corner-man. A loafer: coll., from ca. 1880 (recorded in 1885). Replacing corner-cove, q.v.—2. An end man, 'bones' or 'tambourine', in a negro-minstrel or an analogous show: from ca. 1860; ob. H., 3rd ed.

corner of the round table, on the. A c.p. reply to an inquiry where something may be found: lower-middle and upper working classes': from ca. 1890.

corner-shop. See GUARD-ROOM, in Appendix.

cornerer. A question difficult to answer: coll.:—1887 (Baumann). Ex corner, v., 1.

cornering. The practice of corner, v., 2, q.v.

corney. See corny-faced.

cornfield meet. A head-on meeting of two trains that are trying to use the same main line: Can. railroadmen's:—1931. Ex animal fights.

cornichon. A 'muff' (e.g. at shooting): Society 1880—ca. 1886. Ex Fr. Ware.

cornie, -y, n. A cornelian marble: Aus. children's: C.20. B., 1943.

Cornish duck. A pilchard: trade: from ca. 1865; ob. Cf. Yarmouth capon.

Cornish (or Sussex) half. 'A top-up for a pint, ordered and paid for as a half-pint, but more than a half-pint is supplied: RN, 1870s; Army, 1920s' (Peppitt). A coll., rather than s.; and I suspect a much longer currency for both Services.

corns and bunions. Onions: rhyming s.: late C.19–20. B. & P.

corns in the head, have. To be drunk: drinkers':—1737 (Franklyn); † by 1860.

cornstalk (or C). A New South Welshman of European descent: coll.: from ca. 1825. Later (ca. 1880), and loosely, any Australian of the Eastern states. Peter Cunningham, 1827, 'From the way in which they shoot up'; rather, ex tendency to tall slimness. (Morris.) Ob. by 1945. B.P. noted, 1963: 'Utterly unknown by people under the age of forty.'

cornstalk, v. To parade along 'The High', round 'The Corn', up 'The Broad' and back via 'The Turl': Oxford undergraduates': ca. 1880–1930, but already ob. while I was 'up' in 1921–3. (Compton MacKenzie, Sinister Street, 1913.) A blend of 'the Cornmarket' + S.E. 'to stalk'.

cornuted. Cuckolded: late C.17–18; coll. (B.E.) Ex a cuckold's horns. Cf.:

Cornwall without a boat, send (a man) into. To cuckold him: ca. 1565–1830. (Painter, Palace of Pleasure, 1567; Halliwell.) Punning † corn(e), a horn, (in fortification) hornwork. (Apperson.) Cf. cornuted.

corny. Trivial: unimportant: Services': since ca. 1941. (H. & P.) Ex American corny, hackneyed, out of fashion.—2. Old-fashioned, hackneyed, sentimental, esp. in an outmoded way: adopted, ca. 1942, ex US. It was current among Can. musicians as early as 1930. 'It implied old-fashioned and rural; belonging to the Corn Belt [of the US] rather than to the city; also applied to jokes and humour' (Priestley).

corny-faced. Red and pimply with drink: ca. 1690–1830. (B.E.) Cf. corned.

coronation. A caning; esp., cop a c., to receive a caning: Aus. schoolboys': ca. 1910–40. (Donald McLean, Nature's Second Son, 1954.) Cf. crown, v., 4.

coroner. A heavy fall: from ca. 1870; ob. I.e. one likely to lead to an inquest.

corp. (Very rare as non-vocative.) Corporal: military coll.: C.20. (B. & P.) Cf. sarge.—2. A corpse: nautical: late C.19–20. (Edwin Pugh, A Street in Suburbia, 1895; H. Maclaren, The Private Opinions of a British Blue-Jacket, 1929.) Recorded in dial. as early as 1775 (EDD).

corp out. To die: low:—1923 (Manchon). Prob. ex corpse, v., 2, after conk out, q.v.

corporal and four. See mount a corporal . . . , to masturbate. Corporal Cookie. The larger bomb mentioned at cookie: RAF: 1944–5. P-G-R.

Corporal Forbes or the Corporal Forbes. Cholera Morbus: Army (esp. in India): from 1820s. (Shipp's Memoirs, 1829.) Y. & B.

corporal of the field. One who urinates in the fireplace when drunk. See TAVERN TERMS, §6, in Appendix.

corporation. A prominent belly: from ca. 1750; coll. C. Brontë, in Shirley, 'The dignity of an ample corporation'. Influenced by S.E. corpulent.

corporation cocktail. 'Coal gas bubbled through milk' (Home Office): drug addicts': current in 1970s.

corps commanders. (Singular very rare.) 'That species of lice with the Corps H.Q. colours, red and white' (M.A. Mügge, The War Diary of a Square Peg, 1920): army: WW1.

corpse, n. A horse entered in a race for betting purposes only: the turf, from ca. 1870.—2. Ship's corporal: RN lowerdeck: late C.19–20. (Knock.) Hence, also, an army corporal, but not in his hearing: Tommies': ca. 1916–18. Applies esp. to an inferior type' (Petch, 1966).—3. A stage gaffe. See corpser and corpse, v.—4. As the Corpse, a party of Marine: RN: C.20. (Granville.) Perversion of the Corps of RM.

corpse, v. To blunder (whether unintentionally or not), and thus confuse other actors or spoil a scene; the blunderer is said to be 'corpsed': theatrical: from ca. 1855; ob. (H., 1st ed.) Simon Brett, An Amateur Corpse, 1978: 'And how typical of The Backstagers [an amateur dramatic society] that they should have all the theatrical slang. A "corpse" was a breakdown into laughter on stage.' Also, to forget one's lines: drama school: since ca. 1950 (?revived): hence smart young set: 1956+. Gilderdale, 2.—2. To kill; low: recorded in 1884. (Henley & Stevenson in Deacon Brodie.) Ex dial.

corpse lights. Corposants (St Elmo's fire): nautical coll.: mid-C.19–20. Bowen.

corpse-provider. A physician or a surgeon: ca. 1840–1930.

corpse-reviver. Any powerful, refreshing drink: C.20; ex a specific US mixed drink.

corpse-ticket. An identity disc: WW1. (F. & G.) Var. of cold-meat ticket.

corpse-worship. A marked profusion of flowers at funerals: clubmen's: ca. 1880–1900. Ware says that 'that custom, set by the Queen at the mausoleum (Frogmore) immediately after the death of the Prince Consort [in 1861], grew rapidly . . . Finally, in the '90s, many death notices in the press were followed by the legend, "No flowers".'

corpser. A blunder on stage: theatrical: from ca. 1850 (B. & L.); superseded, (?)mid-C.20, by corpse. See corpse, v., 1. corpus. Corpse: dial. and sol., > literate joc.: C.19–20. (Sinks, 1848; Dorothy L. Sayers, The Nine Tailors, 1934.) Cf. corp, 2.

Corpy. Belonging to, or concerning, the Corporation of the City: Liverpool: C.20.

corral, n. A pimp's 'stable' (by which, prob., it was prompted): US before it became, not very widely, Brit. (Landy, 1971.)

corral, v. To obtain, to acquire, as in 'I'll try to corral a few drinks': Can., esp. mid-West: since ca. 1920. (Leechman.) Ex cattle-herding. Cf. round up.

correct. The correct number or quantity; esp. in (up) to correct, (up) to the correct or specified number, etc.: military coll.: 1916. B. & P.—2. See all present . . .

correct card, the. The right thing to have or do; the 'ticket': from ca. 1860, ex lit. racing sense. Often written k'rect card.

Corridor, the. The '2 p.m. train from Euston, pioneer of corridor trains' (Railway, 2nd): railwaymen's: ?late C.19—early 20.

corroboree (earlier var. corrobbery), n. A fuss, noise, disturbance: Aus. coll.:—1874. Ex the (Aus.) lit. meanings: properly a Botany Bay Aboriginal word.—2. A large social gathering or meeting: id.:—1892.—3. Hence, a discussion: Aus.: C.20. B., 1942.—4. A drunken spree: nautical: late C.19–20. (Ware.) Franklyn suggests perhaps, in part, at least, rhyming s.

corroboree, v. To boil (v.i.); to dance. Aus.: from ca. 1880; ob. For v. and n., see Edward Morris's neglected Dictionary of Austral English, 1898. (Congratulations to Sydney University Press on issuing a facsimile ed. in 1972.)—2. To hold a discussion about something: Aus.: C.20. (Baker.) Cf. the n., 3. corroboree water. Cheap wine: Aus.: since ca. 1920. (B., 1943.) Perhaps ex corroboree, n., 4. corruption, occ. in pl. Natural sinfulness, 'the old Adam': 1799; coll. until C.20, when archaic S.E. (SOD.)

corsets. A soldier's bandolier: Aus. army: WW2. B., 1942.

corsey. Reckless (betting or gambling): sporting coll.: 1883; ob. (Ware.) Ex Fr. corse.

Corsican, the. Something unusual: sporting; ca. 1880–1913. Coined by F.C. Burnand (1836–1917), playwright and editor of Punch.

Corticene-Grabber's itch. See C.G.I.

corvette, a. A Wren addicted to Sub-Lieutenants. As the corvette (ship) chases 'subs', so does the 'corvette' (Wren). corvette would roll on wet grass, a. A RN c.p. born of bitter, uncomfortable experience; very soon taken up also by the other English-speaking navies: WW2. See DCpp.

cosy. See corey.

corybungus. The posterior: boxing; ca. 1850–1900. Etym.? 'cos. Because: coll.: C.19–20. (Baumann.) Better spelt 'cause. cosey. A late C.19–20 var. of carsey = casu, case: qq.v.—2. Ware, however, notes that, in the London slums, it is (from before 1909) 'a small, hilarious public-house, where singing, dancing, drinking, etc., goes on at all hours'. Prob. influenced by S.E. cosy.

coosh, n. A life-preserver, 'neddy', i.e. a short, thin but loaded bludgeon, in C.20 occ. of solid rubber; also (rare before C.20) a policeman's truncheon. From ca. 1870: orig. c., then low. (H., 5th ed; Edgar Wallace passim.) Prob. ex Romany. In WW1, it meant an 'offensive' stick carried by a man on night patrol: applied to the nape of an enemy neck, it made very little noise. See also coshier stick. Occ. spelling kosh.—2. With the, one who uses a cosh: c.: C.20.

cosh, v. To strike with a cosh; esp. thus to render unconscious: late C.19–20 c. Ex the n.—2. Hence merely, to hit: Cockneys': C.20.

cosh-carrier. A harlot's bully: c.:—1893 (EDD). Ex cosh, n., 1. Hence cosh-carrying: c.:—1896 (OED Sup.).

cosh-me-gosh. A (?later) var. of oos-me-goosh, q.v., sliced beef and vegetables: RN lowerdeck: C.20. P-G-R.

coshier, n. Var. of cosh, n., 1. Earlier alt. spelling koshier.—2. One who uses a cosh: c.: late C.19–20.—3. A policeman: Berkshire s.:—1905 (EDD Sup.).

coshier, v.i. To talk familiarly and free-and-easily: coll.: ca. 1830–1930. Cf. Scottish cosh, on intimate terms, ex cosh, snug and comfortable.

coshier stick. A mace, a knobkerry, lit, 'a stick used, as a weapon of trench warfare, to cosh or strike someone': British Army: WW1. In Frederick Manning's Her Privates We, 130, it is spelt koshier stick, prob. under the influence of Jewish kosher.

coshes. Physical punishment: market-traders': C.20. (M.T.) Ex cosh, n. and v.

cosier. An inferior seaman: naval: C.19. (Bowen.) Ex the † S.E. cosier, -zier, a cobbler.

cosmic. Adj. of high approval: teenagers': later 1970s. 'The holiday was better than lovely—it was cosmic!' (Miss Nicola Hardy, 1977.)

cosmography. A drinker who, in his cups, brags of his travels. See TAVERN TERMS, §3d, in Appendix.

cooss. A blow, a punch: hatters':—1909. Perhaps ex cosh + goss, q.v. Ware.

coosack. A policeman: from late 1850s. H., 1st ed.; Graphic, 30 Jan. 1886, 'A policeman is also called a "coosack", a "Philistine", and a "frog".' All these terms are †.

coosid. A 'runner', i.e. a running messenger: Anglo-Indian coll.: late C.17–20. Ex Arabic. Y. & B.

coosie (pron. cozzie). A swimming costume: Aus., from ca. 1919; ob. by 1960 (B.P.); also Mersey-siders', (?) earlier—and still extant, late 1970s. Ex costume; cf. pressie (pron. prezzie), a present.

cost. To be expensive: coll.: from ca. 1916. Norah Houlty, Youth Can't Be Served, 1933, 'Them things cost these times.' Abbr. cost a lot of money. See also it'll cost you!

cost a bomb (or a packet). To be very, or unexpectedly, expensive: since ca. 1960: coll. E.g., 'God knows where they get the money—that car must've cost a bomb (or a packet).' Cf. make a bomb.

cost an arm and a leg. Var. of prec.: coll., ex US. I first heard the phrase 1974, from a friend returned from USA. It appeared later, allusively, in a cartoon concerning London Transport fares, on cover of Time Out, 19 Mar. 1982. (P.B.)

Costa del Sludge. The Spanish Riviera: 'old Spanish hands', those who have long holidayed there. A bitter ref. to pollution. G. Moorhouse, on BBC Radio 4, 19 June 1980 (P.B.).

Costa Geriatrica. The S. Coast of England, to which so many elderly people retire: orig. medical joc., > gen. coll.: since early 1970s. (P.B.)

costard. The head: joc. coll. (—1530). Palsgrave (OED); Udall in Ralph Roister Doister; Shakespeare; B.E.; Grose; Scott. Ex costard, a large apple. Cf.:-

coster. Abbr. (—1851) costermonger (C.16), orig. costdard-monger, at first a seller of apples, then of any fruit, finally of fruit, fish, vegetables, etc., from a barrow. Cf. costard, q.v., and barrow-man, q.v.

costering. Costermongering: from ca. 1850; ob. Mayhew, 1851 (OED); H., 1st ed.

costermonger Joe. 'Common title for a favourite coster': commercial London:—1909 (Ware).

costermongering. 'Altering orchestral or choral music, especially that of great composers': musical: ca. 1850–1910. (Ware.) Ex Sir Michael Costa's adaptations of Handel.

costive. Niggardly: late C.16–20; coll., in C.20 S.E. and rare. Cf. constipated.

Costly Forces. 'Self description of "Coastal Forces"' (Granville): WW2.

cosy. All very snug and profitable; remarkably convenient: coll.: since ca. 1940. It attains its peak in the catch-word cosy!, that's very pleasant, that promises some very pleasant opportunities; esp., since ca. 1950, in Can.

cot. abbr. cotquean, a man meddling with women's work and affairs: coll.: late C.17–18. (B.E.) Extant in dial.—2. In on the cot, 'A man of a bad character, trying to amend his ways—i.e. in a moral hospital, so to speak': military: late C.19–early 20. F. & G.

cot case. 'Someone incapacitated, esp. by drink: joc. (from hospital term for patient needing to be confined to bed)' (Wilkes): Aus.: mid-C.20.

cotch. Except in dial., a sol. for catch: C.19–20. In facetious usage, however, it is to be ranked as a coll.

cotiva. A var. (recorded by S. Lester, 1937) of catever, q.v., a strange affair or an inferior thing.

cots. The shoe-strings of monitors: Christ's Hospital (School), ca. 1780–1890. (Charles Lamb.) Ex cotton.—2. God's, in coll. oaths: C.16–mid-18. OED.

Cotso. Var. of catso, a penis, a rascal.

Cots(w)old lion. A sheep: mid-C.15–mid-19. Ex the sheep-fame of the Cotswolds. (Anon., ca. 1540; 'Proverbs' Heywood; Harington in his Epigrams.) Cf. Essex lion, Cambridgeshire nightingale. Apperson.

cottage. Abbr. cottage piano: (—1880) coll. > j.—2. A urinal: euph. coll.: since ca. 1900. Ware.—3. Hence, any lavatory: theatrical: from ca. 1910.—4. Hence, a public lavatory used for homosexual encounters: since ca. 1920.

cottages. Men's trousers so made as to constrict the crutch: tailors' and men's outfitters': since ca. 1920. An informal shape of cottage trousers, a witty piece of trade j.: 'no ballroom'.

Cottagers, the. Fulham Football Club ('soccer'): sporting: 1910 (P.G. Wodehouse, Psmith in the City). They often play at Craven Cottage, London.

cottaging. Going down to one's 'cottage'—often quite a largish house—in the country for the week-end: the 'two-house world': since ca. 1960.—2. The practice of homosexuality: since ca. 1970. Ex cottage, 4.

Cotterel's salad; Sir James (Cotter's) or Cotterel's salad. Hemp: Anglo-Irish, C.18–early 19. (Grose, 1st ed.) A baronet of that name was hanged for rape.

cotton, v.i. Prosper; hence, agree together: coll.; the former (†), from ca. 1560; the latter, from ca. 1600. In an old play (1605), 'John a Nokes and John a Style and I cannot cotton.' The primary sense ('prosper') may arise ex 'a fig, sense of raising a nap on cloth' (W.).—2. Hence, with to, 'get on' well with (a person), take kindly to (an idea, a thing): from ca. 1800; coll. Barham, 'It's amazing to think,/How one cottons to drink!'—3. See cotton on.

cotton-box. An American ship, bluff-bowed, for carrying cotton: nautical: C.19. Bowen, 'The old clipper men used to speak of them as being built by the mile and sawn off in lengths when wanted.'

cotton in their ears, die with. To be hanged. See leave the world ...

cotton-lord, occ. -king. A wealthy manufacturer of, dealer in, cotton: 1823. Coll. >, by 1880, S.E. Cf. cottonocracy, Cottonopolis.

cotton on, v.i.; v.t. with to. To form, or have, a liking or fancy (for a thing, plan, person): coll.: C.20. Ex cotton, 2. OED Sup.—2. To understand: from ca. 1910. COD 1934 Sup.

cotton-top. A loose woman preserving most of the appearances: ca. 1830–80. Ex stockings cotton-topped, silk to just above the ankles.

cotton up. To make friendly overtures; v.t. with to. Both coll.; from ca. 1850. See cotton.

cotton-wool, wrap (or keep) in. To cosset, coddle: coll., from ca. 1870; by mid-C.20 almost S.E. cottonocracy. Cotton magnates as a class: coll.: 1845. (SOD).

Cf.:—

Cottonopolis. Manchester: from ca. 1870: coll. (H., 5th ed.)

Cf. cotton-lord and Albertopolis.

cottons. Confederate bonds: from ca. 1870; Stock Exchange. Ex the staple of the Southern States, USA.

Cotzooks! A coll. corruption of God's hooks (nails on the Cross): early C.18. OED.

couch a hog's head. Lit., to lay down one's head, i.e. to lie down and sleep: C.16–17 c.; in C.18, low. Recorded in Harman, B.E., Scott (as an archaism). Occ. cod's head.

couch a porker. A var. of the prec.: c.: (?)C.18.

cough, n. A piece of genuine information or of trustworthy evidence: policemen's, esp. detectives': prob. since ca. 1920. Roger Busby, Garvey's Code, 1978: a senior detective speaking, 'I've had a cough on less than this, before they [suspects] collect their wits.' Ex cough up, 1, and the v.—2. See your cough's...

cough, v.i., as in 'Did he cough?' To confess: policemen's: since ca. 1910. (Lawrence Henderson, With Intent, 1968.) Ex gen. s. cough it up, to admit to something, to confess. Also cf. cough it.

cough! Said humorously while making a feint jab at another man's genitals: Services': since ca. 1950. Ex medical officer's inspection.

cough(-)and(-)sneeze. Cheese: rhyming s.: since ca. 1880.

cough and a spit, a. A role in a play or film where the actor has merely a few words to speak: theatrical coll.: since early C.20. Cf. synon. oyster part. (Mrs C. Raab, with acknowledgment to Mr Marc Sinden.)

cough and stutter. Butter: rhyming s.: C.20. (L.A., 1978.)

cough-drop. A 'character'; a quick courter or 'love'-maker: low coll.: 1895, The Referee, "'Honest John Burns"... objects to being called "a cough drop".' Ware postulates '1860 on'.—2. An attractive girl: S. Africa: 1942+. Prof. W.S. Mackie in Cape Argus, 4 July 1946.

cough it. To confess: c.: adopted, ca. 1945, ex US. Bourne-mouth Evening Echo, 20 Apr. 1966, a crook loquitur, 'They have told me that the others have coughed it. That is their pigeon.'

cough it up — it might be a gold watch! Joc. and unsympathetic remark to someone with a hacking cough: Londoners': C.20. (L.A., 1978.)

cough-lozenge. A mishap; something unpleasant; esp. in that's a cough-lozenge for (somebody): a virtual c.p. of 1850–60. Nasty medicine; contrast cough-drop.

cough slum. Cough lozenges: grafters': C.20. (Cheapjack, 1934.) See slum, n., 10.

cough-to-coffin. A 'cough-to-coffin cigarette', familiar to Forces serving in the Near, the Middle, the Far East in WW2. Cf. Camel to Consumer.

cough up. To disclose: from C.14, now ob. (not, as the SOD says, †); S.E. in C.14–17; coll. in C.19–20.—2. To pay, v.i. and t.: from ca. 1895.—3. (Likewise ex sense 1.) To produce, hand over: C.20; perhaps orig. US. See quot'n at dub up. coughing better. See your cough's... coughing Clara. A heavy gun: army: 1914+. (F. & G.) Ex its report as heard from the Front.

could do that with (my, his) prick out, (I/he). Able to do something without strain: low c.p.: since ca. 1930. (L.A., 1977.) A vulgar var. of could do it (usu. thrash somebody) with one hand tied behind my back.

could eat the hind leg off a donkey, (I/he, etc.). I am, he is, etc. very hungry: coll.: C.20. A var. of could eat a horse, of which, as Leechman notes, the Can. elab. is... if you took his shoes off.

couldn't care fewer. An occ. var. of the next: ca. 1959–64. couldn't care less, I or he, etc. A c.p. ('I'm quite indifferent') dating from 1940 and rampant ever since early 1948: orig., upper-middle class, but by 1945, fairly gen. On the pattern of I couldn't agree (with you) more, which, current ca. 1938–49, started in Society and was, by 1940, common among Service officers, but never so widely used as in the 'care less' inanity. (P-G-R.) In his God Help America! (1952), Sydney Moseley has 'Ordinary citizens "couldn't have cared less!"—to use a cant post-war phrase current in England.' P.B.: however, as Anthony Phelps makes clear in I Couldn't Care Less, 1946, an informal memoir of his WW2 service with the Air Transport Auxiliary, for some speakers, at least, the c.p. did not imply sheer indifference and irresponsibility, but rather a determined and responsible effort to maintain morale by refusing to be cowed when times were blackest.

couldn't care less if the cow calves or breaks a leg, I or he, etc. A NZ extension, since ca. 1950, of the prec. (Slatter.) couldn't hit the inside of a barn (polite); couldn't hit a bull in the arse with a scoop-shovel. A Can. c.p., directed at a bad marksman: C.20. The Brit. var. is couldn't hit a barn-door, sometimes with at [e.g.] five yards added: army: since mid-C.20, prob. much earlier.

couldn't organise a fuck in a brothel. A derisive c.p., directed at an inefficient superior: low, esp. Services': C.20. Cf.:—

couldn't organise a piss-up in a brewery. Since ca. 1950, at latest, the much more frequently used var. of the prec. A piss-up = a drinking-bout. (P.B.)

couldn't speak a threepenny bit, I (etc.). I was unable to speak: London streets':—1909 (Ware).

Coulson. A court jester: a coll. nickname (—1553) soon > allusive S.E. Ex a famous fool so named. (OED: at patch.) coulter-neb. The puffin: nautical: C.19–20; ob. (Bowen.) Ex its sharp beak.

council-houses. Trousers: rhyming s.: from ca. 1925. (Michael Harrison, Weep for Lycidas, 1934.) Cf. round the houses.

council of ten. The toes of a man with in-turned feet: ca. 1858–90. H., 2nd ed.

councillor of the pipowder court. A pettifogging lawyer: coll.; ca. 1750–1850. Ex Court of Pie-powders, dealing summary justice at fairs; Fr. pieds poudreux.

counsellor. A barrister: Irish c. (—1889) and dial. (—1862). Ex Scots (C.19–20). EDD.

count. A man of fashion: ca. 1840–60; coll. Cf. dandy, well, toff.

count (one's) chickens before they are hatched. (Often shortened to the allusive don't count your chickens.) Unduly to anticipate a successful issue: C.16–20; coll. till C.19, then S.E. (Gosson, 1579; 'Hudibras' Butter, its populariser.) P.B.: surely almost proverbial; ultimately ex Aesop's Fable of the milkmaid who was going to sell her can of milk to buy eggs.

Count No-Account. 'A facetious title for one who, lacking funds, claims an aristocratic background' (Leechman): Can.: ca. 1895–1914.

count noses. To count the Ayes and Noes: Parliamentary: from ca. 1885; ob.

counter. An inferior officer of a counter or prison: C.17. OED.—2. An occasion of sexual intercourse (from the angle of the prostitute): prostitutes' and white-slavers' c.: C.20. Londres.

counter-hopper. A Londoners' coll. var. (ca. 1850–1910; Mayhew, 1851) of the next. EDD.

counter-jumper. A shopman: coll.: 1831, an American example (OED Sup.); S. Warren, 1841 (OED); H., 2nd ed.; G.A. Sala, 1864, 'He is as dextrous as a Regent Street counter-jumper in the questionable art of "shaving the ladies".' Baumann, 1887, and Manchon, 1923, have counter-skipper: † by 1930.

counterfeit crank. A sham-sick man: mid-C.16–18: mostly c. Burton's Anatomy.

countertrafe. To strafe (q.v.) in retaliation: artillerymen's and infantry officers': 1916. B. & P.

counting-house. Countenance (n.): non-aristocratic, non-cultured: ca. 1870–1910. Ware.

country, the. The outfield: from early 1880s: cricket s. >, by 1910, coll., now verging on S.E. Lillywhite's Cricket Companion, 1884 (OED). But country stroke appears as early as 1872. Also country catching (1888), c. field(sman) in 1890s. W.J. Lewis.—2. See all up the country; go to the country; line of country; up, adj.

country-boat. See country-ship.

country-captain. A very dry curry, often with a spatch-cocked fowl; Anglo-Indian: coll.: from ca. 1790.—2. Also (—1792, †), the captain of a country-ship, q.v.

country chub; country cokes. See DUPES AND FOOLS, in Appendix.

country cousin. A dozen: rhyming s.:—1909 (Ware).—2. In pl., monthly courses: euph.:—1923 (Manchon). See relations.

country-crop, in Manchon, is an error for county-crop, q.v.

country Harry. A waggoner: mid-C.18—early 19 c. Grose, 2nd ed.

country hick. See hick, and cf. other entries at DUPES AND FOOLS, in Appendix.

country-put. 'A silly Country-Fellow' (B.E.): coll.; late C.17—early 19. See put, n., and cf. note at clodshy.

country-ship. A vessel owned in an Indian port: Anglo-Indian coll. (—1775); country-boat occurs as early as 1619. Y. & B.

country work. Work slow to advance: coll.:—1811 (Lex. Bal.); ob. by 1930. Cf. church work.

county, adj. Wrapped up in the affairs of county Society; apt to consider such society to be the cream of the social milk; very much upper-middle class: coll.: from ca. 1880.

county-court. To sue a person in a county court: coll.: from ca. 1850.

county-crop. Abbr. county-prison crop. Hair cut close and as though with the help of a basin: a 'fashion' once visited on all prisoners: ca. 1858—1910, H., 2nd ed.—2. Hence, county-cropped: 1867, J. Greenwood (OED).

coop (pron. coop). A coupon, e.g. for clothes: mostly women's: ca. 1940—5, then historical. Monica Dickens, 1946.

couped up. B.E.'s spelling of couped-up, q.v.

coupla. Couple of: US, anglicised ca. 1905: (low) coll. D.L. Sayers, 1934, 'He'd had nothing to eat... for a couple days'.—2. Two coins that, tossed, fall 'heads': Aus.: late C.19—20. Baker.—3. 'A generality for several drinks, not necessarily two' (B., 1943): Aus.: C.20. P.B.: British also! Consider Harry Lauder's famous 'When I've had a couple o'drinks on a Saturday, Glasgow belongs to me', and—couple, a. A couple of drinks: coll.: late C.19—20. Richard Keverne, Menace, 1935, 'Stopped at the "Swan" for a couple'.

couple-beggar. A hedge-priest: coll.: C.18—19. Swift, in Proposal for Badges to the Beggars; prob. the earliest record; Lever, in Handy Andy. Cf. buckle-beggar.

couple of bob. A damp swab: darts-players' rhyming s.: since ca. 1945. Franklyn, Rhyming.—2. A non-specific sum of money, as in 'I bet that suit cost a couple of bob': Cockneys': later C.20 (Muvver.) The term has survived decimalisation by at least a decade. See bob, a shilling. (P.B.) couple o(f) doorstep. A sandwich: low: C.20. (F. & G.) Ex doorstep, q.v.

couple of ducks. No. 22 in TOMBOLA, q.v. in Appendix.

couple of flats. Two bad actors: theatrical: ca. 1830—80. (Ware.) A pun on the two scene-screens.

coupling-house. A brothel: C.18—19; low coll.

coupon. (Political) a party leader's recommendation to an electoral candidate: 1918. (Collinson.) The term soon passed from s. to j.; thence, ca. 1930, to S.E. The coupon election was that of 1918 (Great Britain).—2. See fill in (someone's) coupon.

courber. A var. spelling of curber, a thief that uses a hook.

couranne. A crown piece: theatrical: from ca. 1860. (B. & L.) Via Fr. courenne.

course. Abbr. of course, as in Course I did it or Course! (What do you suppose?): late C.19—20 coll. Baumann.—2. Because: Cockney coll.: C.20. George Ingram, Cockney Cavalcade, 1935, "It's course he's got a 'cuddle' on for them." Cf. cos, q.v.

course a-grunt or a-pig. A bricklayers' term for the error that arises if two men start building a wall from opposite ends; one man thinks there should be, say, 24 courses of bricks, and the other, 25. The result is also known as a pig in the wall. (Jack Stearn, building instructor, 1978.)

course with (someone), take a. To hamper him. See take a course...

court. To sue in a court of law: from ca. 1840: coll. Cf. county-court.—2. In I'll see you in court, an ironic farewell. See see you in church.

court a cat. To take a girl out: RN: since ca. 1925. (H. & P.) By 1940 also RAF—via the FAA. In the least uncomplimentary.

court card. 'A gay fluttering Fellow' (B.E.); a dandy: coll.: ca. 1690—1800, then dial.

court cream; court element; court holy bread; court holy water; court water. Fair but insincere speeches, promises: C.17—18 the first; the others being C.16—18. All are coll., as, orig., was the C.17—18 court promises. OED.

court martial, n. A tossing in a blanket: schoolboys': from ca. 1870. B. & L.

court martial, v.t. (Gen. hyphenated.) To try by court martial: from ca. 1855; coll.; by early C.20, S.E.

court noll, courtnoll. A courtier: coll., pej.: ca. 1560—1680. In C.17, S.E.

court of assistants. Young men to whom young wives, married to old men, are apt to turn: a late C.18—early 19 facetious coll. punning the S.E. sense. Grose, 2nd ed.

court(-)short. A police-court paragraph (i.e. short news item): journalistic coll.: since ca. 1920. No doubt orig. a pun on caught short, q.v.

court tricks. 'State-Policy' (B.E.): coll.: mid-C.17—18.

court water. See court cream.

Courtesy Cops. That section of the mobile police which on 2 Apr. 1938, began, in England, to remonstrate politely with inconsiderate and to instruct ignorant motorists: motorists': 1938 (Observer, 3 Apr.; The Times, 4 Apr.).

Courts, the. Steamers of the Ropner Line: nautical coll.: since ca. 1920. The ships bear such names as Errington or Wellington Court. Cf. the Castle boats, of the Union-Castle Mail S.S. Co.: C.20.

cousin. A trull: c.;—1863. SOD.—2. In late C.16 c., a (rustic) 'pigeon'. Greene.

cousin Betty. A half-witted woman: mid-C.19—early 20: coll. Mrs Gaskell, in Sylvia's Lovers, 'Gave short measure to a child or a cousin Betty'.—2. Also, a strumpet: C.18—mid-19: c. and, latterly, low s. Jon Bee.

cousin Jack. A Cornishman: Can. coll., esp. among miners: late C.19—20. (Leechman.) Cf.:-

cousin Jan or Jacky. A Cornishman: coll. and dial.: from ca. 1850. See Jan, 2.

cousin Sis. Piss (=drink). See go on the cousin Sis.

cousin the weaver or, as in Swift and Fielding, dirty cousin. Prefaced by my, these two terms—the latter much the more gen.—were, in late C.17—18, pej. terms of address: coll.

cousin Tom. A half-witted man: in C.18 if a beggar, in C.19 of any such unfortunate, though not applied to a person of standing.

cousin trumps. One of the same occupation or, occ., character: mainly, like brother smut, as a familiar tu-quoque. Coll.; C.19.

Cousins, the. Their American sister service, whom they [political agents] called in their own strange jargon "the Cousins" (John Le Carré, The Honourable Schoolboy, 1978): orig. a rather transparent cover-name, ca. 1950, soon > j. Ex pedantic 'Our transatlantic cousins'. (E.P. listed the term for inclusion; I have glossed it. P.B.)

couta. A rare form of couter.—2. A barracouta (fish); Aus. coll.: late C.19—20.—3. Hence, a Southern Tasmanian (gen. the word is used in the pl): Northern Tasmanians' nickname: C.20. These fish being plentiful in Southern Tasmania.

coouter, occ. cooter. A sovereign: perhaps orig. c., certainly always low and mainly vagrants' and Cockney: from ca. 1835. (Brandon, 1839; Snowden's Magistrate's Assistant, 1846 (OED); H., 1st ed.; James Payn in A Confidential Agent, 1880.) Ex Romany kotor, a guinea.

cove. A man, a companion, chap, fellow; a rogue: from ca. 1560. In C.16 often cofe. In C.16–18, c.; still low. Harman, B.E., Grose; Dickens, in Oliver Twist, 'Do you see that old cove at the book-stall?' Prob. cognate with Romany cova, covo, that man, and, as W. suggests, identical with Scottish cove, a hawk (cf. Romany chav, q.v. at bewer).—2. Hence, in Aus., the owner, the 'boss', of a sheep-station: ca. 1870–1910. This sense owes something to:—3. the cove (or Cove), 'the master of a house or shop' (Vaux); c. of ca. 1800–70. Cf. next entry but one.

cove of (the) dossing-ken. The landlord of a low lodging-house: C.19 c. Cf.:-

cove of the ken, the. 'The master of the house' (Egan's Grose): c. of ca. 1820–70. Ex cove, 3.

covee. 'A variant spelling of covey, a man' (Boxiana, IV, 1824). The term was ca. 1815–30 much applied to landlords of public-houses (Egan, 1821).

Covent Garden. A farthing: rhyming s. on farden:—1857 ('Ducange Anglicus').

Covent Garden abess. A procuress: C.18–early 19. The Covent Garden district, in C.18, teemed with brothels. See esp. Beresford Chancellor's Annals of Covent Garden; Fielding's Covent Garden Tragedy; and Grose, P. Cf. Bankside ladies and Drury Lane vestal.

Covent Garden ague. A venereal disease: late C.17–early 19. (Ray, 1678; Grose, 1st ed.) Cf. Drury Lane ague, and see Covent Garden abess and Covent Garden rails.

Covent Garden lady. A var. (ca. 1800–30), noted in 1823 by Bee, of:-

Covent Garden nun. A harlot: mid-C.18–early 19. (Grose, 1st ed.) Cf. nun and Drury Lane vestal.

Covent Garden rails, break (one's) shins against. To catch V.D. See break (one's) shins...

Coventry, go to and send to. To refuse to speak to someone; ex the second, to ostracise. See gone to Coventry and send to Coventry.

cover, n. A pickpocket's assistant: c.: from ca. 1810. (Vaux.) Cf. stall, q.v. Ex the v.—2. In at the cover, adj. and adv., applied to a pickpocket cloaking the movements of the actual thief: c.: from ca. 1840. Charles E. Leach.

cover, v.t. and i. To act as a (thief's, esp. a pickpocket's) confederate: from ca. 1810: c. and low. Vaux.—2. To possess a woman: low coll.: C.17–20. (Urquhart's Rabelais, 1653.) Ex stallion and mare. Cf. tup.

cover-arse gown. A sleeveless gown: Cambridge University, ca. 1760–1860.

cover-down. A false tossing-coin: c.: C.19; † by 1891. See cap, n., 4.

cover for, v. "Will you cover for me tonight?" meaning "Will you take my turn of duty?" Hospital internes and resident doctors' (Leechman): Can. (ex US): since ca. 1945; adopted, ca. 1950, in Britain, and soon used for anyone substituting for the 'official' person on duty, not only in the medical profession.

cover-me-decent (or -decently). A coat; a greatcoat: low: the first, ca. 1800–50, the second, ca. 1825–70. (Egan, Tom and Jerry, 1821; Sinks, 1848.) Cf.:-

cover(-)me(-)properly. Fashionable clothes: low: ca. 1830–70. (Sinks.) Contrast:-

cover(-)me(-)queerly. Ragged clothes: low: ca. 1830–70. (Sinks.) Cf. prec. two entries.

cover-slut. Apron, pinafore: coll.; C.17–20, now archaic.

covered wagon. A fruit tart: Conway Training Ship (—1891). Masefield.

coverer. An occ. † var. (Egan's Grose, 1823) of cover, n.

covert-feme. Dryden's facetious manipulation of the legal feme covert: he uses under covert-feme of a man under his wife's protection. Cf. Dickens's joc. application of coverture in Sketches by Boz.

covess. A woman: late C.18–mid-19. George Parker, Lytton. Ex cove, 1, q.v.

covey. A man: low: from ca. 1820; ob. Pierce Egan, 1821; Dickens in Oliver Twist, 'Hullo, my covey! what's the row?' Diminutive of cove, q.v.

covey (of whores). 'A well fill'd Bawdy-house' (B.E.): late C.17–early 19: coll.

coving. Theft of jewellery by palming it as a conjuror does': c.: from ca. 1860. B. & L.

cow. A woman: in C.18–20, low coll. Earlier, hardly opprobrious; Howell, in 1659, speaks of that proverb which, originating temp. Henry IV, runs, 'He that bulls the cow must keep the calf.' P.B.: in mid-C.20 and later, the bald noun is usu. qualified; it is normally used derisively, but with a tinge of pity or regret, as stupid cow, fat cow, lying cow, or, as in the title of Nell Dunn's novel, 1967, Poor Cow. One exception to this generalisation is that Society sense, of the 1920s, which is glossed by Maurice, I, Said the Sparrow, 1925, thus: 'You might also explain that the word "cow" is much used in Mayfair these days and that the beautiful maidens of our circle don't mind it being applied to them in the least, provided that it is done by a friend and in a friendly spirit.'—2. A harlot: C.19–20; ob.—3. £1,000: sporting: from ca. 1860; †, supplanted by grand. Cf. pony, monkey.—4. Milk: perhaps orig. Can., late C.19–20 (B. & P.); soon also Aus. (Ion L. Idriess, 1931); and, since ca. 1920, RN lowerdeck.

—5. (Always either a cow or, more strongly, a fair cow.) A (very) despicable or objectionable person—even a man can be a fair cow; a (most) unworthy act; an obnoxious thing: Aus., hence NZ, coll.: C.20. C.J. Dennis.—6. A female member of the chorus: theatrical:—1923 (Manchon). A specialisation of sense 1.—7. A tramp's woman: 'tramps' c.:—1935. Cf. sense 2.—8. 'One pound sterling. "Cow and calf" = thirty shillings' (Tempest): c.: mid-C.20. See calf, 2.—9. See sleep like a cow; three acres and a cow.

cow and calf, n. A half: rhyming s., mostly racing men's: C.20. (Franklyn, Rhyming.) Cf. cow's calf.

cow and calf, v. To laugh: rhymng s.:—1859 (Hotten, 1st ed.); ob. by 1930.

cow-baby. A faint-hearted person: coll.; from ca. 1590. In C.19–20, dial.

cow-banger. A dairy-farm hand: Aus.: C.20. (B., 1942.) Cf. cattle-banger.

cow-bridges. 'The fore and aft gangways in the waists of old men-of-war, before the days of completely planked main decks' (Bowen): naval: C.19.

cow cage. A car or van for livestock: Can. railroadmen's:—1931.

Cow Cart Brigade, the. 'The Ossewa Brandwag (lit.: Ox-Wagon Sentinel), the Afrikaans Nationalist organisation against whose activities British troops were warned' in WW2: 1940–5. (Peter Sanders.)

cow chilo; bull chilo. A girl child; a boy child; pidgin: mid-C.19–20; ob. by 1890, † by 1920. B. & L.

cow climbed up a hill! You're a liar! See there was a cow...

cow-cocky. A dairy-farmer: Aus., from ca. 1890; since ca. 1910, also NZ. (Niall Alexander, 1939.) See cocky, n., 5.

cow conductor. A bullock driver: Aus. joc.: ca. 1925–50. B., 1943.

cow confetti. 'Bullshit': Aus.: since ca. 1930. (Kylie Tennant, The Honey Flow, 1956.) B., 1942, has the less usual cowyard confetti.

cow-cow, v.i. and t. To be in a rage; to scold, reprimand severely: Anglo-Chinese; mid-C.19–20. H., 3rd ed.

cow-cumber, cucowcumber. Cucumber: sol. in mid-C.19–20; S.E. in C.16–early 19. Dickens. (It is fairly gen. in dial.)

cow-cunted. Low coll. pej. applied to a woman deformed by harlotry or child-bearing: C.19–20.

cow died of, the tune the old. See tune the old cow...

cow-feed. Salad; raw vegetables: 'Services': C.20. F. & G.

cow-grease or -oil. Butter: coll.: mid-C.19–20. In C.19, gen. cow's-grease ('Ducange Anglicus'). Cf. cow-juice, q.v.

cow-gun. A heavy naval gun: RN s. (from ca. 1900) >, by 1915, coll. (OED Sup.) Granville notes that these guns were manufactured at the Coventry Ordnance Works.—2. 'A 1½-pounder automatic gun fitted to the bows of a large RAF flying boat, from ca. 1935' (Peter Sanders). Perhaps so named by ex-RNAS airmen.

cow-handed. Awkward: late C.18–19 coll. Grose, 1st ed.

cow-heart. Either joc. or pedantically sol. for coward: C.19–20. (?earlier). Prob. suggested by:— cow-hearted. 'Fearful or Hen-hearted' (B.E.): coll., verging on S.E.: mid-C.17–20, ob. Cf. prec., and cow-baby.

cow-hitch. A clumsily tied knot: nautical:—1867 (Smyth). As in cow-gun and cow-handed, the idea is of unskillfulness.

cow-hocked. Thick-ankled; large- or clumsy-footed: coll.: mid-C.19–20.

cow-horn. A brass mortar on shipboard: naval: late C.19–20; ob. (Bowen.) A perversion of coe-horn.

cow in a cage, as comely (or nimble) as a. Very ungainly or clumsy: coll.: 1399, Langland; 1546, Heywood; 1678, Ray; 1732, Fuller. (Apperson.) Cf. bull in a china shop.

cow-juice. Milk: coll.; late C.18–20. Grose, 3rd ed.; heard on the Conway Training Ship (—1890), says Masfield. (Cf. sky-juice.) Esp. opp. tinned cow.

cow-lick. 'A peculiar lock of hair, greased, curled, brought forward from the ear, and plastered on the cheek. Once common amongst costermongers and tramps' (F. & G.); H., 2nd ed., has it. Coll. >, by 1900, S.E. (First used in late C.16, prob. of a fashion different from that of the costers, which looked as though a cow had licked it into shape.) Cf. aggerawator.

cow-oil. See cow-grease.

cow-pad. A third-term cadet employed in keeping the petty officers' quarters clean: Training Ship Worcester: late C.19–20. Bowen. Granville records this as cow-pat. If correct, then cow-pat. The single dropping of a cow or bull, as in 'Watch where you're stepping! The field's full of cow-pats': domestic coll.: C.20 (?earlier). Prob. echoic; poss. influenced by butter-pat; or, perhaps, it is simply easier to say than cow-plat, a var. recorded in OED and EDD. (P.B.) cow-quake. A bull's roar: coll., mostly Irish and dial.: C.19–20.

Cow-shed, the. A certain ladies' club: London taxi-drivers': since ca. 1920. Herbert Hodge, Cab, Sir?, 1939.

cow-shooter. A 'deerstalker' hat, worn by seniors: Winchester College, C.19.

cow-shot. A flat, scooping leg-stroke made by a batsman down on one knee and hitting against the flight of the ball: cricketers' s. (1904) >, by 1930, coll. (Lewis.) A more clumsy shot, made by a standing batsman, is termed an agricultural one: coll.: from ca. 1930. See agricultural stroke.

cow spank; cow-spanker. To run a dairy farm; a dairy farmer: Aus.: C.20. (Baker.) Cf. cow-banger.

Cow Street or Rue des Bitches. The Rue des Chats, noted for its brothels: Tommies': WW1. (Petch, 1966.) Cf. numbers, the.

cow-turd. A cheap cigar: EDD records a quot'n from the Gentleman's Magazine, 1762. Ex the lit. meaning, a piece of cow-dung, which was S.E. C.15–19, when it > a vulgarism (OED).

cow-week. See calf-week.

cow with a musket, like a. Very clumsy or clumsily: late C.19–early 20. (H.P. Mann, 1972.)

cow-with-the-iron-tail. (Gen. without hyphens.) A pump, i.e. water mixed with milk: joc. coll.: from ca. 1790.

cowbungal. 'Shouted as one makes down the face of a king wave' (Pix, 28 Sep. 1963): Aus. surfers': since ca. 1961. Cf. yabbadabba doo!

cowan. A sneak, eavesdropper, Paul Pry; an uninitiated person; from ca. 1850. Ex freemasonry, certainly the last nuance and perhaps the others. Ex Scottish cowan or kirwan, a rough stone-mason; or, less prob., Gr. κῶν, a dog.

coward's castle or corner. A pulpit, 'six feet above argument': coll.; C.19–early 20.

cowardy (occ., earlier, cowardly) custard. A C.19–20 children's taunt, usu. chanted, 'cowardy, cowardy custard!'; there is often a couplet, of which that is the first line: the second varies, but ends, inevitably, with mustard. See esp. Iona and Peter Opie, The Lore and Language of Schoolchildren, 1959, the section on cowards in 'Jeers and Torments', where the authors suggest a poss. connection with costard, q.v., a head.

cowboy. A bow-legged man: since ca. 1950. Ex so much riding.—2. A minor criminal given to violence and tending to 'come out shooting': mostly police (contrast cowboys, 2): since ca. 1960 or a few years earlier. (G.F. Newman, The Guvnor, 1977.) Prompted by 'Westerns'—films and novels.—3. 'A flash fellow; a know-all' (Home Office); prisons': current in 1970s.—4. Young and inexperienced, or irresponsible driver. See cowboys, 3.—5. Any tradesman, e.g. plumber, electrician, mechanic, etc., unqualified and irresponsible; the sort to make quick money by undercutting regular, trained craftsmen on a 'one-off job': coll.: since later 1970s. (P.B.) cowboys. Baked beans: RN: since ca. 1920. Supposed to be the staple diet of cowboys. Cf. prairie rash and yippee beans.—2. Policemen, the Police: Teddy-boys' and youthful gangsters': since ca. 1955. Observer, 15 May 1960.—3. The feckless and reckless among the international lorry-drivers on the UK–Middle East routes, who flog themselves and their vehicles to 'make a fast buck', as described by Hilary Wilce in New Society, 10 Feb. 1977: since late 1960s. (P.B.) cowhide. Aware ('I'm cowhide to it'): Irish rhyming s.: C.20. On wide. Franklyn, Rhyming.

cowie. A Western film: cinema-goers': since ca. 1955. Ex 'cowboy film'. Cf. oater.

cowing. Gen. pej. adj.: Services': since ca. 1950. 'Tell the driver to start sending the kit down, we'll be here all cowing night else' (Heart). Cf. swining, and of course fuckin.

cowle. Almost any document of a promissory or warranty nature, e.g. lease, safe-conduct: Anglo-Indian, from late C.17.

cow's. Ten shillings: shortened from cow's calf, q.v.: C.20. New Statesman, 29 Nov. 1941.

cow-and-kisses. (But occ. unhyphenated.) The 'missus': wife or mistress (of house); any woman: rhyming s.:—1857 ('Ducange Anglicus').

cow's baby, occ. babe. A calf: late C.17–20; coll. B.E., Grose.—2. Hence, ca. 1820–60, 'any lubberly kind of fellow' (Bee, 1823).

cow's breakfast. A farmer's large straw hat: Can.: C.20.

cow's calf. Ten shillings, in coin, currency note or value; after Feb. 1971, fifty pence: racing c.: C.20. Rhyming s. on, earlier, half (a sov[er]ign), later, on half a nicker. It complements cow's licker (Hillman). See also note at cow, 8.

cows come home, till the. For ever and a day. See till the cows ...

cow's courant. A 'gallop and sh—[t]e' (Grose, 2nd ed.): low coll.: late C.18–early 19. Courant = coranto, a quick dance. Cf. trots, 3.

cow's grease (H., 1st ed.). See cow-grease.

cow's lick. Prison: rhyming s. on nick: since ca. 1962. Haden-Guest.

cow's licker. £1: rhyming s. on nicker, 3: since 1930s. (Hillman.) See also cow's calf.

cow's-spouse. A bull: late C.18–mid-19. (Grose, 3rd ed.) Prob. spouse rather than wife by rhyming association: cf. bubbly jock.

cow's tail. A rope's end frayed or badly knotted: nautical coll.: from ca. 1860. Whence hanging in cow's (or cows') tails, of an ill-kept ship.

cow's thumb, to a. Mid-C.17–20, ob.; coll. 'When a thing is done exactly, nicely [i.e. fastidiously], or to a Hair' (B.E.): is this ironical?

cow's udder. 'PVC sleeve for twin connections' (Railway, 2nd): railwaymen's: since ca. 1965.

cowsh. Aus. and NZ var. of bullsh., q.v. at bullshit, 1, nonsense.—1914.

cowson. A var. of 'son of a bitch'; applied also to things: c., and low: C.20. (Gift Kid, 1936.) Prob. ex cow, 2. If so, cf. informal, archaic S.E. whoreson (P.B.).

cowyard cake. A cake, or a bun, containing a few sultanas: Aus.: since ca. 1925. B., 1953.

cowyard confetti. Empty talk; nonsense: Aus.: since ca. 1920. (B., 1959.) Cf. bull-dust.

cox. Abbr. coxswain: from ca. 1880; coll.—2. The same applies to the v. (t. or i.).

coxcomb. The head: joc. coll., punning cock's comb; late C.16–19. (Shakespeare.) Cf. S.E. senses. See esp. Weekley's More Words Ancient and Modern.

Coxey's army. A 'rag-time' army, a 'Fred Karno outfit': Can. army: WW1. (B. & P.). It originated in 'General' J.S. Coxey's march, in April 1894, at the head of an 'Industrial Army' of the unemployed to Washington. The 'troops' deserted on the way to Washington, and Coxey himself entered the grounds of the Capitol—there to be arrested for walking on the grass! (With thanks to Mr I.O. Evans, editor of the 1967 Brit. ed. of Jack London's The Road; Jack London joined the Oakland contingent.) coxswain of the pram. A seaman's first-born: RN (lower-deck) joc.: C.20. A pram is a small rowing boat, as well as an abbr. of perambulator.

coxy. See cocksy fuss, 'billing and cooing'.

coy or Coy. See co, 2, company.

coyduck. To decoy, v.t., rarely v.i.: C.19–20, coll. and dial. Prob. ex coy-duck = decoy-duck, and not, as Farmer ingeniously suggests, a blend of conduct and decoy.

coyote. The putendum muliebre: C.19. (Cf. cat, pussy.) Lit., the barking-wolf of the US.

coz. Abbr. cousin: used either lit. or to a friend: coll.: late C.16–early 19. Shakespeare.

coze. An intimate talk; a comfortable friendly time together: 1814, Jane Austen, Mansfield Park, 'Proposed their going up into her room, where they might have a comfortable coze': ca. 1790–1860. Perhaps orig. from Fr. causerie.

coziera. Var. spelling of cosier, an inferior seaman.

cozza. Pork: cheapjacks' and costers': from ca. 1850. (Charles Hindley, 1876.) Ex Hebrew chazar, a pig, hence pork and bacon. Cf:-

cozzer. A policeman: barrow-boys': since ca. 1930. Hence the cozzer, the police, the Law. Cf. prec. (this is an alt. spelling), and see pig, n., 2.

crab, n. A decoy at auctions: low: C.19–early 20.—2. Abbr. crab-louse, a human-body louse, esp. and properly one of those unpleasant vermin which affect the pubic and anal hair: low coll., from ca. 1800. In B.E.'s day, crab-louse itself was coll. Ex the shape.—3. See crabs, shoes or feet.—4. The action, or an instance, of finding fault: coll.: from ca. 1890. (OED Sup.) ex crab, v.—5. A drawback: coll.: from ca. 1910; ob.—6. A junior midshipman: RN: late C.19–20. 'Taffrail'.

—7. The Avro 504K elementary training aircraft: RAF: 1920+. Because it was slow, and esp. because of its well-splayed and much-braced undercarriage.—8. A police informer: Aus. c.: since ca. 1925. B., 1943.—9. A telegraphists' badge: RAAF: WW2. (B., 1943.) Ex the similarity of shape.—10. A horse very unlikely to win a race: Aus.: since late 1940s. (Culotta.) Cf. goat, n., 6.—11. Stomach pain: army in India: latish C.19–20. Ex Urdu khrah, bad.—12. A member of the RAF: RN and army: later C.20. (Phantom.) Short for crab-fat, 2, q.v.; see quot'n at pinger.—13. Crab. As in 'And I'm quite a dab at steering a Crab (Better known as a D.H.6)' ('Ballad of the Bristol Fighter', in Echoes in the Sky, ed. Ronald Dixon, 1982): RFC. Cf. synon. Flaming Coffin.—14. See catch a crab; land crab.

crab, v. To 'pull to pieces', criticise adversely: low s. >, ca. 1840, gen. s. >, ca. 1870, coll; from ca. 1810. (Vaux.) Occ. as v.i.: mid-C.19–20. Cf. the S.E. senses, to oppose, irritate, and the C.19–20 c. sense, to expose, inform on, insult, spoil.

Vbl n. crabbing.—2. (Usu. as vbl n., crabbing.) 'Flying close to the ground or water' (Jackson), RAF: since ca. 1925. Ex the habits of a crab: cf. also crab, n., 7. Robert Hinde, 1945, 'Orig., to fly with a large amount of drift; hence, to fly low because drift is more apparent near the ground—aircraft appear to fly diagonally'.

crab, adj. Perverse: C.20. Short for crabby, ill-tempered. (L.A.)

crab along. To fly near the ground: RAF: since ca. 1920. (H. & P.) See also crab, v., 2.

Crab and Winkle Railway (or Line). Two extinct branch lines on the coast of East Anglia, the Halesworth–Southwold, in Suffolk, and the Kelvedon–Tollesbury in Essex, appear to have shared this seaside soubriquet: railwaymen's: C.20; ob., except in affectionate memory. The Southwold Rly operated 1879–1929, and the Kelvedon, Tiptree & Tollesbury Pier Light Rly 1904–62.

crab-bat. (See its elements: crab, n., 4; bat, n. 3.) An Indian Army term, dating from the early 1890s; as in Richards, The Prayer-wallah spent his time in learning the "crab-bat" ... which was all the swear-words in the Hindoostani language and a few more from the other Indian dialects to help these out. He had picked up a fair knowledge of the crab-bat at Meerut but he now studied it seriously and used to curse the natives, whenever they deserved it, to such order that they looked upon him with veneration and praised him as the oldest of old soldiers.' But crab here perhaps = Hindustani karob, evil.

crab-fat. Admiralty grey paint: RN: since ca. 1910. (Granville.) Ex colour of the ointment issued to be smeared on as an antidote to crabs, body-lice.—2. Whale-oil for frost-bite: army: 1916+. (B. & P.) Same derivation.—3. An airman: RN and army being mildly contemptuous: since ca. 1930. Hence 'The Crab-fats', the RAF as a whole, and also crab-fat as adj., pertaining to the RAF. Ex the resemblance in colour between the RAF uniform and the ointment in sense 1. (L.A.; P.B.) See crab, n., 12.

crab grenade. A flat, oblong German hand-grenade: army: WW1. B. & P.

crab lantern. A peevish fellow: late C.18–early 19 coll. (Grose, 1st ed.) Cf. crab wallah.

crab-louse. See crab, n., 2.

crab on the rocks. Itching testicles: a low pun: late C.19–20.

crab station. A verminous, unpleasant camp or station: RAF: since ca. 1925. (L.A.) Ex crab(-louse), but perhaps influenced by Urdu khrah, bad.

crab-shells. Boots, shoes: from ca. 1780, perhaps orig. c., for in c. crabs = feet. Grose, 1st ed.; Mayhew, 'With a little mending, they'll make a tidy pair of crab-shells again.' Cf. trotter- or trotting-cases.

Crab Street, in 'Affronted; out of humour', Vaux: c. (—1812); † by 1890. A pun on crabbed. Cf. Queer Street.

crab the act. Can. approximation to queen the pitch, q.v., to spoil a performance: adopted, ca. 1930, ex US theatre. (Leechman.)

crab wallah. A evil man: army: late C.19–20. (B. & P.) Ex Hindustani or Urdu.

crabber. A fault-finder: coll.: C.20. Ex crab, v. Josephine Tey, A Shilling for Candles, 1936.

crabs. Shoes: c.: ca. 1810–50; still current in Aus. for 'boots' so late as 1898. Abbr. crab-shells.—2. Hence, feet: c.: from ca. 1840. Cf. move (one's) crabs, to run away.—3. A certain type (Fowler 5M.T.) of tender-engines: railwaymen's: since ca. 1920. (Railway.)—4. In gaming, esp. at hazard, a throw of two aces, 'deuce-ace' (cf. deuce, the): from ca. 1765: Lord Carlisle, 1768; Barham. Whence—5. In come off or turn out or up (a case of) crabs, of things: to be a failure, unfortunate. C.19–20.—6. In get crabs, to receive no money: c.:—1923 (Manchon).—7. See draw crabs.

crabtree comb. A cudgel: joc. coll.: late C.16–19.

crack. Abbr. crack-brain, a crazy or soft-headed person: coll.; C.17–18. Dekker, Addison.—2. A harlot: ca. 1670–1820:

orig. c., then low. D'Urfev, 1676 (OED); B.E.; Farquhar, 'You imagine I have got your whore, cousin, your crack'; Vanbrugh; Dyche, Grose. ?ex crack, the female genitals: low, C.16–20.—3. A lie (the mod. form is cracker): ca. 1600–1820; coll. Goldsmith, 'That's a damned confounded crack.' Whence, prob., the coll. sense, a liar: C.17.—4. In mid-C.18–19 c., a burglar or a burglary: whence—both in Vaux—cracksman; and the crack, a (—1812) var. of (the) crack lay.—5. Any person or thing—though very rarely the latter in C.20—that approaches perfection: coll.; from ca. 1700 for persons, from ca. 1630 for things (cf. the adj.).—6. Hence esp. a racehorse of great excellence: from ca. 1850. E.g. in those very horsey publications, Diogenes, 1853, Derby Day, 1864, and From Post to Finish (1884), the third by Hawley Smart, the less popular Nat Gould of the 1880s and '90s.—7. Cf. the crack, the fashion or vogue: ca. 1780–1840: fashionable world, as rendered by Pierce Egan, his cronies and his rivals. (Grose, 2nd ed.) Cf. crack, adj.—8. A crisp and resounding blow: coll.; SOD records for 1838. Ex the crack of a whip or a shotgun.—9. Dry firewood: c., 'gipsy', and low: from ca. 1840 (recorded in Mayhew in 1851). Perhaps ex the crackling sound it emits when burning; but cf. Shelta, crack, a stick.—10. 'A narrow passage of houses' (Ware, 1909): London proletarian. Yet another term for twitchen, gimmel, jitty, snicket, etc.—11. See half a crack. Like caroon, crack is prob. a mere corruption or perversion of crow.—12. Early C.18 pej. term for 'a dandy'. See fops.—13. Esp., have a crack at it. An attempt: since ca. 1925. App. it was orig. a Service term. (H. & P.) Cf. 'have a shot at something'.—14. Short for wisecrack, a witticism: coll.: since late 1920s.—15. (As the crack). The latest news, gossip, anecdote, as in 'What's the latest crack?', and 'Just thought I'd drop in for the crack': Anglo-Irish; heard on a major civil-engineering construction site in Lancashire: since ca. 1976. (John Davies, 1979.) Cf. Scot. crack, a friendly chat (Chamber's C.20 Dict., 1977).—16. In cry a crack, q.v., to cry 'quits'.—17. In in a crack, instantaneously: coll.: from ca. 1720. Byron, 1819, 'They're on the stair just now, and in a crack will all be here'.—18. See fetch a crack; good on the crack, at good, adj., 1; sleeping near a crack.

crack, v. To boast, brag: C.15–20, ob. S.E. till ca. 1700, then coll. and dial. Burton is his Anatomy: 'Your very tradesmen ... will crack and brag'.—2. To fall into disrepair; into ruin: C.17–19 coll. Dryden.—3. To collapse; break down (v.i.): sporting, from ca. 1870. P.B.; but there is nothing sporting about being forced to crack under interrogation, or under the strain of emotional pressure. In this sense the term has > informal S.E. Cf. crack up, v., 2, of which this is prob. a shortening.—4. To break open, burgle: c. and low: from ca. 1720. Dickens in Oliver Twist, 'There's one part we can crack, safe and softly'. Esp. in crack a crib, to break into a house, likewise c. and low.—5. Wholly c.: to inform; v.t. with on: ca. 1850–1910.—6. To drink (cf. crush): late C.16–20: coll. Gen. with a quart or a bottle. Shakespeare in 2 Henry IV, 'By the mass, you'll crack a quart together'; Fielding and Thackeray (a bottle).—7. V.i., a var. of crack along, q.v.: coll.: since ca. 1810. W.N. Glascock, Sketch-Book, I, 1825. (Moe.)—8. V.i., to fire (a rifle, shotgun, etc.): v.t., with at. Coll.; from ca. 1870.—9. In cricket, from ca. 1880, to hit (the ball) hard.—10. To smite (a person): Aus.: late C.19–20. E.g. 'He'll crack you one' (C.J. Dennis).—11. To change (money): used, by seamen, of cashing advance notes: mostly a Liverpool word: C.20. P.B.: since mid-C.20 > gen., as in 'Can you crack a quid?' = Can you change a pound-note for me?—12. To quip, to joke or speak in a joking manner: coll.; prob. more frequent in the written form: prob. adopted ex US: C.20. (P.B.) crack, adj. First-class; excellent: from ca. 1790; coll. Esp. of regiments, riflemen, and athletes. Thackeray, 1839, 'Such a crack-shot myself, that fellows were shy of insulting me.' Cf. crack, n., 5, 6.

crack a boo. To divulge a secret; to betray emotion' (C.J. Dennis): low Aus.:—1916.

crack a bottle. See crack, v., 6.

crack a crib. See crack, v., 4.

crack a crust. To make a living; rub along. Superlatively, crack a tidy crust: coll., from ca. 1850. Mayhew, 'Crack an honest crust'; H., 1874, 'A very common expression among the lower orders'.

crack a fat. (Of a male) to achieve an erection: Aus. low: since ca. 1940. Wilkes.

crack a Judy, a Judy's tea-cup. (Cf. the US use of Jane, any girl.) To deprive a maid of her virginity. C.19–20, low, ob.

crack a ken or a swag. To commit a burglary: c.; the former, C.18; the latter C.19–early 20.

crack a nut. To drink a (gen. silver-mounted) coco-nut shell full of claret: Scots coll.: ca. 1820–80. Scott; Notes & Queries, 1889 (7 S., viii, 437).

crack a pitcher. To take a virginity; whereas crack (one's) pitcher is to lose it: coll., almost S.E.: C.18–early 20. See pitcher, 1, and cf. crack a Judy and cracked pitcher.

crack a (or one's) wheeze. See wheeze, n., 1, 2.

crack a whid. See whid, n., 1.

crack about. To act vigorously and aggressively: coll.: C.20. F.-M. Montgomery spoke of his army, after it had crossed the Rhine in 1945, having the chance to 'crack about on the plains of North Germany.' (John Walton, FLA.)

crack along or on. V.i., to make great speed. V.t., crack on or out, to cause to move quickly, often with connotation of jerkily. Both coll., recorded in 1541. In C.19, the adv. is often omitted. SOD.

crack an egg. To play with just sufficient weight to move a bowl or jack an inch or two: S. African bowls-players': since ca. 1930. (Prof. A.C. Partridge, 1968.) Ob. in UK. (Mr Maurice Butcher, 1979.)

crack-brain(ed), -headed, -skull, nn. and adj. Indicative of craziness: all coll. quickly > S.E.; C.16–19. Here crack = cracked.

crack down. To shoot down (an enemy 'plane): RAF: since 1940. H. & P.

crack down on. To suppress (lawless persons or acts); to reprimand: Services: since ca. 1935. H. & P.—2. Seize or make off with (something): Aus.: C.20.

crack down on the deck. To force-land on airfield or elsewhere on the ground: RAF: since ca. 1930. H. & P.

crack (one's) duck. To begin to score: cricket: ca. 1870–1905. Var. break... cf.:-

crack (one's) egg. See prec. The duck's egg = 0.

crack (one's) face. To smile broadly; to laugh: since ca. 1945. Mostly of a very serious person. (Petch, 1966.)

crack-fencer. A seller of nuts: low or c.; from ca. 1850; † by 1900. H., 1st ed.

crack-halter, -hemp, -rope, nn. and adj. A gaul-bird; a good-for-nothing 'born to be hanged'. All coll. passing rapidly to S.E.: the first and second, C.16–17; the third, C.15–early 19. Gascoigne and Dekker, c.-halter; Shakespeare, c.-hemp; Massinger and Scott, c.-rope.

crack hardy. To endure patiently, suppress pain or emotion; in low Aus., to keep a secret: C.20. (C.J. Dennis.) Cf. crack on, 2, to pretend crack-haunter or hunter. The membrum virile: low, C.19–20. Cf. crack, n., 2.

crack-hemp. See crack-halter.

crack into (reputation, repute, fame, etc.). To render (famous, etc.) by eulogy: coll. (—1892); ob. by 1930.

crack it. (Of a male) to succeed, amorously: Aus.: since ca. 1920.—2. Hence, to succeed in general: Aus., since ca. 1930; some use in Brit. Services since ca. 1960. Alex. Buzo, Rooted (prod. 1969, pub. 1973), at III, i, GARY to RICHARD, a failed artist: 'Keep on with your art, mate. You'll crack it one day, I'm sure of it.' Cf. the informal S.E. crack a code, applied also to other, e.g. crossword, puzzles. Brit. usage also get it cracked. (E.P.; P.B.) crack it for a quid. To prostitute oneself: Aus. low coll.: later C.20. McNeil.

crack-jaw. Difficult to pronounce: coll.: from ca. 1870. Miss Braddon.

crack-lay, the. House-breaking: from ca. 1785; ob.; c. Grose, 2nd ed.

crack mugs. "Oh! I been crackin' mugs, Missisabella." "Crackin' mugs?" "Hitchin'-on to mugs at the races, miss, and tippin' winners at a bob a time" (K.S. Prichard, Kiss on the Lips, 1932): low Aus.: since ca. 1910.

crack nix! Don't say a word!: market-traders': C.20. (M.T.) Cf. crack, v., 5, and nix.

crack nuts with (one's) tail. See tail, n., 11.

crack on, v.i. See crack along.—2. To pretend; esp. pretend to be ill or hurt: ?orig. military: from the 1880s, if not earlier. See the Kipling quot'n at blind, v, and cf. the current Cheshire dial. crack on daft, to pretend to be more stupid than one actually is (Mrs Malvene Richards, 1983).

crack-pot, n. A pretentiously useless, worthless person: coll.: from ca. 1860. In C.20, often synon. with crank, n., 2, q.v.

crack-pot (or written solid), adj. (Of ideas, schemes) crazy, unworkable, fantastic: coll.: C.20. (P.B.)

Crack Regiment, the. The Women's Royal Army Corps, and prob. its forerunners, though I did not hear this indelicate pun (cf. crack, n., 2, and adj.) until ca. 1970: army joc. (P.B.)

crack-rope. See crack-halter.

crack the bell. To fail; muddle things, make a mistake; ruin it: Cockneys'—1909; slightly ob. by 1930. Ware.

crack the monica. To ring the bell (to summon a performer to reappear): music-halls': ca. 1860–90. Ware.

crack-up, n. 'An accident causing damage that can be repaired', Jackson: RAF coll.: since ca. 1925.—2. A mental breakdown: coll.: C.20. Ex the v., 2. 'He can't go on working at this pressure—he's heading for a crack-up, if he's not careful.' (P.B.)

crack up, v. To praise highly: coll.; from ca. 1840. James Payn, 'We find them cracking up the country they belong to.' Orig. (1835: Thornton), US. Often, in C.20, in the disappointed negative: of, e.g., a lavishly advertised book, 'It's not all it's cracked up to be.'—2. V.i., to be exhausted; break down, whether physically or mentally: from ca. 1850; coll. Cf. cracked.—3. To be highly amused, to 'die laughing': teenagers': early 1980s. (James Williamson, 1982.) Cf. synon. crease (one)self, and fall about.

cracked. Ruined; bankrupt: from early C. 16; S.E. in C.16–17, rare in C.18, coll. in C.19, ob. then † in C.20. Mayhew, who has the more gen. cracked up.—2. Crazy: C.17–20; S.E. until ca. 1830.—3. (With var. cracked in the ring) deflowered: C.18–20, low, perhaps coll. rather than s. See ring, n., 4.—4. Penniless; ruined: low:—1860; ob. by 1930. H., 2nd ed.—5. To be in need of 99 points: dart-players': since ca. 1930. Cf. split.

cracked in the filbert. Slightly—or very—eccentric; crazy: Cockneys': ca. 1880–1930. Baumann.

'cracked in the right place', as the girl said (usu. preceded by yes! but). A C.20 low c.p. in reply to an insinuation or an imputation of madness, eccentricity, or rashness. Heard in 1922; but older. Cf. crack, n. 2.

cracked in the ring. See cracked, 3.

cracked-up. See cracked, 1.

cracked pitcher. A harlot still faintly respectable: coll.: mid-C.18–mid-19. (Smollett.) Cf. crack a pitcher, q.v.

cracker. A lie; a (very) tall story: C.17–early 20: coll.—2. In C.18, a pistol. Smollett.—3. A very fast pace, a large sum, a dandy, and analogically: from ca. 1870. Daily News, 1 Nov. 1871, 'The shooting party, mounting their forest ponies, came up the straight a cracker.'—4. A heavy fall; a smash: from ca. 1865; ob.—5. The mod. sense, a thin, crisp biscuit, may derive ex the C.17–18 c. and low cracker, a crust, as recorded by B.E.; cf. the early C.19 c. sense, 'a small loaf, served to prisoners in jails', Vaux.—6. Leather, gen. sheepskin, trousers: S. African coll.:—1833 (Pettman).—7. In mid-C.17–early 19 c., the backside (as in Coles and B.E.).

—8. In C.20 c., and gen. in pl., prisoners that are insane or epileptic or suicidal or injured in head and spine.—9. (Gen. pl.) A cartridge: NZ: from ca. 1910.—10. (Nearly always pl.) A hair-curler: Cockneys': C.20. Esp. of one's hair in crackers.—11. Karaka: NZ: since ca. 1860; by 1926, ob. (B., 1941.) By Hobson-Jobson.—12. A £1 note: Aus.: since ca. 1920. B., 1942.—13. A heavy punch: see rammer (?), 2. Cf. sense 4.—14. A fog-warning detonator: railwaymen's: C.20. Cf. sense 10, and banger, 6.—15. 'A bit of crackling', 'crumpet', female pudend: low and raffish: since ca. 1950. 'I know I definitely had to have a piece of crackling... and sort of settle my mind' (Bill Naughton, Alfie Darling, 1970.)—16. (Mostly in pl.) A tooth: since (?)ca. 1930. "He's at the dentist's," Castle said... "It's odd," Percival said, "When I saw Davis the other day his crackers seemed to be in good shape... no sign even of tartar" (Graham Greene, The Human Factor, 1978). Cf. chopper, 7.—17. In the phrase not (to) have a cracker. To be penniless: Aus.: from ca. 1920. 'What about the money?... We haven't got a cracker' (W.S. Howard, You're Telling Me!, 1934).—18. 'A worn out horse, sheep, bullock' (Wilkes): Aus.: since mid-C.20.—19. A brothel: Aus. low: id. Ibid.

cracker-hash; crackerjack. Pounded biscuit with minced salt meat: nautical coll.: mid-C.19–20. Bowen; Granville.

crackers. See cracker, 9 and 10.

crackers, adj. Crazy; mad: lower classes': C.20. Ex:—2. get the crackers, to go mad: id.: late C.19–20. F. & G.

crackey. See crikey.

crackiness. Extreme eccentricity; craziness: coll.: ca. 1860–1930.

cracking. Boasting. Burglary. See crack, v., resp. 1, 3.—2. See get cracking.

cracking, adj. Very fast; exceedingly vigorous: C.19–20. An early occurrence is in Bill Truck, Dec. 1825.—2. Term of high approbation, as in 'I'm sure you'll like her—she really is a cracking good sort': coll.: earlyish C.20. (P.B.) cracking a (tidy) crust. See crack a crust.

cracking tools. 'Implements of house-breaking' (Egan's Grose): c. (—1823) >, by 1860, low; ob. by 1930.

crackish. (Of women only) wanton: late C.17–early 19; coll. B.E. Ex crack, n., 2.

crackle, crackling. The velvet bars on the hoods of 'the Hogs', or students of St John's, Cambridge: from ca. 1840. Cf. Isthmus of Suez, a covered bridge at the same college: ex L. Sus, a pig.—2. (Only crackle.) 'Bank notes. Five pounds and upwards' (Tempest): c.: mid-C.20. Ex crisp sound of new ones, esp. the former, large, black and white issue. Cf. cracker, 13.

crackling, n. See prec.—2. Usu. bit of crackling, a girl: since ca. 1890. See also a number of synonyms listed at bit of... Hence, (young) women generally, as in 'Been to the dance, have you? Much crackling there?': C.20. Prob. a blend of the pleasures derived from roast pork and from crack, the female pudend. Cf.—

crackling is not what it was. L.A. noted sadly, 1974, 'The voice of later years'. Here, crackling = girls regarded as sexual pleasure. A c.p. since ca. 1920 or perhaps a decade earlier. See DCpp. Perhaps the inspiration of the 'Goon Show' c.p. 'Whatever happened to the streaky bacon we used to get before the war?' (P.B.)

crackpot. See crack-pot.

crackmans, crackmans. A hedge: C.17–early 19, c. (Rowlands; B.E.; Grose.) See -MANS, in Appendix. Perhaps ex a hedge's cracks or gaps, but see also crack, n., 9, dry firewood.

crackman. A house-breaker (see crack, v. 4): from ca. 1810; orig. c. (Vaux, Lytton, Barham, Dickens.) The most famous of fictional cracksmen is Hornung's Raffles.—2. Hence, the membrum virile: from ca. 1850.

cracky. See crikey.—2. Crazy; senseless: Aus.: since ca. 1925. D'Arcy Niland, Call Me..., 1958.

-cracy. -rule, -power, -government. Often, in C.19–20, used in humorous or sarcastic coll.: as, e.g. in beerocracy, cartocracy, dollarocracy, mobocracy, squattocracy.

cradle-snatching, n. Marriage to a person much younger than oneself: (usu.) joc. coll.: since ca. 1935. Cf. baby-snatching and kidnapping. Hence, also v. cradle-snatch and agent -snatcher.

Craddock brick. A man of the Cradock district and town: S. African nickname:—1871 (Pettman).

craft. A bicycle: youths': ca. 1870–80. Ware. (Bicycles were still a novelty.)—2. sweet craft, a woman: nautical: C.20. Mancheon.

crafty. Skilful, clever, well judged, well planned, well timed, sly ('Just time for a crafty'—a drink; or 'he's round the corner, having a crafty drag'—a smoke): RAF, since ca. 1920, whence to the other Services and widens, civilian, coll. Partridge, 1945; P.B.

crafty Alice touch, she's got the. 'A sour assessment of a woman's wiles: Lancashire: C.20' (L.A., 1969.).

crag, long. A long purse. See long crag.

cragmans. A hedge. Var. of crackmans, q.v.

crail(l) (properly Crail) capon. 'A haddock dried unsplit': nautical and Scot.: mid-C.19–20. (Bowen; EDD.) Ex Crail in Fife.

cram. A lie, cf. the more frequent crammer. From ca. 1840. Punch, 1842, 'It soundeth somewhat like a cram.'—2. Hard, 'mechanical' study (gen. for an examination), both the action and the acquisition: coll.; from ca. 1850.—3. A 'crib', an aid to study; university and school; from ca. 1850. 'Cuthbert Bede' in Verdant Green.—4. A coach or private tutor: from ca. 1855. Dutton Cook, in Paul Foster's Daughter, 1861, 'I shall go to a coach, a cram, a grindstone.'—5. (Of a crowd) a crush or jam: coll.: 1858 (Dickens: SOD).

cram, v.i. and t. To tell lies; to ply, hence to deceive, with lies. From ca. 1790 (recorded 1794, in Gentleman's Magazine). Ex the idea of stuffing, over-feeding with lies.—2. To prepare oneself or another hastily, gen. for an examination (cf. the n., 2–4): coll., from ca. 1800: university and school. Gradus ad Cantabrigiam.—3. To urge on a horse with spur and/or knee and/or hand or reins: sporting, from ca. 1830.—4. To coit with (a woman): low: mid-C.19–20. Cf. stuff, v., 4.

cram-book. A book used for cramming, q.v.: coll.; from ca. 1855. OED.

cram-coach. A tutor that 'crams' pupils for examinations: coll.; from ca. 1880. OED.

cram-paper. A list of prospective answers to be 'crammed' for examination: coll.: from ca. 1875.

crammable. Capable of being mechanically learnt or soullessly prepared: coll.: from ca. 1865. OED.

crammed, ppl. adj. (Of a person or a lesson) hastily prepared for an examination: coll.: from ca. 1835.

crammer. A liar: from ca. 1860. Cf. cram, n., 1, v., 1.—2. A lie: from 1840s. (Sinks, 1848; Trollope, 1880.) Cf. id.—3. One who prepares students, pupils, for examination (cf. coach, grinder): from ca. 1810; coll. Maria Edgeworth in Patronage.—4. A pupil or student 'cramming' for an examination (like the prec., ex cram, v., 2): coll., rare; from ca. 1812.

crammer's pup. The pupil of a 'crammer' (sense 3): army and Public Schools: later C.19—early 20. Rudyard Kipling, Stalky & Co., 1899; Mancheon, 1923.

cramming, vbl n. The act of studying, less often of preparing another, for an examination: coll.; from ca. 1820. 'Aspirants to honours in law ... know the value of private cramming' (Punch, 1841); Herbert Spencer, 1869.—2. As adj., from ca. 1830. Southey.

cramp. Prayer; to pray: Bootham School: late C.19–20. (Bootham, 1925.) Ex the cramped position.—2. As the cramp, S.E. cramp: C.19–20; coll.

cramp-dodge. Simulated writer's cramp: schoolboys' coll., mostly London:—1887 (Baumann).

cramp in the hand. Niggardliness; 'costiveness': C.19–20, ob.; coll.

cramp in the lidd, have. To be (very) short of money: from ca. 1880. Here, kick is one's pocket.

cramp-rings. Fetters: from ca. 1560; c. in C.16–17, c. and low in C.18. (Harman, Dekker, Coles, Grose.) Ex the S.E. sense, a gold or silver ring that, blessed on Good Friday by the Sovereign, was considered a cure for falling sickness and esp. for cramp.

cramp (one's) style. To prevent one from doing, or being at, one's best; to handicap or check one: upper-class, then more widespread, coll.: C.20 (certainly not later than 1916). (F. & G.; Lyell.) Ex athletics or racing.

cramp-word. 'Crack-jaw' word; a word either very hard for the illiterate to pronounce or for most to understand: from ca. 1690: coll. B.E.; Dyche; Mrs Cowley, 'Cramp words enough to puzzle and delight the old gentleman the remainder of his life'; Combe.—2. A sentence of death: C.18—early 19 c. Dyche.

cramped. Hanged; derivatively, killed: c. and low: C.18–19. A development from † S.E. crampe, to compress a person's limbs as a punishment.

cramping-cull. The hangman: c.: C.18—early 19. Cull = man. Semantic.

cramps. See Venetian cramps.

cranch. See craunch.

crane. To hesitate at an obstacle, a danger: from ca. 1860: coll. >, by 1890, S.E. Ex hunting j. craner. One who hesitates at a difficult jump: hunting coll.; from ca. 1860.

cranium. Joc. coll.; from ca. 1640: the head. In S.E. it is an anatomical term.

crank, n. Gin and water: late C.18—mid-19. (Grose, 1st ed; Sinks, 1848.) Perhaps ex crank, pert, lively, exceedingly high-spirited, which may itself in C.17–18, after being S.E. in C. 16, have been coll. (see B.E.), just as in C.19 it > coll.—2. A person odd, eccentric, very 'faddy', mildly monomaniacal: orig. (—1881), US, anglicised ca. 1890; in C.20, coll. Prob. ex cranky, q.v.—3. In mid–C.16–18 c., a beggar feigning sickness or illness; also, the falling sickness. (Harman.) Ex Ger. krank, ill. Cf. counterfeit crank.

crank, v. A term popular with RAF aircrew: 1970s. Meaning 'to turn', 'to start', as in these quot'ns from Phantom: 'He has yo-yoed up into the cloud and now he drops back again and I can imagine him coaxing his gunsight down to bear on my tailpipe. I am having none of that and with full afterburners lit I crank hard into him'; 'Timing is critical ... and so right on the button we crank engines'; 'We crank up the turbines and ... stream off into the damp air.' Joc. ex use of cranking-handle to start old-fashioned motor.

crank, adj: Drunk: C.18. 'This is a sea-phrase: a ship is said to be crank, when by excess of landing, or some other cause, she is liable to be overset' (Gentleman's Magazine, 1770, p. 559; P.B.).

crank-cuffin. A vagrant feigning sickness. C. 18 c. Ex crank(e).

crank file. Inventions department: mainly journalistic: C.20. Office file kept for cranks' suggestions.

crank of, be a. See cranky, 2.

crank up. 'To inject a narcotic' (Home Office): drug addicts': current in 1970s. Ex setting an internal-combustion engine going. Sean McConville, in State of the Language, 1980, 'He cranked up with a deck of heroin.'

cranke. Var. spelling of crank, n., 3.

cranky. Crotchety; eccentric; slightly mad; angry: since earlyish C. 19 (OED records use in 1821); coll. >, by 1900, S.E. Cf. the S.E. and c. senses of crank, n. and adj.—2. Hence, cranky on, like a crank of, is C.20 coll.: enthusiastic about, 'mad on'. Mancheon.

cranky Fan. The bird known as the Grey Fantail: Aus.: late C.19–20. B., 1943.

cranny. The puerendum muliebri: low coll.; C.19–20; ob. Whence cranny-hunter, its male opponent.—2. A half-caste: Anglo-Indian coll.: mid-C.19–20. Ex cranny as applied, orig. and mainly in Bengal, to a clerk writing English, itself ex Hindustani karani. Y & B.

crap or crop, n. Money: from ca. 1690. (B.E.) Orig. either c. or dial.; in C.19 either s. or dial. Cf. dust for origin.—2. In c.,

C.19, gallows: cf. to crop, to harvest. (Vaux.) Ex crap, v., 2.—3. (Printers') type that has got mixed; 'pie': from ca. 1850 (crap only).—4. A defecation: low coll.: mid-C.19–20. Esp. do a crap. See crap, v., 1.—5. Hence, rubbish; esp. 'it's crap', it's worthless: low: since ca. 1910. Also 'utter nonsense', esp. 'It's a load of crap': adopted, ca. 1944, ex US.—6. See get the crap on.

crap, v. To defecate, evacuate: low coll.: mid-C.18–20. ?cf. crop, v.i., to take in the harvest.—2. In c., however, it=to hang: from ca. 1780. G. Parker. Cf. crop.

crap barge. An ill-disciplined ship: RN. See shit barge. crap-happy pappy. Young father who takes incidentals of fatherhood in world-view stride' (L.A.): since late 1940s; prob. ex US. P.B.: it also forms part of one of a series of low rhyming puns, popular in the Forces, early 1950s. 'Q: Describe a feckless Nipponese whose father has diarrhoea. A: A slap-happy Jappy chappy with a crap-happy pappy.' Others were 'A dwarf Eskimo with an erection' (a frigid midget with a rigid digit) and 'A giant eunuch' (a massive vassal with a passive tassel).

crap on, v.i. To 'go on talking nonsense' (A. Buzo, 1973): Aus. low: since late 1940s. Cf. crap, n., 5.

crape it. To wear crape in mourning' (OED): coll.: late C.19—early 20.

crapper and crappus. A privy; a w.c.: low and orig. c. or, at best, fringe of underworld: on evidence of next entry, they prob. go back to C.18. The former comes straight from crap, v., 1; the latter is a slovening of crap-house, cf. crapping-ken. Crapper is, in C.20, slightly the more used; crappus persists mainly because of the extremely common shit-house, which has > coll. There has existed, since ca. 1920, among market-traders, the occ. used var. crappereena (M.T.). I've long known, although long forgotten I knew, the former; I owe the latter to a letter from Mr Frederick Leech, something of an authority in his quiet way.

crapping-casa, -case, -castle, or -ken. A w.c.: low: C.18–20 for all except -castle, which is C.19–20; as croppin-ken, however, it occurs in Coles, 1676. Ob.—2. The third, in hospital, = a night-stool: C.19.

crapple-mapple. Ale(?) : Perthshire s.: from ca. 1880. Charles Spence, Poems, 1898 (EDD Sup.).

Crappo. The French, collectively, esp. seamen or warships: late C.18—mid-19. W.N. Glascock, Sketch-Book, I, 1825, pp. 25, 27, 33. (Moe.) Ex Fr. crapaud, a toad. Recorded by Baumann in 1887 as cropph. Cf. frog, 2.—2. As crappo. A type of improvised French trench-mortar, somewhat like a toad: army: 1915–18. (F. & G.) Direct ex Fr. army s.

crappy. Afraid: low Glasgow: since ca. 1920. MacArthur & Long.—2. Of very poor quality: since ca. 1925; perhaps orig. Sc., but now, 1970s, widespread low coll. (Barry England, Figures in a Landscape, 1963.) Cf. shitty.

crash, n. Entertainment: C.17 (?18): S.E. or coll. Nares.—2. In C.16, revelry: S.E.—3. (Theatrical) the machine that produces 'thunder'; this or any analogous noise: from ca. 1870; ob.—4. A failure, a fiasco: policemen's and warders': late C.19–20. Ernest Raymond, We, The Accused, 1935.—5. See 'It's your crash!' at crash the ash; it's your turn to hand out cigarettes.

crash, v. To kill: c.: C.17–19. (B.E.) Prob. ex N. Country dial. crash, to smash.—2. (Of an aeroplane) to come (bring) down, gen. violently, out of control: Hector Bolitho, in The English Digest, Feb. 1941, says, 'It was first used by Paymaster Lieutenant Lidderdale in 1914': at first coll., but almost imm. S.E. Prob. as soon applied also to earth-bound vehicles. Its fig. use is coll.:—1931 (Lyell). 'He ... slipped up on a piece of orange peel and crashed.'—3. A shortening of crash (one's) swede, q.v., to go to sleep: perhaps orig. Aus. airmen's, WW2 (B., 1943); but by ca. 1950, widespread in Brit. Services, and still current early 1970s. (P.B.)—4. To pass, give out, as 'Crash the sugar, yoof': Leicestershire (?twider spread) teenagers': ca. 1977. (D. & R. McPheely.) An extension of crash the ash, q.v.—5. To write off or cancel inquiries into an unsubstantiated complaint or allegation of crime, e.g., 'The Smith housebreaking has been crashed' (Powis): police s.: current in 1970s.

crash a party. To join one, uninvited, by guile or by force: coll.: since ca. 1928. Perhaps a back-formation ex gate-crasher. crash-box. A non-synchromesh gear box: motorists': since ca. 1950. (B.P.) Ex informal S.E. crash the gears, to fail, noisily, to change gear efficiently on such a box; or to jam into gear.

crash(-)course. A short, intensive course on a particular subject, e.g. a language: prob. orig. Services', WW2; now, 1970s, more gen. coll., verging on j. (P.B.)

crash-dive. The sudden submersion of a submarine on being surprised, or in imminent danger of being rammed': RN coll. soon > S.E.: since ca. 1915. (F. & G.) Cf. crash, v., 2.

crash down. Slightly later, shortened var. of-crash down the (or one's) swede. See crash the swede.

crash-draft. A sudden posting to another ship or station: R. (?only Aus.) N coll.: since ca. 1930. P.B.: the Brit. Services', at least army and RAF, version is crash-posting: since late 1940s (?earlier).

crash (one's) fences. To make mistakes: sporting, esp. hunting, coll.: late C.19–20.

crash-hot. Very good; 'marvellous': Aus.: since ca. 1950. Cf. shit-hot.

crash into print. (Of a tyro writer) to get something published: since ca. 1920.

crash landing. A forced landing; a landing with undercarriage up: RAF coll. (since ca. 1915) >, by 1940, j. Cf. crash dive, crash, v., 1, and-crash lob, v.i. To make a forced landing: RAF s.: since ca. 1930. A var. is force lob; both occur in Paul Brickhill & Conrad Norton, Escape to Danger, 1946. Here lob (ex cricket)=to arrive, to land; see lob, v., 4.

crash-o! A Cockney term expressive of surprise, or wondering disgust, at a long bill to pay; used after the event: from ca. 1918. E.g. 'I had to pay a deaner; blimey, crash-o!' Cf. thumpl, q.v.

crash pad. A bed, a shelter, for one night: among addicts and 'drop-outs': adopted, late 1960s, ex US. Burton H. Stevenson, The Hippies, 1968.

crash-posting. See crash-draft.

crash the ash, usu. as a demand: hand out the cigarette(s): army and RAF: since ca. 1954; ob. Hence, 'It's your crash!' = it's your turn to share out your cigarettes with me (or the rest of us). Cf. lob the snout. Occ. also flash the ash. (L.A.; P.B.)

crash the (or one's) swede. To get one's head down on the pillow: RN, lowerdeck: since ca. 1920. (Weekly Telegraph, 25 Oct. 1944.) A more violent version of the earlier army set the swede down; cf. also the later crash down, and the simple crash, v., 3.

crasher. A person or thing exceptional in size, merit or, esp., beauty: coll.: from ca. 1908. A.E.W. Mason, The Dean's Elbow, 1930, 'Miss Lois ... is considered ... rather a crasher ... Not what I should call homey, but a crasher.'—2. A lie: Cheshire s.:—1898 EDD.—3. A crashing bore: since ca. 1945. (Noel Coward, Pomp and Circumstance, 1960.) The 'oxford -ER'.

crashing bore. A very tedious or tiresome person or, occ., thing: coll.: from ca. 1915. Anthony Berkeley, Panic Party, 1934, 'It's a crashing bore ... to think of those dim cads knocking us for six like this, but ... it's no use getting strenuous about it.' Ex aviation. Cf. crushing, q.v. crashing-cheats. The teeth: ca. 1560–1830. Until ca. 1750, c.; then low. Lit., crunching-things.—2. In mid-C.16—early 17 c., fruit.

-crat, -ocrat. The same remark as at -cracy.

crat (usu. in pl.) A bureaucrat: since ca. 1939; ob. by ca. 1950.

crate. An aeroplane: RFC/RAF s.: since 1914. (B. & P.) By dysphemism.—2. Hence, an obsolescent aircraft: RAF: since Bailey, Treat Them Gently): ob., largely superseded by banger.

crater, crat(h)ur. Irish whiskey. See creature. crunch; occ. cranch. Irish. What can be crunched: coll.: from ca. 1870. A var. of crunch (v.). OED. craw. The human stomach: C.16–20: pej. coll. > S.E. (ob.). Whence craw-thumper, a Roman Catholic: from ca. 1780. Cf. brisket-beater. Grose, 1st ed.—2. Also, joc., a cravat falling broadly over the chest: coll.: ca. 1780–1830. crawfish. To withdraw unreservedly from an untenable position: orig. (1860) US (SOD); adopted by NZ army in WW1. The crayfish swims backwards. crawfords. 'Holding up one end of the mess table were the crawfords—steel, U-shaped supports forming legs' (Daily Colonist, 19 June 1960); R Can. N coll.: ca. 1910–25. Ex the manufacturer's name? crawl, n. A workman given to currying favour with foreman or employer: tailors'; mid-C.19–20. A shortening of crawler, 2. crawl, v. To behave in a disgustingly sycophant way; to toady in order to obtain a favour, promotion, etc.: low coll., Brit. and Aus.: C.20. Shortening of arse(-hole)-crawl. Also as do a crawl, to cringe or grovel. (P.B.) crawl home on (one's) eyebrows. To return (esp., home) utterly exhausted: military coll. (1915) >, by 1919, gen. (Lyell.) Cf. crawling on (one's) eyebrows and come in on (one's) chin-strap.
crawl out of the woodwork. See woodwork.
crawl under a snake (or a snake's belly), be able to. To be, morally, the lowest of the low: orig. Aus. (? or US), since early C.20; Brit. by ca. 1940 at latest. I clearly remember hearing the longer form in 1915; the shorter hardly antedating 1930. P.B.: there was a mid-C.20 elab., ... under a snake's belly with a top-hat on; and in Alex Buzo's The Roy Murphy Show (prod. 1971), Roy says: 'To pick on a bloke for a thing like that [a speech defect], well, you could crawl under a snake in a top hat and stilts.'
crawl with (esp. be crawling with). To be alive, or filled with: Services' coll. (1915) >, by 1920, gen. coll. (F. & G.; Lyell). E.g. 'The whole place was absolutely crawling with trippers.' Ex lousy with.
crawler. A cab that leaves the rank to search for fares; this the driver does by coasting the pavement at a very slow pace: coll.; from ca. 1860. Rarely applied to taxis.—2. A contemptible sycophant: coll.; from ca. 1850. Evening News, 21 Sep. 1885, 'The complainant call her father a liar, a bester [q.v.], and a crawler.'—3. A louse, a maggot, a nit: coll.: ca. 1790–1830 (OED). Cf. creeper, 4.—4. A sheep; a shepherd: Aus.: since ca. 1915. B., 1942.—5. A peaceable bullock or cow or calf: Aus. rural: since ca. 1920. Baker. crawling. Rotten: coll.: mid-C.19–20. Short for crawling with maggots.—2. Verminous: Army and working-class' coll.: since ca. 1915. Short for crawling with lice.—3. Sycophantic. Short for arse(-hole)-crawling, as 'that crawling bastard! Wait till I get my hands on him!': low coll.: C.20. (P.B.) crawling on (one's) eyebrows. Exhausted, tired out: army: late. 1914. F. & G. crawling on you?, what's. What's the matter? See what's bit you? crawling with it. Very rich: orig. Cockneys', then gen. coll.: since ca. 1918. Often qualified by absolutely ... Cf. lousy with.
crawly. Having, or like, the feeling of insects a-crawl on one's skin: coll.: 1860. Cf. S.E. creepy. crawly-mawly. Weakly; ailing: mid-C.19–early 20: coll. (H., 3rd ed.) Rhyming reduplication ex crawl. Adopted from Norfolk dial. of mid-C.17–20. cray. A crayfish: (low) Aus.:—1916 (C.J. Dennis). crayfish, n. A 'crawler'; a contemptible schemer: NZ army: WW1. crayfish, v. To act the coward or the low schemer: Aus.: C.20. (K.S. Prichard, Haxby's Circus, 1930.) Cf. prec. cray(h)ur or craychur. Irish whiskey. See creature. crazy, n. An insane person; one who is extremely eccentric, esp. if unpredictable or destructive: adopted, late 1960s, ex US. (Landy, 1971.)

crazy, adj. Very eager (for or about, or to do, something): coll.: since the 1770s. OED Sup.—2. Good; esp., very good: dance-fanatics': adopted, 1956, ex US. 'It's crazy—the most' = It's good—the best; 'the real crazy crew' = the really good musicians. This sense had, by 1960, > gen. s. among drug addicts, hippies, Flower People. (Observer colour sup., 3 Dec. 1967, article by Peter Fryer.)—3. Hence, extraordinarily interesting; fascinating: Can. dance-fanatics': since 1957. Victoria Daily Colonist, 16 Apr. 1959, article 'Basic Beatnik'.—4. Alert; progressive; 'with it': esp. among beatniks: since late 1950s. Anderson.—5. In like crazy, adv., 'like anything', of human actions and reactions, to the utmost: adopted ex US early 1970s. Prob. ex US Yiddish. (P.B.) crazy as a bed-bug. Extremely eccentric or crazy: mostly Can.: since ca. 1920 (?); by 1977, ob. But why a bed-bug? Poss. because bed-bugs tend to make one 'itch like crazy'? crazy-back; crazy Jack. Baumann (whom the OED has unfortunately overlooked) defines, resp., as nährischer Fant, a silly coxcomb, affected 'puppy', and verrücktes Weibsbild, a crazy or a droll hussy: I know neither of these terms (London s. of ca. 1880–1910), but I suspect that, by a printer's error, the definitions have been transposed. crazy mixed-up kid. A youth with psychological problems, esp. if unable to distinguish the good from the bad: adopted, in late 1940s, ex US.
Crazyman's Creek, the; often simply the Creek. The Straits of Messina: RN: 1941–4. creak in his shoes, make (one). To make him smart for it, give him a devilish bad time: London coll.:—1887; ob. (Baumann.) Creaking shoes are often painful. P.B.: or could creak here be synon. with quake? cream, n. Semen: low coll.: C.19–20.—2. Whisky: mostly Aus.: since ca. 1925. (B.P.)
cream, v. (Of a woman) to become sexually excited: raffish: since ca. 1950. Hence the male boast 'I'm the one she creams her knicks [= pants] for, me!' (P.B.)—2. To beat up (someone): adopted, ex US, ca. 1975. See creamed.—3. See creaming. cream (or green) cheese. See moon is made of cheese ... cream fancy (billy). A handkerchief, white or cream of ground but with any pattern. From ca. 1830: mostly sporting. (Brandon.) Cf. belcher. cream-ice jack. (Gen. pl and c.i.-j.) A street seller of ice-creams: London streets':—1909. Ware, 'Probably from Giacomo and Giacopo', common It. names, most such vendors being Italians. cream in, v.i. 'To enter harbour "at the rate of knots"' (Granville): RN coll.: C.20. Ex the creamy backwash. cream jugs. Charkof-Krementschug Railway bonds: Stock Exchange, from ca. 1885; †.—2. The paps: low:—1891. cream of the valley. (Cf. cold cream.) Gin: coll.:—1858; ob. (Mayhew, Paved with Gold.) Prob. suggested in opp. to mountain dew, whiskey. Occ. cream of the wilderness (1873; OED); ob. by 1930. cream-pot love. Love pretended to dairymaids for the sake of cream: late C.17—early 19 coll. (Ray, 1678; Grose, 1st ed.) I.e. cupboard-love.
cream-stick. Penis: low, raffish: C.19–20. Ex cream, n., 1. creamed, ppl adj. Smashed to pulp, whether lit. or fig.: since ca. 1975. A slight sense-alteration, ex US s. cream, to beat (someone) up or injure him very severely (W. & F., 1975). creamer. 'Someone who is over-excited or scared; by implication, not in control of his emotions or his affairs' (Alex. Buzo, 1973): Aus.: since ca. 1950. Perhaps connected with cream, v., 1. creamie, -y, n. 'Outstanding student creamed off after advanced flying training to become a flying instructor' (Strong and Hart-Davis, Fighter Pilot, 1981): RAF: later C.20.
creaming. 'Stealing from an employer in such a way as not late 1917. (Jackson.) See kite.—3. A motor-car: 1937 (F.E. to be obvious. Similar to “weeding” [q.v.] (Powis): c.: current in 1970s. See mark-up.

Creams. The Coldstream Guards (abbr. Cold Creams): army:—1909 (Ware).

creamy, n. A quarter-caste Aboriginal, esp. a girl: Aus.: since ca. 1920. B., 1943.—2. A palomino: Aus. coll.: since ca. 1925. Jean Devaney, Travels in North Queensland, 1951, ‘The breeding of Palominos—otherwise “yellow roses” or “creamies”—for show purposes’. (A south-western US breed; palomino—American Sp. word.)

creamy, adj. First-class, excellent; coll.: from ca. 1880; ob. Baumann.

creamy do. A very special piece of luck: since ca. 1950. (L.A.) Cf. prec.

crease. To kill (a person): c.: C.20. (Gilt Kid.) Proleptic.—2. See creasing.

crease (oneself). To laugh immoderately; e.g. ‘Sorry, but when I told ‘em about you getting locked in like that, they absolutely crease themselves’: low: since late 1940s; by mid-1970s, ob. ?A combination of creased, 2, and ‘bent double with laughter’. Cf. the later fall about. (P.B.)

creased, ppl adj. Fainted; knocked unconscious: army: earlier C.20. (F. & G.) Prob. ex S.E. crease, to stun a horse by shooting it in ridge of neck.—2. Hence, exhausted: Services: since ca. 1930.—3. Hence, disgruntled, ‘fed up’: since ca. 1938. H. & P.

creases. Watercross: sol. when not a London street-cry, which latter is coll.: (?mid-)C.19–20. Baumann, 1887.

creasing, vbl n. ‘To make oneself pleasant to [someone] with the idea of getting somewhere oneself.’ Poss. a var. of creeping. See PUBLIC...SCHOOL SLANG, in Appendix.

create, v.i. To make a fuss, a ‘row’: from ca. 1910 (frequent among soldiers in WW1). Ex create a disturbance or fuss. Hence:-

create fuck. In protesting, to display annoyance or anger: low: since ca. 1920.

creational, that beats or licks. That’s splendid, incomparable: ex US (1834); anglicised ca. 1880; the licks form has never quite lost its American tang.

creature, often crater, crat(h)ur, all with the. In late C.16–18, any liquor; in C.19–20, whiskey, esp. Irish whiskey, though Bee, I think wrongly, applies it specifically to gin. Coll. Shakespeare, ‘I do now remember the poor creature, small beer.’ Cf. S.E. creature-comfort.

credentials. The male genitals: joc. coll. ex commerce: from ca. 1895.

creek. ‘Division between blocks of changing-room lockers; division between beds’: Bootham School: late C.19–20. Bootham, 1925.—2. As the Creek: see Crazyman’s Creek; up Shit Creek.

creek mat. A bedside mat: id. Ibid.

creel. The stomach: Scot. C.19–20. (EDD). Cf. bread-basket.

creeme. To slip or palm something into another’s hand(s): coll. in late C.17–18, dial. in C.19–20 (ob.): ?orig. dial. B.E. ?ex the smoothness of cream.

creep, n. An objectionable or unpleasant person; a dull, insignificant, unwanted person: adopted, ca. 1944, ex US. Cf. creeper, 1. In Can. universities, a girl not voted into a sorority: ca. 1945–60.—2. Hence, a ‘square’: Can.: 1957+.

creep, v. To escape; to be left off with a fine rather than imprisonment: c.: since ca. 1930; ob. Gilt Kid, 1936; They Ride by Night, 1938.—2. The v. corresponding to creeper, 1, to toady: coll.: C.20 (prob. much earlier).—3. Only in creep!, go away!: office- and shop-girls’: late 1950s. Gilderdale.—4. ‘To burgle when there’s someone in the house’ (Peter Crookston, villain, 1967): c.: C.20. Hence at or on the creep, doing this.—5. To dance, as in ‘Come creeping with me’: youngsters’—not necessarily beatniks, etc.: late 1950s. There was a form of dance known as ‘the creep’.

creep away and die! Go away!, ‘get out!’: non-aristocratic c.p.:—1923 (Manchon).

creep into favour with oneself. To become self-conceited: ca. 1810–50. Boxiana, II, 1818.

creeper. A cringer; a toadying lick-spittle, who tries to curry favour for himself: coll.: C.17–20. Cf. crawler. In C.20, often thought of as short for arse(-hole)-creeper.—2. A louse: low coll.: mid-C.17–20. (OED.) Cf. crawler, 3.—3. A hack journalist; a ‘penny-a-liner’: from ca. 1820; † by 1890.—4. A paying pupil to a Ceylon tea-planter: Ceylon (now Sri Lanka): from ca. 1890; † (Y. & B., at Griffin). In early C.20 the term became more gen. in sense and in distribution: in, e.g., Henri Fauconnier’s The Soul of Malaya, 1931, trans. from Fr. by Eric Sutton, it means any comparatively young, inexperienced planter, and is thus used by many Far Eastern planters.—5. ‘A night burglar breaking into a house while the occupants are asleep’ (Notul, 10 Apr. 1981): c. See creep, v., 4. (P.B.) creepers. The feet: coll.: C.19–early 20. Cf. kickers, trampers.—2. ‘Gym’ shoes: RN: since ca. 1920. Cf. the US sneakers.—3. ‘Boots with thick rubber soles, worn by night-patrols in the desert’: army in N. Africa: 1940–3. P-G-R.—4. Short for brothel-creepers, q.v., the civilian fashion modelled on the boots in sense 3.—5. Occ. shortening of jeepers creepers!, q.v., a minced oath.

creeping, vbl n. Men and women robbing together: c.: late C.16–early 17. Greene.—2. The action of creeper, 1, as ‘We’ll have to watch him! They say he’s a bugger for creeping’: low coll.: C.20 (prob. earlier).

creeping and weeping. The recovery of an errant torpedo during trials: RN: since ca. 1910. Ship’s boats ‘creep’ over—laboriously search—the potential area; if unsuccessful, the boats pull back—‘weep’—and start again. (Wilfred Granville, letter, 1947.)

Creeping Copulator, the. The last express train down from London. Var. of the Flying Fornicator, q.v.

creeping Jesus. A person giving to sneaking and whining: since early C.19 (OED Sup. records ca. 1818). In C.20, perhaps esp. Aus., though still quite common in UK; also, in Aus., an exclam. (B., in a letter).—2. At billiards, a long losing hazard played slowly: ca. 1920–40.

creeping law. Robbery by petty thieves in suburbs: late C.16–early 17 c. (Greene.) See law.

creeps, the. The odd thrill resulting from an undefined dread: coll.: 1850, Dickens (EDD). Occ. (now ob.) cold creeps. Cf. cold shivers. Edmund Yates, in Broken to Harness, ‘In the old country mansions... where the servants... commence... to have shivers and creeps.’ (The singular is rare.)

creepy. Given to creeping into the favour of superiors or elders: schoolboys’: late C.19–20.

creepy-crawly. An insect; a spider: mostly domestic and juvenile: mid-C.19–20.

crem. A crematorium: undertakers’, and people living near one: since ca. 1920, if not earlier. We were certainly calling the one just down the road the crem in the late 1940s, as soon as it was operating. P.B. And see next.

cremmie. Crematorium: Aus.: later C.20 (Barry Humphries, Nice Night’s Entertainment, 1982, glossary.) Eng. var. usu. the crem.

crenk. To offend; to irritate or annoy, as in ‘It really crenked me!’: mostly teenagers’: early 1950s. Ex Yiddish crenk, to hurt; perhaps ultimately ex German krank, sick, ill. Mr Ramsey Spencer modifies my etym. thus: Ex Ger. kränken (pron. krenken), to hurt someone’s feelings. ‘Which is, of course, the same root as krank, ill.’

Créolo. An Argentine that is a professional pimp: c. of the white-slavers: C.20. (Londres.) He is also canfinflero (more familiarly cafshio); also, among the French, le compadre.

crevice. The puñdum muliebri: coll.; C.19–20. Cf. cranny. crew, when—in C.16–20—used derogatively of a set or a gang, is almost, not—despite B.E. and Grose—quite coll. after ca. 1660; before 1600 it is almost c., as in Greene’s Cony-Catching pamphlets.

crew-cut hair, hence ‘a crew-cut’. A man’s hair cut short and en brosse, popular especially among athletes and the would-be manly: Can.: adopted, ca. 1951, ex US (Leechman.) By 1952, fairly common, and already coll., in Brit. and Aus. Recorded by Berrey & Van den Bark in The American Thesaurus of Slang, 2nd ed., 1952, and by B., 1953. Perhaps because orig. affected by 'rowing types' at Harvard and Yale Universities. P.B.: or the entire US Navy?

crew up, v.i. and t. To form, put into, an aircrew: RAF coll., > j.: since 1939.

cri Abbr. crikey!, a mild oath.

Cri, the. The Criterion (theatre, restaurant) at Piccadilly circus: since ca. 1880.

crib, n. Provender, food: c.: C.17—early 18. This sense is extant in dial. (EDD; Brome), and in Aus. and NZ as s., esp. as 'prepared food, sandwiches for lunch, a lunch'. K.S. Prichard, Working Bullocks, 1926; Dymphna Cusack, Southern Steel, 1953.—2. Abbr. cribbage: coll.; from ca. 1680.—3. (For origin, cf. sense 4.) An abode, shop, lodgings, public-house: from ca. 1810; orig. c., then low. Vaux; Dickens, in Oliver Twist, 'The crib's barred up at night like a jail.'—4. A bed: from ca. 1820; c., then low. Maginn's Vidocq: 'You may have a crib to stow in.' Ex dial. sense (—1790), a child's cot: EDD.—5. Hence, a 'berth', a situation, job: 1859, H., 1st ed.—6. A plagiarism: from ca. 1830; coll.—7. A literal translation illicitly used by students or pupils: coll.: from ca. 1825. Hence, in C.20, any form of written aid to cheating in examinations, etc., e.g., formulae, mnemonics, etc. Perhaps ultimately ex the v., 1.—8. Stomach: c.: ?C.17—mid-19. B. & L.—9. A grumble; a cause for grumbling: Services: since ca. 1920. (H. & P.) Ex crib, v., 8.—10. A caboose: Can. railroadmen's:—1931.—11. A brothel: low Aus.: since ca. 1910. (B., 1943.) Perhaps cf. senses 3 and 4.—12. A holiday cottage: NZ, esp. South Island: later C.20. (Margaret Moore, 1980.) See also bach, 3.—13. See do a crib.

crib, v. To pilfer; take furtively: from ca. 1740. Dyche's Dict., 5th ed., 1748; Foote, 1772, 'There are a brace of birds and a hare, that I cribbed this morning out of a basket of game.'—2. (For crack a crib, see crack, v., 4.)—3. To plagiarise: coll.: 1778 (SOD).—4. To use a 'crib', q.v.: from ca. 1790; coll.—5. To cheat in an examination: coll.; from ca. 1840. Punch, 1841 (vol. I), 'Cribbing his answers from a tiny manual ... which he hides under his blotting paper'.—6. To beat (a person) at fisticuffs: London streets': ca. 1810—40. Tom Cribb defeated Belcher in 1807.—7. Hence, to thrash: low: from ca. 1840. Ware.—8. V.i., to grumble: army, C.19—20 (F. & G.); hence, also, RAF, 1919+. Prob. a back-formation ex crib-biter. The v.t. form is crib at, 'grumble or complain about' (something)—also crib about.—9. To eat, esp., to take a meal: Aus.: late C.19—20. K.S. Prichard, Working Bullocks, 1926, 'Be boiling the billy presently. Better come and crib with us, Red.' Ex the n., sense 1. In all senses, the vbl. n. cribbing is frequent.

crib-biter. A persistent grumbler: coll.; from late 1850s; ob. (H., 2nd ed.) Ex the S.E. sense of a horse that, suffering from a bad digestion, bites its crib, i.e. manger.

crib-cracker. A burglar: low (?orig. c.): from ca. 1850. G.R. Sims, 1880.—2. Vbl. n., crib-cracking, in Punch, 1852.

Crib-Crust Monday. See Pay-Off Wednesday.

cribbage. The action of cribbing (v., 3, 4); what is cribbed: rare coll.; from ca. 1830. Punning cribbage, the game.

cribbage-face(d), n. and adj. (A person) with a face pock-marked and therefore like a cribbage-board: from ca. 1780; ob. (Grose, 1st ed.) Cf. rolled on Deal beach.

cribbage-peg. (Gen. pl.) A leg: rhyming s.:—1923 (Manchon).

cribber. One who uses a crib (n., 6 and 7): from ca. 1830; coll.—2. A grumbler: military; from ca. 1860. Prob. ex crib-biter, q.v.

Cribbeys or Cribby Islands. Blind alleys, hidden lanes, remote courts: late C.18—early 19. (Grose, 1st ed.) Ex the Carribee Islands, of which little—and that little unprepossessing—was known in C.18, and gen. applied to the western quarter of the Covent Garden district. In Sessions, 1774, 2nd session of E. Bull's mayoralty, 'Yes; there are many cribby islands about it', the ref. being to the thoroughfare from Cursitor Street to White's Alley.

cribbing. Food and drink: C.17 c. Brome.—2. Also see crib, v., 9.

cricket; usu. in pl. A German night-fighter plane: RAF: 1940—4. (H. & P.) Lively at night.—2. Both the cricket and the football, cricket news and football news, are coll.: C.20.—3. See not cricket.

cricket-ball. A hand-grenade of the shape and volume of a cricket-ball: military coll.: 1915—18. (F. & G.) It was used only in 1915 and it 'had to be lighted with a match' (Frank Richards).

Cricket Quarter. Summer Quarter (i.e. term): Charterhouse coll.: mid-C.19—20. A.H. Tod, Charterhouse, 1900.

cricket team. A (very) sparse moustache: Aus.: since late 1940s. Eleven a side: eleven hairs on each side of the mid-lip dimple. (B.P.) The Brit. version of this sad little phenomenon is football team.

crickets, a cup of. A strong, fresh, cup of tea: domestic coll.: 1930s—40s. My Father, 'Julo' Betbeder, was very fond of this phrase. Poss. the association of a cricket and chirpiness, cheerfulness. (Mrs C. Raab.)

Cricklewitch. See Abrahamstead.

Cricklewood. Crich el Oued, Tunisia: army in N. Africa: WW2. P-G-R.

Crier of the Court. A loud-voiced drunk. See TAVERN TERMS, §4, in Appendix.

crik(e)y; occ. crick(e)y or crack(e)y, the latter mostly US; also by crikey. Orig. an oath (Christi), but by ca. 1835 merely an exclam. of surprise, admiration, etc. Barham, 'If a Frenchman, Superbe!—if an Englishman, Crikey!' Cf. the ob. criminy, in the same usages (Farquhar, 1700) and jinimy, q.v. These terms are either s. or coll., according to the philologists' point of view.

crim. A criminal: Aus.: since ca. 1925. (Kylie Tennant, The Joyful Condemned, 1953; Vince Kelly, The Greedy Ones, 1958.) A professional criminal: Aus.: since ca. 1945. (Dick.)

crim con. Abbr. criminal conversation, adultery. From ca. 1770, orig. legal; then, by 1785, coll.; then—from ca. 1850—S.E. Grose, 1st ed.

crimea. A (long or fierce-looking) beard: proletarian: 1856; very ob. (Ware.) Ex the hairiness of Crimean 'veterans'.—2. Beer: rhyming s.: ca. 1860—1910. (Franklyn 2nd.) Cf. fusilier.

crimes!; crimine or criminy! Variants (mid-C.19—20; late C.17—20) of crikey or jinimy. Farquhar, 1694, 'Oh! crimine!' (EDD; W.).

crimp, n. A swindler, a blackguard: Aus.: C.20. B., 1942. Ex lit. S.E. sense.

crimp, v. To play foul: low s. or c.: ca. 1690—1750. (B.E.) Ex play crimp, q.v.

crimping-fellow. 'A sneaking Cur' (B.E.): low coll.: late C.17—18.

crimson dawn. Cheap red wine. See red Biddy.

crimum. Sheep: Shelta: C.18—20. B. & L.

crinckam, crincum. See crinkum.

cringel, or oh, cringel! 'I'm abjectly sorry', a vocalisation of acute embarrassment, often with action suited to word; also, in sympathy with another's recounted embarrassment: perhaps mainly fem.: since ca. 1950. (P.B.) Cf. grovel, grovell.

crinkle. Paper money: spivs' c.: since ca. 1942. (Picture Post, Jan. 1954.) It easily creases. Cf. crackle in this sense.

crinkle-pouch. A sixpence: late C.16—early 17: coll.

crinkum, crincum; occ. crinkom, C. 17, and crinckam,

C.18. A venereal disease: C.17—18. OED.

crinkum-crankum. The puđerend muliebre: ca. 1780—1870. (Grose, 3rd ed.) Ex the S.E. sense (cf. crinkle-crankle), a winding way. Cf. crinkums, q.v.—2. In pl. (crinkum-crankums), tortuous handwriting: coll.:—1887; ob. Baumann.—3. Also in pl., and related, is its use in Matthew Barker's memoirs, pub. in L.L.G., 25 Sep. 1824, where it is applied to over-learned speech or writing. (Moe.) Prob. current ca. 1790–1870.

crinkums. A venereal disease: C.17–early 19. (B.E.) Cf. crinkum and crinkum-crankum.

crinoline. A woman: ca. 1855–95. Cf. petticoat, skirt.

Cripes! Christ!: late C.19–20. Also by cripes! Cf. crikey, q.v.

Crippen! A var. of prec. Ex the notorious murderer.—2. For its use as a nickname, see NICKNAMES, Ephemeral General, in Appendix.

cripple. A sixpence (—1785); ob. in C. 20. (Grose, 1st ed.) Ex its aptness to be bent. Cf. bender.—2. A clumsy person; a dull one: coll.; mid-C.19–20.—3. (Wellington College) a dolt: mid-C.19–20.—4. A lobster minus a claw: nautical coll.: late C.19–20. Bowen.—5. A defective car: Can. railroadmen's: —1931.—6. See go it, you cripple(s)!

cripple-cock (or solid). Cider: Dorset s.: since mid-C.20. prob. earlier. (J.B. Smith, in Somerset & Dorset Notes & Queries, 1979.) Cf., perhaps, brewer's droop.—2. A gen. low pej.: later C.20. Sean McConville, in The State of the Language, 1980.

cripple-stopper. A small gun for killing wounded birds: sporting coll.:—1881 (OED).

Cripplegate. The Senior Services Club. See Bishopsgate.—2. In come Cripplegate, q.v., to hoodwink.

crippler. See slip a crippler.

criq. Brandy: Can.: C.20. (F. & G.) Ex French-Canadian.

crisch. Cricket. See IMPERIAL SERVICE COLLEGE, in Appendix.

crisp. n. A bank or a currency note: from ca. 1850; cf. soft.

crisp, adj. New, interesting: ca. 1920–35. Manchon.—2. In talk crisp, to say disagreeable things: coll.:—1923 (Manchon).

Crispin. A shoemaker: from ca. 1640; orig. coll., by 1700 S.E.; rare in C.20. Hence St Crispin's lance, an awl, and Crispin's holiday, every Monday: both late C.17–19 coll. Ex Crispin, the patron saint of shoemakers.

criss-cross. A crossword puzzle; crosswords in general: since ca. 1935.

crit. A critic: C.18 (?coined by Fielding). OED.—2. A published criticism, a review, of a concert, play, book, etc.: C.20. (Vernon Noble, 1978.)—3. Hence, as n. and v., (to make) an oral or a written critical report upon a fellow-student's work: training colleges': C.20. Josephine Tey, Miss Pym Disposes, 1946.

crit sheet. That printed form which is attached to a report and on which the reader indicates the accuracy and value of the report: Services' and Civil Service coll.: since ca. 1945. Cf. prec.

Criterion. See Captain Criterion, also Cri, the.

critical. Dangerously ill or injured: coll., orig. and still mainly journalists': since ca. 1930. Ex 'be in a critical state'.

cro. A prostitute: low Aus.: since the 1920s. (Kylie Tennant, The Joyful Condemned, 1953.) Loose for chro.—2. A c.r.o. or cathode-ray oscilloscope: esp. in Aus.: since ca. 1940. (B.P.)

cro or cros (pron. cro). A professional gambler: buckish s. of ca. 1810–40. (J.J. Stockdale, The Greeks, 1817.) Ex Fr. escroc, a sharper.

cro'-eyed. Cross-eyed: prob. mid-C.18–19. A cro'-eyed Jack is a cross-eyed fellow, but often in the form cro'-jack(-)eyed, as in W.N. Glascock, The Naval Sketch-Book, 2nd series, 1834. Ex work aloft. Cf. cross-jack.

croak, in c., means both to die and to kill; also (ob.) a 'last dying' speech: C.19–20. Vaux (to die); Egan, 1823 (to hang); H., 1st ed., the n. sense: hardly before ca. 1850. Ex the death-rattle. Both senses appear also in dial.—2. Dying speech. See top, n., 2.

croaker. In mid-C.17–18, c. for a groat; in C.19, s. for a sixpence. (B.E.) Perhaps a pun—suggested by cripple, 1—on groat.—2. A beggar: low: from ca. 1835. (Brandon, 1839; H., 1st ed.) Ex his complaints.—3. A dying person, a doctor, a corpse: the second being c. and low s., the first low coll., and the third (H., 2nd ed.) low s.: mid-C.19–20.—4. Hence, a beast killed to save it from dying: 1892 (OED).—5. A pronounced and persistent pessimist: from ca. 1630; coll.

until ca. 1700, when it > S.E. Whence, prob., senses 2, 3.—6. (Gen. pl.) A potato: Anglo-Irish:—1923 (Manchon). Also croker. Possibly cognate with dial. croke, dross, core of fruit.—7. A newspaper: Aus. low: since ca. 1910. B., 1942.—8. 'A doctor who provides narcotics for an addict. (Canadian, US)' (Home Office): drug addicts': current in 1970s. A specialisation of sense 3. See also crocus.

croaker's chovey. A chemist's shop: C.19–20 low. Cf. crocus-chovey, q.v.

Croakumshire. Northumberland: mid-C.18–19. (Grose, 1st ed.) Ex that county's defective r.

croakus. See crocus.

croby. 'Orig. a crust; later, a piece of bread and butter'; † 'and superseded by "bar", q.v.', says Bootham, 1925. Cf. crug and cruggy, qq.v.

croc. A file of school-boys or, much more gen., -girls walking in pairs: from ca. 1900; mostly schools. Abbr. crocodile, orig. university s. (—1891), now coll.—2. Also, of course, the crocodile itself: coll.: rare before C.20. Alexander Macdonald, in The Land of Pearl and Gold, 1907.—3. 'Short for Crocodile [q.v.], a British flame-throwing tank': army: ca. 1941–5. P-G-R.

crock. A worthless animal; a disabled person or (in C.20 rarely) a 'duffer': from ca. 1879; coll. Either ex broken earthenware (1850) or the Scot. croak, an old ewe or (1879) a broken-down horse (SOD).—2. Hence, a boy or a man that plays no outdoor games: Public Schools' coll.: from ca. 1890. P.G. Wodehouse, St Austin's, 1903.—3. A bicycle: youths': ca. 1870–80. (Ware.) Because a 'bone-shaker'?—4. A chamber-pot: Bootham School: C.20. Bootham, 1925, adds 'croak rolling... A common practice in bedrooms.' Abbr. crocker.—5. Earth they mar: navvies': ca. 1870–1910. D.W. Barrett, 1880.

crock up. To get disabled; break down; fall ill: from ca. 1890. Common in WW1. Ex prec., 1.

crocketts. A kind of makeshift cricket: Winchester College, C.19–20. (R.G.K. Wrench.) Hence, get crocketts (at cricket) fail to score: from ca. 1840; Winchester. See WINCHESTER, §2, in Appendix.

Crocket(t)'s Folly. The Olympia cab-rank: London taxi-drivers': since ca. 1910. Herbert Hodge, Cab, Sir?, 1939.

crocks. Crockery, even fine chinaware; esp. in 'do the crocks', wash the dishes after a meal: domestic coll.: C.20. Cf. dial. usage for, usu., coarse earthenware (EDD). (P.B.)

crockus. Var. of crocus.

crocky, n. A crocodile: Aus. (mostly juvenile): C.20. B., 1943.

crocky, adj. Shaky and weak; groggy: Aus. coll.: late C.19–20, K.S. Prichard, The Black Opal, 1921.

croco. A frog: Cockneys': late C.19—mid-20. (Neil Lyons, Kitchener Chaps, 1915.) P.B.: should perhaps be croak-o.

crocodile. A (gen. and orig. girls') school walking, two by two, in file (—1870): coll. In C.20, S.E. The very rare v. occurs in 1889. OED.—2. A support of a plank serving as a seat: Conway Training Ship:—1891 (Masefield).—3. (Both n. and v.) Applied to 'paint which has contracted during drying... Resembling a crocodile's skin' (a master builder, 1953): builders' and house-painters': C.20.—4. A horse: Aus.: since ca. 1930. B., 1943.—5. The long-range flame-thrower version of the Mark VII Churchill tank, of which the British Army had a whole regiment in the later stages of WW2, and subsequently' (R.S., 1973). Prob. a codename. See croc, 3.

crocus, n. (in full: crocus metallorum, and in C.19–20 occ. croakus). A surgeon or a doctor (esp. a quack): low (—1785); ob. (Grose, 1st ed.; Mayhew.) Prob. ex croak after hocus-pocus, though the OED mentions a Dr Helkiah Crooke and Coles has crocus Martis, a chemical preparation of iron, and crocus veneris, one of copper. Cf. croaker, by which also the old scientific term crocus was prob. suggested in this sense. At first, naval and military.—2. (Always crocus.) Among grafters, it bears the above-mentioned senses; also, a herbalist, a miracle-worker. (Cheapjack, 1934.) For gen. information, see, in addition, Neil Bell, Crocus, a novel of the fairs, 1936.—3. 'A fair-weather trader who appears for a while when Winter is over' (M.T.). market-traders': C.20.

crocus, v. See croccussing.—2. Hence, neutrally and widely, to sell medicines and toilet preparations to (the gathered customers): fairgrounds': C.20. (W. Buchanan-Taylor, Shake it Again, 1943.) Cf. crocus, n., 2.

crocus-chovey. A doctor's consulting-room; a surgery: mid-C.19–20 c. (H., 3rd ed.) See chovey. Ex:—2. A chemist's shop: c.:—1791 (B.M. Carew, quoted by EDD). Cf. croaker's chovey.

crocus metallorum. The full, orig. term for crocus, n., 1, q.v.

crocus-pitcher. An itinerant quack: mid-C.19–20 c.

crocus-worker. A seller of patent medicines: c., and Petticoat Lane traders': late C.19–20.

croccussing. The predominant C.20 form of:

croccussing rig. The practising of itinerant quackery: mid-C.19–20 c.; ob. by 1930.

croker. See croaker.

crokus. See crocus.

croggie, -y. A ride on the cross-bar of another's bicycle; less often, a ride on the saddle while another pedals: East Midland and Yorkshire children's:—1960 (Mrs Janet Bowater, 1979). Cf. saddler, another term for the latter mode. Ex cross; cf. Chrissy=Christmas.

crome. To hook used by an 'angler' (q.v.): late C.16 c. Greene, in The Black Book's Messenger.

crone. A clown: from ca. 1850; mostly Parlyaree. Prob. clown corrupted.

crook. (Of a horse) made to appear ill in order to cheat its backers: from the 1880s: racing s. >, by 1890, gen. Ex Ger. krank, sick, ill. Morris.—2. Hence, unsound; dishonestly come by: from ca. 1890. (Melbourne) Herald, 4 July 1893. Both senses are Aus. Cf. crook, adj.—3. Hence, ill: C.20.

croinker. A foreman: tailors': from ca. 1860. (B. & L.) Ex dial. croink, either 'to croak; hence, grumble' or 'to sit; esp. sit huddled up' (EDD).

cronky. 'Wonky' or unsound; inferior; not well: since ca. 1920. It has re-surfaced as a gen. adj. of disapprobation among Leicestershire schoolchildren (and prob. more widely): 1983. (Miss Rebecca Walton, 1983.) Cf. croink.

crony. 'A Camerado or intimate friend' (B.E.): from 1650; university s. till ca. 1750, then gen. coll. Pepys, 'Jack Cole, my old schoolfellow... a great crony of mine' (SOD). Perhaps crony was Cambridge University's counterpart to the orig. Oxford chum. Its C.17 var. chrony indicates the etym.: Gr. χρόνιος, contemporary, ex χρόνος, time. W. cites an instance for 1652.—Whence, 2, in c. or low s., an accomplice in a robbery: C.18—early 19. A New Canting Dict., 1725.—3. In C.17–18, a tough old hen. B.E.—4. A Dumfriesshire c. term (C.19–20) for a potato. The EDD cites the derivative crony-hill, a potato-field.

crook, n. A sixpence (—1789): low; ob. by 1860, † by 1914. Ex crook-back, q.v.—2. A swindler, a thief; a professional criminal: orig. (1870s) US, anglicised ca. 1895 as a coll.; by 1920, S.E. Perhaps ex on the crook; cf., as W. suggests, Fr. escroc. P.B.: or simply ex crooked; cf. the mid—later C.20 bent, dishonest.—3. In on the crook, dishonestly, illegally, illicitly; leading a life of crime: in England before 1874 (?first used in US) and, there, perhaps orig. c. (H., 5th ed.) Prob. suggested by (on the) straight: cf., however, on the cross.—4. In in the crook: see click, n., 7.

crook, v.t. To steal: either c. or low s.:—1923 (Manchon). Ex get on the crook: see crook, n., 3.

crook, adj. A very characteristic Aus. term of the C.20, prob. ex crook, q.v., via crooked, meaning generally inferior, and specifically: ill; spurious (B., 1942); (of, e.g., eggs) bad, rotten: ca. 1905 (Gavin Casey, It's Harder for Girls, 1942); (of persons) objectionable: since ca. 1910 (G. Casey, Downhill is Easier, 1945); (of land) poor, infertile: id. (Dal Stevens, The Gambling Ghost, 1953); and—wouldn't you know it!—Culotta instances crook beer.—2. In go crook, to give way to anger; to express annoyance: Aus.: from ca. 1905. Hence the c.p., have you read the (or, more gen., that) little red book; if the man thus addressed looked interrogatively, one added that little red book, 'Why Go Crook?' Ca. 1910–20.

crook and butcher. Cook & Butcher (a 'trade'): RAF: since ca. 1935. Jackson, 'It is commonly believed that his sins go so often unpunished.'

crook-back. A sixpence:—1785; † by 1900. (Grose, 1st ed.) Cf. bender, cripple, crook.

crook (one's) elbow and wish it may never come straight. A phrase lending efficacy to an oath: low coll.: late C.18—early 19. Grose, 2nd ed.

crook the (or one's) elbow. To drink (not of water): ex US (1830) Thornton, anglicised ca. 1875: coll. (Besant & Rice, 1877.) Cf:-

crook the (or one's) little finger. Var. of prec.

crook up. To fall, to become, ill: Aus.: since ca. 1910. (D'Arcy Niland, Call Me When the Cross Turns Over, 1958.) Ex crook, adj., 1.

crooked, adj. Dishonestly acting (of persons), handled or obtained (things): mostly Aus.; from before 1864. H., 3rd ed., 'A term used among dog-stealers, and the "fancy" generally, to denote anything stolen'; 'Rolf Boldrewood' speaks of 'a crooked horse'.—2. Var. of crook, adj. in sense of 'angry, annoyed': Aus.: since ca. 1918. Rats, 1944.—3. Esp., crooked on, as in "That work," he said, "I'm crooked on that" (Lawson Glassop, Lucky Palmer, 1949): Aus.: since ca. 1930. This sense of crooked is pron. as one syllable, not like the S.E. crooked, dishonest, criminal.

crooked, adv. Illicitly, in a criminal manner; furtively: c.: (?)mid-C.19–20. Gilt Kid, 1936, 'Sold crooked'.

crooked as a dog's hind leg, (as). Very crooked (usu. in lit. sense only): coll.: late C.19–20. Apperson.

crooked as George Street West, as. Extremely crooked: Sydneysiders': late C.19–20; by 1960 ob.—this street being now called Broadway. (B.F.)

crooked as the letter zed. Very crooked: coll.:—1785 (Grose, 1st ed.) >, ca. 1840, dial.

Crooked Lane. See buy (one's) boots in Crooked Lane ..., to have crooked legs.

crooked Mick (of the Speewa(h)). 'A mythical figure of the Northern Territory and N. Queensland credited with prodigious feats' (Wilkes): Aus.: C.20. (Mrs Camilla Raab adds: His fame is Aus.-wide.)

crooked rib. A cross-grained wife: coll.: late C.18–19. (Grose, 2nd ed.) The S.E. rib, a wife, is Biblical in origin and affected esp. by Scot. poets.

crooked straight-edge or the round square, go and fetch the. C.pp. April Fool 'catches': carpenters': C.19–20. Among warehousemen, it is go and fetch the wall-stretcher; in engineers' shops, the rubber hammer: both from ca. 1860. See FOOLS' ERRANDS.

crookshanks. A coll. nickname for a man with bandy legs: 1788 (Grose, 2nd ed.). Cf. the surname Cruickshanks.

crooky. To walk arm in arm; v.t., to court (a girl): coll.: mid-C.19–20; ob. H., 2nd ed.

croop. Stomach: lower-classes': mid-C.19—early 20. (B. & L.) I.e. crop.

Crop. 'A nick name for a Presbyterian' (Grose); 'one with very short Hair' (B.E.). Resp. mid-C.18—early 19 and late C.17—early 18 coll.—2. crop, money, see crap, n., 1.—3. crop, to hang, to defecate, is a var. of c. crap, v., 1 and 2.

crop-sick. Drunk: later C.18. Gentleman's Magazine, 1770, p. 559 (P.B.).

Crop the Conjuror. 'Jeering appellation of one with short hair' (Grose, 1st ed.): late C.18—early 19 coll. Cf. Crop, 1. crop the field. To win easily: horse-racing: ca. 1870–1930. A double pun.

crople on. To take hold of, to seize: Aus.: since ca. 1925. (B., 1943.) Ex grapple?

crophop. A Frenchman. Var. of crappo, 1, q.v.

croppen, croppin: see crapping casa.—2. The tail of beast or vehicle: C.18—early 19: c. A New Canting Dict., 1725; Grose, 1st ed.

cropper, esp. come, or go, a cropper. A heavy fall, fig. and lit.: from the late 1850s; coll. H., 2nd ed.; Trollope, 1880, 'He could not... ask what might happen if he were to come a cropper.' Ex hunting.

croppie. A var. of croppy, 2, q.v.

croppin. See croppen.

croppin-ken. See crapping casa.

cropped, to be. Fail in an examination, be sent down at a lesson: Winchester College: mid-C.19—20. Ex (to) crop + cripple.

croppy or Croppy. An Irish rebel of 1798, when sympathy with the French revolutionaries was shown by close-cut hair: orig. coll., soon historical—therefore S.E.—2. Also, an ex-gaolbird: low:—1857 ('Ducange Anglicus').

cro. A professional gambler. See cro, and crow in this sense.

cross, n. (Gen the c-) Anything dishonest: from early C.19; c. >, by 1870, low s. Opp. to the square as crooked is opp. to straight. Vaux; Trollope in The Claverings.—2. Esp. a pre-arranged swindle: c.:—1829.—3. Also, a thief: c. from ca. 1830. (The term occurs mostly in compounds and phrases; these follow the v.)—4. The tail of a two-up penny: Aus.: since ca. 1920. (B., 1953.) Ex black cross painted on it to facilitate recognition. Contrast the C.17—18 cross I win, pile you lose, where cross was the obverse of the coin.—5. In on the cross, dishonestly, illegal(ly), fraudulent(ly): from ca. 1810; orig. c. Vaux; H., 1st ed.; Henry Kingsley; Ouida, 1868, in Under Two Flags, 'Rake was... "up to every dodge on the cross".' Cf. synon. crook, n., 3.—6. As the Cross, the King's Cross district of Sydney: Sydney coll.: since ca. 1910. (Dymphna Cusack, 1951.) See also Crosso.—7. See play a cross; Weeping Cross.

cross, v. To bestride a horse: joc. coll.; from ca. 1760; ob. (SOD).—2. Hence, to have intercourse with a woman: from ca. 1790.—3. To play false, v.t. and (rarely), i.; to cheat: low: C.19—20. Egan's Grose.—4. In the passive, be crossed, mid-C.19 university s. meant to be punished, e.g. by loss of freedom: 'Cuthbert Bede' in Verdant Green, 1853; H., 3rd—5th edd. Ex the cross against one's name.

cross, adj. Out of humour, temporarily ill-tempered: coll.; from ca. 1630.—2. Dishonest; dishonestly obtained: c.: from ca. 1810. Vaux.—3. Annoying; unkind: coll.: later C.19. Punch, 1 Feb. 1868, a cartoon of a little girl at a children's dance is captioned: 'Belle of the juveniles. "Ma, dear, isn't it cross of George? He says if I dance with Clara's brother any more, it's all over between us, and he'll have all his presents back!"' Ex cross, n.

cross. Adv., unfavourably, adversely; awry, amiss: from ca. 1600; S.E. till ca. 1840, then coll. (SOD.)

cross as the devil. A late C.19—20 coll. var., or perhaps rather intensive, of-cross as two sticks, as. Very peevish or annoyed: coll.: from ca. 1830. Scott, 1831; Pinero, 1909. (Apperson.) Perhaps ex their rasping together, but prob. ex two sticks set athwart (W.).

Cross-Belts. The 8th Hussars: C.18—early 20. 'The regiment wears the sword belt over the right shoulder in memory of the Battle of Saragossa [1700] where it took the belts of the Spanish cavalry' (F. & H.).

cross-bite, cross-biting. A deception, trick(ery), cheat(ing): from ca. 1570; c. > s. > coll. > S.E. > †, the same applying to the slightly earlier v. Marlowe, G. Harvey, Prior, Scott, Ainsworth.—2. In late C.16—18 c., 'one who combines with a sharper to draw in a friend' (Grose); also v.

cross-biter. A swindler, cheat, hoaxer: late C.16—early 18; c. > s. > coll. > S.E.

cross-biting law. 'Cosenage by whores' (Greene): late C.16—17 c. See law.

cross (someone's) bows. To offend a senior officer: RN:

C.20. Granville, 'It is a flagrant breach of manners for a junior ship to cross the bows of a senior ship.'

cross-boy. A crook, a dishonest fellow: Aus. c.:—1890. Ex cross-chap. OED Sup.

cross-built. (Of persons) awkwardly built or moving: coll.: ca. 1820—70. Bee.

cross-buttock. An unexpected repulse or rebuff: coll.:—1860 (H., 2nd ed.); by 1920, almost †. Ex a throw in wrestling.

cross-chap, -cove, lad, -man, -squire. A thief. C.19—20 c.; -squire is †. Varied by lad, etc., of the cross. (See also the separate entries at cross-cove and cross-man.)

cross-chopping. Argument: 1831, Sessions, 'There was a good deal of cross-chopping at the office as to whether it was on a Sunday': coll.: C.19.

cross-country. Abbr. cross-country runner: athletics, C.20; not gen.

cross-cove. A swindler; a confidence trickster: c.:—1812; ob. Vaux.

cross-cove and mollisher. A man and woman intimately associated in robbery:—1859; c.: ob. (H., 1st ed.) See cross, n.; mollisher: ex moll, q.v., ? after demolisher.

cross-crib. A thieves' and/or swindlers' lodging-house or hotel: c.: from ca. 1810. Vaux; H., 1st ed.; Baumann (misprinted -crip). Ex crib, n., 3.

cross-drum. A thieves' tavern: c.: from ca. 1840. See drum.

cross-eye(s). A person with a squint: coll.: from ca. 1870.

cross-fam or -fan. (Also n.) To rob from the person, with one hand 'masking' the other: c.: from ca. 1810. (Vaux.) See fam and fan.

cross-girl. A harlot that, specialising in sailors, gets all the money she can from the amorous and then bilks them by running away: c.:—1861; ob. Mayhew.

Cross I win, pile you lose. A C.17 form of heads I win, tails you lose. It occurs in Butler's Hudibras, 1678: 'That you as sure, may Pick and Choose, / As Cross I win, and Pile you lose' (Apperson). The cross is here the obverse of the coin; contrast cross, n., 4, the 'tail' at 'two-up'.

cross-in-the-air (or without hyphens). A rifle carried at the reverse: amateur soldiers': ca. 1880—1914.

cross-jack, adj. Squinting: C.19. Fredk Chamier, The Life of a Sailor, 1832, at II, 230, 'He had a great advantage in both eyes and tongue, for he squinted so abominably, that you could not escape his cross-jack glance; and he had "a tongue to wheedle with the devil"' (Moe). Cf. cro'-eyed, and-cross-jack-eyed. Squint-eyed: nautical: ca. 1800—70. (The Night Watch, 1828, II, 88. Hence look cro'-jack eyed, to squint. (Moe.)

cross-jarvey (-jarvis, Baumann) with a cross-rattler. 'A co-thief driving his hackney-coach' (Bee): c.: ca. 1820—90. See cross, adj., 2.

cross-kid, n. 'Kidding', blarney; deception, imposition; irony: low: 1893 (P.H. Emerson); † by 1920.

cross-kid, occ. -quid. To cross-examine: c.:—1879. Ex kid, to quiz.

cross-kiddle. To cross-examine: c.:—1879; ob. Horsley (cited by F. & H. at reeler).

cross killicks. Slovening of crossed killicks, q.v.

cross-lad. See cross-chap.

cross-legged knights. See guest of the...

cross-legs. A tailor: low: ca. 1850—1910. Baumann.

cross-life man. A professional criminal, esp. thief: c.:—1878; ob.

cross-man. A thief; a swindler; confidence man: c.:—1823 (Bee); H., 3rd ed. See cross, n., 1—3.

cross-mollisher. A female cross-cove, q.v.: c.:—1812 (Vaux); ob. by 1930.

cross my (occ. me) heart! A c.p. declaration that one is telling the truth: mid-C.19—20. A C.20 (usu. children's) elab. is... and hope to die! See DCpp., and cf.:-

cross my (or me) throat! Var. of prec.: C.20.

cross (someone) off (one's) visiting list; usu. to have crossed

... This is sometimes used jocularly, mainly by working-class people who do not keep Books of Engagements' (Petch, 1966): since ca. 1930.

cross-patch. A peevish person: late C.17–20: coll. (B.E.) Cf. the old nursery rhyme: 'Cross-patch, /Draw the latch, /Sit by the fire and spin.' Here, patch is a fool, a child (W.). In late C.19–20, occ. cross-piece: Manchon.

cross-squire. See cross-chap.

cross-stiff. A letter: c.: ca. 1860–1930.

cross, or go over, the Alps. To go to Dartmoor Prison: C.20 c.

cross the damp-pot. To cross the Atlantic: tailors'; ca. 1860–1930.

cross the Ruby. To cross the Rubicon: 'Fast World, early 19 cent' (Ware). Punning ruby, port wine. See ruby, 2.

cross tot. See long tot.

Crosse and Blackwell's Regiment. The General Service Corps: Army; since late 1930s. Ex the similarity of its cap badge to Messrs Crosse & Blackwell's trademark. (Evelyn Waugh, Put out More Flags, 1942.) Cf. Tate & Lyle.

crossed killicks. A petty officer's badge (crossed anchors: killich, in Erse = a wooden anchor): RN lowerdeck: C.20. Granville.

crosser. An arranger of or participator in a dishonest act: sporting: from ca. 1870.

crossers. Crossword puzzles in gen., or one in particular: since ca. 1930. Ex crossword by the 'OXFORD -ER'.

crossish. Rather bad-tempered or peevish: coll.: from ca. 1740; rare and ob. OED.

Crosso, the. King's Cross district of Sydney: Aus.: C.20. (B., 1942). Also, simply, the Cross.

crossword spanner. A pencil: RN engineers': since ca. 1950. (Granville, letter, 1962.) Cf. beer spanner, a bottle-opener.

crof. Excrement; usu. as soft crof, a loose stool: schoolboys': ca. 1935. (Peter Jones, 1957.) Cf. noggies, q.v. (P.B.)

croth(-)rot. 'A form of skin fungus that attacks the area between the buttocks and around the groin. Extremely common affliction. One doctor told me "Everybody and his dog has it"' (Leechman): coll., mostly Can.: C.20.

crotheteer. 'A patron of crothets': Society: ca. 1880–1900. Ware.

crouch. See shampoo attitude.

crow, n. Gen. as a regular crow. A fluke; unexpected luck: from ca. 1850. Ex billiards; prob. the Fr. raccroc. P.B.: perhaps influenced, later, by 'something to crow about'?—2. In c., with corresponding v., a confederate on watch; if a female, often canary. From early 1820s. Bee.—3. A clergyman: late C.18—early 20. Ex black clothes.—4. A professional gambler: ca. 1805–40. (J.J. Stockwell, 1817.) P.B.: E.P.'s orig. comment was 'Pun on S.E. rook'; but see also cro, from the same source.—5. A rating who's always getting into trouble: RN: since ca. 1920. (Granville.) Prompted by bird, n., 7.—6. An undertaker; an undertaker's employee, a mute: C.20. (M. Allingham, More Work for the Undertaker, 1947.) Ex black clothing. (Claiborne.)—7. See not know from a crow; pudding, 5; strut like...

crow, v. To bend (rails) for the 2 ft or 4 ft 8 in. light-railway tracks: Public Works':—1935. 'ex use of a crow-bar.'—2. V.i., to act as a 'crow', n., 2: c.: from ca. 1840. 'No. 747', 1891 (EDD); W.A. Gape, Half a Million Tramps, 1936.

crow-bait. An Aboriginal: Aus., coll. rather than s.: since ca. 1830. Brian Penton, Landtakers, 1934.—2. A scraggy, esp. if old, horse: among Englishmen in S. America: from ca. 1895. C.W. Thurlow Craig.

crow-eater. A lazy person (ex the eating habits of crows): Aus.; S. Africa: from ca. 1875. 'Also used in Canada' (Leechman).—2. (Gen. in pl.) A S. Australian: from the 1890s. Crows are very numerous in that State. Neither of these is connected with eat crow, to 'eat humble-pie'.

crow-fair. An assemblage of clergymen: late C.18–19; coll. (Grose, 1st ed.) Ex their black clothes.

crow-hopping. 'Hopping with bended knees, usually up an incline and holding a rifle overhead. Probably discarded now but certainly common in the fifties in Training Establishments' (John Malin, 1979): RN.

crow in working rig. A seagull: RN: since ca. 1930. P-G-R. crow-pee, at. At dawn: British army in N. Africa: 1941–3. 'English imitation of Australian slang, Western Desert' (Peter Sanders). R.S. notes: 'A substitution for at sparrow-fart—there are no sparrows in the desert!'

crow to pluck (in C.15, pull; rarely pick) with anyone, have a. To have an unpleasant or embarrassing affair to settle: from C.16; coll. till C.18, when it > S.E. (Shakespeare, 'Hudibras' Butler, Scott.) The phrase 'suggests animals struggling over prey', W. Cf. have a bone to pick with.

Crowbar Brigade, the. The Irish Constabulary: Anglo-Irish: 1848; ob. Ex 'crowbar used in throwing down cottages to complete eviction of tenants' (Ware). Whence: crowbar landlord. One who resorts to such methods: Anglo-Irish: ca. 1850–90. Ware.

crowd, n. A company of people; set, 'lot': Colonial (ex US), from ca. 1870.—2. In WW1, a military unit: cf. mob and push.

crowd, v. To verge on: Can. coll.: adopted, ca. 1935, ex US. 'He must be crowding forty.' (Leechman.)

crowded space. Suitcase: since ca. 1930: orig. c.; by 1940, low s. Franklyn 2nd.

crowder. A string: Shelta: C.18–20. B. & L.—2. A full theatre or 'house': theatrical: ca. 1870–1930.

crowdy-headed Jock. A North Country seaman, esp. a collier. See Jock, 1.

crowie. A old woman: market-traders': C.20. (M.T.) Ex common resemblance in garb and voice.

crow, n. (Always as the crown) the sergeant-major: army coll.: earlier C.20. (F. & G.) Ex the badge of a crown upon his lower sleeve. Cf. put (one's) crown up, to be promoted to Company (or Battery) Sergeant-major; also applied to colour- and staff-sergeants (army) and flight-sergeants (RAF), who wear a smaller crown above their three chevrons: 'he's got his crown (up)': C.20.—2. The school tuckshop: Charterhouse: C.19–20 (A.H. Tod, Charterhouse, 1900.) Perhaps ex the old Crown Inn.—3. The school pavilion: Charterhouse: late C.19–20. (Ibid.)—4. The mons Veneris, hence female pubic hair: low and raffish: latish C.19–20, but perhaps much earlier. Prob. short for crow and feathers.

crow, v. To put a chamber-pot on a man's head: Aus. universities': C.20.—2. In c., to inspect a window with a view to burglary: C.19—early 20.—3. To hit (a person) on the crown: low: C.20. George Ingram, Stir, 1933.—4. To cane: Aus. schoolboys': ca. 1910–40. (Donald McLean, Nature's Second Son, 1954.) See also coronation, a caning.

crow, adj. Very large: Aus. coll.: since ca. 1920. Vance Palmer, Let the Birds Fly, 1955, 'If it's a crown fire we're gone a million'. Prompted by the crowning of, e.g., 'crowning glory'. Crown and Anchor. See Appendix.

crow and feathers. The female genitals: low: C.19—earlier 20. Prob. punning an inn-sign. Cf. crow, n., 4.

crow-office. The head: late C.18—early 19. (Grose, 1st ed.) Cf. in the crown-office, tipsy: late C.17–18, B.E.

Crown Prince (or c-p). In address; in ref., the crown prince: 'The oldest or only son of a man [sur]named King': since ca. 1910. (Petch, 1969.)

crowner. Coroner: in M.E. and early Mod.E. (e.g. in Shakespeare's Hamlet), it is S.E.; then dial. and either coll. or sol., in C.20 gen. the latter: esp. crowner's quest, a coroner's inquest (Manchon).—2. A fall on the crown of one's head: sporting: from ca. 1860. Whyte-Melville.

crownie. 'A tram or bus inspector' (B., 1935): Aus.: since ca. 1935. Ex the crown that indicates his rank.

crowning. A blow on the crown of the head: low: from ca. 1905. Ex crow, v., 3.

crowning him. Coupling a caboose to a train already made up: Can. railroadmen's:—1931.

crow's-foot. In c., the government broad arrow: from ca. 1870; ob.

crow's-nest. 'Small bedroom for bachelors high up in country houses, and on a level with the tree-tops' (Ware): Society: mid-C.19–20; ob. Ex nautical S.E.—2. Female pubic hair: orig. and mainly nautical: (?)mid-C.19–20. In 1973, a contributor sent me this quatrain, recalled from his army days in WW2: 'Now all you young maidens take a tip from me:/Never let a sailor get higher than your knee,/For if he does he'll do his very best/To fuck all the hairs off your old crow's-nest.'

crud. 'Equals turd as an expression of contempt for another person. "What a silly little crud Harry is!"' (Leechman): Can.: since ca. 1930. Ex Can. (and US) dial., itself ex English dial., crud, a survival from late Middle English crudde. Also, since late 1930s, common in Aus. (B.P.); and in Brit. Forces, esp. in 1950s. (P.B.) Theological colleges were using it in the 1960s for 'second-rate, inferior, spoiled' (Towler & Coxon, Fate of the Anglican Clergy, 1979).—2. Dried, spilt semen: low: adopted, ex US, mid-C.20. (P.B.) crudget. The head: Aus. since ca. 1920. Prob. a corruption of crummet, 1, the head.

cruel, v.t. To spoil or ruin (e.g. a person's chances): Aus.: since ca. 1910. (B., 1943.) Ex cruel the pitch.

cruel, cruelly, adj., adv. Hard, exceeding(ly): resp. since M.E. and C.16: S.E. until C.19, then coll. Pepys, 31 July 1662, 'Met Captain Brown... at which he was cruel angry'. The early history of the coll. cruel(ly) significantly parallels that of the adv. bloody.

cruel the pitch. To frustrate (a plan, etc.); to interfere greatly with one's schemes or welfare: C.20. Ex cricket.

cruelty-van (or booby-hutch). A four-wheeled chaise: from ca. 1850; † by 1910.

crug. Food: from ca. 1820. Prob. ex crug (Christ's Hospital) bread: late C.18–19; Lamb, 'a penny loaf—our crug'.—2. (Ibid.) a Christ's Hospital (School) boy, esp. old boy: from ca. 1830.

cruganaler, cruggnailer. (Christ's Hospital) a biscuit given on St Matthew's Day: C.19–20. Either ex crug and ale (see crug) or punning hard as nails.

cruggy. Hungry: C.19–20; Christ's Hospital (School). Ex crug, q.v.

cruiser. A harlot: C.19—early 20. One that cruises the streets.—2. In c., a beggar: late C.17—early 19. (B.E.) Ex habit of 'cruising about'.—3. A highwayman's spy: c.: C.18—early 19.—4. 'A taxi-cab that cruises the streets in search of fares' (Leechman): Can. coll.: since ca. 1935; by 1960, S.E. Cf. the US cruiser, a squad, or prowl, car.

cruity. A recruit: RN and army: ca. 1850–1914 (perhaps later in RN: Manchon, 1923, records crutie). Robert Blatchford, My Life in the Army, 1910. Cf. rooky, which superseded it, also red arse, joskin and nig-nog, 1.

cruize. To slip into the kitchen in order to cadge, or remove, food: Sedgley Park School and St Wilfred's College: C.19. I.e. to cruise. Its C.20 derivative is gooze, which in the 1920s = 'to happen to get lost (in, say, the course of a general walk)'; and, in the 1930s, = 'to fail to report (to the Prefect of Discipline)'. Frank Roberts, in Cottonian, autumn 1938.

crumb. Savings, one's 'nest-egg': mid-C.17—early 18. Pepys, 29 Nov. 1663: 'I have got up my crumb again to £770, the most that ever I had yet.' (R.S.)—2. Plumppness: from ca. 1840. (Dickens.) Cf. crummy, 1.—3. A pretty woman: military: early C.19—early 20.—4. See crums; crumbs.

crumb act, put on the. 'To impose on another person' (B., 1959): Aus. low: C.20.

crumb and crust man. A baker: coll.; from ca. 1840.

crumb-hunting. Housework. See CANADIAN..., in Appendix.

crumbles. A set of mishaps causing one person to be blamed: nautical: late C.19–20. Bowen. crumblied. Grown-ups, esp. one's own, or one's friends', parents: youngsters': current in early 1970s. Either because the parents are crumbling with age, or because—less likely—there's a misapprehension of grumblied. R.S., 1976, who drew attention to the term's occurrence in The Times, compares Fr. s. of the early 1950s: l'ézardé, cracked (of walls), hence the over-30s; croulant, crumbling, the over-50s; and ruiné for the over-70s.

crumbs. Small change: mostly teenagers': 1950s. Cf. bread, money.—2. See crums; pick up crumbs.

crummy, n. A caboose: Can. railroadmen's pej.:—1931. Cf. crummy, adj., 3 and 4.

crummy, adj. Plump; esp. (cf. bit of crumb, q.v.) of a pretty woman that is full-figured, large-bosomed: from early C.18, as is, 2, the c. sense, rich: both ex crumby (bread).—3. Lousy: from ca. 1840; perhaps orig. c., then Cockney (see H.), then low and military (certainly very common in WW1); then, ex the army, among tramps—see Jennings, Tramping with Tramps, 1932. Hence, the c. crummy doss, a lice-infested bed. ? ex a louse's vague resemblance to a small crumb. P.B.: or from its vague resemblance to a cow's head with in-turned horns, dial. crummie (EDD): cf. crab-louse, with its appearance of having in-turned claws.—4. Hence, dirty, untidy: nautical: mid-C.19–20. (Bowen.) Cf. chatty, lousy.—5. Hence, inferior; dull, as in crummy joint, a dull disco: since ca. 1946.

crummy, the, n. Body-fat: sporting: ca. 1818–40. Tom Moore, Tom Crib's Memorial, 1819, 'To train down the crummy.' Ex sense 1 of the adj.

crummy! A C.20 low var. of criminy (crikey)! Cf. crums, 2.

crump, n. In late C.17—early 19 c., one who helps litigants to false witnesses. (B.E.) Cf. crimp and crimping fellow, qq.v.—2. A hard hit or fall: Winchester College, from ca. 1850. S.E. crump, to hit briskly, the SOD quoting 'We could slog to square-leg, or crump to the off,' 1892.—3. Hence, a 'coal-box', i.e. a 5-9 German shell or shell-burst; occ. of heavier guns: military: WW1. (B. & P.) Revived in WW2; cf. Crump Dump. Hence:— crump, v.t. To shell with heavy guns: military: 1915; ob. Ibid.—2. The v. quoted at crump, n., 2, is considered by F. & H. and the EDD to be s.

Crump Dump, the. The Ruhr: RAF: late 1940—early 1945. (New Statesman, 19 Sep. 1942, E.P., 'Air Warfare and its Slang'.) Ex the numerous bombs the RAF dumped there; and see crump, n., 3.

crump(-)hole. A bomb-caused crater: 1940, Berrey. Cf. prec.

crumper. A hard hit or blow: from ca. 1850: coll. Cf. crump, 1, q.v.—2. Whence, a great lie (cf. thumper): from ca. 1880: schoolboys'. Miss Braddon (OED).—3. A heavy crash, as in 'The Wimpey [Wellington bomber-aircraft] came a proper crumper' (Jackson): RAF: since ca. 1925. Ex sense 1.

crumpet. The head: late C.19–20; ob. by 1930 in UK (E.P.), but extant in Aus., later C.20 (McNeil). Cf. onion, turnip, and F. & H., s.v., for synonymy. Esp. barmy (or dotty) in the crumpet, crazy, mad: Manchon.—2. Woman as sex; women viewed collectively as instruments of sexual pleasure: low: from ca. 1880. (Gilt Kid, 1936.) Cf. battered bun, 1, 2, and crackling.—3. Hence, a term of endearment: lower classes': from late 1890s (OED Sup.); ob.—sense 2 was too strong.—4. A 'sofky' or a 'mug'; a dupe; a fool: Aus.: since ca. 1920. Lawson Glassop, 1944. A crumpet is soft.—5. A female undergraduate: Durham male undergraduates':—1940 (Marples, 2).—6. In get a crumpet, (of a man) to copulate in a specific instance: c.: C.20. (Gilt Kid, 1936.) Ex the n., 2.

crumpet-face. A face covered with small-pox marks: mid-C.19–20, ob.; coll. (H., 5th ed.) Cf. cribbage-face, q.v.

crumpet man. 'A womaniser' (Powis): low: current in 1970s, and prob. throughout C.20. Cf. crumpet, 2.

crumpet-scramble. A tea-party: from ca. 1860: coll. Derby Day, 1864, 'There are men who do not disdain muffin-worries and crumpet-scrambles.' Cf. fun-fight.

crumpler. A cravat: from ca. 1830; coll.—2. A heavy fall: circus and music-halls' and, in C.20, hunting: from ca. 1850, as in 'Guy Livingstone' Lawrence's Hagarene, 1874, and H.A. Vachell's Moonhills, 1934. Cf. crusher, 3, for semantics.

crums, occ. crumbles. (Extremely rare in singular.) Lice: low:—1923 (Manchon). App. a back-formation ex crummy, 3.—2. As an exclam., it is synon. with crummy!: mostly boys': C.20. Will Scott, in The Humorist, 7 Apr. 1934, 'Crumbs, mater, shove a sock in it! What tripe!'

crunch, the. The most severe—'the real'—test (of, e.g., strength, courage, nerve, skill, etc.): since ca. 1940. 'The crunch'll come when you have to go out and earn your living' (any irate father to teenage son); 'When it came to the crunch, his courage failed'; Bournemouth Evening Echo, 3 Apr. 1966. Of sporting origin, I think: prob. Rugby; perhaps boxing or all-in wrestling. 'It was a favourite word... of Sir Winston Churchill... In, e.g., his letter to President Roosevelt on Lend-Lease (8 Dec. 1940)' (R.S.). Always coll. rather than s. Hence as adj., in, e.g.:-

crunch-test. A test or examination which decides whether or not a student shall continue on a course of instruction: army: early 1970s. (P.B.)

crunchiness; crunchy. Fit(ness) for crunching or being crunched: coll.: from ca. 1890. OED Sup.

crupper. The human buttocks: joc. coll.: from late C.16. Ex a horse's rump. Hence ride below the crupper, q.v., to copulate with a woman.

crush. A large social gathering, esp. if crowded: from ca. 1830; coll. Whyte-Melville, 1854; H.D. Traill, in Tea Without Toast, 1890, 'And we settled that to give a crush at nine/Would be greatly more effectual, and far more intellectual,/Than at six o'clock to, greatly daring, dine.'—2. Hence (in the Army) a military unit: late C.19—early 20. Cf. crowd, mob, push.—3. Hence, a set, a group: coll.: from ca. 1919. E.g. Shakespeare—and That Crush, by Richard Dark and Thomas Derrick, 1931.—4. An infatuation; a strong liking or 'fancy' for a person: US (—1903), anglicised in mid-1920s. Sylva Clapin, Americanisms, 1903, 'In college slang, a liking for a person.' Prob. ex crushed on, q.v.—5. A narrow gateway in a mustering yard or paddock: Aus. rural coll.:—1938. Dal Stevens, The Courtship of Uncle Henry, 1946.

crush, v.t. with bottle, cup, pot, quart. Drink: late C.16—19; coll. Greene, 1592 (a pottle of ale); Shakespeare (a cup of wine); Scott (a quart). Cf. burst, crack.—2. To decamp, run away: c. (? > low s.): from ca. 1860. (H., 3rd ed.) Cf. amputate and esp. crush down sides, and crush the stir, qq.v. Perhaps cognate with crash.

crush (bet). A bet that ensures one against loss: Aus. sporting: C.20. B., 1942, 'Whence, "crusher" (agent), "crushing" (action).'

crush down sides. To run away, esp. to a place of safety; also, to keep a rendezvous: Northern c.: from ca. 1850. H., 3rd ed.

crush the stir. To break out of prison: late C.19—20 c. See (to) crush, 2, and stir.

crushed on. Infatuated with: Society: 1895; almost †. Suggested by mashed. (Ware.) Cf. crush, n., 4, and infatuation, of which this was perhaps the root.

crusher. A policeman: from ca. 1840. (Thackeray; Punch, 1842; Sala.) ? ex the size of his feet. ('He needs 'em big; he has to stand about for hours,' a friend, 1933.) Cf. flattie, flatty, q.v.—2. Any thing or person overwhelming or very large or handsome: coll.: from ca. 1840. Thackeray of a woman, 1849. Cf. whopper and crushing, qq.v.—3. A heavy fall: sporting coll.:—1887; ob. (Baumann.) Cf. crumpler, 2.—4. A ship's corporal: RN:—1901 (Goodenough). The Globe and Laurel (Royal Marines journal), Sep.—Oct. 1976, remarks, in article 'Customs... and Terms in the Royal Navy', of the ship's corporal that he was 'assumed like all policemen [cf. sense 1] to have had large feet... Despite his stealth he could be heard coming as he crushed cockroaches underfoot in the dark and these made a popping noise' (Lt Cdr Peter Whitlock).—5. By extension, and also therefore ultimately ex sense 1, a regulating petty officer (equivalent to a warrant officer in Military or Service Police): RN: since ca. 1920. H. & P.—6. A schoolmaster: Clifton College: C.20. (J. Judfield Willis.) crushing. First-rate; excellent; very attractive: coll.: from ca.

1855; ob. (H., 1st ed.) Cf. crusher, 2, q.v., and crashing bore.

Crusoe. The great French ironworks at Creuzot: workers in iron:—1909 (Ware). Punning Robinson Crusoe.

crust. The head: from ca. 1870. Occ. upper crust; cf. crumpet, 1, q.v. Hence. off (one's) crust, crazy, insane: later C.20 coll.—2. Impudence, 'cheek': since early 1920s; ob. (P.G. Wodehouse, 1924: OED Sup.) ? Ex face as hard as a crust. The term may have been adopted ex Can., where it was current from ca. 1910. (Leechman).—3. A vagrancy charge: Aus. c. (and police s.): since ca. 1935. B., 1953.

crust of bread. The head: rhyming s.: C.20. Usu. shortened to crust—but see also crust, 1. (Franklyn, Rhyming.) Cf. loaf of bread, 2.

crustle, -y. A crust: Cockneys': from ca. 1870. Pugh.

crustily. Peevishly, snappishly: coll.: C.18—20. Bailey's Dict.

crusty beau. Late C.17—early 19; coll.: 'One that lies with a Cover over his Face all Night, and uses Washes, Paint, etc.' (B.E); Grose.

crusty-gripes. A grumbler: low coll., mostly London: —1887; ob. (Baumann.) Cf. belly-acher.

Crutch. Nickname of the school carpenter: Winchester: from ca. 1870. B. & L.

crutch. An experienced skater supporting a learner: skating rinks': since ca. 1935.—2. 'Two matches, a split match used to completely smoke a marijuana (cannabis) cigarette' (Home Office): drug-users': current in 1970s.—3. A '7' at Tombola, as 'one little crutch' = 7, 'all the Crutches' = 77: C.20. (P.B.) Cf. Aus. hook, 7.—4. See stiff as a crutch; under the arm.

crutch and toothpick brigade, the. Foppish 'men about town': London society: ca. 1885—1905. Exc.—2. Hangers-on at stage doors, esp. at the Gaiety: London society: ca. 1884—5. 'They affected, as the badge of their tribe, a crutch-handled stick and a toothpick' (F. & H.). Cf.:-

crutch and toothpick parade, the. The old and dodderly (usu., male): coll.: C.20.

crutches are cheap! An ironic comment on strenuous physical effort, esp. in athletics: mid-C.19—20; ob. Cf. wooden legs are cheap! and go it, you cripples!

crutle. A recruit. Var. spelling of cruity, q.v.

cry. A crowd of people: pej. coll. >, by 1660, S.E.: late C.16—18. Shakespeare, in Coriolanus, 'You common cry of curs.' Ex hunting j. for a pack of hounds.—2. A fit of weeping: coll.: from ca. 1850.—3. See great cry...

cry, v.i. To weep: C.16—20; coll. >, by 1700, S.E.; except in dignified contexts, where it still is indubitably coll. and where weep is requisite.—2. In, e.g., let her cry, she'll piss the less: a semi-proverbial c.p.: late C.18—20; ob. Supposed to have orig. been addressed by consolatory sailors to their harlots. In Grose, 3rd ed., it occurs in the form the more you cry, the less you'll p-ss.

cry! A libidinous good wish at nightfall; an exclamation indicative of 'surprise of a satiric character': London lower classes':—1909. Ware: 'Shape of Carai—probably introduced by English gypsies passing from Spain'. Cf. caramba.—2. An abbr. of crikey: low: mid-C.19—20. Ware.

cry a crack. To cry 'quits' to Aus.: C.20. (B., 1942.) Perhaps cf. crack up, to yield to strain.

cry (or call) a go. To desist; give in (with connotation: wisely and humorously): coll.:—1880; largely superseded, since 1920s, by call it a day, which has influenced the occ. call it a go. Ex cribbage, where cry a go = pass in bridge.

cry (a) rope. To cry a warning: late C.16—17: coll. Shakespeare, 'Winchester Goose, I cry a rope! a rope!'; Butler, 1663, 'When they cry rope'. ?Ex hanging rope.

cry all the way to the bank, e.g. 'I'll cry...' or 'He cried...' A c.p., adopted in late 1950s ex US and used by, or of, someone whose work is adversely criticised on literary or artistic or musical grounds, but who makes a lot of money by it. The phrase soon > the more straightforward laugh all the way...

cry carrots and turnips. To be whipped at the cart's tail: c.: C.18.

cry cockles. To be hanged: low: late C.18—mid-19. (Grose, 2nd ed.) Ex the gurgling of strangulation.

cry cupboard. To be hungry: coll.; from ca. 1660. Swift in Polite Conversation, "Footman. Madam, dinner's upon the table. Coll[onel]. Faith, I'm glad of it; my belly began to cry cupboard.' See also guts cry cupboard.

cry (one's) eyes out. To weep long and bitterly: coll.; from ca. 1705. Swift, 'I can't help it, if I would cry my Eyes out.' cry mapsticks! I cry you mercy! (see next): lower class c.p.: late C.17—mid-18. App. a perversion, joc. not illit., of cry mercy and mopsticks. (Swift: OED.) Cf. cry Uncle.

cry (one) mercy. To cry mercy; beg a person's pardon: coll. when I is omitted: late C.16—18. Shakespeare, 'Oh, cry you mercy, sir, I have mistook.'

cry off. To back out of an engagement or project: from ca. 1700: coll. > S.E. by 1800.

cry over spilt milk. To indulge vain regrets: 1836, Haliburton; 1860, Trollope; 1900, Dowling: coll. >, ca. 1900, S.E. In mid-C.19, spilt water offered a feeble rivalry. OED.

cry pork. See pork, 3.

cry rope. See cry a rope.

cry (occ. say) Uncle. To admit defeat; cry for mercy: Can.: from ca. 1925. (Leechman.)

cry whore. To impute a fault, ascribe blame: coll.: ca.1660—1800. Apperson.

crying in a cemetery!, for; crying out loud!, for. Exclams. of (usu.) disgust. See for crying...

crypto. A 'secret' Communist; a sympathiser with Communism: Parliamentary: 1945+. (Tom Driberg in Reynolds, 10 Mar. 1946.) Gr. kryptos, hidden. Hence also as a prefix, in such formations as crypto-pinko, a hitherto unsuspected and unlikely supporter of mild socialism.

Crystal Palace, HMS. The Royal Naval Division dépôt at the Crystal Palace: RN: WW1.—2. Crystal Palace Army, the. The RND: id.: Likewise in F. & G.—3. C-P, the. The huge iron mine superstructure at Loos, [captured] on Sept. 25, 1915': military: 1915—18. Ibid.

cu, cue. A cucumber: Covent Garden coll.: C.20. (Daily Telegraph, 7 June 1935.) Pl: cues.—2. Cumulus cloud(s): RAF (orig. meteorological) coll.: since ca. 1925. (H. & P.) Also, via RAF Met. Officers on Divisional, Corps, and Army H.Q. Staffs, among Army officers since at least as early as 1940. Ex the official abbr.

cuB. An awkward, uncouth, uncultured or unpoised youth: from ca. 1600; prob. coll. at first; soon S.E.—2. In late C.17—early 19 c., a tyro gamester. B.E.—3. At St Thomas's Hospital, ca. 1690—1740, a surgeon's assistant; a coll. soon > official j. OED.

cubby, short for cubbyhouse. A child's playhouse in the backyard: Aus. coll.: since ca. 1925. (B.P.)

cube. A cubicle: certain Public Schools', e.g., Charterhouse: C.20. See also cubic, 1.—2. A complete conformist, 'the squarest of the square': 1960s. (Correspondence columns of Sunday Times, 8 Sep. 1963.) Ex square, n., 7.

cube of threeel, the. An Oxford toast of 1705—6. Thomas Hearne, in his Reliquiae, 'The great health now is ... 27 ... the number of the protesting lords'. In ref. to a political incident of the day.

cubic. A cubicle: Public Schools', e.g. Tonbridge: C.20. See also cube, 1, and cf. tish. (P.B.)—2. (Usu. in pl.) 'People living or sleeping in cubicles in homes [for the aged et al.] or doss-houses' (Petch, 1969): since ca. 1920.

cubic. A Cubist painting: art coll.: from ca. 1921. See quot'n at Prime, the.

cubic type. A non-existent typeface that green apprentices are sent to find: printers': late C.19—20. Cf. the crooked straight-edge, round square, etc.

Cubit, the; punishment by the cubit. The treadmill: low: —1823; † by 1890. Bee, 'Cubit being the inventor's name.' Cf. Cubitopolis.

Cubitopolis. The Warwick and Eccleston Square districts of London (S.W.1): ca. 1860—80. (H., 3rd ed.; Edmund Yates in Land at Last, 1866.) So named by Lady Morley after Cubitt the large-scale building contractor. Also called Mesopotamia.

cuckold the parson. To 'sleep' with one's wife before she is: coll.:—1791; † by 1890. Grose, 3rd ed.

cuckoldshire, cuckold's-row. Cuckoldom: facetious coll.; C.16—17. Likewise, in C.16—18, Cuckold's Haven or Point, a point on the Thames below Greenwich, was humorously used, with various verbs, to indicate cuckolding or being cuckolded. OED.

cuckoo. A fool: from late C.16: coll. Shakespeare in 2 Henry IV, 'O' horseback, ye cuckoo.' In C.19—20 gen. as the, or you, silly cuckoo.—2. A cuckold: late C.16—18; coll. > S.E. (Shakespeare.) Prob. ex the Fr. cocu, a cuckold.—3. The penis: schoolboys, C.19—20, ob. Perhaps a perversion of cock.—4. A person: 1924, Galsworthy; slightly ob. Prob. ex sense 1. Cf.—5. 'A torpedo-dropping aeroplane': RN: from ca. 1914. Bowen.—6. (Usu. in pl.) A German bomber: 1940, Berrey. 'In allusion to the cuckoo's habit of laying its eggs in another bird's nest'; but not very gen. and never used by the Services. Cf. sense 5.—7. See lousy as a cuckoo; cuckoos.

cuckoo, v. See cuckoo'd.

cuckoo, adj. Mad, senseless, distraught: US, anglicised in early 1920s. Ex cuckoo, n., 1. Cf.:

cuckoo farm. A mental hospital: later C.20. 'The zealots who saw truth as indivisible ended up in ... the cuckoo farm' (D. Kavanagh, Duffy, 1980). Cf. prec., and synon. funny farm.

Cuckoo Line, the. The Eridge junction to Polegate section of the London (Victoria) to Eastbourne, Southern Region line: railwaymen's: C.20; the line closed in the 1960s. The halfway station was Heathfield, where every year, on 14 April, 'the old woman lets the cuckoo out of her basket' at 'Hefful Cuckoo Fair'. (P.B.)

cuckoo'd be or gen., get (all). To be or become very lousy: army: 1916. (B. & P.). Ex lousy as a cuckoo, badly louse-infested.

cuckoos. Money: C.17. ?c. Perhaps because the cuckoo sings and money talks.

cuckoo's nest. The puendum muliebree: C.19—20.

cucumber. A tailor: late C.17—early 19. (B.E., Grose.) Cf.: cucumber-time. The dull season: mid-July to mid-Sep.: tailors': late C.17—20; ob. B.E.: 'Taylors Holiday, when they have leave to Play, and Cucumbers are in season.' Cf. the Ger. die saure Gurken Zeit, pickled-gherkin time, and the saying tailors are vegetarians, which arises from their living now on cucumber and now on 'cabbage', q.v.

cuD. A chew of tobacco: until ca. 1870, S.E., now dial. and coll., quid being much more usual.

cuD, adj. Attractive, cosy; comfortable: Winchester College: 1st half C.19. Wykehamistically derived ex kudos.—2. Hence, pretty: Ibid: mid-C.19—20. (R.G. K. Wrench.)—3. At Christ's Hospital (School), mid-C.19—20: severe. (Baumann.) Prob. ex cuddy, adj., q.v.

cuddie. A var. of cuddy, q.v. Egan's Grose.

cuddle. n. A rendezvous of boy and girl: low London: since ca. 1920. (George Ingram, Cockney Cavalcade, 1935.) Ex the v.; cf.:

cuddle and kiss. A girl: Cockneys': C.20. (Len Ortzen, Down Donkey Row, 1938.) Rhyming on miss.

cuddle-cock. A policeman: early C.20; mostly, lower classes'. Cf. Cook's Own, q.v.

cuddle-pup. An over-dressed young officer: Waacs': 1915—18. (Anon., W.A.A.C., 1930.)

cuddle-seat. One of the double seats provided in some cinemas for courting (or amorous) couples: Aus. coll.: since ca. 1955. Perhaps ex the cuddleseat—a sling devised for baby-carrying. (B.P.)

cuddleable. Cuddlesome: coll.: from mid-1920s. OED Sup.

cuddling. Wrestling: esp. among devotees of wrestling and boxing: C.19—20, ob.

cuddy. A nickname for a donkey: coll.: from ca. 1710. ?ex Cuthbert.—2. A small, general-purpose horse: Aus.: late C.19—20. (B., 1943.) Ex sense 1.

cuddy, adj. (Of a lesson) difficult: Christ's Hospital (School), mid-C.19–20, ob. Perhaps ex cuddy, a stupid chap: cf. prec.—2. Hence cuddy-biscuit, a small hard biscuit.

cuddy-jig. The capers of a landsman endeavouring to keep his balance: nautical: mid-C.19–20. (Bowen.) Ex cuddy, n., 1.

cuddly-leg. A large herring: (mostly Scots) nautical: late C.19–20. Ibid.

cuds, cuds(h)o. In expletives, a corruption of God's: ca. 1590–1750: coll. OED.

cuds, in the. In the hills: RAF in NW India: since ca. 1925. (Jackson.) Ex Hindustani khud, a steep hill-side.

Cud's bobs! An early C.18 minced oath = God's Body! See EJACULATIONS, in Appendix, for others.

cue. A small quantity of bread; occ. of beer. As cee, q.v., from C, so cue from Q (q=quadrans= a farthing). A university s. term that > S.E.: late C.16–18. The SOD quotes a 1605 text: 'Hast thou worn Gowns in the university... ate cues, drunk cees?'—2. See cu, 1, a cucumber.

cue, v. To swindle on credit: c.: from ca. 1860.? ex Q. = query.

cue-bite, v.i. To speak too soon on one's cues: theatrical: —1935.

cue-despiser. An actor that, careless in observing his cues, endangers the performance: theatrical coll.: from ca. 1870. B. & L.

cue-struck. An actor cue-struck was one who, because 'stuck', inserted matter of his own: ca. 1860–1914. Michael Warwick, in the Stage, 3 Oct. 1968, numbered it among 'relics from the past'. Cf. prec.

cuero, in. 'Without the cloak, so as to show the shape of the body' (SOD). Ex the Spanish for body, this phrase was presumably gallants' j. of C.17: its unconventional use appears, C.18, in the sense: without any clothing, naked, as in Smollett (coll.).

cuff; often old cuff. A (foolish) old man: coll.; ca. 1610–1820. ?ex cuffin, mid-C.16–18 c. for a fellow, chap, itself prob. cognate with cofe=cove.—2. Perhaps hence, a religious or a religious-seeming man: tailors'; C.19—early 20.—3. In up the cuff of, in the good graces of: tailors': late C.19—early 20.—4. See off the cuff; on the cuff.

cuff Anthony. See Anthony.

cuff Jonas. See beat the booby.

cuff(-)shooter. A beginner: theatrical; from ca. 1870. Ex his display of linen.

cuff the logs. To be a riverman (river lumberman): Canadian coll.: C.20. John Beames.

cuffen. A C.16 variant of cuffin, q.v. at cuff.

cuffer. A lie; and exaggerated story: army: ca. 1870–1930. Ex cuffer, a fist; cf. all the other 'striking' terms for a lie, e.g., crasher, thumper, whopper, etc. Hence pitch the cuffer, to 'tell the tale', to 'come the old soldier'. 'I can pitch the cuffer in any old bat from Tamil to Arabic' (Punch, 30 Apr. 1919).—2. Hence, any story, a yarn: from mid-1880s (OED Sup.); ob. To spin cuffers is to tell tall stories.

cuffin. Fellow, chap. See cuff, 1. A C.17 var. was cuffing.

cuffin-quire. C.17 var. of queer cuffin, q.v., a magistrate.

cuffuffle. Any sort of disturbance. Var. of gefuffle or kerfuffle, q.v.

cui bono? Properly, to whose advantage?; wrongly, to what purpose?: mid-C.19–20. W., 'attributed by Cicero to Lucius Cassius'.

cuirass. Same as cure-arse, q.v.: late C.18. Grose, to the B.M. 1st ed. copy, has added the term with the note, 'Quasi cure-a-se', but contrary to his gen. practice with these MS. addenda, he did not include it in the 2nd ed.

cuke. A cucumber: domestic coll.: C.20. Leechman notes its use among Can. greengrocers since ca. 1910. Cf. cu, 1.

culch. Inferior meat: odds and ends of meat: low, mostly London: ca. 1815–80. (Sinks, 1848.) Ex S.E. and SW English dial. culch or culsh.

cule. Abbr. reticule: c.:—1859; ob. H., 1st ed., implies it in culling, q.v.

culling. See culling.

cull, cully. In C.17 c., a constable. A deviation from:—2. In C.17–18, c. for a fool, esp. a dupe; in C.19–20, though anticipated in C.17 as cully, low s. for a man, companion, mate, partner: in C.17–18, however, cull tended to mean any man, fool or otherwise, cully 'a fop, fool, or dupe to women' (Grose), as in Congreve's 'Man was by nature woman's cully made' (The Old Bachelor, 1693): cull dates from ca. 1660, cully from ca. 1664. For etym., see culls (cf. ballocks, a parson); but perhaps ex † S.E. cullion: less prob. ex the Continental gipsy radical for a man.—3. A friend; a work companion: mid-C.19–20. (Lester, 1937.) With all senses, cf. rum cull, q.v.—4. In bob or curst cull, resp. 'A sweet-humour'd Man to a Whore, and who is very Complaisant... An ill'natur'd Fellow, a Churl to a Woman' (B.E.): c.: late C.17—early 19.

culling, or culing. Stealing from carriage seats: c. or low; from the mid-1830s. (Brandon; H., 1st ed.) Ex reticule.

culls. Testicles: low coll., C.16–17. (Ben Jonson.) Abbr. cullions, the same. Ex Fr. couillons, testicles.

cully. See cull. In late C.19–20, often as a Cockney, also as a low, term of address to a man; also 2, a 'pal': military: C.20. (B.&P.) see cheer up, cully...

cully, v. To dupe; to cheat or swindle: c. of ca. 1670–1800. (Thomas Dangerfield, Dom Tomazo, 1680; B.E., 1690.) Ex the n.

cully-gorger. A theatre-manager (cf. rum cull) a fellow actor: from ca. 1860: theatrical; † by 1930. (H., 3rd ed.) Ex cully (see cull, cully) + gorger, a 'swell'.

cully-shangy. Sexual intercourse: low: C.19. Ex a Scot. and N. Country dial. word, the best known version of which was perhaps collie-shangle, meaning a quarrel or disturbance, popularised by Queen Victoria. (E.P.: P.B.) culminate. To climb a coach-box: ca. 1780–1870. Cambridge University.

culp. 'A kick, or blow; also a bit of any thing' (B.E.): late C.17—early 19 low coll. (later dial.). R.S., 1971, suggests ex L. colaphus, a blow, a box on the ear, which > It. colpo and Fr. coup.

culture vulture. A person avid for culture; esp., one who haunts exhibitions and lectures: adopted, in late 1950s, ex US. Of the same sort of American rhyming s. as eager beaver or legal eagle.

culty-gun. The membrum virile: low: C.19. Ex L. cultellus, a knife.

culver-headed. Feebly foolish: coll. ex dial.: C.19. (H., 3rd ed.) A culver is a dove, a pigeon, whence 'pigeon', an easy gull for the 'rook'.

cum used facetiously for 'with' or 'plus' is coll.: from ca. 1860.

cum-annexis. One's belongings, esp. one's wife and children: W. Indies, from ca. 1850; ob. Ex an official land-transfer locution affected at Demerara.

cum-div. Abbr. cum dividend: Stock Exchange s. > j.; from ca. 1875. (Of a purchaser of stocks or shares getting the benefit of the dividend.)

cum grano. A coll. abbr. of cum grano salis (with a grain of salt): from ca. 1850.

cummer, kimmer. A female intimate, acquaintance, or 'fellow' or 'chap'. Orig. and still good Scots, these words have, in late C.19–20, occ. been familiarly used by Sassenachs in these senses and thus > coll. (H., 5th ed.) Ex Fr. commère.

cummifo. 'Comme il faut': lower-class coll. Ware cites the Referee, 28 Apr. 1889.

cumshaw (early kumshu). A present; a bribe: S. China coast pidgin: since early C.19. (John McLeod, Voyage of His Majesty's Ship, Alceste, 1818: Moe.) The word is still very much alive in Hong Kong, in the sense of a monetary gift or a tip. Prob. ex Chinese for 'grateful thanks', in one of the southern dialects; but there have also been suggestions—in, e.g., the correspondence columns of Hong Kong papers—that it derives, via Chinese corruption, from Arabic. The Arabs had established trading stations on the coast in C.13.

(P.B.)—2. Hence, unexpected or additional money: nautical: mid-C.19–20. Bowen.

cund. To say or determine which way (a shoal of fish) is going: nautical coll. verging on j.: mid-C.19–20. (Smyth; Bowen.) Ex cund (gen. cond), to direct (a ship).

cundum. 'A false scabbard over a sword' (Grose, 2nd ed.): army s.: late C.18–early 19. Ex cundum (in C.20, condom), a contraceptive or protective rubber sheath.—2. Hence also, 'The oil-skin case for holding the colours of a regiment' (Ibid.): id.

cundy. A small stone: Aus.: late C.19–20. (B., 1943.) Ex E. dial. cundy, a conduit, e.g. a small conduit made of stone-work.

Cunnamulla cartwheel. 'A big, broad-rimmed hat' (B., 1942): Aus., mostly Queensland and NSW: ca. 1920–50. Cunnamulla is an out-west Queensland town.

cunnel. A potato: Shelta: C.18–20. B. & L.

cunning. Quaintly interesting, pretty, attractive: orig. (—1854) US; anglicised ca. 1880, but never very gen. (OED.) Cf. clever, q.v.

cunning as a dead pig. Stupid: coll.: ca. 1705–50. Swift. (Apperson.)

cunning as a Maori dog, as. Very cunning indeed: NZ: since ca. 1925. (Slatter.)

cunning as a shit-house rat, as. Aus. var. of prec., heard by Jack Slater, 1957. Sense is pej., tinged with reluctant admiration. Ob. by 1980s.

cunning as a (whole) wagon-load of monkeys, as. Very cunning, with a considerable admixture of mischievousness to go with it: coll., mostly domestic: C.20. (P.B.)

cunning man. 'A cheat, who pretends by his skill in astrology, to assist persons in recovering stolen goods' (Grose, 1788): c.: since mid-C.17 (earlier); † by 1850. Moe cites its use in Abraham Bailey, The Spightful Sister (III, i), 1667.

cunning shaver. A sharp fellow, orig. illicitly: mid-C.17–20, ob.; coll. (B.E.) See shaver.

Cunningberry (or -bury). A var. (ca. 1820–50), recorded by 'Jon Bee', ofcunny. The puendum muliebtre: low coll.; C.17–20. Influenced by L. cunus, it is actually an † form of cony, a rabbit. Cf. pussy.—2. As the cunny, it = the countryside: Merseyside: C.20. Ex country; cf. cosie from costume, etc.

Cunningham; often Mr Cunningham. Ironic coll. for a simple fellow: mid-C.18–early 19. Grose, resp. 2nd and 1st ed.

cunny-catching. Var. of cony-catching, q.v., trickery.

cunny-haunted. Lecherous, sex-obsessed: low coll.: C.18–early 20. Ex cunny, 1. Cf. cunt-struck.

cunny-hunter. A whoremonger: C.17–early 19: low. Punning cunny = con(e)y.

cunny-thumbed. Given to closing his fist, as a woman does, with the thumb turned inwards under the first three fingers: low coll.; late C.18–20. (Grose, 1st ed.) Ex cunny, q.v.—2. C.19–20 schoolboys': given to shooting a marble as a girl does.

cunny-warren. A brothel: low:—1785; † by 1930. Grose, 1st ed.

cunt. The female pudend. In one form or another, it dates from M.E.; it is certainly cognate with O.E. cwithe, 'the womb' (with a Gothic parallel); cf. mod. English come, ex O.E. cweman. The -nt, which is difficult to explain, was already present in O.E. kunte. The radical would seem to be cu (in O.E. cwe), which app. = quintessential physical femininity (cf. sense 2 of cunt) and partly explains why, in India, the cow is a sacred animal. Owing to its powerful sexuality, the term has, since C.15, been avoided in written and in polite spoken English: though a language word, neither coll., dial., c., nor s., its associations make it perhaps the most notable of all vulgarisms (technical sense, bien entendu), and since ca. 1700 it has, except in the reprinting of old classics, been held to be obscene, i.e. a legal offence, to print it in full; Rochester spelt it en toutes lettres, but Cotgrave, defining Fr. con, went no further than 'A woman's. & c.', and the dramatist Fletcher, who was no prude, went no further than 'They write sut with a C, which is abominable', in The Spanish Curate. Had the late Sir James Murray courageously included the word, and spelt it in full, in the great OED, the situation would be different; as it is, neither the Universal Dict. of English (1932) nor the SOD (1933) had the courage to include it. (Yet the OED gave prick: why this further injustice to women?) P.B.: E.P. wrote this note, apart from the etym. (ending with 'sacred animal'), which is a later amendment, in the late 1930s. I leave it for its historical value, and add only that the SOD I am using, the 1973 ed., revised and corrected to 1977, does include a brief and decent definition.—2. (Cf. Romany mindj or minsh, the pudend; a woman.) In C.19–20 it also means woman as sex, intercourse with a woman, hence sexual intercourse. (It is somewhat less international than fuck, q.v.) See esp. Minshew; the Introduction to B. & P.; Grose, P.; Lady Chatterley's Lover; A.W. Read, Lexical Evidence, 1935.—3. Anybody one dislikes: late C.19–20. An objectionable fellow or an awkward thing: since ca. 1918. Perhaps influenced by silly cunt, q.v. As a correspondent notes in 1963: 'Cunt tends to mean "knave" rather than "fool". Prick tends to mean "fool" rather than "knave".' Cf.: cunt and a half, he's a. A c.p. applied to an extremely objectionable youth or man: since the late 1950s. Cf. cunt, 3. cunt cap. A forage cap, a 'fore-and-aft', q.v.: army: since ca. 1915. P.B.: the Chinese army refer to the same article as a 'cow's-cunt-cap'. See old hat, and cf. cunt hat.

cunt face is a low term of address to an ugly person: late C.19–20. More insulting than the synon. shit face.

cunt hat. A trilby, or other felt hat: low:—1923 (Manchon). There is a double pun: see old hat and note 'felt'. Cf. chooch hat.

cunt hooks. Fingers: low: C.20. 'Keep your cunt hooks off my belongings!—2. An occ. name for the insulting gesture that consists of jerking up the first two fingers, the back of the hand towards the person insulted: low: C.20.—3. A low form of address: Services': mid-C.20.

cunt-itch and -stand. Active physical desire in women: vulgarism: resp. C.18–20, C.19–20.

cunt-pensioner. A male-keep; also, the man living on a woman's harlotry or concubinage: low coll. or perhaps rather a vulg.: C.19–20; slightly ob. Often, in C.20, euphemistically abbr. to c.p.

cunt screen. 'A strip of canvas stretched between the open rungs of the accommodation ladder up which lady guests would ascend above the heads of the boat's crew bringing them' (Cdr C. Parsons, RN, ret., 1977): RN: C.20. Cf. virginity screen.

cunt-stand. See cunt-itch.

cunt-struck. Enamoured of women: C.18–20: either a vulg. (more correctly, I think) or a low coll. Esp. of a man, mostly young, 'obsessed with the dimorphism of physical love' (L.A., 1976.) Cf. cock-smitten, q.v.

cunting. Adj., expressive of disgust, reprobation, violence: late C.19–20. As L.A. points out, 1977, 'To hell with the cunting thing!' connotes exasperation, anger, aversion, condemnation. It is gen. felt to be stronger and more expressive than the long since threadbare fucking, with which it is apparently synon. (P.B.)

Cunts in Velvet. The City Imperial Volunteers, the volunteer soldiers who went to fight in S. Africa, 1899–1902: low and military pun. Sunday Times, Johannesburg, 23 May 1937.

—2. The Criminal Investigation Department: army:—1914. cup. Short for cup of tea, 2: since the late 1930s. Angus Wilson, Hemlock and After, 1952, 'Anyway, none of it would be your cup, darling.' P.B., 1979: the full phrase is still by far the more common.—2. As the Cup, Football Association League trophy; esp. in describing provincial teams' supporters flocking to Wembley to watch the final: they are 'up for the cup': sporting, then gen., coll.: C.20 (P.B.)—2. The cup and can. Constant associates: ca. 1540–1830; coll. >, by 1600, S.E. Gen. as merry as cup and can, or be cup and can. Ex the cup's being filled and replenished from a can. Apperson.

Melbourne Cup (meeting or race): Aus. coll.: late C.19–20. B., 1942.—3. In such cup such cover; or such a cup such a cruse, 'Implying similarity between two persons related in some way' (OED): coll.: both ca. 1540–1700.

cup-and-saucer player. A player in a comedy by T.W. Robertson (d. 1871), a pioneer of 'slick' yet natural and workmanlike society-drama: theatrical, ca. 1866–90.

cup and wad. Tea and a bun in canteen, YMCA or Church Army hut: Services': WW1. (F. & G.) The WW2 equivalent was often char and wads; see char, n., 2.

cup even between two parties, carry (one's). To favour neither of them: coll., C.17–early 19. B.E.

cup man, cup-man. A toper: coll. > S.E.; ca. 1830–1900. cup of comfort or of the creature. Strong liquor: late C.17–20; ob. (B.E.) See also creature.

cup o(f) tea. A consolation: proletarian, gen. ironic: C.20; slightly ob. Ware, 'Probably suggested by a cup of tea being "so very refreshing".'—2. (One's) cup of tea = what truly suits one; even one's ideal, one's mate: coll.: since ca. 1910. Since ca. 1940 perhaps just as often, if not more commonly, in the negative, as a polite rejection of someone else's proposal, demand, plea for help, etc., as 'I'm afraid that's not really my cup of tea', or 'Not quite everybody's cup of tea, do you think?' It has proved stronger than the synon. ticket, q.v. (E.P.; L.A.)—3. Ironically to a person (slightly) in the wrong—'Cockneys', from ca. 1920—as in 'You're a nice of' cup o' tea, now ain't yer?' To which Valerie G. Myer added, 1977: 'I think it must occur much earlier, as the Cockney song "The Four-Horse Charrybang", sung by John Foreman—"the broadsheet king"—uses it... The singer approaches an old lady who offers him a "drop of her home-made ginger-pep..." She says, "It's just the peppermint that makes it taste so strong";/I says, "You're a nice old cuppa tea." She says, "Oh, go along!"' cup-shot. Topsy: late C.16–early 19; coll. >, by 1660, S.E. Fuller in The Holy War, 'Quickly they were stabbed with the sword that were cup-shot before.' Cf. shot, adj.

cup too low, a. Applied to one who, in company, is silent or pensive: late C.17–18; coll. (B.E.) The phrase is extant in dial. cup too much, have got or had a. To be drunk: mid-C.17–19; coll. (Ray, 1678: Apperson.) Cf. prec.

cup-tosser. A juggler: C.19; coll. Brewer suggests ex Fr. joueur de gobelets.—2. Whence, 'a person who professes to tell fortunes by examining the grounds in tea or coffee cups' (H., 3rd ed.): later C.19.

Cupar justice. Hanging first and trying afterwards: C.18–mid-19; Scots coll. >, by 1810 or so, S.E. In 1706, A. Shields refers to 'Couper Justice and Jedburgh Law' (see Jedburgh law). Cf. Lydford law, and lynching.

cupboard, n. As the c-, the sea: nautical: late C.19–20. (Bowen.) Ex Davy Jones's locker. P.B.: but cf. also the descriptions of the sea as the biggest ashtray or gash-bucket in the world.—2. See come out of the cupboard; guts cry cupboard.

cupboard, adj. (Of the prospects of a house) no good, close-fisted: tramps' and Romanies' s.: C.20. (Robert M. Dawson.) The inmates keep the food there.

cupboard love. Interested affection: C.18–20; coll.; S.E. after ca. 1820. 'A cupboard love is seldom true.' Hence cupboard lover, C.19–20, rare.

cupboardy. 'Close and stuffy': Cockneys' coll.: late C.19–20. Ware.

Cupid. A harlot's bully-lover: C.19–early 20; low.—2. With var. blind Cupid, 'a jeering name for an ugly blind man' (Grose, 1st ed.): mid-C.18–early 19 coll.

Cupid's Arms or Hotel. The female pudend. See hotel.

Cupid's whiskers. Sweets with mottoes on them: coll.: late C.19–20. Collinson.

cuppa. A cup of tea; esp., a nice cuppa: perhaps orig. Aus., but Brit. also, of C.20; by 1940, coll. By abbr., and ex the Anglo-Saxon addition to 'nice cups of tea'. For spelling, cf. the quot'n at cup of tea, 3.

Cupper. One of the inter-collegiate matches played for a cup: Oxford undergraduates, C.20; Cambridge since ca. 1920. The competition is the Cuppers. By the 'OXFORD-ER(S)'. cups, in (one's). While drinking (rare in C.20); intoxicated. From ca. 1580: coll. (as in Nashe and Shadwell) until ca. 1720, then S.E.

cur. See turn cur.

cur-fish. Small dog-fish: nautical: late C.19–20. Bowen.

curate. Late C.19–20 coll.: 'A small poker, or tickler (q.v.), used to save a better one; also a handkerchief in actual use as against one worn for show. The better article is called a rector. Similarly when a tea-cake is split and buttered, the bottom half, which gets the more butter, is called the rector, and the other, the curate' (F. & H.).—2. A bar-tender: Anglo-Irish: late C.19–20. (James Joyce, Dubliners, 1914.) Ironic.—3. A grocer's assistant: Anglo-Irish: late C.19–20. P.W. Joyce, English... in Ireland, 1910.

curate's delight. A tiered cake-stand: from ca. 1890. Michael Harrison, Weep for Lycidas, 1934.

curate's egg, a or the. See good in parts.

curb, n. A thief's hook: c.: late C.16–18. Greene; Grose. curb, v. To steal, esp. with a hook; gen. v.i.: late C.16–early 18 c. Greene.—2. In C.19 c., to strike.

curber. A thief that uses a hook: late C.16–18 c. Rowlands.

curbing. An abbr. of the following term. Greene.

curbing law. The practice of illegally hooking goods out of windows: late C.16–18 c.

curbstone. See kerbstone.

curby hocks. Clumsy feet: rather low: ca. 1850–1910. See hocks.

curdler. A blood-curdling story or play; a writer thereof: coll.—1887; ob. (Baumann.) Cf. thriller.

curdles (one's) milk, it. A c.p. directed at one who sours the milk of human kindness: since ca. 1925. (L.A.) cure. An eccentric, an odd person (1856); hence, a very amusing one (—1874). First printed in Punch, though 'he' has 'no mission to repeat/The Slang he hears along the street'. Perhaps abbr. curiosity or, more prob., curious fellow; popularised by an 1862 music-hall song. (OED). Cf. cough-drop.—2. A Can. term of (?) ca. 1840–1900. Harry Guillod's Journal of a trip to Cariboo, 1862, in the British Columbia Historical Quarterly, July–Oct. 1965: 'It was good fun bathing here; the mosquitoes attacked us as soon as we undressed, and we had to bolt into the water, and when out again, to put our things on in no time, dancing "The Cure" without any exertion' (supplied by Dr Douglas Leechman).

cure-arse. A late C.18–19 low coll.: 'a dyachilon plaster, applied to the parts galled by riding' (Grose, 3rd ed.). Cf. curass, q.v.

curio. Abbr. curiosity: from ca. 1850 (at first among travellers); coll. till ca. 1880, then S.E. curiosity. An odd person: ca. 1840–70; coll. Displaced by cure, q.v.

curiosity, (one's) old. One's wife: mostly lower-middle class: late C.19–earlier 20. As in 'my of' curiosity at 'ome' (Frederick Manning, Her Privates We, 1930). Cf. prec.—with perhaps a hint that she pries into things.

curious, do. To act strangely: low coll.: mid-C.19–20; ob. curiouser and curiouser. Ever more strange: coll.: late C.19–20. Adopted ex Lewis Carroll.

curl. See curl.—2. (Gen pl.) A human tooth 'obtained by the body-snatchers': c.:—1823 ('Jon Bee'); † by 1860.—3. An Aus. term of address: 1960s. Short for Curly—though not necessarily addressed to a bald man, or perhaps same as kurl, q.v. (P.B.)—4. See make (one's) hair curl.

curl-a-mo; curl the mo. Excellent; to do very well. See kurl. curl (one's) hair. To chastise; scold, vituperate: coll.: C.19–early 20. See also make (one's) hair curl.

curl paper. Toilet paper: either coll. or euph.: C.19—early 20.

curl up. To fall silent, 'shut up': from ca. 1860; ob.—2. (Sporting.) To collapse: coll.: from ca. 1890.

curle. Clippings of money: late C.17—18 c. (B.E.) Semantic.

curled darlings. Military officers: Society: 1856—ca. 1860. Ware, who, noting that 'the Crimean War... once more brought soldiers into fashion', refers to 'the waving of the long beard and sweeping moustache'.

curlier. A sweater of gold coins: Aus. c.: late C.19—20. (B., 1942.) See curle.

curls. Human teeth. See curl, 2.

Curly. 'Inevitable' nickname of men with curly hair: coll.: —1851 (Mayhew).—2. But, just as 'inevitably', used ironically for men almost entirely bald: since ca. 1910. Cf. Tiny, and Lofty, 2.

curly, n. A cane: Conway Training Ship: from ca. 1885. Masefield.—2. A story, an account: Cockneys': since ca. 1910. (Margery Allingham, Coroner's Pidgin, 1945.) Poss. some connection with chuck a curly, q.v. to 'swing the lead', malingering.

curly, adj. Difficult, as in 'That's a curly one'—a question hard to answer: (?mostly) Aus.: since ca. 1950. (Sydney Sunday Mirror, 27 Oct. 1963.) Perhaps ex googly bowling in cricket, or, less prob., ex 'throwing a curve' in baseball. Cf. get curly, C.19 tailors' coll. for 'to become troublesome'.—2. But in NZ, e.g. as 'That was extra curly' (Slatter), it seems to mean 'excellent' or 'attractive' and to date since ca. 1935.

curly-murly. A fantastic twist, esp. curl: ca. 1720—1830. Also adj.: mid-C.19—20: coll.

Curly Navy, the. The Royal Canadian Naval Reserve: Naval: since ca. 1939. H. & P., 'Variant of Wavy Navy'.

curp. (Properly kcirp.) Penis: London back s.; rather an in-group term than gen.: C.20. (Red Daniells; Robert Barltrop, 1981.)

currant bun. The sun: Cockneys': late C.19—20. (Len Ortzen, Down Donkey Row, 1938.) Rhyming.—2. On the currant bun, on the run from the police: since ca. 1920: rhyming s.—orig. underworld >, by ca. 1945, also police s. Often shortened to on the currant. John Gosling, The Ghost Squad, 1959.—3. A son: rhyming s.: not recorded before 1962. Haden-Guest.—4. As C-B-, also applied, by Londoners, to the Sun newspaper. See Captain Grimes.

currant-cakey. Shaky: rhyming s.: C.20. P.P., Rhyming Slang, 1932.

currants and plums. A threepenny piece: rhyming s. (—1859) on thrums, q.v. H., 1st ed.

currency. N. and, occ., adj. of a person born in Aus., one of English birth being sterling: Aus.: from ca. 1825; † by 1914. P. Cunningham, 1827; Charles Reade in 'It is Never Too Late to Mend'. Morris.

current. In good health, esp. as in 'He is not current': Anglo-Irish, see Cork: late C.19—20. P.W. Joyce, 1910.

Curry, the. 'Cloncurry, generally called "The Curry", is the western Queensland base of the incomparable Flying Doctor Service' (Jock Marshall & Russell Drysdale, Journey among Men, 1962, p. 21): Aus.: C.20.—2. In give (one) curry, to reprimand; reprove vigorously; vituperate: Aus.: C.20. B., 1942.

Curry-and-Rice Navy. The Royal Indian Marine: RN, late C.19—mid-20; ca. 1930—47, the Royal Indian Navy.

curry (someone's) hide. To beat, thrash that person: coll.: C.18—early 19. Ex S.E. curry in this sense.

curse, n. One's swag or 'bluey': Aus. swagmen's: C.20. (Ion Idriess, 1934.) Hence hump or carry the curse, to go on the tramp. B., 1959.—2. As the curse, the menses: fem. euph., or in the curse is upon me, a joc. coll. intimation, formal and deliberately archaic: C.20. A shortening of the earlier the curse of Eve.—3. In not to care or be worth a curse, i.e. extremely little: from M.E. onwards; coll. SOD supports curse=cess (A.S. cerse) but notes that damn in this sense is very early. Prob. cess > curse under the influence of damn; nevertheless, see dam. Langland has 'Wisdom and witt now is worth not a kerse.' Whereas not worth a rush or a straw have > S.E., not worth a curse has remained coll. because of its apparent meaning. Also tinker's curse, or, more usu., cuss. See not care a... and not worth a...—4. See work is the curse...

curse flashes. To swear vigorously: army coll.: C.20. (Frank Richards, Old Soldiers Never Die, 1933.) I.e. to spark with anger.

curse of Eve, the. The menses: domestic coll.: C.19—20. C.S. Forester, Brown on Revolution, 1929.

curse of God. A cockade: coll.: early C.19. P.B.: presumably, ex the French Revolution.

Curse of Jesus. The Clipper ship Chersonese: late C.19—20. By Hobson-Jobson. Bowen, 'Always very hard on her crew'.

curse of Scotland. The mine of diamonds: from 1710. Coll. > S.E. in C.19. Orig. problematic. (Grose, 1st ed.) The various theories are as interesting as they are unconvincing: see H., 5th ed., and W.

curse rag. A sanitary towel: Wrens': 1939+. See curse, 2.

curse with (something), (I) wish I was. A Cockney formula, virtually a c.p. = I wish I were blessed with, I wish I had it: C.20.

cursetor, cursitor. A vagabond: from ca. 1560; coll.—2. In mid-C.18—early 19 c., 'broken pettyfogging attornies, or Newgate solicitors' (Grose, 1st ed.). Ex L. currere, to run. Cf. the S.E. curtail, curtal. A thief that cuts off pieces from unguarded cloth, etc., or from women's dresses; C.18 c. Also, a thief wearing a short jacket; C.16—17 c.

curtain, cop the. See cop the curtain and take a curtain.

curtain-lecture. A reproof, or lengthy advice, given in bed by a wife to her husband: from ca. 1630; orig. coll.; by 1730, S.E. The occ. curtain-sermon was † by 1900. Apperson.

curtain-raiser. A one-act play to 'play in the house': orig. (—1886) theatrical s.; by 1900, coll.; by 1920, S.E. Ex Fr. lever de rideau.

curtain-taker. 'An actor even more eager than his brethren to appear before the curtain after its fall': theatrical: 1882. Ware.

curtains. 'A [soldiers', esp. officers'] name given to one of the first modes of wearing the hair low on the military forehead (1870). The locks were divided in the centre, and the front hair was brought down in two loops, each rounding away towards the temple. The hair was glossed and flattened' (Ware): ca. 1870—85.—2. 'Paint running down surface and setting in drape-like pattern' (master builder, 1953); builders' and house-painters': C.20.—3. Mostly in 'It's curtains for him', implying death or dismissal or 'the end': adopted, ca. 1944, from US servicemen. Of theatrical origin.

curtal. A species of vagabond and thief: mid-C.16—18 c. Ex his short coat. See curtail.

-cus, like -ibus and -orum, is a favourite suffix in mock-Latin words, which (e.g. circumbendibus) tend to have a (frequently joc.) coll. flavour. For this by-way, see esp. H. W. Fowler's stimulating, masterly, and remarkable Dict. of Modern English Usage, s.v. 'Spurious Latin'.

cuse. Weekly order; (a book containing) the record of marks in each division: Winchester College: C.19—20, ob. Ex classicus paper, the master's term.

cush, n. The cushion of a billiard table: players' coll.: C.20.—2. Something easy to do or to endure: Army: since ca. 1918. (Gerald Kersh, They Die with Their Boots Clean, 1941.) Ex cushy.—3. Female genitalia: among servicemen with Near East experience: C.20. Ex Arabic. P.B.: in later C.20 remembered chiefly in the 'soldiers' Arabic' phrase shufti cush, let's see, or show, the cush. Cf. zubrick.

cush, v.; cusher. C.20 variants of cosh and cosher, qq.v.

cush, adj. Fair: honest, honourable: Aus.: since ca. 1920. (B., 1942.) Cf. coosh, q.v.

cushion, n. See beside the cushion; deserve a cushion; miss the cushion.

cushion, v. To hide, conceal: c.: mid-C.19—20, ob. H., 3rd ed. Ex S.E. sense, to suppress.

cushion-cuffer, -duster, -smiter, and -thumper. A clergyman, esp. a violent preacher: coll.: the first, ca. 1680–1750; the second, ca. 1720–1820; the third, from ca. 1840 but ob.; the fourth, ca. 1640–1900. Thackeray, 1843. 'For what a number of such loud nothings... will many a cushion-thumper have to answer.'

cushmawaunee! Never mind: among soldiers and sailors with Indian experience: mid-C.19–early 20. H., 3rd ed.

cushy. A market-traders' derivation from cushy, adj., with the senses 'good; of good quality; enjoyable' (M.T.): since ca. 1917.

Cushy. La Cauchie, a town near Arras: army: WW1. F. & G.

cushy. Easy, safe; of a job, task, or post. Not dangerous: of a wound (cf. Blighy, q.v.). SOD records this military s. at 1915, but, to judge both from its possibly Hindustani origin (khush, pleasure) or its, to me, more prob. Romany one (kushto, good), and from report, it was used in the Indian Army some years before WW1. (It is not impossibly a slurring of cushiony or an extension of dial. cushie, soft, flabby.) Tempest, 1950, 'Familiar old word which distinguishes an "easy" prison from a "bastard nick".'

cuss. As a coll. exclamation orig. (—1872) US and partly anglicised ca. 1900, it euphemises curse!—2. A person; gen., a man: coll.; both senses ex US (—1848), anglicised ca. 1880. Ex customer, perhaps influenced by curse. In later C.20, usu. in phrase 'an awkward cuss', a 'difficult' man.—3. In the phrases not care, not give, not worth a tinker's cuss, concerning something of no account, it=curse.

cussed. A low coll. form of *curse*d, anglicised ca. 1882.

cussedness. Cantankerousness (persons); contrariness (things). Coll.: ex US (from ca. 1850), anglicised ca. 1885. (Baumann.) The fourth general 'law' is, 'The cussedness of the universe tends to a maximum.'

cussin. A man: c.—1887 (Baumann); †. Ex cuss, 2.

custard and jelly. 'Telly', i.e. television: rhyming s.: since ca. 1960. (Hillman.)

custard bosun. A Warrant Cook: RN joc. coll.: since ca. 1925. Granville.

custards. Pimples: Aus.: since ca. 1925. (B., 1942.) Ex colour. Cf. shag-spots.

custod of the country. 'A bribe given to port officials to avoid delays': nautical coll.: mid-C.19–20. Bowen.

customex. A man; chap, fellow: coll.; from late C.16 but not common before 1800; gen. with queer or ugly. Cf. chap, merchant, artist, and Scottish callant, qq.v.—2. An enemy aircraft: RAF: WW2. Guy Gibson, Enemy Coast Ahead, 1946.—3. (Usu. in pl.) 'Do-gooders who visit patients in hospitals, or elderly people in their homes, sometimes call them "customers"' (Petch, 1966): since ca. 1950. P.B.: the 'in' word in the late 1970s is client.

custom(-)house goods. 'The stock in trade of a prostitute, because fairly entered' (Grose, 2nd ed.): mid-C.18—early 19 low coll.

custom(-)house officer. A cathartic pill: mid-C.19–20; ob. (H., 2nd ed.) Also customs.

cut, n. A stage, a degree: coll. from ca. 1815; SOD records in 1818; Dickens uses in 1835, (of a house) 'I really thought it was a cut above me.'—2. A refusal to recognise, or to associate with, a person: from ca. 1790. The cut(-)direct (later dead cut) occurs ca. 1820.—3. A snub or an unpleasant surprise: coll.; ca. 1850–1910.—4. (Theatrical) an excision, a mutilation of the 'book' of a play: C.18–20. Sheridan in The Critic, 'Hey...!—what a cut is here!'; Saturday Review, 21 Apr. 1883, 'Some judicious cuts.'—5. the cut: see cut, adj. C.19.—6. See cuts.—7. A share: Aus. and NZ coll.: late C.19–20. By no means unknown in UK.—8. As in get a cut (at a station), a sheep-shearing job: Aus. coll.: C.20. B., 1942.—9. 'Completion of a job' (Baker): Aus.: since ca. 1910.—10. A phonograph record, or a special part of one: 'pop' music lovers' coll.: adopted, ca. 1955, ex US. Carr & Tyler, The Beatles, 1975.—11. As the cut, 'Any district where goods are bought and sold with a minimum of questions asked. Petticoat Lane, for example. Probably from "short cut" or "short way", a back alley or street' (Tempest): c.: C.20.—12. In have a cut at, to attempt: Aus. coll.: late C.19–20. (Vance Palmer, Daybreak, 1932.) Cf. synon. have a bash, a hack, a go, etc., at.—13. See have (one's) cut.

cut, v. To talk; speak; make (of words): in mid-C.16—early 19, c.—cut bene, e.g. is to speak gently; from ca. 1840 (?low) s. as in Thackeray's Pendennis, '[He] went on cutting jokes at the Admiral's expense.'—2. Ignore or avoid (a person); abandon (a thing, a habit): from ca. 1630; coll. Samuel Rowley, in The Noble Soldier, 'Why shud a Souldier, being the world's right arme/Be cut thus by the left, a Courtier?' Vbl n., cutting. With this usage, cf. 3, the university (orig. s., then coll., now almost S.E.) cut lecture or hall or chapel, to absent oneself from these duties:—1794.—4. Move quickly; run: coll.; from ca. 1780. Earlier forms—all S.E.—are cut away (Cotton, 1678), cut off, and cut over (Lambarde's Perambulation of Kent; Nashe). Charles Dibdin, 'Jack in His Element'—Britannic Magazine, 1793 (l. no. 3), p. 34—has 'She cut—I chac'd'. (Moe.) Dickens, in Little Dorrit, 'The best thing I can do is to cut.' A C.19 var. is cut it, q.v. After ca. 1860, the gen. form is the orig. nautical cut and run (lit., cut the cable and sail away); cut one's lucky (—1840) being lower down the social scale, as also is (—1823) cut one's stick (Egan's Grose): with the last, cf. amputate one's mahogany, the idea being that of cutting a staff for one's journey (W.); in gen., however, cf. US cut dirt (1833): 'the horse hoofs make the dirt fly' (Thornton).—5. (Theatrical) to excise: C.18–20. See n., 4.—6. Excel (cf. cut out, q.v.): coll.; from ca. 1840. Whyte-Melville, in 1853, has cut down.—7. To desert: nautical, lowerdeck: late C.18–19. (Bill Truck, 1826.) Short for cut and run or perhaps cut (run) for it (Ibid.).—8. 'To adulterate [drugs]' (Home Office): drug addicts': current in 1970s.

cut, adj. Tipsy: from—1650. (Head; B.E.) Cf. Punch, 1859, 'He goes on the Loose, or the Cut, or the Spree.' Whence a deep cut or cut in the back (or leg), very drunk, late C.17—early 19 (B.E.), and a little cut over the head, slightly drunk, late C.18—mid-19 (Grose, 1st ed.): cf. cut one's leg, q.v. See also TAVERN TERMS, § 8, in Appendix.—2. Hence, stupid, silly; esp. half-cut [which also=half drunk]: late C.19–20 B., 1943.

cut! Cease! Be quiet! See cut it, 2.—2. Stop cameras and action: cinematic s., since ca. 1910; by 1930, coll.—Hence, esp. in Can., 'used on other occasions and in other occupations' (Leechman): since ca. 1945.

cut a block (or blocks) with a razor. To try in a futile or incongruous way: coll.—1774 (Goldsmith); ob. by early C.20. P.B.: in William the Conqueror, Pt II, 1895, Kipling has use razors to cut grindstones= 'to misuse a good instrument to an undignified purpose.'

cut a bosh or a flash. To cut a figure: mid-C.18—early 19: c. See bosh.

cut a caper. To play a trick or prank; behave extravagantly or noisily: from late C.16; coll. till ca. 1700, when it > S.E.

cut a dash or shine or splash. To make a display, a notable figure; be very successful, prominent: resp. early C.18–20, C.19–20 (orig. US), C.19–20: coll., the first being now S.E. Here, cut=make, do, perform. Cf. cut a bosh, q.v.

cut a dido. To 'cut a dash': RN: ca. 1835–60. Ex cut up didoes, with a pun on HM corvette Dido, very smart, of the 1830s. Bowen adds: 'The term was also applied to a sailing vessel tumbling about in a confused sea.'

cut a (e.g. fine, poor) figure. To make a... appearance: from ca. 1760; coll. until ca. 1890, then S.E. Lever in Harry Lorrequer, 'He certainly cut a droll figure.' The earlier, more dignified phrase is make a figure.

cut a finger. To break wind: low:—1909 (Ware). Cf. the Somersetshire cut the leg, to give off a foul smell (EDD). Also as cut (one's) finger.

cut a rug. To 'jive' or 'jitterbug': dance addicts': adopted from US soldiers in 1943. John Bull, 2 Feb. 1946.

cut a shine or splash. See cut a dash.

cut a stick. To desert: naval: from ca. 1830. (Bowen.) Cf. cut, v., 4, and 7.

cut a swell. See swell, n., 2.

cut a tooth or (one's) (eye-)teeth. To become 'knowing', wide-awake: from ca. 1820: coll.; in C.20, S.E. though hardly dignified. After ca. 1870, occ. cut one's wisdom teeth. See also cut (one's) eye-teeth, have.

cut about. To move smartly: Guardsmen's: since ca. 1930. (Roger Grinstead, They Dug a Hole, 1946.) Cf. get cracking; get mobile; get weaving.

cut above, a. See cut, n., 1.

cut and carried. (Of a woman) married: rhyming s.: C.20. Franklyn, Rhyming.

cut and come again. Abundance, orig. of 'Meat that cries come Eat me' (B.E.): late C.17–20: coll. Swift, Wm. Combe.—2. Whence, the female pudend: C.19–20; low.

cut and run. Depart promptly; decamp hurriedly: orig. nautical j., > gen. coll. prob. before mid-C.19. It occurs in, e.g., The Night Watch (II, 99), 1828, 'I was sick of the ship and the sea and I again cut and run', and earlier still in Glascock's Sketch-Book, 1825–6, as cut one's cable and cut cable and run, and in his Sailors and Saints (I, 154), 1829, and seems to have had a nautical origin. (Moe.)

cut and shut, adj. and, often hyphenated, n. 'The most dangerous of all [secondhand cars]. Two severely damaged cars are cut in half and the best [sic] part of one welded to the best part of the other. This technique is also used to disguise stolen cars' (Woman's Own, 28 Feb. 1968): shady car-dealers': since ca. 1930.

cut(-)away. A morning coat: from ca. 1845: coll.; in C.20, S.E. (As adj., recorded in 1841, says the SOD, but anticipated in Jon Bee's description, 1823, of a dandy.)

cut bene whids. To speak fair: c., as in B.E.: mid-C.16–18. See whids. Var. with benar, q.v.

cut boy. To fail to attend one's duties 'on boy' [q.v.]: Harrow School: from ca. 1890. Lunn.

cut (one's) cable. An occ. var. of cut the painter, 2, to die:—1931 (Lyell).

cut caper sauce. To be hanged. See caper upon nothing, cut capers on a trencher. To dance within a very small compass: ca. 1850–1910; coll., mostly Cockney; cf. cellar-flap. cut (someone's) cart. To expose his tricks: c.:—1851 (Mayhew); ob. by 1930.

cut (one's) coat according to (one's or) the cloth. To act in sane accordance with the circumstances; esp., to live within one's means. Mid-C.16–20. Coll. till C.18, then S.E.

cut (one's) comb. To be humiliated. See comb cut, have (one's).

cut dead. Intensification of cut, v., 2, q.v.:—1826.

cut down to size. To bring (someone) sharply back to earth in his estimate of his own worth; to reduce to a realistic opinion of (himself): coll.: adopted, ca. 1960, ex US. Woman's Own, 4 Sep. 1965, an advice-to-wives article headed 'Never Cut Him Down to Size ... You may find there is nothing left but the pieces.' Elliptical for cut down to true size.

cut (one's) eye. To become suspicious: c.: from ca. 1840. Cf. cutty-eye.

cut (one's) eye-teeth (or -tooth), have. To be alert or 'knowing': low:—1860. (H., 2nd ed.) See also cut a tooth.

cut fine. To reduce to a minimum, esp. in cut it fine, to leave a very small margin of money, space, or time: mid-C.19–20: coll. >, by 1900, S.E.—2. To be very near to breaking the law, or actually doing so undetected, as in 'He's running that car without an M.O.T. That's cutting it a bit fine; pushing his luck, I'd say': C.20. (P.B.)

cut (one's) finger. To break wind. See cut a finger.

cut for the simples, be. To be cured of one's folly. See simples, be cut ...

cut-glass accent. Middle-class, esp. upper-middle: coll.: C.20, but rare before ca. 1950. Bill Naughton, Alfie Darling, 1970: 'This Abby with her nice little overall and her cut-glass accent'. And on the very same day I dealt with this reference,

I turned to a set of notes supplied by Paul Beale, 1977, and found this: 'cut-glass accent, the clear, piercing accent of the British (female) upper classes—goes with the twin-set and pearls, sheepskin jacket and large dog, Fortnum & Mason "image".'

cut-in, n., ex-

cut in, v.i. To intrude; interpose briskly into a game or a conversation: from ca. 1820; coll. till ca. 1870, then S.E. Thackeray, "'Most injudicious"', cut in the Major.—2. 'An automatic switch, such as a thermostat, is said to cut in when it makes a contact and cut out when it breaks it' (Leechman): electricians' coll. > j.: since late 1940s.

cut in the back (or leg). Drunk. See cut, adj.

cut into. (Worcester College) orig. to hit with a 'ground ash'; hence, to correct in a manner less formal than tunding, q.v.: C.19—early 20.

cut it. To run, move quickly: C.19–20; coll. See v., 4.—2. Interjection: cease! or be quiet! Also as cut!, cut that!, in C.20 cut it out! From ca. 1850; coll. H., 1st ed.

cut it fat. To make a display; cut a dash; show off; from ca. 1830. Dickens, 1836, 'Gentlemen ... "cutting it uncommon fat"'; Baumann, 1887. In the Dickens quotation, the sense of the whole phrase is perhaps rather, 'come it (too) strong'. Cut it too, or uncommon, fat, is indeed a separate phrase = overdo a thing; now ob.

cut it fine. See cut fine.

cut it out! See cut it, 2.

cut it short! Make your story, or account, shorter! coll.: C.19–20. Dickens.

cut (one's) leg, have. To be drunk: late C.17—mid-18. Ray, 1678 (Apperson). Cf. cut, adj., q.v.

cut (one's) lucky. To decamp: low London: early C.19—early 20. M.C. Dowling, 'You'd better cut your lucky.' Occ. var. make (one's) lucky. P.B.: ?a shortening of 'lucky escape'.

cut mugs. To grimace: theatrical: early C.19—early 20. Pierce Egan, Life in London, 1821, mug, 'a grimace'; mugs in his ed. of Grose. See also mug, v., 1.

cut mutton with. To partake of someone's hospitality: coll.: ca. 1830–1930. Hence, simply cut mutton, to dine: low: mid-C.19—early 20.

cut no ice; gen. that cuts no ice! That makes no difference, has no effect, is of no importance: orig. (1896) US; adopted in UK ca. 1913. Thornton; OED Sup.

cut of (one's) jib. General appearance; hence, nature, character, temperament: still [1935] mainly nautical: since ca. 1820. (W.N. Glascock, Sketch-Book, I, 1825: Moe.) Robert Buchanan, 1881, 'By the voice of you ... and by the cut of your precious jib.'

cut of the simples. See simples ...

cut off a slice. A ref. to sexual intercourse, as in 'There's plenty never gets to see any [girls], you know, let alone cut themselves off a slice' (Red Daniells, J. Brit. Photography, 4 Jan. 1980): low and raffish: later C.20. Cf. cut off the joint.

cut (someone) off a slice of cake. To make a rude noise at him: Services': early C.20. 'The tone of his voice struck the troopers as so affected, that they promptly gave him the "bird", "blew him one out", "cut him off a slice of cake", or "gave him a raspberry"—whichever expression you prefer' (S.F. Hutton, Yarn of a Yeoman, 1930).—2. (? Hence, ironically) to salute a superior officer: RN: since ca. 1930. (Granville.) Cf. chip one off and cut one off.

cut off the joint, a. (From the male angle) copulation; esp., have a ...: C.20. Cf. joint, 3.

cut off the nut, a. 'Used jocularly with regard to vegetarian menu, or to the lack of meat when dining out, as "I'll have a cut off the nut"' (Petch, 1946): since ca. 1942 for the latter, since ca. 1930 for the former nuance.

cut off without a shilling. A late C.19–20 joc. coll. var. of the S.E. phrase.

cut one another's throats. To compete rounously: coll.: since the 1880s. Cf. cut-throat, and 'Stupid to go on strike like that! They're only cutting their own throats.'

cut (someone) one off. To salute one's superior: police: since ca. 1919. Free-Lance Writer, Apr. 1948.

cut out. To find, put in the way of: late C.17–19; coll. 'I'll cut you out business, I'll find you Work enough' (B.E.).—2. To supersede, outdo, deprive of an advantage: C.18–20; coll. till ca. 1860, then S.E.; orig. nautical, but very early of sexual (or analogous) rivalry, as in R. Cumberland, Wheel of Fortune, 1779.—3. To detach (an animal) from the herd: Aus. and Can., orig. coll., soon S.E.: since—1874, late C.19.—4. To steal (esp. from service stores): RN: late C.19–20. Bowen.—5. To finish shearing. See cut outs.—6. Hence, to complete any job: Aus.: since ca. 1905. Baker. Cf.:—7. To cease; come to an end: Aus. miners' coll.: late C.19–20. Ion L. Idriess, The Yellow Joss, 1934, 'The gold was finished. It had "cut out".' This sense soon > widespread Aus. coll.: cf. Tom Ronan, Vision Splendid, 1954, 'I'll hang around until this job cuts out'.—8. To depart: Can. dance-fanatics': adopted, ca. 1957, ex US. (Victoria Daily Colonist, May 1958, 'Basic Beatnik'; American Dialect Society, 16 Apr. 1959, 'Language of Jazz Musicians', by Norman D. Hinton).—9. To break (electrical) contact. See cut in, 2.

cut out of. To deprive of; destroy one's participation in, chances of getting: C.17–20, ob.; coll., as in B.E.'s 'Cut another out of any business, to out-doe him far away, or excell, or circumvent'.—2. To cheat out of: C.18–20; coll.

cut out to be a gentleman. Circumcised: C.20. A neat, if inexact, pun.

cut out(s). The completion of shearing at a station'; cut out, v., to finish shearing: Aus. coll.: C.20. Baker.

cut over the head. Drunk. See cut, adj.

cut (one's) own grass. To earn one's own living: c.: ca. 1860–1930. Cf. get one's own chump, s.v. chump.

cut (one's) painter. See cut the painter.

cut queer whids. To speak offensively; use foul language: c.: mid-C.16–early 19. Contrast cut bene whids.

cut quick sticks. To depart hastily: C.19–early 20. Cf. cut, v., 4, and quick sticks.

cut saucy. 'To cut a garment in the height of fashion': tailors' coll.: from ca. 1860. B. & L.

cut snake... See mad as a cut snake, very angry.

cut (one's) stick(s). To depart quickly. See cut, v., 4. (Bill Truck, Dec. 1825.)? Ex sticks, 2 or 3.

cut that (out)! See cut it, 2.

cut the cackle! 'Shut up!': late C.19–20. Occ. in other moods, esp. in cut the cackle and come to the 'osses, which, however, = to get down to business—and never mind the preliminary politenesses. Dorothy L. Sayers, Unnatural Death, 1927.

cut the corners. 'To cut down the work or not conform to all duties of any undertaking and yet reap the same or more plentiful fruits; to see anew and reform process or practice with increased effect (the feeling of this phrase can be compared with that of "Separates the men from the boys")' (L.A., 1969): coll.: since ca. 1950.

cut the flash. To show, make a display: Aus. low: C.20. (B., 1942.) Cf. cut a dash.

cut the line or rope or string. To cut a long story short; to cease from keeping a person in suspense: c.: from ca. 1810, 1860, 1810, resp. (Vaux.) See line, n., 9.—2. (Only cut the line.) To cease work for the time being: printers':—1909 (Ware). Referring to a line of type.

cut the mustard. 'To succeed in performing or accomplishing'; hence, 'to be of importance'; both, 'almost always used with a qualifying negative. It dates back at least to 1904, when the phrase up to mustard, up to standard or up to the mark was also used' (Paul Janssen, 1976). 'All four Beatles cut the mustard as panellists on BBC-TV's "Juke Box Jury"' (Beatles).—2. To enjoy copulation. 'A lady from New Zealand expressed dismay at the sight of a pair [of lovers] energetically cutting the mustard in broad daylight' (Alexander Frater, article on Hyde Park, Telegraph Sunday mag., 9 Oct. 1977). The following quot'n, from a review by Rhoda Koenig of the film Coming Home, in the Spectator, 10 June 1978, date-lined New York, could be either ambiguous, or a double entendre on both senses: 'It... puts its ideological point with admirable concision: pacifists are good in bed; militarists can't cut the mustard.' (P.B.) cut the (or one's) painter. To prevent a person's doing harm: nautical s.: late C.17–mid-18, B.E.—2. Hence, to send a person away: id.: ca. 1660–1840. B.E.; Grose, 1st.—3. To depart; decamp; depart in secret haste; desert: orig. and mainly nautical: from ca. 1840. Smyth, 1867.—4. Hence, to die: nautical: from ca. 1850. Bowen.—5. Hence, to sever one's connection: gen. coll. (—1888) >, ca. 1905, S.E. Grose, 'The painter being the rope that holds the boat fast to the ship'. Senses 3–5 occ. slip the painter: from ca. 1865.

cut the rope or the string. See cut the line.

cut the rough (stuff). To cease doing or saying something abnoxious to another: Aus. and NZ (lower classes', then military) coll.: C.20. Also in the imperative: 'Stop it!' (Baker).

cut throat. (More gen. with hyphen.) A butcher (lit.): C.19–20, ob.—2. A dark lantern: coll.: ca. 1770–1840.—3. A game of bridge with three players only: coll.:—1900.—4. A 'cut-throat', or open-bladed, razor: coll.: late C.19–20.

cut to Hecuba (or come to Hecuba). To abridge, e.g., the matinée performance of a play by omitting the long speeches: theatrical: ca. 1880–1940. See DCpp.

cut to waste. 'To cut up sheets of paper in such a way that some is wasted, either inevitably or intentionally' (Leechman): a widespread printers' coll.: C.20. See waste, n., 1. cut under, v.t. To undersell, the gen. C.20 form being undercut. From ca. 1870; coll. at first, S.E. since ca. 1895. L. Oliphant in Altioro Peto: 'Ned was all the time cutting under us by bringing out some new contrivance.'

cut-up, n. 'A share-out of the spoils': Aus. c.: since ca. 1920. (B., 1942.) Cf. the v., 4.

cut up, v. To depreciate, slander; criticise very adversely: from ca. 1750; coll. till ca. 1800, then S.E. Goldsmith, 1759, 'The pack of critics... cutting up everything new.' Cf. the sense, to mortify, which is gen. in the passive, to be vexed, hurt, dejected: from ca. 1790; coll., in C.20 almost S.E.—2. In the passive, to be in embarrassed circumstances: coll.; ca. 1800–70.—3. To turn up, become, show (up): coll.;? late C.18, certainly C.19–20; ob.—4. To plunder, rob; to divide plunder: from ca. 1770; c. till ca. 1880, then (as in G.R. Sims's How the Poor Live) low.—5. To leave a fortune by will, v.i. (v.t. with for): from ca. 1780. Gen. with big, large, fat, rich or well. Grose, 1st ed.; Disraeli, in The Young Duke, "'You think him very rich?" "Oh, he will cut up very large"', said the Baron.' This 'likenes the defunct to a joint' (of meat), W.—6. To behave: coll.; from ca. 1850. Hughes, in Tom Brown's School Days, 'A great deal depends on how a fellow cuts up, at first.' Cf.: cut up nasty, q.v.—7. To conduct (a contest) dishonestly: sporting: from ca. 1920. Prob. ex sense 4. OED Sup.

cut up a dido; cut up didoes. See didoes, to play pranks, to act the fool, and cut a dido.

cut up nasty, rough, rusty, savage, stiff, ugly, etc. To be quarrelsome, dangerous: coll.; the gen. phrase dates from ca. 1825. Dickens has rough in 1837, Thackeray savage in 1849, and stiff in 1856; nasty is the latest of those mentioned: hardly before 1900. Semantically similar to cut, v., 5, q.v.—2. In a race, cut up rough, badly, etc., signifies to behave badly, unfairly: from ca. 1880; orig. and gen. of horses.

cut up well. To look well when naked; be an attractive bedfellow: in the language of (?love): from ca. 1860; ob.—2. See also cut up, 5.

cut whids. See whid, n., 1.

cutcha, kutch. Makeshift; inferior; spurious; bad: Anglo-Indian and hence military; coll.; recorded in 1834, but in use in C.18 (see Fr. quot'n in Y. & B.). Ex Hindi kachcha, raw, uncooked, hence rural, hence inferior, etc. Opp. pukka. SOD.

cutcher(x)y. A court-house; business office: Anglo-Indian, from early C.17. Ex Hindi kacheri, a hall of audience. SOD.

[cute, says Manchon, is a n. = 'acuteness'. I doubt its existence. Perhaps confused with cutie, q.v.]

cute, cute, adj. 'Sharp. witty, ingenious, ready' (Dyche, 1748): coll.: from ca. 1730. Foote has the adv. cutely in 1762, Goldsmith 'cuteness (rare) in 1768.—2. Cf. the US cute, used of things (—1812), anglicised ca. 1850, esp. by schoolboys. Cf. the US cunning.

cutey. See cutie.

Cuthbert. From 1917 (ob.), a government employee or officer shirking military service. Perhaps, says W., 'suggested by music-hall song on "Cuthbert, Clarence and Claude"'. Coined by 'Poy'. See my Name This Child.

cutie; occ. cutey. A smart girl; loosely, any (young) girl: US (—1921) partly anglicised ca. 1930 owing to the 'talkies'. Ex cute, q.v. OED Sup.

cutie-pie. 'A girl rich in (calculated) sexual attraction': ca. 1971–5. (Daily Telegraph, 23 Apr. 1973.) 'Inspired by sweetie-pie?' Hence, as adj. (R.S., 1973.)

Cutlers, the. An early nickname for Sheffield United Association Football Club. See Blades.

[cutler's law. Pickpocketry: ?late C.16–early 17: ?c.—cutler's poetry. Wretched verse: ?coll.: ?C.19.]

cuts. Scissors. small cuts: button-hole scissors. Tailors': from ca. 1850.—2. Persons no longer friends: orig. schoolboys' (—1871); rare, but coll., in C.20. (OED.) Ex cut, v., 2, or n., 2.—3. In expletives, a corruption of God's: C.17–18.—4. A humorous seaman: late C.19–20. ('Taffrail'.) Ex S.E. comic cuts.—5. Shorts, esp. football shorts: Charterhouse: late C.19–20. Prob. ex S.E. cut short.—6. A beating or caning: RN College Dartmouth, coll.: since ca. 1925. Also, since ca. 1910, Aus. schoolboys'. (B.P.)—7. In have cuts, to be excited: nautical: late C.19–20. Bowen.

cuts and scratches. Matches (ignition): rhyming: late C.19–20.

cutter. A robber, a bully: c.: mid-C.16–early 19. Hence the later swear like a cutter, to swear violently; cf. swear like a trooper.

cutter's mainsail. 'Corvus', says Bowen without explanation: nautical: mid-C.19–20. Perhaps the black guillemot: see EDD at cutty, 2. cuttee. See cutty, 2. (Baumann, 1887.) A rare form.

cuttie. See cutty, 2.

cutting. Underselling; keen competition:—1851; coll. > S.E.; in C.20, undercutting. Cf. sense 2 of the adj.—2. Disowning or avoiding a person: see cut, v., 2.

cutting, adj. Blood-curdling (story, play, etc.): low coll., mostly London:—1887 (Baumann). Perhaps ex cut to the heart or the quick.—2. Cutting prices; underselling: coll.: 1851, Mayhew (OED).

cutting-down. 'Cutting the clews of an unpopular shipmate's hammock and letting him down on deck': nautical coll.: early C.19–20. Basil Hall, 1st series, 1831.

cutting gear. 'Oxyacetylene apparatus when used to break into safes' (Powis): c., hence also police: current in 1970s.

cutting-gloak. A rough apt to use the knife in a quarrel: c.: ca. 1810–50. Vaux, 1812; Egan's Grose, 1823.

cutting-out party. A predatory gang of cadets, esp. in the officers' pantry: Conway Training Ship:—1891; ob. (Masfield, The Conway, p. 113.) Also, elsewhere, as Bowen shows. Cf. cut out, v., 4, q.v.

cutting-shop. A manufactory of cheap, rough goods: ca. 1850–1900; coll. H., 3rd ed.

cutting the job up. Working too hard, making it bad for the other people: Services: since ca. 1930. H. & P.

cutting the wind. Sword-drill: military: ca. 1850–1914. B. & L.

cuttle, a knife, in C.16–18 low or coll.; cf. the c. cuttle-b(o)ung, C.16–18, a knife for cutting purses.

cutty. Abbr. cutty pipe: —1727 coll.: in C.19–20, S.E. Cf. nose-warmer. Cutty is a mainly dial adj. = curtailed.—2. A coll., often humorous, semi-nickname for a testy, or esp. a naughty girl: from ca. 1820. Mostly in Scotland: see esp. the EDD. Often cuttie.—3. A black guillemot: (dial. and) nautical coll.: C.19–20. Bowen.

cutty-eye, v.i. To look, gaze, suspiciously: late C.18–early 19 c. (Grose, 2nd ed.) V.t. with at.

cutty-eyed. Looking suspiciously; suspicious-looking: C.19–20 (ob.) c.

cutty-gun. A scot. var. of cutty, 1: mid-C.19–20; ob. Bowen.

cutzooks! An early C.18 var. of gadzooks! (OED.) Cf. cuts, 3.

cuze. A workman free of the 'chapel': printers' coll. > j.: from ca. 1720; ob. (Bailey.) Ex coz.—2. A defecation; the cuzes, the latrines: Cotton College: mid-C.19–20. Said to derive ex Heb. cuze, a large metal refuse-container outside the temple at Jerusalem.

cycle. Abbr. bicycle or tricycle: from ca. 1880: coll. till C.20, then S.E.; the same applies to the corresponding v.i.

cycling fringes. 'Especially prepared forehead-hair to be worn by such women bikers as had not abjured all feminine vanities': cyclists' coll.: 1897–ca. 1907. Ware.

cyclophobist. A hater of circulars: literary: Ware cites the Daily News, 6 Jan. 1882.—2. Whence a hater of cyclists (Daily Telegraph, 9 Dec. 1897). Both are †.

cylinder. Vagina: Aus., esp. mechanics': since ca. 1930.

cymbal. A watch: mid-C.19–20 c.; ob. by 1930. ('Ducange Anglicus'.) Cf. ticker.

Cyp (pron. sip). A Cypriot: British Forces serving in Cyprus; and Londoners affected by immigrants from the island: since mid-C.20 at latest. Also used as adj. (P.B.)

Cypher Queen. A WRNS officer engaged in cypher duties ashore: RN: since ca. 1940. Granville.

Cyprian. A prostitute: adumbrated long before, this term as used temp. Regency and George IV was fashionable s.; now rare, archaic S.E. Ex the Cyprian (goddess), Venus.

cysto. Cystoscopy: medical coll.: since late 1950s. (Leechman.)

D

d or dee. A penny: coll.: ca. 1870–1970. Ex the abbr. for (old) penny, pence: d = L. Denarius, a rough equivalent of a penny. Hence, be on the two ds, to get the minimum pay: Services': late C.19–early 20. (Manchon.) Cf. fa'd and ha'd.—2. A detective; in c., any police officer whatsoever: from ca. 1840; from mid-C.19, also Aus. (Wilkes).—3. A damn, hence an oath; esp. as big d.: col.: popularised in Gilbert & Sullivan's H.M.S. Pinafore, 1877, 'What, never use a big, big D?', though Dickens, in 1861, has 'with a D'.—4. Short for Captain D, officer commanding a destroyer flotilla: RN coll.: since ca. 1920. (Granville.) 'Now [1945] also loosely used for the senior officer of a formation of destroyers or even destroyers and frigates mixed' (D. Bolster, Roll On My Twelve, 1945).—5. See jolly d.

d.a. A 'duck's arse' hair-cut, a term used to describe a male style that was very popular, esp. among Teddy-boys, in the early 1950s. The hair was tapered and curled on the nape of the neck like the feathers of a drake's tail. Occ. euph. expanded to 'duck's anatomy'. (P.B.)—2. Var. of:—

d.a.s. The menstrual flux: ca. 1870–1930. Abbr. domestic afflictions.

d.a.l. 'Dog at large'—a humorous notation put on letters that cannot be delivered: postmen's: since ca. 1920.

d. and d. Drunk and disorderly: police and, in C.20, gen.; from ca. 1870. Cf. stropolous.

d.b. Damned bad: theatrical coll.:—1909; ob. by 1930. Ware.

d.c.d. A 'don't-care-a-damn' or torpedo-boat destroyer: RN: WW1.

d.c.M. 'Don't come Monday. One day's suspension' (Railway, 2nd): railwaymen's: C.20. P.B.: prob. punning district court martial—it would hardly be Distinguished Conduct Medal. In later C.20 more widely used to cover a general attitude to wage-earning work. Cf. t.g.i.f.

D-Day Dodgers, the. The army in Italy: mostly among men of that army: June 1944–5. (D-Day, 6 June; Rome captured, 4 June.) Ex a widespread rumour that Lady Astor had called them that in a speech; subsequently denied, but not before a song had been composed, to the tune of Lili Marlene. One stanza goes:—

We fought 'em on the mountains, we fought 'em on the plain.

We fought 'em in the sunshine, we fought 'em in the rain.

We didn't want to go and fight

In all the mud and all the silt,

We are the D-Day Dodgers, in sunny Italy.

See esp. Martin Page, Songs and Ballads of World War II, 1973, for a comprehensive article.

d.f.s. Duty-free goods: RN coll.: C.20. Granville.

d.f.m. Short for dog-fucked mutton, scraps of food, mutton hash: mostly Forces': since ca. 1920. A pun on the Distinguished Flying Medal.

d.h.f. (or capitals). A stupid fellow: cyclists': ca. 1885–1910. (B. & L.) Ex a cycling gadget known as a double hollow fork.

d.i.o. See Damme! I'm off.

d.i.y. (or capitals). A coll. abbr. of 'do-it-yourself' (methods, handbooks, etc.): since the late 1960s; whence, by early 1970s, a D-I-Y-er, an exponent of the creed. (P.B.)

d.j. Disc-jockey, n. and v.: entertainment circles: since ca. 1970. See disc-jockey. (P.B.)—2. As DJ, dinner jacket, i.e. formal evening suit: coll.: later C.20. (Helen Chappell, New Society, 24 June 1982, p. 508.) Cf. synon. penguin-suit.

d.m.t. A jam roll: Conway Training Ship cadets': ca. 1890–1914. Masefield. Ex 'dammm tart'.

d.s.c. A decent suit of 'civvies': military: late 1918–19. (F. & G.) Punning on the RN Distinguished Service Cross. Cf.:

d.s.o. Dick [= penis] shot off: a Services' c.p. of WW1; rare in WW2. Punning on the Distinguished Service Order decoration.

D.T., The. The Daily Telegraph: orig. (—1873) journalistic, then gen.; † by 1920, and ob. by 1905.—2. d.t., from ca. 1858; d.t.s., from ca. 1880: low, post-WW1. Neutral, coll. abbr. of delirium tremens ('sometimes written and pronounced del. trem.', H., 5th ed.; no longer so pron.). G.R. Sims, 1880, and J. Payn, 1887, both use d.t.

d.t. centre. A minor club: literary: ca. 1880–1900. Ware.

d.v. Doubtful—very: theatrical—1909; ob. Ware.—2. Divorce: Society: ca. 1895–1915. Another pun on the abbr. of Deo volente (if God so wishes). Ware.

D.X. (properly dx; cf. wx = weather) hound. A 'dial-twister'; a 'station-hunter'; i.e. one who, in a restless, senseless manner, tries station after station on the radio: wireless (radio) s.: since ca. 1927. (J.J. Connington, The Sweepstake Murders, 1931.) 'The essential point about D.X. is that it is the radio hound's abbreviation for "distance". In the early days of radio, hams tried for the most distant stations, at the antipodes if possible, and confirmed their triumphs by postcards to the sending stations' (Leechman, 1967).

d.y.f.s. Officers under the age of 30: RN: since ca. 1914. Also b.y.f.s.: Damned and bloody young fools.

da. A family and a child's abbr. of dada: coll.:—1850.

da-erb. Bread: back s.:—1859 (H., 1st ed.).

da da! Good-bye!: mainly nursery coll.: late C.17—mid-18. Cf. fa-ta, q.v. (OED.) Origin?

dab, n. An adept or expert; 'dabster', q.v.: late C.17–20: orig. c.; by 1740, low; by 1830, coll. Chesterfield, in letter of 17 Aug. 1733, 'Known dabs at finding out mysteries.' In C.18, it has, in c., the sense, expert gamester (Dyche), while in C.17—early 18 c. it means an 'expert exquisite in Roguery', esp. in form rum dab, q.v. In C.19–20, esp. among school-boys. ? ex dab, to strike crisply, as the SOD suggests, or ex L. adeptus, as H. proposes and I believe.—2. A bed: from ca. 1810; c. or low. (Vaux; Moncrieff in Tom and Jerry.) ? orig. and etym: If any other example of back slang were recorded before 1850, I would postulate bed > deb > dab: prob., however, the term is a semantic development ex C.18–20 S.E. dab, a flattish mass (e.g. of butter dabbed on something else). Certainly, however, dab is a var. for deb as back s. for a bed, in H., 1859.—3. Cf. the rare C.18—early 19 coll. sense, a trifle.—4. In C.19–20 c., the corpse of a drowned outcast woman: from ca. 1850. Ex dab, a small, flat fish.—5. A pimp; esp. a bawd: c.: late C.19–20. (Manchon.) Prob. ex sense 1.—6. A flat fish of any kind: London street coll.: C.19–20. (H., 1st ed.) Cf. sense 4.—7. See dabs, 2.

dab, adj. Clever; skilful or skilled; expert; very conversant. (Gen. with at or in.) C.18–20, but never very common: in C.19–20, coll. Ex dab, n., 1.—2. Bad: in back slang: from ca. 1845. (Diprose, London Life, 1877.) Esp. dab tros, a bad sort: occ. used as an adj. See doing dab.

dab(-)dab; dab(-)toe. A seaman: RN stockers': C.20. (Granville.) The seamen have so often to 'dab' about the deck in their bare feet.

dab down. To hand over; pay; 'shell out': coll., C.19–20. Cf. Yorkshire dabs doon, immediate payment (EDD).

dab hand. An adept or expert; a frequent C.20 form of dab, n., 1, gen. with at- or on: coll. Cf. also dab, adj., 1.

dab in, have a, v.i. To have a 'go': late C.19–20. J. Milne, The Epistles of Atkins, 1902.

dab in the dook. A tip (lit., a pat on the hand): low and military: C.20. B. & P.

dab it up (with). To pair off (with a woman); arrange or agree to lie with her: c. >, by 1820, low; from ca. 1810. Vaux.—2. 'To run a score at a public-house' (Egan's Groise): public-house coll.: ca. 1820–60.

dab out, v.t. To wash: lower classes': from ca. 1860. Perhaps ex dabbing the clothes out on the scrubbing-board.

dabl, quoth Dawkins when he hit his wife on the arse with a pound of butter. A mid-C.18–mid-19 c.p. applied to impacts. Groise, 1st ed.

dab, says Daniel. A nautical c.p., applied to 'lying bread and butter fashion' in bed or bunk: ca. 1810–60. 'A Real Paddy', Real Life in Ireland, 1822.

dab tros. A bad sort; back s.:—1859 (H., 1st ed.). See dab, adj., 2, and cf. dabheno.

dabble, n. Stolen property: c.: C.20. R. Samuel, ed., East End Underworld, 1981.

dabblers. A black marketeer in furniture: furniture trade: mid-1940s. (John Bull, 1 Apr. 1944.) Another term was bubber.—2. See little dabbler.

dabheno. A bad one, esp. a bad market: back s. (Mayhew, I, 1851.) Cf. dab, adj., 2.

dabs. A rare abbr. of dabster: coll., mostly London:—1887; ob. Baumann.—2. (Extremely rare in the singular.) Fingerprints: c.,—1935 (David Hume); by 1940, at latest, also police s. Hence, Dabs (without the), the Finger-print Department of New Scotland Yard (Ngaiio Marsh, Death at the Bar, 1940).

dabster. A 'dab', q.v.; an expert: from ca. 1700; s. >, by 1850, coll. >, in late C.19, mainly dial. Ex dab, n., 1, q.v.

dace. Twopence. Late C.17–19; c. and low. (B.E.) A corruption of deuce.

dacey. Of native Indian origin: Anglo-Indian coll.:—1876. Ex Hindi desi, country. (OED).

dacha-salties. Tenpence; a franc: from ca. 1850; Parlyaree and c. (H., 1st ed.; Reade, The Cloister and the Hearth.) Ex It. dieci soldi via Lingua Franca. Cf. dacha-one, eleven(pence).

dachsie, -sy. A dachshund: domestic coll.: C.20. Strictly, a diminutive of the more widely distributed dachs.

dad, dada, dadda. The first from before 1500, the others from before 1680: coll. for father. Prob. ex child's pron. of father: cf., however, Sampson at dad. James I styled himself Charles I's 'Dear Old Dad'.—2. In Aus., at first coll. but soon official, dad is the name given, esp. in Anzac Day celebrations, to the fathers of those men who served with the Australian Force during WW1. Cf. digger, 2.—3. In oaths and asseverations, God: coll.: 1678 (Otway). In mid-C.19–20, dial. and US. OED.—4. A term of address to anyone ten-or-so years older than oneself, esp. in Aus.: coll.: since ca. 1945. (B.P.)

Dad and Dave. To shave; a shave: Aus. rhyming s.: since ca. 1930, when, approximately, the radio serial 'Dad and Dave' began to pleasure Australians. Franklyn, Rhyming.

dad-dad, mum-mum; or daddi-mummy. A tyro's practice on a drum: military; from ca. 1760. Groise.

daddio. Var. spelling of the prob. more common daddy-o, q.v.

daddle, n. The hand; fist. From ca. 1780: low. The SOD says dial.: this it may orig. have been, but its use by and temp. Groise (1st ed.), George Parker, and Tom Moore indicates that it was common in London. ? etym.: cf. paddle. F. & H. gives synonymy. Cf. also flipper.

daddle, v. To practise tribadism: low: C.19–20. Also spelt dadle.

daddler, dadler. A farthing: low, esp. Cockneys': C.20. J. Horsley, I Remember, 1912, has dadla. Perhaps a corruption of diddler. See also, little daddle.—2. (Gen. pl.) A hand:

low: from ca. 1870; ob. Pugh: 'If you put your daddlers on her again I'll set such a mark on you.' Ex daddle, n.

daddy. Diminutive of dad, q.v.: father: coll. from ca. 1500.—2. A stage-manager: theatrical; from ca. 1850. H., 1st ed.—3. The superintendent of a casual ward: from ca. 1860: coll.—4. The man who, at a wedding, gives away the bride: ca. 1860–85. H., 2nd ed.—5. The person 'winning' the prize at a mock raffle, faked lottery: from ca. 1860; c. then low. H., 3rd ed.—6. (Cf. sense 2.) 'The comic old man of a company': theatrical: ca. 1860–1910. B. & L.—7. A 'Forceful personality' (Home Office): prisoners': current in 1970s.—8. 'A lovely ship' (D. Butcher, Trawlermen, 1980, glossary): trawlermen's: C.20.

daddy—buy me one of those. Aus. ar. of oh, mummy, ..., 'I'd really like that': since ca. 1945. An allusion to sugar daddy.

daddy of them all, the. The most notable; (of things) the largest: Aus. coll. (B., 1942): C.20. Since ca. 1970, current also in UK. (P.B.)

daddy-o (with var. spelling daddio). A teenagers' var. of dad, 4: Aus.: since ca. 1950. (B.P.)—2. 'One of the most frequent words in early beatnik'—the 1950s. 'A title often conferred on the leader of a little beatnik coterie' (Leechman, 1967).

daddy's yacht. A piece of heavy sarcasm, orig. RN, but soon used by all Service NCOs, in rhetorical questions like, 'Where do you think you are? On your daddy's yacht?'; 'What do you think you're on? Your ...?'; 'What do you think this is? ...', etc., directed mostly at National Service recruits, during whose time, ca. 1945–62, it had its heyday; but it lingered on into the 1970s. The obvious import: 'We don't care what privileges you may have enjoyed in civvy street—you're in the Forces now, and we want none of your pampered ways here!' It is used to great effect in Colin Evans's biting novel of National Service in the Navy, The Heart of Standing, 1962. (P.B.) dadla, dadler. A farthing. See daddler.

dadle. See daddle, v.

dado (round the dining-room). A (knitted) abdominal belt: military, 1914+. Ex the die-shaped part of a pedestal (W.).

dads. An old man: c.: C.18. (Anon., Street-Robberies Consider'd, 1728.) A perversion of dad. The -s indicates either familiarity or affection, or both: cf. ducks for duck (the endearment). P.B. It re-emerged in C.20, in the same senses as dad, 1 and 4, qq.v.

Dad's Army. Affectionately in 1940–5, then reminiscently, as in Catherine Aird, A Late Phoenix, 1970, "What," asked Sloan cautiously, "was Dad's Army?" ... "The Home Guard, man. The People who came after the Local Defence Volunteers. LDVs they were known as at first." He chuckled sardonically. "The Look, Duck and Vanish brigade we called them at the time." Cf. the very popular comedy series on BBC-TV, 'Dad's Army', 1970+.

dad's will. Parental authority: Oxford University: ca. 1820–40. Egan's Groise.

daff; daffy. Coll. abbr. of daffodil: mid-C.19–20. Cf. mum, 2.

daff, v. To wash: taxi-drivers': since ca. 1910. 'Furtively "daffing" the wheels with a mixture of water and paraffin ("Willy", he calls it)' (Herbert Hodge, Cab, Sir?, 1939). Ex daffy, n., 1.

daffier. A gin-drinker: ca. 1820–60. (Boxiana, III, 1821.) Ex daffy, n., 1.

daffies. Strong liquor: market-traders': C.20. (M.T.) Ex daffy, n., 1.

daffodil. An effeminate and precious young man: since ca. 1945. Fred Bason's Second Diary, 1952.

Daffy. A Defiant fighter aircraft: 1941; by 1944, ob. (Jackson.) By Hobson-Jobson. Also Deffy.

daffy (loosely daffey); Daffy's Elixir. Gin: from ca. 1820; ob. ('Corcoran' Reynolds, 1821; Leman Rede, 1841.) Ex a very popular medicine advertised as early as 1709, ca. 1860 called soothing syrup (applied also to gin) and in 1891 known as tincture of senna.—2. A large number of telegrams for delivery: Post Office telegraph-messengers':—1935.—3.

Coll. term for a daffodil. See daff.—4. A skiing manoeuvre. See hot-dogging.

daffy, v.; daffy it. To drink gin: ca. 1820–60. (Boxiana, III, 1821.) Ex the n., 1.

daffy, adj. Slightly mad; soft in the head: dial. (—1884) >, by ca. 1895, s. Ex Northern dial. daff, a simpleton. OED Sup. daffy-down-dilly. A dandy: ca. 1830–80. Leman Rede in Sixteen-String Jack.—2. Silly: rhyming s., mainly theatrical: C.20. (Franklyn, Rhyming.) P.B.: or it may be an elab. of daffy, adj.

daffy-headed. Feather-brained. See quot'n at dimmo, 2.

Daffy Taffs, the. 'When the Regiment was first raised [in 1915] the selection of the leek as a cap-badge started some foolish discussion about a daffodil, and for this reason the Welsh Guards acquired another nickname—"The Daffy Taffs"' (Carew).

daff and barmy. Army: rhyming s.: later C.20. (Ronnie Barker, Fletcher's..., 1979.) Cf. Tate.

daff as a brush (, as). Extremely stupid; very silly: orig. North Country rural, since ?mid-C.19, it > by mid-C.20, due to the mixing influence of the Armed Forces and the picturesque aptness of the phrase, very much more widely known and used. Cf. wet as a scrubber. (P.B.) Nigel Rees, Very Interesting..., 1980, attributes daff as... to the comedian Ken Platt, who adopted it in the early 1940s from Northern soft as a brush.

daff-man. To refuse (a person) peremptorily or vigorously or to take no notice of him: tailors': 1928 (Tailor and Cutter, 29 Nov.). Lit., to render daff.

daffie. A daff person: coll.: from ca. 1870. (OED.) Ex daff. (Slightly earlier in dial.)

Dag, a shortening of Dagger (var. Dugger), the. The Dean: Oxford undergraduates': since the 1880s. (Marples, 2.) See -agger, at 'OXFORD -ER'.

dag, n. A 'hard case'; a wag; a 'character'; John O'Grady (Nino Culotta) defines it, 1965, 'The bloke who likes practical jokes is "a bit of a dag"': Aus., thence NZ: since ca. 1890. Prob. ex dagen, q.v.—2. A cigarette. See dags, 2.—3. In be a dag at, to be extremely good at: from mid-1890s, Aus.; hence, by 1920, NZ. Ex 1, but cf. dab, n., 1.

dag, adj. Excellent: Aus.: since ca. 1905. (B., 1943.) Ex n., 3.

dag up, v.i. To smarten oneself for guard or parade: army: earlier C.20. (F. & G.) Poss. ex dagging sheep, that is, removing lumps of dried excreta from their rear ends; or poss. a corruption of dog up.

Dage (pron. dayg). A Dago: Aus.: since ca. 1910. Vince Kelly, The Shadow, 1955.

dagen. An artful criminal or near-criminal: c. Ex c. dagen or degen, q.v., a sword.

dagger rooker. A scoundrel; a wastrel: S. African low s.; since ca. 1910. Lit., a smoker of dagga (Cannabis indica); rooker is Afrikaans.

Daggarramereens. The Diego Ramirez Islands (E. of Cape Horn): nautical: mid-C.19–20. (Bowen.) By Hobson-Jobson.

dagged. Tipsy:—1737 (Franklyn): this term, perhaps orig., > solely, dial. ca. 1800. Ex dial. dag, to sprinkle. (OED.)

dagger. A jockey's general helper: Aus. sporting: since ca. 1925. (B., 1953.) Perhaps ex dag, 1.

dagger-ale. Inferior ale: late C.16–17. Ex The Dagger, a low tavern fl. 1600 in Holborn. Cf.:-

dagger-cheap. Very cheap: C.17–18; coll. and archaic after ca. 1660. Bishop Andrewes, 1631, '[The devil] may buy us even dagger-cheap, as we say.' Lancelot Andrewes, d. in 1626. See prec.

Dagger Div, the. The 14th Indian Division: army: WW2. Ex its divisional flash. P-G-R.

dagger E; dagger G; dagger N. An officer with high specialist qualifications in engineering—gunnery—navigation: RN officers': since ca. 1925. Granville, 'In the Navy List a dagger appears against the names of such officers'; E, G, N are traditional abbreviations. Also a dagger gunner, a Gunner (W.O.) that has passed the advanced course in Gunnery.

daggle-tail. A slattern; 'a nasty dirty Slut': from ca. 1560; coll. till ca. 1700, when it > S.E.; ca. 1830 it > dial. and low coll. Cf. draggle-tail, and the note at dag up, ref. sheep.

dagmar (mostly in plural). A drachma (Greek currency unit): since ca. 1945. Ex drachma influenced by the female given-name Dagmar.

Dago. One of Latin race, but rarely of a Frenchman: ex US (—1858)—though anticipated in 1832; anglicised ca. 1900: coll. In C.17, Diego (James) was a nickname for a Spaniard, 'Specifically an Italian, but loosely used by many Australians to refer to anyone from Europe, especially if dark-skinned' (Culotta, 1957). See Words! and OED Sup.

dags. A feat, piece of work. 'I'll do you(r) dags', i.e. 'something you can't'; (among schoolboys) 'do dags', play foolhardy tricks. Coll.; from ca. 1850. (H., 1st ed.) F. & H. proposes the A.S. daeg, the OED darg, one's task, as the origin; ? a perversion of dare or darings (W.).—2. Cigarettes: military: C.20. (F. & G.) Perhaps ex dial. dag, the stem-end of a branch, the big end of a faggot (EDD): cf. fag ex fag-end.

dags, on the. On furlough (as opp. to a few days' leave): RN: late C.19–20; since ca. 1925 usu. on dags. (Bowen; P-G-R.) Perhaps ex dags, 1.

dailies. A day's take at filming. See MOVING-PICTURE SLANG, §6, in Appendix.

daily, n. A daily maid-servant: from ca. 1920: coll., verging on S.E. OED Sup.—2. Daily bread, or the money to buy it: coll.: since ca. 1925, 'Well, I must go and earn the daily'. Ex the Lord's Prayer.—3. One's daily bet with a 'bookie': coll.: C.20.—4. A tail. Short for Daily Mail, 1. It has, since ca. 1930, meant 'rectum, arse', as in the glossary of G.F. Newman's Sir, You Bastard, 1970. In The Guvnor, 1977, Newman has 'He found another car up his daily'—which could mean either sense.

Daily Advertisers, the. The 5th (Royal Irish) Lancers, raised 1689, amalgamated with the 16th The Queen's Lancers in 1922. The nickname is listed in Spike Mays, The Band Rats, 1975. The regt was also known as 'The Redbreasts'.

daily body. A daily help (servant): coll.: since ca. 1918. Phillip MacDonald, Rope to Spare, 1932.

daily-bread. A wage-earner; the working head of the house: from ca. 1890. Cf.:-

daily-breader. A C.20 var. of daily bread: coll.: Ole Luk-Oie, The Green Curve, 1909, and Berta Ruck, Pennies from Heaven, 1940.

daily dozen, (one's) or the. Physical exercises, on rising in the morning: coll.: from ca. 1924.

Daily Exaggerator or Daily Suppress. Daily Express: joc.: since ca. 1912; ob.

daily eye-wash. An official Army communiqué: Services': WW1. It was heavily censored. See eye-wash.

Daily Levy, The. The Daily Telegraph: ca. 1860–1900. Ex Joseph Moses Levy, who, in 1856, took it over from its founder (1855), Colonel Sleigh, and made it London's first penny newspaper. Cf. D.T.

Daily Liar, The. The Daily Mail: joc. (not slanderous): C.20. Perhaps ex Cockney Dily Mile.

Daily Mail. 'Buttocks (tail): "He fell on his Daily Mail"'; also bail, "Guvnor, what's the chances of the old Daily Mail?"; also tale, "He spun me a Daily (Mail) I just couldn't believe"; also sexual proclivity, e.g., "She's Daily Mail all right" (she is accommodating in the sexual sense) (Powis): all are rhyming s.: all have been current throughout most of C.20; the 'bail' sense since ca. 1920, the others earlier still. Franklyn records two other senses: 'ale', ob. by 1950 (Rhyming); and 'nail' (Franklyn 2nd): carpenters' and joiners': C.20. The 'tail' sense can also be used for the rear of car, as 'He would keep driving right up my Daily, all the bloody way.' A somewhat overworked piece of slang, definitely demanding context for clarity. (P.B.)

Daily-Tell-the-Tale. Daily Mail: joc. rhyming s.: since ca. 1920. Cf. prec!

Daily Wail (occ. Whale). The. Daily Mail: joc.: from ca. 1910. Again, cf. entry for Daily Mail itself.

dainty digger. A member of the Women's Land Army. See whistler, 8.

dairs. Small unmarketable fish: nautical coll.: C.19–20; ob. (Bowen.) Ex † dial dairns, the same.

dairy or dairies. The paps; hence sport, later air, the dairy, expose the breast: low, from ca. 1780. (Grose, 2nd ed.) Cf. charlies, charms, milky way, and, in rhyming s., cabman's rests.—2. In get the dairy on, to see; notice (a person): low s., perhaps orig. c.: from ca. 1910. (Charles E. Leach, On Top of the Underworld, 1933.) Var. of darry.

dairy arrangements. The female breasts: low:—1923 (Manchon). Ex prec., 1.

dairy Dot. A female milk 'roundsman'. See whistler, 8.

dairy on, get the. See dairy, 2.

daisies occurs, as a gen. term for 'plants', in several phrases for 'dying' and 'dead (and buried)'. These are entered at the appropriate places; the best known in the later C.20 is prob. push (or pushing) up the d.; hence daisy-pusher, -ing; see also under the d., kick up d. and grin at the daisy-roots; earlier there was turn up (one's) toes to the d.—2. Daisies was a pre-1879 abbr. of daisy roots, q.v., boots.

Daisy is the inevitable nickname of men surnamed Bell: late C.19–20. Ex a famous music-hall song. Cf. Dolly Gray.

daisy. N. (and, in England, a rare adj., 1757), an excellent or first-rate person or thing; the n. came ex US (—1876) and was anglicised ca. 1890; Kipling used it in his poem, 'Fuzzy Wuzzy'.—2. A chamber-pot: Midlands, esp. nursery: late C.19–20. Probably ex floral design on the inner base; but cf. pick a daisy.—3. A male homosexual: since ca. 1950 (? much earlier). Often in Peter O'Donnell's 'Modesty Blaise' thrillers. Perhaps ex daisy chain, 2, or the fore-runner of it.—4. See pick a daisy.

daisy beat. To cheat; a cheat or swindle or minor crime: rhyming s.: late C.19–20. (Franklyn.) This strange 'rhyme' was prob. prompted by:

daisy-beaters. Feet; the sing. is very rare: C.19–mid-20. Franklyn 2nd suggests that it 'rhymes' with s. creepers, feet, but cf., e.g., beetle-crusher.

daisy chain. 'We used a device christened the "daisy chain", made from gun-cotton primers threaded on a five-foot length of prima cord... Five primers went to each daisy chain spaced out and held in place by knots in the cord' (Vladimir Peniakoff, Private Army, 1950): military (N. Africa): 1941–3, and afterwards elsewhere. Ex its appearance.—2. Collective cunnilingus, whether heterosexual or lesbian, but usu. the former: low: since ca. 1920.—3. A circle of homosexuals engaged in collective sodomy: widespread homosexual term: since ca. 1950.

daisy-cutter. A horse that hardly raises its feet from the ground: coll.: late C.18–19. (Grose, 1785.) This sense is extant in Aus. in a modified nuance: 'Jim and Morgan were both "daisy-cutters", the bushman's term for those horses who drag their back hooves on the roadway in a scraping jog' (Alan Marshall, 1940).—2. Hence, any horse: C.19–early 20. Cf. daisy-kicker. Scott, Charles Reade.—3. In cricket, a ball that keeps very low after pitching, esp. on being bowled: coll. (1863); cf. sneak(er). F. & H. and Lewis.—4. A German shell that, on impact, burst instantaneously and scattered its fragments very close to the ground: army: WW1. The term has been used also for other vicious anti-personnel weapons of this type. Cf. grass-cutter, q.v.—5. A perfect landing: RAF: since ca. 1930. (Jackson). Ex sense 3.

Daisy Dornier. Warmer (adj.): theatrical rhyming s.: C.20. Ex the famous music-hall artist. Franklyn, Rhyming.

daisy-kicker. A horse: c. and then low: from ca. 1770; ob.—2. The ostler of an inn, esp. a large inn: from ca. 1770; ob. Both are in G. Parker's View of Society, 1781; the second in Grose, 1st ed.

daisy-picker. 'One who accompanies an engaged couple on a country walk. Brought to keep off gossip' (P.W. Joyce, English... in Ireland, 1910): Anglo-Irish: late C.19–20. Cf. gooseberry, 2.

daisy-pusher. A fatal wound: army: 1916+. B. & P. Ex-daisy-pushing. Dead: army: 1915+. (F. & G.) See also daisies, 1.

daisy recruits. (A pair of) boots: rhyming s.: ca. 1855–70. (H., 1st ed.) Cf.:

daisy roots. Boots: rhyming s.:—1874 (H., 5th ed.). I have never heard the singular used. Often abbr. to daisies. Cf. prec., which is less viable.—2. Hence, shoes: mostly grafters': C.20. Philip Allingham.

daisyville, deuseaville. The country: c. and (?)low: resp. C.19 and mid-C.17—early 19. Coles, 1676.

daiture. Ten: Parlyaree: mid-C.19–20. An arbitrary spelling based on a Lingua Franca 'deca.' See quot'n at dewey.

Dak. A Douglas DC-3 Dakota transport aircraft: Services': since 1943; ob. The aircraft first entered commercial service in 1933, and in 1979 there are still a few left flying.

dakes. Marbles: Aus. schoolchildren's: C.20. B., 1942.

dalkma. To silence: c.; rare in England and perhaps ex US: C.19.

Dallie (usu. in pl.) Short for Dalmatian, an immigrant, in NZ, from the Balkans: NZ coll.: current in 1970s. (Miss Margaret Rowland, 1978.)

Dalmatian pudding. That kind of boiled currant-pudding which is known as spotted-dog, q.v.: RN: C.20. (Granville.) A Dalmatian dog has black or blackish-brown spots on its white coat.

dam. Expense; short for damage, q.v.: university: ca. 1900–15. Ware.—2. In be on the dam, (of a policeman) to be in trouble: police: since ca. 1920. Free-Lance Writer, Apr. 1948.

—3. In not worth or not care a dam, worthless; uninterested: coll.: mid-C.18–20. Prob. ex a small Indian coin, but heavily influenced by damm (cf. not care a tinker's curse or cuss). See esp. Y. & B., Ware, and Grose, P. The tuopenny dam is said to have been rendered fashionable by Wellington (Manchon). See also not worth a... and not care a...

dam of that was a whisiker, the. A c.p.—coll. and dial.—applied ca. 1675–1810 to a great lie. (Ray, 1678: Apperson). Is it possible that whisiker may orig. have been whisper? Cf. mother of that was a whisiker, the C.19 version.

damage. Expense; cost: from ca. 1750; SOD records it at 1755. Byron, 'Many thanks, but I must pay the damage.' Prob. ex damage(s) at law. In late C.19–20, gen. as what's the damage?, jocularly varying the much earlier what's the shot? W. damaged. Tipsy: from ca. 1865. Cf. screwed.

damager. A manager: theatrical, since ca. 1880; boxing, C.20; of a Services' canteen, since ca. 1925. Either by sarcastic perversion; by Hobson-Jobson; or orig. rhyming s., as Franklyn proposes.—2. A damaging punch: pugilistic coll.: since ca. 1815; ob. Boxiana, IV, 1825.

damask. To warm (wine): late C.17—early 19. B.E. has 'Damask the Claret, Put a roasted Orange flasht smoking hot in it'. ?The 'warmth' of damask, 'a rich silk fabric woven with elaborate designs and figures' (SOD).

damber. A man belonging to a criminal gang: c.: mid-C.17–18. (Coles, 1676; B.E.) Cf. dimber; perhaps suggested by damme-boy. See damme.

dame. A house-master not teaching the Classics: Eton College: mid-C.19–20.—2. A girl; a sweetheart: Glasgow: from ca. 1932. Ex US, via the 'talkies'; nevertheless, the US prob. derived this usage from Scots, where dame, a girl, appears as early as 1790 (Shirrefs, Poems): EDD.

Dame's Delight. The Oxford bathing-place reserved for women. See Parson's Pleasure.

damfool; occ., joc., damphoole or -phule. A damned fool: coll., n. and adj.: from, resp., ca. 1880 and ca. 1895. (OED Sup.) Whence:

damfool or damful, v. To deceive: army: WW1.

damfoolishness. Damned foolishness: coll.: C.19–20.

damme, or dammy, or foolme (or -y)-boy. A profane swearer (gen. the single word): coll.; ca. 1610–1820. From mid-C.17–early 18 (the hyphenated term), ‘a roaring mad, blustering fellow, a Scourer of the Streets’ (B.E.); this latter is possibly c. (Perhaps damme! is itself coll.)

damme! I'm off! (Often D.I.O.) A men's c.p. of late C.18–early 19, satiric of initials on cards of invitation, etc. Grose, 3rd ed.

dammit. In (as) quick or soon as d-, exceedingly quick, soon: coll.: C.20. I.e., as saying damn it! Cf.:—2. In (as) near as d-, very near indeed: coll.: C.20. (F. Grierson, Mystery in Red, 1931.) I.e., as near as damn it! is to ‘real’ swearing.

damn'. Dammed: coll.: late C.18–20. Cf. damn the . . ., q.v., and see damned.

damn, not be worth or care a. The form and etymology preferred by the OED: see dam.

damn a horse if I do! A strong refusal or rejection: coll.: ca. 1820–60. ‘Jon Bee’, 1823, shrewdly postulates origin in damn me for a horse if I do.

damn a horse's hind leg! ‘Once a common phrase in the Navy and probably owed its origin to the transport service carried on off the coast of Spain by the ships working on the flank of Wellington's army in the Peninsular War’ (John Laffin, Jack Tar, 1969): ca. 1810–1910.

damn all. Nothing: coll.: from ca. 1915. A bowdlerisation of fuck all. B. & P.

damn (one's) buttons. A (? mostly naval) expletive: 1834, W.N. Glascock, The Naval Sketch-Book, II, 186, ‘The slopsellers d—n their buttons, and laugh in their sleeve’. (Moe.) Cf. dash my buttons!, a coll. and often joc. exclam. of surprise or vexation: ca. 1840–1914.

damn the (e.g. thing) can (or could) one (e.g. find). Not a (thing) can one (find): a coll. form of not a damned thing can one (find): somewhat rare:—1887 (Baumann).

damn well. Certainly; assuredly: coll.: late C.19–20. E.g. Winifred Holtby, 1934, ‘“These things are not in our hands”, said the doctor . . . “Then they damn well ought to be!” swore the merchant, appalled by the thought of all the money he had spent unavailingly.’

damnable. Unfounded; objectionable: late C.16–20; S.E. till ca. 1800, then coll. or a vulgarism.

damnably. In degraded usage, very, exceedingly: C.19–20 coll. or vulgarism. Cf. prec.

damnation, adj. and adv. From ca. 1750: damned; excessive(-ly), very: coll. SOD.

Damnation Corner. A ‘very sharp turn in the High Street’, Windsor: Eton College: ca. 1840–1900. B. & L.

damnation take it! A coll. curse: C.19 (?18)–20.

damned. An adj. expressive of reprobation or of mere emotional crudity or as an ever-weakening intensive (cf. bloody): late C.16–20; S.E. till ca. 1800, then coll.—2. Adv., damnably; hence, very: mid-C.18–20; S.E. till ca. 1850, then coll. In both senses, one tends to use damned before a vowel, damn' before a consonant.—3. In be damned, used in intensive phrases: see smart as be damned and the like paragraph.—4. In I'll be damned!; you be damned!, a coll. exclam. and a coll. imprecation: C.17–20.

damned clever these Chinese! See clever chaps these Chinese.

damned soul. A Customs House clearing clerk: from late 1780s. (Grose, 2nd ed.) Ex a belief that he has sworn never to make true declarations on oath.

damp. A drink: Dickens in Pickwick; not very gen. elsewhere. Gen. give oneself a damp, or something damp.—2. An umbrella: joc. and not very common: since ca. 1950. A pun on the synon. gamp. (Petch, 1966.)

damp, v. To drink: rather rare:—1862; ob. by 1930. Cf. wet.

damp, adj. Soft-headed, stupid, foolish: late C.19–early 20. (Knock). Cf. later wet.

damp (one's) mug. To drink: low: from ca. 1835; ob. Sinks, 1848.

damp(-)pot. The sea; esp. the Atlantic: tailors': from ca. 1855.—2. A water-pot: tailors' coll.: late C.19–20.

damp the sawdust. To drink with friends at the opening of a new tavern: licensed victuallers': from ca. 1860.

damper. In c., dampier, after ca. 1860 gen. displaced by lob, is a till: C.19. H., 2nd ed.—2. A spoil-sport, ‘wet blanket’: coll.: from ca. 1815; in C.20, rare.—3. A sweating employer, a ‘last-uncer’: tailors': from ca. 1860.—4. Ale or stout taken after spirits (and water): from ca. 1820, † by 1930.—5. A snack between meals: coll. and dial.: from ca. 1780; slightly ob. (Grose, 1st ed.; Maria Edgeworth.) See ‘The Art of Lightning Work’ in Words!, p. 47, and cf. snack, snap, tiffin, and esp. bever.—6. A suet pudding preceding meat: school-boys': C.19–20, ob.—7. (Aus. and NZ) a kind of bread, unleavened and baked in ashes: orig. (ca. 1825) coll. but by 1910 accepted as S.E. Peter Cunningham, 1827.—8. A lunch-or, more gen., dinner-bill: Society: 1886–ca.1915. Ware notes the Fr. s. douloureuse and quotes Theodore Hook, ‘Men laugh and talk until the feast is o'er;/Then comes the reckoning, and they laugh no more!’—9. A rebuff: C.19. Perhaps orig. naval, as in Bill Truck, Mar. 1826.—10. See call for a damper.

dampool, -phule. See damfool.

damps. Denver & Rio Grande Railroad preference shares: Stock Exchange:—1895 (A.J. Wilson, Stock Exchange Glossary). A pun on the river mentioned.

Dams (or d.). Defensively armed merchant-ships and those connected with them: RN: WW1. Bowen. And see dems.

damsel. A hot iron used to warm a bed: contrast a Scotch warming-pan, q.v. The SOD records it at 1727. Orig. it was undoubtedly either coll. or s., but by 1800 it had > S.E.; cf. the Fr. moine.—2. A girl, any girl: as employed in society and in the universities, post-WW1, the term has a facetious and coll. flavour.—3. A skate (fish): North Sea fishermen's: C.19–20; ob. Bowen.

damsion-pie. Abuse; a slanging match. Either coll. or dial.: Birmingham and ‘the black country’: from ca. 1865; ob. (William Black, in Strange Adventures of a House Boat, 1888.) The var. damsion-tart occurs a year earlier (OED), but rather in the sense: profane language. Punning damn!

Dan. The inevitable nickname of anyone surnamed Coles: coll.: late C.19–20. Bowen.—2. A man in charge of a male public convenience: since ca. 1920. (Neil Bell, Many Waters, 1954.) Ex the children's trad. taunt: ‘Dan, Dan, dirty old man/washed his face in the lavatory pan’ (P.B.).

Dan Leno. . . . bobbins, known as the ‘Dan Lenos’ (a seaman's corruption of the name of the Frenchman who developed them), are the ultimate parts of the [trawl] trap's width’ (Steven Piper, The North Ships, 1974). See also danner.

Dan Tucker. Butter: rhyming s.o.:—1859 (H., 1st ed.); † by 1950 at latest. The rhyme is, as often, merely approximate.

dance. n. A staircase; a flight of steps: c.:—1857 (‘Ducange Anglicus’); †. Abbr. dancers, 1.—2. See fake a dance; lead (someone) a dance.

dance, v. A shortening of dance upon nothing (in a hempen cravat); dance the Paddington frisk or the Tyburn jig. To be hanged: low: the first, C.19–20; the second C.18–20, but both †; the third, late C.17–19. Paddington refers to Tyburn. Hence, the dance (up)on nothing, like the dance of death, = hanging, C.19–20. Hood, in Miss Kilmansegg, ‘The felon . . . elopes/To a caper on sunny greens and slopes/instead of the dance upon nothing.’—2. Among printers, from ca. 1650, type is said to dance when, the forme being lifted, letters fall out. The term appears in Randle Holmes's Armory, 1688.—3. Dance Barnaby, to move quickly. See Barnaby dance.

dance, fake a. To improvise a forgotten step. See fake a dance.

dance, lead (someone) a. To cause that person excessive worry, effort, etc. See lead (someone) a dance.

dance a haka. To exhibit joy, ‘dance with delight’: NZ coll.: since ca. 1890. (B., 1941.) The haka is a Maori ceremonial dance, wild and impressive. Cf. the Aus. corroboree, n. and v.

dance at your funeral, I'll or occ. he'll, she'll. ‘An old slanging-match catchphrase’ (Petch): late C.19–20.

dance barefoot. Applied to a girl whose younger sister marries before her: coll.; ca. 1590–1800. (OED). Cf. the Yorkshire dance in the half-pick, 'to be left behind as a bachelor, on a brother's marriage' (EDD).

dance the Paddington frisk or Tyburn jig. See dance, v., 1. dance the reel o' Stumpie or of bogie. To copulate: low Scots coll.: C.18–19. Also dance the miller's reel.

dance the stairs. To break into a flat or an office; do quick a 'job': c.: C.20. Charles E. Leach.

dance to a person's whistle, pipe, etc. To follow his lead; unquestioningly obey. Coll. >, by 1700, S.E.; from ca. 1560.

danceable. Fit to dance with: coll.: 1860, Wilkie Collins (OED).—2. (Of a tune) suitable for a dance: coll.: from ca. 1890 (Ibid.).

dancer. A 'cat' burglar: C.19 c. Cf. garreter and dancing-master.

dancers. Stairs; a flight of steps: from ca. 1670; until ca. 1840, c.; then low s. or archaic c. (Head; B.E.; Grose; Lytton.) The term, occ. heard in WW1 and since, is ob. Because one 'dances' down them.—2. (Also Merry Dancers) the Aurora Borealis: coll. > S.E., though in C.20 mainly dial.: 1717. SOD.—3. See track up...—4. As in, 'He had it on his dancers: he ran away' (Powis): c.: current in 1970s.

dancing. 'Locomotive wheels slipping on rail' (McKenna, Glossary, 1970): footplatemen's: C.20.

dancing-dog. (Gen. pl.) A dancing man: from ca. 1880; ob. Ware, 'A satirical title applied... when dancing began to go out.' It again became popular ca. 1905 and ca. 1919.

dancing-master. A species of Mohock temp. Queen Anne: coll. See Spectator, no. 324 (1712). This dandy-rough made his victims caper by thrusting his sword between their legs.—2. The hangman: late C.17—early 18; perhaps orig. c.—3. In c., a 'cat' burglar: ca. 1860–1900. (H., 3rd ed.) Cf. dancer. Also called a garreter (H., 3rd ed.).—4. A boxer continually 'dancing about': pugilistic.—1923 (Manchon).

dancing on the carpet. Summoned to the superintendent's office for investigation or reprimand: Can. railroadmen's: —1931.

dand. Abbr. dandy, a fop: ca. 1870–1900: perhaps more dial. than s. Hardy (OED).

dander. Anger; a ruffled temper: coll.; orig. (—1832) US, though perhaps ex English dial. as H. implies; (?re-) anglicised ca. 1860. Thackeray, in Pendennis, 'Don't talk to me... when my dander is up.' The SOD proposes derivation either ex dander = dandruff or ex dunder = ferment; the latter is preferable. But I suggest that the Romany dander, to bite, —dando, bitten, —may solve the problem. Whence dandered, angry, ruffled, anglicised ca. 1880 but never gen.—2. In have a dander, a malaudition of gander, 2, to crane one's neck to see.

dandi. See dandy, 5.

Dandies, the. The London Rifle Brigade: military: from ca. 1862. (F. & G.) Ex their smart appearance at the Hyde Park reviews.—2. The Dandenong Ranges, to the east of Melbourne: Aus.: later C.20. Barry Humphries, Nice Night's Entertainment, 1982, glossary.

dandification. The act or state of making look or looking like a dandy: coll., 1825+. Ex:

dandify. To make resemble, give the style of, a dandy: coll.; from ca. 1820. Whence the ppl. adj. dandified.

dandiprat; occ. dandyprat(t). A person physically, socially, or morally very insignificant: from ca. 1550; coll. till C.19. (The anon. play Lingua, 1580; Scott, 1821.) Ex the C.16–18 sense, a small coin worth 1½d.

dando. A heavy eater; esp. one who cheats restaurants, cafés, hotels, etc.: from ca. 1840; † by 1920: coll. Ex a 'seedy swell' so named and given to bilking. Thackeray; Macaulay, 1850, in Journal: 'I was dando at a pastry cook's.'

dandy; gen. the d. 'The ticket'; precisely the thing needed, esp. if fashionable. SOD records it at 1784; dandy, fop, occurring only four years earlier (? ex dandiprat), was perhaps s., or at the least coll., until ca. 1830.—2. Anglo-Irish, a small drink or 'go' of whiskey (—1838); ob.—3. Anything first-rate; also adj.: orig. (1794) Thornton), US, anglicised ca. 1905.—4. In the West Indies, with var. dandy fever, the coll. name for dengue fever: 1828. OED.—5. dandy, dandi. Anglo-Indian (coll. rather than s.) for a boatman on the Ganges; from ca. 1680. And for: a small hammock-like conveyance carried by two men; from ca. 1870.—6. In c., a bad gold coin:—1883. Ex the modicum of pure gold.—7. Homosexual (male), adj. and n.: mid-C.19–20; since ca. 1900, mainly rural. Cf. 'The Dandy Man', a country song noted, in 1904, by Cecil Sharp. (James Reeves.)—8. 'A small tumbler; commonly used for drinking punch' (P.W. Joyce, English... in Ireland, 1910): Anglo-Irish: mid-C.19–20. Ex sense 2.

dandy grey russet. A dirty brown: mid-C.18—early 19 coll. (Grose, 1st ed.) Cf. dial. dandy-go-russet.

dandy horse. A velocipede: County: ca. 1820–40. 'Jon Bee.'

dandy-master. The head of a counterfeiting gang (—1883): c. Dandy Ninth, the. The 9th (Service) Battalion of the Royal Scots: military: 1915. (F. & G.) 'Pride of the proud city are the... 9th Royal Scots, or Edinboro Highlanders, a territorial battalion, and the only kilted one in the regiment' (R.J.T. Hills, Something About a Soldier, 1934).

dandyfunk. Pounded biscuit mixed with water, fat, and marmalade, then baked: nautical: late C.19–20. (Bowen.) Prob. ironic.

dandyprat. See dandiprat.

dandysette. A female dandy: fast life: ca. 1820–35. (Spy, II, 1826.) Also dandizette or dandisette.

dang. A curse, a damn: late C.19–20. Exdang, v. To damn (e.g. dang me!): euph. dial. (from ca. 1790) >, ca. 1840, coll. (OED). Perhaps, as Dr Niels Haislund has proposed, a blend of damn + hang.

danger light; danger signal. A red nose: mostly Cockneys': C.20. Cf. beacon and strawberry, 2.

dangle-berries. Synon. with clinkers, 2, q.v.

dangle from. To coit with a woman: low: since ca. 1910. Esp. in 1970s, in the low comment between males admiring a female, 'Cor! I could dangle from that!' Cf. hang out of.

dangle in the Sheriff's picture-frame. To be hanged: (c. or) low: late C.18—early 19. Grose, 1st ed.

dangle-parade. A 'short-arm' inspection: NZ soldiers': WW1. Cf. dingle-dangle.

dangler. An emotional friendship between two boys: school-boys': C.20. A var. is dangling.—2. A trailer. See HAULIERS' SLANG, in Appendix.—3. See:-

danglers. A bunch of seals: c.:—1859 (H., 1st ed.): ex US?—2. Testicles: low: mid-C.19–20.—3. Medals: Services': since ca. 1915.

dangling. See dangler, 1.

Daniel, sling or take (one's). To decamp. See sling (one's) Daniel and take (one's) Daniel.

dank. Inferior; inefficient: FAA: since ca. 1945. See ace, adj. danna. Human ordure: C.18–19 c. Hence danna-drag, the night-man's cart, C.19 c. (Vaux), and danna-ken, the C.18 c. form of the C.19–20 dunnekin, which, orig. c., > s. and then, ca. 1900, low coll. and which, early in C.19, pervaded dial. danner. A dan-laying vessel: nautical coll.: late C.19–20. A dan is a small spar-buoy carrying a flag. (P-G-R.) See Dan Leno.

Dansker. (Gen. pl.) A Dane: nautical coll.: C.19–20. (Bowen.) I.e. Danish Dansker, the same. Cf. Shakespeare's use.

dant. A profligate woman; a harlot: C.16–17. Ex the Dutch, it is almost certainly c. or, at the least, low s. (Halliwell.) dantiprat. A var. (C.17) of dandiprat, q.v.

dap, v. To pick up; to steal, esp. luggage: c.: C.20. Perhaps ex S.E. dab, v., or do up.—2. To go; to potter: RAF, esp. in Iraq: ca. 1935–45. Esp. in dap about—across—over. (L.A.) Perhaps cf. Persian dav, 'a stroke at play; a wager'. P.B.: more likely, a thinning of uab: cf. dab-dab, or ex daps.

dapper was, at Eton ca. 1815–40, a gen. approbatory adj.: Spy, 1825.

daps. Slippers: army: late C.19–20. (B.&P.) Perhaps cognate with dial. dap, to move quickly and lightly (EDD). P.B.: since mid-C.20, = gym shoes.

darbies. As handcuffs (from ca. 1660), prob. orig. s., certainly soon coll.; but as fetters (from ca. 1670) always, though rare, s., ob. by 1860. Marryat, in Japhet, 'We may as well put on the darbies, continued he, producing a pair of handcuffs.' Ex a rigid form of user's bond called Father Derby's, or Darby's bands.—2. Sausages: C.19–early 20.—3. Fingerprints: c.:—1950 (Tempest). Perhaps a var. of synon. dabs.

darbies and joans. Fetters coupling two persons: from ca. 1735, ex Darby and Joan.

darble. The devil: a coll. corruption, i.e. orig. a sol., of Fr. diabole. From ca. 1850. (H., 1st ed.) P.B.: or, it is also a good representation of Sussex dial. pron., in which the values of a and e are interchangeable, and v becomes b.

darbs. (Playing) cards: late C.19–20. (Ernest Raymond, The Marsh, 1937.) P.B.: E.P. glossed this term as rhyming s. If true, it is very poor rhyme. To me it feels more like back s., the brads on the soles of boots looking like the pips on the cards.

Darby or Derby (pron. Darby). A common nickname of men surnamed Kelly: C.20. Ex the rhyming s. Darby Kelly, belly, as Julian Franklyn tells me this spring morning (5 April 1966).

darby. See darbies.—2. Ready money: from ca. 1675; orig. c., it > low ca. 1780; † by ca. 1850. B.E.; Estcourt, in Pru-nella, a play (? 1712), 'Come, nimbly lay down darby; come, pray sir: don't be tardy.' For etym., cf. darbies.—3. A wholly c. sense is the mid-C.19–20 one, a thief's 'haul'.

Darby and Joan. A telephone: rhyming s.: very late C.19–20.—2. Inseparable companions, with connotation of possible homosexuality: army in India: ca. 1880–1947. Pl, Darby and Joans. In a BBC Radio 4 programme in the series 'Plain Tales from the Raj', broadcast 26 Oct. 1975. (P.B.).—3. In on (one's) Darby and Joan, alone: rhyming s.: earlier C.20. (Gerald Kersh, Bill Nelson, 1942.) Cf. the, in later C.20, commoner on one's Tod, q.v. at Tod.

darby-ringer. A scamp; a petty crook: ca. 1795–1850 (Bill Truck, 1821). Definition a mere guess—perhaps cf. next-darby roll. A gait that results from the long wearing of shackles: from ca. 1820. (Bee.) Orig. a c. or a police term, it > low gen. s., never very common and now ob. Cf.:

darby's dyke. The grave; death: C.19 low, prob. orig. c.: cf.:

darby's fyke. The day on which a prisoner is removed from one prison to another for trial: C.19 low. Cf. darbies and darby roll.

dard. The membrum virile: C.17–18; low, perhaps c. Ex Fr. dard, a dart.

Dards, the. The Dardanelles: among soldiers serving, or having served, there: 1915 and then reminiscently. Patrick MacGill, Fear, 1920.

dare, n. A challenge; act of defiance: from late C.16; S.E. till late C.19, when it > coll.

dark, adj. Stupid, slow-witted, ignorant: ca. 1660–1720. Thomas Shadwell, The Squire of Alsatia, 1688, Act IV, in the scene between Sir William and his son, the latter says: 'I am not so dark neither; I am sharp, sharp as a Needle'.—2. Any person, place, thing not impregnated with Recordite principles: ecclesiastical: ca. 1855–80. (H.) Perhaps ex darkest Africa.—3. In get the dark, to be confined in a punishment cell: c.: from ca. 1880.

dark, keep it. Say nothing about it. See keep it dark.

dark and dirty. Rum and coke [Coca-Cola]: RM: later C.20. Hawke.

dark as a bag; dark as a pocket. Extremely dark (weather, night, room, etc.): the first gen. coll.; the second a nautical var. (Ware): latish C.19—earlier 20; superseded by black as a bag.

dark (occ. black) as Newgate knocker. See Newgate knocker, black as.

dark as the inside of a cow. (Of a night) pitch-black:

nautical: from ca. 1880. In Can., where the phrase is not merely nautical, it has the C.20 extension tail down and eyes shut. (Leechman.)

dark brown voice. A voice that is low, well-modulated, and sexually attractive: at first perhaps mainly feminine usage, then more gen.: since (?) ca. 1950. The phrase was used to describe the BBC Radio 3 announcer Patricia Hughes's voice in the Listener, 14 June 1979, and in an unrelated article in the magazine In Britain, July 1979. Perhaps from the idea in '[She] spoke seldom, but when she did it was in a voice like dark brown velvet and no one interrupted her' (Josephine Tey, Miss Pym Disposes, 1946). Cf. the Jamaican use of 'red voice', for one high-pitched with anger. (P.B.) dark cull(y). A married man with a mistress that he visits only at night: C.18—early 19 c. A New Canting Dict., 1725; Grose, 1st ed.

dark engineer. See ROGUES, in Appendix.

dark horse. A horse whose form is unknown to the backers but which is supposed to have a good chance: the turf; from ca. 1830. Disraeli, 'A dark horse ... rushed past the grand stand in sweeping triumph', 1831. Var., from ca. 1840, dark 'un.—2. Hence, a candidate or competitor of whom little is known: from ca. 1860; in C.20, coll.

dark house. The coll. form of dark-room, one in which madmen were kept: ca. 1600–1850.

dark it. (Esp. in imperative.) To say nothing, to 'cut it out': since ca. 1880, poss. earlier (B. & L.). It was current among tailors in early C.20 (Tailor and Cutter, 29 Nov. 1928). Cf. keep it dark.

dark-lantern. The Servant or Agent that Receives the Bribe (at Court) (B.E.): Ramsey Spencer dates it from 1679, and E.P. suggests nearly a century of currency.

dark money; dark time. 'Extra wages paid for night work' (McKenna, Glossary): railwaymen's: mid-C.20.

dark 'un. See dark horse.—2. A 24-hour shift: Aus. dockers' coll.: since mid-C.20. (Wilkes.) Cf.:—3. In cop a dark 'un, to be put on overtime in the winter: dockers': from ca. 1920. Daily Herald, late July or early Aug. 1936.

darkened. Closed (eye): pugilistic: since early C.19; ob. ('Ducange Anglicus'). Cf. 'I threatened him, that, if he was severe upon them, we would darken him' (give him a black eye), D. Haggart, Life, 1821.

darkey. See darkey.

Darkies. Generic for the Coal-Hole, the Cider Cellar, the Shades: ca. 1850–80. (These were places of midnight entertainment in or near the Strand.) Ware.—2. See darkey, 3.

darkman. A watchman: c.: C.18. (Anon., Street-Robberies Consider'd, 1728.) Independent of darkmans, for lit. it is a man working in the dark, i.e. at night.

darkmans. Night; twilight: mid-C.16–19 c. (Harman, B.E., Scott.) Occ. darkman. I.e. dark + -MANS, q.v. in Appendix.

darkman's budge. A nocturnal housebreaker's day-plus-night assistant: c.: late C.17–18. B.E.

darks, the; darkey. The night; occ. twilight: low; mid-C.18–20, ob. G. Parker, 1789 (darkey). As darkey, it was extant in itinerant entertainment, earlier C.20. In composition, bona darkey! = goodnight; 'I left the rub-a-dub last darkey'. (Lester, 1937.)

Darkey. 'Inevitable' nickname of men surnamed Knight: C.20. A pun on 'dark night'.—2. A nickname also of men surnamed Smith: military: late C.19–20. (F. & G.) Prob. at first a Gipsy nickname. Also, ironically, of men surnamed White (Observer, 20 Sep. 1936). Cf. next, 4.

darkey, darkey. See darks.—2. A dark lantern: ca. 1810–1910; either low or c. Vaux.—3. A Negro: coll.: orig. (1775: Thornton), US; anglicised not later than 1840.—4. A white man with a dark skin: a generic nickname, from ca. 1880.—5. A beggar that pretends to be blind: c.:—1851 (Mayhew).—6. (Usu. as darkey.) A night shift: Aus.: since ca. 1925. (B., 1953.) Cf. dark 'un, 2.

Darkey Cox. A box: rhyming: C.20. A theatrical box. 'Rarely used' (Franklyn 2nd).

darl. (Only in address and endearment.) Darling: Aus. coll.: C.20, but not gen. before ca. 1920. K.S. Prichard, Haxby's Circus, 1930; Jon Cleary, The Sundowners, 1952.

darling in post-WW1 society use as a term of address for even a comparative stranger is rightly considered s., though by 1933 it had > j.—P.B., 1979: in East Midlands dial. it is used in address as indiscriminately as the Londoners' 'Love' or Durham 'Flower'.

darling, adj. Charming; 'sweet': orig. Society feminine: since ca. 1900. E.F. Benson, The Osbornes, 1910, 'But indeed I want neither pictures nor a carpet, though it is darling of you to offer me them.'

Darling shower. A dust-storm: Darling-River vicinity (Aus.): coll.:—1898 (Morris).

darlingbysy. (?)Raw recruits: naval: (?)ca. 1790–1840. (Bill Truck, 1821.) Perhaps = darling boys, mothers' darlings.

darlings, the. The prostitutes of the King's Cross (Sydney) area: taxi-drivers', and the local residents': since ca. 1930. (B.P.)

Darlo. Darlington, Sydney: Sydneysites': from ca. 1920. See -o, coll. and s. suffix.—2. Darlington, Co. Durham: army, esp. troops stationed at Barnard Castle: current in 1970s.

dam, darnation, darned. A coll. form of damn, damnation, damned. ?orig. dial.; in C.19–20, mostly US and euph.

darning the water. 'Ships manoeuvring backwards and forwards before a blockade port': nautical: C.19. (Bowen.) Ex darning socks.

darry. 'Look. "Let's have a darry at your reader" = let me have a look at your book' (Tempest): prison: mid-C.20. Perhaps cf. derrey, 1, q.v. (P.B.). See also dairy, n. 2.

dart. In boxing, a dart-like, i.e. straight-armed blow: from ca. 1770; ob.—2. In Aus., idea, plan, scheme; ambition (—1887). Also, particular fancy, personal taste: from ca. 1894. Ex the idea of a 'darning' or sudden thought. Morris.—3. Hence, an illicit activity, a racket: Aus.: since ca. 1870. Sidney Baker, letter in the Observer, 13 Nov. 1938.—4. 'Dart is stuff (soil, sand, etc.) worth washing' (Wm Kelly, Life in Victoria, 1859).—5. 'A very quick try or last-minute effort' (H. & P.): Services': since ca. 1930; ob. Cf. have a stab at something.—6. See Old Dart.

dartboard. See secondhand dartboard.

Dartmoor crop. Short-cut hair: military: 1915; ob. Ernest Raymond, The Jestling Army, 1930.

Darts. Naval officers trained at Dartmouth: RN: C.20. See also Pubs.

dash, n. A tavern waiter: ca. 1660–1830. (B.E.) Either ex his dashing about or ex his adding to drinks a dash of this or that.—2. For cut a dash, see cut.—3. A gift; a tip: West Africa: from ca. 1780. Also v.: C.19. Ex dashée, a native word: in fact, dashée, n. and v., is the earlier, C.18 only, form of this 'Negriish' term (OED).—4. An attempt, esp. in have a dash at: coll.:—1931. Lyell. Cf. have a cut or smack at.—5. Dashboard of a motor-car: motorists' coll.: since ca. 1910.—6. In do (one's) dash, 'To reach one's Waterloo' (C.J. Dennis): Aus.:—1916.—7. In s'elp me Dash!, a rather illiterate euph. coll. var. (Manchon, 1923) of s'elp me God! Cf. dash!—8. In have a dash on, to bet heavily and/or wildly: turf: ca. 1865–1925. Cf. 4.

dash, v.i. To cut a dash; coll.; from ca. 1780.—2. (brewers and publicans) to adulterate: from ca. 1860. The Times, 4 Apr. 1871, in leader on the Licensing Bill, '[The publicans] too often... are driven to adulterate or dash the liquor.'

dash! An expletive: coll. always, but euph. only when consciously used as an evasion for damn!, which orig. it represented: from ca. 1810. Ex the dash in d—n. The most frequent variants are dash my wig(s), ca. 1810–80, and dash it all!, from ca. 1870.

dash my buttons! See damn (one's) buttons.

dash my wig(s). See dash!

dash of the tar-brush. See tar-brush.

dash off; dash out. To depart with a dash; come out with a dash: coll.: late C.18–20. Ex dash, v., 1. OED.

dash on to. See dashes.

dash up the channel. A coition: English coastal fishermen's: C.20. Mostly in the south, the English Channel being implied.

dashed, dashedly, adj., adv. Euph. coll. for damned, damnably: from ca. 1880. See dash! OED.

dasher. One who cuts a dash; esp. a showy harlot: from ca. 1790; coll. Dibdin, 'My Poll, once a dasher, now turned to a nurse.'—2. A brilliant or dashing attempt or motion: coll.:—1884; ob. OED.

dashes. A smacking, as in 'Give the chavvy [child] his dashes': market-traders': C.20. (M.T.) Hence also dash on to = to chastise; cf. dell, v.

dashing, n. A daring or brilliant action; a showy liveliness in manner, dress, gen. behaviour: coll.: ca. 1800–95.

dashing, adj. Fond of 'cutting a dash', making a show: from ca. 1800; coll. till C.20, when S.E.

dashy. 'Dashing', adj.; coll.; from ca. 1820 (perhaps after flashy); never very common and now (1935) ob.

date. An appointment, esp. with a member of the opposite sex: coll.: adopted, ex US, ca. 1905.—2. Hence, the person with whom one has a 'date': adopted, ca. 1944, ex US.—3. The anus: Aus. low: late C.19–20. Cf.:—4. The buttocks: market-traders': since ca. 1919. (M.T.) It doesn't have to derive from sense 3.—5. A 'soft' and silly person, a 'twit', esp. in the phrase soppy date: coll.: since late 1940s. Perhaps ex sense 3 or 4. Cf. the phrase you date! = 'Well, you are an odd sort': proletarian:—1923 (Manchon). See also daty.

date, v.i. To show its period, decade, year, etc., as in 'Fashion in dress dates so terribly'. Also, to be or become superseded, go out of fashion, quickly, as in 'Topicalities date so quickly'. Both senses are coll., somewhat cultured or, occ., snobbish, and arose ca. 1900: ex the v.t. sense, likewise coll. (1896: OED Sup.), to set definitely in a period, e.g. 'The War dates one so!'—2. V.t., to caress the buttocks: low: C.20. See date, n., 4.

date up. (Gen. in passive.) To fill the time of (a person) with appointments: from ca. 1930; orig. US. Ex date, n., 1.

dateless. (Usu. of a girl) silly; foolish; 'slow': coll.: since ca. 1938. Ex dial. (Knocked) unconscious, stupefied; foolish; crazy (EDD). Perhaps influenced by the fact that such a dim-witted wench might lack 'dates' with boys. Cf. daty.

datoo. 'A westerly wind in the Straits of Gibraltar and Western Mediterranean': nautical coll.: mid-C.19–20. (Bowen.) ?ex Arabic.

daty. Soft-headed; sun-struck: military: C.20. (F. & G.) By perversion ex the dial. dateless (knocked) unconscious.

daub. An artist: low coll.: mid-C.19–20. (H., 3rd ed.) Ex daub, a bad painting.—2. A bribe: either c. or low s.: C.18. A New Canting Dict., 1725. Ex:

daub, dawb, v. (Vbl n., daubing.) To bribe, gen. v.i.; low, perhaps orig. c.; ca. 1690–1850. (B.E.) Cf. grease a person's palms.

daw-daw; daw-yaw. Slow-witted: coll.: since ca. 1950. Ex a supposed yokelish stammer. (P.B.)

David, david; davy. An affidavit: the former, C.19–20; the latter from ca. 1760. In O'Hara's play, Midas, 1764, 'I with my davy will back it, I'll swear.' A facetious var. is Alfred David or Davy, q.v. Also as oath in 'so help me Davy, gen. rendered "swelp my Davy"', H., 5th ed., the purer form occurring in H., 2nd ed. (1860).—2. David Jones, see Davy.—3. See send it down, David.

David Jones; David Jones's locker. See Davy Jones's locker and Davy.

David's ow (as) drunk as. Beastly drunk. See drunk as David's ... at drinks, in Appendix.

Davy; Davy Jones; Old Davy; David Jones. The spirit of the sea: nautical; from ca. 1750, Smollett being, in Peregrine Pickle, the first to mention it in print. Davy Jones is the orig. form, David Jones is recorded by Grose in 1785, Old Davy occurs in Dibdin in 1790, Davy arises ca. 1800. ?Jonah > Jonas > Jones, the Davy being added by Welsh sailors: such is W.'s ingenious and prob. etymology, perhaps suggested by Davy Jones's locker, q.v.—2. See DAVID.

Davy Crockett. A pocket: theatrical rhyming s.: 1956+, (Franklyn.) In the mid-1950s there was a (completely commercially-inspired) burst of interest in the American folk-hero, and every little boy suddenly wanted a coon-skin cap. The name is still potent in the children's 'hall of fame', giving rise to such riddles as 'How many ears has Davy Crockett?' 'Three: a left ear, a right ear, and a wild front ear', thus commemorating the song about the 'King of the Wild Frontier'. (P.B)

Davy Debet or Debt. A bailiff: coll.: verging on S.E.: ca. 1570–90. (Gascoigne.) Apperson, 'Debt personified'.

Davy Jones's, later Davy's, locker. The sea, esp. as an ocean grave: nautical. An early occurrence is in The Journal of Richard Cresswell, 1774–7 (pub. 1924; at p. 12), "'D—m my eyes," says he, "they are gone to Davy Jones's locker." This is a common saying when anything goes overboard.' (Moe.)

Davy Jones's natural children. Pirates; smugglers: nautical, C.19. (Mostly officers'.)

Davy Jones's shocker. Not a torpedo, as defined by H. & P., but (Granville) a depth charge. Punning his locker.

Davy Large. A barge: rhyming s.: late C.19–20.

davy-man. That member of the crew of a ship captured by a privateer who was left aboard in order to swear an affidavit as to her nationality: naval coll.: C.19. Bowen.

Davy putting on the coppers for the parson(s). A nautical comment on an approaching storm: from ca. 1830; ob. This implies the sailors' belief in an arch-devil of the sea; cf.: Davy's dust. Gunpowder: from ca. 1830; ?orig. nautical. Ex Davy = the devil.

Davy's locker. See Davy Jones's locker.

Davy's sow. See drunk as David's sow, at DRINKS, in Appendix.

dawb. See daub.

dawg. A s. > coll. var of dog, q.v.: late C.19–20. Whence, perhaps orig. and certainly for the most part Aus., put on dawg, to put on 'side', to behave arrogantly: C.20. C.J. Dennis.

dawk, or dak, travel. To travel by relays, esp. in palanquins: Anglo-Indian (cf. dak bungalow, an inn, occ. a shelter-house, on a dak route); from ca. 1720; coll. >, by 1860, S.E. Ex Hindi.

dawn hopper. An enemy raider 'plane using the uncertain light at dawn to slip away and get home: RAF: 1940–5, then merely historical. H. & P.

daxie, daxy. Var. spelling of the now commoner dachsie, a dachshund: coll.: 1899 (OED Sup.).

day! Good day!: coll.: mid-C.19–20. Cf. afternoon!, morning! evening!, and night! used in precisely the same voice-and-manners-sparing way.—2. See it's not my day; call it a day; der Tag; that'll be the day!

day, day! Good day!; good-bye!: C.17–18 coll.; somewhat childish.

Day and Martin. A negro: ca. 1840–1910. Ware, 'Because D. & M.'s blacking was so black.' Cf. brown polish, q.v.

day and night. Light ale: late C.19–20. Rhyming on light.

day-and-light merchant. See copper-bottom, a driver who exceeds the regulation number of hours at the wheel.

day-bug. A day-boy: schoolboys': late C.19–20. (Ware.) Cf. night-flea.

day-lights. See daylights.

day-mates. The mates of the various decks: naval coll.: C.19. The singular is common, as in W.N. Glascock, The Naval Sketch-Book, 2nd series, 1834, I, 39 and 46. (Moe.)

day-on. 'Duty Boy' or officer-of-the-day: RN: since ca. 1925.

day-opener. An eye; usu. in pl.: pugilistic: ca. 1840–90. (Augustus Mayhew, Paved with Gold, 1857.) Cf. the much more gen. daylights.

day the omelette hit the fan, the. Used to describe a day 'When everything goes wrong': a fairly ephemeral adoption ex US, ca. 1966. A euph. var. of the commoner when the shit hit the fan, q.v. at shit hits...

day-tripper. A heartbreaker, esp. one who pretends to be serious, so that he may get his sexual way: 1966+. 'Obviously from the Beatles' song 'Day Tripper', released on 3 Dec. 1965' (Janssen).

daylight. A glass not full: university, ca. 1825–80. Ex the S.E. sense for the space between rim and liquor; the toast-tag, No daylights or heel-taps, is still occ. heard.—2. For burn daylight, see burn.—3. A space between a rider and his saddle: from ca. 1870.—4. See daylights.

daylight in the swamp! Time to get out of bed!: Can. c.p.: C.20.

daylight into one (coll.) or, both s., the victualing department or the luncheon reservoir, let or knock. To make a hole in, esp. to stab or shoot, hence to kill: in gen., from ca. 1840; but let daylight into one is low coll. recorded by the OED for 1793. In US make daylight shine through (a person) occurs as early as 1774 (Thornton). Cf. cook one's goose, settle one's hash.

daylights. The eyes: from ca. 1750. Esp. in the pugilistic phrase, darken one's daylights. Fielding, 'D—n me, I will darken her daylights'; Grose, 1st ed. With the nautical curse 'Blast your day-lights!' (Bill Truck, 1822) cf. top lights. By late C.20 ob., except in the phrase 'Scare (or knock) the living daylights out of (someone)', to frighten, 'esp. by unseen presence of another person, or fictitious threat' (L.A.), or as a threat of severe physical violence.

daymen. A synonym of idlers. Granville.

day's dawning. Morning: rhyming: C.20. Superior form: day's a-dawning. Franklyn.

day's pack (, the). Defaulters' punishment: military: C.20. (F. & G.) Abbr. pack-drill.

days to do. The overriding obsession of the National Servicemen, 1947–62: how many more days of their 2-year stint had they still to undergo. See esp. days to do're getting fewer in DCpp. (P.B.) dazzle(-)dust. Face-powder. See CANADIAN..., in Appendix.

dazzle with science. To out-box; fig., to defeat by sheer brains: coll.: C.20; since ca. 1940 at latest superseded by the now (late 1970s) widespread blind with science, q.v.

dazzler. A showy person, esp. a woman; a brilliant act: from ca. 1835.—2. A dazzling blow:—1883 (OED).—3. See bobby-dazzler.

de- is often used in a s. or coll. sense or connotation, as in de-bag, q.v. at debag.

deacon. A chimneysweep's scraper: chimneysweeps': C.19. (George Elson, The Last of the Climbing Boys, 1900.) Perhaps ex degen, a sword.—2. 'Boy who collects bread plates for replenishment': Bootham School: late C.19–20. (Bootham, 1925.) Cf. angel, 4, q.v.

deacon, v. This US word, implying illicit or fraudulent treatment, or behaviour, has not 'caught on' in the British Empire, except slightly in deacon off, to give (a person) the cue: late C.19–20. Cf. to doctor (OED).

dead, n. Abbr. dead certainty: racing, from ca. 1870; ob.—2. the dead, horses as dead certainties: turf: from ca. 1870; ob. B. & L.—3. An empty house: c.: later C.20. Now!, 10 Apr. 1981.—4. In on the dead, off liquor, teetotal: army: late C.19—early 20. (F. & G.) Prob. on the dead t.t. However, ca. 1890–1910, it seems to have been applied to one who has actively ceased to be a teetotaler.

dead, adj. (rarely) and adv. (often), has a coll. tinge that is hard to define: this unconventionality may spring from one's sense of surprise at finding so grave a word used to mean nothing more serious than incomplete, inferior, or than very, directly, straight, etc. See the ensuing phrases. It is, however, doubtful if dead drunk and analogous terms were ever, despite one's subjective impression, coll.: their antiquity is a hindrance to accurate assessment. The dead phrases may be spelt with or without a hyphen. Dead, as an adv., has, since ca. 1940, been increasingly popular, esp. among teenagers, in the nuances 'extremely', e.g. 'He's dead nice', and 'completely', e.g. 'Don't be dead stupid'. These usages apparently spring immediately ex such phrases as 'dead tired' and 'to stop dead', as a very intelligent teenager has suggested in a letter, 1965. The adj. may be intensified (as) dead as mutton or ... as Queen Anne. The following are adj. usages:—2. Among tailors, it is applied to work that has been already paid for with a 'sub' in bad times and is being done in better times: from ca. 1870. Ex dead horse, q.v.—3. (Of a horse) that is to be prevented from winning: Aus. low: C.20. Dal Stivens, Jimmy Borchett, 1951.—4. Type matter that has been run off but is still standing; copy that has been set; hence, anything that may now be discarded' (Leechman): printers' coll.: late C.29–20.

dead against. Strongly opposed to: from ca. 1850. Coll. >, ca. 1890, S.E. but not literary.

dead air-gunner. Spam (a kind of tinned meat-loaf): RAF: 1940+. (L.A.) Cf. they hose(d) them out, q.v.

dead alive, dead and alive. (Of persons) dull, mopish, cf. deadly lively, q.v.: C.16–20. S.E. till mid-C.19, then increasingly coll.—2. Hence of things, esp. places: dull, with few amusements, little excitement ('a dead-and-alive hole'): coll.; from ca. 1850; now S.E.

dead amiss. Incapacitated, as applied to a horse: the turf: ca. 1860–1910. H., 3rd ed.

dead and done-for look, have a. To look most woe-begone, wretched: coll.:—1887 (Baumann).

dead! and (s)he never called me 'mother'! A C.20 c.p. satiric of melodrama, whence, in point of fact, the phrase is drawn. (Christopher Bush, The Case of the April Fools, 1933.) See DCpp. The usu. late C.20 form is dead, dead, and never called me mother!

dead as dado, as. Completely, or long, dead: Aus.: since ca. 1930; orig. a solecism for S.E. as dead as the dodo, but soon > coll. (B.P.)

dead as a door-nail, a (shotten) herring, Julius Caesar, mutton, small beer, a tent-peg. Quite dead. All coll. orig.; all except the first still coll. The door-nail phrase occurs as early as 1350 and is found in Piers Plowman,—it was S.E. by 1600; the herring, C.17–20, e.g. in Rhodes's Bombastes Furioso, 1790; the mutton, from (—)1770; the other three are C.19–20, though tent-peg has since ca. 1910 been rare. Origins: door-nail is perhaps the striking plate of a door-knocker; a herring dies very soon after capture; Julius Caesar is deader than Queen Anne; mutton is by definition the flesh of a dead sheep; a tent-peg, like a door-nail, is constantly being hit on the head. Small beer is soon flat and ancient. Dial. has the synonyms: dead as a hammer, maggot, nit, rag, smelt (EDD). NZ and Aus. coll. has ... moa, a large flightless bird that was hunted to extinction in NZ: C.20. Baker. dead-beat, n. A worthless idler, esp. if a sponger as well: orig. (—1875) US, anglicised ca. 1900 and now verging on coll.—2. A man down on his luck or stony-broke: Aus. s.: since ca. 1870. The Detectives' Handbook, ca. 1880.—3. Meat: rhyming s.:—1914 (B. & P.).

dead beat, adj. Completely exhausted: from ca. 1820; coll. Pierce Egan in Tom and Jerry, 'Logic was ... so dead-beat, as to be compelled to cry for quarter.'

dead bird. A certainty: Aus.: from ca. 1895; slightly ob. Morris, 'The metaphor is from pigeon-shooting, where the bird being let loose in front of a good shot is as good as dead.'

dead broke. Penniless; occ., bankrupt or ruined: coll.: from ca. 1850.

dead-broker. A dead-beat: Aus.: since ca. 1890. B., 1942.

dead cargo. Booty less valuable than had been expected: C.18–20, ob.; c. A New Canting Dict., 1725; Grose, 1st ed.

dead centre. A cemetery: joc.: since ca. 1940.

dead certainty; soon > dead cert. A horse, etc., supposed to be certain to win; a thing sure to happen: coll.: since ca. 1860. Cf. S.E. moral certainty.

dead chocker. Utterly bored: Services' coll., ca. 1950–70; adopted by the coffee-bar set of teenagers ca. 1955–9. (Gilderdale). (P.B.)

dead chuffed. Highly delighted: details as prec.

dead cinch. An intensive of cinch (q.v.) in sense of 'dead cert'. Collinson.

dead clever these Chinese! See clever chaps these Chinese.

dead cop. A sure way to win, or to make money: sporting: from ca. 1870; ob. (B. & L.) Cf. cop, v., 5.

dead-copper. An informer to the police: low Aus.: since ca. 1920 (B., 1943). By the 1970s, at latest, in Aus. prison s., it had become simply copper. (McNeil.)

dead earnest, in. In S.E., most earnest(ly); as coll., undoubtedly, in very truth: from ca. 1870.

dead easy is a C.20 Cockneys' coll. phrase to describe any such woman (other than a prostitute) as is ready to go home and sleep with a man.

Dead End Kids. Self-description of RNVR Lieutenants despairful of becoming Lieutenant-Commanders: 1942–5. (Granville.) Cf. Abbeville Kids, q.v.—2. 'Some American ferry-pilots made a habit of flying through the most appalling weather. We [British ATA pilots] nicknamed them the "Deadend Kids" ... To this day the term "Dead-ending" persists to describe flying through unusually bad weather (Anthony Phelps, I Couldn't Care Less, 1946).

dead-end street. The female pudend: Can.: since ca. 1930.

dead eyes for square? Shall I pass at divisions (examinations)?: Conway Training Ship: from ca. 1890; ob. Masefield. dead-eyes under. (Of a ship) listing heavily: nautical: mid-C.19–20. (Bowen.) Graphically proleptic.

dead fall. A Western stunt rider in motion pictures: cinematic: since ca. 1925.

dead finish, the. The extreme point or instance of courage, cruelty, excellence, endurance, etc.: Aus. coll.:—1881 (OED Sup.). Prob. ex finish, n., 1.

dead for ado. Dead and done with: C.16–17: coll. > S.E. SOD.

dead from the neck up. Brainless; habitually tongue-tied: since ca. 1920. S.P.B. Mais, Caper Sauce, 1948.

dead frost. A fiasco, complete failure: theatrical; from ca. 1875. Rare in C.20, when a complete frost is preferred and used over a much wider range.

dead give-away. A notable indication, or revelation, of guilt or defect: from ca. 1860.

dead gone. Utterly exhausted or collapsed: coll.; from ca. 1870.

dead hand. An expert: Aus.: since ca. 1925. Baker.

dead handsome. 'Said of a circumstance that is fortunate and that turns, by whatever means, to one's advantage' (L.A., who first heard it on 10 Nov. 1959): since ca. 1955.

dead head. One who travels free, hence eats free, or, esp., goes free to a place of entertainment (cf. paper): coll.: orig. US (1849: Thornton), anglicised ca. 1864. Daily Telegraph, 21 May 1883, "'Lucia di Lammermoor' is stale enough to warrant the most confirmed deadhead in declining to help make a house.' Whence v., and dead-headism. Orig. of 'passengers not paying fare, likened to dead head (of cattle), as opposed to live stock' (W.).—2. A locomotive that, not under power, is being hauled back in another train: Can. railwaymen's: C.20.—3. 'Railway personnel riding back without working. Also as verb' (Priestley): Can. railwaymen's: since ca. 1910.—4. A useless person, 'dead-beat' or 'no-hoper': since ca. 1950. (P.B.)—5. A brakeman: Can. railroadmen's:—1931. Cf. sense 3.

dead heat. A race in which two (or more) competitors—animals or men—reach the goal simultaneously: since ca. 1820 (Bee, 1823); coll. > S.E. by 1880.

dead horse. Work to be done but already paid for, work in redemption of a debt; hence, distasteful work. Often as work for a or the dead horse, C.17–20, or draw or pull a ..., the former C.19–20, the latter C.17–18. Cartwright, 1651; B.E., who implies the use of a dead horse as also a trifle. Coll. Aus. variants: ride the dead horse (A. Harris, Settlers and Convicts, 1847) and work off the dead horse.—2. A shooting star: West Indies coll.: from ca. 1850. Ex a native Jamaican belief.—3.

Sauce: Aus. rhyming s.: C.20. Baker.—4. In flog (usu. flogging) a or the dead horse, to work to no, or very little, purpose; make much ado about nothing; cry after spilt milk: coll.: from ca. 1840.

dead legs. A lazy or stupid or useless person: army and RAF; mildly abusive: since ca. 1950. (P.B., 1974.)

dead lair. A flashily over-dressed man. See lair.

dead lights. The eyes: nautical: from ca. 1860.

dead lock, in the sense of an impasse, is recorded by Hotten, but has prob. always been S.E.—2. A lock hospital: Cockneys': 1887; ob. Ware.

dead loss. A person, place or thing that is decidedly 'dud' (dull; inefficient; without amenities): RAF, since ca. 1940; hence, post-WW2, gen. coll. Orig. cited by W/Cdr. R.P. McDouall, 1945: ex a plane no longer serviceable.—2. Hence, of a job, or a course of action, lacking prospects; unpromising: since ca. 1946.—3. See next.

Dead Louse. The Daedalus ship of war: late C.18—mid-19 nautical. (Grose, 2nd ed.) Also Dead Loss (Ware at Fiddler).

dead low. (Of an atmosphere) absolutely still: nautical coll.: C.19—20. Bowen.—2. A very low barometer reading: Can. scientific coll.: since ca. 1910. (Leechman.) P.B.: these two senses may be one, for, e.g., in the dead centre of a typhoon, where the barometer registers very low indeed, the atmosphere is completely 'dead'.

dead lurk. Robbing a house during divine service: c. and low:—1851; ob. Mayhew.

dead man. (Very rare in singular.) An empty bottle or pot at a drinking-bout or the like: late C.17—20; orig. military. (B.E.) Cf. the later dead marine.—2. A loaf charged for but not delivered, or smuggled away by a baker's man to his master's prejudice: bakers', from ca. 1760. Grose, 2nd ed.—3. Hence the † sense, a baker (—1860).—4. A scarecrow; non-aristocratic coll.: from ca. 1870; ob. B. & L.—5. 'Why don't they tuck-in those dead-men out of sight'—glossed as 'the platted reef-points of the sails when carelessly hanging beneath the yard, when the sail is furled' (Glascock, Sketch-Book, I, 11, 1825): naval: ca. 1790—1850. (Moe.)—6. A supernumerary: coll.: ca. 1650—1800. (Pepys.) Cf. dead 'un, 5.

dead man's effects. False teeth: Services': since ca. 1939. (H. & P.) Often the only thing he has to leave.

dead man's lurk. The extorting of money from a dead man's relatives: c.: from ca. 1850. See lurk.

dead marine. An empty bottle at or after a carouse: orig. nautical; from ca. 1820.

dead matter. Type that has been run and could now be 'dissed': Can. printers' coll.: C.20.—2. Hence, anything that, used or finished, can now be either returned to its place or discarded: Can. coll.: since ca. 1920. (Leechman.)

dead meat. A corpse: from ca. 1860. Cf. cold meat, croaker, pickles, stiff 'un.—2. (Also frozen meat.) A prostitute, opp. fresh meat, a non-prostitute: low: late C.19—20.

dead men. See dead man, esp. 1 and 5; make dead men chew tobacco.

dead men's shoes, waiting for. Expecting inheritances: C.16—20: coll.; S.E. after ca. 1700. Phineas Fletcher, 'Tis tedious waiting dead men's shoes.' P.B.: in C.20, it is almost always a man's position or office that is awaited, as 'What's promotion like here?' 'Oh, it's dead men's shoes all the time'. Dead Men's Shoes Department, the. That section of Air Ministry Personnel Branch [that was] responsible for returning to the next-of-kin the personal effects of casualties: WW2' (R.S., 1971).

dead nail. A rogue. See nail, n., 1.

dead nap. A thorough rogue: provincial low s., C.19—20, ob. Cf.:

dead nip. An insignificant project turning out a failure: provincial s., C.19—20, ob.

dead number. The last number in a row or street; perhaps the end of the street': Cockneys': late C.19—20; ob. Ware.

dead nuts on. A C.20 intensification of nuts on, q.v., delighted with. See also dead on.

dead oh!, deado. Adv., in the last stage of drunkenness: naval; from ca. 1850.

dead on. Clever at; extremely fond of; hence, at first ironically, very inimical towards: coll.; from ca. 1865; ob. Cf. the earlier nuts on, q.v.—2. A var. of dead steady, q.v.—3. Absolutely right: since ca. 1945. Ex the RAF sense of 'right on the target'. Brendan Behan, Borstal Boy, 1958.

dead one. See dead un.

dead-oner. A fatal casualty: army: WW1. (B. & P.) Occ. corrupted to deadomer.

dead-pan (expression). Expressionless; impassive: adopted, ca. 1944, ex US servicemen. Ex US s. dead pan, an expressionless 'pan' or face (cf. the Eng. s. dial)—orig., theatrical.

dead pay. Money drawn by 'widows' men' (q.v.): naval coll.: mid-C.19—20. Bowen.

dead pony gaff. A bad site: showmen's, esp. grafters': C.20. dead ring—or spit—of, the. Exactly, or almost, like; 'a remarkable likeness' (C.J. Dennis): Aus.: C.20. Ring ex next; spit perhaps ex spitting image, and also Brit.

dead ringer of (or for). A 'spitting image': esp. Aus., C.20; also Can., and perhaps later, Brit. The valet dressed in black (played by Eric Adjani, brother of Isabelle, and a dead ringer for her) is probably an illegitimate son of Don Giovanni' (Guardian, 24 Jan. 1979). Cf. prec. (Mrs C. Raab.) Cf. also ringer, 6, in the sense 'any genuine-appearing fake' (P.B.).

dead set. A persistent and pointed effort, attempt; esp. such an attack. From ca. 1720. C. >, in the 1770s, s. or coll. (low). A New Canting Dict., 1725, 'Dead Set, a term used by Thief-catchers when they have a certainty of seizing some of their Clients, in order to bring them to Justice.' Cf. 'I have a dead set upon the Rogues' (anon., The Prison Breakers, 1725) and 'Certain persons ... are making a dead set against the field sports of Britain' (Globe, 2 Nov. 1889).—2. Also, ca. 1780—1860, 'a concerted scheme to defraud a person by gaming', Grose, 1st ed.: like sense 1, it is c.—3. The extant senses—a determined onslaught, an incessant attempt, and (in sport) an abrupt stop—date from ca. 1820, derive from those two c. senses, and are gen. considered S.E.: prob., however, they were orig. coll.

dead soldier. A C.20 army var. of dead marine, q.v. B. & P. dead sow's eye. A button-hole badly made: tailors': from ca. 1840; ob. by 1930.

dead spit and image, the. The exact facsimile: Can. coll.: since ca. 1910. (Leechman.) In Brit. Eng. often appears, later C.20, as the spitten image. (P.B.).

dead spotted ling of. Very much like, strikingly similar to: Aus.: since ca. 1910. (B., 1942.) Rhyming on dead ring of.

dead steady or dead on. Applies to 'a good fellow': Guardsmen's: since ca. 1920. Roger Grinstead, They Dug a Hole, 1946.

dead stick is applied to the controls of an engine that has stopped: RAF: since ca. 1925. (Jackson.) Hence in phrases like 'a dead-stick landing' (Claiborne).—2. A contretemps in which all the actors get muddled. See sticking. Cf.:-

dead struck. (Of actors) breaking down very badly in a performance: theatrical; ca. 1860—1930.

dead swag. In c., booty that cannot be sold: C.19—20. Cf. dead cargo.

dead thick. Wide-awake and cunning (or clever): low Glasgow: late C.19—20. MacArthur & Long.

dead to rights. Adv., certainly, undoubtedly; absolutely. ?orig. US; in England from ca. 1895, but never gen. and now ob. Cf. to rights, q.v.—2. In the (criminal) act c. and low: late C.19—20. James Spenser, Limey Breaks In, 1934, 'I had been caught "dead to rights", as the crooks say.' Cf. bang to rights.

dead to the wide. Utterly drunk. See wide.

dead to the world. Utterly drunk: s. verging on coll.: C.20. P.B.: in later C.20 its use often implies simply 'very deeply asleep'.

dead trouble, be in. Mostly in the Services: 'to have flouted regulation or discipline, wittingly or not, in such a way that condign punishment is inescapable' (L.A., 1976): since ca. 1930. This use of dead seems, in such contexts, to be for deadly, but in many—as, e.g., ‘That’s dead easy’—it is clearly an adv. meaning ‘extremely’.

dead un (or ‘un’). In C.19–20 c., an uninhabited house. Cf. dead, n., 3.—2. A half-quartern loaf: from ca. 1870.—3. A horse that will be either scratched, ‘doped’, or ‘pulled’ (cf. safe un, q.v.): the turf, from ca. 1870. H., 5th ed.; Hawley Smart in Social Sinners, 1880.—4. A bankrupt company: commercial: late C.19–20. (Ware.) Cf. cadaver.—5. A super-numerary that plays for nothing: theatrical: from ca. 1860; ob. B. & L.

dead uns, make. To charge not only for loaves delivered but also for loaves not delivered: bakers’: mid-C.19–20. B. & L.

dead with. See would not be seen dead with.

deadbeat. See dead-beat.

deadend kids. See Dead-End Kids.

deadener. A bully; one who, strong and quarrelsome, tends to resort to his fists: Aus.: C.20. Archer Russell, Gone Nomad, 1936.

deader. A funeral: military: ca. 1865–1910.—2. A corpse: from ca. 1880. Conan Doyle.—3. Be a deader also = to be (very recently) dead: late C.19–20.

deadhead. See dead-head.

deadlights. See dead-lights.

deadlock. See dead-lock.

deadly. Excessive; unpleasant; very dull (gen. of places): from mid-C.17; coll. Cf. awful, grim.—2. Adv., excessively; very: coll.; from late C.19. The SOD records deadly slow at 1688, deadly dull at 1865.

deadly-lively, adj. and adv. Alternately—or combining the—dull (or depressing) and the lively; with forced joviality, esp. to no purpose: coll.: 1823 (‘Jon Bee’). Cf. deadalive.

deadly nevergreen(s). The gallows: late C.18—early 19. Grose, 2nd ed.

deadly nightshade. ‘A shameless prostitute of the very lowest class’ (B. & L.): ca. 1860–1930.

deado. A corpse: since ca. 1950. David Craig, Faith, Hope and Death, 1976.—2. See dead oh!, dead drunk.

deadomer. See dead-oner.

deads. Dead drunk; fast asleep (dead to the world): RN: since ca. 1920. (P-G-R.) Cf. dead oh!

deady. Gin (—1812): Tom Moore, 1819. The SOD says: ‘Distiller’s name’; F. & H.: ‘From Deady, a well-known gin-spinner.’ Ob., except in US dead-eye.

Deaf and Dumb. The Ministry of Information: taxi-drivers’: ca. 1940–5. Weekly Telegraph, 13 Sep. 1941.

deaf as the mainmast. Exceedingly deaf: nautical coll.: C.19–20. W.N. Glascock, Naval Sketch-Book, I, 1825. (Moe.)

deaf one (or ‘un’). A cooked fig: military: from ca. 1912. (S. Rogerson, Twelve Days, 1933.) Figs gen. cause a soft stool.—2. In cock or turn a deaf ‘un, not to listen: late C.19–20 c. Charles E. Leach. (I.e., ear.)

deal, a. A lot (of . . .): coll.; from C.16. ‘Pregnantly for a good or great deal, etc.’ (OED).—2. Hence, adv., much: coll.: mid-C.18–20.—3. (Always thus.) ‘I had a deal last night’—a successful crime: c.: C.20. F.D. Sharpe, The Flying Squad, 1938.—4. ‘Small amount of cannabis. May refer to an ounce of hashish’ (Home Office): drug-users’: current in 1970s.—5. In do a deal, to conclude a bargain: coll.: late C.19–20. See also wet the deal, to drink to the bargain just made.

deal it out (to). To deal out punishment (to a person): Aus. coll.:—1916 (C.J. Dennis).

deal of glass about, there’s a. A person or a thing is showy; first-rate, ‘the tigger’. Prob. ex imitation, paste, jewellery. From ca. 1880; †.—2. Hence, a c.p. retort to the boast of an achievement: low coll.: ca. 1880–1914.

deal of weather about, there’s a. We’re in for a storm: nautical coll.: mid-C.19–20. Ware.

deal suit. A coffin, esp. if parish-provided: coll.: from ca. 1850. Cf. eternity box and the Fr. paletot sans manches.

Dean. A fairly common nickname of men surnamed Swift: late C.19–20. Ex that Dean Swift who wrote Gulliver’s Travels. Men surnamed Dean, however, are nicknamed ‘Dixie’.

dean. A small piece of wood tied round a small faggot: Winchester College; from ca. 1850. Cf. bishop, n., 3.

Dean and Dawson was Stalag Luft III’s prisoner-of-war-in-Germany s. for their forgery department: 1942–5: Brickhill & Norton, Escape to Danger, 1946. Ex the fact that it handled passports, identity cards and other ‘papers’; in short, a compliment to the well-known firm of travel agents.

deaner, occ. denar, deener, or denex. A shilling: from ca. 1835; orig. tramps’ c.; in C.20, racing and low. Common in Aus. (Brandon; H., 1st ed.; The Times, 12 Oct. 1864.) Prob. ex Fr. denier or Lingua Franca dinarly.—2. (Deaner.) Dean of a college: Oxford undergraduates’: Daily Telegraph, 14 Aug. 1899.—3. One penny: c.: mid-C.20. (Tempest.) Perhaps confused with dee.

dear! o(h) dear! Mild coll. exclamations (cf. dear me!, q.v.): resp. C.19–20, late C.17–20. (OED.) Perhaps oh dear! = oh, dear God or Lord; dear is an abbr. of oh dear!

dear John, n. A girl’s letter telling a man in the Armed Forces that she no longer loves him. Orig. US, since 1942, >, by 1945, Can., by ca. 1950, Brit. In the very early 1950s there was a ‘pop’ song, of which one stanza ran ‘Dear John, Oh, how I hate to write! Dear John, I must let you know tonight/That my love for you has gone/Like the dew upon the lawn/and I’m to wed another, dear John.’ (P.B.)—2. Hence, a very friendly letter, beginning with his first name and telling an officer that his services were no longer required, owing to the reunification of the Armed Forces: Can. forces’: 1965+. (Leechman.)

Dear Joy. An Irishman: coll.: late C.17—early 20. (B.E.; Grose.) Ex a favourite Irish exclam. Cf. dear knows!: C.19–20: coll.: Northern Ireland and English provinces: abbr. the dear Lord knows! Cf. quotations in Thornton.

Dear Little Innocents. The Durban Light Infantry: military in Boer War. J. Milne, The Epistles of Atkins, 1902. Contrast Devil’s Later Issue.

dear me! A mild exclam.: coll.: from ca. 1770. Perhaps ex It. Dio mi (salvi)!, God save me! (W.) In dial. there are at least thirteen synonyms: EDD.

dear Mother, I am sending you ten shillings – but not this week. A lower classes’ and military c.p. of C.20. (B. & P.) See DCpp. Cf. the WW2 c.p.: ‘Dear Mother, please send me one pound and the Christian Herald. P.S. Don’t bother with the Christian Herald.’

dear Mother, it’s a bastard! with the cruel ‘dovetail’ response, dear Son, so are you!, is a Services c.p., since mid-C.20 (?earlier), generated by:-

dear Mother, it’s a bugger! A military c.p., expressive of disgust with Service life: elliptical for . . . sell the pig and buy me out, to which there is a ‘dovetail’ retort, ‘Dear Son, pig’s gone. Soldier on!’: since ca. 1910.

dear old pals! ‘A derisive chanted cat-call or song when boxers funk action or are in a clinch’ (Petch): boxing spectators’: C.20. Ex the song ‘Dear old pals, jolly old pals’.

dear-stalker. A wealthy idler addicted to ogling and following pretty shop or office girls: C.20; slightly ob. by 1940. (H.A. Vachell, Quinney’s, 1914.) Pun on dear, deer.

dearee. A C.18 var. of dearie. (OED.)

dearest member. The membrum virile. From ca. 1740: orig. literary and euph.; from ca. 1870, joc. and coll.

dearie, deary. A low coll. form of address used by women: since late C.17. Susanna Centlivre, Marplot in Lisbon, 1711, Act I, scene in Don Perreira’s house, where it is used, as deary, by husband and wife to each other.

deary me! Slightly more sorrowful or lugubrious than dear me! (q.v.): coll. (?orig. dial.): from ca. 1780. OED.

death. In done to d-, too fashionable; trite: coll.:—1887 (Baumann); >, by 1910, S.E.—2. In in the death, finally; at last: since ca. 1945. (Norman.) Perhaps ex S.E. in the death.

death adder. Machine-gun: Aus. soldiers’: 1940+. B., 1942.—2. (Mostly in pl.) A gossip; a cynic, esp. if old: Northern Territory (Aus.): since ca. 1930. Ernestine Hill, The Territory, 1951.

death adder man. An eccentric solitary, more often called a hatter: mostly northern Aus.: since ca. 1920. 'Some of them go under the name of death adder men, for it is reckoned they will bite your head off if spoken to before noon' (Jock Marshall & Russell Drysdale, Journey among Men, 1962, p. 56). Cf. prec., 2.

death adders in (one's) pocket, have. To be extremely mean with money: Aus.: since ca. 1920. Baker.

death chamber. 'The high tension cubicle of a diesel [locomotive]' (McKenna, Glossary): railwaymen's, esp. diesel drivers', s.: since mid-C.20.

death drop. Butyl chloride, a very powerful drug: C.20 c.

death hunter, later death-hunter. One who, to newspapers, supplies reports of deaths: from ca. 1730. Foote.—2. A seller of last dying speeches: from ca. 1850; coll.; ob. by 1895, † by 1910. Mayhew. Hence vbl n. death-hunting, the selling of 'last dying speeches'.—3. Robber of an army's dead (—1816): ob. by 1860, † by 1890.—4. An undertaker: late C.18–20. Grose, 1st ed.—5. Anyone else engaged in, living by, funerals: from ca. 1870; ob. H., 5th ed.—6. An insurance agent: mostly lower classes:—1934.

death on. (With to be.) Very fond of; clever or capable at dealing with: orig. (—1847) US; anglicised ca. 1875. (Cf. dead (nuts) on, nuts on.) In US (1842. Thornton), it also = fatal to—a sense anglicised ca. 1890.

Death or Glory Boys. The 17th Lancers: military coll.: late C.18–20. F. & G., 'From their badge, a death's head with the words "Or Glory."' Cf. Bingham's Dandies and Horse Marines, qq.v.

death or glory lads, the. The Commandos: army: 1942–5.

death rattle, the. 'What we [British Army, WW1] called the "tune" of the German machine-guns' (Petch, 1969). Cf. pom-tiddly-om-pom, q.v.

death seat, the. The front seat, next to the driver: Aus. motorists' coll.: since ca. 1945. The occupant is the most likely to be killed in an accident. (B.P.) Cf. ride shot-gun, q.v.

death-tally. An identity disc: RN: C.20. PGR.

death warmed up. See feel like...

death-warrant is out, my (or his or your). A police c.p., dating from the late C.19. Clarence Rook, London Side-Lights, 1908, 'When a constable is transferred against his will from one division to another the process is alluded to in the force in the phrase, "His death-warrant is out." For this is a form of punishment for offences which do not demand dismissal.'

death watch. Attendance upon a man condemned to death: prison officers': C.20. Tempest, 1950.

death's head upon a mop-stick. 'A poor, miserable, emaciated fellow' (Grose, 1st ed.): late C.18–early 19.

deathy. A death adder: Aus. coll.: late C.19–20. Sidney H. Courtier, The Glass Spear, 1951.

deb. A bed: back s.: since ca. 1845. Mayhew, I.—2. A débutante in society: coll. from ca. 1919; prob. ex US. See esp. Dorea Stanhope's series, 'The Débutante Market' in Time and Tide, July 1934; Michael Harrison, Weep for Lycidas, 1934, 'The usual dreary deb-parades they have in the country.'

deb, v. A WW1 term belonging to a certain English division, spreading to the other divisions of the same corps, and derived from the name of its commander, reputed to do this: (Of a general) to delay the zero hour of his attack until after the zero hours of the troops on his flanks and thus to ensure the safety of his flanks.

deb chick. A débutante beatnik: mostly beatniks': late 1950s. (Anderson.) Punning S.E. dab chick.

debag (orig. usu. de-bag). An Oxford and (less) Cambridge term, from ca. 1890: to remove the 'bags' or trousers of (an objectionable fellow student). By early C.20, much more widespread usage. Cf.:-

debagged. Struck off the rolls: since ca. 1920. 'Sapper' uses it in Bulldog Drummond at Bay, 1935. Ex debag.

debater. A debating society: Oxford undergraduates': C.20. The 'OXFORD -ER'.

debbery. The state of being, the occasion of being presented as, a débutante—a practice that ceased in 1958: since the 1920s; by 1970, slightly ob.

debblish. A penny: S. Africa: from ca. 1870; †.

debollicker. A small British mine that, trodden upon, fired a bullet upwards: Army: 1941+. (P-G-R.) The de-connotes 'removal'; for the main element, cf. ballock, testicle.

debs. Debenture stock: Stock Exchange:—1896.

deb's delight, a. A 'highly-eligible [for marriage] chinless wonder', with plenty of money and little brain-power—the plebeian view of the upper-class young man: since ca. 1960 (?earlier). (P.B.)

debtor's colic. 'Any feigned illness whereby a man can get into hospital, or remain sick in his cell, in order to avoid meeting his creditors. Every prison has its bad payers and when these report sick word goes round that "so-and-so has debtor's colic"' (Tempest): prison s.: mid-C.20.

debug. To rectify mechanical, electrical, etc. faults: motorcyclists'. (Dunford.) Used also of computers and computer programmes: coll., verging on j: adopted, ex US, ca. 1955. (P.B.) debuggerable. Disreputable: 1930s.

debus, (loosely debuss), v.i. To get out of a bus or any motor transport: military s. (1915) >, by 1918, coll. Opp. embus(s). Hence, a debusing point was the place at which the men left the vehicles. (F. & G.) P.B.: by WW2 these terms, with the similar en- and de-train, em- and de-plane, had > military j. decanterbury pilgrims. Those who, during the shortages in 1915–16, made the rounds in search of whisky: 1915–16, then historical (Reginald Pound, The Lost Generation, 1964). A pun on Chaucer's The Canterbury Pilgrims and on 'to decant'.

decarb. To decarbonise: motorists' coll.: since ca. 1915. See decoke.

dece (pron. deece). Exceptionally good; 'wonderful': Can.: since ca. 1975. (Mrs C. Raab, 1977.) Cf. 'It's awfully decent of you' and the later fab(ulous).

decencies. 'Pads used by actors, as distinct from actresses, to ameliorate outline' (Ware): theatrical coll.: late C.19–20.

decent, decentish. Passable; fairly good or agreeable; tolerable; likable. Senses 1–3 arose ca. 1700 (the form in -ish ca. 1814) and, in C.19–20, are S.E. The fourth sense is orig. and still Public-Schoolboyish (esp. in decent fellows).

decider. (Gen. the d.) The winning set from even, i.e., the 3rd or 5th: lawn tennis coll.: from ca. 1925. Occ. in other games, e.g. cards. Cf. conqueror, q.v. Ex racing, when a decider is a heat run off after a dead heat (OED).

decimal bosun. A Warrant Schoolmaster: RN: since ca. 1930. (Granville.) Ex mathematics.

deck. A pack of cards: late C.16–20; until ca. 1720, S.E. (Shakespeare has it in 3 King Henry VI); then dial. and, until ca. 1800, coll.; in England, in earlier C.20, it was confined, more or less, to the underworld, but by 1945, was common (and in Aus.) and by late 1970s is almost again informal S.E.—2. In Anglo-Indian coll., a look, a peep: C.19–mid-20. Var. dekh. Cf. *dekk*o.—3. A landing-ground: RNAS/RAF: since ca. 1915.—4. Hence, 'the ground' in gen.: orig. RAF, since ca. 1925 (Jackson); by 1945, gen. s.—5. Floor: 'RN: late C.19–20. W.G. Carr, Brass Hats... 1939. (Moe.) The orig. of sense 3.—6. 'Shot, injection, e.g., A deck of horse, an injection of heroin (Canadian, US)' (Home Office): drug addicts': current in 1970s.—7. In on the deck, penniless; destitute: c.: from ca. 1925. (Gilt Kid, 1936.) Prob. suggested by equivalent on the floor.

decker. A deck-hand: from ca. 1800: coll. >, by 1850, S.E.—2. A deck-passenger, from ca. 1865: coll. OED.—3. (Decker.) One who lives in 'the Deck' or Seven Dials district of London (WCI): costers': late C.19–20; ob. Ware.—4. A hat: Aus.: C.20. (Baker.) Ex 'top deck'.—5. A peaked cap: Liverpool: ca. 1900–50.—6. A glance, a look: Aus. var. of *dekk*o: C.20. Dal Stivens, Jimmy Brockett, 1951.—7. A double-decker bus: Aus. omnibus users': since ca. 1935. (B.P.) deckie. Var. of decker, 1: coll.: from ca. 1910. (OED Sup.)?Esp. trawlermen's: Steven Piper, The North Ships, 1974; Neil Lyndon in Sunday Times mag., 2 Mar. 1980. Hence decky learner, an apprentice deck-hand (Piper).

decker-out. 'One who kept "cave" during any (card-)games of "banker" played in the streets of Belfast: 1930s. Ex Romany/Hindi dekkō, to look' (David B. Gardner, 1978). Cf. decker, 6.

declare off, v. t. To cancel (an arrangement, a match, etc.); v. i., to withdraw, arbitrarily or unsportingly. Both coll.; from the late 1740s. Fielding; George Eliot, 'When it came to the point, Mr. Haynes declared off.' (OED.)

decoct. Bankrupt: C.16; either pedantic or affectedly facetious coll. Lit., thoroughly cooked, i.e. done to a turn. Cf. the C.17 decoctor.

decoke has, since ca. 1945, everywhere superseded decarb(onise) engine cylinders.

Decomposition Row. Rotten Row, London: London Society s., ca. 1860–70. Literary Gazette, 12 Apr. 1862.

decorate. To ride on top of a freight car. Can. railroad-men's:—1931.

decorate the mahogany. To put down—on the bar—money for drinks: Can.: since ca. 1905; by 1959, ob. (Leechman.) This sort of jocularly verbose and pompous slang belongs chiefly to the years ca. 1890–1914 (July).—2. (Of a man) to lay the housekeeping money on the table: mostly lower-middle class: since ca. 1930.

decorators in, have the. A var. of have the painters in, q.v. at rags on, have the, to be menstruating.

decoy-bird or -duck. A swindling-decoy: C.17–20; low coll.; S.E. after ca. 1790.

decus. A crown piece: late C.17–19. Ex the L. motto, decus et tutamen on the rim. Shadwell; Scott, 'Master Grahame... has got the decuses and the smelts.' B.E. cites as c., as it prob. was for some years.

dedigitate. Joc. pedantic form of take your finger out, q.v., hurry.

dee. See d.—2. In c., a pocket-book: from ca. 1835; ob. (Brandon; H., 1st ed.) Orig. Romany.

dee'd. Damned: C.19–20. Barham (OED).

Dee-Donk. A Frenchman: Crimean War, when, by the way, the French soldiers called the English I say's, precisely as the Chinese mob once did (see Y. & B.). Cf. Wee-Wee, q.v.

'deed. Abbr. indeed: coll.: mid-C.16–20. Since ca. 1870, mostly Scot.

deed-pollers. Deed poll: since ca. 1930. (Nancy Mitford, Don't Tell Alfred, 1960.) The 'OXFORD -ER'.

deejay. See disc jockey.

Deek. A D.K.W. [Das Kleine Wunder] motorcycle, in production since 1919: motorcyclists'. (Dunford.)

deeker. 'A thief kept in pay by a constable' (Haggart in his Life, 1821): Scot. c.: †.

deener. See deaner.

deep. Sly; artful: from ca. 1780. Punch, 1841, 'I can scarcely believe my eyes. Oh! he's a deep one'; a deep one is defined by Grose (2nd ed.) as 'a thorough-paced rogue'. Ex the C.16–20 S.E. sense, profoundly crafty.

deep end. See off the deep end.

deep-freezer. 'A girl or woman of the prim or keep-off-me type' (Petch, 1969): since ca. 1960. Obviously an allusion to the 'deep freeze' part of a refrigerator.

deep grief. Two black eyes: ca. 1875–1900. Joc. on full mourning.

deep-noser. A pot of beer: Aus.: since ca. 1920. (Arthur W. Upfield, Murder Down Under, 1937.) As the beer sinks, so does the drinker's nose into the pot.

deep-sea beef. Haddock: R.N. lowerdeck. C.20. P-G-R.

deep-sea diver. £5: rhyming s., on five: later C.20. Olympus Cameras Centre advertisement in Amateur Photographer, 6 Dec. 1980.

deep-sea fisherman. A card-sharper on an ocean-liner: c.: C.20. Charles E. Leach.

deep-sea tot. A short measure of rum, the shortness (supposedly) caused by the roll of the ship: RN: C.20. P-G-R.

deep-sinker. The largest-sized tumbler; the drink served therein: Aus. coll.: 1897 (Melbourne Argus, 15 Jan.). Ex deep-sinking in a mining shaft. Morris.

deep six, the. The grave (burial): Can.: since ca. 1920. Dr D. Leechman cites the Daily Colonist (Victoria, BC), 17 Jan. 1970.—2. Behind and below: RAF j. > coll.: later C.20. † [a fighter pilot] try sneaking up on [the enemy aircraft], hiding low in the trees in their "deep six" (Phantom).

deer-stalker. A low-crowned hat, close-fitting and gen. of felt (—1870); coll. soon > S.E.

deer-stalking. vbl n. Running after women: joc.:—1923 (Manchon). By pun on dear. See also deer-stalker.

deevie, -vy; dev(e)y. Delightful, charming, as in "'O Mums?" cried my cousin Phyllis... "do look at this sweet little monkey on the organ. Isn't he deevie?" "Deevie" is, I believe, short for "divine" with certain sets' (F. Anstey, 'At a Moment's Notice', in Salted Almonds, 1905): upper-middle classes': 1900—ca. 1907, H.A. Vachell speaking of it in 1909 as †. A perversion of divvy, 4, q.v. OED Sup. records also the adv. in -ily.

deezzer, the. The Deceased Wife's Sister Bill: political: 1907; ob. Collinson. A portmanteau word.

defect. A prefect: Cranbrook School: C.20.

detective. A detective (not the fictional detective): joc.: since ca. 1925.

deferred stock. Inferior soup: ca. 1860–1900; in the City (see City). The body or solid part of soup is stock.

Deffy. A Boulton and Paul Defiant two-seater fighter plane. See Daffy.

deficient. A person mentally deficient; also adj. C.20; much less common than mental as adj.

definite. Dogmatic: late C.19–20; coll. (Of persons only.) definitely!; oh, definitely. Yes; certainly: coll.: C.20, esp. from ca. 1920 and non-proletarian. Notably (the clergyman in) Sutton Vane's arresting play, Outward Bound, 1924, and, satirically, A.A. Milne, Two People, 1931 (pp. 328–9), and Maurice Lincoln's novel, Oh! Definitely!, 1933.

deft and dumb. A c.p. denoting the ideal wife or mistress: since ca. 1940. Parodying deaf and dumb.

degen, occ. degan; dagen. A sword: c.: late C.17—early 19. (B.E.) Ex C.17 Dutch degen, a sword. Prob., as Mr L.W. Forster has suggested to me, introduced into Eng. by returned soldiers.—2. A sense that, prob. after knowing blade, engendered that of an artful fellow: C.19 low. Cf. dag, q.v., and MHG ein sneller Degen, 'a brave knight', and the C.17 Dutch degen, 'a brave soldier; an "old soldier"' degger, n. Disgrace: Harrow: late C.19–20. (Lunn.) By the 'OXFORD -ER' ex degradation.

degomble. 'Fids [q.v.] are a strange race, often with their own language. "Degombling" means to shake the snow off one's clothes: there is an affinity with a word like yomping [q.v. at yomp]' (a review of Sir Vivian Fuchs' Of Ice and Men, 1982); British Antarctic Survey members': later C.20 degommy. (Of officers) removed from command because of failure or incompetence: army, WW1 (F. & G.); RN, WW2 (Granville). Ex Fr. dégommé, lit. of gum removed from silk fabrics. Cf. ungummed and Stellenbosched, synonyms.

degra. Degradation; disgrace: Winchester: late C.19–20. (Marples.) Cf. degger.

degree, to a. To a serious, though underfined, extent: coll.: from ca. 1730.

degrees, have taken (one's). To have been imprisoned in an 'academy' or gaol: c.: ca. 1820–50. Bee.

deggruger. A degree: Oxford undergraduates': from ca. 1895. For the form, cf. memugger and testugger. Ware.

dehydrate. 'Let's have a drink, all this talking dries me—dehydrates me, to use the modern slang' (Manning Coles, The Fifth Man, 1946): since 1942, when dehydrated foods became fairly common.

dekht. See deck, 2, and cf.:

dekko, n. (esp. take or have a dekko) and v. An earlier var. was dekho. To see; to, or a, glance. Vagrants' (—1865), ex Romany dik, to look, to see (Sampson). In Army, common since ca. 1890, via Hindustani:

dekkoscope was, among soldiers in India in WW2, a var. of shuftiscope. The short, thick variety (dekkoscope, mark one) was also known as a pile-driver; the long, thin variety as dekkoscope, mark two.

del. trem. † Abbr. of delirium tremens. See D.T., 2.

delegate. A person seeking an advance: bank-clerks' (esp. Anglo-Irish): from ca. 1923.

Delhi Belly. Indian variety of the illness known as Gippy Tummy, q.v.

Delhi Rebels, the. An insulting nickname of the Royal Munster Fusiliers (disbanded 1922): they fought the rebels at Delhi in 1857. Carew.

Delhi Spearmen, the. The 9th (Queen's Royal) Lancers (amalgamated 1960 with the 12th Royal Lancers): since the Indian Mutiny; ob. F. & G. deli. A delicatessen: Aus.: adopted, ca. 1944, ex US soldiers.

In later C.20, ? since ca. 1960, the term has followed the appearance of similar establishments in UK. (Observer mag., 4 Apr. 1982.) Cf. chippy and chinkie.

delible, n. A non-commissioned officer: army, mostly officers', occ. men's, never NCOs': 1916–18. Exdelible, adj. Useless, incompetent: army officers': 1916+. F. & G.

delicate. A false subscription-book used by a pseudo-collector of alms, etc.: mid-C.19–20; c. and low. H., 3rd ed.—2. In c. alone (—1845), a begging-letter.

delicate condition (late C.19–20) or state of health (1850, Dickens), in a. Pregnant: euph. coll. OED Sup.

delighted! Certainly!; with pleasure!: C.19–20; S.E. worn, in C.20, to coll.

deliver the goods. To fulfil one's promise(s). See the goods.

delivered dodge. A trick whereby one secures possession, without payment, of goods delivered to one's rooms: c.: mid-C.19–20. B. & L.

dell, n. In mid-C.16–early 19 c., a young girl; but in C.17–early 19 low s., a young wanton, a mistress (cf. doxy). Harman, Jonson, B.E., Grose, Ainsworth. Perhaps, as R.S. suggests, ex S.E. dell, a small, usu. wooded, valley or hollow.

dell, v. To chastise; to beat with one's fists; as in 'Dell on to him' (M.T.): C.20. Origin so obscure that the v. could come from 'dealt with', or even 'deliver a blow'. ?Romany.

delo. 'Delegate, in trade union parlance' (Wilkes): Aus.: since mid-C.20.

delo diam. See delo nammow.

delo ham o' the barrack. In late C.19–20 c., the master of the house. Barrack=house, while delo nam, in back s.,=old man delo nammow. An old woman: back s.:—1874 (H., 5th ed.).

Earlier, dillo namo, q.v. There is also delo diam, an old maid (Ware).

delog. Gold: back s.:—1873 (Hotten). Earlier dlog, q.v.

delouse. 'His squadron was "delousing" Fortresses as they came back home out of Holland... liquidating such enemy fighters as still persisted in pestering the bombers' (Paul Brickhill & Conrad Norton, Escape to Danger, 1946): RAF: 1940+.—2. To remove mines and booby traps from (a terrain): Army; since ca. 1941.—3. To clear (a room) of secret listening devices: since ca. 1965. (Petch, 1969.) A pun on the US, hence almost imm. Brit., debug, which has always been coll., verging on informal S.E. in this sense.

Delphi. The Adelphi Theatre: theatrical coll.: 1851. Mayhew; Ware.

Deluge. A Delage car: Cambridge: since ca. 1925; by 1945, ob. By a pun.

delushious or delushus. (Esp. of a fruit dish) delicious: since the late 1940s. Delicious + luscious.

delve it. To work head down (as in digging) and sewing fast: tailors': from ca. 1865.

dem. See demn.—2. As n. and v. A demonstration; to demonstrate, esp. of how an article works: sales representatives', fairgrounds, etc.: since ca. 1925. (Michael Butterworth, Walk Softly in Fear, 1968.) Cf. demo, q.v.

dem keb. A hansom: 'mashers': ca. 1874–90. B. & L. Ex W.S. Gilbert's 'Wedding March', first played on 15 Nov. 1873.

demand the box. To call for a bottle: nautical: from ca. 1820; ob. Egan's Grose.

demand (or demaunder) for glimmer (or glymmar). A pretended victim of fire: C.16–18 c.

demi-. In facetious neologism and practice, often either coll. or near-coll., though rarely so used before C.19.—2. As n., gen. pl, a convalescent; a person half-fit: military (officers)': 1915. F. & G.

demi-beau. 'A wou'd-be-fine' (B.E.): coll.: late C.17—mid-18. Also sub-beau.

demi-doss. A penny bed: vagrants' and low; ca. 1870–1914.

demi-rep. A woman whose general reputation or, esp., chastity is in doubt. First recorded in A Congratulatory Epistle from a Reformed Rake... upon Prostitutes, 1728, p. 8. Defined in Fielding's Tom Jones, 1749, 'Vulgarly called a demi-rep; that is... a woman who intrigues with every man she likes, under the name and appearance of virtue... in short, whom everybody knows to be what nobody calls her.' By 1800, coll.; by 1840 (except in the occ. var. demi-rip) S.E.; by 1900, ob. Ex reputation.

demmel, a coll. var. of damn!; is recorded by OED for 1753.

demnick. A soldier on the sick list; an article become unserviceable: Army: C.20. H. & P., 'The derivation is probably "epi-demic-ked"; probably.

demmy. A demonstrator: University of Leeds undergraduates': since ca. 1930. (Marples, 2.) Ex the official abbr., dem.

demn, dem. From late C.17 in 'profane' usage; the latter the gen. form in C.19–20. Orig. euph.; but rather are they joc. coll. when facetious, esp. in derivatives demd (earlier demn'd) and demnition (as in demnition bow-wows, 'coined' by Dickens in Nicholas Nickleby). These three terms have all been popularly revived by the Baroness d'Orczy in her Scarlet Pimpernel romances.

demo. A (political) demonstration: political: from ca. 1930. Gilt Kid, 1936.—2. A demonstration of how something is to be done: army: since mid-1930s.—3. A lowering of one's place in class; also as v.t., esp. in passive, Charterhouse: from ca. 1919. Cf. promo.—4. Demolition, as in 'big baskets like you see demo boys filling up with stuff when they're knocking a dump down' (Alfred Draper, Swansong for a Rare Bird, 1970): since ca. 1945.

demob, n. Demobilisation; hence demob leave, leave awarded on, and immediately following, demobilisation: Services': since 1945. Cf.:-

demob, v. To demobilise: since 1918. Gen. in passive.

demobitis. Among Servicemen, restlessness and excitement at approaching demobilisation: 1945+. See also funnel fever.

demon, n. and adj. applied to 'a super-excellent adept'. Coll.; from ca. 1882. The demon bowler=Spofforth, less fast but more skilful than Larwood; the demon jockey=Fred Archer, who, fl. 1880s, held (1933) several records still unapproached even by Steve Donoghue and Gordon Richards: See esp. the article by Sidney Galtrey ('Hotspur') in Daily Telegraph of 7 Oct. 1933. Cf. wizard as adj.—2. A policeman: Aus. c., from ca. 1875.—3. Cf. the C.20 Aus. and NZ c. or low sense (rarely in sing.): a detective. Cf.:-4. An old hand at bushranging arrived from Tasmania (Van Diemen's Land): Aus.: ca. 1870–1900. Ware.—5. A shilling: Aus.: C.20; ob. (B., 1942). ?A perversion of deaner, a shilling.—6. See Demons.

demon chandler. A chandler supplying ship's stores that are very inferior: nautical coll.: from ca. 1871. B. & L.

demon tweak. 'A motorcycle enthusiast who does his own tuning at home, in order to get more speed from his machine' (Dunford): motorcyclists': current in 1970s.

demon vino. Cheap Italian wine: Army in Italy: 1944–5. (P-G-R.) A pun on S.E. (revivalists') the demon rum.

Demons, the. Melbourne Club footballers: Melbournites': since ca. 1910. B., 1943.

demons of the orlop. Midshipmen and junior officers: RN joc. coll.—1887 (Baumann).

demonstrate. To make a fuss, 'go off the handle'; exercise one's authority: 1916+, esp. among ex-service men. Ex its (—1830) technical sense, to make a military demonstration. Perhaps suggested by create, q.v.

demonstration. An instance of the preceding: military coll.: 1916. B. & P.

Dempsey Press, the. The Kemsley Press: joc.: since ca. 1935. Ex its purchase of local newspapers and Jack Dempsey's heavyweight-boxing fame.

dempstered, ppl adj. Hanged: Scot. c.: mid-C.17–18. (B. & L.) Ex dempster, that official whose duty it was, until 1773, to 'repeat the sentence to the prisoner in open court'.

demers. 'All Naval personnel connected with "Defensively equipped merchant ships": RN: WW2. (Granville.) Also army, because the army had sometimes to supply the ammunition.

demur upon the plaintiff. See TAVERN TERMS, §4, in Appendix.

demure as a(n old) whore at a christening. Extremely demure: coll.: late C.17–20. An early occurrence is in George Farquhar, The Recruiting Officer, 1706, III, ii, where Captain Plume exclaims, 'Soh! now must I look as sober and as demure as a whore at a christening.' Grose, 2nd ed., records the longer form.

demy. An illicit die (i.e. dicing): C.16–17 c. > S. Greene.—2. A urinal: Bootham School: C.20. (Bootham, 1925.) Because it provides for only one of the two 'physical needs'.

demy-rep. See demi-rep.

den. A small lodging or, esp., room in which one—gen. a male—can be alone: from ca. 1770: coll. >, by 1900, S.E. Cf. snuggery.

Den, the. The Stock Exchange. (Spy, II, 1826.) See Upper Tartary.—2. New Cross, London: C.20.

dena; denar, dener. Var. spellings of deaner, a shilling.

denari. Since ca. 1910, the predominant form of denarly or dinarlee, q.v., money. Noted by Pugh, 1914, and the only form adduced by Lester.

denarli. See prec. and dinarlee.

Denim Light Infantry, the. The 2nd Corps Reinforcement Unit in Tunisia: Army in N. Africa: 1943. (P-G-R.) A pun on the Durham Light Infantry, fighting in Tunisia at the same time.

Dennis. A pig: nautical: mid-C.19–20. Gen. in address; hence, hullo, Dennis!, an insulting or derisive nautical c.p. of late C.19–early 20. Ware.

dennis. A small walking-stick: C.19. App. unrecorded before 1823 (Bee).

dennyaiser. A mighty punch. See Dinny Hayes.

dental. Abbr. dental student: university coll.: from ca. 1905.—2. In the Services, to go dental is abbr. for 'to report sick with dental trouble': C.20. (P.B.)

dented. Damaged; wounded. See dinted.

dentures. Gear wheels: motorcyclists' (Dunford): since ca. 1950.

deolali tap. See doolally tap. Also deolalic tap.

dep. A deputy, esp. a night porter at a cheap lodging-house: low (—1870). Dickens, in Edwin Drood, 'All man-servants at Travellers' Lodgings is named Deputy.'—2. In C.20 c., a deputy-governor of a prison, esp. at Dartmoor.—3. At Christ's Hospital (School), C.19–20, a deputy Grecian, i.e. a boy in the form imm. below the 'Grecians'.—4. A department (e.g. Physics): Imperial College, London: since ca. 1930. Marples, 2.

depending on what school you went to. 'A c.p. used by cowards who give two pronunciations of a rare, or a foreign, word' (B.P.): Aus., since ca. 1950; and, with the var... on which school, also heard in UK.

depends, it (or that) (all). Perhaps: coll.: late C.19–20.—2.

Also, when depend is used elliptically with the following clause and it = 'to depend on it', it is coll. (1700). SOD.

depot stanchion. 'A rating who has been an unconscionable time in barracks or Shore Establishment' (Granville): RN: since ca. 1930. Sarcastic.

depress, the. The Great Depression, the financial crisis that began in US in late 1929 and hit England in Jan. 1930: orig. (1931) US; anglicised in 1933; †.

depressed area. The abdomen: joc.: since ca. 1930. (Claude Houghton, Transformation Scene, 1946.) Ex the sociological sense.

depth charge; but nearly always in pl, depth charges, figs: RN: since 1939. (H. & P.) By ca. 1941, RAF for prunes (Jackson). Both are mild laxatives. P-G-R.—2. Emissio in coitu: low joc.: since ca. 1942, orig.—like combined operations—a Services' witticism.—3. 'Prison "duff" ... Anything heavy or stodgy, such as dumplings' (Tempest): since ca. 1941; orig., prison c.; by ca. 1955, also (low) s.

der Tag. 'Any much-desired date or goal': Army officers': 1915–18. (B. & P.) Satiric of the German phrase = 'the day when we Germans come into our own'.

derack; deracks. A pack of cards; in pl, the cards themselves; military back s.: late C.19–20. (F. & G.) Thus, card > drac > derack, and s is added.

derby. See darby.—2. Derby dog. The homeless dog that, at Epsom, is sure to appear on the course as soon as it has been cleared for the Derby: mid-C.19–20: coll. >, by 1890, S.E. (The race was founded in 1780 by the 12th Earl of Derby.)—3. derbies. See derby.—4. A Derby recruit: military coll.: 1916; ob. F. & G.—5. Short for Derby Kelly, belly. (Jackson.)

Derby. See Derby above.—2. A railwaymen's coll. for the Midland Region: since ca. 1950. Railway, 2nd.—3. In be in the Derby, to be competing in the race for promotion, whether in the wardrobe or on the lower deck: RN: since ca. 1940. P-G-R.

derby, v. To pawn: sporting: late C.19–early 20. Ware derives from: the pawning of watches being excused on the grounds of their being lost or stolen at Epsom on Derby Day.

Derby crack, a. An outstanding race for the Derby: Cockney:—1887 (Baumann).

Derby Dilly. A section of the Tory party, so nicknamed in 1835. They followed Lord Stanley, afterwards Earl of Derby. Dawson.

Derby Kelly. Belly: rhyming s.:—1900. (B. & P.) Gen. abbr. to Derby Kell, as in the pre-WW1 ditty, 'Boiled beef and carrots [twice]/That's the stuff for your Derby kell/Makes you fat and keeps you well...' (L.A.).

dermo. Any skin affection: Services' and gen.: since ca. 1939. Ex dermatitis.—2. In Aus. army, 1942–5, specifically a New Guinea skin disease. Jon Cleary, The Climate of Courage, 1954.

dern, derved. See darn. Also durn, durned.

dero. 'A derelict, i.e. someone unemployed and destitute' (Wilkes): Aus.: since early 1970s.

derrey. An eye-glass: c.: ca. 1860–1930.—2. In take the derrey, to quiz, ridicule: tailors': ca. 1850–1900.

derrick. The gallows; hangman. As v., to hang. Orig. (1600) coll.; by 1800, S.E. Ex Derrick, the name of the public hangman ca. 1593–1610. Cf. Jack Ketch.—2. Hence, a work-house or casual ward: tramps' c.: late C.19–20.—3. Penis: low: C.19–early 20.

derrick, v.i. 'To embark on a disreputable cruise or enterprise': nautical: mid-C.19–20. (Bowen.) Ex the n., sense 1. derriwag. Paper used for parsing: Harrow School (since ca. 1875) and Eton College (C.20). 'Said to be a distortion of derivation,' as Marples records.

derry, n. An aversion; a feud: Aus. coll.: C.20. (C.J. Dennis.) See v., and derry on.—2. 'Derelict house' (Home Office): prisoners' s.: current in 1970s.

derry, v. To dislike or have a 'down' on (someone): Aus. and NZ: from ca. 1905. Ex derry on, q.v.

Derry and Toms. Bombs: rhyming s.: WW2+. The ref. is not only to the former famous London store, but doubles on the derry of derry on, q.v. Franklyn, Rhyming.

Derry-Down-Derry (or d.-d.-d.). Sherry: theatrical rhyming s.: C.20. Franklyn, Rhyming.

derry on, have a. To have a 'down' on: Londoners' and Aus. coll.: since ca. 1895. (Franklyn; Morris). Morris derives ex the comic-song refrain hey derry down derry; but also operative is the dial. deray, uproar, disorder, itself ex Old Fr. desroi, derroi, confusion, destruction (EDD).

dermie, -y. A var., loose, pron. of derzy, a tailor.

derv. Oil for diesel engines: army coll., from 1940; soon > j. and gen. Ex Diesel-engined road vehicle (fuel).—2. Hence, such a vehicle: coll./j.: since ca. 1950.

derwenter. A released convict: ca. 1880–1900: Tasmanian. (Boldrewed.) Ex the penal settlement on the banks of the River Derwent, Tasmania.

derzy. A tailor: army: late C.19–20. (F. & G.) Ex Hindustani darzi (Kipling, in The Jungle Book, has 'Darzee, the tailor bird'); also, occ., dhirzi, dirzi, dirzy, durzee.

desert. A ladies' club: Society: 1892–ca. 1915. Ware, 'From the absence [? lack] of members.'—2. See swing it across the desert.

desert chicken. Bully beef: army in N. Africa: 1940–3. P-G-R.

desert drivers. 'Men who worried excessively about reserves of sand and water' (McKenna, Glossary): railwaymen's: since mid-1940s. An allusion to WW2 service in N. Africa (E.P., re the entry in Railway, 2nd). McK attributes the term to Mr Bill Handy.

desert lily. A circular or box-shaped funnel, adjustable—according to direction of wind—to a urine receptacle: RAF, esp. in N. Africa: 1940+. (L.A.) Cf. desert rose.

desert loneliness. Horseplay, or suggestive chaffing, in the desert: coll., RAF in N. Africa: 1940–4. Atkinson.

Desert Rats, the. The Seventh Armoured Division in N. Africa: self-bestowed: 1941–3. Ex Mussolini's 'despicable desert rats'. (P-G-R.) The divisional flash worn on shoulder and shown on vehicles was the jerboa or desert rat.

desert rose. A urination-can let into the sand: Army in N. Africa: 1940+. Iron. Cf. desert lily.

deserve a (or the) cushion. To have done his duty and therefore deserving of rest (of a man to whom a child has been born): coll.: mid-C.17–early 19. Ray, 1678.

deserves a medal, (he or she). A constant hard worker: c.p.: since ca. 1915. Cf. beggar for work.—2. Usu. as you deserve . . . , a joc., though often quite sincere, commendation to someone for doing something oneself would not like to have done, e.g., 'bearing the boss in his lair', etc.: since mid-C.20 at latest. (P.B.)

desink. To de-synchronise (one's motors): RAF aircrews': since ca. 1938. Michie & Graebner, Their Finest Hour, 1940 (p. 63).

desk. See fly a desk.

despatch (one's) cargo. To ease oneself (of the major need): euph., yet rather objectionable: low:—1923 (Manchon).

despatchers, dispatchers. False dice with two sets of numbers and no low pips: low; perhaps orig. c.: from mid-1790s. The Times, 27 Nov. 1856. They soon 'despatch' the unwary. Cf. dispatches.

desperate, desperately, adj. and adv. Both from early C.17 in loose sense of 'awful(ly)'. Coll.; the adv.—esp. as an intensive (=extremely, very)—remaining so, the adj. having, ca. 1750, > S.E. desperately mashed. Very much in love: ca. 1882–1910. Cf. mash, q.v.

dessay. Dare say: daresay: sol.: C.19–20. Milward Kennedy, The Murder of Sleep, 1932, 'I dessay he's forgotten Mr Churt's 'ere.' More rarely rendered dersay.

destat. To get rid of the statutory tenants from (a property): since ca. 1954. Cf. the quot'n at schwarz.

destiny. One's fiancé (rarely fiancée): from ca. 1910: middle-class coll.

destroying. Serving, or a serving, in destroyers: RN coll.: since ca. 1939.

det. A detonator: Services' coll., since ca. 1910; since ca. 1945, gen. Alfred Draper, Swansong for a Rare Bird, 1970.

detail, but that's a! or a mere detail! In the 1890s, the former was 'a current phrase' humorously making light of something difficult or important; the latter is the more gen. post-WW1 form: a c.p. > coll. >, by 1930, S.E.

detec. A detective: ca. 1875–95. (Capt. —, Eighteen Months' Imprisonment, 1884.) Superseded by tec.

deten. Detention: school coll.: late C.19–20. Colston's School, Bristol, had the var. detens.

detox. Detoxification: coll.: later C.20. (P.B.)

detrimonial. An ineligible suitor, also (and orig.) a younger brother to an heir to an estate: from ca. 1830.—2. Hence, a male flirt: from ca. 1850. All three nuances are Society slang, slightly ob. by 1920.—3. In C.20, a male homosexual: coll.

Detrimonial Club. The Reform Club: Society; late C.19, rarely in C.20.

deuce; occ. deuse, C.17–18; dewce, C.17; dewse, C.18; duce, C.17–19 (OED). Bad luck, esp. in exclamations (e.g. the deuce!): from ca. 1650. Hence, perdition, the devil, esp. in exclamations (e.g. the deuce take it!): from ca. 1690. Cf. its use as an emphatic negative (e.g. the deuce a bit!): from ca. 1710.

These three senses are very intimately linked; they derive either from old Fr. deus, L. deus, or from the deuce (Ger. das Daus) at cards: cf. deuce-ace, a throw of two and one, hence a wretched throw, hence bad luck.—2. Whence also the two at dice or at cards (mostly among gamblers); and 3, twopence (mostly among vagrants and Dublin newsboys): both low and dating from ca. 1680. No. 3 is in B.E. as duce, q.v.—4. The sum of two pounds (£2): London's East End: since ca. 1947. (Richard Herd, 1957).—5. In go to the deuce, to degenerate; to fall into ruin: coll.: from ca. 1840.—6. In play the deuce (or devil) with, to harm greatly; send to rack and ruin: from ca. 1760; in C.20, coll.

deuce, v. 'To shear 200 sheep in a day' (Wilkes): Aus. rural: mid-C.20.

deuce-a-vil(l)e. See daisyville.

deuce and ace. (A) face: rhyming s.: late C.19–20. F. & G.

deuce and all, the. Much, in a violent or humorous sense: coll. (—1762). Sterne (OED).

deuce to pay, the. Unpleasant consequences or an awkward situation to be faced: from ca. 1830; in C.20, coll. Thackeray, 1854, 'There has been such a row . . . and the deuce to pay, that I'm inclined to go back to Cumtarty.'

deuced. (Of things) plaguy, confounded; (persons) devilish; (both) excessive. Also as adv. From ca. 1774. Mme D'Arbly (OED); Michael Scott, in The Midge, 1836, 'Quacco . . . evidently in a deuced quandary.' Ex deuce, q.v.

deuced infernal. Unpleasant: Society: ca. 1858–70. H., 1st ed., Introduction (jeuced . . .).

deucedly. Plaguijly; extremely: coll.; from ca. 1815. Thackeray. (OED).

deucer. A double shift; double time: Aus. (industrial) workers': since ca. 1910. Dymphna Cusack, Southern Steel, 1953.—2. One who can shear 200 sheep in a day: Aus. rural: C.20. (Wilkes.) Ex deuce, v.

deuces. In racing c., from ca. 1860: odds of 2 to 1.

deus(e) wins. Twopence: c.: 1676 (Coles). Also spelt deus wins. Cf. deuce, 3.

deuse. See deuce.

deuseville. See daisyville. Hence deuseville-stampers, country carriers: late C.17–18 c. B.E. devastating has from ca. 1924, been Society s., as in 'Quite too devastating, darling.' Cf. journalistic use. E.F. Benson, Travail of Gold, 1933, 'The banal epithets of priceless and devastating just fitted her.'

devey. See deevie.

Deviation Dick. A compass-adjustor: RAF: ca. 1940–5. (Robert Hinde, letter, 1945.) By personification, by alliteration and by ref. to the correction of compass deviation.

deviator; deviation. A crook; a crime: since ca. 1950: c. >, by 1965, s. (Robin Cook, 1962.) Ex euph. S.E. devious, 'shady' or crooked.

devil, n. The errand boy in a printery—perhaps orig. the boy that took the printed sheets as they issued from the press: (—1683) orig. printers' s., by 1800 printers' j. and gen. coll.; by 1900, S.E. Punch in 1859 spoke of 'the author's paradise' as 'a place where there are no printers' devils'. —2. In law, a junior counsel that, gen. without fee, does professional work, esp. the 'getting-up' of cases, for another: from ca. 1850; in C.20 considered as S.E.—3. Hence, a person doing hack work (often highly intelligent and specialised work) for another: from ca. 1880; coll.; after ca. 1905, S.E. 'I'm a devil... I give plots and incidents to popular authors, sir, write poetry for them, drop in situations, jokes, work up their rough material' (G.R. Sims, 1889).—4. A (firework) cracker: from ca. 1740; coll. till ca. 1800, when it > S.E. Hence, perhaps, the C.19–20 coll. sense, a piece of firewood, esp. kindling, soaked in resin.—5. A grilled chop or steak seasoned with mustard and occ. with cayenne: late C.18–20; coll. soon S.E. Grose, 2nd ed., defines it as a broiled turkey-gizzard duly seasoned and adds, 'From being hot in the mouth'. Cf. attorney.—6. Gin seasoned with chillies: licensed victuallers and then public-house in gen.; from ca. 1820. G. Smeaton, Doings in London, 1828.—7. (Fighting) spirit, great energy, a temper notable if aroused: coll.: from ca. 1820.—8. A sandstorm, esp. a sand spout: military (India and Egypt; by 1890, S. Africa); from ca. 1830. In C.20, S.E.—9. Among sailors, any seam difficult to caulk: (? C.18), C.19–20.—10. A coal brazier: railwaymen's: C.20 Railway, 2nd.—11. In a or the devil of a(n), an intensive of no very precise meaning: coll.: since ca. 1750. Esp. in a, the devil of a mess, row, man, woman, job. The Port Folio, Nov. 1809, cites Everard Hall, Nolens Volens. (Moe.)—12. Also, the devil (without of) is used intensively as a negative, as in 'The devil a thing was there in sight, not even a small white speck of a sail', Michael Scott in The Midge, 1836. This sense perhaps goes back to mid-C.17, for it appears in John Dryden, The Wild Gallant, 1668, III, i, a, and IV, i, the. (Moe.)—13. In go to the devil, to fall into ruin: late C.18–20; but the imprecation Go to the devil! dates from C.14.—14. In how or what or when or where or who or why the devil! (or ?), an exclam. indicative of annoyance, wonder, etc.: the second, from M.E. and ex Fr. que diable!; the others C.17–20: coll. The first occurs in Pope, the second in Garrick, the fifth in Mrs Cowley.—15. In (you) little or young devil, a coll. term of address, playful or exasperated: C.17–20.

devil a bit (says Punch), the. A firm though joc. negative: coll.: ca. 1850–1910. Without says Punch it goes back to earlyish C.17: Pepys uses it thus on 3 Apr. 1668.

devil among the tailors, the. (Gen. prec. by there's.) A row, disturbance, afoot: late C.18–early 20: coll. Perhaps ex a tailors' riot at the performance of The Tailors: a Tragedy for Warm Weather. Cf. cucumber time, q.v.

devil (and all) to pay, the. Very unpleasant consequences to face: C.15–20; coll. Swift in his Journal to Stella, 'Supposed,' says the SOD, 'to refer to bargains made by wizards, etc., with Satan, and the inevitable payment in the end.' But cf. the devil to pay and no pitch hot or ready!, a nice mess! nautical: late C.18–19. (Grose, 2nd ed.) Punningly ex the paying, i.e. smearing, of a ship's bottom with pitch to stop a leak. See devil, 9.

devil and baker. A C.20 coll. allusion to the proverbial pull or haul devil, pull baker!, said of a contest of varying fortunes, C.17–20.

devil and ninepence go with (her, etc.)!, the. A semi-proverbial coll.: C.18. T. Brown (—1704), 'That's money and company.' (Apperson.) In C.19–20 (ob.), with sixpence for ninepence.

devil and Tommy. A var. of hell and Tommy, q.v., an intensification of hell as expletive.

devil beats or is beating his wife with a shoulder of mutton, the. 'It rains whilst the sun shines' (Grose, 3rd ed.): semi-proverbial coll.: late C.18–mid-19.

devil-catcher. A parson: late C.18–early 19. (Grose, 1st ed.) Cf. devil-dodger.

devil-devil. 'Rough country broken up into holes and hillocks' (B., 1943): Aus. s. (since ca. 1890) by 1930, coll. Ex Aboriginal pidgin.

devil-dodger. A clergyman, esp. if a ranter: late C.18–20; in C.20 RN, a chaplain. (Lackington, 1791; 'Taffrail', Carry On!, 1916.) Var. are devil-catcher (rare), -driver or -pitcher, and -scolder, all ob. Cf. snub-devil.—2. (Cf. holy Joe.) A very religious person: mid-C.19–20. 'Ducange Anglicus'. —3. Also, a person that goes sometimes to church, sometimes to chapel:—1860 (H., 2nd ed.); ob. by 1930.

devil doubt you, the. (Often with addition of I don't: which explains it.) A proletarian c.p. of late C.19–early 20. Ware.

devil-drawer. A sorry painter: ca. 1690–1830: coll. B.E.; Grose.

devil-driver. A parson: late C.18–early 19. (Grose, 1st ed.) Cf. devil-dodger.

devil go with you and ninepence or sixpence. See devil and ninepence.

devil himself, the. A streak of blue thread in the sails of naval ships: mid-C.18–early 19 nautical. Grose, 1st ed.

devil-may-care. Reckless; spiritedly free and easy, with connotation of real or assumed happiness: ? before Dickens in 1837: coll.; in C.20, S.E.

devil may dance in his pocket, the. He is penniless: C.15–early 19 coll. Because there is no coin with a cross on it: no coin whatsoever.

devil me arse! An expletive: Anglo-Irish: C.20. Leechman.

devil nobody, that. A c.p. applied to the person causing an accident, or responsible for an error, when no one admits culpability: C.20.

devil-on-the-coals. A small, very quickly baked damper: from ca. 1860: Aus. rural coll.: >, ca. 1900, S.E. The Rev. A. Polehampton, Kangaroo Land, 1862 (Morris). Cf. bugger in the coals, q.v.

devil-pitcher, -scolder. See devil-dodger.

devil take ...! Followed by me, him, etc. Variants of take are fetch, fly away with, send, snatch. Exclamations of impatience, anger. Coll.: C.16–20; earlier in other forms.

devil to pay. See devil (and all) to pay, the.

devilish, adv. Much, very: from early C.17: coll.; in C.19–20 almost S.E. Grose cleverly satirises its use. Orig. it had the force of the C.20 hellish (adv.).

devils. See blue devils.

devil's (occ. the old gentleman's bed-post(s) or four-poster). At cards, the four of clubs, held to be unlucky: coll.; from ca. 1835. Captain Chamier, The Arethusia, 1837. Cf.: devil's bedstead, the. The thirteenth card of the suit led: whist-players' coll.:—1887 (Baumann).

devil's bones, teeth. C.17–20, C.19: coll.: dice. Etherege, 1664, 'I do not understand dice... hang the devil's bones!' Cf.:

devil's books, the. Playing cards: C.18–20, ob.; coll. till ca. 1810, when it > S.E. Swift, 1729, 'Cards are the devil's own invention, for which reason, time out of mind, they are and have been called the devil's books.' Also, ca. 1640–1720, the devil's prayer-book, likewise coll. (Collinson.)

devil's claw(s). The broad arrow on convicts' uniforms: c.: from ca. 1850; ob.—2. 'A split hook to catch a link of chain cable': nautical coll. verging on j.: mid-C.19–20. Bowen.—3. A cable-stopper on a sailing ship: id. Ibid.

devil's colours or livery. Black and yellow: coll.: mid-C.19–20, ob.

devil's daughter. A shrew: coll.: mid-C.18–20; from ca. 1820, mainly dial. Grose, 3rd ed., 'It is said of one who has a termagant for his wife, that he has married the Devil's daughter, and lives with the old folks.'

devil's daughter's portion. A mid-C.18–early 19 c.p. applied—on account of their impositions on sailors and travellers—to Deal, Dover, and Harwich; Helvoet and the Brill. Grose, 1st ed.

devil's delight, kick up the. To make a din, a disturbance: from ca. 1850; in C.20, coll. Whyte-Melville in General Bounce.

devil's dinner-hour, the. Midnight: artisans': late C.19–20; ob. Ware, 'In reference to working late.'

devil's dozen. Thirteen: coll.; ca. 1600–1850. From the number of witches supposed to attend a witches' sabbath. Cf. baker's (q.v.), printers' and long dozen.

devil's dust. Shoddy, which is made from old cloth shredded by the devil, a disintegrating machine: (—1840, when Carlyle uses it); coll. recognised as S.E. by 1860. Popularised by a Mr Ferrand in the House of Commons on 4 Mar. 1842, when, to prove the worthlessness of shoddy, he tore a piece of devil's dust into shreds.—2. Gunpowder: military; from ca. 1870; ob. Hawley Smart in Hard Lines, 1883.

devil's guts, the. A surveyor's chain: mid-C.17–early 19; rural. Ray, 1678; Grose, 1st ed., 'So called by farmers, who do not like that their land should be measured by their landlords.'

Devil's Later Issue. Durham Light Infantry: an army pun on the Regiment's initials: (prob.) later C.19–earlier 20. Cf. Dirty Little Imps, and contrast Dear Little Innocents.

devil's livery. See devil's colours.

devil's luck and my own (too), the. No luck at all: lower and middle classes' coll.: late C.19–20. (Ware.) Cf. devil's own luck, q.v.

devil's neckerchief on the way to Redriffe, the. The halter; the gallows: low coll.: ca. 1810–60. Notes & Queries, 1886.

Devil's Own, the. (Abbr. The Devil's Own Connaught Boys.) The 88th Foot: military: from ca. 1810. The name is supposed to have been given by General Picton in the Peninsular War, when the 88th were devils in battle—and in billet.—2. (Only as the Devil's Own.) The Inns of Court Volunteers: bestowed by George III in 1803 (F. & G.). Ex the personnel (see devil, n., 2). Mark Lemon, in his Jest Book, 1864, gives a fanciful etymology: 'lawyers always went through thick and thin'. Cf. Devil's Royals, q.v.—3. The 13th Australian Light Horse: Aus. army: 1915–18. Petch cites Sgt Denis O'Grady, From Anzac to the Somme.

devil's own, adj. Devilish; very difficult or troublesome or unregenerate, as e.g. in devil's own dance or business. Coll.: late C.18–20. 'The devil's own day of it' (Bill Truck, 1823).

devil's own boy. A young blackguard; a notable 'imp of the devil': coll.; C.19–20, ob.

devil's own luck. Extremely bad, more gen. extremely good, fortune: C.19–20; coll.

devil's own ship. A pirate: coll.; C.19.

devil's paternoster, say the. To grumble: C.14 (Chaucer)—18; coll. Terence in English, 1614.

devil's picture-gallery, the. A pack of cards: coll.: late C.19–20; ob. Collinson.

devil's playthings, the. Playing cards: C.19–20, ob.; coll. Cf. devil's books, q.v.

devil's prayer-book, the. See devil's books.

devil's regiment of the line, the. Felons; convicts: coll.: ca. 1870–1914. P.B.: earlier. Punch's Almanack for 1860 attributes this term to Carlyle, noting that 'The post of honour due to that distinguished corps is the Van', i.e. the black Maria. devil's rot-gut. A particularly vicious alcoholic concoction. See cabin-boy's breeches.

Devil's Royals, the. The 50th Foot, from 1881 the Royal West Kent Regiment: military: 1809, when at Vimiera, 'they charged a French column of five regiments with seven guns and routed it' (F. & G.) Cf. Dirty Half Hundred.

devil's smiles. April weather; alternations of sunshine and shower: C.19–20, ob.; coll.

devil's tattoo. An impatient or vacant drumming on, e.g. the table, with one's fingers, with one's feet on the floor. Coll.; after ca. 1895, S.E. Scott, Lytton, Thackeray.

devil's teeth. Dice: coll.:—1860; ob. (H., 2nd ed.) Cf. devil's bones.

Devil's Wood. Delville Wood, 'the scene of terrific fighting in the Battle of the Somme': military: (later) 1916. F. & G.

deviltry. A coll. form of devilry: not gen. among the educated. From ca. 1850 in England, influenced by US; orig. and, except in facetious use, still mainly dial.

devor. A plum cake: Charterhouse, from ca. 1875. Ex the L.

devotional habits. Applied to a horse eager, or apt, to go on his knees: the stables:—1860; ob. H., 2nd ed.

devy. See deevie.

dew. Whiskey; occ., punch: Anglo-Irish: 1840, Lever (EDD). Abbr. of mountain-dew, whiskey.

dew-beaters. Pedestrians out before the dew has gone: coll.: mid-C.17–19. Hackett's Life of Williams.—Whence, 2, the feet: c.: late C.18–20, ob. Grose, 1st ed.; Scott.—3. In C.19 c. and (?)low: boots, shoes. Variants: dew-dusters, -treaders: mid-C.19–20 (ob.): Baumann.

dew-bit. A snack before breakfast: mid-C.19–20; ob.; coll. 'The harvesters' between-meals snacks were dew-bit, elevenses, fourses, and morn-bit' (Andrew Haggard, 1947). Cf.:-

dew-drink. A drink before breakfast, as to farm labourers before they begin a non-union day's harvesting: coll.: mid-C.19–20. Like dew-bit, more gen. and early in dial. H., 3rd ed.

dew-drop. 'I am going to knock off that "dewdrop", meaning the lock of the gas meter' (Sessions, 17 Oct. 1910): low: C.20.—2. 'Right in the nose of a rigid airship is a large metal coupling known as the "dewdrop", for making fast to the mooring mast, when on the landing ground' (Airship, III, no. 10, published in 1936): aviation coll.: since ca. 1933; by 1946, merely historical.—3. Drop of transparent liquid on the end of a person's nose: coll.: C.20. (P.B.) See dewdrops.

dew on, (have) got a. (To be) sweating; miners': C.20. Daily Herald, 11 Aug. 1936.

dew o' Ben Nevis. Whiskey: taverns': C.20. Ex a specific whiskey. (Ware.)

dewce. See deuce.

dewdrops in the nose. Mucus depending from the nose: low: C.18–20. Also, † caniles... See dew-drop, 3, for gen. C.20 use. Cf. bogey.

dewey. Two: Parlyaree: mid-C.19–20. Cf. dooce. Lester, 1937, "'What's the bottle, cull?'"—"Dewey funt, tray bionk, daiture soldi medza, so the divvi is otta bionk nobba peoron, and tray medzas back in the aris (Aristotle)", which in plain English would read: "How much have we taken, pal?"—"Two pounds, three shillings and tenpence halfpenny, so we get eight shillings and ninepence each and put three-halfpence back in the box (bottle)".

dewitted, be. To be murdered by the mob, as were the brothers De Witt, Dutch statesmen, in 1672: from ca. 1685; coll. till ca. 1720, then S.E. Cf. lynch.

dews. See deuce, 2. See deus(e) wins.

dewse. See deuce, 1.

dewskitch. A thrashing, esp. a sound one:—1851, ob.: vagrants' c., and low s.

dex; dexo (pl. dexes, dexies). A dexamphetamine sulphate tablet: drug-users': since mid-1940s. The dexo form is Aus. (B.P.).

dexter, n. One's right hand: joc. coll.: since (?)ca. 1790; †. Bill Truck, 1820.

dexter. (On the, belonging to the) right: facetiously coll. ex heraldry. From ca. 1870; in C.20, rare in England, very gen. in US, esp. in sport (e.g. baseball). Atkin in House Scraps (a humorous ballad of the Stock Exchange), 1887: 'His "dexter ogle" has a mouse; /His conk's devoid of bark.'

dhirzi. See derzy.

dhobi, dhoby; sometimes anglicised as dhobey; dobie; dobey;

dobee. A native washerman: Anglo-Indian coll.: C.19–mid-20. Ex Hindustani dhōb, washing. Among post-1840 Europeans resident in India, and among soldiers, loosely of any washerman or -woman.—2. Hence, the laundry: Servicemen in Middle and Far East: since ca. 1945 at latest. 'Is it today sheets go to the dhobi? (P.B.)—3. Hence, one's laundry: Services': since ca. 1945. 'What'll I do with my dhobi?'—'Take it up the QM's [Quartermaster's stores]'. See also flying dhobi.

dhobi, v. To wash one's clothes; often in form dhobi-ing: nautical (Bowen), then all Services: since mid-C.19.

dhobi day. Washing day: RN: late C.19–20. H. & P.

dhobi dust. Any washing-powder; any of the advertised detergents: RN lowerdeck: since late 1940s.

dhobi itch. Skin-irritation, esp. ringworm: army in India: latish C.19–mid-20. Charles Allen, ed., Plain Tales from the Raj, 1977.

dhobi wallah. A washerman. Var. of dhobi, 1.

dhobi-ing firm. A partnership of ratings who—quite unofficially—do their messmates' laundry: RN: C.20. (Granville.) Also dhobi firm.

di-da, di-da, di-da. Mocking burden to drawn-out explanation or, esp., complaint. Frequent in Geoffrey Cotterell, Then a Soldier, 1941' (L.A.): since ca. 1930. Cf. didah.

diabolical. 'In the late 1960s this S.E. [word] has suddenly attained wide popularity as a coll. intensive of dislike, [as in] "It's diabolical, the way the rates keep going up"' (R.S., 1969). P.B.: 'diabolical liberty' seems to have become, later 1970s, a tied phrase, as in 'They're taking a diabolical liberty if they think they can...'. Cf. horrendous, q.v.

diagram. (Facetious or) sol. for: diaphragm. C.19–20.

dial. The face: low: from ca. 1830. Orig. dial-plate: Lex. Bal., 1811. (Cf. frontispiece, esp. clock.) Var. dial-piece. Turn the hands on (someone's) dial meant to disfigure his face, ca. 1830–1910.—2. In c., a thief or a convict hailing from Seven Dials, (now part of WCI), London: ca. 1840–90. B. & L. Cf. decker, 3.

dial-piece, -plate. See dial, 1.—alter one's dial-plate. To disfigure his face: 1811.

Dials, the. The Seven Dials district, noted in C. 18–19 for being 'lousy' with low criminals: coll.: C. 19–20. (Baumann.) Between Charing Cross and Oxford Street, London. Cf. dial, 2.

diamond-cracker. A fireman: Can. railroadmen's:—1931. Pun on black diamonds (coal). Cf.:-

diamond-cracking. Work in a coal mine: C.19–20; cf. black diamonds.—2. In Aus. c., from ca. 1870: stone-breaking.

Diamond Dinks, Square Dinks, Triangle Dinks, the. The 2nd, 1st, 3rd Battalion of the New Zealand Rifle Brigade: NZ military in WW1. The 4th is the Arse-ups, q.v. Ex the shapes of the shoulder-patches.

diamonds. Coal: RN lowerdeck: late C.19–early 20. (Good-enough, 1901.) Cf. black diamonds and the diamond-crack entries.

Diana dip. A swim naked: girls' schools': late C. 19–20; by 1950, ob. Berta Ruck, A Storyteller Tells the Truth, 1935.

Diana Dors. Bingo rhyming s. call for 'All the fours': since ca. 1960. (Petch, 1974.) Ex the well-known actress.

diary, the. Diarrhoea. See PRISONER-OF-WAR SLANG, §12, in Appendix.

di. 'A portion or share': non-aristocratic: from ca. 1860; ob. (B. & L.) Prob. ex S.E. di, a counter used in playing card-games for money.—2. A marble: Aus.: C.20. B., 1942.—3. A partly-smoked cigarette, cached for future use: National Servicemen's coll.: early 1950s. Perhaps ex the action of stubbing it out, or perhaps a revival of sense 1. (P.B.)

di-dabs, the. A frequent var. of the ab-dabs, q.v. (A reminder from Cdr C. Parsons.)

dibble. In C.17, a moustache (?).—2. The membrum virile: low coll.; C.19–20. Ex the gardening instrument.—3. An affectionate form of devil: C.19–20; affected by lovers.

dibble-dabble. An irregular splashing; noisy violence; rubbish: mid-C.16–20. coll. till C.19, then dial. By reduplication of dabble. OED.

dibs. Money: since early C.19. An early occurrence is in The Port Folio, 6 June 1807, reporting a British source. (Moe.)

Prob. ex dibstones, a children's game played with sheep's knucklebones or with rounded pebbles (jackstones). Occ. var. dibbs.—2. A pool of water: nautical coll.: mid-C.19–20. (Bowen.) Ex Scot. dib.—3. Fists; esp. use one's dibs: C.20. (George Ingram, Stir, 1933.) Cf. origin of sense 1.—4. A shortening of dibstones (see sense 1): schoolchildren's: late C.19–20.—5. See:-

dibs, dics (Rugby) or dicks, digs (Shrewsbury), di (Tonbridge); to dick. Prayers; to pray: Public Schools': late C.19–20. (Marples.) Ex L. dictare, to say repeatedly, or dictata, lessons rather than precepts. P.B.: at Tonbridge, † by 1920 at latest.

dibs and dabs. Body lice: rhyming s. on crabs: C.20. Franklyn 2nd.

dic. A dictionary: coll.: late C.19–20. In Miss K.M. Elizabeth Murray, Caught in the Web of Words: James A.H. Murray and the Oxford English Dictionary, 1977, a delightful book, with a chapter headed 'The Dic and the Little Dics'. So prob. first used by Sir James Murray (1837–1915) and his family. See also dick, n., 1.

dice. The names of false dice are orig. c. and few > s. The terms, q.v. separately, are: bristles, cinques, demies, devuces, direct contraries, fulhams, gord(es) graniers, langrets, sices, and trays or treys. See also such terms as bart(re)d, cater, flat, long, ventage.

dice, v., To ride strenuously: army mechanical transport: WW2. See dicing for derivaton.—2. To get rid of: Aus.: since ca. 1920. Rats, 1944, 'It's me name, but it's too cissy, so I dices it and picks up "Mick"'. Ex discard, proposes E.P.; but Wilkes suggests the more likely 'lose by playing at dice'.

dicer. A hat: ca. 1800–40. Frequently in novels of Jeffrey Farnol.—2. A pilot undertaking a 'dicey' operation: RAF: ca. 1940–5.—3. The sortie itself: RAF, 1941–5. Ex dicing, 1. (Peter Sanders.)

dicey. Risky; dangerous: RAF: 1940+; by 1946, common among civilians: cf. next entry.—2. Hence, esp. in 'It's a bit dicey', chancy and tricky: since early 1950s. (L.A. records hearing it on 27 Apr. 1960.)

dices on the ubble. 'Going thin on the top': Teddy boys': ca. 1955–60. (Gilderdale, 2.)

dicing, n. Flying; properly, operational flying: RAF: 1940+. Cynically and refreshingly joc., in derision of the journalistic dicing with death (so often heard in Aug.–Oct. 1940). 'In a letter to The Daily Telegraph of 22 June '68, Mr W.A.H. Watts of Sunbury says that "dicing with death" was commonly used by motor racing enthusiasts long before 1939 and attributes it to the motor racing correspondent of one of the motoring journals of that era' (R.S.)—2. Hence, a 'duel' between two drivers: car racing drivers' and the commentators': since ca. 1955.

Dick. A man; lad, fellow. As in Tom, Dick and Harry (see Words!, pp. 70–1): late C.16–20. Ex Richard. Coll., but often pej.; witness 'a dick' in The English Rogue and 'a desperate Dick' in The Verney Memoirs.—2. 'Inevitable' nickname for any man surnamed Whittington: C.20. (P.B.) Ex the famous 'Lord Mayor of London Town'.

dick, n. A dictionary; hence, fine words: coll.: since early C.19. W.N. Glascock, The Naval Sketch-Book, 2nd series, 1834, I, 206 (Moe). See also dic, and cf. dicker. Hence, swallow the dick, to use fine words.—2. An affidavit: recorded in 1861 (Dutton Cook, in Paul Foster's Daughter).—3. A riding whip: from ca. 1860; H., 3rd ed.? etym.—4. The penis: military, from ca. 1880. In 1915+, d.s.o., facetiously = dick shot off. The term had, by ca. 1960, acquired the generic sense of the female need for sexual intercourse, as in 'She was crazy for dick' (Jonathan Thomas, 1976). Prob. by personification; cf. John Thomas.—5. A perambulator: C.20. A. Neil Lyon, Moly Lane, 1916.—6. A detective: C.20. Owes something to the 'Deadwood Dick' stories and to the 'Dick Tracy' comic strip?—7. A look, a glance: market-traders': late C.19–20. (M.T.) Ex the v.—8. In have had the dick, to be 'all washed-up' or finished, esp. financially or in one's career: Aus.: since ca.

1920. Cf. have had the Richard. (B.P.)—9. In money for dick, money for nothing: army:—1914 (F. & G.).—10. In up to dick, artful, knowingly wide-awake; also, up to the mark, excellent: from ca. 1870. J. Greenwood, Under the Blue Blanket: 'Aint that up to dick, my biffin?' As in:—11. In take (one's) dick, to take an oath: low:—1861 (source as 2). Abbr. declaration.—12. See clever dick and thick dick.—13. (Usu. pl.) 'Lice, vermin' (Tempest): low or c.: mid-C.20. T. compares sense 6; but see dickey-bird, 3.

dick, v. t. and i. To look, peer; watch: N. Country c.: from ca. 1850. (H., 3rd ed.) Ex Romany: cf. dekkō. Current, 1970s, in market-traders' argot, as 'Dick at the gorgor's conkie' (M.T.). Dick Dunn. Sun: rhyming s.: C.20. Lester derives it ex 'a famous bookmaker'.

dick in the green. Inferior; weak: c.: ca. 1805–1900. (Vaux.) Cf. dicked... and dickey, adj.

dick shot off. See d.s.o., and dick, n., 4.

Dick Turpin. 13: darts players': C.20. Rhyming s. Evening News, 2 July 1937.

dicked in the nob. Silly; insane: low: ca. 1820–60. (Egan's Grose.) Cf. dickey, adj.

dicken, diclin, dickon (often with to). 'A term signifying disgust or disbelief' (C.J. Dennis): since late C.19, Aus.; C.20, NZ. Sometimes dickin to that!, stop that; it's too much to believe; it's disgusting. NZ dicken on that!: go easy!; nothing doing. (Slatter.) Perhaps ex-dickens (also dickins, C.17–18; dickings, C.19; dickons, C.18–19, OED), the, rarely a. The devil, the deuce, esp. in exclamations: late C.16–20; perhaps coll. Shakespeare. Urquhart, Gay, Foote, Sims; C. Haddon Chambers, 'What the dickens could I do?' In origin a euph. evasion for devil; either an attrition from devilkin (SOD) or ex Dicken or Dickon (W.). Cf. dicken, q.v.

dicke. A dictionary: coll.: C.20. By the 'OXFORD-ER'. Cf. dick, n., 1.

Dick(e)y; Dickie. The second mate: nautical: mid-C.19–20. (Bowen). See sense 6 of next.—2. 'Inevitable' nickname of any man surnamed Bird. See NICKNAMES, in Appendix.

dickey, dicky, n. A worn-out shirt: ca. 1780–1800; c. or low. (G. Parker.) H.'s extremely ingenious tommy (ex Gr. τόμη) perversely changed to dickey won't quite do.—2. Hence (—1811) a sham, i.e. a detachable, shirt-front: low > respectable s. > coll., by 1900 > S.E. Lex. Bal.—3. A woman's under petticoat (—1811): coll.; †—4. A donkey, if male: late C.18–20; coll.;? orig. dial. John Mills, 1841. Lex. Bal., 'Roll your dickey; drive your ass.'—5. A small bird: mostly children's coll.; from ca. 1850. Abbr. dickey-bird.—6. A ship's officer in commission, gen. as second dickey, second mate: nautical: since early C.19. W.N. Glascock, Sailors and Saints, 1829. (Moe.)—7. A swell: Londoners': ca. 1875–95. ?connected with up to dick.—8. The penis: schoolboys': since ca. 1870. Dim. of dick, n., 4.—9. An affidavit: lower classes': from ca. 1865. Dim. of dick, n., †, & declaration. Manchon, 1923.—10. A detachable name-plate (the name being false) on a van: low London: from ca. 1860. Ex sense 2.—11. A word; shortened rhyming s.: C.20. See dickey-bird, n., 5.—12. The sailor's blue 'jean' collar: RN: C.20.—13. A windscreen on a motorcycle: motorcyclists': since ca. 1950. (Dunford.)

dickey, dicky, dickey-bird. In bad health, feeling very ill; inferior, sorry; insecure; queer: from ca. 1790; low at first. See dickey with.—2. Smart: London: ca. 1875–1910. ?ex up to dick. Cf. dickey, n., 7.—3. Of plans or things: tricky, risky, 'dicey': coll.: C.20.

dickey, gen. dickey-bird. A small bird: coll.: ca. 1845. Barham (OED).—2. A harlot: from ca. 1820. In the broadside ballad, George Barnwell, ca. 1830. Often as naughty dick(e)y-bird.—3. A louse: low: from ca. 1855; ob.—4. Gen. in pl., a professional singer: from ca. 1870; ob. Prob. influenced by dial. dickey-bird, a canary (EDD).—5. A word: rhyming s.: late C.19–20. In full in such contexts as 'What you lookin' at me like that for?—I never said a dickey-bird, did I!'; but in Michael Harrison, Reported Safe Arrival, 1943, shortened: 'I give yer me dicky.' With the latter, however, cf. dickey, n., 9.—6. Information by clandestine radio. See PRISONER-OF-WAR SLANG, §4.—7. The penis: Can. schoolboys': since (?)ca. 1950. (D.J. Barr, 1968.) An extension dickey, n., 8.

dick(e)y diddle. To urinate; a urination: Cockney juvenile rhyming s. on piddle: C.20. Cf. Jimmy Riddle. Franklyn, Rhyming.

dick(e)y-diaper. A linen-drapeer: ca. 1820–70. (Bee.) Lit., a fellow who sells diapers.

dick(e)y dido. A complete fool; an idiot: mid-C.19–20 (ob.): lower classes'. Baumann.—2. The female pudend: low and raffish: C.20; ob. by ca. 1950, except where embalmed in the chorus of a ribald song, to the tune of 'The Ash Grove': 'I've felt it, I've seen it; I've been in be-bloody-tween it—and the hairs of her dicky dido hung down to her knees!' (P.B.)

dick(e)y dirt. A shirt: rhyming s.: late C.19–20. F. & G.

dick(e)y domus. A small 'house' or audience: theatrical: from ca. 1860; ob. Ex dick(e)y, adj., 1, and L. domus, a house or home.

dick(e)y flurry. 'A run on shore, with all its accompaniments' (Bowen): nautical: late C.19–20. E.P. suggests a connection with dickey, adj., 2, or even perhaps with dickey-bird, 2; but Granville points out that dickey is 'a diminutive in the Navy', and glosses dickey flurry as 'a short time ashore' (Dict. of Sailors' Slang, 1962).

dick(e)y flutter. A bet: military: C.20. F. & G. dickey hand. A hand at cards: RN lowerdeck: ca. 1890–1930. Knock.

dick(e)y lagger. A bird-catcher: from ca. 1870; low. Ex lag, to seize.

dick(e)y leave. Absence without leave: army:—1914. (F. & G.) Ex dickey, adj., 1.

dickey pilot. A pilot flying with an experienced pilot for instructional purposes: RAF: since ca. 1930. He occupied the dickey seat. See also second dickey, 2.

dick(e)y run. 'A quiet stroll ashore' (Knock): RN lowerdeck: late C.19–mid-20. Cf. dickeyy flurry.

Dick(e)y Sam. A native, occ. an inhabitant, of Liverpool: from ca. 1860; coll. ex Lancashire dial. H., 3rd ed., 1864; Athenæum, 10 Sep. 1870, 'We cannot even guess why a Liverpool man is called a Dickey Sam.'

dick(e)y with, all. (Rare, except in dial., in the absolute use exemplified in Thackeray, 1837, 'Sam... said it was all dicky.') Queer; gone wrong, upset, ruined; 'all up with'. From ca. 1790. (Grose, 3rd ed.) Poole, in Hamlet Travestied, 1811; 'O, Hamlet! 'tis all dickey with us both.' Moore; Barham. Origin?

dickhead. An idiot; stupid fool: Aus.: later C.20. Barry Humphries, Nice Night's Entertainment, 1982, glossary.

Dickie. See Dick(e)y.

Dickie's. Dr Barnardo's Home at Kingston, Surrey: boys' and old boys': since ca. 1950. (Woman's Own, 2 Oct. 1965.)

diclin. See dicken.

dickings, dickins, dickons. See dickens.

dickon. See dicken.

dickey dock. A clock: rhyming s.: from ca. 1870. Ex the nursery rhyme.—2. Penis: rhyming s. on cock: C.20. Franklyn 2nd.

Dick's hatband. A makeshift: proletarian and provincial: C.19–20; ob. (Ware.) Ex.—2. In as — as Dick's hatband: any such adj. as queer relates the second as. An intensive tag of chameleonic sense and problematic origin, mid-C.18–early 19; surviving in dial., as in the Cheshire 'All my eye and Dick's hatband.' Grose, 2nd ed.; Southey. (Apperson.) In C.19, occ. as queer as Dick's hatband, that went nine times round and wouldn't meet.

dicksee. See dicxie.

dickey. See dickey, n. and adj., in all senses.

dics. See dibs.

dictionary, up to. Learned: coll.: C.19.

did, n. Short for didikai, didekei, diddikoi, etc., all var. spellings of the term for a near-gipsy: S. England rural coll.: C.20. (P.B.) See didekei and diddy, n., 2.

did I buggery – or fuck – or hell! A violent negation. See like fuck!

did it hurt? 'This is heard in jocular use in several ways, as "Did it hurt?" when a chap has said that he had been thinking' (Petch, 1966): c.p.: C.20. The var. tense does it hurt? is less often heard.

did she fall or was she pushed? A c.p. applied to a girl 'in trouble' or shouted at an old-style actress in melodrama: C.20. The c.p. was given impetus by the Daily Mail's use of it to headline the case of a girl found dead at the foot of Beachy Head cliffs. See DCpp.

didah (properly, di-dah). A radio telegraphist: R Aus. N: from ca. 1930. (B., 1943.) Imit. of morse.

diddneys. A C.18 var. (Grose, 2nd ed.) of:

diddies. The paps: low: from ca. 1780. Grose, 2nd ed. (as above). A corruption of titties.

diddikoi. See didekei.

diddle, n. Gin: from ca. 1720; in C.19 low, but orig. c. In anon., The Quaker's Opera, 1728 (see quot'n at bunter's tea); Augustus Mayhew in Paved with Gold, 1857. Prob. ex tipple.—2. The sound of a fiddle: C.17–20 (ob.), low coll. Ned Ward, 1703. Cf. tweedly, q.v.—3. A swindle: low; from ca. 1840, ex the v. Punch, 5 Sep. 1885, 'It's all a diddle.' Ex v., 1.—4. Among schoolboys, the penis: from ca. 1870. ?an arbitrary var. on piddle.

diddle, v. To swindle; 'do'; 'do for', i.e. ruin or kill: from ca. 1803 (SOD recording at 1806). Moore; Scott; 'And Jack is diddled, said the baronet.' Ex Jeremy Diddler in Kenney's Raising the Wind, 1803.—2. To trifle time away (v.i.): from ca. 1827, ob.; coll.—3. To shake (v.t.): coll., perhaps orig. dial.: late C.18–20, ob. as coll.—4. Hence, to copulate with: low coll. or s.; C.19–20.—5. To toddle: rare:—1923 (Manchon).—6. To digitate sexually and successfully: Can.: C.20. Cf. senses 1, 3, 4, and daddle, v.

diddle-cove. A publican: c.:—1858. Ex diddle, coll.

diddle-daddle. Nonsense; stuff and nonsense: coll.; from ca. 1770.

diddle-diddle. Ned Ward's var. of diddle, n., 2: 1703.

diddler. A sly cheat, a mean swindler; a very artful dodger; occ., a constant borrower: coll.: from ca. 1800. Cf. Jeremy Diddler: prob. ex dial. duddle, to trick (W.). diddleums. Delirium tremens: Aus. joc.: since ca. 1925. B., 1943.

diddling. Sly, petty cheating or meanly sharp practice; chronic borrowing. Coll.: from ca. 1810. Ex the v., 1.—2. See how are you diddling?

diddlum, adj. Dishonest; illicitly manipulated: low, esp. grafters': C.20. Cheapjack, 1934, "'It's these ruddy diddlum machines wot's done it," he said.' I.e. diddle 'em.

diddlum buck. The game of Crown and Anchor: military: from ca. 1880. (F. & G.) A C.20 Can. var. is toodle-em-buck.

diddly-donks. 'Main engines, diesel' (John Malin, 1979): RN Submariners': mid-C.20. See donk, 4.

diddly-dum, esp. it's all diddly-dum. Everything's fine: 'A term of approval among drop-outs at a "free" pop festival on Exmoor' (Observer, 13 June 1976: R.S.). A transient expression, worth recording not for its value in the vocabulary of youth, but for its apparently irresponsible origination.

diddly-pout. The female pudend: low: from ca. 1860. Ex pouter, which could well be literal, + a familiar diminutive. diddums! Did you (or did he, etc.) then!: nursery coll., in consoling a child: late C.19–20. (Manchon.) And see esp. Norah March's excellent article entitled 'Away with all the "Diddums" Jargon' in Evening Standard, 28 May 1934. By perversion of did you (or he). P.B.: used among children in the post-nursery stage, it is heavily sarcastic.

diddy, n. See diddies, breasts.—2. A familiar dim. of didekei, q.v., a gipsy: late C.19–20. Also abbr. further to did.

diddy, adj. Little: nursery (C.19–20) >, by ca. 1930, gen. coll.; by 1970s widespread, perhaps influenced by the comedian Ken Dodd and his references to the 'Diddy-men'. Cf. the Cornish didgy = small, tiny (EDD). (P.B.)

didee, the. The water-closet: Aus.: C.20. (Frank Hardy, Billy Borker Yarns Again, 1967.) Perhaps orig. euph. for dumaken or its derivative dunny.

didek(e)i. A gipsy: c.: C.20. (George Orwell, Down and Out in Paris and London, 1933.) Ex Romany didakeis, half-bred gipsies (Smart & Crofton). There are several var. spellings, e.g. didakai, diddikoi.

didn't ought. Port (wine): rhyming s.: late C.19–20; ob. by 1950. (Franklyn, Rhyming.) Ex 'Oo! I didn't ought to.'

didn't ougther. Water: rhyming s.: ca. 1890–1920. Franklyn 2nd.—2. 'Daughter' (Powis): rhyming s.: current in 1970s.

didn't you sink the 'Emden'? An Aus. army c.p. (1915–18) contemptuous of arrogance or too good a 'press'. (F. & G.) The Australian cruiser Sydney destroyed the German cruiser Emden in 1914 at Cocos Islands.

dido, n. Rum: army: early C.20. (B. & P.) ?Ex.—2. In cut up (occ., one's) didoes, to play pranks: orig. (from ca. 1830) US; adopted 1850s in UK, and slightly ob. by 1930. (H., 1st ed.) The C.20 RN var., = to play the fool, is act or cut a dido (F. & G.; Granville). See also kick up a dido.—3. 'A girl who makes herself ridiculous with fantastic finery' (P.W. Joyce, 1910): Anglo-Irish: late C.19–20. Ex Dido, the tragic queen. dido, v. 'To steal from carts in the street' (B., 1942): Aus. c.: C.20.

didoes. See dido, n., 2.

die, n. (Gen. pl.) A last dying speech; a criminal trial on a capital charge: low: ca. 1850–70. H., 1st ed.—2. In make a die (of it), to die: coll.: C.17–early 20. Cotgrave, 1611.

die, v. See die the death; and die, in Appendix.

die by the hedge. (Or hyphenated.) Inferior meat: provincial coll. (? orig. dial.); C.19–early 20.

die dunghill. To die contrite or cowardly; esp. to repent at the gallows: coll.: ca. 1755–1830. OED.

die hard. To die fighting bravely: coll.: C.19–20. Cf. the S.E. sense, to die impenitent, and:-

Die-Hards, the. The 57th Regt of Foot, which became, in 1881, the Middlesex Regiment; in 1971 the regt became, after 12 years in the Home Counties Brigade, a component of the Queen's Regiment: army nickname, proudly borne since the Peninsular War; supposed to arise from their dying colonel's gallant words at Albuera, 1811, 'Die hard, my men, die hard!' F. & G.; John Gaylor, Military Badge Collecting, 1977 ed.

die in a devil's or a horse's nightcap; (one's) shoes (later boots); like a dog; on a fish-day. To be hanged: coll. All four were current in late C.17–18; the first and second survived in early C.19. The second, with boots and owing to US influence, has since ca. 1895 meant, to die in harness, at work.

die like a rat. To be poisoned to death: C.17–18; coll. In C.19–20, S.E. and of a blunted signification. Like the preceding set of phrases, it is in B.E.

die like Jenkins's hen. I.e., unmarried: Scots coll.: C.18–19.

die on it. To fail to keep a promise, or in an undertaking: Aus.: since ca. 1918. Baker.

die the death. (Of a performer) to meet with a complete lack of response from the audience: theatrical, but esp. Variety, chiefly among comedians: since ca. 1940. Since ca. 1950, usually shortened to die, as in 'My gags didn't mean a thing (to the audience). I died!' (Richard Merry).

die the death of a trooper's horse, you will. A joc. c.p. = 'You will be hanged': ca. 1780–1850. Grose, 1st ed., 'That is with your shoes on'.

die with cotton in (one's) ears. To be hanged at Newgate, where Cotton was the prison chaplain. See leave the world...

died of wounds. Standardised reply to query about an absent man's whereabouts: army: WW1+. Ex an official formula 'died of wounds received in action'. Cf. hanging on the old barbed wire and the civilian just went by with a barrowload.

Diet of Worms, be or have gone to the. To be dead and buried: ca. 1710–1820. Addison, Grose. (Cf. Rot-his-bone.) When Luther attended the Diet at Worms in 1521, many thought that he would meet the fate of Huss.

diet sheet. A Mess menu: Service officers' (esp. RAF): since 1941. Jackson.

Dieu et mon droit (pron. dright), Fuck you, Jack, I'm all right. An occ. var. (—1914–15) of fuck you, Jack, I'm all right, q.v. Dieu et mon dright often serves for the whole; therefore, partly, rhyming s. (Franklyn.)

diff. A difference, esp. in 'That's the diff': coll., orig. Stock Exchange: from ca. 1870. Ware, 'There is a great diff between a dona [a woman] and a mush. You can shut up a mush (umbrella) sometimes.'—2. A differential: since ca. 1920. Gavin Casey, It's Harder for Girls, 1942.

diffier. Difference: NZ: late C.19–20. (G.B. Lancaster, Sons of Men, 1904.) Cf. differs.

different. Special, unusual, recherché: 1912 (Canfield) >, by 1935, coll. (OED Sup.) P.B.: in 1960s and 70s used as a polite escape formula, similar to interesting, by those called upon to admire something which, in all sincerity, they cannot: 'Well, it's—er—different!'

different ships, different long-splices. A coll. nautical var., mid-C.19–20, of the landsman's different countries, different customs. (Bowen.) I.e. different ways of joining, e.g., ropes. In C.20, a RN var. is different ships, different cap-tallies. Granville.

different wavelength. See wavelength.

differential. A coll. (now almost S.E.) abbr. of differential gear(ing): from ca. 1910. See diff, 2.

differs. Difference: Anglo-Irish: C.20. Desmond O'Neill, Life Has No Price, 1959, 'I don't suppose it'll make any differs, but,' he said'. Perhaps via 'difference'.

difficulty. See with difficulty.

diffs. Monetary difficulties: theatrical: mid-C.19–early 20. An early occurrence is in Renton Nicholson, An Autobiography, 1860, at p. 52, 'Soon after 1832, he got into "diffs", and his residence was divided between the King's Bench and the Fleet Prison.'

diffy. Deficient, as in 'He was diffy a huffist at the inspection yesterday': army: since ca. 1939.—2. Difficult: Society: since ca. 1945; by 1960, almost †. Ngaio Marsh, Swing, Brother, Swing, 1949.

dig, n. In boxing, a straight left-hander delivered under the opponent's guard: from ca. 1815; used by Tom Moore in Tom Crib's Memorial, 1819. (As = any sharp poke, S.E.) Cf. such terms as auctioneer, biff, corker, floorer, nobbler, topper.—2. A(n intensive) period of study: school coll. (—1887); slightly ob. Baumann, 'He had a dig at his Caesar; er hat seinen Cäsar geochst.' Cf. dig away.—3. Dignity: 'elegant' lower middle-class: from ca. 1890. Prob. ex infra dig, q.v. Cf. on dig, on one's dignity: schoolboys':—1909 (Ware).—4. Abbr. digger, 2, but not heard before 1915.—5. An (expedition for purposes of) excavation: (an expedition's) work on an excavation: archaeologists' coll.: from ca. 1890. Agatha Christie, Murder in Mesopotamia, 1936, 'He's the head of a large American dig' and 'Most of them were up on the dig.' Cf. big dig, 2.—6. Loss of privileges: Guards': since ca. 1930.—7. A reprimand as an officially recorded punishment, 'sentenced to be reprimanded...': army and RAF: since ca. 1925. Hence, a 'severe reprimand' is a severe dig. These punishments may involve loss of privileges, and be tied to loss of seniority. (P.B.)—8. A NZ soldier in WW2: 1939+. Also an Aus. soldier, WW2+; more used in address than in ref., 'G'day Dig? How d'y'be?'—9. An injection: medical: since ca. 1910. (Warwick Deeping, Mr Gurney and Mr Slade, 1944.) Cf. jab, 3, also a boxing term.—10. In cricket, a turn at batting: Aus. schoolboys': since ca. 1930. (B.P.) An opportunity to 'dig in'?—11. A fisherman's stretch of water or other definite 'area': Aus. fishers' and anglers': since ca. 1920. Nino Culotta, Gone Fishin', 1963.—12. In give (a person) a dig about, to mock or chaff: lower classes':—1923 (Manchon).—13. See full dig.

dig, v. To live, lodge: since ca. 1900. Ex diggings, q.v.—2. To irritate or annoy: Australian: since ca. 1920. The man was taken aback. "What's digging you?" he blustered,' D'Arcy Niland, Call the ..., 1958. Semantically cf. 'What's got into you?'—3. To become aware of; look at and enjoy; to enjoy; to look at and understand; to understand and enjoy: jazz-musicians', hence also dance-fanatics': adopted, in Brit. ca. 1945, in Can. ca. 1938, ex US. (Observer, 16 Sep. 1956.) 'To get into and under the melody' (F.E.L. Priestley); ultimately from S.E. dig into, to investigate, to examine very closely. Cf. Norman D. Hinton's excellent 'Language of Jazz Musicians' in The American Dialect Society, Nov. 1958. 'Now [among teenagers] means only "to enjoy or appreciate":' Miss Dinah Greenwood, 25 Mar. 1965. As a schoolboys' word, it had, by mid-1963, reached the 7–10 age group: New Society, 22 Aug. 1963.—4. Among beatniks, 'to dig is to like, admire, understand or be at one with' (Anderson): since ca. 1957. Ex sense 3.

dig a day under the skin. To shave every second day: from ca. 1870; ob.

dig away, v.i. To study hard: school coll.:—1887; slightly ob. (Baumann.) Cf. dig out, 2, q.v.

dig in, v.i. To eat heartily: since ca. 1870 (?). Cf. next.—2. To secure (one's) position: since 1915. Ex trench-warfare.

dig in (and) fill your boots! Eat as much as you like!: RN: C.20. (Granville.) Not only your belly but also your boots.

dig in the grave. A shave: military rhyming s.: C.20. (F. & G.) As v.: coll. (now rhyming s.): from ca. 1880. Everyman, 26 Mar. 1931.—2. The spade in Crown and Anchor: military rhyming s.: from ca. 1910. B. & P.

dig out, v.t. Esp. in, e.g., dig me out, call for me, 'tear me from lazy loafing in the house': Society, > gen.: since ca. 1860. Ware.—2. As v.i. To work cheerfully and with a will: RN lowerdeck: since (?) late C.19 (Goodenough, 1901). Granville quotes the WW2 'If anyone can do any better, let him ruddy well dig out, I'm chocker with the job.' Claiborne suggests 'perhaps from digging out in swimming or rowing'.—3. To tidy (a hut, etc.): army in France, 1915–18, and army since, as in Gerald Kersh, They Died with Their Boots Clean, 1941. Ob. by ca. 1950.

dig out after. To try hard to get (something): lower classes':—1923 (Manchon). Cf. prec., 2.

dig the drape. To buy a new dress. See CANADIAN..., in Appendix.

dig up. To look for, to obtain, both with connotation of effort and/or difficulty: US (late C.19) >, ca. 1910, anglicised. Ex mining.—2. To depart, make off: low: late C.19–20. Manchon.—3. To tidy up (v.i.): military: C.20. F. & G.—4. To work hard: nautical: late C.19–20. Bowen. Cf. dig away, q.v.

Digby chicken or duck. Smoke-cured herring: nautical: since the 1880s. The evidence is confusing: the duck version appears to be strictly Nova Scotian, while the chicken—perhaps a smaller fish—is more generally Can. Digby is in Nova Scotia; the terms may poss. have arisen by analogy with Bombay duck, but cf. also Crail capon. (Bowen; »Priestley; Leechman.)

digger. The guard-room: army:—1909 (Ware); ob. W. glosses 'short for "Damned guard-room".' See also GUARD-ROOM.—2. Hence, a prison: c.: C.20. Patrick MacGill, Fear, 1920.—3. A common form of address—orig. on the gold-fields—in Aus. and NZ since ca. 1855, and esp. common in WW1+. (Rarely applied to women, except jocularly.)—4. In 1915–17, a self-name of the Australian soldier and the New Zealand soldier. Prob. revived, ex sense 2, by those who 'shovelled Gallipoli into sandbags', for this sense appears to have arisen after 25 Apr. 1915 (Anzac Day). Beyond the two relevant Forces, however, only (late 1915+) the Australian soldier was thus named. (B. & P.) In post-war Aus. and NZ, Digger is the official name for a man that served in WW1. Cf. dad, 2, Aussie and dinkum, n.—5. An Aus.-style wide-brimmed hat: hippies': ca. 1962–74. Cf. digger's delight.—6.

In up the digger, 'Up the line'; in the trenches: army: WW1. (F. & G.) Prob. up the jigger (where jigger = gadget or thingummy) influenced by diggings.—7. As D-, 'inevitable' nickname of a man surnamed Hicks: army: early C.20. John Aye, Humour in the Army, 1931.

diggers. Spurs: late C.18–20, ob. (Grose, 1788.) Cf. persuaders.—2. In cards, the spades suit: from ca. 1840. Cf. diggums and big digger.—3. The finger-nails: low: from ca. 1850: more gen. in US than in British Empire. [Glossed in 1930s].—4. (Often D...) 'Idealist hippies undermining capitalist economies by giving away free clothes, washing machines to needy' (Peter Fryer, 3 Dec. 1967): hippies'. Probably the same sect as those defined in Groupie, 1968: 'the Diggers (those who have dropped out into rural bliss)': since latish 1950s. Claiborne remarks: 'Presumably a reference to the [mid-]C.17 English radical movement of that name'. E.P.'s final comment: It faut cultiver son jardin.

diggers' delight. A wide-brimmed hat made of felt: from ca. 1880; ob.

digging, n. Kneeling down to pray in dormitory at night: Shrewsbury School: from ca. 1880. Desmond Coke, The Bending of a Twig, 1906. See dibs.

digging (one's) grave with a (or one's) knife and fork. Gluttony: joc. coll.: late C.19–20.

digging a grave or digging for worms, he is or they are. A cricketers' c.p. for the spectacular process known as 'garden-ing' (q.v.): from ca. 1905. See DCpp.

diggings. Quarters, lodgings, apartment: coll.; orig. US (1838), anglicised in late 1850s. (In S.E., diggings, gold-fields, and digger, a miner, date from the 1530s.) H., 1st ed.; Clark Russell, 1884, 'You may see his diggings from your daughter's bedroom window, sir.'

diggums. A gardener: provincial coll. or s.: C.19–20.—2. In cards (cf. diggers), the suit of spades: from ca. 1840.

diggy. 'Inclined to give sly digs': coll.: C.20. OED Sup.

digit, remove the. See take your finger out, hurry!

digital. A finger: facetiously and pedantically coll.; from early Victorian days.

dignity. A ball given by natives (among themselves): West Indies Europeans': mid-C.19–20. (B. & L.) Ex the pompous formality there rife.

dignity men. (Extremely rare in singular.) 'The higher ranks and ratings of coloured seamen': nautical: late C.19–20. (Bowen.) Ex the dignity of brief office.

digs. Abbr. diggings, q.v.: from ca. 1890. Ex Aus.; common in theatrical s. before becoming gen.—2. Prayers: Shrewsbury School: from ca. 1880. Desmond Coke, as at digging, q.v. See also dibs.

dike, dyke. A w.-c.: (low) coll.: mid-C.19–20; in later C.20, more common in Aus. Ex S.E. sense, a pit. Hence, do a dike, to use the w.-c.—2. (Usu. dyke.) A lesbian: adopted, ca. 1935, ex US. Bruce Rodgers, A Gay Lexicon, 1972, defines the term: '1. the mannish, swaggering, cigar-puffing lesbian. 2. (pejorative) any gay woman'. dikey or dykey, adj. Lesbian: since the late 1930s. Ex prec., 2.

dikk; dik-k-dari. Worry; worried: Anglo-Indian coll.: from ca. 1870. Ex Hindustani dik(k), vexed, worried. Y & B.—2. As v., a var. of dick, look at.

dikkop, play. To try to deceive as does a plover (Dutch dikkop) when, as one approaches its nest, it simulates a broken wing: S. African coll.: C.20. Glanville, The Diamond Seekers, 1903. (Pettman.)

dil. See dill, 2.

dilberries. Impure deposits about the anus or the pudend: low: C.19–20. (Lex. Bal.) Cf. dingle-berries.

dilberry-bush. The hair about the pudend: low: mid-C.19–20. Cf.:

dilberry-maker. The fundament: low:—1811; ob. by 1930. Lex. Bal.

dildo. An imagic substitute for the membrum virile; a penis succedaneus. C.17–20; orig. coll.; in C.19–20, S.E. ('Hudibras' Butler's Dildoïdes; Grose.) Perhaps ex It. diletto, delight, hence this sexual substitute (cf. dildo-glass, a cylindrical glass), perhaps ex dildo, 'a tree or shrub of the genus Cereus' (SOD). See Grose, P.—2. A candle: Aus. girls' boarding-schools': C.20. Cf. their c.p., lights out at nine, candles out at ten (o'clock).

dildo, v. To exchange sexual caresses with a woman: coll.; ca. 1630–1820. Ex prec., 1.

diligent like the devil's apothecary, double. Affectedly diligent: coll.: mid-C.18–early 19. Grose, 2nd ed.

dill. Distilled water: pharmaceutical chemists':—1909 (Ware).—2. At first recording, in B., 1942, dil, but thereafter dill. A simpleton; a trickster's dupe: Aus. c., C.20; by 1948, low s. (Gwen Robyns in Evening News, 16 Feb. 1949); by ca. 1955, no longer low. 'Popularly believed to be an ellipsis of dill-pickle, which is also used as a general term of abuse' (B.P.). Cf. dull-pickle. But prob. a shortening of dilly, n., 5, itself ex-dill-pot, dullpot; also dillypot. A fool: Aus.: C.20. Ex the orig. sense, 'female pudend', itself rhyming s. for twat, as Franklyn has suggested. The 'fool' sense may, however, rhyme on S.E. pot.

dillo nemo (Mayhew, I, 1851) or namo (H., 1st ed, 1859). An old woman: back s. Later, delo namnow, q.v.

dilly, n. A coach: coll.; ca. 1780–1850. 'The dillies', Grose, 1st ed., remarks, 'first began to run in England about the year 1779', but (see OED) in France by 1742. Ex diligence. 'The Derby dilly, carrying Three Insides' (Frere, 1789).—2. From ca. 1850: a night cart; ob. by 1910, † by 1930. H., 5th ed.—3. A duck: coll.; from ca. 1840, ex the call to a duck.—4. A coll. abbr. of daffodilly: 1878 (SOD).—5. A simpleton; a fool: Aus.: earlier C.20 (Lance-Corporal Cobber, 1918). Cf. dill, 2.—6. An admiring substantive for a pretty, attractive girl. 'She's a real dilly': young men's: 1950s–60s. ? Ex the adj., sense 1. (P.B.)—7. As the Dilly, the Piccadilly Saloon: ca. 1850–60. Later, the Pic.—8. As the D-, Piccadilly (the London street): c.: C.20. (Gilt Kid, 1936.) Among prostitutes, on the Dilly, working that area.

dilly, adj. Delightful: ca. 1905–25. OED Sup. Cf. deevie.—2. Foolish; half-witted: Aus.: C.20. (C.J. Dennis.) Cf. dilly, n., 5, and dill, 2; but consider also Somerset dial. dilly, queer, cranky, recorded in EDD for 1873.

dilly-bag. A wallet; a civilian haversack: Aus. coll.: from ca. 1885. In C.20, often used by woman for a small shopping-bag or for a general-utility purse-bag. In WW1, the Diggers occ. employed it as a facetious var. on ditty-bag for the small linen bag issued in hospitals for toilet and sentimental oddments. Ex dilli, a basket; dilli preceded dilly-bag by forty years. Morris.

dilly-bags of. An Aus. elab. of bags of, much. B., 1953.

dilly-dally. A doubling of dally: orig. (? Richardson in Pamela) coll.; S.E. by 1800. 'Prob. in coll. use as early as 1600' (OED).—2. Also as coll. adj.:—1909 (Ware).

dillypot. See dill-pot.

dim. Unimportant, undistinguished; colourless, insipid. (Persons only.) Oxford University: ca. 1927–34. [Thus the orig. gloss; but the term, in this sense, has since become widespread gen. coll., and is applied to all sorts of things, affairs, places. P.B.] Evelyn Waugh, Decline and Fall, 1928, 'Who's that dear, dim, drunk little man?'; J.C. Masterman, An Oxford Tragedy, 1933, 'The dim little research fellow with clumsy manners and no conversation.' Suggested by subfusc, q.v.—2. Hence, dull, silly, stupid: Society: 1931; like sense 1, this has > widespread gen. coll.: A.A. Milne, Two People, 1931 (in sense: dull, boring). See quot'n at crashing bore. Cf. opaque, and dim type, qq.v.

dim as a Toc-H lamp (, as). Extremely dim-witted: army: since late 1916 or early 1917; it passed to the RAF, where common until past 1960. P.B.: its obsolescence is well shown by the fact that, in a transcript of a BBC review of DCpp, during which the phrase was mentioned, the audio-typist had printed 'tockidge lamp'. Toc-H was WW1 signales for T.H., the initials of Talbot House, a Christian club and chapel founded at Poperinghe for the troops, in memory of Gilbert Talbot. Post-war, Toc-H became a widespread Christian movement, with clubs in many places; the lamp is their sign.

dim bulb. A very dull person; adj. very dull: Can.: ca. 1918–40. (Priestley.)

dim(-)liggies. A police van: 'Wikkel, dimliggies ([lit.] wobble, dim lights)' (Alan Nash, in Cape Times, 3 June 1946): S. African c.: C.20. Ex Afrikaans.

dim-mort, in B.E., is, I believe, a misprint for dimber mort, q.v. at dimber.

dim sim. A reduplicating var. of sim, 3, a con-man's dupe, a simpleton: Aus. c. and low: since ca. 1950. (B.P.) Dim sim (or sum) is Cantonese for a snack, and appears thus in Chinese restaurant menus. (P.B.)

dim type. A stupid fellow (or girl): RAF (hence, WAAF): since ca. 1936. (Jackson.) See type.

dim view. See take a dim view of, to regard with disapproval.

dim-wit (occ. written solid). One who is slow to understand what is going on: since ca. 1935. A natural consequence of dim, 2.

dimback. A louse: military: C.20. (F. & G.) Ex its dim-coloured back.

dimber. Pretty, neat; lively: low, prob. orig. (—1671), c.; † by 1840, except in dial. Whence the late C.17–19 (perhaps always c.) dimber-damber, leader or captain of criminals or of tramps, as in Head, B.E., and Ainsworth's Rookwood; dimber cove, a handsome man, a gentleman (as in B.E.); and dimber mort, a pretty girl (presumably in B.E.: see dim-mort).—2. Moreover, dimber-damber has become a Cockney adj.: C.19–20; ob.: 'smart, active, adroit' (Ware).

dimbo. Var. of Dimmo, 2.

dime museum. 'A common show—poor piece': theatrical: 1884–ca. 1900. Ware, 'From New York which has a passion for monstrosity displays, called Dime Museums—the dime being the tenth of a dollar.'

dimensions, take. To obtain information: police s.: from ca. 1880; ob. Ware.

dimmer. A cigarette-end: Cardiff: since ca. 1930. (Frank Shaw, 1952.) Cf. nicker, 4.—2. An insignificant person, or one out of favour: Public Schools': late 1940s. Poss. more gen., and later, usage. Ex dim, 2, by the 'OXFORD-ER'. (P.B.) Cf. grimmer.

Dimmo or Dimo. (Only in the vocative.) A Greek: Cockney: C.20. Ex Demo, short for Demosthenes, a very common given-name among the Greeks. Usu. pron. Jimmo. (Franklyn.)—2. A blockhead; stupid person: 'Move it [=hurry!], you dumbheads, you dimmos, you jerks' (Claire Villiers, reporting the words of a spoilt Canadian 'brat', in the overseas Guardian, 4 Sep. 1977); if not already Eng. in late 1970s, then soon > so: 'The daffy-headed dimmo who worries about glove compartments doesn't exist' (Jean Denton, re women buying their own cars, in Sunday Express mag., 25 Oct. 1981, p.7). Also spelt dimbo.

dimmock. Money: c. (—1812) >, by 1860, low. (Vaux; H., 2nd ed.) Hence, flap the dimmock, to display one's cash. Either ex dime=a tithing or ex dime=an American coin of 10 cents (minted ca. 1785).

dimmocking bag. A bag for the collection of subscriptions in cash; an individual's 'savings bank' for the hoarding of money for, e.g., Christmas cheer: lower classes': mid-C.19–20; ob. B. & L.

dimp. A cigarette-end: army: 1939+. (Daily Mail, 7 Sep. 1940.) As vagrants' coll. for 'the still-smokable stub of a cigarette' (James Wilson, in Social Work Today, 22 Jan. 1980).

dimple. A hole, esp. a small hole, made—by a torpedo—in the side of a ship: R Aus. N: WW2. B., 1943.

din-din. Dinner; hence, any meal; food: nursery coll.: late C.19–20. In a certain house I know, one woman invites her baby to 'din-din', another calls 'din-din!' to her cats.

din-dins. A meal, as in 'The din-dins were fab': teenagers': since ca. 1964. Ex din-din.

Dinah. A favourite girl or woman; a sweetheart: Cockneys', late C.19–early 20; Aus., early 20. ?A blend of clinah + dona, as well as being a girl's name.

dinahs. Edinburgh and Glasgow Railway ordinary stock: Stock Exchange: from ca. 1870.

dinarlee (or -ly); dinali (or -y), etc. Money: from ca. 1845; low Cockney and (orig.) Parlyaree. Esp. in nantee dinarlee, [I have] no money. (Mayhew in his magnum opus.) Ex It. or Sp. (ultimately L. denarii) via Lingua Franca: the gen. view. Possibly, however, through the Gipsies ex the Arabic and Persian dinar (itself ultimately ex L. denarius), the name of various Eastern coins.

dincum. A rare var. of dinkum.

dine, n. Spite; malice: c.:—1688 (Randle Holmes); † by 1820. Origin?

dine at the Y. To indulge in cunnilingus: Aus.: since the 1940s. Y is both the fork of the body and short for the YWCA.

dine out. To go without a meal, esp. dinner: mid-C.19–20; coll., 'among the very lower classes' (H., 5th ed.). Cf. go out and count the railings, dining out, and:

dine with Duke Humphrey. To go dinnerless (cf. dine out): late C.16–20; ob. Coll. till ca. 1820, then S.E. In Pierce Penniless, Nashe writes: 'I... retired me to Paules [St Paul's], to seek my dinner with Duke Humphrey'; Smollett; All the Year Round, 9 June 1888. Prob. ex the Old St Paul's Church part known as Duke Humphrey's Walk; Humphrey, Duke of Gloucester, Henry IV's youngest son. See esp. the OED and F. & H. Cf. synon. dine with St Anthony: 1749 (Smollett, trans. of Gil Blas), and:

dine with St Giles and the Earl of Murray. A Scot. coll. var. (C.18–20; ob.) of the prec. The Earl was buried in St Giles' Church. W.

diner. The C.20 racing c. form of deaner, q.v.

dines!, by God's. A coll. oath of late C.16–early 17. Perhaps ex digness. OED.

Ding. An Italian: Aus.: since ca. 1930. (B., 1942.) Also, a Greek: since ca. 1940. (Wilkes.)

ding, n. 'A shortening of wing-ding, a party: Aus.: since ca. 1958' (P.B. 1974). Echoic of noisy boisterousness; cf. ding-dong, 2.—2. The bottom of anything, esp. either the buttocks or a surf-board's base: Aus.: since late 1950s. (B.P.)—3. 'A hole in the fibreglass sheath of the board' (Pix, 28 Sep. 1963): Aus. surfers': since late 1950s. Ex sense 2, which may also mean 'anus'.—4. In knap the ore or take ding, to receive property just stolen: c.:—1812 (Vaux); † by 1870.—5. In upon the ding, on the prowl: c.: C.19. Bee.

ding, v.t., to strike, seems to have a coll. savour: actually, however, it is either S.E. (archaic in C.19–20) or dial.—2. To ding a person is to abandon his acquaintance, or to quit him: ca. 1810–60, low. Vaux. Ex:—3. As to snatch, to steal, to hide, it is C.18–19 c. (Capt. Alexander Smith, A Thieves' Grammar, 1719), whence ding, a thief that, to avoid detection, throws away his booty. Grose, 2nd ed.—4. As = ding, a euph., mostly US.—5. To name for a duty or responsibility: army: late 1960s. Usu. in passive, as 'I've just been dinged for mess committee.' (P.B.)—6. See ding to.

ding-boy. 'A Rogue, a Hector, a Bully, Sharper' (B.E.): late C.17–18 c. Cf. ding, v., 3, q.v.

Ding-Dong. Inseparable nickname—perhaps esp. in Aus.—for men surnamed Bell: late C.19–20. (S.H. Courtier, Gently Dust the Corpse, 1960.) cf. Dinger.

ding-dong, n. (As adj. and adv., despite F. & H., it has always been S.E.) A song: rhyming s.:—1859 (H., 1st ed.).—2. Hence, a domestic sing-song. In his Cockney Ding-Dong, 1975, a collection of Cockney songs, Charles Keeping begins his preface thus: 'All the songs in this book were sung at family parties (or "ding-dongs", as most Londoners would call them): since ca. 1880 or a decade earlier. Cf. sing-song, q.v. Extended, C.20, to a party: music-hall and theatrical.—3. A quarrel; set-to; fight: C.20. 'They were having a right old ding-dong'. Presumably ex the altercation, as of bells, or, cf. barney, senses 1 and 6, from a noisy party. (P.B.)—5. As an exclam. = "That rings a bell" [stirs a memory]: semi-c.p.: since ca. 1960. (Petch, 1969.) Occ. also as a meaningless exclam. of surprise or pleasure.—6. See quot'n at winkle-trip.

ding dong bell. Hell, as in "What the ding dong bell does he think he's playing at?": rhyming s.: C.20; esp. in RAF, WW2. Franklyn 2nd.

ding-fury. Anger: either dial. or provincial s.,—a discrimination sometimes impossible to make. C.19–20; ob.

ding the tot! Run away with the lot!: rhyming s.: from ca. 1870; low.

ding (something) to (a pal). To convey to a friend something just stolen: c. (—1812); † by 1870. (Vaux.) Cf. ding, n., 4, q.v. dingable. Worthless; easily spared: c. (—1812) >, by 1840, low; † by 1900. (Vaux.) Ex ding, 2.

dingaling. An eccentric or 'oddball': Can., adopted, ca. 1965, ex US. Daily Colonist (Victoria, BC), 8 Oct. 1976. (Leechman.)

dingbat. An officer's servant: Aus. army; 1914. Apparently ex dingo + batman. B. & P.—2. 'A swab for drying decks': RN: from not later than 1915. (F. & G.) Perhaps ex the now mainly dial. ding to strike, dash down, move violently, —bat as in brickbat.—3. A thimblegum: Can.: since ca. 1920. (Leechman.)—4. A Chinese: Aus.: since ca. 1925. B., 1943.—5. A crank; an eccentric: Aus.: since ca. 1930. (Culotta.) Ex dingbats, 1.—6. Crazy rider; daredevil motorcyclist: motorcyclists': since ca. 1950. (Dunford.) Cf.:—7. In go like a dingbat, to travel very fast, esp. of aircraft: RAF: since ca. 1920. Perhaps ex the idea of a mad bat: cf.:

dingbats. Eccentric; mad, gen. slightly: Aus. army, ?—1914; since ca. 1925, gen. and common. (B.P.) Prob. ex the dingbats, delirium tremens: Aus. and NZ: C.20. Hence, madness: id. In later C.20, sometimes shortened to dings (Wilkes). Perhaps also influenced by bats or batty, crazy, and the longer synon. bats in the belfry. (Mrs. C. Raab.) dinge, n. A picture, esp. a painting: Royal Military Academy: from ca. 1870; ob. Ex dingy.—2. Black (colour); generic for Negroes: from ca. 1930. (Michael Harrison, Weep for Lycidas, 1934.) Ex dinginess. Cf. dingy Christian, q.v., and—3. A Negro: low s., adopted ca. 1944 ex US (Robin Cook, 1962.) The American term derives ex S.E. dingy. P.B.: by 1960s it had come to mean any member of a dark-skinned race: still low s.—4. As the dinge. The black-out: RAF bombing crews': 1939 +.

dinge, v. To render dingy: from ca. 1820: coll. (ob.) and dial. Ex dingy. OED.

dinged (pron. dingh'd). Concussed; in a state of concussion—hence in a confused mental state: sporting: C.20. It occurs in an article by Drs Yarnell and Lych in the Lancet, 25 Apr. 1970. Ex the now informal S.E., and the dial., ding, v., 1.—2. See ding, v., 5.

Dinger (pron. dingh'r). 'Inevitable' nickname of any man surnamed Bell: C.20. (L.A., 1969.)

dingger (pron. dingh'r). A thief who throws away his booty. See ding, v., 3.—2. A dingo: Aus. coll.: since ca. 1830. Brian Penton, Landtakers, 1934.—3. A telephone; a bell-system: since early 1930s. (H. & P.) Echoic.—4. Short for humdinger, 'anything excellent': Aus.: since ca. 1920. B., 1942.—5. Anus: (low) Aus.: since ca. 1935. 'Don't forget that he'll get more than a gentle tap up the dinger if something really goes wrong' (A.M. Harris, The Tall Man, 1958, but dealing with Australians in Korea, 1953). Origin? Perhaps a pun on sense 4 and on hum, v., 4, as Ramsey Spencer has (1967) suggested.—6. In do a dinger, to dodge work: RN lowerdeck: C.20.

dingers. Cups and balls: jugglers', from ca. 1840. Ex the sound.

dinges (pron. dingh'us). See dingus.

dingey. See dingy Christian.

Dinghy. 'Inevitable' nickname of any man surnamed Reed (Read, Reid): Services': late C.19–20. F. & G. dinghy. A small rowing-boat, esp. for pleasure. An early occurrence is in Alfred Burton's narrative poem, 'Johnny dingle. Hackneyed; used up: Society, ca. 1780–1800. (Microcosm, no. 3, 1786.) ?ex dinged, battered.

Newcome', 1818 (Moe). Orig. Anglo-Indian coll.; >, ca. 1870, S.E. Ex Hindustani dingi, a river-boat. (SOD.)—2. Dengue: low and army s.: C.20. B. & P.—3. A sidecar: motorcyclists': since ca. 1950. (Dunford.) Cf. caboose and chair.

dingle-dangle. The membrum virile: low; from ca. 1895. The term occurs in a somewhat Rabelaisian song. Ex d.-d., a dangling appendage.

dingle-berries. See clinkers, 2, and cf. dangle-berries.—2. Female breasts: low and raffish: later C.20. (Red Daniells, in J. British Photography, 29 Aug. 1980.) See quot'n at jujubes.

dingo, n. An armoured scout car: army: 1940–55. The term soon > coll. and then, by 1945, j.—2. A coward; a mean-spirited person; a human jackal: Aus. (rather allusive coll. than s.): C.20. Vance Palmer, Golconda, 1948.—3. Hence, a treacherous person: since ca. 1900. (B., 1953.) Ex dingo on.—4. A batman: Aus. soldiers' (esp. in New Guinea): 1942–5. Cf. dingbat, 1.

dingo, v. To shirk; to quit, back out of: Aus. coll.: since ca. 1910. Jon Cleary, The Sundowners, 1952, 'I don't think he's dingoing the race'.

dingo, adj. Slightly insane: British Army, 1915 +; ob. Cf. dingbats, q.v.

dingo on, v. To betray (someone); to fail (him): Aus.: since ca. 1910. B., 1942.

dingus (earlier, occ. dinges). What-do-you-call-it; what's-his-name: S. African s. verging on coll.: late C.19–20. (Fos-sicker's 'Kloof Yarns' in The Empire, 7 Aug. 1898.) Ex Dutch ding, a thing: cf., therefore, thingummy. By 1930 at latest, English too (K.R.G. Brown, As We Lie, 1937).

dingy Christian. A mulatto; anyone with some Negro blood: mid-C.18—mid-19. Grose, 1st ed.

dinging out. (Of a seaman) undergoing punishment, esp. cells: RN: late C.19–20. (Bowen.) See also dine out. In mid-C.20, prison coll. had dine in, with derivatives diner-in, dining in (Tempest), for a prisoner eating in his cell rather than communally.

dining-room. The mouth: low: from ca. 1820; ob. Jon Bee, 1823.

dining-room jump. A mode of burglary. See jump, n., 1.

dining-room chairs. The teeth: low: from ca. 1820. (Bee.) Ex dining-room.

dining-room post. Sham postmen's pilfering from houses: late C.18–19; low or c. See esp. Grose, 2nd ed.

Dink. A Chinese: Aus.: since ca. 1920. Baker in Observer, 13 Nov. 1938. Perversion of Chink on dinge. Franklyn 2nd holds it to be rhyming s. on Chink.

dink. Riding two on a bicycle meant for one. See double-dink.—2. See true dinkum.—3. Penis: Can.:—1949.

dinker. Something (very) good: Aus.: since ca. 1925. (Baker.) Cf. dinkum and dinky die.

dinked up. smartened up, made lively, 'tarted up': [Northamptonshire] has few places dinked up for the coach trade' (Philip Purser, in Illustrated London News, Feb. 1981). See dinky, adj., 1 and 3.

dinkum, occ. dincum, n. Work, toil: Aus.: 1888, Boldrewood, 'An hour's hard dinkum'; ob. Ex Derbyshire and Lincolnshire dial.; cognate with Gloucestershire ding, to work hard: i.e. dincum, -kum, is prob. a perversion of dinging, with which cf. dink, to throw, toss, a var. of S.E. ding, to strike. (EDD.)—2. See Dinkums.—3. As the dinkum, short for the dinkum article, the genuine thing, the right person: Aus.: C.20. B., 1942.

dinkum, adj. (Often fair dinkum, occ. square dinkum.) Honest; true, genuine; thorough, complete: Aus.: prob. since ca. 1890. S.B. Lancaster, Jim of the Ranges, 1940, "'Straight dinkum?" It was the old touchword of their boyhood.' Wilkes's first citation is 1894. 'Are you fair dinkum?' = Are you telling me the truth? (Culotta). Perhaps ex dinky, adj., q.v.; but actually dinkum prob. derives ex fair dinkum, for in Lincolnshire dial. we find fair dinkum, fair play, before 1898; the EDD derives it ex Lincolnshire dinkum, an equitable share of work.

dinkum Aussie. A native Australian: Aus.: late C.19–20. B., 1943.

dinkum oil, the. The truth: Aus.: from ca. 1910. (C.J. Dennis.) Ex dinkum, adj.; cf. the straight wire, q.v.

Dinkums, the. (Rare is singular.) Those soldiers who had been on Gallipoli; also, hence, the 1st Australian Division: Aus. military: 1916; ob. (B. & P.) Ex dinkum, adj.

dinky, n. A mule: army: C.20. (F. & G.) Prob. ironically ex the 'adj.', 1.—2. As the dinky, the truth: Aus.: since ca. 1920. (Baker.) Short for dinky-die.—3. A 'big car, say, BMW' (Peter York, Style Wars, 1980): upper-middle-class s.: later 1970s. Prob. by meiosis, on the brand name of a very popular make of model or toy cars. (P.B.)

dinky, adj. Neat, spruce; small and dainty: coll. (from ca. 1870) ex dial. dinky, itself ex Scot. dink, feat, trim, neat, as in Burns.—2. True; genuine: Aus.: since ca. 1925. (B., 1943.) Ex the dinky.—3. Up to the minute; lively, e.g. of pop music: since ca. 1970, or a year or two earlier. Shiva Naipaul, 'London's No-man's-land' [i.e. Brixton] in Illustrated London News, June 1976. "Time for a little music," the first black publican says. "Reggae?" I ask innocently. He glares. "No," he says, calming himself. "Something really dinky." The music of Bert Kaempfert oozes from the speakers.' BK = large popular danceband, playing quite 'middle-of-the-road' music. (P.B.) dinky-die. A var. (—1914) of dinkum, adj. (Jice Doone.) 'An intensive form,' says Wilkes, 'usually with nationalistic overtones.' dinko doo. The number 22 in the game of House: military rhyming s.: C.20. F. & G.—2. 'Thingummy': C.20.

dinner. See done like a dinner.

dinner for tea, be. To be easy, 'money for jam'; extremely pleasant or profitable: Cockney coll.: from ca. 1890. Pugh.

dinner pail. See pass in (one's) dinner pail and cf. pass in (one's) checks, to die.

dinner-set. The teeth: low: from ca. 1870. Cf. dining-room chairs.

Dinny Hayes, let loose a; Dinny Hayes-er. To punch; a punch, esp. a mighty punch: Aus.: C.20. Ex a noted pugilist. Wilkes, in four citations spread from 1907 to 1949, has the var. spellings dennyaiser, dinnyaizer, dinnyaizer, dinnnyhayser. E.P.'s own source was John G. Brandon, Th' Big City, 1931 (for both forms used as keyword); the quot'n used was 'In New South [Wales] you just hauled off and spread the troublesome bloke on the floor with a Dinny Hayes-er.'—2. Hence, something notable: Aus.: since ca. 1910. B., 1943.

dinted, occ. dented. Damaged; wounded, injured; greatly diminished: of persons, reputations, or fortunes: facetious coll.; from ca. 1910.

dinting. 'Digging out old ballast' (Railway, 2nd): Southern Region railwaymen's: C.20. Ex N. Country dial. dinting, 'the taking up of the bottom of a colliery road, in order to enlarge the road' (EDD).

Dinty. 'Inevitable' nickname for a male Moore: esp. in Services: C.20. Cf. Pony.

dip, n. A pickpocket: c.: from ca. 1850. It may, at first, have meant simply 'a pocket', for it is so defined by Renton Nicholson in his Autobiography, 1860, p.19. Cf. diver, q.v.—2. Abbr. dip-candle: orig. coll., soon S.E.: from ca. 1815. Barham, 'None of your rascally dips.'—3. A pocket inkstand: Westminster School, C.19–20, ob.—4. A tallow chandler: C.18–early 19. Cf. sense 2.—5. A hit at, esp. a continuous hard hitting of, the bowling: cricketers': C.20. Neville Cardus, Good Days, 1934, 'After Macartney reached 200 in something like the time the average cricketer takes to score seventy, he waved his bat toward the pavilion, and signalled; "What do you want, Charles?" asked A.W. Carr: "a drink?" "No... I want a heavier bat; I'm going to have a 'dip'." One of the Nottingham bowlers, overhearing..., nearly fainted.'

(Macartney—it was in 1921—went on to score 345 in 3 hours 55 minutes.)—6. Dripping (in cookery): (low) coll.: mid-C.19–20. (Neil Bell, Andrew Utway, 1931.) This sense has a derivative nuance: 'melted bacon fat, usually a favourite with children when poured from frying-pan onto plate' (Peter Ibbotson, 1963): late C.19–20; in C.20, no longer low.—7. Diphtheria; a patient suffering from diphtheria; a case of diphtheria: medical, esp. nurses': C.20. 'We had three dips in this morning'; 'It's dip, you know'.—8. A sort of doughnut: Aus.: since ca. 1910. B., 1943.—9. A simpleton: Aus. (known also in UK and US): since ca. 1925. (B., 1943.) Ex dippy, 1.—10. A member of the Diplomatic Service: esp. in the Civil Service: since ca. 1945. John Le Carré, A Small Town in Germany, 1968.—11. (Of a male) a short copulation: low and raffish: since ca. 1950. (Jonathan Thomas, 1976.) Cf. dip (one's) wick.—12. 'A smaller lamp [than a brute, q.v.] movable by one man; its name goes back to the theatre where dips were plugged into outlets down small traps in the stage' (Red Daniells, 1980): photographers'. Cf. 2 and 4.—13. See Dip, the.

dip, v. To pawn: mid-C.17–20; coll. Ex the C.17–20 S.E. sense, to mortgage, esp. lands, as in Dryden ('Never dip thy lands'). Spectator; Thackeray; B.E. has dip one's terra firma.—2. In the passive, to get into trouble; be involved in debt: c.: from ca. 1670.—3. To pick pockets: c.: since ca. 1815. Cf. dive and see dip, n., 1.—4. To fail in an examination, as 'I dipped by five marks'; also be dipped: RN: late C.19–20. (Bowen.) Cf.:—5. To lose (e.g. a Good-Conduct Badge), forgo one's rank, or be reduced in rank for some misdemeanour: RN: late C.19–20. ('Taffrail', Pincher Martin, 1916.) Senses 4 and 5 are both ex 'the salute of dipping the ensign' (Bowen).—6. To fail in committing a crime, e.g. robbery or theft: Aus. c.: C.20. See AUSTRALIAN..., in Appendix.

dip, adj. Diplomatic; of the Diplomatic; Service: Civil Service and Police: C. 20. (Kenneth Benton, Craig and the Jaguar, 1973.) Cf. dip, n., 10.

Dip, the. A cook's shop that, in C.18–early 19, was situated 'under Furnival's Inn' (Grose, 2nd ed.) and frequented by the lesser legal fry.—2. 'That part of Piccadilly (the thoroughfare) adjoining St James's Park, where male prostitutes once importuned wealthy homosexuals. A term known to many homosexuals throughout the UK and even abroad' (Powis).—3. As the dip. The assistant purser: nautical, esp. ships' stewards: C.20. (Dave Marlowe, Coming, Sir!, 1937.) See dips, 2 and 3.

dip a badge. To lose one's Good-Conduct Badge: RN lowerdeck: since late C.19. (Knock.) See dip, v., 5.

dip (one's) beak. To drink: C.19–20; low. (Cf. moisten one's whistle.) B.E.: 'He has dip't his Bill, he is almost drunk': low: late C.17–early 19; extant in Cornish dial.

dip chick. A diver: RN: C.20. Granville, 'Corruption of Dabchick, or Little Grebe, a small diving bird'.—2. An evolution by an M-class submarine, in which it dives on approaching its target, bobs up, fires its 12-inch gun, and dives again: RN: 1930s. John Malin cites Lt Cdr K. Edwards, We Dive at Dawn, 1939.

dip in. To be successful in spotting a rare bird. See BIRD-WATCHERS', in Appendix.

dip into. (Gen. with pockets.) To pick pockets: from ca. 1810. dip (one's) killick. (Of a Leading Hand) to be disrated: RN: C.20. Granville, '[Killick is] the anchor which symbolised his rate'—cf. the RAF props; cf. also dip a badge, and dip, v., 5. dip (one's) lid. 'To raise one's hat to; (fig.) to salute' (Wilkes): Aus.: C.20.

dip out. To be unsuccessful in spotting a rare bird. See BIRD-WATCHERS', in Appendix. This is a specialisation of:—2. To be unlucky when favours are being shared out, as 'Only a quarter of us were allowed away that weekend, and I dipped out': Services': since mid-C.20. Perhaps ex the idea of a bran-tub dip. (P.B.)—3. To 'duck out', e.g. of going on an outing, attending a mess function, etc.: Services': since mid-C.20 (P.B.) Aus. has dip out on, 'to renege, withdraw' (Wilkes).

D
dip south. To put one's hand in one's pocket for money, esp. if the money is running low: Aus. and NZ: C.20. (B., 1959.) Cf. to south, and put down south, q.v. dip squad, the. Detectives operating against pickpockets: c., hence s., including police: since late 1940s. (Gavin Weightman in New Society, 7 July 1977.) Ex dip, n., 1, and v., 3. dip (or dipst) stick. A gauger: C.18–19.—2. See dipstick. dip the clutch. To de-clutch at the wrong moment, or, later, to de-clutch when, e.g., going down-hill, to conserve fuel: orig. army mechanical transport drivers', then motorists' gen.: since ca. 1939. (Peter Chamberlain, 1942.)
dip (one's) wick. (Of the male) to copulate: low: since ca. 1880. See Hampton, and get on (one's) wick. dipped, be. To be failed; to lose rank. See dip, v., 4 and 5. dipped in the wing. Worst: C.19–20, ob.: coll. Perhaps ex bee's-wing, q.v. dipped into (one's, gen. my) pockets, it or that has. That has involved me in considerable expense: coll.—1887; slightly ob. (Baumann.) Perhaps ex dip into, q.v. dipper. A pickpocket: mid-C.19–20; orig. c., then low. Cf. diver.—2. An Anabaptist or a Baptist: the SOD, recording at 1617, considers it S.E., but—witness B.E. and Grose—it was prob. coll. until ca. 1820.—3. In in your dipper!, NZ defiant c.p. of ca. 1920–40. R.G.C. McNab in The Press (Christchurch, NZ), 2 Apr. 1938. dipper (is) hoisted (, the). (There is) a strict rationing of water: nautical: C.19–20. Bowen, 'From the old sailing ship custom of hoisting the dipper to the truck after the water has been served out to prevent men stealing more than their regulation pint.'
dipping. Pickpocketry: c. from ca. 1855. See dip, n., 1, and v., 3. dipping-bloke. A pickpocket: mid-C.19–20; orig. c., then low. See dip, n., 1. dippy. Extremely eccentric or foolish; mad: from ca. 1910. Not impossibly ex Romany divio, mad, a madman (Sampson); cf., however, dipso, q.v.—2. Delirious: medical students':—1933 (Slang, p. 191).
Dippy Street. Dieppe Street, West Kensington, London, W.14: locals': late C.19–20.
dips. A grocer: s. > coll.: C.19–20; ob. Cf. 3.—2. The purser's boy: nautical: from ca. 1870. Ex:—3. The purser himself: from ca. 1830; nautical. (Marryat.) Ex dip-candles.—4. Doughboys: Aus. coll.: mid-C.19–20. dipso, n. Abbr. dipsomaniac, a confirmed drunkard: C. 20: cultured s. >, by 1930, coll.
dipstick. Term of abuse, heard directed at an ice-hockey referee, who wears a white top and black trousers—but there is a double entendre on prick: Can.: late 1960s–early 70s. (Ronald Pearsall, of Marton, 1980.)—2. (or hyphen.) A stupid person: teenagers': early 1980s. (Joanna Williamson, 1982.) Prob. coinage independent from sense 1. Cf. synon. thick dick. dire. Objectionable; (very) unpleasant: from ca. 1920: non-proletarian. (Georgette Heyer, Why Shoot a Butler?, 1933.) Cf. ghastly, q.v. direct O. A wireless operator employed directly by the shipowners: nautical: from ca. 1924. Bowen.
directly. Conjunction, as soon as, the moment after: 1795: coll. (R.H. Froude; J.H. Newman; Buckle.) Abbr. directly that (or when). OED. Cf.— directly minute. Immediately; forthwith; this very minute: lower-class, esp. Cockney, coll.: from ca. 1870. W. Pett Ridge, Minor Dialogues, 1895, 'Oist me up on this seat, Robert, dreckly minute, there's a good soul.'
dirk. The penis: orig. Scot., > low joc. coll.: C.18–early 20.
dirty. Brick-earth: late C.17–20; coll.—2. Money: orig. (—1890), US; anglicised ca. 1900. Cf. dust.—3. Shells: military: 1915. B. & P., 'Jerry put over a lot of dirt last night.' For semantics, cf. the soldiers' clod (v.) and shit (n.).—4. 'A mean speech or action' (C.J. Dennis): Aus.—1916. Cf. put in the dirt and do (the) dirt on, to act unfairly (towards someone): Aus.:

since ca. 1905, 1920, resp. B., 1942.—5. Anti-aircraft fire: RAF: WW2. (H. & P.) Cf. 3.—6. Bad weather: RAF Coastal Command: 1940+. (Fg Off. R. Hinde, 1945.) Cf. dirt and grease.—7. Scandal: adopted, ca. 1930, ex US. Ex cast, fling, or throw dirt (or mud), v.t. with at, to be vituperative, malicious: from ca. 1640: coll. till ca. 1800, then S.E. Seldom (throw); Ned Ward ('Fling dirt enough, and some will stick'); 'John Strange Winter' (throw mud). From the idea of scandal comes news generally: see what's the dirt?—8. A mean or evil spirit or temper, in, e.g., a horse: Aus. coll.: since ca. 1910. K.S. Prichard, Working Bullocks, 1926.—9. A trump card, esp. if unexpected ('He's put a bit of dirt on it'): card-players': since ca. 1945.—10. In in the dirt, in trouble: mostly RAF: since ca. 1925. (P-G-R.) Euph. for in the shit.—11. In in the dirt, derailed: railwaymen's: C.20. (Railway, 2nd.) McKenna, Glossary, has hitting dirt, to become derailed. dirt and grease. Marine indications of a gathering storm: nautical: ? ca. 1800–50. Moe vice W.N. Glascock, Sailors and Saints, 1829, I, 184. Cf. greasy, 1. dirt-baillie. An inspector of nuisances: Scot. (s., not dial.): C.19–20. dirt-box. Rectum; hence up your dirt-box!, a vulg. c.p., defiant or merely provocative: low, esp. army: C.20. Cf. next and dung-funnel. (P.B.) dirt-chute or -shoot. The anus: Can.: C.20. (Thanks to Robert Claiborne for the -chute var., 1979.) dirt on your tapes!, get some. See get some dirt... dirts, the. 'The dirty', a mean trick: from ca. 1926. (Anthony Weymouth, Hard Liver, 1936.) On bats and pots.
dirts coming out, the. Now we're getting the truth: c.p., often with implication in vino veritas: since the late 1930s. Cf. dirt, 7.
dirty, n. A boy with a dirty mind: schoolboys': late C.19–20. Geoffrey Dennis, Bloody Mary's, 1934.—2. See do the dirty. dirty, adj. Is—in low, and in semi-literate, English—often used as a mere intensive, not in the least pej.: since ca. 1910 (perhaps from a decade earlier). 'The [Dante] meets another geezer down there called Virgil or something, and they make dirty great speeches at each other' (Norman). Cf. dirty big and dirty great.—2. 'With it all hanging down', i.e. (of aircraft) with undercarriage, flaps, etc., all down, in order to fly as slowly as possible, as 'He's coming past dirty now': aviation circles': heard at Leicester air show, Aug. 1979. (P.B.) dirty! 'When, after a fire, bombing raid, etc., a notice appeared saying "Business as usual", some cynic would surely add "Dirty!"' (Petch, 1969): 1940–5. dirty a plate with. To dine with. See foul a plate. dirty acres. An estate in land: mid-C.17–20; coll. till ca. 1820, than S.E.—still facetious. B.E. dirty barrel, have a. To have venereal disease: RN: late C.19–20. A pun on 'gun-barrel'. dirty beau. Coll.: ca. 1680–1810: 'a slovenly fellow, yet pretending to Beauishness' (B.E.). dirty big. A var. of dirty great: mostly Services': since ca. 1910. Among Australians, it has, since ca. 1920, tended to synonymise bloody: B., 1943. dirty daughter. Water: rhyming s.: C.20. (Franklyn 2nd.) Perhaps suggested by the words of a popular song: '... water, / In which you wash(ed) your dirty daughter'. dirty Dick. A Lewis(-Savage) machine-gun: Can. soldiers': WW1. Daily Colonist (Victoria, BC), 11 July 1916. (Leechman.) Dirty Dick's (or Dicks). The venereal ward in a military or other Service hospital: mostly Can.: C.20. A pun on s. dick, penis, and on a once-famous low London resort. dirty dishes. Poor relations: coll.; C.19–early 20. Somewhat low. dirty face. See who are you calling...? dirty dog. A lecher: coll., often joc.: since ca. 1880. dirty dogs smell their own stuff first. A low Glasgow c.p.: C.20. Cf. foxes.
Dirty Dozen, the. The 12th Regt of Foot, which became in 1881 The Suffolk Regiment. (Spike Mays, The Band Rats, 1975.) Cf. Old Dozen.

dirty-drunk. Exceedingly drunk: coll., mostly Anglo-Irish: C.20. (Cf. dirty drunken dribbler, a person that spills his drinks: S.E. verging on coll.)

dirty end, get – or be handed – the. To come off the worse in a deal or an encounter: coll. C.20. 'Sapper', The Third Round, 1924, has the second form.

dirty great. A strong pej.: Services: since ca. 1910. E.g. 'That dirty great bastard'. Cf. dirty big and dirty, adj., 1, qq.v.

Dirty Half Hundred. The 50th Regiment of Foot (the 1st Battalion Royal West Kent): from ca. 1810. (Lever, in Charles O' Malley.) Ex a Peninsular War incident: the soldiers, during a battle, wiped their brows with their black facings. Or rather, as in Napier's account of Vimiera: 'With faces begrimed with powder as black as their own lapels they came tumbling down on Laborde's division with a fearful war-cry.' Cf. Blind Half Hundred, q.v., and contrast Dirty Shirts.

Dirty Half-Mile, the. King's Cross Road, Sydney: mostly NSW: since ca. 1925. (B., 1943.) Rough and tough.

dirty hands. Practical computer-operating, as opp. to the theory, systems-analysis, etc., side of it: computer people's: since late 1970s. (P.B.)

dirty left or right. A formidable left or right fist: Aus.:—1916 (C.J. Dennis).

Dirty Little Imps, the. The Durham Light Infantry: military: late C.19–20. Punning on D.L.I. Cf. Devil's Later Issue.

dirty look. A look of contempt or strong dislike, as in 'He gave me a dirty look': coll.: late C.19–20.

dirty mac. Generic term for sexually perverted males, a grubby old grey macintosh being recognised as the 'uniform' of the voyeur, exhibitionist, etc.: since early 1970s. Red Daniels, in Jnl. of Brit. Photography, 4 Jan. 1980, 'That little newsagent round the corner's got so many bum and tit mags [magazines] on display you feel like one of the dirty mac outfit just going in for an evening paper.' Another version is the grey mac(intosh) brigade. (P.B.) dirty money. Extra pay for very dirty work: labour coll.: C.20.

dirty night at sea. 'A nocturnal drinking bout' (Baker): Aus.: C.20.

dirty old Jew. In the game of House, it means 'two': rhyming s.: C.20. Franklyn, Rhyming.

dirty old man. A c.p., descriptive of or addressed to a middle-aged womaniser: C.20. Given impetus in the late 1960s–early 70s by the TV comedy series 'Steptoe and Son'. dirty one. A bad wound: hence, a misfortune: army: WW1. At first, of a wound that turns septic.

dirty 'ore. In House, thirty-four: rhyming s.: C.20. Franklyn, Rhyming.

dirty pool. Dirty tricks; unfair tactics: Can.: adopted, ca. 1970, ex US (see W. & F.). A. Schroeder, Shaking it Rough, 1976. Ex the game of pool. (Leechman.)

dirty puzzle. 'A sorry slattern or Slut' (B.E.): low coll.: ca. 1680–1830.

dirty sacks. Bedding: London Fire Brigade: C.20. Ex sleeping bags?

Dirty Shirt Club. The Parthenon (a public house) in Regent Street, London: ca. 1860–70. Ex its unwashed frequenters. H., 1864. Cf.:

dirty shirt march. The sauntering of male slumdom before, on the Sunday morning, it dresses for the midday meal: coll.; from ca. 1870; ob.

Dirty Shirts, the. Nickname bestowed in 1805 by Gen. Lake, after the battle of Bhurtpore, on the Bengal European Regt, 101st and 104th of Foot. In the re-organisation of 1881, the regt become the Royal Munster Fusiliers, who bore the soubriquet proudly until their disbandment, with the other Southern Irish regiments, in 1922. Carew.

dirty thing. Adolescent girls' term to, or for, a boy that becomes amorous: coll.: late (?mid) C.19–20.

dirty up. To render a show (radio, TV, film) more sexually tittillating: since late 1960s. 'Used by a [film] reviewer in his "Universe" column, 1 Dec. 1974' (Petch).

dirty water off (one's) chest, get the. (Of men) to obtain sexual relief by emission: low: C.20.

dirty week-end. A week-end spent with one's mistress; joc., with one's wife but without the children: perhaps orig. Aus., since ca. 1930 (B.P.), but very common in the UK since late 1930s, esp. during WW2.

dirty work at the cross-roads. Coition, or lesser amorous intimacies, with a woman: C.20. Ex the (—1900) sense, foul play, which often takes place at cross-roads. The pun is better unstressed. Hence, any doubtful or suspicious 'goings-on'. See esp. DCpp.

dirzi, dirzy. A tailor. See derzy.

dis, n. Disrespect: semi-joc.:—1923 (Manchon).—2. Noun ex:-

dis (occ. diss), v. To distribute (type): printers':—1889 (B. & L.).

dis, ppl adj. Disconnected: signallers': since ca. 1910. See also dissed.—2. Hence, go dis, to go crazy: since ca. 1919. Lyell.—3. Unserviceable or out of order: army: since ca. 1950, at latest. Ex previous senses. (P.B.)

Disappointments Board, the. The University Appointments Board: undergraduates' (esp. Oxford and Cambridge): since ca. 1950.

disaster. A piastre: Aus. and NZ soldiers in the Middle East theatre, 1915–18; renewed by troops in N. Africa, 1940–3. By rhyme and pun—the coin being of low value.

disaster area. See walking disaster area.

disc (or disk) jockey. A radio man whose job it is to play records and comment on them: adopted, ca. 1955, ex US; by 1965, coll., and by 1970s frequently abbr. DJ, which can be used also as v. The latter is also sometimes spelt deejay, and the activity deejaying.

discip, adj. Abbr. disciplinary, as in 'discip. sergeant', 'Discip Branch': RAF: since ca. 1940.

disco. A repository for gramophone discs, i.e. a discothèque: music-lovers': since ca. 1955.—2. Hence, 'a club where music is provided by disc or tape as apart from a live=performing group' (Woman's Own, 31 July 1965): since ca. 1960.—3. Hence, by later 1970s, any occasion at which dancing, flashing lights, and very loud 'canned' music form the entertainment. 'We're having a party for Sharon's coming-of-age—a bit of a disco'; 'Gary runs a disco every Wednesday afternoon for the teenagers, at the Social Centre': coll., verging on informal S.E. (P.B.) discourse. To yaw-off on both sides: nautical: late C.19–20. (Bowen.) I.e. discourse, with a pun on divagation in spoken discourse.

discuss, n. A discussion: girls' Public Schools': since ca. 1925. Nancy Spain, Poison for Teacher, 1949.

discuss, v. To eat, drink: joc. coll.: 1815 (Scott). Discussion, the consumption of food or drink does not follow until ca. 1860. (SOD.)

disease. Weather erosion or chemical-fumes deterioration of statues or buildings: since ca. 1940. Ex the leprous appearance they assume.

disembark, n. Disembarkation leave: Services', esp. army: since 1939. As in 'After a Far East tour I got 28 days' disembark, plus another 14 days' priv that I'd accumulated'. See priv, 2.

disenchanted. Dissatisfied (often with with); bored; 'fed-up': mostly middle-class, a loose coll.: later C.20. 'I'm getting bloody disenchanted with his whole attitude.' Prob. ex US, esp. the cartoons of James Thurber. (P.B.)

disgorge, v.i. and t. To pay up: coll.; C.19–20. Ex the S.E. sense, to surrender something wrongfully appropriated.

disgruntled. Offended; chagrined; ill-humoured (temporarily): late C.17–20. The SOD records as S.E., but (witness B.E. and Grose) perhaps coll. in C.17–18.

disguddy blusting. A transposition of bloody disgusting: schoolgirls': ca. 1935–50.

disguised. Drunk: s. or, perhaps rather, coll.: late C. 16–20; ob. In C.18–20, the gen. form (almost S.E., by the way) is disguised in liquor. Massinger, in The Virgin Martyr, 'Disguised! How? Drunk!' Goldsmith, of a handwriting in She Stoops to Conquer, 'A damned up and down hand, as if it was disguised in liquor.' Clark Russell, 1884, 'A third mate I knew, slightly disguised in liquor.' Ex the C.16–20 disguise, to intoxicate with liquor. (Then, disguise, intoxication, is rare and rather S.E. than coll.) disguised public-house. A workmen's political club: political: ca. 1886–1900. Ware.

disgustigating. A playful deformation of disgusting: since ca. 1910.

disgusting. Unpleasant; silly: Society: from ca. 1920. Denis Mackail, Greenery Street, 1925, "'You can have a Russian bath—if you know what that is.'" "Don't be disgusting," said Felicity—just to be on the safe side.' Cf. filthy, foul.—2. A term of approbation: middle-class youngsters': late 1970s. Prob. ex such phrases as 'You're looking disgustingly fit' (= very well) and 'Isn't she disgustingly brown' (= well sun-tanned), where disgustingly is used ironically. (P.B.) dish, n. An act of 'dishing': 1891, Sir W. Harcourt. (OED). See dish, v., 1.—2. A girl; (young) woman: adopted since ca. 1936 from US. (James Curtis, They Ride by Night, 1938.) For semantics, cf. cracking, crumpet, and tart. Shakespeare adumbrates the term.—3. Hence, among Teddy boys, an attractive girl: since ca. 1953. Also doll or tart.—4. Buttocks, posterior: homosexual: since ca. 1954. Ex senses 2 and 3.—5. Any attractive person, of either sex: since ca. 1955. Ex senses 2 and 3. 'Screen dishes can be dark, fair, tall or tiny, but never tubby' (Woman, 23 Oct. 1965).—6. Indish, to be drunk: coll.: ca. 1675–1750. Ray (Apperson).

dish, v. To cheat; baffle completely; disappoint, 'let down'; ruin. From ca. 1798; and see dished up. Monthly Magazine, 1798; Moore; Moncrieff, 1821, 'I have been dished and doodled out of forty pounds to-day'; Disraeli, 1867, coined the famous dishing the Whigs. Ex meat being well cooked (done) and then served (dished): exactly analogous is done brown; cf. also cook one's goose and settle one's hash (W.).—2. To assault, to 'beat up', with var. dish up: Aus., mostly juvenile and teenage: since ca. 1945. (B.P.) dish-clout. A dirty and slatternly woman: late C.18–20; coll. Grose, 1st ed.

dish-clout, make a napkin of one's. To make a misalliance in marriage. See napkin of (one's) dish-clout.

dish-down. A disappointment: C.20. (Logan Pearsall Smith, Words and Idioms, 1925.) Cf. dish, n. and v.

dish it out. To be either physically or verbally severe towards others: since ca. 1925. Cf. the c.p. 'he can dish it out, but he can't take it' and dish out.—2. To hand out punishment, information or, indeed, anything else, with ease and rapidity: Can., since ca. 1926; Eng., since ca. 1940. (Leechman.)

dish-jerker. A steward: nautical: late C.19–20. Bowen.

dish-lick or -washer. Occ. names for the restless flycatcher: Aus.: late C.19–20. (B., 1943; APOD.) Also known as the scissors-grinder.

dish of red rag. Abuse: low: ca.1820–1920. Egan, Anecdotes of the Turf, 'She tipped the party such a dish of red rag as almost to create a riot in the street.'

dish out. To distribute (food) equally or decorations indiscriminately: military coll.: since 1914. B. & P.

dish up. To wash up: RN (cook's galley): since ca. 1920. (P-G-R).—2. See dish v., 2.

dish-wrestler. A dish-washer: low from ca. 1925. Gilt Kid, 1936.

dis(h)ab(b)illy, n. Undress: which is pardonable: Adj., undressed: which is ludicrous. From ca. 1700; ob. Ex Fr. (en) déshabillé.

dished. (Of electrotypes) with letters having their centre or middle lower than their edge: printers'; from ca. 1880: if orig. s., then prob: soon > j., as is the use of dished in other, similar, senses.

dished out, adj. Dressed in one's best, 'tarted up': late C.16–mid-17. Moe cites Thomas Baker, Hampstead Heath, 1606 (l. i): 'A mighty Reputation for her to sit dish'd out like a fruit Stall, and ogle a young Fellow, that he may take her out to dance.'

dished up, be (whence dish, v.), is recorded by Grose, 2nd ed., for 'to be totally ruined'. In C.20 displaced by be dished: see dish.—2. 'To be attended to in the sick bay' (Bowen): nautical: mid-C.19–20.—3. In look dished up, to look 'washed up': Aus.: since ca. 1930. (Margaret Trist, 1944.)

dishy. Attractive: since ca. 1960. Julian Rathbone, Hand Out, 1968, 'Dishy, I call him.' (R.S., 1968.) Ex dish, n., 5.

disinfectant. Sauce; condiments or other garrish: joc.: later C.20. Cf. varnish, 2. (P.B.)

disinfo. Disinformation: espionage, coll., verging on j.: since (?)ca. 1950. 'A disinfo tool doesn't always survive' (Adam Hall, The Kobra Manifesto, 1976). Cf. info.

dismal ditty. A psalm sung by a criminal just before his death at the gallows: ca. 1690–1820: (perhaps orig. c., then) low, passing to low coll. B.E., Dyche, Grose.

dismal Jimmy. Mid-C.19–20 coll., as in H.A. Vachell, The Vicar's Walk, 1933, 'Shown in his true colours, as a dog-in-the-manager, a spoil-sport, a wet blanket, a dismal Jimmy.' dismals (, esp. in the). Low spirits: from ca. 1760; coll. till ca. 1840, then S.E. Ex M.E. in the dismal.—2. Mourning garments: ca. 1745–1830: coll. (SOD.) L. dies mali, unpropitious days.

dismants. 'Dismantling old bits of telephone cable and electrical equipment' (Angus Hall, On the Run, 1974); hence, the 'bits' themselves: mostly S. African: (?)since ca. 1955.

Dismember for Great Britain. 'The last political nickname given to Gladstone. About the time of the Home Rule Bill'; Society: 1886–early 1887. Ware. (Gladstone supported Home Rule for Ireland.)

dispar, disper. A portion (cut in advance) of a leg or a shoulder of mutton (cf. cat's head): Winchester College: from ca. 1830; ob. See esp. Mansfield's School Life at Winchester College, 1870, p. 84. Prob. ex to disperse or perhaps disparate in the sense of unequal, or it may be a direct adoption of L. dispar.

dispatch. (Despatch is the inferior spelling.) V.t., to dispose quickly of food and/or drink: from ca. 1710: coll. Addison (OED).

dispatches, des- False dice: from ca. 1810; low, perhaps orig. c. Vaux. Cf. des-, dispatchers, q.v., and doctors.—2. In C.18–early 19 legal: a mittimus. A New Canting Dict., 1725; Grose, 1st ed.

dispense, n. A dispensary: since ca. 1910.

disper. See dispar.

disremember. To fail to remember: Anglo-Irish coll., C.19–20; dial. and sol., mid-C.19–20; fairly common in US, mid-C.19–20.

dissecting job. Clothes requiring much alteration: tailors': from ca. 1870.

disseed, ppl adj. Disconnected: wireless s.: from ca. 1930; ob. Wireless World, 26 Feb. 1937, 'There's no warning whistle to tell [the radio listener] the speaker is "disseed".' See dis, 1, which is still the preferred term.

distance, go or last the full. To finish a fight. See go the full...

distant relation. 'Jocular use for a relative who is either snobbishly "distant" or... one has quarrelled with' (Petch, 1969): since ca. 1950.

distiller. One easily vexed and unable to conceal his annoyance: Aus. c.: ca. 1840–90. Ex English c. walking distiller, the same: 1812 (Vaux). See carry the keg.

distracted division. 'Husband and wife fighting' (Egan's Grose, 1823); † by 1860.

distress, flag of. See flag of distress.

district, on the. (Of a student) doing his midwifery course, which involves the care of the parturient poor in his hospital's district: London medical students':—1933 (Slang, p. 191).

district of sappers, the. 'Those who sap at [study hard] their quarto and folio volumes' (Spy, 1825): Oxford: ca. 1815–50.

districts (or D-). Shares in the District Railway: Stock Exchange coll. (—1895) >, by 1920, j. A. J. Wilson, Stock Exchange Glossary.

dit. See dite.—2. A story, a yarn: R Aus. N: since ca. 1930. (B., 1943.) Ex nautical ditties.

ditch, v. To throw overboard (into the sea: see next entry): nautical: since ca. 1870. Bowen; Granville.—2. To land (an aircraft) on the sea: RAF: since ca. 1939.—3. To discard (something no longer useful): since ca. 1942: orig. RAF, then Services' and gen. coll.

Ditch, the. Shoreditch: Cockneys' coll.: mid-C.19–20. (Ware.) An inhabitant thereof: Ditcher.—2. Houndsditch: id.: since ca. 1920.—3. The Fleet Street taxicab rank: taxi-drivers': since ca. 1910. (Herbert Hodge, Cab, Sir?, 1939.) Ex that brook, the Fleet Ditch, which formerly ran, above ground, to join the River Thames south of Fleet Street.—4. Calcutta: Anglo-Indian:—1886. An inhabitant thereof: Ditcher. Ex the Maharashtra Ditch. Y. & B.—5. the ditch, the sea; the Ditch, the Atlantic: coll.: from ca. 1860. Also, by later specialisation ('when the Atlantic had > gen., and S.E., the Pond, q.v.) the English Channel, esp. in WW1: 'We had a beautiful journey across the ditch...' (letter from a wounded soldier, Apr. 1916, quoted in Olive Dent, A V. A. D. in France, 1917); and in WW2 RAF.—6. The Suez Canal, opened 16 Nov. 1869: orig. nautical, presumably since very soon afterwards. Cf. ditcher, 2.

ditched. At a loss; nonplussed; coll.: from ca. 1890.

ditched, be. To get into trouble, be abandoned: Can. and Eng. c. (mainly vagrants'): C.20. Orig. US; ex being thrown into a ditch from a moving train.—2. Also as get ditched. (Of aircraft and aircrews) to come down in the sea: RAF: since ca. 1938; by 1943, j. After 1940 usu. v.i.; as, e.g., in 'We had to ditch soon after we left the French coast.' Cf. Ditch, the, 5, and ditch, v.

Ditcher. See Ditch, 1 and 3.—2. (soon also ditcher). A vessel built especially to go through the Suez Canal (Cf. Ditch, 6): nautical; soon coll. and more gen.: since ca. 1870, to judge by a quot'n from a long so-called poem written at that time and reprinted in C.A.S. Williams, China Tribute, 1969. (P.B.)

dít(e), not care a. A C.20 coll. derivative of not care a doit (ineligible here). OED Sup. See not care a...

dither. See all of a dither.—2. dithers, trepidation; (an access of) nervous shiverings: from ca. 1860: coll. (orig. dial.). H., 2nd ed. (Hence adj., dithering.) Perhaps ultimately ex shiver, via diddler.

dither, v.i. To be very nervous on a given occasion; to hesitate tremulously or bewilderedly: coll. when not dial.: from ca. 1880. Ex dither, n., 2.

dithered, adj. Tipsy: Aus.: since ca. 1925. B.

ditto. The same: coll. when not used strictly in the way of business: late C.17–20. Cf. ditto(es).

ditto(-)blues. A suit of clothes made of blue cloth: Winchester College: C.19–20, ob.

ditto, brother smut. See brother smut, a 'pot calling the kettle black'.

ditto, smut. A var. (to a woman) of prec. entry.

dittoes, better dittoes. A suit all of one colour and material: C.19–20. Until ca. 1860, the gen. form is suit of dittoes, which the SOD records, as suit of ditto, as early as 1755. James Payn, 1882: 'He was never seen in dittoes even in September.' In C.19, occ. applied to trousers only. Both senses, imm. they > gen., are coll.; orig. tailors' s.

ditty. (Gen. in pl.) A fib; a long circumstantial story or excuse: coll. (mostly Aus. and NZ): late C.19–20. Ex dial. (EDD).

ditty-bag. A small bag used by sailors for their smaller necessities and sentimentalities: from ca. 1860. Orig., according to H., 3rd ed., and F. & H., coll.; in C.20, S.E.? ex dilli: see dilly-bag, and:-

ditty box. 'A small wooden box... issued to seamen; displaced by the more convenient attaché case... Believed to be a shortened form of "commodity box" (Granville): RN: ca. 1890–1930.

div. A stock-and-share dividend: Stock Exchange: since ca. 1880. Cf. divvy, n., 2.—2. A division (military): army: C.20. E.g., 'The Iron Div'. See divvy, 1.—3. 'Lowest in the pecking order: Borstals and detention centres' (Home Office): current in 1970s. 'Work?... Berk, more like. What a div!' (Christopher Matthew, Observer mag., 6 Feb. 1983, p. 7). Here, it means merely 'a dim-witted fool', and, among middle-class young women, as Simon Hoggart notes in New Society, 10 Mar. 1983, p. 384: 'they agree that "the dreaded Roger" is a bit of a creep (or sometimes, these days, a "wally" or a "div")'.

diver, n. A place of low resort, esp. a drinking-den: coll.: orig. (ca. 1880) US, anglicised ca. 1905, though it was fairly well known considerably earlier (e.g. in Referee, 10 May 1885). Ware. Many 'dives' were, still are, in cellars or, at least, in basements.—2. A var. of diver, 2, q.v.—3. See take a dive.

dive, v.t. and i. To pick pockets: from ca. 1600; ob. In C.17, c.; then low s. Ben Jonson: 'In using your nimbles [i.e. fingers], in diving the pockets.'

dive for a meal (esp. dinner). To go down into a cellar for it: coll.: late C.18–mid-19. (Grose, 1st ed.) Cf. dive, n., 1, q.v., and diver, 3.

dive in the dark. An act of coition: C.19–20: low.

dive into (one's) sky. To put one's hand(s) in one's pocket(s); esp. to take out money: C.19–20, ob.; low.

dive the twine. Gen. dived..., applied to a school of fish that, 'surrounded by a purse-seine net drops down through the net and escapes before it can be... closed' (Bowen): Grand Banks fishermen's coll.: late C.19–20.

diverbombing. 'Picking up dog ends [q.v.] from the pavement' (James Wilson, Social Work Today, 22 Jan. 1980): vagrants': 1970s.

diver, rarely dive. (Diver only.) He who, assisting a 'curber' (q.v.), sends in a boy to do the stealing: late C.16–early 17 c. Greene, Dekker.—2. A pickpocket: from ca. 1600; c. till ca. 1800, then low. Gay's The Beggar's Opera has a character named Jenny Diver. Baumann, 1887, 'Smashers and divers and noble contrivers.' Cf. dip.—3. One who lives in a cellar: low: late C.18–mid-19. (Grose, 1st ed.) Cf. dive, n., 1.—4. See divers.—5. 'A liner's boatswain in charge of the wash deck party': nautical: late C.19–20. Bowen (the diver).

divers. The fingers: C.19–20; low. Cf. pickers and stealers. Cf. the US c. term, diving hooks, appliances for picking pockets (late C.18–19: Thornton).

divi. Divinity as school or university subject: late C.19–20.—2. A dividend. See divvy, 2.

divide the house with (one's) wife. To turn her out of doors, 'give her the key of the street': mid-C.18–19. Grose, 1st ed.

dividers. Divided knickers (female): ca. 1910–40. Ex divided, by the 'OXFORD -ER(S)'. Not being sewn, i.e. closed, along the crutch, they offer free access: cf. free-trade or protection? and free-traders.

divine, Pleasant; 'nice': Society: from ca. 1920. (Evelyn Waugh, Decline and Fall, 1928; Daily Mirror, 1 Nov. 1933.) Cf. marvellous and see deevie.

divine punishment. Divine service: naval: 1869 (or a few years earlier); ob. Ware.

diviners († by 1921); divvers. Divinity Moderations: Oxford undergraduates': from ca. 1898. By the 'OXFORD -ER(S)'. Ware.

diving-bell. A basement-, esp. a cellar-, tavern. Cf. dive, q.v. From ca. 1885. This term may, however, be rather older and hence constitute the germ whence sprang the US dive.—2. 'A sailing-ship that was very wet and plunged badly': nautical: C.19. (Bowen.) Ex S.E. nautical sense.

diving suit. A condom: industrial Aus., esp. NSW: since ca. 1945. A raffish pun.

divorced, be. To lose one's girl; (of a girl) to lose one's boy: Aus. joc., esp. teenagers': since ca. 1950. 'You'd better take her out more often, or you'll be divorced.' (B.P.) Some Brit. use also.

D

divot-digger. An inexperienced and/or clumsy golfer: Aus.:—1935. Cf.:

divoteer. A golfer: Aus.: ca. 1925–45; not very gen. B., 1943.

divvers. See diviners.

divvi. Var. of divvy, n., 2. Cf. quot'n at dewey.

divvie. See:—

divvies. Divination: since ca. 1920. Margery Allingham, More Work for the Undertaker, 1947. Cf. the later C.20 use in sing., as in Jonathan Gash, Gold from Gemini, 1978: 'Divvie? Maybe from the old word "diviner", as in water, but who knows? It's slang for anybody who can guess right about a thing without actually knowing. Some people have it for gems or paintings... a precious knack that goes separate from any learning. I'm an antiques divvie' (Mrs Camilla Raab).

divvified, adj. Daft: an elab. of divvy, adj., 2.

divvy, n. A (military) division: army: from ca. 1880; esp. in WW1, then ob. as the abbr. div superseded it. E.P. quoted 'the 29th Divvy, which served on Gallipoli, 1915—he was there himself. (P.B.)—2. A share; a dividend: coll.:—1890. Also divi: 1897 (OED).

divvy, v.i. and t. To divide: coll.: from ca. 1880. In C.20 has attracted prepositions, as divvy up, and, also as noun, divvy out: 'There's a good lot here—let's have a divvy-out': since late 1940s.

divvy, adj. Divine: coll.: ca. 1895–1915. See deevie.—2. Daft: market-traders': C.20. (M.T.) Cf. dippy and divvified.

divvy-hunter. One who joins a co-operative society merely to share in the dividends: since ca. 1910.

dix. See dibs, prayers.

Dixie. 'Inevitable' nickname of any man surnamed Dean(e). From the famous Everton footballer W.R. 'Dixie' Dean who, in 1927–8, made a record in the English League (Association football): 60 goals in 39 games.

dixie, dixy. An iron pot, esp. as used in the Army, for boiling tea, rice, stew, vegetables etc. Popularised by soldiers, who adopted it (—1879) ex Urdu.—2. Also, the small, lidded can that, forming part of a soldier's equipment, is used for tea, stew, etc. Both senses were orig. s. or coll., but they soon > j., then S.E. and of gen. usage, which last they attained ca. 1917 or 1918. (In Frank Richards, Old Soldiers Never Die, the word is spelt dicksee.)—3. A heavy German shell, esp. a 5-9: army: WW1. Frederick Manning, Her Privates We, 1930.—4. An ice-cream carton: Aus.: since ca. 1919. B.

dizz. RN var. of zizz, n. and v., sleep. D. Bolster, Roll on My Twelve, 1945, p. 143.

Dizzy; occ. Dizzle. The nickname given, ca. 1840, to Disraeli. Cf. Pam.—2. Whence dizzy, a clever man; esp. in quite a dizzy: middle classes': ca. 1870–1914. (Ware.) Contrast:—3. 'A man easily flustered': army: earlier C.20. F. & G.

dizzy, adj. Rather tipsy: In The New Vocal Enchantress, 1791, p.33; † by 1890.—2. Astounding: coll.: from ca. 1895. I.e., apt to render dizzy (OED Sup.).—3. Scatter-brained; wild; foolish: since ca. 1930.—4. Angry. See get dizzy.

dizzy age, (of) a. Elderly: near-Society: ca. 1860–1900. Ware, 'Makes the spectator dizzy to think of the victim's years.'

dizzy blonde. 'A highly conspicuous blonde, both in appearance and in behaviour' (Leechman): Can.: adopted, ca. 1935, ex US; by 1956, fairly common in England. Cf. dizzy, adj., 3, and dumb blonde.

dizzy limit, the. Mostly Aus. var. of the giddy limit, q.v.: the utmost: C.20; since ca. 1930, predominantly 'the final touch, the last straw' (B., 1943).

dlinkie. Facetious and pseudo-juvenile and pidgin for drink' (Leechman): Can.: since ca. 1920, and, one hopes, soon ob.

dlog. Gold: back s.:—1859 (H., 1st ed.). More gen. delog, q.v.

do, n. A swindle, a fraud; a trick: from ca. 1810; perhaps coll. Dickens, in Boz, 'I thought it was a do, to get me out of the house.' Ex do, v., 1.—2. Action, deed, performance, business, event; (a) success. In C.17–18, S.E., but from ca. 1820, coll., esp. in make a do—a success—of it, which dates back to Mayhew, 1851, or a little earlier.—3. An entertainment, a social function: C.20. In New Statesman and Nation, 23 Sep. 1933, we read of 'a famous West Indies cricketer, who speaks perfect English' (Constantine, no doubt) being puzzled by the phrase, a slap-up do, applied to a tea. The puzzlement was admittedly caused more by the slap-up than by the do, though the juxtaposition may also have been partly the cause. In this sense do obtained in dial. as early as 1820. Senses 2 and 3 are merged in the following quot'n from Boxiana, IV, 1824, 'How this particular course of lectures succeeded we do not find...; but the spec failed, as a generally profitable do.'—4. A joke: middle classes': ca. 1900–15. Ware.—5. An attack; an offensive: army: since 1915. B. & P.—6. A gang fight: teenage gangsters': since ca. 1955. ?A mixture of senses 3 and 5.—7. In pl., a share: esp. fair doo's (or do's), q.v.

Do, v. Like chuck, come, cop, get, give, etc., do is, as F. & H. have it, 'a verb-of-all-work, and is used in every possible or impossible connection': this shows very clearly in the following set of phrases—a mere selection—where the status is s. or coll. according with the nature of the n. For others, not listed here, please see entry at the operative noun. Many of the do a... phrases simply duplicate the appropriate v. as a n., e.g., fluff = do a fluff; guy = do a guy, etc.

do, v. To swindle, cheat: from ca. 1640. Kenney, in that amusing play, Raising the Wind, 'I wasn't born two hundred miles north of Lunnon, to be done by Mr. Diddler, I know.' Hence, to deceive, trick, without illegal connotations: C.19–20.—2. In c., v.t. to utter base coin or 'queer' (q.v.): from ca. 1810. Vaux.—3. To give a bad time, punish: boxing: ca. 1815–1900. Earlier, to defeat. Grose, 3rd ed., mentions that Humphreys, writing from the boxing ring, said: 'Sir, I have done the Jew' (Mendoza). Cognate is 3, b.—to kill: low: 1823, Bee; † by 1890. Cf. do for, 3.—4. Visit, go over, as a tourist or as a pleasure-seeker: coll.; from ca. 1850. Shirley Brooks, 1858, in the Gordian Knot, 'I did Egypt, as they say, about two years back.'—5. With the amiable, polite, heavy, grand, genteel, etc., do is coll., the exemplar being Dickens's do the amiable in Boz.—6. See the senses implicit in done, done-for, done-over, done-up, qq.v.—7. To suffice (that'll do me), to answer its purpose: ? orig. (1846: Thornton), US, anglicised ca. 1860.—8. Hence, to please, meet the requirements of (a person): late C.19–20. E.g. 'You'll do me!'—9. To arrest, prosecute: c.: C.20. E.g., 'The DPP considered prosecuting the Duke of Edinburgh after a traffic accident in the mid-1960s, and other royals have been done for speeding' (New Society, 22 July 1982); Gilt Kid, 1936.—10. To coit (with a girl): low: C.20.—11. Hence, to perpetrate sodomy upon: low: C.20.—12. To ruin, to lose, one's chance; to waste, to lose, one's money: late C.19–20. (How I missed this very general sense, 'I'll never know'; I was reminded of it in spring 1970, by Brig. C.M.L. Elliott, OBE, of Mosman Park, Western Aus.) Cf. do (one's) cash and do the lot.

do a beer, a bitter, a drink, a drop, a wet. To take a drink of something stronger than milk or water, the domestic trio (coffee, cocoa, tea), or soft drinks. Do here = drink; it dates from ca. 1850. All, orig. s., are, except do a wet, coll. in C.20. Cf. do a meal, to eat a meal: same period and status. Occ. heard in invitation to alcoholic drink: 'Can you do one?'

do a Bertie. 'Doing a Bertie: giving evidence against accomplices in a criminal trial; turning "Queen's evidence"' (Powis): c.: current in 1970s. P.B.: poss. dates from the reign of King George VI, whose pet name was Bertie, and so King's evidence might have been thus termed—but this is mere surmise.

do a bill. To utter a bill of exchange: commerce; from ca. 1830. Barham, Thackeray.

do a bishop. To parade at short notice: military, C.19. Perhaps ex a full-dress parade turned out, at short notice, for a chaplain-general.

do a bit. To eat something: coll.; from ca. 1850.—2. (Of men) to possess, have, a woman: low coll.; from ca. 1860.

do a bit of stiff. To draw a bill: low commercial: from ca. 1850; ob.

do a bitter. See do a beer.

do a bunk. To depart hastily or secretly: s. > coll.: since ca. 1860.—2. To ease nature: low: ca. 1865–1935.

do a bust. To break into a place: c.: C.20. Charles E. Leach.

do a cadge. To go begging: low coll.: from ca. 1820. See cadge, n. and v.

do a cat. To vomit: low: from ca. 1840. Cf. synon. shoot the cat.

do a Chloe. To appear in the nude: Aus., esp. Melbourne: late C.19–20. A Melbourne National Gallery 1883 reject of a nude painting of Chloe hangs in a well-known Australian hotel. (B.P.) do a chuck. To effect an ejection; to depart. Low: from ca. 1850; ob.

do a crawl. To cringe: coll.: late C.19–20.

do a crib. To burgle: c. then, in C.20, low: from ca. 1840.

do a deal. To conclude a bargain: coll.: late C.19–20.

do a doss. To go to sleep: low: from ca. 1850. Cf. doss, q.v.

do a drink (or drop). See do a beer.

do a duck. See duck.

do a four-o-six (406). To make a routine inspection on a vehicle: army: since 1939; if at first coll., then soon > j. Ex the form number of the relevant army 'book'.

do a fluff. To 'fluff', to forget one's part: theatrical: since ca. 1850. See Captain MacFluffer for a later elab.

do a Garbo, a Gaynor. To behave in the manner of those actresses. See MOVING-PICTURE SLANG, §§10 and 9.

do a get. To depart hastily. See get.

do a good turn to. To afford (a woman) sexual satisfaction: male coll., mostly joc.: C.20. Usu. as a raffish aside, between two men admiring the same girl: 'Cor, I could certainly do her a good turn!'

do a grand. See grand, 3.

do a grind, a mount, a ride, a tread. To have sexual intercourse (of men): low: from ca. 1860.

do a grouse. To go a-seeking women: low: C.19.—2. In C.20, to grumble.

do a guy. To depart hastily or secretly: orig. c., > low; from ca. 1860.—2. Hence, to make an escape: c., from ca. 1860; in C.20, low.—3. Among workmen, to absent oneself, without permission, from work: from ca. 1865.—4. To give a false name: c.:—1887 (Fun, 23 Mar.): † by 1910. All senses prob. referable to Guy Fawkes.

do a job. To commit a burglary: c., Eng. and, in C.20, also NZ: since latish C.19. Sessions, 12 Mar. 1878.—2. To defecate: Eng. and Aus.: late C.19–20. (B., 1942.) Among children, sometimes do a jobbie.—3. To render a woman pregnant: Aus.: C.20. Baker.—4. To conduct a funeral: undertakers' coll.:—1864 (H., 3rd ed.).

do a job for (one)self. To defecate: C.20. Cf. prec., 2.

do a knee-trembler. See do a perpendicular.

do a knock – or do a knock line – with. To be amorously interested in—and involved with—a member of the opposite sex: Aus.: low: C.20. (Baker.) Cf. knocking-shop, q.v.

do a line with. To walk out with (a girl): originally and mostly Anglo-Irish: C.20.

do a man over. See do over, 4.

do a meal. See do a beer.

do a mike or a mouch. To go on the prowl: from ca. 1860; low.—2. In C.20, also to depart: low.

do a moan. To grouse and grumble: RN: since ca. 1900. Goodenough, 1906.

do a moody. To behave suspiciously: prison c.: later C.20. Sean McConville, in The State of the Language, 1980.

do a mount. To 'mount', to copulate with a woman: low: since ca. 1860.

do a Nelson. To withstand danger, or extreme difficulty, in a confident spirit: mostly Cockney: late C.19–20. 'Knowing that whatever may befall, as upon Nelson on his column in Trafalgar Square, one will, like him, "be there" to-morrow' (L.A. 1948).—2. Hence, to be in irrepressibly good spirits: a 'London Blitz' word among Civil Defence on duty: late 1940–mid-1941, then at intervals until 1945.

do a never. 'Skulk or shirk work' (Granville): RN: since ca. 1900.

do a nob. To make a collection: circus, showmen's: from ca. 1845. See also nob, v., 2.

do a Penang. To run away; to retreat ingloriously: Aus. airmen's: 1942–5. (B., 1943.) Ex the Brit. and Aus. retreat down Malaya.

do a perish. Almost to die for lack of a drink: Aus.: since ca. 1920. Baker.

do a perpendicular or a knee-trembler. To have sexual intercourse while standing: low: from ca. 1860; the former, ob.

do a pitch – a rush – a snatch. See pitch—rush—snatch.

do a push. See push, n., 8 and 9.

do a ride. See do a grind.

do a runner. 'A few students (from different parts of the country) suggested to do a runner for the German Zechprelerei [begehen], which Collins translates "failure to pay the bill for drink or food consumed at a restaurant, bar, etc."' (John B. Smith, Bath University, 1981).

do a rural. To ease oneself by the wayside: low: from ca. 1860; ob. In C.20, sometimes elab. to do an agricultural one.

do a rush. To back a safe horse: racing: ca. 1860–1930.—2. To lay a dummy bet: bookmakers': from ca. 1870. I.e., rushing the public into betting on this horse.

do a scrap. To have a fight: from ca. 1840.

do a shift. To depart hastily or secretly: s. > coll.: since ca. 1860.—2. To defecate: low: from ca. 1865; ob. Cf. do a bunk.

do (one) a shot. To outwit; to swindle: S. African coll.: —1890. Occ. do (one) a shot in the eye. Pettman.

do a sip. To make water: back slang on piss: from ca. 1860; ob.

do a smile. To drink a glass of whisky: s.: since ca. 1870; ob. See smile, n. and v.

do a snatch. To indulge in a hasty, illicit or mercenary copulation. See snatch, n., 1.

do a spread or a tumble. To lie down to a man: low coll.: from ca. 1840.

do a stagger. To walk: Oxford University: from ca. 1918. Cf. stagger, v.

do a star pitch. To sleep in the open (à la belle étoile): low theatrical: from ca. 1850. Cf. hedge square, q.v.; and:

do a starry. To sleep in the open: C.20 c.

do a tread. See do a grind.

do (one) a treat. To suit admirably. See treat, 4.

do a tumble. See do a spread.

do a wet. See do a beer.

do an alley. To depart; to hurry away: army: 1915–18. (F. & G.) Ex Fr. aller, to go.

do as Garrick did. Advice given to a performer disgruntled with adverse press notice: theatrical c.p.: C.20. The actor David Garrick (1717–79) is said—erroneously—to have written his own notices. Granville.

do as I do. An invitation to drink: coll.: ca. 1860–1914.

do as my shirt does! A defiant c.p. = 'Kiss my arse!': C.18–mid-20. See DCpp.

do as you like. A bicycle: rhyming s., on bike: late C.19–20.

do-badder. An actively bad person: coll.: since ca. 1960. Prompted by do-gooder, 2.

do (one's) balls on. (Of a man) to fall utterly in love with: low coll.: late C.19–20.

do (one's) bit. In late C.19—early 20 c., to serve a sentence. Ware.—2. In WW1 and 2, to serve in Armed Forces: ex the late C.19–20 coll., do one's share, to help a general cause. In the Boer War, a soldier wrote of his fellows, 'They all do "their bit" well' (J. Milne, The Epistles of Atkins, 1902).

do brown. To do thoroughly; hence, to worst; to cheat. From ca. 1820; gen. as done brown, completely swindled. Boxiana, IV, 1824, has 'He is then said to be "cooked" or "done brown" and "dished".' There is an anticipation in 'Ha! browne done!' in the anon. John Bon, ca. 1600. In US, do up brown: see Thornton.—2. do it brown, to prolong a frolic or a spree, to exceed sensible bounds: from ca. 1850; ob. by 1930.

do (one's) business. To kill: C.18–20, low coll. (Fielding, Thackeray, Reade), as is:—2. the sense (from ca. 1850), to evacuate, defecate.—3. To have sexual intercourse with a woman (one's = her): low; from ca. 1860.

do business with. 'Has the innocent meaning but also means to have corrupt transactions with' (Powis): c.: current in 1970s.

do (one's) cash. To spend, to lose one's money: Aus.: C.20. Baker.

do clobber at a fence. To sell stolen clothes: c.: from ca. 1885. See clobber, n.

do (one's) crunch. To become enraged: army: since ca. 1955. 'You shoulda seen 'im when 'e found it—done 'is crunch, 'e did.' (P.B.)

do (one's) dash. To reach one's Waterloo' (C.J. Dennis): Aus.:—1916.

do (someone) dirt. To play him a mean trick: mainly Aus.: C.20. This is the chief use of dirt, 4, q.v. A var., from ca. 1920, is do dirt on. Cf. do the dirty on.

do-do (pron. doo-doo). To excrete; excreta: school-children's: late C.19–20. Hence, do-do noise, a fart.

do (one's) dough. To lose one's money: mostly Aus.: since ca. 1925.

do down. To cheat or swindle: from the 1890s. Cf. do, v., 1.—2. Hence, get the better of: coll.: from ca. 1908.

do (one's) fealty. To drink kneeling. See TAVERN TERMS, §9.

do for. To kill: c., since earlier C.18; in C.20, low. (Sessions, 1740, trial of Stephen Saunders.) Cf. do, v., 3b.—2. To ruin, destroy; wear out (person or thing) entirely: coll.: since ca. 1750. Fielding (OED).—3. To attend to or on, as a landlady or a char for a lodger, a bachelor: orig. S.E.; since ca. 1840, coll.—4. To convict: c.: from ca. 1850. H., 1st ed.

do (one's) fruit. To go mad: s.: since early 1970s. (Jack Slater, 1978.) Prob. suggested by synon. bananas. Cf. do (one's) nut, 2.

do-gooder. Among Liverpool street arabs of late C.19—earlyish 20, 'misguided folk' (ignorant of the true needs of the poor). Arab.—2. An inveterate busybody, intent on reforming everybody's soul but his own: Can. coll.: since ca. 1946. (Leechman.)—3. Gen. in pl., a re-emergence of sense 1, applied to people who interest themselves in social work: English coll., became widespread only ca. 1957. (Evening Echo (Bournemouth), 7 July 1959.) Hence, since ca. 1960, the occ. do-goodery and adj. do-gooding.

do gospel. To go to church: low coll.: from ca. 1860.

do-hickey. A 'thingummy-jig', a gadget. See hickey, 1 and cf. gillhicky.

do I ducks! 'Do I hell!'; I do not!: Cockney c.p.: C.20. Euph. for do I fuck!

do I owe you anything? or what do I owe you? A c.p. addressed to someone staring rudely or reasonlessly at the speaker; late C.19–20.

do in. To kill: late C.19–20. Cf. do for, 1.—2. Hence, to denounce to the police: low (—1914). A. Neil Lyons (quoted by Manchon).—3. To defeat: Aus.: C.20. C.J. Dennis.—4. To spend (recklessly, utterly): Aus. (C.20: Dennis) ex English sporting (1886: Ware).—5. To despatch, dispose of; to spoil completely; to cancel: joc., to eat, to drink: from ca. 1920. In News Chronicle, 30 Aug. 1935, there is this advertisement of Gaymer's cider: 'Guy Fawkes, my name is, Famous for plottin', / And as it's Gaymer's I'll do the lot in.'—6. To exhaust (a person): coll.:—1931 (Lyell).—7. To steal: low: late C.19–20. Sessions, 1 July 1905; A. Neil Lyons, Sixpenny Pieces, 1909.

do in the eye. To cheat: late C.19–20. Ex idea of a nasty punch in the eye. Cf. do, v., 1.

do it. To coit: when not merely euph., it is coll.: C.18–20.—2. Hence, usu. in the question 'Does she do it?', to be gen. ready to indulge in sexual intercourse: status id.: C.19–20.

do it again, Ikey, I saw diamonds. Say it again, for it's a bit too good to be true: proletarian c.p.: ca. 1900–14. W.L. George, The Making of an Englishman, 1914.

do it away. To dispose of stolen goods: c.: from ca. 1810. (Vaux.) Cf. fence, v.

do it brown. See do brown.

do it fat (or fine). To act the fine gentleman: low:—1923 (Manchon).

do it now! A commercial c.p. (—1910; ob.). Collinson. Ex a business slogan. It was still current in Aus. in 1965 (B.P.). See DCpp.

do it on (someone). To swindle (v.t.), impose on: low: since ca. 1890. Sessions, 19 Dec. 1901.—2. Hence (?), to forestall, anticipate; get the better of, outdo, be too good for; since ca. 1905.

do it on the d.h. (damned head) is a var. of the b.h. in do on (one's) head.

do it the hard way. A derisive c.p., shouted at an awkward workman struggling at his job; mostly prec. by that's right! and occ. rounded off with standing up in a hammock: Can.: since ca. 1910 (?). (Leechman.) Occ. heard also in Britain. (P.B.)

do it up. See do up, 2.

do it up in good twig. (See do up, 2.) To live comfortably by one's wits: low: C.19—early 20.

do it with one hand tied behind (one's) back. A later var. of do on (one's) head, etc.

do-it-yourself. Masturbation: since ca. 1950. Nicholas Monsarrat, The Nylon Pirates, 1960.

do it yourself kit. 'Steam locomotives' (Railway, 2nd): railwaymen's: since ca. 1950. Ironic, in the age of diesel ease. McKenna attributes the term to his driver-colleague Mr Bill Handy.

do-little sword. A midshipman's dirk, indicative rather of authority than of violence: RN: mid-C.19–20. Bowen.

do (one's) luck. (Gen. in perfect present tense.) To lose one's good fortune: Aus.: C.20. C.J. Dennis.

do me a favour! (Illiterate, or mock-illit., do us a favour!). Often prec. by look! Phrase used as a refutation of the point or suggestion just raised: coll.: since mid-1950s. Arnold Wesker, Chicken Soup with Barley, prod. 1958, pub. 1959: 'MONTY: "Ten thousand bloody sightseers! Do me a favour, it wasn't bank holiday [but a "demo" and a clash with the police]. The Look... form is often used elliptically where the required favour is obvious, e.g., to abate noise or other nuisance (L.A., 1974).

do(-)me(-)dag; usu. pl. do-me-dags. A cigarette: low rhyming s.: late C.19–20. Rhyming on fag.

do me good. A Woodbine cigarette: rhyming: late C.19–20.—2. Timber: carpenters' and other workmen's rhyming s. on wood: late C.19–20. Franklyn 2nd.

do (one's) money. To lose all one's money: mostly Aus. and NZ: C.20.

do-more. A small raft, made of two logs: Can. lumbermen's: later C.19–20. Because a riverman can do more on two logs than on one log: John Beames.

do (one's) nut. To lose one's head: lower classes' and military: C.20; ob. in this sense. F. & G.—2. To explode with anger: coll.: since ca. 1945. Cf. blow (one's) top.

do on (one's) head; with the left hand; while asleep, etc. To do easily: coll.: since ca. 1880. A var. is do on the b. (or d.) h., i.e. on the, or one's, bloody (or damned) head.

do one for the King (or Queen). To be on a 24-hour guard: army: since ca. 1902. P.B.: the phrase was still current in the early 1970s, in such forms as 'Well, that's another one for the Queen!' at the conclusion of, e.g., a 24-hour duty as orderly sergeant.

do one for me? A predominantly male joc. c.p. addressed to someone on his way to the privy.: C.20. Among all male company there is sometimes the compliant reply, 'Which side do you shake it?'

do others before they do you! A post-1920 c.p. var. of do unto others as you would be done by.

do over. Knock down; persuade; cheat, ruin: low coll.; from ca. 1770. Parker, Dickens.—2. In C.19 c., to search the pockets of; c. frisk. Mrs C. Raab: in C.20 coll., this sense expanded: 'The Customs at Heathrow did me over, but they never found the other 400 ciggies.'—3. To seduce; also, to copulate with: low; mid-C.19–20. ob. H., 5th ed.—4. To do the rank over is to take position in a taxicab park other than one's usual; taxi-drivers': since ca. 1912. (Herbert Hodge, Cab, Sir?, 1939.) Prob. ex sense 3. But do a man over is to take a fare rightfully another driver's: Services.

do Paddy Doyle. To be a defaulter: Herod's: late C.19–early 20. (F. & G.) P.B.: ?ex P.D. = pack drill.

do (one's) pegs. Aus. and synon. with do (one's) block, to become angry. B., 1943.

do polly. To pick oakum in jail: c.: from ca. 1860; ob. (B. & L.) Cf. mill doll.

do (one) proud. To flatter, act hospitably or otherwise generously towards: coll.: since ca. 1830.

do-re-mi (pron. dough-ray-me). Money, esp. cash: Aus., adopted—ca. 1945—ex US; but since late 1930s in Can. An elab. of dough, 2, and a pun on the tonic sol-fa.

do reason or right. To honour a toast: coll.; C.19–20, ob. do right by our Nell, to. 'Do right in the letter and the spirit of an undertaking. Ex C.19 romances in which the squire has got innocent maid with child and must honour paternal responsibility' (L.A., 1974).

do savage rabbits. To wait in readiness for action: WW1 tanks. See savage rabbits.

do some good for (oneself). (Of the male) to be amorously successful: Aus.: C.20. B., 1942.

do (one's) stuff. To act as one intends; perform one's social task: coll.: since mid-C.17, perhaps earlier. George Fox, the Quaker, in his Journal for the year 1663 wrote: 'A while after, when the priest had done his stuff, they came to the friends again.' (With thanks to Alexander McQueen, letter of 1953.) Cf. the very much later know (one's) stuff, to be alert, competent.

do vidanya! Au revoir!; Goodbye!: army coll., expedition in N. Russia, 1919. F.&G. Ex Russian.

do (one's) tank. To become enraged: army: since ca. 1955. Cf. do (one's) crunch, nut, etc. (P.B.)

do tell! Really?; you don't mean it: Can. c.p., often ironic or sarcastic: since ca. 1950. (Leechman.) Adopted ex (the American) New England, where current since ca. 1820. See esp. DCpp.

do that (or dat) small thing (or ting). Either as a request, or in compliance with a request or favour asked: later C.20. E.g., in answer to 'Could you just ...?'—'I will do that small thing!'; or, in answer to 'I'll just ... (for you)'—'(Please) do that small thing!' Often lit., but occ. meiosis. (P.B.)

do the aqua. To put water in one's drink: public-houses': mid-C.19–20. (Ware.) L. aqua, water.

do the chalks. To write the score at darts, esp. at match-games: dart-players': since ca. 1945. With chalk on a board.

do the dirty (on). To play a mean trick (on someone): coll., from ca. 1912; by ca. 1935, verging on informal S.E. (OED). Here dirty = dirty trick.—2. Esp. do the dirty on a girl, to seduce her and then abandon her: since ca. 1913.

do the downy. To lie in bed: from ca. 1840. 'Cuthbert Bede', 1853, 'This'll never do, Giglamps! Cutting chapel to do the downy.' Cf. balmy, q.v.

do the (e.g. religious) dodge (over). 'To pretend to be religious and so seek to obtain some favour' (from a person): coll.:—1931 (Lyell).

do the graceful. To behave gracefully or fittingly: non-aristocratic coll.: from ca. 1880. Ware.

do the decent thing. When used joc. and in trivial context it is coll.; e.g., in persuading someone it is his turn to buy a round of drinks, 'Come on then, sport, do the decent thing for once!': since mid-C.20. (P.B.) Cf.:-

do the handsome, occ. the handsome thing. To behave extremely well (in kindness, money, etc.) to a person: coll.; from ca. 1840.

do the High. To walk up and down High Street after church on Sunday evening: Oxford University, ca. 1850–90. H., 5th ed.

do the honours. To assume responsibility for pouring drinks, whether alcoholic, soft, or hot, as in 'Shall I do the honours, then?': coll.: since (?)ca. 1950. Cf. be mother, which usu. applies only to tea or coffee from a pot. (P.B.)

do the lot. To lose all one's money: coll.: C.20.

do the polite. To exert oneself to be polite; to be unusually polite: coll.: 1856 (OED). P.B.: slightly earlier in a letter from Sgt T. Gowing headed 'Heights of Alma. September 20–21, 1854': 'As soon as the enemy's round shot came along, we simply did the polite—opened out and allowed them to pass on.'

do the spin. At two-up, to toss the coins: Aus.: late C.19–20. Baker.

do the swag. To dispose of stolen property: c.: from ca. 1840. Cf. do it away and do clobber...

do the tap. To win a game of cards; mostly as vbl n., doing the tap: army: C.20.

do the ton. Of motorcycle, car, to reach 100 m.p.h.: since ca. 1945. See ton, 3–5, and one ton.

do the trick. To gain one's object: from ca. 1810: c. >, by 1830, s. >, by 1860, coll. Vaux.—2. Hence, (of a man) to perform effectually the act of kind; (of a woman) to be devirginated: both low coll., from ca. 1840.

do (one's, or one's own) thing. To express oneself in one's life; do what one most wants to do, from mere gratification, to profession, to ideal: Can. hippies' (soon, much more gen.): adopted, ca. 1965, ex US; reached Britain ca. 1969 and there became gen. ca. 1971. (Leechman; W. & F.; own observation.)

do things by penny numbers, i.e. by instalments or spasms: mid-C.19–20; since ca. 1914, slightly ob. Ex novels so published ca. 1840–80.

do things to (one). To excite, esp. sexually; to arouse either passion or a mere momentary 'letch': since ca. 1930. 'That girl does things to me, I don't know why.' A var. is do things for, though this may be to excite one's interest mentally as well as physically. The implications are functional; cf. synon. phrase: 'He makes me come over all unnecessary.'

do time. To serve a sentence in prison: from ca. 1870; c. till C.20, when s. > coll. H., 5th ed.; Cornhill Magazine, June, 1884, 'He has repeatedly done time for drunks and disorderlies, and for assaults upon the police.' See time, 1.

do to death. To do frequently and ad nauseam: coll.; C.18–20.

do to rights. To effect or achieve satisfactorily; to treat (a person) well: proletarian: mid-C.19–20. Ware.

do up. To use up, finish; disable, wear out, exhaust; ruin financially: coll.: from ca. 1780; ob.—2. To accomplish one's object: coll.: C.18–19.—3. In C.19–20 (ob.) c., to quieten, gen. in done up, silenced.

do-ut-des. Selfish persons: Society: 1883–ca. 1905. (Ware.) A pun on L. do ut des, I give in order that you may give.

do well. To treat, entertain, well: from ca. 1895. Esp. do oneself well (in food and comfort). OED Sup. Cf. do one proud.

do what the steer did. To, at the least, try: Can.: since ca. 1920. 'From the observed efforts of these underprivileged animals to lead a normal love-life' (Leechman).

do while asleep; do with the left hand; do with one hand tied behind (one's) back. See do on (one's) head.

do with... (I) could. I would very much like to have: coll.:—1887 (Baumann). By meiosis.

do without, able to. To dislike (esp. a person): late C.19–20. Ex Yorkshire dial. 'Well, I could do without him, you know.'

do you feel like that? A satirical, proletarian c.p. addressed to any person engaged in unusual work or to a lazy one doing any work: ca. 1880–1940. Ware.

do you hear the news? A nautical c.p. (amounting indeed to a formula) 'used in turning out the relief watch': mid-C. 19–20.

do you know? An almost expressionless coll. tag: 1883–ca. 1890. It > gen. in 1884 owing to its adoption by Beerbohm Tree in The Private Secretary. (Ware.) In C.20, > a meaningless cliché, mere 'white noise' in conversation (P.B.). But elsewhere in the 1st ed. of this dict., E.P. had another entry, headed we or you or do you know (?), a mildly exclamatory or semi-interrogatory (virtual) parenthesis: coll.: from ca. 1710. Addison, 1712; Jane Austen, 'Do you know, I saw the prettiest hat you can imagine' (OED).

do you know any other funny stories? A c.p., meaning 'Do you think I'm green?' or implying 'You're a leg-puller, or a liar': since ca. 1935.

do you know something? A tag used to introduce gently what might otherwise come unkindly or abruptly; a c.p. of quietly humorous intent, as when a fellow says to a girl, 'Do you know something? I rather like you': since mid-C.20. (Petch, 1974.)

do you mind (!or?). An emphatic, sarcastic, hardly polite 'Mind your own business!': since ca. 1950. See esp. DCpp.

do you sav(w)ey? Do you know: middle classes': ca. 1840–90. Ware. Cf. do you know and don't you know.

do you see any green in my eye? (In late C.19–20, occ. green stuff.) The most gen. form of to see (any) green in a person's eye, to consider him a greenhorn or a fool: 1840: coll., mostly low. 'Quotations' Benham; Mayhew; Ally Sloper, 19 Mar. 1892: 'Ally Sloper, the cove with no green in his eye'. Ex green as indicative of inexperience or, esp., gullibility. In C.20, sometimes shortened to See any green? Cf. I'm not so green...

do you see what I see? A c.p. serving 'to express astonishment at unexpected "vision" of former comrade' encountered in a different situation: orig. RAF and army, since ca. 1942; later more widespread use. (L.A., 1974.) Cf. look who it isn't!

do you spit much with that cough? A Can. c.p. (of ca. 1910–30), addressed to one who has just broken wind.

do you think I can shit miracles (or, if addressed to a third person, does he think...?) A mainly Londoners' c.p. of C.20.

do you think you'll know me again? or you'll know me again, won't you! A c.p. addressed to someone staring, esp. to a person one knows: C.20.

do you to wain-rights. An intensification of do to rights, q.v.: East London c.p. of ca. 1874–1915. Ex murderer Wainwright. (Ware.)

do you want a knife and fork? C.p. jibe addressed to driver having trouble finding the right gear: army transport: since ca. 1950. Cf. sort 'em out! (P.B.)

do you want— or simply an abrupt want—to buy a battleship? A c.p., equivalent to 'Do you want to make water?'—often addressed to a man that one (what humour! what wit!) has playfully awakened: RAF and army, since 1940; slightly ob. by ca. 1970. Elab. of pump ship, 1, with an ironic veiled ref. to flag days.

doash. In late C.17–early 19 c., a cloak. (B.E., Grose.) Etym.? doasta. Adulterated spirit, esp. if fiery, served in sailors' lodging-houses: nautical: late C.19–20. (Bowen.)? ex Hindustani.

doat. 'A "doat", usually spelt so in Ireland, is someone or something fit to be doated on' (Honor Tracy, in Year of Grace, 1975): Anglo-Irish: C.20.

dob. A small lump or 'dollop', usu. applied to butter, jam, cream, etc.: orig. widespread dial. (EDD), in C.20 > domestic coll. (P.B.) dob in. To inform on (someone): Aus., esp. teenage gangsters': since ca. 1930. 'He wouldn't dob me in, I knew that' (Dick). Ex the widespread English dial. dob, to put down heavily, to throw down.

dobash. A pal or a girl-friend: RN lowerdeck: since ca. 1925. Granville.

dobbin. A sorry horse: coll.; C.19–20. Ex the S.E. sense, an ordinary draught horse. (Var. dobin.)—2. Ribbon: c. and low: mid-C.18–19. Hence dobbin-rid, the stealing of ribbon: late C.18–20 (ob.) c. Grose, 3rd ed.—3. A rum-container: Army in the East: 1942–5. (C.J. Rolo, Wingate's Raiders, 1944.) Ex the S.E. dobbin, a small drinking-vessel.

dobbs. Pork: army: late C.19–early 20. (F. & G.) Origin?

dobee, dobey, dobie. Laundry. See dhoobi.

dobra. Good: army coll., expedition in N. Russia, 1919. (F. & G.) Ex Russian.

dobs. Prayers: Sherborne. See dibs.

doby. Laundry. See dhoobi.

doc. A coll. abbr. of 'doctor', in address and narrative: since ca. 1850: app. orig. US.—2. In RN wardrooms, the usu.: C.20 address to the ship's surgeon. (Granville.) But, on the lower deck, doc always, in address, means a sick-berth attendant, the doctor himself being, in ref., the quack. Also, in army from at least as early as 1939, a medical orderly.—3. A ship's cook. See doctor, n., 7.—4. As Doc, the nickname of men surnamed Watson: C.20. After Sherlock Holmes's friend.

dockey. Occ. var. of doxy, q.v., a beggar's trull.

dock. Orig. (1586–1610), as in Warner and Jonson, prob. c. in its C.19–20 S.E. sense, an enclosure for prisoners on trial in a law-court. OED.—2. Hospital; chiefly in dock. Late C.18–20: orig. nautical; in C.20, coll. (Grose, 1st ed.) Hence go into dock, to be treated for a venereal disease: nautical: late C.18–early 20. Ibid.—3. Among printers, the weekly work-bill or 'pole': from ca. 1860; ob.—4. (By extension of 2.) In in dock of motor cars, being serviced or repaired: motorists': since ca. 1920.

dock, v. To deflower (a woman); hence, to 'have' a woman: from ca. 1560; ob. by 1800, † by 1840. Prob. orig. c.; certainly always low. Harman, Middleton, B.E., Grose. (Gen. with the dell, q.v.) F. & H. proposes Romany dukker, to ravish; but the S.E. dock, to curtail, with an implied reference to tail (q.v.), is obviously operative.—2. At Winchester College, C.19–20, ob., to scratch or tear out or, as in R.G.K. Wrench, to rub out; to knock down.—3. To take from (a person) part of his wages as a fine: dial. (ca. 1820) >, by 1890, coll. OED Sup.

dock asthma. 'Pretended gasps of surprise by accused persons when incriminating evidence is given against them. Used generally to describe the reaction to any unpleasant surprise, whether in court or not' (Powis): c. and police s.: current in 1970s. Cf. debtor's colic.

dock-pheasant. A bloater: nautical: late C.19–20. (Bowen.) Cf. Billingsgate pheasant dock-shankers. 'Dock-mates': nautical (—1823); † by 1870. Egan's Grose, where, I surmise, the real meaning is, companions in a venereal hospital.

dock-walloping. Perambulating the docks to look at ships: nautical: late C.19–20. Bowen.

dock to a daisy, (as like as) a. Very dissimilar: coll. (—1639); † by 1800. Apperson.

docked smack smooth, be. To have had one's penis amputated: nautical: mid-C.18–19. Grose, 1st ed.

docker. A dock labourer: from ca. 1880; coll. till ca. 1895, then S.E.—2. A brief from the prisoner in the dock to counsel: legal; from ca. 1890.—3. A large sum of money; go a docker, spend much money: Aus.: since ca. 1925. B., 1942. Origin?—4. A partially smoked cigarette, extinguished for use later: Northern coll.: C.20. (Jeff Nuttall, King Twist, 1979.) Cf. dib and see dog-end.

dockers' ABC, the. Ale, baccy, cunt: British docksides, mostly dockers' (esp. Liverpool): late C.19–20.

docker's hankie. 'The rude peasant cheerfully discharging his snot on to the ground, first through one nostril and then through the other (sometimes called a "docker's hankie")...' (Michael Thompson, Rubbish Theory: the Creation and Destruction of Value, 1979). Hankie=handkerchief. (P.B.) docket. See strike a docket.

dockets. See play the game of...

dockie (or -y). A dock labourer: coll.: since ca. 1880. Ernest Raymond, The Marsh, 1937.

docking. 'A punishment inflicted by sailors on the prostitutes who have infected them with the venereal disease; it consists in cutting off all their clothes, petticoat, shift and all, close to their stays, and then turning them out into the street', Grose: low coll.; ca. 1700–1850.

docking herself. (Of a ship) taking the mud and forcing a position for herself: nautical coll.: late C.19–20. Bowen.

dockyard-crawl. The rate of work in the Royal dockyards: naval: late C.19–20. Bowen. Cf. Government stroke, q.v.

dockyard-horse. An officer better at office-work than on active service: naval; from ca. 1870.—2. (Gen. pl.) A man drawing stores for a (naval) ship: naval: late C.19–20. Bowen.

dockyard matey. A dockyard worker: Naval coll.: prob. since ca. 1810. Occurs in Kipling, A Fleet in Being, 1898; Captain Sherard Osborn, Arctic Journal, 1852, as Rear-Admiral P.W. Brock, DSO, tells me; and, very much earlier, in W.N. Glascock, Sailors and Saints (II, 115), 1829. (Moe.)

dockyarder. A skulker, esp. about the docks: nautical: from ca. 1845. (Sinks, 1848.) The US equivalent is dock-walloper. Cf. strawyarder.

docs. Documents, in the sense of a soldier's, sailor's, airman's official papers (attestation form, medical rating, classification, etc., etc., etc.): Services' coll.: C.20. (Jackson.) Hence, in civilian, e.g. police, usage: prob. via ex-service men.

Docs, the. The Duke of Cornwall's Light Infantry (1881–1959): army nickname: C.20. F. & G.

doctor, n. A false die: Shadwell, 1688, constitutes the earliest record. Until ca. 1740, c.; then low; in C.20 ob., very ob. Fielding, in Tom Jones, 'Here, said he, taking some dice out of his pockets, here are the little doctors which cure the distempers of the purse.' Ex a doctor's powers. Hence, late C.17–early 19 (as, e.g. in B.E.), put the doctor(s) upon, to cheat a person with loaded dice.—2. An adulterant, esp. of spirits (see Grose, 1st ed., 1785), but also of food, e.g. bread: among bakers (says Maton in Tricks of Bakers Unmasked), alum is called the doctor. OED records it at 1770.—3. Brown sherry: licensed victuallers', C.19–20, ob.: because a doctored wine.—4. Earlier (—1770), milk and water, with a dash of rum and a sprinkling of nutmeg: † by 1880.—5. The last throw of dice or ninepins: perhaps orig. c.: C.18–19, mostly among gamblers.—6. The headmaster: Winchester College, from ca. 1830.—7. (Occ. doc.) A ship's cook: nautical, also up-country Aus.: recorded by SOD at 1860, but the evidence of H. shows that it must, among Englishmen, have been current some years earlier; it existed in the US as early as 1821 (Thornton). Ex food as health-ensurer.—8. A var. of Cape doctor, q.v.; always the doctor (or Doctor): 1856 (Pettman). But it is recorded for the West Indies as early as 1740 (OED).—9. A broker dealing specifically with overdue vessels: nautical and commercial s. (late 1890s) >, by 1920, coll. OED Sup.—10. See doctors.—11. Pill no. 9 in the Field Medical Chest: military: from 1914. Because so frequently prescribed.—12. Hence, 9 in the game of House: military: 1915. F. & G., as is sense 11.—13. A synonym of punisher, 3 (q.v.), as also is gentleman, 2.—14. Occ. shortening of magic doctors, q.v., RAF ground engineers.—15. A journeyman in collar and tie: tailors': C.20.—16. A sick-birth attendant: RN lowerdeck: late C.19–mid-20. Goodenough. 1901.—17. Nickname given to 7th child of 7th child: C.19–20. 'Supposed to bring good luck' (Petch, 1974).—18. A drunkard with a red nose. See TAVERN TERMS, § 3b.

doctor, v. Confer a doctorate upon, make a doctor ('philosophy', not medicine): from ca. 1590; now very rare, yet not quite a ghost-word.—2. To treat, give medicine to, of a doctor or as if of a doctor: from ca. 1730.—3. Hence, to practise as a physician:—1865.—4. To adulterate; tamper with; falsify: from ca. 1770. Now coll.—5. Hence, to repair, patch up; revise extensively, distort a literary work, a newspaper article: C.19–20. (Thus far, SOD.)—6. To 'dope' (a horse): sporting: from ca. 1860; little used after ca. 1910, dope being the fashionable word.—7. 'To undergo medical treatment': coll.: from ca. 1880. All these senses are coll., though the fourth and the sixth had orig. a tinge of s.—8. 'To prepare the warriors, by certain "medicines" and incantations, for war' (Pettman): S. African coll.: from ca. 1890. Ex witch doctor.—9. To dock (lambs): Aus.: late C.19–20. (Archer Russell, Gone Nomad, 1936.) Cf. senses 6–8.

Doctor Brighton. Brighton: Society coll. (from ca. 1820) >, ca. 1895, gen. coll. (Ware.) I.e., Dr Bright 'Un. P.B.: but also, presumably, because of a famous health resort.

Doctor Cotton. Rotten: rhyming s.: C.20. (P.P., Rhyming Slang, 1932.) Also Dolly Cotton and John(ny) Cotton.

Doctor Crippen. Dripping (the culinary n.): rhyming s.: C.20.

Doctor Doddypoll. See doddypoll.

Doctor draw-fart. An itinerant quack: C.19–early 20: low coll.

Doctor Foster. No. 9 in the game of House: army: C.20. Dr Foster occurs in a nursery rhyme; '9' is connected with pills ('no. 9'), hence with medical officers. Cf. doctor, n., 12.

Doctor Green. In send to D- G-, to put (a horse) to grass: late C.18–19. (Grose, 2nd ed.) A punning coll.

doctor (in one's cellars), keep the. Habitually to adulterate the liquor one sells: licensed victuallers', then public-houses': coll.; from ca. 1860. H., 5th ed.

Doctor Jim. A soft felt hat, wide-brimmed: lower classes: 1896–ca. 1914. Ex Dr Jameson's 'Africander felt' (Ware). Whence Jimkwim, Jimmunt; these derivatives are obviously blended with the origin of cunt cap and chooch hat.

Doctor Johnson. The penis: literary: ca. 1790–1880. Perhaps because there was no one that Dr Johnson was not prepared to stand up to.

Doctor Livingstone, I presume. This c.p., adopted from H.M. Stanley's greeting, 1871, in the African jungle, was orig. (ca. 1900) a skit on Englishmen's proverbial punctiliousness, no matter what the circumstances; but, by ca. 1920, it was extended to almost any chance, or unexpected, meeting, whether between strangers or even between friends. See DCpp.

doctor on one, put the. To cheat, orig. with false dice and, orig. perhaps, c.: late C.17–20; ob. B.E. doctor ordered, just what the. See just what.

doctored, ppl. adj. Adulterated; patched-up (fig.); falsified: C.18–20, coll. See doctor, v., 4.

doctors. Counterfeit coin: c.:—1923 (Manchon). Prob. ex doctor, n., 1.

doctor's chum. No. 9 at tombola: army: C.20. (P.B.) See doctor, n., 11—a purgative. Cf. doctor's orders and shop.

doctor's curse, gen. prec. by the. A dose of calomel:—1821: coll.; ob. OED.

doctor's orders. No. 9 in the game of House; army: C.20. (Michael Harrison.) Ex the inevitable 'no. 9 pill'. Also doctor's favourite. Cf-doctor's shop. The no. 9 (cf. Number Nine, q.v.) in the game of House: military: C.20. F. & G. doctor's stuff, occ. (C.19–20) > doctor-stuff. Medicine: coll.: from ca. 1770. 'He could not take Doctor's stuff, if he died for it' (OED).

doctors upon, put the. See doctor, n., 1.

dad. A low coll. (†) and dial. interj.: from ca. 1670. Orig. a deformation of God. SOD.

dodder. 'Burnt tobacco taken from the bottom of a pipe and placed on the top of a fresh plug to give a stronger flavour (F. & H.): mid-C.19–20, Irish. Cf. S.E. dottle.

dodderex. A meddler; a fool. (In S.E., a tottering, pottering old man.) C.19–20, ob.; mostly Cockney. Var., doddering old sheep's head.

doddering Dick. A Maxim gun; hence, any machine-gun: RN: WW2. P-G-R.

doddies. A selfish person; proletarian: ca. 1890–1915. (Ware.) A corruption of do ut des, q.v.

doddipool. See doddypoll.

doddle, n. Money very easily obtained: Glasgow (—1934). By 1940, fairly gen., but low. (Norman.)—2. A 'walk-over': racing, since ca. 1920; by mid-1940s, gen. s., as in 'Pity you didn't come last night. It was a doddle' (Zoe Progl, Woman of the Underworld, 1964). Ex dawdle, or ex toddle?—3. Hence, esp., 'It's a doddle' = it's easy, simple: Services, since ca. 1945; by 1955, widespread.

doddle, v. To 'walk it' or win very easily: racing: since ca. 1925. John Winton, Never Go to Sea, 1963, (of a filly) 'I think she started at even money but anyway she 'doddled it.' Ex sense 2 of the n.—unless it was the other way about.

Dodd's Sound. 'Where the candidate will have to acknowledge the receipt of a certificate empowering him to float down Bachelor Creek' (i.e. to become a BA), Spy, 1825: Oxford University: ca. 1815–50. Ex a Vice-Chancellor's name?

doddy, or hoddy-doddy ('all head and no body'). A simpleton, an idiot: mostly Norfolk and orig. and mainly dial.: C.19–20.—2. (Only doddy.) 'A term said to have originated from Granville [colliery] but not general in Leicestershire. The period of time which has to be worked to claim ¼ shift overtime' (W. Forster, ed., Pit-Talk, 1970): coal-miners'.

doddypoll. A M.E. and C.15–18 nickname for a doll, a fool; extant in dial. In late C.16–mid-17, occ. Doctor Doddypoll. (Apperson.) Ex dod, to lop, poll, clip, and poll, the head. Cf. prec., 1.

dodge, n. A shrewd and artful expedient, an ingenious contrivance: from ca. 1830; coll. in C.20. Dickens in Pickwick: "It was all false, of course!" "All, sir," replied Mr. Weller, "reg'lar do, sir; artful dodge." (Ex the corresponding v., which, like its derivative, dodger, is S.E., though the latter has a slightly coll. tinge.)—2. Hence, in on the dodge, engaged in something dishonest: coll.: C.20. OED Sup.

dodge, v. To track (a person) stealthily: c.: from ca. 1830: ob. Dickens, Oliver Twist.

dodge Pompey. To steal grass: Aus.: from ca. 1920. Pompey personifies the Law. Ex:—2. To avoid work on shipboard: RN (pre-WW1) >, by 1918 at latest, gen. nautical. Bowen.—3. 'To work on a sheep station' (Wilkes): Aus.: late C.19—early 20.

dodge the column. To shirk one's duty: military: 1899 (Boer War). See esp. B. & P.—2. Whence, (column-) dodger: military: 1914.

dodge the draft. See draft-dodger.

dodgeman (rather than dodge man). A trickster, a 'fly boy': secondhand-car dealers': since mid-1940s. (Woman's Own, 28 Feb. 1968.) Cf. dodge, n.

Dodger. 'Inevitable' nickname for any man surnamed Green: army: C.20. Contrast:—2. A fairly common nickname for any man surnamed Brown: id. Cf. Topper.

dodger, n. See dodge, n.—2. A dram, a 'go' of liquor:—1824 (J. Wright, Mornings at Bow Street).—3. A shirker, malingerer: army: late C.19–20. B. & P.—4. In early C.20 c., a half-sovereign. Ex its elusiveness.—5. A mess-deck sweeper: RN: late C.19–20. (Bowen.) He thus avoids other duties.—6. A Good-Conduct Badge: army: C.20. Ironic; cf. canteen medal. F. & G.—7. A clergyman, a priest: c. and low: mid-C.19–20. (Mayhew, London Labour, vol. IV, 1861.) Abbr. devil-dodger.—8. A sandwich: army:—1914 (F. & G.). Because the meat therein dodges the consumer.—9. Hence (?), bread; food: Aus., since ca. 1918 (Baker); also, in the sense of bread only, in Brit. army, replacing sense 8: C.20. (P.B.)—10. 'A printed sheet, usually on coloured paper, and on one side only, for distribution door to door, advertising something or other' (Leechman, 1967): Can. printers' and journalists': since ca. 1910, also Aus. coll., C.20.—11. 'A canvas screen on the bridge of small craft as protection against the weather' (P-G-R): RN coll.: C.20.—12. A shunting truck: railwaymen's, mostly Western Region: C.20. Railway, 2nd.

dodger, adj. First-class, excellent, fine: Aus.: since late 1930s. B., 1943; Dal Stevens, The Gambling Ghost, 1953.

dodgy. Artful (low) coll.:—1887; slightly ob. (Baumann.) See dodge.—2. Hence, ingenious or neat: schoolboys': late C.19–20. Atkinson.—3. Difficult or complicated or tricky; risky; likely to become dangerous, esp. of a situation, a transaction, a concerted action: since ca. 1943. In, e.g., the film Seven Days to Noon, 1950; Norman. But foreshadowed in G.B. Shaw, Mrs Warren's Profession, 1894.—4. Hence, stolen; esp. in dodgy gear, stolen property; since ca. 1955.—5. As an exclam. it >, early 1960s, a one-word 'c.p.', popularised by the comedian Norman Vaughan. Like sense 3, it conveyed a vague disapprobation, and its opposite was swingin'! N.V. accompanied dodgy! with a thumb-down gesture. (P.B.) dodipol. See doddypoll.

dodo. A stupid old man: Society: late C.19–20 (ob.); coll. Ex the extinct bird. Cf.:—2. Scotland Yard: journalists': 1885–ca. 1890. Ware.

dodsey. A woman: c.: late C.18—early 19. (Grose, 2nd ed.) Prob. a corruption of doxy.

Doe. A Dornier 'plane: RAF: 1939+. (Partridge, 1945.) Ex the official abbr., Do.

doe. A girl, a woman: mostly University of Oxford: late C.19—early 20. Compton Mackenzie, Thin Ice, 1956.—2. See HARLOTS, in Appendix.

doee. See doeee.

doer. One who cheats another: from ca. 1840; ob. OED.—2. A 'character'; an eccentric or very humorous fellow: Aus.: from ca. 1905.

does, fair. See fair doo's.

does it? A sarcastically intoned coll. retort: from ca. 1870; ob.

does she? Euph. for 'Does she copulate?—to which a frequent answer is, 'You know what': since at least as early as 1920, and prob. going back to 'the Naughty Nineties'. (Reminder from Petch, 1969.)

does your bunny like carrots? 'Street boys to girls, jocular familiarity, with sexual symbolism' (L.A., 1969): early C.20. Cf. bunny, 4, the female pudend.

does your mother know you're out? A c.p. of sarcastic or joc. implication: from 1838, says Benham in his Book of Quotations. (Punch, 1841; Sun, 28 Dec. 1864.) F. & H., s.v., gives a very interesting list of such sapient phrases: all of which will be found in these pages. Treated at considerable length in DCpp. Two early C.20 retorts to the jibe were: 'Yes, she gave me a farthing', and 'Yes, she's with us!'

does your mother take in washing? A mild imputation of poverty: lower- and lower-middle-classes' coll.: ca. 1900–30, or from a decade earlier.

does your mother want a rabbit? A proletarian c.p. of ca. 1890–1914. (B. & P.) Ex the question of itinerant rabbit-vendors.

doesn't care what he (or she) spends when he (or she) has nothing, he (or she). A c.p. applied to one who, pockets empty of money, talks as if he had much: ca. 1925–55.

doesn't (or don't) give much away. Yield(s) few—or no—advantages; very keen: coll.: from ca. 1880. Ware.

doesn't it make you want to spit?! A c.p. from Arthur Askey's radio comedy series, with Richard Murdoch, 'Band Wagon', 1938–9. That is, to spit with disgust. The phrase is still occ. heard, late 1970s.

doesn't know enough to pee down wind. 'A c.p. directed against a very stupid fellow' (Leechman): mostly Can.: since ca. 1920.

doesn't know if (or whether) he wants a shit or a haircut. A mainly nautical c.p. to describe someone rather distraught: C.20. doesn't know which way he's (occ. she's) playing. Said of one who 'plunges in' without knowledge or understanding or with wrong-headed ideas (L.A., 1974): since ca. 1920. doey. See doocy.

[dog, when used of a person whether contemptuously or playfully, is considered by F. & H. to be coll., by the SOD to be S.E.: the latter is, I think, in the right.]

dog, n. Abbr. dog-watch: nautical: from ca. 1890.—2. In the W. Indies, a copper or a small silver coin, with var. black dog: —1797: nautical. OED.—3. God: in coll. oaths: C.16. OED.—4. 'Side', showing off, as in put on dog, q.v.—5. Soap: Bootham School: C.20. Bootham, 1925.—6. A cigarette-end: c.: C.20. (M. Harrison, Spring in Tartarus, 1935.) Cf. the, in later C.20, more usu. var., dog-end.—7. Hence, a beggar-searcher for cigarette-ends: c.: C.20. Michael Harrison, Weep for Lycidas, 1934.—8. A type of mild dysentery. See Malta dog.—9. A plain-clothes railway detective: Aus. c.: C.20. B., 1942.—10. A police 'shadow': Aus. police: since 1920s. (Vince Kelly, The Shadow, 1955.) Ex the S.E. dog, v., to track?—11. Hence, 'one who assists, or has at some time assisted, the authorities to make an arrest' (McNeil): Aus. coll.: current in early 1970s. See also turn dog and tucker-box.—12. Food: Aus. rural: C.20. (B., 1942.) Cf. dogs, 1, and corned dog.—13. A drinking debt: Aus. urban: C.20. Ibid.—14. "A 'dog' is punting poison—a horse that will really only race when it feels like it": turf: since late 1940s. (Weekend, 11 Oct. 1967.) Cf. the fig. use of bitch.—15. Something worthless: Can.: since ca. 1960. Leechman cites the Daily Colonist (Victoria, BC), 17 June 1976. Adopted ex US.—16. An unpleasant girl, a 'slag': teenagers': early 1980s. (Joanna Williamson, 1982.) Ex US.—17. See blush like a black dog; cash a dog; dogs; put on dog; swim, n./4; turn dog.

dog, v. To post (a student) for examination on the last day: Oxford University (—1726); † by 1800. Amherst. OED.—2. V.i. To have sexual connexion on all fours, i.e. like a dog: C.19–20 low.—3. Abbr. wild-dog, q.v., to hunt dingoes.

Dog Act, the. See Blackfellows' Act.—2. Any such Act, or part of an Act, of Parliament as enables people to follow a profession even though they are not academically qualified to do so: Aus.: since ca. 1955. (B.P.)

dog along. To fare tolerably, passably: Can. coll.: C.20. John Beames.

dog and bone. Telephone (mostly n.): rhyming s.: since ca. 1945. (Franklyn 2nd.) See quot'n at bunny, v.

dog and bonnet. The lion-and-crown badge of the King's Own Scottish Borderers: military: C.20. F. & G.

dog and cat, agree like. See cat and dog.

dog and maggot. Biscuits and cheese: army: C.20. B. & P.

dog at it, (an) old. Expert. See old dog at it.

dog away (one's) time. To idle it away: Cockney:—1887; slightly ob. Baumann.

dog-basket. The receptacle in which the remains of the cabin meals were taken—or smuggled—forward' in sailing ships: nautical: C.19. Bowen.

dog before its master, the. A heavy swell preceding a gale: nautical c.p.: late C.19–20. Ibid.

dog-biscuit. An Army mattress: military: late C.19–20; ob. (F. & G.) Ex colour and shape. Also biscuit.—2. The staple biscuit issued to troops on active service: army: 1914–18. Unsalted, unflavoured—and damned hard!

dog bite my ear! See frost bite me!

dog biting dog. Applied to one actor's adversely criticising another's performance: late C.19–20 theatrical.

dog-bolt. A coll. term of contempt: mean wretch. C.15–17, later use being archaic. SOD.

dog booby. An awkward lout; a clothopper: late C. 18—early 19 military. Grose, 1st ed.

dog-box. A passenger carriage on rural railway services: Aus.: C.20. (B., 1942.) 'Refers only to carriages without corridors. Each compartment has its own door to the platform and its own w.c.' (B.P.)

dog-bufter. A dog-stealer that kills all dogs not advertised for, sells the skins, and feeds the other dogs with the carcasses: c.: late C.18–19. Grose, 2nd ed.

dog-cart. A police car: Aus. joc.: since ca. 1920. (Dick.)

dog-catchers. A train crew sent to relieve a crew that has become outlawed: Can. railroadmen's:—1931.

dog-cheap. Exceedingly cheap: coll. (C.16–20), F. & H.; S.E., SOD: prob. the latter.

dog-clutch. 'A disconnectable coupling' (H. & P.): RAF: from ca. 1930. P.B.: SOD, 1977, notes the use of dog in many terms for gripping-devices; this RAF use is therefore prob. j. rather than s. or coll.

dog-collar. A 'stand-up' stiff collar, esp. a clergyman's reversed collar: from the late 1860s; in the former sense, † with the fashion; in the latter, by mid-C.20 at latest, > informal S.E.—2. 'Broad necklace usually of small pearls worn tightly round the neck' (Raymond Mortimer Listener, 10 Mar. 1937): Society: C.20.—3. A tunic with collar hooking together at front (no shirt-collar or tie being worn): RAF: from ca. 1918; in 1937 this style of uniform was changed for one more comfortable.

Dog Collar Act, the. The Transport Workers' Act: Aus.: B., 1942.

dog-collar brigade, the. The clergy: Glasgow: C.20.

dog(-)dancing. 'Useless and exaggerated activity, such as a dog indulges in, capering with glee at the return of his master' (Leechman, 1967): orig. and mostly Can.: since late 1966 or early 1967.

dog-drawn. Said (low coll.) of a woman from whom a man has, in the act, been forcibly removed: C.19—early 20.

dog driver. 'Policeman, used in an insulting or contemptuous context (West Indian)' (Powis): current in 1970s.

dog-end. A cigarette-end: low Cockney, C.20; since late 1920s, fairly gen., though still low. (Evening News (London), 21 Dec. 1936.) It is prob. a corruption of docked end: a cigarette that is kept for another smoke has first been quenched or docked. Cf. dib, 3, and see dog-walloping, doofah and docker, 4.

dog fall. An unfair fall in wrestling: sporting: ca. 1805–60. Blackwood's, Dec. 1823 (Moe).

dog-fancier. A receiver of stolen dogs and restorer of the same to their owners—for a fee: c.:—1861 (Mayhew).

dog-fashion, have it. To coit a posteriori: low coll.: C.20. Cf. dogways. Another var. is doggy-fashion.

dog-fat. Butter: army: early C.20. B. & P.

dog-fight. An RAF coll. (1915) >, by 1930, S.E., as defined, implicatively, by P.C. Wren, in The Passing Show, 18 Aug. 1934, 'But best sport of all was a dog-fight, an all-on-to-all scrap between a flight of British Bristol Scouts and a bigger flight of Fokkers, everybody shooting-up everybody, a wild and whirling mêlée from which every now and then someone went hurtling down to death in a blaze of smoke and fire.'—2. A regimental sergeant-major's badge: army: since ca. 1930; ob. Cf. fighting cats or dogs, and Tate and Lyle. The badge is the Royal Arms: 'The lion and the unicorn were fighting for the crown ...' (P.B.) dog-fight buttons. Buttons worn by those on the army's General Service list: army: since ca. 1930; ob. The badge on them is the Royal Arms; see dog-fight, 2.

dog-gone; dog gone. Coll. euph. for and 'fantastic perversion of God-damned' (W.): US; anglicised ca. 1860. (H., 3rd ed.) P.B.: in later C.20 it is still recognised as chiefly US, and a conscious borrowing from films, TV, etc.—2. Devoted: lower-classes':—1909 (Ware); ob. by 1930. ¹³ dog-house. A caboose: Can. railroadmen's:—1931.—2. A bass viol. See fish-horn.—3. In in the dog-house, in disgrace or bad odour: since ca. 1954. A man fallen out with his wife may say, 'I'm in the dog-house.' Ex dogs banished from house to kennel. Prob. ex US.

dog in a blanket. A roly-poly pudding: coll., orig. mostly nautical:—1845 (Edward Stirling, Mrs Caudle's Curtain Lecture). Moe.

dog in a doublet. 'A daring, resolute fellow' (Grose, 3rd ed.). C.16—early 19 coll. Ex German hunting-dogs, protected, in a boar-chase, with a leather doublet.—2. Hence, (as) proud as a dog in a d-, exceedingly proud: coll.: late C.16–17. Apperson.—3. But in a (mere) dog in a doublet, 'a mean pitiful creature' (Northall, 1577): coll. > dial.

dog in shoes, like a. Making a pattering sound: Anglo-Irish coll., C.19–20.

[dog in the manger, like a, may orig. have been coll.: C.16–20.]

dog is dead?, whose. Var., what dog is a-hanging? What is the matter? C.17–20 coll.; ob. Massinger, 'Whose dog's dead now/That you observe these vigils?' (OED).

Dog Lane. Friargate, York: Bootham School nickname: late C.19–20. Bootham, 1925.

dog-Latin. Bad Latin; sham Latin. Cf. apothecaries' or bog or garden or kitchen Latin: from ca. 1600; coll. >, by 1820, S.E. dog laugh, enough to make a. Extremely funny. See make a dog laugh.

dog-leech. A quack: C.16–18 coll. (In S.E., a veterinary surgeon.)

dog(-)leg, n. A good-conduct chevron: Services': since ca. 1925. (H. & P.) Ex the shape. See also dog's leg.

dog-leg, v. To make a angled detour, e.g. around a 'forbidden zone': air navigators' coll. > j.: since early days of aviation. (P.B.)

dog licence. 'A Certificate of Exemption to allow an aboriginal to buy a drink in a hotel' (B., 1959): since late 1940s. dog list, be on the. To be debarred from drinking: Aus.: since ca. 1920. B., 1942.

dog-nap. A short sleep enjoyed sitting: coll.; from ca. 1850. Cf. cat-nap. The var. dog-sleep is S.E.

dog-napping. (The practice of) stealing pets: low: C.20.

dog-nose. See dog's nose.

dog on it! An expletive affected, ca. 1860–90, by boys. Perhaps euph. for God damn it! Cf. dog-gone.

dot out. To keep watch: low: since ca. 1945. Maurice Procter, His Weight in Gold, 1966, "'You can have Harry to dog out for you'" and 'Higgs left Wayman dogging out at the corner'. Dog Potters, the. The Eton College Royal Volunteers: WW1. Petch cites Gilbert Frankau, Self Portrait, 1940. A var. of dog-shooter, 1.

dog-robber. A servant or aide of a high officer, who to 'supply his master with food and liquor suitable to his rank, will "rob even the goddam dogs"' (Claiborne, who cites W.B. Huie, The Americanization of Emily, 1960). British, ex US, Services: ? since ca. 1943 for Brit. usage.

dog-robbers. An officer's hangers-on, intercepting 'the broken meat on its way to the kennel from their master's table' (Basil Hall, 1832): naval lowerdeck: late C.18–mid-19.—2. Civilian clothes (usu. tweeds) worn by officers on shore leave: RN: since ca. 1900. (Granville.) By 1950, RAF officers' also (P.B.).

dog-rough. Very unpleasant, hard: Services': since ca. 1920. (P-G-R.) Rough—even for a dog.—2. Hence, very ill: mainly Services': since ca. 1920. (T.C.H. Raper, 1973.)—3. See doggo, adj.

dog see the rabbit, let the. See let the dog...

dog-shelf. The floor, as, sarcastically to a child dropping something, 'That's right, hang it up on the dog-shelf!': Northern coll.: (prob. mid-C.19)—20. (Mrs H. Dilke-Wing, 1980.)

dog-shooter. A volunteer: C.19 army then gen. In pl, it was the Regular Army Other Ranks' opprobrium of the Territorial Army in WW1. Robert Graves, Goodbye to All That, 1929.—2. At the Royal Military Academy (—1889), a cadet who, unable or unwilling to become an engineer, joins a class in another branch. Ob.

dog-stealer. A dog-dealer: joc. coll.:—1854 (Whyte-Melville).

dog-stiffener. A professional dingo-killer: Aus.: C.20. B., 1942.—2. Usu. in pl., dog-stiffeners, leather leggings: Aus.: since ca. 1910. Baker.

dog-tag. A metal or other indestructible identity disc: army and Aus.: WW2 onwards. (P.B; B.P.)

dog-throw. The lowest throw at dice (cf. deuce): coll. (—1880), verging on S.E. (OED.).

dog to hold, give (one) the. To serve a person a mean trick: coll. (—1678); + by 1800. Ray, 1678. Cf. holding the baby. (Apperson.) Cf.:

dog-trick. A mean or 'dirty' action, trick: C.16–19 coll. B.E. dog-vane. A cockade: nautical: from ca. 1785; ob. (Grose, 2nd ed.; songster Dibdin.) Ex the S.E. sense.

dog-walloper. A stick; a cudgel; a policeman's baton: Aus.: C.20. Baker.

dog-walloping. Picking up the ends of cigars and cigarettes: theatrical: ca. 1810–50.

dog(-)watch; esp. on the dog-watch, on night duty: Services: since ca. 1920. (H. & P.) Ex nautical j.—2. 'To say of a man that he hasn't been in the Service "half a dog-watch" is to imply that he is still in the green New Entry stage' (Granville): C.20.

dog-whipper. 'Superintends work of pony drivers and leaders in metal mines' (Evening News, 28 Sep. 1953); industrial: C.20.

dogan. See dogun.

dogged. Adv., very, excessively: mainly sporting (—1819), prob. ex dial., where only is it extant. Perhaps the orig. of the US dog-gone.

dogged as does it, it's. Perseverance and pluck win in the end: a coll. c.p. dating from the mid-1860s.

dogged-up, (all). In one's smartest clothes: since ca. 1925; ob. Cf. doggy, adj., 1 and doll up. (P.B.)

dogger. A professional hunter of dingoes: Aus. coll.: C.20. The dingo is often described as a wild dog.—2. A dog: from ca. 1910. (H.A. Vachell, Martha Penny, 1934.) By the 'OXFORD -ER'.—3. One who practises dogging, the collecting, cleaning and selling of dog-end tobacco: low: since 1941. Cf. dog-walloping.—4. One who practises acrobatic skiing; short for hot-dogger, q.v. at hot-dogging.

dogger, v. To cheat; sell rubbish: Charterhouse; from ca. 1860.

Dogger Bank Dragoons, the. The Royal Marines, esp. the commandos: RN: since ca. 1914; slightly ob. (James Spenser, The Aukward Marine, 1948.) Superseded by:-

Dogger Bank Hussars or Light Infantry. Variants of prec.: RN: 1970s. (Peppitt.)

doggers. 'Multi-coloured swim shorts' (Pix, 28 Sep. 1963): Aus. surfers': since ca. 1960. Ex 'putting on dog' or 'side'? Or ex hot-dogging, q.v.

doggerly. Manifest cheating: coll.: from ca. 1840; ob. Cf. S.E. dog's trick.—2. Nonsense: proletarian: mid-C.19—early 20. B. & L.

doggess. See dog's lady.

Dogget coat and badge. Full version of the rhyming s. coat and badge, to cadge. Franklyn, Rhyming.

doggie, doggy. A pet name (coll.) for a dog: from ca. 1800.—2. In coal-mining, a middleman's underground manager:—1845 (Disraeli, Sybil).—3. (Esp. a cavalry) officer's servant: military: mid-C.19–20; ob. Ware.—4. 'All round upright collar': London youths':—1909; ob. (Ware.) Cf. dog-collar.—5. An officer assisting an admiral at his work; 'a midshipman regularly attending a captain or flag officer': RN: from ca. 1910. Ex faithfulness to duty. OED Sup; 'Taffrail'.—6. A 'hot dog': Aus.: since ca. 1944. Ruth Park, Poor Man's Orange, 1950.—7. 'Platelay. (Eastern Region)': railwaymen's: C.20. (Railway, 2nd.) Poss. of mining origin, but more likely humorous.

Doggie (or -y) Day. New Year's Day: Post Office officials': C.20. Ex the dog-licences renewable then.

doggin (mostly in pl). A cigarette-butt: NZ: since ca. 1930. An adaptation—? rather a slovening—of dog-end. J.H. Henderson, Inglorious Gunner, 1945.

dogging. See dogger.

Doggo. Nickname for a plain-featured person: RN: C.20. (Granville.) See doggo party.

doggo, adj. (Of a car) 'Rough inside, particularly upholstery' (Clive Graham-Ranger, in Sunday Times mag., 9 Aug. 1981, p. 42): car-dealers'. Also dog-rough, q.v.—2. In lie doggo, to make no move(m)ent and say nothing; to bide one's time: C.19–20. Prob., 'like a cunning dog' (W.). The -o suffix is common in s.

doggo party. An unattractive female: RN: C.20. 'I didn't feel like it by then, after all the screech we'd put away, but Ted did... he sorted himself out a doggo party of about sixty and disappeared with her for half an hour' (Heart, 1962). Cf. Doggo.

doggy, n. See doggie.

doggy, adj. Stylish; smart, whether of appearance or of action: from ca. 1885. Ex a sad dog, a bit of a dog. Now, 'just a little too gay and dashing' (Denis Mackail, 1934).—2. (Of Latin) debased: coll.: 1898 (OED Sup.). Ex dog Latin.

dogman. That workman who travels with the load of a crane: Aus.: since ca. 1930. Robert Clark, The Dogman and Other Poems, 1962.

dogs. (Always pl.) Sausages: low: from ca. 1860; post-1925, it tends to mean 'hot cooked sausages' (short for hot dogs). The former sense is ex reputed origin; an early occurrence of the latter is in E.C. Vivian, Ladies in the Case, 1933.—2. Newfoundland Land Company's shares: ca. 1870–90; Stock Exchange.—3. Feet: low coll.: adopted, ex US, ca. 1935. But dogs that bite seems to be an English elab., since ca. 1944, for sore feet; and, since ca. 1950 (? earlier) there has been the var. me [my] dogs are barking, my feet are sore.—4. The position achieved in mine-sweeping when two ships open out and finish stern to stern: R Aus. N: WW2. Ex two dogs breaking off relations.—5. As the dogs, the dog watches: RN: since ca. 1910. P-G-R.—6. As the Dogs, Footscray footballers: Melbourne: since ca. 1920. B., 1943.—7. As the dogs, greyhound race-meeting: coll.: since 1929. (The Dog-Racing Bill was of 1928.) OED Sup.—8. See go to the dogs; cats and dogs.

dogs are barking, me or my. C.p. adopted ex US = my feet are very sore. See dogs, 3.

dogs are barking it in the street, the. 'A c.p. used about something that is supposedly secret but is very widely known, an open secret' (B.P.): Aus.: since ca. 1920.

dog's ballocks. The typographical colon-dash (:—): C.20. See dog's prick.—2. Esp. in the phrase 'It sticks out like a dog's ballocks', said of something that the speaker considers is patently obvious: low: since ca. 1920.

dog's body. Pease pudding; nautical: from early C.19. An early occurrence is in Alfred Burton, Johnny Newcome, 1818. (Moe.)—2. (Usu. dogsboddy.) Any junior officer, RN; esp. a midshipman; hence, pej., of any male: RN (>, by 1920, gen.): late C.19–20. (F. & H.; F. & G.) L.A. notes, 1976, 'In its general use, it applies notably to the junior or, e.g., superannuated man, esp. of office staffs, upon whom the wearisome errands and unwelcome jobs devolve; he who gets slapped.'

dog's bottom. A facetious term of address: 1930s.—2. In is he (or it, etc.) any dog's bottom?, is he any good?: Aus.: from ca. 1930. B., 1942.

dog's bird leg. Lance corporal's stripe: Aus. soldiers': 1915+. See dog's legs.

dog's breakfast. A mess; confusion; turmoil: low coll., perhaps orig. Glasgow; also Aus.: since early 1930s. (B., 1943.) Contrast a dog's dinner, 3.

dog's chance, not to have a. To have no chance at all: coll.: late C.19–20.

dog's cock (or diddy). An unwieldy back splice; hence 'an unholy mess': training ships': C.20. (Peppitt.)

dog's dinner. A shilling; Aus. rhyming s.: C.20. (B., 1945.) On deaner.—2. Pej., as in 'Something-or-other was a dog's dinner'—bungled, messy, no good: since ca. 1945. Cf. the earlier dog's breakfast.—3. In (all) dolled or dressed or got up like a dog's dinner, stylishly, dressed: coll.: C.20. The second, Services' usage, since ca. 1925, for being dressed in one's best uniform (P-G-R). Gilt Kid, 1936, 'The geezer that was with her was dolled up like a dog's dinner with a white tie and all.' P.B.: since mid-C.20 it has come to mean rather flashy and over-dressed.

dog's disease. Influenza: Aus.: since ca. 1930. (B.P.) B., 1953, notes it as WW2 Aus. s. for malaria.

dog's dram. A spit into his mouth and a smack on his back: mid-C.18—early 19 low. Grose, 1st ed.

dog's face. A coll. term of abuse: coll. > S.E.; from ca. 1670; ob.

dogs have not dined, the. A c.p. to one whose shirt hangs out at the back: mid-C.18—early 19. (Grose, 1st ed.) See Slang, p. 274.

dog's hind leg, crooked as a. Very crooked (lit. only): coll.: late C.19–20. Apperson.

dog's home, the. See GUARD-ROOM, in Appendix.

dog's lady or wife; doggess; puppy's mamma. 'Jocular ways of calling a woman a bitch' (Grose, 3rd ed.): coll.: late C.18—mid-19.

dog's leg(s). The chevron(s), 'designating non-commissioned rank, worn on the arm, and not unlike in outline to the canine hindleg' (Ware); military: late C.19–20.

dog's licence. Seven shillings and sixpence: from ca. 1930. Ex the cost of that licence.

dog's lug. A small bight in a sail's leech-rope: nautical: from ca. 1880. A characteristic var. on dog's ear, nautical j.

dog's match of it, make a. To coit by the wayside: low coll.: C.19–20; cf. to dog.

dog's meat. 'Anything worthless; as a bad book, a common tale, a villainous picture, etc.' (F. & H.): coll.: from ca. 1820. Ex lit. sense.

dog's nose. Gin and beer mixed: low:—1812; ob. (Vaux.) Occ. dognose ('Ducange Anglicus'; Baumann). Not yet obsolete, in Can., at least: Leechman cites its use in H. Dempsey, Bob Edwards, 1975.—2. Hence, from ca. 1850, a man addicted to whisky. B. & L.

dogs of war on (so-and-so)! A gun-room or a wardrobe c.p. = eject him (if possible): RN: C.20. Bowen.

dog's paste. Sausage- or mince-meat: low coll.: from ca. 1850. Cf. dogs.

dog's portion. A lick and a smell, i.e. almost nothing; late C.18–20 (ob.) coll. In late C.18–19 occ. applied to a distant admirer of women. (Grose, 2nd ed.) Cf. dog's soup.

dog's prick. An exclamation mark: authors' and journalists': C.20.

dog's rig. Sexual intercourse, to exhaustion, followed by back-to-back indifference: mid-C.18–19: low. (Grose, 2nd ed.) Cf. dog's match.

dog's soup. Water: mid-C.18–20 (ob.) coll. (Grose, 1st ed.) Cf. fish-broth.

Dog's Tail. The constellation of the Little Bear: nautical: from ca. 1860.

dog's vomit. Meat and biscuits cooked together as a moist hash: nautical: late C.19–20. Bowen.—2. Hence, inferior food: Aus.: C.20. B., 1942.

dog's wife. See dog's lady.

dogsboddy. See dog's body, 2.

dogun or D. A Roman Catholic: Can.: late C.19–20; since ca. 1920, at latest, the predominant form has been dogan. (Leechman.) Poss. ex that very Irish surname Duggan; cf. taig ex Teague.

dogways, adv. and adj. (Of coition) like a dog, ^{na} retro: workmen's coll.: late C.19–20. Cf. dog-fashion.

dohickey. A mechanical whatnot. See dohickey.

Doin' It. Doing, near Péronne: army in France, WW1. F. & G.

doing. A thrashing; a severe monetary loss: lower classes' coll.:—1909 (Ware). Ex dial. doing, a scolding: which in C.20 is coll.—2. See nothing doing!

doing! and doink! Variants of boing and boink.

doing a moody. 'Doing something suspicious' (Home Office): prisoners': current in 1970s.

doing dab. Doing badly (in business): London low: since ca. 1845. (Mayhew, I, 1851.) Here dab is back s. for bad.

doing (one's) nitting. Delousing oneself, synon. with 'chatting': Tommies': WW1. (Petch.) A pun on (k)nit.

doing of, be. To be doing: illiterate coll.: C.19–20. In, e.g., An Old Etonian, Cavendo Tutus; or, Hints upon Slip-Slop, forming the second part of his The Alphabet Annotated, 1853. P.B.: in C.20 sometimes used joc. by the literate, in the form 'What(ever) are you a-doing of?'

doing the party. 'A ploy in three-card trick where a confederate of a card sharp pretends to be a winning player so as to encourage "mugs" to stake heavily and, of course, to lose' (Powis): c.: current in 1970s.

doings, the. The thing (any thing); esp. what is at the moment needed or otherwise relevant: from ca. 1912. Perhaps ex the US usage, the materials for a meal (1838): Thornton. See esp. F.&G. and B.&P. Cf. gadget, oojaka-piv.—2. Hence, one's possessions or equipment: Aus.: since ca. 1919. (Jean Devanney, By Tropic Sea, 1944.) P.B.: some British usage in this sense also.—3. Excrement, human or animal: domestic coll.: C.20. 'There's a lump of bird's doings on the windowsill.' (P.B.)—4. In in the doings, in the guardroom: army: from ca. 1914. (F. & G.) Ex 1 and prob. 3; cf. in the shit.

dol. A dollar: lower classes':—1909 (Ware).

doldrum. A dullard: a drowsy or a sluggish fellow:—1812 (OED). Ex:

doldrums. Low spirits; dullness: from ca. 1805; coll. till ca. 1890, then S.E. James Payn, 1883, 'Serious thoughts... which she stigmatised... as the doldrums.' Ex dull on tantrum; Ware; SOD, 1977. This sense pre-dates the nautical one.

dole. A trick, a stratagem: Winchester College: from ca. 1830. A development (though prob. straight from L. dolus) of the † S.E. sense, guile, fraud.—2. In go on the dole, to receive unemployment benefit: s. (ca. 1925) >, by 1930, coll. P.B.: SOD, 1977, dates the dole in this sense back to 1919: to go on the dole had, by mid-C.20, > informal S.E. Cf.:—3. As the dole, food handed out at a station to a tramp: Aus.: since ca. 1925. B., 1942.

dolefuls. Low spirits: coll.; from ca. 1820. (Miss Braddon.) Cf. dismals.

doley or dolee. A person on the dole: Aus. coll.: since ca. 1930. Caddie: a Sydney Barmaid, 1953.—2. A soldier in an employment platoon: Aus.: since ca. 1940. (B., 1943.)

dolifier. One who contrives a trick: Winchester College; ex dole, q.v.

doll. A lady: Cockneys' (—1864); † by 1900. [Henry] Mayhew, 'If it's a lady and a gentleman then we cries, "A toff and a doll"' (OED). This may, however, have been ironic, for his brother Augustus, in Paved with Gold, 1858, records that among London crossing-sweepers (of the 1850s–1860s) 'the insulting epithet of "doll" was applied to every aged female'—precisely as 'the rather degrading appellation of "toff" was given to all persons of the male gender'. But in Anon., The New Swell's Guide to Night Life, 1846, at p. 29, doll occurs, twice in sense 'a girl': 'soldiers and their Dolls' followed by 'another resort for soldiers and their girls'—a clear anticipation of US 'guys and dolls'.—2. See dish, n., 3.—3. See napper, 7.—4. Any very attractive person of either sex: Can. juveniles': adopted, ca. 1935, ex US. (Leechman.)—5. As in a doll of a..., an attractive (e.g. house, gown): since mid-1950s. Cf. sense 4. Anticipated by T.C. Haliburton, The Clockmaker, 1837, where a colt is described as 'a real daisy, a perfect doll'.—6. A whore: late C.16–(?)mid-18. Middleton & Rowley, A Chaste Maid in Cheapside, 1620. (Moe.)—7. 'Any drug in pill form' (Landy, 1971): adopted by British addicts ca. 1972.—8. See knock over a doll; mill doll.

doll up, v.i. and reflexive. To dress oneself very smartly: mostly Aus.: C.20. Whence dolled-up, dressed 'to death'.

dollar. A five-shilling piece; five shillings: C.19–20 coll. ex US, ex C.16–17 S.E. Hence half-dollar or half a dollar, half a crown. See also holy dollar and groin. Cf. Oxford scholar.

dollar bosun. A warrant writer in charge of pay accounts: RN: since ca. 1925. Granville.

dollars to buttons, it's. It is a sure bet: coll.: US >, before 1909, Eng. Ware.

dollars to doughnuts. Long odds: low coll.: from ca. 1920. Gilt Kid, 1936.

dolled up like a barber's cat; usu. all... Extravagantly fashionable in dress: Can.: late C.19–20; by 1950, slightly ob. See also dog's dinner, 3.

dollop. A lot; the whole dollop, the whole lot, esp. sum:—1812: coll., †. Vaux.—2. A lump, esp. if 'formless' or clumsy: low coll., or perhaps a vulgarism, ex dial.:—1812 (SOD); but, after ca. 1935, coll. and widespread and respectable. W. compares Norwegian dolp, a lump.

dolloping. The selling of goods at a ridiculously low price: cheapjacks':—1876 (C. Hindley). dollops of. 'Heaps' of; 'lots' of: coll.:—1923 (Manchon). P.B.: in later C.20 sometimes intensified to 'great dollops of...'

Dolly. 'Inevitable' nickname of any man surnamed Gray or Grey: C.20. Ex the famous song, associated with the S. African War, 1899–1902, 'Farewell, Dolly Gray'.

dolly, n. A mistress: C.17–early 19. Cf. the C.17 S.E. doll-common, a harlot; in C.17–early 18 coll., surviving as dial., dolly also bore this sense, plus that of slattern.—2. A pet, i.e. a coll., name for a child's doll: from late C.18.—3. 'Any one who has made a faux pas' (Punch, 1843).—4. A servant girl: chimney sweeps': C.19. George Elson, 1900.—5. A piece of cloth serving as a sponge: tailors', from ca. 1850.—6. A binding of rag on finger or toe: coll. and dial.:—1888 (EDD).—7. The penis: low: C.19–20; ob.—8. A candle: tramps' c.: C.20. Perhaps a corruption of tolly, n., 1.—9. A 'donkey-drop' (q.v.): cricketers' (1906), as is 10, the sense (1926), a slow, easy catch. Lewis.—11. A small shunting-engine: railwaymen's: since ca. 1920. Railway. Cf.—12. A camera-trolley. See MOVING-PICTURE SLANG, § 4, in Appendix.—13. 'Dwarf Ground Signal (London Midland Region)': railwaymen's: since ca. 1930. Railway, 2nd.—14. A secondhand car in perfect condition: dealers': since ca. 1955. (Woman's Own, 28 Feb. 1968.) Cf.—15. A girl, esp. an attractive girl: since ca. 1955. Cf. dolly-bird.

dolly, v. To interrogate a suspect: Aus. c.: since ca. 1930. See AUSTRALIAN UNDERWORLD...

dolly, adj. Perhaps only in dolly pals, dear friends or companions: c.: C.19. Possibly a perversion of dear suggested by dolly, n., 1.—2. Adj., silly; foolish: from ca. 1850; ob. Dickens, 'You wouldn't make such a dolly speech,' where, however, the term may = babyish.—3. Excellent: very attractive; very pleasant, as in 'Isn't that dolly?'; 'darling': an article published in Daily Telegraph, colour sup., 10 Mar. 1967; note the title of Alan Diment's novel, The Dolly Dolly Spy, 1967. Cf. dolly, n., 15.—4. Hence, 'as used by, e.g., Adam Diment, it has the additional connotation of "mod" or "hip" or "with-it"' (Robert Claiborne, 1976): since latish 1960s.

dolly-bird. A sexually attractive, usu. young and pretty, girl; often in flocks as, e.g., 'secretaries' or clerks: since early 1960s, but not gen. before ca. 1967. Cf. dolly, n., 15, and adj., 3 and 4, and bird, n., 8. The term belongs particularly to the brief era of the mini-skirt. (P.B.) dolly-catch. The original of dolly, n., 10, a slow, easy catch: cricketers': from ca. 1895. (EDD.) Perhaps ex dolly, adj., 2.

Dolly Cotten. Rotten: rhyming s.: from ca. 1890. (Everyman, 26 Mar. 1931.) Var. of Doctor Cotton and John(my) Cotton.

dolly-drop. Var. of dolly-catch, a slow, easy catch, usu. from some height: schoolchildren's: C.20. Perhaps a blending of dolly-catch and donkey-drop. (P.B.)

dolly-man, pitchy-man. A Jew: Anglo-Irish, esp. in the West: late C.19–20. Prob., dolly-man derives ex dolly-shop, pitchy-man ex a huckster's pitch.

dolly-mop. A harlot: coll.:—1833 (Marryat). But in Cockney (—1855, †), an 'amateur' prostitute. Mayhew.—2. Also, a badly dressed maid-servant: ca. 1858–1905. H., 1860.

dolly-mopper. A womaniser, esp. if a soldier: military:—1887; ob. (Baumann.) Ex prec., 1.

dolly-shop. An illegal rag-and-bone shop or pawn-shop: from ca. 1840: c. > low coll. Mayhew; 'No. 747' (ref. to 1845).—2. A fence's, i.e. a receiver's parlour: c.; late C.19–20.

dolly up, v.i. To heat water or tea with a candle: tramps' c.: from ca. 1905. Cf. dolly, n., 8.

dolly up, dolly down, dolly sick, - to play. (Of the male) to masturbate: low: C.20. Cf. dolly, n., 7.

Dolly Varden. A garden: rhyming s.: late C.19–20.—2. A fastidious person: RN lowerdeck: ca. 1890–1920. (Knock.) dolly-worship. The Roman Catholic religion: Nonconformists':—1909. 'From the use of statues, etc.' (Ware).

dollymop. See dolly-mop, 1.

dollypot. A simpleton: Aus.: since ca. 1925. (B., 1942.) Cf. dillypot.

dolphin. See swing the dolphin.

-dom. Some of the C.20 jocularities, e.g. Galsworthy's devil-may-care-dom, verge on the coll. W.

Domain cocktail (or special). Petrol and pepper; methylated spirits, boot-polish and Flytox: Sydney beggars' and dead-beats': ca. 1910–30. B., 1942.

Domain dosser. A beggar or a dead-beat frequenting the Sydney Domain: Aus.: C.20. Baker.

dome. The head: coll.; 'common', says F. & H. in 1891. Its C.20 use is gen. regarded as US. (Not in Thornton.)—2. A dormitory. See doom.

dome-stick. A servant: sol., or, when deliberate, joc. coll., †. (—1891.) Obviously suggested by the C.17–18 spelling of domestic. Cf. aram-a-tick.

doment. A var. of do, n., 3: dial and (+) low coll.: from 1820s. OED.

domerar. See dommerar.

domestic afflictions. The menstrual period: coll.: from ca. 1850. Also as d.a.s., the initials only.

domin(i)e-do-little. An impotent old man: mid-C.18—early 19 coll. Grose, 2nd ed.

Dominion, the. Canada: C.20; coll. ?abbr. dominion par excellence.

domino. A knock-out blow: also as v.; from ca. 1870. (H., 5th ed.) Cf. domino with (q.v.). Ex:—2. As an exclam., it expresses completion—of a punishment in the Victorian Army and Navy (1864, H., 3rd ed.); among bus-conductors to signify 'full up' (—1882); ob. All these senses are coll. ex the game of dominoes. Earlier: 'Poor old John Lee... was all but smashed by a shell; he gave my arm a twitch, as with a strange smile on his worn old face he quietly said, "Domino, chum", and fell out of the saddle' (J.W. Wightman's description of his part in the charge of the Light Brigade, 25 Oct. 1854, quoted in The Rambling Soldier, ed. Roy Palmer, 1977: P.B.).—3. A false note played by the orchestra: theatrical: since ca. 1910. Ex dominoes, 2. domino-box. The mouth: from ca. 1820; orig. low, in C.20 inelegant and ob. (Bee.) See also box of dominoes.

domino-thumper. A pianist: from ca. 1880; superseded, ca. 1930, by domino-walloper; ob. B.&L.; E.P.

domino with, it is (or it's). It's the end of; there is no hope for: C.20. Ex dial. (1854): "Domino," which the winner of a game of dominoes calls as he plays his last piece' (EDD). Cf. domino, 2.

dominoes. (Never singular.) The teeth, esp. if discoloured (contrast ivories): from ca. 1820. Cf. domino, q.v.—2. The keys of a piano: from ca. 1880; ob. Hence box of dominoes, 2, a piano.—3. Durophet 12.5 mgm spansules' (Home Office): drug addicts': current in 1970s. And see doms.

dom(m)er/ar or -er; drommerars or -ers; dummerer. A beggar pretending to be deaf and dumb: mid-C.16–18. Harman.—2. Also, ca. 1670–1750, a madman. Coles, 1676. Both are c.

Dommie. A Norton 'Dominator' motorcycle: motorcyclists' (Dunford.)

Doms, the. Members of the Order of Preachers (Dominicans): Aus. Catholics': C.20. (B.P.)—2. As doms. Dominoes, as in 'King of the "Doms"' (Loughborough Echo, 4 June 1982, p. 2).

Don. (Gen pl., the Dons.) A Spaniard; a Portuguese; nautical: C.19–20. It occurs in Basil Hall, 1832. Bower notes, 'A more polite term than Dagoes but not applied to other Latins.' Cf. Dons, the.

don, n. An adept, a 'swell' or 'toff'; a pretentious person: coll.; from ca. 1820. In C.17–18 S.E. a distinguished person. Ex the Spanish dons as is 2, the English university coll. use, a fellow of a college: from ca. 1660; orig. pej.—3. Hence, a master: Winchester Coll.: C.19–20.—4. 'A top skipper': drifermen's: C.20. D. Butcher, Drifermen, 1979.

don, adj. Expert, clever; excellent: from ca. 1860; ob. (H., 2nd ed.) Ex prec., 1.

Don Caesar spouting. 'Haughty public elocution': Society: ca. 1850–1900. Ware.

Don Freddie. Euphemism, using the PHONETIC ALPHABET (see Appendix), for dutch fuck, q.v., the lighting of one cigarette from another: army: WW2.

Don Peninsula. The world, the 'geographical' range, of the dons: Oxford University, ca. 1820–40. Egan's Grose.

Don R. A dispatch rider: Services': since the 1920s. (H. & P.) From the early PHONETIC ALPHABET: see Appendix.

don rags A synonym of collekkers, q.v.: Oxford undergraduates': C.20.

dona, donah (mostly in sense 2), donna, doner, rarely donnay. A woman; esp. the lady of the house: from the 1850s: Cockney and Parlyaree. (H., 1st ed.) Ex It. or Sp. via Lingua Franca.—2. Hence, in Aus., from ca. 1880: a girl; a sweetheart. 'Never introduce your dona(h) to a pal' has long been an Aus. c.p.; it comes from a London Cockney song (?Gus Elen's), which goes on, 'For the odds is ten to one he sneaks your gal.'

dona Highland-finger. A music-hall singer: rhyming s.: —1909 (Ware); by 1940, †. (Franklyn.)

dona Jack. A harlot's bully: lower classes':—1909 (Ware).

donaker. A cattle-stealer: C.17—early 18; c.

Donald. A glass of spirituous liquor, esp. whisky: Scot.: 1869, Johnston, Poems (EDD).

Donald Duck. Luck: later C.20. (Ronnie Barker, Fletcher's Book of Rhyming Slang, 1979.) Ex the famous Walt Disney cartoon 'character'.

Doncaster-cut. A horse: coll.:—1529; † by 1600. (Skelton: Apperson.) Doncaster famous for horses.

done. 'Arrested; caught, having committed some offence' (Tempest): c. > coll.: C.20. P.B.: also, being subsequently penalised, as in 'He was done for speeding in a built-up area.' See also drum, n., 2.—2. 'Beaten up. "So and so got done last night"' (Tempest): low: C.20. This may be a shortening from do over, 1, q.v., in its nuance 'knocked down'. (P.B.)—3. Baptised: C.20. (Petch, 1974.)—4. See do, v., 1; done thing.

done brown. See do brown.

done-for. Exhausted; cheated; ruined; in c., robbed, convicted to prison, or hanged: —1859: see do for. The c. done for a ramp=convicted for stealing (H., 1st ed.).

done like a dinner, to be. 'To be completely worsted' (Wilkes): Aus.:—1847 (A. Harris, Settlers and Convicts); still current 1975.

done-over. Intoxicated: C.19–20.—2. Possessed carnally (only of women): C.18–20; ob.—3. In c., same as done: see do over, and done, 2.

done thing, the. Whatever is considered to be 'good form', as opposed to those things that 'simply are not done, you know' (see not done): upper classes', officers', Public Schools': C.20. Also, whatever is the current fad; e.g., referring to July 1914, Wilfred Ewart wrote, in The Way of Revelation, 1921. 'Very young ladies were fond of calling young gentlemen by their Christian names—it was rather "done" in their current idiote phrase.'

done-tired. (?) Caught unawares: army: ca. 1900. See ARMY SLANG, verse 3, in Appendix. (P.B.)

done to death. Too fashionable; trite: coll.:—1887 (Baumann) >, by 1910, S.E. done to the wide; done to the world. Utterly exhausted, defeated, or baffled; ruined: from ca. 1908: s. now verging on coll. (Glossed mid-1930s.)

done-up. 'Ruined by gaming, and extravagances' (Grose, 1st ed., modern term', he adds): ca. 1780–1860.—2. Hence, 'used up, finished, or quieted (H., 1st ed.); utterly exhausted: coll.: since ca. 1820. See quot'n at tub, n., 3; also in Wm Maginn, Whitehall, 1827 (Moe).

doner. One who is done for, ruined, fated shortly to die: lower classes': C.19–20. An early occurrence is in Sessions, Jan. 1838.—2. See dona.

dong, n. A blow, a punch: Aus.: C.20. Ex the v.—2. Penis: Brit. and Can.: since mid-C.20. Slightly less vulgar than prick. Cf. hammer, n., 4.

dong, v. To strike; to punch: Aus. and NZ, C.20; in later C.20, also Brit. Perhaps echoic, ex the dong emitted by a bell when struck; perhaps a blend of ding + dot.—2. To charge (someone) with a crime; often in the passive: army: since late 1940s. (P.B., 1974.)

Donga Dick. Orderly-room clerk: British soldiers', in S. African War, 1899–1902. Synon. with dug-out duds of WW1. (Brig.-Gen. Crozier, The Men I Killed, ca. 1928.) Precisely why Donga Dick, I don't profess to know; of the reduplicatory type, obviously. P.B.: with dug-out cf. 'S. African donga, a channel or gully formed by the action of water' (Wilkes).

donk. A donkey: mostly Aus.: C.20.—2. Hence, a simpleton: mostly Aus.: since ca. 1910: B., 1942.—3. Carrying a second person on the top bar of a bicycle. See double-dink, and cf. croggie.—4. A ship's engine: RN Submariners': 1950s (?and later). Peppitt compares j. donkey-boiler, 'providing steam for auxiliary machinery'—but why not straight from donkey-engine? See also donkshop.

donkey, n. A compositor (cf. pig): printers':—1857. Var. moke.—2. A sailor's clothes-chest: nautical: from ca. 1860.—3. A blockhead, a fool: coll., from ca. 1840.—4. Even for an ass, donkey was orig.—ca. 1780—coll. and remained so for some fifty years. Cf. donkey dick, q.v. Perhaps ex Duncan or Dominic: W.—5. A regular donkey, anything very long and big (as, e.g., a carrot).—6. And a donkey's=a large penis: low: late C.19–20.—7. A transport mule: military: C.20. Ex sense 4.—8. A '350 h.p. shunting locomotive' (Railway, 2nd): railwaymen's: since ca. 1955. It does the 'donkey work'.—9. A sewing-machine: RN lowerdeck: since ca. 1890. (Good-enough, 1901; Knock.) The pl. donkeys tends to mean 'sewing-machines, mechanics' tools, sea-chests' (Knock).—10. See ride the donkey; talk the hind leg ...; whack (one's) own ...; who stole the ...?; up goes the ...—11. [The day for recruits] began with a rather dismal bugle call at about 5.45. This call was "the rouse", but it was known to us as "the donkey" (Robert Blatchford, My Life in the Army, 1910, writing of ca. 1870).

donkey dick. An ass: ca. 1780–1820. A var. of donkey, which is prob. ex Duncan. (Grose, 1st ed.) From early C.19, dick(y) came to be used by itself.

donkey-drops. In cricket, from ca. 1887, slow round-arm bowling. A.G. Steel, 1888; the Hon. E. Lyttelton, in his Cricket, 1890. (Lewis.) Also dolly, n., 9.

donkey-drops and custard. Prunes and custard. Marlborough College: since early 1920s.

donkey-frigate. A 28-gun ship (between a frigate and a sloop): naval: C.19. Bowen.

donkey has of Sunday, have as much idea (of it) as a. To be wholly ignorant: Cockney:—1887; ob. Baumann.

donkey in (one's) throat, have a. To have phlegm there: Cockney:—1887; slightly ob. (Baumann.) More commonly in C.20 a frog... donkey-lick, n. Treacle; golden syrup: Aus. rural: C.20. (B., 1953.) Cf. cockies' joy.

donkey-lick, v. To defeat easily, esp. in a horse race: Aus. sporting: since ca. 1920. B., 1953.

donkey-riding, vbl n. Cheating with weights and measures: c.: C.19. 'Ducange Anglicus'.

donkey-rigged. Endowed with a large penis: low: C.19–20. Cf. hung like a jack donkey, and donkey, 6.

donkey vote. 'A vote where the votes are numbered straight down the voting card. In Australia the voter has to number the candidates in order of preference'—esp. when there are many candidates: Aus. coll.: since ca. 1960. (B.P., 1974.)

Donkey Wallopers, the. 'The province of the Life Guards and the Blues was really London, and for that reason they were known derisively as the "Piccadilly Cowboys" as an alternative to the more universally used nickname of "The Donkey Wallopers"' (Carew). The term is applied loosely, by the rest of the Army, to any of the cavalry regiments, or to the cavalry in general. (P.B.)

donkey's ages. A very long time; var. of donkey's years: since ca. 1940 ('earlier'). (P.B.)

donkey's breakfast. (Orig. a man's) straw hat: Cockneys': 1893; slightly ob. Ware.—2. A bundle of straw for a bed: nautical:—1901. OED Sup.—3. Hence, a straw mattress: Services' coll., C.20; orig. nautical, by WW1, army, and by ca. 1925, RAF. Bowen; Jackson.

donkey's ears. A shirt-collar with long points, already old-fashioned in 1891: s. or coll.: ca. 1845–1900. It occurs in Sinks, 1848, as 'a false collar'.—2. A var., dating from just before WW1, of donkey's years.

donkey's eggs. Sugared almonds: mostly juvenile: since ca. 1920; by 1975, rare. (P.B., 1974.)

donkey's years. A long time: suggested by the sound of donkey's ears, when illiterately pronounced donkey's years, and the length of a donkey's ears: from ca. 1900.

donk's dingbat. 'A soldier detailed to look after the mules' (Baker): Aus. soldiers': 1939 +. Ex dingbat, 1, and donkey, 7.

donkshop. Engine room; hence donkshop horse, 'Senior Engine Room Artificer in the engine room, but not the chief E.R.A.': RN Submariners': mid-C.20. (John Malin, 1979.) See donk, 4.

donna and donnay. See dona(h).

donneken. See dunnaken. (Bee's spelling.)

Donnelly's Hotel. RN lowerdeck mess. See Casey's Court.

donner. 'I'll donner you'=give you a hiding: S. African schools' esp. Milton Junior School, Bulawayo: since ca. 1925. Worth recording for its derivation ex the Dutch word for 'thunder'—via Afrikaans.

donny is a var. of dona.

Donny John. Don Juan: joc.: late C.19–20.

donnybrook. A fracas: Aus. (esp. among soldiers): since ca. 1920. Ex Donnybrook Fair, famous for its free-for-alls.

donovan. (Gen. in pl.) A potato: Anglo-Irish: from earlyish C.19. (Alex Harris, The Emigrant Family, 1849; Sinks, 1848.) Ex the commonness of the Irish surname; cf. Murphy.

don's or dons' week. The week before a general holiday; esp. a week of work before it: tailors': from ca. 1860; ob.

Dons, the. The Wimbledon 'soccer' team: sporting: from ca. 1920.—2. Essendon VFL footballers: Aus., esp. Melbourne, coll.: C.20. Earlier name was the Bombers.

don't. Do not: coll.: from ca. 1660.—2. As n., a reiteration of don't, a prohibition: from ca. 1890: coll.—3. Also, done it: coll.: early C.18. Swift. See Slang, p. 66.—4. And: does not: from ca. 1720, but sol. only since ca. 1840.

don't act so daft or I'll buy you a coalyard. A joc. c.p. since ca. 1956. (Franklyn.) Perhaps connected with 'black and white' comedians.

don't all speak at once! (all right). Response by someone whose offer or suggestion has been greeted with a conspicuous silence and lack of enthusiasm: latish C.19–20.

don't answer that! When not used lit. is a c.p.: since ca. 1960. It implies that any comment would be unnecessary, or unwelcome. See DCpp.

don't ask me – I'm only ze bell-boy! A c.p. rejoinder, pron., by the teenagers using it, in an accent supposed to be that of 'Adolf Hitler imitating Groucho Marx': Leicestershire (? and wider): ca. 1977. (P.B.)

don't be auntie! Don't be silly; don't be a spoilsport: Aus.: since ca. 1935. B., 1943.

don't be filthy! Don't be foul-mouthed or bawdy or suggestive!: c.p. ca. 1938–60. Ex the Arthur Askey/Richard Murdoch radio comedy show 'Band Wagon', which ran 1937–40.

don't be funny! Don't be ridiculous: I'd never do such a thing: Can. c.p.: since ca. 1930. (Leechman.) Cf. you must be joking!

don't be like that! and don't be that way! 'Don't behave in that objectionable or unreasonable or ludicrous way!': US c.pp. adopted in Brit. soon after WW2. Contrast the exasperated 'Oh, all right! Be like that, then!', which arose from the former a few years later. (P.B.)

don't bother me now, (for) my hands are wet! A military c.p. of WW1. Ex the weary impatience of harassed mothers. B. & P.

don't bully the troops! A military c.p. (C.20) to an excessive or noisy talker. B. & P.

don't call us - we'll call you. C.p. usu. understood as a polite, or not-so-polite, rejection of an application for a job, position, subvention, etc., as 'How d'you get on at that interview?'—'Oh, you know: don't call us, etcetera': adopted ex US entertainments world, where traditionally supposed to terminate an unsuccessful audition, ca. 1945. See esp. DCpp.

don't care a Pall Mall, (I). (I) don't care a damn: clubmen's: 1885–ca. 1890. (Ware.) Ex Pall Mall Gazette's articles entitled 'The Maiden Tribute' in July 1885.—Pall Mall, a 'girl' or girl. don't chant the poker! Don't exaggerate!: proletarian c.p.: ca. 1870–1910. B. & L. Cf. don't sing it!

don't come it - you never used to! Rebuke to someone putting on airs: since late C.19; since ca. 1970, ob. (L.A., 1978.) Cf. come it, 1.

don't come the ... (Old) abdabs, acid, etc. Necessary exhortation to anyone coming the old whatever it is, which is so often objectionable. A number of examples are glossed at come the ..., q.v.

don't do anything I wouldn't (do)! A c.p. of joc. advice: Eng. and Aus. since ca. 1910. Cf. be good! and if you can't be good ...

don't do anything you couldn't eat! Don't take on anything you can't do: Aus. c.p.: since ca. 1930. (B., 1942.) Via bite off more than one can chew.

don't dynamite! Don't be angry!: non-aristocratic c.p. of 1883–ca. 1900. Ware, 'Result of the Irish pranks in Great Britain with this explosive.'

don't excite! Keep cool! Elliptical for 'don't excite yourself!': ca. 1895–1939. An early occurrence is in E.H. Hornung, Raffles, 1899.

don't forget the diver! One of the c.pp. from 'Itma', q.v. in Appendix, prob. the most famous of the BBC's WW2 radio comedy series.

don't fret!, or don't you fret! You need not worry: sarcastic coll. c.p.: late C.19–20. Cf. I should worry!

don't get your arse (or bowels or balls) in an uproar; don't get your shit hot! Simmer down! Keep cool! low c.pp.: C.20; the former, gen.; the latter, Can.

don't get your knickers in a twist! Don't get flustered; relax, and let's unravel the impending confusion; used to either sex, but to a man, with the added connotation, 'don't behave like a fussy women': coll.: at its most popular in early 1970s. (P.B.)

don't give me that! Tell that to the Marines!: c.p.: since ca. 1920.

don't give me that toffee! Don't give me that glib, wrapped-up explanation: RAF in Malta: ca. 1950–65. (L.A.)

don't give me (or us) the old abdabs! Don't try to tell me the old tale, or throw dust in my eyes: C.20, but esp. WW2. Cf. don't come the old abdabs, at which it appears in DCpp.

don't go down the mine, Daddy. A fragment from a famous old tear-jerking song—in WW1 a soldiers' chant—since ca. 1920, a c.p.; by mid-C.20, ob.

don't hold your breath! Elliptical for 'don't hold your breath in excited expectation', implying that the expected is unlikely to happen for a long time, if at all: US c.p. with some Brit. use in 1970s. See DCpp.

don't I know it! C.p. expressing, somewhat ruefully, 'How well I know it!': since ca. 1880, or perhaps much earlier.

don't just stand there - do something! This exhortation has been so frequently employed that, ca. 1940, it became a c.p., both Brit. and US, with either an allusive or a humorous connotation, as in the title of Charles Williams's delightful and exciting novel, Don't Just Stand There, 1966. It has even been reversed, thus, don't do anything—just stand there!

don't knock the rock! Orig. the cry of the younger generation, 1957, against their elders' rejection of the then new 'pop' music, by 1970s it was occ. used to offset resentment against all sorts of other things. See esp. DCpp.

don't know which side his (or my) arse hangs, he or I. A low c.p., implying that the speaker is either bewildered or in a state of hopeless indecision: C.20.

don't know who's which from when's what, (I). (I, etc.) don't know anything about it: lower classes' c.p.: 1897–ca. 1905. Ware.

don't let me catch you bending! Usu. joc. advice, 'Don't let me catch you at a disadvantage!' See catch bending.

don't let your braces dangle in the shit! A workmen's and Servicemen's c.p., sometimes chanted: late C.19–20. P.B.: a var., the chorus of a ribald song about a lobster, is 'Never let your goolies dangle in the dust!'

don't look down, you'd soon find the hole if there was hair round it! A drill-sergeant's c.p., on the fixing of bayonets: late C.19–20. (B. & P.) Cf. you're slower ...

don't look now, but I think we're being followed or somebody's following us. Since ca. 1933, a c.p., joc. allusive to timorous women's mostly imaginary fear. By 1960; ob. By then the even more allusive 'Don't look now, but' expected that one's listeners would immediately swing round to stare.

don't lose your hair! 'Keep your hair on!': non-aristocratic: from ca. 1860; ob. Ware.

don't make a fuss. A bus: rhyming s., chiefly theatrical: C.20. Franklyn, Rhyming.

don't make a Judy (Fitzsimmons) of yourself! Don't be a fool, or don't make a fool of yourself: Anglo-Irish: since ca. 1920. See Judy Fitzsim(m)ons and DCpp.

don't make a meal of it! This c.p. is addressed to one who uses an excess of words for a triviality: since ca. 1945. (Petch, 1969.) Hence, 'Don't wallow' in the gruesome or the unfortunate or 'the pity of it': since ca. 1960, at latest. Also, don't make a simple task into a complicated one.

don't make a production of it!, often prec. by all right! 'Said to one making a big show of a simple affair' (Leechman, 1967): since late 1930s; common among servicemen in WW2; in 1970 still often used. Ex movie-makers' 'productions'; cf. evolution.

don't make I laugh - it makes I pee I's drawers! ('Mock-yokel, mock-feminine, used by boys and men). Indicates "protest" at being overcome by fooling and jocularly, and thus keeps the jollity going' (L.A., 1974). A var. is ... 'cos when I laughs, I shits myself. Both vulgar elaborations of: don't make me laugh, I've got a spill lip. A c.p.: C.20; ob. by 1940. (Leonard Merrick, Peggy Harper, 1911.) Since ca. 1920, usually shortened to don't make me laugh, hence, since ca. 1925, don't make me smile. An ob. var., recorded by Collinson, was '... I've cut my lip.' See DCpp.

don't mensh! Lower-class, earlier C.20, shortening of: don't mention it! A phrase in deprecation of apology or thanks: coll.: 1854, Wilkie Collins (OED). Prob. an abbr. of don't mention it, for it's a trifle.

don't mention that. A c.p.: ca. 1882–4, as the result of a libel case (Ware). Ex prec.

don't mind me! Proceed: c.p., gen. ironic: C.20. I.e. 'Go ahead—don't mind me!'

don't-name-'ems. Trousers: joc. coll.; from ca. 1850; † by 1930. Cf. inmominables.

don't open your eyes (or you'll bleed to death). (The latter half often omitted.) A callous morning greeting to one with a hangover: RN: WW2 and after. (Cdr C. Parsons, 1977.) Not unknown in the other Services; I have heard, in the army, the slightly less positive 'or you might bleed to death.' (P.B.)

don't panic! As c.p., since ca. 1979. Ex the BBC Radio comedy-series 'Hitch-Hiker's Guide to the Galaxy'. Mrs C. Raab reported its appearance on a slogan-button, 1980.

don't pick me up before I fall. Applied to premature correction or criticism: late C.18–20. (Bill Truck, Jan. 1822.) Cf. don't take me up...

don't rock the boat! Don't disturb the status quo; don't start spoiling things: as c.p., since mid-C.20. See DCpp.

don't seem to. Be incapable of; as in 'I don't seem to see it': coll.:—1909 (Ware).

don't sell me a dog! Don't deceive me!: Society: ca. 1860–80. Ware.

don't shit the troops! I don't believe you!: Can. army c.p.: WW2. Here, shit=shit on.

don't shoot the pianist! With he's doing his best understood: c.p.: adopted, ca. 1918, ex US, where current—originally as a Wild West saloon-notice—prob. from ca. 1860. Another form of the plea is don't shoot the piano-player; he's doing the best he can. The original, according to Burton Stevenson's Proverbs, Maxims and Familiar Phrases, was please do not shoot the pianist. He is doing his best: and the gloss runs, 'Oscar Wilde, telling of a notice seen by him in a Western bar-room during his American tour, in a lecture delivered in 1883.'

don't shoot till you see the whites of their eyes! The Brit. shape of an old US quotation-become-catchphrase, adopted in UK earlyish C.20, meaning 'don't act prematurely; make sure you don't go off at half-cock'. See at don't fire... in DCpp.

don't sing it! Don't exaggerate!: proletarian c.p.: ca. 1870–1910. (B. & L.) Cf. don't chant the poker!

don't spend it all at once! A joc. injunction given when handing over a very small sum, e.g., as change: c.p. of later C.20. Reminiscent of the earlier 'Here's a ha'penny (or penny)—don't spend it all at one shop!' that once accompanied the giving of such a small monetary gift to a child.

don't step back! sometimes prefixes the low c.p., evoked by a particularly noisy fart, 'there's shit not far behind that!': late C.19–20.

don't strain yourself! 'C.p. sarcasm at slow, as if indifferent, co-operation' (L.A., 1974): C.20. Perhaps earlier: I first heard it, ca. 1913, in Australia.

don't take any wooden nickels! Don't allow yourself to be cheated: Can.: 'a c.p. of the last fifty years, and still heard occasionally' (Leechman, 1959).

don't take it out, Chiefie: I'll walk off. A sailor's conciliatory jocularly to the Chief Petty Officer after a reprimand: RN c.p.: since ca. 1930.

don't take me up till I fall! An Anglo-Irish, late C.19–20, c.p., used 'when a person attempts to correct you when you are not in error' (P.W. Joyce, English in Ireland, 1910). Cf. don't pick me up...

don't tell me!; never tell me! I can hardly believe it!; don't be silly!: coll.: resp. mid-C.18–20, slightly ob.; and C.17–20, extremely ob. Shakespeare in Othello; Foote (don't...). OED.

don't tell me – let me guess! This humorous anticipatory c.p. dates from ca. 1940 and, in its early period, was often prec. by no! and occ. by now. Also in the early days, the predominant from was ... I'll guess.

don't tell more than six! Don't tell anyone: Londoners' c.p.: June 1937–Aug. 1939.

don't turn that side to London. A c.p. of condemnation: commercial: ca. 1890–1914. Ware. 'From the supposition that everything of the best is required in the metropolis.'

don't wake it up! Don't talk about it!: Aus. c.p.: since ca. 1920. (Baker.) 'Let sleeping dogs lie.'

don't work too hard! A joc. admonition used by, e.g., one off on holidays, to workmates left behind still 'slaving': late 1970s. A symptom of the 'English disease?' (P.B.)

(don't worry –) it may never happen. A c.p. addressed to the worried or the merely thoughtful: since ca. 1916.

don't worry – use Sunlight! C.p. ex a famous advertisement for Sunlight Soap: ca. 1905–50. (Alexander McQueen, 1953.)

don't worry your fat! Advice to someone who is worrying: c.p.: since ca. 1910.

don't (you) fear! Take my word for it!; certainly not!: coll.: mid-C.19–20. (Baumann.) Cf. never fear!

don't you forget it! See and don't you forget it!

don't you know. As you well know; please understand!: coll. (—1887) Baumann, 'Sehr gebräuchlicher Zusatz' (a very frequent tag). In C.20, almost meaningless except as a vague palliative. Cf. do you know, q.v., to which it may orig. have been an offset.

don't you wish you may get it? A c.p. of ca. 1830–50 = I don't like your chance! or I don't think! Barham; Punch, 1841, 1844.

doo-da or dooda(h), all of a. Excited: from late 1914. Ex the echoic refrain doo-da, doo-da, doo-da day, prob. on all of a dither.

doo-flicker; doo-hickey. See dooflicker; doohickey.

doob. Penis: Aus. schoolboys': since ca. 1950. Perhaps ex dood, 2, or ex doodle, n., 2.

doobri; doobri-firkin (occ., macfirkin). An elab. of doofah, 2, a gadget, a 'whatchamacallit; may also be applied to persons, as usu., 'Old Doobri-firkin—old whatsisname': army: 1950s. (P.J. Emrys Jones, 1979.)

dooby. Dowdy; old-fashioned: Aus., mostly feminine: since ca. 1950. (Ross Campbell, Mummy, Who Is Your Husband?, 1964.) Either a distortion of dowdy or an imperfect blend of dowdy+booby.

doodid. An affected, also a Cockney, var. of deuced. Man-chon. As:- dood is of dude.—2. A pipe. Aus.: since ca. 1910. B., 1942. ?Ex Aboriginal.

doodad. A thingummy: Can.: adopted ca. 1930, ex US—A word of fanciful formation.

doodah. A thingummy: since ca. 1910. 'Pass me the doodah'. Ex ooja-ka-piv.—2. An air-raid siren: WW2. Ex the alternating note of the wail.—3. A duodenal ulcer: since ca. 1945. Partly ex sense 1 and partly ex duodenal.—4. Wholly ex sense 1 is its 'use as a euphemism, in such ways as "Where's the doodah?" When somebody wants to know where the w.c. is' (Petch, 1966): since late 1940s.

doodle, n. A noodle: coll.; from ca. 1620. Ford; Grose; Cobden, 1845, 'The Noodles and Doodles of the aristocracy'.—2. (Gen. of a child) the penis: mid-C.18–20. Grose, 1st ed.—3. Short for doodlebug, 3: since Aug. or Sep. 1944.—4. Corresponding to, and deriving from, sense 2 of the v.

doodle, v. To make a fool of; cheat: from ca. 1820. Moncrieff, 'I have been ... doodled out of forty pounds to-day.' In C.20, rare except in dial.—2. To write or draw aimlessly while one is listening to others at, e.g., a conference: since ca. 1930: coll. >, by 1950, S.E. Perhaps an arbitrary formation, but prob. ex dial. doodle, to waste time, to trifle.

doodle, adj. Foolish: coll.: early C.18. Cf. sense 1 of n. and v., and see EPIPHETS, in Appendix.

doodle-ally; doodally. Mentally deficient: since ca. 1940. Prob. a misapprehension of doolally, q.v.

doodle-bug (or doodlebug). A small, cheap car: motorists':—1935.—2. Hence, 'utility truck, or light motor van, as used by the Army' (H. & P., 1943).—3. A German flying-bomb (V.1): since mid-June 1944; for the duration of the weapon's onslaught, then historical. P.B.: E.P. derives this from sense 1, and sense 1 from doodle, v., 2; I have a strong feeling, however, that the term doodle-bug is South Eastern counties' dial. (not in EDD, but I was brought up in rural East Sussex) for the booming cockchafer, or June-bug: the noise and shape fit sense 1, and the blundering flight, sense 3.—4. A gremlin: FAA: ca. 1940–5.—5. 'A new-style locomotive' [i.e. diesel-engine] (Railway): railwaymen's: ca. 1945–60. Cf. shuttle-bug.

doodle-dasher. A man indulging in self-abuse: C.19–20 low; ob.

doodle-doo, gen. prec. by cock a. A child's or a childish name for a cock: C.17–20 coll. Grose.

doodle-doo man. A cock-breeder or -fighter: C.18–19; cock-pit s.

doodle-sack. The puendum muliebre: mid-C.18–20; ob. (Grose, 2nd ed.) In S.E., a bagpipe: this origin, like so many in C.18, is crudely anatomical.

doose, occ. dooe; doee; duey. Two, as in doee salter, two pence: Parlyaree: mid-C.19–20. With doee salter, cf. It. due soldi. Baumann, 1887, records duey = two pence, as being also circus s.—2. (Occ. spelt dozie.) The sum of £200: second-hand-car dealers': since late 1940s. (Woman's Own, 28 Feb. 1968.) With both senses, cf. deuce, esp. senses 3 and 4.

doopy, doey. Always large do(o)ey, a large cup of tea: orig., and mainly, carmen's: from ca. 1920. Ex the notice: tea 1d., large do., 2d. But clearly influenced also by prec.

doofah, doofer. A partly smoked cigarette, extinguished so as to do for another smoke: org. workmen's,—1935; much used in Services, WW2; by latest 1930s also Aus. (Mrs Camilla Raab, 1977).—2. A gadget; anything not specifically named, any 'box of tricks': Forces', esp. RAF: since ca. 1936. Something that will 'do for the time being'. Cf. gubbins.—3. A humorist, a wag: 1944+. (James Dunn in World's Press News, 21 Nov. 1946.) Ex 'You'll do for me!'—i.e. I'll die laughing at you; or, as H.R. Spencer pointed out, this sense might perhaps have derived from Ger. s. doof = daft, crazy.

dooflicker (or doo-flicker). 'Any mechanical tool, instrument, or gadget': Can. army: 1915+. (B. & P.) Cf. the later doofah, 2, and doohickey.

doo flop. Anything for which the proper name is momentarily forgotten, as 'the whatsitsname, er, thingummy, doo flop...': since mid-C.20. (P.B.)

doog. Good: back s.:—1851. H., 1st ed.

doogheno. A good one, in, e.g., doogheno hit, one good hit, a bargain, a profit: back s. Mayhew, I, 1851; H., 1st ed.

doo hickey, dohickey (or doo-hickey). 'An airman's term for any small, detachable fitting' (F. & G.): since 1915. The term spread throughout the Eng.-speaking world; Can. is said to have adopted it ex US ca. 1930, and it was becoming common in NZ ca. 1939; the RN used it, in WW2, for any gadget one can't find a name for. Of fanciful origin; cf. dooflicker, doofah, 2, and gihickey.

doojie's joy. A poor specimen: Convoy cadets': from ca. 1885. John Masefield, The Conway, 1933.

dook, n. (A sol. pron. of duke, C.19 (?earlier)—20.) Hand; fist. See dukes.—2. A huge nose. See duke, 6.—3. An upper-form boy: certain Public Schools': late C.19–20. See nondescript.

dook, v. To give: Aus.: since ca. 1910. D'Arcy Niland, The Shiralee, 1955.

dook on it, have (one's). To seal a bargain with a handshake: Aus.: C.20. Baker.

dook-reading. Palmistry: grafters': late C.19–20. (Cheapjack, 1934.) Cf.:-

dookering; dookin. Fortune-telling; gipsies', thence criminals': from ca. 1835. (Brandon; H., 1st ed.) Ex Romany dukker, to tell fortunes. Moreover, dookering among grafters means specifically '[going] around from door to door telling fortunes' (Cheapjack, 1934).

dookie, dukey. An unlicensed theatre; 'penny gaff'; theatrical: from ca. 1860; ob. Perhaps ex a gaff-proprietor with a large nose: cf. dukker and dook, 2. (Ware.)

dookin. See dookering.

dookin-cove. A fortune-teller: low: from ca. 1850. See dookering and cove.

dooks. (Extremely rare in singular.) The hands. More gen. dukes, q.v.

doolally (or doolall). (Orig., and still, very occ. among old soldiers, the full form was/is doolally tap.) Off one's head; mad; 'he's gone doolally': orig., late C.19–mid-20, army s.; since then, much more widespread, and > gen. coll.; the abbr. doolally dates from ca. 1920; the occ. corrupt variants doodle-ally or doodally have crept in since ca. 1940. One derivation is ex Deolali, a military sanatorium in Bombay, and Hindustani tap, fever; however, the following long passage from Frank Richards, DCM, MM, Old Soldier Sahib, 1936, is worth quoting in full: 'The trooping season began in October and finished in March, so that time-expired men sent to Deolalie from their different units might have to wait for months before a troop-ship fetched them home... The time-expired men at Deolalie had no arms or equipment; they showed kit now and again and occasionally went on a route-march, but time hung heavily on their hands and in some cases men who had been exemplary soldiers got into serious trouble and were awarded terms of imprisonment before they were sent home. Others contracted venereal and had to go to hospital. The well-known saying among soldiers when speaking of a man who does queer things, "Oh, he's got the Doo-lally tap," originated, I think, in the peculiar way men behaved owing to the boredom of that camp. Before I was time-expired myself [in 1909] the custom of sending time-expired men to Deolalie was abolished: they were sent direct to the ports of embarkation, which in some cases meant weeks of travelling, but they got on the troop-ship the day they arrived at the port.' (This author's knowledge of s. in the Army ranks of the early C.20 is prob. unqualified.)—2. Hence, exceedingly drunk: army: from ca. 1930; by ca. 1950, ob. if not †. H. & P.—3. Of a machine, e.g., a vehicle, out of action, broken down: heard from a London bus conductor, 1983. (Mrs C. Raab.) Loosely ex sense 1. doolally-trapped. Knocked silly: low: from 1918; †.

doolan. A policeman: Aus.: C.20. (D'Arcy Niland, The Big Smoke, 1959.) Prob. ex the Irish surname Doolan, there being so many Irishmen in the police force.

dooley. See Larry Dooley.

doolie. An ambulance: Anglo-Indian coll.: C.18–20. Ex the S.E. sense, a litter or a rudimentary palanquin (C.16+). Y. & B.

dooly, doolay. Milk: army: WW1. Ex Fr. du lait. F. & G.; B. & P.

doom; dome. The Sherborne School shape of dorm[itory]: from ca. 1880. Marples.

doom and gloom. (First, interj.; later, adj.) Woeful; woeful. Interj. perhaps popularised by Tommy Steele, as the leprechaun, in the film Finian's Rainbow, 1968. Adj. as in, e.g., 'Prof. Orton's] "doom and gloom" story in the Yorkshire Post paid off, and... two years later, a contract for the [publication] of... the survey [of English dialects] was signed' (British Printer, Dec. 1971, p. 47). Poetic intensification. (P.B.)

Doomie. An RAF nickname for the character adorning the 'What no —?' drawings: 1944+. See Chad.—2. As d-, 'Bodgie or widgie with criminal tendencies' (Sunday Chronicle, 6 Feb. 1952): Aus.: ca. 1950–60. All three terms are urban, raffish and confined mostly to Sydney.

doomy. Very depressed and discouraged; dismal: since ca. 1960. (Groupie, 1968.) A blend of doom-laden and gloomy. 'It took me two doomy weeks to get myself together.'

door. A brothel: low Aus.: since ca. 1920. See work a door.—2. In up to the door, a var. of up to dick, q.v. at dick n., 10, artful, knowing; excellent. Cf. synon. down to dandy.

door and hinge. 'Neck and breast of mutton, a joint which bends readily amongst the cervical vertebrae' (Ware): Cockneys': mid-C.19–20.

door-knob. A shilling: rhyming s. on bob: late C.19—early 20. B. & P.; Franklyn 2nd.

door-knock. A door-to-door appeal for funds. Aus.: since late 1950s. (B.P.)

door-knocker. A ring-shaped beard: proletarian: 1854—ca. 1915. Ware. (Also adj.)—2. A Nordenfelt machine-gun (used by the Boers): military in Boer War. (J. Milne, The Epistles of Atkins, 1902.) Ex the noise.—3. A feminine hair-style, two long thick plaits bunched at the top: domestic: late C.19—early 20. And see doorknocker.

door-mat. A heavy beard: 1856—ca. 1882. Cf. crimea, q.v.—2. Hence, says Ware, 'by 1882... applied to the moustache only, probably because about this time the tendency to shave the beard and wear only a very heavy moustache became prevalent'.

door-nail. See dead as a door-nail.
door-plater. See brass-plater. door-step. See doorstep. door to door. Four; occ., where the context is clear, 24 or 34 or 44 or ...: rhyming s.: C.20. Franklyn, Rhyming. doorer. A doorsman or barker at an auction sale: London coll.: from the 1880s. Answers, 12 Dec. 1891 (EDD). doorknocker (or D-). See Ten-a-Penny. doors. 'The lock gates on a canal' (Granville, 1949). By humorous meiosis.
[doorsman. One who, at shop or place of amusement, invites the public to enter: from ca. 1855. By F. & H. considered as coll., by OED as S.E. Cf. barker.]
doorstep, n. A (gen. thick) slice of bread and butter: low:—1885. Cf. *couple of doorstep*s, q.v., and dork. doorstep, v.t. To intercept someone face-to-face, for a story, interview, etc.: journalists': later C.20. Elwyn Parry-Jones, in Listener, 19 Feb. 1981. doos's. See fair doo's, fair shares or behaviour. dooser (or D), the. The Second Steward: ships' stewards': C.20. (Dave Marlowe, 1937.) I.e. deucer. dooshman. An enemy: army: late C.19—early 20. (B. & P.) Ex Hindustani. doover. Aus. military var. of doofah, 2, q.v., any object whatsoever: WW2. (Baker.) In Glassop, Rats, 1944, it refers specifically to a dug-out.
dooverlackey; occ. dooverwock(e)y. An elab.—since ca. 1945—of prec. (B.P.) doovers. For Eastern prison camps' rice. See PRISONER-OF-WAR SLANG, §10, in Appendix. dooser. 'Anything very large or outstanding; here [J. Dowell, Pook-Off Bear, 1975] a drunk', (esp. an alcoholic), as Dr Leechman tells me: Can.: since ca. 1955. Very prob. ex the synon. US doozy; cf. US lollapaloozer.
dop. Alcoholic drink in gen.: S. African coll.: C.20. Ex dop, the native name for Cape brandy. OED Sup.
dop down. To duck the head: early C.18 coll. See VERBS ..., in Appendix. dope, n. A drug: 1889. Also, in C.20, an anæsthetic: medical students'.—2. Drugging: from ca. 1900.—3. Adulterated liquor: Aus.:—1964.—4. Fraudulent information: 1901. Hence, 5, any information: from ca. 1910. All coll. ex US, where orig. of any thick lubricant or absorbent (SOD); itself ex Dutch doopen, to dip: W.—Whence, 6, a fool, a bungler: military: 1915 (F. & G.), though perhaps ex Cumberland dial. (1867: EDD), and, 7, 'news bulletin sent by wireless' (Bowen): nautical: from ca. 1925.—8. A heavy drinker: Aus.: from ca. 1912. Ex sense 3.—9. In the S. African underworld, it = dagga (Cannabis indica): C.20. (J.B. Fisher, letter, 1946.) A specialisation of sense 1.—10. Petrol (esp., if specially treated): since ca. 1930.—11. One's work: copywriters': since ca. 1930. dope, v. To take drugs: from ca. 1890; by 1920, coll. Ex n., 1.—2. To 'doctor' or drug a person or a race-horse: from ca. 1900. (Ware.) Both senses were orig. US. The vbl n. is frequent.—3. To smear: garage hands': since ca. 1905. Herbert Hodge, It's Draughty in Front, 1928, 'I soon acquired the knack, learning to "dope" the cylinders with petrol.'
dope out. To discover, ascertain, comprehend: US (1906, O. Henry) anglicised ca. 1917. Cf. dope, n., 5.—2. 'To work out; get hold of': US (1906), partly anglicised by 1934 owing to the 'talkies'. OED Sup.; C.W. Thurlow Craig, Paraguayan Interlude, 1935. dope up. To check (an aircraft's engines): RAF: since ca. 1938. P-G-R.—2. Esp. dope it up, to take drugs: drug addicts' (and their like): since ca. 1965. 'How did the police know they'd been doping it up all day?' (Jagger). doped off. As in 'I could easily go in there relaxed, carefree, "doped off", "thumb in bum, mind in neutral"' (Phantom): RAF: later C.20. dopey. A beggar's trull: low: mid-C.18—early 19. Grose, 1st ed.—2. The podex: C.18.—3. A drug-addict: c. and low:

from ca. 1920. John G. Brandon, The One-Minute Murder, 1934.—3. A very dull or slow fellow; a fool: army in WW1, then gen. Ex dope, n., 6, and the adj. dopo. A sycophantic colleague or employee or friend: mostly police: since late 1940s. (G.F. Newman, Sir, You Bastard, 1970, glossary.) Ex dope, n., 6. dopper. 'A heavy blanket overall once much favoured by North Sea fishermen' (Bowen): nautical coll. verging on j. Ex Norfolk dial. dopper, a thick woollen jersey. doption. An adopted child: low, verging on c.: from ca. 1870. (B. & L.) I.e. adoption. dopy, adj. Dull, lethargic, half asleep (lit. and fig.): C.20; earlier in US. Ex dope, n., 1.—2. Stupefying: 1925, Edgar Wallace (OED Sup.).
dor. Permission to sleep awhile: Westminster School: C.17—early 19. Ex L. dormire, to sleep.—2. A dormitory: school s.:—1920 (OED Sup.). Cf. dorm.
Dora. The Defence Of the Realm Act: 1914. Orig. s., soon coll.; by 1920, S.E. and considered as officialdom's equivalent of Mrs Grundy.
Dora (Gray). A threepenny piece: Aus. rhyming s., on tray, 2: C.20. doras or Doras. The A shares of the South-Eastern Railway Deferred Ordinary Stock, the capitals being transposed: Stock Exchange: from ca. 1880; > + in 1915.
Dora's bloomers. 'Refers to the unlamented Defence of the Realm Act, and all the faults and mistakes which occurred while it was in force' (Petch, 1969): joc. on the S.E. and the s. senses of bloomers. dorbie. An initiate: Scots Masonic: from ca. 1850. Hence the dorbies' knock, a masons' signal rap. Ex dorbie, a stonemason, a builder. dorcas. A sempstress, esp. in a charitable cause: coll.; from ca. 1880. Ex the S.E. Dorcas society, D. basket, ex Dorcas in Acts, ix. 36.
Dorchester. An armoured command vehicle: WW2. Ex the famous London hotel. See gin palace, 2. dork. A 'doorstep' (q.v.) of bread and butter: lower classes': since ca. 1895. Still in use at the Duke of York's Royal Military School, Dover, in the late 1940s (Mr T. Paine, 1978). By 'telescoping' or conflation.—2. A harmless fool: later 1970s. 'Sid Vicious chain-whipping this hippy ... [giving] this poor dork a going over' (Peter York, Style Wars, 1980, p. 14: P.B.). dorkum. A damper (food): Aus.: since ca. 1925. B., 1943. dorm. A dormitory: schools': late C.19—20. Cf.: dormie, -y. A dormitory: at certain public and preparatory schools: late C.19—20. Desmond Coke, The House Prefect, 1908.
Dorothy, n. and, gen., adj. Rustic love-making: Society: late 1887—ca. 1890. Ex a musical comedy (1887–8) so named. (Ware.)
dorricks. To tell fortunes, whence dorricker, a fortune-teller: market-traders': C.20. (M.T.) ?Romany; cf. dookin. dorse, v. To knock down on to the back: boxing: ca. 1810—80. Wilson, 1826 (OED).—2. See doss. do's, fair. See fair doo's, and do, n., 6. dose, n. A burglary: C.18—19 c. A New Canting Dict., 1725; Grose, 1st ed.—2. A term of imprisonment, esp. one of three months' 'hard': mid-C.19—20 c. (H., 2nd ed.) Cf. moon, stretch. ?ex.—3. A defeat: boxing, C.19—20, ob. Tom Moore, 1819.—4. As much liquor as one can hold—or somewhat more than is good for one: coll.; from ca. 1850. Cf. take a grown man's dose, a great deal of liquor.—5. (?hence,) a venereal infection: low coll.; from ca. 1860. [—6. A rare mistake for doash, q.v.: Grose's m.s. note to the B.M. 1st ed.] dose, v.; gen. be dosed. To infect venereally: low: from ca. 1870. Ex n., 5.—2. To shell: army: WW2. Hence, dosing, a shelling. P-G-R. dose-box. A pill-box: Can. army: WW1. Philip Gibbs, From Bapaume to Passchendaele, 1917. dose of salts, like a. Very quickly and effectively; esp. go through (something) like ...: coll., albeit low: C.20. In a letter to P.B., 1976, Mr G. Briggs-Smith, a gallant veteran of WW1, used the var. '... the attack on Messines Ridge in June 1917 ... went through like a dose of salts through a weak Chinaman'; and E.P. noted the Can. var., since ca. 1930, ... through a serpent girl, to which he added the comment, 'a very picturesque elaboration'. Wilkes notes the later C.20 Aus. var. packet of salts. See also through a woman. dose of the balmy, have a. To sleep: coll.; C.19–20, ob. See balmy.

doser. A severe blow or punch: pugilistic: ca: 1840–90. Augustus Mayhew, Paved with Gold, 1857.

dosh. A 'bivvy' (1914); hence, a funk-hole (1915); Can. military. (B. & P.) Ex doss, q.v.—2. Money, esp. cash: Aus. juvenile: since ca. 1944. (B., 1953.) Perhaps a blend of dollars + cash.—3. 'I dig dosh. Can you lend me a fiver?' is the Andersons' very free paraphrase: beatniks': since ca. 1950. I suspect that dosh, as in Eng. dialect, is a var. of doss and that the speaker is hinting that he needs money for bed and lodging.

doshedl, l'm. A var., ca. 1870–1910, of l'm dashed. B. & L. Dosinghem. See Bandagehem.

doss (not before C.19); (after ca. 1850, rarely) dorse. A, and to, sleep; lodging; to lodge; a bed. All implying extreme cheapness and/or roughness: late C.18–20; vagrants', c. > ca. 1890, gen. s. (G. Parker, 1789; Mayhew.) Presumably imm. ex † dorse, doss, back; ultimately ex L. dorsum, the back. (Cf. dorse, v.)—2. Hence, to 'hang the time out', to loaf: telegraph-messengers' (1935). Still in use among young Londoners in the late 1970s: Ian Walker, in New Society, 13 Sep. 1979, reports a teenage football-supporter as saying, 'We never usually go out anyway during the week, just doss around.'—3. In do a doss, to go to sleep: low: from ca. 1850.

doss-bag. A hammock: R Aus. N: WW2. B., 1943.

doss-down, n. A very cheap lodging-house: low: from ca. 1880.

doss down, v. To sleep very rough: orig. low, from ca. 1880; by mid-C.20, gen. s., as in 'Can I doss down at your place tonight?', meaning 'Can you provide me with a proper bed, or, failing that, may I sleep on the floor, settee, etc.?'

doss-house. A very cheap lodging-house: low: from ca. 1880.

doss in the pure. To sleep in the open air: (mostly London) vagrants' c.: from ca. 1890; ob. Pugh.

doss-ken. A very cheap lodging-house: c.: from ca. 1800; †. Cf. dossing-ken.

doss-man. The keeper of a cheap lodging-house: low: from ca. 1825.

doss-money. The price of a night's lodging: low: from ca. 1870.

doss out. To sleep in the open air: low:—1923 (Manchon).

doss-ticket. A ticket for a night's lodging: tramps':—1887 (Baumann).

dosser. A frequenter of doss-houses: low: from ca. 1865. Whence (h)appy dosser, a homeless vagrant creeping in to sleep on chairs, or in passages or cellars: low:—1880 (Sims, How the Poor Live). Presumably ex happy but just possibly ex haphazard.—2. The dosser: the father of a family: from ca. 1885; †. He who provides the doss.—3. A regular old tramp: tramps' c.: C.20.—4. Hence, since late 1940s, any single, homeless person, usu. a man.—5. The 50 ring, which counts as a double, there being no 25-ring double: dart-players': since ca. 1930.—6. As in 'Boys are still anxious not to be swots [q.v.]. They prefer to be known as "dossers", who "mess about" in lessons' (Peter Wilby, reviewing Glenn Turner's Social World of the Comprehensive School in New Society, 10 Mar. 1983, p.390).

dossers' hotel. A casual ward: tramps' c.: C.20. F. Jennings, Tramping with Tramps, 1932.

dossing-ken or -crib. (Cf. doss-house, doss-ken.) A cheap lodging-house: c.: the former –1838; the latter –1851. See doss.

dossy. Elegant; smart: from ca. 1885. ?ex dosser, the ornamental cloth used to cover the back of a(n) imposing seat; or ex D'Orsay, for in Society, ca. 1830–45, one spoke of a man as 'a D'Orsay' (a perfect gentleman)—ex the Comte D'Orsay (Ware).—2. Soft; daft: low: C.20. "'Don't know what she ever saw in that dossy bastard'" (Brendan Behan, Borstal Boy, 1958). Perhaps cf. North Country dial. dossy, soft, dull.

dot. Do it: Society coll. of early C.18. Scourged by Swift (see Slang, p. 66).

dot, n. A ribbon. Hence, dot-drag, a watch-ribbon: C.19 c. Haggart, 1821.—2. Anus: low Aus.: C.20. (D'Arcy Niland, The Big Smoke, 1959, 'Shove it up your black dot'—said to a Negro).—3. See off (one's) dot; on the dot; year dot.

dot, v. To strike, gen. in form dot (a person) one, and esp. in sense 'give a black eye' (Ware): from the middle 1890s. W. Pett Ridge, 1895, Minor Dialogues; C.J. Dennis has dot (one) in the eye, to punch (a person) in the eye. Cf. the Anstey quot'n at onion, 2.

dot and carried. Married: rhyming s.: since ca. 1880. Cf. cut and carried. By 1925, †. Franklyn 2nd.

dot and carry (or go) one. A person with a wooden or a shorter or a limping leg. The mid-C.18–mid-19 form is go; the predominant C.19–20, carry, although go is by no means ob. here: coll. (Grose, 1st ed.; Barham.) Also as v.—2. An inferior writing or arithmetic master: late C.18–early 19. Grose, 2nd ed. Ex an arithmetical process.

dot(-)and(-)dash. Cash: rhyming s.: C.20. (Robin Cook, 1962.)

dot-drag. A watch-ribbon. See dot, n., 1.

dot. See doat.

dots. Money: from ca. 1880. Collective-pl. synonyms are numerous.—2. Sheet-music, as in 'you can switch repertoire at a moment's notice, which you can't if you're tied to "dots" — music — and the backing' (Aidan Foster-Carter, New Society, 14 Oct. 1982, p. 70): club entertainers'. Dr Kemp Fowler, of Sydney, remembers that, in Brit. in the 1950s, some folk musicians were very scornful of others who could 'read the dots' and who, therefore, did not extend their repertoire in the truly 'authentic' way, by oral tradition only. (Mrs C. Raab.)—3. See put dots on.

dotted line. See sign on the dotted line, to sign.

dotter. A penny-a-liner; a reporter: from ca. 1870; ob.

dotties man. A greedy or selfish man: proletarian: ca. 1885–1915. (Ware.) See doddies.

dottima; dottissima. Both are n. and adj. (An) eccentric (person), (a person) only slightly mad; dottissima, (one who is) completely mad: joc. medical: from ca. 1910; by mid-C.20, †. Ex dotty, 2, by mock Latin.

dotty. Weak; dizzy: sporting and gen.:—1870; ob. Esp. dotty in the pins, unsteady on one's legs. Perhaps ex dodder, v.—2. Hence, idiotic; (a little) mad: from ca. 1888.—3. As n., a low harlot's fancy man: c.:—1981.

doub, occ. written dubb. A double, e.g. two crows with one shot: Aus.: since ca. 1920. Jean Devanney, 1951.

double, n. A trick: esp. in C.18–19 tip, C.19–20 give the double, to run away from one's creditors, then, from ca. 1850, to escape; and in put the double on, to circumvent (—1870).

—2. An actor playing two parts; also v. (from ca. 1800 and soon S.E.): theatrical (—1825).—3. Repetition of a word or sentence: printers': from ca. 1870.—4. In c. a street-turning: from ca. 1870. Powis records the sense of 'a street' as still current a century later.—5. (Gen. a double.) Two score: fisheries' coll.: late C.19–20. (Bowen.) Ex double, a basket containing from three to four dozen fish.—6. A pimp's second woman: white-slavers' c.: from ca. 1902. Cf.—7. A pornographic picture of a man's and a woman's genitals: raffish coll.: since ca. 1920.—8. See come the double.—9. In make a double, to repeat a line or a sentence: composers' coll.: C.19–20. B. & L.—10. In on the double, (of doors, gates) double-locked: c.: C.20. George Ingram, Stir, 1933.

double, v. For the theatrical sense, see n., 2.—2. See double up.—3. To double one's effort or speed (v.i.): coll.: from ca. 1885.—4. (Of a pimp) to take a second woman: white-slavers' c.: C.20. Albert Londres, 1928. (Gen., v.t.) See the n., 6. double-ace poker. See kangaroo poker.

double act, do the. To get married, be married: low:—1923 (Manchon). Prob. ex run in double harness.

double-arsed. Large-bottomed: low coll. or a vulgarism: C.19–20.

double back. To go back on an action, statement, opinion: coll.: mid-C.19–20. Ex doubling back on one's tracks.

double-bank, n. and v. See double-banking.—2. See double-dink.—3. (Of a novice or trainee) to share an experienced man's job with him, in order to learn it; of, e.g., radio operators: army: since early 1940s. Hence, a double-banker, one who does this. (P.B.)—4. 'To have two strings to one's bow': coll.: since late 1940s; by ca. 1960, S.E., as in J.I.M. Stewart, 'Kipling's Reputation', in Rudyard Kipling, ed. John Cross, 1975. (P.B.) double-banked. 'Sleeping two in a cabin': nautical coll.: late C.19–20. (Bowen.) Ex a rowing-boat double-banked.

double-banking, n. (The fact of) two lines of vehicles going in the same direction: army coll. (1940) >, by 1945, j.

double barrel. A field or opera glass: from ca. 1880; ob. Traill.

double-barrelled. Applied to a harlot natural and unnatural (see fore-and-after): low: from ca. 1860.—2. Also to any person both normal and abnormal in sex: from ca. 1900.

double-barrelled padre. A naval chaplain who also carries out instructor duties: RN: ca. 1905–40. T.T. Jeans, John Graham, Sub-Lieutenant, RN., 1912.

double-blue. 'Amphetamine/barbiturate' (Home Office): drug addicts': current in 1970s.

double-bottomed. Insincere: coll.: C.19—early 20.

double-breasted feet, occ. double-breasters. Club feet: coll.: from ca. 1850; ob.

double-breasted water-butt smasher. A well-developed man; an athlete: Cockneys': ca. 1890–1914. Ware.

double Cape Horn. To be made a cuckold: nautical: late C.18—mid-19. (John Davis. The Post Captain, 1805.) Ex horns attributed to cuckolds. (R.H. Case's ed. of the novel; 1928.)

double carpet. Odds of 33 to 1: racing, esp. bookmakers': C.20. (Sunday Telegraph, 7 May 1967.) Ex carpet, n., 5.

double-choked. Extremely disappointed or disgruntled; utterly disgusted: since ca. 1950. L.J. Cunliffe, Having It Away, 1965, 'The bogies knew he had had it away but just couldn't pin the job on him. Which meant he was laughing and they were double-choked.' Cf. choked.

double clanger. The double chainwheel on a (racing) bicycle: cyclists: since ca. 1920. Ex 'the noise made by the chain shifting from one wheel to the other' (W. Woodman).

double-cross or -double. Winning, or trying to win, after promising to lose a race: sporting: from ca. 1870. The v. is double, double-cross, or put the double on, the last v.t. only: from ca. 1870.—2. Later, double-cross, etc., is much used by criminals for betrayal (n. and v.) in a criminal transaction: from ca. 1885: see passim, Edgar Wallace's detective novels.

double-crosser. The agent of the preceding: rare before C.20.

double-cunted. Sexually large: low coll. or vulg.: from ca. 1800.

double dash! Emphatic 'dash it!': Cockney:—1887 ob. Baumann.

double-decker. A ship having two above-water decks: from ca. 1870.—2. A tramcar or bus with seats on top as well as below: from ca. 1895. Both coll., the latter ex US.

double-deckers. A form of shackles for the feet, designed to tame the refractory: nautical ca. 1805–50. 'A most excellent invention for rubbing down the skittish or the refractory spirits of this enlightened age. The double-deckers may be administered in many ways. The best and by far the most efficient we have seen, consists of two square billets of good old oak, each weighing 10 or 12 lbs., to both of which is fastened a stout quarter-inch chain, ending in the usual ring for the ancles [sic]. They are put on at discretion, either with rivet or padlock. The chain must be of sufficient length to enable the culprit, in going or returning from labour, to take up his double-deckers under each elbow, and so walk with them.—Bill Truck.' Footnote on p. 705 of Blackwood's Magazine, Dec. 1825, writing of ca. 1815.

double-diddled or -dugged. Large-breasted. N., double dugs. C.19–20: the n. is low coll.; double-diddied, low s.; double-dugged, low coll.

double-dink, v. and derivative n. 'To carry a second person on the top bar of a bicycle. It is also a noun. Exchangeable terms are "dink", "donk", and "double-bank", both as verbs and nouns,' B., 1942: Aus.: since ca. 1925. Prob. the originating term is double-bank, and dink and donk are echoic variations. Cf. croggie.

double-distilled. (Esp. of a lie) superlative: coll.: Aus. since ca. 1840 (Baker), perhaps later in UK; ob.

double-drummer. A particularly noisy kind of cicada: Aus. children's: C.20. Cf. floury baker.

double Dutch. See Dutch, talk. Cf.:

double Dutch coiled against the sun. Unintelligible; nonsense: nautical: from early C.19. Alfred Burton, Johnny Newcome, 1818 (Moe).

double-ender. A skeleton key with a ward at each end: c.: mid-C.19–20; ob. 'No. 747.'

double event. Simultaneous syphilis and gonorrhoea (men), or defloration and conception: low: from ca. 1870.—2. A glass of whisky and a glass of beer: public-houses' (esp. in Glasgow): C.20.

double fair! Goes one better than fair enough!: since ca. 1950; ob. (L.A.) double figures, go into. To have 10 children at the least: lower classes' coll.:—1923 (Manchon).

double finn. A £10 note: low (? orig. c.): from ca. 1870. See finn and:

double finnip (etc.). The same: c.:—1839 (Brandon). See finnip.

double guts, n.; double-gutted, adj. (Of a) person large-paunched: low coll.; from ca. 1820.

double-headed. (Of a train) with two engines, one at the front and the other at the back: late C.19–20: railwaymen's coll., now verging on S.E. double-header. A coin with two heads: low coll.: from ca. 1875.

double-hocked. Having extremely thick ankles: low: from ca. 1860.

double home turn. 'Train crew lodging over-night at terminus and returning next day' (Railway, 2nd): railwaymen's coll.: since ca. 1945(?)

Double Hunts, the. 'New type of Hunt-Class Destroyers, twice the size of the old type' (Granville): RN: since ca. 1940.

double in brass. 'Originally vaudeville, [applied to] one who could perform his own act and also play in the orchestra; later, . . . do more than one thing' (Leechman): Can., adopted ca. 1950 ex US, where orig. circus (W. & F.).

double intenders. 'Knock-down blows—labial or fistful' (Ware): non-aristocratic (—1909); † by 1935.

double jug(g). The backside: late C.17–19. Cotton; Grose, 3rd ed.—2. In pl, the buttocks: C.17–20, ob. 'Melancholy' Burton.

double knocker. Twin camshafts: motorcyclists': since ca. 1950. (Dunford.)

double lines. Ship-casualty or casualties: nautical: from ca. 1870. (H., 5th ed.) Ex the manner of their entry at Lloyd's.

double-mouth(ed). (A person) large-mouthed, n. and adj.: coll.: C.29–20.

double on, put the. See double-cross.

double-ribbed. Pregnant: low coll.: C.19–20.

double rooty. A loaf of (English) bread: army in India (Other Ranks'): late C.19–1947. (Charles Allen, ed., Plain Tales from the Raj, 1977.) An extension of rooty.

double scoop. 'Hair parted in centre, and worn low—gave way to the quiff' (Ware): military: ca. 1890–5.

double-shotted. (Of a brandy, or whisky, and soda) containing twice the usual proportion of alcohol: coll.: from ca. 1860.

double shuffle. A hornpipe step in which each foot is shuffled, rapidly and neatly, twice in succession: coll.; from ca. 1830, esp. among costermongers. Dickens.—2. Hence a trick, a piece of faking: from ca. 1870.

double-shung. (Of men) excessively equipped sexually: C.19–20 (ob.): low. ? double-slung.

double slangs. Double irons or fetters: c.:—1812; ob. Vaux.

double-sucker. Abnormally developed labia maiora: low: from ca. 1870.

double-take; esp. do a ... A second look, taken because one doesn't credit the first: since ca. 1948. Originally, film-producers' j.

double talk. Such speech, hence such writing, as deliberately misleads, orig. with the interpolation of meaningless syllables; hence, deliberately ambiguous and tendentious political matter: adopted, ca. 1959, ex US: coll. >, by 1966, S.E.

double the cape. To get over a shock of any kind: nautical: late C.18–latish 19. Bill Truck, 1826.

double thumper. An 'outsized' in lies: from ca. 1850: coll.

double-tide work. Extra duty: C.19–20: coll., orig. coast-guardsmen's >, by 1880, gen. nautical. Bowen.

double-tongued squib. A double-barrelled gun: coll. G.W. Reynolds, 1864. Ob.

double u. Var. of w (q.v.), short for the w.c.

double up. To cause to collapse (v.i. sense is rare): boxing (ca. 1814). Moore, 'Doubled him up, like a bag of old duds.'—2. To pair off, e.g., in a cabin (rare as v.i.): coll.: 1837 (OED). H., 2nd ed. Occ. simply double.

Double Xs, the. The 20th Foot Regiment, since 1881 the Lancashire Fusiliers: military: C.19–20; ob. (F. & G.) Ex the figure XX.

doubled over like a dog fucking a football. Doubled right over: Can. soldiers': WW2.

doubler. A punch on side or belly: boxing: from ca. 1810. 'Peter Corcoran', 1821, 'A doubler in the bread-basket.'

doublet. A precious stone endorsed with glass: in C.15–17, it was S.E.; then it > c.—2. See iron d. and stone d., a prison.

doubleton. See TIDDLYWINKS, in Appendix.

doubt, toss it out, — when, occ. if, in. A pharmaceutical, esp. Aus., c.p.: C.20. (B.P.)

Douche Can Alley. Palmer Street, Sydney, Aus., formerly a brothel district: Sydneysites': ca. 1910–60. A douche can is, in Aus., popularly supposed to be used only—or, at the least, mainly—by prostitutes.

doudon. A short, fat woman: non-aristocratic:—1923 (Manchon). Perhaps cognate with the Wiltshire dowdy, stunted in growth (EDD).

dough. Pudding: Public Schools': C.19–20.—2. Money: orig. (—1851) US; then Can., since ca. 1870; Aus. since ca. 1880; and Brit. since ca. 1895. (Thornton);—3. A love-sick sailor: RN lowerdeck: ca. 1890–1935. (Knock.) Cf. doughy-nosed and dough-cock.

dough-baked. Deficient in brains: coll.: from late C.16; in late C.19–20, dial. Wycherley, 1675, 'These dow-baked, senseless, indocile animals, women.' Cf. half-baked.

dough-cock. A half-wit aboard as seaman: nautical: late C.19–20. Bowen.

dough-nut. (Gen. pl.) A Carley life-saving float: nautical: C.20. Bowen.—2. See golden doughnut.

Dough or Die Boys, the. The American 'Doughboys' (see next): late 1917–19, then merely historical. The dough (money) reflects the Tommies' very natural reaction to comparative wealth. A pun on do or die.

Doughboy. An American infantryman: US coll. (—1846), adopted in UK ca. 1917. Thornton; OED Sup., 'In allusion to the "large globular glass buttons of the infantry uniform"', which theory, originated by Mrs George A. Custer, is perhaps correct, but, after exhaustive research, Colonel Moe has found no supporting evidence.—2. (d.-.) A punch in the face: low: from ca. 1919. G. Ingram, Stir, 1933, has it in its usual form: give (a person) a doughboy.

doughy. A baker: coll.:—1823 (Bee; H., 3rd ed.) Cf. chips, dips.—2. Hence, the nickname of any man surnamed Baker: Services': late C.19–20. F. & G. doughy, adj. (Of complexion) pale or pasty: coll.: from ca. 1860; ob. (Ware.) Cf. underdone.—2. Dull, stupid: Aus.: C.20. Kylie Tennant, Lost Haven, 1947.

doughy-nosed. (Of a seaman) in love: nautical: late C.19–20. Bowen.

Dougie. A Douglas motorcycle (in production 1907–56): motorcyclists'. (Dunford.)

Douglas. An axe: Aus.: since ca. 1930(?). B., 1943.

doul. A fag (boy): Shrewsbury: C.19–20 (Marples.) Ex Gr. doulos, a slave. Cf. dowling.

douse, dowse, n. Rare, except in douse on the chops, a blow on the jaw: low: C.17–19. (Grose.) Cf. douser.

douse, dowse, v. To put, esp. down or (or a candle, lamp, etc.) out: low coll.: C.18–20, chiefly in douse the glim, put out the light. Scott; Reade.—2. To abandon, e.g. to take another name: lowerdeck: C.19. (Bill Truck, Feb. 1826.) Ex sense 1.

douse the glim. To put out the light, gen. imperative: orig., C.18 c.; 1840, it > s., mainly nautical. Ex glim, n., q.v.

douser, a heavy blow; dousing (dowsing), a thrashing: resp. late C.18–19 (Grose, 2nd ed.), C.19. Both, low coll.

Dove. A member of St Catharine's College, Cambridge: C.19–20; ob. Suggested by Puritan, q.v. See Whibley in Cambridge Wit.

dove-cote. 'The quarters allotted to officers' wives on ... the old Indian troopships': army: late C.19—early 20. F. & G.

dove-tart. A pigeon pie: coll.: from ca. 1850; ob. 'Cuthbert Bede'.

dover. A re-heated dish: hotels': from ca. 1870. (B. & L.) I.e. 'warmed over'.—2. A clasp knife: Aus.: latish C.19—mid-20. Wilkes, who records 'ex a brand name', and instances 'Flash your dover' as an invitation to prepare to eat.

Dover Castle boarder. A debtor compelled to sleep within the rules of the Queen's Bench Prison: debtors': ca. 1850–81,—the prison was demolished in 1881. Ex the Dover Castle, the most prominent tavern in that district. Ware.

Dover waggoner, put this reckoning up to the. (Gen. addressed to a landlord.) Score this up against me: a c.p. of ca. 1820–40. Bee, 'The waggoner's name being Owen, pronounced owing'.

Dovercourt beetle. A heavy mallet: nautical: mid-C.19–20. (Bowen.) By a pun.

Dovers. Shares in the London and Dover Railway: Stock Exchange coll. (now only historical): late C.19–20. (A.J. Wilson, Stock Exchange Glossary, 1895.) Dover As were gen. called Doras.

dovey, n. See lovey-dovey.

dovey or dovy, adj. Pretty; attractive; 'sweet': domestic, esp. feminine, coll.: from ca. 1890. Barry Pain, Stories in Grey, 1912, 'The very doviest white silk nightgown you ever saw.' Ex lov(e)y-dove(e)y.

dowb, take care of. See take care ...

dowdying. A drastic practical joke (pretending to be raving mad) practised in C.18 by one Pearce, nicknamed Dowdy ex the burden, dow de dow, of one of his songs. Grose, 1st ed.

dowlas. A draper: coll.: from late C.18. Ex the towelling so named; popularised by Daniel Dowlas, a character in Colman's The Heir at Law.

dowling. A compulsory game of football: Public Schools (—1871); ob. Ex the Gr. word for (a slave, or that for) to enslave. Desmond Coke, The Bending of a Twig, 1906, of the game as it is played at Shrewsbury School: 'Any number from three hundred down (or up) can play a dowling; but it often happens that in reality some half-a-dozen punt the ball from end to end, while all the rest troop after it, like soldier-slaves round the great warriors of Ilium. And dowling is compulsory.' Cf. the quot'n at skyte.

down, n. Alarm; suspicion; discovery: c.; ca. 1810–1900. Vaux.—2. Hence there is no down, there is no risk; all's safe.—3. A tendency to be severe towards: coll.:—1893 (SOD). Ex down on, be, 2. But cf.:—4. A prejudice against, hostility towards: Aus. coll.: from ca. 1850. (W.J. Dobie, Recollections of Port Phillip, 1856: Morris.) P.B.: in later C.20, Brit. also, esp. in such phrases as 'He's got a down on me, always has had, for no good reason that I can think of'.—5. A move to open the game: Aus. dominoes-players': C.20. B., 1953.—6. See Downs.—7. Inside information: market-traders': C.20. (M.T.) Ex low-down.—8. Also downer, downy. A barbiturate: adopted, ca. 1965, ex US. In Ruth Bronsteen, The Hippies' Handbook (American), 1967, downs were described thus: 'the beautiful thing about downies is that there's no come down ... you just go to sleep'.—9. See up and down.

down, v. To trick; circumvent: C.19–20 coll.—2. The sense, to bring, put, throw, or knock down, is—despite F. & H.—S.E., but down a woman, physically to prepare her for the act, is definitely low coll. if not s., from ca. 1850: cf. up, v.—3. 'To drink down, as in "I couldn't half down a pint"' (Petch, 1969): coll.: since ca. 1910. Cf. drop a pint.

down, adv. (often with adj. force). Esp. with to be: depressed; in low spirits: coll.: C.17–20. Ben Jonson, 'Thou art so downe upon the least disaster' (OED).—2. Wide-awake; suspicious; aware: low (?orig. c.): Vaux, 1812. Often with to, as in 'Down to every move' (Smedley, 1850). Cf. up to, aware of.—3. In be or come down, to be 'ploughed' in a university examination: Aus. coll.: 1886; ob. by 1930. Cf. send down, to expel from university:—1891.

down, adj. 'Engaged in fagging in the cricket field, etc. (Peculiar to College)': Winchester College coll.: from ca. 1860. Wrench.—2. Dead: Services': late C.18–early 20. Bill Truck, Sep. 1824.

down, prep. See WESTMINSTER, in Appendix.

down a pit, be. To be greatly attracted by a role: theatrical: from ca. 1860; †.

down along. (Sailing) coastwards down the English Channel: nautical coll.: mid-C.19–20. Bowen.

down among the dead men. Dead drunk: ca. 1850–1900. 'Cuthbert Bede', 1853.

down as a hammer; as a nail; as a tripper. To be alert, wide-awake, 'fly': c. The first, ca. 1810–1905 (Vaux; Moore); the second, ca. 1810–40 (J.J. Stockdale, The Greeks, 1817); the third, ca. 1810–40 (Vaux). Elaborations on down, adv., 2.

down below Nathaniel. Even lower than hell: ca. 1860–1915. Nathaniel being Satan, says Ware: but Nathaniel may be rhyming s. on hell.

down buttock and sham file. A common prostitute who is no thief. See buttock and tongue.

down by the head. Overloaded with work: MN: by 1960 at latest—but surely since a generation earlier? 'An overloaded vessel tends to be deeper in the water forward' (Peppitt). down-haul. See downhaul.

down(-)hills. Dice clogged to run low: late C.17–early 19: c. > low s. (B.E.) Cf. up-hills.

down in. Lacking in; short of: proletarian coll.: mid-C.19–20. (B. & L.) E.g. 'down in cash'.—2. Surrounded by hills and (usu.) trees; of a house in a valley: 'Yes, it's very nice, but it's a bit down in, don't you think?': coll.: C.20. (P.B.)

down in (one's) luck. See luck, 3.

down in the chops. Depressed; melancholy; sad: coll.: from ca. 1820; rare in C.20, when the form (as occ. from ca. 1850) is down in the mouth, with sense of dejected.

down in the forest something stirred. A c.p., referring to a consummated coition: domestic: since 1915, when Sir Landon Ronald's very famous song was published. See DCpp.

down in the forest something's turd. A Cockney c.p., dating from ca. 1920: evoked when a bird's dropping lands on someone; uttered by either the victim or an onlooker. A pun on the prec.

down like a hammer. Very prompt to act; peremptory, merciless: coll.: from ca. 1860. Cf. down on (someone) like . . . , q.v.

down like flies. Always with pl. subject, and v. go, to succumb to epidemic or other adversity: coll.: C.20 (? earlier). Presumably ex the effect of cold weather on flies that, paradoxically, thrive on the conditions in, e.g., 'The natives went down like flies to the effects of heat and fever'. (P.B.)

down on or upon, be. To be aware of, alertly equal to: from ca. 1790.—2. Hence, to pounce upon, treat harshly: s. (—1860) >, by 1900, coll. H., 2nd ed.—3. In get down on, to remove; appropriate; steal: Aus. low s. C.20. B., 1942.—4. In put a down on (more gen. upon) one, to inform on a person: from ca. 1800. Vaux.—5. See down upon.

down on his knees and at it! A male 'facetious exclamation at [the sight of] a man kneeling down to do a job of work' (L.A., 1974); hence a joc. ref. to a man performing a marital duty: since the 1920s.

down on (someone, something) like a ton o(f) bricks, be or come. To be very angry with someone, or some fault, as in 'The old man's mustard on safety precautions. If he catches you parked like that by the fire-doors, he'll be down on you like a ton o' bricks': coll.: C.20. An elab. of down upon a person, q.v. (P.B.)

down on (one's) luck. See luck, 3. Also down in (one's) luck.

down on the knuckle. (Almost) penniless. See knuckle, n., 4.

down on (one's) uppers. See uppers, 4.

down pin, be. To be indisposed; depressed: C.19. Extant in dial. Ex skittles.

down south, esp. with go or put. (Of money) to go or be put in one's pocket, hence to be banked: from ca. 1890.

down the banks, get. To fail: Anglo-Irish coll.:—1909. Ware, 'Probably the outcome of life amongst the bogs.' down the block. In punishment cells: prisoners' (Home Office): 1970s.

down the chute. In prison: Aus.: since ca. 1920. Baker.

down the drain. Lost; wasted: coll.: from ca. 1870.

down the drains. Brains: rhyming: late C.19–20.

down the hatch! 'Bung ho! (Pause). Down the hatch!': a drinking, esp. a toasting, c.p.: mid-C.19–20; orig., nautical. 'Often used as an encouragement when an unpleasant medicine has to be swallowed' (L.A., 1974).

down the Lane and/or into the Mo. (To take a stroll) in the Drury Lane district: Central London Cockneys': ca. 1850–1910. Mo derives ex the long-disappeared Mogul Music Hall. (Ware.) down the line. See all down . . .

down the mine. 'Buried' by a heavy wave that collapses suddenly and violently: Aus. surfers': since middle 1950s. (Culotta.) Perhaps ex the famous song, 'Don't Go Down the Mine, Daddy.'

down the nick. (Of a locomotive) short of steam: railwaymen's: C.20. Railway.

down the pan. Too far behind; done-for: motor-racers': from ca. 1922. (Peter Chamberlain).—2. A Cockney equivalent of down the drain, ruined with no chances left: since the 1930s. (Franklyn.) The pan is that of the water-closet, with perhaps a glance at up the spout.

down the plug. (Of a tender) running short of water: railwaymen's: C.20. (Railway, 2nd.) Short for . . . plug-hole.

down the road. Vulgarly showy: coll.: 1848 (Punch, cartoon caption: 'My eye, 'Arry, that's a stunning great-coat.'—'Ah! I flatter myself it's rather down the road'). Ex Mile End Road, says Ware. Obviously at first it meant 'splendid', at least in the eyes of the wearer. (E.P.; P.B.)

down the sink. Lost, wasted; squandered, misspent: C.20. Cf. down the drain and . . . the pan.

down the slot. (Of a slow train) diverted onto a side-line to allow faster trains to pass: railwaymen's: since ca. 1910. Railway.

down the Swanee. See Swanee.

down the wind, go. To be unfortunate. See weather.

down to dandy. Artful; excellent: low: from ca. 1860; ob. Cf. up to dick, at dick, n., 10, and door, 2.

down to it, get. See get down to it.

down to Larkin. 'Free: "Who's paying for this round?" "Shush! It's down to Larkin"' (Powis): 1970s. See larking, n., 5, which may be relevant.

down to the ground. Thoroughly; extremely well: coll.: from ca. 1865. Miss Broughton, 'Suited me down to the ground,' 1867. (OED.) In C.16–17 S.E., up and down.

Down Under. (In) the Antipodes: 1886 (Wilkes); coll. >, by ca. 1920, S.E.

down upon (occ. on) a person, be. To scold, reprimand severely: coll.: from ca. 1810. Scott, 'We should be down upon the fellow ... and let him get it well.'

down upon oneself, be or drop. To be melancholy: ca. 1810–60. Vaux.

downer. A sixpence: from ca. 1835. (Brandon, 1839; Whyte-Melville.) Ex Romany tavno, little one. Cf. tanner.—2. A knock-down blow: boxing; from ca. 1815; ob. Moore, 1819.—3. A heavy fall: the turf.—1923 (Manchon).—4. A bed: tramps' c.:—1935. Either ex down (cf. synon. feather) or ex get down to it.—5. A small unofficial strike: workmen's: since the early 1960s. Sunday Citizen, 4 July 1965: a news feature, 'He defends "downers".' Ex 'to down tools'.—6. Var. of down, n., 4, a prejudice or hostility, in its Brit. usage, as 'He's got a downer on me—I can't do a thing right for him'.—7. Var. of down, n., 8, a barbiturate tranquiliser or sedative: since ca. 1962 (addicts'); by 1965, gen. teenagers'. (B.H. Wolfe, The Hippies, 1968; Janssen, 1968.) Cf. uppers, 2, q.v.

downhaul. A greatcoat; a surtout: RN ratings': C.19; † by 1890. W.N. Glascock, The Naval Sketch-Book, 2nd series, 1834, at I, 51 (greatcoat) and 278 (surtout). (Moe.)

Downing Street. 10 in the game of House: C.20. (Michael Harrison, 1943.) Ex no. 10, Downing Street—the Prime Minister's metropolitan residence.

downish. Somewhat dejected: coll.: ca. 1670–1800.

downright, the. Begging, esp. as a tramp: tramps' c.: C.20. Whence on the downright, on the tramp, 'on the road': tramps' c.:—1932 (F. Jennings, Tramping with Tramps). Earlier, engaged in straight, unashamed begging: id. W.H. Davies, Autobiography of a Tramp, 1908, see, esp., ch. 24, 3rd para. Still current late 1970s (Toby: A Bristol Tramp ..., Bristol Broad-sides, 1979).

downrighter. A destitute person that, quite openly, goes in for begging: c.: C.20. W.H. Davies in a review by him in New Statesman, 18 Mar. 1933. Ex prec.

Downs. Shares in the Belfast & County Down Railway: Stock Exchange:—1895 (A.J. Wilson, Stock Exchange Glossary).

Downs, the. Tothill Fields Prison: c.: from ca. 1850; ob. Mayhew.

downstairs. Hell: C.19 coll. Barham, 'Downstairs ... old Nick.'—2. At low altitude (of aircraft). See upstairs, adv.

downy, n. An artful fellow: ca. 1820–80. (Pierce Egan; H., 5th ed.) See the adj. Perhaps associated with downy bird (W.), but imm. ex down on, be, 1: q.v.—2. A bed: from ca. 1850; ob. Trollope, 'I've a deal to do before I get to my downy.' Ex the down mattress. Hence, do the downy, to lie in bed.—3. See down, n., 8 downy, adj. Artful; very knowing: from ca. 1820. Moncrieff, 1823, 'You're a downy vov'; Dickens; H.J. Byron, the dramatist. Ex down, n., 1. Cf. downy, n.—2. Fashionable: ca. 1855–90. 'Ducange Anglicus.'

downy as a hammer. Var. of down as a hammer, q.v., very 'with it'. Boxiana, III, 1821.

downy (or D.) Bible. Douay Bible; tailors': from ca. 1860. Used as ref., like according to Cocker. B. & L.

downy bird or cove. A clever rogue (—1875, —1821 resp.). In pl, gen. the downies. (Egan; Leman Rede, 'the downiest cove'; Greenwood.) The bird form was suggested by a bird's down (cf. downy bit), but the downy is ex down, n., sense 1.

downy bit. A half-fledged wench: low: from ca. 1830; ob.—2. An attractive young girl: low: from ca. 1880.

downy earwig. A sympathetic person: c.:—1932 (F. Jennings, Tramping with Tramps).

downy flea-pasture. A bed: from ca. 1800. Cf. bug-walk.

downy. A lot; much: low; from ca. 1850; ob. (H., 1st ed.) Prob. ex the S.E. word.

downse. See douse.

dowsing. See douser.

Dox, the. The headmaster: Tonbridge School: from ca. 1860; † by 1900 at latish. (Marples.) Ex doctor on L. dux. See also arch, 3.

doxe, doxey, doxie. See doxy.

doxology-works. A church, a chapel: from ca. 1870; ob. Cf. gospel-shop and preaching-shop, qq.v.

doxy; also doxey, C.17–19, and doxie or doxey, C.17; occ. dobby, C.16, and doxe, C.16–17 (OED). In mid-C.16–18 c., a beggar's trull, a female beggar. (Harman, B.E., Grose.) Prob. ex Dutch docke, a doll: cf., therefore, dolly. W.—2. Hence, in late C.16–20 (ob.), a mistress, a prostitute. Chapman, Dunton, Grose.—3. Hence, in C.19 low s., esp. in London and among paterers, a wife. (Henry Mayhew.) Augustus Mayhew, Paved with Gold, 1857, notes that among London crossing-sweepers—prob. it holds good for ca. 1840–80—doxy is a girl, a young woman, however respectable. Cf. doll, n., 1. Dial. takes up two analogous ideas: a sweetheart (—1818); app. later a slattern or (pej.) an old woman. (EDD). This doxy lends point to the quotation in:—4. doxy, opinion: coll.; 1730. "'Orthodoxy, my Lord," said Bishop Warburton ... "is my doxy,—heterodoxy is another man's doxy."' (SOD.)

Doyle. See Paddy Doyle.

D'Oyly Carte. (A) fart: rhyming s. (Red Daniells, 1980.) Often simply D'Oyly, which, as R.D. points out, is confusable with paper table-mats.

Dozen, the Old. The 12th (from 1881 The Suffolk Regiment: army: C.19–mid-20. F. & G.

dozen, talk nineteen to the; ... thirteen to the. See nineteen to ...

dozenth. Twelfth: coll.; from ca. 1710. (Hence, the rare half-dozenth.) Cobden, 'Let me repeat it—if for the dozenth time.' (OED.)

'dozer or dozer. A bulldozer: Aus.: since late 1950s; orig., construction workers', but soon in gen. use. (B.P.)

dozing-crib. A bed: low (?c.): mid-C.19—early 20. Cf. kip, q.v.

dozy. Lazy; inefficient: orig. Guards' Regts' coll., later spread to the rest of the army. Lit., 'sleepy'. Often in the imprecation, to a dull recruit, 'You're an idle, dozy man!'—2. As a gen. coll., it means 'mentally somnolent': C.20.

Dr Brighton; Dr Jim; Dr Johnson. See Doctor Brighton ...

drab. Poison; medicine: low:—1851. Ex Romany, where drabengro (the suffix -engro=a man) is a doctor: see esp. Smart & Crofton and Sampson.—2. Despite F. & H., drab, a whore, a slattern, is S.E., as is the v.

drabbit! Abbr. (God rabbit!) An old, mainly dial., expletive. Cf. drat it!

drabby. An Indian transport-driver: army coll.: late C.19–20. Ex Hindustani.—2. Hence loosely, any transport-driver: military: WW1. B. & P.

drabs. 'A summer outfit of clothes' (B., 1943): RAAF: WW2. Prob. j., from the colour olive drab.

d'rac, drac. (Gen. in pl.) A card: back s. in C.20 c. (Charles E. Leach, On Top of the Underworld, 1933.) Also derac(k).

drach (pron. drāk). A drachma: among the English colony in Greece: late C.19–20. T.B. Marle, Candid Escort, 1936, "'Can you give me five drachs?" he asked.'

drack, n. A very plain female, esp. if lacking in personality: Aus.: since ca. 1950. Perhaps ex the adj. and certainly at least influenced by it, but prob. = Drac(ula): cf. Dracula, 2, q.v.

drack, adj. Inferior; (of person) uninteresting, plain-looking: low Aus.: since ca. 1930. (Ruth Park, 1950.) Yiddish? Cf. the Ger. Dreck, dung, muck (lit. and fig.). A drack sort is an unattractive person, opposite to good (superlative extra sort). Cf. drawers, drac(k), and drecky.

Dracula. A pathologist: hospitals': since ca. 1920. Ex the blood samples he takes. (Peter Sanders.)—2. A plain, esp. if uninteresting, girl: Aus.: since ca. 1950. Ex the legend of Dracula. (B.P.)

draft-dodger. A Serviceman who 'dodges the draft'—avoids being sent overseas: Services': WW2. (P-G-R.) Contrast the US sense, 'one who avoids conscription'.

draft on Aldgate pump. A spurious banknote; fraudulent bill: ca. 1730–1850. Fielding, who notes it as 'a mercantile phrase'; Grose; Bee.

draftie, -y. A conscripted soldier, one who has been 'drafted': army: WW1. Olive Dent, A V.A.D. in France, 1917, describing changing nursing shift at a field hospital: 'At other times it has been blowing a blizzard when we have exchanged duties, and then all we cry is "Goodnight", with occasionally the soldier cry, "Sorry you joined, draftie?"' drag, n. A late C.18–19 four-horse coach, with seats inside and on top. (In C.20, a break.) Orig. s. or coll., as Moore's Tom Crib, Reynolds's The Fancy, and Lever's Harry Lorrequer (1819, 1820, 1839) clearly show; it > S.E. ca. 1860. (In C.17–18 S.E., also a cart or wagon, whence the robbery senses.)—2. In late C.19–20 c., a van. Leach.—3. A chain: C.19 c.—4. A street or a road (—1851): low, mostly Cockney. Mayhew.—5. The robbing of vehicles: c., ca. 1780–1830. (G. Parker, 1781.) Now van-drag, q.v. Hence done for a drag, convicted for such robbery, and go on the drag (Grose, 1st ed.), to embark on, or to practise, such robbery: same period. But, from ca. 1850 (ob.), go on (or, more gen., flash) the drag, is to wear women's clothes for immoral purposes (in drag, thus dressed): low if not c. See also sense 10.—6. A trick or stratagem: C.19–20, ob.; low.—7. Three months' imprisonment: c.—1851 (Henry Mayhew; Charles E. Leach). Now rather three moon. This sense current in Aus. late C.19–mid-20, at least. (Wilkes.)—8. Its hunting senses are j.—9. An obstacle: coll.:—1887. Baumann, 'That's where the drag is.'—10. 'Petticoat or skirt used by actors when playing female parts. Derived from the drag of the dress, as distinct from the non-dragginess of the trouser' (Ware): theatrical:—1887. Perhaps rather ex go on the drag (see 5). Also as adj. Since ca. 1910, this sense has predominantly signified 'female clothing as worn by men', esp. among homosexuals.—11. An arrest that the criminal considers is unjustified: c.:—1935 (David Hume). Perhaps ex sense 9.—12. A motor-car: c.: since ca. 1920. An extension of sense 2.—13. A quick draw at a cigarette: Cockneys' and Services' since ca. 1920. H. & P.—14. A train; esp. a heavy freight train: Can. railroadmen's:—1931. With senses 1, 2, 12, 14, cf. 'The East Ender calls... all vehicles drags' (Richard Herd, 1957): London: since ca. 1945.—15. 'Pull'—influence with the right people: Can.: since ca. 1910.—16. Ex sense 13. A cigarette: mostly Services: since ca. 1925.—17. Anything or anyone boring or tedious: Can. and Brit. since ca. 1950, adopted ex US; orig. mostly 'beatniks' and young peoples' usage. Esp. in 'It's a drag!' or 'What a drag!'—18. 'A marijuana cigarette, (inhalation of its smoke)' (Home Office): Aus. since ca. 1955; Brit. drug-users' in 1970s. ?earlier. Ex senses 13 and 16.—19. Any act that requires a special effort: coll.: C.20. Cf. sense 17.—20. A dance or ball: Can., ca. 1925–30; since ca. 1950, Aus. and Brit. teenagers'. (B.P.)—21. A particular kind of dance, as in the number entitled 'Do' the Varsity Drag': Can. and Brit.: since ca. 1930. (Priestley.)—22. A casual female companion, as opposed to one's girl-friend: Aus. teenagers': since late 1950s.—23. That portion of winnings which one reserves for further play: Aus., esp. two-up, gamblers': C.20. Ex drag, v., 3. Tom Ronan, Vision Splendid, 1954, 'By the time I gave you the kip I had a few quid out of drags and showers'.—24. An invitation to race, and—25, the race itself: Aus. teenage motorists': since late 1950s. Ex drag, v., 4, q.v.—26. In on the drag, 'On the off-chance of attracting the attention of a customer' ('No. 747'): low or c.: from ca. 1840.—27. (Of Flying Squad cars) on patrol: c.: from ca. 1927.—28. In put on the drag, to go slowly, ease off; put the drag on (someone), to apply pressure, esp. to make him ease off or cease: coll.: mid-C.19—earlier 20.—29. See dragged, 2. drag, v. To rob vehicles: c. of ca. 1810–50. Vaux.—2. To arrest: c.: C.20. Edgar Wallace, passim.—3. V.i and t., to take a portion of the stakes in a gambling game as a reserve for future play: Aus. and NZ: C.20. Cf. drag, n., 23.—4. To challenge to, or to oppose in, a speed duel with cars: Aus. teenagers' (esp. surfers'): since late 1950s. Cf. drag strip. drag-cove. A carter: C.19, mainly Cockney and orig. c. Vaux.

drag (one's) feet. To be mean or 'stingy', as in paying for a sound of drinks: since ca. 1950. In Aus., commoner than have a snake in one's pocket. (Camilla Raab.) Cf.:

drag (one's) heels. To be either reluctant, or intentionally very slow, to co-operate or to do one's duty, and yet finally do so if encouraged: coll.: since ca. 1940. Ex a person trying to 'dig in' his heels as he is being hurried, or dragged, away. (A reminder, 1976, from L.A.)

drag-lay. The practice of robbing vehicles: late C.18—early 19 c. Also the drag. See drag, n., 5, and Cf. the C.20 dragging lark.

drag on. (Of a man) drag on a woman, to marry her: Aus.: since ca. 1910. B., 1942.—2. To undertake (a task): Aus. coll.: since ca. 1910. B., 1943.

drag queen. A male homosexual addicted to transvestism: since ca. 1930.

drag-race A contest, between drivers of specially built vehicles, to achieve fastest acceleration over a very short distance: poss. at first coll., but soon, by early 1970s, > informal S.E. Hence also as v., and vbl n. drag-racing. Cf. drag strip, and:

drag slicks. Racing-car wheels: Aus.: esp. Sydney, motor mechanics': since ca. 1950. (B.P.)

drag-sneak. A practised robber of vehicles: c.; late C.18–19. Parker, Mayhew.

drag strip. A short stretch (say a mile) of road on which teenagers try out or, esp., race their motorcycles or cars: Aus. teenagers': since late 1950s. (J.R. Westerway, 'The Rockers' in The (Sydney) Bulletin, 6 Apr. 1963.) Cf. drag, n., 24.

drag the chain. To be at the rear in a race or in a game (of, e.g., cribbage): NZ: C.20. Niall Alexander, letter, 1939, 'The ploughman's term to designate his slow horse that does not keep its chains tight'. Also Aus. (B., 1943). Often of a slow drinker. (Slatter.)

drag the pudding. To 'get the sack' just before Christmas: tailors': ca. 1870–1920.

dragged. Late for duty: army: late C.19–20; ob., superseded by pushed. (F. & G.) See ARMY SLANG, verse 1, in Appendix.—2. Behindhand with one's work: tailors': C.20. Also be in the drag.—3. Short for dragged out.

dragged, be. To be returned to a convict prison to serve the rest of one's sentence: c.: C.20. Edgar Wallace, Mr Reeder, 1925.

dragged out. Physically exhausted: coll.: from ca. 1860; ob. dragged up. (Rare in other tenses.) Ppl adj., educated, nurtured, brought up: from ca. 1690. Orig. Society s., B.E. remarking: 'As the Rakes call it'; in C.19–20 coll., and often in joc., deliberately illiterate form, 'Where was you drug up?' dragger. A vehicle thief: c.: late C.18–20. (George Parker; Charles E. Leach.) Ex drag, n., 5.—2. A fishing-boat using the otter trawl: Can. nautical coll.: C.20. Bowen.

dragging. The practice of robbing vehicles: c.: C.19. See drag, v., 1.

dragging (one's) arse along the ground (so's you could cut washers off it). Utterly exhausted: Can. army: 1914+. P.B.: not completely †; I heard the phrase on occasion, 1950–70, in the Brit. army.

dragging lark. The practice of stealing from motor-cars: c.: from ca. 1910. (Gilt Kid, 1936.) Cf. the earlier drag-lay.

dragging-time. The evening of a country fair day, when the young fellows begin pulling the wenches about' (H., 3rd ed.): provincial coll.:—1864.

draggle-tail. 'A nasty dirty Slut' (B.E.): coll.: late C.17–mid-19. See (anatomical) tail and cf. daggle-tail, q.v.—2.

Hence, a low prostitute: mid-C.19–20; ob. (H., 5th ed.) P.B.: SOD records n., 1, and adj. draggie-tailed, as S.E. from late C.16 and C.17, when the tail was understood as 'the tail of a skirt'.

draggy. Of persons, boring; of things and incidents, tedious: mostly teenagers': since ca. 1955. 'A lot of draggy housework' and 'Right draggy the whole thing was' (Dick Francis, Forfeit, 1968). Ex drag, n., 17.

dragon. A sovereign: low: ca. 1825–90. Ex the device. Maginn.—2. A wanton: C.17–19 coll. (Fletcher.) Cf. St George and ...—3. An old prostitute: low: since ca. 1959.—4. See blind dragon; water the dragon.

Dragon-Slayers, hence the Dragons. St George footballers': Sydneyites': since ca. 1920. B., 1943.

dragon (up) on St George, the. The woman on top in copulation. See riding St George.

dragons' teeth. A form of anti-tank obstacle, lines of small concrete truncated pyramids: WW2, then merely historical. H. & P.

dragoon it. To occupy two branches of one profession: coll.: mid-C.18–19. (Grose, 2nd ed.) Ex Army: orig. a dragoon was a mounted infantryman armed with a carbine (cf., in Boer War and WW1, the Aus. and NZ light horse).

drags on (someone), put the. To ask for a loan: Aus.: since ca. 1910. Baker.

dragman. A coachman: coll.: from ca. 1810; in C.20 S.E., ob. Egan.—2. A vehicle-thief: c., ca. 1810–1900. (Vaux; Mayhew.) Less gen. than drag-sneak.

drain. A drink: coll.; from ca. 1835. (Dickens in Boz.) Hence do a drain (cf. wet), to take a drink. Both, ob.—2. Gin: ca. 1800–80. (Lex. Bal.) Ex its urinate property.—3. The puendum muliebre; low: C.19–20.—4. A melancholy, affectionate cadger of bed and board: beatniks': since ca. 1958. (Anderson.) A drain on one's provender and patience.—5. As the Drain, the 'Waterloo & City Underground Railway under the Thames' (Railway, 2nd): railwaymen's: since ca. 1920.—6. In down the drain, lost, wasted: coll.: since ca. 1870.—7. See main drain...

Drain(-)pipe. RN nickname for an excessively thin man: C.20. Also Snak(e)y. Granville.

drain-pipe(s). Macaroni: schoolchildren's:—1887 (Bau-mann).—2. (Always in pl.) Short for drain-pipe trousers, particularly narrow-cut and tight-fitting trousers, part of the 'Teddy-boy uniform', worn with a long draped jacket: since ca. 1950. (P.B.)

drain (one's) radiator. (Of men) to urinate: Can. and Brit., an occ. joc. since ca. 1940. Cf. bleed (one's) turkey, an occ. earlier synonym, as also is drain (one's) snake.

drain the bilge. To be extremely seasick: R. Aus. N: since ca. 1915. B., 1943.

drainings. A ship's cook: nautical: ca. 1830–1910. Cf. slushy. (Bowen.) Cf.:

drains. A ship's cook: nautical: late C.19–20; ob.

drake; gen. in passive. To duck (a thief) in a pond: c.: ca. 1810–50. Vaux.

dram, dog's dram. See dog's dram.

dram-a-tick. A small glass of liquor served on credit: a late C.18–early 19 punning coll. suggested by the C.17–18 spelling of dramatic. (Grose, 1st ed.) Cf. dome-stick.

drammer. A partly sol., partly joc., form of drama: late C.19–20.

drank till he gave up his halfpenny. He (or I, we, etc.) drank till the onset of vomiting: low: ca. 1675–1770. Ray. (Apperson.)

drap. 'A nasty sluttish whore' (Egan's Grose): low: ca. 1820–50. A perversion of drab.

drape. A 'suit of clothes: prisoners' (Home Office): 1970s, adopted ex US. See drapes.

draped. Somewhat tipsy: Services officers': since 1939. (H. & P.) Draped about a friend or a lamp-post.

drapery miss. 'A girl of doubtful character, who dresses in a striking manner': non-aristocratic coll.: ca. 1870–1915.

(Ware.) Ex the S.E. sense explained by Byron in a note to XI, 49, of Don Juan. Cf. dress-lodger, q.v.

drapes; set of drapes. A man's suit of clothes: beatniks': since ca. 1958. (Anderson.) Adopted—and adapted—ex synonym. American drape.

drat! A mild expletive; occ. drat you, him, etc.; drat it!, curse it! Coll.: from ca. 1815; dratted, from ca. 1840. Dickens, 'Drat you, be quiet! says the good old man'; Mrs Henry Wood, 'That dratted girl.' Ex (God rot!: cf. Gad for God (W.).

draught. A privy: C.17–18. Coll., F. & H.; S.E., says the OED with reason.—2. A feeling of nervousness or vague fear: military (1918) >, by 1920, gen.; ob. (Lyell.) On wind up. See wind vertical.

draught on the pump at Aldgate, a. See draft.

draughters. Close-fitting, undivided knickers, the female counterpart of the male cheaters: since ca. 1920? They keep out the draught. Contrast dividers.

draughty. Nervous; (vaguely) afraid: military (1918) >, by 1920, gen.; ob. (Lyell.) Ex draught, 2, q.v.: cf. windy in the same sense.

draw. A drawn game: from ca. 1870; orig. coll.; in C.20, S.E.—2. In cricket, a stroke made with the bat's surface inclined downwards: from ca. 1860.—3. An attraction, whether newspaper article or a game, a play or a preacher: from ca. 1880; coll.—4. A person, from ca. 1810, or a thing, a decade later, employed to draw out (q.v.) a person.—5. One so 'drawn': from ca. 1885. OED.

draw, v.i. To attract public attention: coll.; from ca. 1870. Hawley Smart, 'He usually kept "his show" running as long as it would draw'; by 1900, virtually S.E.—2. V.t. To elicit information from: coll., 1857, Reade (SOD). More gen. draw out, q.v.—3. Flatter, tease, inveigle into vexation; hence, make game of: coll. From ca. 1859. Thackeray, 'The wags ... can always, as the phrase is, "draw" her father, by speaking of Prussia.'—4. In low coll., the sense in dog-drawn, q.v.—5. In c., to rob, pick the pockets of; steal: C.19–20. (Vaux.) Also draw (one) of, rob him of: Ibid.—6. In do you draw, do you take your daily tot of rum?: RN coll.: C.20. Granville.

draw-back (or solid). Something withheld; an assurance, a promise reneged: C.20. (F. Leech, 1972.)—2. Deliberate inhalation of cigarette smoke: smokers' coll.: since ca. 1930. In part a pun.

draw blanks. To fail; be disappointed: coll., C.19–20, ob. In S.E., draw a blank. Ex lotteries.

draw-boy. A superior article offered at a very low price: trade: mid-C.19–20, ob. (H., 3rd ed.) In 1970s commercial j., a 'loss-leader'.

draw (someone's) cork; draw a cork, or draw the cork of (someone). To make one's opponent's nose bleed: pugilistic: since ca. 1815; † by 1900. (Boxiana, II, 1818; Egan's Grose.) Cf. tap (one's) claret.

draw crabs. 'To attract fire from the enemy artillery by exposing oneself on ground under observation' (B. & P.): military: 1915. Ex crabs, body lice.

draw-fart, occ. prec. by doctor. An itinerant quack: low coll.: C.19.

draw for. To borrow money from, as in 'She drew him for a dollar': coll.; C.19–20, ob.

draw (one's) full issue. To be killed, esp. in action: army: WW1. Robert Graves, Goodbye to All That, 1929.

draw it mild! (Rare in other moods.) Expressive of derision; incredulity; supplication: coll.: 1837, Thackeray (OED); Punch, 1841; Barham; Aytoun & Martin. ?ex public-houses; cf. Barham's 'A pint of double X, and please to draw it mild' (W.).

draw-latch. A thief, esp. from houses: in C.14–15, S.E.; ca. 1560–1740, a member of an order of rogues (B.E.); in mid-C.18–early 19, any house-robbler (Grose, 1st ed.). The sense 'loiterer' is S.E.

draw of. See draw, v., 5.

draw off. V.i., to throw back the body in order to hit the harder: orig. (ca. 1860) pugilistic s.: in C.20, gen. coll. (H., 3rd ed.) Cf. the nautical haul off.—2. V.t., with var. draw one's fireworks, to cool a man's ardour by lying with him: a low, woman's term: C.19–20; ob Cf. cooler.—3. (Mostly of males) to urinate: euph. coll.: C.20.

draw out. To cause to talk, give an opinion; elicit information: coll.; from ca. 1775. Cf. draw, v., 2. Ex drawing a badger (W.).

draw pig on pork. To draw post-dated cheques: commercial: ca. 1810–80. J.W., Perils, Pastimes and Pleasures, 1848.

draw plaster. To angle for a man's intentions: tailors'; from ca. 1850; ob.

draw straws; or (one's) eyes draw straws. To feel sleepy. See straws, 2.

draw teeth. To wrench the handles and knockers from street doors: ca. 1840–70. Orig. and chiefly medical students'. (Gen. as vbl n. drawing teeth.)

draw the bow up to the ear. See bow up...

draw the cork. See draw (someone's) cork.

draw the crow. To experience (an outstanding piece of) bad luck: Aus.: since ca. 1910. (Rats, 1944.) Contrast a regular crow, a great success.

draw the King's or Queen's picture. To manufacture counterfeit coins: from ca. 1780; c. (Grose, 2nd ed.) After ca. 1860, perhaps s. In C.20, ob.

draw the line. 'To lay down a definite limit of action beyond which one refuses to go' (SOD): from ca. 1885: coll. >, ca. 1933, S.E. Baumann.

draw the line at tick. (Of a woman) to be virtuous: serio-comics', esp. lady singers':—1909; ob. Ware, 'A covered allusion to the textile fabric used for the covering of beds and mattresses.'

draw the long bow. To exaggerate; to tell unlikely stories: coll.: from ca. 1668 (L'Estrange); in C.20, S.E. A C.19–20 var. is pull..., as in 'What is it that makes him pull the long-bow in that wonderful manner?' (Thackeray).

draw water. To weep: coll.: ca. 1820–90. Emily Brontë, Wuthering Heights, 1847.—2. In the late C.19–20 RN, it is used, as a coll., thus: 'He draws too much water for me'—outranks me.

draw wool or worsted, v.t. and i. To irritate; to foment a quarrel: tailors': C.19–20; ob.

drawback. See draw-back.

drawer, out of the top. See top drawer, out of the.

drawer-on. An appetiser (not of drink, which has puller-on): coll., other senses being S.E.: C.17–20, ob.

drawers. (Only in pl.) Stockings, esp. if embroidered: c.: mid-C.16–18. (Harman, Head, Grose.) The origin? Perhaps it is because one draws them on and off.

drawers drac(k). Underpants of the official issue pattern, healthy, but uncomfortable, to wear: army: since ca. 1960. Ex Dracula, and mocking the standard army j.

drawing. A picture in water-colour: artists': from ca. 1870. B. & L.

drawing a pint. Using the controls of an aircraft: RAF: since ca. 1939. H. & P., 'An action similar to that employed behind the public bars.' Cf. beer-lever.

drawing up the verbals. 'Det. Williams said it meant completely misinterpreting what a person said' (Evening Standard, 30 Jan. 1962): police: since ca. 1930. Ex the preparation of 'verbal reports'? See verbal.

dread. 'A Jamaican teenager with dark glasses and a big woolly hat' (R.S. citing the Daily Telegraph of 6 Jan. 1977): since early 1970s. Cf. tea-cosy mob, and dreadlocks. Dick Hebdige, Subculture, 1979, p. 145, "Dread" is a polysemantic term. It seems to encompass righteousness, Biblical "wrath" and the fear inspired by that wrath.'

dread! Drat!, as in 'Dread the fellow!': Cockney:—1887; ob. Baumann.

dreaded lurgi, the. 'Any malaise or minor ailment. A straight quotation from "The Goon Show" ... I feel that there is certainly room for a learned monograph... on "The Influence of the Goon Show on the English Language", for the influence has indeed been widespread and lasting. "Dreaded" is also often applied, humorously and affectionately, to people, as in, on his perhaps unexpected appearance, "Why! it's the dreaded Jim Bigam!"' (P.B., 1974.) This programme was promoted by Michael Standing, BBC's Director of Variety, 1945–53. The Goons—orig. Crazy People—included, during the opening period, Peter Sellers, Harry Secombe, Michael Bentine, and Spike Milligan; by the 2nd series it was 'The Goon Show'. It 'stood the supposedly real world on its head'; 'under [Peter] Eton it prospered'. Spike Milligan scripted many numbers, but the show 'came to an end because Milligan had become fed up with it'. It ended very early in 1960. Quotations from Barry Took's delightful, lively Laughter in the Air, 1976.

dreadful, n. A sensational story, article, print: coll.; from ca. 1884; ob. Earlier and more gen., penny dreadful, q.v. Cf. awful and shocker.

dreadful, adj. Very bad, objectionable, etc., etc., etc.: coll.: from ca. 1860.

dreadful, as adv., was in C.17–early 19 S.E.; since, sol. (OED.)

dreadfully. Very: coll.; from ca. 1600. Cf. awfully, bloody, terribly.

dreadlocks. 'The long, plaited hair worn by some Rastafarians was originally intended to reproduce the "ethnic" look of some East African tribes' (Dick Hebdige, Subculture, 1979): orig., the wearers' > by later 1970s, gen. (P.B.) dreadnought. A male pessary: low: from 1908.—2. A very high, stiff corset: low: from ca. 1909; ob.

dreadnoughts. (Like the prec., ex the battleship.) Close-fitting (gen. thick) woollen or flannel female drawers: from 1908; low. Later, 1940+, an ATS and QAIMNS synon. of the Wrens' E.T.B.s (Elastic Top and Bottom).

Dreado. HMS Dreadnought: RN: early C.20. ('Taffrail'; Bowen.) Nought=0.

dream, a. A very delightful or agreeably odd person: coll.: C.20, chiefly among either the nation's youth and girlhood or romantic women. (As applied to things, even lovely dresses, it is S.E.)—2. Six months in prison: Aus. c.: since ca. 1920. B., 1942.—3. See wet dream.

dream-boat. An attractive young man: girls' and young women's: adopted ex US late 1950s; ob.

dreamy. (Of a man) very attractive: id.: since ca. 1965. Cf. dream, 1, and prec.

dreamy REME. See Reemy.

drecky. Rosten, Jays of Yiddish, 1968, defines dreck, 'of grossly inferior quality', ex Ger. for 'shit(ity)'. Angela Carter, reviewing filmstars' autobiographies, in New Society, 20 Dec. 1979, writes, 'I can only conclude that she penned her sniggering memoirs in order to give her drecky movies ... an extra touch of notoriety.' (P.B.) Cf. drack.

dredgerman. A sham dredger-man, actually a thief:—1857 ob. See esp. Dickens' 'Down with the Tide', in Reprinted Pieces. (Dickens's knowledge of unconventional English is very extensive, almost irreproachable.)

dredgy. A drowned sailor's ghost: nautical: late C.19–20. (Bowen.) Because his corpse runs, or had run, the risk of being brought up by a dredge.

drag. One of the lowest of the low: Public Schools': C.20. By back-formation ex S.E. dregs.

druggy. Adj. ex prec.: id. (P.B.)

dress. At Winchester College, the players that come next in order after six or fifteen: because they attend matches ready to act as substitutes: from ca. 1850.

dress, v., more often dress down. To beat, thrash; hence, scold severely: coll.; from ca. 1660. Mrs Centlivre, 'I'll dress her down, I warrant her.' I.e. to 'set to-rights' (W.). See also dress.

dress a hat. To practise a concerted robbery, from employers and by employees: low:—1864; ob. See esp. H., 3rd–5th edd.

dress down. See dress, v.

dress-fencer. (A tramp or pedlar that is) a seller of lace: c.: C.20. 'Stuart Wood', Shades of the Prison House, 1932. dress for the part. To be hypocritical: theatrical (ca. 1870) >, 1880, Society coll. Ware.

dress-house. A brothel: from ca. 1820; ob. Implied in Bee. Cf. dress-lodger.

dress in, v.i. To dress ready to play in a game: Winchester: from ca. 1850. See dress, n.

dress-lodger. A woman lodged, boarded, and (gen. well) dressed by another, whom she pays by prostitution: from ca. 1830; ob. (Social-reform Kidd, 1836.) T. Archer, The Pauper, the Thief, and the Convict, 1865, notes, 'The West End name for prostitutes.' Cf. drapery miss, q.v.

dress the nuts off. To reprimand (someone) severely: prob. orig. army: since ca. 1910. Cf. dress down, at dress, v., and chew the balls off.

dress to death (later to kill) or within an inch of one's life. To dress ultra-smartly: coll.:—1859 (H., 1st ed.).

dressed like Christmas beef, (be). Dressed in one's best: ca. 1870–1940. Ex a butcher's shop on Christmas Eve.

dressed to (or up to) the knocker (or the nines). In the height of fashion. See knocker, up to and nines, to the.

dressed up like a dog's dinner, (all). Wearing one's best uniform: Services', esp. army: since ca. 1925. P-G-R.

dressed up like a sore finger. Too elaborately dressed: Aus.: from ca. 1912.

dresser. Dress-circle: Oxford undergraduates':—1940 (Marples, 2). By the 'OXFORD -ER'.

drassing, gen. drassing-down. A thrashing; a severe scolding or reprimand: coll.; and from 1760s. Jane Austen, 'I will give him such a dressing.' See also dress down.

dressy. Fond of dress: 1768.—2. Very smartly dressed: —1834.—3. Of clothes, extremely fashionable: 1818. All three—the first appears in Goldsmith—were orig. coll., but a generation later they were S.E. OED.

drift, n. As in "'just off for an afternoon's drift" (He meant an afternoon of making love)' (Stephen Piper, The North Ships, 1974): trawlermen's.—2. In on the drift, on the tramp: Aus. coll.: C.20. B., 1942.

drift. To go, walk: mostly Public Schoolboys' and Society coll. (from ca. 1905) now [1930] verging on S.E. (Collinson.)

drill, the; occ., the right drill. The correct way to do anything: Army—by 1942, also RAF—coll. (mostly officers): since ca. 1910. (H. & P.; Jackson.) A man that knows his drill must be good.—2. Hence, the appropriate course of action, as 'Right! What's the drill now, then?': Services': WW2 and after. (P.B.)

drill, v. To entice by degrees: c.: late C.17—mid-18. (B.E.) Ex the patience exercised in drill, or that in using a drill.—2. (Of a man) to feel a woman's genitals: C.18–20.

drill a hole in. To shoot a person with a rifle, also—in WW1—with a machine-gun: from ca. 1830. The p.ppl passive drilled, without complement, occurs in Marryat's Peter Simple. Both are coll.

drill pig. A drill instructor: orig. Guards' Regts', since ca. 1910; by the time of National Service, 1948–62, the term had spread throughout the army and to the RAF. Applied esp. to those NCO instructors who are excessively officious and 'regimental'. Gerald Kersh, They Die with Their Boots Clean, 1941. (P.B.)

drilling. 'Punishment by way of waiting, applied to needlewomen who make errors in their work' (Ware): work-people's:—1885; ob. by 1930.

drink, n. 'Euphemism for blackmail payment or money bribe. "There's a drink in it for you" may mean there will be such payments; "Does he drink?" may mean "Is he willing to be bribed?"' (Powis): c.: since (?) ca. 1950. Piers Paul Read, in a glossary accompanying his article on 'The Great Train Robbers' in the Observer col. sup., 16 Apr. 1978, defines drink as 'Reward for services rendered by police, solicitors, witnesses or criminals. Usually not less than £50, but because of the vast sums involved in the Train Robbery [of drink, v. To supply with drink (water or stronger): coll.: ca. 1880–1930. OED.—2. To take water for the locomotive: Can. railroadmen's:—1931. Humorous.

1963], a drink escalated to £20,000.' 'A "big drink" can be £20,000 or more; a "soppy drink" between £20 and £50, depending on the size of the original theft' (Simon Hoggart, 'The Diabolical Liberty ... Observer, 15 Aug. 1982). Cf. the same basic idea in the Chinese chajian, lit. tea-money, = a bribe, and the Fr. pourboire, a tip in this sense. (P.B.)—2. As the Drink, the sea: RAF: orig., from ca. 1925, the English Channel; in WW2 and since, the ocean generally. (H. & P.; P-G-R.) Cf. (the) Ditch.—3. As the drink, water: London Fire Brigade: C.20.—4. See DRINKS, in Appendix.

drink by word of mouth. 'I.e. out of the bowl or bottle instead of a glass' (Grose, 2nd ed.); drinkers': late C.18—mid-19. Extant in dial.

drink hearty! A coll. nautical toast: mid-C.19–20.

drink like a beast. To drink only when thirsty: late C.18–19. (Grose, 2nd ed.) Contrast drink like a fish, and cf. such phrases as Adam's ale and what the lions drink, both = water.

drink like a fish. To be constantly drinking (not innocuously): coll., from ca. 1640; in C.20, S.E. Cf. C.17–19 drunk as a fish. See esp. Apperson, who also records the C.19 var. drink like a funnel. Cf.:-

drink like a lord. To drink hard: proverbial coll.: C.17–18. Hence drunk as a lord.

drink out of a nigger's clog. To be intemperate: Liverpool: since ca. 1945.

drink the three outs. To drink copiously: a coll. c.p.: C.17. Two specific meanings: S. Ward, 1622, 'Wit out of the head, Money out of the purse, Ale out of the pot'; T. Scott, 1624, 'To drink by the dozen, by the yard, and by the bushell'. OED.

drink with the flies, n. and v. (A) drink by oneself: Aus. coll.: C.20. Cf. Jimmy Woodser.

Drinking Parliament. See Drunken Parliament.

drinker. 'Unlicensed drinking premises or "drinkers" (less commonly but still referred to as "shebeens" or "blues")' (Powis); police and frequenters': 1970s.

drinkies. A drinking party: middle-class young women's: early 1980s. (Simon Hoggart, New Society, 10 Mar. 1983, p. 384.) Ex the nursery usage.

drinking out of a damp glass, orig. and usu. prec. by from. A c.p. applied to one whose voice is hoarse: C.20. (R.H. Mottram, The Spanish Farm Trilogy, 1927.) In later C.20, sometimes heard as a joc. reason from one having caught a cold. (Petch; P.B.)

drinkite. Thirst: 1864 (Surtees, Mr Romford's Hounds); † by 1900. Cf.:-

drinktite. Thirst, but on the drinktite is 'on the drink': East London:—1909; ob. (Ware.) Cf. bite-etite.

drinks. Medicine: hospital nurses':—1933 (Slang, p. 191).

drinks on, have the. To have (a person) at a disadvantage: lower classes':—1923 (Manchon).

drip, n. Nonsense: C.20, poss. earlier: Public Schools', then, from ca. 1920, gen. For semantics, cf. bilge and S.E. drivel.—2. Hence, a simpleton, a 'stupid', a 'wet', a bore: coll.: since ca. 1920.—3. A complaint: RN: since ca. 1910. John Winton, H.M.S. 'Leviathan', 1967.—4. 'Sloppy' sentiment; a person 'sloppily' sentimental: since ca. 1930. Berkeley Gray, Mr Ball of Fire, 1946.—5. In on the drip, engaged in hire-purchase: retail commercial world, perhaps orig. among secondhand-car dealers: since ca. 1950. (Woman's Own, 28 Feb. 1968.) Cf. on the knock and on the never-never.

drip, v. To talk nonsense: Public Schools', since late C.19; by ca. 1925, gen. coll.—2. To complain, to 'grouse': RN: since ca. 1910. Granville.—3. To be stupid, to be a bore, to be 'wet': Public Schools': since late C.19. See quot' in wet dream, 2.

drip-pan. Var. of dripper, 3, a 'grouser': RN. Granville.

dripper. A venereal gleet: late C.17—early 19: low coll. B.E.—2. 'Old prostitute past her best (and no longer controller of her emissions', as in the glossary to G.F. Newman, Sir, You Bastard, 1970: low: since ca. 1930.—3. A bore or an inveterate 'grouser': RN: since ca. 1930. H. & P.

dripping. A cook, esp. a bad one: ca. 1860–1930. (H., 3rd ed.) Cf. slushy.

dripping for it. (Of a woman) inflamed with lust: low: since ca. 1910.

dripping tight. Completely drunk: lower classes:—1923 (Manchon). I.e. 'soused'; an intensive of tight, 5.

driss. An occ. form of driz, q.v.

drive, n. A blow; a punch; a kick: coll.: from earlyish C.19. Sessions, May 1839.—2. Energy and initiative: coll., from ca. 1905; by 1930 virtually S.E.—3. Also as do a drive, to be (nearly) late for roll-call: Felsted School: from ca. 1880. Marples.

drive, v. To irritate (someone) intensely: Australian teenagers: since ca. 1950. (Dick.) Perhaps elliptical for 'drive mad' or 'drive crazy' or 'drive up the wall'.

drive a quill. 'To work in an office', C.J. Dennis: Aus. coll.:—1916. Ex the lit. S.E. sense (to write), recorded 120 years earlier.

drive at (or on) the limit. 'Driving [a racing-car] as close as possible to the car's optimum performance is called "driving at (or on) the limit" (Now!, 2 Nov. 1979).

drive blue. To drive 'all out': motor racers: from ca. 1920. (Peter Chamberlain.)

drive French horses. To vomit: mid-C.19—early 20. Ex the hue don! of French carters. See calling for Bill...

drive hogs. See drive pigs...

drive into. (Of the male) to coit with: low coll.: C.19–20.

drive pigs (or hogs) to market. To snore: coll.: C.18—early 20. (In C.19–20, mainly dial.) Origin explained in Swift's 'Tgad he fell asleep, and snored so hard, that we thought he was driving his hogs to market'. New Zealanders (late C.19–20) say drive the pigs home, esp. driving...; hence, the C.20 allusive var. drive them home.

drive tab. 'To go out on a party of pleasure with a wife and family' (Grose, 1st ed.): ca. 1780–1830. Perhaps ex tabby, an old maid.

drive the train. 'To lead a number of squadrons' (Jackson): RAF: since ca. 1938. Cf. traindriver, q.v.

drive to the book. To make (someone) give sworn evidence: C.15–18; coll., soon S.E. Cf. bring to book.

drive to the last minute. To protract or defer as late as possible: coll.; from ca. 1880.

drive (oneself) to the wash. To drive in a basket-chaise: C.19.

drive turkeys to market. To be unable to walk straight: semi-proverbial coll.:—1869 (W. Carew Hazlitt).

drive (someone) up the wall. To send him mad (well, almost): since the mid-1940s.

Driven From Home. The Diamond Fields Horse: army pun on the initials: S. African War, 1899–1902. J. Milne, The Epistles of Atkins, 1902 (P.B.).

driver. One who compels his employees to do more work for the same wages: s. (1851, Mayhew) >, by 1900, coll. OED.—2. A captain notorious for crowding-on all possible sail: nautical coll.: mid-C.19–20; ob. Bowen.—3. A pilot: RAF: since ca. 1929. (Sgt-Pilot Rhodes, letter, 1942.) 'Taken over from the RNAS' (Partridge, 1945): Jackson points out that it is an old Navy custom to refer to the captain of a ship as the Driver; and, as W/Cdr R.P. McDouall tells me, 17 Mar. 1945: "'Drivers, airframe" is what pilots are called by navigators.' P.B.: this last piece of humour lasted until at least the early 1950s.

driver op. A wireless operator, capable also of driving (usu. an armoured vehicle): army, orig. coll. abbr., soon > j., WW2 and after. (P-G-R; P.B.) driver's pint. A gallon: army: late C.19—early 20.

driz. Lace. Hence driz fencer, a seller of lace; a receiver of stolen lace, hence of other material: c.: from ca. 1810. (Vaux, Mayhew.) Occ. driss.

driz(-)kemesa. A lace shirt: c. of ca. 1830–70. Ainsworth, Rockwood, 1834, 'And sported my flashest toggery... My thimble of ridge, and my driz kemesa' (EDD).

drizzerable. Unpleasantly damp: C.20. (A.H. Dawson's Dict. of Slang, 1913.) A blend of drizzling + miserable.

droddum. Buttocks; breech: low: from ca. 1860. B. & L.

Drogheda Light Horse, the. The 18th Hussars: military: C.19–20; ob. (F. & G.) Ex its first colonel, Lord Drogheda, who died in 1819. For their successors, see Three and Eights.

droggy or drogy, a hydrographic officer; Droggy, the Hydrographer of the RN; also as a nickname: RN: since ca. 1910. The 2nd occurs in John Winton, We Saw the Sea, 1960. A conflation of 'hydrographer'.

dromack(k)y. A harlot: North of England s.; ca. 1830–1900. Ex (a strolling actress that used to play the part of) Andromache.

drome. An aerodrome: 1914: coll. >, by 1930, S.E. OED Sup.

dromedary. A (bungling) thief; hence, 2, a burglar: resp., late C.17–18 c., C.18 c. or low s. Also, in sense 1, purple dromedary, late C.17–18 c. In C.19–20 dial. (ob.), as in C.16–17 S.E., a dull or stupid person. Ex the dromedary's ungainliness.

dromestoners. 'The men who clear the aerodromes before runways are laid down' (H. & P.): RAF: since ca. 1930.

drommerars, -ers. See drommerar.

drone. A rear-gunner: RAF: 1939+. (Jackson.) Except (what an except) during an attack he sits and sits.

drong. A shortening of drongo, 2: Aus.: since the late 1930s. (B.P.)

drongo. A new recruit: Aus. airmen's:—1943. Immediately ex:—2. An ugly fellow; a 'bastard': low Aus., esp. Sydneyites: since ca. 1925. (Ruth Park, Poor Man's Orange, 1950.) Sydney's Sunday Herald, 28 June 1953, defined him as 'a lazy and usually undesirable human being'. 'Perhaps from a racehorse called Drongo, whose performances on the track were disappointing' (Sidney J. Baker); the horse got its name from the Australian bird called the drongo. Since ca. 1950, a widely used term of dislike. 'In Australian slang a drongo is a bit of a galah, a goat or a no-hoper... Drongo... raced on Melbourne tracks from 1924 to 1926. Drongo was a good galloper, but... second-rate... Any who arouses the contemptuous disapproval of an Australian is apt to be described as a bloody drongo' (Jock Marshall & Russell Drysdale, Journey among Men, 1962, p. 91).

droob. A dull person: low Aus.: since ca. 1944. (Ruth Park, 1950.) A blend of drip + boob. Occ. spelt drube. Hence adj., drooby (Wilkes).

droog. A hooligan imitating, in costume and violence, the hooligans of A Clockwork Orange, the film based, early 1970s, on Anthony Burgess's strange and moving novel (1962). Ex the Russian-based argot of the book; the word enjoyed a certain popularity during the period in which the film was being shown.

drool, v. Often as vbl n., drooling. To loiter; to waste time: Aus.: since ca. 1930. (B., 1942.) Ex S.E. drool, 'to dribble at the mouth'.

droolin' with schoolin'. See CANADIAN..., in Appendix.

droop-snoot, the. In March 1967 Mr Ramsey Spencer sent me the following note: 'There was in the late 1950s an experimental delta-wing supersonic aircraft flying at RAE Farnborough, which, because its nose could be lowered at an angle to improve the pilot's field of view when landing, was known as "the droop-snoot"—and very odd it looked.'—2. The sobriquet was later applied to the Anglo-French supersonic airliner Concorde, which can lower its nose.—3. As droopy snoot, it refers to the handlebar fairing and screen on a streamlined motorcycle: motorcyclists': 1970s. (Dunford.)

drooper. A drooping moustache: Cockney coll.: from ca. 1880. (Pugh.)

droopers. Sagging breasts: Aus.: since ca. 1930. Cf. prec.

droops, the. A sinking or droopy feeling; lassitude: coll.: from ca. 1912. A London underground-railway advertisement of 1935 ran: 'Down those mid-morning "droops" with tea. You'll be better for a cup at 11 a.m.'

droopy drawers. 'A girl... who habitually looks undecided in tacking day-to-day living, [a tendency] often reflected... in dress' (L.A.): orig. and mostly lower-middle class: C.20.

drop, or rather the drop, n. Same as drop-game, q.v. Vaux, 1812.—2. A receiver of stolen goods: c. (—1915). OED Sup.—3. A tip to a docker: nautical: C.20. Bowen.—4. Hence, a tip: transport-workers' (—1935) and underworld's (—1936), the latter in Curtis, Gilt Kid. P.B.: see esp. Muvver, p. 21, for a thorough analysis of all the term's monetary nuances.—5. A 'backhander' or 'take off' given by civilian victuallers to RN stores personnel: prob. since late 1940s. The Times, 14 Nov. 1972, contained a report on RN catering frauds. (Peppitt).—6. 'Place at which a letter carrier has to deliver mail' (Leechman): Can. post-office employees': since ca. 1960. Semantically, not ex US, but perhaps ex—7. Worldwide c. for 'a covert address or place where messages or money can be left for a third person' (Powis): since (?) ca. 1950.—8. In the new or, in C.19, last drop, 'A contrivance for executing felons at Newgate, by means of a platform, which drops from under them' (Grose, 2nd ed.): ca. 1780—1900; coll.—9. See cop the drop; take the drop; fabulous drop.—10. In give (some one) the drop, to give him the slip: coll.: C.18. Mrs Centlivre (OED).

drop, v. To part with; give: from ca. 1670; low.—2. Hence (1849), to lose, esp. money.—3. V.i., to understand: low: —1909 (Ware). Abbr. drop to, q.v.—4. To get rid of (a person): Aus. and NZ c., >, by 1940, s. in both countries. Cf. n., 10.—5. To get into trouble: army: WW2 and after. Short for Drop in(to) the shit.—6. To leave (a competitor) far behind: racing cyclists': since ca. 1945.—7. To knock (someone) down: coll., esp. in Aus.: since ca. 1945. Culotta.—8. To give illicitly, to get rid of surreptitiously, e.g., a stolen cheque: since late 1940s.—9. To tip; to drop: as in 'He tried to drop the mingra [policeman]', "I dribbed him a flim": Cockney and market-traders': C.20. (M.T.) Cf. drop, n., 4 and 5, dropsy, 3, and cop the drop.—10. To take a drug, esp. by swallowing, as in 'I dropped my first acid in Paris'. Ruth Bronstein, The Hippies' Handbook (American), 1967: adopted, late 1960s, ex US.

drop a ballock - banger - clanger - goolie. To blunder badly: Services', since ca. 1930; the clanger version has, since ca. 1970, had much more widespread and gen. use. All are, in this sense, synonyms of 'testicle', and the phrase prob. derives from the inoffensive drop a brick, itself now almost informal S.E. Examples occur in, e.g., Gerald Kersh, Bill Nelson, 1942; Jocelyn Brooke, The Military Orchid, 1948; H. & P. (goolie only). (E.P.; P.B.)

drop a ballock for (someone). To let someone down; to fail him: Army: since ca. 1935. Gerald Kersh, 1942.

drop a bomb. To cause a very unpleasant or painful surprise: coll.: since ca. 1919. Ex bomb-dropping, first practised on a large scale in WW1. Cf. bombshell.

drop a brick. To make a faux-pas, esp. of speech or tact. See this entry in Appendix.

drop a cog. To practise the drop-game, q.v.: late C.17—early 19 c. (B.E.) See esp. Borrow's Romano Lavo-Lil (at ring-dropping).

drop a pint. To drink ale or beer: public-house frequenters': since ca. 1930. (Petch, 1969.)

drop a turd or (one's) wax. To defecate: low coll.: C.18—20; C.19—early 20.

drop acid. To take LSD. See drop, v., 10.

drop across. To scold severely: from ca. 1925. (Lyell.) Perhaps by confusion of S.E. drop across, to meet casually, and drop on, to scold or accuse.

drop anchor. To pull up a horse: the turf: from ca. 1860; ob. B. & L. record dropping the anchor, holding back a horse or merely not flogging it.—2. Gen. as drop (one's) anchor, to sit down; settle down: orig. nautical; C.19—20 coll.

drop (one's) anchor in the Levant. To abscond: ca. 1815—60. (David Carey, Life in Paris, 1822.) A pun on synon. S.E. Levant.

drop (one's or the) bundle. To surrender; abandon hope; become frightened: Aus.:—1914 (Dennis). Prob. abbr. drop one's bundle and run.—2. To give birth: NZ: low: since ca. 1920.

drop-cove. A specialist, C.19—20 c., in the 'drop-game', q.v. Vaux.

drop dead! Go away: adopted, esp. by English teenagers, ca. 1949, ex US films. (Gilderdale.) Gen. in Can. by ca. 1946. Often as 'Why don't you drop dead!' See DCpp.

drop-dead. A drop-head convertible: secondhand-car dealers': since ca. 1955. Woman's Own, 28 Feb. 1968.

drop-dry. Water-tight: nautical coll.:—1887: in C.20, S.E. Baumann.

drop down to. To learn a person's designs or character: c.:—1812 (Vaux); ob. Cf. drop to.

drop 'em. See drop them.

drop (one's) flag. To salute; hence, fig. to lower one's colours, to submit: coll. (orig. nautical); from ca. 1840. W.N. Glascock, Sailors and Saints (I, 24), 1829, has drop one's peak. (Moe.)

drop-game. The letting fall a coin, pocket-book, etc., in order to cheat the innocent person picking it up; the piece so dropped is a cog. C.19—20 (ob.) c. The gen. mid-C.19—20 term is ring-dropping or fauney rig.

drop (one's) guts. To break wind: low: C.20.

drop heavy. 'To tip well is to "drop heavy"' (Herbert Hodge, 1939): taxi-drivers': since ca. 1915.

drop in (one's, or the) eye, have a. To be slightly tipsy: from ca. 1690; coll. B.E.; Swift, 'You must own you had a drop in the eye, for... you were half-seas over.' Cf. dial. drop in the head.

drop - or hang, slip or walk - into. To attack; later, to criticize adversely. From ca. 1850; coll. The first, the most gen., prob. began in pugilism, where it means to thrash; the second is rare and t; the third is almost confined to physical aggression (including that of coition) and was orig. nautical; the fourth is common.

drop in the clarts or shit. To get into trouble. See clarts and shit, n., 12.

drop it! Stop! Esp., stop talking or fooling; coll.: since 1840s, poss. earlier. Sessions, May 1847, 'I told them several times to drop it.'

drop (one's) leaf. To die: coll.; from ca. 1820. (Egan's Grose.) Ex the autumnal fall of leaves. Cf. hop the twig.

drop (one's) leg. (Of a woman) to curtsy: lower classes': —1923 (Manchon). Prob. suggested by make a leg. See also drop the leg.

drop lullaby. A hanging: Aus. low: C.20. B., 1942.

drop of gens, a. General leave: RN: C.20. Bowen.

drop of good. A glass—or even a bottle—of liquor: mostly workmen's: late C.19—20.

drop of the hard (stuff), a. A drink of spirits: proletarian: since ca. 1930. Cf. hard stuff, 1 and 2, q.v. (P.B.)

drop of wet and warm, a. (A cup of) weak tea: lower-middle-class domestic coll.: ? since ca. 1880.

drop off is coll. for drop off to sleep: late C.19—20.—2. 'To desist from hectoring or otherwise pressuring someone, to ease the pressure' (McNeil): Aus. coll.: later C.20.

drop off the hooks. To die: coll.:—1857; ?orig. nautical. 'Ducange Anglicus'.

drop on (someone). To call on: coll.: since ca. 1850; in C.20, esp. as drop in on, to pay a casual call upon, informal S.E.—2. To reprimand; accuse; reprove a person, often without warning: low: since ca. 1850. Sessions, Apr. 1857.—3. To thrash, to beat: pugilistic: since ca. 1850.

drop on, have the. 'To forestall, gain advantage over', orig. and esp. 'by covering with a revolver': (US and) Aus. (—1894). Morris; cf. get the drop on in Thornton.

drop on (one) from a (very) great height. To reprimand very severely; to land in dire trouble: orig. Services', WW2; by ca. 1970 much more widespread. In, e.g., Alan Hunter, Gently in Trees, 1974, a hippie-type speaking: 'Yet somehow I'm feeling that the fuzz [police] have got a trap here. Like I just take another step forward and I shall be dropped on from a great height.' The Services' var., from same date, is shit upon from ..., sometimes perverted to shat upon ..., q.v. (E.P.; P.B.) drop on to or, loosely, onto. A var.—prob. the imm. origin of—drop on. 'Ducange Anglicus', 1857.

drop-out, n. 'One who opts out of society' (Peter Fryer in Observer colour sup., 3 Dec. 1967): drug addicts', hippies', Flower People's: since ca. 1960. P.B.: by ca. 1970 in gen. use and often, esp. among conformists, pej.

drop out, v. To become a drop-out. See prec.—2. To resolve itself; of, e.g., a mathematical problem, 'This one dropped out quite easily': coll.: later C.20. (P.B.)

drop short. To die: coll.: from ca. 1820. ? ex drop short in one's tracks, or is this latter, as I suspect, much more recent?

drop-shorts. Field artillery: military, mostly Aus. and (naturally!) infantrymen's: 1915. Ex the shells occ. dropped short by one's own artillery.

drop the anchor. See drop anchor, 1.

drop the bucket (on). 'To throw responsibility for an offence on to someone else' (B., 1959): Aus. c.: C.20.

drop the cue. To die: billiard-players':—1909 (Ware). Cf. drop off the hooks.

drop the leg. To decamp: lower classes':—1923 (Manchon).—2. To make a leg, to bow or curtsy: rural coll.—1923) and dial. Ibid.

drop the main toby. To leave the highroad; turn off the main road: mostly vagrants': mid-C.19–20. (H., 1st ed.) See toby.

drop the plot. To come off one's motorcycle accidentally: motorcyclists'. (Dunford.) Since (?) ca. 1950.

drop the scabs in. To work button-holes: tailors': from ca. 1850; ob.

drop them. (Of a woman) to be sexually accommodating; low coll.: since mid-C.20. Them = her knickers, panties, as 'Her? She's not fussy—she'll drop 'em for anyone.' (P.B.)

drop to. To come to understand a plot or plan, a man or his (bad) character: late C.19–20: s. >, by 1920, coll. Ex drop down to. Cf. tumble to, q.v. at tumble, v., 2.

drop (one's) wax. To defeat: low: mid-C.19–early 20.

drop your tailboard. A 'camp' c.p. of late C.19–20.

dropped. Born: Aus. rural coll.: mid-C.19–20. Brian Penton, 1934. 'We weren't dropped yesterday, eh?' Ex calving and lambing.

dropped magnets. Flat feet (? rather fallen arches): London busmen's: since ca. 1940.

dropped on. Disappointed: tailors': C.19–early 20.—2. Astounded, thunderstruck, as in 'Well, when I asked her if she'd like an egg for her tea, she looked quite dropped on': East Midlands coll.: C.20. (P.B.)

dropped right in it, (I, he, etc.). 'I (he, etc.) got into serious trouble—made an appalling faux-pas—was in an awkward spot': low: since ca. 1910. The it is gen. understood as the shit. (Petch, 1971.)

dropper. A specialist in the drop-game, q.v.: late C.17–19 c. B.E.—2. In late C.17–18 c., also a distiller: B.E. at rum dropper.—3. A passer of counterfeit, esp. paper money: c.: C.20. H.T.F. Rhodes.

dropperman. A police informer: Aus. c.: since ca. 1940. B., 1945.

dropping. A beating, thrashing, pugilistic or other: Royal Military Academy, ca. 1850–80.—2. Bribery: c.: C.20. Edgar Wallace, Room 13, 1924.

dropping member. The membrum virile, esp. if gonorrhoea'd: C.19 low.

dropping the anchor. See drop anchor, 1.

droppings. Porter; beer: low: ca. 1820–70. (Sinks, 1848.) Ex colour.

drops. Dropped handlebars, the two parts being below the rest: cyclists': since ca. 1930 Hence, to ride on the drops.

drops his slacks. A roughly joc. imputation of passive homosexuality: Services': WW2 and after. (L.A., 1978.)

dropstick. Pickpocketing: London West Indian c.: since ca. 1955. See stickings.

dropsy. A request to pay what is owed (esp. in money): low:—1935.—2. Salary: theatrical:—1935.—3. Bribery, in gen. or as a single bribe: grafters' and market-traders': C.20. Cheapjack, 1934; M.T.—4. Hence, specifically, hush-money: c.: C.20.—5. 'Tips are dropsy' (Herbert Hodge, 1939): taxi-drivers': since ca. 1910.—6. The habit of dropping things accidentally, of being 'butter-fingered': Aus. and Brit.: since ca. 1950. (B.P.) Claiborne notes, 'Almost certainly adopted ex US, where current much earlier'. Like all the other senses it is a pun, using the name of the disease to signify the appropriate meaning of the s., coll. or S.E. drop.

Driver's Guide, The. An imaginary periodical quoted as the source of a rumour: Aus.: since ca. 1920. (B., 1959.) Cf. The Bagman's Gazette.

drown. To put too much water into whisky or brandy: joc. coll.: C.20. 'Don't drown it!' Short for:

drown the miller (also + miller's thumb). To add too much water, esp. to flour or to spirits: coll.: from ca. 1815; in C.20, rare except in dial. Also put out the miller's thumb, 1767, and put out the miller's eye, 1678, Ray, and 1834, Esther Copley (OED).—2. (Only drown the miller), to go bankrupt: Scots coll.: ca. 1800–80. A. Scott, 1805.

drown the shamrock. See shamrock, 2.

Drowning Flotilla. 'The Flanders Flotilla in the German submarine service, on account of its heavy casualties': RN: 1917; ob. Bowen.

drozel. Early C.18 s. term for 'a girl'. Ned Ward, 1703.

[drab, despite B.E. and Grose, has, I think, never been other than S.E., precisely as, despite F. & H., to drug and a drug in the market are S.E.]

drabe. Var. spelling of droob: B., 1953.

drudge. A cabin-boy: nautical coll.: late C.19–20. Bowen.

drug-hole beer. See ARMY SLANG, chorus 1, in Appendix.

drug-store cowboy. (Gen. in pl.) A tyro cowboy, esp. one of those who carry a revolver dangling from a loose belt to somewhere near the knee: South American white men's derisive coll.: from ca. 1910 (C.W. Thurlow Craig, Paraguayan Interlude, 1935).—2. Any lout that hangs about a corner drug-store, talks tough, gives the girls 'the glad eye': Can. coll.: adopted, ca. 1935, ex US. (Leechman.) Cf. canteen cowboy, cowboy, 2–4, and cowboys, 3, all derisive.

drug up. Deliberately illiterate form of dragged up, in the query 'Where was you drug up, then?' = where were you brought up (sc. that your manners are so uncouth)?: since ca. 1940, ? earlier. See dragged up. (P.B.)

druggie, -y. A drug addict: adopted, ex US, by ca. 1970 at latest. (Michael Kenyon, Deep Pocket, 1978.) Cf. junkie.

drugs. Pharmacology: medical coll.: late C.19–20. Slang, p. 192.

druid. A priest: Anglo-Irish: late C.19–20. Brendan Behan, Borstal Boy, 1958.

drom, n. In c., road, highway, street: from ca. 1840. Ex Romany drom (itself ex Gr. δρόμος), a road.—2. A building, house, lodging, or (in C.20) a flat: c. and low (—1859). H., 1st ed.; Charles E. Leach. Hence, have (one's) drum done, to have one's house searched by detectives: c.: C.20.—3. A prison cell: c.: late C.19–20. (Ware.) Also Can. (A. Schroeder, Shaking it Rough, 1976).—4. (Ex flash drum), a brothel: low: from ca. 1900.—5. Among tailors, a small workshop (hence, in C.20, occ. a workman): from ca. 1870.—6. In Aus., from ca. 1860, a bundle of clothes carried on tramp: ob. by 1897, † by 1910, except in hump (one's) drum, to go on tramp. Wm. Stamer, Recollections of a Life of Adventure, 1866 (Morris). Cf. bluey and swag, q.v.—7. The ear: pugilistic: ca. 1860–1900. (H., 3rd ed.) Abbr. drum of the ear.—8. 'After the ball the commonest form of "fashionable arrangement" is the drum or evening reception' (Harper's [n.d.; ca. 1885], quoted in H.

& M. Evans, The Party that Lasted 100 Days, 1976): later C.19 Society coll. Cf. kettledrum, from which this is abbr., and drum-giver, the hostess (Ibid.).—9. A tin for making tea, etc.: tramps' c.: since ca. 1890; in C.20, also railwaymen's.—10. A racecourse tip: Aus. sporting: C.20. (B., 1942.) Hence, any tip or warning.—11. Hence, information; 'the score' or true state of things: Aus.: since ca. 1912. D'Arcy Niland, The Shiralee, 1955, 'If it's a fair question, what's the drum?' See esp. Sidney J. Baker's provocative, immensely readable The Drum, 1959.—12. RN ratings' mess. See Casey's Court.—13. In run a drum, in a race, esp. of horses or dogs, to win a place: Aus. sporting: since ca. 1940, 'earlier. Wilkes, who glosses, 'to perform as tipped'. Ex 10.—14. See follow the band (for follow the drum); stamp (one's) drum; tight as a drum.

drum, v. To obtain, esp. custom(ers), by solicitation: from ca. 1840; coll. Cf. US drummer, a 'commercial'.—2. In C.20 c., drum (a place) is to ring or knock to ascertain if it is occupied. (Charles E. Leach.) Hence a drummer is a woman that does this, or that gets a job as a servant in a house some months before her man robs it; drumming, robbery by these means. P.B.: in later C.20 c., drumming has come to mean simply 'breaking into a house' (cf. drum, n., 2), as in Now!, 10 Apr. 1981.—3. To inform, tell; to 'put wise', to warn, tip off: Aus. low: since ca. 1910. (Rats, 1944.) Also drum (a person) up (Wilkes). Ex n., 10.—4. To drive fast in a vehicle, as in 'Can you imagine drumming along the M1 and some clown does a U-turn ahead of you?' (policeman, quoted in Observer colour sup., 20 Dec. 1981, p. 31). Cf. the (presumably) coincidental drum, n., 1. (P.B.) drum and fife. A wife: rhyming s., esp. army: late C.19—early 20. Everyman, 26 Mar. 1931.—2. A knife: id. Franklyn, Rhyming.

drum around. To prowl, as a thief does: police: from ca. 1910. Cf. drum, v., 2.

drum major. A noisy drunk. See TAVERN TERMS, § 6, in Appendix.

drum-up, n. A drink of tea; the making of tea: tramps'; and troops' in WW1. F. Jennings, Tramping with Tramps, 1932. Ex v., 1.—2. 'Effort to obtain results' (Powis): c.: 1970s.

drum up, v. To make tea, esp. by the roadside: tramps' c. (—1864) > also, by 1914, military s. 'No. 747'; B.&P. Loosely, in C.20, to cook a meal. Ex Romany drom, the highway.—2. To collect, money, food, etc.: army: from ca. 1915. (F. & G.) The sense of 'to gather support' has long been S.E. (SOD.) drumbeelo. A late C.17—early 19 coll. var. of S.E. drumble, a dull, heavy fellow. B.E.; Grose.

drummer. A horse with irregular fore-leg action: the turf: late C.18—19. (Grose, 1st ed.) Ex the flourishes of a kettle-drummer.—2. A rabbit: late C.19—20, ob. Ex its instinctive drumming with the hind paw when alarmed.—3. In c., a thief that, before robbing, drugs his victim: from ca. 1855; ob. H., 1st ed.—4. A trousers-maker: tailors': from ca. 1860.—5. A tramp: Aus.: C.20. (B., 1942.) Ex drum, n., 6.—6. A commercial traveller: adopted in Aus., ca. 1920, ex US. (Baker.) Ex S.E. drum up, to solicit trade.—7. Slowest shearer in the shed: NZ shearers'. (Niall Alexander, 1939, letter.)—8. A yard conductor: Can. railroadmen's:—1931.—9. Anyone notorious for boring his companions: army: late 1940s.—10. See drum, v., 2, and with it cf.: 'He chose the screwsman'—burglar—'best fitted for the particular job. He sent with him a "drummer"—a man who had to make sure the coast was clear and help the screwsman with unskilled jobs, such as carrying the ladder' (John Gosling, The Ghost Squad, 1959): c.: since ca. 1910.—11. But cf. 'Burglars are called "drummers" because they screw drums [steal from houses], not because they drum on doors' (Time Out, 11 Feb. 1983, p. 11).

drummer-up; drumming-up. The agential and the vbl n. of drum up, 1; esp. among labourers on public works, the man that makes tea for the gang; the making of tea: C.20.

drumming. See drum, v., 2.

Drummond. An infallible scheme, certain event: low: ca.

1810—50. (Vaux.) Ex the banking-house of Drummond & Co. Drummond and Roce. (M. Harrison, Reported Safe Arrival, 1943.) Drummond=drum and=drum and fife, sense 2; Roce=roce=roast=roast pork, a fork. (With thanks, for elucidation, to Michael Harrison.)

drummy. A sergeant-drummer: army: ca. 1870—1905. F. & G.

Drum's entertainment. An ignominious dismissal. See Jack Drum's... drumstick. The penis: low: C.19—early 20.—2. In Madras Presidency, a pod of the horse-radish tree: coll.:—1885.—3. See drumsticks.

drumstick-cases. Trousers: low: C.19. Ex the next. In mid-C.19 shortened to a pair (of) drums.

drumsticks. The legs: s. >, by 1840, coll.: Foote, 1770, 'What, d'ye think I would change with Bill Spindle for one of his drumsticks?' Orig. (SOD gives 1764) of the lower leg of a fowl, in which sense it has >, in later C.20, informal S.E.

drunk, n. A debauch: coll.: from ca. 1860. Hence on the drunk, drinking continually for days: low coll.: from ca. 1870.—2. A tipsy person: coll.: from ca. 1880.—3. A charge of being drunk (and disorderly): from 1883.

drunk, adj. Many and many are the s. and coll. synonyms and similes associated with drunkenness. For a fairly extensive collection, see DRINKS, in Appendix.

drunk-up. A drinking bout: Aus. coll.: C.20. (Baker.) Cf. beer-up, punch-up.

drunken-chalks. Good conduct badges: military: ca. 1870—1910. Cf. canteen medal, q.v.

Drunken (or Drinking) Parliament. The Scottish Parliament that met (after the Restoration) on 1 Jan. 1661: coll. nickname. OED.

drunken sailor. A leaning type of chimney cowl, used to cure a smoking chimney: late C. 19—20.

drunken screw-thread. A defective spiral ridge of a screw: a technological coll.: from ca. 1850. Ronalds & Richardson, Chemical Technology, 1854. OED.

drunkery. A saloon: Can. s.: since ca. 1960. H. Dempsey, Bob Edwards, 1975, 'the countless drunkeries which, for single men, form the centre of social life...' (Leechman.)

drunok. Tipsy: from ca. 1930. A perversion of drunk.

druthers. 'One's choice or preference, from "I'd rather". Thus, "I'd rather go than stay"—I druther go than stay. Hence, "If I had my druthers, I'd go". Quite common in Can. and US; mostly teen-agers and younger' (Leechman). But in adult Can. use, throughout C.20 and in adult American, well before that; Kipling has it in the Vermont-located story 'A Walking-Tour', included in The Day's Work, 1897, as R.S. reminds me.

Druriolanus. Drury Lane Theatre: theatrical: ca. 1885—1910. On Coriolanus and with ref. to Augustus Harris's nicknames Augustus Druriolanus and the Emperor Augustus.

Drury Lane ague. A venereal disease: mid-C.18—early 19. (Grose, 1st ed.) Cf. Covent Garden ague, q.v., and cf.:

Drury Lane vestal. A harlot: mid-C.18—early 19. (Grose, 1st ed.) In the C.18, though little after ca. 1760, this district was residentially infamous. Cf. Covent Garden nun and C.G. vestal.

Drury-Laner, feel like a. To be indisposed: late C.19—20. Perhaps, orig., ill from dissipation.

druv, v. Drove: (mostly Cockney) sol.: C.19—20. (Mayhew, 1861; Baumann.) P.B.: as in the old Sussex boast: 'We may be pushed, but we won't be druv.'

dry, n. A 'drying-up' or being at a complete loss for one's lines: theatrical: C.20. Hence, dries, instances of such loss. Ex 'to dry up' or forget one's lines. Gavin Holt, No Curtain for Cora, 1950.—2. As the Dry, desert; semi-desert; waterless country: Aus. coll.: late C.19—20. (Boyd Cable in Observer, 30 Oct. 1938.) Cf. English dial. dry, a long period of rainless weather.—3. Also the Dry, the dry season (winter) in N and NW Aus.: coll.: late C.19—20. B., 1942; Jean Devanney, 1944.

dry, adj. (With the low nn. of coition) rape and homosexual intercourse: Aus.: since ca. 1950.

dry as ... See the key-nn.; Apperson has all—or most—of the phrases.

dry as a basket. Very thirsty: since ca. 1930. (L.A.) Perhaps an echo of-dry as a lime-basket or -ldin (, as). Exceedingly dry: coll.: from ca. 1835; the former, † by 1915. Dickens, Hume Nisbet. dry as a sun-struck bone, extremely dry; dry up like a sun-struck billabong, to become so. 'Both similes are also used figuratively; "dry" suggesting irony, and "dry up" meaning to become silent or run out of words' (B., 1959): Aus. coll.: C.20.

dry-bang, -baste, -beat, -rub. To beat severely: (pace OED) coll.: C.17-18.

dry bath. 'A search [of a prisoner] when stripped': c.: C.20. George Ingram in his prison-novel, Stir, 1933.

dry-blower. A gold-miner (s.), esp. one who dry-blows gold instead of sluicing it (coll.): Aus.: C.20.

dry-bob. A cricketer, at Eton College; one who concentrates on land games: since ca. 1835 (Disraeli, Coningsby); by 1875, coll.; by 1900, S.E. See also wet bob.—2. A smart repartee: C.17-18 coll.—3. Coition without (male) emission: mid-C.17-19 low. (Rochester; Grose, 1st ed.; F. & H.) Ex dry bob, a blow that leaves the skin intact.

dry bobbing; wet bobbing. Sport(s) on land; aquatics: Eton College: mid-C.19-20: s. >, by 1875, coll. >, by 1900, S.E. (B. & L.) See prec., 1.

dry boots. A dry humorist: late C.17-early 19 coll. (B.E.; Grose, 1st ed.) Cf. sly boots.

dry chuck. Bread: Aus. nautical: later C.19. G.E. Morrison, 1882, quoted in C. Pearl, Morrison of Peking, 1967.

dry dock (or hyphenated or one word); esp. go into dry dock, to stay for a long time in hospital: Services': since ca. 1925. See dock, n., 2. Hence, in dry dock.—2. Out of work: coll.: from ca. 1927. OED Sup.

dry ducking. A man's suspension by a rope to just above the water: nautical coll.: mid-C.19-20. Bowen.

dry fist. A niggard: C.17-18 coll. Adj., dry-fisted.

dry flogging. Corporal punishment with the clothes on': nautical (esp. naval) coll.: mid-C.19-20. (Bowen.) Cf. dry ducking.

dry glasses without using a cloth. To 'booze': joc.: C.20.

dry guillotine, the. Severe imprisonment; esp. imprisonment at Cayenne, most malarious: journalistic coll.: ca. 1860-80. Ware.

dry hash. A 'bad egg'; ne'er-do-well; loafer: Aus.: ca. 1870-1900. B. & L. list it as esp. one who will not 'shout' drinks.—2. 'A baked pudding made of corned beef, tinned salmon, or anything else that comes in handy': mid-C.19-20: nautical coll. >, by 1930, S.E.

dry holy-stoning. A flogging: nautical: ca. 1800-70. (Boxiana, II, 1818.) Ex S.E. holy-stones (with which one cleans the deck).

dry-hump, v.t. To simulate copulation with: since ca. 1960. R.S. cites the Observer, TV review, 7 Dec. 1975. Cf. hump, q.v.

dry in. A c. or low s. var. (—1923; slightly ob. by 1930) of dry up, v., 2. Manchon.

dry land! You understand!: rhyming s.:—1859; ob. H., 1st ed.—2. For dryland sailor, see turnpike sailor.

dry list. Officers listed for shore service only, as opp. to the wet list, listed for sea appointments: RN: C.20. (Granville, 1967.)

dry lodging. Accommodation without board: lodging-house keepers', from ca. 1870. (H., 5th ed.) Cf. S.E. dry, without strong liquor; but imm. ex Scots dry lodgings (Galt, 1823: EDD).

dry number, esp. in to have dried one's number, to have served for several weeks: Services': C.20. See the before you ... entry.

dry nurse. A junior that, esp. in the Army and Navy, instructs an ignorant superior in his duties: coll.: mid-C.19-20; ob. (H., 3rd ed.) Ex the S.E. sense.

dry old stick. An elderly person (esp. male) either boring or possessed of a very dry sense of humour: coll.: late C.19-20. (Not only Aus., as B., 1959, seems to imply.)

dry out. To take a course of treatment to cure oneself of alcoholism. Also v.t.: coll. (Chambers's C.20th Dict., 1977). Hence, vbl n. drying out, undergoing this treatment; applied also to a 'slow withdrawal from narcotics' (Home Office).

dry room. A prison: c.: C.19-20; ob.

dry rot. See rot, n.

dry rub. See dry-bang.

dry run. A dummy run, q.v., but with much wider connotation of 'experimental rehearsal' (Dr Leechman's phrase): Services': since ca. 1950 at latest. Perhaps adopted ex Can., where coll. usage since ca. 1925, or perhaps orig. RN. (Leechman; P.B.)

dry scrub; scrubber. A marker's signalling of a 'magpie', the disk being rapidly moved up and down in front of the target: army (not officers'): from ca. 1920.

dry-shave. To annoy (a person) by vigorously rubbing his chin with one's fingers: lower classes' coll.: from ca. 1860. B. & L.—2. To deceive, befoul, humbug (a person): lower classes':—1923 (Manchon). Prob. on drub reputed = dry rub.

dry ship. One whose wardroom has a poor drinking reputation: RN: C.20. Contrast wet ship. Granville.

dry smoke. A S. African coll. as in Parker Gilmore, Days and Nights in the Desert, 1888, 'In his mouth was stuck a short pipe, out of which he was taking, in colonial parlance, a dry smoke—that is, it was alike destitute of fire or tobacco.' Pettman.

dry straight. To turn out all right (in the end): coll.: from mid-1890s; ob. (OED Sup.) I.e., it didn't warp while wet.

dry swim. A ground operational exercise: RAF: since ca. 1936. Cf. grope, 2.

dry-up. A failure (cf. esp. frost): theatrical: mid-C.19-20; † by 1918.

dry up, v. Cease talking, notably in the imperative: s. >, by 1930, coll.: from ca. 1864. Ex US (—1855). Rider Haggard, 1888, 'He ... suddenly dried up as he noticed the ominous expression on the great man's brow.' Ex 'the figure of the "babbling" fountain' (W.).—2. In c. of ca. 1850-1910, to decamp, take to one's heels. Baumann.—3. To slacken pace through exhaustion': turf: from ca. 1870. (B. & L.) Ex sense 1.—4. To cease work at lunch-time or at night; hence, leave a situation: printers': from ca. 1870. (Ibid.) Ex sense 1.—5. To anger or exasperate beyond words, as in 'It dries me up when I think of the terms he offered for the part': theatrical, an allusion to 'drying up' on stage: C.20. (Granville.) dry up and blow away! Go away: teenagers' (esp. the coffee-bar set): ca. 1957-9. (Gilderdale.) Cf. dry up, 1, and blow, v., 7.

dry-walk, gen. -walking. A moneyless soldier's outing: military: ca. 1860-1914. (Dry, liquorless, is a US import.)

dry-wipe. To win two legs straight off from (an opponent): dart-players': since ca. 1930. Cf. whitewash, v., 3.

dryknacking or drynacking, as in 'a spot of dryknacking', a little music-copying: Guards' Regiment musicians': since ca. 1920. It's dry work but rapidity therein is a knack.

dual. 'Dual-flying instruction' (Jackson); i.e. flying dual-engined aircraft: RAF: since 1939.

duay. Mine; my own. Hence, come the duay, to over-exercise one's authority: army: WW1, but not very gen. F. & G. derives it ex Dieu et mon droit, q.v.

Dub. Dublin: Anglo-Irish: late C.19-20. James Joyce, Ulysses, 1922.

dub, n. A key, esp. a master or skeleton key: c.: late C.17-mid-19. (B.E.) Ex the v.—2. A mediocre player: lawn tennis:—1923; ob. (Manchon.) Perhaps cognate with Yorkshire dubberhead, a doll, but imm. ex:—3. (Also dub-dub.) A complete failure: army: WW1+. F. & G.—4. In go upon the dub, 'To go upon a housebreaking expedition; to open or pick the lock or fastening of a door' (B. & L.): c.: late C.17-mid-19.

B.E. has strike it upon the dub, to rob a house. Cf. sense 1, and dub-lay.

dub, v. To open: mid-C.16–18; (by confusion with dup), to close, gen. in form dub up (Vaux): early C.19 c. Prob. ex Walloon adoubier, to strike, tap. W.—2. To make (e.g.) Brit. nationals appear, by means of a fresh sound-track, to speak (e.g.) French in films being shown in (e.g.) France: cinematic: since ca. 1935: by 1946, j.

dub at a knapping jigger. A turnpike keeper: (? late C.18)—early 19 c. (Vaux.) Jigger, door or gate: and see jigger.

dub-cove. A turnkey, gaoler, as is dubsman, occ. abbr. dubs: c. of (? late C.18)—19. Vaux; the last in Henley.

dub-dub. See dub, n., 3.

dub lay. The robbing of houses by picking the locks: late C.18—early 19 c. Grose, 2nd ed. See dub, n., 4.

dub o' the lick. 'A lick on the head' (Grose, 2nd ed.): late C.18—mid-19: low coll.

dub-snouted. Prob., snub-nosed. See EPITHETS, in Appendix.

dub up. To pay out money: s. (—1823, Bee) >, by C.20, coll. Developed from dub, v. On its later C.20 Cockney use, Muover has, 'Calling on someone to disgorge cash, the phrase is "dub up" or "dub out"; "cough up" and "fork out" are middle-class schoolboys' expressions. "Hand over" has a certain appeal because it makes a comic-book bad joke—"The Highwayman, by Ann Dver".—2. See dub, v., 1, which apparently 'went underground'—existed without being recorded—for it is extant, 'Everybody in the nick had already been dubbed up'—locked in his cell—'for the night' (Norman). It occurs also in, e.g., John Gosling, The Ghost Squad, 1959.

dubash. An interpreter; a commissionaire: Anglo-Indian; from late C.17. The former sense was † by 1902; the prevailing C.20 one being a European's native servant. Ex Hindi dobashi, a 'two-language man'. Y. & B., 1903.

dubb. See doub.

dubber. The mouth; tongue: C.18–19 c., as, in late C.17–19, is the sense, 2, a picklock thief (B.E.).—3. In Anglo-Indian coll., more properly dubba, a leather bottle or skin bag: from late C.17.

dubbs. See dubs, 2.

dubby, the. The water-closet: children's: C.20—perhaps late C.19–20. Ex 'double-u cee': W.C. (John A. Yates.)

dubby, adj. Blunt; dimpy: dial. (—1825) >, by 1870, coll. OED Sup.

duberous (1818); dubersome (1837). In doubt; dubious: (low) coll. and dial. OED.

Dublin dissector. A cudgel: medical students', ca. 1840–1900. Punch, 1841.

Dublin packet. In tip (a person) the D- p-, to elude openly; give the slip quietly: c. (—1812, Vaux) >, ca. 1840, low; by 1900 †. Cf.—2. In take the Dublin packet, to run round the corner:—1859 coll.; ob. by 1930. Punning doubling.

Dublin tricks. (Rare in sing.) Bricks: rhyming s.: ca. 1860–1940. D.W. Barrett, Navoies, 1880.

Dublin University graduate. 'A particularly dense person, or a person unable to read or write. Intended to be humorously ironic' (Powis): police and underworld: 1970s. But jibes at the Irish are nothing new; cf. Dublin dissector. (P.B.)

dubs. A jailer: c.:—1789; ob. Abbr. dubsman.—2. (Also dubbs.) Money, esp. if of copper: c. (—1823); † by 1870. ('Jon Bee.') Ex dub, a fraction of a rupee.—3. Marbles played in a ring: Aus. schoolchildren's: C.20. B., 1942.—4. Hence (?), nipples of a girl's breasts: Aus.: C.20. (Godfrey Blunden, No More Reality, 1935.) Current among Southampton schoolboys before 1920, occ. in the form dubbies which suggests a deformation of bubbies. On the other hand, dubs may have been influenced by S.E. dugs (in its 'nipples' sense).

Dubs, the. The Royal Dublin Fusiliers: military: late C.19—early 20.

dubs, adj. Double: Winchester College; from ca. 1830; ob.

dubsman. A turnkey. See dub-cove.

duc. Ink-ductor or fountain regulating the amount of ink supplied for each impression on a machine: printers': from ca. 1860. B. & L.

ducat. See ducket.

ducats. Money, cash: theatrical:—1853, ob. by 1930. Earlier, gen. coll.: 1775. (SOD.) Prob. ex Shakespeare's Shylock. Cf. the use of shekels.

duce, i.e. deuce, q.v., is twopence: c.: late C.17–18. B.E.; Moncrieff.

ducer, the. The second steward in a liner: nautical: C.20. Bowen. Ex duce = deuce, two.

duchess. A woman of an imposing presence: from ca. 1690. (B.E.) Contrast dutch.—2. 'A woman enjoyed with her patens on, or by a man in boots, is said to be made a duchess' (Grose, 1st ed.); † by 1890. P.B.: perhaps connected with the line attributed to Sarah, Duchess of Marlborough, 1660–1744, 'Today my Lord returned from the wars and pleased me twice in his top-boots.'—3. See 'Fuck me!', said the duchess; 'Hell!', said the duchess; duchess of deathless memory; and duchess of Fife and ... Teck. The lady also appears in ring up the duchess.—4. As the duchess, the mother or the wife (the old duchess) of the person addressed: proletarian: resp.—1909 and—1923; ob. Ware; Manchon.—3. As the duchess, a living lay-figure: silk trade: ca. 1870–1930. Ware.

duchess, v. 'To treat anyone "as a duchess", esp. applied to the courtesies extended by overseas governments to visiting Australian politicians, as though imposing on their naivety' (Wilkes): Aus.: since mid-1960s.

Duchess of Fife. Wife: rhyming s.: mid-C.19–20; but by 1880, 'invariably reduced to Dutch ("my old Dutch"). It served as inspiration for Albert Chevalier's song of that title—My Old Dutch—and is by that immortalised' (Franklyn 2nd.). But see also comment at dutch.

Duchess of Teck. A cheque: rhyming s.: late C.19–20. Often shortened to duchess.

duchesses. Female counter clerks in post-offices: mostly lower-middle class: since ca. 1948. Ex the airs so many of them give themselves.

duchessy, adj. Like a duchess (—1887); abounding in duchesses (—1870): coll. OED.

duck, n. A decoy; C.19 coll. Abbr. decoy-duck.—2. A bundle of meat-scrap: low coll.:—1864 (H., 3rd ed.). Cf. faggots.—3. A coll. endearment: from ca. 1590. (Shakespeare.) This sense receives an amusing gloss in Richard Steele, The Tender Husband, 1705, IV, ii:

HUMP: Your servant, ladies. So, my dear—

NIECE: So, my savage—

AUNT: O fie, no more of that to your husband, Biddy.

HUMP: No matter, I like it as well as duck or love...

Hence, in admiration, as is the adj. ducky. Leman Rede, 1841, 'Oh, isn't he a duck of a fellow?'—4. A soldier (gen. in pl) of the Bombay Presidency: Anglo-Indian: from ca. 1800. Later, any official in the Bombay service. Ex Bombay duck, q.v.—5. A metal-cased watch: cheapjacks': ca. 1850–1914. Hindley.—6. The face, as in make a duck, make a grimace: Winchester College: ca. 1860–1920.—7. In cricket, however, make a duck, or duck's egg, is to score nothing, while save (—1877) or break (—1900) one's duck, is to score at least one run (Lewis): duck occurs in 1868, duck's egg in 1863, and duck-egg in 1868 (OED).—8. Cf. the Anglo-Irish duck (for dinner), nothing to eat: late C.19–20.—9. Abbr. lame duck, a defaulter or scapegrace: from ca. 1780. Grose, 1st ed.—10. A type of Japanese warplane: Aus. army in Malaya, Dec. 1941–Feb. 42. P-G-R.—11. A type of large amphibious troop-carrying vehicle: Services', esp. army: from 1942; by 1944, at least semi-official. Ex the factory serial initials DUKW, usu. written thus, but always pron. duck.—12. A young lady; a girl: beatniks': 1959+. Cf. hen, and see the list at canary, 12.—13. An instance of copulation: shortened rhyming s., from goose and duck: C.20.—14. 'Coll. for "Cold Duck", a sparkling red wine' (B.P., 1977): since ca. 1970.—13. In Lor(d) love a duck!, a mild proletarian expletive: C.20. 'Taffrail', The Sub, 1917.—

16. In do a duck, to hide under the seat of a public conveyance so as to avoid paying: c.:—1889; but in gen. coll., to depart hurriedly:—1900.—17. In fake the duck, to adulterate liquor; to swindle, cheat: c.: from ca. 1830; † by 1930.

duck, v. To avoid; to neglect to attend (e.g. a meeting): coll.: C.20. (E. Shanks, The Enchanted Village, 1933.) See also duck away; duck out.

duck and dive. To hide: rhyming s.: C.20. 'Good semantics, but poor phonetics' (Franklyn, Rhyming). Muvver, however, explains the phrase as rhyming on skive, q.v., and meaning 'to dodge work', which seems more likely to be correct.

duck away. A NZ var. of duck, v.: late C.19–20. (Arthur Gray, 1969.)

duck (or goose) bumps. Gooseflesh; goose pimples: mostly Can., the latter sense joc.: C.20. (Leechman.)

duck-disease; duck's disease. 'Shortness of leg' (OED Sup.); the army explained it differently; a nickname (Duck's Disease) for any very short man: (low) coll.: from ca. 1910.

duck dive (or hyphenated). A period of bad mistakes—in laxity—in operations: espionage: since ca. 1950. John Le Carré, Honourable Schoolboy, 1977.—2. A sudden escape: id.: Ibid.

duck-egg. See duck, n., 7.

duck eggs. Coal ovoids: railwaymen's: since ca. 1945. Railway.

duck-footed, adj. Walking with toes turned inwards: coll.: C.19–20; ob. But duck-legged, with very short legs, is S.E., as is pigeon-toed.

duck-fucker. The man looking after the poultry on a warship: mid-C.18—early 19: nautical. Grose, 1st ed.

duck-house, n. In one up against (someone's) d-, (something) that baffles, outwits, defeats, delays: Aus.: ca. 1910–70. 'I admit that this is one up against my duck-house.' Ex a game-score chalked on a duck-house roof or wall.—2. In upset (one's) duck-house, to upset someone's plan or calculations: Aus.: since ca. 1920. (Miles Franklin, Old Blastus of Bandicoot, 1931.) Cf. mind one's own duck-house, to mind one's own business: Ibid.

duck-house, v. To baffle, outwit, score a point in some way against: Aus.: ca. 1925–70. (B., 1942.) Ex n., 1.

duck in a thunderstorm. See dying duck.

duck in the green curtains. To 'sleep on the slopes of Table Mountain' (Cape Times, 23 May 1946): S. African c.: C.20.

duck it. To 'waddle out as a lame duck' (George Godfrey, History of George Godfrey, 1828): Stock Exchange: ca. 1815–70. Cf. Duckery, q.v.

duck (one's) nut. To put one's head down for safety: C.20. Here, nut obviously = head.—2. Hence, to disappear: Can.: since ca. 1955. Dr Leechman cites H. Dempsey, Bob Edwards, 1975.

duck of diamonds. A superlative of the admiring duck, 3: coll.; from ca. 1850; ob. by 1930.

duck out (of). To avoid responsibility, fail to attend a meeting: 'Did you go last night?' 'No, I ducked out' or 'No, I ducked out of it': coll.: later C.20. An elab. of duck, v. (P.B.) Cf. chicken out.

duck-paddle, the. See ducker, the.

duck-pond. A canvas bathing-place for cadets: RN:—1909 (Ware); ob. by 1930.—2. The Atlantic Ocean: WW2 and after (earlier?): Services', then gen., coll. (Miss M. Manoukian; Mrs C. Raab.)

duck-pot is a late C.19–20 (ob. by 1940) var. of duck, n., 3. A. Neil Lyons, Clara, 1912.

duck-shovelling. 'Passing the buck': RAF: since ca. 1960. (Sgt R. Farley, 1967.) Prob. a var. of sense 2 of:

duck-shover, -shoving. A cabman who is guilty of breaking the rank and thus unfairly touting for custom; this extremely reprehensible practice; Melbourne: ca. 1869–95. Morris.—2. (d.-shoving.) Hence (?), an evasion of duty: military: late C.19–20. F. & G.—3. (Ex 1.) One who is over-sharp in business; unfair business methods: Aus.: C.20. B., 1942.

duck-tails. 'Unruly... adolescents with long hair, leather jackets and stove-pipe trousers... since 1950' (A.C. Partidge, 1968): S. African. See also d.a.

duck the nut. Synon. with next: Brit. c.: New Society, 23 Dec. 1982, p. 501.

duck the scene. To plead guilty in a law-court: Aus. c.: since ca. 1930. B., 1959. Cf. bow the crumplet and nod the nut.

duck weather. Very wet weather: Aus.: since ca. 1920. Ex fine weather for ducks. (B.P.)

duckboard is military j., except when (ex its arrangement of colours) it = a Military Medal ribbon (1916: B. & P.); but duckboard-glide, an after-dark movement along a trench, and duckboard harrier, a messenger, are military s. of 1917–18. It and he had to use the duckboard track. F. & G.

ducker. In diving, a header: sporting:—1923 (Manchon).—2. As the ducker, the swimming-pool at Harrow School: from—1878. Before ca. 1860, it had been known as the duck-paddle. (J. Fischer Williams, Harrow, 1901; Sir Sydney King-Farlow, letter to the Times.) By the 'OXFORD -ER'.

Duckery, the. The disciplinary court of the Stock Exchange: Stock Exchange: ca. 1815–60. (George Godfrey, 1828.) Cf.

duck it and lame duck.

ducket. Any ticket; esp. a raffle-card or a pawnbroker's duplicate: c. and low:—1874; ob. (H., 5th ed.) A corruption of docket. Also ducat.—2. A hat check: Can. railroadmen's:—1930. Ex 1.

duckie, duck(ey). An endearment, thus a var. of duck, 3: from ca. 1815: coll. Mainly a woman's term; if used by one man to another, ironically offensive, whereas in the East Midlands the use of the voc. 'Me duck' is a friendly familiarity.

ducking, go. To go courting: low coll.: from ca. 1850; ob. Ex duck, 3.

ducking-money. Money exacted from a sailor the first time he went through the Strait of Gibraltar: naval coll.: C.19. Bowen.

Duckites; duckite. Girdlestone's 'house'; a member thereof: Charterhouse: C.20. Ex Mr Girdlestone's duck-like walk. (Peter Sanders.)

ducks. Aylesbury Dairy Company shares: Stock Exchange: from ca. 1880; ob. Aylesbury (Buckinghamshire) is 'especially noted for the rearing of ducks' (Encyclopædia Britannica).—2. A mainly London and Home Counties var. of duckie, mostly in address: C.20.—3. See fine weather for ducks.

ducks and drakes. The dish, Peking duck: among Britons on the China Coast: earlier C.20. Listener, 8 Dec. 1949.

ducks and drakes with, later of. To squander money or potential money: from late C.16; coll. till C.19, then S.E. Chapman, 'Be like a gentleman... make ducks and drakes with shillings.'

duck's bill. 'A tongue cut in a piece of stout paper and pasted on at the bottom of the tympan sheet' (F. & H.): printers': ca. 1860–1930. Ex shape.

duck's breakfast. A drink of water with nothing to eat: esp. NZ: C.20. Cf. Irishman's dinner. Cf-duck's dinner. The same: Aus.: C.20. Baker.

duck's disease. See duck-disease.

duck's egg. See duck, n., 7; break one's duck's egg occurs in 1867 (Lewis).

ducks for (one's) napper, make some. To lay money by to purchase a roof for one's head (napper): RN lowerdeck: ca. 1800–70. Bill Truck, Dec. 1825.

ducks in the (or on a) pond; ducks on the water; or simply a couple of (usu. pron. coupler) ducks. No. 22 in the game of House/Tombola/Bingo: mostly Services': C.20. 'The two figures 2 are similar to a pair of ducks swimming side by side' (Lt Gen. Sir J.R.E. Charles).

ducky, duckie, adj. Expressive of admiration: coll.: since ca. 1930. Often, in Aus., used sarcastically or joc. by men: since early C.20. 'She was wearing a ducky little pair of shorts.' (B.P.) See duck, 3.

dud, n. A delicate weakling (†); person without ability and/or spirit: orig. Scot. (—1825), Jamieson speaking of 'a soft dud'; (?) used in US in 1870; rare by 1896; resuscitated in WW1, from sense of an unexploding shell, hence of any very inferior or unsuitable object.—2. See duds.

dud, adj. Worthless: coll.: since ca. 1895. Sessions, Feb. 1898, 'I have it, it is a dud lot' (watch and chain). Ex the n., as is—2. Useless, poor, unattractive; e.g., 'a dud show', a poor entertainment: orig. army, from ca. 1916; thence to RAF, ca. 1918, 'dud weather', unsuitable for flying (H. & P.); and then into gen. civilian use, an expressive, almost echoic, word, 'demobbed' with the Forces in 1919. Both adj. and n. have prob. been influenced by the C.17–20 dial. dudman, a scarecrow, but the word may derive ultimately ex Dutch dood, dead (W.).

dud up. To arrange (things) illicitly: serve short measure to (someone): Aus. c.: since ca. 1925. (Kylie Tennant, Foveaux, 1939.) See prec. Also 'Deliberately to misinform or mislead (someone). Whence, dudder and dudder-upper' (B. 1959).

dud(d)-cheats. Clothes and household effects: c.:—1725; † by 1830. (A New Canting Dict.) Cf. duds, 1, 2, q.v.

dudder or whispering dudder, dudsman, and duffer (q.v.). A pedlar of supposedly smuggled wares: late C.18–early 19; the first two being c., the third also c. but only at first. (Grose, 2nd ed.) Ex duds, q.v.—2. One who passes off harmless powder as cocaine or morphia: Aus. (esp. Sydney) c.:—1931.

dudder-upper. See dud up, and cf. dudder, 2.

duddering rake. 'A thundering Rake ... one devilishly lewd' (A New Canting Dict., 1725): C.18–early 19. See duddering r.

dudbery. A clothier's booth: C.17–early 19 low coll. Cf. the dial. senses.

dudding. Misrepresentation of goods for sale. See dud, n., at AUSTRALIAN UNDERWORLD, in Appendix.

dude. A swell, fop: orig. (1883) US and almost imm. anglicised; coll. till ca. 1918, when it > S.E. The derivatives dudine, a female masher, and dudette, dudinette, a young girl aping the belles, did not catch on in England. Where the etymology is a mystery, but the occasion known to be the Æsthetic craze of ca. 1882–7, it is perhaps permissible to guess at dud (q.v.) influenced by attitude, the semantic transition being aided, maybe, by the dial. v.i. dud, to dress.—2. Light; a light: either low s. or tramps' c.:—1923 (Manchon). Ex Romany.—3. 'A serious, usually rather older, bird-watcher'. See BIRD-WATCHERS', in Appendix.

dudes is Randle Holme's (and others') spelling of duds, clothes.

Dudley. A water bottle: railwaymen's (E.R.): since ca. 1950 (?). Railway, 2nd.

duds. Clothes: mid-C.16–17 c. (Harman, Head); in C.18–20, low (Grose, Trollope). Ex C.15 dudde, cloth, a cloak; cf. dudbery, q.v. To sweat duds was C.19 c. for to pawn clothes.—2. In C.16–20 coll., occ. rags or old clothes.—3. The sense 'portable property' is, orig. in mid-C.17–18, English c., but in C.19–20 it is mainly US 'standard'.—4. Female knickers: late C.19–20. A specialisation of sense 1.—5. In Aus.—since ca. 1940, only trousers. (B.P.) dudsman. A seller of so-called contraband clothes: c.; (?) late C.18–early C.19. Cf. dudder, q.v.

due for the hammer or the shillelagh. An Anglo-Irish c.p. (C.20) applied to a person about to be dismissed or to a team about to be beaten.

dues, fair. See fair doo's.

dues, the. Money: orig. (—1812) c.; by 1860, coll.; by 1890 ob. Vaux; Ainsworth.

ducy. Twopence: circus s. via Parlyaree: mid-C.19–20. (Baumann.) Cf. duce, and see dooce and doocy.

dufer. An occ. var. (Aus.) of doofer or doofah, 1, a deliberately extinguished, partly-smoked cigarette, saved to do for later on. B., 1943.

duff, n., gen. prec. by the. The selling of actually or supposedly smuggled goods: late C.18–early 19 c.—2. Food: nautical coll.: late C.19–20. (A.E.W. Mason, The Dean's Elbow, 1930.) Orig. a lowerdeck term (—1831, Basil Hall), for a suet pudding. See ARMY SLANG, verse 3, in Appendix.—3. Hence (?), a tin in which pudding is served; prison s. (not c.): C.20. H.U. Triston, Men in Cages, 1938.—4. Tobacco: Aus. c.: since ca. 1945. (Ian Grindley.)—5. In man at the duff, a seller of certain goods (as in sense 1): c.: C.19 Cf. duffer, 1.—6. 'Sometimes we trawled up a bag of "duffs", globes of compacted weed, a grey oatmeal sort of colour, which looked like big puddings' (Steven Piper, The North Ships, 1974): trawlermen's: C.20.—7. In up the duff (of a woman), pregnant: Brit. and Aus. low: C.20. 'He put (or got) her up the duff' (B., 1942.) Cf. pudden club, which prob. suggested it.—8. See piece of dough.

duff, v. To sell inferior goods, esp. clothes, pretending they are stolen or smuggled: orig. (—1781) c.; by 1860, low.—2. Hence, to make old clothes appear new by manipulating the nap: coll.; from ca. 1835.—3. To alter the brands of stolen horses or, esp., cattle (—1869); hence, to steal cattle by changing the brands: Aus. s. > coll.; ob. Carton Booth in Another England, 1869; Boldrewood, The Squatter's Dream, 1890.—4. V.i. and t. To be a duffer (no good); to be a duffer at: ca. 1880–1915. (Ware.) Ex duffer, 4.—5. To render unusable; to ruin; to destroy: RAF: since ca. 1935. Jackson. Cf. sense 3.

duff, adj. No good; inferior: Glasgow, late C.19–20; in WW2 and after it enjoyed every widespread use in the army and RAF (e.g. 'duff weather', cf. the earlier dud weather, and duff gen); later it spread to the world of entertainment. L.A. cites the Observer, 27 Jan. 1974, where a 'duff script' is used to describe a very loosely constructed, at times pointless, film script. Cf. the v., esp. senses 4 and 5.

duff-bag. 'Formed in the sailor's black "silk" when the bight is tied in by the tapes of his jumper forming a loop just wide enough to hold two fingers' (Granville): RN: since ca. 1910.

Duff-Choker. Nickname for a Yarmouth fisherman: driftermen's: C.20. D. Butcher, Driftermen, 1979.

duff days. Thursday and Sunday, when that pudding appeared at the gun-room's dinner: RN coll.: C.19. Bowen.

duff gen. Unconfirmed and improbable report; unreliable news: RAF since ca. 1930. See duff, adj., and gen. Partridge, 1945.

duff night. Guest night on a warship: RN officers': late C.19–20. Bowen.

duff out of. To cheat or rob (a person) of: from ca. 1860; ob. Cf. duff, v., 1, 3.

duff up. To wreck; to bungle badly: since 1940s. Ex duff, v., 5, as is—2. To beat up or assault (a person): since ca. 1950. 'He was duffed up pretty badly by a crowd of young louts ...' (P.B.)

duffer. A seller of pretended stolen or smuggled goods: mid-C.18–19; orig. c.; by 1860 low and slightly ob. Grose, 1st ed.; Colquhoun, 1796, in Police of the Metropolis, 'A class of sharpers ... duffers'; Dickens; Thackeray. Hence, among jewellers, c. 1820–90, specifically 'a maker of spurious goods, esp. sham jewellery' (Sessions, Oct. 1840).—2. A pedlar; a hawker, esp. of women's clothes: low coll.: from late C.18; ob.—3. A 'renovator' of inferior goods, esp. clothes: low coll.; from ca. 1850.—4. A worthless object, esp. counterfeit coin; as 'an article of sham jewellery' it appears in Sessions, Oct. 1840: low s.—5. A female smuggler: C.19 nautical.—6. Ca. 1820–50, a professional cheater of pawnbrokers: low if not c.—7. In Aus., a cattle-stealer (or illicit brander): s. > coll.; from ca. 1870, though unrecorded before 1889.—8. An unproductive mine-claim: Aus. coll.:—1861 (H. Finch-Hatton, Advance Australia, 1885). Cf. shicer, q.v. (OED; SOD; Morris.)—9. A person of no ability (since—1842); a dolt (from ca. 1870): both coll. The former nuance still, 1970s, has some currency.

duffer- or duffing-fare. A person driving in a cab to oblige the driver: London cabmen's: ca. 1900–10. Ware.

duffer out. (Of a mine) to become unproductive: Aus.:—1885; coll. > j. by 1910. Cf. duffer, 8.

duffie. A duffel jacket or coat: Aus. teenagers', esp. surfers': since the late 1950s. Pix, 28 Sep. 1963.

duffing. The practice of selling worthless goods as valuable: low > coll.; from ca. 1850. See duff, n. and v., and duffer, 1, 2.—2. In Aus., thieving of cattle (gen. preceded by cattle-): s. (—1881) > coll. by 1900.

duffing, ppl adj. Inferior or counterfeit but offered as superior or genuine (—1851); of a person selling such goods (—1862).—2. Dull, stupid; foolish: from ca. 1880; rare in C.20.

duffing-fare. See duffer-fare.

duffman. Sick: rhyming s.: late C.19–20. In full: Duffman Dick. W. Buchanan-Taylor, Shake the Bottle, 1942.

Duffoes. Ratings of the Plymouth Division: RN: C.20. (P-G-R.) Perhaps ex duff, n., 2: cf. Guzzle. Bowen records duffo as also a Devonport ship.

duffy, n. A ghost or spirit: West Indies, chiefly among the Negroes:—1864 (H., 3rd ed.). R.S. states that duppy, occ. duppie, is the correct form of this (West Indian) Negro word.—2. A quarter of gin: London: ca. 1800–50. (Bee.) Ex daffy. Duffy bottle, a bottle of gin, occurs in The Portfolio, 16 May 1807, reporting, at p. 247, col. 1, a British source. (Moe.)—3. In have a duffy, to have a look: RAF: since ca. 1920. Poss. a corrupt var. of dekkio. Contrast—4. Have a duffy at, have a try at: Services: since ca. 1935. P-G-R.

duffy, v. To polish (e.g. one's buttons): RAF: since ca. 1930.

duffer. An orderly room: army: late C.19—early 20. (F. & G.) Ex Hindustani daftar, an office.

dug-in job. A safe job; a privileged job: army: since ca. 1917.

dug-out. An over-age officer back in service: military: 1912 (OED Sup.). Because dug-out of his retirement. See esp. B. & P.—2. Hence, adj.: 1915. E.g. dug-out king, one who kept to his dug-out (Aus.: 1916), and dug-out disease, 'chronic fear of death and danger which kept those, whose rank permitted any choice, safe in their dug-outs' (gen.: 1917).

dug-out dud. Orderly-room clerk: army: WWI. Cf. dug-out, 1, and see donga dick.

dugger-dugger-dugger, often prec. by a little bit of. An attack by jet multi-role combat aircraft against a ground target, using cannon rather than bombs: since mid-1970s. (Anthony Grey, 'Flying a Jaguar' in Illustrated London News, Jan. 1977.) Obviously ex small boys' imitation of machine-gun fire. (P.B.)

duggies. Market-traders' C.20 dim. of-dugs, of a woman's breasts or nipples, has, since ca. 1880, been a vulg., though it is permissible in S.E. if used as a strong pejorative.

Duke. Cf. Duke of Kent.—2. Inevitable nickname for all males named Kent: since ca. 1930.—3. A navvies' nickname (ca.1850–1910) for a man with a large nose. 'Out of compliment to the Great Duke' (of Wellington): D.W. Barrett, Navvies, 1880.

duke. A handsome man, esp. if of showy appearance: gen. as rum duke (B.E.): late C.17—early 18 c.; 2, hence (see rum), 'A queer unaccountable fellow' (Grose, 1st ed.): c.: late C.18—early 19; often as rum duke.—3. Gin: ca. 1850–80; a below-stairs term.—4. A horse: cabmen's; ca. 1860–1910.

—5. In c. also, a burglary, a robbery: from ca. 1840; ob. The first and second are derivable from the idea of aristocracy; the third is etym. problematic; the fifth comes prob. ex Romany (cf. dookering).—6. (usu. pron. dook). A huge nose: lower classes: from ca. 1840; ob. (Ware.) See Duke, 3.—7. (usu. pron. dook). An upper-form boy; certain Public Schools: late C.19–20.—8. A Ducati motorcycle; in production since 1950: motorcyclists' (Dunford).—9. A clay marble: NZ children's: C.20. Ruth Park, The Witch's Thorn, 1952.

Duke Humphrey. See dine with Duke..., to go hungry.

Duke of Fife. A knife: rhyming s.: late C.19–20. (F. & G.) Cf. Duchess of Fife.

Duke of Kent. Rent: rhyming s.: 1932 (P.P., Rhyming Slang). Often shortened to Duke (or duke).

duke of limbs. An ungainly fellow, esp. if tall: coll.: mid-C.18—mid-19. Grose, 1st ed.

duke o(f) Seven Dials. 'Satirical peerage bestowed upon any male party dressed or behaving above or beyond his immediate surroundings': proletarian London: ca. 1875–1900. (Ware.) Seven Dials was a very poor quarter, near Covent Garden.

Duke of Shoreditch, the. A mock-title: coll. verging on S.E.: ca. 1547–1683. See esp. Ellis's History of Shoreditch, p. 170.

Duke of Teck. A cheque: rhyming s., mostly theatrical: late C.19–20. Cf. Duchess... Franklyn, Rhyming.

Duke of York, n. A walk: rhyming s.: since ca. 1860. D.W. Barrett, Navvies, 1880.—2. A storm trysail: nautical: from ca. 1880.—3. A cork: rhyming s.: from ca. 1890. London Evening Standard, 19 Aug. 1931.—4. Chalk: rhyming s.: C.20. Len Ortzen, Down Donkey Row, 1938.—5. A fork: id. Jack Jones, ed., Rhyming Cockney Slang, 1971.

Duke of York, v. To talk; to walk: rhyming s. (—1859 the latter;—1873 the former).

Duke of Yorks. Forks: rhyming s.:—1874; ob. H., 5th ed.—2. Hence, fingers; hence hands; hence dukes, q.v.

duker. The proprietor of a large nose: streets': ca. 1840–70. (Ware.) See duke, 6.—2. A lighter of a special type operating in the Mersey and Manchester Ship Canal: nautical: late C.19–20. (Bowen.) Why?

dukes, often, esp. in C.20, pron. dooks. Hands; fists: low:—1874. Ex Duke of Yorks, 2. Another theory holds the term to be ex the rules of the Duke of Queensberry. P.B.: but he, 1844–1900, was a marquess; so I advance yet another theory: could the term stem from the Romany dukker, to tell fortunes (? palmistry) ? See dookering. See also grease the dukes, to bribe; put up the (or one's) dukes, to prepare for fisticuffs; molly-dooker, a left-hander.

Duke's, the. The Argyll Rooms in Windmill Street: London: ca. 1860–1900. (Ware.) Ex Duke of Argyll.—2. The Duke of Wellington's, now the West Riding, Regiment: military: not before 1853. F. & G. duke's stove. A field cooker used in N. Africa, 1940–3. See Benghazi cooker.

dukey. Alternative spelling of dookie, q.v., an unlicensed theatre.

Dulke. (Gen. pl.) A boy of the Duke of York's Royal Military School: coll.: C.20. OED Sup.

dukkering. See dookering, fortune-telling.

dulay; dupan. Milk; bread, resp.: military: WWI. (B. & P.) I.e. Fr. du lait, du pain, (some) milk, (some) bread.

dulcamara. A quack doctor: cultured coll.: ca. 1845–1910. Ex a character in L'Elisir d'amore, by Donizetti, who adopts the medieval L. name for the herb gen. called bittersweet.

dull as dish-water, as. A late C.19–20 coll. var. of-dull as ditch-water, as. Extremely dull: since ca. 1800; coll. till ca. 1880, then S.E.

dull as lead. Var. of prec., esp. of a person: coll.:—1923 (Manchon).

dull in the eye. Topsy: coll.: ca. 1840–1930.

dull-pickle. A heavy, dull, stupid fellow: late C.17–18 coll. (B.E.) Cf. dill, 2.

Dull Street, live in. I.e. in a dull quarter: coll. (—1887) verging on S.E. Baumann. Cf. Queer Street. Cf. the early 1960s var. dullsville, anything dull and boring. See -ville. dull-swift. A stupid fellow; a sluggish messenger: coll.: mid-C.18—early 19. Grose, 1st ed.

dullmajor. 'An interpreter in British prisoner of war camps in Germany': 1915–18. By Hobson-Jobson ex Ger. Dolmetscher. F. & G.

dullsville. Anything dull and boring. One of the more widely-used of the terms formed with the suffix -ville, q.v., adopted ex US ca. 1960.

dully. A dull person: coll.: 1883 (OED). Cf. stupid as a n. dum-dum. See dumb-dumb.

dum tam. A bunch of clothes carried on his back, but under his coat, by a beggar: North Scot. c.: C.19. EDD. This seems to be a cant phrase denoting that although this is carried as beggars carry their children, it is mute.

dumb. Stupid; dull; silent: S.E. ca. 1530–1650; (? revived) in US as s.,—Thornton records it for 1843; anglicised, likewise as s., ca. 1920. See quot'n at marvellous.

dumb arm. A maimed one: coll.: late C.18—early 19. Grose, 1st ed.

dumb blonde. An extremely pretty, but very stupid, girl, blonde by nature or by artifice; the sort portrayed to perfection by Marilyn Monroe in the film The Seven-Year Itch: coll.: adopted, ex US, ca. 1940. Cf. dumb, adj, and dizzy blonde. (P.B.)

dumb-cow. To brow-beat or cow: Anglo-Indian coll.:—1886. Prob. ex Hindustani dhamkana, to chide or threaten, via the process of Hobson-Jobson. Y. & B.

Dumb Dick. Nickname for a talkative sailor. See Bob Short. dumb-dumb, dum-dum. 'Suddenly, within the last few months, this rather unpleasant epithet has erupted among us, army and civilians alike. Presumably—factually, indeed—from the US and therefore prob. imported via TV and radio. "She's a stupid cow—a right dumb-dumb!"' (P.B., Apr. 1974).

dumb-fogged, -foozled, ppl adj. Confused, puzzled, confounded: coll.; ca. 1860—1930.

dumb glutton. The puendum muliebri: mid-C.18—19 low (Grose, 1st ed.) as is the synon. dumb squint, C.19. Hence feed the dumb glutton, mid-C.18—19, or the dummy, C.19—20 (ob.), to have sexual intercourse.

dumb insolence. Breaking wind on parade: military: 1916. (F. & G.) Ex military j. for 'silent insolence'.

dumb peal. A muffled peal: bell-ringers' coll.:—1901 (Rev. H. Earle Bulwer's Glossary).

dumb scraping. 'Scraping wet decks with blunt scrapers': nautical coll.: late C.19—20. Bowen.

dumb sparkler. A silent match: c.: mid-C.19—20. 'No. 747'.

dumb squint. See dumb glutton.

dumb-waiter. An elevator: rhyming s., mostly workmen's: from ca. 1920. John o' London's Weekly, 9 July 1934.

dumb watch. 'A venereal bubo in the groin' (Grose, 1st ed.): mid-C.18—early 19: low.

dumbfound. To perplex; put to confusion; silence: from ca. 1650; coll. until ca. 1800, then S.E.—2. Also, to beat soundly, thrash: ca. 1660—1820, as in B.E.'s 'I dumbfounded the sawcy Rascal.' After confound.

dumbhead. See quot'n at dimmo.

Dumbo. Nickname for an at least app. slow-witted fellow: prob. popularised by Walt Disney's famous 'full-length' cartoon of that name, 1941.

dummy. A var., prob. the original, of dummy, 1. Boxiana, II, 1818; Bee.

dumfogged; dumfangled. C.19—20 variants of dumb-fogged. Baumann, 1887, has the latter.

dummacker. A knowing person; an astute one: ca. 1850—1910. (H., 2nd ed.) R.S. proposes a slovening of dunaker, q.v.

dumnee. Var. of dummy, 3. Lex. Bal.; Egan's Grose.

dummerer. See dummerer.

dummye. Bee's spelling of dummy, 3.

dummock. The buttocks: low: C.19—early 20. Perhaps ex Romany dumo, the back (Sampson), +ock as in bittock.

dummy, n. A deaf-mute: coll.; from late C.16. Ex dumb.—2. A person notably deficient in ability or brightness: coll.; from ca. 1795.—3. In c., a pocket-book: from ca. 1810. Vaux. (Not in Grose, 1st, 3rd edd.) In C.20, it has the specific sense 'wallet'.—4. A dumb-waiter: from ca. 1850.—5. An actor or actress that does not speak, a 'super': theatrical; ca. 1870—1920.—6. A makeshift, substitute, or rudimentary bill: Parliamentary s.; from ca. 1860.—7. In Aus., the grip-car of a Melbourne tram: coll.: ca. 1893—1905. (Morris.) Ex Dummy, the Northumberland dial. nickname for a colliery carriage: 1843 (EDD).—8. A loaf of bread: c.:—1909. Ware, 'Probably from the softness of the crumb'; cf. sense 3.—9. 'Ground disc' (Railway): C.20. I.e. a subsidiary signal, set at ground level, and used in shunting work.—10. For chuck or the dummy, see chuck... dummy, v. To take up (land), nominally for oneself, really for another: Aus.: since ca. 1860. 'Tom Collins', Such is Life, 1903, 'Bob and Bat dummed for ole McGregor'.

dummy chucker. A goods shunter: railwaymen's: since ca. 1945. (Railway, 2nd.) See dummy, n., 9.

dummy(-daddle) dodge. Pocket-picking under cover of a sham or 'dummy' hand or 'daddle': c. of ca. 1850—1900.

dummy engineer. An engineer midshipman: RN: since ca. 1920. P-G-R.

dummy-hunter. A pickpocket specialising in 'dummies' or pocket-books: c.: ca. 1810—1910. Vaux.

dummy run. A practice evolution: RN coll.: C.20. Bowen.—2. Hence, a rehearsal: RN: since ca. 1910. R.S., "'Bartimeus" uses it, à propos preparations for a marriage service, in Naval Occasions (1914). The army and RAF had annexed it by ca. 1943; by 1950, it > fairly gen. civilian; by 1955, coll.; by 1960, among scientists and technicians, j.

dummy up. To keep silent. Sometimes used as a command to an over-talkative accessory in dangerous company: "Dummy up!" (Powis): c.: 1970s.

dummy week. Non-payment week: RN: C.20. The ratings are paid fortnightly. It is often called also blank week: RN coll.: since ca. 1939. (Granville, 1962.)

dump, n. A small coin or sum of money: Aus. coll. and s. resp.; 1827, ca. 1840. Both ob. by 1895; † by 1910. Ex a small coin, worth 1s. 3d. (6 p), called in as early as 1823 (Morris).—2. Hence, a button: c.:—1859. App. only in dump-fencer, q.v.—3. A place: orig. army, since ca. 1915, soon > gen. and widespread; usu. pej., except when used in jest. Ex the j. sense, a place where war material, old or salvaged, is stored, for the most part in the open, hence a refuse heap, itself ex dump, v., 2.—4. Hence, a hotel: tramps' c.:—1923 (Manchon).—5. Hence, a lodging-place or residence; a cache of stolen goods: NZ c. (—1932), also Aus. B., 1942.

dump, v. To extinguish, as in 'dump the tolly [candle]': Winchester College: mid-C.19—20. (EDD).—2. To throw or set down heavily; let fall heavily: ex US (—1830), anglicised ca. 1870 as a coll. that, ca. 1900, > S.E. Cf. the M.E. damp, to fall heavily—whence dump, perhaps on thump. W.—3. Hence, esp. in WW1 and after, to put, set, place, no matter how. An earlier instance of this sense occurs in W.L. George, A Bed of Roses, 1911.—4. Hence, to abandon (e.g. stores): Services', from 1940; by 1945 in gen. civilian use, by which time even people could be dumped in this sense.—5. To press (wool) closely: Aus.: since ca. 1920. (B., 1943.) Perhaps ex 3, influenced by S.E. tamp.

dump-fencer. A button-seller: ca. 1855—1910: low, perhaps c. (H., 1st ed.) For fencer = seller, cf. ariz-fencer. See dump, n., 2. SOD records dump, from 1770, as 'a leaden counter, used by boys in games'.

dumpex. A heavy wave on a surfing beach: Aus. coll.: since ca. 1920. (B., 1942.) It picks one up and dumps one down.—2. A cigarette-end: Aus.: since ca. 1925. (B., 1943.) An object one 'dumps'. Hence a dumpex-dasher, one who picks up cigarette-ends off the street and smokes them (B.). This sense specialises the gen. English sense 'cigarette', which seems to have existed since late C.19, to judge by Peppitt's proof (J.R. West, 1909).

Dumpies, the. The Nineteenth Hussars: from ca. 1860; ob. Ex the smallness of the men when the regiment was raised in 1859: cf. the S.E. Bantams of WW1. See also Dumpydice.

—2. Also, for similar reasons, a nickname of the 20th Hussars and the 21st Lancers: from ca. 1870; ob. F. & G.

dumplin(g). A short, thick-set man or woman: from ca. 1610: until ca. 1800, coll.; then S.E.; now ob. Cf. Norfolk dumping, an inhabitant of Norfolk, ex the prevalence of apple and, esp. plain, suet dumplings.—2. In have a dumplin(g) on, to be with child: proletarian:—1909 (Ware); ob. by 1930. Cf. duff, n., 7. dumpling-depôt. The stomach: C.19—early 20. Cf., and after, bread-basket. J.J. Conington, The Castleford Conundrum, 1932, "'This telegram produced some sensation?" " ... It did. Fair took 'em in the dumping depot."

dumpling-shop. The human paps: lower classes': C.19–20; ob.—2. A var. (—1923) of dumpling-dépôt. Manchon.

dumplings. Early C.18 s. for female breasts. Cf. prec., 1.

dumps. Dumplings: cooks' and domestics': C.20.—2. As the dumps, a fit of melancholy; depression: C.16–20; S.E. until ca. 1660, then coll., esp. when prec. by in. Spectator, no. 176 (1711), 'when I come home she is in the dumps.'—3. As the dumps, money: from ca. 1835; ob. Barham speaks of suicide 'for want of the dumps'. Ex dump, n., 1.

dummy. A short, squat umbrella: coll.: 1925+. Collinson. Synon. and contemporary with chubby.

Dumpydice. '19th Hussars or "dumpydice" (as we have called them on account of their diminutive stature)' (Colour-Sgt T. Gowing, in a letter from Peshawur, 26 Oct. 1860). A blend of dumpy + dice, the smallest copper coin in India at the time, a quarter anna. See also Dumpies.

dun. A creditor importunately asking for what is his: from ca. 1628; orig. coll.; in C.19–20, S.E. Wycherley, 'insatiable ... duns'. Possibly ex a stock name of the John Doe, Tommy Atkins type, as W.'s analogy from the Paston Letters seems to show.

dun, v. To persist in trying to get what is due to one: from ca. 1626; in C.19–20, S.E.; before, coll. Killigrew, 'We shall be revenged upon the rogue for dunning a gentleman in a tavern.' Prob., despite recorded dates, ex the n.

dun, adj. See scruff, n., the lowest stratum of society in C.19 Newfoundland.

Dun Cow, the Old. The River Clyde, a steamer driven on the Gallipoli shore in April 1915: naval and military: 1915. Ex the wooden horse at the siege of Troy, 'whose site could be seen from her decks' (Bowen).

dun is the mouse, gen. dun's the mouse. A c.p. quibble made when done is mentioned, a mouse being dun-coloured; when spoken urgently it connoted 'keep still!' Ca. 1580–1640. A later C.17 form is dun as a mouse, which, implying no warning, prob. arises from the confusion of 's = is or as (or, though not here, has). Apperson.

dun territory. 'Circle of creditory to be had': Oxford University: ca. 1820–40. Like Codrington's (and Mostyn's) Manors, Dynasty of Venus, Fields of Temptation, Land of Sheepishness, Plains of Betteris, Point Nonplus, Province of Bacchus, Pupil's Straits, River Tick and salt-pits, it occurs in Egan's Grose, 1823. Egan himself used all these terms two years earlier in his Life in London.

dunagan. An early C.19 var. (Egan's Grose) of dunnaken, q.v.

dunaker. A stealer of cattle, esp. of cows: late C.17–early 19 c. (B.E.) Variants, dunnocker, donnaker. Ex dunmock, q.v.

Dunbar wether. A red herring: Scottish: C.19–20; ob. B. & L. (at trout). Cf. Yarmouth capon.

duncarring. Homosexuality: late C.17–early 18. (B.E.) Prob. ex a person's name.

dunch. To dine at lunch-time: cultured middle class's: from ca. 1929; very ob. Somerset Maugham, Cakes and Ale, 1930, 'Verbs that you only know the meaning of if you live in the right set (like "dunch")'.

Dundalks. Shares in the Dundalk Steam Company: Stock Exchange coll. (—1895) soon > j. A.J. Wilson's Glossary.

dundering rake. This (B.E., ca. 1690) is almost certainly the correct spelling of Grose's duddering rake, q.v. Dunder is a var. of the mainly Scottish dunner, to thunder.

dunderaries. A pair of whiskers that, cut sideways from the chin, are grown as long as possible: from Sothorn's make-up in Our American Cousin (see next entry); the fashion was antiquated by 1882, dead by 1892. This coll. term (1858) survives. Cf. Piccadilly weepers.

dunderary. A stammering, silly, long-whiskered dandy: coll.; from 1858, the year of Tom Taylor's once famous comedy, Our American Cousin, in which Lord Dundreary appears; hence, from ca. 1860, a foppish fool. The former †, the latter ob.

dunegan. An early C.19 var. of dunnaken. Lex Bal.

dung. A workman at less than union wages: C.19; in C.20, merely historical.—2. Mid-C.19–20, also a 'scab'.—3. Ca. 1760–1840, a journeyman tailor satisfied with regulation wages. In Sessions, 17–20 Apr. (trial of Wm Milbourn et al.), 1765. Blood, a journeyman tailor, says, 'They that were agreeable to our rules we called Flints and those that were not were called Dungs.' See flint, and cf. scab.

dung, v. To defecate; when used of animals it is S.E.: of humans, it is not: upper classes': late C.19–early 20. (P.B.)—2. See dung it.

dung-cart or -fork. A yokel; a country bumpkin: coll.: C.19–20; ob.

dung-drogher. A guano ship: nautical coll.: late C.19–20. Bowen.

dung-hunter. The De Haviland D.H. 6 aircraft: Aus. airmen's: 1920s–30s. (Mrs B. Huston.) Prob. a pun on the initials. Cf. synon. clutching hand.

dung it; esp. as vbl n., dunging it. To be a traitor to the trade: tailors': mid-C.19–20. (B. & L.) Cf. dung, n., 3.

dungaree, adj. Low, coarse, vulgar: Anglo-Indian: from ca. 1830; ob. Ex the coarse blue cloth and the name of a disreputable Bombay suburb.

dungaree-settler. A poor settler in or of Aus.: Aus. coll.: ca. 1840–70. (A. Harris, Settlers and Convicts, 1852: Morris.) Ex clothing himself, wife and family in clothes made of dungaree.

dungeon. See industrial dungeon.

Dungheap. A Dunell motorcycle: motorcyclists' nickname: 1920s. (Dunford.)

dunghill. See die dunghill.

dunhead. An undesirable character: Aus.: since ca. 1930. D'Arcy Niland, The Shiralee, 1955.

dunk. To dip: Cockney-ex-Yiddish: mid-C.19–20. (Julian Franklyn, 1959.) For etym., see tunk. Current in Aus., 'but only for the practice of dipping biscuits, etc., in tea' (B.P.). By 1945, coll.

dunker. One who habitually 'dunks': mostly Aus.: since ca. 1930: s. >, by 1950, coll. (B.P.)

dunlde. A girl: mostly Londoners': since ca. 1965. Short for Dunkin' Donuts, a sort of crumpet, a pun on crumpet, a girl regarded sexually.

dunkle. 'Anything bad, e.g. weather' (S/Ldr G.D. Wilson, 1979): RAF: 1970s. Prob. ex Ger. dunkel, dark, familiar to RAF in Germany from Dunkelbier, dark ale.

Dunlop. In Mr D—, an inner bicycle-tube filled with sand and used as a 'cosh': British prison-camps for Britons: 1915–18. Private X, War is War, 1930.

Dunlop brackets. 'Rubber bands cut from old inner tyre tubes' (Dunford): motorcyclists': 1970s.

Dunlop tyre (often shortened to Dunlop). A liar: since ca. 1905. Rhyming: cf. synon. holy friar.

dunna. See dunno.

dunnage. Clothes; baggage: nautical: from ca. 1850. (Mayhew.) Cf. duds. Ex the S.E. sense, matting or brushwood used in packing cargo (W.).

dunnage-bag. A kit-bag: RN: late C.19–20. F. & G.

dunnaken or -kin; dunneken or -kin; dunnyken or -kin; dunagan, -egan. A privy: late C.19–20; c. >, by 1860, low coll. In C.17–18, dannaken: orig. c., then low s.: see danna. Whence do a d., to visit one: low: late C.19–20. Manchon. (The form dunnakew, in B.M. Carew, 1791, is prob. a misprint.)

dunnaken. 'Used as an adj. at the R.M.A. Woolwich, 60 years ago to denote one's oldest uniform, in contradistinction to "spange" referring to one's best uniform,' as an eminent soldier writes in a private letter, 1937.

dunnaken-drag. A night-cart: ca. 1820–60. (Egan's Grose.) Cf. danna-drag at danna.

dunnaw. See dunno.

dunneken or -kin. See dunnaken.

dunner. An importunate creditor: from ca. 1690; coll. till C.19, then S.E.; in C.20 somewhat archaic. (B.E.) Dunning, vbl n., coming late is S.E.

dunnick-drag. A var. pron. of danna-drag (q.v. at danna). Vaux.

dunno. Do not know: sol.: C.19–20. Often dunno!, I don't know. Occ. dunna or dunnaw.

dunnock. A cow: (? C.17.) C.18–early 19 c. (Grose, 2nd ed.)? ex dun, adj.: the dun cow is famous and serves as a title to a satire by Robert Landor.

dunnocker. See dunaker.

dunnovan. Var. of donovan, q.v., a potato.

Dunn's three-and-ninepenny. Generic term for men's cheap headgear. See Lincoln and Bennett.

dunny. A privy: Aus.: since ca. 1880. Ex dunnaken. (John Cleary, The Sundowners, 1959.) Mostly juvenile, it occurs in Norman Lindsay, Saturdee, 1933.

dunnyken or -kin. See dunnaken.

dunop. A pound (gen. sterling): back s., from ca. 1865. Dnuop > dunop, for the sake of euphony. See Words!, article 'Rhyming Slang'.

duns. 'Tradesmen dealing with a ship or its crew': nautical: late C.19–20. (Bowen.) They have the impudence to ask for their money.

dunstable. The head: boxing public: ?ca. 1800–50. Bill Truck, Sep. 1823.

Dunsterforce. A miscellaneous army formation, commanded by Maj.-Gen. L.C. Dunsterville, CB (1865–1946), the original of Kipling's schoolboy 'Stalky', and operating in N. Persia, early 1918. (See this gallant officer's The Adventures of Dunsterforce, 1920.) Later in 1918 these troops were reorganised as the Northern Persia Force—see Noperforce. The nickname, if at first coll., very soon > army j.; it is included here as an example of this sort of nomenclature, which was again used, in WW2, for several special formations, e.g., 'Paiforce' = Palestine and Iraq Force. (P.B.) duo. A duodenal ulcer: medical students': from ca. 1920.

dup (pron. doop, often in pl), n. A duplicate copy of a document, key, etc.: Services', since ca. 1950 (? earlier); whence, esp. for documents, office typists', secretaries', etc., by ca. 1955. Cf. trips = triplicates, quads = quadruplicates. (P.B.)

dup, v. To open: mid-C.16–18 c.; now dial. (Harman, Head.) Elisha Coles, 1676, defines it as 'to enter [the house]'. Not do up but do ope(n). See also dub, v., 1.

dupan. Bread. See dulay.

dupey-dupe. A slow-witted police constable, esp. one likely to be returned from detection to uniformed duty: police s.: since ca. 1950. G.F. Newman, Sir, You Bastard, 1970.

duppie, or duppy. A ghost or spirit: the correct form of duffy, n., 1, noted by Hotten, 3rd ed. A West Indian Negro word. (R.S.)

durance. A prison: coll.: ca. 1690–1750. B.E. (Unrecorded by OED, this sense gives added point to in durance vile.)

duration, for the; rarely the duration. For a very long time indeed: military: from 1915. Early in WW1, one enlisted for four years or the duration of the war. B. & P.

Durban. In off to D—!, A S. African c.p.: from ca. 1920. 'From a music-hall gag for any person going on a gallivanting holiday' (Prof. A.C. Partridge, 1968).

Durbz. Durban: S. African coll.: since ca. 1910. James McClure, The Sunday Hangman, 1977.

Durham man. A knock-knee: late C.18–early 19 coll. Grose, 3rd ed.: 'He grinds mustard with his knees: Durham is famous for its mustard.'

duria. Fire: C.19 c. ('Ducange Anglicus', 1857.)? cf. Romany dugilla, lightning.

durn, durned. Variants of darn, darned: low coll.: C.19–20. Freeman Wills Crofts, Mystery in the Channel, 1931, 'It's durned strange they didn't tell you themselves, without your comin' to me abahit it.'

durra, dhurra. Indian millet: Anglo-Indian coll.: from late C.18.

durrie (properly dhurrie). According to the army vocabulary of barrack stores, there are two types of durrie: 'durries, coloured, one (or however many)' and 'durries, plain'; they are small, usu. about 2 ft x 3 ft, bedside mats: still, 1980s, extant, the term is a good example of usage surviving from the C.19 army in India. (P.B.)—2. See-durry. A cigarette butt: low Aus.: C.20. (B., 1942.) Ex duria, fire?—2. Hence, since ca. 1910, a cigarette: id. B., 1943.

durrynacker. A female lace-hawker, gen. practising palmistry 'on the side'. Vbl n., durrynacking. Mayhew: mid-C.19–20 c.; ob. Ex Romany dukker, to tell fortunes: cf. dookering, q.v.

durzee. A var. of derzy, q.v., a tailor.

dust, n. Money: coll.: from ca. 1600. Esp. in down with one's or the dust, to pay, as in Fuller, 1665. 'The abbot down with his dust, and glad he escaped so, returned to Reading.' Prob. abbr. gold-dust.—2. A disturbance, 'row', esp. in kick up a dust, cause a 'shindy': from ca. 1750; s. until ca. 1890, then coll. (Raise a dust is S.E. and more lit.)—3. Gunpowder: Aus. coll.: mid-C.19–20. Baker.—4. Flour: Aus.: since ca. 1860. 'Tom Collins', Such Is Life, 1903.—5. Portland cement: builders': C.20.—6. The smallest-size shot from cannon: naval: since early C.19. Whence duster, a broadside thereof: id. (Peppitt.) Perhaps the orig. of sense 3.—7. Semen; as in the phrase 'blow one's dust', to ejaculate: low: later C.20. (L.A., 1978.)—8. See next, 3.

dust, v. To blind (fig.); befool, as in dust the public: Stock Exchange; from ca. 1814; ob. by 1930. Abbr. the S.E. dust the eyes of.—2. dust or dust off (or out), v. To depart hurriedly: in C.17 S.E.; in C. 19 US s., whence C.20 English s.—3. To discipline (someone) severely: army, esp. the Guards: since ca. 1920. Hence get a dust, to receive severe disciplinary treatment. P-G-R.

dust-bin. A grave: from ca. 1850; ob.—2. Gun position on the underside of an aircraft: RAF: ca. 1939–49. (H. & P.) It receives the dirt; also, some types of pre-WW2 bomber had a belly-turret shaped like a dust-bin. (Robert Hinde, letter, 1945.)—3. Bridge in a motor torpedo (or gun) boat: RN: since ca. 1938. Ex the shape and appearance. Granville.—4. Mark VII depth charge: RN: WW2. Brian Johnson, The Secret War, 1978.

dust-bin lid (usu. pl.). Child: rhyming s. on kid: C.20. Franklyn 2nd.—2. A Jew: rhyming s. on Yid: later C.20. Ronnie Barker, Fletcher's Book of Rhyming Slang, 1979.

dust-bin seven. An old, cheap, small car: ca. 1925–50. App. suggested by Austin Seven, the famous small family car of the period.

dust-bin totting. Unauthorised removal of refuse from dustbins: C.20. (The Times, 25 Apr. 1940.) Also d-b tatting. See tot, n., 5.

dust (one's) cassock, coat, doublet, or jacket, with for him (her) occ. added. To thrash; † criticise severely. Coll.: the first and third, C.18, Smollett; the second, late C.17–early 19, but anticipated in Tusser's 'What fault deserves a brushed cote'; the fourth and sole extant, from late C.17, as in Farquhar, Barham.

dust (a ship) down. To sweep her decks: nautical: late C.19–20. Bowen.

Dust Hole, the. The Prince of Wales's Theatre in Tottenham Court Road, London: theatrical, from ca. 1840–1900. (The theatre, which, ca. 1830–50, accumulated its sweepings under the pit while it was still the Queen's Theatre, moved in the late 1880s.)—2. Sidney Sussex College, Cambridge: ca. 1860–85. H., 3rd ed.—3. See GUARD-ROOM, in Appendix.

dust in the eyes, have. To be sleepy: cf. draw straws and the dustman's coming. Coll.: (? C.18.) C.19–20; ob. (throw dust in the eyes, like bite the dust, is S.E.) See also sandman.

dust it away (gen. in imperative). To drink about, esp. quickly: coll.: late C.17–18. (pace the OED.)

dust of the Burma Road. Bread: R Can. N: 1942–5. P-G-R.

dust off (or out). To depart hurriedly. See dust, v., 2.

dust (one's) pants. To spank: coll.: late C.19–20. Cf. dust (one's) cassock...

dust parade. 'Morning fatigue party for cleaning up' (H. & P.): Army: since ca. 1920.

dust-up. Var. of dust, n., 2, q.v., a disturbance or 'row': C.19–20. Ware.—2. A fall from a horse: Aus. coll.: late C.19–20. Archer Russell, Gone Nomad, 1936.

dust whapper (or whopper). A carpet-beater: ca. 1815–70. George Smeeton, Doings in London, 1828.

dustbin. See dust-bin.

dusted, adj. Beaten; worn out: Aus.: since ca. 1930. Dymphna Cusack, Southern Steel, 1953.

duster. A sweetheart (female): tailors': from ca. 1850; ob.—2. (Also the red duster.) A red ensign: nautical: from ca. 1895. Cf. coach-whip.—3. A broadside of small-shot. See dust, n., 6.

dusters. Testicles: army: C.20; ob. by 1948. But extant in RN and among Cockneys. Perhaps joc., ex dust accumulated by shorts-wearers, esp. in India or in desert country. P.B.: or boastful—they hang so low as to dust the deck?

Dustie, Dusty. A nickname for any man surnamed Miller: late C.19–20. Because a miller is gen. dusty. 'Taffrail' seems to provide the earliest written evidence of this. Cf. Knobby Coles and Smoky Holmes, and see Dusty Miller.—2. A nickname for any man surnamed Rhodes: id. Ex the phrase 'dusty roads'; contrast Shady Lane.

dustie, -y. A dustman: Londoners':—1851 (Mayhew, II). Cf. posty, postman.—2. 'A ship's steward's assistant—probably because this hard-worked official looks it' (Ware): RN: from late C.19. (Goodenough, 1901.) See also dusty boy, and Jack Dusty.—3. A C.20 var. of dustman, 2. Manchon.

dusting. A thrashing; (nautical) rough weather: both from late C.18.

dustman. (Esp. be a dustman.) A dead man: late C.18—early 19. Grose, 1st ed.—2. Sleep personified, esp. in the dustman's coming, used chiefly to children: coll.; from ca. 1820; ob. (Egan's Grose.) Egan, in Life in London, 1821, also records the var. to have met with the dustman, to feel sleepy. Cf. sandman.—3. A gesticulatory preacher, apt to raise the dust: 1877, Blackmore (OED).—4. A naval stoker: RN: late C.19–20. Bowen.

dustman's bell, the. Time for bed: nursery coll.: from ca. 1840. See prec., 2. Ware.

dustman's hat. A slouch-hat of much the same shape as a dustman's: coll.: early C.20. Collinson.

dustoor(y). Commission as 'rake-off'; douceur; bribe: Anglo-Indian, the shorter form, ca. 1680–1830; then, mainly, the longer. Largely displaced by ba(c)kshree(sh).

Dusty, dusty, n. See Dustie, dusty.

dusty, adj. Penniless: lower classes': ca. 1870–1930. (B. & L.) Cf. gritty.—2. In none or not so dusty, good (cf. not so or too bad): from ca. 1854. Smedley, in Harry Coverdale, 'None so dusty that—eh? for a commoner like me.' Ex much earlier S.E. dusty, mean, worthless. Cf. mouldy.—3. Frighteningly uncomfortable; dangerous for the uninitiated: later C.19. Punch, 8 Feb. 1868, p. 65: 'on board the packet between Dover and Calais, and the passage is what the Captain has already prophesied it would be—"dusty".' Cf. the later C.20 synon. dodgy, dicey or hairy.

dusty answer, give (someone) a. To give him an unhelpful reply. See give (someone) a dusty... dusty bob. A scavenger: coll.: ca. 1850–1910.

dusty boy. A ship's steward's assistant: RN: late C.19–20. ('Taffrail', Pincher Martin, 1916.) Cf. dustie, n., 2.

Dusty Miller. A coal-mine worker: miners' joc.: C.20.

dusty-nob or -poll. A miller: coll.: C.16–17 the latter; C.17 the former (rare). Cf. Dustie, 1, and prec.

dusty pup. A 'dirty dog': Aus. coll.: from ca. 1920; ob.

dut. See dutt.

[Dutch. Both n. and adj. were, in C.17—early 18 (owing to trade rivalry and naval jealousy) very opprobrious or derisive; the coll. sense endured throughout C.18, some of the following phrases becoming S.E. in C.19; but the few terms or phrases coined in C.19 have remained s. or coll. See esp. 'Offensive Nationality' in Words! and Grose, P., s.v. Dutch.]

dutch. In in dutch, in trouble; under suspicion: Can.,

adopted ex US ca. 1925, with additional nuance 'in disfavour' (Leechman); Aus. since ca. 1935 (B., 1942).—2. In do a dutch, to desert; run away; abscond: army and Cockney: ca. 1870–1930. Ware.—3. Esp. as my old dutch, a wife: from ca. 1885; mostly Cockney and esp. costermongers'. Prob. coined by Albert Chevalier, who explained it by the resemblance of 'the wife's' face to that of an old Dutch clock: cf. dial, q.v. (I used, with W., to consider it an abbr. of duchess, but Chevalier, I now feel tolerably certain, is right.) But see also Duchess of Fife.—4. See beat the Dutch; sink the Dutch; TAVERN TERMS, § 3c, in Appendix; go dutch.

Dutch (or double Dutch or Dutch fustian or High Dutch), talk. To talk a foreign tongue, or gibberish. The third, used by Marlowe, may never have > coll. or gen.; High, ca. 1780–1860; Dutch is C.19–20 (ob.); double Dutch (H., 1st ed.), easily the commonest since ca. 1860. All are coll. A humorous var. for linguistic dexterity is the ca. 1870–1900 to talk double Dutch backwards on a Sunday.

Dutch are in Holland, the. A 'trick' c.p. among schoolchildren early in WW1 was: '(Have you) heard the latest?'—'No. What?'—'The Dutch are in Holland.' Perhaps in fact older than 1914, and revived then? (Mrs Phyllis Hughes, 1983.)

Dutch auction or sale. A mock auction or sale; either at 'nominal' prices, esp. after the goods have been offered at a high price: coll. An early occurrence is in Ruskin, Unto This Last, lectures delivered in 1859.

Dutch bargain, i.e. one-sided: coll.; from ca. 1650. With var. wet bargain, it also means a business transaction concluded with a drinking together.

Dutch brig, the. 'Cells on board ship or in the naval prisons': RN: mid-C.19–20. Bowen.

Dutch build (or -built). (Of a person having) a thick-set figure: coll.—1831 (Basil Hall, the adj.); ob. by 1930.

Dutch by injection. Said of a woman living with a foreigner. See injection...

Dutch cap. A type of female pessary: orig. Londoners' and Services', since ca. 1925; by ca. 1950 far more widespread. Ex the shape.

Dutch caper. A light privateering-ship, esp. if Dutch: naval: ca. 1650–1720. Bowen.

Dutch cheese. A bald-head(ed) person: low Cockney: 1882—ca. 1915. Ware, 'Dutch cheeses are generally made globular.'—2. The divisional sign of the 4th British Infantry Division: army: WW2. (P-G-R.) Ex the shape, a circle with one quarter 'sliced' and slightly protruding. (P.B.)

Dutch clock; old D.c. A wife: almost imm. abbr. to dutch, q.v.; † by 1900.—2. A bed-pan: from ca. 1880; ob.

Dutch comfort. 'Thank God it is no worse' (Grose, 2nd ed.): coll.; from ca. 1787. A C.19 var. is Dutch consolation (H., 1st ed.).

Dutch concert or medley. Where everyone plays or sings a different tune: the former (Grose, 1st ed.) from ca. 1780, the latter C.19–20 (ob.) and gen. of voices only. Coll.

Dutch consolation. See Dutch comfort. [Dutch courage, courage induced by drink, has prob. been always S.E. So too, I think, Dutch defence, a sham one (Fielding).]

Dutch fart. See Dutchman's...

Dutch feast. 'Where the entertainer gets drunk before his guests' (Grose, 1st ed.): coll.; ca. 1780–1880. Cf. Dutch treat.

Dutch fuck. Lighting one cigarette from another: Forces': 1940+. Prob. ex Territorial Army, where current from or before 1938. Also called Don Freddie, the Signalese for D.F. See PHONETIC ALPHABET, in Appendix.

Dutch gleek. Drinks: ca. 1650–1870. Gayton, 1654.

Dutch Guards, the. Army nickname for the Royal Warwickshire Fusiliers. Orig. an English regt serving in Holland, late C.16–17, they were recalled to England in 1665 on the outbreak of the Anglo-Dutch war, but were not brought on to the British establishment until 1688. Carew.

Dutch have taken Holland, the. A C.17—early 18 form of Queen Anne's dead.

Dutch kiss, n.; Dutch-kiss, v.i. Low coll. of C.20, as in Auden & Isherwood, The Dog under the Skin, 1935, 'The boots and the slavey dutch-kissing on the stairs', it seems to mean indulgence, or to indulge, in sexual intimacies. Cf. synon. French kiss.

Dutch medley. See Dutch concert.

Dutch nightingale. A frog: 1769, Pennant (OED): joc. coll. >, by 1840, dial.; ob. Cf. fen nightingale.

Dutch oven. The olfactory state of the bedclothes after one has broken wind in bed: low: since ca. 1910, esp. in the Army. ob.—2. The mouth: boxers'—1923 (Manchon).

Dutch palate. A coarse palate, lit. and fig.: coll.: ca. 1675–1800.

Dutch party. See Dutch treat.

Dutch pegs. Legs: rhyming s.—1923 (Manchon). Cf. Scotch pegs.

Dutch pennants. Untidy ropes: nautical (RN) coll.: mid-C.19–20. Merely another of these little national amenities.

Dutch pink. Blood: boxing: 1853, Bradley's Verdant Green, 'That'll take the bark from your nozzle, and distill the Dutch pink for you, won't it?' Ob. by 1910, virtually † by 1930. Ex the S.E. sense (1758).

Dutch pump. A punishment entailing vigorous pumping to save drenching or, occ., drowning: nautical coll.: late C.17–early 19. Bowen.

Dutch reckoning. A lump account, without particulars: ca. 1690–1800: coll. > S.E. Cf. altamal(!), likewise in B.E.—2. Among sailors (—1867), 'a bad day's work, all in the wrong', Smyth.—3. A bill that, if disputed, grows larger; a sharing of the cost or the money, plunder, etc.: coll.: late C.17–20; ob. Swift.

Dutch red. A highly smoked Dutch herring: nautical coll.: late C.19–20. Bowen.

Dutch row. 'A got-up unreal wrangle': Cockney coll. (—1909); ob. Ware remarks that, even in his day, it was rarely heard. Cf. moody ruck, q.v.

Dutch sale. See Dutch auction.

Dutch street, eat (or lunch or dine) in. To eat with someone, each paying his own bill: late C.19–20. (A Belfast newspaper, 31 May 1939.) An elab., or perhaps rhyming s. on:—

Dutch treat. An entertainment at which each pays his share: coll.; from ca. 1875. Thornton records it for Iowa in 1903; in US one finds also Dutch lunch and D. supper, while D. party is common to both England and US in C.20. Cf. Dutch feast, and see go dutch.

Dutch uncle, talk to (someone) like a. To lecture in a way didactic and heavy-handed, yet kindly meant for the person's own good: coll.: from ca. 1830. Ex the Dutch reputation for extremely rigorous discipline and the gen. idea resident in patruæ verbera linguæ and Horace's ne sis patruus mihi, the particular idea in Dutch baas = boss = master; (ship's) captain.

Dutch widow. A harlot: coll.; ca. 1600–1750. Middleton, 1608, 'That's an English drab, sir.'

Dutch wife. A bolster: from ca. 1880; ob. Ex the S.E. sense, an open frame used for resting the limbs in bed.

Dutchie. A Dutchman; occ. a German (see Dutchman): allusive and nick-nominal: mid-C.19–20 coll.—2. In Aus., any Central European: coll.: C.20. Baker.

Dutchman. A German; 'any North European seaman except a Finn': nautical coll.: mid-C.19–20. Bowen. (So too in US.) Ex earlier S.E.—2. A piece of quartz somewhat resembling an uncut diamond: S. African diamond-diggers'—1913 (Pettman). Perhaps ex the next.—3. The champagne of Deutz & Gelderman: middle-classes': ca. 1870–1910. Ware.—4. (Gen. pl.) The 'mark' made by a drop of rain on still water: children's:—1923 (Manchon).—5. An irregular hard lump in brown sugar: late C.19–20.

Dutchman if I do!, I'm a. Certainly not! See I'm a Dutchman...

Dutchman's anchor. Anything that, esp. if needed, has been left at home: nautical: from ca. 1860. Bowen. From the Dutch skipper who explained after the wreck that he had a very good anchor but had left it at home.' It occurs esp. in alongside the Dutchman's anchor, left behind: RN: C.20.

Dutchman's breeches (occ. breeks). Two streaks of blue in a cloudy sky: nautical coll.:—1867 (Smyth). Sailors gen. use it in form, enough to make a pair of breeches for a Dutchman.

Dutchman's Cape. Imaginary land on the horizon: nautical coll.: mid-C.19–20. Bowen.

Dutchman's drink. One that empties the pot: coll.; from ca. 1860.

Dutchman's fart. A sea-urchin: trawlermen's: C.20. D. Butcher, Trawlermen, 1980, glossary.

Dutchman's headache, the. Drunkenness: coll.:—1869; virtually † by 1920. Apperson.

Dutchmen. See Dutchman, 4.

Dutchy. See Dutchie.

duties. Duty-free goods, esp. cigarettes: RN: since ca. 1940. Short for duty-frees, itself a C.20 coll.

duit (or dut). A hat: North Country: C.20. Ex a hatter named Dutton?

duty. 'Interest on pawnbrokers' pledges': respectable lower classes':—1909 (Ware, 'Evasive synonym').

duty beauty. A WRNS duty officer: RN (mostly wardroom): WW2.

duty boy. The officer of the day or of the watch: RN officers': since ca. 1920. P-G-R.

duty calls (usu. prec. by Ah, well!; excuse me; or some such). 'I must go to the gents' (rarely the complementary): c.p.: since ca. 1919. (A reminder from Albert Petch.)

duty dog. Duty Officer; loosely, Orderly Officer: Services: since ca. 1920. (H. & P.) Cf. dog-watch.

duty stooge. A duty corporal or airman: RAF: since ca. 1938. (Gerald Emanuel, 1945.)

duty-sub, the. 'The duty sub-division of the watch, to be called upon to relieve pressure when needed' (Granville): RN coll.: C.20.

dwang, in the. In grave trouble, 'in the shit': Services', esp. RAF, mostly in the Middle and Far East: since late 1930s. (Based upon usage evidence supplied by Mr A.G.E. Jones, 1974.) Still current in 1970s. (S/Ldr G.D. Wilson, 1979.)

dwarf. 'A [type of] signal' (Railway, 2nd): railwaymen's: current in 1950s.—2. See poison dwarf.

dwell. A pause: sporting coll.:—1887; ob. Baumann.—2. A firmness in the market: Stock Exchange coll.:—1923 (Manchon).

dwell on. To like very much, to long for (someone): Aus. coll.: since ca. 1930. (Sarah Campion.)—2. 'Eagerly to await another's decision of action' (B., 1959): Aus.: since ca. 1930.

dwell the box. To be patient; to wait: low: since ca. 1930. Norman.

dye. See die.

d'ye, d'you. Do ye, do you?: coll.: C.19–20.

d'ye want jam on both sides? A military c.p. (1914; ob.) imputing unreasonableness. (B. & P.) More gen., what do you want—jam on it?

dying duck in a thunderstorm, look like a. To have a ludicrously forlorn, hopeless, and helpless appearance: coll., orig. rural: from ca. 1850. Ware.

dying man's dinner. Something edible or potable snatched, opportunity favourable, when a ship is in peril and all hands at work: nautical: late C.19–20; slightly ob. Bowen.

dyke; dykey. See dike; dikey.

dynamite, n. Tea: middle classes': 1888–9. Ex Irish-American dynamiters' evasive term (the Daily News, 4 Feb. 1888). Ware. Cf. dynamiter.—2. Baking powder: Aus.: since ca. 1920. (B., 1942.) It causes cakes, scones, etc., to rise during cooking—to 'blow up'.

dynamite, adj. (Of persons) violent, brutal, drastic, autocratic, powerful, expert—all or each to an alarming degree; (of things) extremely dangerous or sudden. Coll., from ca. 1914. Cf.:

dynamiter. Any violent person: ca. 1882–90. (Ware.) See dynamite, n.—2. A car with a defective air-mechanism that inopportunately puts the brakes full on: Can. railroadmen's:—1931.

dynasty of Venus, the. 'Indiscriminate love and misguided affection' (Egan's Grose): Oxford University: ca. 1820–40.

d'you feel like a spot? See how will you have it? (For d'you, see d'ye.) An invitation to drink.

d'you know something? 'copied in Britain from American speech, may well be a Germanism . . . derived from Weisst du was: The point is that in conversational German was is used as a shortened form of etwas, meaning something, though its true meaning, as a word in its own right, is what. One assumes that German immigrants did not realize the existence of the traditional "D'you know what?" and quite unconsciously evolved "D'you know something?" on the strength of their native expression' (Brian Foster, The Changing English Language, 1968): in US since ca. 1930, in Britain since ca. 1945. D'you know what? itself probably goes back to well before 1900—perhaps so far as 1850.

dyspepsia. Delirium tremens: military hospitals':—1909 (Ware).

dyspepsy. Dyspepsia: uncultured Can. coll.: late C.19–20. John Beames, Gateway, 1932.

E

E. See give the big E.—2. See h- and 'ee.

E-Boat Alley. 'Quite a sizable fleet... entered the World Channel, to which the war had given the name E-Boat Alley' (Humphrey Jordan, Landfall and Departure, 1946): nautical: WW2. (Off the Yorkshire coast.)—2. Granville defines it as 'the stretch of coast between Great Yarmouth and Cromer and The Wash'.

E.C. women. Wives of City men: snobbish Society: ca. 1881–1900. (Ware.) From the London postal district designated East Central.

'e dunno where 'e are! A c.p. of the 1890s. Quotations Benham (cited by Collinson). It was taken from a music-hall song: 'Since Jack Jones come into a 'arf a' nounce o'snuff, 'E dunno where 'e are. 'E's got the cheek and impudence To call 'ee's muvver Ma.' (Julian Franklyn, 1962.) A later C.20 var. is 'e dunno where 'e's at! (P.B.)

e.g.b. and its source, expected gentlemanly behaviour. 'In fairly general use in the defence industry as a term of sarcastic abuse' (Peppitt): since ca. 1960. (N. Calder, Unless Peace Comes, 1967.) Ex Services' j.

'e knows. A c.p. punning Eno's advertisements for liver salts: from ca. 1905; ob. by ca. 1950. Also Eno's, q.v.

E.P. or e.p. An experienced playgoer: theatrical: late C.19–early 20. Ware.

e.t.b.s. Issue knickers: WRNS: since ca. 1940. I.e., elastic top and bottom. Granville.

eager beaver. 'One who pitches right in, sometimes to the dismay of less highly geared colleagues, and sometimes none too intelligently' (Leechman): Can., adopted ca. 1940 ex US; in Brit. use since ca. 1955, perhaps earlier. By imperfect reduplication: perhaps suggested by the US (as) busy, or industrious, as a beaver. The term has prob. contributed to the popularity of the phrase to beaver away (at a task), q.v. at beaver, v.

eagle. The winning gamester: c.: late C.17–18. (B.E.) Cf. —2. A hole done in two strokes under bogey: golfers' s., adopted ca. 1922 ex US; by 1930 > j. Prob. suggested by golfers' birdie.—3. Chicken: RN College, Dartmouth: C.20. Bowen.—4. A German Stuka dive-bomber: RAAF: ca. 1940–5. B., 1943.

eagle-eye. Locomotive engineer: Can. railroadmen's:—1931. He needs it. 'Ironic, and mostly used by non-drivers' (Priestley).

eagle-hawking. The plucking of wool from dead sheep: Aus. 'bush':—1898 (Morris). Ex this habit of the Australian eagle-hawk.

Eagle-Takers. The 87th Foot, British Army: so named after Barossa, 1811, when they captured a French eagle. Moreover, its colours bear an eagle laurel-wreathed. See also Aiglers, Faugh-a-Ballagh Boys and Old Fogs, alternatives.

eagled. Punished by being spread-eagled: nautical: C.19–20; ob. Bowen.

'Eaps, Eeps. Ypres: army: WW1. (B. & P.) See also Wipers.
ear, n. A policeman: urban S. African: low: since ca. 1940 (?) Peter Driscoll, The Wilby Conspiracy, 1973: 'The ears. The jacks. The tokoloshes. The police,' Slack explained. He listens—esp. if he's a detective. P.B.: cf. the Malay mata mata, eyes [everywhere], police.—2. In on (one's) ear, in disgrace: adopted ex US ca. 1909. Ware.—3. In on (one's) ear, tipsy: Aus.: since ca. 1910. K.S. Prichard, Haxby's Circus, 1930.—4.

Hence, get on one's ear, to get drunk, as in K.S. Prichard, The Black Opal, 1921 (p. 17).—5. On one's ear also means '(of a task or undertaking) easily accomplished' (B., 1959). Aus.: since ca. 1920. As Claiborne points out, 1976, 'One can do it lying down.'—6. See put on (one's) ear; flea in (one's) ear.

ear-bash, n. A talk: Aus.: since ca. 1925. Cf. next. Jon Cleary, The Sundowners, 1952.

ear-basher. One who is a bore: Aus.: since ca. 1945. (The Times, 27 Dec. 1963.) Cf. prec. and:

ear-bashing, n., v., and occ. as adj. Conversation; talking, esp. fluently and at length: Aus. soldiers': 1939+. Rats, 1944, 'You musta thought me a queer sorta feller with me French plays and me Bach fugues—ya know them things he's often ear-bashing about.'

ear-biter; ear-biting. A persistent borrower; borrowing; see bite one's ear, than which the two terms are slightly later.

ear-flip. A sketchy salute: Services: since ca. 1930. H. & P. ear-guards. Small side-whiskers: Aus.: C.20. Baker.

ear-(h)ole; lad, lobe. 'The lads are the non-conformists'—esp. the boys of 15–16 years—'in a school. Conformists are called "Ear'oles" or, more succinctly, "Lobes"' (Paul Willis, 'Lads, Lobes and Labour' in New Society, 20 May 1976—a most enlightening article): as a group and separately, state school pupils': since ca. 1965 (? since ca. 1960). An ear'ole or 'ear-hole' is so called because he's a listener, and compliant, lobe is short for S.E. ear lobe and loosely, inaccurately, var. of ear-hole. See also lad and lad of the village.—2. In on the ear-(h)ole, cadging (esp. money): orig., early C.20, army (F. & G.); by 1919, low s. (J. Curtis, You're in the Racket Too, 1937.) Cf. ear-biter.

ear-(h)ole, v. To take a corner at an acute angle: motorcyclists': since ca. 1925.—2. To eavesdrop, to listen in to someone's conversation: low: since ca. 1930. (Norman.)

ear-lugger. A persistent borrower; a 'scrounger': Aus.: C.20. (Baker.) Cf. ear-swinger, ear-biter, and ear-hole, n., 2.

ear-mad. 'The thickened ear (in its upper portion) found in some cases of insanity': medical: from ca. 1870. (B. & L.) But is this not a misprint for ear, mad, the term surely being mad ear, which would be not s. but coll.; moreover, † by 1930. Dr M. Clement confirms me in this view and states that it is a lay, not a medical term; the medical term is 'degenerate ear'; mad ear refers, moreover, to the external ear. See, e.g., W.S. Dawson, Aids to Psychiatry, 1924; 3rd ed., 1934. Cf. mad nurse.

ear'ole. See ear-(h)ole.

ear phones. Women's hair-style, with hair drawn to the side and clamped over the ears: since ca. 1930.

ear-swinger. An unemployed docker dunning his working mates for a loan: nautical: C.20. (Bowen.) Cf. ear-biter and -lugger.

ear to the ground (, usu. keep an, or one's). Be alert to what is going on, and to what is likely to happen: coll.: since (?) ca. 1950. (P.B.) ear-wiggling. A var., poss. the orig. form, of wiggling, n.: C.19. Wm Maginn, Tales of Military Life, 1829 (at II, 299). 'The effect of Sir Edward's petty tyranny, and the ear-wiggling—as it is expressively termed in military life—were now apparent.' (Moe).—2. See earwig, v.

Earl of Cork. The ace of diamonds: Anglo-Irish (—1830) coll. Carleton, 'Called the Earl of Cork, because he's the poorest nobleman in Ireland'.

Earl of Mar's Grey Breeks. The 21st Foot, British Army: military: C.18–19, but † by 1890. Ex the colour of the breeches and the orig. title, The Earl of Mar's Fusiliers.

Earl of Murray. See dine with St Giles.

earlies, the. The early days—old times—in Australia: Aus. coll.: since ca. 1925. (B., 1943.) Or in Africa: since ca. 1910.

early. Keeping early hours; rising early: coll. (—1893) >, by 1920, S.E. OED.—2. In rise or wake or get up very early, to be wide-awake, ready, astute: rise, C.18; the other two C.19–20, with get up the commoner in C.20. Orig. coll.; in C.20, S.E. Swift.—3. See small and early.

early bird. A word: rhyming s.: late C.19–20. (Lester.) Cf. dick(ey) birds, 5.—2. As the Early Bird, an express goods-train carrying provisions, through the night, to London: railwaymen's: from ca. 1920. (Daily Telegraph, 15 Aug. 1936.) Cf. the Early Riser.

early door. A whore: rhyming s.: late C.19–20. Franklyn, Rhyming.

early doors. A pair of (female) drawers: rhyming: since ca. 1870. As Red Daniells observed, 1980, 'Obviously an interchange with [i.e. between Covent Garden porters and] the theatre, like D'Oyly Carte [q.v.]'.

early hour. A flower: rhyming: since ca. 1880.

early on; late on. Early in the morning; late at night: coll.: mainly North Country: late (? mid-)C.19–20.—2. Hence (?), early—or late—in the proceedings; soon: coll.: C.20.

Early Pullman. 'An imaginary architectural style marked by over-elaborate decoration like the first Pullman cars on North American railways' (Leechman): Can. (ex US): since ca. 1945. Cf. North Oxford Gothic and Stockbrokers' Tudor, qq.v. early riser. A laxative: mid-C.19–20 coll. Cf. custom-house officer.—2. 'A sharp, business-like person' (Ware): coll.: adopted ex US ca. 1895. Ex early, 2, q.v.—3. Blanket carried by a tramp: Aus.: C.20. B., 1942.—4. As the Early Riser, a fast freight train running to London: from ca. 1920. (It arrives early in the morning.) Daily Telegraph, 15 Aug. 1936.

early-turner. A performer taking his 'turns' early in the programme, hence before the more fashionable part of the audience has arrived: music-halls' coll.:—1909 (Ware).

early worm. One who searches the streets at dawn for cigar and cigarette stumps: coll.: from ca. 1870; ob. Ex S.E. sense. Baumann. earn, n. Money gained by bribery. See AUSTRALIAN UNDERWORLD, in Appendix.

earn, v. To 'find' or 'win', i.e. to steal; get by looting: Services': WW1 and since. (F. & G.) Cf. make, liberate, and other similar euphemisms.—2. 'To make corrupt or dishonest profit. A thief might say about a proposed fraud or illegal scheme: "We can all really earn on this one!"' (Powis): c.: 1970s.

earn (one's) corn. To be worth one's wages—one's keep: coll., orig. farmers': mid-C.19–20; also as (be) worth (one's) corn. Cf.:-

earn (one's) oats. To earn one's food; pull one's weight: Aus. coll.: C.20. (B., 1943.) Like the prec., ex the upkeep of horses.

earner; earners. The former is glossed by G.F. Newman, in Sir, You Bastard, 1970, 'Money earned, esp. illicitly'. The latter occurs in P.B. Yuill, Hazell Plays Solomon, 1974, 'Your earners is coppers' language for pay-off money ... Minty had always believed I was on the take'. Police s., prob. since the 1930s. Cf. earn, n. and v.—2. (as earner) 'Any circumstances that thieves can turn to corrupt or dishonest advantage: "We are on to an earner here!"' (Powis): c.: 1970s. Cf. earnings.

earnest. A share of the booty: mid-C.17–18 c. (Head; B.E.) Cf. S.E. senses.

earnings. Proceeds from robbery or other crime: c., perhaps esp. S. African: prob. since 1930s. Angus Hall, On the Run, 1974.

ears. Those little frames on either side of the title of the paper which journalists call "ears" or "ear-tabs" (Julian Ralph, War's Brighter Side, 1901 p. 99): journalists' and copy-writers' s. >, by 1930, coll.—2. In it's (or it'd be) as much as (one's) ears are (or were) worth, it is, would be, very risky for him: coll.: later C.19—earlier 20.—3. In get your ears back or put back, get your hair cut: army c.p.: earlier C.20. (F. & G.) Cf. synon. get (one's) head sharpened.—4. In have or keep (one's) ears flapping, to listen, esp. if closely; to make an effort to keep track of events: coll.: since ca. 1950. Cf. ear to the ground.

ears burn or are burning (, one's). To feel that somebody is speaking of one: coll.; from ca. 1750, but in other forms from C.14 (Chaucer).

ears go back with a click. (Gen. his ears went ...). A † 'near' c.p. indicative of pleasure manifested at good news: army: from not later than 1915. F. & G.

'eart, 'ave an. See have a heart!

earth. An early var. of erth (q.v.), three. H., 1st ed.

earth-bath, take an. To be buried. By itself, earth-bath = a grave. C.19 low. Lex. Bal.

earth-chasers. The Torpedo Officer's electric-light party; seamen torpedomen: RN: since ca. 1920. (Granville.) Earth in its electricity sense.

earth-stoppers. A horse's feet: ca. 1810–80. An early occurrence is in W.T. Moncrieff, Tom and Jerry, 1821. Alluding to those who stop up foxes' earths.

earthed, be. (Of an aeroplane) to be brought down against its pilot's wish: RAF coll.: 1915. (F. & G.) Ex a fox earthed.

earthly, no or not an. No chance or no use. See no earthly.

earwig, n. A private and malicious prompter or flatterer: coll. > S.E. in C.18: ca. 1610–1880. Scott.—2. In C.19 c. or low s., a clergyman. 'Ducange Anglicus', 1857.—3. 'A crony, or close friend' (Sinks, 1848): ca. 1830–70. Ex the mutual whispering.—4. An inquisitive person: from ca. 1880.—5. (Mostly in pl.) recruits in training: army NCOs': since late 1940s. (P.B.)—6. 'An eavesdropper. Generally, one who uses information, overheard by eavesdropping, to curry favour with the authorities' (Tempest): c.: mid-C.20. Cf. earwigger.

earwig, v. To prompt by covert assertions; whisper insinuations; rebuke privately: C.19–20; S.E. in the latter. Marryat, 'He earwigs the captain in fine style.' Ex n., 1. The vbl n. earwiggling is more frequently used than the v.—2. To detect; to understand: rhyming s., on twig.—3. To eavesdrop: proletarian, perhaps esp. common among market-traders: C.20. (M.T.) Cf. n., 4, 6.—4. Hence, to listen in on radio telephone at sea: trawlers' and drifters': since ca. 1930. Granville.

earwig! earwig! (often shortened to earwig!) 'Be quiet! There's someone listening: c.: ca. 1830–1914, perhaps later. Sessions, 10 Apr. 1849, 'He said "earwig, earwig" ... they were then silent.'

earwig, go! 'Small comedy, esp. of marching recruits, wending their unwanted way through small seaside towns' (L.A., 1976): late 1940s. P.B.: prompted, prob., by the children's pun, "'ere we go!", as the earwig said when he fell over the cliff.'

earwigger. An eavesdropper; a conversational interloper: Services': adopted, in 1940, from US. H. & P.—2. In pl., headphones: Services: since ca. 1941. H. & P. ease, v. To rob of, steal from: coll.: C.17–20; in C.17, joc. coll.; in C.18, c.; in late C.19–20, S.E. Jonson, 'Ease his pockets of a superfluous watch'.

ease (oneself). To ejaculate seminally: coll.: C.18–20. Somewhat euph., prob. suggested by the S.E. sense, 'to defecate'. ease (one's) arm (gen. imperative). To go steady: Cockneys': from ca. 1885; ob. Pugh (2): "'Ease your arm," growled Marketer. "You know me an' I know you, I reckon. If we can't couple up wi'out jibbin', I pass—that's all."

ease it. 'Let up on it; go easy. In the ease of "fiddling" getting too dangerous, it is given as advice to lie low for a while' (Tempest): c.: mid-C.20.

ease off. To urinate: midway between s. and euph.: C.20. Bill Naughton, Alfie Darling, 1970, 'I slowly got out of bed to ease off and tidy up.'

ease up! Steady! coll.:—1923 (Manchon). Lit., slacken your pace!

easel. Motorcycle prop stand: motorcyclists': since ca. 1950. (Dunford.)

east and south. The mouth: rhyming s.:—1857 ('Ducange Anglicus'). After ca. 1895, north and south. Occ., ca. 1880–1900, sunny south. east and west. Breast: rhyming s.:—1923 (Manchon).

East Country. See West Country.

East Country ship. A ship trading in the Baltic: nautical coll.: mid-C.19–20. Bowen.

East Enders, the. The Sussex County Cricket Club: cricketers': ca. 1885–1914. Sir Home Gordon, The Background of Cricket, 1939.

East of the Griffin. (In) East London: London coll.: 1885, The Referee, 11 Oct.; very ob. Ware, 'Outcome of the city Griffin on his wonderful pedestal replacing Temple Bar'.

East (or e.) roll. A slow, gradual roll without jerks: nautical coll.: late C.19–20. Bowen.

Easter term. The summer term at Cambridge. C.20. See May-term.

easterling. 'Erroneously used by early antiquaries for sterling ... the English silver penny of the Norman dynasty' (W.).

Easterns. Shares in the Great Eastern Railway: Stock Exchange coll. (—1895) >, by 1910, j. A.J. Wilson's Glossary.

eastery. Private business: cheapjacks':—1876; ob. Hindley in his classic 'editing' of cheapjack life.

Eaustralia. Eastern Australia: Aus. coll.:—1898; virtually t. (Morris.) On Westralia.

easy, n. A spell, a rest, as in 'I'll take an easy as soon as I can': coll.: late C.19–20.—2. Spare money; ready cash: late C.19–20. Green Envelopes, 1929, p. 37. (Petch.)

easy, v.i. To dispose oneself suitably to the sexual embrace: low coll.; from ca. 1900.

easy, adj. (Of a girl) easily picked up: coll.: from ca. 1890. W.L. George, The Making of an Englishman, 1914.—2. Esp. in 'I'm easy—I don't mind one way or the other: orig., late 1930s, RAF coll.; whence to the other Services and thus into much wider use by ca. 1950.—3. Easily imposed upon: Can. coll.: C.20. (Leechman.)

easy, adv. Without difficulty: in C.19–20, coll. where not sol.; earlier, S.E.—2. Comfortably; at an easy pace, e.g. in take it easy; without severity, as in let one off easy: coll.:—1779. Cf. the Irishism be easy!, don't hurry!—3. See make easy. easy a bit! Don't hurry!: coll.:—1923 (Manchon). Cf. easy, adv., 2.

easy as ABC (, as). Extremely easy or simple to do: coll.: C.19–20. Adumbrated in 1595 by Shakespeare's 'then comes the answer like an Absey booke.'

easy as apple-pie, as. Very easy indeed: Aus. coll.: since ca. 1920 (B.P.). Cf. easy as pie.

easy as damn it; ... kiss my arse or my eye; ... pissing the bed; ... shelling peas. Extremely easy: coll.: 1st, 2nd, 3rd, and 5th, C.19–20; 4th, C.18—early 20. The polite var. and orig. of the 2nd is (as) easy as kiss my hand, 1670, Cotton (Apperson). Cf. Shakespeare's 'easy as lying' and Ray's (1678) easy as to lick a dish. Easy as an old shoe and as falling off a chair, a log, etc.) were orig. dial., not earlier than 1800. A further var. of kiss my ... is thumb: late C.19—early 20.

easy as mittens. Free in speech and/or manner; free and easy: low (s. bordering on coll.): from ca. 1890; ob. Mostly London. Milliken.

easy as pie, (as). Very easy indeed to solve, do, etc.: children's and coll.: C.20. Cf. the Aus. elab. as apple-pie, of which this is perhaps a shortening. Could it have orig. in the old abecedarian mnemonic 'A is for apple-pie ...', which, once mastered by the child, was easy? (P.B.) Cf. pie, 1.

easy as shaking drops off your John (, it's as). It's dead easy: an essentially masculine c.p.: since WW2, if not even WW1. Perhaps, since John = John Thomas, now a rather outmoded euph., the phrase is not so susceptible to the ludicrous ineptitude of ignorant girls saying 'It gets on my wick', occasionally affected by provocative girls pretending to be innocent.

easy as taking money (or toffee) from a child; gen. preceded by as. Very easy (to do): coll.: late C.19–20. The Can. (and US) version is ... candy from a kid. (Leechman.) P.B.: in the same vein is the mid—later C.20 ... pennies from a blind man. easy as tea-drinking. Aus. var. of easy as damn it, etc.: coll.: C.20. B., 1942.

easy as winking (, it's as). With (consummate) ease: coll.: C.20.

easy as you know how, it's as. It's simplicity itself, if you know how: coll.: ca. 1940–60; by 1970, t.

easy does it! Take your time! coll.; from ca. 1840.

easy mark. A girl easy to persuade into sexual intercourse: since ca. 1920. See mark, n., 3, 4, 5.

easy meat. 'She's easy meat'—of a not invincible chastity: since ca. 1920.—2. (Of a thing) easy to obtain; (of a plan) easy to effect: since ca. 1925. 'Oh, that's easy meat!' easy mort. Mid-C.17–18 c.: 'a forward or coming wench' (B.E.).

easy on! Steady!: Aus. coll.: C.20. (B., 1942.) Short for go easy on it!

easy over the pimples or stones! Go slow! Be careful! Coll.: from ca. 1870. The former ex the barber's shop, the latter ex driving on bad roads; a pun: a pimple was also a C.18–19 dial.—or perhaps illiterate—term for a pebble, as Ramsey Spencer has yet again enlightened me.

easy rider. A man living off a prostitute's earnings: since late 1960s in Brit., where prob. popularised by the film so titled and starring Peter Fonda.

easy to look at; easy on the eye. (Esp. of women) good-looking: the former, anglicised, ex US, by 1930; the latter, derivatively ex the earlier, first heard by the editor in 1936. By meiosis.

easy virtue. 'An impure, or prostitute', Grose, 1st ed.: from ca. 1780: s. >, by 1820, coll. >, by 1900, S.E. Cf. the S.E. easy, compliant.

eat. To enjoy enthusiastically: theatrical: C.20. An early occurrence is in Leonard Brandon, Peggy Harper, 1911, 'They ate the piece'; John G. Brandon has, in The One-Minute Murder, 1934, 'The audience were, in theatrical parlance, literally eating this scene.'—2. To worry; sorely puzzle: from ca. 1919. P. MacDonald, R.I.P., 1933, 'But I don't think that's what's eating you.' See what's biting you? and cf. dial eat oneself, to be very vexed (EDD).

eat a child. 'To partake of a treat given to the parish officers, in part of commutation for a bastard child' (Grose, 1st ed.). Mid-C.18—mid-19 (coll.).

eat a fig. To break into a house: s. rhyming imperfectly on (crack a crib): from ca. 1855; ob. c. H., 1st ed.

eat a scabby horse between bedrags, I could. I am very hungry: low. (A lorry-driver, quoted in New Society, 28 May 1981.) See also hungry enough ...

eat a sword. To be stabbed: C.16 coll.

Eat-Apples, Eatables; Eeetap(s). Etapes in France! military: WW1.

eat (one's) boots, hat, head. Gen. as I'll or I'd eat my ..., hat being the commonest and earliest (Dickens, 1836). A coll. declaration, usu. followed by if ... A (prob.) earlier version was ... old Rowley's (Charles II's) hat.

eat bull-beef. To become strong; fierce, presumptuous: late C.16–19. Gosson, 1579.

eat coke. In the derisive dismissal 'Go and eat coke!': low and schoolboys': ca. 1870–1940.

eat crow. To be humiliated, to 'eat humble-pie': since early C.19. Ex an anecdote from the Anglo-US war of 1812 (Brewer).

eat dirt. To submit to spoken insult, degrading treatment: coll. (in C.20, S.E.); from late 1850s. H., 3rd ed.

eat (one's) hat; head. See eat (one's) boots.

eat (one's) head off. To be idle; cost more than its, or one's, keep. Orig. (—1736) of horses; then of servants (—1874); finally (—1920) of other employees. OED; F. & H. eat like a beggar man and wag (one's) under jaw. 'A jocular reproach to a proud man' (Grose, 1st ed.): late C.18—mid-19: coll. c.p. eat like a horse. To have a very large appetite: coll.: C.18—20.

eat more fruit! A c.p. of ca. 1927—34. (Collinson.) Ex the trade slogan.

eat (one's) nails. To do something foolish or unpleasant: coll.: C.18—19. Swift.

eat (someone) out. To reprimand severely: Can.: since ca. 1930. (Leechman.) A var. of chew out, q.v.

eat sand. (Gen. of the helmsman) to shorten one's watch by turning the hour-glass before it has quite run out: nautical s. or coll.: ca. 1740—1820. Memoirs of M. du Gué-Trouin (properly Du Guay Trouin or Duguay-Trouin), 1743. Ex the sand in the glass. Cf. later synon. warm the bell.

eat (oneself) stiff. To eat a hearty meal; to gorge: school-boys': C.20. Anthony Weymouth, Tempt Me Not, 1937.

eat (one's) terms, occ. dinners. To go through the prescribed course of study for admission to the bar: a legal coll. (—1834). Ex the eating of a few meals each term at an Inn of Court. (OED.)

eat the wind out of a ship. To get nearer the wind than another ship is: nautical coll.: C.19—20. An early occurrence is in the Dublin University Magazine, Oct. 1834, p. 400 (Moe). cf. wipe (a shooter's) eye.

eat (one's) toot. To eat toot was the pioneer way of describing the period during which new immigrants settled down to the cold facts of New Zealand life. More correctly the expression was to eat tutu, for it was from the poisonous plant of that Maori name that the phrase was taken' (B., 1941): NZ coll.: ca. 1830—90. Baker records R.B. Paul, Letters from Canterbury, 1857, 'Which old settlers call eating their tutu.' Note: the correct pron. of the Maori word is 'toot', much as that of Lake Wakatipu is Wakkatip.

eat up. To massacre (a man and his family) and confiscate his property (1838); hence, to vanquish in tribal battle (1859): coll. (Pettman.) Prob. ex a Zulu metaphor. In late C.19—20, gen. = to ruin, hence to be much too strong or too skilful for another.

eat vinegar with a fork. To be sharp-tongued. See vinegar with a fork...

Eatables. See Eat-Apples.

eaten a stake, he has. Said of a stiff, upright person. See swallowed a stake.

eating irons. Knife, fork, and spoon: Services' coll.: since ca. 1920. (H. & P.) Weapons (cf. shooting irons) with which to attack the meal.

eatings. Board, meals, food: proletarian: C.19. Ware.

eats. Food: C.20 coll. Cf. eat, M.E., a meal, and C.11—early 17, food, both S.E.

eau (pron. ooh)-clobber. Waterproof clothing: motorcyclists': since ca. 1950. (Dunford.)

eau-de-Cologne, often shortened to eau(-)de. Telephone: rhyming s.: C.20. 'Give me a blow on the eau de.' (Franklyn 2nd.)—2. A girl, a woman: itinerant entertainers' rhyming s. on the Parlyaree palone, q.v.: late C.19—20. (Lester.) Sometimes shortened to eau-de.

eautybeau. Beauty: music-hall transposition, or central s.: —1909; ob. Ware.

ebb-water. Lack of money: late C.17—18. B.E. says it is c.; perhaps it is, rather, low s. or low coll.

ebenezer. In fives, a stroke that so hits 'line' as to rise perpendicularly: Winchester Coll.: C.19. 'Ebenezer = stone of help (Hebrew)' (Rev. A.K. Chignell); perhaps from the line, 'Here I raise my Ebenezer' (where Ebenezer is understood as 'altar stone') in the hymn beginning 'Come, Thou fount of every blessing', by Robert Robinson (1735—90).—2. The penis: C.20. (R.S.) Prob. from the same line.

ebony. A Negro: coll.: ca. 1860—1910. Abbr. son of ebony

(1850). Hence var. a bit or piece of ebony:—1923 (Manchon).—2. (Gen. Old Ebony.) The publisher of Blackwood's Magazine; the periodical itself: ca. 1860—1900. Ex the colour of its cover. P.B.: more prob. simply a pun on 'black wood'.

ebony optic. A black eye; e.o. albonized, the same—painted white: C.19. 'Ducange Anglicus'.

eccer, ecker, ekker. Exercise, physical or scholastic: Oxford undergraduates', hence Public Schools': late C.19—20. (Ware.) By the 'OXFORD -ER'.—2. Hence, in the 1880s—1890s, Oxford undergraduates' s. for Association football. (The Times, 12 Oct. 1938.) Cf. soccer.—3. School homework: Aus. schoolchildren's: C.20. (B., 1942.) Ex the exercises forming so large a part of homework.

ecclesiastical brick. A holystone: nautical, mostly officers': late C.19—20. (Bowen.) By elab.

'eck-as-like. In such phrases as 'did he/she 'eck-as-like!', 'would they 'eck-as-like do it for us', certainly not, 'it is highly unlikely': Yorkshire coll.: C.20. (Mrs Janet Bowater, 1979.) See also heck!

Ecks. See Ecks.

eclipse. In gaming, a fraudulent manipulation of a die with the little finger: c.: late C.17—18.

ecnop. A prostitute's bully: back s. on ponce: low: C.20.

eco nut. 'A pejorative term for [one] excessively concerned about the protection of the environment' (B.P.): prob. orig. US; Aus. and Brit. since ca. 1970. Ex ecology + nut, n., 13. A similar formation, dating from perhaps slightly later, is ecofreak; again, ex ecology, + freak, n., 3. The meaning is the same.

ecod. A mild oath (among its variants are edad and edod): coll.: C.18—19. ? ex egad, itself C.17—20; ob. except in joc. usage.

ed. Editor: only in compounds, as city-ed: C.20 journalistic. Cf.:

ed (or ed.), the. The editor: journalists' and authors' coll.: C.20. Neil Bell, Winding Road, 1934.

edgabac. Cabbage: back s.:—1859 (H., 1st ed.).

Edgarism. Atheism; loosely, agnosticism: clubmen's: 1882. Ex Edgar, 'the villain-hero' of Tennyson's prose play, The Promise of May. (Ware.)

edge, n. Adjutant: army: early C.20. Ex Cockney pron. of adj.—2. Antagonism; tension arising from mutual dislike: coll.: since mid-C.20. 'It was a peaceful discussion until she came in, and then of course there was bags of edge had to be involved.' (P.B.) Pearson Phillips on Formula air racing, in Telegraph Sunday mag., 19 Aug. 1979, 'There is a little bit of regional edge to all this. The "Redhill Crowd" are just a bit miffed about being beaten by the "Midlands Mafia".' Earlier in Aus.: Baker records have an edge against (someone); and in 'Tom Collins', Such Is Life, 1903, there is 'Magomery's got an edge on you, for ... leavin' some gates open'.—3. In have (got) an edge on, to be impudent; put on 'side': Public Schools': C.20. P.G. Wodehouse, 1903, 'Doesn't it strike you that for a kid like you you've got a good deal of edge on?' Contrast:—4. In have the edge on, to have a slight advantage over: Can. coll., adopted ex US: C.20. (John Beames.) The phrase has been in coll. use in Brit. since mid-C.20 at latest, esp. in sporting language. (P.B.)—5. For noise the edge, see MOCK AUCTION, in Appendix.—6. See outside edge; over the edge; short top edge.

edge 'em. To commence drawing a crowd: market-traders' (e.g., Petticoat Lane): C.20.

edge it! Be quiet! Stop it!: Aus.: C.20. Xavier Herbert, Capricornia, 1939. 'Hey—edge it, Mum!'

edge of nothing. Nowhere to sit. See thin edge of nothing. edge off, or, v.t., out off. To slink away; to desist gradually: coll.: from ca. 1860. Cf. the S.E. usages, whence it naturally develops.

edge up. (Gen. in imperative.) To move quickly: Glasgow: —1934.

edgenaro. An orange: back s.:—1859 (H., 1st ed.).

Edgware Road. See underpants... edgy. Irritable; nervous: coll.: C.20. Ex nerves on edge.

Eddie. A cheap prostitute: Londoners', esp. police: since ca. 1945. From the point of view of the police, the best of the street-walkers, or "Toms" as they were called, was the Mayfair professional, and the worst the Edies of the East End, Piccadilly and the railway stations' (John Gosling & Douglas Warner, The Shame of a City, 1960).

edition, first, second, etc. One's first, second, or other child: journalists', authors', and publishers' s. fast becoming a gen. bookish coll.: from ca. 1890. (There is prob. a further pun on addition.)

Edna. The inevitable nickname of men surnamed May: Services': earlier C.20. (F. & G.) Ex Edna May, the actress.—2. In on (my, your, etc.) Edna May, on one's way: rhyming s.: C.20; since ca. 1930, predominantly theatrical. Ex the famous music-hall entertainer. Franklyn, Rhyming.

edod! Rare coll. var. of adod!, a mild exclam. or oath: late C.17—early 18. (OED.) Cf. ecod.

educated. 'Wide'—experienced and intelligent, but 'bent': police: since late 1940s. G.F. Newman, Sir, You Bastard, 1970.

Educated Evans. 'The man who dispels lore with information. In the silence that ensues someone will sum him up: Educated Evans!': workshops, etc: C.20. (L.A., 1974.)

educated ignorant. A term used by 'ordinary people' to describe one who, though highly educated and full of 'book-learning', is woefully lacking in common sense, and quite incompetent at those everyday tasks that the 'ordinary people' perform through practice forced on them by necessity: since ca. 1950, at latest. (P.B.)

educated trimmer. An engineer officer: nautical, esp. executive officers': late C.19—20. (Bowen.) Opp. bridge ornament.

education has been sadly neglected, my or your or ... A joc. c.p., esp. if the matter is unimportant: C.20.

Edwardian. A Teddy-boy: joc.: ca. 1956—64. Cf. Teddy-boy.

Edwards. King Edward potatoes (a very popular kind): growers' and sellers' coll.: since ca. 1910.

ee; 'ee. Ye: coll. abbr.—1775: ob. — Sheridan, 'Hark ee, lads' (OED).

-ee. Often to humorous, occ. to coll. effect (imitative of legal terms) as in kickee, the person kicked: from ca. 1860. Somewhat pedantic.

ee, it was agony, Ivy! A c.p. from the radio comedy show 'Ray's a Laugh', late 1940s. It was uttered falsetto by a character addressed by 'Ivy' as 'Mrs 'Oskins': popular among schoolchildren at the time. (P.B.) ee, mum, my bum's numb. Pron. in a mock-North Country accent, used as a jibe by Southerners against the Northern accent: C.20. I have heard the occ. (justifiable) retort, 'Ew! Dew yew cam fram Landan?' (P.B.)

EEK. Face; perhaps orig., the cheek: since ca. 1960, unless it's 'pig Latin'—back s. distortion of EEKcher (see next), as P.B. suggests. Anyway, it was being used by Hugh Paddick and Kenneth Williams in the course of the 1965—7 performances of the radio comedy show 'Round The Horne'. See also eke.

EEKcher. Cheek: central s.: from ca. 1880. Ware.

eel-skin(s). Very tight trousers: ca. 1820—60. Bulwer Lytton, 1827, 'a ... gilt chain ... stuck ... in his eel-skin to make a show'.—2. A very tight dress: Society coll.: ca. 1881—90. Ware.—3. A canvas 'sausage' filled with sand and used as a cosh: Victorian c. (N. Chesney, The Victorian Underworld, 1970—cited by Peppitt.)

eelerspee. A confidence trickster: Aus. c.: since ca. 1910. (B., 1943.) Via eeler sp(ee), centre-s. of speeler or spieler, 1.

Eemers. Familiar reference to EMERS, the compendious Electrical and Mechanical Engineering Regulations of the Army, which goes to it when it wants to carry out, cost, or time any mechanical job' (P.B., 1974): army: since ca. 1950.

e'en. Even (=just, nothing else but) 'prefixed' to vv.: mid-C.16—19 coll.; in C. 20, dial. Richardson, 1741, 'E'en send to him to come down' (OED).

eenque; eetswe. Queen; sweet: transposed or central s.: from ca. 1870. Ware.

Eeps. See 'Eaps.

Eetap(s). See Eat-Apples.

-eer is often joc., occ. coll. as profiteer was at first (1915). eff, v.; effing, vbl n. and ppl adj. To say fuck; foul-mouthed (swearing): C.20. Michael Harrison, Reported Safe Arrival, 1943, "'They'd eff and blind till your ear-'oles started to frizzle.'" At first euph., it soon > joc. allusive also.

eff off! Orig., obviously, euph. for 'Fuck off!' But soon—by, say, 1935—establishing an independent identity; neutrally, eff off = to depart; eff off! = 'Oh, run away!'—"No" to that offer or proposal, it's either contemptible or unworthy of consideration.' (Based on a letter, 1976, from L.A.)

Eff, the; the Effy. The Effingham Saloon, an East-End music-hall, fl. 1864.

effing and blinding, be. To be using bad language: C.20. Cf. eff, v.

effort. 'Something accomplished involving concentration or special activity': from ca. 1870: S.E. >, by 1930, coll., esp. in that's a pretty good effort (C.20). OED Sup.; COD 1934 Sup.—2. A 'thingummy'; an interjection: Bootham School:—1925 (Bootham, 1925). P.B.: in the sense of 'thingummy', a whatnot, it was in much wider use than is implied here. It had spread to other Public Schools by 1945 at latest, and was in earlier, WW2, use by the Services: see, e.g., PRISONER-OF-WAR SLANG, §10, in Appendix.

effort, St Swithin's! An urging, rallying cry used by (I think) Miss Joyce Grenfell in one of her games-mistress roles. It achieved a certain popularity in the late 1940s, and is still, late 1970s, not utterly †. St Swithin's, as used here, particularises English girls' Public Schools. Cf. jolly hockey-sticks!

Effy. See Eff, the.

eflunk. A knife: back s.:—1859 (H., 1st ed.). E- is a common initial letter in back-s. words, for it ensures euphony.

efter. A theatre thief: c.; from ca. 1860; ob. (H., 3rd ed.) Perhaps after (the 'goods') perverted. P.B.: or might it be merely corrupted back s. for thief?

egad! A mild oath ('prob. for ah God', W.): C.18—20 (ob.); coll. Slightly earlier igad; occ. egod (C.18).

Egee Pete. Egypt: mostly army: ca. 1880—1914. Cf. the later Egg Wiped.

Egg. Nickname for a bald-headed messmate: RN: C.20. (Granville.) Cf. Skating Rink.

egg. A person: coll., esp. in good egg and, as exclam., good egg!, late C.19—20, and a bad egg, a person (rarely a thing) that disappoints expectation: from early 1850s.—2. Abbr. duck's egg: cricketers': 1876. Lewis. See duck, n., 7.—3. An aerial bomb: Services', orig. RN: since 1914. 'Taffrail', Stand By!, 1916, and W.G. Carr, Brass Hats, 1939, both cited by Moe.—4. A submarine mine: RN: 1915. Bowen.—5. Head: C.20. Caradoc Evans, Wasps, 1933.—6. A pimp. See AUSTRALIAN UNDERWORLD, in Appendix.—7. See break (one's) egg; old egg; sound egg; eggs; straight out of the egg.

egg-beater. An affectionate term for an oldish motorcar, perhaps less powerful than a 'banger', q.v.: coll.: later C.20. (Mrs C. Raab, 1981.)

egg-boiler. A bowler hat: Aus.: since ca. 1920. (B., 1943.) Not because one could boil eggs in it but because, in torrid weather, one's own 'egg' (head) boils in it.

egg-bound. Slow-witted: RN: C.20. Eggs are very constipating; constipation renders 'heavy'.

egg-box. A box for table napkins: Bootham School: late C.19—20. Bootham, 1925.

egg-head, n. and adj. A scholar; an erudite person; anyone interested in intellectual matters; pertaining to persons or matters intellectual, as, e.g., the egghead press = the 'serious' newspapers: orig. US, adopted in Can. ca. 1953, in Britain in the late 1950s. Ex the high brow and the general shape of the scholar's head—in the popular misconception.

egg-head brigade, the. See whiz.

egg in that!, there's an. That's worth the trouble! semi-proverbial coll.:—1923 (Manchon).

egg-laying. Dropping the second ball just behind the serving line when the first service has actually been 'in': lawn tennis: since ca. 1930. Daily Telegraph, 7 Aug. 1937.

Egg-Market, the. The Falkland Islands: whalers': ca. 1830–1910. Ex swarming sea-fowl. Bowen.

egg on, mostly in imperative. To get a move on, to hurry: low Aus.: since the 1920s. (Kylie Tennant, The Joyful Condemned, 1953.) Probably ex S.E. egg on, to incite.

egg on (one's) face, get. To come out of an affair, esp. political or commercial, badly, and thus to suffer loss, humiliation and embarrassment; to make a fool of oneself through presumption or lack of judgment: adopted, ca. 1974, ex U.S. E.g., Mr (later Sir) Freddie Laker was quoted by the BBC in May 1974, on his challenge to British Airways that he could run Concorde aircraft at a profit, 'Some people are going to end up with a lot of egg on their faces over this one.' (R.S., P.B.) egg-shell blonde. Any bald person: Aus.: since ca. 1945. B., 1953.

Egg-Shells. HMS Achilles: RN: C.20. (Bowen.) By Hobson-Jobson.

egg-trot. A coll. abbr. of egg-wife's trot, a gentle amble: ca. 1680–1900. Ex her pace when riding to market.

egg(-)whisk. An autogyro: RAF: since ca. 1938. (H. & P.) Ex its rotatory motion. Cf. windmill.—2. A helicopter: RN: since ca. 1948. Ex its appearance. Cf. chopper and whirly-bird.

Egg Wiped. Egypt: army: 1940–55. A rudimentary pun on Eg-ypt. (P-G-R.) Cf. Egee Pete.

egged. A bus: army in Palestine: ca. 1942–5. Ex the name of a Palestinian proprietor of a fleet of buses. P-G-R.

egged off, be. To be pelted off stage or platform with eggs, preferably rotten: coll.: since 1930s. (Petch, 1974.) By a pun on S.E. egg on.

eggs. 'Ovoid briquettes, made of coal dust and cement dust, used during coal shortage' (McKenna, Glossary): railwaymen's: mid-C.20.—2. See lay eggs; off (one's) eggs.

Eggs-a-Cook. Egyptians: Aus. military: 1915–16. See:—2. Australian soldiers: a self-name, 1915–18. (B. & P.) Ex 'their being as "hard-boiled" as the eggs vended'—with this cry—'by the Egyptian hawkers'.—3. The 3rd Australian Division: Aus. soldiers': 1917+. Ex the colour-patch.

eggs is eggs, (as) sure as. Undoubtedly. See sure as eggs ... eggs are cooked, the. Everything's done!; that's done it!; his number is up! NZ: from ca. 1910.

eggs for (one's) money. See glad to take eggs ...

eggy. Irritated; excited: Liverpool: C.20. Ex dial. egg, to tease, to irritate.

egham, staines and windsor. A private coachman's three-cornered gala hat: coll.: ca. 1870–1900. Ex a once-famous business firm.

ego, often with capital. Myself; yourself; herself, himself: joc. coll.:—1824; ob.—2. (egol) See quis?

ego(-)trip. A total absorption in one's career: the underground: since ca. 1965. (Groupie, 1968.)—2. Used cynically, derisively, or pejoratively of any activity, usu. public, that may appear self-indulgent and gratifying to the performer, as 'Oh, that [political] campaign of his—it's all just one big ego-trip!': coll. and journalistic: later 1970s. (P.B.) See trip, n., 5.

egod! See egad!

Egypt. Bread: army: early C.20. (F. & G.) Perhaps ex corn in Egypt.—2. See LOVERS', in Appendix.

Egyptian AFOs. 'Pornographic books as sold at Port Said: Royal Navy: since early 1950s. A ref. to Admiralty Fleet Orders' (Peppitt). Cf. Hong Kong bibles.

Egyptian charger. A donkey: mostly London: ca. 1820–50. (Bee.) Perhaps ex its frequent use by gypsies.

Egyptian Hall. A ball (dance): rhyming s.:—1859 (H., 1st ed.); † by 1920. The Egyptian Hall was a building used for fashionable functions, in Piccadilly (Franklyn).

Egyptian locusts. 'A horde of what today would be called "party crashers". Or "Egyptian locusts" as they were known then [an incident of 1869]' (Daily Colonist (Victoria, BC), 30 Nov. 1969; Leechman): Can.: later C.19—early 20. Voracious creatures.

Egyptian medal. Esp. in c.p., you're showing an E.m. To have one's trouser-fly undone, to show a fly-button (or more than one): from ca. 1884; orig. military; by mid-C.20, reduced to 'You've got a medal showing'. cf. Abyssinian medal and star in the East.

Egyptian PT. Sleeping in the daytime, esp. in the afternoon: 'Services', orig. perhaps, since ca. 1925, army officers'—but soon also other ranks'—and, by ca. 1945, RN. PT = physical training. (Granville; P.B.)

eh? What's that (you say)?: coll.: C.19–20. (OED's earliest record is for 1837.) See also hay is for horses, and cf.:—eh? to me! (why) you'll be saying 'arseholes' to the C.O. next! 'A c.p. of jocularly dignified reproof' (L.A.): RAF: since ca. 1930. P.B.: a later, army, version, as a response to 'eh?' or to any other 'rudeness', is 'you'll be saying "balls" to the Queen next!'

eicespie. Pieces: transposed or central s.: from ca. 1860.—2. Hence, money: from ca. 1880. Ware.

Eiderdown. Ouderdon on the Western Front: army: WW1. (W.H.L. Watson, 1915.)

eight, one over the. One drink too many. See one over the eight.

eight eys. Part of a threat. See I will knock out ...

eighteen. Short for eighteenpence.

eighteen bob in the pound, often prec. by only. (Of persons) not very bright: Aus.: since ca. 1920; ob. Nino Culotta, Gone Fishin', 1963.

Eighteen Imperturbables, the. A formation of eighteen Desert Air Force planes: Eighth Army officers': 1942–3.

eighteenmo. Octodecimo: book-world coll.; 1858. Ex 18^{mo}, the abbr. form. SOD.

eighteenpence. Common sense: rhyming s.: C.20. Gilt Kid, 1936, 'He did not know Maisie had all that eighteenpence.' Also in P.P., Rhyming Slang, 1932.

eighter. An 8-ounce loaf: c., mostly prisoners': from ca. 1870.

Eighth, the. The Eighth Army: coll. (mostly Army): 1942–5, then historical.

Eights. The Oxford boat-races held in Eights Week, in June: coll.: C.20. Cf. togger.

eighty-eight, the. Piano. See fish-horn.—2. See thirty.

Eiley Mavourneen. A non-paying debtor. See Kathleen Mavourneen.

Eine (dissyllabic). London: showmen's: since ca. 1870. (P.H. Emerson, Signor Lipponi, 1893.) A Parlyaree word: corruption of It. Londra.

Einstein's mate. 'A dense person, especially in relation to faulty calculations' (Powis): low, ironic: 1970s. P.B.: cf. the idea behind a comment which I heard, late 1950s, on a rather 'thick' NCO who had just passed the lowest Army Certificate of Education: 'Huh! Now he thinks he's fuckin' Einstein, I s'pose.'

Eisenhower Platz. Grosvenor Square (London), while it contained the American H.Q.: 1942–5.

either piss or get off the pot! Either do the job or let someone else have a shot at it! proletarian c.p.: C.20. The chamber pot.

ek dum. More usu. later form of ak dum, 1, q.v., at once, straightaway. Thus in Richard Blaker, Here Lies a Most Beautiful Lady, 1935, of an Indian Army officer: "'We'll go ek dum,'" said the Major.'

ekame. A 'make', i.e. a swindle: back s.:—1859 (H., 1st ed.).

ekat a torrac. See torrac (= carrot).

eks. Make-up (cosmetic beautification); hence, a room for it: homosexuals': current ca. 1970. See also eek.

Ekes (or Ecks), School of. London School of Economics: C.20.

ekka. An exhibition, e.g., the annual agricultural and pastoral held at Brisbane: Aus.: since ca. 1965. (Neil Lovett, 1978.)

ekker. (An) exercise. See eccer.

ekom. A 'moke', i.e. donkey: back s.—1859 (H., 1st ed.).

elastic. Stretchable without permanent change of shape or size: coll. (in C.20, almost-S.E.): from ca. 1780.

elbat. Table. See helbat.

elbow, the. A long attack of nervousness and even of 'nerves': (lawn) tennis-players': since ca. 1965. Many refs in the Press during the 1969 Wimbledon Championships. Ex S.E. tennis elbow, severe strain on the elbow and forearm from hard play over-long sustained.—2. In on the elbow, 'on the scrum' (Powis): low: later C.20. Cf. ear-hole, n., 2.—3. In knight of the elbow, a gamester: coll.: ca. 1750–1840. See shake the elbow.—4. For crook the elbow, see crook. App. lift the elbow is not recorded before 1916 (OED Sup.).—5. See give the elbow.

elbow-crooker. A hard drinker: coll.; mid-C.19–20; ob. Cf. pot-walloper.

elbow-grease. Hard manual labour: coll.:—1639. Clarke's Paræmiologia Anglo-Latina; Marvell; B.E., 'A derisory Term for Sweat'; Grose; George Eliot, 'Genuine elbow-polish, as Mrs. Poyser called it.' Cf. the Fr. huile de bras or de poignet (recently de coude), the primary sense being that of vigorous rubbing.

elbow in the hawse, (there's) an. A nautical coll. applied to a ship that, 'with two anchors down swings twice the wrong way, causing the cables to take half a turn round one another' (Bowen): an early occurrence is in W.N. Glascock, Sketch-Book, I (16) 1825. (Moe.)

elbow-jigger or -scraper. A fiddler: coll.: from ca. 1820; ob. Egan's Grose.

elbow-lifting. Drinking, esp. to excess. The n.-form of lift (one's) elbow: C.19–20.

elbow-shaker, -shaking. A gamester; gaming, adj. and n.: coll.: the first from early C.18, the second (—)1718; the third, C.19–20, ob. See also shake the elbow; elbow, 3.

elbows, out at. (Of an estate) mortgaged: coll.: C.18—early 19.

eich(er)wer. See helcherwer.

elderly jam. An ageing woman: lower classes': ca. 1880–1915. Ware.

elders. A woman's breasts: Aus.: since ca. 1920. (B., 1942.) Either in ref. to an elder tree in full growth and leaf, or with an allusion to the story of Susanna and the Elders.

eldest, the. The first lieutenant: naval s. verging on coll.: C.19. (Bowen.) Contrast the old man, the captain.

electric. 'Efficient, weird, sudden or marvellous' (Powis): proletarian coll.: 1970s.

electric cow. A machine for the conversion of milk-powder and water into 'milk': RN: since ca. 1940. Granville.

electric soup. 'A fortified wine called Eldorado—known locally as "electric soup"' (New Society, 10 Mar. 1983, p.365): Scots.

Electric Whiskers. Bergonzoli, an Italian general in N. Africa: army: ca. 1941–3. Ex It. Barba Elettrica. P-G-R.

electrical [sic] string. Electric cable: RN: since late 1960s. (Peppitt.)

electrify. Violently to startle: from ca. 1750; coll. till ca. 1850, when it > S.E. Burke; Barham.

elegant. 'Nice': coll. verging on s.: C.18—early 19. Cf. fair, adj., 1 (q.v.).—2. Hence, first-rate, excellent: coll.; from ca. 1840; ob. Prob. owing to influence of the US, where it was so used as early as 1765 (Thornton). As a joc. Irishism, it is spelt iligan: mid-C.19–20. Cf. nice. P.B.: in later C.20, associated esp. with concise, stylish scientific papers, mathematical proofs, smooth computer-programmes, etc.

Elegant Extracts. The 85th Foot (British Army) on being remodelled in 1812 with officers chosen from other regiments: army; ob. Ex Vicesimus Knox's and others' elegant-extract anthologies so popular ca. 1760–1820.—2. At Cambridge University, those students who, though 'plucked', were given their degrees: from ca. 1850; ob. (H., 3rd ed.) Cf. gulf.

elegant sufficiency, an. Joc. indication; mocking lower-middle-class gentility, that one has had enough to eat and drink, as 'I've had an elegant sufficiency, ta!': since ca. 1950, ?earlier. (P.B.)

elementary, my dear Watson! An educated c.p. dating from ca. 1900. Ex Sherlock Holmes's frequent remark to touchstone Watson. Cf. Sherlock Holmes, q.v. See esp. DCpp.

elements embrocation. (Exposure to) rough weather that makes one's face red: since ca. 1925; t. With a pun on Elliman's Embrocation.

elephant. A (large) corrugated-iron shelter: army: late 1916. A baby elephant is a small shelter. (F. & G.) See also elephant hut.—2. Hence, a (small) dug-out reinforced with corrugated iron: army: 1917. B. & P.—3. In cop the elephant, to be tipsy: low:—1923 (Manchon). See elephant's trunk.—4. A shortening of Elephant and Castle, 2. Powis.—5. See bang through the elephant; see the elephant; find an elephant.

Elephant and Castle. Hell, as in 'How the Elephant and Castle!': rhyming s. (castle being pronounced caste'll): C.20.—2. The anus: rhyming s. (on illiterate ars'le): late C.19–20. Franklyn.—3. A parcel: rhyming s.: since ca. 1920. Often shortened to Elephant. John Gosling, The Ghost Squad, 1959.

elephant dance. The double shuffle or 'cellar-flap', q.v.: ca. 1870–1910.

elephant gun. See elephant pistol.

elephant houses. Old forts at Dunkirk: Services: 1940; ob. H. & P. elephant hut. A Nissen hut: Services: since ca. 1919; † by 1950. (H. & P.) See elephant, 1.

elephant on the casing. 'Called or piped soon after "Finished with main motors and steering. Fall out Harbour Stations below". The rum that had been bottled day by day was then disposed of. Peculiar to HM Submarine Astute, 1964–6; just a phrase that happened, and stuck' (John Malin, 1979).

elephant pistol or gun. An 'outside[calibre] weapon for firing parachute flares' (Petch): army, mostly other ranks': WW1.

elephant trunk. An occ. var. of elephant's trunk, q.v., drunk. (London) Evening Standard, 19 Aug. 1931.

elephant's. See elephant's trunk.

elephant's burial ground, the (or with capitals). Petersfield, Hampshire, 'The home of vast legions of retired admirals': RN: since late 1940s. Peppitt cites G. Hackforth Jones, Security Risk, 1970.

elephant's ear. Sweet, 'a lilaceous plant bearing a single ... leaf, resembling an ear: Queenstown (S. Africa) juvenile coll.:—1913 (Pettman).

elephants' lugs. 'were neither more nor less than huge cakes made from very coarse atash and bran, mixed with chopped straw, for elephants. Each man had one of these issued, to last him for the whole day, no other bread being to be had' (N.W. Bancroft, From Recruit to Staff Sergeant, 1885, writing of the Sikh War, 1842).

elephant's trunk. Drunk: rhyming s.; from ca. 1855. (H., 1st ed.) By 1873, often abbr. to elephant's or elephants. Cf. process in china (plate), q.v.—2. See:-

elephant's trunk and bird bath. 'Canvas trunk fitted around the control room ladder [of a submarine] with a flap for getting in and out. The ladder stands in a canvas bath secured to the trunk. Water coming in is contained and pumped out' (John Malin, 1979): RN Submariners': 1960s.

elevate. To render slightly drunk; gen. in p. ppl passive used as an adj.: from ca. 1700; in C.18, S.E.; then coll. Dickens, 'except when he's elevated, Bob's the quietest creature breathing.'

elevation. Slight tipsiness: coll.; from ca. 1820. Scott.—2. Opium:—1850; ob.—3. Whence, a 'pick-me-up': coll.: mid-C.19–20; now mostly dial. OED.

elevator. A crinolette: Society: 1882—ca.1900. Ware.

eleven-a-side. A tiny moustache affected by subalterns: army officers': 1915; ob. (Collinson.) I.e. eleven hairs on each side of the nose: ex cricket.

eleven o'clock and no poes emptied. 'Factory wit of mock dismay at being behind with work' (L.A., 1969); late C.19–20. But, in the form ... no poes emptied, no babies scraped, it is a man's jibe at woman's dismay at delay in her housework.

eleven, by the. A joc. expletive: coll.: (? coined by) Goldsmith, 1773; †. (OED.) Prob. punning heavens!

elevenes. Mid-morning drink of tea, coffee, etc., and perhaps a bite to eat: C.20 coll. ex C.19–20 dial.; dial. also elevenner. I.e., at eleven o'clock. P.G. Wodehouse; Dorothy L. Sayers.

eleventh commandment, the. 'Thou shalt not be found out'—when breaking any of the other ten: a cynicism of the C.20. Punch, 31 July 1918. (P.B.)

elf. Little: c.: late C.17–mid-18. (Street Robberies Considered.) Ex elf, a dwarf.

eliminate. To kill (a person): joc. coll.; from ca. 1915. P.B.: after two world wars and numerous dictatorships, still extant—but no longer jocular.

Eliza smiles. C.p. applied to a robbery that looks like being successful: c.: ca. 1870–1910. Eliza prob. represents the generic servant girl, a possible accomplice on the inside.

'Ell of a Mess. The LMS: London, Midland and Scottish Railway (1922–48); railwaymen's nickname. Railway, 2nd. Ellen Terry. A chamberpot: rhyming s., on jerry: rhyming s., mostly theatrical: C.20. Franklyn, Rhyming.

Ellenborough Lodge or Park or Spike. The King's Bench: ca. 1810–50. Ex Lord Chief-Justice Ellenborough (d. 1818), fl. 1802–18 in that office.

Ellenborough's teeth. The cheveux de frise around the King's Bench Prison wall: c.; ca. 1810–50. See prec.

Ellebsby. The London School Board: London: from ca. 1870; very ob. Cf. Elsie and:

Ellessea. The London Society of Compositors: printers': —1909 (Ware).

Elliot-eye. 'An eye splice worked over an iron thimble': RN coll.: late C.19–20. Ex Admiral Elliot, its introducer into the Navy. Bowen.

Elly and Castle. The Elephant and Castle itself, or its immediate neighbourhood: Londoners', esp. Cockneys' coll.: C.20. (L.A., 1976.)

elpa. An apple: back s.:—1859 (H., 1st ed.). Also as helpa.

elrig. A girl: id: Ibid.

Elsan Eddy (loosely Eddie). A latrine-cleaner ('sanitary wallah'): RAF: since ca. 1940; ob. by 1950, † by 1955. A blend of Elsan, a proprietary name, and, by a pun, Nelson Eddy, the famous singer.

Elsan gen. Unreliable news: RAF: since 1939. (H. & P.) Ex the excellent make of chemical lavatories on bombers.

else's, as in anybody else's. This usage, employed by, e.g., Pepys (late 1660s) was orig. coll.; >, by mid-C.20, informal S.E.

Elsie. East London College: London University undergraduates': C.20; ob. since 1934, when renamed Queen Mary College.—2. 'A special searchlight adapted for use in the Maunsell Forts in the Thames Estuary': Londoners' (Services and Port of London Authority): 1939(?)—45. Ex L.C., Light Control. P-G-R.

Elswicks. Shares in Armstrong, Mitchell & Co.: Stock Exchange coll.:—1895 (A.J. Wilson, Stock Exchange Glossary). Ex their 'scene of operations', a suburb of Newcastle-upon-Tyne.

elycampane, occ. elecampane. See allacompain. (Moncrieff, 1823.)

'em. Them: coll. from ca. 1880; earlier, S.E. though not, since ca. 1840, literary. Baumann.

emag. Game; trick; dodge: back s.:—1873. Ware dates it 1870. Powis, 1977: 'usually in the sense of disgust: "What a bleeding emag this is!"' embark, n. Abbr. embarkation; at first usu. in combination, as 'go on embark leave'; later, used alone to mean the same, 'I only got 7 days' embark—should've had at least 14': Services' coll.: since 1939. (Jackson; P.B.) Cf. disembark.

364

embroidery. Exaggerations; fancy-work manipulations of, or additions to, the truth: coll.; from ca. 1885. The corresponding v. is C.17–20 S.E.

embuggerance factor. A natural or artificial hazard that complicates any proposed course of action: army: since ca. 1950. An elab. of the simple term embuggerance, as in 'They threw in every form of embuggerance they knew how, to try to stop me getting here'. (P.B.)

embus. The opp. to debus, q.v.: s. (1915) rapidly > coll. and j. Loosely, embuss.

emcee, n. and v. (To act as) master of ceremonies. See M.C. Emden. See didn't you sink the Emden?

emergency crew. A crew that, of men immune from the press gang, worked a ship for the real crew while danger threatened: nautical coll.: mid-C.18–mid-19. Bowen.

emit. Time: back s.: late C.19–20.

Emma. Emmanuel College: Cambridge undergraduates': since ca. 1860.—2. See whoa, Emma!

emma gee. A machine-gun(ner): army: 1915+. Cf.:-

emma pip. (Gen. pl.) A military policeman: id. For this, and prec. entry, see Appendix, PHONETIC ALPHABET.

emmet. 'In Cornwall the derisive word for a holiday-maker is "emmet"—there are even T-shirts on sale locally saying "I am not an Emmet"' (John Winton, in Illustrated London News, May 1978): emmet is dial., =ant. Holiday-makers swarm. (P.B.)

emnies. Shares in the Electrical and Musical company: Stock Exchange: from ca. 1930. Daily Telegraph, 18 Nov. 1933.

emoh rio. Suburbia; esp. in its smugness: Aus. journalists' and publicists', hence others': since ca. 1950. The back-s. form of our home. Its use as a house-name—cf. our home itself and chez nous—led to its becoming generalised. (B.P.)

emote. To be or become emotional; to show excessive emotion: adopted, ca. 1950, ex US, where orig. theatrical: s. >, by 1960, coll. 'He is incapable of rational behaviour. He just reacts and emotes.' A back-formation ex emotion. (B.P.)

emperor. See DRINKS, in Appendix.

Emperor Augustus, the. See Druriolanus.

Emperor's Chambermaids, the. The 14th Hussars: military: 1813, ex a chamber-pot captured at Vittoria. F. & G. empire. A large, esp. if unnecessarily large, department, usu. administrative: Services', prob. orig. RAF: since ca. 1944. (P-G-R.) Cf.:-

empire-builder. One who, as head of a department, manages—or tries—to extend his responsibilities and increase his staff as to appear to merit promotion to a rank concomitant with the size and 'importance' of his empire: orig. Services', ca. 1944; since WW2 > gen. coll., and widespread. Hence vbl n. empire-building. Ex the S.E. term applied to such Victorian heroes as Cecil Rhodes. (P.B.) empire-builders. 'White tropical shorts that always reached the knees and beyond' (Malin, 1979): RN: since—1936.

Empress pidgin. Discussion with Queen Victoria: RN: 1876–1901. Ware.

empties back (or coming back) from Manchester. Threatening clouds that don't rain: joc.: C.20. (Colin Huston, 1981.)

empty. Unpossessed of the riches reported: c.: C.18. A New Canting Dict., 1725.—2. In get the empty, to be dismissed: Cockneys':—1887. I.e. get the empty sack. Baumann.

empty as an old drum, (as). Extremely hungry: (mainly Cockney) coll.:—1885 (Baumann); †.

empty bottle. A fellow-commoner: Cambridge:—1794; † by 1870. Cf. fellow- and gentleman-commoner.

empty I can feel my (or me) backbone touching my (or me) belly-button, I'm so. A low c.p.: C.20. Alexander Baron, There's No Home, 1950.

empty the bag. To tell everything; close a discussion: coll.: C.18–19.

emshee. An occ. corruption of imshee, q.v., go away!

Emсіб. The Eastern Mediterranean Special Service Intelligence Bureau: military coll.: 1915–18. P.B.: clearly an early example of the military acronym of which WW2 spawned so many—and retained in this work as such.

emu. A member of the ground staff: RAAF: WW2. (B., 1943.) Cf. penguin, 1.

emu-bobber. 'Someone employed to pick up after clearing [trees] or burning-off in the bush' (Wilkes): Aus. coll.:—1920. Hence the activity, emu-bobbing.

emu-bobbing, n. Picking up cigarette-ends and other litter: Aus. soldiers': WW2. (B., 1943.) To do it, one bobs one's head as an emu does. Hence also emuing, and emu parade, 'In the army, a parade to clean up an area by "emu-bobbing"' (Wilkes): WW2. Ex. prec.

En Zed. New Zealand: NZ, hence also Aus., troops: WW1, 2. Common among NZ civilians since ca. 1910. Also solid, and Enzedder (Wilkes).

encore, get an; gen. as vbl n., getting an encore. To have to rectify a mistake in one's job: tailors': from ca. 1870. B. & L.—2. To have a second erection at one 'session' of love-making: raffish: C.20.

encumbrances. Children: coll.: from ca. 1830.

end. See business end, the part that matters, e.g., the head of a hammer.—2. A net practice at cricket: Rugby School coll.: (?) late C.19–20. 'The nets are situated at the ends of the field' (D.F. Wharton).—3. The glans penis; mostly in compounds: bell-end, blunt end, red end: esp. Services': C.20. Hence to have or get (one's) end away, to achieve sexual intercourse (usu., but not exclusively, of the male): raffish: since ca. 1910. Often joc.; e.g., of one's own ill-humour, 'Too much dirty water on the chest; it's time I had me end away again', or 'Bit of a blow to the Stud's reputation—been here 3 days already, and still hasn't got his end away!' (P.B.) In Aus., later C.20, to get (one's) end in (Wilkes).—4. See loose end; fly off the handle (or deep end); off the deep end; it's not my end, sharp end.

end-bit dobber. A tramp, or a beggar, collecting cigarette-ends from gutters: Cambridge Town (not University): from ca. 1910.

end is (or end's) a-wagging, the. The end of a job is in sight: RN: mid-C.19–20. Granville, 'From sailing days when, after much "pulley-hauling", the end of a rope was in sight.'

end of a rope yard. In not to give the . . ., not to care; to rate something very low: nautical: early C.19. (Bill Truck, 1822.) See not care a . . .

end of the bobbin!, that's the. That's the end of it!; that's finished!: proletarian coll. c.p. verging on proverbial S.E.: mid-C.19–20; ob. 'When all the thread is wound off a bobbin or spool. . . It arose from the refrain of a song popular in 1850(B. & L.).' end of the line, the. As in 'Well, I'm afraid that's the end of the line for him', he is finished physically, socially, professionally, etc.: coll.: since ca. 1960; ?ex US. From the end of the railway- or tram-line.—2. The end of, e.g., an affair of the heart, 'It's the end of the line for us': id. (P.B.) end-of-the-month, adj. Short of money, as in 'Sorry, but I'm end-of-the-month', i.e. waiting for salary to be paid. Hence a bad attack of the end of the month, a shortness of cash: joc. coll.: since ca. 1870. Cf. week's end.

end of The Sentimental Journey. The female pudend: low coll.; C.19–20; ob. Sterne's witty novel ends 'So that when I stretch'd out my hand, I caught hold of the fille de chambre's'—and there is no full stop.

end-on. Straight; standing on or showing its end: coll., C.19; S.E., C.20.—2. Be end-on: to have a priapism: low coll.: C.19–20.

end to end. In coitu: low: C.20. (L.A., 1974.) Cf. ends away.

end up. In get end up, to rise to one's feet: Aus.:—1916 (C.J. Dennis).—2. See keep (one's) end up.

Endacott, v.i. To act like a constable of that name who arrested a woman whom he thought to be a prostitute: journalistic coll.: ca. 1880–1900. B. & L. ender. A performer inferior to even an early-turner, q.v.: music-halls' coll.:—1909 (Ware).—2. 'A dan buoy with a flag indicating a line of fishing nets or pots' (Granville): deep-sea fishermen's coll.: C.20.

endless belt. A prostitute: Aus.: since ca. 1925. (B., 1942.) Cf. belt. A pun on the engineering term.

ends, at loose. Neglected. See loose ends.

ends away. In copulation, as, 'they were ends away almost before he'd put his kit-bag down'; as exclam., a 'gloat' by one who has just, or hopes shortly to have, achieved sexual intercourse: army: 1960s. (P.B.)

ends up, all. Easily. See all ends up.

endy. 'A car with worn big-end bearings' (Woman's Own, 28 Feb. 1968): secondhand-car dealers': since ca. 1950.

enemies. See with friends like that . . .

enemy, the. Time; the clock, watch, etc.: coll.; esp. as how goes . . . ? or—ob. in C.20—what says . . . ? (Dickens in Nicholas Nickleby, 1839.) Hence kill the enemy, to pass time; ob.

enemy ships. Opp. of chummy ships, i.e., those whose crews are friendly: RN: late C.19–20. P-G-R. engaged ring. Engagement ring: coll., mostly London: —1887 (Baumann).

engagement ring. A good-luck ring, usu. made of aluminium from a nose-cap (of shell) that had just missed the wearer: army: 1915–18. (Petch, 1969.)

engine. A sewing-machine: tailors': C.20. Tailor and Cutter, 29 Nov. 1928.

engineer and stoker. (Gen. pl.) A broker: rhyming s.: C.20. J. Philips, A Dict. of Rhyming Slang, 1931.

engineering pie. A special sort of pie served at lunch in the RN Engineering Shop at Dartmouth: RN: since ca. 1930.

engineer's spanner. Sixpence: apparently at first, and perhaps still mainly, nautical, esp. RN: since ca. 1920. Rhyming s. on tanner, sixpence.

Engines. Engineering (or Technical) Officer: RAF coll.: since ca. 1925. Jackson.

England's umbrella. Ireland: joc. coll.:—1923 (Manchon). For semantics, see Urinal of the Planets.

English. A key-translation, a crib: Winchester College s. verging on coll.: C.19–20. (Wrench.) Ex English, to translate into English.—2. Ale. See TAVERN TERMS, §3, c, in Appendix, and cf. English manufacture.

english. Spin on a ball, whether, as orig. and usu., in billiards or in baseball: Can.: since ca. 1918. Mr D.S. Cameron, Librarian to the University of Alberta, has, in a private letter, 1937, explained the stages of the origination thus:—'1. Language ekes out its own deficiency by gesture, hence, gesture equals "body English".

'2. By direct transference, any gesture or contortion (as in trying to do a difficult physical task) becomes "body English".

'3. In a game (e.g. billiards), effect of effort on the ball becomes "body English" on the ball.

'4. By natural contraction, this becomes "English" on the ball or "spin". . . . Can be written with little "e".'

Mr Cameron adds that those who say side English, instead of english or spin, are merely being anti-English. Whereas english >, ca. 1945, a technicality and part of the Standard language, side English has remained s., but was, by 1945, ob. Then there's bottom-english, back spin plus side spin.

English as she is spoke. Broken or illiterate English: a C.20 c.p., prob. orig. in a Portuguese–English conversational guide by A.W. Tuer (1838–1900). See J.M. & M.J. Cohen's The Penguin Dictionary of Quotations—a book to cherish, and DCpp. An occ. derivative was . . . as she is broke.

English burgundy. Porter: mid-C.18–19. (Grose, 1st ed.) Cf. British champagne.

English cane. An oaken plant; ?a cudgel: late C.17–mid-18. B.E.

English Channel, the. The National Health Service: rhyming s., on panel (of doctors): since ca. 1955. Haden-Guest.

English manufacture. 'Ale, Beer, or Syder' (B.E.): late C.17–18: coll.

English pluck. Money: proletarian:—1909; virtually †. Ware.

enif, adj. Fine: back s.:—1859 (H., 1st ed.).

enin. Nine: back s.:—1859 (H., 1st ed.). Enin gen, nine shillings; enin yanneps, ninepence. It occurs in Mayhew, I, 1851, as emina.

enjoy, followed by the infinitive (e.g. 'enjoy to do something'), is either low coll. or sol. (—1864). The OED, which points out that to use enjoy with an object denoting something not pleasant (as in enjoy poor health) is catachrestic: C.19–20. P.B.: but this latter, when used deliberately and ironically of hypochondria, as it sometimes is in C.20, is coll. enjoy yourself! A S. African bowls-players' c.p., dating since ca. 1930. 'Drive, so as to scatter the head' (Prof. A.C. Partridge, 1968).

enjoy your trip? (, did you). A c.p. comment on anyone's stumbling, catching foot on the edge of carpet, etc.; a rather threadbare pun: since ca. 1920; slightly ob. See DCpp. at did ... ?

eno. One: back s.:—1859 (H., 1st ed.).

enob. Bone: back s.: late C.19–20. Ware.

Enoch. (Gen pl.) White primary-school children's nickname for coloured immigrant children: 1970s. (Harré, Morgan, O'Neill, Nicknames, 1979.) By ironic transference from Enoch Powell, a noted opponent of immigration into the UK. Name used alongside Blackie, Nig-nog; contrast Ice-cream. (P.B.)

Enoch Arden. A garden: ? orig. (1942) among prisoners-of-war in the Far East; hence, since (but? earlier), among civilians. B., 1953, quotes from (Sydney) Sun of 22 Sep. 1945.

Eno's. He knows: derisive: C.20. Punning Eno's Fruit Salt. Also 'e knous.

enough for anything after an adj. = either that adj. preceded by very or, gen., to satisfy anyone, in all conscience. Coll.: mid-C.19–20. E.g. 'G.K.C. is witty enough for anything, don't you think?'

enough leeway to drown Cowley's tap-room. 'Very marked leeway, due to shallow draught, small keel: RN: early C.19. A. Hardy, Prize Money, 1972' (Peppitt).

enough on (one's) plate, have (got). To have as much work as one can manage, or as much as one can do: Services, 1939+, and then into gen. use; still current mid-1980s. Ex lit. domestic sense. An East Midlands var. is 'I've got (enough/too much) on my wheel already.' (E.P.; P.B.)

enough to ... Besides the phrases listed below there are others entered at the key-nn. or -vv.

enough to charm the heart of a broomstick. Very charming; ironic coll.:—1887 (Baumann); ob. by 1930.

enough to give you a fit on the mat. Very amusing or laughable: non-aristocratic: C.20; very ob. (W.L. George, The Making of an Englishman, 1914.) Cf. enough to make a cat laugh, the prob. origin.

enough to make a black man choke. (Of medicine, food) extremely unpalatable: Cockney coll.:—1887 (Baumann); ob.

enough to make a cat laugh. (It is) extremely funny, droll, ludicrous: coll.: 1851, Planché. Weyman, 1898, has it would make a cat laugh. Apperson.

enough to make a horse sick. See sick as a cat.

enough to make a ploughman hungry. Very much: (orig. rural) coll.: mid-C.17–18. Roger Boyle, Mr Anthony, 1672, at V, iii. (Moe.)

enough to make my gran turn in her urn, verging on c.p. and dating since ca. 1955. refers to permissiveness. (Petch.) See DCpp.

enough (or sufficient) to take the tiles off (the roof). Extremely extravagant(ly): Society: ca. 1878–1910. Ware.

ensign-bearer. A drunken man; a drunkard, esp. one with a very red face: mid-C.17—early 19. (Grose, 2nd ed.) See also TAVERN TERMS, §6, in Appendix.

enthuse. To be enthusiastic; speak enthusiastically: (mostly joc. or semi-joc.) coll.: orig. (—1880), US; anglicised ca. 1900. Cf. the US sense (1859: Thornton), 'to kindle into enthusiasm'.

enthusiastic amateur. See amateur.

enthuzimuzzy. Enthusiasm: Society: ca. 1870–1900. Ware.

entjies. Cigarette-ends: S. African c. (late C.19–20) >, by 1940, low s. (Cape Times, 3 June 1946.) Afrikaans in origin, entjie being the diminutive of ent, end.—2. Hence, short persons: S. African c.: since ca. 1920. (C.P. Wittstock, letter, 1946.)

entrance-fee. Just enough money to order one drink at the canteen: military: from ca. 1910. B. & P.

entry. 'This job came in that I thought would be right up your entry' (Red Daniells, in Jnl of British Photography, 4 June 1980). A var. of right up (one's) alley or street.

envelope, n. A condom: coll.: late C.19–20.

envelope, v. To put (a note, a letter) into an envelope: coll.: 1857, De Morgan (OED). Rare and ob.

epic. Adj. of high approbation: teenagers': ca. 1977. (D. & R. McPheely.) Cf. cosmic.

epip. A pipe: back s.: from ca. 1865.

Epsom. Inseparable nickname of men surnamed Salt. Ex 'Epsom(s) salt'.

Epsom races. A pair of braces: rhyming s.:—1857 ('Ducange Anglicus').—2. Also, ca. 1850–1900, faces, now 'rhymed' airs and graces.

Epsom salts. Coll., from ca. 1870, for Epsom salt.

equal to cash. Of undoubted and indubitable merit: coll.: from ca. 1840; orig. (—1835) US; ob.

equality (or E-) Jack. An officer treating those under him as equals: naval coll.: ca. 1810–70. Marryat, 1836.

equator. Waist: joc.: late C.19–20; by 1960, slightly ob. In A.S.M. Hutchinson's best-seller If Winter Comes, 1921, we read, 'He'd make about four of me round the equator.'

equipped, equipt. Rich; well-dressed: c.: late C.17–18. B.E.; Grose, 1st ed.

-er. Coll. when agential as in pea-souper, fog: C.19—mid-20. Also when, among children playing 'conkers', one speaks of e.g. a niner, a chestnut that has smashed nine others.—2. See 'OXFORD -ER', in Appendix.

Eras. Erasmus (as applied to certain divisions of the school): Christ's Hospital (School): late C.19–20. (Marples.) Cf. Grec.

'Erb. A wag; also in address to a person of name unknown to the speaker: Cockney and military: C.20. (F. & G.) I.e., Herbert, q.v.

erdies (sing. erdy, erdie, rare; often with capital E). Those who are earth-bound, earthy; unimaginative and conventional; 'square': since early 1970s. Ex Ger. Erde, earth, the Earth, ground. In his Mick Jagger, 1974, Anthony Scaduto uses it several times, e.g., "'Bunch of Erdies,'" Jagger moaned ... Erdies denoting all those faceless and mindless men who weren't hip, who were trapped in jobs and careers and prisons of the mind.' (Thanks to Paul Janssen.)

erf. (Gen. pl.) An egg: army coll.: WW1. (F. & G.) I.e. Fr. œuf. Also oof (B.&P.).

erg. 'In the R.N.A.S. at Mudros [in 1915] we called any member of a working party an "erg", i.e. the lowest unit of work' (S/Ldr. R. Raymond, letter, 1945). Ex Gr. ergon, work. Cf. erk.

Eric, or Little by Little. A c.p. directed at shy or sexually-slow youths: since ca. 1860. Ex the phenomenal popularity of Dean F.W. Farrar's novel of school-life, Eric; or Little by Little, 1858, the story of Eric, a boy that, little by little, went to the dogs and a pathetic end.

Eries. Shares in the New York, Lake Erie, and Western Railroad: Stock Exchange coll. (—1895) >, by 1910, j. (A.J. Wilson's Glossary.)

erif. Fire: back s.:—1859. (H., 1st ed.)

eriff. A rogue 'just initiated, and beginning to practice' (Grose, 1st ed.): C.18—early 19 c. Recorded first in A New Canting Dict., 1725. Ex the sense, a canary (bird) two years old, for canary (bird) itself = a rogue.

erk. A lower-deck rating: nautical: late C.19–20. (Bowen.) Perhaps ex dial. irk, to grow weary, or from officers' impatient 'They irk me, these— —!' See also irk.—2. Hence(?), a recruit, an AC2 [Aircraftman, 2nd class; AC1 = 1st cl.] (the lowest of the low: I was one for 2 years 9 months, so experto crede!); occ. applied (Jackson, 1943) also to, but much resented by, an AC1: RAF: since 1918. Prob. ex 'aircraftman'. See esp. Partridge, 1945, both in introduction and in glossary; earlier in, e.g., E.P. in New Statesman, 19 Sep. 1942, and H. & P., 1943. On 9 Mar. 1945, W/Cdr F.J.H. Heading wrote to say, 'The term "Erk" was first used in the R.A.F. Depot, Uxbridge, in 1920. The origination... was brought about when I wrote the song "One of the Aircs", Aircs being an abbreviation of aircraftsmen. Though frequent use the term came to be pronounced Erk and I have no knowledge of the term being used in the R.F.C., R.N.A.S. or R.A.F. before the year 1920'; then on 20 March, 'To me Air Mechanics of the R.A.F. were always known as Ack Emmas'. The weight of the evidence, however, shows that the song reinforced and hastened the growth of a term that was, in fact, already current.

Ermy One. HMS Hermione: RN (lowerdeck): C.20. Granville. Ernie, the electronic brain that selects the numbers of the winners of Premium Savings Bonds, was never lower than coll. and very soon became the accepted name: since Oct. 1956, the month before the first bonds were issued. Ex the initials of the full technical and official name of the instrument—Electronic Random Number Indicator Equipment.

Ernie Marsh. Grass: rhyming s.: C.20.

Errol. See in like Flynn, and:-

Erroll Flynn; esp. on the... , on the chin: rhyming s.: ca. 1938-60. (Franklyn 2nd.) Ex the swashbuckling film-actor.

error, and no. See mistake, and no.

ersatz girl. A temporary sweetheart; a prostitute: prisoners-of-war s.: 1916. Ex Ger. Ersatz, a substitute.

erth (occ. earth). Three: back s.: since ca. 1845. Mayhew, I, 1851, has erth=threepence; he also records erth pu, 'three up', a street-game; erth sith noms, three months' imprisonment; erth gens, three shillings; erth yan(n)eps, threepence. A.W.S. in the London Evening News, 7 Mar. 1938: 'The inverted numbers, eno, owt, erth, and so on are sometimes used by card-players in the East End [of London].'

ertia. Opp. of S.E. inertia: Aus. joc.: since late 1950s. (B.P.) -ery is a frequent suffix in s. and coll., esp. in C.20 and at schools and universities. Cf. Hunnery, q.v.

e's loovly, Mrs 'Oskins - e's loovly! A c.p. from the BBC radio comedy series 'Ray's a Laugh', late 1940s-early 1950s. Cf. ee, it was agony...

esclop. A policeman: back s. It occurs in Mayhew, I, 1851, and Powis, 1977, records its continuing use in the underworld. The c is never pronounced, the e gen. omitted: hence the well-known slop.

Eska. Nickname of men surnamed Moffatt: army in Egypt: early C.20. Ex Arabic.

Eskimo Nell is an imaginary RN heroine—the central figure in a ballad almost as long as it is bawdy. Late C.19-20. Cf. Ballocky Bill. P.B.: Nell has long since left the confines of the Senior Service; she has travelled, like them, worldwide.

esma! Listen! Services' in the Middle East, 1915-18 (F. & G.) and again in WW2. Directly ex Arabic. 'Used as a means of summoning waiters in Egypt, whence arose the popular belief that the word meant "fellow"' (P-G-R).

Espysay. The Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals: coll.: from ca. 1880. (Ware.) Cf. Ellersby.

-esque is an often joc., occ. coll. ending, as in cigaresque, q.v. The same applies to -ess, as, e.g., in parsoness.

esroch. A horse: back s.:—1859 (H., 1st ed.). The c is added for naturalness. Occ. esroph.

-ess. See -esque.

Essedartus. A coachman: early C.18. See OCCUPATIONAL NAMES, in Appendix.

essence. An excessive profit, as in put the essence on (someone), to overcharge him: market-traders': since ca. 1920. M.T.—2. Anything of the very best: Services, other ranks': the National Service era, 1948-62. (P.B.) Perhaps borrowed from—3. A good-looking, desirable sailor or Wren: RN, WRNS, FAA: WW2 and after. (Miss Margaret Wood.) Prob. a shortening of:-

essence of pig-shit, the. A luscious girl: RN lowerdeck: since ca. 1925, but never very gen. Satirical of names for scents; but also allusive to as happy as pigs in shit. Cf. prec.

esses emma. A sergeant-major: army: 1914. (F. & G.) Ex signalese: see PHONETIC ALPHABET in Appendix. P.B.: poss. esp. the squadron sgt-major, as the esses is pl.

Essex calf. A native of Essex: coll.: from ca. 1570; ob. G. Harvey, 1573; A. Behn; Apperson. Cf.:

Essex lion. A calf: from late 1620s (ob.): coll. 'Water-Poet' Taylor, 1630. Grose. (Apperson.) Essex being noted for its calves. Cf. Cotswold lion, Rumford lion, qq.v. See also valiant as an Essex lion, and cf.:-

Essex stile. A ditch: coll.: C.17-19. (Camden, 1605; Grose, 1st ed.) Ex the predominance of ditches over stiles in Essex. Apperson.

Esso. This acronym trade-name for the fuels and lubricants marketed by Standard Oil was re-interpreted, among garage-hands in the late 1930s-1940s, as Every Saturday and Sunday Off. (P.B.)

establish a funk. 'To create a panic—invented by a great bowler, at cricket, who enlivened this distinction with some cannon-ball bowling': Oxford University:—1909; † by 1920. (Ware.) Cf. bowl for timber.

estam. Short for estaminet. See stam and cf.:-

estamint. The Hobson-Jobson of estaminet: army: WW1. Ian Hay, Carrying On, 1917.

esuch. A house: back s.:—1873; ch for h. Cf. esroch, q.v.

et cet. Et cetera: trivial coll., mostly Aus.: C.20. C.E. McGill, 'With bags an' bottles, bones, et-cet, a bloke can make his pile,/An' knock about at rices then in real old Sydney style,' in 'Me Donah What's at Home', a poem (in the Bakara Bulletin, 1919) showing how strong is the Cockney influence on certain sections of Aus. English. Cf. rabbo, q.v.

et cetera; etc. Catachrestically insulting when applied to persons: mid-C.19-20. (Publishers sometimes put etc. at the end of an incomplete list of authors.)—2. For its slovenly use, see the astringent, invaluable Fowler.—3. A bookseller: c.: early C.18. Street Robberies Considered. (Prob. ex booksellers' habit of short-titling books in their catalogues.)

Eten Halen. Nickname for a Dutchman. See PRISONER-OF-WAR SLANG, §9, in Appendix.

eternal. Infernal; damned: in C.19-20 (dial. and) low coll.; C.17-18, S.E. Cf. US tarnal. Cf.—2. In C.18 it occ. signified 'thorough; thorough-going', as in Sessions, 6th session of 1733, 'Kempton swore at me, God damn your Blood and Liver, your eternal Bitch.'

eternity-box. A coffin: late C.18-20; ob. Grose, 2nd ed.

ethno. An ethnic or 'member of an ethnic group or minority' (The Australian Pocket Oxford Dictionary, 1976): Aus.: since the early 1970s. Thanks to B.P. for the s. term: the ubiquitous Aus. suffix -o.—2. Hence, any immigrant: Aus. schoolchildren's since ca. 1976. (Wilkes.)

etsi-ketsi. Rather feeble and indecisive, 'wet': from ca. 1946. Ex modern Greek. (E.P.). By the later 1950s it was in very common use among the Army and RAF in Cyprus, where it was pron. more as itsi-gitsi, and was taken to mean 'so-so, fair-to-middling'—usu. in answer to 'How's it going?' (P.B.) -ette, often joc., is occ. coll., as in munitionette. Very rare before 1850.

ettie or etty. A girl: low London: since ca. 1950. John Gloag, Unlawful Justice, 1962, "'Jimmy's no good to etties, see? Can't give what they take"' and 'Leader Lad going for this cute ettie'. Ex Ettie, Etty, a girl's name.

Euro. The Europa battleship: RN:—1909 (Ware); †.

Europe morning, have a. To rise late from bed: Anglo-Indian coll.: from ca. 1870; †. (B. & L.) In India one has to rise early in order to get a good day's work done, work being unhealthy in the middle of the day.

Europe on the chest. Home-sickness: military: ca. 1880-1915. Ware.

Evans. See Educated Evans; Mrs Evans.

evaporate. To run away; coll.: from ca. 1820 or perhaps a decade earlier still. Wm Maginn, Tales of Military Life, 1829 (at II, 257), "'By' the powers, Major," exclaimed Miles... "the Missus o' the house has frightened away that poor fellow; I suppose she put him in mind of his wife, that he evaporated with such alacrity." (Moe.)

evasive action, take. 'To keep away from trouble' (Jackson, 1943); see take evasive action.

evatch. To have; back s.:—1874 (H., 5th ed.). Instead of 'un-English' evah.

eve. A hen-roost: C.18—early 19 c. Extant, though ob., in dial. Prob. ex S.E. eaves.

even blind Freddie wouldn't miss it! It's absolutely obvious. See blind Freddie... even-down. Downright: lowerdeck: (?)ca. 1790—1860. Bill Truck, Feb. 1826.

even-handed. (Of a transaction) fair; honest. As adv., fairly, honestly, equitably. L.A., 1976, dates both as arising late 1974—early 1975.

even Stephen (or Steven). Share and share alike: Can. and Aus., C.20; Brit. since mid-C.20 at latest. By reduplication of even; but see also stephen, money. Perhaps an adoption ex US. L.A., 1974, notes the Brit. var. even(s) Stevens.

even terms. (To work) merely for one's keep: Aus. coll.: since ca. 1910. Baker.

evening. See Sunday.

Evening, The. The Evening News: coll.: C.20.

evening wheezes. False news: lower classes':—1909; ob. Ex the lying rumours once more freely spread than nowadays. Ware.

evens, in. In even time (esp. of the 100 yards run in 10 seconds): late C.19—20: athletics coll. >, by 1910, j.—2. do evens, to go at 20 miles per hour: cyclists' coll.: C.20.

evensnog. Evensong in the Anglican Church: 1970s, poss. earlier. By a pun; cf. matings, matins. (Rev. D. Paterson.) See snog.

event, quite an. Something important, significant, or unusual: C.20 coll.

ever. An intensive coll. usage, adopted by non-cultured Can. ca. 1940 ex US. 'In the Yukon, ca. 1950, I heard "Well, did Hard-Rock MacDonald ever tie one on!"' (Leechman.) Hence the Can. teenagers' and (older) children's c.p., was it ever!, as in 'Was it a good dance, darling?'—'Was it ever!' Also as in 'Was he nice?'—'Was he ever!' P.B.: also, by mid-1960s, Aus. Services. At the height of its popularity, ca. 1968, I phoned a RAAF office to inquire 'Is Jocko there?', to which came the reply 'Is he ever, man!' = Yes.—2. In did you ever?, (self-contained) have you ever seen, or heard, such a thing?: coll.: mid-C.19—20. (OED Sup.) 'An Old Etonian', The Alphabet Annotated, 1853, 'Some exclaim, and think themselves so clever! Did you ever? (answer) no, I never!'—3. In the best, worst, greatest, etc., ever, the best, etc., that has ever been: coll.: adopted ca. 1930 ex US.—4. In as ever is (or was), a coll. tag, intensive, as in 'Bad riding as ever was', 1708. Now approximately = 'mark you' (parenthetic) and, mostly, rather illiterate. OED Sup.

ever a(n), e'er a(n). Any: in C.19—20 (ob.), low coll.; earlier, S.E.

ever-loving, (the). One's wife: Aus.: since ca. 1935. Elliptical. (B.P.) ever so. Ever so much, as in thanks ever so!: mostly proletarian: from ca. 1895. Edwin Pugh, Tony Drum, 1898, "'But I like you ever so," she faltered.' P.B.: 'Ta ever so!' or, worse, 'Ever so ta!', for 'Thank you!', is sometimes used facetiously by those who ought to know better. (1979.)

ever since Adam was an oakum boy. From a very long time ago: RN coll.: mid-C.19—mid-20. (F. & G.) Cf. the several entries at since...

Ever Sworded, the. The 29th Regt of Foot, later (1881—1970) the Worcestershire Regiment: army sobriquet: mid-C.18—20. (F. & G.) Ex a custom resulting from a massacre in 1746.

ever the, adv. At all; any: e.g. 'Ever the richer', preceded by negative, = no richer. Coll.; from ca. 1620. OED.

Evergreens, the. The 13th Hussars: military. C.19—20. Ex their motto Viret in aeternum. F. & G. everlasting knock, take the. To die: sporting: 1889 (Referee, 10 Mar.).

everlasting shoes. The feet: coll.: from ca. 1870. H., 5th ed.

everlasting staircase. The treadmill: from ca. 1835; t. Ca. 1850—90, occ. Colonel Chesterton's everlasting staircase, ex its improver. Brandon; H., 1st ed.

everlastings. Bare feet: Aus.: ca. 1910—50. Ex everlasting shoes.

everlast toffee. Coffee: rhyming s.:—1857 ('Ducange Anglicus').

every bullet has its billet. Every bullet must land somewhere, and only those die in battle who are marked by fate for such a death. Coll. from ca. 1695. Wesley in his Journal, 6 June 1765—I quote the OED—'He never received one wound. So true is the odd saying of King William, that "every bullet has its billet".' The phrase is anticipated by Gascoigne, 1575, 'Every bullet hath a lighting place'; cf. Smollett's 'Every shot has its commission, d'ye see' (Apperson). In WW1 many soldiers pessimistically assumed that the phrase implied a loading of the dice against them.

every day and in every way, to which is often added I shall get better and better. A c.p. of ca. 1923—6. Ex Couéism. See esp. DCpp.

every fart's end, at. With tedious or obsessed repetition, applied esp. to 'repeated demand or interruption by unsure, or unconcerned, person' (L.A., 1977): low, but felicitously earthy: C.20.

every hair a rope yarn; every finger a marline-spike — every thumb a fid; every drop of blood Stockholm tar. 'An old nautical phrase descriptive of the real dyed-in-the-wool sailor of the windjammer era' (Granville): only very approx. ca. 1850—1910. Nautical Magazine, Dec. 1978, contains the var. Stockholm tar in his veins and every finger a marline-spike (Leo Madigan).

every home should have one. Orig., in the 1920s, an advertising slogan, it > a gen. c.p. of widespread application—ranging from common objects, to babies, to non-material things. Still current in 1980s.

every little helps — as the old woman said when she pissed in the sea or — as the monkey said when he pee'd in the sea. A c.p. that accompanies a small contribution to, e.g., a monetary collection for 'a good cause': mid-C.19—20. Cf. as the monkey said, which is prob. the later var. Adumbrated in the proverbial saying, 'Everything helps, quoth the wren, when she pissed into the sea'—quoted by The Oxford Dictionary of Proverbs for the date 1623.

every man Jack; every mother's son. Absolutely everyone: coll. The former prob. goes back to ca. 1810 or perhaps even to late C.18: it occurs in The Night Watch (II, 115), 1828. (Moe.) The latter is much older, C.14—20; in, e.g., Shakespeare, Scott.

every night about this time. An Aus. c.p. ref. to coition: since ca. 1955. Ex radio announcements. (B.P.)

every one a coconut! A c.p. meaning 'a success with every try', as, e.g., a famous novelist with successive novels: C.20. Ex the fairground barker's cry, attracting competitors to the coconut-shy.

every picture tells a story. 'Often used derisively of anecdotal paintings' (Collinson), and hence applied, by transference, to a woeful face, attitude, etc.: early C.20. Ex the advertising slogan of Doane's Backache Kidney Pills, accompanying a picture of a person bent over with pain.

every time. On every occasion; without exception: coll., US (1864) anglicised by 1880. OED Sup.—2. Hence, (Oh), every time! A c.p. of enthusiastic assent; 'certainly!': coll.: C.20.

every time he opens his mouth he puts his foot in it. A c.p. applied to the habitually tactless: since ca. 1920, perhaps earlier. By a pun on put one's foot in it, to make a social mistake.

every which way. In every manner or direction: joc. coll., orig. (1840) US; anglicised ca. 1910. Perhaps ex confusion caused by every way (in) which. Often as every which way but (the correct one), in every direction except the right one.

everybody's doing it, doing it, doing it. A c.p. of ca. 1912–14. (Robert Keable, Simon Called Peter, 1921.) Ex a very popular song, the ref. being to the Turkey Trot, 'the rage' in 1912–13. P.B.: but it was still known among prep. school boys in the early 1940s, who added, in a typical small boy way, '... Picking their nose [sic] and chewing it, chewing it, chewing it.'

everything, in the predicate, =(something) very important, is coll.; from ca. 1870. E.g. 'Bring the money: that's everything!'

everything but the kitchen sink. See kitchen sink.

everything in the garden's lovely! All goes well!: a C.20 c.p., now ob. It has given rise to the suburban middle-class c.p. everything in the garden's lovely—except the gardener!, an affectionately malicious jibe at 'Dad, who often looks like a scarecrow when he is gardening' (Petch, 1974): since ca. 1945. An early record of the orig. occurs in G.B. Lancaster, Jim of the Ranges, 1910.

everything is George. All is well, esp. for me: beatniks' c.p.: ca. 1959–69. (Anderson.) Cf. US that's real George!

everything is lovely and the goose hangs high. All goes well: coll.: C.19–early 20. The ref. is app. to a plucked goose hanging high out of a fox's reach. Occ. everything in the garden...

everything is nice in your garden! 'A gentle protest against self-laudation': 1896–ca. 1910. Ware supports with an anecdotal origin. But see also everything in the garden...

everything that opens and shuts. Everything needed to make life comfortable: Aus. c.p.: since ca. 1950. Ex household gadgets. (B.P.)

everything (or everything's) under control. A Services c.p., applied to a situation where things are 'ticking over' nicely: since ca. 1930. H. & P.; Granville.

Eve's custom-house. The female pudend: late C.18–19. Grose, 2nd ed., 'Where Adam made his first entry.' Contrast custom-house officer.

evesdropper. A thief lurking about doors and watching his opportunity: c.:—1725; † by 1800. A New Canting Dict.—2. A robber of hen-roosts: mid-C.18–early 19 c. (Grose, 1st ed.) Ex eaves.

evethee. A thief: centre s.: from ca. 1860; †. Also hevethee. Cf. after.

evif. Five: back s.:—1859 (H., 1st ed.). Also ewif, q.v.

evil. In late C.18–early 19 c., a halter. Grose, 2nd ed.—2. In C.19 s., matrimony; a wife. Lex. Bal.

evlenet. Twelve: back s.:—1859 (H., 1st ed.). Naturally evlewt, looking un-English, was changed.

evo. Evening: Aus.: C.20. (Baker.) Cf. afro, arvo.

evolution, make an. 'To do anything with the maximum of fuss' (P-G-R): RN officers': since ca. 1918.

ewe, or white ewe, gen. preceded by the. An important, because very beautiful, woman in a band of rogues, a criminal gang: c.: late C.17–18. B.E.; Grose, 1st ed.

ewe dressed lamb fashion, an old. See old ewe...

ewe lamb. A uhlán: army: WW1.

ewe-mutton. An elderly harlot or amateur prostitute: C.19–20; ob.

ewif. A var. of evif, five; it occurs in Mayhew, I, 1851; where also ewif yen(n)ep, fivepence, and ewif-gen, five shillings (a crown).

ex. Exhibition; gen. the Ex, some specific exhibition, such as the Earl's Court Exhibition in 1899: late C.19–20. (Ernest Raymond, A Family That Was, 1929.) Cf. ekka.—2. Ex-wife or ex-husband: Society: since ca. 1920. Agatha Christie, Towards Zero, 1944, 'Leonard's new wife and his Ex'.

ex, v. To excuse by crossing out: Aus. coll.: since ca. 1930. (D'Arcy Niland, 1958.) To put an X through.

ex-brat. A soldier who started his military career as a 'boy-soldier', junior leader or apprentice: army coll.: later C.20. (P.B.)

ex-con. 'A former prisoner' (Home Office): former prisoners': 1970.

exactly! Certainly! excellent! Coll.: from ca. 1865. W.S. Gilbert, in Bab Ballads, 1869, "'I'm boiled if I die, my friends", quoth I, / And "exactly so", quoth he' (OED).

exalted. Tipsy: ca. 1670–1760. Dryden, The Bloody Duke, 1690, at III, i. (Moe.)—2. (Other forms, very rare.) Pl passive, hanged: coll.: C.19. Michael Scott, 1836.

exam. Examination: school s. >, in C.20, gen. coll.; from ca. the middle 1870s. James Payn, 'I read all about it for my exam.', 1883.

exam weather. That perfect weather that seems so often to occur at the time of the university, college and school summer examinations, to taunt the poor candidates—and their invigilators: educational establishments: 1970s. (P.B.)

examina. An examination, See WINCHESTER, §3, in Appendix.

exasperate or hexasperate. To over-aspirate one's h's: from ca. 1850; ob. 'Cuthbert Bede', 1853.

exceedings. 'Expenditure beyond income': Oxford University coll.:—1909; ob. Ware.

Excellent's ulster. An oilskin: the (naval) Gunnery Schools', hence gen. RN: ca. 1840–90. Bowen.

Excellers, the. The 40th Foot, from 1881 the South Lancashires: C.19–20 (ob.) military. Ex XLers.—2. Occ., the 12th Battalion, the London Regiment, formerly the 40th (XL) Middlesex Rifle Volunteers. F. & G.

exchange spits. To kiss: low: late C.19–20. L.A., 1974, mentions the var. swap spits.—2. To coit: workmen's: C.20.

excite!, don't. Keep calm! See don't excite!

Excitement (or e.), the. 'There were, in British Columbia, a number of gold rushes before the great strike in the Yukon in 1896. These events, of which the Fraser River gold rush of 1858 was the first, are still referred to as "the excitement". "Harry stayed on after the excitement" and so on' (Leechman, 1962): Can. coll.: since ca. 1859.

exciting, adj. Excellent; amusing, pleasant; unexpected: coll.; from ca. 1880.

excremental. Joc. pej., as 'What an excremental bastard the bloke is!': Services': later C.20. Cf. the more down-to-earth shitty. (P.B.)

excrementum cerebellum vincit. A joc. erudit c.p. 'translating' bullshit baffles brains: army officers': WW2. Cf. illegitimus non carborundum, 'don't let the bastards grind you down!'

excruators. Very tight boots, esp. with pointed toes: coll.: from ca. 1865; ob.

excursioner, -ist. An excursion-agent: coll.; from ca. 1890; †.

excuse! Pardon me!; do not be offended: S. African coll.:—1906 (Watkins, From Farm to Forum). Ex Dutch influence. (Pettman.) excuse French. See excuse my French!

excuse me (or, more bluntly, bugger this!)—I've got a train (or plane) to catch. 'I am bored with, have had enough of, the company or task, and am leaving': since ca. 1965. (Jack Slater, 1978.)

excuse me reaching! A lower-middle-class c.p. uttered as one reaches for something at table: C.20; ob. Punning retching. Cf. boarding-house reach.

excuse me, the. The w.c.: rhyming s.: since ca. 1930.

excuse my abbrev; it's a hab. (I.e. abbreviation; habit.) A c.p. uttered by, or directed at, a person given to trivial abridgements: ca. 1910–12. Such abbr. were much more frequent ca. 1890–1912 than before—or since.

excuse my (or the) French! Please excuse the strong, or bad, language: lower-middle-class c.p.: since ca. 1916. Michael Harrison, All the Trees Were Green, 1936, 'A bloody sight better (pardon the French!) than most.' P.B.: in later C.20 often used by those who cannot be bothered to (rather than cannot because of particularly strong emotion) suppress their bad language in circumstances where it is distasteful to the hearers. Pardon is as often used as excuse in this phrase. excuse my pig - he's a friend. By joc. inversion, an excuse for a partner's unseemly behaviour, esp. with food or drink, or, e.g., breaking wind in company: since ca. 1950. Cf. Is he with you? (P.B.)

exec. Short for executive committee, esp. in exec meeting: since late 1950s.—2. A business executive: business world. Helen Chappell, New Society, 1 July 1982, p. 5. execute. To cane: Public Schools' joc. coll.: late C.19–20. Ian Hay, Pip, 1907.

execution. A very large crowd drawn by a 'grafter': grafters': C.20. News of the World, 28 Aug. 1938.—2. Hence, a large crowd around a market man: street market vendors': since ca. 1930. (Julian Franklyn, note of 1962.)

execution day. Washing day; Monday: late C.17–20 (ob.): low coll. (B.E.) Ex hanging clothes on the line.

exercise P.U. A drinking-session, or piss-up; joc. use of the military 'exercise + codename' formula: RN officers': WW2. P-G-R.

exes. Expenses: coll.:—1864 (H., 3rd ed.).—2. Those who were once something else: coll.; from ca. 1820. Tom Moore, 'We x's have proved ourselves not to be wise.'—3. See tommy and exes.

exes (or exis) to fere. Odds of 6 to 4: racing c.: C.20. For exes, see exis; fere is four corrupted.

exhibish, the. Any notable exhibition: RN: C.20.—2. exhibish, or exhibeesh. Any exhibition containing sexual display, from a strip-tease show to a public copulation: orig. Services', then wider usage: since ca. 1950, perhaps earlier. Ex the native tout's importuning of passing servicemen; cf. feelthy pictures. (P.B.)

exhibition of (one)self, make an. To show oneself in an unfavourable light: coll.; from ca. 1880.

exis. Six; esp. in exis-evif gen, 6 x 5 shillings, 30s., and exis-evif yanneps, 6 + 5 pence, 11d. These examples are from H., 1st ed., 1859. By the 1865 ed. Hotten had adopted Mayhew's (1851) spelling, as exis yeneps, sixpence.—2. See exes to fere.

Exmas. Christmas: (low) coll.: late C.19–20. (M. Harrison, Spring in Tartarus, 1935). Ex Xmas.

expat. An expatriate; applied esp. to a white man electing to earn his living in an Asian or East Indian or African state: since the late 1940s. John Slimming, The Pepper Garden (a novel about contemporary Sarawak), 1968.

expect = to suppose or surmise and followed by a that, i.e. an immediately dependent noun, clause has, since ca. 1870, been coll. when not dial.; in C.16—early 19, S.E. expectations. See not up to her expectations.

expecting, adj. With child: lower classes' coll.; from ca. 1870. Baumann.

expendable. Servicemen whose loss is 'anticipated (and accepted) as the price of success': coll.: Services': WW2, and subsequent conflicts. 'Ex store-keeping accounts' (R.S., 1971). Cf.:- expended. Killed: nautical: mid-C.18—early 19. (Grose, 1st ed.) Ex bookkeeping accounts.

expensive. Wealthy, sumptuous; exceedingly or distinctively stylish: from ca. 1920: s. >, by 1930, coll. Cf. extensive, q.v.

experience. 'LSD or Mescaline experience' (Home Office) drug addicts': 1970s.

experience does it. A mid-C.19–20 coll. rendering of experientia docet, (lit.) experiment teaches. Originated by Mrs Micawber in David Copperfield.

explore (a woman's) frillery. To caress her very intimately: low coll.: ca. 1888–1914. Frillery = women's underclothing.

explosion. The birth of a child: low: ca. 1865–1925.

export trade, the. The procuring of women and shipping them to the Argentine: white-slavers' c.: from ca. 1890. Londres, 1928.

express (train). In WW1 'we called large enemy shells this as we heard them passing overhead to the back areas. They made a noise like express trains' (Petch, 1966): army term.

extensive. Showy; given to, or actually, displaying wealth, fine clothes, conversational ability or effectiveness:—1859; ob. H., 1st ed. (Introduction).

extern. An external examiner: University: late C.19–20.

extinguish. To reduce (an opponent) to silence: from ca. 1890, coll.; earlier (1878), S.E. extinguisher. A dog's muzzle:—1890 (Standard, 12 May).

extra. Dull, boring: 1929; †. A.A. Milne, Two People, 1931.

extra-curricular activities. Adulterous sexual play and intercourse: cultured coll.: since late 1940s.

extra ducks. Additional waiters employed to serve at banquets: caterers': since ca. 1920. Ex their waddling gait.

extra early. First rate, very good, excellent: NZ: since ca. 1945.

extra grouse. Exceptionally well or attractive or meritorious: Aus.: C.20. (B., 1959.) Cf. grouse, the.

extra sort (superlative to the positive good sort) is a person exceedingly attractive to the opposite sex; contrast drack sort: Aus.: since ca. 1945. B., 1953.

extra two inches you're supposed to get after you're forty. A c.p. referring to an imaginary phallic compensation for the years that the locusts have eaten: Services': WW2.

extract the Michael. To make fun of (someone); to jeer at; joc. pedantic for take the mike (or mickey) out of: since ca. 1950, perhaps earlier. A polite version of:-

extract the urine (from). See prec. This version is 'euphemistic' for take the piss out of: Services': since 1939. P-G-R.

extracted. Included in the list of Elegant Extracts, 2, q.v. (H., 3rd ed.) Ob.

Extradition Court. The Second Justice-room at Bow Street: London legal and political: 1883 (Daily News, 10 Apr.). Ex the numerous extradition cases there tried.

extrumps or ex(-)trumps. Extempore: without preparation (of a lesson): Winchester College, from ca. 1860.

eye. A place where tradesmen (orig. and esp. tailors) hide stolen material: 'Called hell, or their eye: from the first, when taxed with their knavery, they equivocally swear, that if they have taken any, they wish they may find it in hell; or alluding to the second protest, that what they have over and above is not more than they could put in their eye' (Grose, 1st ed., at cabbage): trade: mid-C.18—mid-19.—2. A look-out man: c.: from ca. 1925.—3. In have in one's eye, to have in mind: coll.: ca. 1790–1860. 'To some true girl I'll be steering, I've got one in my eye'—from an unidentified British poem antedating 1806 and quoted in an American magazine, The Port Folio, 17 May 1806, p. 304. (Moe.)—4. See bedpost (for twinkling of an eye); drop in (one's) eye; fallen down and trod ...; glad eye; Betty Martin; pipe the eye; one eye draws straw; wipe (one's) eye; wipe the eye; wipe the other eye; entries at eyes ...—5. In my eye!, an exclam., as in Wm Maginn, Whitehall, 1827, "'Bless us, there's the Dover coach again. My eye, she's setting down all her passengers at Holmes's'" (Moe).

eye-brows. See hang on by ...

eye! eye! 'A call for vigilance' (Jim Phelan, The Underworld, 1953): c.: since ca. 1920. A pun on the nautical aye aye!

eye-glass weather. Foggy. See heye-glass ...

eye-glassy. Characteristic of the wearers of monocles: coll.: 1871 (Meredit).—2. Hence, haughty, supercilious, haughtily contemptuous: coll.: 1907. OED Sup.

eye-hole. Fillet-hole: bellringers' coll.:—1901 (Rev. H. Earle Bulwer).—2. Introitus urethrae: low: late C.19–20.

eye in a sling, have an or get (one's), or with (one's). (To be) crushed or defeated; to get into trouble: proletarian coll.: C.20. (Ware.) Arse has sometimes replaced eye, since ca. 1930, and occurs in, e.g., Elleston Trevor, The Freebooters, 1967. Cf. ass in a sling, q.v.

eye-lashes. See hang (on) by ...

eye-limpet. An artificial eye: ca. 1875–1900.

eye(-)lotion. Wine in small quantity: Services officers' since ca. 1925. (H. & P.) Cf. lotion and gargle.

eye opened, have (one's). To be robbed: ca. 1820–80.

(Alexander Somerville, Autobiography of a Working Man, 1848.) Hence the n. eye-opening.

eye-opener. The penis: low: C.19—early 20.—2. A drink taken before going on early-morning patrol: RFC/RAF officers': from ca. 1916. Guy Fowler, The Dawn Patrol, 1930. eye-out, n. Someone keeping watch: c.: later C.20. Clement & La Frenais, A Further Stir of Porridge, 1977.

eye out of register. An inaccurate eye: printers':—1887 (Baumann). Ex printers' j. out of register.

eye peeled or skinned, keep (one's best). To be wary: coll.: US (1852: Thornton), anglicised in late C.19. Cf. fly, wido, up to snuff.

eye-picker. 'One who "picks the eyes out" of a grazing district by taking up the best land' (B., 1943): Aus.: C.20. Cf. peacocking, q.v.

eye-sight. See eyesight.

eye-teeth. In draw (a person's) eye-teeth, to make him less sure of himself: C.20. Manchon.—2. In have (cut one's) eye-teeth, or -tooth, to be experienced, prudent: coll.: C.18—earlier 20. Apperson.

eye to the main chance, have an. To look for one's best advantage in any circumstances. See main chance.

eye-tooth. See eye-teeth, 2.

eye-wash. Something done, not for utility but for effect: coll.:—1884; prob. orig. military. C.T. Buckland, in Sketches of Social Life in India, 1884. 'Most officers of any tact understand the meaning of eye-wash' (OED). See esp. B. & P. Cf. daily eye-wash, q.v. Hence, in WW1 and since, an eye-wash parade: CO's inspection.

eye-water. Gin (—1823); ob. C. >, by 1850. low. Egan's Groser; H., 1st ed.; Whyte-Melville; Judy (an 1880s rival of Punch), 4 Aug. 1886. 'The imbibed stupendous quantities of jiggered gin, dog's nose, and Paddy's eye-water.'

eyeball, n. See mark-one eyeball.

eyeball, v. To fly very low, by flair and intuition rather than by intricate gadgetry: RAF: 1970s, and prob. earlier. Daily Telegraph, Sep. 1975.

eyeball to eyeball. (Orig. journalistic) descriptive of very close, usu. hostile, confrontations: since ca. 1960. The phrase became such a cliché that Osbert Lancaster could, at a time of tension between Great Britain and Spain over Gibraltar in the early 1970s, depict, in one of his very witty 'Pocket Cartoons', a Gibraltar policeman, face to face with his Spanish opposite number, muttering 'And eyeballs to you too!' (P.B.) eyeful. An attractive girl or young woman: coll.: C.20. She takes the eye.—2. An accidental but fortunate glimpse of even the partial nakedness of a member of the opposite sex: C.20.—3. See got your eyeful?, an extension of take an eyeful, to have a good look (at): C.20. F. & G.

eyes. In my eyes!, an exclam. of admiration or surprise: ca. 1780—1910. In an English song (? Charles Dibdin's) reprinted in The Port Folio, 1 Nov. 1806, p. 268, 'To Thompson let the bumbo pass,/Grey, Parker, Walgrave, Calder,/Nelson, who took St Nicholas,/My eyes, why how he mauled her!' (Moe). Dickens, Oliver Twist, 'My eyes, how green! ... Why a beak's a madg'strate.' Var. my eye!—2. See googoo eyes; Old Eyes.

eyes and ears of the world, the. An Aus. c.p., applied ironically to one who has all the latest information: since ca. 1950. Ex the motto of Gaumont British News. (B.P.)

Eyes and Limbs, the. The foot guards were formerly so called, by the marching regiments, from a favourite excretion in use among them, which was, damning their eyes, limbs, and blue breeches' (Grose, 1st ed.): app. ca. 1720—60. eyes are bigger than (one's) belly, (one's). Grose, 2nd ed., has 'His eye was bigger than his belly. A saying of a person at table, who takes more on his plate than he can eat'; since mid-C.18 and still, later C.20, occ. heard in joc. accusation, sometimes against oneself, 'My eyes are ...', and sometimes in reproof, 'Your eyes ...'

eyes are set, (one's). One is drunk. See eyes set.

eyes chalked!, get your. To one not looking where he is going, or to a clumsy person: North Country: late C.19—20.

eyes draw straws (one's). One is very sleepy. See straws, 2.

eyes for, have. To crave (a thing), be amorous (of a person): adopted ex US, perhaps helped by the popular song by Henry Warren, composed for the film Dames, 1935, 'I only have eyes for you'. Revived among beatniks, 1950s, as 'John's sure got eyes for that bottle!' (Leachman).

eyes front. (You) cunt!: rhyming s.: not anatomical, but applied derisively, in full, to a fool. (Hillman, 1974.) Ex the military command.

eyes in the boat! Keep your eyes on the job—not on that wench over there!: nautical: late C.19—20.

eyes like a bulldog's (sc. ballocks). Protuberant eyes: low: C.20. (P.B.)

eyes like a shit-house rat, usu. prec. by with or has. Having shifty eyes and keen eyesight: since ca. 1910. (H.P. Mann, 1972.)

eyes like chapel hat-pegs. See eyes stick out ...

eyes like cod's ballocks, have. To be pop-eyed: low: C.20. Cf. eyes like a bulldog's.

eyes like piss-holes in the show. Deeply sunken eyes, whether naturally so; through illness; or, most commonly—in the Services, at any rate—because of a 'hang-over': low coll.: C.20. The Can. form is ... two piss holes ...

eyes of the ship, the. The bows of the ship; well forward therein: RN coll.: C.19—20. Granville, 'Chinese ships used to have eyes painted on the bows.'

eyes out, go. To make every effort: work exceedingly hard: Aus.: since ca. 1820. (B., 1942.) On cry one's eyes out.

eyes peeled or skinned, keep. See eye peeled.

eyes set (in one's or the head), have or be with one's or the. To be drunk: C.17—18 coll. Shakespeare, 'O he's drunke ... his eyes were set at eight i'th morning.'

eyes sewed (or sewn) up with red thread (, have one's). (With) eyes bloodshot from weariness or from alcoholic or other excess: army in Hong Kong, 1960s; perhaps more widespread, or perhaps ex Chinese idiom. (P.B.)

eyes stick out like chapel hat-pegs or like organ stops, e.g. his; the tense is adjustable. His eyes are (fig.) protuberant: coll.: since ca. 1910. Applied, e.g., to one wide-eyed with astonishment, or to a young man watching a pretty girl.

eyesight. In nearly lose (one's) eyesight, to obtain an unexpectedly and very intimate view of a member of the opposite sex: coll.; from ca. 1860. Cf. eyeful, 2.—2. In it does or will do (e.g. your eyesight good, a c.p. applied to something well worth seeing: late C.19—20.—3. In there's eyesight in it, that's evident or obvious: c.p.: mid-1930s.

Eyetie. An Italian (usu. pl): orig. army in WW1 (F. & G.); later spread into civilian life, and then much used in WW2; also as adj.; in, e.g., an Eyetie, an Italian aircraft (Jackson). Ex the sol. pron. Eye-talian. Cf. Raddie, Wop, andeyewash. See eye-wash.

Eyeto. An Italian: Aus.: 1940+. (B., 1942.) Ex prec. on Italiano—or the common Aus. suffix -o.

F

F.A. or sweet F.A. or sweet f.a. Nothing at all. See Fanny Adams, 2.

f.a.q. Fair Average Quality: Aus.; orig. wheat merchants', earlier C.20, > gen. and widespread by later C.20. Wilkes.

f.c.s. False calves: theatrical coll.:—1909. Ware, 'Paddings used by actors in heroic parts to improve the shape of the legs'.

f.h.o.!; f.h.b. Family hands off! sometimes explained as family hold off!; or, family hold back! middle-class domestic coll. c.p. indicating that a certain dish is not to be eaten by members of the family at a meal where guests are present: mid-C.19–20. f.h.b. occurs in Ian Hay, Safety Match, 1911. f sharp. A flea: from ca. 1860; ob. H., 3rd ed.; Lyell, "'F" being the initial letter, and "sharp" because of the bite'. Cf. b flat, q.v.

f.t.b. A c.p. reply (lower-middle class) to 'Have you had enough to eat?': C.20. I.e. full to bursting.

f.u. A grave muddle or 'fuck-up': low: C.20. It had considerable vogue among servicemen in WW2, itself an extreme example of the m.f.u., q.v.

f.u.J. Fuck you, Jack! (sc. I'm all right); also as predicative, as in 'Oh, he's f.u.J.': indifferent to others' misfortunes: Services': WW2.

f.y.f.a.s. A provocative conversational opener. See fyfas.

fa. Father: upper classes' coll.: C.20. Nancy Mitford, The Pursuit of Love, 1945.

fab. Very good; successful: teenagers': since late 1950s. Shortening of:-

fabulous. A verbal counter, meaning 'very—or merely—agreeable' or 'unusual' or '(very) interesting' or '(very) large' or 'distinguished' or ...: coll.: since ca. 1945. After being theatrical s. of ca. 1945–50, it > gen. s. and, by 1962, something of a vogue word. Cf. fab, and fantabulous.

fabulous drop, a. A very attractive girl: Aus.: since late 1940s. (Culotta.) Cf. the Aus. not a bad drop, a good alcoholic drink.

face, n. A grimace: coll.: from ca. 1600 (SOD). Shakespeare. —2. Great confidence, insolent boldness; impudence: from ca. 1530: coll. till C.18, then S.E. Face is a principal character in Jonson's The Alchemist. —3. Credit, esp. in push one's face, to obtain credit by bluff or bluster: coll.: from ca. 1760. (Goldsmith.) Cf. U.S. run—or travel on—one's face, to go upon credit. —4. A contemptuous term of address: orig. and mainly Cockney: from ca. 1875. Cf. face-ache and features. —5. Personal appearance: Aus.: since ca. 1925. (B., 1942.) Cf. American front. —6. A person, esp. if well known: since late 1950s, mostly in underground society. (Groupie, 1968.) See quot'n at faces. —7. Rhyming s. for boat race, esp. the Oxford and Cambridge: late C.19–20. —8. See go off (one's) face; put on a face; your face ...

face, v. To punch in the face: pugilistic: ca. 1815–50. (Boxiana, III, 1821.) Cf. bellier and jawer.

face-ache. At first, an ironically joc. term of address, C.20, (cf. face, n., 4); but by ca. 1960 often used 'straight', as in "'He is a face-ache"—his presence is very unpleasant and undesirable' (Jonathan Thomas, 1976).

face and brace. To bluster, domineer; be defiant: coll.: C.16. Skelton; Latimer, 'Men ... woulde face it and brace it and make a shewe of upryght dealyng' (OED). Cf. brace (up), brace (one)self.

face as long as a fiddle, have a. To look dismal, extremely depressed: coll.: C.18–20. Contrast face made of a fiddle.

face at half-past eight, with one's. Mournful; wry-mouthed: C.20.

face at the window, the. A c.p. applied to someone looking through or even merely appearing at a window: late C.19–20; little used since 1939. Orig., a 'thriller' or a melodrama—or both.

face-entry. Freedom of access to a theatre: theatrical:—1874; ob. (H., 5th ed.) Cf. face, 3, q.v.

face-fins. Moustaches: orig. nautical: late C.19–20. Frank Richardson.

face-fittings. A beard and/or moustache: Aus.: C.20. (B., 1942.) Cf.:-

face-fungus. Moustaches; esp. beard; or both: joc.: C.20. Like face-fins, it occurs in the work of Frank Richardson (1870–1917).

face in a knot, get or tie (one's). To become angry—or agitated—or bewilderingly excited: Aus.: C.20. Baker.

face-lifter. An uppercut to the jaw: pugilistic: since ca. 1925. Ex beauty-parlour treatment.

face like a bagful of spanners, a. A face hard and rough, applied mostly to women. Alan Coren, in The Times, 8 May 1975, refers to a man thus describing his mother-in-law.

face like a coastguard station, have a. To look stony and grim: since ca. 1940. (L.A., 1967.)

face like a millman's round, a. I.e., long: urban: since ca. 1950. (L.A., 1976.)

face like a mountain goat('s), have a. To be an Irish, Scottish or Welsh dupe: c.: C.20. With pun on mug, n., 1.

face like a scrubbed hammock, (have) a. To have a pale sour-looking face: RN: since ca. 1920. (Granville.) Contrast:-

face like a sea-boot, a. 'A long-drawn "fathom of misery"' (Granville): since ca. 1930; Bowen earlier defined it as 'an expressionless face': nautical coll.: late C.19–20. An early occurrence is in 'Taffrail', Pincher Martin, 1916. Cf. the later derivative boot-faced.

face like a yard of pump-water. A 'long'—i.e. miserable or glum—face: coll.: C.20.

face like the back of a bus, have a; occ. face that would stop a bus or like the side of a house. Of girls or women: to be very plain-looking: since late 1940s. A more brutal var. is ... like the rear end of a cow. P.B.: in 1940s there was still the var. ... back of a tram.

face made of a fiddle, have (one's). To be irresistibly attractive or charming: coll.: from ca. 1660. Smollett; Scott.

face-making. Sexual intercourse: mid-C.18—early 19. (Grose, 1st ed.) Cf. making feet for children's stockings.

face on the cutting room floor, the. An actor or actress cut out of a picture because, after the picture has been completed, it is found that the rôle is superfluous: filmland: since ca. 1920. See esp. Cameron McCabe's clever novel so titled, 1937. P.B.: an adaptation of the ballad title 'The Face on the Barroom Floor', of which Charles O. Kennedy, editor of American Ballads, Naughty, Ribald and Classic, 1952, writes: '[H. Antoine] D'Arcy always insisted ... that the title of his celebrated work was not "The Face on the Barroom Floor" but "The Face on the Floor" ... Maurice Barrymore, brilliant father of Ethel, John and Lionel, spread the ballad's fame by his recitation.'

face red, is (or was, e.g.,) my. I (or he, etc.) am (or was) indeed embarrassed, or ashamed: a c.p. from ca. 1954; ob. face the knocker. To go begging; tailors': from ca. 1875. face the music. To cope bravely with an unexpected emergency: adopted, ex US, ca. 1880; coll., >, by ca. 1920, S.E. A later, C.20 meaning is, as L.A. noted, 1974, to go through an ordeal, e.g., the possibility of a severe reprimand or other punishment, as 'I know they don't like what I've done, but I suppose I'd better go back and face the music'; or simply 'to do a job of work, esp. Edwardian wives' and mothers' flattering menfolk of the family who had to "go to the City" or whatever business.'

face-ticket, have a. To be so well known to the janitors that one is not asked to present one's ticket: British Museum Reading Room coll.:—1909 (Ware); †.—2. A season ticket: among those who travel by train or 'tube': coll.: from ca. 1920.

facier. A glass full to the brim: late C.17—early 19: c. >, by 1800, low coll. B.E., 'A Bumper without Lip-room'.—2. A blow in the face: pugilistic coll.: from ca. 1810; ob. Lex. Bal.—3. Hence, a sudden check or obstacle: coll.; from ca. 1820. 'At the first facier Hume or Voltaire is grassed and gives in' (J. Wilson, Noctes Ambrosianae, I, 162, i.e. in 1822: OED.)—4. Hence, a problem: coll.: mid-C.19—20.—5. A dram: Anglo-Irish: mid-C.19—20. H., 3rd ed.—6. A glass of whiskey punch: from ca. 1870; ob. H., 5th ed.

faces. 'A term for notorious cab drivers (fortunately few in number) who quite unscrupulously make their own rules and take only profitable hirings or those where they can more easily extort from fares, e.g., "airport faces", "hotel faces", "abortion faces". Also used in general sense for known criminals' (Powis): police and underworld: 1970s. See face, n., 4 and 6.

facey. A workman facing another as he works: tailors'. Hence, facey on the bias, one not directly in front, and facey on the two thick, a workman just behind one's vis-à-vis. From ca. 1870. Occ. var. facie.

facias. See fieri facias.

facings. In go or be put through (one's) facings, to be reprimanded or to show off: military s. > gen. coll.: from ca. 1865. In C.20, S.E.—2. See silk facings.

factor, as in the chuff factor, the degree of a soldier's acceptance, contentment, eagerness, and in embezzlement factor, q.v., a risk: army, perhaps mainly officers': WW2 and after: j. > s. (P.B., 1974.) The embezzlement factor later came to mean rather 'to what extent one's plans or actions could be "buggered-up" by forces beyond one's control' (P.B., 1981).

Factory, the. 'Specifically, a large Metropolitan police station of severe appearance (the Old Commercial Street "nick", for example); generally, any police station. Not now so common an expression as it once was, perhaps because police stations are not now quite as stark and forbidding as they once were' (Powis, 1977). In the c. of ca. 1860–90 it signified Old Scotland Yard, as in 'No. 747'.—2. 'The model agricultural colony at Carroco (Anzio bridgehead), a prominent landmark': army: early 1944+. P-G-R.

facty. Full of facts: coll. but never very gen.: from ca. 1880. 'A "facty" [newspaper] article' (Pall Mall Gazette, 2 Nov. 1883: OED.) facty. Impudent, insolvent: C.17–20; coll. till C.19, then dial. Ex face, n., 2.

fa'd, fa-d, fa-dee, far-dee. A farthing: Charterhouse: from ca. 1870. Cf. ha'd.

fad-cattle. Easily accessible women: C.19. Cf. cattle; faddle, to toy.

faddist, fadmonger. One devoted to a public or private fad: coll.; from ca. 1880. Vbl n., fadmongering.

faddle. To toy or trifle: coll. in C.19; † by 1890, except in dial. Hence, n., a busybody; also an affected and very effeminate male. The v. arose ca. 1680 (orig., to caress a child); the n. ca. 1800, though the sense, triflery, foolery, 'bosh', hardly before 1850. faddy. Full of fads: coll.: from ca. 1820. (Mrs Sherwood, 1824.) Ex dial. (OED.) In later C.20, esp. of one, usu. a child, 'finicky' about his food. (P.B.)

fade, n. In do a fade, to disappear without paying the rent: Can. carnival workers': C.20.—2. In on the fade, (by/in) evading justice, dodging the police: Aus. c.: since ca. 1920. B., 1942.

fade, v. To depart; to disappear (of persons): gen. s.: since ca. 1950. Alan Hunter, Gently Down the Stream, 1957, 'it's pretty obvious that this geezer and her were planning to fade together...' Cf. prec.

faded, have got (someone). To have someone at a disadvantage: Can.: since ca. 1940. Esp. in relation to the dice game of craps—and perhaps from it. Dr Douglas Leechman has pertinently asked, 'Can this be ex fated?' I rather think it might. On the other hand, the Can. sense derives ex the US: and the US is 'to have him matched or equalled'; the US 'I've got him faded' = 'I can match any trick or threat of his with one just as potent', esp. at craps, as Mr Robert Claiborne of New York tells me.

fade away! Go away: smart s.:—1913; ob. by 1920, † by 1930. A.H. Dawson's Dict. of Slang.

fadge, n. A farthing: late C.18–19 c. (Grose, 3rd ed.; Sinks, 1848.) Cf. fadger, 2.

fadge, v. To suit; fit: late C.16–19. Succeed: from ca. 1600. Both coll. The former in Nashe, Shakespeare, B.E., Horace Walpole; the latter in Cotgrave, Borrow, Nares: 'Probably never better than a low word; it is now confined to the streets.' Esp. in it won't fadge, it won't do or serve.—2. As fadge with, to tolerate (a thing), agree or rub along with a person, is C.17—early 18 and rather S.E. than coll.

fadger. A glazier's frame; a 'frail': glaziers'; from ca. 1860. (H., 3rd ed.) In C.20, j. Ex fadge, v., 1.—2. A farthing: Cockneys': late C.19–20. (J.W. Horsley, I Remember, 1912.) By corruption. See also fadge, n.

fadoodle. A mere nothing, a useless trifle: lower classes': —1923 (Manchon). Perhaps ex faddle on flapdoodle.

faff; usu. faff about. To mess about, restlessly and ineffectually, wasting time, often while something quite urgent needs attention; 'Oh, do come on! Stop faffing about! We shall never get there at this rate!': since ca. 1930. App. euph. for synon. fuck about or fart about; poss. simply echoic. (R.S.; P.B.)

fag, n. In stand a good fag, not to become easily tired: late C.18–19: coll. (Grose, 3rd ed.) Hence, fag, anything that causes weariness; toil: coll.:—1780. Hence, from ca. 1880, a wearisome thing; a bore. Possibly this phrase + fag, hard work, drudgery, weariness (1780: OED.), being a schoolboys' perversion of fatigue (W.), led to:—2. A boy doing menial work for one in a higher form: schoolboys' s.:—1785, >, by 1850, gen. coll. Grose, 1st ed.; Thackeray (of a young drudge in a painters' studio). Prob. ex fag, v., 1, but, despite the dates, perhaps ex fag, v., 2.—3. Eatables: Christ's Hospital (School), from ca. 1800. Leigh Hunt, in his Autobiography, 'The learned derived the word from the Greek phago'.—4. An inferior cigarette, from ca. 1887; by late 1890s, in RN (Goodenough, 1901) and army (J. Milne, 1902), any cigarette, and this usage >, by ca. 1915, gen. Abbr. fag-end and ?orig. army. 'Cuthbert Bede', 1853, speaks of 'the fag-ends of cigars' (SOD).—5. A lawyer's clerk: Aus. joc.: C.20. B., 1942, Ex sense 2.—6. A male homosexual, esp. if a pathic, a 'female' partner in male homosexuality: adopted, ca. 1960, ex US; Powis notes, 1977, 'now not uncommon in West London'. Very prob. ex sense 2, but poss. influenced by, a shortening of, faggot, n., 4.

fag, v. In c., to beat, thrash: late C.17–19; after ca. 1830, low coll. B.E., Grose.—2. (? hence.) V.t., to have (a boy) as one's fag: schoolboys': from ca. 1785; ob. Grose, 2nd ed.—3. V.i. To do menial jobs for a schoolfellow higher up in the school: from ca. 1805: schoolboys' s. >, by 1860, gen. coll. In C.20, both the n. and its derivative are, in this sense, gen. regarded as, therefore are, S.E. This sense prob. derives ex the more gen. sense, 'to work hard, whether mentally or physically'—a sense app. current since ca. 1770 and almost certainly deriving ex Southern Scottish and Northern English dialect. The Port Folio, 30 May 1801, p. 175; Dublin Magazine, March 1834, p. 246. (Moe.)

fag-ash. Cigarette-ash: low coll.: C.20. Hence, Fag-ash Lil, a nickname for a girl or woman who is a heavy smoker. (P.B.) fag-end at Marlborough and Tonbridge = interruption; fag-ends! at Marlborough and fag-end off! at Durham = stop listening in!; at Durham fag-ends = eavesdropping; fag-end, v.t., and pick up fag-ends at Oundle = to overhear, or to interrupt: C.20. (Marples.) At Tonbridge, † by mid-1940s, at latest. The term 'fag-ends of conversations', for little bits and pieces of talk not fully understood by someone overhearing them, has, in later C.20, > fairly gen. Cf. v.—2. See tailor, n., 2.

fag-end, v. 'To have only a partial or muddled understanding of something that has been said' (Nicholas Bentley, 1961): since ca. 1955.

fag-end man. A collector—for a living—of cigarette-ends: lower classes:—1923 (Manchon).

fag-end of a tailor. See tailor, n., 2.

fag-end of the fore topsail sheet. See pay (one's) bills with ...

fag-hag. A girl who smokes. See CANADIAN ADOLESCENTS', in Appendix, and cf. a Brit. equivalent, Fag-ash Lil.

fag-hole. The mouth: contemptuous: since ca. 1945. Semantically, cf. cake-hole.

fag out. To serve as a fag; esp. in cricket, to field: from ca. 1840: coll., schoolboys', orig. and esp. at Winchester College. Lewis.

Fagan (or Fagin). The penis: in such expressions as 'Have you introduced her to Fagan?' (joc.: = 'Have you achieved sexual intimacy with your girl?'), and 'to bury old Fagin' (= of a man, to coit): 1950s. (L.A.; P.B.)

fagged out. Exhausted: coll.:—1785 (Grose). Perhaps ex dial. fag, to exhaust oneself in toil, and fogged out, frayed.

fagger, figger or figure. A boy thief that, entering by a window, opens the door to his confederates or even hands the booty out to them: c.—1785; ob. Grose, 1st ed.; whereas figger (Grose, 1st ed.) arose in late C.18, figure, its derivative, is of C.19–20.—2. A day with work periods in the afternoon: Marlborough College: since ca. 1880. Ex official fag-day.

faggery, fagging. Serving as a fag, q.v., in a school: schoolboys'; from ca. 1850, 1820, resp. De Quincey in his autobiographical sketches, 1853, 'Faggery was an abuse too venerable and sacred to be touched by profane hands.'

fagging. A beating, thrashing, thumping: low: not recorded before 1775, but prob. used as early as 1700. Ex c. fag, to beat.—2. See faggery.—3. An exhaustive experience or bout of work: late C.18–20. Cf. fag, v., 3.

fag(g)ot. A 'baggage'; a pej. applied to a woman (—1600), also—gen. prec. by little—to a child (—1859): low coll., the former in C.20 being dial.—2. A rissole: low coll.; from ca. 1850. Mayhew. Also, butcher's oddsments or 'stickings' (? hence the name): low coll.:—1859 (H., 1st ed.). P.B.: orig. dial. (EDD gives many examples, mostly from the Midlands and Home Counties), this term must now, later C.20, be regarded, with rissole, liver-sausage, etc., as the S.E. name for the dish.—3. A man mustered as a soldier but not yet formally enlisted: late C.17–19. (B.E.) Hence, a man hired to appear at a muster or on a muster-roll: C.18–19. (Grose, 1st ed.) Both nuances are army; the latter, also naval.—4. A homosexual male: low coll.: since ca. 1960, ? earlier. Prob. ex sense 1. (P.B.)

fag(g)ot, v. In C.17–19, to bind, truss, i.e. as sticks in a faggot. Prob. coll.; never, despite B.E., was it c.—2. C., however, is the sense, to garotte: late C.19–20. Manchon.—3. In low s., v.t. and i., to copulate (with); to frequent harlots: C.19. Ex faggot, n., 1.

fag(g)ot-briefs. A bundle or bundles of dummy briefs carried by the briefless: legal:—1859. Sala, 'Pretend to pore over faggot briefs'. Ob.

fag(g)ot-master. A whoremonger: low; from ca. 1825; ob. Cf. faggot, v., 3.

fag(g)ot-vote. 'A vote secured by the purchase of property under mortgage, or otherwise, so as to constitute a nominal qualification' (F. & H.): political coll. (1817, COD), ob. by 1920; S.E. by 1840. Gladstone, 25 Nov. 1879. Perhaps ex faggot, n., 3. Hence fag(g)ot-voter.

fag(g)oteer. Same sense, period, and status as faggot-master, q.v.

faggy, adj. Homosexual, esp. if passive: since ca. 1965. (Jagger.) See fag, n., 6.

fail. To report a candidate as having failed in an examination: from ca. 1880; coll. till ca. 1920, then S.E.

fain !; fains; fain it!; fainits! A call for a truce; a statement of opposition: schoolboys': from ca. 1810. See also faynights! Prob. ex † feign, to shirk or get out of. Cf. bags (f), its opposite. The earliest forms are fen!, q.v., and fin or fungy, qq.v. See esp. I. & P. Opie, The Lore and Language of Schoolchildren, 1959, ch. 8.

faintest, the. The least idea; as in 'I haven't the faintest': coll.: since ca. 1910. I.e. the faintest (remotest) idea.

fainting fits, often shortened to faintings. Female breasts: rhyming s., on tits: since ca. 1950. (Haden-Guest.) Cf. Bristols.

faints, the. A tendency to faint: coll.: from ca. 1890.

fair; always the fair. 'A set of subterranean rooms in the Fleet Prison', Lex. Bal.: c.: ca. 1810–50.

fair, adj. 'Nice': coll. verging on s.: C.17. In C.18, the word was elegant. See Slang, p. 28.—2. Undoubted, complete, thorough: dial. (—1872) >, by ca. 1885, s. (OED Sup.). See fair cop and (at cow) fair cow. P.B.: in later C.20, it has much coll. use as an intensive adj. and adv.: 'That's a fair ol' drop' could mean either 'It's a long way from the top to the bottom [of cliff, well, etc.]' or 'I'm enjoying this drink.' E.P. wanted to tie this usage to 'office- and shop-girls' of ca. 1956–9', but it is far wider than that.

fair, adv. Fairly: coll.: C.19–20.—2. Completely: dial.—1859: EDD >, in the 1880s, coll.—3. In see fair, to ensure fair play by watching: coll.: Dickens, 1837. Ob. (OED.)

fair cop (usu. It's a fair cop!) Orig. an underworld c.p. addressed to a policeman, 'It's a clear arrest': late C.19–20 (Ware). Hence, since ca. 1920, a gen. humorous equivalent to 'All right! You've caught me or caught me out'. DCpp. cites E.W. Hornung, Raffles, 1899, and Allan Monkhouse, Cecilia, 1932, at Act II.

fair cow, a. An objectionable person or thing. See cow, 5. fair crack of the whip, a. 'North Country for "fair play"' (Petch, 1971). 'To give someone a fair crack of the whip' = to deal fairly with that person: Aus. (B., 1959) and Brit.: C.20. L.A., 1974, notes, 'Hence the form of complaint that someone is "not getting a fair..."', when he is over/under-burdened with work, responsibility, etc.', which has been RAF usage since ca. 1936, and soon spread to the army.

fair dinkum. See dinkum.

fair doo's or doos or does or do's or dues. The last is the orig. form, as in C.T. Clarkson & J. Hall Richardson, Police, 1889, 'Now then, fair dues; let everybody be searched, I have no money about me'. A fair deal; justice; just proportion: coll., ex Yorkshire dial. (1865: EDD). From ca. 1930 often as fair do's all round. P.B.: by mid-C.20, spelt and thought of as fair do's, on analogy with such phrases as dacey do's and shaky do's.

fair enough. As a question it = 'Satisfied? Convinced? Agreeable to you?'; as a comment it = 'That sounds plausible enough' or 'I'll accept your statement'. Services' (esp. RAF) coll.: since the 1920s. (R.M. Davison, 1942, letter). H. & P. point out that is often used by instructors. Common in Aus. by ca. 1940 (Baker).

fair, fat and farty is a vulgar perversion—since ca. 1930; † by 1945—of the c.p. fair, fat and forty, itself current since ca. 1820. The c.p. occurs in, e.g., anon., The New Swell's Night Guide, 1846.

fair few, a. A considerable number: Aus. coll.: late C.19–20. 'I have a fair few sheep in this paddock.' (B.P.) P.B.: Brit. usage also in C.20, and prob. as long as in Aus.

fair-gang, the. Gypsies: coll.; from ca. 1830; ob. by 1900, † by 1919. From their frequenting fairs in gangs or communities. Prob. a corruption of faw-gang, itself ex Faa (=Smith), a Scottish-gipsy surname (OED).

fair go. A fight, esp. between two persons: Aus.: late C.19–20. (Baker.) As an interjection it = 'Be reasonable' fair herd. A good attendance of strangers: Oxford University: 1883, Daily News, 13 June (Ware); ob. by 1935.

fair itch. Utter imitation: low:—1909 (Ware); ob. by 1935.

fair meat. A easy dupe: c.: from ca. 1910. Prob. ex fair game, which is now S.E.

fair rations. Fair dealings; honesty: sporting: from ca. 1875.

fair roebuck. 'A Woman in the Bloom of her Beauty' (A New Canting Dict., 1725): c.: C.18. Ex fair roebuck, a roebuck in its fifth year.

fair skint. Very short of money or even entirely 'broke': mainly North Country: C.20.

fair speech!, you have made a. A late C.17–18 c.p. 'in derision of one that spends many words to little purpose' (B.E.). Cf. the C.20 you sure said a mouthful.

fair thing. A wise proceeding, a clear duty, justice; enough, esp. in a fair thing's a fair thing. Coll.: C.20. C.J. Dennis, 1916.

fair to middling. A joc. c.p. reply to 'How are you?', 'How's it going?': Aus. and Brit.: since ca. 1945. A sort of pun, since fair = middling. A slightly later, 'inevitable' perversion is fair to muddling. (P.B.) fair trade, -trader. Smuggling; a smuggler: nautical:—1887. Baumann; Bowen.

fair-weather drink. 'Small celebration with intimates before some enterprise or holiday' (Powis): coll.: 1970s.

fair-weather friend. One who writes only once a year and that in summer-time: Anglo-Irish: C.20.

fair wind, give (something) A. To pass (e.g. the salt): nautical: late C.19–20. (Bowen.) P.B.: applied in the Services, esp. among officers, to such things as a request for posting, an application to attend a course, etc.; i.e. to give it favourable attention: I heard it used thus in late 1960s+.

fairing. Cakes (or sweets) bought at a fair; esp. gingerbread nuts: coll. when not dial.: from mid-C.18. P.B.: fairings, for tawdry articles sold or to be won at a fair, is, in later C.20, informal S.E. fairish. Fairly large: coll.:—1865. E.g., a fairish number, with which cf. a fair few.—2. As adv., in a pleasant manner; to a fair degree; fairly good: coll.: since early C.19. In Bill Truck, in the last nuance, Dec. 1825. Both senses perhaps orig. dial.

fairy. 'A debauched, hideous old woman, especially when drunk' (Ware): proletarian:—1909; ob.—2. A catamite: adopted ex US ca. 1924. Irwin; M. Lincoln, 1933; OED Sup.—3. A fair-headed girl: NZ nickname: C.20.

fairy cycle. A child's bicycle, roughly half the size of an adult's: coll.: 1930s–50s. Poss. ex a brand name. (P.B.) fairy glen. A lavatory: railwaymen's since (?ca. 1945. (Railway, 2nd.) Claiborne suggests 'perhaps a reference to homosexual activities in public lavatories'; cf. fairy, 2.

fairy light. A Very light: army: 1916+. By joc. perversion. F. & G.

fairy powder. A mixture of potassium chlorate and sulphur: Aus. schoolboys': since ca. 1930. 'Struck with a hammer, it makes a noise quite unlike a fairy (lucus a non lucendo)' (B.P.).

fairy story or tale. A 'hard luck' tale: low s. verging on tramps' c.; any unlikely tale, often euph. for a downright lie: coll.: C.20.

fairyard. 'Colour light multiple aspect gantry' (Railway, 2nd): railwaymen's: current in 1960s.

Faith, Hope and Charity. The three WW1 campaign medals, better known as Pip, Squeak and Wilfred: since 1919 or 1920.—2. Names given to the three Gladiator biplane fighters that in June 1940 defended Malta against the Italian air force. The Air Battle of Malta, HMSO, 1944. (P.B.)

faithful, one of the. A drunkard: C.17 coll. The Man in the Moon, 1609.—2. A tailor giving long credit: late C.18–19, either c. or low or c. > low. (Grose, 1st ed.) Hence, his faith has made him unwhole, too much credit has bankrupted him (Ibid.).

Faithful Durhams. The 68th Foot Regiment, from 1881 the Durham Light Infantry: military: traditionally from 1772; ob. F. & G. faithfully. With obligating assurances: from late C.16; coll. 'He promised faithfully to send the book the next day' (OED).

faitor. See fater.

fake, n. An action, esp. if illegal; a dodge; a sham (person or thing): from ca. 1825: low. James Greenwood, 1883, 'Naming the house in [this] ridiculous way was merely a fake to draw attention to it.' For etym., see the v., though it may abridge fakement.—2. Anything used in illicit deception or manufacture: 1866 (OED). Hence:—3. A mixture for making a horse safe (cf. dope): ca. 1870–90. (H., 5th ed.) Cf. dope, n.—4. (Ex senses 1, 2.) A gadget; a 'thingummy': Cockneys': from ca. 1890. Rook.—5. Stuff used in patent medicines, a patent medicine; a (so-called) cure: showmen's: since ca. 1870. (Wm Newton, Secrets of Tramp Life, 1886.) Ex corn fake, corn cure, and nob fake, hair-restorer.—6. Make-up: theatrical: since ca. 1875. (B. & L.) Cf. fake up.—7. See fake and fakers.

fake, v. To do anything, esp. if illegally or with merely apparent skill or ability; to cheat, deceive, devise falsely; tamper with; forge; 'dope' (a horse); to steal. In c. and then, by ca. 1880, in low s., a verb of multiple usage: gen. only from ca. 1830 (cf. however, fake away), though doubtless used in c. as early as 1810, Vaux recording it in 1812. Vbl n., faking. Perhaps ex L. facere, to do, influenced by faire as understood in Fr. c., but more prob. ex Ger. fegen, (lit.) to sweep, itself in extensive s. use (W.): cf. feague (q.v.), which is either cognate or the orig. form.—2. To hit: Parlyaree: C.20. Edward Seago, Circus Company, 1933.—3. V.i. To hurt, as in 'It fakes like hell!': low s. or c.:—1923 (Manchon). Prob. ex:—4. V.t., to hurt: c.:—1812 (Vaux). Ex sense 1, poss. influenced by ache. Cf. fake oneself, q.v.—5. To improvise; to play by ear: Can. dance-bands': ca. 1920–36.—6. See fake up.—7. To receive (a gratuity) illegally; knowingly to accept (a bribe): late C.19–20, esp. among market traders, as in 'Fake the drosy and crack nix' (M.T.).

fake a cly. To pick a pocket (see cly): c.: from ca. 1810; ob. Vaux.

fake a curtain. 'To agitate the act-drop after it has fallen, and so perhaps thereby induce a torpid audience to applaud a little, and justify the waiting actor to "take a curtain"' (Ware): theatrical: 1884.

fake a dance, step, trip. To improvise a step when, in dancing, one has forgotten the correct one: theatrical: from ca. 1860. Cf.:—

fake a line. To improvise a speech: theatrical; from ca. 1860.

fake a picture. 'To obtain an effect by some adroit, unorthodox means': artistic coll.: from ca. 1860. Ware.

fake a poke. To pick a pocket: c.: late C.19–20. People, 6 Sep. 1896 (Ware).

fake a screeve. To write a (begging) letter: c.; from ca. 1810. Vaux.

fake a screw. To make a false or a skeleton key: C.19–20. Ibid.

fake a step or trip. See fake a dance.

fake and fakers. In the army, latish (?mid-)C.19–20, cleaning 'tackle' has included fake, 'the various polishes, blancoes, pipeclays and ochres'—and fakers, 'brushes and polishing cloths. Even the brushes had strange names, "putters on" and "shiners off"' (Spike Mays, The Band Rats, 1975), the last two being coll. rather than s. Cf. the sense of fake as theatrical make-up.

fake away! Go it! Splendid—don't stop! C., perhaps only 'literary': ca. 1810–1900. (Vaux.) See fake, v.

fake out and out. To kill (a person): c.: C.19. Vaux, 1812.

fake-pie. A pie containing 'left-overs': straitened Society: 1880; ob. Ware.

fake (one's) pin. To 'create' a sore or wounded leg: c.: C.19. Vaux. Cf.:-

fake (one)self. To disfigure or wound oneself: c.: C.19. Vaux.

fake (one's) slangs. To file through fetters: id. (Ibid.) See slangs.

fake (or work) the broads. To 'stack' the cards; to work a three-card trick: c.: from ca. 1840.—2. To issue counterfeit coin: c.:—1923 (Manchon).

fake the duck. To adulterate drink; to swindle, cheat: c.; from ca. 1830; †.

fake the marks. 'They're faking the marks'—footnoted 'the shares were changing hands at fictitious prices' (C.H.B. Kitchin, The Cornish Fox, 1949): stockbrokers': C.20.

fake the rubber. To stand treat: c.; from ca. 1850; ob. H., 3rd ed.

fake the sweetener. To kiss: c.: ca. 1840–1900. See sweetener.

fake up; occ. simply fake, v.t. and reflexive. To paint one's face: theatrical; from ca. 1870; ob.—2. To adapt for the theatre: theatrical:—1887 (Baumann).—3. To falsify: mid-C.19–20. Ibid.

faked; occ. faked-up. Spurious; counterfeit: low coll.; from the 1850s. (H., 1st ed.) See fake, v.

fakeman-charley. See sense 4 of:

fakement. A counterfeit signature (—1811), hence a forgery; a begging letter, a petition (—1839).—2. A dishonest practice (—1838); hence, any trade, action, thing, contrivance (—1857).—3. Small properties, accessories: theatrical; from ca. 1875. The first senses, c.; the second group, low; the last, s. The term derives prob. ex fake, n., 1.—4. (Cf. sense 1.) Also fakeman-charley. A private mark of ownership: c.; from ca. 1810; ob. Vaux; H., 1st ed.—5. Paint for the face: theatrical: from ca. 1870. B. & L.—6. Any letter; a note: 1826 (Spy, II); † by 1910. Ex sense 1.

fakement-chorley. Ware's var. of fakeman-charley: see last sense of fakement.

fakement-dodge; -dodger. The practice of writing begging letters; the beggar or impostor employing this 'dodge': c.: mid-C.19–20; ob. Mayhew.

fakems, n. pl. Quack medicines.—2. Pinchbeck.—3. Counterfeit goods.—4. Disguised trash.—5. Cosmetics. All 5 senses are market-traders' usage: C.20. Hence put (or get) the fakems on, to offer trash for sale as valuable merchandise; to disguise defects; to apply cosmetics. Thus 'She's got the fakems on' may mean either 'She is selling disguised trash' or 'She has plenty of make-up on'. (All in M.T.) Cf. various senses of fake, n. and v., and fakement.

faker. A maker, or a faker, of anything: low:—1688 (Randle Holme). Cf. the US faker, 'a street-vendor of gimcracks, &c.' (Thornton).—2. In c., a thief (—1851); in C.20, a pickpocket. Borrow, in Lavengro, 'We never calls them thieves here, but prigs and fakers'.—3. A jeweller: c.:—1857 ('Ducange Anglicus').—4. A circus performer, esp. rider: circus: from ca. 1875. Baumann (fakir).—5. A harlot's 'fancy man': low:—1891; ob.

fakes and slumboes. Properties; accessories: theatrical: from ca. 1880; †.

faking. Vbl n., corresponding with all senses of fake, v., q.v.: low s. > coll.; (—) 1845.

fakir. See faker, 4.

fal. A girl: rhyming s. (1868) on gal; ob. Ware. Perhaps ultimately exfalderals (or -ols). Silly ideas: coll.: C.19–20. In a Charles Dibdin song quoted by The Port Folio, an American magazine, on 30 Nov. 1805 (p. 376, col. 2): 'He runs, while listening to their fal de rals, / Bump ashore on the Scilly Isles.' (Moe.) Ex falderal, a trinket, a trifle; imm. ex dial. sense: an idle fancy.

fall, n. In have a bad or good or lucky fall, to have a piece of bad, or good luck; make a (bad) strike: coll.:—1887 (Baumann); ob. by 1930.

fall, v. To conceive a child: coll.: C.19–20. In later C.20, usu. fall for, q.v.—2. To be arrested: c.:—1883.—3. Hence, to go to prison; e.g. fall for three years: c.: C.20. 'Stuart Wood', 1932.—4. (Prob. also ex sense 2.) To fail: c. and low s.: from ca. 1910. Gilt Kid, 1936.—5. To arrive; esp. of 'the law', suddenly. See AUSTRALIAN UNDERWORLD.

fall aboard of. To meet (a person): nautical coll.:—1887 (Baumann).

fall about (sc. with laughter). To laugh immoderately, as in 'I go in with a tale like that, why, they'll fall about [i.e. laugh their disbelief]': often used fig.: gen.: since mid-1970s. Cf. crease oneself. Clement & La Frenais, A Further Stir of Porridge, 1977. (P.B.)

fall across. To meet (a person) unexpectedly: from ca. 1885; coll. till C.20, then S.E.

fall down (on). To make a bad mistake or error (in or at): s. >, ca. 1935, coll.: US (ca. 1870), anglicised ca. 1910. Often with on. (OED Sup.) Esp. in Services, before and during WW2, and gen. since, fall down on the job, to fail very badly, or inexcusably, at it.

fall down the sink. A, to, drink: rhyming s.: late C.19–20. Since ca. 1930, usually tumble ... Franklyn, Rhyming.

fall-downs. Fragments of cookshop puddings; collected, they are sold cheaply: Cockney: C.19. Ware.

fall for. To be greatly attracted by (esp. a member of the other sex): US (ca. 1910), anglicised ca. 1920; by 1935, coll.—2. To conceive a child: C.20. Ex fall, 1. Army corporal's wife, 1968, 'She'd been married only a couple of months and she fell for it'; R.E. Pahl, in New Society, 2 Nov. 1978, quotes a 16-year-old girl's essay about her likely future life: 'I kept my job for about 3 years after we were married, that is until I fell for our first child.' (P.B.)

fall guy. The person who is made to suffer; the scapegoat: coll.: 1970s. 'The [quality] inspectors are the fall guys—it's them that has to carry the can for management, and they get stick from the blokes on the shop floor'. An adaptation of the US c., a victim, hence a specially set up scapegoat. (P.B.)

fall in. To be quite wrong: coll.: from ca. 1900. Ex fall in the shit, to get into trouble: low coll.: since ca. 1870.

fall in the thick. 'To become dead drunk ... Black beer is called thick, so is mud': low:—1909 (Ware).

fall into a cart (or dump or heap or load or pile) of shit and come out with a gold watch (or with a new suit on). A C.20 Cockney c.p., applied to a habitually lucky person, or to one who has been extraordinarily lucky on a specific occasion. A common var. is ... and come up smelling of violets: late C.19–20. Can. var.: shit-hole.

fall of the leaf, (at) the. (By) hanging: low or c.: ca. 1780–1840. George Parker.

fall off a Christmas tree, I didn't. A c.p., rejecting imputation of credulity: C.20. (L.A.) fall off a lorry. See fell off ...

fall-out. Jocularly used regarding the danger of pieces falling out of an old car' (B.P.): Aus.: since ca. 1955. Ex atomic fall-out.—2. The risk of breasts falling out of a scanty bra or a bikini swimsuit: Aus.: since ca. 1960.

fall out and dust your medals! 'A derisive dismissal sometimes used to end an argument among army contemporaries (other ranks), who may not in fact have any medals to dust' (P.B., 1974): ca. 1950–70.

fall out of the boat. To become unpopular in a naval mess: RN: C.20. P-G-R.

fall over (oneself). See falling over ...

fall over backwards. To go 'above and beyond' what is apparently necessary. See lean over backwards.

fall through. To be unable to keep, or to go back on, an appointment: coll.: 1924 (Galsworthy). P.B.: by later C.20, ob. in this sense, which was prob. ex the S.E. fall through, to miscarry, of a plan.

fall to pieces. (Of a woman) to be confined; to give birth to a child: Aus. lower-middle-class: C.20. (B., 1942.) Cf. synon. explode.

fallen angel. A defaulter, a bankrupt: Stock Exchange: ca. 1810–70. Spy, II, 1826.

fallen away from a horse-load to a cart-load. Grown fat: a late C.18–mid-19 c.p. Grose, 3rd ed.

fallen down and trod(den) upon (one's) eye, (to have). To have a black eye: mid-C.18–early 19. Grose, 2nd ed. (at eight eyes).

fallen on. Pregnant: (mostly lower and lower-middle class) women's: since ca. 1930. Audrey Chamberlain, in New Society, 15 July 1976, 'As soon as a woman realised she had "fallen on", or "got caught", she would take action [to obtain an abortion]'. Cf. fall, v., 1, and fall for, 2.

fallers. Windfall apples, pears, etc.: rural coll.: late C.19–20. Perhaps on the S.E. keepers.

fallie, -y (pron. with short a; usu. pl). A flower: feminine, domestic: C.20. Ex childish pron. (P.B.)

falling over (one)self (to do something). Very eager: coll.: since ca. 1920. In other tenses also, as 'He really fell over himself trying to be helpful'.

false, v. To tell dishonest lies: (orig. low) Aus.: since ca. 1930. Lawson Glassop, Lucky Palmer, 1949, "'Perce," said "Lucky" earnestly. "You knew me well in Sydney. Have you ever caught me falsin?'" false alarms. Arms (of body): military rhyming s.: late C.19–20.

false as a bulletin. Inaccurate; false: coll.: ca. 1795–1820, when, according to Carlyle, it was a proverbial saying, Cf. the WW1 synon. British Official.

false as my knife (, as). As with knives, so with false friends—they'll cut me: rural c.p.: C.20. (Peppitt.)

false flap. A bad cheque: N.T., Aus.: since ca. 1930. Ernestine Hill, The Territory, 1951.

false hereafter. A dress-improver or bustle: Society: ca. 1890–1900.

falsies. Imitation breasts, breasts artificially aggrandised: adopted, ca. 1944, from US servicemen.

fam; occ. famm (B.E.) or fem. The hand: low, orig. c.: from ca. 1690; † by 1870. ?abbr. famble, q.v.—Hence, 2, a ring: c. of ca. 1770–1850.

fam, v. To handle: C.19–20 (ob). c. (Vaux.) Hence fam a donna, to caress a woman intimately; fam for the plant, to feel for the valuables.

fam-grasp. A hand-shaking: c.: late C.18–19. Ex the v.t., late C.17–19. The v. also = to agree, or to come to an agreement, with a person, a sense recorded by Coles in 1676. Lit., to grasp by the 'fam' or hand.

fam-lay. Shop-lifting, esp. of jewellery by one with viscous hands: c.: mid-C.18–19. Grose, 2nd ed.

fam-snatcher. A glove: low: ca. 1820–60. Pierce Egan may have coined it.

fam-squeeze. Strangulation: C.19 c. Contrast fam-grasp, q.v.

fam-struck. Baffled in a search; handcuffed: C.19 c.

fam trip. Familiarisation flight (in a new aircraft) (Strong & Hart-Davis, Fighter Pilot, 1981): RAF: later C.20.

famble. The hand: mid-C.16–20 c. (Harman, B.E., Grose, Hindley.) Prob. ex famble, to fumble (OED).—2. Hence, a ring: c.: C.17–early 19. (Shadwell.) Short forfamble-cheat. A ring: mid-C.17–18 c. Coles; B.E.; Dunton.—2. A glove: mid-C.17–early 19 c. Coles.

fambler. A glove: C.17 c. Rowlands.—2. A seller of 'brum' rings (rarely famble): late C.17–18 c. fambling-cheat (lit., a hand-thing). A ring: mid-C.16–17 c. Harman; Rowlands.

familiar way, in the. Pregnant: joc. coll.:—1891, punning in the family way. Ob.

familiar. Lice: C.19–early 20. Facetiously ex S.E. sense, a familiar spirit.

family hands (or hold) off. See f.h.o.

family, the. The underworld of thieves: c.: late C.17–19. An early occurrence is in Susannah Centivre, The Perplexed Lovers, 1712, Act III, street scene (Timothy's soliloquy). Cf. family-man, -woman.

family head. 'An elaborate figure head of several figures': nautical: mid-C.19–20. Bowen.

family hotel. A prison: coll.; ca. 1840–1900. Punch, 31 Jan. 1857, 'In a ward with one's pals,/Not locked up in a cell,/To an old hand like me it's a family hotel.'

family jewels, the. A man's sexual apparatus: both domestic and, between man and man (men), joc. and often bonhomously ironic. 'I heard it during RAF service, 1941–5' (L.A., 1976)—but, within my own memory, it goes back to the 1920s; what's more, it smacks of educated Edwardian raffishness. Still current, 1970s, among RM (Hawke).

family-man. A thief: c.:—1788; ob. In pl, occ. family people. Ex family, q.v.—2. Also, a 'fence': mid-C.19–20 c.

family of love. 'Lewd Women, Whores' (B.E.); esp. a company thereof (Grose, 1st ed.): late C.17–early 20.

family people. A c. (—1812) var. of family, the, q.v. Vaux; H., 1st ed.

family(-)plate. Silver money: joc. coll.: from ca. 1850.

family(-)pound. A family grave: from ca. 1870.

family prayers. Var. of morning prayers, the daily staff conference at HQ: army: WW2 and decades afterwards.

family tree, the. The lavatory: mostly Services': since ca. 1930. (P-G-R.) Rhyming s. By 1960, †. (Franklyn 2nd.) family-woman. A female thief: c.:—1812 (Vaux). On family-man.

famine. Lack of bread at meals: Bootham School: late C.19–20. Bootham, 1925.

Famishing Fifty, the. A group of early RN Reserve officers. See Sinbad.

famm. See fam, n.

famous. Excellent; 'capital': coll.: from the 1790s. Southey, "But every body said," quoth he, "That 'twas a famous victory'" (OED).

famous crimes. 'Any man with a scowling face, reminiscent of the pictures of famous criminals in the now defunct Police Gazette ... This journal was immensely popular on the lower deck of HM ships. It specialised in detailed and illustrated reports of murders' (Granville).

famous last words. 'A catch-phrase rejoinder to such fatuous statements as "Flak's not really dangerous"': RAF: 1939+. (P-G-R.) Hence in the other Services and, since ca. 1945, among civilians. A joc. ref. to History's 'famous last words'. See DCpp.

famously. Excellently: 'capitally': coll.; from ca. 1600. Shakespeare, Lytton (OED).

fan, n. A waistcoat: c.; ca. 1835–1900. (Brandon; Snowden, Magistrate's Assistant, 3rd ed.) ?ex its spread.—2. An enthusiast, orig. of sport: ex US:—1889, anglicised ca. 1914; by 1930, coll. Abbr. fanatic.—3. Ca. 1680–1720, a fanatic: joc. coll. gen. spelt fann or phan. OED.—4. An aircraft propeller: RFC/RAF: from ca. 1916 (H. & P.); by ca. 1950, †, except when mimicking the Americans, who also used the term, with such phrases as 'four-fan bombardment ship' (=4-engined bomber). (P.B.)—5. A ship's propeller: RN: since ca. 1918. Cf. whizzer.—6. Short for fanny, female pudend, as in 'her old fan': low: since ca. 1950.

fan, v. To beat, whip; be-rate: low coll.: late C.18–20. Now esp. fan with a slipper. Grose, 1st ed.—2. In c., to search a person, or his clothes: from ca. 1850. (Mayhew.) Powis notes its continued currency in the 1970s. Cf. frisk, q.v.—3. Esp. to search illicitly (a man) for watch or wallet: c.: C.20. Charles E. Leach.

fan in fin. 'An Aeropatiale/Westland Gazelle [helicopter]'s ... 13 tail rotors which, since they are shrouded, are known as "fan in fin"' (Sunday Times mag., 25 Nov. 1979): RN. Cf. fan, n., 4.

fan-mail. Letters received from unknown admirers, esp. by a film star: adopted, ca. 1925, ex US; by 1936, it had > coll. Ex fan, n., 2.

fan-qui. See fanqui.

fan-tail. See fantail.

fanad. None, nothing: army: since the 1920s; by 1950, †. (H. & P.) Short for 'Sweet Fanny Adams'.

fancy (always the f- or F-). The boxing world (from ca. 1810); boxers collectively (—1820): coll.; by 1900, S.E.; ob. It occurs in one of Scott's letters, 1815; Pierce Egan, 'The various gradations of the Fancy hither resort, to discuss matters incidental to pugilism.'—2. A 'best girl': lower classes:—1923 (Manchon). Abbr. fancy piece or -woman.—3. 'His father took a great deal to the fancy ... it meant dealing in birds, and dogs, and rabbits' (J. Greenwood, The Little Ragamuffins, 1884): poor Londoners' coll.: from ca. 1860. (B. & L.) P.B.: still current in later C.20, perhaps with particular ref. to racing pigeons; now considered to be S.E. (OED Sup., 1973).

fancy, v. To have a (too) high opinion of oneself, of another, or of a thing: coll.: from ca. 1860.—2. In the imperative, either as one word (fancy!) or two words (fancy that!) or preceding a phrase (e.g. 'Fancy you being in plus fours!'), it expresses surprise: coll.: 'earlier than 1834, when (OED) Medwin has 'Fancy me boxed up in the narrow vehicle.' P.B.: Fancy! or Fancy that! or just fancy that!, said coolly and uninterestedly, may be used to quench another's excitement or enthusiasm. (With thanks to Mrs Mary Irwin.)—3. To desire sexually: mostly (though not necessarily) feminine: coll.: latish C.19–20, but esp. common since ca. 1950, as in 'I could fancy him!' Implied in fancy man.

fancy (bloak or) bloke. A sporting man: coll.; from ca. 1850; ob. by 1920. (H., 1st ed.) Ex fancy, n., q.v.—2. A fancy-man, q.v.: from ca. 1835. Brandon.—3. Hence, any woman's favourite male: from ca. 1880.

fancy (one's) chance(s). Var. of fancy (one's) weight, with implication that the (usu.) man in question will rely upon his charm or skill to see him through, in one specific instance, or through life: coll.: C.20. 'Aylen he [the NCO] saw as a skiving bastard who fancied his chance, so he was out to needle him whenever he could' (Heart). (P.B.)

fancy frigate. A warship notable for smartness—but gen. 'very uncomfortable to live in': RN coll.: late C.19–20; ob. Bowen.

fancy-girl. Same as fancy-woman, 2: early C.19–20. Bill Truck, 1822.

Fancy Greens, the. The 36th Foot, from 1881 the Worcestershire, Regiment: military: C.19–20; ob. F. & G., 'From the pea-green facings previously worn'.

fancy house. A brothel: prostitutes' c.: from ca. 1860. B. & L.

fancy Joseph. A harlot's 'boy' or bully (see fancy-man): C.19 low. Either with an allusion to Joseph and Potiphar's wife or an amplification of Joe, a male sweetheart.

fancy-lay. Pugilism: low:—1819; ob. by 1890, † by 1918. (Tom Moore.) See lay.

fancy-man. (Cf. fancy-bloke and f. Joseph.) A harlot's protector and/or lover; her husband: low: since early C.19. Alfred Burton, Johnny Newcome, 1818 (Moe). Egan, 1821, 'Although "one of the fancy", he was not a fancy man.' Ex:—2. A sweetheart: from ca. 1810: low s. >, by 1860 coll. Vaux.—3. A male keep: low:—1811; ob. (Lex. Bal.) Cf. sense 2.—4. Rarely a pugilist; often a follower of pugilism: but seldom used in the singular: from ca. 1845; ob. by 1900; † by 1920. In all senses, fancy is either a corruption of Fr. fiancé or, much more prob., ex the fancy, q.v. Notable synonyms of sense 1: mack, ponce, and prosser, qq.v.

fancy pants. Any male, esp. a child, 'dressed to the nines': Can.: since ca. 1925. (Leechman.) Adopted in Britain, mid-C.20, and applied loosely to any member of either sex who is 'all dressed up'. (P.B.) fancy piece. A harlot: low:—1823 (Egan's Grose). In C.20, occ. of a man's favourite girl or woman, respectable or otherwise. An interesting sidelight is afforded by a slightly earlier recording: 1821, Pierce Egan, Life in London, 'Fancy piece ... a sporting phrase for a "bit of nice game", kept in a preserve in the suburbs. A sort of bird of Paradise.'

fancy religion. Any religion other than C. of E., R.C. and Presbyterian: Services': from the 1890s or earlier. Bowen.

fancy sash. A punch: Aus. rhyming s. (on bash or smash): ca.

1880–1920. B., 1945, cites the (Sydney) Bulletin, 18 Jan. 1902. Fancy Tart, the. HMS Vansittart: RN (lowerdeck): 1920s and 1930s. A Hobson-Jobson.

fancy that! Often prec. by well!, or just ... A mild exclamation. See fancy, v., 2.

fancy vessel. A smart warship: naval coll.: C.19. Bill Truck, Sep. 1823.

fancy waistcoats. See speak fancy ...

fancy (one's own) weight. To have an unduly high estimation of one's own importance; hence, to act in a conceited and arrogant manner: mostly Services': earlier C.20. (S.F. Hatton, Yarns of a Yeoman, 1930.) Hence, by extension, 'He's a bit of a weight-fancier, but not a bad chap at heart, really.' (P.B.)

fancy-woman. A temporary mistress; a kept woman: low coll.:—1850. Cf. fancy-man, 3.—2. In C.19–20, a man's favourite female—often joc.: low s. >, by 1860, coll. (Vaux.) Cf. fancy-man, 2.

fancy work. Genitals, including the pubic hair, usu. of the male parts: feminine euph. s.: C.20. 'He must be a sexual maniac; he persists in showing his fancy work.'

fancy-work, take in. To make extra money by prostitution, 'do the naughty for one's clothes': low:—1891 (F. & H.). The pun is best left unexplained; cf. fancy-man, 1, 2.

fandangle. A fantastic or ludicrous ornament; foolery; nonsense: coll.: from ca. 1880. W. considers it an arbitrary deformation of fandango, ? after (new-) fangle(d).

fang, v.i. 'To drive a car fast and in an aggressive manner' (A. Buzo, 1973): Aus.: since the 1950s. In Rooted, produced 1969, at I, iii, Buzo has: 'Let's hop in the B and fang up to the beach.'—2. (As n.) See good on the fang.

fang bo'sun. Dentist: R Aus. N: since ca. 1910. An Aus. army var. is fang(-)carpenter.

fang-chovey. A dentist's 'parlour': low; from ca. 1850. Fang, a tooth; chovey, a shop. Also, fang-faker, a dentist: same comments.

fang(-)farrier. A dentist: army: C.20. (H. & P.) Known also in Aus.; cf. fang bo'sun. A further var. is fang-snatcher.

fangs in, put the; v.t. into. To borrow money: Aus.: C.20. (Baker.) Cf. put the bite on.

fann. See fan, n., 3.

Fannies, -ys. The First Aid Nursing Yeomanry. See Fanny, 4.

fanning. A thrashing: late C.18–19. See fan, v., 1.—2. In c., stealing: mid-C.19–20. See fan, v., 2, and cf. cross-fanning, q.v.

fanny, n. The female pudenda; the pudend.: low: from ca. 1860 (perhaps much earlier). Variants, seldom used, are fanny artful and fanny fair. Perhaps ex Fanny, the 'heroine' of John Cleland's Memoirs of Fanny Hill, 1749, the English classic of the brothel, as La Fille Elisa, 1877, or perhaps rather La Maison Tellier, 1881, in the French and Bessie Cotter, 1935, the American; the English novel, it may be added, is by far the most 'actionable'.—2. A can for liquor: RN: since ca. 1880. (Goodenough, 1901.) Ex Fanny Adams, 1.—3. As Fanny, the 'inevitable' nickname of a man surnamed Fields: Services': early C.20. (F. & G.) Ex 'Happy' Fanny Fields (1881–1961), the American comedienne who played the British music-halls, until her marriage and retirement in 1913.—4. (Fanny). A member of the (Women's) First Aid Nursing Yeomanry; founded 1909, it became in 1933 the Women's Transport Service (FANY), and in WW2 some of its members did gallant service in Nazi-occupied Europe.—5. Talk; eloquence: c.: from ca. 1910. See right fanny and sense 13.—6. Esp. a grafter's sales-talk: grafters': from ca. 1920. Allingham. See v.—7. (Fanny). Also 'inevitable' nickname of men surnamed Adams: late C.19–20. Ex Fanny Adams, q.v.—8. A large mess-kettle: RN: since ca. 1925.—9. The backside: adopted, ca. 1930, ex US. (Noël Coward, Private Lives, 1930.) P.B.: this usage is still regarded, 1970s, as predominantly US, sense 1 proving powerful enough to withstand American adulteration.—10. A story: Guards Regiments: C.20. A specialisation of senses 6 and 7. Gerald Kersh, Bill Nelson, 1942.—11. The knuckle-duster used by Commandos: army: 1942–5.—12. In put up the fanny, 'To explain the working of a job to other criminals to induce them to come in' (David Hume): c.: from ca. 1930. Perhaps ex sense 5; perhaps ex sense 1,—for semantics, cf. bullshit.

fanny, v.i. To 'tell the tale': market traders' (e.g. Petticoat Lane): C.20. Cf. fanny a pitch, to 'spiel'—talk glibly, hand out 'the patter'—until enough people have gathered: showmen's: late C.19–20. John o' London's Weekly, 4 Mar. 1949. fanny about, v. To proceed, or perform, ineffectually; to 'potter' or 'faff' about: later C.20. 'We spent all afternoon watching that [player's name] fannying about' (Gordon Burn, quoting a Northerner's comment on the World Snooker Championship, in Listener, 28 Apr. 1983). Ex fanny, 1; perhaps a 'polite' version of fuck about.

Fanny Adams. Tinned mutton,—1889 (B. & L.); from ca. 1910 predominantly stew (Granville): RN >, ca. 1900, also army (B. & P.). P.B.: ex the brutal and maniacal murder, on 24 Aug. 1867, of 8-year-old Fanny Adams, at Alton in Hampshire. The vile crime and subsequent trial achieved considerable notoriety, and barbarity reached a peak when some 5,000 people watched the murderer, Frederick Baker, being hanged at Winchester on Christmas Eve 1867. See esp. Annette Booth's article in the Sunday Times, 22 Aug. 1982, to which I am indebted for this correction to the Dict's orig. entry. Cf. the similar use of Harriet Lane, another murder victim.—2. Hence, Fanny Adams (and, for emphasis, sweet Fanny Adams) > euph. expansion of the initials F.A. = fuck all = nothing at all: army, hence other Services': since ca. 1914. B. & P.

Fanny Barnett. A Francis Barnett motorcycle, in production 1919–64: motorcyclists' nickname. (Howard Carter, 1979.) Cf. the affectionate dim. of Frances to Fanny, common until mid-C.20, and see also Frantic Bee.

Fanny Blair. The hair: rhyming s.:—1859; †. (H., 1st ed.) A c. and US var. of Barnet fair.

fanny hat. A trilby: low: since ca. 1930. Ex, of course, the dent in the crown. Cf. chooch, or cunt, hat.

Fanny Nanny (or n.). Nonsense: nautical: late C.19–20. Prob. a reduplication on the hypocoristic shape of the first syllable of fantastic: cf. fantod, q.v.

fanny rag. A sanitary pad: low Aus.: since ca. 1945. Ex fanny, n., 1.

Fannys, the. See fanny, n., 4. fanqui, fan-qui. A European: Anglo-Chinese: from ca. 1860; ob. (H., 3rd ed.) Lit., a foreign devil.

fant. See phant.

fantabulous. A blend of fantastic and fabulous: ca. 1961–4. (John Winton, Never Go to Sea, 1963.) A var., fantabulosa, theatrical and mock-Parlyaree, was used in the very popular BBC radio comedy series 'Round the Horne', in the later 1960s.

fantadlins. Pastry: ca. 1860–70? Cockney. H., 3rd ed.

fantail, fan-tail. A 'sou'-wester' of the kind affected, in C.19, by coal-heavers and dustmen: from ca. 1850; ob. (H., 1st ed.; J. Greenwood in Dick Temple, 1877.) Abbr. fan-tail hat, which must date from early C.19.

fantail-boy. A dustman: low: ca. 1820–50. Bee. Cf. prec. fantailer. A person with a tail-coat much too long for him: ca. 1820–50. Bee.

fantastic. Very good, or even merely good; excellent or almost so; attractive, unusual, esp. unusual and either good or attractive or both: since late 1940s. On a par with fabulous; Anthony Lejeune indicted the pair in his witty 'Disc jockeys don't talk so good' in Daily Telegraph, colour sup., 10 Mar. 1967. Closely paralleled—and perhaps prompted by—marvellous.

fantastically dressed. 'With more rags than ribbons' (Grose, 3rd ed.): ironic coll.: late C.18—early 19.

fanteague, on the. On the spree or 'loose': low: ca. 1875–1900.—2. Cf. fanteague or fantigue, dial. and coll. for a fuss, commotion, excitement, passion; a vagary; a joke, a 'lark': from ca. 1830. (Dickens, 1837.) Ex fatigue (see EDD at fatigued), or perhaps ex frantic after fatigue (the rare var. fantique occurs—see OED—in 1825).

fantee or fanti, go. To run amok: orig. and mainly Brit. West Africa (—1917). Ex the S.E. sense, to go native, Fantee being the name of a Gold Coast tribe.

fanteeg, fantigue. See fanteague, 2.

fantod. A fad; a faddy naval officer: these senses are prob. S.E.—2. the fantods,—Galsworthy 1928, has the very rare singular,—restlessness, restless inquietude; esp. give (a person) the fantods, make him restless, uneasy, hence (in C.20) nerry, and got a touch of the fantods, to feel like this: US (1885), anglicised ca. 1905. Also Aus., as in 'The groggibber is our highest authority on headaches, fantods, and bankruptcy' ('Tom Collins', Such is Life, 1903). Imm. ex fantad, a fad, on Kentish fantod, restless; ultimately ex fanteague (q.v.) or fantasy.

far and near. Beer: rhyming s.: late C.19–20. Little used. Franklyn, Rhyming.

far-away. In pawn: lower classes': 1884; ob. Ware, who says, 'From a song'; in fact, most prob. from the hymn 'There is a happy land, far, far away.'—2. Hence (—1909), to pawn: likewise ob. Ware, 'I far-awayed my tools this blessed day—I did!'

far(-)back. An inferior workman; hence, an ignorant fellow: tailors', from ca. 1870. Ex an apprentice's position at the back of the workroom.

far better off in a home, usu. prec. by you'd be. A vague c.p.: since ca. 1920. The home is presumably institutional. There was a popular song or, rather, dirge, with this as its refrain.

far-dee. See fa'd and farden.

far-keeper. An eye: Northumberland s.:—1899. Not dial. (EDD.) Ex keek = peek = peep, look.

far (enough) if ... I'll be. I'll certainly not (do so and so): Sheffield (low) coll.—not dial.: from ca. 1880. OED.

far off. Preposition = far from. Coll.; from ca. 1860.

faradiddle. Bee's spelling (1823) of taradiddle, q.v.

farcidrama. Any light piece that fails: theatrical: 1885—ca. 90. Ex Ashley Sterry's name for H.J. Byron's posthumous half-finished comedy ... The Shuttlecock, which was a 'frost'. Ware.

farcing, farsing. The picking of locks: c.: late C.16—early 17. (Greene's 2nd Conny-Catching, 1592.)? forcing.

farden. A farthing; Cockney: from ca. 1840; †. (Also in dial.) Cf. Covent Garden. Mayhew, I, 1851, notes the var. fardy, with which cf. fa'd.

fare. A male professional homosexual's client: homosexuals': since ca. 1930. Frank Norman, 1959.

fare-croft. A cross-Channel government packet-boat: nautical: ca. 1840–90. Bowen.

farewell do. A leaving of paybook, watch, rings, with someone not going into action when one is oneself going in: Tommies': WW1. (Petch.)

Farewell Jetty. 'Officially they call it South Railway Jetty, but all Portsmouth and the Navy's nearest and dearest have known it for decades as Farewell Jetty. It is down at the seaward end of the dockyard where warships lie their last night or two before leaving for abroad' (A correspondent's article—'Outward Bound from Farewell Jetty'—in The Times, 15 June 1964): coll.: late C.19–20.

farger. A false die: c.: late C.16—early 17. Perhaps a perversion of forger.

Farinaceous City or Village, the. Adelaide: Aus. coll. nickname: ca. 1870–1910. (A. Trollope, 1873: Morris). Wheat is the chief export of South Australia. Cf. Holy City, q.v.

farm. A cheap establishment for pauper children:—1869; for illegitimate children:—1874. Also v.:—1838. Coll. soon > S.E. See esp. Dickens, Oliver Twist, ch. ii.—2. In c., a prison hospital. Hence, fetch the farm, to be ordered hospital diet and treatment. From ca. 1875.—3. Hence, the farm is also loosely applied to the prison itself: c.: from ca. 1910. Whence the farmer. A countryman; a clod-hopper: London coll.:—1864; ob. by 1915, † by 1920. H., 3rd ed.—2. An alderman: low or c.:—1848; prob. †.—3. See farm, 1, with its v.: coll.:—1869 > S.E. ca. 1900, though gen. as baby-farmer.—4. Gen. be a farmer, to be off duty; nautical: from early 1880s. (OED Sup.) Ex the purely imaginary joys of a farmer's life. Peppitt, 1975, notes, 'Still very much alive, but [now] strictly speaking, the easiest watch. Always "It's my farmer", never "I'm the farmer"'.—5. Hence, an inferior seaman: nautical: from ca. 1890. Bowen.—6. A hare: Kentish s.:—1878 (EDD). Ex its affection for the land.

Aus. c. at the farm, in prison (K.S. Prichard, Kiss on the Lips, 1932).—4. As the Farm, Warwick Farm racecourse and motor track: Sydneyites' coll.: since late 1940s. (B.P.)

Farmer Giles. Haemorrhoids: Aus. rhyming s. (on piles): C.20. Mary Durack, Keep Him My Country, 1955, p. 351, 'This form of rhyming slang is ... commonly used in the outback.' P.B.: not unknown in Britain. Red Daniells, in a letter, 1980, 'The late Monsewer Eddie Gray, in drag as a gipsy clairvoyant, used to invite questions from the audience ... more accurately, planted Moulin Rouges—stooges—and to the query "How would you help the farmers?" he replied, "I'm a fortune-teller, not a chemist."'

Farmers, the. The Tank Corps: Aus. army: WW2. B., 1942.—2. See Farmer Giles.

Farmer's Bible, the. The mail-order catalogue of the T. Eaton Co.: Can.: since ca. 1918.

Farmer's Boy, the. An express goods-train carrying provisions to London: railwaymen's: from ca. 1920. (Daily Telegraph, 15 Aug. 1936.) Cf. the Feeder.

Farmers' Strike, the. The Boer War was referred to as this, when comparing it to the 1914–18 War': WW1, esp. among soldiers. The latter war was, in turn, called the Bow and Arrow War when WW2 got under way—of course, only by those who had had no experience of the first one': ca. 1940–5. (Petch, 1966.)

farmyard nuggets. Eggs: RN (lowerdeck): C.20. Granville.

Farringdon Hotel. The Fleet Prison which is in Farringdon Street' (G.W.M. Reynolds, Pickwick Abroad, 1839): ca. 1825–70.

farsing. See farcing.

fast. An anal escape of wind, esp. if audible: C.13–20: S.E., but in C.18–20, a vulgarism, as is the v. (Chaucer, Jonson, Swift, Burns.) In 1722, there appeared the 10th edition of the anon. author's pamphlet (I saw it listed in a bookseller's catalogue in 1933) The Benefit of Farting Explain'd, 'wrote' in Spanish [!] by Don Fart in Hando, Translated into English by Obadiah Fizzle.—2. Hence, a symbol of contempt: C.17–20. Crowne, 1685, 'A fart for your family' (OED).—3. Hence, a contemptible person (cf. silly cunt): low coll.; from ca. 1860.—4. Also in not care or give a fart for, not worth a fart: the former, C.17–20 (earlier set not...); the latter, C.19–20.—5. See brewer's fart.

fast about. To dawdle; to waste time; play about: low coll., late C.19–20. Ex dial.

fast-arse about (or around). Same as prec.: C.20. The orig. of fastarsing, q.v. Cf.:-

fast-arsed mechanic. A clumsy person: Londoners': from ca. 1925.

fast-catcher. A footman or a valet (he walks behind): mid-C.18–19: low. Grose, 1st ed.—2. A homosexual: low: since ca. 1930. John Gardner, Madrigal, 1967, 'Oh, bleeding hell ... manager's a flaming pouve. A fart catcher.'

fast-daniel. The puendum muliebre: low: C.19. Obscure: I surmise that fart = farth, alleged to = a litter of pigs, and that daniel—cf. Antony pig—is the youngest pig (see EDD at daniel and farth), hence that this strange term is orig. dial. (not in EDD); it may, however, be merely a misprint for fare-daniel, dial. for a sucking pig that is the youngest of a litter.

fast in a bath. See climbs up like a ..., climbs very fast.

fast in a bottle, or colander, like a. Restless; jumpy; 'rushing round in small circles'. See pea in a colander.

fart in a gale, like a. Utterly helpless: (West) Can.: C.20. Cf.:-

fart in a wind-storm. In as much chance as a fart ..., no chance at all: Can. c.p.: since ca. 1910.—2. In like a fart ..., puny; ineffective; incommensurate: low: C.20. (L.A., 1967.)

fart is the cry of an imprisoned turd, a. This coarsely poetical c.p. satirises the behaviour of one who, having just broken wind, might well, for more reasons than one, go to the water-closet. Apparently it dates from the 1930s; an allusion to 'a bird imprisoned in a cage'.

fart of a dead man, get a. Applied to anything extremely improbable: low coll.; ca. 1540–1720. Heywood, 1546; Robertson, 1681 (Apperson).

fart-sucker. A parasite: low: C.19—early 20.

fartarsing about or around. Moving (in a motor vehicle) without definite knowledge of one's exact location. Army from ca. 1940. There is a subtle difference between this and swanning around. If one was swanning around the blue (sense 13) one still thought one knew where one was.' (Peter Sanders.) Cf. fast about, q.v.

farthing, not to care a brass. Not to care at all: coll. >, by 1890, S.E.: from ca. 1800. Earlier, without brass. (James II, debasing the coinage, issued brass farthings, halfpence, and penny.) See also not care a ... farthing dip. A piece of bread dipped in hot fat and sold by pork butchers: coll.: ca. 1820–80. Ex the candle so named. farthing-faced chit. A small, mean-faced, insignificant person: Cockney:—1909; ob. Ware.

farthing-taster. Lowest quantity of commonest ice-cream sold by London ... itinerant ... vendors': Cockneys': ca. 1870–1914. Ware.

fartick, fartkin. Diminutives of fart, q.v.: C.19: low coll. farthing, adj. A pej.: low: C.20. Angus Wilson, Anglo-Saxon Attitudes, 1956, 'Or some other farthing nonsense.'

farthing(-)clapper. The rump: mostly workmen's: late C.19–20.

farthing-crackers. Breeches: c.: late C.17–18. (B.E.) Cf. cracker, q.v.

Farting Fanny. A German heavy gun operating in the Arras sector; its shell: army, esp. artillerymen's: 1915–16, then mostly historical. Blaker, 'The War was trundling on quite peaceably as they walked and jogged eastwards towards it, with the occasional clang of Farting-Fanny's arrival in cavernous Arras.'

farting shot. A vulgar way of showing contempt for the company (whether sing. or pl.) one is leaving, esp. after a quarrel: since ca. 1940. A pun on parting shot.

farthing-trap. A jaunting car: Anglo-Irish: C.19–20; ob.

farleberries. Excrement on the anal hair: late C.18–19: low. (Grose, 1st ed.) Cf. dangle-berries.

fast (one's) beard. To get annoyed or exasperated: Scottish coll. (? dial.): 1789, Davidson (EDD); Manchon. Cf.:

fashy, fashee. Angry: army: WW1+. (Cf. Scottish fash.) Ex Fr. fâché. F. & G.

fast, v. To be short of money: ca. 1850–1900. 'Ducange Anglicus'. Cf.:

fast, adj. Short of money: coll. but orig. and mainly dial.: C.19. Perhaps semantically = bound fast.—2. Dissipated; 'going the pace': coll. in C.18, S.E. in C.19–20.—3. Impudent: low coll.: ca. 1870–1900. Don't you be so fast! = mind your own business!—4. As in I'm fast, my watch is fast: coll. (—1887) >, by 1900, familiar S.E. Baumann; OED.—5. (Mostly of animals.) Engaged in coition: C.20. 'She would blush if she saw two dogs fast.' I.e., fastened together.—6. See so fast his feet won't touch.

fast and loose, play (orig. at). To be inconstant; variable; inconsistent: C.16–20. Coll. till ca. 1700, then S.E. (G. Harvey, Ned Ward, Dickens.) Ex the game now—though even this is ob.—known as prick-the-garter, and played with a string or a strap.

fast black. A taxi: RN: 'A corruption of fast back, the sales jargon for a car with a sloping rear window. In BBC TV

'Warship', 10 Dec. 1974' (Peppitt). Peter York, in Style Wars, 1980, notes the term as upper-middle-class s. of late 1970s. fast(-)buck artist. A person, usu. male, eager to make a lot of money—and fast: Can.:—since ca. 1950. (H. Robertson, Grass Roots, 1973; Leechman.) P.B.: such pej. phrases as they're only out to make a (or out for the) fast buck have been Brit. coll. since ca. 1960, if not earlier.

fast-fuck. A rapid or standing coition: harlots': C.19–20.

fast one. 'A remark giving rise for thought' (H. & P.): Services: since ca. 1935; ob. by 1946. Ex Larwood fast-bowling at cricket.—2. Hence (or independently ex same origin), esp. in pull a fast one, to 'do the dirty', to malingering, to wangle something one is not entitled to, to evade a duty: Services': since ca. 1938. H. & P.

fast talker. A confidence trickster or 'con man': since ca. 1930. Ex S.E. sense, 'a glib talker'. A reminder from DCCU.

fast(e)ner. A warrant for arrest: late C.17—early 19 c. B.E.; Grose, 1st ed.

fastidious cove. A fashionable swindler: London: 1882–1915. Ware.

fat, n. In c., money: C.19. More gen. in US than in Britain.—2. 'The last landed, inned or stow'd of any sort of Merchandize whatever, so called by the several Gangs of Water-side Porters, &c.': late C.17—early 19. B.E., Grose.—3. Hence, among printers, composition in which, e.g. in dictionaries and esp. in verse, there are many white spaces, these representing profit:—1788 (Grose, 2nd ed.).—4. Hence (theatrical), a good part; telling lines and situations: from ca. 1880. The Referee, 15 Apr. 1888, 'I don't want to rob Miss Claremont of her fat, but her part must be cut down.' Cf. grease.—5. In journalism, a notable piece of exclusive news: from ca. 1890 (SOD).—6. A lower-class nickname for a fat person (gen. a man): late C.19–20. Cf. fatty.—7. (Esp. of cattle, but also of sheep) a fat beast: Aus. coll.: mid-C.19–20. 'Tom Collins', Such Is Life, 1903.—8. Good luck: Army: late C.19–20. Cf. senses 4, 5. By ca. 1930, gen. lower-class s.: as in Pamela Branch, The Wooden Overcoat, 1951.—9. An erection of the penis: Aus. Armed Forces', WW2; > gen. low. See crack a fat.—10. Semen: low: C.20. Esp. in phrase come one's fat, to ejaculate, and hence, also, to confess or inform. Cf. cocoa. Powis.—11. In a bit of fat, coition with a stout female: low: mid-C.19—early 20.—12. See chuck (one's) fat about; cut it fat; cut up; fret (one's) fat.

fat, adj. Rich; esp. with cull: c.: late C.17—early 19. Ex C.16 S.E. Revived in later C.20, esp. in phrase fat cats, q.v.—2. Hence, in C.19–20, abundant, profitable, very large, e.g. profits, income, takings. Also ironical, a fat lot, q.v., not much at all.—3. Good: Aus. coll.:—1890. Also used by FAA, 1960s: see ace. A revival of the C.17 S.E. usage; cf. sense 1.—4. Out-dated, esp. in sense 'square': teenagers': late 1970s. "'Hippies are fat," said one 16 year old I spoke to last week' (Martin Kettle, New Society, 7 Feb. 1980).

fat-arse around. To waste time; to dawdle: NZ shape of fat-arse, q.v.: C.20.

fat-arsed. Broad-bottomed: C.19–20 coll. Cf. barge-, broad-, and heavy-arsed, the third in Richard Baxter's Shove to Heavy Arsed Christians, i.e. slow, dull ones.

fat as a hen in the forehead or as a hen's forehead. Very thin: meagre: coll.; the former, from ca. 1600, is in Cotgrave and Swift, but rare after 1820, when the latter, now ob., > gen. Apperson.

fat as a match. (Esp. of a person) very thin indeed: Aus.: since late 1940s. (B., 1959.) Cf. like a match with the wood shaved off: Brit. coll.: later C.20. (P.B.)

fat as a porker, as; often corrupted to ... porcupine. As fat as a pig: coll.: mid-C.19–20.

fat as mud. See mud-fat.

fat as Sir Roger (, as). A real Falstaff in girth and weight: lower classes' coll.: ca. 1875–1900. (Baumann.) Ex Sir Roger Tichborne of the famous lawsuit.

fat-boy. 'Greases wagon axes and does odd jobs in a quarry' (Evening News, 28 Sep. 1955): quarrymen's: late C.19–20.

fat burnt itself out of the fire, the. (And in other tenses.) The trouble blew over: lower classes' coll.:—1909. Ware, 'Antithesis of "All the fat's in the fire"'.

fat-cake. 'A ridiculous name sometimes applied to Eucalyptus leucoxylon': Aus. s. or coll.:—1898; ob. Morris cites Maiden's Useful Native Plants. —2. A small fried (in fat) cake made of flour: Aus. coll.: late C.19–20; by 1940, Standard. (B., 1943.) Cf. fatty, 2.

fat cats, (the). The ostentatiously wealthy in any place or of any profession or class: since ca. 1955; by 1975, coll. P.B.: it was much used of the Hong Kong tycoons during the 1960s; L.A. cites the Observer, 22 Sep. 1974, for its application to, e.g., sleek stockbrokers.

fat chance. No chance at all: ironical coll.: C.20. Cf. fat lot. (P.B.)

fat cock. A stout elderly man; joc.: from ca. 1850; ob. A 'double-sucker', q.v.

fat cull. See fat, adj., 1. In B.E. and Grose.

fat-face. A term of derision or abuse: coll.: 1741 (Richardson: OED).

fat-fancier or -monger. A man that specialises in fat women: low: the former, C.19–20; the latter, C.19.

fat flab. A slice from the fat part of mutton-breast: Winchester College: from ca. 1860; ob.

fat or full-guts. A fat man or woman: low coll.: late C.16–20, C.19 resp. Shakespeare, 'Peace, ye fat guts, lie down' (OED).

fat-head. A fool: from ca. 1840: coll. (As a surname, C.13.)—2. A head dulled and achy; often as a result of drunkenness: late C.19–20. 'Taffrail', The Sub, 1917.

fat-headed, -pated, -skulled, -brained, -thoughted, -witted. Dull; slow; stupid. All coll.: resp. C.18–20; C.18–19; C.18–19; C.19; C.19; C.16–19, but soon S.E. Shakespeare has fat, slow-witted.

fat is in the fire, (all) the. It has failed; (C.19–20 only) that's done it, it's all u.p.: coll.: the first sense from ca. 1600 (... lies in the fire, C.16; cast all the gruel in the fire, Chaucer), as in Dekker; the second and third in Henry James, G.B. Shaw. Apperson.—Cf. then the band played! and good night!

Fat Jack. A very thin man, nicknamed by antithesis: naval: C.19. See Bob Short.

fat Jack of the bone-house. A very fat man: coll.; ca. 1850–1910.

fat lot, a. Always in actual or virtual negative, which = nothing; very little: coll.: 1899, Cutcliffe Hyne, 'Shows what a fat lot of influence... Congo has got' (OED Sup.); now verging on S.E.

fat Nannies. 'Aspinal freight locomotives, circa. 1900' (McKenna, Glossary, p. 35): railwaymen's.

fat one or un. A particularly rank breaking of wind; a 'roarer' (Swift): low: C.19—early 20.

fat-pated. See fat-headed.

fat show. No possible chance: NZ: since ca. 1930. Cf. the ironical fat chance, and see fat lot.

fat-skulled, -thoughted, -witted. See fat-headed.

fate. One's fiancé or fiancée: late C.19–20; joc. coll.

fater, factor, faitor, faytor. In C.17, a member of the Second Rank of the Canting Crew: in C.18—early 19, a fortune-teller: both c. In C.16—early 17 S.E., a cheat or impostor. Prob. ex Anglo-Fr. faitour. See Grose, P.

father. A 'fence' or receiver of stolen property: c.: mid-C.19–20; ob. (H., 1st ed.) Prob. suggested by uncle, a pawnbroker. Cf. father's brother.—2. A master shipwright: nautical: C.19. Bowen.—3. An admiral commanding a squadron: RN: C.20. Ibid..—4. That boy who acts as guardian and instructor to a new boy during the latter's first fortnight at school: Charterhouse: mid-C.19–20. In C.20, rather j. than s.—5. Head of a common lodging-house: low: since ca. 1840. Sessions, Dec. 1852.—6. The captain: RN: since ca. 1954. 'Seems to be used mainly by pussers, but is coming into general use very fast' (Granville, 1962).—7. See go to father!; your father a glazier?

father and mother of a hiding (, row, storm, etc.). One that is extremely vigorous, tremendous, etc.: orig. Anglo-Irish coll., since ca. 1890; in C.20, widespread. 'For three fardins I would take it from ye an' give ye the father an' mother of a good soun' blainin'' (Seumas MacManus, The Leadin' Road to Donegal, 1895: EDD Sup.). The orig. is perhaps a simple father of a...

Father Bunloaf. A Catholic priest: Belfast: C.20. Pej.

Father Christmas. A venerable old man: coll.: C.20.

Father Derby's or Darby's bands. See darbies.

father-in-law. A step-father: mid-C.16–20; S.E. until C.19, then catachrestic and dial. OED.

father keeps on doing it! A c.p. in ref. to a man with a large family: since ca. 1920. Ex a popular song.

father (something) on (someone). To blame someone for something he did not do; to impute responsibility where it does not rest: coll.: since ca. 1910. Ex fathering an illegitimate child upon the wrong man.

fatherly. 'A talk from a master (not necessarily a reprimand)': Bootham School: C.20. Bootham, 1925.

father's backbone. See when you were running up and down...

father's brother. A pawnbroker: joc. var. of uncle, q.v.: C.19–20. W.N. Glascock, The Naval Sketch-Book, 2nd series, 1834, at II, 34. (Moe.) Cf. father, 1.

fati gu'ed. A joc. pron. of fatigued; fati-gu'e is less gen. C.20. Occ. fattygew(ed). Perhaps orig. derisive of dial. pron.: see, e.g., the EDD.

fatness. Wealth: s. > coll.: C.19; in C.20, ob.—very ob., by 1930, but see fat, adj., 1, 2.

fator. See fater.

fat's running! 'The brat who grew up begging and pilfering, who learned when he saw a badly loaded dray to yell "The fat's runnin'!" and bring his fellows swarming round the tailboard' (K. Chesney, Victorian Underworld, 1970): street thieves' c.: mid-C.19.

Fatso. Common nickname for any fat person, esp. a fat youth: Can., since ca. 1945 (Leechman); Brit., since ca. 1950, adopted ex US.

fated for the slaughter, being, or fattening for the slaughter, or be fattened up. All refer to a 'rest' period, i.e. one spent out of the front line; esp., for the very lucky, at a rest camp: joc. among infantrymen, mostly on the Western Front, 1916–18. 'Rest' periods were often used for further hard training. B.&P.; F.&G.; Ian Hay, Carrying On, 1917.

fatten-up. To write a telling part: theatrical: from ca. 1875. See fat, n., 4.

fatty. A joc. epithet, endearment, or nickname for a fat person: coll.; C.19–20.—2. A damper-like cake: Aus.: late C.19–20. (B., 1942.) Ex the fat used. Cf. fat-cake, 2.

fatty ham. See ham, n., 3.

fattygew(ed). See fati-gued.

fat(t)ymus, fat(t)yma. A fat man, woman resp.: facetious or endearing: ca. 1860–1900. Too artificial to last. The latter prob. a pun on the Arabic girl's name Fatima.

Faugh-a-Ballagh Boys. The 87th Foot, in late C.19–20 the Royal Irish Fusiliers: military: from 1811. Ex Fag an Bealach, Clear the Way, the regimental march. Also Aiglers and Old Fogs. F. & G.

faulk(e)ner. (Cf. the spelling of fast(e)ner.) One that decoys others into dicing or card-playing; also a juggler: late C.17–18 c. (B.E.) Perhaps ex falconer, via † faulkener.

fault, at. At a loss: orig. (1833), hunting s.; coll. by 1850, S.E. by 1870. OED.

fauney. See fawney.

fav, the (pron. favve). The favourite: racing coll.: 1950s. 'The Clonmel fellas is puttin' one in to knock over the fav., and if you're quick about it there'll be all the hundred to seven... you can lay your hand on' (Patrick Campbell, Come Here Till I Tell You, 1960).

favour, n. In I could do that (or, more courteously, her) a (real) favour, 'a c.p. tribute to the charms of an attractive woman, or a picture of one' (L.A.): since ca. 1945.—2. See do me a favour!

favour, v. 'To deal gently with; to ease, save, spare': C.16–20, S.E. till ca. 1790, then coll. and dial. SOD.—2. 'To resemble in face or features': orig. (early C.17), S.E.; since ca. 1820, coll. and dial. OED.

favourite. Excellent; the best; esp. in This is (or that's or that'd be) favourite: Services': since ca. 1930. (H. & P.) P.B., 1974, adds: 'Later, 1950s, often pluralised, with the a sound drawn out. Thus... appreciatively of the first beer of the session, "Fa-a-a-vourites bevvy!", before taking a deep swig.'

favourite vice. One's usual strong drink: club or man-to-man's: ca. 1880–1915. Daily News, 6 Oct. 1885, 'When the bottles and the cigar-case are to the fore, even a bishop may enquire of you, with a jovial smile of born companionship, What is your favourite vice?' (Ware). Replaced by poison. favvers. The army shape of 'favours' (Daily Mail, 7 Sep. 1940); † by 1950.

fawn(e)y, occ. forn(e)y, rarely faun(e)y. A ring (hence fawnied, adj., ringed); ring-dropping (see fawney-dropping): the former low, the latter c.: late C.18–19. Parker, 1781.—2. Also, though rare, a 'ring-dropper': late C.18—early 19 c. Parker, 1781.—3. Ex sense 1 is US phony, illicit, sham, spurious, counterfeit: familiarised in England ca. 1930. Prob. fawney derives ex Irish fáinne, a ring.—4. In go on the fawney, to practise fawney-dropping, q.v.: late C.18–19 c.

fawney-bouncing. Selling rings for a supposed wager: c.: mid-C.19–20; ob. See esp. H., 1st ed. A fawney-bouncer is one who does this.

fawney-dropper. A ring-dropper: see next. C.19 c. Cf. money-dropper.

fawney-dropping or -rig (or -rigging: 'No. 747'). C.: C.19, late C.18–19 resp. Grose, 2nd ed., 'A fellow drops a ring, double gilt, which he picks up before the party meant to be cheated, and to whom he disposes of it for less than its supposed, and ten times more than its real, value. See fawney.

fawn(e)y-fam'd or -fammed; fawnied. 'Having one or more rings on the finger' (Vaux): c.: ca. 1810–60.

fawn(e)y man. A pedlar of bogus jewellery: tramps' c.: C.20. Frank Jennings, 1932.

fawney-rig. See fawney-dropping.

fawny. See fawney.

fay appears in C.14–19 coll. verging on S.E. expletives. † form of faith.—2. See quotation at Noras: ?meaning.

faynights. A late C.19–20 var. of fainits!, q.v. at fain II! Collinson.

faytor. See fater.

fazz. Grease: Post Office telegraph-messengers' (esp. in London); from before 1935.

fe. Meat: chimney-sweepers': C.19–20; by 1930, ob.; by 1960, †. Adopted from Shelta fe, itself ex Irish féoil.

feager (properly feaguer) of loges. A beggar with forged papers: C.17 c. Rowlands. Cf.:

feague. To 'ginger up', esp. a horse (gen. by enlivening but ugly 'fundamental' means): late C.18—early 19; low. (Grose, 1st ed.) Ex S.E. senses: beat; overcome, esp. by trickery: themselves ex Ger. fegen. Whence fake, q.v.: a form anticipated by C.17 var. feak, to thrash.

feaguer. See feager.

feak. The fundament: low: early C.19. (Lex. Bal.) Perhaps ex feague.

feaker. See faker.

fear. To frighten: since ca. 1870, coll.; earlier, S.E. Also common in dial.: C.19–20.

fear, for. Short for for fear that or lest: coll.: from ca. 1840. fear God and tip the crusher! is a RN motto (lowerdeck): C.20. Cf. crusher, 1 and 3. P-G-R.

fear(-)not. A greatcoat: ca. 1810–50. Wm Maginn, Tales of Military Life, 1829, at I, 158. (Moe.)—2. See fearnoughts. fearful, fearfully. Adj., adv.: a coll. intensive (cf. awful, terrible): from ca. 1880. Earlier in dial. D. Mackail, Greenery Street, 1925, 'I say, you're looking most fearfully fit.'

fearful frights. 'Kicks, in the most humiliating quarters': lower classes': ca. 1890–1914. Ware.

fearnought. 'A drink to keep up the spirits. 1880' (SOD); ob.—2. A male pessary: RN: C.20. Cf. dreadnought, 1. Perhaps ex-fearnoughts. 'White loose-fitting trousers made of a good thick blanket material with seamen's flaps instead of fly buttons' (Steven Piper, The North Ships, 1974): trowlermen's coll.: C.20. Perhaps ex a brand name. D. Butcher, Trawlermen, 1980, glossary, has fear-nots. Cf. synon. dreadnoughts.

feat. An exclusive piece of news: journalistic: adopted, early 1930s, ex US. Abbr. (special) feature.

feather. The female pubic hair: either coll. or euphemistic: C.18–19. (Prior, Moore.) Perhaps ex S.E. feather, (of a cock) to tread.—2. 'The wave made by a submarine's periscope': RN coll.: 1916. Bowen.—3. A bed: tramps' c.: C.20. (W.H. Davies in New Statesman, 18 Mar. 1918.) Abbr. feather and flip, the same: rhyming s. on kip: late C.19–20. (Cheapjack, 1934.)—4. In high or low in the feather, with one's oar well or badly held while out of the water: sporting: from ca. 1870. (Andrew Lang, Ballad of the Boat Race, 1878.) Ex the S.E. feather an oar.—5. In in (full) feather, in full dress; in one's finest, or one's best clothes: coll.: since latish C.18. Frederic Pilson's comedy, He Would Be a Soldier, 1786, at III, i (CALEB loq.), 'Here I am, father, in full feather.' Cf. in full fig, at fig, n., 7.—6. In in (full) feather, rich: coll.: from ca. 1860. H., 2nd ed.; Mrs Henry Wood, 1871, 'Clanwaring, in feather as to cash...'.—7. In in (full) feather, elated: since ca. 1870. Cf. synon. in high feather: coll.: ca. 1815–70. Moore, 1819, 'The swells in high feather'.—8. In in high feather, 'in good form': from early C.19. Wm Maginn, Tales of Military Life, 1829, at II, 282. (Moe.)—9. In ride a feather, to be a jockey weighing less than 84 lb.: ca. 1810–1900: sporting coll.—10. See strike with a feather; white feather.

feather and flip. See feather, 3.

feather-bed, v. To make things easy for someone or for a group; v. of n. feather-bedding, q.v. As adj., attrib. of one that benefits; often enviously pej., as in the sporadic outcry against, e.g., 'the feather-bed farmers', thought to be receiving large government subsidies. The adj. is a very old taunt: see quof n at long fathers for its use ca. 1805. (P.B.)

feather-bed and pillows. A fat woman: low: ca. 1850–1910. Ex feather, q.v., and pillow, a large breast.

feather-bed lane. A rough road or lane: coll.: late C.17–20; ob. B.E.; Grose, 1st ed.

feather-bed soldier. A persistent, expert whoremonger: C.19: coll. Cf. carpet-knight.

feather-bedding, n. The practice of making things very easy for an elderly or indispensed member of a gang of, e.g., dockers: industrial: C.20: s. >, by 1940, coll.

feather-driver. A quill-driver, a clerk: coll.; late C.16–17. Literary s.

feather in (one's) mouth, having (or with) a. 'Capable of showing temper, but holding it in': nautical: late C.19–20; ob. Ex that foam at a ship's cut-water 'which shows there either has been, or will be, dirty weather' (Ware).

feather in your trousers?, (have you) got a. Addressed to a boy giggling, and, it seems, inexplicably: C.20.

feather me! A mild Aus. oath: since ca. 1930. Nino Culotta, Cop That Lot, 1960.

feather (one's) nest. To enrich oneself with perquisites, licit and/or illicit; to amass money: C.16–20; coll. till ca. 1830, then S.E. Greene, Vanbrugh, G.Eliot.

feather-plucker. An objectionable fellow: City of London businessmen's euph., sometimes only mildly pej.: since ca. 1945. Rhyming on fucker. Cf. pheasant-plucker, a deliberate spoonerism.

feathered arsehole. 'The old RAF Observers' brevet, an O with a single wing growing out of it to the right, superseded by the navigators' badge early in WW2' (P.B., 1974): RAF: since latish WW1; from ca. 1942, merely nostalgic. Cf. flying arsehole.

feathers. Money: wealth: c. or low: ca. 1855–1905. 'Ducange Anglicus'.—2. As the feathers, bed: ca. 1880–1914.—3. Head-hair; beard and/or moustache: Aus.: C.20. B., 1942.—4. See grow (one's) feathers; make the fur (or feathers) fly.

feature, n. and v., in newspapers and films, is s. (>, by 1925, cinematic coll.) if simply=either a part, or to present (prominently). US (ca. 1897), anglicised ca. 1905. (OED Sup.) P.B.: in later C.20 feature, n. and v., >accepted part of media j., verging on informal S.E.

feature with. 'To achieve sexual intercourse with [given currency by the Barry McKenzie comic strip]' (Wilkes: brackets his): Aus.: later C.20.

features. A satirical term of address: ca. 1900–14 in Britain (Ware); still in use in Aus. army in the 1960s (? a revival), understood as short for, e.g., penis-features. (P.B.) cf. face and face-ache.

feaze, feeze. To harm; to trouble: Can.: C.20. Ex Eng. dial. P.B.: prob. more strongly influenced by US faze, to perturb, a var. of the same.

Feb. February: coll.: C.20. Ex the abbr. The only other months thus treated (so far!) are January, as Jan, and, rarely, August, as Aug (org). P.B.: that so far! belongs to the 1st ed., 1937; other months have now, mid-1980s, long succumbed.

February. A brigadier: Aus. soldiers': WW2. B., 1943: 'Seeing him always means 28 days' C.B.'

feck. To discover a safe method of robbery or cheating: C.19 c. (Sinks.) Ironically ex feckless or, more prob., a corruption of feak=fake, q.v.

fed. Short for fed-up: Aus.: since ca. 1919. Baker.

fed at both ends ... (Of a slim bride) 'She should get a bit fatter, fed at both ends, as they say': a low c.p.:—1958.

fed to the back teeth. An intensive var., dating from ca. 1910, of the next. Occ. fed up ... or fed to the wide. Manchon.

fed-up. Bored; disgusted; (with) tired of: orig. military, possibly ex the Boers (witness Pettman): from ca. 1899. G.W. Steevens (d. 1900), 'We're all getting pretty well fed-up with this place by now.' Cf. Fr. en avoir souf. (W.) In WW1, a military c.p. ran, fed-up, fucked up, and far from home. P.B.: that c.p. is still being used by the WW1 Tommies' soldier-grandsons, 1970s.

fed with a fire-shovel when young, to have been. To have a large mouth: coll.: late C.18–19. Grose, 2nd ed.

Federal case, esp. in 'Don't make a Federal case out of it!'—Don't exaggerate the urgency or desperateness—or, the importance—of the matter: a c.p., adopted ca. 1952, ex US, where prob. legal s. at first.

federating, vbl n. Love-making: Aus.: early C.20. Baker.

feed, n. A meal; an excellent meal: coll.: both from ca. 1805. Ex the stables. Bulwer Lytton, in Paul Clifford, 'He gave them plenty of feeds.'—2. (A dish—a kind—of) food: marines': late C.19–20. Goodenough, 1901.—3. Same as, and ex, feeder, 3: theatrical: from mid-1920s. J.B. Priestley uses it in 1929 (OED Sup.).—4. In at feed, at meal; eating: coll.: from ca. 1880. The National Observer, 1890, vol. V, 'Statesmen at feed'. The C.20 prefers at (one's) feed.—5. See off (one's) feed.

feed, v. To take food: M.E.—C.20. Of animals, S.E.; of persons, coll. since ca. 1850.—2. In football, to back, v.i. and t.: from ca. 1880: coll. >, in C.20, j. > S.E. Ex rounders.—3. In the theatre, to supply (the principal comedian) with cues: from ca. 1890.—4. In the universities, to 'cram': C.18–19.—5. To bore or disgust: from ca. 1910. Cf. fed-up, its prob. origin.

feed a cold and starve a fever. A misuse (C.19–20) of the proverbial feed a cold and you'll starve a fever.

feed a part. (Theatrical.) To fill it out with small speeches or incidents:—1892; ob. OED.

feed (one's) face. To eat: contemptuous or, at least, depreciatory: C.20.

feed (a person) meat. To supply with very rich and nutritious food: 1920 (P.G. Wodehouse: OED Sup.). Here, meat is opp. milk, the food of infancy.

feed of jeelyreek. A whiff of gelignite fumes: Scottish miners': C.20.

feed of oats. See oats, 2.

feed the brute!; always remember, or all you have to do or the great (or main) thing or the secret is, to feed the brute. A feminine c.p., used either by wives, esp. if young, or by mother to daughters about to marry: late C.19–20. There is often a connotation of 'That'll keep him happy—and you too'. This is one of the best known of all c.p.p., and it arose in Punch (LXXXIX, p. 206) in 1886: witness The Oxford Book of Quotations. It lies, therefore, on the borderline between c.p. and famous quotation.

feed the chickens... See Bate's Farm.

feed the chicks. To carry out air-to-air refuelling, by a large tanker aircraft, of the smaller, fighter aircraft of RAF Strike Command: RAF: since mid-1960s. Petch cites the Bournemouth Evening Echo, 11 June 1971.

feed the fish. To 'skin' (lead on) the victim: Can. carnival s.: since ca. 1920. Also clean the fish. See fish, 8.

feed the fishes. To be sea-sick: coll.:—1884.—2. Hence, though rarely, to be drowned: from ca. 1890.

feed the press. To send 'copy' to the compositors slip by slip: journalistic:—1891; ob.

Feeder, the. A GWR express goods-train connecting 'several important services' carrying provisions to London: railwaymen's: from ca. 1919. (Daily Telegraph, 15 Aug. 1936.) Cf. the Bacca, q.v. [GWR=Great Western Railway, until incorporation into British Rail.]

feeder. In c., a silver spoon; any spoon: late C.18–20; ob. (Grose, 2nd ed.) Hence feeder-prigger, a spoon-thief (Bee). —2. In university s., a 'coach': mid-C.18—early 19. Goldsmith: 'Mr. Thornhill came with ... his chaplain and feeder', 1766.—3. 'Actor or actress whose part simply feeds that of a more important comedian': theatrical coll.: 1800; ob. Ware. feeding. Tiresome; boring; disgusting: from ca. 1910. Ex feed, v., 5; cf. fed-up, q.v.

feeding-birk. A cookshop: c.: late C.19–20. Ware, "'Birk" being possibly a corruption of "barrack"'.

feeding-bottle. A woman's paps: low coll. C.19—early 20.

feek. See feke.

feel. To take liberties with (one of the opposite sex): low coll.: C.18–20. Hence, since mid-C.19, have a feel, to do this. See also feel up. —2. V.i., with infinitive, to feel, imagine that one does: low coll.:—1836; ob. (OED.) Cf. feel like, q.v.

feel (someone's) bump. To know what he is thinking: coll.:—1923 (Manchon). Contrast feel (or read) someone's bumps, to practise phrenology on that person. Cf. bump, n., 1.

feel cheap. In ordinary sense, S.E., though not literary. In s., to feel ill after a bout of drinking: from ca. 1880; ob. Hence, cheapness: late C.19–20.

feel day. Intimate exploration of the opposite sex; pun on [S.E.] field-day? (Leechman): Can.: 'since about 1910' (Ibid.).

feel for (someone's) knowledge box. To aim a blow at an opponent's head: pugilistic: ca. 1810–60. Anon., Every Night Book, 1827.

feel funny. To feel ill: from ca. 1895.—2. To be overtaken with drink or with emotion (e.g. of amorosness): the former (†), from ca. 1800; the latter from ca. 1850.

feel (something) in (one's) bones. To have an idea; feel sure: coll.: 1875 (OED Sup.); by 1910, S.E. Ex be in one's bones, to be felt as certain: itself S.E. verging on coll. Cf.:—

feel (something) in (one's) water. A low var. of prec.; also, as with prec., to have a premonition: since late C.19. P.B.: in later C.20 often as 'I've got a feeling in me [= my] water that ...'

feel like. To have an inclination for a thing or—esp. in form feel like doing—to do something: from ca. 1870, orig. (—1855), US: coll. A 1933–4 trade-slogan ran: 'A. I feel like a Guinness.—B. I jolly well wish you were!'

feel like a baby at a wedding. To feel very much unwanted or out of place: since ca. 1930. (P.B. cites Kenneth Hemingway Wings Over Burma, 1944.) Alignable with such anomalies as 'whore at a christening' and 'spare prick at a wedding'; but little used since ca.1950.

feel like a boiled rag. 'To feel excessively limp', or unwell:

coll.: C.20. (Lyell.) Variants are ... like a piece of chewed rag or string.

feel like an ounce of uranium. 'To feel "on top of the world"'. A recently born Royal Marine phrase' (Granville, letter of 7 Jan. 1947): late 1940s, ephemeral.

feel like death warmed up. To feel very ill—half dead, in fact: (until ca. 1940 proletarian) coll.: C.20. 'For hours and hours he had to stick to the controls [of his aircraft], feeling like death warmed up' (Paul Brickhill & Conrad Norton, Escape to Danger, 1946). The earliest recording I've seen occurs in the anon. little The Soldiers' War Slang Dictionary, published on 28 Nov. 1939. Cf. S.E. to look like a living corpse.

feel like nothing on earth. To feel wretched or ill: coll. (—1927) >, by 1933, S.E. (Collinson.) Also as look like...

feel like shit. A coarse var. of the prec.: Services': since ca. 1950. (P.B.)

feel like the wrath of God. See wrath, 2.

feel no pain. To be (very) drunk: since ca. 1945, esp. in Can. 'How did Harry make out last night?'—'Well, he was certainly feeling no pain!' (Leechman.) Perhaps ex the old song, 'I feel no pain, dear Mother, now ...' (P.B.)

feel (one's) oats. To get bumptious or very high-spirited: orig. (ca. 1840) US >, ca. 1905, anglicised as coll.; by mid-1930s verging on S.E. Ex a horse feeding on oats.

feel (one's) own man (usu. again). To feel (quite) oneself, i.e. fit, normal and recovered from indisposition: coll.: since ca. 1910.

feel rough. To feel unwell, indisposed, esp. after 'the night before': rather low: from ca. 1917.

feel the collar. To perspire while walking: stables coll.: —1909 (Ware); †. Contrast have (one's) collar felt, to be arrested.

feel the draught. To be gravely inconvenienced; esp., to be hard put to it financially: 1925 (OED Sup.).

feel the miss of. To feel the lack or the loss of: from ca. 1855: S.E. till ca. 1880, then (low) coll. George Eliot, 1860; Baumann, 1887; 'Rita' 1901, 'Tis now you'll feel the miss of your mother' (OED). See miss, 4.

feel the shrimps. See can't you feel...

feel up, v.t. To caress sexually: coll.: prob. throughout C.20. I heard it in Aus., ca. 1919—and as early as 1914 the ribald feminine witticism, 'A fellow feeling makes us wondrous kind'. Robert Claiborne attests its US currency as being at least as early as 1930; he also records it as extant in Britain in Adam Diment, The Bang Bang Birds, 1968. I suspect that it goes well back into C.19 and that, by 1940 at the very latest, it was already 'familiar S.E.'

feele. A girl; a daughter; loosely, a child (H., 1st ed.). In pl., occ. = mother and daughter. Low Cockney: from ca. 1840. Ex It. figlia, via Lingua Franca. In Parlyaree, often feelier (E. Seago, Circus Company, 1933). Cf. dona(h), q.v.

feeler. A tentative question, comment, or device: from ca. 1830; coll. till ca. 1890, then S.E. Tait's Magazine, Sep, 1841, 'The Times is putting out feelers on the corn-law question.' —2. The hand: c. (—1877) >, by 1890, low s.; ob. (A. St John Adcock, East End Idylls, 1897.) Cf. famble.

feelier. See feele.

feelies, the. The next stage of cinema, following on movies, talkies and smellies: projected in Aldous Huxley's satirical Brave New World, 1932. (R.S.) Hence, since ca. 1945, an occ. term, ?esp. in Aus., for any cinema—ex the mutual petting in the darkness.

feelthy pictures (or pitchers). Pornographic postcards, etc.: joc. and allusive: since ca. 1920. Ex the pictures offered by native vendors to troops and tourists in the Near and Middle East.

feet (or Feet), the. The Infantry: other branches of the army. E.P. noted that, according to Blaker, the term was in use by the Cavalry from ca. 1840, by the Artillery from ca. 1890. But Grose, 1st ed., 1785, lists 'An officer of feet'; a jocular title for an officer of infantry', which puts it back to, perhaps, mid-C.18. The old jest, 'The first regiment of foot, therefore the second of feet, and so on', was still being enjoyed in the 1950s. (P.B.)—2. The Royal Marine Light Infantry: RN; late C.19—early 20. The RMLI ceased, as a separate body, in 1923. (Granville.)—3. The Police Force: RN; since ca. 1925. (Ibid.)—4. See so fast his feet won't touch.

feet, off its. (Of typewriting) by a machine out of adjustment, one side of typewritten letters showing a faint or, at least, a light impression, the other side (of, e.g., a w) showing a strong impression: typists': since ca. 1910. (J.J. Conington, The Sweepstake Murders, 1931.) Ex:—2. Of type not standing square: printers': since ca. 1850. B. & L.

feet-casements. Boots; shoes: low: from ca. 1840; ob. by C.1920. Cf. trotter-cases.

feet for children's stockings, make. To beget children: low coll.: mid-C.18—early 19. (Grose, 1st ed.) Cf. make faces.

feet muddy, get (one's). 'To be in trouble, especially with the criminal law, e.g., "He got his feet muddy before he had straight work"' (Powis): police and underworld: 1970s.

feet under the table. On very friendly visiting terms with a family, esp. if one is courting a female member of the household: RN, since ca. 1925; soon spread to other Services: coll. rather than s. (Peppitt; P.B.)

feet-up artist. A motorcycle trials rider: motorcyclists': later C.20. 'So called because in competition trials a rider is penalised every time he uses a foot to steady himself, thus the aim is to keep feet on footrests—"pegs"' (Dunford).

feet uppermost, lie. To receive a man sexually: low coll.: C.19—20; ob. Cf. have a good look round.

feetesick wallah. A male prostitute: Services' (esp. army): earlier C.20. A mixture of Arabic (feetesick) and Hindustani (wallah). Also gunga wallah.

fegary, figary; flagary. A whim; a prank: coll.; ca. 1600—1850. Vagary corrupted.

fega. A late C.16—18, now dial., expletive: faith distorted; cf. foy.

feint. A pawnbroker: c.: ca. 1830—70. ?punning S.E. feint and c. fence.

feisty. App. = spirited, lively: entertainment world: late 1970s+, prob. ex US. 'A feisty battle of wits' (Now!, film review, 8 Aug. 1980); 'True to its tacky little roots, [the film] rips off all sorts of nice genre items with shameless abandon. There's a feisty talking computer ...' (Time Out, film review, 20 Feb. 1981).

feke. A conjurer's trick: magicians': since ca. 1890. Ex fake.—2. Methylated spirits: c. Also finish and finish-drinker. See:-

feke-drinker. A drinker of methylated spirits in either water or beer: c.: from ca. 1920. His life 'is a short one, and most of it he passes in prison in a terrible reaction' (T.B.G. Mackenzie in Fortnightly Review, Mar. 1932). Presumably feke = fake, faked.

felican. A little boy: showmen's: since ca. 1870; by 1955, ob. Cf. mosiqui for sense and feele for form; a diminutive.

Felix. A man that stands another a drink: army: late C.19—20. F. & G.

Felix keeps (kept) on walking. A c.p. from the early 1920s. Ex the cinema cartoons of Felix the Cat, a creature with a peculiar loping gait.

fell a bit on. To act craftily or underhandedly: tailors': from ca. 1850; ob. Fell, in tailors' j., = to stitch down (a wide edge) so that it lies smooth.

fell-and-didn't. A person lame-walking: tailors': from ca. 1840.

fell off a lorry, (it, etc). 'Ironic explanation, given more humorously than seriously, when asked to account for the possession of valuable property, obviously stolen' (Powis): underworld and fringe-of-the-underworld c.p., from soon after WW2; by mid-1970s rather more widely known. The Aus. version is ... a truck (B.P.). Occ. the more elab. 'They must have fallen off the back of a lorry'. See esp. DCpp. at it fell ...

fella(h), feller. A coll. pron., the former somewhat affected and aristocratic, and form of fellow: resp. C.20 and from ca. 1870. Esp. young fella(h)—or feller—me lad, joc. vocative: C.20. (OED Sup.) Winifred Holtby, Truth Is Not Sober, 1934, 'Among the things a Fella does, correct grammar is not necessarily included' (1931).—2. Simply, male, as in 'That chimpanzee's a fella' (Prof. A.S.C. Ross, in U and Non-U Revisited, 1978); proletarian coll.: later C.20. A slovening of fellow.—3. See:- feller in 'pidgin', esp. in that of the South Seas and of Aus., is a tautological perennial—of no, or little, meaning and frequent use. Thus, in Ion L. Idriess, Lasseter's Last Ride, 1931, we find: "How much you want longa these feller spears?" inquired Taylor; a black gin (Aboriginal girl) defining a pair of well-worn corsets as 'that feller belly leggings'; and 'The [Australian] natives have no idea of counting. Any number above four they describe as "big feller mob".'

fellow. As a male person it is S.E. of M.E.—C.20; as 'chap' it is coll.:—1711. Note my dear or good fellow and what a fellow!—2. A sweetheart: coll.: late C.19—20.—3. Joc., C.19—20, of animals: coll.—4. Always as a fellow, one; anybody; even, myself: coll.: from ca. 1860. (Hughes, 1861 OED.) In C.20, esp. post-WWI, occ. used of themselves by would-be mannish girls.—5. See old fellow.

fellow-commoner. An empty bottle: Cambridge:—1785; ob. by 1900. (Grose, 1st ed.) The Oxford term was gentleman commoner. Contrast empty bottle, q.v.

fellow-feeling. A ceiling: rhyming: s.: late C.19—20; † by 1960. B.&P.; Franklyn 2nd.—2. See qu'n at feel up.

fellow P. 'A designation applied to each other by apprentices that have been bound to the same master or firm, whether in the past or in the present': printers' coll.: mid-C.19—20. (B. & L.) I.e. fellow printers.

felon. Felony: c.: C.18. (A New Canting Dict., 1725; Grose.) The term had existed in this sense in C.14. See also dose, 1.

felon swell. A gentleman convict: Aus. police and other officials': ca.1810—60. J.W., Perils, Pastimes and Pleasures, 1849.

felonious. Thievish: (somewhat low) coll.: mid-C.18—20.

felooosh. Money: coll. among soldiers with service where Arabic is spoken: C.20. Direct ex Arabic. Other approx. phonetic spellings are felooss, felous, and valoose. See also mafeesh!

felt. A hat made of felted wool: coll. until ca. 1600, then S.E. Dekker; Moncrieff, 1823, 'Don't nibble the felt, Jerry.' (Caution: Perhaps always S.E., even when, as occ. in C.17, used of any hat whatsoever.)

fem. See fam, n., a hand.—2. A woman: Soho, London: late C.19—20. (E.J. Oliver, 1948.) Ex Fr. femme: cf. feme.

female, a woman, has long been pej.: in C.20 it has a coll. hue.

female belongings. Female relations: (orig. joc.) coll.: C.20. 'Taffrail', The Sub, 1917.

female Hornblower. 'A nautical-minded woman, often a WRNS officer, esp. a senior and [notably] a "fire-eater". After C.S. Forester [in the Hornblower novels, late 1930s]: Royal Navy: 1970s' (Peppitt)—but surely since ca. 1955.

feme. In C.16—early 17 a coll., joc. in this survival of Anglo-Fr. legal usage, for a woman. SOD.

femlin. See beach bunny.

fen. A harlot; esp. a very low one: late C.17—early 19.—Hence, 2, a procuress: C.18—early 19. Both are c. (B.E., Grose, 1st ed.) Prob. ex † fen, mud, filth.—3. A 'fence' (see n., 1): c.: late C.17—18. B.E. (not at fen).

fen! An early (—1815) var. of or alternative to fains, q.v.; esp. at marbles. Cf. also fin, and finny that or you, Winchester College and Christ's Hospital resp. As a gen. term of protest or warning it has the † var. fen live lumber!:—1877. Note F. & H. at fains!, fen, fin, and finjyl!; and, here, see fain II! Perhaps ex fen.

fen-nightingale. A frog; occ. a toad: coll.: from ca. 1860; ob. (H., 3rd ed.) Cf. Cambridgeshire nightingale, q.v.

fence. A purchaser or receiver, and/or a storer of stolen goods: late C.17—early 19 c.; then low; then, in C.20, increasingly gen. (B.E., Dyche, Grose, Dickens.) Cf. billy-fencer and father. For etym., see the v., 2.—2. A place where stolen goods are received or purchased, and/or stored: from ca. 1700. Always c. Cf. dolly-shop, fencing-crib.—3. See over the fence; sit on the fence.

fence, v.i. To purchase or receive, and/or store, stolen goods: c.:—1610 (Rowlands, Martin Mark-All).—2. V.t. To spend (money): late C.17—18: c. (Coles, 1676; B.E.) Both n. and v., 1, derive ex S.E. fence = defence, while fence, v., 2, is prob. a deliberate derivation from v., 1.—3. To sell: c.:—1839 (Brandon).

fence-shop. A shop where stolen property is sold: low coll.: from ca. 1780; ob. G. Parker.

fencer. A tramp; gen. with a defining term (as in driz-fencer), a(n) itinerant) hawker: vagrants' c.: C.19—20.—2. A receiver of stolen goods: c. > low: from ca. 1690; ob. B.E.—3. A horse that runs well near the barrier: the turf:—1923 (Manchon).

fences, crash. See crash (one's) fences. Cf. rush one's fences.

fencing. The 'profession' of purchasing or storing stolen goods: orig. (ca. 1850), c.; in C.20, low.

fencing-crib, C.19—20, -ken, late C.17—early 19. A place where stolen property is purchased or hidden: c. The former, Ainsworth; the latter, B.E. fencing-cully. A broker or receiver of stolen goods: mid-C.17—early 19. (Coles; B.E.; Bailey; Grose, 2nd ed.) See fence, n., 1.

fend off. To take: NZ c.:—1932. I.e. fend a thing off from another, i.e. for oneself.—2. Hence, to steal: id. R.G.C. McNab, in the Christchurch, NZ, Press, 2 Apr. 1938.

Fenian, a. Threepence-worth of Irish whiskey and cold water: taverns': either from 1867, when the Fenians Allen, Larkin and O'Brien ('the Manchester Martyrs') were hanged for the murder of Police Sergeant Brett; or from 1882, when three Fenians were hanged—and therefore grew cold—for the murder of Cavendish and Burke in the Phoenix Park, Dublin. Also three cold Irish: which likewise was ob. by 1910, † by 1920. Ware.

Ferdinand. Nickname for a German self-propelled assault gun: adopted, ca. 1942, by the Brit. Army from the Russians. P-G-R.—2. A bull: mostly Aus.: since ca. 1938. Ex a famous book, Munro Leaf's delightful Ferdinand the Bull, brilliantly illustrated by Robert Lawson; New York, 1936, and London, 1937.

ferre. A corruption of four. See exes to ferre, six to four.

Ferguson. See You can't lodge here ...

Feringhee. A foreigner: Anglo-Indian: from ca. 1630. From ca. 1880, contemptuous. Ex the C.10—20 Oriental, esp. the Persian and Arabic, hence also the Hindi adaptation of Frank, the -ee representing the ethnic suffix -i. (W.)

ferki; ferking. Mincings of fuck; fucking. See furk!—2. Var. of the WINCHESTER firk, q.v. (R.G.K. Wrench.)

ferm(e). A hole: C.17—18: c. Dekker, Grose, 1st ed.—2. Occ. a cave, a prison. Ex Fr. fermer.

fermedy or formerly beggars. All beggars that lack sham sores: c.: late C.17—18. (B.E.) Prob. ex Fr. fermé, closed, shut.

fernan bag. A small 'ditty bag' for tobacco and such trifles: nautical: C.19. (Bowen.) Origin obscure; quite irrationally, I suspect a connexion with Pernambuco: cf. the † S.E. Fernanbuck, (of) Brazil.

Fernleaves. New Zealanders; esp. NZ soldiers: Services' coll.: since 1915. (F. & G.) Ex the badge of the NZ soldiers. P.B.: by WW2 the much more gen. term was, and still is, Kiwis.

ferret. A dunning tradesman, esp. on 'young Unthrifts': c.: late C.17—early 19 c. B.E.—2. Whence, a pawnbroker: c.: C.18—early 19. A New Canting Dict., 1725.—3. A barge-thief: late C.19—20 c. F. & H.—4. 'German security guard, usually in blue overalls' (Paul Brickhill & Conrad Norton, Escape to Danger, 1946): prisoners-of-war in Germany: 1940—5. Ex his sharp eyes and the colour of his overalls. P.B.: and, of course, his spying activities.—5. A veteran Norton motorcycle, types in production from 1908 to ca. 1920: motorcycling enthusiasts'. (Mike Partridge, 1979.)—6. (Also ferreter). A customs officer ferreting in cargo or cabins for smuggled goods: MN: 1940s esp., but also later. (Peppitt.)—7. An electronic sweeper—a man engaged on 'debugging' duties: espionage: (?) since ca. 1950. Le Carré, Honourable Schoolboy, 1977. ferret, v.t. To cheat: c.: late C.17—mid-19. (B.E.; Grose, 1st ed.) Ex the idea of sharpness. Cf. n., 1.

ferreting. Copulation (from the male angle): low: C.19—early 20.

ferricadouzer. A knock-down blow: orig. pugilistic (—1851); ob. (Mayhew.) Ex It. fare cadere, to fell, + dosso, back, prob. via Lingua Franca.

ferrup(s) appears in C.17—19 exclamations; from ca. 1830, dial. ? echoic.

ferry, n. A prostitute: Aus.: C.20. B., 1942. She carries numerous men. Cf. synon. bike.—2. (The Ferry.) The Atlantic Ocean: nautical: C.20. Gibbard Jackson, Sea Yarns, 1931.

ferv, n. and v. Divinity, as subject of study; chaplain:—to be religious: Cranbrook School: C.20. Ex 'religious fervour'.

fess, v. To confess; own up: coll.: C.19—20. More gen. in US than in England.

fess, adj. Proud: schoolboys': C.19—early 20.

festering, adj. and adv. An intensive, as in 'You festering toe-rag' and 'It's festering hot': Glasgow: since ca. 1920. Euph.—2. To be 'out on the town, or, at least, out at the College bar': St Catherine's College, Oxford. (Adam J. Apt, of Boston, Mass., and St Catherine's, 1978.)

festive. 'Loud; fast; a kind of general utility word' (F. & H.): ca. 1870—1910. Cf.:—2. (Of a new boy) 'who has not learnt his duty to his superiors and seniors' (A.H. Tod): Charterhouse:—1900. Hence festivity, cheekiness. Cf. fess, adj.

fetch. A success: coll.: C.19.—2. A likeness—ex the S.E. sense, an apparition—as in 'the very fetch of him': coll.: from ca. 1830. (As = a trick or stratagem, S.E.)—3. Seminal fluid. See v., 6, and cf. come, as n.—4. N., also v. (To commit) a haymaking stroke at cricket: cricketers' (and commentators): since ca. 1950. (BBC's TV test-match commentary, 27 July 1963.) Perhaps ex sense 2 of the v.

fetch, v. (As = to attract greatly, S.E. though not dignified.)—2. To deal (a blow), make (a stroke or other movement): M.E.—C.20: S.E. till C.19, then coll.—3. To obtain a summons against (a person): coll.; from ca. 1840. Cf. fetch law of.—4. To go to (a certain prison), e.g. fetch Pentonville: c.: C.20. ('Stuart Wood', Shades of the Prison House, 1932.) Also, more gen., to attain to, get access to: coll.: from ca. 1875. See farm, 2; G. Ingram, Stir, 1933, 'A few tried to "fetch" the Asylum by feigning insanity.' Ex the sense in nautical j.: to arrive at.—5. (Of a pump) to empty the bilge: Conway cadets' coll.: from ca. 1860. (John Masfield, The Conway, 1933.) Prob. an abbr. of fetch the water up.—6. To ejaculate (semen): low. coll.: late C.19—20. Cf. come, and S.E. spend.

fetch a circumbendibus. Make a detour: C.19—early 20.

fetch ... a crack. To strike (a person): (?low) coll.: 1853, Dickens (EDD).

fetch a howl. To weep noisily; cry out: low coll.: C.19—20. (Fetch = utter, however, is S.E. as in fetch a groan or a sigh.)

fetch a lagging. To be imprisoned; serve one's term: C.19—20 c.; ob. (By itself, fetch, to get, is S.E.)

fetch ... a stinger. To strike (gen. a person) heavily: coll.: from ca. 1860.

fetch away. To part; separate: coll.: from ca. 1850; ob. 'A fool and his money are soon fetched away' (F. & H.).

fetch law of. To bring an action against: coll.:—1832; ob. (OED.) Cf. fetch, v., 3.

fetch down. To bring down by blow or shot: coll.: from ca. 1700.—2. To force down (prices, value): coll.; from ca. 1840.

fetch over the coals. To call to task; to reprimand; address severely: coll.: late C.16—18. Ex treatment once meted out to heretics. The modern form is call over ... or haul over ...

fetch the brewer. To become intoxicated: from ca. 1840; †. fetch the farm. To be ordered (prison) hospital and diet: from ca. 1875, c. See farm, n., 2.

fetch up, v.i. 'To recruit one's strength, to recover from some illness': coll.: mid-C.19–20. (B. & L.) Ex S.E. sense, v.t., to make up (time, leeway).—2. To vomit, v.t. and i: coll., orig. and mainly North Country: C.20. Cf. throw up, 3.

fetch your bed and we'll keep you. A c.p. addressed to a too frequent visitor: C.20. 'Sometimes among working-men to one who is always hungry and who can eat up any spare bait that is going around' (Petch, 1946).

fetching. Attractive: from ca. 1880: coll. until ca. 1925, then S.E. not yet literary.

fetid waistcoat. 'A waistcoat of a flaunting and vulgar pattern' (F. & H.): from ca. 1859; †. So 'loud' that it 'stinks to high heaven'.

fettle, in good or proper. Drunk: coll.: ca. 1875–1920. Ex North Country dial. fettle, state, condition, humour (EDD).

fetus. In tap the f, to procure an abortion: medical:—1893.

fever time. 'The time when superannuated college prefects go for a fortnight into a sick-room in order... to give themselves up to hard study': Winchester: mid-C.19–20. B.&L.

few, a good. A fair number: coll. (and dial.): from ca. 1860. (OED.) Cf.:

few, (just) a. Adv., much, greatly; decidedly, certainly: s. > coll.: from ca. 1760; ob. by 1930. Dickens, in Bleak House, 'Mr. Smallwood bears the concise testimony, a few.' Cf. rather!, the US some, and the Fr. un peu, which last may be the source.

few pence short in the shilling, a. A c.p. = 'silly'; half-witted; (slightly) mad: C.20; ob. by ca. 1950; † with the introduction of decimal coinage.

few snags short of a barbie, a. 'Is a recently made popular phrase in Sydney. It is used as a description for someone who has less than perfect mental facilities' (Australasian Express, 6 July 1982). Snags here = sausages; barbie, a barbecue. (Mrs C. Raab.)

fez. A House cap; a boy entitled to one: Harrow School: from ca. 1890(?). Lunn.

fi-fa. Abbr. feri facias, a legal writ: legal: C.18–20. Hence, as v., to issue this writ against someone: 1818, The London Guide (p. 202). Cf. feri facias, q.v.

fi-fi. See fie-fie.

fi-heath. A thief: back s.:—1859 (H., 1st ed.). By euphonic manipulation.

fiasco. A fiancé; occ., a fiancée: joc. coll.: from ca. 1920. Cf. finance.

fib, n. A trifling falsehood: early C.17–20; a lie: C.17–20. Coll. Perhaps ex † fible-fable (on fabule): W.—2. A liar: coll. (—1861); an isolated pre-C.19 instance occurs in C.16 (OED). H. Kingsley, in Ravenshoe, "'Oh! you dreadful fib,'" said Flora.—3. A blow: low coll. or s.: from ca. 1814 (OED), when boxing was at its palmist. Ex fib, v., 3, 4.

fib, v. To tell a trivial lie: late C.17–20. (Dryden.) Prob. ex fib, n., 1, q.v. Hence, 2, to tell a lie: in C.18, chiefly among children (Johnson). Congreve, 1694, 'You fib, you baggage, you do understand, and you shall understand.'—3. To beat, thrash, strike: mid-C.17–18 c.; Head, Coles.—Hence, 4, in C.19 pugilism, v.t. and i., to punch in rapid repetition. Southey, 1811; Thackeray ('My boy; fib with your right'). Origin obscure: but cf. possibly fake, v., and certainly job, v.

fibber. A liar, orig. small, soon great or small: coll.: from ca. 1720.

fibbery. The telling of lies: ca. 1850–1930: coll. 'Ducange Anglicus'.

fibbing. The telling of lies: coll.; from ca. 1740. Fielding.—2. In pugilism, C.19, a rapid pummeling; a sound beating. (Tom Moore.) See fib, v., 4.

fibbing-gloak. A boxer: c.: early C.19. (Vaux.) See fib, v., 4. Gloak, a man.

fibbing-match. A prize-fight: c.: C.19. (Vaux.) Ex fib, v., 4.

fibre. S. African c. > by 1945, low s.: C.20. C.P. Wittstock, letter of May 1946, 'Pass the fibre... Pass the match-box'. (Wood fibre.)

fi-ce or foysce. 'A small windy escape backwards, more obvious to the nose than ears' (Grose, 2nd ed.): late C.18–19; low coll. Earlier, S.E., esp. as fi-st.

fid. A quid of tobacco: late C.18–early 20: nautical. (Grose, 2nd ed.) Collinson's fid, a true derivative, is ineligible, being a mere personal 'neologism'. Ex fid, an oakum-plug for the vent of a gun.

fiddle, n. A sharper, occ. as old fiddle: C.18–early 19. Ex fiddle, v., 2, q.v.—2. A watchman's or policeman's rattle: low: ca. 1820–50. Moncrieff.—3. A sixpence (cf. fiddler, 3): from ca. 1850.—4. The female pudend: low: from ca. 1800. Cf. strum, v.—5. One-sixteenth of £1: Stock Exchange: from ca. 1820; ob.—6. A writ to arrest: late C.17–early 19 c. (B.E.; Grose, 1st ed.) Cf. face the music.—7. A whip: low: mid-C.19–early 20. 'Ducange Anglicus'.—8. 'A piece of rope and a long crooked nail' for the picking of oakum: prison c.:—1877.—9. An exasperating task or job: lower classes' coll.:—1923 (Manchon). Ex fiddling job.—10. A special commission paid by a jobber to a broker on important transactions involving no risk: Stock Exchange: ca. 1810–90. The broker fiddles one finger across another on these occasions. Also as v.: to pay such commissions.—11. A swindle: low (since ca. 1920) > by 1939, Services; since WW2. gen. coll. and widespread: in later C.20, almost any form of dishonesty can be termed a fiddle, from 'working a tax fiddle' to petty pilfering of 'perks'. Hence to be on the fiddle. A late C.19–early 20 version was get at the fiddle. Cf. several senses of the v., esp. 10.—12. A maize-grater: Aus.: C.20. (B., 1943.) Ex shape.—13. See fine as a fiddle; fit as a fiddle; play first or second fiddle.

fiddle, v. To play the fiddle: M.E.—C.20: S.E. till ca. 1820, then coll.—2. To cheat: C.17–20; S.E. until ca. 1800, revived by the underworld ca. 1840. Mayhew.—3. Hence, to make a living from small jobs done on the street (cf. S.E. sense, to trifle): mid-C.19–20; ob. H., 1st ed.—4. To punch: pugilistic: ca. 1830–1900.—5. (In C.19–20, gen. with adv. about) to play about intimately with, to caress familiarly, a woman, v.t. (with in C.19–20): C.17–20: coll. In this sense 'to play as on a fiddle' is prob. cognate with 'fiddle, fidget with the hands', which 'may belong... to Old Norse fitla, to touch with the fingers', W.—6. To drug (liquor): c. (—1899). Rook. Perhaps ex sense 2.—7. To be a petty thief: c.: late C.19–20. Ex senses 2, 3.—8. 'To purloin or obtain by a wangle. Thus fiddler, one who is expert in fiddling'. H. & P.: Services': since ca. 1910. Cf. senses 2, 3.—9. See fiddle, n., 10.—10. V.i. and v.t., to cheat, swindle, be a swindler; to sell secretly or illicitly: low (since ca. 1912) >, by 1925, Services', and then, by 1945, common civilian s., esp. among 'spivs'.—11. Hence, by specialisation, 'to falsify, as a statement of expenses. [Adam] Diment uses "expense-fiddling" in The Bang Bang Birds, 1968' (Claiborne, 1976): since ca. 1945. Esp. in the phrase to fiddle the books. See also fiddling.

fiddle and flute. Lester records this as a suit one wears, but Franklyn lists it as a purely US form of the rhyming s. whistle and flute.

fiddle-arse about. To 'mess about'; to waste time: low Aus.: since ca. 1920. (B., 1943.) Some occ. Brit. use also; cf. fart-arse. (P.B.) fiddle-back. 'A chasuble having a fiddle-shaped back': coll.: late C.19–20. OED Sup.

fiddle-bow. The penis: cf. fiddle, n., 4. Low: ca. 1830–1930.

fiddle but not the stick, have the. To have the means but not the sense to use them properly: coll.: C.19.

fiddle-de-dee!, fiddle-faddle!, fiddlestick(s) Coll. interjections of resp. C.18–20 (ob.), C.17–early 19, C.17–20 (ob.) fiddle-face. A wizened-faced person: dial. and coll.: ca. 1850–1900. (H., 1st ed.) Prob. ex:—2. One with a long, unhappy face: coll.: late C.18–early 20. Hence adj. fiddle-faced. Cf.:-

fiddle-headed. Plain; ugly: nautical: from ca. 1840. Cf.

fiddle-face, q.v.—2. Empty-headed: coll., first (OED) recorded in 'You fiddle-headed brute!' (to a horse), Whyte-Melville, 1854.

fiddle-strings, fret oneself to. See fret... fiddled stick. A flag-staff: nautical, esp. Naval: ca. 1805–60. W.N. Glascock, Sailors and Saints (I, 21), 1829. (Moe.)

fiddler. A sharper or a cheat: low C.19–20. Ex fiddle, v., 2.—2. A prize-fighter, esp. one who jumps about a great deal: pugilistic: ca. 1830–1910. Ex fiddle, v., 4.—3. A sixpence: low (—1853); † by 1920. (H., 1st ed.) Prob. ex fiddler's money, q.v. (Whence fiddle, sixpence.)—4. Also a farthing: ca. 1855–1900. H., 1859.—5. A capstan-house: nautical:—1874; very ob. by 1930. (H., 5th ed.) Because, on some ocean-going ships, it was the only place where passengers were allowed to smoke and because, while the sailors worked the capstan-bars, 'a man sometimes played on the fiddle to cheer them at their toil'.—6. As F-, the French racehorse, Fille de l' Air; cf. Potato (or -er), the French horse, Peut-Être: both, sporting: first decade, C.20. Ware.—7. A 'wangler', a constant schemer or contriver: c.: C.20. (Anon., Dartmoor from Within, 1932.) In Labour s. (since ca. 1925), thus "'Fiddler" (earns money on the quiet without telling labour exchange)' (Hugh Massingham, I Took Off My Tie, 1936). By 1939, at latest, also Services' s. Perhaps ex fiddle, n., 11, influenced by v., 2.—8. A trumpeter; a bugler: army: late C.19—early 20. (F.&G.) See ARMY SLANG, verse 2, in Appendix.

fiddler's bitch. See DRINKS, in Appendix.

fiddler's fare. Meat, drink, and money: coll.: ca. 1780–1850. (Grose.) Cf. fiddlers' pay.

Fiddler's heaven. The traditional heaven of sailors, esp. of those who die ashore: from ca. 1800, perhaps even earlier. W.N. Glascock, Sketch-Book (II, 169), 1826 (Moe). Bowen defines it as 'a place of unlimited rum and tobacco', and Granville as the 'Nautical Mohammedan paradise'.

fiddler's money. All small change, esp. sixpences: coll.: mid-C.18—early 19; since, dial. In C.18, each couple paid 6d. 'for musick at country wakes and hops' (Grose, 1st ed.). Cf.:

fiddler's pay. 'Thanks and wine' (B.E.): ca. 1660–1750: coll. Cf. prec. In C.16—early 17, fiddler's wages, which gen. = thanks (without even the wine): likewise coll.

fiddlestick. A spring saw: Scottish c.: ca. 1820–1910. Egan's Grose.—2. The male member: C.19–20, ob.; low. Cf. fiddle-bow.—3. A sword: late C.16–17 joc. Shakespeare.—4. Substituted for another word in joc. derision (hence coll.), as in "'He won a patriot's crown," said Henry. "A patriot's fiddlestick," replied Bill.' C.19–20. In this last sense, often (though not in C.20) replaced by fiddlestick's end, q.v.—5. For not care a fiddlestick, see not care a... fiddlestick's end(s). Nothing: late C.18—early 19: coll. (Grose, 2nd ed.) Cf. fiddlestick, 4.

fiddley. A £1 note: Aus.: since ca. 1920. (Baker.) In the pl., (?) fiddleys or fiddleys, it is generic for money. (Rats.) Apparently short for fiddley did, Aus. rhyming s. on quid. B., 1945.

fiddling, vbl n. A livelihood from odd street-jobs; esp. the selling of matches in the streets (M. Harrison, Spring in Tartarus, 1935): low coll. (—1851). Cf. fiddle, v., 3, q.v.—2. In low s. (—1850), buying very cheaply and selling at a good price.—3. In c. esp. among gamblers, gambling: mid-C.19—early 20. 'Ducange Anglicus'.

fiddling, adj. Swindling: mid-C.16–20. 'In the L.C.C. Survey of Southwark, at "Bankside" and referring to the Clink there is the following: "In a MS in the Bodleian Library dated 1580 is a satirical verse about 'fiddling knaves' confined in 'there ancient house... called ye Clynye...'" (With thanks to Mr E.J. Burford.)

fidfad, fid-fad. A 'fuss-pot', an habitual fusser; a fiddling trifle: coll.: from ca. 1750; ob. Goldsmith, 1754, 'The youngest... is... an absolute fid-fad.'

fidge. Fidgeting (habit, action); fidgetiness: C.18–20.—2. A fuss: C.19. Likewise coll. (when not dial.).—3. A fidgety person: coll. or dial.:—1884 (SOD). Also in phrase, be in a fidge, to be restless, fidgety. The term derives ex fidge, to fidget.

fidibus. A paper spill: cultured coll.:—1829; ob. by 1930. Ex C.17 Ger. students' s. OED; W.

fidlam- (or fidlum-*ben), late C.18–19 (Grose, 1st ed.); -cove, C.19. A general thief: c. Cf. fiddle, n., 1, and St. Peter's son.

Fids. 'The book is about FIDS, which came to mean not only the Falklands Islands Dependence Survey...', but also the men who worked for that organisation. The men were known as Fids, and the name stuck even when their organisation changed titles and became the British Antarctic Survey' (a review of Sir Vivian Funchs, Of Ice and Men, 1982).

fi-e-fie, occ. fi-fi. Of improper character (persons): coll.; from ca. 1810.—2. Hence, a woman of damaged repute: ca. 1820–1900.—3. Smutty, indecent: cultured coll.; from ca. 1860. ?begun by Thackeray, referring to Paul de Kock's novels.

fi-for-shame. The female genitals: schoolgirls': from ca. 1820. Cf. money.

field, n. In crop the field, to win easily: horse-racing: ca. 1870–1920. A double pun.—2. See come back to the field.

field, v.i. To back the field: turf coll.: from ca. 1870. B. & L.—2. To be a bookmaker operating on the course: Aus. racing: since ca. 1910. Lawson Glascock, Lucky Palmer, 1949. "Well, boys," he said. "On Thursday I'll be fielding at Nerridale. I'm a licensed bookmaker now."—3. As v.t. 'To support, take care of in swimming': Winchester College: mid-C.19–20. Wrench. Perhaps ex fielding at cricket.

Field-Grey. A German soldier: coll.: 1914. Ex the colour of his uniform (feldgrau). See esp. W.F. Morris's exciting war novel, Bretherton: Khaki or Field Grey?, 1929.

Field-Lane duck. A baked sheep's-head: late C.18–19. (Grose, 1st ed.) Ex a low London thoroughfare leading from the bottom of Holborn to Clerkenwell and, for the greater part, demolished ca. 1870.

field of wheat. A street: rhyming s.: late C.19–20; rare. G.H. McKnight, English Words, 1923.

field-running. The building of 'rickety houses rapidly over suburban fields': builders': ca. 1860–1910. (Ware.) Cf. the ease with which tongue-in-check barbarians (financiers, they call themselves) evade, and the cynicism with which Governments allow them to evade, the strictures on 'ribbon-development' in the 1930s.

fielder. One who backs the field, i.e. the rest, against the favourite: from ca. 1850. Also, a bookmaker: ca. 1865–90. The turf. Cf.:

fielding. The laying of odds against the favourite: horse-racing:—1874; ob. H., 5th ed.

fields of temptation. 'The attractions held out to young men at the university' (Egan's Grose): Oxford University: ca. 1820–40.

fierce. Objectionable, unpleasant; difficult, very inconvenient: current in S. Africa at least as early as 1908 and perhaps late C.19; in Brit. since ca. 1920. The second nuance is very ob.; the first is still current, late 1970s.—2. Exceptional in some way: US, anglicised ca. 1910. A.E.W. Mason, The Dean's Elbow, 1930, "'Such a one!" "A regular comic." "Fierce, I call him."

feri facias, to have been served with a writ of. Have a countenance habitually red: late C.16–20; in C.16–17, legal; in 18–19, gen.; in 20, † except in legal s.—and even there it is decidedly ob. (Cf. fi-fa, q.v.) Nashe, Dryden, Grose, H. Ex the English pron. of the L. phrase (lit., cause to be done!), with a pun on fiery face.

fiery furnace. See What the fiery...?

fiery lot. A fast man: coll.: ca. 1880–1900. Cf. hot stuff.

fiery snorter. A red nose, snorter being a nose: from ca. 1840; †. Sinks, 1848.

fiif. Fifteen, in calling lawn-tennis scores: (trivial) coll.: from ca. 1890.—2. Also of time: coll.: C.20. E.F. Benson, David of King's, 1924, "'Where and when?" "Two fiif. Our ground"' fifas or FIFAS. See fyfas.

fife and drum. The buttocks: rhyming s., on bum: C.20. Franklyn, Rhyming.

fifer. A waistcoat workman: tailors': from ca. 1860.

finella. See GREMLIN, in Appendix.

fifteen-puzzle, a. Confusion; incomprehensibility: coll.: middle-class coll.: ca. 1880–90. Ex a type of puzzle (movable cubes) very fashionable in 1879. Ware.

fifteen-two. A Jew: rhyming s.: an English adaptation, ca. 1945, of the American fifteen-and-two. Ex the cribbage score.

fifteen years (of) undetected crime. (Applied to) the long service and good-conduct medal: RN: since ca. 1895. (Bowen.) The army have to serve 18 years 'undetected' for their 'long-distance' medal, but they share the same idea. (P.B.)

fifteener. A book printed in C.16: bibliographical coll.: 1830. In C.20, S.E.

fifth business man. 'A [Can.] theatrical term that describes a character who is neither hero nor villain, but is nevertheless essential to the unfolding of the plot' (Leechman cites the Islander, Victoria, BC, 14 Mar. 1971). Ex US: Berrey & Van Den Bark, 1942, have it.

fifth pricker. 'One who signs on for a further five years' service after twenty years in the Royal Navy. He has, as it were, a "stab" at a fifth five' (Granville, 1962).

fifth rib, dig or hit or poke one under the. To hit hard; dumbfound: coll.:—1890. Ex C.17–19 S.E. smite under the fifth rib, i.e. to the heart.

fifty-fifty, adv. Equally; adj., equal: coll., orig. US; anglicised resp. ca. 1914, 1920. I.e., on a basis of 50%. (OED Sup.) In later C.20, most often in the phrase 'a fifty-fifty chance'.

Fifty-First State, the. 'Missile control room of British Polaris submarines': RN: since late 1960s. Peppitt cites John Winton, The Fighting Temeraire, 1971.

fifty-one A.R. A liar: schoolchildren's. London: C.20. I.e. LI = ar.

fifty up, have. To copulate: RN lowerdeck: since ca. 1920. (Cdr C. Parsons, RN, ret., 1977.) Cf. a nifty fifty, masturbation.

fig, occ. fig of Spain. A contemptuous gesture made by thrusting the thumb forth from between the first two fingers: whence not to care or give a fig for a person (see not care a...). In C.16–17 often as fico. Coll. Shakespeare, 'Fico for thy friendship'. Hence in give (someone) the fig, to defy with this gesture: late C.16–19.—2. The pudendum muliebre: C.19–20 (ob.) low. Semantically connected with the gesture.—3. A coin (value unknown) issued by a counterfeiter: c.:—1798 (OED). Also fig-thing.—4. A numerical figure: lower-middle class: late C.19–20. Neil Bell, Alpha and Omega, 1946.—5. In in full fig, in full dress: s., from ca. 1830 >, ca. 1880, coll. Dublin University Magazine, April 1835 (p. 388), 'It was alleged by his shipmates that he was rather fond of arraying himself in "full fig".' (Moe.) Perhaps ex feague, v.; perhaps fig-leaf; prob. abbr. figure. But see also fig out.

fig, v. To ginger (a horse): C.19–20; stables'. Bee. Ex feague, q.v.—2. In c., mid-C.16–18, v.i., to steal. Cf. feague and fake.

fig and post. Toast (bread): army rhyming s.: WW2. Franklyn, Rhyming, who suggests a corruption of synon. pig and roast.

fig-boy. A pickpocket: c. of ca. 1550–1620. (OED.) Ex fig, v., 2.

fig-leaf. A small apron worn by women: from ca. 1870; ob. (H., 5th ed.) Ex the fencing protective pad.

fig out, v.t. and reflexive. To dress in one's best: coll.; from ca. 1820; ob.

fig-thing; occ. figthing. See fig, n., 3.

fig up. To restore, reanimate, enliven: coll.:—1819. T. Moore, 'In vain did they try to fig up the old lad.' Ex fig, v., 1.

figaries. Roguery; pranks: low coll., mostly London:—1887 (Baumann). Ex the very gen. dial. form of vagaries.

figaro. A barber: cultured: ca. 1860–1930. (H., 3rd ed.) Ex the popularity of the opera, Le Nozze di Figaro.

figdean. To kill: c. of ca. 1810–80. (Lex. Bal.) ? ex Fr. figer.

figger, figure. See fagger and cf. diver.—2. A Levantine trading-ship or trader, orig. from Smyrna only: nautical: mid-C.19–20. (Bowen.) Ex the staple fig.

figging-law or occ. fagging-lay. Pocket-picking: c. of C.16–early 19, C.18–early 19. Ex fig, v., 2.

figgins. See figs.

figgy-dowdy and -duff. A boiled fruit-pudding: nautical coll.: mid-C.19–20, the former being used orig. and mainly by West Country seamen. Smyth (-dowdy); Bowen (both). Cf. Shropshire dial. figgetty-dumpling, a boiled pudding made with figs. Granville defines it as 'Any kind of suet pudding, whether or not it contains figs.'

fight. A party, as in tea-fight: coll.; from ca. 1870. Cf. worry. fight a bag of shit, not be able to. To be no good at fisticuffs: low Aus. coll.; from ca. 1905. More gen., not to be able to fight one's way out of a paper bag, which is also Brit. idiom: C.20. Var. punch one's way out... Cf. box kippers.

fight a prob. To pretend to fight: pugilistic:—1791 (Grose, 3rd ed.). Ex the bear-garden.

fight at the leg. 'To turn every event to good account' (Pierce Egan, The Life of Hayward, 1822): low: ca. 1810–50. Ex fencing or cross-stick?

fight bear – fight dog. To fight till one party is overcome: coll.: C.16–early 20. Aphra Behn; Scott.

fight between a fox and a chief steward, like a. 'A contest where any form of cheating, lying or crookedness is accepted and expected' (Peppitt): MN: since ca. 1940.

fight cocum. To be cunning, wary, artful, esp. if illicitly: from late 1830s. (Brandon, 1839; H., 1st ed.) Likewise, have cocum, to have luck or an advantage; be sure to succeed. Perhaps cognate with Ger. gucken, to peep or pry into. Also play cocum.

fight cunning. To 'box clever', q.v.: coll.: mid-C.18–early 20. James Woodforde, Diary, 6 Oct. 1781.

fight for love. Sessions, 5th session, 1734, 'Agreed to fight for Love, as they call it': pugilistic s. >, by 1800, coll. >, by 1830, S.E.

fight in armour. See armour, 2.

fight in silver. To fight in silver spurs: cockfighting coll.:—1823 (Bee).

fight like a threshing machine. To fight, esp. with the fists, very vigorously: Aus.: since ca. 1925. B., 1959.

fight like Kilkenny cats. See Kilkenny...

fight space with a hairpin. To attempt the impossible: Oxford University coll.: 1882–ca. 1914. Ware.

fight the old soldier. To shirk duty; sham sick: nautical: early C.19 (John Davis, The Post Captain, 1805, ed. R.H. Case, 1928). I.e. like an old soldier, q.v.

fight (or buck) the tiger. To play against the bank, orig. and esp. at faro: US (fight, 1851; buck, late C.19), anglicised ca. 1900, but never wholly acclimatised. Thornton.

fight-water. Spirituous liquor: Western Can.: late C.19–early 20. Leechman cites 'Cameron, New North (p. 373), 1909.' Also joy-juice.

fight (one's) way out of a paper bag... See fight a bag...

fighter boy. Any operational member—but esp. a pilot—of Fighter Command: RAF coll.: 1939+. Jackson.

fighter type. Synonym of prec.: RAF: since ca. 1940. John Brophy, Target Island, 1944.

Fighting Brigade, the. The 14th Regt of Foot. See Old and Bold, the.

fighting cats. The coat of arms on a warrant officer's lower sleeve: army: since ca. 1920. (H. & P.) A later var. is fighting dogs. Cf. Tate and Lyle. (P.B.)

fighting cobra (, old). Penis: RN joc., esp. HM Submarine Astute: mid-1960s. (John Malin, 1979.)

Fighting Cocks, the. No. 43 (Fighter) Squadron, RAF: ex the squadron badge. Paul Tilsley in the Listener, 13 July 1978.

fighting cove. A pugilist, esp. one travelling with fairs: low; mostly tramps':—1880.

fighting dogs. Var. of fighting cats.

fighting drunk. Quarrelsome tipsy: coll.: from ca. 1890. Fighting Eighth, the. The RN's coll. for 'The 8th Destroyer Flotilla, which deservedly earned the sobriquet in the war of 1939-45' (Granville).

Fighting Fifteenth. The 15th Hussars: military coll.: traditionally from 1760, ex their exploits at Emsdorff. F. & G. Fighting Fifth, the. The 5th Foot Regiment, in late C.19-20; the Northumberland Fusiliers: military coll.: from ca. 1810; ob. Also The Old Bold Fifth and Lord Wellington's Body Guard, both from ca. 1811; also The Shiners, from 1764. Cf. Fighting Fours and Fighting Ninth.

Fighting Fortieth. The Prince of Wales's Volunteers, before 1881 the 40th Foot Regiment: military coll.: mid-C.19-20. F. & G., 'Dating from the Sikh Wars of 1843 and 1848'.

Fighting Fours, the. The 44th Foot Regiment, from 1881 the Essex Regt.: military coll.:—1881 (Ware).

fighting irons. Army issue cutlery: WW2. J.B. Mindel, of Lower Galilee, recalls the term from his service with 4th (Durham) Survey Regt, RA. Cf. the more usu. eating irons.

Fighting Ninth, the. The 9th Foot, from 1881 the Norfolk Regiment: military coll.: C.18-early 20. Also The Holy Boys: from ca. 1810.

fightist. A fighter: joc. coll. OED cites the Daily News, 8 Oct. 1877. Cf. the American late C.19-early 20 shootist, a gun-fighter.

figlia. A child: figlia homey, a male child; figlia polone (or poloney), a female child: Parlyaree: late C.19-20. (Lester.) In the older Parlyaree, figlia is strictly a girl: cf. feele. In Italian, the m. form is figlio.

figs; occ. figgins. A grocer: coll.: from ca. 1870. Ex his commodities.

fig's end. A c.p. replacing another word: cf. fiddlestick's end and nothing. Coll.; C.17-18. Shakespeare.—2. Also, same period, as exclamation.

figure, n. A price; value; amount to be paid: coll.; from ca. 1840. In C.20, S.E. Sala, 1883, 'The "figure" to be paid to Madame Adeline Patti for her forthcoming season'.—2. (Esp. in no figure.) The female breasts and buttocks: coll.; from ca. 1870. The post-war term is curves.—3. A person untidy or, in appearance, grotesque (quite a figure, such a figure, etc.): coll., 1774. OED.—4. In in her figure, of a woman who 'walked in the open without a shawl': Midlands and lower North Country coll.: latish C.19-early 20. (Robert Roberts, A Ragged Schooling, 1976.) Cf. 2.—5. See fagger; take a figure; cut a figure.

figure, v. In billiards (—1891), to single out or 'spot'.—2. App. only as figure on, as in the Gentleman's Magazine, 1773, 'His antagonist... figured on him... at... whist, about £200,' i.e. totalled against him: non-proletarian; † by 1900. OED.—3. In it or that figures, lit. 'that works out correctly as a sum'; but often used ironically for 'that's just what one would expect': adopted, ex US, ca. 1955. (P.B.) figure-dancer. One who alters the face value of banknotes, cheques, bills, etc.: late C.18-19: c. (Grose, 2nd ed.) Ex S.E. sense, a performer in a figure-dance.

figure-fancier. One who prefers his 'women' to be large: low: ca. 1870-1910. Ex figure, n., 2.

figure-head. The face: nautical: from 1840 (in Marryat).

figure-maker. A wench: low: from ca. 1875. Ex figure, n., 2.

figure man. 'The principal figure in a picture. In French artists' language, le bonhomme': studios': from ca. 1860; ob. B. & L.

figure of fun. An oddity: coll.: from ca. 1810; slightly ob. Cf. figure, n., 3.

figure on. See figure, v., 2.

figure, occ. number, six. 'A lock of hair brought down from the forehead, greased, twisted spirally, and plastered on the face' (F. & H.): c. of ca. 1840-95. Mayhew, 'Hair... done in figure-six curls'. Cf. aggravator, q.v.

figurehead. See figure-head.

figures can't lie - but liars can figure. Aus. rejoinder to the eliché figures can't (or don't) lie: since ca. 1960. (B.P.)

filbert. A very fashionable man about town: Society: ca. 1900-20. Popularised by the song about 'Gilbert/The filbert/Colonel of the Nuts'. See nut.—2. The head, as in cracked in the filbert, q.v.

filch. A hooked stick or staff wherewith to steal: c.: C.17-18 (Fletcher, 1622 OED). Abbr. filchman, q.v. Grose gives var. filel: almost certainly a misprint for filer, q.v.—2. Something stolen: C.17-20, increasingly rare.—3. A thief: more gen. filcher: from ca. 1770. Ex the v.—4. In on the filch, on the watch for something to steal: c.:—1877 (anon., Five Years Penal Servitude).

filch, v. To steal; pilfer; rarely, rob: c. in mid-C.16-early 18, then low s.: in late C.19-20, low coll. (Awdelay.) Possibly ex filchman; perhaps, however, cognate with file, q.v.—2. To beat, strike: c.: mid-C.16-17. Cf. fib, v.

filcher. A thief, esp. an angler, q.v. In mid-C.16-18, c.; then low; in C.20, low coll. See filch, n., 2, and v., 1.

filching, vbl n. Theft, thieving, robbery: mid-C.16-20; c. until C.18, low until ca. 1850.

filching cove, mort. A male, female thief: late C.17-18: c. B.E., Grose.

filchman. A thief's hooked staff or stick: c.: mid-C.16-17; cf. filch, n., 1. (Awdelay, Head.) The man is prob. -man, -mans, the c. suffix. file; occ. foyl- or file-cloy. A pickpocket: mid-C.17-19 c. (Head; B.E.) Cf. bung-nipper and bulk, q.v.—2. Hence, a man, a chap; orig. a very cunning one: low (—1812). Vaux; Dickens. Often in combination, e.g. old file, an elder. Ob. The word may derive ex the tool; perhaps, however, it is connected with Fr. filou, a pickpocket: cf. also Fr. lime sourde (OED).

file, v. To pick pockets; to pick the pockets of; occ., to cheat: c.: late C.17-19 (B.E.). Cf. n., 1, and Fr. filouter.

file-cloy: C.17-18; in C.18 file-cly: whence file, n., 1, q.v. Cf.:

file lay, the. Pickpocketry: c.: C.18-early 19. (Captain Alexander Smith, The Life of Jonathan Wild, 1726.) See file, n., 1, and v. also as filng-lay.

file-lifter. Also a pickpocket: c. of ca. 1670-1800. Cf. file, n., 1.

file on to. To grab; take: Can.:—1932 (John Beames). Perhaps ex military j.

file 13. The office waste-paper basket, esp. when used for the disposal of either nonsense or insolubles: since ca. 1950. (P.B., 1974.)

filel. The same as filch, n., 1: q.v. as to form.

filer. A pickpocket: c. of ca. 1670-1800. Rare. Ex file, v. OED.

filng-lay. Pickpocketry: C.18-19. (Fielding.) Ex file, v. Cf. file lay.

fill, n. An artificial pneumo-thorax ('A.P.'): medical coll.: since the 1930s. Dymphna Cusack, Say No to Death, 1951.—2. In give (a person) a fill, to put on the wrong scent; to deceive: c.:—1909 (Ware).

fill a gentleman's eye. (Of a dog) to have thoroughly good points: sporting, esp. dog fanciers': from ca. 1870. Ware. fill in. To render (a woman) pregnant: low Aus. s.: C.20. Tom Ronan, Moleskin Midas, 1956.—2. To thrash, beat or 'duff up': orig., since ca. 1925, RN lowerdeck; since ca. 1950, fairly gen. among the less literate. 'Next time he says that to me, I'll fill him in' (P-G-R).—3. To inform or instruct (someone): coll.: since early 1940s. 'Can you fill me in on the drill' = please tell me how things are done here.

fill in (someone's) coupon. To attack a person's face with the jagged end of a smashed bottle: low Glasgow; later C.20. (John Stone, 1980.) Ex football coupons.

fill (one's) pipe. To be able to retire from work: coll.: ca. 1810-1910. Egan, 'According to the vulgar phrase, to fill their pipe'. Hence:-

fill (one's) pipe and leave others to enjoy it. To make a large fortune, which one's heirs or other relatives dissipate: 'a vulgar phrase,' says Pierce Egan in Life in London, 1821: coll.: ca. 1805-60.

fill the bill. To 'star': theatrical: ca. 1880-1910. Ex bill, a programme; fill refers to the large letters 'featuring' the star performer (W.).—2. Hence (?ex US) to be effective, very competent, and, now †, to be a whopping lie: coll.; from ca. 1885.—3. To fill a need: applicable in almost any circumstance, of the right thing at the right time in the right place, as, 'What've you got there—a number 5? That should just about fill the bill': coll.: since ca. 1950 at latest. (P.B.) A var. is fit the bill.

fillaloo. A din, an uproar: lower classes':—1923 (Manchon). A perversion of hullabaloo. In dial. (—1892) as filliloo or fillylloo (EDD).

filled. 'Repaired with glass fibre' (Woman's Own, 28 Feb. 1968): secondhand-car dealers': since ca. 1955. Implying cheap, or makeshift, repair.

filler. A large coil, used in filling-out a sack with illicit intent: c. of late C.16—early 17. Greene, A Notable Discovery, 1591.—2. That 'member of the editorial staff of a newspaper who provides fill-up matter written by himself or supplied by agencies' (Petch, 1974): journalistic coll.: since ca. 1910. Cf.—fillers. Fill-up matter: journalistic: since early C.20. (Leechman.) By the 'OXFORD -ER'.

fillet of cod. Sod, as a mildish pej.: later C.20. 'cheeky little fillet (of cod)' (Ronnie Barker, Fletcher's Book of Rhyming Slang, 1979).

fillet of veal. A prison: rhyming s. on the Steel, q.v.: c.—1857 ('Ducange Anglicus'); † by 1900.

filibrush. To flatter; praise insincerely, ironically: coll.: ca. 1860–90. (H., 2nd ed.)? ex filly, q.v.

Fillin Jim. See Phil and Jim.

filling at the price. Satisfying: coll.; from ca. 1840; ob. London Figaro, 28 May 1870, concerning baked potatoes. Perhaps ex Dickens's remark about crumpets in Pickwick, ch. xlv.

fillip. See give nature a fillip.

fillup(pe)y. Satisfying: ca. 1840–80. Cf. filling at the price.

filly. A girl; a wanton: from early C.17. Etherege, 'Skittish fillies, but I never knew 'em boggle at a man before.' It has, since ca. 1820, been, among the upper classes, a coll. and an entirely inoffensive word for a girl, a young unmarried woman. Pierce Egan the Elder, a very close observer of the speech of his day, glosses, in Finish to Tom, Jerry, and Logic, 1828, the phrase 'fillies of all ages', thus: 'This phrase is now so commonly used in a sporting point of view, without meaning any offence to the fair sex, that it would be almost fastidious to make any objections to it in this instance' (a race-meeting).—2. In C.19–20 c., a daughter. Ex Fr. fille; cf. feele, q.v.—3. 'A lady who goes racing pace in round dances': ballrooms' (—1909); virtually †. Ware.

filly and foal. 'A young couple of lovers scuntering apart from the world': proletarian:—1909; ob. Ware.

filly-hunting. A search for amorous, obliging, or mercenary women: C.19–20 low.

filchman. A C.16 var. (a misspelling) of filchman, q.v.

filter. A synonym (—1927; very ob.) of trickle, q.v. (Collinson.) Cf. ooze.

filth. A harlot: late C.16–17 coll. > S.E. and dial. Shakespeare.

filth, the. The police, members of the police force: c. (among the bosses of crime) and low s.: since ca. 1950. James Barlow, The Burden of Proof, 1968.—2. Esp. the Criminal Investigation Department: c., since mid-1950s; but by 1960, s. (G.F. Newman, Str, You Bastard, 1970.) Deputy Assistant Commissioner David Powis, QPM, of the Metropolitan Police, glossed it thus in The Signs of Crime, 1977: 'Filth: Specifically, dishonest policemen; generally, any police. Used only by confirmed and embittered criminals. Any extreme hypocrite, not necessarily in the police sense, might be so referred to.'

filthily. Very: C.20. (G. Heyer, Death in the Stocks, 1935, 'He was filthily offensive.'): Ex:

filthy. A C.20 coll., pej. and intensive adj., applied e.g. to an entertainment, holiday, present, etc., etc. (Ian Hay, Pip, 1907; Collinson.) Cf. foul. It occurs in Devonshire dial. as early as 1733 (EDD) in the sense: excessive. Cf. the Oxfordshire 'I be in a filthy temper' (EDD Sup.; 1905). P.B.: in later C.20, prob. most often in non-pej.—though envious—phrase, 'Of course, he's filthy rich', i.e. very wealthy; cf. stinking rich. Poss. influenced by the filthy, abbr., since ca. 1875, of filthy lucre.

filthy fellow. A mild endearment: coll.: C.18. H.C.K. Wyld in Spectator, 22 Apr. 1938.

filthy lucre. Money: joc. coll. (in C.20, S.E.). An early occurrence is in Mrs Gaskell, Cranford, 1853.

fimble-famble. A poor excuse or an unsatisfactory answer: coll.: C.19. Ex the ideas implicit in S.E. famble, fimble, and fumble.

fin. An arm; a hand: nautical > gen.: late C.18–20. Grose, 1st ed. (one-finned, having only one arm); Dickens; Thackeray. Tip the fin, to shake hands: from ca. 1850; ob. by 1930; by 1950, †.—2. Var. of fen! = fain I, q.v., the children's call for truce.—3. 'A fin is a five-dollar bill, ex the large V (five) which marks it and looks like a fin. A ten-dollar bill is a sawbuck, from the X it bears.' (Leechman.) But, as Robert Claiborne points out, it is just as likely to be derived from finnif, q.v., of which it is an abbr. anyway.

final. The latest newspaper-edition on any given day: from ca. 1920, coll.: by mid-1930s > S.E. (COD, 1934 Sup.)—2. The fourth round in a pub drinking-session. See swing o' the door.

final gallop, the. An orgasm. See anchors, 3.

finals. (Orig. at Oxford.) The last of a series of examinations, esp. for bachelors' degrees: coll.: from ca. 1894. Grant Allen (SOD).

finance. A fiancé, esp. if rich: joc. cultured; also Society s.: from ca. 1905. ? ex US. Cf. fiasco, q.v.

financial. In funds: Aus.: C.20. Jice Doone, to be a financial member, to have paid one's due subscription. Hence the query 'Are you financial?' = 'Have you got any cash?': since late 1940s. (Camilla Raab.)

find, n. A mess of three or four upper-form boys, breakfasting or teating in one another's rooms in turn. Hence, find-fag, a younger boy attending to a 'find's' wants. Harrow: late C.19–20; ob. See also on find.—2. A person worth knowing (e.g., of a 'daily help', 'She was a real find, a treasure'), a thing worth having: coll.: C.20.—3. See a sure find.

find, v. To suffer from, feel to an unpleasant extent (esp. the temperature): coll. (ob.) and dial. in C.19–20; formerly, S.E. OED.—2. To steal: Services': WW1 and ever since. 'To "pick up" something which is needed by your section. Finding is generally less selfish than fiddling, and more silent than scrounging' (H. & P.). Cf. earn, win; also make. Perhaps reminiscent of the C.16–18 proverbial find things before they are lost. Cf. Ger. finden in military s.; note, too, that Cæsar uses invenire thus in his Galic Wars.

find a pie. To find a person willing to make a small loan or to offer a drink: theatrical: C.20. See pie.

find an elephant in the moon. To find a mare's nest: ca. 1670–1830. Butler, The Elephant in the Moon. Ex the C.17 Sir Paul Neal, who thought that a mouse in his telescope, as he looked through it, was an elephant in the moon.

find cold weather. To be ejected: public houses' (—1909); ob. Ware. Cf. give (a person) the key of the street.

find-fag. See find, n., 1.

find fault with a fat goose. To grumble without cause: coll.: late C.17–19. B.E.

find, feel, fuck – and forget. An RN, mostly lowerdeck, sexual motto: since ca. 1890. In C.20 often alluded to as the four F method.

find fish on (one's) fingers. To devise and/or allege an excuse: late C.16—early 17: coll. Greene. (Apperson.)

find it. To back a winner: turf c.: C.20.

find something. To obtain a job: coll.: mid-C.19–20. 'Found anything yet?'

finder. A thief, esp. in a meat-market: c., from ca. 1850. H., 1st ed.—2. A waiter: university, esp. Gonville & Caius College, Cambridge: C.19.

finders (or F-). The observers or range-finding section, or 'experts', of an artillery unit: army coll.: WW1. Petch cites W. Douglas Newton, Over the Top, 1917.

fine, n. A punishment, esp. imprisonment: Hence, v., to sentence: c.: C.19–20 (ob.). Lex. Bal. A revival of C.16–18 S.E.

fine, adj. Very large: coll., from ca. 1830. (Cf. wee little.) Often followed by big, large, etc. OED.

fine. Very near, as in cut fine, q.v.

fine a fellow as ever crossed tit's back (, as). A very fine fellow: either c. or low:—1887 (Baumann). See tit, 1.

fine and dandy. Brandy: later C.20. Rhyming Cockney Slang, ed. Jack Jones, 1971.

fine and large, all very. Expresses ironic admiration. See all very large ...

fine as a cow turd stuck with primroses. Very fine; always satirical. Coll. (low): late C.18–early 19. Grose, 2nd ed.

fine as a fiddle. In good health, condition, form: coll.: late C.16–19. In Haughton's Englishmen for My Money, acted in 1598. See also fit as a fiddle.

fine (occ. proud) as a lord's bastard. Richly dressed or lodged: mid-C.17–18 coll.; semi proverbial. Apperson.

fine as fivepence or fip(p)ence. Very fine; 'all dressed up': coll.: from ca. 1560. Wycherley, 'His mistress is as fine as fippenice, in embroidered satens.' Ex that coin's brightness. Cf. neat as or right as ninepence. Dial. (see Apperson) has some picturesque variants; coll. English, grand for fine.

fine as frog's hair. Fine, whether of dimension or of physical well-being; Can.: since ca. 1910. (Leechman.)

fine day for quacks, a. 'A fine market day, good for the grafters' (Petch, 1971): C.20. A pun on medical quacks; on quackings, evocative of ducks, and on-fine day for the (young) ducks. An exceedingly wet day: C.19–20, ob. The C.20 prefers great or lovely weather for ducks. Coll. Cf. fine weather ... fine day for travelling (, it's a). 'The time-honoured phrase that means notice to quit all over the outback' (Wilkes, quoting Daily Mirror, 18 Mar. 1953): Aus.: C.20.

fine days. See one of these fine days.

fine(-)drawing. The sly accomplishment of one's (gen. illicit) purpose: tailors': from ca. 1860; ob. Very delicate stitching being almost invisible.

fine fellow but his muck (or shit) stinks, (he's) a. He's only human after all: proletarian c.p.: C.20.

fine ham-an'-haddie! All nonsense: Glasgow: C.20. Cf. gammon and spinach.

fine madam. A woman above her station: pej. coll.: from ca. 1800.

fine morning to catch herrings on Newmarket Heath, a. The mid-C.17–mid-C.18 equivalent of fine weather for ducks, i.e. very wet. (Apperson.) Cf. fine day for the ducks.

fine night to run away with another man's wife, a. An elab. of 'It's a fine night': late C.16–early 19. Florio; Rowley; Swift (a delicate night). Apperson.

fine old Midlothian name! a. A c.p. uttered at the mention of any glaringly non-British personal name: I first heard it in the mid-1950s. 'Ah! Attanakowicz, eh! A fine old ...' (P.B.)

fine print, n. and adj. The details; detailed: coll.: later C.20. 'But the fine print became inescapable when the question of the Charter and Statutes arose yet again' (Loughborough University of Technology Gazette, Apr. 1979, report on Council and Senate activities). Ex the fine print, the footnotes and appendices printed in small type, which contain the company's escape clauses in, e.g., insurance contracts.

fine Scot. A person quick to anger: an earlier C.19 var. of Scot, 1, q.v.

fine twig, in. Finely, splendidly: low:—1812 (Vaux). See gammon the twelve.

fine weather for ducks (!) (Very) wet weather: coll.: 1840, Dickens (Apperson). Later variants, also in Aus. (B.P.), are great, or nice, or lovely weather ... Wilkes notes the Aus. intensive, since later C.19, wet enough to bog a duck, esp. of rain-sodden ground.

392

fine words butter no parsnips! A sarcastic comment on fine-sounding statements or promises: coll. (C.20, S.E.); from ca. 1750. C.17 variants are fair words, or those words, and mere praise, etc.

finee; occ. finni (q.v.) or finny or finnee. 'Done for'; no more (of supplies): military: late 1914. Ex Fr. fini. Cf. finish, q.v. B. & P.

finee (etc.) kapout (or kaput). 'Napoo' or 'finee', qq.v., but much less gen.: army: 1916. Via Fr. Army s. ex Fr. capot (W.) or ex L. caput, the head. B. & P., 'In surrendering to the French, Germans would often say, "Kamarade, pas kapout," i.e. Don't shoot, don't kill me! To which the answer was often, perhaps, "Fini kapout." Dauzat gives: "Capout: tué... véritable mot passe-partout, qui signifie tour à tour 'fini, abîmé, cassé, tué.'" P.B.: why not straight ex Ger. synon. kaput?

finerling, vbl n. (The v. is very rare.) The ordering of specially made goods and the subsequent refusal to take them unless credit be allowed: C.18. (Goldsmith.) Perhaps rather unassimilable than coll. Ex Dutch finerlen, to amass riches.

finger, n. Abbr. finger and thumb, q.v., a road: 1868 (Ware).—2. 'An eccentric or amusing person' (C.J. Dennis): low Aus.:—1916. Julian Franklyn suggests, 'Possibly a mispronunciation of figure (a figure of fun).'³—3. A 'term of contempt for man or woman': c.:—1933 (George Ingram). Poss. same as sense 2; cf. also finger of scorn, a contemptible fellow (EDD).—4. An official: busmen's: from ca. 1930. Daily Herald, 5 Aug. 1936.—5. See take your finger out!—6. In a bit for the finger, an extremely intimate caress, the recipient being a woman: low: C.19. Cf.:-

finger, v. To caress a woman sexually: low coll.: from ca. 1800. Cf. feel.—2. By a specialisation of the S.E. finger, to point at: to nominate a person for a job: coll.: since ca. 1965; prob. ex US, an extension of put the finger on, q.v. (P.B.)

finger and thumb. A road: c. rhyming on gipsy drum, q.v.: late C.19–20.—2. Rum: gen. rhyming s.:—1851 (Mayhew, I). 'Ducange Anglicus', 1857, records it as finger-thumb, a form soon > rare.—3. A companion or 'mate': rhyming s., on chum: since ca. 1930.

finger bowl. An outdoor cinema: Can.: since ca. 1960. 'Ex U.S. sports arenas, the Rose Bowl, the Orange Bowl, etc.' (Leechman.)

finger-fuck, v.i. (Of women only) to masturbate: low coll.: C.19–20.—2. V.t. To caress a woman intimately or, homosexually, a man: low: C.20. Vbl n. in -ing.

finger in the eye, put. To weep. See pipe the eye.

finger in the mortar. See mortar, 3.

finger of suspicion points at you!, the. Cliché of the old-style crime-story, ca. 1870–1940, that has, since ca. 1925, > humorous c.p., often used in the most trivial circumstances. (P.B.)

finger on, put the. To point (a wanted man) out to the police: c.: C.20. Adopted ex US. [To have the] finger on=to be accused: prisoners': 1970s. (Home Office.)

finger out! A frequent shortening of get or take your finger out!

finger-post. A clergyman: late C.18–20. (Grose, 2nd ed.) He points out the way to heaven, but does not necessarily follow it himself. 'Do as I say, not as I do.'

finger-smith. A midwife: C.19–20; low. Vaux.—2. In c., a thief, a pickpocket:—1823; ob. Egan's Grose.

finger-thumb. See finger and thumb, 2.

finger-tight, adj. and adv., as in 'Just make the nuts finger-tight and I'll follow you around with the spanner': coll.: C.20; also, since ca. 1930, Aus. (B.P.) As tightly as possible with the fingers.

finger trouble; esp. in 'He has'—or 'He's suffering from'—'finger trouble': He's lazy; he is given to procrastination: RAF: since ca. 1935. (Gerald Emanuel, 1945.) Ex take your finger out!, q.v.

finger up (or well in), have the. Synonym of prec.: mostly army: 1940+.

fingerer. One who, from sexual irritation, is constantly fingering him(her)self: coll.: late C.19–20.

Fingers. Nickname for a pickpocket: c.: C.20; by 1930, at latest, also police s. John Gosling, The Ghost Squad, 1959.

fingers! 'Hurry up, get a move on!'; abbr. of take your finger out, q.v.: army: WW2+. (P.B.)

fingers, in Nottinghamshire expressions for 'to get drunk': to see the ends of one's fingers; to want to know which side of one's finger the nail grows; to look at one's little finger. The last also = to be addicted to drinking. E.L. Guilford, in Transactions of the Thoroton Society of Nottinghamshire, 1932. (With thanks to Mr Eric Oldham.)

fingers are made of lime-twigs, (e.g.) his. He is a thief: coll.: late C.16–mid-18. Harington, 1596; Bailey, 1736. (Apperson.) Cf. the C.20 synon. sticky-fingered.

fingers crossed. See keep (one's) fingers crossed...

fings ain't wot they used ter (or to) be. A c.p., orig. Cockney, current since Frank Norman's Fings Ain't Wot They Used t'Be (lyrics by Lionel Bart), 1960.

finny or finjy! An exclam. of protest: Winchester College: from ca. 1840. Cf. and see fin, fen, and esp. fain II fini. A rare var. of finee.

finick. A finicky person: Aus. coll.: since ca. 1925. (B.P.) Ex synon. Eng. dial. fin(n)ick.

finickerty. Finicky: Aus.: since ca. 1935. (B.P.) A blend of finicky + pernickety.

finicky Dick. A finicky person: Aus.: since late 1930s. (B.P.)

finif, finip. See finnif and finith.

finish, n. The 'end' of a person by death, social, professional, physical run: low coll.; from ca. 1820. Cf. finish!, q.v.—2. Methylated spirits: c.—1932. Perhaps because drinking it leads to, and is, sense 1. Hence, a finish-drinker, one who drinks methylated spirits. See also feke.—3. See Finish.

finish, v. To kill; exhaust utterly, render helpless: from ca. 1600; S.E. until ca. 1830, then coll. Cf. settle.

finish! I'm (or he's, etc.) done-for!: that's the end of it!: orig. (1915) military. Poss. influenced by finee, q.v.; cf. finish, n.

Finish, the. A Covent Garden (opp. Russell St) coffee-house (Carpenter's, says Bee) at which those making 'a night of it' finished very early in the morning: late C.18–early 19. Grose, 3rd ed.—2. Hence (without the and uncapitalised), any such house of entertainment: C.19. Thackeray.

finish-drinker. See finish, n., 2.

finished, be. To have finished (v.t. or absolute): loose coll.: C.20.

finisher. Something constituting, a person administering, the final or decisive blow or touch: coll. (orig. pugilistic): from ca. 1815.

finith or finif. Five; e.g. finith to fere, (odds of) 5 to 4: racing c.: C.20. Of same origin as finnif, q.v.

finitol Exclam. of completion: Aus.: since ca. 1950. The It. finito, finished. Also occ. use in UK.

finjy. See finjy.

fink. An unpleasant, esp. if felt to be untrustworthy, person: Can.: adopted, ca. 1965, ex US. (Leechman.) See fink in Underworld. May be intensified to ratfink.—2. See I don't think!

finkydiddle. Synon. with—and prob. a var. of—firkytoodle: late C.19–20, but seldom heard after 1945.

finn. See finnif.

finned. See fin, n., 1.

finnee. See finee.

finni. See finee. Dorothy L. Sayers, The Five Red Herrings, 1931, 'I says, finni? meaning, is that O.K.? complet? 'ave yer done?'

finnie (or -y) haddock. Finnan haddock: Cockney coll. or sol.: C.19. Mayhew, I, 1851.

fin(n)if, -ip, -uf(f), -up; occ. derivatively funny, finn, fin; in C.20, occ. finnio (Chas. E. Leach). A £5 note, hence double finnif (etc.) = a £10 note, and ready finnif (etc.) = ready money. B. & L. defines finnup ready as 'a five-pound note'. C.: from ca. 1835; in C.20, often heard in low racing s. Brandon (1839); Snowden, Magistrate's Assistant, 1846 (OED). Ex Ger. fünf, five, via Yiddish.

finny. See finee.

fin, put out (one's). To bestir oneself: C.15 (?—C.16); coll. Paston Letters. (OED.)

Finsbury Park, often shortened to Finsbury. An arc light: cinematic technicians' rhyming s.: since ca. 1945. 'Cut the Finsburies!' (Dallas Bower, 1956.)

finuf or finup. See finnif.

fi'pence, fippence. Five pence: coll.: C.17–20. Cf. US fi.

fi(p)penny. A clasp knife: Aus. c.: ca. 1860–1910. Ex England, where recorded by Vaux in 1812. OED.

fire. Danger; on fire, dangerous: C.19 c.—2. See pass through the fire; house on fire; there's been a fire.

fire, v. To dismiss; expel: orig. (—1885), US; anglicised ca. 1905, though (says Ware) reaching England in 1896. Punning discharge (W.). It occurs rather earlier in Morley Robert's once-famous Western Avernus, 1887, therefore prob. fairly common by late 1890s.

fire a good stick. To be an excellent shot: shooting coll: from ca. 1840. The stick is the gun or rifle; suggested by play a good stick.

fire a gun. To introduce a subject unskillfully, late C.18–19; lead up to a subject: C.19. Coll. ?ex military s. Grose, 2nd ed.—2. To take a (strong) drink: late C.18–mid-19. George R. Gleig, The Subaltern's Log-Book (I, 208), 1828. (Moe.) Cf. fire a slug.

fire a shot. (Of the man in coitu) to have an emission: C.19–20 low.

fire a slug. To drink a dram: late C.18–20 (ob.); orig. military. Grose, 2nd ed.

fire-alarms. Arms: rhyming s.: C.20. B. & P.

fire-and-light(s). A master-at-arms: naval coll. (and nickname): late C.18–19. Bowen.

fire away. (Gen. an imperative.) To go ahead: coll.: from ca. 1770. FitzGerald.

fire-box. 'A man of unceasing passion': ca. 1900–15. Ware classifies it as 'passionate pilgrims'.

Fire Brigade, the. A brigade held in reserve in the UK, in a high state of readiness, to be sent anywhere in the world at very short notice to combat 'brush-fire wars': army coll. > j.: since late 1940s. (P.B.)

fire-eater. A rapid worker: esp. among printers and tailors: ca. 1840–1920.—2. A bully; duellist: ca. 1820–1900: coll. > S.E.—3. In the 1860s, a 'swell', esp. if inclined to boast.—4. In C.20, esp. during and after WW1, an excessively belligerent person, esp. if under no necessity to fight: coll. Cf. the S.E. and the US usages, the orig. sense being that of a juggler that 'eats fire'. Hence adj., fire-eating.

fire-escape. A clergyman: ca. 1850–1930. Cf. devil-dodger.

fire-fiend. An incendiary: coll.:—1897 (OED).

fire-flaw. A sting-ray: nautical coll.: C.19–20. (Bowen.) Corruption of fire-flair.

fire in the air. 'To shoot in the bush', i.e. to ejaculate externally: low: C.19–20.

fire out. Same as (to) fire, q.v. (In US, 1885; in England by 1896, says Ware.)

fire place. A denture: railwaymen's joc.: mid-C.20. McKenna, Glossary, p. 35.

fire-plug. A (young) man venerably infected: low (1823); † by 1890. (Bee.) Suggested by fire-ship, q.v.

fire-prigger. One who, pretending to help, robs at fires: c. or low: C.18–early 19. See prigger and esp. Defoe's Moll Flanders.

fire-proof. Invulnerable; esp. in fuck you, Jack, I'm fire-proof, RAF c.p.: since ca. 1930. Cf. the RAF pun on the RAF motto (Per ardua ad astra): 'Per ardua asbestos'. (Partridge, 1945.) An adaptation of the century-old RN fuck you, Jack, I'm all right. Fire-proof soon spread to the army. Cf. bomb-proof.—2. Hence, unimpeachable when trouble threatens: since ca. 1937.

fire(-)ship. A venerably diseased whore: low: ca. 1670–1850. Wycherley (OED); B.E.

fire-shovel. See fed with a fire-shovel...

fire-siders. Men that 'keep the home fires burning' (don't enlist): military: 1915-18.

fire-spaniel. A soldier apt to sit long by the barrack-room fire: military: from ca. 1870; ob. by 1910, † by 1918.

fire up, v.i. To light one's pipe: coll.: from ca. 1890. Ex a furnace.

fire-watcher. One who hugs the fire, the stove, etc., when duty calls him into the cold and the wet: Services, esp. Army: since ca. 1910. H. & P. Cf. fire-spaniel, which it superseded, and 'home-guard' as used by American tramps (see Underworld).

fire(-)water. Very fiery spirits: ex US (—1826), anglicised ca. 1850: coll. that, by ca. 1890, is S.E. 'Awful firewater we used to get' (T. Hughes in Tom Brown at Oxford). It was perhaps so called because if one applied a match, the drink caught fire. 'The more sophisticated Indian tribes would not accept firewater that would not ignite with a match. 1800 on to ca. 1875.' (Leechman).—2. See bang-water.

fireboy. A locomotive fireman: Can. railroadmen's:—1931. fire's gone out, the. The engine has stopped: FAA: 1940+. P-G-R.

fireside and featherbed. 'Derogatory for a shore billet' (Pepitt): RN: since ca. 1950.

fireworks. A brilliant display of skill or virtuosity: C.19-20 coll. > S.E.; often pej.—2. Among tailors, ca. 1870-1915, a great disturbance or intense excitement.—3. Rockets, searchlights, star-shells, etc., over the front line: joc. army coll: 1915-18. F. & G.—4. Hence, severe anti-aircraft fire: RAF, esp. among bomber crews: since 1939. Berrey, 1940; H. & P.—5. (Also ex 3.) A copious dropping of flares: RAF: since 1940. Partridge, 1945.

fireworks on the brain, have. To be flustered: coll.: ca. 1870-1905. Cf.:

fireworks out of (a person), knock. To make him see stars: joc.—1923. Manchon, 'Lui faire voir trente-six chandelles.'

firing line. See in the firing line.

Firinghee. A var. of Feringhee, q.v.

firk. To beat: late C.16-19, coll. > S.E. ? cognate with feague and fig, v.v.—2. See WINCHESTER, §5, in Appendix.

firkdn. A thingummy, a 'doofer': orig. RAF, since ca. 1925; by 1950 well known also in the army. (Gerald Emanuel, 1945; P.B., 1979.) Ex the frequency with which one hears 'the fucking thing' or, euphemistically, 'the firkng thing!' Cf. doobri-firkin, q.v.

firkdn of foul stuff. 'A very Homely'—i.e. plain—'coarse corpulent woman' (B.E.): low: late C.17-mid-18.

firkytoodle (with frequent vbl n., firkytoodling). To indulge in physically intimate endearments, esp: in those provocative caresses which constitute the normal preliminaries to sexual congress: coll.: C.17-19. Cf. firk, q.v.

firm. An association of two, three or four boys for the purchase and consumption of provisions: Shrewsbury School: late C.19-20. Desmond Coke, The Bending of a Twig, 1906.—2. A criminal gang, of e.g., burglars: c.: since ca. 1950. Peter Crookston, Villain, 'I blew a couple of peters for our firm.'—3. Powis notes sense 2 and adds, 'also humorously used to describe a particular squad of detective officers, especially a closely knit and comradely band': police: 1970s.—4. A criminal set-up, e.g. between CID man (or men) and a gang: c., and police s.: since early 1950s. G.F. Newman, Sir, You Bastard, 1970.—5. A gang following a leader, among young, violence-prone, football supporters: late 1970s. Ian Walker in New Society, 13 Sep. 1979.—6. See long firm, a type of credit fraud, and:

Firm, the. Messrs J.C. Williamson, who own and operate theatres in Aus. and NZ; coll., mostly there; and there in the world of entertainment: since ca. 1920. (B.P.)—2. The registrar, the house physician and the house surgeon, with an attendant junior taking notes (and known as 'the clerk'); medical, esp. hospitals: since ca. 1930.

firmed, well. See well firmed.

Firpo— or Chowringhee—Star. The 1939-45 Star: servicemen's (esp. RAF), mostly among those with long service in India: 1945+. 'Chowringhee is Calcutta's Regent Street, Piccadilly and Leicester Square; it houses Firpo's Restaurant' (RAF correspondent).

first, a. A first-class degree: (? mid-)C.19-20. Likewise second, third, fourth. See also two-one.—2. A First Lieutenant: RN coll.: C.19-20. W.N. Glascock, The Naval Sketch-Book, 2nd series, 1834, at I, 91, and 268. (Moe.)

first and first. First Class for leave and for conduct: RN coll.: since ca. 1920. P-G-R.

first cab on the rank, be (the). To be the prime suspect: Aus.: since ca. 1950. (B.P.)

first catch your hare. A latter-day proverb, 'make sure you have everything necessary before starting an enterprise': a misquotation from 'A Lady' (Mrs Hannah Glasse), The Art of Cookery, 1747: 'Take your hare when it is cased', or skinned. See DCpp.

first-chop. First-rate. See chop, n.

first(-)class. Exceedingly good: coll.: 1870 (W.J. Lewis). 'From the universities [first-class degree] via the railways', while 'first-rate is from the navy' (W.).—2. As adv.: extremely well: 1895. (SOD.) Cf. first-rate, q.v.

first-class rock. Naval Boy, 1st Class: RN: since ca. 1920. Granville.

first-classer. A person, thing, of the first class: coll.: 1925. OED Sup.

First Fleeter. 'One who arrived in Australia with the First Fleet in 1788, usually a convict; a modern descendant of the arrivals on the First Fleet' (Wilkes): Aus.

first flight, in the. Active, or first in, at the finish of a race or a chase: from ca. 1850: coll. ? ex fox-hunting. Contrast the S.E. sense.

first-floor. The tenant or lodger occupying the first floor: coll.: from ca. 1860. OED.

first game ever played, the. Sexual congress: coll. rather than euph.: C.19-20.

first-night wreckers. A theatrical coll. (1882-5) for a band of men intent on spoiling first nights. Ware.

first-nighter. A habitué of first (orig. theatrical) performances: from ca. 1885: journalistic s. >, ca. 1900, gen. coll., and, ca. 1910, S.E. Baumann.

first oars. See oars, 2.

first of May. The tongue: low:—1857; † by 1920. ('Ducange Anglicus'.) It is, as Julian Franklyn has shown, 1960, extant in its strict sense 'say' (firm speech, declaration) and is, of course, rhyming s.

first of the moon. 'Settling day, after pay': naval: C.20. (Bowen.) I.e. of the month.

first on the top-sail and last at the beef-kid. (Of an AB) perfect: RN c.p.:—1909; ob. Ware; Bowen implies that it dates well back into C.19. The kid is a wooden container for carrying beef from galley to mess-deck.

first pop. At the first attempt; on the first occasion: late C.19-20. For at the first pop: cf. pop, give it a: cf. pop, give a.

first(-)rate, adv. Excellently; in good health: coll.: from early 1840s. (The adj., C.17-20, S.E.) See first-class.

first-rater. A person or thing that is first-rate: from ca. 1805; coll. till C.20; then S.E.

first reader. Conductor's train book: Can. railroadmen's:—1931. With pun on schoolchildren's first reader (or reading book).

first seven years are the worst, the, often intro. by cheer up! Army c.p., orig. of 1915-18, esp. of the winter of 1916-17, of Job's comfort: 'ironic with a joc. despair'. (B. & P.) The seven years referred to the term of a regular soldier's service, 'seven with the colours, five on reserve'. The idea, if not the period, remained in the army's consciousness to re-emerge, for the 2-year national service men (1948-62), as 'The first two years are the worst'. See this, and similar entries, at first... in DCpp. (P.B.)

First Tangerines, the. See Tangerines.

first term too early, second term too cold, third term too late. Aus., esp. Sydney, undergraduates' c.p.: since ca. 1925. Cf. their freshers work first term, nobody works second term, everybody works third term. (B.P.) The theme, and variations, may still be heard in UK universities, 1980s. (P.B.)

first thing. Early in the morning or the day: coll.: mid-C.19–20. 'The boss wasn't here first thing.'

first turn of the screw cancels all debts! 'Catch phrase used when someone is worried about his dues ashore. A cheer-up from a messmate' (Granville): RN: since late 1940s. The ship's screw, of course.

first up, adv. First time; at the first attempt: Aus.: C.20. B., 1942. Ex the game of two-up.

fish-free-feverns on a fish's froat, occ. prec. by free fahsand free 'undred and. 'The two-way dialect speech classic chaffing formula of and by Cockneys' (L.A.): c.p.: since at least as early as 1930.

fisgig. See fiz(z)-gig.

fish. A seaman; hence scaly fish, a rough, blunt sailor: late C.18–early 19. Grose, 1st ed.—2. A man. Gen. derogatively. Always in such combinations as cool fish, loose f., odd f. (prob. influenced by odd fellow), queer f. (after queer bird), scaly f. († by 1920), shy f. Coll.: from ca. 1750, queer being the earliest, though odd and scaly are also of C.18; loose (—1831); cool (—1861); shy (—1891). (OED; F. & H.) Also often, in C.20, poor fish, a weak or inferior fellow. Orig., presumably, an angler's term (W.).—3. A piece, often collectively = pieces, cut out of a garment to ensure a better fit: tailors'; from ca. 1870; ob.—4. The female pudend: low: from ca. 1850.—5. An instance or an act of fishing, esp. in have a fish: coll.; (?—)1880. OED.—6. A whale: whalers' coll.: C.19–20. Bowen.—7. In oaths, as God's fish! (more gen. Odds fish!): C.18. Here 'fish' is euph. for 'flesh'.—8. One who plays a game where he has no chance of winning: Can. carnival s.: since ca. 1920. Ex US c. for 'newcomer' (in a prison): see Underworld.—9. Short for tin fish, torpedo: RN: since ca. 1918. Robert Harling, The Steep Atlantick Stream, 1946.—9. In a bit of fish, coition: low: mid-C.19–early 20. See 4.—10. See all is fish ...; catch fish ...; drink like a fish.—11. As the Fish, this well-known Aus. train serves the commuters between Sydney and the towns and townships of the Blue Mountains to the west: since the early 1920s. Two or three of the first crew had 'fish' surnames. Its journeys start earlier than those of the Chips, q.v. (B.P.; Mrs Camilla Raab.)

fish-and-chip van. old Sentinel steam coach: railwaymen's: ca. 1890–1940. Railway, 2nd.

fish and find out! Evasive reply to an unwelcome question: coll.: ca. 1890–1930.

fish-bagger. A suburban tradesmen's derisive term of ca. 1880–1915 for 'those who live in good suburbs without spending a penny there beyond rent' (Graphic, 27 Sep. 1884: Ware).

fish-broth. Water, esp. if salt: joc. coll.: late C.16–20; ob. Nashe, 'Belly-full of fish-broath'.

fish(-)eater. A Nova Scotian: Can.: C.20. (Leechman, who cites a book published in 1950.)

fish-eyes. Tapioca pudding: nautical: late C.19–20. (Bowen.) A C.20 var. is fishes' eyes. (Granville.) Cf. frog-spawn. Ex the appearance of that dish.

fish-face. A coll. term of abuse: since ca. 1620. Fletcher (OED).

fish-fag. A vixenish or foul-mouthed woman: coll.: ca. 1810–1910. (Moe cites Alfred Burton, Johnny Newcome, 1818.) Ex S.E. sense, a Billingsgate fishwife.

fish-fosh. Kedgerees: Cockney:—1887; slightly ob. (Bau-mann.) Reduplication on fish.

fish-gunners. The Royal Marine Artillery, which ceased to exist as a separate body in 1923: RN: mid-C.19–early 20. Bowen; Gaylor.

fish-gut (or written solid). 'Nova Scotia slang for a person who makes a living by fishing rather than by farming': C.20. (Leechman.)

Fish-Head Hall. At the RN Engineering College, at Manadon, Plymouth, a wing in which officers specialising in Marine Engineering are accommodated: RN: since ca. 1946. Granville.

fish-head sailor. A salt-water fisherman: the Can. Maritime Provinces': since (?)ca. 1920. Leechman quotes from Canada North, Dec. 1961.

fish-heads. 'Salthorse' officers—'those who go down to the sea in ships as opposed to going up in the air' FAA: (Granville): since ca. 1944.—2. The Navy to the other two Services; the Seaman Branch to the Technical Branches of the RN: since ca. 1950. Stock, rarely bitter, insults; cf. crab-fat, pongo.

Fish-Hooks. Ficheux, a village in Northern France: military Hobson-Jobson: WW1. (Siegfried Sassoon.)—2. (Singular very rare.) Fingers; hence, hands: low, and nautical: from ca. 1840.

fish-horn. A soprano saxophone: Can. musicians': since late 1930s. To the same group, place, period, belong African harp, a banjo; bed springs or git-box, a guitar; cigar-box, a violin; dog-house, a bass viol; gob-stick, a clarinet; grunt-horn, bass horn, or tuba—coll., rather than s.; horn, trumpet or cornet—not s. but coll.; the ivories of the 88, the piano; slip-horn or slush-pump or tram, a trombone; wood-pile, a xylophone. Professor Priestley, to whom (in 1949) I owe the list, adds: 'All these are current in a limited and jocular way among musicians in jazz bands; originally used by U.S. musicians ca. 1925; revised, extended and popularised in late 1930's, when swing became popular'. In 1965, he noted further: 'Horn includes saxophones as well as trumpet and cornet. Among modern jazz players, "blow" means to play any instrument, as "He blows nice piano".'

fish-market. The lowest hole at bagatelle: gamblers': C.19–20. Cf. simon.—2. A brothel: ca. 1850–1910. Ex fish, n., 4.

fish nor flesh, be neither. See neither fish nor flesh, be. fish of one and flesh or fowl of another, make. To exhibit partiality or make an invidious distinction: from ca. 1630; coll. till ca. 1850, then S.E.

fish on (one's) fingers. See find fish on ...

Fisher. Treasury note signed by Sir Warren Fisher, replacing (Oct., 1919) the earlier Bradbury' (W.). At first s., it soon > coll. and, at its withdrawal from circulation on 31 July 1933, it was almost S.E. (Daily Telegraph, 1 Aug. 1933.) Cf. Bradbury.

fisher. A toady: C.19.—2. In C.20, an angler for benefit or compliment. Both senses are coll. Ex fish, v. fisher of fogles. A pickpocket, strictly of handkerchiefs: ca. 1805–60. Blackwood's, July 1823 (Moe).

Fisheries, the. The Fisheries Exhibition held in 1883: coll.: 1883; now only historical.

fisherman. 'A trawler, drifter or other fishing craft' (Granville): RN coll.: C.20.

fisherman's. A C.20 abbr. of the next. P.P., Rhyming Slang, 1932.

fisherman's daughter. Water: rhyming s.: latish C.19–20. D.W. Barrett, Navvies, 1880.

fisherman's grease. Salt water used for lubrication: nautical: since ca. 1860. Peppitt cites S.T.S. Lecky, Wrinkles in Practical Navigation, 1881.

fisherman's walk, a. To which is gen. added three steps and overboard, which explains: nautical: C.19–20; ob.

Fishermen, the. Grimsby Football Club: sporting: C.20. Grimsby is a fishing port.

Fisher's flimsies. Aus. currency notes: Aus.: ca. 1910–30, then historical. Ex Andrew Fisher (1862–1928)—Prime Minister and, esp., the founder of the Commonwealth Bank of Australia. (B.P.) Cf. flimsy, n., 1.

fishiness. See fishy, 1. Rare before C.20, when coll.

fishing. See what shall we do, or go fishing?

fishing, go. To seek for an obliging or a mercenary woman: low: from ca. 1850; ob. Cf. filly-hunting, fish (n., 4), grouching.

fishing expedition; esp. on a ... Applied to one who is spying or 'pumping' others for information: joc. coll.: since ca. 1930. Ex Japanese fishing boats going into foreign waters in order to obtain information. This English nuance may well be independent of the American senses, even though the latter precede it.

fishing-fleet. 'The wives and families of naval officers spending the season at Malta': RN: from ca. 1890. Bowen.—2. Hence, 'women who frequent the Ladies' Lounge at the Union Club, Malta' (Granville): RN: since ca. 1920. On the look-out for eligible Navy men. See Snake-pit, 2, and cf. the earlier.—3. Eligible girls going, during the UK winter, to India to stay for 2–4 months and to meet eligible young men: among army officers in India: ca. 1900–40. Those girls who failed returned in the (UK) spring—and 'were known as the Returned Empties' (Charles Allen, ed., Plain Tales from the Raj, 1977). See also herring fleet.

fishmonger. A bawd: mid-C.16–early 17. Barnaby Rich; Shakespeare, Hamlet, II, ii, 174. (J. Dover Wilson, Hamlet, 1934, pp. 170–1.) Prob. a corruption of fleshmonger. P.B.: but fish as 'the female pudend' may well be much earlier than the 'ca. 1850' suggested by E.P. at fish, n., 4. fishmonger's daughter. A whore: late C.16–early 17. Ben Jonson; Middleton. (J. Dover Wilson, Hamlet, 1934, p. 171.) Ex prec.

fisho, often written fish-o. A fisherman by trade; a fish-hawker: Aus.: since ca. 1920. (K.S. Prichard, Intimate Strangers, 1937.) Fisherman+the ubiquitous Aus. suffix -o.

fishy. Morally or financially dubious; equivocal, unsound: from ca. 1844: s. >, by 1880, coll. Punch, 1859: 'The affair is decidedly fishy.' Cf. fish, n., 2. Whence fishiness, the corresponding abstract n.—2. 'Seedy', indisposed: esp. in and ex have a fishy, i.e. a glazed, eye. Coll.: from ca. 1860. SOD.—3. By extension of sense 1, gen. suspicious, often with criminal implications, as 'I don't like it; There's something fishy going on, somehow': coll.: since mid-C.20. at latest. (P.B.) fishy about the gills. Having the appearance of recent drunkenness: Cockneys':—1909. Cf. fishy, 2, q.v. Ware, 'Drink produces a pull-down of the corners of the mouth, and a consequent squareness of the lower cheeks or gills, suggesting the gill-shields in fishes.'

fisno. A warning, esp. in give (someone) the fisno: c.: from ca. 1840; † by 1920. ('No. 747'.) Just possibly back s. (with alteration) for 'the office', as Dr Leechman proposes.

fist, n. Handwriting: coll. > s. > coll. again; from ca. 1470. In C.15–17, prob. S.E. 'A good running fist' (anon., Mankind, 1475: W.).—2. An able fellow (cf. S.E. 'an able hand'): naval lowerdeck: late C.18–19. L.L.G., 1 Jan. 1825. (Moe).—3. A workman (tailor): tailors': from ca. 1860. Esp. good or bad fist.—4. Among printers, an index hand: from ca. 1880. Jacobi.—5. In give (someone one's) fist, to shake hands: coll.: C.19–early 20. (Moe cites L.L.G., 10 Jan. 1824.) Esp. in give us [=me] your fist!—6. In put up (one's) fist, to admit a charge: tailors': mid-C.19–early 20.—7. See make a fist.

fist, v. To apprehend; seize: coll.: late C.16–20; ob. Shakespeare, 'An I but fist him once!—2. Whence the C.19–20 low coll. sense, take hold of: 'Just you fist that scrubbing-brush, and set to work' (F.&H., 1891).

fist-fucking. Masturbation: of males only (contrast finger-fucking): low: C.19–20. Cf. make love to Miss Fist.

fist it. (Of a woman) to grasp the membrum virile with sexual intent: low: C.19–20.—2. To use one's hands, e.g. in eating with one's fingers: Aus. and NZ:—1846 (Morris); ob. by 1870, † by 1890.

fist it out. To fight it out: coll.: (?)ca. 1800–60. W.N. Glascock, Naval Sketch Book, 2nd series, 1834 (Moe).

fist-meat, eat. To receive a punch or slap in the mouth: coll. of ca. 1550–1700.

fistiana. Boxing and all that pertains thereto: joc. coll.: from ca. 1840.

fistic. Related to boxing: (an increasingly low) coll. adj.: from ca. 1885.

fists (, esp. in one's). Grasp; clutches: M.E. +; S.E. till C.19, then coll.

fit, n. Sufficient evidence to convict (a wrongdoer): Aus. and NZ c.: since ca. 1930. For Brit. equivalent, see fit up, n. and v.—2. See fit (in the arm); chuck a fit.

fit, v., corresponds to n., 1: Aus. and NZ c.: since ca. 1930. McNeil, 1973, defines it 'to convict, with a suggestion of manipulation; to fit the facts to the indictment', and classes it coll. Cf. fit up, v.

fit, adj. In excellent health: coll.: from ca. 1870. Ex sporting j.—2. See are you fit?, are you ready?

fit as a buck rat (, as). Very fit and well: NZ: C.20. (Slatter.)

fit as a butcher's dog (, as). In very good health: Lancashire: C.20 (?earlier). (Jack Slater.)

fit as a fiddle (, as). Excellent, most fitting or opportune: coll.: since ca. 1590: 1598, Wm Haughton; 1620, John Fletcher.—2. In good health, condition, form: coll. since ca. 1870: 1882, M.E. Braddon; 1883, R.L.S.; 1887, James Payn; 1922, E.V. Lucas. (Collated by G.H. Hatchman, 1946.)

fit as a fiddler. Mainly Aus. (B., 1942), wholly C.20, and not very gen. var. of prec. entry.

fit as a flea. Extremely fit or healthy: sporting coll.: mid-C.19–20; ob. Reginald Herbert, When Diamonds Were Trumps, 1908.

fit as a Mallee bull. Extremely fit and 'rarin' to go': Aus. coll. Wilkes's first citation is from 1962; he records ... and twice as dangerous as an elab., and I heard fit as a Mallee bull on Sundays as another, late 1960s. (P.B.) Cf. Brit. strawyard bull.

fit as a pudding. Very fit or suitable: coll.: 1600, Dekker, 'Tis a very brave shoe, and as fit as a pudding'; app. † by 1700. Apperson, who implies that it is prob. an abbr. of fit as a pudding for a friar's mouth (ca. 1575–1750) or, occ., a dog's mouth (1592, Lyly), itself a semi-proverbial coll.

fit end to end or fit ends. To have sexual intercourse: low: C.19–20; ob.

fit (in the arm). A blow or a punch: London slums': June, 1897–8. One Tom Jelly, arrested for striking a woman, declared that 'a fit had seized him in the arm': this was too good for the populace to miss. Ware.

fit like a ball of wax (of clothes), i.e. close to the skin: coll.: from ca. 1840.

fit like a glove. To fit perfectly: from ca. 1770; coll. till ca. 1850, then S.E. OED.

fit like a purser's shirt on (or upon) a handspike. To fit very badly: C.19–early 20: coll. John Davis, The Post-Captain, 1806 (Moe).

fit like a sentry-box. Army version of prec.: coll.: mid-C.19–early 20.

fit (a garment, hat, etc.) on a person is coll.: from ca. 1860.

fit on the mat, a. See enough to give you ...

fit the head, not. A C.19 tailors' phrase, meaning that a garment, although faultless, is said by a customer to have some fault or other, the tailor then keeping it a while and sending it, untouched, back to the customer, who is thereupon delighted with it. Saturday Evening Post, 28 Sep. 1822 (p. 4, col. 1)—reporting a trial held in London. (Moe.)

fit to. (Of things) likely or 'enough' to (do something): coll.; from ca. 1770; ob.—2. Ready to, angry enough to (do something): late C.16–20. S.E. till ca. 1850, then coll. and dial. SOD.

fit to a T. Gen. v.t., to fit to a nicety: coll.: late C.18–20. Ex the 7-square used by architects.

fit to be tied. Furiously angry, 'hopping mad': Can.: adopted, ca. 1908, ex US. (Leechman.) Cf. Aus. ropeable.

fit to bust a double ration serve-out of navy-serge. Very fat: RN: C.20.

fit to go foreign. Ready for any and every undertaking: R Can. N: since ca. 1940. (Leechman.)

fit to kill. Immoderately, excessively: coll.: US (1856: Thornton), anglicised ca. 1890. In later C.20, usu. in 'dressed fit to kill', over-dressed.

fit(-)up. A stage easily fitted up; hence, a small theatrical company: from ca. 1880: theatrical s. >, by 1910, coll. Cf. fit-up towns, q.v.—2. Also fit, n. [q.v.] or fitting; synonyms, put-up and stuck-up. All describe the situation existing 'When the police find an innocent person (a body) and make the crime in hand fit him' (G.F. Newman, Sir, You Bastard, 1970, glossary)—in short, a 'frame-up' or 'framing'. Orig. c., then also police s.: since 1930s. All five nn. mentioned are also used as verbs.—3. By extension from 2, a planned piece of criminal deception, a deliberately planted lie: police: since (?) ca. 1955.

fit up a show. To arrange an exhibition: artists': from ca. 1870; ob.

fit-up towns 'do not possess a theatre, and... are therefore only visited by small companies carrying portable scenery, which can be fitted up in a hall or an assembly room' (Referee, 22 July 1883): theatrical: from ca. 1880; ob. (Ware.) In Showman Looks On, 1945, C.B. Cochran uses fit-ups in the same sense.

fit where they (e.g. trousers) touch, they; (of jacket, etc.) it fits where it touches. A joc. c.p., applied to loose, ill-fitting clothes: late C.19–20. Jack Lawson, A Man's Life, 1932.

fitba. '... is the Glesgy [Glasgow] pronunciation of football. It is often aped by non-Glaswegians as a demonstration that they are braw lads like the rest of us' (Philip Howard, in U and Non-U Revisited, 1978). 'Fitba Crazy' is the title of a Glasgow children's street song.

Fitch's Grenadiers. The 83rd Foot Regiment, from 1881 the Royal Irish Rifles: military: 1793; †. (F. & G.) Ex the (orig.) small stature of the men and its first colonel's surname. The Regt became the Royal Ulster Rifles in 1920, and in 1968 was merged with 'The Skins' and 'The Stackies' to form the Royal Irish Rangers (Gaylor).

fits. See beat into f.; give (someone) f.; forty f.; lick into f.; scream (one)sself into f.; throw into f.

fits and starts as the hog pisseth, by. Jerkily; intermittently: coll.: C.18–19.

fits of joy. A feu-de-joie: army joc.: ca. 1900. 'The second Relief of Kimberley', The Friend (Bloemfontein), 24 Mar. 1900. fitted to an affigraphy. Accurately fitted: naval lowerdeck: C.18. Notes—published in Naval Review, 1930, by Capt. George S. MacIlwaine, RN (Sub-Lt, 1865; Cdr, 1879)—owed to R/Adml P.W. Brock.

fitter. A burglars' locksmith: c.: from ca. 1860.

fitting. (Of a patient) having a fit: hospital nurses': since ca. 1935.

Fitz. A royal natural child: lower classes': late C.19–20. The prudent Ware thus wisely: 'Derivation obvious.'—2. A person of position or fortune going on the stage: theatrical: 1883. Ibid.

Fitzbilly, the. The Fitzwilliam Museum: Cambridge undergraduates': late C.19–20.—2. Fitzwilliam House: Cambridge undergraduates': C.20.

Fitzroy cocktail. An improvised drink with basis of methylated spirits: Aus.: since ca. 1925. (Baker.) Ironic.

Fitzroy Yank. A Melbourne youth who apes the Americans: Aus., esp. Melbourne: since ca. 1942. (B., 1953.) Cf. Woolloomooloo Yank, the Sydney version.

five. See fives.—2. As the five, 'The five pounds weight allowed to apprentice jockeys': turf: from ca. 1920; now verging on coll. OED Sup.—3. A five-eighth: Rugby football: from ca. 1910. Cf. three, a three-quarter.—4. Fifteen (in scoring): lawn tennis players': from ca. 1920. Cf. ff.—5. A Jew: since ca. 1930. (Gerald Kersh, They Die with their Boots Clean, 1941.) Ex five by two.—6. A five-years' prison sentence: police and criminal coll.: late C.19–20. (Norman.)—7. A sum of five pounds sterling: coll.: late C.19–20.—8. See black five.

five, v. To tout: drapery trade: C.20. Origin? Perhaps ex five-to-twos (below), via Jewish shoe-shops; a Jew being, in rhyming s., a five by two: Julian Franklyn's suggestion, 1962. five-acre farm. The arm: rhyming s. (London streets'): 1857 (Augustus Mayhew, Paved with Gold); † by 1900. Cf. Chalk Farm.

five and (a) half, the, usu. five 'n 'arf, the. See Where the five'n'arf...?

five and nine. Esp. put on (one's)..., a juvenile make-up: theatrical: ca. 1870–1930. Michael Warwick, in The Stage, 3 Oct. 1968. Mrs C. Raab: the numbers 5 and 9 denote shades of make-up.

five and nine: the Brighton line. The number 59 at tombola: mid-C.20. Said to derive from the number 59 on the front of the locomotive pulling the London–Brighton train. (P.B.) See TOMBOLA.

Five and Nines, the. Nickname of the 15th/19th King's Royal Hussars. They were known thus within the army in Malaya in the mid-1950s. Cf. The Three and Eights. (P.B.)

Five-and-Threepennies, the. The 53rd Foot, from 1881 the Shropshire Light Infantry: military: C.19–20; ob. Ex the 5 and 3, also ex the ensign's daily pay.

five-barred gate. A policeman: Cockneys': 1886–ca. 1915. Ware, 'The force being chiefly recruited from the agricultural class'.

five-boater, -master, -rater. These are nautical coll. of obvious meaning, all three referring to ships: from ca. 1887. OED.

five by five; often Mr Five by Five. A very short, fat man: Can.: since ca. 1930. Leechman: 'Presumably 5 feet tall and 5 feet wide'.

five by two. A Jew: rhyming s.: since ca. 1925. (P.P., Rhyming Slang, 1932.) See five, 5, and four by two; cf. five to two and buckle-my-shoe.

five eggs (a penny, and four of them addled or rotten), come in with. To interrupt fussily with worthless news or an idle story: coll.: ca. 1540–1880.

five-eight (or -eighth). A mere lance-corporal: army: WW1. That part of a 'full' corporal.

five finger(ed) sandwich (or sarnie). A punch in the mouth, army other ranks': since late 1940s. (P.B., 1974.)

five finger spread. To vomit: RN: 1950s. (John Malin, 1980.)

five-fingered widow, the. Male masturbation: esp. in the Indian Army of late C.19–earlier C.20. (Plain Tales from the Raj, 1977, ed. Charles Allen.) Cf. make love to Miss Fist. (P.B.) five(-)fingers. The 5 of trumps in the card game of don or five cards: C.17–19: s. > j. (Cotton in The Compleat Gamester, 1674; H., 3rd ed.) Cf. fives, q.v.

five-letter woman. A 'bitch': since ca. 1925. Prompted by four-letter man, q.v.

five-master. See five-boater.

five-mile sniper. A gunner in the heavy artillery: infantrymen's ironic: WW1.

five-minute jerk. A very short taxi-ride: London taxi-drivers: earlier C.20. (Maurice Butcher, 1982.)

five o'clock, a. Afternoon tea at five o'clock: coll.: from ca. 1890. Cf. Fr. des five o'clock à toute heure.

five-oner; five ones man. One who gets a first class certificate in each of his five examinations for lieutenant: RN: C.20. Bowen.

five or seven. Intoxicated; a drunkard: policemen's and Cockneys': 1885–ca. 1914. Ex five shillings or seven days, 'the ordinary magisterial decision upon "drunks" unknown to the police' (Ware).

five over five, adj. and adv. Applied to those who turn in their toes: from ca. 1820; ob. Egan's Grose.

five-pot piece. A half-crown. See pot, n., 5.

five-pounder. A cheap-excursionist: Jersey. Ware quotes the Graphic, 31 Mar. 1883.

five-rater. See five-boater.

five-shares man. (Gen. pl.) A fisherman, whaler, etc., working for a share of the profits: nautical coll.: late C.19–20. Bowen.

five shillings, the sign of. The tavern-sign of the crown. Hence ten shillings, fifteen shillings, the sign of the two, the three crowns. Mid-C.18–early 19. Grose, 2nd ed.

five skins of a louse. See not care...

five-spot. A five-pound note: low coll.: later C.20. Hence ten-spot, twenty-spot. Perhaps orig. ex dominoes, but adopted imm. ex N. America, where Can., from US, since ca. 1905: a five- or ten-spot, etc. = a five-, ten-dollar bill. Leechman quotes Bickersteth, Open Doors, 1912, for 'five-spot'.

five-star Frenchman. A Chargeurs Réunis steamer: nautical: C.20. Bowen, 'From the painting of her funnel'.

five to two. A not very gen. rhyming s., term for 'Jew'. C.20. Cf. five by two. Contrast:-

five-to-twos. Shoes: Cockney rhyming: C.20. Len Orten, 1938.

fivepence, fine or grand as. See fine as fivepence.

fivepence halfpenny. A military c.p. (WW1) for something invisible or not there. (F. & G.) Ex the Government messing-allowance.

fiveer. Anything that counts five, but gen. a £5 note or occ. its equivalent: from ca. 1850. An early occurrence is in Renton Nicholson, An Autobiography, 1860, p. 63.—2. A fifth term of imprisonment: c.:—1872 (OED).—3. A fifth-columnist: WW2+. Warren Sturds, The Sword and the Net, 1942.—4. Five thousand pounds, as in 'This house is worth a fiveer': since ca. 1930. Cf. sense 1.

fives. A foot: C.17.—2. From ca. 1820: fingers, i.e. hands, fists. (Bee.) See lunch of fives and keep (one's) fives going.—3. Hence, a street fight: low, esp. Cockney: from ca. 1850.

fix, n. A dilemma: orig. (—1833) US, anglicised ca. 1840; coll. till ca. 1880, then S.E.—2. The taking of a narcotic drug, esp. by injection: adopted, late 1950s, ex US. By late 1960s, widely known—and used.—3. A well-thought-out plan. See AUSTRALIAN UNDERWORLD.—4. In at the word 'Fix!', Be punctual, or sharp!: army: early C.20. (F. & G.) Ex the drill commands for fixing bayonets.—5. In get a fix, to obtain the ship's or aircraft's position: RN; RAF: from ca. 1939; by 1945, > j. (Granville.) From a remote-navigation-aid station, get a fix on (aircraft, etc.).

fix, v. In c., to arrest: late C.18—early 19.—2. As a coll. verb-of-all-work, it is an importation—rare before 1840—ex the US (1708: Thornton); the n. fixings (in US, 1826) has been less warmly received.—3. To preserve (tissues) in, e.g., formalin:—medical coll.:—1933, now verging on j. (1935).—4. To dog (very) cunningly an enemy aircraft: RAF s. 1940; >, by 1944, coll. (Partridge, 1945.) Cf.—5. To 'settle a person's hash': coll.: since ca. 1920. 'I'll fix him!' is a frequent threat.—6. To bribe (someone): adopted, ca. 1939, from US: c. > by 1946, low s. Hence fixer, e.g. a lawyer, a political 'boss', that bribes, e.g., officials: still c.—7. To prepare or plan; to arrange: Can. (ex US) coll.: since ca. 1910. 'I'm leery of Bill. He's fixing to shoot me!' (Leechman.)—8. 'To inject a drug—usually into blood vessel' (Home Office): drug addicts': adopted, ca. 1965, ex US.

fix (someone's) clock. To settle his hash: Can.: since ca. 1940. (Leechman.) Here, clock perhaps = face.

fix (someone's) duff. Synon. with the 'prompter', settle his hash: army: since ca. 1930. (P-G-R.) Cf. duff up.

fix (someone's) flint (for him). To put a spoke in someone's wheel; to 'settle his hash': ca. 1850–1910. (H., 2nd ed., 1860.) Also Can. perhaps earlier. The Nova Scotian (newspaper), 27 Jan. 1836, 'Oh no, if I didn't fix his flint for him in fair play, it's a pity.' (Leechman.) The flint of a matchlock or musket.

fix it. To arrange matters: ex US (—1836); anglicised ca. 1850: coll., >, in later C.20, informal S.E. Cf. fix up.

fix (someone's) little red fire-engine. To settle someone's hash: adopted in 1965 or, at latest, 1966 ex US. (R.S.) Claiborne, 1976, notes, 'The US phrase (rare) elaborates the earlier "fix one's wagon"'. P.B.: the Brit. usage, however, carries an air of mock childishness, a ref. to breaking another child's toy. Cf. I hope your rabbits die!

fix the old gum tree. (Of a 'rolling stone') to settle down at last: Aus.: C.20. B., 1942.

fix up. To arrange, e.g. a rendezvous, esp. for another: ex US, anglicised ca. 1855. In C.20, occ. be fixed up, to have an appointment.—2. In fix (a person) up, to provide him with lodgings or other quarters: coll.: from ca. 1888. P.B.: by mid-C.20 at latest, to provide with other necessities, e.g., money, clothing, weapons, or even a female companion (for a male, of course): coll.—3. To murder: Anglo-Irish: since ca. 1930. Michael Kenyon, Irish, by descent or by long habitation, The Rapist, 1977, a 'rapee' speaking, 'He said he would baste me and trounce me and fix me up.' P.B.: 'To murder' is E.P.'s interpretation, but fix up may also be synon., in English English, with baste and trounce: later C.20 low coll.

fixed, be. "'Well!" said Iggy... "How are we fixed, then?" This, in lags' [convicts'] parlance, meant simply, "What are you going to do for an old pal that is strictly illegal?"' (Robert Roberts, A Ragged Schooling, 1976), the time ref. being to the late 1950s: c.: C.20.—2. Hence, in wider, more licit circles, 'How are you fixed? Can you lend me a fiveer?' or 'How are you fixed for lending me a fiveer?': perhaps from the S.E. fixed in the sense of 'prepared': later C.20 coll. (P.B.) fixed bayonets. A brand of Bermuda rum: military: late C.19—early 20. (F. & G.) Ex its sting and effects. But among prisoners of war in Germany in WW1 it was applied to a spirit made of potatoes and apt to render one 'fighting drunk'.

fixer. An agent, esp. one who makes arrangements for 'pop' musicians: since ca. 1950.

fixing. Strong drink: Aus.:—1889; ob. by 1912, † by 1924.

fixings. See fix, v., 2. Cf. doings, q.v.—2. As furniture: 1887 (Baumann).

fixit. 'She said you operated a fixit... you know, stolen cars repainted and given bastardised parts and a new licence number!' (Richard Allen, Boot Boys, 1972. Cited by L.A.).—2. As a title, Mr Fixit, one who is known to be able to 'fix' things, whether politically, or by technical knowledge, as in 'do-it-yourself'; often pej., by the envious, 'Oh, proper little Mr Fixit, he is!': later C.20. (P.B.)

fix, fizz, n. Champagne; also, any sparkling wine: from ca. 1860. H., 3rd ed.—2. Occ., though very rarely in C.20, lemonade mixed with ginger-beer: from ca. 1880.—3. A hissing sound: coll.; 1842 (OED).—4. A fuss: from ca. 1730.—5. Animal spirits: from ca. 1850. These last two senses are coll.—and ob.—6. Ned Ward, in 1700, has fix for phiz. Matthews.—7. Synon. with its source: fizz-gig, 2: Aus. c. and police s.: since ca. 1953. B., 1953.—8. An erratic yet rapid movement; such motion: N.T., Aus.: since ca. 1910. Ernestine Hill, The Territory, 1951.

fizz, v. A var. of fizz out. H. Drake-Brockman, Hot Gold, 1940, 'Fizzed on you, didn't she? They're all the same.'—2. See it didn't fizz... fizz around. To 'buzz around'; move speedily and busily: from ca. 1930. 'Ganpat', Out of Evil, 1933.

fizz-bang. An occ. var. (I never heard it) of whizz-bang, 1, an artillery shell, esp. the German '77. Recorded by Boyd Cable, Grapes of Wrath, 1917. (Petch.)

fix(z)-gig. From such S.E. senses as a squib, a whirligig, a silly pastime, the word has come, in C.20, to approximate, in its meaning, to gadget. Coll.—2. An informer to the police: c. of Sydney, NSW: from ca. 1930. Also, in the same milieu, merely a busybody. Var. phizgig, in Vince Kelly, The Shadow, 1955, where also as v., to act as an informer. See AUSTRALIAN UNDERWORLD.—3. (Spelt figsig by 'Jon Bee', 1823.) Fun (gig) made at the expense of another's face (phiz): London joc.: ca. 1820–30.—4. See also phiz-gig.

fizz out, n.; fizz out on, v. (To be) a thoroughly unreliable person (in respect of someone): Aus.: since ca. 1919. Baker.

fizzer. Any first-rate thing (e.g. a theatrical role) or, rarely, person: coll.:—1866.—2. A very fast ball: cricketers' coll.:—1904. OED Sup.; Lewis.—3. A vendor of soft drinks: mostly Cockneys': 1895 (H.W. Nevinson). See fizzer-man.—4. A wild scrub bull or bullock: Aus.: late C.19–20.—5. A failure, esp. in it's a fizzer, 'the traditional c.p. when a mechanical device being demonstrated fails to work' (B.P.): Aus.: since ca. 1920. Perhaps a slovening of fizzler, something that 'fizzles out'.—6. (Also as fizza.) A charge, or charge-sheet, esp. in put (him) on a (or the) fizzer, to put someone's name on to a charge-sheet: any, since ca. WW1, RAF since

ca. 1925; ob. Hence, loosely, fizzer may = guard-room, detention cell; or even, as in anon., The Soldier's War Slang Dictionary, 1939, where it is defined as barrack-room s. for 'parade ground'. Perhaps, ultimately, the term then derives ex defaulters on fizza, doing pack-drill on the parade ground. Daily Mail, 7 Sep. 1940; H. & P.; Partridge, 1945.—7. Hence, an adverse report against an employee: busmen's: since ca. 1925.

fizzer-man. A camp-follower selling soft drinks: military: 1894 (OED). Collectively the 'fizzer-men' form the fizzer-brigade.

fizzing, adj. Excellent:—1859 (H. 1st ed.).—2. Also as adv.: from ca. 1880; ob. Cf. stunning.

fizzle. A ludicrous failure: orig. US, anglicised ca. 1880; coll.: by 1900, S.E.

fizzle out. To tail off: end lamely; become a failure; fail: orig. (ca. 1848), US; anglicised ca. 1870; coll. till ca 1905, then S.E. Ex firework, esp. if damp.

fizzog. See phiz.

flab. Dripping (ca. 1840–1900); (also flib) butter (C.20): Christ's Hospital (School). Marples. Ex its 'flabbiness'.—2. Flabbiness, obesity: since ca. 1935: s., rapidly > coll., prob. orig. among slimmers. Either a back-formation from flabby, or simply an abbr. of flabbiness.

flabagast, gen. flabbergast. To astound, physically or mentally; utterly to confuse (a person): coll.: from ca. 1772, when The Annual Register included it in 'On New Words'. (Disraeli.) Ex flap (or flabby) + aghast (W.). Hence the not very common and now ob. flabbergastation: 1845 (EDD), and, since ca. 1945, the joc. formation, 'My flabber is gasted', I am very surprised, astounded.

flabberdegaz. A 'gag' or stop-gap words; a piece of bad acting or instance of imperfect utterance: theatrical: ca. 1870–1915. Prob. ex:

flabbergast. See flabagast.

flabby(-)knackers. A term of genial, friendly abuse: low coll.: since ca. 1950. Cf. horror-bollocks, fuck-nuckle, etc. The 'daddy' of the group is buggerlugs. (P.B.)

flack. Mis-spelling of flak: noted 1979, in a journal that should have known letter. (P.B.)

fladge, also written flage. Flagellation; one who resorts to it in order to induce an orgasm, as a fladge-merchant: prostitutes: since ca. 1920. Frank Norman, in Encounter, 1959, has the compound; there is also fladge-fiend, a masochist. Ex flagellation. P.B.: in a shop selling pornography, 'Got any fladge, guv?' = have you any works in which the emphasis is on flagellation?

flag, n. A goat or fourpenny piece: ca. 1560–1890: c. Harman; B.E.; Mayhew, 'A tremendous black doll bought for a flag (fourpence) of a retired rag-merchant.'—2. An apron: low, or low coll.: from ca. 1845.—3. A sanitary pad or towel. Hence, the flag (or danger-signal) is up: she is 'indisposed': from ca. 1850.—4. Abbr. flag unfurled, q.v.: late C.19–20; ob. Ware.—5. Words missed in composing: printers':—1909. Ex the appearance of the 'out' words written at the side of the 'copy' or of the proof. Ware.—6. A bank-note: Aus.: since ca. 1920. (B., 1942.) A blend of flim + rag?—7. In two-up, £1, whether sum or currency note. See boxer.—8. See fly the flag and show the flag.—9. As the flag, the colour-sergeant: army: ca. 1845–1914. Robert Blatchford, My Life in the Army, 1910.

flag, v. To work under an assumed name: Can. railroadmen's:—1931; adopted from US. Ex sail under a false flag.

flag-about. A strumpet: low, or low coll.: ca. 1820–70. Cf. flagger, q.v.

flag day. Menstruation: since ca. 1918. Flag days were introduced in the latter part of WW1: from that, via flag, n., 3, was but a small quick step to the pun.

flag-flapper. A signaller: RN: late C.19–20. (H. & P.) Cf. flag-wagging.

flag-flasher. One who, when off duty, sports the 'insignia of office'—cap, apron, uniform, badge, etc.: from ca. 1860. (H., 5th ed.) Ex flag, 2.

flag-flying. Adj. and vbl n. corresponding to flag, n., 2 (cf. flag-flasher) and 3 (cf. Captain is at home, the).—2. A bill's being 'posted up when hands are required': tailors':—1889—(B. & L.).—3. Overbidding (occ., a tendency to overbid) at bridge: from ca. 1915: s. >, by 1930, coll. Hence flag-flier, one who does this. OED Sup.

flag is up. See flag, n., 3.

flag-Jack. The officer in charge of signallers, 'chief bunting-tosser', on board ship: RN: C.20. Musings, 1912; Eric Gell, 1981.

flag of defiance. A drunken roisterer: nautical: mid-C.18—early 19. Ex:—2. In hang out the flag of defiance or bloody flag, to have a red face owing to drink; to be drunk: late C.17—early 19 nautical. B.E.; Grose, 1st ed., 'The flag of defiance or bloody flag is out,' etc.

flag of distress. 'The cockade of a half-pay officer': naval: late C.18—mid-19. A MS. note by Grose to the B.M. 1st ed. copy: not, however, incorporated—as all such notes were orig. intended to be—in the 2nd ed. (1788).—2. An announcement-card for board, or board and lodgings: from ca. 1850; coll.—3. Hence, any outward sign of poverty: orig. nautical: mid-C.19–20. H., 1st ed.—4. A flying shirt-tail: from ca. 1855: low, esp. Cockney. Ibid.

flag unfurled. A man of the world: rhyming s.:—1859; ob. H., 1st ed.

flag-wagging. Flag-signalling, esp. at drill: Services': from ca. 1885.—2. Hence, in WW1, a signaller was called flag-wagger.

flage. See fladge.

flagger. A harlot, esp. one walking the streets: low:—1865; ob. Mostly London. Either ex pavement-flags or ex flag-about.

flaggers, in. See in flaggers, 'red-handed'. Cf.:

flagrant delight. A (mainly legal) joc. Englishing of in flagrante delicto: C.20. Compton Mackenzie, Water on the Brain, 1933, 'To-night's the night for flagrant delight.'

flags. Clothes drying in the wind: low coll.: from ca. 1860. Cf. snow.—2. A flag lieutenant: RN nickname: late C.19–20. Bowen.—3. As the Flags, the cotton market, Liverpool: Stock Exchange: from ca. 1890.

flags flying, she has (or she's got) the. A var. of fly the flag, q.v.: low: late C.19–20.

flak. German anti-aircraft fire: from 1939: prob. always j.; certainly so by 1942. Ex the initials in FlugAbwehrKanone, Ger. A.A. guns.—2. Hence, adverse criticism; back-talk, verbal impudence: since mid-1940s in US and late 1940s in UK, though not widespread in Britain till ca. 1975. Janssen cites Beatles, 'John was... riddled with media flak by surly and cynical public commentators'. The derivation had been so forgotten by 1979 as to produce the mis-spelt flack.

flak-happy. Not caring; reckless: RAF: 1941 †. (W/Cdr R. McDouall, 1945.) Prob. an analogy of slap-happy; contrast the army bomb-happy, q.v.

flake, or, in full, flake out. To go to bed, or merely to take a nap: Can: since ca. 1940. (Leechman.) But see also entry at Harry Flakers, which suggests a much earlier dating.—2. Hence, to fall asleep from sheer exhaustion or drunkenness, or, later, from the effects of narcotic drugs: perhaps, in this sense, orig. Aus., since ca. 1945 (B.P.), but, by 1950, common throughout the Brit. Commonwealth.—3. Hence, also, to faint: orig. Services', WW2 and ever since. L.J. Cunliffe, Having it Away, 1965.

flaked out. Orig. merely tired, listless, or 'hungover' with the after-effects of too much alcohol; later, asleep, as, 'There he was flaked out on his pit—I hadn't wake him': Services', orig. RN, since late WW1. Cf. worn to a frazzle, and:-

flakers. See Harry Flakers.—2. (Always flakers.) Half-drunk; mildly tipsy: Aus.: since ca. 1945. Elizabeth Lambert, The Sleeping House Party, 1951.

flam, humbug, a trick, a sham story, after being S.E. in C.17–18, is in C.19 coll., in C.20 † except in dial. and Aus., the same applying dialectally to the rare adj. and the common v. Perhaps abbr. flim-flam, which, however, is recorded later: W. suggests that it derives ex Scottish flamflew, a trifle, gew-gaw.—2. The single beat of a drum: (—1791; ob.) orig. military s.; in C.19 gen. s. > coll.; in C.20, S.E. but ob. Grose, 3rd ed.—3. In c., a ring; ca. 1850–70. H., 1864.

flamdoodle, flam-sauce. See flapdoodle.

flame. A sweetheart; a kept mistress: after being S.E., this term, esp. as an old flame, a former sweetheart or lover, is in C.19–20 increasingly coll. and joc. The modern semi-joc. use is perhaps directly ex C.17 Fr. flamme and âme riming in the Fr. classics almost as regularly as herz and schmerz in Ger. lyrics' (W.).—2. In C.19 low coll. or s., a venereal disease. flame! or flaming hell! Expletive hell!: C.20, the latter; since ca. 1925, the former.

flamer. A person, incident, or thing very conspicuous, unusual, or vigorous; e.g. as in Cockton's Valentine Vox, 1840, a 'stiff' criticism: since ca. 1805. It has, since ca. 1900, been esp. applied—prob. under the influence of the 'OXFORD -ER'—to 'a flaming row' or quarrel, as in Act II of Terence Rattigan, The Deep Blue Sea, 1952.—2. (In pl.) A kind of safety-match giving a bright flame: from ca. 1885; †, Baumann.—3. An aircraft coming down in flames: RFC/RAF: since 1916. P.C. Wren, in The Passing Show, 18 Aug. 1934.—4. Hence, a target—esp. an aircraft or vehicle—set on fire by the RAF: RAF: WW2. P-G-R.

Flamers, the. The 54th Regt of Foot, from 1881 till 1958 (when amalgamated with the Devonshire Regt) the Dorsetshire Regt: army nickname, since 1781 when they took part in the burning of New London. F. & G.; Gaylor.

flames. A red-haired person; occ. as term of address or personal ref.: coll.: ca. 1820–90. (Jon Bee.) Cf. carrots, ginger.

flaming. Very or too noticeable or vigorous; 'stunning': border-line coll.: from late C.18, ob. by early C.20. 'The first time I saw the flaming mot/Was at the sign of the Porter Pot'—from a popular ballad titled 'Fal de Rai Tit,' ca. 1800 or earlier. Ex S.E. senses (C.17+), flagrant, startling.—2. (Of tobacco) very strong; low:—1887 (Baumann).—3. Adj. and adv., 'bloody': euph. coll.; from early 1890s. (OED Sup.) Cf. ruddy.

flaming arsehole. A large red circle painted on side of Japanese aircraft: Aus. airmen's: 1942–5. (B., 1943.) P.B.: the circle is the Jap. military 'cockade' and represents the rising sun.

flaming coffin. DH4, 'A 2-seater bomber: a good design, and a good aircraft, except that the petrol-tank was put between the pilot and the observer' (Mrs Barbara Huston): WW1: RFC/RAF. Cf. next.

Flaming Four. The De Haviland DH4 aircraft, first produced in 1916, and continuing in civilian use through the 1930s: airmen's. (Colin Huston.)

flaming onion. A German anti-aircraft projectile (some ten fire-balls on a chain): Services': WW1. (F. & G.) Ex the strings of onions sold by hawkers. In WW2, 'tracer fire from the ground' (H. & P.). Not all tracer fire, but only such as justifies this pertinently descriptive term. Cf. flying onion and scarlet slugs.

Flamingo. (Gen. pl.) An inhabitant of Flanders: from ca. 1910. (Ernest Raymond, Mary Leith, 1931.) By sound-suggestion ex Fr. Flamand, as if = 'flaming'.

flamp. To sell Army property illegally: army: late C.19–20. Cf. flog in same sense.—2. To flatter; to wheedle: RAF: since ca. 1937. (L.A.) flan. Red tape: RN: C.20. (Bowen.) Ex red flannel on red tape. Flanderkin. Late C.17–18 coll. for 'a very large Fat Man or Horse; also Natives of the that Country' (Flanders), B.E. Cf. the next four entries.

Flanders earth. Mud: army: WW1. On analogy of S.E. fuller's earth. (Petch.)

Flanders fortune. A small one: late C.17–18: coll. B.E.

Flanders piece. A picture that looks 'fair at a distance, but coarser near at Hand' (B.E.): late C.17–18: coll.

Flanders reckoning. A spending of money in a place unconnected with that where one receives it: coll.: C.17–18. Thos Heywood. (Apperson.) Cf. Flemish account, q.v.

flange. Corona glandis: C.20. Ex S.E. sense.

flank. To hit a mark with a whip-lash:—1830.—2. To crack a whip (v.t.): from ca. 1830. Both are coll. verging on S.E., the standard sense being, to flick; ob.—3. To push or hustle; to deliver (esp. a blow): coll.; from ca. 1860; ob. Cf. Fr. flanquer un coup à quelqu'un, whence, presumably, it derives.

flanker. A blow, kick; retort: coll.: ca. 1860–1910. Whence do a flanker.—2. A shirker: military: late C.19–20; ob. (F. & G.) Ex the 'advantages' of being on a flank. Cf.—3. In do or play or pull or work a flanker, to deceive; trick; outwit; give the slip; 'pass the buck' the first, lower classes',—1923 (Manchon); the second, RAF, since ca. 1925 (Jackson); the two last, gen. but esp. army, since ca. 1925. The sense 'pass the buck' emerged in army usage, WW2.

flankey. The posterior: low (perhaps orig. c.): from ca. 1840. Sinks, 1848.

flannel or flannels, n. Derivative coll., C.20: flannel drawers (women's). Var.: red flannel(s).—2. Flannel was orig. the 'derisory description by their landed customers of the ornate scrolls used to decorate the letter-paper and invoices of pretentious shopkeepers' (Dr W.H.T. Taylor, letter, 1970); the practice was known as flannelling: ca. 1800–70. Robert Surtees, Ask Mamma, 1858, ch. 25, where an invoice to Henry Trefoil, Esq., is described as having 'all the crowns, arms, orders, flourish and flannel, peculiar to aristocratic tradesmen'.—3. Sweet things or small gifts to one's superiors in order to ask favours later on; flattery: Services', esp. RAF: since ca. 1935. New Statesman, 30 Aug. 1941; H. & P.—4. 'Waffle', empty and pretentious talk, 'hot air' to disguise ignorance, bluff: Services': since ca. 1920. 'When the C.O. asked him what was going on, he hadn't a clue really, but he managed to produce a most convincing load of old flannel to keep the old man happy.' (P.B.) The RN version is flannel through (Granville).—5. See hot flannel, a warm, alcoholic drink.

flannel, v. Corresponds to prec., 3 and 4. Hence, flanneller and flannelling, the corresponding agential and verbal nouns.

flannel flappers. Baked beans: RN training ships': since ca. 1945. Fart-inducing. (Peppitt.)

flannel hammer. An imaginary tool which an apprentice may be sent to fetch: workmen's coll.: Late C.19–20. Cf. rubber hammer for glass nails.

flannel (often pron. flannin)-jacket. A navy: contractors': from ca. 1860; ob. (Ware.) From his flannel shirt or singlet. The flannin (or -en) form comes from dial.—2. (Only as flannel jacket.) 'Merchant Navy Class 4-6-2 [outhern] R[egion]. Probably based on Cockney rhyming slang for the first locomotive of the class "Channel Packet"' (Railway): late 1940s–1950s. Perhaps influenced also by the 'wrapped-around', high-sided boxed-in appearance of these locomotives. (P.B.) flannel-mouth, n. and adj. (A) well-spoken (person, esp. if a man): Can.: C.20. I.e. soft-spoken. P.B.: but no doubt influenced by senses 2–4 of flannel, n., and the v. flannel through. 'To bluff one's way through an awkward situation': RN: since ca. 1920. (Granville.) See flannel, n., 4, and v., and cf.:-

flannelette. 'The sailor's soft answer which occasionally succeeds in turning away wrath' (Granville): RN: since ca. 1936.

flannels, get (one's). To obtain a place in a team (orig. cricket): schools'; esp. and initially Harrow: from ca. 1885. Coll. >, by 1910, S.E. Ex flannels, flannel garments.

flannen or -in. See flannel-jacket.

flap, n. A blow: coll. or dial.: C.16–18. Ex the S.E. v.—2. A female of little repute, a jade: C.17–20; coll. > dial. by 1800.—3. In c., sheet-lead used for roofing: mid-C.19–20 (ob.). (H., 5th ed.) Ex the noise it makes when loose in the wind.—4. A garment or hat that has a pendent portion: ca. 1790–1920. OED.—5. 'Any evolution on board or movement of warships': RN: late C.19–20. (Bowen.) Applied esp. to the bustle ensuing on an emergency order (F. & G.).—6. An air-raid: RFC/RAF: 1915. F. & G.—7. Hence, great excitement; panic: Services': prob. arose in 1916. 'Taffrail' uses it in this sense, deriving also, no doubt, from sense 5, in The Sub, 1917. Also, since ca. 1930, have a, or there is a, flap on (H. & P.). Whence flapping, undue or uncontrolled excitement (Ibid.). The term reached its height with the Flap, 'That great retreat from the battle of Sidi Rezegh (N. Africa) which ended at Alamein' (P-G-R): army: middle of WW2.—9. A cheque: c.: C.20.

flap, v. To pay; 'fork out'. Esp. in flap the dimmock (money). Low. From ca. 1840; ob.—2. In c., rob, swindle: C.19–20; ob.—3. V.i., fall or flop down: coll.: from ca. 1660 (SOD).—4. To talk (always with about): from ca. 1925; slightly ob. Ex flap one's mouth (gen. about), the same: 1910, H.G. Wells (OED Sup.); ob.—5. Verb corresponding with flap, n., 5 and 7. To panic, dither, be in a state of great excitement, unable to think 'straight': Services': since ca. 1950 at latest. Intensified, to flap like a cunt. (P.B.) flap a jay. To cheat or swindle a greenhorn: c.:—1885. Cf. flap, v., 2.

flap around. To rush about aimlessly, to dither: Services', esp. RN: since ca. 1920. (Granville.) Ex flap, n., 5.

flap dragon. See flapdragon.

flap (one's) mouth. See flap, v., 4.

flap-sauce. See flapdoodle.

flap (in C.16–17, occ. slap) with a fox tail. A rude or contemptuous dismissal; a mild rebuke: coll.: C.16–early 19. Palsgrave, 1530; Smollett; Scott. (Apperson.) flapdash. Very clean; shining; lower classes':—1923 (Manchon). Prob. by a confusion of words and ideas.

flapdoodle. Empty talk; transparent nonsense: coll.: from ca. 1830 (? orig. US). Marryat, 1833, 'Flapdoodle... the stuff they feed fools on.' Also a v., as is very rare with the variants: flap-sauce, flam-sauce, flamdoodle.—2. The membrum virile: late C.17–18 low coll. Cf. doodle. Like flabbergast, flapdoodle is arbitrarily formed.

flapdoodler. An empty, inept, talkative political charlatan: journalists': ca. 1885–1910; then gen. but ob.

flapdragon, flap-dragon, flap dragon. Syphilis or gonorrhœa: late C.17–early 19: low. (B.E.) Ex the S.E. sense, a raisin snatched from burning brandy and eaten hot.—2. A Dutchman; a German: pej. coll.: C.17.

flapman. A convict promoted for good behaviour: prison c.:—1893; ob. by 1930.

flapper. The hand: low coll.:—1833. Marryat; London Miscellany, 19 May 1866, 'There's my flapper on the strength of it.' Cf. flipper, q.v.—2. A slow or unskilful hunting man: sporting: from ca. 1850; ob. Whyte-Melville (OED).—3. A dustman's or a coal-heaver's hat: coll.: ca. 1850–1900. Cf. fantail.—4. In the low coll. of sexual venery, the male member (cf. flapdoodle, 2): C.19.—5. There too, a very young harlot, a sense linking up with that in gen. s., a young girl (? ex that, mainly dial., sense of a fledgling partridge or wild duck): both in F. & H., 1893, the latter being discussed in the Evening News, 20 Aug. 1892.—6. In society s. of early C.20, 'a very immoral young girl in her early "teens"' (Ware)—a sense surviving in the US; in England, however, WW1 firmly established the meaning (already pretty gen. by 1905), any young girl with her hair not yet put up (or, in the late 1920s and the 30s, not yet cut short). Cf. Ger. Backfisch and flap, n., 2.—7. An Ayrton flap: military: 1916. Also, coll., flapper fan. B. & P., 'A loose flapping piece of canvas on a wooden handle; devised to disperse gas', named after its 'inventor', Mrs Hertha Ayrton.—8. A var. of flapping, q.v., as n. and adj.: 1928 (OED Sup.).—9. Inevitable nickname of anyone surnamed Hughes: C.20. Bowen.—10. See flappers. flapper-bracket, -seat. A (mostly, motor-)bicycle seat at the back for the spatial transference of a youthful female: resp. s. (from ca. 1915) and coll. (from ca. 1918; ob.). Cf. the later peach-perch.

flapper fan. See flapper, 7.

flapper-shaker. The hand: low coll.: ca. 1850–1920. Ex flapper, 1.

flapper-shaking. Hand-shaking; hence, a preliminary ceremony: from ca. 1850. 'Cuthbert Bede', 1853.

flapper vote, the. The 'franchise granted in 1928 to women of 21 years and over': coll.: 1928. COD, 1934 Sup.

flappers. Extremely long pointed shoes, esp. those worn by 'nigger minstrels': from ca. 1880; ob.—2. A sandwich-man's boards: tramps' c.: the 1920s. (The transition term between clappers and wings.) F. Jennings, Tramping with Tramps, 1932.

flapper's burr-(h)oles. Ears: workmen's:—1935.

flapper's delight. A young subaltern: army officers': 1915–18. See flapper, 6 (second nuance).

flapping; occ. flapper (sense 7 of the n. above). Racing not subject to either Jockey Club or National Hunt Regulations: turf: 1910. (OED Sup.) Ex lack of dignity.—2. Hence, from ca. 1915, as adj.—3. See flap, n., 7.

flapping track. 'Small (and unlicensed) dog[racing] track' (Powis): c.: 1970s. Cf. prec., 1.

flaps. 'Ears. Often a nickname for a man with large ears' (Powis): low coll.: later C.20.

flapsauce, flap(-)sauce. See flapdoodle. (No connexion with the † S.E. term.)

flare, n. Anything unusual, uncommon: nautical; from ca. 1850.—2. A quarrel, a row, a spree: coll.: from ca. 1840. Cf. flare-up.—3. In all of a flare, clumsily; bunglingly: c.: ca. 1830–90. H. Brandon, Poverty, Mendacity, and Crime, 1839.

flare, v. In its C.19–20 S.E. sense, to shine unsteadily, flare seems to have, ca. 1660–1730, been c., then low s. and then, ca. 1760–1830, coll.: witness B.E. and Grose, all edd. Prob. ex Dutch or Low Ger.: cf. Ger. flattern, fladdern, and Dutch vlederen: W.—2. To swagger: low coll. (—1841); ob. Leman Rede.—3. To whisk out (—1850); hence (—1851), to steal lightly, deftly. (Mayhew.) Both: c.

flare-out. See flare-up, n., 2.

flare-path. A petrol cigarette-lighter: RAF: from ca. 1935; †. New Statesman, 30 Aug. 1941.

flare-up, n. A quarrel, commotion, or fight: coll.: since ca. 1835.—2. Hence, a spree or orgy; a jovial party: coll. An early occurrence is in Sessions, 7 Mar. 1842. Justin M'Carthy, 1879, 'What she would have called a flare-out'; still extant among railwaymen, mid-C.20 (McKenna, Glossary, 1970).—3. Brandy: c.:—1923 (Manchon). Ex the result of a light applied thereto.

flare up, v. To become extremely angry: coll.:—1849. 'Father Prout' Mahony, 'Swore, flared up, and curs'd'; Thackeray. flare up! A cry of joy or triumph or jubilation, or of joyous defiance, 'Let'em all come!': ca. 1832–45. From the Reform Riots, esp. in Bristol, where the flames of the burning city were said to have flared up (Mackay). See esp. DCpp.

flared. Tippy: Can.: since (?)ca. 1960. Leechman cites P. Wylie, They Both Were Naked, 1965, 'When I take enough liquor to reach the point you're talking about, I know I'm flared.' Cf. lit up and flaring.

flares. Trousers that are flared out over the ankles: coll. The fashion was popular mid-1970s. (P.B.)

flaring, adv. Exceedingly; vulgarly: coll.: C.19–20; ob. E.g. in flaring drunk.

flarty is obscure; ?an outsider. It is grafters' s. of C.20. Cheapjack, 1934, "'I'm a flarty too," she told me in confidence. "I don't really belong to the fair.'" Origin?

flash, n. and adj. (Underworld) cant; relating to the underworld or to its slang. Hence they often cannot trickery, crime, low immorality. Orig.—1756, 1700 resp. (SOD)—themselves c., they rapidly > low s. > gen. s. > coll. > S.E. Ultimately ex flash=sudden flame; intermediately ex flash=ostentation (see out of flash); imm.—of problematic birth. Ca. 1810–30, the s. of the man about town, chiefly the fast set and its hangers on (see esp. 'Jon Bee', Dict. of the Turf, 1823): s. > coll. > S.E. Cf. the ca. 1760–1825 coll., verging on S.E., sense: fop, coxcomb.—2. In c., late C.17–mid-19, a peruke. B.E.—3. A showy swindler; a hectoring vulgarian or nouveaux riche: C.17 coll. Shirley, 'The town is full of these vain-glorious flashes.'—4. A boast or great pretence uttered by spendthrift; quack, or sciolist: C.18. Dyche.—5. A portion or, as in flash of lightning, q.v., a drink: late C.18–19; low s. or low coll.—6. As the flash, the banner or other name-displaying cloth or card-device of a bookmaker's stand: racing c.: C.20. Abbr. the flash part. Analogous is the grafters' sense: 'A grafter's display. Anything to attract the crowd' (Allingham): C.20.—7. Priority given, by news-agencies, to sports' results; journalists':—1935.—8. An electric torch: c.: from ca. 1910. Gilt Kid, 1936.—9. One's personal appearance: low Aus.: since ca. 1920. (B., 1943.) See cut the flash.—10. The electrical officer: RN: since ca. 1940. Granville.—11. Embroidered badge worn on the very top of the uniform sleeve, denoted regiment, division, etc., as 'He was wearing I Corps flashes on his B.D.' = the soldier wore the title 'Intelligence Corps' on the shoulders of his battledress: army; if at first coll., soon > j.: WW1 and after. Cf. sense 6.—12. 'Effect of cocaine, and to a lesser extent of methedrine' (Home Office): drug addicts': 1970s.—13. A 'know-all': Borstals' and detention centres': 1970s. (Home Office). Cf. the adj., 2.—14. A token attempt at independence. See show of flash.—15. Illicitly distilled liquor: Brit. expatriates', in Saudi Arabia: since latish 1970s. (J.B. Smith, Bath, 1981.) flash, v. To show; esp. excessively, vulgarly, or with unnecessary 'pomp' or pretence: coll.:—1785. In C.17, S.E. It has, since latish C.19, borne a further nuance: to consciously, deliberately, esp. provocatively display, as in 'The monnisher [woman's] flashing her strides [knickers, panties]' (M.T.). Cf. sense 4.—2. V.t. with, e.g. the gentleman, to show off as, pretend to be, e.g. a gentleman: ca. 1795–1850.—3. V.i., with var. flash it, to make a display, show off: ca. 1770–1830. Cf. flash it about and flash it away. In later C.20 applied esp. to ostentatious use of money. The term derives ex flash in the sense, 'show as in a flash, hence, brilliantly' (see esp. W.), prob. influenced by flash, n. and adj., qq.v.—4. A specialisation of 3 is a v.i., with elab. (rather, orig.) flash it, q.v., which means 'to expose, suddenly and briefly, one's genitals in public'; hence, flasher, one who does this, flashing, the habit. All three, orig. (not later than 1920) and still, 1976, mainly British, esp. among the police. Neither DCCU, 1971, nor W. & F., 1975, cite any of them, but 6000 Words, 1976, has the v. (I owe the reminder to Paul Janssen: yet I've known the v. since 1921. The things one forgets one knows!)

flash, adj. See flash, n., 1.—2. In c. of ca. 1810–1900, knowing, expert; cognisant of another's meaning. Lex. Bal.—3. Orig. (—1785) c., by 1870 low: showy, vulgar; (in Aus.—1893) vainglorious, swaggering. Perhaps ex C.17–18 S.E. flash, show, ostentation.—4. Connected with boxing and racing: ca. 1808–90.—5. In a set style: ca. 1810–60: c. > low. Also n. Rare except in out of flash, q.v.—6. Occ. adv., as in to dress flash, i.e. fashionably but showily and in bad taste.—7. Imitation; counterfeit: c.: form ca. 1880; ob. Ware.—8. Fashionably smart: Aus. and NZ: late C.19–20. [The girls] think it's flash' to take strong drink (Jean Devanney, Bushman Burke, 1930). This sense is used also in UK, since mid-C.20 at latest. (P.B.)—9. Cheeky. See show of flash, and quot'n at strong, v.

flash, adv. See flash, adj., 6.—2. In put flash, to put (a person) on his guard: c.:—1812 (Vaux); † by 1900.

Flash, in combinations. In the ensuing list, only such are given as are not imm. and accurately deducible from the mere collocation of n. and n., v. and n., and n. and adj.

flash a bit. (Of women) to permit examination; behave indecently: low: from ca. 1840. Cf. flash it, q.v.

flash a fawn(e)y. To wear a ring: c.: from ca. 1815; ob.

flash Alf (usu. in pl.). Men in the swim of the smart world: ?since ca. 1900; not entirely ob. by 1970. L.A. cites The Times, 30 Aug. 1975, an extract from James Lees-Milne, Ancestral Voices. Cf. flash Harry.

flash as a Chinky's horse, as. (Very) high-spirited: Aus.: since ca. 1930. Baker, 1959.

flash-back. 'Recurrence of effects of hallucinogenic "trip", which can be months after last taking of LSD' (Home Office): coll.: since ca. 1960. Cf. flash, n., 11. Ex cinema j.

flash-case, -crib, -drum, -house, -ken, -panny. A lodging-house or tavern frequented by thieves and illegally favourable to them (cf. fence, n., 2); c. of resp. C.19–20 ob.; C.19; C.19–20 ob.; C.19–20; mid-C.17–19; and C.19, though extremely rare in these senses. Vaux has the second, fifth and sixth.—2. The meaning, a brothel, is derivative, and, though orig. c., it gradually > low: flash-crib is not used in this sense.

flash-cha(u)nt. 'A song interlarded with flash', i.e. with cant: c.: ca. 1820–70. (Egan's Grose.) Also flash song (Vaux), 1812.

flash-cove, from ca. 1810; -companion, from ca. 1860. A thief; sharper; 'fence'; (only flash-cove) landlord or a 'flash ken' (Vaux).

flash-covess. A landlady of a 'flash-ken': c.: C.19. Vaux.

flash-crib and flash-drum. See flash-case.

flash-dona. A var. of flash girl, q.v.: c.: late C.19–20. Ware.

flash (one's) gab. To talk, esp. much; boast: low:—1819.

Tom Moore, 'His Lordship, as usual ... is flashing his gab.' flash gear. Showy, yet superior, goods. See MOCK AUCTION, in Appendix.

flash-gentry. The high-class thieves: from ca. 1820; ob.; c. Conflation of n. and adj.

flash girl, moll, mollisher, piece, woman. A showy harlot: low: from ca. 1820.

flash Harry. The UK version of, and prob. earlier than, flash Jack, a showy fellow, glossed below as Aus. But this is in occ. British use also. Perhaps the best known Flash Harry of C.20 was Sir Malcolm Sargent (1895–1967), the conductor, noted for his elegance and showmanship.

flash-house. See flash-case.

flash in the pan. Coition sans emission: C.18–20 low coll. D'Urfev.

flash it. See flash, v., 3.

flash it or flash (one's) meat. (Gen. of men) to expose the person: low: from ca. 1840. See also flash, v., 4.

flash it! Let me see it! Show it! A low, esp. a coster's, reply to the offer of a bargain: from ca. 1820; ob.

flash it about or cut a flash. To make a display—once, often, continuously; to lead a riotous or even a crapulous life: low: from ca. 1860. Cf. cut a dash. Developed ex:

flash it away. To show off; cut a figure: coll.: ca. 1795–1860. O'Keeffe.

flash Jack. A showy fellow; a boaster: Aus.: C.20. E.P. cites Archer Russell, A Tramp Royal in Australia, 1934, but the term is known and used in Brit. also. Cf. flash Harry.

flash-jig. A favourite dance: costers': ca. 1820–90. Perhaps ex flash, adj., 3.

flash-ken. See flash-case. (B.E.)

flash kiddy. A dandy: low: ca. 1820–60. Cf. kiddy, q.v.

flash-lingo. Underworld s.: low: late C.18–19. (Grose, 1st ed.) See flash, n., 1.

flash lot. A smart new taxicab: taxi-drivers': since ca. 1920. Herbert Hodge, Cab, Sir?, 1939.

flash-man. One who talks the s. of the underworld: c.: late C.18–19. It occurs in the song 'Fal de Ral Tit', reprinted, from an unidentified British source, in an American magazine, The Port Folio, 9 Jan. 1808 (p. 31), 'I was a flashman of St Giles'. Also in the ballad The Rolling Blossom: see quot'n at not the bib.—2. A chucker-out to a brothel: c.: C.19. (Lex. Bal.) Imm. ex:—3. A harlot's bully or 'ponce': late C.18–20, ob.: low; prob. orig. c. Grose, 2nd ed. (2nd nuance).—4. A patron of boxing: s. > coll.: ca. 1820–50. Moncrieff.

flash (one's) meat. See flash it.

flash mollisher. A woman thief or swindler: c. (—1812); † by 1890. Vaux.—2. See flash girl.

flash-note. A counterfeit banknote: C.19 low (?orig. c.).

flash o(f) light. A gaudily or vividly dressed woman: rhyming s. on sight in nuance 'sorry sight': S. London:—1909 (Ware); †. Franklyn, Rhyming.

flash o(f) lightning. A dram of strong spirit, a glass of gin: from ca. 1780. Cf. (—1862) US usage.—2. Gold braid on an officer's cap: nautical: mid-C.19–20; ob. H., 3rd ed.

flash-panny. See flash-case.

flash patter. Cant (underworld slang): c.: C.19. E.g. in 'No. 747', p. 410.

flash (one's) rags. To display, gen. ostentatiously, one's bank-notes: low (? orig. c.): from ca. 1860. Cf. rag, n., 3, 4.

flash side, the. The 'knowing ones' or self-constituted judges: pugilistic: ca. 1810–50. (Boxiana, I, 1818.) See flash, adj., 2.

flash song. See flash-cha(u)nt. Perhaps low s. rather than c.

flash (one's) sticks. To expose or draw (not to fire) one's pistols: ca. 1810–50: c. Vaux.

flash(-)tail. A harlot picking up toffs at night: low:—1868; ob. by 1930.

flash the ash! 'Produce, and give me, a cigarette (or, us, cigarettes)!: army: 1950s. Cf. crash the ash. (P.B.)

flash the dibs. To spend one's money: low: ca. 1840–1930.

flash the dicky. To show one's shirt-front: c.: from ca. 1820. B. & L.

flash the drag. See drag.

flash the flag. See flag, 2.

flash the hash. To vomit: late C.18–19: c. Grose, 2nd ed.

flash the ivory or (one's) ivories. To grin or laugh: c. of late C.18–19 and low s. of C.19–20 resp. (Grose, 1st ed.) Contrast tickle the ivories.

flash the muzzle. To bring forth a pistol: low:—1823; ob. by 1870, † by 1900.

flash the patter. To talk; esp. to talk s. or c.: c. (from ca. 1820) >, ca. 1880, low s. Prob. ex patter flash, q.v. See patter, n., 1 and 2, flash, v., and flash patter.

flash the screens. To pay: c. of ca. 1820–40. See quot'n at stump the pew.

flash the red rag. To menstruate: low: C.19–early 20. Cf. red rag, 2.

flash the upright grin. (Of a woman) to expose her private parts: low: ca. 1860–1930. but re-emerged in US as 'vertical grin' (L.A.). Cf. flash (one's) meat, of men, at flash it.

flash the wedge. To 'fence' one's 'haul', 'swag', or booty: c.: C.19. See wedge, 1.

flash (one's) ticker. To take out one's watch rather often: low: from ca. 1850; †.

flash to, be. To be aware of, to understand fully: c.: ca. 1810–60. Vaux.

flash togger. Smart clothes: low:—1834 (Ainsworth, Rook-wood).

flash vessel. A very smart-looking ship that is undisciplined: nautical: ca. 1860–1915.

flash woman. A harlot mistress of a 'flash man' (3): c.: —1823; † by 1890. Bee.

flash yad. A day's enjoyment: ca. 1865–1910. Yad = day reversed. See also flats yad.

flushed-up. Dressed stylishly or in one's best: c., and low: C.20. (Gilt Kid, 1936.) Cf. dolled-up.

flasher. A would-be wit; hence, an empty fop: ca. 1750–90: coll. that perhaps > S.E. Mme D'Arblay, 1779, 'They are reckoned the flashers of the place, yet everybody laughs at them.'—2. A synonym of quicke (q.v.): Glasgow:—1934.—3. In Glasgow c. (—1934), a 'dud' bank-note.—4. A stall-holder at a fair: market-traders': C.20. Ex flash, n., 6.—5. A sexual exhibitionist, esp. male, one who 'flashes it': C.20. See flash, v., 4. flashery. Tawdry elegance; showy or vulgar display or action: coll.: ca. 1820–80. Never much used.

flashes. See course flashes.

flashily. See flashy.

flashing, n. Signalling; also flash, v.i., to signal: RN coll., > j.: C.20. Ex use of Aldis lamp or heliograph.

flashing it, go. To have sexual connexion: low: from ca. 1840; ob. Cf. flash it and flash a bit.

flashman. See flash-man.

flashy. Showy, gaudy; ostentatious: in late C.18–20, coll.; earlier, S.E. Hence adv. flashily, s., C.19–20, but very rare in C.20, and flashily, coll., C.18–20. Miss Braddon, 1864, 'He chose no... flashily cut vestments.'—2. Lively (e.g., song, ballad): mostly naval lowerdeck: late C.18–mid-19. Bill Truck, 1822.

flashy blade or spark. A dandy: ca. 1815–30.—2. Hence, a cheap and noisy dandy or would-be dandy: ca. 1830–75. Both, coll. verging on S.E.

flat, n. A greenhorn; a fool; an easy 'gull' or dupe: from ca. 1760. Barham, '... He gammons all the flats.' Cf. the C.20 story of the girl that refused to live either with or in one. By contrast with sharp.—2. An abbr. of flattie, 4: c.: C.20. David Hume.—3. See flats.—4. As the Flat, the season of flat horse-racing: sporting coll.: from ca. 1910.—5. A prefect: Monkton Combe School, near Bath: ?ca. 1850–1914. Sunday Times, correspondence columns, 8 Sep. 1963.—6. 'Worn part on wheel tyre due to skidding, or, in London Transport, due to excessive braking' (Railway, 2nd): transport workers' coll.: since late 1940s.—7. A cabin: RN: late C.19–mid-20. Goodenough, 1901.—8. Coll. shortening of 'a flat tyre': later C.20, ? ex US. (P.B.)—9. In do or have a bit of flat, to copulate: low: mid-C.19–20.—10. In pick up a flat, to find a client: prostitutes': C.19–20. Cf. senses 1 and 9.

flat, adj. Penniless; short of money: low: since ca. 1925. Short for flat broke.—2. See choppy.

flat, adv.; flat out. At top speed; 'all out': motor-racers': resp. s., from ca. 1928, an abbr. of the second term; from ca. 1910, s. >, by 1930, coll. and now verging on S.E.; prob. ex a horse's pose at the gallop, but see also flat to the boards.—2. In that's flat!, that is certain, undeniable!: late C.16–17. (Shakespeare.) In C.18–20, I'm determined (on that!) (Addison). Perhaps both senses are best classified as literary with a strong coll. flavour.

flat a-back. 'Naval rating's cap worn on the back of his head as a sign of bravado ashore. ... Naval patrols can charge the wearer with being improperly dressed.' The Aus. spelling (B., 1943) is flatterback.—2. 'Be taken by surprise, taken a-back' (Granville): RN: C.20.

flat as a flounder or a pancake. Extremely flat, lit. and fig.: coll.: the former, C.17–19; the latter, since ca. 1600. It occurs in, e.g., Roger Boyle, Guzman, 1669, V, ii (Moe). Apperson notes flat as a cake as early as 1542, and Ware the C.18–early 20 var. (likewise coll.) flat as a frying-pan.

flat back. A bed bug: low: from ca. 1840; ob. by 1900, † by 1920.

flat broke. Penniless; ruined: coll.: from ca. 1830.

flat-cap. A citizen of London: coll.: late C.16–early 18. Marston, 'Wealthy flat caps that pay for their pleasure the best of any men in Europe'. Temp. Henry VIII, round flat caps were fashionable; citizens continued to wear them when they had become unfashionable.—2. A Billingsgate fishwife: late C.17–early 18. See WOMEN, in Appendix.

flat-catcher. An impostor, a professional swindler; a decoy: orig. (—1823), c.; then low. Moncrieff, Mayhew, Whyte-Melville.—2. Hence, 'an article to dupe the public' (Sinks, 1848); ob.—3. Also applied to a horse that looks well and performs badly: ca. 1840–1930.

flat-catching. Swindling: orig. (—1821), c., then low. J. Greenwood, 1869, 'Flat-catching, as the turf slang has it'.

flat chicken. Stewed tripe: proletarian:—1909 (Ware); ob. by 1935.

flat-cock. A woman: low:—1785; † by 1890. (Grose, 1st ed.) Ex one of two possible anatomical reasons.

flat feet. RN seamen. See flat foot.—2. In go on (one's or its) own flat feet, 'A man walking or a tank moving invariably went "on their own flat feet"' (P-G-R): army: WW2. Cf. merry men, q.v., and flat-footer.—3. As the Flat Feet, the Foot Guards, British Army: from ca. 1860. H., 3rd ed.—4. Hence, various other line regiments; also, militia men as opp. to regulars: military: from ca. 1870.

flat fish, gen. a regular. A dullard; occ., an easy prey: C.19. (Bill Truck, July 1825.) Ex flat, stupid, + fish, something hookable.

flat foot. A sailor not yet aged 21: RN:—1909 (Ware). Ex:—2. Any sailor: RN, esp. marines': from ca. 1895; ob. OED Sup.—3. A policeman: lower classes':—1935.

flat footer. One who goes on foot: ca. 1870–1910. (B. & L.) Cf. frog-footed and flat feet, 2, qq.v.

flat-fuck, n. and v. Simulated copulation by a pair of women: lesbian coll.: C.19–20.

flat head or flat-head or flathead. A simpleton: Aus.: since ca. 1910. (B. & L.) Elab. of flat, n., 1, perhaps influenced by synon. fathead.

flat iron. A public-house at a corner: low: from ca. 1860; †. Ex its triangularity.—2. A monitor: RN: ca. 1850–90.—3. A river gunboat: RN: late C.19—earlier 20. See flatiron gunboat, of which this is the shortening.—4. Any large warship, esp. a battleship: RN (mostly wardroom): earlier C.20.—5. A scorpion: army in Middle East: WW1. S.F. Hatton, Yarn of a Yeoman, 1930.

flat-iron jiff. A master man in a small way: tailors': late C.19–20. Tailor and Cutter, 29 Nov. 1928.

flat move. A plan that fails; folly or mismanagement: ca. 1810–80: c. >, by 1823, low s. (Vaux; Bee.) I.e. a flat's action.

flat out. See flat, adv.

flat out for. Strongly in favour of: RAF: since ca. 1938. Jackson, Thus, 'I'm flat out for him having some leave.' Ex prec.

flat out like a lizard (1) drinking or (2) on a log. To lie on one's belly; but also, to work at great speed: Aus.: C.20. Wilkes cites Jean Devanny, By Tropic Sea, and Jungle, 1944, for 'a rat running flat out like a lizard drinking', and later examples of working flat out.

flat spin, in a. 'In 1916, to spin was a highly dangerous manoeuvre... The expression "in a flat spin", invented in those days, denoted that whoever was in it had reached the absolute limit of anger, nerves, fright, or whatever it might be' (Cecil Lewis, Sagittarius Rising, 1936, his memoirs of flying with the RFC). Hence, go into a flat spin, q.v.

flat to the boards. Synon. with, and prob. the origin of, flat (out): since early C.20. 'From the early days of motoring, when cars had wooden floor-boards. The car was at its maximum performance when the accelerator was pressed flat against the floor-boards' (B.P.).—2. Hence, fully extended; extremely busy: Aus.: since ca. 1925. 'Can't you see that I'm flat to the boards?' (B.P.)

flat top. An aircraft carrier: RN since ca. 1935. Granville.—2. Hence, a haircut similar to the crew cut but flat on the top: Aus.: since ca. 1945. (B.P.) Prob. ex US; known also in UK: there was, in the 1950s, a song about 'My boy flat-top'. (P.B.)

flatch. A half: back s., with the rigid flah modified: since late 1840s; still current, late 1970s.—2. Hence, a halfpenny: low:—1851 (Mayhew, I).—3. A spurious half-crown: coiners' c.: from ca. 1870; † with decimalisation, 1971, if not decades earlier.

flatch enore, var. of flatch yenork. A half-crown: back s.:—1859 (H., 1st ed.); †.

flatfoot. See flat foot; flat feet; catch flatfooted.

flathead. See flat head.

flatiron gunboat. A gunboat of the 1870s–80s, 'with a short turtle back': naval coll.: that period. (Bowen.) See also flat-iron, 2–4.

flatite. A dweller in a flat: Aus. coll.: since ca. 1925. B., 1959.

flats. Playing-cards: c.:—1812; ob. by 1880, † by 1900. (Vaux.) Cf. broads, q.v.—2. False dice: ?.: ca. 1700–1850. Cf. Fulhams.—3. Counterfeit money: c. or low: ca. 1780–1870. It occurs in Patrick Colquhoun, A Treatise on the Police of the Metropolis, 1796, at p. 120, and again in Maria & Richard Edgeworth, Practical Education, 1798.—4. In sharps and flats:

joc. coll. for sharps and their victims: C.19–20. And, 5, for recourse to weapons: 1818, Scott (OED); † by 1900.—6. See flats and chits.—7. (Very rare in the singular.) Long, thin envelopes: among sorters on mail trains: C.20. Daily Herald, 5 Aug. 1936.—8. 'Credit cards' (Powis): underworld and its fringes: since ca. 1970. Perhaps a revival, in new sense, of 1.—9. See mahogany flats.

flats and chits. Bugs and fleas, says Baumann, who classifies it as c.: but is this an error for flats and chats, bugs and lice? flats and sharps. Weapons: coll.: ca. 1780–1850. Scott, in Middlethian, 'He was something hasty with his flats and sharps.'—2. See flats, 4.

flats yad. A day's jollification: tailors' back s.: from ca. 1865; †. (B. & L.) Poss. a var. or corruption of flash yad, app. a more gen. synon.

flattened out, ppl adj. Penniless: tailors': late C.19–20. Cf. flat, adj.

flatter, n. 'The private motorist... knows that the squeaks in his bodywork are caused by "canaries" and that the tremendous speed he attains is due to "flatter" in his speedometer. When he "runs out of road", he gets severely "bent"' (Nigel Dennis, review 'Fancy Lingo', in Sunday Telegraph, 9 July 1961): motorists' terms: resp. since ca. 1950, ca. 1950, ca. 1945, ca. 1930.

flatter-trap. The mouth: c. or low: ca. 1840–1920.

flatterback. Aus. shape of flat a-back, q.v.

flatters, n. A calm sea: RN (mostly wardroom): since ca. 1920. By the 'OXFORD -ER(S)'. See also Harry flatters.

flatters, adj. Penniless, flat broke: since ca. (?)1950. By the 'OXFORD -ER(S)'. Wilbur Smith, A Sparrow Falls, 1977.

flattery will get you nowhere. A (by 1970s usu. joc.) deterrent c.p., common in Brit. and the Commonwealth since mid-C.20; prob. adopted ex US. By ca. 1970, perhaps earlier, there existed the realist var., flattery will get you everywhere or anything. See DCpp.

flattie, flatty. Among cheapjacks, one in a new 'pitch': ca. 1840–80.—2. A rustic; an uninitiated person: low coll.:—1859 (H., 1st ed.); current well into C.20, esp. among showmen, who (cf. sense 3) used bobbin flattie for a dupe, a simple fellow. John o' London's Weekly, 4 Mar. 1949.—3. Hence (see, however, flatty-gory), a 'flat', q.v.; an easy dupe: ca. 1855–1915: c. or low.—4. A uniformed policeman: c. and low: late C.19–20. Because his feet go flat from so much 'promenading'. Cf. flat foot, 3.—5. A member of the audience: circus-workers' s.: C.20. (E. Seago, Circus Company, 1933.) To showmen in gen., it means an outsider.—6. A small flat-bottomed sailing-boat: coll., esp. among boys: from ca. 1860.—7. One who goes out in a van in the summer but lives in a house in the winter: gipsies':—1897. Abbr. flattybouch, same meaning. (EDD).—8. Anyone, usu. male, not a market trader: market-traders': late C.19–20. (M.T.) Cf. sense 5.—9. A jam tart: St Bees School: from ca. 1914. Marples.

flatties. Flat-heeled, as opp. to high-heeled, shoes: feminine coll.: since ca. 1945. (John Boswell, Lost Girl, 1959.) Cf. wedgies.

flatty. See flattie.

flatty-gory. A 'flat', a dupe or intended dupe: c.: ca. 1810–40. (Vaux.) Perhaps the origin of all senses of flattie.

flatty-ken. A thieves' lodging-house where the landlord is not 'fly to the tricks of the underworld': c.:—1851: ob. (Mayhew.) Ex flattie, 2, q.v., + ken, a place.

flavour, catch or get the. To be drunk: low coll.: from ca. 1860; ob.—2. To feel somewhat inclined for sexual intercourse: low: from ca. 1870's 'ob.

flawed. Drunk: early C.17–19: orig. c., then low. See TAVERN Terms, §8, in Appendix. In C.19, gen. = half drunk. B.E.—2. (Of women) no longer virgin though unmarried: coll.: C.19–20.

flaxies. Workers in a flax-mill: NZ: C.20. Jean Devanney, Old Savage and Other Stories, 1927.

flay or skin a flint. To be mean; miserly: coll. > S.E.: mid-C.17–19. Marryat, 'She would skin a flint if she could.' Cf. flea-flint, q.v.

flay (orig. and gen. flea) the fox. To vomit: coll.: late C.16–19. (Cotgrave; Urquhart; H., 5th ed.) The mod. term is whip the cat.

flaybottomist, late C.18–19; flaybottom, C.19–20 (ob.). A schoolmaster: joc. coll. (Grose, 1st ed.) Cf. bum-brusher and kid-walloper. Punning phlebotomist.

flea. See hot-plater; fit as a flea.

flea and louse. A (bad) house: rhyming s.:—1859 (H., 1st ed.); † since ca. 1920. It went to the USA.

flea-bag. A bed: low: ca. 1835–1915. Lever in Harry Lorrequer.—2. Hence, (an officer's) sleeping-bag: from ca. 1909. Collinson.—3. Hence, a seaman's hammock: RN: since ca. 1920.—4. A dog; less gen., a cat: Aus. (B., 1942) and Brit.: C.20.

flea-bite, in C.16–17 occ. -biting. A trifling injury or inconvenience: coll.: late C.16–18; in C.19–20, S.E. The former in Taylor, 1630, and Grose; the latter in Burton.

flea box. 'A guard's brake van on a goods train. Scottish term. The old guard's brake was very small and cramped' (McKenna, Glossary, 1970): railwaymen's.

flea-chariot. A flea-ridden pallas: Anglo-Irish: since ca. 1920. Patrick Doncaster, A Sigh for a Drum-Beat, 1947.

flea-circus. A cheap cinema: Aus.: since ca. 1925. (Baker.) Cf. flea-pit, 3.

flea- or flay-flint. A miser: coll., > S.E. in C.19: C.17–20; ob. D'Urfev, 1719, 'The flea-flints . . . strip me bare.' Ex flay a flint, q.v.

flea in (one's or) the ear, have a. To be scolded or annoyed; to fail in an enterprise: coll.: C.16–20. Heywood's Proverbs, 1546. (Anticipated in C.15.) Cf.—2. In send away with a flea in (one's or) the ear, to dismiss annoyingly or humiliatingly: coll. (—1602). Middleton; George Eliot; Weyman, 1922. (Apperson.) Cf. dial. flea in the ear(-hole) and flea in the lug, resp. a box on the ears and a scolding or sharp reproof.

flea-market. A street-market, and, hence, any market, trading chiefly in trinkets, bric-à-brac, and cheap 'antiques': OED Sup., 1977, records as s., but by 1980 it had > coll., the term being used widely in advertisements for these events. Cf. Fr. marché aux puces in Paris (OED).

flea-pit. A flat (apartment): from ca. 1919. (John G. Brandon, The One-Minute Murder, 1934.) On flea-bag with joc. allusion to S.E. cubby-hole.—2. A studio notorious for its low wages: glass-painters': from ca. 1880. (Johannesburg) Sunday Times, 23 May 1937.—3. A second-rate, dirty cinema: since ca. 1918: 'In every town at one time earlier C.20 there was a cinema known as the Bug Hut or the Scratch or Flea Pit' (Listener, 23 Dec. 1982, p.35). By ca. 1939, also S. African. Cf. bug-house, n.—4. A sleeping-bag: Army (esp. officers): since ca. 1915. Cf. sense 2 of flea-bag.

flea the fox. See flay the fox.

fleas. See catch (one's) fleas; jumpy as a bag of . . .; sit on a bag of . . .

fleas(-)and(-)itchers, the. The cinema: Aus. rhyming s. (on pictures): since ca. 1946. (B., 1953.) Probably influenced by flea-pit, 3. flea's leap, in a. Very quickly or promptly: coll.: from ca. 1840.

fleece. An act of thieving or swindling: C.17 coll. The v. itself had a coll. flavour in C.16–18, and was, by C.20, S.E.—2. The female pubic hair: (? C.18); C.19–20: low coll. Cf. furbelow.

fleece-hunter or -monger. A whoremonger: C.19–20 (ob.): low coll. Ex fleece, 2. Contrast tuft-hunter.

fleece. A thief or swindler: C.17–19 coll. Prynne. Cf. Yorkshire fleece.

fleeco. Aus. and NZ var. of the next: C.20. Jean Devaney, The Butcher Shop, 1926.

fleecy. That shearing-shed hand who picks up the shorn fleeces: Aus. and NZ rural coll.: late C.19–20. G.B. Lancaster, Sons o' Men, 1904; Baker.

[flee, in C.17 often flear, to gain, etc., has, pace B.E. and F. & H., never been other than S.E.]

Fleet. See Navy Office and whet (one's) knife . . .—2. In go round or through the fleet, 'To be flogged on board each vessel in the fleet' (SOD): from ca. 1820; RN s., > j. Also send through the fleet (Bill Truck, 1822).

Fleet Air Arm Wallah. A member of the FAA. See matlow, 2. fleet note. A counterfeit banknote: c.: ca. 1810–60. Is this the dial. adj. fleet, shallow? Or fleet, the mainly dial. adj., skimmed?

Fleet Street. Journalism: in C.19 coll. and pej.; in C.20 S.E. and neutral, the fourth estate being now a reputable body. Fleet Street became the centre of British journalism early in C.18.

Fleet-Streeter. A journalist: C.19–20 (ob.): coll. In C.19, 'a journalist of the baser sort; a spunging prophet (q.v.); a sharking dramatic critic; a spicy (q.v.) paragraphist; and so on' (F. & H., 1893).

Fleet-Streeterese. The English of the Fleet-Streeter, q.v.: coll.: in C.20, neutral; but in C.19, to quote the same authority, 'a mixture of sesquipedalians and slang, of phrases worn threadbare and phrases sprung from the kennel; of bad grammar and worse manners; the like of which is impossible outside of Fleet Street (q.v.), but which in Fleet Street commands a price, and enables not a few to live.'

Fleet's (all) lit up, the. 'BBC announcer, ex RN officer, hiccupped this and nothing else in Spithead BBC broadcast from battleship. King George V Jubilee, 1935. Sensation' (Frank Shaw, 1968). It > c.p., which is still, 1983, not quite †.

Flem. A Fleming: coll. (1909) by 1930 verging on S.E. OED Sup.

Flemington confetti. Rubbish, nonsense, 'tripe'; 'bulsh': Aus.: since ca. 1920. (B., 1942.) Ex the appearance of Flemington racecourse at the close of a big meeting; paper everywhere. Cf. Flemo. 'More likely to be from the Flemington Saleyards in Sydney or Melbourne' (B.P.).

Flemish account. A bad account; unsatisfactory remittance: coll. (by 1800 S.E.): ca. 1660–1830; but extant, as s., among sailors as late as 1874 (H., 5th ed.). Its post-1820 use in S.E. is archaic. Cf. Flanders reckoning, q.v.—2. Hence, 'ship's books that will not balance': nautical: C.19–20; ob. Bowen.

Flemish horse. 'A rope under the yard, on which the man at the extreme end of it stands to support himself in reefing or furling the topsail' (W.N. Glascock, Sketch-Book (I, 10), 1825: Moe).

Flemo. Flemington district (a north-west suburb of Melbourne) and racecourse: Aus.: C.20. Baker.

flesh; flesh and fire! As coll. exclamations: late C.17–mid-18. Ex God's flesh! (Langland), where flesh has a spiritual or religious sense. OED.

flesh and blood. Brandy and port equally mixed: from ca. 1825: ob.

flesh-bag. A shirt; a chemise: low: from ca. 1810; ob. Vaux, 1812; London Magazine (the like of which we need today), 1820 (vol. I), 'They are often without a flesh bag to their backs.'

flesh-broker. A match-maker: a bawd: late C.17–early 19: low. B.E., who has also, spiritual flesh-broker, a 'parson.

flesh-creeper. A 'shocker' or 'blood' or 'dreadful': 1887, Baumann; † by 1930.

flesh, fish, nor good red herring. See neither fish nor flesh . . .

flesh-fly (Cowper), -maggot, or -monger; flesh-market or -shambles; flesh-mongering. Rather (pace F. & H.) S.E. than coll., and all ob. or †.

flesh it. (Other forms are S.E.) To 'know' a woman: C.16–20 (ob.): low coll. Cf. fleshing, q.v., and the S.E. flesh one's sword. (Flesh, generative organs, C.16–20 literary: see Grose, P., at flesh-broker.)

flesh-tailor. A surgeon: C.17: joc., but ?coll. or S.E. Ford, in 'Tis Pity She's a Whore. flesher. A shirt: army coll.: late C.19–early 20. (F. & G.) In the army, it was worn next to the skin. Cf. flesh-bag.

fleshing, go a. To go wenching: coll.: late C.16–17. Florio, 1598.

fleshy, n. A flesh wound: Aus. soldiers': 1940+. Rats, 1944, "Just a couple of fleshies. Be back again in a few weeks, dealing it out to old Jerry again."

fleshy part of the thigh. The buttock: joc. coll.: 1899–ca. 1912. Ex military news evasion. Ware, 'Came into use upon the news from S. Africa of Lord Methuen having been wounded in this region'.

flet. A halibut: nautical: C.19–20. (Bowen.) Perhaps by perversion on perversion: which will, admittedly, explain anything, yet is undoubtedly operative now and then.

fletch. A counterfeit coin: c.: ca. 1870–1910. Perversion of flatch, q.v.

flib. Dripping. See flab, 1.

flick, n. A thief: c.: C.17. (Rowlands, where wrongly printed afflicke.) Abbr. late C.16–early 17 flicker, a pilferer.—2. (Gen. as old flick.) Comical fellow: a low coll. salutation, joc. in tendency:—1860; † H., 2nd ed.; Punch, 28 July 1883.—3. A bioscope: Stellenbosch University, S. Africa: earlier C.20. Cf. Dutch flikkeren, to flicker.—4. A moving picture; the performance at a cinema: 1926 (Edgar Wallace: OED Sup.). E.P. orig., 1937, noted: '† by 1936'. But the term did not die, and has been revived in the 1970s, esp. in skinflick, a film depicting nudes, and explicitly erotic. (P.B.)—5. A flick-knife: coll.: since ca. 1955. (Petch, 1969.)

flick, v. To cut: c.: from ca. 1670; ob. (Coles; B.E.; Disraeli in Venetia.)? ex the flicking of a whip.—2. Gen. flick along. To cause (e.g. a motor-car) to move rapidly: from ca. 1915: s. now verging on coll. Galsworthy, 1924.

flicker, n. A drinking-glass. A rum f., a large glass; queer f., an ordinary one. C.: mid-C.17–early 18. (Coles, 1676.) Perhaps ex its flickering lights.

flicker, v. To drink: c. (? C.18) C.19. Ex flicker, n., q.v.—2. To grin; laugh in a person's face: late C.17–20; dial. after ca. 1830. B.E. flickering. Vbl n. ex prec.

flickers. A fainting; tramps' c.: from the early 1920s. (F. Jennings, Tramping with Tramps, 1932.) Ex US c. flicker, in the same sense.—2. A var. of flicks, first noted in Collinson, 1927.

flicking. Ex flick, v.—2. A corruption (from ca. 1910), orig. perhaps euph., of fricking.

flicks, the. The films; the moving pictures; (go to the flicks) a cinema: since—1927 (Collinson); slightly ob. by 1983, very common in UK, 1940s, and in Aus., still in 1966. (P.B.; B.P.) Ex flick, n., 4.—2. Searchlights: RAF: WW2. Jackson.

flid. A schoolchildren's pej.: late 1970s. 'One fourth-year boy referred to another as a "flid" ... [he explained] "It's short for flidomide [i.e. thalidomide]"' (New Society, 31 Jan. 1980). Cf. mongie; spag.

flidjet-sergeant. A flight-sergeant: RAF: since ca. 1933. (L.A.) An attempted phonetic pron. of flight.

flier. See flyer, and take a flyer.

flies. See down like flies; keeping the flies ...; no flies! and no flies about or on ...; skating-rink; up in the flies; where the flies ...

Flight. In address (rarely otherwise): Flight-Sergeant: RAF coll.: since ca. 1919. (Jackson.) It has never—at least by the other ranks—been so widely used as chiefie.

flight. See first flight.

flight deck. Female breasts: raffish: later C.20. 'Lovely flight deck she's got!' (Posy Simmonds, True Love, 1981).

flight loolie or louie. A flight-lieutenant: RAF: since ca. 1930. (Jackson.) Ex the US lootenant for 'lieutenant'.

flight magician. A flight mechanic: RAF: since ca. 1925; †. Ibid.

flight o(f) steps. Thick slices of bread and butter: coffee-houses':—1883 (Ware). Cf. doorstep, q.v.

flight of turkeys. A RM landing-party: naval: C.19. Bowen. Ex their red tunics.

flights. Hangars: RAF: since ca. 1937. Jackson, "Thus,

"Down in the flights": from the hangars the aircraft are moved preparatory to flying.

flim. Abbr. flimsy, n., esp., in C.20, in sense of a £5 note: among grafters, spivs, market traders and the like, particularly of the old, large white, thin banknotes. (Philip Allingham; Picture Post, 2 Jan. 1954; M.T.) Hence, the sum of £5 (Tempest).—2. 'A sentence of five years' penal servitude' (Tempest): c.: mid-C.20.

flim-flam, n. and adj., is S.E. until C.19, when it > coll.: since ca. 1850, it has been archaic. Cf. flam, of which it may possibly be a reduplication, even though the doubled form is app. the earlier.

flimp; rarely flymp. To hustle; esp. thus to rob: c.:—1839 (Brandon). Hence flimper: a stealer from the person. 'Cf. west Flemish flimpe, knock, slap in the face' (OED).—2. Hence, to swindle: low and military:—1914 (F. & G.).—3. To have sexual intercourse with: from ca. 1850. Cf. the sexual vv. bang and knock, qq.v.—4. As n., in put the flimp on, gen. v.i., to rob on the highway; to rob and garrotte: c.: from ca. 1835; ob. Brandon.

flimper. See flimp, 1.

flimping. Stealing from the person: c.:—1839.—2. A 'rigging' of the weights on a pair of scales: barrow-boys': since ca. 1920.

flimsy. A banknote: from ca. 1810: low. Lex. Bal. (flymsey). Occ. abbr. flim (—1870). Also, in pl, paper-money (—1891). Ex the thin paper.—2. Reporters' 'copy'; news: journalistic coll.: from ca. 1859; in C.20, S.E. Ex the thin copying-paper.—3. Hence, a sheet of music, a street-song; tramps' c.:—1887 (Baumann).—4. 'An officer's report at the end of a commission or when leaving a man-of-war': RN: from ca. 1890. Goodenough, 1901.—5. (Cf. sense 2.) An important message written on rice paper, which, if one is captured, can be swallowed without ill effects: Services: since 1939. H. & P.—6. A cheque: Aus.: C.20. (B., 1942.) Ex 1.—7. A train order: Can. railroadmen's:—1931.—8. 'A four-gallon petrol can of tinsplate (later ternplate) made in Egypt and used throughout the "Middle East"'. Egyptian industry was not capable of making a more substantial can. The ordinary British two-gallon can was an engineering marvel by comparison' (Peter Sanders); army: ca. 1940–3. flimsy, v. To write on flimsy (sense 2): journalists': from ca. 1885: coll. >, by 1910, S.E.

flinch-gut. Whale's blubber: whalers': mid-C.19–20. Bowen.—2. Hence the hold in which it is stored: whalers': late C.19–20. Ibid.

fling. A sowing of one's wild oats; a spree: from ca. 1825: coll. soon S.E. Thackeray. (With have).—2. In in a fling, in a fit of temper: coll.: C.19–early 20.

fling, v. To cheat or trick; v.t. with out: coll.: mid-C.18–20; almost †. (Grose.) Esp. fling out of, e.g. money.

fling-dust, occ. -stink. A harlot that walks the streets. C.17–18 (? later): coll. Fletcher, 'An English whore, a kind of fling-dust, one of your London light-o'-loves', 1621 (OED).

fling for. In, e.g., fling for a cly, try to steal someone's purse: c.: C.18–early 19. See quot'n at rap, v., 2.

fling (or flap) it in (one's) face. (Of a harlot) to expose her genitals: low coll.: C.19–20. Cf. Aus. cock it up at.

fling one up. To salute an officer: RAF: since ca. 1930. (Jackson.) Cf. chuck or throw one up.

fling out, v.i. To go out or away in noisy haste; esp., in a temper: coll. > S.E.: C.18–20. flinking. Employed by youths to impress their friends that they are still 'he-men', not 'cissies', usually if women or strangers might overhear them: since ca. 1940. Ex S.W.-English dial. flink, 'to fling or toss', whence flinker, 'a proud woman'.

flint. A worker at union, mod. trades-union, rates: from ca. 1760. Opp. dung, q.v. Both terms are in Foote's burlesque, The Tailors. Ob. by 1890, † by 1910. I.e., one who is true as steel.—2. See fix (one's) flint, to 'settle his hash'.—3. In old flint, a miser: coll.:—1840 (Dickens, The Old Curiosity Shop); ob. by 1930.

flint it out. To insist on full wages: workmen's: C.19. (B. & L.) Cf. flint, 1.

flinter. A flint-lock gun or pistol: coll. among gun-makers and, mid-C.19–20, antique dealers: from prob. within a few years of invention. (SOD's first date for 'flint-lock' is 1683.) In Jonathan Gash, The Judas Pair, 1917.

flip, n. 'Hot small Beer (chiefly) and Brandy, sweetened and spiced upon occasion' (B.E., ca. 1690): orig. nautical; but S.E. by 1800. (Cf. Sir Cloudeley, q.v.) Perhaps abbr. Philip (W.).—2. A bribe or tip: low: C.19–20.—3. (A short) flight or trip in an aircraft, esp. in an aeroplane: aviators' (1914) >, by 1920, gen. (OED Sup.) By ca. 1935 the term was applied also to a trip in a motor-car (H. & P.), but this latter nuance was ephemeral. The orig. sense, a trip in an aeroplane, may now, 1983, be ob. but is by no means †. (P.B.)—4. A mere nothing, a trifle: lower classes': an early occurrence is in A. Neil Lyons, Clara, 1912. Perhaps ex flip, a flash or flicker of light.—5. A chap, a fellow: Aus. pej.: C.20. Ex the v., 5; perhaps short for flip-wreck, q.v.—6. (A taking of) a dose of heroin: drug addicts': since ca. 1950. (Frank Norman, in Encounter, 1959.) Adopted ex US.—7. Short for flip-side: since late 1950s.

flip, v. To shoot, gen. v.t.: c. (—1812); very ob. Vaux.—2. To fly in an aircraft, esp. in an aeroplane: aviators' (1915) >, by 1920, gen.—but much less gen. than the corresponding n., whence, by the way, it derives. F. & G.—3. To approve wildly, to become deliriously elated: Can. dance-lovers' and jazz musicians': adopted, 1957, ex US (where orig. flip one's wig).—4. To go literally mad: Can. jazz musicians' and lovers': since 1956 or 1957. Cf. the US blow one's top.—5. To masturbate: Aus. male: late C.19–20. Also flip oneself off.—6. To arouse enthusiasm: drug addicts', hippies', Flower People's: since ca. 1966. Peter Fryer in Observer colour sup., 3 Dec. 1967.—7. (Also flip out.) To have a mental breakdown, esp. if drug induced: adopted, orig. by addicts, in Brit. in late 1960s. Ex US, and senses 3 and 4 above.

flip, adj. Flippant: US s., adopted ca. 1918 in Can., ca. 1945 in Aus. (Ruth Park, The Good-Looking Women, 1961); late 1940s in NZ; ca. 1950 in Britain.

flip-flap. A flighty woman: coll. > S.E.: C.18. Vanbrugh, 1702. 'The light airy flip-flap, she kills him with her motions.'—2. A step-dance (see cellar-flap); a somersault in which the performer lands on feet and hands alternately: the former, from ca. 1860; the latter (showmen's), late C.17–early 19.—3. The arm: nautical:—1887. Cf. flipper. Baumann.—4. The membrum virile: from ca. 1650: cf. dingle-dangle.—5. A (fireworks) cracker (—1885); ob.—6. 'Broad fringe of hair covering the young male forehead': Cockneys': 1898–ca. 1914. Ware.

flip-flaps. See flip-flaps, 1.

flip-flop. 'Soixante-neuf': since ca. 1950. Landy, 1971.

flip-flops. (Or -flaps.) Bouncing breasts: Aus.: since ca. 1920.—2. Hence, girls with bouncing breasts, as in 'standing in Martin Place [Sydney] and watching the flip-flops go by': Aus.: since early 1920s.—3. Those sandals that are simply a rubber sole, with a thong over or between the toes: orig. army in the Far East, by 1954 at latest; then, ca. 1976, when the style was introduced into UK, widespread and > coll. Echioic. (P.B.) flip (one's) lid. To go to the extreme of any emotion; to go crazy: later C.20. Cf. flip (one's) top or wig, and flip, v., 7. flip (oneself) off. See flip, v., 5. Also as v.t., and Brit., C.20. flip side. The reverse side of a record disc: teenagers', ex disc jockeys': adopted, ex US (Claiborne), late 1950s.—2. From early 1980s used fig., for the reverse of anything; as in 'she fell victim to the flip side of La Dolce Vita, took a drug overdose' (Observer mag., 21 Mar. 1982, p. 53), and 'the flip side of this argument is... (Guardian, 2 July 1982), the reverse, or converse.

flip (one's) top. To become extremely angry or excited, almost crazy: Aus.: adopted, ca. 1950, ex US. (B.P.)

flip (one's) wig. To become highly elated: some teenage use in UK in early 1960s. See flip, v., 3.

flip-wreck. Vaguely pej. for a man: Aus.: since ca. 1910. Ex flip, to masturbate, with a pun on 'ship-wreck'. Cf. the 1970s Brit. use of wanker. See also flip, n., 5. flipped. Crazy: Aus.: since early 1950s. (B.P.). Ex flip (one's) top or wig.

flipper. The hand: from ca. 1820: nautical, soon gen. An early occurrence is in 'A Real Paddy', Real Life in Ireland, 1822. Ex aquatic animals' flippers. Esp., later in C.19, in tip a person one's flipper, shake hands with. (Punch, 11 Oct. 1884.) Cf. flapper.—2. That part of a 'scene' which, painted and hinged on both sides, is used in trick changes: theatrical coll.: from ca. 1870; ob.—3. Var. of flapper, 5, a young harlot.—4. The controls of an aircraft: RFC/RAF: ca. 1916–25. Guy Fowler, The Dawn Patrol, 1930.—5. 'A top-spinner delivered by the bowler with an extra flip of the fingers' (Peter Sanders): cricketers': since ca. 1920.—6. friend: since ca. 1960. 'And somehow that was the moment she became my best flipper. From that time on I truly loved her... Oh... don't think we were lesbians' (Adrian Reid, Confessions of a Hitch-Hiker, 1970).

flipping. A pej., usu. intensive, adj. and adv.: proletarian: since ca. 1920. 'I sha'n't do the flipping thing'—'I don't flipping well know.' (The film, Seven Days to Noon, 1950.) Orig. euph. In S.P.B. Mais, Caper Sauce, 1948, we find: "'No flipping Bovril about the Barley Mow, Aggie,'" said Lomax. "And I'll trouble you not to swear, Mr Lomax. There's ladies present.'" Since ca. 1940 the commonest of all euphemisms for fucking, adj., as in the common exclam. of disgust 'Flippin' 'eck!' = Fucking Hell!, so often used unwittingly and in all innocence.

flirt-gill, C.16–17; gill-flirt, C.18—early 19. A wanton; a harlot. Orig. coll., soon S.E. Occ. jill; abbr. Gillian = Juliana. flirtina cop-all (sc. men). A wanton: low coll.: from ca. 1860. ?after concertina.

flit, do a. To run away with another's share: c.:—1933 (Charles E. Leach). See also moonlight flit.

flit commode. A flight commander (not a rank but a function): RAF: since ca. 1935. Jackson. Cf. air commode.

flit-gun. A 25-pounder gun: army medium gunners': WW2. See cap-badge, 2.

flivver. A cheap and/or small motor-car (1920) or aeroplane (ca. 1925). (OED Sup.) (P.B.): the aeroplane sense is long since †; the term is now, 1983, chiefly assoc. with the early model Ford cars, and has thus > historical.) The OED's dates are for Britain, but as 'a small, cheap motorcar' it was current in Can. by 1910, as Leechman tells me, at latest—as in Fraser, Red Meekins, 1910.

float, n. The row of footlights; (also in pl) the footlights: theatrical: ca. 1860–1930. (In C.20, S.E.) Before gas, oil-pans with floating wicks were used.—2. A till; the contents thereof: c.:—1935. David Hume.—3. That cash in the till which is there for ordinary trading: coll.: since the 1930s. (Stephen Mogridge, Talking Shop, 1950.) Perhaps ex 2, and by later C.20, S.E.—4. A faux pas: Eton:—1909 (Marples). See v., 2, and floater, 5.

float, v. To die, 'give up the ghost': Aus.:—1916 (C.J. Dennis).—2. To make a mistake: perhaps, orig.,—1919 at Eton (Marples); Manchon, 1923, records some more widespread use.—3. To go: from ca. 1910. Cf. float up, v.—4. To sail as a seaman: MN: C.20. Steven Piper, The North Ships, 1974, 'I have never floated in the big crack ships...'

float around. To fly near by 'in a leisurely fashion for the fun of it or to kill time' (Jackson): RAF: since ca. 1930.—2. Hence (or ex?), of a person, to loaf about aimlessly, as 'I just happened to be floating around (or about) town, and thought I'd drop in on you': C.20 coll. (P.B.)

float (one's) hat. To get soaked; to lose one's hat in the water: Can. lumbermen's: C.20. (John Beames.)

float like a brick-built shithouse. To sink; to appear virtually certain, because of its build, to do so: MN: since late 1930s. (Peppitt.) Cf. fly like..

float-up. A person's casual approach: NZ: C.20. Ex: float up, v. To stroll up to a person or a group; to arrive unexpectedly: NZ coll.: C.20.

floaters. (Cf. the American senses in Thornton.) A suet dumpling: Cockney, mostly costers':—1864. Often it floats in gravy. Cf. the US floating island. H., 3rd ed.—2. (Gen. pl.) An Exchequer bill; any sound stock: Stock Exchange:—1871. Because a recognised security.—3. The penis: C.19.—4. A mine adrift: RN coll.: 1916. 'Taffrail', Carry On!, 1916; Bowen.—5. A mistake, a faux pas; a moment of embarrassment: university s. (ca. 1910) >, by 1929 (Wodehouse), gen. to the upper and middle classes. A. Lunn, The Harrovians, 1913; Ronald Knox, 1934, Still Dead, 'It produced ... in the original and highly esoteric sense of that term, a "floaters".' Perhaps because it cannot be recalled, though perhaps suggested by faux pas slurred to fôper; cf., however, float, v., 2.—6. A penny that does not spin: two-players' coll.: late C.19–20.—7. Esp. in floaters and mash, sausages and mashed potatoes: RAF: since ca. 1920. (Jackson.) Ex sense 1?—8. An employee always on the move: Can. railroadmen's:—1931. Also known as a boomer.—9. A departmental file that circulates for the information of the branch: army officers': since ca. 1920.—10. A meat pie in a plate of peas or gravy: Aus.: later C.20. Wilkes.—11. See:

floaters. Spots before the eyes: since ca. 1950 or a decade earlier. (Weekend, 21 May 1969.) Also known as flying flies.

floaters in the snow. Sausages and mashed potatoes: RN (lowerdeck): since ca. 1920. Cf. floaters, 7. P.B.: perhaps ex turds left floating in a lavatory bowl; cf. the 1920s army c.p., 'Don't pull the plug, Dad, I like to see them floating!'

floating. Intoxicated, whether with liquor or, hence, drugs: adopted, ca. 1950, ex US. (John Wyatt, Drugs, 1973.) Richard McKenna, in The Sand Pebbles, 1962, a novel about the US Navy in China in the mid-1920s, writes of an enjoyable weekend-long bout of intoxication as 'a floating drunk'. (P.B.)

floating academy. The convict hulks: mid-C.18—mid-19 c. or low s. (Grose, 1st ed., at academy). Cf. Campbell's academy, q.v., and floating hell.

floating batteries. Broken bread dipped in tea: military: ca. 1890–1914.

floating coach-and-four, the. The Isle of Man paddle-ship Ben-My-Chree, after being re-boilered and fitted with four funnels: nautical: C.20. Bowen.

floating coffin. A ship materially rotten: nautical coll.: late C.19–20. Bowen. Ex:—2. A 10-gun brig (also a coffin-brig): ca. 1800–80. Ibid.

floating hell; occ., in sense 2 only, hell afloat. The hulks: ca. 1810–50. (Lex. Bal., 1811.) Ex the repulsive conditions.—2. Hence, a ship commanded by a brutal bully, hence by any rigid disciplinarian: nautical coll.: from ca. 1850.

floating one, vbl n. Passing a worthless cheque or arranging a loan without definite security: Services, esp. among officers: since ca. 1930. H. & P.

floating skeleton (or with capitals), the. 'The Russian five-funnelled cruiser Askold' (Bowen): RN: WW1.

flob. To spit: esp. among early-teenage boys: since the 1930s. (Gavin Weightman, New Society, 6 Oct. 1977.) Prob. echoic, influenced by gob, a lump of phlegm. Hence, flobbing = spitting. (P.B.) flock. A bed: tramps' c.: C.20. Ex the flock in a mattress.

flock of sheep. White waves (cf. 'horses') of the sea: coll.: C.19–20; ob.—2. A dominoes-hand set out on the table: from ca. 1870.

floey (or Floey), drunk as. Exceedingly drunk: proletarian:—1909 (Ware). Perhaps a mishearing or corruption of drunk as Chloe, q.v. at DRINKS, in Appendix.

flog. To whip: from ca. 1670. Until ca. 1750, c.: in C.19–20, S.E. (Coles, 1676.) Prob. an echoic perversion of L. flagellare.—2. To beat, excel: ca. 1840–1910 in gen. coll., but extant in Anglo-Irish until much later than 1910. (P.W. Joyce.)—3. In late C.19–20 military, to sell illicitly, esp. Army stores; and, in post-WW1 c., to sell 'swag' to others than receivers. (F. & G.; B. & P.) Ex flog the clock or flog the glass. (Cf. flogging, adj., q.v.)—4. Hence, to get the better of (a person), esp. in a bargain: military: 1915. F. & G.—5. Hence(?) , to exchange or barter: c.: from ca. 1920. Anon., Dartmoor from Within, 1932.—6. (Ex 3.) 'To offer for sale (especially when financially embarrassed)'. (H. & P.): Services': since ca. 1935. By ca. 1950 the term had broadened to mean simply 'to sell', gen. and widespread low coll., as 'They're flogging apples at ten pee a pound down the supermarket' (P.B., 1979).—7. (Ex 4.) 'To borrow without permission': Services': since ca. 1937. H. & P.—8. To masturbate: Aus. low: C.20.—9. See flog it.—10. In on the flog, which may refer to any of senses 3–7, but usu. with an implication of some dishonesty. (P.B.) flog a willing horse. To urge on a person already eager or very active: coll.: mid-C.19–20.

flog (one's) chops. To wear oneself out: Aus.: since ca. 1940. Alex Buzo, Norm and Ahmed, produced in 1968.

flog (one's) donkey. (Of a male) to masturbate: low (? orig. Cockney): late C.19–20. Variants are flog one's mutton, cf. jerk ...; and flog the bishop, cf. bash (one's or) the bishop.

flog it. To walk: army: from ca. 1912; † by 1950. F.&G.

flog the bung. To use a mallet instead of the regulation 'pricker' to draw the bung of a cask: RN: mid-C.19–20; † by 1930. Granville.

flog the cat. 'To cry over spilt milk' (Bowen): nautical: mid-C.19–20. Goodenough, 1901, defines it 'to be vexed with ourselves for something we have said or done'.—2. To vent one's bad temper on someone: RN: since ca. 1925. (Granville.) P.B.: prob. ex the idea of an evil humour passing all down the chain of command to the lowest man, who has no one on whom to let fly his irritation, and must needs go out and 'kick the cat', to relieve his frustration. Cf. whip the cat.

flog the clock. To move its hands forward:—1894: coll. Prob. suggested by the nautical flog the glass, turn the watch-glass:—1769; †. OED.—2. Hence, to quit one's job before the due time; to knock off early: RN: since ca. 1920. (John Laffin, Jack Tar, 1969.) Cf. the also naval warm the bell.

flog the dead horse. To do work already paid for. See dead horse.

flogged at the tumbler. Whipped at the cart's tail: c.: late C.17–18. B.E.

flogger. A whip: late C.18–19. George Parker, 1789.—2. 'A mop used in the painting room to whisk (charcoal) dust from a sketch': theatrical: ca. 1870–1920.—3. 'A name given to "base-wallahs" in WW1' (Petch)—and then nostalgically. They had such a wonderful opportunity to 'flog' things; see flog, 3.

floggin' the oggin. Sailing the seas: RN: later C.20. See oggin, sea; this term is an 'inevitable' rhyme.

flogging. 'A Naked Woman's whipping (with Rods) an Old (usually) and (sometimes) a Young Lecher' (B.E.): C.17–18 c.—2. The frequent vbl n. of flog, v., 3, q.v.

flogging, adj. Mean; grasping: late C.19–20: coll. Ob. Cf. flog, 2.—2. (Also adv.) Objectionable; vaguely, yet strongly, pej.: Aus.: since ca. 1920. Ex flog, v., 8; semantically cf. the equivalent flipping. Hugh Atkinson, Low Company, 1961, "Down they come like the floggin' wool prices" and "They might land in the floggin' desert"."

flogging, be. To be saving up one's money very carefully: proletarian: mid-C.19–20; ob. B.&L.

flogging-cove. An official dealing out the corporal punishment: c.: late C.17—early 19. B.E.—2. A C.18 var. of:

flogging-cully. A man addicted to flagellation for sexual purposes: C.18—early 19: c. (A New Canting Dict., 1725; Grose, 1st ed.) Cf. flogging, n., q.v.

flogging-stake. A whipping-post: late C.17–19 c. until late C.18, then low. B.E. flogster. A person addicted to flogging as a punishment: coll.: C.19–20; ob. A naval nickname for William IV when Duke of Clarence.

floo. Tea (the drink): RN. See blue, n., 14.
florence is entirely unnecessary for fluence, q.v.
floor, n. That which nonpluses or discomfits one: ca. 1840–1920; coll. OED.—2. A miscalculation: coll.: ca. 1845–1910. The former ex floor, v., 1; the latter, which has a corresponding but very rare v.i., is influenced by flaw.—3. As in first-floor, q.v.—4. The ground outside a house: S. African Midlands coll.:—1913 (Pettman). Cf.:—5. The ground; e.g. put on the floor, to fail to hold (a catch): cricket coll.: 1903 (OED Sup.). Cf. deck, 4.—6. In on the floor, penniless: orig. c.:—1933 (Charles E. Leach) >, by 1939, low s. Cf. familiar S.E. down and out, and on the deck, a var. of this entry. Prob. ex boxing.—7. In on the floor, adj. and adv., derailed: railwaymen's: C.20. (Railway, 2nd.) Cf. on the dirt.

floor, v. To vanquish, silence, or non-plus, esp. in argument: coll. An early occurrence is in W.N. Glascock, Naval Sketch Book, 2nd series, 1834, at I, 207. (Moe.) L. Oliphant, 1870, 'I floor all opposition'.—2. To drink; 'get outside of':—1851; ob.—3. (Of an examiner) to plough: ca. 1840–1910.—4. (Also university) answer every question; reply brilliantly to (an examiner): from ca. 1850; ob. Prob. ex sense 5.:—To do thoroughly; complete, finish: 1836 (SOD).—6. See floored, 2.—7. See Ibid., 3.

floor, v. To speak; esp. too much or to another's displeasure: coll.: from ca. 1850. Ex S.E., orig. political sense.

floor fuck. Copulation on the carpet, 'having a naughty on the rug': Aus. low: since ca. 1910.

floor (one's) licks. To 'shine'; do unusually well: low: ca. 1840–1900.

floor-polish. To prove (someone) to be utterly wrong; a severe defeat, in argument or in a contest: since ca. 1942. (John Bull, 2 Dec. 1944.) Ex 'to wipe the floor with someone'.

floor the odds. (Gen. of a horse) to win despite heavy odds: the turf:—1882. Daily Telegraph, 16 Nov., 'The odds were ... floor'd from an unexpected quarter.'

floored, ppl adj. Senses as in to floor, q.v.—2. Dead drunk: from ca. 1810. Vaux.—3. Among painters: hung low at an exhibition, whether exhibit or exhibitor: from ca. 1860. (H., 3rd ed.) Opp. skied, q.v.

floorer. A knockdown blow (cf. auctioneer): pugilistic (—1819), > gen. ca. 1860.—2. Hence, unpleasant news, decisive argument or retort; a notable check: from the 1830s.—3. In universities and schools: a question or a paper too difficult to answer: from ca. 1850.—4. In skittles, a ball that knocks down all the pins: from ca. 1840.—5. In c.: a thief that in assisting a man that he has tripped robs him: 1795 (OED).—6. In first-, second-, third-floorer, one who rooms 'on the first, second, third floor: lodging-houses':—1887 (Baumann).

flooring. Vbl n., in sense of to floor, q.v., but esp. among pugilists:—1819 (Tom Moore).

floorman, the; the top man. Drawing upon Messrs William Hill Ltd's diary for 1953, Sunday Dispatch of 14 Dec. 1952 writes: 'Tic-tac is used chiefly to liaise between the big operators and the little bookmakers in the minor ring. The liaison man is usually to be found perched precariously in the main stand, and for that reason is called "The Top Man". He relays information to his partner, "The Floor Man", who stands down below on the rails.' The latter passes it on to the small bookmakers themselves. These terms go back at least as far as 1930.

floorman pitch-getter. One of those assistants at a mock or rigged auction who entice crowds into the auction room: mock-auction world: since ca. 1945. (Sunday Chronicle, 28 June 1953.) Strictly, only pitch-getter is slang and, in this 'world', very much commoner than the full expression.

floosie (or -y). A girl (as companion): RN: since ca. 1940. Granville; John Bull, 6 Apr. 1946. Adopted ex US s.—2. In more widespread, and post-WW2, use, it = a 'good-time girl', a tart, an 'enthusiastic amateur', or even a prostitute.

flop, n. The act or sound of a heavy or a clumsy fall; a blow: late C.17–20 coll. when not dial.—2. Hair worn low down over the forehead by women: low London: 1881—ca. 1900. Ware.—3. A failure, e.g. of a book, a play, a project: from ca. 1890: coll. >, by 1930, S.E. F. & H.—4. Hence, a 'soft' person; a spineless, toneless one: 1909, H.G. Wells (OED Sup.).—5. A bed: Can. railroadmen's:—1931. Adopted ex US: see flop, v., 7.—6. Butter: RN lowerdeck: late (? mid-)C.19–20. (Goodenough, 1901.) Like flab, echoic.—7. 'A house or garage where escaping thieves can safely offload weapons, implements or stolen property, thus leaving their own homes free of incriminating articles' (Powis): c.: 1970s, and prob. two or three decades earlier.—8. In do a flop, to sit or fall down: from ca. 1870.—9. In do a flop, to lie down to a man: low: from ca. 1875. Contrast flop a judy, to cause a woman to lie ready for coition: id.—10. In do a flop, to faint: current, esp. among VADs, in WW1; still extant mid-C.20.
flop, v.t. In boxing: to knock down:—1888; ob. by 1930.—2. In gen.: v.i., to swing loosely and heavily: coll.; C.17–20.—3. V.i., move heavily, clumsily or with a bump: late C.17–20: coll.—4. V.t., throw with flopping suddenness: coll.; from ca. 1820.—5. To move, esp. wings, heavily up and down: coll.:—1860 (SOD).—6. (Of a book, play, plan) to fail: from ca. 1918: s. now verging on coll. Cf. flop, n., 3.—7. To sleep: tramps' c.: C.20. (W.A. Gape, Half a Million Tramps, 1936.) Ex S.E. flop down.

flop, adv. With a heavy or a clumsy fall. Often expletively. Coll.: from ca. 1725. J. Payn, 'She'll roll down, papa, and come flop' (OED).

flop about. To lie about, lazily and either lethargically or languorously: coll.: from ca. 1870.

flop in. To effect intromission: low: latter C.19 (? C.20).

flop on, e.g. the gills. A blow on the (e.g.) mouth: low coll.: from mid-C.19.

flop out, v. Of a bather leaving the water with noisy awkwardness: coll.: from ca. 1870.—2. To knock down with a blow, cause to fall in a heap: coll.:—1923 (Manchon). Cf. flop, v., 1.

flop over, v.i. To turn heavily: coll.: from ca. 1860.

flop round. To loaf about: from ca. 1865: coll.

flop-whop. Onomatopœic for a 'flopping' impact: coll.:—1887 (Baumann).

flopper. A weak or 'floppy' person: coll.:—1923 (Manchon).—2. A road-sweeper: Liverpool street arabs': late C.19—mid-20. Andie Clerk, Arab.

flopper-stopper. A brassière: Aus. teenagers': since ca. 1955. Cf. flip-flops.

flopperoo. A spectacular 'flop' or failure: adopted, ca. 1960, ex US. Cf. flop, n., 3.

floppy. Apt to flop (see flop, v., intransitive senses): coll., 1858 (SOD), >, later C.20, informal S.E. or j., as in the computer term 'floppy-disc'. Hence, n., floppiness and adv., floppily.—2. Hence, (very) drunk: low:—1923 (Manchon); ob.

flor de cabbaggio. A c.p. directed, ca. 1890–1914, at someone smoking a cheap cigar. Cf. cabbage, n., 4, and who's smoking cabbage leaves?

Floras. 'Preferred converted ordinary' shares in the Caledonian Railway: Stock Exchange:—1895 (A.J. Wilson, Stock Exchange Glossary). On Coras, q.v.

florence. A girl that has been tousled and ruffled: late C.17—early 19: coll. (B.E.) Cf. the ob. Northants flurence (to go about untidily dressed), by which the Christian name, as a type, was prob. influenced.

floricus is B. & L.'s error for foricus, q.v. at forakers.

florid. Half-drunk; fuddled: ca. 1770–1830. See quot'n at mops and brooms. I.e. flushed with drink.

Florrie. Inseparable nickname of all Ford(e)s: earlier C.20. See:

Florrie Ford. A motor-car or lorry: army: WW1. (F. & G.) Ex Ford car + Miss Florrie Forde, (1876–1940), Aus. who performed in Brit. music-hall from 1897, famous as the orig. singer of the WW1 favourites, 'It's a Long Way to Tipperary' and 'Pack up your Troubles'.

Flossie. A prostitute: S. Africa: C.20. Cf. flossie and florance.—2. 'An over-dressed, over-eager woman' (Leechman, who, moreover, cites Robert Service, The Trail of '98, pub. in 1910).

flossy or flossy up. To dress up (oneself); to furbish: Aus.: since ca. 1935. (B., 1953.) Ex the S.E. adj. Cf. prec. and tart up.

floster. A drink of sherry, soda-water, lemon, ice, and several other ingredients: from ca. 1860; ob. by 1900, thy 1924.

flouch or floush, fall or go. To collapse; sag: coll.:—1819; ob. Tom Moore, 'Georgy went floush, and his backers looked shy.' Ex dial.; ultimately echoic. OED.

flounce. The thick line of black paint put on the edge of the lower eyelid to enhance the effect of the eye itself: theatrical (1854) soon > Society; † by 1920. Ware.

flounder. The corpse of a drowned man: c.: ca. 1870–1930. (B. & L.; Manchon.) Cf. dab in the same and status.—2. Since ca. 1905, short for flounder and dab.

flounder, v. To sell and re-purchase a stock, esp. when at a loss on each occasion: Stock Exchange:—1889. More gen. as floundering, vbl n.

flounder and dab. A cab: rhyming s.:—1857; ob. 'Ducange Anglicus'.

flounder-spear. Conducting an orchestra. See spear flounders.

flour-mixer. A Gentile girl: esp. Jewish Cockneys': C.20. Rhyming s. on Yiddish shiksa, q.v. at shickster. (Franklyn 2nd.) Powis defines it as 'girl domestic or shop assistant'.—2. 'An inoffensive man, particularly a clerk' (Powis); under-world: 1970s.

flourish, n. In take a f-, (of a man) to have a hasty coition: low (coll.): mid-C.18–19. Grose, 2nd.

flourish. To have money, esp. much, in one's pocket: coll. Ex the semi-coll. sense, to be well off, itself ex the M.E.—C.20 S.E. sense, to thrive.

flourish it. (Of either sex) to expose the person: low coll: mid-C.19–20.

flourishing. Flourishingly. Often in reply to 'How are you (getting along)?' Coll.: C.19–20.

Floury. The 'inseparable' nickname for any man surnamed Baker: late C.19—earlier 20.

floury baker. A kind of locust: Aus. children's: C.20. Cf. double-drummer.

flows, gen. v.i. To deceive, cheat, shirk to the direct disadvantage of another: S. African coll.:—1913. Ex Dutch: cf. Ger. Flause, deceit, pretence. Pettman.

floush, fall or go. See flouch.

flow, n. A 'travelling the bees' sojourn at a place where blossoms abound: Aus. coll.: since ca. 1945. Kylie Tennant, The Honey Flow, 1956, 'You say nothing of what you did to get your honey, but tell wild lies of the flows you have been on, and how you took seven tins to the hive.'

flower, flower of chivalry, flower-pot. The female pudend: low: C.19–20. The second term puns the etymological meaning of its third vocabale.

flower-fancier. A whoremaster: whoremonger: low: C.19—early 20.

Flower pot, the. Covent Garden (Market). London taxi-drivers': since ca. 1905. (Herbert Hodge, Cab, Sir?, 1939.) Ex the Flower Market there until the mid-1970s.

Flower power. 'Revolutionary philosophy akin to ideas of Young Liberals, e.g. Make Love Not War' (Peter Fryer in Observer colour sup., 3 Dec. 1967): hippies', Flower People's: since early 1967. Ex 'the Flower (or Beautiful) People'. P.B.: historical within a decade, as the ideals became swamped by hard materialist realism.

flower-power suit. Camouflaged combat-suit, of natural colours in a random pattern: army: early 1970s. Ex prec. Cf. ginger suit, khaki battle-dress or formal uniform. (P.B.) flowers. Abbr. monthly flowers, the menstrual flux: C.15–20: until ca. 1840, S.E.; then coll. Ex Fr. fleurs = flueurs = L. fluor ex fluere, to flow (W.).—2. Orders, decorations, honours or degrees, indicated by letters after name: Services': WW2. They look pretty. (L.A.).—3. See say it with flowers!

flowers and frolics. Testicles: Anglo-Irish rhyming s., on bollocks or bollicks. Franklyn, Rhyming.

Flowers of Toulouse, the. The 61st Regt of Foot, from 1881 2nd Battalion, The Gloucestershire Regt. 'In the attack on Toulouse on Easter Sunday, 1814, the 61st gained great glory and also the nickname "The Flowers of Toulouse", because of their 180 killed and wounded who lay on the field of battle in their recently issued scarlet uniforms' (Carew).

flowery. Lodging; entertainment: c. and Parlyaree: from ca. 1850; ob. H., 1st ed. Prob. ex It. via Lingua Franca.—2. In C.20, short for flowery dell, and hence, also, = a cubicle: low: since ca. 1920. Brendan Behan, Borstal Boy, 1958.

flowery dell. A prison-cell: rhyming s.: C.20. (P.P., Rhyming Slang, 1932; Home Office, 1978.) Hence the nuance 'imprisonment', as, at least twice, in Patrick MacGill, Fear, 1920.

flowery language. A joc. euph. coll. for obscenity and for blasphemy: from before 1893.

flowing hope. A forlorn hope: Services': ca. 1850–1914. (Smyth.) Orig. a sol.

'flu, flu; occ. flue. Influenza: coll., gen. with the: from late 1830s. Southey, 1839, 'I've had a pretty fair share of the flue' (OED).

flue, n. The Recorder, esp. of London: ca. 1750–1900. ? orig. c. Corruption of flute, 1.—2. As fluff, it is, despite F. & H., not 'unconventional'.—3. See flu.—4. The rectum or anal passage: raffish: C.20. (Jonathan Thomas, 1976, where erroneously spelt flu.) Mostly in the insulting and derisive up your flue!, often abbr. up yours! Ex a chimney flue. Contrast:—

5. In up (one's) flue, to be awkward for a person, as in 'That's up your flue': later C.19—early 20.—6. In in or up the flue, in pawn: from ca. 1820. Cf. synon. up the spout: flue is itself s. for the spout in a pawnbroker's shop.—7. In up the flue or spout, collapsed, physically or mentally; dead: low: ca. 1850–1910.—8. 'Flue. (Rarely used.) Prison officer. Rhyming slang for "screw"' (Tempest): prisons': mid-C.20.

flue, v. To put in pawn: low: from ca. 1860. Ex n., 6.

flue-faker. A chimney-sweep: c. or low s.: ca. 1810–1900. Vaux.—2. A low sporting man: ca. 1855–1914. Because he bets on the great sweeps (H., 1859).

flue-scraper. A chimney-sweep: ca. 1830–1910. Suggested by flue-faker.

fluence (or 'fluence), the. Delicate or subtle influence: Aus. and NZ, since ca. 1930; some Brit. use also, in this sense. Neville Cardus, Good Days, 1934, 'Grimmett's fingers are always light and wonderfully tactile; when he passes the salt at dinner he imparts the "fluence".' See put the fluence on.

fluey. Characteristic of, or characterised by, influenza, as 'fluey weather': coll.: since ca. 1930. (Petch, 1966.)

fluff, n. Short change given by clerks: railway: from ca. 1870. (H., 5th ed.) Also fluffings. Cf. menavelings.—2. 'Lines' imperfectly learned and delivered: theatrical: from ca. 1880. W. Archer, 'But even as seen through a cloud of fluff the burlesque is irresistibly amusing.'—Cf. Major McFluffer, q.v.—3. The female pubic hair: low: C.19–20.—4. A tip (gratuity): railwaymen's: ca. 1890–1920. (Railway, 2nd.) Prob. ex 1.—5. Diffusely worded contribution to a newspaper: journalists' coll.: late C.19–20. Cf. S.E. woolly.—6. Nonsense, esp. 'That's all fluff!': Aus.: ca. 1935–40. H.J. Oliver, in Bulletin of the Australian English Assoc., July 1937.—7. A railway ticket: Aus. low: since ca. 1920. B., 1942.—8. 'A spoonerism or other verbal misadventure on the radio' (Leechman): Can.: since ca. 1945. Cf. 1, and v., 3.—9. Girl(s), esp. in a (little) bit of fluff: poss. orig. Aus. (C.J. Dennis, 1916, has it, but OED records it for 1903). Prob. ex S.E. fluffy, soft and downy, influenced by sense 3. Tempest, 1950, qualifies thus, 'Any woman who tries to look younger than she really is and who overdoes it.'—10. The police: Can. Leechman cites P. St Pierre, Chillicoitin Holiday, 1970. Cf. the fuzz.

fluff, v. To give short change: railways': from ca. 1870. H., 5th ed.—2. Disconcert, nonplus, 'floor': from ca. 1860. Cf. fluff in, q.v.—3. To forget one's part: theatrical: from ca. 1880. George Moore, in the Mummer's Wife, 1885. Var. to do a fluff, perhaps existed earlier.—4. See fluff it!—5. (Of porters) when off duty, to hang about in the hope of tips: railwaymen's:—1923 (Manchon). Cf. sense 1.—6. (V.i.) To boast; to tell lies: military: C.20. F. & G.—7. To 'foozle' a shot by hitting the ground just behind the ball instead of the ball: golfers': C.20.—8, which should, chronologically, be sense 1. To disguise the defects of (a horse): 1822, David Carey, Life in Paris, 'He knew ... when a roarer had been fluffed for the purpose of sale.'—9. To suspect; to understand; to guess or detect: Army, esp. the Guards: since ca. 1910. (Gerald Kersh, They Die with their Boots Clean, 1941.) Also fluff to (someone): to 'tumble to' him. Prob. ex sense 2.—10. Break wind: Aus.: since ca. 1919. (B., 1942.) P.B.: some Brit. use also, C.20.

fluff in. To deceive (a person) 'by smooth modes': lower classes':—1909 (Ware). Prob. ex fluff, v., 2 and 8.

fluff in the pan. A failure: from ca. 1860; coll.: ex Scottish. fluff it! Go away! Take it away!—1859 (H., 1st ed.); ob. by 1930.

fluffer. A drunkard: from ca. 1880. Cf. fluffiness.—2. A player apt to forget his part: theatrical: from ca. 1880. See fluff, v.—3. A term of contempt: 'old', says F. & H. in 1893. Untraced.

fluffiness. Drunkenness: from ca. 1885. Fun, 4 Aug. 1886.—2. A tendency to forget words: theatrical: from ca. 1885.

fluffing; fluffings. The practice of, and the proceeds from, giving short change: railways': from ca. 1870. See fluff, n., 1, and v., 1, and contrast.—2. 'Selection of rich passengers by off-duty employees' (Railway, 2nd): railwaymen's: C.20. Cf. fluff, v., 5.

fluffy. Of uncertain memory: theatrical: from ca. 1880. Ex fluff, n., 2. See also Major McFluffer.—2. Unsteady; stupidly drunk: from ca. 1885.

fluffy ruffles. A girl in rustling petticoats and a feather boa: 1890s. Ex US (and never very gen.), via the American illustrated periodicals.

fluffy suit. WRNS no. 2 suit, worn for work; made of a coarser material than the no. 1, 'best' suit: WRNS in basic training: 1960s. 'Usually discarded after a year or so because it advertises one's newness to the Service' (Miss Margaret E. Wood, 1977).

fluke, n. A stroke of luck: coll.: from ca. 1860. Ex billiards. H., 2nd ed.; Black, 1873, 'It is a happy fluke.'—2. An easy dupe, a 'flat': ca. 1800–30. Ex fluke, a flat fish.—3. See peak the flukes, to go to bed.

fluke, v. To do a thing (well) by accident: coll.: from ca. 1880. Hence, vbl n. and adj., fluking. Ex billiards.—2. To shirk: Eton:—1864.

fluk(e)y; gen. flukde. A whale: nautical coll.: from ca. 1920. (OED Sup.) Ex a whale's flukes.

fluk(e)y, adj. Chancy, uncertain; achieved less by good management than by good luck: coll.: from ca. 1880. Hence, flukiness, abounding in flukes, and adv. flukily.

flumiddle. A coll. var. (—1923) of flummery, q.v. (Manchon.) I.e. flummery influenced by diddle. Cf.:

flumoodle. To humbug (someone): Aus.: C.20. (Baker.) Cf. prec.

flummernaut, gen. as ppl adj. To astound or confound: coll.:—1849; ob. Var. of flabbergast, q.v.

flummery. Flattery; polite nonsense: from ca. 1750; coll.; after ca. 1830, S.E. Ex the lit. sense, 'oatmeal and water boiled to a jelly', not 'over-nourishing' (Grose, 1st ed.). Cf. balderdash.

flummocky. In bad taste: coll.:—1891 (Blackwood's, March 1891). Ex:-

flummox, n. A failure: 1857 ('Ducange Anglicus'); †. Ex:-

flummox, v. (rare: flummocks), flummux. To perplex, abash, silence; victimise, 'best'; disappoint, dodge, elude: 1837: Dickens. Var., † conflummox. Ex dial. Cf. flabbergast.—2. Hence, to confuse another player: theatrical: from ca. 1880.

flummox by the lip, to talk down; vanquish in a slanging match: low: from ca. 1860; ob. by 1930.

flummoxed. Silenced; disappointed, outwitted; spoiled; ruined; drunk; sent to or sure of a month in prison (c. only): from the 1850s. H., 1st ed.; Punch, 30 Aug. 1890, 'I'm fair flummoxed.' Ppl adj. ex flummox, v. P.B.: by mid-C.20, it had gained the additional meaning of 'confused in mind, often by an unexpected turn of events, and uncertain what course to take'.

flummot. A month in prison: vagrants' c.:—1851. Mayhew equates it to the beggars' sign. See flummoxed.

flummux, flummuxed. See flummox, flummoxed.

flump, n. An abrupt or heavy fall, making a dull noise; the noise: late C.18–20 (ob.) coll. Cf.:

flump, v. To fall, or be set down, violently, thumpingly, or hurriedly: coll.: v.i., 1816; v.t., 1830; as adv., 1790. (SOD.) Thackeray, 'Chairs were flumped down on the floor.' ? a blend of flop and thump (W.).

flump, adv. With a 'flump': coll.: late C.18–20. Grose's Provincial Glossary.

flunk, n. A term of contempt for, usually, a male: Aus.: since ca. 1910. (Baker.) Ex funkey.

flunk, v.t. and v.i. To fail in an examination: Can. universities: late C.19–20. Adopted from US; of hotly disputed—in short, of unknown—origin. Some Brit. use also, C.20.—2. Occ. used, perhaps influenced by funk, for to shirk, fight shy of, balk at, as, 'at the last moment, he flunked going to the police, for fear that ...': coll.: C.20. (P.B.)

flunkey. A parasite, a toady: coll.: from ca. 1855; in C.20, S.E. Ex sense, a man-servant esp. if in livery.—2. A ship's steward: nautical:—1883; ob. W. Clark Russell.—3. A ward-room attendant: RN: from ca. 1880. Bowen.

flunkey out of collar. A footman out of work: 1857, 'Ducange Anglicus'; †.

fluo tube. A fluorescent-lighting tube: Aus. coll.: since ca. 1955. (P.B.)

furry (one's) milk. To be angry, perturbed, worried: low coll.: from ca. 1820; ob. Cf. Fr. se faire du mauvais sang.

furryment. Confusion, bustle; excitement, agitation: low coll.:—1848. Pleonastic on furry, ? after flusterment.

flush, n. 'Those [convicts] with Army and Navy experience use the Maltese word for money, i.e. "flush"', H. Wicks, The Prisoner Speaks, 1938.—2. A fellow with plenty of money, esp. if a free spender: Can. carnival s.: since ca. 1910. Ex the adj.

flush, v.t. To whip: coll.: mid-C.19–20; ob. (H., 3rd ed.) Hence flushed on the horse, privately whipped in gaol: mid-C.19–20, ob.; prob. c. Perhaps ex flush, to cleanse, or to make red.—2. 'To draw blood back into syringe' (Home Office): drug addicts': 1970. Hence vbl n. flushing.

flush, adj., with of. Having plenty of money, esp. temporarily: C.17–20. In C.17, esp. as flush in the pocket or job, c.; in C.18, low > gen.; in C.19–20, S.E. Dekker; Trollope, 'Long before that time I shall be flush enough.' Cf. S.E. flush of success and flush, level, hence full.—2. Topsy: C.19–20; ob. Ex flush, level with, i.e. full to, the top.

flush, adv. Full; directly: pugilistic, of a blow:—1888. Ex C.18 S.E.

flush a wild duck. To single out a woman for amorous attentions: low: C.19–20; ob. Ex shooting; flush = to cause to take wing.

flush hit. A clean hit; a punch fair on the mark: pugilism: ca. 1810–1920; s. > j. by 1900.

flush of all four (aces). See TAVERN TERMS, §2, in Appendix.

flush on (one), come. To meet a person suddenly, unexpectedly: coll. > S.E.: C.17–20.

flushed on the horse. See flush, v., 1.

flusteration. A var. of flustration. Baumann.

flusticate. To confuse: C.19–20 (ob.): low coll. or sol. By complicate out of fluster.

flustrate. To confuse; excite. (Gen. in past ppl passive.) Sol.: C.18–20; ob. Spectator, no. 493, 1712, 'We were coming down Essex Street one night a little frustrated.' Ex fluster. Like next, occ. joc.

flustration. Confusion, bustle; excitement, flurry: sol., perhaps orig. nautical: from ca. 1740; ob. Smollett, 'Being I was in such a flustration'; Mortimer Collins. In C.19–20, also flustration.

flute. (Cf. flue, n.) A city recorder, esp. of London: ca. 1690–1820: prob. c. B.E.—2. The male member: C.18–19: low. Variants living flute, one-holed f., silent f. Cf. the Romany haboia (English hautboy) in same sense. (Sampson).—3. A pistol: ca. 1840–1910. Lover in Handy Andy (EDD Sup.). Ex shape and 'tune'.—4. See TAVERN TERMS, §7 (near end), in Appendix.—5. A, to, whistle: police and prison warders': C.20. The n. in Axel Bracey, School for Scoundrels, 1934; n. and v. in Jim Phelan, Murder by Numbers, 1941.—6. A jockey's whip: Aus. sporting s.: since ca. 1910. B., 1942.

flutter, n. A short visit or trip, esp. a joyous, informal one: coll.:—1857 (OED). Perhaps ex the slightly earlier fly.—2. A venture; a spree: coll.: from ca. 1870; ob. (H., 5th ed.) Hence, be on the flutter, be on the spree.—3. A gamble: coll.: since ca. 1870. 'Fond of a little flutter' (Saturday Review, 1 Feb. 1890). Hence do or have a flutter. Ex the excitement.—4. Hence, (? or ex) the spinning of a coin: from ca. 1870; ob. In C.20, give her a flutter!, toss a or the coin! Ex the fluttering movement and the excitement.—5. Sexual experience: low coll.: since ca. 1875. In be on the flutter, to be sexually adept, and do or have a flutter, (of either sex) to copulate, for pleasure rather than for passion. Hence to have had a flutter, to have had sexual experience; to have lost one's virginity.

flutter, v.i. To gamble; from ca. 1870. Cf. sense 3.—2. Also, to indulge in pleasure: from ca. 1880.—3. V.t., to spin (a coin), as in flutter a brown: from ca. 1870; ob. H., 5th ed. flutter a judy. To pursue a girl; to possess one: low: from ca. 1850.

flutter a skirt. To be a (street-walking) harlot: low: mid-C.19—early 20.

flutter for, have a. To try hard to do, get, etc.: coll.:—1873.

flutter (one's) kidneys. To agitate; greatly annoyed: low: from ca. 1860. Cf. flurry one's milk, and fret (one's) cream...

flutter the ribbons. To drive (horses): coll.: ca. 1860–1910.

flux. To cozen, cheat, outwit: late C.18—early 19. (Grose, 1st ed.) Ex S.E. sense, to subject to a flux.

fly, n. A printer's devil: late C.17—mid-19: printers'. Ex fly=a familiar spirit, a devil.—2. A wagon: c.: late C.18—early 19. All other vehicle senses are S.E. Grose, 2nd ed.—3. The act of spinning a coin: from ca. 1870; cf. flutter, n., 4.—4. A policeman: c. > low, (—1857). Ob., except as a detective.—5. A customer: trade: ca. 1840–1910.—6. A trick, 'dodge': ca. 1860–1910. (OED).—7. A blow, punch: boxing.—1887 (Baumann); ob. by 1930.—8. A sudden spell of intense work; 'what composers are in the habit of calling "a spirit", or, in extreme cases "a regular fly"' (C.M. Smith, The Working Man's Way in the World, 1852: John Walton, FLA): printers': earlier C.19. Spurt in this sense in S.E. (P.B.).—9. (Ex 3.) Esp. give (it) a fly, have a fly (at it), to try it; to make an attempt: Aus.: C.20. (Baker.) K.S. Prichard, Working Bullocks, 1926, '“Might give him a fly,” Red admitted.'—10. A shunting truck; hence fly shunt, 'uncoupled wagons diverted after engine has passed the points' (Railway): railwaymen's: C.20.—11. As the fly or Fly, a locality infested by the tsetse insect: S. African coll.: 1868 (J. Chapman, Travels in South Africa: Pettman).—12. In on the fly, in motion, as in beg on the fly (—1861) and take on the fly (ca. 1845), to beg from persons as they pass in the street.—13. In on the fly, off work; walking the streets for fun; on the spree: low: from ca. 1850. Cf. the slightly later on the flutter, at flutter, 2.—14. In on the fly, shrewdly, cunningly, secretly: low:—1923 (Manchon). Cf. the adj.—15. In off the fly, laid up; doing nothing; retired, esp. from the giving or the pursuit of pleasure: low: from ca. 1850.—16. As Fly, the 'inevitable' nickname for men surnamed Martin: RN: earlier C.20. (Granville.) Ex Admiral 'Fly' Martin, sometime C.-in-C. of the Mediterranean Fleet, so named for his fondness for tactical evolutions (Bowen).—17. See not rise to that fly; poke fly.

fly, v. To give way; become damaged: pugilism:—1865; ob.—2. To toss; raise (e.g. a window): c.:—1857.—3. Send quickly, hastily: coll.: ca. 1845–1900. Darwin. OED.—4. See fly a kite or tile; fly the mags.—5. V.t., (of a horse) to outdistance easily: sporting:—1887 (Baumann). Prob. connected with this sense is (of a horse) do a (or its) fly, C.20 Aus. = to do a gallop. K.S. Prichard, 'Dark Horse', in Kiss on the Lips, 1932.—6. See let fly, to hit out.

fly, adj. Artful, knowing; shrewdly aware: low (? orig. c.): from ca. 1810. In Scots (flee), however, as early as 1724 (EDD). Vaux. Variants a-fly, flymy, fly to the game, fly to what's what. See fly man. Perhaps ex the difficulty of catching a fly, more prob. cognate with fledge, fledged, as Sewel, 1766, indicates (W.); though Bee's assertion that it is a corruption of fla, abbr. flash, is, considering the devices of c., not to be sneered at.—2. Dextrous: from ca. 1834: low. Ainsworth.—3. (Of women) wanton: low: from ca. 1880. Ex senses 1 and 2. Cf. US fly dame, a harlot (—1888).

fly a desk. Of an aircrew member: to be grounded and doing an office job: RAF: 1940–5. Paul Brickhill, The Dam Busters, 1951.

fly a (or the) kite. To raise money by means of accommodation bills: from ca. 1808. Whence fly a bill, to gain time by giving a bill (1860, OED).—2. Merely to raise money (—1880). In Anglo-Irish banks, it = to cash a cheque against non-existent funds: C.20. Also cash a dog, pay the bearer, and since ca. 1945, fly a dodgy kite (Robin Cook, The Crust on its Uppers, 1962); c. >, by ca. 1950, low s. See kite, n., 3.—3. In c., to depart by the window:—1860: esp. from low lodging-houses. H., 2nd ed.—4. With at, to set one's cap at:—1863 (Henry Kingsley).—5. (Gen. fly the kite.) To seek publicity: Society: from the 1890s; ob. Ware.—6. To test public opinion by tentative measures: copy-writers' coll.: from ca. 1926. Cf. sense 5.—7. 'To tell a tall story' (Baker): Aus.: C.20.

fly a tile. To knock off a man's hat: Stock Exchange: ca. 1820–1900.

fly-away. A tricycle: coll.: 1887; ob. by 1905, † by 1920. Baumann.

fly-balance; shotter; sighter. A column of figures added correctly at the first attempt: bank-clerks': C.20: resp. coll., now verging on j.; s.; s. Obviously shotter derives ex at the first shot; sighter ex rifle-shooting.

fly-blow, n. A bastard: coll.:—1875; ob. ?corruption of by-blow.—2. A flying-boat: RAF: since ca. 1935. (Jackson.) By a pun on S.E. by-blow.

fly-blow, v. To separate (someone) from his money: Aus.: C.20. (Baker.) Ex fly-blown, 1.

fly-blown. Penniless: Aus. (Wilkes cites an occurrence of the term in 1853) and NZ (B., 1941).—2. Topsy: from ca. 1875; †.—3. Exhausted: low: from ca. 1880.—4. Devirginated; also, suspected of venereal disease: low: from ca. 1885.

fly blue paper. To issue a summons: legal: from ca. 1890; slightly ob. by mid-1930s.

fly-bog. Jam: Aus.: ca. 1930–50, but never very gen. B., 1943.—2. More gen. is the sense occurring in 'Sometimes you take a tin of fly-bog (treacle) with you as a luxury' (Jean Devanney, By Tropic Sea and Jungle, 1944); since ca. 1920.

fly-boy. A variant of fly, n., 1. H., 5th ed.—2. Gen. in pl, 'English "refugees" who crossed over to Ireland to evade conscription': Anglo-Irish pej. esp. at Dublin: WWI. (F. & G.) Sarcastic ex fly, adj., 1, with a pun on fly, to flee.—2. A FAA pilot or observer: among other branches of the RN and mostly officers': since ca. 1950; after 1965, only historical. (Granville.) Occ. used also by army officers, joc. pej. for the RAF (P.B.). A pun on fly, artful, and on S.E. 'flying', adj.—3. A 'wide boy': since ca. 1950. In, e.g., the Automobile Assn's magazine Drive, spring 1975. (P.B.) fly-buttons. See talk through (one's) fly-buttons, to talk nonsense, or smut.

fly-by-night. A sedan chair on wheels: coll.; temp., the Regency.—2. A defaulting debtor; his defaulting: coll.: 1823. (Bee).—3. A harlot: from ca. 1860.—4. The female pudend: C.19–20 low.—5. One who frequently moves about at night, e.g. a spreester: from ca. 1865.—6. A term of contempt for a woman: coll.: C.18–early 19. (Grose, 3rd ed.) Ex witches broom-flying by night.—7. A transient boarder bilking his landlady: landladies' coll.: late C.19–20.—8. Tippy: rhyming s.: C.20, but † by 1960. On synon. tight. (Franklyn 2nd.) Cf.: fly-by (pron. be)-nights. Tights (stockings): rhyming s.: later C.20. Ronnie Barker, Fletcher's Book of Rhyming Slang, 1979. Cf. prec., 8.

fly by the seat of (one's) pants. To fly by instinct rather than by instruments: airmen's: since ca. 1930, perhaps earlier. Ex the days before such things as turn-and-bank indicators, when the tightness of an aircraft's turn could be judged only by the feeling of centrifugal force against the pilot's seat.—2. Hence, to essay a task (not necessarily aeronautical) and, although one is unfamiliar with it, to improve as one continues: orig. (1942) and still (1960) mainly RAF. (L.A.) fly-cage. The female pudend: C.19–20 low.

fly-catcher. The same: id.—2. An open-mouthed ignorant person: coll.: from ca. 1820.—3. A fast aeroplane, officially a 'fleet-fighter': military (esp. airmen's): 1915. F. & G.

fly cemetery. A current pudding: certain schools': since ca. 1945. New Society, 22 Aug. 1963.

fly cop. A detective: c.: adopted, by 1889, ex US. (B. & L.; Ware.) Lit., a 'a clever policeman'. Ex fly, adj., 1.

fly-disperser soup. Oxtail soup: ca. 1860–1910. See also fly-swisher stew.

fly-dusters. Fists: ca. 1880–1920. Arthur Binstead, Mop Fair, 1905.

fly-flapped. Whipped in the stocks or at the cart's tail: ca. 1785–1830. (Grose, 2nd ed.) Ex the C.17–18 S.E. fly-flap, to beat.

fly-flapper. A heavy bludgeon: ca. 1840–1930.

fly flat. A would-be expert: the turf: ca. 1885–1915. (B. & L.) In Aus. gen. low, a know-all, a 'smart Alec': since ca. 1910.

fly-gatherer. That workman who 'sweeps up and bags waste and "fly" (fibre dust) in spinning rooms' (Evening News, 28 Sep. 1955): textile employees': late C.19–20.

fly gay. Intelligent dupe of a confidence trickster: Aus. c.: since ca. 1920. (Baker.) On analogy of fly flat. See gay.

fly high or rather high. To get or to be drunk: low: from ca. 1860.—2. To keep good company and fine state; venture for big stakes: coll. > S.E.: C.19–20.

fly in a tar-box (in C.19–20, glue-pot), like a. Nervously excited: coll.:—1659; the former, ob. by 1800, † by 1900. Howell, 1659. (Apperson.)

fly jerks. 'Small pieces of cork suspended from the brim of a tramp's hat to ward off flies' (B., 1942): Aus.: late C.19–20.

fly like a brick-built shithouse. (Of an aircraft) to fly awkwardly, to be difficult to pilot: airmen's: 'I heard this in the early 1950s' (P.B.). Prob. ex flat like a..., q.v.

fly loo. Betting on certain antics of flies: students': mid-C.19–early 20. (Ware.) Also known as Kentucky loo.

fly low. To be modest and retiring: from ca. 1835: coll., > S.E. by 1895.—2. In c., to hide from justice: ca. 1870–1920.—3. See flying without...

fly man. A cunning man: 1816 (Rammohun Roy, Translation of an Abridgement of the Vedant: as flymen, translating pl of Sanskrit kitava, gambler, cheat). Esp., a shrewd criminal (National Police Gazette, USA), 1845; J.W. Horsley, 1887, as flyman; Edgar Wallace, The Squeaker, 1927. See fly, adj., 1. (Dermot Kinningley, University of Newcastle-upon-Tyne, 1981.)—2. An expert thief: c.: C.20. Edgar Wallace, The Squeaker, 1927.—3. A professional criminal: Glasgow c.: from ca. 1919. MacArthur & Long.

fly member. A very shrewd, sharp person: low:—1909 (Ware).

fly my kite. A light: rhyming s.:—1857 ('Ducange Anglicus'): by 1920, †.

fly Navy, march Army, walk sideways. 'R.N. unofficial car sticker. The "walk sideways" refers to the name of the R.A.F.—"Crabfat", from the colour of their uniforms: Royal Navy: 1970s' (Peppitt). Prob. a parody of a recruiting slogan for the FAA. (P.B.)

fly off the deep end. A var. of the next, evidently influenced by go (in) off the deep end:—1931 (Lyell); ob.

fly off the handle. To lose one's temper: orig. (1825) US; anglicised ca. 1860. Prob. ex the head of, e.g., a hammer coming loose and flying off.

fly on a wheel. In break or crush a fly..., to make much fuss about very little (—1859): coll. > S.E. by 1900.—2. As the fly on the wheel, one who considers himself very important: coll. > S.E.: late C.16–early 20. From Æsop's fable.

fly out. To grow angry; to scold: C.17–20; coll., > S.E. by 1700. Chapman, Spectator, Thackeray.

fly over the hills. A fly-button undone and showing: Essex schoolchildren's: 1979. (Mrs C. Raab.) Cf. flying without a licence.

fly-paper, be on the. To be justiciable under the Prevention of Crimes Act: c.: from ca. 1912. (Gilt Kid, 1936.) Ex-fly-pitch; fly-pitcher. A cheapjack's 'pitch'; a cheapjack selling from a pitch: showmen's: C.20. P. Allingham, in (London) Evening News, 9 July 1934. Esp. of 'a casual spot' (W. Buchanan-Taylor, Shake It Again, 1943). Cf. C.19 c. on the fly, on the move.

Fly Paper Act, the. The Prevention of Crimes Act (1909): c.: 1910. (Charles E. Leach.) Cf. Cat and Mouse Act.

fly-rink. A bald head: lower classes': 1875 (Ware); ob. Superseded by skating rink, q.v., itself short for flies' skating rink, as perhaps is this entry.

fly-slicer. A cavalryman: C.19–20 (ob.); orig. late C.18, a Life Guardsman (Grose, 1st ed.). Ex the brushing-away of flies with a sword.

Fly Speck, the. Tasmania: continental Aus.: C.20. (B., 1943.) Cf. the Speck.

fly-stuck (possibly S.E.); stuck (coll.). Bitten by the tsetse: S. African: from ca. 1880 and esp. among hunters, as F.C. Selous, who uses both forms, makes clear in A Hunter's Wanderings in Africa, 1881. Pettman.

fly-swisher stew. Oxtail stew: Aus. rural: since ca. 1910. (B., 1959.) Cattle swish their tails to keep the flies away. Cf. the more genteel fly-disperser soup.

fly the blue pigeon. To steal lead from roofs.—2. To use the sounding-lead. See blue pigeon for both senses, and cf. fly the pigeons.

fly the flag. (Of harlots) to walk the streets: low: from ca. 1840.—2. To have the monthly flux: low: from ca. 1850.—3. To post a notice that workmen are needed: tailors': from ca. 1860. Cf. cat's face and flag-flying, 2, q.v.—4. To appeal to a higher court, in the hope of getting a sentence reduced. See AUSTRALIAN UNDERWORLD, in Appendix.

fly the kite. See fly a kite.

fly the mags. To gamble; properly, by throwing up half-pence: c. (—1812) >, by 1850, low. Vaux.

fly the pigeons. To steal coal as one carts it: c.:—1923 (Manchon). Cf. fly the blue pigeon.

fly the pit. See pit, 4.

fly to. See fly, adj., 1. Cf. down to, up to, flash to.

fly-trap. The mouth: from ca. 1790. Cf. fly-catcher, q.v.—2. The female pudend: C.19 low. Cf. fly-cage and -catcher.—3. (Gen. pl.) A wire entanglement: military: WW1. G.H. McKnight, English Words, 1923.

fly up with Jackson's hens. To become bankrupt: from ca. 1570: coll. till C.19 then dial.—2. Hence, make one fly with Jackson's hens, to ruin a person: C.17–18.

fly-walk, the. The ridge on a loaf of bread: domestic: C.20.

flyer, fier. (Gen. in pl.) A shoe: c.: late C.17–18. (B.E.) In low s. of C.19, e.g. in Mayhew, flyer is an unwelted shoe.—2. In Winchester football, a half-volley: from ca. 1850; in Association football, a shot in the air: from ca. 1890.—3. 'A swiftly moving kangaroo, usually female; a half-grown kangaroo' (Wilkes, who cites James Atkinson, 1826, and quot'ns through to Steele Rudd in 1927): Aus. coll., > by 1890, S.E.—4. A breeder of homing pigeons: sporting coll.: mid-C.19–20. Ware.—5. A speculation in stocks and shares: mostly Stock Exchange: US (1848), anglicised by 1910: coll. OED; Manchon.—6. A hard, fast manual worker, a 'tear-arsing' fellow at his job: Lancashire: latish C.19—early 20. Robert Roberts, A Ragged Schooling, 1976.—7. (? Hence), someone thought to be destined to get on fast, with quick promotion ahead of him, as 'Watch that young man, I feel he's going to be a flyer': coll.: C.20. (P.B.) Or ex:—8. A very fast start in a foot race: athletics coll.: C.20.—9. A smart, lively, very attractive person, esp. a pretty girl: coll.: 1930, Temple Thurston (OED Sup.); †, but cf. sense 7.

Flyers, the. The (police) Flying Squad: c. from ca. 1920; ob. Edgar Wallace, The Flying Squad, 1928.

flyng angel. See angel, 5.

Flying Angel (Club), the. The Mission to Seamen('s Club): seamen's: C.20. From the flying angel on the blue ground of the Mission's flag, from Rev., 14, 6, "And I saw another angel fly in the midst of heaven..." (L.A., 1967). Peppitt records that, in the 1940s, the Mission was known to the MN as the Flying Ashbag, 'their flag has a flying angel carrying a harp (lyre ?), rather bag-like in shape'.

flyng arsehole. An observer's badge: RFC/RAF: since 1915 (B. & P.). The badge consisted of an O with the representation of a wing; it was superseded early in WW2 by the navigators' brevet. Cf. feathered arsehole.—2. Hence, in RAAF, early WW2, the observer himself. B., 1943.

Flying Banana, (the). A Wooler motorcycle, ceased production 1955; 'This particular name really only applied to one model which had a very long tank and was painted yellow. First appeared in the T.T. ca. 1920' (Mike Partridge, 1979).—2. A Vertol H.21 helicopter: RCAF: since ca. 1955 or 1956. Leechman quotes the Whig-Standard (Kingston, Ont.), 8 Mar. 1957.

flyng bedstead. The open stall (on wheels) of a dealer in old clocks and bric-à-brac: Cockneys':—1887 (Baumann).—2. An army bicycle or motor-cycle: army: WW1. F. & G.—3. The 'flying testbed', a square frame not unlike a bedstead, used for testing engines designed for vertical take-off and landing: Royal Aircraft Establishment and journalistic: late 1950s. (P.B.)

flyng boxcar. The new Junkers freight plane 'Ju-52', "flyng boxcar", belonging to Canadian Airways Limited, aroused a great deal of interest' (the Beaver, a magazine, Mar. 1932): Can.: 1930s. 'Also applied to the C.119 [transport aircraft]' (Leechman, 1968).

Flying Bricklayers. The Royal Mounted Engineers: military: ca. 1880–1902.

flyng camp. A couple, or a gang, of beggars: c.: late C.17—early 19. B.E.; Grose, 1st ed., 'Beggars plying in a body at funerals'. Cf. S.E. sense.

flyng caper. An escape from prison: c.:—1864; ob. by 1930.

flyng-cat. An owl: c.: late C.17—mid-18. (B.E.) Cf. Fr. chat-huant (OED).

flyng cigar, (the). The Vickers Wellington bomber (viewed laterally): RAF: 1940+. (H. & P.) It was more commonly and widely known as a Wimpey, q.v., and was in service 1938–52.

flyng coffin, (the). The Vengeance dive-bomber: RAF: 1944–5.

flyng county or country. A district where one can ride fast and safely: hunting: from ca. 1850; s. > j. by 1900. Whyte-Melville, 'Leicestershire, Northamptonshire, and other so-called "flyng counties"'.

flyng cove. One who gets money by pretending to be able to supply robbed persons with such information as will lead to the recovery of the lost goods: c.: ca. 1860–1940. B. & L.

flyng dhobi. A native washerman giving quick service: army in India, late C.19—mid-20, and, in later C.20, Services' in other countries, e.g., Malaya and Singapore. Cf. 'the mysterious Arab who would turn up at every camp flyng duck. A section insulator: railwaymen's: since ca. 1950. Railway, 2nd.

... however far from civilisation, to provide a one-day laundry service' (Peter Sanders, 1967); army in N. Africa: 1940–3.

flyng dustbin. The bomb thrown by an A.V.R.E. (Armoured Vehicle, Royal Engineers) for demolishing defences. "... a 12" spigot mortar, the Petard, which could throw a 25-lb. H.E. charge (known as the 'Flying Dustbin') up to a distance of eighty yards" From The Tanks, by B.H. Liddell Hart, 1959, vol. II, p. 324. Probably not widely used until 1944, as these vehicles were a secret weapon for the landings in Normandy.' (Peter Sanders.)

flyng dustman. 'The defendant was what is termed a Flying Dustman, who ... paying nothing to anyone, goes round the parish collecting all the ashes he can, to the great injury of the contractor,' says a witness in a trial of 1812 in The New Newgate Calendar, V, 519; J. Wight, More Mornings at Bow Street, 1827, for a most informative account: coll.: ca. 1805–70.

Flying Dutchman, the. The London and Exeter express (Great Western Railway): coll.: ca. 1875–1915.—2. 'The Atlantic packet clipper Dreadnought. Also known as the Wild Boat of the Atlantic': nautical: late C.19. Bowen.

flyng elephant. (Usu. in pl.) Barrage balloon: 1939 +. Berrey, 1940.

flyng-fish. A fish-shaped mortar shell: Army: 1915–18.

flyng flies. Spots before the eyes: since ca. 1950 or a decade earlier. (Weekend, 21 May 1969.) Also known as floaters.

Flying Fornicator, the. The last express train home from London: in many English provincial towns, esp. Oxford and Cambridge: earlier C.20. Also the Fornicator.

flyng fuse-box. 'Any electrical rating or officer holding an aircrew qualification as well, esp. if he is the Electrical Officer of a squadron: Fleet Air Arm: 1950s' (Peppitt).

flyng gas-main. A V2 rocket: 1944–5. (Jane Gordon, Married to Charles, 1950.) The rockets arrived at such speed that there was no warning of their approach; when the first few went off in London it was thought that gas-mains had exploded. See also gasometer.

flyng gigger or jigger. A turnpike gate: c.: mid-C.18–19. Grose, 1st ed, where jigger is defined as a door or latch.

flyng handicap, the. An attack of diarrhoea: Aus. sporting: C.20. (B., 1942.) Cf. Sheffield handicap, 2.

flyng horse. A Gloster Gladiator fighter aircraft of the FAA: RN: early WW2. Granville.

flyng kite. A fancy sail, esp. if temporary: nautical coll.: C.19—early 20. Moe cites Alfred Burton, Johnny Newcome, 1818.—2. An aeroplane: RFC coll.: from 1914 (F. & G.); by WW2 the term had been shortened to kite.

flyng knacker. A horse-flesh butcher in a small way: Londoners': ca. 1860–1900. James Greenwood, Odd People in Odd Places, 1883.

flyng light. (Of a seaman that, when he joined his ship, was) possessed of nothing but the clothes on him: nautical coll.: mid-C.19–20; ob. Bowen.—2. An earlier coll. nautical sense occurs in W.N. Glascock's Naval Sketch Book, 2nd series, 1834, at I, 278, thus: 'Fell in with a full-feathered hearse—five mourning coaches—and a long line of carriages "flyng light"' (with either no or only one passenger). (Moe.)

flyng low. See flyng without...

flyng man. In Eton football: a skilful skirmisher:—1864; ob. by 1930.

flyng matinée. A trench raid: army: 1916–18. F. & G.

flyng mess, in a. Hungry and having to mess wherever one can: military:—1860; † by 1915. (H., 2nd ed.) Ex the difficulty of obtaining a good meal on a forced march.

flyng onion. A kind of trench-mortar bomb: army: 1915. (B. & P.) Contrast flaming onion.

Flying P. Line, the. The Laeisz (Hamburg) sailing-ships: nautical: mid-C.19—early 20; †. (Bowen.) Their present (early 1970s) symbol is the letters FL.

flyng pasty. Excrement that, wrapped in paper, is thrown over a neighbour's wall: from ca. 1790; † by 1893. Grose, 3rd ed.

flying pencil. The Dornier 17 bomber: RAF: WW2. It had a noticeably thin fuselage.

Flying Pig, (the). A fast freight train bringing bacon to London: railwaymen's: from ca. 1920. (Daily Telegraph, 15 Aug. 1936.) Cf. the Farmer's Boy.

flying pig. 'A large (9-45 inch) heavy trench-mortar shell': military coll.: 1915-18. (F. & G.) Ex its appearance in the air.—2. An aerial torpedo—for the same season: 1940 (Berrey).—3. A Vickers Vulcan aircraft of Imperial Airways: 1920s. W/Cdr R.H. McIntosh, DFC AFC Autobiography, 1963. Cf.:—4. A Vickers Varsity aircraft, a development of the Valetta but with a row of astrodomes—resembling teats—along its spine, used for training batches of navigators: RAF: 1950s. (P.B.) flying plumber. 'Engineer officer attached to the Naval Air Branch' (Granville): RN: WW2+.

flying porter. An impostor that gets money by giving, to robbed persons, information that will (prob. not) lead to the arrest of the thieves: c.: late C.18-19. Grose, 2nd ed.

Flying Scotsman, the. The Scotch Express, from Euston to Edinburgh: coll.: 1874. OED.

flying sixty-nine. Var. of soixante-neuf, q.v.

flying speed, get up. 'To consume a few quick drinks before a social or official gathering, especially when late (in order to achieve parity with those already present and well under way)' (Cdr C. Parsons, RN, ret., 1973): RN officers': since early 1920s.

flying spitkid. 'Sixteen-foot motor dinghy. A spitkid is a spittoon' (Granville): RN: C.20.

flying stationer. A hawk of street-ballads, penny histories, etc.: late C.18-19: low. (Grose, 3rd ed.) Ex the fact that such a hawk keeps moving. Cf. the C.19 running patterer, q.v.

flying suitcase; flying tadpole. Both nicknames were applied to the Handley-Page Hampden and the shorter-lived Hereford bombers: RAF: late 1930s—early WW2. (H. & P.; Jackson.) The aircraft were very similar; the narrow fuselage was disproportionately deep in the forward section. (P.B.)

flying tin-opener. The Hawker Hurricane fighter in its role as tank-destroyer: RAF: 1941+. (H. & P.) flying trapeze. Cheese: rhyming s.: late C.19-20. B. & P. flying without a licence. Of a male, forgetfully leaving his fly-buttons or zip undone: comprehensive schools': heard in Leicestershire and Sussex, 1977. Elab.: flying low without... (P.B.), with thanks to Miss Clare Paterson and Mr James Williamson.) Cf. fly over the hills.

flymp. See flimp.

flyms(e)y. See flimsy, 1.

flymy. Knowing, artful, roguish; sprightly: low:—1859. H., 1st ed.; Henley. Ex fly, adj., 1, on slimy.

flyness. The abstract n. of fly, adj., 1: late C.19-20.

Flynn. See in like Flynn.

Flywheel. See Chad.

foal and filly dance. A 'dance to which only very young people... are invited': Society:—1909; ob. (Ware.) Cf. filly and foal.

foaled. Thrown from one's horse: hunting: C.19-20; ob.—2. Manchon asserts that it=fogged, q.v.; I doubt the validity of this.

foaming at the mouth. Exceedingly angry: coll.: since ca. 1910.—2. See ready to spit.

fob, n. A trick, cheat, swindle: orig. (1622), prob. S.E.; but in late C.17, c.; in C.18 low; in C.19, gen. s., almost coll.; in C.20, †. Ex M.E. fob, an impostor, ex Fr. fo(u)rbe.—2. A breeches or a watch pocket: in C.17, c. or low; C.18, coll.; C.19, recognised; C.20, ob. The OED takes a rather different view of its status. ('Hudibras' Butler.) Ex Ger. It occurs in the C.19 low or c. phrase gut a fob, to pick a pocket. Var., fub, q.v.—3. (? Hence), 'A hiding-place, usually for tools underground. To hide—'to make a fob'' (Pit-Talk, 1970, ed. W. Forster): coal-miners': C.20.

fob, v. To pocket: C.19-20, ob.; coll. Cf. pocket, v.—2. To cheat, rob; procure dishonestly: C.17-20; ob. Congreve; Wolcot, 'To use a cant [i.e. fashionable s.] phrase, we've been finely fobbed.' Cf. fob, n., 1.—3. To deceive; trifle with: coll. > S.E.: late C.16-20; ob. (Shakespeare.) In all senses, an early var. is sub, q.v.

fob-diver. A pickpocket: c.: from ca. 1880; ob. Instead.

fob of, fob out of. To cheat or deprive illicitly (a person) of (a thing): coll.: from ca. 1840, 1850 resp. (OED Sup.). An extension of fob, v., 2.

fob off. To put off, or ignore, contemptuously, callously, unfairly, dishonestly; deceive in any of these ways. (Var. sub off.) Coll. > S.E.: late C.16-20; ob. Shakespeare, 'You must not think to fob off our disgrace with a tale.'

fob out of. See fob of.

fob-worker. A pickpocket specialising in the contents (esp. watches) of fobs: c.: from ca. 1890. (Evening News (London), 9 Dec. 1936.) See fob, n., 2, and patch-worker.

fobus. A pej., gen. as term of address: C.17-18. Wycherley, 'Ay, you old fobus'. Cf. fogey, q.v.—2. The puendum muliebre: low:—1893; ob. by 1930.

fo'c'sle. See fokesel and forecastle.

fodded, adj. Of an '[engine], damaged by foreign object', ex FOD, 'Foreign object damage. A noun, screw, nut, etc. that gets into [aircraft] engine or control system' (Strong & Hart-Davis, Fighter Pilot, 1981): RAF: later C.20.

fodder. Abbr. bum-fodder, lavatory-paper: C.19-20 low, verging on coll.

foei(-tock). An interjection of surprise, sorrow, sympathy: S. African coll.: late C.19-20. Ex Dutch foei, for shame!, and tock, why, to be sure! Pettman.

fog, n. Smoke; occ. a smoke: c.: late C.17—early 19. (Grose, 1st ed.)? abbr. fogus, q.v.—2. See Scotch Mist, 2.—3. Steam: Can. railroadmen's:—1931.—4. See banger, 6. Hence fog-ging, fog-signal duty: railwaymen's: since ca. 1930. (Railway.) See also v., 3.—5. See Old Fogs, 2, and cf. fogey, 1.

fog, v. To smoke a pipe: either low s. or c.: C.18—early 19.—2. Mystify, perplex; occ. to obscure: coll. (orig. S.E.): from ca. 1815. Daily Telegraph, 29 Sep. 1883, 'We turns what we say into tangle talk so as to fog them.'—3. V.i., to set fog-signals along the line: railwaymen's: ca. 1885-1920. OED.

fog-bound. Tippy: earlier C.20. A.P. Herbert, Holy Deadlock, 1934, "'Was I a bit tidilly last night?" "Tidilly?" "Tidilly. Skew-whiff. Fog-bound." Cf. fogged, 1.

fog-dog. The lower part of a rainbow: Newfoundland (esp. nautical): mid-C.19-20. (Bowen.) Cf. stubb, and S.E. sundog.—2. A break in the mist or in a fog: nautical: C.19. Basil Hall, 1831.

fog factory. 'A locality where fogs are plentiful' (Berrey): RAF: WW2.

fog in. To see (a place) by chance, to achieve (a purpose) by accident: Society:—1909; virtually † by 1930. Ware.

fog(e)y; occ. fogay, fogg(e); fogram, q.v. An invalid or, later, a garrison soldier or, derivatively, sailor: ?Scottish military: C.18. Grose, 1785, shows that, even then, old gen. preceded it. See quot'n at Fogies. Ca. 1850, the sense > wholly that of an elderly person; an old-fashioned, occ. an eccentric, person: a meaning it possessed as early as 1780. Thackeray, 1855, 'A grizzled, grim old fogy'. Grose derives ex Fr. fogueux, W. ex foggy, 2, q.v.—2. Hence, an old maid: low coll.:—1887 (Baumann, 'eine alte Schachtel').—3. Whence fogyish, old-fashioned, eccentric (1873),—fogeydom, the being a fogey, fogeys as a class (1859),—fogeyism, an example of fogeydom, a fogeyish trait (1859): these three terms, somewhat coll. at first, had > S.E. by 1880.

fogey, adj. Old-fashioned or unusual; 'freaky': Leicestershire (and prob. further afield) teenagers'; as, 'Oh Mum, what a fogey pair of shoes!' (= last year's fashion): ca. 1977. (D. & R. McPheely.) fogged. Tippy: from ca. 1840; ob. Cf. foggy, 1, its imm. origin.—2. Bewildered, puzzled, at a loss: coll.; from ca. 1850.

F

fogger. A pettifogging lawyer: coll. (—1600) > S.E.; † by 1700. Ex Fugger, the merchant-financier family. SOD.

foggie. See fogey. This form is recorded for 1812.

foggiest (notion), have not the. To have no idea; no suspicion. With of or that. Coll., now verging on S.E.: from ca. 1903. Var., faintest: from ca. 1905: by 1930, S.E.

fogging, vbl n. Fumbling through one's part: theatrical: ca. 1885–1915.

foggy. Tippy; gen. slightly tipsy: from ca. 1820; ob. Cf. hazy.—2. Dull, thick-headed: from ca. 1770. Cf. fogey, q.v. Ex foggy, mossgrown, boggy, thick, murky, ex fog, rank grass.

Fogies, the. The Welch Regiment: this nickname is recorded in Spike Mays, The Band Rats, 1975, but is not mentioned by Carew, who, however, writes: 'The 41st Regiment of Foot—the Welch Regiment—started life in 1719 with the intriguing title "The 41st Royal Invalids" . . . The "invalids" were pensioners who could be formed into units when required, for the more static garrison duties or to aid the civil power.' Cf. fogey, 1.

fogle. A (silk) handkerchief: c.: from ca. 1810; ob. Lex. Bal.; Egan; Dickens in Oliver Twist. 'Ger. vogel, bird, has been suggested, via "bird's eye wipe" (W.); perhaps rather ex It. foglia, a pocket; cf. Fr. fouille.—2. Whence fogle-hunter, a thief specialising in silk handkerchiefs: from ca. 1820; ob. And fogle-hunting, occ. f.-drawing: from ca. 1820; ob. Bee.

fogles. A prize-fighter's colours: boxing: mid-C.19–20. Ex fogle, 1.

fogo. A C.19 corruption of hogo, q.v., a flavour or taint.

fogram, fogrum. (Cf. fogey, q.v.) 'A fusty old man' (Grose, 1st ed.): ca. 1775–1850.—2. Liquor: esp. wine, beer, spirits of inferior quality: nautical:—1867; ob. Smyth; Bowen.—3. Adj., stupid, old-fashioned: app. earlier than fogey: witness e.g. Mme D'Arblay in 1772 and O'Keefe, in A Trip to Calais, 1778, 'Father and mother are but a couple of fogrum old fools', the fogrum old being significant. OED.

fogramite. An old-fashioned or eccentric person; coll.: ca. 1820–1900. Bee.

fogramity. An old-fashioned way or custom: Mme D'Arblay, 1796.—2. Hence, eccentricity.—3. A fogey, q.v. All coll. See prec., and fogey.

fogrum. See fogram.

fogues. To have a strong or objectionable odour: NZ:—1935. Perhaps ex fug, fuggy, or—fogus. Tobacco: c.: mid-C.17–19. (Head, Ainsworth.) Perhaps fog, a mist, + us as in hocus-pocus.

fogy. See fogey.

foie-gras. Pâté de foie gras: coll.: 1818 (T. Moore: OED Sup.).

foil-(or foyl)-cloy. A pickpocket; thief; rogue: c.: late C.17–early 18. (B.E.) Cf. file.

foiler. A thief: C.17(?–18): c. Anon., Nicker Nicked.

foin. A pickpocket: c.: late C.16–early 17. Greene, 1591.

foin, v.t. and i. To have connexion with a woman: low: late C.16–17. Ex S.E. sense.

foist, foyst, fyst, n. A cheat, rogue, sharper, pickpocket: late C.16–18 c. Greene; Jonson: 'Prate again, as you like this, you whoreson foist you.'—2. A trick, imposture, swindle: C.17 low or c.—3. A silent breaking of wind: low coll.: C.16–early 19. Variants, fice, fiste, fyce.

foist, foyst, fyst, v.t. and i. (very frequent as vbl n.). To pick pockets; trick, swindle: c.: late C.16–18. Greene, Dekker, Middleton, Grose.—2. To break wind silently: low coll.: C.16–early 18.—3. The dicing senses may have begun as c., the same applying to:

foister, foyster. A pickpocket; swindler: low, ? c.: mid-C.16–17.

foisting. See foist, v., 1.

fokesel, fokesill, foksi, fok'sti, folksel, folksie. Nautical variants on the spelling of fo'c'sle: C.19. Baumann; Manchon; Glascock.

fol-de-riddle-ido. 'A man's trilby hat, so curvaceous of brim as to need a mock-Italianate word to do it the justice of a little sly mockery. I heard it from my mother, born 1861, in London. It has the sound of an older time, and [was] used by my mother into the 1920s, for a hat that protests too much' (L.A., 1976). But this is a fine old nonsense phrase straight from the chorus of many an Eng. folksong (Mrs C.' Raab, 1982).

fold, v. Elliptical for sense 2 of next.

fold up, v.i. (Of an aircraft) to crash: (of a person) to go sick unexpectedly or without warning: Services, esp. RAF: since 1939. (H. & P.) Ex the 'to collapse' sense of the S.E. term; adopted from US; perhaps, semantically, ex the 'action' of a defective parachute.—2. Hence, of a policy or a plan, of a business or a periodical: to fail, to collapse; to cease: since ca. 1945. Usu. shortened to fold, as in 'This magazine is expected to fold before long'.

folding lettuce. Currency notes: beatniks': adopted, ca. 1958, ex US. (Anderson.)

folks. Coll. if not indeed sol. for folk, people (indefinitely), individuals: late C.18–20. See the quot'n at devil's daughter. (Even fol, in this sense, is, in C.20, coll., though certainly not sol.)—2. As = parents, family, relatives, it is S.E. though not literary. Cf. the US sense: respectable people. (See esp. Fowler.)

follow. To accompany (a corpse) to the grave; (also v.i.) to attend the funeral of (a person): coll.: 1819 (OED Sup.)

follow-me-lads. Curls or ribbons hanging over the shoulder; ribbon dangling at the back of a girl's boater hat: coll.:—1872; † by 1935. Contrast Fr. suivez-moi jeune homme.

follow the band or the drum. 'To belong to the Creed of the majority of a Battalion' for Church parade: military: C.20. (F. & G.) Contrast fancy religion, q.v.

follow the man from Cook's! 'Come along; follow me!, etc.' (Leechman): C.20. The ref. is, of course, to the celebrated travel firm, Thomas Cook, of Cook's Tours.

follow the waterworks. To travel about the country on reservoir jobs: navvies': since ca. 1920.

follow through, v.; whence, follow-through, n. To ejaculate twice without withdrawal in the sex act: C.20—and less than raffish. It displaced double one's milt, q.v. at milt. Ex sporting j. follow your nose! often with and you are sure to go straight. A c.p. (non-cultured) addressed to a person asking the way (—1854). Other forms, e.g. and you will be there directly (C.17), are earlier, and the phrase is clearly adumbrated in C.14. (Apperson.) In C.20, often just follow your nose!, in such directions as 'First right, second left, and then just . . .' (P.B.) Elsewhere in the 1st ed. of this Dict., E.P. noted B.E.'s gloss, 'said in a jeer to those that know not the way, and are bid to Smell it out.' Also in Swift and Grose.

follower. A female servant's sweetheart or suitor, esp. if he frequents the house: coll.: 1838. Dickens, 'Five servants kept. No man. No followers.'—2. A seaman serving always, if possible, under the one captain: naval coll.: C.18. Bowen.—3. A young officer doing the same with a view to promotion: id. Ibid.

fond of (one's) drops. Addicted to liquor: Cockney coll.: —1887 (Baumann). Ex fond of a drop, which is familiar S.E.

fonfen. 'The spurious stories of fraudsmen (common Yiddish word in the world of commercial fraud or near-fraud' (Powis): 1970s.

foo. A favourite gremlin: RAAF: ca. 1941–5. Arbitrary, though perhaps with a pun on FOO, a Forward Observation Officer. Baker, 1943, less precisely writes: 'A fictitious person to whom all lapses and bungling are attributed' and classifies it as general war slang; whence fooism, a saying, or an exploit, attributed to Foo; and Foo was here, the WW2 Aus. equivalent of Kilroy was here, q.v. Or, perhaps, ex a popular US cartoon strip called 'Smokey Storer': there, the 'hero' used it as a stop-gap name for anything for which he couldn't be bothered to find the correct word. And see GREMLINS.

foo-foo (or fu-fu) band. A synonym of squeegee band, q.v., an improvised ship's band: RN: late C.19–20. Bowen. Cf.:-

foo-foo barge. A sewage boat on the Yangtze River: RN: earlier C.20. Granville explains that foo-foo is [?North] Chinese for excrement, a view supported by Cdr C. Parsons, RN, ret. P.B.: in twenty years' study of Chinese I have not met the term. A more likely etym. is that given at fu-fu, q.v.; cf. the euph. honey-bucket, a pail for ordure.

foo-foo (powder). 'Talcum powder, used a great deal by sailors in the tropics' (Granville): RN lowerdeck: since ca. 1930. Cf. prec.

foo-foo valve. 'A mythical "gadget" that's always blamed for any mechanical break-down' (Granville, letter, 1947): RN since ca. 1910.

Foo was here! See foo.

food inspector. A tramp: Aus.: C.20. (B., 1942.) He goes about the country sampling food wherever he can get a 'hand-out'. By 1959, †: teste B., 1959.

fool, adj. Silly, foolish; often a pej. intensive: C.13–20: S.E. till C.19, then (low) coll. and dial. Esp. in a, the, or that fool thing. OED.

fool around (with). To dally riskily, with one of the opposite sex: v.t. and i. Coll.: from ca. 1880. In US, v.t., without with. fool at the end of a stick, a; fool at one end and a maggot at the other: mid-C.18–19 c.p. 'gibes on an angler' (Grose, 2nd ed.).

fool-finder. A gen. petty bailiff: ca. 1785–1880. Grose, 3rd ed.

fool-monger. An adventurer, -uress; swindler; betting man: coll.: late C.16–early 18.

fool-rogue. 'Some officers... were what the men called "fool-rogues"—petty, stupid, spiteful martinets' (Robert Blatchford, My Life in the Army, 1910): army coll.: ca. 1860–1910.

fool-sticker. The male member. Occ. fool-maker. Low: C.19–20.

fool-taker, -taking. A sharper, sharpening: low coll.: late C.16–mid-17. Greene, 1592.

fool-trap. A 'fool-monger', q.v.—2. A stylish harlot.—3. The female pudend: low. All from ca. 1840.

fooleries, the. April-fooling: coll.: prob. from ca. 1880, on Colinderies and Fisheries, qq.v. Christopher Bush, The Case of the April Fools, 1933, 'April the First, and what people are accustomed to call "the fooleries", sir, actually expire at mid-day.'

foolish, adj. Of one who pays: harlots' c.: from ca. 1788: ? ob. Grose, 2nd ed, 'Is he foolish or flash?'

foolocracy. Government by, or consisting of, fools: joc. coll.: 1832. Sydney Smith.

foolometer. A means whereby to determine the public taste: joc. coll.: 1837, Sydney Smith (OED). In C.20, S.E. Cf. S.E. foolocracy.

foolosopher, foolosophy. A silly pretender to, pretence of, philosophy: joc. coll.: from ca. 1550. Greene, 'That quaint and mystical forme of Foolosophie' (OED).

fool's father. The pantaloons or 'old un': theatrical: ca. 1870–1910.

fools seldom differ. A C.20 derogatory retort to the c.p. great minds think alike, q.v.

fool's wedding. A party of women: coll.: from ca. 1875. Cf. hen party.

foont. A sovereign: c.:—1839. (Brandon; H., 1st ed.) Ex either Fr. vingt or, prob., Ger. Pfund.

foosch. Football. See IMPERIAL SERVICE COLLEGE, in Appendix.

foot. Feet, as in 'Six foot two': coll.: C.15–20.—2. See length of (someone's) foot.

foot! or foot!, foot! Get out of it!, go away!: coll.: C.19–20; ob. Ware implies equivalence to Fr. fous-moi le camp and remarks that it is 'cast after the respectably dressed person who wanders into strange and doubtful bye-ways'.—2. In me or my foot!, Rubbish!; not at all!: low: late C.19–20. C.J. Dennis; Hugh Walpole, Vanessa, 1933, "But, Rose, you're wrong..." "Wrong my foot! you can't kid me..." Occ. pig's foot!

foot a or the bill. To pay; settle an account: coll.: from ca. 1844. Until ca. 1890, an Americanism.

foot-and-mouth disease. The tendency of golfers to talk at night of the day's exploits: joc. coll.: from 1923 or 1924: cultured. (Ware, 1909, records that, in Lancashire, the phrase indicates 'swearing followed by kicking'.)

foot-back it. To go on foot, carrying one's pack: Aus. coll.: Archer Russell, 1934. And see footback.

foot-bath. A too full glass: late C.19–early 20. Ware.

foot in the dish, have a. To get a footing; have a share or interest in: coll.: mid-C.17–late C.18. (Bunyan: OED.) Ex a pig in its trough.

foot-in-the-door bloke. 'A canvasser or door-to-door salesman. Used in "Dr Finlay's Casebook", BBC TV, 12 March 1967' (Petch): since ca. 1955. Ex a trick practised to ensure at least some attention.

foot in the grave. See one foot in the grave.

foot in(to) it, put (one's). To get into trouble; cause trouble: coll.: from ca. 1790. P.B.: in C.20, gen. to commit a gross breach of tact.

foot it. To walk: coll.: since early C.19. Blackwood's, Aug. 1822. (Moe.) P.B.: cf. the later bus it, cab it, and other modes of travel all of which terms prob. stem from this one.—2. To kick, 'hoof' (q.v.), use one's feet: from ca. 1850: sporting, esp. football.—3. To dance: coll.: late C.18–19. W.N. Glascock, Sketch-Book (II, 135), 1826; and earlier in The Port Folio of 23 May 1805 (p. 158, col. 2) quoting a Charles Dibdin song. (Moe.) foot land-raker. A footpad: C.16–17 coll. (?joc). Shakespeare.

foot-licker. A servant; toady: coll.: C.17–19. Shakespeare in The Tempest.

foot(-)lights, smell the. To come to like theatricals: theatrical coll.: from ca. 1870.

foot on the floor, put (one's); with (one's). To accelerate; by accelerating: motorists': since ca. 1920. Cf. the later clog down, and turn up the wick, qq.v.

foot-pad. A pedestrian highwayman: orig. (C.17), c. or low; C.18, coll.; C.19–20, S.E. Cf. low pad and see pad. For the vocabulary of foot-paddery, see the relevant essay in Words!

foot-riding, vbl n. Wheeling one's machine instead of riding it: cyclists':—1887; ob. by 1930. T. Stevens, Round the World on a Bicycle.

foot-rot. Fourpenny ale: public-houses': ca. 1895–1915. (Ware.) Cf. rot-gut.

foot-rotting. 'Kicking one's heels in idleness' (B., 1943): Aus.: since ca. 1930.

foot-scamp. A footpad: C.18–early 19, low or c. (Parker.) See scamp, n. and v.

foot scamper, the. Robbery on foot, esp. of coaches; 'foot-paddery': c.: C.18 (James Dalton, A Narrative, 1728.) See scamp, n. and v.

foot-slogger. An infantryman: military coll.: from early 1890s. Cf. foot-wabblers and the Fr. equivalents, pousse-cailloux, piou-piou.—2. Hence, occ., a pedestrian: coll.: C.20. The v., foot-slog, though likewise coll. (C.20), is seldom used.—3. A policeman on his beat: Aus.: from ca. 1920.

foot the bill. See foot a bill.

foot up. To 'total' at the foot of a bill: coll.: ex US (1840), anglicised ca. 1860. But as foot in S.E. for centuries before.

foot-wabblers, -wobbler. An infantryman: 1785, Grose; ob. by 1860: military. Cf. mud-crusher and foot-slogger. (Grose is notable on early military s.) foot-walk (it). To travel on foot: Aus. coll.:—1935.

footback or on footback. On foot: Aus.: since ca. 1920. Archer Russell, A Tramp Royal, 1934 (footback); B, 1943 (on f). Punning horseback.

football. A British 60-pound trench-mortar shell: army: 1915–18. (F. & G.) It was spherical—2. As the football. Football news: coll.: C.20.

football feet, have. (Of an aircraft pilot) to make excessive use of the rudder: RAF: since ca. 1930. H. & P.

foter. One who potters, 'messes' about: s. when not dial.: from ca. 1750. It has a corresponding v. and vbl n.: var. spelling fouter(ing). See Grose, P., at footy.—2. Football: orig. university s.: from ca. 1880. An early example of the 'OXFORD-ER'.—3. A player of Rugby football: ca. 1885–1905: universities'.

footie, -y. Football: Aus.: since ca. 1920. B., 1953.—2. See play footie.

footing. Money paid, on beginning a new job, to one's fellow-workers: in C.18, coll.; but thereafter, S.E. Cf. chum-mage.

footle, n. (This, and other derivations of the v., are all pron. foo'tl ...) Nonsense; twaddle: from ca. 1893. Ex:

footle, v. To dawdle, potter, trifle about; act or talk foolishly; coll.: from ca. 1890; slightly ob. By futile out of dial. footer, fouter (ex Fr. foutre), to trifle. F. Anstey in Voces Populi. OED.

footle around, usu. as vbl n., footling around, 'continuously circling over an area in search of a target or a landing-ground' (E.P. in New Statesman, 19 Sep. 1942).

footler. One who 'footles': coll.: C.20. Ex footle, v.

footless stocking without a leg, a. Nothing: Anglo-Irish coll.:—1909 (Ware).

footlight favourite. A chorister that thrusts herself forward: theatrical coll.:—1935. Ironic use of a standard cliché.

footling. Insignificant; trivial; pettily fussy: coll.: since ca. 1890. An early example is in F. Anstey, The Travelling Companions, 1892, ch. 2: 'A simply footling show'—an exhibition of pictures. Ex footle, v.

footman's inn. A wretched lodging; a gaol: coll.: ca. 1600–1630.

footman's maund. An artificial sore, made to resemble a horse's kick or bite: late C.17—late 19 c. (B.E.) Cf. fox's bite and see maund.

footprints, pair of. A pipe-wrench: Aus.: since ca. 1930. 'Apparently so named because, when open, they are wide at the ends and narrow in the middle like a [human] footprint' (B.P.).

Foot's horse, take or travel by (Mr). To walk: coll. verging on S.E.: from ca. 1820; ob. (Bee.) Cf. Shanks's mare.

footsack! (To a dog) go away! S. African. See voetsak!

Footscray Alps, the. The higher parts of Footscray: Melbourne-ites' irony: since ca. 1920. B., 1943.

footsies. See play footies.

footslogger. See foot-slogger.

footy. Despicable; worthless: coll. from ca. 1750: in C.20, ob. (Grose, 1st ed.) Ex Fr. foutu. See esp. Grose, P.—2. Futile: Society: since ca. 1934; ob. Margery Allingham, The Fashion in Shrouds, 1938.—3. As in 'footy match', football match: Aus.: since ca. 1920. A.E. Farrell, The Vengeance, 1963.

foozilow. To flatter, cajole: Anglo-Indian coll.:—1886. Ex Hindustani. Y. & B.

foozle, n. A miss: sporting s. > gen. coll.: 1890. Ex the v.—2. (Of a person) a bore; an old 'fogey' (q.v): coll.: 1860. Rhoda Broughton, 'Frumps and fozzles in Eaton Square' (London, SW1). Prob. ex fool + fizzle; cf. next. (SOD for dates.)

foozle, v. To miss; make a bad attempt at; bungle: sporting j. > gen. s. or coll. The Field, 25 Feb. 1888, 'Park fozzled his second stroke.' Ex footle + fizzle. The vbl n., foozling, bungling, is frequent in C.20.

foozle about (with). To fool about (with): coll.: C.20. G.D.H. and M. Cole, Burglars in Bucks, 1930.

foozled, fozzly. Blurred; indistinct; spoilt: coll.: from ca. 1890.

foozler. A bungler: from ca. 1895: sporting j. > gen. s.

foozlified. Tipsy: nautical:—1887; ob. by 1930. (Baumann.) Cf. foozle, n., 2.

foozling. See foozle, v.

fop-doodle. A fop; a fool; an insignificant man: coll.: ca. 1640–1700.

fop's alley, Fops' Alley. The gangway between stalls and pit, orig. and esp. in the Opera House: theatrical: ca. 1770–

1830. (Mme D'Arbly in Cecilia, 1782.) Earlier fop's corner (nearest-the-stage corner of the pit): Wycherley, The Country Wife, 1675, in form fop corner. (With thanks to John Cannon, Esq.)

for 'Brighton' read 'tight 'un'. A c.p. directed at a drunk: RAF: since ca. 1920.

for certain sure. Definitely. See certain sure.

for crying in a cemetery! 'Euphemism for "For Christ's sake!": since ca. 1950' (L.A., 1976). Cf.:-

for crying out loud! A London phrase, from ca. 1930, used in the place of—and with more effect than—for Christ's sake. Prob. ex US, where euph.

for ever and a day. An intensification of 'for ever', as an indefinite, but considerable, length of time: coll.: since mid-C.20. (P.B.)

for fear. Short for for fear that or lest: coll.: since ca. 1840.

for-fear, n. A cut-price prostitute. See charity dame.

for free. Free: coll.: adopted, ca. 1954, ex US 'I got it for free'. Tautology. Cf. free, gratis and for nothing and freebie.

for fuck's sake! (usu. pron. fuksake.) In later C.20 the main low, esp. Services', all-purpose expletive and intensifier; used sometimes in resignation, most often in anger, as simple exclam., 'Oh, for fuck's sake!', or to emphasise a (usu.) rhetorical question: 'Well, for fuck's sake, why don't they ...?' An oath in its own right, obviously, but perhaps also a 'euphemism' for For Christ's sake. (P.B.)

for good and all. See good and all.

for it, be. To be due for punishment; hence, imm., in trouble: military s. (1915: ? late 1914) >, by 1919, gen. coll. The it = punishment. F. & G.

for keeps. See keeps, 1.

for kicks. See just for kicks.

for king and cunt. A c.p. reply to 'What are you fighting for?': C.20.

for my next trick (followed by a significant pause). Uttered by someone, whether the culprit or one of his 'audience', who has just made a mess of things: since early 1930s at latest. From the world of entertainment, conjurers', jugglers', and the like. See DCpp.

for Pete's sake! Used emphatically, as a mild oath, prob. ex for pity's sake: coll.: C.20. (P.B.)

for real, adj. and adv. Real(ly); true, truly: coll.: adopted, ca. 1965, ex US. (Petch, 1969.)

for show and not for blow. Aus. c.p. meaning that something is for display rather than for use: orig. applied to a man's breast-pocket handkerchief, it has been used in wider context, since ca. 1950, for all sorts of comparable things.

for starters. For a start; to begin with, as of a meal: coll.: since ca. 1960. Perhaps on analogy of afters, the dessert course. As in: 'What's wrong?'—'Well, for starters, I'd like to know why ...' (P.B.)

for the birds. See that's for the birds, that is of no consequence, it is rubbish, etc. It is, indeed, horse-dung.

for the hell of it (often elab. just for ..., or for the sheer hell of it). Simply for the pleasure of doing, experiencing, seeing, etc., it; to express a reckless, or joc. implying a would-be reckless, independence: adopted, ex US, ca. 1940 in the basic form; the sheer form since ca. 1950. See DCpp.

for the love of Mike! For goodness' sake!: (low) coll.: mid-C.19–20: Anglo-Irish > gen., and, as L.A. points out, 1974, 'As a safe bet "For the love of Christ!" but with blasphemy, prob. orig. Roman Catholic.

for the widows and orphans, it's; or as c.p., all the money I take goes to the widows and orphans of (such and such a group or class or profession): cheapjacks' and market grafters': C.20; since ca. 1960, slightly ob. (Petch, 1966.)

for to. In order to: once S.E.; but since ca. 1780, sol.

for what we are about to receive. A naval c.p.: C.18–20. C.S. Forester, The Happy Return, 1937, "For what we are about to receive —," said Bush, repeating the hackneyed blasphemy quoted in every ship awaiting a broadside.' Ex the Grace, 'For what we are about to receive, the Lord make us truly thankful.'

for you the war is over. A c.p. used by prisoners-of-war captured by the Italians (who thus addressed them on their arrival in Italy): 1940–4. (P-G-R.) Martin Jordan used it as the title of his novel about P.o.W.s in Italy, pub. 1946 (P.B.).

for your information... Sarcastic reply to an over-inquisitive or impertinent busybody: since ca. 1955. With ironic allusion to the legitimate queries of commerce—and bureaucracy. (Petch, 1974.)

forage. To 'procure, seek, bring back' [coll.]; 'find places at other table than one's own, at meals' [s.]: Bootham School: —1925 (Bootham).

forakers. A privy: Winchester College: C.19–20. Either L. forica > foricas > foricus >, ca. 1860, forakers (W.); or four acres, a field (H.). W.c.s have had to endure much pedantic wit: cf. Ajax. R.G.K. Wrench gives it as foricus; he adds 'Cf. Vulgars=Vulgas'.

foraminate. To have sexual connexion with (a woman): C.19: low pedantic. Ex L. foramen, an orifice.

force, n. The ability of a sheepdog to control a mob of sheep, esp. without legging, i.e. leg-biting. A good dog is said to have a lot of force. Whence, forcing dog' (B., 1959): Aus. rural coll.: C.20.—2. As the Force, the Police: coll.: from ca. 1850. Cf. the Profession. (Miss Braddon in The Trail of the Serpent, 1868.) Abbr. the Police Force.

force-lob, n. and v. (To make) a crash landing in an aircraft: RAF coll.: var. of crash lob, q.v. See also lob, v., 4.

force-meat ball. Something inherently unpleasant endured under compulsion: C.19. (Bee, 1823.)? ex the spiced, highly seasoned nature of force-meat and influenced by forcement.

force the voucher. To elicit money from the betting public and then abscond: sporting:—1874 (H., 5th ed.).

forced to be, be. To be necessarily: late C.17–20: S.E. until mid-C.19, then coll. (increasingly low). OED.

force(d) put. Compulsion: 'Hobson's', i.e. no, 'choice': coll. > S.E.: ca. 1650–1820, then dial.

forceps. The hands: mainly and orig. medical: ca. 1820–1920.

'fore. A mostly proletarian and military coll. form of before: mid-C.19–20.

fore and aft (or hyphenated), n. 'Horizontally opposed twin-cylinder engine, set along the [motorcycle] frame rather than transversely. Used on early Douglas and A.B.C. machines, for instance: early C.20 motorcyclists' (Mike Partridge, 1979).—2. 'Field service cap, as distinct from dress service or peaked cap' (Jackson): RAF, since ca. 1925: in later C.20, also army. I.e. a forage cap; cf. cunt cap.

fore-and-aft, v. To have sexual connexion: nautical: mid-C.19–early 20.

fore and aft, adj. 'Descriptive of a sailor's clothes, cut on the generous lines known to all' (H. & P.): Services', esp. RN: C.20. I.e. with plenty of freedom both in front and behind.

fore-and-aft rig. 'Uniforms of civilian cut worn by men not dressed as seamen: petty officers, engine-room artificers, sick-berth attendants, stewards, cooks, etc.' (Granville): RN: since late C.19 (Bowen). Contrast free-and-blowing. A var., and prob. the orig., was ... suit, as in 'Taffrail', The Sub, 1917.

fore-and-after. A harlot that is double-barrelled, q.v.: from ca. 1850. ? ex, 2, the † nautical s. sense (—1867), a cocked hat worn with the peak in front, Smyth: recorded in Southern Scots in 1839 (EDD).

Fore and Afts, the. The Gloucestershire Regiment: military: late C.19–20. App. 'coined by Kipling in his story "The Drums of the Fore and Aft"' (F. & G.). See Back Numbers.

fore-bitter. 'A narrative song sung round the fore bits in the dog watches, as opposed to a shanty, or working song' (Bowen): nautical coll.: C.19, prob. ca. 1810–70 (Good-enough, 1901).

fore-buttocks. The female breasts: either cultured coll. or, prob., literary jocularity: ca. 1727; †. Coined by Pope at the height of his powers.

fore-chains. See rat in your fore-chains.

fore coach-wheel. Half-a-crown: C.17–19. See coach-wheel.

'fore you listed. A var. of before you came up, q.v.

forecastle, forecourt, forehatch, forewoman. The puendum muliebre: all C.19–20 and decidedly ob. terms in Venus-venery.

forecastle rat. A seaman that one suspects of being either the owners' or the officers' spy: nautical coll.: late C.19–20. Bowen.

forecastle wireless. A rumour; rumours: nautical: from ca. 1925. Bowen.

forecourt. See forecastle.

forefoot. The hand: joc. coll.: late C.16–early 20. Shakespeare, Grose.

foregather. To come together in sexual intimacy: coll.: C.18–early 19.

forehatch, forewoman. See forecastle.

Foreign Legion, the. The Welsh Guards: the regiment was formed in Feb. 1915 of Welshmen transferred from the four other Guards Regts. Carew.—2. 'Military punishment squad, doubling [=running] around parade ground with rifles at high port. Imperial German Navy, WW1; adopted by R.N. The Private War of Seaman Stumpf, D. Horn, 1967' (Peppitt).—3. 'Men on loan' (Railway, 2nd): railwaymen's since late 1940s. McKenna, Glossary, 1970, clarifies, 'During busy railway periods, men from slack depots would be lent to depots suffering from staff shortages.' Cf.:- foreign line. Any line other than that on which the speaker is employed: railwaymen's coll.:—1909 (Ware).

foreign order. An Aus. synonym of foreigner: since early 1940s. (B.P.)

foreign parts, gone to. Transported as a convict: ca. 1820–70. Bee.

foreignering, vbl n. and ppl adj. Foreign (matters); like a foreigner: low coll.: from mid-1820s; ob. I.e. foreign + pej. suffix -eer. OED.—2. Hence, foreignering cove, a foreigner: c. or low:—1909 (Ware).

foreigner. An article—e.g. the model of an aircraft—made in the Service's time and with its materials: RAF: since ca. 1941. (H. & P.) Adopted from civilian workers, who had used the term since at least as early as 1939.

foreigners. Foreign stocks and shares: Stock Exchange coll. (1898: OED Sup.) >, by 1920, j.

forelo(o)per. Var., of forlo(o)per, q.v.

foreman. The membrum virile: C.17, ? later: coll., perhaps literary.—2. In Beaumont & Fletcher's Philaster, ed. of 1622, at v., iii, presumably s. and prob. = a goose. OED.—3. See near the foreman...

foreman of the jury. One who monopolises the conversation: early C.17–early 19. (B.E.) It is the foreman who delivers the jury's verdict. See TAVERN TERMS, §4, in Appendix.

foreskin-hunter. A prostitute: low coll.: C.19–20 (? ob.).

foreskins and balls. Faggots and dumplings: Liverpool street arabs': late C.19–20. Arab.

Forest, the. 'Short for Sherwood Forest [q.v.], which, because of its adoption by journalists and film producers, has become non-U in the Navy' (Peppitt).

forest of debt. The payment of debts: Oxford University: ca. 1820–40. Egan's Grose.

forestall. In garting, a look-out in front; the one behind is the backstall. C. of C.19–20, ob. See stall.

foretopman's bottle, the. Mistura Alba, a panacea of white liquid: lowerdeck: ca. 1905–20. Knock.

foretopman's lock. A quiff: RN: late C.19–20. 'Taffrail', The Sub, 1917.

Forever Amber or f - a - -. A fixed distant signal: railwaymen's: since late 1940s. (Railway, 2nd.) Ex the title of Kathleen Winsor's famous popular novel, published in Britain in 1945—and the film two years later.

forever gentleman. 'A man in whom good breeding is ingrained': Society: ca. 1870–1915. (Ware.) Contrast temporary gentleman.

forger. (Gen. pl.) A false die: gamblers' c.: late C.16—early 17. Greene, A Notable Discovery, 1591.

forget. A lapse of memory; an instance of such lapse: coll.: from ca. 1820; ob. EDD.—2. See you'd forget your head...

forget about. To fail to remember the facts of or about; fail to take action about: coll.: from ca. 1895. (OED Sup.) Actually, this is a slipshod, unnecessary, elab. of forget.

forget it! Don't worry any more about it; it's not worth worrying, or even thinking, about: lowish coll.: since ca. 1950.—2. Sometimes used in irritation at someone who, through inattention or dull-wittedness, has failed to catch what the speaker has said, and when the matter is too trivial, or even too complicated, to be worth repeating: like sense 1, adopted ex US, ca. 1950.—3. See and don't you forget it!

forget (one)self. (Of a child) to urinate or defecate unconventionally: euph. coll.: late C.19—20. Cf. Fr. s'oublier.

forgy, n. and adj. A dim-wit; (also forggified) dim-witted: market traders': since ca. 1910. (M.T.) Is there an obscure blend of forgetful + foggy, 2—or is it a deliberate alteration of foggy, 2?

foricus. See forakers.

fork, n. A pickpocket: c.: late C.17—early 19. Prob. ex. forks in:—2. Also c.: app. from ca. 1810: a finger (Vaux); the forks (late C.17—20) being the fore and middle fingers. Cf. daddles, fives, grappling irons, pickers and stealers, ticklers, qq.v.—3. A spendthrift: C.18: ? c.—4. As crutch of the body, S.E. though hardly literary. But the old fork is coll. (late C.19—20), esp. in get on the old fork, (of either sex) to coit.—5. A jockey: Aus. sporting: C.20. (B., 1942.) He uses his fork so much.—6. See pitch the fork and vinegar with a fork.—7. In a bit on the fork, the female pudend; also, a sexual congress: low: C.19—earlier 20. Ex 4.

fork, v. To pick pockets; esp. by inserting the fore and middle fingers: late C.17—early 19: c. B.E. (as v.t.) In C.19, var.: put one's forks down. Cf. C.18—19 Edinburgh fork for, search for (EDD).—2. V.t. and i., to dispose (a woman) for the sexual act: low: mid-C.19—20 (? ob.).—3. Occ. abbr. fork out, q.v.—4. To protrude awkwardly: coll.: 1882 (? earlier). OED.—5. To ride a horse: Aus.: C.20. (Tom Ronan, Moleskin Midas, 1956.) Cf. n., 5.

fork and knife. Life: rhyming s.: late C.19—20. (Alan Hyder, Black Girl, White Lady, 1934.)—2. A wife: id.: C.20. (Lester.) Far less common than synon. trouble and strife.

fork in the beam! A late C.19—20 RN c.p., 'an order from the sub for all midshipmen to retire from the gunroom.' Ex a fork 'actually stuck into the beam in the old wooden ships'; a custom well described by 'Taffrail' in Pincher Martin, 1916.

fork lifts. The two striped cushions placed in the rear window of a car: Aus. raffish: since late 1950s. 'This is a status symbol, in that people with small cars or old cars with a small rear window have no room for the cushions' (B.P.) These cushions are reputed to facilitate rear-seat copulation, and there is a pun on the fork of the human body. In S.E., a fork-lift is 'a kind of industrial carrier that lifts goods by inserting a fork beneath a pallet stacked with goods'.

fork-out, n. Ex the v.: see quot'n at high pike.

fork out; occ. over or up. Hand over (valuables or money); pay, 'shell out', q.v.: since ca. 1815—20: s. > coll. by 1900. W.T. Moncrieff, The Collegians, 1820, has fork over. Ex forks = hands or fingers. Cf. stump up, and see quot'n at dub up.

forks down, put (one's). See fork, v., 1.

forke. A dockyard thief or 'fence' (q.v.): nautical: C.19—20; extremely ob. Ex fork, v., 1. Cf. forking, q.v.—2. In wear a forke, to be a cuckold: via cornuted: C.17. Marston, 1606. OED.

forking. Thieving; the practice of thieving: c.: C.19. Ex fork, v., 1.—2. The undue hurrying of work: tailors': ca. 1850—1920.

forking the beam. The vbl n. corresponding to fork in the beam!, q.v. F. & G. forkless. Clumsy; unworkmanlike: c.:—1821; ob. by 1930.

As if without forks, hands or fingers—prob. the latter.

forks. See fork, n., 2.—2. Only in pl, the hands: from ca. 1820. An extension of fork, a finger, or of forks as at fork, n., 2.

forlo(o)per. A teamster guide: S. Africa: from ca. 1860: coll.; in C.20 S.E. The guide is gen. a boy who walks abreast the foremost pair of oxen. Dutch voorlooper, a 'fore-runner'. OED.

forlorn hope. A gambler's last stake: coll.: late C.17—19. (B.E.) Ex S.E. sense (orig. military). See OED, and W.: Romance of Words.

form. Condition, fitness: orig. of horses (ca. 1760) and s.; by 1870, coll.; by 1900, S.E. Esp. in or out of form. Henry Smart, in Post to Finish, 'When fillies, in racing parlance, lose their form at three years old, they are apt to never recover it.'—2. Behaviour, esp. in bad or good form: coll. (1868) ex the turf, though anticipated by Chaucer and Shakespeare. In C.20, by the class that uses this magic alternative and formula, it is considered S.E.—3. Habit; occupation; character: low coll.:—1884; ob.—4. The height of one's attainment: Public Schools': C.20. P.G. Wodehouse, 1902, 'He sneers at footer, and jeers at cricket. Croquet is his form, I should say.'—5. (Gen. with in) high spirits; 'concert' pitch: coll.: from ca. 1875. OED—6. A reformatory: S. African C.: late C.19—20. Cape Times, 23 May 1946.—7. A prison record, esp. if serious or recidivist: since ca. 1925. Norman, 'You can get at least a five and maybe even a neves for getting captured with a shooter especially if you've got a bit of form behind you.' Also Aus. prison s. (McNeil, 1973.) See also sense 9.—8. Situation, position, as in 'What's the form?' or 'It took me a couple of days to find out the form at H.Q.'—to ascertain how things were done and what the people were like: Services officers': since ca. 1930. 'What's the form?' became, later, ca. 1950, synon. with 'What's the drill?' = How do I/we go about this matter? Orig., however, the question was a Society usage, from the mid-1920s, and meant simply 'What's it like (at, e.g., a party-house)?' Evelyn Waugh, A Handful of Dust, 1934, of a household, "'What's the form?" "Very quiet and enjoyable."—9. In with form, having a police record: c. (and police s.): since ca. 1925. Peter Crookston, Villain, 1967, 'They [the police] might check on everyone with form living within easy reach of the crime.' Ex 7.—10. See matter of form.

form up (about it). To make a formal request or complaint to a superior officer: army, mostly officers': WW2. (P-G-R.) Ex the formal parading of a soldier before his officer for interview of any sort.

-former, e.g. fourth-former. A pupil in the (e.g. 4th) form: Public Schools' coll.: C.20.

Formy. HMS Formidable: RN: since ca. 1930. Granville.

forney. A (finger-)ring. Var. of fawney, q.v.: C.19—20 c.

fornicating, adj. Lying; humbugging ('You fornicating sod!'): C.20.

fornicating breeches. 'The Navy used to wear trousers with a button-up flap. When trousers with fly fronts came in, they were called "fornicating breeches" because they were much easier to manipulate in that activity. Attributed to Admiral Jacky Fisher. Fisher of Kiloerstone, by R.F. MacKay, 1973' (Peppitt). And what a lad was John Fisher (1841—1920), who became First Sea Lord, 1904—10 and, 1914—15, the man who caused the Royal Navy to become efficient for, and in, WW1. See, however, fornicators, which this entry seems to contradict.

fornicating-engine, -member, -tool. The male member: low coll.: C.19—early 20.

fornicating the poodle. Irritating and senseless occupation. Var. of fucking the dog, q.v.

fornicator. 'He that passeth backward': trucks players': ca. 1650—1720. Charles Cotton, The Compleat Gamester, 1674.—2. The male member. Whence fornicator's hall, the female pudend: C.19 low. (? C.20).—3. See Flying Fornicator.

fornicators. The old-fashioned trousers with a flap in front: † by 1880, the trousers being antiquated even earlier.

forra(r)der, get no or (not) any. To make (no) headway: coll.

(orig. illiterate, now mostly joc.): Daily Telegraph, 15 Dec. 1898 (W.).

Forsyte Saga. Lager: rhyming s.: later C.20. (Ronnie Barker, Fletcher's Book of Rhyming Slang, 1979.) John Galsworthy's famous series of novels was given new popularity by dramatisation for television in the 1970s.

Fort. Familiar name for the Boeing B-17 Flying Fortress bomber: RAF: journalists'; aeroplane-spotters: 1941–5.

Fort Bushy. The female pudend: Can.: C.20.

forth and so fifth. See and so forth...

Fort Bridge job. Anything needing constant amendment or renewal or updating: coll.: later C.20. E.g., editing a dictionary—like keeping the Fort Bridge repainted: the painters are reputed to start again at one end as soon as they have reached the other. (With thanks to James G. Ollé, MA, FLA.)

Fortescue; forty-skewer. A fish having thorny spines on its fins (Pentaroge marmorata): NSW: from late 1870s: coll. >, by 1910, S.E. Fortescue, recorded in 1882 in the Rev. J.E. Tenison-Wood's Fish of New South Wales, is a Hobson-Jobson adaptation of forty-skewer. Morris.

fortie. Var. (B., 1942) of forty, 2, a sharper.

Forties, the. A well-known gang of thieves of the 1870s—early 80s: low: 1887—; † by 1910. Baumann. Ex The Forty Thieves.

Fortnum and Mason. A notable hamper: Society: mid-C.19–20. Ware, 'From the perfection of the eatables sent out by this firm of grocers in Piccadilly,'—whence comes also the cleverest advertising-matter known to this century. (The firm was established in C.18.) This note written mid-1930s.

fortune, a small. An extravagantly large sum paid for something, esp. for something small: coll.: from ca. 1890.

fortune-biter. A sharper, swindler: coll.: C.18. D'Urfev.

fortune cookies. 'Gold diggers'—girls looking for a 'sugar daddy', an elderly or an old man with money: Can.: since late 1960s. Petch cites the North Hill News, Calgary, late 1975 or early 1976. P.B.: adopted ex US; a pun on the standard term.

fortune-teller. A judge or, occ., a magistrate: c.: late C.17—early 19. B.E., whose definition is so ambiguous that the term may, even there, bear the usual meaning: in which case that sense may orig. have been c. or, more prob., s. or low coll. Grose, 1st ed., seems, however, to be clear as to the 'judge' interpretation, though he may merely be glossing B.E. Cf. lambskin man, conjuror, cunning man, which Egan considers as = a judge.

forty is, in C.17–20 S.E. as well as coll., used frequently to designate a large though indefinite member, or quantity, or degree: Shakespeare, who has 'I could beat forty of them', twice employs 'forty thousand' in a highly hyperbolic manner common to the Elizabethan dramatists. Forty pence, a customary amount for a wager, C.16–17, and the later forty thieves may be operative reasons for the continuance of this coll. or coll.-tending forty. (Onions.)—2. A sharper: Aus.: from ca. 1925. (The OED Sup. records it at 1927.) Perhaps suggested by the forty thieves.

forty-eight. A 48-hours' pass or leave: Services' coll.: since ca. 1914. Cf. a thirty-six-(hours' pass).

forty-faced. Arant; esp. shamelessly given to shameless deception: e.g. forty-faced flirt or liar.

forty fits, have. To be much perturbed or alarmed: coll.: late C.19–20. Hence, frighten (someone) into forty fits.

forty-foot, forty-guts. A fat, dumpy person (pej.): the former stressing the shortness, the latter the fatness: low coll.: resp. from (—)1864, (—)1857. (H., 3rd ed.; 'Ducange Anglicus'.) Cf. guts, tubby or tubs.

forty-foot pole. See wouldn't touch...

forty-fouz. Doorto door: rhyming: s.: C.20. Franklyn, Rhyming.

forty-jawed. Excessively talkative: coll.: mid-C.19–20. Cf. jaw and forty-lunged.

forty-legs. A centipede: late C.17–20: coll. (ob.) when not dial.

forty-lunged. Stentorian— or very apt to be. Coll.: from ca. 1850.

Forty-Niners. The earliest prospectors in California: US coll., anglicised ca. 1900. They went there is 1849. Haskins, Argonauts of California, 1890.

Forty-Ninth-and-a-Half (, usu. the old). The RM: "'The Royal Marines will take post in line between the 49th and 50th Regiments" (or words to that effect).—King George IV (Maj. J.S. Hicks, Salvoes from a Stone Frigate, 1946, p. 6).

forty pounds of steam behind him, sometimes preceded by with. A naval c.p. applied to someone who has received an immediate draft: since ca. 1900. (Granville.) At one time in the Navy's history, safety valves 'went off' at forty pounds pressure.

forty(-)rod; red(-)eye. Of illicit whisky going from Montana into Canada in 1889, Captain Burton Deane, Mounted Police Life in Canada, 1916, writes, 'The stuff itself was known as "Forty Rod", "Red Eye", "Rot Gut" and other similar expressive names, and it was invariably of over-proof strength, so that it might be doctored by the retail vendors. In most cases it was little other than coloured alcohol': Can. s.: since ca. 1885. In C.20, rot-gut = bad beer. In 1914–18, the Army applied red-eye to rum. Mr Robert Claiborne reminds me that Mark Twain used it in Huckleberry Finn, 1884, and that the story is laid ca. 1850.

forty to the dozen. Very quickly: with talk, more often nineteen to the dozen; with walk off, the sense is to decamp very speedily. Coll.: from ca. 1860.

forty thieves (or F.T.), the. 'A famous class of contract-built 74-gun ships designed by Sir H. Peake, but ruined by Admiralty interference until they were the worst liners in the service': naval: C.19. Bowen.—2. The 40th Pathans (Indian Army): military: late C.19–20. (F. & G.) Ex numerals—and reputed habits.

forty-twa. A public urinal (Edinburgh): Scots coll.: ca. 1820–90. (H., 3rd ed.) Ex the number of persons seatable.

Forty-Two, the. The Black Watch (Royal Highland) Regiment: the regt was formed from the 42nd and 73rd Regts of Foot. 'There are certain irreverent and extremist Sassenachs who refer to the 42nd as the Black Scotch—but not, as a rule, in their hearing' (Carew). Also known—but it should likewise not be mentioned in their hearing—as the Sheep-Shaggers.

forty winks. A nap, short sleep: coll.: from middle 1820s. Egan, 1828 (OED); H., 3rd ed.; G. Eliot, 'Having "forty winks" on the sofa in the library', 1866.

Forum. A Warwickshire term (not. dial) explained in Lord Granville's speech at the Bright Celebration held in that city in June 1883: 'I rise a stranger in this famous Town Hall known in Birmingham, I believe, by a still more classical name.' (Ware.) forward station. 'A desirable coastguard station': nautical coll.: ca. 1850–1900. Bowen.

fosey-faced. Var. spelling of fozy-faced, smug-looking.

foss. Misspelled shortening of phosphorus. See phos.—2. Generic for patent medicines and toilet preparations: fair-grounds': C.20. (W. Buchanan-Taylor, Shake It Again, 1943.) Perhaps on phosphorus?

fossick. (V.i., occ. with about; but v.t. only when used with after, for, out, up.) To search for anything: 1870; Aus. s. > coll. ca. 1890. Ex the ideas, search for gold (1861), pick out gold (1852). Morris.—2. Whence vbl n. fossicking, which is commoner than the other parts of the v.; also adj. (1859). Ex dial. fossick, a troublesome person: cf. fuss.

fossicker. A persistent searcher: from ca. 1890. Ex gold-mining senses. Aus.

fossicking. See fossick, 2.

fossilise. To look for fossils: coll.: 1845, Lyell. OED.

Fostershire. Worcestershire: cricketers' joc. coll.: ca. 1907–13. Ex the famous sporting family. Who's Who in World Cricket, 1934.

fotch. A slap on the face: Christ's Hospital (School) s.: ca. 1900. Perhaps cf. the North Country fotch, Scot. foutch, to challenge. See quot'n at chaffy.

fou, occ. low. Drunk: in late C.17–20, coll. (Vanbrugh.) Ex Scottish. In earlier C.20, fou fou noo is often used, loosely but gen. joc., in same sense.

foul in C.20 (mainly post-WW1) hyperbolic use is fairly to be described as s. > coll. of the awful and terrible kind. Cf. filthy, q.v. Desmond Coke, Wilson's, 1911, 'A foul row'; E.M. Delafield, Gay Life, 1933, 'He's terribly foul, isn't he?'—2. 'If the rank is full, and he "puts on" the tail end in the hope that the first cab will "get off" before a policeman catches him, he "puts on foul". When he has done so, he is "foul" (Herbert Hodge, Cab, Sir?, 1939): taxi-drivers': since ca. 1910. Ex the foul of sport, as in 'to play foul'.

foul a plate (with). To sup or dine with a person: coll.: late C.18–20; ob. except in Western Scotland in the form dirty a plate. Grose, 3rd ed.

foul as an Indiaman. (Of a ship) dirty: naval: C.19. (Bowen.) Ex jealousy.

foul (one's) bottom. To get in wrong with the police or authorities' (W.G. Carr, 1939): RN lowerdeck: late (? mid-) C.19–20. Ex the lit., technical, sense.

foul-bowels (name) strikes again, (old). C.p. directed at the perpetrator of a particularly noisome flatus: prob. very parochial (Brit. servicemen in Hong Kong, mid-1960s). (P.B.)

foul-weather breeder, the. The Gulf Stream: nautical coll.: mid-C.19–20. Bowen.

Foul Weather Jack. Sir John Norris, an early C.18 Admiral of the Fleet; Commodore Byron, a mid-C.18 navigator. Dawson, 'From the bad weather that was supposed to attend them'.—2. Hence, any person supposed to bring bad luck to a ship while he is on it: nautical coll.: late C.18–20. B. & L.

foulcher. A purse: c.—1877 (anon., Five Years' Penal Servitude, 1877). Is this cognate with or derived from Romany folaso, a glove?

found a giggles-nest? (, have you). Asked of one tittering, or laughing senselessly or excessively: low coll. c.p.: C.19. P.B.: but it lingered on. As a child in the early 1940s I was asked 'Found a giggles-nest, then, boy?' by an old Sussex farmer.

found a nail. Round the tail: NZ sheep-shearers' rhyming s.: C.20. B., 1941.

Founding, the. The Harmsworth Memorial Playground at Coram's Fields: Cockneys': from (?) ca. 1930. Ex the Foundling Hospital, the long-established Foundation on that site.

foundling temper. A very bad temper: London: from ca. 1880; ob. Ware, 'Proverbially said of the domestic servants poured upon London by the metropolitan Foundling Hospital'.

foundry. A pork-butcher's shop; loosely, any shop: proletarian:—1909; ob. Prob. ex 'the noisy vibrations of the sausage machine' (Ware).

fountain palace or temple. (Gen. pl.) 'Places of convenience, sunk below the roadways': London: the 1890s. Ware. Ex bright and cleanly appearance, the running water, etc.

four-and-nine(penny). A hat: ca. 1844–80. (Thackeray; Viator, Oxford Guide, 1849.) Occ. a four-and-ninepenny goss. Ex the price set by a well-known London hatter.

four-and-two. A sandwich: C.20. (Neil Bell, Andrew Otway, 1931.) Cf. four-by-two, q.v.

four annas in the rupee. Eurasian quadroon: Anglo-Indians': later C.19—earlier 20. 'Sometimes ... there would be malicious whispers ... that [Kipling] had black blood, that he was "four annas in the rupee"' (Lord Birkenhead, Rudyard Kipling, written late 1940s). 16 annas = 1 rupee.

four bag. A flogging: naval: mid-C.19—early 20. Bowen; F. & G. The bluejacket received four dozen lashes; if also his discharge, then four bag and a blanker, the latter being his discharge ticket with one corner cut off.

four bare legs in a bed, more belongs or goes to marriage than. A c.p., > proverbial when applied to a portionless couple: from ca. 1540; ob. (Heywood, 1546; Swift; Scott; Apperson.) Cf. the C.17–18 proverb, there belongs more than whistling to going to plough. Cf. four-legged frolic.

four-bones. The knees: c.: from ca. 1850; ob. Punch, 31 Jan. 1857.

four-by-three. Small; insignificant (rarely of persons): from ca. 1924. Dorothy L. Sayers, Have His Carcase, 1932, 'An adjectival four-by-three watering-place like Wilvercombe'.

four by (usu. merely b) two. An army biscuit: army: from ca. 1912. (F. & G.) Ex the size, in inches, of the piece of flannelette that, threaded through a loop on the end of a cord (the pull-through), is used to clean the inside of a rifle-barrel.—2. A Jew: rhyming s.: orig. Cockney soldiers', from 1914 (B. & P.), but by 1920 fairly common among users of rhyming s.

four cautions, the. A mid-C.18—early 19 c.p., explained thus by Grose, 1st ed.: 'I. Beware of a woman before.—II. Beware of a horse behind.—III. Beware of a cart sideways.—IV. Beware of a priest every way.'

four-eyes, (old). A bespectacled person: uncultured coll.: from ca. 1870. (H., 5th ed.) P.B.: the same term exists in Hong Kong Cantonese.

four F method, the. This is the lowerdeck's allusive synonym (C.20) of its sexual motto, Find, feel, fuck and forget, itself current since ca. 1890.

four-flusher. A braggart, a cheat: army coll.: from not later than 1918. (F. & G.) Ex US senses, a pretender, a humbug, themselves ex poker j.

four(-)foot. '4 ft 8½ in. gauge' (Railway, 2nd): railwaymen's coll.: C.20.

four-foot-one-and-a-half. A rifle: RN lowerdeck: late C.19—early 20. (Bowen.) Ex length.

four-funneller is the coll. original of four-poster and four-wheeler: 'Taffrail', The Sub, 1917.

four-half. Half-ale, half-porter, at fourpence a quart: 1884 (OED). Cf. four thick, q.v.

four-holed middlings. Ordinary walking shoes: Winchester College: C.19; † by 1890.

four Johnny boys or ladies or monarchs of the glen. Quatorzes in piquet: C.20. (Alan S.C. Ross.)

four kings, the book (or history) of the. See history of the four kings. Cf. (the) devil's picture-books, a pack of cards.

four-legged burglar-alarm. A watch-dog: joc. coll.: from ca. 1880.

four-legged fortune. A winning horse: Society: ca. 1880–1914. Ware.

four-legged frolic. Sexual connexion: low coll.: from ca. 1850. Perhaps ex the ob. C.16–20 proverb, 'There goes more, or more belongs, to (a) marriage than four bare legs in a bed.'

four-letter man. A very objectionable fellow: rather low:—1923; heard among army officers as early as 1917. (Manchon; B. & P.) I.e., a s-h-i-t.—2. A homo(sexual): id.: from ca. 1930.

four-letter word. A 'rude word' of four letters: since 1929 (1st edition of Lady Chatterley's Lover: 1928): coll. >, by late 1950s, S.E. Us. reckoned as two or three, but there are at least ten of them: arse, ball(s), cock, cunt, fart, fuck, piss, quim, shit, twat.

four-liner, n. and adj. (Something) very important: Society coll.: ca. 1890–1915. The origin appears in the Daily News's words, 1890, cited by Ware, 'Four-lined whips [or messages] have been sent out on both sides of the House of Commons urging members to be in their places this evening.'

four o'clock. A friar bird: Aus.: C.20. B., 1942. It's so diabolically matutinal!

four-poster. A four-poster bedstead: coll.: 1836, Dickens.—2. Hence, a four-masted sailing-ship: nautical: mid-C.19–20.

four-ringed captain. 'A Captain R.N. as distinct from the captain of a ship who holds a junior rank' (Granville): RN coll.: late C.19–20.

four seams and a bit of soap. A pair of trousers: tailors': from ca. 1870.

four, but more gen. three, sheets in the wind. Drunk: nautica, from ca. 1840.

four-stand flogger. '... As the ordinary whip made by an amateur is called' (Jean Devanney, Travels in North Queensland, 1951): Aus. cattlemen's: C.20.

four thick. 'Fourpence per quart beer—the commonest there is (in London), and generally the muddiest': public-houses': late C.19—early 20. (Ware.) Cf. four-half.

four-tone. See three-tone.

four turds. See turds for dinner.

Four-Wheeled Hussars, the. A nickname of the Royal Horse Artillery: army: late C.19—early 20. (Carew.) Two wheels for the gun, two on the detachable limber.

four-wheeled kip. A taxi-cab: Dublin taxi-drivers': from ca. 1910. A ref. to fornication therein.

four-wheeler. A four-wheeled cab: coll.: from ca. 1846; coll. > S.E.; ob. Cf. four-poster.—2. A steak: low coll.: from ca. 1880.—3. A Catholic who goes to church only for baptisms, marriages, funerals: C.20. (Universe, 28 Feb. 1969, cited by Petch.) In 1976, Mr Petch amplified thus: 'It is now used in other churches. It implies that a person has been to church only by pram to be christened, by car to be married, and in a hearse to be buried.' P.B.: also heard as a 'four-wheel Christian'.

fourble, adj. and—mostly in pl.—n. Quadruple: Aus. juveniles: since ca. 1930. B., 1953.

fourpenny. An old ill-favoured whore: low London: ca. 1870–1910. Ex her tariff.

fourpenny bit. See fourpenny one and contrast fourpenny pit. fourpenny cannon. Beef-steak pudding: London slums?:—1909; ob. (Ware.) Ex shape or, more prob., hardness.

fourpenny one. A cuff; clip on the ear: rhyming s. on hit (presumably, orig. fourpenny bit or pit): C.20. (Evening News (London), 29 Feb. 1936.) Hence to get a fourpenny one, to receive a thrashing, get a hiding: since ca. 1910. In RAF s., 1940+, to get a fourpenny one=to be shot down.

fourpenny pit. A fourpenny bit: rhyming s.: late C.19—early 20. Ware.

fourteen, on his. On his demobilisation-furlough of fourteen days: military coll.: Dec. 1918–19. F. & G.

fourteen hundred; or f.h. new fives. A warning cry = There's a stranger here! Stock Exchange: from ca. 1885. (Atkin, House Scraps, 1887.) For a long time the Stock Exchange had never more than 1,399 members: the term has remained, though by 1930 it was ob. and though even as early as 1890 there were nearly 3,000 members.

fourteen penn'orth (of it). Fourteen years' transportation: c.: 1820–60. (Bee.) Contrast:—2. An award of fourteen days in the cells: RN: C.20. Granville.

fourth. A w.c.; a latrine.—the vbl phrases being keep a fourth, go to the fourth: gone⁴ is the esoteric sign on an undergraduate's door. Cambridge s.:—1860 (H., 2nd ed.). A Cambridge interpretation dating back to at least as early as 1886 is: 1, Chapel; 2, breakfast; 3, pipe; 4, defecation.—2. A fourth-class pass in the degree examinations. See first.—3. In on (one's) fourth, very drunk: non-aristocratic: ca. 1870–1910. B. & L.

fourth estate, the. Journalists; journalism as a profession: S.E., applied by Burke, > literary s. (—1855) >, by 1910, outworn journales: already in 1873 it was much in use among penny-a-liners (H., 5th ed.).

Fourth of July. A tie: rhyming s.: C.20. B. & P.

fourty. Stinking: coll. when not dial.: from ca. 1810. Merely a var. of S.E. fusty.

fouter, v., and foutering, vbl n. See footer, 3, for all remarks. fouter or footer, care not. To care not at all: coll.: late C.16–20, ob. See not care a ...

foutie or fouty. See footy.

fow. See fou.

fowl. A troublesome seaman: nautical: late C.19–20. Also a bird or an irk. Perhaps there is a pun on foul and queer bird. fowl-house, up against (one's). A var. of duck-house ..., q.v. Baker.

fowl-roost, start a. To assume a hyphenated surname: Aus.: C.20. B., 1942.

fox, n. An artificial sore: c.:—1862 (Mayhew). Cf. fox's bite, q.v.—2. Shares in the Norfolk and Western Railroad: Stock Exchange:—1895; now f. A.J. Wilson, Stock Exchange Glossary. Via 'Norfolks'.—3. In catch a fox or, more gen., to have caught a fox (B.E.), to be or become very drunk: coll.: C.17–19. A late C.16–17 var. is hunt the fox.—4. Member of a drinking 'school' who dodges his obligation to 'shout' (to pay for his round when it comes to his turn): Aus. drinkers': later C.20. Bill Hornadge, Australian Slang, 1980.

fox, v. To intoxicate: C.17–20; until ca. 1760, S.E.; then coll. Sporting Times, 11 Apr. 1891, 'And so to bed well nigh seven in the morning, and myself as near foxed as of old'.—2. To cheat, rob: Eton:—1859 (H., 1st ed.).—3. V.t. and v.i., to watch closely though slyly: London c. (—1859) > low s. (H., 1st ed.) V.i., fox about. Cf. fox's sleep, q.v.—4. V.i., to sham: early C.17–20; S.E. until C.19, then coll. and dial. Ex a fox's habit of pretending to be asleep. (OED.) This is prob. the sense posed by 'Ducange Anglicus', 1857: to be half-asleep.—5. To criticise adversely a fellow-actor's acting: theatrical:—1864 (H., 3rd ed.).—6. To mend a boot by 'capping' it: from ca. 1790 (?). >s. > coll. > S.E. Grose, 3rd ed.—7. To puzzle (a person)—e.g. with a flow of technicalities or of other erudition: Services' coll.: since 1939. (H. & P.) Ex sense 2.—8. (Ex sense 3.) 'To follow an enemy aircraft cunningly' (Jackson): RAF: 1939+.—9. To field (a cricket ball): Aus.: since ca. 1925. Leonard Mann, The Go-Getter, 1942, 'You bowled it, you fox it.' To run to earth.

fox-drunk. Crafty-drunk: late C.16–17: coll. Nashe.

Fox Hall. Vauxhall (gardens): Society: mid-C.18—mid-19. (Ware, at chappie.)

fox (or fox's) paw, make a. To commit a blunder, esp. in society or (of women) by carelessly allowing oneself to be seduced: late C.18–19 low coll. Grose, 2nd ed. (fox's paw). A (prob. deliberate) perversion of Fr. faux pas. Perhaps commoner is fox's pass as a lower-middle-class sol. for faux pas: late C.19–20. Often used joc., as in fox paw, which, as B.P. notes, 'has been brought back to life in Australia. Not low here, but used mostly by university students.'

fox to keep (one's) geese, set a. To entrust one's confidences and/or money to a sharper or an adventurer: coll.: from ca. 1630; ob.

foxed. Tippy. See fox, v., 1.

foxer. An apparatus used for foxing the gnat (German acoustic torpedo): RN: ca. 1941–5.

foxes always smell their own hole first. A c.p. (ca. 1890–1914) uttered by the culprit in an endeavour (often serious) to shift the blame of a flatus on to the first complainant.

foxing. Vbl n. ex fox, v., but not for sense 1, rarely for senses 2 and 6; mostly for sense 3.

fox's bite. An artificial sore: schoolboys': from ca. 1850; ob. Cf. fox, n.

fox's pass or paw. See fox paw.

fox's sleep. A feigned sleep veiling extreme alertness: coll.: C.17–20; ob. In S.E., fox-sleep.

Foxy. 'Inevitable' nickname of any man surnamed Reynolds: army: early C.20. (John Aye, Humour in the Army, 1931.) Cf. Kipling's Sussex peasant, Old Hobden, who apostrophises a passing fox, 'Ah, Mus' Reynolds, Mus' Reynolds, if I knowed what you know ...' (P.B.)

foxy. Strong-smelling: coll. verging on S.E.: C.19–20.—2. The other foxy senses in F. & H. are all S.E.

foy. A cheat, swindler: late C.16–17. Perhaps c., certainly low.—2. A coll. expletive: late C.16—early 18. I.e. fay, faith.

foyl-cloy. See foil-cloy.

foyse. See ficie.

foyst, n. and v. See foist.

foyster. See foister.

fozy-faced. Smug-looking: Glasgow coll.:—1934. Ex dial. fozy, stupid, bloated.

fr. For: coll.: C.19–20. E.g. fr instance, pron. almost as if frinstance.

frack. A noisy quarrel; an assault: Soho, London: since ca. 1920. (E.J. Oliver, Not Long to Wait, 1948.) Ex fracas.

fragile. (Of girls) exported under age to the Argentine: white-slavers' c.: C.20. Londres, 1928.

fragment. A dinner ordered by a master for a favoured boy, who could invite five school-fellows to share it: Winchester College: † by 1891. Winchester Word-Book. A fragment=three dishes or courses.—2. In Shakespeare, a pej. term of address.—3. A boy not good enough to play in the Peripatetics, the Etceteras or the Yearlings: Charterhouse: from 1926.

'fraid. Afraid: a col. shortening: C.19–20. Esp. in conventionalities, as 'Is that it?'—'fraid so, old man!'

'fraydy cat. A frightened or a timorous person: coll., mostly children's: from ca. 1870. Cf. scaredy, q.v.

frail, n. A courtesan: fast life: ca. 1830–70. (Anon, The New Swell's Guide to Night Life, 1846.) As Claiborne points out, it is ex a Victorian euph., 'the frail sisterhood'.—2. A woman, 'one of "the frail sex"' (Claiborne, 1976): US, used by Eric Linklater in Don Juan in America, 1931 (OED Sup.), but never widely anglicised.

frame, n. A picture: artists': ca. 1890–1912. (Ware.) Ex picture-frame.—2. In in the frame, 'Suspected, with some good reason, of being concerned in a serious crime; "Well in the frame" is even stronger' (Powis); 'Scotland Yard works on informers, and if you go in the frame for something, you get picked up and fitted up, as they say ...' (John McVicar, in the Listener, 8 Mar. 1979).—3. See frame, v., 2.

frame, v. To work up and present an unjustified case or serious complaint against (someone): coll.: adopted, ex US, ca. 1924. See Irwin.—2. To effect a pre-arranged conspiracy, a faked result: id. (Irwin; OED Sup.) Also n. This sense has been overborne by sense 1 since mid-C.20 at latest.—3. To get the 'John' or 'mark' (the proposed victim) into a posture that facilitates the theft: pickpockets' c.: since ca. 1950. Raymond Palmer, in Sunday Times, 25 Aug. 1974.

frames. Draught cattle: Aus. coll.: late C.19–20. (B., 1942.) Ex their large frames.

frame-up. The result of the machinations defined in frame, v., 1 and 2, as 'The whole thing was just a frame-up: he was completely innocent': c. > coll.: adopted, ex US, by ca. 1940 at latest.

frammagem. Var. spelling of frummagem, q.v.

franc-fieur. 'A man who gets away quickly and won't dance': Society: ca. 1890–1915. Punning Fr. sense. Ware.

France and Spain. Rain: rhyming s.: late C.19–20. (B. & P.) Andy Cain is the common rhyming s. for rain in later C.20.

franchucha. A French prostitute in the Argentine: white-slave c.: late C.19–20. (Londres, 1928.) In Argentina, a Franchucha was orig. 'Frenchwoman', but, as Claiborne points out, 1976, it is 'A possible portmanteauing of [Spanish] Francesa (Frenchwoman) and chucha or chocha, low Sp. for cunt.' frangine. Brother: Can.: C.20. (F. & G.) Ex Fr. -Can.

frank. Obscene or tending to obscenity: book-world s. or j.: from ca. 1926. Whence frankness. Cf. Pope's usage: unchaste.

Frankenstein. A monster or a mechanism uncontrollable by its inventor or creator: a (journalistic) catachresis: from ca. 1840. Ex Mrs Shelley's novel, Frankenstein (1818), wherein the titular character is the student-contriver, not the contrived monster. W.

Franklin teeth. Projecting teeth: Can.: adopted, ca. 1920, ex US; by 1935, †. Projecting, hence 'air-cooled': ex the air-cooled engine of the Franklin car. Became obsolete with the disappearance of the car in the Depression' (Priestley).

Frans, the. Members of the Friars Minor (Franciscans): Aus. Catholics': C.20. (B.P.)

frantic. 'Awful', 'terrible'; coll.: 1908 (OED Sup.). E.g. 'a frantic hurry' or 'muddle'. Ex.—2. Notable; well-known; confirmed: Public Schools' coll.: 1902, P.G. Wodehouse, 'Who's that frantic blood who owns all the land?'—3. (Of a party) gay, lively: smart young set (esp. girls)': ca. 1955–60. (Gilderdale, 2.) Perhaps ex sense 2. Also (as in 'It's frantic' or good fun or exciting) Aus. surfers', esp. teenagers': since late 1950s; by 1966, slightly ob. (Pix, 28 Sep. 1963.) Proleptic.

Frantic Bee. A Francis Barnett motorcycle, in production 1919–64: motorcyclists'. (Dunford.) Cf. Fanny Barnett.

frantically. Adv. corresponding to frantic, 1.

framy (or F-). Rain: taxi-drivers': since ca. 1915. See instalment mixture. A very rare type of shortening from rhyming s.: France and Spain. Influenced by parny (see parnee).

frat, n. Same as fratter in next entry: ca. 1945–50. John Bull, 8 June 1946.

frat, v. To fraternise (with people that had lately been the enemy, chiefly Germans and Austrians, and esp. with the younger women and girls): Services': from may 1945; ob. by ca. 1950. By back formation. Hence, fratter, a fraterniser. (North of the Brenner, the Allied Forces in 1945 referred to Austrian girls as frats.)

424

frater. A beggar working with false papers, esp. a petitioner: mid-C.16–20. (Awdelay, Fletcher, Grose, 1st ed.; David Hume, Bullets Bite Deep, 1932.) Ex the begging friars.—2. 'A Wykehamists' relations are his Pater, Mater, Frater [brother] and Soror [sister] (Nunky and Nevy are now obsolete). Together they form his Pitch-up' (Wrench, 1901).

fraud. A thing either deceptive or spurious: coll.: late C.18–20.—2. An impostor, humbug, hypocrite: coll.: 1850, Dickens (OED). Often joc.

fraught. Risky or dangerous: smart set: since early 1960s. Andrew Garve, The Long Short Cut, 1968, "'Almost [no risks] in the early stages ... The end could be a bit fraught.'" Elliptical for 'fraught with danger'.—2. Very anxious or worried; perturbed: coll.: since early 1960s. 'I saw Wendy today, having her first driving-lesson. She looked distinctly fraught.' Ex the riskiness of the situation, and influenced, perhaps, by distrught. (P.B.)

Fray Bentos. Very well, esp. in reply to inquiries about one's health: joc. military: 1916–19. (B. & P.) Ex the well-known brand of bully beef, with a pun on très bien (cf. trez beans, q.v.).

Frazer-Nash. 'Slash (urine). [Rhyming s.]. Although slash is a verb and a noun its rhyming complement may only be used as a noun. One has (or goes for) a Frazer-Nash pie and marsh. Frazer-Nash manufactured sports cars prior to WW2' (David Hillman, 1974).

frazzle, v. To rob: Aus.: C.20. B., 1942.

frazzle, n. (Always to a f-.) Very badly; absolutely, utterly: adopted, ex US, ca. 1905. Hence faded to a frazzle, completely exhausted: ca. 1908–14; in later C.20, occ. beaten, more often done, usu. worn, to a frazzle, all=utterly 'done up', defeated or exhausted. Ex Southern US frazzle, a frayed-out end: cf. East Anglian frazzle, to fray out. Thornton; EDD.

freak, n. An actor that loses caste by performing in some eccentric show: theatrical: late C.19–early 20. (Ware.) Cf. dime-museum.—2. 'Trying to ring in a freak ... A double-header' (Vance Palmer, Golconda, 1948): Aus. two-up-players': since ca. 1910.—3. A devotee, an enthusiast, a 'buff': adopted, early 1960s, ex US. P.B.: may be used as a suffix, e.g., in eco(-)freak, one whom others consider to be slightly unbalanced or 'fanatical' on the subject of conservation of the ecology; or phone(-)freak, one who gets his thrills in abusing the telephone system, by, e.g., telephoning his own number by routing the call around the world.

freak, v. To 'arouse or share collective enthusiasm (freak-out)': hippies' and then Flower People's: since late 1966 or very early 1967. Peter Fryer in the Observer colour sup., 3 Dec. 1967. Cf. the next two entries.

freak-out, n. '... These curious way-out events, simulating drug ecstasies, which are known as "freak-outs", in which girls writhe and shriek and young men roll themselves naked in paint or jelly' (Robert Pitman in the Daily Express, 2 Mar. 1967): since late 1966. Ex.—2. Often applied to a bad 'trip': adopted, mid-1960s, ex US. Recorded by, e.g., The Living Webster, 1970, and later US dictionaries.

freak out, v. To suffer a 'freak-out', a bad 'trip' on drugs; to become temporarily (occ. permanently) insane from the effects of LSD—its victims act freakishly: Can. drug addicts', since ca. 1965; > Brit, ca. 1966. (With thanks to Leechman and Claiborne.) Perhaps ultimately ex the S.E. adj. freaked, 'vivid with contrasting streaks of color occurring capriciously' (Webster), but more likely ex a freak, or sport, of nature.—2. To scare (someone): since late 1960s. (Jagger.) Also simply freak.—3. To snap under intolerable pressure: sporting coll.: late 1970s. '[The 3 racing-drivers] have all punched marshals at one time or another, which Hunt calls "freaking-out"' (Now!, 2 Nov. 1979).

Freakeries, the. Barnum's freak and acrobat shows at Olympia': London: 1898. Ware.

freaky, n. One who has 'freaked out' (sense 1); var. of simple freak: ca. 1970. Barnhart cites Punch, 22 Oct. 1969.

freaky, adj. Exhibiting the characteristics of a drug-addict; not merely confined to those who 'freak out': since late 1960s. Der E.E. Landy, The Underground Dictionary, 1971, Foreword.—2. 'Sexually deviant' (Powis): later 1970s. Cf. kinky.

Fred. 'The ordinary, unimaginative Australian; the average consumer' (Wilkes): Aus.: from early 1970s.

Fred Karno. 'A train made up of goods and passenger stock. In use among the L.M.S. employees ca. 1930. (As Fred Karno has not appeared on the halls for many years it is probably earlier)' (J.A. Boycott, Letter, 1938).

Fred Karno's Air Force. The British Air Force of WW1: ca. 1915–18. Prompted by his Army.

Fred Karno's Army. The 'New Army': military: WW1. F. & G. cite 'We are Fred Karno's Army, /A rag-time crowd are we' ex a song given in B. & P. Ex 'the popular comedian, Fred Karno, noted for his troupe of whimsical oddities and caricaturists'.—2. Hence, in WW2, 'the Army on Home Service, and particularly the specialist branches regarded with a satirical eye' (H. & P.). But Brian Aldiss, writing in 1978, is nearer the mark when he says 'it was still popularly used in WW2 of any platoon or section which was shit-or-bust, careless or inept'; and the term was still being used in this sense well into the early 1970s, 'a proper Fred Karno(s) outfit'. (P.B.)

Fred Karno's Navy. The Dover patrol: RN: WW1. (Bowen.) Granville notes that the term was revived in WW2 for the Auxiliary Patrols made up of trawlers, drifters, armed yachts and the like. Cf. Harry Tate's navy.

Freddie, -y. A German, esp. a German soldier: rare army (esp. the Royal Warwickshire Rifles): WW1. Ex Friedrich: cf. Fritz, q.v.—2. 'Ephedrine tablet' (Home Office): drug-users': 1970s.—3. See Old Freddie's.

Freddie's. Orange Free State gold stocks and shares: Stock Exchange: C.20.

Fred's. Fortnum & Mason's: Londoners': since ca. 1945. Cf. Rod's.

free, v. To steal (gen. a horse): c. of ca. 1835–90. (Brandon; Snowden, 3rd ed., 1857.) Cf. convey and liberate.—2. To make (a person) free; to initiate: Public Schools' coll.: late C. 19–20. Ware.

free, adj. Self-assured; impudent: Oxford University:—1864; † by 1921.

free a cat. To steal a muff: c.:—1864 (H., 3rd ed.) Cf. cat, n., 6, and free, v., 1.

free-and-blowing. 'Sailor's "square rig" with its blue jean collar that blows round his neck and the bell-bottomed trousers that flap round his ankles in a breeze' (Granville): RN: C.20. Bowen records free-and-blowing, which E.P. dates from mid-C.19. Contrast fore-and-aft rig, q.v.

free and easy (often hyphenated). A social gathering (gen. at a public-house) where smoking, drinking and singing are allowed: (orig. low) coll.; in C.20, S.E.: from ca. 1796. (Lex. Bal.; Macaulay, 1843; Cassell's Saturday Journal, Sep. 1891.) A ribald club or society, fl. 1810–11, was known as the Free-and-Easy Johns.

free-and-flowing. See free-and-blowing.

free(-)booker. A piratical publisher or an underselling bookseller: journalists': ca. 1880–1914. Punning freebooter.

free breakfast table, a. A political c.p. 'trotted out' ca. 1906. (Collinson.) I.e. free of duties.

free chewing-gum. A chin-strap: Aus. soldiers': 1939+. B., 1942.

free expenses. A free dispensary: S. African low s.: since ca. 1930. (C.P. Wittstock, 1946.) A pun.

free fight. A general struggle or mêlée: orig. US (—1855) coll., anglicised by 1873; in C.20, S.E. (H., 5th ed.) Occ. a free-for-all fight, the fight sometimes being omitted.

free-fishery. The female pendent: low: C.19—early 20.

free-fucking. A general sexual looseness; unpaid coition; fidelity to the other sex. Also adj. Low: rather a vulg. than a coll.: C.19–20.

free gangway. 'General leave from a man-of-war' (Bowen):

RN: late C.19–20. The Navy and Army Illustrated, 25 Dec. 1896. (Moe.)

free gratis. costing nothing: low coll.: since mid-C.18. Thomas Bridges. A Translation of Homer, 1770, says that 'the common people' always put these two words together. The elab. free, gratis, and for nothing occurs in W.L. Rede, Sixteen String Jack, 1841, and is still, 1983, extant. A c.p. var., would-be witty, ca. 1885–1900, was free, gracious and for nothing.

free-handed, free-hearted, free of her favours, given by F. & H., are S.E.; free of his patter, full of talk, is low coll. only because of patter, the same remark, mutatis mutandis, applying to free of his foolishness, full of chaff. For free of her lips, see hips, 2.

free(-)holder. 'He whose Wife goes with him to the Ale-house' (B.E.): early C.17—early 19. See TAVERN TERMS, §9, in Appendix.—2. A harlot's lover or 'fancy man', q.v.: low: C.19—early 20.

free issue. A condom: RN: since ca. 1920.

free-lance. A persistent adulterer: ca. 1888–1910. Ex the medieval mercenary earlier known as a free companion and renamed by Scott in Ivanhoe.

free-loader. See freeloader.

free object. A non-convict settler: Aus.: ca. 1810–70. (A. Harris, Settlers and Convicts, 1847.) Punning 'free subject'. free of fumbler's hall or umblers' Hall. Impotent: (? late) C.18—early 19 low. Grose, 2nd ed.

free of sense as a frog of feathers, as; or ... from ... from. Complete fool: Aus.: C.20. Baker.

free of the bush. Extremely intimate (with a woman): low: from ca. 1860.

free of the house. Intimate; privileged: coll. in C.19, S.E. in C.20.

free school. A sort of drinking-place. See TAVERN TERMS, §3, a, in Appendix.

Free State coal. A S. African coll. euph. (dating from ca. 1880, and now ob.) for dried cow-dung. R. Jameson, A Trip to the Transvaal Gold-Fields, 1886. Pettman.

free tank. Unlimited 'booze': nautical, esp. RN; also army: early C.20. (Bowen; F. & G.) Cf. tanked.

free trade. Smuggling: (?) ca. 1790–1840. London Magazine, Aug. 1822, article on 'English Smugglers'. (Moe.)

free trade or protection? (Women's) knickers loose and open or closed and tight-fitting: low coll.: from ca. 1905; †. Cf.:

free-traders. Feminine knickers open along the crutch: ca. 1880–1940. Cf. dividers.

free with both ends of the busk, make. To caress a woman with extreme familiarity: C.18–20 (ob.). See busk.

freebie, -y, n. and adj. '(Something) obtained free of charge; something gratis' (Barnhart); esp. in connexion with advertising 'give-aways'; occ., perquisites: adopted, ex US, later 1970s. 'The freebie magazines keep on coming... Freebies have never looked back' (Time Out, 28 Mar. 1980).

Freedom Corner. Marble Arch (but inside Hyde Park)—a spot famous for its orators: C.20.

freeloader. 'One who crashes in on cocktail parties, luncheons, and other such affairs that are part of a publicity campaign, or otherwise accessible. The sin he commits is "freeloading"' (Leechman); the v., to freeload, is less common. Can., adopted, ca. 1955, ex US; by 1960, fairly common in UK. An early occurrence in British print is in Patrick Campbell, Come Here Till I Tell You, 1960, 'this free-loading, literary bee [party]'.

freeman. The lover of a married woman: C.19—early 20: low. freeman, v.; make a freeman of. To spit on (a new boy's) penis: schools' (mostly Public): ca. 1850–1920. Occ. freemason. Cf. crown.

Freeman, Hardy and Willis. The three campaign medals awarded for service in WW1; their ribbons on a man's chest: RAF: ca. 1921–41. (Jackson.) Ex the well-known chain of shoe-shops. The medals were much more commonly known as Pip, Squeak and Wilfred.

freeman of a corporation's work. 'Neither strong nor handsome': c.p. of ca. 1780–1820. (Grose, 1st ed.) Not very complimentary to corporate towns.

freeman of Bucks. A cuckold: C.19 low. Punning Buckinghamshire and a buck's horns. Contrast Bedfordshire.

Freeman's Quay, drink or lush at. To drink at another's expense: ca. 1810–80. Ex free beer distributed to porters and carmen at this wharf near London Bridge. (Lex. Bal., 1811; H., 1st–5th edd.) Hence, in RN, from ca. 1870: It's Harry Freeman's!, there's nothing to pay (F. & G.; Bowen); the army shortened this, C.20, to simply Freemans. See HARRY, in Appendix.

freemason, v. See freeman, v.

freewheeling, n. Such a treatment of a stage play, or of a film, as possesses a technical pattern allowing freedom of character and plot: since ca. 1955. (With thanks to L.A., 1976.)

freeze, n. As the freeze, a wife's deliberate withholding of sexual intercourse: Aus.: since ca. 1930. 'Wives know that "the freeze" is their most potent weapon' (B.P.). Cf. v., 3. Ex:—2. In do a freeze, to be ignored, neglected, overlooked: Aus.: since ca. 1910. B., 1942.—3. In do a freeze, to feel extremely cold: coll.: late C.19—early 20.

freeze, v. To appropriate or steal: c.: C.19. Cf. freeze (on) to.—2. To send (someone) to Coventry: Service officers': since ca. 1925. H. & P.—3. To stand stock still, e.g. when an enemy flare lights up the surroundings: coll.: C.20. Ion L. Idriess, The Desert Column, 1932: Diary entry of 30 May 1915, 'When a blasted shell comes screaming ... I don't move at all, just lie perfectly still and "freeze", waiting.'—3. (Usually of the wife.) To confine one's spouse to 'the dog-house': Aus.: since ca. 1925. (B.P.)—4. See cold enough to ...

freeze on to. See freeze to.

freeze out. To compel to retire from business or society, by competition or social opposition: orig. (ca. 1867) US; anglicised ca. 1895 as a coll.

freeze to, in C.20 gen. freeze on to. To take a powerful fancy to: late C.19–20; ob.—2. Cling to, hold fast. Coll.: Aus. (ex US, where common): England slightly: in both countries from ca. 1880.

freezer. A very cold day (from ca. 1895, S.E.); a chilling look, comment, etc.: coll.: from ca. 1848.—2. An Eton jacket (without tail): coll. or s.: from ca. 1880. ?abbr. bum-freezer or -perisher.—3. A sheep bred for frozen export: NZ:—1893; Aus., from ca. 1900. Coll. >, by 1920, S.E. (Morris).—4. A C.20 Salvation Army term. 'General Bramwell Booth was in the habit of putting too energetic officers into what was called the "freezer"—that is, sending them to remote and unexciting posts where their ardour would soon cool': footnote on p. 177 of Malcolm Muggeridge, The Thirties, 1940. William Bramwell Booth became the Salvation Army's chief organiser at the age of 26, in 1882; in 1912, he became its General.—5. A prison: Aus. low: C.20. B., 1942.—6. A very cold reception; a rebuff: coll.: late C.18–20. Bill Truck, Mar. 1826.

Fremantle doctor. A refreshing sea-breeze that, esp. in the evening, blows in to Fremantle and Perth: West Aus.: since ca. 1920. B., 1943.

French. See excuse my French; loose French; speak French.

French, v. To perform an act of fellation upon: low: C.20. 'She thought he was asleep, and Frenched him' (in a novel published ca. 1965). Cf. French tricks.

French article, cream, elixir, lace. Brandy: coll.: resp.—1821,—1788 (Grose, 2nd ed.),—1860,—1821. The second, gen. of brandy in tea or coffee—a French custom. See 'Offensive Nationality', in Words! for coll., dial. and S.E. variations on the French theme, which was at its height ca. 1730–1820.

French bed. An occ. var. of apple-pie bed, q.v.: mostly WAAC: WW1. Petch cites Mrs Judd, The Wanderings of a W.A.A.C.

French blue. 'Amphetamine/barbiturate pill. New type Drinamy!' (Home Office): drug-users': since late 1960s.

French by injection. See injection.

French Consular Guard, the. French prostitutes (Franchuchas) plying around the French Consulate at Buenos Aires: c., esp. white-slavers': C. 20. Londres, 1928.

French crown, goods or gout. Syphilis: C.17–19: coll. verging on S.E. F. ache(s), fever, disease, measles, marbles, mole, pox, are S.E. Cf. French faggot-stick.

French drive and Chinese Drive. A snick through the slips: cricket s., the former Eng., the latter Aus.: since late 1940s. The former exemplifies 'the British tendency to ascribe anything irregular to the French' (Peter Sanders), the latter the Aus. tendency to attribute anything odd to the Chinese.

French elixir. See French article.

French faggot-stick, a blow with a. A nose lost through syphilis: late C.17–18: low. B.E.

French fare. Elaborate politeness: C. 14–17: coll. > S.E. In C.14—early 16 often frankish fare.

French goods or gout. See French crown.

French king, to have seen the. To be drunk. See TAVERN TERMS, §8, in Appendix.

French kiss. A deep, heavy kiss, with much use of the tongue: coll.:—1923 (Manchon).

French lace. See French article.

French leave, take. To depart without intimation or as if in flight; do anything without permission: from ca. 1770: coll. in C.18—mid-19, then S.E. (Smollett, 1771.) Cf. Fr. filer à l'anglaise. Ex the C.18 Fr. custom of departing from a reception, dinner, ball, etc., etc., without bidding good-bye to host or hostess. Bill Truck, Sep. 1824, uses the var. give (someone) a French leave.

French (rarely American, Italian or Spanish) letter. A male sheath-pessary: low coll.: from ca. 1870; by ca. 1950, familiar S.E. Cf. Fr. capote anglaise.—2. A wind-sock, or wind-indicator: RAF: since ca. 1925. Ex shape.

French letter on the prick of progress. A shackle or shackling; anything that slows down an activity: army officers': early 1970s. (P.B.)

French loaf. £4: rhyming s. on the back s. ruoof, pron. roof. (Hillman, 1974.)

French pie. Irish stew: City of London restaurants:—1909 (Ware).

French pig. A venereal bubo: C.19—early 20: low.

French pigeon. A pheasant mistakenly shot in the partridge season: sportsmen's:—1893; ob. by 1930.

French prints. Obscene pictures: coll.: from 1850. Thackeray. Ob.

French safe. Can. synonym for French letter, a condom: since ca. 1910. (Leechman.) See safe, n., 2.

French seventy-five (written 75). A 'Tom Collins' mixed with champagne: since ca. 1918: ob. (Alec Waugh, Jill Somerset, 1936.) Ex the powerful French gun.

French tricks. Cunnilingism, penilingism: coll.: mid-C.19–20.

Frencher. A Frenchman: pej. coll.: ca. 1840–1900. C. Kingsley.

Frenchie, -y. A Frenchman: coll.: recorded 1883, ?considerably earlier. Ex ob. S.E. adj. Miss Yonge, 'The squires had begun by calling him Frenchy' (OED). In dial., any foreigner whatsoever.—2. A condom: low coll.: since ca. 1910. Ex French letter.

Frenchified. Venereally infected; esp. with syphilis; mid-C.17–19 coll. (B.E.) Cf. French crown.

Frenchman. A (good, bad, indifferent) French scholar: coll.: from temp. Restoration.—2. 'An Anglo-French printing machine': printers' from ca. 1870; ob. B. & L.

Frenchman, the. Any foreigner: naval coll. (cf. later dial.): ca. 1620–1720. Bowen.—2. Syphilis: C.19 low. Cf. old technical morbus gallicus.—3. (A bottle of) brandy: Society: mid-C.19—early 20. Ware, 'From this spirit being French'.

fresh. Fasting; opposed to eating and esp. drinking; sober:

M.E.—C.20: until C.19, S.E.; in C.19 coll., in C.20 Scottish only.—2. Agreeably intoxicating; slightly drunk: coll.: the first as early as 1679 (Bryant, Peppys, 1936); the second coll. from very early C.19, ex earlier dial. (EDD), Sessions, 1828; Marryat.—3. In one's first university term: university (? orig. Cambridge); from ca. 1800; ob. (Gradus ad Cantabrigiam, 1803.) Ex freshman, q.v.—4. Uninitiated: c.: mid-C.19–20. B. & L.—5. Forward, impudent: orig. (—1848) US (ex Ger. frech), anglicised ca. 1895. Ware.

fresh and blood. 'Brandy and port wine, half and half' (Spy, 1825): Oxford University: ca. 1815–60.

fresh as a daisy, a new-born turd, an eel, flowers in May, paint, a rose. Very healthy, strong, active: coll., the second being low: resp. from ca. 1815, 1830, 1410, (1400–1600), 1440, 1850; the third and fifth soon > S.E. and indeed poetical, while the first is in C.20 almost S.E. For the first, third, fifth and sixth (perhaps orig. ironic for the first or the third) see esp. Apperson.

fresh-beef station. 'A blockading station within reach of a friendly provisioning port': RN coll.: late C.18–early 19. 'Jack Nastyface', Nautical Economy, 1836. (Peppitt.)

fresh bit. (Of women, in amorous venery) a beginner; a new mistress: low: from ca. 1840. Cf. bit of fresh, the sexual favour.

fresh hand at the bellows, (there's) a. A sailing-ship coll. c.p. of mid-C.19–20 (now ob.), 'said ... when the wind freshened, especially after a lull' (Bowen).

fresh milk. A newcomer, newcomers, to the university: Cambridge University: ca. 1820–50. (Egan's Grose.) Cf. Freshwater Bay, q.v. Punning freshman.

fresh on the graft. New to the work or job: from ca. 1890. See graft.

fresh out of. Being short of; having no: Can. coll., esp. among shopkeepers: adopted, ca. 1910, ex US. 'Sorry, sir, but we're fresh out of bacon.' (Leechman.)

fresh water, a. By way of punishment for working hands, a turn at pumping various tanks: Conway cadets': from ca. 1880. (John Masefield, The Conway, 1933.) Cf. coal-hole. Hence freshwaters, boys doing this.

fresh w(h)ack. 'Further Borstal sentence' (Home Office): Borstals' and detention centres': 1970s.

fresh-whites. Pallor: lower classes': mid-C.19–early 20. Ware.

freshen hawse. To have an incidental drink: nautical: early C.19–20. (Bill Truck, Dec. 1825.) Bowen, 1929, glosses freshen the hawse, 'To serve out a tot after extra fatiguing duty'. Cf.: freshen (one's) nip. To take a much-needed drink: nautical: C.19. W.N. Glascock, Naval Sketch Book, 2nd series, 1834, at I, 283. (Moe.)

freshen up. To clean, smarten; revive: coll.: from ca. 1850. An example of a S.E. term (freshen) being made coll. by the addition of pleonastic adv.

freshen (one's) way. To hurry: nautical:—1893, s. > j. Ex freshening wind.

freshier. An undergraduate in his first term: university, orig. (—1882) Oxford. Perhaps the earliest example of the 'OXFORD-ER'. See Slang, pp. 208–9, and note that R. Ellis Roberts thinks that possibly it arose from a new man being described as freshier than fresh.—2. A refreshment room, or a set of refreshment rooms: railwaymen's: C.20 (Railway).—3. A trawler with fish packed in ice, therefore with a refrigerator: trawlermen's: since ca. 1955. Peppitt, citing the ITV series 'Justice', 6 Apr. 1973.

freshiers. Fresh air: RN: C.20. By the 'OXFORD-ER(s)'.—2. As the Freshiers, 'That part of the Cam which lies between the Mill and Byron's Pool... Freqented by freshmen' (F. & H.): Cambridge University: from ca. 1880; ob. Cf. freshier, q.v., and freshman's river.

freshiers work first term... See first term too early...

freshie, -y. A fresh-water crocodile: N. Queensland coll.: C.20. (Jean Devanney, 1951.) Cf. saltie.

freshish. Verging on drunkenness, nearly tipsy: County s.: ca. 1819–60. (P. Egan, London, 1821.) Cf. fresh, 2.

freshman. A university undergraduate in his first year; at Oxford, in his first term: late C.16–20: orig., university s., but in C.19–20 to be considered S.E. Nashe; Colman, 1767, 'As ... melancholy as a freshman at college after a jobation'. Whence freshier.—2. Also an adj.: C.19–20, ob.—3. The C.17–20 freshmanship is, I think, ineligible.

freshman's Bible. The University Calendar: mostly Oxford and Cambridge: from ca. 1870; ob. Cf. freshman's landmark, q.v.

freshman's church. The Pitt, i.e. the Cambridge University, Press: Cambridge: from ca. 1870; ob. Ex its churchly architecture.

freshman's landmark. King's College chapel, Cambridge: Cambridge University: from ca. 1870. Ex its central situation and 'recognisability'.

freshman's river. 'The Cam above Newnham Mill': Cambridge undergraduates': from ca. 1860. (B. & L.) See also Freshers, the.

freshwater bay, or F.B. The word of freshmen: Oxford University: ca. 1820–40. (Egan's Grose.) Cf. fresh milk.

freshwater mariner, seaman. A begging pseudo-sailor: ca. 1550–1840, 1690–1840, resp. as are Harman and B.E. Perhaps c., orig.—2. (Mariner only). A Jacobean sea-captain 'who would not deign to learn the arts of ship-handling or navigation': early C.17. Peppitt cites D. Waters, The Art of Navigation in Tudor and Early Stuart Times, 1953.

freshwater soldier. A recruit: late C.16–18: orig. coll.; but in C.17, S.E. Florio, 1598, defines as 'A goodly, great milke-soppe'. Cf. S.E. freshwater seaman, which may, just possibly, have at first been coll.

freshwaters. Emigrants working their passage: (?) ca. 1850–1910. Peppitt cites D. Howarth, The Golden Isthmus, 1966.—2. See fresh water, a.

fret (one's) cream, fat, giblets, gizzard, guts or kidneys. To worry oneself with trifles: low coll.: giblets, from late C.17, in Reuben Bourne, The Contented Cuckold, 1692, at IV, i (Moe); gizzard, from—1755; fat, from ca. 1880 (Pugh, 2); the rest, from ca. 1850; ob., except for kidneys, and the var. worry (one's) fat or guts. Cf. flurry (one's) mill and: fret (one's) self to fiddlestrings. A coll. var. of, and prob. suggested by, the prec.:—1923 (Manchon).

fretkidney (or hyphenated). One who worries, and who pesters others, about trifles and inevitables: C.19–20. Ex fret (one's) kidneys, and fretting others, as in 'What a fretkidney that child is, really!' (P.B.)

frey, v.i.: esp. as vbl n., freying, courting, courtship: S. African: 1938+. Professor W.S. Mackie in Cape Argus, 4 July 1946, 'Simply an Anglicising of Africaans "vry" in its sense of "to court"—itself ex Dutch vrijen, "to court"—s. "To pet, to spoon."' friar. A white or pale spot on a printed sheet: printers': from ca. 1680. Contrast monk, q.v. In C.19–20, both are j.

Friar Tuck. To coit; coition; an expletive: low rhyming s. (on fuck): late C.19–20. (Franklyn, Rhyming.) And, as L.A. notes, 'not only rhyming slang, but also a pertinent spoonerism.'

Friars. Blackfriars Station: London coll.:—1909 (Ware).

friar's balls. Friar's Balsam (a patent medicine): Aus. low joc.: since ca. 1930.

frib. A stick: C.18 c. (Discoveries of John Poulter, 1754.) ? etym.

fricking. A s. euph. for fucking, adj.: C.20. On or ex friggling, adj.

fricky. (Of persons) nervously irritated or on edge: coll.: since (?) 1940. Perhaps ex the friction generated in people under pressure. (Leslie S. Beale.)

Friday. See black Friday.

Friday (afternoon) car. A car that is constantly going wrong, as if made by workers skimping on the last shift of the week and anxious to be off: since early 1970s. Hence, may be fig., e.g., of a person with abnormally short fingers, who feels 'unfinished', as in Peter Dickinson, One Foot in the Grave, 1979. (P.B.)

Friday face. A glum, depressed-looking face or person:

coll.: from ca. 1590; ob. by 1889; by 1936 almost †. Greene; Grose, 1st ed. (Adj., Friday-faced, from late C.16; ob.) Var., C.18–20, Friday look. Ex Friday as a day of fasting. (Apperson.) P.B.: contrast the later C.20 T.G.I.F., 'Thank God, it's Friday!'

Friday while. Week-end leave: RN lowerdeck coll.: late C.19–20. (Bowen.). Granville: 'Leave from Friday noon to Monday ... The North Country while: "until". That is, "Friday until Monday."' A short weekend Saturday while.

fridge; frig or frige (all pron. fridge). A refrigerator: perhaps orig., as the first large-scale users, cafés and restaurants, since ca. 1925; by 1950, at latest, gen. domestic coll. The first spelling has, since mid-1930s, been the predominant one in the British Commonwealth. (Prob. ex Frigidaire, the trade-name of one of the earliest makes; Mrs C. Raab.) W. Collin Brooks, Frame-Up, 1935.—2. Prison: Aus. low: since ca. 1910. Cf. freezer, 5.

fried. Drunk: office-girls': late 1950s. See honkers.

fried carpet. 'The exceedingly short ballet skirt ... especially seen at the old "Gaiety": London theatrical: 1878–82. Ware.—2. 'An improved Cockneyism for "fish and 'taters'": from ca. 1890; ob. Tit-Bits, 8 Aug. 1891 (EDD), By joc. perversion.

fried egg. A company sergeant-major's badge: army: ca. 1930–50.

fried eggs. Legs: Aus. rhyming s.: C.20. (A.A. Martin, letter, 1937.)—2. Underdeveloped female breasts: Aus. male: since ca. 1930.

friend. The man who keeps a harlot as his mistress: (better-class) whores' euph. coll.: from ca. 1870. 'Oh yes, I have a friend.'—2. The ball-valve union one uses in blowing up a football: since ca. 1920. Ex advertisements?—3. See sick friend ...; boy-friend.

friend has come, my (little); I have friends to stay. The victim's announcement of the menstrual flux: C.19–20 low: ob. Cf. the captain is at home.

friend in need. (Gen. pl.) A louse: low: C.19–20; ob. ? ex C.18 gentleman's friend.

friendies. A friend: Christ's Hospital (School): mid-C.19–20. Marples.

friendly. Abbr. friendly match, one played for fun, not competition-points: from ca. 1894: coll. for five years or so, then S.E.—2. An enemy shell passing high overhead; one of one's own shells falling short on one's own lines: military coll.: 1915. F. & G.

friendly hostile. An enemy aircraft that doesn't attack: RN: WW2. P-G-R. friendly lead. An entertainment organised to assist an unlucky, esp. an imprisoned man—or his wife and children: from ca. 1870; orig. c., by 1895 s., by 1910 coll., by 1920 S.E.—2. Hence, a 'passing the hat', a collection for someone in distress: C.20: coll.; by 1940, S.E.

friendly pannikn. A drink shared with another from that utensil: Aus. coll.: ca. 1860–1910.

friends. See with friends like that ...

friends to stay. See friend has come.

frig, n. An act of self-abuse: low coll.: C.18–20. Ex the v.—2. 'Any military operation, from an exercise to a battle. "What time does the frig start?"' (P-G-R): army: WW2. Prob. ex frig about.—3. See fridge.

frig, v.t., i., refl. To masturbate: from ca. 1590: low coll. (Cotgrave; Robertson of Struan.) The imperative with it is late C.19–20, occ. an exclam.: cf. fuck it! Ex L. fricare, to rub.—2. Hence, loosely, to copulate with: mid-C.19–20.—3. Hence, in RAF (since ca. 1935), to fix; e.g. fuses could be so 'frigged' that they would never blow.

frig about, v.i. To potter or mess about: low coll.: mid-C.19–20. (It has been in use among Conway cadets since before 1891: John Masefield, The Conway, 1933.) Cf. bugger about.

frig around. C.20 var. of prec.

frig-pig. A fussy trifler: late C.18—early 19. Grose, 2nd ed. 1891: John Masefield, The Conway, 1933.) Cf. bugger about.

frig-up. A muddle, confusion: Aus.: C.20. Baker.

frigate. A woman: orig. (—1690), nautical. Esp. a well-rigged frigate, 'a Woman well Drest and Gentile' (i.e. Fr. gentille), as B.E. has it.

frigate on fire. Var. of fireship, q.v., a venereally diseased whore: ca. 1810–50. Bee.

frigation. A frigateon: naval: C.19. (Bowen.) By perversion of the S.E. term, with a pun on frig, v.

frigging. The practice, or an act, of self-abuse (cf. frig, n.): low coll.: C.17–20.—2. Trifling; irritating waste of time: C.18–20, ob. except with about.

frigging, adj. and adv. A low coll. intensive: a frigging idiot being an absolute fool; frigging bad, exceedingly bad. From ca. 1820. Cf. fuckng, adj., adv.

friggypoo. Pretentious nonsense; a big, ill-based piece of boasting: since ca. 1950. (Wilfred Granville, in the last letter he wrote to me, 11 Feb. 1974.) A blend of the contemptuous pooh and friggy, suggesting fuck-all, nothing.

fright. Any thing or person of a ridiculous or grotesque appearance: coll.: from ca. 1750.

fright hair. 'A wig or portion of a wig which by a string can be made to stand on end and express fright': theatrical coll.:—1909 (Ware).

frighten the living daylight (or the shit) out of (someone). To scare badly: coll. and low: C.19–20. Var. scare the ... id. (P.B.)

frightened of. Afraid of: coll.: from ca. 1830. In 1858 the Saturday Review could illuminatingly write, 'It is not usual for educated people to perpetrate such sentences as ... "I was frightened of her"' (OED).

frightener. A scare: since ca. 1930. 'I'd been terrified ... , but once I'd got over the first frightener I sort of liked it' (L.J. Cunliffe, Having It Away, 1965). Cf.:-

frighteners on, put the. To scare (someone): low: since ca. 1930. Norman.

frightening powder. A stern warning: police: since ca. 1930. Robert Fabian, London after Dark, 1954, describes it as 'private police slang'. Cf. prec.

frightful. An intensive adj.: coll.: from ca. 1740. (Cf. awful, terrible.) Dr Johnson notes its constant use 'among women for anything displeasing'.—2. A low coll. var. (C.19–20) of:

frightfully. An intensive adv.: coll.: from late C.18. Moe cites a passage (from La Belle Assemblée) in The Port Folio, June 1809. Ex prec. Cf. awfully and P.G. Wodehouse, Not George Washington, 1907, 'Thanks ... Oh, thanks ... Thanks awf'ly ... Thanks awf'ly ... Thanks awf'ly ... Oh, thanks awf'ly ... (with a brillian burst of invention, amounting almost to genius) Thanks frighfully.'

frightfully fright, (just too). Applied to someone absolutely bursting with conceit, or overwhelmingly upper-class and 'county'; also occ. of tasteless decorations overdone: coll.: mid-C.20. (P.B.) frightfulness. Anything, esp. behaviour, that is objectionable: joc. coll.: 1914; ob. Ex the lit. sense, which translated the German Schrecklichkeit (27 Aug. 1914). W.

frigid midget with a rapid digit. 'Definition' of a priapic dwarf eskimo. See crap-happy ...

frigo. Frozen or chilled meat: American >, in early 1918, English military s., though never very gen. (F. & G.) An adoption of Fr. s., itself representing 'viande frigorifiée'.

frigster, frigestress. A male, female masturbator.

frill. Affectation: late C.19–20: coll. >, by 1920, S.E.—2. A girl; a woman: from ca. 1933; by 1950, †. John G. Brandon, The One-Minute Murder, 1934, 'The hen, the frill—the skirt!'

frill, v. 'Partly to ring-bark a tree' (B., 1959): Aus. rural: C.20.

frilled lizard. 'A man with a whisker-framed face' (B., 1942): Aus.: C.20. Family likeness.

frillery. Women's underclothing: low coll.: ca. 1888–1910. Hence to explore (one's) frillery, to caress a woman very intimately: id. Cf.:-

frillies. Women's underclothing: coll.: ca. 1870–1910. Cf. undies, scanties, by the former of which it was gradually superseded: see Words!, p. 99.

frills. Swagger, conceit, 'side'. Hence put on one's frills, to swagger; also, low coll. or s., to grow very amorous. Also culture and accomplishments (music, dancing, foreign languages). Orig. (—1870), US; anglicised ca. 1890. Kipling, 1890, 'It's the commissariat camel putting on his blooming frills' (recurring, in book form, in 1892).—2. In to have been among (a woman's) frills, to have 'known' her: raffish: ca. 1860–1914. Cf. frillies.

fringe. Irrelevant matter: coll.: from ca. 1885; ob. OED.

fringer. One who wears side-whiskers only, or moustache and side-whiskers: beatniks': since ca. 1959. Anderson.

frint. A pawnbroker: low or c.: ca. 1810–50. (Real Life in London, 1821.)? friend perverted.

frippet; usu. a bit of frippet. A young lady: military (officers)': from ca. 1933. Origin? Also among Leeds undergraduates for a townsman (or -woman): since ca. 1940. (Marples, 2.) 'Might this be a conflation of Lancashire frip ['anything worthless or trifling': EDD]—cf. fripping—and snippet?' (R.S.) At the least, an influencing, I'd say.

fripping. Bickering; a more or less continuous irritation, petty quarrelling, esp. between husband and wife: Society and middle-class: since ca. 1919. (W. Somerset Maugham, The Circle, 1921.) Perhaps 'tearing things to tatters': Cf. C.16–17 Fr. fripion, a rag, and Lancashire frip, something worthless.

'Frisco. San Francisco: a coll. contemned by the cultured: from ca. 1880.

frisco, frisko(e). A term of endearment: coll.: C.17. Var. friskin.

frisk, n. As frolic and a lively dance-movement, it is S.E. as also is frisker, a dancer; but as sexual connexion it is low coll.: C.19–20.—2. Only in stand frisk, to be searched: c.:—1812; † by 1900. Vaux, Ex:

frisk; occ. friz (for senses 3, 4), v. To search (the person); examine carefully for police evidence: C.:—1781 (Parker; Grose). By late C.19 the sense had narrowed to 'to examine (a person) by feeling through the clothing without searching pockets, etc.' (B.P.); and, as Claiborne points out, the search is usu. for weapons. In this sense the term is now used throughout the English-speaking world (1980).—2. Hence to pick the pockets of, pick (a pocket, rob a till): c.: C.19. Vaux.—3. To 'have' a woman: low: C.19–20.—4. To hoax: ca. 1820–60. OED.

frisk and frolic. Carolic: rhyming s.: ca. 1880–1920. Franklyn 2nd.

frisk at the tables. 'A moderate touch at gaming': London coll.: from ca. 1880. Ware.

frisk for. To take from (the person): c.: C.20. W.L. Gibson Cown, Loud Report, 1937, 'You have to keep your eye open for some cop who'll frisk you for a quid or threaten to take you up.' Ex frisk, v., 2.

frisker. A pilferer: c.: from ca. 1890. Ex frisk, v., 2.

frisking, n. Preliminary petting: Aus.: since ca. 1930. Ex frisk, v., 1.

frisko(e). See frisco.

frisky, n. Whisky: from ca. 1890. Ex the popular saying (—1887), whisky makes you frisky.

frisky, adj. Playfully amorous; fond of amorous encounters: coll.: from ca. 1890.—2. Bad-tempered: low London: from ca. 1880; ob. Ware.

fritter. Bacon-rind and/or bacon-fat wrapped up in rag to serve as a fire-lighter: tramps' c.: C.20.

Fritz. A German; gen. a German soldier: 1914+, but, in 1917–18, less common than Gerry, Jerry, q.v. Also adj., which Jerry very rarely is, and, derivatively, a German shell, plane, etc.: 1915. A pet-name form of Friedrich, an extremely popular Ger. Christian name. See esp. Words!—2. An inevitable nickname of men with German surnames: C.20.—3. See on the fritz, out of order.

Fritzer. Occ. var. of prec., 1: army: WW1. (Petch.)

Fritzkrieg. 'Facetious for a German bombardment' (Berrey): Sep. 1940–May 1941; thereafter hardly ever used, the strain on the air-raid victims causing facetiousness to wear thin. See Fritz and blitz: Ger. Krieg, warfare.

frivol, frivel, frivole. To behave frivolously: coll., almost S.E.: from ca. 1865. W. Black, in Yolande, 1883, 'If you want to frivole... I shut my door on you.' Ex frivolous, ? on fribble.

frivoller; frivolling. A trifler; trifling: coll.; resp. 1887 (Baumann), 1882 (OED).

frivols. Frivolities: since ca. 1920.

friz, frizz. See frisk, v., 3 and 4. Grose, 2nd ed. (friz).—2. A female member of a show or carnival: Can. carnival s.: since ca. 1920. Ex frizzed hair.—3. (Always frizz.) A 'flap', a panic: mostly theatrical: since ca. 1930. Noël Coward, Relative Values, 1952.

frizzle. Champagne: ca. 1860–70. (H., 2nd ed.)? a perversion of friz.

frizzler. A hawker: c.: from ca. 1840; † by 1920. ('No. 747') Origin?

fro, froe, occ. vroe. A woman, wife, mistress, whore: c.: late C.17–19. (B.E.) Ex Dutch.

fro (or froe) file. A female pickpocket: C.18. James Dalton, A Narrative, 1728, 'Fro Files, Women Pick-Pockets.' See also file.

frock. A man wearing a frock-coat: coll.: earlier C.20; ob. with the decline of widespread use of the garment. Sir Basil Liddell Hart, History of the First World War, 1970. (P.B.)

frock and frill. A minor ill, esp. a chill: rhyming s.: late C.19–20.

frock-hitcher. A milliner, esp. one in a small way: urban: ca. 1880–1915. Arthur Binstead, Mop Fair, 1905.

frocker. A frock coat: C.20, †. By the 'OXFORD -ER'.

frog. A policeman: low s. verging on c.: from ca. 1855. ('Ducange Anglicus'; H., 2nd ed.) More gen. in US than in Britain. Ex his sudden landing on delinquents.—2. (Frog.) A Frenchman (also Froggy): from ca. 1790. Moe cites The Night Watch, 1828, (II, 299). It has > the 'inevitable' nickname (also Froggy) of men with French surnames: lower classes'. (In Fr. s., orig. a Parisian.) Ex the toads on the Parisian shield and 'the quaggy state of the streets' (F. & H.). P.B.: but see Froggie for true etym.—3. Hence, the French language: since (?) ca. 1940. In Craig Thomas, Wolfsbane, 1978 (an espionage novel): minor agent to a major one: 'You're the only one whose Frog is good enough for this, sir.'—4. In C.17, however, it meant a Dutchman. Cf. Froglander, q.v.—5. A foot: low: C.19—early 20. Ex the frog in a horse's hoof. Cf. creepers, 1.—6. The seaman's 'frock, before the days of the jumper' (Bowen); RN coll.: C.19. Ex the tailors' frog.—7. Abbr. frog and toad, road: tramps' c., then gen. among users of rhyming s.: C.20.—8. A £1 note: Aus.: since ca. 1910. (Vance Palmer, Separate Lives, 1931; B., 1942.) A shortening of the Aus. rhyming s. frog-skin = sovrin = £1: late C.19—early 20.—9. A condom: mainly Aus.: since ca. 1925. E.P. noted 'prompted by Frenchy, 2', but more prob. merely an abbr. of frog-skin, a condom. (P.B.) frog-action. Bicycle polo, very popular in early C.20 with the officers stationed at Whale Island (on the east side of Portsmouth harbour): RN. Bowen.

frog and toad. A (main) road: rhyming s.:—1859 (Hotten, 1st ed.) In C.20 often shortened to frog. See esp. Franklyn on the etym.: he suggests an equally valid frog and toe'd (parts of the foot). Cf.:-

Frog and Toe. London, to which thieves would be likely to tramp on frog (cf. frog, 5) and toe, after a robbery in the country (Franklyn): c.:—1857 ('Ducange Anglicus'); † by 1900. Not rhyming s., but perhaps an influence on prec.

Frog-Eater. A Frenchman: low coll.: since late C.18; ob. in Britain, where simply Frog is common, but not ob. in Aus. (B.P.) It occurs in The Night Watch, 1828, at II, 93. (Moe.) Cf. frog, 2, and Froggie.

frog-footed; flat-footed. Resp. adj. and n. for a person going on foot: ca. 1870–1910. B. & L.

frog from (or of) feathers, as free of (or from) sense as a. See free of sense...

frog in the throat. A boat: rhyming s.: C.20. (B. & P.) Ex: —2. In have a frog in (one's or) the throat, to have phlegm in the throat; hoarseness: coll.: (?) mid-C.19–20.

frog it. To walk, to march: army: from 1914 or early 1915; t. (F. & G.) Adopted from the language of travelling showmen, who used it before—and after—P.H. Emerson, Signor Lippo, 1893. Cf. frog, 5, frog and toad, and frog-footed; also flog it. All may have contributed.

frog-march. The usu. C.20 version of frog's march, q.v.

frog-skin. £1: Aus. See frog, 8.—2. A condom: orig. mainly Aus., since ca. 1925; Brit. by ca. 1950, at latest. (B., 1943; P.B.) Cf. Froggie, 2.

frog-spawn. Tapioca pudding: Public Schoolboys': since ca. 1890. F. Spencer Chapman, The Jungle Is Neutral, 1949.

Froggie, -y. A Frenchman: from ca. 1870. (The Referee, 15 July 1883.) Also adj. Like all the Frog terms for the French, it refers to the eating of frogs. Contrast Froglander, a Dutchman.—2. A 'French letter', a condom: RN: since ca. 1910.

Froglander. A Dutchman: late C.17–19 (though after ca. 1820 only among sailors), and, in US, C.19–20, though ob. B.E. frog's eyes. Boiled sago: Aus.: since ca. 1910. B., 1953.

frog's march (gen. with give the); occ. rog-march or -trot. The carrying of a drunken man face downwards, e.g. to the police-station. Coll.: from ca. 1870. Evening Standard, 18 Apr. 1871; Daily News, 4 Oct. 1884.—2. Also, from ca. 1884, a v.t.

frog's wine. Gin: ca. 1810–70. (Lex. Bal.) ? a reference to Holland: cf. Froglander.

from Alice Springs to breakfast time. 'From one end of the country to the other; everywhere' (A. Buzo, 1973): Aus.: since ca. 1930. On the pattern of:—

from arse-hole (or solid) to breakfast time. All the way; all the time: low: late C.19–20. Contrast arse-holes to... A polite var., since ca. 1920, is from here to...

from clew to ear-ring, (know) In every detail, thoroughly: RN coll.: late C.19–20. Technically the term refers to the condition of a square sail that has been drawn from the clew to the top of the sail (ear-ring) (Granville). See also KNOW.

from drinking out of a damp glass. See drinking out of...

from here on in. Brit. var., and more immediate than, from there on in.

from over yonder. From Ireland: tailors' coll.: mid-C.19—early 20. B. & L.

from the sublime to the gorbliney, as in 'That's going from...'; i.e. to the ridiculous: C.20; orig. Cockney, but by ca. 1920, fairly gen. Cf. gorbliney, q.v.

from there on in. From this, or that, point forward: coll., perhaps mostly Can., but not unknown elsewhere: since ca. 1925. 'Til get the thing set up for you, and you can play it from there on in.' (Leechman.)

fromage! Hard cheese!: 1890–1905 at the Royal Military Academy. (B. & L.) The pun being on Fr. fromage, cheese.

Froncey. French: low London: C.19. I.e., Fr. français. Ware.

front, n. Bearing, deportment; style: coll.:—1923 (Manchon); also, since ca. 1930, Aus. (B. 1942). Cf. S.E. front, self-confidence, effrontery; and see AUSTRALIAN UNDERWORLD, in Appendix.—2. The scene of a thief's operations: c.: anglicised ca. 1929 from US. (Julian Franklyn, This Gutter Life, 1934.) Ex shop-fronts. P.B.: ? or from the various front-lines of the then recent Great War.—3. A large diamond tie-pin or ring (usually genuine) worn by vaudevillians to indicate prosperity: Can.: since ca. 1930.—4. The seemingly legitimate or respectable façade of actually criminal or radical organisations: Can., ex US, hence also Brit.: since late 1940s.—5. As the front, it= the main road or street of a Teddy-boy gang's district: Teddy boys': late 1940s and 1950s. Observer, 1 Mar. 1959.—6. As the Front, Piccadilly: male prostitutes' and homosexuals': since ca. 1945. (Anne Sharpley's 'London's Hidden Problems' series in the Evening Standard, 20–24 July 1964.) Cf. the Dilly.—7. Also the Front, Oxford Street, London: later C.20. Powis.—8. In at the front, 'When one drug is taken before another' (Home Office): drug addicts': 1970s.—9. See clean the front; show a front.

front, v. To cover the operations of an associate pickpocket: c.:—1879; ob. in Brit., but still extant in Aus., mid-1940s (B., letter, 1946).—2. V.i. and t., to break in by the front door: c.:—1933 (Charles E. Leach.) Vbl n., fronting.—3. To go in front of (someone), to be reprimanded (by him): Aus. coll.: since ca. 1930. Kylie Tennant, The Joyful Condemned, 1953.—4. (V.i.) To appear in public, esp. if conspicuously; to turn up: Aus. teenagers': since late 1940s. Pix, 28 Sep. 1963.—5. To front a band, esp. in the big-band era of the 1930s, is—'often with little skill, but with a winning personality'—to be, or to be made, leader of a band: Can. jazz-men's: since the late 1920s. (Priestley.)—6. See front, n., 4: to serve as, to operate, such a façade: since ca. 1950. Often to front us (whatever the cover chosen). Cf. sense 1. front, adj. Angry; vexed: Winchester (the school): from ca. 1860. (B. & L.) Ex affronted.

front attic, door, garden, parlour, room, window. The female pudend: low. None, I think, before 1800; Bee, 1823, has the fourth; F. & H. (1893) all six.

front-door mat. The female pubic hair: low: C.19–20.

front(-)gut. The female pudend: low: C.19–20; ob.

front man. A go-between, e.g. one who deals with a job-lot buyer for the principal in a long firm fraud [q.v.]: c. and police s.: since ca. 1930. Underworld; Powis.—2. He who lures the victim into a crooked game of cards: Aus. c.: since ca. 1935. (B., 1953.) Also, by ca. 1940, Eng. c. and, by 1950, police s. (John Gosling, The Ghost Squad, 1959.) Also known as a psyche man—he needs to use psychology. Cf. front up.

front name. A Christian name, esp. the first: when not culturally facetious, it is low coll.:—1895. Ex US (—1877).

front office. Police headquarters: c.: C.20; mostly and orig. US. OED Sup.

front parlour. See front attic.

front piece. A 'curtain-raiser': theatrical coll.: ca. 1885–1912. Ware.

front room. See front attic.

front-stall. He who, in garotting or robbery with strangulation, keeps a look-out in front: c.: from ca. 1850; ob. See also back-stall and nasty man or ugly.

front stuff. A smart appearance designed esp. to impress either prospective dupes or one's companions: low: since ca. 1930. See front, n., 1.

front suspension. A brassière: Aus., esp. mechanics': since ca. 1930.

front the bull. To face a charge: Aus. army: WW2. (B., 1943.) Cf. front, v., 3.

front up. (Usu. with to or before.) To appear, on interview or 'orders', before one's officer commanding: army: later C.20. (P.B.)—2. See MOCK AUCTION in Appendix.

front-wheel skid. A Jew: rhyming s., on Yid: not very gen.: since ca. 1920. Franklyn, Rhyming, 2, cites Reported Safe Arrival. Hence, 'front-wheeler' (Powis, 1977). The term is 'intentionally more offensive than five-to-two' (Red Daniells, 1980).

front window. See front attic.

front windows. The eyes; occ. the face: from ca. 1860.—2. Spectacles: C.20; ob. A.H. Dawson, Dict. of Slang, 1913.

fronting. See front, v., 2.

frontispiece. The face: pugilistic:—1818; ob. by 1930. (Egan, Buckstone.) Anticipated, however, with joc. (?) pedantry by the C.17 and C.18, e.g. by Hume. OED.

frontsman. See MOCK AUCTION, in Appendix.

from or frume, adj. Religious in the orthodox sense: Jewish coll.: late C.19–20. Hence, also as adv., 'in an orthodox (religious) manner': id. Ex Ger. fromm, pious.

frost. An utter failure or complete disappointment, whether thing, event, or person: theatrical s. > gen. coll.: from ca.

1880 (OED cites from 1886). The Star, 17 Jan. 1889, 'The pantomime was a dead frost.' W. ingeniously suggests that frost derives ex Wolsey's killing frost in Shakespeare's Henry VIII.—2. Lack of work: as in have the frost, to be unemployed: from ca. 1880; † by 1921.—3. A coolness between persons: late C.19–20, ob. OED.

frost bite me! A lower-classes' cry of astonishment:—1923 (Manchon). Also (dog) bite my ear!

frosty-face. 'One pitted with the small pox' (Grose, 1st ed.): low or c.: ca. 1750–1910.—2. 'Harsh, white hairs covering the face' of a sheep: Aus. rural: C.20. B., 1959.

frosty Friday. 'A most unusual day. "What? Go out with him? That'll be a frosty Friday!"' (Leechman): Can.: since ca. 1940. Claiborne, 1976, suggests, 'Prob. an elaboration of the US "It'll be a mighty cold day before I'll..."—meaning, essentially, never.'

frot, v. To rub against another person for sexual stimulation, often surreptitiously, e.g. in a dense crowd: literate low. Observer, 11 Feb. 1973, film review: 'These transvestites, nymphos, junkies are in hell. They frot and turn on—take drugs—to give them[selves] the illusion of living, the shadow of happiness'. P.B.: I first heard the term in Hong Kong in mid-1960s; it may have arrived ex US. Ex Fr. (se) frotter, and the agent frotteur. (Partly R.S.) See also bustle-punching.

froth bugle. A condom: RN: since ca. 1920.

frothblower. A certain type (Fowler Class 5 M.T.) of tender-engine: railwaymen's: since ca. 1925 (?). Railway.

froudacious, froudacity, adj. and n. Inaccurate, -acy: Aus. and, though much less, NZ: ca. 1888–93. Ex Froude the historian's statements concerning those two countries: on audacious. F. & H.

frought. See froot.

froust, froot, n. A stink; stuffiness (in a room): coll.: from ca. 1870. Cf. fug, q.v. Ex frosty, q.v.—2. Hence, at Harrow School, additional sleep allowed on Sundays and whole holidays: from ca. 1875.—3. (Also ex sense 1.) A slacker in regard to sport: Sherborne School: C.20. Desmond Coke, Wilson's, 1911.—4. 'Lint or dust or any foreign particle found on a uniform: peculiar to the Canadian Military Colleges' (Officer Commanding, Fort Champlain, letter, 1969).—5. An armchair: universities' and Public Schools': C.20. John Galsworthy, Caravan, 1927, and On Forsyte 'Change, 1930.

froust, frowst, v. Rest lazily, esp. indoors, in a stuffy room: coll. when not dial.:—1884.

froust, frowsty. Unpleasant-smelling; fuggy: coll. when not dial.: 1865 (SOD). Origin obscure.

frouster or frowster. A wearer of warm clothes in the summer: RN cadets': since ca. 1880. ('Taffrail', The Sub, 1917.) See prec.

froot. Angry; annoyed; vexed: Winchester College: C.19–20. Ex the Hampshire dial. frou(g)ht, frightened, as R.G.K. Wrench suggests. (Winchester has a very large vocabulary, in which the boys have, for many years, been obliged to show their proficiency very soon after they first arrive.)

frow. See froe.

frowst. See froust.

frowsty. See frosty.

froze. Sol. for frozen: almost immemorial.

frozen limit, the. The utter limit of the obnoxious or the intolerable: coll.: from ca. 1915. ('Taffrail', Pincher Martin, 1916.) Cf. the dizzy, or giddy, limit. See limit, the.

frozen mit (or mitt), get or give the. To receive or apply the 'cold shoulder': coll.: adopted ex US early C.20. Punch, 7 July 1915: 'Begging for leave to do [their] bit/And getting for [their] pains the frozen mit.' F. & G. has mitt. See mitten, 3.

frozen on the stick. Paralysed with fear: airmen's: from ca. 1925. (Daily Herald, 1 Aug 1936; Jackson.) Prob. the 'joy-stick' of an aeroplane is implied.

froit. An obviously homosexual (passive) male: orig. c., adopted ca. 1937 ex US; >, by ca. 1960, gen. low coll.—2. A term of address among Teddy boys: since ca. 1954. Gilderdale, 2: 'Anyone may be a fruit, though it often denotes class. One Ted told me: "To a City chap—all stuck with his umbrella—we call out 'ello, me ol' lemon.'" See old fruit. fruit machine. An anti-aircraft predictor: AA crews': WW2. (H. & P.) Ex its appearance, akin to the coin-operated gambling machine, as is:—2. An electrical calculator used in radar: RAF: 1942–6. Hence also:—3. Any prediction device: RN, esp. among submariners: WW2. Geoffrey Jenkins, A Twist of Sand, 1959.—4. See gooseberries, 3.

fruit of a gibbet. A hanged felon: coll.: C.18. Gay (Ware). fruit salad. 'A large collection of medal ribbons which runs to three or more rows' (H. & P.): Services, esp. the RAF: since ca. 1919. As worn on the left breast, where they made a colourful display. P.B.: by 1950, Services' gen. of any largish display of medal ribbons, not necessarily as many as three rows.

fruit woman. A female sexual intermediary: ca. 1660–1730, at a guess. Used by Dryden in The Assignment, 1678, at III, i. (Moe.)

fruitie, -y, n. Port (wine): C.20. Mark Bennett, Under the Periscope, 1919.—2. A desirable girl; one's girl: 'heard among infantry officers, Hong Kong, mid-1960s' (P.B., 1974): characteristic of that decade; cf. the earlier poppie.

fruitful vine. The female genitals: either low coll. (it appears in the Lex. Bal.) or 'dubious' euph., the double pun being indelicate: C.19–early 20.

fruity. Very rich or strong (e.g. language); very attractive or interesting or suggestive (e.g. story): coll.: 1900 (OED Sup.). Prob. suggested by juicy.—2. High-smelling: coll.: since late C.19. 'Taffrail', in Stand By!, 1916.—3. Amorous: raffish: since ca. 1955. Jonathan Thomas, 1976.

frume. See froom.

frumety-kettle. See furmity-kettle.

frummagem; app. only as frummagemmed, choked, strangled, spoilt: c. of ca. 1670–1830. Head, Coles, Grose, Scott (in Guy Mannerling).? etym.

frumper. A sturdy fellow: c. of ca. 1820–60. Kent, Modern Flash Dict., 1825. Perhaps a survival of frumper = mocker, jester.

fruppencies. Female breasts: rhyming s., threepenny bits on tits: later C.20. Red Daniells, in Brit. Jnl of Photography, 29 Aug. 1980.

fry. To turn into plain English; gen. in passive: from ca. 1880; ob. James Payn, in Grape from a Thorn, 1881.—2. 'If the "mike" should begin "frying" or picking up camera noises, "Sound" in his "ice box" (so called because it is usually very hot inside the glass-fronted booth) would soon protest to the "slinger" (or microphone operator)' (Evening News, 7 Nov. 1939): cinema: since ca. 1930.

fry in (one's) own grease. To suffer the (natural) consequences of one's own folly; 'dree one's weird': coll.: C.14–20. See esp. Apperson.

fry the pewter. To melt pewter: measures: c. of ca. 1850–1910. ? suggested by fry the potato.

frying-pan. A collier brig from Whitby: nautical: C.19. Ex the 'traditional wind vane, a large disc and a pointer' (Bowen).—2. (Gen. pl.) A hand: rhyming s. on sol. pron. han': C.20, mostly military. F. & G.—3. See turnip. Mayhew, 1861; H., 5th ed., 1874; ob. On warming-pan.

frying-pan brand. 'A large brand used by cattle-stealers to cover the owner's brand' (Morris): Aus.:—1857; ob. by 1930.

frying-pan into the fire. See out of the frying-pan...

fu-fu. Barley and treacle, 'a favourite dish in the early 19th century sailing ships': nautical: C.19. ? origin: perhaps Bowen is wrong about the 'early', and the term derives from S.E. fufu, yam or plantain pounded into balls.—2. Hence, 'anybody inefficient at sea' (Bowen): nautical: C.20.—3. See entries at foo-foo...

fuant. Excrement, esp. in pl. and of vermin (B.E.): C.17–18 low coll.? Fr. puant corrupted.

fub. See fob, n., 2, and fubbs.

fub, v. See fob, v., of which it is a late C.16–17 variant.

—2. V.i., to potter about: cricketers' coll.:—1906 (Lewis). Ultimately ex sense 1.

fubbery, trickery, cheating, stealing, occurs in Marston. See fob, n. and v.

fu(b)bs, n. 'A loving, fond Word used to pretty little Children and Women' (B.E.), esp. if (small and) chubby: C.17–18: coll. Cf. the next two complete entries.

fubby. See:—

fubs(e)y. Plump; (of things) well filled: C.17–20 (ob.) coll. 'Applied by Charles II to Duchess of Portsmouth' (W.); Grose; Marryat, in Snarley-Yow, 1837, 'Seated on the widow's little fubby sofa'. Var., fubby. Ex fu(b)s, q.v.

fubsiness. Fatness; 'well-filledness': coll.: from ca. 1780. Ex prec.

fubsy. See fubsey.

fuck, n. An act of sexual connexion: from ca. 1800. (Ex the v., for which see etym., etc.)—2. A person (rarely of the male) viewed in terms of coition, as in 'She's a good f.': C.19–20. These two senses are excellent examples of vulgarity, being actually S.E.—3. The seminal fluid, esp. if providing as providing the requisite strength (full of fuck, potently amorous): low coll.: C.19–20.—4. In such intensive phrases as 'Get to fuck out of here!', fuck is apparently a n.: low: late C.19–20.—5. See create fuck, to make a considerable fuss, usu. in protest at something.—6. See like fuck!, 'certainly not!'; see also is it fuck!

fuck, v.t. and i. To have sexual connection (with): v.i. of either sex, v.t. only of the male: a vulg., C.16–20. Regarded as too taboo for recording in any dictionary between Grose, late C.18, and the franker generation of dictionaries published in later C.20; see Partridge, Origins, 1958, p. 239. John Florio (?1553–1625) defined fottete: 'To jape; to sardie, to fucke; to swive; to occupy.' SOD, 1973: 'Connection with synon. Ger. ficken cannot be demonstrated.' E.P. suggested, in the 7th ed. of this Dict., that it is almost certainly cognate with the Latin v. pungere and n. pugil, both ex a radical meaning 'to strike'; semantically, therefore, fuck links with prick, 3. Transitive synonyms, many of them S.E., occur in Shakespeare (9), Fletcher (7), Urquhart (4), etc., etc.; intransitive in Urquhart (12), D'Urfey and Burns (6), Shakespeare (5), etc., etc. See esp. B. & P. (the Introduction); Grose, P.; and Allen Walker Read, 'An Obscenity Symbol' (sec. II) in American Speech, Dec. 1934—all at this term.—2. See fuck off, and fuck you!

fuck a day, a. See shit a day...

fuck a duck! See cor fuck... fuck about. To play the fool: low: mid-C.19–20. Brendan Behan, Borstal Boy, 1958.

fuck all. A low var. of damn all: nothing: late C.19–20. Sometimes, sarcastically, sweet fuck all.

fuck anything with a hole in it, he'd, I'd, etc.; fuck anything on two legs, he'd, I'd, etc. A low c.p. of satyriasis or of extreme randiness: C.20.

fuck arse. A low term of contempt: C.20.

fuck-beggar. An impotent or almost impotent man whom none but a beggar-woman will allow to 'kiss' her: mid-C.18–early 19 low coll. Grose, 1st ed., 'See buss beggar'.

fuck-dust. Term of (usu.) genital abuse: barrack-room and factory-floor: since early 1950s. Cf. spunk-dust. (P.B.)

fuck 'em all! A c.p. expressive of (usu. cheerful) defiance: since ca. 1920. In the song 'Bless 'Em All' the orig. words were Fuck 'em all.

fuck 'em all—bar six (:and they can be the pall-bearers)! Elab. of the prec.: adopted, ca. 1944 (? or in Korea, 1950) ex US Army. James Cromley, One to Count Cadence, 1969, has as prologue what the author calls 'an old Army prayer': 'Fuck'em all bar nine—/Six for pall-bearers./Two for road-guards./And one to count cadence.' (P.B.)

fuck 'er while she's (still) 'ot. 'Reputedly the gallery's response in blood and thunder melodramas, when the hero, wringing his hands at the fate of the (apparently) dead heroine, implored, "What shall I do?" C.19.' (L.A., 1974.) fuck-finger, -fist. A female, a male, masturbator: low: C.19–20, ob.

fuck-hole. The pudendum muliebree: C.19–20 low. ? on bung-hole.

fuck-in-a-fog. A low, joc. var. of the flower name love-in-a-mist: C.20. (P.B.)

fuck (it)! A low expletive: C.19–20. Very gen. among those for whom delicacy and aesthetics mean little—or rather nothing. (Manchon.) Cf. frig, it!, q.v. at frig, v.

fuck-knuckle. An Aus. coarse ref., often not unkind—though usu. implying stupidity, by one man of another: heard early 1960s. (P.B.)

fuck like a mink. (of a woman, 'she fucks...') amorous and promiscuous: Can.: since ca. 1920. Cf.:-

fuck like a rattlesnake. (Of the male) to coit vigorously: low Aus.: from ca. 1895. As there are no rattlesnakes in Aus., the phrase would seem to be of N. American origin, as Robert Claiborne has rightly mentioned. Cf. mad as a cut snake, q.v. The Brit. version, since mid-C.20, is shag like a... Cf.:-
fuck like a stoat. Synon. with the prec., but Eng. in origin and UK in distribution: C.20. Of their usage, Mr T.C.H. Raper has (1973) remarked, à propos WW2, 'Both of these phrases were used to describe the sexual activities of women rather than men'; in Aus., however, the rattlesnake var. was, during WW1 anyway, applied more commonly to men.

fuck me! An often wry or semi-humorous expletive, common—in all senses: since late C.19. Since ca. 1950, it has often evoked the c.p. responses not now or later or no thanks! (F. Leech.)

fuck me and the baby's yours! Elab. of prec.: 'exclam. of astonishment, surprise, disbelief' (L.A.): low: since ca. 1930. Cf.:-

fuck me gently or pink! Exclamations of surprise or wonderment: since ca. 1920, 1910, resp.

fuck me! said the Duchess more in hope than in anger. A c.p., current since ca. 1910. A later C.20 var. has... more in hope than expectation. The phrase forms the start of a coarse monologue, the next line being usu., 'What, not again!', said the Duke wearily... Cf. 'hell!' said the Duchess.

fuck my luck! Oh, what a pity! Services: since ca. 1940.

fuck my old boots! A c.p. connoting astonishment: Londoners' (C.20), hence RAF (1918 onwards), then gen. A humorously euph. var. is seduce my ancient footwear!

fuck off. To depart, make off: low: late C.19–20. Cf. bugger off, piss off, qq.v.—2. Esp. in the imperative: id.

fuck-pig. A thoroughly unpleasant person (usu. man): low Cockney, > gen.: from ca. 1870. In later C.20 often in lying fuck-pig.

fuck-pump. A married man; envy felt by unmarried men: low and joc.: since ca. 1950. (L.A., 1976.)

fuck that for a comic song (or a top hat)! I emphatically disagree; I strongly disapprove: sporting and raffish: C.20. (Frank Shaw, 1969.) Lit., that's no comic song or that's not a real top hat. Cf.:-

fuck that (or this) for a game of skittles (or soldiers)! and fuck that (or this) for a lark! Elaborations of fuck that!, an emphatic condemnation of any activity in which one is, or could be, forced to join, the exclam. being often ruefully joc., since there is no help for this situation. Soldiers is an army var. of C.20; skittles, which often implies underhand cunning, also C.20; lark, since latish C.19. The shortest, the orig. and basic, prob. throughout C.19–20, is, as so often, the strongest; orig. very low. (E.P.; P.B.) fuck up, v.i.; hence fuck-up, n. To fail dismally: low: since ca. 1930. N. in make a fuck-up of, to fail miserably at, or to spoil utterly. Cf. make a balls(-up) of, and snafu.

fuck-wit (or written solid), 'A general-purpose pejorative; a "nitwit"' (B.P., 1977): Aus. low: since late 1940s. Poss. a blend of fuck all, nothing, + nitwit.

fuck you! The natural correlative of fuck that!, applied to a person: since (?) latish C.19. The strongest of low condemnations, and never meant lit., it=confound, or damn, you!, and may of course be applied to him, her, a person's name—and cf. fuck 'em all.

fuck you, Jack, I'm all right or bomb- (or fire-)proof or in-board. Sometimes pedantically interpreted as 'I care not for your predicament, fellow; I am suitably catered for'; used joc. of oneself, as a pretence of callous selfishness and indifference to the plight of the less fortunate; but a scathing condemnation of that same attitude when perceived in others, as 'Oh, it's all right for them, "fuck you, Jack" and all that ...': orig. nautical, late C.19; Services' in WW1 (B. & P.), and hence widespread and gen. throughout C.20. An admirably succinct epitome of the main obstacle to the advent of the Peaceable Kingdom, it is sometimes expressed less offensively and even more shortly by pull up the rope! (P.B.) See esp. DCpp., and Jack policy.

Fuck-Your-Buddy Week. See International Fuck-...

fuckable. (Of women) sexually desirable; nubile: low coll. or a vulg.: C.19–20. Cf. and contrast fucksome.

fucked, adj. Extremely weary; (utterly) exhausted: late C.19–20. Ex fuck, v. Here, the German origin—ficken, 'to strike'—is clear. Compare the low-American-slang terms recorded by Henry Leverage in Flynn's, 24 Jan. 1925:—'fick, v. To fight; to beat. ficked, adj. Beaten; exhausted. ficker, n. A fighter; a rough.'—2. See go and fuck...

fucked and far ... See fucked-up and far from home.

fucked by the fickle finger of fate. Down on one's luck; done for: Can. army (mostly officers)': WW2. More widely since, and, as Claiborne notes, 1976, 'Current in US (student) circles at least several years earlier [than WW2]' fucked in the car and fucked without getting kissed, ppl adj., both connote that 'someone has done something to you that you did not deserve': Can.: since ca. 1950, if not rather earlier. (A correspondent from the Royal Military College of Canada, 1969.)

fucked-up and far from home (occ. prec. by fed-up). In the depths of misery, physical and mental: army c.p.: since 1899. Sometimes as fucked and far... Ex the despair of a girl seduced and stranded.

fucker. A lover; a harlot's 'fancy man': C.19–20 low coll.—2. A pej. or an admiring term of ref.: from ca. 1850.—3. Hence, a man, chap, fellow: from ca. 1895; esp. in WW1, when the less Rabelaisian substituted mucker. P.B.: widespread low gen. throughout C.20. Cf. bugger, sod.

fucker soldiers. 'From Pukka Soldiers, who were the men of the Regular Army and who had a poor opinion of Kitchener's Army. From what we saw of them, they seemed to be more interested in women and wine than in anything else' (Petch, 1966): 1915–18.

fucking, vbl n. The sexual act regarded generically: C.16–20: vulg.

fucking, adj. (C.19–20 low) 'a qualification of extreme contumely' (F. & H., 1893); but in C.20, often a mere—though still a very low—intensive, occ. replaced by mucking.

fucking, adv. Very, exceedingly. Somewhat stronger and much more offensive than bloody (q.v.). From ca. 1840; perhaps much earlier—records being extremely sparse. Cf. fucker, 3. P.B.: I have heard the monotonous 'The fucking fucker's fucking well fucked', where the audience has understood quite well that 'This piece of machinery does not work'.

fucking arseholes! fucking hell! Exclamations of incredulous, dismayed, surprise or anger: low: C.20. Often reduced to 'kin' arse'oles! and 'kin' ell! (L.A.; P.B.) fucking the dog; occ. elab. to fornicating the poodle. Irritating and senseless occupation: Can. soldiers': C.20. Cf. picking gooseberries.—2. Hence, the avoidance of work by appearing to be busy at a useless task: Can.: since ca. 1920.

fuckish. Wanton (of women); inclined, even physically ready, for amorous congress (men and women); C.19–20 coll.

fucksome. (Of women) sexually desirable: a C.19–20 vulg.

fuckster, fuckstress. A (notable) performer of, an addict to, the sexual act: a C.19–20 vulg.—2. Hence, as a pej. ('vieux cochon', says Manchon): late C.19—early 20.

fund. The pubic hair: coll. when not Scottish or dial.: late C.18–20, ob. as coll. Ex sense, a hare's or rabbit's scut.

fuddle, n. Drink; a drink: c. or low: ca. 1680–1830. (L'Es-trange: OED; B.E.) Ex the v.—2. Intoxication, drunken condition: coll.: from ca. 1760. OED.—3. A drunken bout: low coll., or perhaps s.: from ca. 1810. Hence on the fuddle, engaged in drinking (Sessions, May 1845, Surrey cases), and out on the fuddle, out on a day's drinking: mid-C.19—early 20 (B. & L.).—4. Derivatively: muddlement; mental 'muzziness': from ca. 1825 (OED). Occ. in a fuddle.

fuddle, the v., like fuddler and fuddle-cap, a drunkard, fuddling, vbl n. and adj., and fuddled, ppl adj., stupefied or muddled with drink, is, and prob. always has been, S.E. (far from literary), not c. nor s. nor even coll.: cf., however, F. & H.'s opinion with the OED's.

fuddy-duddy, esp. 'an old ...'; fuddy-dud. A fussy, old-fashioned, narrow-minded person; an 'old woman': coll.: adopted, ca. 1944, ex US.—The latter term, mostly Aus., arose derivatively ca. 1955. Fuddy-duddy may blend fussy + fogey, influenced by s. dud, an insufficient person; or it may be an altered reduplication of that dud.

fudge, n. A lie, nonsense; exaggeration; humbug or a humbug: 1790. Also (e.g. in Goldsmith, 1766), an exclam., roughly equivalent to, though slightly politer than, bosh! Coll.: C.18–20. Anecdotal orig. improbable; perhaps ex Ger. futsch, no good, corrupted by Fr. foutu (W.), with the anecdote helping and fudge, v., reinforcing.—2. A forged stamp: schoolboys': from ca. 1870.—3. A farthing: Dubliners', esp. newsboys': late C.19–20. Perhaps ex sense 1: cf. the Manx not worth a fudge, worthless or useless (EDD).—4. 'Late News' column: journalists': since ca. 1920. David Hume, Requiem for Rogues, 1942. 'The source, I suggest, is the journalists' jargon fudge-box, found on the front pages of afternoon papers at least as late as 1930s. This was an area printed solid black... into which the latest [sporting] results could be stamped with a punch—thereby avoiding the remaking of the entire page' (Claiborne, 1976). Ultimately, ex the 1st, 3rd and 4th nuances of sense 1 of the v.

fudge, v. To interpolate (as in Foote, 1776); do impressively very little (Marryat); fabricate (Shirley Brooks); contrive with imperfect materials, as e.g. writing a book of travel without travelling (Sala, 1859); forge (mostly schoolboys': from ca. 1870). Coll.: all nuances slightly ob. and, in C.20, almost S.E.—2. Botch, bungle, v.t.: coll.: from ca. 1700.—3. V.i., to talk nonsense, tell fibs: from ca. 1834.—4. Advance the hand unfairly in playing marbles: schoolboys': from ca. 1875. In C.20, almost S.E.—5. Copy, crib: also schoolboys'—and -girls': from ca. 1870.—6. At Christ's Hospital (School) (—1877), v.i. and t., to prompt oneself in class; to prompt another; thence, to tell. Ex fadge, prob. influenced by forge.

fug, n. A stuffy atmosphere: from ca. 1888. ?ex fog, influenced by justy, of which it is prob. a schoolboys' or a dial. perversion (W.). In C.20, coll.—2. Hence (—1923), one who likes a 'fug', a boy that doesn't play games: mostly schoolboys'. Manchon.—3. (Prob. ex sense 1; cf. sense 2.) A prefect: Marlborough College: mid-C.19–20. (Communication, 1939, from Mr Peter Bomford, to whom I owe all later terms from the College.)

fug, v. To remain in a stuffy room: Shrewsbury School: from ca. 1888. Ex prec. Cf. froust, n., 2, and froust, v.

fug boots. Sheepskin boots, with wool-side inside, shaped like a fisherman's waders, and held up by suspenders from a belt. 'Invented' by Major L.G. Hawker, VC, RFC († 1916), to combat the cold experienced when flying a DH 2 pusher-type fighter aircraft: RNAS and RFC: WW1. (Mrs Barbara Huston.) Cf. fug pants.

fug box. 'A saloon car: motorcyclists' derogatory' (Dunford): since (?) ca. 1930.

fug-footer. An informal game played with a small ball: Harrovians': from ca. 1880. Lunn.

fug out. To clean or tidy (a room): Rugby School: since ca. 1880. To take the fug out of it: see fug, n., 1.

fug pants. Thick winter underwear: RN: since ca. 1925, or perhaps earlier—cf. fug boots. Granville.

fug shop, the. The carpenter's shop at Charterhouse:—1900 (A.H. Tod).

fug trap. A ventilator above a study door: Marlborough College: since ca. 1870. See fug, n., 1.

fugel. See fugle.

fugger. A waste-paper basket: Tonbridge: late C.19–20. (Marples.) Smell, musty.

fuggy, n. A hot roll: schoolboys': from ca. 1860. (H., 3rd ed.)? etym.

fuggy, adj. Stuffy: orig. (—1888) schoolboys'; from ca. 1910, coll. Perhaps a direct adoption of Scottish fuggy, foggy. F. & H.; OED Sup.—2. Soft, effeminate: 'prep' schools': C.20. Ex sense 1. E.F. Benson, David Blaize, 1916.

fugle, fugel, v.i. To cheat, trick: s. or dial.: C.18–19. D'Urfey. (F. & H.'s definition is wide of the mark: perhaps the wish was father to the thought!)

fugleman. The strong-arm man of a gang or of a racket; a petty gangster: Aus. c.: since ca. 1945. (B., 1953.) Perhaps ex the v.; or ex obsolete S.E. fugleman, that soldier from whom the others take their time in drill movements. (R.S.)

fugo. The rectum: C.17–18: low coll. Cotgrave, D'Urfey. Führer's boys, the. The German armed forces: RN officers': WW2.

Fujijama. Telegraphese for 'Fuck (or, more politely, flip) U Jack I am all right': C.20. Spike Mays, No More Soldiering for Me, 1971, writing of the late 1930s Post Office. See fuck you, Jack. (P.B.)

fulham, fullam. A loaded die: practically never in singular. Mid-C.16–early 19: low; in C.17, perhaps c. (Nashe, Shakespeare, Jonson, Butler, B.E., Grose, Scott.) Fulham in S-W London was either a main manufactory or a notorious resort of sharpers. (A high fulham was marked 4, 5, or 6; a low, below 4.)

Fulham virgin. A loose woman: coll.: C.19–20; ob. by 1905, † by 1927. Cf.—for same reason—Bankside lady and Covent Garden nun, qq.v.

fulk. 'To use an unfair motion of the hand in playing at taw [marbles]' (Grose, 3rd ed.): schoolboys', mid-C.18–early 19. Prob. ex dial., like so much other schoolboy s.; certainly it is extant in dial.

fulke. To have sexual intercourse (mainly v.i.): ca. 1820–1900: low pedantic. Ex the first and last words of Byron's Don Juan.

fulker. A pawnbroker: coll.: mid-C.16–17. Gascoigne, 1566, 'The Fulker will not lend you a farthing upon it.' Ex Ger. (cf. fogger, q.v.).

full. Having eaten, occ. drunk, to repletion: low coll. since ca. 1830; earlier, S.E. OED.—2. Tipsy: coll.: from ca. 1850.—3. Having already sufficient money laid against a particular horse: bookmakers': from ca. 1880.—4. See full up.—5. Full of drugs' (Home Office): addicts': 1970s.

full against. Very inimical to: gen. coll. from ca. 1870, ex earlier racing j. (see prec., 3).

full as, (as). Some synonyms for drunk: as full as a boot (Aus.: since ca. 1925. D'Arcy Niland, The Shiralee, 1955); ... a bull (NZ: C.20. Slatter); ... an egg (Aus.: since ca. 1925); ... a fiddler's fart (Aus.: 1950s. Jack Slater); ... a goat (Brit. taverns': C.18–19. Ware considers goat to be a corruption of goitre); ... a goog (Aus.: since ca. 1925. Baker. Goog=egg); ... a tick (Aus. and Brit.: since ca. 1890. James Joyce, Ulysses, 1922). Replete with food (and usu. drink as well): as full as an egg. (Brit.: coll. rather than s.: C.20.); ... as a tick (coll., mid-C.17–20; after ca. 1850, mainly dial.); ... a tun(ne) (coll.: ca. 1500–1660. Heywood the proverbist, cited by Apperson).

full bang. Esp. go ..., (to go) at full speed or as quickly as possible: coll.:—1923 (Manchon).

full belly. One who ensures that his belly be full: C.17 coll.

full belt, at. At full volume or speed: coll.: since ca. 1960. Cf. full bore and bottle.

full blast, at or in. Very active; highly successful; (hard) at work: coll.:—1859. Orig. North Country and ex the engine-room, esp. furnaces. P.B.: in later C.20, of, e.g., broadcasting equipment, usu. at full blast, or simply going full blast. Cf. full bottle, at.

full bob. Suddenly; in unexpected collision: C.17–18 coll. Marvell, 'The page and you meet full bob.'

full bore. At full speed: RAF coll.: since ca. 1925. Jackson, 'Thus, "I went after him full bore"'; Brickhill & Norton, Escape to Danger, 1946 (passim). Ex motoring coll. (dating from ca. 1918).

full bottle. Expert; of reliable authority: Aus. coll.: since ca. 1950. 'He's a full bottle on the neddies.' (Mrs Camilla Raab.)—2. In at full bottle, at full volume or speed: Cockneys': since ca. 1950. 'Screeching away at full bottle' (Red Daniells, 'Addio, Dublin, There'll Always be a Wosname', in Brit. Jnl. of Photography, 8 July 1977).

full-bottomed, -breched, -pooped. Having a broad behind: coll.: C.19–20; ob., if not †, by 1980. The first and third orig. nautical.

full chat, at. At full speed: racing motorists': since ca. 1950. In, e.g., the novels of Douglas Rutherford.

full colonel. A colonel, or that rank, as opp. to 'half-colonel' (= lieutenant-colonel): army: later C.20. On analogy with full corporal, as opp. to lance-corporal. (P.B.)

full con. Flattery; insincere compliment: military: from ca. 1908. (F. & G.) Cf. S.E. confidence man.

full dig, (in). (On) full pay: lower classes': ca. 1860–1910. B. & L.

full distance. See go the full distance.

full due, for a. For ever, or at least, as permanently as anything Service life will allow: RN: late C.19–20. 'Taffrail', The Sub, 1917; Granville.

full feather, in. See feather.

full fig, in. See fig.—2. Adj. and adv., priapistic: low:—1893; ob. by 1930.

full-fledged. Ripe for the sexual act (of a girl): low coll.: C.19–20.

full frame, have a. To have obtained regular employment after being a temporary hand: printers': from ca. 1860. B. & L.

full guts. A large-bellied person: C.19–20. low coll. Adj., full-gutted.

full hand, a. Syphilis and gonorrhoea simultaneously: Aus.: C.20 B., 1942.—2. A life sentence: low Aus.: since ca. 1920. Kylie Tennant, The Joyful Condemned, 1953.

full house. A busy time: coll.: from ca. 1925. (Richard Blaker, Night-Shift, 1934, 'Sunday nights were, perhaps, the fullest house.') Ex full house notices at places of indoor entertainment.—2. A mixed grill (dish): RN: since ca. 1930. Granville.—3. 'A double dose of V.D., syphilis and gonorrhoea together: Merchant (and, I think, Royal) Navy: since ca. 1930' (Peppitt)—if not a decade, even a generation, earlier, and usage not confined to mariners. Cf. full hand. Of senses 2 and 3, Peppitt remarks, 1976, 'A general RN and MN term for a complete set of anything [either] particularly pleasant or particularly unpleasant.'—4. To sense 3, Powis adds: 'To have more than one form of body infestation with parasites, e.g., both head and body lice': low: later C.20.

full in the belly. Pregnant. Occ. abbr. to full of it. C.19–20, low coll.

full in the hocks or pasterns. Thick-ankled: coll., orig. stable s.: C.19–20.

full in the waistcoat. Large-bellied: coll.: C.19–20. Cf. full guts.

full jerry. To understand completely—in every detail and implication: Aus. and NZ low: C.20. (B., 1942.) See jerry, v., 1.

full march by [e.g.] the crown-office, the Scotch Greys are in. The lice are crawling down his (e.g.) head: a low c.p. of ca. 1810–30. Lex. Bal.

full moon. Bare or displayed buttocks: raffish: C.20. (F. Leech, 1972.)

full mouth. A chatterer: coll.: late C.16–17. Greene.—2. (Occ. hyphenated.) An eight-tooth sheep: Aus. rural coll.: C.20. B., 1959.

full of. Sick and tired of: Aus.:—1898; ob. by 1915, † by 1930. (Morris.) Cf. full on and full up, 2.—2. Covered with; e.g. full of mud: S. African coll.:—1913. Pettman, 'It is an imitation of the Dutch idiom.'

full of beans. Vigorous; energetic; in high spirits: from ca. 1870 (H., 5th ed.) Cf. beany, synon. but, by mid-C.20, †, whereas full of beans is still going strong, 1983.

full of 'em. Lousy; full of fleas, nits: low coll.: C.19–20.

full of emptiness. Empty: joc. coll.: late C.18–20. Grose, 2nd ed.

full of fuck and half starved. (Often prec., occ. followed, by like a straw-yard bull.) A friendly reply to 'How goes it?' Low c.p., from ca. 1870; ob.

full of gifts as a brazen horse of farts (, as). Miserly; mean with money: low coll.: late C.18—late 19. (Grose, 2nd ed.) Cf. costive.

full of guts. Vigorous; courageous; (pictures, books, plays, etc.) excellently inspired: coll. from ca. 1885. See guts.

full of it. See full in the belly.—2. Much impressed by any event or subject already mentioned: coll.:—1887 (Baumann).

full of (one)self. Conceited; somewhat ludicrously arrogant: C.19–20 coll. Ex the C.18–19 proverb, He's so full of himself that he is quite empty.

full of money as a toad is of feathers (, as). Penniless: coll.: ca. 1785–1900. Grose, 2nd ed.; Baumann.

full of piss and vinegar. Robust in health, and full of energy: low Canadian: C.20. In Can., as in US, vinegar has a sexual connotation.

full on. More than ready; eager: coll.: from ca. 1860.—2. A bookmaker that is 'full on' a horse is one who has so many bets placed on that horse that he risks losing much money to the betters. All the Year Round, 13 June 1868.—13. Sated with, weary of, disgusted with: Aus.: ca. 1890–1915. Cf. full of and full up.

full on for it or for one. Ready and extremely willing: gen. of an indelicate connotation: coll.; from ca. 1860.

full pack; full pack up. See Christmas-tree order.

full-pooped. See full-bottomed.

full private. An ordinary Tommy, the lowest rank there is: army joc.: since ca. 1910. By analogy with full, as app. to *lance-, corporal—*or even full colonel. As with the other ranks the full is redundant.

full quid. Having all one's faculties: Aus.: since ca. 1920 until change to decimal currency. B., 1959, adds: 'A person . . . ten bob in the quid or any smaller sum down to tuppence in the quid, is held to be stupid.' Also, since ca. 1925, NZ, esp. in 'He's not the full quid', mentally defective. (Harold Griffiths.)

full sail. Whiskers and beard, the 'full set': RN: C.20. Evening News (London), 25 Feb. 1936.

full stop. A c.p. used to express end of incident, condition, statement: since ca. 1960. Prompted by period!, q.v. (L.A., 1976.) Cf.:-

full stop – end of story. That is the (perhaps unexpected) end: coll.: since ca. 1965. As in 'So he bunged in an application to marry this Chinese girl, and they shoved him on the next plane out [away from her]. Full stop—end of story!' (P.B.) An intensification of prec.

full suit of mourning, have or wear a. To have two black eyes: half-mourning, one black eye. Pugilistic: from ca. 1870; ob. by 1930.

full swing, in. Very or full active or engaged; highly successful: coll.:—1861. In the swing is C.18–20; full swing is C.16–18. See swing.—2. Hence, actively making love: raffish: late C.19–20. (L.A.) full to the bung. Exceedingly drunk: low coll.: from ca. 1850. Cf. bung-eyed.

full to the guards. Dead drunk: nautical: C.20. (W. McFee, North of Suez, 1930.) Ex nautical j.: lit., full to the top of a vessel.

full togs. Full dress, esp. of uniform: RN: C.19. W.N. Glascock's Naval Sketch Book, 2nd series, 1834, at I, 229, 'Sam. Our captains also appeared in full uniform. . . . Ned. The skippers seldom wear full togs for nothing.' (Moe.)

full up. Quite full; full: coll.: C.19–20. Whence perhaps:—2. (Constructed with of) stated; weary; disgusted: Aus. and, later, NZ, from ca. 1890. (Rolf Boldrewood, The Miner's Right.) Variants full (if followed by of), full on (with object.) Cf. fed up (with), q.v., the English counterpart.—3. Dead: taxi-drivers':—1935. Ex taxi-driving.

fullam. See fulham.

Fuller's, a. A vaudeville show: NZ coll.: ca. 1910–30. (Ruth Park, Pink Flannel, 1955.) See next, 2.

fuller's earth. Gin: ca. 1815–50. Real Life in London, 1821.—2. As F–E–, New Zealand: theatrical and cinematic: from ca. 1912. Punning on the Fuller brothers, who, ca. 1910–30, owned a great number of NZ theatres and cinemas. Daily Telegraph, 23 July 1934. See prec.

fullied, be. To be committed for trial: c.: from ca. 1855. (H., 2nd ed.) Ex fully committed.

fullies. Women's drawers that are very full: feminine coll.: from 1933. See quo'n at neathie-set.

fulness enough in the sleeve-top, there's not. A derisive reply to a threat; it implies lack of muscle: tailors': ca. 1870–1920.

fumble, v.t., i., and absolute. To caress a woman sexually: coll.: C.16–20; ob. Dunbar, Shebbeare, Goldsmith. (OED).

fumble-fisted. Clumsy: nautical coll.: from ca. 1860. Smyth.

fumbler. An impotent man, gen. old; an unperforming or inadequate husband: mid-C.17–19 coll. One of D'Urfe's titles is The Old Fumbler. Ex fumble, q.v.—2. The adj. fumbling, sexually impotent, C.16–19, seems to have always been S.E.

fumbler's hall. The place where such [i.e. fumlbers] are to be put for their non-performance' (B.E.): late C.17–18: coll.—2. The female pudend: late C.18–19. For free of fumbler's hall, see free of . . . Cf. the dial. fumbler's feast mentioned by Southey in 1818.

[fumbles. Gloves: c.: mid-C.19–20. (B. & L.) A suspect term: almost certainly an error for famblers.]

Fuming Freddie. Fiumefreddo, a Sicilian township, a Calabrian village: army in Sicily and Italy: 1943–5.

fumtu. Fouled, Frigged or Fucked up more than usual: army: 1940–5. Cf. tabu, snafu, etc. P-G-R.

fun, n. The breach or the behind: late C.17—early 19. (B.E.) Prob. abbr. fundament.—2. A cheat, a trick: late C.17—early 19. (B.E.) Both senses were orig. c. ?ex funny: certainly funny business is cognate, while US phony business is from another radical.—3. Difficult work; exciting and/or dangerous events. An early example of this sense is in an article, 'English Smugglers', in the London Magazine, Aug. 1822 (Moe). It was much used in WW1, from early Somme days (July 1916), with usu. bitter irony (OED); and, mostly as having fun, (a being engaged in) a raid, an attack: army officers': 1941+.—4. In do, or gen., have a bit of fun: to obtain or to grant, or enjoy together, the sexual favour: low coll.: from ca. 1850. However, to have been making fun was merely later C.19 coll. for 'tipsy'.—5. See like fun; poke fun at; great fun.

fun, v.t. Cheat, trick, outwit; with (out) of, deprive illicitly, dishonestly of: late C.17—early 19: orig. if not always c. Now dial., ob. (B.E.; Grose.) Hence (cf. n., 2), put the fun (up)on: to cheat, etc.: id. B.E.

fun, adj. Amusing; interesting; of anything that would be fun to do, or see, or wear, etc., e.g. 'a fun dress', 'having a fun time': coll.: since ca. 1975. ?Ex US. (P.B.)

fun and frolics. Testicles. See flowers and . . .

fun and games. A (very) agreeable time: middle-class coll.: since ca. 1921.—2. Hence, 'any sort of brush with the enemy at sea' (P-G-R): RN officers': WW2. Cf. fun, n., 3, q.v.: fun and games is often used in this ironic sense in later C.20. Contrast:—3. Love-making, esp. intercourse: since ca. 1925. A specialisation of sense 1.

Fun City. 'Bletchley, Bucks—a town based on a railway shed and marshalling yard' (McKenna, Glossary, 1970): railway-men's ironic.

fun of Cork, the. A-very 'good time': Aus.: C.20. (B., 1942.) Adopted from Irish immigrants.

function was, in 1915–18, employed by army officers 'in almost any intransitive sense of to make, do act': loose S.E. verging on coll. B.&P. functor, functure. A bracket candlestick made of iron and used for a night-light in college chambers: Winchester College:—1870? ex fulctura.

fundamental features. The posterior: cultured coll.: 1818, Moore: ob. Blackwood's Magazine, 1828, has it in the singular. Punning fundament: cf. fun, n., 1, and the joc. use of fundamentally.

funds. Finances; supply of (esp. ready) money: coll.: 1728 (SOD): in C.18 and C.20, S.E.; in C.19, coll. Esp. be in funds, to have (temporarily) plenty of money. Thackeray.

fundy (or Fundy), n. and adj. A Fundamentalist, a believer in the literal truth of the Bible; the adj. therefrom: used by several of the other intolerant sects that form the Christian church: C.20. (P.B.)

funeral, it's (or that's) his, my, your, etc., or negatively. It's his (not his, etc.) business, affair, concern, duty: orig., negative only and US (1854), anglicised, mainly in the affirmative form, ca. 1880.

Funf (pron. foof) speaking!, or, orig. and better, this is Funf speaking! An immensely popular c.p., first heard in the second programme, of 'Itma', the Tommy Handley radio comedy series, 26 Sep. 1939; ob. by ca. 1950. Funf was an ineffective, comic spy, 'the embodiment of all the nation's spy-neuroses', and uttered his c.p. in a curious and sinister voice, 'actually obtained by Jack Train speaking into a tumbler' (Francis Worsley, Itma, 1948). See esp. DCpp.

fungus. And old man (cf. S.E. fossil and † S.E. fung): ? coll.: ca. 1820–90.

fungus(-)features. 'A man with a heavy beard' (F. Leech, 1972): since ca. 1950. Cf. features.

funk. Tobacco smoke; tobacco; a strong stink: resp. late and early C.17–early 18 c. B.E.; Ned Ward, 1703 (2nd nuance).—2. (A state of) fear, great nervousness, cowardice: orig. at Oxford, 1743, in to be in a funk. Often prec. by curled (Grose), mortal, awful, blue (q.v.), or, in C.19–20, bloody.—3. Among schoolboys, a coward: from ca. 1860. (Anstey, Vice Versa, 1882.) The 2nd and 3rd senses derive ex the 1st (itself prob. ex Flemish fonck), as appears from the v.—4. With derivative adj. funky; the same as funky music, 'having an earthy, unsophisticated style and feeling; esp., having the style and feeling of the blues, a melancholy kind of song and music (of American Negro origin): the n., at first among Negro jazz musicians mid-1950s; adopted in Britain ca. 1960. The adj., since ca. 1958 in US and since early 1960s in Britain, yet not at all gen. until 1964. (Beatles; Paul Janssen, 1976; W. & F.) 'The first time I saw [the 'Talking Heads'] was ... in November of 1977 ... They were making sounds that were tuneful ... The music was—I had to reach back three or four years to find the correct usage—it was ... by Christ! It was funky!' (Giovanni Dadomo, Time Out, 7 Dec. 1979).

funk, v. To smoke; figuratively, to smoke or stink through fear' (Grose, 1st ed.). The stink sense occurs in 1708; that of smoking a pipe, five years earlier, and that of blowing smoke upon a person, four years earlier still. As v.i., to stink, the word survives notably among market traders, as in M.T., 'He funks' and 'The Ken [house] did funk'.—2. As 'to fear', the v.i. is recorded for 1737, the v.t., fear, be afraid of, not until a century later, and that of shirk, fight shy of, not until 1857, while the † sense, terrify, occurs in 1819 (e.g. in Mayhew, 1858).—3. With sense I, connect 'to smoke out', at least as early as 1720: D'Urfev, Moncrieff; with sense 2 (v.i.), cf. schoolboys' v.i. funk, unfairly to move the hand forward in playing marbles: from ca. 1810; ob.: cf. fudge, v., 4 (OED and SOD). Perhaps n. and v. are ultimately derivable ex L. fumus, smoke, fumigare, to fumigate or smoke.

Funk Express, the. 'Used during WW2 for the train carrying well-off dodgers from bombed areas to places like Devon and Cornwall' (Petch, 1974). Cf. funk, n., 2. andfunk-hole. Any place of refuge, esp. a dug-out: army: 1900 (OED Suppl.).—2. Hence, a safe job: id.: 1915. F. & G.

funk(-)stick. In gen. coll., a person cowardly or very timorous; in Servicemen's usage, a malingerer, a shirker: early C.20. (A.E.W. Mason; The Dean's Elbow, 1930; Brig.-Gen. Crozier, The Men I Killed, 1937.) Ex funksticks, q.v.

funk the cobbler. To smoke out a schoolmate (gen. with asafoetida): from late C.17; ob. by 1830, † by 1895. (Ned Ward.) See funk, v.

funk 'um. A bag of lavender carried by a beggar more as pretence than as merchandise: c.: C.20. (Michael Harrison, Sprung in Tartarus, 1935.) Ex funk, v., 1; 'um = 'em, them.—2. Hence, any perfume as merchandise: grafters': from ca. 1910. Cheapjack, 1934.—3. Hence, ironically, (or perhaps straight from funk, n., 1), a fart. Often in pl., as in 'Who's made the funkums?' or 'Who's done the funkums?': market-traders': C.20. M.T.

funker. A pipe, cigar, fire; ca. 1800–70. Ex funk, n. and v.—2. A coward: from ca. 1860.—3. Among harlots, 'a girl that shirks her trade in bad weather' (F. & H.): from ca. 1865.—4. In the underworld, a low thief:—1848; ob. Sinks.

funking-room. That room at the Royal College of Surgeons in which, on the last evening of their final examination during the adding of their marks, the students collect to hear the results: medical:—1841: ?†.

funkster. A coward: Winchester College: from ca. 1860. Cf. funker, 2.

funksticks. One who fears the fences (sticks): hunting: 1889. OED.—2. Hence, in S. Africa, any coward: 1897 (Baden Powell; Pettman).

funkum. See funk 'um.

funky. Afraid; timid; very nervous: coll.: from ca. 1837. Reade, 'The remaining Barkingtonians were less funky, and made some fair scores.' Cf. windy, (have the) wind up.—2. Horribly smelly; stinking. Hence n., a smelly man, often elab. to funky Willie. Both: market-traders': C.20. (M.T.) Ex funk, n., 1; see funk, v., 1.—3. Pertaining to funk, or funky music. See funk, n., 4.—4. Hence, alert, 'with it' or 'groovy', fashionable: adopted ex US ca. 1974, mostly by teenagers, addicts, 'drop-outs', et hoc genus omne.

Funky Villas. Fonquevillers, near Hébuterne (in France): army: WW1. F. & G.

funnel. The throat: coll.: C.18–20 ob. Cf. gutter lane.

funnel fever is the demobitis (1945+)—or restlessness—of soldiers overseas: army: perhaps not before 1946. The funnels of the homebound troopship. P.B.: troopships were superseded by aircraft in the late 1950s—but 'plane fever' still continued to afflict Servicemen nearing the end of an overseas tour. Cf. the gate fever of a prisoner nearing the end of his sentence.

funnies, the. 'Armoured vehicles used for purposes which had hitherto been unorthodox' (P-G-R): army: ca. 1942–5.—2. See funny, n., 3.

funnily, funniness, ex funny, adj., q.v., in the corresponding senses: C.19–20.

funniment. A joke, verbal or physical: from ca. 1845 (ob): coll. Suggested by merriment and prob. coined by Albert Smith.—2. The female pudend: low: mid-C.19–20, ob.—3. A tasty dish made up from bits and pieces: Cockneys': C.20. funny, n. A narrow, clinker-built boat for sculls; a racing-skiff: Cambridge and nautical s. > j.: from ca. 1799. (Barham; The Field, 28 Jan. 1882.) 'The origin is probably Japanese fune, a boat. Purchas, 1625, "The funnies or toe-boats came out to meet us"' (E.V. Gatenby, letter, 1938).—2. In filmland, the comic man is called the funny: since ca. 1910. Cameron McCabe, The Face on the Cutting Room Floor, 1937.—3. A comic (magazine or newspaper): Can.: since ca. 1920. (Evening News (London), 9 Jan. 1940.) Us. as the funnies, which in Britain, since ca. 1946, = the comic strips in a newspaper.—4. A joke; a funny story: Aus., since ca. 1950; Brit., since perhaps a little later. Ian Hamilton, The Man with the Brown Paper Face, 1967, "What makes you say that?" "Nothing. Just trying to make a funny."

funny, adj. Strange, odd, queer: coll.: from early C.19.—2. Hence, in late C.19–20 coll.: dishonest.—3. Intoxicated: mid-C.18–20; in late C.19–20, only as a euph. Toldervy, 1756 (OED); Slang.—4. In get or turn funny, to feel—esp. to show that one feels—offended: coll.: C.20. Cf. sense 1, and nasty.—5. See feel funny.

funny as a piece of string (, as). Very humorous, esp. of a situation or an incident: NZ: since ca. 1930. (Harold Griffiths, 1970.) Often ironic.

funny bird. An occ. var. of queer bird: late C.19—earlier 20. Baumann.

funny bit. The pendulum muliebri: low: C.19–20.

funny bone. The extremity—at the elbow—of the humerus, the 'funniness' being caused by the ulnar nerve: coll.: from ca. 1840. (Barham.) Presumably by a pun on humerus, but greatly influenced by funny feeling, i.e. sensitiveness.

funny business. A shady transaction, dubious dealing; monkeying about: s. >, ca. 1930, coll.: from ca. 1890. Ex a clown's funny business. Cf. the US phony business and fun, v., and n., 2.

funny-face. A joc. term of address: coll.: late C.19–20. Cf. face-ache.

funny farm. A mental hospital or institution: since ca. 1970. (R.S.) Cf. loony bin.

funny fellows (or -ers). Policemen, esp. the college-trained ones: London, esp. children's: since ca. 1935. (Mrs C.H. Langford, 1941.) funny for words, too. Extremely funny. See too funny ...

funny-looking article, a. A c.p. applied to an odd-looking person: C.20. Orig., shopkeepers'.

funny man. A circus clown: from ca. 1850. Mayhew, London Labour, III, 129.—2. A private joker: from ca. 1860. Both coll. P.B.: in later C.20 sometimes used sarcastically or contemptuously, by the unamused.

funny(-)money. See mad money, 2.—2. Counterfeit money, esp. notes: since ca. 1960 or a little earlier.—3. Hence, derogatorily, any foreign notes or coins, even Scottish notes, Channel Islands' coinage, etc. Cf. Mickey Mouse money.—4. 'A reference to the theories of the Social Credit Party' (B.P., 1974): Aus.: since ca. 1955.

funny party. 'A warship's minstrel troupe or entertainers of any kind' (Bowen): RN coll.: late C.19–20. ('Taffrail', Pincher Martin, 1916.) Granville points out that the term refers always to the official entertainment, as opp. to the highly unofficial sod's opera, q.v.

funny peculiar or funny ha-ha? A c.p. comment upon, e.g., 'Something funny happened today': since ca. 1924. Aspic-in-amber'd by Ian Hay Beith in Housemaster (Act III), 1938. See DCpp.

funny thing happened on the, my, way to the ..., a, as in John D. Macdonald, One Fearful Yellow Eye, 1966, 'A funny thing happened to me on my way to the hotel room.' Since ca. 1960 and ex the film, A Funny Thing Happened on the Way to the Forum, 1966, itself an elab. of the very much older 'A funny thing happened (when or while) ...'; and 'Funny, peculiar'—not 'Funny, ha ha!' P.B.: prob. much earlier than 1960, and ex the stand-up comedian's standard introduction to an anecdote or 'gag': 'A funny thing happened (to me) on my way to the theatre tonight ...', from which, no doubt, came the Forum var.

funster. A maker of fun: coll.: 1887 (OED); ob. Modelled on and suggested by punster.

funt. A pound sterling (£1): Yiddish word incorporated into Parlyaree: mid-C.19–20. (Lester.) Ex German Pfund. Cf. foont.

fur. The (gen. female) pubic hair: low: C.18–20.—2. In have (one's) fur out, to be very angry: Winchester College: from ca. 1870.—3. See make the fur fly.

fur and feather(s). Game: sportsmen: from ca. 1830; orig. s., then coll., then, in C.20, j. or S.E.

fur trade. Barristers: ca. 1830–80. 'Multiple' journalist Reynolds, 1839.

furbelow. The female pubic hair: a C.17—early 19 pun: cf. fur.

furch. 'Euphemistic' spelling of furk = fuck (Manchon); also used by the novelist John Masters.

furrie, -y. A rumour. See furphy.

Furibox. The aircraft carrier Furious: RN: WW2. Granville. [furioso, a blusterer, though cited by F.&H., is not unconventional but literary.] furious joy. The feu-de-joie of military j.: military: late C.19–20. (F. & G.) By Hobson-Jobson.

furk; also ferk, firk. To expel, drive away; send on a message: Winchester College: from ca. 1850. Variants furk down, f. up. (Also see ETON, §1, in Appendix.)

furk!; furking. Euph. var. (—1923) of fuck (it!) and fucking. Manchon.

furman. An alderman: c.: late C.17—early 19. (B.E.) Ex the fur-lined robes. Cf. lambskin-man, q.v.

fumity-faced. White-faced: coll. and dial.: C.18–19. Fumity, also fromenty or frum(m)ety, is a dish of hulled wheat (L. frumentum) boiled in milk and variously flavoured.

fumity kettle, simper like a. See simper like ...

furnish, n. An embellishing or setting off: coll.: 1896; ob. OED.

furnish, v.i. and t. To fill out; regain strength and (good) appearance: coll.: from ca. 1860. Rarely of persons, gen. of horses. (Henry Kingsley, Ravenhoe.) Orig. stable s.

furniture picture. A picture sold to fill a gap on somebody's wall; a picture painted solely as merchandise: artists':—1889; in C.20, S.E. (B.&L.) Cf. pot-boiler, q.v.

furph. A shortening, since ca. 1925 (B., 1943) of-furphy; incorrectly furphie, furrie or -y. A false report, an absurd story: Aus. military: from early 1915. Ex Furphy, the contractor supplying rubbish-carts to the camps at Melbourne. (C.J. Dennis, 1916; B. & P.) Or perhaps rather ex the tall stories told by Joseph Furphy (1843–1913), the 'Tom Collins' who wrote Such Is Life, 1903.

furphy king. A man, esp. a soldier, making a habit of circulating rumours: Aus. army: 1915–18. F. & G.

furrow, or Cupid's or the one-ended furrow. The pendulum muliebri: low coll.: C.19–20 (ob.). Whence die or fail in the furrow, do a 'dry-bob', q.v., and fall in the furrow, to 'emit'.

furry tail. A non-unionist; a 'rat'—whence the synonym. Esp. a workman accepting less than 'Society', i.e. trade-union, wages: from ca. 1860; ob. Among printers, who, like tailors, have a large s. vocabulary. See Slang at 'Printers and Publishers' and 'Trades'.

furry thing. (Gen. pl.) A rabbit: North Sea fishermen's euph. coll.: C.19–20. For these fishermen, the mere mention of a rabbit brings ill luck. Bowen.

further behind than Walla Walla. 'Delayed, at a disadvantage (from place-name, with implication of remoteness)' (Wilkes): Aus. coll.: C.20.

Fury, the. The warship Furious: RN:—1909 (Ware); †. Cf. Dead Loss and see Furibox.

furze-bush. The female pubic hair, viewed as an entity. Occ. furze, which, however, stresses the hair as hair rather than as a mass. C.19–20 low.

fusby. A woman: contemptuously pej.: coll.: ca. 1719–1880. (D'Urfey; Punch, 29 Nov. 1845: OED.) ? ex fussy influenced by fussock: qq.v. fusilier. Dating from ca. 1860, it is, in the main, an Army term and is now ob.; Crimea, by the way, had > † before the end of WW1. Thus in Richards, writing of the beginning of C.20: 'A good deal of rhyming-slang was used in those days ... Beer was "pig's ear" or "Crimea" or "Fusilier", but if a Welshman went into a pub where a Highland soldier was, of the regiment whose square was once broken by the Mahdi's dervishes in the Sudan, he would sometimes ask for a "pint of 'broken-square'". Then he would have his bellyful of scrapping.—2. Penis: army: C.20; ob. Cf. skin-back fusilier, q.v. (L.A., 1977).—3. In you're a Fusilier, a contemptuous c.p. from one Rifleman to another: army: ca. 1890–1920.—4. See McAlpine Fusilier.

fuss, n. A crowded social gathering: late C.18. See squeeze, n., 6.

fuss-arse. A fussy person: rural coll.: from ca. 1880. Cf.: fuss-box. A post-1910, mostly upper-class var. of prec. and next. (OED Sup.) Cf. US fuss-budget, popularised by Charles Schulz in his 'Peanuts' cartoon-strips (P.B.).

fuss pot, fuss-pot. A very fussy person: coll. (not the upper classes): from ca. 1890.

fuss-up, n. A fuss: Aus. coll.: since ca. 1920. (H. Drake-Brockman, 1938.)

fussock, fussocks; a mere fussocks. 'A Lazy Fat-Ars'd Wench', B.E., who proceeds: 'A Fat Fussocks, a Flusom [? fulsome], Fat, Strapping Woman'. Grose (1st ed.) has 'an old fussock; a frowzy old woman'. Coll. and dial.: late C.17–19; † except as dial. Connected with (to) fossick, q.v., and:

fussock, v. To make much fuss, a noise: low, mostly Cockney:—1923 (Manchon). Imm. ex:

fussocklin, fussicklin. A fuss: Cockney:—1887 (Baumann). —2. Hence, fussy: low, esp. Cockney:—1923 (Manchon).

fussocks, a mere. See fussock.

fussy. (Of a garment) very, or too, elegant:—1923 (Manchon.) Ex S.E. fussy about (clothes).—2. In not fussy, q.v., unenthusiastic.

fussy man, the. A school-attendance officer: urban: from ca. 1925.

fusters! A claim to 'have first go' in game: Cockney school-children's: from ca. 1870.

fustian, n. and adj., bombast(ic), has never, I think, despite F. & H., been other than S.E.—2. Wine; but gen. with white=champagne, red=port, the latter occurring in Ainsworth, 1834. Low: late C.18–19.

fustilarian. A low fellow, scoundrel: coll.: late C.16–17. (Shakespeare.) ? fusty (see also next entry) + suffix -arian as a var. on the later-recorded:-

fustiling(s), (Grose) fusty luggs. 'A Fulsum, Beastly, Nasty Woman' (B.E.): coll.: late C.17–19. (Junius.) Common in C.18–19 dial. as a big coarse person, a dirty slattern, a very untidy child. Cf. prec. Lit., dirty ears or dirty thing.

fut, go. See phut, go.

[futter, coined by Sir Richard Burton, is, despite F. & H., S.E.—indeed literary—rather than unconventional. Ex Fr. foutre, it=to coit with.]

future. See no future...

futures, gen. with deal in: to speculate for a rise or a fall, esp. in cotton: Stock Exchange coll.: from ca. 1880. In C.20, S.E. Baumann.

fuzz, n. Abbr. fuzz-ball, 1, q.v.: coll.: C.17—early 18. Holland's Pliny.—2. The fuzz, the police: adopted, in Can., by late 1950s, and in Brit. by ca. 1964, ex US. Perhaps ex the fuzzy or very hairy faces of old-style policemen; but more prob. from certain furry growths of parasitic mould, e.g., sense 1.

fuzz, v. To make drunk, esp. in p.ppl. passive, which = tipsy. Wood, 1685, 'The university troop dined with the Earl of Abingdon and came back well fuzzed.' Coll.: C.17–18. Whence perhaps to fuddle, q.v. Its own etym. is uncertain: perhaps abbr. S.E. fuzzle, to intoxicate.—2. To shuffle cards meticulously; change the pack: mid-C.18—early 19. (E. Moore in The World, 1753; Grose, 2nd ed.) Prob. ex sense 1. OED.

fuzz-ball. A puff-ball (the fungus Lycoperdon bovista): coll.: late C.16–20. (SOD.) Of such long usage as to be, C.19–20, virtually S.E.—2. (Or written solid.) A fart, as in 'someone's dropped a fuzz-ball'; often in pl, 'Who's made the fuzz-balls?': market-traders': C.20. M.T.

fuzz-chats. People camping on commons in the furze; esp. gipsies, showmen, cheapjacks: c.:—1909 (Ware).

fuzz jar. A police car: motorcyclists': since late 1960s. (Dunford.) Ex fuzz, n., 2, and abbr. jam-jar, rhyming s. = car.

fuzz-spotter. Rear-view mirror: id.: Ibid.

Fuzzgug, Mr or Mrs. John or Jane Doe, the ordinary citizen: Aus.: since ca. 1930. (B.P.) Arbitrary.

fuzziness. A drunken condition; hence incoherence, bewilderment; a temporary dense stupidity: coll.: from ca. 1800; ob. The C.20 prefers muzziness.—2. An intentional blurring: artists' and, later, photographers' s.:—1866; in C.20 j.

fuzzy. Abbr. Fuzzy-Wuzzy, q.v.: military: late C.19–20. Kipling (OED Sup.).

fuzzy. Tipsy: coll.: from ca. 1770.—2. Hence, incoherent, temporarily 'dense', bewildered: coll.: late C.18–20; ob.—3. Rough, e.g. 'a fuzzy cloth'; big, vigorous, e.g. 'a fuzzy wench'; and esp. fluffy (1825): of these three nuances, the first is coll., the second s., the third orig. coll. but soon S.E.—4. Prob. ex sense 1 is the nautical sense: rotten, unsound (of a ship): from ca. 1860. Smyth.

Fuzzy-Wuzzy. A Sudanese tribesman, esp. as a dervish soldier: commemorated by Kipling in 1890 (reprinted in Barrack-Room Ballads, 1892), as 'a pore benighted 'eathen but a first-class fighting man'. Military: late C.19–20, ob. Ex his 'ayrick 'ead of 'air'.—2. A Papuan: Aus: since ca. 1918. Cf.: Fuzzy-Wuzzy Angels. New Guinea men carrying Allied wounded to safety over the Owen Stanley Mountains: mostly Aus.: 1942–5.

-fy is sometimes a joc. coll. or, as in argufy, a sol. suffix: C.19–20. But most such coinings have remained nonce-words.

fy out. To spy out: (low) Cockney:—1887 (Baumann). Ex spy. fyfas, often, erroneously, written ffas; or with capital letters. Fuck Yourself For A Start (or Starter): orig. in a certain British unit, during the latter half of WW2. (Communicated to E.P. by Edmund Wilson, 1967, who got it from Philip Merivale, the actor.) Later it enjoyed more widespread use in the Services, mostly, of course, as a conversational 'opener'.

fylich(e). See filch.

fyist(e). See foist.

G

g'. Good; esp. in g'day, g'morning, g'night as greetings: coll., mostly proletarian: C.19–20, and prob. longer.

G.A.B.A. See Gaba.

g. and d. Guts (courage) and determination: professional tennis-players' coll.: since ca. 1970. L.A. cites The Times, 8 Nov. 1975, 'his stock of "G" and "D" (the trade abbreviation ...)'.

g.b.c. A gold-braid chaser, i.e. a 'Wren' (WRNS) rating who dates only RN officers: since ca. 1950 (Peppitt)—but I think, since early 1940s. Perhaps suggested by GCB, the sailors' Good Conduct Badge, as Peppitt suggests—or by ironic allusion to another interpretation, (Knight of the) Grand Cross of the Bath, as I propose.

G.B.P. The Great British Public: often used ironically: since ca. 1950, or perhaps earlier. Cf. B.P. (P.B.)

G.C.M. [The director] used to call me Stratford [Theatre]'s Head Boy and I was always the GCM, Good Company Man, leading the team out to bat in whatever was in the repertoire that season' (Ian Holm, interviewed by Sheridan Morley, in Guardian, 11 July 1981, p. 7): theatrical: later C.20. (J.B. Mindel.)

G.C.M.G. See C.M.G.

G five. 'A beard cut to resemble that of King George V' (Granville): RN: since very soon after date (1910) of his accession to the throne; by 1950, ob.

G.G., the. The Governor-General: Aus. and NZ coll.: late C.19–20. B., 1941.

G.H.! Stale news!: abbr. George Horne, q.v.

g.i. or G.I. A birthday, a 'beano', apprentice's attaining journeymanhood: tailors': mid-C.19–20. (B. & L.) Not, as is sometimes stated, 'great independence' but 'general indulgence'.—2. An American soldier (not an officer): adopted in 1943 from US. Ex 'general issue' as applied to clothes and equipment. Robert Claiborne, of New York, amends, 1976: 'could be "Government Issue"—but not, as I've seen reputedly proposed, galvanised iron, as in garbage can.'—3. A var. of geographically impossible.

g.i.b. Good in bed. See good-oh, adj.

g.m. A.m.; only of the 'small' hours, e.g. '2 g.m.', 'some time g.m.': joc.:—1923 (Manchon). Perhaps ex 'good morning'.

g.m.t. Good missionary training; e.g., eating unappetising meals cheerfully, as a good preparation for what a missionary might be called upon to stomach 'in heathen lands afar'—or, more politely, among Christians of other cultures: students', at Selly Oak (Birmingham) theological colleges: early 1960s. (Mrs Daphne Beale.) A pun on rather better known Greenwich mean time.

g.o.f. Good old Friday: schoolteachers' c.p.: earlier C.20. Cf. t.G.i.F., the 'Thank God it's Friday', so popular in the 1970s.

g.o.k. God only knows, for a doubtful diagnosis: Can. army doctors': WWI. (Leechman.)

G.O.M., the. This is the nickname form of the Grand Old Man: sobriquet of W.E. Gladstone (1809–98), the great Liberal Statesman and Prime Minister. To his political intimates, Gladstone was known as Mr G.; but Mr G is ineligible.

G.P.; the Street. Great Portland Street, London; esp., the car-mart there: motor-trade s., now (mid-1930s) verging on coll.: from ca. 1928. R. Blaker, Night-Shift, 1934, 'Great Portland Street—"The Street" one and only and unmistakable; "G.P."—the street of perdition.'

G.P.I. Eccentricity; (extreme) folly: medical students': C.20. Ex its lit. sense, General Paralysis of the Insane.

g.p. on, have a. To be much in love with (someone): ca. 1905–40. I.e. grande passion.

g.r.f. Good rough fucking. 'Based on estate agents' g.r.s. (good rough shooting) and applied to any enthusiastic but [maladroit] girl viewed as a sexual partner. First heard in 1942' (R.S., 1973).

G.R. navy. A General Reconnaissance navigator. See navvy, 2.

G.S. Keen; esp., excessively keen: army: WW2+. Ex the 'General Service' so beloved of the army vocabulary, as 'caps, G.S., 1', and even, the GSM[edal].

G.S. hairy. An army draught-horse, esp. in WW1. See hairy, n., 1.

G-string. See PRISONER-OF-WAR SLANG, 13, in Appendix.—2. Frenulum preputii: low: C.20.

g.v. or G.V., the. The 'governor' (q.v.): somewhat joc.:—1923 (Manchon). Ex gov.

g.y. Abbr. galley-yarn, q.v.—2. In all g.y., all on one side or askew; crooked: North Country coll. (? and dial.). From ca. 1860. Cf. all (q.v.) of a hough.

ga-ga. See gaga.

gab, n. The mouth: low coll.: from ca. 1720, orig. Scot. (Gob, q.v., is earlier.) Stop your gab!, be quiet!, is a C.19–early 20 low coll. var. of Scot. steek (shut up) your gob.—2. Hence, talk; idle chatter: coll.: from ca. 1790. Poole, 1811, 'Then hold your gab, and hear what I've got to tell'; Punch, 10 Sep. 1887, 'Gladstone's gab about "masses and classes" is all tommy rot.' Ex the v.—3. Gaberdine: London clothes-dealers': C.20. Mark McShane, The Straight and the Crooked, 1960.

gab, v. To talk fluently, very well; too much: from ca. 1670: (in C.19–20, low) coll. Coles, 1676; Burns, 'gab like Boswell'; Punch, 10 Sep. 1887, 'Gals do like a chap as can gab.' Perhaps abbr. gabble and prob. distinct from S.E. gab, to tell lies, speak mockingly, though Coles's definition ('to prate or lie') hardly supports such distinction. In phrases like blow the gab, q.v., to inform (betray), to chuck the gab, q.v., to 'tell the tale', to flash the (or, one's) gab, to show off in conversation: low:—1819 (Moore); ob. See also gift of the gab.

gab-fest. A long conversation, e.g. an evening of talk (and drink): adopted, ca. 1955, ex US. Ex Ger. Fest, a feast.

gab-string. (Var. gob-string.) A bridle: C.18–early 19 low. Grose, 1st ed.

Gaba. 'We fly over hundreds of miles of bush, scrubby gumtrees, dry paddocks, and salt flats. "That's it, mate," says [the pilot]. "GABA—Great Australian Bugger All"' (Mike Harding, Weekly Guardian, 22 Mar. 1981; J.B. Mindel).

gabby. A prater, ceaseless talker: coll.: from ca. 1790. OED.

gabby. See gaby.

gable, n. A gossip: coll.: C.19.—2. A voluble talker: coll.: C.19–20.—3. Rapid, continuous talk: from ca. 1600: C.17–18 S.E. > pej. coll.

gable, v. Talk rapidly, volubly, inconsequently: late C.16–20; S.E. till ca. 1820, then a decidedly pej. coll. The same applies to gabbling, vbl n.

gable-gabble. A contemptuous var. on gable, n. and v., qq.v. Has var. gibble-gabble.

gable-grinder. A gossiping or voluble talker: coll.: C.19–20; ob.

gabbling. See gabble, v.

gabby, n. Water. Aus.: mid-C.19–20. (B., 1942.) Ex Aboriginal.

gabby, adj. See gaby.

gaberдинe! Excellent! Londoners': since ca. 1918. It is prob. a pun on Fr. très bien!

gaberдинe swine. 'Staff officers in Cairo, so christened by forward troops in the Western Desert' (P-G-R): ca. 1941–3. With a pun on Biblical Gadarene swine.

gabey. See gaby.

gable, gable-end. The head: orig. builders' s.: from ca. 1870; ob. Strangely, the Old High German radical proposed by W. means a head.

gabster. An empty or an eloquent talker: coll.: C.19–20; ob. Cf. gab, n. and v.

gaby, or gabey; occ. gabb(e)y. A fool, dolt; boor: coll.:—1791 (Grose, 3rd ed.). H. Kingsley, 'Don't stand laughing there like a great gaby.' ?ex gape (cf. gape-seed) influenced by baby; it occurs in Lancashire dial. in 1740 (EDD). Gaby is not to be connected with the Scottish adj. gabby, garrulous. Cf. girnigo-gaby, q.v.

gad. An idle or trapesing slattern: low coll.:—1859 (H., 1st ed.) Abbr. gadabout.—2. A shirt: tramps' c.:—1923 (Manchon). Ex Romanly.—3. In (upon) the gad (also senses 4–6), impulsively; suddenly: coll.: C.17–18. Shakespeare. Here, gad = a spike: cf. on the spur of the moment.—4. Hence, on the move; constantly making visits, gossip: coll.: from ca. 1815. Jane Austen.—5. On the spree: low: from ca. 1830.—6. Hence, from ca. 1850, (of women) on the town.—7. As exclam., abbr. of coll. by gad (C.17–20): C.19–20. Cf. egad, bedad. Ex God.

gad the hoof. To go without shoes; hence to walk, roam about: low: from ca. 1845. Cf. pad the hoof, hoof it, qq.v.

gad up and down. To go a-gossiping: late C.17–18 coll. B.E. gad yang. 'A Chinese coasting junk': nautical: late C.19–20. Bowen.

gadabout. A gossip moving from neighbour to neighbour; a housewife too frequently talking to or visiting others; a woman constantly out shopping, visiting, and otherwise enjoying herself: cf. the C.18 proverb, 'gadding gossips shall dine on the pot-lid'. Coll.: from ca. 1837. Also adj.: coll., 1817 (OED). In C.20, both n. and adj. are S.E. It appears, in American usage, in The Port Folio, 2 Mar. 1805 (p. 60, col. 1), thus: 'The pert and flippant gad-a-bouts [sic], whose chief employment is to parade the streets': females. (Moe.)

gadjet; occ. gadjet. A small mechanical contrivance, a tool, a part of a mechanism: nautical coll.: from ca. 1855, though not in print before 1886 (OED Sup.). Prob. ex Fr. gâchette, a piece of mechanism (W.); cf. however, S.E. gasket.—2. Hence, an adjunct; a knick-knack: coll.: from ca. 1914. The OED Sup. records it for 1915.—3. Hence, loosely, any small object: from ca. 1918.—4. the gadjet, 'the trick', the right thing to do: army: 1917 (Manchon); in this sense, † by 1950.

gadgy. A man: c.: from ca. 1910. Of North Country origin.

gadsbud! I.e. God's bud! (the infant Saviour): coll.: late C.17–18. Congreve (Ware).

gadsso. The penis: late C.17–mid-19: low coll. Var. catso. Ex It. cazzo.—2. As an interjection: late C.17–mid-19. Dickens, "'Gadsol!" said the undertaker'. An interesting example of the (politely ob.) phallicism of many oaths and other expletives: cf. and see balls, bugger, cunting, fuck, prick, twat.

gadzoos. A mild expletive: either ex gadsso or a corruption of God's hooks (? hocks, houghs, W.): coll.: late C.17–20; but since ca. 1870, only as deliberate joc. or in 'period pieces'. There are many other gad(s) variations, but these need not be listed.

Gaetically utter. The Scottish accent 'when trying to produce English': Society coll.: ca. 1882–1910. (Ware.) Suggested by too too, q.v.

gaff. A fair: c. of ca. 1750–1845. (The Discoveries of John Poulter, 1753.) Then grafters' s.: Cheapjack, 1934. Also c., at least orig., are the senses:—2. A ring worn by the card-sharpping dealer of the pack: early C.19: ex gaff, a hook.—And 3, a hoax, imposture; stuff and nonsense:—1877: cf. Fr. gaffe, a social blunder.—4. An outcry; cry, 'bellow': low: ca. 1820–50, C.M. Westmacott (OED).—5. Any public place of entertainment: ca. 1810–50: low (or c.).—Hence, 6, a low and cheap music-hall or theatre: low coll.: from ca. 1850. (Mayhew.) Also and often penny-gaff, 1856. Prob. ultimately ex sense 1.—7. Hence, talk, conversation: lower classes':—1923 (Manchon). S.F. Hatton, The Yarn of a Yeoman, 1930, '... when they read out in orders the usual gaff about green flares being sent up for danger ...' may be relevant here—it is describing a cavalry attack in 1915—or it may be a var. of guff, n., 1, or even a fore-runner of guff, n., 3, qq.v.—8. Hence, the mouth: low:—1923 (Ibid.). Cf. gab, 1.—9. In WW1, it was occ. applied to 'any showy minor event [e.g. a trench raid] or affair': military. (F. & G.) Prob. ex sense 6. Cf. the corresponding sense of show.—10. A house that is being 'drummed' (see drum, v., 2): c.: C.20. (David Hume.) Cf.:—11. The place or scene of the crime concerned: c.: C.20. Gilt Kid, 1936.—12. (Prob. ex senses 1–10.) An affair; a criminal enterprise: c.: from ca. 1920. Ibid.—13. Synon. with gaffer, 12. Can. carnival s.: C.20.—14. A concert: army: late C.19–20; by 1950, slightly ob. (Chambers's Journal, July 1949.) Ex senses 5 and 6.—15. A brothel: c. and low s.: since ca. 1920. New Statesman, 10 May 1947.—16. Home: c.: since ca. 1920. 'The most common prison word for a dwelling-place, house, or room. "They did him in his gaff" = they arrested him at home. "He screwed a gaff" = he robbed a house' (Tempest, 1950). Cf. sense 10.—17. A market: market-traders': late C.19–20. (M.T.) Ex the grafters' nuance of sense 1.—18. See blow the gab or gaff, to divulge a secret.

gaff, v.i. To toss for liquor: c. >, ca. 1820, low s.: ca. 1810–80. (Vaux.) Cf. gaffing.—Also, 2, to gamble: same period.—3. To play in a 'gaff' (see n., 6): from ca. 1860; ob.

gaff joint. A game of chance where there is no chance of winning: Can. carnival: C.20.

Gaff Street. Theatreland; more generally, the West End: London taxi-drivers': since ca. 1920. Herbert Hodge, It's Draughty in Front, 1938, where also: 'Before the theatres broke—or, as we say: the "gaffs burst".'

gaff-topsail hat. A silk 'topper': nautical: late C.19–20. Bowen.

gaffer, n. A husband: C.18 coll. or dial.—2. An old man, esp. if a rustic (cf. gammer, q.v.), esp. as a term of address: coll. and dial.: late C.16–20. (Gay, Tennyson.) Both these senses and the next six are ex granser = grandfather.

—3. Simply as term of address = 'my good fellow': coll.: late C.16–20; slightly ob.—4. A master or employer: from ca. 1650; in C.20, dial. Dyche, 1748, 'A familiar word mostly used in the country for master'.—5. Hence, a foreman: navvies': from ca. 1840.—6. 'Mine host' at an inn: low or c.:—1887 (Baumann).—7. Among athletes, a trainer:—1888; ob.—8. The steward of a racecourse: turf: late C.19–20.—9.

A player at toss-penny: ca. 1828–80. (Bee.) Ex gaff, v., 1 or 2. OED.—10. 'A market-master or fair-ground superintendent': grafters: from ca. 1880. (Cheapjack, 1934.) Cf. gaff, n., 1.—11.

The man who runs a gambling game or device: Can. carnival s.: C.20.—12. Hence, the brake with which he stops the wheel, etc., at any desired number: id.—13. (As the gaffer.)

The officer commanding an HM ship: since the 1920s. Cf. sense 4.—14. 'A boy, a young chap' (P.W. Joyce, English ... in Ireland, 1910): Anglo-Irish: mid-C.19–20. Ex senses 2 and 3.—15. 'In the motion picture industry, the foreman electrician. This has long been US and Canadian, but prob. also UK' (Robert Claiborne, 1976). Ex sense 5.

gaffer, v. To have sexual intercourse: C.19 ?ex the v. implied in chavering (sexual intercourse), q.v.: app. a corruption thereof.

gaffing. A way of tossing three coins in a hat to say who is to pay for drinks; only he who calls correctly for all three is exempt from payment: low (? orig. c.): ca. 1828–80. Pierce Egan.—2. Hence, toss-penny; tossing of counters: low coll.:—1859 (H., 1st ed.).

gag, n. Something placed in the mouth to silence or prevent the subject's cries: mid-C.16–20. Perhaps always S.E., but ca. 1660–1800 it may have been c., then low; witness B.E. (at to gag) and Grose.—2. Boiled fat beef; more precisely, the fatty part of boiled beef: Christ's Hospital (School):—1813; but see also ETON, §3, in Appendix. (Lamb.)? Etym. Cf. gag-eater.—3. A joke; invention; hoax; imposition; humbug; false rumour: from ca. 1805: low s. >, ca. 1880, coll.: ob. (Bee; Daily News, 16 May 1885.) Hence, strike the gag, to desist from joking or chaffing. Ex sense 1.—4. Whence, interpolated words, esp. jokes or c.p. comments: theatrical:—1847. Pall Mall Gazette, 5 Mar. 1890, 'Mr. Augustus Harris pointed out that ... actors and singers were continually introducing gag into their business.' In this quot'n and often elsewhere, gag is collective, i.e. gagging, 3. Cf. wheeze. Ex prec. sense, itself perhaps ex sense 1.—5. A criticism in Latin; an analysis of some historical work: Winchester College: from ca. 1850. (Mansfield.) Ex gathering, an alternative name for this exercise.—6. A lie: c.: ca. 1860–1920. (H., 3rd ed.)? ex theatrical gag.—7. An excuse; a 'dodge': C.20, mainly military. Often heard in the Army in WW1. Ex the 'lie' and the theatrical sense.—8. A handbill: sporting: ca. 1810–60. Boxiana, III, 1821.—9. See high gag and low gag.

gag, v. 'To put Iron-pinnis into the Mouths of the Robbed, to hinder them Crying out' (B.E.); in late C.17–early 18, app. c.; in C.19–20, S.E. Ex the victim's gurgle (W.).—2. Hence, to hoax, v.t. and i.: low s. or coll. (? orig. c.): from ca. 1777; † by 1880. Parker, Bee.—3. 'To gird, to nag, (gag at) to scold' (Sessions, Sep. 1837); H., 3rd ed., 1864, records the nuance, 'to take a rise out of (someone)'.—4. To puff: low:—1876 (Hindley, Cheap Jack).—5. Make up words; speak 'gags' (see n., 4), v.i.: theatrical, perhaps orig. low Cockney (see London Labour, III, 149): ? first in 1852 in Dickens's Bleak House, 'The same vocalist gags in the regular business like a man inspired'.—6. As v.t., to fill up or enliven with a gag: 1861. OED.—7. To lay information (v.t. with on): c.:—1891 (OED).—8. V.t., to beg: tramps' c.: C.20. (W.A. Gape, Half a Million Tramps, 1936.) Cf. gag, n., 7.

gag-eater. A Christ's Hospital (School) term of reproach: from ca. 1800; ex gag, n., 2, perhaps by way of gag, v., 1. See also ETON, §3, in Appendix.

gag-master. See gagger, 3.

gag-piece. (Theatrical) a play in which 'gags' are, or can effectively be, freely used:—1864 (H., 3rd ed.).

gaga; incorrectly ga-ga. Evincing senile decay; stupidly dull, fatuous; 'soft', 'dotty'. Kipling used it twice, with the hyphen, in a letter dated 1 Dec. 1917 to Stanley Baldwin, quoted in Lord Birkenhead, Rudyard Kipling, 1978. Adopted ex Fr. s., where, according to a French scholar, it came into use, ca. 1875, in the theatrical world; it is derived ex Fr. s. gâteux, an old man feeble minded and no longer able to control his body, itself ex Standard Fr. gâter, to impair, damage, spoil. It may also have been influenced by the echo of idiotic laughter. Often in the phrase, go gaga.—2. In The Silver Spoon, 1926, Galsworthy uses it for 'strait-laced'.—3. Childish for grandfather: C.20. R.S. cites a Daily Telegraph obituary, 7 Jan. 1974.

gagarino, n. 'A melodrama performed by professional actors, usually of the lower ranks, in which the general outline of the plot is so familiar that it is not necessary to write a concrete play at all, everything being "gagged" impromptu. Before C.20. 'I first encountered this in the Yukon in about 1950. A professional old-time one-man-show man told me he had often played in them as a boy in a strolling group of players in the north of England. His name was Crowhurst or something like that, and he had come to the Yukon to see the land of Robert Service' (Leechman, 1962). Ex gag, n., 4 + comic suffix -arino. Cf.— gagarooos. Barnstormers, who often enlivened (they hoped) the dialogue with gag-filled impromptu dialogue: theatrical: ca. 1860–1930. (Michael Warwick, in the Stage, 3 Oct. 1968.) Cf. prec.

gag. A quart pot: c.: mid-C.15–19. Promptorium Parvulorum (OED), Harman, B.E., Haggart. In C.18, occ. a pint pot (Grose). In C.19 c., occ. a drink, and in C.20, esp. among tramps and Romanies, 'a drink of beer' (Robert M. Dawson). Ex the measure.—2. A pipe (for smoking): mid-C.17–early 19 c. Coles; B.E., Grose, Ainsworth.—3. A chamber-pot: C.18 coll. Var. spelling, gauge.—4. A small quantity of anything: low coll.:—1864 (H., 3rd ed.). Ex senses 1, 2.—5. A greengage plum: lower classes' coll.:—1923 (Manchon).—6. '(As in greengage). Cannabis. (US)' (Home Office): drug addicts': 1970s.—7. A C.18 var. of:— gager. A early form of gorger, 3. C. Hitchin, The Regulator, 1718.

gagger, n. In late C.18–mid-19 c., one of those 'cheats who by sham pretences, and wonderful stories of their sufferings, impose on the credulity of well-meaning people' (Grose, 2nd ed.). Ex gag, v., 2. Cf. rum gagger. Called high and low gagers: also cf. high or low gag, on the, qq.v.—2. Hence, a tramp, esp. one that begs: tramps' c.: mid-C.19–20.—3. An actor or music-hall 'artist'; from late 1840s, esp. one that often employs 'gags' (gag, n., 4): theatrical:—1823 (Egan's Grose). Fortnightly Review, Apr. 1887, 'Robson ... was an inveterate gagger.' Variants: gaggist (rarely), gag-master (occ.), and gagster (fairly often).—4. The under-lip: Perthshire c.: C.19–20; ob. (EDD). Also gegger. Prob. ex † S.E. gag, v.i., to project.

gagger, v. To tell the pitiful tale: tramps' c.:—1932 (F. Jennings, Tramping with Tramps). Ex gagger, 2.

gaggery. A hoaxing kind of wit: ca. 1819–50: coll. Cf. gag, v., 1. OED.—2. The practice of employing 'gags' (n., 4): theatrical: from ca. 1860. Cf.:

gagging. The persuading a stranger that he is an old acquaintance and then 'borrowing' money from him: ca. 1825–80: c.—2. Loitering about for fares: cabmen's: ca. 1850–1910. Mayhew.—3. The frequent employment of 'gags' (n., 4), theatrical:—1883. Also as ppl adj.—4. (Cf. senses 1, 2.) Begging (n.): tramps' c.: C.20 (W.A. Gape). See gag, v., 8.

gagging lark. Unconcealed begging in the streets: c.: C.20. (Gilt Kid, 1936.) A tip silences the beggar's cries.

gaggist. See gagger, 3.

gaggle. A number of aircraft, e.g. 'a gaggle of Jerries': RN: WW2. Ex 'a gaggle of geese'.

gaggle's coach. A hurdle: c. of ca. 1820–60. (Sinks, 1848, Duncombe.) Ex gaggler, a goose. Or is this Kent's mistake, copied by Duncombe, for gaoler's coach (q.v.), also = a hurdle? gagster. See gagger, 3.

Gaiety girl. (Gen. pl.) One of the 'dashing singing and dancing comedians in variety pieces—from their first gaining attention at the Gaiety Theatre': theatrical coll.: from ca. 1890; ob. (Ware.) Cf.:-

Gaiety step. 'A quick, high dancing pas, made popular at the Gaiety Theatre': theatrical coll.: ca. 1888–92. Ware.

gail. A horse: either low or c.: early C.19. E.P. orig. suggested a poss. connection with Romany grei, but R.S. links 'gail', via Yiddish, with Ger. Gaul, a broken-down horse, a nag or old jade.

gain, v. To obtain deviously or questionably: Leeds undergraduates':—1940 (Marples, 2). Cf. win, organise, liberate, etc.

gainst, 'gainst. Except in poetry, a late C.16–20 coll.

gaiters or gaters. Leg shields on a motorcycle: motorcyclists': since ca. 1950. (Dunford.)

gajit. A rare (mainly C.20) spelling of gadget.

gajo. An outsider: Parlyare:—1933 (E. Seago). Ex Romany gaujo, a stranger.

gal. 'Cockney for girl' (J. Wight, Bow Street, 1824). This pron. worked its way up the social ladder, until, by ca. 1840, it > quite upper class. Hence, perhaps derogatorily.—2. A servant-girl: lower-class coll.: from ca. 1850.—3. A sweetheart: low coll.: from ca. 1860. Cf. chap, yellow.—4. A harlot: low coll.:—1851; ob. by 1930. Mayhew, 'Upon the most trivial offence ... the gals are sure to be beaten ... by their "chaps"'.—5. See I'll have your gal!

gal nymph. A housemaid: Winchester College: from ca. 1880; very ob. Short for gallery nymph.

gal-sneaker. 'A man devoted to seduction': London lower classes': ca. 1870–1915. Ware.

galabieh. See tighen (one's) galabieh.

galah. A chap, fellow, 'bird': Aus.: C.20. (H. Drake-Brockman, Hot Gold, 1940; Rats, 1944.) An Australian cockatoo.—2. A simpleton, a fool: Aus.: since ca. 1930. (B., 1953.) It prob. derives 'from the old bush saying, "As mad as a treeful of galahs"' (Jock Marshall & Russell Drysdale, Journey among Men, 1962, fn. on p. 91). A galah is 'a big pink-and-grey cockatoo' (Ibid.). Wilkes notes an app. more common version of the saying, 'mad as a gumtree full of galahs'. galah session. 'An interval on the Flying Doctor radio network when anyone may come on to the air to exchange gossip' (Wilkes): Aus.: since mid-C.20.

galaney. See galeny.

galanty (occ. gallanty or gal(l)antee) show. A shadow pantomime; occ. a magic-lantern show, but of silhouettes only: from ca. 1820. Ob. by 1900, † by 1930. This term, S.E. at origin and in C.20, seems to have been coll. ca. 1850–90. ?ex lt. galanti.

galany. See galeny.

galavant. See gallivant.

galbe. Profile of a violent character, and even applied to any eccentricity of shape above the knees': c.:—1909. Ware derives from Fr. Galbe, the Emperor Galba of 'pronounced profile and terrific nose': but is it not a sense-perversion of Standard Fr. galbe (from It. garbo), bodily contour?

gale fruit. Baked beans: RN: since ca. 1950. They cause farting. (Peppitt.) Only one of several such s. names for baked beans.

gale of wind dose. Very little whisky in much water: nautical: late C.19–20. (Bowen.) Opp. second mate's nip.

galee. Bad language: Anglo-Indian: from ca. 1860. (B. & L.) Ex Hindustani gali.

galen, Galen. An apothecary: coll.: ca. 1870–1910. By way of Galen, jocularly a physician. Ex the great physician of the 2nd century AD.

galeny, galeeny, galan(e)y. A guinea-fowl: coll. or dial.: late C.18–20. Ex L. gallina. Temple Bar, Mar. 1887.—2. In late C.18–early 19, a fowl of any kind: c.

galimauf(e)y, gallimauf(e)y. As a medley, a jumble, and as 'a hodgepodge made up of the remnants and scraps of the larder' (Grose), it is S.E. But as a mistress, it is a late C.16–17 coll. Shakespeare in Merry Wives.—2. In 'love'-making s., the female pudend: C.19. Ex Fr.

galinipper. See gallinipper.

galivant. See gallivant.

gall. Effrontery; impudence: coll.: C.19–20. W.N. Glascock, Sketch-Book (II, 244), 1826 (Moe). Cf. gall is not yet broken, q.v.—2. In on the gall, on the raw, i.e. on a tender spot (lit. or fig.): coll., ?> S.E.: C.14–17. Chaucer, Skelton, Sanderson. gall-burster. '[They] had their rum, viz., two drams per man, issued to them immediately after morning parade, on an empty stomach... The first instalment was termed a "gum tickler"; the second a "gall burster"' (N.W. Bancroft, From Recruit to Staff Sergeant, 1885): Bengal European Artillery: 1840s.

gall is not yet broken, his. A mid-C.18–early 19 c., esp. prison, saying of a man that appears dejected. (Grose, 1st ed.) Ironical on † gall(s), courage.

gall (one's) navel. To grow wanton: coll.: C.18.

Gallant Fiftieth, the. The 50th Foot Regiment, British Army: military, coll. rather than s.: from 1808, ex its gallant share in Vimiera; ob. Cf. Gallants, the.

gallantee (or gallanty) show. See galanty show.

Gallants, the. 'The 9th (Service) Battalion of the Royal West Surrey. A Great War nickname' (F.&G).

gallanty show. See galanty show.

gallavant. See gallivant.

gallersgood. Worthy of the gallows: c.: C.18–early 19. (Ware.) I.e. gallows-good.

442

gallery. A commoner bedroom: Winchester College: C.19. Ex a tradition of galleries in Commoners. Cf. gallery-nymph.—2. A showing of oneself in a ridiculous light: Shrewsbury School: late C.19–20. (Desmond Coke, The Bending of a Twig, 1906.) Cf. play to the gallery.—3. A playing to the gallery: Public Schools': C.20. D. Coke, The School across the Road, 1910.—4. See play the gallery and play to the gallery.

gallery-hit, -play, -shot, etc. See play to the gallery, 2.

gallery-nymph. A housemaid: Winchester College: C.19. Ex gallery, 1, q.v.

galley. A synon. († by 1925) of Bootham School senses of soap, n. and v. (Bootham, 1925.)

galley down-haul. An imaginary fitting, for the further confusion of a youngster for the first time at sea: nautical coll.: mid-C.19–20. (Bowen.) Cf. key of the starboard watch, q.v.

galley down your back. See put a galley..., prepare for a metaphorical caning.

galley-growler or stoker. An idler; malingering: naval: from ca. 1850. (Smyth.) It follows naturally ex galley politician, as in W.N. Glascock, Sailors and Saints (II, 185), 1829: a term app. existing ca. 1790–1850 or so. (Moe.) The galley is, of course, the cook-house. Cf. sea-lawyer, 3. galley packet. A Naval rumour: naval: ca. 1790–1860. W.N. Glascock, Sailors and Saints (I, 190), 1829, 'Unauthenticated rumour; or, as sailors term it, "a galley packet"'. Glascock uses the term earlier, in his Sketch-Book (I, 22), 1825. On I, 19, there is the var. galley-story, but in sense 1 of galley-yarn, q.v. (Moe.)

galley-slang. 'A landsman's attempt at nautical jargon': nautical coll.: late C.19–20. Bowen.

galley-slave. A compositor: printers': late C.17–19. (Moxon.) Ex the oblong tray whereon the type is made up for page or column.—2. A proof-reader: C.20. Mostly, as was, presumably, sense 1, joc.—3. (Usu. in pl.) 'Cockroaches in the Sunday plum-duff; they turn white when cooked, and are not unpalatable' (R.S., 1967): MN: C.20.

galley-stoker. See galley-growler.

galley-wireless. News of destination, etc.: nautical: from ca. 1925. Bowen remarks that it 'reaches the men from the officers by way of the stewards'. Contrast and cf.:

galley-yarn. A lying or hoaxing story; a swindle: nautical (—1874). H., 5th ed.; Henley & Stevenson in Admiral Guinea. Occ. abbr. to g.y. In this sense, ob. by 1910, † by 1930.—2. A rumour, esp. if baseless: late C.19–20 nautical. As a lie, an empty rumour, galley-packet, q.v., is a frequent synonym. Galley-news is of ca. 1880–1900. Cf. cook-house yarn, furphy, shit-house rumour, transport tale, etc. Also g.y.

galleynipper. See gallinipper.

gallied. 'Hurried, vexed, over-fatigued, perhaps like a galley-slave' (Grose): C.18–early 19 coll. More prob. ex dial. gally, to frighten.

galligaskins. S.E. in C.18–17, is in C.18–20 (ob.) a gen. joc. coll. for any loose breeches. (Grose, 3rd ed.) For the etym. of the S.E. word, see esp. W.

gallimauf(e)y. See galimaufrey.

gal(l)inipper, occ. gal(l)eynipper. A large mosquito: West Indians':—1847. Ex US usage (1801). Perhaps one that has a 'gallows' nip or bite: see gallows, adj.

Gallipoli gallop (other ranks'); G. riot (officers'). Dysentery, entailing frequent running to the latines: military: 1915. John Hargrave, The Suvla Bay Landing, 1964.

gallipot. An apothecary: late C.18–20 (ob.) coll. Lit., a pot conveyed in a galley (vessel). (Grose, 1st ed.; Michael Scott; Thackeray in his Book of Snobs.) Cf. bolus.

gallipot baronet. An ennobled physician: Society coll.: ca. 1850–1910. (Ware.) See gallipot.

gallivant, n. 'A nest of whores' (Bee): London low: ca. 1820–40. ?a perversion of galeny, 2, q.v.

gal(l)ivant; occ. gal(l)avant. To gad about with or after, 'do the agreeable' to, one of the other sex: coll.: 1823. (Bee; Dickens.) Perhaps ex the n. (q.v.); perhaps a perversion of gallant (W.).—2. Hence, to gad about, 'trapes'; occ. fuss or bustle about: coll.: from ca. 1825. Miss Braddon, 'His only daughter gallivanting at a theatre'. A humorous var. of (to) gallant, as in Galt's 'The witches... gallanting over field and flood' (W.). The vbl n. is common.

gallon distemper. Delirium tremens; the less serious after-effects of drinking: C.19—early 20: coll. or s. Cf. barrel-fever; hot-coppers.

galoot. See galoot.

gallop. See raise a gallop..., to have an erection.

gallop (one's) antelope or maggot. To masturbate: low; the first Cockneys', C.20, the second, gen., mid-C.19—20, and perhaps prompted by get cockroaches, q.v. at box the Jesuit. Cf. jerk (one's) mutton or gherkin, pull (one's) pu(d)ding or wire. Gallop (one's) antelope occurs in J. Curtis, They Ride by Night, 1938.

galloper. A blood horse; a hunter: ca. 1810—60: low or c. Lex. Bal.—2. An aide-de-camp; an orderly officer: military: from ca. 1870; in C.20, j.

gallopers. An occ. term for a respirator case: RAF: WW2. Cf. goon-bag.

Galloping Gunners, the. A nickname of the Royal Horse Artillery: army: late C.19—20. (Carew.) Cf. the Four-Wheeled Hussars, another of the Regiment's sobriquets.

galloping hoses. The coat of arms on a warrant officer's lower sleeve: RAF: since ca. 1920. H. & P.—2. Hence, the WO himself: since ca. 1930. (Sgt-Pilot F. Rhodes, 1942.) Cf. fighting cats and Tate and Lyle.

galloping irons. Spurs for riding: Can. joc.: since ca. 1930.

galloping knob-rot, (a touch of the). A phallic itch; a phrase often used 'in palliation of attempted alleviation' (a correspondent, 1967, who gave its milieu as RAF in Malta, since ca. 1955. The phrase was, in fact, quite widespread in the army also, over the same period. P.B.) galloping Lockhart. Gen. pl, 'the mobile Field Kitchens' (F. & G.): army: WW1. Cf. Hotel Lockhart, q.v.

gallore. See galore.

gallow-grass. Hemp: mid-C.16—17: s. > coll. I.e. 'halters in the rough' (F. & H.). Cf. neck-weed.

gallows, n. [As = one who deserves hanging; S.E.]—2. (Also spelt galluses, and other variants, gen. in pl.) A pair of braces: low coll., 1730; then mainly US (1806); re-anglicised ca. 1830; in C.19—20, mostly dial. Mayhew; EDD.—3. For a child's best guide to the gallows, see history of the four kings.

gallows, adj. Enormous; 'fine'; an intensive, cf. bloody: late C.18—20, ob. except in dial. Parker, 1789, 'They pattered flash with gallows fun.' Whence:

gallows (occ. gallus), adv. Very; extremely: from late C.18; ob. except in dial. Moe cites The Port Folio, 24 Aug. 1805, quoting an anon. English song, 'Dustman Bill': 'Why, jealous girls, 'tis all my eye, / Besides 'tis gallows silly'.

gallows-apples of, make. To hang; low (?c.): ca. 1825—80. Lytton (OED).

gallows-bird. A corpse on, or from, the gallows: low coll.:—1861; ob. Ex the S.E. sense, one that deserves to be hanged.

[gallows-faced or -looking, like g-clapper, -climber, -minded, -ripe, etc., is S.E.; the same applies to George Eliot's gallowsness.]

gallumph. See galumph.

galloptions. Var. spelling of galoptious.

gallus. A frequent pron. and occ. spelling of gallows, adv.

gally-pot. See gallipot.

gally-swab. A cook's steward: Conway cadets': from ca. 1880. (John Masefield, The Conway, 1933.) Granville uses the correct spelling, gally-swab.

gallyslopes. Breeches: early C.19 c. ?punning galligaskins.

galoot; occ. galoot; rarely ge(e)loot. A man, chap, fellow; gen. a pej., implying stupidity or boorishness or moral toughness: orig. (1866), US, anglicised ca. 1880. Developed from:—2. A young or inexperienced seaman:—1818 (Moe); hence a young marine; ob. by 1900. Marryatt, Jacob Faithful, 1835 (of marines): 'Four greater galoots were never picked up.' Ex:—3. A soldier: low or c.:—1812; † by 1890. (Vaux.) ?ex Dutch gelubt, a eunuch. SOD; W.—4. 'The spree', as in on the gay galoot: low, mostly Cockney:—1892 ('Ballads' Milliken).

galoptious, galuptions; galoptious; or any with -shus. Delicious; delightful; splendid; a gen. superlative: low: from ca. 1855; ob. Judy, 21 Sep. 1887, 'The galopshus sum of 20,000,000 dollars'. A fanciful adj. of the catawampus, scrumpitious type, perhaps via Norwich dial. (H., 1864). See galoptious.

galore; occ. † gallore, gol(l)ore. In abundance: from ca. 1670: coll. till ca. 1890, then S.E.—though far from literary. In C.19, also in galore. Prob. ex Irish go leor, in sufficiency. Ned Ward, Grose, Reade.

galumph (incorrectly gallumph), like other humorous (esp. Lewis Carroll's) blends, looks coll. but certainly isn't. Such blends, if adopted by the public, are, after the first few years, almost inevitably S.E. F. & H. records galumph as an Americanism: not a very shocking mistake, for the Americans adopted it warmly and used it frequently. (For blends, see Slang at the chapter on 'Oddities'.)

galvo. Galvanised iron: Aus.: later C.20. (Wilkes.) By the Cockney > Aus. suffix -o.

gam, n. Pluck; gameness: c.:—1888.—2. With var. gamb, a leg, esp. if bow or otherwise ill-shapen; nearly always in pl: from ca. 1780: c. (G. Parker, 1781; Grose, 2nd ed.) In low US s., only of a girl's legs. It is also, as gamb, the heraldic term for a leg. Ex Northern Fr. gambe or else ex It. gamba, via Lingua Franca. In phrases: flutter a gam, to dance: C.19 c.; with which contrast lift a gam, to fart: c.: mid-C.19—20. Henley.—3. A hammock: training-ship Britannia: late C.19. (Bowen.) Perhaps ex sense 2.—4. Abbr. gamaroosh: C.20; mostly Services', and taken by them world-wide. For instance, I heard a prostitute in Malaya, 1954, on being asked her charge, say, 'I no fuck. I holiday. But, I give you gam for ten bucks'. (P.B.)—5. A sanitary tampon or pad: Aus. girls': since ca. 1950.

gam, v. To have a yarn, esp. with one's opposite number on another ship: nautical: late C.19—20; by 1945 slightly ob. Ex gammon, v., 1.

Gam-better. To humbug, deceive: political: ca. 1879—82. Ex Gambetta (1832—82), that Fr. statesman of Italo-Hebraic origin whose popularity began to wane in 1879. Ware.

gam-case. A stocking: c.: late C.18—mid-19. (G. Parker, 1781.) Ex gam, 2.

gam it. To walk; esp. to 'leg it', run away: C.19 c.

gam on, as in 'He's gammin' on dumb' (he's pretending to be dumb), is a C.20 corruption of gammon, v., 2.

gamahoosh, gamahuche. Variants of gamaroosh. The second was the C.19 predominant form. OED Sup.

gamaliel. A pedant: a cultured coll.: C.19—early 20. Ex the name of several rabbis famous in the first two or three Christian centuries.

gamaroosh, -ruche, n. and, hence, v. (Of women.) (To practise) penilingism: late C.19—20 low. Ex Fr. (? ex Arabic). gambardier, or gambolier (or -eer). A member of the Royal Garrison Artillery: military, resp. coll. and s.: 1915. B. & P.; Mark Severn, The Gambardier, 1930.

gamb(e). See gam, 2.

gamble. Anything, esp. course or procedure, involving risk: coll.: from ca. 1820.—2. An act of gambling: coll.: from late 1870s. OED.—3. Whence on the gamble, engaged on a course or spell of gambling: coll.: from ca. 1880; and go the gamble, to make a bet: sporting: from ca. 1880. B.&L.

gamble on that, you can or may. Certainly! Assuredly!: coll.: from ca. 1870 in England; ex US (1866, Artemus Ward).

gambler. A mid-C.18—early 19 class of sharper: low or c. Whence mod. S.E. gambulous. Of, like to, gambling: Society coll.: coined by Joseph Chamberlain on 29 Apr. 1885, in a speech made at a dinner given by the Eighty Club; ob. by 1930. (Ware.) Ex gambling & hazardous.

gambo. A railway ticket: railwaymen's: ca. 1880–1914.

gamboleer or -ier. See gambardier.

game, n. (Collective for) harlots, esp. at a brothel: c.: late C.17–early 19.—2. A simpleton, a dupe, a 'pigeon'; gen., however, a collective n.: c.: late C.17–early 19. B.E., Grose.—3. The proceeds of a robbery: c. of ca. 1660–90.—4. A 'lark' or source of amusement: coll.: Dickens, 1838 (SOD).—5. Prec. by the, game refers to some occupation and, except among thieves (where it is c.), is to be demarcated as coll.: among thieves it means thieving (1812, Vaux); among sailors, slave-trading (—1860); among C.17–early 18 lovers of sport, cock-fighting; in amorous venery, coition (C.17–20); among harlots, prostitution (C.17–20).—6. As plan, trick or dodge (esp. in pl.), the term—despite F. & H.—is gen. considered to be S.E.: nevertheless, I consider that what is your (his, etc.) game or little game, mid-C.19–20 ('Ducange Anglicus', 1857), is definitely coll.—7. Gameness; courage: pugilistic: ca. 1810–50. Boxiana, I, 1818 (concerning Tom Crib), 'is game or gluttony exhibited in every one of his conquests'.—8. One's work or occupation: mostly Aus.: since ca. 1920. (B.P.) Cf. sense 5.—9. A conventional attitude—what, to the 'drop-outs', is something less than 'true reality': since ca. 1967, orig. in 'the underground'. Burton H. Wolfe, The Hippies, 1968.—10. In it's a game!, it's absurd, or senseless! Services coll. c.p. of 1916–18. 'Applied to the war and to the military machine' (B. & P.). And applied, since WWI, ironically to the grimmer aspects of life generally. (P.B.)—11. In the (great) national indoor game, sexual intercourse: late C.19–20: coll.—12. In on the game, thieving: c.:—1839 (Brandon); ob. by 1939. Cf. game-cove.—13. In on the game, engaged in prostitution: harlots' c.: since mid-C.19. Cf. 5.—14. See stash up.

game, v. To jeer at; pretend to expose; make a game of: c.: late C.17–18. B.E. (N.B. make (+ a) game of is S.E.) game, adj. (Plucky: S.E.—Ready, willing: S.E.—Lame: S.E., says OED; coll., says W.: from ca. 1785.) In c., (of men) knowing, wide-awake; (of women) prone to venery, engaged in harlotry: C.18–20. Cf. game-pullet, q.v.

[game, cock of the, a champion, like game, die, to die resolute, game, play the, to behave like a man and a gentleman, and (the, his, etc.) game is up, all is lost, are all metaphors from sport: and all, despite F. & H., are S.E., though die game may orig. have been coll.]

game as a pebble (, as). 'Courageous, with staying-power (often of horses)' (Wilkes): Aus.: late C.19–early 20. See also pebble.

game as a piss-ant (, as). 'Very brave or angry' (Wilkes): Aus. coll.: since early C.20. By 1975 (Wilkes quotes Richard Beilby, The Brown Land Crying) elliptically, as in "Ho! Real piss-ant, ain't 'e," Bamma jeered. "I like ya, boy. Ya got guts," game as Ned Kelly (, as). Extremely brave; willing to tackle heavy odds: Aus.: late C.19–20. (B., 1942.) Ex the famous bushranger (1854–80), who held out against the police for two years.

game ball, adj. (predicatively). In good health or spirits or form: Anglo-Irish: since ca. 1940.

game cove. An associate of thieves: C.19 c. Ex game; n., 5.

game is not worth the candle, the. Of any activity not worth the cost or the trouble: coll., from ca. 1550; in C.18–20, S.E. Ex the playing of cards.

game publican. A publican dealing in stolen goods or winking at his customers' offences: C.19: c. >, ca. 1830, low.

game pullet. 'A young whore, or forward girl in the way of becoming one' (Grose, 1st ed.): late C.18–19 low (? orig. c.) Cf. game woman.

game sewn up, have the. To be in a position where one cannot lose; to have a monopoly; to be on a 'good thing': mostly Aus.: since ca. 1925. Ex games in which one side can hardly lose. 'Anyone who does not know this one is not an Australian' (B.P.).

444

game ship. A ship whose captain and officers are susceptible to bribes for overlooking thefts from the cargo: nautical: ca. 1830–90.

game woman. A harlot: C.18–19: c. >, ca. 1830, low. Cf. Etherage's 'the game mistress of the town'. See game, n., 5.

gamester. A harlot: C.17 coll.—2. In the sense of wencher, C.17, the term lies on the borderline of coll. and S.E.

gammer, as rustic title, C.16–20 (ob.), is coll. > S.E.; as term of address, = 'my good woman', it is coll. Ex grandmother. Cf. gaffer.

gammocks. Pranks; wild play: s.:—1823; and (in late C.19–20, nothing but) dial. (Bee.) Ex game.

gammon, n. Nonsense, humbug; a ridiculous story; deceitful talk; deceit: low, prob. orig. c.:—1805; in C.20, low coll. Ex the late C.18–19 c. sense, talk, chatter, gen. gammon and patter, q.v. (In C.18–early 19, often spelt gamon.) Parker; Hood, 'Behold yon servant of God and Mammon... Blends Gospel texts with trading gammon.' Perhaps ex C.17 sense, a beggar or seller of gammons of bacon. Cf. Fr. boniment(s).—3. Wholly c.: one who engages the attention of a man to be robbed by a confederate: C.19. Cf. cover. Whence, to give or keep in gammon, to engage a person's attention—the former connotes by mere propinquity, the latter by conversation—while another robs him: c.: C.18–19. Capt. Alex. Smith, 1720; Haggart, 1821.

gammon, v. i. To talk, esp. plausibly:—1789.—2. (V. i. and t.) To pretend: from ca. 1810.—3. Humbug or hoax; tell deceitful or extravagant stories to; deceive merrily or with lies or fibs; flatter shamelessly: from ca. 1810. Likewise in Vaux. All senses orig. low; from ca. 1850, low coll. Hume Nisbet, 1890, 'Oh, don't try to gammon me, you cunning young school-miss.' Cf. bam, cod, flam, kid, pull one's leg, sell, soft-soap, take in.—4. V. i., act as 'cover' to a thief: C.19 (? C.18) c. Ex n., 3. SOD.—5. To cheat (v. i.) at gaming: late C.17–mid-18: c. (B.E.) Prob. the origin of senses 1–3 and of n., 1. Its own etym. is obscure: but cf. game, v., 1. gammon Interjection = nonsense! bosh!: from ca. 1825; low s. >, by 1860, low coll. Michael Scott, 1836, 'Gammon, tell that to the marines.' Ex n., 1, or ex that's all gammon (Vaux, 1812).

gam(m)on and patter. The language of the underworld, esp. of thieves: late C.18–early 19 c. G. Parker, 1781.—2. The commonplace or familiar (hence almost jargonistic) talk of any trade or profession: late C.18–20; ob. c. Grose, 2nd ed.—3. A meeting; a palaver: from ca. 1850: c. See gammon, n., and patter, n.

gammon and spinach. Nonsense; humbug; deceit: low coll.: from ca. 1845; ob. Dickens, 1849, 'What a world of gammon and spinage it is.' An elab. of gammon, n., 1, after gammon and patter. The words gammon and spinage are part of the refrain to the song, "A frog he would a-wooing go" (OED). gammon lushy; gammon queer. To feign tipsiness, illness: c.: C.19. (Vaux.) See lushy.

gammon rasher. A 'smasher' = anything superlative: rhyming s. David Hillman, 1974, notes, "Ennit a gammon rasher!" is used in appreciation of almost anything.

gammon the draper. 'When a man is without a shirt, and is buttoned up close to his neck, to make an appearance of cleanliness, it is termed "gammoning the draper"' (Pierce Egan, Life in London, 1821): ca. 1810–50.

gammon the twelve. To deceive the jury: c.:—1812; ob. Vaux, who shows that in fine twig, cleverly or thoroughly, was often added. See gammon, v., 3.

gammoner. One who talks nonsense or humbug; a specious or ulterior deceiver: ca. 1830–1930. Ex gammon, v., 1.—2. (Cf. gammon, n., 1.) One who covers the action of his thieving confederate: C.19 c. Cf. cover.

gammoning. Vbl n. and ppl. adj. corresponding to gammon, v., in all senses, though rarely in the last—gammoning which was † by 1900, while the other gammonings are extant though slightly ob.

gammoning academy. A reformatory: c.: late C.19–20. F. & H., rev. (at academy). gammy, n. The language of the underworld: C.19: c. ? ex gammon and patter.—2. A lame person (see gammy, adj., 4): late C.19–20.—3. A fool: Aus.: ca. 1890–1910. Hume Nisbet, The Bushranger's Sweetheart, 1892.—4. A raisin: training-ship boys': late C.19–early 20. Goodenough, 1901, said that he couldn't think why; neither can I.

gammy, adj. False, spurious; forged: c.:—1839 (Brandon). As in gammy stuff, spurious, i.e. worthless, medicine; gammy moniker, a forged signature; gammy lour (low(r)), counterfeit money. Perhaps ex gammy, n., 1.—2. Also c., but tramps': mean; hard (of householders): mid-C.18–20. (Bampfylde Moore-Carew.) Opp. bone. Hence gammy vil(l)e or vial, a town in which unlicensed hawking is enthusiastically discouraged by the police.—3. Old; ugly; theatrical: from ca. 1885; ob. ? ex next sense.—4. Halt and maimed: low coll.: from ca. 1870. Gammy leg (EDD), a lame leg; gammy arm, an arm injured permanently or temporarily; gammy-eyed, blind, or sore-eyed. Either a corruption of game=lame or ex gam, n., 2.—5. Hence, 'disabled through injury or pain': (low) coll.: from ca. 1890. OED Sup.—6. Lazy, idle: navvies': ca. 1860–1900. D.W. Barrett, 1880.—7. Of low quality, as in gammy gear, inferior goods: market-traders': late C.19–20. M.T.

gamo or, phonetically, gammo. Var. of gamaroosh: since ca. 1915.

gamon. See gammon, n. and v.

gamp or Gamp. A monthly or sick nurse, esp. if disreputable; a midwife: coll.:—1864; ob. by 1930.—Hence, 2, a fussy, gossiping busybody: coll.:—1868. Brewer, quoting the Daily Telegraph, 'Mr. Gathorne Hardy is to look after the Gamps and Harrises of the Strand.' Ex Mrs Sarah Gamp in Dickens's Martin Chuzzlewit, 1843: as also in next two entries.—3. An umbrella, esp. a large one loosely tied: coll.: 1864. (G.R. Sims.) Also Mrs Gamp (Baumann, 1887). Cf. gammy.—4. The Standard: journalists':—1873; †. Cf. Mrs Harris (another Dickens character: cf. sense 2), the Herald. gamp, adj.; gampish. Bulging, gen. of umbrellas: coll. (1881, 1864); ob.

Gamp is my name and Gamp my natur' is itself a familiar quotation from Dickens, but if another (sur)name is substituted for that of Mrs Gamp, it is a cultured c.p. of late C.19–20. Collinson.

gampy. A low coll. var. (—1887) of gamp, n., 3; ob. Baumann.

gamut, in the. A picture, a detail, etc., in tone with its accompaniments or environment: artists': from ca. 1870; † by 1930.

gan. The mouth; occ. the throat: c.: mid-C.16–early 19. (Harman.) ?ex Scottish gane. Cf. gans, q.v.

gander, n. A married man: coll.: C.17–early 20. Cf. gander-month.—2. A fop: London (mostly in Society): ca. 1815–40. Ware, 'It is a perversion of Gandin, the Parisian description of fop'.—3. A look through the mail, or over another's shoulder at a letter or a newspaper: Services', esp. (orig.) RAF: since 1941 (H. & P.). In post-war years, e.g., let's have a gander meant 'let's have a look at' anything, not necessarily a document; by analogy with a butcher's or a dekho. The term and phrase are now, 1983, ob. Adopted ex US: cf. Am. rubberneck—the gander is a long-necked bird. (E.P.; P.B.)—4. See what's sauce...

gander, v. Ramble; waddle (like a goose): coll.:—1859 (Kingsley).—2. The v., rare and now, 1983, †, from gander, n., 3.

gander-faced. Silly-faced: proletarian (mostly Cockney) coll.:—1887; †. Baumann.

gander-month or -moon. The month after childbirth, when in C.17–early 19 it was held excusable for the husband to err: coll.; † except in dial. Dekker, 1636 (OED).

gander-mooner. A husband during the 'gander-month': C.17–19. Middleton, 1617.

gander-party. A party of men: opp. hen-party and cf. stag-party. Occ. gander-gang. Coll.: C.19–20, ob. Orig. (—1866), US; anglicised ca. 1880.

gander's wool. Feathers: coll. of the cow-juice type: C.17–20; ob. Breton.

Gandhi's revenge. Matches that, made in India, would, when struck, either ignite explosively or lose their heads: RAF: ca. 1935–48. The Mahatma Gandhi (1869–1948) preached a passive resistance.

gandy dancer. 'A section hand on the railway; the "gandy dance" is the vigorous exercise indulged in when tamping ties—that is tamping ballast under the sleepers with a spade or shovel. US and Can. railwaymen's; 1908 +.' (Leechman.) Ex US c., of unknown origin. Adopted by Brit. railwaymen, mid-C.20 (McKenna).

gandy month. A proletarian form of gander-month.

gang. A troop; a company; an underworld band of men; hence, derog. or joc., any set, clique or circle of acquaintances: prob. orig. low coll.: since C.17. B.E., 1690, defines: 'An ill Knot or Crew of Thieves, Pickpockets or Miscreants'; but it had become slightly more respectable by 1705, in Colley Cibber's The Careless Husband, Act I, LORD MORETON: 'One of my Lord Foppington's gang—the pert coxcomb that's just come to a small estate and a great periwig.' Even in C.20, when used contemptuously of a political party or section, or of a social, commercial, artistic, or journalistic—informal, yet effective—association or group, it has a coll. tinge, as in, e.g., Denis Mackail, Greenery Street, 1925, "'Quite a party?" "Yes; quite a gang."' gang, v.t. from the next entry. L.A. cites Richard Allen, Boot Boys, 1972, where a multiple rape is threatened as revenge on, or punishment of, a girl, by a group of teenage louts: 'We'll... gang her...'

gang-bang or -fuck or -shag. One girl serving many males in succession: the first Brit., the second mostly Can.; first and third Aus.: mostly teenage gangsters' and mentally retarded's: since ca. 1950, 1st and 3rd; 2nd perhaps two or three decades earlier. Gang-bang occurs in New Society, 2 July 1963. Cf. back-up, 1, and pig-party.—2. Powis, 1977, defines gang-bang: 'Depraved sexual orgy between several pairs, or a violent multi-rape of one female; also in a humorous ironic sense of, say, a garden party or a vicarage fete—"a real gang-bang".'

gang up on (someone). (Of a group of people) to make a 'dead set' at (someone), esp. in opposition: coll.: since late 1940s. Chambers' C.20th Dict., 1972 ed.

ganga. See ganja.

ganger. An overseer or foreman of a working gang: coll.: from ca. 1849. It > S.E. ca. 1880. Mayhew; Cornhill Magazine, June, 1884.—2. A member of the press gang: nautical coll.: C.19. Bowen.

gangway. See close aboard of the gangway, risking punishment.

gangway! Make way! Conway cadets': from ca. 1860: c.p. >, by 1900, j. Cf.:

gangway (or gangway, make way) for a naval officer! An army saying in ref. to oneself or another desiring clear passage: esp. popular in WW1, but still to be heard among older soldiers in the early 1970s. Peppiitt notes that by 1940, in both the Royal and the Merchant Navy, it had been pared down to gangway—naval officer! See esp. DCpp., and make way...

ganja, ganga, gunja. Cannabis: orig. Anglo-Indian drug addicts': since ca. 1920. Ex Hindi. By 1970s, the Home Office could ascribe it to West Indians, using the 2nd spelling; Powis uses 1st and 3rd. (P.B.)

gannet. Orig. nautical coll. for a greedy seaman, mid-C.19–20 (Bowen), the term had, by mid-C.20 at latest, spread to the other Services, and from them into occ. gen. usage. (P.B.) Ex the bird of voracious habits.

gans. The lips: c.: late C.17–18. (B.E.) Cf. the differentiation of mum, muns. The EDD notes the Scandinavian dial. gan, a fish-gill. Cf. gan, q.v.

gansi or gansy. A jersey (the garment): either an illit. form, or a joc. deliberate alteration of S.E. guernsey, less frequent than synon. jersey. I'd never heard—or seen—it until Ramsey Spencer, 1977, mentioned that it seems to have been current since, very approx., 1920, and that he had both seen it in a Sunday newspaper and heard it within the preceding month-or-so.

gantline. Incorrect for girtline: nautical: 1882 (OED). Or for gauntlet: nautical:—1887 (Baumann.)

ganymede. (As a sodomist, late C.16–19 literary.) A pot-boy; Hebe's 'opposite number': C.17–20 (ob.) joc. and cultured coll. Ex Ganymede, cup-bearer to Zeus.

gaol. See worse in gaol...

gaol-bait. (usu. jail). A girl under sixteen (the age of consent): Can., adopted ex US ca. 1940; by ca. 1950, known and used in Britain also.

gaol-bird. One who has been often or long in gaol: from ca. 1680. Until ca. 1860, coll. Smollett, 1762, 'He is become a blackguard gaol-bird.'

gaoler's coach. A hurdle: 'traitors being usually conveyed from the gaol, to the place of execution, on a hurdle or sledge' (Grose, 3rd ed.): c. > low: late C.17–early 19. Poss. the orig. of gaggler's coach, q.v. (In B.E. and Grose, 1st ed., as goaler's coach; but A New Canting Dict., 1725, has it correctly.)

gap, n. The female pudend: S.E. only if strictly medical and contextual: C.18–20, low. Robertson of Struan, a 'φ' poet who d. in 1746.—2. Mouth, esp. in stop yer (your) gap!, be quiet: low: late C.19–20. Slang, p. 243.—3. In blow the gap, to inform on, to 'peach': a ca. 1820–90 var. of blow the gaff.

—4. The cleavage between the female breasts: Aus. motor mechanics' and car fanatics': since ca. 1945. Ex the gap of a spark plug.—5. In take the gap, earlier, to leave a party early while the going is good; later to emigrate from Zimbabwe/Rhodesia to S. Africa, esp. after the election which brought Mr Mugabe to power in Mar. 1980. Also gap it. The Listener, 6 Mar. 1980. John Cartwright, of Cape Town, suggests ex a Rugby football term.

gap, v. To make gaps in (wire obstacles): army coll. > j.: WW2. P-G-R.

gap it. See gap, n., 5.

gap-stopper. A whoremonger: mid-C.18–19 low. Grose, 1st ed.—2. The virile member: C.19–20 low. Cf.:

gape. The female pudend; gen. as g. over the garter: C.19–20 low; ob. Cf. gaper.

gape-seed; gapedseed. A cause of astonishment; a marvellous event, extraordinary or unusual sight, etc.: coll.: late C.16–20, ob. Esp. with seek or buy, a vbl phrase is frequent. (Florio, 1598, has the rare gaping seed.) Nashe; B.E.; Grose, 1st ed., 'I am come abroad for a little gapedseed'; C.19–20 dial., be fond of or gather or sow g., or have a little g. Hence also, be looking for gape-seed, to be lazy and inattentive to one's work: C.19 coll., C.20 dial.; ob. A folk-pun on gape.—2. One who stares with open mouth: coll.: from ca. 1880; ob.

gaper, or g. over the garter. The puendum muliebre: C.19–20 low; ob.—2. (gaper.) A very easy catch: cricketers': earlier C.20. P.G. Wodehouse, A Prefect's Uncle, 1903.

gaperies (or G.), the. Gay Paris: London: 1902–ca. 1912. Ware, 'The very last outcome of entertainments ending in "ies"'. Cf. Colinderies, Freakeries, etc. (Gay Paree.)

gapes, the. A fit of yawning; utter boredom: coll.: from ca. 1815. Jane Austen.

gapedseed. See gape-seed.

gapped, ppl adj. Worst; defeated: coll.: ca. 1750–1820. Ex S.E. sense, with the edges notched or cut about.

gar in oaths (begarl, by gar!, gar!) is a corruption of God (cf. gad): late C.16–20. (OED.) Rather Anglo-French than purely English: cf., however, the US pron. of God as Gard.

Gar and Starter, the. The Star and Garter Inn at Richmond: joc. Spoonerism:—1874 (H., 5th ed.).

garbage. Clothes and personal effects: RN:—1909; ob. Ware, 'Probably from the appearance of a box of clothes waiting the wash'—and perhaps suggested by dunnage.—2. 'The goodes gotten' in the 'lifting law' (criminal 'dodge'): c.: late C.16–early 17. Greene, Second Conny-Catching, 1592.

garbage cans. Metal containers for the keeping or despatch of spools or reels of motion pictures: cinematic: since ca. 1955. A scathing ref. to 'rubbish'.

garbage in - garbage out! Computer-men's c.p.: if one programmes rubbish into a computer, then the machine will unfailingly spew out rubbish in return: adopted, ex US, mid-1960s. So well known has the admonition become that it has given rise to the acronym GIGO (pron. with i long). (P.B., 1975.)

Garbo. In do a Garbo, to avoid Press reporters and photographers and other publicity: journalists' and publicity men's, also film-world's: since ca. 1925; ob. In spite of the legend that the beautiful Swedish actress often said 'I want to be alone', as Prof. Hayashi Shuseki of Mukogawa Women's University points out, 1979, 'Garbo, in a film called Grand Hotel (from the play by Vicki Baum), played the part of a famous ballerina. In one scene, when her lover had deserted her, a friend tried to console her, and she said, 'I want to be alone.' That's all. It was just a line in play.' But Greta Garbo did shun publicity, and she did favour a retiring way of life. See also MOVING-PICTURE SLANG, § 10, in Appendix.—2. As garbo. A garbage man, a dustman, a rubbish-collector: Aus.: since ca. 1930. B., 1953.

garden, n. The female pudend: C.16–20. When a euph., S.E.; when used in joc. or amatory ref., without euph. intentions, it is cultured coll. (Occ., garden of Eden, indubitably a euph.—2. A freight yard: Can. railroadmen's:—1931. Ironic.—3. See I beg your garden!; lead up the garden (-path); put (one) in the garden; Garden.

garden, v. See gardening.

Garden, the. Covent Garden Market: greengrocers', fruiterers', gardeners', orchardists': from ca. 1760: coll. (This market moved to Nine Elms in 1974).—2. Covent Garden Theatre: theatrical coll.:—1864 (H., 3rd ed.).—3. Hatton Garden: diamond-merchants':—1890: coll.—4. In to have been sitting in the garden with the gate unlocked, to conceive (esp. a bastard) child: a virtual c.p.: late C.19–early 20. With a pun on garden. The phrase also meant, ca. 1890–1910, to have caught a cold.—5. See Academy.

garden-gate. A magistrate: rhyming s.:—1859 (H., 1st ed.).—2. The puendi labia minima muliebris: low coll.—very rare as a euph.: C.19–20. Cf. garden-hedge.—3. A First Officer: MN occ. rhyming s. (on mate): C.20. Franklyn 2nd.—4. Eight: (mostly underworld) rhyming s.: C.20. Ibid.

garden gates. Rates (and taxes): rhyming s.: C.20. Franklyn, Rhyming.

Garden goddess. A harlot, not necessarily superior: C.19. Cf. C.18 Covent Garden abbess. The Covent Garden district was harlot-ridden in C.17–early 19. Cf.:

Garden-gout. Syphilis; gonorrhœa: C.19 low. Cf. C.18 Covent Garden ague.

garden-hedge. The female pubic hair: C.19–20 low (ob.); rarely a euph.

Garden- or garden-house. A brothel: the garden- form is C.17 coll. > literary; the Garden-, C.18–early 19 low coll. See garden, 2, Garden goddess, and the various Covent Garden entries.

garden-hop. To betray (a confederate): c.: from ca. 1920. (Edgar Wallace, The Missing Million.) By rhyming s. on c. shop.

garden-Latin. Sham or extremely bad Latin: coll.: C.19–20. Cf. apothecaries' and kitchen Latin; bog and dog Latin.

garden lint. 'Herring nets so badly damaged as to be no use for anything else' (D. Butcher, Driftermen, 1979, glossary). Here lint = the meshes of a net (Ibid).

garden-party. Those prisoners who, suffering from phthisis, do their time in the 'open-air' and sleep in special wards: c.:—1932 (T.B.G. Mackenzie in the Fortnightly Review, Mar. 1932).

garden-path. See lead up the garden-path.

garden-rake. A tooth-comb: a low and joc. coll.: from ca. 1870.

garden steerage. Additional rest 'allowed to the bluejacket the morning after he has been busy on a night job': RN: late C.19–20. Bowen.

garden-violet. See violet.

Garden whore. A harlot; a low harlot (cf. Garden goddess): C.19 low.

gardener. The male member: cf. and ex garden: C.19–20; ob.—2. An awkward coachman: coll. (—1859); † by 1918. Ex the gardener's occ. relieving the coachman. Cabbies, wishing to annoy real coachmen, used to shout, 'Get on, gardener' (H.; 1864). Cf. tea-kettle coachman or groom.

gardening. Joc. coll.:—1897 (Lewis).—2. Mine-dropping from aircraft: RAF Bomber Command: 1940–5.—3. 'As in "to go gardening"', to run off the road' (Dunford): motorcyclists': since ca. 1950.

gardie, -y. Phonetic var. of guardie, q.v., an affectionate term for guardian.

gards. 'Post guardship': nautical: C.19. Bowen.

gardy-loo. Take care! Look out! A mid-C.18—early 19 Scottish coll. Ex Fr. gardez [-vous de] l'eau or (via the supposed Fr. gare de l'eau) ex Fr. gare l'eau, i.e. the slops thrown into the street.—2. Hence, the act of so emptying the slops: same period and status.

gargle, n. A drink; drink: orig.—ca. 1859—medical for physic; gen. by 1889. Cf. lotion.—2. Hence, strong drink: 1872, Edward Lear, More Nonsense: 'There was an old man of the Dargle/Who purchased six barrels of Gargle'; extant.—3. In Aus., esp. beer: C.20. (B.P.)

gargle, v.i. To drink; drink a lot, 'celebrate': orig.—?ca. 1880—medical; gen. by 1889. Morning Advertiser, 2 Mar. 1891, 'It's my birthday; let's gargle.'

gargle-factory. A public-house: from ca. 1870. Ex gargle, n., 2.

gargler. Throat: Cockneys': from ca. 1890. Rook, Hooligan Nights, 'There was the little bleeder gettin' black in the face for its night-dress bein' tied too tight round its gargler.' Cf. gargle, liquor.

garlic. See smell garlic, to be suspicious.

garn! 'Get away with you!' Low coll.: from ca. 1875. Ex go on. (Runciman, The Chequers, 1888; Ally Sloper, 19 Mar. 1892.) Occurs in the 'go and...' dismissives, e.g., garn—boil yer 'ead!:—1904 (Leechman). Common—in both senses—around the turn of the century; see esp. Punch's depiction of 'horrid boys', passim.

Garnet, Sir. See Sir Garnet.

garnish, in late C.17–19 occ. garnish money. A fee exacted by gaolers and 'old hands' from a newcomer to prison: late C.16–19: s. until ca. 1790; then coll. >, by 1830, S.E. (Greene, B.E.) Abolished by George IV.—2. Among workmen, mid-C.18–19, an 'entrance fee'—wholly informal: s. > coll. > S.E. (Goldsmith.) Occ. maiden-garnish. Not quite † in Northern—mainly Yorkshire—dial.—3. In C.18–19 c., fetters, handcuffs. But, as the OED points out, this may well be a ghost-word due to a misapprehension by Johnson, copied by F. & H. Cf.:

garnish, v. To fit with fetters; handcuff: c.:—1755; † by 1900. Ex garnish, n., 1. But see garnish, n., last sense.

garotte. See garrotte.

garret. The head: from ca. 1785. (Grose, 2nd ed., who also gives upper storey, q.v.) Cf. also cock-loft. See garret empty.—2. Hence the mouth: low: C.19. Ware.—3. The fob-pocket: c.: C.19. Vaux, 1812: H., 1859.—4. Hence, a woman's handbag: late C.19–20. (H.P. Mann, 1972.) Cf. smells like a whore's garret, q.v.—5. 'A consultation of the members of a shop in relation to some trade, or social difficulty': hatters': C.19–20; ob. (Ware.) Cf. a printers' chapel.

garret-election. A ludicrous, low popular ceremony practised at Wandsworth, London, when a new parliament opens, the 'voting'-qualification being open-air coition in or near Garret, a mean hamlet: C.18—early 19. Coll.: or perhaps rather a legitimate folk-lore term. See Grose, 1785.

garret empty or unfurnished, have (one's or) the. To have no brains; be a fool, somewhat crazy: from ca. 1790. Cf. Kentish (be) not rightly garreted.

garret-master. A cabinet-maker that, working on his own account, sells direct to the dealers: cabinet trade: from ca. 1850: in C.20, S.E. and ob. Mayhew.

garrete(e)x. A thief specialising in entering houses by garret-windows or sky-lights: c.: mid-C.19—early 20. Cf. dancer, dancing-master.—2. A literary hack: from ca. 1730; journalists' s., > gen. coll. ca. 1780, > S.E. ca. 1895: ob. (Bentley, Macaulay.) Ex S.E. sense, one who lives in a garret.

garrison hack. A harlot; a soldier's drab: coll.: from ca. 1850; †, superseded, by mid-C.20, by camp bicycle. Both are 'ridden' by everybody.—2. A woman that habitually flirts, somewhat indiscriminately, with garrison officers: from ca. 1875. Athenæum, 8 Feb. 1890, 'The heroine is a garrison-hack, but the hero is an Australian.'

garrison sports. Washing out quarters: army joc. coll.: late C.19—early 20. F.&G.

gar(x)otte. To cheat with the aid of cards concealed at the back of the neck: card-sharper c.: from ca. 1850.—2. In tip (one) the gar(r)otte, to rob during or after throttling the victim: c.: from ca. 1850; † by 1900. The n. and the v., rob with or by throttling, with their natural derivatives, are S.E. ex the S.E. sense, execution by strangulation; see, however, back-stall, front-stall, and ugly or nasty man. Ex Sp. garrote, a stick: cf. garrot, a surgical tourniquet.

gar(x)otting. Vbl n. corresponding with gar(r)otte, v., above.

garry, gharry. A (gen. light) carriage: Anglo-Indian coll.: from ca. 1800. P.B.: still in use, in early 1960s in the army, for any vehicle, but usu. a lorry. Ex Hindi gari, a cart, a carriage; see Y.&B.

gartern. In in the catching up of a garter, quickly, in a moment: coll.: from ca. 1690; †. OED.—2. In get over her (or the) garter, to take manual liberties with a woman: low coll.: C.19—early 20.

garter-hole or eye-hole. Fillet-hole: bell-ringers' (—1901), resp. s. and coll. Rev. H. Earle Buiwer.

garters. The irons; fetters: nautical:—1769; ob. (Falconer.) Pleasantly semantic.—2. 'The streamers jumped by the lady rider' (Edward Seago, Sons of Sawdust, 1934): circus: late C.19–20.—3. See guts for garters...

Garvies, the. The 94th Regt of Foot, from 1881 to 1922, the 2nd Battalion the Connaught Rangers. The 94th were recruited, in 1823, from the tough but undersized inhabitants of urban Glasgow; garvy is standard Scot. (from ca. 1740) for a sprat. Carew.

gas, n. Empty talk; bombast; baseless boasting or threats: 1847, US; anglicised ca. 1860. 'I've piped off Sabbath gas in my time' (Chamber's Journal, 29 June 1867). Hence, turn off or turn on the gas, to cease or to begin overmuch talk or boasting: from ca. 1880. See also take the gas out of.—2. A jet of gas: coll.: 1872 (SOD).—3. "Gas" is a very Irish term of approval; "Ah, you're gas!" means "You're a great one, you are" in the sense of being amusing and good company' (Honor Tracy, In a Year of Grace, 1975): Anglo-Irish: since ca. 1935. Ex 'laughing gas? Cf. the English:—4. A joke, a jest; a very amusing situation: since ca. 1945. 'That's spy stuff, isn't it? What a gas!' (Nicholas Blake, The Sad Variety, 1964).—5. Petrol. See step on the gas.—6. In give (a person) gas, to scold, or give a thrashing to, that person: ca. 1860–90. See give (one) jessie, by which it was perhaps suggested. H., 2nd ed.—7. In taking the gas, (of a patient) having a pneumothorax treatment: hospital nurses': since ca. 1935. Nursing Mirror, 7 May 1949.—8. In in or out goes the gas!, a c.p. threat 'to put an end to whatever is going on': ca. 1880–1905. B. & L.—9. As the gas (or the Gas), a person representing the Gas Company: coll.: C.20. David Frome, Mr Simpson Finds a Body, 1933.—10. 'Steam—to "gas-up"—to make steam' (McKenna, Glossary, 1970): railwaymen's: C.20.

gas, v. To supply with gas; to light with gas: coll.: from ca. 1885: ob. by 1920; † by 1930. OED.—2. Talk idly or for talking's sake; boast unduly or arrogantly:—1874.—3. The sense, to deceive by such talk, is orig. and mainly US. gas, adj. Wonderful: Aus.: since ca. 1955. (B.P.) Ex n., 3 or 4; see also gasser, 3.

gas and gaiters. Nonsense; mere verbiage, utter redundancy; exaggerated rubbish: latish C.19–20. See all gas and gaiters. Perhaps, in this sense, influenced by gammon and patter or gammon and spinach. See also gate and gaiters.

Gas and Water Socialists, the. The Fabian Society: political: since ca. 1910. Ex their obsession with the social services.

gas-bag. A person of too many words; a boaster: coll.: from ca. 1889. Ex gas, n., 1. Cf. wind-bag and poison gas, qq.v.—2. A balloon, airship: pej. coll.: 1877; slightly ob. by 1930. OED Sup.—3. The cloth bag in which the anti-gas respirator was carried: facetious military: 1916+. (B.&P.) Cf. gas face.

gas-boat. 'A motor fishing vessel in the Grand Banks': nautical: C.20. (Bowen.) Here, gas = gasolene.—2. Any small boat driven by gasoline: Can. coll.: since ca. 1920. (Leechman.)

gas-cape stew. See PRISONER-OF-WAR SLANG, §10, in Appendix.

gas(-)face. Synonym of gas-bag, 3. Services': 1939+. H.&P.

gas man, the. 'Used jocularly in reference to insurance men and canvassers who waste the time of housewives. From the gas-meter reader or collector' (Petch, 1966): c.p.: since 1940s.

gas-meter bandit. 'Ironic term of contempt for a small-time thief. Stealing from gas meters [is] considered a petty crime' (Powis): c. and police s.: since late 1940s. See bandit, 1. gas-pipe. See gaspipe.

Gas-Pipe Cavalry, the. Army Cyclist Battalions: army, esp. the regulars': WW1. (Manchon; Petch.)

gas-pipes. Very tight trousers: Cockneys': ca. 1890–1915. (Ware.) Cf. the later C.20 drainpipes.

gas round, to. Seek information slyly: from ca. 1890: † by 1921. The gen. post-1918 phrase is snoop (a)round, q.v.—2. To chat idly with anyone available: Can.: C.20. (Leechman.)

gaseous. Apt to take offence on insufficient grounds: coll.:—1864; † by 1920. (H., 3rd ed.) Ex the flammability of gas.

gash, n. The mouth: orig. US (1852) and rare in Britain except in joc. form, an awful gash: late C.19–20.—2. The female pudend: C.18–20: low coll.—3. "Is there any gash around?" Are there any willing girls in the vicinity? Early C.20 and current' (Leechman, Apr. 1967). Ex sense 2. P.B.: that is the logical etym., but I have a strong feeling that a more likely derivation is ex:—4. (Often the gash.) Waste food; an over-issue: anything surplus: Services', orig. RN: since ca. 1910; since ca. 1939, also Aus. (B., 1943; H.&P.). See gashion.

gash, adj. From the n., 4: spare; available: Services', orig. RN: since ca. 1915. (Robert Harling, The Steep Atlantick Stream, 1946.) Gash occurs in several, mainly RN, terms, e.g.: gash-boat, a stand-by duty boat; gash-hand, a rating, or other serviceman, temporarily idle; and, in the sense of 'waste, refuse, rubbish', in gash-barge, -bin, -bucket (even a waste-paper basket may be called a 'gash-bucket'), and -shoot, a refuse-shoot. The first two, and last, in Granville; the 3rd in John Winton, We Joined the Navy, 1959, 4th and 5th, P.B. See: gashion. Additional, free; often in pl. as n., 'extra of anything', esp. rations: RN: late C.19—early 20; superseded by the shortened gash, n. and adj. (Bowen; F.&G.; Granville.) Cf. buckshee(s). Prob. ex dial. gaishen (gation), an obstacle in one's way, perhaps via additional.

gashly, adj. Ghastly: sol. when not dial.: C.19–20. In C.17–18, S.E., as in Sterne. Ex gash, ghastly, S.E. in late C.16–18, then Scottish.

gashly, adv. Steadily; esp. in go gashly!: military: C.20. (F. & G.) Ex the Scottish and North Country gashly, shrewdly (EDD).

gaskins. Wide hose or breeches: (in C.18–19, joc.) coll.: C.17—early 19. Johnson, 'An old ludicrous word'. ?abbr. galligaskins, q.v.

gasometer. A voluble talker; a boaster: from ca. 1890; ob. Cf. gas-bag.—2. 'Just before Christmas, 1944, when we had all more or less got used to life accompanied by flying-bombs at intervals, and when the V-2s were no longer being referred to as "gasometers" and we in London were trying to get used to this new and more frightful [than V-1s, see doodlebug] weapon...' (Francis Worsley, ITMA, 1948): mostly Londoners': later half of 1944. Ex the rumours, after the first few rockets had landed, that the gas-mains had exploded, there being no preliminary warning as there had been with the 'buzzbombs'. Cf. flying gas-mains. (P.B.) gasp, n. A dram of spirits: from ca. 1880. Ob. Ex its frequent effect.

gasp, v.i. To drink a dram of spirits: from ca. 1880: †.—2. In may I gasp my last if ..., a proletarian asseveration: coll.: latish C.19—early 20. Baumann.

gasp and grunt. Var. of grumble and grunt, q.v. Franklyn 2nd.

gasper. An inferior cigarette: from ca. 1912: orig. military; popularised during WW1; by 1930, coll. Ex its effect on one's 'wind', i.e. staying powers.—2. Hence, any cigarette: from ca. 1914. ('Taffrail', The Sub, 1917.) Cf. fag.

gaspig. Over-anxious: Glasgow:—1934. Ex excited panting.

gaspipe, occ. gas-pipe. A steamer whose length, instead of five, is nine or ten times that of her beam: nautical: ca. 1880–1910.—2. An inferior or damaged roller: printers': from ca. 1860; ob.—3. A rifle; esp. the Snider. Daily Telegraph, 9 July 1883, 'The old Snider—the ... gas-pipe of our Volunteers—continues to be used in many of the competitions.' Gen.: ca. 1880–1910; specific, ca. 1875–95.

gaspipe-crawler. A tall thin man: gas-works': ca. 1885–1914. (Baumann.) Cf. lamp-post.

gaspirator. A gas-mask: military: 1916 †. (F.&G.) A telescoping of gas-respirator, itself abbr. anti-gas box-respirator.

gassed. Tipsy: orig. military: not, I think, before 1917. (F. & G.) Ex the stupefying effects of gas. A later example is in Patrick Campbell, Come Here Till I Tell You, 1960.

gassed at Mons. A military c.p., of 1916–18, in reply to an enquiry concerning a person's whereabouts. (F. & G.) The retreat from Mons took place in late Aug. 1914; poison-gas was not introduced till much later. Cf. hanging on the wire.

gasser. A tremendous talker; a boaster: from ca. 1888. Gen. with a modifying adj. Cf. gas-bag and gasometer, 1.—2. A cigarette: Aus., esp. Sydney: since ca. 1945. Perhaps a slovening of the synon. gasper.—3. Something wonderful, very exceptional, extraordinarily successful: Can., adopted ex US, early 1950s; by ca. 1955 also Aus. Perhaps ex Am. gasser, a gas-propelled oil-well that needs no pumping. (B.P.) Cf. gas, adj.—4. Hence, something quite breath-taking: adopted by jazz-lovers, ca. 1960, ex US; ob.

gassy, n. A gas-meter: Midlands and Northern: since ca. 1950.

gassy, adj. Full of empty talk or boasts; given to these: 1863. SOD.—2. Very apt to take offence: ?coll.:—1860 (H., 2nd ed.). Cf. gaseous.

gastro. Gastro-enteritis: medical coll. (C.20) > gen. ca. 1940. Throughout the British Commonwealth; it is recorded by, e.g., B., 1953.

gat, gats. A quantity; number, group: schoolboys': C.19. See also the Shrewsbury sense of penal.—2. (gat only) a revolver: Can. (—1914), orig. US. (Ex gatting gun. See Irwin.) Since ca. 1924, thanks to gangster novels and films, the word has > fairly well known in Britain.—3. Hence, a machine-gun: RAF: late 1930s. Jackson.

gate, n. The 'paying' attendance at any outdoor sport or game: from ca. 1888. In C.19, coll.; C.20, S.E. Ex:—2. (Occ. in pl.) money paid for admission thereto: coll.:—1887 (Baumann). Ex gate-money.—3. Prec. by the: Billingsgate, C.18–20 fishmongers'; Newgate (Prison): C.19 c. H., 3rd ed.—4. The mouth: NZ: from ca. 1910; esp. soldiers' in WW1. Also RN lowerdeck: Granville lists Gate as a 'nickname for anyone inclined to loquacity.'—5. A form of greeting. See JAZZ TERMS, in Appendix.—6. (This, and senses 7–9, on the gate) On remand: c.: late C.19–20; ob. Cf. on the fence. Perhaps imm. ex:—7. Forbidden to leave barracks: military: from ca. 1870. F. & G.—8. (Of a prisoner who is) in an observation-cell: c.:—1933 (G. Ingram, Stir, a novel of life in prison). The door is left open.—9. On the danger list at a hospital: lower classes': from ca. 1925. The term may be ex senses 1 or 3; it may be because the names of persons on the danger-list are left with the attendant at the gate; or it may be, *as Robert Claiborne suggests, that dangerously ill persons are felt to be 'on the threshold', close to 'The Pearly Gates'—cf. Kipling's On the Gate, pub'd 1926. P.B.: Muvver states, authoritatively, that this sense of on the gate 'refers to pre-[WW2] arrangements, when visits and enquiries outside a twice-a-weekly routine were allowed only for critical cases and the gatekeeper had a list of them, "On the special" was another term for the same thing.'—10. See go through the gate; garden, 4.

gate, v. To confine wholly or partially to college bounds: university (1831): in C.20, j. or S.E. Anon., The Snobiad, 1835; Bradley ('Cuthbert Bede'), 1853; Hughes, Tom Brown at Oxford, 1861.

gate and gaiters. 'Gunnery instructor, from gate, meaning a loud mouth, and the gaiters worn by instructors and instructed. The phrase means excessive squad drill. Also known as gas and gaiters' (Granville): RN: C.20. The phrase 'originated at Whale Island, the Naval Gunnery School and hot-bed of discipline'. (Ibid.)

gate-bill and gate-money are, despite F.&H., S.E.; but gate-race (—1864) or -meeting (—1881), in the sense of a contest arranged less for the sport than for the money, is sporting s. > coll. H., 3rd ed.

gate-crasher, -crashing. One who attends, attendance at, a private party or entertainment without invitation: coll.: US, anglicised in late 1926. The v., gate-crash, orig. rare, hardly—in Eng., at least—antedates 1930. Ex forcing one's way through a gate to attend an out-door sport.

gate(-)fever. That restlessness which affects long-term prisoners due to be released fairly soon: prisons': since ca. 1920. (Norman.) Home Office, 1978, lists this as current, with synon. gate-happy. Cf. funnel fever and wire-happy, qq.v.

gate-race. See gate-bill.

gate of horn, or of life. The female pudend: the former, low; the latter, gen. euph. and ineligible. C.19–20.

gater. A plunge, headlong, into a 'pot', q.v.: Winchester College. C.19–20.

gaters. 'Leg shields on a motorcycle' (Dunford). Var. of gaiters.

gates. The hour at which one must be in college; the being forbidden to leave college, either at all or, as gen., after a certain hour: university: from ca. 1855. In C.20, j. or S.E. (Bradley, Tales of College Life, 1856; Lang, XXXII Ballades, 1881.) Hence break gates, to return to college after the latest permissible time: id.: from ca. 1860.—2. At Winchester College, ca. 1850–1910, be at Gates= to assemble in Seventh Chamber passage. Mansfield.

gates of Rome. Home: rhyming: C.20. An off-shoot from the ob. Pope of Rome. Franklyn, Rhyming.

gate's shut, e.g. my or his. I'll say no more: Aus. coll., verging on c.p.: since ca. 1920. D'Arcy Niland, Call Me..., 1958, "'No," she insisted. "I want to know."—"No good prodding me. My gate's shut."

Gateshead. 'To get off at Redfern [q.v. at Redfern, 2]... is dull and unoriginal. Since the nineteenth century, natives of Newcastle-upon-Tyne have described the procedure [coitus interruptus] alliteratively as getting out at Gateshead' (TLS, 4 Dec. 1970, quoted by Wilkes). Cf. get off at Hillgate.

Gateway to the South. 'Ironic term for the Balham district of S. London' (Powis). Ex a satirical 'travelogue', a monologue recorded by Peter Sellers ca. 1960, in which, in a mock-American accent, he describes the 'glories' of 'Bal-ham'. (P.B.)

gatey. Suffering from gate-fever, q.v.: convicts' c. and warders' s.: since ca. 1930, or even 1920. (Frank Norman, Encounter, 1959.)

Gath. See mighty in Gath; prevail against Gath; tell it not in Gath!

gather. (Usu. as be gathered) to be arrested. See AUSTRALIAN UNDERWORLD, in Appendix.

gather the taxes. To seek employment at one shop after another: tailors': ca. 1870–1920. Hence, tax-gatherer, a tailor seeking work.

gathering. See gag, n., 5.

gathering of the clans, a or the. Any considerable, or indeed inconsiderable, gathering-together of people, gen. of the same or similar character or pursuit or purpose. From ca. 1890: coll., by 1933 S.E. Ex Scottish warfare of C.16–18.

gathering the mush, n. Potato-picking; tramps' and Romanies': C.20. (Robert M. Dawson.)

gathers, out of. In distress (cf. out at elbows): ?tailors' s. > gen. s. or coll. Ca. 1875–1915.

gations. An occ. spelling of gashions (see gashion).

'gator. An alligator: Aus. coll.: late C.19–20. (Earlier in USA.)—2. (Usu. without the apostrophe.) A crocodile: id. 'X the belief, now fading, that our crocodiles are alligators' (B.P., 1963).

gats. See gat, 1.

gatter. Beer. Frequently shant of gatter, a pot of beer: 1818. ?orig. c.: low s. >, ca. 1860, low coll.; ob. (Maginn in Vi-docq Versified; Punch; 1841; H., 1859.)? etym.: perhaps ex Lingua Franca perhaps ex Lingua Franca aqua + water.

gauch (pron. gowch) out. Usu. gauched, or gauching; the out may be omitted. To fall asleep, or pass out, from weariness or through intoxication: teenagers': early 1980s. (James Williamson, 1982.) Perhaps from the image of the S. American peasant asleep under his tilted sombrero.

gaucho; usually in pl. 'When the Ashkenazim (Jews from North and Central Europe) are discussing the Sephardim (Jews from Spain and Portugal) they sometimes refer to them as the Gauchos' (Julian Franklyn, letter 1946): since ca. 1936. Gaucha, a cowboy of the pampas and a notable horseman, is of mixed Spanish and Indian descent; the Spaniards used to be notable horsemen (caballeros); gaucha prob. derives ex Araucan caucha, 'wanderer' (Webster's); the Sephardim came from Sepharad, credibly identified with Spain (OED).

gaudeamus. A students' feast, a drinking-bout; any merry-making: 1823, Scott (OED): in C.20, S.E. Ex first word (= 'Let us rejoice') of a students' song in festive Latin.

[gaudy, an annual college dinner, hence any merry-making (+), has always, despite F.&H., been S.E.]

gaudy, adj., app. always in negative sentences. Good, esp. with chance or lot; healthy: from ca. 1880; slightly ob. Hawley Smart in his best-known horse-racing novel, From Post to Finish, 1884; Galsworthy, The Silver Spoon, 1926, 'Only got one lung, and that's not very gaudy.' Ex notion of brilliance.—2. See neat but not gaudy...

gaudy, adv. Very: lower classes': C.20. Galsworthy, The White Monkey, 1924, 'Ah! It's a gaudy long wait.' Prob., like ruddy, a euph. for bloody.

gauge. In get the gauge of, to 'size up'; discern a motive, penetrate a character: coll.: from ca. 1870; ob. Ex the S.E. take the gauge of.—2. In that's about the gauge of it, that is a tolerably accurate or equitable description: coll.: ca. 1875–1950.—3. See gage.

gaum. See maum.

Gaw, Gawd are merely written variants of Gor, Gord, representations of mispronunciations of God, either in dial. (mostly Cockney), or used deliberately for joc. effect. In such phrases as, e.g., Gawd forbid (see God forbid) and Gawblim(e)y, usu. represented as gorblim(e)y, q.v. Cf. the entries at cor!...

Gaw (or Gawd) cast me, don't ask me! 'An expression by a racing chap, such as "Gaw-cast-me-don't-ask-me" means blood pressure soaring. It usually denotes a fancied horse has fell over or something—says Danny' (anon. article in Sunday Telegraph, 7 May 1967): a racing c.p.: since the late 1940s.

gaw(-)gaw. A useless seaman: nautical: late C.19–20. (Bowen.) Perhaps ex gawpus, q.v.

Gawd Aggie! An Aus. elab. of the exclam. Gawd!: C.20. (B.P.)

Gawd forgive (him) the prayers (he) said! (He) did curse and swear!: Cockney evasive c.p.: late C.19–20; ob. Ware. Gawd (or cor or Lor(d)) love-a-duck! Elaborations of the exclam. God! The first perhaps mainly Aus. (B.P.), the second and third London and Home Counties proletarian, the third favoured for its alliteration: C.20, ?earlier. Cf. the coarser cor fuck a duck! (P.B.)

gawdelpus. A helpless person; 'a person frequenting casual wards' (Ware): Londoners': late C.19–20. (A. Neil Lyons, Clara, 1912.) I.e. a God-help-us [me].—2. I have also heard it with the meaning of sad, or woebegone, distressed, "What's the matter with you? You look like two-penn'orth of gawdelpus!" Before 1908' (Leechman).

gawdfer. Var. of godfer, q.v., a child.

Gawdsaker. 'Marjorie cried: "What is a Gawdsaker?" "Oh," said Trafford, "haven't you heard that before? He's the person who gets excited by an deliberate discussion and gets up ... screaming, "For Gawd's sake, let's do something now!" I think they used it first for Pethick Lawrence'" (H.G. Wells, Marriage, 1912). Arising ca. 1905, it was, by 1945, ob.; by 1960, virtually t.

gawf. An inferior, red-skinned apple that can easily be made to look very attractive: costers':—1851 (Mayhew). They are now more highly considered.

gawk, a simpleton, a fool, or an awkward person, is S.E. according to the OED and SOD: I cannot help thinking that at first, 1837, it was coll., though admittedly it was dial. as early as C.17 (EDD), and is S.E. in C.20. Presumably ex gawky, n. (1724), and adj. (1724), always—it seems—S.E. The v. gawk, to gape or stare, to loiter about in a gaping manner, is orig. US (1785); so far as it is used in Britain, it is coll., as also is gawking, vbl n. and ppl adj.; gawkiness, however, is late (1873) and S.E.

gawm (or G). See gorm.

gawn. See gorm.

gawney, goney. A fool: coll. when not dial.: from ca. 1770. (EDD.) ?by sawney out of gawk. Cf. gone out, q.v.

gawpus. An idle seaman: nautical coll.: from ca. 1870. (Bowen.) Ex dial. gawpus (gawpus), a simpleton.

gawsave. The National Anthem: low: C.20. (C.J. Dennis.) Ex slovenly pron. of God save (the King).

gay, n. A dupe: Aus. c. (esp. prostitutes' and confidence-tricksters'): C.20. Kylie Tennant, Foveaux, 1939.—2. A homosexual person, of either sex: orig. homosexuals', > gen. and widespread: later C.20. Ex adj., 4.—3. See pitch a game ...

gay, adj. (Of women) leading an immoral, or a harlot's, life: C.19; in C.20, coll. on verge of S.E.; by ca. 1970 † in this sense, superseded by sense 4, which has 'killed' all others, even—almost—the S.E. sense of 'joyous, light-hearted', now, 1983, too open to double entendre. (E.P.; P.B.) An early application to women occurs in John Davis, The Post-Captain, 1806. (Moe.)—2. Slightly intoxicated: C.19–20; ob. Perhaps orig. a euph.—3. Impudent, impertinent, presumptuous: US (—1899), anglicised in 1915 by P.G. Wodehouse. OED Sup.—4. Homosexual, of either sex, but at first usu. of the male: common in US since 1945, and, since ca. 1955, in Britain. P.B.: in the 7th ed. of this Dict., E.P. quoted, from John Gosling & Douglas Warner, The Shame of a City, 1960, several examples of 'gay' argot. These, and about twenty others contributed by 'a stranger who would probably prefer to remain anonymous' (E.P.), have been listed at their appropriate alphabetical placings. Those interested in 'gay' slang are referred esp. to Bruce Rodgers, The Queens' Vernacular: A Gay Lexicon, pub. 1972 in USA and in UK; a full and comprehensive glossary, it contains mainly US usages, many of which have no doubt crossed, or will cross, the Atlantic.—5. In all (so) gay or that's all gay!, = 'all serene'; all correct, safe, excellent, agreeable: the first, C.19; the latter, ca. 1900–15. In the sense of agreeable: "There, that's all gay," he broke off, pacifically' (Pugh, 1914).—6. Ex sense 1. turn gay, to become a prostitute: from ca. 1870. A. Neil Lyons, Clara, 1912.—7. In feel gay, to feel amorous: C.19—earlier 20. Orig. euph.; in C.20, joc.—8. See what a gay day! gay and frisky. Whisky: rhyming s.: late C.19–20. P.P., Rhyming Slang, 1932.

gay and hearty. A party: rhyming s.: since ca. 1920.

gay as a goose in a gutter (, as). Very gay indeed: coll.: late C.18—mid-19. W.N. Glascock, Sketch-Book, 1826, at II, 30. (Moe.) gay bit. A harlot: from ca. 1830; ob. Coll. See bit.

gay boy. A homosexual: Aus. (Elisabeth Lambert, The Sleeping House Party, 1951.) Cf. gay, adj., 4.

gay cat. A tramp that hangs about for women: Can. low and Brit. tramps' c.: C.20. Adopted ex US.

gay deceivers. 'Falsies' or foam-plastic bust-forms: raffish: since ca. 1950.

Gay Gordons, the. 'The Gordon Highlanders. In particular, the 2nd Battalion, the 92nd Highlanders': late C.19–20: rather sobriquet than nickname; coll. verging on S.E. F.&G.

gay house. A brothel: C.19–20; ob. Perhaps orig. euph.

gay girl; gay woman. A prostitute: proletarian: mid-C.19–20; †. 'Killed' by gay, adj., 4. Orig. sense recorded in B. & L.; cf. gay, adj., 1. In later C.20 this term = a lesbian.

gay in the arse or groin or legs. (Of women) loose: low coll.: C.19—early 20. Cf. Fr. avoir la cuisse gaie.

gay it. (Of both sexes) to copulate: C.19—early 20: coll.

gay life, lead a. To live immorally; live by prostitution: coll. or s.: from ca. 1860; †.

gay old. An occ. var. of high old, q.v.: ca. 1885–1910.

gay tyke boy. A dog-fancier: ca. 1840–80 low. Sinks.

gaying instrument, the. The male member: C.19; low coll. Lex. Bal.

Gaynor, do a. See MOVING-PICTURE SLANG, §9, in Appendix. gazebo; gazob; gazook. A foolish fellow, a silly blunderer, a 'softy': Aus.: 1st and 3rd, latish C.19–20; 2nd, late C.19—earlyish 20. The 1st occurs in Brian Penton's Landtakers, 1934, the 3rd in his Inheritors, 1936. Cf. the US s. gazabo or gazebo; the term prob. derives ex S.E. gazebo, merely as an odd-sounding word, with the emphasis on 'gaze', to stare stupidly.

gazer. 'A pedlar who walks about a fair or market selling as he goes': grafters': C.20. Cheapjack, 1934.

gazelle, in a. 'Feeling good'. See CANADIAN ..., in Appendix.

gazinta. See guzinter.

gazob; gazook. See gazebo.

gazump, v. (This is, 1970s, the gen. accepted spelling; among earlier variants are: gazoomph, gazumph, gezump, gezumph, guzzump.) To swindle: grafters': C.20. (Cheapjack, 1934.) Hence, gazumper, the agent, and gazumping, the action. Ex Yiddish. Ailingham used the gezumph version; News of the World, 28 Aug 1938, gazumph.—2. To give (someone) short change: barrow-boys': since ca. 1935.—3. By a specialisation of sense 1, and also as n., 'to subject, the subjecting of, the buyer of a house to demands for a higher price after the purchase has been arranged' (Barnhart): the term has been widespread since this immoral practice became common during the great forced rise in house-prices in 1972. Guardian article, headlined 'Council accused of "gazumping"', 19 Sep. 1978: 'The couple, who were buying the house, said that the increase from £17,250 to £18,500 has meant that they have had to "gazump" their own buyer to go ahead with the deal.' (P.B.) gazunda. See guzunda.

g'bye! Good-bye!: slovenly coll.: C.20. D. Mackail, Greenery Street, 1925.

geach, n. A thief: c.—1821; ob. by 1900, † by 1920. ? thief disguised. Cf.:

geach, v.t. To steal: c.—1821; † by 1920. (Haggart, 1821.) ?thieve perverted.

gear, n. The genitals, male and, more gen., female: late C.16–19; S.E. until C.19, then coll. >, very soon, s.—2. As affair, business—even in here's goodly gear, here's a pretty kettle of fish—it is S.E.—3. In that's the gear!, that's right: army: 1915+. (B. & P.) Lit., that's the correct instrument or equipment.—4. "Got a load of gear (stolen property) for you, John," he'd say' (John Gosling, The Ghost Squad, 1959): c.: since ca. 1930. See also the similar, though wider, sense noted at AUSTRALIAN UNDERWORLD, in Appendix.—5. Any narcotic, but esp. marijuana: (mostly teenage) drug addicts: since the late 1940s. Euphemistic?—6. 'Belongings, including supplies of drugs, syringes, etc.' (Home Office): drug-users': 1970s.—7. As the gear, always predicatively, as in sense 3: very good: low, but also Liverpool ordinary: late C.19–20. Popularized by the Beatles, to mean 'something that is unique and extra good' (News of the World, 19 Nov. 1963).—8. Clothes: in common, mostly teenagers', usage since ca. 1950. (A correspondent to Woman's Own, 25 Feb. 1967, claims to have seen it in a novel pub. 1888, but unfortunately doesn't say whose or which.) See also gears, 2.

gear, adj. Homosexual: since ca. 1930. Poss. rhyming s. on queer (Franklyn 2nd), but more prob. a var. of synon. je, 3, q.v.—2. Excellent; attractive: orig. Merseyside teenagers', then much more widespread: since 1955 at latest; ob. by 1965. See gear, n., 7. (P.B.) gear-box. The vagina: East Anglia, esp. Suffolk: since late 1940s. (F. Leech, 1972.) A survival, and technological updating, of gear, n., 1.

gear lever. An erect penis: National Servicemen's, 1946–60, but also at least a decade earlier and more than a decade later. (P.B. cites B.S. Johnson, ed., All Bull: the National Servicemen, 1973.)

geared up. Dressed up, as in 'She was all geared up like a dog's dinner': market-traders': C.20. (M.T.) Also used of, e.g., motor-cyclists in full travelling rig. See sense 2 of: gears. In warm in (one's) gears, settled down to work: coll.: C.17–18. Ex the simple in (one's) gears, ready for work.—2. In in (one's) gears, ready dressed: coll.: late C.17–18. B.E., who notes also out of his gears, out of sorts, indisposed: perhaps, orig., s.

ged! A coll. var. of gad! = God! Late C.17–19. Cf. vowel in dem(me)! W.

Geddes axe. See axe, n., 1.

Geddesburg. Montreuil in 1916: Army officers' joc. coll. On Gettysburg (USA) ex Sir Eric Geddes, who, in that year, established there his headquarters—he was Director General of Transportation, with 1,000 (or more) clerks. F.&G.

gee, n. A horse: s., later C.19, >, ca. 1900, coll. Mr Leonard Goldstein, 1967, cites the Major-General's song in Gilbert and Sullivan's The Pirates of Penzance, 1879: 'They'll say a finer Major-General has never sat a gee'. See gee! and gee-gee.—2. Grafters' s. of C.20, perhaps ex gee!, q.v.: 'A grafters' accomplice or assistant who mingles with the crowd. Note: To give a grafter a gee is to buy something off him to encourage the crowd' (Cheapjack, 1934). Cf. 'A gee is a rick (stooge) who stands among the audience (hedge) and slings gees—praising the goods and saying audibly how satisfied he is' (W. Buchanan-Taylor, Shake It Again, 1943). See MOCK AUCTION in Appendix, and rick.—3. Bluff; empty talk or 'fanny': c.: from ca. 1920. (Gilt Kid, 1936.) Hence put in the gee, to blarney, to tell a plausible tale (cf. sense 2): Ibid. Contast put on the gee, to 'swank'; act or talk pretentiously: c.: from ca. 1925. Ibid. See also get at the gee.—4. In on the gee, annoyed, irritated: proletarian:—1923 (Manchon). Perhaps ex on (one's) high horse.—5. Derived from and synon. with gen box, a complicated instrument [a navigational radar]: RAF: since ca. 1942. (W/Cdr R.P. McDouall, 1945.) P.B.: by 1950 at latest, gen in this sense > j. See gen, n., 2.

gee, v. To fit, suit, be convenient or practical: only in negative phrases: late C.17—early 20. B.E.—2. (Of persons) to behave as is expected or desired; agree, get on well together: C.18—early 20: ob. V.t. with with. Either ex next entry or a corruption of go.—3. To encourage, incite; delude: c.:—1932 (anon., Dartmoor from Within, 1932). Esp. to do this as a grafter's assistant: showmen's. See put in the gee at gee, n., 3, and gee-man.—4. 'To put in the "G"'. To exert pressure ... To give information to the authorities about a fellow-prisoner' (Tempest, 1950): prison c. A development of sense 3. See gee-er.—5. 'To gee is to be a stalking horse or agent provocateur, often in relation to sexual offences' (Bernard Crick, George Orwell, 1980): early 1930s.

gee! A command to a horse: gen. to turn to the right: coll.: 1628 (SOD).—2. By mid-C.20 the usu. spelling of jee!, an orig. euph., now mostly US coll. corruption of Jesus!, as oath or exclam.: mid-C.19–20.

gee, adj.; esp. a gee fight, a catchpenny bout that is not a true contest: boxing: since ca. 1930. See gee, n., 3.

gee-er. 'One who puts in the "G"'. A trouble-maker. One who tells lies about another in order to provoke a fight. In this sense "gee-er" is in common use' (Tempest, 1950): prison c.: mid-C.20. See gee, n., 3 and v., 4.

gee-gee. A horse: s. (1869) >, ca. 1900, coll. Reduplication of gee! Mostly among sportsmen and 'turfités'. Pall Mall Gazette, 14 Apr. 1889 (OED).—2. A joc. perversion (—1923) of geezer, 1. Manchon.

gee-gee dodge, the. The selling of horseflesh for beef: trade, esp. butchers': app. since ca. 1860. James Greenwood, Odd People in Old Places, 1883.

Gee-Gees, the. The Cavalry: infantrymen's: late C.19–20; ob. Ware.

gee ho! or ho, gee ho! Equivalent to gee!: from ca. 1650: coll. Contrast gee whoa! Also, same period, v.i. and t., say gee-ho (to).

gee, lookit! A Can. children's c.p. of astonishment or great interest: adopted, ca. 1950. ex US. (Leechman, who, in May 1959, adds, 'I read recently the next step: "Oh, lookit at that!"') See also lookit!

gee-man. Aus. showmen's var. and synonym of gee, n., 2: C.20. Kylie Tennant, The Battlers, 1941, 'In the show world a "gee-man" or "micky finn" was socially on the level of a duck's feet.'

gee-up, n. A spree; a jollification: Aus., esp. Sydney: since ca. 1920. Ruth Park, The Harp in the South, 1948.

gee up, occ. hup! (To a horse) move forward! Move faster: C.18–20 coll.—2. To say 'gee up!': C.19–20 coll. Blackwood's Magazine, Oct. 1824, 'Mr. Babb ge-hupped in vain.' The (h)up is not adv. but interjection.—3. As gee up, to pull someone's leg: c.: since ca. 1940. (Norman.) Var. of gee, v., 3.—4. As v.t. To annoy, upset by 'playing up': schoolchildren's: later C.20. 'Truancy is an extension of their bolsy behaviour at school—"geeing up" the teachers' (New Society, 23 Sep. 1982, p. 494).

gee whillikens!; gee whiskers!; gee whiz(z)! The first two are occ. var. of the 3rd: juvenile exclamations, orig. euph. for Jesus Christ! The 3rd, late C.19–20 (in, e.g., C.J. Dennis); the 1st, earlier C.20; the 2nd, an earlier C.20 NZ facetious var. All are elab. of gee!, q.v.

gee whoa! (To a horse) stop! Rarer than whoa! Coll.: C.18–20.

geebung. An old settler: Aus.: later C.19. (B., 1942.) Aboriginal word.—2. 'Place-name for any remote and primitive locality' (Wilkes, who implies that both this and sense 1 are derivative): id. The Aboriginal term = 'the native plum (Per-soonia), a small and tasteless fruit' (Ibid.).

geek. A (long) look: Aus.: since WW1. 'Gis—give us—a geek at that book.' B.P. derives it ex German gucken, to peep or peek; perhaps influenced by Cornish dial. geek, to look intently at.—2. The fair-ground monster who bites off chickens' heads and eats any filth customers deposit in his begging-cup' (an Observer book-reviewer, 2 Jan. 1977): fairground and allied: prob. throughout C.20. On the other hand, a Daily Telegraph book reviewer had, on 23 Oct. 1975, described a geek as the lowest form of carnival performer, perhaps one who is merely stared at. Both may be right. The origin could well be the same as for sense 1. R.S., to whom I owe sense 2, thinks that the orig. may lie rather in the Ger. dial. and s. form Kieken than in gucken, for both forms have the same meaning. The term has come from US: see W.&F., 1960.

G

geekie. A police-station: Scottish c.:—1893. ?ex geek, to peer about.

ge(e)loot, the form given by H., 3rd ed.: see galoot.

Geese, the. The Portuguese (soldiers in especial): military: 1917. B. & P.—2. See old woman's picking...; man among the geese...

geese are swans, all his. He exaggerates in his praise, esp. of his own family or property: coll.:—1529; in C.20, rather S.E. Skelton; Burton; Newman in his Apologia, 'To use the common phrase...'

geese go hare-legged!, fie upon pride when. A proverbial c.p. resort to undue pride in the lowly: late C.17—18. B.E.

geese on a common, like. Wandering, somewhat aggressively, at large: C.19—20 coll.

geezzer or geezer (rare): occ. geyser (incorrectly); esp. old geezer.

A person: in the 1890s, gen. of women; in C.20, gen. of men (cf. old buffer). Low coll.: 1885 (OED). Albert Chevalier in his still-remembered 'Knocked 'Em in the Old Kent Road', 1890, 'Nice old geezer with a nasty cough'. Perhaps ex † guiser, a mummer, via dial.; but note that Wellington's soldiers may, ca. 1811, have picked up Basque giza, man, fellow, and changed it to geezzer. (Hugh Morrison, Perth, W. Aust.)—2. Hence, occ., my (or the) old geezer, my 'old woman' (wife): lower classes:—1923 (Manchon).—3. A fellow prisoner: c.: since ca. 1930. (Norman.)—4. A 'mug'; an easy dupe: since ca. 1945. Rather by specialisation of sense 1 than—as Frank Norman proposes in Encounter, 1959—by way of S.E. geyser as a pun on steamer (steam-tug), a 'mug'.

gefuffle. See kerfuffle.

gegger. See gagger, 4.

geggie. A 'penny gaff'; a cheap vaudeville show: Glasgow: C.20. Ex gag? Also spelt geggy. Not restricted to Glasgow: fairly common among showmen. Cf. gagger, 3.

gel (hard g). An affected form of girl, would-be patrician: C.19—20. Also dial.

gelatine (pronounced jéláteen'): the coll. spelling and pron. of gelatin (pronounced gélátín): C.19—20.

geld; occ. gelt. Money: S. African s. verging on coll.: from ca. 1880. Ex Dutch geld, money, cash. (Pettman.) Cf. gelt, q.v.

gelding, a eunuch, is not, despite F. & H., unconventional, but enter a man for the geldings' stakes, to castrate him, is low coll., C.19—20, ob., as he has entered for..., to be a eunuch.

gell. An occ. var. of gel, q.v.

gelly. An occ. var. of jelly, 3, gelignite. Because of the spelling; cf. genny, generator.

geloptions. An occ. var. of goloptions, q.v.

gelp. C.20 market-traders' var. (M.T.) of:

'Gilt', i.e. money: late C.17—early 19 c.: in C.16—early 17, S.E.; in C.19—20, grafters' s.; and see geld. B.E., 'There is no Gelt to be got, c., Trading is very Dead.' Ex Dutch; see also geld.

gelter. A C.19 c. elab. of prec. Sinks, 1848.

geluk! I wish you luck!; 'also a birthday congratulation': S. African coll.:—1913. Ex Dutch geluk, happiness, prosperity. Pettman, who notes also gezondheid (1875), occ. in form santeit (1896), I wish you good health!, ex Dutch gezondheid, health.

Gem. 'A man with the [sur]name Pearl often gets this nickname' (Petch, 1969): prob. mostly Services': late C.19—earlier 20.

gem. A ring: late C.17—early 18.—2. Gold ring: C.18. Rum gem, a diamond ring: C.18. All are c.—3. A 'jewel' or 'treasure': (gen. playful) coll.: C.19—20; ob. Because prized. OED.

gem'man. See gemman.

gemini!, gem(m)iny!, jim(m)iny! (In the earliest example, gemony.) An orig. not so low coll. oath or interj., from ca. 1660, expressing surprise, often prec. by oh! and occ. followed by gig (late C.18—early 19) or figs (C.19, chiefly Cockney). Dryden, 1672, 'O Gemini! is it you, sir?' Ex Gemini, the Twins (Castor and Pollux, who figure in an old Roman oath), says the OED; 'Folk Etymology' Palmer traces to a German and Dutch exclam. ex O Jesu Domine!: the former is preferable.

gemman or gem'man. Phonetical rendering of a common slooping of gentleman: mid-C.16—20; ob. (P. Egan, Finish to Tom, Jerry and Logic, 1828; Borrow, Lavengro, 1851.) Often written gen'l'man.

gemony! See gemini!

gen, n. A shilling; costers':—1851. Either abbr. generalise, q.v., or abbr. Fr. argent—see gent. Mayhew.—2. (Often as the gen.) Information: gen may be classed as pukka, trustworthy, duff, incorrect, or (WW2 only) phoney, doubtful and unreliable: RAF: since ca. 1929, but widely used only since 1939; in WW2 it spread also to the army, though not widely. Recorded by, e.g., a RAF F/Sgt, article, 'I bombed the Ruhr', in Michie & Graebner, Their Finest Hour, 1940, 'Operations room where I got my Gen (RAF slang for information, instruction)'; and esp. in Partridge, 1945. Ex the consecrated phrase 'for the general information of all ranks' or '... of all concerned'. Pukka is Hindustani, whereas duff and phoney are from the underworld.—3. Hence, notes on procedure; notes for a test; notes taken during a course: RAF: since 1938. Partridge, 1945.

gen, adj. 'Genuine', trustworthy: not an abbr. of genuine, but either ex the n., 2, or more prob., ex the combination pukka gen: Services': since ca. 1941. Partridge, 1945.

gen book. A note-book (for useful scraps of information): RAF: since early 1930s. (Jackson.) See gen, n.

gen box. See gee, n., 5.

gen file. A general file (general to a particular department: policy, procedure, etc.): RAF clerical: since ca. 1939. Partridge, 1945.

gen kiddy. A thoroughly good chap: RAF aircrew trainees': early 1950s. 'Who's your flight commander?... Oh, he's a real gen kiddy, you'll be OK with him.' (P.B.)

gen king. One who is well supplied with trustworthy information: RAF: since ca. 1939. H. & P.

gen man has, since 1938, been rather more usual than its synonym, gen wallah. In, e.g., R.M. Davison, letter, 1942, and in Brickhill & Norton, Escape to Danger, 1946.—2. An Intelligence Officer: RAF: 1939+. P-G-R.

gen-net. See gennet.

gen up, v.i. and v.t. To learn (esp., quickly), to swot, to study: RAF: since ca. 1933. (Jackson.) P.B.: as v.t., to inform or brief, gen (someone) up on (subject); and in 'to swot', 'I must gen up on (subject)'. Ex gen, n., 2.

gen(-)wallah. Anyone conversant with Service procedure or with Service 'occurrences' (postings, promotions), esp. an Orderly Room Sergeant or Corporal: RAF: since ca. 1935. (Jackson.) See gen, n., 2.

gender, to copulate, is, despite F. & H., ineligible. But feminine gender, the pudend, is (—1835) schoolboys' ob. s., as in the rhyme, quoted—in part—by Marryat in Jacob Faithful: 'Amo, amas, I loved a lass, / And she was tall and slender, / Amas, amat, I laid her flat, / And tickled her feminine gender' (F. & H.).

general, n. A maid-of-all-work: coll.: 1884 (OED); Ware dates it at 1880. Abbr. general servant. P.B.: ob. by ca. 1940; Punch made great play with the term, 1915—20, when the military rank was so prominent that advertisements for 'a general' could be ambiguous and amusing.—2. 'Chandler's shop—where everything may be obtained': urban low classes':—1909; ob. Ware.—3. See generalise.

General, the. A general post-office: coll.: C.20.—2. The yardmaster: Canadian railroadmen's:—1931. Humorous.

—3. 'The imaginary presiding genius of General Motors-Holden's' (Wilkes): Aus. journalistic: 1970s.

general, adj. Affable to all: late C.16–17: either S.E. or, more prob., coll. Shakespeare, 'Bid her be free and general as the sun.'

General One (or Vun) O'Clock; Old Vun O'Clock. General von Kluck (1846–1934): military: 1914+. (Qbserver, 21 Oct. 1934). By Hobson-Jobson.

General Schools. General School Leaving Examination: schools' coll.: from ca. 1920; †. W.L. Gibson Cowan, Loud Report, 1937. Replaced after 1950 by the GCE 'O' Level exam.

General Weatherall (or Wetherall, -ell) in command. An army c.p. applied to inclement weather's preventing a parade: from ca. 1880; †. B. & L.

generalise or -ize. A shilling; back—i.e. mainly costers'—s.: from ca. 1850. Saturday Review, 14 May 1887, 'The difficulty of inverting the word shilling accounts for "generalize".' (Cf. gen, q.v.) Ware records the form general.—2. Hence, Can you generalise?, Can you lend me a shilling?—1909 (Ware).

generating place. The female pudendum: C.19—early 20: low coll.

generating, or generation, tool. The male member: C.19–20 (ob.) low coll. Solus tool is prob. the older term.

Geneva print. Gin; mostly in read Geneva print, to drink it: C.17 coll. (Massinger.) Geneva > gin. Punning the kind of type used in Geneva bibles.

genitrave or genitraf. See genittraf.

genned(-)up. Well supplied with information: RAF: since ca. 1934. (Partridge, 1945.) Ex gen up.

gennet, gen-net. Ten shillings, separately or as a sum: back s. (via generalise, q.v.):—1859 (H., 1st ed.); †. Cf. synon. net gens.

gen(n)itraf or -trave. A farthing: back s.: from ca. 1860. (Ware.) Gnitraf euphonised.

genny. A generator: mechanics' > gen.: since ca. 1916. Len Deighton, Bomber, 1970; Alan Hunter, in Gently by the Shore, 1956, spells it jenny.

genol. Long: back s.: from ca. 1860. Gnol euphonised.

genoowine. See genuwine.

gens; occ. a drop of gens. General leave: RN: C.20. Bowen.—2. 'Also used for General Quarters' (Granville): RN: C.20.

gent. A loudly dressed vulgarian: from ca. 1560, though anticipated in C.15: in C.16–18, S.E.: ca. 1800–40, coll.; from ca. 1840, low coll., except when applied derivatively to those who use the term. Glapthorne, Burns; Thackeray, Disraeli. In 1846, magistrate Rawlinson: 'I hold a man who is called a gent to be the greatest backguard there is.'—2. In c. (—1859), money, esp. silver money: ex Fr. argent: cf. gen, q.v. H., 1st ed.—3. A sweetheart; mistress; my gent, my best girl. Low coll.: from ca. 1880; ob. Prob. ex Fr. (une femme) gentille.—4. The adj., long †, was, pace F. & H., always S.E.

genteel, well-dressed, apparently a gentleman or a lady, has, from ca. 1880, been low coll.—except when derogatory.

gentish. Like, characteristic of, a 'gent' (q.v.): ?S.E. or coll.: 1847 (OED); ob. by 1930.

Gentle Annie. A certain Turkish gun at the Dardanelles: military: 1915. (F. & G.) Also Asiatic Annie. Cf. Beachy Bill.

gentleman. A crowbar: c.: from ca. 1850; ob. See alderman.—2. See punisher, 3.—3. In do the gentleman, to go and urinate: proletarian:—1923 (Manchon).—4. See put a churl upon a gentleman.

gentleman commoner. An empty bottle: Oxford University:—1785; † by 1900. (Grose, 1st ed.) Cf. fellow commoner, q.v., dead man, dead marine. Such a student was, in general repute, deficient in intelligence.

gentleman in black, the (old). The devil: from ca. 1660: s. >, in C.19, coll. Dryden.

gentleman in black velvet, the (little). See little gentleman ...

gentleman in blue. A policeman: satirical coll.: mid-C.19–20; ob. Ware.

gentleman in brown. A bed bug: coll.:—1885; ob. G.A. Sala.

gentleman in red. A soldier: 1774: either s. or joc. coll.; ob. gentlemen of a company. See TAVERN TERMS, §6, in Appendix.

gentleman of fortune. A pirate: C.19—early 20: coll., punning the S.E. sense: adventurer.

gentleman of four outs. See gentleman of the three outs.

gentleman of observation. A (spying) tout: the turf: C.19. gentleman of the back(door). A sodomist: back door, C.18–20, ob.; back, C.19: low coll. See also at back.

gentleman of the head or house; gentleman of the five outs. See gentleman of the three outs.

gentleman of the fist. A boxer: boxers':—1819; ob. by 1900, † by 1910.

gentleman of the green-baize road. A card-sharper: gamblers': C.19–20, ob. Punning gentleman of the road, S.E. for a highwayman.

gentleman of the pad. A highwayman: 1718: sometimes s., sometimes joc. coll.: † by 1870. See pad and scamp.

gentleman of the round. An invalided or a disabled soldier begging for his living: late C.16–17 coll. Ben Jonson.

gentleman of the short staff. A constable: ca. 1830–80. Ainsworth.

gentleman of (the) three ins. (But the is rare and does not appear before ca. 1830.) 'In debt, in gaol, and in danger of remaining there for life; or, in gaol, indicted, and in danger of being hanged in chains' (Grose, 1788); H., 1864, 'In debt, in danger, and in poverty'. A c.p. that > ob. ca. 1890, † ca. 1920. Prob. suggested by the contrasted:

gentleman of (rarely, and not before ca. 1830, the) three outs. 'Without money, without wit, and without mourners' (Grose, 1785)—it is the earlier phrase. In 1788, he added, 'Some add another out, i.e. without credit.' Variants four, five; H., 1864, has four and refers to Ireland, where, he says, the retort to a vulgar fellow blustering of gentlemanliness was 'Yes, a gentleman of four outs—that is, without wit, without money, without credit, and without manners.' F. & H., 1893, cites 'Out of money, and out of clothes;|Out at heels, and out at the toes;|Out of credit, and in debt'. Ob. by 1893, but not yet (1930) †. Cf. the C.16–17 dunghill gentleman and gentleman of the first head or house, which may themselves (see the OED) be coll. or even s.

gentleman of three ins and outs. See gentleman of the three ins and ... outs.

gentleman outer. See ROGUES, in Appendix. Perhaps a c. term, as prob. is gentleman of the nig (ROGUES).

gentleman ranker. A broken gentleman serving in the ranks: military s. (—1892) >, ca. 1900, gen. coll. >, ca. 1914, S.E. >, ca. 1919, somewhat ob. See Kipling's famous poem, 'Gentleman Rankers'.

gentleman usher. The penis: late C.16–17. Anon., The Most Cruell and Bloody Murther Committed by an Innkeepers Wife, called Annis Dell, 1606; reprinted in 1909 and edited by W.B. Gerish.

gentleman who pays the rent, the. A pig: Anglo-Irish: mid-C.19–20; ob. Ware.

gentleman's companion. A louse: coll.:—1785; ob. by 1914, † by 1918. In four years' active service, I never heard the term. (Grose, 1st ed.) Cf. bosom friend.—2. Poss., in late C.17–18, it also = a flea. Ned Ward, 1709 (Matthews.)

gentleman's (or gent's) gent. A 'gentleman's gentleman' or valet: C.20. Both forms occur in that exciting and amusing novel, Th' Big City, by John G. Brandon, 1931.

gentleman's master. A highwayman: ca. 1780–1840. (Grose, 1st ed.) Ex gentlemen's obedience to his 'stand and deliver!'

gentleman's, occ. lady's, piece. A tit-bit (mostly children's) coll.: ca. 1880–1910. (Baumann.) If used by adults today, 1935, it would hint at short rations.

gentleman's pleasure-garden. The genitalia muliebricia: low or joc. coll.: C.19—early 20. Followed by padlock, it = a sanitary towel.

gentlemen, the. Members of the Royal Australian Air Force: Aus.: 1940+. B., 1942.

gentlemen present, ladies!, usu. prec. by there're. A joc., yet satirical, var. (1945+) of (there are) ladies present, gentlemen! gentlemen's sons. The three regiments of Guards: coll.: ca. 1870–1914.

gently Bentley! Take it easy! or Gently does it! A c.p. from the BBC radio comedy show 'Take It From Here', late 1940s. Jimmy Edwards used to growl it at Dick Bentley whenever the latter became excited.

gentry cove, mid-C.16–17; gentry cove, mid-C.16–early 19. A gentleman: c. (Cf. C.19 Devon gentry man).—2. Whence gentry cove(s) or cove(s) ken, a gentleman's house: likewise c.: † by 1850. B.E.

gentry ken. A (?C.18) C.19 c. abbr. of gentry cove's ken (prec.).

gentry mort. A lady: c.: mid-C.16–early 19. This and the prec. two terms are in Harman.

gents', the. A men's convenience: coll.: C.20.

gent's gent. See gentleman's gent.

genuffel, v.i. To flirt: S. Africa: 1938+. Professor W.S. Mackie in Cape Argus, 4 July 1946, 'Though it has a German or Dutch appearance, its origin is unknown.' Mr Ramsey Spencer asks, 'Could this be a case of back-slang?' 'A form of loving', in fact? Not impossibly.

genuine, n. and v. Praise: from ca. 1840, 1860 resp.: Winchester College. Wrench, 'Possibly from calling a thing "genuine."' genuwine (often spelled genoowine) Bedoowine Ayrab. 'A Bedouin Arab. A jocular elaboration of the American pronunciation of Arab' (Peter Sanders, 'Beddo, Blue and Gaberline Swine' in the colour sup. of the Sunday Times, 10 Sep. 1967): British servicemen's, esp. soldiers', in N. Africa, 1940–3. P.B.: but the phrase lingered on, well known in the army, for at least three decades after the N. Africa campaign. Genoowine Bedoowine was occ. used to mean 'the true, the real thing'.

geo. A geophysical report: oil industry coll.: later C.20. Leonard St Clair, A Fortune in Death, 1976.

géo-graphy, ge-o-graphy. 'Burned biscuit boiled in water' (Bowen): nautical: C.19–early 20. The 2nd version occurs in W.N. Glascock, Sketch-Book, 1825–6 (Moe).

geog (pron. gēog or jog). Geography: schoolchildren's: late C.19–20. (Marples.) Cf. geom, geometry.

geographically impossible. A girl rendered, by the distance of her home from Sydney, inconvenient to see for long, esp. in the evening and, above all, to take home: Sydneysiders': since ca. 1945. (B.P.)

geography. Female genitals: cultured: from ca. 1920. C. Isherwood, in New Country, 1933, 'He'll get a bit of geography with luck. She's only a teaser.' I. e. to the exploring hand.

Geological Survey, the. A stony stare: RN officers': since ca. 1930. Granville.

geom. (Pronounced jōm.) Geometry: schoolchildren's: late C.19–20.

Geometer. A Jesuit: ca. 1660–1720. Jane Lane, England for Sale, 1943, in ref. to the 1680s. Perhaps because, the Society of Jesus being a predominantly missionary order, its members may not be inaptly described as 'earth measurers'. P.B.: or it may well have been an allusion to the Jesuits' proficiency at applied mathematics; they were tolerated at the Imperial Court of Peking in C.17 on account of their usefulness as cartographers.

geometrician. A reeling drunkard. See TAVERN TERMS, §3, d, in Appendix.

Geordie, geordie. A pitman; any Northumbrian: North Country coll.: from ca. 1760. Prob. ex the Christian name there so pronounced.—2. A North Country collier (boat): nautical: from ca. 1880.—3. The George Stephenson safety-lamp: miners':—1881.—4. (Ex sense 1.) A townsman, esp. a working-man: Durham University and School: late C.19–20. Marples, 2.—5. A N.E. Railway employee: railwaymen's: C.20, after ca. 1950, any employee in that region. (Railway.)

Ex sense 1.—6. A Scottish var. of the various senses of: George, george. A noble (coin worth £½, i.e. 6s 8d, at the time of Henry VIII): abbr. George-noble: late C.16–17.—2. A half-crown (coin): c.: ca. 1659–1820. Shadwell.—3. A guinea: rare unless in form yellow George: c.:—1785 (Grose, 1st ed.); † by 1870.—4. A penny: low: ca. 1820–70.—5. See the several meanings of brown George.—6. The typical middle-class householder, esp. if married, steady and respectable: coll.: earlier C.20. In two linked c.pp. of 1935–6, Where's George? and Let's join George!; orig. slogans advertising lunch at Messrs J. Lyons's restaurants, the phrases caught on well enough to be burlesqued by the music-halls. See esp. DCpp at George.—7. An airman: RN and army: WW1.—8. A term of address to a stranger: RFC/RAF: from ca. 1915 (F. & G.); since ca. 1920 gradually superseded by Joe (Jackson).—9. An automatic pilot on an aircraft: airmen's: since ca. 1928. H. & P., 'The saying "Let George do it" may well have suggested the name'; but cf. sense 8.—10. A common vocative to a Negro whose name is unknown: Can.: since ca. 1920; by 1960, ob., and prob. considered offensively patronising, for it 'was customarily applied to the porters (stewards) on Pullman [railway restaurant] cars, who were invariably Negro. The custom, along with the cars, is obsolescent' (Claiborne, 1976).—11. Defecation: RN: C.20. John Winton, We Joined the Navy, 1959: 'Bowles, I'm going to have my Morning George now... Bowles, always have your George in the morning' (Captain to midshipman). Personification.—12. In by George, (occ. in late C.19–20, simply George!) A mild oath: coll. abbr. by St George!: 1731, Fielding (OED); earlier by St George, for George, both in Ben Jonson, 1598; before George occurs in A. Bailey, The Spightful Sister, 1667, at IV, i. (Moe).—13. See riding St George.

George Bohee. Tea (the beverage): rhyming s.: C.20; by 1945, ob.—by 1960, †. Ex the name of 'a famous Banjoist', says Lester; but obviously influenced by the Chinese tea named Bohea (pron. Bohee) tea.

George Gerrard. A gross exaggeration: Aus.: C.20. (B., 1942.) Ex an Aus. 'character'.

George Horne! Queen Anne's dead! Occ. G.H. Printers': ca. 1880–1990. Ex a romancing composer so named.

George Raft. Draught: rhyming s.: since mid-1930s. 'Not the kind one pours down one's neck but that which sends shivers down it! I once heard a Cockney apprentice complain of a "bleedin' George Raft" that was blowing right up his "Khyber". Name of an American film star popular in the 'thirties for his gangster roles' (Hillman).

George Robey; esp. on the George Robey. The road, or tramping; on the road, or a-tramping: tramps' rhyming c. (on toby): from ca. 1910. On Sir George Robey (1869–1954), music-hall comedian and actor.

George the Third. A var. of Richard the Third, a bird, in both lit. and theatrical senses: C.20. Franklyn 2nd.

Georges man. A vessel fishing on the Georges Bank: Can. fisheries' coll.: late C.19–20. Bowen.

George's wrecks. See gorgeous wrecks.

Georgie (or -y), georgie. A quartern loaf: c.:—1812; † by 1890. (Vaux.) Cf. brown George, q.v.

George-Porgie or George-Porgy. A coll. pet form of George; any plump male child. (In 1883, R.L. Stevenson employed it as a v. = to fondle, but this use has not caught on.) From ca. 1870. Ex, as well as suggestive of, the nursery rhyme, 'Georgy-Porgy, pudding and (or, loosely, pudding) pie, / Kissed the girls and made 'em cry.'

Georgium Sidus. The Surrey side of the Thames: London Society:—1909; † by 1920. Ware.

ger (hard g). May be found as phonetic representation of slovened get, in such phrases as ger along!, gerrahawai! (= get out of it, i.e. go away!), gerraway!, but this is surely dial. rather than, as E.P. suggests, 'illiterate coll.'. Cf. Midlands berra = better and gorra = got to. (P.B.)

geranium. A red nose: Cockneys': from ca. 1882; ob. by ca. 1932. Ware.—2. A brigadier-general: army officers': late

C.19—early 20. (Gilbert Frankau, Peter Jackson, 1920.) Prob. ex scarlet gorgets and hat-band.

Geraniums, the. The 13th Hussars: army: C.19—early 20. F. & G. From the former green facings of their predecessors, the 13th Dragons [The Evergreens]; Carew suggests that the nickname stems from their 'almost miraculous... transformation [back] to peacetime smartness' after the Peninsular War.

gerbera. A Yarborough (in the game of bridge): Aus.: since ca. 1930. (B., 1942.) Merely Yarborough in an Aboriginal shape. B.P., however, thinks that gerbera has been chosen because it is the name of a plant that, although imported, is extremely common in Aus.

gerdoying. See kerdoying.

Gerlines. The Royal Marines: RN: (?)mid-C.19—early 20. Granville, 'It referred to the red (tangerine orange) tunics worn by the Royal Marine Light Infantry'. E.P. favoured a derivation from margarine, but this seems inherently implausible. (P.B.)

German. In later WW1, generically an offensive term, sometimes coll., sometimes S.E. See Words! at 'Offensive Nationality'.—2. A German sausage: coll.:—1883; ob. by 1930.

German bands. Hands: rhyming s.: late C.19—1914, 'killed' by WW1. Occ. used in singular. Ex the German bands of musicians who played in the streets at that period. B. & P.; Franklyn.

German by injection. See injection...

German duck. 'Half a sheep's head boiled with onions' (Grose, 2nd ed.); late C.18—19 († by 1893) coll. Because 'a favourite dish among the German sugar-bakers in the East End of London' (H., 1864).—2. A bed bug: orig. and mainly Yorkshire: from ca. 1860; ob. H., 3rd ed.

German East. German E. Africa: coll.: C.20. F.E. Brett Young, in The Cage Bird, 1933, 'When George and I were prisoners in German East we had something in common with a vengeance, and that was one shirt.' (Also in the same author's Jim Redlake, 1930.)

German flutes. (No singular.) Boots: rhyming s.:—1857; † by 1914, when daisy roots, q.v., was in full possession of the field. 'Ducange Anglicus'.

German gospel. Vain boasting; megalomania: Nov.: 1897—ca. 1899. Ware, 'From a phrase addressed in this month by Prince Henry of Prussia to his brother of Germany at a dinner: "The gospel that emanates from your Majesty's sacred person", etc.'

German Legion, the. The 109th Regt of Foot (Bombay Infantry), amalgamated, 1881, with the 100th Foot to form the Leinster Regt, disbanded 1922: army: from ca. 1860. The regt was, at that date, 'brought up to strength with men of the disbanded German Legion... raised for the Crimean War' (F.&G.).

Germani. A German (soldier): soldiers' (E. African campaign): 1915—17. (F.E. Brett Young, Jim Redlake, 1930.) On the analogy of certain Swahili words (e.g. americani).

Germis. German soldiers: 1914+, but never common. Boyd Cable, Between the Lines, 1915.

gerrup! Get up! See ger.

Gerry, n. and adj. (A) German. Var. of Jerry, q.v.

gerry. Excrement: C.16 c.; cf. Gerry gan! ?ex L. gero, I carry; perhaps rather cf. Devonshire gerred, bedaubed, dirty, itself connected with Fr. bigarré, streaked (EDD).

gerry gan. (See gan and gerry.) Lit., 'shit [in your] mouth': a brutal C.16—early 17 c. way of saying 'shut up!'

Gers, the. The Germans, esp. soldiers: military: 1914—15. Cf. Gerries (whence Jerries).

gerswinty or geswinty. Hurried; engaged on an urgent job: Jewish Cockney tailors': C.19—20. 'He can't stay for another pint—having been late this morning, he's a bit gerswinty' (Franklyn). Ex Ger. geschwind, fast, hasty. (R.S.)

Gert and Daisy. Two Messerschmitts familiar to troops in the Green Hill area of Tunisia: ca. 1942—3. Ex the music-hall comediennes, 'Gert and Daisy' (Doris and Elsie Waters). P-G-R.

gertcha, gertcher! Get out of it!; hence, Don't pull my leg! low coll., or joc. among those in whose speech register it would not normally be present: late C.19—20.

Gertie. A woman van-driver: WW2. See whistler, 8.

Gertie Citana. Banana: rhyming s.: earlier C.20. Ex a music-hall star of Edwardian days. Franklyn, Rhyming.

Gertie Lee. The number 33 in the game of House/Tombola: army rhyming s.: early C.20. F.&G.

Gertrude. See MOVING-PICTURE SLANG, $4, in Appendix.

gerund-grinder. A schoolmaster; esp. a pedantic one: coll.: from ca. 1710; ob. Sterne, 'Tutors, governors, gerund-grinders, and bear-leaders'. Also, C.19—20, gerund-grinding.

geseech. Face: Cockneys': late C.19—early 20. E. Nesbit, The Phoenix and the Carpet, 1904: 'I say, slosh 'em in the geseech and clear off...'. Perhaps cf. Scot. gizz. (P.B.) gessein. To dupe, to 'con': c.: mid-C.20. Tempest.

gesseiner. 'Valuables. Possessions. Belongings' (Tempest): c.: mid-C.20.—2. 'In the Merchant Navy this means a garbage can' (Ibid.): C.20.

Gestapo, the. The Service (later RAF) Police: RAF: since ca. 1938. Sgt-Pilot F. Rhodes, letter, 1942, 'Service police are "Gestapo" much more often than "snoops"'. But also army: witness Gerald Kersh, They Die with their Boots Clean, 1941. Humorous on the name of the German Secret Police of the Third Reich.—2. Hence, the police; even such others in 'a little, brief authority', e.g. bus inspectors: since late 1940s. (Petch, 1969.) gesture. An action for the sake of show, good or bad: when used trivially, it is coll.: from ca. 1925. (As S.E.: 1916, says the OED Sup.)

get, n. A trick, swindle; a cheating contrivance: posited by F.&H.; † by 1890.—2. A child, esp. in one of his get, one of his offspring, of his begetting: C.14—20: S.E. till ca. 1750, then coll. (Grose, 2nd ed.); after ca. 1870, only of animals—unless pej.—3. A var. (—1923) of get-up, q.v.; not very gen. Manchon.—4. A retrieving; the return of a difficult ball: lawn tennis coll.: heard in 1926; recorded by OED Sup. for 22 Mar. 1927.—5. A chump, a fool: army: since ca. 1930. Daily Mail, 7 Sep. 1940. Usu., in later C.20, Qualified by 'stupid', 'silly', etc. Ex S.E., sense, 'bastard'. See also git.—6. In do a get, to depart, retreat, hastily: Aus.:—116 (C.J. Dennis). Ex get!

[get, v. So many coll. phrases use this all-purpose auxiliary: only a representative selection is listed below; others may be found entered under the operative n., at, e.g., bag, bar of chocolate, barrage, blow, bottle, broom, bun. (P.B.) E.P.'s note in the 1st ed.: If we consider get as a v. of all work, we find that its rise and increasing popularity are mainly owing to US influence (see W.'s Adjectives and Other Words, my Slang, and Fowler's Dict. of Modern English Usage). 'Its sense-development is extraordinary, the intransitive senses springing chiefly from reflexive, e.g. ... get (oneself) disliked,' W. Except in the S.E. sense, to acquire, obtain, receive, it is comparatively rare before 1870: Grose gives no examples; in H., 1859, there is none, while H., 1860, contains only get-up, n., and H., 1874, the same. See also got.]

get, v. To become; feel, e.g. 'He gets ill every winter,' 'He gets moody after drinking': late C.16—20; nominally S.E., but in C.19—20 more properly considered coll.—2. V.i., with intransitive past ppl: to complete an action: C.18—20; S.E. till ca. 1860, then coll. E.g. 'I'd be glad to get gone from this town.' A rare construction. OED.—3. V.i., get as an auxiliary (from ca. 1650) is held by the OED to be S.E., but there is a coll. taint in such locutions as 'I got caught in the storm', 1887 (SOD).—4. V.t., have, take, eat (a meal): coll. (—1888), perhaps ex dial. OED.—5. V.t., understand (rarely a thing), gen. as 'Do you get me?': ex US; Anglicised ca. 1910.—6. To corner (a person); get hold of, find and bring him, there being an implication of subject's difficulty and/or object's reluctance: coll.: 1879.—7. To depart: mostly in the imperative. See get!—8. In c., to steal: ca. 1820–60. (Bee.) Cf. make.—9. To annoy or worry: coll., orig. (ca. 1880) US, anglicised ca. 1920. P.B.: later C.20, usu. with about, as in 'What gets me about him is his confounded complacency', which is perhaps elliptical for the quot'n in:—10. To render, succeed in rendering: coll., orig. (ca. 1890) US, anglicised ca. 1910. E.g. 'He gets me wild,' he makes me angry. OED Sup.—11. To impress, move, attract: coll.: from ca. 1915. E.g. 'That play, Romance, got me properly.' (OED Sup.) Prob. ex sense 9 influenced by sense 10.—12. In get climbing, thinking, etc., it is simply a coll. form of climb, etc., etc., or of go climbing, etc.: mid-C.18–20. Sessions, mid-September 1759 (trial of John Mayland), 'The prisoner got jumping about, telling him he had won the twopence'. Cf. get cracking... It often expresses exasperation or urgency.—13. To get the mastery of: pugilistic: ca. 1810–60. Boxiana, III, 1821.—14. As get to, to begin to (do something). See below.—15. As v.i., used for get (oneself) here or there, where previously the full phrase was customary: coll.: since late 1970s. 'It's at my place tonight. Can you get, or do you want picking up?' (P.B.) get! abbr. get out!, go away! or clear out! Orig. (1884) US, where usu. git! Anglicised ca. 1900, but found in Aus. ca. 1890. Hume Nisbet in The Bushranger's Sweetheart, 1892, 'None of your damned impertinence. Get!' Cf. get, n., 6. get a bit. To obtain money—or a woman: low: late C.19–20. Ware.

get a heave on (someone). To treat severely or unpleasantly: army: ca. 1930–50. P-G-R.

get a knob. To catch a venereal disease: low, ?esp. army: C.20. (Leslie Thomas, The Virgin Soldiers, 1966.) Cf. knob, n., 6.

get a load of that! Just look at that: since ca. 1944. Cf. get a load of this! Listen to this!: adopted, ca. 1942, from US.

get a load on. To become tipsy: Aus.: C.20. Vance Palmer, Golconda, 1948. The load comes ex Canada, where current since late C.19. (Niven.)

get a marked tray. To catch a venereal disease: Can. hospitals' (perhaps orig. a euph.): since ca. 1910.

get a number! A taunt from an old soldier to a new: Services': since ca. 1925. (H. & P.) Var. of before you came up, and the later get your knees brown! Occ. merely as an abusive dismissive.

get a pick on (a person). To pick on, ill-temperedly mark out, quarrel with: Can.: C.20. (John Beames.) Cf-get a set on. To make a dead set against (a person): Aus.: ca. 1880–1920. B. & L.

get a squeak. (Of police) to become suspicious: police: since ca. 1910. (Free-Lance Writer, Apr. 1948.) Cf. squeak, n., 2.

get a wiggle on. (Mostly in imperative.) To get a move on; to look lively: RN: C.20. P-G-R. get aboard (someone). To reprimand that person severely; to hound him: army: 1950s–60s. 'The RSM really got aboard old Smudger' (P.B.).

get about, v.t., with her, to effect intromission: low coll. (amorous venery): from ca. 1880. Also, absolutely, get about it.—2. V.i., (of news, gossip) to spread, either (e.g.) 'The story got about,' often with a that clause, or (e.g.) 'It got about that the firm was bankrupt': coll.: from ca. 1848; since ca. 1880, S.E.—3. V.i., to move about or round, to travel, gen. with implication of frequency, though this may be defined, as in 'He gets about a lot, or a great deal': coll.: from late 1890s.—4. In get (food) about (one), to eat, to 'get outside of': Aus.: since ca. 1920.

get above (one)self. To be very, or too, satisfied, or pleased with oneself: coll.:—1923 (Manchon).

get across; get it across. To succeed; esp. to make oneself fully understood or suitably appreciated: resp. ca. 1915 and in 1913: coll. >, by 1933, familiar S.E. Ex US get it across the footlights. OED Sup.—2. In get across (her or, more brutally, it), to copulate (with a woman): low coll.: since late C.19. (L.A.)

get all over. To handle and examine (a person)—not necessarily for theft, but in all probability feloniously': low: mid-C.19–20; slightly ob. Ware.

get along with you! Go away! Be quiet! Have done! Coll.: 1837, Dickens (OED).—2. In C.20, as often an expression of disbelief at a statement just made. Cf. get away! in the coll. sense, and the † get out!

get among it. To be making a lot of money: Aus.: since ca. 1910.—2. To 'have a woman' from time to time: Aus.: since ca. 1915. Dal Stivens, Jimmy Brockett, 1951.

get anything. To be infected, e.g. venereally; get replacing catch. Coll.: from ca. 1850. Merely a coll. absolute form of S.E. get = catch, C.17–20.—2. (Wireless) hear; establish contact with a station: coll.: from ca. 1924.

get (one's) arse in a sling. See eye in a sling.

get at. To assail; strike, as in 'Let me get at the foul-mouthed b—r': from ca. 1890.—2. To banter, chaff, annoy, take (or try to take) a rise out of: from ca. 1890. Ally Sloper's Half Holiday, 3 Jan. 1891, '“Your family don't seem to get on, missie...” “Oh! who're ye gettin' at?”' See also get back at.—3. To influence, bribe, corrupt a person or a group of persons; to 'noble' (q.v.) a horse: orig. s. (1865), then, ca. 1880, coll. J.S. Mill (OED); Graphic, 17 Mar. 1883, 'Without any suspicion of being got at'.—4. To mean; intend to be understood: gen. as 'What are you getting at?' Col.: mid-C.19–20. The American David Belasco was prob. borrowing it when he used it in Naughty Anthony (II, i), 1849. (Moe.)

get (someone) at—intensively, right at—it. To make fun of, to jeer at; to make a fool of: low: since ca. 1940. (Norman.)

get at the gee. To 'spoo' (v.i.): c.:—1933 (Charles E. Leach). See gee, n., 2 and 3.

get away, get-away, getaway. An escape: 1890. The invariable v. form is make a (or one's) getaway. See getaway.—2. A means of escape; hence an exit: from ca. 1895; ex US, where in late C.19–20 c. it means, a train or a locomotive.—3. An excuse, esp. forethought: from ca. 1925. All orig. coll.; but in C.20, senses 1 and 2 are S.E.

get away! As = go away, S.E., but as = don't talk nonsense, don't flatter, it is coll.: from ca. 1830. The form get away with you! is prob. to be considered S.E. Cf. get along with you!

get away closer! An 'invitation to yet more pronounced devotion': costers', hence gen. Cockneys' c.p.: late C.19—early 20. (Ware.) Cf. stop it—I like it!

get away with it. To succeed beyond expectation and/or contrary to the full rights of the case: coll.: from ca. 1918: ex US (—1912). (F. & G.; OED Sup.) in a phrase such as 'You're not going to let him get away with it, are you?', it has the nuance of 'to take advantage of' or 'gain an advantage over'.—2. Hence, 'just to scrape through a difficulty': coll.:—1931 (Lyell).

get back at. To chaff, banter; satirise, criticise; call to account: coll.: from ca. 1885. Cf. get at, q.v.

get back into your box! Be quiet! That's enough from you! Orig. (—1893), US; anglicised ca. 1900; slightly ob. Ex the stables.

get back to laws. Ex the technical or S.E. sense, 'to go back to the base-line' in the game of marbles, comes the sense, 'to (have or prefer to) start again', of which B.P. remarks, 'I believe that this is the best known c.p. of Australian origin.'

get (one's or another's) back up. To make angry. See back up.

get before (one)self. To boast, threaten, be angry, unduly: low coll.: late C.19–20; ob. (Ware.) Contrast get behind oneself.

get behind, v.t. An occ. var. of get up behind, q.v.—2. See:

get behind (one)self. To forget an appointment, the date of an event, etc.: lower classes' coll.: mid-C.19–20. Ware.

get busy. See busy.

get by, v.i. To escape notice, esp. when that notice is feared or inopportune. V.t., get by with, gen. followed by it. C.20: coll., ex US. Cf. get past, q.v.—2. To make barely enough money to live on, often with connotation of great care and the active use of common-sense and intelligence: coll.: since

ca. 1925. P.B.: often, however, since ca. 1945 used ironically for 'to make a comfortable living', as in 'Oh, he gets by, you know. Got his two cars and his "little place in the country".'

get cracking—get mobile—get skates on—get stuck into it—get weaving. To respond (immediately) to an order; to get a move on: Services' (the 2nd, 3rd, 4th, general; the 1st, orig. Army and then gen.; the 5th, RAF—see separately at weaving): since ca. 1925, except stuck (ca. 1916) and the last, q.v. All usu. in the imperative. Origins: whip-cracking at the mustering of cattle; mobile and skates, obvious refs. to speed (cf. a mobile column); stuck, perhaps ex dough-kneading but prob. ex ditch-digging, road-making, mining; see weaving.—2. Hence, to think or plan seriously; to take the steps necessary to achieve an end: since 1940. Cf. organised.

get curly. To become troublesome: tailors': late C.19—20. ?ex rucking.

get dizzy. To get angry: RN: from ca. 1920. ('Taffrail'.) Perhaps cf. dizzy, n., 3.

get (one) down. To depress mentally; to exasperate or irritate: coll.: late C.19—20.

get down on. To appropriate illicitly; to steal: Aus. and NZ: C.20. E.P.; B., 1942.

get down to brass tacks. See brass tacks...

get down to it. To begin to work seriously: C.20 coll.: ?ex US.—2. To go to sleep: military coll.: from ca. 1910. F. & G.—3. To coit: coll.: C.20.

get 'em. See get them.

get egg on (one's) face. See egg on...

get encored. To have a garment returned for alterations: tailors': from ca. 1875.

get (one's) end away. (Of a man) to copulate: low and raffish: since ca. 1960. L.A. cites Peter Tinniswood, A Touch of Daniel, 1969. Cf.:-

get (one's) end in. (Of the male) to achieve copulation, to copulate: low: since ca. 1910. Leslie Thomas, The Virgin Soldiers, 1966, 'It was the place in the town for getting one's end in, they said, and it was naturally very crowded.' See end, 2.

get even (with), v.i., t. To give tit for tat, have one's revenge (on): coll. (from ca. 1880); in C.20, S.E. Ex S.E. be even with, on a par (or even terms) with.

get fell in! Fall in: c.p. among NCOs: C.20. Orig., army, then the other Services. (P-G-R.) A sol. that became consecrated.

get (one's) fingers nipped. To get into trouble for some misdeed: coll.: late C.19—20. Perhaps suggested by S.E. get one's fingers burnt.

get fits. To be impatient under defeat: lower classes':—1909 (Ware); † by ca. 1940.

get forrader. Usu. get no forrader, q.v. at forra(r)der.

get going. The v.t., set going, start, prepare, is S.E., but the v.i., to begin doing something (work or play) vigorously or very well, 'get into one's stride', is coll.: from ca. 1895. Esp. in 'Wait till I (he, etc.) get(s) going.'

get Greenwich. See Greenwich goose.

get (one's) head down. To lie down and go to sleep: Services' coll.: since ca. 1920. (Gerald Emanuel, 1945.)—2. To plead guilty in court. See AUSTRALIAN UNDERWORLD, in Appendix.

get (one's) head sharpened. To get a hair-cut. See I'm going to get...

get his. To receive a wound, an injury, esp. a fatal one: army: since ca. 1914. (Ronald Knox, Double Cross Purposes, 1937; Gerald Kersh, The Nine Lives of Bill Nelson, 1942.) Cf. get it and cop, v., 3. P.B.: the pronominal adj. may, of course, be varied: 'I got mine in Malaya. Where did you cop yours?'

get in, v.i.; get into, v.t. To effect intrmission: low coll.: C.18—20. Cf. get up.—2. (Only get in.) To strike victoriously; e.g. 'Get in with both fists': coll.:—1897. Ex get a blow in. (Ware.) P.B.: in late C.20 both these senses may be expressed by get in there.

get (someone) in. To put a story over on, to deceive with a story: Aus.: since ca. 1925. D'Arcy Niland, Call Me..., 1958, 'Old Ted Proctor... the greatest liar God ever put breath in—even he could get you in.'

get in bad. To make (someone) disliked; as v.i., to cause oneself to be disliked: adopted ex US,—1928 (OED Sup.). This usage supplanted by get in bad with..., q.v. at bad with.

get in for it. To establish oneself firmly: proletarian:—1923 (Manchor); ob. by ca. 1940.

get in (one's) hair. To annoy or irritate: adopted, ca. 1936, ex US. 'Like grit embedded in the hair', suggests L.A., while W. & F. gloss 'to irritate as lice in the hair would irritate.' Also as in 'I want to get him out of my hair', often shortened to 'I want him out of my hair.'

get in (there) knob—you're posted! A c.p. uttered when, having been posted to another district, one is determined to have a final fling, usu. sexual: RAF: WW2. See var. at knob, n., 6.

get in with (a person). In S.E., to become familiar with: hence, as coll., to become a trusted and active associate with: from ca. 1910.

get in wrong. To incur the dislike of another person: adopted ex US ca. 1932 (COD, 1934 Sup.). Cf. put in wrong with, q.v., and get in bad.

get into. Put on clothes, boots, etc.: coll.: late C.17—20. Lady Burghersh, 1813 (OED).—2. To become: coll.:—1909. Used by Ware.—3. See get in, 1.—4. To become accustomed to; to learn: coll.: from ca. 1870.—5. To come to know; hence, to know: the underground: since early 1960s. Groupie, 1968: 'The more I got into Davey, the more I felt I loved him and depended on him.' See also into.

get into a hank. To get angry: nautical: late C.19—20. Bowen.

get into bed with. To 'merge with, become a partner of, start a venture with': big businessmen's and financiers': since late 1960s. 'At a recent board meeting where such a venture was discussed, no other phrase was used' (Sir Edward Playfair, letter, 1977).

get into full swing; hot water. See swing and hot water.

get inside and pull the blinds down! A c.p. addressed to a poor horseman: Cockneys': mid-C.19—20; ob. Ware.

get it. To be punished, physically or morally; to be reprimanded: coll.: from ca. 1870. Cf. catch it.—2. To be venereally infected: low coll.: from ca. 1875.—3. As in 'He's got it', a rare var. of get (got) his.

get it cracked. A verbose colloquialisation of S.E. crack, to solve a difficulty, a code, a puzzle: uncommon before ca. 1950. See crack it, 2.

get it down fine. To have all details worked out: coll.: from ca. 1900. Ex the US sense, to know all about a man's antecedents.

get it down the (or, one's) neck. To swallow it: low coll.:—1909 (Ware); † by mid-C.20.

get it every way. To profit, whatever happens: coll.: ex US; anglicised ca. 1920.

get it hot. An elab., from ca. 1872, of get it, 1, q.v.

get it in the neck. To be defeated, thrashed (lit. or fig.), to receive a shock, to be grievously disappointed, severely reprimanded: an early occurrence is in John Kendrick Bangs, Mr Buonaparte of Corsica, 1895. An elab. of get it, 1. Cf. where Maggie wore the beads and where the chicken got the axe, both = 'in the neck'.

get it off (one's) chest. To deliver a speech; express one's feelings' (C.J. Dennis): perhaps, orig., Aus. s., from early C.20; by 1930, gen. coll.

get it off with (a female). (Of a man) to copulate: low coll.: later C.20. (P.B.)

get it on the whisper. 'To buy on hire purchase (because at one time you didn't tell the neighbours you couldn't afford to pay cash)': lower and lower-middle class: since ca. 1920. (John Gosling, 1959.)

get it (or, one's) act) together. To gain control of oneself, to become organised: the underground: since early 1960s, adopted ex US. (Groupie, 1968.) Hence, in slightly different social register, to acquire social poise. R.S. cites the Observer mag., 15 Aug. 1971. Ob. by ca. 1980; the US get it all together never 'caught on'. By 1982, sometimes shortened to get it on (Helen Armitage).

get it up. To achieve, rather than merely experience, an erection: US coll., adopted in Britain mid-1940s. But get it up her, to achieve coition (from the male point of view).

get it where the chicken got the axe. A lighter, more joc. form of get it in the neck: from ca. 1917.

get joined; get (k)nicked; get knotted. As angry, exasperated, or derisory dismissives, prob. orig. euph. for get fucked!: orig. Services, later widespread: 1st (ob. by 1980) and 3rd since ca. 1930, the 2nd since ca. 1970. But, as the article 'From the Blackboard Jungle' in New Society, 22 Aug. 1963, noted of get knackered [q.v. at knackered] and get knotted, they 'have come to mean, innocently enough, "go to hell!"; Always as imperatives, or as in 'No! they can't have 'em. Tell 'em to go and get knotted.' (P.B.) get knocked. To be punched, or knocked out: Aus. sporting coll.: late C.19–20. Baker.—2. Hence, to suffer a set-back: Aus. coll.: since ca. 1930.

get knotted! See get joined!

get Laurence. See Laurence.

get left. See left, be or get.

get (one's) leg across. To achieve mastery (of a woman): low coll.: late C.19–20. Contrast leg over, have (got) a, to be under a misapprehension.

get (one's) lines, but usu. wires, crossed. See wires crossed. get lost! Go away!: adopted ex US, ca. 1944 in Aus., ca. 1950 in Britain. L.A. adds, 1976, 'Often used in emphatic rejection, esp. of wheedling plea for help or favour'. Cf. get joined.

get marched. See marched.

get me, Steve? See got me, Steve?

get mobile. See get cracking.

get nicked! See get joined...

get no change out of. To receive no satisfaction from; fail to learn from: coll.: C.20. Cf. give no change.

get nowhere fast. To try very hard but to achieve little; perhaps through unintelligent action, but usu. because frustrated by, e.g., bureaucratic delays: coll.: since ca. 1950. (P.B.)

get-off, n. The landing of an aircraft: RNAS/RFC: early WW1. See porpoising.

get off, v.t. Deliver oneself of, utter, esp. a witticism: orig. (1849), US; Anglicised ca. 1875: coll.; slightly ob.—2. To let off; excuse; esp. from punishment: mid-C.19–20.—3. To succeed in marrying one's daughters: coll.: an early occurrence is in George Godfrey, History, 1828.—4. Hence, v.i., to get engaged or married: coll.: from ca. 1910. (Rarely of the man; then, joc.)—5. Hence, to 'click' with a member of the opposite sex: coll.: from ca. 1913.—6. V.i., to be let off a punishment, an irksome duty: escape: from ca. 1640: in C.17—early 19, S.E., then either coll. or near-coll.—7. In get off it, to stop talking, befooling or chaffing a person, playing the fool, exaggerating, etc.: mostly in imperative: coll.:—1923 (Manchon). In later C.20, superseded by come off it!—8. To cease being obnoxious, presumptuous, or meddlesome: Anglicised (ex US coll.) ca. 1929: verging on coll. Esp. in, e.g. 'I told them where to get off' or 'She told him where he could get off': the person was told to cease being a nuisance. Ex a conductor's or ticket-collector's or guard's telling a person where he gets off the tram, etc.—9. (Of a taxi-driver) to pick up a fare: taxi-drivers': from ca. 1919. Ex sense 5.

get off and milk it! 'Shouted by schoolboys at passing cycling-club riders: 1950s' (Mrs Shirley M. Pearce, 1975). P.B.: still current, 1982, when the taunt was hurled at me from the midst of a bunch of 12-year-olds. See DCpp., 2nd ed.

get off at Hillgate. To practise, to exercise, coitus interruptus: coll.: later C.20. Audrey Chamberlain, article 'Gin and Hot Baths' [on abortifacients] in New Society, 15 July 1976: 'Coitus interruptus (variously termed "pulling out", "being careful" and "getting off at Hillgate"—the bus-stop before the one for home)... Clearly there was orig. a pun on gates, which can be closed, and the mons Veneris or female pelvic mound. Cf. synon. ... Gateshead and ... Redfern.

get off (one's) bike. To get angry. See bike.

get off it! See get off, v., 7.

get off (pron. orf) me barrer! A Cockney c.p. chant: late 1940s–50s. See DCpp.

get off my back! Leave me alone!; stop being a nuisance!; orig. Aus., since ca. 1940 (B., 1953); also Brit., and as in 'I do wish they'd get off my back and let me get on with things!' (P.B.).

get off my neck! Stop trying to bluff or fool me!: a WW1 Services' c.p. (F. & G.), from the earlier, 1905–15, synon., mainly Cockney Oh, Gertie, get off my neck!

get off with. To make friends with one of the opposite sex, esp. with a view to 'a good time': coll., orig. (1914 or early 1915) military >, by 1918, gen. F. & G.—2. Hence, to have a good time together, including sexual play and intercourse: since the late 1930s, esp. among teenagers. Also as get it off with.

get off your knees! A Services c.p. addressed to one whose job seems to be too much for him or who is lazy: Sgt-Pilot F. Rhodes, letter 1942: since ca. 1920. H. & P., 1943, 'You're not beaten to your knees.' A rare RAF var., ca. 1940–5, was get off your cap-badge.

get (money, 'a bit') on. To back a horse: racing s. (from ca. 1869) >, ca. 1880, gen. coll.—2. To have connexion with (a woman): low coll.: from ca. 1870. Ex the lit. sense, to mount.—3. V.i., to succeed, prosper: coll.: from ca. 1780: in C.20, S.E. Pall Mall Gazette, 29 Dec. 1871, 'That great Anglo-Saxon passion of rising in the world, or getting on'.—4. (?hence) to fare; feel (in health): coll.: from ca. 1880.—5. Hence, also v.i., agree—or disagree—with a person, with modifying adv.; also, occ., absolutely, to agree well (with a person). Coll.: from ca. 1815. Never of things. 'We got on like a house on fire'; 'Oh, we get on, you know!' The S.E. form is get along.—6. To become elderly, or, esp., old: coll.: from ca. 1885. Abbr. getting on in years.—7. To depart: coll.: C.20. Cf. the S.E. get along.

get on (someone's) daily. To follow him. See clock, v., 5. get on it; n., getting on it. To go on a drinking bout; such a bout: Aus.: since ca. 1920. Dymphna Cusack, Say No to Death, 1951.

get on (one's) nerves. To affect morbidly, e.g. 'The clock gets on his nerves': coll. (from ca. 1870) >, by 1900, S.E. Cf.: get (a person, a thing) on the brain, or (more gen. have on one's mind). To be obsessed by, crazy about: coll.: from ca. 1870. Cf. get on one's nerves, q.v.

get on the home stretch. To be in sight of one's goal: coll.: late C.19–20. Ex cribbage.

get on (one's) tit(s). To annoy or irritate: low Aus. and Brit.: C.20. Frank Norton, 1959; B., 1959. Cf. get on (one's) wick: both phrases are used regardless of the sex of the speaker. get on to. To suspect; find out about: coll.: late C.19–20. (James Spenser, 1934.)—2. To question or reprimand (somebody), usu. in a somewhat aggressive way, as 'Well, if they haven't done anything by Friday, I should get on to them about it': coll.: C.20. (P.B.) get on toast. See toast, get on.

get on (someone's) tripe. To get on his nerves: Aus.: since ca. 1930. (F.B. Vickers, First Place to the Stranger, 1955.) Cf.:

get on (one's) wick. To exasperate, irritate, annoy: low: since ca. 1920. Wick = Hampton Wick = prick, but is still used, in all innocence, by some ignorant women—cf., in reverse, get on (one's) tits used by men, and:

get on (one's) works. To annoy—even to infuriate: Aus.: since ca. 1925. (B., 1942.) ?euph. for prec.

get (one's) one. To be promoted from aircraftman 2nd class to 1st class: RAF coll.: from ca. 1925. (Gerald Emanuel, 1945.)

get one on, v.t. and absolute. To land a punch (on): pugilists': from ca. 1880; ob.

get organised. See organised, get.

get-out, n. An evasion: coll.: C.20. In, e.g., James Spenser, Limey Breaks In, 1934. An earlier example, though in the nuance 'an escape from a difficult or dangerous position', occurs in E.H. Hornung, Raffles, 1899. The term now verges on S.E. See also get out of, from which this n. is formed.—2. In as (e.g. crowded) as all get out, to the utmost, extremely (crowded): adopted ex US (W. & F. dates it back to 1884) as occ. Brit. use, C.20.

get out, v. To depart; go away; gen. in imperative: coll.: from ca. 1710; cf. get!, q.v.—2. 'To back a horse against which one has previously laid' (F. & H.): racing:—1884. Also get round (—1893).—3. On the Stock Exchange (—1887), to sell one's shares, esp. in a risky venture. OED.—4. See round the corner, get.—5. V.i. (of things), to lengthen: coll., mostly Cockneys': from ca. 1880. Edwin Pugh, Harry the Cockney, 1912, "'Evenings are getting out, aren't they?'" get out! Tell that to the marines! Don't flatter! coll.: from ca. 1840. Dickens, 'Kit only replied by bashfully bidding his mother "get out!"' (OED).

get out and get under! An early C.20 c.p. referring mainly to motorcars; it occurred in the refrains of two popular songs. See esp. DCpp.

get out and push! A derisive c.p. directed at a motorist whose car keeps on stopping: since ca. 1925.

get out and walk. To use one's parachute: aviators' and Airborne Divisions': 1939+.

get out (one's) mad. To become (very) angry: Aus.: since ca. 1920. B., 1943.

get out of. To escape the consequences of one's folly or mistake; be excused punishment or duty: coll.: from ca. 1880; in C.20, S.E. Cf. get off, v.i., and get-out, n.

get out (of bed) on the wrong side. To be irritable, testy: coll.: from ca. 1885. Ex the S.E. to rise on the right side is accounted lucky, C.17–19. Globe, 15 May 1890, 'If we may employ such a vulgar expression—got out of bed on the wrong side.'

get out of it! A dismissive, usu. loud and offensive, directed at animals, trespassers, etc.; often represented phonetically as gerrahtavit, or similar: coll.: C.20. (P.B.)

get out of the shine! Get out of the light!: ca. 1925–40.

get outside, or outside of. To eat or drink, gen. a considerable and specified amount: low coll.: from ca. 1890. S. Watson, in Wops the Waif, 1892.—2. (Of women only) to receive a man sexually: low coll.: from ca. 1870.

get over. To overcome (an obstacle, a prejudice): coll.: from ca. 1700; since ca. 1895, S.E.—2. To recover from (illness, disappointment): coll.: mid-C.18–20; since ca. 1900, S.E.—3. To dupe, circumvent, seduce: low coll.: from ca. 1860. Cf. come over and get round.—4. To astonish, impress: coll.: ca. 1890–1915. (J. Milne, The Epistles of Atkins, 1902.) Displaced by get, v., 11.

get (one's) own back. To have one's revenge (on), get even with: coll.: from ca. 1908. (OED Sup.) Ex the recovery of property.

get past, v.i.; get past with (gen. it). To escape detection; hence to succeed against odds or justified (moral) expectation: coll.: from ca. 1915; ?orig. military. Cf. get by, q.v.

get past (one)self. To be fractions or over-excited: coll.: since ca. 1910; ob.

get pilld up. See block it.

get pipped. See bumped.

get religion. To be converted; become (very) religious: orig. (1826) US, anglicised ca. 1880; in C.19, s.; low coll. in C.20; now almost, though—thank God!—not quite S.E. Nevertheless, it is an expressive phrase that, for all its insensitive vulgarity, will prob. achieve linguistic sanctity.

get rooted! or go and...! (Go and) get fucked!: low Aus.: late C.19–20. B., 1953.

get round. To circumvent, trick: coll.; from ca. 1855, ex US (1849).—2. To persuade, cajole; hence, seduce (lit. or fig.), dupe: coll.: from ca. 1860. Cf. get over, 3.—3. To evade; arrange, to one's own satisfaction, concerning: coll.: from ca. 1895.—4. In racing, same as get out, 2.

get round the corner. See round the corner, get.

get roused on. Var. of rouse on, q.v. at rouse, 2: since ca. 1920. B., 1943.

get scrubbed. (Of the favourite or the second favourite) to lose the race: turf c.: C.20.—2. To be reprimanded: RN: late C.19–20. 'Taffrail', Pincher Martin, 1916.

get set. To warm to one's work; become thoroughly used to or skilful at it: coll.: from ca. 1895. Ex the cricket sense: (of a batsman) to get one's eye in, itself s. in the 1880s, coll. in the 90s, and j. in C.20.—2. To 'get someone set' is to bear him a grudge: Aus.: since ca. 1880. (B., 1942.) Ex have a set against.

get shit of. Low C.20 var. of get shot, or shut, of. See shut of...

get (one's) skates on. To 'get a move on', hurry. See skates and get cracking.

get slopped out. To empty one's slops: prison coll.: late C.19–20. Norman.

get some dirt on your tapes! Get some experience as an NCO—esp., before you start throwing your weight about: Services': since ca. 1920. H.&P.

get some flying hours in. 'To get some sleep' (Jackson): RAF: since ca. 1935.

get some in! The National Servicemen's (1948–62) favoured var. of:— get some service in! Synon. with get a number!: since ca. 1925. (H. & P.) Also get some time in; often simply get some in!: Partridge, 1945.

get some straight and level in. To obtain some sleep: RAF: since ca. 1939. Robert Hinde, letter, 1945.

get some time in! Old soldiers' taunt to bumptious recruit. See get some service in!

get straight, v.i. (the v.t. being S.E.). To free oneself of debt; have a complication straightened out, one's home tidy, etc., etc.: coll.: from ca. 1875.

get stuck in. As absolute, 'Right, let's get stuck in!', to start work hard and seriously: coll.: later C.20. Ex get stuck into (something), q.v. at get cracking, and next entry.—2. Hence, to tuck into one's food: low coll.: later C.20. (P.B.)

get stuck into. To 'get stuck into someone' is to fight him with one's fists: Aus.: C.20. Baker.—2. Hence, to abuse verbally: id. B., 1959.—3. To copulate with a woman: workmen's: C.20.—4. In get stuck into it!, work hard!; don't dally!: military: from 1916. B.&P., 'The metaphor is from digging' (a clayey trench). Cf. prec., 1.

get stuff on the mace. See mace...

get stuffed! Oh, run away and 'play trains!': low: late C.19–20. Cf. get joined!, q.v. See also stuff, v., 4.

get (one's) tail up. Gen. in pl and 'said of a crew which is getting out of hand and impudent to the officers': nautical: late C.19–20. Bowen.

get that across your chest! Eat that: C.20.

get that way. (Gen. how do or did you get that way?) 'To get into the condition implied': coll., orig. (—1922) US, anglicised by 1930. OED Sup.

get the ambulance! (Gen. git...) A c.p. addressed to a drunk person: urban: 1897; ob. Ware.

get the bird. To be given a bad reception: theatrical: since late C.19. See bird, n., 5.—2. Hence, to be dismissed, or sent about one's business: coll.: late C.19–20. See also give the bird. Mr S.H. Ward, 1967, tells me of a letter written by John Fabian—contained in the Lansdowne MSS., vol. 22—and dated by the British Museum as ca. 1576. Of the sentence 'Some after deride me and demaunde, what I have p[ro]fited thereby, saying that I have spounde a faire thard, have beaten the bushe, but after have gotten the birde...' Mr Ward says, 'The tone of the whole letter is one in which the modern sense of "getting the bird" would suit very well. Bewailing that his work has not brought the reward to which he believed himself entitled.'

get the cat to lick it off! Unkind advice to youths with down on cheek or incipient moustaches: early C.20.

get the chingerers on. To grumble, complain, scold; as in

'she's got the chingerers on': market traders': C.20. M.T. get the chop. To be killed, to 'go for a Burton' (q.v. at gone for...): RAF aircrews': since 1940. (W/Cdr R.P. McDouall, 1945.) Applied to aircraft, it meant to lose them on a raid. See chopped.—2. Hence, in the Services, post-WW2 and still, 1980s, current, to be removed from a course of training for any reason, usu. incapability or disciplinary. (P.B.)—3. The term has spread into civilian life since the late 1940s, with much the same sense as 2: to be dismissed from one's job or, in the case of, e.g., a politician, from a privileged position. (P.B.) get the crap on. To be afraid, 'get the wind up': low Glasgow: from ca. 1919. (MacArthur & Long.) Ex that loosening of the bowels which often results from fear.

get the goods on (someone). To learn the truth about, the 'low-down' on him: adopted, ca. 1943, ex US. (DCCLU.) Cf. pin the goods on, q.v. at pin on.

get the gooner. See gooner.

get the hell out (of here). To depart quickly; merely an intensification of 'get out': adopted, ca. 1950, ex US. Also get to hell out, and occ. even shorter, as in Alan Hunter, Gently Sahib, 1964, 'He belted across to the garage, got in the car, got to hell.'

get the lead out (of one's pants). 'Get stuck in'; start to work hard: Can.: from ca. 1940. See lead in (one's) arse, and DCpp.

get the message. See JAZZ TERMS, at message, in Appendix.

get the papers. To be indicted as an habitual criminal: c.:—1935 (David Hume). Mostly as vbl n.

get (them). (Always in form has, or have, got 'em) to have the 'd.t.s.': from ca. 1900. See got 'em bad.—2. Hence, as he's got them, he's mad: since ca. 1910.—3. To tremble with fear: WW1+; ob. mainly army.

get there. To succeed in one's object or ambition; with both feet, notably, completely. Coll.: orig. (—1883), US; anglicised ca. 1893.—2. To become intoxicated: ca. 1890–1914.—3. (Of the man) to have sexual connexion: low coll.: from ca. 1860.

get through, v.i. To pass an examination; succeed: coll.: from ca. 1850; in C.20, S.E. 'Cuthbert Bede', 1853, 'So you see, Giglamps, I'm safe to get through.'—2. V.t., to spend: late C.19–20; coll. till ca. 1920, then S.E.—3. V.t., to complete; do: coll.: late C.17–20; coll.; then, in C.19–20, S.E. 'He gets through an astounding amount of work—largely because he loves work.'—4. To copulate with (a woman): low: late C.19–20. But orig. and strictly, to take a girl's virginity.—5. 'To obtain drugs (US term)' (Home Office): drug addicts': 1970s.

get through to (someone). To succeed in getting a (dim-witted) person to understand something: coll.: prob. since the 1930s, but little heard before late 1940s. (A reminder, 1974, from Mr A.B. Petch.) Perhaps ex telephone communication.

get to. To begin to (do something): coll.: from ca. 1870. Nevinson, 1895.

get to fuck. Go away, usu. in expanded form, 'Let's...' or 'Why don't you'—'get to fuck out of here (?)'; an elab. of get fucked!, with, in the first example, an assumption that it might have been applied to oneself: low: later C.20. Perhaps influenced by Scot (get) ava' fae fuck! An intensification of the phrase, adopted ex US, get to hell out of here. See get the hell ... (P.B.)

get to wind'ard of. See wind'ard of, get to.

get-together. A (usu. informal) meeting or assembly: coll.: since ca. 1925. (Sydney Moseley, God Help America!, 1952.) Ex:-

get together, v.i. To help each other, one another: coll.: from ca. 1920. Ex S.E. sense, to meet, assemble (late C.17–20): cf. the US sense, to meet in amicable conference, to come to terms.

get tonked. To be punched; to be defeated: Aus.: since ca. 1920. (Baker.) Ex tonk, 1, q.v.

get tore! Get a move on!: Services': since ca. 1930; † by 1950. P-G-R.

get tossed. To lose money on a horse-race: Aus. sporting: C.20. Lawson Glassop, 1949.

get under (someone's) neck. To beat or outwit or circumvent (someone): Aus.: since ca. 1930. (B., 1953.) Lit., to get in front of him; ex horse-racing.

get-up, n. Dress; general appearance, so far as it is prepared or artificial; coll.: from ca. 1847. Whyte-Melville, George Eliot.—2. Hence, a masquerade dress; a disguise: coll.: from ca. 1860. (G.A. Sala.) All these nuances are in C.20 to be considered S.E.—3. 'Style of production or finish, esp. of a book, 1865' (SOD): publishers' coll. that, in C.20, is S.E.—4. A 'framing', a 'frame-up' (a trumped-up case): c.: since mid 1940s. Peter Crookston, Villain, 1967, 'I can't really get annoyed when the police have a get-up against Harry.' Ex coll. get up a case, to prepare one.—5. Any criminal or, at the least, illegal dodge or play, a 'ramp': since ca. 1960. G.F. Newman, Sir, You Bastard, 1970.

get up, v. To make, esp. as regards appearance or embellishment: always with adv. or adv. phrase: coll.: from ca. 1780; in C.20, S.E. Leigh Hunt, 'The pocket books that now contain any literature are got up, as the phrase is, in the most unambitious style.'—2. V. reflexive, to dress: coll.: from ca. 1855; in C.20, S.E. Albert Chevalier, 1892, in The Little Nipper, 'E'd get 'imself up dossy.' Hence to disguise oneself: coll.: from ca. 1860; in C.20, S.E. Also (though less gen.), from ca. 1860, v.i., as is the anon. Eton School Days, 1864, 'He felt confident in his power of getting up so that no one would recognise him.'—3. V.i., to rise in the morning: from ca. 1580: S.E. till ca. 1880, then increasingly coll.—4. V.t., prepare (a case, role, subject, paper); arrange (e.g.) a concert: from ca. 1770, though anticipated in late C.16–17; in C.19, coll.; but from ca. 1905, again S.E.—5. V.t., to have carnal knowledge of a woman: coll.: since C.17. In John Aubrey's Brief Lives, written in 1679–96, we hear of Sir Walter Raleigh 'getting up one of the mayds of honour'—6. (Of a horse) to win: Aus. racing: C.20. Lawson Glassop, Lucky Palmer, 1949.

get up! (To a horse) go! get a move on! Coll.: from ca. 1887 (OED). Occ. joc. to persons: C.20.

get up and go, n. A person's energy, initiative, courage; a car's acceleration, a lawn-mower's reliability, etc.: coll.: adopted ex US, perhaps first in Aus.; by 1950, fairly common in Brit., esp. of a person. By ca. 1980, slightly ob., but preserved in the pun, 'My get up and go just got up and went.' (B.P.: P.B.)

get up and look at you. (Of the ball) 'to rise very slowly after pitching': cricketers' joc. coll.:—1888 (Lewis).

get up (one's) back. To exasperate, to infuriate, one: coll.: later C.20. (Harry Cole, Policeman's Progress, 1980, p. 56). Cf. synon. get up (one's) nose, and the much earlier get (one's) back up.

get up behind. (V.t., with personal object) to endorse or back a man's bill or I.O.U. Vbl n., getting up behind. Coll., mainly commercial: from ca. 1870.

get up early. See early.

get up the mail. To provide money for a prisoner's defence: c.:—1889. Cf. mail in S.E. blackmail.

get (a girl) up the stick. To render her pregnant: Universities' and Public Schools': since ca. 1945, at latest. Cf. up the spout. J.I.M. Stewart, A Memorial Service, 1976.

get up them stairs! A c.p. to a man (esp. if married) going on leave: Services (perhaps mostly RAF): since ca. 1940. Before the phrase gained widespread and broadcast renown, i.e. before 1942, it used often to be prec. or, more often, followed by Blossom, generic for a woman's name.

get up to, as in 'What's he getting up to?'—What mischief is he doing or planning?: coll.: late C.19–20.

get weaving. See weaving, 2.

get weighed off. See weighed off.

get wet. 'To become incensed, ill-tempered' (C.J. Dennis): Aus.:—1916. Perhaps ex wet, adj., 1 and 2.

get with it. See JAZZ TERMS, in Appendix, and with it, be.

get worked! A low Aus. expletive: C.20. (Dal Stevens, Jimmy Brockett, 1951.) See work it ...

get (a person) wrong, gen. in form have got (him) wrong. To misunderstand; have a wholly or mainly wrong opinion or impression of him. C.20; 7ex US. Cf. get in wrong, q.v. P.B.: in later C.20 'Don't get me wrong' is a common coll. way of saying 'Please don't misunderstand me (or, my motives)'. get you! (emphatic you). Female teenagers' c.p. used to 'deflate' a conceited young man: late 1950s. (Gilderdale.) get – or go and get – your brain(s) examined! A disparaging, or a derisive, c.p.: since ca. 1920. get your ears dropped! Your hair needs cutting: facetious Cart. c.p.: since ca. 1955. (Leechman.) Cf. the get your ears put back!, WW1 army c.p. for 'keep your hair closely trimmed'. get your eye in a sling! This proletarian c.p. of late C.19–20 (ob.) constitutes a 'warning that you may receive a sudden and early black eye, calling for a bandage—the sling in question' (Ware). get your finger out! Get a move on! See take your finger out! get your hair cut! A 'non-U' c.p. of ca. 1882–1912. Ex a popular song. See esp. Dcpp. get your knees brown! 'Men with Overseas service to their credit tell Home Service chaps to do this' (H. & P.): army and RAF: since ca. 1925.—2. Hence, 'said by second- and third-year Overseas soldiers and airmen to first-year Overseas men' (L.A., writing of WW2); and so the taunt continued, and continues (early 1970s) in the post-war years in Egypt, Malaya, Cyprus... (P.B.) get your knickers untwisted! often prec. by you want to. Among men: Clarify your ideas!; elude an impasse: since ca. 1950. P.B.: since the late 1960s the predominant form has been don't get your knickers in a twist! See knickers in a twist. get your steel helmets (or tin hats)! The army's (1940–5) 'answer' to the RAF's line! 'Often accompanied by the gesture of handle-turning, like that of a street organist, to the tune of da-di-da-da' (Bebington). getaway. See get away. getaway man (coll., become semi-official); or lucky Charlie (s.). On a patrol, that man who, keeping in the rear, was detailed, in an emergency, to escape and report: army coll.: 1940–5. getter, a sure. 'A procreant male with a great capacity for fertilisation' (F. & H.): Scottish coll.: C.19–20.—2. See go-getter. getting a big boy now. Of age: a c.p. 'applied satirically to strong lusty young fellows': late C.19–20; slightly ob. Ex the 'leading phrase of the refrain of a song made popular by Herbert Campbell' (Ware). In C.20, also getting a big girl now, applied to the other sex. getting any?; also getting any lately? and getting enough? A low c.p. used by men, esp. at meeting: Aus.: since ca. 1930. It implies 'Have you been amorously successful lately?' (B., 1959). Baker records these 'formulas of reply': climbing trees to get away from it!—got to swim under water to dodge it!—so busy I've had to put a man on (to help me)! Claiborne notes that the US/Can. form is getting much?: US since ca. 1925. The Brit. version is the elliptical lately?, q.v. getting off or out, with ref. to coitus interruptus. See get off at Hillgate; Gateshead; Redfern, 2. getting ox-tail soup. The maiming of cattle by cutting off their tails: Anglo-Irish: ca. 1867–83. Ware. geyser. Incorrect for geezee, q.v.: late C.19–20. Gezira Box, the. Base troops at Cairo: army in N. Africa: 1941–3. (P-G-R.) Ex the 'boxes' that formed the defence plan in the desert fighting. Cf. Groppi's Light Horse. gezondheid! See geluk! gezump(h); gezumph. See gazump. Ghan, the. 'The fortnightly train running between Adelaide and Alice Springs' (B., 1942); 'since the 1950s the service is weekly' (Mrs C. Raab): Aus.: since ca. 1930. Short for Afghan: from those camel-trains which were so often conducted by the Afghan cameleers, as in, 'One old Ghan cameleer... had ridden from Alice Springs to Oodnadatta... 355 miles away without undue fatigue' (Archer Russell, A Tramp Royal in Australia, 1934): there, Ghan is a coll., dating since ca. 1890. Ghardimaou Yeomanry, the. The 2nd Corps Reinforcement Unit, mobilised as infantry at the time of the German threat at Kasserine: army in N. Africa: WW2. This unit was stationed at Ghardimaou in Tunisia. P-G-R.

gharry. See garry.

ghastly. A vaguely pej. or a merely intensive adj.: coll.: from ca. 1860. Thackeray, 'A ghastly farce'; Denis Mackail, The 'Majestic' Mystery, 1924, "'Ghastly," said Peter. "Filthy," answered James' (of the weather). In C.20, a frequent injunction is 'Don't be a ghastly idiot!', as in F. Grierson, Mystery in Red, 1931. Cf. awful, bloody, filthy, foul.

ghastly. A pej. or merely intensive adv. E.g. 'ghastly early in the morning'. Coll.: from ca. 1870. Cf. shocking(ly).

ghaut serang. 'A crimp in the Indian ports': nautical coll.: late C.19–20. Bowen.

ghee factory. Any unit of the Royal Indian Army Service Corps: WW2. Because of their predilection for ghee (Indian clarified butter). See also Rice Corps.

ghee-guts. A fat man: army in Far East: 1950s–60s. (P.B.)

gherkin. A recruit: army: from ca. 1908; †. Ex his greenness.—2. A jerkin, 'a leathern sleeveless coat issued in the winter' (B. & P.): joc. army: 1915+.—3. Penis: Aus. low coll.; not unknown in UK, as in jerkin' (one's) gherkin, masturbation, influenced by both rhyme and shape: since ca. 1950. (McNeil; P.B.)

Ghoraniyeh scurry, the. A swift withdrawal, westwards from Es Salt, across the Jordan at El Ghoraniyeh bridge, early May 1918: army in Palestine. (S.F. Hatton, The Yarn of a Yeoman, 1930.) Cf. Flap, the, q.v. (P.B.)

ghost, n. One who, unknown to the public, does literary or artistic work for which another gets all the credit and most of the cash: from ca. 1884: orig. journalistic or artistic s., then—ca. 1890—gen. coll., then—ca. 1910—S.E.—2. Meat: army: late C.19–20. (B. & P.) Ex Hindustani.—3. Salary; but rare outside of the ghost walks, q.v.—4. In long ghost, a very tall, thin person: coll.:—1923 (Manchon); ob. by ca. 1940. Cf. (long) streak of misery.—5. A radio officer: Services': WW2. H. & P.—6. An intrusive secondary image on a TV screen: since ca. 1950: television coll. >, by 1965, S.E.—7. See not the ghost of...

ghost, v.i. To do unrecognised, and prob. ill-paid, work for another in art or literature: from ca. 1885: ex, and of the same 'social' ascent as ghost, n., 1.—2. To shadow, spy upon: coll.: from ca. 1880: ob. Rarely v.i. Ex S.E. sense, haunt as an apparition. Cf. later C.20 spook.—3. See ghosting.

ghost gun. A machine-gun operated from a distance by cable: army in Italy: 1943–4.

ghost in goloshes, the. The BBC time-signal: since ca. 1938; †.

ghost of Joan. A nursing sister: military (not very gen.): 1915: ob. (F. & G.) Perhaps suggested by St John's (Ambulance).

ghost story. A 'bad luck' story: tramps' c.:—1932 (F. Jennings, Tramping with Tramps). Ex US: see Irwin.

ghost walks, the;... does not walk. There is, is not, any money for salaries and wages: theatrical: 1853, in Household Words, no. 183. Ex Hamlet, I, i.

ghostex. A full night's work preceded by a full day's work: builders': C.20. (A master builder, 1953.)

ghosting, vbl n. Transferring an inmate from one prison to another for disciplinary reasons: prisons': 1970s. BBC Radio 3, The Prisoners, a documentary programme broadcast 25 July 1978.

ghosty. A ghost, esp. if small or friendly: coll.: from ca. 1900. Ex the joc. but S.E. adj.

ghoul. A newspaperman chronicling even the pettiest public and private gossip or slander (cf. Oscar Wilde's witty differentiation); journalists': ca. 1880–1915. Ex Arabic ghul, a body-snatching demon.

ghoulie. See goolie, 2.

giant. (Gen. pl.) A very large 'stick' of asparagus: restaurants' coll.: from ca. 1880. Ware.—2. Dynamite: (esp.

Can.) miners': C.20. A small stick has tremendous power. 'Giant was a trade mark for one brand of dynamite, and may still be' (Leechman, 1967).

giant-killer, the. Whisky: army officers': from ca. 1910; † (Blaker.) Cf. tigers' milk.

Gib. Gibraltar: military and civil service s. > gen. coll.: from ca. 1850. Once a convict settlement: whence the next entry. 'A Merchant', Six Years in the Prisons of England, 1869.

gib. A gaol: c.—1877; ob. by 1914, † by 1921. Ex prec.—2. A forelock: nautical: late C.19–20. (B. & L.) Prob. ex a whale's gib.—3. In hang (one's) gib or jib, to pout: nautical s. (ca. 1860) >, ca. 1890, gen. coll.; ob. Cf. gib-face.—4. Nose: RN lowerdeck: late C.19–mid-20.—5. As var. of jib in cut of (one's) jib, q.v. (W.G. Carr, 1939; Moe.) See also jib, n., 1.—6. See gibs.

gib-cat. See melancholy as a gib-cat.

gib-face. A heavy jaw, an ugly face: coll.: mid-C.19–20; ob. (H., 2nd ed.) Ex jib, the lower lip of a horse.

gibber, n. (pron. ghibber). A stone suitable for throwing: Aus. Wilkes's earliest citation for this sense is Dan Healey, The Cornstalk, 1893. Ex Aboriginal.

gibberish, gib(b)rish, giberish, gibbridge, gibrige, gibberidge. In C.16—early 19, in the sense of underworld s. and gipsy j., the word seems to have had a coll., even a s., taint. Prob. not ex gibber, than which it is earlier recorded, but from Egyptian, which, until recently, was gen. associated with gipsy. (For modern gibberish, in technical sense, see Slang, p. 278.)

gibbey. 'Taffrail's' preferred var. of gibby.

gibble-gabble. Var. of gabble-gabble.

gibby. A spoon: RN:—1901 (Goodenough). Perhaps ex dial. gibby (stick), a hooked stick.—2. 'A round cap worn by new entries in a training ship' (Granville): RN: since ca. 1930.

gibel. To bring: c.:—1837; †. Disraeli in Venetia, his underworld novel.

giblet pie (or G.P.), the. 'The American extreme clipper Spindrift, a particularly lofty ship said to be "all legs and wings"' (Bowen): nautical: late C.19—early 20.

giblets. The intestines: coll.:—1864 (Browning).—2. A fat man: low coll.: C.19.—3. See join giblets, to marry or cohabit.

gibs. 'Guys in the Back Seat (Navigators)' (S/Ldr G.D. Wilson, 1979); RAF air crews': 1970s. Cf. gifs, q.v.

Gibson or Sir John Gibson. 'A two-legged stool, used to support the body of a coach whilst finishing' (Grose, 2nd ed.): coach-builders': late C.18—early 19..

giddy, in coll. speech, emphasises the word it precedes: late C.19–20. Manchon cites 'Up to the giddy hilt'; see also giddy aunt!, giddy goat.

giddy aunt!, my. A trivial, senseless exclam.: coll.: 1919 (W.N.P. Barbellion: OED Sup.). An elab. of my aunt!, q.v.

giddy giddy gout! your shirt's hanging out! A schoolchildren's chant: C.20. In Aus., notes B.P., giddy giddy gout is the child whose shirt is hanging out.

giddy goat. The totalisator or 'tote': Aus. rhyming s.: since ca. 1925. B., 1945.—2. In play the giddy goat, q.v., to play the fool; hence vbl n. giddy-goating; 1891 (OED).—3. Hence, a fool, a buffoon, one who plays the giddy goat: coll.: C.20.

giddy kipper – whelk – whelp. A youth about town: London; ca. 1895–1914. Ware derives the first from giddy skipper, the second from the first, the third from the second. The term survived as a Cockney c.p., giddy little kipper or whelk, for a further two decades or so, used in approbation, to oneself or another, of the clothes worn, esp. on a festive occasion.—2. (giddy kipper only.) 'A term of reproach at the Cheltenham Grammar School' (EDD, 1900).

giddy limit, the. The orig. form—English, esp. Cockney—of 'the dizzy limit': since the 1890s. Julian Franklyn, letter of 1962, instances 'It is—you are—they are—the giddy limit'.

Gideon Force. Wingate's gallant little force in Abyssinia (1941). Biblical Gideon smote his enemies hip and thigh.

giever. A life-saving jacket sold by Messrs Gieves, the naval outfitters: RN wardrobe: since ca. 1946.

gifs. 'Guys in the Front Seat (Pilots)' (S/Ldr G.D. Wilson): RAF aircrews': 1970s. Cf. gibs, q.v.

gift. Anything very easily obtained or won; an easy task: coll.: from ca. 1830. Cf. bunce.—2. A stolen article sold very cheap: c. of ca. 1850–90. Mayhew, 1851 (EDD).—3. See gift-house.—4. In (would) not have as a gift, not to want at any price, even for nothing: coll. Thomas Hughes, Tom Brown's School Days, 1857.

gift-house, occ. abbr. gift. A benefit club: printers': from ca. 1870; ob.

gift of the gab. 'A facility of speech, nimble-tongued eloquence' (Grose, 1st ed.): low coll.: from ca. 1780. (Shelley in Edipus Tyrannus.) Earlier (? ca. 1640), gift of the gob, as in B.E.: the form prevalent until ca. 1780.—2. As gift of the gob, it meant, late C.17–18, to be wide-mouthed.

gifted, adj. (Usu. of men) homosexual, as in 'Is he gifted?': ? orig. Can.: since ca. 1925. 'Presumably because so many of them are' (Leechman).

gifts. See full of gifts...

gig, in C.17–18 often gigg, n. Of the ten Eng. senses listed by F. & G., those of a wanton (or a flighty girl),—a jest or piece of nonsense,—fun, a spree,—and a vehicle have always been S.E.—2. The nose: later C.17—early 19 c., as is the sense, pu'denda muliebria. Coles, 1676; B.E.—3. A door: prob. c.: late C.18—early 19. Abbr. gigger = jigger, q.v.—4. (Esp. of a person.) An oddity: Eton, 1777 (SOD.); † by 1870. Colman.—5. A farthing: mid-C.19–20; ob. (H., 1859.)? ex grig.—6. The mouth: low:—1871; † by 1900. Perhaps cf. gib-face; H. considers it to derive ex grig.—7. An engagement to play at a party for one evening: dance bands': since ca. 1935. (Stanley Jackson, An Indiscreet Guide to Soho, 1946.) Ex S.E. gig, a dance. This sense was, ca. 1966, adopted by hippies and, in 1967, by the Flower People. Peter Fryer in the Observer colour sup., 3 Dec. 1967.—8. A young lady: Aus.: since the 1920s. Perhaps ex giggle, but cf. sense 1. Kylie Tennant, 1953.—9. A simpleton, a dupe: Aus.: since ca. 1930. (B., 1953.) Whence 'to gig' or lure simpletons: B., 1953.—10. A shortened form of fizz-gig, 2: Aus. c.: since ca. 1935. Hence the rhyming Moreton Bay gig, itself often shortened to Moreton Bay. B., 1953.—11. A detective: Aus.: since ca. 1935. (B., 1959.) Hence, any 'person of intrusive curiosity' (McNeil, 1973).—12. One's hobby, talent, ambition, current craze; what affords one the greatest pleasure: adopted, late 1960s; ex US. For US usage, see DCCU, 171, and W.&F., 1975.—13. An entertainment, e.g., a 'pop', jazz, folk band: performers' and fans' > coll.: since early 1960s. (Groupie, 1969.) Ex sense 7.—14. See it's a gig!

gig, v. To hamstring. 'To gig a Smithfield hank; to hamstring an overdrove ox' (Grose, 1785): late C.18—early 19: either low or, less prob., c. Origin obscure, unless ex gig, to throw out, give rise to (see the OED's v., 1).—2. To tease, make fun of (someone): since ca. 1945. B., 1953.—3. So to toss a coin that it does not spin: Aus. two-up-players': since ca. 1910. Also 'to butterfly' or 'to float'. B., 1953.—4. To stare (at someone): Aus.: since late 1930s. (B., 1959.) Cf. synon. geek.

gig-lamps (or solid). Spectacles: Oxford University, 1848; by 1860, gen. s. Ex the lamps on a gig.—2. One who wears spectacles: from ca. 1854. Popularised by 'Cuthbert Bede'.

gigg. See gig, n. and v.

gigger. A sewing-machine: tailors': from ca. 1880.—2. One who wears giggers, spectacles, itself ex giglamps. At Westward Ho! the short-sighted schoolboy Kipling was nicknamed Gigger, which was, of course, a general nickname for all such persons.—3. Other senses: at jigger.

giggle, n. A group or 'bunch', or crowd of girls: originating as a noun of assembly, it had, by ca. 1935, become a cultured coll. Berta Ruck, Pennies from Heaven, 1940, 'Picked her out of a giggle of society debutantes.' Ex giggling, as in 'a lot of giggling girls'.—2. 'When the show or party is fun—it's a giggle, or it's a screech' (Gilderdale, 2): smart young set (esp. girls'): ca. 1955–60. But also low s.: since ca. 1945, as in Norman. Cf. no giggle, q.v.

giggle and titter. A bitter (beer): rhyming s., mainly theatrical: C.20. Franklyn, Rhyming.

giggle-hat. Worn with a giggle-suit: Aus. soldiers': WW2. B., 1943.

giggle-house. A lunatic asylum: Aus.: since ca. 1925. D'Arcy Niland, Call Me ..., 1958, 'Unless something's done he'll end up in the giggle-house. And that'll finish her.'

giggle-mug. 'A habitually smiling face': Cockneys:—1909 (Ware).

giggle-smoke. Marijuana: the term was used by Fritz Spiegel in the Listener, 4 Jan. 1979, in a list of synon. for the drug. Orig. US; Barnhart cites a quot'n from 1970. (P.B.)

giggle-stick. The penis: low: C.20. Cf. joy-stick, 2, and gigging-pin.—2. A stick, a spoon, used to stir a cocktail or other mixed alcoholic drink: Aus.: since ca. 1920. (B., 1942.) A perversion of swizzle-stick.

giggle-suit. Working dress; overalls: Aus. soldiers': 1939+. (Rats, 1944.) Cf. a comic appearance.—2. Hence, prison clothes: Aus.: c.: since ca. 1945. B., 1959.

giggle-water. Champagne: since ca. 1910. Ex its effect. Granville, 1962, notes caustically: 'Sarcastic allusion to the "unseamanlike" drinks popular with young officers of today. Over-indulgence in cocktails makes their girl friends giggle, hence the old-timers' jibe at effeminacy.'

giggles-nest. See found a giggles-nest?!, have you.

gigging-pin. A var. of giggle-stick (penis): C.20.

giggy. Anus: low Can.: C.20. Hence, up your giggy!, a low c.p. of contemptuous rejection: id.

giggler, giggler, giglet, giglot, goglet. A wanton woman; a giddy, romping girl (not in gig(gler) form). The -er term may be c., C.17–18; the other is S.E., the same applying to the adj. and to the adv. giglet-wise.

gigs!, by. A mild, rather foolish oath: ca. 1550–1700.

Gilbert, over the. See over the Gilbret.

gilded ballocks, have. To be extremely lucky: army: since ca. 1936. Cf. golden ballocks.

gilded moonshine. Bogus bills of exchange: ca. 1820–1910, but ob. as early as 1880. (Bee.) Ex the metaphorical S.E. sense of moonshine: unreality.

gilded staff, the. 'The staff on board a flagship, the wearers of aiguillettes' (Granville): RN officers': since ca. 1910. But in the Army, much earlier: it is used by Rudyard Kipling in Departmental Ditties, 1887 (R.S.). By 1915, coll.; by 1945, S.E. gilderoy. A proud person: Newfoundland: C.20. Cf. In Newfoundland simile (as proud as Gilderoy or Guilderoy; both forms are recorded by L.E.F. English, Historic Newfoundland, 1955. G(u)ilderoy is here taken as the type of old, aristocratic Norman–English surname. Cf. the prob. orig. Scot. hanged higher than Gilderoy's kite.

gile hather. See gyle hather.

Giler, the. St Giles, Oxford: Oxford undergraduates': late C.19–20. Collinson. 'OXFORD -ER' the, 2.

Giles's (or St Giles's) bread, as applied to the 'fat, ragged, and saucy' (Grose, 2nd ed.), is perhaps to be considered rather coll. than S.E.: C.18–early 19.

gilguy. Anything whose name has slipped the memory: nautical: from ca. 1880; ob. R. Brown, Spun yarn and Spindrift, 'Sailors ... if the exact name of anything they want happens to slip from their memory ... call it a chicken-fixing, or a gadget, or a gill-guy' (OED Sup.). Ex gilguy, 'often applied to inefficient guys' (for bearing boom or derrick), Smyth. Cf. jigger, gadget (q.v.), thingummy, what's-his-name, and: gilhickie (or -y). Synon. of prc.: since ca. 1930. A blend of gilguy + doohickie.

gilk or gilke. A skeleton key: early C.17 c. (Rowlands.)? gilt corrupted.

gill (or gill), a wench, and gill flirt have always, pace F. & H., been S.E.; but gill, a fellow, a chap, is low s. or c.: Vaux, 1812; extremely ob. Gen. with another term, says Vaux, who aligns gloak and gory.

gill-ale. 'Physic-ale', says B.E., who, since a gill is only one-quarter of a pint, would seem to mean medicinal ale (? stout): coll.: ca. 1670–1750.

gill-guy. See gilguy.

Gillie Potters. Trotters. I think possibly both pig's and people's' (Red Daniells, 1980): rhyming s.: mid-C.20. G.P., a radio comedian very popular in 1940s–early 50s.

gillflower. One wearing 'a canary or belcher fogle round his twist [neck]' (Bee): low London: ca. 1820–50. If he wears many more colours he is a tulip.

Gillpots, Mr Gillpots. Sobriquets for a drunkard: market-traders': C.20. M.T.

gills. The flesh under the ears and jaws: since Francis Bacon's 'Redness about the cheeks and gills': in C.19–20, pace the OED, the term has a very coll. hue, esp. in rosy about the gills, cheerful,—blue, green, yellow or queer about ... , dejected, indisposed,—and white ... frightened. In C.19–early 20 boxing s., a cant, or dig, in the gills = a punch in the face; and low coll. grease the gills, to eat a very good meal: C.19–early 20.—2. The corners of a stand-up collar: 1826 (SOD). Hence, by 1859 (H., 1st ed.), a stand-up collar: † with the fashion.

gilly. One of the audience: (circus) Parylare:—1933 (E. Seago). Ex:—2. A man, a fellow: market traders': late C.19–20. A dim. of gill, q.v., a fellow. Cf. c. cull and cully.

gilpy. A youth: naval: C.19. (Bowen.) Perhaps suggested by hobbledehoy, likewise 'less than a man and more than a boy', but ex Scots gilpy, a lively young person.

gilt, n. Money: late C.16–20; S.E. until ca. 1820, then s. In C.20 Aus., also wealth. C.J. Dennis. Cf. gelt, q.v.—2. A skeleton key: c.: ca. 1670–1840 (Coles; B.E.).—3. Whence, since ca. 1840, likewise in c., a crowbar. ('Pronounced gilt', says 'Ducange Anglicus'.)—4. Also c., a thief, esp. a pick-lock: ca. 1620–1830.—5. 'A Slut or light Housewife' (B.E.): late C.17–18.—6. A gilt-edged security: financial: since ca. 1915. W.B.M. Ferguson, Somewhere off Borneo, 1936.

gilt, adj. Having golden or very fair hair: c.: from ca. 1920. Gilt Kid, 1936.

gilt-dubber. A C.18–19 form of gilt. (Grose, 1st ed.) Also rum dubber, q.v.

gilt-edged. (Of 'paper', i.e. shares, bills, etc.) exceptionally easy to negotiate: ex US (from ca. 1860: The Galaxy, July 1867, p. 278), anglicised ca. 1895. By 1890, Standard Am. English; by 1940, S.E. Ex gilt-edged notepaper. (E.P.; Moe.)—2. Hence, first-class: coll.: from ca. 1898 in Britain.

gilt-horn. A complacent cuckold: C.18. Because well-fee'd. gilt off the gingerbread, take the. To destroy an illusion; lessen a value: coll.:—1830. Apperson.

gilt-tick. 'Money as represented by gold coins' (B. & L.): costermongers': from ca. 1840; ob. by ca. 1930.

Gilted Gabbart, the. Greenock: Port-Glaswegians' late C.19–20. Ex 'a gilt ship used as a vane on the Customs House Quay' (Bowen).

gilter. A (pick-lock) thief: c.: late C.17–18 c. (Warning for Housekeepers, 1676.) See gilt, n., 2 and 4.

gimbal (occ. gimber)-jawed. Very talkative, in gen. and in particular: coll.: C.19. Ex the lit. US sense, loose-jawed:—1859.

gimcrack, showy simpleton or trifle, gew-gaw, and handyman, is S.E.; as 'a spruce Wench', B.E., it is perhaps s. (mid-C.17–early 19 low). An early occurrence is in Mr Arrowsmith, The Reformation, 1673, at III, ii (Moe).—2. The female pudend: low: C.19.

gimnick. Var. of gimmick.

gimlet. A half-glass of whiskey: (mostly Anglo-Irish) public-houses':—1935.—2. A gin and lime: RN. A 'drink suggested by Sir T.O. Gimlette, a naval surgeon from 1879 to 1917. It was considered that the drinking of neat gin was bad for naval officers' health, and Sir T.O. Gimlette introduced the dilution of the gin with limejuice' (Granville).

gimme! A slurring of 'give me': C.19–20. Hence the orig. US c.p., adopted ca. 1960, gimme! gimme! gimme!, which characterises the taker, not the giver (Mrs M.C. Thomson).

gimmer. A woman, esp. an old one: pej., standard >, ca. 1850, coll.; Scottish: from ca. 1770. In Pennines dial., an old sheep.—2. Hence, a female gossip: market-traders': C.20. M.T.

gimmick. A conjurer's trick: magicians': adopted, ca. 1930, ex US. Cf. fake, 1, and several senses of fake, n.—2. Hence, any device or plan or trick calculated to ensure success: since mid-1930s in Can.; since ca. 1946 in Brit. In later C.20 esp. assoc. with advertising and sales-draw.—3. The brake on a gambling wheel: Can. carnival s.: since ca. 1920. Poss. echoic, or poss. from same orig. as senses 1 and 2. See gaffer, n., 12.

gimp. A simpleton; a fool: Aus.: since ca. 1925. (B., 1942.) A corruption of American gink, 'chap, fellow'?

gimp up, v.i. and v. reflexive. To dress oneself up smartly: army: since ca. 1910. Ex North Country dial, gimp, 'to ornament with grooves, to put into scallops'.

gimpy. Lame in the leg: Can.: adopted, ca. 1930, ex US. The adj. of c. gimp, a lame leg, hence a lame person. (Priestley.)

gin. A native woman (—1830; anticipated in 1798): Aus. Hence, 1830, the wife of an Aborigine. Orig. coll., but by 1860 standard Aus. Ex Aboriginal. Morris.—2. Hence, from ca. 1880, occ. facetious of any woman or wife; also, an old woman:—1893; ob.

gin and fog. (Of a voice) hoarse with that peculiar quality of 'fruitiness' which spirituous indulgence causes: orig. theatrical from ca. 1880 (Ware); since ca. 1930 gen. urban coll.

Gin and Gospel Gazette. Morning Advertiser: Journalists': later C.19. Also known as the Tap-Tub and the Beer-and-Bible Gazette: the first and second terms by 1860; witness H., who further notes 'Tizer'.

gin and it. Gin and Italian vermouth: C.20. Cf. gin and French, coll. abbr. for gin and French vermouth.

gin and Jaguar belt, the. 'The upper-class districts of [esp.] Surrey, and a fruitful area for worth-while housebreaking' (Powis): since ca. 1955. The Jaguar refers to the expensive motorcar highly favoured as a status symbol in the expensive residential area around London. Cf.:-

gin and Jaguar bird. 'A wealthy (usually married) woman from this [see prec.] area and in some senses likely to be "racy", "with it" or sexually accommodating' (Powis): 1970s.

gin-and-tatters. A dilapidated dram-drinker: coll.:—1887 (Baumann).

gin-bottle. A 'dirty, abandoned, ... debased woman ...', the victim of alcoholic abuse, within an ace of inevitable death': low urban:—1909 (Ware); by ca. 1935, ob.

gin-bud. A gin-induced tumour or pimple on the face: low: ca. 1820–95. (Bee; Baumann.) Cf. brandy-blossom.

gin burglar. Synon. with gin-jockey: Aus.: Wilkes's earliest quot'n is from W.E. Harney, North of 23°, 1947.

gin-coaster. A pink gin with soda: Brit. W. Africa: since ca. 1880.

gin-crawl. A drinking-bout on gin: low coll. Ware quotes The Bird o' Freedom, 7 Mar. 1883. Cf. pub-crawl.

gin-jockey. A white man habitually consorting with Aboriginal women (gins): Aus. rural, esp. in the North: since ca. 1920. Margaret Henry, Unlucky Dip, 1960.

gin ken. A gin shop: low: late C.18–19. See quot'n at nab the bib.

gin-lane. The throat: low: from ca. 1830. Cf. gin-trap.—2. The habit of drunkenness, esp. on gin: from ca. 1835. Ainsworth, 'Gin Lane's the nearest road to the churchyard.'

Gin Palace, gen. the. Any RN vessel named Agin-court: RN: C.19–20. ('Taffrail'; Bowen.) A pun.—2. As gin palace. 'Armoured Command vehicle or "Dorchester" ... The nerve centre of the armoured brigades' (H. & P.): military: since 1940. Cf.: 3. 'Any impressive interior, such as that of a static A.A. Command Post' (H. & P.): since 1941. Ex the elaborateness and the apparent comfort.—4. 'Staff car. Any luxurious vehicle for the use of a superior officer' (Frank Roberts, letter, 1946): army: 1942. P.B.: occ. as gin wagon. Sense 2, for any large radio, or command, vehicle, was current until at least 1970.

gin pennant. A green-and-white flag run up by a ship as an invitation to all officers to come aboard for a drink: C.20.

gin-penny. Additional profit; 'bunce', q.v.: costermongers': from ca. 1850; † by 1920. Gen. spent on drink.

gin shepherd. 'Someone seeking to protect Aboriginal women from white men: derogatory' (Wilkes—cf. gin burglar—cites the same source). See also gin-jockey.

gin-spinner. A distiller: ca. 1780–1900. (Grose, 1st ed.) On cotton-spinner.—2. Hence, a wine-vault: 1821 (Pierce Egan, Life in London); † by 1890.

gin-trap. The mouth; the throat: low: ca. 1825–1910. Pierce Egan, 1827: OED.

gin-twist. A drink made of gin and water, lemon and sugar: orig. (—1823) coll.; ob. (Bee.) Cf. US gin-sling.

gin up, v.i. 'To consume hard liquor'—esp. spirits—'before a party' (Jackson): Service officers': since ca. 1930. Cf. ginned-up: gin up, however, means—not to get drunk but merely to induce the party-spirit.

ginch, elegance, smartness, esp. of skill or manner or clothing, or an instance of any of these exhibitions: adj., ginchy: Aus. teenagers' (esp. surfboard riders'): since ca. 1960. Pix, 28 Sep. 1963, para. 1 of Dick Dennison's article, 'The Weird World of Surfies'.

ginchy. See prec.—2. Hence (?), excellent, first-class: in the lower forms of Merseyside schools: ca. 1960–4.

ging. A catapult: Aus. children's: C.20. (B., 1942.) Echoic.

gingambob, ginguimbob, jiggumbob. A toy; bauble: late C.17–20 (ob.): coll. B.E. has the second, Grose the first spelling, the third being C.19–20.—2. (Gen. in pl.) The testicles: mid-C.18–20; ob. Grose (1st ed.), who adds: 'See thingambobs'.

Ginge. Nickname, usu. in vocative, for a ginger-haired person (mostly of men): since ca. 1880.

Ginger. A very frequent nickname of men surnamed Jones: Services': late C.19—early 20. (F. & G.) John Aye, in Humour in the Army, 1931, lists it as an 'inevitable' nickname for men surnamed Smith.

ginger, n. Spirit, pluck, energy: from ca. 1840: ?orig. US. R.L. Stevenson & Lloyd Osbourne in The Wrecker.—2. A cock with reddish plumage: from C.18. Grose, 1st ed.—3. A reddish or a sandy colour: from ca. 1865, when used by Dickens.—4. A red- or sandy-haired person; 'carrots', q.v.: 1823 (Bee). Whence the profligate c.p., Black for beauty, ginger for pluck.—5. A fast, showy horse; one that is, or appears to have been, 'figged', q.v.: since ca. 1815: sporting. Spy, 1825.—6. (With hard g.) A catapult: Aus. juvenile: since ca. 1945. (B., 1953.) A var. of ging.—7. In knock down ginger, q.v., to knock at a door and run away.—8. See next.

ginger, v., gingering, n. To rob; robbery: Aus. c. (prostitutes'): since ca. 1930. Kylie Tennant, The Joyful Condemned, 1953, "'gingering", or robbing prospective clients, was considered low taste, but after all, the man was a copper'. Hence the n., ginger, a prostitute that does this; also called a ginger girl or a gingerer: B., 1953. Hence also work a ginger.

ginger, adj. Ginger-coloured; red- or sandy-haired (applied to persons and cocks): from ca. 1825: also dial.

ginger-beer. An engineer: nautical rhyming s.: C.20.—2. Hence, the Ginger Beers, the Engineering Corps in the Australian Army: Aus. military: WW2. B., 1942.—3. A homosexual male: rhyming s. on queer: since ca. 1920. It occurs in, e.g., Alfred Draper, Swansong for a Rare Bird, 1970, and, as L.A. points out, citing a newspaper report of Dec. 1970, it occurs esp. in 'rolling ginger beers'—molesting homosexual men.

ginger group. 'Politicians actively impatient with their own party' (Allan M. Laing): political: 1934.

ginger-hackled. Red-haired (—1785): ob. Ex the cockpit. Also ginger-pated: coll. (—1785). Both forms are recorded by Grose, 1st ed.

ginger-knocker. See knocking-down ...

ginger one. A distant signal: railwaymen's. See back stick.

ginger-pop. Ginger-beer: coll.: since early C.19. (1827 in SOD.)—2. A policeman: rhyming s. on cop or slop: later C.19. 'Dagonel' Sims, 1887.

ginger string. 'Rope unlaidd into its separate yarns has a variety of uses about ships. It is the original ginger string: RN: 1980s' (Peppitt)—and later; coll. rather than s. Ex the colour, says Granville.—2. Hence, 'flag lieutenants' gold-wire aiguillettes: RN: 1970s' (Peppitt)—but surely rather earlier?

ginger suit. 'Army uniform: first the old battle-dress, and now the khaki no. 2 dress uniform; used to differentiate from the camouflaged combat jacket and trousers or flower-power suit' (P.B., 1974).

ginger-up. To enliven: put mettle or spirit into: coll.: from ca. 1848: from ca. 1890, S.E. (Disraeli, 1849.) Ex 'figging' a horse (1823) or putting ginger in drinks (1825). (OED.) Where vbl n., gingering-up.

ginger-whiskers. A man, esp. a soldier, dyeing his whiskers yellow: ca. 1820–60. Bee.

Ginger, you're barny! An early C.20, lower classes' c.p. (B. & P.) In the 1940s it became part of a children's chant: ...—you ought to join the army. Barny=crazy, mentally deficient. Vernon Noble, 1976, suggests that the c.p. derives ex a music-hall song.

gingerbread. Money: from ca. 1690; ob. Esp. in have the gingerbread, to be rich. B.E.—2. Showy but inferior goods: coll.: mid-C.18–20; ob. Rare. Ex:

gingerbread, adj. Showily worthless: coll.: 1748. (The OED considers it S.E.) Nautically, gingerbread hatches or quarters, luxurious accommodation or living (mid-C.19–20: coll.); g. work, carved and gilded decorations (coll. >, by 1800, S.E.: Smollett, 1757); g. rigging, wire-rigging (C.19: coll.).—2. gilt off the gingerbread, see gilt.

gingerbread-office. A privy: C.17 coll. Ex gingerbread=luxury.

gingerbread-trap. The mouth: joc. coll.: 1865, Dickens: ob. (OED).

gingerer. See ginger, v.

Gingress Pop. 'A name we gave to Poperinghe during the spring retreat of 1918 ... "Pop" was completely deserted and dead, and Talbot House was completely empty ... It was nothing like the Poperinghe of 1917, always packed with troops and transport' and offering tea and soft drinks. (Petch, 1966.)

gingerly, adj. and adv., is considered by F. & H. to have orig. been coll.

gingery. Red- or sandy-haired; 'carrot': from ca. 1850: coll. until C.20, when S.E. Miss Braddon, in The Cloven Foot, 'A false front of gingery curls'.—2. (Of horses) fiery: turf:—1823 (Bee).

gingham. An umbrella (rightly, one made of gingham): coll.: 1861.

gingle- (or jingle-)boy. A coin: C.17–18. Massinger & Decker.—2. A gold coin: C.19. Cf. yellow boy and chinker.

gingler or jingler. A coin: C.19–20; ob. Ex prec.

gingumbob. See gingambob.

gink. A fellow: always pej.: US (ca. 1910), partly anglicised by P.G. Wodehouse in 1920 (OED Sup.) and (in NZ as a stupid fellow) thoroughly naturalised, owing to the talkies, by 1934. Possibly derived ex gink, a trick, whence Scots ginkie, a term of reproach applied to a woman: Irwin; this seems more prob. than derivation ex ginx's (or G-) baby, an unwanted child, as in an extremely sentimental novel of the 1880s.—2. A 'wrong 'un': Liverpool street-arabs': late C.19–mid-20. Arab.—3. The senior member of a gang of engine-cleaner boys: railwaymen's: C.20. McKenna, 2, p. 127.—4. A look, esp. in get or have a gink at: Aus.: since mid-C.20. Wilkes.

ginned-up. Topsy: from ca. 1920. (D.L. Sayers, Murder Must Advertise, 1933.) Cf. gin up and ginnified.

ginnick. Fishermen's variant of gimmick, meaning neat, tidy, perfect, spruce, etc.' (Granville): C.20. Recorded in this sense, with soft g, as Essex dial. of earlier C.19, and compared with jannock, by the EDD.

ginnified. Stupefied with liquor, esp. and orig. with gin: coll.: late C.19–20; ob.

ginning-up. A reprimand: Can.: since ca. 1960. Leechman cites H. Dempsey, Bob Edwards, 1975.

ginnums. An old woman, esp. if fond of liquor, e.g. gin: low coll.:—1893; ob. by 1930.

ginny, n. 'An Instrument to lift up a Grate, the better to Steal what is in the window' (B.E.): c.: ca. 1670–1830. (Head.)? ex dial. ginny, a (primitive) crane. P.B.: or simply a var of jenny, 1, q.v.

ginny, adj. Affected by gin, applied esp. to the liver or the kidneys: coll.: 1888. (OED.) Cf. beery.—2. Addicted to gin: coll.: C.20. Angus Wilson, A Bit off the Map, 1957.

ginormous (pron. jyenormous). Very large: orig. RN and RAF, WW2 (Granville; McDouall): in post-war years more widespread, esp. among teenagers. Adrian Reid, The Confessions of a Hitch-Hiker, 1970: 'The prices were ginormous'. A blend of gigantic+enormous.

gin's flop. A jumping into water with hands clasped around knees: Aus. children's: C.20. Cf. honey-pot, 2, B., 1943.

Gip. Garden Island Prison: R Aus. N: WW2. B., 1943.

gip, n. See gyp, all senses.—2. Abbr. gipsy: since ca. 1840: coll.—3. Hence, a thief: mid-C.19–20: c. >, by 1900, low. B. & L.—4. Grease; gravy; butter: Services': since ca. 1912. Abbr. gippa, q.v.—5. See give gip, to give someone pain, or a bad time.—6. An Egyptian soldier: army: earlier C.20. Cf. gippy.

gip (var. gyp), v. To cheat (someone); to swindle: Can., ex US, C.20; adopted in UK ca. 1930 (OED Sup.).—2. Hence, to steal: mostly Services': C.20. B.P. notes, 'common also in Australia'. Either ex gipsy, or from service in Egypt and experience of lower-class Egyptians.

gip! (To horses, S.E.) Indicative of surprise or contempt; also=go away! C.16–17 coll. I.e. gee up.

gip artist. A confidence trickster: Aus.: since ca. 1925. B., 1942.

'gip, quoth Gilbert when his mare farted (Howell, 1659); 'gip with an ill rubbing', quoth Badger when his mare kicked (Ray, 1678). A c.p. addressed to one who is 'pertish and forward'; † by 1800. Apperson.

gippa, -er, -o, -y, gypoo (all with soft g). Grease; gravy; butter: nautical, since ca. 1850, then all Services', C.20. Gippy mainly RAF, since ca. 1928; gypoo an old form, from ca. 1912. Hence, gipoo=a cook and master gipoo=head cook: army: since ca. 1918. Directly ex C.19 nautical s. jipper, n., q.v., gravy, meat-juice, and v., to baste (EDD). See ARMY SLANG, verse 2, in Appendix.

gippo, n. A gipsy: coll.: C.20.—2. See prec.—3. An Egyptian: Services': late C.19–20. The pl, also spelt gyppos, very soon in WW1 denoted Egyptians in general and in WW2 came to be loosely employed for Arabs, a sense common enough, post-WW2, in Aus., e.g. in Alex Buzo's Norm and Ahmed, prod. 1968.

gippo, adj. Corresponding with n., 1 and 3.—2. See gippy tummy.

Gippoland. Egypt: army coll.: late C.19—early 20. (F. & G.) Cf. Egg-wiped.

gippy (or gyppy), n. An Egyptian soldier: army: late C.19—earlier 20. B. & L.—2. A gipsy: coll.: C.20. OED Sup.—3. An Egyptian cigarette: Services' since ca. 1905.—4. See gippa.

gippy (or Gippy, Gypoo) tummy. Stomach-trouble (specifically, diarrhoea) in Egypt (hence also in Libya): orig. army, since late C.19; by mid-C.20, gen. Also in var. gippo tummy. Known in India as Delhi belly (influence of rhyme) and in Malta as Malta dog; both latish C.19–20.

Gipsies (or Gypsies) of Science. The British Association: literary coll.: ca. 1845–1900.

Gipsy (or Gypsy). A nickname of men surnamed Smith: from ca. 1905. Ex 'Gypsy' Smith, the evangelist. Cf. Darkie, Ginger, Shoey, Gunboat, Smudger, all Smiths.

gipsy. A playful term of address to a woman, esp. if she is dark: 1858, George Eliot, but prob. in use some years earlier:

G

coll. Ex sense, a hussy (C.18–19); ex C.17–18 term of contempt.

gipsy's ginger. Human excrement found out of doors: joc.: C.20. Ex characteristic colour; cf. baby's yellow. (P.B.)

gipsy's (or gypsy's) kiss. A urination: rhyming s. on piss: 1970s. 'I need a gipsy's' (Jack Dash, ex London docker, 1979).

gipsy's warning. Morning: rhyming s.: mid-C.19–20. Franklyn notes that 'this term is not so popular as day's a-dawning', which he feels is more appropriate.

girdle. See if you are angry ...; ne'er an M ...; under (one's) girdle.

girl, n. One's sweetheart or 'best girl', q.v.: coll.: from ca. 1790. E.g. 'Me and my girl'.—2. A mistress: coll.: C.19–20: abbr. (a) kind girl (C.18).—3. A harlot: coll.: from ca. 1770. Abbr. girl about, or of the town (1711) and girl of ease (1756). (OED.) In this sense it was also, in late C.19—earlier 20, the white-slave term for a female in the service of 'the Centre'. (Londres.) Cf. tart and see girls.—4. Hence, a male harlot: c.: from ca. 1920. Gilt Kid, 1936.—5. 'Cocaine (US)' (Home Office): drug-users': 1970s.—6. See old girl.

girl, v. To consort with women; make love to a woman: coll.: late C.18. 'The maid said two men were missing, and the others said, God d...n them, they are gone a-girling' (Sessions, Jan. 1787). The term prob. never disappeared, but rather 'went underground', to emerge at Oxford University in early C.20: Dorothy L. Sayers, Gaudy Night, 1935, 'She remembered ... an expression in use among the irreverent: "to catch a Senior girling".' Ex go girling (see girling).

girl abductor. A tram conductor: Aus. rhyming s.: ca. 1890–1914. B., 1945, cites the Sydney Bulletin, 18 Jan. 1902.

girl and boy. A saveloy: rhyming s.:—1859 (H., 1st ed.); † by 1920. One of the comparatively few rhyming s. terms that—unless here an indelicate innuendo is meant—lack adequate reason or picturesqueness. P.B.: perhaps the reason for this is that it may be one of the earliest examples, and coined before the 'system' really got into its stride.

girl-catcher. See girlometer.

girl friend. See boy friend.

Girl Friday. A girl very useful to have about the place as one's 'right hand': since ca. 1955; coll. > by 1975, familiar S.E. (Chambers, ed. of 1973). Ex Defoe's tale of Robinson Crusoe and his Man Friday.

girl-getter. An affected, mincing, effeminate male: low coll.: ca. 1870–1910. Does getter here = begetter? For such a man usually disdains girls.

girl of the period. A modern girl: Society coll.: ca. 1880–1900. Coined by Mrs Lynn Linton, who fulminated in this strain in a series of articles published by the Saturday Review. Baumann.

girl-shop. A brothel: low coll.: from ca. 1870: ob. Cf. girlery, q.v.

girl-show. A ballet or a revue, esp. one that in the 1890s was called a leg-piece and in C.20 is known as a leg-show: low coll.: from ca. 1880.

Girl Street. See Hair Court.

girl-trap. A habitual seducer: low coll.: from ca. 1870: ob.

girlery. A brothel (cf. girl-shop); a musical-comedy and revue theatre: the former from ca. 1870, the latter from ca. 1880: coll. Ex Lamb's girlery, girls collectively.

girlie. (Little) girl, mostly as an endearment: coll.: late C.19–20.

girlie bar. A drinking place at which 'hostesses' are available: later C.20. New Society, 17 Jan. 1980. (P.B.) Cf.:-

girlie magazine. A magazine containing many pictures of female nudes or provocative semi-nudes: Aus., esp. teenagers', coll.: adopted, in late 1950s, ex US. (B.P.) Adopted also in Brit., about the same time. '[The potential assassin] will consume gun magazines in the same way as many men consume girlie magazines' (Illustrated London News, July 1973, p. 41: P.B.). girling, go. To go looking for loose women, professional or amateur: low coll.: ca. 1860–1915. Cf. go on the loose and girl v.

466

girlometer, occ. girl-catcher. The male member: low joc. coll.: from ca. 1870; ob. Perhaps on foolometer, q.v.

girls, the. Harlots in the mass; lechery: coll.: from early C.19. Moe cites Blackwood's, Nov. 1821.—2. In the phrase, to have been after the girls, to have syphilis or gonorrhoea: low coll.: from ca. 1860.

girls are (hauling) on the tow-ropes, the. A coll. RN c.p. = 'homeward bound'. Late C.19—early 20. F. & G.; Bowen.

girnigo-gaby, the cat's cousin. A reproach to a weeping, a yelling child: C.19 coll. (H., 1864.) I surmise girnigo-gaby to be crying-baby corrupted; cat's cousin obviously refers to the shrill noise. But cf. Grinagog, which prob. suggested it by antiphrasis, and the dial. girniga(w), 'the cavity of the mouth' (EDD).

giro. A giraffe: big-game hunters': late C.19–20. (Stephen Leacock, Arcadian Adventures, 1915.) After hippo.

gism or gissum, or gizm, gizzum, or jiz(zu)m. Semen: low: adopted, ca. 1970, ex US, perhaps under the influence of Philip Roth's Portnoy's Complaint, 1967. ?ex Yiddish.

gismo. See gismo.

git. A fool; a useless fellow: mostly Cockney: since ca. 1920. An illit. pron. of get, in the sense of 'bastard'. In the Services, since ca. 1950, if not much earlier, often as spawny git, one who is undeservedly lucky.

git! See get!

git-box. A guitar. See fish-horn.

give, n. 'In the case of bullion robberies criminals usually rely on inside information—or "gives" as they are known' (Now!, 3 Apr. 1980): c.: later C.20. (P.B.)

give, v. So many coll. phrases use this auxiliary; only a representative selection is listed here; others may be found entered under the operative n. Inconsistencies and arbitrary placings must be forgiven, please: they are the result of this Dictionary's piecemeal growth over half a century.

give (someone) a bit of (one's) mind. See give ... a piece ...

give (someone) a cast. To assist: wagoners' and estuary-sailors' coll.: mid-C.19–20. H., 5th ed.

give (someone) a chalk. To beat, defeat, or swindle that person: low:—1923 (Manchon). Cf. give (someone) chalks on.

give (someone) a clean leg up. To help him (esp. to obtain a job): non-aristocratic coll.:—1887; slightly ob. (Baumann.) Ex giving a person assistance over a fence. Later usage has simply give a leg up.

give (a person) a double broad. 'To hit with a piece of marginal wood-furniture 8 picas wide': printers':—1933 (Slang, p. 184).

give (someone) — or get — a dusty answer. To give, or get, 'the rough side of someone's tongue', a bad-tempered, unco-operative reply: coll.: C.20. 'If he comes that old flannel with me, he'll jolly soon get a dusty answer, I can tell you!' (P.B.)

give (someone) a fair crack of the whip. See fair crack ...

give (something) a fly. See fly, n., 9.

give (someone) a go. To give him a run for his money, to give 'something to think about'; Aus. coll.: since ca. 1910. (H. Drake Brockman, 1947.) And see give it a go.

give (someone) a good — or bad — chit. To speak well or badly of someone: army: C.20. Ex chit, 1 and 2. See also have a good chit.

give (something) a miss. To avoid doing something or seeing some person or thing; cease doing something: coll.: from ca. 1912. Ex billiards, give a miss in baulk ('avoid hitting the object ball', SOD), itself often used in the same way. P.G. Wodehouse, 1907, 'And James ... is giving this the miss in baulk!'

give a monkey's fuck, not to. Not to care a damn: low: C.20. In later C.20 often shortened, as in 'he couldn't give a monkey's'. See not care a ...

give a peg. See AUSTRALIAN UNDERWORLD, in Appendix.

give (a person) a piece of one's mind. Frankly to impart one's ill opinion of him in gen. or in particular: coll.: 1865, Dickens.

give (someone) a pop. To engage in a fight with: from ca. 1910; to fire at with machine-gun: NZ soldiers': WW1. See pop, n., 11.

give (someone) a rap. To reprove or reprimand: coll.: mid-C.19–20; by 1890, S.E. B., 1941.—2. In not to give a rap, not to care a damn: coll.: mid-C.20. See also not care a ...

give a rolling. See give him a rolling.—2. An elab. of roll, to assault, molest, as in rolling ginger-beers, attacking male homosexuals, 'queer-bashing': low: later C.20. 'There was this queer, see, so we give [i.e., gave] him a rolling, duffed him up proper.' (P.B.)

give (a woman) a shot. To coit with: low: C.19–20.

give a shout. To call (another station): wireless (orig. nautical wireless): from ca. 1925. Bowen.

give (a girl) a thrill. To coit: coll.: since ca. 1920.

give (someone) a touch of 'em (or them). To irritate intensely: to get badly on the nerves; to disgust: Aus. low: since ca. 1925. (Rats, 1944.) Them = 'the shits'.

give (a person) a weight. To assist in lifting a heavy weight: streets': from ca. 1860. B. & L.

give air. See give the ball air.

give and take. A race in which a horse is weighted according to its height: turf: 1769 (OED); Bee, 1823; ob. by ca. 1930.

—2. A cake: rhyming s.: from ca. 1860. Franklyn notes "'Cake" also means money—"a cake of notes": that ... needs to be given and taken'.

give away, give-away, n. The betrayal, whether deliberate or inadvertent, of a secret: from ca. 1880. P.B.: in later C.20 often qualified, as in 'The way she smiled—it was a dead give-away: I know she'd got something cooked up.' Cf.:

give away. To betray; expose to punishment or ridicule: coll.: from ca. 1878. Occ. give dead away.—2. V. reflexive, to let slip a secret: coll.:—1883.—3. 'To abandon, give up, cease operations' (Wilkes, whose earliest quot'n is from 1948): Aus. coll. Usu. as give it away, but a specific person or thing may be the object, as with Eng. give (it) up.

give-away cue. An underhand betrayal of a secret: low: from ca. 1885.

give (one) bal oil. To give him a good beating: Bedfordshire: C.20, perhaps earlier. Mr Arthur Curtis of Bedford remembers his father using the expression, in the 1930s. Poss. a folk memory of the naval battle of Belle Ile, 1759, but cf. synon. give (one) strap oil, and the old Shropshire synon. dial. balase in EDD, which quotes var. baleys from Piers Plowman. (P.B.)

give (a ship) beans; gen. give her beans. 'To crack on sail in a strong wind': nautical: late C.19–20; slightly ob. Bowen.

—2. In give (someone) beans, to reprimand or scold: since later C.19. Cf. give (someone) rice.

give (one) best. To acknowledge a person's superiority; admit defeat: orig. (—1883), in Aus., where also, as soon after in England, it = to give up trying at anything. Keighley, 1883, 'I went to work and gave the schooling best'; 'Rolf Boldrewood'. (Morris.) Prob. ex.—2. In c., to leave (a person), avoid or abandon him:—1877 (Horsley, Jottings from Gaol).

give (someone) Bondi. To 'give him hell': Aus.: C.20. (Dal Stevens, 1951.) Bondi beach: a lively place.

give (someone) chalks on. To be (much) superior to: late C.19–20. Frank Richards, Old Soldiers Never Die, 1933, 'We all admired the Adjutant very much: he could give us all chalks on at swearing.'

give (someone) change. To 'pay out', punish: coll.: from ca. 1860. Gen. v.t., e.g. 'I gave him his change.'

give (someone) chocolate without sugar. To reprove: army:—1785 (Grose, 1st ed.); † by 1890.

give (someone) fits. To defeat humiliatingly: coll.: adopted, ca. 1870, ex US.—2. To scold thoroughly: Can.: C.20. (Leechman).—3. To frighten or upset someone: coll.: C.20. Cf. forty fits, q.v.

give (someone) gip (gyp, jip). To thrash, punish, man-handle, give a bad time: orig. dial. >, by 1900 at latest, coll. (G.B. Lancaster, Jim of the Ranges, 1910—an Aus. usage.)

Perhaps ex gee-up! OED Sup.—2. To cause pain to (someone), esp. a sudden pain: coll.: since ca. 1905. 'My back's giving me gip again this evening' (P.B.).

give (one's) head for naught (late C.14–15) or for the washing (late C.16–19). 'To submit to be imposed on' (Halliwell). Apperson.

give her the gun. See give the gun.

give her the rush. 'To run out of one's ground to hit the ball': cricketers' coll. (—1888); slightly ob.—as is the practice. Lewis.

give her twopence! 'A c.p. used on sighting a beautiful female child, i.e. Give her twopence to ring you up when she is sixteen' (B.P.): Aus.: late 1945–1946–1947. The cost of a call rose to threepence, then fourpence. P.B.: but the c.p., stuck at tuppence, was still extant in Brit. in the 1950s.

give him a card! Just listen to him boasting: RN: since ca. 1940. In the Near East, early in WW2, it was—so legend has it—customary to pass to anyone boasting of his exploits a card bearing the words, 'Carry on! I'm a bit of a bullshitter myself.'

give him a rolling for his all-over! Give him a Roland for his Oliver!: low Cockney:—1909 (Ware).

give him the money, Barney (usu. pron. in mock North Country accent). A c.p. originating in the Wilfred Pickles radio show of the 1950s. The show was a general knowledge quiz, featuring members of the general public as contestants; 'Barney' Colehan handed out the prize money. The c.p. became widespread, to indicate, perhaps after a prolonged explanation, 'Oh good, you've caught on at last!' See DCpp.

give in ... that. To admit, when close-pressed in argument, that ...: coll.:—1877 (OED).

give in best. To affect repentance: c.: from ca. 1860. (B. & L.) Cf. give (one) best.

give it (to a woman). To copulate with (her): low: C.20. Bill Naughton, Alfie Darling, 1970: 'I gave it her'. Cf. give a shot.

give it a bone! A proletarian var. of give it a rest: from ca. 1880. B. & L.

give it a drink! A c.p. hurled at a bad play or performance: theatrical and music-halls' (1897) >, by 1914, fairly gen. Ware.

give it a go. To make an attempt at something; to experiment, as in 'I've no idea what it'll be like, but let's give it a go anyway': mainly Aus., but used also in UK: since early C.20. Ex go, n., 9 and 12. Cf. give (someone) a go, and give it a burl, q.v. at burl.

give it a rest! Oh, stop talking! C.20 coll. ex US give us a rest!

give it all that. 'To brag, to show off' (Powis): low coll.: 1970s.

give it away. (Of women) as 'she'd give' or 'she just gives it away': she is ready to offer herself at the slightest, or on no, provocation: low coll.: C.20.—2. See give away, 3.

give it big licks. See give what for.

give it hot (with dative). To beat (soundly), scold (severely): coll.: from ca. 1870.

give it mouth! Speak up! low coll.: ca. 1865–1910. Orig., and mainly to actors. H., 5th ed., cites 'He's the cove to give it mouth' as a 'low-folk' encomium. Perhaps on to give tongue.

give it nanti, or ... rice. See give what for.

give it stick. See give stick, 3.

give it the schneider. To give a fillip, a rousing start, to: sporting: ca. 1815–50. Blackwood's, Dec. 1823. (Moe.)

give it to (someone) for (something). To rob or defraud one of: c.: ca. 1810–50. Vaux.—2. As 'to thrash' or 'to scold', it was, in C.18, coll., as in Sessions, May 1739 (trial of Wm Kirkwood), but it soon > S.E.—3. To pull a person's leg: low:—1812 (Vaux); † by 1890.

give it to the Belgians! C.p. advice to a man complaining about his food or clothing or enquiring what to do with some superfluity: NZ soldiers': later WW1, by which time there was no doubt some cynicism about 'gallant little Belgium' and its defence.

give (someone) jessie(-y). To thrash: proletarian:—1860 (H., 2nd ed.); ob. by 1930. Cf. give (someone) gas, at gas, n., 6. give lip to. To speak insolently to: from ca. 1820: nautical >, ca. 1860, gen. Haggart, 1821; Egan's Grose.

give me a pain... you. See pain, n., 3.

give me strength! 'A secular prayer. Used when one hears of some new misfortune or of an example of imbecility' (B.P.): Aus. and Brit. coll.: since ca. 1920. Short for the literal God give me strength to bear it. See DCpp., and God give... give (a ship) muslin. To make sail: nautical: late C.19–20; ob. Bowen.

give nature a fillip. To indulge in wine and/or women: late C.17–19: coll. B.E.

give no change. Absolute or ('he gave me no change') v.t.: to give no satisfaction, esp. to reveal nothing. Coll., from ca. 1890.

give (a person) one. To give him a blow, a kiss, etc.: coll.: C.19–20.

give (e.g. him) one in the eye. To thrash; occ. to scold: from ca. 1880. Cf. give it hot, something for oneself, what for, what's what.

give (someone) onions. To strike; assault, 'pitch into': Sessions, Nov. 1874; † by 1910. Ex their strong smell or ex their tendency to make one's eyes water.

give out. See JAZZ TERMS, in Appendix.

give out calendars. To issue unemployment cards prior to dismissing employees: workmen's: 1930s.

give over! Stop! (that activity that is annoying the speaker): coll.: C.20. Ex dial. Cf. lay off!; pack it in!

give sky-high. To scold (a person) immoderately: proletarian: from ca. 1870; ob. B. & L.

give (a ship) something else to do. Constantly to work the helm in order to check rolling or pitching: nautical: late C.19–20. Bowen.

give (someone) something for (his) corner. To make him 'sit up', to punish: North Country: C.20. Ex boxing.

give (a person) something for himself. To thrash; reprimand: coll.: late C.19–20.

give stick. In give some stick, to encourage punters to bet freely on (a certain horse, esp. the favourite): racing c.:—1933. Ex the use of the jockey's whip.—2. In give (someone) stick, (lit., to punish), to inflict physical damage, e.g., in a fist-fight, or by bombardment: army: later C.20.—3. In give it stick, to do something, to enjoy something, to the utmost, and noisily, as 'the lads are all down the Naafi—they're really giving it stick tonight': army: 1950s–60s. Ex sense 2. (P.B.) With 2 and 3 cf. stick, n., 22 and 23, q.v.

give (someone) the air. To dismiss: adopted, ex US, early 1930s; ob. (COD, 1934 Sup.)

give (someone, or -thing) the arse. To dismiss, reject. See arse.

give the bag, belt, bullet, kick-out, pike, road, sack. To dismiss from one's employ: coll.: see the separate nn. Bag is the early form of sack, but see esp. bag. Pike and road are rare; the former †, the latter ob. Get is commoner than give the kick-out.

give the big E or... the elbow. See give (someone) the elbow.

give the ball air. To bowl the (slow) ball with a high trajectory: cricketers' coll.: 1919. Lewis cites E.R. Wilson, that nigh the most wonderful of all slow bowlers, as using the phrase in 1920.

give (someone) the bird. To dismiss (a person), send him about his business: late C.19–20. Ex theatre. See bird, n., 5, and get the bird.—2. To treat with derision: Aus.:—1916 (C.J. Dennis).

give the book. See AUSTRALIAN UNDERWORLD, in Appendix.

give (someone) the brush-off. To dismiss; to snub: Can. (ex US): since ca. 1925. Hence, Eng. and Aus., since ca. 1943.

give (someone) the business. To inflict punishment, whether physical or mental, upon: Can.: adopted, ca. 1945, ex US.

give the crock. To yield victory: lower classes': from ca. 1880; very ob. Ware.

give (someone) the dog to hold. To serve a person a mean trick. See dog to hold.

give (someone) the elbow. To dismiss, jilt, or otherwise get rid of by ignoring: coll.: since late 1970s. (J. Burchill & T. Parsons, The Boy Looked at Johnny, 1978, p. 39.) Hence, the slightly later var., give it (or someone) the big E (Camilla Raab, 1980).

give (someone) the finger. To 'goose' by sign or even verbally or metaphorically: adopted, ca. 1965, ex US. 'To make a thrusting motion with the extended middle finger, meaning... "fuck you"' (DCCLU); Peter McCabe, 1972, 'The Apple staff give her the finger behind her back and mutter "bitch".'

give (someone) the freedom of the world. To sack him: C.20. give the game away. 'To abandon interest in any activity or pursuit' (B., 1953): Aus.: since ca. 1939. Ex give away, v., 3 and give the game away, to expose a secret, itself an elab. of give away, v., 1.

give the go. To reject (a suitor): NZ: late C.19–20. (G.B. Lancaster, Sons o' Men, 1904.) For... go-by. Also give the mitten.—2. Also, to abandon (a country, a job): Aus. and NZ: late C.19–20. (Ibid.) give the go-ahead. See go-ahead, n., 2.

give the goo. See CANADIAN, in the Appendix.

give (someone) the gooner. See gooner.

give (usu. her) the gun. To open the throttle (of one's aircraft): orig. RAF and aircraft engineers', since ca. 1920; hence, more widespread, applied to automobiles; ob. Gun = accelerator. Cf. gun, n., 9, and v., 2, qq.v.

give the guy to. To run away from; give (someone) the slip: low:—1899. Cf. do a guy.

give the heat. To murder with a firearm: c.: anglicised, ca. 1932, ex the American usage (see Irwin). Pawnshop Murder.

give (someone) the length of one's tongue. To reprove severely, to 'dress down': Londoners': C.20.

give the miss in ba(u)lk. See give (something) a miss.

give (someone or something) the old heave-ho. Basically, to eject; hence, to dismiss, jilt, expel: light-heartedly cynical: C.20. Cf. give the elbow.

give (a person) the ram's challenge. To nod to: tailors': —1928. 'Locus' as in give the ros(ey).

give (a person) the road. To avoid (him): Can.: from ca. 1910. John Beames.

give (a person) the ros(ey). To blush at chaff; tailors': 1928 (Tailor and Cutter, 29 Nov.). From ca. 1890.

give (one) the shifts. To get on a person's nerves: low, esp. Londoners': C.20. P.B.: this may orig. have been 'esp. Londoners', but by mid-C.20, and prob. by WW2, > widely used throughout the Eng.-speaking world, though still 'low'.

give the show away. See show, n., 3.

give the slip; either with us, etc., or absolutely. To die: coll.: since ca. 1830. (Emily Brontë, Wuthering Heights, 1847.) Ex fox hunting.

give the tug. See tug, v., at AUSTRALIAN UNDERWORLD.

give (one) the verticals. See verticals.

give us a lidd and call me Charlie. 'Rallying c.p. when, e.g., barrack-room anecdotes reach low ebb; neither invitation to be taken seriously or literally' (L.A.): Services': WW2.

give us a touch (usu. with vocative tosh). Let me light my cigarette from yours, or from your pipe: National Service-men's: since ca. 1947; † by mid-1950s.

give way. (Of women) to permit the sexual embrace (—1870). Perhaps orig. euph. and S.E., as often it still is; but it also is a humorous coll.

give what for; occ. what's what. (With dative.) To beat, thrash; scold, reprimand: coll., the former C.19–20, the latter C.20 and gen. joc. P.B., 1974, noted: 'There are many, many Service variations, all with the same meanings. Here are a few.—1. give it nanti: Malaya, mid-1950s. Nanti is Malay for "wait"; I suppose we just liked the sound of it, or maybe it was a hark-back to niente.—2. give it big licks. Emphasis on big. Somewhat later.—3. give it whoomperta or whompo. Both mid-50s.—4. give it rice. Current.—5. give it stick. Current. In each case, a noun or pronoun can be substituted for it, to give the meaning “to reprimand or punish”. With it, the meaning may also be “to have a high old time”, e.g., “The lads are down the Naafi really giving it rice”, possibly smashing the place up as well as enjoying themselves any other way.’ See also what for.

give your arse a chance!; often prec. by shut up (or stop talking) and. A low, C.20 c.p.: esp. in the Aus. Forces, WW1. P.B.: in later C.20, gen. low.

give your ears a chance! Shut up!, stop talking!: C.20 c.p. (Petch, 1969.) Cf. prec.

give your face a joy-ride! A c.p., addressed cheerily to someone looking mournful: 1930s.

give your head a bump! ‘Pull yourself together. Wake up. Bestir yourself’ (F. & G.): army: early C.20, esp. in WW1.

give yourself a bit of an overhauling! Go and have a wash and/or a clean-up: c.p.: from ca. 1912; † by 1950. Ex cleaning a motor-car.

given away with a pound of tea. ‘A Cockney c.p. of jocular disparagement, as in “Mum’s new hat looks as if it was given away with a pound o’ tea” and “Jack says his new bike was not given away with a pound o’ tea”: late C.19–20, but much less gen. since 1914 than before that date. From the pre-WW1 grocers’ practice of making a free gift with every pound of tea or with any fair-sized order. (Julian Franklyn.) See esp. DCpp.

given the deep six, be. To be heaved overboard; to be buried at sea: nautical: late C.19–20. (Bowen.) At sea a body must not be buried in less than 6 fathoms of water.

giver. A good boxer, esp. one with a hard punch: pugilistic: ca. 1820–1900. ‘Peter Corcoran Reynolds in The Fancy.

giving the boys a treat. (Of girls) to show a lot of leg, whether unavoidably in a gusty wind or crossing a stile or getting out of a car: coll.: late C.19–20. In late 1966+, to make the best—or, if you prefer, the worst—of the numerous opportunities afforded by the, alas, too short-lived, mini-skirt.

givo. A suit made not according to regulations: RN (lower-deck): since ca. 1910. (Granville.) Perhaps ex guiver, adj., q.v. See also guyvo, and gyvo.

Givum’s dead and Lendum’s very bad (ill). A c.p. of mid-C.19: ‘No giving and practically no lending here!’ Mostly London lower classes’ apparently. P.B. cites Punch, 16 Oct. 1869. Clearly a pun on giving and lending—and on two imaginary surnames.

gixde. An affected, mincing woman; late C.16—early 17.—2. A wanton wench: C.17. Both senses coll. on verge of respectability, the former being in Florio, the latter in Cotgrave, who remarks: ‘A fained word’. Perhaps ex gig after trixy (trixy in an old spelling).

giz. ‘To read a pal’s letter to his girl friend’ (H. & P.): Services’: WW2. Perhaps ex ‘gi’s a look-see, then’, or from:—2. To stare at (lustfully). See quot’n at capurtie.

gizmo, gismo. A gadget; an appliance: adopted, ex US, late 1960s. Daily Telegraph mag., 18 July 1969: ‘The fuzz-box is an electronic gizmo for making a guitar rhying a bagpipe’ (R.S.). But earlier, and still, synon. with gimmick, 2. For its American usage see W. & F., 1975 ed., p. 216.

gizz. A face: Scot.: C.19. (EDD.) Perhaps influenced by phiz, but certainly derived from guise (a mask), of which it once formed a var.

gizzard. The solar plexus: low London: C.20. E.g. ‘Give a poke in the gizzard’.—2. The heart: low Aus.:—1916 (C.J. Dennis).—3. See fret (one’s) cream...; grumble in the gizzard; stick in (one’s) gizzard.

gizzit. Looted items were known as “gizzits”, short for “give us it” (Witherow & Bishop, in The Times, 4 Sep. 1982): Services’: Falkland Is. campaign, 1982.

gla. See COLSTON’S, in Appendix.

Glad. A Gloster Gladiator fighter aircraft: RAF coll.: 1939–42. James Aldridge, Signed with their Honour, 1942.—2. (glad.) A gladiolus: flower-sellers’: late C.19–20. Richard Llewellyn, None but the Lonely Heart, 1943. Cf. earn, casant, gyp, etc., and gladdie, q.v.—3. In give the glad, elliptical for (give the) glad eye, q.v.: prob. since WW1. (Angus Wilson, Anglo-Saxon Attitudes, 1956.) Petch cites Sappers’s War Stories for the complementary get the glad.—4. See serve (someone) glad.

glad-and-sorry system, the. Hire-purchase, since ca. 1910. George Sava, A Land Fit for Heroes, 1945.

glad eye, the. A come-hither look (gen. from female to male). Esp. in give or get the glad eye. C.20: s. >, by 1930, coll. S.H. Ward cites an early occurrence in the Roussillon Gazette, Jan. 1913, p. 20. Ex † sense of glad=bright (Ware).

glad rags. One’s best clothes, as in: ‘Let’s get our glad rags on, darling; we’re going to be late for dinner’: coll.: C.20. Adopted ex US ca. 1906; ob. by ca. 1950. OED Sup.

glad to take eggs for (one’s) money. Gladly ‘to compound the matter with Loss’ (B.E.): semi-proverbial coll.: C.17–18. Shakespeare, 1610 (Apperson). Take eggs=to suffer a trick, accept an excuse.

gladdher. (Often as vbl n.) To employ a certain unascertained trick to relieve good citizens of their money: c. of ca. 1865; app. † by 1900. ‘No. 747’. It derives either from Welsh gypsy glathera, ‘soldier; pewter’—itself ex Shelta; or straight from Shelta. John Sampson, The Gypsies of Wales, 1926.

gladdie. A gladiolus: Aus.: coll. since ca. 1960s. Immortalised by the ritual finale of performances by Barry Humphries as ‘Dame Edna Everage’—‘I watched him throw his “gladdies” to his audience and persuade them to wave them back at him’—John Osborne, prog. note to A Night with Dame Edna, London, 1978–9. (Mrs Camilla Raab, 1982.)

gladi, usu. in pl gladis. A gladiolus: Aus.: since ca. 1925. (B.P.) Cf. glad, 2, and prec.

gladstone, a light travelling-bag, is S.E., but as an abbr. of the already joc. Gladstone claret (e.g. in Augustine Birrell’s Obituary Dicta, 1885) it is coll.: 1864, H., 3rd ed.; ob. Gladstone in 1860 reduced the import duty on French wines.

gladstonise. To say a lot and mean little: coll.: ca. 1885–1900.

glam, n. Glamour: film-world hangers-on: since ca. 1940.

glam, adj. Glamorous: mostly feminine: since ca. 1950. John Winton, All the Nice Girls, 1964, ‘Her name’s Maxine. She’s rather glam, isn’t she?’

glammed up. Made up and ‘all dressed up’, esp. for a party or a ‘date’: mostly feminine: since ca. 1955. (Petch, 1974.) Ex prec.

glamour. Hair-cream: army: ca. 1939–49. (P-G-R.) Ex next.

Glamour Boys, the. The RAF: army and RN: since 1937; ob. (E.P. in the New Statesman, 30 Aug. 1942, ‘Glamour Boys—RAF, especially flying crews.’) glamour gown. A khaki full-dress uniform: Aus. army: WW2. (B., 1943.) Cf. ginger suit.

glamour-pants. An attractive girl: since the late 1930s. (Nicholas Montsarrat, The Cruel Sea, 1951.) Cf. smarty-pants.

glanthorne. Money: c.: late C.18—early 19. George Parker.

glarney (or -ny). A corruption of glasser or glassy, 1, qq.v. Cockney: late C.19–20.

Glasgow boat. A coat: Anglo-Irish rhyming s.: late C.19–20. Franklyn, Rhyming.

Glasgow Greys. The 70th Foot Regiment, from ca. 1881 the 2nd Battalion of the East Surreys: military: from soon after 1756; ob. At first, this regt was recruited largely from Glasgow, and its facings were grey. F. & G.

Glasgow Keelies. See Glesca Keelies.

Glasgow magistrate. A superior herring: inferentially from H., from ca. 1830. Ob. Cf. Atlantic ranger, Billingsgate pheasant, Digby chicken, Dunbar wether, Gourock ham, Taunton turkey, Yarmouth capon.

Glasgow Rangers; often shortened to Glasgows. (I spy) strangers: rhyming s.: since ca. 1920. Not, by the way, in Parliament, but at mock-auctions and other shady gatherings. Ex the football team.

Glasgow Sweeps, the. Nickname of The Cameronians (Scottish Rifles), a regt that disbanded rather than amalgamate with another in 1969: the sobriquet arose from the regt's full-dress uniform of black and rifle-green. Cf. the Stackies, q.v. Carew.

glasiere (often, in C.16–17, spelt glasyers or glaziers). The eyes: c.: ca. 1560–1830. Harman.

glass, n. An hour: c.: from ca. 1860; ob. by 1930. (B. & L.) By abbr. of S.E. hour-glass.—2. In (to have) been looking through a glass, (to be) drunk: coll.: from ca. 1860; ob. by 1930.—3. In who's to pay for the broken glass?, who is to pay for the damages?: coll.: C.19–early 20.—4. In there's a deal of glass about, see deal of glass...

glass, v. To hit with a tumbler or a wine-glass, esp. to cut a person with one: low: since ca. 1910. (Mark Benney, Low Company, 1936.) In Aus., since ca. 1920, it has borne the nuance, 'to slash a person with a piece of broken glass' (B., 1942). Also in Brit., later C.20. To attack with broken bottle or other jagged glass edge: '[The game of pool] is all tattooed arms and people who'll glass you as soon as look at you' (New Society, 5 Aug. 1982, p. 209). Cf. bottle, v., 3.

glass back. 'A fireman who did not relish main-line duties. Many men objected to the heavy physical work involved...' (McKenna, Glossary, 1970); railwaymen's ironic: earlier C.20 (pre-diesel-engine era).

glass case. A face: rhyming s. (London streets'): 1857, Augustus Mayhew, Paved with Gold; app. † by 1914.

glass coach. 'District Engineer's coach' (Railway): railwaymen's: mid-C.20. Cf. the synon. and ironical Cinderella's coach.

glass-eyes. A person wearing spectacles: coll. ca. 1785–1900. (Grose, 2nd ed.; Baumann.) Cf. four-eyes, its later C.20 synonym.

glass house. A guard-room: esp. detention-barracks or cells for long-term prisoners: army: from ca. 1905. (B. & P.) Ex:—2. As the Glass House, the military prison at North Camp, Aldershot: C.20. So called 'presumably because it has a glass roof. It is known to, and dreaded for its severity by, every soldier...', just as the Naval Prisons at Chatham and Portsmouth are known and dreaded by every sailor in the Navy,' says 'Stuart Wood', who 'served' there in 1902, in Shades of the Prison House, 1932.—2. See live in a glass-house, to lay oneself open to criticism.

Glass-House Sailors. The Royal Naval Division: WW1. (F. & G.) See Crystal Palace.

glass of beer. Ear: rhyming s.: since ca. 1880.

glass of something. An alcoholic drink: coll., orig. euph.: late C.19–20. Elliptical for glass of something strong.

glass-work. A method of cheating at cards by means of a tiny convex mirror attached to the palm of the dealer's hand: ca. 1820–1905: c. Cf. play the gim.

glasser. A glass marble with coloured centre: Irish school-boys' from ca. 1880. Cf.:—

glassy, n. Synonym of prec.: English, Aus. and NZ school-children's: Eng. since ca. 1880, the others perhaps later. The Aus. marbles referred to are usu. transparent. B.P.; Ruth Park, The Witch's Thorn, 1952.—2. A smooth wave: Aus. surfers': since ca. 1950. Pix, 28 Sep. 1963.—3. As the glassy, abbr. the glassy eye, 'a glance of cold disdain' (C.J. Dennis, 1916): Aus.—4. In just the glassy, 'Superlative; the one who excels, is most admired': Aus.: earlier C.20. (Wilkes.) Ex: glassy alley, the. The favourite or most admired: Aus.:—1916 (C.J. Dennis). Ex game of marbles, a glassy alley being prized. Cf. just (one's) alley marble. Aus. also uses just the glassy marble (Wilkes): earlier C.20. See prec., 4.

glasyers. See glasiere.

glaze, n. A window: c.: ca. 1690–1890. (B.E.; Snowden.) Grose, 2nd ed., records star the glaze, to break and rob a jeweller's show-case; and in Johnson's Pirates and Highwaymen, 1719, is on the glaze, adj. and adv., an earlier version, '(by) robbing jewellers' windows after smashing them'. To spank a or the glaze was early C.19 c. for 'to break a window with the fist' (Brandon). Glaze, window, was still current 'on the road', mid-C.20. (Robert M. Dawson.)—2. Eye; eyesight:

c.: later C.18–19. Grose, 2nd ed., where, at mill, is also 'I'll mill your glaze; I'll beat out your eye'.

glaze, v. (Of the dealer) to cheat, with a mirror, at cards: low or c.: ca. 1820–80. (See glass-work.) Pierce Egan.

glaze-ons. Nickname for one who wears spectacles. L.A. cites an article by Nicholas Herbert in The Times Saturday Review, 14 June 1969. Cf. glass-eyes and glaze, n., 2.

glazier. 'One that creeps in at Casements, or unrips Glass-windows to Filch and Steal' (B.E.): c.: mid-C.17–early 19. Head, 1673.—2. See your father a glazier?, Get out of the light!

glaziers. See glasiere.

glean, v.t. and i.; gleaning, vbl n. To steal; stealing: c. or low: ca. 1860–1910. Greenwood, The Little Ragamuffin, ca. 1880, 'Pinchin', findin', gleanin', some coves call it' (Baumann).

gleaner. A thief of 'unconsidered trifles': low or c.: ca. 1860–1900. (F. & H.) Ex prec.

Glesca Keelies, the. The 71st Regt of Foot; > (1881–1959 The Highland Light Infantry; in 1959 the Royal Scots Fusiliers and the HLI amalgamated to form The Royal Highland Fusiliers: army nickname since the Peninsular War. "'Lay-about", "yobbo", "tearaway", "thug"—all these words have taken their place in the modern English language to describe young men who regard public houses as legitimate prey for destruction. The Glasgow term for such characters is a "Keely", and... the HLI have always been known as "The Glesca Keelies"—a name they cherish with the perverse pride of the dyed-in-the-wood Glaswegian' (Carew).

glib: in C.18, occ. glibb. A ribbon: c.: mid-C.18–early 19. ? ex its smoothness.—2. The tongue: mid-C.19–20; ob. (H., 3rd ed.) Esp. in slacken your glib!, don't talk so much! ? ex glib(tongued), which F. & H. wrongly include.

glib-gabbed or -gabbet. 'Smooth and ready of speech': nautical: mid-C.19–20; ob. B. & L.

glider. A children's makeshift vehicle of soap-box and pram-wheels. See guider.

glider pilot. 'A driver or fireman who was required to ride on a "dead" locomotive when it was hauled back to the depot' (McKenna, Glossary): railwaymen's: 1945+.

gliding angle of a brick, usu. prec. by it has the or it's got the. The aircraft glides badly or hardly at all: RAF: since ca. 1950. (An RAF officer, 1963.) Cf. 'she flies like a brick-built shithouse'.

glim, glyn, n. A thief's dark lantern: late C.17–early 19 c. (B.E.) Perhaps abbr. glimmer (of light). In C.20, esp. 'an electric torch with the bulb covered over with paper except for a very small aperture' (David Hume).—2. Hence, a candle: c. (—1714); † by 1840, except in douse the glim, q.v. See also top the glim.—3. A light of any kind: c.:—1728.—4. A fire: c.:—1785 (Grose, 1st ed.). Abbr. glimmer, glimmar or -er.—5. Whence, ca. 1840–90, the sham account of a fire sold by 'flying stationers', q.v.—6. A match: either c. or low s.:—1923 (Manchon). Ex sense 3 rather than ex 2 or 4.—7. Low or c. is the sense, a venereal infection, ex that of fire: ca. 1850–1900.—8. See glims.—9. Eyesight: c. of ca. 1820–60. (Egan's Grose.) Ex glims, 1. As simple 'eye', glim survives in C.20 market-traders' usage. M.T.—10. A fiery drink (? gin): ca. 1750–70. Toldervy, 1756. Cf. rush-light.—11. In on the glim, adj. and adv., a-begging: c., mostly tramps': C.20. Cf. glimmer, 3, a beggar.—12. A mirror, as in play the glim, q.v.

glim, v. To burn, i.e. brand, in the hand: c.: late C.17–early 19. (B.E.) Ex prec.—2. To look (for a taxicab): London taxi-drivers': since ca. 1905. (Herbert Hodge, Cab, Sir?, 1939.) Ex sense 9 of the n.

glim dropper. Headlamp dip-switch: motorcyclists': C.20. (Dunford.)

glim-fender. An aniron: c. of ca. 1670–1820. (Coles; B.E.) A rum g.-f. was of silver: see rum. Ex glim, n.—2. A handcuff (but rare in singular): c.: ca. 1820–70. (Bee.) Punning sense 1. glim-flash(e)y; in C.17, occ. glimflashy. Angry: c.: late glim-glibber. A jargon; applied esp. to underworld cant: low or perhaps c. (—1844); † by 1910. If glibber perverts gibber(ish), then, lit., the term = a 'dark-lantern' gibberish or lingo. OED. glim-jack. A link-boy; occ. a thief operating at night: c.: mid-C.17–early 19. Coles, 1676.

C.17–mid-19. Coles; B.E.; Lytton, 'No, Captain, don't be glimflashy!'

glim-lurk. A beggar's petition alleging loss by fire: c. of ca. 1845–80. Ex glim, n., 5. (Mayhew.) Cf. lurker and see lurk and glimmerer.

glim-stick, glimstick. A candlestick: c. of ca. 1670–1830. (Coles; B.E.; Grose.) A rum g.-s. is of silver, a queer g.-s. is of brass, pewter, or iron. Cf. glim, n., 2. See glim-fender and queer.

glim the devils. To light the coke fires: showmen's: since ca. 1870; by 1950, ob. (John o'London's, 4 Mar. 1950.)

glimmer (earlier, glimmar, -er). Fire: c.: ca. 1560–1830. (Harman; B.E.; Grose.) Cf. glim, n., 4.—2. A switchman's lantern: Can. railroadmen's:—1931. Cf. glim, n., 1.—3. A beggar: c.: C.20. (Charles E. Leach, On Top of the Underworld, 1933.) Cf. glim-lurk.—4. ? Hence, a teller of hard-luck stories: c.: since ca. 1920. Stanley Jackson, Soho, 1946.—5. A match-seller (in the street): police s.: C.20. (Joseph F. Bradhurst, From Vine Street to Jewsaalem, 1937.) Ex glim, n., 6.—6. See glimmers; not a glimmer.

glimmerer. A beggar alleging loss by fire: c.: ca. 1600–1830. (Dekkers & Wilkins; B.E.: OED.) Cf. glimmer, 1, and glim-lurk.

glimmering mort. A female 'glimmerer': c.: ca. 1560–1660. (Harman.) See mort.

glimmers. The eyes (pl. only): low: since ca. 1814; ob., except in market-traders' usage (M.T.). Cf. glim, n., 9.

glimmery. (Of an actor) having no clear conception of his part: theatrical: 1892: ob. Athenaeum, 9 Apr. 1892. (OED.)

glimmie glide, usu. prec. by far or other. Side (of, e.g., the dog-track or street, etc.): Anglo-Irish rhyming s.: C.20. Franklyn, Rhyming.

glims (pl. only). Eyes: from ca. 1790: c. > low s.; ob., but see glim, n., 9. (Grose, 3rd ed.) See puff the glims, a horse-copers' trick.—2. Hence, a pair of spectacles: orig. c., then low: ca. 1860–1920.

glint (at), take a. To have a look (at): C.20: on familiar S.E. take a squint at.

glimp. The track of oil left by a fast-swimming whale: whalers' and sailors': mid-C.19–20. (Bowen.) Perhaps cognate with Scottish and Northern glid, smooth (EDD), possibly influenced by slippery; cf. Northern gliddy, oily.

glist(e)ner. A sovereign: c. >, ca. 1830, low: from ca. 1815. (T. Moore; Frank Jennings, 1932.) Cf. shiner and yellow boy.

glist(er). A glass or tumbler: c.:—1889. ?ex the S.E. n. and v., glist(er).

glitch. A malfunction in a spacecraft; a space 'gremlin': adopted, ex US, ca. 1964. Heard on BBC TV1, 20 Oct. 1965. Ex Yiddish for 'slip'. 'Originally glitch meant a small voltage surge in an electrical line which affected sensitive devices powered by the line' (R. Turnill, The Language of Space, 1970). (P.B.)—2. Hence, 'Glitching is a term to describe the loss of control the [radio-controlled model aircraft] flier suffers if another signal interferes with his signal' (Gavin Weightman, 'Glitching on the Beacon', New Society, 20 Sep. 1979): aero-modellers': 1970s. (P.B.) gloach; gen., gloak. A man: c.:—1795; Scottish according to Pierce Egan (1823); † by 1875. (Potter's Dict of Cant.) ?cognate with bloke. Cf. gill and gory.

gloak, v. To tell a piteous tale: tramps' c.:—1932 (Frank Jennings). Perhaps a corruption of croak.

globe. Pewter; a pewter pot: c.: late C.18–mid-19. (Grose, 3rd ed.) Ex the shape.—2. See miss the globe, to miss the (golf-)ball.

Globe-Rangers, the. The Royal Marines: nautical: late C.19–early 20. The RM Light Infantry 'was awarded the Globe as part of the badge by King George IV in 1827 to symbolise the worldwide service of the Corps' (Gaylor).

globe-trotter. A merely quantitative or spatial traveller: coll. (1883): ob. Hence a long-distance or a frequent traveller: coll.: from ca. 1892. In C.20, S.E. in both senses. Graphic, 7 Aug. 1886, 'Your mere idle gaping globe-trotter'.

globe-trotting is the vbl n. to both senses of globe-trotter, q.v.

globes. The female breasts: coll.: later C.19–early 20.

globos. Debenture shares in Bank of New Zealand Estates: Stock Exchange:—1895 (A. J. Wilson, Stock Exchange Glossary).

Glockenspiel! ('Used for) a "toast" when one lifts one's glass: "smart", late 1950s–early 1960s. One or two of the officers... used it when I went for a time to [RAF] Reunions... I would respond with "Cheers" limply from outer non-smart darkness' (L.A., 1974). P.B.: there may be some ref. to the cheerful sound of bells, but it is a good 'toast-sounding' word as it stands, not unlike 'Good luck!'

gloik. A simpleton; a fool: Aus.: since ca. 1910. (B., 1953.) Ex Irish gloichd, an idiot.

glom onto. To grab; to steal: Can.: since ca. 1920. (Robin Leech, 1974.) Via US, ex Scots dial. glam, *glau*m, to clutch.

glooms, the. A mood, a fit, of depression; gloominess, despondency: Anglo-Irish: late C.19–20. James Joyce, Ulysses, 1922, 'I'm not going to think myself into the glooms about that any more.'

glop. An underwater explosion: depth-charge; mine; near-miss explosion: RN: 1939+. Echoic.—2. Any viscous substance, e.g., blancmange, baby-food or wallpaper paste: domestic coll.: later C.20. Echoic, influenced by slop. Cf. goo and gunge. (P.B.)

glope. To spit: ca. 1830–80: Winchester College. (Wrench.) Cf. dial. gloup, to gulp.

gloque. A rare var. (Egan, 1842) of gloak, q.v.

glorified. Changed into something glorious (often sarcastically): coll.: from ca. 1820. Lamb; Thackeray, 'A glorified flunkey' (OED).

glorification. A festive occasion, a 'spree': coll.: 1843. SOD.—2. A 'glorified' variety or example of something usually inferior or unimpressive: coll.: from ca. 1885.

glorio. The pantry of the College servants ('scouts') at Christ Church: Oxford: ca. 1815–70. (Spy, 1825.) Prob. a corruption of glory-hole: cf. the (?)later glory-hole, 4.

glorious. Divinely or ecstatically drunk: coll.: 1790, Burns (OED); Thackeray, 'I was taken up glorious, as the phrase is, ... and put to bed.'

Glorious Glosters, the. Sobriquet and honorific gained by the Gloucestershire Regiment through their gallant and stubborn stand in Korea, at the Battle of the Imjin, 1951. (P.B.)

glorious sinner. A dinner: rhyming s.:—1859. ?satirising gluttony. H., 1st ed.

glorious sunset. Ham and eggs: RN stewards': since ca. 1910. Sunday Chronicle, 1 Mar. 1942.

gloriously. Ecstatically; always with drunk explicit or implicit: coll.: 1784. Cowper. (OED.)

glory. In go to glory, to die: coll.: 1814. (Punch, 1841.) Ex glory, 'the splendour and bliss of heaven' (SOD). Also in, e.g., blown to glory, killed in an explosion.—2. Hence, death by accident: Can. railwaymen's:—1931.—3. A string of empty cars: id. ?Ex 'trailing clouds of glory'.—4. In (one's) glory, extremely gratified: coll.: 1895 (OED). Ex S.E. sense, at one's best.—5. In leave (someone) in his glory, to depart, so that now he is (or sits) alone: 1887 (Baumann).—6. Glory! A low coll. exclam. usu., though not necessarily in later C.20, of delight:—1893 (Quiller-Couch). May equally well express annoyance, e.g., 'Oh glory! I forgot to post mum's letter.' Also, (now ob.) great glory! and how the glory! Abbr. glory be to God! Cf:— glory be! A long-established Anglo-Irish exclam. of astonishment' (see, e.g., Eric Gross, The Tailor and Ansty, 1942, p. 18 of the 1960 ed.); it crossed the Atlantic early C.20 (cf. next) but orig., of course, shortened glory be to God!

'glory be to Pete! A Can. c.p., expressing mild astonishment. 'Said to be confined to the Canadian prairies and to date from some time about 1925. My informant, James A. Dulmage, was living on a farm in Saskatchewan. His mother often used the c.p.: "Glory be!" and the farm hands and neighbours often said "For the love of Pete!" A central European working girl in their service, who spoke little English, combined the two phrases into "Glory be to Pete!" This so amused all concerned that they adopted the new c.p. and it still flourishes. (I have heard it myself.—I have bothered you with all this because it is so seldom that the origin of a c.p. can be determined precisely.) Dr Douglas Leechman, 1959.

glory-hole. A small cell in which, at the court, prisoners are kept on the day of trial: c.: 1845 (OED).—2. A Salvation Army meeting-place: low: 1887; ob. by 1930. Ware.—3. The forepeak: nautical: late C.19—early 20. Bowen.—4. The stewards' quarters: id. William McFee, Sailors of Fortune, 1930.—5. The stokehold, the firemen's quarters: RN lower-deck: late C.19–20. Moe cites W.J. Carr, 1939.—6. A dugout: army: WW1. F. & G.—7. 'The bar of an RAF sergeants' mess at Karachi was, ca. 1929–39, known as the glory-hole' (W/Cdr A.F. Wild, letter, 1945); and prob. elsewhere.—8. Any room or cupboard where oddments are stored: domestic coll.: C.20. (P.B.) glory-hole steward. The steward who looks after the passenger stewards in their quarters': nautical: C.20. Bowen.

Glory-oh, the. The warship Glory: RN:—1909 (Ware).

gloss. See take the gloss off.

glossies. Glossy-paper magazines: adopted, ca. 1945, ex US; by 1950, coll. Cf. the Can. slicks.—2. 'The driver's Weekly Notices. Published each week and issued to every [locomotive] driver [advising] him of speed restrictions, signal alterations and other important information' (McKenna, Glossary, 1970): railwaymen's: ironic on sense 1.

glove. A kind of drinking vessel; early C.17. Dekker in The Gull's Horn Book.—2. See fit like a glove.

gloves. See go for the gloves; win a pair of gloves.

glow, n. In all of a glow: coll. for in a glow: 1865, Dickens. (OED).—2. In got the glow, blushing: London proletarian: —1909 (Ware).

glow, adj. Ashamed: tailors': ca. 1870–1914. Ex a glow of shame; cf. prec., 2.

glow clobber. A brightly coloured suit for motorcycle riding: motorcyclists' since ca. 1965. (Dunford.) Prob. ex Day-glo, a trade-name for the luminescent material from which some such suits are made. (P.B.) Cf. eau-clobber, waterproofs.

glue, n. Thick soup: C.19–20. It sticks to the ribs! Cf. deferred stock.—2. Gonorrhœa: low: from ca. 1870.

glue, v.i. To sniff glue: addicts': since late 1970s. (Time Out, 8 Jan. 1982, p. 15.) See blowse, v.

glue did not hold, the. 'You were balked . . . : you missed your aim' (Ray, 1813): coll.: C.19. (Apperson.)

glue-pot. A parson: mid-C.18–20, ob. (Grose, 1st ed.) He joins couples together.—2. 'Part of the road so bad that the coach or buggy—or motorcar—'sticks in it' (Morris): Aus. coll.: recorded in 1885, but prob. dating from the 1870s or even 1860s; ob.—3. As the G-P, London: showmen's: C.20. P. Allingham, Evening News, 9 July 1934.—4. A convivial public-house: pub-frequenter's: from ca. 1880; ob. Ex its 'fly-paper' attractiveness. Sunday Times, Johannesburg, 23 May 1937.

glue-pot has come unstuck, a or the. He gives off the odour of a genital exudation or of a seminal emission: a low c.p.: from ca. 1890.

glum-pot. A gloomy or glum person: coll.: late C.19–20.

glutman. A rush-time extra hand in the Customs: coll. verging on S.E.: ca. 1790–1850. See that interesting book, Colquhoun's The Police of the Metropolis, 1796.

glutton. A boxer that takes a lot of punishment before he is 'satisfied': pugilism: 1809. Cf. the S.E. glutton for work.—2. A horse that stays well: racing s. > gen.: from ca. 1850.

gluttony. Willingness to take, fortitude in taking, punishment: pugilistic: ca. 1810–60. Boxiana, 1818 (see game, n., 7).

glybe. A writing: c.:—1785; † by 1890. (Grose, 1st ed.) A perversion of gybe.

472

glym and its derivatives are defined at the preferable glim, etc.

gnaff or n'aff. A low, irritating, no-account fellow, inaverse from petty theft or from informing to the police: low Glasgow: mid-C.19–20. Cf. Parisian s. gniaffe, a term of abuse for a man; prob. of same origin as gonnof. (Communicated, as usage, by my friend Angus Scott, the black-and-white artist and portrait-painter.) See also naff, n., 1.

gnamma hole. A native (Aboriginal) well: Aus. coll.: since ca. 1910. (B., 1943.) Aboriginal.

gnarl upon; gnarling, adj. To spy or 'split' on (a person); doing this, apt to do this: c. of ca. 1810–60. (Vaux.) Cf.:

gnarler. A watch-dog: c.: C.19. (Egan's Grose.) Lit., a snarler. Cf. bleating cheat.

gnarling. See gnarl upon.

gnash. Incorrect for nesh, tender, physically soft: C.18. OED.

gnasp. To vex: coll.: C.18—early 19. Bailey has it.

gnat. A type of German acoustic torpedo, countered by an apparatus known as the foxer: RN s. > j.: ca. 1941–5.

gnat's. See tight as a gnat's arse; within a gnat's.

gnat's blood. 'Tea purchased [by railway staff] from railway canteen or refreshment bar. Railwaymen believe that freshly made tea in the driver or fireman's tea can was very much superior' (McKenna, Glossary): railwaymen's: C.20.

gnat's piss. A weak beverage, e.g. beer, tea, swilge (q.v.), etc.: C.20. Cf. weasel pee.—2. In have blood like gnat's piss, to feel (very much) afraid: low: earlier C.20.

gnaw-gut. Cider: Dorset s.: since mid-C.20, or earlier. (J.B. Smith, in Somerset & Dorset Notes & Queries, ca. 1980.) Cf. cripple-cock.

gnawler. A late C.19–20 c. var. of gnarler, q.v. Manchon.

gnoff. See gonnof.

gnomes of Zurich, the. International—orig. and properly, Swiss—bankers and financiers: coll., mostly journalistic: later C.20. 'George Brown [Minister of the Economy, later Lord George-Brown] came out of a meeting and snapped: "The gnomes of Zurich are at work again"' (T.R. Fehrenbach, The Gnomes of Zurich, 1966, writing of Nov. 1964).

gnoming. Staying in college and working; the opp. of festering, q.v.: St Catherine's College, Oxford. (Adam J. Apt, of Boston, Mass., and St Catherine's, 1978): since (?) ca. 1970.

gnomon. The nose: joc. coll.: ca. 1580–1820. Stanyhurst, Cowper (OED).

gnosh, v.t. To eat: Services'. This is the F.&G., 1925, version of nosh, q.v.

gnostic. A knowing person, 'a downy cove' (q.v.): ca. 1815–1900, but already ob. in 1859. Moore, in Tom Crib, 'Many of the words used by the Canting Beggars in Beaumont and Fletcher's masque are still to be heard among the gnostics of Dyot Street and Tothill Fields.'—2. Also as adj. (†).

gnostically. Artfully; knowingly; flashily: ca. 1820–95. Scott.

Go. For the phrases not listed here, see the significant n. or adj.

go, n. A three-halfpenny bowl of gin and water, esp.—and orig.—if sold at 'the Go Shop', q.v.: ca. 1787–1820.

—2a. Whence (?) a draught, a drink: from ca. 1800. Punch, 1841, 'Waiter, a go of Brett's best alcohol.' Specifically, a quarter of brandy: same period. Thackeray in The Hoggarty Diamond, 'Two more chairs . . . and two more goes of gin!' Synonyms of the former are bender, coffin-nail, drain, facer, gargle, lotion, nobbler, peg, reviver, slug, something, swig, tot, warmer, wet, etc., etc. Hence also, the phrase a little bit on the go, slightly drunk: ca. 1820–80. Egan.—2b. (Hence, of food, as in 'We had a good go of cherries (of ices)' (Baumann, 1887). Also, of food, in the phrase second goes, another helping of the same dish.—3. The fashion, esp. in all the go (q.v.) and, late C.19–20, quite the go,—the go having > † ca. 1840; the correct thing: from ca. 1787 (Grose's annotations to 1st ed. copy in the British Museum): s. > coll. G.R. Sims, 1880, 'And all day long there's a big crowd stops|To look at the lady who's all the go.'—4. Hence, in the 1820s, a dandy, a notable swell. Egan, 1821, 'In the parks, Tom was the go among the goes.'—5. An affair, incident, occurrence: coll. or low coll.: 1796 (OED). Kenney, 1803, 'Capital go, isn't it?' (this stock phrase = a pleasant business); Dickens, 'A pretty go!' (stock; = a startling or awkward business or situation, etc.); G. Eliot, 'A rum go' (stock, with var. rummy; = a queer start, a strange affair).—6. Hence (—1877), an occasion, a time; e.g. 'I've twelve this go' = I have [received] twelve [years] this time.—7. Hence, a bout, an attack, of sickness or illness: coll.: C.20. OED Sup.—8. High spirits; mettle, spirit; energy, enterprise: coll.: 1825, Westmacott, in The English Spy.—9. A turn, an attempt: coll.: US (1825), anglicised ca. 1835. Dickens, 'Wot do you think o' that for a go?' Gen. in have a go at, the object being anything from an abstruse subject to a woman. To this sense, perhaps, belongs the phrase all at one go, completed without interruption: coll.: since ca. 1880.—10. A success, esp. in make it a go, or the perhaps more common make a go of it: adopted, ex US (—1877), ca. 1895.—11. An agreement, a settled thing; a certainty; esp. in it's a go, occ. is it a go?: mostly Aus. and NZ:—1914.—12. A chance; esp. in give (a person) a fair go: perhaps orig. Aus. and NZ coll., from ca. 1910; in later C.20, informal S.E. in Brit. also. McNeil, 1973, defines a fair go: 'an equitable chance to put one's point of view or take one's part'. Contrast give a go and see give it a go. q.v.—13. Working condition of the bells: bell-ringers' s. (—1901) >, by 1930, coll. H. Earle Bulwer, Glossary of Bell-Ringing.—14. Coition, or rather an occasion thereof: mid-C.19–20.—15. The Aus. monitor lizard, a shortening of goanna, q.v.: Aus. rural: since ca. 1910. B., 1943; P.B.—16. An argument, discussion, quarrel; as in 'She had a bit of a go with him, and wouldn't speak to him for a week': coll.: C.20. (P.B.)—17. The news; what is going on: Aus.: later C.20. 'I asked him what the go was.' (Mrs C. Raab, 1980.)—18. In terms and phrases; see as listed here: great go; little go; high go; near go; no go; on the go.

go, v. The sense, to be pregnant, as in Bacon, 'Women go commonly nine months,' is S.E.—2. Abbr. go down, v., 1, q.v.: from ca. 1740; coll. Fielding.—3. Gen. with for, as to go for to (do something), to be so foolish, brave, strict, etc., as to . . . , sol. or low coll.: from ca. 1750.—4. V.t., to wager, risk: 1768, Goldsmith: coll. Hence, to afford: from ca. 1870. Also to stand treat: from ca. 1875.—5. (Of things) to succeed: coll.: from late C.17. B.E., 1699, has 'It won't Gee, it won't Hit, or go'. Commonly, as in London Opinion, 13 Jan. 1866, 'His London-street railway scheme didn't go'.—6. Hence, to be accepted or acceptable; to be valid or applicable: coll.: adopted, ex US (ca. 1890), ca. 1910. E.g., 'That goes for (or with) me too.' E.P. referred to this sense a quot'n from The Night Watch, 1828, supplied by Moe: 'At grog-time there was nothing but wives and sweethearts going, and reckoning up our pay', which, he suggested, made the sense orig. English. However, without the context, this quot'n could also mean that wives and sweethearts formed part of the topic of conversation. (P.B.)—7. (Of a politician or a constituency, with adj., as in 'Chelsea went red', 'Mr Maxton went conservative') to become: coll.: from ca. 1889; ex US—8. To ride to hounds: from ca. 1840: sporting s. >, ca. 1895, j.—9. V.t., to eat: nautical: late C.19–20. Bowen.—10. Hence, to digest: mostly Can.: late C.19–20. John Beames, Getaway, 1932, 'Your poor pa—he couldn't ever go pork an' onions'.—11. Abbr. go for, to attack (from ca. 1912); hence, to fight (v.i.) with one's fists (from ca. 1920): Aus. coll. (Dick.)—12. (Ex sense 5.) 'How do they go?'—as a character asks in Humfrey Jordan, Roundabout, 1935: How do they get along together?: upper class: late C.19–20. Ex a pair of carriage horses.—13. To deal with; to find acceptable: English (? mostly Cockney) s., since ca. 1910; by ca. 1925, also Aus. 'I'll bet you could go a cup of tea, Sonny,' I asked' (Caddie, A Sydney Barmaid, 1953).—14. 'In C.18 used, like come, [v., 1] as a euphemism for experiencing the sexual spasm. Ex the M.E., and later, sense "to die" . . . In John Cleland, Fanny Hill, 1749.' (R.S.).—15. To say; in reporting speech: 'He goes, "I don't want to", so she goes, "Well, if that's it, then . . .", etc.' I heard this usage in the Channel Islands, mid-1970s, and later, in England, among teenagers; judging by a Charles M. Schulz 'Peanuts' cartoon of 1979, it is current also among US youngsters'. (P.B.)—16. In asking a child if he/she needs to relieve him/herself: 'Do you want to go?', it is a C.20 euph. (Mrs Joan F. Beale.) go a bundle on. This phrase has, since ca. 1930, been the predominant var. of the earlier go the bundle on = to support, approve, or think highly of. E.g., in the disparaging 'Can't say I go a bundle on him'. See also under JAZZ TERMS, in Appendix. Cf. the late C.19–20 solo whist term go a bundle, to bid abundance. (P.B.)

go abroad. To be transported: ca. 1825–1900: c. >, by 1860, low. (B.&L.) Cf. abroaded, q.v.

go-ahead, n. An advance agent: circus people's. In All the Year Round, 16 Nov. 1861; † by 1920.—2. In give (it or someone or -thing) the go-ahead, to order or to allow an action or agent to proceed: perhaps mainly journalistic, as in, e.g., 'Government gives go-ahead to plan for . . .': later C.20. (P.B.)

go-ahead, adj. Progressive; anxious to succeed—and usually succeeding: ex US (like going-ahead, it occurs in 1840); anglicised ca. 1865. In C.20, coll.

go ahead! All right! Proceed! Ex US (1835), anglicised ca. 1868. In C.20, coll.

go all out. To exert the utmost effort. See all out, 7.

go all out on. To trust completely; to make the most of (a person): coll.: 1933 (Compton Mackenzie). Ex athletics.

go all the way. (Of a girl) to permit copulation as well as just 'petting': coll., perhaps orig. Can.: since ca. 1920.

go all unnecessary. See make go all . . .

go-along, n. A thief: c.:—1857 ('Ducange Anglicus'; H., 2nd ed.)—2. Also as go-alonger. A fool; an easy dupe: c. of resp. ca. 1845–1914 (Mayhew) and ca. 1810–90 (Vaux). Because he goes along when bid.

go along, Bob!; come along, Bob! These two c.p.p., of ca. 1800–30, are of problematic and dubious meaning. Bee.

go along with you! Mid-C.19–20 var. of get along with you!, don't be so silly—stop your mockery, or flattery!

go-alonger. See go-along, n., 2.

go and (do something). Where the go and represents a mere pleonasm, the usage is coll.: from C.15 or 16. It forms part of many insulting phrases of dismissal or contempt, and occurs also in several euphemisms to excuse one's departure for the privy; the latter usu. start 'I must go and . . .' or 'Must just go and . . .' e.g. spend a penny, shake hands with my best friend, see a man about a dog, etc. These are listed under the operative phrase; several of the insults follow here. (P.B.)—2. If = to be so silly, foolish, or unlucky as to do something, e.g., 'How could she go and marry a man like that, I ask you!', it is also coll.: from ca. 1875. Cf. been and gone and . . . (OED; P.B.) go and boil your head! Shut up, and go away! coll.: C.20. An Aus. version, since ca. 1920, is go and bag your head! (B.P.) Cf.:-

go and bust yourself! 'You be blowed!': low: from ca. 1860; ob.

go and eat coke! Oh, run away! Pej. coll.: late C.19–20. (F. & H., Ware.) An early elab. was . . . and shit cinders! A good example of popular wit.

go and fetch the crooked straight-edge or round square or rubber hammer or wall-stretcher. See FOOLS' ERRANDS, in Appendix.

go and fry your face! A c.p. retort indicative of contempt, incredulity, or derision: ca. 1870–1905. Cf. the Suffolk fry your feet!, nonsense! (EDD), and . . . boil your head!

go and fuck yourself!; (go and) get fucked! Run away and stop bothering me!: low: mid-C.19–20. Cf. (go and) get joined, stuffed, etc.

go and get cut! Go to hell!: Aus.: C.20. B., 1942.

go and get your brains examined! A c.p.—since ca. 1925—addressed to someone arguing foolishly.

go and get your mother to take your nappies off! or go and get your nappies changed! Working-class girls' reply to allow youths' does your mother know you're out?: C.20.

go and piss up a shutter! A low semantic var. of go and jump in the lake!, Run away!: since ca. 1910.

go and piss up your kilt! Rudely synon. with 'No!': mostly Forces': since ca. 1939.

go and play trains! Var. of run away . . . , q.v. at play trains.

go and ride yourself! 'Go and take a running jump at yourself!': low c.p. (? esp. Merseyside): since ca. 1940.

go and scrape yourself! A contemptuous c.p. comment or reply: low: from ca. 1880; ob. Pugh (2).

go and see a man. To go out for a drink. See see a man . . .

go and see a taxidermist! See taxidermist.

go and take a crawling – or creeping – jump at yourself! A c.p., 'shouted derisively or in contempt to a crawler or a "creep"' (Petch, 1966—'only rarely heard'): since ca. 1920. Adaptation of go and take a running jump . . .

go and take a run against the wind! Go away!: Anglo-Irish c.p.: C.20.

go and take a running jump at yourself! Go away!; Don't bother me!: c.p.: since ca. 1910.

go ape. See ape.

go as you please, adj. Unconfined by rules: athletics, ca. 1880. Hence, characterised by a general freedom of action: 1884: coll.

go-ashore. 'An iron pot or cauldron, with three iron feet, and two ears, from which it was suspended by a wire handle over the fire,' Morris: NZ: current at least as early as 1834 (B., 1941); >, by 1880, S.E. Ex Maori kohua by Hobson-Jobson.

go-ashores. 'The seaman's best dress' (Smyth, 1867): nautical coll.: from ca. 1850. D. Butcher, Trawlermen, 1980, glossary.

go at. To deal vigorously with (something): ?late C.18–mid-19. They can "go" at the bottle, and "stick" at the table till "all's blue": John L. Gardner, The Military Sketch-Book (II, 28), 1831. (Moe.) See go, n., 9, for have a go at.

go-away. Abbr. (a bride's) go- (or going-away dress: Society coll.: 1886 (Ware); ob. by 1930.—2. A train; a tram; a bus: Aus.: since ca. 1920. Baker.

go baa-baa. See baa-baa (black sheep).

go(-)back, n. A reply; a retort: Aus.: since ca. 1921. Lawson Glassop, 1944, "You had a go-back?" I asked, "You didn't let him get away with it?" Cf. come-back.

go back and cross the Ts. A c.p. ironically directed at a helmsman that has 'written his name' by steering an erratic course: RN: since ca. 1920. Granville.

go back of. See go back on.—2. See go behind.

go back on, v.t. To desert, turn against, or to fail, a person; break a promise: ex US (1868); anglicised ca. 1895. Var. go back of (not with persons): 1888 (OED).

go backwards. To visit the privy: early C.20. F. & H., rev.

go bail, I will or fil. I'll be bound! I'm sure! Assuredly!: coll.: from ca. 1880. Rider Haggard, in Dawn, 'He won't marry her now, I'll go bail' (OED). Ob.—2. See leg-bail.

go Ballarat. To drink alone: Aus.: ca. 1890–1930.

go bananas. See bananas.

go bang. Var. of intrans. form of bang, v., 3, to copulate (of the male): Aus.: since ca. 1920.

go behind, v.t. 'To disregard the writing for the sake of ascertaining the fact' (Thornton): orig. (1839; popularised in 1876), US; anglicised as a coll. ca. 1890. In C.20, S.E. The var. go back of (late C.19–20) is rare in Britain, frequent in US.

Go-Between, the. St Alban's Church, Holborn: London: 1897–ca. 1912. (Ware.) Because 'High Church'.

go beyond. To be transported as a convict: Anglo-Irish: ca. 1810–70. Wm Carleton, Rory the Rover, 1845, 'You will go beyant, and no mistake at all' (i.e. beyond the sea).

go big; go over big. (Of a play, a book) to be very successful: both US and both anglicised in 1928. The latter was, in U.S. the earlier; go big derives from it. OED Sup.

go blah. See blah, adj. Prob. ex.—2. To have one's mind go blank: from ca. 1907: Parliamentary >, by 1930, gen. A.E.W. Mason, The Dean's Elbow, 1930, in ref. to the year 1908 and to a prospective speaker in Parliament, 'If only his mind didn't go blank. Minds often did, even the best minds. Darkness descends on them, inextricable . . . These seizures . . . always chose ruinous moments. There was a slang phrase which described them—horribly graphic, too, like most slang phrases. To go blah. Well, there it was! He, Mark Thewless, would go blah this afternoon.' Perhaps blah represents a perversion of blank.

go bush. To retire to the bushes in order to relieve nature: Can. railway workers': from before 1909.—2, 3. See bush.

go-by. The act of passing without recognising (a person), dealing with or taking (a thing); an evasion or a deception. Esp. in give (e.g. him or it) the go-by, to ignore; to abandon; to refuse to recognise; and, in later C.20, to avoid doing something: since earlier C.17 (OED cites T. Fuller, The Holy State, 1642); in C.17–18, and indeed until ca. 1860, S.E.; then coll. Stevenson, 'A French ship . . . gave us the go-by in the fog.' Also common in get the go-by, the corresponding passive.

go by the book. To keep strictly—even if unreasonably so—to the rules and regulations: Services'; police; bureaucrats': since ca. 1920; coll. >, by 1970, informal S.E. (Petch, 1969.)

go-by-the-ground. 'A little short person' (Grose, 2nd ed.): C.18–19 coll.; ob. except in dial. In late C.16–17, go-by-ground (also, C.17, adj.). Cf. Lincolnshire go-by-the-wall, a creeping, helpless person.

go by Walker's bus. To go on foot: proletarian: from ca. 1870; †. (B. & L.) An occ. var. is go by (the) number eleven bus: as walkers = feet, so eleven = legs, as in the housey-housey call. (P.B.)

go case with. To go to bed with: since ca. 1910: c. that, by 1940, had > low s. (Norman.) Cf.:-

go caso. To take a room or a flat and become a genteel prostitute: C.20: c. >, by 1935, low s. 'He only married her for her money, and she got it going caso' (Gerald Kersh, Night and the City, 1938). See caso.

go chicken. See chicken out.

go close. Abbr. go close to the winning-post: sporting coll.:—1909 (Ware.)

go cold at. To reprove, blame, reprimand: Aus.: since ca. 1925. B., 1943.

go cold on. To lose one's initial enthusiasm for (an idea, a plan, etc.): coll.: since ca. 1920.

go crawl up a hole! A dismissive c.p.: Aus., esp. Sydney: since ca. 1945.

go crook. To speak angrily: Aus.: from ca. 1910. See crook, adj.

go dental. To report on sick parade to see the dentist: Services' coll.: later C.20. Cf. go sick. (P.B.)

go dis. See dis (disconnected) and cf. gone dis, q.v.

go dog on. To fail (a person); to betray: Aus.: late C.19–20; by 1960 †. (G.B. Lancaster, Jim of the Ranges, 1910.) Cf. dingo, n., 2 and 3, and see dog, n., 9–11, esp. the last, 'informer', still current early 1970s.

go-down, n. A drink: mid-C.17–18: s. >, by 1700, coll. (D'Urvey, Ned Ward.) Later, go, n., 2. The term survives in dial.

go down, v.i. To be accepted; be approved or allowed; the v.t. form is go down with (a person or group of people): C.17–20: prob. always coll. There are many early examples, of which perhaps the first occurs in Thomas Middleton's A Trick to Catch an Old One, 1608, at Act II, sc. i. Cf. go, v., 2, q.v.—2. To be rusticated: university: ca. 1860–1900. (In C.20, simply to leave the university at the end of one's course.)—3. V.t. To rob (someone): since ca. 1880: c. until C.20, then low s. Sessions, 27 June 1901, 'I was along with two men, and they went down a man': i.e. down into his pockets.—4. V.i. To become bankrupt: coll.:—1892; ob. by ca. 1935. Also go under, q.v.—5. To be sentenced, imprisoned: c. > low s.:

C.20. (Edgar Wallace, The Squeaker, 1927.) Often as go (went) down for (so many) months or years.—6. To give birth to a child: C.20. Ada E. Jones, in Darkest London, 1926, 'The girls who were with me waiting to go down.'

go down like a lead balloon; esp., it will go, or it went, down ..., it won't, or it didn't, go down very well with him; he won't, or didn't, like that very much: RAF: since the late 1940s. P.B.: a post-1955 var. is ... lead brick.

go down on (one's) bended. To pray (on one's knees): coll.: since ca. 1925.

go down one. To be vanquished: Cockneys' coll.:—1909 (Ware). Ex going down one place in school.

go down south on. To practise either fellatio or cunnilingus on: low: C.20.

go due north. To go bankrupt: ca. 1810–80. I.e. to White-Cross Street Prison, once († before 1983) situated in the north of London.

go Dutch. To join in a 'Dutch treat' (the term is S.E., ex US: SOD, 1977), i.e. to pay one's own share instead of being treated, to drinks, food, etc.: coll.: since (?) mid-C.20. 'My girl and I always go Dutch when we go out.' (P.B.)

go 'er on! A Stock Exchange exclamatory c.p. made when a broker or a jobber wishes to continue buying or selling the same shares: C.20. A commercial attaboy!

go fantee or fanti. To return to primitive life, to 'go native': scientific and coll.: ca. 1880–1930. Ware; SOD.

go for. To attempt (to do); undertake: coll.: adopted, ex US, ca. 1880; ob. by ca. 1935.—2. To be in favour of, support, vote for: coll.: adopted, ex US, ca. 1880; ob. by ca. 1910, except in the nuance 'to fancy, to like', as in the admiring male comment on an attractive girl 'I could go for her (or, more coarsely, that) any day of the week.' Cf. go for you . . . , q.v.—3. To attack, physically, lingually, or in writing (hence, esp. in the theatre, to criticise adversely): ex US (1838); anglicised ca. 1870. Baumann, 1887; Polytechnic Magazine, 24 Oct. 1889, 'He went for the jam tarts unmercifully.'—4. To act as; to become: coll.: since ca. 1920. Angus Wilson, A Bit off the Map, 1957, 'I'm well made all right. I could go for a model if I wanted.' P.B.: but cf. the line in traditional English and Irish ballads, 'My Johnny has gone for a soldier.'

go for a Burton. See gone for . . .

go for a quick one. See quick one.

go for a shit. See gone for . . .

go for broke. To 'try to crash through the soup' (Pix, 28 Sep. 1963): US. surfers': since ca. 1960. Ex the much earlier (—1930) US meaning, orig. in gambling, to risk all at one throw or on one bet. (With thanks to Robert Claiborne.)

go for it. (Of a girl) to be extremely eager for sexual intercourse: Aus.: since ca. 1925.

go for (one's) quoits. To run, to work, at one's fastest and best: Aus.: since ca. 1925. (B., 1943.) Presumably connected with the phrase occurring in Jon Cleary's The Sundowners, 1952, 'go for the lick of his coit'. Perhaps ultimately ex quoit or coit, buttocks, arse.

go for (one's) tea. To die: underworld: 1970s. (Powis, 1977.)

go for the doctor. To ride (a horse) fast: Aus. rural: since ca. 1910; by 1960, slightly ob. B., 1953.—2. To bet heavily on a horse in the expectation (? hope) of winning a lot of money: Aus. sporting: since ca. 1930. Lawson Glassop, Lucky Palmer, 1949.

go for the gloves. To bet recklessly: the turf: from ca. 1870; ob. (H., 5th ed.) Ex women's tendency to bet in pairs of gloves on the 'heads I win, tails you lose' principle.

go for the lick of (one's) coit. See go for (one's) quoits.

go for to [do, etc.]. 'Go and': sol., prob. ex dial.: C.19–20. Early examples are in Wm Maginn, Whitehall, 1827, 'You may go for to ax my character at Mr Robins', and in Bill Truck, 1822. (Moe.) Cf. go, v., 3, and go to do, qq. v.

go for you in a big way! I could. A between-men c.p., imputing effeminacy or softness: since ca. 1942.

go foreign. To go on an overseas commission: RN officers': since ca. 1925. P-G-R.

go gardening. To run off the road: motorcyclists': later C.20. (Dunford.)

go-getter. A very active, enterprising person; a pusher: coll.: adopted, ex US, ca. 1925. (OED Sup.) Ex go (and) get what one wants.

go-go. See gogo.

go grunts. To defecate. See grunts.

go (one's) hardest. To do one's utmost: Aus. coll.: C.20. D'Arcy Niland, The Shiralee, 1955.

go high. To ride on the top of a freight car: Can. railroadmen's:—1931. Synon. with decorate.

go home. To die: military: early WW1. (B. & P.) Cf. go out and go west.

go hostile. To get angry. See hostile.

go-in, n. (Gen. followed by at.) A lit. or fig. attack: coll.:—1858. (OED).—2. A turn of work: coll.:—1890 (OED).—3. A difference of opinion, a row: low Aus.: since ca. 1920. Kylie Tennant, The Joyful Condemned, 1953.—4. An agreement, a partnership: Aus.: since ca. 1930. B., 1943.—5. A run of bad luck, necessitating recourse to the central pool: Aus. domino-players': C.20. B., 1953.

go in, v.i. To enter oneself; set about it; try: from ca. 1835; from ca. 1890, S.E. Dickens, 'Go in and win', advice offered to the weaker in a contest, esp. fisticuffs. Hence, in late C.19–20 military coll., to make an attack. Cf. go in at.—2. To die: military in the Boer War. J. Milne, The Epistles of Atkins, 1902. Ex dial. sense, 'to come to an end' (EDD).

go in a buster. To spend regardless of expense: mostly Cocknes': from ca. 1885; ob. by ca. 1935. Anstey, Voices Populi, vol. II, 1892.

go in at. To assail vigorously: coll.: from ca. 1810. In 1849, Dickens, 'Sometimes I go in at the butcher madly, and cut my knuckles open against his face.' Ob.

go in for. To seek; attempt to obtain; make one's object: coll.: from ca. 1860. Dickens, 'Go in for money—money's the article,' 1864.—2. Hence, apply oneself to, take up (e.g. as a hobby); to begin to do, to adopt as a profession, study as a subject: coll.: from ca. 1870.—3. To enter oneself as a candidate for: coll.: from ca. 1879 (OED).—4. To venture on obtaining or on wearing: coll.: from ca. 1890.—5. To court (a woman): Society s. of ca. 1865–1900. (Whyte-Melville in M. or N.) Cf. go in and go for, 1.

go in off the deep end. See off the deep end.

go into. Attack vigorously; punch fast and hard: boxing: 1811: ob. by 1910, † by 1930. OED.

go into a flat spin. To become muddled: airmen's and aircraft engineers': since 1920s. See flat spin.—2. Hence, (also as get into . . .). to know not which way to turn, to become flustered: esp. in Services and chiefly RAF: since ca. 1937. English Digest, Feb. 1941; H. & P.—3. More intensively, to panic: Services': since ca. 1942.

go into smoke. To go into hiding: Aus. c.: C.20.

go into the kitchen. To drink one's tea out of the saucer: middle and lower-middle classes': from ca. 1860; †. (B. & L.)

Ex servants' tendency so to drink their tea.

go it; often go it strong, in C.20 occ. go it thick. To act vigorously and/or daringly; speak very strongly or frankly: coll.: C.19–20. (Bee.) Dickens, 'I say, young Copperfield, you're going it.' Earlier, in ref. to two boxers fighting vigorously, in J.H. Lewis, The Art of Writing, 7th ed., 1816.—2. Hence, to live expensively and/or dissipatedly: coll.:—1821. Egan, in Tom and Jerry, 'To go it, where's a place like London?' (the answer being, Any cosmopolitan capital).—3. To bombard heavily, make an artillery 'demonstration': military coll.: 1914. (B. & P.) Ex sense 1.

go it! Keep at it! Play, fight, etc., hard!: coll.: from ca. 1820. (Bee.)? ex go it, ye cripples, (crutches are cheap).

go it blind. To act without considering the consequences; esp. to 'speed', physically or morally, thus: from ca. 1840. John Brougham's play Po-Ca-Hon-Tas; or, The Gentle Savage, prod. in 1855, at Act I, sc. i, where O-Pol-Dil-Doc says to Col-O-Gog, 'Nuff said, old top. I'll go it blind'.—2. To drink heavily: Cockney: late C.19–20. A. Neil Lyons, Clara, 1912.—3. To enter uninformed or rashly into an undertaking: US (1848), adopted in-UK ca. 1900. Prob. ex poker.

go it lemons. See lemons.

go it, Ned. A Naval c.p. of (?) ca. 1810–40. W.N. Glascock, Sailors and Saints (II, 117), 1829 (Moe).

go it strong (or thick). See go it.

go it, you cripple(s)! An ironic, often senseless, comment on strenuous effort, esp. in sports and games; wooden legs are cheap was often, but since WW1 is seldom, added. Coll.: C.19–20. Thackeray, 1840. See esp. DCpp.

go lemony at. To become angry with. See lemony, and cf. go hostile.

go like a bomb. esp. in 'It has gone, or it went, like a bomb', as in "'A sort of Grand tour, wasn't it, with Robbie?'"—"Sort of. Seeing the world and brushing up my Arabic... Oh, it all went like a bomb" (Mary Stewart, The Gabriel Hounds, 1967). It began, in the late 1950s, for cars with a fine turn of speed and a very rapid acceleration; by early in the 1960s it was being applied to expeditions, visits, parties, love affairs, what have you. Ex the explosion of (large) bombs, and not to be confused with ancient, battered vehicles. Claiborne adds, 1976: 'Also go down a bomb with same meaning. Adam Diment's spy books. [But] note that in US [and later in Brit.] to bomb is to fail utterly.' Influenced, perhaps, by the very English go down a treat, of food or, esp., of drink (P.B.). go like a rabbit. As he or she goes...: approvingly, of a sexual partner: C.20. (Peter Reynolds, 1979.) Cf. fuck like a rattlesnake.

go like the clappers; ... the hammers. See like the clappers, and hammers of hell.

go, man, go! A jazz c.p.: adopted, ca. 1948, ex US. 'Gone is what one logically becomes when one obeys the command "Go, man, go!"' (L.A.). Cf. 'Go!—exhortation to dig, get with it, swing' (Victoria Daily Colonist, 16 Apr. 1959, 'Basic Beatnik'): Can., hence also Eng. See esp. Norman D. Hinton in The American Dialect Society, Nov. 1958.

go much on. (Usu. in negative, except in question.) 'Do you go much on him?'; 'I don't go much on her/it, myself': to like, to care for: perhaps orig. NZ and Aus., but soon also Brit. coll.: C.20. Jean Devanney, Lenore Divine, 1926.

go mulga. To take to the bush; hence, to decamp, to seek solitude: Aus.: C.20. (B., 1959.) See bush, n., 8–10.

go muzzy. To bid misère in solo whist: esp. Merseyside: C.20.

go native. To assimilate oneself with the local population, adopting their customs and way of living, used esp. of expatriate British settling in tropical countries; as in the rueful, mocking comment of a soldier, in, say, Hong Kong: 'Can't leave us here too long, can they? After all, might marry one of the local beauties. Can't have the chaps going native, what!'—a parody of the upper-class empire-builders' attitude to their colonial subjects: coll.: C.20. Cf. go fantee. It might also be applied to a Londoner settling contentedly in the provinces. (P.B.) See also gone native.

go-off. (Time of) commencement: coll.: 1851 (OED). Esp. in the ob. at one go-off (1856) and in at (the) first go-off, at the very beginning: from ca. 1879.—2. In banking s., from ca. 1890, 'the amount of loans falling due (... going off the amount in the books) in a certain period' (OED).

go off, v. To die: C.17–20 (ob.): coll. Shakespeare; Dickens, 'She... was seized with a fit and went off.'—2. To be disposed of: goods by sale, women in marriage. Dickens, of the latter, in Boz.—3. To take place, occur; occ. it almost = to succeed: coll.: from ca. 1804. Maria Edgeworth; Mrs Gaskell, 'The wedding went off much as such affairs do.'—4. To deteriorate in freshness (e.g. milk) or (e.g. a horse) in form: coll.:—1883.—5. (Contrast sense 3.) Not to take place: Society: ca. 1885–1915. (Ware.) Esp. of an appointment or an engagement.—6. To go on board ship': RN coll.: C.20. F. & G.—7. A horse either 'fixed' or confidently expected to win is said to 'go off': Aus. sporting: since ca. 1910. B., 1942.—8. A hotel, a club, raided by the police for serving liquor after hours is said to 'go off': Aus. urban: since ca. 1925. Baker.—9. To experience orgasm: coll.: C.20.—10. To go off to prison, be sent to gaol: Aus.: since ca. 1910. Gavin Casey, It's Easier Downhill, 1945.—11. Hence, merely to be fined, esp. for gambling, as in Lawson Glassop, Lucky Palmer, 1949.—12. To cease to be attracted (not necessarily sexually) by someone, or to gain pleasure from some thing or interest: coll.: since ca. 1950. As in the (usu.) joc. remark, made at someone. 'You can go off some people, you know!' used as a retort. (P.B.) go off at. Aus. var. of go off on, to reprimand: late C.19–20. Baker.

go off (one's) brain. To rave, be ecstatic, about something: Aus.: since latish 1940s. (Alexander Buzo, Rooted, prod. 1969, pub. 1973.) Cf. the informal S.E. go off (one's) head, to go mad.

go off (one's) burner. See burner.

go off (one's) face. To burst out laughing: Aus.: since ca. 1945. A. Buzo, Rooted, 1969.

go off on. To blame, reprimand, abuse: nautical: C.20. H. Maclaren, The Private Opinions of a British Blue-Jacket, 1929.

go off song. '(Of a friend or a well-disposed neighbour) to turn abrupt and disagreeable, usu. unaccountably: Londoners': C.19–early 20' (L.A.). Like a cage-bird.

go off the boil. Of a pregnant woman: to cease, temporarily, to feel the contractions and pangs of childbirth: medical students': since ca. 1910.—2. Of a woman: to lose, temporarily or momentarily, the desire for intercourse: raffish and mainly Aus.: since ca. 1920.

go off the deck. To become airborne: RNAS, hence RFC: 1915+. F. & G.

go off the deep end. See off the deep end.

go off the handle. A C.20 var. of fly off the handle, q.v.

go off the hooks. To die: from ca. 1830; ob. Cf. go aloft (see aloft).

go on. To talk volubly: coll.: from ca. 1860. With at, to rail at: coll.: 1873. OED.

go on! An exclamation of surprise, incredulity, or derision: coll.: from ca. 1875. Often elab. go on with you! Cf. get on with you!, with which it is used similarly as a rejection of praise or flattery. In, e.g., Pincher Martin, 1916, one of the lively collections of lowerdeck stories and studies by 'Taffrail'.

go... on... the first dots being any coll. or idiomatic or 'Saxon' adj. (a literary adj. is very rare); the second dots being a pronoun or a n. representing a person; the subject is gen. a person or else a thing endowed with personal qualities; the object of on is shown at a consequent disadvantage—in fact, this construction is a coll. variation of the ethic dative. E.g., 'Just when I had saved enough money to retire, my bank went broke on me'; 'The servant went ill on him'; 'The egg went bad on the cook.' (From ca. 1895.)

go on about; be always on about. To complain of or about; (be...) to do this habitually: coll.: since ca. 1880. Cf. on at.

go on pump. To desert from the Foreign Legion: cosmopolitan: C.20.

go on the box. See box.

go on the bum. To go begging, esp. if habitually: adopted, ca. 1900, ex US. Cf. bum, n., 1.

go on the Cousin Sis. To drink heavily: low, since ca. 1925. (Gerald Kersh, The Nine Lives of Bill Nelson, 1942.) Rhyming on go on the piss.

go on, orig. upon, the dub. To go housebreaking: late C.17–early 19 c. See dub.

go on the knocker. See knocker, 11.

go on the oil. See oil, n., 5.

go on the piss. See piss, n., 6.

go on the sharpo. To rob from buildings: tramps' c.:—1932 (F. Jennings).

go on with you! See go on!

go out. To fight a duel: (?mostly Army) coll.: late C.18–mid-19. George R. Gleig, The Subaltern's Log-Book (II, 214), 1828 (Moe).—2. To rob in the streets: c.:—1823; ob. Bee,

"I don't go out, now," said by a reformed rogue'. Cf. next entry.—3. To fall into disuse or into social disrepute: coll.: 1840 (OED). Punch, 1841, 'Pockets... to use the flippant idiom of the day, are going out.' Abbr. go out of fashion or use.—4. To die: military: WW1. B. & P.

go out foreign. To emigrate under shady circumstances': c.:—1909 (Ware).

go out like a light. Suddenly to lose consciousness. See out like a light.

go out the back door. See out the back door.

go but together. To go, habitually, thieving in company: c. of ca. 1810–90. (Vaux.) Cf. go out, 1: q.v.

go out with the ebb. To die: nautical coll.: late C.19–20. (Bowen.) Cf. military go west.

go over, to desert, is C.17–20 S.E.; but it is clerical s. when it = to join the Church of Rome:—1861. Cf. vert.—2. To die: coll.: from ca. 1845. Abbr. go over to join the majority. Cf. go off.—3. In c., to search and rob a person:—1889. Cf. go through and see going-over.—4. To become a sexual pervert: Aus.: since ca. 1910. B., 1942.

go over big. See go big.

go over the side. To commit a first offence: police: since ca. 1918. Cf. over the side.

go over the top. To leave one's own trench and join in the attack on the enemy: army coll.: from 1916. The top is both the top of the trench and the open ground between the trenches. (B. & P.) See also over the top.—2. Hence, to do something dangerous and/or notable (e.g. getting married): from 1919; †. Collinson; Lyell.

go phut. See phut.

go places. To travel extensively, or merely to gad about: coll.: adopted ca. 1938 from US. Often go places and see things.

go round, v.i. To pay an informal visit: coll.: 1873 (W. Black: OED).

go round the buoy. To have 'a second helping of any food': nautical: late C.19–20. Bowen.

go round the corner. To visit the privy: euph. coll.: since ca. 1890.

go shoe the goose! A derisive, or utterly incredulous, retort: late C.16–18. B.E.

Go-Shop, the. The Queen's Head tavern in Duke's Court, Bow Street (London, WC2): late C.18–early 19. 'Frequented by the under players' (Grose, 2nd ed.). Ex go, n., 1, q.v.

go sick. To malingering: Services' coll.: WW1. Collinson.—2. Later, by WW2, in Services' coll., it became simply elliptical for 'to go on sick parade', to report for medical diagnosis and/or treatment, with no suggestion of malingering. By later C.20 > j.; cf. go dental.

go sideways. To engage in a criminal enterprise: c.: from ca. 1890; ob. Rook, Hooligan Nights, 'Young Alf recounted this incident in his career, in order to illustrate his thesis that if you want to go sideways you have got to have your tale ready to pitch.'

go slumming. To mix with one's inferiors: joc. coll.: since ca. 1905. Vernon Bartlett, No Man's Land, 1940.

go snip. To go shares, to share (something), usu. with (someone): mid-C.17–mid-18. John Dryden, An Evening's Love, 1661, at V, i (Moe).

go snogging. See snogging.

go spare. To become distraught, esp. 'mad', with anger: Forces': since ca. 1935. (L.A.) By 1950, also fairly gen. civilian, as in Norman.

go steady. (Of juveniles) to be constantly together as boy-and-girl companions; to be a courting couple or one member thereof: coll.: Can.: since ca. 1945. (Leechman.) By 1955, a common expression in England. Cf. steady, n.

go steady with (one's) right hand. (Of either sex, but usu. male) to masturbate: adopted, prob. via Can., mid-C.20. Ex go steady with—see prec.—which Hollander uses to mean 'to keep potentially sexual company with', without the implication of fidelity.

go stick your nose up a dead bear's bum! René Cutforth, on TV, mid-1973, recounted hearing this from an Australian soldier, as a derisive dismissal. It may have been a nonce-coinage, but it tickled the collective fancy of the small military unit I was with at the time, and was 'used to death'. (P.B.) go take a flying fuck at, or of, a galloping goose! Go away!: Can. army: WW2. In later C.20, gen. low, and abbr. to go take a flying fuck (occ. at yourself!)

go ta-tas; go tats. To go out for a walk, an outing. See ta-tas. go the bundle on. To support strongly; plump for; be enthusiastic concerning: RN: C.20. Lit., go the whole lot on, stake one's all on; perhaps cf. go nap on, but prob. cf. bundle, n., 1, q.v. An early example occurs in 'Bartimeus', A Tall Ship, 1915. See also go a bundle on.

go (or last) the full distance. To last the scheduled number of rounds in a contest: boxers' coll.: from ca. 1910; by 1940, S.E. The Times, 24 Nov. 1936.

go the gamble. To make a bet. See gamble.

go the jump. To break into a house by the window: c.: C.19.

go the knock on. To steal (something): low Aus.: since ca. 1910. D'Arcy Niland, The Big Smoke, 1959.

go the knuckle. To fight—esp. if well—with one's fists: Aus.: since ca. 1920. (Jean Devanney, By Tropic Sea and Jungle, 1944; D'Arcy Niland, The Shiralee, 1955.) See also knuckle, n., 7.

go the limit. In courting or love-making, to achieve or permit coition: since ca. 1916.

go the pace is S.E.

go the whole hog. To act thorough-goingly: ex US (1828); anglicised ca. 1850. A very early Can. example occurs in the Beaver (the Hudson Bay Company's quarterly) of Mar. 1840: '2 June 1840... The Govr. dropt in upon us last night at five, dined with the Sheriff & me at Joe's and "went the whole hog" after by discussing some first rate port' (Douglas Leechman). Cf. whole-hogger and:-

go the whole pile. To put all one's money on a solitary chance' (B. & L.); gamesters': adopted, ex US, ca. 1885.

go through. To rob: ex US (1867); anglicised ca. 1895.—2. To possess a woman: low coll.: from ca. 1870.—3. V.i., to abscond on bail: Aus. c.: C.20.—4. (v.i.) To give up, cease, desist: Aus.: since ca. 1925. Jean Devanney, By Tropic Sea and Jungle, 1944.—5. To desert (from the Forces): Aus.: since 1939. B., 1943; Jon Cleary, You Can't See round Corners, 1949.

go through for. "He's going through for law": Can. and US. Means he is taking a course of study in law (or medicine, or what else). Ex going through the university' (Leechman): coll., not s.; since ca. 1935.

go through for the doctor. A var. of go for the doctor, 2. Lawson Glassop, Lucky Palmer, 1949.

go through like a dose of salts. See dose of salts.

go through on. To leave; give the slip to: see no more of (a person): Aus.: since ca. 1920. Rats, 1944: 'We'll go through on them two milk-bar sorts.'

go through the card. To cover comprehensively, or to have everything that is on offer (on a menu, for example); originally meant to back every winning horse at a meeting' (Powis): low coll.: later C.20.

go through the Chapter House. (Of the ball) to pass through the stumps, in the days when there were only two: cricketers': mid-C.18–early 19. Lewis.

go through the gate. To let the throttle full out, strictly in an emergency, with the use of emergency power: RAF: since ca. 1937. E.P. in the New Statesman, 19 Sep. 1942; Robert Hinde, letter, 1945, 'This means literally to push the throttle through a small projection on the side of the groove in which it operates. Sometimes the gate takes the form of a breakable wire. Used only for emergency power, not synonymous with turn up the wick.' go through the mill. See through the mill.

go through the motions. To give the appearance of doing something, without actually doing it, or without doing it wholeheartedly; to conform, whether in spirit or, esp., only in the letter, e.g. at church: orig. Services', from ca. 1920 at latest, ex a squad doing rifle drill, when not every man has a rifle, and the NCO's order: 'Them without weapons, go through the motions'; since ca. 1950, in gen. coll. usage. (Petch, 1966; P.B.)—2. Hence, as Petch cites from the BBC TV series 'Dixon of Dock Green'; about the police force, programme of 13 Jan. 1968, 'to make the usual routine enquiries; to observe routine'.

go through the roof. Suddenly to be extremely angry; to fly into a rage: coll.: since ca. 1960. A logical extension of hit the roof, q.v. (P.B.)

go through with. To complete (a difficult or distasteful task or duty): mid-C.16–20; S.E. until ca. 1890, then of a coll. tendency.

go through without a water-bag. To be in a tremendous hurry: Aus.: C.20. (B., 1943.) In The Drum, 1959, B. records it as the not a, and declares it t.

go to a hundred feet. To sleep (very) deeply: submariners': since ca. 1939. (G. Hackforth-Jones, Submarine Alone, 1943.) Ex a submarine's submersion.

go to Bath. Become a beggar. See Bath.

go to bed in (one's) boots. To be very drunk: low coll.: late C.19—early 20. Contrast:

go to bed with (one's) boots on, usu. not to. (Of the male) to deliberately omit to use a contraceptive: since ca. 1950. L.A. cites J.A. Cuddon, The Bride of Battersea, 1967. "'Yes", said Vera, "You can't make them wear something, I tried to tell Reggie once ... 'No fear,' he said, 'I don't go to bed with my boots on!'"

go to (one's) chest. (Of things.) To annoy (a person) for a long time: low: 1914, A. Neil Lyons, in Arthur's, 'It goes to his chest' (Manchon). Ex a cold going there.

go to church. To get married: coll.; from late C.16. Shakespeare, 1599, 'Counte Claudio, when meane you to goe to Church?'

go to college. To go to prison: low: ca. 1720–1850. (B. & L.) See college, n., 1.

go to do. To go and do; to do: proletarian coll.: late C.19–20. Cf. go for to, q.v. Dorothy L. Sayers, Unnatural Death, 1927, 'What a terrible thing, oh dear! who would go to do a thing like that?'

go to father! Go to hell!: c.p.: late C.19—early 20. Ex a music-hall song; 'father' being dead. Perhaps suggested by go farther and ask father, and the comfort of come to mother?

go to grass. To succumb, be knocked down: C.17; later, in mid-C.19, used by boxers for 'to fall sprawling' (B. & L.). —2. (Of limbs) to waste away: coll.: ca. 1840–1910.—3. To abscond; to disappear suddenly; gen. in present perfect tense or as ppl phrase, gone to grass: ca. 1850–90.—4. As an exclam. retort, 'A common answer to a troublesome or inquisitive person' (H., 1859): perhaps adopted ex US; † by 1900. Perhaps from previous senses, perhaps from putting an old horse 'out to grass'; but cf. next, as a C.19 version of 'Drop dead!':—

go to grass with (one's) teeth upwards. To be buried: from ca. 1810.—2. Hence, to die: coll.: from ca. 1820: † by 1910. Cf. and see landowner and cf. the Devonshire go round land.

go to Halifax; Hanover. See Halifax; Hanover.

go to heaven in a little row-boat! Can. children's c.p., equivalent of 'Go to hell!': since ca. 1960. (D.J. Barr, letter, 1969.)

go to heaven in a string. To be hanged: coll.: ca. 1590–1800. Greene, 1592: Apperson.

go to heaven in a wheelbarrow. To go to hell: coll.: ca. 1615–90. (T. Adams, 1618.) 'In the painted glass at Fairford, Gloucestershire, the devil is represented as wheeling off a scolding wife in a barrow' (F. & H.).

go to hell and help your mother make bitch-pie! A c.p. elab. of go to hell! mid-C.18—early 20. Grose, 2nd ed., 1788; Manchon.

go to hell and pump thunder! A late C.19 c.p. indicative of utter incredulity or derision.

go to hell or Connaught! 'Go where you like but don't bother me with where you're going!': coll.: from 1654; ob. Ex a Parliamentary Act of that year. Ware.

go to it. (Emphasis on to.) To act vigorously, set to with a will: coll.: C.19 (perhaps late C.18)—20. (Bill Truck, 1822.) P.B.: cf. the cynical little rhyme, 'They showed him the thing that couldn't be done./With a smile he went right to it;/He tackled the thing that couldn't be done/And—couldn't do it.'

go to Jericho. See Jericho.

go to market. To kick up a fuss; cut a dash, let off steam: Aus. coll.: C.20. K.S. Prichard, Working Bullocks, 1926: of a spirited stallion not yet fully trained to the saddle. Cf. go to town.

go-to-meeting, adj. Best (of clothes): coll.: ex US (1825); anglicised ca. 1850, 'Cuthbert Bede' having 'His black go-to-meeting bags'. Often prec. by Sunday, implying non-conformist church meeting.

go to pot. To be ruined or destroyed; to get into a very bad condition: mid-C.16–20; S.E. till C.19, then coll.; in C.20, low coll. (Whence go to pot!, go to the devil: coll.: late C.17–20.) Orig. go to the pot, lit. 'to be cut in pieces like meat for the pot' (SOD).

go to Putney. See Putney.

go to see some friends. To die: C.19 boxers'.

go to the back of the class! That was a stupid answer, or action!: coll.: since ca. 1920. Ex school-teacher's reprimand and pupil's demotion.

go to the bad. See bad, 2.

go to the bank. To go to the Labour Exchange: workmen's: from ca. 1924.

go to the country. To go to prison; cf. in the country, in prison, esp. at Dartmoor: c.: C.20. (E. Wallace, The Brigand, 1927.) P.B.: perhaps also a pun on the political j., to hold a general election.

go to the dogs. To go to ruin; to lead an extremely dissipated and foolish life. C.16–20; coll. till ca. 1680, then S.E.

go to the movies. To go into action: RAF: WW2; adopted 1940 from American airman. Reader's Digest, Feb. 1941.

go to the top of the class! A c.p. remark to one who has made a quick and accurate answer: Eng. and Can.: since ca. 1948. Contrast go to the back..., which was in use earlier.

go to town. 'To enjoy things in a big way' (Granville, 1969); to tackle with zest, actively, fiercely, etc., as 'The CO really went to town on those blokes who were caught out of bounds', i.e. he punished them severely; it has also the senses of the Aus. go to market, q.v.; adopted, prob. via US servicemen in Brit., ca. 1943, by which date it was already in use in Can.

go tots. See going tots.

go uncling. To run after a married woman: RAF: from ca. 1920. Her children call him 'Uncle'.

go under. To become bankrupt; disappear from Society: coll.:—1879.—2. To succumb: coll.:—1891: since ca. 1918, S.E. 'He had "gone under" in the struggle, as the terribly expressive phrase runs' (H.C. Halliday, 1891).—3. To die: orig. (—1849), US; anglicised ca. 1870, but never very gen.

go up. To be ruined, financially, socially, or politically: coll.:—1864: ob. More gen. in US than in Brit.—2. (Of a trotting horse) to change gait or pace: Aus. sporting coll.: C.20. B., 1942.—3. In his number has gone up, he has been killed: WW1 army coll., ex turf j.

go up a gully. (Of a person) to vanish; get out of the way, make oneself scarce: Northern Territory, Aus.: since ca. 1920. Ernestine Hill, The Territory, 1951.

go up a ladder to bed. To be hanged: mid-C.18—early 19: low s. verging on c. 'In many country places', says Grose, 1st ed., 'persons hanged are made to mount up a ladder, which is afterwards turned round or taken away; whence the term, "turned off".'

go up a tree. See ride up a gumtree.

go up for. To sit for (an examination): coll.: from ca. 1885.

go up in the air. To 'explode', lose one's temper violently: from ca. 1900. From slightly later is go straight up... Cf. through the roof.

go up one! Good for you! a c.p. of late C.19–20. Ex school-teacher's promotion of a successful pupil. Cf. go the top...

go (up) on the (e.g. bush). See the key-nn. (e.g. bush). go up the Noo. To go on leave to Edinburgh—or to Scotland in general: RN: C.20. (Granville.) Prob. ex Scots pron. of now. go up the Smoke. To go on leave to London: id. (Ibid.) See smoke, n., 2.

go upright. A c.p. (late C.17–early 19) defined by B.E. as 'Said by Taylers and Shoemakers, to their Servants, when any Money is given to make them Drink and signifies, bring it all out in Drink, tho' the Donor intended less and expects Change or some return of Money'.

go west. To die: popularised in WW1, but adumbrated in late C.16–18, as in Greene, Cony-Catching, Part II, 1592, 'So long the foists [thieves] put their villanie in practise, that West-ward they go, and there solemnly make a rehearsal sermon at tiborne.' The basic idea is that of the setting sun; pioneering in N. America may have contributed. See esp. Words!, and E.P.'s treatment, in DCpp., of the c.p. go West, young man, go West, adopted, ex US, ca. 1950.

Go When Ready. A railwaymen's nickname for the Great Western Railway: C.20. (Railway, 2nd.) Cf. God's Wonderful Railway.

go while the going's good. See going's good.

go wide. To spend money freely: military: ca. 1860–1905. Robert Blatchford, My Life in the Army, 1910.

go with. (Of things) to harmonise or suit: 1710: S.E. until ca. 1880, then of a coll. hue.—2. To 'walk out with'; to affect in friendship or, gen., passion or love: low coll.: from ca. 1880.—3. To share the sexual congress with: low coll.: from ca. 1870.

goad. A decoy at auctions or horse-sales: c.: C.17–mid-18. (Dekker; B.E.) Contrast:

goads. False dice: c.: C.18–early 19. Cf. chapman.

goal. In Winchester football of ca. 1840–1900, the referee.—2. (With derivative goalier, a goalier.) A C.19–20 sol. for goal: in C.17–18, a var., S.E. but not literary: B.E., for instance, has goalier's coach. In late C.19–20, much commoner in writing than in speech.

goalier. See prec.

goalee; gen. goalie. A goal-keeper: Association football coll. (ca. 1920) now verging on S.E. (OED Sup.) Also in ice-hockey: Can.: since ca. 1910.

goanna, gohanna, guana, guano. An iguana: Aus. coll.: resp.—1891; 1896 (Henry Lawson), but ob.; 1830 († by 1910); and 1802 (Barrington)—but † by 1900. (Morris.) Note the following from Australian Encyclopedia (Angus & Robertson, 1927), vol. I, p. 752: 'The Varanidae (monitor lizards) are in Australia popularly called goannas; this word is a corruption of "iguana", but—since the true iguana is not found in Australia—has been adopted as an independent name for Australian monitors.' Goanna therefore is no longer coll., as iguana is a mere misnomer. Rather a queer instance of change of status. The creatures are neither very spry nor very bright, hence the Aus. phrase, since ca. 1910, mad as a goanna.—2. A piano: Aus. rhyming s.: C.20. (B., 1942.) Cf. Brit. Joanna. goat, n. Sinks, 1848, s.v. 'stern', defines the goat as 'posterior'.—2. A Maltese: nautical, esp. RN: late C.19–early 20. Bowen.—3. A fool: coll.: late C.19–20. Hence play the goat, 1, q.v., to play the fool; see also giddy goat, 2.—4. Hence, a 'mug', a dupe: S. African c.: C.20. (J.B. Fisher, 1946.)—5. A yard engine: Can. railroadmen's:—1931. Ex all the 'butting' it has to do.—6. A horse having no chance of winning: Aus. sporting: since late 1940s. (Culotta.) Cf. crab, n., 10.—7. In the phrase get (someone's) goat, to annoy him: adopted, ex US, ca. 1916; s. >, by late 1930s, coll. (OED Sup.) Perhaps ex Fr. prendre la chèvre, to take the milch-goat, often the poor man's sole source of milk.—8. See ride the goat, to be initiated into a secret society.

goat, v. To thrash: low coll.: ca. 1860–1910. Derby Day, 1864.

goat gunner. A mountain gunner: army, esp. in India: late C.19–20; ob. by 1946.

goat-heads. See blindy-eyes.

goat-house. A brothel: C.19 coll. Ex goat, a lascivious man.
Goat Major, the. 'The lance-corporal who has charge of the Regimental Goat' (Frank Richards): Royal Welch Fusiliers': C.20.

goat-milker. A harlot: from ca. 1820. Cf. goat-house, brothel.—2. The female pudend; low: from ca. 1840.

goatee. 'A tufted beard on the point of a shaven chin': from ca. 1855: in C.19, coll.; in C.20, S.E. Ex the tuft on a he-goat's chin.

goats and monkey (at), look. To gaze lecherously (at): coll.: 1749 (Cleland); † by 1890 at the latest.

goat's gig(g) or jig. Gen. or specific copulation: mid-C.18–early 19: low coll. Grose, 1st ed., 'making the beast with two backs'.

goat's toe, be the. To be pre-eminent: Anglo-Irish: since ca. 1920. Applied, e.g., to James Stephens soon after his death in 1951. On the analogy of the cat's whiskers and with special ref. to a mountain goat's sure-footedness.

goat's wool. Something non-existent: proverbial coll.: late C.16–20; ob. Ex L. Lana caprina (OED).

gob. A slimy lump or clot, esp. of spittle: mid-C.16–20; S.E. till ca. 1830, then dial. and low coll.—2. The mouth: s. when not, as in the North, dial.: mid-C.16–20. Cf. gab, n., and see also gift of the gab.—3. A portion: Londoners': C.19. (H., 1st ed.; Baumann.) Cf. dob, dial. term for a small lump or 'dollop'.—4. A coastguard: C.20. Leechman cites G. Stimson, Thousand Things, 1946, 'The English also [? as well as the Americans] call any coastguard a gob'. Short for gobby, q.v.—5. An American sailor: adopted, ex Can., 1940. See gobby, 2.—6. As the gob, theft from a man as he is washing at a public lavatory: c.: C.20. Ex v., 2: the thief spits on the back of a man's coat, steers him to a lavatory, helps him remove his coat and robs him of his wallet.

gob, v. To swallow in large mouthfuls; gulp: low: C.18–20. Abbr. gobble.—2. To spit, esp. copiously: C.19–20 low coll.

gob and rub. (Of males) to masturbate. L.A. cites Philip Callow, The Bliss Body, 1969.

gob-box. The mouth: low: ca. 1770–1910. Scott, in Lammermoor, 'Your characters... made too much use of the gob-box; they patter too much.' An elab. of gob, n., 2.

gob-full of claret. A bleeding at the mouth: boxing: ca. 1820–90. Bee. gob-iron. A harmonica: since ca. 1950. The term was mentioned in a BBC2 programme 'Folk on Sunday', 13 Feb. 1972. Cf. gob-stick for clarinet.

gob-shite. A fool; an easy dupe: Services'; market-traders': C.20.

gob-spud. A lower-class term, dating from ca. 1870. Thus in Neil Bell, Crocus, 1936: "'Not seen a gob-spud before, my boy?" went on the old man; "how d'y' think I shave with all m' grinders gone and no more suet to my chops than Welsh mutton?" He opened a cavernous mouth, popped in the potato and pointing to his now well-rounded cheek mumbled... "That's what a gob-spud's for, my boy."

gob-stick. A silver tablespoon: c.:—1789 (Parker); †.—2. A wooden spoon: nautical (Bowen) and Can.: mid-C.19–20.—3. A bridle: Aus. rural: late C.19–20. B., 1942.—4. A clarinet: musicians': C.20. (Baker.) See fish-horn.

gob-stopper. "'gob-stoppers"... is becoming a general term for "any sweet difficult to chew", as humbugs, large aniseed balls, and fruit drops. (The true, colour-changing gob-stopper was for long unobtainable during and after [WW2])' (Iona & Peter Opie, The Lore and Language of Schoolchildren, 1959): children's: prob. since late C.19, for the orig. in the quot'n. Although Brit., it occurred in the Daily Colonist (Victoria, BC), 30 Dec. 1969 (Leechman).

gob-string. A bridle: mid-C.18–mid-19: either c. or low. (Grose, 1st ed.) Cf. gab-string.

gobber. Var. of gob, the mouth: since ca. 1920. (L.A.) Perhaps that with which one gobs, or spits. (P.B.) Hence also, one who spits.

G

gobbie. See gobby.

gobified. Stupid: an elab. of gobby, adj. M.T.

gobble, n. A quiet straight putt at or into the hole: golfers' coll.:—1878 (OED).—2. Mouth, esp. in shut your gobble!, be quiet!: low:—1887 (Baumann). P.B.: but this could equally well mean 'chatter', a var. of gabble.—3. A C.19 schoolboys' var. of gobbler, 2, a turkeycock. EDD.—4. An act of fellatio: low: C.19–20.

gobble, v. To work overtime—esp., excessive overtime: printers': C.20. Hence gobbling, n., (excessive) overtime.—2. To commit fellatio or penilingism: low: C.18–20. Cf. gobble-prick and gobbler, 6.

gobble Greek. To study and/or speak Greek: Cambridge undergraduates': from ca. 1855; ob. (B. & L.) Pun on gabble Greek.

gobble-gut. A glutton: from ca. 1630: S.E. until ca. 1790, then low coll.

gobble-prick. 'A rampant, lustful woman' (Grose, 1st ed.): low coll.: mid-C.18–19.

gobble up. To seize; appropriate; use rapidly: coll.: ex US (1861), where earlier gobble; anglicised ca. 1890.

gobbedygook. Coined, 1944, by Maury Maverick in US for pompous, long-winded, vague speech or writing, heavily laced with jargon. There, it caught on almost immediately; well-known in Britain by ca. 1951—defined and copiously exemplified in my Chamber of Horrors, 1952. Ex the fussy, self-important gobbling sound made by a turkeycock. Never s.; began as coll.; by 1960, at latest, informal S.E.

gobbler. In mid-C.16—early 17 c., a duck. Harman.—2. A turkeycock: from ca. 1720; orig. low coll., but now S.E.—3. The mouth: low coll.: C.19–20; ob.—4. A greedy eater: from ca. 1740: S.E. in Johnson's day; but since ca. 1850, coll.—5. 'An Eastern Region tank engine 2-4-2' (Railway, 2nd): railwaymen's: post-WW2.—6. A fellator or penilingist: low, and homosexual: C.19–20. Ex gobble, v., 2.—7. Hence, a woman who prefers oral sex, both actively and passively: since ca. 1920 at the latest, perhaps since late C.18. Cf. gobble-prick.

gobbling. Gorging: from ca. 1630: S.E. until ca. 1840, then coll. Thackeray, in Vanity Fair, 'The delightful exercise of gobbling'.—2. See gobble, v., 1.

gobbling irons. Knife, fork, and spoon: trawlermen's: C.20. (W. Mitford, Lovely She Goes, 1969.) Cf. eating irons and fighting irons.

gobby, or gobbie, n. A coastguardsman: nautical: from late 1880s; ob. Ex gob, n., 1; see gobby loo. OED Sup.; Bowen.—2. A quarterdeck man: naval: ca. 1830–90. Bowen, who adds: 'In the American [navy], any bluejacket'.—3. A stupid fellow: market-traders': C.20. A var. of gob-shite. (M.T.) Prob. ex dial. gawby, gobby, the Northern pron. of gaby (EDD). Cf. adj.—4. 'Civilian employee in an [RN] establishment, usually a Naval pensioner' (John Malin, 1979): RN: C.20.

gobby, adj. Stupid. See n., 3 gobby fleet. Coastguard and post-guard ships: nautical: from ca. 1890; ob. Bowen.

gobby loo, according to Bowen, is the orig. form of gobby, 1.

goblin. A sovereign: low: from ca. 1880. Henley in Villon's Straight Tip, 'Your merry goblins soon stravag./Boose and the blowens cop the lot.' Suggested by sovrin, the low coll. pron. of sovereign, as the fuller Jimmy o' Goblin (or g.) shows.

goby. A criminal 'fixer' or arranger; an intermediary in nefarious dealings: since ca. 1945. (G.F. Newman, 1970.) Ex go-between.

God. 'Often oddly disguised in oaths, e.g. swop me bob, for so help me God!', W. As an oath, it occurs in many forms, but these are hardly eligible here.

god. A block pattern: tailors': from ca. 1870: s. > j.—2. A boy in the sixth (top) form: Eton:—1881; ob. by 1930. (Pascoe, Life in our Public Schools.) Also, since ca. 1935, a 'blood' at Lancing College, where god-box = House Captain's room (Marples).

God-amighty. The coll. and dial. form of God-almighty, lit. and fig.: C.17–20.

God-awful. A stressing of awful in its coll. sense: (low) coll.: C.20. Cf. God's own, q.v.

God bless the Duke of Argyle! A Scottish c.p. addressed to a person shrugging his shoulders, the insinuation being—lice. C.19–20; ob. (H., 3rd ed.) Ex certain posts erected in Glasgow by his grace: thus common (Southern) report! However, in 1947, Mr Andrew Haggard told E.P., 'The derivation of this as I heard it as a boy is that his Grace erected posts on certain large tracts of land belonging to him where there were no trees or boulders and where sheep, in consequence of having nothing to rub against, were always getting "cast". The shepherds who were not uncommonly verminous used these posts to scratch their backs against and when doing so blessed the Duke.'

God bless you! A c.p. addressed to one who sneezes: C.18–20. Cf. the C.18, proverbial, 'He's a friend at a sneeze; the most you can get out of him is a God bless you!' ('Proverbs' Fuller, 1732).

God-botherer. A parson: RAF, from ca. 1920; later, to the other Services, and into civilian usage, prob. by the late 1930s. Cf. God-pesterer.

God-box. A church; a chapel: atheists': since ca. 1880. Ernest Raymond, We, the Accused, 1935.—2. See god, 2.

God-forbid. (Gen. pl.) A child: rhyming s. on kid: late C.19–20. (Ware.) See also godfer.—2. A Jew: rhyming s. (on Yid): late C.19–20.—3. A hat: rhyming s. (on lid): late C.19–20. Franklyn, Rhyming, for both (2) and (3); he notes that (3) is rare compared with tifter.

God give me strength! 'Exclamation of exasperation at repetition of, e.g., others' mistakes, interruption, misunderstanding; use in 1930s ex widely-circulated joke: bride's text on wall: "I need Thee every hour"—bridegroom: "God give me strength!"' (L.A., 1974). Fig. sense of, in weakened form, give me strength!, q.v.

God have mercy (or, more gen., Godamercy), horse! 'An almost meaningless proverbial exclamation' that is also a coll. c.p.: coll.: ca. 1530–1730. Heywood's Proverbs; 1611, in Carlton's jests, 'a by word throw London.' (Apperson.)

God in the box. A radio set: since ca. 1939. (Anthony Armstrong, Village of War, 1941.) Ex authoritarian news-announcements. P.B.: surely this was ephemeral.

God knows: I don't. An emphatic reply: coll.: C.19–20. The C.16–18 form is God himself tell you, I cannot (Florio, 1598). Cf. Bramah knows!

God knows — and He won't split. A C.20 var. of prec.

God love hex. Mother: rhyming s. on the Cockney pron. huvver for muvver. (David Hillman, 1974.)

God-mamma. Godmother: coll. verging on S.E.: 1828 (Miss Mitford: OED).

God-man. A clergyman: c.: from ca. 1920. Edgar Wallace, Room 13.

God pays! A c.p. of soldiers and sailors, who assumed a right to public charity: C.17–18. The C.19–20 form is, If I don't pay you, God Almighty will. Ben Jonson, in Epigrams, 'To every cause he meets, this voice he brays, | His only answer is to all, God pays.'

God permit. A stage coach: late C.18—early 19. (Grose, 1st ed.) Stage coaches were advertised to start 'If God permit' or 'Deo volente'.

God-pesterer. A bishop: RAF: from 1920; ob. Cf. God-botherer.

God rep, the. The college chaplain: orig. New College, Oxford, 1950s and 1960s; later in other universities. Ex rep, a commercial traveller or representative.

God-rest-ye. A frock coat: Glasgow:—1934; †. Ex the exclam.

God save. (Pl. God saves.) The national anthem: from ca. 1910. Cf. the godders and langers immortalised by 'Q' (see Slang, p. 208).

Godamercy, horse! See God have mercy, horse.

Godamercy me! God have mercy on me!: low:—1887 (Baumann).

Godblimey. See gorblimey, the much more gen. pron.

goddess. A young woman: coll. of Englishmen in Malaya: mid-C.18—early 19. Ex Malay gadis, a virgin, by the process of Hobson-Jobson. Y. & B.—2. The female 'galleyite': see gods. Coll.: 1812: very rare after 1890.

goddess Diana. A sixpence: rhyming s. on 'tanner': ca. 1855–1900. (Less gen. than lord of the manor.) H., 1st ed.; The Press, 12 Nov. 1864.

godfather; in C.17, occ. godfather-in-law. A juryman: late C.16—early 19: coll. Shakespeare; Jonson, 'I will leave you to your god-fathers in law'; Grose.—2. He who pays the bill or who guarantees the rest of the company; esp. in 'Will you stand godfather? and we will take care of the brat', i.e. repay you at some other time: late C.18—19 c.p. Grose, 2nd ed. See squad-father.

godfer. A troublesome child: lower classes':—1909; very ob. (Ware.) Abbr. God-forbid, 1, q.v.

Godfrey. See by guess and by God.

Godge. Godalming; Charterhouse: from ca. 1880 (?). The School is situated on Frith Hill overlooking Godalming in Surrey.

godhelpus. See gawdelpus. Occ. godhelpme (Manchon).

godma. Godmother: familiar coll.: since ca. 1825. A. Neil Lyons, Hooky, 1902.

Godmanchester black pigs. See Huntingdon sturgeon.

godown. A warehouse; a store-room: Anglo-Chinese and Indian ex Malay gadong: from ca. 1550. Coll. >, in C.19, S.E.—though there's not the slightest need of the word. P.B.: but it is in use only in the Far East, and slips more easily off non-English-speaking tongues than would 'warehouse'.—2. A kitchen: Anglo-Indian: late C.18—mid-19. (George R. Gleig, The Subaltern's Log-Book, 1828, at I, 247: Moe).

godpapa. Godfather: a childish or familiar coll.: from ca. 1825.

[God's (god's) occurs in numerous oaths: which do not concern us here.]

gods. In such oaths as Gods me, a corruption of God save.—2. Those occupying the gallery at a theatre: from ca. 1750: s. that, ca.1840, > coll. and is, in C.20, considered as virtually S.E. Occ., but not since ca. 1850, in the singular. The Globe, 7 Apr. 1890, 'The gods, or a portion of them, hooted and hissed while the National Anthem was being performed.' F.&H.: 'Said to have been first used by Garrick because they were seated on high, and close to the sky-painted ceiling'. Cf. Fr. poulailler and paradis.—3. Among printers, the quadrats employed in 'jeffing', q.v.: from ca. 1860. (H., 2nd ed.) Perhaps rhyming on abbr. quads.—4. In the phrase a sight for the gods, q.v., a cause for wonderment.

God's mercy. Ham (or bacon) and eggs: country inns': ca. 1800–80. (Cf. three-sixty-five, q.v.) Ex a pious expression of thanks.

gods of cloth. The greatest (contemporary) tailors: tailors': from ca. 1860. B.&L.

God's own. A great...; esp. God's own fuss, a 'terrible' fuss: expletive coll.:—1923 (Manchon). Cf. hell's own.

God's quantity. See any God's quantity, many.

God's revenge against murder, look like. To look angrily: coll.: mid-C.18—mid-19. Grose.

God's ships. American merchantmen: ca. 1800–50. (G.S. Parsons, Nelsonian Reminiscences, 1843.) 'A double pun: God's own country and lack of navigational skill, with landfalls made only by the grace of God' (Peppitt).

God's Wonderful Railway. The Great Western Railway: railwaymen's ironic: C.20. (Railway, 2nd.) Cf. Go When Ready.

Godspeed, in the. In the nick of time: coll.: ca. 1660–1820. L'Estange: OED.

goer. (Orig. of a horse.) An adept or expert; one well grounded in a subject. Gen. with an adj., e.g. a fast (or a hell of a) goer. Coll.: from ca. 1850. (G.A. Lawrence in Guy Livingstone.) When applied to other than persons, it is

S.E.—2. A horse being honestly ridden to win: Aus. sporting: since ca. 1910. Lawson Glassop, 1949.—3. A member of the gang; 'one of the boys': Teddy boys': since ca. 1947. Clancy Sigal, article 'The Punchers' Night Out', in the Observer, 1 Mar. 1959.—4. One (of either sex) who enthusiastically seeks sexual satisfaction: since late 1940s. Ex sense 1.—5. Something, esp. a plan, likely to prosper or succeed—or is, in the fact, doing so: since ca. 1955. Frank Ross, Dead Runner, 1977.—6. Someone always active and keen, willing to 'have a go'; not necessarily—contrast sense 1—adept, but an 'enthusiastic amateur': coll.: C.20. P.B.: it was used in this sense by my grandmother, b. ca. 1880.

goes for my money, he. He's the man for me: coll.: ca. 1540–1660. (Latimer, R. Harvey: OED.) Cf. he's the man for my money, which, however, can be varied according to persons and even animals or things—and is S.E.

goes to the (or their) tails (, it, etc.). Strong drink arouses men's sexual appetites: c.p.: since ca. 1910.

goey. Lively; progressive: 1907 (P.G. Wodehouse, Not George Washington). Ex go, n., 8.

goff. A Scott. var. of golf: in C.20 joc. use, n. and v., it is coll. goffer, n. (Gen. pl.) A mineral water: nautical, esp. RN: C.20. (Bowen.) Ex a trade name Goffa.—2. Hence, 'a man selling mineral water or lemonade on board ship': RN: from ca. 1910. (F. & G.) Knock records goffer firm as the lowerdeck term for a ship's 'firm' selling lemonade. See also goffer wallah.—3. A blow, punch: low: ca. 1870–1910. Sessions, 11 Feb. 1886, 'Graham called out "Hop him, give him a goffer" ... I then received a blow on my left shoulder.' Cf. the RN c.p. noted in DCpp., quoting F. & G. 'I'll draw you off a goffer', which E.P. dates as ca. 1910–40. It could derive either from this sense, or from that of an angry man being 'aerated' like mineral water. See:

goffer, v. To 'bonnet' a man: low London: late C.19—early 20. (EDD.)

goffer wallah. 'Asian national selling confectionery, etc., to troops' (Hawke): RM in Northern Ireland (and, no doubt, everywhere else in the world): early 1970s. An extension of goffer, n., 1, to which it is fitting that the RM should have added the predominantly army term wallah; it is interesting that both terms have survived well into later C.20. (P.B.)

gog. In oaths, a corrupt form of God: mostly C.16—early 17: coll.

gog, v. Gen. as vbl n., gogging, 'the old sea punishment of scraping a man's tongue with hoop-iron for profanity' (Bowen): nautical: C.19. Either ex or cognate with Lancashire gog, a gag for the mouth.

gog-eye. A cataput: Aus. children's: C.20. B., 1942.

goggle, n. Occ. abbr. of goggle-box: an instance, from 1970, cited in Barnhart.

goggle, v. To stare; roll the eyes: mid-C.16—20: S.E. till late C.18, then somewhat coll.: in C.20, rare except in dial. or in facetious coll.

goggle-box (or written solid). A television set: since ca. 1958. Hence, goggler, a persistent viewer, and gogging, n., persistent viewing. Cf. idiot box and idiot's lantern.

goggle-eyed. See EPITHETS, in Appendix.

goggle-eyed bugger with a tit, the. A new type of gas-helmet or -mask: army: late WW1. Robert Graves, Good-Bye to All That, 1929.

goggled goblin; usu. in pl. A British night fighter: RAF joc.: since ca. Oct. 1940; † by 1945. (H. & P.) Cf. cat's eyes.

goggler. A goggle-eyed person: coll.: from ca. 1800; ob.—2. An eye: low: from ca. 1820; †.—3. See goggle-box.

goggles. A goggle-eyed person: coll. >, by 1830, S.E. C.17–19. Beaumont & Fletcher, 'Do you stare, goggles?'—2. The eyes, esp. if rolling or of a constrained stare: coll.: from ca. 1710. (Byrom.) Abbr. goggle-eyes.—3. Spectacles, esp. with round glasses: C.18–20: coll.—4. Hence, a nickname for anyone wearing glasses, esp. if they are large: C.20.—5. The glasses protecting one from lachrymatory gas: military coll.: 1916. B.&P.

goggling, n. See goggle-box.

Goggo. A Goggomobil car: Aus.: ca. 1955–70. (B.P.)

gogh'leen. To laugh: Shelta: C.18–20. Also r'ghoglin.

gogo girl. A performer of lewd dances in strip-tease clubs: since ca. 1970. (BBC radio interview, Aug. 1973.) Cf. go, man, go; cf. also Fr. s., à gogo, whatever you want; ad lib; galore. (R.S., 1973.)

gogs. A motorcyclist's goggles: since ca. 1940. Ian Jeffries, Thirteen Days, 1958, but dealing with the year 1948.—2. Spectacles: coll.: C.20. A shortening of goggles, 3. Hence, gogs-case, a spectacles-case. (Mrs Arthur Hughes.)—3. As the Gogs, the (golf-course at) Gog Magog Hills, near Cambridge: Cambridge undergraduates': since ca. 1880.

gohanna. See goanna.

going. The condition of the ground for traffic, walking, hunting, etc.: orig. US (1859); anglicised ca. 1870: coll. till ca. 1895, then S.E. Daily Telegraph, 23 Nov. 1883, 'Going... wonderfully clean for the time of year'.—2. See a-going. going and coming. The two-way radio telephonic system. Thus, 'Had a word with him on the going and coming' (Jackson): RAF: since ca. 1935; ob. by ca. 1950.

going down now Sir! One of 'the divers' c.p.p. in 'Itma', early 1940s. It enjoyed a great vogue, esp. with people using lifts. See ITMA, in Appendix.

going for. In phrases such as 'he's got a lot—not much—nothing—going for him': he has considerable—few—no—advantages on his side, in a specific enterprise, or in life generally: coll.: since ca. 1970. (P.B.)

going for a walk with a spade. Defecation in the open. See bending drill.

going home. Of an elderly person 'well on the way down the hill of life': coll. (not necessarily euph.): since ca. 1910. (Petch.) Ware records it, 1909, simply as 'a-dying', which E.P. glossed in 1930s as 'proletarian: slightly ob.'.—2. Of clothes, machinery, etc., wearing out, in the last stage of usefulness: coll.: C.20. (P.B.)

going on a kick. 'An intensive period of drug-taking' (Home Office): drug-users' s.: 1970s.

going-over, n. As in, e.g., 'They gave him a thorough going-over', which may refer to any process, usu. disagreeable, applied to a person: a medical examination, an interrogation, robbery with violence, etc.: coll.: C.20. Cf. go over, 3, q.v. (P.B.)

going recce, a. A reconnaissance made to determine 'the going' in the country ahead: army: since ca. 1940. (P.-G.-R.) Cf. recce. Also, esp. in N. Africa, going shuffy. (Peter Sanders, 1967.)

going spare. Available and easily obtainable or even stolen, esp. of things not strictly private property and even for unattached girls: since ca. 1940. 'She is not going spare': engaged and therefore not fair game. (Petch.)—2. See go spare.

going through 'L'. A c.p., 'used of learner drivers, since they have to stand a lot from instructors and the police' (Petch): since ca. 1950. A pun on hell.

going to buy anything? An 'evasive request for a drink': urban: 1896; ob. Ware.

going to Calabar. A-dying: RN:—1909; ob. (Ware.) Calabar is 'a white man's grave'.

going to keep a planner-shop. Prosperous; smartly dressed: Cockneys' (—1909); ob. Ware.

going to pay the water bill. (Of men) going off to urinate: low: C.20. Clement & La Frenais, Going Straight, 1978.

going to see a dawg. I.e. a harlot or a kept woman: sporting: late C.19–20. (Ware.) Dawg = dog. See see a man.

going to see a man (about a dog). See see a man.

going tots. Trespassing on railway sidings: London schoolchildren: 1890s. See tot, n., 5.

going's good!, (go) while the. The English version of the US (beat it) while the beating's good and Scots go while the play is good: coll.: in Eng. from ca. 1912; slightly earlier in Aus. Lyell.

goings-on. Behaviour or proceedings, with a pej. implication and gen. with a pej. adj.: from ca. 1770: coll. until C.20, then undignified S.E. Douglas Jerrold, 'Pretty place it must be where they don't admit women. Nice goings-on, I daresay, Mr. Caudle.'

goitre. 'A large number of banknotes, usually kept in fob pocket of trousers' (Powis): c.: 1970s.

gol-mol. (A) noise or commotion: Anglo-Indian:—1864 (H., 3rd ed.).

gold. See bag of gold; there's gold in them thar hills.

gold-backed one or un. A louse: mid-C.19–20; ob.: low coll. (H., 5th ed.) Cf. grey-backed.

gold braid. (Collective n.) The principal warders: prisoners' c.: from ca. 1920. George Ingram, Stir, 1933.—2. 'Lowerdeck collective noun for officers; cf. brass' (Granville): RN: C.20.

gold brick. A fraud, a swindle; a sham; an app. chance of making a lot of money: US (ca. 1888), partly anglicised by Wodehouse in 1915; James Spenser, Limey Breaks In, 1934. Ex the US gold-brick swindle, a particular form of fraud. OED Sup.

gold-digger. A female attaching herself to a man for (her) self and pelf: US (ca. 1925); anglicised by 1930. Ex the lit. S.E. sense.—2. Also gold-digging, the corresponding (not too) abstract n.

gold-drop. A gold coin: late C.18–19. Mary Robinson, in Walsingham: OED.

gold-dropper. A sharper that works the confidence trick by dropping money: see fawney rig. Ca. 1680–1830: c. B.E., Dyche, Grose (1st ed.).

Gold Dust. One of the purser's nicknames, ref. his duties as paymaster: nautical: late C.19–early 20. Goodenough, 1901.—2. Tobacco, when supplies are short: nautical: late C.19–20. (Bowen.) P.B.: it may well apply to any sort of commodity in short supply, particularly when, as in 1970s–80s, panic-buying sets in on, e.g., sugar, lavatory-paper, etc.

gold-end man. A buyer of old gold and silver; an itinerant jeweller: C.17 coll. (Jonson.)? a var. on goldsmith's apprentice. gold-finder. An emptier of privies: coll.: C.17–early 19. (Cotgrave; B.E.) Cf. the C.19 Warwickshire gold-digger.—2. A thief; a 'gold-dropper', q.v.; early C.19.

gold hatband. An undergraduate aristocrat: university: ca. 1620–1780. (Earle's Microcosmography.) Superseded by tuft, q.v.; see also hat, 1.

gold-mine. A profitable investment: from ca. 1850: coll. till ca. 1885, then S.E. Saturday Review, 28 Apr. 1883, 'A gold mine to the... bookmakers'.—2. See she's sitting on a gold-mine.

gold-striper. A staff officer: army: early C.20. (C.E. Montague, Fiery Particles, 1923.) Cf. gold braid, q.v.

gold washer. A 'sweater' of gold: C.16 low or low coll.

gold watch. Scotch (whisky): rhyming s.: later C.20. (Hillman, 1974.)

Goldbergs Green. See Abrahampstead.

golden balls. Horse dung: army: early C.20. S.F. Hatton, The Yarn of a Yeoman, 1930.

golden ballocks. Applied to a man lucky in 'love' and at cards: Forces': since ca. 1935. Contrast grey ballocks.

golden bowler. See bowler hat.

golden chub. See DUPES, in Appendix.

golden cream. Rum: c.:—1889; ob. Clarkson & Richardson, The Police.

golden doughnut. The female pudend: Aus.: since ca. 1970. Wilkes quotes David Williamson, The Removallists, 1972, 'We'll be in like Flynn there tomorrow night. We'll thread the eye of the old golden doughnut—no worries.'

golden duck = king duck. A batsman so unfortunate as to get out, first ball, in both innings of a cricket match: the former, schoolboys' s.—since ca. 1960; the latter, cricket commentators'—since early 1950s. (Peter Sanders, mid-1965.)

Golden Eagle shits on Friday, the. Friday is pay-day: army and RAF: since ca. 1941; slightly ob. by 1970, with the introduction by then of payment to bank accounts for all ranks. Friday was the normal day for the weekly pay parade.

The phrase was adapted from the US Army's the eagle shits on pay-day; the eagle concerned is that which figures on the US dollar. P.B.: prob. earlier. T.E. Lawrence, The Mint, concerning the RAF of early 1920s, has the euph. the golden eagle moults today.

golden grease. A fee; a bribe: coll.: late C.18–19. Cf. palm oil.
golden handshake. A large gift of money to a departing director or important employee: coll.: since ca. 1950. A richly gilded farewell handshake. Cf. the golden bowler for redundant Service officers. P.B.: by late 1970s a golden handshake had > gen. for any lump-sum payment to any employee being made 'redundant'.

golden oldie. (Usu. in pl.) A 'hit' tune that has lasted well and is still popular: disc-jockeys', particularly in the 'nostalgia boom' of the mid/late-1970s, when a 'hit' of only two years before could qualify for the description. (P.B.)

golden rivet, the. What a sky-hook is to an airman, the golden rivet is to the seaman (RN); the latter, however, concerns an unrepeatable piece of folk-lore. It prob. goes back to ca. 1860.—2. Hence, penis erectus: RN: since ca. 1910. Cf. Navy cake, q.v.

golden stairs. See climb the golden...

Golden Triangle, the. The opium-poppo-growing area of South-East Asia: drugs world: later C.20. Time Out, 15 Feb. 1980.

goldfinch. A rich man: C.17—early 19 c. (Dekker, B.E.) Ex the colour of gold.—2. A guinea: C.17—early 19; a sovereign: ca. 1820–1910. Both are either low or c. Same semantics. Cf. canary, 4, and yellow boy.

goldfinch's nest. The female pudend: low:—1827; ob.

goldfish. A chorister who opens her mouth but does not sing; theatrical:—1935.—2. "Termorrer," said Eddie, "we oughter have some goldfish." Goldfish were herrings' (Rats, 1944): Aus. soldiers': 1941–2 at Tobruk.—3. Hence, tinned fish: Aus.: since ca. 1943. B., 1953.

Goldfish Gang, the. The Fleet Air Arm: RN: since ca. 1937. Cf. Fish-heads, the FAA's counter-insult.

Goldie. A BSA 'Gold Star' motorcycle: motorcyclists': later later C.20. (Dunford.)

goldsmith's window. A rich working that shows gold freely: from ca. 1890: Aus. coll. >, by 1920, S.E.

goldy- or goldie-locks, goldilocks. A flaxen-haired girl or woman: mid-C.16–20: orig. S.E.; in late C.19–20, archaic except when coll. and applied to a child, often as a pet name.
Goles, by. A var. of by golly!: 1734 (Fielding); in C.19, lower classes'; in late C.19–20, mostly dial. EDD.

golf-ball. Protective, pressurised dome housing a ground radar installation: RAF: later C.20. Ex colour, and shape seen from a distance. (P.B.) golf widow. A wife isolated by her husband's zeal for golf: joc. coll.: from ca. 1920. On grass widow.

Golgotha. 'Part of the Theatre at Oxford where the heads of houses sit' (Grose, 1st ed.): Amherst, 1726.—2. The Dons' gallery at St Mary's, Cambridge: from ca. 1800. (Gradus ad Cantabrigiam, 1803.) Both † by 1890. The pun is on head (skull and important person) and Golgotha, 'the Place of Skulls' (see New Testament).—3. Whence, a hat (—1860; † by 1910. (H., 2nd ed.) All three senses are university s.

Goliath. 'A man of mark among the Philistines': literary: ca. 1880–1910.

goll. The hand: in late C.16—early 19 coll., verging on S.E.; in late C.18–19 mainly dial. Dryden, 'Mighty golls, rough-grained, and red with starching'. Origin obscure.

gollion. 'A gob of phlegm' (B., 1942): Aus.: C.20. Perhaps golly 'un: see golly, v.

golliwog. A caterpillar: Aus.: since ca. 1920. (B., 1942.) In ref. to the numerous very hairy caterpillars found in Aus. and ex their resemblance to a golliwog doll.—2. A 'fence' or receiver of stolen goods: low (verging on c.): since ca. 1930. golliwogs (or gollywogs), the. Greyhound racing: since ca. 1910. Rhyming on the dogs.

gollop. To gulp; swallow noisily and greedily: (low) coll.: C.19–20. Ex gulp.

gollere. See galore.

gollumpus. A large, clumsy, loutish fellow: late C.18—mid-19 coll. (Grose, 1st ed.) Prob. an arbitrary formation on lump (cf. modern you great lump, you!).

gollup. A var. of gollop. Egan's Grose.

Golly. 'For the average Tommy, black or white, any local, be he Arab, Indian, or Somali, is a "Golly"—a marginally less insulting retreat of the old-fashioned "Wog"' (John de St Jorre, 'The End of the Affair' in the Observer sup., 11 June 1967): since ca. 1950. See wog, 1, and cf.—2. A Negro: low raffish London: since ca. 1960. Both short for golliwog, thick black crinkly hair and all, and perhaps ex golly!, common—or once common—among Negroes. Brian Fairborn, Good Luck, Mister Cain, 1976.—3. A tall person: schoolboys', not very gen.: C.20. Prob. ex Goliath.—4. See v.

golly! Abbr. by golly, an orig. Negroes' euph. corruption (1743) of God: anglicised in mid-C.19. Cf. by goles!

golly, v. and n. To spit: Aus. juvenile: since 1930s. (Wilkes.) It gives rise to golly (gum), chewing-gum: since ca. 1944; and golly pot, a spittoon: id. B., 1953.

golopshus, goloptious. See galophtious. The best form is goluptious, for the term is a 'facetious perversion... of voluptuous'; cf. rustic boldacious', W., delicious being the 'suggester'. The SOD records it at 1856.

golore. See galore.

goloshes. India-rubber over-shoes: a coll. spelling of galoshes: late C.18–20. Galoshes itself—witness Grose, 3rd ed.—had a coll. air at first. Ex Fr. galoché; Grose's derivation ex Goliath's shoes is one of his portly jests: Goliath was a sol. form of Goliath.

goluptious. See golopshus.

gom. A man: c.: C.17. Beaumont & Fletcher.—2. A policeman: Liverpool street arabs': late C.19—early 20. Arab.

gom! Damn it: low: C.19–20; ob. (Baumann.) God corrupted. Cf. gommed.

gombeen-man. A usurer; an extortionate middleman: Anglo-Irish: ca. 1862–1900 as coll., then 'Standard'. Ex Irish gaimbín = medieval L. cambium. (W.'s umpteén, q.v., suggested by this word?)

gomer. A large pewter dish. ?ex the † S.E. sense, a Hebrew measure.—2. Whence, a new hat. Both, Winchester College s. of ca. 1850–1915. As gomers = going-home clothes, via 'go-homers'.

gommed! Damned!: low: C.19–20. (Baumann.) Cf. gormed, be.

gommy. A dandy: C.19. Ex Fr. gommeux.—2. A fool: coll.: ca. 1870–1910.—3. 'One who calls Mr. Gladstone a G.O.M., and thinks he has made a good joke' (Weekly Dispatch, 11 Mar. 1883); † by 1900. G.O.M. = Grand Old Man, one of the sobriquets for Gladstone.

Gomorrah to you! Good morning to you!: a low c.p. of ca. 1900–14. (Ware.) Punning good morrow and (to-)morrow.

gomus. A fool: Anglo-Irish. ca. 1830–1920. Cf. Yorkshire gomo and the gen. dial. gaum.

gonce. Money: Aus. s.: late C.19—mid-20. Wilkes, who notes '?Yiddish'. B., 1941, spells it gons.

gone. Pregnant, as in 'She's six months gone': coll.: mid-C.19–20.—2. Jazz-ecstatic: adopted, ca. 1948, ex US.—3. Hence, excellent: Merseyside teenagers': ca. 1960–5.—4. Hopelessly drug-addicted (on the 'hard stuff'; e.g., heroin): since ca. 1950. (Franch Norman, 1959.) Cf. sense 2.

gone a million. 'In a hopeless state; utterly disadvantaged or beaten' (Wilkes): Aus.:—1916 (C.J. Dennis.). Wilkes cites Sir Paul Hasluck, in the Sun-Herald, 24 Aug. 1969, attributing the phrase to John Scaddan, prime minister of W. Australia (1911–16), who was app. lavish with State finances.

gone-by. One who belongs to a recently gone-by period, a 'has-been': coll.: C.20.

gone coon, a. A person in serious, or indeed in a hopeless, difficulty: orig. US (—1840), anglicised ca. 1860. (H., 2nd ed.) Origin doubtful: perhaps ex raccoon after Scot. gone corbie. Calverley. P.B.: coon prob. = a Negro.

gone dis. Mentally deficient; crazy, crazed: Services': since ca. 1915. (F. & G.) Ex the signallers' gone dis (of wires) having had a breakdown (disconnected): since 1914.—2. Hence, any piece of machinery or equipment that has gone wrong or will not work may be described as gone dis: army: still current early 1970s.

gone for a Burton. (Of persons) dead or presumed dead; hence, (of things) missing and, occ., (of persons) absent: RAF: app. not before 1939. "He's had it" and "He's gone for a Burton" indicate that he's been killed' (Sgt-Pilot F. Rhodes, letter, Sep. 1942); New Statesman, 30 Aug. 1942; H. & P., 1943; C.H. Ward Jackson, It's a Piece of Cake, 1943; esp. Partridge, 1945. In popularity it belongs to the exalted group formed by bind, (he's or you've) had it, piece of cake, that shook him. Lit., for a glass of the excellent Burton ale, rather than for a suit made by Montague Burton. With the lit. sense, cf. go west, and with the derivative (merely absent; missing) cf. up in Annie's room. [E.P. in 7th ed. of this Dict. He had noted for the 8th:] In fairness to a fairly general supposition, I quote a reader's letter sent to the Yorkshire Post in Oct. 1968, 'Blackpool was taken over for the training of Air Force Radio Operators, air and ground staff. Every so often trainees were taken away for tests in Burton's the Tailors' shop (which had been taken over by the War Office), and if anyone failed these tests it was said that he had "gone for a Burton". I've seen this statement made elsewhere: and it could provide the solution. Perhaps my own theory blends with this particularly. P.B.: two other possibilities: first, that it may have been rhyming s., Burton-on-Trent, went; second, Burton ale is heavy ale: a man killed has 'copped a heavy packet'.

gone for a shit with a blanket (or rug) wrapped round him. In WW1 army usage, simply an answer to 'Where's so-and-so?' (P.V. Harris, Southampton.) But by WW2, it had become an RAF synon. of the prec. (R.M. Davison, letter, 1942.) Ex a 'common-form' practice in Service hospitals. Normally the longer phrase merely implies no more than a long absence, but the shorter usu. implies 'missing on operations', 'dead'. (W/Cdr. R. McDouall, 1945.) gone for six. Missing; killed: RAF: ca. 1930–50. (Jackson.) Ex hit for six.

gone goose. A person left in the lurch, ship abandoned: nautical.:—1867 (Smyth). Cf. gone coon, q.v.

gone native. A man that has gone native: coll.: from ca. 1920. Alec Waugh, Thirteen Such Years, 1932, 'He seemed equally at ease with Mexican half-castes, niggers from the Southern States, and "gone natives" from God knew where.' See also go native.

gone off (one's) dip. Crazy, mad: low: ca. 1885–1920. (Arthur Binstead, Mop Fair, 1905.) Cf. dippy, crazy. gone on. Infatuated with: low coll.: from ca. 1885. Baumann, 1887; Illustrated Bits, 29 Mar. 1890, 'He must have been terribly gone on this woman.' S.E. has the absolute phrase far gone.

gone out. (Often look(ing) so or right or proper or all... gone out.) Stupefied by surprise; vacuous; 'gormless': coll.: later C.20. 'Well, don't just stand there looking gone out—bloody well get and do something! Cf. synon. dropped on. (P.B.)

gone over a goodish piece of grass. (Of meat, esp. mutton) tough: lower classes':—1909; ob. Ware.

gone over Borough Hill after Jackson's pig (it's). It is lost: rural coll. verging on dial. (esp. Northants): mid-C.19–20; ob. Apperson.

gone phut. See phut.

gone through the sieve. Bankrupt: commercial:—1909; ob. Ware.

gone to Coventry, he (she, etc.) has. He doesn't speak (to me, us, etc.) nowadays: tailors': late C.19–early 20. See send to Coventry.

gone to foreign parts. Transported as a convict: ca. 1820–70. Bee.

gone to lift his lying (or lying on) time. An Anglo-Irish c.p., applied to a labourer recently dead: C.20. (Patrick MacGill.) gone to lyonch. A c.p. of ca. 1930–9 for 'gone to lunch' (or anywhere else. James Street, Carbon Monoxide, 1937. (Lions + lunch.) Ex a famous Lyons tea-shops' advertisement.

gone to Moscow. Pawned: Aus.: since ca. 1918. (B., 1942.) With a pun on mosk or moskeneer, 'to pawn'.

gone to pot. Dead: C.19. See go to pot.

gone to Rome. (Of bells) become silent: Roman Catholic: from the 1880s. Ware.

gone to the Diet of Worms. To be dead and buried: ca. 1780–1830. (Grose, 1st ed.) A companion pun (Worms, 'the Mother of Diets'+ worms' meat) is to be gone to Rot-his-bone (i.e. Ratisbon).

gone to the pack. Aus. and NZ var. of gone to the dogs: coll.: C.20. (B.P.) gone west. Dead; wrecked; ruined. See go west.

gone with the wind. Disappeared, e.g. money or spouse: since late 1930s. Ex the world-famous novel and film.

goney. One who is undone, ruined, or dead; that which is (almost or quite) finished, extinguished, or destroyed: orig. (1847) US; anglicised ca. 1880. Nat Gould, 1891, 'Make a noise, or follow me, and you're a goney.'

goney. See gawney.

gong, n. A medal; loosely, a decoration: orig. army, later all Services': since late C.19. (F. & G.) E.g., Naffy gong, q.v. Ex Anglo-Indian gong, a 'metal disc, not musical, used in India for striking the hour' (Y. & B.).—2. A bell: busmen's: from ca. 1925. Daily Herald, 5 Aug. 1936.—3. As the Gong, Wollongong, nr Sydney, Aus.: mainly Sydneysiders': since ca. 1925. (B.P.)

gong, v. To ring a bell for a waiter: late C.19–20. H.G. Wells, Twelve Stories and a Dream, 1903, 'He had just gonged: no doubt to order another buttered teacake'.—2. (Of the mobile police) to strike a gong in order to stop a motorist: since ca. 1925. Notably as be gonged, (of a motorist) to be stopped by the police, and have one's name taken: since the late 1920s. In 'Quite Mad', part of Denis MacKail, Jacinth, 1937.

gong girl. A girl 'picked up' by a motorist for dalliance in a lonely spot: 1930s. (London Evening News, 19 Aug. 1937.) ?Some connection with gong, v., 2.

gong-ridden. Heavily be-medalled: RAF: WW2. Ex gong, n., 1.

gong team. 'A Fleet Air Arm Albacore [aircraft] with both pilot and observer D.F.C.s' (P-G-R): RN: ca. 1940–4.

gonga. Anus: Services: C.20. Origin? (P-G-R.) Short for gonga-pooch. It sounds like an army perversion of some Hindustani word. Cf. gunga wallah, a male prostitute.—2. In up the gonga, mad: Brit. army in India: late C.19–earlier 20. Ex Hindustani ganga (cf. the Ganges): 'supposedly because lunatic asylums were up-river' (P.B., in re Charles Allen, ed., Plain Tales from the Raj, 1977).

gongers, the. A police patrol in cars: since ca. 1935. Richard Llewellyn, None But the Lonely Heart, 1943, "'Gongers up," he says. "Right behind us." Cf. gongster.

gongoozler. An idle, inquisitive person that stands staring for prolonged periods at anything unusual: canal-men's: late C.19–20. (L.T.C. Rolt, Narrow Boat, 1944.) Lakeland word (see EDD): arbitrary: cf. goon, 2.

gongster. A man on police speed-limit motor-patrol: motorists': from April 1935. On gongster and ex the warning gong.

gonio. A goniometer—a device used in radar: RAF: WW2. 'One had to keep turning a knob which controlled it. In the depths of an uneventful night-bind, an operator would often be heard to sigh, "Gonio, gonio, wherefore art thou gonio?"' (my browned off correspondent: 1949). For those who think that Shakespeare is a racehorse or a greyhound, that lament parodies 'O Romeo, Romeo! wherefore art thou Romeo?'

goniv. An illicit diamond-buyer: S. African diamond fields': from ca. 1890; ob. (Pettmann.) Also gonoph and therefore a var. of gonnof.—2. Whence (via Hebrew genawah, a theft, a thing stolen) goniva(h), 'a diamond known to have been stolen or come by illicitly' (Pettman): S. African c.: 1887 (Mathews, Incwadi Yami).

gonk, n. 'A prostitute's contemptuous term for a client' (Powis): later C.20. Perhaps ex:—2. A sleep, as in having a gonk. See v.—3. Arbitrary name given to a small, furry, toy animal/homunculus grotesque, a fad of the late 1960s. (P.B.)

gonk, v. To sleep, esp. during the day: army and RAF: since ca. 1950 at latest. Echoic. (P.B.) Cf. slonk.

gonna, gonner. Phonetic representation of slovened 'going to': rare before C.20.

gon(n)of, gonoph, gonov, gnof(f). (See also gun, n., 4.) A thief; esp. a skilful pickpocket: c. from ca. 1835. Ex Hebrew gantabh via Jewish Dutch ganef (W.). Brandon, Mayhew, Dickens, Hindley, Clarkson and Richardson ('gunneffs or gonophs'). Cf. the C.14–20 gnof, a bumpkin, a simpleton, as in Chaucer: this, however, is a different word. K. Chesney, Victorian Underworld, 1970, notes, 'It usually implied youthfulness and (in England not America) carried an undertone of contempt.' See also gnaff, incl. naff.

gon(n)of, etc., v. To steal; cheat; wheedle: c.: from ca. 1850; ob. Whence gonophing, etc., vbl n.: Dickens in The Detective Police, reprinted 1857.

gons. Money. (B., 1942.) See gonce.

goo, n. The mouth: low or perhaps orig. c.:—1923 (Manchon). I.e. gob perverted.—2. Any semi-liquid or viscous stuff: Can., adopted ex US ca. 1912 (Leechman); in later C.20 also gen. in UK. Mathews, Americanisms, has suggested a derivation ex burgoo, q.v. B.P. notes 'common in Australia, since ca. 1930'.—3. See goo-wallahs.

goo, v. (also goob.) 'To spit a gob of phlegm' (B., 1942): Aus. C.20. Cf. n., 2.

goo-goo eyes. Loving glances: Aus. mostly: from ca. 1905. (Neil Munro, 1906; C.J. Dennis.) Prob. first in the baby-talk of lovers. Hence, occ., goo-goo, such a glance. (OED Sup.) P.B.: prob. more Brit. use than E.P. implies here; e.g., in the end-of-term chant at a Kentish preparatory school, early 1940s: 'No more beetles in my tea, making goo-goo eyes at me'—Iona and Peter Opie, Lore and Language of School-children, 1959, quote 'googly' from a Worcestershire school. ?Ultimately ex goggle.

goo-wallahs, the. A sanitary squad: army: earlier C.20. (F.&G.) Ex low goo, an excremental 'button'; but see also goo, n., 2.

gooby. A simpleton, a dolt: coll.: from ca. 1890. (Ally Sloper, 19 Mar. 1892.) Prob. a corruption ex dial. goff or goof: cf. goof, goofy, and goop, goopy.

good. Easily robbed (e.g. upon the crack or the star): c. of ca. 1810–1910. Vaux.—2. Solvent; esp. good for, able to pay: coll.: from ca. 1890. Ex the (—1860) S.E. sense, 'safe to live or last so long, well able to accomplish so much' (OED). But Vaux, 1812, says that 'A man who declares himself good for any favour or thing, means, that he has sufficient influence, or possesses the certain means to obtain it,'—which puts back the S.E. sense some fifty years and perhaps indicates that this S.E. sense was orig. s. or coll.—3. The omission of good before afternoon, day, morning, etc., in greetings is a coll. of late C.19–20.—4. In be any or some or, gen., no good, to be to some extent useful; wholly useless: coll.: from ca. 1870.—5. When predicative with gerund following, coll. from ca. 1840. J.H. Newman, 1842. 'There is no good telling you all this' (OED).—6. In what good is it?, are they?, etc., it is coll. from ca. 1865. Dasent using it in 1868. OED.—7. (Of persons) be no good, to be worthless: coll.: from early 1890s. OED.—8. In feel good, to be jolly or 'in form': adopted ex US ca. 1895.—9. See be good!

good, adv., when modifying a v. and = well: in C.19–20, low coll.; earlier, S.E.—2. In for good, completely; permanently: coll.: from ca. 1880. Abbr. for good and all, q.v. at good and all.

good! As an abbr. 'Good night!', among printers: late C.19—early 20.—2. Aus. proletarian: since ca. 1930. (B.P.) Ex good on you! Cf. later C.20 Brit. use of cheers!—3. 'Esp. used by children, its senses embrace everything from passable to excellent, e.g., "How are you?"—"Good!" "How's work?"—"Good!" "How's school?"—"Good!" "How's your family?"— good a maid as her mother, a (occ. as). A C.17 c.p. applied to a devirginated spinster. Howell's Proverbs, 1659.

"Good!": B., 1959. Not, of course, s.; a coll., dating from ca. 1930 or earlier.

good a piece as ever strode a pot, as. As good a girl as you could find: low coll.: C.19—early 20. Cf. good as ever pissed.

good a scholar as my horse Ball (, as). Which is to say—no scholar at all. Indeed, these words may have formed the second half of the saying: used by John Clarke in 1639, it seems to have been current ca. 1620–70.

good and ... Properly; in such phrases as 'She'll come when she's good and ready—and not before!': coll.: C.20.

good and all, for. Entirely; permanently; finally: from ca. 1515. In C.16—early 19, S.E.; then coll. Horman in his Vulgaria, 1519; Wycherley, in The Gentleman Dancing Master, 'If I went, I would go for good and all'; Dickens. See Apperson.

good as a play, gen. prec. by as. Very entertaining; proverbial coll.: from ca. 1630. Taylor the 'Water-Poet'; Arthur Machen, 1922.

good as a shoulder of mutton for (or to) a sick horse (, as). Utterly useless or worthless: coll.: mid-C.16—mid-18. Jonson.

good as ..., as. It is extremely difficult to determine the status of the (as) good as ... comparative phrases, many of which are either proverbs or proverbial sayings. G.L. Apperson lists the following: as good as a Christmas play (late C.19–20 Cornwall)—a play (C.17–20)—ever drew sword (late C.16–17)—ever flew in the air (C.17)—ever struck (C.17)—ever the ground went upon with such variants as ever stepped (late C.16–20)—ever twanged (mid-C.16–17)—ever water wet (C.17–18)—ever went endways (C.17?–18),—George of Green (C.17–18)—gold (mid-C.19–20)—good for nothing (C.17)—goose skins that never man had enough of (Cheshire: C.17–20),—one shall see in or upon a summer's day (late C.16–19).—2. But Vaux's good as bread and good as cheese=thoroughly competent or able (in some specific relation): low: ca. 1810–50. Influenced by the cheese, q.v.

good as ever pissed. Extremely good: low coll.: from ca. 1710; ob. (D'Urfey.) Cf. the C.17–18 proverbial saying, good as ever went endways.

good as ever twanged (often prec. by as). Of women only: very good: coll.: ca. 1570–1700. (Apperson.) Lit., as good as ever responded to a man's sexual aggress.

good as gold. Very good: coll.: 1843, Dickens. Gen. applied to children.

good as good (, as). Extremely good: coll.: from ca. 1880. Gen. applied to children: cf. (as) good as gold, q.v. Cf. Romance-languages emphasis by repetition of adj. and adv.

good as they make 'em (, as). The best obtainable (things only): coll.: from ca. 1870.

good as you would desire to piss (up) on (, as). Excellent; extremely, as in Tom Brown's 'There are some Quacks as Honest Fellows as you would desire to Piss upon', 1700: (low) coll.: late C.17—early 19. (OED.) Cf. good as ever pissed.

good at it or at the game. An adept between the sheets: amatory coll.: C.19–20.

good biz! Excellent! C.20. (Musings, ca. 1912, p. 80.) Ex good biz, profitable business or transaction:—1889. R.S. notes the var. good biznai occurring in one of Kipling's later 'Stalky' stories, 'The United Idolaters', 1924, pub'd in Debits and Credits—but I doubt whether it ever had any but a very restricted currency. See biz. As good business!, in this commendatory sense: ca. 1880. See DCpp.

good books; bad books: be in (one's). See books.—2. As the Good Books—a pun on The Good Book, the Bible—it means '(a pack of) playing cards': The Night Watch (I, 71), 1828. Cf. books, 1. (Moe.)

good boy. An occ. C.19 var. of good fellow, q.v.

good bye-ee! A c.p. form, ca. 1915–20, of goodbye! Collinson.

good cess! Good luck! Anglo-Irish:—1845. F. & H.: but see bad cess, its opposite.

good chap. A late C.19–20 var. of good fellow. good chit. See have a good chit. good Christmas! A euph. blasphemy; since ca. 1925. good clean fun, often prec. by (it's) all. 'Malicious comments and mean actions, neither clean nor fun' (L.A., 1976); ironic: since ca. 1950. good conjure, a. A good 'trick' or 'cushy number'. See conjure, n. good deer. One who knows his way about; a clever arranger: Aus.: since ca. 1910. B., 1942. good eating. (Of a girl, a woman) very attractive: Aus.: since ca. 1921. Baker, 'Darling I could eat you!' good egg. See egg, 1.—2. Hence, that's fortunate!: early C.20. 'Taffrail', The Sub, 1917. good enough, not. (Very) bad; esp., decidedly unfair: coll.: from ca. 1890. good evening, friends! 'On the chromatic scale goes (e.g.) ABAC, played very slowly... a comic ending to fit any number of music-hall songs' (Cyril Whelan, 1975); hence, used as joc. greeting or farewell: since late 1950s. See DCpp. good evening, vicar! A low acknowledgment of a loud fart: in impolite company: C.20. (P.B.) Cf. speak up, Ginger, you're through!, etc. good evening, Mrs Wood, is fourpence any good? A c.p., dating since ca. 1910; by 1947, slightly ob. Prob. ex the opening of a vulgar rhyme. good fellow, goodfellow. A roisterer, a boon companion: C.16–20: S.E. until ca. 1660, then coll. Cf. Grose, 1st ed., 'Good Man, a word of various imports, according to the place where it is spoken; in the city it means a rich man; at Hockley in the Hole, or St. Giles's, an expert boxer; at a bagnio in Covent Garden, a vigorous fornicator; at an ale-house or tavern, one who loves his pot or bottle; and sometimes, tho' but rarely, a virtuous man.'—2. In C.17 c., a thief. Middleton in his most famous comedy. good few, a. A fair number: coll. (and dial.): since ca. 1860. (OED.) Cf. fair few. good-for, n. An IOU: S. African coll.: 1879. Rider Haggard in Cetywayo, 1882: OED.—2. A Transvaal Government promissory note: ca. 1880–1900: S. African coll. (Pettman.) Both senses ex good, 2. good for a giggle, it's (and other tenses). ... even if for nothing else; as a 'persuader', or as a mock-reluctant acceptance of a suggested course of action: 'Come on, it's good ...', or 'Oh, I suppose it's good ...'; a gen. stop-gap reply: since late 1940s. (L.A., P.B.) good for him (or you)! Excellent work! Splendid news! Coll.: from ca. 1910. Cf. good on you! good for the parts. 'Said as if of the digestion but, allusively, of the sexual parts. Excuse for eating more, or for tipping. Public school or upper crust' (L.A., 1974): C.20. See parts, 1 and cf. refreshes the parts.
good form. See form.
good fun (predicative). Good company; amusing, entertaining: coll.: C.19–20. good girl or good one. A harlot; a wanton wench: coll.: the former, C.18–20, ob., the latter, C.17–18. Cf. good at it, q.v. good goods. Something worth having; a success: sporting:—1874: ob. Sporting Times, 17 July 1886, 'He was ... rather good goods at a Sunday-school treat.' The superlative is best goods:—1874 (H., 5th ed.).—2. As exclam., 'A c.p. addressed to one who has donned a new suit; said with Jewish intonation and an industrious feeling of the quality of the cloth' (Leechman); Can.: since ca. 1950.
good grief! All-purpose exclam.: of surprise, anger, disappointment, dismay, etc.: orig. adopted ex US ca. 1918, perhaps from 'Doughboys'; given a new lease of life and great popularity by the world-famous 'Charlie Brown' strip cartoons of Charles Schulz. (P.B.)
good guts, the. The true facts: Aus.: since ca. 1930. 'That just about gives you the good guts of our end of the street' (Dick). good-ho. Var. of good-o(h).

good hunting! Good luck!: sportsmen's c.p., since 1890s; later, in C.20, wider usage, as by, e.g., Madame Arcati in Noël Coward's Blythe Spirit, 1941. Popularised, perhaps even generated, by Kipling's Jungle Book, 1894. good idea (pause) — son! (emphatic). C.p. of Max Bygraves, the comedian, late 1950s—early 60s, which eventually became the chorus punch-line of a song. It enjoyed great popularity and widespread use at the time. (P.B.)
good in parts — like the curate's egg. A conflation of the caption to a cartoon by Gerald du Maurier in Punch, 1895 (vol. CIX, p. 222). A curate is taking breakfast in his bishop's home: "'I'm afraid you've got a bad egg, Mr Jones.'—'Oh no, my Lord, I assure you! Parts of it are excellent.'" It has remained in the cultured national conscious ever since, becoming, in later C.20, almost a c.p. good ink (, that's). (That is) good, agreeable, pleasant: Aus. and NZ: from ca. 1910. (E.P.; B., 1942.) Cf. good pup, and-good iron. (Of things) good; agreeable, desirable: Aus.: C.20. (Baker.) Not just 'any old iron'.
good line. A smart or unusual remark: theatrical: from ca. 1920. A.P. Herbert, Holy Deadlock, 1934.
good look round. See have a good look ... good looker. A pretty girl (woman) or handsome fellow: coll., orig. (ca. 1890) US, anglicised ca. 1920. (OED Sup.) Also with hyphen. good man, Goodman. See Grose's definition at good fellow, above.—2. Gen. as one word:—A gaoler: C.18—early 19: low or coll.—3. The devil, always with the: C.18–20 coll.; ob. Cf. the old gentleman.—4. (Cf. sense 1.) good man turd. A contemptible fellow: C.16–17 low coll. Florio. good — or bad — marble, have a. (Of racehorse). To have a good, or a bad, position at the starting barrier: Aus. racing: C.20; by 1960, ob. Sydney Morning Herald, 8 Aug. 1964.—2. Hence, of a person, to be (dis)advantageously placed: since ca. 1920; by 1960, ob. (B.P.)
good mark. See mark, n., 2.
good mixer. See mixer.
good morning! have you used Pears' soap? This slogan first appeared in the late 1880s and almost immediately became a c.p.; by 1930, it was moribund; by 1950, dead, except among the aged. Devised by Thomas W. Barratt, a well-known advertising man, later the chairman of the Pears' soap company. (With thanks to Alexander McQueen: 1953.) Cf. since when, I have used no other.
good morning, sir! Was there something? Sam Costa's weekly entry line in the BBC radio comedy series 'Much Binding in the Marsh', 1944–5, and after: the c.p. was popular for a decade or so. Costa was 'Aircraftman, 2nd class' to Richard Murdoch's 'Squadron-Leader'; 'Was there something?' = 'Was there something you needed/wanted?'
good murder, a. A detective novel with a strong murder-plot: circulating library subscribers' coll.: since ca. 1925. Mrs C. Raab: with the demise of these libraries, later C.20, the term is used by 'murder-novel' 'fans'. good night! A c.p. retort expressive of incredulity, comical despair, delight: from ca. 1860; ob. In WW1, often good night, nurse! Cf. carry me out, let me die, that's torn it. An extremely suggestive adumbration occurs in Gabriel Harvey's Four Letters, 1592 (Bodley Head Quartos ed., p. 81): 'Every pert, and cranke wit, in one odd veine, or other, [is] the onely man of the University, of the City, of the Realme, for a flourish or two: who but he, in the flush of his overweening conceit? give him his peremptory white rod in his hand, and God-night at distinction of persons, and all difference of estates.'—2. Since ca. 1920, however, the predominant sense has been 'That's the end' or 'That's finished it'. A significant adumbration (cf. that in sense 1) occurs in Shakespeare's I Henry IV, I, iii, 191–4: WORCESTER: As full of peril and adventurous spirit
As to o'er-walk a current roaring loud
On the unsteadfast footing of a spear.
HOTSPUR: If he fall in, good night!

good night, McGuinness! NZ version of prec.: ca. 1910–35. Who was McGuinness?

good night, nurse! Elab. of good night! Prob. dating from ca. 1910, it became popular during, and largely because of, WW1, when so many men passed through Service hospitals.

good night—sleep tight—mind the bugs (and fleas) don't bite! A children's bed-time c.p.: since late C.19, at latest.

good night, Vienna! An all-purpose phrase; it may be used, e.g., in 'If the officer catches us up to this, it's good night, Vienna, for the lot of us' or 'So I met this girl. We had a few drinks. Back to her place, and Good Night, Vienna'. It is the title of a romantic operetta, 1932, book and lyrics by Eric Maschwitz, music by George Posford, and of the show's main song, sung orig. by Richard Tauber.

good-(h)! Excellent!: Aus. coll.: C.20. Also, since mid-C.20, Eng. Cf. whack-oh! Hence also adv.: well.

good-oh, adj. Excellent: Aus.: C.20—2. Hence, esp. in var. g.i.b., good in bed, a c.p. common in the late 1940s and the 1950s: since ca. 1910. (B.P.)

good oil. A var. of dinkum oil and good guts, qq.v.: reliable news.

good old... A familiar, i.e. coll., term of reference or address, gen. affectionate, occ. derisive: Bill Truck, 1821, has 'good old girl'; and I hypothecate its currency as going back to ca. 1750 or even much earlier. In the WW1 army a c.p. 'gag' ran: 'Some say good old X: we say fuck old X or him!'; prob. pre-WW1, and still extant in 1970s.

good old England and terra firma. Railwaymen's ironic c.p.p., applied to 'off the railroad, at trap points' (Railway): since ca. 1920.

good on the crack or the star. See star, n., 1.

good on the fang (or tooth). Applied to one who is a good trencherman: Aus.: since ca. 1945. Culotta.

good on you! (emphatic on). Good for you; excellent!: Aus. coll.: C.20. P.B.: I have even heard it shortened to 'on yer!'; the phrase, although acknowledged to be quintessentially Australian, may well have been borrowed from Cockney: 'Good on 'em!' = good for them, well done!, appears in the caption of a Punch cartoon 10 Oct. 1917.

good one. See good un.

good people, the. Fairies: Anglo-Irish coll. >, ca. 1880, S.E.: from ca. 1800; ob. (Scott; C. Griffin; R.L. Stevenson.) Orig. and mainly euph.: cf. Eumenides: see Words! at 'Euphemism'. In C.16–17 Scottish, the good neighbours.

good pup. Anything good, e.g. a successful sale, a good bargain, a comfortable dug-out: NZ: C.20. Prob. at first a farmer's c.p. of commendation.

good question!, (that's a, or a very). Time-gaining exclam., implying, since mid-1970s, 'to which I do not know the answer'. As straightforward approbation of the question, it is of course S.E. (P.B.)

good Sams, the. The Sisters of the Good Samaritan: Australian Catholics': C.20. (B.P.)

good scout. See scout, n., 5.

good shade. A good 'type' or fellow: Gordonstoun School. Woman's Own, 2 Mar. 1968, ref. to the Duke of Edinburgh.

good shit would do you more good, a. A low c.p., addressed to one who says that he 'could do with a woman': late C.19–20.

good show. See show, n., 5 good skin. A decent fellow: ?mainly Liverpool: C.20.

good soldier never looks behind him, a. A c.p. reply to a critic of one's shoe-heels: since ca. 1915.

good sort, occ. g. old s. A generous, a sympathetic, or a readily helpful person: coll. (—1892); orig. only of men. Hume Nisbet, 'He seems a good sort.'—2. A beautiful girl: low: from ca. 1920. Esp. of one not remarkably reluctant.—3. As a person attractive to the opposite sex, it is the opposite of drack sort and has the superlative extra sort: these are Australianisms current since ca. 1939 but gen. throughout Aus. only since ca. 1945. The Aus. good sort arises partly from sort, 1, but mainly from good sort, 1, influenced perhaps by good sort, 2. Sidney J. Baker, in his fascinating Australia Speaks, 1953 (a supplement to his valuable The Australian Language, 1945), has concentrated overmuch on the Aus. senses: both sort and good sort owe something to non-Aus. sources and usages. Australia, by the way, owes much to this New Zealander who in the 1930s settled in Australia; but then, so does his native land. See also sort, n., 3.

good strange! A mild coll. oath: late C.17–18. Perhaps God's strings (Ware).

good stuff. See stuff, n., 3 and 15.

good thing. As a bon mot, as something worth having, and as a successful speculation, it is hardly eligible, but as a presumed certainty it is racing s. (—1884), whence, in C.20, a gen. coll. applied to a business, an investment, etc. P.B.: in later C.20, esp. in phrase (be on to a good thing, to stumble on, or to be pursuing, something advantageous or profitable; it may even be used in ref. to the pursuit, by a male, of a particularly attractive, or willing, girl.—2. (Of a person) easy to exploit or swindle: Aus.: since ca. 1910. Baker.

good thinking!, (often, that's). That's a sound, an excellent, idea; what a good suggestion!: coll.: adopted, ex US, ca. 1969. Ex US advertising, and the 'Batman' comic strips and TV cartoons; Batman is sometimes added for humorous effect.

good time. A carouse; amusement and entertainment; a sexually enjoyable occasion. Gen. as have a good time. In C.17, S.E.,—Pepys has it; ob. till ca. 1840, when it appeared in the US; re-anglicised ca. 1870 as a coll.; by 1930, virtually S.E. Trollope, 1863, 'Having... what our American friends call a good time of it'; H., 5th ed.

good(-)time Charley. 'A man whose sole interest in life and especially in women is to have a "good time"', often at no expense to himself' (Leechman): C.20. Cf. handsome Harry.

good time coming, (there's) a, is a cliché: but it has, since early 1940s, attracted the ironic or cynical c.p. reply, (yes, and or but) it's a good [i.e. long] time coming. (Petch, 1969.)

good time was had by all, (and) a. Cliché lifted by the poet Stevie Smith from parish magazines; she used it as the title for a book of verse, pub. 1937, and it has since > a c.p. See esp. DCpp.

good to me, it looks. See looks good...

good to the poor, she's (very). A prostitutes' c.p. applied to a harlot known to be a price-cutter: from ca. 1910.

good tune played on an old fiddle, there's many a. An oldish woman may make an excellent bedfellow: late C.19–20: a c.p. >, by 1930, virtually a proverb.

good un. A person or thing of great merit: coll.: from ca. 1830.—2. In that's a good un (or one)! What a fib (occ. good story)!: coll.: C.19–20.

good value. Worth having, esp. of people: Aus. and NZ coll., since ca. 1920; in later C.20, also Brit. J.H. Fullarton, Troop Target, 1943, 'Wavell's pretty good value'.

good voice to beg bacon, a. Derisive of a poor, or even a thoroughly bad, voice: ca. 1680–1770. B.E.

good wicket. A profitable transaction or venture: Aus.: since ca. 1919. (Baker.) The phrase reflects the Aus. passion for cricket. Always in (be on a good wicket). (B.P.) P.B.: 'not unknown in Brit. also.

good-willer. A person of good will: since ca. 1930. (Sydney Moseley, Gold Help America!, 1952.) Cf. do-gooder.

good woman. 'A non descript, represented on a famous sign in St. Giles's, in the form of a common woman, but without a head' (Grose, 1785); hence, 'a not uncommon public-house sign' (H., 1864): the same authority adding that the honest lawyer, similarly represented, is another. The phrase is relevant because it was often employed allusively. † by 1920.

good-wool(l)ed. Plucky and energetic: s. when not, as prob. orig., dial.: from ca. 1845. (Halliwell.) Ex sheep with a good fleece.

good work! Well done: C.20: coll. >, by 1930, S.E.

good young man. A hypocrite: proletarian c.p. of 1881–ca. 1914. Sponsored by Arthur Roberts in a song, says Ware, who notes that its opposite is bad young man.

good yunting! 'Employed jocularly by costermongers as a means of wishing next-stall neighbour (and some regular, understanding customers) a merry Christmas, a Happy New Year, a pleasant Easter, and so on' (Julian Franklyn, 1968): c.p.: since ca. 1918. Influenced by good hunting! Mrs C. Raab tentatively suggests a connexion with the † junt (trick or cheat), for which the OED cites Florio.

gooder; goodest. Deliberately used, it is coll.: late C.19–20.—2. Unintentionally: C.18–20 sol.

goodies and baddies. In films, the good and the bad people: adopted, ex US, late 1950s, perhaps earlier. Hence, by extension, in other fields, as in a 'war-game': 'In this scenario, Fantasian armies are the goodies, Amnesian the baddies'. Of cowboy films, 'You can always tell the goodies, because they wear white hats.' (P.B.)—2. Only goodies: see goody, n., 3.

goodish. Goodish: low coll.:—1887 (Baumann). Prob. a confusion of goodly & goodish.

goodman; goodman turd. See good man.

goodness in mild expletives is coll.; mostly mid-C.19–20.

goodness me, it's no. 3. One of the consecrated c.pp. of the game of bingo: since ca. 1955.

goods. In a bit (occ. piece) of goods, a woman, gen. as viewed in the light of her sexual attractiveness or potentialities: low coll.: from ca. 1860.—2. In a piece of goods, a person: coll.: later C.19—early 20.—3. A goods train: railwaymen's coll.: since late C.19. Baumann.—4. As the goods, (precisely) what is needed, esp. if of considerable worth or high merit. Gen. in have the goods, to be a very able person, and deliver the goods, to fulfil one's promise(s): coll.: anglicised, ca. 1908, from US (1870s). ?ex the US sense (1852), the thing bargained for, the prize (see Thornton).—5. As the Goods, the Gordon Highlanders: military: WW1. (F. & G.) Magnificent soldiers.—3. (Ex sense 1.) Hence, an attractive person, as 'She's the goods': later C.20. (P.B.)

Goodwin sands, set up shop on. To be shipwrecked: ca. 1540–1750. In C.16–17, often Goodwins. (Apperson.) Cf. Tenterden steeple, q.v.

goody, n. A matron—but used only of, or to, a social inferior or, among the lower classes, equal: mainly rural: C.16–20; ob.: in C.16–18, wholly S.E.; in C.19, increasingly coll.; in C.20, archaic except in dial. Ex goodwife. Cf. aunt(ie), gammer, mother. See esp. Florio, Johnson, and OED. Whence the occ. coll. goodship = the ladyship of joc. usage.—2. A religious hypocrite: coll.:—1836; ob.—3. Gen. in pl, sweetmeats; buns, cakes and pastry: from ca. 1760; occurring as goody-goody in 1745 (SOD): until ca. 1850, S.E.; then coll. R.S.: by ca. 1950, applied to any tasty food or animal's feed.—4. See goodies.—5. In my goody!, my goodness!: lower classes' (esp. women's) coll.:—1887 (Baumann).

goody, adj. Officially or hypocritically or ignorant-tiresomely pious: 1830: coll. till C.20, then S.E. D.W. Thompson in Daydreams of a Schoolmaster, 1864.—2. In talk goody, to talk in a weakly or sentimentally good way: coll.: from ca. 1865.

goody!, or goody-goody! Good!: coll.: adopted, ca. 1937 from US. But in Aus. ca. 1927. Miles Franklin, Old Blastus, 1931.

goody-goody. Occ. a n. (ca. 1872) but gen. an adj. (1871). Both coll. in sense of a weakly or sentimentally good person.—2. See goody, n., 3.

goody-la! Good!: military: 1916; ob. (B. & P.) Ex the Chinese Labour Corps's 'pidgin'.

goodyear!, what a or the. A (now) meaningless expletive: ca. 1550–1720. Cf.:

goodyear(s). Syphilis: C.17 coll. Perhaps (!) ex gougeer ex gouge, a soldier's drab. But this may be deducing too much from the imprecative uses of goodyear, as in a goodyear take ye! and as in the prec. entry, in which the word = the deuce, the devil, a sense that may be operative in Goodyear's pig, q.v. Goodyear's pig, like. Explained by the occ. accompanying tag, never well but when in—or he is doing—mischief: mid-C.17–20. Mainly Cheshire. Who was Goodyear? Cf.:

Goodyear's pigs did, they'll come again as. Never: proverbial coll.: ca. 1670–1750. Goodyear was prob. a notable farmer; cf. prec. (likewise in Apperson). But Goodyear may be only a personification of † Scottish goodyer, a grandfather.

goodying, n. Doing good of the kind practised by a goooder, 2: since ca. 1959. (Petch, 1966.)

gooeey, n. 'A gob of phlegm' (B., 1942): Aus. low: C.20. Cf. gollion.

gooeey, adj. Viscous or semi-viscous: since mid-1930s. Ex goo, n., 2.—2. Hence, excessively sentimental; fatuous, 'drippy': infatuated: coll., Services (esp. RN) by 1936 and civilians by 1944. Granville, 'He's gooeey over the dame.'

goof, n. A person that is silly, 'soft', or stupid; hence adj. goofy: 1923, P.G. Wodehouse (OED Sup.), but certainly in use in 1922. Ex dial. goof, goof, a fool.—2. Hence, a man ever running after women: RAF: from ca. 1925; † by 1950.

goof, v. To run after (a woman): See n., 2.—2. To watch enemy aircraft, or aircraft taking off and landing, esp. on aircraft carriers: RN: WW2 and since. See goofer, 2, 3.—3. To watch TV intently: Aus.: since late 1950s. (B.P.)—4. To blunder: since ca. 1950. Ex n., 1.—5. By specialisation of 4, 'Give oneself away to the police' (Home Office): prisoners' c.: later C.20.—6. 'To spoil an injection of a narcotic, either when making it up or when injecting it' (Home Office): drug-users' s.: later C.20. Specialisation of 4.

goof balls (rare in singular). Drugs that, in pill or tablet form and whether taken alone or in a drink, produce exhilaration; some are dangerous: Can., adopted, ex US, ca. 1945. (Leechman.) In Brit. the term applies, 1970s, to barbiturates. (Home Office.)

goof box. A television set: Aus.: since late 1950s. (B.P.) See goof, v., 3, and cf. Brit. goggle-box.

goofa. RAF version, later 1920s–1930s, of goofer, 1; esp. in on the goofa, 'on the boat' (for home or overseas). (Jackson.) Perhaps ex go for.

goofed up. 'Intoxicated with barbiturates' (Home Office): drug-users': later C.20.

goofer. A bumbo: RN: since ca. 1925. (Granville.) Cf. goofa.—2. One who, in WW2, gaped at enemy bombers instead of taking shelter: RN.—3. The after end of the superstructure on an aircraft carrier has a gallery reserved, by tradition, where any off-duty officer or rating can watch deck landings. Both the place and the watcher are "goofers", the place [being] differentiated by always having "the" prefixing it: RN' (Lt Cdr F.L. Peppitt, RNR): WW2 and after. Ex v., 2., to stare like an idiot, or goof.—4. Hence, by extension, any idle gawper: 'Often the [cliff-]edge rescue is hindered by ... onlookers who simply will not keep out of the way. The sight of a helicopter at once attracts spectators—called "goofers" by the Fleet Air Arm' (Illustrated London News, May 1978).

goofers' gallery, the or goofers, the. The gallery in goofer, 3. goofy, n. A surfer riding with his right (not left) foot forward: Aus. surfers', esp. teenagers': since ca. 1960. (Sun-Herald, 22 Sep. 1963.) In full, goofy-footer. 'Goofy' was the name of a crazy dog-like creature in Walt Disney's 'Mickey Mouse' cartoons.

goofy, adj. Stupid; dull-witted and almost crazy; wildly crazy; excessively sentimental; (goofy about) infatuated with: since ca. 1935. Ex goof, 1 and 2. Since ca. 1950, as L.A. notes, 1976, the nuance has been more 'awkward, diffident, and given to unintentional faux-pas'.

goog (pron. short oo, 'gwg', like good). An egg: Aus.: C.20. B., 1942. 'A dozen googs, mate' would be an acceptable request in the appropriate shop. Also googie-eggs. (John Barclay, 1982.)—2. A simpleton; a fool: Aus.: since ca. 1943. B., 1953.

googlie, -y, n. 'A slow ball, pitched fairly high, which may break either way and often upsets the batsman's conjecture' (E.V. Lucas). See bosie.—2. Hence, an awkward question: Aus.: since ca. 1925. (B., 1943.) Cf. a curly one.—3. A single bomb dropped from an aircraft: Aus. airmen's: WW2. (Ibid.) Cf. bosie, 2.

googlie(-y) merchant. A bowler of 'googlies': cricketers': 1924 (H.C. Maclaren: Lewis).

googly, adj. Sentimental: C.20. Charles Williams, The Greater Trumps, 1932, 'Henry and I would lean over the side of our honeymoon liner and hear your voice coming to us over the sea in the evening, and have ... heimweh, and be all googly.' Perhaps ex goo-goo eyes.

Gook. A Japanese: Aus.: since ca. 1942. Dymphna Cusack, Say No to Death, 1951.—2. A Korean (cf. Noggies): United Nations troops': ca. 1951–5 in Korea. Perhaps influenced by goon, but probably derived from Korean kuk (pron. kook), 'used to convey the idea of nationality; e.g., in Popkuk, France, Chungkuk, China, etc.' (Iddiwah, July 1953).—3. During the Korean War (1950–3), it was applied also to Formosans. Note that sense 1 is rare, † by 1960, possibly catachrestic. Note also that, orig., Gook was American s.—derived from the Gugus of the Filipino Insurrection of 1899—for a Filipino and that, during WW2, the Americans applied it also to other friendly peoples of the Pacific. (With many thanks to Barry Prentice.) The word was given new impetus by the US involvement in Vietnam, and spread even to the Government Force in Rhodesia, late 1970s, being applied to the guerrillas. The Rhodesian campaign borrowed some of the language of death from S.E. Asia. (P.B.)—4. As gook, a tramp: low: Manchon cites A. Neil Lyons, Arthur's, 1914. Ex dial. var. of gawk.

Goolie, -y. 'Inevitable' nickname for men surnamed Ball: Services': since ca. 1920. Ex:—2. goolie, -y, occ. ghoulie (usu. pl.). A testicle: orig. army in India: since late C.19. Ex Hindi gooli, a pellet, e.g. Beecham Sahib's goolis = Beecham's pills; cf. pills, testicles. Hence, drop a goolie = drop a ballock, to make a mistake.—3. 'A stone of suitable size for throwing' (Wilkes): Aus. juvenile: C.20. Gull and gully are terms used in the game of marbles: they may be the source of this sense, or all may derive as sense 2, via Romany; gully however may refer to a dip into which an opponent's marble must be forced.—4. A galah: Aus.: †since ca. 1910. B., 1943.

goolie(-y) chit. A ransom note carried by the members of aircrews flying over hostile or doubtful territory in the Middle East: RAF: since ca. 1920. Ex goolie, 2: a common form of native torture consists in the excision of a man's testicles. See also blood chit. Jackson; Partridge, 1945.

goomp. A tobacco pipe: S. African schoolboys': C.20. (A.M. Brown, letter, 1938.) Ex Dutch, via Afrikaans?

goon. A recruit: Services, esp. in the west of England: since 1940. (H. & P., 1943.) In Flying Training Command, RAF: a pupil: 1941+. Not a dial. word; prob. ex:—2. A gaper; a very stupid fellow: since 1938 or 1939. Perhaps it blends goof and loon; American origin. From Alice the Goon in the Popeye cartoons.—3. Hence, a German prison-camp guard: prisoner-of-war s.: WW2. (W/Cdr. R.P. McDouall, 1945.) Alice the Goon may have been the ultimate source, but 'the goon', a large and stupid character in Elzie Segar's comic strip, Popeye the Sailor, ca. 1935–8, popularised the word, as W. & F., 1960, tells us. Goon was also used, ca. 1938 and esp. in US s., a thug used to terrorise workers (SOD, 1977). Mr R.C. Hope informs me that Alice the Goon first appeared in the comic strip Thimble Theatre in 1919, and, after several American etymologists, suggests a prob. origin in Eng. dial. gooney, a simpleton; and gooney may be akin to M.E. gonen, to gape, from O.E. ganiān, to gape, to yawn. Cf. the S.E. yawn.—4. A person with a peculiar wild, surrealist and zany sense of humour: ex 'The Goon Show', the BBC radio comedy series of the 1950s, starring Spike Milligan, Peter Sellers and Harry Secombe, which exemplified, par excellence, this form of humour. Margery Allingham, The China Governess, 1963: 'Mr Campion ... was very easy to talk to with those long down lines in his pale face, a natural goon, born rather too early [the young woman] suspected.' (P.B.) From this sense come goonery, goonish, goonishness.

goon bag. A respirator case: RAF: WW2. Ex goon, 1.

goon-stick. An officer's swagger cane: Aus. soldiers': WW2. B., 1943.

goon suit. A flak apron: R Can. N: WW2.—2. 'Naval officers' specialised flying suit, designed for protection in the event of ditching in the sea; rather similar to a "wet suit", but baggy and with waterproof neck, wrist and ankle seals: RN: 1950s' (Peppitt): and later, and in RAF usage. By association with 'The Goons', whose show (see goon, 4) was orig. called 'Crazy People'; it was re-titled 'The Goon Show' on 9 July 1951. Therefore goon suit prob. originated either in late 1951 or early 1952. (With thanks to Barry Took's instructive and entertaining Laughter in the Air, 1976.) But see also goonskin.

gooner, give (, or get) the. To dismiss; be dismissed: low: since ca. 1925. (James Curtis, You're in the Racket Too, 1937.)? Ex go on!

goonery; goonish. See goon, 4.

gooney bird. A Douglas DC-3 transport aircraft, the Dakota: Aus., adopted ex US: 1943–5. Ex the blackfotted albattross, which has an exceptional flight-range (B.P.; W.&F.)

goonskin. 'Observer's flying suit and parachute harness made in one piece' (Jackson): RAF: since ca. 1939. Prob. ex goon (2) + skin.—2. Battledress: army: 1940+. (Peter Sanders.)

goop; goopy. A fool, fatuous person; foolish, fatuous: from ca. 1917. (OED Sup.) Prob. a corruption of goof; cf. looby, loopy.

goori. A dog: NZ: late C.19–20. A corruption of Maori kuri.

goose, n. (As a simpleton, S.E.) A tailors' smoothing iron, the handle being shaped like a goose's neck: 1605, Shakespeare: in C.17–18 coll.; in C.19–20, S.E. Whence the C.17–19 proverbial saying, 'A tailor, be he ever so poor, is always sure to have a goose at his fire.' Also hot and heavy like a tailor's gobse, 'applied to a passionate coxcomb', and a tailor's goose roasted, 'a Red-hot smoothing iron, to Close the Seams': both late C.17–18, recorded by B.E.—2. Abbr. Winchester goose, a venereal disease; a harlot: low coll. (—1778); † by 1870.—3. (Theatrical) a hissing: 1805 (SOD), but not gen. before ca. 1850. Hence, get the goose, to be hissed: ca. 1860–1900.—4. Abbr. wayz(e)goose, q.v.: printers': from ca. 1860.—5. A scolding or a reprimand: coll. (—1865); ob. by 1910, † by 1930. Prob. ex the theatrical sense.—6. A woman; hence, the sexual favour: low: from ca. 1870.—7. A shop assistant: Aus. shoplifters' c.: since ca. 1930.—8. Refs. to goose also occur in the following entries: 'bo' to a goose; everything is lovely; find fault with ...; go shoe the goose; Greenwich goose; guinea to a gooseberry; Paddy's goose; sound on the goose; such a reason; when the goose.—9. In to as much purpose as the geese slur upon the ice or as to give a goose hay, uselessly: semi-proverbial coll.: late C.17–19, C.18–early 20. Cf. to no more purpose than to beat your heels against the ground or wind.

goose, v. To condemn by hissing; hiss: theatrical and gen.: since 1840s. In Sinks, 1848; Dickens, 1854, 'He was goosed last night.' Cf. big bird. Hence, 2, to ruin; spoil utterly: coll.:—1859. Cf. cook one's goose.—3. To befool, make a 'goose' of:—1899; ob. by 1920, † by 1925. B. & L.—4. To possess (a woman): low: from ca. 1875.—5. V.i., to go wenching; low: from ca. 1870.—6. V.i., gen. as vbl'n., goosing, 'Thames watermen afloat looking for jobs': nautical: late C.19–20. Bowen.—7. The predominant post-WW2 meaning is 'to jab a finger up a person's anus, or between the legs from the rear, in order to surprise or to annoy': Can., since ca. 1910; adopted, ca. 1944, in Brit. and Aus.—8. To accelerate, as in 'he goosed the gas pedal': Can.: since ca. 1945. (Robin Leech, 1974.) Perhaps ex sense 7.

Goose and Dickie Line, the. The branch railway line from North Walsham to Yarmouth, now discontinued. The train used to carry farm produce and cattle, hence geese and dickies (donkeys) on occasion' (Granville, letter, 1970): mostly East Anglian, and railwaymen's: C.20.

goose and duck. A copulation: rhyming s., on fuck: since ca. 1870.—2. A truck: rhyming s.: C.20.

goose bumps. Can. var of goose pimples. See duck bumps.

goose-cap, goosecap. A dolt; a silly person: late C.16—early G 19: S.E. until C.18, then coll., then, ca. 1800, dial. G. Harvey; B.E.; Grose.

goose fox, or that laid, the golden eggs, kill the. The proverbial forms: C.15–20. The coll. form is kill the goose with the golden eggs: C.19–20.

goose girl. A lesbian: since ca. 1918. Ex the synon. Fr. s. gousse. Recorded by Sir Compton Mackenzie in the 1967 number of his serial autobiography.

goose-gob (rare); goose-gog. A gooseberry: homely coll.: mid-C.19–20.

goose-grease. A woman's vaginal emission: low: from ca. 1875.

goose is in the house, the. A tense-variable expression for the hissing of a play, etc.: ca. 1800–50. Cf. goose, n., 3.

goose-month. The period of a woman's confinement: coll.: late C.18–mid-19. Ex gander-month, q.v.

goose-persuader. A tailor: C.19–20; ob. Ex goose, n., 1.

goose-shearer. A beggar: C.19–20 coll.: ob. Lit., cheater of fools.

goose-turd green. A light-yellow green: coll.: C.17–18. Cotgrave.

goose without gravy. A severe blow that does not draw blood: nautical: ca. 1850–1914. Cf. gooser.

gooseberries. The human testicles: low: mid-C.19–early 20.—2. Also known as fruit machine: 'old freighters sunk end to end off the Normandy beaches to provide artificial shelter for small boats' (Gordon Holman, Stand By to Beach, 1944): RN: 1944–5. If not a code-name, prob. suggested by mulberry, q.v.

gooseberry. A fool: coll. (ob.): ca. 1820–95. Ex gooseberry fool.—2. Hence (?), chaperon, or a save-appearances third person: 1837 (SOD): dial. until ca. 1860, then coll. So to do gooseberry, to act as propriety-third or chaperon: it occurs in Hawley Smart's Play or Pay, 1877; † by 1900. See also play gooseberry.—3. A (too) marvellous tale: journalistic s. (—1870) >, ca. 1880, gen. coll.; ob. by 1900, † by 1920. Occ. giant or gigantic gooseberry. See also gooseberry season.—4. (Often in pl.) A wire-entanglement device for blocking gaps; an unused reel of barbed wire: army coll.: WW1. F. & G.: 'From their prickly resemblance to the fruit'.—5. Short for gooseberry-pudden and gooseberry tart, qq.v.—6. See play gooseberry; play old gooseberry; like old gooseberry. gooseberry-eyed. Having 'dull grey eyes, like boiled gooseberries' (Grose, 3rd ed.): coll.: ca. 1789–1880.

gooseberry-grinder, gen. prec. by Bogey the. The behind: late C.18–mid-19 low. Esp. in ask Bogey the g.-g. (Grose, 1st ed.): see ask and bogey.

gooseberry lay. The stealing of linen hanging on the line: C.19 c. ?from the notion, 'as easy as picking gooseberries'. Cf. snow-dropping.

gooseberry-picker. A 'ghost', q.v.: from ca. 1885; ob. by 1910, † by 1920.—2. A chaperon: ca. 1870–1900. (H., 5th ed.; Cornhill Magazine, Dec. 1884.) Ex children accompanying young people on gooseberry-picking parties. P.B.: but see E.P.'s notes at gooseberry, 1 and 2.

gooseberry-pudden (rarely -pudding). A woman: low rhyming s.:—1857; ob. 'Ducange Anglicus'.—2. Hence, a wife: an 'old woman', q.v.: low: from ca. 1860. Usu. shortened to gooseberry, which, as Franklyn points out, some Cockneys will deny is rhyming s. (it is a poor rhyme): 'Probably the suggestion of sourness is the saving grace'.

gooseberry season. The silly season: journalists': ca. 1870–1900. Occ. (see Illustrated London News, 18 July 1885), giant gooseberry season, or big g.s. Cf. gooseberry, 3.

gooseberry tart. Var. of raspberry tart, heart: rhyming s.: from ca. 1860. Often abbr. to gooseberry. Daily Herald, 22 Feb. 1937.

gooseberry wig. 'A large frizzled wig' (Grose, 3rd ed.): coll.: ca. 1788–1850. Perhaps, as Grose suggests, ex a vague resemblance to a gooseberry bush.

goosegog. See goosgog.

gooser. A knock-out blow; a decisive coup: coll.: from ca.

1850; ob. ?ex cook one's goose via to goose, q.v.—2. No score; a 'goose-egg', US for duck's egg, q.v.: sporting: ca. 1885–1910.—3. The male member: low: from ca. 1871; ob.—4. A student at the Queen's College: Oxford undergraduates': late C.19–20. (Ware.) Cf. Quagger, q.v.—5. A pederast: low Can.: C.20. See goose, v., 7.

goose's. Short for goose's neck, 2, q.v.

goose's gazette. A lying story; a silly-season tale: coll.: ca. 1810–60. Cf. gooseberry, 3.

goose's neck. The male member: low: from ca. 1872. Cf. gooser, 3.—2. A cheque: rhyming s.: app. not before 1950. (Franklyn 2nd.) See sausage, v.—3. A bottle to urinate into: nursing coll.:—WW2: ex 1, and shape. (Mrs C. Raab, 1982.)

goosey, goosy, adj. With a goose-flesh feeling: coll.: mid-C.19–20. Jefferies in Amaryllis at the Fair: OED.

goos(e)y-gander. A gander: coll.: from ca. 1815. Baby language has both goos(e)y-goos(e)y, a goose, and goosey-goosy gander, a gander; the latter occurs, e.g., in the well-known nursery rhyme recorded as early as 1842 by Halliwell in his Nursery Rhymes.—2. A fool: from ca. 1880.

goosgog. A gooseberry: nursery and proletarian:—1887: ex dial. (Baumann.) A var. of goose-gog, q.v., at goose-gob.

goosng. See goose, v., 6.

gooze. See cruize.

goozie. A gooseberry: Aus.: late C.19–20. (B., 1942.) Cf. goosng and goozie.

gopher. Granville's spelling of goffier, 1, q.v., mineral water.

gor. God: low coll., esp. Cockneys': C.19–20. Also Gaw. Esp. in gorblim(e)y.

gor' damn. Jam: rhyming s.: late C.19—earlier 20. B. & P.; Franklyn 2nd, at Gah-damn.

Gorblimeries, the Seven Dials, London: policemen's: —1909; ob. (Ware.) Ex:

gorblim(e)y; gawlim(e)y! A corruption of God blind me!: orig. and mainly Cockneys': 1870, says Ware for the latter form; 1890, for the former.—2. Hence, 'an unwired, floppy, field-service cap worn by a certain type of subaltern in defiance of the Dress Regulations' (F. & G.): army: 1915–18.—3. Hence, 'Colloquial for what was considered loud dress; until the late 1950s applied to men's wide cap, with big projecting peak and vivid, often check, pattern' (L.A., 1967); the term received a boost in the late 1950s from a popular song sung by Lonnie Donnegan, noted skiffle-musician, 'My old man's a dustman... he wears gorblimey trousers...' (P.B.).—4. See from the sublime...

gorblimey! Here come(s) the ~. A Cockney soldiers' derisive c.p. addressed to, or within the hearing of, another battalion or a section thereof: from late 1890s. B. & P.

gorbling. Officers' version of gorblimey, 2, q.v.: army: WW1.

gordelpus. Var. spelling of gawdelpus.

Gordon and Gotch. A watch: rhyming s.: C.20. 'An old-established firm of book exporters' (Franklyn, Rhyming).

Gordon Bennett! A mild expletive: coll.: C.20. It is sufficient-ly 'explosive' to be a useful euph. for, e.g., Gawd a'mighty! James Gordon Bennett (1795–1892) founded and edited the New York Herald; his son of the same name (1841–1918) succeeded him, and was responsible for, among other things, sending Stanley to Africa in search of Livingstone.

Gordon Thailanders. See PRISONER-OF-WAR SLANG, §15, in Appendix.

Gore. An occ. spelling (chiefly dial.) of Gor. EDD.

goree. Money; esp. gold money or gold: c.: late C.17–mid-19. (B.E.) Ex Fort Goree on the Gold Coast. Cf. S.E. guinea and old Mr Gory, q.v.

gorge. A heavy meal: from ca. 1820: coll. until C.20, when S.E. (Bee.) Ex the S.E. v.—2. Whence, a glutton: coll.:—1923 (Manchon).—3. A manager: theatrical: ca. 1873–1905. Ex gorger, 1.

gorgeous as a loose adj. expressing approbation is coll.: 1883 (SOD).

gorgeous wrecks. Members of the Volunteer Defence

Corps: 1915–18. (F.&G.) Ex the G.R. of their brassards, + their advancing years. G.R. stood for 'Government Recognition' (F.W. Thomas); an early interpretation was George's wrecks; occ., same period, Government rejects, old gents, and Grandfathers' Regiment. Cf. the Look, Duck and Vanish of the WW2 equivalent.

gorger. A theatrical manager: theatrical:—1864 (H., 3rd ed.). Occ. cully-gorger.—2. An employer, a principal:—1864. Prob. ex:—3. A gentleman, a well-dressed man: low: from ca. 1810: † by 1910. (Lex. Bal.) Ex Romany gaujer, gaujo, gorgio (often in C.20 tramps' c.), anyone not a gipsy; or, just possibly, ex gorgeous, as H., 1859, suggests.—4. ?Hence, any man: recorded in 'Ducange Anglicus', 1857, and as in use among market-traders, late C.19–20. M.T.—5. A voracious eater: from ca. 1790. App. coll., actually S.E., ex the S.E. v., it gives rise to rotten gorger, a lad that hangs about Covent Garden market to eat discarded fruit: Londoners': ca. 1870–1900. H., 5th ed.—6. A large enamel jug: driftermen's: C.20. (D. Butcher, Driftermen, 1979, glossary.) Cf. gotch, q.v. at gotch-gutted.

gorgery. A 'gorge'; a (school-)feast: coll.: 1906 (Desmond Coke, The Bending of a Twig). Cf. S.E. gorger, a glutton.

gorgie. One who is not a gipsy; grafters': late C.19–20. (Cheapjack, 1934.) See gorger, 3.

gorgio. See gorger, 3.

gorgonzola, n. The Africa Star: army: 1943+. The ribbon of this campaign star is sand-coloured, with thin red, yellow and blue streaks.

gorgonzola, adj. (Very) good: Aus.: since ca. 1920. (B., 1942.) A very rich cheese.

Gorgonzola Hall. (Stock Exchange) 'formerly the New Hall: now [from ca. 1885] the corporation generally' (F. & H.). Ex the colour of the marble. Ob.

gorm (or G.); gawm. God damn: low: mid-C.19–20. Esp. in gormed, q.v.—2. Tobacco for chewing: tramps' c.:—1932 (F. Jennings, Tramping with Tramps).

gorm, v. To gormandise: adopted, ex US, ca. 1890; † by ca. 1935.—2. To stare, gape, look long (and greedily) at, e.g., second-hand books: since ca. 1910. (Anthony Berkeley, The Piccadilly Murder, 1929.) Ex dial, gaum, to stare idly, vacantly or stupidly.

gormagon. ('Meaningless: pseudo-Chinese' (OED): but it may be a blend of gorgon + dragon.) A hypothetical monster of ca. 1750–1830: coll. Grose, 1785, 'a monster with six eyes, three mouths, four arms, eight legs, five on one side and three on the other, three arses, two torses [penises], and a * [pudendum muliebrem] upon its back; a man on horseback, with a woman [riding 'side-saddle'] behind him.' Relevant is the Gormagons, properly Gormogons, an English secret society—a lay offshoot from the Masons—of ca. 1725–50: evidently there was some ridiculous rite (cf. ride the goat), for, in 1791, 'G. Gambado' in his Horsemanship, speaks of 'the art of riding before a lady on a double horse, vulgarly termed à la gormagon'.

gormalised (or -ized). Stupid: market-traders': since ca. 1920. (M.T.) Cf. gormless.

gorman. A cormorant: nautical coll.: C.19–20. (Bowen.) Cf. Scots and Northern gormau.

gormed, be. Be 'God-damned' if...: low coll. oath: 1849 (Dickens). God corrupted after dial. gaumed. Cf. gommed.

gormless. Stupid; slow-witted and lacking in common sense: adopted, ca. 1935, ex dial., the predominant dial. form gaumless being adapted. Yet, in 1966, Cassius Clay was proclaiming himself to be precisely that.

gormy-ruddles. The intestines: low: C.19. Ex dial. gormy-ruttles, 'strangles', i.e. horses' quinsies.

gorsoon. Occ. var. spelling of gossoon, q.v.

gory, n. Money. See gore and old Mr Gory.—2. A chap, a fellow: c.: ca. 1810–40. (Vaux.) Origin? Cf. cove, gill, gloak, qq.v.

gos, gosse. Gossip, as term of address: coll.: ca. 1540–1660. Abbr. gossip. OED.

Goschens. 2¾% Government Stock: ca. 1888–1905: Stock Exchange coll. Created by Mr Goschen in 1888. Man of the World, 29 June 1889, 'The nickname Goschens is going out of fashion.'

gosh is a corruption of God (cf. Golly): 1757; though in 1553 it occurs thus in the anon. Respublica: 'Each man snatch for himself, by gosse' (W.).

gosh, v. To spit: Winchester Coll.: late C.19–20. (Wrench.) Cf. glope, and golly.

gosher. A heavy blow or punch: Cockney: ca. 1890–1914. A. Neil Lyons, Hookey, 1902, 'On his snitch I gave him such a gosher.' Echoic.

gosoon, gosoun. See gossoon.

gospel, do. To go to church: low coll.: from ca. 1860: ob.

gospel (or gorspel, -il)-cove. A clergyman: Aus.:—1916 (C.J. Dennis.) gospel-gab. Insincere talk about religion: low coll.:—1892. Hume Nisbet, 'With a little gospel-gab and howling penitence, [I] got the church people interested.'

gospel-grinder, -postillion, -shark or -sharp, are more gen. in US than in England: coll.: from ca. 1855. Besant & Rice speak of 'a Connecticut gospel-grinder', Mark Twain of a 'gospel-sharp' in Innocents at Home. But in US they merely = a parson; in England they = a city missionary or a tract-distributor (H., 1st ed.) or a Sunday-School teacher ('Ducange Anglicus', 1857).

gospel of gloom, the. Gloomy house-decoration and dresses: Society: ca. 1880–1900. (Ware.) Satirising the Aesthetes.

Gospel of St James, the. Snobbery: Society: 1847; ob. (Ware.) Ex Thackeray's Jeames de la Pluche in The Yellowplush Papers.

gospel of the tub, the. The mania for cold baths: Society coll.: ca. 1845–1910. Ware.

gospel-postillion or -shark. See gospel-grinder.

gospel-shop. A church or chapel; gen. Methodist: coll.: from ca. 1780: after 1860, chiefly nautical. (Gospel-mill is a US var.) J. Lackington, 'Mr Wesley's gospel-shops', 1791.

gospeller. An Evangelist preacher: pej. coll.: from ca. 1880. Ex the † sense, one of the four evangelists, and the rare one, a missionary. Cf. hot gospeller, q.v.

goss. A hat; at first a 'four-and-nine': coll.: 1848 (OED). Ex gossamer hat, a light felt fashionable in the late 1830s.—2. A Cockney term, dating from ca. 1870 (? earlier) and perhaps influenced by s. goss, a hat (worn on one's top); perhaps, too, influenced by Kentish dial. goss, a rocking (esp. a sea-loach or whistle-fish: small and flat); thus in Pugh, 'All the gels stuck the winkles' gooses, as we call 'em (you know, them hard, round, brown, scaly things on top), they all stuck 'em on their chins for beauty-spots.'—3. A naval peaked cap, peculiar to artificer apprentices: RN: since ca. 1940. (Peppitt.)

gossage. A barrage balloon: RAF: 1940+. New Statesman, 30 Aug. 1941; Jackson, 1943, 'Named after Air Marshal Sir Leslie Gossage, KCB, CVO, MC, Air Officer Commanding Balloon Command'; Partridge, 1945, 'With a pun on sauvage' (ex the shape).

gossamer. A hat (—1859); esp. and orig. a very light one: ca. 1837–1900. Both Dickens and James Grant, in the late 1830s, mention 'ventilation' gossamers; Andrew Lang, in 1884, 'the gay gossamer of July'. Cf. goss, q.v.

gosse. See gos and gosh.

gossip. See up to the cackle... gossip pint-pot. A hard drinker: C.16–early 17: coll. (Hollyband: OED.) Cf. 'Peace, good pint-pot' in Shakespeare, I Henry IV, II, 438.

gossoon; earliest as gosoun; occ., C.19–20, gosoon, gorsoon (OED). A boy: Anglo-Irish: 1684: S.E. until ca. 1850, then increasingly coll. Ex Fr. garçon via M.E. garsoun.—2. Hence, 'a silly awkward lout'; nautical:—1867; ob. Smyth.

Gossy. Gosport: naval: late C.19–20. (W.N. Glascock, Sketch-Book, II, 1826: Moe.)

got, Prec. by has, have or had: I, you, we or they possess; he has, etc.: coll., got being pleonastic (as also in next sense):

1607, Shakespeare (SOD). The omission of has, etc., before got, e.g. 'Got any money with you?', is also coll.; it perhaps originated in US, but in C.20 is very widespread in Brit. usage also. For gen. remarks, see get, v.—2. Am, etc., bound (to...): low coll. > gen.: since mid-C.19. See quot'n at hander (1868). This usage too was orig. prec. always by have or had, but in C.20 low coll. this may be omitted: e.g., John Brophy, Waterfront, 1934, 'They got to do it, or else they'd never make money' (P.B.: in later C.20, the or might also be omitted). Got, in this sense, is invariably followed by to; see, e.g., the quot'n at getting any?—3. See what has got...? and where has it got to?

got a clock (, he's). (He is) carrying a bag: a London c.p. of 1883–4. Ex dynamitards' activities.

got a collar on. Conceited; vain; arrogant: lower classes': —1909; ob. Ware.

got a face on (her, him). Ugly: proletarian:—1909 (Ware). Cf. face-ache.

got a feather in your trousers? Addressed to a boy giggling suddenly, and, it seems, inexplicably: C.20.

got a skinful. To be drunk. See skinful.

got all (or more than) he can carry. Extremely drunk: coll.: C.20.

got any hard? A c.p. addressed in Southampton bars to a stranger and implying that he may have been to sea and that (faint hope!) he may have some hard tobacco to spare: from ca. 1920. (Something of a joke.)

got 'em bad, has or have. To be in earnest; seriously affected (by illness, delirium tremens, love): low coll.: from ca. 1870. Occ., in C.20, bad is omitted. Cf. get them.

got 'em on (occ. all on), have. To be very fashionably dressed, often with the implication of over-dressing: low coll.: 1880 (Punch, 28 Aug.); broadside ballads of the 80s. Ob. See also got-up... and rigged-out.—2. To have the advantage over (a person): C.20.

got him! (, I've). Now I know or have guessed (it): coll.: —1887 (Baumann.)

got his (rarely, it), he's. He's been wounded, esp. fatally. See get his.

got me (, Steve?); get me (, Steve?) Do you understand?: adopted, ex US, ca. 1912. An early Brit. occurrence is in W.L. George, The Making of an Englishman, 1914.

got on. In to have got (something) on (somebody), to have in evidence against that person: coll.: late C.19–20. G.D.H. & M. Cole, Superintendent Wilson's Holiday, 1928, 'That's the gist of what we've got on [the arrested man], and it's my belief he'll find it a hard job to answer.'

got to swim under water to dodge it! See getting any?

got-up, n. An upstart: coll.: ca. 1880–1915. (OED.) For form, cf. had-up.

got-up, dressed (ppl adj.): see get up, v., 1.—2. Esp. well-dressed, in the low coll. variations: got-up regardless (abbr. regardless of expense), —to kill, —to the knocker, —to the nines: all from ca. 1880: the first and the third are ob. See also dog's dinner... , a further, C.20, var.

got you! I understand—and will comply: since ca. 1940. Sometimes rendered as gotcher. The logical answer to get me?, q.v.

got your eye/ful? Have you had a good look?: raffish, sarcastic or indignant: since early C.20. See eye/ful, 3.

got your ladder. See PRISONER-OF-WAR SLANG, §14, in Appendix.

gotch-gutted. Pot-bellied: coll. when not, as gen., dial: late C.18–19. (Grose, 1st ed.) Ex gotch, a pitcher or a (large) round jug.

gotcha. 'Snatch raid in which air-crew are taken for unannounced survival training' (Strong & Hart-Davis, Fighter Pilot, 1981); RAF: later C.20. Ex got you. The word became notorious as the newspaper Sun's gloating headline when the Argentine cruiser Admiral Belgrano was torpedoed and sunk with the loss of at least 368 lives on 2 May 1982, during the Falkland Islands campaign.

Goth. 'A fool, an idiot' (Sinks, 1848): ca. 1825–70. [Goth, a barbarian, is S.E.]

Gotham. Newcastle: North Country s. (—1900) rather than dial. Ex dial. gotham, foolish, ignorant. EDD.

Gothic. Uncouth; ill-bred: Society: ca. 1780–1810. Arthur Murphy, The Way to Keep Him, 1794, at I, i: 'LOVE[MORE]: It would be unpollite in me to obstruct your schemes of pleasure. Would it not, Sir Brilliant?—SIR BRIL.: Oh: Gothic to the last degree.—LOVE.: Very true; vulgar and mechanic!' Gothicky. Gothic-like: coll.: 1893 (Kate Wiggin in Cathedral Courtship: OED).

Gott-strafters. See strafe, v., 1.

Gotter-dam-merung. A grotesque form of swearing: Society: 1862–3. (Ware.) Ex the performance of Wagner's The Ring in London in 1862.

Gottfordommer (pl in-s). A Dutchman. See PRISONER-OF-WAR SLANG, §9, in Appendix. (Also with one t.)

gouge; gouger. To seek (for opal); an opal miner or seeker: Aus. coll.: late C.19–20. (Archer Russell, Gone Nomad, 1936.) Ex manner of extraction.

goujeer. Prob. a 'made' word: see goodyear.

goulash. 'Savoury stew (also solid steamed pudding)' (Home Office): prisoners': 1970s.

gourd. (Rare in singular.) A hollowed-out false die: low, or c., > j.: ca. 1540–1660. (Ascham in Toxophilus, Shakespeare in Merry Wives.) ?ex the fruit influenced by Old Fr. gourd, a swindle.

Gourock ham. A salted herring: mostly Scot.: ca. 1830–1900. Gourock was, before 1870, a well-known Clyde fishing village. Cf. Glasgow magistrate, q.v.

gout = venereal disease: e.g. in Covent Garden, or Spanish, gout: late C.17–18.

gov. See guv.

Government bad bargain. A pensioner drawing his money for an inordinately long time: C.20. Cf. bad gargain.

government house. The house of the owner or manager of an estate: a Dominions' joc. coll.: from ca. 1880; ob. Ex Government House. E.g., in Ernestine Hill, The Territory, 1951, it is applied to the homestead of a head station in the N. Territory, Aus.

Government man. A convict: Australian coll.: ca. 1825–85. Applied esp. to assigned servants: see J. West, History of Tasmania, 1852, at ii, 127 (Morris).

Government rejects. See gorgeous wrecks.

Government securities. Handcuffs; fetters: mid-C.19—early 20.

Government signpost. The gallows: mid-C.19. H., 1860.

Government stroke. A slow lazy stroke, hence a lazy manner of working: Aus.: 1856. (Trollope, 1873.) Ex the anti-sweat motions of convicts: seen later in those of Government labourers, e.g. on the railway lines. Morris.

governor. A father: 1837: s. >, ca. 1895, coll. Dickens in Pickwick; Answers, 20 Apr. 1889, 'To call your father "The Governor" is, of course, slang, and is as bad as referring to him as "The Boss" [!], "The Old Man", or "The Relieving Officer".' (The last is never used as a term of address, old man practically never.) Occ. abbr. (gov. or guv), q.v. Ex the third sense, whereas the second follows from the first.—2. A term of address to a strange man: s. > low coll.: from ca. 1855. H., 1860.—3. A superior; an employer: coll. (occ. in address): 1802 (SOD), thus the earliest sense.—4. An acknowledged expert: low coll.: late 1970s. Red Daniells, in Jnl Brit. Photography, 4 Jan. 1980, 'Artistic dirty pictures... Time was, you used to be the governor at tastful nudity without whiskers.' gov'nor. see guvner.

govvy, adj. Government(-run or -sponsored), as in an article about young people in N.E. England: 'half of them are unemployed, while the other half are best described as having moved in and out of "shit" jobs and "govvy" schemes. (Their words.)' (New Society, 2 June 1983, p. 332).

govvy. A governess; occ. as adj.: coll.: C.20. An affectionate diminutive. OED Sup.

gowch. See gauch.

gowk. One ignorant of the various dodges: prison c. of C.19. Ex Scottish for a fool, which occurs in, e.g., hunt the gowk, to go on a (esp. an April) fool's errand: Scot. coll.: C.18–20.

gowler. A dog, esp. one given to howling and growling: North-Country c.:—1864 (H., 3rd ed.). Prob. growler perverted or ex dial. gowl, to howl.

gown, coll. for the undergraduates of Oxford or Cambridge, is, like gownsmen (and even its abbr. gown), S.E.—2. Coarse brown paper: Winchester College: C.19, but † by 1890. ?suggested by the rhyme and the coarseness of gown-material.

gowners. Gownboys' shoes: Charterhouse: ca. 1830–75. (A.H. Tod, Charterhouse, 1900.) By telescoping.

goy; goya. Resp., a Gentile man, woman: Jewish coll.: mid-C.19–20. This goes back beyond Yiddish to the Hebrew goy, meaning "nation". This "goy" is exactly analogous to "gentile", from gens' (Leonard Goldstein, 1967).

gozz. 'A good long gossip on the telephone' (Simon Hoggart, New Society, 10 Mar. 1983, p.384): middle-class young women's: early 1980s.

gozzie. A gooseberry: Aus.: late C.19–20. (B.P.) Cf. goosgog.

gra. See COLSTON'S, in Appendix.

grab, n. A professional resurrectionist: medical s. (1823) > coll.: almost †. S. Warren's Diary of a Late Physician, 1830.—2. A policeman: 1849: coll.: † by 1900. Albert Smith (OED).

grab, v. To steal; to arrest: 1812, Vaux, therefore from a few years earlier: resp. low coll. and c. >, ca. 1870, s. >, ca. 1880, low coll.: so I believe, despite the OED. Dickens in Oliver Twist, 'Do you want to be grabbed, stupid?'—3. See how does that grab you?, does that appeal to you?—4. In grab for altitude, in aviation, to strive for height. See altitude...

grab (oneself) a ball. See JAZZ TERMS, in Appendix.

grab-all. A greedy or an avaricious person: coll. from ca. 1870.—2. A bag wherein to carry odds and ends: coll.: from ca. 1890.

grab-bag. A lucky-bag: late C.19—early 20. Ex US. Ware. grab-coup. The snatching, by a losing gambler, of all the available money and then fighting a way out: c. of ca. 1820–80. (Bee.) The var. -game arose, prob. in US, ca. 1850; -racket is certainly US (—1892), as in Stevenson & Osbourne's The Wrecker. Cf.:-

grab-gains. The snatching of a purse and then running away: c. of ca. 1840–1900. Cf. the C.20 smash-and-grab (raid).

grab hooks. Fingers: RN, lowerdeck: since ca. 1910. (Granville.) Cf. grabbling irons.

grab leather. 'A cowboy who takes hold of the saddle horn while riding a bucking horse is said to grab leather; this disqualifies him if he is in competition' (Leechman): Can., ?ex US: since ca. 1925.

grab on, v.i. To 'hold on', manage to live: low: mid-C.19—early 20. Mayhew.

grabben gullen pie. A scooped-out pumpkin stuffed with possum meat and then baked as an outback delicacy: Aus.: since ca. 1910. (B., 1943.) The two mysterious words are Aboriginal, perhaps folk-etymologised with grab'em and gullet.

grabber. The hand, but gen. in pl: from ca. 1810 (ob.): c. >, by 1860, low. Cf. pickers and stealers.—2. A garotter: c.: —1909 (Ware).—3. Occ. a pickpocket: c.:—1923 (Manchon).—4. A conductor: Can. railroadmen's:—1931.

Grabbies, the. See grabby.

grabble, to seize, also to handle roughly or with rude intimacy, seems, in late C.18—mid-19, to have been 'felt' to be coll.: the OED, however, considers it S.E. Cf.:

grabbling irons. A mid-C.19 var. of grappling irons: fingers.—2. Knife, fork and spoon: army: C. 20. (P-G-R.) P.B.: by ca. 1950, more commonly eating irons.

grabby, n. An infantryman: mostly cavalrymen's contemporary, and hence RN: ca. 1848–1912. (F. & G., 'From before the Crimean War'; SOD: 1868; I did not hear it in WW1 [E.P. was an infantryman himself, a private in the AIF, 1915–18.

P.B.] Whyte-Melville; Bowen, 'Borrowed from the Hindustani'. Perhaps rather ex dial. grabby, greedy, inclined to cheat. P.B.: Maj-Gen. B.P. Hughes, in his introduction to the 1979 ed. of N.W. Bancroft, From Recruit to Staff Sergeant, writes, '[In the 1840s] the three "divisions" [of a troop of Bengal Horse Artillery] each of two guns had the slang titles of "the picked men", "the tinpots", and "the grabbies". The first referred to the Right, or senior division, the second to that with the howitzers, while the origin of the third [armed with two light 6-pounder guns] is not now known.'

Grable-bodied seaman. 'Wren member of a trot boat's [q.v.] crew. After Betty Grable, the curvaceous film star of the 1930s. The term was current during [WW2] when Wrens ran picket and despatch boats' (Granville). A pun on able-bodied seaman, the RN rank AB.

grabs. See up for grabs, available.

grace before meat. A kiss: domestic: late C.19–20. A preliminary.

grace card. The six of hearts: Anglo-Irish: C.18–20; ob. The proposed etym.—see F. & H., or H.—is too 'anecdotal' for inclusion here.

grace o' God. 'The copy of a writ issued upon a bill of exchange': commercial:—1909 (Ware).

graceful degradation. 'An anglicised form of the Americanism, "fail soft": electronics industry: 1970s' (Peppitt).

Gracemans. Gracechurch Street Market: C.17–18 c. (Rowlands, 1610.) See -MANS, in Appendix.

Gracie Fields. 'Rochdale to Manchester parcels train' (Railway, 2nd): railwaymen's: since ca. 1930; ob. Miss Fields (1898–1979), the famous singer and variety-actress, was born at Rochdale.

gracing; occ. greycing. A telescoping of greyhound racing: sporting: 1927. OED Sup.

gracious, as H. shows in his Introduction, was, in mid-Victorian ecclesiastical s., made to =pleasant or 'nice' or excellent.

gracious! (C.18–20), gracious me! (C.19–20), goodness gracious! and gracious alive! (mid-C.19–20); good gracious (me)! (C.18–20) are euph. > coll. Pugh lists a late C.19, mostly Cockneys', var. 'pon my gracious!'

grackle. A var., perhaps the orig., of grockle, q.v.; does not extend to derivative phrases.

grad. A graduate: rare, except at University of Durham: late C.19–20. (Marples, 2.) After undergrad.—2. 'Among Cambridge landladies, ca. 1925, it was used (mostly in the plural) to denote undergraduates' (H.R. Spencer).

grade. See make the grade, to be able to do a thing.

graduate, n. An artful fellow: coll.: from ca. 1875; ob.—2. A spinster skilled in sexual practice: low coll.: from ca. 1885.—3. A horse that has proved itself good: the turf: from ca. 1870.—All ex the ob. S.E. sense, a proficient in an art or a craft.

graduate, v.i. Obtain a sound practical knowledge of life, love, society, a livelihood, etc.: coll.: from ca. 1875; ob.

gradus. In card-sharping, the making of a card to project beyond the rest: c. of ca. 1820–1910. Also known as the step. Cf.:

gradus ad Parnassum. (Lit., step to Parnassus; properly, a dictionary of prosody.) A treadmill: literary s.: ca. 1790–1870. Ex the ascent of Parnassus and of the mill.

graft, n. Work, labour: coll: from ca. 1870. Esp. in hard graft, (hard) work: in C.20, mostly in the Army and in Aus. and NZ. Hard grafting occurs in the Graphic, 6 July 1878. Cf. slog, n.—2. Hence, any kind of work, esp. if illicit: low coll.: —1874 (H., 5th ed.). Esp. in what graft are you at?, what is your 'line',—your 'lay'? Cf. the US (orig. s.) sense, illicit profit or commission (mainly in politics), which, adopted into S.E. ca. 1900, prob. derives ex the Eng. term, as, ultimately, does its corresponding v.—3. Hence, the line one takes in a crime; one's role therein: c.: C.20. Gilt Kid.—4. 'Food and lodging. Thus good graft—comfortable living' (H.&P.): Services: since 1939. Ironically ex sense 1.

graft, v. To cuckold, 'plant horns' on: low coll.: late C.17–18. B.E.—2. To work; esp. to work hard: coll., mostly Aus. and NZ: from ca. 1870. Earlier (ca. 1855–80), to go to work: English only (H., 1st ed.). Esp. in where are you grafting?: Prob. ex + grave, to dig, perhaps influenced by the gardening graft and even by craft (as in arts and crafts).—3. To be actively a criminal: c.: from ca. 1910. Edgar Wallace, Room 13.—4. To be or work as a grafter (see grafter, 4): grafters' coll.: C.20. Cheapjack, 1934.—5. As a grafter (see grafter, 4) to sell (something): fairgrounds': C.20. 'He had grafted the tubed stickem for years' (W. Buchanan-Taylor, Shake It Again, 1943). grafter. 'One who toils hard or willingly' (C.J. Dennis): from late 1890s: mostly Aus. Ex graft, v., 2.—2. A swindler: coll., orig. (—1900) US, partly anglicised ca. 1910. Cf. graft, n., 2.—3. One who is actively a criminal: c.: from ca. 1912. Ex graft, v., 3.—4. 'One who works a line in a fair or market: as fortune-teller, quack doctor, mock-auctioneer, etc.': late C.19–20. (Cheapjack, 1934.) Also, a man skilled in extracting money from a difficult 'audience' at a mock or rigged auction: mock-auction world: since ca. 1945. (Sunday Chronicle, 28 June 1953.) At these auctions, the 'trick' is to sell inferior goods at top prices: cf. top man. (Senses 3 and 4 follow naturally from sense 1.) See also GRAFTERS', in Appendix.—5. Among market traders, a market trader: C.20, if not 10–20 years earlier. (M.T.) Often called, in full, market-grafter.—6. 'A man who looks for opportunities for other thieves' (Piers Paul Read, The Train Robbers, 1978): c.

gram. As the Gram, the local grammar school: schoolboys': late C.19—earlier 20. (Bruce Hamilton, Pro, 1946.) Cf. the Tech, the Poly.—2. A gramophone: C.20.—3. A gramophone record: since ca. 1930; ob. by ca. 1950 at latest, supplanted by disc.—4. A radiogram: since ca. 1955. (Petch.)—5. As a suffix, when used loosely, it has a coll. hue, as in pistolgram, an instantaneous photograph: ob.

gram-fed. 'Getting, or being given, the best of everything': Anglo-Indian: 1880 (OED): s. >, by 1910, coll. Ex gram, chick-pea.

grammar school; grammarian. See TAVERN TERMS, §§3 and 3d, in Appendix.

grammargogs. Grammar school boys: other secondary school boys': mid-C.20. Ted Walker, High Path, 1982.

gramo studio. A gramophone studio: filmiland: since ca. 1910. Cameron McCabe, The Face, 1937.

gramophone. A telephone: Can. railroadmen's:—1931.

gramophone record. A canteen bloater: RN: late C.19–20. (Bowen.) Because out of a tin. P.B.: or ex thickness?

gramp, n. Grandfather: hypocoristic, perhaps mostly Southern English: mid-C.19–20. I.e., 'grandpapa' slurred. Sometimes as gramps, or grampa.

gramp, v. To blow like a grampus: rare: from ca. 1925. (Collinson.) By back-formation.

grampus. A fat man; esp. one who puffs freely: from ca. 1836: coll. until ca. 1895, then S.E. Dickens.—2. A greedy, stupid person: Roxburghshire s.: C.19–20; ob. EDD.—3. See blow the grampus.

gran. A grandmother; esp. in address: dial. and nursery coll.: late C.19–20. Cf. granny.

granam. A late C.16 form of grannam, 2.

grand, n. Abbr. grand piano: 1840: coll. till C.20, then S.E. Morning Advertiser, 28 Mar. 1891.—2. 1,000 feet: RAF: since 1940. (Jackson.) Ex US c., where it = $1,000.—3. Hence, also adopted ex US, £1,000: since ca. 1940. (Alan Hoby in the People, 7 Apr. 1946.) Hence to do a grand, to lose £1,000: sporting: later C.20. David Lipsey in New Society, 22 Nov. 1979.—4. But as do the grand, to put on airs: coll.: ca. 1885–1935. Baumann.

grand, adj. A gen. superlative of admiration: coll.: from ca. 1815. In late C.19—early 20, mainly US, opp. fierce.—2. Adv., grandly: (low) coll. verging, in C.20, on sol.: mid-C.18–20. OED.

grand serientry. See TAVERN TERMS, §9, in Appendix.

grand slam. Complete or spectacular success: coll.: from ca. 1910. Ex the game of bridge.—2. See slam (n.).

grand strut. The Broad Walk, Hyde Park: ca. 1820–80. Moncrieff, 1823, 'We'll... promenade it down the grand strut.' Also, ca. 1840–80, either Rotten Row or Bond Street. Sinks, 1848.

Grand Trunks. Grand Trunk Railway (of Canada) shares: Stock Exchange coll.: ca. 1885–1900. Baumann.

Grand (or Ground) Wallop, the. 'King of all the gremlins—their director of operations' (H. & P.): RAF: 1940+. See GREMLIN, in Appendix.

grandad, grand-dad. A coll. childish and/or affectionate var. of grandfather: 1819, Byron. Cf. granny, granty, grandma, and: grandada, grand-dada; gran(d)-daddy. Grandfather: familiar coll.: resp. late C.17–20 (ob.) and mid-C.18–20. In later C.20 the phrase grand-daddy of them all is sometimes applied to one, e.g. a jazz-musician, pre-eminent and long in his field—as being, of course, greater than the daddy of them all, q.v.

grandfather. A grandfather clock: watchmakers' and second-hand dealers': late C.19–20.

Grandfathers' Regiment. See gorgeous wrecks. Cf. Dad's Army.

grandma. An affectionate abbr. (C.19–20) of grandamma (1763), itself an affectionate form of grandmother: coll.

[grandmaternal, like grandpaternal, has been jocularised to the verge of coll.]

grandmother. (Gen. pl.) Any one of the big howitzers operated in France by the Royal Marine Artillery in WW1: RN, hence army: 1915+. (Bowen.) Also granny or, more gen., Granny. F. & G.—2. A grandmother clock (one slightly smaller than a 'grandfather'): watchmakers' and second-hand dealers' s.: C.20.—3. In see (one's) grandmother, to have a nightmare: coll.: mid-C.19—early 20.—4. In shoot (one's) grandmother, q.v., to be mistaken.—5. In this beats my grandmother! That is astonishing!: coll.: ca. 1880–1920.—6. So's your grandmother! and all my eye and my grandmother. See the latter.—7. See Teach (one's) grandmother to suck eggs.—8. In have (one's) grandmother (or little friend or auntie) with (one), to be in one's menstrual period: low coll.: from ca. 1830. This process has attracted much cheap wit.

grandmother's review, my. The British Review: ca. 1820–60. Byron's nickname.

grandpa. Abbr. (C.19–20) of grandpapa, itself coll. and affectionate—from 1753—for grandfather. (OED.) Cf. grandma.

grandstand, v. Esp. as vbl n. grandstanding, playing to the crowd: Aus.: adopted ex US ca. 1944. (B.P.) granite boulder. (One's) shoulder: rhyming s.: since ca. 1870.

Granite Jug, the. Dartmoor Prison: since ca. 1930 (Reynolds News, 16 Aug. 1953). With a pun on jug, n., 1.

granna. A loose var. of next, 2. Recorded (at date 1690) among the Sackville papers: see the Hon. V. Sackville-West, Knole and the Sackvilles, 1922.

gran(n)am, occ. gran(n)um. A coll. form of grandam = grandmother: late C.16—early 19. Shakespeare; Cibber in his Rival Fools, 1709, 'Go, fools! teach your grannams: you are always, full of your advice when there's no occasion for't'.—2. Corn: c.: ca. 1560–1820. (Harman, B.E., Grose.) Ex L. (cf. pannam) influenced by granary.

grannam-gold. 'Old Hoarded Coin' (B.E.); 'hoarded money', Grose (1st ed.) who prefers the preferable grannam's (or -um's) gold; the S.E. form is grandam-gold. Coll.: late C.17–18. I.e., supposed to have been inherited from the grandmaternal hoard.

Grannies, the. Army nickname for the Grenadier Guards: C.18–19. (Carew.) See also Sandbags.

Granny. 'Inevitable' nickname of men surnamed Hudson (F. & G.), also Henderson: Services': late C.19—earlier 20.—2. Sydney Morning Herald: Aus.: C.20. (B., 1942.) Long established, very respectable; also known as The Old Girl.—3. A large howitzer. See grandmother, 1.—4. A Granny Smith apple: mainly Aus.: since ca. 1920. 'Australia's most popular apple' (B.P.).

granny, n.; occ. grannie, grannee (C.17), grany (C.18), grannie, Scot.: OED. Grandmother: by that softening and abbr. (via grannam) which is typical of affection. Coll.: 1663 (SOD). 'An old Woman, also a Grandmother' (B.E.)—2. 'Conceit of superior knowledge': low:—1851: ob. (Mayhew.)? ex teach one's grandmother to suck eggs.—3. A badly tied knot apt to jam: nautical: ca. 1860. Abbr. granny's knot.—4. Nonsense, rubbish: Aus.: ca. 1860–1914. 'Tom Collins', Such Is Life, 1903.—5. A pretext; a 'blind' or 'front': market-traders': late C.19–20. (M.T.) Cf. v., 3, and:—6. 'A legitimate business used as a cover for nefarious activities, particularly that of fence' (Tempest): c. C.20.—7. See grandmother; shoot (one's) granny; teach (one's) granny; shoot (one's) grandmother; teach (one's) grandmother ... granny, v. To know, recognise; swindle: c.:—1851 (Mayhew). Cf. granny, n., 2. Ex:—2. To understand (v.t.): c.: ca. 1845 in 'No. 747', p. 409.—3. To disguise oneself: c.:—1923 (Manchon). Prob. ex sense 1.

granny! C.20 var. of all my eye and my grandmother!, q.v. (Manchon, 1923.) Cf. granny, n., 4.

granny's earholes. Dried apricots: Cumbrian children's: 1940s. (Edwin Haines, Sedbergh.)

Grant Road. 44 in the game of Tombola: one stage further on from rhyming s., 'all the fours' = whores; Grant Road was the red-light district of Bombay: army, esp. in India: earlier C.20; ob. by late 1950s. (P.B.)

granted! A (genteel-low) coll. reply to an apology: from ca. 1905. Occ. granted, I'm sure! or even granted as soon as (or before) asked! See DCCpp.

granty. Grandmother: a coll. more familiar and less gen. than granny, of which it is an affectionate elab. From ca. 1850. More usual in Aus. and NZ than in Great Brit. Cf. Scot. and Northern grandy (1747: EDD).

granum. An occ. C.18 form of grannam. OED.

grape. In have a grape on, to be ill-disposed towards: Aus.: since ca. 1925. (Alan Marshall, These Are My People, 1946.) Perhaps ex sour grapes. Its opp. is have a toby on.

grape-monger. A tippler of wine: C.17 coll. Dekker.

grape on the business, a. (Of a person that is) a 'wet blanket' on cheerful company; a bluestocking; a 'wallflower': Aus.: since ca. 1925. (B., 1942.) Since the grape is usually and rightly regarded as a cheerful influence, grape is perhaps a perversion of gripe: cf. 'He gives me a pain in the belly' and bellyful.

grape-shot, adj. Topsy: ca. 1875–1900. Whence the C.20 shot. A very neat pun.

grape-vine. John o' London's Weekly, 9 June 1934, recorded this as rhyming s. for clothes line, but Julian Franklyn, after 'wide enquiries "in the field"' doubts its authenticity. (Rhyming.)

grapevine, the. A secret means employed by the chiefs of the underworld to ensure rapid and trustworthy transmission of important news: c.: adopted ca. 1920 from US, where orig. in form the grapevine telegraph and not c.—2. Hence, the mysterious source of rumours: Services': WW2. 'I heard it on the grapevine.' P-G-R.—3. That haphazard network of rumour-mongers in the Services, in factories, in offices, which through Unit or Staff, transmits advance knowledge—often not inaccurate—of policy and of administrative decisions: since ca. 1945: s. that, by 1955, had > coll. Also, in this sense, the bush telegraph, a term that has radiated from Aus., where current since ca. 1890. P.B.: by 1970s S.E. to the extent that a weekly publication devoted to advertisement of vacancies in the educational world could be so titled.

graph, n. Ex chromograph, hectograph, etc., for a copy-producing apparatus: coll.: ca. 1880–1912. Whence:

graph, v. To take a number of copies of, by means of a 'graph', q.v.: coll.: ca. 1880–1920. OED.

-graph, -grapher, and -graphy are occ. employed in a word so joc., e.g. hurrygraph, a hasty sketch, as to be almost coll.

grapple, n. (Gen. in pl.) The hand: low:—1877. Cf. grappler and:- grapple, v. To shake hands with: Naval: ca. 1790–1850. W.N. Glascock, Sailors and Saints (I, 138), 1829. (Mo.e.)

grapple-the-rails. Whiskey: Anglo-Irish c. > coll. (—1785); ob. (Grose, 1st ed.) Because, after drinking it, one had to do this to remain upright.

grappler. (Gen. in pl.) The hand: from ca. 1850: ?orig. nautical. Cf. grapple and:

grappling-irons. The fingers: nautical: from ca. 1855. (H., 2nd ed.) Cf. grapple and grappler.—2. Handcuffs: ca. 1810–70. (Lex. Bal.) Presumably ex nautical S.E.

grasp and grunt. An occ. var. of grumble and grunt. Franklyn, 2nd.

grass, n. Ground: 1625 (OED).—2. Abbr. sparrow-grass = asparagus: low coll.: from ca. 1830; earlier, S.E.—3. Green vegetables: Royal Military Academy and nautical: ca. 1860–1925.—4. A temporary hand on a newspaper: Aus.:—1889; ob. by 1930. Whence the c.p. a grass on news waits dead men's shoes. ?ex the English printers' grass = casual employment (1888, OED) or ex grass-hand, q.v.—5. A policeman: abbr. rhyming s. grasshopper, q.v.: low coll.: earlier C.20. Herbert Hodge, Cab, Sir?, 1939.—6. Hence, an informer: c.,—1933 (Charles E. Leach); by 1970, coll. Cf. super-grass, q.v.—7.

Coition. Synon. with greens, 4, q.v.: late C.19–20.—8. 'Grass was the normal "picture" seen on certain types of radar cathode-ray tube, as distinct from the signals produced by aircraft, etc. It looked like waving grass' (correspondent): RAF coll. > j.: WW2 and after.—9. Cannabis indica, marijuana: orig. c., adopted ex US ca. 1965. McCabe, in Apple to the Core, 1972, wrote 'grass was virtually unheard of in England at this time [1964]', but by 1971 the (London) Evening News could use the term, without gloss, in reporting the case of a 14-year-old boy 'pusher' (distributor).—10. In (be) sent to grass, (to be) rusticated: Cambridge: ca. 1790–1880. Punning 'rustication'. But in send to grass, it = to knock down: ca. 1875–1925. Hindley.—11. In on grass, (of ore) waiting to be removed to a smelting factory: Aus.: since ca. 1910. (Vance Palmer, Golconda, 1948.) Cf. on the grass, q.v.—12. Grass occurs in the following terms and phrases, qq.v: burn the g.; calves out to g.; come g.; cut (one's) own g.; go to g.; hunt g.; on the g.; out to g.; send to g.; Nebuchadnezzar out to g., take.

grass, v. To bring to the ground: orig. (1814), pugilistic; in C.20, mostly of Rugby football and gen. considered S.E. Egan, Moore, Dickens.—2. Hence, to defeat, ca. 1880–1910, and to kill, ca. 1875–1914. But as 'to babble completely' it occurs much earlier: OED gives 1822; see quo'tn at facer, 3.—3. To discharge temporarily from one's employment: trade:—1881; ob. Ex a horse's going out to grass.—4. To do jobbing or casual work: printers': from ca. 1894. OED.—5. V.t., to inform on: c.: from ca. 1930. Gilt Kid, 1936, 'Anyhow it was a dirty trick grassing his pals.' Ex grass, n., 6. grass before breakfast. A duel: Anglo-Irish: mid-C.18—mid-19. Ware cites Lover, in Handy Andy.

grass bidi. A casual country prostitute: army in India: late C.19—earlier 20. Perhaps an error for, or var. of, grass bibi—cf. bibby. Charles Allen, ed., Plain Tales from the Raj, 1977. (P.B.) grass chamber. 'Grosdek entered the cabinet ... reluctantly. Criminals had named it by their epithet for an informer, as the grass chamber' (James Barnett, Head of the Force, 1978): a very narrow telephone-box for statements or confessions.

grass-comber. A countryman serving as a sailor: nautical: ca. 1860–1910. H., 3rd ed.; Walter Besant, 1886, 'Luke was a grass comber and a land swab.' Earlier (ca. 1830–60), a farm-labourer passenger on a ship. On beach-comber.

grass-cutter. (Gen. pl.) A small bomb that, aeroplane-dropped, bursts on impact and scatters shrapnel pellets at a low level, i.e. to kill persons rather than destroy inanimates: military: 1917. (B. & P.) Cf. daisy-cutter, 4, q.v.—2. A Lewis gun: army: WW1. Semantics as for sense 1.

grass-cutting. As in 'to go grass-cutting' = to run off, the road: motorcyclists': later C.20. (Dunford.)

grass-fighter. A slugger, a brawler, a bruiser; a fighter not a boxer: Aus.: since ca. 1930. (D'Arcy Niland, Call Me..., 1958.) One who, in a field, fights to the finish. Cf. send to grass, q.v.

grass grow under (one's) feet, let no. To lose no time or chance: C.17–20: coll. in C.17, then S.E. A † var. is on one's heel (or under one's heels): C.16–early 19. Apperson.

grass-hand. A 'green' or new hand: printers': ca. 1875–1915. Cf. grass, n., sense, 4.

grass-hopping, vbl n. Low flying, in order to beat ground-fire: RAAF. 1940–5. (B., 1943.) Aus. var. of hedge-hopping—in a country where hedges are infrequent.

grass in the park. An informer to the police: rhyming s. (on nark): C.20. (Franklyn 2nd.) Very prob. suggested by grass, n., 5, 6: a characteristic elab.

grass line. 'Coir rope which floats on the surface of the water' (Granville): RN coll.: C.20.

grass park. A shortening of grass in the park above: since ca. 1930. Franklyn 2nd.

grass-widow. An unmarried mother; a discarded mistress: C.16–early 19 coll. (More; B.E.) The former nuance is extant in dial.—2. A married woman temporarily away from her husband: coll.: from ca. 1858; orig. mainly Anglo-Indian. The second follows from the first sense, which prob. contains an allusion to a bed of straw or grass—cf. the etym. of bustard (W.).—3. Occ. as a v.: coll.: from ca. 1890.

grass-widower. A man separated temporarily from his wife: orig. (1862), US; anglicised ca. 1880. On grass-widow, 2.

grasser. A fall, esp. one caused by a punch: sporting:—1887 (Baumann).—2. An informer to the police: London's East End: since ca. 1945. (Richard Herd, 1957.) Var. of grass, n., 6.

grasses! 'A cry directed at anyone particularly polite': printers':—1909 (Ware). Perhaps ex Fr. gracieux: cf. Scots gracie, well-behaved, and Sp. gracias, 'Thank you'.

grasshopper. A policeman: rhyming s., on copper:—1893. See grass, n., 5 and 6, and v., 5.—2. A waiter at a tea-garden: ca. 1870–1914. Ex his busyness on the sward. (H., 5th ed.) In C.20 Aus., a waiter at a picnic. B., 1942.—3. A thief: c.:—1893. Pall Mall Gazette, 2 Jan 1893.—4. An Italian one-man torpedo: RN: 1940+.—5. A 'customer who inspects one line of goods after another without buying anything' (M.T.): market-traders': C.20.—6. '90 XX Class locomotive. Tendency to slip. (Western Region)' (Railway): 1950s–60s.

Grasshopper Falls. The great waterfall at Gersoppa on the Sheravati River: Anglo-Indian coll. (—1886) by the process of Hobson-Jobson. Y. & B.

Grasshoppers, the. 'In 1881 the Herefordshire Light Infantry joined the King's Shropshire L.I. as the 4th Battalion. Known as "The Grasshoppers" because of the grass green facings they adopted from the old 36th Herefordshire Regt, they have more recently been favoured with the nickname "The White-Faced Ones"—after the Hereford breed of cattle' (Carew).

grassing. 'Casual work away from the office' (F.&H.): printers': from ca. 1889.

grassville. The country: early C.19: low. Punning daisyville, q.v.

grasswards. In go grasswards, to fall: turf:—1923 (Manchon). Cf. on the grass, 1.

grassy, n. Var. of grass, n., 5, a policeman: c.:—1935 (David Hume).

grateful and comforting. A late C.19–early 20 c.p., an abbr. of the slogan for Epps's cocoa; an early occurrence in this form is Kipling's short story 'Wireless', 1902, pub'd in Traffics and Discoveries. See DCpp.

gratters. Congratulations: university and Public School s. (—1903)>, by 1933, gen. coll. (OED Sup.) Cf. congrats.

grauncher. An inept and unskilled mechanic: motorcyclists': later C.20. (Dunford.)

Grauniad, the. 'Among [the satirical magazine Private Eye]'s services is the enlargement of the vocabulary... the... Guardian newspaper, celebrated for its lousy typesetting, can henceforth never escape being "The Grauniad"' (James Cameron in Telegraph Sunday mag., 18 Feb. 1979): the nickname became gen. usage, among the papers' readers, ca. 1976. (P.B.)

grave, n. A cricket crease: cricketers': late C.19–20.—2. See graves; grave-trap.

grave-digger. As the grave-digger, strong liquor: Anglo-Indian: late C.19–earlier 20. Ware.—2. Pl., the last two batsmen (in the batting order): cricketers' joc. coll.: 1887 (Lewis); ob.—3. In like a grave-digger, 'Up to the arse in business, and don't know which way to turn' (Grose, 2nd ed.): ca. 1790–1860.—4. The Spade symbol in Crown and Anchor (see Appendix): mostly Services': since later C.19.

grave nobby. Early C.18 term for a despicable fellow. See MEN, in Appendix.

grave-trap; occ. abbr. to grave. 'A large oblong trap in the centre of the stage, so called because "the fair Ophelia" is supposed to be buried there. Every fugitive draught in the theatre rises from the cellar through this opening' (B. & L.): theatrical: mid-C.19–20.

gravel, n. A rapidly diminishing supply of money in the market: Stock Exchange: 1884. (SOD.) Semantics: as the tide recedes, it leaves the gravel bare.

gravel, v. To confound, or puzzle greatly; 'floor', q.v.: mid-C.16–20; coll. for a century, then S.E. Shakespeare, 'When you were gravelled for lack of matter'. Orig. nautical: cf. stranded (W.).

gravel(-)basher; gravel(-)bashing. (One who has to participate in) square-bashing or marching, esp. as a recruit at squad drill, on the parade ground: Services, esp. RAF: since ca. 1936; by ca. 1950 ob., square-bash(ing) being the predominant term. (H. & P.) Contrast swede(-)basher.

gravel-crusher. A soldier at defaulters' drill: army: ca. 1880–1900. B. & L.—2. Then, but † by ca. 1930, any infantryman: mostly cavalrymen's. Cf. beetle-crusher. Also gravel-crushing, n. and adj.—3. The term was revived in WW2, all Services', for a drill instructor, and, as H. & P. note, for a physical training instructor [but this latter seems unlikely. P.B.].—4. Hence, a recruit, the drill instructor's victim: WW2.—5. Farmers' strong and heavy boots: Anglo-Irish: C.20.—6. A tramp: Anglo-Irish: late C.19–20. Capt. R.W. Campbell, Private Spud Tamsan, 1916.

gravel-digger. 'A sharp-toed dancer' (Sinks, 1848): ca. 1840–80.

gravel-grinder. A drunkard: low: ca. 1860–1900. H., 3rd ed.—2. (Usu. in pl.) A gunner's mate: RN: C.20. (Granville.) He takes the squad drill, hence, gravel-grinding. Cf. gravel-crusher.

gravel-grinding. See prec., 2.—2. 'We crawled all round the park in bottom gear—"gravel-grinding", as we call it' (Herbert Hodge, Cab, Sir?, 1939): taxi-drivers': since ca. 1915.

gravel-rash. Abrasions resulting from a fall: coll., from ca. 1855 ('Ducange Anglicus'); by mid-C.20, at latest, informal S.E. Perhaps orig. joc. on barber's rash.—2. In to have the gravel-rash, to be extremely drunk: ca. 1860–1930. Ex the numerous falls. Cf.:- gravelled. Very drunk: coll.: C.20. (Lyell.) Cf. gravel, v. gravelly. The adj. to gravel, n. (q.v.); 1887 (Atkins, House Scraps: OED).

graves. (Extremely rare in the singular.) Long, dirty fingernails: lower classes':—1923 (Manchon). Cf. mourning.

Gravesend bus. A hearse: (low) coll.: ca. 1880–1920. Cf. S.E. journey's end.

Gravesend sweetmeat. (Gen. in pl.) A shrimp: ca. 1860–1920. (H., 3rd ed.) Many being sold there.

Gravesend twins. Solid pieces of sewage: low:—1874; ob. (H., 5th ed.) Our sewage system!

graveyard. The mouth: from ca. 1875; ob. Contrast tombstone.—2. 'A berth made over the counter of a coasting steamer': nautical: from ca. 1880. Bowen.—3. the graveyard (or G.): 'a portion of the Dutoitspan Diamond Mine ... because so much money and labour was buried in it by the over-sanguine' (Pettman): S. African miners': late C.19—4. As the G—, the Inscriptions Hall of the British Museum: late C.19–20. Daily Telegraph, 17 Apr. 1935.

graveyard flying. Dangerously low flying: RAF coll.: WW2. graveyard shift. A night shift: shipbuilders' and munition workers': since ca. 1915. (John o' London's, 18 June 1943.) Cf. the Can. railroadmen's (—1931) graveyard watch: 12.01 to 8 a.m. graveyard watch. The middle watch (from midnight to 4 a.m.): RN: C.20. See also prec.

Gravy, the. The Atlantic: RAF aircrew, esp. of Coastal Command: WW2. Cf. Pond; Ditch; Duck-pond.

gravy. The sexual discharge, male or female: low coll.: mid-C.18–20; ob. Whence give one's g., to 'spend'; gravy-giver, penis or pudend: g.-maker, pudend only: all, C.19–20 (ob.) low, the first coll., the other s.—2. Fuel for aircraft or automobile: RAF: since ca. 1940; ob. Partridge, 1945.—3. Perquisites: adopted ex US ca. 1943. See gravy-train. For the term's use as 'money' see sense 9.—4. Any tinned food: Aus., esp. NSW, children's: since ca. 1947. Ex the cartoons of Emile Mercier. B., 1953.—5. Sexual innuendo; bawdiness: since ca. 1970. R.S. cites a BBC radio programme, 13 Sep. 1973, 'Put some gravy in it—make it saucy!' A pun on sauce; perhaps not unconnected with sense 1.—6. In by gravy! A Scots exclam.: mid-C.19—early 20. (Stevenson & Osbourne, The Wrecker, 1892.) Prob. a corruption.—7. In going down for the gravy, as vbl n. Fellatio or cunnilingus: low: since ca. 1950. (Jack Slater, 1978.) Ex sense 1.—8. 'During Quarter Sessions or Assizes, when a Judge is giving heavy sentences, he is spoken of as "dishing out the gravy (or porridge)"' (Tempest): c.: mid-C.20.—9. Money: s.: later C.20. 'Assuming that the Ministry (Dept of Transport) comes up with the gravy ...' (Observer colour sup., 20 Dec. 1981, p. 31). Orig. US: see JIVE, in Appendix. (P.B.).—10. See juice, n., 4.

gravy-eye. A pej. term of address: C.19–20 low coll. Ex gravy-eyed, bear-eyed, a late C.18 coll. > C.19 S.E. The adj. is in Grose, 1st ed.—2. A turn at the wheel, 4–6 a.m.: nautical: ca. 1850–90.—3. The middle watch (12–4 a.m.): nautical: from ca. 1890. Likewise, Bowen. Cf. graveyard watch.

gravy(-)train, the. Easy money, esp. from a well-paid but undemanding task in political life or with a large commercial or industrial company: frequently in to ride the gravy train: orig. US (OED: 1910); known in Britain, but not widely adopted until mid-1970s. (P.B.)

grawler. A beggar: Scot. c.: ca. 1820–60. (Egan's Grose.) ?crawler perverted.

gray. Since gray and grey are in later C.20 interchangeable, with the latter as the established spelling in certain phrases, all entries with this word will be found at grey.

graze. In send to graze, to dismiss, turn out: ca. 1730–60. Swift, 1733, 'In your faction's phrase, send the clergy all ...'. Hence graze on the plain, to be dismissed, coll.: mid-C.19—early 20. Cf. (put) out to grass.

grease, n. A bribe: coll.:—1823 (Bee). Hence bribery.—2. Flattery, fawning (cf. butter): coll. and dial.: from ca. 1870.—3. A profitable work: printers': from ca. 1850; ob. Ex fat, q.v.—4. A 'struggle, contention, or scramble of any kind, short of actual fighting': Westminster School:—1909 (Ware). Perhaps ex the resultant perspiration.—5. Butter; later, margarine: widespread s. in schools, Services, etc., > gen. low coll.: late C.19–20. If inferior, axle-grease. Perhaps orig. ex Yorkshire grease, strong, rancid butter (EDD), but gen. by simple resemblance.—6. In meat (one's) grease, to exhaust oneself or itself by violent action: coll.: ca. 1830–1930. Southey (OED).

grease, v. To bribe: C.16–20: coll. till C.19, then S.E.—2. To cheat, deceive: C.17 (? 18): coll., mostly low.—3. To flatter: C.19–20: coll. Ex grease (one's) boots, q.v.—4. V.i., to run fast: Public Schools': C.20. Desmond Coke, The House Prefect, 1908, 'Don't you see the old man greasing back? He's got our bobby with him!' Cf. grease off. In WW1 army usage, it = 'to get away' (esp. by running). Cf. grease off, q.v.

grease a fat sow in the arse. To (try to) bribe, to give money to, a rich man: coll.: C.18—mid-19. (Heywood; Grose, 1st ed.) Cf. the proverb, every man basteth the fat hog (sc. and the lean one gets burnt).

grease (someone's) boots. To flatter; fawn upon: late C.16—mid-19: coll. Florio; Ray, 1813. (Apperson.) Cf. grease, v., 3. grease (one's) gills. To make a very good meal: low coll.: C.19—early 20. Cf. greasy chin, and see gills, 1.

grease her on. To make a smooth landing, her being the aircraft: RAF: WW2. K. Hemingway, Wings over Burma, 1944. See greaser, 10.

grease monkey. A mechanic: (non-Civil) engineers': from ca. 1910. Common also in Aus. (B.P.) grease off. To make off; slip away furtively: low: 1899 (Rook). Prob. suggested by greased lightning. P.B.: but see grease, v., 4.

Grease-Pot or Greasepot. Grispot, a small village near Bois Grenier in the Armentières sector: army: WW1. Philip Gosse, Memoirs of a Camp-Follower, 1934.—2. 'If you were told to hurry up with the grease-pot, you understood that someone was waiting for the butter' (G.E. Morrison, 1882, quoted in C. Pearl, Morrison of Peking, 1967): Aus. nautical. Cf. grease, n., 5. (P.B.) grease (one's) skates. To get ready to go—and go, promptly and speedily: Aus.: since ca. 1920. Mary Durack, Keep Him My Country, 1955.

grease-spot. The figurative condition to which one is reduced by great heat: coll.: mainly Colonial: from ca. 1890. ?ex the US (1836) sense, adopted in England ca. 1860 (H., 2nd ed., 'a minute remnant') as 'an infinitesimally small quantity' (Thornton), without ref. to heat and gen. in negative sentences.

grease the dukes. V.i., to practise bribery; but the v.t. with of is much more gen.: low:—1877 (Horsley, lottings from jail).

grease the fat pig or sow. A C.17–20 var. (ob.) of grease a fat sow ...

grease the ways. 'To make preparations in advance to secure influence to get an appointment or the like': RN coll.: from ca. 1880. (Bowen.) A var. of S.E. grease the wheels, and grease (someone's) hand or palm.

grease the wheel. To coit: low: mid-C.19—early 20.

grease the wheels. To advance money for a particular purpose: coll. (in C.20, virtually S.E.): 1809 (Malkin).

grease to. To make up to; to flatter: Public Schools': late C.19–20. Desmond Coke, The School across the Road, 1910, 'You don't really mean you've chucked Warner's just because old Anson greased to you by making you a prefect.' Cf. greaser, 5, and oil up to, 2.

greased lightning, gen. prec. by like. This coll. 'emblem' of high speed is orig. (1833) and mainly US; Anglicised ca. 1850. It appears in cricket as early as 1871 (Lewis). Gowing, writing ca. 1885, has 'as our cousins across the Atlantic say, "like a well-greased flash of lightning"'.

Greasepaint Avenue. Brixton, London: ca. 1880–1914. Naomi Jacob, The Lenient God, 1937, 'Because all the music-hall people had lived there.'

greaser. A Mexican: orig. (ca. 1849) and mainly US; Anglicised ca. 1875, though used by Marryat much earlier. Ex the greasy appearance.—2. A ship's engineer: RN: from ca. 1860. Ware.—3. An objectionable or disgusting fellow: lower classes':—1923. Manchon: 'Un sale type'.—4. An apology: Bootham School: from ca. 1880; † by 1925. (Bootham, 1925.) For semantics, cf. butter and soft soap. Cf.:—5. A flatterer, sycophant: Sherborne Schoolboys': late C.19–20. (Desmond Coke, Wilson's, 1911.) Occ. greazer. Cf. grease to and greasing, qq.v.—6. In give (one) greaser, to rub the back of another's hand with one's knuckles: Winchester College: ca. 1860–1930.—7. An engineering student: Aus. universities': C.20. (B.P.) Cf. sense 2.—8. 'One who angles for time off' (H. & P.): Services': WW2.—9. A teenage rowdy, esp. a member of the young, aggressive motorcycling fraternity: since early 1960s. Ex long hair, heavily oiled. Cf. rocker, and see quot'n at biker.—10. The undercarriage structure was intact and ... the plane could make a "greaser", a light landing to avoid further damage' (Keith Nelson, Amateur Photographer, 26 July 1980): RAF coll.: later C.20. Ex grease her on, q.v. greasers. Fried potatoes: Royal Military Academy: ca. 1870–1910. Cf. boilers.

greasing. Flattery; ingratiating manners; pretentiousness: Public Schools', esp. Shrewsbury School's: late C.19–20. Desmond Coke, The House Prefect, 1908; his The School across the Road, 1910, 'Out in the studies, [the headmaster's] suggestion of the new name, Winton, was labelled variously as "a beastly greasing" and "a nasty oil".' Cf. grease to greaser, 5, and groise.

greasy, n. A butcher: Aus.: C.20. B., 1942.—2. A sheep-shearer: Aus.: since ca. 1920. F.B. Vickers, First Place to the Stranger, 1955, 'When those five greasies get moving they'll shear a lot of sheep.' Ex the greasy wool.—3. 'An outback cook; any cook for a collection of men' (Wilkes): Aus.: since later C.19. This sense perhaps includes sense 1.

greasy, adj. Stormy (of weather): nautical coll.:—1887 (Baumann).—2. Pomaded: lower classes' coll.:—1923 (Manchon).—3. Dirty, as in 'a greasy chap': Public Schools': C.20.

greasy chin. A dinner: ca. 1835–80. Ex the mid-C.18–early 19 sense, 'A treat given to parish officers in part of commutation for a bastard' (Grose, 1st ed.). Cf. eating a child.

greasy pig. 'A bet laid on tails after a long run of heads, or vice versa' (B., 1953): Aus. two-up players': since ca. 1925.

greasy spoon. A railroad eating-house: Can.:—1931. Adopted ex US.—2. Hence, almost immediately any small, dirty restaurant: Can. (Leechman.) Ex the state of the cutlery.—3. A public house serving food: upper-middle-class s.: later C.20. Peter York, Style Wars, 1980.

great; great-great, n. An ancestor or a descendant in the 'great-(great)' degree: coll.: C.20. OED Sup.—2. As great, a great, or a (very) famous, person: coll.: since late 1940s. Elliptical for 'great man' or 'great woman'. P.B.: cf. the later C.20 media phrase 'one of the all-time greats (e.g.) jazz'.

great, adj. Splendid; extremely pleasant; a gen. superlative: orig. (1809), US; anglicised ca. 1895: coll. Cf. immense, q.v.—2. In run a great dog, filly, etc., the sense is: the dog, etc., runs splendidly, a great race: sporting: from ca. 1897.

Great Australian Bight, the. George Street, opposite the Sydney Town Hall: Sydneysites'. Also, the busier end of Queen Street, Brisbane: Brisbanites'. Both, C.20. (B., 1942.) One is apt to get bitten there. The Bight itself can be very rough.

great big. A mere intensive of big: coll.: late C.19–20. Cf. fine, q.v.

Great Bore War, the. See bore war.

Great Brown Bomber. A Lockheed Hudson: RAAF: ca. 1942–5. (B., 1943.) Cf. nickname of the great Negro boxer, Joe Louis.

great Caesar! An almost meaningless substitute for great God!: from ca. 1890. Tit Bits, 19 Mar. 1892, 'Great Caesar! There you go again!' Here may be noted great Jehoshaphat!, in Besant & Rice's Golden Butterfly (1876), which contains also the (by 1914) † great sun! See also great Scott! A further var. is great Caesar's ghost!, early C.20 joc. ('Taffrail', Stand By, 1916).

great (occ. much) cry and little wool. A proverbial c.p. abbr. 'Great cry and little wool', as the Devil said when he sheared the hogs. Much ado about nothing. From ca. 1570. Cf. great harvest ...

great divide (or capitals), the. The cleavage between the female breasts as revealed by a low décolletage: Aus.: since ca. 1930. Ex the Great Divide, the Blue Mountains, of eastern Australia. (B.P.) P.B.: prob. influenced by the earlier 'Ballad of Eskimo Nell', where that lady's private parts are likened to 'The Great Divide'; there it is the Rocky Mountains of N. America that provide the reference. One would think that the Grand Canyon might be more appropriate—but it didn't rhyme.

great dog or filly. See great, adj., 2.

great fun. '[The ballet-girl] is not particular as to the rank or position of her [male] companion ... but she prefers one who is "great fun"' (Albert Smith, The Natural History of the Ballet-Girl, 1847, evidently considered the phrase s. or coll.: P.B.).

great go, or Great Go. The final examination for the B.A. degree: Cambridge (hence, Oxford): from ca. 1820: s. >, by 1860, coll. and, by 1870, ob.; by 1900, †. Cf. little go and greater, greats, qq.v., and see also go, n.

great-grandmother. See Mother.

great-great. See great, n.

great gun. A person, occ. a thing, of importance: coll.: from ca. 1815. Whyte-Melville, 'The great guns of the party'. Var. big gun (cf. big noise): from ca. 1865; ob. At Eton, ca. 1815–50, it = 'a good fellow, a knowing one' (Spy, 1825).—2. A favourite or gen. successful 'wheezer' or practice: pedlars', mostly London: from ca. 1850. Mayhew, 'The street-seller's great gun, as he called it, was to ...' Ex the S.E. sense: 'a fire-arm of the larger kind which requires to be mounted for firing' (SOD).—3. A joyous scamp: coll.:—1923 (Manchon).

great guns. An intensive adv.: RN: late C.18–early 20. Cf. blow great guns, q.v., and 'growing great guns' in W.N. Glascock, Sailors and Saints (II, 51), 1829.—2. As an expletive: late C.19–early 20.—3. In go(ing) great guns, an extant and gen. usage of sense 1, as in 'Jo? Last time I saw her, she was going great guns with Richard—but of course that was then ...', i.e., getting along extremely well: later C.20. (P.B.)

Great Harry, the. Any battleship not—for security reasons—mentioned by name: RN: 1914 †. Presumably suggested by Henry VIII's flagship (ca. 1540)—the Great Harry, so named, of course, in his honour.

great harvest of a little corn, a. Much ado about nothing: coll.: C.17–early 19. Cf. great cry ...

great house. See big house.

great I am, the. Usage joc. of oneself, pej. of others, it connotes excessive self-importance: coll.: from ca. 1905. Ex I Am, the Self-Existent, God, as in Exodus 3: 14 (OED).

great intimate. This sense of great—such a phrase is app. independent of great friend—is † S.E., but we may quote Grose's (3rd ed.) low coll. equivalent of 'very intimate': as great as shirt and shitten arse. For other synonyms, see thick.

great Jehoshaphat! See great Caesar!

great joseph. 'A surtout. Cant.' says, in 1788, Grose, 2nd ed.; † by 1860. By surtout he prob. means overcoat, the gen. definition; and low s. is perhaps the more accurate classification. Ex Joseph's coat of many colours.

great life if you don't weaken, it's a. A WW1 c.p. carried on into civilian life, as, e.g. in G.D.H. & M. Cole, Burglars in Bucks, 1930. P.B.: still current in 1983, as a defence against 'trials and tribulations' of life in general.

great minds think alike. Any remark, esp. about a trivial matter, that could be answered, 'I happen to think the same way', may be capped by this c.p.: since late C.19. Stock replies, by an outsider, are (and) fools (or small minds) seldom differ (or think apart): C.20.

great on. Knowing much about; very skilled in: coll.: from ca. 1875. Jefferies, 1878, 'He is very "great" on dogs' (SOD). The S.E. form is great at, † great in: from late C.18.—2. Very fond of: C.20. Ultimately ex prec., though perhaps imm. ex US, where the sense 'famous for' dates from 1844 (Thornton).

great outdoors. See call of the great ...

great pot. A tipster: turf: ca. 1870–1914. B. & L.

Great Push, the. The sustained, wide-fronted attack, July–Aug. 1916, on the Somme: army, whence journalistic, coll.: contemporaneous; then—mostly ironical (for it was one long blood-bath)—historical. (Patrick MacGill, The Great Push, 1916.) But, much more generally, the Big Push. P.B.: E.P. himself took part in the attack, as an AIF infantryman; his account of it, in Three Personal Records of the War, by R.H. Mottram, John Easton and E.P., pub'd 1930 by Partridge at his Scholartix Press, makes moving reading.

great Scott! An exclam. of surprise; also a very mild oath: orig. U.S., but soon anglicised, F. Anstey using it in The Tinted Venus in 1885 (OED). ?ex General Winfield Scott, a notoriously fussy candidate for the presidency. Cf. dickens!, the.

great shakes, no. See no great shakes.

Great Silent, the The Royal Navy: derisive, occ. self-name: WW2. Ex journalistic 'the Silent Service'. P-G-R.

great smoke, the. London: orig.,—1874, c.; in C.20, s. (H., 5th ed.) In later C.20, usu. the big smoke, or more often simply the smoke.

great stuff. Excellent, whatever it may be; also as n.: coll.: C.20. E.g. Evening News, 11 Sep. 1934, 'Great stuff, sweeps—that is, when you find one, see one, and speak to one!'

great sun! See great Caesar!

great unwashed, the. The proletariat: at first (late C.18), derisively joc. S.E.; but since Crock popularised it, (non-proletarian) coll.—and rather snobbish.—2. In the late 1960–70s, it was applied to hippies of both sexes and all sorts. (Powis.)

great war. See it's a great war.

great whipper-in. Death: coll. (?orig. hunting s.): from ca. 1860; slightly ob. by 1930.

Great White Chief, the. A head of department: Civil Service: since ca. 1910. P.B.: in later C.20 applied joc., or ironically, to the head of any establishment, organisation, etc.

greater. The B.A. finals examination: Oxford:—1893. Ex greats, q.v. An early example of the 'OXFORD -ER'; never very gen., and ob. by 1913; † by 1922.

Greater London. In belong to G-L, to be a well-known person: Society:—1909 (Ware); †.

greatest, the. The best; adopted, ca. 1961, ex US. Wallace Reyburn, in the colour section of the Sunday Times of 8 July 1965, 'The Americans snigger at the British when they use words and phrases like these: bobby-soxer, in the groove, aw shucks, jive, baloney, you can say that again, what's cooking, the greatest. To American ears they are all so dated.' Given impetus by the proclamation of the Negro boxer Cassius Clay, alias Mohamed Ali, 'I am the greatest.'

greatest thing since baked beans, the. (Often he's ...) A mostly ironic c.p., common only since ca. 1960; yet I suspect that it originated during WW1 in the army, who got a surfeit of pork-and-beans. Cf.:-

greatest thing since sliced bread, it's the. Services', mostly army, ironic c.p. for any useful novelty: since mid-1950s. By 1980, > more widespread. (P.B.) Prob. ex US.

greats or Greats. That Oxford var. of great go (q.v.) which was first recorded and presumably popularised by 'Cuthbert Bede' when, in Verdant Green, 1853, he wrote: 'The little gentleman was going in for his Degree, alias Great-go, alias Greats'; used again by T. Hughes in Tom Brown at Oxford. Until ca. 1895, s.; since, coll. and applied (as abbr. Classical Greats) esp. to the examination for honours in Literæ Humaniores. Cf. smalls (and little go).

greaze. A crowd or gang at Westminster School annual pancake-fight: C.19–20.

greazer. See greaser, 5.

greb. A North Country schoolboys' term of abuse: since ca. 1930. (New Society, 22 Aug. 1963, 'From the Blackboard Jungle'.) Origin?

Grec is a late C.19–20 shortening of Grecian, 3. (Marples.) Grecian. As roisterer, esp. ca. 1818–30, it is gen. considered S.E., though prob. it was orig. Society s. (Cf. Corinthian.) Ob. by 1840, † by 1860.—2. An Irishman, esp. a newly arrived Irish immigrant: (?low) coll.: from ca. 1850; ob.; a var. of Greek, 3. Cf. next entry.—3. A senior boy: Christ's Hospital (School): from ca. 1820.—4. Rhenish wine. See TAVERN TERMS, §3c, in Appendix.

Grecian accent. An Irish brogue: coll.: ca. 1850–1930. See Grecian, 2.

Grecian bend. A stoop affected in walking by many women ca. 1869–90. Daily Telegraph, 1 Sep. 1869, 'What is called the "Grecian bend". The phrase was anticipated by The Etonian in 1821 (of a scholarly stoop) and is rarely used after ca. 1885. Cf. Alexandra limp and Roman fall.—2. H., 1874, defines it as 'modern milliner slang for an exaggerated bustle' (dress-improver): a derivative sense soon †.

Greco. A Greek: army in N.Africa: 1940–3. Adopted from the Italians.

greed. Money: c. of ca. 1850–1900. 'Ducange Anglicus'.

greedy. See not greedy—but...

greedy-gut or -guts. A glutton: (from ca. 1840, low) coll.: the former, mid-C.16–early 18; the latter, C.18–20. (Florio; Grose, 2nd ed.) Cf. the old schoolboys' rhyme (ob. by 1900; † by 1920), 'Guy-hi, greedy-gut, / Eat all the pudding up, / the † singular being retained for the rhyme.

greedy pigs. 'Contemptuous term used by card-sharps for the public they cheat' (Powis): later C.20. Ex children's term for a glutton.

greedy scene. One in which a 'star' has the stage to him- or herself: theatrical:—1909 (Ware).

greefa or grefa. A marijuana cigarette: beatniks': adopted, ca. 1958, ex US drug addicts. (Anderson.) Either a rhyme on reefer, a punning blend of S.E. grief and s. reefer. W. & F. give several var. spellings.

Greek. A comparatively rare abbr. of St Giles Greek, cant; cf. the C.17–20 it is Greek to me, halfway between S.E. and coll. Prob. orig. s., but soon merely allusive and therefore S.E.: C.17–early 19.—2. As a card-sharper, a cheat, it is C.16–19 S.E., as also is the C.17 merry Greek, a roisterer.—3. An Irishman ('the low Irish', H., 1859): Anglo-Irish s. or coll., from ca. 1820; ob. (Bee.) also in Aus. s. before 1872.—4. A gambler; a highwayman: c.: early C.19.—5. Muscadell. See TAVERN TERMS, §3c, in Appendix.

greek, v. To cheat at cards: ex n., 2, and usu. in greeking, q.v.

Greek fire. Bad whisky: c.:—1889; ob. Ex the S.E. sense. Cf. rot-gut.

greeking, vbl n. and gerund. Cheating at cards: ca. 1816–40. Sporting Magazine, 1817, 'A discovery of Greeking at Brighton, has made considerable noise ... in the sporting world' (OED). Displaced by S.E. greekery.

green, n. Stage: theatrical; abbr. rhyming s. greengage: —1935.—2. At Sedgley Park School, ca. 1780–1870, coll. for a green linnet.—3. An inexperienced or unworlly person: coll.: ca. 1830–90. (Francis Francis, Newton Dogwane, 1859.) Ex S.E. adj.—4. The starboard side of ship: nautical coll.: late C.19–20. Which displays a green light, opp. port, red.—5. A supporter of the Ecology Party and of conservation generally: coll.: since ca. 1981. New Society, 22 July 1982. (Mrs C. Raab.)—6. See take it green; do you see any green...?; Doctor Green and sleep with Mrs Green; with both cf. Greenfields, Dr and Mrs.

green, v. To make to appear simple; to hoax: from ca. 1884 (Eton has the (—1893) var. green up); slightly ob. T.C. Buckland in 1888, 'Green ... as boys call it'. I.e. to treat as a green hand.—2. To swindle, take in: (low) coll. or s.: 1884 (SOD).

green, adj. Inexperienced, is, despite F. & H., S.E.—2. (Gen. be green.) Cautious: railwaymen's: C.20. Ware, 'Green through the railway world being the colour signal for caution'. This sense fell into disuse by 1930 at latest, green having long been the 'sign' for safety or 'Proceed'.—3. See not so green as I'm cabbage-looking.—4. '[Irish] Republican/Catholic in sympathy' (Christopher Hawke, For Campaign Service, 1979): Northern Ireland: C.20.

green and blacks. 'Librium capsules' (Home Office): drug-users': 1970s.

green apron. A lay preacher: C.18: coll. In mid-C.17–18, also an adj., as in Warren's Unbelievers, 1654, 'A green-apron preacher'. Ex the sign of office.

green as duckweed (, as). Extremely simple or foolish: low coll.:—1887 (Baumann).

green-back. A Todhunter text-book in mathematics: universities': ca. 1870–1905. Ex colour of binding; cf. yellow-back. Dr. Todhunter (d. 1884) published his famous textbooks in 1858–69.—2. A frog: late 19—early 20.—3. Hence, a frog for re-railling rolling stock: Can. railroadmen's:—1931.—4. A dollar bill (i.e., note): Can.: adopted ex US ca. 1905; the colour.—5. A £1 note: low coll. or joc. Green £1 notes were first issued by the Bank of England on 1 Feb. 1917, and have remained this colour, despite diminishing size and value, even since, except for the period 1940–8, when they were blue. Senses 4 and 5 often written solid. See also greenie, 9.

green-bag. A lawyer: late C.17—early 19. (B.E.) Ex (the †) colour of brief-bag. Grose, 1st ed., is amusing on the subject. Hence, as recorded by B. & L., What's in the green bag?, 'What is the charge against me?': late C.19—early 20.

green boats. 'Passenger boats as against the freight boats, and in spite of the fact that all the hulls are now orange' (John Malin, 1979); Townsend Thoresen ferries' crews': later C.20.

green bonnet, have or wear a. To go bankrupt: coll.: ca. 1800–1910. Ex the green cap formerly worn by bankrupts. See also bonnet, 4.

green boys. 'A new type of highly efficient armour-piercing shell that was designed in 1917, ... [they] were termed green boys because they were painted green. But they did not reach the fleet until April 1918' (Granville): RN: 1918 onwards, but soon only historical.—2. 'Variant of green strippers, the officers of the Special Branch of the R.N.V.R. in W.W. II. Ex the coloured bands of green between the gold stripes of rank' (Granville, letter, 1967).

green cart, the. That mythical vehicle in which people are conveyed to a lunatic asylum: Aus. juvenile: since ca. 1920. (B.P.)

green cloth. Abbr. board of green cloth, a billiard table: from ca. 1890: coll.—2. Coll., too, is the sense, the green baize covering the table: from ca. 1870.

green coat, wear the. To act the innocent—a ruse tried by new entries who plead ignorance' (Granville): RN: since ca. 1910. Greenness = ingenuerence.

Green Death. 'Affectionate service slang for the elite unit [Special Boat Squadron, RM] who wore jungle-camouflaged fatigues' (Gareth Parry, report on the recent Falkland Is. campaign, Guardian, 3 July 1982).

Green Dragoons. The 13th Hussars: military coll.: ca. 1860–1914. Ex their green facings when they were dragoons. F. & G.

green-envelope wallah. A soldier that sold green envelopes, which were not opened by one's own officers and were censored only at the Base: military coll.: 1915–18. F. & G.

green eye. A green marble: children's:—1923 (Manchon). ? ex (a) greeny (one).

green finch. See greenfinch.

green fingers, have. To be a successful gardener: to succeed, as an amateur, with one's flowers and vegetables: coll.: since ca. 1925. Coined by the late Mr Middleton, BBC broadcaster and newspaper writer on gardening. Less usual: a green thumb. Perhaps the phrase was merely popularised by Mr Middleton, for various trustworthy correspondents place it at ca. 1910, at latest, but probably a generation earlier. 'I think the original was "a green thumb", probably by analogy with the miller's "golden thumb" (as in Chaucer)': Professor F.E.L. Priestley, 1965.

[green goods. Counterfeit 'greenbacks', the paper issue of the US Treasury. Hence greengoods man or operator. Both orig. (—1888) US: heard occ. in the British Empire. (Note in the 1st ed., 1937.)] green goose. A harlot: late C.16–17 coll. Beaumont & Fletcher, 'His palace is full of green geese.' Cf. idea in fresh bit.

green gown, give a, either absolute or with dative. To tumble a woman on the grass: late C.16–18: coll. > S.E.—2. Hence, to have sexual sport, esp. (somewhat euph.) deflower a girl. C.17—early 19 coll. 'Highwaymen' Smith, 1719, 'Our gallant being disposed to give his lady a green gown'.

green-grocery. The female pudend: low: from ca. 1850; ob. Prob. ex greens, 5.

green grove. The pubic hair (gen. female): low: ca. 1850–1910.

green-hand(1)ed rake. See Peter Collins.

Green Horse, the. The 5th Dragoon Guards: military coll.: late C.18–20; ob. F. & G. Ex their green facings.

Green Howards. The 19th Foot Regiment: military: mid-C.18–20: coll. until late C.19, then the official name. (F. & G.) Ex the name of its 1738–48 colonel (the Hon. Charles Howard) and its green facings; partly to distinguish it from the 3rd Foot, also at one time commanded by a Colonel Howard. Sometimes (not, I think, in C.20) called Howard's Garbage.

green in my eye. See do you see any green ...

green jacket; Green Jackets, the. (A member of) the Rifle Brigade: military coll.: from ca. 1820; ob. (OED Sup.) Ex the dark green of their superseded uniform.

green kingsman. A pocket-handkerchief—gen. of silk—with a green ground: c. and pugilistic: ca. 1835–1910. (Brandon.) Cf. belcher.

Green Linnets. The 39th Foot, from ca. 1881 the 1st Battalion of the Dorsetshire Regiment: military coll.: mid-C.19–20. Ex the colour of their facings. (F. & G.) Since 1958 the Devonshire & Dorset Regt.

green lizards. Civilians in the Control Commission for Germany: army: ca. 1945–8. Ex the green epaulettes they used to wear.

Green Man, the. A urinal: pub-frequenters': C.20. Ex urinals' often being painted green and ex the Green Man as a fairly common name for a public house.

Green Marines, the. The 45th Regt of Foot, the Nottinghamshire Sherwood Foresters: a military nickname of ?early C.19.

green meadow. The female pudend: low: more coll. than euph.: from ca. 1850. Cf. green grove and see remarks at EUPHEMISMS, in Appendix.

green pastures. 'High earnings. Overtime. Bonus payments' (McKenna, Glossary, 1970): railwaymen's: mid-C.20.

green rag. The curtain: theatrical: from ca. 1840; † by 1900.

green rats. In give (someone) green rats, to backbite him: proletarian: ca. 1860–1900. B. & L.

green-room. See talk green-room, to gossip about the theatre.

green rub, (get) a. To be reprimanded for another's fault: RN: since ca. 1910. (Granville.) Ex the centuries-old metaphor, 'the rub of the green'. John Malin, 1979, defines a green rub as 'any raw deal or misfortune'.

green shielder. A graduate cadet-entrant at RAF College, Cranwell, on commissioned officer's pay: RAF: later C.20. (Telegraph Sunday mag., 27 July 1980.) Prob. a ref. to the 'Green Shield' trading stamps so popular in earlier 1970s. (P.B.) green sickness, despite F. & H., is ineligible. See greens, 1.

green-striper. An officer in the Special Branch of the RNVF: RN: coll.: 1941+. '(He) wears emerald-green braid between the gold lace on his sleeves.'

green stuff. See do you see any green ...

green suit or blouse suit. A suit of which one has no cards in a hand at bridge: Aus.: since ca. 1925. (B., 1942.) An 'ungrown' suit.

green tab. A home-based intelligence officer: army: WW1. Punch, 24 Oct. 1917, 'He crossed over [the Channel, to Dover] in a wobbly boat packed from cellar to attic with Red Tabs invalidated with shell shock, Blue Tabs with trench feet, and Green Tabs with brain-fag'. All three references are ironic, even bitterly sarcastic; 'Red' = staff officers; 'Blue' = transport, and many other staff functions in the logistics, lines-of-communication, and general: 'base-wallahs'. (With thanks for elucidation to Mr Terence Charman, of the Imperial War Museum. P.B.) green thumb. See green fingers.

green un. A green envelope: army: 1915–18. See green envelope ...—2. 'A heavy sea that lands on the deck of a ship' (P-G-R): nautical coll.: late C.19–20.—3. the Motorcycle magazine. See comics, 2.

green up. The gen. Etionian var. of green, v., 1.

green yoke. A young inexperienced horse: steeplechase jockeys': C.20. Jockey Stan Mellor to another jockey (Jeff King), on 25 Nov. 1969, said reassuringly, 'Don't worry about me. It [Bula, which became a famous jumper] is just some green yoke I'm giving a run round for Fred Winter [the trainer].' Bula won, to Jeff King's disgust. And then, in courteous reply to my query, John Oaksey, the writer of the article in the Sunday Telegraph, 22 May 1977, wrote a week later, 'As far as I know, "green yoke" is just jumping jockeys' jargon [read 'slang']. I don't know the derivation of "yoke", unless it is something to do with a cart horse's harness. "Green", as I am sure you know, is common usage for "inexperienced".' (I am grateful to Mr David B. Gardner for the S.T. ref.) Cf. yoke, 2, q.v.

greenacre. The falling of a set of goods out of the sling': dockers': mid-C.19–20. (OED Sup.) Perhaps ex Greenacre, a murderer (who buried the victim in sections in various parts of London) hanged at Newgate in 1837: the rope broke. greenback. See green-back, 4 and 5.

greener. A new hand; esp. one replacing a striker; also a foreign workman newly arrived: ca. 1888–1930. OED; Manchon.

greenery-gallery. Characteristic of the Aesthetic movement in the art and literature of the 1880s. Coined in 1880 by W.S. Gilbert in Patience, which was first performed on 23 Apr. 1881. Orig. s., it > coll. by 1890, and had, by 1920 > S.E. (as, e.g., it is in Hugh Walpole's Vanessa). This colour-scheme was a favourite with the Aesthetes.

Greenfields. In Mrs Greenfields, a 'bed' or a shelter in the open fields. W.A. Gape, Half a Million Tramps, 1936, 'Their lousy "kips" ... I'd sooner have "Mrs Ashtip" or "Mrs Greenfields" any day.' 'Mrs Ashtip' = a shelter near a lime-kiln or a furnace: both tramps' joc. c.: C.20. Also Greenfields Mission, as in Toby: a Bristol Tramp Tells his Story, Bristol Broadsides, 1979. Cf. sleep with Mrs Green, and:—2. In sit under [i.e. listen to a sermon by] Dr Greenfields, 'To go for a rural walk rather than attend divine worship. In use among the older Nonconformists' (J.A. Boycott, letter, 1938).

greenfinch. 'One of the Pope's Irish guard' (Daily Telegraph, 1 Nov. 1865): prob. from ca. 1855. (OED.) Contrast:—2. 'UDR [Ulster Defence Regt] women soldiers—known as Greenfinches from their original codename...' (Now!, 11 Apr. 1980).

greenfly. Collective for Intelligence Corps personnel since their adoption, mid-1970s, of a bright green beret: army nickname. (P.B.)

greengage. n. Stage: theatrical rhyming s.: from ca. 1880. (London Evening Standard, 19 Aug. 1931.) Later shortened to green. P.B.: but cf. green rag, and greenie, 1, qq.v.

greengages. Wages: rhyming s.: from ca. 1870. P.P., Rhyming Slang, 1932.

greenhead. A new hand, esp. if inexperienced: late C.16–early 19: coll. until ca. 1820 (see B.E. and Grose), then S.E. cf.:-

greenhorn. A new hand; also, a simpleton: from ca. 1680, but presumably several centuries older (see W.'s Surnames at Greenhorn). Coll. until C.20, when S.E. In mid-C.18–early 19, esp. 'an undebauched young fellow, just initiated into the society of bucks and bloods' (Grose, 1785); OED. Ex a young horned animal. Cf. greenhead.

greenhouse. An omnibus: London bus-drivers': ca. 1890–1914. Ex the large amount of glass in the windows.—2. The transparent cockpit that half covered the cockpit on the S.E. (a Sopwith aircraft): RFC/RAF: 1915–18. Granville.—3. Hence, perhaps, or independently, applied to the cockpits of WW2+ Service aircraft that were conspicuous for their amount of perspex 'window', e.g. the Bristol Brigand fighter-bomber, late 1940s–early 50s. (H. & P., 1943; Partridge, 1945.) Cf. conservatory.

greenie, -y. The curtain (strictly Greeny or the greeny): theatrical: ca. 1820–95. Egan, 1821.—2. A freshman: university coll.: ca. 1830–1900. Southie in The Doctor.—3. A simpleton: from ca. 1850: mainly US.—4. The white-plumed honey-eater (Ptilotis penicillata): Aus. schoolboys' coll.:—1896 (Morris).—5. A doping pill for a greyhound: Aus. (esp. Sydney) c., > low, esp. sporting s.: since ca. 1946. Lawson Glassop, Lucky Palmer, 1949.—6. A smooth, unbroken wave: Aus. surfers': since ca. 1950. (B.P.) Cf. glassy, n., 2.—7. A Radio Electrical Branch rating: RN, esp. FAA: since ca. 1950.—8. 'A supporter of the "green bans" on ... projects considered contrary to principles of "conservation"; a trendy conservationist' (Wilkes): Aus.: since early 1970s.—9. Var. of greenback, 5, a £1 note, as in 'a brutal lunge at the greenies in your wallet' (Time Out, 9 May 1980).

greening. In to have a greening for (someone), to be infatuated with that person: low:—1923 (Manchon). Prob. imm. ex dial. greening, a craving.

Greenland. In to come from Greenland, to be inexperienced: punning coll.: ca. 1835–1935. (Dickens, 1838.) Hence, a Greenlander, a new hand, or a simpleton: ca. 1840–1930. Also, occ. in later C.19, an Irishman (H., 5th ed., 1874).

greenman. A contractor speculating with money not his own: builders': ca. 1875–1910.

greenmans. The country: green fields: c.: C.17–early 19. Cf. daisyville; -MANS, in Appendix.

greens. Chlorosis: coll.: C.18–early 19. D'Urfey, 'The maiden ... that's vexed with her greens'. Ex green sickness.—2. Inferior or worn-out rollers: printers': from ca. 1870: ob.—3. Green vegetables, e.g. and esp. cabbage and salads: coll.: 1725 (SOD).—4. As short for greengages, q.v. = wages: C.20.—5. Sexual sport, esp. coition: low coll.: since mid-C.19. The term occurs, orig. as low s., later > low coll., in the following: to get or give or have or like (one's) greens, to obtain or grant, to enjoy the sexual favour. To be after (one's) greens (of men), or on for (one's) greens (of women), to be eagerly in pursuit of sexual satisfaction; also (of men) to go for (one's) greens. A modern example: 'He was getting a very bad case of the accumulated greens over Gillian' (Alex Hamilton, 'The Courses of True Love', Guradian, 14 Feb. 1983). Fresh greens, low s. = a new harlot; and the price of greens, a harlot's charges for her favours. S'elp me [= my] greens (or tatars)! was a low oath, orig. obscene—though this was rarely recognised: mid-C.19–early 20. (Mayhew, London Labour, iii, 144.)

Greenwich barber. A retailer of sand from at and near Greenwich in Kent: mid-C.18–early 19. Ex 'their constant shaving the sand banks' (Grose, 1st ed.).

Greenwich goose. A pensioner of Greenwich Hospital: naval and military: mid-C.18–19. (Grose, 1st ed.; H., 3rd–5th edd.) It occurs as goose in L.L.G., 6 Dec. 1823 (Moe); and to get Greenwich, in late C.18–20, meant to become a pensioner there: nautical coll.

greetin' fu'. Drunk: coll.: C.19–20. The Scottish properly = crying-drunk, a sense here ineligible.

greeze. See greaze.

grego. A rough greatcoat: mostly nautical: ca. 1800–80. John Davis, The Post-Captain, 1806; Marrayat; Bowen, 'Borrowed from the Levant'.

gregorian, Gregorian. A kind of wig: late C.16–20: a coll. that by 1690 was S.E.; now historical. Ex one Gregory, the Strand barber who 'invented' it, acc. to Blount, 1670.

Gregorian tree. The gallows: mid-C.17–early 19: s. >, by 1750, coll. Ex 'a sequence of three hangmen of that name', Gregory, says F. & H.; prob. ex Gregory Brandon, a hangman, fl. temp. James I; successor, his son, Richard, gen. called 'Young Gregory'. In mid-C.17, Gregory occ. = a hangman. OED.

[gregorine. A louse, esp. in the head: C.19: ex It.: thus F. & H. But the spelling is gregarine, ex L. gregarius, and the term is scientific for a parasitic protozoan.]

gregory. Abbr. Gregory-powder: 1897 (OED). Ex Dr James Gregory (d. 1822).—2. A shortening of of-

Gregory Peck. The neck: rhyming s., Londoners' and low Aus.: later C.20. Ex the well-known film actor.

grem. A person not good at skateboarding; a maladrofit generally: teenagers': late 1978+. (Miss Clare Paterson.) Short for gremlin, q.v. at senses 3 and 4 for evidence of the term's derivation from surfers' s.

gremlin. A mischievous sprite that, haunting aircraft, deludes pilots: airmen's: since late 1920s. E.P. maintained, despite the word's appearance in H. & P. and Jackson (both 1943), that it is now S.E. B.J. Watson, of Hull, in a letter pub'd in the 1 Dec. 1979 issue of Radio Times, refutes Roald Dahl's claim to have invented the term, and cites its appearance 'several times' in a poem that appeared in the journal the Aeroplane, 10 Apr. 1929. Mr Watson remembers that gremlins could even be helpful on occasion; they were 'responsible for all unaccountable happenings—good or bad'. (Thanks to Mrs C. Raab for drawing the letter to my attention. P.B.) See Appendix for further discourse.—2. A surfer lacking a board and sponging on his mates: Aus. surfers': since ca. 1955. (B.P.)—3. (Also gremmie.) A boy of 12 or 13 aping his elders: Aus. teenage surfers': since ca. 1960.—4. (Also gremmie.) 'A young and exuberant surfer, who is learning but still shows off' (Pix, 28 Sep. 1963): Aus. surfers': since ca. 1960.

gremmie. The pet-form of gremlin, 3 and 4. Sydney Bulletin, 30 Mar. 1963.

Grenadiers. The Grenadier Guards: coll. from ca. 1835.

Grenadine Guards, the. 'Grenadine, a pinky, sickly syrup supposed to be made from pomegranates' (Petch): British soldiers in France: WW1. A pun on that famous regiment, the Grenadier Guards.

Grens, the. The Grenadier Guards: army, but mostly Guardsmen's: late C.19–20.

Greshamite. A fellow of the Royal Society: late C.17–18: coll. soon > S.E. (B.E.) Cf. Wiseacres' Hall, q.v.

grey. Since gray and gray are, in later C.20, interchangeable, the former, because it occurs in more stock phrases, is the one preferred for this Dict. All terms and phrases in which either spelling might be expected are listed here below; there are no entries at gray.

grey, n. A halfpenny (or, in C.20, a penny) two-headed or two-tailed; the two-tailed penny used in 'two-up': c. and low s.: from ca. 1810, the halfpenny (Vaux); since ca. 1870, the penny. Ex Romany gry, a horse; grey being suggested by the synon. pony (see pony, 5). B. & L.—2. Abbr. grey-back, 1, a louse: ca. 1855–1925. H., 2nd ed.—3. Silver; hence, money: C.:—1909 (Ware). Ex the colour, silvery-grey.—4. A 'middle-aged, conventionally dressed/minded person' (Peter Fryer in the Observer colour sup., 3 Dec. 1967): hippies' (1965 or 66) and Flower People's (1967). Adopted ex US Negro derogatory s. for 'a white person'.

grey as a badger, be; as grannam's (or -um's) cat. To have grey or white hairs from age: coll.: resp. C.18–20 (ob.), C.18–19.

grey-back (or solid). A louse: mid-C.19—early 20: when not dial. it is coll.—and even then, chiefly US, though often used by British troops in WW1. Cf. Scots Greys.—2. (Mainly and orig. US) a Confederate soldier: coll.: 1862, US; 1864, Eng.; then historical. Ex colour of uniform.—3. A big wave: nautical coll.: late C.19–20. Bowen.—4. An army shirt: army: early C.20. (F. & G.) Ex colour.

grey-backed un. Same as grey-back, 1.

grey ballocks. Applied to a sour-tempered or sober-sided man: Forces': since ca. 1936. Contrast golden ballocks.

grey-cloak. An alderman above the chair: coll.: C.16–17. Ex his grey-furred collar.

Grey Funnel Line, the. The Royal Navy: mostly RN: C.20. By a pun on Alfred Holt & Co.—the Blue Funnel Line, of Liverpool. RN ships are grey-funnel liners.

grey ghost. 'A N.S.W. parking policeman, successor to the "brown bomber" [q.v.]: from colour of uniform' (Wilkes): Aus.: 1970s. Cf. grey meanie.

grey goose. A big stone loose on the surface: Scots coll.: C.19–20. Scott.

grey Lancers, the. The 21st Lancers (Empress of India's), which became, in 1921, 'C' Squadron of the 17th/21st Lancers. 'The 21st were nicknamed "The Grey Lancers", not because of their horses, which were invariably jet black, but because grey was the predominant colour in their uniform' (Carew).

grey mac(intosh) brigade. See dirty mac.

grey man. Black s. for a white man. See pinkie, 2, and cf. grey, n., 4.—2. A dull, boring undergraduate: Oxford and Cambridge students' pej. coll.: mid-C.20. (Mrs C. Raab, with thanks to Rhys Isaac, Oxford, 1960, and Mark Rimmer, Cambridge, 1983.)

grey mare. A wife, esp. if the dominant partner: coll.: C.19–20. Ex the old saying, 'The grey mare is the better horse'.—2. One's or the fare: rhyming s.: C.20. P.P., Rhyming Slang, 1932.

grey matter. Intelligence: joc. coll.: from ca. 1895. Ex S.E. sense, 'the grey-coloured matter of which the active part of the brain is composed' (OED). E.g. 'Yes, a nice fellow, but quite deficient of any grey matter.'

grey meanie. 'A parking policeman in Victoria: from colour of uniform' (Wilkes): Aus.: 1970s. See meanie, 2.

grey parson; grey-coat(ed) parson. A lay proprietor of tithes: coll.: the first, late C.18—early 19 (Grose, 1st ed.); the second, C.19; the third, ca. 1830 (Cobbett)—1910.

greyback. See grey-back.

greycing. Greyhound racing. See gracing.

greys. Grey flannel trousers and other-coloured coat: mostly undergraduates': from ca. 1925. By the 'OXFORD -ER(S)'. greyhound. W.N. Glascock, Sketch-Book (I), 1825, defines the plural as 'term applied to hammocks having a lean, or thin appearance, after having been lashed for stowage in the nettings upon deck': naval: ca. 1790–1840. (Moe.) Also nipper.—2. Abbr. Atlantic or ocean greyhound, a fast ocean—esp. Atlantic—liner: from ca. 1887, the first being the SS Alaska, as W. reminds us; ob.: journalists'.—3. A member of Clare College: Cambridge: ca. 1830–80.

Greys, the. 'The Royal Regiment of Scots Dragoons was raised in 1678, and [after several changes of title became] the Royal Scots Greys (2nd Dragoons) in 1920. In July 1971 they merged with the 3rd Carabiniers to form the Royal Scots Dragoon Guards (Carabiniers and Greys). "The Greys" have always been mounted on grey or white horses (in racing parlance a horse, even if it is pure virginal white, is a grey)' (Carew).—2. The officers of the old Northwest Fur Company: Can. coll.: ca. 1815–1900. Ex their grey uniforms; as opposed to the sky-blue of the Hudson's Bay Company. (Leechman).—3. As the greys, a fit of yawning; listlessness: coll.: ca. 1860–1930. Cf. blues.

gribble, n. Socks, gloves, mufflers, chocolate, etc.: Northamptonshire soldiers' coll.: 1915–18. (F. & G.) Ex Mr Gribble, a Northampton citizen, who maintained a fund for that purpose.

gribble, v. The action of sheep on moorland, 'gribbling across the hillside': shooting coll.: later C.20. ?a blend of graze + nibble. (P.B.)

grice or griccer. An engine-spotter: railway enthusiasts': later C.20. Also as v., to grice, to watch locomotives. Chris Irwin cites correspondence in Steam Railway, Apr. and June 1982, in which unlikely etymologies were put forward for the word. grick. A farthing. See grig, 1.

grid. A bicycle. OED Sup. cites D.H. Lawrence, 1924. Ex grid, a grid-iron. See gridiron, 5.—2. In to have (someone) on the grid, to have someone awaiting trial: police s.: since ca. 1930. (John Gosling, The Ghost Squad, 1959.) ? Ex the start of a motor-race; or perhaps from gridiron, 8, q.v.

Grid, the. The Grafton Club: clubmen's: from ca. 1870. (B. & L.) Cf. gridiron, 3, of which this is a shortening.—2. The Central Electricity Board: commercial: since ca. 1920.

Hence Grids, its stocks and shares.—3. (Also the grid.) An American Football field: Can.: adopted, ca. 1925, ex US, where current since ca. 1915 and short for gridiron, itself current since ca. 1910. Ex the yard-marks. W. & F.—4. The steam train that took boys to and from school: Hampton Grammar School: late 1920s+.

griddle, n. A violin: itinerant entertainers': late C.19–20. (Lester.) Another name for a violin, among vagrants, is bosh. Perhaps rhyming s., on fiddle.

griddle, v. To sing in the streets (whence vbl n. griddling): low or c.:—1851. Mayhew, 'Got a month for griddling in the main drag.' ?ex grizzle or perhaps ex Romany ghiv, to sing.

griddler. A street-singer, esp. without printed words or music: low or c.: from ca. 1855. Ex griddle. 'Seven Dials', says H., 1864, alluding to the former criminal centre of London (now part of WC1).—2. A tinker: tramps' c.: from ca. 1860. B. & L.

griddling homey or polone. A violinist, male or female: partly Parylaree: late C.19–20. Ex griddle, n.

gridiron. A county court summons:—1859; ob. Sala, 'He ... takes out the abhorred gridirons.' Ex, and orig., those of the Westminster Court, for its arms resemble a gridiron.—2. As the gridiron, 'The Honourable East India Company's striped ensign' (Bowen): nautical coll.: C.19.—3. As the Gridiron, the Grafton Club: clubmen's:—1870. Also simply the Grid.—It had a notable grill.—4. 'The Stars and Stripes of the United States' (Bowen): nautical coll.: since ca. 1860. See also next entry.—5. A bicycle: Aus. and Brit.: since early C.20. (B., 1942.) Cf. grid, 1.—6. A public-house sweetheart: Anglo-Irish: ca. 1810–60. 'A Real Paddy', Real Life in Ireland, 1822.—7. In the whole gridiron, the whole party: proletarian: from ca. 1860. (B. & L.) Perhaps suggested by the whole boiling, q.v. at boiling.—8. In on the gridiron (either absolute, C.19–20, or with defining circumstances, C.16–18), harassed; in a bad way: coll.: late C.16–20; ob., but see grid, 2. gridiron and doughboys. The US flag: nautical: ca. 1860–1910. (H., 3rd ed.) Cf. gridiron, 4.

gridiron grumbles at the frying-pan, the. The pot calls the kettle black': coll.: C.19.

gridironing. The practice of taking a gridiron-shaped piece of land, knowing that nobody else would buy the intermediate strips, which one could acquire at leisure: Canterbury Province, NZ: ca. 1850–80: coll. (Morris.) Also Aus., according to Brewer's Dict. of Phrase and Fable, which gives gridironer as one who does this.

gridirons. The bars on a prison-cell window: c.: from ca. 1870.

Grids. See Grid, 2.

grief. Serious trouble, esp. orig. in come to grief, to get into trouble; to fail: coll.:—1857. Whence, in active mode, to bring to grief, to involve in great trouble, or to cause to fail: coll.: from ca. 1870.—2. Hence, a specialisation of come to grief, to fall from a horse or a carriage: mainly sporting coll. Thackeray in The Newcomes, 'We drove on to the downs, and we were nearly coming to grief'. Grief, used elliptically in this sense, occurs in, e.g., the Sportsman, 28 Feb. 1891, 'The flag had scarcely fallen than [sic] the grief commenced'.

—3. Rejected film cut from the day's take. See MOVING-PICTURE SLANG, §6, in Appendix.

griff, n. Abbr. griffin, 2, by 1829 (OED), and 4.—2. In C.20 RN (the griff=news, information. (H. & P.) Cf. gen, n., 2, q.v. In the MN, since ca. 1939, it has the specialised sense of inside information (Peppitt), and in Aus. since ca. 1930, it is trustworthy information (B., 1943). L.A. notes, 1976, that phrases like 'What's the griff?' and 'Give me the griff on ...' had, by 1950, come into gen. use in Brit.: by 1980, slightly ob. See griffin, 9.—3. As in griff sense, a pickpocket's ability to size up an intended victim's psychology: since late 1940s. Bryan Moynahan in the Sunday Times, 11 May 1969.

griff, v. To deceive, to take (a person) in: Anglo-Indian: ca. 1830–1930. Ex early sense of:

griffin. 'A grinning booby, who hath lost a tooth or two at top, and the same at bottom' (Bee): app. ca. 1720–1850.—2. A new arrival from Europe: Anglo-Indian: 1793. Perhaps ex the unfortunate Admiral Griffin commanding in the Indian Seas in 1746–8. See Y. & B., who quote, for 1794, from Hugh Boyd, 'Griffin [capital letter] ... the fashionable phrase [in Madras]'.—3. Hence, a greenhorn: since ca. 1810 or earlier. It occurs in, e.g., Alfred Burton, Johnny Newcome in the Navy, 1818; and by specialisation, it= a naval cadet, as in C.J.R. Cook, The Quarter Deck, 1844. On p. 135 of that book, the cadets are referred to as 'the roaring griffins'—ex their noisiness. (Moe.) The term was prob. current ca. 1820–90.—4. A young subaltern: army: from ca. 1865; †. Abbr. griff in Besant & Rice, By Celia's Arbour, 1878.—5. A woman forbidding in appearance or manners: coll: ca. 1825–1925. Cf. S.E. gorgon.—6. Hence, a chaperon; a caretaker: coll.: ca. 1830–1900.—7. An umbrella: fast male society: ca. 1859–70. H., 1860.—8. An unbroken horse: English in China: since ca. 1875; in later C.20 S.E. in Hong Kong.—9. A signal or warning: c.:—1888. As s. in WW1+, esp. in give (ex tip) the griffin, v.i. or t. with dative, to give a warning, and in the straight griffin, the straight tip. An early occurrence of abbr. griff is in Nat Gould, Double Event, 1891. See griff, 2.

griffinage; griffinism. Derivatives from griffin, 2–4: †.

griffins. The leavings from a contract feast: trade:—1893; ob. by 1933.

griffish. Of or like a newcomer to India, hence of any greenhorn: Anglo-Indian > gen.: ca. 1836–1936. (Y. & B.) Ex griff, abbr. of griffin, 2–4. griffmetoll, griff-metoll. A sixpence: c.: ca. 1750–1800. Why?

grig; in early C.19, occ. grick (Bee). A farthing: c. of ca. 1690–1860. (B.E., Ainsworth.) Cf. gigg.—2. In pl, cash: mid-C.17–early 19.—3. In merry as a grig, very active and lively: C.18–20 (ob.) coll. Goldsmith, 'I grew as merry as a grig.' An extension of a merry grig, a jocose and lively person: C.16–18 coll. > S.E. ca. 1820, when also it > archaic. (Cotgrave, Wycherley, Grose.) Ex the cricket or possibly the young eel.

griggery-pokery. A pronunciation by Sir James Grigg concerning repatriation for troops in Burma: Army officers': 1944–5. A pun on jiggery-pokery.

grigs. See grig, 2

griller. See AUSTRALIAN UNDERWORLD, in Appendix, at bake, n.

grim, n. In on the grim, 'on the North-West Frontier of India. I believe Rudyard Kipling used the phrase' (Jackson): RAF: 1919+. It is, indeed, a grim place.—2. In old Mr Grim, q.v., death personified.

grim, v. To swindle: c.: late C.16–early 17. Greene, 1591, 'The Cheater, when he has no cosin to grime with his stop dice.' ?cognate with Fr. grimer.

grim, adj. Unpleasant: a C.20 (rare before 1918) middle- and upper-class coll. intensive. Evelyn Waugh, Decline and Fall, 1928, 'Marriage is rather a grim thought'; Agatha Christie, Why Didn't They Ask Evans?, 1934, 'I know,' said Bobby. 'Absolutely grim.'" Cf. awful and ghastly, and contrast nice.

grim show. A (very) exhausting ordeal: RAF: since ca. 1939. A not unnatural sense-development of grim; see show, n., 2.

griminess. Obscenity, eroticism in literature, 'smut': literary coll. Ware cites Daily News, 19 Jan. 1895.

grimmer, n. An unpleasant person: Public Schools': since mid-1930s. Ex grim, by the 'OXFORD-ER'.

grimmy. A middle-aged woman: since ca. 1960, ?earlier. Diana Winsor, Red on Wight, 1972, 'you'd see him at the Mecca ... going for the "old women"', as he says. 'What he means is, the grimmies are grateful'. Ex grim-faced or -visaged; relevant is the c.p. about such women: 'They don't yell, they don't tell—and they're very, very grateful'.

grimpeur. A good hill-climber: cyclists': since ca. 1945. Sense-adapted ex Fr.

grin. In on the (e.g. broad grin, grinning, e.g. broadly: coll.: from ca. 1800. In C.18, on the high grin, as in Swift.—2. As the grin, a quizzing: low: 1821 (Pierce Egan, Life in London); † by ca. 1860.—3. In stand the grin, to be ridiculed and laughed at: ca. 1820–50. Egan's Grose.

grin at the daisy-roots. To be dead and buried: Anglo-Indian (esp. Calcutta): from ca. 1880; ob. (Ware.) Cf. the (possibly derivative) military push up daisies, q.v.

grin in a glass case. 'To be shown as an anatomical preparation' (F. & H.): coll.: mid-C.18–mid-19. (Grose, 1st ed.) Ex the bodies and skeletons of criminals, formerly glass-cased at Surgeons' Hall.

grin like a Cheshire cat. See Cheshire cat, 2.

grin on the other side of (one's) face, esp. in some such context as 'You'll be grinning on the other side of your face when I have finished with you': coll.: late C.19–20. (Petch, 1966.)

grinagog, the cat's uncle. A 'Cheshiring' simpleton; one who grins without reason: mid-C.18–early 19. (Grose, 1st ed.) Punning grin. Cf. grinigo-gaby, q.v.

grincomes, grincums. Syphilis: a C.17 var. of crinkums, q.v. Jones, in Adrasta, 1635, 'In [a nobleman] the serpigo, in a knight the grincomes, in a gentleman the Neapolitan scabb, and in a serving man or artificer the plaine pox'.

grind, n. Hard work; routine: coll.: from ca. 1850.—2. Study, esp. for an examination: schools':—1856 (T. Hughes).—3. A plodding student: schools': ca. 1870–1900, now only US. Cf. grinder, 2.—4. A walk, esp. a 'constitutional': university:—1860.—5. A steeplechase: university (mainly Oxford): 1857, 'Cuthbert Bede'.—6. A training run; an athletic sports meeting: from ca. 1870: Oxford University. Chambers's Journal, Apr. 1872, 'The hero of a hundred grinds'.—7. The sexual act: late C.16–20; low coll. (Florio; D.H. Lawrence, Love in a Haystack). Esp. in do a grind (rarely of a woman), to coit: C.19–20.—8. As the Grind, the ferry-boat at Chesterton: Cambridge University: late C.19–early 20. B. & L.—9. A tutorial class of medical students: medical:—1933.—10. (Further to sense 7). A girl or woman regarded as a sex object, as in 'She's a great little grind'; in lesser nuances, the sexual titillation of a woman, or mere masturbation: the first, low and raffish, later C.20; the two latter, teenagers' of the later 1930s.—11. In on the grind, (of either sex) being, at the time, incontinent; gaining a living as a prostitute (cf. on the bash, batter, etc.): low: C.19–20.—12. (Of a woman) difficult to copulate with: C.20. (Jonathan Thomas, 1976.) Cf. sense 7 and contrast first nuance of sense 10.

grind, v. To study (hard); read a text; prepare for examination: all with with a coach understood and all v.i. (v.t. with at): school and university: from ca. 1835.—2. To work at a hard or a distasteful task, or at the daily routine: v.i., variants with on and away; v.t. with at or through: coll.: from ca. 1855.—3. V.t., to teach (a subject) in a plodding way, cf. gerund-grinder; to coach (a student): university: 1815 (SOD): ob.—4. To ride in a steeplechase: 1857, G.A. Lawrence, in Guy Livingstone (OED); slightly ob.—5. V.i., to have sexual intercourse: low coll.:—1811 (Lex. Bal.). Less gen. than do a grind, but still, 1983, current; have a grind is now much more usu. than do a grind, as L.A. noted in 1974. Cf. the n., 7 and 10–12.—6. To titillate a woman sexually, v.i. and t.: teenagers': late 1930s.—7. To masturbate: id.—8. To exhaust; be (like) hard work for: coll.: 1887; ob. by 1937. Talbot Baines Reed (OED).—9. See grinding down...

grind mustard with (one's) knees. To be knock-kneed: C.18–early 19. See Durham man.

grind-off. See grindo.

grind the coffee-mill. See coffee-milling and grinder, 4.

grind water for the captain's ducks. On a sailing-ship, to take the wheel at 6–8 a.m.: nautical: mid-C.19–20; ob. Bowen.

grind wind. To work the treadmill: c. of ca. 1880–1910.

grinder. A private tutor; a coach: university > gen.: 1813, Maria Edgeworth, 'Put him into the hands of a clever grinder or crammer.' Ob. by 1900, † by 1921.—2. A plodding student: schools': ca. 1870–1900.—3. A small coin: Aus. low:

C.20. Baker.—4. In take a grinder, 'To apply the left thumb to the nose, and revolve the right hand round it, as if to work a... coffee-mill' (F. & H.). A Cockney retort to an attempt on his credulity or good faith. Cf. take a sight and work the coffee-mill. The term was ob. in 1900, † in 1919; already in Pickwick we hear that this 'very graceful piece of pantomime' is 'unhappily, almost obsolete'. A var., presumably, upon 'cocking a snook'.—5. In scissor-grinder, q.v., an engine-room artificer.

grinders. Teeth: coll.: C.17–20. Ex S.E. sense (molars), as in Horace Walpole's 'A set of gnashing teeth, the grinders very entire'.

grindery. Shoemaking-material: shoemakers':—1887 (Baumann).

grinding. Vbl n. of to grind, q.v. at all senses.

grinding down the faces of the poor. 'C.p. when "boss" does not give "overdue" rise [in wages], etc.; ex Victorian dramas' and cheap novels' anti-heroes exacting toll from poor but honest, and if women, beautiful villagers' (L.A., 1974): since 1930s: usu. joc.

grinding-house. A house of correction: C.17–18 coll.—2. A brothel: C.19–20 (ob.) low.

grinding-mill. A tutor's house where students are prepared for examination: university: ca. 1860–1900. Ex a coffee-mill.

grinding-tool. The male member: low: C.19–early 20.

grindo or grind-off. A miller: ca. 1862–1910. Ex a character in the play, The Miller and his Men.

grindstone. The female pudend: low: mid-C.19–20. Ex grind, n., sense 7.—2. A private tutor; a coach: university: ca. 1850–1900. Ex grind, v., 3.—3. See nose to the grindstone; cut a block.—4. In to have the grindstone on his back, to (go to) fetch the monthly nurse for one's wife's confinement: C.18–19.

Gringo. An Englishman: used by Englishmen (and, of course, by the natives) in S. America: C.20. (Niall Alexander, letter, 1939.) An American Spanish name, ex Sp. gringo, 'gibberish': to the Spaniards and to the Mexicans, the Englishman appears to speak gibberish. See esp. my Name into Word, 1949.

'May the "gibberish" derivation in fact perhaps be the other way round? In European coll. Span. "gringo" means "foreigner", and in the Argentine too the word is applied to any foreigner who is not S. American, Eur. Spanish or Portuguese, although in other parts of S. America, "gringos" are only Eng. or N. American. And I suggest that the apparent "gibberish" talked by these foreigners derives its name from the "gringos" who talk it. I have seen it stated that the Irish volunteers who flocked to support Bolivar and other liberators of the former Spanish S. American colonies after the Napoleonic wars liked marching to the song "Green grow the rushes, o", which by Hobson-Jobson led to their becoming known as "gringos" by their S. Amer. paymasters and comrades. But I feel that the semantics may be rather strained.' (R.S., 1967.)

grinkcome, grinkum. See Grincomes.

Grinning Dears, the. The Grenadiers: other infantry battalions':—1909; slightly ob. Ware.

grinning stitches. Careless sewing; milliners': from ca. 1870; ob. Because the stitches are wide apart.

grinning through. 'When undercoat or any previous coat is partly visible after finishing coat of paint has been applied' (master builder, 1953): builders' and house-painters': late C.19–20. P.B.: I have heard the phrase applied also to underclothing showing through, e.g., a rent in one's trousers; this perhaps prompted the decorators' usage.

grip, n. Abbr. gripsack, a traveller's handbag: E.P. noted that, in the 1930s, both forms (orig. US) were occ. used in the British Empire as coll.: since ca. 1950, at latest, the short form has been very common, the longer rare.—2. Occupation, employment: Aus.: C.20. C.J. Dennis.—3. A place, e.g. a town: proletarian: late C.19–early 20.—4. Any knowledge, skill, privilege or possession which enables one to boast or practice oneupmanship: army: since ca. 1950. Cf. v., 4, from the victim's point of view. (P.B.)—5. In get a grip!, elliptical for '... of yourself, or yourselves', 'Pull yourself together!' This, dating from late 1940s (if not a decade earlier) is a common Army, esp. drill instructors', exhortation... "Put some effort into what you're doing!" Often pronounced gerragrip. Sometimes elaborated to get a grip of your knickers! (P.B., 1974).

grip, v.i. To seize sheep (for a shearer): Aus. s. (1886) >, by 1910, coll. OED.—2. To catch, seize, take; Public Schools' coll.: late C.19–20.—3. Hence, to steal: Public Schools', esp. Charterhouse, s.: C.20.—4. To bore (someone); hence griper, a bore, and the big grip, one's military autobiography: army, esp. officers': since ca. 1939. Perhaps suggested by the RAF's bind; cf. also grip, n., 4.—5. See grip off at BIRD-WATCHERS', in Appendix.

grip (one's) shit. In such phrases as 'He grips my shit' or 'What really grips my shit about it all is...', to annoy, irritate, anger: RAF: early 1970s. (P.B.)

gripe or gripes. A miser; a usurer; occ. a banker: coll.: C.17–18. Burton, 1621 (OED).—2. Only gripe. In late C.16–17 c., a cheating gamester. Greene.—3. See:

gripe, v. To complain, as in 'What are you griping about?': coll.: since ca. 1910, within my own knowledge; but probably late C.19–20. Ex the pains of colic. Hence, although much less common, n., as in 'What's the, or your, gripe now?': since ca. 1915.

gripe-fist, -money, -penny. A miser or a usurer: coll., resp. C.19, C.17, C.19. Cf. gripe-all, a grasping, mean person, C.19: ?S.E. griper. A collier bringing coal in barges to London: c.: late C.16–early 17. (Greene, 1591.) Cf. gripe, 2, q.v.

gripes. Colic. When, in late C.19–20, it is used of persons, it is coll.—either low or joc. (Earlier, S.E.; as still of animals.)—2. See gripe.—3. Tip the gripes in a tangle: rare Anglo-Irish for 'to shake hands'. See tip a daddle.

Gripes Hole. 'A hole close to the boat-house, thus called because the water there is very cold': Winchester College: mid-C.19–20. B. & L.

gripped at the knickers. Nervously tense: mid-1970s. R.S. cites a BBC Radio 4 discussion, 26 Feb. 1975. Prompted by get (one's) knickers in a twist, and get a grip of your knickers, an elab. of get a grip, q.v. at grip, n., 5.

gripped off. Angriily disappointed. See BIRD-WATCHERS', in Appendix, and cf. grip, n., 4, q.v.

gripper. He who catches sheep for the shearers: 1886: ob. Ex grip, v., 1. OED.—2. A miser: coll.:—1887; ob. Baumann.

gripping. Mean; miserly: Glasgow:—1934. Cf. gripe.

grippo. (usu. in pl. grippos). A free entertainment of any kind: RN: C.20. Hence, a grippo run, 'Free treat and entertainment ashore. A public entertainment for a ship's company which happens to be in a port or seaside resort' (Granville, who derives it from O.E. gripe, to grasp or take anything that's going).

grips or gripps. A scene-shifter: film: since ca. 1920. Cameron McCabe, The Face on the Cutting-Room Floor, 1937.

Grips, the. The Hongkong Hotel, Hong Kong: Far East: earlier C.20. C.S. Archer, China Serwant, 1946.

gristle (gen. the, occ. one's). The penis: low: since C.17. An early occurrence is in R. Head, The English Rogue, 1665, ch. X.

grit. Spirit; stamina; courage, esp. if enduring: orig. (1825, as clear grit), US; Anglicised as a coll. ca. 1860. Thackeray. (Clear grit was, in US, not a mere synon. but an intensive.) Ex its hardness. Cf. US sand.—2. A member of the Liberal or Radical Party: Can.: 1887; ca. 1884–7, a Clear Grit. The adj. gritty (US, 1847) has never caught on in England.—3. Food: army, esp. Royal Artillery: since ca. 1930. H. & P.

gritty. Penniless: lower classes': since ca. 1870. (B. & L.) Cf. dusty, adj.—2. Hence, in difficult, 'rugged', straitened circumstances or position, characterised by hardship and sociological handicap: since the late 1950s. Anthony Lejeune in Daily Telegraph, colour sup., 10 Mar. 1967, 'The Prime Minister's sheep words range from "gritty" (meaning—well, what does it mean?) to the statesmanlike exhortation "Belt up".—3. (Of a person) in a bad humour or mood: since ca. 1955. (Petch, 1969.) I.e. abrasive, like sandpaper.

gritty whiskers. A day's, or a few days', growth of beard: domestic coll.: C.20. (P.B.)

grizzle, n. One who frets: coll.: 1703, Ned Ward (Mathews).—2. A (fit of) weeping: Cockney: late C.19–20. (A. Neil Lyons, Arthur's, 1908.) 'Perhaps after drizzle, a light rain' (Leechman), but more prob. directly ex-grizzle, v. To fret; complain whiningly or lachrymously: coll.: 1842, ballad (OED). The low coll. form is grizzle one's guts.—2. To sing, esp. in the streets for a living: c.:—1926 (F. Jennings, In London's Shadows). Perhaps by pun ex griddle.

grizzle-guts, occ. -pot. A tearfully or whiningly ill-tempered or melancholy person: low coll.: from ca. 1875. The grizzle-pot form has, since ca. 1920 been common also in Aus., where (since ca. 1944—under American influence) grizzle-puss has > even commoner. (B.P.)

grizzler. A grumbler; a person given to fretting: dial. (—1900) and coll. (C.20). Ex grizzle, v., 1.—2. A street singer: c.: from before 1926. See grizzle, v., 2.

grizzling; street grizzling. Vbl n. of grizzle, v., 2.

groan and grunt. Copulation. An occ. var. of grumble and grunt, q.v. Franklyn 2nd.—2. In the groan and grunt game, professional wrestling: sporting: since ca. 1950. (Leechman.)

groaner. A thief specialising in funerals and revivalist meetings: c.: ca. 1840–1900. (Sinks, 1848.) Ex-groaner and sigher. A wretch 'hired by methodists and others to attend their meetings for the purposes of fraud' (Potter, 1795). Cf. groaner.

groanies. Adults. See grownies.

groat. As the Groat, journalists' coll. for The John o' Groat Journal: C.20.—2. In a cracked or slit groat, gen. in negative, something worthless; nothing: coll.: C.17. Dekker, 'Peace, you cracked groats'; Penn, 'The People... that would not trust an Archbishop about a Slit Groat' (OED).

groats. In save (one's) groats, to come off handsomely: university: mid-C.18—early 19. Ex the nine groats deposited by every degree-candidate, who, with honours, recovers them. Grose, 1st ed.—2. The chaplain's monthly stipend: nautical: ca. 1850–1914.

grob. Coarse, nasty: S. African: since ca. 1945. Perhaps cf. the N.E. Eng. dial. grob, 'to dig in soil or mud, as children do' (EDD) and the S.E. v. grub. Cf. the Ger. grob, coarse, rough, unpolished.

grobbly. 'A farewell booze-up, financed by voluntary contributions from mess members: RN: 1970s' (Peppitt). Perhaps dialectal.

grocer. An Equipment Officer: RAF: since ca. 1925. Jackson, 'The suggestion that he has a nasty commercial attitude towards life.' Ex: 2. A Victualling Warrant Officer: RN: C.20. P-G-R.

groceries. See grocery, 2.—2. Bombs: RAF: since ca. 1930. Thus, "We delivered the groceries" (Jackson). Cf. cabbage, cookie and gardening, all euph. for bombs and bombing.

groceries sundries. 'Wine and spirits sold furtively on credit to women': grocers':—1909 (Ware). Because so 'itemed'.

Grocer's Express, the. A GWR [Great Western Railway] train running four times a week from London to Aberdeen with margarine, tea, coffee, cocoa: railwaymen's: 1920s and 30s.

grocer's hitch. 'A nondescript knot that won't come undone' (Granville): RN: C.20. Landlubberly.

grocer's shop. An Italian: rhyming s., on wop: later C.20. Ronnie Barker, Fletcher's Book of Rhyming Slang, 1979.

grocery. Small change in copper; copper coins collectively: C.18—early 19: s. or, more prob., c. Bailey.—2. (With the, occ. in the pl) sugar: ca. 1838–1910. Lytton, 1841, 'A pint of brandy... Hot water and lots of the grocery'. According to the EDD, however, the groceries is Anglo-Irish for a decanter of whiskey and a bowl of sugar: Anglo-Irish: 1839, Lever.

grockle. A regular visitor to the Torbay area: 1962, when used in a film (The System) scripted by Peter Draper. Mr Draper didn't invent the term, which arose from a remark that the hordes of visitors resembled clowns, Grocks, whence Grockles, little Grocks, the ref. being, obviously, to the famous clown. It has attracted some attention in the national press. Writing to me, 1977, Mr Draper adds that, in near-by Dartmouth, the word has been changed to grackle. I don't pretend to know; but it does seem that it's a spontaneous-combustion word. P.B.: as grockle it had, by 1978, widespread currency throughout the South-West and the Channel Islands. And at the FAA Search and Rescue helicopter squadron at Culdrose, Cornwall, 'rescuing is "grockle-grappling". The SAR crews talk ironically of "good grockling weather", that is weather in which holiday-makers are likely to get into difficulties... ' (John Winton in Illustrated London News, May 1978). Derivatives include grockle bait, cheap arcades; grockle cans, motor coaches full of visitors, and grockle fodder, fish and chips.

grog, n. Rum diluted: nautical: since 1770. Hence seven-water grog, extremely weak grog: nautical: from ca. 1830. Marryat.—2. Spirits and water: from ca. 1790.—3. Strong drink in gen.: from ca. 1820. Orig. s., all these senses were coll. by 1840, S.E. by 1870. Tex program, whence Old Grog, the nickname of Admiral Vernon, who, in the summer of 1740, ordered the Navy's rum to be diluted and who wore a program cloak.—4. A party at which grog is drunk: coll.: 1888: ob. (OED).—5. A 'groggy' (q.v.) horse: 1818, The Sporting Magazine, vol. ii (OED): ob. by 1900, † by 1920.—6. Beer: Aus. coll.: C.20. (Dick.) grog, v. To strike, to punch, someone: app. a lowerdeck term, echoic rather than related to sense 2, unless it's being used for 'to make drunk with grog'. Bill Truck, in Blackwood's, Jan. 1822.—2. To drink grog: 1833 (SOD): s. >, ca. 1850, coll. grog-bibber. A seasoned drinker, esp. of rum: naval: C.19. Bill Truck, July 1825.

grog-blossom. A pimple caused by strong drink: low:—1791: ob. Grose, 3rd ed.; Thomas Hardy, 'A few grog-blossoms marked the neighbourhood of his nose.'—2. Hence, the red nose itself, esp. if bulbous, whether caused by strong drink or not: coll.: C.19–20. (L.A., 1974.)

grog-fight. A drinking party: military: later C.19—early 20. H., 3rd ed.

grog on. To drink heavily over a long period: Aus. coll.: since ca. 1940. Hence, since ca. 1945, grog-on, n., a heavy drinking party. (B.P.) The verb was current among United Nations troops in Korea, ca. 1952–5, where Australian Forces, as usual, distinguished themselves, and thence it gained some later usage among British servicemen. (P.B.) grog on board, have. To be drunk: C.19–20 (ob.) nautical. Egan's Grose.

grog-shop. The mouth: pugilistic: from ca. 1840; ob. Thackeray.

grog-tub. A brandy bottle: nautical: ca. 1860–1914.

grogged, be. To be tipsy: ca. 1840–1900: coll. Cf. Grose, 1796, 'A grogged horse; a foundered horse'. Ex grog, v.: q.v. groggified. A late C.18–19 var. (Grose, 2nd ed.), latterly nautical, of the first sense of:

groggy. Tipsy: 1770: ob. (Grose, 1st ed.) Ex grog, n., 1, 2.—2. Whence, (of horses) tender-footed: stables s. > j.: 1828. Youatt, 1831, in The Horse: ob.—3. Whence, unsteady on one's feet: pugilistic and gen.: from ca. 1830. Thackeray. (For these three senses, OED).—4. In poor health: C.20. Cf. Aus. crook.

groggham. A horse, esp. if old: c. in late C.18–19, then low; ob. (Grose, 1st ed.) Origin ?Cf. prad.

groin. A (race-course) betting ring: c.: C.20. Esp. among pickpockets and race-course thieves, who frequently refer to the betting rings as the bob (shilling) groin and the dollar (five-shilling) groin. David Hume. Prob. by a pun on:—2. A finger ring: c.: C.20. F.D. Sharpe, 1938. (See Underworld.)—3. Hence, a diamond: c.: since ca. 1940. (John Gosling, The Ghost Squad, 1959.) Cf.:-

506

groiny (also pron. griny). A ring; a diamond—or other precious stone—when in a ring: c., and grafters' s.: C.20. (Margery Allingham, Look to the Lady, 1931.) A diminutive of the prec.

groise, n. Grease: Haileybury: C.20. (Marples.) At Tonbridge School, esp. hair-oil: mid-C.20. (P.B.) By form perversion.—2. At Uppingham, it=one who is over-efficient, one who curries favour by showing his efficiency: since the late 1920s. Cf. the Cheltenham groise, to curry favour; hence, groiser, one who does so: since ca. 1925. Marples.—3. A 'gorge' or 'spread' of edibles, etc.: Scottish Public Schools': since ca. 1870. (Ian Miller, School Tie, 1935.) Hence, groisey, greedy (Miller).

groise, v.i. To work hard; hence n., a 'swot': Harrow School: late C.19–20. Lunn.—2. See groise, n. 2.—3. To 'fiddle'; to cheat in a petty way: Charterhouse: since ca. 1930. (Peter Sanders.)—4. See groyze.

groiser. A toady: Tonbridge School: mid-C.20. Cf. groise, n., 2. (P.B.)

groisy. Oily, as in 'Who's that groisy oick?', that swarthy youth using overmuch hair-oil; also, contemptuously, 'sycophantic': Tonbridge School: late 1940s. (P.B.)

gromal. An apprentice: nautical coll.: mid-C.18–19. (Bowen.) A corruption of dial. gom(m)eral(l), -el(l), -il(l), a simpleton (EDD).

grommet. Var. spelling of grummet, coition, hence, the female sex.

groot. A sinister person: since ca. 1950. A back-formation exgrooly. Sinister: from ca. 1920; now almost coll. Ronald Knox, Still Dead, 1934, 'Dashed cowardly of me, but... It's just the tiniest bit grooly, isn't it?' A blend of gruesome + grisly.

groom. A croupier: gamblers' c. > s.: late C.19–20. Baumann.

groove, n. A profound pleasure, a true joy, whether a thing, an act, or a person: beatniks', hippies', and among their like and their descendants: since ca. 1960. As in 'It was a real groove, being with Hardy', and, of a delightful youth, 'He's a groove', both in Adrian Reid, Hitch-Hiker, 1970.—2. See groovy, 2, for in the groove. Cf.:—3. As in 'I am back in the groove', I am working properly again after a momentary lapse of concentration, co-ordination, etc.: RAF: later C.20. 'I feel comfortable and in the groove' (Phantom).

groove, v. To 'make good progress, co-operate' (Peter Fryer in the Observer sup., 3 Dec. 1967): jazz- and drug-addicts' and hippies': since ca. 1960.—2. To be relaxed and happy: id.: since early 1960s. Adrian Reid, Hitch-Hiker, 1970.—3. V.t. To please (a person): adopted, ca. 1972, ex US. (It has been admitted by COD, 1976.)

groovy. Of settled habits or ratty mind: coll.: only from ca. 1880, although grooviness, likewise coll., is recorded by the OED as early as 1867.—2. Also in the groove. Lost in jazz (swing music) ecstasy: adopted, ca. 1940, ex US. (Observer, 16 Sep. 1956.) 'Like most jazz expressions, referred first to players, and only later to "fans". When the player suddenly hit his real stride, so that he improvised brilliantly and effortlessly, he was "in the groove".' (Priestley.) See also JAZZ TERMS, in Appendix.—3. Excellent: Aus. teenage surfers' (Pix, 28 Sep. 1963); in later 1960s, also Can. and Brit. teenagers', adopted ex US (Leechman; Adrian Reid, Hitch-Hiker, 1970); ob. by 1975. Ex:—4. Notably alert, progressive, well-informed, esp. in jazz music: beatniks': since ca. 1959. (Anderson.) By 1967, widely used by teenagers; on 10 Mar. 1967, indicted by Anthony Lejeune in Daily Telegraph, colour sup.—5. Sexually attractive: jazz- and drug-addicts', and hippies': since early 1960s. Peter Fryer, as at groove, v., 1.—6. Used, by addicts, to describe the effect of amphetamine: 1970s. Home Office.

grope, n. A ground operational exercise: RAF: since ca. 1935. (Jackson.) Cf. dry swim and teut.—2. See group grope.

groper. A blind man: c.: mid-C.17—mid-19. Coles, 1676.

—2. (Gen. in pl) a pocket: c. or low: late C.18—early 19. G. Parker.—3. A midwife: low (? orig. c.): C.18—mid-19. E. Ward; Grose, 1st ed.—4. The blindfolded person in blind-man's-buff: ca. 1810–1914. (OED.)—5. As G-, a Western Australian: Aus.:—1926 (Jice Doone). I.e. a 'sand-groper'. groperess. A blind woman: low: ca. 1820–60. (Bee.) Ex groper, 1.

Groperland; occ., sol., Gropherland. Western Australia: from ca. 1925. See groper, 5.

Gropework, the. The Gourock Ropework Co. Ltd.: Scottish: C.20—but † by 1960.

groping for Jesus. Public prayer: lower classes': 1882. (Ware.) Ex Salvationists' cry, grope for Jesus—grope for Jesus! Groppi gong. See Naffy medal.

Groppi's Light Horse; Short Range Desert (or Shephard's) Group. Combatant soldiers' names for Base troops at Cairo: army: 1940–3. Sarcastic ref. to a famous tea-shop and a famous hotel in that city; the latter refers also to the Long Range Desert Group, a forerunner of the Special Air Service of post-war years. Also sometimes Groppi's Hussars. Peter Sanders in Sunday Times mag., 10 Sep. 1967.

gropus. 'The coat-pocket—from the manner of groping for its lesser contents', says 'Jon Bee', 1823: ca. 1820–50. P.B.: but cf. groper, 2, q.v.

Grosvenor Highlanders, the. The Gordon Highlanders: Army (mostly officers'): C.20. Envious.

grot. A mess(-room): RN: C.20. (Bowen.) I.e. a grotto.—2. A hide-out: Aus. c.: C.20. B., 1942.—3. One's home, house, other residence or accommodation: RN; RM: since ca. 1930. John Winton, We Saw the Sea, 1960 (RN); Christopher Hawke, For Campaign Service, 1979 (RM). Ex sense 1.—4. Dirt, filth, 'gunge': Services': 1960s. A back-formation from grotty, 2 and 3. 'It was no palace. There was grot in the corner for one thing, and it stank' (Heart).

grotch, n. and v. (To) vomit: Services', esp. army: since ca. 1950. (P.B.)

grote. An informer (?): low s. or perhaps c.: ca. 1880–1920. W.L. George, A Bed of Roses, 1911 (one prostitute to another) "'What are you following me for?" she snarled. "If you're a grote, it's no go. You won't teach the copper anything he doesn't know."

Grotsend-on-Sea. Any unprepossessing township, as in 'Oh, it was absolute Grotsend-on-Sea, but there were a couple of good bookshops there': since mid-1970s. (Mrs Barbara Huston.) Ex grotty, 2.

grotty. New, or newfangled, but useless; esp. in 'dead grotty': since ca. 1961. Ex 'grotesque'.—2. (Very) inferior, bad—'crummy' or, in longer-established s., 'lousy': Liverpool s.: C.20. Popularised by the Beatles and, by 1962, fairly gen. among teenagers. It occurs notably in Hansard, 25 June 1968 (Petch).—3. (Of things) very disagreeable; (of persons) very irritable. D.B. Gardner notes that it was in use at New College, Oxford, by 1957. Adrian Reid, Hitch-Hiker, 1970, 'The weather turned grotty in the mountains'.

grouce. Var. spelling of grouse.

ground. In go down to the ground, to defecate: C.17 coll. Middleton in his Family of Love, 'Do you go well to ground?' Cf. C.19 medical j., get to the ground.—2. In suit down to the ground, to be thoroughly acceptable or becoming: coll.: from ca. 1875. Miss Braddon, 'Some sea coast city ... would suit me down to the ground.' But down to the ground is occ. used with other vv. Cf. the M.E. all to ground (W.).—3. In (to be) put on the ground, to be made an insurance inspector: insurance s.: C.20. (Michael Harrison, Spring in Tartarus, 1935.) He spends much time visiting prospective clients.—4. See map the earth ...

ground floor. As the ground floor, the inside, lower deck, of a double-decker bus: busmen's: from ca. 1931. Daily Herald, 5 Aug. 1936.—2. In let (someone, or people) in on the ground floor, (of the promoters) to allow to share in a financial or commercial speculation on equal terms: adopted ex US ca. 1900: mainly Stock Exchange and commerce. From the opp.

angle, get, or be let, in ...—3. Hence, to be in on the ground floor, to be in on the early stages of, e.g., a trend or technical development: coll.: later C.20. (L.A., 1974.)

ground(-)loop. 'Aircraft crash' (Gerald Emanuel, 1945): RAF: 1940+. The last looping of the loop. 'An aircraft bursting a tyre on landing would swing (perhaps if the undercarriage collapsed) through 180°. This is referred to as a ground loop' (RAF officer, late 1961), and is j. ground-parrot. A small farmer: Aus.:—1898; ob. Suggested by cockatoo, n., 1, and ex the ground-parrot or Psittacus pulchellus. Morris.

ground-pounders. Air-to-ground attack crews: RAF: 1970s. (S/Ldr G.D. Wilson, 1979.) Cf. mud-movers, and the earlier ground-strafer.

ground-squirrel. A hog, a pig: nautical: ca. 1790–1860. Grose, 3rd ed.

ground-strafer; agent corresponding to next (both senses). Partridge, 1945.

ground-strafting. A low-flying attack on, e.g., transport: RAF: since 1939. (H. & P.) See strafe.—2. Hence, 'careless driving by servicemen' (H. & P.): 1940+.

ground stunt. An aeroplane attack at a low altitude: Air Force coll.: 1915; ob. F. & G.

ground-sweat. A grave: c. or low: late C.17—mid-19. (B.E.) Esp. in have, or take, a ground-sweat, to be buried. Cf. dial. take a g.-s. about anything, to worry oneself greatly, and the C.19 dial. proverb, 'a ground-sweat cures all disorders.' EDD; Apperson.

ground wallah. Any RAF member working only on the ground: Air Force coll.: 1915. (F. & G.) The term continued in use until WW2 (Jackson), but was † by ca. 1950.

Ground Walloper. That fat little gremlin who is in charge of flying: RAF: 1941+. Perhaps a perversion of Grand Walloper, the gremlin king. See GREMLIN, in Appendix.

grounded. Deprived of alcoholic and amorous adventure; applied esp. to a newly married man: RAF: since ca. 1940. (Partridge, 1945.) Ex the technical sense, '(temporarily) affected to ground duties': he can no longer be a fly-by-night.—2. 'Stranded for lack of petrol' (Peter Sanders, 1967): army in N. Africa: 1940–3.

grounder. A low-keeping ball: cricketers' coll.: 1849; ob. Lewis. Cf. sneak(er).—2. In angling, a catching the ground: 1847, Albert Smith (OED): s. > j. or coll.—3. A knock-down blow: from late 1880s: s.; in C.20, coll.—4. (Cf. sense 2.) 'A ship that is liable to be run aground through bad seamanship': nautical coll.: from ca. 1860. B. & L.

grounders. 'Your "oppo's" entire tot of rum given to you as a very exceptional favour' (Granville): RN: since ca. 1910. 'Ground and all', by the 'OXFORD -ER(S)'.

groundhog. A meteorologist: Can.: since ca. 1969. 'Based ... on the traditional appearance of the groundhog on Feb. 2 to determine weather prospects' (Leechman, 1971.) On that day, called Groundhog Day, this North American marmot comes out of hibernation: if it's sunny and he can therefore see his shadow, he prudently returns to hibernation for six more weeks because he then presumes the weather will be wintry. (Can. and US folklore.)

groundies. Ground crews: RAF: WW2. (J.B. Mindel, 1980.) Cf. rouseabout.

group grope. Originally, 'heavy petting only' (W. & F., 1975), but soon 'a sexual orgy', as in 'At group gropes ... you can get anything you want' (Hollander): adopted, ex US, ca. 1971. Cf. gang bang.—2. 'In the 1960s the United States saw the growth of a number of group-therapy cults which introduced into their procedures various rituals of mass-touching. These "group-gropes", as they were called ...' (Desmond Morris, Man-Watching, 1977). By ca. 1974 the term was being applied, in UK, to the use of group-working in psychotherapy, where the mutual 'groping' is mental rather than physical. (P.B.) group-happy. Unreliable as a soldier, because his release (according to age-group) is near: army: 1945–6.

grouper. 'An Officer on a Group Headquarters Staff' (Jackson): RAF coll.: since ca. 1925.

groupie, -y. Group Captain: RAF coll.: since before 1930. H. & P.—2. 'A teenage camp-follower of pop-groups' (TLS, 16 Oct. 1970); 'a girl who associates with musicians for social and sexual purposes. An English book, Groupie, by Jenny Fabian [1968] is devoted to this subculture' (B.P., 1974). OED's earliest citation: 1967. In fact, used in Brit. since ca. 1965. P.B.: also in joc. usage, as 'After two productions at the National Theatre ("I [Maria Aitken]m a Peter Hall groupie") the parts are more important than the place...' (Telegraph Sunday mag., 1 July 1979).

grouse, n. A grumble: orig. (ca. 1890 soldiers' s.); since WW1, gen. coll. Ex the v.—2. As the grouse, the very best of anything: Aus. c. > gen. coll.: C.20. McNeil, 'Go for the grouse, seek what is worthwhile': later C.20.—3. 'Most commonly used in reference to "outside" tobacco: [Aus.] prison slang' (McNeil): later C.20.—4. In do a grouse, to look for, or successfully follow, a woman: low: from ca. 1850; ob. Either ex the 'running down' of the bird or ex grouse, to shoot grouse. Cf. grouse, v., 2, q.v.

grouse; occ., but not after 1914, grouce, v. To grumble: dial., from ca. 1850 (see W.), >, by ca. 1880, soldiers' s. that, ca. 1919, > gen. coll. Kipling, 1892, 'If you're cast for fatigue by a sergeant unkind, |—Don't grouse like a woman, nor crack on, nor blind.' cognate with Old Fr. groucier; and ?cf. US grout, to grumble (1836: Thornton).—2. To coit with a woman: dial. and s.: mid-C.19—early 20. Ex dial. grouse, to pry, search.

grouse (or grouce), adj. First-class (e.g. hotel); excellent: Aus.: since ca. 1920. (B., 1942.) Cf. the n., 2 and 3. Grouse sort in a juvenile synonym of good sort, 3, q.v., the opp. of drack sort: since ca. 1940. B., 1953.

grouse-butt. A front line 'island', an isolated, or a serial, strong point: army, officers' rather than other ranks': WW1. (H.E. Harvey, Battle-Line Narratives, 1928.) Ex grouse-shooting.

grouser. A grumbler: 1885, J. Brunlees Patterson, Life in the Ranks (OED Sup.): soldiers' >, by 1920, gen. coll. Ex grouse, v., 1, q.v.—2. One who runs, sexually, after women: low: from ca. 1855; ob. by 1914, † by 1920.—3. A rowing man, a 'wet bob': sporting: ca. 1880—1910.

grousing. A sexual search for women; the habit thereof. Cf. go grousing = do a grouse. Both, low: from ca. 1850; ob.—2. Vbl n. of grouse, v., 1, q.v.

grout, n. Bread: Guards' Depot at Caterham, WW1, and decreasingly later. John o' London, 3 Nov. 1939.

grout(e), v. To work or study hard: Marlborough and Cheltenham Colleges: from ca. 1870. Ex the S.E. sense, dig with the snout.

grout-bag. One who studies hard: English schoolboys': since ca. 1880. (E.F. Benson, The Babe, B.A., 1911.) Ex prec. entry.

grouter. One who takes an unfair advantage; the unfair advantage itself: Aus.: since ca. 1918. Ex phrase on a or the grouter, out of one's turn, interferingly; unfairly: Aus. army (1916); by 1919, gen. low. S. esp. come in on a grouter, e.g. to obtain an issue to which one is not entitled. Ultimately, perhaps, of the same origin as grout, v.; imm. ex the j. of the game of two-up, where it is applied to one who enters the game only when it seems likely that the spinner will 'spin out' or fail to 'head them'. Prob. a corruption of go-outer. See boxer, 3, and the citations in Wilkes.

grouty. Peevish; sulky: coll. orig. (1836), US; anglicised ca. 1870; ob. Ultimately ex Eng. dial. grouty, thundery.

Grove, the. 'West Indian slang for Notting Hill, W. London (possibly from Ladbroke or Westbourne Grove)' (Powis): 1970s.

Grove of the Evangelist. St John's Wood: ca. 1870—1910. Cf. Apostle's Grove, and Sinjin's Wood, synon. nicknames.

grovel. Sherborne School s., from ca. 1890, as in Alec Waugh, The Loom of Youth, 1917: 'He led the "grovel" (as the scrum was called at Fernhurst), and kept it together.'

grovel, grovel! Expression of abject apology for, e.g., arriving late at a meeting with a friend: joc. coll., often fem.: later C.20. Cf. cringe, cringe! (Mrs C. Raab, 1983.)

groves, the. The latrines: Lancing: since ca. 1920. (Marples.) Cf. Marlborough's woods.

grow, v.i. Shortened from grow (one's) feathers, usu. as growing (one's) feathers; being allowed to let one's hair and beard grow, 'a privilege accorded to convicts for some months before their discharge, that they may not be noticeable when free' (B. & L.): prison c.: ca. 1870—1915.—2. See I've seen (th)em grow!

grow on trees. See money doesn't...

grow up! (Often as why don't you grow up?), 'Don't be so naive!', 'Stop being so childish!': since late 1930s. (Petch, 1966.) Prob. ex US; Berrey records it.

growing pains. The difficulties and anxieties of getting settled down in life when one is young: coll.: C.20. Ex the lit. growing pains.

growing up. 'Doctors' desk-side synonym for growing old' (L.A., 1969).

growl, n. The female pudend: a shortening of growl and grunt, rhyming s. (an occ. var. of grumble and grunt) on cunt: low: ca. 1890—1930.

growl-biter. A cynic: low: late C.19—early 20. Ex prec. L.A., 1974, notes the 1930s raffish growl in her bushy for the action.

growl you may — but go you must! A nautical c.p. uttered 'when the watch below have to turn out of their bunks to shorten sail in bad weather': late C.19—20. (Bowen.) The moderation of the language indicates the gravity of the need.

growler. A four-wheeled cab: coll.: 1865 (SOD). Perhaps, as B. & L. suggest, a pun on sulky, though that term denoted a single-seater horse-drawn carriage; or from the vehicle's tendency to creak and rattle, or its driver's to grumble. Cf. crawler, 1.—2. Hence, work the growler, to go in a cab from 'pub' to 'pub': low coll.: late C.19—20; ob. Manchon.—3. A dog; Anglo-Irish: C.19. 'A Real Paddy', Real Life in Ireland, 1822.—4. 'A low-lying mass of ice, frequently not showing up white like an iceberg, in the night-time not distinguishable from the surrounding sea' (and usually small): mostly nautical: since ca. 1910. Gibbard Jackson, Twenty-Six Sea Yarns, 1931.

growler-shover. A cabman: low: late C.19—early 20. (Ware.) Ex prec., 1.

growlery. One's private sitting-room: joc. coll.: ex Dickens's coinage in Bleak House, 1852—3. Cf. den, snuggery. OED.

growly. Subject, temperamentally or incidentally, to moroseness or ill temper expressed in growls: coll.: from ca. 1920.

grown. The corpse of an adult: undertakers': from ca. 1870; ob.—2. An adult: coll.:—1923 (Manchon), Abbr. grown-up, q.v.

grown-man's dose. A very large drink; much liquor: coll.: from ca. 1860.

grown(-)up. An adult: coll.: from ca. 1810. (In C.20, S.E.) Dickens, in Our Mutual Friend, 'I always did like grown ups.'

grownies. 'Grown-ups', esp. one's own, hence also one's friends', parents: teenagers': 1970s. Often spelt, where the pun is intentional, groanies. Synonyms are crumbles, oldies, wrinklies: witness 'The Times Diary' in The Times, 6 Sep. 1976, where grownies is mentioned.

groyze. To spit: Conway-cadets:—1891; ob. (John Masfield, The Conway, 1933.) Perhaps cf. dial. grouzje (etc.), to have a chill before a cold.—2. Or as groyse: var. spellings of groise, q.v.

grozzle, n. and v. 'This takes place at well-conducted tea-parties' (Daltonian, Dec. 1946): Dalton Hall, Manchester: since ca. 1920. Perhaps a blend of grub + guzzle.

grub, n. Food; provisions of food: 1659. Until ca. 1830, low. Ca. 1750—1830, gen. in grub and bub, or bub and grub, food and drink (see bug): of the latter, Parker in 1789 says: 'A mighty low expression'. Maginn; Thackeray, 1857, 'He used to ... have his grub too on board.'—2. Whence, a meal, a feed: from ca. 1855; ob. Hughes.—3. (For etymology, cf. sense 5.) A short, thick-set person (rarely a woman): coll.: C.15–17.—Cf. 4. A dirty and slovenly, gen. elderly, person: coll.: from ca. 1890.—5. A low-keeping ball; a 'grounder'—and, like it, only of a bowled ball: cricketers': ca. 1820–1910. Ex the lowly 'insect' so named.—6. In like grub, greatly or enthusiastically: low: 'I am on like grub' (Baumann, 1887); ob. by ca. 1930.—7. In ride grub, to be sullen; ill-tempered: coll. (—1785); ob. by 1860, † by 1890. (Grose, 1st ed.)? ex dial., which has the grubs bite (a person) hard in the same sense.—8. See lovely grub.—9. Refectory duties: Kelham Theological Coll.: 1960s. Towler & Coxon, Fate of the Anglican Clergy, 1979.

grub, v.i. To eat: from ca. 1720: low until ca. 1840. (A New Canting Dict., 1725; Dickens in Pickwick.) Ex n., 1, q.v.—2. Whence, v.t., provide with food: from ca. 1810. Vaux.—3. Whence, to beg food: low: ca. 1840–1900.—4. To cut off a cock's feathers under the wings: cock-fighters': from ca. 1700. Kersey's 'Phillips': OED.

grub along. To get along, fig., as best one can: low:—1888.

grub-crib. See grub-shop.
grub-hamper. A 'consignment of sweet edibles from home': Public Schools': late C.19–20. Ware. grub-hunting, vbl n. Begging for food: tramps': from ca. 1845.

grub it. Var. of grub, v., 1: C.19–early 20. grub-shite. To befool; hence, make very dirty: low: ca. 1780–1860. (Grose, 1st ed.) Lit., to befool as a grub befools. grub-shop, -crib, -trap. The first and second, an eating-house: low: from ca. 1840. Also, a workhouse: from ca. 1850.—2. The first and third, the mouth: low: from ca. 1860. grub-spoiler. A ship's cook: nautical: late C.19–20. Bowen. grub-stake, n. One's share of the rations: military coll.: WW1. (F. & G.) For etym. see:-

grub-stake, v.t. To give (an author) money to keep him going while he writes a book: publishers', hence also authors', coll.: from ca. 1920. Cf. the n. The term derives from the Western Can. (and South-Western US) practice whereby someone with capital provides a gold-pro prospector with food and, if necessary, equipment. Mitford M. Mathews (Americanisms) records it for 1863; it probably goes back to 1849 in California, and it could have reached Can. by 1851 or so. It had reached Aus. by 1900 at latest; the term occurs in, e.g., Alexander Macdonald, In the Land of Pearl and Gold, 1907, 'The hotel-keepers "grubstake" men to work for them.'
grub-stakes. 'Grub' (food): non-aristocratic: from ca. 1890. Richards.—2. Food-supply: coll.: from ca. 1890. (Ibid.) Cf. grub-stake, n. and v.

grub-stealer. A beggar stealing food from another: tramps' c.:—1887 (Baumann).

Grub Street, as the ill-fed corpus of literary hacks, is S.E., but Grub Street news, 'lying intelligence' (Grose, 1st ed.) or 'news, false, forg'd' (B.E.) is, in late C.17–18, coll. Ex that C.17 hack-, i.e. 'grub-', inhabited street near Moorfields which has, since 1830, been known as Fore Street. See Grose, P., and Beresford Chancellor's Annals of Fleet Street.

grub-trap. See grub-shop. Baumann.

grub up! Food's ready: s. > coll.: C.20. (Mrs C. Raab, 1976.)
grubber. An eater: low: from ca. 1860; ob. Ex grub, v., 1.—2. A workhouse: tramps' and market-traders' c.: since late C.19. EDD; M.T.; J. Stamper, Less than the Dust.—3. Hence, a casual ward: tramps' c.:—1932 ('Stuart Wood').—4. Occ. var. of bone-grubber, 1, q.v.—5. As the grubber: the tuck-shop: Tonbridge School: since ca. 1880. Marples.

grubber-dock. A workhouse infirmary: tramps' c.:—1931. J. Stamper, Ibid., 1931 (see grubber, 2).

grubbery. An eating-house: from ca. 1820. Bee.—2. A dining-room: from ca. 1830.—3. Food: ca. 1830–1905. (Trelawney: OED.) Ex grub, v., 1.—4. The mouth: from ca. 1870. All low, except the joc. third.—5. Occ. var. of grubber, 2, a workhouse.

grubbies. A tuck-shop: Wellington College: since late C.19. Marples.

grubbing, vbl n. (see grub, v.). Eating: from ca. 1815. Moore, 'What with snoozing, high grubbing, and guzzling like Cloe'.—2. Food: from ca. 1865: ob.

grubbing-crib or -ken. An eating-house: low if not indeed c.: from ca. 1830; ob.—2. (-crib only) a workhouse: tramps': from ca. 1850. (Mayhew.) Cf. mungerly-casa.

grubbing-crib faker. The proprietor, occ. the manager, of a low eating-house: low: from ca. 1850; ob. Ex prec.

grubbing hall. The dining-hall of any House: Winchester College: from ca. 1860. B. & L.

grubby, n. A c. diminutive of grub, food: ca. 1820–1920. Cf. bubby.

grubby-ken. A low eating-house: ca. 1820–50: c. Ex prec. grubs. The school tuck-shop: Bradfield: since late C.19. Marples.

grue. Morbid; nervously upset or afraid; since ca. 1924; orig., Society. "Well, I don't want to go all grue," said Woody, somewhat abashed' (Christianna Brand, Green for Danger, 1945). Ex S.E. gruesome.

gruel, n. Punishment; a beating: coll.: from ca. 1795. Scott in Guy Mannerling, 'Great indignation against some individual. "He shall have his gruel," said one.' Gen. in phrases. Give one his, or get one's, gruel, to punish, be punished; in boxing, knock out or be knocked out; in c., to kill, be killed. Also, gruelled, floored; gruelling, a beating; heavy punishment: also adj. (Occ. take one's gruel, to endure a beating like a man, as in Sporting Life, 15 Dec. 1888.) Cf. settle (one's) hash and cook (one's) goose and consider serve one out, pugilistic ex nautical serve out grog.

gruel, v. To punish; exhaust: coll.: 1850 (Kingsley: OED). Ex the n.

gruel-stick. A rifle: military: early C.20. (F. & G.) Cf. cheese-toaster, a bayonet.

grueller. A 'settler'; a knock-down blow; a poser: coll.: 1856 (Kingsley: OED). Ex gruel, v.

gruelling, vbl n. and ppl adj.: see gruel, n. (1882: OED). gruesome twosome. 'Two young girls who are inseparable' (B.P.): Aus.: adopted, ca. 1943, ex US.

gruffle. To speak gruffly in a muffled way way: dial. (—1825) >, by 1900, coll. Echoic. OED Sup.

grumble and grunt. Female genitals: C.20. Mark Benny, The Scapegoat Dances, 1938. Rhyming on cunt: less usual than Berkeley Hunt.—2. Hence, coition: C.20. Franklyn, Rhyming.—3. Hence, 'Specifically, "grumble and grunt" means women who are sexually available so long as one is not too fastidious: the female equivalent of "a bit of rough"' (Robert Barltrop, 1981).

grumble-guts. An inveterate 'grouser': C.19–20 coll., now mainly dial., which also has grumble-belly or -dirt. Var., grumble-gizzard, C.19–early 20. Cf.:-

grumble in the gizzard. To be secretly annoyed; to murmur or repine: coll.: C.18–early 20; in C.17, grumble of the gizzard. (B.E.; Grose, 1st ed.)? ex Yorkshire dial. Whence grumble-gizzard; cf. grumble-guts.

grumbler. Fourpence-worth of grog: Londoners': ca. 1820–50. Bee.

grumbles. As the grumbles, ill humour: joc. coll.:—1861 (OED). Hence be all on the grumbles, to be cross or discontented: low coll.: from ca. 1865.

grumbletonian. A (constant) grumbler: coll.: from ca. 1710; ob. Orig.—ca. 1690–1730—the nickname of the Count(r) Party, in the opposition (Macaulay's History, ch. XIX). 'Coined on Muggletonian', W.

grumble, -y, n. RAF nickname for the Hercules C-130 heavy transport aircraft: late 1960s–early 70s. Ex engine noise. (P.B.)

grumbly, adj. Like a grumble: 1858, Carlyle.—2. Inclined to grumble: Ibid. Both coll. OED.

grummet (or grommet, -it). The female pudend: low: nautical, since mid-C.19, > low gen. Ex grummet-hole, itself ex grummet, a little ring serving merely to tie gaskets (Manwayring, Seaman's Dict., 1644—cited by W.).—2. Hence, coition: nautical and low: since mid-C.19.—3. Hence, girls and women, regarded as sexual objects: raffish, low and joc.: since ca. 1950, ?earlier. Patrick Campbell, Come Here Till I Tell You, 1960, 'two lovely bits of grummet'. Also Aus. (B.P.) grumpish, grumpy. Surly; peevish: coll.; in C.20, S.E.: resp. 1797, 1778 (OED). Sala, 'Calling you a "cross, grumpy, old thing", when you mildly suggest ...

G

grundy. A short fat person, rarely of a woman: rare coll.: C.16. (Foxe in Acts and Monuments, 1570.) Mrs Grundy: see at Mrs.

grunt, n. Anon., Street Robberies Consider'd, 1728, defines it as a hog: if this is correct, the term is c.; but prob. it is an error for grunter, 1.

grunt, v. In low coll., to make (a girl) grunt, to copulate with her: C.20.

grunt-horn. Bass-horn or tuba. See fish-horn.

grunter. (In M.E., any grunting animal. Hence:—) A pig: c. in mid-C.16–18; coll. (mainly joc.) in C.19–20. Brome; Tennyson.—2. In C.17 c., also a sucking pig. (B.E.) Ex grunting cheat.—3. A shilling: late C.18—early 19: low, ? orig. c. (Grose, 1st ed.) On hog. But from ca. 1840, sixpence: ob. Household Words, 20 June 1885, 'The sixpence ... is variously known as a "pig", a "sow's baby", a "grunter", and "half a hog"'.—4. A policeman: low:—1820: ob. London Magazine, vol. i, 1820.—5. A constant grumbler: tailors': from ca. 1870.—6. 'Any type of wireless spark transmitter other than quenched gap, or high frequency': RN: from ca. 1922. Bowen.—7. A motor-car: lower classes':—1923 (Manchon); ob. by 1933.—8. An officer: RN lowerdeck: since ca. 1915. A pun on this sense of pig. (L.A.)—9. 'A baked suet roll to contain strips of pork or bacon' (Angus Wilson, A Bit off the Map, 1957): domestic: mid-C.19–20. Ex sense 1.—10. A sunken iceberg: trawlermen's: C.20. W. Mitford, Lovely She Goes, 1969.—11. 'A promiscuous girl' (A. Buzo, 1973): Aus. 'lowish': since ca. 1940. In coitu she grunts (cf. grunt, v.)—contrast a 'moaner' (E.P.). P.B.: could also be a pun on this sense of pig.

grunter's gig. A smoked pig's 'face' or chap: late C.18—mid-19. Grose, 1st ed.

grunting cheat. A pig: c.: ca. 1560–1730. (Fletcher, The Beggar's Bush.) Cf.:

grunting peck. Pork; bacon: c.: ca. 1670–1850. (Coles; B.E.; Bailey; Grose.) See peck and cf. bleating cheat.—2. Tea: low:—1923. So, at least, says Manchon. His grunting-peg is erroneous.

grunting. A pig: c.: C.18. (Captain Alex. Smith, The Life of Jonathan Wild, 1776, p. 179.) Cf. grunting cheat.

grunts. See Isthmus of Suez = 'Bride of Grunts'.—2. In go grunts, to defecate. L.A. cites Brian Burland, Fall from Aloft, 1968, 'He wanted to go grunts too but he did not dare to take his pants down.'

gruts. Tea: low coll.: from ca. 1810: ob. (Lex. Bal.) Perhaps cognate with dial. grout, small beer.

gryer. A horse: market-traders': C.20. (M.T.) Ex Romany gry; see grey, n., 1.

guana, guano. See goanna.

guaranteed parachute (usu. pl.). 'If they fail to open, you get another for nothing' (Petch, 1969): since ca. 1942.

guard, n. A conductor on an omnibus: busmen's: late 1920s–30s. (Daily Herald, 5 Aug. 1936.) Ex railway j.—2. The Old Guard and the Young Guard. A team consisting of the masters and one consisting of younger boys; the former also = the masters, in any connexion: Rugby School: C.20. (D.F. Wharton, 1965.)

guard, v. To see that horses or hounds from one stable are separated in a race: sporting s. > coll. > j.: 1893 (OED).

guard-fish. Erroneous spelling of garfish: Aus.: 1847 (Leichhardt; Morris).

guard-mounter. An article kept solely for guard-duty: military: from ca. 1925. The best-dressed man is excused guard.

guard-rail critic. One who tenders overmuch advice and no assistance: RN: since ca. 1920. (Granville.) He leans back against the rail while you work.

guard the ace. To form 'a destroyer screen round big warships at sea': RN: 1914. (Bowen.) Ex bridge. The phrase was revived in WW2 (P-G-R).

guardee. A soldier of the Household Guards: from ca. 1905.—2. Hence, guardee (or guardsman's) wriggle, also tickling his ear, an exaggerated salute affected by the Guards: military: from ca. 1910. B. & P.

guardian angel. An observation-balloon man's parachute: RFC: WW1. F. & G.

guardie, -y. An affectionate abbr. of guardian: coll.: from mid-C.19. Augustus Mayhew, Paved with Gold, 1857.

guardo. An officer commanding a guard-ship, or a petty officer in charge of 'the brig': latish C.18–19. Bill Truck, 1821.—2. 'A posting to, or a spell of duty on, a guard ship': ca. 1810–90. (Ibid.) Cf.:-

guardo(-)chaps. 'The crew of a guard ship' (W.N. Glascock's Naval Sketch-Book, 2nd series, 1834, at I, 232, footnote): naval: prob. late C.18—mid-19. (Moe.)

guards, full to the. See full to the guards.

guards' bedroom. A brake van: railwaymen's: C.20. (Railway, 2nd.) Affording the opportunity of a quiet rest.

Guards of the Line, the. The 29th Foot, in late C.19–20 the Worcestershire Regiment: military nickname: from before 1877. F. & G.

guardsman's wriggle. See guardee, 2.

gubb. A young sea-gull: nautical: C.19–20. (Bowen.) Origin?

gubber. A beach-comber on the look-out for odds and ends: nautical: mid-C.19–20. Bowen.

gubbins as fish-offal is S.E., but as the name given to the primitive inhabitants of a Dartmoor district near Brent Tor, it is coll.: from ca. 1660; ob. by 1850, † by 1900.—2. Hence (?), a fool: military and schools': late C.19–20. F. & G.—3. Rubbish, trash: coll.: late C.19–20. Ex S.E. sense. Ibid.—4. Hence, 'thingummybob'; anything one is too lazy or too forgetful to name: Services, esp. RAF: since ca. 1918. (Gerald Emanuel, letter, 1945.) The transition from 3 is eased by the fact that in 1914–18 gubbins predominantly signified 'stores' or 'one's personal belongings'.—5. Also ex 3, 'trimmings, e.g., "steak with all the gubbins", i.e. parsley, fried potatoes, vegetables, etc.; also in gen. use for trimmings, odds and ends, not necessarily rubbish' (L.A.): since ca. 1919. The latter nuance is merely a civilian adoption of the WW1 usage in sense 4.

gubbrow. To bully, dumbfound, perturb: Anglo-Indian coll.:—1886. Ex Hindustani. Y. & B.

gud. An expletive perversion of God: ca. 1675–1750. Otway: OED.

guddha. A metaphorical ass: Anglo-Indian: mid-C.19—earlier 20. (B. & L.) Ex Hindustani gadha.

[gudgeon], a bait, an easy dupe, is, like the v.i. and v.t., S.E., though gudgeon, to be gullible, admittedly has a coll. tang.] guernsey, get a. To receive due recognition; Aus. (mainly in Victoria): since ca. 1930. A jersey as worn in Australian Rules football. (B.P.) guess. See I guess!

guess who's back! 'A c.p. uttered with one hand on hearer's back' (B.P.): Aus.: since ca. 1950. P.B.: heard also in UK, 1950s. Cf. am I boring you?, uttered by one drilling a rigid index finger into another's torso.

guessing. See keep (one) guessing.

guessing-box. A pocket, transistor-operated, calculator: coll.: since ca. 1965. (P.B.) Cf.:-

guessing-stick. A slide-rule: coll.: since ca. 1950, ?earlier. (P.B.)

gues(s)timate, n. and v. To calculate approximately; a rough calculation: orig. s., adopted ex US by 1950; >, by 1960, coll. A blend of guess + estimate.

guest of the cross-legged knights, to be. To go dinnerless: C.18—early 19. Ex the effigies in the Round Church (in the Temple, London), a rendezvous of hungry men looking for jobs from the lawyers and their clients. Cf. dine with Duke Humphrey.

guff, n. Humbug; empty talk; foolish bluff; nonsense: from ca. 1888 (? orig. US). Prob. ex guff, a puff, a whiff. Cf. gup, q.v.—2. Whence, impudence: Dartmouth College, where guff rules = 'privileges of the Senior Cadets': from ca. 1890. Hence, guffy, impudent. (Bowen.) It is also a Newfoundland usage: witness L.E.F. English, Historic Newfoundland, 1955.—3. Official, or other genuine and precise, information, esp. concerning the formal rules or the Service's regulations; mostly in give (someone), the guff on whatever the problem, etc., may be: chiefly in the Services: since ca. 1945. (L.A.) guff, v. 'To romance, to humbug, to pitch yarns' (Jackson): RAF: since ca. 1930. Ex n., 1. guffed. Summoned for infringement of 'guff rules': RNC Dartmouth: since ca. 1912. (Granville.) See guff, n., 2. guffin. A person both clumsy and stupid: from ca. 1860: s. when not dial. (after 1920, the latter only). Miss Braddon: OED.

guffoon. The Anglo-Irish form of the prec. Ex It., says Ware. guffy. A soldier: nautical: from ca. 1880; ob. (Clark Russell.) ?ex guffin.

guffy, adj. See guff, n., 2.

guggle, n. The windpipe: late C.17–20; ob. except in dial. (OED). Ex the v.—2. A gurgling sound: coll.: from ca. 1820.

guggle, v. To gurgle (of which it is the coll. form): C.17–20. Johnson.

gugnunc. Gug and nunc were the only noises made by Wilfred, of Pip, Squeak and Wilfred, q.v. It became a 'one-word c.p.' in 1920s, and there was even a 'Gugnunc Club'. Maurice Horn, ed., The World of Comics, 1976: 'Old Gugnuncs still greet each other with their secret password "Ick-ick! Pah-boo!"' (P.B.)

gugu (or gu-gu). Tapioca gruel. See PRISONER-OF-WAR SLANG, §11, in Appendix.

gugusse. 'An effeminate youth who frequents the private company of priests': Roman Catholics': from the early 1880s; ob. Ware, noting its Fr. origin, adds: 'In Paris (1880) the word was taken from the name of one of the novels specially directed about this time at the French priesthood.' I.e. Gugusse, a s. form of Auguste.

guide, n. 'Someone familiar with a drug and relatively sober while others try it for the first time' (Home Office): drug addicts': 1970s.

guide-post. A clergyman: late C.18—early 20. Inferentially from Grose (all edd.) at parson (a sign-post). For a parallel vice-versality, cf. chimney-sweep and clergyman.

guider. Makeshift vehicle of 'soap-box and pram-wheels', for racing down-hill: Yorkshire (and more widespread?) children's:—1960. (Mrs Janet Bowater, 1979.) Perhaps ex next, 1. Known also as a glider.

guiders. Reins: coll.: from ca. 1830; ob.—2. Sinews: low coll. when not dial.: from ca. 1820. Cf. leaders.

guillotine, v. t. To place (a delinquent) with his head jammed under the shutter in the hammock netting and then aim missiles at the exposed portion of his anatomy: Conway cadets:—1891 (John Masefield, The Conway, 1933).

guinea. See worth a guinea a minute; yellow as a guinea. guinea-dropper. A sharper, esp. one who drops counterfeit guineas: late C.17–18. (B.E.) Cf. gold-finder and ring-dropper. Guinea-gold. Sincere; utterly dependable: coll. verging on S.E.: C.18—early 19. Semantics: sterling. Moreover, Guinea gold, from which the guinea was coined in C.18, was 'of a magnificent yellow' (Ware).

guinea-hen. A courtesan; a harlot: C.17—early 18: s. >, by 1700, coll. (Shakespeare.) With a punning allusion to her fee.

guinea-pig. A gen. term of reproach: coll.: ca. 1745–1830. Smollett, 'A good seaman he is . . . none of your guinea-pigs.' Cf. sense 6, q.v.—2. One whose fee is a guinea, esp. a 'vet', a medical man, a special jurymen: coll.: ca. 1820–70.—3. From ca. 1870, a public-company director, one who merely attends board meetings.—4. Ca. 1870–90, an engineer officer doing civil duty at the War Office. H., 1874.—5. Also, ca. 1875–1915, a clergyman acting as a deputy. Saturday Review, 25 Aug. 1883.—6. A midshipman in the East Indian service: nautical: ca. 1745–1930. (Y.&B.) 'because he paid an indenture of one hundred guineas'—and pig, a naval officer (cf. pig, n., 2). Peppitt cites the Duke of Edinburgh's lecture in Journal of Navigation, Jan. 1973.—7. An evacuated Civil Servant: 1939+. New Statesman, 30 Aug. 1941. Cf. senses 3, 4. This included BBC personnel to whom the Government paid one guinea a week towards their board and lodging.—8. One upon whom an experiment—or anything new—is tried: since ca. 1930: coll. >, by 1945, S.E. Ex guinea-pigs used in medical experiments.

guinea-pigging. Acting as a company-director for the sake of the fee: 1890.—2. As a clerical deputy: 1887. Both coll. OED.

guinea to a gooseberry, (it's) a. (It is) long odds: sporting: ca. 1880–1910. Hawley Smart, 1884, 'Why, it's a guinea to a gooseberry on Sam!' A ca. 1865–90 var.: a guinea to a goose (Baumann). Cf. the City Lombard Street to a China orange.

guinea-trade. Professional services of the deputy, stop-gap, or the nominal kind: 1808 (SOD); ob. Perhaps rather joc. coll. than s. Punning Guinea trade.

Guinness is good for you! A c.p. of 1930—. Dorothy L. Sayers Strong Poison, 1930; Slang, p. 173. Ex the great brewery's slogan.

Guinness(-)label. Tax disc: motorcyclists': 'dates from when the tax disc looked like a beerbottle—or Guinness—label, when these could be used in the holder to fake a tax disc. Probably originated in Ireland' (Dunford).

guintzer. Fellow: Aus. (urban): C.20. Yiddish? Dal Stivens, Jimmy Brockett, 1951, 'I wanted to ask the old guintzer where all his bright boys were.'

Guise's Geese. The 6th Foot, from ca. 1881 the Royal Warwickshire Regiment: military: C.19–20. Ex Guise, its colonel ca. 1735–63; but imm. ex Guise's Greens, its late C.18–20 var.—Guise being pronounced Geeze. (F. & G.) Also called The Saucy Sixth, C.19–20.

guiver. Flattery; artfulness: theatrical: from ca. 1880. L.A. adds, 1974, 'Persuasive patter, to persuade another to accept a given idea . . . It was always used as "Jewish guiver" by my mother, who was born and lived into womanhood in the East End among Jews whom she knew and liked as neighbours.' Powis, 1977, glosses put on the guiver, 'To pretend gentility or affect a "well-bred" voice.' Cf. the v. and adj. Wilkes gives an Aus. quot'n in this sense from 1864.—2. Whence, in Aus., C.20, it is gen. s., with additional sense of fooling, nonsense, esp. if plausible; make-believe. (C.J. Dennis.) 'Guyver: Make-believe, still used in Anglo-Jewish slang. It is Hebrew for pride but has now come to mean pretence and is synonymous with . . . swank' (A. Abrahams in the Observer, 25 Sep. 1938).—3. 'The . . . sweep of hair worn down on the forehead, lower and lower as the 1890's proceeded': among Cockney boy-'swells': from ca. 1890; virtually †. (Ware.) Perhaps ex guiver lad or ex guiver, adj.

guiver, v. i. To humbug; fool about; show off: sporting:—1891; ob. Ex prec.—2. Hence, to make-believe: Aus.: C.20.

guiver, adj. Smart; fashionable: low:—1866 (Vance, The Chickaleary Cove).

guiver lad. A low-class dandy; an artful fellow: ca. 1870–1900. Mainly Cockney. Cf. guyoo and artful member, qq.v.

gulf. (The group or position of) those who barely get their degree, 'degrees allowed': Cambridge University: 1827 (OED); Bristed, Five Years in an English University. † by 1920.—2. One who, trying for honours, obtains only a pass: Oxford University: from ca. 1830: † by 1921. See gulfed at gulf, v.—3. See shoot the gulf, to achieve a very difficult task.

gulf, v. To place in the 'gulf', sense 1 (occ. sense 2): university: from ca. 1831, Cambridge; 1853, Oxford (OED). † by 1920. According to H., 1860, gulfed denoted a man 'unable to enter for the classical examination from having failed in the mathematical . . . The term is now obsolete.'

G

gulf it. To be content with, or obtain, a place in the 'gulf': Cambridge University, 1827. (Anon., Seven Years at Cambridge, 1827: OED). Ob. by 1890, † by 1920. Ex gulf, n., 1; rarely sense 2.

gull, as a simpleton, fool, or dupe,—as a trick, fraud, or false report, is S.E., but as a trickster or swindler, late C.17–19, it is s. S.E. also is the v. in its various senses, though it may possibly have been orig. coll. in that of dupe. Almost certainly S.E. are gullage and gullery,—gullable, gullible, and gullish,—and guller; perhaps, too, gull-catcher.

gull-finch. A simpleton; a fool: C.17 coll. 'Water Poet' Taylor.

gull-groper. One who (gen. professionally) lends money to gamblers: c.: C.17–early 19. Dekker, 'The gul-groper is commonly an old money-monger.' Ex the S.E. grope a gull, to 'pluck a pigeon'.

gull in night-clothes (or clothing). A rook or crow: RN joc.: late C.19–20. (F. & G.; Granville.) Cf. crow in working rig, a gull.

gull-sharper. 'One who preys upon Johnny Raws' (Smyth): nautical: ca. 1850–1915.

gullet. The throat: always loose Eng., it was coll. in late C.17–mid-18: B.E., 'a Derisive Term for the Throat, from Gula'. In C.20, almost coll.

gullfinch. See gull-finch.

gully, the throat, is low coll.: C.19–20 (ob.). Ex C.16–17 S.E. sense (gullet).—2. As a large knife, it is, despite F. & H., ineligible, for it is dial.—3. The female pudend: low (?s. or coll.): ca. 1850–1930.—4. As the gully, the fielding-position between point and slips: cricketers' coll. (—1920) >, by 1934, j. Lewis.—5. In c. of C.19–20 (now virtually †), a person given to telling lies. Vaux, 1812.—6. 'Any geographical indentation from a fair-sized drain to a grand canyon' (B., 1942): Aus. coll.: C.20.

gully, v. Dupe; swindle: low: ca. 1830–1910. Ainsworth, 'I rode about and speechified, and everybody gullied.'

gully-fluff. 'Beggars' velvet'; orig. the fluff that forms in pockets: low coll.: from ca. 1820; ob. Cf. S.E. flue.

gully-groper. A long cattle-whip: Aus.: ca. 1870–1900. Cf. gully-raker, 3.

gully-gut. A glutton: mid-C.16–19 coll. In C.16–17, often gulli(e)-gut.

gully-hole. The gullet, the throat; the female pudend. C.19–20 (ob.); low.

gully-raker. A wench: low: C.19–20.—2. The male member: low: C.19–20, ob.—3. In Aus., a long whip, esp. for cattle: from ca. 1880. (A.C. Grant, Bush Life in Queensland, 1881.) Ex the ca. 1845–80 sense, 4, a cattle chief: H., 1864.

gully-raking. Cattle thieving: Aus.: from ca. 1845; ob.

gully-shooting, vbl n. Pointing oars upwards when rowing: Conway cadets:—1891 (John Masefield, The Conway, 1933).

gulpers. 'A levy for a major service, made against a seaman's tot [by the one doing the service]. Small levies for minor services were sippers: Royal Navy: 1950s' (Lt-Cdr F.L. Peppitt, RNR, 1976): prob. from some 50 years earlier. By the 'OXFORD -ER(s)' gulph. Var. spelling of gulf, n. and v.

gulin. A marine: nautical: from ca. 1800; ob. by ca. 1930. Cf. tell that to the marines.—2. A simpleton; a person (ignorantly) credulous: coll.: from early C.19. An early occurrence is in L.L.G., 10 Jan. 1824 (Moe). Besant, 1886, 'Go then, for a brace of gulpins!'.—3. A recruit: Bengal Horse Artillerymen's: early 1840s. N.W. Bancroft, From Recruit to Staff Sergeant, 1885 (P.B.).

gulpy. Easily duped: coll.: C.19–early 20. Cf. gulpin, 2.—2. (Of the voice) broken by gulps of emotion: coll.: from ca. 1860. By the OED considered S.E.

gulsh. See hold (one's) gulsh, to keep quiet.

gum. Chatter: coll.: ca. 1750–1860. Smollett.—2. Abusive talk: coll. or s.: ca. 1780–1840. Grose, 1st ed., 'Come, let us have no more of your gum.' Ex the gums of the mouth.—3. Abbr. chewing-gum: orig. US; anglicised ca. 1905 as a coll., now verging on S.E. (mid-C.20).—4. In old mother Gum, pej., an old woman: low coll.: later C.19–early 20.—5. As by gum!, a mild oath: low coll., and dial.: from ca. 1825. (Pierce Egan, The Life of an Actor.) God corrupted; or, as Ware suggests, a telescoping and slovening of God almighty. In C.20, esp. in Aus. and NZ, often gum! P.B.: associated, by Southerners, with the Lancashire and gen. Northern accent and used, exaggerated, 'Ee, bah gum!', in mockery.

gum(-)bucket. A (tobacco) pipe: RN: earlier C.20. 'Taffrail', The Sub, 1917.

gum(-)chum. An American soldier: 1942+. Ex the constant request '(Got) any gum chum?'

gum-digger. A dentist: NZ and Aus.: since ca. 1880. (B., 1941 and 1942.) Cf. gum-puncher; there is a pun on the kauri-gum diggers of N.Z.

gum leaves growing out of (one's or the) ears, have. To be a country bumpkin: Aus.: since ca. 1920. (B., 1942.) The eucalyptus (gum) is much the commonest tree in Aus.

gum-puncher, -smasher, -tickler. A dentist: the first, Aus., C.20; the second, from ca. 1860, and ob. by ca. 1930; the third perhaps adopted ex US, where it is attested for the year 1810. Cf. snag-catcher, fang-farrier, gum-digger.

gum-sucker. A native of Tasmania, inaccurately says F. & H.; properly, a person Victorian-born,—loosely, a native of other States, inclusive of—and esp.—Tasmania. Coll.: from ca. 1820; slightly ob. Ex the habit, among boys, of eating gum from eucalyptus or acacia trees, as in P. Cunningham's Two Years in New South Wales. (Morris.) Cf. Gutta Percha, 1.—Hence 2, a fool: also Aus., but not very gen.: ca. 1880–1900.

gum-sucking. A low var. (—1923) of French kiss. (Manchon.) P.B.: used loosely, in low joc., for any kissing.

gum-tickler. A drink; esp., a dram: ca. 1814–1915. Dickens, 'I prefer to take it in the form of a gum-tickler,' 1864.—2. See gum-puncher; gall-burster.

gum-tree. In to have seen (one's) last gum-tree, to be done for: Aus. s. > coll.:—1893 (F. & H.); ob. by ca. 1930. But Baumann, 1887, classifies the phrase as nautical: prob. both lexicographers are right.—2. In (to be) up a gum-tree, to be in a predicament; be cornered: Aus.: from ca. 1895. Cf. the much earlier US sense, be on one's last legs, whence prob. the Aus. ?ex an opossum being shot at.—3. In strike me up a (blue) gum-tree, an Aus. coll. expletive: earlier C.20. The gum-tree has very hard wood and is difficult to climb.

gum up the works. To spoil or upset things: since ca. 1918, when adopted from US. Georgette Heyer, A Blunt Instrument, 1938, 'That North dame's story gums up the works.'

gum-worker. A pickpocket whose trick is to put chewing-gum on next seat in bus or train and then, while courteously helping the victim to get clean, cleans out the victim's pockets as well: c.: since ca. 1950. (Sunday Times, 11 May 1969.) A var. of the coner, q.v.

gumbler. A chimney-sweep. See querier.

gummagy. Given to scolding or snarling: low coll.: C.19–20 (ob.). Ex gum, 2, q.v.

gummed. (Of a ball) close to the cushion: billiards: from ca. 1870.

gummer. A fighting dog now old and toothless: low London: mid-C.19–20; ob. B. & L.

gummers. Gumboots, 'wellies': domestic coll.: later C.20. (P.B.) gummy. Grose's 1st ed. spelling of gummy, adj.

gumnie, gummy. A toothless person: low coll.: from ca. 1840. Gen. as old gummy. Ex the extent of gum displayed.—2. A duillard; a fool: C.19–20; ob. Ex gummy, adj.—3. (More US than British.) Medicine; properly, a medicament. Also gummy stuff: c.:—1859; ob.—4. A 'swell': sporting: ca. 1875–1910. (Ware.) Ex Fr. gommeux, a young man of fashion; 'imported by English racing bookmakers'.—5. A gum-digger: NZ and Aus. coll.: C.20. OED Sup.—6. A shark: Aus.: from ca. 1925. Ex the lavish display of teeth.—7. A toothless sheep: Aus.: C.20. (Baker.) Cf. sense 1.

gummy, adj. Thick, fat: applied mostly to a drunkard, human ankles, and equine legs: coll., though by OED considered as S.E.: ca. 1735–1890. Grose, 1st ed.—2. In feel gummy, to perspire: universities': ca. 1880–1914.

gummy! A late C.19–20 low var. of by gum! See gum, 5. gummy composer. An old insipid composer: musical coll.: —1909 (Ware). Ex gummy, n., 1.

gump. 'A dolt' (F. & H.) is dial. and US coll.—2. Ex the Yorkshire dial. is the coll. sense 'a homely, parochial, awkward, well-meaning fellow' (L.A.): in gen. use since ca. 1950. The Times, 30 Sep. 1976.—3. Common sense: C.20. Gladys Mitchell, The Rising of the Moon, 1945, "'Show a bit of gump.'" Short for gumption, q.v. 'Now current schoolchildren's slang' (Peter Sanders, 1965).

gumption. Common sense; shrewdness; practical intelligence: coll.: 1719 (SOD). Grose, in his Provincial Glossary, 'Gawm, to understand... Hence, possibly, gawmton, or gumption, understanding.' Orig. Scottish. A C.18—mid-19 var. is rum gumption, latterly one word, where rum = first-class.

gumptions. Shrewd; coll.: from ca. 1880; ob.—2. Vain of one's ability: low coll.: ca. 1850–95. Lytton in My Novel. Cf. Sussex dial. sense of smart but tawdry.

gums. In bless her (his, its, etc.) gums!, a facetious var. of bless (e.g. my) soul!: later C.19.

gun, n. A flagon of ale: s. and—in C.20 wholly—dial.: 1645 (SOD). Cf. the Anglo-Irish sense (a toddy glass) and in the gun, 1, tippy.—2. A tobacco pipe: joc. coll.: from ca. 1705; ob.—3. A lie: c. ca. 1680–1770. Perhaps ex the loud voice characterising a liar or a lie.—4. A thief; a pickpocket: c. (1845 in 'No. 747'; 'Ducange Anglicus', 1857) >, ca. 1880, low s. Cf. gunner and gun-smith. Abbr. gon(n)oph, gon(n)ov or -off.)—5. Hence, a 'rascal', 'beggar', as a vaguely pej. term of ref.: from ca. 1890; ob.: more Aus. than Eng. 'Rolf Bolde-wood.'—6. A revolver: orig. (—1889) and mainly US; anglicised ca. 1900 and, with the influx of US gangster novels and films, > gen. ca. 1925; heard occ. in the army in 1914–18.—7. In c. of ca. 1810–50, a look, inspection, observation. Vaux, 'There is a strong gun at us, ... we are strictly observed.' Cf. the v.—8. Gonorrhoea: low: late C.19–20.—9. That injector on a locomotive which forces water from tank to boiler: Can. (and US) railroadmen's:—1931. Cf. gun, v., to accelerate.—10. An expert shearer: Aus., since ca. 1925 (B., 1943); NZ since ca. 1930 (Straight Furrow, 21 Feb. 1968).—11. 'Syringe (US)' (Home Office): drug addicts': 1970s.—12. In great gun, a joyous scamp:—1923 (Manchon). Cf. sense 5. See also great gun.—13. In get (one's) gun, to be promoted from lance-sergeant to full sergeant: Royal Artillery: C.20. H. & P., 'On being promoted ... an artilleryman wears a gun above his three stripes.' Cf. get (one's) crown, on promotion to major (army) or flight-sergeant (RAF).—14. Gun occurs also in the following, qq.v.: give the gun; in the gun; over the gun; son of a gun (with which cf. son of a bitch); sure as a gun.

gun, v. To look at, examine: c. of ca. 1810–95. (Vaux; Baumann.) Perhaps ex sighting an object before shooting at it. (Extant in Sussex dial. early C.20) Cf. screw, v., 4, to scrutinise.—2. To accelerate an automobile: coll.: since ca. 1935 has supplanted give (her) the gun. In, e.g., the crime novels of Alan Hunter. Claiborne notes that the term was not necessarily adopted ex US.

gun-bus. 'A gun-carrying aeroplane'; esp. 'the first Vickers' "pusher" machine' (F. & G.): RFC: WW1.

gun-buster. An artificer (or tiffy) of the Royal Army Ordnance Corps: since ca. 1920. H. & P.

gun-case. A judge's tippet: coll.: from ca. 1895. OED.

gun-fire. Early morning tea (or cup of tea): army; prob. since ca. 1890. An early occurrence is in S.E. Burrow, Friend or Foe, 1912, a tale of the 1890s—early 1900s. Prob. ex the morning gun of a garrison town, but perhaps by analogy, ex gunpowder, a coarse or common (though orig. a fine green) tea. Sidney Rogerson, Twelve Days, 1933, remarks, 'Very brown, very sticky, but very stimulating.'—2. By ca. 1950, at latest, it had come to mean esp. the early morning mug of tea liberally spiced with rum, in the army's ritual of the senior ranks serving the junior ranks with this drink in bed on Christmas morning; hence, the ritual itself: army coll. > j. (P.B.)

gun-fodder. Shells: artillerymen's: 1940+. Contrast cannon-fodder, the unfortunates at whom the shells are fired.

gun for, esp. be gunning for, someone. To seek someone in order to cause him very serious trouble: adopted, ca. 1944, ex US. Ex hunting for, and shooting at, game.

gun-man (or gunman). A lawless man likely to carry a rifle or, esp., a revolver: adopted, ex US, ca. 1925; orig. coll. >, by ca. 1935, S.E. OED Sup.

gun moll. A female gangster, criminal, thief: Can., adopted, ca. 1930, ex US. See the valuable note in W. & F.

gun-runner. One engaged in illegally conveying firearms (and ammunition) into a country: coll. (OED cites the Athenaeum, 21 Oct. 1899.) By later C.20 the term had > S.E., as had gun-running, the activity.

gun-smith. A thief: low:—1869; ob. by ca. 1930. An elab. of gun, n., 4.

gun speaker. A practised, proficient mob-orator: Aus. political: since ca. 1920. (B., 1942.) Loud and rapid.

Gunboat. 'Inevitable' nickname for men surnamed Smith: Services': earlier C.20. (F. & G.) Ex the well-known early C.20 boxer, 'Gunboat' Smith.

Gundaroo bullock. Koala meat cooked: Aus. rural: C.20. B., 1943.

gundiguts. 'A fat, pursy fellow' (Grose, 1st ed.): low coll.: late C.17—mid-19; ob. Ex Scottish gundie, greedy. Cf. greedy-gut(s).

gundy. See no good to gundy.

gung(-)ho. This term, which has had considerable use and gone through several shades of meaning in US since it was coined in mid-WW2, was taken up by Brit. journalists during the Falkland Is. crisis, 1982; e.g., 'It is too easy to assume that gung ho headlines in the tabloid newspapers are evidence of popular hysteria' (New Society, editorial, 10 June 1982). Here it means 'actively, militarily jingoistic'; it may also mean 'with aggressive esprit de corps', and these seem to be the senses in which it has gen. been adopted. It does not, I think, rate as s.; it remains to be seen whether the adoption is more than ephemeral, for it to qualify as an 'naturalised Americanism'. For a complete analysis and etym. see esp. the article by E.P.'s old friend Col. Albert F. Moe, an acquaintance of the term's coiner, in American Speech, Feb. 1967, pp. 19–30. Briefly, Moe explains that the two elements are from the Chinese title of the Chinese Industrial Co-operatives Society, misunderstood by the US Marine Corps Brig. Evans Carlson to mean 'work together'. In fact the term, to a Chinese, would make about as much sense as co soc (thus abbr.) does to an English-speaker. See also OED Sup., vol. 1, 1972. (P.B.) Gunga. Army officers' nickname for brother officers surnamed Dean(e) or Dene: C.20. (Carew.) 'Other Rank' Deans tend to be called 'Dixie' (P.B.). Ex Kipling's famous verse about Gunga Din, the heroic Indian water-carrier, Whence also:-

Gunga Din. Gin (the drink): Aus. rhyming s.: C.20. Mostly in the combination Gunga Din and squatter's daughter, gin and water. Franklyn 2nd.

gunga wallah. A male prostitute: Services', esp. army: earlier C.20. Ex Hindustani; cf. gonga, q.v. Also feetesick wallah.

gunge. Grease; oily dirt, the opposite of clag, dry dirt: engineers': since ca. 1940. (D.F. Wharton, 1965.) By ca. 1960, at latest, gen. coll., and with a wider application, to all kinds of filth, as in (of cows' horns obtained straight from a slaughter-house) 'they are in a fairly disgusting state ... we have to boil them to take off the membranes and gunge' (Observer mag., 4 Nov. 1979). Hence v. gunge, usu. with up, to make dirty; gunged up or gungey, the adj. Cf. gunk. Towler & Coxon, Fate of the Anglican Clergy, 1979, note that gungey = 'second-rate, inferior, spoiled' was current in theological colleges, 1960s.

gungineer. An engineer officer turned over to gun-mounting: RN (wardroom): since ca. 1930.

gungoo. Genuine; complete, entire: RN: C.20. (F. & G.)? a perversion of damn' good.

gunja. Marijuana. See ganja.

gunk. 'Chemical compounds, especially those which provide solid fuel for space rockets' (Leechman): Can.: 1958+. A composite word? Now has a much wider application (1965), and is known in UK, where used as a tradename for a chemical cleanser. Cf. gunge.—2. Non-physical rubbish, trash; e.g. of a radio or TV broadcast, matter deficient either technically or artistically, also vulgar and lacking in moral responsibility: since late 1960s. L.A. cites The Times, 30 Nov. 1976.

gun(n)eah, guniah, guniar. See gunyah.

gunnef. See gonnof.

gunner. A thief: low or c.:—1889: ob. Extension of gun, 4.—2. One who lies in order to do harm: 1709, Steele: † by 1760. Cf. gunster, q.v.—3. 'A Merchant Service warrant officer in the East': nautical: late C.19–20. Bowen.

Gunners, the. The Arsenal Football Club: sporting: late C.19–20. The nickname was clearly prompted by the Gunners, the Royal Artillery, a military coll. analogous to the Sappers, for the Royal Engineers; both of these military terms had, by 1939, > virtually S.E. P.B.: but those who work in an arsenal are surely gunners, in the sense that they manufacture guns.

gunner's daughter, hug (C.19) or kiss (—1785) or marry (1821) the. To be flogged: nautical: † by 1900. (Grose, 1st ed.; Byron; Marryat.) A gunner's daughter is a cannon: a nautical jocularly and prob. eligible here as s. > coll.

gunner's tailor. The rating who made the cartridge-bags: naval (—1867); † by 1900. Smyth.

gunnery Jack. A gunnery lieutenant: RN: late C.19–20. (Ware.) Cf. guns, and flag Jack.

gunning, vbl n. Thieving—'profession' or an instance: c. (—1868) > low. Ex gun, n., 4, q.v.

gunnya(h). See gunyah.

gunpowder. An old woman: c.: late C.17—early 19. (B.E.; Grose, 1st ed.) Either ex dry, yellow skin compared with the powder, or because, in the underworld, likely to be peevish, apt to 'go up in the air'.—2. Some fiery drink: ca. 1755–80. (Toldervy.) Cf. wild-fire and slug. OED.

gunroom evolutions. "Traditional "games" carried on in the Gunrooms (Midshipmen's Messes) of the Fleet" (Granville): RN: since ca. 1910 if not earlier. Ironic on tactical evolutions.

guns. A gunnery-lieutenant: RN: since ca. 1910. (F. & G.; Bowen.) Also as a nickname; virtually the vocative of gunnery Jack ('Taffrail'). See quot'n at pilot.

guns, gas and gaiters. A RN c.p. (C.20) 'applied to the gunnery officers, who were the first to introduce the polished gaiters for work in the mud at Whale Island' (Bowen).

gunster. 'A Cracker, or bouncing Fellow', a harmless liar (contrast gunner, 2): ca. 1700–60. Steele in the Tatler, no. 88: SOD.

guntz, the. The whole lot, the whole way, etc., esp. in go the guntz: low: C.20. Ex Yiddish; cf. Ger. das Ganze, all of it.

gunyah; occ. guniah, guniar, gun(n)eah, gunnya(h), gunyer, gunyio. 'A black-fellow's hut, roughly constructed of boughs and bark': this sense, late C.18–20, is S.E. But when applied to a white man's hut or, derivatively, house, it is coll.: late C.19–20. Ex Aboriginal. (Morris.) Cf. hump(ey), q.v. gunz. A drill sergeant: Rossall School: since ca. 1880. (Marples.) A Prussianising of guns?

gup. Gossip, scandal: coll.: Anglo-Indian, with stress on its idleness: gup-gup is recorded for 1809; gup doubtless soon followed. Familiarised in Brit. in 1868 by Florence Marryat's Gup, a rather catty account of society in S. India. Ex Hindi gap, tattle. See Y. & B.—2. From ca. 1920, however, the sense of the term has, in Eng., been much influenced by gush and tosh, tush; and even by 1883 (OED Sup.) it represented, also, silly talk.—3. Hence, information: army: ca. 1930–50. (P-G-R.) See also guff, 3.—4. (Also guppy.) A fool: Aus.: since ca. 1925. (B., 1942.) Perhaps ex sense 2.

gup! Go up!; (to a horse) get up! A C.16–17 coll. corruption of go up. (G. Harvey.) Followed by drab, quean, or whore, it is a c.p. form of address.

guppy. See gup, 4.—2. Hence, adj., foolish, stupid, silly: since ca. 1930. Baker.

gurk, v.i. and (occ.) n. (To) belch: coll.:—1923 (Manchon). Echoic; or ex gurgle, itself echoic.—2. In Aus., to fart: C.20. B., 1942.

gurrwaun. A coachman: Anglo-Indian:—1864; ob. A native corruption of coachman.

gurrell. A fob: Westminster slums (?c.): ca. 1850–80. H., 1860.

gush. A smell, a whiff (e.g. of tobacco): coll.: 1838 (Dickens); ob. OED.—2. Talk too effusive and objectionably sentimental: coll.: from ca. 1865. Church Times, 17 Sep. 1886, 'Not mere gush or oratorical flip-flap'.—3. Ca. 1870–80, 'the newspaper work necessary for a continuance of the "largest circulation"'': the C.20 has other names for this 'slush'.—4. Hence, in late C.19–20, a newspaper article designed to this end. Manchon.

gush, v. To talk (gen. v.i.) too effusively and sentimentally; often, also insincerely: coll.: from early 1860s; Webster records it in 1864. (Miss Broughton, Miss Braddon.) Ex the burbling spring and the garrulous brook.

gusher. An over-effusive and (gen. insincerely) sentimental talker: coll.: 1864 (Edmund Yates, Broken to Harness).

gushing, adj. (The n., also coll., is rare.) Excessively sentimental and effusive, either inanely or insincerely: coll.: 1864, Fraser's Magazine, p. 627, 'What, in the slang of translated Cockneys, is called the Gushing School'.—2. Coll. adv. in -ly: 1865. OED.

gushy. (Adj.) The same as prec. adj.: coll.:—1889 (OED).

gusset. The female sex: coll.: late C.17–19. Cf. placket.—2. Hence, in brother or knight or squire of the gusset, a pimp: low coll.: resp. late C.17–19, C.19–20, C.19.

gusset of the arse. The inner side of the buttocks: late C.18–19 low coll. Burns.

gusseteer. A wench: C.19 coll., somewhat derisive. Ex gusset, q.v. Cf.:

gussetting. Wenching: C.19 coll., low or joc. Punning S.E. sense.

gussie. An affected and/or effeminate man: Aus.: since ca. 1890. Miles Franklin, My Brilliant Career, 1901, 'I'm not a baby that will fall in love with every gussie I see.' Ex Gus, familiar for Augustus; cf. Nancy, which, however, connotes sexual perversion.—2. One of the army's nicknames for the officers is (ex sense 1) the gussies: since ca. 1930. (H. & P.) By ca. 1940 also, occ., in RAF (Jackson). Partridge, 1945, 'Familiar for Augustus, a "tony" name.'

Gussies. Great Universal Stores; stocks and shares thereof: commercial: since ca. 1940.—2. (Also gussies.) Women's lace panties: 1954+. Ex 'Gorgeous Gussie' Moran, a picturesquely dressed American lawn tennis star.

gust. A guest: joc.: from ca. 1905; ob. (See Slang, p. 17.) Cf. finance, q.v.

gust-guesser. A meteorological officer of Imperial Airways: 1920s. (W/Cdr R.H. McIntosh, DFC, AFC, Autobiography, 1963.) Gusts of wind, obviously!

gut, n. The belly: low coll. and dial. in C.19–20; until ca. 1800, S.E.—2. Gluttony: low coll. in C.19–20: ob.—3. A glutton, abbr. greedy-gut: C.20. Cf. guts, 3.—4. In put (or get) a gut on, to put on—gain in—weight: Aus. (Culotta), since ca. 1920; also Brit.—5. In have a gut like a crane, to be very thirsty: Aus. rural: C.20. K.S. Prichard, Working Bullocks, 1926.

—6. As the Gut, 'Strait Street, Valetta [Malta], (notorious red light district)' (Christopher Hawke, For Campaign Service, 1979): Services', esp. RN: C.20.

gut, v.i., to cram the guts: low coll.: 1616 (OED). This accounts for F. & H.'s 'to eat hard, fast, and badly' (schools'), now ob.—2. As to remove or destroy the contents or inside of (v.t.), it is, despite F. & H., good Eng., but gut a house, to rob it, is C.17–19 c.,—gut an oyster, to eat it, low s. of late C.17–20 (ob.),—gut a quart pot, empty it, is C.18–20 low s.,—gut a job (Moore in Tom Crib's Memorial), to render it valueless, is C.19 low s.,—gut a fob, to pick a pocket, is low or c. of ca. 1815–90. Moore, 1819, has 'Diddling your subjects, and gutting their fobs.' gut-entrance. The female pudend: low: from ca. 1840. Cf. front-gut.

gut-foundered. Extremely hungry: coll.: mid-C.17–mid-19. In dial. it = 'diseased from the effects of hunger'.

gut-fucker, -monger, -sticker. A sodomite: low: C.19—earlier 20.

gut-head. A person stupid from over-eating: coll.: C.17. OED.

gut-pudding. A sausage: late C.17–18; ?coll. or S.E.

gut-puller. A poulterer: low: from ca. 1850. Ob.

gut-rot. 'Unhealthy-looking food or strong drink' (B., 1942): Aus.: C.20. Cf. rot-gut.

gut-scraper. A fiddler: joc. coll.: C.18–20. (D'Urfey.) Also catgut-scraper. A C.17 var. is gut-vexer.

gut-spiller. A Gurka soldier: Aus. servicemen's: WW2. (B., 1943.) For guts-spiller.

gut-stick. The male member: low: C.19–20; ob. Cf. cream-stick. Hence have a bit, or a taste, of the g.-s., (of women) to coit.

gut-sticker. See gut-fucker.

gut-vexer. See gut-seraper.

gutbash. A bellyful of food; hence, a resultant bellyache: Services, esp. RN: since ca. 1925. P-G-R. gutbucket and shipwreck chorus. That part of a piece in which, at the end, all the instrumentalists join: jazz: ca. 1948–56. Professor F.E.L. Priestley, letter, 1965, tells me that gutbucket 'is not a special part of a jazz piece: it is a special kind of playing, especially of the blues; it is the most "dirty" or "low-down" sort of playing, with deliberately distorted tonalities, "growl" effects, and so on. The term [came into use] before 1930.' gutkas. Trousers: Cockney: 1920s–30s. Ex Yiddish. Muvver.

gutless. Cowardly: coll.: C.20. Cf. guts, 5, courage.—2. (Of automobiles) under-powered: coll.: since ca. 1945. (B.P.) guts. The stomach and intestines: mid-C.16–20. Until ca. 1830, S.E.; then coll.; then, in C.20, low coll.—2. A (very) fat person; rarely of a woman: low coll. from ca. 1660 (earlier, S.E.); ob., unless preceded by an adj.; extant in dial. Cf. Shakespeare's 'Peace, ye fat-guts.'—3. Abbr. greedy-guts: low: late C.19–20.—4. Spirit, real quality, energy: artists' s. and gen. coll.: from ca. 1890. Hence things, esp. books, pictures, etc., could be said to be with or without guts, i.e. 'strong' or 'weak': low coll. > coll.; ob. by ca. 1930. Applied to persons, to have, or (more gen.) have no, guts in one, it = to be spirited, energetic, a 'good fellow'—or its opposite: coll.: id.—5. Whence, courage: coll.: from ca. 1892. (F. & H.) Cf. the exactly similar ascent of pluck, q.v.—6. The essentials, the important part, the inner and real meaning: coll.: from ca. 1908. 'Let's get at the guts of it' or 'of the matter': a very gen. locution. Ex the S.E. (1663) sense, 'the inside, contents of anything' (SOD). Cf. have guts in one's brain.—7. Guts occurs in many, gen. low, phrases: the following may be found entered at the appropriate places: a specialised Aus. nuance at boxer; come (one's) guts, to confess or inform; drop (one's) guts, to fart; fret (one's) guts, to worry oneself greatly, at fret (one's) cream; good guts, the true facts; I'll have your guts for garters, a threat; more guts than brains, silly; not fit to carry guts to a bear, worthless; put (one's) guts into it, do one's best; spew and spill (one's) guts, to confess or inform; midshipmen have guts..., a c.p. of rank-distinction. See also the five phrases at guts are ready...—8. In if you had as much brains as guts (gen. followed by what a clever fellow you would be), a c.p. addressed to a person fat and stupid: ca. 1780–1820. Grose, 2nd ed.

guts, v.i. and v.t. To eat; to eat greedily: Aus.: since ca. 1890. Kylie Tennant, Ride on, Stranger, 1943, "'Gutsing again, Briscoe?" she reproved.' In later C.20, also some Brit. use. Cf. gut, v., 1.

guts-ache. A contemptible person: Aus.: C.20. B., 1942. Cf. 'She's a pain in the bum', she's a nuisance.

guts and garbage. A (very) fat man: mid-C.18–mid-19: low. Grose, 1st ed.

guts are ready to eat my little ones, my great; my guts (begin to) think my throat's cut; my guts cry cupboard; my guts curse my teeth; my guts chime twelve. I'm very hungry: low coll.: resp. late C.18–mid-19; late C.18–20; C.18–mid-19; late C.18–19; mid-C.19—early 20. The first four are (? first) recorded by Grose, the first two 1785, the second two, 1788, the fifth by F. & H. Not 'cast-iron', but adaptable to other than the first person singular. Cf. belly thinks. guts but no bowels, have plenty of. To be unfeeling; even hard, merciless: coll.: late C.18–20; ob. (Grose, 3rd ed.) Cf. dial. have neither gut nor gall in one, to be heartless and lazy. guts-horn, the. The dinner bugle-call: army: early C.20. F. & G.

guts in (one's) brain(s), have. To have a solid understanding; be genuinely intelligent: coll.: ca. 1660–1890. Butler, 1663; Swift, 'The fellow's well enough if he had any guts in his brain.' (Apperson.) Cf. more guts than brains.

guts up, v. To eat: Aus.: since ca. 1840. Brian Penton, Landtakers, 1934.

gutser (occ. gutzer). A heavy fall: low: from ca. 1905. Esp. come a gutser, to come a 'cropper'. Fig. from ca. 1914, but in WW1 applied esp. to a fall from an aeroplane and to a sharp rebuff or disappointment (F. & G.).—2. A 'greedy-guts': NZ: since ca. 1910. Jean Devaney, Bushman Burke, 1930.—3. Four cards retained in the hope of making a straight: Aus. poker-players': since ca. 1920. B., 1953.

gutser, v. To come a 'gutser' (see n., 1), fail badly: Aus.: C.20. D'Arcy Niland, The Big Smoke, 1959, 'You had your chance and you gutsered.'

gutsful. In have had a gutsful of, a var., perhaps esp. NZ, of have had a belly-full of, to have had too much of something: since ca. 1920. (Slatter.)

gutsful of grunts. A disagreeable person: Aus.: since ca. 1910. (B., 1942.) Cf. guts-ache.

gutsiness. Energy; spirit: from ca. 1890. Courage: C.20. Both, s. > coll. but also ob. Ex adj.

gutsy, n. A fat man: proletarian coll.: since ca. 1880.

gutsy, adj. Energetic; spirited: coll.: since ca. 1890.—2. Courageous: coll.: C.20.—3. Greedy; or merely very hungry: RAF, since ca. 1920 (Jackson); later, also army.—4. Utterly sincere; deeply felt; esp. of songs, music: world or entertainment: since ca. 1965. (Jagger.) Perhaps a Brit. adaptation of synon. US gutty.

Gutta-Percha. A Victorian: Aus.: ca. 1880–1920. (Baker.) Why? Perhaps there is a pun on gum-trees. Cf. gum-sucker, 1.—2. 'A bird on a station roof' (McKenna, Glossary, 1970): railwaymen's pun; mid-C.20.

guttad. Penniless; temporarily without cash: low: ca. 1820–1910.

gutter, n. The female pudend: low: C.19–20 (ob.). Cf. Sanskrit cushi.—2. Esp. in the gutter, (of an advertisement) occupying an inside position, next to the fold (gutter) in the paper: copy-writers' coll.: from ca. 1920. The term gutter is common among printers and publishers.—3. In lap the gutter, to be extremely drunk: low: from ca. 1850. Perhaps suggested by gatter, q.v.: but cf. gutter-alley.—4. A football scrum: Tonbridge School: late C.19—early 20. Marples.—5. 'Space in front of a race-course totalisator' (Baker): Aus. sporting: C.20.

gutter, v. To fall stomach-flat in the water: Winchester College: from ca. 1860. Cf. Fr. piquer un plat-ventre. gutter-alley -lane. The throat: C.17–19 the latter, C.19 the former. Joc. coll. (See also at gutter-lane.)—2. A urinal: from ca. 1850; ob. by 1900, † by 1915.

gutter-blood. A ragged-rascal: Scottish coll.:—1818; ob. Scott, Midlothian.—2. A vulgarian, a parvenu: mainly Scots coll.: from ca. 1855; ob.

gutter-chaunter. A street singer: low, mainly Cockney: ca. 1840–1900.

gutter-crawler (hence g.-crawling, 2). One of that flower of modern youth which specialises in driving its cars slowly along by the kerb in the expectation that some girl will allow herself to be ‘picked up’ (there always is): since ca. 1920.

gutter-crawling. Route-marching through streets: army: earlier C.20. (F. & G.) Cf. gutter-slapping, q.v.—2. See prec.

gutter-gripper. ‘A motorist who drives with one arm out of the car window gripping the “gutter” on the roof’ (Wilkes): Aus.: 1970s.

gutter-hotel. The open air: tramps’ c.: from ca. 1870; ob. Cf. hedge-square and daisyville, qq.v.

gutter-kid. A street arab: Cockney coll.:—1887 (Baumann).

gutter(-)lane. Throat, as in the proverbial coll. all goeth (C.17) or goes (C.18–20) down Gutter Lane, (he) spends all his money on his stomach: ob. by ca. 1930. Prob. suggested by Gutter Lane, London, with a pun on L. guttur, the throat, fig. gluttony: indeed Bailey, 1721, spells it Guttur Lane.

[gutter-literature, like g.-journalism and g.-press, is S.E.: but see awful, blood and thunder, shocker.]

[gutter-master, a C.17 term of reproach, is on the verge of eligibility.]

gutter-merchant. An itinerant vendor: coll.:—1923 (Manchon). He walks in, or almost in, the gutter.

gutter percher. ‘The sparrow one sees in towns and cities (different from the hedge-sparrow)’ (Petch, 1969): C.20. See Gutta-Percha, 2.

gutter-prowler. A street thief: c.: ca. 1840–1910.

gutter-slapping. ‘If there was marching to be done, it should be either on a horse’s back or on a gun-carriage. He had a soul above “gutter-slapping”’ (N.W. Bancroft, From Recruit to Staff Sergeant, 1885): army in India: earlier C.19. Cf. gutter-crawling, a later synon. (P.B.)

gutter-slush, -snipe. A street arab: resp. s., ca. 1885–1910, and coll., from ca. 1880 (in C.20, S.E.). With the latter, which follows from the S.E. sense, a gatherer of refuse from the gutter, cf. Fr. saute-ruisseau, an errand-boy (W.).

guttie, -y. A glutton: coll.: C.19.—2. A very fat person: low coll.: C.19–20; ob. Ex the Scot. adj.—3. A gutta-percha ball: golfers’ s.: 1890 (OED).

guttle-shop. A tuck-shop: Rugby School: from ca. 1860.

guty. Dirty and disagreeable, esp. of a task: since ca. 1950. Ex intestines. (P.B.)

gutzer. See gutser.

guy (also spelt gov or gove). Abbr. vocative governor, 2: low: since ca. 1880.

guy, adj. Expert: Oxford undergraduates’: ca. 1820–60. (Cuthbert Bede, Verdant Green, 1853.) Cf. governor, 4, q.v.

guvner, -or, occ. gov’nor. Representations of slovened governor, q.v. Hence:-

guy’nor, the. The head of a Teddy-boys’ gang: Teddy boys’: ca. 1950. (Observer, 1 Mar. 1959.)

guy, an ill-dressed or ugly person, is gen. considered S.E.: but was it not orig. (1823, Bee) coll. ?—2. A dark lantern: low, or c. (—1811) >, ca. 1860, low: ob. by 1900, † by 1935. (Lex. Bal.) Esp. in stow the guy, conceal the lantern. Ex Guy Fawkes’s plot.—3. A Christian as opposed to a Jewish crimp: ca. 1830–80: low or c.—4. A jaunt or expedition: Cockney:—1889. Sporting Times, 3 Aug. 1889, ‘A cheerful guy to Waterloo was the game.’ Cf. do a guy.—5. Whence, a decamping: low:—1889. See do a guy.—6. A man, fellow, chap: adopted, ex US, by 1903, when it appeared in Binstead’s Pitcher in Paradise. On 15 July 1860, J.M. Yale wrote from Colquitz Farm, Vancouver Island, to Sir George Simpson (see blow-up above), ‘Thank God, we have got rid of all those damn drunken guys at last.’ (Perhaps I might here mention that I’m coming to think that this sense of guy derives from Yiddish goy, a Gentile.) P.B.: in 1960–70s it was particularly popular among army officers.—7. Hence, ‘a foolish fellow’ (C.J. Dennis): Aus., from ca. 1910; NZ from ca. 1920.—8. An American soldier: military: 1918. (B. & P.) Ex the frequency with which Americans use sense 6.—9. The manager, the chief: circus s. verging on coll.:—1923 (Manchon).—10. Something to eat; esp., bread: S. Africa, among the imported ‘coloured’ labour, esp. the half-caste Indians: C.20. (Cyrus A. Smith, letter, 1946.) Prob. ex Hindustani.—11. In clap a guy on, put a stop to; cease (v.t.): nautical: 1814 (OED); ob. by 1910; † by 1930. Ex guy-rope.—12. In give the guy to, to run away; give (someone) the slip: low:—1899. Cf. sense 5.

guy, v. To hiss: theatrical: from ca. 1870; ob. ‘If orig. U.S., may be... from Dutch de guig aansteken, to make fun’ (W.).—2. Whence, to quiz, make an object of ridicule: coll.: from ca. 1880. Cf. US sense (e.g. in Thornton). Also as v.i., to poke fun: Cockneys’: C.20. Edwin Pugh, The Cockney at Home, 1914.—3. To run away; escape: c. or low:—1874 (H., 5th ed.). Cf. do a guy, q.v., and guy, n., 12.

guy-a-whack, adj. Incompetent; hence, n., a defaulting bookmaker: Aus. low: C.20. B., 1942.

guy out, v.t. and v.i. To make (the tents) secure by tightening the guy-ropes: circusmen’s coll.: late C.19–20.

guying, n. Hissing: theatrical:—1885 (Jerome K. Jerome).—2. Ridicule: coll.: from ca. 1890.

Guy’s. Guy’s Hospital: coll.—1887 (Baumann). Cf. Bart’s.

guyver. See guiver.

guyvo. A smart fellow; a dandy: RN: C.20. (F. & G.) Granville, ‘it means any unorthodox rig. Contrary to regulations or Admiralty’s pattern: e.g., a sailor’s “fiddlies” [see fiddley, 4] with too generously cut bell-bottomed trousers.’ Ex guiver lad.

Guz. See Guzzle, Devonport, of which it is the usu. C.20 form.

guzinter. A division sum in arithmetic: elementary schoolchildren’s: C.20. Ex a slovenly pron. of goes into. Also known as share-by’s.—2. Hence, in Aus., a schoolteacher (Wilkes): mid-C.20.

guzinters. An animal’s entrails: Aus. rural: since ca. 1910. (Baker.) What goes into it to make up its ‘innards’. Cf.:-

guzunder. A chamber-pot: domestic coll., Aus. and Brit. It guzunder the bed.—2. ‘An inspection cradle which is lowered by crane, and then swung underneath a bridge for purposes of inspecting the brickwork’ (McKenna, Glossary, where spelt gozunda): railwaymen’s: mid-C.20.

Guzzle. Devonport: RN: late C.19–20. (Musings, 1912, p. 99.) Capt. W.N. Beckett, in A Few Naval Customs, refers it to the heavy-eating habits of West Country men; Peppitt, who cites this explanation, implies that this may not be true, and notes that he cannot find the shortened form Guz before the naval use of radio communication—adding that the Devonport W/T callsign is GUZ.

guzzle-guts. A glutton or a heavy drinker: low:—1788; ob. Grose, 2nd ed.

Guzzle-Pawnee. The inevitable military nickname (—1935), on Egyptian or Indian service, of men surnamed Drinkwater. A pun on Hindustani pawnee, water.

guzzump. Var. of gazump, q.v.

gwennie (-y), or G. A high-angle, anti-aircraft gun on board ship (cf. archie): RN: C.20. (F. & G.; Bowen.) Ex Gwendolen, an aristocratic name.—2. Hence, the gunner: RN: from ca. 1918. Weekly Telegraph, 25 Jan. 1941.—3. In WW2, any gun: a not very gen. RN usage. P-G-R.

gybe, n. A written paper: c. of ca. 1560–1660. Harman.—2. A pass, esp. if counterfeit: c. 1560–1830: c. (Awdelay, Dekker, B.E., Scott.) Often spelt gybe. Perhaps ex Ger. Schreiben, a writing.

gybe, v. To whip; castigate, esp. in past ppl passive: late C.17–18 c. (B.E.) Ex the S.E. sense.

gybing (i.e. gibing), occ. gybery or gibery, n. Mockery; jeering. In late C.17–18 (witness B.E. and Grose) it seems to have been coll.

gybs. Prayers: Charterhouse: late C.19–20. Why?

gyger. See jigger, n.

gyke. A gynæcologist: among middle-class women, esp. in hospital: since ca. 1950.

Gyle, the. 'Shortened familiar, and secretive title for Argyle Rooms, Windmill Street': London fast life: ca. 1850–78. Ware.

[gyle hather; Gyles Hather. Having the appearance of a (late C.16–early 17) c. term, it is merely the name (or its perversion) of a noted rogue.]

Gyles. See hopping Giles.

gym. Abbr. gymnasium, gymnastic: orig. and mainly schools, also, later, colleges' and Services':—1887 (Baumann). As attrib. in, e.g., gym shoes, gym slip, articles worn in the gym.

gym cad. A gymnasium instructor: Royal Military Academy: from ca. 1870; very ob. B. & L.

gym nasty tricks. Gymnastics: (not Public) schoolboys': C.20.

gymmy. Gymnastics: Manchester Grammar School: mid-C.19–20.

gymnasium. The female pudend: low joc. s.: from ca. 1860.

gynae. Gynæcology; also attributively, as in 'the famous gynæ-man': medical: late C.19–20.

gynie or gyno. Aus. variants of prec., but also for a gynæcologist: since ca. 1920 and esp. among medical students.

gyp. A college servant: Cambridge University: from ca. 1750. In C.19–20, also Durham University. Cf. the Oxford scout and the Dublin skip. Etymologies proposed: Gr. γύψ, a vulture (symbolic of rapacity), by Cantabs, popularly; Gipsy Joe, by Saturday Review; gypsy, by the SOD; and, I think the most convincing, the C.17 gippo (Fr. jupeau), a garment, hence a varlet—cf. the transferred sense of buttons—by W.—2. Abbr. gyzsophila: coll.: C.20.—3. See gip, n.

gyp, v. See gip, v.

gyp-room. 'A room where the gyps keep table furniture, etc.': from ca. 1870: Cambridge coll. >, by 1900, S.E. (OED).

gype, adj. Looking like a boxer or a boxer's clothes, etc.: tailors': late C.19–20. Origin?

gyppo. See gippa.

gypper. A gipsy: late C.19–20.

Gyppey. See gippy.—2. In pl., the 'proper' spelling for Egyptian cigarettes. F. Brett Young, Jim Redlake, 1930.

gypsy('s) See gipsy('s).

gyro. A gyroscope: coll.: from mid-1890s.—2. A gyro-compass: coll.: 1914 (OED Sup.).

gyte. A child: pej. low: from ca. 1820: Scots. Ex goat.—2. A first-year pupil at the Edinburgh High School: Scots: from ca. 1880. Ex Scots gyte, a foolish fellow.

gyvel. The female pudend: Scots low coll.: C.18–20 (ob.). Burns.

gyver. An occ. form of guiver, e.g. in E. Pugh, Harry the Cockney, 1912.

gyvo. Humbug: Aus.: since ca. 1935. (B., 1953.) Var. of guiver, n., 2, q.v.

H. Heroin: drug addicts' and purveyors': adopted, ca. 1945, ex US. (Frank Norman in Encounter, July 1959.) Hence, H. & C., heroin and cocaine taken together: id.: since ca. 1965. (John Wyatt, Talking about Drugs, 1973.) A pun on h(ot) and c(old) water. Cf. Henry, 2.

h.b.s. Human beings: joc.: since ca. 1930.

H.E. An 'H.E.' is a severe reprimand: Services: since late 1940. (H. & P.) Ex the abbr. of 'high explosive': cf. synon.

blowing up.—2. A coll.—in ref. only—for His Excellency (ambassador; Governor-General): late C.19–20.

h.i.c. Hole-in-corner paper: Bootham School:—1925 (Bootham).

H.L.I. Richards, 'We'—The Royal Welch Fusiliers—'and the Highland Light Infantry were bitter enemies... Some say that it originated towards the end of last century during a final for the Army Football Championship of India when the H.L.I., having scored a lucky goal early on against our chaps, kept their advantage by delaying tactics—kicking wide into touch whenever they had the ball. To this day, in the Battalion, these tactics are always greeted with the indignant cry of "H.L.I., H.L.I.!" and the expression has been adopted by other units and by civilians.'

h.m.g. "'Home-made gents'"—one of the many obsolescent phrases here lovingly resurrected' (Ferdinand Mount, in TLS, reviewing Ingrams & Wells, Dear Bill, 1981). A pun on HMG, Her Majesty's Government. Cf. the idea behind temporary gentleman.

h.o.p. See on the hop.

h.s. 'Hot stuff', esp. in the sexual sense: from ca. 1930. Compton Mackenzie, Water on the Brain, 1933, 'She's h.s. all right.'

H. Samuel Never Right. A slander on H. Samuel's inexpensive watches, branded 'Ever Right', in such phrases as 'What's the time by your H. Samuel?', 'The time by my H...': parodies of the firm's advertising: mid-C.20; ob. by 1980. But any publicity is perhaps better than none! (P.B.)

H.T.W.S.S.T.K.S. Masonic initials sometimes interpreted, facetiously, as 'Hot-tailed Willie should stop tickling Katie's sex': Can.: since ca. 1910 (?)

ha-bloody-ha! See ha-fucking-ha!

ha'd, ha-d, ha-dee (rarely, hadee; all pron. hay-dee). A halfpenny: low and schoolboys': since ca. 1870; † with decimalisation, 1971. Ex the old pron. hape-nee; d(ee) = d., the sign for pence, denarius. The post-1971 equivalent is, inexplicably, often 'a halfpence', since a penny, considerably smaller since 1971, is now, paradoxically, called 'a one-pence piece' or '... bit'. (P.B.)

ha-fucking-ha!, ha-bloody-ha! 'A jeering mock-laugh to expose the feebleness of supposedly sarcastic or apt rejoinder, or impossible request' (L.A., 1976): since ca. 1950.

ha-ha. A defecation: nursery: late C.19–20. Echoic of baby's instinctive grunting.

ha-ha pigeon. A kookaburra: Aus.: C.20. (B., 1942.) Widely known as laughing jackass.

ha'penny. See hapenny.

hab-dabs (occ. habs-dabs). (Often, the screaming hab-dabs.) Var. of ab-dabs, q.v., nervous irritation: mostly RAF: since ca. 1937. (L.A.) Cf. heebie-jeebies.

hab or nab, hab-nab, habs-nabs; hob-nob, adv. At random, by hook or by crook, hit or miss: coll.: from ca. 1540: the a forms ob. by 1760, † (except in dial.) by 1800; the o, ob. by 1840, † (except in dial.) by 1860. 'Hob-nob is his word; give't or take't', Shakespeare, whereas Udall revealingly spells habbe or nhabbe. Cf. hab or nab (= ne habe), have or have not. Var.: at, or by, hab or nab. See also hob and, or or, nob.

haberdasher. A publican: joc. coll.: C.19. (Moncrieff.) Because he sells tape, q.v.

haberdasher of (nouns and) pronouns. A schoolmaster: late C.17–19; now archaic. The longer and orig. form, not after C.18. B.E. habit. '(a) Addiction to drugs with physical dependence (US). (b) Dosage commonly taken' (Home Office): 1970s.

habit-shirt. A profligate's. term of ca. 1820–50. As the exact meaning is obscure, Bee is quoted in full: 'A sham plea put in (on) to save appearances. Worn by the ladies; but gentlemen should "look well to't", as Hamlet says, or it will be all Dickey.' See dickey, n., and cf. belly-plea.

habitual, n. A confirmed drunkard, criminal, drug-taker, etc.: coll.: 1884. (SOD.) Contrast chronic, q.v.

haby. A haberdashery department (in a store): trade: C.20. E.R. Punshon, Information Received, 1933.

hachi. See never hachi!

hack, n., for a sorry horse or a sorrier writer, is S.E., as also for a gash caused by a kick; as a harlot or a bawd, however, it is s.: from ca. 1730; almost †. Ex hackster or hackney (woman or wench or whore), which are rather S.E. than coll.—2. See garrison hack.—3. As used in Public Schools for a kick, blow, punch, it verges on s.: C.20. E.F. Benson, David Blaize, 1916, has 'A juicy hack'. Also as v.: C.20; e.g. in A. Waugh, The Loom of Youth, 1917.—4. In make a hack of a dress, to wear it daily: coll.:—1887 (Baumann); ob. by 1930.—5. In the Oxford of today, a hack is 'Someone who seeks to make his way by joining all the right groups, attending the best parties, and being elected or appointed to the most prestigious posts. In short he is what I would call a chancer' (Harry Whewell, Guardian, 23 Apr. 1980): Oxford undergraduates'.

hack, v., usu. hack down. To shoot (out of the sky); to shoot down: RAF: 1939+. Brickhill & Norton, Escape to Danger, 1946, 'A couple of [the] 109's hacked two Hurricanes down near Montreuil on the 10th of June, 1940, and Eric jumped from his pranged kite and ran for it.' Prob. ex Rugby j. (for hearty work by the forwards): cf. hack, n., 3.—2. To achieve, cope with and surmount a (usu. difficult) task, as in 'It's a pretty tall order—do you reckon you can hack it?': Services': since late 1950s. (P.B.)—3. Hence, to endure boredom, danger, privation, etc., e.g., 'It'll only be for a couple of months or so, we can hack it that long, can't we—or can't we?': id. (P.B.) Cf. hacked off.

hack and manger, at. (Gen. with live.) In clover: coll.: ca. 1660–1890. Ex hack, the rack that holds fodder for cattle. (Extant in dial.)

hack in the post, make a. To use, consume, a considerable part of a thing: from ca. 1840: coll. >, by 1870, S.E.; ob. by 1930. OED.

hack pilot, hack pusher. A taxi-driver: Aus.: since ca. 1944. (B., 1953.) Suggested by and perhaps confused with the US s. synonyms hackie and taxi-pusher.

hackam, -em. See hackum.

hacked off. Utterly bored; irritated; angry: Services': since late 1950s. Cf. brassed off, cheesed off, etc. (P.B., 1974.)

hackems. Hostilities; conflicts: Aus. coll.: later C.20. McNeil.

hackery. A bullock-cart: late C.17–20 Anglo-Indian. (Before 1880, at least) rarely used among natives: W., however, suggests ex Hindi chhakra, a two-wheeled cart.

hackette. A female journalist: journalists' joc.: later 1970s. Sue Arnold, in Observer mag., 28 June 1980.

hackle, n. Pluck, spirit. Whence to show hackle, to be willing to fight: coll.:—1860 (H., 2nd ed.). Ex hackle, a long shining feather on a cock's neck. Cf. hackles up. See also cock of a different hackle.

hackle, v. Var. of heckle, in the political sense: coll.:—1923 (Manchon).

hackles. Whiskers: joc. coll.: ca. 1880–1930.—2. In with (one's or the) hackles up, very angry; at fighting point: hence, get (one's) hackles up, as 'what got my hackles up was...': coll. when, from ca. 1880, applied to men. Ex cock-fighting.

Hackney is the inevitable nickname, though mostly among Londoners, of men surnamed Downs: late C.19–20. Ex Hackney Downs, an open space in Hackney, in E. London.

