy is spotted. A printers' c.p. ('We know all about that!') addressed to anyone who, in a printing office, begins to spin a yarn: from ca. 1830. Ex Miles, a Hampstead coach-boy 'celebrated for his faculty of diverting the passengers with anecdotes and tales' (B. & L.).

milestone. A yokel, a country booby: low (? orig. c.): C.19. Vaux, 1812.—2. In let run a milestone, to cause a die to run some distance: gaming: 1680, Cotton; † by 1800.

milestone-inspector. A professional tramp: tramps' c.: —1932 (Frank Jennings, Tramping with Tramps). Ex:

milestone-monger. A tramp: coll.: ca. 1860–1930. Cf. milestone, q.v.

milestones. Heavy seas breaking inboard when one is homeward-bound: RN: C.20. (Irving, Royal Navalee, 1946.) 'Like milestones on country roads they seem to make the journey longer and harder, and one's progress slower in consequence' (Granville).

milikers. Militia: low London: later C.19. (Ware.) By slovenly slurring.

military. Porter (the drink): taverns': ca. 1885–1900. (Ware.) Ex its strength.

milk, n. Sexual 'spendings': low coll.: from ca. 1660; ob. (John Aubrey.) Cf. milk, v., 1.—2. A milksop: proletarian: —1887 (Baumann).—3. In give down (one's) milk, to pay: coll., almost S.E.: ca. 1590–1800. Marlowe, L'Esrange.—4. As the milk, the milkman: lower-class coll.: late C.19–20. W. Pett Ridge, Minor Dialogues, 1895.—5. See Bristol milk; home with the milk; hot milk; cry over spilt milk; wash the milk . . .

milk, v. To cause sexual ejaculation: low coll. bordering on S.E.: C.17–20; ob. Jonson, in The Alchemist; D'Urfev.—2. To bet against one's own horse knowing that it cannot win; to keep (a horse) a favourite at short odds when he has no chance or may even be scratched: sporting: ca. 1860–95.

—3. To obtain possession, or sight, of by trickery or artifice: from ca. 1860: coll. till ca. 1910, then S.E. E.g. milk a telegram, to see it before the addressee does. Prescott, Electrical Inventions, 1860, 'a wire could be milked without being cut or put out of circuit'.—4. V.i., to withdraw part of one's winnings before a session is finished: gamblers': from not later than 1923. (OED Sup.) Ex the S.E. sense in 'That cow milks well'.—5. Hence (?), to remove spot-lamps, extra clocks, spare plugs, from second-hand cars and, 'on the quiet', sell them as accessories: motor trade: since ca. 1920.

Often as vbl n., milking.—6. To stack a pack of cards: Aus. card-players': since ca. 1920. (B., 1953.) Also 'to build'. The nn. building and milking are common.—7. To steal the petrol from (a car) by syphoning: ca. 1940–50, while petrol was short.—8. Hence, to syphon petrol (from tank of car) for legitimate purposes: since late 1940s. These two senses esp. common in Aus. (B.P.)

milk and water! 'Both ends of the busk!': a late C.18—early 19 toast. Grose, 3rd ed.

milk-bar. Since mid-C.20, occ. low var. of ob. milk-shop, the female breasts.

milk boiled over, (e.g.) his. (E.g.) he was careless: proverbial coll.: ca. 1730–1800. 'Proverbial' Fuller. (Occ. in other persons but rarely in other tenses.) milk-bottle. A baby: lower classes':—1909 (Ware).

milk bottles. Female breasts: Aus. (not very common): since ca. 1930.

milk-fever. See pencil-fever.

milk-hole. The hole formed by the roush under a pot': Winchester College:—1896; ob. F. & H. See WINCHESTER, in Appendix.

milk horse. 'A horse entered at a race to make money on, and always scratched before the affair comes off': turf: ca. 1865–1910. B. & L.

milk in the coco-nut, no. Silly; mentally deranged: low: from ca. 1850; ob. Cf. the US account for the milk in the coconut, q.v., to solve a puzzle (1853, says Thornton).

milk-jug or -pan. The female pudend: low: C.18–early 20. Also milking-pail. Ex milk, n., 1.—2. Hence, and with var. milkie, a simpleton, a dupe: Aus. c.: since ca. 1920. (B., 1953.) As 'dupe' it is also Brit. and, of course, it rhymes on s. mug (Franklyn 2nd.) Cf. cunt in this sense.

milk over the fence. To steal milk from neighbours' cows: from ca. 1870. Gen. as vbl n. phrase, milking over ... Milk Journal, Sep. 1871.

milk round. 'A run made fairly regularly by a squadron or a Force, if it returns to its station or base in the early morning' (Partridge, 1945): RAF: 1940+. Cf. milk train, and var. milk run, used by US and, slightly less, Brit. airmen. Claiborne notes, 1976, that it is applied esp. to raids supposed to be as safe and regular as delivering the milk, and cites James Michener, 'The Milk Run', in Tales of the South Pacific, 1947.—2. The sending of recruiting teams from industry, the Civil Service, banking, etc., to the universities: since ca. 1960: s. > coll. >, by 1980, informal S.E. or j., as the Post Office advertised in The Times, 9 Jan. 1980, 'Our Milk Round Programme' of visits to Universities, in search of graduate recruits. '?creaming off the talent'. (P.B.) milk run. See prec., 1.

milk-shop or -walk. The female breasts: C.19–early 20. Cf. milky way, q.v.

milk the bushes. To haul a small boat upstream by pulling on the bushes growing along the banks: NW Can., esp. the Yukon: since ca. 1910. (Leechman.)

milk the cow with a spanner. Open a tin of milk: RN lowerdeck joc.: C.20 Granville.

milk the pigeon. To attempt an impossibility: coll.: mid-C. 18–20; ob. (Grose, 1st ed.) The corresponding S.E. phrases are milk the bull or the ram.

milk train. The early-morning reconnaissance flight(s): RAF: 1940+. (H. & P.) Cf. milk round, 1, and mail run, qq.v.

milk-woman. A wet-nurse: Scots coll.: C.19–20. Hence, green m.-w., one recently delivered.—2. A female masturbator: low: C.19–early 20.

milken. Var. of mill-ken: 'Ducange Anglicus'.

milker. An interceptor of telegrams: from ca. 1865: coll. Ex milk, v., 3.—2. The female pudend (cf. milk-jug): low: C.19–20.—3. A masturbator: low: C.19–20; ob.

milker's calf. A mother's child, esp. if a boy: Aus. rural:—1888; ob. ('Rolf Boldrewood'.) Ex standard sense, a calf still with the cow.

milkie, -y. A milkman: proletarian:—1887 (Baumann); also Aus. (B., 1953). Cf. postie, postman.—2. See milk-jug, 2, and milky.—3. A white marble: Aus. children's: late C.19–20. (B.P.)

milking. Vbl n. of milk, v., 2. The Times, 2 Jan. 1862.—2. The 'robbing' of a closely following bus of passengers: busmen's: C.20. P.B.: presumably from early C.20 when rival bus companies were struggling for traffic.

milking-pail. In carry or work the m.-p.: racing s.: ca. 1860–95. See milk, v., 2.—2. See milk-jug, 1.

milkmán. A masturbator: low: C.19–early 20. Cf. milker, 3, and milk-woman, 2.—2. See moon, 3.

milkmán's horse. Bad-tempered; angry: rhyming s. (on cross): late C.19–20. Franklyn 2nd.

milko has, since ca. 1955, been commoner in Aus. than milkie, 1. (B.P.) milks; Milwaukees; Pauls. Shares in the Chicago, Milwaukees and St Paul Railroad: Stock Exchange (—1895): resp. s., coll. > (by 1910) j., and s. > (by 1900) coll. Wilson's Stock Exchange Glossary.

Milky. The inevitable nickname of any man surnamed Way or Waye, Wey or Weye: late C.19–20. Ex 'the Milky Way'.—2. See milkie.

milky, adj. (White): C.19–20 (ob.) c. Only in milky duds, white clothes (see duds) and m. ones, white linen rags. Brandon (m. ones); H., 1st ed. (m. ones).—2. Cowardly; turn milky, to become afraid: c.: C.20. (Gilt Kid, 1936.) Ex fear-caused pallor. Cf. wash the milk ... q.v.

milky way. The female bosom: from ca. 1620: poetical S.E. till ca. 1800, after which it rapidly > low s.: ob. Cf. milk (-shop or) -walk.

mill, n. A chisel: c.: ca. 1605–1830. Dekker, Grose.—2. Hence (?), a housebreaking thief: C.17: c. (Dekker.) ?abbr. mill-ken (q.v.), recorded much later.—3. The female pudend: C.18–early 20: ?low coll. (or perhaps s.) or euph. S.E. D'Urfev.—4. A fight esp. with the fists: from ca. 1819: s. >, ca. 1860, coll. >, ca. 1890, S.E. (T.) Moore, in Tom Crib's Memorial; 1825, Westmacott; T. Hughes, 'A good hearty mill'. ?ex windmill or ex the v.—5. The treadmill: c.: 1842 (Barham); † by 1910.—6. A prison: c.: 1838 (Dickens); Mayhew, 'A month at the mill'. Prob connected with prec., but cf. mill doll. Hence, in the mill, (imprisoned) in the guardroom: army: ca. 1880–1915. B. & L.—7. A typewriter: Can. railroadmen's:—1931.—8. See through the mill; safe as a thief ...; mill kettle.

mill, v. To rob (a building): c. of ca. 1565–1840. Until C.17, only in mill a ken (see ken). Harman.—2. To steal (v.t. and i.): c.: C.17–early 19. Middleton & Dekker; Jonson, 1621, 'Can they cant or mill?' Hence, to mill a go, to bring off a theft or a robbery, as in 'We have milled a precious go' (brought off a fine coup): 'Fal de Rat Tit', an English ballad of ca. 1790. (Moe.)—3. To beat, thrash, punch, pummel: C.18–20: orig. c. >, by C.19, (low) s. James Dalton, A Narrative, 1728: 'To mill, To knock down a person'. (Cf. mill ... glaze, q.v.) Hence v.i., to box, fight (occ. mill away): C.19–20, ob., as in Thackeray. Also v.t., to fight with (a person): at Public Schools, esp. Harrow: from ca. 1860(?). Arnold Lunn, 1913.—4. To kill: c.: from late C.17, † by 1920. B.E., Dyche, Grose. (N.B., senses 3 and 4 derive ex sense 1, which connotes 'break in(to)' or 'through', 'knock out'.)—5. To send to the treadmill, hence to prison: c.: ca. 1838–1910. (Dickens, Oliver Twist.) Cf. lag, v., q.v.—6. In mill the bowling, to wear it down: cricketers': ca. 1830–1930. Nyren (Lewis). Ex sense 3.

mill a quod. To break out of gaol: c.:—1753; † by 1890. Poulter.

mill around. (Of aircraft) to fly in and out, at high speed, crossing paths; or to fly 'in a defensive circle, with the nose of one aircraft a few yards from the tail of another' (Jackson): RAF: 1940+. Adopted ex US airmen; ex 'to mill (around)', a cowboy term for corralled cattle going round in an ever-tightening circle' (Leechman).—2. Hence, (of tanks) to move about, either looking for targets or merely creating a dust: army in N. Africa: 1942–3.—3. Applied also to people in crowds, as 'all these intense-looking women, milling around in front of the shop, waiting for the sale to start': coll. since 1940s. (P.B.) mill-clapper. The tongue, esp. of women: late C.17–20, ob.: coll. B.E.

mill doll or M.D. A prison: ca. 1780–1830: c. Messink, Bee.—2. According to Vaux, 1812, it is 'an obsolete name for Bridewell house of correction, in Bridge-street, Blackfriars, London'. See also mill, n., 6.

mill doll, v. To beat hemp in prison: c.: ca. 1750–1840. (Fielding.) Also mill dolly, recorded in 1714 in Smith's Lives of the Highwaymen. (OED.)

mill ... glaze. While m. a or the glaze is to break open a or the window (late C.17–mid-18, B.E.), m. one's g. is to knock out his eye (C.18–early 19, Grose): both are c.

mill-ken. A housebreaker: c.: ca. 1669–1870. (The Nicker Nicked; Fielding: OED.) See mill, v., 1, and mill, n., 2.

mill kettle. A locomotive: Can. railroadmen's:—1931. Also simply mill.

mill-lay. Burglary: c.: ca. 1780–1870. (Grose, 2nd ed.) Ex mill, n., 2.

mill-pond. The Atlantic, esp. the part traversed by ships going from England to Canada and the US: joc. S.E. bordering on coll.: 1885, Grant Allen. OED.

mill-tag, -tog, -tug, -twig. A shirt: c.: resp. from ca. 1850 (Mayhew), 1835 (Brandon), 1745 (B.C. Carew), and 1820 (Haggart, Egan; Scots c.): all these are ob. Ex melthog, C.18–20 Shelta for 'shirt' (B. & L.). Cf. comesa; milly; mish.

mill the bowling; ... the quod. See mill, v., 6; mill a quod.

mill-wash. Canvas for lining of waistcoats and coats: tailors': ca. 1860–1930.

millier. A murderer: late C.17–early 19: c. (B.E.) Ex mill, v., 4.—2. A boxer: 1812 (Sporting Magazine: OED); 1823, Bee; ob. by 1890, † by 1920. Ex mill, v., 3.—3. A vicious horse: 1825 (Westmacott): sporting: † by 1890. Ex senses 1 and 2.—4. A 'Joe Miller', q.v. H., 3rd ed., 1864.—5. A white hat: coaching: ca. 1830–80. Ex the whiteness of flour.—6. A housebreaker: c.: C.17–mid-19. Ex mill, v., 1.—7. A cicada: Aus.: C.20. (B., 1942.) Cf. synon. mealy back.—8. In give (one) the miller, to pelt with flour, etc., in thin paper bags, which naturally burst on impact: coll.:—1864 (H., 3rd ed.); †.—9. A cat: RN: C.19. 'Their coats were usually dusty with flour from the ship's store' (Peppitt, who cites P. O'Brian, Man of War, 1974).—10. See drown the miller.

millier's daughter. Water (n.): rhyming s.: late C.19–20. B. & P.

millier's eye. A lump of flour in a loaf: coll.: ca. 1830–1930. See drown the miller.

millier's mare, like a. Clumsily: C.17: coll., semi-proverbial. (Beaumont & Fletcher; Killigrew.) A miller being no trainer of good horses. (Apperson.)

millier's reel. See dance the reel.

millier's thumb. See drown the miller, 1.

millier's waistcoat. See stout as a...

Millibar Mike. A meteorological officer: RAF, esp. officers': ca. 1940–5. (Robert Hinde, 1945.) By alliterative personification and by ref. to millimetric readings. Specifically to the millibar, a unit of atmospheric pressure.

milliner's shop. The female pudend: low: early C.19–early 20.

milling. A beating, a thrashing: 1810, Combe, 'One blood gives 'oother a milling'; ob.—2. A fight; fighting: 1815 (Sporting Magazine: OED); Moore; ob.—3. Robbery; theft: c.: ca. 1565–1840. Harman. (For the origin of these three senses, see mill, v., resp. 3, 3, 2 or 1).—4. (Of horses) kicking: sporting:—1897; † (OED). Cf. miller, 3.

milling, adj. Fighting, pugilistic: C.19–early 20. Cf. milling-cove.

milling around. See mill around.

milling-cove. A pugilist: low: ca. 1810–1905. (Vaux, Ainsworth.) And in:

milling-match. A prize-fight; boxing-match: sporting: 1819 (Moore); † by 1920.

million, a. A safe bet, a certainty (to, e.g., succeed); 'It's a million' (a plan), 'You're a million' (for promotion): police, then gen.: since ca. 1950. (G. F. Newman, Sir, You Bastard, 1970.) Prob. ex the odds 'a million to one' or next.—2. See gone a million; thanks a million.

million to a bit of dirt, (it's) a. (It's) a sure bet: sporting: later C.19–early 20. Ware.

Mills spud. A Mills grenade: army joc.: WW1. (F. & G.) Ex its shape, not unlike that of a large and knobby potato.

millstone. In look or see through a m-, to be very perceptive or well informed or shrewd of judgment: from ca. 1530: coll. till C.18, then S.E. Occ. see into (C.16–17); occ. ... a brick wall (C.19–20). Often see as far into a millstone as another (Palsgrave, 1540). Apperson.—2. In run one's head against a m- (occ. milestone or brick wall), to resist stupidly; attempt the impossible: from ca. 1835: coll. verging on S.E. In C.20, only brick wall.

millstones, (one's) eyes drop; weep n. Applied to one unlikely to weep: late C.16–17: coll. 1594, Shakespeare, 'Your eyes drop millstones when fools' eyes drop tears.'

milltag, milltog, milltug. See mill-tag.

millwash. See mill-wash.

milly. A shirt: market-traders': C.20—perhaps since ca. 1880. (M.T.) Prob. ex mill-tag.

millt. The semen. Hence millt-market or -shop, the female pudend; double one's millt, to ejaculate twice without withdrawal. Low: C.19.

milton. An oyster: coll.: 1841 (Thackeray); Aytoun & Martin, 'These mute inglorious miltons are divine', which offers a clue to the semantics: cf. the S.E. phrase, close as an oyster.

milvad. A blow: Scots c.: 1821 (Haggart); † by 1900. Hence milvader, to strike. Origin?

milvadering, n. Boxing: Scots c.: 1821 (Haggart); † by 1910. Ex prec. Perhaps cf. the dial. mulvather, to confuse or bamboozle.

Milwaukees. See milks.

mim. A low coll. var. C.19–20, of ma'am, q.v. Cf. mem, mum.

mim! Excuse me laughing!; you make me laugh! telegraphists': C.20. Ex code.

mim and (as) sulky as old Betty Martin at a funeral (as), adj. and adv. Demurely silent and solemn: earlier C.19. (Bill Truck, Mar. 1824.) Is this the Betty Martin of all my eye and ...?

Mimi Lau's. See PRISONER-WAR-SLANG, in Appendix.

mimmies, used as a pl, generically for strong liquor: market-traders': since ca. 1930. (M.T.) Perhaps ex screaming meemies, US s. for excessive tantrums or, esp., hysteria, itself adopted in gen. Brit. s. during the 1930s.

mimming mugger. A buffoon mimic: theatrical: mid-C.19–20; ob. (B. & L.) I.e. miming (corrupted) + mugger, 3.

mimpins. Some kind of pretty sweetmeat: schoolboys': 1820; long †. Leigh Hunt. OED.

min. A Mini car; orig. Austin and Morris > BMC > British Leyland: motorists': since (?) late 1960s. As in 'fraid the tin termites are getting at my old min'. (P.B.)—2. Occ. abbr. of minute (of time): coll.: C.20. Cf. sec, 1. (P.B.)

Min. of Ag., the. The Ministry of Agriculture: since ca. 1930. (Monica Dickens, The Happy Prisoner, 1946.) It was superseded by Ag and Fish, but was still losely known as the Min. of Ag. until 1980, if not longer.

mince, n. An abbr. of mince-pie (see mince-pies): late C.19–20, esp. in boxing; ob. See minces.

mince, v.t. and i. To dissect: medical students: from ca. 1840.

mince-pies. Eyes: rhyming s.:—1857 ('Ducange Anglicus'). Later occ. † mutton-pies.

minces. Short for prec.: late C.19–20. A C.20 var. is mincers. Franklyn 2nd.

mincing machine, the. 'The marshalling area mechanism ... must break up units and provide mixed loads for the various forms of sea transport' (Gordon Holman, Stand By to Beach, 1944): RN.

Mincing Lane. 'Alleyway in a ship where the purser's staff have their being; after the tea district of London' (Granville): RN: C.20.

minchin malacho (or maleego). See minching malicho.

mind. To be at hand to help (a crook): c.: C.20. (Edgar Wallace, Room 13.) Cf. minder, 2.—2. As exclam: Note what I say!: coll.: C.19–20. J. Beresford, 1806, 'So I bar Latin, mind!' (OED). Short for S.E. mind you!—3. Don't mind me is a var. of are you in my way?, 1, q.v.—4. If you don't mind, if you're not careful (to avoid ...): coll.: from ca. 1835. M.P.R. James, 1839, 'They'll see you, if you don't mind' (OED). In later C.20 used, with varying emphases, as a way of being politely but indignantly rude; e.g., to a 'queue-barger', 'If you don't mind, I was here first!' (P.B.)—5. In I'm a good mind, I have a good mind (to do ...), i.e. I think of (doing ...): sol.: C.19–20. (Surtees, 1852.) Ex confusion with I've a ... OED.—6. In have a mind to, to be disposed (to do something). With the infinitive suppressed, it is coll.: from ca. 1850. Mrs Stowe, mind-bender. A knotty problem; something that potently changes one's thinking, as, e.g., drugs: adopted, 1974, ex US. (DCCU.) Also the adj. and n., mind-bending, much more gen. than the next, and almost = brain-washing.—2. The advent of diesel trains meant that many thousands of footplatemen required training in the [new] forms of traction. Many of the tutors were drivers from the ranks of footplatemen who offered to pass their knowledge on. Because the tutors had come from their own ranks the footplatemen gave them the name of mind-benders' (McKenna, Glossary): railwaymen's: mid-C.20.

'I don't need to hire... my hands out, unless I've a mind to.' Prob. ex such sentences as 'enquire what thou hast a mind to', 1671. OED.—7. See never mind!

mind-blower. A hallucinatory drug: adopted, ca. 1971, ex US. Ex blow (one's) mind (and cf. next). Hollander, 1975, 'I'm talking about drugs and alcohol and their use and abuse as mind-blowers and leg-openers'. (Barnhart, 1973; W. & F., 1975.) Cf. prec.

mind-blowing, adj. 'Ecstasy-producing' (Peter Fryer, in Observer colour sup., 3 Dec. 1967): jazz and drug addicts', and hippies': since ca. 1966.—2. Hence, amazing; almost unbelievable: media and advertising usage: 1970s. (P.B.)

mind boggles!, the. A c.p. comment on any marked absurdity: since late 1950s, but occ. heard for at least a decade longer. Popularised in the strip cartoon 'The Perishers', written by Maurice Dodd and drawn by Dennis Collins, which has appeared in the Daily Mirror since the late 1950s. (P.B.)

mind (one's) book. (Of a schoolboy) to be diligent in one's studies: coll.: from ca. 1710; ob. Addison, 'Bidding him be a good child and mind his book'. OED.

mind how you go! A c.p., common only since ca. 1942 and addressed to someone either caught in traffic or slipping on, e.g., a banana-skin; hence, since ca. 1945, also metaphorically. See DCpp.

mind my bike! Jack Warner's c.p. in the early-WW2 radio comedy series 'Garrison Theatre'; often heard at the time, but ob. by 1950. See DCpp.

mind (one's) own business. To abstain from meddling in what does not concern one. Coll. from ca. 1860; earlier, S.E. OED.

mind (one's) own pigeon. To mind one's own business: NZ: C.20. (B., 1941.) Pigeon presumably = pidgin.

mind (one's) Ps and Qs. See Ps and Qs.

mind the barrow! 'Watch where you're going!' Hence, 'Watch how you go!' A Cockney c.p., dating since the 1890s or 1880s. Common among the 'Tommies' during WW1. See DCpp.

mind the Dianas! Mind the doors!: bus and underground train conductors': ca. 1950–70. Ex Diana Dors, the stage and film actress.

mind the grease! Let me pass, please!: lower classes':—1909 (Ware). E.P. glosses 'presumably rhyming s.', but more prob. ex 'let me slip past you' (P.B.).

mind the (later, your) step! Look after yourself: the former, addressed to a departing visitor, dating from ca. 1880; the latter, often metaphorical, is the predominant C.20 form. Cf. mind how you go! See DCpp.

mind (one's) three Ss. RN 'rule' for promotion: be sober, silly [simple—not offensively intelligent], and civil: mid-C.19–20. (Bower.) But see also three Ss.

mind your eye! Be careful!: from ca. 1850, low coll.; earlier, S.E.

mind your back(s)! Get out of the way!: Cockneys' s. (—1900) >, by 1920, coll. Used esp. by railway station porters, hence the mid-C.20 use of... backs!; by 1983, ob.

mind your helm! Look where you are going!: Take care!: nautical: C.19–20. 'A technical application to the unwary' (Granville).

mind your own fish! Mind your own business: Aus.: C.20. B., 1942.

mind your own interferences! A joc. 'mind your own business!': c.p.: since ca. 1910; by 1960, slightly ob.

mind your stops! Be careful: coll.: 1830, Marryat, 'Mind your stops... or I shall shy a biscuit at your head.' Ex an injunction to a child reading aloud. OED.

Minden Boys. The 20th Foot Regiment, from 1881 the Lancashire Fusiliers: military: latter C.18–20; ob. Ex their bravery at the battle of Minden, 1759. F. & G.

minder. A child left to be taken care of: 1865 (Dickens): coll. till ca. 1890, then S.E. OED.—2. A pickpocket's assistant; one who 'minds' as in mind, q.v.: c.: C.20. Edgar Wallace, resp. The Flying Squad and Room 13.—3. Hence, a 'con' man's assistant, who keeps the victim happy and unconscious: c.: C.20. Cf. sense 2.—4. 'Occasionally he acted as "minder" to one of the top-class "stable" girls (that is, he was paid to keep an eye on the harlots to make sure that they were not molested by clients or rivals): the world of prostitution: C.20. John Gosling & Douglas Warner, The Shame of a City, 1960.—5. A bouncer in a club or dance-hall or...: low: since late 1940s. James Barlow, The Burden of Proof, 1968.—6. Powis, 1977, defines the current meanings, 'A man used as an "enforcer", or to extract money from persons making regular extortion payments; a person who "minds" or looks after stolen property and, less commonly, a milder term for a ponce.' mine. See down the mine.

mine arse. See bandbox.

Mine-Bumpers, the. The Third Battle Squadron: naval: 1915–18. (Bowen.) Cf. synon. wobbly eight.

mine host, a tavern-keeper, is by F. & H. considered coll., but this is extremely doubtful: in C.20, it is a journalistic cliché. P.B.: it is even, in later C.20, apparently thought of as almost hyphenated, in such journalistic phrases as 'genial (or jovial) mine host...'

mine in a Portugee pig-knot. 'Confused, not knowing where to begin a yarn': nautical: late C.19–20. (Bowen.) The key is in yarn.

mine-jobber. A swindler: City coll.: from ca. 1880. (Ware.) Ex the frequent flotation of worthless companies.

mine-layers. 'Men who drop cigarette-ends from their hammocks. If they are seen there is an explosion from Authority' (Granville): RN lowerdeck: C.20.

mine uncle's! See uncle.

miners' friends (or capitals). 'Royal Scots locomotives' (Railway, 2nd): railwaymen's: since ca. 1925 (?). P.B. presumably, they used a lot of coal.

mine's. Mine is: coll.: C.19–20. E.g. 'Mine's a gin.' P.B.: and the mid-C.20 slogan advertising a brand of small cigarettes, 'Ten minutes to wait—mine's a Minor'.—2. Mine's up! See PRISONER-OF-WAR SLANG, in Appendix.

ming, v.i. To stink; hence, mainly in minging, 'stinking', > by ellipsis, '(stinking) drunk': army (Other Ranks'): early 1970s. Perhaps ex dial., though not recorded in EDD. (P.B.)

minge, n. Female society: military: 1915–18. (F. & G.) After binge, n. (q.v.), ex Suffolk minge (the female pudend), itself ex the E. Anglian v. minge (EDD).—2. In c., the female pudend: late C.19–20. (Gilt Kid, 1936.) Ex Romany, as is the Suffolk dial. word. Also Services' usage, esp. army.

minge, v.; minger; mingy. To prowl about in order to discover misdemeanours; one who does this; addicted thereto: St Bees: C.20. (Marples.) Cf. dial. minch, to move stealthily, and the generally mean (see mingy) attitude of one who does this.

mingle. An official meeting of officers and nurses in hospital: Army officers' coll.: 1915–18. F. & G.

mingra. A policeman, as in 'Nanty! The mingra's screwing you!' (M.T.); market-traders': C.20. Orig. obscure; neither dial. nor Romany. P.B.: cf. n. minger at minge, v.

mingy. Greedy: Cockneys': ca. 1890–1915. J.W. Horsley, I Remember, 1912.—2. Miserly, mean; hence (from not later than 1915) disappointingly small: coll. Thinned ex mangy (W.) and prob. influenced by stingy. App. first 'lexicographed' by W., 1920, but (as 'mean') definitely remembered by the author at least as early as 1910.

mini. A mini(-)skirt: early, although not common until late, 1967, with multitudinous references, spoken and written, throughout 1967: coll.; by 1968, S.E. Hence, since (ca. Sep.) 1967, an adj., as in 'She was wearing the miniest of minis': s. The term mini(-)skirt stands for minimum (rather than minimal) skirt, ensuring the minimum of decency: you can't see her panties until the girl sits down or offers a rear view as she bends down. One of the most revolutionary fashions ever to enhance the gaiety of nations during a period when gaiety is rarer than gold. Usually, however, mini is short for the adjectival use of miniature: see F. Stuart's excellent article ('Mini-') in Word Study, Dec. 1967. Cf. puss-pelmet and bum-flapper.

minikin, tickle (the). To play the lute or viol: coll.: ca. 1600–40, mostly by the dramatists with a sexual innuendo (minikin, an endearment for a female). Marston (?), 'When I was a young man and could tickle the minikin... I had the best stroke, the sweetest touch, but now... I am fallen from the fiddle, and betook me to [the pipe].' OED.

minions of the moon. 'Our night fighters and bombers' (H. & P.): journalistic, it was jocularly taken up by the RAF in 1941–3. Ex the S.E. sense, 'moonlight-utilisers'.

ministering angel. A sister of Queen Mary's Nursing Service: RN: WW1. (F. & G.) Cf. mark one, q.v.

Ministry of Fish and Chips, the. The Ministry of Agriculture and Fisheries: joc. political: since the 1930s.

minnie. A German trench-mortar: from 1915: military. —2. Hence, the projectile it propels: from not later than Mar. 1916. Ex Ger. Minerwerfer, lit. a mine-thrower. See B. & P.—3. As Minnie, the Ministry of Information: WW2.—4. Also as Minnie, the mini-car; briefly, at the time of the vehicle's appearance, ca. 1960. Thereafter, simply mini. Courtney Edwards, Sunday Telegraph, 24 Sep. 1961.

Minnie P. play. A play in which a little-maid variety-actress has the chief part: theatrical coll.: 1885–ca. 1900. Ware, 'From Miss Minnie Palmer's creations, chiefly in My Sweetheart'.

Minnie's husband. See Carl the caretaker. Ex minnie, 1, q.v.

minnow. (Usu. in pl.) A torpedo: RN: 1937+. Cf. synon. mouldy.

minnywoffer. Var., or perhaps rather the orig., of minnie, 1 and 2: rare after 1916.

minor. A water-closet, says F. & H., referring to Grose, 1785: the term is in no ed. of Grose: F. prob. telescoped mine uncle's (Grose, 1st ed.) and minor clergy (Grose, 2nd ed.).—2. A younger brother: schools' (orig. and esp. Eton): 1863, Hemynng, Eton School Days, "'Let my minor pass, you fellows!" exclaimed Horsham.' See also major, and ETON.

minor clergy. Young chimney-sweeps: ca. 1787–1900. Grose, 2nd ed. See clergyman.

mins. At several Public Schools, from ca. 1870 (?), as in Arnold Lunn, Loose Ends, 1919: 'Smith mins swears he said "damn"': i.e. minor.

mint. While mint of money is prob. to be considered S.E., mint (money), which dates from C.8, is S.E. till ca. 1550, coll. till ca. 1850, then low s. (Harman, Jonson, Grose.) In C.19–20, gen. mint-sauce, q.v.—2. Gold: mid-C.17–18 c. Coles; B.E.; Grose.

mint, adj. Absolutely as new; clean and with leaves uncut: esp. in a mint copy: booksellers' s. (—1927) >, ca. 1932, j.

mint-hog. An Irish shilling: Anglo-Irish: low: C.19–early 20.

mint-sauce. Money: from ca. 1825; ob.: low. Egan; J. Greenwood, 1867, 'The requisite mint sauce (as that horribly slangy and vulgar B.P. terms money).' The corresponding US term (now ob.): mint-drops (1837, J. Quincy Adams; prob. earlier). Thornton. See mint, n., 1.

mintie. See without a mintie, penniless.

minus. (Predicatively) without; short of: coll.: 1813. (Baumann, however, dates it from mid-C.18.) As in 'minus one horse', 1840, or 'He was considerably minus at the last Newmarket meeting' (1813). Rarely † minus of. OED.—2. As an adj., lacking, non-existent: from ca. 1850: coll. Bristed, 1852, 'His mathematics are decidedly minus' (OED).

miracle. A corrupt form of merel, a game: C.17–18. OED.

miracles?, do you think (or does he think) I can shit; or I can't shit miracles! A c.p. addressed, not usu. to the person imposing the task but to a third party: from ca. 1920. (Mostly Londoners'.)

miraculous. (Very) drunk: Scottish:—1870. Perhaps abbr. in miraculous high spirits. EDD.

miraculous pitcher. See pitcher that holds...

mis. Disorientated; 'lost' or bewildered: theatrical: since ca. 1960. (Anne Morice, Murder in Mimicry, 1977.) Perhaps ex 'mismaid' and influenced by 'amiss'.—2. A miscarriage: women's: since late C.19. W. Somerset Maugham, Liza of Lambeth, 1897, as miss.—3. (Pron. miz.) Miserable: (mostly domestic) coll.: C.20. 'This maranta's looking very mis. Have you watered it lately?' (P.B.)

mischief, ruin or a mischievous person, is S.E., but the mischief, the devil, is coll.: 1583, Hollyband, 'What the mischief is this...?'; Beaumont & Fletcher, ca. 1616, 'In the name of mischief...'. OED. (But with a mischief is S.E.). Hence, go to the mischief, to go to the bad: coll.: 1818, Susan Ferrier, 'Boys may go to the mischief, and be good for something—if girls go, they're good for nothing I know of.' Also play the mischief (v.t., with), to play havoc: coll.: 1867, Trollope, 'That butcher... was playing the mischief with him' (OED).—2. In load of mischief, a wife: C.18—early 19: coll. bordering on S.E. Grose, 'A man loaded with mischief, ... with his wife on his back'. Revived by Ashley Dukes in 1924–5. mischievous. Mischievous: a frequent sol., in later C.20 sometimes deliberate when used joc.: (?) C.17–20. Ex C.15–17 stressing of 2nd syllable.

misegun. Mazagan (a kind of bean): low coll. or a sol.: C.19–20. Scott: OED.

miser rate. 'A minimum bonus payment. Miser rate comes from the advertisements presented by the South Eastern Gas Board who produced a gas cooker which allegedly was so economical that its trade mark was "The Miser"' (McKenna, Glossary, 1970): railwaymen's.

miserable. Close-fisted, stingy: Aus. coll.: since ca. 1860. 'Tom Collins', Such is Life, 1903.

miserable as a bandicoot; ... as a shag on a rock. C.20. Aus. coll. synonyms of:

miserable as a rat in a tar-barrel. Thoroughly depressed: nautical coll.: late C.19–20. Bowen.

miserables, the. A splitting headache after 'the night before': proletarian coll.:—1887; ob. by 1930. Baumann.

miserere seat. A seat so constructed that if the occupant fall asleep he falls off: ecclesiastical coll.: C.19—early 20. Ex the L. miserere mei, Deus, 'Have mercy upon me, O God', the beginning of the 51st Psalm, the 50th in the Vulgate.

misery. Gin: low: ca. 1820–1910.—2. (In cards) misère: coll.: from ca. 1830.—3. As M-, HM cruiser Mersey: RN: C.20. Bowen, 'A brute of a ship to handle'.—4. In be a (right old) misery, to be peevish; be a peevish person: lower classes', esp. Cockneys', coll.: from ca. 1880. Also get the miseries, to be peevish: id.: C.20. "'I've got a misery" in Negro parlance means "I've got a pain" or an illness' (Leechman, Apr. 1967). Cf. streak of misery, a tall, thin, melancholy person.—5. Be a misery also=feel miserable, act miserably; to be sorry for oneself: lower-middle-class coll.: late C.19–20.

misery-bowl. 'Relief-basin—at sea': tourists':—1909; ob. Ware.

Misery Junction. 'The angle forming the south-west corner of the York and Waterloo Roads... From the daily meeting here of music hall "pros" who are out of engagements, and who are in this neighbourhood for the purpose of calling on their agents, half a dozen of whom live within hail' (Ware): theatrical: ca. 1880–1914.

misfit. A clumsy man: tailors': from ca. 1850.

misfortune, have or meet with, a. To give birth to an illegitimate child: coll. and dial.: C.19–20. (Mrs Carlyle, Marryat.) Hence, misfortune, a bastard: from ca. 1860. Carlyle: OED.

mish. A shirt; a chemise: c.: from ca. 1670; † by 1870. (Head; Grose.) Abbr. commission (q.v.), the anglicised form of comesa, q.v.—2. Mission: Public Schools': C.20. Arnold Lunn, The Harrovians, 1913. Cf.—3. A missionary: late C.19–20. C.S. Archer, China Servant, 1946.

mish-topper. A coat; a petticoat: ca. 1670–1850: c. (Coles, 1676; B.E.; Grose.) Lit., that which 'tops' or goes over a mish, 1.

mislain, miesli, misle, misli. To rain: Shelta: C.18–20.—2. To go: see mizzle. B. & L.

Misleading Paper, the. The Times: a nickname: 1876–ca. 1890. Ware, 'Given ... when it began to lose its distinctive feature as the "leading paper" in Liberal policy'.

misli. See mizzle.

misprint. A kiss that goes astray: book-world: C.20.

miss. Var. of mis, a miscarriage. See mis, 2.—2. 'An omission to lay on a sheet [of paper] in feeding a printing machine': printers' coll.: C.19–20. B. & L.—3. 'She being taken to be the Earle of Oxford's Misse, as at this time they began to call lewd women' (John Evelyn's Diary, 9 Jan. 1662): Court and Society: ca. 1660–80.—4. In find or have (a) miss of (the miss often prec. by great, heavy, little, no.) To feel regret at, or the disadvantage of, the loss or absence of some person or thing: C.13–20: S.E. till C.19, then coll. (from ca. 1880, low) and dial. Anna Seward (OED). Hence, there is no (great) miss of, there is no (great) regret or disadvantage in the loss, privation, or absence of some person or thing: C.14–20: S.E. till ca. 1820; then dial. and coll. (increasingly low), the latter being ob. (OED.) Cf. feel the miss of, q.v.—5. See give (something) a miss.

miss a tip. To have a fall: circus-men's: mid-C.19–20. Seago. See also miss (one's) tip.

miss a trick. Always negative, in such phrases as 'He's a crafty so-and-so, he never misses a trick', i.e. he never misses a chance, an opening, or whatever 'he' is watching for: coll.: since mid-C.20. Ex card games. (P.B.)

Miss Adams is an occ. var. of sweet Fanny Adams (see Fanny Adams).

Miss Brown. The female pudend: low: late C.18–19. (Grose, 3rd ed.) Cf. brown madam, q.v., and Miss Laycock, q.v.

miss (one's) figure. To miss a chance; to make a mistake: proletarian: later C.19. B. & L.

Miss Fist. In make (or, usu., making) love to Miss Fist, male masturbation: Services': mid-C.20. Cf. synon. five-fingered widow.

Miss Fitch. A bitchy girl or woman: rhyming s.: C.20. Franklyn 2nd.

miss (one's) guess. To be mistaken: Can. coll.: C.20. (John Beames.) Ex US.

Miss Hotbot. See hot-bot.

miss is as good as a mile, a. A narrow escape serves as well as an easy one; 'a failure by however little is still a failure': proverbial coll.: since ca. 1820. Scott. Earlier, an inch in a miss is as good as an ell.

Miss Laycock. The female pudend: a low pun: late C.18–19. (Grose, 2nd ed.) Cf. synon. Miss Brown.

Miss Molly. See molly.

Miss Nancy. An effeminate man: coll.: from ca. 1880 (Baumann). Ex early C.19 dial. Also Nancy; hence, Miss-Nancyism, effeminacy: from ca. 1885. Cf. cissy, sissy.—2. See talk Miss Nancy.

Miss Otis regrets. An Am. c.p. that has had some currency in Brit. as a humorous refusal of an invitation, suggestion, etc.: since later 1930s. Ex the Cole Porter song. See DCpp.

miss out on. To miss; lose an, or the, opportunity for: coll.: adopted, mid-1940s, ex US. Bill Naughton, Alfie Darling, 1970, 'Though I miss out on many a piece of tail where another bloke would grab it.' Also, absolutely, miss out.

Miss Right. See right, 5.

miss stays. 'To be slow to "register"; to miss the purport of a signal, or fail to see the point of an argument or a wardrobe story' (Granville): RN coll.: C.20. Ex a sailing-ships' technicality.

Miss Tayler. A potent Spanish liquor, mistela: earlier C.19. (Basil Hall, 1832.) By Hobson-Jobson.

miss the boat. To be too late: nautical coll. > widespread and gen.: C.20. Bowen. Cf.—

miss the bus. To lose an, or the, opportunity: coll.: since ca. 1915. (C.J. Dennis.) 'One thing is certain: [Hitler] missed the bus' (Neville Chamberlain, the Prime Minister, in a speech, 4 Apr. 1940).

miss the cushion. To miss the mark; to fail; coll. (—1529); app. † by 1700. Skelton; Clarke, 1639. (Apperson.)

miss the globe. To miss the ball altogether: golfers': from ca. 1898. (W.B. Maxwell, We Forget because We Must, 1928.) With a pun on globe, a sphere, and on globe, the world.

miss (one's) tip. To fall; fail at a jump: showmen's: from ca. 1850. (In late C.19–20 circus s., to miss the word indicating that one is due to do something. B. & L.) Dickens, 1854.—2. Hence, to fall, fail, in gen.: 1869, H.J. Byron, 'Mr Topham Sawyer missed his own tip as well as his victim's, and came down a cropper on a convenient doorstep'. Lit., to fail in one's expertise. Cf. fall down, q.v.; see also tip, n., 2. This sense earlier, in H., 2nd ed., 1860.

missing. Courting, courtship: ca. 1830–70. Sinks, 1848.

mission, off the, adj. and adv. Applied to a lapsed priest: Aus. Catholic priests': since ca. 1960. (B.P., 1969.)

missionary position. Copulation face to face. See matrimonial.

missionary's or missionaries' downfall, the. A light rum; or—esp. Demerara—rum diluted: since ca. 1930. Trader Vic's Book of Food and Drink, 1946, p. 36, 'Don the Beachcomber of Hollywood and Chicago, the originator of such outstanding drinks as the Zombie and Missionary's Downfall': therefore perhaps of US origin. Cf. the bane, and mother's ruin, gin. 'missioner (or without apostrophe). An agent bullying or seducing men into the Navy or, come to that, the Army: naval coll. rather than s.: ca. 1770–1830. Short for commissioner? W.N. Glascock, Sailors and Saints (I, 82), 1829. (Moe.) missioning. Mission-work: coll. (—1887), now (1935) almost S.E. Baumann.

missis; gen. missus. (Occ. written as Mrs, and always occurring as either the missus or, less gen., my, your, his, etc., missus.) A wife: orig. (—1839), dial. >, ca. 1847, low coll. Thackeray, 1848, 'Bowling to the superior knowledge of his little Missis'.—2. (Among servants) a mistress of the house: low coll.: 1837 (Dickens). In this sense, often without the, my, etc. (OED for dates).—3. Occ. used to denote a steady girl-friend or fiancée: low coll.: since late C.19. See ARMY SLANG, verse 2, in Appendix, for square missus, one's (respectable) girl-friend. (P.B.) missle. See mizzle.

missus. See missis. Baumann gives the pl as missuses.

missy. (In address) Miss: coll.; often to a small girl 'little missy': C.19—earlier 20. More gen. in US than in England. Cf.—

missy baba. A young lady: Anglo-Indian: mid-C.19—earlier 20. B. & L., 'Borrowed from the natives, baba being meant for baby.'

mist. See Scotch mist.

mistake. See and no mistake, undoubtedly.

Mister. See Mr...

mister. In address with the name omitted: mid-C.18–20: S.E. (= sir) until ca. 1820; then coll.; by 1860, low coll. Punch, 22 Jan. 1901, 'Please, mister, when are we going to get through?' (OED).

Mister and Mrs Wood in front. It's a nearly empty house: theatrical c.p. pun (on wooden seats): C.20. See DCpp.

Mister Bull. A typical Englishman: 'mostly naval: ca. 1810–60. (W.N. Glascock's Naval Sketch Book, 2nd series, 1834, at II, 244, and elsewhere.) Ex S.E. John Bull.

Mister Charlie. A white man. See pinkie, 3.

Mister Middleton's Light Horse. 'A flotilla of flower-named corvettes. (After the late Mr Middleton, the B.B.C. gardening expert)': RN, esp. officers': 1939+. Granville.

Mister (or Mr) Muggins. Oneself regarded, esp. by oneself, as a dupe, a simpleton: Aus.: late C.19–20. (B.P.) Cf. muggins, q.v. mistook. Mistaken: S.E. until ca. 1850, then coll.; in C.20, a sol., but occ. used for humorous effect.

mistress roper, or with capitals. A marine: ca. 1840–95. Because he is clumsy with ropes: ?punning miss the ropes (a miss-the-roper).

mistressing. Acting as a concubine: early 1980s. E.g. in LAM, 12 Oct. 1982, two advertisers, each describing himself as a 'businessman', offered free accommodation in return for 'part-time mistressing'.

mistura A.D.T. or, in full, mistura any damn' thing. A var. of next entry: medical and pharmaceutical: C.20. (B.P.) mistura God help 'em. A mixture of drugs and drugs administered as a last resort: medical: ca. 1860–1930. B. & L. mit. See mitt.—2. As preposition: see with or without, with which cf.:-

mit a. With a grain of salt—i.e. sceptically—as in 'I'd take that story mit a': Aus.: since ca. 1950. This is the Ger. mit, with; 'possibly due to New Australian influence' (Edwin Morrisby, 1958).

Mitcham whisper. A shout; almost a shout: 1880 (Spurgeon, Ploughman's Pictures): coll. Cf. Irish whisper, a very audible whisper. At Leigh (in Lancashire), a Leigh whisper is an unearthly yell. Apperson.

mitching. vbl n. Playing truant: Can. coll.: mid-C.19–20. Ex Eng. dial.: see mike, v., 1, and cf. mitching...

mite; occ. in C.19–20. mithey. A cheesemonger: 1765, Foote, 'Miss Cicely Mite, the only daughter of old Mite the cheesemonger'; ob.—2. A particle, a tiny bit: C.17–20: S.E. till ca. 1840, then coll. (increasingly low).—3. A whit or a jot: late C.14–20: S.E. till mid-C.19, then coll. C.D. Warner, 1886, 'Not a mite of good' (OED).

mithey. See mite, 1.

mitney, mitni. A policeman: c.:—1923 (Manchon). Prob. ex either Romany or Shelta.

mitre. A hat: universities': late C.19—early 20.

mitt; in C.20, occ. mit. A glove: from ca. 1811; ob. (Vaux.) Ex first sense of mitten.—2. (Gen. the mitt.) Handwork, work by hand: tailors': C.20. Ex mitten, 1.—3. Hand: low coll.: adopted, ca. 1918, ex US.—4. See frozen mitt, the 'cold shoulder', with which cf. next, 3.

mitten. A hand; a fist: low (mostly pugilistic): from ca. 1810; ob. Vaux.—2. A boxing glove: ?orig. (—1859), US; anglicised ca. 1880. H., 1st ed.; J. Greenwood.—3. In get or give the mitten (in US, occ. simply mitten for give the mitten to), to be jilted or to jilt: get the m., orig. (1838), US, but anglicised ca. 1870, also meaning to be dismissed; give the m., orig. (1848), US, and anglicised ca. 1870, with further sense, to dismiss. Both ob. Prob. ex mittimus (q.v.) with allusion to mitten. See also frozen mitt.—4. See:- mittens. (Very rare in sing.) Handcuffs: c.:—1933 (Charles E. Leach, On Top of the Underworld).—2. See easy as mittens; handle without mittens.

mittimus. A dismissal from one's post, as in get one's m., which also means to receive one's 'quietus', q.v. Coll.: from late C.16. Nashe, 'Out of two noblemen's houses he had his mittimus of ye may be gone.' (OED).—2. As a magistrate, it is joc. S.E. rather than coll. (C.17–18). The L. mittimus, we send.—3. The v., 'commit to jail by a warrant' (OED) is joc. S.E.

mitty bag. An elongated, 12-inch-long, pouch that actors carried with them, as part of their costume and for safe-keeping: Can. theatre (and clowns): ca. 1880–1914. The Islander (Victoria, BC), 16 Nov. 1969, adds, 'The word mitty could come from the old word mite, meaning a small coin'. (Leechman.) Cf. RN ditty-bag, also used to hold one's treasured possessions.

mix(e)y. A landlady: mostly Cockneys': from ca. 1870. (B. & L.) Prob. a sense var. of next, 2.

mixvy. An adept; a very smart person: c.: from ca. 1870. Pugh (2): "He's a mixvy at makin' things easy." "For himself. No doubt o' that." By 1900, low Cockney s. >, by 1920, gen. Cockney s. A special nuance occurs in, e.g., 'You're a mixvy, you are!'—whether in genuine or in ironic admiration: certainly schoolboys' and prob. also schoolgirls' s. of ca. 1900–14, but perhaps going back to ca. 1870. It is a sort of pet-form of marble, which has been a schoolboys' joc. perversion of marvel since heaven knows when and which belongs not only to Brit. but also, as I can testify, to both NZ and Aus. It may well have been current in other Dominions and former Dominions.—2. Manchon, 1923, records meanings 'a woman; a lunatic': low. Cf. sense 1 and mixey.

mix. A mess, a muddle; a state of confusion: coll.: from ca. 1880. Cf. mix-up.—2. At the mix, causing trouble. See Micks, 3.

mix 'em. See mixum.

mix (C.19) or join (late C.18–19) giblets. To marry: low. 'Jon Bee.'

mix it. To fight vigorously: Aus. (—1916) >, by 1918, gen. and, by 1936, coll. (C.J. Dennis.) Cf. US mix-in, a fight.—2. Mix it for, to inform against (someone) to the police: low: C.20. Mark Benney, The Big Wheel, 1940.—3. See: mix it; mix it up (fox); mix it with. Contemporaneous variations of mix up, v. See also mixer, 2.

mix-metal. A silversmith: late C.18—mid-19: coll. Grose, 1st ed.

mix the red and the black, whence the synon. play roulette. To assault an officer when brought before him on a charge: army: since ca. 1925. (R. Wild, The Rest of the Day's Your Own, 1943.) † by 1950.

mix them. To mix one's bowling: cricketers' coll.: from mid-1890s. Lewis.

mix-up. Confusion; a mess, a muddle: coll.: from ca. 1895. Cf. mix.—2. A fight, esp. a general scrimmage: C.20. Cf. mix it, q.v.

mix up, v. Mainly as mix it up, 'to agree secretly how the parties shall make up a tale, or colour a transaction in order to cheat or deceive another party' (Bee): ca. 1820–95.

mixed. Confused, bewildered: coll.: from ca. 1870. Punch, 4 Sep. 1880, 'Rather mixed after twenty-one hours' continuous sitting'.—2. Slightly drunk: low coll.: from ca. 1871; ob. Leeds Mercury, 29 Aug. 1872.

mixer; good mixer. A sociable person; one who gets on well with others: US (resp. early C.20 and late C.19), anglicised ca. 1924: coll. >, by 1933, S.E. Somerset Maugham, 1925, good mixer. (The opp. is bad mixer.) OED Sup.—2. One who makes mischief, esp. one given to mischief-making: Cockneys': from ca. 1912. E.g. 'He's a reg'lar mixer! He mixed it up for me with Joe, and he tried to mix it with Tom.' mixing the breed! A c.p., employed either by someone using another's brush and comb or by a person (whether owner or not) watching this: non-cultured: late C.19–20. Cf.:-

mixing the breeds, mostly as n. 'It was a joke among the Tommies that German lice had black and white stripes, and ours were a dirty grey'; 'We sometimes got [additional] lice on us when we used German dugouts we had captured' (Petch); army; 1915–18, then historical.

mixologist. A bartender: Can., but not very gen.: since ca. 1960. (Leechman.)

mixum; occ. mix 'em. An apothecary: coll.: ca. 1630–1720. Glaphorne, 'Mr. Mixum, your apothecary'.

mizzard. The mouth: c.: from ca. 1890; ob. by 1930. (P.H. Emerson.) Corruption of mazzard, q.v.

miz. See mis, 3.

mizzle, n. Only in do a mizzle, to decamp: low: from ca. 1850. See next.—2. As 'fine rain', it is dial. (EDD).

mizzle or mis(s)le; occ. † misli. To decamp; depart slyly: orig. (ca. 1780), c. >, ca. 1820, low s. G. Parker, 'He preferred mizzling off to France.' Ex Shelta misli.—2. To complain: Aus.: C.20. (Baker.) Perhaps an elision of miserable.—3. To die: boxers': earlier C.19. Ex sense 1. Cf. TO DIE, in Appendix. mizzle (one's) dick. To miss one's passage: nautical: since ca. 1880. John Masefield, Sard Harker, 1924.

mizzled. Tippy: low:—1923. Manchon's definition in Fr. s. is illuminating: parti pour la gloire.

mizzler. A fugitive; one who departs slyly: orig. (—1834), c. >, ca. 1840, low s. (Ainsworth.) Hence, rum mizzler, one clever at getting away. See also needy mizzler.

mnngl. 'A great number' (S/Ldr. G.D. Wilson, 1979): RAF: 1970s. Orig. ex Swahili.

mo. A moment, esp. in half a mo: low coll.: late C.19–20. (Ware.) Ex moment.—2. (Also Mo.) Medical officer: army officers': WW1. E. Raymond, The Jesting Army, 1930.—3. A moustache: Aus.: late C.19–20. (Dal Stevens, The Gambling Ghost, 1953.) Cf. *moe*y, 3.—4. See down the lane ...; Ikey Mo.

moa. See dead as a doornail.

moab. A hat; esp. the turban-shaped hat in feminine vogue, 1858–9: university (mainly Cambridge): ca. 1858–80. (H., 3rd ed.) Ex 'Moab is my washpot,' Psalms 60: 8: the approximate shape.—2. A lavatory at: Winchester College: from ca. 1860; †. (Mansfield.) As 'lavatories', the term was still current in—not surprisingly—theological colleges, 1960s. Towler & Coxon, Fate of the Anglican Clergy, 1979.—3. Hence, ex the same quot'n, a receptacle (e.g. a sink, a tub) for dirty plates; a wash-room: e.g., Haileybury and Tonbridge Schools: later C.19—early 20. Marples; P.B.

Moabite. A bailiff: late C.17–19. (B.E.) Cf. Philistine, q.v.

moach. See mooch.

moak. See moke.

moan, n. A complaint or grievance: Services', perhaps orig. RN:—1914. Hence do a moan, to complain, and have a moan on, to nurse a grudge or a 'grouse': mostly Services': since ca. 1915. Cf.:-

moan, v. To complain, grumble; to do so habitually: RN > Services' generally: since 1915 at latest. (F. & G.) Ex dial.

moaner. A pessimist: Services' coll.: since ca. 1914.

moaning Minnie. An occ. var. of Mona, the air-raid warning siren: see Clara.—2. A German multi-barrelled mortar: army: 1941+. Echoic.

moaning of the tied. Married moaners, complainers: joc. coll.: mid-C.20. (Petch.) A pun on tide.

mob, n. The rabble, the disorderly part of the population (1688). The populace, the crowd (1691). S. till ca. 1750; coll. ca. 1750–1820; then S.E. Burke, 1790, 'A mob (excuse the term, it is still in use here) which pulled down all our prisons'; T. Hale, 1691, 'the beliefs of the mob', in the second sense. (OED.) Cf. the C.18—mid-19 proverb, 'The mob has many heads but no brains.' Abbr. mobile, q.v., itself a shortening of mobile vulgus, the fickle or excitable crowd.—2. A gang of criminals, esp. of thieves: orig. (1845 in 'No. 747') c. > low by 1851 (Mayhew); as early as 1843 as swell mob, q.v. Prob. ex:—3. (Gen. in pl.) A companion in crime: c.:—1839; † by 1890. Brandon; H., 1st ed.—4. In Aus., a gang of roughs: late C.19–20: s. > coll. Ex:—5. A group or crowd of persons, esp. if possessing common interests: coll. >, in C.20, S.E.: Aus., from ca. 1880. 'Rolf Boldrewood' speaks, in 1884, of 'the "Dunmore mob"'. (N.B., mob as (part of) a herd, a flock, is 'standard' Aus. now recognised as S.E.) Morris. As 'a party of men', it was whalers' s. of ca. 1820–1900. E.J. Wakefield, Adventure, 1845 (recorded by B., 1941).—6. In late C.19–20, esp. in WW1 and 2, a military unit, esp. a battalion or a battery. (Not disrespectful.) S. rapidly > coll. (B. & P.; F. & G.) Later, this mob or the mob: 'I've been with this mob for three years now' (this particular unit), but 'I've been in the mob ...' = the army as a whole. (L.A.: P.B.)—7. A harlot (cf. mab): c.: 1665, Head; 1697, N. Lee; Grose. † by 1830 in this sense, but B. & L., 1890, record mob: 'a young woman'.—8. A 'rag' (concerted mischief): Charterhouse: late C.19–20.

mob, v. To crowd; hustle; attack in a disorderly mob: from early C.18: coll. till ca. 1800, then S.E. Ex mob, n., 1 and 2. (OED.) Whence mobbing, q.v.—2. To 'rag': Charterhouse: late C.19–20. Cf. mob, n., 8, and mob up and mobbish.—3. To promote: see ox up.

mob-handed. In a 'mob'; in a group: grafters': C.20. (Cheap-jack, 1934.) M.T., 'The bogey came mob-handed', the police arrived in force.

mob store. A mobilisation store: military coll., from 1915 (F. & G.) >, by WW2, j. Also mob stores, what is stored therein.

mob-up. To hustle (a person): Charterhouse: ca. 1870–1910. (A.H. Tod, Charterhouse, 1900.) Cf. mob, v., 1 and 2.

mob up with. To join; to form two or more separate entities into a unit or whole: army: since ca. 1917. Ex mob, n., 6.

mobbing, vbl n. corresponding to mob, v., 1: 1734 (North: OED): coll. > ca. 1800, S.E. H. Walpole, 'The night will be full of mobbing, bonfires, and lights'. (Perhaps the same holds of the adj. mobbish, late C.17–20, ob.)

mobbish. Inclined for a 'rag': Charterhouse: C.20. Ex mob, n., 8.

mobile, n. The rabble, the rough part of the population: 1676, Shadwell, 'Do you hear that noise? the remaining rogues have raised the mobile' (OED).—2. Whence, the populace: from ca. 1680. Shadwell, 'The mobile shall worship thee.' Both senses, orig. coll., were S.E. by 1700; ob. by 1830, † by 1850 except historically. Cf. mob, n., 1 and 2.—3. A traymobile, i.e. a dinner wagon on castors or wheels: Aus. coll.: since late 1940s. (B.P.)—4. In do a mobile, to route-march in or into the desert: army, Egyptian Front: 1915–18. (F. & G.) Ex military j., mobile column.

mobile, adj. In get mobile: see get cracking, move quickly. mobile dandruff. Body-lice, 'crabs': Services': since ca. 1955. (P.B.)

mobility. The low classes: 1690, B.E. and Dryden: s. till ca. 1750, coll. ca. 1750–1810, then S.E.; ob. by 1840, † (except historically) by 1915. In the Maccaroni and Theatrical Magazine, Jan. 1773, appeared this notice:—'Pantheon's: the Nobility's, Oxford Road; the Mobility's, Spawfields' (see Chancellor, Pleasure Haunts of London). Ex mob, n., 1, on nobility.

mobocracy. The rabble as a ruling body: 1754 (Murphy: OED): coll. till ca. 1810, then S.E. Ex mob, 1, and, though much less, 2. (Derivatives: S.E.)

mobs, adv. See:-

mobs of. A large number, even a large quantity, of; e.g. mobs of stones—birds—water: Aus. coll.: late C.19–20. Ex mob, n., 5. This Australianism is explained by Arthur Russell, A Tramp-Royal in Wild Australia: 1928–1929 (pub. in 1936), thus: 'So accustomed has the Inlander become to dealing in mobs—mobs of cattle, mobs of horses, mobs of sheep, mobs of camels, donkeys, mules, goats—that he has come to reckon in no other terms of measurement... I asked Tuck a question...: did he think that the Finke River country... would give us better "going" than we had met with on the plains. "Oh, yes," he drawled, "mobs better... There'll be mobs of water on the track, we'll get mobs of beef at the runs, the stages'll be mobs shorter, an' there'll be mobs better camping grounds. And of course we'll be able to take it mobs easier.'"' mobsman. A pickpocket: from ca. 1850; ob. Mayhew.—2. But orig. (ca. 1845), a member of the 'swell mob' (q.v., properly swell mobsman); hence, any well-dressed swindler:—1859 (H., 1st ed.).

mocassin (or moccasin) telegraph, the. A frequent Can. 'shape' of the bush telegram and the grapevine: since ca. 1910 at latest. (Leechman.)

mocassins. 'The shearer's homemade footwear, usually made in sacking or felt' (Straight Furrow, 21 Feb. 1968): NZ: since 1920.

mocha. Var. of mock, 1. Wilkes quotes David Ireland, The Glass Canoe, 1966.

moche. See mooch.

mocho. Mocha coffee: low:—1887 (Baumann); ob. by 1930.

mock, n. A halfpenny: Aus.: C.20. B., 1942.—2. (Or mocks.) A mock or trial-run examination: schools' coll.: since ca. 1955. 'Yes, the exam's not till next term, but we're holding the mocks in February'. (Mrs Daphne Beale, 1974.)—3. See mock on ...

mock auction. For slang associated, see this entry in Appendix.

mock-duck or -goose. A piece of pork that, stripped of crackling, is baked with a stuffing of sage and onions: coll.: from ca. 1875. OED.

mock-litany man. A sing-song beggar: Anglo-Irish c.:—1909 (Ware).

mock on. In put the mock or mocks or mocker or mockers or mozz(z) on (someone or something): 'to frustrate someone's plans; to put a [jinx or] hoodoo on someone, destroy his luck' (Wilkes, who cites Aus. examples of mock, 1911, 1965; 'I've got a mocker hung on me', 1923; mocks, 1938; mockers, 1974). Wilkes and E.P. imply a predominantly Aus. usage, but Julian Franklyn suggests that all variants stem from Yiddish 'wish the mockers on (someone)'—to wish him very bad luck, itself ex Hebrew (one of the Ten Plagues). The phrase has certainly had very wide Eng. use since mid-C.20 at latest, in the form put the mockers on (a person, event, machine, etc.); O'Shaughnessy records it as market-traders' argot, which might poss. indicate continuity from C.19 London Jewish traders. See also mozzle, v. (P.B.) See also mogador.

mock turtle squadron. 'A fleet of dummy ships used in wartime to fox the enemy' (Granville): RN officers': 1915+. mock up. To improvise; as n. (mock-up), a large- or a full-scale, although not usu. a working, model: Services' coll. (1939), become, by 1942, j.

mockery, n. 'Clothes in general' (B., 1953): low Aus.: since ca. 1920.—2. Hence, a woman's dress: NZ: since ca. 1935. Slatter, 'Have you seen that trot in the blue mockery?' See also mockered up.—3. See mock on.

mockered. Full of holes; (of a face) pitted: low: from ca. 1850. Ex Romany mockado, mookeedo, dirty, filthy (moker, to foul). mockered up. Dressed in one's best: low: late C.19—20. Ironically ex mockered on molled up.? the orig. of mockery, n., 1 and 2, q.v.

mockers on. See mock on.

mocking bird. A word: theatrical rhyming s.: C.20. (Franklyn, Rhyming.) Cf. synon. dickey-bird, 5.

mocks on. See mock on.

mocteroof, v.t. and i. To doctor damaged fruit or vegetables: Covent Garden: ca. 1860—1930. E.g. chestnuts are shaken in a bag with beeswax (F. & H.). My learned friend Ramsey Spencer wrote, 1968, 'Might the link be Yiddish?' and adduces Ger. aufmachen, to make, or pack, up, esp. if attractively. 'Past tense "Ich machte auf"', I got (something) up, i.e. I put a special finish (on), packed (it) attractively? To me, that's convincing. P.B.: or is it middle s., mock + perverted fruit?

mod. A mechanical improvement or change in an aircraft: RAF coll.: since ca. 1920. (Jackson.) Short for 'modification'.—2. A teenager unable to afford a motorcycle, and doing his damndest with a scooter: 1963 (+), partly in opposition to rocky, n., 2, q.v. Short for modern. But Mr David Holloway, in his review (23 Feb. 1967) of the 6th edition of this Dict., writes: "'Mods" ride scooters because the machines protect their clothes much better than the larger ones affected by "rockers" who wear leathers and jeans.'

mod con. (usu. in pl, all mod cons.) Modern convenience: joc.: since ca. 1945. Derivative of estate agents' jargon.

model, n. Working-men's hotel or lodging-house: Glasgow: from ca. 1920. (MacArthur & Long.) Presumably ex some 'model' establishment of this sort; cf.:—2. The Model, Pentonville Prison: low: mid-C.19—early 20. Ex model prison.—3. In the (very) model of, some person or thing that very closely resembles another: orig. (—1849) and still dial., > coll. ca. 1890. Crockett. (EDD).

model, v. To pose as a model; to act as a mannequin: artists' and models' coll., since early C.20; by mid-C.20, at latest, familiar S.E.

modern girl, 'from a proprietary brand of Chinese cigarette, was a common name for the particularly odorous dried fish we sometimes obtained in the rations': among Far East prisoners of war: 1942—5. (The aspersion is directed at the cigarette, not at the girl.)

modest quencher. A small drink: from ca. 1860; ob.: coll. H., 3rd ed.—2. Hence, in C.20, 'an expensive drink or simply a drink of any kind' (Lyell).

modesties. Babies' pilches: Aus. euph. coll.: since ca. 1910. B., 1943.

modicum. An edible thirst-relish: 1609 (Dekker); soon †. OED.—2. The female pudend: low: ca. 166—1840. (Cotton.) Cf. † S.E. joc. sense, a woman: cf. bit, piece, qq.v.

modified. Applied to a car that has been in an accident; also known as had a set: car-dealers'. (Clive Graham-Ranger, in Sunday Times mag., 9 Aug. 1981.) Cf. mod, 1.

mods or Mods. The first public examination for BA degrees: Oxford University: coll.: 1858, J.C. Thomson, 'Between the "little-go" and "mods" he learns nothing new' (OED). Ex Moderations.—2. See mod, 2.

modsman. A candidate for 'mods': Oxford coll.:—1887 (Baumann).

moey; occ. moë(y). The mouth: low: mid-C.19—early 20. (H., 1st ed., at moë.) Ex Romany mooi, mouth, face; as 'face, countenance' it is still in use among market-traders (M.T.).—2. Hence, the female pudend: low: later C.19. H., 1st ed.—3. A moustache: Aus.: late C.19—20. (Ruth Park, Poor Man's Orange, 1950.) Cf. mo, 4.

moft or moph. A hermaphrodite: working classes': C.20. Ex illiterate 'hermaphrodite'.—2. Hence, a dual-purpose farm wagon: rural: since ca. 1946. John Moore, Bournemouth Daily Echo, 21 Apr. 1956.

moffling chete. See muffling chete.

mofussil. Rather provincial; countrified: from ca. 1840: coll. >, ca. 1890, S.E. Ex the n., which (the Mofussil) is standard Anglo-Indian for the country districts or anywhere out of a capital city. Ex Hindustani. See esp. Y. & B. Hence:

mofussilite. An inhabitant of a rural district: Anglo-Indian coll.: from ca. 1845. Ex prec.

mog. A cat: mainly schoolboys': C.20. (Collinson.) Perhaps ex dial. moggy, applied to various animals.—2. Hence, a cat's-skin tippet or other fur: racing s. or c.:—1932. (Slang, p. 247).—3. A lie: 1848, Sinks. Hence no mogue (see mogue) = no mog. The orig. of mog and mogue is prob. the Fr. (se) moquer (de), otherwise -ue is unexplainable [P.B.: unless this o were orig. long].—4. See moke.

mogador. (Of persons) confused; depressed; all at sea: Cockneys': since ca. 1910. (Julian Franklyn, communication of 1939.) Cognate with mogue? Also mogadored, prob. the orig. a form and therefore perhaps a perversion of moidered. The police have, since ca. 1940, used mogadored of a suspect that, at an interrogation, is 'broken' to the state of giving facts (L.A., 1948). Julian Franklyn, however, thinks mogadored, (fig.) floored, is rhyming s. The word comes, from the Romany mokardi or mokodo, which has also produced "put the mockers on" [q.v. at mock on] something = to jinx it. It refers to gypsy taboos: the mokardi article is tainted and has to be destroyed' (Muvver).

mogger. A cat: low: C.20. Cf.:—

Moggie, -y; or m-. An untidily dressed woman: low: from ca. 1880; ob. (Also dial.) Ex dial. moggy, a calf, a cow (EDD).

—2. A cat: Cockneys' (and dial.): late C.19—20. Cf. mog, 1.—3. A Morgan cycle-car (a light car with a motorcycle engine): devotees': since the 1930s. (Mike Partridge, 1979.)—4. See moke.

Moggy Thousand. Morris Minor 1000cc saloon car: later C.20. (P.B.)

mogue, v.t. and i; n. To mislead; joke, gammon: low and tailors'. (Bell's Life, 19 June 1870.) Whence no mogue, honestly, and mog(u)ing, n., gammon. See mog, 3.

mogquey. A coll. corruption of Maori moki (or mokihi), a raft: mid-C.19–20. Morris.

mohack. See mohock.

mohair. A civilian; a tradesman; military: 1785 (Grose); ob. by 1870, † by 1890. Ex the mohair buttons worn by civilians; soldiers have metal buttons.

Mohammed Ali. A regimental institute: coll. among regular solidiers in India: ca. 1920–40. Such institutes are often supplied by a merchant so, or analogously, named.

mohawk. See mohock.

mohican. A very heavy man that rides a long way in an omnibus for sixpence: ca. 1845–60. Tait's Magazine, 1848, 2nd series, vol. XV.

mohock; occ. mohack or mohawk. (Or with capitals.) An aristocratic ruffian night-infesting London, ca. 1710–15. From 1711: coll. > S.E.; ob. by 1760, except historically. Ex Mohawk, a member of a Red Indian tribe. Swift, 'A race of rakes, called the Mohocks, that play the devil about this town every night'.

moieity, a part, a share, is loose S.E.—2. A wife: coll. > S.E.: from ca. 1735; ob. Punning better half.

moira. A drink of any kind; esp. beer: army: WW1. Ex Arabic.

moist round the edges. Very slightly tipsy: rare: earlier C.20.

moist(en) (one's) clay. To drink: from ca. 1700: coll. verging on S.E. In C.19–20 also soak. Addison in the Spectator, 'To moisten their clay, and grow immortal by drinking'. Cf. S.E. mortal clay. Var. wet (one's) clay, and moisten (one's) chaffer (—1864). By 1940, moisten alone = v.i. to drink.

mojo! A yell of approval or of excitement: rhythm-and-blues fans', esp. teenagers': ca. 1964–6. Ex an American Negro s. term of vague meaning (e.g. a spell, power).—But in American drug addicts' s. it = 'any narcotic': prob. a different word. R.S. suggests, 1972, that the latter sense may derive ex Sp. mojo, a condiment or seasoning.

moke. An ass, donkey: s. and dial.: 1848 (J.L. Tupper: OED); Thackeray. Perhaps ex Welsh gypsy moxio or -a, a donkey: Sampson supports this origin and notes that moxio existed at least 50 years before the first recorded instance of moke; moreover, Brandon, in 1839, records moak as a c. word of gypsy origin and, at that time, mainly gypsy use. Moxio may well be an adaptation of the dial. Mock(e), a nickname for either a horse or an ass, precisely as Moggy, in several dial., is a nickname for cow, calf, or ass, and Mog is a cat. Since Mog (cf. Meg) and Moggy (cf. Meggy) and even Moke are diminutives of Margaret, perhaps via Molly (see my Name This Child), cf. with Molly the c. miler, q.v. We have, then, the interesting fact that both of the modern names for an ass represent diminutives: donkey of Duncan; moke of Margaret. Cf. mokus.—2. Hence, a fool: adopted, ex US, ca. 1890; ob. by 1930.—3. A very inferior horse: Aus.: 'Rolf Boldrewood', 1888, 'I am regular shook on this old moke.' Cf. sense 1.—4. A variety artist that plays on several instruments:—1890 (Century Dict.).

Moke Train, the. The Army Service Corps: military: late C.19–20. (F. & G.) Ex 'Military Train', its title in 1857–70. Also, occ., Muck Train.

mockered up. Var. of mockered up. Caddie, A Sydney Barmaid, 1953.

moko. A pheasant mistakenly shot before the shooting season: sportsmen's: from ca. 1860. (H., 2nd ed.) B. & L. suggest that it may be a humorous perversion of macaw.

mokter nix. 'It makes no difference—why worry?': Brit. army of occupation in Germany and Austria, esp. the latter: ob. by ca. 1960. Ex Ger. (es) macht nix; cf. W. & F., 1975, mox nix. (P.B.)

mokus. An occ. s. (ob.) and dial. var. of moke, 1, 3, qq.v.: mid-C.19–20. Prob. ex moke + -us, a 'characteristic Romany termination of masculine loan-words' (Sampson).

molasses. See shit and corruption, 2 slow as molasses ...

mole. The penis (whence mole-catcher, the female pudend): low: C.19—earlier 20.—2. A secondary nuance, rather than a well-differentiated sense, is 'A girl who will have sexual intercourse with anybody who asks. The term seems to be used as a pejorative by those who will [do so] with almost anyone. The word could be an altered form of [moll, 1–4] or the animal' (B.P., 1969): Aus. and, by late 1970s, NZ.—3. An agent of penetration and subversion; orig. espionage, since late 1940s; in later 1970s, more gen., as various 'moles' were 'uncovered' in the Civil Service, trades unions and other high positions of trust. See also sleeper, 3. (P.B.) moleskin squatter. 'A working man who has come to own a small sheep run': NZ and Aus. rural coll.: C.20. (B., 1941, 1942.) Ex the moleskin trousers such farmers tend to wear.

moll, n. A harlot: C.17–20: c. >, ca. 1890, low. Middleton, 'None of these common molls neither, but discontented and unfortunate gentlewomen' (OED). P.B.: in later C.20, ob. in Brit., but still current in Aus.: McNeil defines thus, 'Woman of easy virtue and low social status, a prostitute'. Ex the familiar form of Mary.—2. An unmarried female companion of a criminal or a tramp: c.: from ca. 1820. ('Jon Bee.') Cf. the US gun moll, a woman that carries a revolver for her 'man'.—3. A girl: from ca. 1835: c. >, ca. 1860, low. (Brandon.) In US c., moll is 'any woman, regardless of character or condition' (Irwin): so too, in C.20, among English grafters (Allingham).—4. Hence, from ca. 1890, a sweetheart: low.

moll, v.; molling, vbl n. To go—going—about with women; act—acting—effeminately: low: from ca. 1860; ob. (B. & L.) Ex the n.

Moll(-)Blood. The gallows: Scots coll.: ca. 1810–50. Scott. moll-buzzer. A pickpocket specialising in women: c.: from ca. 1855. Perhaps orig. US. Whence moll-buzzing, this practice.—2. In C.20, and more properly and gen. spelt moll buzzer, it has come to mean a female pickpocket. (Evening News, 9 Dec. 1936.) Perhaps orig. influenced by moll-tooler (properly, unhyphenated), q.v.

moll hook. A female pickpocket: c.: ca. 1860–1920. (B. & L.) Cf. moll-buzzer and -tooler.

moll-hunter. A man 'always lurking after women': low: late C.19–20. (Ware.) See moll, 1 and 3.

Moll Peatley's, or—prob. erroneously—Pratley's, gig, or jig. Copulation: C.18—early 19: low. Budgell, in the Spectator, 'An impudent young dog bid the fiddlers play a dance called Moll Patley.' Ex moll, 1, perhaps allusively to some whore surnamed Patley or Peatley.

moll-rower, rowing. See molrower, molrowing.

moll-sack. A lady's hand-bag; occ. a small market basket: c.: from ca. 1838. Brandon; H., 1st ed.

moll-shop. A brothel: low: 1923 (Manchon); but in use before WW1. Also molly-shop.

moll-slavey. A maid-servant: c. of ca. 1810–70. B. & L.

Moll Thompson's mark. 'M.T.' = empty. 'Empty packages are said to be so marked' (F. & H.): ca. 1780–1890. Grose, 1st ed.; H.

moll-tooler. A female pickpocket: c.: from ca. 1858; ob. H., 1st ed.

moll-wire. A pickpocket specialising in robbing women: c.: ca. 1865–1935.

mollid; gen. mollid up. Sleeping with a woman not one's wife: c.: 1851, Mayhew.—2. Accompanied by, esp. arm in arm with, a woman: low: from ca. 1860. Both senses ex moll, but resp. ex sense 1 (or 2) and sense 3.

mollisher, mollesher. A—gen. a low—woman; a thief's mistress: c.: from ca. 1810; ob. by 1930. Vaux (-ish-); Mayhew (-esh-). Prob. ex Romany monoshi, a woman, either by slovening l for n, or influenced by moll, 1. See also monnisher.

moll's three misfortunes, a. In the B.M. copy of the 1st ed., Grose has written: 'Broke the [chamber]pot, bes—t the bed and cut her a-se.' But this low c.p. of ca. 1785–1820 was included in no ed. whatsoever.

molly. An effeminate man; milksop: coll. >, in C.20, S.E.: 1879 (L.B. Walford: OED); though possibly existing a century earlier: the entry in Grose (1st ed.) is ambiguous. Ex Miss Molly, q.v. at sense 5, below.—2. A sodomite: coll.: 1709 (E. Ward); ob. Cf. pansy. But ca. 1895–1914, a merely effeminate fellow was often called a Gussie; in C.20, esp. after WW1, a sodomite is a nancy, a Nancy-boy, or a cissy (sissy), this last also applying to a milksop.—3. A wench; a harlot: coll.: 1719, D'Urfey, 'Town follies and Cullies, And Molleys and Dolls, for ever adieu.' Ob. (As a country lass, it is dial.) All ultimately ex Mary: cf. moll, q.v.—4. A malingerer: R Aus. N: since ca. 1915. (B., 1943.) Ex S.E. molly-coddle.—5. In Miss Molly, a milksop, an effeminate fellow: from ca. 1750; ob.: coll. >, ca. 1890, S.E. (Grose.) Cf. molly, all senses, and Miss Nancy, qq.v. (But Miss Mollyism, C.19–20 (ob.), is S.E.)—6. As exclam., a var. of Mally, 6, q.v.—7. See Molly Malone. molly, v.t. 'To bugged (someone)'; hence, adj. mollying, 'addicted to bugging'. The Ordinary of Newgate's Account, 1744, contains both—e.g. 'You molling dog'. Ex sense 2 of the n.

molly-dooker; whence molly-dook. A left-handed person, whence (the adj.) left-handed: Aus.: since ca. 1930. (B., 1943.) Wilkes lists var. molly-duked, citing Hal Porter, Southerly, 1969, and suggests derivation ex mauley, with which cf. mauldy, qq.v. For dooker, see dukes.

molly-head. A simpleton: from ca. 1900; ob. ?orig. US. Ex molly, 1.

molly(-)house. A resort of sodomites; esp. a house where men prostituted themselves to men: low: C.18–mid-19. James Dalton, A Narrative, 1728, p. 36.

Molly Maguires. An Irish secret society that, ca. 1843, aimed to intimidate bailiffs and their like: app. not recorded before 1867 (W.S. Trench): coll. quickly > S.E. Ex their usually dressing in women's clothes and ex Connor Maguire, a noted C.17 conspirator, says Dawson.

Molly Malone. Telephone: rhyming s.: later C.20. Rhyming Cockney Slang, ed. Jack Jones, 1971; Powis, who indicates, 1977, a usu. shortening to Molly. Ex the heroine of the trad. ballad 'Cockles and Mussels'.

molly-mop. An effeminate man: coll.: early C.19–early 20. (Marryat: OED). Ex molly, n., 1.

Molly O'Morgan. An organ: late C.19–20. Rhyming.

molly-puff. A gamblers' decoy; ca. 1625–70: ?c. Shirley, 'Thou molly-puffer, were it not justice to kicke thy guts out?' (Perhaps ex molly, 3 + puff, to advertise.) But F. & H.'s definition is prob. wrong, for Shirley's term is, likely enough, a mere var. of mullipuff (q.v. in OED), a fuzz-ball, used as a term of contempt.

molly-shop. See moll-shop. (Manchon.)

mollygrubs. See mulligrubs.

mollyhawk. Incorrect (from ca. 1880) for mollymawk = mallewmuck. OED.

molly's (or Molly's) hole. The female pudend: low: C.19–20; ob. Ex molly, 3.

molo. Tipsy: military: C.20. (F. & G.) Perhaps ex Romany: cf. motto, q.v.

molo(c)ker. A renovated hat: trade:—1892; ob. Ex molo(c)ker, v., to renovate an old hat by ironing and greasing: trade:—1863 (Sala). ? ex the inventor's name. B. & L. record var. molocher, and define it (wrongly, I think) as 'a cheap hat'. Molotov bread-basket. 'A bunch of incendiaries which blow out in a group as they drop to the ground' (H. & P.): 1940 +. Cf.:-

Molotov cocktail. An anti-tank missile consisting of a bottle containing flammable material and fitted with a fuse: 1939–45. (H. & P.) Like prec., ex the name of the Russian statesman. Adopted from Finnish usage. Still in use in late 1970s, and S.E.: BBC News, 4 Feb. 1979, reported the Iranian Prime Minister as saying that he would 'answer Molotov cocktail for Molokov cocktail'.

molrower. A wench, esp. a whoremonger. low: from ca. 1860; very ob. Ex:

molrowing, vbl n. Whoring: low: from ca. 1860; ob. Ex:—2. Caterwauling: low: from ca. 1858; ob. H., 2nd ed.;

Milliken, 'Beats 'Andel's molrowing a buster'. Perhaps a fusion of miauling and caterwauling.

moments. Esp. in I've had my moments: 'Women are known to say this, generally to [intimate] that they are not altogether without sexual experience' (Petch, 1969): c.p.: since ca. 1950.

mompyns. See munpins.

Mona. A nickname for a female given to complaining, unless by chance it is her Christian name: Londoners': from ca. 1919. Punning moaner. From 1947 often elab. to Mona Lott, after the famous depressed washerwoman in the BBC radio comedy series 'Itma'; her drearily uttered 'It's being so cheerful as keeps me going' became an extremely popular c.p.—2. The air-raid warning siren: civilians': WW2. See also Clara and wailing Winnie.

monaker, monarch, etc. A sovereign (coin): from ca. 1855; ob.: low. Orig. (—1851), a guinea. Mayhew.—2. The ten-oared boat: Eton College: ca. 1890–1915.—3. A name or title: orig. tramps' c., it >, in all extant forms, gen. though somewhat low s. ca. 1900. The forms are these:—monaker, from ca. 1860 (though Baumann implies from mid-C.18), not very gen.; monarch (—1879), ob., Macmillan's Magazine, 1879, vol. XL; monarcher, app. first in P.H. Emerson, 1893 (cf. big monarcher, an important person, tramps' c.: late C.19–early 20); monekeer, 1851 (Mayhew), †; moneker, from ca. 1852, while monneker arises ca. 1855; monica, from ca. 1890; monnaker (cf. monaker), from ca. 1865; mon(n)ick (—1895), as in The Times, 11 Nov. 1895, † by 1914; mon(n)icker, a frequent form, from ca. 1880; and mon(n)iker, the most gen. form of all:—1874 (H., 5th ed.). The etym. is mysterious: Irwin proposes Ste Monica, Monica deriving from L. monitor, an adviser, ex monere, to advise, to warn; Ware asserts that it derives 'from Italian lingo for name, Monaco being the Italian for monk', while B. & L. state that the lt. word is monarco, king, and give the rare var. monacher. In a letter, 1959, Mr Jacob Jaffe suggests that the word might be back-s. for ekename. This theory presupposes that a back-form emanek becomes, by aphaesis, maneke (trisyllabic), varied to moneke (trisyllabic), whence moneker, -iker, -aker, etc. The chronologies of ekename and monaker do not preclude the possibility. I propose monarch, a king, hence that which rules and determines, hence that which, by designating, partly rules a man's life; W., however, thinks that it may be a Shelta word, and gives the meaning as 'sign'; but recent opinion 'favours' monogram, which, I freely admit, is supported by:—4. A signature:—1859 (H., 1st ed.). This sense, however, causes me to wonder if the term be not a blend of monogram + signature; and this sense may possibly be earlier than sense 3.—5. Ex sense 3 is the phrase tip (a person one's) monnicker, to tell one's name: low: from ca. 1860. Manchon.—6. In lose (one's) monnicker, to be 'crimed' for a minor offence: army: S. African War, 1899–1902. See ARMY SLANG, VERSE 1, in Appendix, and lose (one's) name. (P.B.) monacher, monarch(er). See prec., 3.

Monas or monas. Isle of Man Railway shares: from ca. 1890: Stock Exchange.

Monday, n. A very large hammer that can be effectually used by fit men only: railwaymen's: since ca. 1920. (Railway, 2nd.) Men free of a week-end hangover.—2. See black Monday; bloody Monday; St Monday.

Monday, adj. An intensive: from ca. 1890; very ob.: low. Kipling, 1892, in Snarleyow, 'You may lay your Monday head/Twas juicier for the niggers when the case began to spread.' ?by misunderstanding or by corruption ex multry, q.v. P.B.: or merely a Kipling euph. for bloody?

Monday mice. The numerous black eyes seen that morning after the week-end drinking: London streets': late C.19–20; slightly ob. Ware.

Monday pop. One of the celebrated popular concerts at St James's Hall, London: coll.: 1862 (Geo. Eliot in letter of 26 Nov.: Ware).

Mondayish. As in 'The class were very Mondayish', i.e. they were inattentive, not 'with it', gen. suffering from the effects of resumming study after the weekend: teachers': later C.20. (P.B.)

moneke(e)r, monekeur (very rare). See monaker, monarch, 3.

money. Money's worth; a way of investing money: coll.: 1851, Mayhew, 'In February and March ... green fruit's not my money'; ob.—2. A (gen. very young) girl's private parts: low: latish C.18—late 19. (Grose, 1st ed.) Cf. ha'penny, 2.—3. Bubbles in a cup of tea: domestic: since ca. 1870.—4. Hard money, coin, as soft money is notes: coll.: from ca. 1848.—5. In the money, receiving good wages or a large salary: coll.: since ca. 1934. P.B.: also, occ., to be enjoying the proceeds of a large win.—6. In it's like eating money, this is a costly business: semi-proverbial coll. c.p.:—1887 (Baumann).—7. In not (one's) money, not to one's taste or choice: coll.: late C.19—20. Esp. as in Manchon, 'You ain't everybody's money.' Prob. suggested by:—8. In (so and so) for my money, so and so is what I like, desire, would choose: coll.: C.17—20. W. Houghton, 1616, English-Men for my Money—a title. Contrast sense 7, and see man for my money.—9. Spanish money, fair words and compliments: late C.17—18. B.E.—10. See easy as taking ...; full of money; glad to take eggs; pots of money.

money-bag lord. An ennobled banker: Society coll.: 1885—ca. 1914. (Ware.) Cf. gallipot baronet.

money-box, -maker, and (†) -spinner. The female pudend: low: C.19—early 20.—2. Only money(-)box, a 'Royal Mail train' (Railway, 2nd): railwaymen's: C.20.

money-bug. A millionaire: adopted, ca. 1898, ex US (Ware); † by 1930.

money burns in (e.g. his pocket (, e.g. his). He cannot keep money; is impatient to spend it: from ca. 1530: coll. till ca. 1860, then S.E. More, Cornwallis (1601), Farquhar, T. Hughes. (Apperson.) P.B.: in C.20 often allusively, as 'It's burning a hole in his pocket'.

money doesn't grow on trees. A late C.19—20 proverb; often allusively, as it doesn't grow on trees, you know, or, of currency and bank-notes, they don't ...: aimed at those, usu. young, who think money is easily got.

money-dropper. A swindler who, dropping counterfeit money, gets good change from some 'flat': c.: 1748 (Smollett); Grose, 2nd ed. † by 1905. Cf. ring-dropper.

money for dick. Money for nothing: army:—1914. F. & G. money for jam (, it's). (It is) sure money or, more gen., money easily obtained or earned: coll.: C.20. (Manchon.) Cf. jam, n., 3.—2. Hence, (it's) too easy!: from ca. 1910. B. & P. money for old rope. (Always predicative.) Something for nothing or almost nothing: (low) coll.: C.20. (Gilt Kid, 1936.) '(Mainly Services) of favourable duties, esp. those which earn privilege; also of winning streak at card games' (L.A., 1974).

money-maker. See money-box, 1.

money makes the mare to go. Money can do most things: proverbial coll.: late C.16—20; ob. by 1930. (Florio, Breton, N. Bailey, Kingsley.) Perhaps punning mayor. money-spinner. See money-box, 1.

money talks. Money is very powerful: semi-proverbial c.p. bordering on S.E.: 1586, Pettie, 'The tongue hath no force when gold speaketh'; 1666, Torriano, 'Man prates, but gold speaks'; 1915, P.G. Wodehouse, 'The whole story took on a different complexion for Joan. Money talks'; A. Palmer, 1925, in the Sphere, 'Money talks ... So why not listen to it?' Cf. the late C.16—18 what will not money do? (Apperson.)

money to burn, have. To have plenty to spend; to be rich: coll.: C.20.

mong. A mongrel dog: Aus.: since ca. 1910. B., 1912.—2. Hence, pej. for any dog, even of the best pedigree: Aus.: since ca. 1940. 'Get that bloody mong out of my yard!' (B.P.)—3. Children's pej. term, short for mongoloid: later 1970s. (New Society, 31 Jan. 1980.) Cf. mongie, q.v.

mongaree. See mungaree.

mongey. Food: military: 1914. (B. & P.) Ex Fr. (du manger. mongie (hard g), adj. Dull, stupid: teenagers': since ca. 1970. (D. & R. McPheely.) Also mongish (New Society, 31 Jan. 1970). Ex mongoloid. (P.B.)—2. Dirty, fusty, evil-smelling; nasty: Leicestershire children's: 1970s. (P.B.) mongrel. A sponger; a hanger-on among cheats: c.: ca. 1720—1890. A New Canting Dict., 1725.

monica, monick, monicker, moniker. See monaker, 3, of which monick is a further, mainly c., var: late C.19—20.

monish. Money: joc.: ca. 1840—80. (Sinks, 1848.) A 'humorous' imitation of Jewish pron. Baumann, 1887, records it as 'mostly Yiddish'.

monk. A term of contempt: low: from ca. 1860. H., 3rd ed.—2. A dark or an over-inked spot in a printed sheet: printers': 1683 (Moxon: OED): s. >, ca. 1830, j. Perhaps ex the Westminster Abbey associations of Caxton's press. Cf. friar, q.v.—3. Abbr. monkey, the animal: mid-C19—20: (low) coll. Also as da monk, an earlier C.20 c.p. ref. to an organ-grinder's monkey: ex It.—4. A sickly parrot: late C.19—early 20. (Ware.) Ex head indrawn and dejected.—5. A Friar bird: Aus.: late C.19—20. (Baker.) A pun.—6. In out the monk, no longer available or serviceable, e.g. water or trucks: army: WW2. Martin Page, For Gawsake Don't Take Me, 1976, his second collection of WW2 songs, ballads, etc., with ref. to the Royal Army Service Corps in Italy, 1944.

monkery; occ. monkry. The country: tramps' c.: 1790 (Potter: OED); Egan; Mayhew; P.H. Emerson. Direct ex Shelta of C.18—20: B. & L.—2. (Prec. by the) tramps or other vagrants collectively: tramps' c.: 1851 (Mayhew).—3. The practice of going on tramp: tramps' c.: from ca. 1850. Mayhew, 'He had followed the "monkry" from a child' (OED).—4. Hence, on the monkery, on tramp (Mayhew, 1851).—5. (Ex senses 1 and 4.) A district: grafters' s.: from ca. 1880 (Cheapiack, 1934.) Also a district in which either tramps or beggars operate: C.20. Senses 1—4 ob. by ca. 1935.

monkey, n. £500 (in US $500): 1856, The Druid; Whyte Melville. (The OED cites an 1832 text in which, prob. erroneously, it=£50.) Among stockbrokers, however, monkey (in C.20)=£50,000 of stock, i.e. 500 shares of £100. Cf. pony. Note that Tempest, 1950, lists monkey as prison c. for £50.—2. 'A vessel', i.e. a container, 'in which a mess receives its full amount of grog' (G. & H.): nautical (—1867): s. >, ca. 1890, j. (Smyth.) Prob. ex suck the monkey, q.v.—3. A hunting flask (for drinking): hunting s. or coll.: ca. 1850—80. Surtees (OED).—4. A sheep: rural Aus.: from ca. 1880; still current mid-C.20. A.C. Grant, Bush Life, 1881; Baker, letter, 1946.—5. The instrument that propels a rocket: military (—1860): s. >, ca. 1895, j. H., 2nd ed.—6. A hod: bricklayers' (—1885): s. >, ca. 1905, j.—7. A small bustle or dress-improver:—1889; † by 1896: coll. Notes & Queries, 22 June 1880.—8. A padlock: c.:—1812 (Vaux); Leach, 1933.—9. A mortgage (see monkey on a house); a writ on a ship: nautical: late C.19—20. Bowen.—10. A clerk, esp. if unimportant: mechanics':—1909 (Ware). Cf. Fr. s. le singe, the 'boss'.—11. A greatcoat: RN: ca. 1810—60. Glascock, 1838.—12. A two-wheeled trailer: see HAULIERS' SLANG, in Appendix.—13. Always the monkey: foolery; 'monkey-business': (?late C.18—)C.19. L.L.G., 10 Jan. 1824 (Moe). Whence monkey-business itself: late C.19—20.—14. The female pudend: Aus. low: later C.20. Wilkes cites Patrick White, The Vivisector, 1970.—15. See as the monkey said ...; cold enough ...; leave a monkey; make a monkey of; monkey up; suck the monkey; monkey strap.

monkey, adj. "'Monkey' is diminutive in the Navy' (Granville): late C.19—20. Cf. its use in monkey island and monkey jacket.

monkey and the nut, a or the. 'The Cunard houseflag with its lion and globe': nautical: C.20. Bowen.

monkey barge. A horse-drawn canal barge: later C.19—early 20. A Gus Elen music-hall song. (Peppitt.) Cf. its use in C.20 hauliers' s. for a two-wheeled trailer, and monkey-boat, 2.

monkey(-)bite. A mark left—often on the shoulder—by amorous biting: Can.: since ca. 1930.

monkey-board. The conductor's or the footman's place on an old-style omnibus or on a carriage: coll.: 1842 (Mrs Trollope: OED); J. Greenwood. † by 1895.

monkey-boat. A small boat used in docks: 1858 (OED).—2. A long, narrow canal boat: 1864 (H., 3rd ed.). Both senses are nautical s. >, ca. 1905, j. Cf. monkey barge.—3. 'In the plural, ships of the Elder Dempster Line, which carry nut kernels in their cargoes' (Granville): nautical: C.20.

Monkey Brand is 'often applied derisively to an ugly face' (Collinson): from ca. 1910. Ex that once well-known Lever Brothers' advertisement in which a monkey gazes at itself in a frying-pan.

Monkey Britain. The Hobson-Jobsons of WW1 and WW2 are, obviously, far too numerous to be all noted in this or perhaps any dictionary. This one is worth noting, for Edmund Blunden, in his WW1 classic, Undertones of War, 1928, has 'the... village of Monchy-Breton (known, of course, as Monkey Britain), near St-Pol.'

monkey-cage. A grated room from which a convict sees his relatives and friends: low: from ca. 1870. Cf. Fr. parloir des sines.—2. The steel structure of a modern building: mostly Cockneys': C.20.

monkey-coat. Occ. var. of monkey-jacket, q.v.

monkey(-)crouch. An American 'seat in the saddle', introduced to Eng. jockeys by a Negro jockey named Sims: racing coll.: since ca. 1925. Arthur J. Sarl, Gamblers of the Turf, 1938.

monkey dirt. 'Heavy sand from Huddersfield, used as packing between wood and iron in shuibling' (Peppitt cites J. Seymour, Voyage into England, 1966): C.20.

monkey-dodger. A sheep-station hand: Aus.: C.20. Wilkes quotes R.S. Tait, Scotty Mac, Shearer, 1912, 'Behold in me chief serang, head monkey dodger to the high and holy Hungry Harris.' Ex monkey, n., 4.

monkey-farting, n. and adj. Applied to useless employment, waste of time, silly behaviour: Can. (esp. soldiers'): C.20.

monkey-hangers. Port Glasgow men: Greenock seamen's: late C.19–20. Topical: Bowen gives the anecdote.

Monkey House, the. The Admiralty: RN: since ca. 1890. Cf. madhouse.—2. A caboose: Can. railroadmen's:—1931.

monkey hunt. A beach-party (esp. at Trincomalee, Ceylon/Sri Lanka) a run ashore: since (?C.19): nautical. Orig. literal, but by 1960s, simply 'a good time'. (Clive Hardy, 1979.)

monkey is up. See monkey up.

monkey island. 'The uppermost tier of a big ship's bridge': nautical: late C.19–20. (Bowen.) Also var. monkey's island ('Taffrail'; F. & G.).

monkey(-)jacket. An officer's reefer coat: RN: C.20. (Granville.) Rejected by the OED as occurring in 1830, it seems rather to have dated since ca. 1810 or even earlier; it was of American origin (see esp. M. Nicholson, Dict. American-Eng. Usage, 1957); it appears in Saturday Evening Post, 16 Mar. 1822 (p. 1, col. 5). Moreover, it has been coll. since ca. 1890—and, indeed, S.E. since ca. 1920. (Moe.) An early English citation is supplied by the Dublin University Magazine, July 1834, at p. 63. (Moe.) P.B.: when did humans start to dress pet monkeys in little short jackets, like the traditional organ-grinder's monkey?

monkey-monk. (Applied to person.) An intensive of monk or a pej. of monkey: 1934 (Richard Blaker, Night-Shift).

monkey-motions. Physical drill: Services': late C.19—early 20. Ware; Bowen.

monkey oboe. A medical officer: army: early WW2. Ex the signals PHONETIC ALPHABET, q.v. in Appendix, for M.O. P-G-R.

monkey off (one's) back. See monkey up.

monkey on a gridiron. A cyclist: Cockneys'; late C.19–20. (J.W. Horsley, I Remember, 1912.) Hence sit like a monkey on a gridiron, to be a bad, or very ungraceful, horseman: coll.:—1923 (Manchon).

monkey on a stick. A thin man with jerky movements: coll.: ca. 1880–1920. Ex the now [ca. 1935] seldom seen toy so named (1863). Also m. up a stick.—2. 'Term used to describe the riding position adopted on early veteran motorcycles. Because of the high seat, and particularly alluding to the very long handlebars which came back to almost level with the saddle' (Mike Partridge, 1979); motorcyclists': earlier C.20. Also ex the toy—and even more obviously. Cf.:

monkey on a wheel. A bicyclist: derogatory: late C.19.

monkey on (one's) back (, have a). (To be ridden by) the drug habit: Can. c.: adopted, ca. 1945, ex US; by 1950, police and low s. (Leechman).—2. A var., ca. 1880–1910, of have (one's) monkey up, q.v.

monkey on horseback. See who put that monkey...

monkey on the (or a, or one's) house; monkey on (or up) the chimney. A mortgage on a house: mainly legal: 1875; ca. 1885. Ob. Cf. monkey with a long tail, q.v. 'Prob. suggested', says the OED, 'by the initial m of mortgage.'

monkey-parade. A lower-class Londoners' term of ca. 1895–1915. Pugh, 'A place where the elite of the beau-monde of [Cockney] suburbia meet nightly, for purposes of flirtation. It is generally a big main thoroughfare. The fellahs and the girls wink and smirk as they pass, and break hearts at two yards with deadly precision.' Spike Mays, in No More Soldiering for Me, 1971, uses it of soldiers and girls in Salisbury, mid-1930s. Also monkey's (or -s') parade.

monkey-paw, v. To handle with great skill: RN coll.: C.19. (Basil Hall, 2nd series, 1832, p. 86.) Ex the supposed magical qualities of a severed, then preserved, monkey's paw.

monkey-poop. The half deck of a flush decked ship': nautical coll. verging on j.: late C.19–20. Bowen.

monkey-pump. The straw used in suck the monkey, 1, q.v.: nautical: later C.19. Smyth.

monkey see: monkey do! A Can. (and US) c.p. 'addressed to one who imitates the actions of another, or as warning not to do such and such because someone (usually a child) might follow suit' (Leechman): since ca. 1925.—2. Applied to a (complex) process that becomes performable (by imitation), yet never fully comprehensible to the 'monkey'-do-er: since mid-C.20, esp. in Services. See DCpp. (P.B.)

monkey shaft. 'A small trial shaft in a mine' (B., 1943): Aus. miners': C.20.

monkey-shines, monkey-like antics or tricks, is US (1847) and has never been properly anglicised, though it was occ. heard, ca. 1875–1905, in Britain.

monkey strap. 'A looped strap on the offside of the saddle pommel used by inferior rough-riders in mounting and during the bucking of a horse' (Baker): Aus. rural and rodeo: C.20. So early as 1911, shortened to monkey (Wilkes quotes E.S. Sorenson). Cf. Wagga grip, q.v.

monkey suit. Uniform provided by carnival proprietor: Can. carnival s.: C.20.

monkey tail. A 'handle for opening doors on mineral wagons' (Railway, 2nd): railwaymen's: C.20.—2. In hold on by (someone's) monkey-tail, to take someone's word for a story: nautical:—1887 (Baumann). Punning tale; cf. monkey about, (S.E. for:) to play the fool.

monkey tie. A gaudy necktie: S. African c.: C.20. (Cape Times, 3 June 1946.) Suggested by zoo tie.

monkey-traps. Female finery, to 'catch' men: since ca. 1930.

monkey(-)tricks. Sexual liberties: proletarian coll.: from ca. 1890. W.L. George, The Making of an Englishman, 1914.—2. Hence, any annoying action: since ca. 1920. D.L. Sayers, Busman's Honeymoon, 1937. (Claiborne.)

monkey up. A C.19 s. > coll. term applied to anger and temper. At first in phrase, as to have (one's) monkey up, to be angry, and to put (someone's) monkey up, to make that person angry (both in Benj. Webster, The Golden Farmer, 1833). By mid-C.19, the term could be used 'standing free', e.g. 'I wish you could see the calling down I have given them—you have never seen my "monkey up" but it's a good many pounds to the square inch, just now', a graphic use by Edward Lloyd in a letter of Apr. 1857, quoted by F.E. Comparato in "'Old Thunderer's" American Lightning', in Jnl of the Printing

Historical Soc., no. 13, 1978–9; or as Colour Sergeant T. Gowing wrote placidly to his parents, 28 Sep. 1864, 'If I find my old chum [his wife] wrong-side out, or her temper or monkey up, I just light my pipe and walk over to our mess.' One could also, angered, have a, or the, monkey on (one's) back (—1864: OED), and get (one's) monkey up. 'Perhaps alludes to animal side brought uppermost by anger' (Ware). Hence take the monkey off your back!, calm down!: low:—1887 (Baumann). Cf. back up. (E.P.; P.B.) monkey up a (or the) stick, like a. Performing queer antics: coll.: late C.19–20. Ex the popular toy. See monkey on a stick.

monkey up the chimney. See monkey on a house and: monkey with a long tail. A mortgage: legal:—1886; ob. Cf. monkey on a house, monkey up the chimney, qq.v.

monkey with a tin tool (, like a). A low coll. phrase denoting self-satisfaction or impudence: from ca. 1863; ob. H., 3rd ed. monkey's, a. Short for a monkey's fuck or toss, q.v. at not care a...

monkey's allowance. More rough treatment than money: 1785 (Grose); Marryat, 1833, 'When you get on board you'll find monkey's allowance': s. >, ca. 1840, coll.; ob. by ca. 1900.—2. Short rations: RN: late C.18—19. W.N. Glascock, Sailors and Saints (I, 166), 1829. (Moe.)

monkeys and parrots. Perhaps as common as parrots and monkeys, q.v., chattels.

monkey's breakfast. 'Any untidy piece of work is said to look like a "monkey's breakfast"' (Granville): nautical: C.20.

monkey's fist. 'A knot at the end of a heaving-line to ensure its safe passage from a ship to jetty' (Granville): RN coll.: late C.19–20.—2. Something that puzzles: lowerdeck: late C.19—earlier 20. (Goodenough, 1901.) Ex sense 1, 'hard to unravel'.

monkey's fuck. See not care a...

monkey's grease. See useless as...

monkey's island. As 'the upper bridge', in 'Taffrail', The Sub, 1917. See also monkey island.

monkey's money. Payment in kind, esp. labour, goods, or most of all, fair words: ca. 1650–1800: coll. Urquhart, 1653, 'Paid for in court fashion with monkey's money'. Cf. Spanish money, at money, 9.

monkey's orphan. '19th century naval name for the disappearing ship's fiddler' (Bowen).—2. Term of abuse for a lubberly seaman' (Granville): nautical: C.20.

monkey's parade. Var. of monkey-parade.

monkey's tail. A short hand-spike: nautical s. >, by ca. 1860, j. Bill Truck, Jan. 1822.—2. A nail: rhyming s.: late C.19–20. (John o' London's Weekly, 9 June 1934.) Cf. Daily Mail in this sense.

monkey's wedding. 'Lowerdeck term used to describe an unpleasant smell' (Granville): RN: C.20.—2. It's a monkey's wedding, S. African C.20 c.p. applied to weather characterised by drizzling rain while the sun shines. (A.C. Partridge, 1968.) Not unknown, I think, in Brit. (P.B.).

monkry. Occ. early var. of monkery: Mayhew.

Monmouth Street finery. Tawdry clothes, furniture, etc.; pretence, pretentiousness: ca. 1850–80: low coll. (Mayhew.) Monmouth (ca. 1890 > Dudley) Street was long a well-known market for second-hand clothes.

monnaker, monneker, monnicker, monniker. See monaker, monarch.

monnisher. Young woman: market-traders': C.20. (M.T.) See mollesher.

mono. A monotype machine or process: printers' s. (—1910) >, ca. 1925, coll. Cf. lino, q.v.—2. A monochrome car, radio or TV set, or whatever: coll.: since late 1940s. (James McClure, The Sunday Hangman, 1977.) P.B.: by late 1970s applied to anything mono-, opp. multi- or stereo-: j. monocular eyeglass. The anus: low joc.: ca. 1860–1910.

monopolise the macaroon. See macaroon, 2.

monos. The King's scholar who at 4 p.m. announces, in Latin, the finish of the day's work': Westminster School: —1909 (Ware). The Gr. word for 'alone'.

monosyllable. The female pudend: either polite s. or a vulgarism; ob. by 1880, † (except among the cultured) by 1915. Anticipated in Lucas's The Gamesters, 1714, thus, 'Perhaps a bawdy monosyllable [i.e. cunt, q.v.] such as boys write upon walls', but app. first 'dictionaried' by Grose, 2nd ed., 1788, as 'a woman's commodity' (see commodity). 'Jon Bee' remarks, in 1823, 'of all the thousand monosyllables in our language, this one only is designated by the definite article; therefore do some men call it "the article", "my article", and "her article" as the case may be'. For a fuller treatment, see my edition of Grose. (Bee says, 'Described by Nat Bailey as pudenda mulieris: I find it in neither the 1st ed., 1721, nor the supplementary volume, 1731.)

mons. A crowd; to crowd (v.i.): Winchester College: ca. 1860–1920. ?L. mons, a mountain, or an abbr. of monster or monstrous.—2. (Gen. Mons.) A catachrestic abbr. of monsieur: C.18–20; ob. ('Regarded in Fr. as intentional impertinence', W.)—3. As da mons, one of many motor-trade s. terms for 'money' (others being, bees and honey, gelt, kite, oats for the donkey, smash): since ca. 1920. Joc. on It. pron. of money.—4. On the wire at Mons, an evasive answer to a question of a man's whereabouts: army: later WW1. (F. & G.) There was no 'wire', i.e. barbed wire, at Mons, Aug. 1914, nor was gas used: see gassed at Mons, of which this is a var., and cf. synon. died of wounds.

Mons Meg. The female pudend: low: C.19. ?ex the C.15 gun in Edinburgh Castle.

monstrous, adj. An intensive (very great, iniquitous, etc.): coll.: ca. 1710–1840. Swift, 'We have a monstrous deal of snow'; F. Burney, 'this monstrous fatigue'; Cobbett, 'Here is a monstrous deal of vanity and egotism'. OED.

monstrous, adv. A general intensive (cf. awfully, bloody, q.v.): coll.: ca. 1590–1850. Shakespeare, 'monstrous desperate'; Congreve; Mrs Trollope, 'monstrous good friends'. OED.

Mont. A tramp or a beggar: Cockneys': late C.19–20; ob. Origin prob. anecdotal—perhaps in a picturesque tramp named Monty.

Monte. Monte Carlo: a C.20 coll. used mostly by those who have never been there. 'Christopher Quill' in Books of To-Day and the Books of To-Morrow, Oct. 1936.—2. Hence, the Monte Carlo Rally: motorists': since late 1940s.—3. (Also monty.) A certainty, 'a sure thing': Aus.: since late C.19. Wilkes, who derives it ex the US card game (Mathews, 1841); SOD says Spanish or Mexican, 1850, for the game.—4. (?) Hence, a lie: Aus.: since ca. 1935. B., 1959.—5. 'The three-card trick' (Powis): c.: later C.20. See sense 3.

Montezuma's revenge. A severe attack of diarrhoea, 'the screaming shits': perhaps orig. Services'; I heard it in Cyprus, late 1950s; later, more widespread. (P.B., 1974.) Adopted ex US, where orig. 'used by tourists in Mexico' (W. & F.). The Aztec emperor Montezuma II was defeated, 1519–20, by the Conquistadores. Cf. Aztec two-step.

month. See end-of-the-month, short of cash.

month of Sundays. A long time: coll.:—1832 (Marryat). OED.—2. In phrase, (as) dull—or as slow—as a month of Sundays: Aus. (B., 1942); and with a face like a month..., looking very glum or woebegone: C.20.

monthlies, the. Menstruation: 1872 (OED): a vulgarism >, ca. 1895, low coll. Cf. flowers.

Monto, the. A low-class district of Dublin, named after Montgomery Street: late C.19—early 20: Dublin coll. Refs occur in Oliver St John Gogarty, Tumbling in the Hay, O'Flaherty, The Informer, and Joyce, Ulysses. (Mrs C. Raab.)

montra. A watch: c.: earlier C.19. (Vaux.) Ex Fr. montre.

Monty. 'Inevitable' nickname for any man surnamed Broke: army: early C.20. John Aye, Humour in the Army, 1931.—2. A naval patrol aircraft: Aus. Services': early WW2. B., 1942.—3. See monte, 3 and 4.

montygram. A signal written by F.-M. Montgomery: army officers': later WW2. (P-G-R.) He was known to all as 'Monty'.

Monty's foxhounds. The 40th (King's) Battalion, Royal Tank Regiment: 1942+. See prec.

Monty's moonlight. 'Artificial light provided by searchlights set a short way behind the front . . . , thus enabling men and vehicles to move [at night] in comparative safety without lights' (P-G-R): army: later WW2. Cf.:-

Monty's Own. Minesweepers clearing the fairway along the N. African coast for the 8th Army: Services: 1943. (P-G-R.) Ex Monty, nickname of F.-M. Montgomery, victor of Alamein, 1942.

moo. Old—silly—silly old moo; old—silly—silly old mare. Moo, which shortens moo-cow and is euph. for cow, q.v., is virtually synon. with mare as a mild Cockney pej. of late C.19–20. (But see mare for later C.20 usage.) Whereas old mare and old moo are neutral and often affectionate, silly mare and silly moo connote silliness; more common than either of those pairs (so Julian Franklyn tells me, 1967) are silly old mare and silly old moo; the last is the commonest of all and has moved out of the merely Cockney region to the social atmosphere wherein a young husband can, without fear of instant divorce, address his wife as silly (old) moo. With thanks also to Wilfred Granville, who recalls that, in the old Caledonian Market (see Stones, the), he often heard such admonitions as 'you silly moo, that was worth five bob more than you let him have it for', and has, then as since, heard it 'applied to kids returning from errands, "You stupid little mare, you've forgotten the tea".' Addressed to females only, of course.

moo-cow. A cow: childish coll.: 1812, Combe, 'The moo-cow low'd, and Grizzle neighed'; Thackeray. Cf. bow-wow, cock-a-doodle-doo.

Moo-Cow Farm. Mouquet Farm: military; esp. among the Australians, who, in the Battle of the Somme, fought fiercely there (near Thiepval): latter 1916+. (F. & G.) P.B.; E.P. was himself among the Australians, as a private soldier, on the Somme. See his contribution to Three Personal Records of the War, 1929.

mooch, n. An idling, 'scrounging', skulking, hanging about, looking for odd jobs. Hence, on the mooch, adj. and adv., engaged in one of these 'activities'; in Wiltshire dial., shufflingly. (H., 1st ed., 1859; London Herald, 23 Mar. 1867.) Also mouch. Ex the v. See mike and do a mike, and sense 5 of the v.—2. A dupe, esp. in respect of stocks and shares; mooch man, a good canvasser for the sale of (dud) shares; mooch manna, a (rich) business man too proud to admit that he has been victimised by share-pushers: commercial (under)world: since ca. 1925. (John Bull, 21 Jan. 1939.) The first, at least, has been adopted from US—see Underworld.

mooch, v. (Also mouch; cf. mike, q.v.) To idle, sneak, hang about (often with about); slouch (with along): low: 1851 (Mayhew). Also dial. Prob. ex mike, v., influenced by Fr. mucher, to hide, skulk.—2. 'To sponge, slink away and allow others to pay for your entertainment' (B. & L.): ca. 1855–1910. 'Ducange Anglicus'.—3. V.t., to steal, pilfer: 1861, Mayhew (to steal things one finds lying about); ob.: prob. c. > low s. and dial. OED.—4. To be a tramp: tramps' c.: late C.19–20. Gen. as vbl n.: mooching. Cf.:—5. 'To walk round and round the decks in company': Conway cadets:—1891. Also come (or go) for a mooch. John Masefield, The Conway, 1933.—6. (Of a taxicab) to 'coast': taxi-drivers': from ca. 1920.

moocher, moucher. A lazy loiterer or hanger-about; a loitering thief (gen. a pilferer); a tramp; a (professional) beggar: low: from ca. 1855. ('Ducange Anglicus'; Mayhew.) Also mutcher. Cf. dial. senses: see EDD. Ex prec.—2. A synon. of bug-hunter: c.:—1861; ob. Mayhew.—3. A customer owing money to the bank: Anglo-Irish bank-clerks': C.20. Cf. delegate, q.v.

Moocheries or Muckerries, the. 'The Inventories' (Inventions Exhibition), held at South Kensington, London, in: 1885. Ex mooch, v.; Muckerries being a joc. perversion: Cf.:—moochers' mile. 'The Mecca of the suburbanites . . . along Piccadilly, through Piccadilly-circus to Leicester Square' (Daily Express, 12 June 1944): since ca. 1930. Ex the sauntering.

moochi. An Indian shoemaker: army coll.: late C.19—earlier 20. (B. & P.) Ex Hindustani.—2. Hence, any shoemaker: id.: earlier C.20. Ibid.

mooching, mouching. Vbl n., see mooch, v.—2. Adj., from ca. 1860. Also dial.

Moochy. See mouchey, 2.

moody, n. 'Gentle persuasion, blarney, flattery': grafters': C.20. (Cheapjack, 1934.) Perhaps ex sense 4.—2. As the (old) moody, a psychiatrist's man-to-man, or even genial, approach to a prisoner: prison c.: since ca. 1945. (Norman.) A special application of sense 1.—3. (Old) moody, 'Lies, a deceit and, in another sense, something that goes wrong. "What he said was just a load of old moody" means it was deceitful and false, and "It went moody on us" would mean that the expected successful result did not materialise' (Powis): c.: later C.20.—4. Short for Moody and Sankey (now always Moody, hence moody)—rhyming s. on hanky-panky, itself perhaps an elab. of hanky, handkerchief, that 'with which the conjurer employing the quick hand deceives an observing eye' (Franklyn 2nd).—5. A period of (extreme) moodiness: since ca. 1965. Groupie, 1968.

moody, v. 'Put into good humour by means of ingratiating talk; wheedle; flatter; humour' (M.T.): grafters': C.20. (Cheapjack, 1934.) Cf. n., 1. Hence, do a moody, to treat someone thus.

moody, adj. Simulated, faked, as in 'a moody ruck' or faked quarrel: prison c.: since ca. 1945. (Norman.) By ca. 1950 it had > police s., as in "I don't have to tell you," Kenyon went on, "how easy it is to plant moody information about a copper" (N.J. Crisp, The London Deal, 1978). 'What we market-traders call "a moody ruck" . . . an argument two stall-holders pretend to start to get attention, draw a crowd' (New Society, 23 Apr. 1981).

moody-merchant. 'One who can "tell the tale"; smooth-tongued fellow; flatterer' (M.T.): market-traders': C.20.

moody ruck. See moody, adj.

mooë, moeey. See moey.

mooer. A cow: coll.: ca. 1820–1910. Ex moo, v. Cf. moo-cow, mower, qq.v.

mooi. Fine; handsome: S. African Midlands coll.: from ca. 1880. Ex the Dutch mooi (handsome, pretty, fine), which, among the Cape Dutch, 'has to do duty for almost every shade of appreciation' (Pettman).

moola(h). Money, esp. ready money: Can. (Leechman), adopted ex US, where 'not in common use until ca. 1935' (W. & F.); by mid-C.20 also Brit. raffish; ob. by ca. 1970. Patrick Campbell, Come Here Till I Tell You, 1960.

moon, n. A month's imprisonment: c.: 1830. Mon'ceff, 'They've lumbered him for a few moons, that's all.' Hence, long moon, a calendar month. Cf. drag. Moon=month recorded by Powis, 1977, as current c. See quot'n at strong, v.—2. (Illicit) home-brewed whiskey: Can., adopted late 1960s ex US. (Leechman.) Abbr. moonshine (W. & F.).—3. In go between the moon and the milkman, proletarian var., later C.19 (B. & L.), of:—4. In shoot (occ. bolt or shove) the moon, to depart, with one's valuables and, if possible, furniture by night without paying the rent: coll.: 1823, Egan's Grose, shove († by 1870), c.; bolt, † by 1905, occurring in 1825, and shoot in 1837. OED.—5. It is a fine moon, God bless her!, a proverbial c.p. greeting the new moon: late C.17—early 20. Aubrey (Apperson).—6. In know no more about it than the moon knows about Sunday, to know nothing about it: later C.19—early 20. Baumann.—7. See blue moon; elephant find an; over the moon.

moon, v. (Gen. with about, along, or around.) To idle, lounge, or wander as in a dream: coll.: 1848 (Albert Smith: OED); Charlotte Yonge, 'When you were mooning over your verses'.—2. Occ. v.t. with away, as in Besant & Rice, 1877, 'I might have mooned away the afternoon in the Park.'

Moon City. "The [RN] officers [at Clyde Submarine Base] live on [a] site with its own angular charm, perfectly nick-named "Moon City" (J. Winton, Illustrated London News, Oct. 1976, p. 73: P.B.).

moon-curser. A link-boy, esp. one that lights his clients into a pack of rogues: c.: 1673 (Head); † by 1840. (In dial., a ship-wrecker.)

moon-eyed. Topsy: late C.18–mid-19. L.L.G., 21 Feb. 1824 (Moe). Cf.:-

moon-eyed hen. A squinting wench: ca. 1780–1890. Grose, 1st ed. (m.-e. itself is S.E.).

moon-faced. Japanese-faced: proletarian: later C.19–early 20. Baumann.

moon is made of cheese. In believe or persuade or make believe that the moon..., to believe firmly, or to cause another to believe, something astounding or impossible or absurd; hence, to be a fool, to bewitch another. (Frith, ca. 1529; Wilkins the philosopher; Ainsworth by the lexicographer.) Coll.; in C.18–20, S.E. (Apperson.) P.B.: C.17–20 variants: ... cream (or green) cheese.

moon-man; man's man. A gipsy: C.17–early 19: c. (after 1800, perhaps low s.): Dekker, B.E., Grose.—2. A robber by night: late C.16–17: coll. Shakespeare (moon's man); 1632, Sherwood, who defines as a brigand (OED).

moon-raker. A Wiltshire man: from ca. 1765: coll., slightly ob. Grose, 2nd ed., says that some Wiltshire rustics, seeing the moon in a pond, tried to rake it out: Wiltshire people prefer a more complimentary legend. The Moon-Rakers are the 62nd Foot, in late C.19–20 the Wiltshire Regiment (military: late C.18–20; ob.).—2. A smuggler: C.19 dial. (mostly) and coll. Ex the 'complimentary' story in sense 1, of smugglers, caught by excisemen while raking in a pond for sunken casks of contraband liquor, explaining themselves as 'raking the moon (or green cheese) off the water.'—3. A blockhead: from ca. 1840, ob.: coll. >, ca. 1900, S.E. Ex sense 1.—4. A sail above the sky-sail, also an imaginary sail above the 'sky-scraper', q.v.: nautical, resp. (—1867) j. and (—1896) s.

moon-raking, vbl n. and ppl adj.: from ca. 1865; ob. Coll. >, ca. 1895, S.E. See moon-raker.

moon-shooter. See moon, n., 4.

moonier. 'We must therefore coin our own epithet, and define moonier as an individual who moons about without any object, half absent, half contemplative' (Albert Smith, The Idler upon Town, 1848). In C.20, S.E.

moonie, -y. A silly fool: coll.: from ca. 1850. Baumann spells mooney. Ex the S.E. adj., moony, silly.—2. 'A new arrival in a tropical country, distinguished by the fact that his face is pale and hence, presumably, "moon-like"' (Peter F. Reynolds): RAF overseas: 1950s–60s.—3. (Also Moonie, and usu. pl.) Member of the Unification Church, a sect founded in S. Korea, 1954, by the Rev. Sun Myung Moon. In 1959 it spread to USA, and by early 1977 its missionaries had reached London. US 'Moonies' were referred to in print in the Economist, 9 Apr. 1977, and, in an Eng. context, in New Statesman, 24 June 1977 (article by Fred Weiss about a 'pep rally' in Hyde Park). (P.B.) moonish. Occ. var. of moony, adj.

moonlight. Smuggled spirits: from ca. 1809; > ob. ca. 1890. (Scott: OED.) Ex the night-work of smugglers: cf. moonshine, q.v. (As v., S.E.).—2. See brasses cleaned... moonlight flit, flitting. A removal of household goods by night without paying the rent: resp. dial. (—1824) >, ca. 1865, s.; s. (—1721) >, ca. 1880, coll. OED; F. & H., where the occ. late C.19–early 20 var., London flitting, is recorded.

moonlight wanderer. One who does a 'moonlight flit' or 'London flitting': ca. 1820–70. ('Jon Bee.') See prec.

moonlighter. A harlot: mid-C.19–early 20. Superseded by:—2. One who holds two paid positions at the same time; hence, moonlighting, the practice involved: Can. (Leechman) and Brit. coll.: adopted, mid-C.20, ex US, where popular during and since WW2 (W. & F.). Most such jobs involve evening work.

moonraker. See moon-raker.

moon's man. See moon-man.

moonshēe. A native teacher of, an amanuensis in, languages. This sense (1776) is prob. to be rated as 'standard'; but as = a learned person (—1864), moonshēe is coll. (H., 3rd ed.), as is 'Indian interpreter': military: late C.19–20 (B. & P.). Also moonshi, munshi, munshēe. OED.; Y. & B. moonshine. Smuggled spirits: 1785 (Grose): coll. >, ca. 1890, S.E. Often with a specific sense: white brandy, in Kent, Sussex; gin, Yorkshire. Cf. US c. shine.—2. In C.20, it occ. = 'adulterated alcoholic liquor' (Lyell) and is, in this sense, to be considered coll.—3. See gilded moonshine, bogus bills.

moonshine in the mustard pot (for it). Nothing: coll.: ca. 1630–1700. Gen. prec. by one shall have. Cf. S.E. moon(shine) in (the) water. (Apperson.) Ray has give moonshine... moony. Drunk, (gen.) slightly drunk: s.: 1854 (OED); † by 1930.—2. Romantic: coll.: since early C.20.

Moor, the. (The prison on) Dartmoor: c.: C.20. Edgar Wallace, passim (e.g. The Squeaker).

moored in Sot's Bay (or s. b.). 'Drunk and incapable': nautical: late C.19–20. (Bowen.) Cf. gutter lane.

Moorgate rattler. A 'swell' of that London district: Cockneys': 1899–1910. Ware.

Moorish, Muhammadan: C.16–20: S.E. till ca. 1830, then coll., increasingly low; ob. Southern India and Ceylon (SOD). Cf. Anglo-Indian use of Moor in Y. & B.

moose. 'An eligible female of Japan or Korea is known as a "moose" ... from the Japanese word "musume"—girl' (Iddi-wah, July 1953): United Nations troops' in Korea: ca. 1951–5.—2. (Also regular moose and bull-moose.) A huge, powerful fellow: Can. coll.: C.20. 'A moose of a man'.

moose milk. 'Any of various home brews concocted in the Yukon. One consists of Eagle Brand condensed milk laced liberally with rum': NW Can.: since ca. 1920. (Dr Douglas Leechman, familiar with the Yukon territory.)

moosh. Var. of some senses of mush.

mootch. See mooch.

mooter. See TAVERN TERMS, §3d, in Appendix.

mop, n. A drinking-bout: low: later C.19. Hence on the mop, on the 'drunk' or the drink.—2. A drunkard: id. See also lush.—3. Hair: nautical and lower classes' coll.: C.19–20. Bill Truck, Sep. 1823.—4. A horse-whip: Aus. sporting: since ca. 1920. B., 1959.—5. (Mop.) 'A jocular form of Ma or Mum, used to rhyme with Pop' (Petch): since mid-C.20, perhaps earlier.—6. See chew the mop; left sucking the mop.

mop down. To empty a glass, etc.: a C.20 var. of mop up, v., 1. Gen. in form mop it down, to drink freely. See song in B. & P. at p. 40.

mop-eyed. See mope-eyed.

mop out. (Cf. wipe out, q.v.) To floor, kill; ruin:—1892; † by 1910: low. Gen. in passive. Milliken, 1892, in his 'Arry Ballads. Cf. mop up, v., 5.

mop-squeezer. A housemaid: low: 1771 (OED); earlier in anon., A Congratulatory Epistle from a Reformed Rake, 'From mop-squeezers, were promoted to whores'. Cf. slavery, q.v. mop-stick (or solid). A ninny, a simpleton: low:—1887 (Baumann); ob. by 1930.

mop-top. One, usu. a youth or a young man, who wears his hair mop-shaped; applied notably to the Beatles "pop" group: 1960s. (Petch, 1969.)

mop (or wipe) the † earth, floor, † ground with (one). (Occ. with up after mop.) To knock a person down; to thrash soundly; fig., to prove oneself vastly superior to: coll.: from ca. 1880. Henley & Stevenson, 1887, 'I'll mop the floor up with him any day.'—2. Hence, in C.20, to overcome easily.

mop-up. A severe trouncing, in single fight or, gen., in battle: C.20; ob. Conan Doyle, 1900, 'Better six battalions safely down the hill than a mop up in the morning' (OED). The military mopping-up, not used before July 1916 (if memory serves me aright,—though F. & G. may be correct in dating it at Feb. 1917), is applied to the work done by the parties sent on after, or by the men left behind from, the attacking troops to clear the captured lines of a lurking foe and of obstructions. Also as adj., as in mopping-up party or, occ., wave: early 1917. By the end of WW1, it had > j.

mop up, v. To empty (e.g. a glass): from ca. 1810. (Lex. Bal.) Cf. mop, v., 1, and mop down, qq.v.—2. Also, to eat: rare before ca. 1890.—3. To collect, obtain, appropriate: from ca. 1855. Mayhew.—4. V.i., to stop talking, gen. in imperative:—1887; ob.: low. Walford, The Antiquarian, Apr. 1887.—5. To kill, slaughter: mainly Services:—1887 (Baumann); Rider Haggard. Cf. the n., q.v. Cf. wipe out, q.v.—6. V.i. (absolute) and v.t., to capture or subject isolated machine-gun, bombing, and other posts after the main body of an attack has moved on: military: WW1+. See B. & P. at mopping-up and cf. mopper-up.—7. Hence, or ex sense 5, to defeat utterly: s. (from 1916) >, by 1930, coll. 'Taffrail', The Sub, 1917.—8. See mopping up the miles.

mope-eyed (occ. mop-eyed) by living so (or too) long a maid, you are. A proverbial coll. or a c.p. of ca. 1645–1720. (Herrick, Ray, B.E.) Lit., mope-eyed = purblind. OED.; Apperson.

Mope-Eyed Ladyship, her. 'Dame Fortune': late C.17—early 18 personification. Ned Ward, 1703 (Mathews). Cf. Old Harriadan.

moper. A deserter: military: later C.19. Baumann.

mopes, the. Low spirits, esp. if shown: from ca. 1825: coll. till C.20, then S.E. Hone, 'I have got the mopes'; Thackeray. OED.

mopey as a wet hen. Glum: NZ and Aus. coll.: C.20. B., 1941, 1942.

moph. Var. of muff, a fool. Bee, 1823.—2. See moff.

mophy. (Of a youth) delicate and well-groomed: seamen's: late C.19—early 20. (Bowen.) Prob. ex mophrodite (Fielding, 1942), earlier morphrodite (Vanbrugh, 1706), sol. form of 'hermaphrodite' (OED). See moff.

mopoke. See morepork.

mopper-up. A member of a mopping-up party (see mop up, v., 6): military: WW1+. The Times, 27 Nov. 1917, 'Ten men detailed as moppers-up' (W.). Cf.:

Mopper-Up, the. A fast goods-train travelling to London with food-supplies: railwaymen's: from ca. 1920. (Daily Telegraph, 15 Aug. 1936.) Cf. mop up, v., 3. moppery. The head: 1821 (Pierce Egan, Life in London); † by 1870. The site of one's mop.

moppie or -y. One of a cleaning-up party: Services: since ca. 1925. Ex the mop he wields so vigorously.

mopping-up, n. See mop-up, n. also mop up, v., 6. Adj. to latter of these.

mopping up the miles, vbl n. Speeding: motorists' coll. —1935. Ex mop up, v., 2.

moppy. Drunk: c.: from ca. 1820; † by 1915. Egan's Grose.

mops, in the. A perversion, ca. 1830–1910, of in the mopes. See mopes.

mops and brooms. Half-tipsy: coll.: 1814 (Sporting Magazine); Hardy (OED); ob. With be. Ex the drinking customary at mops (statute hiring-fairs), the girls carrying a mop or a broom to indicate the kind of work they desired.—2. Hence, in feel all mops and brooms, to be full of bitterness and sorrow: low:—1887 (Baumann).

mops(e)y. A (gen. short) homely or, esp., dowdy woman: late C.17–20: coll. till ca. 1830, then S.E.; † by 1910. (B.E., Grose.) Ex mopsy, an endearment.

mopstick. See mop-stick.

mopus. A moping, or a dull, stupid, person: coll.: ca. 1690–1820; then extant only in dial. (B.E., Johnson.) Ex S.E. mope, n. and v.—2. A small coin: ca. 1690–1860: c. >, ca. 1750, s. (B.E.; Tai's Edinburgh Review, 1841.) The term survived, among Liverpool street arabs, well into C.20: witness Arab.—3. In pl (often mopusses), money: ca. 1765–1905: low. Anon., The Stratford Jubilee, 1769, 'If she has the mopus's, I'll have her, as snug as a bug in a rug'; 1892, M. Williams (OED). ?ex Sir Giles Mompesson, an early C.17 monopolist.

moral. Likeness; counterpart. Rare except in the very moral of: low coll.: 1757, Smollett; G. Parker, Smedley, 'Rolf Boldrewood'. Slightly ob. Perhaps ex the † S.E. sense, a symbolical figure, but prob. by a sol. for model.—2. A 'moral certainty', which it shortens: orig. and still mainly racing; 1861, Whyte-Melville; 1869, J. Greenwood, 'Everything that is highly promising becomes, in the slang of the advertising tipster, moral' (OED).

moral Cremorne, the. The Fisheries Exhibition of: 1883: Society. Ware, 'So named because there had been no illumination fêtes since the closing of immoral Cremorne Gardens'.

moral-shocker. A novel dealing with sex: ca. 1890–1914: Fleet Street. Loose for morals-shocker. Cf. hill-topper, q.v.

Morality. See TAVERN TERMS, §3d, in Appendix.

Moray coach. A cart: Scots joc. coll.: C.19.

morbs. In get or got the morbs, to become, to be, morbid or melancholy: Society: ca. 1880–1910. (Ware.) Cf. synon. mopes.

more unnecessarily preceding comparative of adj. and adv.: in early Mod. English, permissible; since ca. 1720, only in poetry and when unintentional, hence sol. Cf. most.—2. The more, as in 'more fool you!': coll.:—1834. Ainsworth; Baumann.—3. Moreover: coll.: from ca. 1930. Daily Telegraph, 19 Oct. 1935 (boxing notes).

more about (him, her) than most, have. As in 'She has more about her than most girls of her age and position', more ability, intelligence, sense: since ca. 1945, in my memory; a coll. that, by 1977, was familiar S.E. Cf. 'He has much more to him than most'.

more ballocks (or bollocks) than brains. 'Was applied to any hefty character with little "malam" [= mallum, q.v.] (P.V. Harris): Services': C.20. Cf. more guts...

more beef! A c.p., uttered when a heavy load or a hard task demands the help of one or two more men: Can.: since ca. 1910. (Leechman.)

more curtains! 'Shouted by lary Cockney girls when a person clad in an evening frock passes by' (Julian Franklyn, 1939): c.p.: ca. 1910–50.

more dirt the less hurt. Fox-hunting c.p.: mid-C.19. See DCpp.

more firma the less terra, the. 'A c.p. used by those who distrust air travel' (B.P.): mostly Aus.: since ca. 1950. A pun on L. terra, land, and terror.

more guts than brains. Silly; brainless: late C.18–20. (Grose, 1st ed.) Also have more... Cf. more ballocks...; guts in (one's) brains.

more hair on your chest! Good for you!: Aus.: C.20. B., 1942.

more hair there than anywhere. Itself a c.p., it evokes the c.p. response, on a cat's back, but the implication is 'around girl's pudend': mostly Can.: since ca. 1950.

more holy than righteous. Domestic c.p. applied to socks badly in need of darning: since late C.19, perhaps earlier. Punning holey. Applied orig. also to persons, and to garments other than socks.

more kicks than ha'pence. See kicks than...

more kid in him than a goat in the family way. Incurably addicted to 'kidding': Aus. c.p.: since ca. 1930. B., 1959.

more know Tom Fool than Tom Fool knows. A semi-proverbial c.p. of C.18—early 20. Defoe; F. & H., 'A sarcastic retort on failing to recognise, or professing to be unacquainted with, a person saluting'.

more like, preposition. Nearer: coll.: C.20. W. Headlam, 1902, '... 4... I gladly adopted more like 12.' OED.—2. Abbr. more like it, better, more acceptable or reasonable or sensible: coll.: C.20.

more money than (one) could poke a stick at. A great deal of money: Aus.: (?) since ca. 1930. Frank Hardy, Billy Borker Yarns Again, 1967.

more points (to one) than a porcupine, have. (Usu. of a man) to possess many-good points: Aus.: C.20. (B.P.) Partly joc., partly raffish. 'Since there are no porcupines in Australia, a North American origin seems likely' (Claiborne).

more power to your elbow! A c.p. of encouragement: late C.19–20. Of Anglo-Irish origin.

more R than F. A c.p. applied, ca. 1860–1910, to one who is more rogue than fool; esp. to a servant that seemed foolish.

more sauce than pig, ca. 1970–1975, like more squeak than wool, C.18, indicates greater show than substance. Proverbial coll.: resp. B.E., Swift; North. Cf. the C.19–20 dial. more poke (bag) than pudding. Apperson.

more so, adv. An intensive, so representing the omitted part: coll. till C.20, then S.E.: 1876, Besant & Rice, 'The English servant was dressed like his master, but "more-so"' (OED). Often only more so (Milliken, 1892).

more (adj.) than soft Mick. An intensification of the adj.: army: 1950s. Cf. drunk as soft Mick. (P.B.) See soft mick.

more than somewhat. Damon Runyon's famous intensifier had some vogue in Britain around mid-C.20. See DCpp.

more than that! 'A Naval expression emphasising that their party, job or pay exceeds anything that you can put forward in competition' (H.U.): lowerdeck c.p.: since ca. 1930. Granville, 'A fabulous amount. "Some lovely dames at the dance last night, lusher than that."' more than the cat and his skin, you can't have. A semi-proverbial, proletarian c.p.: later C.19–early 20. (Baumann.) A var. of having one's cake and eating it too.

more than you've had hot dinners. As in 'She's had more men than you've had hot dinners': raffish c.p.: C.20. P.B.: but this hyperbole may be used in any boast, e.g. 'I've duffed up more blokes ...'

more war! A Cockney c.p. directed at a street quarrel, esp. among women: 1898. In ref. to the Spanish-American War. Ware.

more wind in your jib! The c.p. of sailors in a ship with four wind on meeting another with a fair wind: mid-C.19–20. Bowen. (Thus will the wishers' ship gain a fair wind.)

more wrinkles than inches. (Weather or man) feeling extremely cold: perhaps orig. RN, > raffish widespread: C.20. Cdr C. Parsons, 1973, 'Ex supposed appearance of prepuce'—but surely of the entire penis.

more you cry the less you'll piss! the. A sort of consolation. See cry, v., 2.

moreish (occ. more-ish), morish. That makes one desire more: coll.: from ca. 1706, though not in print till 1738. Swift, 'Lady S. How do you like this tea, Colonel? Col. Well enough, Madam; but methinks 'tis a little more-ish.'

morepork (kind of a fellow). A 'dull dog'; a fool: Aus. coll.: from ca. 1840; very ob. (R. Howitt, 1845; 'Rolf Boldrewood', 1890.) Ex the bird named more properly mopoke. (Morris.) Wilkes's last example, dated 1910, does use the form mopoke.—2. A simpleton: Aus., C.20; by mid-C.20 still extant as rural s. B., 1959.

Moreton; Moreton Bay (fig). An informer to the police: Aus. c. See gig, n., 10; fizz-gig, 2; and Moreton in AUSTRALIAN UNDERWORLD, in Appendix.

morgan rattler. 'A cane or stick with a knob of lead at one or both ends, and short enough to be carried up the sleeve': low s. (—1902) ex dial. (—1866); † by 1910. (EDD.) Prob. ex a man's name. Cf. cash and neddy in analogous senses.

Morgan's orchard. In cribbage, 4: players': C.20. As Prof. F.E.L. Priestley points out, 4 contains two pairs (pears). Cf.—2. In the game of poker, it is 9: C.20. Anecdotal ex Morgan, a poker-player famous at end of C.19 as being a character and as having a speech defect; he used to say 'tree trees' for 'three trees'. Hence, 9=three trees. (I do not guarantee the authenticity of this.)

Morgue, the. At Messrs Bickers' bookshop in Leicester Square (it moved to Charles Street, Haymarket) in the 1890s, 'a side-window ... packed with "remainders", the memento mori of the publisher's reader and the town traveller alike' (Arthur Waugh in the Spectator, 25 Jan. 1935): London book-world s. of the period.—2. Obituary press-cuttings;

obituaries kept ready for notabilities likely to die shortly: journalistic: C.20. This 'department' also contains all the necessary information about anyone likely, for any reason at all, to become news.—3. See the Pauper's Grave.

morguey manor. 'A district dangerous for "screwing" jobs [=burglaries]. A well-policed district' (Tempest): c.: mid-C.20.

morish. See moreish.

mark. A policeman: c.: late C.19–early 20. (Clark & Richardson, 1889.) Prob. a corruption of Romany mo(o)s(h)kero, a constable; cf. muskra, q.v. morley. See mauley and slanger.

Mormons. See came over ...

morning. An early drink: 1718 (Ramsay: OED); 1854, R.W. Van der Kiste: mostly Scots: coll. till ca. 1860, then S.E. Also, from ca. 1890, morning-rouser.—2. As Morning!, Good morning!: coll.: from ca. 1870. 'Henry Seton Merriman', 1895, "'Morning—morning!" he cried. "Good morning", replied Luke' (OED). Contrast next entry.—3. A morning paper: see Sunday.

morning! or morning to you!, or the top of the morning to you! (Cheerily) good morning!: from ca. 1870: orig. and still mainly Anglo-Irish: coll.

morning after the night before, the. A coll. c.p. applied to the effects, or to a person showing the effects, of a drinking-bout: C.20.

morning-drop. The gallows: ca. 1810–90: ?orig. c. Lex. Bal.; Baumann.

morning glory. 'Sexual intercourse before getting dressed in the morning' (B.P., 1974): Aus.: later C.20. Ex the flower-name.

morning hills. † Winchester College term. Mansfield, 1866, 'On holidays and Remedies we were turned out for a couple of hours on to St. Catherine's Hill ... once before breakfast (Morning Hills), and again in the afternoon (Middle Hills).'

morning prayers. See prayers.

morning-rouser. See morning, 1. Cf. eye-opener, q.v.

morning sneak. One who robs shops or shops while—before the household is up or the staff arrived—the servant or the shopman is cleaning steps, windows, etc.: c.:—1812; ob. by 1890, † by 1920. Vaux.—2. In C.18 c., the morning sneak is 'to walk about the Streets in a Morning betimes, and 'sping [sic] any Body to go out of Doors, then immediately the Thief goes in,' as The Regulator, 1718, has it.

morning's morning. A var. (ca. 1895–1914) of morning. 1. morocco, in. Naked: gipsy s.: C.19–early 20. Longfellow. (OED.) Cf. leather, n.

morocco man. An agent of a fraudulent lottery assurance: ca. 1795–1830: s. > coll. Colquhoun, Police of the Metropolis, 3rd ed., 1796. OED.

moron. A half-wit: orig. (ca. 1922), US; anglicised in 1929 as a coll. (Norah James in Sleeveless Errand, Feb. 1929.) See OED Sup. and Mencken, The American Language. Ex the technical sense, 'one of the highest type of feeble-minded' (US: 1910), itself ex Gr. μωρός, foolishly stupid.—2. See came over with the morons.

Morpheus, in the arms of. Asleep: coll.: C.19–20. Morpheus is properly the god of dreams.

morphrodite. See mophy.

morrice, morris. To be hanged: c. of ca. 1720–70. A New Canting Dict.—2. (Often with off. Grose, 1st ed.) To decamp; depart: from ca. 1760; ob. Cowper, 1765; Grose; Dickens; Grenville Murray, 'The fellows ... flirt with them, and morris off to town in spring for better amusement.' Var., late C.18–late 19, do a morrice or morris.—3. To move rapidly: sporting: ca. 1825–60. OED.—4. To die: boxers': ca. 1810–60. Anon., Every Night Book, 1827.

Morris, the. 'The Cowley works [of British Leyland > Austin Rover, at Oxford], which gave its name to William Morris's first successful [car] model in 1915, is still known locally as "the Morris"' (New Society, 22 July 1982).

Morrison mousetrap. A Morrison table air-raid shelter, a prefabricated metal affair for erection inside the home: 1941+. Ex the sides of wire-work. (New Statesman, 30 Aug. 1941.) Cf.:-

Morrison time. Double British Summer time: coll.: 1940–5 (Minister of Home Security: the Rt Hon. Herbert Morrison).

Morse (or Moss) caught his mare, as. Asleep. See napping, 3.

mort; occ. morte (early). A woman: c.: ca. 1530–1890. Awdelay; B.E., 'a Wife, Woman, or Wench'; Disraeli. As 'older woman; wife' it remains current in market-traders' argot, later C.20. (M.T.).—2. A harlot; a near-harlot: from ca. 1565: c., † by 1910. Harman.—3. A yeoman's daughter: c.: late C.17–18. (B.E., Grose.) Also mot, late C.18–19 only: 'Arabian' Burton. All senses prob. cognate with or ex Dutch mot as in mot-huys, a brothel (Hexham); note, however, that Dr John Sampson, in TLS, 21 June 1928, derived mort ex amourette.—4. An honest, old-fashioned person: Aus.: since early 1960s. Ex Fr. mort, dead. (B.P.) Presumably a youngster's view of a 'square'.—5. As strolling or walking mort, a female tramps: c.: late C.16–19. Chettle (walking).—6. See autem; dimber; kinchen; wap-apace.

mortal. Very great; 'awful': coll.: from ca. 1715; ob. Countess Cowper, 1716, '[They] take mortal pains to make the Princess think well of the Tories'; Dickens.—2. 'As an emphatic expletive (with any, every, or a negative): coll.: 1609, Jonson, 'By no mortal means (!)'; 'every mortal thing', 1843. Cf. 'no earthly chance'.—3. Tediously long: 1820, Scott, 'Three mortal hours'; Stevenson, 'They performed a piece ... in five mortal acts'.—4. Short for mortal drunk (cf. at mortality): from ca. 1808: Scots and Northern coll. and dial.; ob. Jamieson's Dict.; Stevenson & Obourne. (For all four senses, OED.) mortal, adv. Excessively; 'deadly': C.15–early 20: S.E. till ca. 1750; then, as in Warburton, coll. till ca. 1820, after which it is low coll. (as in Thackeray's 'mortal angry') and dial. OED.

mortallious. Very drunk: mostly lower classes': C.19–20. Ex 'mortal drunk'.

mortally. Extremely; 'awfully': coll.: mid-C.18–early 20. E.g. mortally drunk. Cf. mortal, adv.

mortar. Abbr. of mortar-board, q.v.: low coll.: from ca. 1870. (The C.17 mortar = mortier and is S.E.; F. & H., at mortar-board, errs notably).—2. The female pudend: low: C.19–early 20.—3. In have (one's) finger in (the) mortar, to dabble in building: coll.: ca. 1630–1750. (Berkeley MSS., 1639; Gerbier, Discourse of Building, 1662; Swift.) See Apperson. Cf. C.20 use of phrase bricks and mortar for 'house property'.

mortar and trowel. A towel: rhyming s.: late C.19–early 20.

mortar-board. A trencher-cap, worn at universities and some Public Schools: coll.: 1853, 'Cuthbert Bede', "'I don't mind this 'ere mortarboard'."

mortar-pounder. A ship's doctor: nautical: late C.19–20. Bowen.

mortgage-deed. A pawn-ticket: later C.19. (H., 3rd ed.) Cf. tombstone, q.v.

Mort's Dock. Penis: MN: 1960s–70s. Peppitt, 1976, writes: 'Sydney dockers threaten to grab you by/in a mythical part of the port's complex, Mort's Dock. It is rhyming slang for cock. Unique to Sydney in my experience.' Therefore classifiable as Sydney dockers'.

mortuary. The fish storage room of a trawler: trawlermen's: C.20. Steven Piper, The North Ships, 1974: 'I climbed down into ... the quiet and chilly atmosphere of what was known as the mortuary.'

mos. (Esp. in show no mos.) Animosity: tailors': from ca. 1860. B. & L.—2. See mozzie, a mosquito, and moz, 2.

mosca. Occ. var. of mosker.

moschkener. See moskener.

Moscow. Bayswater: Londoners': ca. 1815–70. Spy, II, 1826.—2. A pawnshop: Aus.: C.20. (B., 1943.) Hence gone to, or in, Moscow, in pawn. (Caddie, A Sydney Barmaid, 1953.) See:-

Moscow, v. To pawn: Aus.: C.20. (B., 1943.) A folk-etymological alteration of moskener, q.v.

Moscow mule. 'Just add two ounces of vodka to a lager, and a couple of cubes of ice. ... It should have a splash of lime juice as well' (Andrew York, The Co-Ordinator, 1967): bar-rooms': since ca. 1950. Moscow refers to the vodka, mule to the 'kick'.

Moses. As a (low) coll. asseveration or exclamation, it occurs by itself, Moses!, from ca. 1858, and in, e.g., by the holy (jumping mother of) Moses!: 1876, Hindley (in full); by the piper that played before Moses!: 1890, Hume Nesbit; Holy Moses!: 1855, Strang, and still current, later C.20; walking Moses!:—1923 (Manchon).—2. See prickly Moses, mimosa, and stand Moses.

mosey (off). To decamp; depart quickly: orig. US (—1836); adopted ca. 1890; superseded by sense 2. (The other US sense, to hasten, be 'lively', bustle about, has not been Anglicised—contrast sense 2.) See esp. Thornton. ?etym.—2. Often with adv., about, along, around, off, over, etc.: to jog along (OED quotes Kipling, 1891, 'I'll mosey along somehow'); in C.20, even less active than 'jog', more 'to stroll idly, perhaps lingering vaguely in the hope that some circumstance, pleasant or of interest, may develop out of it' (L.A., 1974), as 'I think perhaps I'll just mosey over to the NAAFI—anyone coming?' (P.B.).

mosh. To leave a restaurant without paying: c.: later C.19–early 20. A deliberate corruption of mooch, v., 2, q.v., though imm. ex the mosh, this practice:—1857 ('Ducange Anglicus'); ob. by 1930.—2. V.t., to pawn: c.:—1923 (Manchon). A rare corruption of mosk.

mosh game. An illegal game: low Aus.: since ca. 1910. (Vince Kelley, The Bogeyman, 1956.) ?ex prec., 1.

mosiqui. A little girl; showmen's: since ca. 1870; ob. by 1950. John o' London's Weekly, 4 Mar. 1949.

mosk. To 'moskeneer' (q.v.), which it shortens: C.20: perhaps orig. c.

moskeen. Broke, without money: RAF in Iraq: ca. 1920–55. C.H. Ward-Jackson, Airman's Songbook, 1945, p. 123.

moskeneer, occ. moskeener, moshkener, moskuiner. To pawn (v.t. or i.) for more than the article is worth: ?orig. (—1874), c. > low. H., 5th ed.; Henley, 1887, 'Fiddle, or fence, or mace, or mack; Or moskeneer, or flash the drag'. Ex modern Hebrew mishken, to pawn, by Yiddish corruption (OED).—2. Hence, he who does this (—1893), as in P.H. Emerson. Cf. mosker.

moskeneering. The profession of pawing at unfair prices: see prec. and mosking.

mosker (occ. mosca). A professional pawner at prices unfair to the pawnbrokers: low (? orig. c.): later C.19–20. (Daily Telegraph, 9 July 1883, a long article.) Also, this practice, and as v.: Mr Peter Bilborough cites Law Notes, 35, p. 323, Nov. 1916. Cf. Moscow, n., 2, and v.—2. In C.20 c., esp. a professional pledger of 'fired' sapphires, paste diamonds, and the like who sells his pawn-tickets at a profit.

mosking. Ex mosk, q.v., a C.20 var. of moskeneering, q.v.: low (?orig. c.): 1902, the Standard, June 5 (OED), 'The practice of obtaining a living by professional pawning—known as "mosking", which word has almost superseded moskeneering'.

mosky. A dolphin: nautical: late C.19–20. Bowen. Whence? Moslem broker is a folk-etymological var., since ca. 1930, of mozzle and brocha. Franklyn.

mosque. A church; a chapel: either c. or low: ca. 1780–1830. G. Parker.

moos. Lead: c.: from ca. 1787; ob. Grose, 2nd ed., 'Because both are found on the tops of buildings'. Cf. blue pigeon, q.v.—2. Money: ?orig. (—1859), US, though adumbrated in early C.17; ob. Prob. ex a rolling stone gathers no moos.

Moss Bros. Messrs Moss Brothers, Ltd, the firm from which so many people hire their formal (masculine) clothes: esp. Londoners': since ca. 1920. Ex conventional abbr. bros, brothers.

Moss caught his mare. See napping, 3.

moss-dog. A stingy fellow; a miser: low and Services':—1914 (F. & G.). Ex moss, 2.

moss-jumper. A rustic: late C.18–mid-19. Matthew Barker, L.L.G., 30 Aug. 1823 (Moe).

Mossie, mossie. The Cape sparrow: S. African coll.: from ca. 1870. (Layard & Sharp, The Birds of South Africa, 1875–84.) Ex Dutch musch, a sparrow. Pettman.—2. As ‘mosquito’, see mozzie.

mossing, vbl n. Depositing things in pawn: mostly among Londoners: C.20. (Val Davis, Phenomena in Crime, 1941.) A corruption of mosk.

mossker. An occ. var. of mosker, q.v.

mossoo. Monsieur, a Frenchman: low coll. (almost sol.): 1870; ob. Cf. mounseer. P.B.: also adj., and earlier. Albert Smith, To China and Back, has, in his diary entry for 10 Sep. 1858, ‘Mossoo Marines’, and for 12 Nov. 1858, ‘a Mossoo doctor’.

mossy. Dull; stupid: s. or joc. coll.: ca. 1595–1605. ‘Mossy idiots’, 1597 (OED). For etym., cf. US mossback.—2. (Of persons) hairy: C.20.—3. See moz, 2.

mossy agate. ‘If something was “just the thing” my Father used to say “It’s just the mossy agate”’. He was from the Sheffield–Grimsby area’ (Peter Chambers, 1980): early C.20. Presumably ex the S.E. moss-agate, perhaps applied to a marble; cf. synon. just my alley-marble. (P.B.)

mossy-back. An old-fashioned person: adopted, ca. 1890, ex US; ob. by 1930.

mossyface; old mossyface. The ace of spades: low: later C.19. Perhaps ex:—2. The female pudend: low: late C.18–mid-19. Grose, 2nd ed.—3. Mossy Face: ‘Air Force name for the Bois d’Havincourt on the Western Front’ (F. & G.): WW1.

most, the. The best, superlatively good, extremely attractive, as in ‘He’s the most’: teenagers’ and office- and shop-girls’: since ca. 1957. (Gilderdale.) Adopted ex Can., where current since ca. 1955. (Leechman).—2. See all there but the most...

mostest, with the, adv. and adj. With—or having—every attraction: adopted, ca. 1959, ex US: esp. among jazz-addicts and beatniks. Outside the US, best known as ‘the hostess with the mostest’, from the musical Call Me Madam (Irving Berlin, ‘book’ by R. Crouse and H. Lindsay), prod., New York, 1950.—2. Also used, in later C.20, as a joc. superlative, as in ‘Let’s see then who can get there fastest with the mostest’. (P.B.) mot, mott. A girl: c.: 1785 (Grose); ob. by 1880, † by 1915, except in Ireland, where it has, since late C.19 (if not earlier), been used in low s., not necessarily pej. But mot of the ken (Mayhew) = matron of the establishment. A thinned form of mort. P.B.: as mot, it occurs in Patrick Campbell, ‘A Cool Figure in White’, P-P-Penguin Patrick Campbell, 1965, p. 145. Mrs C. Raab: the Dublin form of the word is motte, ex Fr.—2. A harlot: c.: from ca. 1790; ob. (Grose, Vaux, Maginn, Henley.) A var. of mort.—3. The female pudend: army: mid-C.20. ‘Her great big, hairy mott’, in a mock-Irish accent, was a pun on the insect moth. (P.B.) mot, v.i. To go wenching: c.: C.19–early 20. Ex prec., 2.—2. See motte.

mot-cart. A brougham: low (prob. orig. c.): ca. 1820–70.—2. A mattress: low:—1890 (B. & L.). Ex mot, n., 2.

mot-case. A brothel: c.: mid-C.19–early 20. (Manchon.) Ex mot, n., 2.

mote, v.i., with vbl n. moting. To drive or ride in a motor-car: coll.: 1890–ca. 1907. A prospectus of June 1890 (moting); Westminster Gazette, 18 Jan. 1898, ‘Leaving London about midday we shall mote to Ascot’ (OED).—2. Hence, (of a vehicle, hence of an athlete) to move speedily: Aus.: C.20. H.J. Oliver, Bulletin of the Australian English Association, July 1937.—3. Hence, to walk: Aus.: since ca. 1935. Ruth Park, 1950.

moth. A harlot: low: later C.19–early 20. E.P.: either ex the attraction of night-lights or ex † S.E. sense ‘vermin’: P.B.: or cf. mot, n., senses 2 and 3, q.v.

mothball, v. To set on one side, against poss. future use, as in, e.g., ‘After being “mothballed” for two years because of lack of support, a brief meeting of the committee was held recently’ (Library Association Record, Feb. 1979): committeemen’s coll. > j.: later C.20. (P.B.) Ex-mothball fleet. A reserve fleet: RN coll. > j.: since ca. 1945. It is chemically ‘cocooned’, as Claiborne notes, 1976, ‘because the ships have been stored away, like woollens in mothballs’.

mothballer. A ship recalled to service, as during the Suez crisis of 1956, from the mothball fleet (see prec.): RN: since ca. 1946. (P.B.)

mothballs. Tracer bullets: Aus. Servicemen’s: WW2. B., 1943.

mother. A female bawd: low coll.: late C.17–20, but in C.18 gen., and in C.19–20 only, applied to the keeper of a brothel. (B.E., Grose.) Also, in ref., the mother. Also m. abess (C.18–mid-19; see abess), m. damnable, m. midnight, m. of the maids, qq.v.—2. Wife, if also a mother: Cockney coll.: from ca. 1880. E.g. ‘I’ll ask mother about that.’ Ex the familiar S.E. mother, vocative to a wife and mother of one’s children.—3. (Occ. M.-) A WW1 Western Front nickname for various big howitzers (9-2s). (F. & G.) A 12-inch was gen. called grandmother; a 15-inch, great-grandmother (B. & P.).

—4. A seagull: trawlermen’s: C.20. W. Mitford, Lovely She Goes, 1969.—5. Mother-ship of any naval group of vessels: RN coll. (? > j.): late C.19–20. ‘Taffrail’, The Sub, 1917.—6. ‘One very senior secretary—in the jargon, these ladies were known as “mothers”’ (John Le Carré, The Honourable Schoolboy, 1977): espionage: later C.20.—7. A low term of abuse: adopted, later 1970s, ex US pej. mother-fucker, q.v. Phantom, 1979.—8. In did you tell your mother?, and what will your mother say?, variants of does your mother know you’re out?, q.v.—9. See be mother; man before his mother.

—10. Abbr.,—1909 (Ware) of:

mother and daughter. Water: rhyming s.:—1864 (H., 3rd ed.); ob. by 1960 (Franklyn).—2. A quarter post: rhyming s.: C.20. ‘Used by Thames watermen with reference to the posts along London’s river frontage at which a tug, a lighter, or other craft may be tied up’ (Franklyn 2nd).

Mother Bunch. Water: Cockneys’: ca. 1590–1640. Dekker, The Shoemaker’s Holiday (performed in 1599), IV, iv, Firk, ‘Am I sure that Paul’s steeple is a handful higher than London Stone, or that the Pissing-Conduit leaks nothing but pure Mother Bunch? Am I sure that I am lusty Firk? God’s nails, do you think I am so base to gull you?’ Mother Bunch was a well-known London ale-house ‘hostess’, as mentioned in Pasquil’s Jests, 1604.—2. A short, stout woman: lower classes’ coll.:—1923 (Manchon); ob. by mid-C.20.

Mother Carey’s chickens. Snow: nautical:—1864 (H., 3rd ed.).—2. Applied to faring alike and paying the same: ca. 1820–50. ‘Jon Bee.’—3. Applied to a small gun: RN: C.20. Bowen.

mother damnable. A female brothel-manager: C.19–early 20. See mother, 1.

mother-fucker. A very low term of abuse: adopted, ex US, earlyish 1970s. See also mother, 7, and Remf.

Mother Hubbard. A cupboard: rhyming s.: late C.19–20.

mother-in-law. A step-mother: C.16–20: S.E. till ca. 1860; then catachrestic.—2. A mixture of ‘old and bitter’ (sc. ales), hence the etym.: since latish C.19 (Daily Telegraph, 3 July 1884.) Mostly public-house. Cf.:—3. A mixture of stout and bitter: Aus. and Brit. public-house: since ca. 1945. B., 1953.

mother-in-law’s bit. A small piece: coll.: from ca. 1780 Grose, who thereby designates a step-mother; cf. prec., 1.

mother-judge (of pricks). A brothel proprietress: mostly, RN officers’: C.20. (A Naval correspondent, 1973.)

Mother Knab (or Nab)-Cony. A bawd: late C.17–early 18. See HARLOTS, in Appendix.

mother know you’re out? See does your mother...

mother midnight. A female bawd: low: late C.17–18. B.E.—2. A midwife: low: late C.17–20; ob. The latter sense (B.E., Grose) always predominated.

mother of all saints or souls,—of masons,—of St Patrick. The female pudend: low: resp. Bridges, 1772; Grose, 3rd ed. (say 1791). Likewise ob. by early C.20; ca. 1810–70, 'Jon Bee'; Lex. Bal., 1811; Anglo-Irish, ob. by early C.20. All are low.

mother of pearl. A girl: rhyming: since ca. 1870 But this very Cockney term occurs only in my old mother of pearl, my old girl, my wife; often shortened to mother—to the confusion of non-Cockneys. Franklyn, Rhyming.

mother of that was a whisker, the. A c.p. retort to an improbable story: ca. 1850–1900. Cf. the earlier, mainly dial., synon. the dam of that was a whisker, applied esp. to a big lie.

mother of the maids. A female brothel-keeper: low coll.: ca. 1787–1830. (Grose, 2nd ed.) Ex—and in derision of—the ca. 1570–1800 title of the head of the maids of honour in a Royal household.

Mother of the Modern Drama. A certain English actress that, in 1884, 'took up high matronly ground in a lecture... at Birmingham': theatrical: 1884–ca. 1910. (Ware.) She spoke of retiring at the age of forty: she had already passed that age.

mother sold her mangle?, has your. An urban (mostly London) c.p. of no special application: somewhat low: ca. 1870–1900.

mother or grandmother to suck eggs, teach (one's). See teach (one's) grandmother...

motherer. A shepherd: Aus. coll.: late C.19–20. B., 1942.

motherless. 'Used as an intensive, esp. in the phrase "motherless broke"', (Wilkes): Aus. low: late C.19–20. E.S. Sorensen, Murty Brown, 1925, 'That leaves me stony, motherless broke again' (Wilkes).

mother's. Gin (the spirits): mostly Londoners', esp. Cockneys': C.20 Elliptical for mother's ruin. (If only one could remember all one has known! I was reminded of it only when I noticed it in Brian Freeborn's fringe-of-the-underworld realistic novel, Good Luck, Mister Cain, 1976.)

mother's blessing (or capitalised). Proletarian (—1861; ob. by 1930), as in Mayhew, 'My husband's bedridden, and can't do nothink but give the babies a dose of "Mother's Blessing" (that's laudanum, sir, or some sich stuff) to sleep 'em when they's squally.'

mother's bright boy. Coll., earlier C.20, synon. of mother's white-haired boy.

mother's meeting. 'The captain's address to a ship's company': RN lowerdeck: from ca. 1912. F. & G.

mother's milk. Gin: from ca. 1820: low. Moncrieff. —2. Hence, strong drink of any kind: Sinks, 1848, defines it either as this, or, more esp., rum: ca. 1840–90.

mother's (or -s) ruin. Gin: late C.19–20; in later C.20, usu. joc. 'Perhaps it is rhyming s.', suggested E.P.; a poor rhyme—more likely literal. (P.B.) mother's white-haired boy. A mother's darling: coll., gen. derisive: from ca. 1895.

motor, n. A fast man about town: London Society: 1896–ca. 99. Ware.—2. A tutor for examinations: Oxford University: 1897–ca. 1900. (Ibid.) Simply a pun on coach.—3. A motor-car: coll.: since ca. 1920.

motor, v. To set going the motor (of boat or car): motorists' coll.: from ca. 1928. Peter Chamberlain, 'They'd started to motor the damn thing.'—2. To go very well indeed, to proceed satisfactorily, as in "We really are motoring," executives are telling one another" (Observer, 20 Mar. 1983): coll.: later C.20. Ex sense 1, which had, by mid-C.20, come to imply 'to travel at speed'—in all sorts of vehicle.

motor mech. Motor mechanic: RN coll.: C.20. Granville.

motsa or motser. A large sum of money ('He made a motsa'): Aus.: since ca. 1920. Yiddish. (B., 1943; Edwin Morrisby, 1958.) The Yiddish motsa is a an outside biscuit, about a foot in diameter.—2. Hence, in later C.20. 'a "certainty" that would ensure a [large gambling] win' (Wilkes, citing R. Beilby, No Medals for Aphrodite, 1970).

mott, n. See mot.

mott, v. To look hard—or to stare—at (someone): Aus. low, verging on c.: since ca. 1920. (B., 1953.) See also mot, v.

motte, the mons veneris, is very doubtfully eligible.

motter. 'Name given to the motor carriage on its very first official appearance in London on Lord Mayor's Day, 1896': Cockneys': 1896–8 (or 9). Ware. P.B.: my great-aunt, Kathleen Banister (1883–1978), was present on this notable occasion; her chief memory was of the remark heard on all sides: 'Doesn't it look funny without horses!'

motting, vbl. n. Wenching; whoring: C.19–20 low; ob. Ex mot, v., q.v.

motled. Dull, boring; disgusting: from ca. 1929; ephemeral. A.A. Milne, Two People, 1931 (ss quot'n at throw up).

motto. Drunk: tramps' c.:—1923 (Manchon). Ex Romany.

mottob, n. Bottom: back s.:—1859 (H., 2st ed.)

moty. A motor-car; also adj., as in moty car: sol. and dial.: C.20.

mouch, moucher, mouching. See resp. mooch, moocher, mooching.

mouchey, Mouchey. A Jew: low: from ca. 1860; ob. (H., 3rd ed.) Ex or cognate with Moses: cf. Ger. Mauschel (Baumann). Cf. Yid, q.v.—2. (Mouchy, mouchy, or Moochy.) The 'inevitable' nickname of men surnamed Reeves: mostly Army: earlier C.20. F. & G.

moulder. 'A lumbering boxer, one who fights as if he were moulding clay' (Bee. 1823): pugilists': ca. 1820–1900.

mouldering ruin. (Used predicatively.) Prehistoric; or merely very old: several British preparatory schools': since late 1940s.

mouldies. Old clothes; moult the mouldies, get rid of, change, one's old clothes: Cockney: 1895 (James Greenwood, Inside a 'Bus). I.e. clothes going mouldy. Cf. mouldy, adj., 2.

mouldy, n. A purser's steward: nautical: late C.19—early 20; very ob. Ex mouldy provisions.—2. A torpedo: RN: ca. 1910–25; adopted, via the RNAS, by the RAF in 1918 (Partridge, 1945). Hence, squirt a mouldy, to fire a torpedo (F. & G.). R/Adml P.W. Brock, who provides the RN dating, adds, 1969, 'I suspect that [it] was due to a feeling that it was an unethical and lousy, or at least unsporting, weapon' [rather than E.P.'s orig. tenuous association of the term with moles and mouldie-warps]. Cf. the adj., 2 and 4.

mouldy, adj. Grey-headed: from ca. 1860; ob. by 1930. (H., 3rd ed.) Cf. mouldy-pate, q.v.—2. Worthless: coll.: from ca. 1890, as in 'a mouldy offer'. Anticipated in 1876 by Stevenson, 'I have had to fight against pretty mouldy health' (OED). Ex the S.E. senses, decaying, decayed, lit. and fig. Cf. dusty.—3. Very drunk: Anglo-Irish (esp. public-houses): C.20 Cf. maggoty.—4. 'Miserable... "two blocks chocker"' (Granville): RN: C.20 mouldy fig. A person even duller and more boring than a 'wet blanket': beatniks': since ca. 1959. (Anderson.) Ex the following sense.—2. 'Applied by the young supporters of the "new jazz", or "cool" or "progressive" jazz, to those who remained loyal to the old, "traditional", "New Orleans", or "hot" jazz. This was during the strong revival of hot jazz in the 1950's. The term, which had a limited circulation, became virtually obsolete by 1960' (Prof. F.E.L. Priestley, 1967).

mouldy-grub. (Gen. in pl.) A travelling showman; an open-air mountebank: low: from ca. 1860; ob. (H., 3rd ed.) Hence, vbl n., mouldy-grubbing, the work of such persons. In S.E., the term is † for multigrubs.

mouldy one or 'un. A copper coin: low: from ca. 1850–1900. Ex colour. Cf. moulies.

mouldy-pate. A lackey with powdered head: ca. 1860–1900. H., 3rd ed.

moulies. Copper coins: low Cockney: late C.19–20. I.e. mouldies, ex the colour. Cf. mouldy one.

Moulin Rouge. A 'stooge': theatrical rhyming s.: C.20. (Red Daniells, 1980.) See 2nd quot'n at Farmer giles.

mouch-present (as in Awdelay). See munch-present.

mounseer or Mounseer. A Frenchman: mid-C.17–20: S.E. till C.19, then (low) coll. when not joc. S.E.; ob. (W.S. Gilbert, e.g. in Ruddigore.) Cf. mossoo, q.v. Baumann, 1887, has the nautical Mounseer Cockoolu, which was † by 1930.

Mount, mount. As the Mount, London Bridge: c.—1718 (C. Hitchin, The Regulator); † by 1900. In approaching it, one mounts a rise.—2. A saddle-horse: coll.: 1856, Whyte-Melville, 'A dangerous and uncontrollable mount'.—3. A copulation: low coll.: from ca. 1856; ob. Cf. ride.—4. Hence (?), a wife or a mistress: from ca. 1856: low.—5. Any machine; on a mount, driving a derrick, etc., etc.: Public Works'—1935. Ex S.E. mount, the mounting of a machine. Cf.:—6. 'The Mount. One's bicycle' (H. & P.): Services' joc.: since ca. 1930.—7. The Mount: Montreal: Can. tramps' c., hence gen. low s.: C.20. W.A. Gape, Half a Million Tramps, 1936. 'Because one of its most notable topographical features, right in the city, is Mount Royal, or Mont Royal, an extinct volcanic peak, one of a number in that part of Quebec Province' (Leechman).—8. In do a mount, to give evidence (B., 1942), a var. of mount the box, q.v.

mount. v. To get upon in order to copulate with: late C.16–20: S.E. till C.19, then (of animals) coll. or (of persons) low coll.—2. To supply, 'set up': ca. 1770–1890. D. Graham, 1775, 'The old woman... mounted [Tom] like a gentleman' (OED).—3. (Occ. v.i.) to prepare for representation on the stage: theatrical (—1874) coll. > S.E. in C.20 H., 5th ed.—4. In c., v.i., to swear falsely, commit perjury, for money: from ca. 1780; ob. G. Parker, Daily Chronicle, 6 Mar. 1902 (OED). Vbl n., mounting.—5. (Likewise in c.) mount for = bonnet for, q.v. Vaux, 1812; † by 1900.—6. To read the record of the previous convictions of a criminal: c.—1933 (Charles E. Leach). Cf. sense 3.

mount a corporal and four. To masturbate: low: late C.18–early 19. Grose (1st ed.), who glosses, 'the thumb is the corporal, the four fingers the privates'.

Mount Aldrich. Logic: Oxford University: earlier C.19. (Spy, 1825.) Ex Henry Aldrich (1647–1710), Dean of Christ Church from 1689; his A Compendium of Logic, 1691, 'was used at Oxford for many years' (Everyman's Encyclopaedia). Cf.:

Mount Euclid. Mathematics: Oxford: ca. 1810–60. Spy, 1825.
Mount Misery. The upper bridge; 'Monkey Island [q.v.], from its coldness in bad weather' (Bown): nautical: late C.19–20. 'Last night, when the fog kept you up on Mount Misery' (Frank Shaw, Atlantic Murder, 1932). Granville, however, defines the term as 'the crow's nest'.

Mount Pleasant. The mons veneris: low: from ca. 1880; ob. Ex the London district and the public eminence. Cf. Shooter's Hill.

mount the ass. To go bankrupt: coll.: late C.18–mid-19. Ex the old Fr. custom of mounting a bankrupt on an ass, face to tail, and leading him through the streets.

mount the bags. To climb over the trench parapet—made of sandbags—in order to attack the enemy: army s. (1915) >, by 1917, coll. Also over the bags; over the top.

mount the box. To give evidence in court, from the witness-box: Aus. c. (and police s.): since ca. 1930. (B., 1953.) Cf. do a mount, at mount, n., 8.

mount the cart. To be hanged: lower classes' coll.: C.18–early 19. (Ware.) The victims proceeded in a cart to the place of execution.

mount the red rag. To blush: coll.: C.19–early 20. Occ. red flag.

Mountain Devils. Tasmanians: Aus.: C.20 (B., 1943.) Ex the grotesque lizard so named—the thorn-devil or Moloch horridus—a native of Australia; with perhaps a ref. to the Tasmanian devil.

mountain dew. Irish or Scotch whiskey: 1816 (Scott): coll. >, ca. 1860. S.E. Bee, 1823, defines it, however, as contraband whiskey.

mountain of piety. See climb the mountain..., to pawn things.

mountain passes. Spectacles: rhyming s. (on glasses): C.20; by 1959, ob. Franklyn, Rhyming.

mountain-pecker. A sheep's head: low:—1859 (H., 1st ed.); † by 1910. Cf. synon. jemmy, 5.

Mountains, the. The Yorkshire moors: transport drivers': since ca. 1945.

Mountains of Mourne. Ash heaps: railwaymen's: C.20. (Railway, 2nd.) Ironic.

Mountbatten pink. That shade of pink paint which was used on invasion craft: Services: 1943–5. 'Suggested by Lord Louis Mountbatten when he was Chief of Combined Operations' (Granville).

Mounted Micks, the. The 4th (Royal Irish) Dragoon Guards. See quot'n at Buttermilks, and cf. the Micks, 1.

mounted pitcher. 'A grafter who talks and demonstrates from the top of his stall high above the crowd': grafters' coll., verging on j.: late C.19–20. (Cheapjack, 1934.) Hence, work mounted, to do this: id.: Ibid.:

mounteer. A hat: early C.18. See MISCELLANEA, in Appendix.
mounter. A swearer of false evidence, a giver of false bail: c.: from ca. 1780; ob. Implicit in G. Parker, 1781; Vaux. Ex mount, v., 4.—2. A peg-top of which the peg has, by constant play, been driven in until it is shorter than one's thumb-nail and must therefore be thrown away: London schoolchildren's: from ca. 1890.

Mounties, the. The Royal Canadian Mounted Police (first organised, 1873, as the Northwest Mounted Police): from ca. 1890. Can. s. >, ca. 1930, coll., and, via the cinema, well known overseas, esp. in the slogan 'The Mounties always get their man'. Occ., in singular, a member of that force.—2. Hence, the Camel Corps in Egypt: coll.: 1920s–30s. OED Sup.

mountful Maria (or Mary). 'The Dunkirk syren [sic], employed to give warning of enemy air attacks and long-range shelling' (F. & G.): 1916–18. F.&G., Maria; Gordon S. Maxwell, The Motor Launch Patrol, 1926, Mary. Cf. moaning Minnie, 1, a WW2 version.

Mournful Monday. The day (30 Oct. 1899) of the Brit. defeat by the Boers at Nicholson's Nek: journalistic coll. > S.E.: late 1899–ca. 1905. OED.

mourning. The adj. (bruisé) is S.E.—2. As n., two black eyes. Hence, half-mourning, one black eye. Gen., however, in mourning, bruised, black, either (of eyes) to be in mourning or (of persons) have one's eyes in mourning; H., 3rd ed., 1864, glosses a (full) suit of mourning as 'two black eyes': mostly pugilistic: 1814 (OED), Sporting Magazine; 1820, 'Peter Corcoran' Reynolds. See also Blackwall.—3. Both vbl forms are likewise, from ca. 1880, applied to dirty finger-nails. Hence the low, proletarian c.p., 'You're in mourning for the cat!', you have filthy finger-nails: C.20. Cf. mourning-band.—4. 'Aye, there she is—all in mourning for her fate,' cried Brace, evidently affected by the tottering condition of every thing aloft...—glossed thus, 'When a ship, or square-rigged vessel appears in mourning, the yards on each mast are alternately topped on end' (W.N. Glascock, Sailors and Saints (I, 215), 1829). A naval phrase, dating late C.18–19.

mourning-band. A dirty, esp. a black, edge to a finger-nail: from ca. 1880.

mourning-coach horse. 'A tall, solemn woman, dressed in black and many inky feathers': London middle classes': ca. 1850–90. Ware.

mourning shirt. As an unlaundered shirt, it is joc. S.E. (C.17–19).—2. A flannel shirt, since it requires comparatively infrequent laundering:—1908 (OED).

mouse, n. A raised bruise: pugilistic: 1854 ('Cuthbert Bede'); ob. Ex the bluish colour.—2. Hence, a black eye (cf. mourning, q.v.): from ca. 1860. H., 3rd ed.; 1895, Westminster Gazette, 'A black eye in true cockney slang is known as a mouse'.—3. F. & H. says that it also = the face, the mouth: prob. this is fleeting s. of the 1890s, but I find no other record of these two senses.—4. The penis: low: C.19–20; ob.—5. A woman, esp. a harlot, arrested for brawling or assault: London police's: late C.16–late 18. Middleton, Blurt Master-Constable, 1602 (Moe); R. King, 1781 (OED).—6. A barrister; occ. a solicitor (cf. the c. sense of mouthpiece): ca. 1888–1910: low (?orig. c.). Nat Gould.—7. A man who does not consummate his marriage on the first night: see quot'n at hole in one, 2.—8. A young woman; a girl: beatniks': late 1950s. (Anderson.) Cf. canary, 12, and contrast sense 5, above.—9. As exclam.: Be quiet, or talk low!; softly: low: C.19. Mostly US. Prob. ex quiet as a mouse.—10. See speak like a mouse...; warm as a mouse...; sure as a mouse...; are you a man...?

mouse, v. To punch, esp., in the face: C.17. Moe cites Roger Boyle, Mr Anthony, 1672, at V, iv. Cf. n., 2 and 3?

mouse-buttock. See mouse-piece.

mouse-digger. Winchester College, ca. 1840–1910. Mansfield, 1866, 'Plying the mouse digger (a kind of diminutive pick-axe) in search of mice'.

mouse-foot, by (the). A mild coll. oath: ca. 1560–1640. A. Dent, 1601, 'I know a man that will never swear but by Cocke, or Pie, or Mouse Foot. I hope you will not say these be oaths.'

mouse-hunt. A wench: coll.: late C.16–mid-17. (Shakespeare.) ?also mouse-hunter.

mouse-piece or -buttock. (In beef or mutton) that part immediately above the knee-joint: coll. and dial.: C.19–20; ob. In S.E., mouse.

mouse-trap. The mouth: low: C.19–early 20. Cf. mouse, n., 3.—2. The female pudend: low: mid-C.19–early 20. Cf. mouse, n., 4.—3. A sovereign: low: later C.19. Ex 'a fancied resemblance of the crown and shield to a set trap' (F. & H.).—4. A submarine: RAF: since early 1940. (Reader's Digest, Feb. 1941, 'Air Slangage', by Allan A. Michie & Isabel Waitt.) For the crew, that's what it is when caught on the surface by an aircraft.—5. Cheese; esp. 'ordinary', unnamed cheese; Services', perhaps orig. RN lowerdeck: C.20. Because it's the sort that traps are baited with. Granville; P.B.—6. See ball-bearing mouse-trap, an ungedled tom-cat; Morrison mouse-trap (occ. simply mouse-trap); parson's mouse-trap.

mouse. The female pudend: low: C.19–early 20. Cf. mouse-trap, 2, and cat, n., 5.—2. A battalion man, because, like a cat, he remains in quarters, to watch the mice: militia: C.19. C. James, in his Military Dict., 1802 (OED).—3. A detective (—1863; ob.): low (?orig. c.). OED.

mouses. See mices.

mouse(ey). (Of a car) having rust holes: secondhand dealers': since ca. 1950 (Woman's Own, 28 Feb. 1968.) Cf. tin-termites, q.v.

mouth. A noisy, prating, ignorant fellow: late C.17–mid-19; anticipated in Shakespeare. (Dyche.) Cf. mouth almighty, q.v.—2. A dupe (Cotton, 1680); hence, a fool (1753, Poulter): c. >, as in H., 3rd ed., low s.; ob. by 1930. With these two senses, cf. you are a mouth and (you) will die a lip, a low, abusive c.p. of ca. 1860–80 (H., 3rd ed.).—3. Spoken impudence (cf. cheek and esp. lip, q.v.): C.19–20; ob. Not very gen.—4. The dry or furry mouth caused by a debauch: low coll.: from ca. 1870. 'He has a mouth this morning.' Cf. hot coppers, and the relevant mouth like a... phrases below.

—5. Down in the mouth, dejected, is C.17–19 S.E. but, since ca. 1890, almost coll.—6. Laugh on the other side of (one's) mouth (or face) is S.E., but sing on the..., as in the threat, 'I'll make you sing...' is coll.: from ca. 1760.—7. Shut your mouth!: stop talking!: low coll.:—1895. Cf. Fr. ferme!—8. See butter wouldn't melt...; shoot (one's) mouth off; open (one's) mouth wide; all mouth...

mouth almighty. A noisy, talkative person: low: later C.19. (H., 3rd ed.) The idea survives in e.g. 'He's all mouth, that bloke!'; cf. prec., 1, and mouth like a cow's...

mouth-bet. A verbal bet: the turf: ca. 1860–1930.

mouth half cocked. A person gaping and staring ignorantly at everything sees: coll.: late C.17–early 19. B.E.; Grose (1st ed.).

mouth is full of pap, (e.g. his). A c.p. applied to one still childish: late C.18–early 19. (Grose, 2nd ed.) Ex pap, babies' food. Cf. the C.18 proverb, boil not the pap before the child be born.

mouth like a cow's cunt, (have) a. (To be) excessively talkative: low, mostly Cockney: late C.19–20. (Franklyn, 1967.)

mouth like a vulture's crutch, (have) a. (To have) a 'mouth' [q.v. at sense 4] after drinking: prob. mainly Services': since late 1940s. A var. of:— mouth like the bottom of a bird-cage or (Manchon) parrot-cage, have a; or (one's) mouth feels like the bottom, etc. Earlier (since ca. 1920) versions of prec. Further variants are the Services', esp. RAF, ... of a baby's pram—all shit and biscuits, itself ex the older (?Northern dial.)... of a crow's nest—all shit and twigs, used to describe a confused mess (Edwin Haines, 1962); and ... like the inside of a Turkish wrestler's jockstrap: low: since the late 1940s (L.A., 1974).

mouth music. 'A taboo and gross expression meaning the practice of cunnilingus. Never used in mixed or family company' (Powis): later C.20.

mouth-organ. A Stokes-mortar bomb: army: 1916+. F. & G., 'From the sound made by the air passing through the holes round the base of the shell as it starts'.

mouth-pie. A feminine scolding or wrangle: Cockneys': —1909 (Ware).

mouth thankless. The female pudend: low Scots: mid-C.16–early 17. Kennedy, A. Scott.

mouth that cannot bite or says no words about it. The female pudend: C.18–mid-19: low coll.; occ. euph. S.E. D'Urfey (latter form).

mouth-wash. A drink of liquor: since ca. 1930.

mouther. A blow on the mouth: boxing: 1814 (OED); ob. by 1930.

mouthful. A long word, esp. a name, that 'fills' the mouth: coll.: 1884 (OED).—2. In say a mouthful, to say something, or much, that is important or arresting: orig. Eng. of ca. 1780–1880, then US, then again—from US—Eng. since ca. 1920; ob. by ca. 1960, except joc., e.g. in imitation of gangster films. Clearly adumbrated in Sessions, Sep. 1790, 'I never said a mouth full of ill against her in my life'.—3. In give (one) a mouthful of moonshine, to feed on fair words: late C.18–mid-19: coll. Ray, ed. of 1813. (Apperson.) mouthpiece. A defending counsel; a solicitor: c.:—1857 ('Ducange Anglicus'); H., 1st ed.; J. Greenwood; Charles E. Leach, 1933; Tempest, 1950.

mouthy. Given to 'running off at the mouth'; 'gabby'; loquacious: uncultured, esp. Londoners': since ca. 1930. Tom Barling, Bergman's Blitz, 1973.

mouton. A spy put in the same cell as a suspect, to worm the truth out of him. Recorded by the OED for 1804 and 1902; by ca. 1930, if not much earlier, t.

movables. See moveables.

move, a (gen. clever or sly) action or movement, is S.E., but flash to (e.g. every move), 1812, was perhaps orig. c. († by 1900), fly to... (see fly) in low s.; up to (—1859), perhaps orig. coll., is S.E. in C.20.—2. A motion picture: s.: mid-1930s. Prob. short for movies.

move, v.i. To depart, make a start; move away or off: mid-C.15–20: S.E. till ca. 1750, then coll. (Toldery, Haliburton.) OED.

move (one's) crabs. To run away: c.: mid-C.19–early 20. (B. & L.) Cf. crabs, 1, feet or shoes.

move in the blind. To do a 'moonlight flit', q.v.: low: later C.19. (B. & L.) Here, blind = darkness.

move off. To die: coll.: from ca. 1760; ob. by 1930. Foote, 'Whether from the fall or the fright, the Major mov'd off in a month' (OED). Cf. go off.

move on, get a, v.i. To hurry; make progress: coll.: adopted, ex US, ca. 1907. Lyell.

move out, v.i. To expand; to bloom: NZ coll.: C.20. Jean Devanney, The Butcher Shop, 1926.

move the previous question. To speak evasively: Society: —1909; ob. (Ware.) Ex Parliamentary j. move to. To bow to (a person): app. ca. 1900–20. A.H. Dawson, A Dict. of Slang, 1913.

move (or shift) your carcass! Get out of the way!: low, or joc.: perhaps orig. Aus.: since ca. 1920.

mov(e)ables is S.E. except ca. 1690–1830 in the sense of swords, jewellery, watches, small objects of value, which is c. B.E., Grose.

movement at the station (, there's). 'Expression for hurried activity, esp. portending some imminent event (from the opening line of A.B. Paterson's "The Man from Snowy River", 1895)' (Wilkes): Aus.: since mid-C.20.

movie, rarely movy. Of the cinema: from ca. 1914: coll. Esp. in a movie star. Ex.—2. A moving picture: coll., orig. (1906 or 1907) US, anglicised ca. 1913. Much less gen. than the derivative movies. P.B.: thus E.P. in 1935, but in later C.20 'a movie' is common for a film, while movies = cinema, as in 'we're off to the movies tonight'. Occ. catch a movie, to see a film; prob. ex US.

movies. Moving pictures: the cinema: US (—1913), anglicised as a coll. ca. 1917. W., 'Current [1920] use of movies (U.S.) is curiously like that of Tudor motions for a puppet-play.'—2. The 80-foot motor launches built in the U.S. ... during [WW1]': RN: 1917; ob. Bowen.—3. A warship's searchlights: id.: Ibid.—4. See go to the movies.

movy. See movie.

now. To copulate with: Scots and Northern dial. or coll.: C.16—early 19. The word, occ. as a n., survived in low s. till late C.19. Scots, either dial. or coll., is nowdiwark or -wort, the penis, with which cf. mole, 1.

now-heater. A drover: c.: mid-C.17—mid-19. (Coles, 1676.) Ex the drovers' habit of sleeping on hay mows (Grose, 2nd ed.).

nowat. A woman: c.: from ca. 1910. Of North Country origin. Cf. gadgy. Perhaps ex dial.: cf. N.E. and E. Anglian mauther, a big, lumbering girl. (R.S.) mower. A cow: c.: ca. 1670—1830. (Coles, 1676.) Perversion of moer, q.v.

mowing the lawn, n. and ppl. Shaving with an electric razor: Aus.: since ca. 1955. 'Hang on a jiffy, I'm mowing the lawn.' (B.P.)

mowlah. A Chinese: Aus.: later C.19. 'Anderson's reply recalled their time together [at the Ballarat Base Hospital], when Benevolent Society patients were called "Beneveyses", and Chinese patients "mowlahs" or "chows"' (Cyril Pearl, Morrison of Peking, 1967). Perhaps ex the Cantonese mo-lah!, 'there is none!' (P.B.)

Mowree. A NZ seaman: nautical: late C.19—20. (Bowen.) Ex Maori.

mowrowsky. See marrowskying. Ware's form and spelling.

moz or mozz. Since ca. 1920 the commoner form of mozzle, n. and v. See also mock on.—2. Also as Mozzy, Mos (pron. moss) or Mossy: a De Haviland Mosquito all-wooden fighter-bomber, reconnaissance aircraft: RAF: from 1943. Partridge, 1945, the s forms; W/Cdr R.P. McDouall, 1945, the z forms.

Mozart and Liszt, usu. shortened to Mozart. Tipsy: rhyming s., mostly racing: since ca. 1945. On s. pissed. (Franklyn 2nd.) Cf. the perhaps commoner synon. Brahms and Liszt, likewise usu. shortened, to Brahms.

mozzle, n. Esp. as in "My mozzle is out, Collins?" he said with an effort' (Tom Collins', Such is Life, 1903), i.e. my luck has run out: Aus.: ca. 1870—1920. Wilkes quotes (Sydney) Bulletin, 17 Dec. 1898, Red Page: 'Mozzle is luck ... Good mozzle = good luck; Kronk mozzle = bad luck.' Ex Yiddish.

mozzle, v.; also shortened to moz. To hinder, to interrupt (someone); esp. to 'jinx' (someone): Aus.: since ca. 1920. See esp. put the moz on, (at mock on), of which moz(z), v.t., is a shortening. Prob. ex prec., 'jinx' being 'bad luck', rather than E.P.'s suggestion of 'ex muzzle' (P.B.).

mozzle and brocha. A door-to-door salesman or canvasser: C.20. May be rhyming s., on on the knocker, but perhaps, as R.S. suggests, 1968, from the Yiddish 'Mazel and broche', 'Good luck and a blessing', which could well be a Jewish salesman's greeting, like the Irish tinker's sales-greeting, 'Yer goin' to be lucky.' Claiborne points out that both mazel and broche are badly needed by canvassers.

mozzzy. The Judy of Punch and Judy: showmen's: from ca. 1850. ?via Lingua Franca ex It. mogliè, a wife. See swatchel.

—2. A mosquito; mozzzy net, a mosquito net: Aus. (late C.19—20) and Services', esp. army and RAF (since ca. 1925). B., 1942; Sgt G. Emanuel, RAF, 1945. Hence, see also moz, 2. Mr. This abbr. occurs in many combinations; see the following entries: mister, and the five entries following it; briefless, 2; Cass (for Mr Burton); Clean; Mr Cochran's young ladies are at awful people; Dunlop; you can't lodge (for Mr Ferguson); five by five; fixit, 2; Fuzzgug; Hickenbothom; Hopkins; Knap is concerned; Langtries; (for Mr Mackenzie and Mr Macgregor); nash; Nawpost; nip-cheese (for Mr Nip); nonesuch, 3; Palmer; pull in; right, 5; sharp, n., 4; Wiggins; wood, 4; Wood family; Wright.

Mr Big. The head of a criminal gang: police, hence journalistic: adopted ex US ca. 1930.

Mrs. An occ. written form of missis; missus.

Mrs Ashtip. See Greenfields.

Mrs Chant. Aunt: C.20. P.P., Rhyming Slang, 1932.—2. Hence, the w.c., for which aunt is a euph.: later C.20. (Rhyming Cockney Slang, ed. Jack Jones, 1971.) Cf. Mrs Jones and Mrs Murray.

Mrs Duckett(t). A bucket: C.20. P.P., Rhyming Slang, 1932.—2. As an expletive, 'Fuck it!': low rhyming s.: C.20. Franklyn, Rhyming.

Mrs Evans. 'A name frequently given to a she cat, owing, it is said, to a witch of the name of Evans, who frequently assumed the appearance of a cat' (Grose, 1st ed.): coll.: late C.17—mid-19. It occurs in the Works, 1704, of 'facetious' Tom Brown.

Mrs Gafoops. Any woman not specifically named: Aus.: since ca. 1930. 'Are you going to make that dress yourself, or will you get Mrs Gafoops to run it up for you?' (B.P.)

Mrs Gamp, Mrs Harris. (Gen. together.) The Standard, the Morning Herald, esp. when they were owned by a Mr Baldwin: ca. 1845—60: journalists'. Ex Mrs Gamp and her imaginary friend Mrs Harris in Dickens's Martin Chuzzlewit and the way those inter-appealing newspapers had of pretending to be independent.

Mrs Green. See sleep with Mrs Green; Greenfields, 1.

Mrs Jones. A water-closet: low: mid-C.19—early 20. (H., 2nd ed., 1860.) Gen. as visit or go to see Mrs Jones. Cf. Mrs Chant, 2, my aunt's and Sir Harry.

Mrs Kelly wouldn't let young Edward play with you! A derogatory c.p. addressed to a child either very dirty or very ill-behaved: Aus. since ca. 1925. The allusion is to Ned Kelly, the famous bushranger, who has, in Aus., become as legendary as Jesse James in the United States. (B.P.)—2. Mrs K also occurs in You must know Mrs Kell(e)y!, a c.p. 'with no particular meaning', gen. addressed to 'a long-winded talker': London: 1898—1905. Ex a 'phrase used for two years at all times and places by Dan Leno'. Ware.

Mrs Langtry. See Langtries.

Mrs Lukey Props. A female brothel-keeper: tramps' c.: —1896; ob. by 1930.

Mrs Mop(p). A woman cleaner, i.e. one who uses a mop: coll.: since ca. 1944. Ex the famous Mrs Mopp of Tommy Handley's radio-comedy series 'Itma' during its WW2 days. (That sort of coll. which is so very widely used that one tends to overlook its presence on the scene of everyday speech, or at the least fails to record it: E.P. note of ca. 1973.)

Mrs Murray, see. To go to the water-closet: Aus.: late C.19—20. (B., 1942.) With a pun on the Murray, the greatest river in Australia. The ref. is esp. to a privy. Cf. Mrs Jones and Mrs Chant.

Mrs Partington. 'A personification of impotent and senile prejudice': 1831; ob.: coll. >, ca. 1890, S.E. Sydney Smith.

—2. Also, 'a kind of Malaprop' (F. & H.): coll., in C.20 verging on S.E. but very ob. Besant & Rice, 1872, 'As Mrs. Partington would say, they might all three have been twins.'

Mrs Roper. See roper, 3.

Mrs Suds. A washerwoman, a laundress: 1757, (Foote); ob.: coll.

Ms and Ws, make. To be drunk, esp. walk unsteadily: printers': from ca. 1860.

mubblefubbles. Low spirits: ca. 1585–1670. (Lyly; Gayton: OED.)? echoic; cf. mulligrubs.

much! Short for the ironic not much!, q.v.; Services (esp. RAF) coll.: 1940+. Partridge, 1945, "He never goes out with Waafs"—"Much!" (He very often does.)—2. See how much?

much as (one) can put in (one's) eye (, as). (Virtually) nothing; coll.: late C.17—early 19. B.E.

much chance as a snowball in hell (, as). None at all: late C.19–20: US, hence Can., hence Brit. (in narrower sense—usu. as snowflake), hence Aus. and NZ. Perhaps the prompter of as much chance as a fart in a windstorm, q.v. at fart in a windstorm. Lyell records the 'literary' var., as an icicle in Hades. P.B.: by later C.20, it may be allusive as in "But you're up for parole soon." "They won't give it to me. Not a snowball's." (Clement & La Frenais, A Further Stir of Porridge, 1977).

much matter of a wooden platter. Much fuss about a trifle: ca. 1630–1750. A proverb verging on coll. Apperson.

much of a ..., with a negative. A great ...; a ... of a noteworthy quality or to any great degree. Coll.: from ca. 1840. Dickens, 'He don't lose much of a dinner.' In C.20, gen. of persons, e.g. 'not much of a scholar' (OED).

much of a muchness. Of much the same size, degree, value or importance; very much alike; coll.: 1728, Vanbrugh (OED); 1860, Punch; 1876, G. Eliot, 'Gentle or simple, they're much of a muchness.'

much use as ... (, as). In as much use as a headache, absolutely useless, and often unwanted as well: coll.: C.20. (D.L. Sayers, Unnatural Death, 1927.) In later C.20 usu. elab. ... a sick headache; and with occ! var. no more use than ... A low, abusive c.p., late C.19–20, is (you're) as much use as my arse! A mid-C.20 army version was (e.g. he's about) as much use as two men gone sick. And in a Guardian of Jan. 1979, 'Tourists that go to home games of Barnsley Town will hear some of the finest football wit and repartee in the land. Players are accused of being "as nimble as a stone trough" or "as much use as a chocolate teapot".'

much wit as three folks – two fools and a madman. Always prec. by as; gen. also with have. (To be) tolerably clever or cunning; also (to be) a fool. A derivative c.p. bordering on the proverbial. Mostly Cheshire. Ray, Lytton. (Apperson.) Cf. the C.17–18 proverb he hath some wit but a fool hath the guidance of it; cf. too the witticism apocryphalised in Einstein, 'Only four persons understand Relativity; I'm not one of them; and of the other three, two are dead and the third in a lunatic asylum.' muck, n. A very untidy, an uncleanly condition: (low) coll.: 1766, Goldsmith, 'She observed, that "by the living jingo, she was all of a muck of sweat".' Gen. be in a, or all of a, muck. See also muck-sweat. OED.—2. Filth, dirt, esp. if an oozing mass: C.14–20: S.E. till ca. 1840, then coll., increasingly low. Dickens, Calverley. OED.—3. Anything (soil, gravel, clay) excavated: Public Works' coll.: late C.19–20. D.W. Barrett, Navvies, 1880.—4. Anything vile and disgusting; coll.: since latish C.19. 'Drinking sech like muck' (Sportsman, 28 Nov. 1888).—5. A coarse brute: low coll.: from ca. 1885. (Baumann.) Anticipated in 'Muck: that's my opinion of him', 1884, Henley & Stevenson.—6. Hence, an infantryman; the infantry: cavalrymen's:—1909; virtually †—as are the cavalry. Ware.—7. A heavy fall, lit. or fig.: ca. 1892–1932. Abbr. mucker, q.v.—8. A failure: Public Schools' coll.: late C.19–20. D. Coke, The Bending of a Twig, 1906, 'Make a muck of it.' Cf. sense 4 of the v.—9. Anti-aircraft fire: RAF: 1940, Michie & Graebner, Their Finest Hour, 'I climbed to 12,000 feet, circling along the outside of the searchlights and all the muck [gunfire] that was coming up'.—10. (Very) dirty weather: RAF pilots' and army officers': since ca. 1938. (H. & P.) Also shit.—11. In as muck, exceedingly; as much as is possible: coll.: from ca. 1910. Esp. sick as muck, thoroughly disgusted or disgruntled or displeased, as in J.C. Masterman, Fate Cannot Harm Me, 1935, of a cricket match: 'He would be out any ball and poor old George would be as sick as muck.' Also rich as muck, 'filthy rich'. Cf. mad as mud.—12. In chief muck, (of a person) a trump: low: later C.19. (Baumann.) Contrast Lord Muck, q.v.

muck, v. To make dirty: from ca. 1830: S.E. till ca. 1895, then coll. (increasingly low).—2. To excel; beat: low: mid-C.19—early 20. Mayhew, 'He'd muck a thousand!'.—3. Hence, to ruin (a person): low: from ca. 1840. Sinks, 1848, defines the v. as 'to clean out, to win all a person's money'.—4. To fail in or at: since latish C.19. Kipling, Stalky & Co., 1899, 'I shall muck it. I know I shall.' Cf. muck up in this sense, and make a muck of it, also synon.

[muck!, mucker, mucking, have from ca. 1915 represented fuck!, etc. Except when used joc., these are mere printers' words; and even when joc., they derive from these letter-equivalences of the actual vulgarisms and are deliberate. Frequent in war books of 1929–30, and since. A century hence, some curious errors will arise in respect of muck = fuck, etc.]

muck about. To fondle or caress very intimately: low, mostly costers': from ca. 1880. Stronger than mess about, q.v. P.B.: cf. the chorus of a popular London song, mid-C.20, 'If yer don't want the wheelks, don't muck 'em about ...'.—2. V.i., wander aimlessly; potter about: s. >, ca. 1915, coll.: 1896, Kipling, 'Our Colonel ... mucks about in 'orspital' (OED).—3. (Sometimes pron. muck abaht.) Usu. be mucked about, to be messed about: Army: since ca. 1910. Orig. a euph. for fuck about.—4. To play the fool, esp. in an aggravating way, which may produce the response 'Oh, come on now—don't muck (or keep mucking) about': coll.: since mid-C.20 at the latest. (P.B.) muck and ha'penny afters. A bad, pretentious dinner: lower-middle classes:—1909 (Ware); † by ca. 1935.

muck and truck. Miscellaneous articles: commerce:—1898; ob. OED.

muck-arsing about. Larking about, esp. amorously: low: C.20.

muck-bird. 'Dirty oil waste' (Railway): railwaymen's: since ca. 1930.

muck-cheap. 'Dirt-cheap': coll.: from ca. 1870; ob. Ex muck, n., 2. Cf. the Fr. selement bon marché (Manchon).

muck for luck! A c.p., addressed to one getting befouled with excrement; usu. applied to boots soiled with dog's excrement: late C.19–20; by 1940, a proverb.

muck-fork. A finger; occ. a hand: low: from ca. 1850.

muck-heap. A filthy sloven: coll.: ca. 1860–1910. Cf. muck-suckle, q.v.

muck in, v.i. To share rations, sleeping quarters and certain duties; an informal method and group, this social unit of the Army was arranged by the men themselves and respected by NCOs; it protected and furthered its own interests. The system was obviously known in the pre-WWI RN: Knock records the term as lowerdeck usage, before the army started using it, ca. 1915. See esp., though passim, Frederick Manning's Her Privates We, 1930; and B. & P. at mucking-in (3rd ed., p. 141).—2. Hence, v.t., muck in with. (F. & G.) Also, the mucking-in spirit, the feeling among Servicemen in adversity that makes the whole thing possible (P.B.).

muck in! yer at yer granny's! You're welcome: Liverpool: C.20. (Frank Shaw, 1969.) muck (someone's) orange. Spitefully to spoil someone's policy or project: journalistic and political, but presumably of school-playground origin: later C.20. The Times Educational Supplement (3rd leader), 2 Apr. 1976. (P.B.)

muck out. To clean out (of money); ruin: low: from ca. 1855. (H., 1st ed.) See also muck, v., 3.—2. To clean out (the place)—to be a servant, esp. for someone: miners': C.20. Ex cleaning out the stables down in the mines.

muck-rag. A handkerchief: low: C.19. 'A Real Paddy', Life in Ireland, 1822.

muck-shifter. A navvy: navvies' coll.: ca. 1800–1910. D.W. Barrett, Navvies, 1880.

muck-slinging. Slander: C.20 var. of mud-slinging.

Muck, Sludge and Lightning, the. The Manchester, Sheffield and Lincolnshire railway: railwaymen's ca. 1890–1925. Railway, 2nd.

muck-snipe. A ruined person, esp. gambler: low: ca. 1850–1910. Mayhew.

muck-spout. A foul-mouthed talker: low: ca. 1870–1930.

muck(-)stick (or solid). 'Inversion of musket, a rifle, hence muckstick drill, rifle drill on the parade ground of a Naval barracks' (Granville): RN: C.20.

muck-suckle. A filthy woman: low coll.: ca. 1860–1900. Cf. muck-heap, q.v.

muck-sweat. Perspiration; orig. and properly if dust or dirt has accrued: proletarian coll.: since ca. 1830. Sessions, 22 June 1843.—2. Hence be in a muck-sweat, to be flurried or flustered; to be 'all hot and bothered': C.20. (L.A.) See also muck, n. 1.

muck toper feaker. An umbrella-maker: Scots c.: ca. 1820–80. (Egan's Grose.) Prob. the form should be mush-topper feaker: see mush and mush-faker.

muck-train. A commissariat train: army: ca. 1850–90.—2. See Moke Train.

muck-up, n. A complete failure; confusion or muddle: coll.: since late C.19. Ex next, 2.

muck up, v. To litter: late C.19–20: (low) coll. Mrs Caffyn, 'Mucking up my rooms' (OED).—2. To spoil, ruin, e.g. a person but esp. a plan: from ca. 1885. Cf. muck, v., 3. Baumann.—3. V.i., to play the fool: Aus.: since ca. 1910. (B., 1942.) Cf. muck about, 4, the Eng. version.

muck-up in a dixie. A stew: military: from ca. 1910.

muckcook. To laugh behind one's back (v.i.): low: ca. 1880–1905. Origin?

mucked. Short for next: 1848, Sinks; † by 1920.

mucked out, ppl. adj. Penniless: low: from ca. 1820; ob. Egan's Grose; H., 1st ed.

muckender. A swab: early C.18. See MISCELLANEA, in Appendix.

mucker, n. (See the muck!, mucker, mucking entry.)—2. A heavy fall: from ca. 1850. Esp. in come or (ob.) go a mucker; often fig., come to grief. Kingsley, 1852, 'Receiving a mucker' (lit., of a horse); J. Payn, 1876, 'A regular mucker' (fig.). Because frequently caused by road-filth or muck. OED.—3. A quartermaster: military: ca. 1885–1910.—4. A friend, mate, pal: army: since ca. 1917. Ex muck in, q.v.; cf. mucking-in spud. Peter York, in Style Wars, 1980, notes some use among civilian young 'hearties', 1970s.

mucker, v. To have a heavy fall; hence fig., come to grief: from ca. 1860; ob. Kingsley.—2. V.t., to ruin (one's chances): 1869, 'W. Bradwood' (OED). Ob. by 1930.

mucker(-)up and mucking(-)up. The agent and action of muck-up, n.

Muckeries, the. See Moocheries, the.

muckhill. In have a good muckhill [= dung-heap] at (one's) door, to be rich: proverbial coll.: ca. 1670–1720. Ray.—2. See 'you make a muckhill...'

muckibus. Topsy: low: ca. 1755–1850. (Horace Walpole, 1756.) Ex muck, n. muckin; occ. mucking or mukkin. Butter: army: late C.19–early 20. (F. & G.) Ex Hindustani makkhan.

mucking. See the muck!... entry.—2. An act of 'messing about': coll.: 1904, Kipling, 'His photographic muckings' (OED). ?no singular. Ob.; see mucking-about.—3. Rubbish, a 'mess': coll.: 1898, Kipling, 'She's only burning muckings' (OED).—4. See muckin.

mucking, adj. Dirty; disgusting: low coll.:—1887 (Baumann).—2. See muck!

mucking-about. A 'messaging about': s. > coll.: from ca. 1905.—2. An intimate fondling: low (mostly costers'): from ca. 1880. See muck about.

mucking-in spud. One's chief friend or companion: army and RAF: since ca. 1930 (H. & P.); virtually † by 1950. H. & P., "'Spud" is used in camps to denote "pal".' See muck in.

Mucker, 4, continued in use for a 'pal' until at least 1970, though perhaps ob. by then (P.B.). mucking-togs, muckintogs. A mackintosh: low perversion: 1842, Barham; ob. by 1930.

Muckle Flugga Hussars, the. 'The ships on the Northern Patrol of the 10th Cruiser Squadron': RN: 1915–18. (Bowen.) Ex Muckle Flugga, the most northerly island of the Unst group in the extreme north of the Shetland Isles.

mucko. Orderly man: army: early C.20. (B. & P.) He did the dirty work. Prob. adopted ex RN, where mostly in the pl muckos, 'able seamen' (Knock); Granville defines it as a 'Stoker in a coal-burning ship who has a mucky job', and B., 1943, records its use for 'a seaman' in the R Aus. N.—2. Hence, an RN specialisation: a man detailed to serve troops about ship: from ca. 1910. ?akin to stoking.

mucky pup. A joc. var. on the theme 'dirty dog', a raffish, or a sexually promiscuous fellow: C.20. I heard it in Australia in 1912.—2. In Brit., however, it has > a term of disapproval or dismay at a particularly dirty or untidy child, 'Oh, you mucky little pup!', or of contempt for an adult. (Petch; L.A.)

mud. A fool, 'a dull, heavy-headed fellow' (Dyche): low (?orig. c.): ca. 1710–1850. Whence (one's) name is mud, q.v.—2. A non-society (i.e. non-trades union) man: printers from ca. 1786: ob. by 1900, † by 1920. (Grose, 2nd ed.) Cf. dung among tailors.—3. A 'mud-student', q.v.: C.20. OED Sup.—4. Wet concrete: Aus. builders' and similars': since ca. 1920. (Culotta).—5. Hence, thick, muddy coffee: Aus.: since ca. 1930. Ibid.—6. 'Mate of the upper deck—the seaman Petty Officer charged with cleaning the upper deck: Royal Navy: 1950s' (Peppitt). ?and later.—7. In clear as mud, (very) obscure, it is ironic S.E., but see sure as ...; mad as mud; up to mud.

mud and blood. A mild and bitter, public-houses': C.20.

Mud Bath, the. The Battle of Passchendaele: autumn and early winter, 1917, then historical. A pun on the Blood Bath, the 1916 Battle of the Somme. (A.B. Petch, who, like myself, attended at both of these ceremonies.)

mud, blood and shit to the green fields beyond, through. An explanation given to me in the late 1950s: the motto symbolised by the colours (brown, red and green) of the Royal Tank Regiment's regimental tie. Cf. prec. (P.B.) mud chicken. A surveyor: Can. railroadmen's:—1931. He has a muddy job.

mud-crawling. 'Country route-marching in wet weather' (F. & G.): army: early C.20. Cf.:-

mud-crusher. An infantryman (not often applied to an officer): military: from ca. 1872. H., 5th ed.; Sir G. Chesney, 1893, "'You are too good to be a mud-crusher, Tommy", said the Major ... patronisingly' (OED). Cf. beetle-crusher, swaddy, worm-crusher, and the Fr. pousse-cailloux, pebble-pusher. See esp. Words!

mud-fat. Exceedingly fat: Aus.: since ca. 1925. (B., 1942.) Ex the C.20 Aus. as fat as mud.

mud-fog association. A scientific association in gen., or some particular one: coined by Dickens, 1838, in Bentley's Magazine; referred to by C. Dickens, Jr., in Household Words, 1 May 1886. Ca. 1860–75, it was rarely used for other than the British Association for the Promotion of Science, esp. at the universities: H., 2nd to 5th edd. Coll.: † by 1896.

mud-gunner. (Gen. pl.) A machine-gunner: military, mostly Aus.: 1915; virtually †. Rare and possibly ex a mis-hearing of mug-gunner, q.v.

mud-head or mudhead. A stupid person: coll.: 1838 (Haliburton); D.C. Murray, 1883, 'That old m.-h.'. The adj., mud-headed, 1793, is S.E. but likewise ob. OED.

mud-hen. A female speculator: Stock Exchange: US, anglicised by 1896.

mud-hole. 'A salt-water lagoon in which whales are captured' (F. & H.): whalers' (—1893): coll. >, ca. 1910, j. Ex the churning-up of the water.

mud-honey. Mud; esp. street slush: low: ca. 1870–1914.

mud-hook. An anchor: nautical:—1884 ('H. Collingwood': OED).—2. Hence, the anchor in the game of Crown and Anchor: Services': C.20. Also, since ca. 1910, for the board itself: Services'. H. & P.—3. A hand: NZ and Aus.: since ca. 1915. B., 1941, 1942.—4. A foot: Aus.: since ca. 1920. Baker.—5. A finger; usu. in pl.: Can.: C.20. (Leechman, 1968.) Not in cultured circles.

mud hop, or hyphenated or one word. A yard clerk: Can. railroadmen's:—1931. Cf. mud chicken.

mud in the (or your) eye. A tie: rhyming s.: late C.19–20. (Your New Statesman, 29 Nov. 1941; the Franklyn 2nd.) Cf. the facetious toast, 'Here's mud in your eye!'

Mud Island. Southend: East London's nickname: ca. 1900–14' (Ware.) Ex its muddy beach. Granville notes that Canvey Island was also thus known.

mud-lark or mudlark. A waterside thief that, hiding under a ship at low tide, receives small stolen packets from the crew: c.:—1796. By 1820, a sea-shore scavenger, who often waded out up to his, or her, waist. The first in Colquhoun's Police of the Metropolis, the second (also mud-larker, or mudlarker) in Egan's Grose and in Mayhew; the first, ob. by 1890, the second > s. by 1850, coll. by 1900. Suggested by skylark.—3. A man that scavenges in gutters, esp. for metal, e.g. horse-nails: c. or low: ca. 1820–50. Bee.—4. Hence an official cleaner of common sewers: coll.:—1859; ob. H., 1st ed.; Ogilvie.—5. A street arab: coll.: 1865 (Saturday Review, 4 July: OED).—6. A member of the Royal Engineers: military coll.:—1878 (OED).—7. Any person that, belonging to bank, counting-house, etc., has often, in the course of his work, to be out in the open air: City (London): from ca. 1860; ob. H., 3rd ed.—8. A hog: ca. 1780–1830. Grose (1st ed.), who does not, as stated by F. & H. (father, 9), include the sense, 'a duck'; this definition occurs first in the Lex. Bal., 1811: ca. 1810–30.—10. A racehorse that revels in muddy 'going': Aus. sporting coll.: C.20. Wilkes notes var. mudrunner.—11. Mud-lark (gen. pl.): a native of, a person long resident in, Victoria (Aus.): Aus.: C.20.—12. Anyone who signs in the trenches: army: WW1.

mud-larker. See mud-lark, 1, second part, q.v.: 1840 (Marryat); ob. by 1930.

mud-major. An infantry major: army:—1896; † by 1915. Because, on parade, he was on foot. Cf. mud-crusher and mud-picker, qq.v.

mud map. 'A sketch drawn by a bushman on the ground, to give directions' (Wilkes): Aus.: C.20.

mud(-)mover (usu. pl.). Member of an air-to-ground attack crew; air-to-ground attack aircraft, e.g. a Jaguar: RAF: since early 1970s. (S/Ldr G.D. Wilson, 1979.)

mud-pads. The feet: lower classes':—1923 (Manchon). Contrast mud-pipes.

mud-picker. A military policeman in garrison: military: ca. 1885–1910.—2. A soldier in the Engineers: military:—1923 (Manchon). Cf. mud-lark, 6.

mud-pilot. 'The pilot who takes a ship from Gravesend to the entrance of her dock': nautical: late C.19–20. Bowen.

mud-pipes. Thick boots: from earlyish C.19. (Sinks, 1848.) Manchon, 1923, defines the term as 'gum-boots'. Ob. by 1940.

mud-player. A batsman fond of a wet wicket: cricket: ca. 1890–1914.

mud-plug. 'A cross-country or off-road motorcycle trial' (Dunford): motorcyclists': later C.20.

mud-plunger. A tramp who goes in for mud-plunging, q.v.: from ca. 1860.—2. An infantryman: (mainly) army: late C.19—early 20. Cf. mud-crusher, q.v.

mud-plunging. A tramping through mud in search of alms: tramps' c.: from ca. 1880. Daily Telegraph, 8 Feb. 1883.

mud pup. An agricultural student, esp. if working on a farm: since ca. 1950. (Wilfred Granville.) Cf. mud-student, and mucky pup, qq.v.

mud-pusher. A crossing-sweeper: urban lower classes': from ca. 1870. Ware.

Mud-Salad Market. Covent Garden: low London: from the late 1870s; ob. Punch, 14 Aug. 1880, 'Mud-Salad Market belongs to his Grace the Duke of Mudford [!]. It was once a tranquil Convent Garden.'

mud-show. An outdoor show, esp. an agricultural one: Society:—1909; ob. Ware.

mud-slinger; -slinging. A slanderer; slander: coll. (orig. low): from ca. 1890. P.B.: by later C.20 perhaps more usu. muck-slinger.

mud spring. A doughy damper: Northern Territory, Australia: since ca. 1925. Ernestine Hill, The Territory, 1951.

mud-student. A student of farming: from ca. 1855. OED.—2. Esp. at the Agricultural College, Cirencester:—1864; ob. (H., 3rd ed.) Cf. mud-pup, q.v.

mud-walloper. One who is used to, or has to work in, mud: Army in Burma: 1942–5.

mudder. A horse that goes well on a wet track: Can. sporting coll.: since ca. 1925. Cf. mud-lark, 10, the Aus. synon.

muddie. A childish attempt at, or corruption of, mother. (Manchon, 1923.) Prob. via mummy.—2. One of the 'labourers engaged to dig clay from Essex marshes to load on sailing barges grounded . . . between tides. Used on Thames barges in the 1920s [? and later]' (Peppitt, 1976).—3. 'A Queensland mudcrab' (Wilkes): Aus.: C.20.

mudding-face. A fool; a soft fellow: low: ca. 1870–1915. Presumably ex mud, a fool, and prob. by a pun on pudding-face.

muddle. Slight tipsiness: coll.:—1923 (Manchon). Prob. by muddled out of muzzy.

Muddle and Go Nowhere, the. A pun on the initials of 'the old Midland and Great Northern Railway, which meandered across North Norfolk from Norwich to Peterborough' (R.S., 1967): early C.20.

Muddle East. An all-Services' name: 1941–4: for the Middle East.

muddle on. Though half-drunk, to continue drinking: coll.: late C.17–18. B.E.

muddled. Slightly tipsy: coll.: since ca. 1780. The New Vocal Enchantress, 1791.

muddler. A clumsy horse: turf coll.: from ca. 1886; ob. by 1930.

muddy. Nickname of men surnamed Waters, hence also Waterston: Services': C.20. (Petch.)—2. See Little Muddy.—3. Get (one's) feet muddy, see feet muddy. See also muddie.

mudge. A hat: c.:—1888 (Sportsman, 22 Dec. ?etym.: is it perchance a sense- and form-perversion of mush, an umbrella?)

mudger. A milksop: low: 1830, Lytton, 'Girl-faced mudgers'; ob. by 1880, † by 1910. ?ex dial. mudge, to move, budge, hence one moving very quietly.

mudlark. See mud-lark.

mudlarker. See mudlarker.

Mudros, Chios and chaos. A 1915 Services' c.p. alluding to the fact that the Mediterranean Expeditionary Force of that time had three separate authorities, or commands, and bases. (Captain C.R.O. Burge, DSO, RN, letter, 1967.)

muff, n. The female pudend, outwardly: late C.17–20; ob.: orig. c.; by 1920, low. B.E., who quotes the toast, to the well-wearing of your muff, mort.—2. 'A foolish silly person' (Vaux, 1812): orig. c. >, by 1880, gen. s.; ob. Ca. 1850–75 it occ. connoted weakness of mind: H., first five edd. H., 2nd ed., 'muff has been defined to be "a soft thing that holds a lady's hand without squeezing it"'. Perhaps (cf. sense 1) ex (the softness of a) muff, the covering for female hands; Vaux less prob. suggests that it is a perversion of mouth, 3.—3. Whence, orig. in athletic sport, a clumsy and/or a stupid person: 1837, Dickens, ' "now butter-fingers" —"Muff" . . . and so forth' (OED): s. >, ca. 1880, coll.—4. A failure: 1871 (Punch, 25 Feb. of a book); ob. Esp. (1896), anything badly bungled. Coll. Ex the v.—5. A buff, i.e. a muffling-pad attached to a clapper: bell-ringers':—1901 (H. Earle Bulwer, A Glossary of Bell-Ringing). Abbr. muffler.—6. In not to say muff; say neither muff nor mum, to say not a word: mid-C.15—early 20: coll. till C.18, then dial. (Stapylton.) Ex muff, an echoic word 'representing an inarticulate sound' (OED).

muff, v. To bungle, physically or otherwise, esp. at games:

1846, 'Muffed their batting' (Lewis); 1857, G.A. Lawrence, 'I don't see why you should have muffed that shot.'—2. V.i., to fail in an examination: 1884 (Julian Sturgis): orig. Eton College s. >, ca. 1890, gen. coll.; ob. by 1940.

muff-diver. A cannulizing: low, also Can.: C.20. In, e.g., the verse of Gavin Ewart (review in the TLS, 11 July 1980). Hence, muff-diving, the action (Powis).

muffed, ppl adj. Bungled; clumsily spoilt, missed: from ca. 1860: s. > coll.

muffin. A fool: low: 1830 (W.T. Moncrieff); † by 1910. Ex muff, n., 2, prob. by a pun on the light flat cake.—2. Whence, at games a constant misser of a shot or a ball: coll.:—1895; ob. by 1930. Mostly US: Funk & Wagnalls.—3. A man that chaperons or acts as companion to women: from before 1923. (Manchon.) Prob. ex senses 1 and 2.—4. One's 'girl', by arrangement, for the social life of a season: Can.: 1856 (Miss Bird): ob. by 1930. OED.—5. A cap of the 'pill-box' type: late C.19—early 20. F. & G. (at quiff).—6. In cold muffin, q.v., mediocre.

muffin-baker. A 'quaker', in the Cockney low s. sense, for excrement long retained: rhyming s.:—1859 (H., 1st ed.); Franklyn, Rhyming. Cf. the low suggestion, when defecation is necessary, but the opportunity is lacking, 'Oh well, just have to let it bake' (P.B.).

muffin-countenance or -face. A hairless one, says F. & H.; an expressionless one, says the OED with reason: resp. 1823, ob., and 1777 (I. Jackman). Whence:

muffin-faced. Having an expressionless face: C.19—20, ob. Bee, however, in 1823, implies that it indicates a face with protruding muscles: † by 1890.

muffin-fight; muffin-worry. A tea-party: coll.: resp. ca. 1885—1910 and 1860, H., 2nd ed. (also in Ouida, 1877). OED. Cf. bun-worry, tea-fight. See also muffin-worry.

muffin-puncher. A muffin-baker: Cockneys':—1909 (Ware). muffin-walloper. (Gen. pl.) A scandal-loving woman delighting to meet others at a tea-table: London middle classes': ca. 1880—1914. Ware. Cf.:-

muffin-worry. 'An old lady's tea-party' (H., 2nd ed.): coll. See muffin-fight.

muffing, ppl adj., bungling, from ca. 1840. John Mills. OED.—N., clumsiness, clumsy failure: from ca. 1860. Both s. > coll. ca. 1890.

muffish. Foolish, silly; esp. clumsy: coll.: 1858 (Farrar: OED). See muff, n., 2, 3.

muffishness. The quality of being a muff, 2, 3, q.v.: coll.: 1858 (Farrar: OED).

muffism. Foolishness; an action typical of a muff, 2, 3, q.v.: coll.: 1854 (Lady Lytton): coll. ob. by 1900, almost † by 1930. OED.

muffle, a boxing-glove, is prob. S.E. (ca. 1810—40). So, perhaps, is:

muffler, in the same sense: mid-C.18—early 20.—2. A stunning blow: boxing: ca. 1820—1905.—3. A crape mask: 1838 (Glascock): c.; ob. Ex the much earlier S.E.

muffling-cheat. A napkin; a towel: c. of ca. 1560—1840. Harman; Grose, 1st ed.

muffy. A frill-necked lizard: Aus. rural: C.20. (B., 1953.) Ex its 'muff'.

mufft. Plain clothes worn by one who, at work, wears a uniform: 1816: s. >, ca. 1880, coll. >, ca. 1910, S.E. 'Quiz'; Marryat, 1833, 'In a suit of mufft', the post-1850 form being in muffti. (OED.) Perhaps jestingly ex muffti, a Muhammadan priest, via the theatre, which, in early C.19, represented officers off duty wearing 'flowered dressing-gown and tasselled smoking cap' (W.).—2. A chaplain on a man-of-war: naval: ca. 1830—50. Marryat, in his King's Own.

mug, n. The face: 1708, The British Apollo, 'My Lawyer has ... a Temple-Mug' (OED). Prob. ex mugs 'made to represent a grotesque human face'.—2. Hence, the mouth: 1820, J.H. Reynolds, 'Open thy mug, my dear' (OED). Ob. by 1900, † by 1920.—3. A cooling drink: coll. (1633, SOD) >, ca. 1850, S.E.; ob.—4. A fool; an easy dupe; a 'duffer': 1857 ('Ducange Anglicus'); Mayhew. I.e. something into which one can pour anything. Hence, in C.20, 'Anyone not of the Underworld' (F.D. Sharpe, The Flying Squad, 1938): i.e. from the viewpoint, the angle, the 'slant' of the underworld itself. Cf. the American-c. use of 'honest John' (see Underworld). 'There is a whole range of talk which cannot be understood by the "mug", a word which describes all members of the public who attend fairs' (W. Buchanan-Taylor, Shake it Again, 1943).—5. An examination: from ca. 1852; ob.: university and school.—6. Hence, one who studies hard: school: from ca. 1880.—7. See mugs.—8. A mist, a fog: s. and dial.; the former (as in Ash's Dict., 1775), ca. 1770—80; the latter, extant, with further senses, a drizzle, gloomy damp weather.—9. A police photograph of a criminal: police: since ca. 1950. Short for mug-shot, q.v., itself ex sense 1.

mug, v. To grimace: theatrical >, ca. 1880, gen.: 1855, Dickens, 'The low comedian had "mugged" at him ... fifty nights for a wager' (OED). Slightly ob. Cf. mug up. Prob. ex mug, to pout: see sense 7, this paragraph.—2. To strike, esp. punch, in the face: boxing: 1818 (OED); ob. Ex mug, n., 1.—Hence, 3, (—1859), to fight (v.t.), chastise, thrash: H., 1st ed.—4. To bribe with liquor: s. (†) and dial.: 1830 (OED). Also, in s. and dial., v.i. and v. reflexive, to get drunk: from ca. 1840.—5. Hence, to swindle, to rob (esp. by the garrotte): low: from ca. 1860; ob. by ca. 1900. (Mayhew.) Note that, in C.20, the sense narrowed to 'to garrotte', and the word was current, mid-C.20, in Can. and US. Claiborne wrote, 1976, that this sense 'has now broadened again to mean almost any street robbery with violence', and indeed, in this sense the word returned to Britain in the early 1970s. Stuart Hall, Policing the Crisis, 1978, records that the word, in its 'new' sense, was first used in the Daily Mirror, 17 Aug. 1972.

Hence, mugger, the agent; mugging, the crime.—6. V.i., to study hard: 1848: mostly school and university. (V.t. with at.) Perhaps ex the theatrical sense. Occ. mug away or on. OED.—7. Also v.t., to study hard (at): from ca. 1880. More gen. mug up.—Hence, 8, to take pains with (e.g. a room): Winchester College: from ca. 1870; ob. 'He has mugged his study and made it quite cud' (i.e. comfortable), F. & H.—9. (Gen. with together), v.i., to crowd in a confined space:—1878 (EDD).—10. See mug (one)self, 1, and sense 4 above.—11. To pout; to sulk: s. (ob.) and dial.: from ca. 1730. (Collins the poet.) Perhaps ex dial. mug, v.i., to drizzle, rain slightly. (OED.) Cf. sense 1.—12. To kiss (gen. v.t.): low Aus.:—1916 (C.J. Dennis). Ex mug, n., 1 or 2.—13. (Cf. sense 4, both nuances.) "'Are you going to 'mug' us?" ... "What does 'mug us' mean?" ... "Are you going to stand me a drink?"' (Daily Mirror, 14 Mar. 1939).—14. To loaf: Aus.: since ca. 1930. Vance Palmer, Seedtime, 1957.

mug adj., or mugged. Pleasant to look at: Winchester College: from ca. 1870. Cf. mug, v., 8.

mug alec(k). Aus. synonym of smart alec: since ca. 1930. Rats, 1944.

mug away or on. See mug, v., 6: resp. 1893, 1878. (Prob. years earlier.) OED.

mug book, the. 'Police photographs of criminals, generally bound in book form' (Petch, 1969): orig. and mainly police; hence, journalists': since ca. 1930.

mug chop. A dealer pretending to be an ordinary customer in order to sell him a 'dud': secondhand-car dealers': since late 1940s. (Woman's Own, 28 Feb. 1968.) Cf. mug-trap.

mug cop, mug copper. Variants of mug John: Aus. B., 1959; 1942.

mug-faker. See mugger, 2.—2. A camera: grafters': from ca. 1920. Cheapjack, 1934.

mug-gunner. A machine-gunner: Aus. military: 1915. Ex initials and the dangerous (mug's) job.

mug-hunter. A robber of drunken men, esp. at night: c. (—1887) >, ca. 1900, low.

mug in and mug out, to be. To shilly-shally, as in 'If I like the girl I'll not be mug in and mug out about it' (J.S. Le Fanu, Uncle Silas, 1864). With thanks to David B. Gardner.

mug in together. A lower classes' post-WW1 corruption of muck in, 1.

mug John. A policeman: Aus. c.:—1935. Ex mug, n., 4, + John, 4.

mug lair. Var. of dead lair, q.v. at lair, 1. B., 1959.

mug list. 'Police photographic files; to be on someone's mug list means by extension to be classified by him as a mug (a fool) or personal enemy' (McNeil): Aus. low coll.: later C.20. Cf. shit list and mug-book.

mug-lumberer. A fashionably dressed swindler: c.:—1923 (Manchon). Ex mug, n., 4 + lumberer, 2.

mug punters. 'Gullible fools. Contemptuous term used by fraudsmen and card sharps for the persons they cheat' (Powis): later C.20 c. See punter.

mug (one)self. To make oneself cosy: low: later C.19—early 20.—2. See mug, v., 4.

mug-shot. A head (and shoulders) photograph of a prisoner or of a suspected criminal: police and professional crooks': adopted, ca. 1955, ex US. (Angus Hall, On the Run, 1974.) Ex mug, 1, the face. Hence, gen. photographers' s. for a portrait photograph, as in 'The first time I met him I was up at his gaff in Hampstead to do a mug shot' (Red Daniells, Brit. Jnl of Photography, 17 Nov. 1978).

mug-trap. A duper or swindler of fools: 1892 (Milliken): low. Cf. mug-hunter, q.v., and mug-chop.

mug-up, n. Lunch; a snack: 'A common expression in the [Canadian] far North, especially among fur-trade men and trappers: 1934 and earlier' (Leechman). Perhaps ex mug up, v., 3, or simply from mug up!, bring your mug; cf. grub up!, and next, 3.

mug up, v.i., and, more gen., v.t. To study hard: mostly school, university and Army: from ca. 1860; ob.—2. V.t. and v.i., to paint one's face: theatrical: 1859, H.; 1892, Milliken, 'You're mugged up to rights.'—3. To eat: mostly in the Grand Banks schooners: late C.19—20. Bowen.

mugger. One who studies hard: mostly schools':—1883 (James Payn).—2. (Also mug-faker: 1887, Baumann.) A comedian specialising in grimaces: theatrical: 1892 (also prob. earlier), National Observer, 27 Feb. 'None had ever a more expressive viznomy than this prince of muggers.'—3. (Also muggar, muggur.) A crocodile. Anglo-Indian: 1844: coll. or, more prob., S.E. See OED and Y. & B. Ex Hindustani.—4. A punch or blow to or on the mug or face: boxers': ca. 1810—60. Boxiana, III, 1821.—5. Orig. euph., then joc., for bugger: since ca. 1945. Nevil Shute, Round the Bend, 1951. (R.S.) Cf. muck, naff, as euphemisms.—6. One who, in the street, robs with violence: adopted, ex US, early 1970s; by 1980, verging on familiar S.E. See mug, v., 5. muggill. A beadle: c. of ca. 1600—20. (Rowlands, in Martin Mark-All.) ?etym.

mugging. Vbl n. to mug, v., 1, 2, 3, 5, 6, qq.v.

Mugging Hall. The hall where the boys prepare their lessons: Winchester College: from ca. 1850. (B. & L.) Ex mug, v., 6.

muggins. A simpleton, 'juggins' (q.v.), fool: adopted, ex US, ca. 1880. Ex mug, n., 4, suggested by the surname Muggins. A C.20 elab. is Billy Muggins. P.B.: if applied to oneself, in army coll. of 1950s—60s, it sometimes, ex influence of service in Germany, became Icky muggins, as 'and who got lumbered for coping with it? Why, Icky muggins here.' Ger. Ich = I.—2. A borough-magnate or local leader: ca. 1890—1910.—3. In talk muggins, to say silly things: Punch, 10 Sep. 1881 (OED) [muggle. Recorded for 1607 in Middleton and for 1617 in T. Young, this word is perhaps s. 'Origin and meaning obscure', says the OED, but the OED's quotations lead me to hypothesise 'sweetheart' in Middleton and 'girl' in T. Young, with etymology in It. moglie, a wife.]

muggled. An adj. applied to cheap goods offered for sale as contraband: c.: from ca. 1850; ob. (Mayhew.) A perversion of smuggled.

muggles. Restlessness: ca. 1740—1800. Robertson of Struan, in Poems, 1750.—2. Marijuana: drugs world: later C.20, adopted ex US. Home Office; W. & F.

muggo. A tea break: London dockers': since ca. 1950. (BBC TV 1, 15 July 1965.) I.e. a 'mug o' tea'; cf. cuppa.

muggur. See mugger, 3.

muggy. Drunk: low: early C.19—early 20. Blackwood's, Nov. 1822 (Moe); H., 1st ed.

mugs' alley. That bar along the edge of a rink along which learner-skaters feel their way: ice and roller skaters', esp. at Wembley: since ca. 1930.

mugs away! The call which means that the loser(s) of one round of a game, e.g. darts, billiards, dominoes, etc., shall have first throw, stroke, etc., in the next round: orig. Services', in recreation halls, junior messes: since late 1940s. (P.B.)

mug's corner. The fielding position at mid-on; that at short leg: cricketers': ca. 1890—1910. Observer, 10 Mar. 1935.

mug's game. A silly—esp., an unprofitable—thing to do: late C.19—20.

mug's ticker. A counterfeit Swiss watch: c.: later C.20. (Powis.) See patacca.

mugsnatcher. 'Photographer operating at a fairground, in the street, or at the seaside' (M.T.): market-traders': since (?) ca. 1930. Cf. mug-shot.

mugster. One who studies hard (i.e. 'mugs'): schools': —1888; ob.

mugwump. A great man; an important one: from ca. 1830, and orig. and mainly US: perhaps orig. coll., but certainly soon S.E. Ex the Red Indian for a chief. (The v. and the derivatives are certainly S.E.) It is now gen. used in a pej. manner, to insinuate that he is, to repeat the President of Princeton's definition, 'a man with his mug on one side of the fence and his wump on the other'—2. Hence, an unreliable voter: English: since the late 1920s; ob.

Muke. A College passage leading to Big and Little Muke (rooms): Eton: late C.19—20. Marples supports the derivation ex Gr. mukhos, a nook.

mukkin. Butter: see muckin.

mulberry. usually in pl. A prefabricated harbour: Services: 1944, then ob. Ex Operation Mulberry, the erection of the two prefabricated harbours on the coast of Normandy in June 1944.

mule. A sexually impotent man: low coll.: from ca. 1870. A mule being unable to generate.—2. A day hand in the composing room: printers': mid-C.19—early 20.—3. A drug-carrier or -smuggler: underground: adopted, ex US, later 1970s. 'Some [Westerners] have brought drugs back to Europe to sell... Some... may be used as "mules" by dealers' (Time Out, 15 Feb. 1980).—4. See shoe (one's) mule.

mulga. Short for mulga wire(s), q.v. Ex:—2. 'A species of acacia: colloquially "the mulga" may refer to uninhabited or inhospitable regions generally' (Wilkes): Aus.: C.20.—3. See go mulga.

mulga madness. 'The "queerness" sometimes developed in lone bushmen or fossickers' (B., 1943): Aus. coll.: C.20. Ex prec., 2. Cf. bushed, 3.

mulga wire(s). A (sometimes) unfounded report, often incorrect; var. of 'bush telegram', 'grapevine': Aus.: since late C.19. Wilkes quotes T. Quinn, The Well Sinkers, 1899, 'How do you hear it, Micky?' 'Mulga wires, missus, mulga wires'. Often shortened to mulga, q.v., as in K.S. Prichard, Winged Seeds, 1950, 'The troops've had it all by mulga' (Wilkes).

mull, n. A muddle, a mismanagement, a failure: 1821, Egan, 'Somebody must make a mull': s. >, ca. 1860, coll. Esp. in make a mull of. Prob. ex muddle on analogy of mell, meddle (W.), or perhaps ex dial. mull, to pulverise, cause to crumble (OED).—2. Hence, or perhaps ex the v., from ca. 1865, a simpleton; a clumsy fellow. Chiefly old mull, regular mull.—3. A Civil Service officer of the Madras Presidency: Anglo-Indian: from ca. 1835. Abbr. mulligatawny. (Y. & B.) See also duck and Qui-hi.

mull, v. To spoil, muddle: orig. and mainly athletics: coll.: 1862, Sporting Life, 14 June 'Pooley here "mulled" a catch' (OED). Ex the n., 1. Cf. muff, 1. mullarkey. Aus. adaptation, from ca. 1944, of orig. US mull(ler)key, 'blarney'. D'Arcy Niland, The Shiralee, 1955.

Muller. A German: Guards regts': 1939–45. Ex the common German surname Müller. P-G-R.

muller, v.t. To cut down a tall hat into a low-crowned one (occ. called a muller): trade: 1864–ca. 85. (Builder, Nov. 1864.) The hat was also called a Muller-cut-down. Ex Müller, a murderer who attempted to disguise himself in this way. mullet. See prawn-headed mullet; stunned mullet.

mullier. A murderer: market-traders': C.20. (M.T.) Ex mully, q.v.

mulliga stew. A soupy sort of stew: Aus. tramps': since ca. 1925. (B., 1942.) Ex US mulligan (see Underworld), or, perhaps, from mulligatawny soup.

mulligans. Playing cards: Aus.: C.20. (B., 1942.) Why?

mulligatawny. See mull, n., 3. Ca. 1810–20. 'Quiz', 1816. ?ex the high seasoning of this East Indian soup and the peppery temper of many officials.

mulligrubber. A low-keeping bowled ball: cricketers': C.20. Prob. ex grub, n., 5, q.v. Cf.:

mulligrubs; in C.19–20, occ. mollygrubs or muley-grubs. Colic: from ca. 1615: S.E. till C.19, then coll. Fletcher, in Monsieur Thomas; 'Cuthbert Bede', 1853. OED. Ex: —2. (Esp. in be in one's mulligrubs.) Depressed spirits (cf. mubblefubbles): C.17–20 (anticipated in 1599 by Nashe's mulligrums, which persists in dial.): S.E. till C.19, then coll. Scott (of a drink), 'Right... as ever washed mulligrubs out of a moody brain'. Both senses, esp. the latter, are ob. A fantastic formation, perhaps on mouldy grubs.

Mullingar heifer. (A development from the Lexicon Balatronicum's Munster heifer, q.v.) A thick-ankled girl: Anglo-Irish: from ca. 1860; ob. (H., 3rd ed.) The common Anglo-Irish expression is beef to the heels, like a Mullingar heifer. See-Mullingars. Shares in the Midland Great Western Railway of Ireland: Stock Exchange coll.:—1895. (A.J. Wilson, Stock Exchange Glossary). Mullingar is a market, assize and county town 50 miles NW of Dublin (Bartholomew's Gazetteer).

mullock. Rubbish; a worthless thing: Aus. coll.: from ca. 1852. Hence to poke mullock (v.t. with at), to tease, deride: Aus.: C.20 (C.J. Dennis). Ex the mining-j. senses, rock without gold, refuse of gold-workings, ex Eng. dial. (EDD).—2. Hence, of an ignorant or otherwise worthless person: since ca. 1880. B., 1942, cites 'Rolf Boldrewood'.

mullock over. To shear incompletely or very carelessly: Aus. shearers': from ca. 1890. (Melbourne Age, 23 Sep. 1893: Morris.) Ex mullock, q.v.

multa, multie, multi, multy (q.v.). Very: Parlyaree: mid-C.19–20. E.g. in:

multee kertever (or -iver) or multicattivo. Very bad: theatrical (—1887) ex (—1859) Parlyaree; very ob. in the former. (H., 1st ed.) Lester, spells it multi (or -y) cotioa. Ex It. molto cattivo, very bad, via Lingua Franca.

multi-coloured yawn. A vomiting; vomit: Aus. 'educated' joc.: early 1970s. 'From Barry Humphries's shows and records' (Camilla Raab, 1977). Cf. synon. technicolor yawn.

multiples. Company shops, chain stores: commercial coll.: since ca. 1920; by 1946, S.E.

multy. An expletive and/or intensive adj.: low and Parlyaree: mid-C.19–20. Henley, 1887, 'How do you melt the multy swag?' E. Seago, Circus Company, 1933, shows that, in C.20, it occ. means 'bad': prob. ex multee kertever, q.v. Ex It. molto, much, very.—2. Adv. See multa.

mun. Silence, esp. if connoting a refusal to speak: coll.: 1562 (J. Heywood); Butler; Pall Mall Gazette, 7 Jan. 1890, 'If the policy of "mun" continues' (OED). Ob. Ex mun, a representation of an inarticulate sound: cf. muff, n.6.—2. As a silent person, as adj. and v., and as an interj., it is S.E.—3. See mums.—4. Mother, gen. as term of address: orig. (—1823), dial.; > coll. ca. 1880. Also, in C.20, mums. Abbr.

mummy, q.v.—5. 'One's wife or long-established mistress, and not one's mother, unless it is plainly made to sound so by the addition of such words as "my dear old mum"' (Powis): low coll.: later C.20.—6. A low coll. var. of ma'am, q.v.: C.19–20. Cf. mem.—7. A chrysanthemum: flower-growers' and -sellers': C.20. Cf. synon. casant.

mun as a quasi-adv. (strictly silent), esp. in to stand mun, is coll.: C.16–19. Archaic except in dial. R. Bridges, 1894, 'Don't stand there mum' (OED).

mun-glass. The Monument erected in memory of the Great Fire of London (1666), on Fish Street Hill, London, E.C.: late C.17–20; ob. (B.E., Dyche & Pardon, Grose.) Ex S.E. sense, a glass used for drinking mun, a kind of beer brewed orig. in Brunswick (OED): the shape.

mun, me bun's numb. See ee, mum, ...

mun-tip. (A payment of) hush-money: ca. 1815–50. Pierce Egan, Life in London, 1821.

mun your dubber! Silence!: from ca. 1780; ob.: c. (G. Parker.) See dubber, 1.

mumble-crust. A coll. nickname for a toothless person: ca. 1550–1620.

mumble-matins. A coll. nickname for a priest: ca. 1560–1630.

mumble-mumper. 'An old, sulky, inarticulate, unintelligible actor' (B. & L.): theatrical: mid-C.19–early 20.

mumble-news. A tale-bearer: 1588, Shakespeare, 'Some mumble-news, some trencher-knight, some Dick': coll. >, in C.19, S.E.; ob. by 1860, † by 1900.

mumble-peg. The female pudend: low: C.19. In the old-fashioned wooden mole-trap still sometimes used, the mumble-peg is a peg which the mole loosens in his passage and thereby springs the trap. Cf. mole, 1, q.v.

mumble-sparrow. 'A cruel sport practised at wakes and fairs', a handicapped man (gen. with arms tied behind his back) attempting to bite off the head of a handicapped cock sparrow. Coll. > S.E.: ca. 1780–1820. Grose.

munbo-jumbo. Meaningless jargon: mid-C.19–20; coll. >, by 1930, S.E. Ex the S.E. sense: an object of senseless veneration, itself ex a West African word.

munchance that or who was hanged for saying nothing, look or sit like. A c.p. applied to a silent, glum-looking person: late C.17–mid-19. (B.E., Grose.) Cheshire substitutes munphazard and stand. Apperson.

mummer. An actor: contemptuous s.: 1840 (Carlyle). Ex the S.E. sense, an actor in a dumb show or in a mummung. Whence mummerdom, rather S.E. than unconventional.—2. The mouth: low, esp. boxing: ca. 1780–1870. (Grose, 1st ed.) Ex mun(s) and mums, qq.v.

mummerset. 'Derogatory for actors' "dialect" speech, approximating to West Country' (L.A.): since earlyish C.20; coll. > S.E. A punning blend of mummer, 1 + Somerset. Cf. prec., 1.

munmery and millinery. 'Religious ritualism, mainly by those who do not approve of it or think that it is overdone' (Petch, 1966): coll.: C.20.

munmery-cove. An actor: low: ca. 1830–80. Cf. cackling-cove, q.v.

mummies, Mummies. Egyptian securities: Stock Exchange: 1903 (Westminster Gazette, 17 Feb.: OED). Mummification being an Egyptian process and mummies a source of interest.

munming-booth. 'A wandering marquee in which short plays are produced': theatrical coll.: mid-C.18–early 20. Ware.

munny. Mother, esp. as term of address: orig. (—1790), dial.; > coll. ca. 1880 and 'in recent years fashionable in England' (OED, 1908). Ex mother or mammy, q.v.

mump, n. Short for mumper, 1: early C.18. See SHORTENINGS, in Appendix.—2. In on the mump, a-begging: vagabonds' c.: late C.19–20. Pugh.

mump, v. To deceive, overreach, cheat: ca. 1650–1740: s. >, ca. 1710, coll.; very gen. until ca. 1705. (Fuller, Wycherley, North.) Ex Dutch mompen, to cheat.—2. To disappoint: coll.:

ca. 1700–40. (Kersey.) Both senses constructed with (out) of.—3. V.i., to beg, be a parasite: from ca. 1670; ob.: orig. c. >, ca. 1750, low s. Head, Macaulay.—4. V.t., to obtain by begging: from ca. 1680; ob. F. Spence.—5. (V.t.) To call at (a house) on a begging round: from ca. 1865: c. >, ca. 1890, low s.; ob. (For these five senses) OED. Powis, 1977, records 'mump, to scrounge or beg' as extant.—6. To talk seriously: low:—1857; ob. ('Ducange Anglicus').

mumper. A beggar: from ca. 1670; ob.: c. >, by 1720, low s. Until ca. 1720, a genteel, then any beggar (witness Head, 1673; and Grose, 1785). Extant also as dial.—2. Hence, a sponger: ca. 1720–1830. Macaulay, 1849, 'A Lincoln's Inn mumper was a proverb.' Powis, 1977, records 'mumper, a beggar or scrounger' as extant.—3. A half-bred gipsy: later C.19 gipsies' c. (Hindley); C.20, a 'low-grade' gipsy, one who has no van.—4. A tramp (person): C.20 c. (W.L. Gibson Cowan, Loud Report, 1937.) Mumpers' talk is tramps' c. Thus 'No. 747': The Autobiography of a Gipsy, speaks of 'that strange mixture of thieves' Latin and mumpers' talk which has so often done duty for genuine Romninus' (Romany).

mumper's brass. Money: early C.18. See MONEY, in Appendix.

mumper's (or -ers') hall. A beggar's ale-house: late C.17–mid-19: c. until ca. 1720, then low s. B.E. (a pertinent description); Grose, 1st ed.

mumping, vbl n. and ppl adj. Begging: resp. from ca. 1690 (c. > low s.) and from ca. 1825 (low s., ob.): n. in Motuey, adj. in Lytton. Cf. the dial. Mumping Day, Boxing Day: C.19–early 20. (Prob. S.E. is C.15 mumpin(g)s, alms.)

muple-mumper. An occ. C.19 var. of mummer, 1.

mumps, the. Very low spirits: proletarian coll.:—1887 (Baumann). Cf. dumps.

mumpus. A perversion of mumping, q.v. Baumann.

muns. The lips: late C.18–19. More gen. muns, q.v. Cf. also mun.—2. See mum, n., 4.

muns-and-toddlers. A group activity organised at, e.g. local community or social centre, for mothers with very young children, affording a chance and a reason to get out of the house and meet others; as in 'Tuesday afternoons it's muns-and-toddlers': social workers' coll. verging on j: later C.20. (Mrs Daphne Beale, 1980.)

mun's the word! Silence: coll.: C.18–20. (T. Brown.) Earlier, mum for that! (S.E.). munsie or -y. Mother: domestic and nursery coll.: late C.19–20. (Evelyn Waugh, A Handful of Dust, 1934.) Cf. mummy, q.v.

munsie, adj. Motherly: mostly lower-middle class: C.20. Bill Naughton, Alfie Darling, 1970.

mun; often munn, (early) munne. The mouth: C.14–20; s. († by ca. 1880) and dial. (EDD.) Ex Norwegian dial. munn, the mouth. Cf. muns, q.v. (also a var.), and mund.—2. One of a band of London street ruffians ca. 1670: coll. (Shadwell, 1691: OED). Cf. scourer, mohock. ?etym. if not ex mun, the mouth: perhaps they were very loud-mouthed fellows.—3. Money: C.20. Michael Innes, Appleby at Allington, 1968.

munch, v.i. To eat heavily; 'stuff': proletarian coll.:—1923 (Manchon). Cf. Munching House, 2.

munch-present. A servant that tastes of his master's presents to a friend: app. c.: ca. 1560–90. Awdelay.—2. A glutton: C.16(?–17): coll.—3. A taker of bribes: late C.16–17: coll.

muncher boy. A fellator: mostly RN: since ca. 1950 (?earlier). Cf. gobbler, 6, and a low, army c.p. current in the Far East, early 1960s, munch my bunch!

munchies. In '(e.g. I've got the munchies', (I'm) hungry: teenagers': early 1980s. (James Williamson, 1982.)

Munching House. Mansion House (London): City:—1885; ob. Ware, 'From the lusty feeding going on there'.—2. Hence (m.-h.), a cheap restaurant: lower classes': C.20. Manchon. mund, munds. A C.19 var. of mun, 1, and muns, qq.v. Perhaps influenced, as R.S. observes, by Ger. der Mund, the mouth, via Yiddish.

mundane. A person of fashion: Society coll.: ca. 1890–1910. (Ware.) Ex Fr. mondain(e).

munduc. 'The seaman left to take charge of the boat on the pearl fishery, while the others are diving': pearl-fishers': late C.19–20. (Bowen.) Prob. ex the Malayan munduk, a mole: a sense that accords well with nautical humour.

mung, n. A look, a glance, a brief search: C.20. (Percy F. Westerman, The Terror of the Seas, 1927.) Perhaps cf. mung, v.—2. A var. of mong, 1 and 2.

mung, v. To beg, gen. v.i.: tramps' c.: from ca. 1810; ob. (Lex. Bal., Mayhew, P.H. Emerson.) Ex Romany mong, request, beg (mongamengro, a beggar). Cf. man and mump, qq.v.—2. Hence, specifically, to ask, to 'tap', for a loan; 'Mung him for a flim [£5]'; market-traders': C.20. M.T.—3. To ask or request, as in 'Mung the messer to scarper' (M.T.): id. Senses 2 and 3 also spelt mang.

munga. A smoke (or two) during a period of rest from work: NZ: C.20. ?Maori. Cf. smoke.—2. See mungas.

mungaree or (better) munjari, munjarly. Food; scraps of bread; a meal: orig. Parlyaree and tramps' c., from ca. 1855 (Mayhew, Hindley, Emerson); later, in the munjarly form, also used by Liverpool street arabs (Arab). Ex It. mangiare (cf. Fr. manger), to eat, hence food, via Lingua Franca. Brit. troops' use of mungaree or manjaree, in Sicily and Italy, 1943–5, was prob. directly ex It. (P-G-R), but cf. munjaria, and mungey. For the form, cf. dinarly, q.v. Also mange, q.v.—2. Begging, 'working as a tramp': tramps' c. (gen. as mon garee or -gery): C.20.

mungaree stuck. Penniless, esp. if temporarily: showmen's and grafters': C.20. I.e. 'stuck for'—short of—mungaree.

munjaria. Food: army in N. Africa: 1940–5. The prec. word influenced by Arabic? P-G-R. munjarly-casa or -cass(e)y. A baker's shop: Parlyaree and tramps' c.: from ca. 1858. (H., 1st ed.; The Times, 18 Oct. 1864.) Ex prec. + It. casa, a house.

mungas or munja. Food; a meal, esp. lunch: NZ: since ca. 1919. Perhaps the Services' mungey given a Maori shape.—2. Also, among NZ soldiers in WW2, rations, as in 'the munja party' (Slatter).

munge. A shortened form of mungaree (Lester), or of the next.—2. Dark, darkness: c.: C.18. (C. Hitchin, The Regulator, 1718.) Origin?

mung(e)y. Food: Services': since ca. 1860. (Bowen.) Either ex Fr. manger, to eat ['borrowed' from French allies in the Crimean War? P.B.], or a re-shaping of mungaree, q.v. P.B.: mungeys was an RAF version in the later 1950s.

mung(e)y-wallah. A man working in the cook-house: army: late C.19–earlier 20.

munging, vbl n. Begging: Northern s. (ob.) and dial.:—1859 (H., 1st ed.). Ex dial. munge, to grumble in low, indistinct tones (EDD); but see also mungaree, 2.

mungo. An important person, a 'swell': 1770 (Colman, Oxford Magazine): soon t, presumably s. ?ex Mungo, a common name for a Negro (1768). OED.

mungy. See mungey.

munish (pron. mewnish), v.i. To make munitions; to work in a munitions factory: WW1, Home Front. Miles Malleon, Black 'Ell, 1916, 'I say, Jean, you should come along and munish ... it's terrific sport.' Cf.:-

munitionette. A female worker on munitions: journalistic: WW1. OED Sup. cites Daily Sketch, 19 Nov. 1915. Ex:- munitions. The production of munitions; munition-work: coll.: from late 1915. The Ministry of Munitions was created in mid-1915. OED Sup.

munjari or -y. See mungaree. The -y from occurs in Cheap-jack, 1934.

munns. See muns.

munpins or, better, mompyns. The teeth: C.15–mid-16: coll. (Lydgate.) Lit., mouth-pins (see mun, 1). Also mone pynnes (as in Lydgate) and munpynns (as in Skelton). The OED considers it S.E.

muns; in C.17–early 18, occ. munns; in C.19, occ. munds. The face: from ca. 1660: c. >, ca. 1720, low s. (Head, Grose.) See mun, 1.—2. Occ. the lips (cf. mums, q.v.), the mouth (—1823), the jaws: C.18–20, ob. Foote, 1760, 'Why, you jade, ... I must have a smack at your muns'; Bee.

munshi. See moonshee.

Munster heifer. A thick-legged and/or thick-ankled woman: Anglo-Irish: ca. 1810–60. (Lex. Bal.) Cf. Mullingar heifer, q.v.

Munster plums. (Singular app. unrecorded.) Potatoes: Anglo-Irish >, ca. 1850, gen: from ca. 1780; ob. (Grose, 1st ed.) Cf. Irish apricots and murphies.

muogh. A pig: Shelta: C.18–20. B. & L.

mur. Rum: back s.:—1859 (H., 1st ed.); very gen. among soldiers in WW1, but ob. from ca. 1920.

murder. See blue murder; God's revenge...

murder bag. A bag made of hide and containing all such equipment as is necessary in the investigation of a murder: Scotland Yard coll.: C.20. The murder bags are out, 'a murder is being investigated'. Freeman Wills Crofts, Fear Comes to Chalfont, 1942.

murder-house. Pun on the initials of military hospital: army, other ranks': ca. 1920–39.

murder is out, the. The mystery is solved: C.18–20: S.E. >, ca. 1830, coll. Ex the proverbial murder will out (late C.13–20), Apperson.

murder on the mountain. Semolina pudding, (esp. if mound-shaped) sploshed with (red) jam: schoolgirls': since ca. 1945.

'Murder!' she cried. C.p. of a girl luckless enough, at a dance, to meet a clumsy, heavy-footed partner: ca. 1910–30.

murder suit. 'Get hold of a "murder suit"'. That's a long pair of overalls with deep pockets for carrying grenades, wire-cutters, and ammo. Nothing will shine if you wear that' (Rats, 1944): Aus. army at Tobruk: 1940+.

murderin' Irish!; orig. murder an' Irish! A lower classes' exclam. indicative of a climax: mid-C.19–early 20. Ware.

Murdering Thieves, the. The Army Service Corps: military: 1857–60. Ex 'the Military Train', as the Corps was then known. Also nick-named the London Thieving Corps, 1855–7, and the Moke Train, 1857–60. For C.20 names, see Ally Sloper's Cavalry; cf. Linsed Lancers, the A.M.C. Cf. thief, 2, q.v.

murerk. The mistress of the house: tramps' c.: from ca. 1855. (H., 1st ed.)? burerk perverted.

murg. A telegram: Post Office telegraph-messengers': —1935. P.B.: Perhaps orig. a perverted back s. of 'gram, but more directly ex murginger.

murgatroyd. See TIDDLYWINKS, in Appendix.

murginger. A telegraph-boy: Post Office: from ca. 1920. A perversion of messenger.

murkarker or murkauer. A monkey: ca. 1850–80: low coll. seldom heard outside London. (H., 1st ed.) Ex Jacko Macauro or Maccacco, a famous fighting monkey of ca. 1840–5 at the Westminster Pit. (In S.E., macaco is any monkey of the genus Macacus.) Also maccaco.

murky, n. An Aborigine: Aus.: C.20. (B., 1942.) Suggested by darky. Cf. dinge, 2 and 3, q.v.

murky, adj. Containing secrets, 'shady'; sinister, discreditable: esp. in (e.g. his) murky past: from ca. 1920: joc. coll. Ex the late C.18–20 senses, very dark (of colour) and dirty, grimy. Richard Keverne, The Man in The Red Hat, 1930, 'I felt pretty sure she was terribly worried ... But, by Gad! I'd no idea things were quite as murky as they are.' The sense is anticipated in P.G. Wodehouse, Love among the Chickens, 1906, 'I was ... thinking about my wretched novel. I had just framed a more than usually murky scene.'

Murky Navy, the. The Merchant Navy: nautical: since ca. 1940. (TV, 1 July 1964; L.J. Cunliffe, Having It Away, 1965.) A pun on 'Merchant'.

murph, but gen. murphy. A potato: from resp. ca. 1870, ca. 1810. (Lex. Bal., Thackeray.) Ex the very common Irish surname: cf. donovan, q.v.—2. Morpheus, i.e. sleep: sol.: 1748 (Smollett, in Roderick Random); H., 2nd ed. (Only Murphy.)—3. Murphy: as in 'The pilot's worst enemy is the incompetent "Murphy" in the hangar' (Phantom): RAF: 1970s. ?Ex 'potato-head' for a dull-wit, or perhaps the Murphy of Murphy's Law. (P.B.)

Murphy's countenance or face. Pig's head: from resp. ca. 1810 († by 1890) and ca. 1860. Vaux in Dict. and Memoirs (1812, 1819). Cf. murph, 1.

Murphy's law. US version of sod's law, q.v. ('If something can go wrong, it will—and even if it can't, it still might'): adopted in Brit., as a euph., ca. 1975. See esp. Paul Dickson, The Official Rules, 1978, pub. in UK 1980. Cf. synon. Spode's law.

[murray is frequent in C.16–early 18 cursings. Lit., a plague.]

Murray. See Mrs Murray.

Murray cod, on the. 'On the nod, i.e. on credit' (Wilkes): Aus. rhyming s.: later C.20.

Murray's Bucks. The 46th Regiment of Foot, the South Devonshire Regt; named 'after their Colonel in the Jacobite Rising of 1746' (Carew). Also known as the Lacedemonians, q.v.

Murrumbidgee jam. 'Brown sugar moistened with cold tea and spread on damper' (B., 1943): Aus. rural s.: earlier C.20. B., 1959.

Murrumbidgee whaler. See whaler.

murthereer. (Gen. pl.) A cannon for use against, rather the men than the material of a ship: naval coll.: C.18–early 19. Bowen.

muscateer. An addict of (very cheap) muscat wine: Aus.: since ca. 1930. (B., 1943.) A pun on musketeer.

muscle. See on the muscle.

muscle bo'sun. A physical-training officer: RN: C.20. (Bowen.) A synonym of india-rubber man.

muscle factory. A gymnasium: mostly army and esp. the Guards: C.20. Gerald Kersh, 1941.

muscle-grinder. See leg-grinder.

muscle in. To intrude, by violence, on another's 'racket': US c. anglicised ca. 1928 and, by 1935, > gen. s. = to poach, fig., on another's preserves. (COD, 1934 Sup.) Abbr. muscle one's way in. P.B.: later, usu. with on, as in 'He tried to muscle his way in on the act, but we weren't having any [sc. of that sort of behaviour]'. An early example is in Anthony Weymouth, Temp Me Not, 1937.—2. Hence, to profit by another's advantage of good luck: Services': 1940s. Partridge, 1945.

muscle merchant. A physical-training instructor: RAF: since ca. 1940. Jackson.

Muscles. Polite; informal vocative to a physical-training instructor: Services': C.20. (P.B.)

Museum headache. Extreme ennui; impatient boredom: London writers', authors', journalists': 1857–ca. 1914. Ware, whose quotation from the Daily News of 11 Dec. 1882, shows that the phrase referred to the waiting for books in the British Museum Reading Room.

museuming. The visiting of museums: coll.: 1838, 'A day or two museuming' (OED).

mush. An umbrella: low:—1851 (Mayhew), but recorded in a compound in 1821. See also mush-topper and mushroom, 1, from which it derives: ex the shape.—2. (pron. moosh, or to rhyme with push.) The mouth: boxing, then low: mid-C.19–20. Prob. orig. US. (Matsell, Walford.) Also Aus. (D'Arcy Niland, The Shiralee, 1955)—3. The face: NZ low: C.20. Ex the softness of mush, and ex 2.—4. Short for mush man, q.v., a cab-driver. See quot'n at instalment mixture. —5. A police-station, a lock-up: Liverpool street arabs': ca. 1880–1930. Arab.—6. Hence, the guard-room; cells: army: late C.19–earlier 20. (F. & G.) B. & P. note var. moosh. Senses 5 and 6 are perhaps ex dial. mush, to crush.—7. Porridge: nautical coll.: C.19–earlier 20. (Bowen.) McNeil, 1973, notes its use (pron. to rhyme with push) in Aus. prisons, for 'prison porridge'.—8. As Mush, the services' nickname, on Egyptian service, for a man surnamed Knott or Nott: ca. 1920–55. Ex the Arabic for not.—9. Sentimentality: since ca. 1880: coll. >, > by 1930, S.E. Cf. sloppy—10. A scrum in Rugby football: mush up!, 'Push (in the scrum)!': London schools': ca. 1875–1900. (Professor Arnold Wall, letter, 1939.; This sense occurs also in Talbot Baines Reed, The Fifth Form at St Dominic's, 1907.—11. A man: c. and market-traders': late C.19–20. (Gilt Kid, 1936; M.T.) Often in combination: see coring mush and rye mort. Pron. to rhyme with push, and ex Roman moosh, a man.—12. Hence, by specialisation, a man from somewhere else, e.g. a newcomer from Liverpool to Southampton: seamen's: since ca. 1910—13. A companion, mate, pal: low, perhaps esp. Services'; often as (not necessarily friendly) vocative: C.20 Powis notes its use among South Country thieves: "'Hello, my old mush" would be a friendly greeting.' Also spelt moosh. Ex sense 11.

mush-faker, mush-top(p)er-faker, mushroom-faker. A member of umbrellas: resp. low (—1851), Mayhew; c. of ca. 1820–50, Haggart; c. or low (—1839), ob. by 1860, Brandon, Mayhew. Ex mush, 1, and faker, q.v. The first was still current, low, mid-C.20 (Tempest).

mush-faking, occ. mushfaking. Umbrella-mending: low: from ca. 1857. P.H. Emerson.

mush, gush, and lush. 'Mean interested criticism—critiques paid for either in money or feastings': authors' and journalists': ca. 1884–1905. Ware.

mush man. 'A driver who mounts his own cab': cabmen's: ca. 1880–1910. (Clarkson & Richardson, Police!, 1889.) His passenger is sheltered, as it were, by a mush or umbrella. From ca. 1890, abbr. mush; sometimes as little mush. Also known as a musher: cab-trade: late C.19—early 20. (Globe, 22 Apr. 1887: OED.) Powis, 1977, records variants mushie and musher for a 'taxi driver who owns his cab'.

mush-top(p)er. An umbrella: c.: from ca. 1820; † by 1880. (Haggart.) See mushroom, 1; cf. mush, 1, and mush-faker.
musha. An interj. connoting strong feeling: from ca. 1830: Anglo-Irish coll. >, by 1870, S.E. (Lover.) Ex Irish maiseadh, if it be so. OED.

mushed(-)up. Well-dressed: c.:—1933 (Charles E. Leach, On Top of the Underworld). Perhaps ex mollid up influenced by mushy, qq.v.

musher. A mushroom: market-gardens' and greengrocers': late C.19–20. (Bournemouth Echo, 29 June 1944.) A shortening of the dial. pron. musheroom.—2. See mush man.

mushie. See mush man.

mushiness. See mushy.

mushing, vbl n. 'Cab-owning on a small scale': cab-men: ca. 1887–1915. (Globe, 22 Apr. 1887: OED.) See mush man.

mushroom. An umbrella: low: C.19. (Mayhew, 1856.) Ex the shape. Cf.—2. A circular hat with a low crown, esp. a lady's with brim down-curving: coll.: from ca. 1864; ob. H., 3rd ed.—3. The female pudend: low: C.19.—4. The great clock to be seen in most taverns': tavern-frequenter's:—1909 (Ware). Ex shape.—5. 'A market-trader who appears only occasionally or spasmodically. Regular stall-holders tend to view him with suspicion' (Patrick O'Shaughnessy, 1979): market-traders': current in 1970s. Cf. crocus.—6. 'The Royal Fleet Auxiliary crew considered themselves "mushrooms"—they were kept in the dark about almost everything' (Gareth Parry, report on the recent Falkland Is. campaign, in Guardian, 2 July 1982). Ex the US witticism current during the 1970s, 'I feel like a mushroom: everyone keeps me in the dark and is always feeding me bullshit' (George A. Krzymowski, 1978); the saying had reached UK by 1979, when I saw it used as a slogan on a T-shirt. (P.B.) mushroom factory. 'Compartment under a nuclear submarine's missile room, with mushroom-shaped compressed-air flasks for missile launching': RN, esp. Submariners': since ca. 1960. Peppitt refers to G. Jenkins, Hunter Killer, 1966.

mushroom-faker. See mush-faker.

mush's lotion. See quo'n at instalment mixture.

mushter. See mush man.

mushy. Insipid; gushingly sentimental: from early 1870s: coll. >, by 1910, S.E. George Eliot, 1876, 'She's not mushy, but her heart is tender' (OED). Whence mushiness (—1890). Cf. mush, 9.

music. A C.18 abbr. of music's paid, the, q.v., Grose, 1st ed.—2. The reverse or 'tail' of a coin, but only in 'calling the toss': Anglo-Irish: ca. 1780–1930. (Grose, 1st ed.) Ex the harp on the reverse of an Irish farthing or halfpenny.—3. In it makes ill music, applied to unwelcome news: coll.: late C.17—mid-18, B.E.—4. In you make as good music as a wheelbarrow: a semi-proverbial c.p. to one who plays badly or is unpleasantly noisy: C.18. 'Proverbs' Fuller.—5. See face the music; TAVERN TERMS, §3d, in Appendix.—6. A car-radio: car dealers'. Clive Graham-Ranger, in Sunday Time mag., 9 Aug. 1981, p. 42.

music-box. A piano: joc. coll.: 1849 (Thackeray); C. Reade, in Hard Cash.

music-duffing, vbl n. Reconditioning old musical instruments: low:—1923 (Manchon).

music-hall howl. The singing heard in music halls: musicians' coll.:—1909 Ware, 'The result of endeavouring rather to make the words of a song heard than to create musical effect'.

musical. (Of horses) with defective respiration: C.20. Cf. roarer, q.v. (OED.) Baumann, 1887, lists have musical propensities, (of a horse) to be a 'roarer': sporting journalists.

musical bathtub. 'A motor-car, especially a small one, looked upon with little favour by professional drivers' (Leachman): mostly Can.: since ca. 1960.

Musical Box, the. 'A widely celebrated Whippet Tank in the action at Villers Bretonneux, 8 Aug. 1918': military; now only historical. F. & G. musical chair. 'A latrine consisting of a pole set over a trench' (P-G-R): army: 1940–5.

musical comedy smile, a. 'Eyes, tits and teeth, as they say in the (theatrical) profession' (L.A., 1974, citing Douglas Hayes, The War of '39, 1970).

musical fruit. Any fruit or vegetables, e.g. beans, brussels sprouts, that produce flatulence: domestic: C.20. (P.B.) Cf. wind-pills.

musical instruments. 'Presently we heard a curious singing noise in the air, and then flop! flop! little pieces of shell-casing came buzzing down all around. "They [the infantrymen] calls them musical instruments," said the sergeant' (Robert Graves, Good-Bye to All That, 1929): WW1. musical propensities. See musical.

music's paid, the. (See also music, 1.) 'The Watch-word among High-way-men, to let the Company they were to Rob, alone, in return to some Courtesy' (B.E.): c.: late C.17—early 19. Grose.

muskie. A maskinonge (a large pike): Can.: mid-C.19–20. (Gregory Clark, Which We Did, 1936.) Short for the var. muskellunge.

muskin, gen. prec. by unaccountable. A chap, fellow, man, esp. if odd: ca. 1750–60. Johnson, 'Those who ... call a man a cabbage, ... an odd fish, an unaccountable muskin'. (OED.) ?a perversion of the C.16 endearing muskin.

muskra. A policeman: market-traders': C.20. (M.T.) A corruption of Romany mo(o)s(h)kero, a constable. Cf. mingra and mork, synonyms.

muslin. Sails, collectively; esp. the lighter sails: nautical: from ca. 1820; ob. Blackwood's Magazine, 1822, 'She shewed as little muslin as required' (OED).—2. The fair sex: ca. 1820–1920. W.N. Glascock's Naval Sketch-Book, 2nd series, 1834, at II, 66 (Moe). Gen. in forms a bit o(f) muslin, a woman, a girl: 1823, Moncrieff, 'A bit of muslin on the sly'; † by 1918; and a piece of muslin: ca. 1840–1900: less gen. than the former: in W.T. Moncrieff, 1843. Cf. synon: skirt, used in just the same way.

mussy. See muzzy, 1.

must, n. Something that must be done, seen, heard, read, bought, etc., esp. if one is to keep up to date: coll.: since early 1950s, but not very gen. until late 1950s. P.B.: occ. used negatively, as in the line from a 'pop' song of the mid-1960s, 'She's a must to avoid'.

must. 'As a past or historical present tense, must is sometimes used satirically or indignantly with reference to some foolish or annoying action or some untoward event.' Late C.14–20; S.E. till ca. 1850, then coll. 'Just when I was busiest, I must go and break my leg!' OED.

must have been drinking out of a damp glass or mug or pot, he, you, etc. A joc. c.p., either referring or addressed to someone who has caught a cold or who has a touch of rheumatism: C.20.

must you stay? can't you go? Joc. inversion of the polite form, to 'speed the parting guest': since late C.19. See DCpp. musta or muster. The make or pattern of anything; a sample: Anglo-Chinese and -Indian coll.: C.16–earlier 20. In 1563 as mostra, which is the Portuguese origin. (Y. & B.) H., 3rd ed., 'Very gen. used in commercial transactions all over the world'.

Mustafa (or Mustapha) Crap. Punning (on must have a) on the need to defecate: mostly Services', perhaps orig. in the Middle East: since (?)1930s. (A reminder from L.A.) mustard (at), be. To be excellent (at anything); (of a woman) be mustard, to be sexually 'hot stuff'; from late 1920s. Lyell. Ex hot stuff + keen as mustard.—2. In be mustard on, elliptical for 'be as keen as mustard (q.v.) on'—or esp. 'against'—something: coll.: since ca. 1950. 'This society is mustard on contamination offences' (Guardian, 26 Feb. 1979). (P.B.)—3. See cut the mustard.

mustard-plaster on his chest!, put a. A c.p. applied to 'a doleful and dismal pallid young man': lower-classes': ca. 1880–1914. (Ware.) Ex a comic song written in connexion with Colman's mustard by E. Laman Blanchard (1820–89).

mustard-pot. The female pudend: C.19–20; low.—2. A 'carriage with a light yellow body': lower classes: late C.19–20; ob. Ware.

muster. As used by Conway cadets, 'to line up outside galley or store-room for more food' (Masfield), it is rather j. than eligible.—2. See musta.

muster (one's) bag. To be ill: nautical, esp. RN: late C.19–20. (Bowen.) Ex taking one's kit-bag to the sick-bay.

mustn't. Must not: coll.: 1741, Richardson, 'I mustn't love my Uncle' (OED), but prob. in spoken use from ca. 1705.

mustn't-mention-'ems. Trousers: ca. 1850–1910. Cf. unmentionables, q.v.

musty. See mesty.

Muswellbrook. See things is crook...

mutcher. See moocher. Extremely rare form in C.20.

mute. An undertaker's assistant acting as a mourner silent supposedly from grief: from ca. 1760: coll. till ca. 1840, then S.E. Grose.—2. The vagina. Noted in Bruce Rodgers, The Queens' Vernacular, 1972, as 'British gay slang'. Cf. the mouth that says no words. (P.B.)

mute as a fish. Silent: C.15–20; ob.: coll. >, by 1600, S.E. (Burgh & Lydgate.) Galsworthy, 1914, has dumb as fishes. (Apperson.) In late C.18–20, often mute as fishes, and dial. offers at least six variants, e.g.:-

mute as a maggot. Excessively silent: proletarian coll.:—1923 (Manchon).

mutiny. The rum-ration: RN: late C.19–20. (Bowen.) Because, without it, the men would mutiny.

mutt. A 'stupid', a fool, a gawk: US (1910), anglicised in France in 1918. Ex mutton-head, q.v. (OED Sup.)—2. An affectionately disparaging term for a dog: coll.: since mid-C.20, ? earlier, perhaps ex US. Certainly ex sense 1. (P.B.) Mutt and Jeff. The British War Medal and Victory Medal: military: 1918. (B. & P.) Ex the famous pair of comic figures. Cf. Pip, Squeak and Wilfred, these two medals, or their ribbons on a uniformed chest, plus the Mons Star.—2. Deaf: theatrical rhyming s.: C.20. (Franklyn, Rhyming.) Also, by 1945 at the latest, gen. Cockney s.

mutt(-)eyes. Corn as food: Aus.: since ca. 1935. B., 1953.

mutt(-)house. One's former school; preparatory school: Royal Naval College, Dartmouth: C.20. Granville.

mutter and stutter. Butter (n. and v.): rhyming s.: C.20.

mutton. A loose woman; prostitutes collectively: 1518 (Skelton); Shakespeare; D'Urfe. Ob. by 1820, † by 1900. Rare in C.19 except as laced mutton, q.v.—2. Sexual pleasure; the female pudend; the sexual act: from ca. 1670; ob. E.g. in fond of his mutton, fond of the act. Almost solely from the man's stand-point. Rochester; H.—3. A sheep: late C.16–20: in C.19–early 20, joc. but (except as used at Bootham School) still S.E.—4. In her mutton, having carnal knowledge of a woman: low: C.19–early 20. (Lex. Bal.) Cf. sense 2.—5. See cold shoulder...; cut mutton; bow-wow mutton; jerk off; who stole the mutton?; underground mutton; make mutton of; hawk mutton.

Mutton-Bird. (Gen. pl.) A resident in N. Tasmania: Southern Tasmanians': C.20. Opp. couta, 2 (q.v.). Mutton-birds abound in N. Tasmania. B., 1942, records var. mutton-bird eater.

mutton boats. M-class submarines: RN: 1920s. John Malin cites Lt Cdr K. Edwards, We Dive at Dawn, 1939.

mutton-chopper. A mutton-chop (sc. whisker): ca. 1890–1900: mostly Cockney. (Milliken.) N.B. mutton-chop, in this sense, in S.E.

Mutton Chops, the. The Royal West Surreys, also called the Mutton Lancers: army: late C.19–20. 'From emblem of lamb and flag' (anon., The Soldiers' War Slang Dictionary, 1939).—2. As mutton-chops, a sheep's head: low: mid-C.19–early 20. H., 3rd ed.

mutton-cove. A 'mutton-monger', q.v.: low: from ca. 1830; ob.—2. (M.C.) The Coventry Street end of Windmill Street, once a resort of harlots: ca. 1840–70: low London. Ex mutton, 1.

mutton dagger. Penis: see pork sword.

mutton dressed as lamb or (ob.) lamb-fashion. An old woman dressed like a young one: low: mostly Cockney: from ca. 1860. Cf. the older form, an old ewe dressed lamb-fashion, q.v. at old ewe.

mutton-eye. 'One of the rather cruel nicknames for someone with a squint' (Muvver): Cockneys': C.20.

mutton-fed. Big, fat, and red-faced: coll.:—1923. Manchon, 'A mutton-fed policeman'.

mutton-fist or -hand. A large coarse hand, esp. if red: resp. 1664, Cotton, 'Lifting his Mutton-fists to th' skies'; from ca. 1820 and not very gen.—2. A printer's index-hand: printers':—1888 (Jacobi: OED).

mutton-fisted. (Of a pilot) heavy on the controls of an aircraft: RFC/RAF: since 1914. In later C.20, much more gen. and widespread coll.; 'Having hands figuratively as large and clumsy as legs of mutton' (Claiborne, 1976).

Mutton Flaps. 'Japs' (the Japanese): prisoners-of-war in the Far East, 1942–5; then, to a limited extent, among civilians, mostly in Aus. B., 1953.

mutton-head. A dull or stupid person: coll.: 1804 (OED). Ex: mutton-headed. Dull; stupid: s. (1788) and dial. (Grose.) Ex the well-known stupidity of sheep.

mutton in long coats. Women: low: late C.17–19. B.E.; Baumann. Cf.:

mutton in a silk stocking, leg of. A woman's leg or calf: low: late C.17–20. B.E.; Baumann.

Mutton Lancers, the. See the Mutton Chops. The Royal West Surreys lost their separate identity in a reorganisation, 1959.

mutton-monger. A wench: from ca. 1530; ob. by 1830, † by 1850. More, 1532 (OED); Florio; Chapman, 'As if you were the only noted mutton-monger in all the city'; Coles; Grose. Ex mutton, 1. Cf. muttoner, q.v. F. & H. provides a long synonymy.—2. A sheep-stealer: ca. 1660–1750. Cotton, B.E.—3. A considerable eater of mutton: mid-C.17. W. M., 1649, 'A horrible Mutton-monger, a Gorbelly-Glutton' (OED).

mutton-pies. The eyes: rhyming s.: ca. 1880–1910. Referee, 7 Nov. 1887, 'Bright as angels from the skies/Were her dark-blue mutton-pies.' Cf. the very much more gen. mince-pies, q.v. mutton-quad. An em quad; printers':—1871. Ex m for mut- ton. (OED.) Cf. mutton-thumper.

mutton rabble. A 'sheep-chase': Bootham School:—1925 (Bootham). Cf. rabble, q.v.

mutton-shunter. A constable; policemen's: 1883—ca. 1915.
(Ware.) Policemen keep harlots moving.

mutton-thumper. A bungling workman; a young apprentice bookbinder: late C.18—20; bookbinders'. (MS. note in the British Museum copy of Grose, 2nd ed.; F. & H.) Ex the sheepskin used in binding.

mutton-tugger. (Prob.) a 'mutton-monger', q.v.: presumably s.: ca. 1600. 'The nurseries of wickedness, the nests of mutton tuggers, the dens of formall droanes' (OED).

mutton-walk (or with capitals). The saloon at Drury Lane theatre: ca. 1820—80; London fast life. Egan, 1821, Real Life.—2. (? hence) any resort of harlots, esp. Piccadilly: from ca. 1870. Cf. mutton cove, 2, q.v.

muttoner. A 'mutton-monger', q.v.: C.17—early 19. (Halliwell.) Ex mutton, 1.—2. A blow on the knuckles from a cricket-ball: Winchester College: ca. 1850—90. Cf. mutton-fist, q.v.

muttonogoshit. Mutton: domestic Anglo-Indian coll.:—1886.
Lit., mutton-flesh. (Y. & B.) For its hybridity, cf. jail-khana.

muttonous. Slow; monotonous: low: ca. 1880—1910. Ex mono- tonous on glutinous.

muttons. The tax on live stock: OED cites Daily News, 1 Feb.
1881.—2. The Turkish loans of 1865 and 1873, these being in part secured on the sheep-tax: first recorded, 1887 (Baumann). Both are Stock Exchange and ob.—3. In such phrases as 'to the muttons again' (S.F. Hatton, 1930) or the more gen. 'Let us return to our muttons: let us get back to the subject under discussion: joc. coll. (E.P. considered it S.E.): C.20. Ex the Fr. Retourmons à nos moutons, where moutons=sheep. (P.B.)—4. 'When we speak of something being our muttons or a person's muttons we mean that we regard it with particular favour, that we like it especially well' (B., 1941): NZ and Aus.: C.20. Ex the excellence of NZ mutton.

muzz; occ. muz (†). One who studies hard, reads much and studiously. Trifler, no. 5, 1788, 'The almost indelible stigma of a Muz?'; 1899, W.K.R. Bedford. Ob. (OED.) Ex:

muzz, v.i. To study diligently; to 'mug', q.v. (V.t. with over.) S.J. Pratt, 1775, 'For ever muzzing over a mystery book'. Since ca. 1890, mainly at Westminster School: cf. the Eton sap, q.v.
? ex muse, (be)mused.—2. V.t. To fuddle; make 'muzzy' (q.v.): 1787, Fred. Philon', 'Apt to get muzzed too soon'. Cf. muzzle, v., 4.—3. V.i., to loiter or 'hang about': ca. 1778—1810. Mme D'Arbly, 1779, 'You would not dare keep me muzzling here.' ? cognate with muse, v. All three senses, OED; for the first, cf. remarks at WESTMINSTER, in Appendix. muzzed. Fuddled; stupidly tipsy: 1787, see quot'n at muzz, v., 2.

muzzel; occ. muzzle. A charm; work the muzzle (or -el), to sell charms; grafters': C.20. (Cheapjack, 1934.) Prob. ex Yiddish mazel; cf. entries at muzzle.

muzzing, vbl n. To muzz, v., all senses.—2. Ppl adj., studying hard; given to intent study: 1793 (J. Beresford); ob.
OED.

muzzle, n. A beard, esp. if long, straggly, and/or dirty:
C.17—18. (John Fletcher, The Prophetess, 1622, at V, iii (Moe); Grose, 1st ed.) Ex S.E. muzzle, the mouth.—2. See muzzel.

muzzle, v. To strike on the mouth: low, esp. pugilistic: from ca. 1850; ob. Mayhew, 1851, 'Just out of "stir" [q.v.] for muzzling a peeler.'—2. Hence, to fight; to thrash: low:
—1859; ob. H., 1st ed.—3. Hence, to throttle, garotte: c.: from ca. 1860; ob. H., 3rd ed.—4. To drink to excess: s. from
ca. 1850 ex (—1828) dial.; ob. as s. Also, v.t. to fuddle: s.
(from ca. 1850; ob.) ex dial. (—1796). OED.—5. To take,
'bag', get: orig. (1890, 'Rolf Boldrewood'), Aus. > gen. c.
1895; ob. (B. & L., 2nd ed.) Prob. ex S.E. muzzle, put a muzzle on. OED.

(muzzled) bull-dog. A main-deck gun: RN: ca. 1865—1905.

Admiral Smyth, 1867.—2. 'The great gun which stands housed in the officers' wardroom cabin' (Ibid.): ca. 1865—80.

muzzler. A blow on the mouth: from ca. 1810: boxing. Lex.
Bal.—2. A dram; a (quick) drink: low: C.19. (Bill Truck, Nov.
1822; H., 5th ed.) Ex muzzle, the mouth.—3. A strong head wind: from the middle 1870s: nautical coll. >, by 1910, S.E.
(Bowen; OED.) Cf. nose-ender, 2.

muzzling, vbl n. Hitting on the mouth: boxing: 1819; ob.
(OED.) Cf. muzzler, 1.

muzzling cheat. A napkin: c.:—1688; † by 1900. Randle Holme (musseling c.).

muzzy. (Of places) dull, gloomy; (of weather) overcast: coll.
and dial.: 1727, Mrs Delany, who spells it mussy; 1821, Coleridge, 'This whole long-lagging, muzzy, mizly morning'. Prob. ex dial. mosey, hazy, muggy.—2. Stupid, hazy of mind, spiritless: coll.: 1728, Mrs Delany; Keats, 1817, 'I don't feel inclined to write any more at present for I feel rather muzzy'; Thackeray. Cf. muzz, v., 2. Perhaps ex dial. mosey, stupified with liquor, or ex bemused.—3. Stupified, more
gen. stupid, with liquor: coll. and dial.: 1775, Thomas Campbell; Thackeray; J. Payn. Ex prec. senses.—4. Blurred, indistinct: coll.: from ca. 1830. (Washington Irving, 1832.) Ex senses 1, 2, and esp. 3. OED.—5. See go muzzy.

my!; oh my! A (low) coll. exclam.: 1707, J. Stevens, 'Such ... Sayings are a Discredit...: As for Instance... my Whither d'ye go'; 1849, Mrs Carlyle, 'Oh, my! if she didn't show feeling enough' (OED). Abbr. my God!—2. o(h) my is an abbr. of o(h), my Gaud, a sword: late C.19—20. B. & P.

my for me occurs in street oaths and asseverations, e.g. in s'elp my bob for s'elp me, bob for so help me, God: low:—1864 (H., 3rd ed.).

my arse! An expression of marked incredulity; intense negatives: low: since ca. 1880, ca. 1860, resp. "'More like ten past (eight o'clock)." "Ten past, my arse"' (Ernest Raymond, A Song of the Tide, 1940). Cf. like fuck!, s.v. fuck. But the phrase goes back at least as far as C.17: Jonson has so is mine arse! cf. the low (you can) kiss my (earlier, mine) arse! (Swift); axe (=ask) my arse!, and-my arse in (or on) a bandbox! Nonsense!: see bandbox.

my arse is dragging. I can hardly walk; I'm completely exhausted: Can.: since ca. 1915. (Leechman.)

my aunt! A coll. interj.: late C.19—20. Cf. giddy aunt, my.
P.B.: was this orig. a euph. for my arse—or have I been working on this Dict. too long?

my Aunt Fanny! An extension of prec., expressing incredulity: C.20.

my aunt (Jones). A water-closet: low euph.: from ca. 1850; ob. H., 1st ed. (my aunt). The longer form (H., 5th ed.), ca.
1870—1905, gen. dispenses with my. Cf. Mrs Jones, and Mrs Chant.

my bloater. See bloater.

my belly button's playing hell with my backbone. See belly-button is playing..., and cf. belly thinks...

my bloody! Shortening of my bloody oath!: Aus.: since ca. 1925.

my boy! I believe you. See I believe you my boy!

my brother from Gozo. See just the job for...

my colonial oath! An Aus. var. of my oath!: late C.19—20: Cf.
Henry Lawson's story, 'His Colonial Oath', in While the Billy Boils, 2nd series, 1897. Shortened to my colonial! by 1895 (Eric Gibbs, Stirring Incidents in Australasia); 'Tom Collins', Such is Life, 1903, has my bloody colonial! P.B.: it was still in half-joc., perhaps nostalgic, use among Aus. servicemen in the 1960s.

my eye! Occ. my eyes! († by 1860). A coll. exclam. of surprise, wonderment, or admiration: slightly ob. Moore, 1819, 'My eyes! how prettily Tom writes'; M.E. Braddon, 1876, 'My eye, ain't I hungry!'—2. See all my eye.—3. My eye and Betty Martin. See Betty Martin.

my eyes and limbs! An elab. of prec., I: ca. 1805—50. It may, orig. at least, have been nautical, for it occurs in W.N.
Glascocq, The Naval Sketch-Book (II, 107), 1826, and Sailors and Saints (II, 193), 1829. (Moe.)

my foot! As suffix, a direct denial of a statement, suggestion, point just made, as 'You're sorry? Sorry, my foot! You couldn't give a damn, and you know it!': coll.: C.20. Prob. a bowdlerisation of my arse, q.v.; cf. also the later nothing! used in this way. An occ. var. is pig's foot! or, for extra emphasis, my left foot!

my Gawd. A sword: rhyming s.: late C.19–20. Occ. Oh (or O) my Gawd. (Franklyn.)

my gentleman or my lord; my lady. He or she: derisive coll.: mid-C.19–20. Cf. synon. his lordship.

my giddy aunt! See giddy aunt.

my goodness. A drink of Guinness: since late 1940s. Ex the variously illustrated slogan, 'My goodness, my Guinness!'

my gracious! See gracious!

my granny! Nonsense!: coll.: C.20. (James Stephens, The Crock of Gold, 1912.) Cf. granny!

my hat! See hat, 7.

my heart bleeds for you. As a c.p., it is ironic: both Brit. and American: since the late 1940s. In Samantha, 1968 (Brit. ed.), E.V. Cunningham makes his attractive Japanese detective say to his chief, 'With all respects to my esteemed boss... I am aware of his financial difficulties. My heart bleeds for the poverty of those who guard the wealthiest city in the world.' A var., in the same novel, is you're breaking my heart. See also heart bleeds...

my hero! A c.p. 'that greets a diver who breaks surface with small green crabs or perfectly useless fish, such as wrasse' (Granville, letter, 1964): skin-divers': since ca. 1960. It prob. derives ex the ironic use of the phrase by girls satirising the mushier films. P.B.: ephemeral, no doubt, but the parody has continuing and wider usage in other circles.

my king oath! Aus. var. of my oath!: since ca. 1910. (Baker.) Strictly, 'king, short for fucking; but cf. also king-hit.

my land! See land, 1.

my lord! See Lord!

my left foot or knacker or tit. Emphatic variants, the two latter low, of my foot!, q.v.

my mother told me there would be days like this – but she didn't say there'd be so many. A c.p. applied to a 'tough' time, esp. in the army: Can. soldiers': 1939–45. An oblique ref. to menstruation.

my mother would have a hairy canary if (e.g., I did that). My mother would 'have a fit...': Can. children's c.p.: since ca. 1955. (D.J. Barr, Ontario, 1969.) See also hairy canary.

my mother's away. The other day: Aus. rhyming s.: since ca. 1890. B., 1945.

my myrtle. A low London term of address: late C.18–early 19. (Bee.) Cf. my tulip.

my nabs. See nabs.

my name is Benjamin Brown, Ben Brown. 'Bend down, a formula pleasantry [uttered] when there is no inspiration [and] meant to be outrageous, but is merely tedious' (a correspondent): c.p.: since ca. 1950 (? much earlier). Homosexual implications.

my name is (or name's) H!unt not cunt. I'm not to be put upon; I'm nobody's fool: c.p., mostly RAF: since mid-1940s. (L.A., 1967.) Ex Joe Hunt, q.v.

my name is (or name's) Simpson – not Samson. A workmen's c.p. apropos of work too heavy for one: C.20. Either orig. by a humorist named Simpson or ex a scabrously witty limerick.

my name is Twyford. I know nothing about it: semi-proverbial c.p.: ca. 1680–1830. (Apperson.) Josiah Twyford, 1640–1729, learned a secret process in the manufacture of glaze by persistently feigning stupidity and was thus... able to lay the foundation of the famous firm of sanitary potters' (David Garnett, New Statesman, 20 Feb. 1937).

my name is (or name's) Walker. I'm off: coll. c.p.: since mid-C.19; ob. by 1975. Prob. merely a pun on 'one who walks'.

my oath! A mild expletive: mainly Aus. and NZ: late C.19–20. Ex the more trivial senses of S.E. oath. See my colonial oath!—2. Sometimes used as an affirmative, as 'Did he come?'—'My oath!' (sc. he certainly did): Aus.: later C.20. Cf. my very word! (P.B.)

my oath, Miss Weston! On my word of honour!: RN: C.20. (F. & G.) Ex the respect felt for Miss Agnes Weston, the naval philanthropist.

my part! 'I should worry!': c.p.: from ca. 1926; ob. Perhaps 'it's my part—to look after that'.

my pippin. A.R. Smith, in The Gent, ca. 1847, notes 'Gents occasionally address one another as "my pippin"... and they pronounce it as follows,—placing great stress on the first letter, and then waiting awhile for the rest,—"Ullo, my P-ippin!"' An early record of my pippin in address occurs in W.T. Moncrief, Tom and Jerry, 1821. See also pippin. (P.B.)

my prick's a bloater, (or). An asseveration of complete certainty, as in 'Great little knockers? That bint's wearing falsies, or my...!': low: mid-C.20. Cf. the Aus. or my bum's a frying pan! (P.B.)

my sainted aunt! A mild exclam.: coll.: since ca. 1920; ob. by 1970. (OED Sup.) Cf. my aunt! and my giddy aunt!

my spies. My sources of information: army and RAF officers' joc.: since ca. 1939. "Have you any news about yourself?"—"My spies tell me... that I may be posted to a squadron very soon!" ('Blake', i.e. Ronald Adam, Readiness at Dawn, 1941). Cf. agents. (P.B.)

my stars! Good heavens!: coll.: Vanbrugh & Cibber, 1728, 'My stars! and you would really live in London half the year, to be sober in it?' (OED). By mid-C.19 sometimes elab. to my stars and garters! (OED quotes R.G. Cumming, 1850). The shorter version is still extant, later C.20. (P.B.)

my stomach thinks my throat's (been) cut. I am extremely hungry: semi-proverbial c.p.: C.16–20. See belly thinks..., and cf. belly-button.

my troubles! Aus. version of my part!: since ca. 1910. (Baker.) Perhaps elliptical for 'That's not one of my troubles'. Cf. my worries!

my tulip. My fine fellow; occurs mostly in go it, my tulip!, a London street c.p. of 1840s–50s. (H., 1st ed.) 'An echo of the tulipomania of 1842' (F. & H.) Still extant as a vocative in early C.20 (? a revival); in, e.g., H.A. Vachell, Quinney's, 1914. Cf. the earlier my myrtle.

my uncle. See uncle.

my very word! Exclamatory or emphatic form of 'my word!' (affirmative 'certainly'): Aus.: since ca. 1945. "Did he come good?"—"My very word!" (B.P.)

my watch. See watch.

my wig! See wigs.

my word! Exclam. of surprise, admiration; an all-purpose mild expletive: coll.: 1857, Locker (OED).

my worries! Var. of my troubles!: Aus.: since mid-C.20. Wilkes.

my word – if I catch you bending! A semi-sexual c.p. of the London streets: ca. 1900–14; then more gen. in use and meaning. 'The answer is "I'll saw your leg off" (all from a song) Julian Franklyn. Cf., therefore, the next.

my word – if you're not off! A c.p. of dismissal or of deterrence: ca. 1900–14. To which, during its last four or five years, was often added I'll saw your leg off!

Myall express. Natives showing the way; natives helping: NT, Australia: since ca. 1910. (Ernestine Hill, The Territory, 1951.) Ironic ref. to the leisureliness of the Myall tribe in these matters.

myla. See miler, 1.

mylier. An occ. C.19–20 form of mauley, q.v. at end of entry.

myll; mynt. Var. spellings for earlier senses of mill, n. and v., and mint.

myrzh. Var. spelling of mur, back s. for 'rum'.

myrtle. Sexual intercourse: Aus.: C.20. (Baker.) Why? It can hardly refer to that Myrtle who, in a famous limerick, failed to realize that 'the turtle was fertile', yet it's very odd that both myrtle and the synon. nurtle (q.v.) should rhyme with fertile. Also cf. turtle, 2, and capurtle, q.v.—2. See my myrtle.

Myrtle the Turtle. Aus. nickname of any girl named Myrtle: since ca. 1910. (B.P.) Cf. Harriet the Chariot, q.v., and prec. mystall crikey! Christ almighty!: Aus.: C.20. (Dal Stivens, Jimmy Brockett, 1951.) Both a truncated spoonerism (> gen.) and a sort of back s., with words in reverse order and mystall (mistall) a partial form. Cf. myst all critey!, the form recorded by Baker.

mystery. A sausage: somewhat low: from ca. 1885; ob. More gen. is bag of mystery, as in Henley, 1887, and much more gen. is mystery bag, as in the Sportsman, 2 Feb. 1889.—2. 'An adolescent female absent from her home, approved school or Borstal and "floating" around the streets. "Chicken" is the male equivalent' (Powis): mostly London, fringe-of-the-underworld raffish: since late 1940s. Tempest, 1950, 'A stranger (female) to the district. "A mystery in the manor" = a new girl in the locality. . . . It can also refer to a girl who is "down and out" in London and looking for a job.'

mystery mad; mystery punter. 'A ("girl crazy") man who spends time obsessively on the look-out for such young girls [see prec., 2], so that he can live with them for a short period' (Powis); underworld: later C.20.

mystery of Australia. See Australian mystery.

mystery ship. A decoy ship or Q boat: 1916 (Alfred Noyes: OED sup.): coll. >, almost imm., S.E. Bowen; B. & P.

myxo. Myxomatosis: Aus.: since ca. 1945. (B., 1953.) But, since ca. 1950, also current in Great Britain.

mzuri! All right!: army: in Burma: 1943+. (Swahili word, adopted from African troops serving in Burma.) 'Everything mzuri, chum?' (Gerald Hanley, Monsoon Victory, 1946).

n.a.b.u. See t.a.b.u.

n.a.d. Shamming; malingering: military hospitals': early C.20. (Ware.) Ex initials of no appreciable disease. Cf. n.y.d., q.v., and p.u.o., which latter was a WW1 confession as to the unknown origin of that pyrexia which was trench-fever [P.B.: and from which E.P. himself had suffered, and continued to suffer at intervals for the rest of his life, as a result of being a front-line soldier on the Gallipoli and Western Fronts].

n.a.f.f. See naff, adj.

n.b. Penniless; temporarily without money; earlier C.20. I.e. 'not a bean'; with a pun on nota bene (N.B.), note well.

n.b.g. or, as in the other 'initial'-words, more gen. with capitals. No bloody good: coll.: C.20 Contrast n.g.

n.c. 'Nuff ced, i.e. enough said: from ca. 1870; † by 1950, as abbr., but see also nuff ced. (Ware states American origin.) Cf. o.k., q.v.

n.c.d. (N.C.D.) See no can do.

n.d. (Of a woman) trying to look young: Society: late C.19–early 20. (Ware.) Ex librarians' n.d., no date.

n.e. or N.E. See north-easter.—2. No earthly [chance]: ca. 1900–14.

n.f. A smart or cunning tradesman: printers' abbr. of no fly, q.v. or no flies: from ca. 1865; still extant mid-C.20, recorded in G.E. Rawles, The 'Line' Is On, 1948.—2. Among artisans, early C.20, it means no fool. Ware.

n.g. No go; no good: adopted, ca. 1890, ex US; ob. by 1930. Thornton.

N.H. or n.h. A bed-bug: later C.19–early 20. Abbr. Norfolk Howard, q.v.

N.I. (often written N/I). Not interested: RAF: 1938+. (Jackson.) On the analogy of the official abbr., N.A. (or N/A), 'not available' or 'not applicable'.

n.n. A necessary nuisance, esp. a husband: Society:—1909 (Ware); † by 1919.

n. (or N.) wash. See notergal wash.

n.y.d. Drunk: military hospitals':—1909 (Ware); ob. by 1930. I.e. 'not yet diagnosed'. Cf. n.a.d., q.v.—2. Not yet dead: Services' joc. from ca. 1915. Same orig. B. & P.

na poo. See napoo.

Naafi. See Naffy.

nab; occ. nabb or nab(b)e, n. The head: c. of ca. 1560–1750. (Harman (as nabe); Head.) Cf. nob and napper, qq.v.—2. The head of a stick: c.: early C.17. Dekker (OED).—3. A hat; a cap: c. of ca. 1670–1830. (Shadwell, Fielding, Grose.) Hence, a penthouse nab, a large hat: c. or low s. of ca. 1750–1820. Abbr. nab-cheat or -chete, q.v.—4. A fop: c.: ca. 1690–1750. B.E. (Matsell's recording is of an archaism.)—5. One who 'nabs', esp. a police officer: 1813: c. >, ca. 1860, low s.; ob. by 1930.—6. (Ex sense 1.) An important person, a 'nob': late C.18–mid-19. (Bill Truck, Feb. 1826.) Perhaps orig. dial. Cf. synon. nebbly, and see nabs.—7. See queer nab.

nab; occ. nab(b)e or nabb, v. To catch; to arrest: from ca. 1685: c. >, ca. 1860, low s. (F. Spence, Shadwell.) Cf. nap and nobble, qq.v.—2. It soon > a gen. c. v. of action: see nab the rust, the stifles, etc.—3. Linking senses 1 and 4 with the n., sense 3, is B.E.'s 'Till Nab ye, i.e. I'll have your Hat or Cap.—4. To seize; to steal: low s.: from ca. 1814. The Sporting Magazine, 1814, 'All was lost, save what was nabb'd to pay the cost' (OED).—5. To cog (a die): C.18 c. or low s.; in its orig. form, nap (B.E.), it was certainly c.—6. V.i., to snatch at something: C.19–20; ob.: low.—7. (Cf. senses 1, 4.) To detect (an incident): Shrewsbury School: late C.19–20. Desmond Coke, The House Prefect, 1908.—8. 'To take something to which one is entitled, but which is not in plentiful supply' (B.P.): s. > coll.; also Aus.: late C.19–20. 'The hall is filling up; I'd better nab myself a seat.' Also joc., as in 'Nab your partners for the barn dance.'

nab-all; also nabal(1). A fool: early C.17 s. > coll. Rowlands.—2. As a churl or a miser, C.17–20 (ob.), it is S.E. nab (one's) bib. See nab the bib.

nab-cheat or -chete. A hat or cap: c.: ca. 1530–1830. (Copland, B.E.) See cheat.

nab-girder. A bridle: c. of ca. 1670–1870, though ob. as early as 1820. (Coles, B.E., Grose.) Also nob-girder. Ex nab = nob, the head, + girldle perverted.

nab it (on the dial). To receive a blow (on the face): low: from ca. 1820. But nab it, like nap it, also = to receive (gen., unexpected) punishment: low and dial: C.19–20.

Nab Nelsons. Those members of the Royal Yacht Squadron who make only short cruises in the Solent, i.e. no further than Nab Tower, and in fine weather; hence, all fairweather or 'armchair'-sailors: yachtsmen's: C.20. (Peppitt.) Partly alliterative; partly an ironic ref. to Nelson.

nab the bib. To weep: from ca. 1830: low. Earlier (—1812), nap the bib, which, recorded by Vaux and used Egan, was prob. c. Earlier var. nab (one's) bib dates from late C.18 and occurs in a ballad, 'The Rolling Blossom', written prob. ca. 1800 and reprinted in an American magazine, The Port Folio, 8 Aug. 1807 (p. 125): 'At the new drop I nabb'd my bib,/While Will, my man, was swinging,/At the gin ken I took a swig,/Reel'd home, blind drunk, a singing.' (Moe.)—2. Hence, with var. nap one's bib, to carry one's point, by weeping, then by any similar means: low or c.: mid-C.19. H., 3rd ed.

nab the regulars. To divide a booty: c.: from ca. 1840.

nab (or, in C.19–20, nap) the rust. To be refractory (orig. of horses); hence, take offence: c. of ca. 1780–1890. (Grose, 1st ed.; H., 5th ed.) Cf. rusty.—2. To be punished: c.: from ca. 1890; † by 1850. Cf. nab the stoop, or the teize, qq.v.—3. See rust, n., 2 and 4.

nab the snow. To steal linen, esp. from hedges: c.: from ca. 1780. Grose, 2nd ed.

nab the stifles. To be hanged: c.: C.19–early 20. See stifler. nab or nap the stoop. To stand in the pillory: late C.18–early 19 c. Grose, 1st ed.

nab or nap the teize. To be whipped, privately, in prison: late C.18–mid-19 c. (Grose, 1st ed.)? ex tease, for in C.19, it is often spelt tease.

nabb; occ. nabbe. See nab, n. and v.

nabber. A bailiff; a constable: low: from ca. 1810; ob.—2. A thief, esp. a pilferer: low and (—1808) Scots dial. Ex nab, v., 1. Cf.:

nabbing-cheat. The gallows: c.:—1719; † by 1850. 'Captain' Alexander Smith.

nabbing-cull. A bailiff; a constable: c.: ca. 1775–1840. (Tomlinson.) Cf. nabman.

nabby. A Scottish form of nobby, adj., q.v.

nabe. See nab, n. and v.

nabman. A constable: c. of ca. 1815–40. Ex nab, v., 1.

nabob. Gen. pl, 'senior passengers in the East Indiamen':

nautical: late C.18—early 19. Bowen.—2. A capitalist: ca. 1858–90. (H., 2nd ed.) Ex the S.E. sense.

nabs; in C.19, occ. knabs. (Mainly N. Country) c. >, ca. 1830, low s.: from ca. 1790; ob. (Potter.) His nabs, he; (rare) your nabs, you; but my nabs, either I, myself, or my friend (cf. C.16 my nobs, my darling). OED. Cf. watch, q.v. Perhaps a corruption of neb, a nose, a face: for semantics, see nibs, which is a var.

nabs on. A hall-mark: c.:—1889; ob. by 1930. Ex nab=head.

nace. See nase.

nach. See natch.

nack=knack, a trick, is S.E.—2. A horse: c.:—1889. Ex nag, q.v.

nackers. Properly knackers: low and dial. C.19–20. The testicles.

nacky is a mere var. (ob.) of S.E. knacky, ingenious.

nadgers, the. Synon. with the mockers, q.v. at mock on; esp. in put the nadgers on, 'applied to a co-worker supposed to exercise, or to be exercising, an evil influence on equipment' (L.A., 1960); perhaps orig. RAF, early 1940s; in the 1950s given much wider currency by the radio comedy series 'The Goon Show', as an all-purpose nonsense-word in such remarks as 'I've got a touch of the dreaded nadgers', joc. for 'I don't feel very well'. (P.B.) naff(f). The female pudend: ?back s. on fan, abbr. fanny, q.v.: from ca. 1845. If not obscure dial. of independent origin—ex or cognate with naff(f), the navel (—1866), or with naff(f), the hub of a wheel (—1796), EDD—then this is perhaps the earliest of back-s. terms. Halliwell.—2. Nothing: prostitutes': since ca. 1940. Origin? A shrewd and learned correspondent asks, 'Might the origin just possibly be "rien à faire"? Or perhaps "not a fuck"? The latter is the more probable, yet far from a certainty. P.B.: or perhaps ex sense 1; cf.—3. Euph. substitute for fuck as oath, expletive, etc., making it slightly less obvious than eff; in naff all, nothing (cf. sense 2); naff off!, go away!; and naffing. All are used extensively in Clement & La Frenais, A Further Stir of Porridge, 1977 (stories of prison life, from a TV series). Elkan Allan, writing about euphemisms and moral standards in Now!, 15 Feb. 1980, has 'A newly-invented double standard from Porridge, where the language—"why don't you naff off?"—was made up by the writers.'

naff, adj. Vulgar, common; despicable; 'A theatre critic (Observer, 24 Sep. 1978) discusses a performer who "has a mania for the lowest kind of show business, for things which are tacky, and, to use the old trouper's term, "naff"" (R.S.): theatrical: C.20.—2. Hence, generally contemptible; Kenneth Williams, writing to P.B., 1980, of 'camp' dialogue in the 1960s, defines it, 'Unlovely; a gay denigration of someone was naff omi, dreary man'. (See omee.) Its use, in 1970s, spread beyond the world of homosexuals, even to the children of Service families stationed in Germany (Miss Julia Jones, 1979); Nigel Dempster, in Telegraph Sunday mag., 11 Mar. 1979, noted that the term was by then 'out' in Society usage. It had come, by early 1980s, to imply the same condemnation as the 'Non-U' of the 1950s, and had also, according to John Ryle, 1983, become a 'gay' jet-set acronym="not available for fun/fucking". (P.B.) naff it up. 'Now some people have naffed it up by putting out too much power [and] the Tunbridge Wells breakers resent anything that naffs it up for them locally' (David White, article on CB radio in New Society, 11 June 1981).

naff off! 'Why don't you just naff off?' was alleged to have been said to importunate pressmen by Princess Anne at the Badminton Horse Trials, 1982.

Naffy or Nafy; properly Naffi; loosely Narfy (though pron. thus by Indian Army officers). The canteen: Services': from ca. 1930. Ex the 'Navy, Army, and Air Force Institute'. See: Naffy, used a pej. adjective, connotes 'shirking': Services': since ca. 1940. Cf. the RN's Naffy rating, a shirker. Here, the initials NAAFI are interpreted as standing for 'No aim, ambition or fucking initiative'. P.B.: a var. of this interpretation, since ca. 1950 or earlier, is 'No ambition and fuck-all interest'; both are a completely undeserved slander on a fine organisation.

Naffy break. The army equivalent of Naffy time, and mostly applied to the mid-morning break: since (?) late 1940s; ob. by 1970. (P.B.)

Naffy gong. The 1939–45 star: Services. Partridge, 1945, 'For the semantics, cf. rooty medal [q.v. at rooty gong]. It is also called the spam medal.' Ex the resemblance of NAAFI shoulder-strap colours to the ribbon colours, i.e. dark blue, light blue, red, symbolising the three Services. See next, 2. Naffy medal; Groppi gong. Both mean 'the Africa Star', but the former belongs to the 1st Army, the latter (from the famous Cairo confectioners) to the 8th Army: 1943+.—2. Post-WW2, Naffy medal (or gong) was more often applied to the WW2 Service Medal (red, white and blue ribbon), said to have been awarded for '28 days' service in NAAFI queues': Services'. Cf. prec. (P.B.)

Naffy Romeo. A ladies' man: RAF: since 1940. Jackson.

Naffy rumour. A baseless report: Forces: 1939+.

Naffy sandwich, deal a. To deal a hand of 2 cards+one card+2 cards: Services poker-players': since ca. 1930. Ex relative thicknesses.—2. For the term's use in the game of House, see TOMBOLA, in Appendix.

Naffy time (or hyphen or as one word). The morning break: RAF coll.: 1939+. H. & P.

nag, n. A riding horse (esp. if small) or pony: C.15–20: coll. except in Scotland and the N. of England, where dial. Anon., The Destruction of Troy, ca. 1400: 'He neyt [=neighed] as a nagge, at his nose thrilles [=nostrils]'; Coryat; Johnson, 'A horse in familiar language'; Henley.—2. The penis: low: ca. 1670–1750. (Cotton.) Ex prec. sense (semantics: 'to ride'). Hence, in phrases tether (one's) nag, (of a male) to coit; and water (one's) nag, to urinate. Cf. also nags, testicles.—3. A Diesel shunting engine of 350 h.p.: railwaymen's: since ca. 1955. (Railway, 2nd.) A pun on nag, a horse.—4. As a whore or other opprobrium, it is S.E.

nag, v. To scold or persistently to find fault (v.t. with at): orig. (—1828), dial. >, ca. 1840, coll. >, ca. 1890, S.E. Orig. sense, to gnaw.

nag-drag. A three months' imprisonment: c.: mid-C.19—early 20. See drag, n., 7.

nag off! Shut up!: Rossall School: late C.19–20. (Marples.) Via 'Leave off nagging!'

nag-tail, the little. High cockalorum: children's coll.:—1923 (Manchon). Via. nursery-rhyme ride a-cock horse...

Nagger Stagers. The New Statesman magazine: joc., among its readers: later C.20. (Mrs C. Raab, 1982.)

naggie, -y. A pony; a very small riding horse: coll. and dial. from ca. 1780. Blackmore, 'Then the naggie put his foot down' (OED)—2. The female pudend: low: C.19—early 20. Cf. nag, n., 2.

naggie. To toss the head stiffly and affectedly: coll. († by 1910) and dial.: from ca. 1840. (Halliwell.) Cf. S.E. naggie, to haggle, quarrel.

nags. The testes: low: C.19—early 20. Cf. nag, n., 2, penis. ?ex (knackers).—2. As the nags, horse-racing; the races themselves: racing coll., mostly Aus.: C.20. (B.P.) Cf. neddies.

naïl, n. 'A person of an over-reaching, imposing disposition'—i.e. a 'shrewdy', a crook—'is called a nail, a dead nail, a nailing rascal' (Vaux, 1812): low: ca. 1810–1915. Ex the v., senses 2 and 4.—2. 'The central scone at the east and west ends of the school were so called' (Adams's Wykehamica): from ca. 1840: Winchester College. Whence stand up under the nail, to stand there throughout school time for having told a lie; later he received a 'bible' or was 'bible'd' (Mansfield).—3. (Gen. pl.) A cigarette: military: from ca. 1910; † by 1950, although coffin-nail, which it shortens, was still occ. heard. F. & G.; P.B.—4. A valve: motorcycle racers': from ca. 1927. Peter Chamberlain.—5. In off the nail, tipsy: Scots coll.: from ca. 1820. Galt, 1822, 'I was what you would call a thought off the nail.' Cf. Scots off at the nail, mad.—6. In on the nail, at once: late C.16–20: coll. >, ca. 1870, S.E. (Nashe: upon, as is gen. till C.18; Gay.) Ex hand-nail and a drinking custom: see supernaculum and cf. Fr. payer rubis sur l'ongle (Ware). Mrs C. Raab: is there a possible association with the Bristol quayside, where merchants would pay ships' captains 'on the Nail' (immediately) for their goods (?C.18). In C.20, usu. applied to payment.—7. On the nail, under discussion: coll.: ca. 1885–1910. W.T. Stead, 1886 (OED).—8. See dead as a door-nail; door-nail; naked...; no nail!

nail, v. To catch or get hold of or secure: 1760, Foote, 'Some bidders are shy...; but I nail them.'—2. Hence, to rob or steal: low: from ca. 1810. (Vaux.) It occurs in Boxiana, III, 1821, as v.i., 'to charge extortunately'.—3. To catch or surprise (a person) in a fix, a difficulty: 1766, Goldsmith, 'When they came to talk of places in town, ... I nailed them' (OED).—4. Hence, in late C.19–20 c. > low s.: to arrest (a person).—5. To strike smartly, to beat: Scots s.: from ca. 1805; ob.—6. Hence, to succeed in hitting: Dowden, 1886 (OED), but prob. very much earlier. In Scots at least as early as 1785 (EDD).—7. To overreach; to cheat: low: ca. 1810–30. Vaux.—8. To back-bite: printers': from ca. 1870. Also brass-nail; cf. nail-box, q.v.—9. 'To impress for any kind of fagging. Also, to detect': Winchester College:—1889. Ex sense 1.—10. To attract (customers) successfully: fair-grounds' and mock auctions': late C.19–20. See MOCK AUCTION SLANG, in Appendix.

nail-bearers. Fingers: C.18–mid-19: ?S.E. or coll.

nail-box (or nailbox). A favourite spot for back-biting: printers': from ca. 1870. 'The Nailbox is a traditionally mythical box full of nails, long and short, which are said to be driven into a person who is absent' (G.E. Rowles, The 'Line' Is On, 1948). Cf. brass-nail.

nail-can. A top hat: Aus.: C.20. (B., 1942.) Ex shape.

nail-groper. One who sweeps or scours the streets in search of nails, old iron, etc.: Londoners': ca. 1830–70. Sinks, 1848.

nail in (one's) coffin. A drink of liquor: coll.: from ca. 1820. Pierce Egan, Life in London, 1821, 'A glass of spirits is termed, among the we ones, adding "another nail to the coffin"'.—2. In drive or, occ., put a nail in (one's) coffin, to do anything likely to shorten one's life: C.19–20: coll. till C.20, then S.E. In 1789, Wolcot anticipated, thus: 'Care to our coffin adds a nail, no doubt' (OED). [As 'to hasten or advance a project, a piece of work': S.E.]—3. See coffin-nail.

nail on the ready. To catch someone in the criminal act: police s.: ca. 1830–80. (Sessions, Feb. 1839.) See nail, v., 3.

nail-rod or nailrod. Orig. (ca. 1885), a stick of 'Two Seas' tobacco: † by 1915. Ex the shape. Morris.—2. Hence (—1896), any coarse, esp. if dark, stick of tobacco; ob. by 1915, † by 1925. Both senses, NZ and then Aus. New Zealand Herald, 8 Nov. 1886 (OED); H. Lawson, 1896.

nailed-up drama. Drama dependent upon elaborate scenery: theatrical: ca. 1881–1914. (Ware.) First used in ref. to just such a drama, The World.

nailer. An exceptionally good or marvellous event, thing or person (esp. a hand at...); a gen. term of excellence: 1818 (Macneill: OED); ca. 1890, Marshall in 'Pomes' from the Pink 'Un, 'At guzzling the whole lot were nailers'. Cf. the ob. US nail-driver, a fast horse.—2. An extortioner, a usurer, ca. 1888–1925. Ex nail, v., 2.—3. See nailor.—4. 'An obvious, gross lie': late C.19–20. (Lyell.) Ex dial.—5. For the nailer, see boy with the boots.—6. See—nailers. (Very rare in the singular.) A hold on prospective buyers: grafters': C.20. Cheappack, 1934, "He's got his nailers out..." I enquired what he meant by "nailers"... "Well, you see," he explained "he's got their shillings and he hasn't given them anything yet. So he's sort of nailed them down. They can't walk away. He can hold them as long as he likes."—2. See front up; MOCK ACTION SLANG in Appendix.

nailing, vbl n. See nail, v., all senses.—2. Adj.: excellent: OED cites Pall Mall Gazette, 29 Mar. 1883.—3. Adv.: very, exceedingly: 1884 (Mrs E. Kennard: OED); 1894, George Moore, 'A nailing good horse once'. Ex nail, v., 1, influenced by nailer, 1.

nailing the kipper. Touring actors' retaliation against rapacious landladies: latish C.19—early 20. 'A kipper or bloater was nailed under the dining-room table and the annihilating stench went undiscovered often for many days' (the source, not the stench, presumably): thus Michael Warwick, 'Theatrical Jargon of the Old Days' (most informative), in the Stage, 3 Oct. 1968.

nailor; more correctly nailer. (Constructed with on.) A prejudice (against): c. (—1887) >, by 1900, low. Baumann.

nailord. See nail-rod.

nails often occurs in late C.14—early 17 oaths and asseverations. E.g. (by) God's nails.—2. See before you...; eat (one's) nails; hard as nails; right as...

nair. Rain: back s.: from ca. 1870; ob., as, except among costers, is all back s.: see Slang at 'Oddities'. Cf. nire, q.v.

naked, n. Raw spirit: somewhat low; perhaps orig. nautical. W.N. Glascock, Sailors and Saints (II, 134), 1829. (Moe.) Ex the adj.

naked similes were prob. all coll. in origin, but their very force soon made them S.E. and proverbial. The chief non-dial. ones are:—naked as a cuckoo, C.17–20, latterly dial. and in Dekker as naked as the cuckoo in Christmas; naked as a needle, mid-C.14–20 (ob.), in P.J. Bailey, 1858, nude as a needle; naked as a shorn sheep, C.17–18 (Gayton, 1654); naked as a stone, C.14–15; naked as a worm, C.15–16; naked as (one's, gen. my) nail, ca. 1530–1700 (Heywood, 1533,—Massinger,—'Phraseologia' Robertson); naked as truth, C.17 (suggested by the late C.16–20 S.E. the naked truth), 'Lest it strip him as naked as truth', in the Somers Tracts. For all: Apperson. A C.20 overseas version is naked as a jaybird: 'This simile is quite common in Canada', says Dr Douglas Leechman, 1968, who implies a US orig., and a Can. currency at least as early as 1950. See jaybird for Aus. usage.

nale, an ale-house, is Scots (prob.) coll.: C.18—early 19. Extant in Gloucestershire.

nale or nael, neel. Lean: back s.:—1859 (H., 1st ed.) Often adj., rarely v.

Nalگو. The NALGO, or National and Local Government Officers' Association: coll.: since ca. 1935. P.B.: by 1970s at latest, > informal S.E. (used in BBC news broadcasts) or j. Perhaps, strictly, it no longer belongs in this dictionary, but it stands as an example of many other acronyms of similar organisations. A noteworthy exception from this treatment—? by common consent—is the National Union of Teachers.

nam. A man: back s.; perhaps orig. in nameslop, a policeman, recorded in Mayhew, I, 1851. By itself, nam is listed in H., 1st ed., 1859. See slop, 1.

nam; (not before C.16) n'am. Am not: C.9–16: S.E. till ca. 1500, then coll. Gascoigne, 1576, 'I n'am a man, as some to think I am' (OED).

namase. See nammous.

namby-pamby. Affected; effeminate: from ca. 1745: coll. till ca. 1780, then S.E. Ex Carey's, Pope's, and Swift's nickname (1726+) for Ambrose Philips, poetaster (d. 1749).

name, n. Esp. in get a name, to get a (very) bad name: coll.: C.20. E.g. Denis Mackail, 1925, 'If they weren't jolly careful, their beloved house would be getting what is known as "a name".' Contrast lose (one's) name, q.v.—2. In to (one's) name, belonging to one: coll.: 1876 (Whyte-Melville: OED). E.g., 'not a penny to his name'.—3. In by the name of, having the name (of): from ca. 1670: S.E. till ca. 1830, then coll. and US. Thackeray, 1841, 'A grocer... by the name of Greenacre' (OED). Prob. elliptical for known by the name of.—4. In (in the name of...): some of these asseverations are C.19–20 coll.; e.g. name of goodness, which is also dial. (EDD).—5. See bite (someone's) name; lose (one's) name; the entries at my name...

name in vain. See take (one's) name...

name into it, put (one's). To advance a matter greatly: tailors': from ca. 1860; ob. Ex putting the tailors' name on a garment.

name is mud, (one's). One has been heavily defeated; one is in disgrace: from ca. 1820. "'And his name is mud!" ejaculated upon the conclusion of a silly oration, or of a leader in the Courier, 1823, 'Jon Bee'. See also mud, 1; the sense has changed, 'for in C.20 mire, not a dull fool, is understood to be the origin.

name is Simpson ...; ... Twyford. See my name ...

name is Walker! See Walker, 2.

name of the game, the. At first this phrase = 'the precise meaning of which is ...'; soon more loosely used to mean the essence, esp. if not obvious, of the matter: adopted ex US, in Can. late 1960s, in Brit. slightly later: journalistic > gen. coll. See esp. DCpp.

name on it, have (one's) or it's got (one's). (Of a bullet, shell, etc.) that hit a soldier: army coll. in WW1 (F. & G.); revived in WW2 (P-G-R). Cf. addressed to, q.v.; number is interchangeable with name in this phrase.

name to go to bed with, a nice. An ugly name: dial. >, by 1887, coll. (Baumann.) Cf. the Fr. s. un nom à coucher dehors (Manchon).

name yours! name your poison; give it a name! Invitations to drink (alcohol, of course): coll.: late C.19–20. See how will you have it?

nameless creek, the. 'A lucky place whose whereabouts is for that reason untold' (F. & H.): anglers' j. > coll.: namescop. Policeman: back s.: 1851 (Mayhew, I); virtually † by 1910.

namma hole. Better gnamma hole, q.v.

nammas. Var., in Renton Nicholson, An Autobiography, 1860, of:- nammous or namous; occ. nammus or nommus; rarely namus and † namase. To depart, esp. furtively and/or quickly: c., esp. among costermongers: from ca. 1855. (J.E. Ritchie, The Night Side of London Life, 1857; London Miscellany, 3 Mar. 1866.) Slightly ob. Prob. a corruption of vamos, vamoose, perhaps shaped by nim and Ger. nehmen. H. postulates back s. on someone ('simplified' presumably, as summon): wrongly, I believe. See also nommus.

nam(m)ow. A woman; esp. delo n., an old woman: back s.:—1851 (Mayhew, I). Cf. nam.

nammus, nammous. See nammous.

Namurs, the. The Royal Regiment of Ireland, later the 18th Regt of Foot, Royal Irish Regiment (disbanded 1922); the regt 'particularly distinguished itself in the storming of the Castle of Namur in 1695' (Carew). They were known at first, when raised in 1684 as Granard's Regiment, by the uncomplimentary nickname of Paddy's Blackguards.

namus. See nammous.

nan. A serving-maid: C.18: coll., somewhat low. (A New Canting Dict., 1725.) Ex Nan, a by-form of Anne.—2. Grandmother, both in ref. and address: mid-C.19–20: mostly lower classes' coll. Also in forms nana (pron. nanna), nanna, nannie, -y.—3. See:- nan! What did you say?: mid-C.18–20: coll. (e.g. in Foote) till ca. 1810, then dial., where ob. by 1920. Ex anani, anon. OED; EDD.

nan-boy. An effeminate man: late C.17–early 20: coll. Cf. nan the n.—2. A catamite: C.19–20: coll. Sense 1, 'influenced by Nancy'.

nan-nan. A man's straw hat: Aus.: ca. 1880–1914. (B., 1942.) ?ex Aboriginal.—2. Hence, 'a young man affecting this as part of a mode of dress' (Wilkes): id.

nana, n. (pron. nahna or narna). A banana: nursery coll.: late C.19–20. Cf. nanny, 4.—2. ?Hence, 'the head, in such expressions as "off one's nana", "do one's nana"' (Wilkes): Aus.: later C.20. At this entry Wilkes also quotes synon. nanny, dated 1894.—3. A fool; an ass; esp. in a right nana, a real softy: low: since ca. 1930; in later C.20, altho' still low, in very widespread use. Cf. banana, 3.—4. See nan, 2.

Nana; Nana-ish. Outrageous; indecent: clubmen's coll.: late 1880–ca. 85. (Ware.) Ex Zola's Nana, that novel which, dealing with a 'swell' courtesan, owes its best scene to Otway.

nana (hair)-cut. A womanlike hair-cut, the back of the head being shaved clean: Aus.: since ca. 1920. (B., 1942.) Short for banana ... ?

nance; earlier C.20, Nance. Var. of next, 1 and 2. Norah Hoult, Youth Can't Be Served, 1933 (the capital form).

Nancy, Miss Nancy, Nancy boy. A catamite: (low) coll.: C.19–20. Also as adj.: rare before C.20. Hugh Walpole, Vanessa, 1933, 'But he isn't one of those, you know. Not a bit nancy.'—2. Also, an effeminate man: C.19–20. Cf. molly, q.v.—3. (Only as nancy, N-) The breech, esp. in ask my Nancy: low (perhaps orig. c.): ca. 1810–1910. (Vaux.) Cf. ask mine arse!

Nancy Dawson. Grog: RN: C.19. Bowen, 'Men were summoned to draw it by that popular old air'.—2. An effeminate, lackadaisical youth: ca. 1887–1910. (B. & L.) Cf. Nancy, 2, and:-

Nancy homey (or omee). An effeminate man, esp. a homosexual: late C.19–20. (Lester.) Homey, omee, or omi, is a Parlyaree word. Cf. Nancy, 1 and 2.

Nancy Lee. A flea: rhyming s.: since ca. 1860. Everyman, 26 Mar. 1931.—2. A occ. C.20 var. of Rosy Lee, tea.

nanna. See nan, 2, and next, 3.

nannie, -y. A whore: late C.17–19: coll. Ex Nanny, the female name. Mostly in combination: see, e.g., nanny-house.

—2. (Usu. nanny.) A she-goat: from ca. 1890 as a coll., but in dial. before 1870 (EDD). Abbr. nanny-goat.—3. A nurse, esp. a nursemaid: children's coll. > by 1930s, informal S.E.: since early C.19. Moe cites Fredk Chamier, The Life of a Sailor, 1832, at I, 5, 7, 8.—4. A banana: (mostly London) street boys':—1909 (Ware). Cf. nana, 1.—5. A nannygai (a sort of fish): Aus.: since ca. 1930. B., 1953.—6. The tote: see nanny-goat, 3.—7. See nan, 2, grandmother.—8. 'Lieutenant-Cdr in charge of midshipmen' (Granville): RN: C.20. Ex 3.

nannik. App. current only in pres. ppl., nanniking, fooling or larking, but also showing off ('nanniking off'): market-traders': C.20. (M.T.) Ex E. Anglian dial. nannick, to play the fool.

nanny-goat. A she-goat: coll.: 1788, T. Day (OED). Cf. nannie, 2, and billy-goat.—2. An anecdote: 1860 (Haliburton); ob. by 1930. Semi-rhyming s.—3. Usu. the nanny. Totalisator: racing s.: rhyming on tote: since ca. 1925.—4. A boat: since ca. 1930; by 1960, slightly ob. Franklin, Rhyming.—5. A coat: rhyming s.: later C.20. Jack Jones, 1971; Hillman, 1974.—6. In play the nanny-goat, to play silly tricks; behave like a fool: coll.: from ca. 1905. Ex slightly earlier dial. (EDD). Cf. play the (giddy) goat.

Nanny-Goats, the. The Royal Welch Fusiliers, orig. the 23rd Foot Regiment: military: mid-C.19–20. Also, the Royal Goats. Ex the goat as regimental mascot. F. & G.

nanny hen. See nice as a nanne-hen.

nanny-house or -shop. A brothel: low coll.: resp. late C.17–19 (B.E.; Grose); early C.19–early 20 (OED). Cf. nannie, 1, q.v.

Nansen passports. Passports given by the League of Nations after WW1 to persons without nationality. Ex the famous Norwegian explorer and philanthropist Fridtjof Nansen (1861–1930) who was in 1921 appointed the first League of Nations Commissioner for Refugees. (A reminder from Robert Claiborne.)

nant; non nant. A swimmer; a non-swimmer: Eton: mid-C.19–20. (Marples.) Latin nant, they swim; non nant, they do not swim.

nantee, nanti (rare), nanty. No; not, or nor, any. Also absolutely: 'I have none; 'shut up!' (abbr. nantee palaver, q.v.); stop! (e.g. 'Nanty that whistling!'): from ca. 1850: Parlyaree and c. > also, by 1900, gen. theatrical. (Mayhew.) Among grafters: beware! (Cheepjack, 1934.) In C.20, usu. written nanty, as in 'Nanty, my jills, I'm whacked' = No, my friend, I'm exhausted. (Lester.) Ex It. niente, nothing, via Lingua Franca.—2. In give it nanti, to put all one's effort into something, work or play: army Other Ranks' in Malaya: mid-1950s. Imm. ex Malay nanti, to wait, but prob. influenced by sense 1. See give what for. (P.B.) nantee; adj. See nanty.

nantee medzies or nanty metzes. See medzies.

nantee marking. Great fun: low taverns': ca. 1800–50. (Egan's Life in London.) Lit., 'no crabbing'.

nantee palaver! Hold your tongue!: from ca. 1850. Lit., no talk. Cf.:

nantee parlary. 'Don't talk!—say nothing!': from ca. 1850. See nantee, 1.

nantee worster. No worse; a person no worse: low London: late C.19—early 20. Ware.

nanti. See nantee.

nanto. A horse: Aus.: later C.19—earlier 20. ?ex Aboriginal. Wilkes.

nants. A var. of nantee, as in Cockney and theatrical nants for the dook, no money for the rent (cf. Duke of Kent). Cited by Christopher Fry in Sunday Times, 28 May 1950.

nantwas. Nothing; prostitutes': since ca. 1930. Perhaps a filling out of nants.

nanty, n. Nothing: Parlyaree: mid C.19—20. (Lester.) See nantee.

nanty, adj. Of no account: Parlyaree:—1909 (Ware). —2. (Also pron. nanty.) Silent; reticent; as in "He kept nanty about it" = "He kept quiet about it" (M.T.): market-traders': C.20. Ex the injunction: see nantee.

nap, n. An infection of syphilis or gonorrhoea: c.: late C.17–18. B.E.—2. An instance of: 'By Cheating with the Dice to secure one Chance' (B.E.): c.: late C.17–18. Rare: the v. is much commoner.—3. An arrest: throughout C.18: c. or low s. Street Robberies Considered, ca. 1728.—4. Presumably, a sheep, the term occurring only in napper of naps, a sheep-stealer: late C.17–18: c. (B.E., Grose.) These four senses derive ex the c. v., q.v.—5. A hat: c. of C. 18. Ex nab, n., 3.—6. Strong ale or beer: Scots coll.: late C.18–19. (Tarras, 1804; Jamieson.) Ex nappy.—7. Nap. Napoleon: a nickname of ca. 1810–30.—8. Hence, a Napoleon, i.e. a 20-franc piece: coll.: 1820, Moore (OED); † by 1900.—9. A very pointed moustache: London: 1855—ca. 70. (Ware.) Re-introduced by Napoleon III, who visited London in 1855.—10. A pretended blow: theatrical: from ca. 1850. (Mayhew.) Esp. in give and take the nap, the latter meaning to pretend to have struck 'by slapping the hands together unseen by the audience' (B. & L.): theatrical: from ca. 1860. Cf. nap the slap. ?ex knap. OED.—11. Blankets; sleeping bag: Aus.: late C.19–20. (Archer Russell, A Tramp Royal, 1934.) Ex S.E. nap, (short) sleep.—12. In go nap, to risk everything: ca. 1884 (Glover, Racing Life): coll. (?orig. racing s.) >, ca. 1920, virtually S.E. Ex the card game.—13. In go nap on, 'In Australia, most often used negatively, meaning "not to be keen on", not to favour, not to care for' (Wilkes): Aus.: since ca. 1930. Ex sense 12.

nap, v. See the n., 1, and 2: same period and status. The infection is gen. conveyed by nap it (B.E., Grose). The etym., like the relation to nab, is vague; cf. the cognate S.E. knap.—2. To seize, catch; arrest: c.: from ca. 1670; ob. Head, 'If the Cully naps us, And the Lurries from us take'; D'Urfe (OED). In John Poulter, 1753, the sense weakens: 'Nap my kelp (hold my hat)'.—3. Hence, to steal: c.: from ca. 1690; ob. by 1930. (B.E., Vaux.) E.g. nap the wiper, steal the handkerchief.—4. To receive severe punishment (prob. ex. sense 1): gen. as nap it: low: from ca. 1815; ob., except in dial.—5. To cog (a die): late C.17–18 c. cognate with sense 2: both prob. ex knap.—6. Hence, v.i. and t., to cheat: c. of ca. 1670–1760. Coles.—7. A low var. of S.E. knap: late C.17–20.—8. The horse-racing v. is j., not s.—9. To be 'nappy', q.v.: sporting: C.20.

nap the winder. To be transported for life: c. of ca. 1810–60. Vaux, who has also be lagged for one's wind.—2. To be hanged: c.:—1859. See winder.—3. In boxing, to receive a blow that deprives one of breath: mid-C.19–20.—4. Hence, to receive a shock, a severe set-back: low: ca. 1860–1935.

nap and double. Trouble (n.): rhyming s.: C.20. Margery Allingham, Mystery Mile, 1930.

nap hand. 'V.D. and crabs' (John Malin, 1979): RN: C.20.

The Army's use is 'Syphilis and gonorrhoea, twice' (Spike Mays, Fall Out the Officers, 1969): late C.19–20. Ex the card game, nap, but see also nap, n., 1, and v., 1.

nap it. See nap, v., 1 and 4. E.g. nap it at the nask (see nask), to be lashed at Bridewell: late C.17–18 c. B.E.

nap-nix. An amateur playing minor parts for experience: theatrical: from ca. 1860; ob. (H., 3rd ed.) Ex nap, to take or receive, + nix, nothing.

nap on. To cheat, try a cheating trick on: ca. 1670–1760: c. Head.—2. Also, however, it means to strike or to strike at: C.17—early 18. (See, e.g. the OED's quotation from Head & Kirkman, where the sense is ambiguous.) Here, nap (cf. Greene's 'worse than nabbing on the neckes to Connies') is prob. S.E. knap corrupted.

nap on, go. To bet, everything one has, on: from the 1880s: racing coll. >, by 1900, S.E. OED.

nap or nothing. All or nothing: clubmen's: 1868—ca. 1900. Ware.

nap the bib, the regulars, the rust, the teaze or teize. See nab the bib, etc.

nap the kid. To become pregnant: c.: earlier C.19. (Lex. Bal.) See kid, n., 1.

nap the rent. See stump the pew.

nap (or knap) the slap. To know how to receive a blow without being hurt in rough-and-tumble clownery: showmen's: from ca. 1860. (Hindley, cited by B. & L.) Cf. nap, n., 10.

nap the winding-post. To be transported: c.: ca. 1820–60. (Egan's Grose.) Cf. nap a winder.

nap toco for yam. To get the worst of it, esp. in fisticuffs: low: ca. 1820–70. ('Jon Bee.') ?ex Gr. tokos, interest. See toco.

napkin. In be buried in a napkin, to be asleep; half-witted: coll.: C.19—early 20.—2. In take sheet and napkin, to sleep and eat (with someone): coll.: C.17–18, Mewe (OED).—3. Knight of the napkin: coll., verging on S.E.: C.19—early 20. Cf. entries at knight of...—4. In make a napkin of (one's) dish-clout, to marry one's cook; hence, to make a misalliance: from ca. 1750; ob.; a coll. of the proverbial kind. (Grose, 3rd ed.) Earlier (—1678) as make one's dish-clout one's table-cloth (Ray): Apperson.—5. In stick a napkin under (one's) chin, to eat a meal: coll., verging on S.E.: mid-C.18–19.

napkin-snatching. The stealing of handkerchiefs: ca. 1820–60: low or c. Egan's Grose.

napoo; rarely napooh. Finished (esp., empty), gone; non-existent; dead; 'nothing doing!'; 'it's no use arguing any longer' ('it's no good': orig. and mainly military: WW1 +. Ex Fr. il n'y en a plus, there is none left, in reply to enquiries for drink.—2. Hence, also from 1915, v., to finish; occ. to kill.—3. As an adj., the term does not exist except in Pall Mall Gazette, 15 Feb. 1917, cited by W. For senses 1 and 2, see esp. B. & P. and cf. san fairy ann, q.v.

napoo finee. An occ. elab. of napoo, 1, and finee, qq.v.: military: 1916–18. F. & G.

napp. See nap, n. and v.

napper. A cheat; a thief: c. of ca. 1670–1840. (Coles; B.E.) Esp. in napper of naps (see nap, n., 4).—2. A false witness: low or c.: C.18.—3. See rain-napper.—4. The head: s. and dial.: since early C.18. An early occurrence is in Select Trials, from 1720 to 1724, pub. in 1734, so perhaps orig. c. Esp. in go off (one's) napper, go mad. Do on (one's) napper is a Cockney var. of do on (one's) head, i.e. very easily. Rook, Hooligan Nights. ? etym., unless ex nab, the head (cf. nap, 5).—5. Hence, the mouth: low: late C.19–20. A. Neil Lyons, Clara, 1912, 'You keep your napper shut' (Manchon).—6. A hat: c. of ca. 1800–70. See nap, n., 5. H., 3rd ed.—7. In the News Chronicle, 15 Mar. 1954, C.H. Rolph—article 'Give Him a Napper'—notes the following chimneysweeps' terms: (napper) "'That's the brush you screw on the doll. Oh, the doll's what we call the set of rods. . . ." . . . A chummy is an ordinary sweep.' Ex sense 4.

napping. Cheating: later C.17—early 20: c. until C.19, then low s.—2. In catch or take napping, to take by surprise or in the act: coll. C.19, then S.E.: 1562 (Pilkington: OED). Ex:—3. In as Moss (in late C.18—mid-19, often Morse, as in Grose) caught his mare—napping, asleep; by surprise: a coll. proverbial c.p. of ca. 1569—1870; in C.19, dial. 'The allusions to this saying and song in C.16—17 are very numerous' (Apperson). App. one Moss caught his mare by feeding her through a hurdle (Apperson, quot'n of 1597).

nappy, n. Beer: early C.18—early C.19. Ned Ward, cited by W. Matthews in Notes & Queries, 15 June 1935; J.H. Lewis, The Art of Writing, 7th ed., 1816, in the form nappy beer, cited by Moe.—2. A baby's sanitary napkin: domestic coll.: C.20 (and prob. from mid-C.19). Collinson.

nappy, adj. (Of a horse) that has 'these here little lumps along the neck and withers about as big as a nut' ('No. 747'): horse-copers': mid-C.19—20.—2. 'A horse that refuses to answer to the hand or leg, tries to go the way home instead of the way you want, or plays other tricks, is spoken of as "nappy". It is very common speech with all who own horses': sporting: since ca. 1860. (Sessions, Sep. 1880.) It is often applied to persons if they are recalcitrant or unamenable. Ex nab (or nap) the rust.

nar-nar. Over-smart, esp. if effeminately so: Aus.: ca. 1910—40. Colin MacLennan, June in Her Spring, 1952, 'You're not going to wear those nar-nar shoes to the gymkhana, are you?' Perhaps = nah-nah = the expostulatory, genteel now, now! P.B.: or poss. merely an 'intensified' spelling of nana, 3; cf. nana hair-cut.

narang. Small: Aus. pidgin: C.19. John Lang, The Forger's Wife, 1855.

narangy. A 'swell': Aus.: ca. 1870—1910. ('Tom Collins', Such is Life, 1903.) Ex Aboriginal. Wilkes interprets Joseph Furphy's [i.e. 'Tom Collins'] use of the term as being 'for those whose status on stations entitled them to be quartered in the barracks; hence a subaltern on a station, someone with authority lower than that of the manager'.—2. Hence, one who puts on 'side'; a social climber; a 'silver-tail': since ca. 1910. B., 1942.

narc; narcs. A drug-traffic detective; narcotics: adopted, ca. 1970, ex US. Janssen cites jagger, 1974, 'the narcs from the Chelsea drug squad'. Also spelt nark(s), as in:—2. The narcs, a dose of the narcs: that stupor which has been poetically described as 'the rapture of the depths' and is medically known as 'nitrogen narcosis': skin divers': since late 1940s. (Granville, 1964.)

nare. Never. Only if spelt thus is it low coll. and dial (C.18—20), for obviously it represents and is pron. in the same way as ne'er.

Narfy. See Naffy.

narikdn. A new-rich:—1923 (Manchon); ob. by 1930. Ex Japanese.

nark, n. A police spy; a common informer: c.:—1864 ('No. 747'); H., 2nd ed.; Arthur Morrison, in Mean Streets. Often copper's nak, i.e. 'nose' (q.v.). Ex Romany nak, the nose. Cf. nark, v.—2. Hence, in C.20 low s. a spoil-sport; a spiteful or nagging person. (C.J. Dennis.) B.P. noted that, by 1963, the term was 'no longer low slang in Australia', and McNeil, 1973, writes 'the British slang usage, meaning a police informer... is irrelevant here'. Cf. the v., 4.—3. Hence, rancour; a spite (against a person); umbrage, as in 'He took nark' (M.T.): C.20: low. Manchon.—4. 'A man eager to curry favour by running about and doing odd jobs for a superior' (F. & G.): army: early C.20.—5. A person on inquiry from head office: London clerks', managers', etc.: from before 1935.—6. Hence, 'A visiting senior officer on a tour of inspection' (P-G-R): RAF: 1939+. Cf.:—7. 'An expert; e.g. explosives nark' (W/Cdr R.P. McDouall, 1945): RAF: 1937+. Cf. also sense 2.—8. 'An awkward customer; one with no intention of buying' (M.T.): market-traders': C.20. Cf. sense 2, bogey, 9, and needle, 6.—9. In put the nark on, 'discourage; put a stop to; as in "That put the nark on his gazump"' (M.T.): market-traders': C.20. Cf. nark it! and contrast narkies.—10. A policeman: prison c.: mid-C.20. (Tempest.) An extension of sense 1.—11. Var. spelling of narc.

nark, v. To watch; occ., look after: c.:—1859 (H., 1st ed.) Ex the n., 1. Cf. tout, v.—2. Hence, to see: low:—1886 ('Pomes' Marshall).—3. V.i., to act the informer: 1896, A. Morrison, in Child of the Jago, 'It was the sole comment that ran there: "Thou shalt not nark"' (OED). Cf. nose, stag, qq.v.—4. To annoy, exasperate: C.20 low s. ex dial. (—1888) slightly influenced by the c. senses. EDD.—5. In Aus., it also = to foil: C.20. (C.J. Dennis.) Cf. the Aus. expression I'll nark you (or yer!): from ca. 1915; it combines senses 4 and 5.—6. See: nark it! 'Shut up!'; 'Be quiet!': low: from ca. 1912. (F. & G.) A specialised use of:—2. 'Stop it!': low: since ca. 1910; > by ca. 1935 fairly gen.

narked. 'Peeved; angry' (Wilkes): Aus. and Brit. low s. >, in later C.20, coll.: late C.19—20. Ex v., 4. Cf. narky, 2, and see quot'n at wet, adj., 9.

narkies, esp. get the narkies on. 'Get bossy; get on one's "high horse"; take umbrage' (M.T.): market-traders': C.20. Cf. nark, v., 4, n., 9, and narky, 2.

Narky. HMS Narcissus: RN: early C.20. F. & G.

narky. Sarcastic: Cockney: C.20. (Michael Harrison, Reported Safe Arrival, 1943.) Cf. nark, v., 4; but perhaps, in part at least, rhyming s. on sarky.—2. Ill-tempered; irritable: Aus.: since ca. 1910. (B., 1942.) Cf. narked and narkies.

narp. A shirt: Scots, either c. or, less prob., low s.:—1839 (Brandon). Just poss. derives ex Fr. nappe.

narrative. A dog's tail: middle-class joc.: ca. 1900—14. (Ware.) Punning tail—tale—narrative.

narrish. Thrifty: coll.:—1889; ob. London society, Oct. 1889. Ex S.E. narrowish.

narrow. Never (a); not (a), not (one): coll. and dial: 1750, Fielding, 'I warrants me there is narrow a one of all those warrant officers but looks upon himself to be as good as arrow a squire of £500 a year.' Ex ne'er a.—2. While it is S.E. as = mean, parsimonious, close(ly) investigating or made), (very) small, it is low coll. or s. as = stupid, foolish, ignorant: from ca. 1850; ob.—3. The bowling sense, 'When the Bias of the Bowl holds too much' (B.E.), is either j. or coll. of late C.17—early 20.—4. In 'tis all narrow, 'Said by the Butchers one to another when their Meat proves not so good as expected' (B.E.): late C.17—18 c.p.

narrow in the shoulder (or, more gen., shoulders). Not good at taking a joke: coll.:—1923 (Manchon).

narrow lane, the. See lane, 2.

narrow-striper. A Royal Marine Light Infantryman: RN: late C.19—early 20. Bowen.

nary a. Never a... : dial. and sol.: C.19—20. Perhaps ex ne'er a. Cf. narrow, q.v.

nasal. The nose: boxing: 1888, Sporting Life, 21 Nov. 'Planted a couple of well-delivered stingers on Harris's nasal'. Virtually † by 1920.

nase. Also nace, naze, nazie, nazy. Drunken; (of liquor) intoxicating: c.: from ca. 1530; fl. till ca. 1690 as nace, naze; then only as nazie, nazy, or nazzy: see nazy. Copland (nace), Harman (nase), B.E. (nazie), Grose (nazie). B. & L. derive it ex Ger. nass, wet.

nase nab. A red nose; a drunkard: c.:—1688 (Randle Holme); † by 1820. Under var. nazy nab, A New Canting Dictionary, 1725, has 'a drunken coxcomb'.

nash. To go away from, to quit, person(s) or place: c. of ca. 1810—50. Vaux, 'Speaking of a person who is gone, they say he is nash'd,' or, more elab., (Mr Nash is concerned: id. Ex Romany nash, nasher, to run.—2. Occ. earlier var. spelling of nash.

nasho (strictly, natio). A National Service trainee: Aus.: since ca. 1950. Dick; B.P.—2. National Service training: Aus.: since ca. 1945. 'Compulsory military training [was] abolished in 1972' (Wilkes).—3. The Nasho, the National—later the Royal National—Park, near Sydney: Aus.: mostly Sydneyites': since late 1940s. Hence, a push show at Nasho, violent love-making at National Park. (B.P.) nasie (Coles, 1676). See nazy.

nask or naskin. A prison: c. of ca. 1670—1830. Coles, 1676 (naskin); Higden, 1686, Juvenal (10th Satire), naskin; ca. 1690, B.E., nask and naskin; Grose, id. ?ex + Scots dial. nask, a withe + c. ken, a place, nask being an abbr. Whence, the Old Nask, the City (London) bridewell; the New Nask, the Clerkenwell bridewell; and Tuttle (in Grose, Tothil-fields) Nask, that in Tothill Fields: all in B.E. and all c.

Nasties; gen. the N-. Nazis: from 1934; ob. by 1946. By Hobson-Jobson.—2. Hence the Germans generally: mid-1940+. See also Old Nasty.

nasturtiums. See cast nasturtiums.

nasty, n. All-purpose term for something bad, something 'nasty'; e.g., an unexploded bomb, a difficult question, a traffic accident, or unspecified, as in 'You assume it's Frankenstein's monster come to do you a nasty' (BBC radio programme on class distinction, 20 Jan. 1980): coll.: C.20. In 1983, esp. in term video nasties, video-tapes full of violence, pornographic or otherwise distasteful. (P.B.)

nasty, ill-tempered, disagreeable, dangerous, unpleasant in its results, is S.E. verging on coll. (the OED gives it, rightly no doubt, as S.E., and the EDD as coll.), except when used by children to mean 'naughty' (coll.: late C.19–20): nasty [=jar] (—1902) is also S.E.; but nasty one, a fig. blow, a set-back, as in 'Ouida', 1880, is coll., and so is nasty knock, 1886, at least orig., for in C.20 it is rather S.E. than unconventional; nasty one in the eye, a set-back, an affront, is, however, definitely coll. (—1902). P.B.: E.P.'s remarks mean that he prob. dismissed get or turn nasty, to become threatening, dangerous, and gen. unpleasant, as S.E., but it has, in later C.20, still a distinctly coll. flavour. See cheap and nasty.

nasty face. See Jack Nasty-Face.

nasty man. He who, in a garrotting gang, does the critical work; or he who, for a cracksmen on a desperate job, acts as a garrotter: c.: from ca. 1940; ob. The ref. (p. 419) in 'No. 747's' Autobiography is valid for 1845; Trevelyan in The Competition Wallah.

nasty piece of work. An objectionable person: coll.: Occ. nasty bit.

Nat, nat. In politics, a Nationalist. In S. Africa, 'a member of the National(ist) Party (since 1918)' (Prof. A.C. Partridge, 1968). Also, since the mid-1950s (? earlier), a Scottish, a Welsh, etc., Nationalist. Unfortunately my earliest printed record of the Brit. sense occurs only on 28 July 1977, when the Daily Telegraph included an article headed 'Welsh Nats Are Sceptical over Devolution Bill.'—2. In in (all) (one's) nat, in (one's) life: Cockney: early C.20. (Pugh.) Abbr. in all (one's) natural [sc. life].

Natal fever. A heat-induced indisposition for exercise: S. African coll.: 1909 (East London Dispatch, 7 June: Pettman).

Natal rum. 'A vile spirit distilled from sugar refuse and nothing behind "Cape smoke" [q.v.] in its effects' (Pettman: 1885, W. Greswell, Our South African Empire).

natch! Of course! E.P. glossed this as 'Canadian: adopted, ca. 1945, ex US', with Dr Leechman as his authority; but I am fairly certain that we were already using it, as children round about that time. (P.B.) Ex naturally—natch! Occ. var. nach.

nater (pron.—prob.—natter). An international player: sporting:—1923 (Manchon); ob. by 1933. By the 'OXFORD -ER' on nat; cf. internatter, q.v.

Nathaniel. In (down) below N-, even lower than hell: ca. 1860–1915. Nathaniel being Satan, says Ware: but Nathaniel may be rhyming s. on hell.

Nathans, the. The 'Jonathans', the Americans of the USA: Naval: ca. 1810–(?40. The Night Watch (II, 131), 1828, 'Our first trip was a regular-built poser to the Nathans. We landed on the banks of the Paxutent'. Also Nathan used collectively, as at II, 133, 'Nathan had Wellington's men to deal with.' (Moe.)

natio. See nasho.

nation as n. is S.E., as an adv. = very (—1785) it is coll. († by 1870) and dial.; the form nationally, as in 'nationally proud and fond' occurs in Bill Truck, intro. letter to Man-o'-War's Man, dated 10 Oct. 1921. As adj. (very great or large) it is C.19–20

dial. As all three, common in late C.18–20, US. The adj. derives ex the n. (Sterne, 1762, 'The French have such a nation of hedges') and occurs in US, as early as 1765 (nation profit), while the adv., in US, 1771 (Moe cites the anonymous The Trial of Atticus (p. 26), 'He is a nation bawdy creature to talk') derives either ex the US adj. or the n. The word itself is a euph. abbr. of damnation (adv.). Thornton and OED.

National, the. National Assistance: coll.: since ca. 1946. 'He is doing well now—on the National.'—2. Abbr. 'the Grand National', the great steeplechase run annually at Aintree, Liverpool: sporting > gen. coll.: since mid-C.20 at latest. (P.B.)

National Debt. A bet: theatrical rhyming s.: C.20. Franklyn, Rhyming.

national exhibition. 'An executing at the Old Bailey; a term of the late Douglas Jerrold's, but now usual' (H., 3rd ed., 1864); † by ca. 1880.

national indoor game (or sport), the (great). Sexual intercourse: late C.19–20; low coll. Contrast Australia's national game, two-up: Aus. coll.: since early C.20. Wilkes.

Nationals, the. The so-called 'National' daily newspapers: coll.: mainly journalistic: since ca. 1920.

nationality. See nation.

native; gen. collectively the natives, 'silly people, generally; the untravelled population of any town, wrapped up in incipient [?innate or insipid] simplicity are natives' (Bee): London coll.: 1818 (The London Guide: only as pl). Cf. next.—2. See go native. native cavalry. 'The unbroke horses of countrymen, when they resort to races, fairs, fights, & c.' (Bee): London: ca. 1820–60. Cf. prec., 1.

native leave. Leave granted to men whose homes are in, or near, the port at which a ship is lying: RN coll.: C.20. P-G-R.

natives are restless (tonight), the. A c.p. applied to discontent, dissatisfaction, or merely to unexplained noise: joc.: since ca. 1945. Ex a memory of 'derring-do' in 'the outposts of the Empire'. See DCpp. and—natives were hostile, the. Anti-aircraft fire was heavy: RAF c.p., usu. referring to air-raids over Germany: 1940–5. (P-G-R.) A joc. allusion to this common statement in books of exploration and travel.

natomy, nattermy. See atomy, of which it is a mainly dial. var.

Nats, the. See Nat, 1. Also in Aus.: ca. 1916–18. Dal Stevens, Jimmy Brockett, 1951.

natter, n. A chat, a conversation: coll.: since latish 1930s. (L.A.) Ex the v. A Northern dial. word that has come to have a much wider usage: EDD treats it at length under gnatter.

natter, v. To talk aimlessly, endlessly, irritatingly; to talk when speech is forbidden. Services, esp. RAF: since ca. 1938. (H. & P.) Partridge, 1945, 'Hence the frequent vbl n., nattering.' P.B.: since WW2, in very widespread coll. use.—2. Hence, in WW2, esp. in RAF coll., 'to grumble in a minor way' (Jackson). Directly ex dial.: see prec.

natter can. A person, esp. a 'Waaf', prone to excessive speech: RAF: 1941+. (Partridge, 1945.) Ex prec.

natter party. 'A conference which leads nowhere' (H. & P.); RAF: 1939+. Ex natter, v., 1. RN version: nattering match (D. Bolster, Roll on My Twelve, 1945).

nattermy. Ware's version of natomy, q.v. at atomy.

nattum. Sexual intercourse: Aus. low: C.20. (B., 1942.) Arbitrary? Perhaps ex 'do the naughty'; or perhaps back s. on mutton, 2.

natty, n. A 'natty' person: coll.: 1820 (Moore: OED); ob. by 1920. Ex—natty, adj. Orig., and in c., app. clever, smart with the hands: see natty lad.—2. Smartly neat, spruce: from ca. 1785 (implied in the adv., q.v.): s. till ca. 1860, then coll.; in C.20, S.E. Surr, 1806, 'A natty spark of eighteen'. Cf. the quot'n at twig, n., 1.—3. Of things, very neat, dainty: s. till ca. 1860; coll. ca. 1860–1910; then S.E. 1801, Wolcot, 'Thy natty bob'.—4. Hence, of persons, daintily skilful: from ca. 1820: s. >, ca. 1860, coll.; in C.20, S.E. Prob. ex natty lad, q.v. For etym., cf. the † S.E. netty, nettie (e.g. in Tusser, 'Pretty ... fine and ... nettie'), but prob. a corruption of neat (W.) or perhaps ex Fr. net. N.B., the other parts, nattily, nattiness, mid-C.19–20, were, prob., orig. coll., but they soon > S.E. OED.

natty, adv. Nattily, i.e. smartly, daintily, neatly, hence skilfully: from ca. 1785: s. >, ca. 1860, (low) coll. G. Parker, 1789, 'Kind of fellow who dresses smart, or what they term natty'. Ex the adj.

natty lad. A young thief, esp. if a pickpocket: c. of ca. 1780–1870. (Grose, 1st ed.) See natty, adj., 1, and the etym. natural. A mistress, a harlot: ca. 1685–1830: perhaps orig. c.; never better than low s. Shadwell, 'My natural, my convenient, my pure'.—2. A child: coll.: late C.18–early 19. (Grose, 1st ed.) By abbr. ex natural child, daughter, son. (—3. F. & H.'s definition as 'bastard' is an error accounted for by a misreading of the entry in Grose, EDD. 1–5.) P.B.: I cannot follow E.P.'s objection here: in his own ed. of Grose appears the gloss 'a love or merry-begotten child, a bastard', which seems clear enough; moreover the SOD quotes, against date 1817, 'He was never married, but had natural daughters', so perhaps E.P. means that the term is S.E. rather than 'unconventional'.—4. Ace and ten at the card-game vingt-et-un: perhaps orig. coll. (1849, SOD), soon > j. Perhaps because such a hand naturally makes 21.—5. One who has an inborn gift, whether musician or painter or writer or games-player 'or whatever'; a thing eminently suitable or adaptable (e.g. of a book: 'a natural for a film'): coll.: adopted, early 1950s, ex US.—6. Mostly in plural naturals, 'non-hip people', 'squares': beatniks', then hippies': since early 1960s; ob. by 1975. Peter Fryer, Observer, 3 Dec. 1967.—7. In for (or in) all (one's) (gen. my) natural, for or in all one's life; ever: C.20: s. >, by 1930, coll. As in the next sense, sc. life after natural; as also there, perhaps an allusion is understood to for the term of his natural life.—8. Hence not on (or never in) your natural!, certainly not!: C.20.

Natural Philosophy. See TAVERN TERMS, §3d, in Appendix. naturally! Of course!: coll., in retort, agreement, etc.: late C.19–20.

nature calls (usu., politely, excuse me, but). I must go and relieve myself: joc. coll.: C.20. (P.B.)

nature of the beast, the. Eligible only when applied to things, not to animal life: coll.: since ca. 1910. 'This car tends to oversteer when cornered fast. It's the nature of the beast.' (B.P.)

nature run. A short leave ashore at night: R Aus. N: since ca. 1920.

Naughton and Gold. Cold (in the head): rhyming s.: since ca. 1945. Ex the famous music-hall pair. (Franklyn 2nd.) They formed part of the 'Crazy Gang'; another equally famous pair were Nervo and Knox, q.v.

naughty, n. A copulation: Aus.: late C.19–20. D'Arcy Niland, The Big Smoke, 1959.—2. As the naughty, the female pudend: mid-C.19–early 20.—3. Occ. used as synonym. with nasty, n., in such instances as 'Careful how you lift that—you could do yourself a naughty', where naughty = a rupture or other injury: coll.: later C.20. (P.B.)

naughty, adj. Flash; loudly smart: low: ca. 1860–1910. Vance, 1864, speaks of trousers as 'werry naughty'. Prob. naughty, immoral, influenced by natty, adj., 3.—2. (Of an actor, actress) inferior: theatrical: late C.19–20. Ngaio Marsh, Vintage Murder, 1938.—3. "'Naughty" is the term used in the [antique furniture dealers'] trade for [an antique] piece that has been converted ... or tampered with, without the alterations being declared' (W. Crawley, Is It Genuine?, 1971).—4. Naughty is often used, in later C.20, in senses that were S.E. in C.16–18, but which now, 1983, have an archaic, joc., or coll. flavour; e.g., of a piece of machinery that fails to work because of faulty construction, it might be said 'Oh, that's naughty!' (P.B.)—5. In do the naughty [sc. thing], to play the whore; to coit (of women only): from ca. 1850: low coll. Also, ca. 1860–1910, occ. go naughty: ordinary coll. Cf. the n., 1, and the v.—6. In it's naughty, it's dangerous!: c.p., c. and low: from ca. 1920. Cf. sense 4. naughty, v. To coit with: Aus.: C.20. 'He naughties her'. Ex n., 1, and prec., 5. naughty but nice. A ref. to copulation: since ca. 1900. Ex a song that Minnie Schult sang and popularised in the USA, 1890s. As a c.p. it's naughty but it's nice.

naughty house, if used by the prim, is S.E.; if by the lewd, a coll.: C.19–20.

nause, n. (pron. nauwe). Trouble; a disgusted complaint or plaint: c.: since ca. 1950. "'He don't do as he's told—that's the fucking nause'" (G.F. Newman, The Gunner, 1977). Abbr. nausea, q.v. The abbr. usage was very popular in all the Services in late 1960s, early 1970s, in the senses given at nausea, and also for 'trouble' in the sense of nuisance, inconvenience, e.g. 'but that means going all the way over to the depot, and that's such a nause' (P.B.). Cf.:

nause, v. To spoil, as in 'it went against the grain for all of them to "nause" such a bit of [criminal] business' [Piers Paul Read, The Train Robbers, 1978]: c.: later C.20. (P.B.) Cf. prec., and:— nausea. A fuss; trouble: Royal Naval College, Dartmouth: since ca. 1950. John Winton, We Joined the Navy, 1959, 'I'd forgotten about the cap. I knew there'd be a nausea about it.' P.B.: in spite of the remarks at nause, n., the unabbr. form was still in RN/RM use in the early 1970s, as in 'making it necessary for pilots to check constantly against drifting into Irish air space with the immense subsequent nausea' (Christopher Hawke, For Campaign Service, 1979).

nauseate. To reprimand; to make life difficult for (someone): RN: since ca. 1950. John Winton, We Joined the Navy, 1959, "'Have you tried the cable deck?" asked Michael. "He sometimes goes up there to nauseate the foc'sle men.'" Cf. prec.

nauseous. Objectionable: coll.: C.18–early 19. E.g. nauseous toad, often used as a mild endearment (cf. filthy fellow). Article by H. C. K. Wyld in the Spectator, 22 Apr. 1938. P.B.: still, 1983, occ. used, usu. for humorous effect.

Naussie. A New Australian (esp. a recent migrant from Europe): Aus.: since ca. 1950. (B., 1959.) A blend of New + Aussie.

nautical triumvisetta. 'A singing and dancing nautical scene by three persons, of whom two are generally women': music-halls':—1909; very ob. by 1930. (Ware.) Perhaps a blend of triumvirate + set, with an Italianate suffix (a).

Nautics, the. The Royal Navy: RAF: WW2. Slightly derogatory. (Paul Brickhill, The Dam Busters, 1951.) But in later, non-RAF, use, only very slightly if, indeed, at all derogatory.

nauze. See nause.

nav. A navigator: RN and RAF: since ca. 1920. Commoner than navvy, 2. P.B.: by ca. 1950, in the RAF, it had > j.: I trained, unsuccessfully, in 1952 to be a 'navrad', i.e. a navigator (radar), to operate as an electronic gun-layer on a night-fighter.—2. See navigator.

Nav House, the. 'The Navigation School situated in HM Dockyard, Portsmouth' (Cdr John A. Poland): RN: C.20.

naval bank holiday. A day spent in coaling the ship: RN: since ca. 1925. (P-G-R.) An ironic pun on banking, or heaping up, coal.

naval engagement. Sexual intercourse: Can. naval officers', hence more gen.: since ca. 1940. Navel to navel.

naval police, Her or His Majesty's. Sharks: nautical: mid-C.19–20; ob. (Ware.) They are sharp deterrents of desertion at sea.

navel. See gall (one's) naval; proud below the navel; wriggle navels. All are to do with sexual intercourse.

navel exhibition (or show). Belly-dancing; raffish: since ca. 1945. A pun on navel.

navel-tied. Inseparable: coll.: C.18–early 19. Gen. they have tied their navels together, as in Ray's Proverbs, ed. of 1767.

navigator. A 'tatur', i.e. potato: rhyming s.:—1859 (H., 1st ed.). Occ. nav (—1902).—2. See the ironic use in TAVERN TERMS, §3d, in Appendix.

navigator Scot. A hot 'tatur'; gen. a hot baked potato: rhyming s.:—1859 (H., 1st ed.).

Navigators' Union, the. 'A select, most unofficial body which met in pubs anywhere near a Bomber Station.' (John Bebbington): RAF: ca. 1940–5.

navigay. Navigation, as a school subject: RN training ships': C.20. (Peppitt cites H.W. Wilson, 1909.)

Navvies. See sense 3 of:

navvy. A labourer working on excavation, earthworks, or similar heavy tasks: 1832 (De Quincey): coll. >, by 1865 (witness H., 3rd ed.), S.E. Ex navigator, S.E. (ca. 1770–1870), same sense.—2. The navigating officer: nautical: late C.19–20. Bowen. Also, derivatively, an RAF or an RN navigating officer: since ca. 1920. Jackson (at G.R. navvy), 1943; Partidge, 1945; Granville.—3. (Gen. pl.) 'General Steam Navigation's ships' (Bowen): nautical: late C.19–20.

navvy's (or navvies') piano. A pneumatic drill: roadmakers' and builders': since ca. 1925.

navvy's Prayer Book, the. A shovel: navvies': ca. 1870–1910. (D.W. Barrett, Navvies, 1880.) Ex the prayerful attitude involved in its use.

navvy's (or navvies') wedding-cake. Bread pudding: Services', esp. the RAF; railwaymen's: since ca. 1925. H. & P.; Jackson; McKenna.

navy. See thank God we've got a navy!

Navy cake and the commoner Navy cut (ex Navy Cut tobacco), like chutney and port-hole duff, are synon. with back-scuttle; all are low RN terms for sodomy: C.20. Hence, to have a bit of Navy cake, to indulge in sodomy: army and RAF: since ca. 1918. An unmerited aspersion. Cf. golden rivet.—2. Collective masturbation: RN training ships': since (?) ca. 1920.

Navy chicken. Corned beef: RN: since ca. 1917. In WW2, it also designated spam.

Navy fish, n. and adv. A Naval beard, a beard worn in the Naval fashion: since ca. 1930.

Navy House. The Sailor's Rest, Chatham: RN: C.20. Granville.

Navy Office, the. The Fleet Prison: low: ca. 1810–40. (Lex. Bal.) Whence, Commander of the Fleet, the warden there. (Ib.) Ex the old name for the Admiralty building (see Pepys's Diary, 9 July 1660: OED).

Navy's here!, the. The triumphant and reassuring call by Lt Bradwell Turner, commanding the RN party that rescued 299 captured British seamen from the German prison-ship Altmark, in Jossing Fjord, Norway, in Feb. 1940. It became a national c.p. in WW2, and, still extant in 1968, might well be compared with a US c.p.: the Cavalry's here and the more recent the Marines have landed. Sometimes joc., as when, for instance, addressed to or at a lone sailor entering a bar. See DCpp.

Nawpost, Mr. A foolish fellow: late C.17–18: c.p. coll. (B.E.; Grose, 1785.) Presumably, one foolish enough, if hungry, to gnaw a post.

'Nay, stay!' quoth Stringer when his neck was in the halter. A c.p. applied to one speaking too late: ca. 1670–1750. Ray, Fuller. (Apperson.) Prob. ex a topical instance, perhaps of an innocent man, but poss. suggested by string up, to hang, someone.

Nazarene foretop. The foretop of a wig made in imitation of Christ's head of hair, as represented by the painters and sculptors' (Grose, 2nd ed.): ca. 1785–1820: on the border-line between S.E. and coll.

naze. See nase.

Nazi Goering. Hobson-Jobson on Malay for 'fried rice': see PRISONER-OF-WAR SLANG, §6, in Appendix.

Nazi-scrammer. An actor or actress that, because of Jewish blood, has left Germany to perform, permanently, in another country: theatrical: mid-1930s. (Daily Express, 20 Sep. 1935.) See scram.

nazie. See nazy.

nazold. A silly person; a vain fool: 1607 (Walkington): coll.

till ca. 1840, then only as dial. Cf. S.E. nazzard, which app. = dial. azzard and, significantly, azzald, which may be cognate with ass.

nazy; occ. nazzy. Drunken: from early 1670s: c. (ex nase, q.v.) until ca. 1780, then low; from ca. 1830, dial. (ob. in C.20). Coles, 1676 (nasie); B.E. (as nazie); A New Canting Dict., 1725, nazy-cove and -mort, a male and a female drunkard; nazy-nab, a drunken coxcomb (q.v. at nase-nab); Grose (nazie, 1785; nazy, 1788); Robinson's Whitby Glossary, 1855 (nazzy). B. & L. derive it ex Ger. nass, wet.

ne' Never: a clipped, slovenly coll. of the upper classes and of drunks: since when? John Dickson Carr, The Eight of Swords, 1934, 'His daughter and my son—hurrumph, ne' mind.'

ne-dash. See nedash.

neagues, neakes. See 'Sneaks!

Neapolitan favour. Syphilis: euph. coll.: late C.16–mid-17. Greene, Notable Discovery, 1591.

near- Approximating to, incomplete(ly); ostensible; a substitute for, hence artificial (things); superficial: coll.: from ca. 1925 in England; ex (—1919) US: see esp. Mencken. In such phrases as near-silk, artificial silk; near-thinker, almost or ostensibly a thinker. By 1937, knocking at the S.E. gates. Cf. the late C.16–early 17 S.E. usage, exemplified in near-wretched, Ben Jonson, and near-isle, Lisle, 1625 (OED).

near and far. The bar: public-house rhyming s.:—1909 (Ware).—2. A car: later C.20. Jack Jones, ed., Rhyming Cockney Slang, 1971.

near as dammit is to swearing, as; hence the usu. shortened (as) near as dammit. Very near indeed; usu. in the slightly weaker sense 'near enough': C.20. I don't remember hearing it before 1921, but it goes back, I believe, another 10 or 20 years. (A Petch reminder, 1969.) Cf.:-

near—in C.17 occ. like—as fourpence to a groat (, as). For practical purposes the same: mid-C.16–20: coll. till C.19, then dial. (Apperson.)

near as no matter (, as). Very near(ly) indeed: coll.: late C.19–early 20.

near enough. A var. of nigh enough: Franklyn.

near enough is good enough. Aus. c.p. 'applied to a very common attitude' (B.P.): since ca. 1945. P.B.: but an attitude by no means restricted to Aus.

near go, a. A narrow escape, a 'close shave', 'a damned close-run thing': coll.: since ca. 1825. Cf. go, n., 5.

near the foreman—near the door. A tailors' c.p. (mid-C.19–20) verging on proverbial S.E. and implying that it is better to keep as far away from the foreman as possible. B. & L.

near the knuckle. See knuckle, n., 5.

neardy. A master, a foreman, a parent; a 'boss': Northern coll.: ca. 1860–1930.

nearer the bone the sweeter the meat, the. A mid-C.19–20 low c.p. applied by men to a thin woman viewed as a bed-mate. Ex the old proverb, the nearer the bone the sweeter the flesh (mid-C.16–20): Apperson.

neat. (Ironically) rare; fine: ca. 1825–1915; ob. by 1890. T. Creevey, 1827, 'So much for my new find! Is he not a neat one?' (OED). Cf. the Can. teenagers' non-ironic use for 'very pleasing or attractive' (Leechman): adopted, ex Standard US., mid-1950s. Some use among Brit. youngsters in the 1970s (P.B.).

neat as a band-box; a new pin; ninepence; wax. As neat as possible; very neat indeed: coll.: resp. C.19–20, C.19–20, C.17–20 (see at ninepence), ca. 1840–1910.

neat but not gaudy. Sprucely neat: orig. serious (ca. 1630–1800) and presumably S.E.; then—even in Lamb's 'A little... flowery border... neat not gaudy', 1806—it takes an ironical turn (cf. neat, above), which finds itself recognised as a c.p. when, in 1838, Ruskin, in Architectural Magazine for Nov., writes, 'That admiration of the "neat but not gaudy", which is commonly reported to have influenced the devil when he painted his tail pea green.' (Apperson.) In 1887, Lippincott's Magazine for July has, 'The whole thing "Neat, but not gaudy, as the monkey said" on the memorable occasion "when he painted his tail sky-blue," which presents a diversion from the orig. sense and likewise constitutes a c.p. But by 1902, F. & H. can give as a 'common', i.e. gen., c.p.: neat, but not gaudy; as the devil said when he painted his bottom red and tied up his tail with sky-blue ribbon. After 1930 one has often heard neat but not gaudy or this plus as the monkey said; the longer forms only occ. A mid-C.20 elab., ob. by 1970, was neat but not gaudy, chic but not bizarre.

neaters. Undiluted rum or any strong drink taken neat; rum before it is made into grog; RN, orig. officers': C.20. (Bowen; Granville.) By the 'OXFORD -ER(S)'. neathie-set. A woman's term for a set of feminine underclothes: mid-1930s. In Books of Today, Nov. 1934, C.G.T., in a poem entitled 'Too Much of Too Little', writes, concerning advertisements: 'I'm weary of their "woolies", Their "step-ins" and their "pullies", / Their "tighties" and their "fullies", / Their darling "neathie-sets".' (Cf. the quotations at briefs and undies.) Ex underneath.

neb. A face, esp. a woman's: (low) coll.: C.17–18. Extant in dial. Ex neb, a bird's bill.—2. A nebelwerfer (the German six-barrelled mortar): army: 1940 (?1939)–45. (P-G-R.) the German Nebelwerfer, lit. 'fog-thrower', has 'two distinct meanings: 1, a smoke-bomb mortar; 2, a cover-name (cf. "tank" as orig. used in English) for the multiple rocket-launcher (not a mortar), nicknamed "Moaning Minnie" by our Army, and similar to the Russian weapon called by them "Anoshka", and by the Germans "Stalin's organ"' (H.R. Spencer).

nebbish. Pitifully unfortunate: Barnhart quotes The Times, 6 Apr. 1968: 'The central character is so nebbish he has not even a name', and derives it ex 'the Yiddish interjection nebekh, probably from the German nie bei euch, "may it not happen to you".'

nebbly. A VIP, e.g., an inspecting general (a 'big nebbly'), or a politician 'on a swan': army in Cyprus, later 1950s; perhaps more widespread. Cf. nab, n., 6, and nob, n., 4. (P.B.)

Nebuchadnezzar. A vegetarian: ca. 1870–1910. Ex the Biblical Nebuchadnezzar's eating of green.—2. Hence, a salad: Aus.: C.20. B., 1942.—3. In take Nebuchadnezzar out to grass, (of a man) to coit: low: ca. 1870–1915. Three suggested etymologies: N. = the penis; grass = the female pubic hair (cf. bush, n., 3); N. = the penis; grass = greens, 5; and Julian Franklyn's, in 1962, 'Only—I should think—it's a word-and-a-half just asking to be misused, as in the chanted couplet, "Nebuchadnezzar, king of the Jews, sold his wife for a pair of shoes"', which E.P. accepted, 'not as exclusive of, but as supplementary to' the first two.

Nec Ultra. The west side of Temple Bar, London; fashionable London: Society: C.19. (D. Jerrold (the first), cited by Ware.) Punning the L. phrase.

necee peeress. 'An E.C. (East London) or city [rather, City] bride of little or no family, and an immense fortune, both of which are wedded to some poor lord or baronet': Society: —1909; ob. by 1930. (Ware.) Lit., an E.C. peeress.

necessaries, the (or one's). The male genitals: raffish: since ca. 1940. Roderic Jefferies, Exhibit No. 13, 1962.

necessary. A bedfellow, esp. a woman: coll.: C.18—early 19.—2. With the: ad hoc money, funds: coll.: OED cites Daily News, 6 Sep. 1897. Cf. the needful, q.v.

